126th Lachute Fair To Be Officially Opened by Quebec Lieut.-Governor

Ceremonial Event Thursday Afternoon

Stage Set for Outstanding Show, Entries Promise Keen Competition

Lachute Spring Fair 1952 will be officially opened at 3 p.m. Thursday, June 12, by His Excellency, the Hon. Gaspard Fauteux, Lieutenant-Governer of the Province of Quebec.

Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Fauteux, accompanied by Lieut.-Col. D. B. Papineau, A.D.C., will arrive the previous evening and spend the night at the Ayers' Carling Lake Lodge.

The Fair's official reception committee will meet the party at Dalesville on the way to Lachute, proceeding to Lachute Golf and Country Club accompanied by a Provincial Police escort, where the presentation of guests and a luncheon will be held. At the conclusion of the luncheon, the party will leave for the Fair Grounds, where the Ayers Brass Band, just recently equipped with new uniforms and instruments, will precede the visiting guests to the ceremonial platform in front of the grandstand.

The official ceremonies will commence with the playing of God Save the Queen. The ribbon will be cut at approximately 3.30 p.m. by His Excellency, with suitably engraved souvenir scissors. This ceremony, officialy opening the Fair, is to take place after other various activities, and speeches which will be given in both languages. After a brief period of entertainment, "O Canada" will be played, ending the official ceremonies.

After the conventional functions, the official party will make a tour of the various exhibits on the grounds, accompanied by several guides.

Notable Improvements

A great many improvements have taken place since the Fair last year. The main building has been newly painted, all stables have been disinfected and whitewashed, and a sanitary system has been installed ensuring fair-goers of double the former sanitary facilities on the grounds.

The log-sawing contest, which was a marked success last year, is to be held again on the Wednesday afternoon, with finals to take place Saturday evening. Admission to the grandstand on Wednesday is free for this event.

Harness racing will be held as usual on Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons on the resurfaced track, which, according to several of the Fair officials, is in the best condition since it was first laid.

A bigger Midway than ever will be presented by the Bernard & Barry Shows, who are bringing

Brownsburg Still Debating Change Of Civic Status

Question of Town or Village — Report from Dept. Municipal Affairs

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — The Brownsburg councillors are toying with the idea of having the village incorporated as a town. Investigation has been made into the pros and cons of the move, and at the present moment the advantages, if any, pretty well balance the disadvantages, if one leaves out the matter of prestige. A report from the Department of Municipal Affairs covering the matter was before the last meeting of the Council — which we intend to deal with in a later issue.

The Mayor placed before the Council an investigation he had made into the cost and possibility of opening a new street onto Main, facing Bank at the Sutton blacksmith's forge. The old forge has been a landmark for a number of years, and its removal would not detract from the beauty of the area, whatever effect it may have on the historical associations of the village. The cost was judged in the neighborhood of $5,000, which is more than the Council at the present time would be willing to invest.

The Barbers' Association made another effort to change the by-law governing the hours of operation. Mayor Pariseau, who seems to be in a minority of one, successfully withstood any effort to have the law changed. It was the feeling of the meeting that if the majority wanted to close at an earlier hour there was nothing to prevent them doing so. The Mayor appeared to favor opening some nights throughout the week, but nothing definite resulted.

Further laying of sidewalks is to be undertaken, and Mr. Brisson's tender at $1.65 per lineal foot of 4-ft. width was accepted. It was the only tender received.

The Diocesan Association recommended that Council proceedings be opened with a prayer — the councillors calling on God to bless their labors. The matter was taken under advisement. . . An application for financial assistance was turned down.

Brownsburg Man Killed Instantly, Loading Logs

Roland Lafleur, 33-year-old lumber dealer and member of a well known Brownsburg family, met his death last evening at Mount Maple while loading logs on a truck. The accident occurred at around 9.30 o'clock.

It is understood that, having purchased logs from Bill Mott, Lafleur was loading the last on a truck load, assisted by his helper. At this point the power-loader was in some way released before the load was chained, and the heavy log and mechanical lifter collapsed, crushing the man and killing him instantly.

Dr. L. Castagner was called immediately, only to pronounce the victim dead. Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur, of Lachute, was notified and conducted an inquiry, giving a verdict of accidental death.

Roland Lafleur is survived by his wife and infant daughter, to whom sympathy is expressed on behalf of many friends in the community.

A man who gives his children habits of industry provides for them better than by giving them a fortune. — Whately

Appeal for Blind, June 9 - 14

The first annual campaign of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind in the County of Argenteuil will be held from June 9 to 14. The objective is $2,000, which will be used for providing different services to the blind, services that need your support if they are to continue — home teaching, placement, rehabilitation and the prevention of blindness, to mention some of them.

The campaign is under the able direction of Mr. Robert Cairns, supervisor J. C. Wilson Ltd., who will be assisted by Mr. Antonio Laurin, Police Chief D. Villeneuve, Messrs. O. Anderson and John Chalmers, of Brownsburg, and others.

There is no doubt that all will respond generously to the Institute's appeal, for the campaign's success will help to bring a better life to all the blind. By contributing to the Institute, we can help the blind to help themselves.

I go for all sharing the privileges of the government who assist in bearing its burden.

Rotary Club Hears Program by Proxy

Last week Brownsburg Rotary Club featured a program by proxy — a recording of the recent "Argenteuil and Two Mountains Music Festival of the Air", heard recently over Radio Station CFCF. Rotarian Fred Royal, principal of Lachute High School, gave a few introductory remarks concerning the broadcast, following which he played the recording.

The program, heard and enjoyed by many in this county when produced as a CFCF "Voice of Youth" feature, included vocal and instrumental selections displaying a variety of talents, by pupils of the Lake of Two Mountains High School, Lachute High School, Grenville Consolidated and Brownsburg Consolidated Schools, and Kilmar, Arundel and Morin Heights Intermediate Schools.

At this week's meeting, Mr. Shirley McKyes, who directed the choirs, ensembles, soloists and instrumentalists heard on this broadcast, will speak to the Rotary Club concerning "Music Education".

Guests at the meeting were Messrs. Bill Fleeting and Charles Bourne.

Wilmer Andrews To Oratory Finals, Toronto Exhibition

A signal honor was brought to Lachute High School last Friday, when Wilmer Andrews of Grade XI won the boys' section of the Lions Club Inter-Scholastic Public Speaking Contest, held in the auditorium of the St. Lambert High School, thereby winning a beautiful trophy awarded by the Lions Club, and also a trip to the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto late in August, where he will compete with similar winners from across Canada in the national finals of the Lions Club public speaking contest.

Wilmer Andrews of Lachute High, and Raymond Legault of the Ecole Supérieure, were chosen to represent Lachute earlier in May at a contest sponsored by the local Lions. The boys motored to St. Lambert on Friday evening, accompanied by Mr. Austin Thompson of Lachute High School and Brother Briard of the Ecole Supérieure, where they were faced with stiff competition from six other contestants sponsored by other branches of the Lions Club.

Each candidate delivered a five-minute prepared speech, followed by a two-minute impromptu speech on a topic chosen during the program. Wilmer Andrews, speaking on "Alberta — Texas of Canada", presented his topic in a remarkably effective and polished manner. However, his two-minute impromptu speech, delivered with the poise and confidence of a professional actor, was a most creditable performance.

The winner of the girls' section was 15-year old Dawn Tambling, a student at Bedford High School. Dawn, speaking on "Canada", was an inspiration to her audience, and her dramatic presentation showed evidence of careful training. Her two-minute impromptu speech was equally effective and well done.

These two winners, Dawn Tambling and Wilmer Andrews, deserve public commendation and encouragement. Each has displayed unusual talent in a special field. When they leave for Toronto in August, best wishes will accompany them, and it is hoped their experience will be a valuable one.

Lachute W. Inst. At Member's Country Home

The June meeting of the Lachute Women's Institute was held at the country home of Mrs. George McGibbon, in Dalesville, on Tuesday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. A. Taylor, in the chair.

Reports were given by the various conveners, and a report of the county convention was read by Mrs. A. Taylor in the absence of Mrs. F. McGibbon.

Mrs. J. G. Lamontagne, a delegate to the recent Leadership Training Course at Macdonald College, gave a very interesting report on the various classes.

Mrs. T. Bishop kindly offered flowers from her garden to the ladies of the W.I. wishing to exhibit floral arrangements at Lachute Spring Fair. . . Ladies submitting floral arrangements for judging at the Fair are reminded to classify the bouquets as to which group they are to be judged in.

Members were reminded of the exhibition of handicraft work which will be on display at the High School this fall.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. George McGibbon, convener of Agriculture, who chose as her subject, "Why I Like Farming". Mrs. McGibbon concluded her talk by conducting a quizz on local plants and weeds.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. C. Duncan, on behalf of the members and guests, cordially thanked Mrs. G. McGibbon for her hospitality.

1952 "Lampada", School Annual Now in Circulation

The "Lampada", 1952 edition, is just off the press and is now on sale at the Lachute High School, at Beaton's Pharmacy, and at Cliff Cunningham's on Main Street.

This year's edition is no exception to the great improvements in "The Lampada" over the past few years. It is now an exceptionally fine school magazine and will compare favorably with those published by any of our schools.

"The Lampada" is dressed up in an attractive new cover. The excellence of the photography is shown by the extremely interesting array of good pictures, both from the Lachute High and County schools. The feature articles provide interesting reading. The literary section represents work from all grades, I - XII inclusive. The remarkable improvement in the County School section makes it well worth reading. Appropriately enough, this year's edition bears a beautiful photograph and dedication to Queen Elizabeth II.

The students of Lachute High deserve to be complimented on the quality of their 1952 "Lampada". It bears witness to a great deal of careful planning and hard work, and represents nearly all phases of the life and work of the Lachute and County schools.

The publication of this book is a valuable student project which deserves public support. Also, it is felt that its merit and quality are such that every family will wish to have a copy in their home. Get your copy now, and see for yourself what the students of your schools in this area have done.

High School Has Promising Crop, Young Carpenters and Tinsmiths

Fine Array of Handiwork in Industrial Arts Room

"Born 30 years too soon" was our reporter's somewhat doleful reaction, ruminating on the deficiencies of his own technical education, as The Watchman was treated to a preview of the Industrial Arts show at Lachute High School.

To the older generation, the tools, the machines and the products of this department are a revelation of educational progress. A new departure in the past year has been an adventure into metal work, and new tinsmith machines have been installed accordingly.

The Industrial Arts department was "en fete" last Thursday and Friday evenings for public inspection, with the very capable instructor, H. W. Salisbury, on hand as guide and informant to the visitors. It transpired that the public interest, by town residents particularly, did scant justice to the handiwork of Mr. Salisbury's pupils. The display showed excellent craftsmanship in lamps, ornamental and utility pieces, and articles of furniture which would do credit to an indentured cabinet-maker, and in more elementary metal products such as tin trays and kitchen utensils.

Power tools have taken much of the drudgery out of woodwork; but the elements of joining, moulding, turning and laminating, and an understanding of the grain, texture and properties of woods, are still essential. These are part of the manual-training curriculum, which likewise includes the comprehension of hand tools — their specific purposes and their proper care. That the students, from Grade VI to XI, display keen interest and pride in their work, is very obvious. In periods of instruction from 1½ to 3 hours a week, they have achieved great things.

It would appear that considerable credit for this progress is attributable to the tutor's initiative. The scope of ideas is no longer limited to the tie rack, the wood mallet and the milking stool. In this display were things new and modern, things original, combining both utility and charm. There is evidence of the instructor's ingenuity — injecting ideas of design, color and finish, and captivating his pupils' interest along constructive lines. Without a doubt there are some who, facilities permitting, will follow a future trade through talents developed under Mr. Salisbury's guidance.

For those who missed this excellent show, it is understood that several of the best exhibits will be entered in the handicrafts at Lachute Spring Fair next week.

Echoes of Granby Visit

A prompt report of the Granby "caravan" appeared the following day, in last week's Watchman. Those somewhat cynical about this mass tour of 120 business men and serious-minded citizens, and who termed it a "childish idea", have seen the realization not only of a friendly interchange, but also of a worthwhile contact with civic and industrial administrators in a city that has proven itself remarkably progressive — in municipal, industrial and business affairs.

Be it noted that the City of Granby ranks ninth among Quebec centres in value of its products. Moreover, as we have witnessed on this tour, Granby has a considerable number of plants, many of them quite recently established, contributing to the prosperity and stability of the community; these are a substantial guarantee against local depression, privation and unemployment.

Small-time industry emphatically deserves encouragement, for these enterprises are the outcome of small capital investment and untiring effort by their directors and workers. To deny their importance would be to underestimate them as a great stabilizing factor in any town or city.

Lachute Chamber of Commerce, through this instructive tour, has afforded an impetus to cherished plans for the further progress of our own community.

Lachute the "Shopping Centre"

The Chamber of Commerce is in stride to prove that Lachute is logically the "Shopping Centre of the Ottawa Valley". The sales promotion campaign, which opened at the beginning of May, is (as previously stated) producing appreciable dividends, not only for our member retailers but also for the consumer-public.

The purpose of this campaign, the "C.C.C.", is to enable participating merchants to enlarge their turnover and thus to stimulate retail business. While our merchants are interested to see that buyers get good value and fair price, they are equally anxious, through means of the C.C.C., to ensure that customers return and continue their patronage.

This town is popular with visitors, who will come in considerable volume as the summer advances. They will spend money here — on recreation, food, necessities, souvenirs, etc. . . which, directly or indirectly, benefits each and every resident.

There is an interesting observation to be drawn from the number of motor vehicles parked on Main Street, between the Post Office and the Auditorium, according to a town police survey at 9 o'clock every night during one week in May (12th to 18th). Here are the figures — the tabulation speaks for itself in terms of potential Main Street business:

Scout-Cub Rally Big Event Held at Exhib'n Grounds

Movement Flourishing in Laurentian Division; Many Troops, Packs Attend

Maj.-Gen. D. C. Spry Takes the Salute

It was a grand and glorious occasion for the Scout Troops and Wolf Cub Packs of this immediate vicinity, when they met with other groups of the Laurentian District at last Saturday's Rally on the Lachute Fair Grounds. Scout parades, drills and crafts were demonstrated before an interested crowd of spectators on the grandstand, and several notables were on hand to show their support and encouragement to the Scout movement.

A special train brought Scouts, Cubs and their Leaders and relatives from Ste. Rose and Rosemere, also the Montreal Scout Band; the other Troops and Packs arrived by bus. The Shawbridge Boys' Farm Troop arrived Friday evening and camped overnight on the grounds. The Laurentian District was well represented — a flourishing and enthusiastic segment of the Scouting oranization.

The Rally was honored with the presence of Maj.-Gen. D. C. Spry, C.B.E., D.S.O., C.D., Chief Executive Commissioner for Canada, accompanied by Mrs. Spry; C. J. Dendy, the Assistant Provincial Executive Commissioner; Gen. A. E. Walford, C.B., C.B.E., Metropolitan Commissioner of Montreal; and Earle T. Moore, president of the Metropolitan District of Montreal.

Presentation to Inspector King By Dist. Teachers

Principal King Amos Elected New President Of Association

Mr. L. J. King, on the occasion of his retirement as Regional Inspector of Schools, was presented with a beautiful silver tray, suitably engraved, and water pitcher, by the teachers and friends of the Central Board. The presentation took place at the regular meeting of the local Teachers' Association, held in Arundel Intermediate School on Friday evening last. Mrs. S. Harris, retiring president of the Association, presented the token and in her remarks made mention of the many years of faithful service rendered by Mr. King in educational matters throughout the area.

Mr. King, evidently deeply touched by these marks of appreciation, stated that he had seen many changes take place, particularly in the Counties of Argenteuil and Two Mountains, during his years of service. When he first began work here, there were over 40 one-room rural elementary schools. This number had been reduced until at present there were actually only three in operation. He said that it was gratifying to note the results that had been achieved during the last few years, when so many improved facilities had been provided throughout the two counties, thereby enabling so many more children to enjoy the benefits of a better and higher education. He told of how much he had enjoyed his work, and of the co-operation he had received from the teachers and the various school boards.

Among those who attended the meeting to pay tribute to the work done by Mr. King, were Mr. W. M. Cottingham, chairman of the Central Board; Mr. Ernest Rodger, member of the Central Board; the Rev. S. Smith, Assistant Director of the Boys' Farm and Training School at Shawbridge, and Mrs. Smith; Mr. George Y. Deacon; Mr. Linton W. Armstrong, and the members of the local Board of Arundel, Messrs. J. Moncrieff, J. Smith, W. M. Morrison and Leonard Rathwell.

Mr. Cottingham, in his remarks, paid tribute to the outstanding work done by Mr. King, and stressed the fact that he was largely responsible for effecting the formation of the Central School Board and thereby bringing about the many changes in educational matters which had taken place during the last few years. He stated that Mr. King would be missed throughout the two counties, and hoped that he would enjoy many happy years of retirement.

PUNCTUALITY COMES EASIER WITH WATCHES IN BRAILLE

Punctuality is a virtue—even for the blind.

More than 10,000 sightless Canadians now are able to tell time to the second, any moment they please, because they can consult wrist watches or pocket watches in Braille.

These watches, as sturdy and precise as any ordinary types, are supplied at cost to those who need them through the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Made in standard sizes, these watches have hands made of special steel which, though strong, can be bent back into position if improperly pushed. For the blind man "looks" at his watch by feeling the dial.

The watch has no crystal. Outside each number is a raised impression, similar to those used in Braille publications. The number 12 has three raised impressions, while nine, six and three have two apiece. A single dot marks each of the other hours. Thus the blind man can quickly "find" himself on the watch.

To protect the face, a metal or plastic cover closes over it. This the blind man snaps open by pushing the winding stem. The dial is washable so constant contact with the user's finger tips need not mar the attractive appearance of the watch.

To the blind man who, like other men, has a job to hold and to the sightless housewife preparing food in the oven, the Braille watch is an important part of the C.N.I.B. service. Not many blind could afford a quality timepiece at standard prices.

Gatineau LINES

Voltage Drops

Sometimes the local lines of an electrical distribution system are like a bus during the morning rush hour in a city — more people want to get on the bus than it was designed to carry and it becomes overloaded and service is slower.

Local electric lines have the same trouble when everybody on the circuit starts wanting an extra amount of power all at the same time. If everybody wants a normal amount of power, there is no trouble because the line was built to deliver a normal amount of power to each customer.

But when everybody wants power at the same time — for instance on a Sunday morning when electric stoves go on in many homes to cook the noon roast while in other homes late risers are plugging in toasters and coffee pots — the lines becomes overloaded and voltage drops. The bus gets too crowded.

There is one good way to beat this trouble — the same way lots of people beat the crowding and pushing of rush-hour bus travel.

If you can get on the bus before the rush-hour you have no trouble Or if you can get on the bus after the rush-hour you have no trouble. The same thing applies to the electrical line.

Efficiency Key to Profitable Poultry

That the farm poultry flock can make quite a contribution to farm income is shown in a study made on Manitoba farms. Undertaken in 1949 by the Economics Division, Canada Department of Agriculture with the co-operation of the Provincial Government and the University of Manitoba, the study emphasizes that high efficiency is most important if the poultry enterprise is to be profitable.

The 49 farms included averaged 270 acres with 80 per cent under cultivation. The farmers' labor earnings averaged $3,100 with 13 per cent coming from poultry. But the earnings from poultry, which averaged $395, varied greatly from a loss of $10 for the lowest third of the farms, to a gain of $939 for the highest third.

How were the higher earnings made? The size of the flock was important. The returns per bird varied from 44 cents for the smallest flocks to $2.37 for the largest flocks. Proper feeding was also necessary for a high rate of production and to keep mortality low. Average returns for flocks with less than 140 eggs per layer were only 23 cents per bird; with an average production of over 180 they were $3.64. Efficient use of labor, good working methods and use of labor-saving devices all added to higher returns. Capital was used more efficiently on the farms with high returns; they had large flocks of high producing birds.

The extent to which this overall high efficiency paid off, is shown by labor returns per bird. They ranged from 75 cents where efficiency was below average in all respects to $3.72 where efficiency was above average throughout.

Farm Radio Forum "Integral Part of Individual Awakening"

Dr. H. Hannam Speaker At Annual Conference

Montreal — "Man is a social animal; without a community around him he'd turn the clock back to the middle ages in a very short period of time", said Dr. H. H. Hannam, General Manager of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. His remarks opened the two-day annual conference of National Farm Radio Forum last weekend at McGill University, Montreal.

To prevent this step backward in our present day society, man must place his hope in group action, group advancement and group harmony, said Dr. Hannam. Group activity must possess "the dynamic drive" of our present mode of life to accomplish these ends, pointed out Dr. Hannam, and this requires that each citizen think and act in terms of community living and community welfare. Then Dr. Hannam widened the accepted concept of "a community" to one which encompassed the county, the province, the national scene and then the world. He saw National Farm Radio Forum as an integral part of this individual awakening. It would give individuals confidence, and an appreciation of the importance of individual responsibility, he said. He told the annual conference that Farm Forum must be a group discussion activity because each person participating becomes involved in problems and their solutions, and the knowledge coming from this, being further supplemented by reading, studying and thinking, provides the individual with a basis and the background necessary to his progress.

Dr. Hannam feels we've lost a bit of the educational movement of the 1920's. The farm educational programs of that period formulated policy and produced the leaders who play such a prominent role today. But now, our young men haven't got the same background of training and development. Farm Forum can bridge this gap, he said, for it is a special type of educational program; it is national and international; and it's the only kind of sound democratic program for a democratic society.

Delegates representing Farm Forum Listening Groups across Canada suggested broadcast topics for the coming season this winter; and these, which represent the wishes of the Listening Groups, will be narrowed down to the 20 required to round out the broadcast series.

Devises Test Units For Cellar Gardens

Montreal (CP) — Sunlight is unnecessary to grow plants, experts say.

Gardens inside the basement will become a reality if experiments now being conducted at Macdonald College are successful.

The department of plant pathology, under the direction of Professor J. G. Coulson, has constructed a series of underground chambers, each about six feet square and six and a half feet high. These will become test cells for a variety of plants.

While designed to further the scientific work of the college, the test cubicles suggest an interesting hobby for home owners who would like to prolong the growing season the year round without building greenhouses.

Mechanism and control devices make possible the regulation of light, heat and humidity in each chamber of the "phytorium". Incandescent and fluorescent lamps provide a mixture of the various light rays needed for healthy plant growth.

An expert at the college stated that the sun provides some 12 times the amount of light required for healthy plant growth. The idea of getting away from sunlight is to secure a better control growth, so that scientific experiments may be carried out with greater accuracy.

Potato Prices Likely To Remain High

Ottawa — High potato prices of last winter and this spring are very likely to continue during the coming year because of an expected potato shortage in 1952.

Normally, a year of scarcity is followed by a year of plenty, which results in low prices. That, in the opinion of leaders of the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association, is not likely to happen with potatoes this year.

In sections of the United States, seed potatoes have been bought up and sold for table use and, at the moment, a flourishing black market in spuds is reported in some areas. Something of the same situation has prevailed in Ottawa.

Potato prices are high now, and potatoes are hard to find. Some growers who would have planted more have hesitated to purchase additional seed, both because they feared last year's light crop would be followed by a heavy one, and also because of the high cost of seed. Prices have been hovering around and just below $5 for a 75-pound bag.

Because of these high prices, many farmers have sold part or all of their seed potato supply for table use, and the situation is likely to continue for a while. Early potatoes, of course, have already been planted, but there are still some late crops to go into the ground in some districts.

Butter has been called the "balance wheel" of the dairy industry. It absorbs much of the surplus milk in the flush production seasons, thus helping to keep a steady supply of other dairy products throughout the year, and also helping to prevent wide fluctuations in prices.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you: —

Q. Why was the wage ceiling raised from $3,120 to $4,800?

A. The wage ceiling was raised to keep pace with the rise in wage levels. The object of the change was to see that the classes whom the Act was designed to cover would continue to receive the protection of unemployment insurance.

* * *

Q. Why is the employer compelled under the Act to give his side of the story when an employee becomes separated? This practice is causing some employers a lot of trouble as claimants hold them responsible for their disqualification.

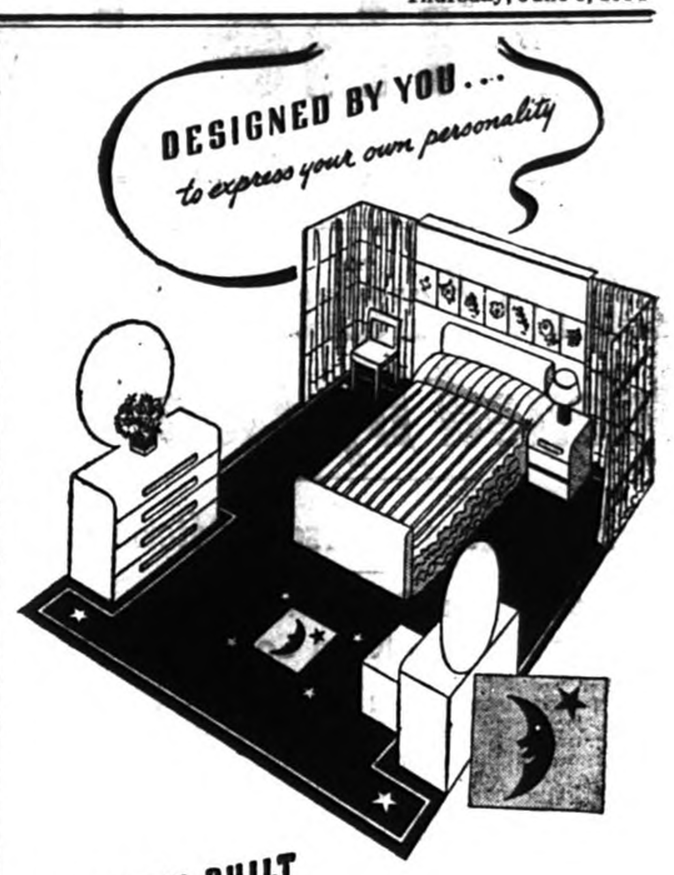

A. The reason for asking the employer for verification is that, since employers contribute equally with employees on behalf of the employees, it is to their own interest to see that benefit is paid only as directed by the Act in order that the fund may not be dissipated on persons who are not properly entitled. Sometimes the employer's statement is needed to correct incomplete or erroneous information given by the employee or to supply facts unknown to the employee. For example, an employee may consider himself unemployed because of a lay-off due to lack of work, whereas the employer states that there is a stoppage of work due to a labor dispute at the place where he was employed. If this is a fact it may result in the employee being disqualified while the stoppage continues.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

Debt to So Few

A POINTED paragraph by Maj.-Gen. D. C. Spry, C.B.E., D.S.O., Chief Executive Scout Commissioner for Canada, might be extracted from his speech at the District Scout Rally here last Saturday as a moral for public meditation: "Ask yourselves", he said, "have you ever thought of thanking the Scouters (leaders and officials) for the hundreds of man-hours they spend in instructing and encouraging the younger generation for future citizenship?"

We are too apt to take for granted the zeal displayed by our youth leaders in Scouting, Guiding, Sunday School and recreation work. It is safe to say that many whose children benefit physically, morally and spiritually by this guidance, give no thought whatever to the labors expended, and the annoyances cheerfully accepted, by their adult mentors. If we give any thought at all to their sacrifice, we may lightly remark — "they get a kick out of it". True, some generous adults "get a kick" out of correcting, training, and encouraging youngsters, even other folks' youngsters; but there is patience and hard work involved. And they deserve not only our appreciation but our active support, when we are called upon to help.

Still A Favorite

THE CROWD that saw the running of the Queen's Plate at Toronto recently were watching good horses, all right. But people as a whole will show affection for any sort of horse, even the lowly work horse.

There's no glamor of racing silks and gleaming coat about the farm horse, nor the horse that pulls the milk wagon in town or city. Still he's often beloved by his owners and by the kids on the field or in the street, and often enough by older citizens.

Just about the time the best Canadian-bred three-year-olds were racing for the Queen's guineas, several items turned up showing the regard in which ordinary horses are held.

The council of Ealing in Middlesex, England, voted to pay 30 shillings a week to keep its old horse "Rattler" in comfortable retirement on the Isle of Wight for the rest of its life.

