Duplessis Outlines Legislation for Quebec Session Opening November 7

"This Week at Quebec"

By Bernard Dufresne

Quebec, Oct. 30 (CP) — Premier Duplessis indicated at his press conference last week that Quebec will be represented in any appeal to the Imperial Privy Council against a judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada, placing all highway traffic crossing provincial boundaries under Federal control.

"The government will see that the interests of the province are safeguarded", he said. The premier said his government was too busy with current problems to worry about "conditional matters", but he indicated every step will be taken to express Quebec's "considered and definite" views on interprovincial and international highway traffic.

Premier Duplessis said his government had declined to express its views when the Turgeon Transport inquiry sat in Quebec, because "we did not wish to take any action that might be interpreted as an acquiescence of centralizing theories held by persons in good faith but with whom we do not agree".

Speaking of the next session of the Provincial Legislature, opening November 7, the Premier said government measures will be ready at that time.

Priority will be given to a bill for Quebec participation in the Federal-Provincial old age pensions plan starting at 65.

Bills will provide for an increase by $10,000,000 to $95,000,000,000 in farm loan funds; an increase by $10,000,000 to $30,000,000 for provincial housing aid funds; and an increase by $5,000,000 to $20,000,000 for rural electrification.

Other bills will concern sale of farm products; health regulations concerning the sale of horse-meat; town-planning; assistance to Magdalen Islands fishermen; recorder's court; and social allowances administration.

The Premier said the bill regarding the sale of farm products will involve terms fair both to farmers and consumers. He gave no further details.

A delegation representing Quebec Union of Municipalities last week laid before the government a memorandum of recommendations made at the Union's 1951 annual convention. Premier Duplessis told the delegation the time now has come to settle the problem of revenue distribution "as quickly as possible". He said an atmosphere of understanding has prevailed at conferences between Federal and Provincial authorities but now is the time for action on the "vital question" of redistributing revenue fields among Federal, provincial and municipal governments.

SIDELIGHTS OF THE HUNTING SEASON

Good Old Days

Fiss Gerard and Omer Legault, of Brownsburg, brought back the first moose the town had seen in 10 years. Antler spread was 48 inches. Almost every family in town received a portion of the one-ton monster, cut up by the local butcher.

(Lest our friends, Mr. Gerard and Mr. Legault, invoke the wrath of Game Wardens, we hasten to add — this item is quoted by C-I-L Contact from the news of 20 years ago!)

A Big One

A buck deer with antlers 24 inches broad, weighing 275 lbs. dressed, was shot by a local hunter, Sid Stewart. By many who have seen this specimen, it is pronounced the biggest deer taken in these parts in recent years. Stewart killed the buck with a .303 rifle at 100 yards range, at a point about five miles north of Lakefield Village.

Surprise!

The deer aren't always where you expect them to be . . . which was proved by an incident at Lake Louisa last week. While the menfolk at the Donnans' cottage were out scurrying through brush and swamp in search of deer, the ladies were doing the chores around the camp, and when they went to a nearby stream for drinking water, it happened that their dog raised a big buck — according to the excited young lady who came running back to camp, much more scared than the deer ever could be!

Trespassing Permitted

"No trespassing" signs are frequent along the mountain roads, where likely-looking bushlands invite all hunters at this season. But one property-holder at least displays a more hospitable attitude. Signs bordering some bushlots owned by S. Wyman McGibbon, bear this unusual legend: "Prevent bush fires. Trespassing permitted . . . "

The Three Bears

Those humorous hunting scenes on colorful calendars are sometimes not far removed from reality.

Rene Beauchamp, of Foundry St., has the carcasses of three bears hanging in his woodshed. And there's a story to go with the incident. . . .

Beauchamp, hunting in the bush at Dunany last week-end, had eaten his lunch and shuffled on his way. Looking back, he espied a bear cub emerging from a hole only a few yards from where he had been seated. He shot the cub — and out came the mother bear. He despatched the brute with his rifle in quick order. Then out came another cub, to see what the fracas was about. . . . The total haul was three; and Beauchamp had been all but sitting on a bear's nest!

Stanstead, Que. (CP) — A bear dashing across the street here was struck by a car driven by Russell Wilson and sent flying into the ditch. With one leg injured, Bruin made his escape on three legs.

In Brownsburg

Welcome

His Lordship Emilien Frenette, Bishop of St. Jerome, was met at St. Canut by a number of parishioners from Brownsburg and escorted to the Church of St. Louis de France, where a large number of children were confirmed. It was the new bishop's first visit to this part of his new diocese, and decorations and receptions were the order of the day. There were large attendances at the various religious ceremonies which were held during His Lordship's stay. On Sunday afternoon he paid his episcopal visit to St. Michel, accompanied by a number of the congregation from Brownsburg, and left for St. Jerome later that evening.

Dedication

The practically new Protestant School is rapidly approaching completion. We described our impressions of the work some little time ago, and now the opportunity is available for all to see for themselves. The opening ceremonies will be held on November 28, when a number of representative personalities will be present to assist at the dedication.

A Must

The big question was how to get there and see anything. Nearly every taxi in the place was hired and every organization had its quota going. But where to go, how to get there, and at what time?—these questions were causing a lot of trouble. Of course there are the few who wouldn't go across the road to see themselves crowned king. They couldn't get off; so it's sour grapes. What am I talking about? As if you didn't know!

Due Praise

During the week the architect responsible for the plans and erection of the skating rink visited the structure, and expressed surprise at the progress which has been made. He congratulated the workers present and informed the committee in charge that the amount of work accomplished amazed him. "It was almost impossible to believe that the quality of the workmanship could have been done by voluntary labor", he said. As reported in The Watchman last week, there remains much to be done, and finances are getting low. But after so much progress it is not expected that failure can result now in finding both labor and cash to complete the project.

National Business Head

René B. Perrault, Montreal, who has been elected president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce at the national business organization's 22nd annual meeting in Quebec City, October 30 - November 1. Mr. Perreault, prominent in business circles in Eastern Canada, is president of the Montreal automobile firm of Cumming - Perrault Limited. Widely active in association, community and welfare work, he has served on the executive council of the Canadian Chamber, on several Chamber committees, and is a former honorary-treasurer of La Chambre de Commerce du District de Montréal. He takes over from Dr. Francis G. Winspear of Edmonton, former president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Kicked by Horse Youth in Hospital

A 17-year-old youth, son of Edgar Lafleur, was kicked by a horse while working on his father's farm at St. Philippe; he suffered severe lacerations of the face and a fractured jaw. Attended by Dr. Roger Lavigne, of Lachute Mills, he was later transferred by Rolland Menard's ambulance to the Sacré Coeur Hospital, Cartierville.

The mishap occurred around noon on Monday when the victim was engaged in hauling logs.

Junior Event — Plowing Match at Grenville

Boys from the Grenville Consolidated School, under the direction of their Agriculture teacher, Keith Russell, and Ulysses Beauchamp, of Grenville, held their first plowing match last Saturday, at the farm of Thomas McMichael.

The following were prize-winners:

1. James Stewart (also first for Finish, and second for Crown).
2. Eric Beauchamp (also first for Crown).
3. Ronnie Prophet (also second for Finish).
4. Percy Kelly.
5. Leonard McIntyre.

The County Agronomist, Alex Bothwell, acted as judge.

3-Cent Letter Rate For Town Mail

The 3-cent "drop letter" rate is now in effect within Lachute town limits. Previously it was necessary to attach 4-cent stamps to letters mailed from Lachute to Lachute Mills, or vice versa. The change, in conformity with metropolitan postal rates, has long been requested by Philippe Valois, M.P., and the local postmasters; the new order became effective last week — the town letter rate being now 3 cents for the first ounce and 1 cent for each additional ounce or fraction thereof.

Fire in Dwelling Mont'l Highway

In a high wind at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning, fire broke out at Andrew Cleland's, on the Montreal highway in St. Jerusalem. The wall and roof of the kitchen were well ablaze when Mrs. Cleland and her mother-in-law hailed a passing motorist to summon help from Lachute. Mrs. Cleland then called a neighbor, Norman Boyd, who with a hose from the domestic pressure system, kept the blaze in check till the arrival of other farmers with buckets, and the Lachute auxiliary fire truck, which rushed to the scene in short order.

The fire was confined to the kitchen of the home. The proprietor had insurance to meet the damage.

Police Department for 'Loisirs' Opening Event

Police Chief D. Villeneuve and his force will provide the season's opening program Sunday afternoon at "Les Loisirs" — the youth-recreation project conducted so successfully for several years past in Ste. Anastasie Parish. The Lachute Police Department will be assisted in this program by Lt. Col. E. Emmett and 15 of his uniformed Imperial Frontiersmen, and other police officials.

Last Tribute to Old Citizen and Business Man

LATE ADOLPHE RAYMOND SERVED IN CIVIC OFFICE

Adolphe Raymond, another of Lachute's older residents, passed away last Saturday, in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Montreal, after a short illness.

Born in St. Hermas in 1871, Mr. Raymond followed the butcher trade and after spending a few years in Ottawa and Valleyfield, opened a business in Lachute in 1896. He was well known and popular as a business man and cattle dealer. He contributed to many social and welfare organizations, and served on Lachute Town Council for several terms.

In 1896, Mr. Raymond married Miss Anna Desjardins, of Carillon, who survives him, together with two sons and two daughters — the Rev. Romeo Raymond, teacher, of Montreal; Philippe, of Lachute; Sister M. de St. Raymond (Berthe), of the Holy Cross, Montreal; Mrs. Rene Clement (Thérèse), of Montreal; also an adopted nephew and niece, Albert, of Verner, Ont., and Bernadette, at home, who remain to mourn the passing of a devoted husband and father. There also remain four grandchildren, two sisters-in-law, Mrs. Camille Raymond, of Lachute, and Mrs. J. B. Raymond, of Lachute, and a brother-in-law, Joseph Lapierre, of Montreal.

The funeral was held at Ste. Anastasie Parish Church, Tuesday, marked by expressions of honor and esteem from many relatives and friends. . . The body was received by the Rev. Fr. W. Lacourse, parish priest, followed by the Rev. Cannon Drouin, of Montreal Cathedral, who celebrated the mass, assisted by two other members of the priesthood, and the last blessing was given by His Excellency Bishop P. Caza, Auxiliary of Valleyfield. During the rites, two masses were celebrated at the lateral altars by his son, the Rev. Fr. Romeo Raymond, and his nephew, the Rev. Fr. Alphonse Raymond, a Jesuit, parish priest in Sudbury, Ont. Prominent members of the district clergy assisted in the Sanctuary. Attending were also many friends and relatives desirous of paying their last tribute of respect to one whom they had known as a good friend and a fine citizen.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond had celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary in July of this year.

Remembrance Day Plans at Brownsb'g; Service, Dedication of Memorial Organ

Brownsburg — The Brownsburg Legion will join with the congregation of the United Church in the dedication of their Memorial Organ on Sunday, November 11. This ceremony will take place during the church service immediately following the Cenotaph ceremonies on Remembrance Day.

The plans call for all veterans residing in Brownsburg or vicinity, whether they are members of the Legion or not, to parade at the Legion Hall in Brownsburg at 10.15 a.m. Members of the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary, Scouts, Cubs, Girl Guides and Brownies will also fall in at the same time and place. The parade will be in charge of Jack J. Seary, and veterans will wear medals and berets, if available. The parade will arrive at the Cenotaph at the Social Club at 10.45 a.m. for the Remembrance service, and the ministers of all denominations in Brownsburg, under chairmanship of the Rev. S. J. Pike, will take part in the service.

As the United Church is limited as to accommodation, only the Brownsburg Legion and Auxiliary will officially parade afterwards for the church service, which will be conducted by the Rev. S. J. Pike and a guest minister. Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., will address the congregation, and the dedication of the organ, in memory of the church's members who died and in recognition of those who served in World War II, will be performed by the clergy.

Following the service, the Legion and Auxiliary will again parade to the Cenotaph, where veterans will pay their respects individually and deposit their poppies.

On the evening preceding Remembrance Day, the Brownsburg Legion will hold a turkey dinner

Legionnaires Serve In City 'Invasion'

A contingent of 20 Lachute Legionnaires were in Montreal last Tuesday to form up with the unit of veterans assisting to keep the streets clear for the Royal procession. They were despatched along the main route on Sherbrooke Street and University, and besides the honor of serving Their Majesties, they were afforded a ringside view of the Princess and the Duke of Edinburgh as they proceeded along this route to the Molson Stadium.

Power and Telephone Crews Repairing Widespread Damage in Wake of Gale

During the noon hour yesterday, an immense elm near the sidewalk on the Barron property, Main Street, crashed in the high wind and, falling across the telephone cables, tore down no fewer than five poles. The poles fell across Main Street, being either snapped or uprooted, and this usually busy thoroughfare was a scene of havoc with wires, branches and timber strewn across the pavement.

Fortunately this happened just after the daily traffic peak which follows the 12 o'clock whistle. Had the incident occurred at precisely that hour, damage to cars and injury to the occupants would undoubtedly have resulted. (Only one townsman, J. G. Lamontagne, had his car damaged — the door handles being torn off by a heavy limb or cable).

Police officers were promptly on the scene detouring traffic, and Bell Telephone crews were assigned to restore the lines and erect new poles.

A few secondary power lines, leading from the transmission wires on the south side to residences on the north side of the street, were also broken by the falling cables, but the electric service was soon re-established in this section.

Gatineau Power Company, however, had to contend with widespread damage on its circuits, caused mostly by falling trees and branches. Many of these cases occurred in sections to the north of Lachute. At Chatboro it is reported a brand new 40-foot pole was broken by the gale, which seems to have affected a wide area. All the power company's trucks were despatched to points where the service was disrupted, some of the crews working far into the night to repair the damage.

Prov'l Treasurer Deplores High Property Taxation

Home ownership is a matter of tremendous importance, Hon. Onesime Gagnon, provincial treasurer of the Province of Quebec, declared this week at Quebec City. He was addressing a banquet of the Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards.

"A man who owns his own home," he said, "is more inclined to respect the law, and the property of others, and more conscious of his duties as a citizen than the tenant of another person's apartment."

Real estate, however, is threatened, he said, because it is made to bear almost all of the municipal and school taxation, and the point has now been reached where real estate can no longer bear higher taxation without driving property owners into bankruptcy.

Petition by Main Street Taxpayers Protesting New Property Valuations

At a special meeting of Town Council on Monday evening, with Mayor Jas. W. McGibbon presiding, a petition signed by 60 or 70 proprietors was brought forward in protest to the new assessments of properties, particularly on Main Street.

This question has been aired at several ratepayers' meetings, and views from these meetings expressed at previous council sessions. The protest centres on the high valuation figures, and the manner of arriving at these figures, allegedly showing unjustified discrimination between divisions established in the valuation scheme.

The decision of the council was that three valuators, augmented by two other townsmen to be duly appointed, be commissioned to study any case under protest — to re-check the measurements and calculations, to ensure there exists no error in the new valuation.

October Sessions In W.I. Branches

Arundel W.I. branch had 15 members in attendance. An interesting account was given by a member and her husband who had just returned from a trip to the West. The members exchanged plants, slips and bulbs.

Brownsburg had an attendance of 26, with the Home Economics convener in charge of the meeting. A demonstration was given by a representative of Necchi Sewing Machine Company, Montreal. This branch is sponsoring a performance by "Little Players of the Air" on November 3.

Flowers and cards were sent to a sick member in hospital. A poppy wreath is to be purchased for Remembrance Day, and cookies sent to St. Anne's Military Hospital. A food parcel was sent to England.

Frontier meeting was attended by 19 members. Sick members of the branch were visited and remembered in other ways. An interesting and instructive address on "Guidance" in education was given by the guest speaker, Principal F. H. J. Royal, of Lachute High School.

Jerusalem - Bethany had 13 members, with a roll-call of "Sing, Say or Pay". The sum of $5 was voted to the Salvation Army. A food parcel was sent to Coventry,

Canadian Trio in First 'Community Concerts' Program

An all-Canadian trio was chosen by the local committee of Community Concerts Association for the opening recital of the 1951-52 season, which was held in the auditorium of Lachute High School last Thursday evening. The Columbia Canadian Trio, composed of Joan Rowland, Betty-Jean Hagen and William Hossack, playing the piano, violin and cello respectively, was formed in the spring of this year for their American debut.

Their first selection was composed by Johann Sebastian Bach, Chorus from Cantata No. 30, the arrangement being made by Miss Rowland. It was typically Bach, with interchanging melodies, giving each instrument an opportunity to excel. In this particular rendition, there was a tendency of the piano to overshade the other two instruments.

The violinist, Miss Hagen of Edmonton, chose as her first solo, a piece from the modern Russian school, Concert in A Minor, by Alexandre Glazounow. This was possibly the most lengthy composition of the program, and quite a difficult number to perform. Miss Hagen drew appreciative applause at the close.

Frederic Chopin was featured in three pianoforte solos by Miss Rowland, the Valse Brillante, Nocturne in C Sharp Minor, and three Etudes, this lighter music being enjoyed by the audience.

The last selection by the trio before the intermission was by Felix Mendelssohn, "Finale, from Trio in D Minor", a rendition that was better synchronized, and concert music of a warmer audience appeal.

The cellist, Mr. Hossack, of Toronto, gave four beautiful compositions in the last half of the program, with Jean Sibelius' Valse Triate as a concluding selection. The trio then joined in their final group of numbers, with the ever-appealing "On Wings of Song" by Mendelssohn, Spanish Dance by Moszkowski, a lovely modern musical picture by Debussy, and the well-known "Hungarian Dance No. 6" by Brahms. All of these selections were well applauded. The artists favored with two popular encores.

This trio of Canadian artists are possibly on the road to musical success in many lands, and the experience gained on the various stages of Community Concerts will give them the co-operative experience for more ambitious spheres of performance.

Ladies' Night and Rotary Meetings

The first Rotary "Ladies' Night" of the season was enjoyed recently by many members and friends of this club. The speaker of the evening was Eoin Ruthven, of Montreal; the topic of his address was Midget Submarines. Mr. Ruthven, who used several amusing anecdotes in his talk, was well received.

After a brief history of the Midget Submarines, Mr. Ruthven spoke of the importance of the work done by this branch of the service during the last war. Due to their small size they are hard to detect, and so are able to travel to many places where larger craft cannot. The speed of the submarine is now nearly as great as that of surface vessels, and their value is increasing accordingly.

In each of the Midget Subs there is a crew of four, who must remain in a space about the size of the interior of the average car. They remained here for periods extending to 30 days. Mr. Ruthven spoke of taking two scientists to the beaches of Normandy before D-Day, to get samples of the sand on the beaches, for testing purposes. He remarked that it was quite humorous to see these men running around on the beach with small pails and shovels, even though the enemy might appear at any time.

On D-Day these subs were used to set a radio beacon which the invasion craft could use during the initial attacks. This invasion fleet was so large that it blotted out the horizon and the submarines had to remain submerged for hours for fear of being run down by their own allies.

The speaker was introduced by Harris Sherwood and thanked by Linton Armstrong.

After the dinner the guests were entertained by a quartet consisting of Miss Jocelyn Wickenden, Mrs. Elva Armstrong, Messrs. King Amos and Shirley McKyes. The crowd then joined in a sing-song led by Shirley McKyes, with Mrs. Bob Blakely at the piano. The remainder of the evening was

Six Fire Calls In Three Days

BLAZE AT MARELAN POWER HOUSE

Lachute Fire Department was summoned Monday morning to an outbreak of fire in the property of Philippe Desjardins, Robert Street. The blaze in the wall, caused by a defective electric plug, was checked with a portable extinguisher.

At 8.45 the same evening, a crew with the auxiliary truck responded to a call from Marelan, on the Grenville highway, where fire did considerable damage in a wood-constructed power house used by the Foundation Company on their big construction job for Canadian Refractories Ltd. The Lachute fire squad assisted the company's men and equipment to extinguish the blaze.

Continuing the series of outbreaks within these past few days, on Tuesday at 2 p.m. a small fire occurred at the skating rink building, where in the activities of rebuilding, wiring had been exposed in such manner as to cause a short circuit.

At 3.15 o'clock the same day, the firemen were called to a stovepipe blaze in the council chamber above the town offices. The fire was subdued without damage.

At 11.30 a.m. Wednesday, the local brigade rushed to a fire at Andy Cleland's, on the Montreal highway (reported elsewhere on this page) and the crew did efficient work to save the home from destruction.

Shortly after 12 noon the fire truck was despatched to a grass fire near the Wilson paper mill.

Gatineau LINES

For Better Roads . . .

Everybody likes to see improvements going forward on the roads throughout the area in which they live, work and drive. A power company is no exception, and Gatineau has been happy to see the many improvements carried out by the Quebec Roads Department this year — even although in most cases road-widening projects cost power companies money in a way few people ever think about.

At first glance, there doesn't seem to be much connection between the widening of a road, and the transmission of electric power. Actually, however, the connection is a close one because power lines frequently run along roadsides and a road widening project usually means the shifting of a power line as well.

At the present time, Gatineau Power is moving 25 miles of poles in various parts of its territory in order to cooperate with the Quebec Department of Roads in furthering its work. Throughout the job, the main concern of the company is to make the shift of lines with the least possible inconvenience to customers.

Moving a power line is not something that can be done overnight. It means, first of all, the gathering together of new poles along the route. It means the erection of these poles, the fitting out of each pole with cross-arms and new insulators. It means taking crews off other jobs in order to get the lines shifted as quickly as possible. Then, finally, it means the moving of electric lines off the old poles onto the new ones, or the stringing of new wire on the new poles. It all costs money and it all takes time, particularly in these days when there frequently are delays in getting supplies of poles, insulators, wire and hundreds of other items a power company needs for the job of shifting an electric line.

Operating with heavy road making machinery, the contractors sometimes get ahead of our work of moving poles with the result that you may find a line of poles running down the centre of a road under construction. However, once we have assembled the necessary material we endeavor to "clear the road" for the contractor and avoid any undue delays in the work because of our equipment.

Maintaining Soil Organic Matter

Ottawa — In many cases, building up organic matter is one of the major soil fertility problems. A farmer in choosing soils which he considers highly fertile will usually select the dark colored ones — because experience has taught him that such soils are usually more productive. With this selection the farmer pays a tribute to the value of organic matter, says B. J. Finn, Soil Specialist at Lennoxville Experimental Station.

When new land is broken few people realize that it has taken centuries for the organic matter to accumulate in the soil. With continued cultivation the organic matter decomposes rapidly and at a rate much faster than nature can rebuild. Once the organic matter content has become so low that good crop yields cannot be obtained, it is impossible to build up the organic matter without good soil management.

Good soil management includes a suitable rotation, the proper use of cover crops, manure, green manure, fertilizers, lime and adequate drainage. Barnyard manure is urgently recommended as the most effective source of rebuilding, for it not only contains organic matter but also plant nutrients and micro-organisms. A considerable portion (about 80 per cent) of the plant nutrients removed in crops fed to livestock can be returned to the soil in the form of manure.

Light sands and heavy clays have a greater need for organic matter than the intermediate loam types of soil. In fact, by the addition of large amounts of organic matter, sands and clays can be transformed into soils similar to loams in their behaviour.

The role of organic matter in the soil is manyfold: it increases the water-holding capacity of the soil, thus reducing run-off and erosion; it favors workability and ease of cultivation, loosens compact heavy clay soils and closes the pores of open sandy soils; it also serves as a storehouse for plant nutrients and is a source of food and energy for micro-organisms which are the agents assuring the circulation of plant food elements.

All soils are benefitted by organic matter, and their productivity usually rises and falls, depending upon whether their supply of organic matter is increased by manuring, by growing sod and cover crops, or is decreased by continued cultivations.

The value of Canadian forest exports is greater than the value of all exports of wheat and flour and automobiles combined.

Raise More Sheep On Prairie Farms

Regina (CP)—Higher wool prices and a more than ample supply of feed have resulted in increased sheep raising in Saskatchewan, Regina livestock officials say.

Saskatchewan farmers, realizing that the sheep-raising industry will greatly supplement their incomes, are not selling their breeding ewes. Result: a shortage of ewes at the Regina sheep sale.

Another factor that may be facilitating the turn toward sheep raising is that the problem of predator destruction of sheep flocks is not as great as in past years.

This year only two ewes were offered at the Regina sale. Last year there were 23. Farmers in the northern United States have bought up a greater number of breeding ewes making the shortage even more severe.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

The Royal Visitors

DESPITE Montreal's threats to outdo Toronto in welcoming Their Royal Highnesses on their official visit, it is a safe conclusion that even Montrealers themselves have been amazed at the warmth of the reception accorded to Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. The entire proceedings, from the visitors' arrival at Dorval on Monday afternoon to their departure from the airport yesterday at 1.30, were a credit to the management of all in charge — the civic dignitaries, the police, the official and semi-official committees, right down to the volunteer organizations which contributed much to the orderly progress of the arrangements.

Citizens and visitors in the metropolis on Tuesday were estimated at two million, and while the grandeur of the setting, the decorations and illuminations, were something to surpass all demonstrations — it was the spontaneous greeting of the crowds that struck the deepest impression in this great cosmopolitan centre. This display of sentiment — the massed crowds in Dominion Square — the cheering school-kids in their thousands at Molson and Delorimier Stadiums — this was something really stirring to witness.

Canada has rejoiced in the acquaintance of this young and princely, yet very human couple. And there is every reason to believe that this enjoyment has been mutual. The Princess and the Duke have approached as closely to the people as their station would permit — their remarks at times suggesting that they would prefer to mingle more intimately, but for the restraints enforced upon their movements. They have played their part to perfection — difficult and strenuous despite every possible provision for the smooth conduct of their tour; and while winning the friendship of East and West by their personal charm, they have filled an important function in cementing still stronger the ties that bind the British Commonwealth.

Community Concerts

WHILE on the point of discussing Community Concerts, we were regaled by our colleague's letter, which appears within eyeshot of this column. At least it is outspoken, if not necessarily serious. We do agree, that the writer echoes an opinion often voiced after these performances, though we are not so certain that the opinion is representative.

Let's be honest about Community Concerts. The Columbia Canadian Trio last week presented the first of this season's recitals. . . . After several series of this type, let us ask: Are we getting what we wanted? Are the performances too highbrow? Are they fulfilling the aim for which this Association of 600 members was created? Are we in any way disappointed? . . And, more to the point, do we, the subscribers, know exactly what we want?

Let's be honest and answer this last query in the negative! For the membership embraces such a wide variety of tastes that there can be no truly representative answer to the question.

There are those who know the classical composers and their works in minute detail. Shall we admit, these are the very small minority of subscribers. The average perhaps are like ourselves, and we speak accordingly for the average listener. . . We appreciate fine art, not for its particular technique or school or period, but strictly for its eye appeal. We appreciate music on the same basis of merit — for its appeal to the senses. At the same time, with the pleasure it affords, we enjoy something outstanding in composition, and fine quality in its performance. In Community Concerts we have both; and speaking personally, we feel thoroughly satisfied. . . Had we preferred the hotshot products of the jazz age, we would be patronizing every dance orchestra in the district. (We don't). Had we preferred the well-loved traditional and popular airs, we would be avid dial-twisters, devotees of the commercial programs and amateur hours. (We are neither).

As regards this last Community Concert program, our staff reporter, who is reasonably familiar with the musical arts, expressed a private opinion that the musicians, although obvious masters of their respective instruments, lacked a certain balance in collaboration; in other words, on occasions one instrument outshaded the other. This may be true, but personally we were thrilled with the dexterity of these three young musicians, products of good Canadian ability and perseverance; we were alternately soothed, excited and sorrowed by the moods of composition which they so ably interpreted; and we were pleased with their program generally, with the very human and unaffected qualities of these artists. The same opinion, we noted, was more or less general among our fellow listeners.

Admittedly, we were in the same dilemma as "Wondering Boy" (our correspondent to the editorial starboard) — we did not "understand" these compositions. But let us remind him that, in each case, the program sheets gave a concise commentary to explain the theme and pave the way for its enjoyment. True, the too-hurried lowering of the lights denied full use of this facility; but the explanation was there for those who quickly read.

All in all, we believe that Community Concerts are what the public wanted and what the members bargained for. Jones's or no Jones's, the capacity audiences give substantial evidence of this fact.

Times Have Changed

LIKE THE ol' grey mare, Hallowe'en "ain't what she used to be." . . Old-timers wear a scornful expression as they watch the candied high jinks served up nowadays on the night when hobgoblins are supposed to dance and witches to cackle fiendishly.

Gone are the roughhouse days that brought imprecations from property-owners as they assessed the damage to farm buildings, storefronts and goodness knows what else. Farmer Grundy no longer looks for his favorite team of Clydesdales down the montee a couple of miles away. City policemen no longer think twice before stepping in to break up a parade of rampaging university students.

Yes, times have changed; and the old-timers would readily admit that it's all for the best. In this streamlined, atomic age there is really no place for the vandalism that used to pass for Hallowe'en fun. Nowadays it's an occasion for the very young fry to dress up in old duds, and with blackened faces parade from door to door seeking handouts.

There's no doubt it's for the best, but we would not begrudge old-timers the memories of their wild, adventurous youth.

Higher Auto Insurance ?

THE CANADIAN motorist will have his 1952 cost-of-living pushed up by an all-Canadian upward adjustment in auto insurance premiums, statistics indicate. Increases will probably be announced before the end of 1951, warns The Financial Post.

The factors responsible for this affect the public liability and property damage rates most. They are:

1. Increased repair costs due to increased prices for parts, labor, and the complex design of the modern car.
2. Tendency of courts to award higher indemnities for property damage and personal injury.
3. Increased accident frequency in various areas.
4. Teen-age drivers.

"A Feast of Classics"

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

I often wonder what the committee that selects the concert offerings for the Community Concerts, have in mind when they make the selections.

Are they guided by a desire to provide an enjoyable and pleasant rendition of musical numbers and songs or are they possessed of an urge to present brilliant execution of abstruse and difficult conservatory drills?

I wonder, too, what the members really think of the presentations? Do they enjoy the "delightful musical evening" they tell their friends about or are they actually just "keeping up with the Jones's?"

Honest, folks! I'm just wondering.

Take the last concert, for instance. Here we had three Canadian-born artists presenting an instrumental ensemble of musical creations ranging from Bach and Glazounow through Chopin, Mendelssohn and Debussy to Brahms before a purely Canadian audience possessed of an average musical appreciation — not a note from a Canadian, American or English composer.

I don't get it.

To borrow a phrase, the concert was a thing of "flawless beauty and transporting loveliness" all brilliantly executed . . but I didn't understand it.

I guess, there were three persons in the hall who did, but like the majority I joined in a loud burst of applause when a languishing pianissimo expression was softly fading to a pause before unfolding the andante theme still part of the lyric. The artist succeeded in recapturing the mood and continued while the applause shamefacedly subsided.

But, how did we know it was not the end of the piece? I studied a little music, and can enjoy a feast of the classics, but not one of the fourteen selections struck a cord of memory on Thursday night. I must be slipping.

Whatever about enjoying it, it was first class. "De rigueur", in fact. When the last page was turned we applauded at length and were rewarded with "maidean a verach", an old Irish melody. Further applause, and the offering was a popular French classic. We asked for more with increasing gusto. . . "The King", finis.

Canadian instrumental music made the "front pages" of the world's press recently when Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh tripped through a square dance at Government House. Big name orchestral leaders in England wanted more of Don Messer and other Canadian composers, and were surprised to learn that most of them were working down in the States. I often wondered why?

— Wondering Boy

P.S. — To the Concerts Committee — don't mind me. I had a column to fill and news is scarce!

"THINGS AN' STUFF"

Be Kind to Dumb Animals

Why call yourself a "Sportsman", friend, you with your modern gun, who tramp around the woods all day and think you're having fun? You would not strike a little child nor kick a cripple's crutch, steal a blind beggar's old tin cup nor burn a rabbit hutch. You're known as a kindly man, well versed in etiquette until the hunting season starts. Then you're for murder set! With your high-powered rifle you go forth in search for deer, or camp upon their trail all day in hopes one will appear. And if one does, you'll think you are a man extremely smart to smack the harmless critter down with a bullet through the heart. If you're smart why don't you hunt with nothing but your wits, and kill the deer with your bare hands or knitted woollen mitts? Should you come out the winner then, your deer would be fair game, and you would be a "Sportsman" true, quite worthy of the name. To me a man who will exploit and mean advantage take by slaying deer with dogs or guns is nothing but a snake. Be kind to all wild animals who never harmed a man. Consider them your friends and be a Conservation Fan. Just sign a non-aggression pact with creatures of the wild, including bears, which you will find are also meek and mild. Attract them to your cabin door and learn to know their ways. they'll teach you more than you'll teach them, if you prolong their days.

Just one suggestion — never flirt with pretty Mrs. Skunk. She might misundertand you, and there's no use getting stunk.

The elephant in one animal that cannot get all four feet off the ground at the same time.

Calumet — Little Donna Martin, 22-months-old granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Martin of this village, had the thrill of seeing her picture in the Toronto paper, Globe & Mail, as one of the spectators on the occasion of the Royal visit. While waiting on the street to view the Princess and the Duke, a reporter asked the child's mother, Mrs. George Martin, if he might snap a picture. Donna, who was busily employed eating a huge taffy apple, also happily acquiesed, and the picture, which later appeared in the paper, was sent on to Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Martin.

Fine Tribute to the Late Mrs. Fred Gates

Last week there was reported in the St. Andrews East column, the death of Mrs. Fred Gates after a long illness in Morrisville, Vermont. . . Her passing is of interest to those who remember St. Andrews East towards the close of the last century.

The only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Webster, she was known as "Lily" to all her friends, though her name was Helen, and she was quite dark-complexioned.

However, she was one of a coterie of delightful young women who grew up in St. Andrews East, and made it a place of happy remembrance for a great many people who were then boys and girls. The words "social service, child welfare or under-privileged children" hadn't been coined for popular usage, but just the same, these young women naturally gathered around them the children of the district, in Sunday Schools where they taught, and in the community where they organized teen-age groups. One of their activities was the renting of a small store on Main Street near the Anglican Church, which was known as the Reading Room, and where young people's meetings were held in the evening for games and other activities. The library consisted of books loaned or given by people of the community. On Sundays they sang in the church choirs and played the organs, and when a social would be held in one or other of the churches, the program would be made up from local talent; some of them being very good at the piano, acceptable in their singing, and in the case of the late Miss Flora Hibbert, one of the group who was a very accomplished whistler. The boys contributed, under encouragement, coaching and threats, with banjos, mouth organs, Jew's harps, and some instruments which they made up themselves.

In short, due to the influence of these young women, the youthful people of that day developed their talents, and made life enjoyable for the time, as well as developing their character for the day when they left the village and went to far-distant places.

Some of these young women, we see by the news in the St. Andrews East column, have returned to their home town after years in active service elsewhere, in foreign countries and in Canada; and some, like Miss Hibbert and Mrs. Gates, have passed on.

Looking back over the period of the late '90's, one has to appreciate that their influence made the memory of St. Andrews East very precious, a place to return to, where the skies are never so blue, nor the air so beautifully scented with pine and other evergreen, nor the nostalgic memory so strong elsewhere, largely because these young women lived their lives actively and generously in those earlier days.

Learning to Share

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Look at that selfish child! He won't let anyone else have a turn with his dump truck!" a mother said to her friend as they watched a little group of pre-school children playing in the backyard sandpile.

"He's a big boy for his age. Perhaps he's a little young to want to be generous", the other mother suggested.

"A child is never too young to learn to share!" the first mother said flatly. "If he was my child, I'd stand over him and make him give his little playmate a turn with his dump truck!"

What about sharing? Is it reasonable to expect a very young child willingly to give up a prized possession for a time to a playmate? What happens if he is forced to take turns?

The child two years or younger is a real individualist. He doesn't care very much about another child's feelings. If he is not watched, in a moment of anger in his play, if the other youngster should snatch a toy from him, he will likely hit the other child or chase him in an effort to recover his possession.

Parents are setting too high a standard if they expect their two year old to gladly share his toys. He is quite happy playing by himself, or engaging in "parallel" play in which an individual plays actively alongside the other child but not needing any give and take. Only as he gets to be three or four does he enjoy playing with other children so much that he can see the point of co-operating by taking turns. Sharing is learned very slowly. It is harder for some children than others — and even some adults have never mastered this lesson.

Many mothers are inclined to give too much supervision to children's play. Unless a child is being hurt or in real need of adult assistance, better leave the small ones alone to work out their own way of getting along together.

If mother insists too often that Junior share his toys and at too early an age, what happens? Junior is confused and resentful. He may become the sort of child who doesn't know how to stand up for his own rights. Or he may turn into a "Cry-Baby" or "Mother's Boy".

On the other hand, if mother is always rushing out of the kitchen into the yard to take her little darling's part — Junior fast becomes very unpopular. The children depart to another yard so as to avoid the unpleasant mother who is frequently interfering on behalf of her son.

The only child has a much harder time learning to share than the boy or girl with brothers and sisters. In a family, children quickly see that better times are enjoyed by everyone if there is fair play and everyone has his or her part.

A child of three or four should have the opportunity to play with other children his own age. It is not so hard for him to begin to learn to take turns at this stage in a small, intimate neighborhood group or at Nursery School. But the Kindergarten or First Grade child who has led a very solitary life in the company of adults, finds it extremely difficult to substitute "ours" for "my" or take turns gracefully with play equipment.

As the child's world gets larger, he knows more people, and he he knows more people, and he learns of folk in far-away places. His sympathetic response to need is quick. It is good for children to assist in service projects by contributing to the "Save the Children" Fund or helping with the Junior Red Cross, or a Church Mission Band.

Not long ago a group of older public school girls purchased a dozen dolls. They made pretty, inexpensive clothing for them. Through the Red Cross the little convalescing patients from several European countries in a Swiss Rest Home received these dolls. How happy they were to have a doll to play with during their long hours in bed! But the Canadian girls were glad too — they had learned from their own experience, one of the secrets of happy living. As one girl said "It's fun to share!"

"Wear A Poppy", Urges Local Legion President

All members of the Lachute Branch of the Canadian Legion are called upon to wear a poppy on November 8 - 11, in a message issued by Carl Demerse, president.

Urging that veterans of both World Wars set an example of reverence for the war dead by wearing the memorial flower through these four days, President Demerse says, "The Flanders Poppy is your Badge of Remembrance. Passage of the years has not dimmed our memory of those comrades of ours who served by our sides and who gave their lives for Canada.

"Let us show that we remember them and honor their sacrifice, by wearing proudly our memorial emblem on Poppy Day. In this observance, war veterans and Legion members should set the example for all citizens. Most people wear on their lapel an emblem which proclaims their membership in one organization or another. Through it they make known to their fellow men their associations, their beliefs and their principles.

"Let us then for a few days proudly wear the 'Badge of Remembrance', thereby reassuring our fellow Canadians of our reverence for the memory of those who died, of our belief in the principles for which they fought, and of our association in willing service with those whose sworn duty is the care of comrades who were left behind."

More Radios than Phones In Canadian Homes

More Canadian homes have radios than telephones, it is revealed by J. D. Campbell, chairman of the National Radio Week Committee. Over 90% of Canadian homes have one or more radio receivers as compared to 50% with telephones.

"Special programs over stations of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation as well as over privately owned stations from coast to coast will mark National Radio Week, in which all branches of the radio industry of Canada will celebrate from October 27 to November 3", Mr. Campbell stated.

The event will focus attention on the tremendous strides which radio has made since its inception thirty-one years ago. Starting in a modest way with simple crystal receivers and low-power broadcasting stations, the industry has developed its products and receivers steadily over the years to the present highly advanced AM and static-free FM and Television receivers incorporating many improvements resulting from wartime experience in creating specialized equipment for the armed forces.

Starting from a manufacturing output of a few thousand sets per year during the early years of its life, the industry is now producing at the rate of three-quarters of a million receivers per year.

Aid to Greece for Ill-Fortuned Children

"At Least Save Our Children" Pleads Village Social Worker

"I have been back in Ottawa only a short time, but my thoughts are still in Europe; after looking into thousands of frightened children's eyes and seeing their stomachs bloated from hunger, it is impossible to forget their misery" (writes Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, director in Canada for the Unitarian Service Committee).

The plight of displaced persons in Europe has increased since the United Nations International Refugee Organization ceased to give relief in 1950; because food and clothing are more expensive every month, the lot of the sick and the aged grows constantly more tragic; institutions caring for child war victims have a harder time to make ends meet and their diet is getting poorer and poorer — the writer continues, in this forceful appeal.

All the more delighted was I to see our Unitarian Service Committee projects in Greece, Austria, Italy and France: the boys and girls staying in Homes sponsored under our Foster Parent Scheme look well indeed. They eat three good meals a day, are clothed in Canadian clothing, and many hear from their Canadian "foster parents" regularly. The older ones are taught practical crafts to prepare them for a useful and independent future. . . But what would happen to these children if Canadian generosity came to an end? For many of the 12-year-olds, this is the critical time of their lives. Dare we forsake them now?

The most heart-rending and exhaustive part of my journey was a jeep trip through Northern Greece, along the Albanian, Yugoslav and Bulgarian borders. No agency except ours reaches these remote, suffering areas which, for ten long years — from 1940 to 1949, were exposed to a savage scorching from three successive foes. Here, a year and a half after their repatriation from refugee camps, a blanket, an overcoat, a baby's diaper are still so scarce as to be cherished as treasures. But, even so, clothing is not the vital problem of Northern Greece today.

This past summer 500 of the villages north of Athens have suffered a complete crop failure due to excessive rains, hot winds and hail just before harvest time. About one-quarter of a million people will go hungry this winter, many will die, unless a bare minimum of flour is shipped to them at once. "We would eat anything a little softer than rocks", the president of one village told me; and his last sentence, "Our lives are in your hands — please save at least our children", still burns in my ears . . .

I launched our "Bread for Greece" Crusade a few hours after I returned from Europe — concludes Dr. Hitschmanova. A $1 donation will by 20 pounds of flour—enough to keep a hungry child alive for a month. If YOU give generously and tell your own family, your neighbors, your friends about this vital appeal, I am hopeful that the Unitarian Service Committee will receive enough money to save many starving children this winter from certain death. Their fate is in our hands.

(Senator Cairine R. Wilson is honorary chairman of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada. Main Office of this organization is at — 48 Sparks Street, Ottawa 4.)

Kate Aitken

This is one of the latest pictures of Kate Aitken, who broadcasts human-interest news and home-making hints for women, Monday to Friday at 10.30 a.m. on the CBC. This season "Mrs. A." is more than keeping up her reputation for living out of a suitcase. She plans to originate her program in more than 50 cities across Canada, tying it in at each place with special events such as conventions, fairs, fashion shows and community celebrations. Besides these, trips, she plans to cover events of international interest in other countries. Her programs will also include budget helps such as recipes for meat-saving dishes and home canning, tips on making extra money at home, and suggestions for clothing the family on a small income.