At Little Current, Ont., a town dairy sent its horse Pat for a rest cure on the farm during the summer. There had been a fire in the dairy building and although Pat wasn't hurt, he suffered a nervous shock. The day after the fire he ran away with the wagon and on other occasions started to bolt. After resting on the farm all summer he will be given another chance.

At Epsom, England, a thoroughbred colt broke a leg in training and instead of shooting it the owner placed a plaster cast on the leg, hoping to save the horse for stud purposes. Of course, the money angle overshadowed the human side in this incident, for the colt cost a large sum.

Just the same, the English and most other people appreciate a good horse. It was Shakespeare who had King Richard II shout "My kingdom for a horse", and the words have been echoed many times since, especially when some sleek automobile has become stuck in the mud miles from nowhere.

The car and tractor may have caused thousands of horses to disappear from Canadian farms and industries. But in town and country alike there always comes a time only a horse can do the job.

Whether it's a Shire horse, itself weighing perhaps a ton, or the racehorse with a classic pedigree, or the ordinary workhorse with no pedigree at all — the horse has been with us for a long time, and he'll be here a long time to come.

THE large-scale thefts of government property from military camps does not indicate that Canadian military men are less trustworthy than any other class of citizens. It does indicate there is more opportunity for that kind of thing in public service than in private industry, because government property is less zealously guarded than private property — says the Elmwood (Man.) Herald.

The Ounce of Prevention

ACCIDENTS claim more lives of Canadian children than the 10 acute infectious diseases of childhood. Each year some 1,500 young Canadians die largely as the result of carelessness, and each year the rate increases.

Young lives are needlessly wasted through traffic accidents, drowning, fire, poisoning, electric shock, falls and misuse of firearms, the Health League of Canada reports, adding that parents and other adults can save many young lives through care, example and training.

It is just another case where an ounce of prevention is the cure. And to prevention must be added education, as the answer not only to the accidental death rate, but to infectious and chronic diseases and to social problems that follow in the wake of human ailments.

Our Eskimo Problem

THE MEN who have the lives and the future of Canada's Eskimos in their hands are taking a long look at what the white man's invasion of the Arctic has done to the natives.

Meeting at Ottawa recently, they were generally agreed that present measures for the care and advancement of the Eskimos are sound but that efforts should be unified and intensified wherever possible. Represented were eight government departments or branches, the Roman Catholic and Anglican churches, and the Hudson's Bay Company.

They agreed that the salvation of the Eskimo lies in his living off the food his land and sea produces — the seal, walrus, caribou and other meat — and from fat-producing animals. They were concerned about the inclination of Eskimos to live at white settlements on charity instead of killing their own game. Employment of older natives by whites left young men without training in their traditional way of life.

Another view of the care Canada is taking of her 8,500 Arctic natives was widely publicized recently in Farley Mowat's "People of the Deer", a best-seller in the United States. Mowat, a young Canadian who lived for a year with the last-surviving remnants of the caribou-eating natives in the Barren Lands west of Hudson Bay, charged that the Eskimo is being slowly starved to death by changes made in his life by the white man.

He wrote that whites have made the Eskimo almost helpless by weaning him away from hunting food and into trapping and fishing; and then deserting him when trapping and fishing lose their profit.

Charity is usually fatal to a primitive people; gifts of food bring about a dependency that is mortal, Mowat wrote. He argued further that the white man's food is slow poison to the native, who must have meat and fat to live in his climate.

It seems agreed that the Eskimo must be returned in some degree to his primitive life if he is to survive. In a day when the Arctic bulks so large in defence planning it is doubly important that he should be strong and healthy and ready to play his part in defending his homeland.

CANADIAN cities are not the only ones which like to tear up pavements where traffic is heaviest. The Financial Post's British correspondent writes: "Anyone who drives in London now will see parts of it that he never heard of. Detours are the order of the day and of the night. Despite the fact that there is daylight until 9 o'clock, no work is done on road repairs after 6 p.m. It is an actual fact that Mrs. Neville Chamberlain's brother, who was a famous practical joker, once dressed up with a friend as laborers and roped off a section of Piccadilly where they proceeded to take up the road. No one disturbed them and after three days they took away the ropes and went home."

Learn A Trade, Young Man!

By Lewis Milligan

"Too many boys are being pushed into white-collar jobs when they would be happier and more profitably employed in trades". So said Mr. Hugh Crombie, chairman of the Canadian Research Committee on Practical Education. He put the blame on both the schools and the parents. The schools, he said, place too much emphasis on college education, and an invidious comparison is thus drawn between those taking a matriculation course and those taking a vocational course. He said that while it was natural for a father to want something better for his son, skilled workmen today were better off than many engaged in white-collar occupations, and there were many men at desks and counters who would be happier if they were working at a trade.

Canada is greatly in need of skilled workers, and the demand is being largely supplied by immigrants who learned their trade in the hard and proper way as apprentices. We have well-equipped technical schools in Canada, and they are usually well attended; but a comparatively small percentage of the pupils complete their courses or go out to continue their training in the school of practical experience. That is the only school for efficient training in any craft, and the sooner the pupil enters it the better. One of the difficulties in this is that trade unions place a strict limit upon the number of apprentices to be employed in a shop or on jobs. But youth today is not content to start at the foot of the ladder and climb. He prefers to take the line of least effort and the highest pay, with the result that our schools are turning out a generation of non-producing white-collar shirkers.

In my opinion the high schools are largely responsible for this state of things, because by the end of the course the students are too old to begin as apprentices. They are at the adolescent stage when they are beginning to take an interest in the opposite sex and want to earn big money to show-off and have a "good time". They want to drive a car, and too many of them take a shortcut to achieve their desire and end with a bad time in jail. The great majority of high-school graduates, of course, enter into business or the professions; but I believe, with Mr. Crombie, that many of them would be happier, healthier and more useful if their parents had insisted upon their learning a trade.

We need teachers, doctors, lawyers, scientists, engineers, accountants, etc., and these require special higher education. But since only a small proportion of public-school pupils could succeed in those professions, parents and school authorities should encourage talented boys to get out and join the ranks of skilled workers. There was a saying in the Old Country that "A man with a trade in his fingers need never be out of a job", because he could turn to unskilled work when things were slack in his own line. In fact, a long list could be given of outstanding men in public life and even in the professions, who started life as tradesmen.

Shakespeare worked as a youth in his father's tannery. Ben Jonson worked as a stonemason. John Bunyan was a tinsmith. Michael Faraday, the great scientist, had no formal education and was apprenticed to a bookbinder. Benjamin Franklin left school at ten years of age to help his father at candle and soap making, and became an appretice to printing at the age of twelve. As a lad, Dickens worked in a blacking factory. The most efficient editor I ever worked under in Canada was a saddler by trade. Winston Churchill was a duffer at school and his father gave him up as a bad job. He always wanted to do something with his hands, and he satisfied this desire later as an amateur bricklayer and painter. In an address to university students recently he told them he had "picked up" his higher education "here and there as I went along".

Keep Hustling and Keep Busy

It was not for nothing the Good Book said,
"By the sweat of his brow shall a man eat bread".
For the busy man is the happy one
Who homeward plods with his work well done —
Who goes to bed for his well-earned rest
And wakes next morning alive with zest —
Who greets his boss with a smiling face;
For he's an asset around the place.
But once in a while you're bound to meet
The fellow who loves to sleep and eat.
He's soft all over from toes to torso.
His head's soft too, but a little more so.
He seeks big pay, but is seldom hired.
And if he is, he is promptly fired.
He's down and out and is most unhappy
For no one pities the no-good chappie.
Work is what makes all life worth while.
Work is what brings that happy smile;
There's no satisfaction 'neath the sun
Than that which results from work well done.
That is the way we get most pleasure
Out of our brief but well-earned leisure.
It was not for nothing the Good Book said,
"By the sweat of his brow shall a man eat bread."

Restaurant Charges One-Half for Guests

Television has cut the number of evening diners at Los Angeles restaurants by ten to twelve per cent compared with a year ago and caterers are desperately in need of customers. One downtown cafeteria is advertising, "Bring a guest for one-half price". The offer is good at any time Monday through Friday. Restaurant operators complain that people do not go out to dine. They stay at home and eat supper in front of the TV set.

OBITUARY

Many Mourn Death Of Late Townsman, Norman Silverson

On Thursday of last week the old stone church at Dalesville was filled to overflowing with friends and relatives who gathered to pay their last respects to a young man who had been brought up in the community — the late Robert Norman Silverson, who succumbed to a heart seizure the previous Tuesday night at his home on the Brownsburg Road, Lachute.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. R. Armstrong, of Snowdon, and the Rev. W. H. Britton, of Lachute.

Norman Silverson, son of the late Robert Silverson and his wife the late Sarah Murdoch, was born at Beech Ridge on February 2, 1906, being 46 years of age at the time of his death. He was a cabinet maker by trade, and was held in high esteem by those for whom and with whom he worked.

Left to mourn his passing are his wife, the former Annie Morrow of Dalesville, his two daughters, Lois and Ruth, and his son, Robert, also his five sisters, Mrs. Albert Dixon, and Mrs. Ruby Kennedy, of Brownsburg, Mrs. Edgar Reside, of Luskville, Mrs. Ernest Burke, of Lachute, and Mrs. Geo. McCormick, of Dalesville, and his only brother, Russel, of Lachute.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Paul Desjardins, Robert McGibbon, James Clark, John Simon, Lawrence Silverson and Archie Morrow.

Interment was made in the Lachute Protestant Cemetery.

Dead Flying Officer Was Related Here

Late F.O. Clifford Johnson

F.O. Clifford Johnson, Port Arthur man who died May 23 in a plane crash at Calgary, was the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. MacLean, of Upper Lachute, and was known to many residents in the section east of this town. A son of Mrs. MacLean's sister, he was 30 years of age.

Clifford crashed with a companion, F.O. F. D. Feeney, of Edmonton, several miles from the Calgary airport. They were both staff pilots of the R.C.A.F.

Clifford Johnson served five years with the Air Force in the last war, and flew Spitfires in the Falcon Squadron 412. He was discharged with the rank of Flt. Lieutenant. Following the war he graduated in Journalism from Carleton College, Ottawa, then engaging in newspaper and radio work. He re-enlisted with the R.C.A.F. last year. He is survived by his parents, one brother and three sisters; his passing is mourned also by relatives and friends in Lachute.

"Gay 90's" Revue Staged at Arundel

(Our District Correspondent)

Arundel — On Saturday evening in the school auditorium the Farm Forum groups of Arundel staged a "Gay Ninety Revue" to a capacity audience. There were two acts, the first consisting of Gay Ninety songs in which the part of the "bird in a gilded cage" was taken and also sung by Mr. Edgar Davis. During the singing of "In the Good Old Summertime", a dance was staged by four local boys, Messrs. S. Cooke, G. Bennett, Bob Allan and Keith Rathwell, dressed in costumes of the gay ninety chorus girls. A solo by Mr. Duncan, the drinking song from "La Traviata", and the singing of "A Tavern in the Town" by the chorus, was much appreciated — this bringing the first skit to a close. Then followed a song by Mr. R. Allan, a burlesque on "I Belong to Glasgow" and three selections by a "Barberhouse Quartet", consisting of Messrs. C. Swail, Ernie Swail, Gerry Bennett and Garnet Bennett, Sr., who sang "Seeing Nellie Home", "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" and "Old Black Joe". Mr. Duncan, acting as master-of-ceremonies for the revue, then introduced "The Lady in "Red" and "The Lady in Blue", who were dressed to suit the titles, and who, when they made their exit, created much merriment.

Act II took the form of a short play, entitled "They done right by our Nell", and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The performers took their parts to perfection, and the acting showed the result of intensive training and leadership. Mr. Duncan, who was responsible for the production, is extended hearty congratulations for the splendid performance, also for the costumes worn — which in the main were created, and made, by him, as was also the stage scenery. Mr. Douglas, of St. Lambert, is extended the sincere thanks of the cast for the splendid make-ups achieved through his knowledge and efforts.

During the evening Dr. R. Henry thanked the cast for the hard work involved in bringing this play before the people. The financial results left nothing to be desired, and will be used as needed in the work of the Forums.

The cast was as follows:

The Heroine, Our Nell — — Miss Heather Douglas
The Hero — Mr. Rathwell Morrison.
The Villain — Mr. Edgar Davis.
Grandma — Mrs. Douglas Cooke.
Neighbor — Mrs. Wilfred Morrison.
Mill Owner — Mr. Sidney Swail, Jr.
Mill Owner's Daughter — Mrs. Stuart Cooke.

The finale was a group of chorusus from the songs sung in the first half, and the curtain was closed on the singing of the national anthem. Mrs. E. A. Bulley accompanied at the piano.

Cancer Drive In Brownsburg Tops Objective

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — At a meeting of the Brownsburg Section executive committee of the Canadian Cancer Society, held at the Social Club last week, the chairman, Mr. Les Thompson, announced that the drive for funds organized by the section and now drawing to a close had already reached the objective set by the Society. It was very pleasant to recognize the generous co-operation given by collectors and canvassers. Following on the tread of so many similar collections held in the village recently, it was a tribute to the wholehearted support put into the drive by the workers, and to the contributors who felt that the object was worthy of their financial support. Mr. Thompson very sincerely thanked all who had helped to make the drive a success, but felt that a labor of love was sufficient thanks in itself, and above the small mead of praise his inadequate words could convey. Cancer was a dread disease, and every effort by everyone should be directed to eradicate it from our midst.

The Section was now in the position of having a "bank" of necessary dressings, from which it could draw in case of need.

The question of extending the drive to the outside area so as to provide opportunity to outside districts to partake in the work of fighting cancer, was discussed, and arrangements made to extend the work at a later date.

It was decided to compile a mailing list which meanwhile could be used to provide central personnel with literature and information to help in the early detection of cancer. Special films were available and could be provided on request at any gathering where such would be of interest and service.

The question of supplying a booth at the Lachute Fair in conjunction with other services, was also considered. The possibilities are to be inquired into.

Other members present with the chairman were — Mrs. H. Barber, Mrs. S. Istvanffy, Miss Ann David (secretary), M. V. Trayers and King Amos.

Recent Session of Orange Provincial Grand Lodge

The 103rd session of Quebec's Provincial Grand Orange Lodge was held recently at Bristol, Que., a large gathering of delegates from throughout the province being assembled for the occasion. Part of the sessions were held jointly with the members of the L.O.B.A., who also met for their annual meeting, at Pine Lodge.

A report of the highly successful Orange Insurance Benefit Fund operations for 1951, was given by M.W. Bro. John E. Hammond, of Toronto, General Agent of the Fund, who pointed out that Assets were currently almost $3,000,000—whilst over $3,085,000 had been paid in claims since the inception of the Fund; 6½-million dollars of assurance is presently in force.

M.W. Bro. W. J. Armstrong, editor of "The Sentinel", gave an inspiring address on the intimate connections between the sturdy and militant Essentials of Protestantism in Orangeism, and the spread and maintenance of the British Empire, pledged to close ties between the Dominion and Britain, and he opposed any flag other than the Union Jack as the proper emblem for any Dominion — such expressing the highest form of loyalty to the Throne.

Operations of the Orange and Protestant Children's Home at Rosemere, Que., were detailed by the Home President, R.W. Bro. Royal Werry, Q.C. — its most successful year being recorded. In recognition of the worthy efforts of Brother Werry, and of Bro. J. Wilfred Shaw, a Montreal director of the Home, honorary membership in Grand Lodge was conferred on these brethren.

Officers for 1953 were elected as follows: the installation being conducted by M.W. Bro. Hammond:

For a second year, R.W. Bro. Walter E. Atkins, of Bury, Grand Master; R.W. Bro. E. S. Heatherington, Cookshire, Deputy Grand Master; Junior Deputy G.M. Bro. L. Tomalty, Lachute; Grand Chaplain, R.W. Bro. Rev. G. T. Spriggs; Grand Treasurer, R.W. Bro. R. H. Butler (his 19th year in same office); Marshall, R.W. Bro. J. J. Morgan; Grand Lecturer, R.W. Bro. Murray Nugent, Lemesurier; Auditors, R.W. Bros. W. J. Cooper and Nelson Morrison, of Lachute.

Deputy Grand Chaplains were appointed as follows: Argenteuil Co., Rev. T. Hardy; Pontiac Co., Rev. R. G. Elliott; Ottawa Co., Rev. R. Dawes; Montreal Co., Rev. J. W. Patterson, B.A., B.D., and for Sherbrooke Co., R.W. Bro. S. R. Foreman.

Newly elected were: R.W. Bro. J. Wilfred Shaw, Montreal, as Grand Secretary and R.W. Bro. W. H. Brady, B.A., Deputy Grand Secretary; Dep. Grand Lecturer, Bro. Raymond Reside; Dep. Grand Lecturer of B.A., Bro. A. E. Hutchinson; Dep. Grand Chaplain to B.A., Bro. Rev. L. O. Bunt.

"Around the Country"

By J. Greenblat

Reporting the B.C. election campaign, at Mission, the Fraser Valley Record had this headline about the meeting of Harry D. Ainley, candidate: "C.C.F. candidate promises feeds at cost to farmers". . . At Cobalt, Ont., lack of housing accommodation was no kitty-bar-the-door to four men, who picked a vacant lot on Cobalt Street and by nightfall had a foundation, four walls and roof in place, also door and window facing the street; while neighbors and passers-by gaped in astonishment.

Long, narrow strips of tinfoil floating down from the sky at Amherstburg, Ont., caused three power interruptions in one day; kicked out the automatic switches at a substation. . . It is the height of absurdity, comments the Cobourg (Ont.) Sentinel Star, as well as a nuisance, to compel a person to pay a tax for withdrawing his own money from a bank.

Surplus Information

This gem is too true, and too choice, to keep to ourselves. We pass it along to our readers from that lively bulletin, Edison "Voice Writing":

Someone has said: "I don't agree with what you say but I'll defend to the death your right to say it". For many long years we considered this a noble sentiment; probably it is still a splendid principle, but of late we've wondered if the author ever met The Man Who Knows Best. You know him, of course; compared to this type, Typhoid Mary would be a welcome guest.

The best way to attract him is to start a project about which you have not sought his advice. Put in a lawn by the sweat of your brow. Dig, delve, sow and saturate. Watch over each emergent blade with the protective anxiety of a lioness with a cub. The Man Who Knows Best is sure to drop by just when you've broken the rake handle, jammed your finger, tripped on a protruding root, or chased Mike, the Mining Mastiff.

Despite the fact tthat his lawn has all the luxuriant abundance of a New York subway station, he will give tongue. "Of course, you used XL-53-Y4 Solution? You didn't? Better start from scratch again, old boy."

Closely related to the Man Who Knows Best is the Inside Story Man. He is constitutionally incapable of listening to any statement without giving you the Straight Stuff . . the Real Dope.

He thinks everything is fixed. "The Gamblers Have It All Tied Up" is one of his favorite expressions. As a matter of fact, the nearest he ever got to big-time sport was the time he sat three tables away from a man who was a close friend of a third cousin of Maxie Baer.

He is quite sure that honest competition is a thing of the past. When he sees two small boys disporting themselves with a ball, bat and sandlot, he looks over the fence for the Big Fix.

Maybe it's human nature to want to be on the inside . . . to know the doings of that mysterious group known as "They". But . . . you can only draw dividends out of living when you believe in the essential honesty of things.

Buy Lard for Economy

Lard, now selling at bargain prices, is an excellent shortening to use in making pastry for this month's delicious rhubarb and strawberry pies. It is hard to understand why lard is not used more than it is. Even its low price has not made it popular. In fact, it is often looked down on for that very reason, for some people seem to think that if the price is low, the product is poor. The home economists of the Consumer Section at Ottawa remind us that price is not always an indication of quality, and that is certainly true of lard. In fact, if lard were selling at several cents a pound, it would still be an excellent buy.

There may be another reason why lard is not as popular as it should be. Many of us remember lard that had a strong flavor and had to be kept cold or used up quickly because it would not keep well. . . That idea is old-fashioned today, for, to keep pace with other foods, lard has been greatly improved. The flavor is fresh and mild, it is creamy and it does not have to be kept cold. Lard can now be kept on the grocer's shelves rather than in his refrigerated counters. The reason for this can be seen if you look at the printing on the cartons. There are one or two chemical terms which mean that small amounts of preservatives allowed by the Department of National Health and Welfare have been added to the lard to protect its flavor and prolong its keeping quality. There is still some lard to which preservatives are not added — the words "keep cool" can probably be found on the cartons of this lard.

Since lard is such an excellent buy, the home economists of the Consumer Section decided to do some tests on it for pastry. When it came to tasting time, the pastry made with lard definitely held its own. Here are a few points that the home economists pass along to you. The regular proportions of one to three were used — that is, one cup of lard to three cups of sifted pastry flour, one and a half teaspoons salt and six to eight tablespoons of cold water. Incidentally, extra flavor can be added by using just a little butter with the lard, although the pastry made with all lard was very good. The most common way to make pastry is the crumb method where the fat is cut into sifted flour and salt, then the water added gradually. Everything should be cold, so a pastry blender or two knives are better to use than warm fingers for mixing in the lard. When adding cold water, be careful, for it is so easy to add too much water. This makes the dough sticky, then more flour has to be added to roll the pastry, which makes a tough pie crust.

The dough is much easier to roll if it is chilled, so put it in the refrigerator for a few minutes before rolling it. This hardens the fat and makes the dough easier to handle. Do not roll it too much for this makes the pastry tough. Start from the centre of the dough and roll towards the outside — never back and forth — for tender pastry. Be sure to roll out enough dough so that it does not have to be stretched to cover the pie tin. If it is stretched, it is sure to shrink when it is baking. Also, do not forget to prick the pie shell.

Bake pastry in a hot oven, 425 to 450°F., for about 15 minutes. While the oven is heating, roll out the pie crust and slip it, pie tin and all, into the refrigerator. The baked crust will be more flaky if it is cold when it is put into the oven.

Flowers for Mother

A county reader who enjoys odd jokes in The Watchman, contributes this incident from personal experience:

"Returning home from the city one evening last week, I deposited my purchases on the dining room table. My mother, who is approaching 90 and retires early to bed, came downstairs and investigated the contents of my parcels, one of which contained four bunches of artificial but realistic flowers for my summer hat. . .

"Imagine my surprise when, some time later, I found Mother had carefully placed the flowers in a bowl of water to keep them from wilting!"

Dreamy Delight, Pie of the Month

By Betty Barclay

Here's news! — An unbaked pie that looks like a dream and tastes utterly delightful. It's made in no time at all, thanks to an instant 4-in-1 cocoa mix used for the filing, and corn toasties cereal for the crust. The delicious combination of creamy filling and crunchy crust will put this wonderful dessert on the top of your "treat parade".

Chocolate Pie

¾ Cup sweet cocoa mix, 3½ tablespoons cornstarch, 2½ cups milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 unbaked 8-inch pie shell, ½ cup cream (whipped and sweetened), pecan halves.

Combine sweet cocoa mix and cornstarch in saucepan. Add milk gradually and mix well. Cook and stir until mixture comes to a boil. Remove from heat and add vanilla. Cool slightly (about 5 minutes), stirring once or twice. Turn into pie shell. Chill. Before serving, spread with whipped cream and top with pecan halves.

Toasties Pie Shell

1 Cup finely crushed corn toasties (corn flakes), 2 to 4 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ⅓ cup melted butter or other shortening.

Crush about 4 cups corn toasties with rolling pin. Measure 1 cup. Combine crushed toasties, sugar, and cinnamon. Add melted butter and mix well. Press firmly on bottom and sides of 8-inch pie pan. Chill.

Interior Lighting

First, let us all agree that artificial lighting is not as good as natural light. We have not yet prefected an artificial light which can duplicate the sun. This is another reason why we want to have as much natural light as possible. Yet electricity is much better than the other forms of lighting. True, we have made tremendous strides in the field, and we are producing new forms of lighting. Probably some day we will get it, but not just yet.

As we haven't developed the perfect light as yet, let us see what we have got. There are two main forms of lighting. One, direct — that is, the light on the object. Two, indirect — reflected from the ceiling, or from the top of the light down. With these two forms there are many, many variations, each to appeal to each person's taste. As a matter of fact, there are so many variations it is hard to know what to look for, or what you want, in a lamp.

The other day I was in Montreal, just brousing around. I went into many department stores, seeing what was new in the lamp world. I was struck by several styles. One thing that I think is essential is that, if you are looking for a table-lamp, obtain one that has a three-way socket. With that you can vary the amount of light that you would like, or need, at any given time. I think that you can see the advantage of such a light. If you do see a light that you like, and it has only a one-way socket, it is possible, with a mechanical husband handy, to change the set-up. There is only one catch in that; that is, the shade-holder has to be wide enough to permit the bulb to be screwed into the socket.

One type of light struck me. These lamps were made from actual drift-wood, which was found along one of the coasts. The lamps were glazed with copper, and they really made attractive lights. The style was unique. For a shade it had a simulated rope twined around it. The stand was made of a solid oak plank. The oak was bevelled, and about two inches thick. There were different styles — and ideal, if you like that kind of a lamp. It was, as I have said, unusual, and should you have that type of a setting, it would look unique.

Next week I will discuss chandeliers.

Business Women Score Success in Many Firms

Female Business Heads in Capital Provide Increasing Competition for Male Counterparts

Ottawa (CP) — Ottawa business men aren't exactly shaking in their boots, but in recent years they have come up against an increasing amount of competition from the fair sex.

Women in Canada's capital are more than ever taking up their own business enterprises — and prospering. In one or two cases, they are even showing the way to men.

One of the more unexpected of these is Ottawa's woman mover.

Mrs. Mary Alexander doesn't actually carry pianos and furniture around, but she owns a moving and transfer business — Alexander's Transfer — does her own bookkeeping and hires three drivers and a man to look after her trucks.

The city's only private hospital is owned by Mrs. James L. Thomas, who started it in 1938. Her staff of 15 includes only one man.

Mrs. Audrey Legge has successfully directed the Legge Press (Canada) Ltd. since her husband died in 1947; and the Union Engraving Co. is owned by a woman, Mrs. Florence Bailey.

But it took Mrs. C. Abramson to show men how to operate a new type of business. She started the first children's wear specialty shop in the city in 1945. Since then men have moved into the baby's boottee-bonnet-and-bottle trade and hold a two-to-one majority over the women.

Note from Ireland

A notice of the annual summer school sponsored by the Irish Countrywomen's Association, has been received by the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada. Coupled with this was a cordial invitation to any Institute member to visit this school, which is being held in two sessions, July 1-12 and 16-28, at Dungarvan, on the south coast of Ireland, not far from Cobb where the American liners come in.

Courses are planned in hedge-row basketry, patchwork, Irish dancing, singing, and talks and demonstrations on many topics of interest.

In this letter the secretary, Miss Dorcas F. Smith, expresses the hope all Canadian W.I. members will hear of this invitation, and concludes by saying, "We can assure you that we would give any visitor from Canada a warm welcome".

Keep up with the Joneses I cannot,
And judging by his moans
Of fiscal pain, it's fairly plain
That neither can Mr. Jones!

Let's Eat

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

A young woman stood before a display of bags of dried beans in the super-market, a puzzled look on her face.

"Do you suppose these beans have much food value?" she said to me. "My husband says his mother often baked lima beans for Saturday night. Of course, it would make a thrifty dish, but I don't want to try to save money at the expense of good nutrition."

"You don't need to hesitate," I said. "Lima beans are a really nutritious food, with good quality and quantity protein, calcium and phosphorus. Just add one-fourth as much meat as beans, by weight, to make the vegetable protein complete. Salt pork bacon, leftover ham or minced tongue combine with lima beans to make a really substantial entree with high nutrition."

Baked Lima Beans and Tongue

Plain-boil or pressure-cook 1 lb dried lima beans as usal. Drain Combine 1½ cups of the bean liquid with 1½ cups evaporated milk (Save the remaining bean liquid to use in soup). Melt 2 tablespoons margarine or ham fat in a saucepan. Stir in 2 tablespoons enriched flour Gradually add the liquid and then the beans. Cook and stir until boiling. Add ½ tablespoon table mustard.