TOUGH

Wokingham, Eng. (CP) — A suggestion that women who served in the armed forces overseas should get a housing priority, was spurned by the rural council of this Berkshire village.

A local vicar, Rev. F. J. E. Britnell, said women who served overseas had the chance of a lifetime. "There were ladies with faces like the backs of buses who just leaped into matrimony and got a chance they never had at home", said the vicar.

Members "On the Spot"

Due to inability of the guest speaker to be present at the meeting last week, a different type of program was followed, in which several members of the club were called upon to give their autobiographies. Although each member was supposedly limited to one minute only, a few spoke for a longer period, unfolding much of interest in their life history.

The president reviewed the somewhat disappointing attendance for September, this club being in sixth place for the district. On October 11, however, there was a 100% attendance at the club meeting.

Tom Hall was appointed as Rotarian representative on the Advisory Council of the Canadian Cancer Society, Brownsburg branch.

Keith Rutherford gave a report on the success of the Ladies' Night, and Lloyd Creswell reported on sale of tickets for the Turkey Bingo to be held November 2. Stewart Jones was well in the lead, having sold 20% of the total tickets disposed of at this date.

The singsong was led by King Amos, with Wes Freeland at the piano.

W.I. Represented

Miss Ida R. Bruneau and Miss F. Elizabeth Campbell, of the staff of the Quebec Women's Institutes, represented that organization at the buffet luncheon given by the City of Montreal in honor of Their Royal Highnesses, the Princess and the Duke of Edinburgh.

National recognition for the Women's Institutes was given when Mrs. Hugh Summers, president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, Fonthill, Ont., and her husband were guests at the state dinner given by Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Lawson at Toronto at the time of the Royal visit to that city.

Members of the Royal family have been interested in the Women's Institute ever since it was introduced into England by a Canadian woman, the late Mrs. Alfred Watt, M.B.E., during World War I. The Queen is honorary president of Sandringham W.I. and the Princess herself is a member of the Windsor Women's Institute.

Appreciation

Sincere thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Boyd, to other good neighbors and to Lachute Fire Brigade, are expressed by the undersigned for their effective efforts in saving his house from fire.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Regular Meeting of Ministerial Association

The Argenteuil Protestant Ministerial Association met in regular session Monday in the Lachute Baptist Church. The Rev. C. R. Lang, president, was in the chair.

After the opening prayer by the Rev. W. H. Britton, Mr. Lang gave a thought-provoking address on the subject of the serious flow of young people from the country districts to the cities and larger towns. The speaker touched on the apparent lack of appreciation of the real value of the land, which is a gift from God for man, to use and not abuse. Today the forests of our country are being destroyed, the earth is not properly cared for, and the wild life so valuable to man is ruthlessly slaughtered. He urged all to help the farmer in the country to realize the importance of his high vocation, to preserve the gifts of the earth and to hand them down to future generations. A good farmer must be a God-fearing man, and a deep-seated religion is necessary for his success.

The final plans for the Sunday School Teacher Training Course were approved and it is hoped that all interested, both teachers and prospective ones, will attend. (Particulars are given elsewhere in this column.)

On November 11, Remembrance Day, all services in the Lachute Protestant churches will commence at 11.15 a.m. to accommodate the arrangements of the Legion.

November 11 the Bible Society will hold its annual meeting in the Lachute Baptist Church at 7 p.m.; further notice will be given in next issue.

As last year, it is expected that plans will be made both at Brownsburg and Lachute for Watchnight Services on December 31.

Concluding Services In Preaching Mission

The closing services of the special preaching mission in Lachute Baptist Church, being conducted by Evangelist Alfred Olley, will be held Thursday and Friday at 8 p.m., and on Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. The ordinance of Believer's Baptism will be observed during the evening service. Interest in these services has been good, and many have spoken of the spiritual help they have received under the ministry of this able preacher of the gospel. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend.

Dates for Sunday School Teachers' Training Course

The Argenteuil Protestant Ministerial Association has arranged a Sunday School teacher training course to be held in November. It is hoped that all interested will keep the following dates free of other engagements:

Tuesday, November 6, at 8 p.m. in the hall of the Presbyterian Church, Lachute — the Rev. Dr. W. H. Reid will show two sound-strip films entitled "The Great Adventure" and "The Growing Teacher".

Tuesday, November 13, in the Maple Avenue Baptist Church, Brownsburg, a team of teachers are coming from Montreal to demonstrate teaching in the three principal grades of a Sunday School.

Tuesday, November 20, in the United Church hall, Lachute, another team from Montreal will conduct a similar course.

Offerings for the Religious Education Council for Quebec will be received during the gatherings.

England. A paper was read, entitled "A Handy Guide to Grown-ups". Two contests were also held at this meeting.

At Lachute branch the attendance numbered 33 members, who enjoyed a visit to the Historical Museum at Carillon. At the High School opening, the president, Mrs. F. A. Brennian, presented the W.I. progress prizes and the John Fisher awards for an essay on Democracy in Canada. Congratulations were sent to Dr. Charlotte Whitton, member of the Board of Control, Ottawa, on her election as the only woman mayor of a Canadian city.

Lakefield had 10 members present, and the roll-call was, "Name a new medicine". Plans were made to attend the semi-annual convention, and arrangements were also made for a Hallowe'en party.

Morin Heights branch had 24 members, answering the roll-call with — "An amusing incident of your school days". This branch will sponsor a luncheon for guests at the opening of the new school. Miss Joyce Seale gave her report on handicrafts done for the Lachute Fair. Mrs. P. Temple, of Montreal, donated articles towards the hospital supplies. A "military whist" was planned by this branch. New teachers were welcomed, and the principal, Mr. Blakeley, spoke on the new school and surroundings, and showed two pictures entitled, "Learning to Understand Children" and "The Story of Mr. Bell, the Inventor". The branch will replenish the First Aid kit in the local school.

Pioneer meeting was attended by 15 members. The gift of a purse was presented to Mrs. Jas. MacKenzie, who was leaving on a trip to the West. The Rev. Dr. W. H. Reid showed slides on the United Nations. It was planned to send a parcel overseas.

Upper Lachute - East End reports an attendance of 21 members. The branch catered to a wedding, which realized $93.75 for the funds. A parcel was sent overseas. Mr. Keith Russel, Agriculture teacher at Lachute High School, gave an interesting talk, stressing the importance of teaching Agriculture to school students.

SOUVENIR COLLECTORS?

Joy Ride on UNICEF's Transport

Camel caravans, horses, donkeys and flat-bottomed river boats are among the means of transportation used by the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF), to distribute milk, food, raw materials and medicines to needy children in some 60 different countries around the globe. No village is too remote, no conditions are too difficult for the transportation of these life-giving supplies. This illustration shows the arrival of one of UNICEF's transports at the Greek village of Skafi in Macedonia at the Legion Hall. A fine program has been arranged, and all veterans, in addition to Legion members, are invited. (However, in order to complete arrangements, tickets must be purchased not later than November 5).

In addition, the Brownsburg Legion is holding its Fall Dance at the Legion Hall this Saturday, November 3. A band from Montreal will provide the music, and dancing will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.; all are welcome.

The poppy campaign will get underway in Brownsburg on November 2, and the Girl Guides have kindly undertaken the street sales. Distribution of poppies to pupils of the Catholic and Protestant Schools will follow the same procedure as last year. Each child will be handed a poppy with an envelope, to be taken home; parents may contribute any amount they wish, returning the sealed envelope with the school children. Proceeds will be used only for disabled veterans or for the families of needy veterans.

It is probable the Brownsburg Legion will also sponsor a blood bank clinic in the near future. It is hoped that, in addition to veterans, citizens will also volunteer. Further details will be published later.

In view of the fact that the Brownsburg Legion Hall is now rapidly nearing completion, attention is being given to the "memorial" aspect of the building. A committee under Sydney Seary will collaborate with the Citizens' Committee in this detail, taking proper steps to record for posterity the names of Brownsburg citizens who gave their lives in World War II.

Housewife's Old Friend -- The Potato

Some like them new and some like them old,
Some like them hot and some like them cold,
Some like them mashed and some like them whole,
But uses for potato are still untold.

As colder weather approaches and appetites expand, a satisfying touch to breakfast, lunch or dinner may be found in the Canadian homemakers' old friend, the potato. This member of the vegetable family is a joy to cook. It can be served in many ways, by itself or in combination with almost anything edible. It is easy on the budget and as a left-over it has many uses.

Since potatoes are more frequently served with dinner than at any other time, serve them a different way each day of the week and surprise the family.

Baked potatoes cut in half, sprinkled with grated cheese and placed under the broiler until cheese is melted and golden brown, are a change from baked potatoes with just a lump of butter inserted in the top. Another idea is to remove a lengthwise piece from the centre of a raw potato, with the aid of an apple corer. Stuff the hole with cooked meat, a sausage or cheese. Plug ends with some of the potato that was cored out and then bake.

Variations for boiled potatoes, with or without jackets, mashed or creamed, may include Duchess potatoes, consisting of mashed, seasoned potatoes with butter and beaten egg yolk added. The mixture is whipped until fluffy, placed by spoonfuls on a pan, or for fancy shapes pressed through a pastry tube then brushed with slightly beaten egg white and browned in the oven. For that special occasion, Chantilly potatoes may be served. They are mashed potatoes, seasoned and placed in a casserole, topped with whipped cream, sprinkled with grated cheese and placed in the oven until light brown.

Left over boiled potatoes may be served as: Hash browned, when they are chopped finely, seasoned with salt and pepper and browned in a frying pan; Lyonnaise potatoes, when they are cut in cubes, seasoned with salt and pepper, onion and parsley and pan fried until brown; Delmonico potatoes, when they are mixed with a cream sauce, seasoned and put in a casserole, topped with bread crumbs, and browned in the oven; or as croquettes, when riced potatoes are shaped into cylinders, dipper in slightly beaten egg, rolled in bread crumbs and deep fat fried.

But don't restrict the use of potatoes to dinner menus. For breakfast the family may enjoy fried potato slices with their bacon and egg or potato pancakes instead of toast. For the pancakes, cooked mashed or grated raw potatoes may be used. For lunch, a hot or cold potato salad is always enjoyable. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, have provided a recipe for a tasty potato loaf.

Potato Loaf

2 Tablespoons milk, ¼ cup cutter, ½ cup mayonnaise, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon finely grated onion, ½ teaspoon paprika, 4 cups hot mashed potatoes (8 medium potatoes), 10 thin slices process cheese.

Add milk, butter, mayonnaise, salt, onion and paprika to the hot mashed potatoes, blend thoroughly. Mould in a loaf pan, 8 x 4 inches. Chill thoroughly. Unmold and cut into 6 crosswise sections. Place 2 slices of cheese between each section, allowing them to extend above the top of the loaf. Place in a baking dish or platter and bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., until cheese is melted and is a golden brown, about 10 minutes. Serve immediately. Yield: 6 servings.

Other ideas for using potatoes include soups, biscuits, scones, breads, cookies, cakes and poultry stuffings. Recipes will probably be found in your favorite cook book, but if there are none, then try a little experimenting, it's lots of fun!

Originating in Peru, the potato travelled to Europe and then to North America. In Canada, there are many varieties but one variety may be better known in one part of the country than in another. The most common varieties of early potatoes are Irish Cobblers and Warbas Katahdin, Green Mountain, Sebago, Chippewa and Netted Gem are the later ones, which store well and are the ones seen in shops during the winter months.

Care in buying and storage of potatoes is important. For quality and uniformity in size, buy them by grade.

Socks and Sweaters Make Fine Tapestry

Edmonton Woman Exhibits Eight Views of Rocky Mountains

Edmonton (CP) — The artistic fingers of Mrs. Mona Matheson have turned a collection of old socks, discarded sweaters and miscellaneous rags into eight artistic views of Alberta's Rocky Mountains.

The socks, sweaters and rags are on display in Edmonton's Museum of Arts. Under the talented hand of Mrs. Matheson, artist, mountain guide, "dude ranch" operator and housewife, the scraps have been transformed into picturesque tapestries.

Mrs. Matheson was one of the first woman guides to direct tourists through the valleys and forests of Jasper National Park.

She started on the road to artistic achievement seven years ago when one day she decided "I should like to have a rug or two around the house."

Then began the search for materials.

Mrs. Matheson found men's work socks ideal for her purpose. Male visitors learned to turn down their trouser cufs so she couldn't see the color of their socks and lay claim to them. Her husband kept most of his stockings in a hay rack where she was unable to search them out.

Uniforms Handy

Even the wardens of Jasper Park were not safe. Mrs. Matheson found their olive-colored uniforms were "just the thing" for recreating jack-pine forests.

"Lake Louise" a three-by-four foot tapestry, took 1,000 hours to complete.

Mrs. Matheson was born in Port of Spain, Trinidad, and came to Canada in 1908. The family was attracted to the grandeur of western Canada and settled in British Columbia.

"I couldn't stay away from those mountains", Mrs. Matheson said in an interview. She and her sister applied for jobs as guides in Jasper Park — and, after a year's delay, got their wish.

From 1927 to 1931 the sisters led visitors through the park, and transported gasoline and supplies by packhorse for tourist camps on Maligne Lake.

The woman guide married Chas. Matheson in 1930. He was one of Edmonton's pioneers, coming here before the turn of the century. He was a warden in Jasper Park for 13 years.

Today the Mathesons operate a "dude ranch" and tourist guide centre on the highway west from Edmonton. It is two miles outside the Jasper Park east gate.

HERE AND THERE

A potato-grower's dream was realized by Mrs. L. F. Bohn on her farm near Prince George, B.C., when one hill yielded 214 spuds. . . The Indian Head (Sask) News like an oracle blames September's wetness on two moons in the month, claims the phenomenon won't occur again for 65 years; can we depend on that? . . . When Paul Guhl and Henry Wilson, of Belbutte, Sask., started after a bear which had been tearing down grain stooks, they shot and hung up the hides of three marauders. . . Mrs. Z. Sokolosky was sweeping out the Kamsack, Sask., railway station on Sunday night when a prairie chicken scared the life out of her by jet-smashing through a window and falling bleeding at her feet.

URGE HOMING PIGEONS FOR NORTHERN PLANES

Yorkton, Sask. (CP) — A Yorkton pigeon fancier has suggested that pilots flying into uncharted areas of Canada's north should carry one or two homing pigeons. The difficulties of an air search would be cut down considerably, he said.

He suggested that a number of birds be kept at each flying base and rented to pilots. In case of forced landings or engine trouble, or in cases where the pilot became lost, the birds would be released with a message which would help narrow the area of an air search.

Authority Discusses Development and Possibilities of Farm Forum Movement

Dr. W. H. Brittain, Dean of Agriculture at Macdonald College, Addresses Local Rally

The seasonal Farm Forum rally, held in Lachute High School recently, was a successful affair which attracted a good attendance. Heber Boyd was chairman of the gathering, and Keith Russel introduced the guest speaker, Dr. W. H. Brittain, Dean of Agriculture at Macdonald College.

During the evening, the meeting was favored with bagpipe selections by Connie Kippen, from Maxville, Ont., and selections were sung by the teachers' quartet, comprising Mrs. L. Armstrong, Miss J. Wickenden, Shirley McKyes and King Amos. Mr. McKyes also led the group in a singsong, which was enthusiastically enjoyed. The evening concluded with refreshments.

The speaker introduced his remarks on the history, development, accomplishments and future possibilities of the Farm Forum Movement with a sketch of the life and work of the late Dr. James W. Robertson — "one of the few really great Canadians devoted to improving the welfare of the rural people of this country", and the founder of a number of important movements and institutions, any one of which would have merited the gratitude of the present generation.

In his main convictions Dr. Robertson was undoubtedly right, said the speaker:

1. The basis of all progress must begin in the schools — which means not only splendid buildings and equipment, but also gifted teachers.

2. Research and extension in agriculture should go hand in hand.

3. He believed in standing by his plans until they had taken root and then leaving the rest to the people concerned. "Of what use", he said, "is an institution which requires the constant supervision of its founder?" Thus he believed in the principle of self-help and against "spoon-feeding", and was all for having people think out the solutions to their own problems.

There is also no doubt, whether they realize it or not, that Dr. Robertson's example inspired at least some of those who were responsible for the Farm Forum Movement, which began at Macdonald College in a modest and somewhat amateurish effort known as the "Community Clinic", a co-operative effort between the CBC and the newly-born Adult Education Service. This speedily developed into a dramatized broadcast, using actors to represent various farm types, and finally into its present form in which real people discuss problems of interest to Canadian farmers on a national broadcast. But, from the first, the leaders of this movement were convinced that the broadcast itself was not the most important part of the program, which was based on scores of listening and discussion groups scattered over the land. It was realized from the outset that the study group is the basis of the Farm Forum Movement and good discussion leaders the key to success.

The speaker told of the work of the College, assisting in the training of leaders, and felt that this should be given greater emphasis. The Quebec Association has a wider function of usefulness than

Police Program At 'Les Loisirs'

The first of the Sunday afternoon recreation sessions at Ste. Anastasie Parish Church, started the season on its way with high enthusiasm. Around 850 children gathered in the church basement to be entertained by the local police force under Chief D. Villeneuve; six members of the Imperial Corps of Frontiersmen, in charge of Lt. Paul Pellard, Brigade Records Officer — brought here through the instigation of Lt. Col. Ernest Emmett, Quebec O.C.; Detective Philippe Therriault, local representative of the Provincial Police; and a member of the Verdun municipal police who is also secretary of the Juvenile Police Club in that city. . . Gaetan Cousineau, president of "Les Loisirs" committee, was M.C.

Two films were shown, stressing fire prevention and street accident prevention. Candies were distributed to the children, and 36 lucky prizes of ball-point pens, provided out of the local police fund.

Archeology Talk At Rotary Club

"THE EIGHTH WONDER OF THE WORLD"

Rotary Club speaker last week was Eric Thompson, Assistant General Passenger Agent of Canadian Pacific Steamships, who spoke on the "Eighth Wonder of the World". Mr. Thompson mentioned the other Seven Wonders with special emphasis on the Sphinx and Pyramids of Egypt — to which he compared the Eighth Wonder.

The Eighth Wonder is known as the Buried Kingdom of Angkor, situated in French Indo-China, and which is now being excavated by the French. It was discovered in 1864, but excavations did not start until 1907.

The Kingdom was supposed to have been founded in 1 A.D., but the speaker gave the opinion that it had been founded many years previously, from people who had left the "Lost Continent of Mu". At one time the population was 30-million. It consisted of many cities, of which only a few have been excavated. Angkor Town, the only city to be completely excavated, is in the form of a perfect square, and surrounded by walls and a moat. There are five gates leading into the city, one in the centre of each wall, except the east wall which has the extra gate. Leading to each gate are large stone causeways flanked by statues of giants supporting a huge seven-headed snake.

In another section a temple, Angkor Vat, has been excavated. This temple has a shape similar to that of the Pyramids in Egypt. The internal structure is also similar to the structure of the Pyramids. There are many carvings on the walls, which are thought to depict the history of the Kingdom; however only a few of the writings have been translated. Another striking resemblance to the Egyptian Civilization is the presence of snakes in the carvings. All this seems to suggest that both the Khmers (the citizens of Angkor) and the Egyptians have a common origin, the Lost Continent of Mu. On the islands of the Pacific are structures and carvings similar to those in Egypt and Angkor. . . Mr. Thompson closed his talk with a quotation, "Civilization is older than you think".

The speaker was introduced by John Hawes and thanked by Dave Schwartz. President John Chalmers announced that November 22 would be "parent and child night", and that Stewart Jones will present a new Union Jack to the club.

The singsong was led by King Amos. The only guest on this occasion was Keith Russell, of Lachute.

The Rotarians take this opportunity to thank their many friends for their support at the Turkey Bingo, which proved highly successful. The proceeds realized from this event will be used to further the work at the Community Park in Brownsburg.

Wear A Poppy!

For lonely graves in far-off lands,
On plains of France, in Egypt's sands,
For voices mute and absent hands —
Wear a Poppy!

For those who may not hear and rise
To bugle notes across the skies,
Who thrill no more to battle cries —
Wear a Poppy!

For they who never more will roam
The forest paths and hills of home,
Brave boys who sleep beneath the foam —
Wear a Poppy!

For those who made their valiant stand
With heart of steel and iron hand,
Through stormy skies, on sea and land —
Wear a Poppy!

For they who heed the shouts no more,
Nor wake at dawn to battle roar,
For those silent warders of our shore—
Wear a Poppy!

For the men who march today in pride
For that unseen army by their side,
For warriors brave who dared and died —
Wear a Poppy!

Another Costly Windstorm

In the wake of a severe ice-and-wind storm Tuesday, the highways presented a sorry sight, with trees snapped, poles laid low, and power and telephone lines mown down. The utility companies have had their crews busily at work repairing the damage and restoring the circuits.

Outside Russel Rodgers' establishment on the road from the station yard to Main Street, a big tree was torn down, just where Mr. Rodgers' car had been parked a few minutes previously. Ice-covered limbs and brush were strewn over the streets and properties all over town.

Request Donations for Scouts' Toy-Repair Shop

The Lachute Boy Scouts are operating a Toy Repair Shop this year, in the Giles apartment building. Any unwanted toys, games, books, dolls or stuffed animals would be gratefully received. These may be given to Scoutmaster Basil Riddell, Assistant Scoutmaster Fred Stansfield, or any member of the troop.

The Scouts intend to repair the broken toys and hand them out to underprivileged children on Christmas Eve.

Chamber of Commerce Renews Activities

An executive meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, under chairmanship of President Dr. R. Dumais, was held at the Gatineau Power offices Monday evening, primarily to arrange for the first general assembly of the season and election of officers, to take place at the Hotel Laurentien on November 22 in the form of a supper gathering.

The officers expressed gratification over the recent introduction of a 3-cent drop-letter rate for local mail—an improvement which the Chamber has been agitating for several years past. (In reporting this innovation last week, The Watchman omitted to refer to the Chamber's continued efforts to procure this uniform town postal rate).

Auspicious Occasion at Morin Heights, Opening Ceremonies at New Int. School

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — November 2 will be recorded as another page in the history of Morin Heights with the official opening of the new Protestant School.

Commencing at 5 p.m. with a supper (arranged by the Women's Institute, under convenership of Mrs. Fred Watchorn and Mrs. T. E. Seale) 62 guests were entertained before the main ceremonies were held. After supper the chairman of the Protestant School Board, Willis Seale, thanked the W.I. ladies for the capable manner in which they had handled the arrangements.

A past-chairman, J. D. Davis, made a few appropriate remarks regarding the educational advancement of Morin Heights, and referred to old days, when the water pail and mug for drinking purposes were kept on the old box stove. (Later Mrs. Davis, by way of reminiscence, recalled that it was not so many years ago that the present chairman of the board was going to school and was responsible for knocking down the stovepipes.) The Mayor and County Warden, Chas. D. Campbell, also interjected a little humor; in the old days, he recollected, they would put the frozen ink wells on the box stove and watch them pop and splash on the ceiling, making marks thereon.

At 8 p.m. when the auditorium was opened for the main ceremonies, the school chairman in his remarks read a telegram from Premier Maurice Duplessis regretting his inability to be present, and also one from the Minister of Education.

Mr. Blakely, the principal, was called upon to speak. He stressed the fact that to be able to impart full educational knowledge to the pupils, it was necessary to have the proper atmosphere, and since the commencement of this present school term, the pupils themselves had reacted favorably to their new surroundings. The school choir, under the direction of Shirley McKyes, Director of Music for Argenteuil Protestant Schools, rendered vocal numbers. Mr. F. H. J. Royal, Superintendent of Schools for the Central Board, gave an interesting account of the work accomplished in the schools of the County. Councillor (Prof.) R. E. Jamieson, of the Faculty of Engineering, McGill University, stated that from the primary schools came those who desired higher education at the universities, and the better facilities at the primary schools made better students for the universities. Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., chairman of the Central Protestant School Board, spoke of the tremendous amount of work necessary before a project such as this new school could be completed, and said the local board deserved much credit in bringing it to fruition. Mr. Leslie Buzzel, of the Montreal Protestant School Board, was then asked to introduce the main speaker of the evening, which he did in a very able manner, calling upon Dr. W. P. Percival, Director of Protestant Education for the Province of Quebec.

Lachute Featured In Special Edition

In a recent issue of the Ottawa Journal a special section was devoted to the industrial development and possibilities of Western Quebec, and it is gratifying to note a full page devoted to Lachute, with a brief outline given of the early settlement and steady growth of this town. An invitation is also extended to new industries to establish in this locality — various articles enumerating the advantages available here. According to the last census, Lachute has a population of over 6,000, but added to this are a great number living "next door" in Chatham and St. Jerusalem, who find employment and also enjoy practically all the civic amenities of the town.

The Chambre de Commerce, whose retiring president is Dr. R. A. Dumais, is keenly interested in the welfare and growth of the community, and in co-operation with the town council, with Jas. W. McGibbon as mayor, there is every promise that Lachute will forge ahead with its neighboring towns and cities in this section.

The Brownsburg Cenotaph — Its Condition and Care

A committee has been engaged for some time considering some manner of perpetuating the memories of the lads who went over and did not come back, in Brownsburg's contribution to Canada's fight for freedom in the last war. This committee is composed of some of the lads who went over and came back . . . this fact alone is a reflection on the citizens of this village, and their undischarged obligations to the men who died so that we might continue the even tenor of our lives in peace and freedom.

This week a ceremony will be held at the Cenotaph erected in memory and containing the names of those who gave their lives in World War I. The ground around the memorial tablet will be cleaned of weeds and brush, and a hasty attempt made to attain some semblance of care before this celebration is held. The various organizations will place wreaths on the steps . . and then turn away for another year, when the same careless procedure will be repeated.

Many of those who attend this ceremony will carry an aching heart and a poignant memory of someone dear to them who gave his all in the last war, but no outward mark will record his name at the altar before which they will pray — because the deeds and the deaths of those lads are not enshrined in the present Cenotaph at Brownsburg.

It is difficult to write calmly of this matter. In fact, at this time it were perhaps better not to write at all. . . Place the blame where you may — but Brownsburg ought to be ashamed of itself.

Traffic Light

That mechanical traffic controller was taken out and re-dusted in a discussion at a recent Council meeting, and it reverted back to normal afterwards. It had been out of order for a time, during which the manufacturers offered to replace it and $800 with a new one. This offer was not accepted by the Council and now that it was again in operation, the Mayor favored its use as "cautionary" rather than in its full capacity as a direction for traffic. He was upheld in this view by Councillors Carriere and Charbonneau. Councillor Ouellette would have none of it. Operating the light on "caution" would cause chaos and result in numerous accidents, in his opinion, and who was going to pay for those accidents? Councillor Charbonneau was equally insistent on the other view, in which everybody kept going, but cautiously, and no one stopped on the slippery pavement. . .

This see-saw continued for a time, until Secretary Emile Hebert read a letter from the secretary of the Protestant School Commission which clinched the matter. Mr. G. Scudamore pointed out in his letter that a cautionary light was only legal when used against traffic on a by-road entering the stream of traffic on a main highway, and that intersectional traffic as controlled by this light should be alternating "stop" and "go". The Commissioners had devoted much time to the training of school children to observe the light and abide by its implied direction. The signal colors were universal in application and recognized in all places where lights were used, and the present "flasher" or cautionary light but served to confuse the children and was a definite hazard to their safety. . . The decision: Stop on the "Red".

Sidewalks

There is always a new angle on the sidewalks — and possibly there will be further new angles till the whole village is completed. Messrs. Geo. Donaldson and Geo. Helmer appeared before the meeting to protest the action of the Council in rushing to completion a sidewalk in front of their properties without making adequate provision for an entry to their garages. Mr. Donaldson wanted a ramp to allow his truck to mount an eight-inch elevation, and considered senseless the running of the sidewalk across a vacant space left for the building of a new street. Mr. Helmer objected to the elevation of the sidewalk in front of his home, which was augmented by quantities of drift gravel washed down and not removed before the asphalt and the sidewalk were built. Half-Frozen Youth Found in Bush

Montfort — Crawling on hands and knees in a weakened condition and half frozen, a 19-year-old hunter was found in the bush five miles south of Montfort Monday night after a 24-hour search. He was reported recovering from his ordeal.

Girard Chartier, son of Bruno Chartier, of Montfort, set out early Sunday with Fred Backman and his son, Montfort residents. They drove two miles into the bush in a truck, then separated to hunt, agreeing to meet at the truck at 3 p.m.

When young Chartier failed to return, the staff of the Montfort Orphanage organized a search party, with villagers and the father and brothers of the missing youth. Late Sunday night they found tracks showing that Chartier had fallen on his face and hands, at a spot about four miles from the village. On Monday the search was resumed and the stricken hunter was found at 10 p.m.

Detective Merrill Lawton, of Montreal, and Traffic Officer Howard Jones, of Lachute, acted for the Provincial Police on the search.

Young Technical Student Excels

Jacques Paquette, 18-year-old son of Roland and Mrs. Paquette, received an award recently for distinction and highest standing in his technical class at the "Ecole des Meubles", Montreal. Jacques has been studying cabinet-making in a two-year course at this school, and the products of his workmanship prove him an excellent craftsman.

The school exercises were attended by Monsignor E. Frenette, new Bishop of St. Jerome, who made the presentation to Paquette. This young man is now working at the cabinet-making trade in his father's woodworking plant on Hope Street.

Change in Proprietorship At West End Hotel

Joseph Joly, proprietor of the Hotel Joly, Main Street West, has sold his establishment to Laval Bouchard, of Montreal, who takes over the proprietorship immediately.

Mr. Joly, who completely renovated the old hostelry to provide comfortable accommodation and good food in modern surroundings, is relinquishing the hotel to take over a tourist establishment in the city. His enterprising spirit has won friendship and good custom, and acquaintances wish him equal success in his new venture.

Two Drowned in Lake at Montfort

A verdict of accidental death was given by Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur here Monday night, in the drowning of James Whidden, 50, of the Town of Mount Royal, and Edward McCracken, 54, of Verdun, in Lake St. Francis Xavier, at Montfort, Que.

It is reported that the two men, who own summer cottages at Lake St. Francis, started out in an open boat on Saturday to attempt to recover a second boat, which had broken away and was adrift. They also planned to bring back a load of wood to Mr. McCracken's cottage. While the men were on the lake, a fierce snowstorm blew up, and the weight of the load caused the boat to capsize. The bodies were recovered Monday by Det. M. Lawton, of Montreal, and Officer Howard Jones, of Lachute. The victims had drowned in four feet of water where the boat had overturned and stuck on ice eight feet from shore.

Mr. McCracken, who was a civil engineer, is survived by his wife. Mr. Whidden is survived by his wife and a daughter, Kathleen. Both families had been visiting Montfort for six years.

The bodies were brought here to Rolland Menard's funeral parlors, and were sent to Montreal for burial following the coroner's inquiry.

Variety Session At Lions Club

The vagaries of the weather — and consequent illness of the scheduled speaker — turned the regular Lions Club meeting into a variety session; the program Tuesday night at Joly's Hotel was replete with business, entertainment and good fellowship.

The intended speaker was Clary Booth, president of the M.A.A.A.; the intended topic, "Sports in General". In consequence, the guests numbered several directors of the local "Jeunesse Sportive", baseball promoters and others active in sports organization. . . "Lion of the Day" was L. J. Joly, hotelman, who also had as his guests various colleagues in the hotel business of this town.

Lion Ian Gordon paid tribute to "Joe" as a progressive citizen, baseball enthusiast, and collaborator in the Lions Club. Horace Lamarche also voiced the Lions' appreciation to Mr. Joly, and wished him success in a new enterprise which he is undertaking in Montreal.

Appreciative letters were read by Secretary Don Hay, and charitable appeals were dealt with. Organization for this season's four "repeater bingos" was officially launched by Phil Roy, chairman.

Police Chief Villeneuve, in the affable role of Tail Twister, conducted a contest, and Leo Tessier was the winner of a sparkling award donated by Lion Joly.

Chairman of these assorted proceedings was President Ralph FitzGerald, while Jim Lowe filled the blanks in the program with a variety turn, staged by Aurele Desjardins and three of his family — home-trained musicians, tap dancers and acrobats. Clément Tremblay voiced the thanks of the club, and tendered a donation to encourage this family in their talent.

High School on Radio

Lachute High School will be on the airwaves in a newly inaugurated CFCF school broadcast heard on Sundays from 2.15 to 3 p.m. Date for the local presentation (to be previously tape-recorded here at the High School) is Sunday, November 18.

The program will include a pupils' debate, a drama reading, singsong by the Glee Club and Junior Choir, instrumental numbers, and probably a teacher-pupil discussion. . . Many local listeners, including the High School pupils themselves, will be interested to hear this presentation in its broadcast form.

Three teachers from the Argenteuil - Two Mountains central unit — Principal F. Royal, Mr. S. McKyes and Mrs. Harris of St. Eustache — have also been invited to CFCF studios in Montreal to record another feature for broadcasting, namely an interview on the School Music Festival. This will be heard in a Saturday afternoon Home and School radio program, from 1.15 to 1.30 p.m.

Gatineau LINES

Voltage Drops

In any territory where the demand for electric power is increasing as quickly as is the case in the area served by Gatineau Power, it is inevitable that sometimes the demand will exceed the ability of the power company to install new lines, new transformers and new equipment fast enough to take care of the situation. Throughout this summer, Gatineau Power has been making every effort to catch up with the demands of its customers so that excessive voltage drops will be a thing of the past.

In this respect, the problem of the Power Company is quite different from — for instance — the problem of a Telephone Company. Since the phones can only be installed by the Telephone Company, it is able to limit the loading of its circuits until there are sufficient available.

It is not so for a Power Company. A Power Company brings power to a new customer. The customer installs electric lights and begins using a small quantity of power, then he begins to realize all the advantages of electric service and installs other equipment using electricity to pump his water, cool his food, cook his meals, wash and iron his clothes, clean his house, operate his dairy, etc., without previously advising the Power Company of his requirements. The electrical customer can add to his demands for power and overload the facilities of the Power Company to the point where the service deteriorates.

For the Power Company, it means a constant race against time to increase facilities fast enough to keep even with the new demands being made.

Customers can do much to help their power company — and improve their own service—by doing two things:

(1) They can warn the company in advance whenever they are installing additional electrical equipment. This gives the company a better chance to meet the increased demand BEFORE it occurs rather than AFTER.

(2) They can keep the nearest office of the power company informed as to exactly Where and When voltage drops occur. Such information is of considerable help in planning to eliminate the trouble in the most effective manner. At the same time, it might be pointed out that once the load becomes so heavy that voltage drops occur, the trouble is often something which cannot be eliminated overnight. It takes time to build, ship and install the heavy equipment necessary to complete the job.

In the midst of the Royal Tour the Duke of Edinburgh took the throttle of one of the Canadian Pacific Railway's giant "Selkirk" locomotives, largest in the British Empire, for the steep pull up Notch Hill in the Canadian Rockies. In the pose of a typical railroader, Prince Philip is shown here in the cab of the locomotive at the end of the run.

Seasonal Farm Topics

Southern States Market For Farm Produce

Canadian seed potatoes are highly regarded in the southern section of the United States, and often command a premium in price over seed from other sources. There also appears to be a good Canadian table potatoes, apples, rutabagas, cheese, bacon and ham, rutabagas, chese, bacon and ham, beef and, possibly, for eggs of high quality. While cities in Texas, and probably Louisiana, obtain sufficient beef from within their own states to meet the needs of consumers, the production of beef is not sufficient to meet the demands of urban population in most of the other southern states.

Dairying Featured in Display at "Royal"

Ottawa — The dairy industry of Canada will be the theme of an exhibit by the Canada Department of Agriculture at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair in Toronto, which opens November 13. The 75-foot-long exhibit will feature demonstrations and displays of dairy products, including powdered and condensed milk, butter and cheese, showing their production and uses. Home economists and dairy inspectors will provide information. The Department will also have an information centre stocked with departmental publications on all phases of agriculture, and a smaller exhibit on improved varieties of cereal grain.

The exhibits will be immediately adjoining the Royal Theatre. Inside the theatre will be a continuous showing of the department's new color motion picture, "Milk-Made", a screen coverage of the Canadian dairy industry, how it grew to its present highly mechanized, high-quality expansive operation. "Milk-Made" will be given its premiere showing at the Towne Cinema in Toronto on November 12, the day before the Royal opens. Afterwards it will go to the nationwide rural circuits of the National Film Board.

Fine Cattle Show For Winter Fair

Toronto (CP) — Meat-hungry Canadians, frustrated by the soaring cost-of-living, will see enough steaks, roasts, chops and hams on the hoof to set their mouths watering, when they visit the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, November 13-21.

On show in the 26 acres of buildings at the world's biggest agricultural show will be prize beef cattle which would gross about 2,000,000 pounds on the butcher's scales.

In addition, for those who don't like a straight beef diet, there are thousands and thousands of pounds of pork, lamb and poultry. If you're a vegetarian, the fair can look after you, too.

It appears, though, that the price of meat hasn't got Canadians desperate yet, because fair officials say nobody has ever tried to rustle a steer. If anybody did take it into his mind, he would get more than 1,000 pounds of beef — enough for a year's steak eating. Don't try it though. Those prairie cattlemen have a way with cattle thieves.

Total subsidies paid by all governments in Canada increased from $300,000,000 in 1942 to $950,000,000 in 1949.

Dangerous Flying

Ottawa — Greater initiative by the public and law enforcement officers is being shown in backing up the efforts of Civil Aviation authorities in their campaign to prevent dangerous and low flying over thickly populated areas. In a recent case of dangerous flying in the vicinity of East York, Ont., both civilians and police reported the incident to the Department, together with the registration markings of the aircraft. As a result the pilot was located and appeared in East York Magistrate's Court charged with infractions of the Air Regulations with respect to low and dangerous flying. The pilot was fined $100 or 30 days, despite the fact that he pleaded he was testing his aircraft which had been brought to a Toronto airport for minor rigging adjustments.

Department of Transport Air Services officials expressed appreciation over the co-operation shown by both the public and law enforcement officers in reporting this particular case of infraction of Canada's Air Regulations.

HUGE STEER YIELDS 1,448 POUNDS BEEF

Edmonton (CP) — A giant roan steer, raised near Pigeon Lake, Alta., sold here recently, weighed 2,450 pounds and sold for $661 at 27 cents a pound.

Dressed out at 59 per cent, the big steer yielded 1,448 pounds of beef. In Great Britain this would equal the week's meat ration for more than 8,000 people.

The marketing service of the Canada department of agriculture reported the sale. It said the steer had been used as an ox and lack of yoke callouses indicated a Dutch collar had been used.

Reminiscing on Remembrance Day

WILL THE Day of Remembrance pass into the realm of tradition? Will it become simply another "holiday"? Or will the ideals that first inspired that day not only remain, but become a foundation for daily living through the nation?

To a younger generation, the men and women that passed through 1914 to 1918 may be but historic figures. Admittedly, they were very human, sometimes exhibiting weaknesses or even becoming the prey of unwholesome passions. But deep in the heart of each one of them was a spark of idealism — love of country, a sense of right and wrong, the glimmer of a new world, fear-free, greed-free, hate-free.

Our nation united with others had, at that first Remembrance Day, passed through a superhuman effort. The sacrifices had been appalling, but at that time the belief was, "It was not in vain". Then, remembering the lives that had been given, the faces that would not be seen again, heads were bowed in a new determination to make the qualities that sustained the nations through those days real and enduring.

Today the torch is passed along — the battle is still on. In subtler forms the material forces of fear, greed and hate are planning to subdue and enslave the world. Each individual has his place in the battle-line, because that battle-line is not only on some foreign field but runs through every heart, every home and every industry in our country.

Someone has said, "As I live, so lives my nation". We in Canada still enjoy the freedom as individuals to live by absolute moral standards and the guidance of God. So on this Remembrance Day as heads are bowed again in silence, each one may accept and be rededicated to the inspired task of rebuilding the world for which our heroes died.

Quoting Impressions on Royal Tour

WHAT suggestions for the next Royal Tour? The Financial Post asked a group of experienced citizens. Unanimously, they urged less formalism, a severe whittling down of state occasions. Let our royal visitors see much more of "the real Canada and Canadians"; don't subject them to such a rigorous schedule is the theme of most replies. As one respondent, a woman reporter on the royal train, put it: "let's treat our royal visitors like human beings, with consideration for their feelings and wishes".

An impression of the severe demands placed upon the Royal couple was given in one broadcast by CBC commentator Thom Benson which, among all the ringside commentaries on the Royal Tour, is notable as an example of human understanding. It contains some paragraphs which might well rank among the classic chronicles of this event. Following are a few extracts:

"It's a long way from Quebec to Victoria. . . The distance is inestimable when each stop along the way is crammed to the last second with official greetings and public appearances. . .

"In the frantic search for new angles and new headlines, the newspapermen, the photographers, the radio people, have forgotten that Canada is in fact entertaining Royalty. Their copy has read like something you might expect would emerge from a publicity seeking jaunt of a Hollywood pin-up girl. . . We are inclined to pout if the Princess doesn't smile—we criticize if she doesn't speak — if, at some untimely moment she is looking the other way, then we are personally affronted. . .

"Prince Philip slipped away by himself last night in Vancouver. He mixed for nearly an hour with the officers in the wardroom of HMCS Discovery. He met, and talked over old times with Captain Donald Smith, whom he served under on the Empress of Asia. He laughed and chatted with Commodore Maurice Mayall, who was Captain of the Empress of Russia in 1941 when the Duke was a Sub-Lieutenant.

"And, what of the Princess. Well . . there are not many Princesses around to mingle and visit with. None in the world who will someday be Queen of a vast Commonwealth. . .

"This young matron — she is only twenty-five, remember — has been schooled in the rigid Royal tradition. The responsibilities of the crown which will some time in the future rest upon her head, are heavy ones. That she carries those responsibilities not lightly is not only to her personal credit, but a tribute to the royal lineage from whence she sprang. A family whose words and deeds — their every action, was and is motivated by one thought only — Duty.

"It is the duty of the Princess, too, to stand patiently and have presented to her thousands of officials and dignitaries, 90% of whom she couldn't possibly have the slightest interest in. Always, during these ceremonies she is gracious — but, not always is she smiling. Oh, the smile comes quickly enough when she is meeting the people she came to Canada to meet — the loyal subjects who are not, and never will be, clothed in robes of office. Moments like these bring a ready smile — and a radiance that is almost breath-taking.

"We have seen them both smiling when their hands must have ached from a thousand handshakes. We have seen them share a quick glance of understanding when some little thing has gone awry at an official function. . . . We have seen the Princess deeply touched when twenty thousand Quebec school children shouted their hearts out in a demonstration that blurred even my eyes.

"Let us always remember that she is a Princess — our Princess. . . As she passes by — and we feel that strange stirring in our hearts — let us glance quickly back through the centuries to the legions of dead who have strewn the paths of the Kings and Queens of England with daggers and roses. . . The Princess — Elizabeth — is a blood descendent of the Stuarts, the Hanovers and the Windsors — the heiress in spirit to the thrones of the Tudors, the Plantagenets and the Norman and Saxon Kings. . .

"She is a true Princess. Let us pay her the homage due a Royal Princess — and let us pledge our loyalty so long as the sun shall shine on Canada, and our mighty rivers run down to a mightier sea."

Proclamation

The four days, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, November 8 to 11, have been set aside as Poppy Days in Lachute, in a proclamation issued by Mayor James W. McGibbon. The proclamation urges all citizens to observe Armistice Day by wearing Memorial Poppies in honor of those who gave their lives in the two world wars. The formal proclamation is as follows:

WHEREAS the men and women gave their lives in defence of Canada and the democratic world in World War I and in World War II;

AND WHEREAS the memory of their services and sacrifice is a source of inspiration to all citizens as our nation faces new difficulties and dangers;

AND WHEREAS this memory is kept ever bright by the annual wearing of Memorial Poppies in their honor, and the honor of all other Canadians who died in World War service;

NOW THEREFORE, as Mayor of this town, I do hereby proclaim November 8 to 11 to be Poppy Days in Lachute, and urge all citizens to observe this day by wearing a Memorial Poppy.

Mayor.

The Cheerful Mood

"A cheerful mood at meals induces a normal flow of gastric juices.
So if you eat while frolicsome it will relieve your colic some."

This verse is a quotation, friends
I do not know who said it —
There's truth in every line.
Whoever did, it's obvious
That we should give him credit.

(The second verse is mine).
So just remember this, you sinner,
When you sit down to eat your dinner,
For many a malignant tumor
Is conquered by a sense of humor!
So now you know dear friends who read,
What is the purpose of this screed.
Cheer up! You can go any place
If you but wear a smiling face.

Escape from Winter

The countryside is bleak and dreary,
The cityside is dreak and bleary,
The clouds are full of snow.
The trees, that in July were greenish
Are now all sere and hallowe'enish,
And I am full of woe.
Their foliage has vanished, mostly,
Their naked limbs are black and ghostly
Against a sombre sky.
The birds have made their wise decision
To leave this land for fields Elysian,
And I am going to cry.
Perhaps some day a great inventor
Whose mind is very much off-centre
Will rescue all mankind
In Northern latitudes residing
By putting them away in hiding.
Here's what he'd have in mind.
Some sort of human filing-system —
(I'd even offer to assist him
And give him sound advice
Without the slightest hesitation)
On his suspended animation
Of folks detesting ice
And snow, with cold and Arctic breezes
That penetrate one's wool chemises
And freeze one's marrow-bones,
And then, when Springtime started perking
His antidote would get to working
And wake up all the drones
Who then would cease their hibernating
And act like chickens incubating
To gambol on the green
And squeal with glee among the bowers
Of rhododet-me-nots and flowers
That make the vernal scene.
Of course, I could go in for skiing
Were I a normal human being,
Which I confess I'm not.
I spend the gloomy winter hating
Tobogganing and figure-skating
And all that kind of rot.
Were I to drink carbolic acid
Serene I'd be, and very placid
From Michaelmas to Lent.
Then when Spring came, No!
On reflection, that plan would have
One strong objection.
It's too damned permanent!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

The following letter received by The Watchman from Mrs. Eva (Bradford) Beckett will be of interest, not only to local friends of Mr. and Mrs. Beckett, but for its description of the current scene and surroundings in Churchill, Manitoba.

Churchill, Manitoba.
November 1, 1951.

Mr. J. S. Giles, Publisher,
The Lachute Watchman.

I would like to say "thank you" to the editorial staff of The Watchman for the very kind write-up given me on the front page of a recent issue. I was happy to know that you had liked my article in the current issue of the Canadian Geographical Journal, and I can assure you that the commendation of my home town paper warms my heart in a way that nothing else can.

We are still in the northland and winter is once more upon us here — real winter with plenty of snow, and ice a foot thick. Actually we are glad to see this good thick ice, as our drinking water supply depends on it from the time of freeze-up (about Thanksgiving) until we can again have water pumped through the over-ground pipes next summer. Ice is being harvested at present on a lake about three miles out of town, and it is rather comical to see the great pyramids of it going up at every kitchen door throughout the town. You can pretty well judge the size of family within, by the size of the ice pyramid at the door.

This has been a good season in the north. The summer was delightful and the wild flowers and fruits surpassed anything I have ever seen here. It was a busy season too, with more activity than ever along the waterfront and the number of tourists reaching an all-time high.

My husband joins with me in sending to you and your staff our greetings and good wishes. We expect to go south — to Fort William — in time for Christmas.

Yours sincerely, Eva Beckett.

Shows Canada Can Absorb More People

Contrary to the dire predictions in certain circles, we have absorbed a big new flow of people this year without any disturbance to our economy, points out The Financial Post. There has been no increase in unemployment. Instead it has shrunk steadily. Native-born Canadians have not lost their jobs to the newcomers. Instead more new jobs have been opened with benefit to new and native Canadians alike.

Since the war, however, and especially in the last 18 months, it has been demonstrated that we can handle a very substantial flow of new people. It has also been demonstrated that we need and will benefit from such a flow.

More suitable people from over the Atlantic will give us a greater domestic market for the products we are finding it more difficult to export to Britain and continental Europe. More people with more skills and ideas will help us develop our own resources and give us a still higher standard of living. More people will help us carry the very high burden of overhead in a country where distances are vast and transportation, defence and similar national costs are necessarily heavy.

STRESSES INFLUENCE OF HOSPITAL TRUSTEE

Regina (CP) — Perfect teamwork between trustees and administrators is necessary to provide the best hospital service, says Judge J. M. George, president of the Associated Hospitals of Manitoba.

Trustees are the keystone of hospital organization, he said in an address here, but one of the greatest weaknesses in the hospital structure is that too many unqualified people are becoming trustees.

A trustee is one of the greatest assets any community can have because he is a voluntary worker. But trustees must face facts and know their own limitations.

One fault common to many hospital trustee boards is their failure to recognize changes which are of great importance to hospitals. This is unfair to patients.

"It is service to the patient we are trying to give", he says. "We must all remember this".

Farm Forums' Rally

in other provinces. It must represent the English-speaking farmers of Quebec, which is not necessary in other provinces where this is more naturally the function of other organizations. To do this with wisdom and efficiency, it is necessary to use our best efforts to increase our own knowledge of questions affecting farm welfare, and the best instrument for doing this is the small discussion group.

The Quebec Association of Farm Forums now stands on its own feet. It operates independently of any organization or institution, yet it is affiliated with the whole farm movement of Canada and it is making its own peculiar and significant contribution towards it. The success, however, depends upon the support of the individual members. Listening alone, studying alone, discussing alone, is not enough. Without action, the Farm Forum Movement would wither and die. It should be action based on knowledge, rather than ignorance.

The speaker assured his audience that the whole resources of Macdonald College were behind them in their efforts. The Adult Education Service with its Information Centre, Travelling Libraries, etc., existed for no other purpose. The facilities for training were always at the disposal of the organization. The role of the College, however, was not one of direction in any sense, but purely of assistance.

Dr. Brittain was cordially thanked by Alex Bothwell, the county agronomist.

New Morin Hts. School

In his remarks, Dr. Percival stated that this was the 38th school which had been erected by the present government of Quebec, and that while some of the expense in connection with this school may have to be undertaken by the taxpayers, it was to their advantage to have a school of a more up-to-date pattern and one which could be turned to advantage to a High School, if necessary; and he considered that the date was not far distant when this would be an accomplished fact in Morin Heights, as the centralization of education was of great benefit to the pupil attending school.

Mr. Carl Seale then suitably thanked Dr. Percival for his address, and after the chairman's closing remarks and singing of the national anthem, the assembly adjourned to the refreshment hall, where refreshments were served.

INGENIOUS BIN

Willingdon, Alta. (CP) — Sam Huculak solved his grain storage problem. He stored 9,000 bushels of oats in a temporary bin, built from snow fences on his farm.

Sunday School Teachers' Training Course

All Sunday School teachers and prospective teachers are reminded of the Continuation Course to be held at Maple Avenue Baptist Church, Brownsburg, on Tuesday, November 13, at 8 p.m. It is expected a team from Montreal will come to demonstrate teaching. Mrs. F. T. Webb will conduct the Primary Class, Miss Daisy MacNeil the Junior Class, and Mrs. W. J. Baxter the Senior Class.

consequence his property was now relatively far below the position it occupied when he purchased it.

Mayor H. Pariseau said he understood both these citizens were present while the road was being asphalted and the sidewalk laid, and they made no effort to put forward a case against the way it was being done. He had sought legal advice and now held that ramps or entries (on either side of the sidewalk — the road or the property) — were the responsibility of the proprietor and must be paid for by him. The Council would have the work done if that was desired, but the owner would discharge the cost.

Mr. Donaldson pointed out where the Council had broken a sidewalk and remade it at the demand of a proprietor to provide a suitable entry. The Mayor replied he knew this was so, but it was a mistake. He did not know what consideration guided the Council, but it was a mistake, and one that was not going to be repeated.

Overnight Parking

An old by-law which prohibited parking on the streets overnight from November 1 to April 30 was determinedly attacked by Councillor Ouellette as inflicting a hardship on car owners who called to visit or on business. The Chief of Police asked for a ruling on this, as he was at present issuing warnings that this law had to be obeyed. Councillor N. Somers explained that the by-law was for the purpose of clearing the streets, so that a lot of expensive equipment for the removal of snow would not be rendered useless by being obstructed by parked cars. Councillor Ouellette provided a dozen reasons to prove the law was not necessary and was a hardship, but the Mayor was adamant and called the next business. No parking on the streets overnight, from November 1, remains law in Brownsburg.

At Last

Leo. Paquette asked Councillor Ball to convey to the assembly his thanks for the manner in which the Council had attended to the matter of diverting the water from his property. It was a very good job. The Mayor remarked: "Well, that's a change!"

Manners for Tiny Tots

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"Hearts like doors, open with ease
With very, very little keys.
Remember dear, that two of these Are "Thank you, Sir!" and
"If you please!".

It is a lot easier to encourage a small child to memorize this little rhyme than it is to impress on him the fundamental rules of etiquette! Teaching manners to a tiny tot is no easy job — or to an older child either!

Parents must somehow tread the middle path between being too strict and being too lax. They have to shut their eyes to many small happenings, which are not worth fussing over, and at the same time not allow their child to act in a boorish fashion. But from the very first it is important that mother and dad do something about courtesy in the home and what lies behind good manners.

Courtesy, like charity, does begin at home. Instruction in good manners cannot be postponed until a child is ready for school. At a very early age, children are observing their parents and the other members in the family, and copying their ways.

It is unreasonable to expect the same standard of politeness from a child as from an adult. But parents, realizing the importance of good manners, are eager that their child should make gradual progress in courtesy, which has been called "the happy way of doing things".

True courtesy springs from qualities of the mind and heart — good sense, imagination, sympathy and generosity. It is not an external thing to be put on or off like a coat. "A man can never be a true gentleman in manner until he is a true gentleman at heart", Charles Dickens once said. Lord Chesterfield made this discerning comment: "Politeness is perfect ease and freedom. It simply consists in treating others just as you love to be treated." This is just another way of saying that the Golden Rule in action is seen in the lives of courteous people.

Small children who are asking innumerable questions every day, are likely to question the necessity of small courtesies. Mother may just explain, "This is the way polite people do this". Or she may answer a specific question with one definite reason — but only one. Mother should not be lured into a long, drawn-out argument!

When a child is in the lower grades in public school, he may go through a trying, boisterous, rude stage. His chums are very important to him and he may be copying what they do. Perhaps it is smart to be rude in the code of his gang. By yelling, or using naughty words, or being saucy, he is asserting his own independence.

Too much notice should not be given to the child's behaviour — nor should he get away with too much. One mother who disliked the amount of racket her son made, insisted that loud noises belonged with outside play. If he just had to make such a commotion he had to go outdoors for his fun. Another mother removed herself into another part of the house, saying, "Johnny, I am going into the living room. When you feel like being good company, come in with me."

There is no point in being too upset about any one rude action or remark. Learning to be considerate and get along with others is a long slow process. But parents can feel confident that their example will not be lost. This is far more effective than strict rules or painstaking coaching.

Courteous, well-adjusted young men and women who leave home to go away to study or work come from happy homes where mother and dad were courteous to each other, to their children — and their children's friends!

A Modern Town In Northern Bush

Kapuskasing, Ont. (CP) — This community — "Kap" to its citizens and neighbors — is a modern town raised by the paper industry from the bush and boulders of the northland, 80 miles northwest of Timmins.

Main employment for its 5,000 citizens is the Spruce Falls Power and Paper Company. It is said that papermakers earn $3.35 an hour and a man with a broom can make $1.65 an hour.

Apart from the modern hotel and a choice of theatres, the citizens have built themselves a spacious two-storey brick community hall and a large arena. There are also half a dozen churches, a nine-hole golf course and an airport.

Home-building flourishes on an attractive town plan.

"Sure we're in the bush", agrees Mayor Alex Stevenson, who has lived here 22 years, "but I think we have all the entertainment and sports activities that anyone could wish.

"I've watched it grow from nothing to one of the most up-to-date communities anywhere. We have facilities comparable to, and maybe better than, any other town of this size."

The town of Kapuskasing, planned to hold its citizens by satisfying their needs, was a happy choice for a restful 18-hour stop by Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh on their tour of Canada.

In Puccini's Opera "La Boheme"

In the first performance by the CBC Opera Company three years ago, soprano Mary Morrison sang the role of Mimi, the little seamstress in Puccini's opera "La Boheme". On Wednesday, November 14, at 8 p.m. on Trans-Canada, the CBC opera company will again perform "La Boheme", the internationally-popular love story set in the Latin Quarter of Paris in the 1840's. Once again Mary sings Mimi, Jimmie Shields is Rodolfo and Nicholas Goldschmidt conducts the CBC chorus and orchestra. The opera will be heard from the Toronto studios of the CBC, with production by Terence Gibbs.

How To Relax

By Lewis Milligan

I listened recently to a radio broadcast in which the speaker gave some advice to young sports enthusiasts on "How to Relax". He described a number of physical exercises that would enable them to avoid hypertension and have more freedom and precision of mind and action in their games and athletics. He told them they should practice deep breathing; that they should, before going into action, tense their muscles to the extreme and then suddenly relax them, and maintain that ease as much as possible in the course of their sports. This latter is doubtless good advice if you can live up to it, but as a one-time footballer (real football, not a free-for-all wrestling match) I could never relax till the game was over.

Relaxation is a lost art in these days. The world is suffering from individual, social and national hypertension. Modern man has become the slave of his mechanical devices, which, while they have eased his manual labor, have increased the pace of daily life to such an extent that he is out of breath trying to keep up with them. Everything is speeded up, not only in transportation, in manufacturing and business, but the pageant of human life throughout the world is flashed before us in an instant by radio and television. So that we have little or no time to relax, or to reflect upon what is happening. We jump to conclusions as we jump on a street car or an airplane, but the conclusions are usually in the wrong direction.

Looking backward, it seems to me that all this breakneck pace started with the First World War. It is true that we are apt to romanticize upon the past and picture the people back there as living leisurely and peaceful lives. They were not free from individual stress and strain in those days, and they had to work harder and longer for a living. But the pace of life was slower and there were not the urgency and high-pressure in private and public life that prevail today. They had their social and economic problems but they could not be fooled into believing that those could be solved overnight or over a year by a change of government. There were periodic wars and rumors of wars, but all wars in those days were in remote regions and there was no dread of their coming nearer home. Even in Britain, before the First World War, the people refused to believe the warning about the "German menace", and when I arrived in Canada the leading newspapers were scoffing at the very idea. The Toronto Globe carried a permanent daily editorial note: "Where is the German Menace now?" The Methodist Christian Guardian was so pacifist that it suggested the elimination of "Onward Christian Soldiers" from the hymn book.

The Kaiser changed all that when he ordered his armies to march through Belgium. Kipling recorded a fateful historic fact when he wrote at that time:

Our world has passed away,
In wantonness o'erthrown;
But steel and fire and stone.

Yes, the slow old world came to an end on August 4, 1914, and a new and impetuous world was born out of the travail of that conflict. The machine age, of course, began long before with the invention of the steam engine and the railway, which Dickens hated as the "monster" that slew the stage coach; and Ruskin declared was a blight on the peaceful English landscape. The story was told of an old farmer who, having seen a locomotive, took to his bed and died, deploring the advent of "them great horrid steam-kettles. . . The sooner I git out of this 'ere world the better." If that easy-going Victorian farmer were to wake up today and see the tractor and the clattering reaper in his fields, the motor cars whizzing along the highways, and the airplanes roaring overhead, he would drop dead on the spot.

POWERED FOR THE JOB
Four great engines! The 92-h.p. Thriftmaster, the big 105-h.p. Loadmaster, the massive 114-h.p. Torquemaster and the mighty 120-h.p. engine all deliver outstanding performance with remarkably low fuel and maintenance expense.

VALVE-IN-HEAD DESIGN
For 39 years, Chevrolet has built valve-in-head engines. No other manufacturer has built so many, just as no other truck-engine design can match the over-all economy and proved efficiency of Chevrolet's valve-in-head.

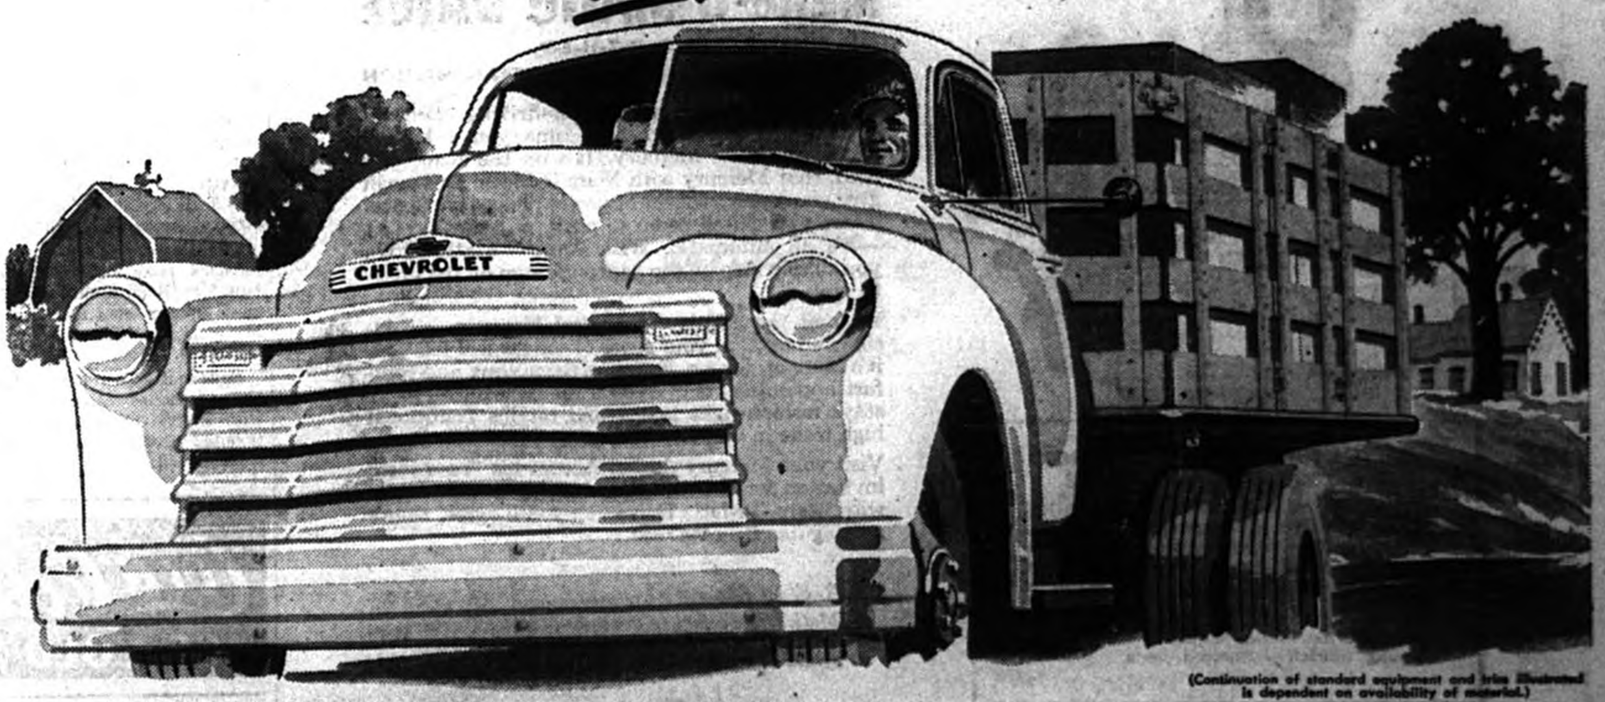

BLUE-FLAME COMBUSTION
Wrings all the usable energy from every drop of gasoline. Blue-Flame combustion is possible only with valve-in-head engine design — provides greater power and livelier performance, through more efficient utilization of fuel.

POWER-JET CARBURETOR
At low speed, on grades or at regular highway speeds, Chevrolet's Power-Jet carburetor maintains the proper fuel mixture for the engine. This, plus fast warm-up, smooth, quick response, means surprisingly low operating costs.

LONG LASTING BRAKES
The greater self-energization of Chevrolet hydraulic brakes provides smoother, safer braking — completely equalized pressure to each brake. This in turn assures full lining contact and longer wear — for the brakes on your truck.

BONDED BRAKE LININGS
No rivets! On light- and medium-duty models, the lining is bonded directly to brake shoes to increase life and to eliminate danger of scoring brake drums as lining wears. You get extra wear — safer brakes.

greater economy engineered in! ...to do more work for your money

(Continuation of standard equipment and trim illustrated is dependent on availability of material.)

Just take a look at the engineered-in economy features of Chevrolet trucks. Features like valve-in-head engine design, Blue-Flame combustion, Power-Jet carburetor, long lasting brakes and a host of others. All the vast engineering and manufacturing experience of Canada's largest truck builder is used to give you greater economy on the job.

And Chevrolet economy goes far beyond low operating costs. It means engines, chassis and cabs will stand up under rough, tough use month after month, year after year. It means building extra ruggedness and extra efficiency into Chevrolet trucks at lowest cost.

Every day, more and more truck users are switching to new Chevrolet trucks. Take a tip from these truck-wise buyers and get engineered-in economy and more work for your money.

The Most Sensational Man in League Hockey

Sometime this season Maurice (The Rocket) Richard will slam in the 324th goal of his NHL career and break Nels Stewart's all-time scoring record.

In the current issue of Maclean's Magazine, Trent Frayne explains an apparent chink in his armor: he never plays his best hockey on the Toronto Leafs' home ice. This has sometimes been attributed to a well-dressed female fan of the Leafs who always sits in the front rows and is said to enrage him with her persistent heckling. At times Richard himself has blamed the heat in the Maple Leaf Gardens and the vastness of the place. But his boss thinks his failure to shine in the Queen City is because he's too tense trying to make good in a city for which he has little affection as a hockey town.

But the Habs' Number 9 is so good that rival managers who would like to buy him are said to have offered as much as 135 thousand dollars — only to be told that money couldn't buy him. "Might as well give up half the Forum as contemplate a trade involving Richard", says his boss, Frank Selke. The Rocket is the highest-paid, best-loved and most-hated man in the League.

During the war some of his detractors said he only looked good because of the absence of opposition. But in the last two years the opposition was back in droves and he was good enough to score 85 goals and now those same critics agree he's good. He has a few records to prove it, including — total goals in a single season. (50, in 1944-45); the play-off record of five goals in a single game; the record of 12 goals in nine play-off games; five goals and three assists in a single regular-season game — at the Forum, naturally.

Frayne tells the story of Richard the scoring machine, Richard the hot-tempered man who picks a fight in the middle of a New York hotel lobby, and Richard the family man who grew despondent during a west coast tour because he was separated from his wife and three children.

Lest We Forget - - Remembrance Day

By M. V. Trayers, Brownsburg

There is nothing so vocal as silence. When we stand in silence before the Cenotaph, there is nothing we could say or do which speaks so eloquently, or carries so far, or is so pregnant with meaning, as the two minutes' silence.

As the great throb of civilization hushes and our busy everyday doings become enveloped in the vast stillness which pervades our senses, our minds exercise the command which marshals us into line with the untold legions of every village and town and city in Canada, with every state in the Union — yes, and across the sea — we stand beside the columned millions in Europe, in Asia and the other continents. We form line with Germans and Japs. Our thoughts are not of war or conquest, we are units of the Great Command.

In our ranks there also stand the disembodied spirits of all that have gone before. The smiling, happy, carefree boys and men who went and did not come back. Our lines stretch far, but those departed ones are in the ranks, hushed and silent as we are. We do not see them, but somewhere an aching heart is remembering. We do not speak to them, for they cannot speak. What is the need for speech? Our communion with the dead has ever been thus.

For two minutes we stand silent. What matter where we stand, the soil we tread has been sanctified by the blood of countless thousands who have fought and died that we might live. We may not see serried lines of comrades shoulder to shoulder before the wreath-strewn cenotaph. We may be many, or we may be alone. No matter where we are, we stand mute and silent. We are awaiting the notes of the bugle, as they who have gone before waited. We shall hear its call, but there are numberless millions for whom its tones are muted. What shall be its call? For us it will sound the "Dismiss" — for a time. To the others "who shall not grow old", its muted notes will sound "The Rally".

"Come home. Come home.
Red night o'er the dead in the valley.
They are lying around, face down to the ground.
And they can't hear me sound the 'Rally'.
When Gabriel sounds the 'Last Rally'."

We stand upon the threshold of another Armistice Day surrounded by wars and threats of war. Our minds are being attuned to greater, more terrible destruction. All thought of peace is discounted. Memory brings us back to that first Armistice Day, a few decades ago when we joyfully averred that the "great war to end all wars" had been brought to a triumphant and peaceful end. The great price we had to pay was symbolized by little white crosses "row on row". Not three crosses upon a hill in terrible testimony of the sins which we had committed. But an enormous forest of little white crosses, which are today crying out the same reproach upon us as does that earlier cross upon remote Calvary.

There a mother stood to receive a sacred pledge — a pledge which has been consummated. We too, on that first Armistice Day, gave a pledge witnessed by millions of mothers . . mothers who possessed a memory of a spirit that was once a son. All that our great victory gave them was a little patch of sod and a white cross. R.I.P. — "Rest in Peace" we bade them lie. Have we kept faith with those our faithful dead? Back of those tragic symbols of white crosses, row on row, stand a multitude of men. These are the dead. These are the boys and the girls of our village who gave all they had — their lives, so that we might live. Have they died in vain? Have we who profited by their death redeemed our pledge? This is our day of reckoning. As we stand before the Cenotaph they present us with their visible balance sheet. Just look at it. Let us raise our eyes to the Cenotaph that indicates the immensity of our undischarged obligations.

Remembrance Day. We in Brownsburg have not remembered. This Cenotaph neglected, uncared for, and unheeded except for this one day, is not a fulfilment of the pledge we gave. This Cenotaph was bequeathed to us by another generation, and there is nothing to proclaim the sacrifice that was made for us. They are not remembered by us. This is the balance sheet, and all that it illustrates is our undischarged obligations.

"WHIRLWIND" DRIVE FOR GREEK RELIEF

Ottawa (CP) — A "whirlwind" campaign in Flin Flon, Man., recently brought the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada $1,026 to buy flour for the famine-stricken areas of Northern Greece.

The Committee, in a statement released from headquarters, tells how Mrs. Basil Keddie of Flin Flon made up her mind to collect $1,000 in 10 days as her contribution to the cause.

Boys and girls collected $500 in a house-to-house canvass. In all, Flin Flon's 11,000 residents contributed $1,026 — and within the 10-day limit.

Recent Activities in Masonic Order

A recent church parade brought a large number of members of Argenteuil Lodge No. 67 to hear Rt. Wor. Bro. W. MacMillan, in the Presbyterian Church at St. Andrews East. An impressive sermon was given by the speaker, who emphasized the value of the Church above all else.

At a meeting of Laurentian Chapter No. 24, held in Lachute last Thursday evening, Rt. Ex. Comp. J. H. Morecraft, District Grand Superintendent of Montreal District No. 1, paid his official visit. He was accompanied by several companions, and expressed his appreciation of the good work being accomplished here.

Former Resident Dies in Kingston

Former acquaintances of Dr. Henry Murphy, who resided on Main Street and conducted a veterinary practice here for many years, will regret to learn of his death. Dr. Murphy moved from Lachute a considerable time ago, to reside in Kingston, Ont., where his death occurred just recently.

The Princess Passes By

— By D. L. Lincoln, R.N. —

The children in the crowd, noisy and impatient, were grabbing one another's caps and throwing them in the road. The wind was raw and penetrating. It was growing dark. . You remembered you could have washed those nagging-at-you Venetian blinds in this long hour-and-a-half — and you knew you ought to be home now preparing the men's supper. But still you waited. This was your only chance to see that young and very important couple who were doing so much to bolster Britain's prestige. And your poor, bravely-struggling homeland badly needed that bolstering. For international memory was noticeably short. A newly-powerful nation, saved from disaster by a courageous, lonely stand on the world's ramparts, was apt to forget how the promotion — and demotion — occurred. And the little countries — so aggressively kicking up their heels; so vociferously proclaiming their independence— gave no thought now to the fact that but for Britain they too would have perished.

Therefore you bear with the cold, and a painful corn, and pushing, boisterous youngsters. You are determined to see, in the flesh, the popular young Ambassadors who are hourly reclaiming affection and honor for their country. It will be but a glimpse, because the planners of the Royal Tour in Canada have more important events ahead than the staring, shouting crowds. What is more, the Royal recipients of the clamour have only human eardrums, which must long, at times, for silence. And so the entourage will reach, eventually, the comparative quiet of a decorated hall where another group of the "chosen few" will gaze on youthful beauty — with never a policeman to bar their vision.

And while you know it would be physically impossible for the Royal couple to meet everyone, you can't help wishing, wistfully, that the common people could have a greater share in the pleasure. If — instead of visiting only with statesmen and magnates and mayors and hospital patients; instead of honoring exclusively the mansions of the rich — it were possible for the Princess and the Duke to slip away from bodyguards, from white jeeps and jealously-guarding motorcycles, how warmly welcome they would be in any humble home!

But — there it is! Pomp must be upheld for the good of the cause. We cannot all be rich or important. Most of us can only be one more blur in an overwhelming blur of faces.

Yet, you philosophize, if it were not for the separate faces that make up the blur, and the individual voices that add to the cheering, this Canadian Tour of goodwill would fall strangely flat. And you do admire, from your distance, the good nature and the patience of the Royal pair, because even the "chosen few" must swell, in the aggregate, into many thousands of exacting handshakes — while in your heart you applaud the graciousness which listens to a wearisome repetition of "Welcome" addresses.

For your comfort, too, there are the intangible values — among them the thought that beneath the trappings, the Princess and you are actually akin! That she, and you, are inheritors of the velvety winds of springtime, the beneficent warmth of summer and the snow's maternal guardianship while the tired earth sleeps. You remember that, above the ceremonial, the softening magic of moonlight falls on all the children of God; that you, too, share the splendor of scintillating stars. While the children yell, and the crowd grows larger, you remember that Princess and commoner alike are "fearfully and wonderfully made" — are fashioned equally by the same marvellous selectiveness of cells that fashions all life. To the Princess, and to you and all mankind, is given the priceless gift of a promised immortality, which, life's cycle complete, will take every soul through lonely portals to the mystery that is Eternity.

But now the vanguard comes. The people press — and the policemen try to stop them. The imposing jeeps and the white motorcycles go past. A roar goes up. You surge forward with the crowd. (You have to!) They shove and push and stand on your now-shrieking corn — but you don't mind. There is the Princess in reality — even sweeter-looking than you imagined! She is passing. You look fleetingly at a young, attractive face — rather strained, you think, in the effort to smile so constantly under the deafening roar of welcome. You see a hand which you are sure must ache with incessant waving . . . and the moment has gone! You recall, regretfully, that you didn't catch a glimpse of the Duke, so rushed were you in that brief glance at his wife — but he won't mind. . .

You are shivering with cold, your dinner is delayed, the blinds are not washed — but you wouldn't have missed that experience for anything. You know that, regardless of nostalgia for left-behind babies; regardless of tiredness and ears that must ring, these cementers of friendship among nations are doing, magnificently, the job to which they were called — and you must go home and try to do yours.

For the rest of your life, though, as the Princess grows older, and you grow old, you will cherish the memory of a Lady — human and kind and friendly, by all reports — a future Queen who passed by.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Sunday School Teachers' Course, First Session

Last Tuesday a most instructive and interesting evening was spent by those interested in Sunday School work who are seeking to "help our youth to live for God".

The Rev. C. R. Lang, president of the Argenteuil Protestant Ministerial Association, took the chair and led in the devotional period. He then called on the Rev. Dr. W. H. Reid to exhibit sound-film strips.

The first picture, entitled "Leads to Leadership", explained how leaders in our Sunday Schools may be selected, trained and put to work among the youth of our churches. The film stressed that it is most important for parents to come with the children and young people to the Sabbath School.

The second film was "The Growing Teacher", a true story of how a young teacher overcame her lack of training and the "problem child" by earnest and continued prayer, and both teacher and pupil grew in God's grace.

First Christening

The first christening ceremony in the new Church of St. Francis at St. Sauveur des Monts took place last Sunday, at the regular morning service, when the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stelfox received the names Richard John. The Rev. H. G. Baugh officiated. Godparents were Mr. and Mrs. M. McCaw and Mr. G. E. Greenmark, all of Montreal.

Bible Society Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of Lachute branch of the Montreal Auxiliary Bible Society will be held in the Baptist Church at 7 p.m. on Sunday, November 11, when a colored sound film on the colportage work of the Bible Society in western Canada will be shown by the Rev. DeCourcy H. Rayner, district secretary. The film was given a special award by the Adult Education Association of Canada this year.

In 1950 the Lachute branch stood fourth outside the City of Montreal in the entire Auxiliary, contributing $398.05 to the Bible Society to be used in its world-wide work of translating, printing and distributing the Holy Scriptures. All Protestant churches join in supporting its work, and canvassers have been covering this district in preparation for the annual meeting.

Officers of the local branch are — Hon. president, J. S. Giles; president, R. Cairns; secretary, Mrs. George McGibbon; treasurer, Miss L. B. Miller.

JEHOVAH'S WAR OF ARMAGEDDON

(Feature article in The Watchtower of October 15, 1951)

People the world over fear another global war. They fear it because of having already experienced two world wars. They fear it because atomic weapons will be used. They fear it because there seems no way of escaping it. But what the majority of the people do not realize is that something far more terrible than another international war is impeding. (2 Pet. 3: 7,10) As General of the Army, Douglas MacArthur, on September 2, 1945, the day after the surrender of the Japanese, aboard the battleship "Missouri", warned: "Men since the beginning of time have sought peace. . . Military alliances, balance of power, leagues of nations, all in turn failed, leaving the only path to be by way of the crucible of war. We have had our last chance. If we will not devise some greater and more equitable system, our Armageddon will be at our door." No "more equitable system" has been devised. The nations are having their "last chance". Armageddon is at the door! . . .

Will You Be Among the Survivors?

In this impending war modern atomic weapons will surely prove disappointing to all who put their trust in them; likewise all human devices for protection. The prophecy says that even if they dig into the earth for concealment, as in bomb-proof cellars, or try to make a get-away into heavenly heights, as in supersonic jet planes, or attempt to flee under the sea's surface, as in snorkel-equipped submarines, yet they will be overtaken and destroyed. "Neither their silver nor their gold shall be able to deliver them in the day of Jehovah's wrath."

— Amos 9: 1-4; Zeph. 1: 18, AS.

Well, does this mean there is no hope for survival? No, not at all. For Jehovah has faithfully promised to spare alive and protect those who are fully devoted to Him, such as were pictured by Noah, Lot, Rahab, and their households. Instead of trusting in the princes of this world, these seek righteousness and meekness and put full confidence in Jehovah, and to them the promise is made: "It may be ye will be hid in the day of Jehovah's anger."

— Ps. 146: 3; Prov. 3: 5, 6; Zeph. 2: 3, AS.

Canada Year Book '51, A Comprehensive Volume

The Canada Year Book 1951, just published, presents the latest available facts and figures regarding the Canadian people and their economy.

The Year Book synthesizes all the important reports and publications of federal and provincial governments; it summarizes statistics of physiography, demography, health, welfare, education, labor, national income, resources, production, trade, transportation, communications, finance — in fact, of every important subject that has a bearing on the national economy.

Special features of current interest are included and the regular chapter material brought up to date. The reorganization of the Department of Mines and Resources during 1950 and the transfer of its administrative functions to three new Departments — the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys, the Department of Resources and Developments, and the Department of Citizenship and Immigration — necessitated revised treatments in the corresponding sections of the Year Book. The Part dealing with Citizenship is introduced by material on Early Naturalization Procedure and Events Leading up to the Canadian Citizenship Act.

The production chapters (XI to XVIII) continue the story of steady expansion in the industrial field.

While the chapters deal with the respective subjects in detail, the Introduction serves to highlight the major events of the year and presents a picture of the national economy as a whole. Numerous maps and charts are included, and to permit of the introduction of as much new material as possible, references to earlier editions are given for standard material that has not changed significantly.

The Canada Year Book (cloth-bound edition) is sold by the King's Printer, Ottawa, at $3 a copy. (Remittance should be made by money order, postal note or accepted cheque payable to the Receiver General of Canada).

A limited number of paper-bound copies have been set aside for ministers of religion, bona fide students and school teachers, who may obtain copies at the nominal price of $1.50 each.

Applications with remittances for paper-bound copies must be forwarded to the Dominion Statistician, Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Ottawa.

Rise and Shine

"I'm hungry" is an old expression so often heard, but not in the morning when the need for food is greatest. Instead, at this time of day, the too familiar cry is "I haven't time".

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, tell us that special attention should be directed to this neglected meal. Breakfast means breaking the fast, the fast imposed by sleep, which is usually the longest period without food. Upon wakening, the body's energy supply is low and needs to be replenished.

Nutritionists state that a good breakfast should supply about ⅓ of a child's food needs for the day and approximately ¼ to ⅓ of an adult's. Because young and old require the same kind of food, all can eat the same breakfast, provided the quantity served is adapted to age and activity.

A basic breakfast pattern consists of fruit, whole grain cereal with milk, bread with butter and beverage, but it may include another main dish. As there are many foods to choose from for each course, variation from day to day is not difficult and should interest the family.

Fruit or juices usually start the meal, but they may be eaten last, if a hot dish is preferred at the beginning of breakfast.

Bread, either white or whole wheat, plain or toasted, can become monotonous. For a pleasant change, why not serve hot buns or tea biscuits, bran, corn or fruit muffins, but don't forget the butter and a little marmalade, jam or honey. Another tempting alternative for toast is golden brown waffles or pancakes, made with either fresh or sour milk and served with butter and syrup. Interesting flavors may be had by adding apple, berries or other fruits, to the batter before cooking or by serving apple slices, bacon, ham or sausages with them.

The beverage for children should always be milk, or on cold, frosty mornings hot cocoa made with milk. Adults may have their choice of tea, coffee or milk.

Cereal for breakfast is not as popular today as it should be, or has been in the past. In fact, today this important food is often omitted from the morning meal. Wholegrain uncooked cereals, when served as porridge are usually more nutritious, economical and satisfying than the packaged, ready-to-eat cereals. If the uncooked cereals take too long to prepare in the morning, they could be partially cooked the previous evening, or if the kitchen equipment includes a pressure cooker, then this provides an ideal way to make porridge quickly. Serve this good food with a sprinkle of white or brown sugar and milk or cream, or topped off with slices of fruit, or raisins.

Other dishes for a hearty, substantial breakfast should provide no problem. Every member of the family should find it difficult to resist the aroma of bacon, or ham and eggs; either fried, scrambled, boiled or poached; an omelet or French toast. Fried potato slices or mashed potatoes left over from last night's supper, may also be served. For those who wish an old fashioned breakfast like their grandfather's, there are fish cakes, sausages, fish, liver and kidney. These foods add not only flavor, but extra food value to the meal; if served at breakfast they should not appear again the same day at another meal.

It is the homemaker's responsibility to see that the family eats breakfast. If the reason for not eating is "I haven't time", then a little preparation at night, to make it quick and easy, will help save time in the morning. Set the table, place pots and pans and ingredients for cooking where they will be used, have the children's clothes and school books ready and plan to get up a few minutes early. By making it sound, smell and taste good, breakfast will soon be the favorite meal, but it should be eaten without rushing and hot dishes should be served hot. To do this, it may prove more convenient to serve each member as they are ready, rather than plan to eat all together. The family's next substantial meal may not be until evening and the reward of a good breakfast is vigor instead of fatigue, and enthusiasm instead of listlessness during school, work and play.

FASHION HINT

Increasing in popularity, since it holds such a big niche in the well-rounded wardrobe, is the fine tweed suit done on lines that offer a good compromise between town and country or dress and casual wear. On this attractive tweed suit, the lines are virtually classical. However, the details which consist of set-in bands, rounded shoulders and pocket flaps at the hips are distinctly dressmaker touches. The sleeves hint at leg o' mutton lines. The slim skirt is peg-top and is crinolined inside so that while it is reasonably slim it does not cling to the figure.

Floral emblems of the prairie provinces are the crocus (Man.), the prairie lily (Sask.), and the wild rose (Alta.).

Picture News from C-I-L

SPEED GLAZE is the new modern way to polish cars. Just wipe it on, wipe it off, for the most beautiful shine you've ever seen. "Speed Glaze" is a silicone polish, developed by the industrial chemist to clean and beautify in one operation — with no cleaner required.

VACATION LUGGAGE like the smart suitcase in the picture has benefited from Chemistry. It is covered with "Fabrikoid", a coated fabric made by C-I-L. "Fabrikoid" is supplied to other manufacturers, who turn it into shoes, belts and suitcases, to mention a few.

JUST PRESS the button! Suntan lotion, perfumes, deodorants are easily applied by aerosols which depend on "Freon", the chemical propellent that makes them "go".

GROWING WITH YOUR NEIGHBOUR BROWNSBURG

In the 65 years the C-I-L Ammunition Plant has been in Brownsburg, this district has expanded and progressed almost beyond recognition . . . and C-I-L is proud of its share in that progress. Brownsburg is the home of a very important unit of the C-I-L family. Each C-I-L plant, wherever it may be, plays a key role in the manufacture of chemical products for your better living.

The production of ammunition in Brownsburg, is a close-to-home example of Canadian Industries Ltd. "Serving Canadians Through Chemistry".

CANADIANS take naturally to the outdoors, where the sportsman matches his wits and skill against the wild. C-I-L Ammunition is designed by men who know from experience what a sportsman needs.

COUNTRIES far away use C-I-L products of many kinds. Here explosives are loaded aboard a barge on the first leg of a long journey to an Asian construction project.