Oil a 2-quart casserole. Put in alternate layers of the beans and sauce and minced cooked tongue (Use about 1½ cups of the tongue altogether). Finish with the beans Cover with ½ cup fine, dry, enriched bread crumbs mixed with 1 tablespoon melted margarine or meat fat. Slow-brown 45 minutes in a moderate oven, 350 F

Old-Time Oatmeal Cookies

Sift together 1½ cups already-sifted enriched flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoon cinnamon and ¾ teaspoon nutmeg. Add ¾ cup shortening ½ cup granulated sugar 1 cup light brown sugar, 2 beaten grade A B or C eggs and ½ cup milk. Beat about 2 minutes, or until smooth. Fold in 2 cups rolled oats and 1 cup raisins

Transfer half to a lightly-floured board or pastry cloth Roll to ¼ in-thickness. Cut into 2 in squares with a sharp floured knife. Place on an oiled cookie sheet. Sprinkle with a little granulated sugar. Bake 12 minutes in a moderate oven, 375 F. Makes 3 dozen.

TRICK OF THE CHEF

For a different flavor, add ½ teaspoon cumin seed when stewing tomatoes.

Fashions

What a blessing it is that well-tailored, well-handled suits of cool crisp rayon can have the appearance of good men's suiting fabric. Here's one done in a small beige and brown check with piping outlining the curved seaming from shoulder to hip pockets. The skirt is straight. The suit is unlined and is nice with blouse, a dickey or with a scarf tied at the neckline.

Wife Preservers

To decorate a meat loaf for guests, shape it oval and score it like a ham. When baked, stud with sliced, stuffed olives.

Baby Teeth Important

"Look after those baby teeth", urges the Canadian Dental Association. "They are important not only in chewing food for the nourishment of the child, but also in the development and spacing of adult teeth."

If a baby tooth is prematurely lost and the space left is not attended to, the adjacent teeth may "drift" and partially close the space. This loss of space may cause the secondary or adult teeth to be crooked or crowded, thereby having undesired effects on the child's chewing efficiency, appearance, speech and jaw development.

Dentists recommend regular supervision and examination beginning at 2½ years of age. Early supervision and regular dental care ensure that primary teeth will be retained during those important childhood years until the secondary or permanent teeth are ready to take over the job.

FAMOUS ACTRESS SAYS MARRIAGES NEED TOLERANCE

Katharine Cornell Cites Plays Where Wronged Wives Give Husbands Second Chance

New York (AP) — A veteran trouper from coast to coast, Miss Katharine Cornell was still travelling the other evening after her Broadway premiere in W. Somerset Maugham's artful comedy, "The Constant Wife".

This time however she was travelling only from the theatre to her long-established home on the East River, thence to an apartment she and her husband, director Guthrie McClintic, had borrowed from friends for a few days. They are preparing a new house in a rural suburb and the famous actress is pretty busy getting from one place to another.

"The Constant Wife" was first produced on Broadway 25 years ago. Miss Cornell has done revivals of classics before, notably her "Romeo and Juliet" and "Candida". She has, she said, a very practical viewpoint about revivals of classics. You can't do a revival strictly for sentiment's sake, just because it was a great play in the past.

"It is just as Maugham writes in 'The Constant Wife' when I am fighting to hold my husband from a beautiful blonde who is almost stealing him from me", she said.

"As the wife in Maugham's play, I am faced with the realization that every marriage needs a great deal more thought than most wives devote to it. Every time, I think, there is a domestic disagreement, it is up to the wife to give the marriage a second chance.

Hysterics No Help

"I realize that some will disagree with that conclusion, but Maugham expressed it best in 'The Constant Wife' when Constance, the wife, faced with the truth about her husband's infidelity, says nothing is to be gained by becoming hysterical. Maugham has the wife face the unpleasant fact, and says 'you can't make cold mutton today into tomorrow's lamb chops'."

Miss Cornell had a gentle literary comment to make as she hurried back to her own apartment to see that her furniture and library were being moved safely to her new residence.

"I really believe that Mr. Maugham in writing 'The Constant Wife' really loved Constance, the wife, as I think Mr. Bernard Shaw personally loved his Candida", she said.

Miss Cornell, being feminine and having played both roles, certainly speaks with authority. Agreeing is Miss Cornell's husband who has staged this new production with an elan which makes it seem an effervescent modern play although it was first produced on Broadway a quarter century ago.

"The only things we changed", Miss Cornell said, "were the play's economics".

"For instance, you couldn't have Constance or her hubsand quarreling about prices of dresses, furs, diamonds and other such things, based on their worth at the time when Mr. Maugham first wrote the play. We brought up the finances to meet the prices of today."

PROLONGED HARDSHIP

Since 1939 the people of Britain have been living under a rigid system of food rationing. It is recognized that Britain is an overpopulated country and there are food shortages in many other parts of the world. Nevertheless it is alarming and regrettable that a nation so productive and so highly industrialized should have to undergo such a long period of privation.

"I Want A Bike!"

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"I want a bike, Mum! If I earn half the cost, will Dad help me out?"

"Maybe — but we don't want you to be in an accident. . . . A bicycle can't win in a collision with a car!"

"I'll be careful! Mothers are always fussing. . . . All the fellows in our gang have bikes."

Bicycles do cost money, the same as any other well-made, complex vehicle. Every year shows a growing number of owners. Did you ever pass a school just after it was let out and meet the big "fleet" of cyclists, boys and girls? A youngster without a bike is certainly "out of things"!

At the same time a parent has reason to be concerned about the possibility of their youngster being in an accident. A young cyclist can be seriously hurt — or even killed — in a few split seconds in a serious mix-up.

How do most accidents occur? In a few cases the poor conditions of the road was a contributing factor. There may be so much sand that the brakes, if suddenly applied, will cause the wheels to skid. The surface may have had a large unexpected hole, rut or bump, or the shoulder of the road may have been weakened or partly wasted away by heavy rains. Occasionally a freezing rain had made cycling on good pavement very hazardous or a heavy mist had made the visibility very low.

Sometimes the motorist or truck driver who crashed into the bicycle was almost completely responsible for an accident. But often the driver was unaware of a boy or girl on a bicycle because he did not see the white on the mud guard of the back wheel or the tail light.

Perhaps it was dusk and the cyclist was in dark clothes with no light garment which could easily be seen. Maybe it was completely dark and no headlight was attached to the bicycle. Another condition might have been that the horn or warning bell of the bicycle was out of order. When the motorist should have heard a warning sound from the cyclist, there was no signal given!

If a boy or girl wants to own a bicycle, in most families it is a good plan for them not only to help pay for such a major investment, but also be responsible for its care and for obeying sensible safety rules. If they are too young to ride carefully — they are too young to ride!

The law holds parents responsible for the actions of their children, so it behooves mothers and fathers to know the traffic rules and make sure their youngsters are familiar with them.

Bicycles should keep to the extreme right of the road, out of the way of other vehicles. When meeting traffic it is passed on the right, when overtaking traffic it is passed on the left. In a town or city the careful bicycle rider stops near the curb. At an intersection, traffic coming from the right has the right-of-way. When a cyclist wants to turn left, he approaches the intersection as near to the centre of the highway as he can, and then makes the left turn as close to the intersection centre line as possible.

Stop signals must be obeyed and also traffic officers' directions. The cyclist must raise one arm when stopping or slowing down to turn, to show in which direction he is going. He should use his horn or bell as a warning signal only when necessary. It is not a "nuisance device"!

Each cyclist must get along "on his own steam". Hanging on to a moving truck or car is against the law and very dangerous. To "cut in" in front of a moving car is also asking for trouble; and is never permissable.

Quite a few accidents occur when several cyclists are together. They get talking and forget to keep their eyes and ears open for cars or trucks or pedestrians. Sometimes they ride three or four or five abreast. Single file is the rule for bicycles in heavy or medium traffic and a motorist often has difficulty in passing more than two bicycles riding alongside each other.

Adolescents sometimes start "clowning" or showing how smart they can be, riding without their hands on the handle bars or their feet on the pedals. The highway is no place for stunt riding. Wobbling all over the road is a silly and dangerous practice. Keep in a straight line!

Bicycles are ridden in countries all around the globe — tens of thousands of boys and girls and adults have fun on them and use them to ride to school or work or earn money on carrier jobs. Cycling is the best of exercise in the fresh air. Only a small percentage of bicycle owners get into a serious crash — obey the traffic rules and avoid the "accident class"!

Garden-Graph

Many poor lawns are the result of good intentions gone wrong. By midsummer many lawns are partially neglected and show it.

Poor soil and poor care will never produce a good lawn. Lawns should be fed with a complete plant food at least once a year and twice is better.

The first feeding should be in early spring just as growth starts. A second one in September will help the grass to endure the winter. On soils known to be low in fertility there should also be a feeding—a light one—in June.

Mowing is a chore and people often put it off until the grass is three or more inches high. This is a mistake for, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, over-long grass become stemy, straggly and coarse bladed.

On the other hand, some gardeners go to the other extreme and keep grass cut too short. If you want to build strong, vigorous grass plants you must leave sufficient top growth to manufacture food to store in the roots. So adjust your mower blade to cut the grass not shorter than 1½ inches. Two inches is even better.

When grass is mowed frequently in spring and early summer at a time that it is growing luxuriantly, grass plants are encouraged to produce more stems from the base, thus thickening the turf, as illustrated. The additional blades of grass also shade the soil about the plants, which is a great advantage to them in hot weather.

Frequent mowing should cease before hot weather so as to retain the foliage for the shade it will cast, and also so as not to exhaust the plants.

At no time should grass be cut with a dull mower. It chews off the blades instead of shearing them cleanly and the resulting bruise gives a brownish cast to the lawn.

adds much to the convenience of the laundry tub — and it's quite easy to make. Nail a cleat to the wall at the proper slope. Build the drainboard with a rim of quarter-round along edges. Tack a small block to the outer corner as a base for the upright. All material may be of one-inch pine. Allow one inch overlap at tub.

A neat little UTILITY TABLE may be made of ends of 2 x 6 boards. Use four pieces for top and pieces for supports. Top might be 36" x 24", with supports 14" high.

Newcomer to Port of Montreal

The Empress of Scotland, 26,300-ton flagship of the Canadian Pacific fleet, is shown here passing under the Jacques Cartier Bridge at the entrance to Montreal harbor, to make history as the largest vessel ever to arrive in the world's largest inland port. The big luxury liner and cruise ship, which had to have her masts shortened by almost 45 feet to clear under the bridges and power lines on the way up-river from Quebec, will make Montreal her Canadian terminal for the remainder of the 1952 St. Lawrence navigation season. The 666-foot long vessel carries 663 passengers, and will make one trip every three weeks between Liverpool, England, Greenock, Scotland, and Montreal. The inset shows Capt. C. E. Duggan (in uniform), master of the largest and fastest vessel on the St. Lawrence route, being welcomed to Montreal by Capt. J. P. Dufour (second from right), Montreal harbormaster, while looking on are A. C. MacDonald (left), managing director of C.P.S., and André Gauthier, river pilot, who was aboard the vessel for the 139-mile run up river from Quebec.

Fundy National Park, New Brunswick

The stands of slender white pines on the shores of the Bay of Fundy, once prized as masts for the Royal Navy's windjammers, today tower above Fundy National Park in New Brunswick, Canada's newest national playground.

Eight miles of shoreline, carved into countless caves, coves and inlets by Fundy's famed 60-foot tides, mark the southern boundary of the park, which encloses an area of some 80 square miles. Rising in rolling steps from the bay, the park is richly wooded with maple groves, laced by tumbling trout streams and traversed by winding roads and trails.

Among Fundy's attractions is a nine-hole golf course, designed by an internationally known golf architect. Its fairways follow the contours of the park's southern slopes within sight of the bay. A new heated, salt water, outdoor swimming pool at Fundy is one of North America's finest. Tourist accommodation in the park includes cottages of French chalet design, comfortably furnished and fully equipped with water, electric and heating services. For those bringing their own camping equipment or travelling with cabin trailers, sites have been selected and facilities provided.

Highway No. 14, which intersects Highway No. 2 between Saint John and Moncton, leads diagonally across Fundy Park and skirts Lake View and Bennett Lake, both well stocked with trout. Point Wolf River and many of the streams in the eastern section of the park also provide excellent trout fishing. Wildlife, protected in this sanctuary, includes moose, white-tailed deer, black bear, red fox, mink, bobcat and beaver, and nearly 80 species of birds have already been identified.

An open air amphitheatre for holding festivals, concerts and movies has been built near the park's southeastern entrance. Tennis courts, bowling greens and a sports field have also been laid out for the use of visitors.

The New Brunswick School of Arts and Crafts has opened a summer school in Fundy Park. Vacationers may register for a wide variety of handicrafts, including leatherwork, weaving and wood turning.

Pretty Wedding At United Church

Riddell - Wilson

The marriage of Mildred Janet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wilson, of Lachute, to Mr. Clive Emerson Riddell, son of Mr. George Riddell and the late Mrs. Riddell, of Mille Isles, Que., was solemnized at 4 o'clock on Saturday, May 31, in the Lachute United Church.

The Rev. W. B. Rosborough performed the double-ring ceremony, and Wayne Riddell was at the organ. Lilac and tulips decorated the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. John Meyer, as matron of honor, and Mrs. Albert Fraser and Miss Margaret Shepherd as bridesmaids. Mr. Alton Riddell, brother of the groom, acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Harold Wilson and Mr. Owen Riddell.

The bride wore a white floor-length gown of satin, with Chantilly lace bodice and an overskirt of nylon tulle. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet of lily of the valley, and she carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses and lily of the valley.

The bride's attendants were in identically-styled frocks of faille taffeta and wore headbands and gloves to match.

Mrs. Meyer wore yellow, while Mrs. Fraser was in green and Miss Shepherd in orchid, and they carried bouquets of multi-colored sweet peas.

Mrs. Wilson, the bride's mother, wore a street-length dress of navy blue crepe, with white and navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Riddell, stepmother of the groom, wore a street-length dress of navy blue crepe, with white and navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Spring flowers decorated the Legion Hall for the reception. Later the couple left for New York City and the Eastern States, the bride travelling in a yellow gabardine suit with navy and white accessories, and a corsage of roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Riddell will reside in Prescott, Ont., upon their return.

Quota Exceeded In Red Cross Local Appeal

Final report on returns from the Lachute district Red Cross appeal is given by the treasurer, Mrs. F. E. Earle, showing the $3,000 objective well exceeded. Nurses Graduate

Two nurses-in-training from this district — Miss Frances I. Bennett, Calumet, and Miss Nora W. Smith, Arundel — received their diplomas and medals at the Montreal General Hospital graduation exercises last week. Friends extend congratulations to these young ladies on having successfully completed their course.

Presentation by District Teachers

Mr. Smith thanked Mr. King for the splendid assistance he had voluntarily rendered the school at the Boys' Farm at Shawbridge, and conveyed his best wishes and those of the director, Mr. Evans.

Mr. Deacon told of the many School Board meetings he had attended with Mr. King at the time they were working towards the formation of the Central Board. He gave a brief outline of this work and told of the many miles they travelled, often late at night. There was no doubt but that Mr. King had made a very real contribution to the advancement of education in his entire inspectorate.

The teachers, at their meeting preceding the presentation, heard reports on the work done by their various committees during the past year, and also elected a new slate of officers for the coming year:

Mr. G. King Amos, principal of Brownsburg Consolidated School, was elected president; Mr. A. McGerrigle, principal of Grenville Consolidated School, vice-president; Miss Ruby Primmerman, French specialist on the staff of Brownsburg School, secretary-treasurer; Mr. M. Blakely, principal of Morin Heights Intermediate School, chairman of the Athletic Committee; Miss E. Stanton, English specialist on the Lachute High School staff, chairman of the Program Committee. Delegates appointed to the Provincial Teachers' Association were Mrs. Norma Rogers, of Lachute, Mr. K. Amos, of Brownsburg, Mr. A. McGerrigle, of Grenville, and Mr. M. Graham, of Arundel.

Mrs. S. Harris, retiring president, thanked the meeting for the splendid co-operation shown by all members during her period of office.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

23rd Annual Meeting of Ottawa Valley Presbyterial W. M. S.

The 23rd annual meeting of the Ottawa Valley Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society, United Church of Canada, was held last Thursday, in the Lachute United Church.

Members of the executive committee of the Montreal Presbyterial and guests from Montreal, and one from North Vancouver, B.C., attended. Mrs. Geo. Y. Deacon, sectional vice-president, presided.

Mrs. Shonkwiler, president of the Montreal Presbyterial, spoke of the aim of the W.M.S. and then introduced the secretaries of the departments who had accompanied her from Montreal. Each spoke briefly of her particular interest and then presented a skit, "Strange Bargains".

Principal speakers were the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, of Lachute, the Rev. and Mrs. J. K. Brown, of St. Columba House, and Miss Donalda Jardine, of Westminster Central United Church.

Mrs. A. Taylor and Mrs. C. Duncan, accompanied by Mrs. K. McOuat, sang during the program of proceedings.

Lunch and afternoon tea were served by the members of the Lachute W.M.S.

The 1953 rally will be held in the Brownsburg United Church.

Student Pastor Takes Summer Charge

Mr. John Fox, student minister, is occupying the manse at Lost River for the summer months, having officiated last Sunday in the charge, where he is acting minister for the Presbyterian congregations in Lakeview, Crystal Falls and Lost River for the season.

B'burg Regular Baptists To Hear Special Speakers

Missionary E. Huser, a recent graduate of the Toronto Baptist Seminary, who was student professor of French, is to preach at the church service in the Regular Baptist Church on Sunday. Mr. Huser will be returning to France in August, to do pastoral and missionary work with the French Bible Mission.

On Thursday, June 12, the Rev. J. R. Boyd, successful pastor of Sudbury, will address a gathering at the same church. Mr. Boyd, a former resident of this district, is well known throughout Northern Ontario and Quebec through his extensive radio work. Everyone is heartily welcome to these services.

Have You Wished for A Copy?

Have you not, at one time or another, wished that you might have a copy of the original Greek text of the commonly styled "New Testament"? You may even have wished you could have it with the English words right under the Greek, enabling you to make comparisons for yourself.

Such a Greek text is, in fact, available now in book form. It is called "The Emphatic Diaglott". The translation is based on the Vatican Manuscript No. 1209, one of the oldest Bible manuscripts in existence, and takes note of the various renderings of eminent critics. The 924-page volume includes valuable information on the Greek alphabet and grammar, history of the Greek text and English versions, and an enlightening preface and foreword to assist reader in his examination of the text. Comprehensive footnotes, references and appendix add to the value of this remarkble work. Postpaid, $2. Write — The Watch Tower, 40 Irwin Ave., Toronto.

City Couple Wed At Thomas' Gore

Noble - Frost

The marriage of Shirley Ann Frost, daughter of Mrs. Herbert and the late Herbert Frost, of Montreal, to Mr. Louis George Noble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Noble, of Lachute, took place at four o'clock Saturday afternoon, May 24, in the Thomas' Gore United Church, the Rev. W. B. Rosborough officiating. Wayne Riddell played the wedding music.

Baskets of apple blossoms and lilacs and an arch of cedar boughs decorated the church, and white apple blossoms marked the guest pews.

Given in marriage by Mr. J. W. Molyneaux, the bride wore a mauve suit with yellow accessories and carried a bouquet of yellow roses with lily of the valley.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Eileen Noble, who wore a sky blue suit with white accessories and carried a bouquet of pink roses with lily of the valley.

Mr. Ronald Noble, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. Ushers were Mr. Sterling Noble, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Harland Smith.

After the wedding supper the couple left for a trip to Quebec City. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Noble will take up residence in Montreal.

TUBELESS TIRE

PROTECTS AGAINST BLOWOUTS!

CHANGES BLOWOUTS TO SLOWOUTS

Most blowouts start when you don't know it. A curb or a hole bruises the cords inside your tire. As the tire flexes, a break occurs at the weak spot and the inner tube is forced into the gap. Here it is pinched and rubbed until suddenly, miles or perhaps days later, when you don't expect it, the tire blows out.

But with the B.F.G. Tubeless Tire there is no tube to blow out. The air-retaining lining is actually a part of the tire itself. If damage does occur, it can only cause pinhole leaks in the lining that lose air so slowly you have miles in which to make a safe, easy stop.

PROVEN ON THE ROAD

Developed, tested and perfected by B.F. Goodrich, the Tubeless Tire has been used in the U.S.A. for over four years by thousands of motorists. Their reports of phenomenal, trouble-free mileage are your best guarantee that this is the finest tire you can buy today.

PROTECTS AGAINST PUNCTURES

A layer of special sealant rubber under the tread sticks to any puncturing object and prevents loss of air. When the object is removed, the puncture seals itself instantly and permanently.

PROTECTS AGAINST DANGEROUS SKIDS

The B.F. Goodrich Tubeless Tire has an amazing new tread with thousands of flexible rubber "grip blocks" . . . spaced 16 to the inch. These tiny blocks grip the road like a tank tread. In wet weather their flexible action wipes the road dry for safe, sure traction . . . so dry you can actually light a match on the tire track.

The B.F. Goodrich Tubeless Tire fits your present rims. Scientifically designed tire bead with rim-seal ridges forms an air-tight pressure lock against the rim . . . can't come off . . . won't lose air.

IT'S THE ONLY TIRE THAT PROTECTS YOU FROM ALL THREE DRIVING HAZARDS . . . BLOWOUTS, PUNCTURES AND DANGEROUS SKIDS.

Your neighbourhood B.F. Goodrich dealer has the Tubeless Tire now.

142 Entries for Horse Show at Ormstown Fair

Ormstown, Que. — Orstown's 64 - event Horse Show, which opened Wednesday night in the indoor arena at Ormstown Exhibition Grounds, has attracted a record 142 entries from the Eastern Townships, Montreal, Ottawa and other parts of Quebec and Eastern Ontario.

The four-day show includes classes for hunters, jumpers, roadsters, saddle horses and ponies and harness horses and ponies. Evening programs are scheduled today, Friday and Saturday, and an afternoon program will be held on Saturday. Stake events will be judged Saturday evening.

Entries include winners of many important events in last year's show. Among them are — Blue Mist and The Riddle, owned by F. A. Ayerst, of Ormstown, and Revlon's Princess Midas, winner of three jumping events for Miss Shirley Thomas, of Ottawa, in the 1951 Ormstown show.

Previous winners from Montreal stables entered again this year include John Fyon's heavyweight hunter, Damfine; Miss Mimi Coulombe's Black Star and Sweetheart of All; Roy Calder's Vivian Lee and Andy Spencer; F. W. Lamb's Peace Pact's Masterpiece and Black Patsy Girl; and Mrs. M. L. Mineau's Royal Gent.

The Chateauguay, Que., stable of Cecil Carpenter has entered Effective Patch, Royal Gratton, Mandy Lou and Cayenne.

H. J. O'Connell, of Ste. Genevieve, Que., who won 10 victories in the harness division last year, will compete again with Justification, Judication and Star Spangled Banner, and his two fine ponies, Glenholme Radiance and Glenholme Bonnie Queen.

Other entries include Dufferin Stock Farm's Hayworthe Symphony, Dufferin Maestro, Hawthorn Camelot, Dufferin Pal and Shining Star, from Mont Tremblant, Que.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ryan's Chemong Gaiety, Gold Plate, Byrnavon Regent and Grassview Queen, Justin D. Bogue's Red Riding Hood, Fiddler's Fling and Grinning Lady, Dr. D. R. Cherry's Miss Lee Hal, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Perley-Robertson's Polaris, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Cunningham's Star Light and Jewel's Choice, of Ottawa.

Albert Quesnel's Delrosa Jewel Belle and Delrosa Lady Belle, of Hull, Que.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Thomas' Revlon's Black Magic, Revlon's Twentieth Wave, Revlon's Over-Car, Revlon's White Sable, Revlon's Bravo, and Miss Shirley Thomas' Revlon's Paint the Town Pink, of Ottawa.

Grenville Consolidated School News

By Willis Young

Last Saturday 14 Scouts from this district attended the annual Rally in Lachute. An enjoyable time was reported by all who attended, and they are looking forward to next year's event with equal pleasure.

* * *

On Sunday, 37 Guides went to Montreal in the Avoca school bus, driven by Mr. Howard Smith, to welcome Lady Baden-Powell, Chief Guider. The welcoming service proved a memorable experience for all who witnessed it.

* * *

A tea was held at the school on Friday, May 30, for all members of the staff, to mark the end of the Cooking classes. The three teachers who are leaving the school this year — Miss F. Findlay, Miss E. Meredith, and Miss M. Swail — were presented with corsages. We wish these three teachers the best of luck in their new field. . . Mrs. R. Robinson, Sewing instructor, and Mrs. C. Foreman, Cooking instructor, were each presented with china cups and saucers on Friday, May 30, as a token of the pupils' gratitude for their services during the year.

REALISTIC ELECTRIC SIGN

A new animated display featuring a forty-foot snoring man made its appearance on Broadway last month to advertise a new non-narcotic sleeping capsule. A way was devised to have the figure's stomach rise and fall several feet with each breath. Realism ends there, however. Out of deference to noise abatement efforts, the snoring is indicated by "Z's" appearing over the figure's mouth.

Good Send-Off For Al Fleming's Wrestle Sessions

The first of a Monday night series of wrestling shows promoted by Al Fleming, coach of the Lachute Tigers, was presented at the Stadium and drew a considerable crowd. There were all the thumps and thuds, the feigned brutality, the cheers and howls, that make a wrestle-fest complete, and the spectators went away well satisfied.

In the major event Don Kindred (228 lbs.), a well-built Negro out of New York, won two falls to beat the villain of the piece, Mr. Universe (202), of Montreal. The latter won an unpopular decision in the first round, Kindred taking the other two rounds in quick falls, after some curdling throttle-holds by the "bad man" and three-strand neckties with the ring ropes. . . This was a final, qualifying the Negro wrestler to meet Green Hornet next week.

In the opening preliminary bout (one fall), tough guy Bob Marion (195), of Montreal, and Steve Calci (185), Ottawa, wrestled 30 minutes to a draw.

Green Hornet (190), of Boston, was disqualified for wide open warfare, ceding the second bout of this grunt-and-groan program to Gentleman Jim Nelson (205), of Chicago.

Sabre Jet Aircraft To Demonstrate at Hawkesb'y Air Show

News has been received from the R.C.A.F. that three Sabre aircraft will demonstrate at the Hawkesbury Airport on the occasion of the sixth annual Air Show, to be held Sunday, June 29, sponsored by the Hawkesbury Flying Club.

The Sabre is one of the latest fighter-type aircraft, and although these craft may be seen occasionally flying over the district, the R.C.A.F. will be giving the spectators at Hawkesbury Air Show a real opportunity to see them perform in a 10 to 15-minute display.

It is anticipated that another interesting feature on the program will be a mass parachute jump, and arrangements for this are being made at the present time.

If the Flying Club is successful in procuring these two special attractions, they will be in a position to promise the people of this district the best air show yet seen at Hawkesbury.

TOPNOTCH BRITISH SOCCER

London — Tottenham Hotspurs and Manchester United, two famous British football clubs, and long-time rivals for British football supremacy, will battle it out in Toronto's Maple Leaf Stadium on June 14.

PROUD CONFIDENCE

No one can say that all the people of Canada are copy-cats, colorless, and phony. For the most part Canadians are a serious-minded people. They are not braggarts but in their hearts they know they have accomplished great things.

Softball League Opens Season

The Argenteuil Softball League, with a complement of six teams, opened its schedule last week. Officers of this league are — J. J. Dupré, president; F. McLean, vice-president; L. Hamel, secretary-treasurer.

Initial games were delayed owing to unfavorable weather. Last Thursday, however, G. Dupré's St. Andrews entry, coached by Frank Ladouceur, beat the Lions (Jean Guy Larocque's) squad, 9 to 2, and Carillon defeated Lowe Bros. (Marcel Sullivan) 14 to 10.

Continuing on Sunday last, the Lions beat Lowe Bros. 17 to 11.

Ensuing games are billed as follows; all interested are advised to clip this schedule for future reference. Games this Sunday will start at 2 p.m., and supporters are urged to be in attendance and give encouragement to their teams.

PECULIAR FISH

Corner Brook, Nfld. (CP) — An unusual fish which committed suicide by jumping on the boom at Humbermouth was subject of much speculation. The armor-plated sea monster turned out to be a sea sturgeon, measuring 37 inches and weighing about 12 pounds.