"Beefs" Aired in Women's Inst. Civics Theme

Mayor Is Speaker at Constructive Session Held by Lachute Branch

The November meeting of the Lachute W.I. was held in the Legion Memorial Hall, with a large attendance of members and guests.

The guest speaker, Mayor Jas. McGibbon was introduced by Mrs. F. Legault, convener of Citizenship. Mr. McGibbon's topic was "Civic Privileges and Responsibilities."

"Our first privilege is that of being a Canadian Citizen", said Mayor McGibbon. "We feel even prouder of that privilege after having followed the Royal Couple, through the medium of the press and radio, right across this great Dominion of ours — each province with its different traditions, handicrafts and its pride of country.

Stressing the Voting privilege, His Worship continued "Politics govern our lives. . . We should, therefore, develop more interest in our candidates, especially in civic affairs. In selecting men, we should see to it that we elect men in whom we have confidence — a man who is a right-thinking citizen, who will give value for our money, and do what is right for the community at large.

"The same holds good for the School Board. The present school was constructed with very little interest shown by the public. As a matter of fact, it is the privilege of the chairman of the School Board, the Superintendent of Education, as well as the Clergy, to make periodical visits of inspection". . . Criticisms were many, not only of our school, but of the town as well. Mr. McGibbon was of the opinion the general public should make it a point to attend the Council meetings and get really interested in the affairs and future development of their municipality; they could greatly assist by offering constructive criticism on the many vexatious problems that arise from time to time.

"In order to nominate the councillor of your choice, it only requires a petition from eight taxpayers in any Ward", said Mayor McGibbon. "The privilege of selecting a councillor is therefore in the hands of the taxpayers, and should be taken full advantage of".

The talk concluded with a question period. The Mayor's topic was greatly enjoyed by all present, and was followed by a hearty vote of thanks. . . The roll-call was, "Civic improvements the W.I. would like to see in our town". Below is the list of replies, a copy of which is being sent to the Town Council:

1. Drastic fines should be imposed on drivers speeding on Main Street, especially in the East Ward.
2. Unsanitary "chip wagons" abolished on Main Street.
3. Adjustment of spotlight in Memorial Park to shine on monument, not on water fountain.
4. Speed limit signs at all approaches to town.
5. Better lighting on all streets.
6. Early morning train service to Montreal, especially in winter.
7. Parking be prohibited on Bethany Street, from Foundry Street to Main; also at Deacon's corner.
8. Do away with present Town Dump. Have more modern means of garbage disposal.
9. That something be done about garbage cans and other receptacles lining our streets on beautiful summer evenings (Sundays included).
10. That more stress be given in all schools and youth organizations, on "Civic Pride". Urge the children to keep buildings, playgrounds and park, neat and tidy.
11. Mail delivery.
12. Abolish double parking by Muir's Garage and Menard's Bakery.
13. That authorities appeal again to C.P.R. for subway under railroad track on Barron Avenue, which is now made more dangerous by heavy traffic through Berry Street.
14. That good capable women be appointed to Council.
15. Indoor skating rink.
16. That loudspeakers on cruising cars be forbidden.
17. That additional modern fire-fighting equipment is urgently needed, adequate for the requirements of our rapidly growing town.
18. That icy street-crossings be sanded, as well as sidewalks.
19. That it would be a great help to householders, if a man with a horse and plow, could follow the big snowplow when clearing the streets and open up the driveways. These are usually completely blocked after the snowplow passes.
20. Why are the sidewalks not cleared when the slush is soft, instead of waiting until it freezes?
21. There were many requests also that speed laws be more strictly enforced in ALL parts of town.
22. That in public performances such as Community Concerts, etc., the seating of the hall be "staggered" to permit better view of the stage by persons in the audience.

A note of thanks was received from the Mayoress of Ottawa, Dr. Charlotte Whitton, acknowledging the congratulations sent her by the Lachute W.I. Dr. Whitton is to be guest speaker of Lachute W.I. sometime in the Spring, if her duties permit.

A report on the recent Nutrition Course was given by Mrs. A. Bothwell. This was only the second time this course had been given, and it was felt that those able to attend the full series had greatly benefitted.

Members were reminded that 25 blocks were still needed for the quilt, to be presented to the Red Cross; blocks to be of pure wool material, 10" x 10".

A report of the Lachute Section, Canadian Cancer Society, was given by the representative of the W.I., Mrs. Geo. Y. Deacon, who attended the meeting.

Plans for the Christmas meeting were completed.

Scouts' Canvass for Paper Salvage, Nov. 24

Public Also Reminded of Toy Repair Shop

Lachute Boy Scout Troop will conduct another waste-paper collection on Saturday, November 24, in support of their funds. It will be appreciated if citizens will have their papers bundled and in readiness outside their premises, when the trucks make their tour.

Parents and householders are specially reminded of the Toy Repair Shop, and articles donated to this effort will be equally appreciated. The Scouts will gladly accept such toys, games and playthings when calling for paper salvage on November 24.

Holstein Club Elects Officers

The annual meeting and dance of the Lachute Holstein Club was held last Friday in the Legion Hall, with a good number of members present.

The new directors elected were: Arnold Parker, president; Leonard Boa, vice-president; Harold Wilson, secretary-treasurer; directors — Douglas Clark, Douglas Bradford, John Meyer, Albert Stewart, Paul St. Jacques, F. W. Allmen, Archie McKenzie, and Z. Plouffe.

Holstein judges were chosen for the 1952 Spring Fair —with D. S. Dunton, Brampton, Ont., as first choice, and Fred H. Hubbs, of Bloomfield, Ont., as reserve.

Hermas Lajoie, secretary of the Quebec Holstein branch, was present and gave a very interesting talk covering various activities of the Holstein breeders.

Hunter Dies in Firearm Mishap

Gordon Mulcahey, 24-year-old resident of Pointe St. Charles, was the victim of a fatal accident at St. Michel while hunting with a party of four other Montrealers last Sunday. The hunters had come out the previous night to a cabin owned by one of the men. With three of his companions on Sunday, Mulcahy was examining deer tracks; while talking, he proceeded to lay his double-barrel 12-gauge gun upon the ground, when the hammer caught a stone and fired a slug through the man's lung. The bullet entered his chest and emerged at the shoulder blade.

Mulcahy's companions summoned assistance and carried the victim to the road. A local resident, Polydore Gagné, broke the snow-covered highway with his truck, to give access to a motor ambulance, but by this time Mulcahy was dead, having succumbed to haemorrhage 20 minutes after the accident.

Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur, of Lachute, pronounced the death accidental.

Gordon Mulcahy leaves his wife to mourn; the couple had no children.

A Solemn Occasion Fittingly Observed

While, in the customary turn of events, snow and sleet usually attend the Remembrance ceremonies at the memorial park — fine weather prevailed for the observance here last Sunday. There were sunny skies, though slush underfoot, where hundreds gathered at the civic plaque commemorating the dead of World War II, and at the Cenotaph in memory of local sacrifices in World War I.

Mayor Jas. W. McGibbon was chairman of the proceedings, and laid the wreath at the plaque, on behalf of Lachute Town. At the Cenotaph representatives of town organizations, business firms, church groups, and clubs, reverently laid their wreaths — with a few also representing individual families — at the base of the monument. The Rev. Dr. W. H. Reid gave a brief message and members of the Protestant clergy assisted in the devotional exercises; a minute's silence was observed in respectful memory of departed heroes.

Despite the brevity of these exercises in order to permit the holding of regular church services, the occasion was one of fitting solemnity attended by a representative cross-section of the community.

Argenteuil Legion Branch 70 was out in force, as the veterans paraded with their colors from the Memorial Hall, wearing their berets and medals. The Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs, with their standard bearers, also paraded in uniform (the Scouts afterwards attending service at the United Church). The "Last Post" and "Reveille", broadcast from a loudspeaker system, echoed in the morning air while the crowd stood at reverent attention, and the proceedings closed with the national anthem.

The Remembrance theme had fitting prominence in the various church services which followed these rites; the services were held at 11.15 instead of the usual hour.

Armistice Reunion

A highlight of the Remembrance anniversary was the Armistice supper for Legionnaires and other veterans, held Saturday evening at the Legion Hall. Legion President Carl Demerse welcomed the gathering and Comrade Jim Duncan proved an able master of ceremonies. There was a good turnout of local ex-servicemen, with several visitors in attendance.

Notable among those present were two old South African veterans, Comrades Hale and Gorman.

A turkey supper was served by the local branch of the Women's Auxiliary, to whom a hearty vote of thanks was extended for their efficient services.

Entertainment took the form of a singsong, a vocalist and magician adding much to the evening's pleasure.

Two minutes' silence was observed in memory of those who had paid the supreme sacrifice.

Reviews Earlier Days

Comrade Stewart Jones gave a brief summary of the early days of Legion Branch No. 70, and read numerous extracts from the minutes, which proved both humorous and interesting. Reference was made to an endeavor to procure an army hut for a meeting place, and of various activities in which veterans of World War I were interested, such as the collecting of radio licenses, also helping to raise money for the Argenteuil Spitfire and to supply comforts for seamen on the Corvette "Lachute".

Meetings were generally held in the Victoria Hall, which was kindly loaned by the Town, but on special occasions accommodation was obtained in the larger halls. The late Lt. Col. L. M. Hooker was the first president, and the present Legion flags were donated by the late Hon. Sir G. H. Perley.

Poppy Fund

The Branch was officially formed in November, 1936, and it was then that the Poppy Fund started to grow. Previously the monies collected were divided between the Verdun Hospital and the Vetcraft Shops, where the poppies were made by disabled vets. Deserving cases among needy veterans have been helped by this fund, and it is pleasing to note that it is still growing. The purchase of poppies for Remembrance Day helps not only the disabled veterans who make them, but also needy comrades locally, and appreciation is expressed to all who have helped again this year in both selling and purchasing these emblems.

Comrade Charles Duncan, on behalf of the older vets who formed this Legion Branch, thanked the speaker for his kindly thoughts and words. From a very small beginning and a sound and solid foundation, the Branch now has a membership of 163, and a Memorial Hall which would be difficult to equal.

The following poem well expresses the significance of the red poppy, and will be an inspiration and incentive to all, to make sure that they wear this emblem each Remembrance Day:

The Symbol

Poppies bright of crimson red.
Worn for you, the Gallant Dead,
Who fought for Country and for King
Your praises shall forever ring.

The poppy, symbol of a trust,
Uphold forever, that we must
Each generation carry on
The torch, for every mother's son.

The poppy marks the graves of those
Who fought for victory o'er their foes,
Who served on land, in air and sea
For country, and for you and me.

The poppy silently conveys
Ties of love, remembered days,
Our pledge to you, the honored dead —
We're proud to wear a poppy red.

Duties of Crown Attorney, Procedures Of Law, Are Described to Rotary Club

Ovila Labelle, K.C., Crown Attorney, and president of the Hull (Que.) Rotary Club, gave an interesting talk on Law and the Duties of the Crown Attorney at the Brownsburg Rotary meeting last week.

The Crown Attorney is appointed by the Attorney General and is his representative in that particular district. He supervises the administration of justice in his district; he gives advice to the police on how to get legal evidence, and after the evidence has been gathered he then lays the charge. The accused is forthwith arrested, or given a summons; he appears in court and makes his plea — guilty or not guilty. If the accused pleads not guilty he then has a choice of trial by magistrate or by jury. In certain cases, however, trial by jury is mandatory. If bail is allowed, the judge, upon the advice of the Crown Attorney, sets the bail. At all times one must keep in mind that the accused is innocent until proved guilty, and for this reason the evidence must be fool-proof. There are two types of evidence allowed — direct evidence, in which the testimony of eye-witnesses and the like is taken, and circumstantial evidence.

The verdict is brought in after all the evidence has been received, and after the verdict the sentence is handed down. The sentence is based primarily upon Canada's Criminal Code, but may be altered according to the nature of the offender, the nature of the offence, or upon the advice of the Crown Attorney. If the sentence is over two years, the prisoner is sent to the penitentiary, if under two years, to the local gaol. . . The speaker interspersed his talk with many humorous anecdotes.

Mr. Labelle was introduced by Stewart Jones and thanked by Jack Brown. Another new member was inducted at this meeting, Keith Russell, of Lachute; the induction charge was given by Wes Freeland. The members at this meeting were sporting their new badges, somewhat different from the former ones. Lloyd Creswell gave a report on the Bingo, which proved very successful financially.

Guests at the meeting were Ward Moncrieff, Gaston Pickard, E. Laframboise, of Brownsburg, Sam Milnes, Jim Duncan, Erle McMartin, Mac Demers, of Lachute, and Earl Wallace, of Ottawa.

Lachute Man Drove Royal Visitors

The Royal tour will be a memorable occasion for Flt. Sgt. Stanley Langille, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Langille, Lachute.

Stationed with the R.C.A.F. at Greenwood, N.S., Langille was chosen as a member of the Air Force escort during the Maritime stretch of the tour, and had the honor of driving Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh on their visit to Moncton. In Fredericton, the New Brunswick capital, he drove the Lieutenant Governor of the province, His Honor D. L. MacLean and Mrs. MacLaren, and in Sydney, N.S., his passengers were members of the Royal suite.

Operatic Trio for Recital on Nov. 19

Second Community Concert Here Next Monday

The sold-out tours which have greeted the Columbia Operatic Trio ever since its inception in the fall of 1947 are striking evidence of the American public's demand for the music of both grand and light opera. Helen George, William Upshaw and Carlos Sherman are three young singers who have proved their individual worth on both concert and operatic stage. They join their exceptional talents to provide a balanced repertoire of favorite operatic excerpts.

Helen George, soprano of the Columbia Operatic Trio, has endeared herself to a wide public throughout the Americas, both in opera and in concert. Tenor William Upshaw, and suave, dark Carlos Sherman, baritone of the trio, have both been widely acclaimed in long series of successes.

Well Known Selections

As if in answer to suggestions by a correspondent in this paper, the majority of selections in the forthcoming recital are well-known operatic numbers, including popular extracts from light opera. The program will feature, for instance:

Trio from the "Pearl Fishers"; aria from "Faust"; duet from "Marriage of Figaro"; arias from "Louise", "La Bohême" and "Rigoletto"; duet from "La Traviata"; trio from "Barber of Seville" — these operas and their composers being all familiar names.

In the light opera classics, the Columbia Operatic Trio will present such well-loved numbers as Thine Alone, from "Eileen"; Golden Days from the "Student Prince"; Wanting You, from "New Moon"; Old Man River, from "Show Boat", besides selections from the operettas "Rosalinda" and "The Firefly".

Change in Bank of Montreal Managership at Arundel, Que.

Everett T. Noall

Alexander W. Heron

New manager at the Bank of Montreal's Arundel office is Everett T. Noall, credit officer since 1950. He succeeds Alexander W. Heron, recently named B of M manager at Temiskaming.

Mr. Noall, a native of Newfoundland, joined the bank in Montreal in 1924, and subsequently acquired his early training at various branches in Montreal and other centres in Quebec. He received his first appointment as manager at the bank's Bury office in 1948, and two years later was transferred to the head office in Montreal, whence he goes to take over his new duties at Arundel.

Mr. Noall, while stationed at Bury, served as secretary-treasurer of the Bury Golf Club and as president of the Officers' Mess of the 7th and 11th Hussars.

Mr. Heron, who leaves Arundel after five years as manager of the branch there, has become well known to the residents of the community and district, both as a capable banker and a public-spirited citizen.

Engineer's Report to Town Council On Project for New Dam Elevation

The regular meeting of Lachute Town Council was held on Wednesday, November 7, under chairmanship of Mayor Jas. W. McGibbon, with Aldermen W. Morrissette, A. and O. Laurin, L. Gibeault, E. Provost, J. Charlebois and S. Holt in attendance.

Godfroy Delorme appeared before the Council complaining of unfair valuation — his property being set at $11,000 while the sale price was only $9,000.

Permit was issued to J. A. Pharand, for the sale of horse meat.

A request for a refund of $7 was refused to J. P. Labonté on account of work done on his property by town employees.

The Canadian General Electric Company sent literature on new light bulbs, with an offer to install several as a trial, at their own expense.

A letter was received from the Canadian Pacific Railway Company asking if the Town would continue to supply them with water under the same conditions as presently existing. Their request was granted.

The Town is requesting the C.P.R. to operate an early morning train from Lachute to arrive in Montreal by 9 o'clock, especially during the winter months.

A petition was received from the ratepayers of Bedard Boulevard East, asking for the installation of a new sewer and water system. This project will be started as soon as possible.

Ald. W. Morrissette gave notice of motion that at the next regular Council meeting he would present a by-law to amend the present water tariff by-law.

Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon informed the Council that a new fire pump was needed, and that a grant could be obtained from the Fire Commission. He also stated that the old model 1932 truck needed a new motor, the cost of which would be around $350. The Mayor asked Mr. Deacon to write the Council to this effect and to send copies of the letter to Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., and to the Fire Commission, giving his reasons for the need of a new pump. Mayor McGibbon and Coun. Holt were appointed to look into the matter of repairing the old-model truck.

Engineer Laliberté presented his plan relative to the flooded portion of land in connection with the new dam, which would have to be acquired, and stated that 28 acres would be sold to the Town for the sum of $1.00, and the balance, 36 acres, would have to be purchased. By building a dam of 42 feet in overall height, there will be a reserve water service of 32.23 acres, with 132,744,000 gallons capacity. As a road leading to the dam was deemed necessary, the mayor and secretary-treasurer were authorized to sign a deed with Mr. W. M. Cottingham, over whose land the road would pass.

Until further notice there will be no parking on town streets from 12.01 a.m. until 7 a.m. in order to allow snow removal from the streets.

The meeting adjourned until Wednesday, November 14.

Urges Free Trade

The government leader in the Senate, Senator Wishart Robertson, above, urged a return to doctrine of free trade and more competition as only solution for the inflation problem troubling not only Canada but the rest of the western world. Speaking before the Senate, he stated that although the 12 NATO countries were bound together militarily for defence, yet economically there was among them still an "instinctive protectionism" which must be changed if inflation was to be beaten. This could only be done by "all agreeing to simple doctrine of more trade competition."

Roll Homologated At Council Session

An adjourned meeting of Lachute Town Council was held in the council chamber last evening, Wednesday.

Accounts to the extent of $9,661.40 were approved for payment.

The Mayor was authorized to procure a price on the preparation of a new valuation roll for the year 1953.

Another delegation of taxpayers appeared before Council complaining about the new valuation of properties.

After considerable discussion the new valuation role was homologated for one year only, with a general reduction of 50 per cent.

Permission was granted to the Bell Telephone Company to erect three poles on Cruise Boulevard.

A notice of motion was given to establish the tax levy for 1952.

The meeting adjourned at 9.30 o'clock.

War Memorial Organ Is Dedicated at Remembrance Service in B'burg Church

Brownsburg — On Sunday, Remembrance Day, following the brief ceremony at the Cenotaph, the various groups attending with the general public, including the Brownsburg Legion Branch 71, the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary, Girl Guides, Boy Scouts, Wolf Cubs and Brownies, paraded to the United Church (which was taxed beyond its capacity) to participate in the dedication of a War Memorial Organ. Under the direction of John J. Seary, the parade marched to the rostrum of the church, where the flags were presented.

Following this and prefacing the dedication, the minister, Rev. S. J. Pike, made a statement as to the purpose of this service, and, on behalf of the Official Board and congregation, welcomed the groups who came to do the occasion honor. It was, however, more particularly to the families connected with the Roll of Honor, that the minister said, "We feel together something of the gratitude and glory of so great a service rendered"; and, bearing a particular tribute of respect to the parents and homes of the fallen, whose names were read, he continued, "in revering their names and seeking to prove worthy of their sacrifice". The names included George W. Boyd, Alvin Roberts, Ward Kennedy, John Lambertson, William Green and Ronald MacAllister. For the ceremony a duplex ribbon, part red, white and blue and the other part white, streaming from the Honor Roll, was connected with the organ, a silent expression of the spirit as well as the letter of the dedication — which inscription on the brass plaque, reads: "To the Glory of God; In Memory of those of the Church's Roll of Honor who, for King and Country, gave their lives during World War II (1939-1945) and in recognition of those who served". At the close of the dedication ceremony the "Last Post", sounded by Emmanuel Parisien, ushered in the two minutes' silence, which was broken by "Reveille" and the hymn, "O Valiant Hearts, Who to Your Glory Came". This was accompanied by the organ, with the church organist, Mrs. C. J. Wheeler, at the console.

Sidney Stilwell, Legion president, spoke on behalf of "Our Service Men", in a very touching and appropriate manner. During the service, King Amos sang the immortal ode by Lt.-Col. John McCrae, "In Flanders Fields". W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., was the guest speaker, and brought a message of goodwill and congratulations to the congregation, for their reverent gesture in dedicating this organ as a War Memorial, and voiced the appreciation of all who may enjoy the benefits derived from its music. He trusted that "concord and harmony, such as the keyboards produce under the skill of the organist, may be the congregation's experience in worship, devotion and Christian service".

The Rev. S. J. Pike thanked the speakers and all who had made this service possible. Following the benediction, the receiving and dipping of the flags, this memorable gathering in the annals of Brownsburg closed with the singing of the national anthem.

The veterans paraded from the church back to the Cenotaph, where they deposited their poppies as another silent tribute of respect to fallen comrades, and thence returned to the Legion hall.

Canadians spent more on pleasure travel in the U.S. and overseas last year than ever before, a total of $225,700,000.

Gatineau LINES

That Water Supply

After the rather wet summer we have had this year, it may seem strange that a power company would be thinking about water these days, but the fact remains that a power company always has to think about water as the winter months approach.

Our electric power in Quebec comes from the force of falling water which turns the electrical generators. Without a steady supply of water there can be no steady supply of electricity. The winter months are normally the months of short water supply because creeks and streams freeze over and moisture which ordinarily would sink into the ground remains on top in the form of snow until spring.

That is why power companies must have huge and expensive reservoirs, to save the excess water available in the spring and summer so that it will be ready to be used in the late fall and winter. That is why the Mercier and Cabonga Dams far up the Gatineau River have some 140,000,000,000 cubic feet of water stored up behind them right now. That is the water which will give Gatineau's 68,000 customers their electric power through the winter.

It's a lot of water, and because the reservoirs are just about full we shouldn't have to worry too much about a shortage of power this winter. Just the same, it takes a lot of water to keep 68,000 customers supplied with power. In fact,

Did You Know?

That it takes almost 200,000,000 gallons of water per hour to keep the power plants on the Gatineau humming.

That is why the slogan of a power company is "waste not, want not" throughout the fall and winter months. We are fortunate in having a plentiful supply of water this year, but there still isn't so much that it can be wasted. And every waste of electricity means a waste of the precious water which makes electric power possible.

Save the Soil

Beneficial effects of rain are well known, but soil damage from the force of falling raindrops is often overlooked.

The weight of water falling on an acre of land in an inch of rain is nearly 110 tons, points out Frederick Bisal of the Swift Current Soil Research Laboratory, and the drops striking bare soil, splash about 22.5 tons of clay or loam soil.

Water is as important as fertility for growing crops so it is essential to hold it where it falls. Experiments at the Laboratory, says Mr. Bisal, show that an inch of rainfall on a bare clay or loam soil reduces the infiltration rate to approximately one-third of an inch an hour. If the rainfall is of greater intensity than this, the excess will become the runoff water. This runoff becomes very high during an intense rain, and is capable of carrying a great load of soil with consequent severe erosion.

organic matter of plants or dead

Nature's answer is a cushion of undecomposed plant material. . . This breaks the force of the falling raindrops and no soil is lost, but the water gently finds its way into the subsoil for storage and future use by growing crops.

The simplest way to save the soil and hold the rain where it falls, is to protect the surface of the soil from the force of the raindrops with a suitable plant or straw mulch cover.

Dairying in Canada

About 17 per cent of the total cash income of Canadian farmers comes from the sale of dairy products. It is only exceeded by that derived from livestock and from wheat and is about twice the income from farm sales of poultry and eggs and nearly four times that of fruit and vegetables.

Cash income from dairying does not include returns from veal calves or sales of dairy cattle for slaughter. If these were included it is probable that since 1940, dairy income would be second only to income from all livestock. The census shows that in 1941, nearly 80 per cent of the 783 thousand farmers in Canada kept cows for milk.

Canadian milk production increased steadily from 10.6 billion pounds in 1920 to 17.5 billion pounds in 1942. Between 1942 and 1945 the rate levelled off and since 1945 a slight decline in production has been apparent. Central Canada is the chief producing area and accounts for about 62 per cent of production. The Prairie Provinces follow with 28 per cent while the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia together produce about 10 per cent of the total milk supply.

Increased milk production in Canada is due to increases both in the number of cows and in the production of milk per cow. Though production today is some 40 per cent greater than in 1920, consumption of fluid milk has increased greatly — particularly in the last decade, and the concentrated milk industry has developed into an important phase of dairy processing. Thus, while production of milk has kept pace with population growth, there has been a gradual decline in the quantity of milk available for export.

FARM NECESSITY

Waskatenau, Alta. (CP) — Grain farmers of the district purchased roughly 94,000 pounds of binder twine this year in this community of about 260 population.

Reports from Farm Loan Board

Report of the Canadian Farm Loan Board shows a moderate drop in the demand for loans during the year ended March 31, 1951, the amount approved being $4,722,000 or 9 per cent less than in the previous year when the demand reached the highest point in thirteen years. At the close of the year the Board's investment in farm mortgages had increased by approximately $2,000,000 to a total of $28,458,000. Collections, which have been good in recent years, continue to be satisfactory.

The Board makes first mortgage loans up to $5,000 at 4½ per cent repayable annually or semi-annually over a period not exceeding 25 years. The Board may make additional advances to bring the total loans up to $6,000 in certain circumstances. Loans are made to pay debts, buy livestock and equipment and farm lands, and to erect and repair buildings and make other farm improvements.

American Experts And India Farmers

New Delhi (Reuters)—Fourteen United States experts have come to India under President Truman's four point plan and are working on various projects, including food production, scientific farming, irrigation and hydro-electric power generation schemes.

Most of the foreign experts are expected to serve in India for about a year during which they will also train local personnel.

In the agricultural field, American experts are advising on how to organize and operate India's agricultural extension service, on the proper management of the government's central tractor organization, and on the development of the technique and manufacture of vaccines and serums.

India is also receiving expert American assistance to combat the locust menace.

The Indian government has sent 43 Indians to the United States for training in technical institutions and services.

AYRSHIRE FILM MAY COME TO CANADA

London — Members of the Ayrshire Cattle Herds Book Society had a preview in Ayr last week of a new color film, "Progress to Pedigree", which the Society has sponsored. The theme is the grading of the herds to full pedigree standard, which the film demonstrates can be done in three generations.

Among those who saw the film was Mr. R. O. Biggs, prominent Ayrshire breeder of Dundas, Ont., who said he would like to arrange for copies of it to be sent to Canada.

U.K. JUDGES FOR ROYAL WINTER FAIR

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

For Civic Betterment – 'They' and 'We'

CRYSTALLIZED in the roll-call at a Civic Improvement meeting of Lachute Women's Institute (reported this week), are practically all the daily "beefs" one hears around town, concerning street hazards, major and minor annoyances. It will be of interest to every civic-minded reader to peruse these suggestions; they will be found to echo the common complaints of every Lachute citizen who looks and listens in his day's routine.

Two observations are striking, as we read these items:

(1) That the majority of these situations can be remedied without placing undue expense upon the taxpayers.

(2) That a fair number of the protests can be remedied by the citizens themselves — without necessity of official action or civic by-law.

Mayor Jas. McGibbon was the speaker at this meeting. He urged upon his audience to make their opinions and suggestions known; to attend the Council and School Board meetings and display a constructive interest in civic affairs, so that the taxpayers' representatives may be guided by the public desires.

In the suggestions enumerated at this meeting, the W.I. ladies very ably presented their opinions. And while The Watchman urges upon Town Council some action to fulfill and remedy Lachute's so-obvious needs, it is upon the other items we would play a pressing spotlight — the defects which citizens themselves can improve.

By force of habit we express our indignation, wishing that "they" (the authorities) would do this, prohibit that, or enact a by-law. Let us first be sure that "we", the citizens, have fulfilled our civic duty in respect to matters we can attend to ourselves. A sober scrutiny of the W.I. "beefs" might fill a fruitful period in the agenda of other local organizations. It would certainly reveal one or two shortcomings, to consider them personally in the light of our own activities.

Buried Treasure

OIL is changing the face of western Canada.

Take a close look at a geological map of the four western provinces. You'll find that earth formations favorable for the discovery of oil are widespread.

The northern part of British Columbia is included. So is almost all of Alberta, where most of the West's commercial oil so far has been found. So is southern Saskatchewan. So is the southwestern part of Manitoba.

Alberta got off to the early start. Turner Valley was found 30 years ago. Now the Valley is dying but great new fields have been located since the Second World War in Edmonton district.

Many more fields remain to be found. Geologists who have studied the greater part of the province say conditions are favorable almost everywhere. Some day the untapped fields will yield their black gold.

And geologists are certain rich oil deposits will some day be found in the three other provinces.

The effect on Alberta already is marked. Edmonton, during the last 10 years, has been Canada's fastest-growing city. Great new industries are being attracted to Alberta, including a $60,000,000 chemical plant now being built in Edmonton district, and another smaller chemical plant expected. Cheap natural gas for industrial fuel is a magnet for dozens of new businesses.

This same spectacular growth of industry can be felt soon in other parts of the West. In all western provinces you can see the oil-well derricks and oil workers in their dark-colored shirts and safety helmets.

There has been no spectacular find yet outside Alberta. But it should be remembered that hundreds upon hundreds of holes were drilled before Edmonton-area oil was tapped. It may be tomorrow, it may be some years, but the experts are convinced that the West's oil output will be vastly increased by new discoveries.

Hundreds of millions of dollars have been poured into the search for oil so far. Much of this capital has come from the United States. There are indications considerable British capital may be forthcoming shortly as Britain looks for Commonwealth oil sources to replace oil from the troubled Middle East.

But no matter where the money comes from — or the men, for that matter — all of us owe much to the enterprises which are opening the way to the West's buried oil treasure.

Clupea Alosa

THERE is a disquieting revelation in this trade news item, especially to sardines-on-toast addicts who confidently believe they're getting what they ordered. . .

"No small Canadian fish of the type commonly known in Canada as sardines can be sold in Belgium under that name. They must give some description such as 'Herrings'. The use of the word 'sardine' is restricted to fish of the 'clupea alosa' variety. . . Fish of any other type sold under the name 'sardine' is subject to seizure, and the retailers, wholesalers and importers concerned are subject to a heavy fine."

Small Fry Reaction

IN OUR preoccupation with the shrinkage of the consumer's dollar we have overlooked another victim of the times that has, if anything, suffered even greater indignities: The small boy's penny.

The dollar is taking a beating, unquestionably, but at least it's still an accepted medium of exchange. The lowly penny isn't worth its weight in peanuts.

There was a time when a cent would buy a licorice whistle, several marbles, a mouthful of bubble gum or a squint at a penny-arcade movie. A man could win a child's smile, and feel himself a philanthropist, for the price of a copper dropped loudly in a piggy bank.

Not any more.

Just try sneaking a penny into a piggy bank today. It can be embarrassing if you're caught. And anyway, the kid doesn't want it cluttering up his bank. Might give the piggy indigestion. Now if you've got any of that Shiny stuff, mister . . uh . . Gee, thanks!

A toy manufacturer in New Jersey has shown an elert sensitivity to the implications of this situation. The company has announced that its penny-bank line is being discontinued. From now on it will turn out banks geared to take nickels, dimes and quarters only.

People don't pinch pennies any more, it seems. They just carry them around in their pockets to pay the sales taxes.

This apparently explains the current shortage of pennies in the United States. The New York Times reports that odd-penny prices reflecting sales taxes and cost increases, along with the growing use of parking meters and vending machines, have created such an acute scarcity of coppers and other small coins that the U.S. mint has been working double shifts to step up production.

Break open that piggy bank, Junior — Daddy needs those old pennies more than you do!

THE Midland Free Press resents the recent blowoffs on newspapers at the Canadian labor convention, and challenges them to do as newspapers do . . . "instead of having compulsory check-offs made by the employers on your behalf under a year-long contract, why not sell your union activities and your union leadership voluntarily with no strings attached, like the editors and publishers sell their newspapers?"

MUSIC can be one of the most beautiful mediums of expression. It can also prove a menace to the nerves and an affliction to the ears. What "gets our goat" is the alleged "rearrangement" of many of the beautiful old songs and tunes of yesterday — observes the Wolfville (N.S.) Acadian.

Nature knows no pause in progress and development, and attaches her curse on all inaction.

A Legionnaire's Views on Brownsburg War Memorial

TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Watchman

Dear Sir:

The undersigned has read with interest the comments on the condition and care of the Brownsburg Cenotaph, which were made by the "special contributor" in last week's Watchman, and can only concur that the Brownsburg community does appear to have shown some reluctance in taking steps to record the names of its citizens who gave their lives in World War II. This procrastination, and I presume it is such, seems all the more strange in view of the remarkable energy with which this progressive community has tackled projects requiring much more time and effort. Over the past few years the Catholic Youth Committee has installed a swimming pool and playground, the Rotary Club of Brownsburg has purchased land and created a park, the Brownsburg Branch of the Legion has built a Memorial Hall, and the whole community is currently engaged in building a community rink. Remarkable achievements for such a small village as Brownsburg.

Perhaps there is some misunderstanding regarding the relationship between the Memorial Hall, which is now in process of being finished, and the Cenotaph which was erected after World War I. It was never the intention of the Legion that the Memorial Hall should take precedence over the Cenotaph in preserving the memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice. When campaigning for the Hall, the Legion had in mind a building which would provide a clubroom to keep its members together, and at the same time operate the Hall on behalf of the community. One of the promised features will be carried out, of course. There will be a "Shrine of Remembrance" wherein Rolls of Honor will be placed, but there has never been any thought that this would supersede the Cenotaph as a citizens' symbol of remembrance.

It is obviously out of place for the veterans themselves to initiate any action which might lead to the engraving of the names of their comrades who died in World War II on the public memorial at the Social Club, or even to try and tell the Village what it should do. The veterans do know, however, that other communities have already taken steps which seem to be appropriate. It has been observed too that other localities take adequate care of the sites on which their memorials stand.

If the citizens of Brownsburg are interested in taking some action, I am sure that they can count upon the co-operation of the Brownsburg Legion.

Yours sincerely,

— Sidney H. Stilwell, President.

After being rudely awakened on Sunday morning about six a.m. "by a freight train blowing at all crossings leaving Liverpool to the west", the editor of the Liverpool (N.S.) Advance editorially wonders "why is it that freight trains were running out of Liverpool on Sundays, anyways?" . . . Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Vansteelandt, of Tisdale, Sask., grabbed their rifles when they saw a bear in the wheatfield; got one and three cubs, between them. . . Mrs. Howard Long, at Blackfields, Alta., put one of her pullets at the head of the class when it presented her with a triple-yolked egg; a good way to beat the high cost of living.

"THINGS AN' STUFF"

The Cabin in the Hills

It's only a hut on a hilltop —
It's only a one-room shack,
And it's dark up there on the hilltop
'Neath the balsams and tamarac.
A place that we've often been to.
My Buddy and I ascend
The rough, steep path to the lean-to
From the road by the river bend.
The click of a key in the dark here —
The sound of a striking match!
No wonder we love to park here
Near the trout that we're going to catch.
My pal follows right behind me
With blankets, and bags of food.
While lighting the lamp he'll remind me
To bring in more kindling wood.
The old box-stove right at hand there —
We left it all set to light
So's to lose no time when we land there
On a rainy or freezing night —
The steak in the frying-pan sizzling —
Aroma of onions, too —
What do we care if it's drizzling?
We've many odd jobs to do.
The coffee-pot soon is boiling.
The table all set for two —
No danger of dinner spoiling —
We're hungry and thirsty too.
And after this gorgeous dinner
We sit and we just draw lots
To find out which lucky winner
Gets the best of the two camp cots.
For it's "Early to Bed" in the highlands
And our cares seem to float away
As we fall asleep in the silence
Till the dawn of a glorious day
When we're wakened by songbirds calling
And singing their songs of cheer
With the sound of water falling
O'er the rocks in the river near.
The week-end just seems like a minute.
It starts and ends like a flash.
But there's health and enjoyment in it
There's beans and there's corned beef hash.
It's only a rough-boarded cabin,
But some day we're going back
To that little hut on the hilltop
'Neath the balsams and tamarac.

From Legend to Life

Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh have won the hearts of Canadians everywhere. When their visit is history, Canadians will still treasure memories of two of the most popular visitors ever to come to these shores.

Before their visit, Elizabeth and Philip enjoyed great popularity in Canada, but it was a popularity that lacked the personal touch. They had been romantic headlines in a newspaper, a photograph posed in ancestral halls, two legendary figures moving amid ancient pomp and circumstance.

Their visit changed all that. They will leave behind them a deep sense of affection, and a new awareness and appreciation of traditions that flourish in the midst of troublous times. They represent England's tomorrows, dignified and ennobled by England's past. They are splendid reasons why "There'll Always Be An England". Canada's door will always be open to the Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

An Old Soldier Reminisces by Cenotaph

By G. J. Gillespie

An old soldier stood by the Cenotaph . . last night. Except for car noises and the rustling of fallen leaves, all was quiet.

He was thinking — remembering a young lawyer from Halifax with dark hair and a foreign name. The lawyer had pulled a platoon out of a tough spot near the Albert canal in Belgium on an Indian summer afternoon not so many years ago. He didn't pull himself out, though. His address now is a little white cross in a Belgium war cemetery.

The old soldier thought, too, of an Ontario lad he met one day on London's Strand. He died when his Swordfish plane was struck down in the North Sea.

And he also remembered the "see you later smile" when a young sailor cleared an East Coast port aboard the destroyer Margaree. In an ice-cold Atlantic the Margaree was cut down. And with her went the sailor with the cheery goodbye.

There was, too, the German jet pilot shot down in Eindhoven in Holland on 1945's sunny New Year's Day. He died calling for his mother.

All these things the old soldier remembered — and he walked away from the Cenotaph wondering — wondering if people today know what war means.

OBITUARY

Townslady Was Lifelong Resident

Late Mrs. Wm. Berry

The death of Mrs. William Berry, the former Annie Miller, occurred last Friday at her home on Main Street, Lachute, where at the advanced age of 85 she had been in indifferent health for some time past. She was the daughter of the late Charles Miller and his wife Mary Varte, old-time residents of Cote St. Louis, east of Lachute, where she was born in 1866. She was married to Wm. Berry, a businessman in the growing years of this town, and after whom the present Berry Street takes its name. Mrs. Berry had lived almost her entire life in Lachute. Her husband predeceased her about a quarter-century ago. There were no children born of their marriage and the deceased is survived only by a number of nephews, nieces and more distant relatives.

The Rev. W. B. Rosborough conducted the funeral service Monday afternoon at her home, and burial was made in the Lachute Cemetery. Pall-bearers were three nephews—Messrs. Wallace Miller, John Campbell, Randolph Miller, with P. Chabot, Dr. E. Christie and Clarence Miller.

She is survived also by three sisters, (Elsie) Mrs. Raymond Warwick, of Mabel, (Iris) Mrs. Ray Derouin, of St. Philippe, (Jean) Mrs. Lorne Wert, of Normetal, Que.; and two brothers, Henderson, of Lachute, and Milton, of Port Credit, Ont. (Another brother, Ross, of Ogdensburg, died yesterday in a Hawkesbury hospital, causing a double bereavement in this family.)

The late Mrs. McKenzie after her marriage had resided first in Ottawa, then in Dalhousie, and she and her family had visited occasionally with relatives and friends in this district. She was a loving wife and mother, active in welfare organizations, and will be greatly missed by her family and friends.

The funeral service, which was largely attended, was held from the late residence of the deceased to St. John's United Church, Dalhousie, on Friday, and was conducted by the Rev. Mr. McLean. Interment was made at Mil' West Cemetery, New Brunswick.

Among those attending from a distance were Mr. Fred Townsend, Mrs. Ray Derouin, Mrs. Raymond Warwick, Mr. Milton Townsend, Mr. Henderson Townsend; and Mr. Gilbert McKenzie, of Ottawa, father-in-law of the late Mrs. McKenzie.

IN MEMORIAM

MacRAE — Loving memories of a dear husband and dad, Malcolm R. MacRae, who passed away Nov. 11, 1948. — Remembered always by his loving wife, son Russell, and daughters, Ethel and Dorothy.

"When the Lord said, 'You have finished,
Come up higher (Dad, dear)
You have won a crown in heaven
By your love and kindness here'.
We remember well our sorrow
As we stood beside your bed,
Our deep and heartfelt anguish
When we saw that you were dead.
We miss your kind and willing hand,
Your fond and loving care,
Our home is dark without you, Dad,
We miss you everywhere."

NIXON — In loving memory of my dear wife Rhoda, who passed away Nov. 18, 1949. — Ever remembered by her husband, Eddie.

"I mourn for you in silence,
No eyes can see me weep,
Many a silent tear is shed
While others are asleep.
If all the world were mine to give,
I'd give it, yes and more,
Just to see your smiling face
Coming through the door."

NIXON — In loving memory of my dear mother, who passed away Nov. 18, 1949. — Lovingly remembered by her daughter, Rita.

"You can only have one mother,
Patient, kind and true;
No other friend in all the world
Will be as true to you.
For all her loving kindness
She asked nothing in return.
If all the world deserted me,
To my Mother I could turn.
She often said I'd miss her.
Those words have proved too true.
I lost my best and dearest friend,
Dear Mom, when I lost you."

NIXON — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, who passed away Nov. 18, 1949. — Ever remembered by her son, Alton, Ethel and children.

"With tears we watched you sinking,
We watched you fade away,
We tended you with loving care,
But could not make you stay.
We watched beside your bedside
As the lonely hours passed,
And how our hearts were broken
When we knew you breathed your last."

In Brownsburg

Specially contributed to The Watchman

Brownsburg honored in silent and prayerful meditation the memories of those who lost their lives in the wars, at an impressive ceremony around the Cenotaph on Sunday. The local Legion affiliates had charge of the arrangements, and a very inspiring turnout was witnessed. The whole affair was carried out with military precision, yet withal possessed a sincere devotional atmosphere. The Rev. S. J. Pike was the principal speaker and a high religious note actuated his address. Various societies and business establishments sent delegates to lay wreaths at the foot of the monument, which was done with reverent and simple dignity.

Dedication

After the Cenotaph ceremonies most of those attending crowded into the United Church, where a splendid new organ was dedicated to the memory of Brownsburg's soldiers for freedom. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., very graciously gave the main address, and S. H. Stilwell, Legion president, spoke on the deeds and personnel who were honored in the dedication.

Distracting

During the course of the Cenotaph proceedings, passing automobiles caused considerable distraction and adverse comment. It would be well for those in charge to police the streets during such ceremonies. It would be well also to acquaint those offenders with what has become a national and world-wide institution — the two minutes' silence.

Caisse Populaire

A branch of this popular banking system has been organized here, and a campaign is now in progress to sign up a minimum of 150 depositors. The Rev. Paul Monseau is active in the matter and great progress has already been reported.

Cancer Society

An executive meeting of the above Society was held at the Social Club on Friday evening, with Mrs. Harold Barber, vice-president, in the chair. Miss Ann David, secretary, read the correspondence and reported on the progress of the membership campaign. Appointments to the advisory board were noted, and as the roster had not been completed the matter was adjourned to next meeting for more detailed study. Educational and publicity material was distributed, and promise of further supplies for general distribution recorded. Messrs. King Amos, Gaston Proulx, Ozzie Blouin and M. V. Trayers were the other members present. Mrs. Steve Istanffy, president of the Welfare Division of the Society, reported on the progress achieved since the branch was instituted.

Discarding Report Cards

Parents who have been befuddled by the system of marking their children's school report cards, will possibly send out the international distress call, S.O.S., when the newly innovated Ontario system (O-S-U) comes into general use.

No more will pupils be in a position to compare the result of their work with the other members of their class, nor can parents discover who came where, in passing merit. The three letters O-S-U are to stand for Outstanding, Satisfactory and Unsatisfactory. The designated letter will show how a child or student is developing his personality, attitudes and sense of responsibility, in comparison with his previous self. Percentages will be done away with. A pupil who under the present system rates 65% may be marked "U". Another of similar percentage rating 65% may be marked "O"; because rated against their previous selves, the first may be considered capable of doing much better, while the other may be working over his head. The new system treats each pupil as an individual instead of comparing him with everyone else.

This method is at present in vogue in Toronto and is regarded as one of the biggest steps in an educational movement that has been going on in the Queen City for several years.

That Stubborn Streak !

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"I'm at my wits' end to know what to do with Tommy! He's so stubborn — and the more battles I have with him the worse he gets. If I thought he would grow out of this obstinate streak, I wouldn't wory. But Tommy just seems to have been born contrary!"

Did you ever hear parents talking like Tommy's mother? A very stubborn child is certainly a trial! He is far from "easy to live with" because of his unyielding, inflexible attitude. He knows what he wants to do and he resolves wholeheartedly to follow his own path, and listen to no one.

Parents often are baffled by a son or daughter who is intractable. If they let their child always have his or her own way, happy home living is out of the question. If they continually try to correct and punish him, he meets force with force or retires into a sullen, sulking mood.

The underlying causes of a child's stubborn streak should be sought. Why does he behave in this way? Underneath his bold front, is he really quite unsure of himself? Is he battling to assert himself and win his place amongst older brothers and sisters or companions?

The stubborn child is not at peace with himself. His obstinateness is a form of anger. He is waging war against his environment.

Puzzled mothers and fathers of a stubborn youngster should examine their own handling of his small world.. What about the child's routine? Are there too many "musts", and not enough freedom in his day?

The reverse may be the case. The child may lack a definite pattern of happenings. A small child likes to know what to expect and a lack of order and system makes him uncertain and sometimes obstinate.

Special occasions do arise which interfere with the usual routine. But parents will have less trouble with stubbornness if they consistently follow a planned day.

Once parents have revised the child's schedule so that there are a certain number of minimum requirements, they should also decide how they are going to get more co-operation from their child. The impersonal suggestion, "The clock says almost twelve o'clock. Let's start getting ready for dinner", is much to be preferred to "You must come to your dinner at once"—(in a tone which implies, just dare resist me and you will soon find out what will happen to you!)

The friendly approach often works wonders with a stubobrn child. It need not lack firmness. But a child needs to know that no matter how difficult he is, his parents love him. They believe he is really trying to do his best, but they don't expect perfection either.

The stubborn child does not forfeit his mother's affection by his contrariness. Perhaps he is making a bid for a little more demonstration of her love. His mother may be very busy, and this is his way of getting her attention.

The latter part of the day is the time when mothers and children get into the greatest number of tangles. Likely mother is fatigued — but the child is probably tired too.

Occasionally observing a longer rest period after the noon meal, or an earlier bed-time will reduce the number of clashes between the child and adults in authority. More sleep is good medicine for many minor childish problems of behaviour.

Parents should receive some comfort from the knowledge that most children pass through a longer or shorter period of resistance to adult authority. Children who are high-spirited may really amount to something. Plutarch commented that "The wildest colts make the best horses".

Stubornness is not completely to be deplored. Lord Erskine pointed out "That which is called firmness in a king is called obstinacy in a donkey". The stubborn child may, as he grows, stop his battles with individuals. He may re-direct his energy into struggling with real problems.

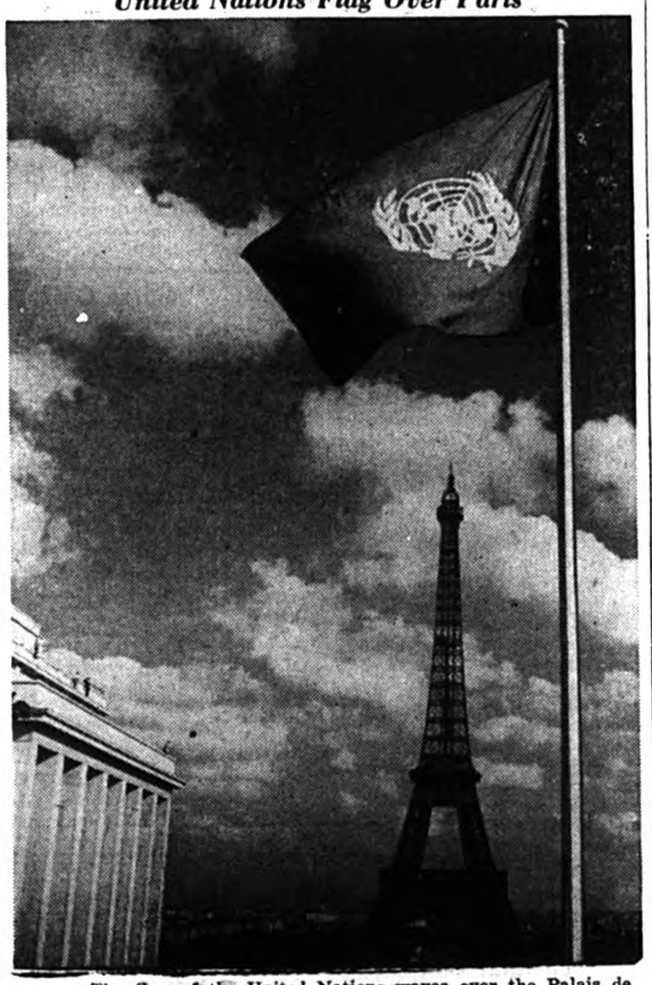

Some of our greatest reformers, some of the most brilliant research scientists, were likely dubbed "stubobrn" in their childhood! But they learned, by wise guidance and their own experience not to be easily discouraged. They managed to persevere, in the face of obstacles, until they reached their goal.

Northern Crees Take to Farming

The Pas, Man. (CP)—Agriculture is slowly but surely replacing the traditional traplines and fishing of the northern Cree Indian in this district.

With the rolling back of Canada's frontiers, trapping is no longer the big business it used to be. At one time — during the year 1911 — more than $700,000 worth of muskrat pelts alone were shipped from The Pas.

The Indians now have climbed on the agricultural bandwagon and are making a success of it. Lands in the rich Carrot River valley are feeling the bite of the plow for the first time. Three parcels of land totalling more than 1,000 acres in small uninhabited reserves are in the process of being broken.

Indian Affairs superintendent Eric Law says the program is the first phase of a long plan to wean the Cree from his hereditary calling of hunter and fisherman and make him a farmer. It may mean economic independence for Manitoba's Indians in a hitherto untried field.

Although subject to official approval, the Indians are being encouraged to make their own decisions in line with the new Indian Act which went into force September 4.

At that time, Citizenship Minister Harris said the first major revision of Indian legislation in 71 years would give Canada's 136,000 Indians greater powers over their own property and affairs.

Sees Lack of Progress – Lachute Needs New Industries, Population

TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Watchman:

Every citizen of Lachute is convinced that the population, and sources of income, should be increasing. To keep abreast with progress we must have good water, in adequate supply; good streets; good police supervision — in fact, we require all the necessities of a normal city of 25,000 or 30,000 population. And all these necessities have to be paid for by a small group of proprietors, while the cost of living goes up and sources of income decrease.

What will happen? Fathers who must find bread, fuel and shelter for their families, will drift away, and our town will retrogress accordingly.

We are not alone in these observations. An American engineer of wide experience, visiting here, remarked that he was astonished to see a town, of such strategic position and attractions for both business and industry, having only three or four manufactures and only 5,000 or 6,000 population. According to his opinion, Lachute should have 35,000 inhabitants, and at least 20 or 25 industries.

There is truth in this statement — but how shall we go about securing new industries and more population? What must we offer, to attract business to this town in preference to another? There is an old proverb which says, "One teaspoonful of honey will bring more flies than a barrel of vinegar". If we have nothing interesting to offer, we cannot hope to attract newcomers. People settling here must be assured of home and security, for themselves and their families.

The problem of our town is serious. And its remedy would be to the benefit of every citizen. I wish to bring the situation to public attention, for it demands the thought of every resident and organization. It needs suggestions from every angle, it needs study and determination of every group and club, and of our civic council. A community that does not go ahead will inevitably go back. We need every shoulder to the wheel, to make Lachute one of the most prosperous towns in Quebec Province. I am sure a solution can be found.

Triple "Sweet Sixteen"

A Three-fold Birthday

— By D. L. Lincoln, R.N. —

— Portrait by Chas. M. Annett

When three share sixteen years — it's fun! say the triplet daughters of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Acres, of 832 Wilder Avenue, Outrémont — and Lachute's summer neighbors at Lake Louisa. In fact, sharing is part of the happiness of living, according to Mabel, Marjory and Margaret, who will be "sweet sixteen" on Sunday, November 18.

To begin with, they have a bewildering likeness to one another. Their luxuriant, auburn-lighted brown hair, their blue eyes, and pretty, heart-shaped faces, have frequently confused observers through the years. As recently as last summer their partners at the Lake Louisa Country Club dances often asked Mrs. Acres to tell them which was which, when the girls, for fun, exchanged their different-colored sweaters.

They share their friends — girl friends, that is! (Now, if one of the trio begins to show a preference for a boy's company, the other two, with an affection and understanding far surpassing that of "separate" sisters, loyally hold off!) And studies — they are all tenth-year students at Trafalgar School in Montreal, all practically neck-and-neck in scholastic progress. Throughout their lives, toys and games and clothes and hobbies have been triple pleasures. They excel equally in swimming and skating and dancing — and to round out this picture of a delightful threesome, they are expert housekeepers.

From that memorable morning in 1935, when the tiny girls were all born within four minutes, Mrs. Acres, a trained nurse and already the mother of a two-year-old son, decided that their lives must be exceedingly well planned, if order rather than chaos were to reign in the busy household. And the result of that careful training is indeed a credit to the proud parents.

These healthy, well-developed girls can cook and dress-make; they can clean, and wash, and iron — and what's more, they do! To relieve their mother they share the household chores with a cheery willingness not usually shown by youngsters of their age.

And Longfellow notwithstanding, there seems no reluctance here in three pairs of feet "standing" simultaneously on womanhood's threshold. On the contrary the triplets appear anxious to leave childhood behind, and to be about the business of growing up. Teaching and stenography appeal to them at present, but their nurse-mother still hopes they will change their minds and take up hospital training after school days are over. Already, with Mrs. Acres, they are members of the General Hospital's Women's Auxiliary — which familiarity with healing should give that worthy and much-to-be-desired leaven a chance to work in them! And what a riot those three smiling, almost-identical faces would be on any hospital staff!

The Watchman, and we, salute you — Mabel, Marjory, and Margaret — and wish you a very happy birthday. In agreement, this time, with Longfellow, we can say as he did in "Maidenhood":

". . . Bear through sorrow, wrong and ruth,
In thy heart the dew of youth,
On thy lips the smile of truth.

And that smile like sunshine, dart
Into many a sunless heart,
For a smile of God thou art."

KINDLY GESTURE

TO BOOST RIBBON SALES

A ribbon company is offering retailers a gadget called a bow spinner which makes decorative ribbon bows and pompons automatically. The company claims it can teach an inexperienced girl in fifteen minutes to turn out 150 to 180 bows an hour on the machine, compared with 12 to 15 bows per hour by hand. The machine is being leased to department and chain stores for use in the Christmas wrapping season.

Local Associations in Legend of "Sim's Spring"

Older residents of this district will remember one of Lachute's former citizens, John Earnest William Simpson. "Simmy", as he was known by his close friends, was quite a hockey enthusiast; he left Lachute for the West, and became a successful farmer, about the turn of the century. One summer was spent in Montana, where, in the course of his travels, he discovered a spring. . . A Watchman reader, Mrs. Lulu Bradford, while visiting recently in Wolf Point, viewed the so-called Sim's Spring and enjoyed a drink of its sparkling water. This lady has kindly forwarded a copy of the plaque which hangs in the spring house, and which is reproduced herewith. (Mr. Simpson, it may be noted, passed away in Calgary, Alta.)

Sim's Spring

Named for John Earnest William Simpson, veteran of the Boer War and World War I, an early settler in Saskatchewan. . . Sim, as he was affectionately known, from the muddy trenches of France to the trails of Peace River, spent one summer in Montana.

Once, early in the season, Sim stopped at this spring, and was delighted with the fresh, cold water. Later in the season, while hauling corral poles from the Missouri River to the present Neil Taylor Ranch, Sim insisted that the noon camp be made at his spring; but when the teamsters, hot, dry and dusty, and an hour past camping time, reached the spring, it was dry, as in hot dry summers the water did not rise to the surface. As the weary travellers were obliged to hitch up and go on to Box Elder, Sim was razzed unmercifully, and he was told by his cowboy friends that he was crazy and that there never had been any water at this place. Sim was very much chagrined to have his judgment, his sanity and his ability as a plainsman questioned. However, before Sim passed away in Calgary, Alberta, his friends sent him word that the State of Montana had built a road across his spring and was obliged to spend many thousands of dollars draining the water out from under the roadbed!

Assoc. Country Women 7th Triennial Conference. To Be Held in Canada

The Associated Country Women of the World will hold their 7th Triennial Conference in Canada. This country's invitation was accepted at the time of the biennial convention of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada this past June, and word has just been received by the national president, Mrs. Hugh Summers, Fonthill, Ont., that the A.C.W.W. has now set the date. This will be Aug. 12 to 23, 1953, with place of meeting the Royal York Hotel, Toronto. The theme of the conference will be, "How can the countrywoman as an individual and through her society take a more active part in international work?"

Several committees were set up at the F.W.I.C. convention to make arrangements for this important event, with Mrs. Summers heading the all-over A.C.W.W. Conference Committee. Mrs. G. D. Harvey, Stanbridge East, 1st vice-president of Quebec Women's Institutes, is a member of the pre- and post-Conference Tours committee, with Mrs. Howard Thomas, Woodstock, N.B., as chairman. All provinces are being asked to suggest plans for these tours and a special request has been made that they should give an opportunity to observe Adult Education Centres and for making informal visits at farm homes.

The Q.W.I. president, Mrs. G. E. LeBaron, of North Hatley, is convener of the Exhibits Committee and W.I. members in all provinces will be advised shortly of preliminary plans for this feature of the conference.

Lachute String Ensemble Performs at Rio Theatre

On Monday evening patrons of the Rio Theatre were entertained with a musical interlude during the intermission, by the Lachute String Ensemble. The "King Rose" overture was the first selection, a composition of four varying phrases, which was followed by a breezy "Dance of the Goblins". The ensemble was under the baton of Angelo Fassio.

This group, composed almost equally of French and English members, has been in existence for over three years, and is seeking to increase its membership. A cordial invitation is extended to anyone in this vicinity to join, and contacts may be made through Miss Monique Charlebois, Messrs. Burt Millar and Angelo Fassio in Lachute, and Mr. Jack McIndoe in Brownsburg.

In 1939 personal income taxes paid by Canadians were $61 million and personal savings excluding farm inventories were $260 million; in 1950 personal income taxes were $613 million and personal savings were $645.

There are separate schools for religious minorities in four provinces, Protestant in Quebec and Roman Catholic in three others.

Past-Masters' Night

Monday evening was an extra special occasion at the regular monthly meeting of Argenteuil Lodge No. 67, A.F. & A.M., held in the Masonic Hall here. It was Past-Masters' Night, and while one of these functions is held each year, this one was unique in the fact that the officers were all Masons of over 40 years' standing, and all members of this lodge with one exception. To witness the proceedings at this meeting, which consisted of First Degree work, it was difficult to realize that the veterans were all over 60 years of age, and many comments were passed regarding the efficiency of their work. Worshipful Bro. W. J. Graham, who was responsible for the major part of the ceremonies, occupied the Master's chair; he was heartily congratulated, along with his officers, on their splendid work.

Refreshments were served at the close, and a social hour was spent by the large number who attended. Present were also some 20 younger Past Masters of this lodge, with Wor. Bro. Harold E. Barber, the present Master, who expressed sincere appreciation to all who had taken part.

The degree officers comprised — Wor. Bro. W. J. Graham, W.M.; Rt. Wor. Bro. H. M Gall, I.P.M.; Wor. Bro. John Dixon, S.W.; Wor. Bro. Walker Wert, J.W.; Rt. Wor. Bro. W. MacMillan, S.D.; Rt. Wor. Bro. F. A. Brennian, J.D.; Wor. Bro. W. J. Boyd, I.G.

Bro. MacMillan on behalf of the Past Masters expressed appreciation for the honor and pleasure it had afforded them in putting on this First Degree.

Annual Meeting, Local Branch Bible Society

1804 — 1954

In 1954 the British and Foreign Bible Society will be celebrating its 150th birthday. . . Just think, over 580-million copies of the Bible distributed, in some 800 languages. . . . What has your share been in this?

How many Canadians keep the "Book of Books" closed — unread? How deeply the world situation could be affected by a return to the Bible — by our nation, by our neighbors, by ourselves!

At the annual meeting of the local branch of this Society, held in the Lachute Baptist Church last Sunday, the Rev. De Courcy Rayner, district secretary, presented a beautful and informative film depicting the work in Western Canada of "God's packmen", or colporteurs, "the men with the Book". These men do not wait for people to come to them, but rather they take the Bible to the people, and in a very real sense they are doing missionary work.

It is gratifying to know that the Bible is in greater demand today than in any other period of the Society's history, according to Rev. Rayner; but let us bear in mind that the cost of production has risen by 3½ times — and let us give generously when the canvassers call, so that we may share in the great Christian work.

The slate of officers for the ensuing year is as follows: Hon. president, J. S. Giles; president, the Rev. G. T. Spriggs, vice-presidents, the local clergy; treasurer, Burns Kingsbury; secretary, Mrs. George McGibbon.

Anniversary Services at Lachute United Church, Sunday, November 25

The evening service will be conducted by the Young People's Union, and the guest preacher will be the Rev. Guy W. Case, M.A., B.D., of Cushing. This will be followed by a Fireside Hour, in the hall of the church.

Church Sees Laxity In Law Enforcement

Ottawa (CP) — The Ottawa Presbytery of the United Church of Canada has decided to send an official protest to the Quebec Attorney-General's Office against what it termed the "laxity of law enforcement" in parts of western Quebec near the capital.

A resolution passed this week called on the Attorney-General "to clean up a situation which has become a menace to decency, to life upon the highways and elsewhere and in general to the regard for law and order."

It said the "laxity" prevails in the Quebec counties of Pontiac, Gatineau, Papineau, Wright and Hull.

Factor Is Watchmaker For Indians, Eskimos

Great Whale River, Que. (CP) — Indians and Eskimos in this area of northwestern Quebec 450 miles north of Moosonee, readily admit that the white man's method of telling time is better than their own.

As a result, many of them own watches from the $3 variety to the most expensive makes. Watches raise the question of repairs, and who is to make them.

The answer is Roy Jeffrey, 33-year-old manager of the Hudson's Bay Company post here.

Jeffrey is watchmaker to the wandering Eskimo seal-hunters who paddle their kayaks along the storm-swept shore of Hudson Bay.

His spot is situated on the east coast of Hudson Bay where the Indians and Eskimos meet. About 150 of each trade at the post. Jeffrey estimates the natives own about 60 watches, and admits they keep his evening hours busy.

On his trips to the outside the post manager has brought back a number of tools to help him in his watch-fixing hobby.

"I'm completely equipped", he says, "though the supply of parts for all makes is not readily available".

Jeffrey speaks fluent Eskimo and says of the natives:

"They are an honest, decent people."

Use Your Freezer

The recent advancement in freezing food to preserve it enables many homemakers to store a great variety of different products this way. The home economists of the Consumer Section at Ottawa, say that freezing is one of the most practical and highly appreciated developments of our day. It is quite natural that homemakers wonder sometimes, what they used for that extra special dessert when they did not have frozen strawberries or all the other out-of-season frozen delicacies they use so nonchalantly today. Of course, not everyone in Canada is able to have a home freezer, but there are a great number of locker plants throughout the ten provinces. When homemakers take advantage of such freezing facilities, they find it a simple matter to conserve large quantities of foods. For those who have neither a locker nor a freezer, a host of commercially frozen foods are available in the shops.

A freezer or locker is a real boon to the busy career girl or to the homemaker who goes to business or is active in club work. To them meal-getting may prove quite a problem. Coming home after a busy day, there may be neither time nor energy to prepare foods which require long slow cooking. Here is where frozen foods can save the day. Such things as baked beans, stews and soups can be prepared in three or four times the regular amount, then divided up into cartons and frozen for future meals. Just think of sitting down to a Saturday night supper of baked beans and brown bread prepared and frozen a month before hand. With careful planning even the extra busy person can freeze a good supply of fruits and vegetables to use when they are out of season, for it takes little time and energy to get them ready for freezing. In this way, with a variety of foods practically ready to use, preparing meals does become a simple matter.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, have been carrying on some tests on storing frozen cooked foods. The results of this work show that all cooked meats or poultry freeze well, but there are a few points to keep in mind when freezing them.

1. Meats or poultry must be properly wrapped or packaged in moisture-vapour-proof material.

2. Cooked meats and smoked pork products generally should not be stored longer than three months.

3. If creamed mixtures or mixtures containing gravy become grainy on thawing they should be placed over hot water in a double boiler and stirred until smooth.

Many and many a time, unexpected guests drop in or visitors arrive just at a time when the poor hostess has neither a cookie nor a piece of cake in the house. Large quantities of plain cookies such as refrigerator cookies, butter cookies, or rolled oat cookies may be baked and frozen in small lots to meet such an emergency. Plain butter cakes or sponge or angel cakes freeze perfectly and fruit cake is excellent too. One reminder though, is, that it is not practical to ice the cookies or cakes before freezing. The icing may become squashed and some types of icing do not freeze well, so cakes should be iced just before serving.

With Christmas season approaching it is a good idea to have a cookie making bee and make up several kinds. Then when they are needed they are ready to use at short notice as they take very little time to thaw. Leaving them in the kitchen for about an hour should be long enough.

With some types of entertaining, sandwiches are a necessity but often for such occasions it is a problem to get them ready. It is good to know that a variety of sandwiches may be made in advance. All that needs to be done is to remove them from the freezer a couple of hours before they are to be eaten. Fillings such as ground meats, cheese, fish or poultry are excellent. In freezing sandwiches the main points to remember are, in the first place, do not use too much mayonnaise in the fillings as the mayonnaise tends to separate on freezing and the bread may become soggy. Secondly, don't make sandwiches of fresh vegetables such as cucumber or tomatoes because they do not freeze well. In the third place, do not freeze hard-cooked egg fillings because the white tends to become tough and porous. Most important of all, package the sandwiches in wrappings sold specially for freezing foods.

Gaily colored vegetables have a festive air when topped with cheese. Parsnips, onions, tomatoes, squash all make a fine showing. (Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture).

The average Canadian woman uses eight pairs of full fashioned hosiery annually.

Songster

Acting and singing go hand in hand, says Alan Mills of Montreal, who proves his point by impersonating the heroine of one of the ditties he sings over the CBC. Mills wrote this one himself and it's a favorite with his listeners this season — all about an old lady who swallowed a fly, a spider that came to catch it, and so on down the line ending up with a horse. It fits right in with the Mills theory that "every song tells a story".

Wedding of Interest to Brownsburg Community

Mason - Clay

A pretty double-ring wedding was solemnized recently in Griffin United Church at Weyburn, Sask., when Ruby Norene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Clay, became the bride of John Harold, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mason, of Brownsburg, Que.

Before an altar banked with ferns and decorated with lighted tapers and rosebuds, the Rev. Morrison, of Creelman, performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a white nylon marquisette floor length gown with fitted bodice, lily point sleeves and overskirt trimmed with Chantilly lace; the gown ended in a long full flowing train. She wore a halo hat and carried a white Bible with orchid corsage. Her only ornament was a rhinestone pendant, gift of the groom.

Attending her was her sister, Shirley Anne, dressed in a gown of yellow eyelet embroidered organdy with matching headdress and gloves. She carried a nosegay of white baby mums and red carnations.

The groom was attended by Mr. Harry Clay, brother of the bride. Ushers were Gordon Fyvie and Eddy Button. Wedding music was played by Mrs. E. H. McDowell.

During the signing of the register, Donald McLean, Fillmore, sang "Because", accompanied by Miss Muriel Stewart.

A reception for 90 guests followed the ceremony, in the Griffin Community Hall. Receiving with the bride and groom were the bride's parents and the groom's mother.

The bride's mother wore a grey crepe dress with wine accessories and rose corsage. The groom's mother wore a grey figured crepe dress with black accessories and yellow rose corsage.

The bride's table was centred by a three-tiered wedding cake flanked by candles and embedded in white tulle. Pansies decorated the tables, and streamers and white bells decorated the hall. At the reception, Donald McLean sang, "Oh Promise Me". The toast to the bride was proposed by Wayne Squires and the toast to the bride's mother was proposed by the groom.

For a motor trip to Vancouver, via the United States, the bride chose a cream wool suit with rust accessories and orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Mason will reside in New Westminster.

Modelling Flair Proves Money Maker

Ottawa (CP) — Margaret Foot was both composer and music teacher before a whim caused her to pick up a chisel and start making life-like dolls.

Winston Churchill was the first she made, then came Prime Minister St. Laurent, External Affairs Minister Pearson and Trade Minister Howe.

While London-born Miss Foot has always been interested in drawing and painting, only r cently did she turn to making dolls.

She uses clay for the heads — usually the size of a small plum — and stovepipe wire stuffed with cotton wool for the bodies.

"I try to keep the girls in long dresses to save modelling the legs", she says, "but if they must show them, I make them of clay too."

The feet are fashioned from upholstery nails stuck into the wooden base she uses to mount her statuettes. Real hair goes into the more elaborate coiffures, but for close-cropped styles she just molds the plaster.

Each figure takes her five hours of concentrated work.

Grenville Consolidated School News

— By Willis Young —

An Armistice Service was held in the school gymnasium on Monday morning, November 12th. Remembrance prayers were read by the Rev. P. R. Stote and by Willis Young. Grades I, II, III and IV joined in singing the hymn, "Jesus Loves Me"; Grade V sang, "God of Our Fathers", and Grade VI recited "In Flanders Fields". Emily Thurrot (Grade VIII) sang "From Ocean unto Ocean", and Jean Beaven (Grade IX) sang "My Faith Looks Up to Thee". Following this Mr. Fraser, the French specialist, spoke a few words honoring those who died in the two World Wars. Then all the classes together sang, "Oh, God, Our Help in Ages Past", followed by the national anthems.

Two much-enjoyed films were shown to the pupils on Tuesday. The titles were "Goolabah Tree" and "Charles Dickens' Christmas Carol".

Lachute Boy Scouts

Cameron MacKimmie, a boy suffering from rheumatic fever in the Children's Memorial Hospital, Montreal, would like to become a fellow Scout of the 1st Lachute Troop. He is feeling lonely away from home, and has requested some of the Boy Scouts to send him letters.

Last week four boys passed their Tenderfoot badge, and were invested into the troop — George Bennett, Angus McDonald, Reggie Stansfield and Hugh Dobbie, who are now members of the 1st Lachute Troop.

The Scouts are holding another waste paper drive on Saturday, November 24.

Quebec Assembly Passes Old Age Pensions Bill

THE WEEK IN QUEBEC
By Bernard Dufresene

Quebec, Nov. 13 (CP) — Old age pensions legislation, which now goes before Quebec's legislative council, last week received speedy unanimous approval in the legislative assembly. First major piece of legislation after opening of the session last Wednesday, the pensions bill was adopted after two days of debate. It provides for a $40 monthly pension to the needy, aged 65 to 69. The Federal and Provincial Governments will share evenly in the cost of this category of pensions. Pensions to people 70 or over will be paid entirely by the Federal Government, regardless of means.

The eight-man Liberal opposition, headed by George Marler, approved the bill with reservations because:

1. The measure should have stated clearly the government's obligation to pay the $40 monthly pensions to people fulfilling the age and means test requirements:

2. The Provincial law should have provided a right of appeal for persons who felt they were entitled to pensions but whose applications are refused.

Mr. Marler thought that without these stipulations the new Provincial Social Allowances Commission in control of all pensions and allowances payments would have "arbitrary powers".

Premier Duplessis said the Quebec Government could not make such stipulations in a bill in which the Federal and Provincial governments were concerned.

The Pension bill also provides for pensions to needy persons not fully qualified under Federal-Provincial regulations.

The pensions will cost the Provincial treasury $8,000,000 the first year, Premier Duplessis said, adding that no new tax would be imposed to cover these expenditures.

High School Pupils Star in Radio Program -- Initiated Into Broadcast Technique

Sunday Afternoon CFCF Feature Enjoyed By Large Listening-Audience in This Area

Most of the radio dials in homes around Lachute and district were tuned to CFCF on Sunday afternoon to hear the "School of the Week" broadcast — which on this occasion featured the Lachute High School.

The three-quarter hour program consisted of choral and instrumental music, interviews, and a debate. Since all of the departments in the school could not take part, the Music, English and Agriculture departments participated in order to provide the greatest variety in the limited time allotted.

After Bill Petly, the CFCF announcer, had introduced Principal F. H. J. Royal — and having given some statistics concerning population of the town and school — the program was given over to Shirley McKyes, County Music Supervisor, and the Lachute High School senior choir. This choir sang "The Czechoslovakian Dance Song", followed by the selection "Angels We Have Heard on High". Later on in the program, the Junior Choir performed, and the High School Band, ably led by Bill Steeves, provided the instrumental music.

The clarinet lesson, an interesting diversion, proved that a long period of learning must precede a polished musical performance such as was presented by the local high school students on Sunday.

The Agriculture program was presented in the form of an interview with Keith Russell, county schools Agriculture Director, and three of his students representing those schools in the county where Agriculture is a part of the curriculum. Anita Morrow, of Brownsburg, explained why girls take Agriculture, and some of the things they study in a course on farming. Marvin Moncrieff, of Grenville, and Ronald Noble, of Lachute, further explained the subject matter of the course. Since three of the five schools in Quebec where Agriculture is taught are in this county, it was thought that the emphasis placed on Agriculture in this program may encourage other schools to include the course in their curriculum.

The Grade XI English classes presented a debate for the radio public: "Resolved that Farming, as a career, offers as many advantages as a career in a town or city". Chaired by Miss Elizabeth Stanton, Lachute High School English teacher, the affirmative was upheld by Wilmer Andrews and Ann MacGibbon, of the Grade XI-A class, while Val Pattee and Marilyn Grey, of Grade XI-B, argued the negative.

The affirmative speakers pointed out that the farmer is assured of an income because his products are always in demand. He enjoys better working conditions, and his leisure time is more profitably spent than if he lived in town. Since the farmer's business is "at his back door", his family life is more complete. Because he owns his business, he takes more pride in his work, and enjoys greater security.

The negative speakers countered that the town-dweller has shorter working hours and greater social, cultural and educational advantages. They argued that the town worker is better remunerated for his work and has greater opportunities for advancement.

Wilmer Andrews wound up the debate with a powerful rebuttal, in which he refuted most of the major points presented by the negative speakers. The decision of the judges was awarded in favor of the affirmative.

The preparation of the "School of the Week" broadcast proved to be almost as interesting as the program itself — it is reported by those who took part. To radio listeners who may have visualized a hundred students and teachers crowded into the CFCF studio in the city last Sunday afternoon — it may be explained that the whole program was recorded on a soundtape at the High School on Friday, November 9. The different parts of the program were recorded — the strip being cut and later patched together to put everything in coherent order. When recording in this way, it is possible to "erase" any portion which is not quite "up to scratch". This part can be performed again. Embarrassing pauses can also be cut out of the tape — a considerable boon to amateurs in the radio game.

One problem that must be overcome, especially with a music group, is to set the microphones so that each voice or instrumental group is brought in with the proper emphasis. The "mikes" must be advanced, set back, raised or lowered, until the desired volume is obtained and the technician gives the "go ahead".

Sound effects present another problem — as illustrated by the gum-chewing episode in this program. For the first attempt, a piece of chalk was thrown into a waste-paper can; the second time a black-board eraser was used. (Incidentally, "Mary" was characterized by Myrna Gaston, and the little act was written into the script to add a humorous touch).

Gives Picture of Post-War Germany

ROTARY FOUNDATION SCHOLAR ADDRESSES CLUB AT BROWNSBURG

Frederick Wilhelm Jannsen, of Germany, a Rotary Foundation Scholar, was guest speaker at the Rotary Club last week. He spoke on the Political and Economic Conditions of Post-War Germany. .

According to Mr. Jannsen there has been tremendous progress made in rebuilding the economy of Germany (mainly Eastern Germany). Yet there are many problems facing the government. The government was rebuilt from the ground up after the war; this has been a tremendous achievement in itself.

Western Germany is about one-half the size of Quebec Province, and yet has a population of about 45 million. This, of course, presents a housing problem, which has been partially met by the building of 400,000 dwellings. Before the war the Eastern and Western sections supplied each other with many commodities, and now the West must get these elsewhere.

During the Nazi regime much (now worthless) money was circulated. After the war this currency was replaced by American cigarettes, and in 1948 the currency of the country was reformed. Also, in 1948 rationing was abolished as a direct result of the Marshall Plan.

Factories and industries which were wholly or partially destroyed during the war, are now being slowly rebuilt. In the transportation system, trucks are beginning to replace trains as the main means of transport, even though gasoline sells at eighty cents a gallon.

Official Opening of B'burg School Addition

An event of community importance will be witnessed at Brownsburg this Friday evening — the official opening of the addition to the Intermediate School. The new extension and remodelling has made this centre virtually a new school, and the opening ceremonies will fittingly mark the occasion as a milestone in the progress of Brownsburg Village.

Among those specially invited for the occasion are — Dr. W. P. Percival, Director of Protestant Education for the Province of Quebec; Philippe Valois, M.P.; W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A.; and representatives of the civic and educational authorities in Brownsburg.

Staynv'l Landslide Harmless Spectacle

"In Brownsburg"

(Specially Contributed)

Possibly being peeved at the movement of water, land and lava in far off places with unpronounceable names — a little bit of Canada went for a stroll on its own accord and, like all other little bits that leave Mother Earth, wound up in water. This incident occurred at Staynerville last week, when several hundred tons of clay moved into the small creek crossing the road near the little school. It completely blocked the waterway, for a time, but eventually the creek decided to take another course where less clay impeded its progress. A huge gouge in the hillside marks the landslide, and at its base the little creek runs laughingly on its way.

The first showing, supported by a French speaker, will be held at the Convent Hall on Sunday evening. Both meetings will be confined to ladies.

Snow Removal

At the last meeting of Council, a series of pictures was shown on how to remove snow by mechanical blowers. The purpose of the exhibition was to acquaint the councillors with the best means of clearing the sidewalks, which so many people claim cannot be used for the greater part of the year because of the snow.

The lesson was not very profitable, as most of the machinery was of the blower type that throws the snow a great distance, and could not be said to be suitable for use along streets lined with business houses.

Fire Protection

The Fire Chief's report contained a recommendation to have the phone at the municipal building placed in a party wall between the two buildings, so that either side could use it if required. It was also recommended that a similar arrangement be installed to switch on the outside lights, as in the event of the police office being closed the lights at the fire station could not be turned on. It was decided to have these matters attended to. The Mayor enquired what about the siren? Councillor N. Somers replied he was never in favor of it, and its use is not justified, as it would attract too many of the public where unobstructed action was required for the firemen. Mr. Robbins, in reply to Councillor Ball, said it was not the correct type, as it should be capable of being coded.

District Governer Visits Lions Club

The enthusiasm for Lionism evidenced by District Governor Dr. W. A. Brown on his official visit to Lachute, met an equal response in the club members, meeting Tuesday evening in Joly's Hotel. The visitor congratulated the club on this enthusiasm, displayed both in the spirit of the gathering and in the business reports, which showed keen action in various phases of community service.

President Ralph FitzGerald was in the chair. Among the guests was Deputy District Governor Harry Sheasgreen, of St. Lambert.

Dr. Brown, a charter member and past-president of the Renfrew club, a community figure in that town, and now District Governor of Zone A-4 Lions International, was introduced by J. S. Giles, International Councillor. His discourse was described as a "fighting talk" — in which he urged the club to claim a spot in the International scheme, by District representation and by publicity. The Lachute group, he graciously affirmed, has the "stuff" among its members and the "material" in its achievements — citing such evidence as he had seen in this meeting and in past acquaintance with the Lachute Lions.

Dr. Brown told something of the workings of Lions International, and of its executive efficiency over a world membership of half a million clubmen. . "May you live as long as you like, and laugh as long as you live", he said, as a parting wish.

The District Governor was thanked by Lion Gaetan Valois, a veteran member and charter president in Lachute, who also presented the guest with a handsome Ayers travelling rug.

Lion Donat Villeneuve, whose role as "tail twister" this term bids fair to make a sizeable contribution to the club's administrative fund, held another novel contest, happily combining a welcome to the District Governor.

Larry Sheasgreen, the Deputy District Governor, also spoke a few words commending Lachute on its good work and encouraging the Lions to further effort.

Committeeman E. M. Jones reported on charitable disbursements during the current term, and projects in hand. Ex-president Horace Lamarche tendered a gift to Lion Jos. Joly and good wishes on his departure to Montreal. Ian Gordon, as official "biographer", had an interesting lifetime to recount, in paying tribute to Angelo Fassio as "Lion of the Day". As a maestro of music, among his other capacities, Angelo was starred as a composer in musical interludes during the evening — Mr. Fassio (violin) and Lion W. M. Steeves (piano) playing the tunes, with Horace Lamarche leading the chorus of familiar Lions' songs.

Argenteuil M.L.A. Upholds Duplessis Regime

W. M. Cottingham Cites Legislation, Record of Progress and Development Under U-N Gov't

Coinciding with commencement of the fourth session of Quebec Legislature, a speech by W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A. for this constituency, was delivered over radio station CBM, Montreal, and English broadcast stations in the Quebec network last Monday evening.

Following are a few excerpts from Mr. Cottingham's address:

"The speech from the Throne (in Quebec Legislature) extended once more good wishes for the health of His Majesty the King. Reference was also made to pleasant memories retained by the people of Quebec of the visit of Their Royal Highnesses the Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. This historic event has emphasized once again the warm hospitality and traditional loyalty of Quebec.

"The Province of Quebec is enjoying exceptional prosperity, and under the leadership of Premier Maurice Duplessis is setting an example for the world of exceptional stability . .

"Premier Maurice Duplessis has said and continues to state that . . private enterprise is by far the best system. This is the policy before the elections and after the elections, as long as capitalism is not abusive. This policy has brought about a development of natural resources and industry by which the people of Quebec as well as the whole Dominion are benefitting. . . The Province of Quebec welcomes capital from within and without our province and Dominion. This policy has permitted the development of Ungava, where 300 square miles of iron-ore bearing territory have been leased to private enterprise, and has opened up 311,000 square miles of barren land to civilization. . . . In a paper from another province (appeared) the following remarks concerning the Province of Quebec: 'In Quebec sound investment is assured of a fair return. It is also assured that taxes are not burdensome and contracts are meticulously respected'. 'Four thousand new industries located in Quebec in the post-war period, 1945-1950. There are now in Quebec about 12,000 manufacturing enterprises with a labor force of 400,000 people producing annually goods worth $4,000,000,000. Main Street Addition

An outdoor phone booth made its appearance on Main Street, at the entrance to the town offices, during the past week. This booth was erected on instigation of the police department — primarily to ensure that the public may contact the police at all hours. It has been the experience of some, needing police assistance at night, to have called at the offices and found the night police-officer out on patrol. Posted inside the booth are the private phone numbers of all police personnel, also of physicians, fire department, ambulances, etc.

J. H. Black Took Junior Champion Ayrshire Female

Some of the "old reliables" in horse and cattle-breeding circles were at the Toronto "Royal" to represent this region, and ranked well up in the winners — in two breeds of horses, and in the Ayrshire cattle for which Argenteuil is more specially reputed. Some of the more notable awards to these exhibitors (as listed in the Ottawa Farm Journal) were as follows:

Draft Horses

Belgians — G. E. Arnold: Reserve Senior and Reserve Grand Champion mare.

Percherons — G. E. Arnold: Reserve Senior and Reserve Grand Champion stallion; Reserve Junior Champion stallion; foal of 1951, 2nd; brood mare, 5th.

Ayrshire Cattle

J. H. Black: junior heifer calf, 3th; 2-year-old dry heifer, 9th; 2-year-old in milk, 1st; junior get of sire, 4th; junior herd, 8th; breeder's herd 8th.

Erskine McQuat: senior heifer calf, 5th; 2-year-old dry heifer, 5th.

W. Erskine Rodger: senior heifer calf, 8th; 4-year-old dry heifer, 7th.

Operatic Trio in Popular Recital

Columbia Operatic Trio

Under auspices of the Community Concerts Association, the second event of this season featured the Columbia Operatic Trio, in a program at Lachute High School auditorium Monday evening. Popular opinion seems to have rated this recital as one of the best in the Association's bookings — the program having suited the tastes of probably the largest proportion of members.

The artists were — Helen George, a singer of Greek and Czech parentage who, apart from her fine quality as an operatic songstress, displays marked talent in the characterization of her parts; her sympathy and understanding of these roles adds spirit to her performance in operatic extracts. The same may be said of William Upshaw, tenor, and Carlos Sherman, baritone of the trio; they are actors as well as singers, capable of transporting their audience in imagination to the full-dress scene of the opera — which, in the setting of a concert stage, requires whole-hearted interpretation.

The vocalists were heard in trio, duet and solo numbers — their recital including excerpts from well known operas and from the popular operettas and revues — including those of contemporary composers.

No less important to the success of this group is their accompanist, Kenneth Hieber, who showed great mastery of the piano in three classical solo selections. All the artists were warmly applauded, and responded with encores to the public acclaim.