TOUGH LESSON

Winnipeg (CP) — Seven-year-old Wayne Joynt learned the hard way that it's dangerous to touch loose wires. He picked up a wire lying near a new lamp standard and passers-by saw a flash of blue light and heard the boy scream. He suffered only burnt finers however and after hospital treatment was able to go home.

Candid Weather Man

This is R. A. (Rube) Hornstein, officer in charge of the Dominion Public Weather Office in Halifax, who discusses what makes the weather, and why, in the broadcast series "Ask the Weatherman", heard Sunday evenings at 6.20 on the CBC. In his program he debunks — or upholds — old weather theories handed down through the centuries, and gives colorful, up-to-date explanations of anything from drizzle to hurricanes and Chinooks. For seven years he has broadcast a similar program for Maritime listeners.

Farm Boy Friend Of Injured Horse

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. (CP) — An 11-year-old farm boy enacted his own version of the movie, "My Friend Flicka", here this spring.

The boy's teacher at a Korah Township school found a stray horse in his hay field. He told the boy to get it out, and he could keep it.

When the boy brought the animal home, his surprised parents told him to get rid of it. Instead, the youngster took his new pet to a hidden valley, where there was a stream and a hay field. The boy spent his weekly allowance on oats for his horse instead of a show in town.

Then the owner of the hay field found the horse, munching away behind a crude rope and wire corral. He phoned the Humane Society to take it away.

The horse was sold to pay for the hay eaten from the field.

Humane Society officials said the horse had been injured in winter timber hauling operations and turned loose without its owner bothering to treat a five-inch gash in its leg.

The Society would not realease the boy's name, but said he would be rewarded.

But the boy has lost his horse.

entire Western Hemisphere, has recently returned from an extensive tour of Central and South America. Introduced by District Commissioner Linton W. Armstrong, he emphasized briefly in his remarks a few facts and ideals for all concerned. He first urged the boys to realize, they are not merely members of a Troop or a Pack, or even of the rapidly growing Laurentian District, but that they are members of a world-wide organization that counts unmeasurably in character, integrity and brotherhood.

To the leaders he expressed warm appreciation and encouragement to continue their fine work; and to the public he pleaded for a realization of the time, effort, and understanding given by these senior citizens, for the progress of Scouting and the sound development of youth. Such altruism deserved wholehearted sympathy and support.

Philippe Valois, M.P., and W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., graciously bade the visitors welcome to this community and wished success to the Scout and Pack organization.

J. E. Reid of Rosemere, vice-president of the District, and District Commissoner L. W. Armstrong also spoke on various aspects of the work, and during the proceedings Mr. Reid called upon Earle T. Moore (a former Lachute man), to accept a cheque for $1,000, recently voted by the Laurentian District Council towards the maintenance of Camp Tamaracouta. In this camp the Troops of the Laurentian District have been assured accommodation and facilities in future, through the acquisition of adjacent acreage. Mr. Moore acknowledged this contribution from the Laurentian District and spoke highly of the conveniences, the training and the safety record of Tamaracouta.

(From the spectators' viewpoint, the loudspeaker system left much to be desired, but the general gist of the speeches was heard and appreciated in the grandstand seats.)

Maj.-Gen. Spry took the salute, as the Troops and Packs paraded in smart order. The Montreal Scouts' Band played musical interludes and the active "doings" (which were more to the youngsters' liking than those fine sentiments echoed by the p.a. system) provided an interesting program for both onlookers and participants. The crafts included Cub games and gymnastics, semaphore signalling, first aid, camp cooking, a symbolic badge parade and other interesting items.

Maj.-Gen. Spry and a number of visiting guests were entertained at the Golf Club, prior to the afternoon program. Bill Petty, C.F.C.F. recorder-producer, visited the scene to make recordings for radio transcription.

A special welcome was extended to the Troop from the Boys' Farm and Training School of Shawbridge under Scoutmaster J. W. Ross, this being the first Rally they had attended. Mr. A. E. Evans, director of the Boys' Farm, was also present, with Mrs. Evans.

News and Views in Golfing Circles

(Specially Contributed)

The weatherman certainly has been unkind to the local golfing clan. In fact, he has definitely put the axe to the old axiom that it "never rains on a golf course".

However, regardless of the weather, many of the more optimistic and ardent golfers were out on the local course last week-end.

On Saturday everyone in Canada and the U.S.A. was trying to beat Ben Hogan in a nation-wide tournament. Only one local member succeeded, however, and that was Rudy Vermandel with a net 70, one stroke better than Ben Hogan's 71.

On Sunday the President vs Vice-President match was held, with the latter team emerging victorious by the score of 8 to 6. Individual winners in this tournament were as follows:

1st Low Gross — H. M. Kerr and J. L. Reade (tied).
1st Low Net — K. I. Gordon.
2nd Low Net — Bob Hamilton.
Consolation — J. A. Rutherford.

It really was comical to see the boys sloshing around in the rain and the muck; and were they wet when they came in! Rumor has it that Les Thompson tipped the Toledo's at an even 250 pounds when entering the clubhouse. Jimmy and Dave Campbell came close to being drowned and had to have artificial respiration to revive them. Many others presented a sorry sight after their rounds. Such are the trials of the local golfing fraternity.

The two long-hitters of the club, Captain Laurier Carriere and Pro Jack Archer, entered the Quebec Spring Open Tournament, held at Summerlea last week, but had a bit of tough luck and finished out of the prize money. Better luck next time, fellows.

The match and handicap committee announces that the draw for the Jones Cup will be posted on the bulletin board later this week. All members are urged to check the draw to see if they qualified to enter the competition for this coveted trophy.

Lieutenant-Governor Here for Fair Inaugural

Every Provision for Show's Success But Usual Uncertainty in Weather Prospect, 'Variable Cloudiness, Slightly Warmer'

With preliminary events underway yesterday and everything proceeding on program schedule, the inaugural ceremonies of Lachute Spring Fair 1952 take place today (Thursday), with Lieutenant-Governor Gaspard Fauteux in attendance to grace the occasion and to honor the Argenteuil Agriculture Society by officially opening the exhibition.

Lieut.-Gov. Fauteux, Mrs. Fauteux, and Col. C. B. Papineau, Aide de Camp, arrived here last evening (Wednesday) and were extended the hospitality of the Ayers' Company residence at Carling Lake. They were met by an official reception committee as they motored this morning to Lachute — the visitors being escorted from Dalesville by traffic police and by the reception committee, for luncheon at Lachute Golf and Country Club, where guests were presented to Their Excellencies.

Cloudy weather and intermittent rain attended the first unofficial hours of activity, Wednesday morning. On that day, main events were cattle judging and the log-sawing contest, the latter taking place before the grandstand.

It is interesting to note the trends of competition in breeds most favored in this agricultural area. For instance, the Ayrshire entries total 173 cattle, compared to 140 last year, while Holsteins show a decrease of one herd. Beef cattle exhibits are double those of last year. There are three Jersey exhibitors, compared to one last year, and a new breed of cattle as far as the local fair is concerned is the Guernsey, of which three herds are entered this year.

Heavy horses are also entered in considerable strength, while the light horse stables approach the overflow mark.

It is of interest to observe that Messrs. Alf Ayre and R. R. Ness, among the livestock exhibitors, are two of the 33 remaining "originals" who exhibited at the Toronto Royal.

Farm machinery and equipment is occupying considerable display space, with shining new automobiles to catch the eye of interested Fair-goers. There are large exhibits in these lines by Massey Harris, Ford, Cockshutt Ferguson, McCormick and by all the local auto dealers.

The Industrial Building is a centre of attraction, with home crafts gaining in popularity, the quality and volume increasing from year to year. A very large Student Department includes entries from Lachute, Brownsburg and Grenville schools. This display consists of all types of woodwork, handicrafts and home-cooking. The handicraft department, in which competition this year has been opened to the general public, has many excellent specimens of various types of handiwork. Among the variety of quilts, braided and hooked rugs and weaving, one item attracting unusual interest is a gigantic braided rug in a mass of colors. Judges for these entries are Mrs. A. M. S. Lighthall, past-president of the Quebec Provincial Branch of the Handicraft Guild, and Miss L. Stikeman, of the same organization. Miss B. Vrooman and Miss Janet McOuat, of Lachute, are judging the home-cooking, Mrs. T. Bishop the cut flowers, and Mr. Thos. Iddon the potted plants.

Lt.-Col. Ernest Emmett has a contingent of 14 of his Imperial Frontiersmen policing the grounds. Normand has come up with a good quality vaudeville program of four acts, presented twice daily before the grandstand. Committeeman Jas. MacKimmie has a good competitive entry list for the horse track racing, the first harness events taking place this afternoon. The amusements could include nothing more varied or extensive than the Bernard & Barry Shows.

Ordination Into Catholic Priesthood

L'Abbé Clément Laurin, son of Ald. and Mrs. Alcidas Laurin of Lachute, was ordained as a priest last Sunday morning in the church of his home parish, Ste. Anastasie — His Excellency Mgr. Emilien Frenette, Bishop of St. Jerome, conducting the ordination.

The Rev. Laurin, 25 years of age, attended the local St. Viateur College before proceeding to Jean de Brébeuf College for his classical course and the Montreal seminary for theology.

Missing Tot Found Wandering Streets

Shortly after noon last Friday, 2½-year-old Allan Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Rice, was missed from his home on Cottingham Blvd., Mountain View. Parents and neighbors scoured the swamp bordering the West River at the rear of his home, fearing the child might have wandered through the field and fallen in the water. Failing in their search, they notified the town police, and within a few moments a message was phoned to headquarters that a child, crying and apparently lost, had been seen on Hamford Street. The lad, having wandered through unfamiliar streets almost a mile from his home, was returned around 1 o'clock to his grateful parents.

DUAL-PURPOSE ESTABLISHMENT ON MAIN STREET – TOURIST CENTRE AND OFFICE FOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Directors' Decision on Long-Planned Project; Office at Premises of Caisse Populaire

"Industry and Commerce in Lachute"
Contributed by Lachute Chamber of Commerce

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, together with the ex-presidents and chairmen of committees, met at a luncheon in the Golf Club chalet in conclusion of the pre-summer program — not, however, with the idea of suspending activities, but to take stock of the Chamber's progress and to study future projects. In the words of President Horace Lamarche, this was a gesture of appreciation to the active officers and collaborators, and also a social interlude in the business program.

The president, in his welcoming remarks, paid tribute to the charter president, Bertrand L'Heureux, and other preceding presidents, J. B. Menard, J. R. Charron and Dr. R. A. Dumais. He thanked the committee chairmen and all active members for their good work. A word of thanks was also expressed to Jim Lowe for his hospitality at the "Sunset Barbeque" en route to Granby with the recent caravan. Good wishes were extended to Secretary Rod Carreau for his quick return to health and activity.

Treasurer Robt. Marcil presented a financial report, and Miville Trickey reported on progress of the "C.C.C." sales promotion campaign. This was followed by a lively discussion revealing encouraging results. . . .

From an initial membership of 36 merchants, the number participating had now increased to 46. Some of the retailers, during a recent survey, had asserted the premium-coupon scheme had increased their sales by "several hundred dollars a week". Coupons turned in, and premiums claimed by consumers, give ample evidence that the campaign is expanding day by day.

In view of these satisfactory developments, it was unanimously agreed that the Chamber of Commerce should now establish its own special bureau, to fill various purposes, as follows:

(1) As a tourist information centre. (2) As a permanent office for Chamber of Commerce business, including Group Insurance administration. (3) As a coupon-exchange counter. (4) For all other public services within the Chamber's scope and program.

Accordingly, in co-operation with the Caisse Populaire, the Chamber will forthwith occupy space in the latter's premises, 579-A Main Street. (Carpenters are at present making the necessary changes, and a sign, "Tourist Bureau", will shortly appear, designating this office as a public service centre).

Other matters discussed at this meeting included intensified publicity to bring new industries to Lachute, and the importance of developing the tourist business in this area.

POLICE FORCE IN SUMMER UNIFORMS

The members of Lachute Police Department appeared this week in new summer uniforms of khaki gabardine, which should contribute to their comfort in warm weather. The personnel above in these smart outfits are — Cst. O. Sabourin, Chief D. Villeneuve and Asst. Chief W. Lepine. The uniforms were purchased out of the Police Fund, for which the department sponsors a public entertainment each winter season.

Premier Lauds Forestry Conservation Efforts

Gala Day at Harrington for Official Opening Of Canadian International Paper Co. Project

Co-operation – Initiative – Production

Modern Mechanics Obtrude on Nature's Solitude; Idyllic Impression by Watchman Representative

C.I.P. . . . From the initials of the Canadian International Paper Co. Premier Maurice Duplessis wove the theme of his remarks, in declaring the company's Forestry Station at Harrington open last Thursday.

The Premier had nothing but praise for the work performed at the Forest Farm. Here was something after his recommendations, in the many scathing denouncements he had formerly made of waste in Quebec's forest resources. This was something that constituted a natural asset of a permanent nature, not like gold, oil, gas, or even iron ore, which were wasting assets. Co-operation between the people and the government, and between the government and private enterprise. Initiative on the part of private enterprise in co-operation with the government for the benefit of the people. Production to defeat inflation and secure for ourselves the way of life to which we as citizens of this great land of ours are entitled.

There was a large crowd of people to welcome the Premier on his second visit to Argenteuil County within the past year. The setting was beautiful. Even the weatherman combined his efforts with the beauties of nature, to add the lights and colors which limned the magnificent back-drop of trees and shrubs, clothing the towering slope of the distant mountains. The landscape is magnificent and inspiring, stretching upward from the bowl of cultivated soil which surrounds the buildings housing the many activities of the Forestry Station. The poetic splendor of the scene caused the Premier to quote Joyce Kilmar: "Poems are made by fools like me; But only God can make a tree".

A demonstration of mechanical tree-planting was performed by Mr. Duplessis with engaging amusement, a line of several spruce seedlings being sown. Other demonstrations of mechanical log loading, log sawing, forest protection and kindred activities, were on view — and, judging by the behavior of the crowd, hugely enjoyed.

The inauguration addresses were delivered by Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., and Mr. Gilbert Ayers, as well as the Paper Company officials, Mr. Vernon Johnson and Mr. S. L. de Carteret. Into this scene of rustic splendor intruded the mechanics of modern civilization — the flash-bulb, the recording machine, the "mike". P.A. systems blasted the quiet air, with the speakers' words echoing and re-echoing among the trees and down the valley of the Rouge. Refreshments were served on the grounds and heartily enjoyed. Altogether the event was a pleasant and enlightening one.

Four-Year-Old Boy Drowned in Well

When four-year-old John Peter Lalonde, of Ville St. Pierre, was found drowned last Saturday in a well near Lake Sir John, Dr. Jacques Castagner of Brownsburg and Dr. Jules Lafleur of Lachute hurried to the scene, and applied artificial respiration with the Lions Club community inhalator, which was rushed to the spot by George Deacon, of Lachute. The child was found shortly after 4 p.m., and in spite of the doctors' efforts over a period of one hour, he failed to revive.

The four-year-old lad was with his parents, spending the day with friends at a summer cottage on the Beatty Road. When his disappearance was noted late in the afternoon, a search around the neighborhood revealed his body at the bottom of a farmhouse well about 200 feet from the camp.

The coroner pronounced a verdict of accidental drowning.

Ticket Sales Stir Interest in Lions' Pro Golf Tourney

Chev Automobile, Star Attraction, on Display

Appearance of the Lions Club automobile at the Lachute Fair Grounds this week is arousing more immediate interest in the annual pro golf tournament of the Greater Montreal district Lions Clubs. This event, although not taking place until August 23-24, has been a matter under detailed preparation by the organizers for some time past, representing — for Lachute and nearby branches of the club — a major fund-raising venture of the season, to enable continuance of the Lions' charitable works.

For Lachute community, the event is an item of outstanding interest because this year the tournament, open to all Quebec members of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association, is taking place at Lachute Golf and Country Club.

The Chevrolet automobile, purchased from the Lachute dealers (Lachute Motor Sales), is to be given away to one of the ticket subscribers, on the Sunday of this big week-end at the Golf Club (6 p.m.). Twenty other awards will be drawn for, and there will be between 75 and 100 door prizes for those attending during either of the two days.

The Lions Clubs participating in this annual tournament venture are those at Lachine, St. Lambert, North Mount, Verdun, Bigras and Lachute; and with the usual wholehearted public support the local club branch anticipates a worthwhile profit for the furtherance of its service work in this community.

Tickets giving eligibility for the automobile are 25c each; a book of four tickets at $1 also gives the bearer admission to the pro golf tournament, which annually attracts star contestants from among the professionals of this province.

Body Found in Grenville Canal

Last Friday morning the body of 18-year-old Omer Bissonnette, of Grenville, was found floating in the canal. The youth had been missing from his home since Wednesday of the previous week, May 28. The grim discovery was made at a point in the canal between the C.N.R. bridge and the Perley interprovincial bridge at Grenville.

Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur was notified here, and Detectives P. Therriault of Lachute and J. Coulombe, of the provincial homicide squad, Montreal, took over the investigation. At the Desforges undertaking establishment in Grenville, an autopsy was performed by Dr. R. Roussel, provincial medico-legal expert, and it is understood that indications pointed to death by drowning. Inquest was withheld pending completion of the police investigation.

Appointments for This Constituency

Official Returning Officer for the County of Argenteuil in the coming provincial election is Notary Jacques Beaudoin, of Lachute, with M. Trayers, of Brownsburg, as secretary and election clerk. For the County of Two Mountains, Notary J. A. Charrette has been appointed.

There will be a bilingual staff comprising the Misses Marlene Trayers, Louise Laurin, Jacqueline Filion and Yolande Filion.

Persons unable to obtain information at their party headquarters may contact Notary Beaudoin at his office, 576 Main Street, Lachute.

61.6 per cent of Canadians are urban dwellers and 38.4 per cent are rural dwellers. In 1901 the percentages were almost exactly reversed.

Council to Confer On Proposal for Joint Incinerator

Project Suggested for Three Municipalities Reaches Study Stage

Lachute Town Council, at its regular session last week, decided to confer with Ayersville and Brownsburg municipalities on the possibilities of constructing an incinerator for joint use of the three communities. The move was precipitated by a petition from Mountain View residents protesting conditions at the existing garbage dump. It was accordingly moved by Ald. Dr. Jules Lafleur, seconded by Ald. Ernest Provost, that the secretary be requested to write the two neighboring municipalities to glean their opinion on this subject, and also to make enquiries concerning the cost of construction.

Police Chief D. Villeneuve was authorized to officially represent the corporation at this year's conference of Quebec Police and Fire Chiefs, to be held at Granby on July 7-10 inclusive.

On the proposal of Ald. Stanley Holt, supported by Ald. Ludger Gibeault, it was decided that two members of the Imperial Frontiersmen be engaged by the town as special constables for duration of the Exhibition, to assist the local police in maintenance of order and regulation of traffic.

Request for sewerage and water installation on Sydney Street, between Mary Street and Barron Avenue, was presented by Gaétan Leclerc. It was decided the petition, when complete, would be accepted for study on the agenda of a special meeting. Another request was placed by Wenceslas Chenier, for construction of a sidewalk on Isabella Street, between Grace and Bedard Blvd.

On motion of Ald. E. Provost, seconded by Ald. S. Holt, a tender by L. J. Dumais Reg. to supply 25 tons of Welsh coal, was accepted.

Request for an increase in salary, from Jacques Poitras, assistant secretary, was tabled for consideration — this request being granted forthwith on the council's adjournment to private session in the secretary's office, Ald. A. Laurin proposing and Ald. W. S. MacKimmie seconding the motion.

It was further moved by Ald. E. Provost, supported by Ald. S. Holt, that a tender of $185 from Anders Paulsen for planting and maintenance of the Memorial Park, be duly accepted.

It was agreed, on motion of Ald. Gibeault and Ald. MacKimmie, that the secretary's office be closed for business all day Saturday from July 1 to August 31, also closed on Saturday afternoons from June 1 up to that period, and to September 15 following that period.

Evaluators appointed to revise the property valuation roll will be Messrs. Lucien St. Jacques, R. P. Fraser and Omer Laurin, with Mr. Mahon of Dunany as substitute.

The session was under the presidency of Mayor Jas. W. McGibbon, all councillors being in attendance with the exception of Ald. Judes Charlebois.

Interprets Stocks And Securities in Everyday Terms

'Bill' Price Speaker At Lions Club Regular Session

An old friend of past Victory Loan campaigns, Mr. William Price, of Montreal, returned to Lachute to address a meeting of the Lions Club, held at the Laval (Joly) Hotel. The assembly was under chairmanship of Bertrand L'Heureux, vice-president, in the absence of President Geo. Tattersfield.

"Bill" Price, of the firm of Spence, Price & Co. and representative of the Bond and Investment Dealers Association, brought the subject of "Securities and Stocks" down to terms of the average citizen, defining the difference between Investment and Speculation, which represent, in general, Security on the one hand and Risk on the other. Purchases are made through an investment dealer or a stock broker who, he insisted, should be members of the Investment Dealers Association of Canada or of a recognized Stock Exchange, or both.

The investment dealer is concerned mainly with bringing together the supply of capital and the demand for it, through the merchandising of new bond or stock issues. In the process he acts as financial advisor to the company or government body requiring the capital funds, and has a good deal to do with the creation of new securities. At the same time he is responsible for the distribution of these securities to those with capital to invest, and in so doing acts as their consultant with regard to their individual investment requirements.

Local Entries Score At Ormstown

Ayrshire cattle and Clydesdale horses from this vicinity took high honors in the results at Ormstown Fair last week.

J. P. Bradley & Son, of Lachute Road, are listed for many awards in the Ayrshire judging. . . Among other triumphs, their Carnell Lawrence was reserve senior and reserve grand champion bull. Among 3-5 year old cows (dry), Brookview Charm was 3rd junior yearling. Brookview Deidre 1st junior heifer calf. Brookview Pride 3rd 3-4 year old cow in milk, and Glengarry Wonderful 3rd aged cow in milk. Morin & Bradley's Brookview Lawrence ranked 2nd among junior yearling males.

Among the groups, Bradley also won 3rd for dairy herd and progeny of dam, and 4th for junior get of sire.

D. A. Rodger, of Lachute, ranked 3rd in the Ayrshire breed 2-year-old males with Brookview Golden Anchor.

A. T. Cleland, of St. Hermas, showing his Clydesdales, took 1st in light draft team, 1st and 2nd in yeld mares, 2nd in progeny of dam, also the grand champion stallion in this breed. C. Young (Bristol) and Cleland won 2nd place with four-horse team and 2nd with six-horse team — Young taking 1st award with Purebred Clyde team.

Young Cabinet-Makers Show Their Skill

Gatineau LINES

Extending the Power Lines

Gatineau Power is now serving 71,000 customers, almost double the number of five years ago, but we are still extending our lines as the demand for service continues to grow. This summer, many extensions will be made by our crews, some of them large, some small.

It is well to remember that a lot of time and planning has to go into every extension, no matter how small. Hundreds of different items, from poles and wire to insulators and crossarm screws, have to be assembled from many different places just at the right time so the line crews can work efficiently.

Very rarley does it happen that the power company can put through an extension as soon as the application is received.

Right now, in fact, the extensions we are putting in are, in most cases, those for which applications were received last year. We trust those who have made more recent applications will have patience, and realize that their requests are not being overlooked even when it may appear that nothing is happening.

Gatineau Power Company

At the end of 1950 there were $8,646,000,000 of foreign investments in Canada — $6,565 million from the U.S. and $1,723 million from the U.K.

Missing persons reported to the police in Canada in 1950 totalled 9,921, an average of about 28 persons a day; in that year police located 8,820 missing persons.

Meeting Discusses Grass Silage

Grass silage was the subject for discussion at a meeting of farmers held recently at Lachute High School, and attended by Professors Raymond and Steppler of the agronomy department, Macdonald College; Keith Russell, Agriculture teacher at L.H.S.; also Alex Bothwell, district agronomist, who arranged the meeting.

Prof. Raymond showed the change which had taken place in relation to cost of feed and returns to the farmer over the past 10 years. He then pointed out that the best and cheapest feed with reference to protein content could be obtained by storing the herbage as grass silage.

The questions asked were answered by both Prof. Raymond and Prof. Steppler, and ranged over almost every phase of farming, but eventually came back to grass silage. Scepticism was evident in many of the questions, but all felt that they had gained some additional knowledge.

A few of the farmers present had made grass silage and their experiences added much to the discussion.

Growth Stimulants For Poultry

During the past few years, several compounds which are apparently not essential nutrients, have been found to possess remarkable growth-promoting powers for chickens. The use of these compounds has meant a saving of thousands of dollars to the poultry industry, says T. M. MacIntyre, Poultry Nutritionist, the Experimental Farm, Nappan, N.S.

The most important of these are the antibiotics which are chemicals secreted by certain micro-organisms to protect them from other micro-organisms. The use of minute traces of these antibiotics in starter and growing rations results in gains of 10 to 15 per cent over that obtained with regular rations containing no antibiotics.

Other compounds which show growth promoting powers when included in the rations of growing chickens are certain derivatives of arsonic acid and certain surface active agents similar to many of our common laundry soaps.

Just how these compounds act to give a boost to growth is not entirely clear. Antibiotics, as the name implies, are capable of destroying certain micro-organisms, and one theory suggests that they destroy harmful bacteria in the intestines. It is not clear that this is their main or only function, however. The way in which these compounds act to promote growth is still largely a matter of conjecture.

Poultrymen should exercise caution in the use of these growth promoters, and should not demand their inclusion in feeds except on the advice of experienced nutritionists. Mr. MacIntyre points out that there is some evidence that certain micro-organisms become immune to certain antibiotics, the use of which may lead to the development of very virulent types of bacteria, resulting in new problems in disease control. The use of arsonic acid derivatives and surface active agents is condemned by some workers because of the meagre knowledge of their long-term effects on both animals and humans.

It is generally recognized that antibiotics may be used successfully and economically for growing chickens, particularly broilers, but no benefits have been reported with mature stock, or laying or breeding hens.

Gross farm income in 1951 reached an all-time high of $3,608.6 million. This reflects the record returns from the sale of farm products and income and a high value of year-end changes in farm-held stocks of grain and livestock.

Curing of Hay

While much attention has been given to the various methods which may be adopted in handling the hay crop, the actual curing process is probably the most important factor involved in final hay quality. And unless one is equipped for barn-curing the factors which will affect the curing process are the same regardless of how it might be handled.

Care in raking, for instance, can often make quite a difference. It is desirable to rake into straight, even windrows so that the hay will dry uniformly and large bunches, which tend to remain green at the centre, will be avoided. These green, damp bunches may, also, cause overloading of harvesters or balers and subsequent time-loss due to breakdown.

In dropping long hay into a barn from a hay fork, labor can often be saved by spreading the hay through a system of planks or poles which deflect it towards the sides of the mow. This also reduces packing below the hay fork and makes for better curing along the centre of the mow.

In dealing with chopped hay only long lengths should be placed in the mow. Hay in short, two-inch lengths will form a dense mass in the mow and will spoil unless it is extremely dry. Hay cut in four-inch lengths can be stored in the same condition as uncut (loader) hay. Cut hay should not be walked or tramped on.

Baler hay can be stored in stacks or mows when it is cured in the same manner as long hay gathered with a hay loader. Spacing bales about two inches apart may aid in curing. If harvested or baled too soon, as is not infrequently the case, baled hay may heat severely when placed in storage.

Blind Students at Electrical School

In a Montreal basement, men who live in darkness are proving each week that people with only four senses have much to offer the workaday world.

These men are students at the Electrical School of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and, by using their sharpened senses of touch and hearing, they are proving that the blind are capable of activities formerly considered outside their scope.

The school's 28 students who meet at the C.N.I.B. headquarters every Tuesday night are learning to rewind motors, assemble all kinds of switches, prove and test circuits, scrape outlet wires and generally to handle many types of electrical work. Where the sighted would use their eyes, the blind use equipment with special sound devices.

The object of the school is to equip blind persons for a wider range of positions in industry. Even at this early stage the Employment Department of the Institute reports that some of the men have been placed in the electrical field. The teachers claim that they are good bets for a great number of assembly and sub-assembly jobs in modern industry.