'Curb Forest Fires' Theme at Loisirs

At a recent Sunday afternoon program for "Les Loisirs", in Ste. Anastasie Church basement, the theme of forest fire prevention was impressed upon 800-odd children of the parish, in three graphic films. Victor Charlebois, fieldman of the Quebec Department of Lands and Forests protective service, came to present the films and to address the youngsters, in lucid and understandable terms, on the waste of forest reserves caused directly by carelessness — a lesson which should remain with the youthful citizens till they venture into the woods at their own discretion. . . A comedy film provided lighter amusement for the crowd.

Last Sunday at "Les Loisirs", Romeo Legault and his Ste. Anastasie choir furnished the program, also enthusing the young audience to participate heartily in community songs.

The local Convent sisters, Soeurs de Ste. Croix, will arrange a dramatic program for the weekly gathering next Sunday.

Candies are distributed to the children, and President Gaetan Cousineau enlists the support of parish groups and youth leaders, to maintain an interesting schedule of entertainment for these events.

With Canadians in Encircled Platoon

Concerning Pte. Ray MacLean (son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan MacLean, Upper Lachute) who was listed as a Korea casualty over two weeks ago — Bill Boss, CP battlefront correspondent, makes two references in a recent news story depicting hand-to-hand hostilities. When a platoon of the 2nd Battalion Royal Canadian Regt. was encircled by the enemy 600 yards ahead of the United Nations defences, they held out until their ammunition was exhausted, then fought their way back in hand-to-hand engagements.

The writer describes incidents in which individual Canadians were engaged during this action — with the following references to MacLean:

Pte. Ray MacLean, of Verdun, saw a Chinese about to bayonet a wounded Canadian. He stopped him by jumping onto his back.

During the assault, on the way back, Pte. MacLean killed one Chinese by wresting the enemy soldier's own rifle from his grip, and killing him with it.

(This report coincides, as nearly as can be affirmed, with the date on which Pte. MacLean was wounded in action).

Power Is Where You Find It

Quebec Province is one of the greatest sources of hydro-electric power in the world — a fact which often leads to the belief that electricity is something we can produce anywhere in Quebec. Such is far from being the case. Even in Quebec, power still has to be moved considerable distances to bring it to where it can be used.

By far the greatest bulk of the electricity generated by Gatineau Power, for instance, comes from plants on the Gatineau River. But the places where Nature has decreed that power plants can operate are not always the places where the power is needed. The plants are located in areas where there are few homes and even few industries, and so there is little demand for electricity near them.

The places where there IS a demand for electricity are along the Ottawa River, throughout the Laurentian area and in south-western Quebec from Vaudreuil to the Ontario border. Those are the regions into which electric power must be brought from the plants on the Gatineau.

The vital electricity leaves the power plants at 110,000 volts and moves to the main distribution centre in Hull. Lines carrying 26,000 and 11,000 volts serve the Hull area and the upper Ottawa River, while the main 110,000-volt line continues down the Ottawa to Lachute, and on up through the Laurentians to Ste. Agathe.

Out of Lachute, a 26,000-volt line backtracks along the river to Papineauville and Thurso; while another runs northeast to serve the Rawdon area. 26,000-volt lines feed southwestern Quebec, while a 26,000-volt line runs north from Ste. Agathe to Labelle and 13,200-volt lines run to Nominingue and Arundel. Off these main circuits run innumerable lines of lower voltage winding up in the 115/230-volt household circuits all over the system.

It all adds up to a distribution system costing many millions of dollars, devoted entirely to the job of moving electricity from the place where it can be made to the places where it can be used.

Did You Know?

That Gatineau Power maintains more than 2,800 miles of circuits to serve its 68,000 customers in Quebec Province.

A Climax to Good Agriculture

The Royal Winter Fair, just concluded at Toronto, is not merely a show. It is a grand finale to a year of diligent farming where growers and stock raisers vie with each other for the coveted red or blue ribbons which mean "the best in Canada" or the "best in the world".

Much of the credit for the success of wheat kings, potato kings, barley kings, hog and other "kings" can be laid at the feet of agricultural chemists who are constantly devising new ways of improving crops and livestock. Improved seed-treating chemicals were introduced to combat destructive grain diseases, resulting in both increased yields and plumper and cleaner exhibition grains.

In the last few years yields of potatoes and other root crops were boosted beyond expectation after it was learned that plant nutrients could be returned to the soil through the use of chemical fertilizers. The introduction of new fungicides for the control of scab and blights helped to add quality, uniformity and weight to the produce.

At one time feed for prize stock consisted of hay and bran mash. Today, farm animal diet is as carefully prepared as a human infant's with vitamins, proteins and other feed supplements added so that the amount and quality of fat and flesh may be scientifically controlled.

Vegetables and fruits exhibited at the Fair also owe, in large part, their prize-winning qualities to life-saving chemicals which destroy predatory insects and fungi. It could almost be said, in fact, that agricultural scientists are "king makers" whose service to the rural royalty never ceases.

Young Cattle Need Good Winter Feeding

After a Summer on pasture the young stock on the farm should be in good shape if they have not been left too much to their own resources. They should be in good condition to go into Winter quarters. Unfortunately all too many of them are apt to lose flesh because of scant attention to Winter feeding.

When heifers and calves are brought in for the Winter they should be given liberal rations of good growth-producing feed so that development can go ahead without interruption.

This does not mean that feeding of expensive meals is necessary, but on the contrary, good hay, silage and roots, if available, will keep young animals in a thriving condition without need of quantities of more expensive feeds. However, a small allowance of bran and chop with salt as required will aid in keeping the animals in the best condition and in most cases it is advisable to feed a moderate amount of concentrates.

The concentrates will aid in improving condition, giving a greater bloom, helping to promote growth and in the end are generally a good investment.

JAIL FOR SNAIL

Anyone found guilty of bringing the giant African snail into the United States may be sentenced to one year in prison and fined $500, if an act now before Congress becomes law. The snail is an agricultural pest six inches long and able to consume a full head of lettuce at one feeding, according to C-I-L Agricultural News. It is almost out of control in parts of Africa, Asia, the East Indies and the Hawaiian Islands.

PROLIFIC SOW

The merchant fleet, which prior to 1939 had ranked among the best, was practically destroyed during the war; it is now being rebuilt. The rebuilding started in 1950.

All of this rebuilding of factories, industries, the merchant fleet and dwellings, is opening up many jobs for the people and so raising their standard of living.

Agriculture is being slowly reformed, and although the farmers are conservative, they are now accepting many scientific ideas from the U.S.A. and Canada. The cattle herds, which were considerably depleted during the war, have been restored to pre-war level.

The greatest desire of all the German people is to have a united Germany once more. Many regard the present set-up as only temporary, and believe that in the near future Germany will again take her place as a united nation. Western Germany is now accepted as part of the free nations of the world.

It is the sincere hope of Mr. Jannsen (as well of many other Germans) that France and Germany will become friendly neighbors. There is no need for these two great nations to be continually warring against each other.

Mr. Jannsen was introduced by Norm Somers and thanked by Mac Walker.

President J. Chalmers reminded the members that next meeting would be "Father and Child" night.

Guests present were — Phil Waugh, of Hawkesbury, Burt Millar and Jackie Walker, of Lachute.

Shortly after noon one sweltering August day, the air-conditioned train in which I was crossing the Midwest stopped at a little town where eight buxom matrons came aboard. They found seats opposite each other, efficiently set out lapboards and playing cards and settled down to bridge. Many hands later they packed up, got off the train and the last I saw of them they were entering an air-conditioned station restaurant. I had noticed that each woman gave the conductor a pass slip, indicating that her husband was a railway employee, so I asked him about the group.

"That's a weekly performance in summer", he said. "They eat lunch at that restaurant, and catch the next train back — goes through there in about 45 minutes and gets 'em home at 5.30. What you saw was the Thursday Bridge Club keepin' cool."

May End Historic Excursion Trains

Well-Known Old-Time Special Operating for Nearly 50 Years

Winnipeg (CP)—The gay youngsters of the roaring Twenties, and many oldsters too, see the passing of an era in reports that the "Moonlight Special" may soon be no more.

The dance special from Winnipeg to the beach on Lake Winnipeg roared through the prairie evenings on its 70-mile journey for nearly half a century, first carrying practitioners of the stately ballroom style, then the sheiks and flappers in bell-bottom trousers and rolled down stockings; later the exponents of the modern dance styles.

It took crowds to the dance hall and midway, the bathing beach and the boat liveries. Picnic baskets were the vogue in summertimes and thousands packed the long glistening stretch of sand. Decades ago the "Moonlight Special" was the symbol of gay youth in the good old summertime.

"Let's go down to the beach" was a cliche in the hot evenings, and "Go take a jump in the lake" was a slogan of railway advertisements.

The story of the Moonlight Special could be heard in song hits that dance bands blared out over the years. Men in flannels and white sweaters, girls in gay summer dresses, danced to the soft strains of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart", "Beautiful Katie" and "When I Grow Too Old to Dream".

The jazz age with "Chicago" and other hits brought the Charleston experts on the floor, to be succeeded by fans of later dance modes.

Changing Times

Over the years however more and more people started driving cars to the beach. Highway and motorbus service improved, and there were empty seats on the old special train.

Crowds started to dwindle, especially after the Second World War when entertainment spots multiplied in the city itself.

The old beach dance hall began to get shabby and down-at-heel. Spiders and dust took over, and the carved initials of young lovers of years ago were lost in the murk.

The beach may soon lose much of its playground area to construction men for building lots. The moonlight trips which ran three times a week last summer will be further cut down, or perhaps stopped completely.

Public Opinion

IN EXPRESSING local opinion, through news reports, editorials, comment and "letters to the editor", a newspaper must inevitably invoke displeasure from those who disagree — treading upon a few toes when it is considered in the larger public interest to do so. This applies to The Watchman as to any other newspaper.

Conversely, The Watchman has incurred criticism from time to time for declining to publish complaints which affect only a few, or when investigation suggests that the writers' statements are not wholly justified. The responsibility rests upon a newspaper to safeguard the repute of established institutions, resisting the more sensational urge to voice the protests of a smaller group. . . This is the onus of a community newspaper — and any who think the responsibility a light one, might volunteer to take over the task, and its implications, for a few weeks' trial!

It is interesting to note, while making these observations, that public opinion sometimes brings quite speedy results. It may be coincidence, but in last issue of this newspaper we published the "beefs" of a Women's Institute branch — a formidable list of proposals for civic betterment. We kept that summary for future reference, and without claiming credit which does not justly belong to these columns, we ticked off two items which have already been acted upon, as follows:

- That Council petition the C.P.R. for an early morning train service to Montreal, especially in Winter.
- That in public performances such as Community Concerts, etc., the seating of the hall be "staggered" to permit better view of the stage by persons in the audience.

More power to our civic-minded womenfolk!

When the Light Fades

NIGHT falls early, at this time of year, and lingers long. The darkness lengthens and the daylight hours become more brief during the approach to December 21, shortest day of the year. Canadians in most parts of the country find the shift from late fall to early winter marked by overcast skies and rain, sleet or snow.

Whipped by chilly winds, the bare grey branches of the maples shiver in the gloom. Even the evergreens look cold.

Most persons would probably agree with the poet who described this period as "the melancholy days". Yet this interlude between the mellow gold of autumn and the sparkling crispness of winter has its own part to play in the great drama of the seasons.

Its onset gives migratory birds notice that the time has come for them to start winging southward. For scientists determined by experiments in Alberta some years ago that the shortening of the days in the fall is the main factor in setting off the migration.

This cool weather with a taste of winter's bracing nip, prepares trees, shrubs and some garden plants for the onslaught of the impending cold and storms, "hardening" and toughening them after their season of vigorous growth.

For householders, it's a time of putting on the last of the storm windows, of making a final check of the coal bin or woodpile to make sure the fuel supply will be ample for winter's needs.

While the landscape now wears a more sombre aspect than at most other seasons, there is cheer to be found elsewhere. Christmas preparations will soon be at hand and the gay whirl of buying and mailing presents and of choosing and addressing cards, as well as making Christmas cakes and puddings, leaves no time for dismal meditation.

Probably it is no coincidence that the liveliest and merriest celebrations of the year-end holidays have developed in the northern countries that welcome an opportunity to chase the gloom when the light fades.

Why Those Prices?

ONE STATEMENT that will command almost unanimous agreement in any company is that prices are too high. Divergence of opinions begins when someone asks: "What prices?" for, except by leaders of labor unions, it is recognized that prices and wages are intimately related — states The Printed Word, in a plain-speaking comment on spirals and their motive-power.

Thus (the article continues) unless a speaker is fairly sure of the interests of his hearers, he is wise to refrain from becoming specific when that question is asked. To say that the price of houses is too high is to imply that bricklayers, carpenters, plumbers, truck-drivers and a host of other unionized workers are being paid too much. It is just as well not to say or imply this, especially before an audience of truck-drivers, who are notoriously heavy-handed, as well as heavy-footed.

Similarly, complaint about the cost of clothes is an implied criticism of the wages of the highly-organized needle trades. Complaint about the costs of transportation brings the complainer up against members of other unions, all with strong opinions about the high price of everything else.

In an urban gathering it is sometimes safe to complain of the high price of food, if it is made clear that the complaint is against the primary producer, and not against the unionized trades that handle the product before it reaches the city consumer. At that, there is the danger that someone in the gathering may start an argument because he has once worked on a farm or has rural friends or relations.

Farmers are not sufficiently well organized to protest when they are blamed for the high cost of living. They cannot even strike for higher wages, for there is no union to disburse strike pay to them.

It is fortunate for the city worker that this is so, since eating has become a habit. Nevertheless, it might be common discretion for city workers to complain a little less about the high price of food. In the long run the farmer, who also has a legitimate cause of complaint in the high cost of living, can more easily do without the products of the farm; and it is the farmer's purchasing power that supplies a large part of urban wages.

Well, What Do You Know!

CANADIANS know more about the United States than Americans do about Canada, reports the Canada-U.S. Committee on Education, but the ignorance on both sides is appalling.

In recent surveys Canadian students, including those attending university, were found to have only the sketchiest knowledge of U.S. history and geography. On the other side of the border more than half those queried could not name the capital of Canada, nor any prominent Canadian since the days of Wolfe and Montcalm. A few thought that Mackenzie King was a hockey player.

This state of affairs, observes The Financial Post, raises interesting questions about the educational facilities offered in Canada and the United States. Certainly our mutual ignorance of each other's country is a constant source of irritation to citizens on both sides of the border and it could become dangerous too.

When they go abroad, Canadians and Americans never tire of boasting to less fortunate peoples about how well we know each other and get along on this enlightened continent. When compared with others, it is true, our record has been good. But decidedly there is room for improvement. And the place for that improvement, as this international committee suggests, is in our schools and our press.

SAYS one weekly newspaper: "The Princess came to our district and left with us a little more gratitude for our freedom, a little more appreciation of our citizenship."

"Have you a cure for hiccups?" the man cried as he rushed into the drug store. The druggist seized him by the neck and shook him till his teeth rattled. "Hey", the man cried, "what's the idea!"

"You have no hiccups now, have you?"

"No, but my wife has; she's out in the car."

The Snow That Didn't Stay

It's years ago, but I still remember
That Snowstorm yet, one late November.
The Pessimist said: "This snow will stay!"
The Optimist said: "Won't last a day!"

The South wind blew and it turned to rain.
All of that snow went down the drain.
They came to me for some sound advice,
For I'm an expert on snow and ice.

The North wind blew and the snow came down
With fifteen inches all over town.
The lakes and rivers were frozen fast.
But I said wisely: "This snow won't last."

"How do you know?" the Optimist cried.
"Because I'm a prophet", I replied.
The Pessimist said: "I bet you, Boss,
As a prophet, you are a total loss!"

The snow (which stayed till the eighth of May),
Was entirely gone by Dominion Day.
So that's how it was I won that bet.
The Optimist's talking about it yet!

Last month I said: "Next month I'll save some money. My bills are settled, all right up to date. The future now is very bright and sunny, with no collectors hanging 'round my gate."

November came with weather dark and gloomy. 'Twas raining as I left my snug abode. I whistled as if that meant nothing to me, and saw a stranger coming down the road.

He grabbed my shoulders firmly as I passed him, and hollered: "Hey, you! Where's my twenty bucks?" "What d'you mean? Who are you, Sir?" I asked him. Then recognized him. Paid him, and said, "Shucks!"

His debt was just, but I had quite forgotten that job he did for me eight months before. So I turned homeward feeling somewhat rotten — and met the postman coming from my door.

The mail contained a big electric light bill. They hadn't sent one since the last of June. I looked to see if they had sent the right bill. They had — and said I'd better pay it soon!

The next one was a bill from my mechanic, that I supposed would not be very much. It seems my old car's illness was organic — a flywheel, ring-gear, and a brand new clutch.

Another payment on the vacuum cleaner, and storage charges on my old coon coat. Each one I opened made my bankroll leaner. And then the coal bill — that's what got my goat!

Some people find it hard to meet expenses, but somehow I have never found it so. I never find it hard to meet expenses — I meet expenses everywhere I go!

Be seein' ya!

Many Friends Mourn Ogdensburg Resident

The Late Ross Townsend

The death of Ross Townsend occurred November 14, at the age of 41 years. Although he had not been in good health previous to this, Mr. Townsend had been able to attend to his farm duties up until October 16, when he entered the Royal Victoria Hospital for blood transfusions. Two weeks after returning home he was removed by ambulance to hospital in Hawkesbury, where his condition grew steadily worse and he succumbed to his illness on Wednesday of last week.

The funeral was held at the Lachute Baptist Church, the Rev. W. H. Britton conducting the service. The pall-bearers were six neighbors — Wm. Horner, John Heatlie, Jr., L. Plummer, Wesley McAndrew, Geo. Murdoch and Walter Murdoch.

He leaves to mourn his loss a loving wife; four daughters, Audrey, Mary, Wilda and Gwen; three sons, Ronald, Mervin and Carl Blair; his father, Mr. Fred Townsend; three sisters, (Elsie) Mrs. R. Warwick, (Iris) Mrs. R. Derouin, (Jean) Mrs. L. Wert, of Normetal, Que., and two brothers, Milton, of Port Credit, Ont., and Henderson, of Lachute.

The esteem in which the late Ross Townsend was held, was shown in the beautiful floral offerings, also the large number of sorrowing relatives and friends who were present to follow him to his last resting place in the Ogdensburg Cemetery.

Research on Sugar

Two grants for research, totalling $17,500, have recently been made to Canadian universities by the Sugar Research Foundation. One goes to McGill University, where Dr. J. H. Quastel will direct research into how the human body absorbs and uses sugar. The other research is to be directed by Dr. Roy G. Ellis of the School of Dentistry, University of Toronto, and will be concerned with dietary protection against tooth decay.

One might say that this comes into the "man-bites-dog" class of news, when it is recalled that both physicians and dentists have frequently got into print by blaming sugar for many of the ills they are called upon to treat professionally, and the Sugar Research Foundation could not be expected to love them. It should be recalled, however, that those doctors and dentists who are trained in research methods are not usually those who are rushing into print with conclusions unjustified by available evidence. Probably sugar, like other foods, can be harmful if too much of it is eaten. But people suffered from bad teeth and overweight long before sugar was a common article of diet, so some of the prejudices against sugar are scientifically unjustified.

The results of the research projects at McGill and Toronto may well assist in clearing away some of the fog surrounding the subject of modern dietetics. Whatever these results may be, it is unlikely that they will confirm popular prejudices among either laymen or doctors. That is one reason why research is worthwhile.

Northern Town Prospers Again

Sturgeon Falls, Ont., Booms When Paper Mill Reopens

Sturgeon Falls (CP) — Six years ago this Northern Ontario town had a population of about 3,600. Its streets were almost deserted and property, seemingly worthless, could be bought for almost nothing.

A lot could then be bought for $1 and taxes. Other choice lots, for $10 and by paying back taxes of $150. Living costs were cheap in 1945, too. An apartment could be had for $10 a month.

The reopening of the Abitibi Power and Paper Co. mill in 1946 changed all that and marked the rebirth of the town. Today it's one of the most prosperous communities in the north.

Some of those lots that went for $1 are worth $1,000 today. The house that went for $150 back taxes is worth $5,000 and the $10 apartments rent for $80 a month.

Sturgeon Falls occupies an unusual niche among Ontario communities. Its present population of 4,953 is 80 per cent French-Canadian in an English province. Its percentage of young persons is quite phenomenal, with 2,303 of the population under the age of 20 and 508 children are three years of age and under.

More and more tourists are finding their way to Sturgeon Falls each year, and, in the meantime, the big Abitibi mill is operating on a basis which seems to guarantee it will never shut down again.

FALL FLOODS

Brantford, Ont. (CP) — The Grand River reached flood levels around here this November, covering the Brantford-Galt highway in places. The highest levels since last spring were attributed to recent rains and the run-off from melting snow.

Upholds Duplessis Regime

people. Premier Duplessis did not lag behind in passing a bill permitting pensions for people from 65 to 70 years, a bill that is . . actually more generous than any legislation in the other provinces — which is not surprising because Premier Duplessis was the first political leader to favor such social legislation.

"A bill for Pensions for the Blind, another excellent piece of legislation, leaves such pensions unseizable and free of all provincial and municipal taxes.

"An addition of 10 million dollars was also passed to assist in building new houses. . . Premier Duplessis has cited figures showing the good effects of this law passed by his government in 1948. At this time the opposition claimed that no houses would be built under this law. But on October 31 last, 50,000 people had been housed under the benefits of this law. Houses already built under this plan have increased the Municipal and School valuations in the province by over 90 millions.

"According to another measure adopted by the government, funds for loans to farmers now reach 96 million dollars. Farm loans were instituted by the Duplessis government in 1936, saving many municipal and school corporations at that time who were not able to collect taxes. . . It has often been said that this law has saved agriculture in the Province of Quebec, our most fundamental of private enterprises. It has proved to be the best possible investment that a government has ever made, with less than $500 loss over its years of existence.

"The farmer's problem of shortage of farm help was solved by rural electrification. When the Duplessis government first took over, only 20% of our farms were electrified, compared to the present, when over 50% now enjoy the benefits of electricity.

"Since 1945, agricultural and industrial production has doubled in Quebec, and mining production now reaches more than 245 million dollars a year. . If Quebec enjoys a tremendous development, it is because we have a stable government basing its policies on stable principles which do not change from one day to the other.

"The improvement of school and health conditions in Quebec has been remarkable. Those of the English-speaking Protestant minority know how generously they have been treated, with the many Protestant schools opened with grants by the Duplessis government, to say nothing of the bonded debts taken over.

"Before long, the government will have added almost 17,000 new hospital beds in the province, since 1945 only. The T.B. mortality rate has fallen over 60% since inauguration of the government anti-tuberculosis campaign.

Government Policy

"Among private enterprises, first place belongs to Agriculture, the foundation of all enduring progress. The Government intends to conserve for it the preponderant place in our economy.

"The Government intends to follow the best colonization policy possible under existing circumstances. It is persuaded that colonization is indispensable to the true prosperity of our Province.

"The Government is of opinion that a just co-operation between capital and labor is synonymous with progress. It will do everything in its power to see that the rights of all are protected, especially those of the workers.

"The Government remains of the opinion that the progress of Education is the means of assuring the permanent and profitable establishment of our youth. Elementary and secondary education, specialized training and university education have a preferred place. The multiplication of educational facilities will enable our youth, in particular, to play a part of first importance in the development of our natural resources.

"The Government is conscious of the great wealth derived from our forests, and will continue to aim at its permanence and to obtain the full utilization of forest products.

"The Government attaches great importance to rural roads, as well as to the highway system in general, and will devote itself to assuring the success of our tourist industry.

"It will assist the progress of small industry, promote desirable industrial decentralization, and encourage the diversification of enterprises. . .

"Our opponents are always talking about when the next election is to take place. Be assured that when it does come, our policies will not have changed. They will be the same, and I know that the electors of the province will support a stable government, headed by a man of integrity and courage who will continue to protect the rights of the individuals and to foster the greatest development in our history."

MAYOR MEETS MINER, CO-WORKERS IN 1924

Edmonton (CP) — When Edward Hunter walked into Mayor Sid Parsons' office to receive a $50 reward for his part in extinguishing a fire at the Edmonton city paving plant he was met by a man he had mined coal with in 1924.

That man was the mayor. They immediately recognized each other as former co-workers and began swapping old yarns. The mayor, also once a bricklayer, operated a coal-cutting machine 27 years ago in the old Dawson mine on the banks of the North Saskatchewan river here.

CANADIAN DOG-OWNER SAVES DYING BREED

London — Two years ago there were fewer than a dozen mastiffs in Britain; the famous breed discovered in Britain by the Romans, was dying out. Then, answering an appeal from the Old English Mastiff Club, a Canadian breeder, Mrs. Hyacinth M. Mellish, of Victoria, B.C., sent over free of charge a thoroughbred dog and bitch, her only request being: "Let me have two back when you have started successful breeding".

COST OF WAR DAMAGE

London — Britain has so far spent £1-billion (about 3½ billion dollars) on war damage repairs. Nearly 3½ million buildings, including 3,160,000 homes, were damaged by enemy action. More than 40 per cent of this devastated property was in London.

Your Child Shows Off

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"Junior say 'Peter, Peter, pumpkin eater' for Aunt Mary. . . Now, you know you said it all through for Daddy last night. Come on, Junior, what is the matter with you? Your Aunt is waiting. Mother will start you — 'Peter, Peter . . ' . . "

Four-year-old Junior looks uncomfortable. He squirms but not one word will he say. Aunt Mary is embarrassed. Mother is disappointed and annoyed.

Do you ever urge your child to perform? It is the most natural thing in the world for parents to be proud of their offspring and want to display his ability to fond relatives or friends. There is a place for the tiny "performer", but there is also the possibility of a bad effect on "Junior".

Mother is more likely to show off her child too often than father, although sometimes he, too, can't help urging his daughter to play the piano, or recite a poem or bring out her last report card (if it has been a particularly good one). Other people's praise of one's child is honey-sweet in a parent's ears. It strengthens the mother's or father's belief that in their child they have "something pretty special".

But what happens to Junior if being showed off is a fairly regular routine when company calls? Mother often cannot understand why he is so stubborn in his refusal to "do his stuff". It never seems to occur to her that repeating a Nursery Rhyme to his father in the relaxed, happy atmosphere of his after-supper-time with his dad, is rather different from being interrupted in his play to recite to his Aunt. It is even more trying for Mother to expect him to recite to a whole roomful of strange ladies whom she has invited to afternoon tea! All those unfamiliar eyes fixed on Junior may throw him into a panic.

The child who is asked by a parent to perform for an outsider either makes a failure or a success of it. It he is so unsure of himself that he refuses, or if, under pressure he makes a feeble attempt but cannot get through with his task, it destroys some of his self-confidence.

It is very important that a child should learn to be at ease with other people both his own age and grown-ups too. With some children the chance to show some skill is a help to them if they do it willingly and well. But if there is a feeling of strain for the sensitive child who is forced to be the centre of attention this is not a good thing. Mothers should question carefully whether their own feeling of pride at their child being admired balances the child's own emotions during this performing time.

There is the possibility that the child may enjoy showing off, and look eagerly forward to other opportunities to show how clever he is. He may want to recite every Nursery Rhyme he knows. Mother may relish this but the visitor is apt to be a bit bored before the recital is completed. Adult exchange of ideas is out of the question while a child is bidding for the centre of the stage.

A child "actor", because he is a child, can be very sweet and charming. But what happens when the "show-off" child grows up? He is likely to continue to want to be "the whole show".

Many adolescents come to grief doing foolhardy athletic stunts in an effort to outshine their companions. Every year tragic accidents are reported in the press telling of some young person who took too great a risk in doing some intricate stunt.

Our grandparents had no doubt about the wisdom of the old saying, "Children should be seen and not heard". Perhaps there has been too great a swing in the other direction. Nevertheless, if a parent is not too insistent, a child can give real pleasure to others if he occasionally recites or plays a musical instrument or does something else to provide entertainment. If he is making a serious effort he should not be laughed at, or told that he is "cute"! What self respecting child wants to be "cute"?

But anyone enjoys well earned applause . . and praise which is deserved never hurt anyone. The Music Festivals sponsored by Service Clubs in many centres have demonstrated this. If brothers and sisters take turns performing, or if the "neighborhood gang" put on a little concert, this is the type of "showing off" which has real character values. See that your child has an occasional opportunity to show off in the company of other youngsters!

Annual Fowl Feast Losing Popularity

Regina (CP) — Another age-old prairie tradition seems to be on the way out. The country church annual fall fowl supper that long ago became a part of western prairie life seems almost extinct.

In days gone by it was the custom of the country church to stage the fowl supper during or at the end of harvest, usually in October. It was at this time of year that the entire community, whole families, young and old, turned out to visit together, talk over happenings of the season and enjoy a bumper meal prepared in advance by the women folk.

The church hall or basement was usually used for the supper, with all persons retiring upstairs afterwards to relax and listen to a home talent program or picture show or maybe someone imported for the the prairies?"

A Saskatchewan sailor in Vancouver asked a prairie visitor, "Do you still have those wonderful church fowl suppers back home on the prairies?

The answer came with hesitation: "Oh yes, somewhat."

Each year fewer fowl suppers are being held. They are being replaced by some new, modern gatherings needing less work and showing more profit for church funds.

BADLY NEEDED

At last there is some hope of taming those blinding lights on the other fellow's car. The Financial Post reports a new device. You wear them like eye-glasses to effectively cut down night driving glare, say the makers. They have sliding opaque shields placed at a height sufficient for the driver to see underneath — when headlights approach he lowers his head to cut out the glare, without affecting his view of the road ahead.

Shipping Food Parcels Overseas for Christmas

Montreal — Advice to ship as soon as possible was given to those planning to express Christmas packages overseas to friends and loved ones by A. R. Kerr, of Montreal, manager of the foreign department of the Canadian Pacific Express Company.

Mr. Kerr added that the last steamship connection from any Canadian port with guaranteed Christmas delivery overseas will be the Canadian Pacific passenger liner Empress of Scotland, scheduled to sail from Quebec City to Greenock, Scotland, and Liverpool on November 27.

Gift packages forwarded by express overseas must not exceed 22 pounds gross weight, and, provided their value does not exceed $25, no export permit will be required. Each package must be plainly marked with the words "Bonafide Unsolicited Gift", and must show the consignee's full name and address.

Mr. Kerr also had a word of warning for those intending to send Christmas parcels direct to the United Kingdom. In order to prevent the spread of fowl pest, the British Government has banned the import of turkeys, the traditional Christmas fare, and all other fowl. Under these new regulations, no parcels containing either cooked or raw turkeys, or other fowl, will be permitted to enter the country.

A million Canadians now have jobs in manufacturing. Ten per cent of these are in the primary textile industry. (The latest Dominion Bureau figures are 1,080,000 in manufacturing and 104,000 of these in primary textiles.)

Besides leading all other Canadian industries in numbers employed in manufacturing, primary textiles also is away ahead in the size of its payroll. It is up among the leaders in providing jobs for women and in being well spread out through the smaller communities.

Dominion Textile is a considerable part of this basic textile industry.

Aluminum is friendly to food

"The proof's in the eating"...

AGREE THREE SMILING GENERATIONS

Good cooks are proud of their favourite recipes. And when they find utensils that cook food well, preserve flavour and quality, and clean easily, they're proud of them, too. That's why so many homemakers write in to tell us about their aluminum utensils. Aluminum has been a Canadian kitchen favourite for half a century. So many mothers do more than teach their daughters to cook; they teach them to use good utensils, too!

Dear friends:

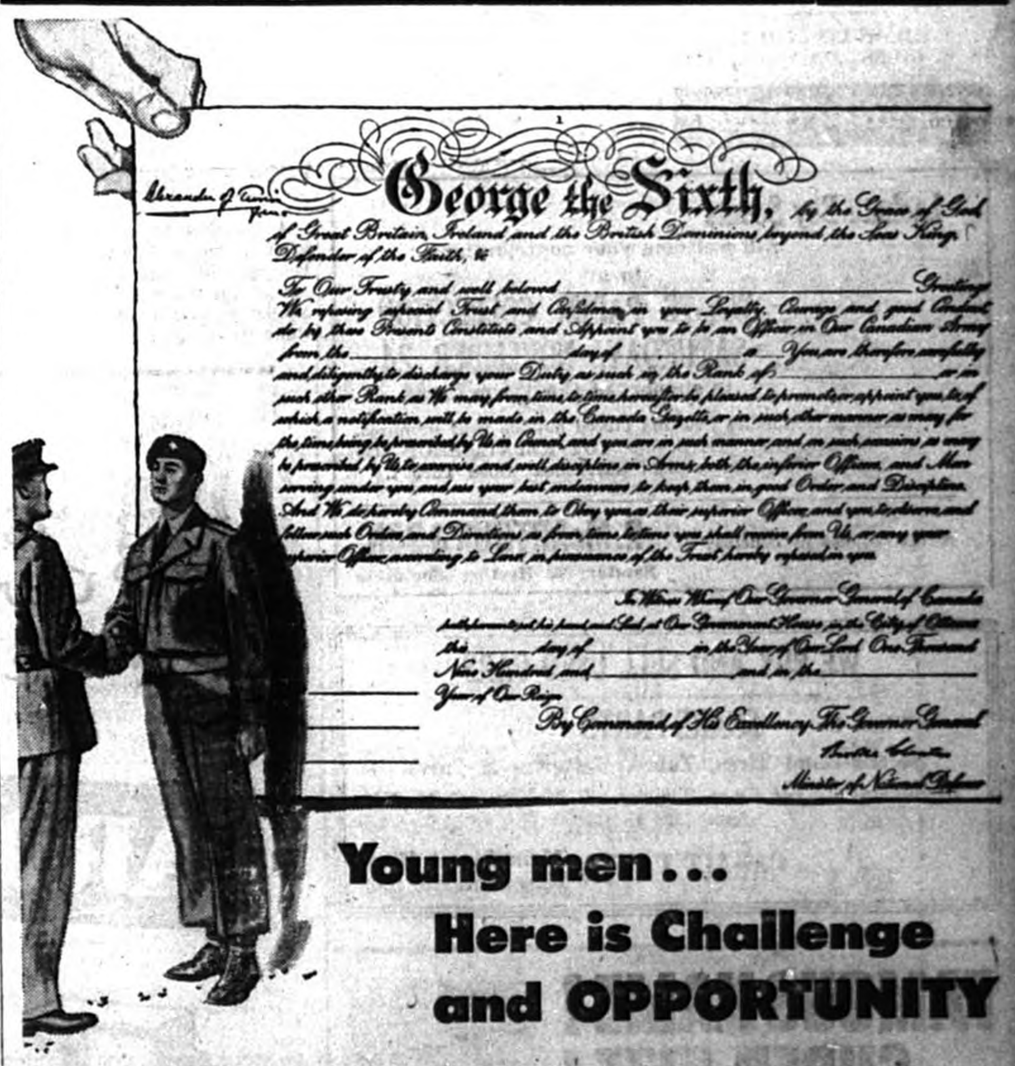

For 30 years, I have used aluminum cooking utensils. I have not only been satisfied with them, I am proud of them.

My aluminum utensils have helped me in preparing delicious, substantial and economical meals for my family.

Myself and mine will continue as in the past to use an aluminum kitchen equipment, which, in my estimation, has no equal.

Yours very truly,

Young men... Here is Challenge and OPPORTUNITY

Training and experience in leadership are two of the most valuable assets you can possess, no matter what lifetime career you select. You may obtain both training and experience as a leader under a new plan whereby the Canadian Army is training young men with Junior Matriculation or Equivalent Educational Standard as Officers in the Active Force.

But there is a challenge in the standards you must meet — in the courses you take and pass before you can qualify for a commission.

And, there is opportunity in the privilege of leading Canada's soldiers at home and abroad.

If accepted you begin training at Camp Borden as an Officer Cadet to qualify as a Second Lieutenant in the Active Force. You will receive Second Lieutenant's pay while in training. When you are granted a commission you will then serve for periods of 3, 4 and 5 years as you choose under the Short Service Commission Plan. At the end of this service you may apply for a permanent commission.

To qualify you must be:—Single — Physically fit — Between 18 and 25 years of age and have a Junior Matriculation or Equivalent Educational Standard.

SECOND CANADIAN JAMBOREE

Target for 1953? The Second Canadian Jamboree — Canadian Boy Scout Headquarters staff has started planning for the big event. They hope to see 5,000 Scouts in attendance, as compared with 2,700 from across Canada, the U.S.A. and Cuba, who enjoyed the First Canadian Jamboree at Connaught Camp, near Ottawa, in July, 1949.

ALONE, BUT NOT FRIENDLESS

In Arborfield, north-eastern Saskatchewan, Boy Scouts for the past year have been carrying water, chopping wood, removing ashes and generally looking after an elderly man living alone and unable to perform these tasks.

When the man was hospitalized, recently, the Scouts cleaned his house from attic to basement, repainted two rooms, arranged transportation for his return from hospital, and are continuing for him their daily good turn.

Canada will be represented at the 1st Caribbean Jamboree in Jamaica, B.W.I., next March, by at least one Troop of 32 Boy Scouts and three leaders. Participating Scouts pay their own expenses and make their own travel arrangements.

MOTHER, DAUGHTER ARE CHORUS GIRLS IN BROADWAY SHOW

Teamwork Is Old Stuff to This Family; Started in Paris

New York (AP) — Deborah Ramsen is one of the few chorus girls who can say to the next girl in line:

"Mother, lend me a pin".

Deborah and her mother, whose stage name is Lily Paget, are both in the chorus of the hit musical "Call Me Madam".

Both mother and daughter — the family name is Stoller — have small parts — Deborah as a secretary and Lily as a maid. But Deborah has the most lines — five to her mother's one. Lily was there first, though, and helped coach her daughter when she auditioned for the job. She even lent her best dress to try out.

Teamwork is nothing new to the Stollers. It began when they lived in Paris. Deborah was only a baby when her father, Alexander Stoller, sculptor, urged her mother to start the singing lessons she had always longed for, because he believed she had a voice with a future. So Brier Stoller began her scales; her husband went on with his work and they took turns baby-sitting with Deborah.

After they came back to the United States, Brier Stoller made her debut in the Cincinnati Opera Company as Elsa in "Lohengrin".

War Intervenes

Then came the Second World War and Stoller pere worked for the government. Mrs. Stoller, who found that operatic engagements do not grow on trees, took the stage name Lily Paget, and got jobs in some Broadway shows, including "Bloomer Girl" and "Love Life". Deborah went to boarding school and studied piano, ballet and drawing. Sometimes she accompanied her mother on tour.

"In those days I learned something that made me start teaching singing", says Mrs. Stoller. "You can't be a specialist in the theatre any more. You need to know a lot of things. A dancer can learn to sing and get more jobs. A concert singer can learn "Pop" singing, and when she can't get opera jobs, she can go on the radio."

Although the Stollers are mother and daughter and Lily is slim and young, you would never mix them up. Lily's hair is a short curly chestnut and Deborah's long and blonde.

Home — an apartment in midtown Manhattan — operates by Stoller teamwork. Father Stoller sculptures and does the cooking. Mrs. Stoller teaches and runs the apartment. Deborah does the dishes and studies singing.

"Mother pulls me out of bed and makes me work", she says. "I don't know whether I would have the fight in me. But she makes me get up and go."

Tom Gard's Note Book

Autumn always brings a number of tasks to the home owner, especially if he is a gardener. A few days ago I noticed such a man preparing for winter. He had already constructed a reel for his garden hose, impressing upon me the need to drain it after use, then to store it dry in order to prevent the rubber from rotting. Well, his idea is worth copying.

HAMPERS FOR CLOTHES

His wife was just as handy, in fact she had converted a bushel basket into a clothes-basket by enamelling the outside white, and the inside lined with colourful chintz. This seemed to be the envy of her neighbours.

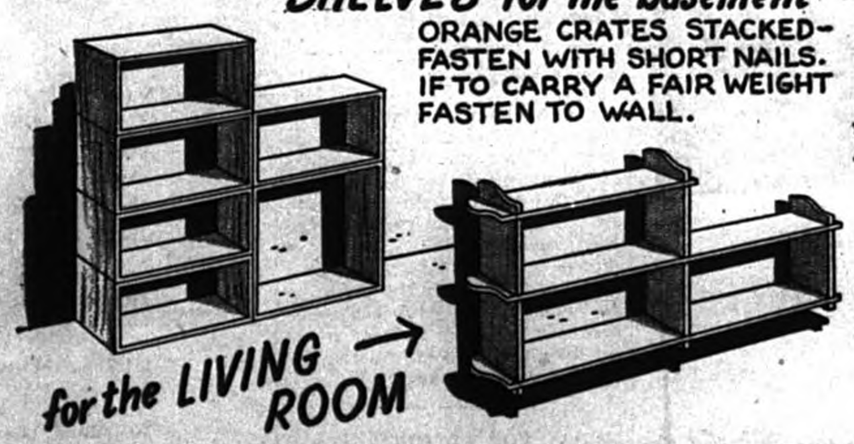

DOOR-MAT FROM BOTTLE TOPS

There was a youngster in the home, the kind that thoughtlessly ran in after school without wiping his feet. Dad soon corrected this by collecting bottle tops, then in a few minutes he made a door-mat by nailing the tops in even rows on two pieces of pine joined with a pair of cleats. I noticed that the tops were nailed closely together.

ORANGE CRATES FOR SHELVES

This chap turned out to be quite an amateur craftsman, and he liked everything in order. He was very proud of two shelves he had constructed from orange crates, one to serve his purposes in the basement, and the second one, nicely finished, for the living room.

Committee Organized for Aid to Canadian National Institute for the Blind

A meeting sponsored by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind was held in the Victoria Hall last evening, and while not as largely attended as had been hoped for, the gathering was nevertheless quite representative of the town citizenry and enabled the instigators to start a branch organization in this community.

Messrs. C. A. McClintock and G. Zaplaski, both totally blind, and Mr. Campeau, partially blinded in the last war, addressed the meeting — the former acting as chairman. He outlined the activities of the organization and the work they were doing, both among veterans and civilians. Many cases are really pathetic, but blind people do not want sympathy — rather they wish to stand on their own feet and "do for themselves". Such is the work of the Institute in helping to rehabilitate unfortunate cases, and also in education in the care of eyesight while one has it.

Mr. Campeau was cited as an example. Suffering head injuries in an army accident, shortly after his discharge from hospital he was instructed in Braille, enabling him to read, and to attend school in Toronto with the help of the Institute, later proceeding to University and obtaining his B.A. degree.

There are many thousands of blind people in Canada, including numerous cases in this and the surrounding vicinity, so that there is considerable work to be done, in both assistance and prevention.

A committee was formed comprising — R. Cairns as president; J. B. Chalmers, 1st vice-president; A. O. Anderson, 2nd vice-president; Antonio Laurin, secretary.

Mr. Cairns expressed appreciation for the honor accorded to him in representing such a worthy organization, and asked for 100 per cent co-operation from all present.