The school was started last October and the course will take two years to complete. So far it has concentrated on theory, patiently explained in both French and English, and on a limited supply of electrical equipment.

The chief instructor is George Maniate, who with a Montreal journalist, Miss Anita Fontaine, initiated the idea of having a school of electricity. Mr. Maniate is aided by his brother assistants, Mathieu Gourdeau and Fernand Ouelette. All the staff give their time freely and their satisfaction is in seeing the progress of their students.

Cutworms Menace On B.C. Farms

Report One of Worst Plagues In History of Province

Victoria (CP)—Farmers throughout British Columbia are battling one of the worst plagues of cutworms ever experienced in the province.

The cutworms have taken a heavy toll of crops and plants on Vancouver Island and in farming areas on the mainland, it is reported.

Damage is expected to be heavy unless the plague is brought immediately under control.

A. T. Wilkinson, entomologist, Canada department of agriculture, confirmed that the cutworms were definitely a menace.

As many as 22 bugs have been found on one plant, he said. Normally not more than two cutworms are found around a single plant.

Ben Hoy, provincial horticulturist, reported that in farming areas at Lillooet and Chase cutworm damage to field tomatoes has been particularly heavy.

In the Okanagan valley the cutworms have mowed down 80 per cent of some crops. Asparagus fields have suffered badly from the pests.

Mr. Hoy said local growers and home gardeners have also suffered from the cutworms.

Bill Mattick, one of the large growers in this area, said he has never seen anything like it in his lifetime.

"We discovered one night 50 cutworms around one hill of beans", he said. "It is not uncommon to find 20 cutworms to a plant".

Election Issues

FROM speeches already made by both Union Nationale and Liberal party leaders, the Quebec provincial election issues are fairly well set.

The Union Nationale, as in past campaigns, will voice opposition to Federal taxation proposals. Mr. Duplessis has frequently said that the Federal government got the lion's share of taxation revenues while the provinces and municipalities did not get enough.

An indication that the Premier will ask voters to "look at the record" may be found in frequent references to his government's achievements in the province's industrial expansion.

Liberals have stated they will campaign on a platform of "social justice", charging the Union Nationale is anti-labor and has been on a spending spree, awarding public works contracts to party friends and paying them exhorbitant rates.

It is expected "in reliable quarters" that both the Union Nationale and the Liberal party will be represented in all counties when nominations close July 9 in all but four ridings. (In Abitibi East, Abitibi West and Magdalen Islands, nomination day is July 7. In Saguenay it is July 2).

The Unconvincing Index

WHEN THE Bureau of Statistics announced another drop in the cost-of-living index during April, it should have been heartening news to the man-in-the-street. But quite understandably, Mr. Man failed to register any notable encouragement. The reason is, obviously, that he has been fed too long on a theoretical index which was never reconcilable with the mounting drain upon his pocket book.

This represents the fourth drop in a row, and the average taxpayer still remains unimpressed — being a taxpayer, and taxes ever mounting, in a manner which the index fails to indicate.

The cost-of-living index is based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100. It dropped from 188.7 to 186.7 in March (when the United States index was 187.7). It has slid from its peak of 191.5 as at last December.

The latest recession is explained by "lower prices for butter, lard, shortening, beef, bacon, veal and oranges." Other price drops were seen (but not noticeably here!) in "furnishings, electric goods, footwear, men's wear, cleaning supplies, automobile tires, soap, tobacco products, magazines, barbers' fees and street-car fares".

Taxation

FEW, IF ANY, Canadians are aware of how much of their income is paid out in taxes. Because of the complexities of the tax system and the inherent difficulties of computing the necessary information, it is not surprising that this situation exists. The personal income tax is the tax that most everyone has in mind when they complain of the heavy burden of taxation, but personal income taxes account for only 25% of the revenue of the Federal Government. Whether we recognize it or not, virtually everyone pays in total much more in hidden or indirect taxes than they do in direct personal income tax. This fact, plus the policy of deducting tax from employees' pay cheques, makes taxation something quite remote and mysterious. The average Canadian just does not know what is happening in the field of taxation.

According to a recent issue of "Newsweek", cited in the current news letter of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, more than 800 Home Office employees of the Washington National Insurance Company, Evanston, Ill., recently received with their pay cheques simulated "dollar bills" equal in amount to the tax bite withheld from their pay. The scheme was thought up by the firm's Junior Management Council, a group that studies Company problems and submits recommendations to the Board of Directors. It is suggested that there might be merit in this arrangement, for all employers to bring home to employees the fact that their pay cheque is not what the Company is paying them, but what the Company is paying them less a long list of deductions, the chief of which is taxation. This would dramatize an increasingly important problem.

Home Gardening

JUNE is the month of home gardeners — says our lively contemporary, "The Printed Word". They get started late in May, but it is in June they reach their peak. Later the hotter weather tends to slow activity and dull enthusiasm, but in June they are out in force (every day they don't have to attend a wedding). Many may be nature-lovers at heart, but it is health rather than horticulture that attracts most of them. What better way to get a bit of exercise? And you don't even have the trouble of driving out to the golf club!

June gardening is welcomed by health-loving menfolk. Wives vote for it too. For one thing it is nice to have the house looking pretty and the flower-beds tidy and blooming. It is also important to have a few inches removed from hubby's waistline before seams have to be let out or gussets employed. The family doctor is cheered at the propect. Beaten down by six months of midnight calls for coughs, sore throats and other winter ailments, he sighs with crossed fingers at the idea of his patients healing themselves with sunshine and mild exercise.

Most cheerful of all, perhaps, are the garden-tool people who gain satisfaction from having presented long-suffering mankind with sprinklers that not only avoid the tedium of standing with a hose, but "walk" around the lawn themselves on a prescribed course and shut themselves off automatically at the end of the operation, motorized lawnmowers to save the strain of pushing (the big ones can also be hitched up to pull the roller), electric hedge-shears that make an afternoon's trimming job as simple and speedy as a morning's shave. They have also provided one-wheeled miniature mowers for trimming lawn-edges to avoid the tiresome business of hand-snipping, and if you insist on using snippers, they have them equipped with three-foot handles to prevent unnecessary weariness from stooping. The chemists, of course, have made weed-removal by hand a subject for horticultural history books.

Well Dressed

GENERALLY speaking, the average Canadian family manages to keep pretty well dressed.

According to 'Wool Digest', an internationally-known trade publication, the people of this country use clothing textiles at a rate 3¼ times the world average. Only the people of the United States exceed this rate of use.

Canadians use more wool than their U.S. neighbors, but less than the British, but lead the British, and follow the U.S. in cotton consumption. In use of rayon cloth Canada is again second, behind the U.S., but ahead of the U.K.

Naturally enough North Americans lead the people of all other continents — Europe, Central and South America, Asia and Africa — by a wide margin.

For anyone interested: Russians use less textiles than the per capita world average, and about one-quarter of the amount consumed by Canadians.

REFRESHER courses in driving and periodic re-examination of drivers should be adopted throughout the country and must be, if we are to hope for any material reduction in traffic accidents—remarks the Pembroke (Ont.) Standard-Observer. . . . We are reluctant to add, however, Quebec Province does not understand that sort of language.

"THINGS AN' STUFF"

JUST SUPPOSIN'

Suppose, instead of planting seeds,
The farmers went for raising weeds —
If weeds that now take up the ground
Were worth 'bout seven bucks a pound —
If cabbages, and peas, and beans
And other kinds of luscious greens
Potatoes, beets and carrots too
Were of no earthly use to you,
Then gardening would be a pleasure
With no more work and lots of leisure.

"My dandelions are doing fine"
Said Farmer Jones. "No crop like mine
Is seen this year in these here parts.
Last week I took in forty carts!
My burdocks too are doing great —
I'm selling every single crate.
With Devil's Paint Brush coming in
First prizes I am sure to win!"

"You're lucky", said his neighbor, Brown.
"My daisy crop has got me down.
They're crowded out by cauliflowers
And I've spent many precious hours
By weeding turnips out by hand
Before they crowd out all the land.
My wife and daughters want new furs —
I started raising cockleburs
But I'm afraid they are a flop
Because of the potato crop.
I can't get rid of them at all
So they won't get their furs next fall!"

If weeds were things to be desired,
If they would bring in money,
Then every farmer would be rich
And live on milk and honey.
But in the meantime, plant your spuds,
Peas, beans, and corn — we need 'em,
And all we have to do to weeds
Is just get down and weed 'em!

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt.

Hubby Should Help With Sunday Dinner

Ipswich, England (CP) — Husbands should help their wives get away from "gravy and steam" on Sunday mornings, says the Rev. Brynley Junes, vicar of St. Matthew's Church.

The vicar, married and father of four children, writes in his parish magazine he has nothing against a cooked mid-day dinner on Sunday — "but is it essential to spend the whole morning peeling potatoes, boiling cabbage and roasting what there is to roast?"

Help from husbands, the vicar says, would bring a "little more graciousness" into a wife's life.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you: —

Q. Why are nurses working in religious institutions not insurable while those working in civilian hospitals are insurable?

A. The Act excludes employment in a hospital which is not operated for purpose of gain, unless the hospital elects to insure the employees. Whether a hospital is operated by a religious body or some other body is therefore immaterial, provided in either case it is not operated for purpose of gain. The only hospitals in which nurses must be insured are those operated for purpose of gain; for example, private nursing homes.

* * *

Q. A worker who is unemployed reports to the employment office where he is offered regular employment comparable to the work he was doing previously. If he refuses this employment is he disqualified for six weeks? Six weeks later he is offered the same employment which he refused the first time. What happens if he refuses again?

A. If an unemployed worker refuses without good cause an offer of suitable employment, he may be disqualified for a period up to six weeks. If on expiry of the disqualification period he again refuses to accept it without good cause, he may again be disqualified for a period up to six weeks. This will happen as often as he refuses an offer of suitable employment without good cause.

Promises should be made with caution and kept with certainty.

DENOUNCES CONTROLS

Montreal (CP) — Abolition of all rental controls was urged in a resolution unanimously adopted by the Property Owners League of Montreal. Councillor Paul Bertrand, sponsor of the motion, said the housing situation would be normal again only after rental control is abolished.

In the last year 16,000 workers in Canada's textile industries have been discharged and most of the remaining 90,000 are on short time. This unemployment has not resulted from a decrease in textile purchases but from increased imports of cheap goods.

Mrs. James Timmins and little daughter, Gayle, of St. Laurent, were guests last week, returning home on Sunday with Mr. Timmins, who was a week-end guest. Mr. and Mrs. Carty Leduke, of St. Eugene, Ont., were Sunday guests at the Barron home.

Miss Eleanor Owens, of Ottawa, was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Owens.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stote and Mr. Cedric Stote, of Stanbridge East, are guests this week of the Rev. and Mrs. P. R. Stote at the rectory.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Mimee motored to Charteris, Que., on Saturday and visited with friends over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Cogdell, of Montreal, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Dewar.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Scharf and son, Bruce, of Ottawa, were guests of Mrs. G. C. Conway for the holiday week-end.

Mrs. Walter Bigelow and sons, Keven and Wayne are spending a couple of weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Corl Gauley. Mr. Bigelow accompanied his family here, returning to his home in Senneterre, Que., on Sunday. Other guests at the Gauley home over the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Birch, of Hammond, Ont., Mr. Arthur Goslin, of Galetta, Ont., and Mrs. W. Jones, of Montreal, who is here on a two weeks' holiday.

Weir

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Owen, with their little daughter, paid a brief visit here last week-end and were accompanied home by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Owen, who will spend a few days with them at their home in Wrightville.

Master John Craig, of Valois, Que., spent the week-end as guest of the twins Phil and Hugh Williams.

Mrs. John MacLean, of Montreal, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Robt. Williams.

Recent guests at Mr. and Mrs. Harold Craig's included Mrs. E. H. Robinson, of Newmarket, Ont., Miss L. T. Beatty, of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bell and children, of St. Eustache.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Dubeau motored to Montreal to spend the week-end, and were accompanied home by Mrs. Dubeau's mother, Mrs. M. Wylie, who will spend some time here.

Mrs. Jas. Zeigler and her son Buddy, of Nashville, Tenn., accompanied by her mother, Mrs. C. M. Davis, motored here last week to spend a short holiday at the home of her sister, Mrs. M. Waters. Mrs. Davis will remain here for the next few weeks.

Miss Ellen Laraway, of Montreal, arrived last week-end to spend some time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Owen.

Interesting Evening

On Thursday evening Miss Jessie Norris came here from Montreal to show slides on the W.A. Study Book of the year, "Looking South". Miss Norris (who has travelled in South America at different intervals, bringing back several souvenirs, which she had with her on display) won the hearts of all the children, as well as the adults, as she commented on these different mementoes. A silver collection was taken, and refreshments were served by the ladies of the W.A. Mrs. R. B. Henry, of Arundel, thanked Miss Norris for the very interesting and inspiring evening she had provided.

Please keep the date open for the "Maintenance Dance" to be held in the Arundel auditorium, Monday, June 30.

Prize Rooster Met Inglorious End

The Bird that Flew the Coop!

On the eve of Lachute Fair, an immense prize rooster was kidnapped from its pen in the poultry barn. Police officers at the Exhibition did some extensive sleuthing and found the missing bird — of all places, in a valise. Arrests have been made, and the unauthorized owners are now residing as guests of the town. It is stated they are presently a little short of cash — $65 short; that is what the rooster cost them.

Morin Heights

The June meeting of the Guild of Trinity Church was held in the Red Cross room on Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. Millard as hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Gillingham and daughter, Heather Ann, of Montreal, are spending a three weeks' vacation with Mrs. R. D. Boyd.

Messrs. W. R. and Graeme Bell spent the week-end at their home here. Miss Barabara Anderson was also a guest at the Bell home.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Webb and family, of St.-Eustache-sur-le-Lac, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gillingham. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Killock, of Lacolle, also visited with the Gillingham family this week.

John Gillingham, of the R.C.A.F., is here on a 28-day leave.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bennett, accompanied by their daughters, Mrs. Jack McGowans and Miss Grace Bennett, spent the week-end at their cottage.

Brownsburg

Mrs. A. Dowling and Miss Ann Smythe, of Longueuil, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Prosser.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barrie and family were week-end guests of Mrs. E. White.

At the meeting of the Y.P.U., in the United Church last Friday evening, Constable Ronald Elliott, R.C.M.P., and Miss Mavis Kabrud, of Regina, Sask., were guests at a send-off party. Refreshments were served and a pleasant recreational hour was spent.

The Rev. N. H. Brock is in London, Ont., this week attending the annual convention of Regular Baptist Churches of Ontario and Quebec.

Mrs. G. A. Chapman and little son, Gene, of Kettering, England, arrived here Saturday to join Mr. Chapman, who came to Canada a few weeks ago; at present they are guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Smillie.

A number of Women's Missionary Society members of the United Church attended the recent sectional meeting in Lachute United Church, at which the Rev. J. K. Brown, of Montreal, was speaker.

The Mission Circle meeting of the Maple Avenue Baptist Church was held at the home of Mrs. R. H. Morrison on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wilson spent Sunday with relatives in Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Robbins were in Montreal recently attending the convocation at McGill University, when their son, Mr. Maurice Robbins, graduated with the bachelor degree in Electrical Engineering.

The annual service of Laurentian Lodge, No. 14, I.O.O.F., was held at the United Church last Sunday morning. The Rev. S. J. Pike, minister of the church and chaplain of the Lodge, conducted the service. There were also some members in attendance from Montreal lodges.

The many friends of Mr. Jas. Cunningham and Mr. Chas. Kennedy, patients in the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, wish them a speedy recovery.

Miss Shirley Gagné, who has been a patient in the Montreal General Hospital, is expected home this week.

Sympathy is extended to the relatives of the late Roland Lafleur, who was accidentally killed last week while loading logs on his truck.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul MacDougall, of Ottawa, were week-end guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Hazel. . . O.S.C.R.S. Russell Hazel, of H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, N.S., is also spending his leave at his home here.

Women's Institute

The June meeting of the W.I. was held in the school on Thursday evening last. The report of the recent annual county convention was given by Mrs. C. L. Stephens.

"In Canada today there are 54,000 patients in our mental hospitals — as many as occupy beds in all the general hospitals." This interesting problem was brought before the W.I. in a talk by Mrs. S. M. Istvanffy, B.Sc., R.N., who told some of her experiences in psychiatric nursing to give a more realistic and optimistic view of what a mental hospital is like. Stress was placed upon the need for a more enlightened attitude toward the problem of mental and emotional health, and prevention in this field.

Mabel

Miss Audrey Townsend, of New Toronto, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Ross Townsend.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Warwick, Mr. Harold Warwick and Miss Elinor Warwick, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Clark.

Messrs. Bobby Tomalty, Elmer Stewart, Clarence Mott and John Clark were among those from this district who attended the Ormstown Fair on Saturday. Mr. Keith Russell arranged the trip for his Agriculture students from Grenville, Brownsburg and Lachute schools.

Several residents from here attended the official opening of the C.I.P. Forest Farm at Harrington on Thursday, and report a very pleasant outing, which was interesting as well as educational. The weather was perfect; in that particular spot Nature was at her best, and everything was done by those in charge to make the event an outstanding success.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas MacCullough were week-end guests of Mrs. George Murdoch.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Jackson and children, of Lachute, visited Mr. and Mrs. Perley Clark on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. David McDonald, of Verdun, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Murdoch.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Tomalty and sons have taken up residence at their farm here. Friends and neighbors welcome them to the community.

How Can I Start An Investment Programme?
A
By Planned Savings Through Life Insurance.
The basis of an investment plan in most cases should be life insurance. It meets in a sound and regular way the real objectives of investment — savings for the future, a retirement income and money for your family should anything happen to you. What is more, life insurance achieves these ends economically and without worry or risk. Discuss with a Mutual Life of Canada representative a life insurance investment plan for your future.

Several Applications for Hearings Received by Agriculture Commisson

Group Under Justice Georges Héon Has Newly Established Quarters in Montreal

The recently formed Agricultural Commission under appointment of the Quebec Government held its 14th meeting last week, in its function of "protecting the legitimate interests of both farmers and consumers" — reports Fred Kauffman in the Montreal Star.

Headed by Judge Georges Héon (formerly of Lachute and ex-M.P. for this constituency) the commission is made up of Antonio Larue, of Neuville, and Abel Marion, from the Eastern Townships. J. A. Auclair, notary, has been named secretary.

New headquarters for the commission, provided at 31 St. James St. West, afford space for an augmented staff; and the commissioners are confident that the pace of the inquiry will advance from this point.

Created by a provincial statute passed at the last session of the Legislature, the commission will concern itself with "problems relating to the production, sale and distribution of agricultural products", as well as with "the protection of the respective legitimate interests of farmers and consumers."

This latter aspect is emphasized by the commissioners because, as stated at their last meeting the interests of both groups are closely linked and "there is much misunderstanding on the part of the public on this matter."

To Gather Information

The commissioners first propose to gather as much information as possible about the various phases of their study. By autumn, it is hoped, they will be ready to start public hearings and "anybody who feels he has anything relevant to say, will get a chance to say it", Judge Héon promised.

Several applications for hearings have been received from a variety of public bodies, as well as private parties. To facilitate such groups, meetings probably will be held outside Montreal.

To aid the commission in "collecting the facts", the legislation provides that the body "may compel to appear before it and interrogate all persons it believes to be in a position to supply it with useful documents or information and, should the case arise, compel them to produce such documents".

Prices to Be Studied

Under the terms of reference, the commission is also expected to make suggestions concerning possible steps which could be taken by the Provincial Legislature to "promote the establishment, in respect of agricultural commodities, of prices fair to farmers and consumers alike."

But in this phase the commissioners face a legal problem. Two cases, dealing with similar legislation, are before the courts — the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council and the Supreme Court of Canada. Therefore, the commissioners feel, it will be their best course to await the outcome of these cases before entering into this aspect of their study.

Many Items Listed

Other items to be discussed include:

1. The selection and development of the agricultural products best suited to the requirements of consumers and the needs of the market;

2. The classification of such products . . . so as to facilitate the disposal and safeguard their due place on the market;

3. Methods of organizing the sale of agricultural products . . . to ensure to farmers a fair price . . . without encroaching on the rights of consumers;

4. Outside competition affecting the markets;

5. The obtaining of new outlets for produce;

6. The elimination of needlessly costly methods of distributing agricultural commodities, and;

7. The situation of the dairy industry and the problems with which it is faced.

Commissioner Larue is prefect of Portneuf County and Commissioner Marion is a vice-president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

A Long Delayed Meeting

A college thesis was responsible for a long delayed meeting in Montreal recently between the Russian scientist who designed and built the world's first diesel-electric locomotive (shown above) and the vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The story began when N. R. Crump (right), now vice-president of the C.P.R., was studying for his Bachelor of Science degree at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., and was renewed in 1936 while Mr. Crump was locomotive foreman at Moose Jaw, Sask., and was working on his thesis for his Mechanical Engineer's degree. His subject, "Internal Combustion Engines in the Railroad Field", was one that required a study of facts that were almost unobtainable at that time. Mr. Crump turned to the reports of Dr. George Vladimir Lomonosoff (left), a Russian mechanical engineer who had designed a diesel locomotive as early as 1909, and had one in operation in 1923, to get the information he needed. The 76-year-old Dr. Lomonosoff, whose son is a resident engineer with the Montreal Locomotive Works, has been living so quietly in Montreal for the past two years, that it was only recently that Mr. Crump learned of his presence in the city and arranged an interview. Modern C.P.R. diesel electric locomotive built by the Montreal Locomotive Works is shown in the picture behind Dr. Lomonosoff and Mr. Crump.

"The die has now been cast"

An American manufacturer was planning to open a plant in Canada. He considered various locations and found what seemed a likely site. He talked to a local bank manager, got facts about the community and its facilities.

Some time later the company wrote to the banker:

"The die has now been cast. It is our intention to locate in S . . . We feel that it is well suited to our particular operation. You have been of great aid to us. Your accurate and rapid presentation of facts necessary to reach a decision was top-notch."

Women's Interests -- The Homemaker's Section

Veal Is Headliner On Current Menus

Veal can be the headliner for your menus this month. It is in good supply at present, and quite reasonably priced. The home economists of the Consumer Section at Ottawa tell us that since veal is not sold according to grade, it is an advantage to be able to judge the quality of the meat by its appearance. Good quality veal should be greyish pink, firm and fine grained, and there should be a fair amount of creamy white fat on it. The bones should be reddish in color and fairly soft and porous.

The home economists have found that many homemakers do not serve veal very often, not because they do not like it but because they do not know which cuts to buy or, for that matter, what the cuts actually are. The home economists, always alert to the needs of the consumer, offer some very timely information. They say that veal carcasses are not always cut up the same way, but list some of the cuts that are usually found in the butcher shop. First of all, there are three kinds of chops — loin, rib and shoulder. There are two kinds of steak, one from the top of the leg, which corresponds to the round steak in beef, and the other from the shoulder. The ever popular veal cutlets are small pieces of boneless veal which are usually taken from the leg, too. There are several types of roasts. First, there is leg of veal. The bone is usually removed from the leg, which leaves a slit or pocket all ready to fill with well-seasoned bread stuffing. Then there are rump and sirloin roasts. The butcher may also sell loin roasts but usually the loin is cut into chops. Last but not least there are the lower priced roasts from the front quarter, the breast and shoulder roasts. Sometimes the whole front is boned and rolled then cut into roasts of three to four pounds.

There is a right and wrong way to do most things and there is a right and wrong way to cook veal. The right way is to cook it slowly and cook it long enough. It is hard to understand why veal needs long cooking since it comes from a young animal, but the home economists point out that there is considerable connective tissue in veal which does not become tender quickly. Actually, veal takes longer to cook than beef. It is never served rare as beef very often is because the meat is not tender until it is well done. That is why veal should be roasted longer than other meats. It should be roasted to the point where the meat thermometer reaches 180°F., which means allowing 40 to 45 minutes for each pound. In other words, a four pound roast needs two and three-quarters to three hours cooking. Most of the cuts of good quality veal can be roasted, that is, cooked in an uncovered pan without water. The temperature to use is the same as for other meats, that is, 325°F., or in other words, a moderately slow oven. Here is another point about roasting veal. Before putting the roast in the oven, put several pieces of bacon over the top of it or cover the top with bacon fat. This gives the meat a very good flavor. At the same time it adds the extra fat that most veal needs to make enough drippings so that the roast can be basted occasionally while it is cooking.

Here is the way the home economists suggest cooking veal chops. Cutlets and veal steaks are cooked in the same way. To begin with, the chops may be breaded by dipping them in crumbs, egg and then crumbs again or they may be simply dipped in seasoned flour. Next, they are browned in just enough hot fat to keep them from sticking to the pan. Bacon fat is good to use because it gives the veal more flavor. After three to five minutes browning, the chops should be covered and cooked slowly, either on top of the stove or in a 325°F. oven until the meat is tender. Chops about one-half inch thick will need about 12 minutes cooking on each side or about 25 minutes altogether. Steaks and cutlets the same thickness should take slightly more cooking, about 15 minutes on each side. The reason for covering the pan is, of course, to keep the meat moist. Another way to cook the chops is to add some liquid, well-seasoned tomato juice for example, to the pan after the chops are browned. Then the pan is covered and the meat cooked until tender.

Breaded Veal Cutlets

1 Egg, 2 tablespoons water, salt and pepper, 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning (optional), ¾ cup fine dry bread crumbs, 6 veal cutlets (or chops) ½" thick, fat or drippings.

Combine slightly beaten egg and water. Add salt, pepper and poultry seasoning to bread crumbs. Dip cutlets in crumbs, then egg and then crumbs again.

Top of Stove: Brown breaded cutlets on both sides about 5 minutes in hot fat or dripping, using a heavy frying pan. Cover and continue cooking until done, about 25-30 minutes, turn occasionally.

Oven Method: Brown breaded cutlets on both sides in hot fat or dripping in a heavy frying pan, about 5 minutes. Cover and bake in a moderately slow oven, 325°F., until done, about 15 minutes on each side. Serves 6.

* * *

Veal Birds

1½ to 2 pounds veal steak (about ½ inch thick), salt and pepper, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, ½ teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, ½ teaspoon savoury, 2 tablespoons melted fat, ½ cup diced celery, 1 - 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, flour, fat, ¼ - ½ cup water.

Cut veal in pieces approximately 2" x 4" and pound to flatten. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. combining bread crumbs, salt, pepper, savoury, melted fat, celery and onion. Roll and tie securely. Roll veal birds in flour. Yield: 9 to 12 birds.

Top of Stove: Brown meat on all sides in hot fat in heavy frying pan. Add ½ cup water, cover and simmer until meat is tender, about 45-55 minutes. Use drippings in pan to make gravy.

Oven Method: Brown meat on all sides in hot fat in a heavy frying pan or roasting pan. Add ¼ cup water, cover and bake in a moderately slow oven, 325°F., until done, about 1½ hours.

Handicraft Exhibit At Q.W.I. Convention

A handicraft exhibit will be featured again this year at the annual provincial convention of the Quebec Women's Institutes. This will be arranged in Room 111, Administration Building, Macdonald College, and will be open to the public at 1.30 p.m., Tuesday, June 24, and between all sessions of the convention following.

Any branch that has sponsored a Q.W.I. course has been asked to exhibit four articles made during the year as a result of such a course, and non-members who may have attended the class, may participate in the display. Branches that have not sponsored a course in the past year, are asked to send three articles of any kind of handwork to add to the exhibit.

A new section is planned for this year. Pictures resulting from classes in "Painting for Pleasure", are to be on display and the same rule governs this section, four entries from each class. The pictures must be matted or framed.

This is a display only, not a competition, and is designed to show the quality and variety of work accomplished through the courses offered by the Q.W.I. All articles must be sent to the Q.W.I. office, Macdonald College, not later than the middle of June.

Body Hoards Sugar To Fuel the Brain

A fundamental mechanism that protects the brain's supply of sugar, the only fuel it can use for energy, was described recently at a meeting of the American Society for Clinical Investigation by Dr. Lillian Recant of Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis.

The body obtains its energy for living from two principal types of food fuels — sugar and fats. It can also use protein, the tissue builder, as source of energy. The brain, however, can utilize only sugars for its energy.

Studies reveal that a brain-protecting mechanism functions because of a secretion from the pituitary gland, the master gland situated at the base of the brain.