The organizers were thanked and a committee meeting was called for January 16 next, when a program for future procedure will likely be arranged.

Request Material For Cancer Dressings

Farm Bills Before Quebec Legislature; Attacks by Marler in Inaugural Debate

"This Week at Quebec"
By Bernard Dufresne

Quebec, Nov. 20 (CP) — Two farm bills come before the Quebec Legislative Assembly this week.

The first bill provides for the appointment of a three-man committee to make an inquiry into marketing of the province's farm products. The committee will be given a year to study the whole field of farm production and marketing, and competition from outside sources.

The second bill will add one member to the Provincial Farm Credit Bureau, which now has three members. The farm credit bureau, which supervises administration of loans to farmers, last week had its funds increased by $10,000,000 to $96,000,000. Since 1936, the bureau has extended credits amounting to $86,000,000 to farmers.

In discussing the farm loan bill, George Marler, Liberal opposition leader in the House, said a $6,000 limit to individual loans was unrealistic in view of today's high prices for farm equipment and livestock, compared with 1939 costs.

Agriculture Minister Barre said: "We think two small loans are more useful to the farming class than one big one. . . I am convinced a $6,000 loan is sufficient in most regions in Quebec", he said. "We must avoid contributing to inflation".

Earlier last week, the debate on the throne speech concluded with long speeches by Premier Duplessis and Mr. Marler.

The leader of the Union Nationale government called for re-distribution of taxation sources among Federal, Provincial, municapal and school administrations. He said it is Quebec's "problem of the hour" and a prompt solution is needed if the province is to accomplish its obligations under confederation. He added "constitutional stability" is a vital problem at a time when Quebec is in the midst of an industrial boom.

Replying to a lengthy attack by Mr. Marler in the throne speech, the Premier said his government is ready to put up its record against that of any previous provincial administration. Mr. Marler had said Quebec voters are "scandalized by political patronage and waste" under the Union Nationale regime; he had said the sentiment of electors is shown by the result of a recent public opinion poll indicating that 48 per cent of the population favors the Liberal party and only 43 per cent are for the Union Nationale party. . . The Liberal house leader said that in its projects for hospitals, sanatoriums and schools, the government insists on choosing the architects and contractors, subcontractors and suppliers of materials. He said, "the system of tenders by newspaper advertisement is put aside deliberately" when the government and school commissions grant contracts. . . Mr. Marler charged that under the Union Nationale government the expression "private enterprise" means a "private domain reserved exclusively for friends of the regime."

"High Priestess of The Jazz Age"

The most flamboyant woman evangelist this continent has ever known, the High Priestess of the Jazz Age, was born on a farm near Ingersoll, Ont. Her name was Aimee Semple McPherson.

In the current issue of Maclean's Magazine Douglas Dacre writes a flashback that makes vivid again the amazing career of a Canadian woman who reached the end of the sawdust trail in her own Angelus Temple in Hollywood where thousands came to worship, even after scandal blighted her career.

Dacre writes: "In her gaudy career as a hot gospeler Aimee showed a flair for publicity, a spellbinding presence which threw her listeners into hysterics and an uncanny sense of timing with the collection box. She hit front pages by scattering religious tracts from airplanes, calling on fight fans to repent from the boxing ring, converting prostitutes in local brothels, interrupting dance-hall revels in the name of Jesus and inviting incurables to test her powers as a healer.

"From Los Angeles to London, England, from Winnipeg to Wellington, New Zealand, from Montreal to Melbourne, Australia, and from Jersey City to Jerusalem, she preached the virtues of purity while she herself drank champagne, wore Paris fashions, got her face lifted and dyed her hair. For thirty-five years she pleaded for universal brotherhood but threw her own daughter out of the house.

"Three husbands entered her life, each to depart with cruel alacrity within eighteen months. She could attract thirty thousand people to a single gathering yet she never made a genuine friend. Even though Aimee Semple McPherson earned more than a million dollars she died comparatively poor."

WOMEN'S INTERESTS

Canadian Apples Make the Headlines

Many homemakers confess that they sometimes get into a rut in preparing the everyday meals. For anyone who is upset because the family meals seem to be rather humdrum, the home economists at Ottawa send out a reminder that the apple is something that can do much to give meals a lift, because there are more ways of serving apples, both raw and cooked, than any other fruit. The apple can be used not only by itself but it teams up well with many other foods. Take, for instance, apples and vegetables. Casseroles of cabbage and apple or turnip and apple are both worth trying. Winter squash stuffed with a combination of sausage meat and chopped apple is something else that is very good. Chopped raw apple gives that needed tart flavor to the stuffing for spareribs or pork tenderloin, or to a pork loaf.

Appetizers are a perfect start to a meal but so often there does not seem to be time to prepare them. Here is a suggestion which is easy and inexpensive. Try serving apple slices spread with nippy cheese or peanut butter as an appetizer with tomato juice or other juices. As a matter of fact apples make an excellent accompaniment to many foods. Apple fritters are very tasty with spareribs, ham or back bacon. Coddled apples are a favorite Maritime accompaniment to the Saturday night baked beans. Chopped apple added to pancake gives something new and interesting. The flavor as well as food value of any breakfast cereal, whether it be served cold or hot, may be improved by the addition of grated raw apple. Children love this combination and mothers will do well to serve it often. Another way to use apple with cereal is in muffins. The grated raw apple is simply added to the batter.

Apple sauce is perhaps one of Canada's favorite desserts which lends itself to many ways of serving. A little green food coloring may be added to tint the sauce green, making it especially attractive to use as a base to be topped with red or yellow fruit. The sauce may also be tinted a delicate pink. It is good to know, too, that apple sauce can be spread on pancakes which are being served for dessert, or used as the filling for jelly roll. A new and different sauce for gingerbread is made by combining apple sauce with cream cheese.

Baked apples are a simple, yet very popular dessert, and they, too, may be varied in several ways. Brown sugar or honey, with either raisins or nuts, is most often stuffed into the centre of the apples after the cores have been removed. Mincemeat is another good filling, and marmalade, or a mixture of marmalade or jam and nuts, is still another. Marshmallows, marshmallows and gum drops or cinnamon candies make ideal fillings if the baked apples are being served at a children's party. Apples retain much of their beautiful color when baked in aluminum foil. Here is a special suggestion for anyone who has a freezer or locker. After the apples are baked freeze them right in the foil, then each day, as Johnny trots to school, he can carry along one of these lovely silver balls for dessert.

For a change stewed apples may be served with custard sauce or added to a countless number of puddings such as blanc mange and tapioca cream. Other desserts, apple dumplings and Dutch apple cake for example, are general favorites and they, too, are made from apples — Canadian apples.

Gisele — Versatile Entertainer

Meet Gisele MacKenzie, now of Hollywood, who sings with Bob Crosby's orchestra in the radio show "Club 15" — (Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays, on CBC, 7.30 p.m.). Canadians know her better as Gisele LaFleche, who entertained on CBC networks from Toronto for four years before moving to Hollywood last Spring. Singing isn't her only accomplishment — she plays the piano and violin, and writes most of her own arrangements. Born in Winnipeg 24 years ago, she worked her way into radio via a dance band, and has since added club entertainment work and recordings to her schedule. She sings in both English and French, and her repertoire includes ballads, novelties, blues, rhythm and folk songs.

Home-made Gifts for Home-loving Friends

By Betty Barclay

If you make it yourself — they'll like it more. Yes, it's true . . people appreciate homemade gifts. They realize that anything you make yourself captures some of your own personality. Therefore, when you send a homemade gift, you are really giving something of yourself. What could be a nicer present for those we love!

There is so much room for individuality in a homemade remembrance. For example, jams and jellies as gifts are appreciated any time of year — but really treasured at Christmas time — and they can be made in so little time. Yet, what could be more appropriate, for the jars may be decorated to convey the full meaning of the Christmas Spirit. Try wrapping some in transparent cellophane and see how pretty your jelly jars will become with the preserved sweets showing through in gay holiday colors. Add a bit of holly, too, and a bright holiday bow to some. All will deserve a place under the tree.

For our Christmas present to you we are sending you these special recipes for Apple Jelly and Orange Marmalade. Just wait until your friends see your delicious homemade gifts. They'll all agree they're special holiday treats.

Apple Jelly

(Using canned or bottled apple juice).

3½ cups sugar, 2 cups canned or bottled apple juice, red coloring (if desired), ½ bottle fruit pectin.

Measure sugar and juice into saucepan and mix. (For a deeper rose color, add a few drops red coloring. Use coloring which fruit acids do not fade).

Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard for ½ minute.

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 5 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Orange Marmalade

3½ Cups prepared fruit, 2½ cups sugar, 1 box powdered fruit pectin.

To prepare fruit: Remove skins in quarters from 5 medium oranges and 1 medium lemon. Lay quarters flat; shave off and discard about ½ of white part. With a very sharp knife, cut remaining rind into fine shreds. Add 1½ cups water and ⅛ teaspoon soda. Bring to a boil, and simmer, covered, for just 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cut off tight skin of peeled fruit and slip pulp out of each section. Add pulp, juice, and 1 cup sugar to cooked rind. Simmer, covered, 20 minutes longer. This cup of sugar is in addition to the 2½ cups specified above.

To make the marmalade: Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a 3-4 quart kettle, filling up last cup or fraction of cup with water if necessary; place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, ¼ teaspoon butter may be added). Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 2 minutes. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot marmalade at once. Makes about 7 glasses (6 ounces each).

Campaign Against Price Fixing

Members of the Quebec Women's Institutes are much concerned with the delaying tactics employed against the proposed legislation banning the practice of Resale Price Maintenance. Aware that this is one of the ingredients that goes into high prices, the Q.W.I. has supported other women's organizations, who have been fighting this system of price-fixing for several years, and has now taken joint action with them in protesting this delay.

Individual groups of these various organizations were asked to write their Federal Members of Parliament with the request that they vote for this legislation, and branches of the Q.W.I. are co-operating in this action. In her appeal to the local units the provincial president, Mrs. G. E. LeBaron, North Hatley, stresses the urgency of the situation and quotes from a recent circular issued by the Canadian Association of Consumers, which is in the van of this struggle, "Wide and concerted action is needed. It is only if thousands of consumers tell their point of view to Government, that their voices will really register".

Picture News from C-I-L

AN AMAZING THING is "New Car Odor"—a few drops and the old car on the right will be just like the new 1951 model (as far as smell goes).

A NEW TYPE of blasting cap results in the revolutionary "split-second" blasting technique which reduces noise, concussion and flying rock.

"PLEATS stay in my luxurious nylon tricot lingerie through endless washings", says Nancy Nylon, "And no need for ironing!"

C-I-L GOES TO MARKET in BROWNSBURG and LACHUTE

The Brownsburg - Lachute district has a good, steady customer in the 1,200 men and women of C-I-L. Their earnings amount to an average of over $2,500,000 in a year. Most of this money goes directly into the community to pay grocery and electricity bills, for rent and for water, property and school taxes. The wages of people working with C-I-L play an important role in helping the growth and prosperity of local businesses. In this respect, the employees of Canadian Industries Limited are serving their own communities just as, through the products pictured here, C-I-L is "Serving Canadians Through Chemistry".

IN THE MONTREAL Filter Plant C-I-L chlorine is added to the domestic water supply. Thus C-I-L helps keep drinking water safe.

NO TOXIC residue in the milk of cows sprayed with C-I-L Methoxychlor. It kills most strains of DDT resistant flies, too.

Grey Cup — "Canada's Greatest Sport Spectacle"

"SPORTS CAMERA"

By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"The Greatest Show on Earth" was how P. T. Barnum used to describe his circuses — and we'd like to borrow the term for the annual Grey Cup spectacle.

This year's football final between the Eastern Canada champion and the best in the West promises to be a "super colossal" production.

The trainloads bearing the Western rooters will be rolling into Toronto soon to give Ontario's staid capital a fresh breath of Prairie air and Roarin' West antics.

A new wrinkle this year will be the crowning of Miss Grey Cup, to be chosen from girls representing all the teams that challenge for the Canadian senior football crown. As an added helping of glamor, Miss America will be on hand at Toronto's Varsity Stadium November 24 to help with the judging.

Some sports writers have frowned on the idea that we need the lovely Miss America to help brighten up what has become Canada's greatest sports spectacle. Frankly, we can't see it as any great tragedy.

This Miss Grey Cup idea is something new and it can probably stand any added publicity to get it firmly established as an annual sidelight to the Cup struggle. The more attractions the merrier.

We can't see why some writers (the bullies!) want to single out the cute little American girl. If they want to wipe out all the American influence in our present big-time football, why don't they pick on some of those bruising American imports who stud the line-ups of virtually all the contenders for the Cup? Or some of those highly-paid American coaches.

Like it or not, there'll probably be American players and coaches in our Canadian game for a few years yet. The competition in both the East and West is terrific and you can't blame any team for hiring the best talent obtainable to get a crack at the Cup.

The last few years the United States — which now has only one professional league instead of two — has had a surplus of classy performers available for hire. It provided a happy hunting ground for Canadian teams.

It wasn't that Canadian players couldn't make the grade in their own leagues. There just weren't enough top-calibre graduates from Canadian junior leagues. However, that situation is being changed rapidly.

Since the war, the East-West junior final has been firmly established after a rather shaky start and has given the interest of younger players a real boost.

Toronto Argonauts, who won three Grey Cup titles just after the war with all-Canadian squads, had fair results with seven Americans in their line-ups the last few years but have let it be known now that they've set their sights on building another homebrew aggregation.

Who knows, maybe we won't even need Miss America along in a few years.

New Officers Take Over in Ch. of Commerce, Pre-Christmas Campaign to 'Buy in Lachute'

A new panel of officers for the year 1951-1952 was selected at a general meeting of the Lachute Chamber of Commerce, held at the Laurentian Hotel last Thursday, November 22.

The meeting was preceded by a buffet supper, served to over 70 members present. Philippe Valois, M.P., was guest of honor. Mr. Valois later addressed the gathering on the aims and obligations of a Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Roger Dumais, president for past year, then gave a brief summary of activities during his term of office. Outstanding features were the obtaining of mail pick-up boxes from the postal authorities, and their installation at strategic locations in the Town of Lachute; also obtaining the uniform three-cent rate for all letters for delivery in Lachute.

Another important feature was the inauguration of a Group Insurance Plan — a scheme providing protection not only for the members, but also for all their employees.

The secretary-treasurer then gave his report for the year, showing a net balance in the bank of $756.74.

The president then submitted the new slate of officers for the in-coming term, as follows:

Horace Lamarche, president; Walker K. McArthur, 1st vice-president; Bernard Massicotte, 2nd vice-president; J. Rod. Carreau, secretary; Robert Marcil, treasurer; Fernand Legault, legal advisor.

André Lefebvre, Jack Brown, Rolland Morin, Miyille Trickey, Thomas Ayers and Claude Tessier, directors.

The members unanimously approved this new slate of officers.

Dr. Roger Dumais then extended his thanks to the former executive for their co-operation during his term of office. Special praise was given to the retiring secretary, André Lefebvre.

Horace Lamarche, the new president, then took over the chair, thanking the members for the honor bestowed upon him. Mr. Lamarche stated that he felt it his duty to accept this office, as he believed it was the moral obligation of all good citizens to do whatever was in their power to promote good relations throughout all phases of civic enterprise.

The president stated that it was too early to outline a complete program for the coming year. Nevertheless, he emphasized that all activities for the coming term should concentrate on encouraging already existing enterprises, as well as promoting the establishment of new ones in the Town of Lachute.

To this effect, he stated that a meeting of the new executive would be called in the near future to launch a "Buy in Lachute" campaign for the holiday period.

The president then closed the meeting with a slogan echoing this theme: "A dollar spent outside Lachute may never come back."

Cultural Opportunities in This District, Rated High By Farm Forum Group

(Our District Correspondent)

Mabel—The Farm Forum meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Clark. The topic for discussion was "Opportunities for Cultural Activities"... The people of this district consider they are fortunate in these respects, having within easy reach two fine schools, Brownsburg Intermediate and Lachute High, which, with their staffs and students, are stimulating the cultural life of the farm people.

County Population Increased 3,024

Ottawa (CP) — The population of Quebec Province increased by more than 600,000 in the last 10 years, a jump of 20.4 per cent, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported this week.

The Bureau, in another of a series of preliminary regional estimates based on the 1951 census, estimated Quebec's population at 4,010,235 compared with 3,331,882 in 1941.

The numerical increases, 1941 to 1951, for Argenteuil and two neighboring counties, Papineau and Deux Montagnes, are shown in the decennial census returns as follows:

	1941	1951
Argenteuil	22,670	25,694
Papineau	27,551	29,160
Deux Montagnes	16,746	20,896

Red Shield Appeal Donations Higher

A report on the Red Shield Campaign — the Salvation Army's annual appeal—is given by Donald M. Hay, chairman for this district. The result shows a gratifying total of $1,107 in local contributions. The collection here last year netted $800.

Mr. Hay and his committee extend thanks to all who have loyally supported the canvass for this good cause. To any who have not yet received their official receipts, these will be mailed shortly from the Montreal headquarters.

Report Results in Poppy Campaign

The Poppy Campaign of Legion Branch No. 70 (Lachute) was favored with very fine weather this year and an encouraging report of sales is given for Lachute and assisting districts. Thanks are extended by the Legion to the High School girls and volunteers who sold poppies; they did an excellent job.

A new idea this year was the displaying of wreaths in local store windows — the wreaths representing a tribute from local organizations and industries.

The organizing committee for Branch No. 70 gives the following report of returns from this town and neighborhood in the recent campaign:

Lachute	$223.40
Grenville & Calumet	57.68
St. Andrews East	30.46
Kilmar	34.00
Mille Isles	9.15
Lakefield	50
Wreaths	$219.00
Total	$583.19

Dedication of New Int. School Notable Event at Brownsburg

Brownsburg — Leaders in education, religion, industry, civics and politics went to school Friday evening at Brownsburg, and recited their lessons — to a very large assembly of parents, children and taxpayers.

The chairman of the school board, M. P. Rielly, was helmsman for the occasion and steered the proceedings with a smoothness of rhythm and precision of timing begotten of long and careful preparedness.

The occasion was the official opening of the reconstructed Brownsburg Protestant School, and the large crowd attending had gathered from many of the outside districts to augment the full attendance from Brownsburg.

The building was en fête, being gaily decorated and brilliantly lighted, the furniture arrangements were attractive and the general appearance delightful. The scheme of color was tastefully selected.

As required by the occasion, the subject was Education in all its phases — the keynote of the many "few words" was: "Education is the apprenticeship of life. Education begins with life. Before we are aware, the foundations of character are laid, and subsequent teaching avails but little to alter them. If a man empties his purse into his head, no man can take it away from him. An investment in knowledge always pays the best interest."

King Amos, principal of the school, delivered the address on the relationship between parents and the school, and the relationship of the children to both. In the course of his remarks he referred to the recent correspondence in the daily press on the subject of present-day educational methods; there was much ill-thought criticism but there was much that was stimulating in the interchange.

H. Pariseau, acting in his capacity as Mayor, welcomed the visitors to the dedication exercises. "Every serious-minded man and woman in this community today is rejoicing over this fine structure which is to be dedicated to the cause of Education", observed His Worship; and added, "Please remember that the building is yours — the home of your children while they are receiving their preliminary education".

Dr. A. R. Coté, chairman of the Catholic School Commission, expressed his pleasure in taking part in this dedication. His interest in education was deep and full, and he found that good buildings and facilities such as existed here held inspiration and incentive to good work — work of a fruitful and abiding nature. As chairman of the Catholic commissioners he congratulated the Protestant people from the bottom of his heart. There always existed a "bon entente" that made the doing of great things possible in Brownsburg. Every project of major importance towards the advancement of Brownsburg was accomplished by co-operation and good will between both races, and he hoped they would continue to work together for the community betterment.

Philippe Valois, M.P., expressed his great pleasure at being present. The school was a wonderful accomplishment, a beautiful building, and reflected great credit on the Board who had engineered it — on Mr. Cottingham, M.L.A., who made its erection possible — and on the parents and taxpayers who had so generously co-operated in providing it. Brownsburg could well be proud of its school.

W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., remarked that on an occasion such as this it was pleasant to recall the generous co-operation which made the building of such institutions possible. They had come a long way in this county in the past few years, in providing facilities for the education of their children. Over a period of just two years several new schools had been erected, and great credit was due to the people who provided the money to finance their erection. It was an investment in the future and today Argenteuil was in the forefront, in making provision to meet this future with wisdom and intellectual knowledge. He paid tribute to all who had worked to make the school the splendid contribution to education which it is; the school board, as representing the people, and the taxpayers who were burdened with the cost. If he had any message for the people it was one of appreciation and acknowledgment for the splendid co-operation put forth by all parties concerned.

The Rev. S. J. Pike pronounced the blessing in an inspiring message of the promise of future accomplishments with the help of Almighty God. He called down God's blessing in prayer.

George Y. Deacon, local member of the Protestant Committee of Education, traced the progress of education in this county for the past 20 years. His talk, interspersed with local anecdotes, including the rivalry existing at one time between Brownsburg and Lachute, was heartily applauded. He outlined the good work of the County Unit and paid generous tribute to the chairman, Mr. Cottingham, who had worked long and arduously in the interests of education in Argenteuil and who was now rewarded by having the county the recognized leader in this department in all Quebec. Mr. Deacon then introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. W. P. Percival, Director of Protestant Education for the province.

Dr. Percival opened his remarks by thanking all concerned for their efforts in bringing to fruition the dream which was now laid out before them as an actuality. It took hard work, and lots of it. He illustrated by a case in point where he had occasion to call a member of a school board at nine o'clock in the morning, and meeting a drowsy reply over the wires, was asked to excuse the speaker as he had been working on school affairs the previous night and well into the morning hours.

Provincials Here and Town Police Lead To Breaking Open $15,000 Theft Ring

Key Man and One of Five Accomplices Arrested in Lachute on Friday Night

Provincial police here, and the Lachute town force, co-operated to arrest two men last Friday, leading to the apprehension of a six-man gang responsible for $15,000 robberies from summer cottages.

The discovery of their loot revealed 22 outboard motors and other equipment stolen from summer residences in this district, in Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Ile Perreault, Woodlands, Missisquoi, Ste. Agathe and other summer resorts. It is alleged the thefts also included automobiles and accessories.

The downfall of this gang started last Friday afternoon, when a resident near Lakefield chanced to see a rifle leaning against the wall of an unoccupied cottage. He investigated and picked up the loaded rifle — whereupon a stranger, who had apparently been standing guard in the vicinity, made a frightened getaway in a car nearby, a two-tone Pontiac luxury model. He left an accomplice in the cottage, which they had broken into.

Sizing up the situation, the passer-by hurried to telephone the police authorities in Lachute. Det. Philippe Therriault and Traffic Officer Howard Jones sped to the scene, where enquiries revealed that the fugitive had headed north in the direction of St. Jerome, but had mistaken a turn at the Mille Isles intersection, then proceeding west and southward to Lachute. His companion had meanwhile taken to the bush, where the detective and traffic officer were unable to find him.

Returning to Lachute, the officers watched the eastern approach to town, and before long the Pontiac car sped past them near the Lachute limits. They gave chase, overtook their quarry near the Windsor Hotel, and placed him under arrest.

A description of the other wanted man was meanwhile received by Chief Donat Villeneuve at the town office, and around 11 p.m. he received information that the suspect was at a certain restaurant on Main Street. Chief Villeneuve and Cst. O. Sabourin went to the spot and found the man in a public phone booth, placing a call to Montreal. They arrested him, relieved him of a keen-edged hunting knife, and lodged him in the town cells, where his accomplice had been lodged previously.

Taken to Montreal, the pair were questioned by provincial detectives, and later information led to the arrest of four others, and discovery of their loot. The sextet will face various criminal charges at court in St. Jerome.

To the local police officers (provincial and civic) and the arrests they made here last Friday, may be credited the sensational showdown which made the headlines yesterday in various Montreal dailies.

It is stated that the culprit picked up at the local restaurant, Victor Holotuk, 23, was ringleader and brains of the organization. The other man, arrested here while heading for the Montreal highway, was John Tooth, aged 22.

Plowmen's Assoc'n Held Annual "Do"

The Argenteuil Plowmen's Association held a successful and well attended dance last Friday evening, in the Legion Hall, Foundry Street.

This annual dance culminates the Association's activities, providing a happy occasion for the distribution of prizes to the winning contestants. There were 35 entries in the Plowing Match this year, and each contestant received an award.

Local merchants and friends donated special prizes to this affair, making it an interesting community event. Two cups are presented annually, one by the Rotary Club of Brownsburg (won this year by Alan Hammond) and one by the Lions Club of Lachute, (won for the third successive year by Gilles Charbonneau). The latter now retains the Lions trophy. The presentation of prizes was made by Alex Bothwell, county agronomist, who has been an active friend and supporter of this association from its inception.

The two door prizes were won by Miss Geraldine Noble and Mr. Kenneth Clark — the latter prize being kindly donated by Alan McLean.

CITIZENS RALLY TO RE-BUILD MINDEN HALL

Central Press Canadian

A major tragedy struck Minden, Ont., when their community hall, centre of all local activity, collapsed under the weight of the first snowfall. It was a meeting place for women's organizations, a 1,250-seat capacity indoor hockey rink, a community dance hall and a children's party centre. So the citizens have rallied to rebuild the hall and even youngsters like Cairne McCarrey and Eleanor Hewitt want to do their bit. Cost of rebuilding will be $25,000.

Review of Tb. Prevention in Argenteuil With Opening of Christmas Seals Appeal

As the annual Christmas Seals campaign gets underway, it is interesting to review the efforts of the Laurentian Anti-Tuberculosis League — the organization for which this canvass is held in Argenteuil under the energetic chairmanship of Dr. L. Turcotte, county health officer.

A major attack upon Tb. is waged by the League through systematic chest X-ray examinations, and the record in this county over the past three years shows creditable gains in this work. X-ray examinations by the League in 1949 numbered 6,123; in 1950, 2,192; and in 1951 (figures yet incomplete), 6,524. Through clinics conducted by the County Health Unit, the corresponding figures were — (1949) 1,124; (1950) 1,106; (1951) 1,264. . . . The total of such examinations in 1951 makes an impressive figure, 7,788.

The public, however, may be more interested in actual results. During 1951, Tb cases detected in this county numbered 28 (24 incipient, 3 moderately advanced, 1 far advanced). In such cases the private physician is notified, and the sufferer is directed by him in the recommended treatment. . . In addition to these discoveries, 455 chest abnormalities were reported, indicating lung scars, possible heart or organic disorders.

The value of this "detective" work is reflected in direct benefit to the Tb. sufferers, especially those with incipient cases who respond best to timely treatment. It is reflected also in protection of the public from unguarded contact with this infectious disease.

Commenting on this record of chest X-ray examinations, Dr. Turcotte notes that clinics in schools, industries and institutions account for the greater proportion — that there is still a lack of full response on the part of the public, to attend the open clinics and take advantage of this free service. The clinic conducted at the annual Lachute Fair is perhaps an exception. This year 893 persons entered the clinic; in 1949 the count was still more gratifying — 1,007.

The coverage of these clinics includes the entire county, from north to south, and east to west, even the remote smaller municipalities. Argenteuil is surpassed only by Beauharnois among the many counties in Quebec promoting this work of Tb. prevention.

1951 Christmas Seals

The Anti-Tuberculosis League has launched, this month, its 10th annual campaign in the Christmas Seals appeal. It is hoped by the Laurentian district committee that the response in this division will exceed all previous years. Dr. Turcotte and his assistants have been busily engaged in the mailing of 5,000 letters enclosing sheets of stamps and reply envelopes — which represents a major undertaking.

Contributions in Argenteuil last year reached $1,973. Expenses of mailing and cost of stamps amounted to $191.20, making the net proceeds $1,781.80.

Quebec Frowns on Christmas Tree "Help Yourself" Tendency

Maurauders Get Warning from Official Department

Quebec (CP) — The old custom of going into the woods and cutting yourself a Christmas tree has fallen out of official favor.

The Quebec Lands and Forests Department has warned owners of forested private lands to protect them against "marauders in search of Christmas trees."

An official explained that with automobiles as numerous as they are, if everyone decides to drive a few miles out of town to cut a tree, the total cut on a private property near a highway may run to 100 trees or more.

A department announcement said Quebec highway police will question drivers of automobiles and trucks carrying Christmas trees. The information they obtain will be available to forest owners whose trees have been cut and sneaked away.

The main reason for police surveillance, however, is that Christmas tree cutting on Quebec Crown lands is prohibited.

Control of Quebec's Christmas tree business, in the hands of private wood-lot owners, is exercised by the Government through shipping permits.

These permits are required for all Christmas tree shipments outside the Province. Last year Quebec farmers shipped nearly 2,250,000 Christmas trees to the United States — their chief market.

The figure is expected to be about the same this year with prices slightly higher than in 1950.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent is Canada's 12th holder of that office.

Quiet, Please! Time, Gentlemen!

The present campaign to control licensing laws in accordance with statute is having its effect in this village. Hours have been curtailed and new conditions adopted for serving of liquor. Grill amusements and attractions have been toned down considerably.

The clergy were active in this matter a year ago, and went to the extent of procuring a widely endorsed petition to hold down excess. A resolution was passed by the Council supporting the local campaign at that time, but nothing resulted. The time was not ripe, or the effort lacked sufficient punch.

Evidently the punch is there now, and the Brownsburg "Carrie Nations" are dusting off the petition, with more hopeful views of success. The Mayor and Council are on record as supporting this effort to cry, "Time, Gentlemen!"

Gatineau LINES

The First Storm

The first bad storm of the winter season is past history in every area served by Gatineau Power now, but we all know that there may be other tough ones before next spring. Whether the future storms will do as much damage to power equipment as the first one remains to be seen, but the power company has to expect a bad storm at any time and be ready to repair the damage as quickly as possible.

The first storm of the winter for most parts of the Gatineau territory came earlier this month — and like many early-winter storms, it was particularly bad for wires and poles because it was a combination of snow and freezing rain and sleet. In some places wires snapped under the combined pressure of 1½ inches of ice plus a strong east wind; in other places wires which probably could have held up in spite of ice and wind were broken by the weight of heavily-laden tree branches which sagged against them.

The storm was hardly underway before repair crews were out on the road to repair the damage. Hampered by bad road conditions and by communication difficulties — telephone wires took just as bad a beating as power lines—many crews worked virtually without stop for three days until all circuits had been restored. The size of the job, all done in severe weather conditions, may be seen from the fact that more than 100 poles went down in various parts of the territory during the worst of the storm.

In the first storm of the year, as in any storm, the job of the power company is clear—to restore service as quickly as possible to the greatest number of customers. That means that repair jobs on the lines serving the most people must be done first. Repairs on smaller circuits are never forgotten — in fact, every effort is exerted to get them made quickly — but the priority has to go to the biggest jobs affecting the greatest number of customers. That's the only way to be fair to the most people at one time.

Reclamation of Arabian Deserts

Efforts are being made in Saudi Arabia to extend the facilities of ancient irrigation systems by the use of modern irrigation techniques. However, water rights in this country are as intricate as the tunnels themselves, which often cross one another at various levels and much of the government's trouble is to avoid infringing complex traditional customs. The new move is, however, important because agriculture in Saudi Arabia depends entirely on irrigation, and though the areas under cultivation are widely separated by desert, they can be extended by a more efficient distribution of water. Rains in the autumn and early winter, which are not allowed to escape into the salt mudflats on the coastal plain, will be controlled by dams.

HUMORS OF THE SANTA PARADE AND WARMING ECHOES OF THE ROYAL VISIT

"EXILE FROM SUNNYACRES"

— By Margaret Cook —

As has been remarked in this column before, Montreal is fun. Condemned to haunt urban streets rather than the well-beloved roads and lanes of the Laurentians, we have found solace in the more comic aspects of life in the city.

At the Santa Claus parade, we were next to a large and aggressive farmer and his family. This worthy soul was determined to miss no detail of the event, cost what it might to the toes and feelings of others. But we soon forgave him his zeal, because of his refreshing commentary on the scene. Of the female batoniers, clad in brief white skirts, tight bodices and high white boots, he exclaimed, "Why, Peggy Lee, they've nothing on their legs but powder!" The better to corroborate his first fleeting glance, he leaned down and examined as minutely as possible a pleasant leg as it passed. "Yes", he said with a nod and a shivery look aloft at the falling snow, "Nothing but powder". It seemed that the remark was received coolly by the wife, Peggy Lee.

A motorcycle policeman passed slowly along the throng to force it back, using his cycle to emphasize his order. "There's a fellow ought to be in jail instead of sending other people there", our farmer asserted. Just then, he missed one of his brood and bawled lustily for Polly. To everyone's surprise, a husky lad of about ten responded, causing some giggles among the small girls around, who were still convinced that the poor boy's name was Polly.

Toward the end of the parade, when all the pretty girls had passed, our friend grew sated with pleasure and began to be impressed by the magnificence of the offering. "This", he opined, "is going to cost them plenty". By this time, the writer, never a parade-hound, was feeling quite cynical and, without thinking, said audibly, "Don't worry, they'll get it all back". We were subjected to a reproving look, but a woman alongside agreed fervently. Through all this, a little boy cried persistently, clutching his father frantically whenever a fearsome beast approached, but father stayed with us, obviously enjoying the spectacle.

Over us all, brooded one of Montreal's finest, assisted by a younger and less sophisticated member of the police force. The older man was large, suave and good-looking; in fact the only flaw in his impressiveness was a large drop of water at the end of his nose. Either pride or unawareness kept him from removing this, so that it regularly splashed to the ground, to be promptly followed by another. But nothing impaired his solemnity nor his urbanity. The words were always the same, "En arrière, s'il vous plait". Only the tone varied, running through the gamut from a crisp note to one of utter pleading. Toward the end, he became quite genial, and stooping down to a little snow-suited urchin, patted its head, with a "Un brave, petit bonhomme!" To which the mother responded coolly in English, "It's a girl". No whit discomposed, the officer gave a Gallic shrug and muttered "L'un ou l'autre!" and passed on.

Then there was the other parade, a month ago. We refer to that of the Princess and her husband. That was not funny, but impressive. Every age, color and group was there, all bound together by that intangible thing, loyalty to the British crown. Loyalty and pride and pleasure were found in the most unlikely soil. We were conducting business with a most unprepossessing individual in one of our local shops. He had, so far as we could see, only one tooth and that a little off-centre; one eye squinted abominably; the skin would have been improved by soap and water; and a greasy beret perched absurdly half over a bald spot. Add a wooden leg and he would have passed anywhere for Long John Silver. Having doubtfully accepted our change, we were about to scurry out when the one tooth glimmered before us among a shifting mass of wrinkles, and a voice said, "We are going to have important visitors!" Caught off-base, we thought wildly of possible house guests for a few seconds, before realizing that this unlovely creature was referring to the impending arrival of the Princess and, moreover, was thinking of it with pleasure. We felt a warm rush of love (we use the word scripturally) for the poor, ugly fellow. Even our plumber went to see the Princess. So did the rector of the church, and the sexton, too. Rich and poor, fat and thin, the talkative and the taciturn, we were all one in our appreciation of the great qualities which the present members of Royalty so well exemplify. King Farouk of Egypt is reported to have said recently that when he dies, there will be only five kings left in the world — the four in a pack of cards and the King of England. He could well be right.

The man of the house, describing big scenes from the film "Bitter Rice": "So, at last, they scattered rice on her bier."

Betty (looking up in surprise from the hearth-rug), "Daddy, Daddy, why did they scatter rice in her beer?"

Now we go to make the Christmas cake, of which last week's editorial so fortunately reminded us.

Bank of Nova Scotia's 120th Annual Statement

How a bank's assets of $874,000,000 benefit Canadians in every industry and every walk of life, is illustrated in the announcement of the Bank of Nova Scotia's 120th annual statement. This record high in assets represents an increase of seven per cent over last year's figure.

Pointing out that loans to private business and industry amounted to $376,426,000, the announcement notes: "This money went to work across Canada and abroad, helping farmers improve their farms, helping the fishermen, helping industry, helping the lumber industry, the oil and mining industries. In fact, helping thousands of Canadians in business and industry, large and small, develop new products, more products, better products, to create jobs and to keep our economy growing."

"Schools, roads and other public services are made possible in part by bond issues. $28,500,000 of these bonds were held by the Bank of Nova Scotia as of October 31", says this graphic presentation of a bank statement.

The statement, as at October 31, 1951, shows that demand deposits by the public have increased $36,000,000, or 13 per cent over last year's figure. Interest-bearing deposits show an increase of $23,000,000, five per cent over the 1950 figure. Total holdings of securities stand at $247,691,000, while total loans are $419,069,000.

The bank's liquid position remained strong, with cash standing at 9.75 per cent of public liabilities. Quick assets represent 53.91 per cent of total public liabilities.

After providing for depreciation ($1,575,000), Government of Canada taxes ($980,000), and provincial taxes ($230,000), the bank shows profits amounting to $2,428,000. Of this amount, $2,038,000 was disbursed in dividends; the remainder of $390,000 was carried forward in profit and loss account.

A father was very angry about the poor marks on his son's report card. "I wish you wouldn't be so hard on him", soothed his wife. "The boy's trying, and — "

"Oh, it really isn't the marks I mind so much", interrupted the father. "It's the deception. Why the dickens does he have to look so bright?"

Local Paper Is "Your" Paper

IN REFERRING to back numbers of The Watchman (as we so often do), we are invariably impressed with a characteristic peculiar to the smaller community newspapers — they are distinctly human! In contrast to the highly efficient and impersonal dailies, the local weeklies, particularly, seem to share the sentiments — the joys and the sorrows — of neighborhood families. Anniversaries are shared as milestones in a community circle. Obituaries are penned with a personal knowledge of the contribution made by citizens who have lived, labored and passed to their reward. Progress is reported with warm personal gratification — the addition of some new industry, or the expansion of an established business, being rated by the publisher as a triumph in the world which he and his neighbors count their own.

There is a trend to eliminate the small social talk, even from our more progressive weekly newspapers. But though some district correspondents admittedly elaborate beyond the importance of their subjects, even these are valuable columns indicating the changes in our rural centres — the setting up of new homes, the migration of young folk, the return of former residents from the cities, the changing trend of public entertainment, and so forth. These paragraphs weave a story all their own.

It is aptly said by distant readers, that the local newspaper is like a letter from home. The home-town weekly may go modern in its format and its journalistic trend, but it will essentially retain its human touch, and an identity quite apart from other journals.

Enticing New Industries

"TWO NEW industries for Owen Sound". . . "New industries for Cornwall". . . "A new industry in Granby". . . .

Thinking citizens of Lachute are becoming acutely conscious of the need of new industries here, for the sake of a balanced economy. Retail business, public amusements, and some of our trade and professional services, bid fair at their present rate of growth to outstride the consumer capacity — to reach the saturation point, and to exceed that point, thus endangering our commercial solidarity. Lachute has grown steadily through the years — an even, natural growth, not stimulated by sensational developments, but fostered by steady expansion of progressive manufactures finding and catering to new markets. . .

Until the past year, that is. A statement this month that from 12 to 15 families (115 residents) had moved out of the Catholic parish of Ste. Anastasie alone, through lack of constant employment for their wage-earners, presents a startling challenge, in view of the claims of other centres which we have cited above.

This situation might be considered as a particular challenge to the incoming executive of Lachute Chamber of Commerce. There may be many reasons why Lachute has failed to attract new industries; and the Chamber with its energetic executive might properly pin down the responsibility and find the remedy — now, before Lachute suffers any threatening retrogression. We have so often heard that Big Interests here have obstructed the entry of new manufactures, for their own reasons. That bogey has circulated for the past quarter-century, but we have yet to find one complainant who can prove the case or show exactly how it has been done. . . The problem is deserving of earnest study.

There is a disquieting note in connection with the addition at Granby. New industries are desirable, but not at starvation wages — and we quote this charge as an opinion only, without editorial substantiation, merely to impress the point:

"A union officer from Hamilton, Ont., charged the Canadian Westinghouse Company . . with trying to evade paying union scale wages by moving some of its departments to cheap-labor areas in Quebec. The charge by Stan Robertson, president of the Westinghouse local 504 of the United Electrical Workers, followed the announcement that Westinghouse would move its lighting division to Granby, Que.

"He said: 'The company is paying girls in their new plant at Three Rivers 45 cents an hour for the same work that brings $1.10 an hour in Hamilton'. He said the company's announced reason for the move — expansion of business — was belied by the fact that during the last few months almost 1,000 Westinghouse workers in Hamilton had been affected by lay-offs."

Property Valuations Unfair

"WE DO not know anything about the new Valuation Roll, but past experience teaches us that there will be cases wherein certain proprietors will consider themselves unfairly valued. The difficulty in the past has been that this injustice has only been discovered after the roll has been homologated, and the collection roll deposited, when the tax bill comes in. It is then too late to insist upon an equalization of values, inasmuch as the delay for an appeal has expired. . . "

The reader may surmise this is an extract from The Watchman of two or three weeks ago. The fact is, however, the paragraph is quoted from an issue in 1896. Any who believe the present uproar on property valuations is something new and unprecedented, may find from local annals that complaints on unfair assessments have been on the record ever since Lachute first established a valuation roll. . . At least, no complaint is justified that the public were not duly warned this year on the date of homologation and closing of appeals.

Applied Psychology

IN THE old days — say 30 or 40 years old — folks say, many a parent solved the psychological ills of his child with a tender scene in the woodshed — certain areas of the child's anatomy being the most tender afterwards. They add that parents ruled by divine right. Junior was to be "seen and not heard". . . .

All, alas, has changed.

Today we have psychologists with ready-made plans for a child's upbringing. Woodsheds are practically non-existent; razor straps and hair brushes went out with the low cost of living.

You just have to have dinner at the boss's house — he has children, you haven't — for a first-hand example of the progressive era in child-parent relationships and collective home bargaining.

Before dinner you go to the library for cocktails. You set your drink beside the fire-place. There is a crash. Junior is swallowing the last of it and has pitched the glass into the flames. The boss frowns, gives Junior a coke.

Junior is polite. He rips his meat with his fingers, but he uses a knife to butter his bread. Father — the boss — smiles proudly and chokes on his potatoes.

You have just settled back to talk when, laughingly, Junior sets fire to your shoe. . . A poker is within your reach. . . Your mind goes blank. . . You do that dastardly thing. . . You are tired of your job anyway. . .

But the boss is grinning. He shakes your hand and says: "You'll get a raise tomorrow. I've longed to do just that for six years. But my wife, you know . . psychology."

And Junior, rubbing the place he most often uses when he's seated, smiles up at you from the floor with a strange new look of admiration. . . . Yes, things have changed, alas.

INFLATION can lead to a national bankruptcy just as effectively as atom bombs dropped from planes in a sneak attack, A. B. Homer, president of Bethlehem Steel, warned the American Iron and Steel Institute. "We've been hearing about new 'fantastic' weapons for our defence, but we have no weapon that is simpler, more obvious, yet really fantastic in what it could do for us, than productivity."