In experiments on rats, deprived of all food, Dr. Recant observed that a pituitary factor, possibly a hormone, went into action to preserve the sugar supply of the brain, forcing the rest of the body to utilize fats and proteins for its energy, instead of fats and sugar.

Indications are that many abnormal mental conditions are due to improper utilization of the brain's energy fuel — sugar.

Trust Adolescent, Urges Clergyman

Winnipeg (CP) — When Junior is old enough to "try his wings" and asks for the front-door key — trust him.

That's the advice of Rev. Allen Huband of Westminster United Church, Winnipeg.

"The art of bringing up a boy is knowing when to hand over the door key", he said in a sermon.

One of the great privileges and pleasures of being a mother is helping children to understand the complexities of life, he said, and seeing that they are adequately equipped to meet life's situations.

But a happy medium had to be found between the casual "let 'em learn for themselves" and a "possessive matriarchy".

"There comes a time", Dr. Huband said, "when ceaseless instructions and questionings are resented."

"That is the time when the adult is being born, and you have to trust him."

"When the transition is complete, you have your sons and daughters back again, and the bonds of sympathy will be stronger than ever before", he said.

Dr. Huband cited ways in which mothers — and fathers too — should assert themselves.

"Don't abdicate your responsibilities. Make sure your children never have to say 'Mother didn't tell me'."

Suggests Trousseau For Bridegroom Too

London (CP) — Bridegrooms should have a trousseau too, says a 20-page booklet called "Getting Married".

"If a girl can start married life with a useful and attractive wardrobe, surely it's not unreasonable that a man should do so too?"

This is just one of the points raised by the booklet, produced by the National Marriage Guidance Council.

Among other things, advice is given on married manners and stress is laid on the need for courtesy "inside" marriage as well as outside.

"Nothing is more unpleasant than a wife who constantly interrupts her husband — or a husband who does not display to his wife the ordinary little courtesies he shows to others", says the booklet.

Soup Gives Warm Heart to Cool Meals

On a June day, food thoughts turn to a glass of clinking iced tea and a king-size sandwich. But it's a more enjoyable meal if it has a warm heart—like a bowl of vegetable soup.

Satisfying and rich-flavored, soup goes hand in hand with a delectable sandwich. The hot dish gives forth a heavenly fragrance that truly peps up lagging appetites. And it's a cheer-up dish for the cook because the fixing-time is so quick with handy condensed soups right at your fingertips.

Take down a can of soup, vegetable soup for instance. Right away you'll think of so many ways to serve it, so many foods to serve with it. One suggestion is to put in a brightly new flavor by mixing with bouillon or consommé. Just stir together a can each of vegetable soup and one of the other soups, add liquid as usual. That's a rich tempting combination. Special garnishes also give even more variety to vegetable soup. For one idea, try polka dotting it with little cream cheese balls. (Make these by rolling chunks of cream cheese between palms of your hands.)

As you prepare soup, you'll naturally think of this or that perfect sandwich-mate to go with it. Here's a galaxy of sandwiches that team temptingly with the soup that's "a garden in a bowl."

Sandwich "Go-Goods" with Vegetable Soup

Egg salad with chopped green pepper on whole wheat
Yellow cheese with pickle relish.
Boiled ham and mustard on rye

SOUP SCOOPS

Baked stuffed tomatoes are one of the first joys of the summer vegetable crop, even better with a mushroom sauce. To make 6 servings, just remove stem ends from 6 tomatoes and scoop out pulp. Mix the chopped pulp with a little cooked chopped onion and 2½ cups soft bread cubes. Fill tomato shells with mixture and bake in moderate oven about 20 minutes. Make the sauce with 1 can of condensed cream of mushroom soup; mix this with ½ cup milk and simmer till hot. Pour over tomatoes. A supper in itself with cold cuts and hot rolls.

* * *

Pork and beans with kabobs of canned luncheon meat or chunks of frankfurter make a lip-smacking dishful for a backyard picnic. Empty a can of pork and beans into a small casserole. String cubes of meat on skewers, alternating with thin slices of onion and/or pickle. Spread mustard between chunks. Brush all with oil. (Instead of skewers, you can use small green branches from a bush.) Place kabobs on top of beans; cover and bake at 400°F. for ½ hour.

* * *

Tomato Horseradish Sauce is a wonderful topper to give new zest to meatloaf. Make sauce by blending 1 can condensed tomato soup with 2 tablespoons prepared horseradish, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard. Season with a dash of ground cloves and a little black pepper.

Rest is valuable only so far as it is a contrast. Pursued as an end, it becomes a most pitiable condition.

Chandeliers

One question which always seems to puzzle us is, what to do with the large room. With one quick impulse we say, "Let's get a chandelier. With that we will make the room look smaller, and bring down the height of the ceiling."

That is a good idea, but the problem is manyfold:

1. Are you sure that you are getting good light and not cuttting off the supply?

2. Are you sure that it is going to solve your purpose?

3. Are you going to use it for lighting or just as a "dust collector"?

I have enumerated these three ideas; now let us examine them more closely.

1. The type of a chandelier which you buy should be a good source of light. That means, do not put in orange bulbs, which will hurt the eyes, but provide a good means of light, either direct light or indirect light. Most people prefer an indirect light, which will be thrown up to the ceiling, and from there reflected down.

2. Is it really going to solve your problem, or is there another way of solving it? With a simple ceiling light, which is inexpensive, you might be able to get more light, without going to the trouble of selection; then you can, with a few well-placed floor lights, solve your problem more ably and easily.

3. This question is almost self-explanatory. Don't just buy something for the sake of buying it. Make sure that it is bought with a purpose behind it.

One more point that I would like to bring up before I leave this topic — that is, the one of selection, with design. A chandelier can go out of style very quickly. Therefore look around and see what style will not be outmoded in a few years. The best way is to look at some which have stood the time test, and then see why. The reason is probably that they were made with a view of better, more efficient lighting, and not "just as another chandelier".

PENGUINS' BABY-SITTING

(Time Magazine)

Birds have a baby-sitter problem too, and most of them have not solved it. Either mother bird or father bird has to stay at the nest, or else leave the youngsters unguarded. Penguins are better organized, says Ornithologist A. L. Rand in the Bulletin of the Chicago Natural History Museum. Adelie penguins, which live in Antarctica, take personal care of their eggs and their very young fledglings. But when the young reach the difficult intermediate stage, the couples organize in groups and appoint a few old birds to keep order in the nursery. Then all the parents need to do is to bring back fish for the children.

A straightforward young woman married a sentimental young man. "My darling", the latter said, "surely I cannot be worthy of you?"

"Of course not", she answered, "but when a girl's been twenty-three for six years, she would be silly to be too particular, wouldn't she?"

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

"A Reading Mother"

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"My Mum can bake one swell apple pie!" Jimmie's voice rang with pride. "Bruce, what does your mother do?"

"My mother?" Bruce hesitated a minute. "Why, my mother is a reading mother."

"A reading mother — what's so special about that?" scoffed Jimmie.

"If you had one, you'd know it was special!" — Bruce defended hotly.

An investment in a good book is always money well spent. Families should include reading material in their budget. But for families on small or large incomes, the doors of the Public Library swing open. There the eager reader can find a marvellous choice of books of all descriptions, and friendly help from the librarian at the desk.

Take your child to the Boys' and Girls' Section of the library first of all and give him time to explore. Don't hurry him, and let him choose a book himself with illustrations. Then you pick out one or two simple stories to read to him. When you go to the adult section, he can sit at a table nearby and look at his new library book, while you make your selection.

A mother may know exactly the type of book she enjoys most — romance, adventure, mystery, or humor. But she doesn't have to stick to fiction. Travel, history and biography are all fascinating sections on the library shelves. In the Sociology division there are excellent books on child training. Both poetry and plays appeal to some readers, and so do essays.

The "How-to-do-it" books are very popular and here mother can compare original patters and methods for knitting, sewing, covering furniture, gardening, shell-work or whatever is her special hobby. Readable psychology books on how to get along with other people and live at peace with one's self are also much in demand.

The homemaker who loves to read has an outlet which saves her from becoming bored with monotony or falling into pettiness. She must follow a housekeeping routine, which has to be flexible to accommodate unexpected happenings. But no matter how often she must repeat the same tasks as washing dishes or doing beds, she can choose her own thoughts. A book opens the windows looking toward far vistas. Through reading, a mother catches a glimpse of strange places, and gets to know new friends.

The newspaper has been called "the poor man's university" — and parents can create a real interest in current events by sharing their reading with the family. Mother and dad can have a lot of fun discussing the ideas in an article in a newspaper or magazine or a book they have both read — and perhaps reading aloud short bits which made a special appeal.

Little children love to have mother read aloud. A short while before bed time is ideal for this. On Sunday if dad is home and gives a little hand with the household tasks, mother may find there is a quiet half hour in the late afternoon for a book session. On a long rainy or very cold day, or when a child is convalescing from an illness, there are few activities which are so satisfying as mother reading aloud.

When a child begins to learn to read for himself, then mother does well to have him read aloud to her. Perhaps he may plead, "Oh, you read, Mummy!" but gradually, as he becomes more proficient, he will find real pleasure in reading aloud and in reading to himself.

What attractive books at school with colored pictures and interesting stories have replaced the old-fashioned "reader!" In spite of all this wealth of fine reading material, why is it so many boys and girls grow up without any real love of books?

There's not much point in blaming the school system or the teachers for what a recent writer terms "our illiterate youth". "Spectator" recreation outside the home does compete against reading. But the child's lack of enthusiasm for books is usually just a reflection of the parent's apathy towards the printed page.

Reading children are usually following the example of reading parents. The movies, the radio, TV — all the modern inventions for man's entertainment can never completely replace the value of literature in our culture. So, mother, here's a verse by W. L. Stidger for you to remember when you plan your child's Birthday or Christmas presents —

He who gives a child a book
Gives that child a sweeping look
Through its pages
Down the ages.
Gives that child a ship to sail
Where the far adventures hail
Down the sea
Of destiny."

Churning cream is not generally the product of specialized dairy farms, but rather, it is a product of thousands of general-type farms. These farms depend on the dairy cow, not only for much of the farm's revenue, but also to help maintain the fertility of the soil for the production of other food crops.

Cooking School Feature in Lachute

Canada Packers Ltd. To Give Cooking Demonstration

At the Lachute High School auditorium next Thursday evening, Canada Packers Ltd. of Montreal will present their Coooking Demonstration under the auspices of the Guild of St. Simeon's Church. All proceeds from tickets sold are given to the Guild towards their work.

Canada Packers Ltd. have been presenting these schools in various centres in Quebec since last fall, and this is the first time they have visited Lachute. In many cases, these schools have been held for two and three nights, running with packed audiences each night.

Those attending will be shown various ways to prepare delicious and economical meals. The program is divided into three parts, opening with a delicious breakfast meal, followed by preparations for lunch, and closing with various ways of preparing a dinner. Many new little ideas are shown by the demonstrator.

These schools are conducted by Miss Ghislaine Montpetit, of Canada Packers Home Clinic, who has just received her B.Sc. in Nutrition from the University of Montreal. While in this case the school will be all in English, she is bi-lingual, and has given her demonstrations in French in various parts of this province.

Master of ceremonies and commentator will be C. Gordon Hynes. Mr. Hynes is well known around these parts, having spent many of his past summers in the district.

There are a number of door prizes, consisting of hampers of groceries, made possible through Canada Packers Ltd. and other large food manufacturers who are also connected with this school. There will also be a number of special door prizes, arranged for by the committee of St. Simeon's Church. These prizes will be drawn for during the intermission.

Tickets, at 50c, may be secured from any members of the Guild of St. Simeon's Church or by contacting Miss Lulu Miller, Lachute.

Recent figures on the prices of butter, compiled in Britain, show that the Canadian price is about average. In Belgium the price is about 82 cents per pound; in France, 75 cents; in United States, 72 cents; and in Canada, 68 cents. The German price is about the same as in Canada. Of the countries listed, only in Denmark, the Irish Republic and United Kingdom are the prices lower.

Ever cook green onions? Smothered with cheese sauce and served on toast, they are delicious for lunch or supper.

THE RIGHT PAINT — TO PAINT RIGHT

Tom Gard's Note Book

I came across rather a unique cupboard in a small house where space for storage was at a premium. Orange crates had been nailed together into a single unit. The sides were sheeted with quarter-inch plywood and top of the same material to keep out dust and dirt. The cabinet was raised from the floor by two boards one inch thick and four inches wide. A strip of inch material down the side provided space on which to hinge the door. The complete assembly was painted white with green handle. The finish was so good that the cabinet might easily take a prominent place in the kitchen.

PLYWOOD AND PIPES

When I commented on the cabinet, the owner suggested we make a second visit, so he took me to a friend who had been a prisoner of war. This new citizen had taken old water pipes and a piece of ¾" plywood to form a table. To join the pipes where necessary he had secured the help of the blacksmith, by spot-welding for strength. This also did away with "T" joints. Looking under the table top I noticed he had turned the ends of the pipes forming an "L" for support. The blacksmith had also drilled two holes in each piece, providing an opening for strong screw nails. The table was sufficiently strong to carry the man's weight. A coat of white enamel improved the general appearance.

FLOWER POT HANGER

It seems to be still true that necessity is the mother of invention. I suppose that most of us has a little inventive ability, even for just simple things. Take for instance the man who happened to like flowers in the home. Near a sunny kitchen window I noticed rather a fine flower pot hanger. On examination it proved to be very simply constructed. Four pieces of lath about eighteen inches long were fastened together permitting an overlap of about three inches at the corners. A loop of wire provided the actual support. I was more than interested in the rim of a tin can, used to hold the flower pot. This was fastened with two small screws, permitting the pot to pass through and rest on the ring. The wooden portion was painted white, the ring and screw nail heads were painted green. The good finish provided a grand surface for the paint or enamel.

SPRINKLERS

A plumber down the street hit on a good idea for sprinkling his lawn and flower beds. It was a time-saver and permitted him to water where necessary without holding the hose. His working material was old pieces of water pipe and some couplings. On one he used a seven foot pipe and the nozzle from a watering can. A "T" joint provided the opening for the hose, and bending the pipe to the right angle spreading the water over a good area, or directly down on the flower bed. His second sprinkler was simply an upright pipe with "T" at the top, and this he stuck in the ground wherever necessary. Occasionally during his evening meal he would slip out and move the sprinkler. What could be easier!

INFLUX OF DUTCH RECALLS HISTORY OF WESTERN POST

Rocky Mountain House, Alta. (CP) — This little settlement on the eastern slopes of the Rockies has been making history since 1799.

The last three years have seen an influx of new farmers into the area. Some have come from Saskatchewan but almost 300 men, women and children are immigrants from Holland.

They came individually or in small groups and picked this area because land is cheap. They hadn't much money but they brought machinery and furniture. Some even had their homes shipped over.

Settled at Arbutus

Most of them settled in the Arbutus district nine miles from Rocky Mountain House. They built their own church and recently the first wedding was held.

The newcomers have been well received and the only complaint of older residents is that their new neighbors are inclined to want to live in groups.

It was in 1799 that "Rocky" was founded just across the North Saskatchewan River to the west of the town. The North West Company built a fort there. It was there that David Thompson wintered in 1800-01, 1801-02 and 1806-07, and from there in 1807 he set out to discover the Columbia River.

Famous Post

For more than 70 years it was the most westerly and the most southerly outpost in the Blackfoot Country and it remained in operation until 1875.

There are many stories of the perilous days after the North West and the Hudson's Bay companies united. It is said that on one occasion the residents escaped an Indian attack by making their way through a secret tunnel to boats along the river.

Before they fled they were supposed to have buried three cannon and a keg of rum. As late at 1937 the Hudson's Bay Company still had this property, the cannon at least, on its mind if not among its assets. Search parties, however, could not uncover the cannon and it was believed they had been dropped in the river.

LINK WITH PAST

North Battleford, Sask. (CP) — A link with the west's historic past was severed here recently with the death of 79-year-old "Horse Child", son of Big Bear, the rebel Cree leader in the north-west uprising of 1885.

The Canadian Rockies wouldn't be the Canadian Rockies to visitors unless they saw a scarlet-coated Royal Canadian Mounted Policeman and his horse. Here is one of the "Mounties" who is stationed in Jasper National Park with his horse "Blackie" and in the background is multi-colored Pyramid Mountain across the Athabaska Valley from Jasper Park Lodge, a village of log bungalows, operated by the Canadian National Railways. Blending with the mountain scenery, the Lodge offers tourists all the modern facilities of a city hotel.

CONSCIENCE PRICKS

Timmins, Ont. (CP) — A grocery store owner here, who operated a store in Cobalt 25 years ago, received a letter and $5 from a man in Cobalt recently. The writer said, "I wish to admit my guilt and part in stealing candy from your store in Cobalt many years ago." The candy stolen could not have been worth more than 50 cents at that time.

Malemute's Forbear On Byrd Expedition

Matheson, Ont. (CP) — If the canine population here needs a society leader, one of the leading candidates would be a 10-months old Alaskan Malemute pup, Haida M'Loot, owned by Mrs. Monte Kaye.

Haida M'Loot, or more popularly known as Pete, may be called a personality. He's a direct descendant of Igloo, Admiral Richard Byrd's famous lead dog which he had during his expeditions into the south polar regions.

While the threads of this litttle yarn stretch almost from pole to pole, it actually starts back about 15 years ago when Monte Kaye, now manager of the Ontario Hydro at Matheson, was stationed at the Abitibi Canyon power project.

He had a 20-mile stretch of power line to patrol and his mode of travel in winter was by sled, with a team of five Alaskan Malemutes in front. Mrs. Kaye became attached to the dogs and vowed she would own her own someday.

A year ago she read a magazine article that Lorna Jackson of Toronto owned Oogie and Yukon, descendants of the famed Igloo. Mrs. Kaye got in touch with the Toronto woman and obtained Haida M'Loot.

Last year Canada sold to the United Kingdom $260 million of agricultural and vegetable products; sales to the United States totalled $528 million.

Script Writers Learn Technical Aspect of TV Program Production

Toronto — A Television Script Writing seminar is being held at the CBC studios here on June 11, 12 and 13. The purpose of the seminar is to acquaint potential TV script writers with the program and technical requirements of the medium.

In announcing the seminar, Stuart Griffiths, the CBC's television program director in Toronto, said that the CBC realized that Canadian TV script writers must be developed if Canadian TV was to be truly Canadian.

Responsible CBC television officials in Toronto, and a guest lecturer, Gilbert Seldes, author and recognized authority in American television, are among the speakers.

Mr. Seldes is a former director of the television program department of the Columbia Broadcasting System and has taught TV production, scenario and script writing in New York. He has written for radio, the movies and the stage, in addition to writing for television. His latest book, "Writing for Television", has just gone to press.

Following the three-day seminar, and running from June 16 to June 27, the Extension Department of the University of Toronto has arranged an intensive two-week course in TV script writing. The CBC will co-operate with the University by supplying technical assistance and studio facilities to try out some of the scripts produced during the course.

Odd Fellows Hold Annual Service At Brownsburg

Inspiring Sermon By Rev. S. J. Pike In United Church

Brownsburg — The annual service of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Laurentian Lodge No. 14, was held Sunday morning at the Brownsburg United Church. The Rev. S. J. Pike, minister and chaplain of the Lodge, conducted the service, welcoming the members on behalf of his Official Board and congregation. D.D.G.M. H. Plummer, of Montreal, assisted at the service by reading the Scripture lesson. Several brethren from Montreal augmented the local Lodge members, who assembled in the grounds of the Protestant Consolidated School to form a procession to the church.

The Rev. Mr. Pike prefaced his sermon with the Greeting of the Grand Sire of the Sovereign Grand Lodge for 1947, adding that Odd Fellowship had now lived, striven and thrived 132 years, since 1820, when the pioneers of Odd Fellowship celebrated its first anniversary. That the world had experienced on many occasions the depths of despair, the heights of hope, the nearness of annihilating defeat, but that it had also experienced immeasurable relief — victory over something too awful to contemplate, because Friendship, Love and Truth were found in men and nations — qualities by which the world was saved. . . Odd Fellowship, since its first birthday, despite two world wars of wide dimensions has developed a vigorous and international fraternity known as the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. Following in the footsteps of its worthy founder, Thomas Wildey, and his associates, its membership now numbers in the millions, and has had a rich and fruitful harvest in the service of humanity. Not unlike the Christian Church, of which it may well be a part, the distant scenes of the past can only be the prelude of Odd Fellowship's greater future, because of the vision and verity of those who lead and serve. . . The theme of Mr. Pike's address was, "Odd Fellowship Entering a New Era".

In the re-formation of the members outside the church at the close of the service, the thanks of the group were expressed by Past Grand Bro. Hayward, of Montreal.

Local Cancer Work Calls for Support, Interim Donations

At a recent meeting of the local branch of the Canadian Cancer Society, it was decided to postpone the annual drive until next fall, due to unavoidable delays in arranging for organization of the campaign this spring.

The branch is actively functioning, however, inasmuch as benefits are being distributed to needy cases continuously and the many phases of this Society are operated for the assistance of residents of this community. Donations are necessary to carry on this work, and it is hoped that the residents of the district will forward subscriptions to the treasurer, Mr. W. M. Steeves, c/o Bank of Nova Scotia, Lachute, in order that the work may be continued.

Demonstrates on Methods of School Music Instruction

Conducts Class for Enlightenment of Rotary Members

Shirley McKyes, Supervisor of Music for the Argenteuil and Two Mountains Schools, spoke on "School Music" at last week's Rotary Club meeting, and gave a demonstration showing how music is taught in our county schools. The Rotarians and their guests were told that in some communities it is necessary to justify the teaching of music in school. Quoting from Mr. McKyes' speech, he explained "Our Philosophy", as follows:

"Few children ever become professional musicians. Not many have the native ability. Some who have the innate aptitudes are not always energetic or ambitious enough to attain professional standards. There are a few precious souls who, having very little or nothing, strive all their lives, never reaching the professional heights.

"Still very few attain professional standards and, therefore, our objective, aim, and plans must be based on something other than the training of top-rate professional musicians.

"School music justifies itself in the belief that it is an important factor in making life more satisfying. It is taught for the sake of joy and satisfaction. Music affects human beings favorably, both intellectually and emotionally. It has a power to 'tone up' both mind and body, it causes increased quickness of perception, and is potent to socialize. It has possibilities in preparing one for worthy use of leisure time, and it is an influence in causing immeasurable increase in human happiness.

"For all these reasons, music has come to be regarded more and more as an indispensable subject in all types of schools, and a larger place is being accorded it.

"Keeping in mind our philosophy then, we must steer our course and provide material which affords and stresses that side of music which results in immediate aesthetic pleasure, rather than technical training for future achievements and enjoyment.

Our Aim

"Our aim must be to provide our children with the best possible conditions in buildings and facilities — in other words, pleasant and comfortable surroundings, well equipped. We must engage the highest calibre of dedicated personnel, specially trained to present music on its highest level, and who, above all, love children. Then we must set our course, a steady sure course along the line of appreciation and enjoyment.

"The first aim concerns facilities. The classroom will do, but a well lighted and equipped music room is better. Often the auditorium stage with curtains closed offers adequate space and desirable location. Minimum equipment includes a piano (kept in tune), a radio and records, song books and other items like reading books, staff lines, tuning fork, etc., which go to make up the materials used in presenting music to children.

"It is important to have teachers presenting music who, first of all, as in all teaching, love children, but who are dedicated to the cause of music — who understand something of what music affords as an agent for happiness and aesthetic pleasure — who know how to present music to children in a natural and effective manner — who have patience and understanding, and who will tirelessly lead the children into the immeasurable pleasure found in the pursuit of music. . . Well, we can dream, can't we?

"Our third aim is to set a course. This course, although differing perhaps slightly in detail in various localities, will lead to the same objective — appreciation and enjoyment.

"This course is based on a threefold plan — (a) Singing; (b) Listening; (c) Reading the Score.

"The singing of well chosen songs forms the major part of the music course. Through singing the child finds beauty in sound, learns to co-operate under the strictest form of self-discipline, develops his tonal and rhythmic sense, and acquires appreciation for and of music.

"The listening side of music constitutes an indispensable element in musical education. It is not treated lightly as, say, amusement or perhaps waste of time, but must be presented seriously and intelligently, and untold intellectual, emotional and sensual pleasure will result.

"The reading lessons are important in that, to get the most out of the other two, singing and listening, a certain amount of technical knowledge must be assimilated in order to fully advance and appreciate. This training is handled wisely and carefully — in easy stages, adequate enough to keep pace with the advancing level of the class standards.

"It is not what a child does with music that matters as much as what music does for the child!"

Following his talk Mr. McKyes, with the aid of a group of Lachute High School students, showed how he teaches them to sing a song. The group (including Ann Dwyer, Heather Jones, Olive Jane Pollock, Frances Taylor, Malcolm Cairns, Roger MacAdam, Donald McOuat, Ronald Neill and Donald Parker) were presented with the written music to a song that was unfamiliar to them. After studying the starting note and the rhythm, they were able to read the notes. From there on, it was simply a matter of practice.

Mr. McKyes was introduced by Linton Armstrong and thanked by Wesley Freeland.

Two new members were inducted into the Rotary Club at last week's meeting — Robert Ogilvie and Donald McFaul.

Wes Freeland reported that the Rotary Community Playground in Brownsburg will open June 21.

Making Sightless Persons An Asset To Community

Local Fund Campaign To Aid Work, In Progress This Week

Being blind is considered by most people a tremendous handicap, but not so for Miss Madeleine Lalande, a home teacher for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind in the Lachute - Argenteuil County area. For Miss Lalande, who has been blind a number of years, carries on an active life teaching other blind people in the county.

Her duties are numerous. In addition to teaching sightless housewives how to cook on a specially adapted electric stove (see picture, page 7), she gives them lessons in Braille, so that they might still enjoy reading. She also teaches weaving and looming, and is an expert in handicrafts, so that the sightless people of the district, about 20 in number, make excellent belts, handbags, wallets and other leather goods.

But perhaps the greatest duty of Miss Lalande, who travels hundreds of miles each year throughout the county with the aid of a sighted guide, is the inspiration she is to the other blind people.

One of her first jobs for sightless persons is to teach them how to use a white cane properly, so that the student can venture out in the streets alone. The fact that their teacher, Miss Lalande, is blind, gives them the courage to make their first bold steps back to the outside world.

Miss Lalande is just one of 12 home teachers working for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind throughout the Province of Quebec. Like all of them, she has developed a philosophy about being blind, that while admittedly blindness does have its handicaps, it does not mean total darkness. The sightless person is still an asset to the community and it is up to the home teachers to bring those assets out in the blind people of a district, she claims.

Through the C.N.I.B., which is staging a local campaign of $2,000 this week, she is actively engaged in doing just this. And while the work makes many demands on her time, she still likes to participate in any number of other projects, among them bowling, which is her favorite and best sport.

FOLLOWED HIS DOG

Burnaby, B.C. (CP) — Five-year-old Murray Steinman, missing for more than eight hours in the dense bush near North Burnaby, was found by searchers who first spotted his big black dog Teddy. "I followed Teddy until I got tired and had a big rest", the boy said.

APPRECIATION

Giving God's Word First Place in Our Lives

"How can a young man keep his path pure? By heeding thy word. I find joy in thy statutes; I will not forget thy word." (Psalm 119: 9, 16, AT). This is pre-eminent counsel for both young and old and shows the attitude one should take toward God's Word. Honest and sincere persons today seek to know and do God's will. The study of God's Word is essential for such. They learn precious truths from the perusal of its pages, and then also seek to share the knowledge gained with others, near and far.

Thousands of persons are sighing and crying about the abominations that are being committed daily. To whom can these persons turn for comfort and hope? An almost six thousand-year record of failure rules our political, commercial and false religious leaders. But Jehovah is the great, unfailing God of comfort and it is to him that a great crowd of persons are now turning in hope, as his servants continue to publish uplift and comfort for the poor. — Ps. 113: 7, 8, AS.

Just as in 1939 when his followers held 75 seats DUPLESSIS WILL BE BEATEN

These are signs of the coming defeat of DUPLESSIS the dictator

Jan. 1949 — LABOUR CODE

May 1950 — GEORGE LAPALME
The Quebec Liberal Party chooses George Lapalme as Provincial Leader after a successful career in Federal politics. Elected as a Member of Parliament for Joliette in 1945, he was returned with a large majority in 1949.

July 1950 — GALLUP POLL SHOWS TREND
The Gallup Poll proves Quebec voters prefer the Liberal Party. The results:—
Liberals 46 percent

Sept. 1951 — J. A. MONGRAIN
J. A. Mongrain is re-elected Mayor of Three Rivers with an increased majority, despite concentrated and vicious opposition by the Duplessis machine, the police and unlimited election spending.

Oct. 1951 — ANOTHER GALLUP POLL
The swing to the Liberals continues. Gallup Poll findings give the Liberal Party 48 percent of the popular vote, the Union Nationale 43 percent.

Nov. 1951 — THE PEOPLE PROTEST
The anti-alcohol campaign launched in Hull spreads throughout the entire Province.

Jan. 1952 — MUNICIPAL AUTONOMY
The Mayors of the Province answer Mayor J. A. Mongrain's appeal to campaign for restoration of municipal rights.

Jan. 1952 — LE DEVOIR SAMPLE
A poll of its readers made by Le Devoir gives the Liberal Party 50 percent, the Union Nationale only 34 percent.

Feb. 1952 — JOLIETTE SPEAKS
Joliette rejects the Union Nationale appeal. Dr. Gervais, retiring mayor and right-hand man of Duplessis Labour Minister Antonio Barrette, is soundly defeated in his bid for re-election by a Liberal supporter of municipal autonomy — Alexandre Boisvert.

Mar. 1952 — SHERBROOKE FOLLOWS
Sherbrooke, Three Rivers, Joliette — one after the other municipalities across the Province are turning away from the tactics of Duplessis and his lieutenants, and voting for clean, honest government.

Across Quebec the tide is turning AGAINST THE UNION NATIONALE

AS GOES THE BRIDGE — SO GOES DUPLESSIS!

"STRAIGHT AND SOLID AS THE UNION NATIONALE"

Boxing to Augment Mat Program At Stadium

Bob Lortie, 230 lbs., of Montreal, a previous performer in wrestle-fiestas at the local Arena and the Auditorium, came back to Lachute and claimed the main event on Al Fleming's card at the Stadium Monday night, defeating the Green Hornet, of Boston. The match was something of a fizzle for the fans, who looked for a display of skill rather than horse-play, at least in this main item. Lortie took the first fall, with pugilistic interludes and farcical belligerence on both sides — and with the Boston Bad Man catering to the more sadistic tastes. . . The latter found himself outside the ring soon after the opening of the second round, and apparently made little effort to get back in; he was counted out for his second loss, thus ending the bout.

Mike Morelli, Italy (190) and Jim Nelson, Chicago (210) were an evenly matched pair in the second bout — Morelli winning the first, and Nelson winning the second and third falls. Again this was a toss-up between a prize fight and a wrestle session, bringing thunder from the bleachers, where a good time was had by all.

SPORTS CAMERA

By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

When jockey Johnny Longden rode his 4,000th winner last month, a lot of facts of his long career on the tracks came to light. They read like a Horatio Alger success story with all the trimmings.

Born in Wakefield, England, in 1910, Johnny began riding in the mid-20s and booted home his first winner in 1928 in a small-time event. Since then he has been aboard mounts in important races in seven countries — the United States, Canada, Mexico, England, Ireland, Australia and Cuba.

Reaching that 4,000 figure put the little fellow among racing's super-elite. Only one other person has reached that astronomical figure: another British-born rider, England's Gordon Richards.

Longden has won many of the rich stake races in the United States, some of them several times, and has piloted some of the greatest horses of our time, including Count Fleet, Noor, First Fiddle, On Trust and Your Host.

His favorite mount? Count Fleet, which won the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and Belmont stakes in 1942 to sweep U.S. racing's triple crown.

Said to be a millionaire and the world's richest jockey, Longden has won various "derbies" but the one he likes to recall isn't in the record books, the Billings, Montana, Derby.

Started at 15

He had emigrated from England to Taber, Alta., as a nine-year-old with his parents. Homesick, broke and only 15, Johnny was at Billings with an Indian who raced quarter-bred horses when he got his first mount.

Longden wanted to keep on eating so he borrowed boots, saddle and other riding equipment. His ride wasn't polished but he won.

Johnny had driven a mule in a coal mine and had ridden farm horses, but he was no shining light on the tracks as he put in his time as an apprentice jockey. Things gradually got better and in his first four years of riding at small tracks, he had 120 winners and gained confidence.

He became the leading rider in the United States in 1938, exactly 10 years after he entered the winner's circle for the first time at a recognized track. He repeated again in 1947 and 1948.

Longden seems to improve with age. One of his best performances was in 1950 when he guided Noor, the fine Irish horse, in the mile-and-a-quarter of the Golden Gate Derby in world record time of 1:58 1/5.

When he does decide to hang up his tack for the last time, Johnny can go to his home at Arcadia, Calif., near the Santa Anita race track, or to his ranch, also in California. He also has considerable property holdings in Canada.

Mass 'Chute Jump Air Show Feature At Hawkesbury

Hawkesbury — One of the main features of the Hawkesbury Air Show which is being sponsored by the Hawkesbury Flying Club, Sunday, June 29, will be a mass parachute jump.

The Royal Canadian Regiment plan to drop as many as 40 men on the field with full equipment. This demonstration, together with a display by three R.C.A.F. Sabre jets, promises to make the Hawkesbury Air Show the greatest yet.

More details of the program will be announced later.

St. Andrews Leads Softball League

The schedule of the Argenteuil Softball League is progressing with keen interest and well matched competition. Standing of the teams, up to and including last Sunday, is as follows:

Team	G.P.	W.	L.	Pts.
St. Andrews	4	2	2	4
Carillon	3	2	1	4
Colford Lodge	2	2	0	4
Lowe Bros.	2	1	1	2
Lions	4	1	3	2
Legion	1	0	1	0

ECHO OF PAST

Sylvan Lake, Alta. (CP) — Prized possession of C. B. Pugh is a copy of the "National Intelligencer" dated May 4, 1816. The old American paper contains several notices offering rewards for capture of runaway slaves.

DISTRICT NEWS

Arundel

Week-end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Graham were — Norman Foren, Clarke Graham and Gladys Gray, all of the R.C.A.F., Trenton, Ont. Mr. Earl Graham also spent the week-end at his home.

Mr. T. Sykes, with Ross, Diane, Barrie and Miss Lucille Dever, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. Cooke.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Simon, accompanied by a guest, were here for the holiday.

Mrs. S. Aiken, of Toronto, spent the week-end in Arundel.

Mr. and Mrs. Noall had as guests the Misses Patricia Casey and Laurice Hannouch. Mr. J. Kirk, M. P., and Mrs. Kirk, were also recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Noall.

On Sunday morning the pulpit of the United Church was occupied by Mr. Stern, who will be situated here permanently in two weeks' time. He was entertained last week-end by Mr. and Mrs. F. Davis.

Mr. Roy Cooke and Mrs. T. Sevigny occupied their cottage over the week-end.

Miss Margaret Gilker is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. Graham.

Mr. and Mrs. Robertson were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Moss.

Mr. Gerald Proudlock was here for the week-end, and is busily engaged working on his new cottage.

We are very sorry to hear of the indisposition of Mrs. T. Graham, and hope she will soon be restored to health.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Staniforth motored to Montreal on Friday and attended the graduation exercises of the Town of Mount Royal High School, where their daughter, Barbara, was one of the graduates.

Miss Diane Wright spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wright.

Mrs. K. Higgonbotham has been spending the past week as guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bulley.

Members of the United Church, please take note that the service next Sunday may be held in the evening; if so, a notice will be posted in the post office in due time.

We hear that work on the Arundel roads may be started in the near future. If this is the case, the authorities will receive warm appreciation — for housewives at present have a difficult time to keep their homes clean, or washing on the line unsullied by dust.

Morin Heights

Mrs. Evan Jones, of Montreal, is spending this week with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Colin Cameron.

Miss Mary Orme, of Montreal, was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Morrow.

Mrs. Mary Campbell had as guests for last week — Mrs. Clara Johnston and Mrs. Reg Deruchie, of Montreal, and Mrs. Robt. Cruickshank, of Cambridge Bay, N.W.T. Her guests for the week-end included — Mr. and Mrs. Ray Campbell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Campbell, all of Montreal, and Mr. Reg Deruchie, of Cambridge Bay.

Mr. Ernest Dey, of St. Eustache, spent the week-end with his brother, Melvin Dey and Mrs. Dey.

Mrs. E. Kneeland entertained at a "stork shower" on Monday evening in honor of Mrs. Peter Whalley.

Miss Margaret Kennedy returned home Thursday and is now recuperating after a major operation in the Montreal General Hospital.

Mr. Lawson Kennedy had the misfortune to fracture three ribs and injure a vertebra last week, when he slipped and fell off a porch at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Kneeland and children spent Sunday in the Town of Mount Royal, attending a family re-union at the home of his brother, Scott Kneeland, and at the home of their sister, Mrs. Foy in Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

Mrs. J. E. Brown entertained on Tuesday last for her daughter, Judith Diane, who celebrated her sixth birthday.

Miss Barbara Brown, who is attending Montreal High School, is spending the pre-examination week here with her parents. Mr. Jas. Houston was their guest also for the week-end.

NEW FISHING FIELD

Charlottetown (CP) — Flounder fishing may become a money-making industry instead of a mere pastime in Prince Edward Island this summer. The provincial department of industry announced plans to help develop the industry as an extra source of revenue for fishermen. Flounder fisheries have never previously been operated on a commercial basis here.

AT LIONS CLUB . . .

The stock broker, on the other hand, has very little to do with the creation and distribution of new securities or the supplying of new capital to those who need it for productive purposes. Rather, he is concerned with securities, mostly stocks, which have been previously distributed and which investors, for one reason or another, may want to buy or sell. The broker then acts as a middleman who brings together the buyer and seller of existing shares, and receives a commission for his services. The market place for trading in such shares is usually the Stock Exchange, whose membership is composed of brokers. The investment dealer operates independently and has no such central meeting place for the conduct of his business.

Mr. Price outlined the various types of bonds, debentures, notes, preferred and common stocks, and stressed the importance of diversification in any portfolio. He closed his remarks with a reference to the important oil discoveries in Western Canada, and gave the main reasons for market fluctuations in this field.

Introduced by Donald M. Hay, the speaker was thanked for his interesting address by A. Gordon McOuat.

The chairman noted with gratification that the Lachute Lions' entrant in the juvenile public speaking contest — Wilmer Andrews, winner of the English section in the recent local contest — had won against eight other contestants in the Zone semi-finals, qualifying him to participate in the final oratory contest at Toronto Exhibition among representatives of all Eastern Zones.

The slate of officers for 1952-53 was presented and approved by the meeting. Those in office for the ensuing term will be as follows:

Past-presidents, Ralph FitzGerald and George Tattersfield.
President, Bertrand L'Heureux.
Vice-presidents, E. M. Jones, Roger Regimbal, Ian Gordon.
Secretary, André Lefebvre.
Treasurer, W. M. Steeves.

NEW DESCRIPTION

Montreal (CP) — Canada was termed "a land of plenty", "a lady of prosperity", by Bishop C. K. Jacob, Anglican church leader in India, visiting here during a tour sponsored by the Canadian Overseas Mission Council. He said Canada "is much unlike my country that is poor and in great need."

DEATH AT SAWMILL

Prince George, B.C. (CP) — On his first day back at work after serving as a crown witness in an assize court case here, 45-year-old Jimmy Ware, father of six, was killed at Ferguson Lake. Well-known as a trapper and guide, he lost his life when the roof of a sawmill collapsed and pinned him against a saw carriage.

Season's Awards At Closing Event Of Local Bowling

At the closing dance of the bowling season, held recently at the Tessier Hotel, Lachute Mills, the popularity contest for Bowling Queen of the 1952-53 season was won by Miss Madeleine Durocher.

The Class A men's team winning the league championship was the Jos. Malacket squad, Brownsburg, captained by Lucien Malacket. The Dansereau mixed team were winners for the second time in succession against Lachute Lumber, carrying off the championship; Paul Desnoyers is captain of this team. The Wednesday Class B series was won by Dominion Shuttle, with M. Ouellette as captain.

Young Stars, captained by Miss Monique Charlebois, took the championship in this league for the fourth time running.

Highest triple in the Bolodrome annual tournament was won by Bud Langille, his 881 winning a $25 cash prize. Bud and Jim Duncan starred for the duo triple with 1800 points, winning $20. Monique Charlebois, with 822, took the ladies' triple and an award of $10.

The five-man team composed of Jim Duncan, Bud Langille, Theodore Gagné, Paul Desnoyers and Howard Ward each received $10 for their aggregate total of 3553 points.

In Ducks 10-Pins, Don Cockburn, piling up a total of 561 points in three games, won $25; while Duncan and Langille were awarded $10 each for their 949 in doubles.

Jim Duncan, who averaged 182.7 in the four-game Open tournament, was awarded $15; while Paul Desnoyers with a high single of 223, one game, won $10.

Around 200 enthusiasts attended this closing event, and dancing was enjoyed to the music of Don Reid's orchestra. Paul Desnoyers, as master of ceremonies, distributed the above prizes — and an admittance prize, a table lamp with the figure of a bowler, graciously donated by the Dansereau Store, was won by Mrs. A. Ouellet. A Presto lighter, from the same donor, was won by Miss Danis.

The Bolodrome management takes occasion to thank the various business houses for their encouragement to the season's sport, to the final tournament and to this closing social event.

Bernard and Barry Return With New Attractions

No exhibition or fair is complete without its midway, and this year is no exception at the local exposition; Bernard & Barry Shows are here with a larger and more attractive line-up than ever. There are thrills for all, with the old reliable merry-go-round and ferris wheel still popular for those who wish to travel at a moderate pace. For those desiring more excitement, however, there are the Tilt-a-Whirl, the Octopus, Moon Rocket, Loop-the-Loop and and Rolloplane, the highest ride on the midway. Excitement runs high on all of these attractions, which are drawing considerable crowds and line-ups awaiting their turn to enjoy the fun.

For the kiddies the Little Dipper may be described as a "slow start and a fast finish" — with a bump and a thrill at every start. They will certainly enjoy this, as well as the miniature cars and airplanes in Kiddieland.

Monkey Town should be visited by all fair-goers. Here may be seen some 30 monkeys performing varied antics such as pole climbing, walking tight-ropes and balancing on see-saws. One of these monkeys, a Reusus type, has a premature babe only two weeks old — which is extraordinary, considering that but one in ten thousand such cases survives. The tender care of mother love is surprisingly apparent; this is a sight not to be missed.

There is also a Wild Life Show, with all species of birds and animals, an Army tent with an interesting display, dancing stars, all kinds of games, rounding out a live and up-to-date midway, whose proprietors, Bernard & Barry, besides affording all-round entertainment, are members of the Better Business Bureau.

CROWNING "BOWLING QUEEN" ON CONCLUSION OF SEASON'S ACTIVITIES

At the Bolodrome dance held recently in conclusion of the annual tournament, the Bowling Queen for 1952-53 was elected in the person of Madeleine Durocher. Miss Durocher (of the staff of Giles Publishing House) is seen with the annual trophy, and is being crowned by her predecessor, Miss Jeannine Ouellet. At left, Paul Desnoyers, m.c. and manager of the Bolodrome.

Service Station Changes Hands

The gasoline and service station formerly operated by J. M. Brown has now been purchased by Roger Legault. Situated near the golf course, it is an ideal service spot for motorists either leaving or entering Lachute. Roger Legault is well known in town, and will be pleased to have the motoring public visit him in his newly-acquired establishment.

Legion Conducting Peanut Booth

A Planter's Products display at the Lachute Exhibition got away to a good start Wednesday night — with music, and Mr. Peanut himself dancing and singing in front of the booth.

The display is sponsored by Lachute Branch of the Canadian Legion, who have undertaken to sell Planter's Products, including Peanut Butter, Cooking Oil and many other nut variations. A free ticket on a drawing will be given with every purchase at this booth, and a winning ticket will be drawn each night. There are also Peanut banks, whistles, salt and pepper shakers, etc.

All profit from these sales goes to the local branch of the Legion, and is used to aid needy veterans. The public are therefore urged to visit this booth — the kiddies will enjoy meeting Mr. Peanut. The display is in charge of Mr. Lucien Aubin, Planter's representative in this district, and local veterans are selling behind the counter.

Complete Success from Opening Day To Concluding Grandstand Features

Year's Most Notable Uptrend in Ayrshire Cattle, Junior Livestock And Modern Farming Machinery

Lachute Fair — annual exhibition of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, now at its 126th milestone — has held as its most consistent objective the encouraging of better livestock. There have been other equally important aims — competition in such departments as rural crafts and, in past years, field and dairy products; but livestock has remained the major interest. In this phase of the show, 1952 has seen a far keener competition on the part of outside breeders, and other evidences too — notably the junior stockmen's show — that Lachute Fair bears the Quality mark in horses, cattle and poultry, also with a creditable showing of swine and sheep.

We have it on the authority of the judges — Mr. Jas. Gibson, of Caledonia, Ont., who judged beef and dual-purpose cattle, admitting agreeable surprise at the general all-round turn-out; Mr. John Tilt, poultry authority, pronouncing himself very favorably impressed; and the horse judges being equally gratified.

Wider competition from Quebec and Ontario centres was most notable in the Registered Ayrshires. The poultry entries far exceeded their normal accommodation — necessitating a rush call for the loan of 30 pens from the Vankleek Hill Agricultural Society. The draft horses and lighter breeds made a fine turn-out, and the horse show was a grandstand attraction drawing thousands to the spectators' seats.

LIEUT.-GOVERNOR HERE FOR GRAND OPENING

The opening ceremonies took place Thursday afternoon, honored with the presence of Lieutenant Governor Gaspard Fauteux to perform the inaugural functions. Many notables were on hand, with President Gavin Walker and officials of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society. It was a fitting opening to this big annual event.

In greeting His Excellency and Madame Fauteux, and acknowledging their graciousness in thus honoring the occasion, Mr. Clément Tremblay, ex-president of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, said: "Descendants of the first settlers of New France unite with those of Anglo-Canadian birth in this Quebec county, to wish you a cordial welcome. You tread today the ground of the ancient Seigneury of Argenteuil, constituted by document bearing the royal seal of Louis XIV, signed at Quebec by his viceroy, the Count of Frontenac, June 15, 1682. . . . Another historic incident occurs today on the soil of Argenteuil as Your Excellency, representative of our reigning sovereign, officiates at the opening ceremony of the Lachute Exhibition, this 12th day of June, 1952 . . ."

As the program proceeded from this point, to its closing hour Saturday night, the Fair directorate from president to committeemen, and Sid Patterson, secretary manager, felt their efforts amply repaid in every aspect.

The lighter diversions, including the three-day race-track program, the vaudeville events, musical interludes by Ayers Band, even to the midway and side shows, all measured up to expectations, to make the annual Fair complete.

ATTENDANCE HIGHER THAN LAST YEAR

The attendance figures this year are interesting, showing an increase of 64 over last year, but still not exceeding the all-time record, 25,698 in 1948.

There were a total of 4,425 Fairgoers on Thursday, the day of the official opening. The number last year was only 1,919 for the official send-off, which however took place on Wednesday, at which stage the Exhibition is not publicly counted as in full swing and operation. Following are the comparisons:

	1952	1951
Wed.	837	1,919
Thurs.	4,425	1,099
Fri.	10,080	11,460
Sat.	6,128	6,919
Totals	21,470	21,406

(The increase of 64 is more than accounted for by the weather which was highly favorable to the success of this event on all four days.)

A very welcome improvement at the grounds this year was the paving of all thoroughfares leading to the main entrance — and there are now rights-of-way in several directions, to relieve the traffic congestion. An improvement worthy of future attention is the treatment of the race-track and show-ring near the grandstand, to lay the dust which is unavoidable with the tramping of heavy teams and roadsters. Spectators on the packed grandstand suffered some inconvenience from this source.

JUNIOR JUDGING AND CALF SHOW

Saturday forenoon, the "bleachers" at the cow barns were well patronized — for this was the juvenile farmers' special. Donald C. Robertson, Federal Fieldman; Alex Bothwell and Irénée Paré agronomists; John McCaig, judge, from Ormstown; Keith Russell, district school Agriculture specialist, with tutors, mentors, parents, guardians, photographers, radio recorders and others interested in the youngsters' progress, were all on hand to do justice to the calf show and junior judging. And believe it or not, there were no fewer than 187 young contestants — many from communities not previously heard from in these competitions. The number was the greatest yet in the history of the exhibition, and there were 57 exhibits in the calf classes. . . The young farmers were not taking a back seat to their seniors in Lachute Spring Fair '52!

A county boy, Edward Godin, of Arundel, took top rating in the Kiwanis Club prize winners. Mr. McCaig commented with the authority of a veteran cattle man in appraising the young judges and in ranking the calves.

THE COUNTY RACE

In the harness-racing program, the county event on Thursday afternoon attracted the usual keen interest from this locality. Winner of this feature was B. Ladouceur's "Prince Chip", taking highest aggregate position in the three heats. There were six horses entered in the county race.

ENTENSIVE SHOW BY EQUIPMENT FIRMS

Agricultural machinery was in the ascendency, giving striking illustration of the advance in farm mechanization in recent years. Considerable space in the outer ring was occupied by manufacturers and their local distributors. This was a very noticeable trend in the 1952 Spring Fair, and the exhibits drew continuous interest.

Ferguson tractors, a power driven excavator, shovel, log loader and tree planter (the latter devices developed by Canadian International Paper Co. and prominent latterly in the district news) were shown by Farmers Supply Co., with a stand demonstrating Pioneer power saws, also feeds and other incidentals.

E. W. Albright & Sons, with Massey Harris, and Lachute Farm Equipment with International Harvester, had grain combines, hay balers and ensilage harvesters — Lachute Farm Equipment also featuring Precision chain-saws.

F. Hamelin, of St. Hermas, had Case tractors and machinery, while Maurice Renaud of St. Eustache had a display of David Brown tractors and George White machinery — the latter featuring what is claimed to be the only Canadian-manufactured corn ensilage cutter and mobile blower.

Other lines of machinery exhibited were Allis Chalmers, Cockshutt, DeLaval dairy equipment, Pedlar barn fixtures, Lombard chain saws, and Grimm evaporators, also Ness blowers — altogether a formidable array of equipment. And by way of variation, St. Hermas was also represented by a creditable display of Nucraft boats, manufactured in that village.

Canadian International Paper Co.'s, display was one of considerable interest, stressing principally

Showman Injured In Car Crash

The showman's life is a fatiguing grind — so much so, that Alfred Somerville, 36, of Toronto, moving from Lachute Fair to St. Jerome last week-end, fell asleep at the wheel of his car and crashed into a telephone pole. The mishap occurred Sunday at 7.30 a.m. on a curve just east of Lachute on Route 31.

Somerville was alone in the car. He suffered severe head cuts and a rib fracture. Dr. M. Papineau was summoned to his aid, and brought the man to his clinic here in Lachute; he was later removed to hospital in St. Jerome. The car was damaged to the extent of $800.

Traffic Officer Albert Legault investigated the accident.

At Moosomin, Sask., A J. Bart got 26 bushels yield of wheat off a field he had sown to wheat for the 7th consecutive year, never failing to harvest. He discs land early, puts seed in with a one-way, and this year had not time to disc before sowing. So it is the 8th year this land has been sown to wheat without plowing. Scientists take note.

Appointment for L'Abbé L. J. Rodrigue

The Rev. Louis Joseph Rodrigue, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Alexandre Rodrigue of Lachute, who served as the Superior of the Ste. Therese Seminary for a period of several years and is now attached to the Bishop's Palace in Montreal, has been named as general chaplain of the French-Canadian Youth Association, parent body of many Catholic youth organizations in this province. L'Abbé Rodrigue has also been recommended by the Quebec Committee of Catholic Education as principal of the Ste. Croix Normal School in Montreal.

The Rev. J. L. Rodrigue was ordained priest in 1929. He studied for his Master of Philosophy degree in Rome and for his Master of Literature at the Sorbonne.

Wins Appeal Against Nudism Sentence

Gaetan Couture's six months' jail sentence on a charge of nudism was quashed by Mr. Justice E. Montpetit in Superior Court at St. Jerome last week.

Couture, his wife and another couple were arrested last summer by Provincial Police, who said they had witnessed Couture "sun bathing in the nude" with others on his farm near Mille Isles adjoining the public highway. Couture was convicted of nudism, and appealed to the Superior Court.

Mr. Justice Montpetit said that in such cases authorization from the attorney-general was necessary for criminal court action. In the present case, he said, police had had authority to search Couture's farm but there was no authorization from the attorney-general for the criminal court action.

Toronto — Until the last three years, creamery butter production in Canada increased consistently. In 1900, 36 million pounds were produced. In 1947, the total was 290 million pounds. Since then there has been a decline. The production in 1950 amounted to only 261 million pounds.

Erect Memorial To War Dead At Ste. Agathe

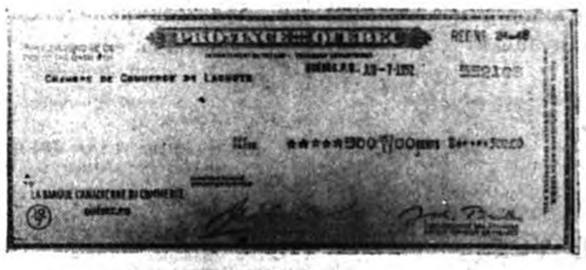

Lieutenant-Governor to Officiate at Unveiling

Ste. Agathe, June 17 — Special honor will be paid to the war dead of Ste. Agathe on June 29, when parades and solemn ritual will mark the unveiling of the town's Cenotaph, commemorating members of Ste. Agathe families who gave their lives in two world wars.

The Hon. Gaspard Fauteux, Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, will unveil the 18-ton monument of polished Laurentian granite, and will place the first memorial wreath at its base.

The Cenotaph has been erected near the town hall on a plot donated by the municipality. It was paid for by Ste. Agathe residents through a subscription conducted during the past year by the Ste. Agathe (Quebec No. 9) Branch of the Canadian Legion.

Donation for Chamber of Commerce Tourist Bureau

A cheque from the Quebec Provincial Government (right), to the value of $500, was presented by W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., to the Chamber of Commerce president, Horace Lamarche, to aid in the inauguration of the Lachute Tourist Bureau. . . . A Chamber of Commerce group is pictured below, witnessing the presentation of this useful donation.

SERVICE CLUB TAKES INVENTORY OF YEAR'S COMMUNITY ACHIEVEMENTS

Lions' Meeting Terminates Club Year

This week's assembly of the Lions Club, held Tuesday at the Laval Hotel, was the last general gathering of the club year. President George Tattersfield, in relinquishing his office, wished success to the president-elect, Bertrand L'Heureux, and also paid tribute to the support of his officers and directorate, and to the work of his predecessor, Ralph FitzGerald. . . A cordial vote of appreciation was voiced by Gaetan Valois to Lion Tattersfield, the retiring president.

Ten-year membership buttons were presented by International Councillor J. S. Giles; qualifying for this long-service recognition were — Léopold Carrière, Dr. F. W. FitzGerald, Dr. R. A. Dumais, George Tattersfield, Fernand Legault and A. Gordon McOuat.

Several 100% attendance pins were also presented, to those who had been present at all meetings this season. Nat W. Boyd's team had led consistently in percentage of attendance since last fall.

An interesting development was reported by Roger Regimbal, in the formation of a six-team junior baseball league, to be coached by players of the senior Tigers and managed by an appointed directorate. It is expected that the Lions Club will play an active part in the launching and operation of this "Little Major League".

Some idea of the club's community activities during the year was given in a bulletin summary by Secretary Donald Hay. Following is a digest of this very creditable record:

A second grant of $100 was made to Miss Jeannine Leroux to assist in continuance of her art course.

Assistance of $50 to Les Loisirs St. Julien, for welfare of community youth.

Donation of $10 to Lachute High School for literary awards, elementary grades.

Donation of $50 to Salvation Army.

Several bills paid to local doctors, covering operations and medical attention, amounting to $173.