THE Waterloo Chronicle sniffs at this argument about horsemeat for human consumption and says: "If we in Waterloo were one quarter as interested in the food we give our minds as we are about food for our stomachs there would be a better class of entertainment for us to see when the family could enjoy it as a whole."

"THINGS AN' STUFF"

WALTER HENRY JACKSON

A Lim'rick gets laughs anatomical
Into space that is most economical,
But the best ones I've seen
Are so seldom clean —
And the clean ones are so seldom comical.

No, I didn't compose that one. The origin of the style of verse known as Limericks is lost in the mists of antiquity, but the place of their origin was supposed to have been in the town of Limerick, in Ireland. Every once in a while one may come across a book of verse that includes several limericks. But they are always the same ones! It seems that the world has waited a long time for someone to write new ones, so I figure it might as well be me. And here are a few samples:

A nasty old man from Chicoutimi
Said: "Pay me that money that's doutimi".
I said: "I don't owe you —
I don't even know you.
Your face is entirely noutimi."

There was a young lady named Gertie
Who got so exceeding dirtie
She stood in the showar
For over an hower —
From 7.15 - 8.30.

In good Queen Victoria's reign
If a man made a journey to Speign
He just had to go
On a boat that was slow.
Today he can hop on a pleign.

There was a young fellow named
Lincoln
Who said: "I have lately been thincoln
If the Liquor Commission
Enforced prohibission T'would keep lots of people from drincoln.

A lady, attacked by a neighbor,
Defended herself with a seighbor.
The judge, when he heard her,
Would not call it murder
But gave her three months at hard leighbor.

Want any more? I got millions of 'em!

Be Seein' ya!

It's Your Money

By Joseph Lister Rutledge

We usually speak of taxes as if they were a matter of doubtful local pride, like congested traffic or housing difficulties, that didn't touch us closely or persistently. Indeed a recent opinion poll disclosed the fact that 41% of Canadians were quite unaware that there had been an increase in income tax.

After every allowance was made for those below the taxation level who didn't care, and for housewives who let their husbands do the worrying on such matters, there still remained a large section of people who were deeply interested and who didn't know. There are various reasons for this apparent detachment. We have accepted taxation as necessary and, presently, as a patriotic duty. Others figured that their leaders would certainly follow any extra charges by renewed wage demands. Many expected that government welfare benefits would offset anything else. But probably the bulk of the uninformed put the whole unpleasant matter behind them and forgot about it.

That, of course, is what every government expects to happen. That is what makes its members such blithe and care-free spenders, even while they are exhorting the citizens that they must be prepared to limit their spending or accept the disagreeable fact of inflation.

The solemn matter of fact is that any tax increase should startle us. At present government is taking from us, and spending for us, one out of every three or four dollars that we earn. And this spending is vastly more inflationary than any modest spending of our own. The Federal government's slice of this assessment is $280 annually for every man, woman and child. And it isn't only for defence. For, even when defence spending gets into full swing, it will represent less than $110 of that $280. That leaves plenty of leeway for curtailment.

But that isn't all. When the Federal government gets through with us the provincial and municipal take up the hunt. Averaged out for the country these taxes combined bring the per capita taxation charge to $400. For a middle income family with three children this means a tax total of $2,000. Such a deduction from income isn't something the average citizen can shrug off. Perhaps he might think a little differently of the tempting offers provided by governments and would - be governments, if he stopped to figure how many social benefits $2,000 a year would really buy.

School Board Meeting At Morin Heights

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — The regular monthly meeting of the Morin Heights Protestant School Commission was held November 26, President Willis Seale occupied the chair, with Commissioners R. N. Goodfellow, Paul Baumel and Geo. Watchorn, and the secretary-treasurer, A. Hamilton, in attendance.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted, as also were the accounts.

Permission was given by the Board for the use of the school auditorium to a group of youths for training and basketball.

Letters and requests were dealt with, and the chairman asked that letters of thanks be addressed to the ladies of the Women's Institute for assistance rendered by them at the official opening.

An innovation was established, by the presence at this meeting of W.I. representatives — Mrs. F. T. Watchorn and Mrs. C. E. Seale being present. The president warmly welcomed these ladies.

Mr. Blakely, the principal, was present to recommend further requirements for the better education of the pupils; these were granted by the Board.

Brownsburg Guide And Brownie Groups

Brownsburg — A review of activities over the past three months shows that the Brownsburg Girl Guides have been busily occupied.

In early October the Guides held an Apple Day, by which they realized $75, thanks to the generous response of the public. During the recent Royal visit they travelled in a body to Montreal and were fortunate in having a splendid location along the route. For two Fridays prior to Armistice Day they sold poppies on the streets, on behalf of the Legion, finishing up with a door-to-door canvass.

Several Guides are attending a First Aid course as well.

A Parents' Night is to be held on November 30 at 7 p.m., at which badges will be presented.

The Brownies have also been "as busy as bees". A plendid Hallowe'en party was held, at which both Brownies and Committee members wore costumes and played games. Several Brownies have passed badges and are studying for others, so this group can also look forward to a busy and successful season.

Legion Affairs At Morin Heights

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — On Tuesday the Morin Heights Legion gathered for their regular monthly meeting, with President E. J. Watchorn in the chair, and Secretary Fred Muncey in his usual role. A good turn-out of the comrades was in evidence and many important matters were discussed and settled.

The Branch were again sponsoring the public skating rink, and the Council had voted them the sum of $400 for the purchase and placing of new boards for the sides of this rink.

Details were given of the visit of the "Legion Revue", an all-star show of variety entertainers, to be held in the Morin Heights school auditorium on Friday, December 14, and the Comrades were asked to push the sale of tickets to make this event a success. Comrades Green, Holgate and Kneeland, and Secretary Fred Muncey, were appointed as a committee to handle the affair.

Comrade Holgate presented the results of the Poppy sales, which were in the neighborhood of $50. The president thanked him for his report, and was gratified also with the fine turn-out of veterans for the Remembrance Day services — held at the Roman Catholic Church at 9.30 a.m. and the Anglican Church at 10.30 a.m.

Comrade Gillingham presented a proposed by-law whereby the branch could make loans to needy members if necessary; this matter was left over for further study.

The meeting closed with the usual prayer, and refreshments were enjoyed in conclusion.

Old-Timers Recall Edmonton as Hamlet

Edmonton (CP) — Braised elk and "do you remember?" stories were the fare at the 57th annual round-up of Edmonton old-timers.

Edmonton may be Canada's fastest-growing city now, but Miss Kate Timney's memory goes back to the time when it boasted a population of 400.

Others among the 550 old-timers were Mrs. E. C. Emery, who came to Edmonton aboard the first train into the city in 1892, and George Noyes who was born 84 years ago on the site of Edmonton's largest hotel.

Some misgivings were voiced about the city's growth.

"We don't get to see each other so often now that the city has grown so big", said one woman old-timer. "In the old days we met in the stores and it was like one big community."

Christmas Plans

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

The Christmas month is the time for mysterious secret activities but there are two projects which can be carried out openly in the home. The production of Christmas decorations and the designing of Christmas cards are family affairs.

In order to keep the Christmas tree's needles fresh, the lower trunk should be in a pail of water or moist sand. Two or three small wires attached to the wall from half way up the trunk are a great help in preventing it from tilting or falling over. With these precautions, the tree can be put up several days before Christmas. Then the children can have all the joy of trimming it with their own decorations as they make them.

These may supplement the precious heirlooms which are put away in boxes in the attic. But perhaps even these could be fixed up a bit! The angel at the top of the tree might look a lot nicer with some fresh tinsel on her wings.

A brand new star covered with tinfoil, and a flock of little stars and bells might make their appearance. Popcorn and macaroni strings can intermingle with the red or green tissue paper "ropes". Rosettes and cardboard bells can all be made by small fingers. Mother and Dad must watch, however, that there is no danger from fire from defective wiring of lights or tissue paper too near a hot bulb.

The centre piece for the dining room table may be arranged around a small mirror which suggests a frozen pond. Absorbent cotton makes excellent drifts and tiny twigs of evergreen can become miniature evergreens. A little child (with just a small amount of assistance) can construct a tiny red cardboard house or church. Plasticene figures or those carved from soap may be made or papier maché used for Santa with his cardboard sleigh.

Red construction paper or cardboard forms the base for many children's Christmas cards. The very little folk can use blunt scissors and cut out and paste scenes from last year's cards. An older child may want to draw his own design, using crayons or paints. Silhouette cards in two colors can be most attractive. Block printing with a potato or a linoleum block is a card project an older boy or girl will enjoy who has a flare for art.

Wise parents provide materials for home activities not only at the end of the year but in other seasons too. They know how much satisfaction can be derived from making things with one's hands. Christmas means so much to the child who has had a creative share in the family's preparations for this joyous festival. Be sure you and your children do not miss out on this December fun!

BREAKING RECORDS IS THEIR SPECIALTY

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haight, of Floral, Sask., are justly proud of their offspring, for they boast a record unequalled by any other Canadian family. Six of their eight children have, in the past six years, been on junior farm teams representing Saskatchewan at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto. With three sets of twins in the family and 10 sets of twin calves in dairy herd on Haight farm, this remarkable family must have established another record apart from junior farm club work.

CBC Producer

Nine seconds before rehearsal time for the Canadian Ford Theatre, heard Friday nights at 9 (EST) on the CBC Dominion, producer Alan Savage is ready to give the go-ahead signal. Quiet-spoken, dryly humorous, with a slow smile, Savage demands the best from his players. He spends hours auditioning aspiring Ophelias and reading scripts, preferring to use Canadian plays or adaptations whenever possible. Alan began announcing in Kitchener, Ont., in 1932, then moved to radio stations in Windsor, Detroit, Buffalo, St. Catharines, and in 1938 made his headquarters in Toronto as a free-lance writer, announcer, actor and producer. He has directed the Ford Theatre since it began in 1949.

Brought Own House Over from Holland

Jasper Place, Alta. (CP) — Dutch immigrant William Bartel not only brought his wife and seven children with him from Holland. He had his house shipped over.

The prefabricated home arrived a month after the family and now has been assembled in this Edmonton suburb. Mr. Bartels wanted to have it in Edmonton, but it didn't comply with city building specifications.

The house came over in 40 pieces. It has seven rooms, is 38 feet long and 20 feet wide. Now he's trying to rent the place, since in the meantime he had taken a house in Edmonton.

50th Anniversary of Marconi's Wireless

Marconi's first wireless signal across the Atlantic, from Poldhu in Cornwall to St. John's, Newfoundland, was sent out 50 years ago, on December 12, 1901. To mark this anniversary, the CBC has arranged a series of three talks, entitled "Canadian Sparks", to be broadcast Sundays at 12.15 p.m., starting December 2, on the CBC network.

The scripts will be written and read by the Canadian author, Thomas Raddall. He will tell of the beginnings of wireless telegraphy, Canada's part in its development, and his early experiences as a wireless operator.

Farm Forum Verdict On Co-operatives

Do co-operatives pave the way for state ownership and increasing government control? Not according to the great majority of the 800 Farm Forum groups across Canada that discussed this question on November 12, 1951. Co-op members control their own business, these Forums said, and they are independent of the government. A minority of the Forums expressed the opposite view on the question, and a few were uncertain.

The topic that gave rise to this discussion was "Are Co-ops Socialistic?" It was the final topic in a series of three on co-operatives, which opened the 1951-52 National Farm Radio Forum season. Other topics in the series were: "Are Co-ops Efficient?" and "Are Co-ops Democratic?"

On the question of efficiency, 73 per cent of the Forums said the most important way to ensure the success of a co-op is to hire an efficient manager and staff. Also important is an alert, active and efficient Board of Directors, and enough members to give the co-op sufficient business. A co-operative should only be formed, according to the Forums, when there is a real need for one in the community and when existing services are inadequate or unsatisfactory.

Whether or not co-ops are democratic, depends on the members. This was indicated in the Forum discussions on the topic "Are Co-operatives Democratic?" Matters of policy are decided on at annual meetings of the members. The difficulty is to get good attendance at the meetings. Only 22 per cent of the Forums in Canada reported good attendance and participation at annual meetings of the co-ops with which they are familiar. A third of the Forums (33%) said the co-op annual meetings did not succeed in representing the views of the whole membership, and another 20 per cent said the meetings were only fair. The remainder of the Forums did not answer or could not speak from actual experience with co-ops.

The biggest problems in democratic control that face the co-ops are, in the opinion of the Forums: Lack of interest on the part of members, keeping control in the hands of the many instead of the few, and getting an executive and staff who understand co-operative principles.

A Special Message from your B of M manager...

IF I were asked to sum up the whole Canadian way of living in two words, I'd say: "Steady Progress". The people of this country seem to combine stability with a go-ahead spirit. This approach shows up in most things we do. Take Canada's first bank — my bank. We have just finished our 134th year, with assets of over two billion dollars. Our Annual Statement is typically Canadian in that it tells of substantial progress in terms of brass tacks rather than brass bands.

Just three highlights will show you exactly what I mean:

DEPOSITS: Our 1,800,000 customers have $2,085,187,091 on deposit at 572 B of M branches across Canada. Some of this money belongs to business firms and institutions, but more than half of it is the savings of everyday people.

LOANS: Now at the highest year-end figure in the Bank's history, our loans amount to $646,368,336. Farmers, fishermen, ranchers and lumbermen borrowed a great deal from us, but we lent money to people in every walk of life and to business of every kind. At that, we had to cut down on many loans we would ordinarily have liked to make, in order to co-operate with the Government in measures which are designed to combat inflation and help gear up Canada's economy for the defence program.

INVESTMENTS: At the year's end, the B of M had $976,950,829 of its depositors' money invested in high-grade government bonds and other public securities. These were listed in the Bank's books at a figure not greater than their market value. Our other securities represented mainly short-term credits to industry. The combined total amounted to $1,108,174,362.

Like Canada, her first bank has gone on from strength to strength in the past year. We believe in being strong because our main job is to protect people's savings. And we believe in encouraging people to save more, too.

In this, as in any other way we can, we are working with Canadians in every walk of life for the steady progress that will give us all a stronger, happier country.

Tom Gard's Note Book

I suppose we have all been reminded that it is good to store for a rainy day, and of course that means winter as well. This was brought very much to mind when travelling through the country recently, and inspecting equipment in a farm home.

Storage Bin

This farmer did not agree with the old type bin in the corner of the cellar, he had built an airy one for better results. The framework of the bin was out from the wall about three inches, firmly constructed with sliding shelves or trays for fruit, bulbs, and vegetables. Plenty of air worked up through the trays as each had a slat bottom. It is well to keep in mind that the room should be cool and dry for best results, and free from frost.

Stove-pipes for Stakes

Over in another corner of the basement I spied a storage place for stakes. These had been used for dahlias and tomatoes, some of bamboo and others of cedar. Stove-pipes had been fastened to the wall with heavy wire, and the stakes stood upright to prevent them from falling all over the place.

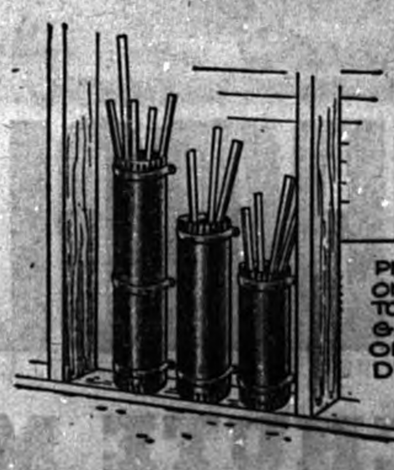

Protection for Cheese

Invited to partake of a little hospitality I was interested to note how the folks protected the cheese. A new flower-pot had been soaked in water, then placed over the cheese to keep it from drying out, and to protect it from flies.

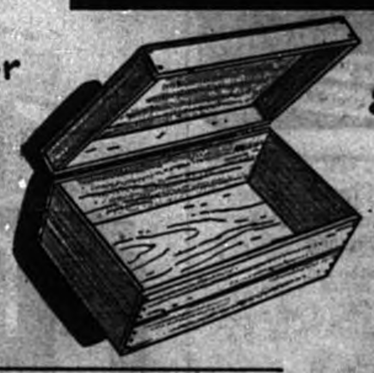

Small Tool Chest

The principal of a school nearby invited me into the manual training room. One of the junior pupils had constructed a very neat tool box from pieces of lath. Given a little extra touch this could have been converted into a fine box for gloves, ties or handkerchiefs.

Cheer for Car Dealers

New car dealers who have been going grey lately as inventories mounted and demand dropped, heaved a big sigh of relief recently — states the Financial Post. The freezing of car styles as of 1952 means most dealers won't have to worry about carrying stocks of cars outdated by new models.

Of the Big Three, only Ford is making a model change this year. But just about all were planning on major face-lifting on 1953 models.

Unless business picks up or supply falls off, that could have been quite a problem. The minute a restyled model comes out, dealers figure on a substantial markdown on any stock they have on hand.

Notable Event, Opening Of Brownsburg School

Chatham, from which Brownsburg was born, was older than the Dominion of Canada. Chatham was established 42 years before Confederation. In 1908 there were six pupils in the older grades in the old stone school at Brownsburg. In those days pupils left school before their education was completed and very few pupils remained to reach the higher grades. Very few pupils went on to Model schools (as they were called) but today there were 61 pupils in Model grades here in Brownsburg. The test of school leaving age was for pupils to ask themselves, when they had reached high school grades, "How would I have liked to have left school at Grade IV?" Brownsburg had now a nice school. It was a big school, and from an educational point of view an interesting school. Two hundred and forty pupils was a very interesting school, there was lots that could be done with such an attendance, and pupils would meet and make contacts with other pupils which could serve a very useful purpose in after life. He had examined the school as a building, and had even gone to the extent of examining the workmanship and materials which had gone into the building. He had found much that he was very pleased with, and some that he was not so pleased with, but it was a first-rate school building and one that was not built for the pupils or the parents of this generation, but for future generations and many generations to come. That was something for the children to realize — that it was not for them alone that all this work was accomplished. It was for the future and greater Canada which they will help to build on the foundations which has been laid for them. They will pass on, and the teachers and school boards will pass on, but the work they do will live after them, and future generations will be great or mediocre according to the measure of worth they put into the work they do today. Civic leaders who were here tonight, were charged with the responsibility of providing opportunities for the children which the school they had built would prepare for the future. Industries should be made to absorb their efforts in building their future, and instead of losing one, as Brownsburg did recently, efforts should be made to attract more industry and enlarge this town from its 4,000 population to 40,000 if possible.

Authority and obedience were two of the virtues stressed by the speaker. He admonished children that they were not as important to the present as were their parents. Their function lies in the future, and it is their business to prepare for it with wisdom and direction from their parents and teachers.

Dr. Percival called attention to the great work now being done for education throughout the province. Nothing like this had ever been attempted in Canada before; 41 new schools had been opened during the past two years and every one of those schools was the product of endless thought and study. This school was the product of many experiments; the profits gained by previous building attempts were incorporated in the building which they were dedicating tonight. The speaker then declared the school officially open.

At intervals during the proceedings Angelo Fassio provided a pleasant rendition of musical numbers from his stringed orchestra. The audience were very appreciative. Shirley McKyes led the Glee Club through several vocal numbers, and Nancy Ann MacCormack played a piano solo, which was roundly applauded.

At the conclusion the audience repaired to the cafeteria where the Women's Institute provided a special treat by way of refreshments. Then followed a round of inspection of the various classrooms and an exhibition of the pupils' work.

"Personalized" Statement On Year's Operations Of Bank of Montreal

Something entirely new in the interpretation of bank statements has been initiated by the Bank of Montreal this week, in reporting its financial position to customers at the end of its 134th year of operations. The B of M's message presents a striking departure from the traditional pattern of Canadian bank reports. Strongly emphasizing the personal approach, it is published as a signed statement from the local B of M branch manager, Donald Hay.

Headed "A Special Message from Your B of M Manager", the report is a plain-spoken review of the main features of the bank's experience throughout the past 12 months. Written in non-technical language and illustrated by thumbnail sketches, the report represents a further advance in the direct "grass-roots" approach pioneered by the Bank of Montreal in its annual reports for the past seven years.

In the preamble of this humanized report, the local manager makes several down-to-earth comments upon the Canadian way of living. He emphasizes that the people seem to combine stability with a go-ahead spirit and sums up the Canadian way of life in two words, "steady progress".

1,800,000 Canadians Have $2-Billion on Deposit at B of M

Total deposits at the 572 branches of the B of M across Canada now amount to a new high of $2,085,000,000; the message states, "some of this money belongs to business firms and institutions, but more than half of it is the savings of everyday people."

Loans now stand at over $646,000,000, another highest year-end figure in B of M history. This figure indicates the vast scale of co-operation with business and private individuals made possible through the confidence placed in the Bank of Montreal by its 1,800,000 depositors. "Farmers, fishermen, ranchers and lumbermen borrowed a great deal from us", states the report, "but we lent money to people in every walk of life and to business of every kind."

Loans Would Be Greater But for Credit Curbs

The B of M points out that its policy of working with the government, in measures "designed to combat inflation and help gear up Canada's ecenomy for the defence program", resulted in the cutting down of many loans which it would otherwise have wished to make. But for this factor the record loan figure would have been even higher.

Assets in excess of $2,200,000,000 are held by the B of M at the end of its 134th year in business. Well over $976,000,000 is held in government bonds and public securities. These are listed in the bank's books at a figure not greater than their market value. Combined with securities representing short-term credits to industry, these investments total $1,108,000,000.

Sponsored by the Vancouver Junior Chamber of Commerce, a safety-training course is being taken by 38 Boy Scout leaders. Their first lecture was given by Supt. G. H. Archer of the R.C.M.P. on all aspects of panic.

Lauds Women's Inst. On "Personal Parcels"

Branches of the Quebec Women's Institutes have been commended by the Women's Voluntary Services, Montreal, for their faithfulness in continuing the Personal Parcel project through so many years. Commenting on the fact that so many send regularly, the WVS add they hope, with the Christmas Spirit abroad and in view of the new austerity rationing in the United Kingdom, that all those who may have given up parcel sending will start again and that those who have never sent will now begin this satisfying project.

In this message received at the Q.W.I. office, the WVS goes on to say, "We know all the 'regular' senders will continue their efforts and take this opportunity of thanking them for all they have done and send to all the best wishes of the Montreal WVS for Christmas and the New Year".

This month's reports from the branches reveal many are sending that special Christmas box in addition to the monthly routine, but for any who wish to join in this work and become a "regular", names of those most in need, taken from lists supplied by the WVS, may be had by applying to the Q.W.I. office.

Teachers' Association 'Dined' by Central Board

On November 16, the Argenteuil - Two Mountains Teachers' Association gathered in the lunch room of Lachute High School to enjoy a dinner provided by the Central School Board. Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., as after-dinner speaker, gave a very interesting talk on the work of the Quebec Government.

The business meeting of the A.T.M.T.A. commenced at 9.30 o'clock, when a talk was given by Mr. A. Demarais on the Blue Cross.

A report on the convention was given by Mr. B. Millar. This was followed by a report of the Salary Committee, given by Mr. J. Hawes.

It was announced that Mr. S. McKyes had been appointed chairman of the Music Festival. Mr. McKyes then chose two other members to work on this committee, namely, Mr. F. H. J. Royal and Mr. D. Staniforth.

Mrs. Harris announced two radio broadcasts of interest to all members — first, "The Voice of Youth", on Sunday, November 18, and second, "The Home and School of the Air", on Sunday, November 25.

After the meeting, square dancing was enjoyed in the school auditorium.

Ministerial Association

The Argenteuil Protestant Ministerial Association met in regular session last Monday at the home of the Rev. S. J. Pike, Brownsburg.

The Rev. C. R. Lang, president, took the chair and opened the meeting with prayer.

It was reported that the Sunday School teachers' training course had been completed and that the teams from Montreal, under leadership of Miss D. MacNeill of the Religious Education Council, had been of great help to those attending the course.

The Rev. C. R. Lang was appointed as representative of the Association to the Lachute branch of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Watchnight services are being arranged for December 31 at 11 p.m. in Maple Avenue Baptist Church, Brownsburg, and in St. Simeon's Church, Lachute. Also the Universal Week of Prayer will be observed at Lachute on January 2-4 inclusive, and at Brownsburg, January 7-11 inclusive; details will be published at a later date. There will be no meeting of the Association in the month of December.

The Rev. S. J. Pike gave a most interesting address on the subject of "The Ministry".

All-Scottish Concert Draws Merited Acclaim

Highland flings, Scotch reels, Irish jigs, a sword dance, hornpipe, and three-hand reel were only part of the varied program presented in the Lachute High School auditorium last Saturday evening. This Scotch concert was under the direction of Mrs. Norma Entwistle, of Cornwall, Ont., and Mr. Jock MacDonald, of Ottawa, was the guest artist.

Three pipers — Pipe Majors Bert Sutherland and George Montgomery, and Piper Gerald Walsh — added to the enjoyment of the evening with their selections on the bagpipes, and also provided accompaniments for several of the Scotch reels.

Miss Patricia Walsh, of Cornwall, one of the youngest performers in the group, delighted the audience with her dancing, especially in her lively interpretation of an Irish jig. This talented little girl, and her elder sister, Maureen, drew well merited applause from the audience for their song entitled "A Gordon For Me". Both girls were well poised as they stood before the microphone and sang this pretty little ballad.

Mrs. Neil MacLeod, of Dunvegan, played several well known Scottish airs on her violin.

Jock MacDonald's songs and jokes were favorably received and he struck a responsive chord in several Scottish persons in the audience when he spoke in the Gaelic and then rendered one verse of "The Road to the Isles" in Gaelic. He also played two accordion solos.

On the whole the Scotch dances were the highlight of the program. Executed with precision, grace and perfect timing, they were greatly enjoyed by the audience. These young girls may be justly proud of their achievements, and their instructor, Mrs. Norma Entwistle, is to be congratulated on training them to such a degree of perfection.

The concert was sponsored by the Young Women's Auxiliary of Lachute United Church, and the performers were welcomed to Lachute by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough.

TO ENTICE SALMON

The problem of bringing back the Atlantic salmon to New Brunswick rivers during the summer months is one which is causing grave concern to all those interested, directly or indirectly, in the "king" of sport fish.

Married Saturday at B'burg United Church

Keatley - Lawton

The marriage of Dorothy May Lawton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lawton, of Montreal, to Arthur A. Keatley, son of Mrs. A. Keatley and the late Mr. A. Keatley, of Brownsburg, took place on Saturday, November 24, at four o'clock, in the Brownsburg United Church, the Rev. S. J. Pike officiating.

The church was decorated with white chrysanthemums and pink carnations. The wedding music was played by Mrs. C. Wheeler, and Mr. Fred Legault sang "Because" and "I'll Walk Beside You."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore white Chantilly lace over a satin fitted bodice, with full skirt and sleeves with points over the hands, and Peter Pan collar, trimmed with pearls. Her fingertip nylon tulle veil was held back by a pearl and lace-trimmed satin headdress. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Her only attendant was her sister, Evelyn, who wore a pale blue nylon marquisette gown and mittens, and a headdress of feathers and sequins. She carried a nosegay of poms and red roses.

Mr. Ross Keatley, brother of the groom, acted as best man, and Mr. Frank Elliott and Mr. Eddie Stone were ushers.

"Put Christ Back Into Christmas" Is Theme in U.S. Community Campaign

New York (AP) — "Put Christ back into Christmas". Around that slogan, or variations of it, individuals and groups in more than 20 communities across the United States are trying to separate Christmas bells from those on cash registers.

These workers seek to restore in the public mind the idea that Christmas is a religious feast observing the birth of Christ rather than a pumped-up excuse for a buying binge.

Backed by Church Groups

In some localities the movement has been under way for several years. Others are trying it for the first time. In some the campaign is backed by church groups, Protestant and Roman Catholic. In others merchants' associations supply the driving force. Accomplishments reported thus far include:

Shortening of the official shopping season.

Use of Nativity scenes as store window and park decorations.

Parades and pageants with biblical themes and devoid of all advertising or commercialism.

Sending of greeting cards with religious decor.

Bans on the playing of carols in shopping districts.

In Dubuque, Ia., last Christmas large window displays were placed on leading streets. 100 neighborhood stores had Nativity scenes and nearly 2,000 private homes had cribs or religious displays. The same is planned this year.

In Minneapolis and St. Paul, billboards, roadside Nativity scenes and automobile windshield stickers will proclaim the religious significance of Christmas.

Appeal to Merchants

In Pennsylvania, the York County Ministerial Association has called upon business groups to end "exploitation and desecration" of the "spiritually significant" season.

Santa Claus is being banned from this year's Christmas parade in Reading, Pa. Floats will be strictly religious for the second year in a row.

Non-commercial parades are the rule in several Illinois cities.

The Michigan City News Dispatch is campaigning to get all 150 women's clubs to donate to charities the money they usually spend exchanging gifts.

Commission Report on Duplessis Bridge Collapse

THE WEEK IN QUEBEC

By Bernard Dufresne

Quebec, Nov. 27 (CP) — An inquiry commission, appointed by the Provincial Government, reported last week it has reached no definite conclusion to establish the exact cause of the Duplessis bridge collapse January 31 with loss of four lives.

The commission suggested, in "subsidiary conclusions" of a 30,000-word report given out by Premier Duplessis, that two "hypotheses" might explain the collapse of the $3,500,000 bridge at Three Rivers:

1. An uexplained scientific phenomenon;
2. Sabotage.

The report was drawn up by inquiry commissioners René Lippe, Montreal magistrate, and J. Lucien Dansereau, Montreal engineer, who heard evidence from 43 witnesses at sittings in Three Rivers from August 27 to September 26.

The commissioners said collapse of the west section of the bridge followed a "rupture" of one of the main steel beams in its metal superstructure.

They said the over-all plans and specifications for the bridge prepared by public works department engineers were accurate: The steel work by the Dominion Bridge Company Limited was according to specifications; and the concrete under - structure by the Dufresne Engineering Company Limited was done properly.

They said Bailey bridges set up to restore road traffic across the St. Maurice River were installed in "record time" of three months despite a difficult engineering problem.

The commission, asked to rule on these three points by an order-in-council which ordered the inquiry last August 1, said in its report it was not given responsibility to decide the "scientific cause" of the collapse nor to fix legal responsibility.

The report said that although "elaborate evidence" of sabotage was not conclusive, the theory could not be "eliminated completely".

Some witnesses, the report said, were attracted particularly by a "fracture" in the steel-work that was the only one of its kind among a "considerable number" that occurred.

"We note", the commissioners said, "that under cross-examination these witnesses admitted that many of the observations made, though not all, might have indicated the fall of the bridge was due to other causes than sabotage".

The report considered the possibility that "microscopic fissures" might have occurred in the steelwork, and expert opinion was that it was "very improbable though possible" that such fissures might have led to the collapse.

The report said that after two fissures appeared near welded joints in the steel superstructure a year before the collapse, it was decided to consolidate all 96 other joints with rivited plates.

Evidence at the inquiry showed that "not one of the strenghtened joints showed an original fracture after the collapse of 1951."

Election prophets got something to talk about last week when Premier Duplessis announced in the Legislature that Quebec's 1952-53 budget estimates will be presented by December 5 — four months before the start of the next fiscal year, April 1.

But the Premier has said that only shaky administrations wait more than four years to go before the people, and elections are expected next year. The date of the election is a secret held by Premier Duplessis.

FAIR CRITICISM

A newspaper to be successful, especially in its sports coverage, must reflect the feelings of the majority of fans. If fans think their team stinks it is time for newspapers to say so. When the same fans feel a team is doing its best even if its best will not win a championship, the team should be praised.

New Dyeing Process Aids Rayon Colors

A new textile process, "dope" dyed rayon staple, brings added advantages to this chemical fibre.

By dyeing rayon in semi-liquid form before it is spun into fibre, many attractive shades can be made by color mixing because these fibres can be had in varying degrees of depth of shade.

By using several combinations of colors in various percentages, many gradations of the basic color blend can be obtained with any color being the predominant shade. Heathers, particularly, are easier to produce in smaller batches.

The new process also gives a higher degree of fastness to light and washing, is more economical than present methods and will provide some interesting shades and color blends when mixed with dyed or undyed wool.

My daughter's third - grade teacher, "Old Conroy" (as almost everyone in town called her) had been the dragon of the school for 20 years. What particularly enraged her was to be called out of the room and return to find her pupils laughing and talking. One day, however, she came back to find her classroom strangely peaceful — the children were sitting erect at their desks, hands primly folded. Miss Conroy's jaw dropped and she demanded. "How did this happen?"

Slowly a dimpled hand went up. "Well", said an eight-year-old blonde, timidly but expectantly, "you told us once that if you ever left the room and came back and found us quiet—you'd drop dead!"

Broiling – Good Way To Cook Many Foods

The broiler on the modern electric or gas stove is there for a definite purpose. It is there to be used for cooking a whole host of foods, including meats, fruits and vegetables. In some stoves the broiler is a separate unit, while in others, it is at the top of the oven. Wherever it is you will find a broiler rack and drip pan which fit under the electric element or gas flame, depending on the type of stove.

The home economists of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, doubt that the average broiler is used as much as it might be. Perhaps it is a case of out of sight out of mind or it may be that some homemakers, particularly inexperienced ones, have the mistaken idea that the broiler can be used for cooking only the most expensive foods. While it is true that broiling is an excellent way of cooking tender cuts of meat such as steaks and chops, any other meat which is ordinarily panfried may also be broiled. This means that the broiler can be put into action for cooking sausages, liver, kidney, hash and any kind of ground meat as well for the tender steaks and chops.

There is a right and wrong way to do most things and using the broiler is no exception to the rule. First of all the broiler should be heated, then the rack should be rubbed well with a little fat. Greasing the rack is very important in broiling meats to keep them from sticking to it. The rack should be placed so that the top of the meat is about three inches from the heat. It is best to keep the oven or broiler door slightly ajar while broiling. With steaks and chops sear them quickly on both sides. Then reduce the heat and finish broiling. Steaks one-inch thick will take from 15 to 20 minutes broiling time, depending on whether they are to be served rare, medium or well done. Lamb chops three-quarter inch thick should be broiled about 12 minutes. A slice of smoked ham about half an inch thick will need approximately 25 minutes to be thoroughly cooked. Before broiling meat the fat around the edge should be snipped so that it will not curl up during the cooking.

One decided advantage in using a broiler is that it can serve a double purpose, for along with the meat there will probably be plenty of room on the rack to broil a vegetable or fruit to serve with it. Apple slices cut half-inch thick are good to broil with sausages, canned peaches with a ham slice, thick slices of onion with liver, and last but not least mushrooms with steak. The fruits and vegetables will not take quite as long to broil as the meat.

The broiler has many other good uses. It is a quick and easy way to make several slices of toast at a time or to toast a number of sandwiches, buns or rolls all at once. It also solves a problem if it is necessary to cook more than a panful of bacon.

Broiling is not new. It is a tried and proved method of cooking which dates back many, many years. That is why everyone who has a stove equipped with a broiler should make good use of it.

For School Lunch Box

By Betty Barclay

From Canada's fields of plenty comes billions of tiny-but-mighty wheat grains, each one bearing vitamins, protein, and minerals. These storehouses of energy may reach your kitchen in several forms: bread, flour, and cereal — that versatile and popular member of the "Basic 7". Remember — each Basic 7 group contains certain types of body-building nutrients, so that the properly balanced daily diet must include all groups.

One of the popular ready-to-eat cereals is whole wheat flakes, a steamed and flaked cereal with the familiar grape-nut flavor. A cup of wheat flakes furnishes not only low-cost protein, but over ten per cent of the thiamine (your morale vitamin), the iron, the phosphorus, and the niacin that you need for the day.

You can feature whole wheat flakes for breakfast . . . for an afternoon snack . . or for recipe use. This healthful food item, as an ingredient in the following tested and approved cereal cooky receipe, can go back-to-school right along with the kids:

Peanut Cereal Cookies

¾ Cup sifted flour, ¼ teaspoon double-acting baking powder, ¼ teaspoon soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons shortening, ½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed, 1 egg (unbeaten), ¾ cup (1-ounce package) wheat flakes, ½ cup chopped salted peanuts, with or without brown skins.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, soda, and salt, and sift again. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Add flour gradually, mixing well. Add flakes and peanuts and blend. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet; flatten slightly with fork. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 8 minutes, or until done. Makes 2 dozen cookies.

"Rump-Sprung" Charge Hits Canadian Girls

Do suits worn by Canadian women often look as though they were "rump-sprung", as alleged by Mrs. Maureen Neuberger of the Oregon State Legislature in a recent speech in Vancouver?

Marie Moreau, Fashion Editor of The Vancouver Daily Province, after looking the situation over from the best possible angle, said, emphatically, "No!" for West Coast girls. Other sections have not yet been heard from.

Mrs. Neuberger started the Battle of the Baggy Backs when she said: "Canadian woollens are the envy of us all, but why are your suits always ill-fitting and baggy?"

First part of the statement was well received by a mixed audience, but Mrs. Neuberger drew plenty of feminine wrath with her "but . . . " remarks.

Miss Moreau immediately undertook a personal survey along Granville Street, carefully looking over a selection of Vancouver housewives, stenos and office workers, etc. Her report?:

"There wasn't a bag in the bunch."

NARROW ESCAPE

Cranberry Portage, Man. (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Wolf, Kansas City, with their son, daughter-in-law and two grandchildren, survived when their small boat plunged over the 10-foot dam on Lake Athapapaskow. The boat remained upright in its wild ride.

Scientists say fluorine, which can be put in drinking water, is good for tooth enamel and prevents cavities in children's teeth.

Picture News from C-I-L

WEIRD WORLD to the layman is a modern research laboratory. In places like this many products pictured here have been born. Chemical research continuously seeks to develop new and better products for you.

"MY STARS know nylon is silly," remarked Nanny Nylon to Barbara Ann Scott recently, when Nanny was showing her attractive, practical nylon ski clothes to Canada's "one of kinder". Wonderful nylon is another thing we owe to chemistry. Ski smartly, too, this season with nylon!

POLYTHENE takes to the air! But you'll probably see more of this plastic in tumblers, ice-cube trays and as a film for protective packaging. Polythene is a versatile plastic developed by Chemistry.

PROGRESSING WITH BROWNSBURG and LACHUTE

The chemical industry is a progressive one. So, when C-I-L started making ammunition in Brownsburg, it felt right at home in this fast growing community. Lachute, Brownsburg and C-I-L have kept on being good neighbors ever since. For C-I-L keeps its plant buildings clean and neat . . . takes an active interest in the community . . . and is always seeking new ways to make working conditions more attractive. In Brownsburg and Lachute, the C-I-L Oval has become the sign of a good neighbor as well as the trademark of the company, of the company "Serving Canadians Through Chemistry".

THE HELPING HAND of chemistry is well shown by the way "Cellophane" plays a part in businesses both large and small. It is made by C-I-L, supplied to other manufacturers, food packagers and stores. "Cellophane" is chemistry's way of saying, "See what you buy and know it's protected, too".

HOSE-SAVERS—made of chemistry's own rubber, Neoprene—are special heel lifts to prevent ugly rain spots on stockings. This clever gadget that funnels rain right back on the street is one of many new ideas chemistry makes practical.

IN HOME and industry chemically produced plastics have taken their place beside the products of nature. Melamine plastic here shown is tough, unbreakable dinnerware is a member of the family of plastics, each developed for a specific use.

High School Enters Basketball League

The Lachute High School teachers have organized a basketball team to compete in the Lower Ottawa Valley Basketball Association. This league was organized recently by representatives from Lachute, Brownsburg, Hawkesbury and Alexandria.

Each team will play 12 league games during the season and the first of these is scheduled for today (Thursday) at the Lachute High gym, when the Lachute teachers take the floor against Hawkesbury. The game is scheduled for 8.30 p.m.

The Lachute team is coached by R. Burton, of the L.H.S. staff, and the captain is A. Bond. Other members of the teaching staff, as well as a few Lachute High graduates, complete the team.

The second game is on Thursday, December 6, against Brownsburg — to be played at Lachute.

Britain's Prospects in 1952 Winter Olympics

"SPORTS CAMERA"
By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

British athletes, who've been taking it on the chin quite regularly in international competition the last few years, hope better days are ahead.

They figure they'll take home at least one gold medal from the 1952 Winter Olympics at Oslo, Norway. And they've got their eyes on a second.

She won the title with considerable ease at Milan, Italy, last February and certainly will figure in the Olympic result.

In addition to Miss Atlwegg, Britain placed two other girls in the first 10 at Milan and both are available for the Oslo competitions. Barbara Wyatt finished fifth and Valda Osborn ninth.

The second gold medal might come from the pairs division of figure-skating. Rated highly is Britain's brother-and-sister combination of John and Jennifer Nicks, who have been skating together since about the time they learned to walk.

In 1948 they placed eighth in the Olympics at St. Moritz, Switzerland. Last February they finished third in the world championships.

The British also will send full teams in skiing, speedskating and bob sledding, but the prospects aren't too bright in those divisions.

Britain has decided against entering a hockey team to challenge Canada's supremacy.

K. S. Duncan, secretary of the British Olympic committee, says the over-all squad will number about the same as in 1948, when 63 competitors carried British colors. However, the final strength will depend on finances.

The ski teams are the only ones which have been picked definitely. Eight men and seven women will leave Britain for the Alps early next month.

The men will be split up for training with the Olympic teams of France, Switzerland and Austria.

In the 1948 winter games, Britain won two third places, but none any higher. One third went to Miss Altwegg, the other to John Crammond in one of the bobsled divisions.

Angelo Corgniale literally lives on a street of milk and honey in Rome. Proof of it came recently when he won an Italian soccer pool prize worth 23,000,000 lire ($36,800).

For Corgniale, a goldsmith, who lives on Via Cuccagna (in English the Street of Milk and Honey), this was the third time he had won the pool.

In 1948 he won 2,000,000 lire ($3,200) and earlier this year he collected 1,000,000 lire ($1,600).

Is he going to retire now that he has won all that money?

"Of course not!" he said. "I'm going to continue to play the soccer pool and I'm going to continue on Via Cuccagna."

Large Entry List in Annual Mixed Bonspiel

The third annual Mixed Bonspiel opened Saturday evening at the Curling Club, with President E. M. Jones sending down the first granite.

Keen interest has been shown during the week, with teams coming from Vankleek Hill, Lacolle, Beauharnois, Montebello, Cornwall, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Howick, Lachine, Outremont, Hawkesbury, Ottawa and St. Johns. There are also several teams entered from Lachute.

There are a number of fine prizes for the winners of the highest-plus score — and with excellent ice to play on, combined with the cordial welcome always extended by the Lachute club, the visitors appear to be thoroughly enjoying themselves.

Semi-final games will take place this Saturday at 2 p.m., with the finals and consolation at 8 p.m. the same evening.

The ladies are again serving meals, from 6 to 8 o'clock, and lighter refreshments are also for sale.