Donation of $50 to a permanent rheumatic cripple.

$26.36 disbursed for upkeep of inhalator, supplied by club for use of doctors in the community.

Donation of $50 to Mrs. Ernest Deslauriers for Ouvroir Ste. Elisabeth, to assist poor of the vicinity.

Father-child dinner held, at which 50 or 60 children were presented with gifts.

Donation of $50 to L.H.S. hockey team.

Donation of $18 to Providence Sacré Coeur of St. Andrews for Christmas Tree Fund.

Christmas party held, at which 2,000 children were entertained. Total cost, $306.86.

Donation of $150 from Easter Seals Fund towards purchase of an artificial limb.

Donation of $10 to Anti-Tuberculosis League.

Donation of $50 to hockey team of L'Ecole Supérieure.

Donation of $50 to Boy Scouts.

Public Speaking Contest sponsored in Protestant and Catholic schools. One contestant will represent this district at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto next August, expenses to be paid by the club. Expenses in this venture to date, over $50.

Total community donations to date — $1,400.

Garden Party and Reception Held for Their Excellencies

A pleasant affair took place last Thursday afternoon at the country residence of Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., at Hill Head—where Mr. and Mrs. Cottingham were hosts at a garden reception in honor of Their Excellencies, Lieutenant-Governor Gaspard Fauteux and Mrs. Fauteux, who were in Lachute that day for the inaugural ceremonies of the annual spring exhibition.

It was a very representative gathering which enjoyed this outdoor social occasion, in ideal weather. It is estimated that well over 700 persons attended, including friends from as far as Huberdeau, 16 Island Lake and Pte. au Chene — mayors of the county municipalities, members of the Catholic and Protestant clergy and school boards, and residents in all spheres of activity, who enjoyed an opportunity for social interchange such as occurs too seldom in the routine of this county.

Many of the guests were personally introduced to Their Excellencies. Another notable visitor from outside the county was Justice J. C. Nicholson, of the Social Welfare Court in Montreal.

The intimate atmosphere of this function was apparent also in the numerous friends who assisted. Besides much personal preparation on the part of the hosts, refreshments were served to the large gathering by ladies of the town. Altogether it was a very pleasant occasion.

M.P. Suggests Surplus Food as Gift to Britain

"WEEK AT OTTAWA"

By Walter Gray, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, June 17 (CP) — Members of parliament, still plodding through important legislation, are beginning to think of home. Many thought they would be leaving Parliament Hill by the end of June, and some Liberals even suggested a date — June 27.

Some indication of an early prorogation was given by Prime Minister St. Laurent, who said the bulk of the legislative program for the session now is before parliament.

A bill providing for extensive amendments to the Criminal Code will be laid over for the next session unless it reaches the Commons at least two weeks before the target date for prorogation. Also to be left are extensive amendments to the Food and Drug Act, and some members expect the consolidation of the Immigration Act may also be set aside.

Privately, some members are discussing the possibility of the next session opening late in October or November and continuing until April or May. Several members are planning to attend the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II on June 2, 1953.

Although the life of the present parliament does not expire until August, 1954, some quarters are speculating that the next election will take place in the fall of 1953. The government remains silent on the question.

National Health

Health Minister Martin presented his estimates to the House and said the government still favors a national health insurance plan but did not feel it could be implemented at this time. He gave a number of reasons; agreement with the provinces, lack of adequate hospital facilities, and the huge cost involved.

When the plan was first mooted it was estimated the dominion was short 65,000 hospital beds necessary to carry it out. Since then 38,000 more beds have been available and 433 new hospitals have been erected.

But the government found it had miscalculated on the number of beds necessary for the National Health Insurance plan. Mr. Martin said the plan would cost "much more" than the $400,000,000 annual figure suggested. The government had to consider, in the face of heavy defence taxes, whether the additional weight of a national health plan could be carried by the nation.

He said all the provinces have approved the federal government's health program.

The health minister said Canada is winning its battle against tuberculosis among the Indian population. The tuberculosis death rate dropped 45 per cent in the last five years, but the health program has not by any means solved the problem of the scourge. Each year about 75 per cent of the Indian population of 135,000 is X-rayed.

Douglas Harkness (PC-Calgary East) pointed out that the rate among Indians still is 13 or 14 times greater than the rate among whites and felt this indicated the need for an extended program. Mr. Martin replied that surveys are being extended as funds and staff permit.

Food to Britain

John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) suggested to the House that Canada give some of her surplus food to the United Kingdom. He said such a gift would assist both the U.K. and Canada. It would supply Britain with some of the things she cannot buy because of the dollar shortage and would remove from Canada the economic dangers resulting from large unsold surpluses.

The opposition member also asked the government to consider shifting $90,000,000 or $100,000,000 in defence orders from the United States to Britain. The money could be used by Britain to buy Canadian agricultural products.

Mr. Diefenbaker made his suggestions in renewed debate on a Progressive Conservative motion of non-confidence in the government. The motion, later defeated,

Department of Commerce Grant For Tourist Bureau, Permanent Quarters

Contributed by Lachute Chamber of Commerce

Advance news of the Tourist Bureau project was featured last week in The Watchman and its French-language contemporary, L'Argenteuil. We are now pleased to announce that, through the efforts of Mr. W. M. Cottingham, the Chamber of Commerce has received a provincial government grant to the amount of $500 towards the launching of this Bureau and to further the industrial efforts of this organization. The bureau will be situated in the Caisse Populaire premises, 279-A Main Street, to serve as office and headquarters of the Chamber; and the directorate are duly appreciative of the assistance given by the Quebec Department of Commerce through Mr. Cottingham's interest and support.

Temporary quarters have been used by the Chamber of Commerce in connection with its sales promotion plan (C.C.C.) at the Gatineau Power Co. showroom, made available through the generosity of Rodrigue Carreau, manager. The permanent office at the Caisse Populaire will serve as an exchange centre for the sales coupons, as well as headquarters for administration of the group insurance scheme.

Chamber of Commerce members and directors will justify the government's gesture of support with their continued enthusiasm and full co-operation, and constructive results should accrue to the benefit of the entire community.

Business Changes

We are informed that one of our members, Angelo Fassio, has completed negotiations for the sale of his two theatres, Rex and Rio. The purchaser is Gerard Marcoux, a businessman of Oka and formerly of St. Jean de Matha. To the new proprietor we extend a cordial welcome, and to Mr. Fassio we wish good fortune in his future ventures.

Another active member of this organization, Roger Legault, has entered a new line of business, having taken over the B-A service station known as "Fairway Sales and Service", beyond the town limits on the approach from Montreal. Friends and colleagues — including the Giles Publishing House, to whom Mr. Legault has given considerable effort in the inauguration of the weekly "L'Argenteuil" — extend sincere good wishes for the success of his new proprietorship.

Body of Hunter Found Near Mont Laurier

Roger Larocque, 23, of St. Veronique de Turgeon, near Mont Laurier, was found dead by his two brothers near their home last Sunday afternoon.

Provincial Police said the man had been shot in the head. Larocque was last seen alive by his brothers while on a hunting trip that morning.

Gatineau LINES

Please Report Trouble

Our customers can help themselves too by notifying us promptly whenever they have any kind of trouble in connection with their electric power service. The sooner we receive a complaint direct from a customer, the sooner we can do something to provide a remedy.

Every electrical distribution system runs into trouble of one kind or another from time to time, and Gatineau is no exception. When the service is defective we like to hear about it direct from the customer. Particularly in the climate and in the terrain served by Gatineau, troubles are likely to develop without the power company knowing about them unless a complaint is received.

Sometimes, in cases like these, customers forget to tell the power company that the service is defective, but they do tell other people about it — and hope that somehow the power company will hear about it through others.

It is much more effective to tell the power company itself when you have electrical troubles.

Impressions at Lachute Spring Fair

the theme of forest conservation. Two large display boards graphically showed the manufacturing process from the log to the pulp (which is the function of the Hawkesbury plant) and from the pulp to rayon fabric and cellophane sheet. This was a well-designed display.

Commercial displays outside the race-track were sponsored by local firms and others; to mention a few — Koolvent awnings; T. McOuat & Son Ltd. with Pyrofax gas devices; L. J. Dumais Reg. with Hudson coal and the Herco automatic furnace; Roger Lamarche with Necchi sewing machines; W. E. Hammond with television and radio. In this section a spot of unusual interest was a workshop with blind craftsmen, sponsored by the Canadian Institute for the Blind. The workers were seen making leather articles, operating a loom, weaving cane chair-tops and other crafts, all by touch and intuition.

The Planter's Peanut booth, adjoining, was another spot of unfailing interest, especially to the young folk. The local Legion met with an encouraging custom at this stand.

The Lions Club, Rotary Club, also the Brownsburg K. of C., and the Immaculate Conception Parish, had booths for fund raising efforts — the mike-manipulators of the two clubs running close seconds in salesmanship to their more experienced elocutionist on the peanut stand. The noise around these quarters was exceeded only by the interminable yap in the midway.

Creditable mention in displays goes also to the district auto dealers, many of whom had quite ambitious showings of cars and trucks.

MAIN BUILDING ATTRACTIONS

On the ground floor of the Main Building, the hubbub of past years was notably absent. Here was a quiet spot in which to withdraw from the glare of the sun (especially on Saturday, the hottest day). . . . The federal Department of Agriculture had a dignified layout dealing with grass silage and R.O.P. poultry breeding. The Argenteuil Health Unit and Anti-Tuberculosis League had their free chest X-ray service at specified hours, which was well patronized.

One interesting corner was occupied by juvenile handicrafts — and these items were the extent of the downstairs attractions.

The women's handicrafts, cookery and floriculture display on the second floor, occupied much space and gave evidence of unusual abilities. There were many excellent examples of workmanship, but — be it said — showmanship contributes little to the attractiveness of this annual display. It contrasts sadly with the attractive layouts of former years — those of Ayers Limited, C-I-L Ammunition and others no longer featured in the Main Building.

WINNERS OF DRAWINGS

In connection with the Lions Club stand, a special drawing was held Saturday night, in which the winner of a G.-E. combination radio-record player was Jos. Miller, of Arundel. Lions President Geo. Tattersfield rolled the drum, and Gavin Walker, president of the Agricultural Society, drew the lucky ticket.

A drawing was held nightly at the Planter's Peanut booth, for customers who had patronized the Legion counter during the day. The winners were — Wednesday, Henri Gagné, cash prize; Thursday, Lorne Crawford, electric clock; Friday Richd. Lafontaine, wagon; Saturday, Mrs. Pat Seary, home-size Coca-Cola cooler.

Salute to Good Organizers

A CROWD of 10,080 persons visited the Fair Grounds here last Friday. It might be remarked, there is nothing sensational in this fact. Yet if one witnessed a similar gathering at any other spot, or any other function, in this community, it would be spontaneously exclaimed, "That takes a lot of organization!"

Exactly. . . To accommodate, entertain and satisfy a crowd of ten thousand people at one time, requires well prepared plans, considerable risk and a deal of anxiety on somebody's part. But in the four days of Lachute Spring Fair 1952 the total of paid admissions reached 21,470 — exclusive of exhibitors, performers, personnel and helpers. The all-inclusive total would be difficult to estimate.

Once again, this column is moved to voice its admiration to the Argenteuil Agricultural Society directors and committeemen, who conducted this big venture so successfully. Much of the organizing effort is a voluntary, unpaid job by a group of energetic citizens, whose interest in the progress of our annual exhibition takes no measure of the hours expended and the labor involved. This is a community enterprise which spells in large letters the fine repute and good publicity of this town. And it is a public service deserving of our wholehearted recognition.

For Happy Holidays

WITH vacation days just ahead, this is a good time to think about summer safety and perhaps to pass the word along to the young folks so that they can get through the holiday period without mishap.

A few accidents possibly are unavoidable. Most of them, however, could be averted by those old standbys: care, courtesy and common sense.

The three C's are usually thought of in connection with preventing highway accidents. Safety authorities generally endorse them as a good basis for keeping down traffic smashes that can cost dearly in life and property.

However, they can be applied also to such other summer activities as boating, swimming or climbing.

Storms can come up swiftly and unexpectedly, bringing peril to persons who have ventured far out in small boats on a lake. Unfamiliar streams may have rapids or waterfalls in which danger lurks. Rip tides and undertows lie in wait for the unwary or over-confident swimmer.

Most summer deaths and injuries can be traced directly to thoughtlessness or recklessness. Standing up or changing place in small boats is asking for trouble. Speeding and stunting in motorboats can endanger both the boats' occupants and other persons in or on the water.

Swimmers still go into the water soon after meals, stay in cold water too long and swim out beyond the point from which they can return safely. Safety advisors frown on all these practices.

Still good is the familiar advice against exercising too strenuously during the first few days of vacation, against trying to get a dark tan in one day and winding up with sunburn, against overloading boats, against diving into water that may be shallow or filled with rocks and against drinking water if there is a possibility it is impure.

Vacations are too short for anything but pure enjoyment and relaxation. A little common sense can head off grief.

Optimistic Forecast

IN ANOTHER 20 years at the present rate of growth, Canada's population will reach 20 millions, says The Financial Post. This will mean more people to buy more goods. "Thin" markets will "fatten", producing in larger quantities. Spreading the vast overhead of fixed costs, many Canadian heavy industries will achieve higher efficiency. Costs will come more into line with U.S. costs. There will be more room for true Canadian design — in furniture, in clothes, and in household equipment.

Manufacturing will show the greatest growth and will use most of the additional labor force. Little of the populattion increase will flow to the farms. The same number of farms will have 40% more Canadians to feed. Home markets for agricultural produce will loom larger. Probably wheat will be the only farm product which will still have to look to export. And if we use our heads and help to develop backward countries now, we shouldn't have much trouble finding markets for surplus crops 20 years from now. The problem of export markets for farm products should be small, and farm prices relatively good.

Encourage Young Talents

EVERY CHILD has a gift, says Hughes Mearns, educator and psychologist and author of "Creative Youth" and other books. Mr. Mearns advises parents and teachers to watch for and foster children's natural endowments, which might otherwise be suppressed — his opinions appearing in an interesting article in the current Reader's Digest.

"All too often adults encourage only a limited range of traits, those commonly believed to be essential for success", the author warns. "The result is that the budding scholar may be discouraged by the epithet 'bookworm', and the young humorist suppressed as a trouble maker."

Frequently it is the seemingly unimportant gift which is the most useful in life. "The ability to communicate confidence may at times serve a doctor better than his medical skill; a passionate love of justice, discouraged as forwardness in a child, may one day contribute more to a lawyer's success than the ability to prepare a brief."

Mearns advises mothers to watch children's play to find their real interests and talents. Often the boy who is uncommunicative in class is a natural leader on the sandlot; the boy who scorns books may well be skillful with tools.

Mothers should encourage children to talk about their hobbies and ambitions. For some adults, discovering gifts in children will demand a change in personality, for self-effacement in an adult is what draws the child out. Children think about the world and the people around them, and come to worthy conclusions — their own. The parent who values these conclusions as stepping stones to more mature judgments will have the enjoyment of seeing unsuspected gifts appear and grow. It is hard to learn to listen, even to one's children, but the rewards are worth the effort many times over.

Those "Modern" Styles

FURNITURE styles — like women's clothes — have swung back to the turn of the century and it's time to haul Grandma's rocker out of the attic.

In the first place the old chair probably is solid mahogany or walnut—none of your veneers in those days.

As for style, the very quaintness of the rocker is what modern housewives consider right up to the minute. The man who made it probably thought he was merely creating an honest serviceable piece of furniture. Nothing fancy, mind you. He would be the most surprised of anyone if he knew that today artisans have made a "style" out of that very serviceability.

The truth is that women in their home furnishings are striving to return to the days of their grandmothers. It's the same with their clothes.

But while a different style in clothes frequently will mean a new wardrobe, such is not necessarily the case in the furniture world.

The solution may lie in the attic. Once Grandma's chair has been polished it will be just the thing for the living-room.

Grandpa's horsehair sofa, with a new slipcover, might look well in the den.

But, alas, milady seldom can dig into the old trunk for her new hat. Current fashion nowadays is causing the average women to encase her figure in camisoles and waist-clinchers similar to those which 50 years ago her feminine forebears were beginning to shed with a sigh of relief.

But she has to buy them new. It just isn't possible for her to unearth and wear the original bonnet which Aunt Nellie sported to that historic quilting party. However, she probably still could use Aunt Nellie's sideboard. Today it would be as up-to-date as ever, and every bit as durable.

"THINGS AN' STUFF"

WALTER HENRY JACKSON

The Labor Situation

During all of the many years I've had a permanent camp in Argenteuil County, I've never been short of firewood, but it hasn't always been dry — on account of never having had a woodshed. Last year I decided to build one with a lot of second-hand lumber that was cluttering up my back yard and basement in town. But it was not until this spring that I was able to find a local trucker who was able and willing to bring it out here for me.

Having the time and tools, I decided to build it myself. It was to be six feet by ten, and covered with nice green asphalt shingles so that it would not be an eyesore to visitors, nor a blot on the landscape.

First I dug six holes for the cedar posts on which the beams were to rest. This was just unskilled labor, and I got to wondering what the hourly rate would be if I were paying someone else to do it. I figured about ninety cents an hour. When I got to the stage of sawing and nailing, I figured that this was a carpenter's job and that he would have charged me at least one-twenty-five an hour. So I mentally raised my salary to this amount. Then came the applying of the asphalt shingles, used as siding to cover the weatherbeaten boards. I had never done this sort of work before, but started in to do it anyway. Half-way through the first bundle, I came across a sheet of instructions telling how I should have done it. Now here was a job that required brains, and one has to be prepared to pay for brains. So I gave myself another raise, to one-fifty an hour.

Whoever designed those shingles (they come in large slabs) did not take into account the fact that they might be used on slightly cockeyed buildings, and this led to more complications, and consequently more brain-power. But I didn't dare give myself another raise for fear of being fired.

It's finished now. The roof doesn't leak. We had a terrific rain and thunderstorm, and none of my tools even got damp. But I didn't get around to putting the woodpile in it. All my wood is now soaking wet.

I won't bore you with a detailed statement, but the whole job, materials, cartage, and labor cost me $93.75, and remember, I had most of the lumber in the first place. That's altogether too much to pay for a 6 x 10 woodshed, so I'm not going to build anything else until labor gets cheaper. I'm such a high-priced man that I can't afford to hire myself.

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you: —

Q. We are working a five-day week. Why have we to use six days in figuring unemployment contributions? We consider five days a full work week.

A. Under the Act a person is not considered unemployed on any day of any calendar week during which he works the full working week, which is defined as the number of hours, days or shifts which constitute the full week's work for his grade or class or shift in his occupation or at the place where he is employed. (1) Therefore a worker on a five-day week cannot be paid benefit on the sixth day. (2) He is credited with a contribution for that day, which enables him to accumulate one-fifth more contributions towards future benefit entitlement than would be the case if he received contribution credits for only five days. (3) The payment of a contributon for the full week removes any uncertainty about another employer being liable for the contribution for the sixth day, if the employee should happen to work elsewhere on that day.

Q. If an employee is insured by his main employer, is he also insurable by the second employer?

A. No. However, if a person works regularly for two or more employers on the same day, the employers may arrange for one of them to pay contributions on the basis of the total remuneration received from all of them. In such case the employers divide the cost pro rata.

AIR-BORNE CADETS

Portage La Prairie, Man. (CP) — Canada's only air-borne army cadet unit, No. 745 Manitoba Special Air Service Cadet Corps, in their annual inspection paraded before Maj.-Gen. N. E. Rodger, O.C. Prairie Command. They demonstrated their skill in motor mechanics, wireless, Bren gun and physical training.

TABLES TURNED

Carrot River, Sask. (CP)—Farmers in the Petaigan district are planting trees again this year. Since homesteading days the farmers have been trying to get rid of trees, but now they are replacing them with maples, poplar, willows and even some fruit trees.

OBITUARY

Former Resident Buried at Louisa

The Late Mrs. R. Sidney Boyd

Mrs. Sidney (Sarah) Boyd whose husband, a farmer at Louisa, predeceased her 40 years ago, died in the Sherbrooke Hospital last Thursday, June 12. Following the funeral service in St. Peter's Church, at Sherbrooke, her remains were brought here for burial at Louisa Cemetery last Sunday.

The late Mrs. Boyd was born in Mille Isles parish in 1866. In her widowhood she moved to Lennoxville some years ago.

Service at St. Aidan's Church, Louisa, was largely attended, the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh officiating. Among those present were her son from Vermont and her three daughters, besides friends and relatives from Arundel, Lachute, Eastern Townships, and the immediate vicinity of her former home. She was laid to rest beside her late husband in the Louisa burial ground.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

YOUNG — Mrs. Thos. J. Young, Mrs. Bates and Mrs. McArthur, wish to thank sincerely all kind friends who assisted in any way in their recent sad bereavement, also for the many floral tributes.

IN MEMORIAM

TURMEL — In loving memory of Sister Alice, who passed away June 19, 1951, also dear Mother, who passed away July 24, 1935. — Sadly missed by Mabel.

"God took your hand, we had to part,
He eased your pain but broke my heart;
Although I smile and seem carefree,
Nobody misses you more than me."

WELDEN — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Richard Welden, who passed away June 5, 1942. — Ever remembered by his wife and children.

"Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
Not just today, but every day,
In silence we remember —
Of those who knew him, all will know
How much we lost ten years ago."

DISTRICT NEWS FROM OUR COUNTY CORRESPONDENTS

Mabel

Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Curran and children, of Montebello, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Black.

Mr. Fred Townsend, Mrs. R. Derouin and Mrs. R. Warwick were in Montreal on Monday owing to the serious illness of Mr. Henderson Townsend.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil MacCallum and Mr. and Mrs. Dougald MacTavish attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Sidney Boyd, of Sherbrooke. The funeral was held at Louisa last Sunday, with interment in the Louisa Cemetery.

Feted on Their 25th Anniversary

Friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bennett feted them on Saturday evening, on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. A chest of silver was presented to the honored couple, and a sum of money, along with the congratulations and best wishes of all present.

Those who attended were from Cornwall, Lachute, Montreal, Calumet, and from this vicinity. Around 70 or more persons were present.

Visitors Welcomed at Harrington Church Service

On Sunday last in the Harrington United Church, the presence of a soloist added much to the impressiveness of the service. The singer was Mr. Murray Beesley, of Saint John, N.B., at present in Montreal. Mr. Beesley sang three selections, and was accompanied by Miss Sarah McRae on the organ.

About 18 folk from Wales, Ont., also attended this service—friends of the student pastor serving here and who had served previously in that community.

Service will be held as usual at 11 a.m. in the Harrington United Church this Sunday, with Sabbath School prior to the service, at 10 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tomalty, of Red Deer, Alta., are visiting relatives here at present.

"Around the Country"

For five years the Val D'Or, Que., town council has battled with Phileas Moreau over price of a strip of property for street construction. According to town survey it was worth $97.30 and Mr. Moreau wanted $119.25. They finally capitulated last week after hundreds of stamps and letters. . . At Cornerbrook, Nfld., a curious-looking fish jumped into the boom, an armor-plated sea monster which they think is a sturgeon; has a protective coat of armor, all of which is like sandpaper. . . The New Brunswick Telephone Company placed its 80,000th telephone — in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Albert, in Edmundston.

C. H. Miller, of Evansville, Ont., has a dark grey Barred Plymouth Rock which has laid 305 eggs in 305 days; and still living. . . With a touch of sarcasm the Brooks, Alta., Bulletin notes that while B.C. went to unusual lengths to ban Alberta livestock for a considerable period, that province was quite anxious to have Alberta grain shipped through Pacific ports.

'Week at Ottawa'

urged that Canada call a Commonwealth trade conference as soon as possible to discuss such things as convertibility of commonwealth currencies.

The Saskatchewan member believed such a conference would have effective results. George McIlraith (L-Ottawa West), parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, disagreed. He said Canada should not have to take the initiative on such a conference. The Canadian dollar is convertible but sterling is not.

Clarie Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South) said Canada should develop her own market as the first step towards more solid trade.

Constitutional Change

The first change in Canada's constitution since the dominion was granted that right by the United Kingdom parliament in 1949 was made by the Commons. The House approved a constitutional change permitting revision of representation in the Commons. It will increase membership to 265 from 262 on the basis of the 1951 census.

However, the change met an opposition broadside before it was approved and sent to the Senate for ratification. The House rejected a Progressive-Conservative demand that the provinces be consulted before any readjustments are made. It also turned down a CCF motion asking for the establishment of an independent commission to carry out the readjustment.

The bill included a government proposal that no province's representation be decreased by more than 15 per cent in any redistribution. The provision was inserted as a safeguard for Saskatchewan which was scheduled to lose five of its 20 seats. Under the 15-per-cent floor that western province will lose three seats. Manitoba will lose two of its 16, and Nova Scotia one of its 13. British Columbia will add four to its 18, Ontario two to its 83 and Quebec two to its 73.

The Yukon-Mackenzie river constituency, now represented by one member, will be split in two. One member will represent the Yukon and the other the Northwest Territories. The number of members from other provinces will remain unchanged, although the boundaries of existing constituencies may be altered.

When Argenteuil County Made Forestry Headlines

Premier Duplessis' Recent Visit to Harrington Forest Farm

Recent scenes at Harrington, when Argenteuil County made forestry headlines on the occasion of the official opening, by Premier Maurice Duplessis, of the Forest Farm, a Canadian International Paper Company development. Hundreds attended the ceremony, including among the distinguished guests — W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A. for Argenteuil, prominent advocates of forest conservation, and representatives of municipalities in this area. In his inaugural speech, Mr. Duplessis congratulated Canadian International Paper for its progressive step in making a model tree farm available to woodlot owners, as well as the services of its trained foresters. He urged farmers to protect and conserve their woodlots as an essential part of their farms. In the photograph at top left, Mr. Duplessis is shown as S. L. De Carteret, president of C.I.P., explains how hardwoods from the area are converted into dissolving pulp at the Hawkesbury mill, and later into rayon. At right, the Premier proudly shows one of the 70-odd seedlings he planted with a machine to mark the opening. Next to him are Vernon E. Johnson, vice-president and general manager of C.I.P., Fred Harrison, manager of woodlands, and Art Lafrance, Harrington forester, who instructed Mr. Duplessis in the use of the special planter. At bottom is a general view of the pretty farm buildings, which are situated on a knoll overlooking the Rouge River. There live the year-round workers, and a special meeting room has been provided for group demonstrations on forestry. The Harrington farm is closely associated, under the direction of M. R. "Manny" Wilson, with the C.I.P. forestry and wood procurement office at Grenville.

TAKES AN EFFORT

No one will dispute the fact that industries in small towns give a measure of stability to the community. People of this community cannot sit back and expect industries to spring up of their own accord as if by magic. We must be prepared to help ourselves to industries.

— Winkler (Man.) Progress

TAX ON IDLENESS

Theoretically the perfect tax would be a tax on inaction. The proper man to tax would be the loafer, not the worker; idle land, not used land; inactive capital, not active capital; lack of enterprise, not enterprise. Such a tax would not be practical but it would be more just.

— High River (Alta.) Times

THEY NEVER LEARN

It seems that, no matter how many accidents and deaths are caused at railway crossings, some motorists will still take a chance of racing with an oncoming train. One would imagine that each and every motorist would be thoroughly impressed with the idea of stopping at the crossings.

BEAVERS CALLED ON TO AID ALBERTA CONSERVATION

Dams Made by Busy Rodents Aid in Water Storage and Regulationg River Flow

Edmonton (CP) — Thousands of eager beavers are hard at work helping to conserve Alberta's water and forest resources.

In almost every part of Alberta's 225,000-square miles of land, in hundreds of rivers and creeks, the furry symbol of industry is building steel-strong dams which store the supply of water with an efficiency that man-made devices could not equal.

The beaver may not be fully aware of his value as a conservation aid, but the Alberta government is — and has been since it started a full-scale beaver propagation and control program about nine years ago.

One official reports there "are more beaver in Alberta now than there were when the Indians were running the country."

The theory behind Alberta's beaver program is that if the animals are encouraged to breed in suitable areas, they can do much toward storing water in the upper matched competition. Standing reaches of streams and help to keep a normal flow of water in the rivers all year around.

When the program first started the province did not have a large enough beaver population. For about three years strict controls were placed on the beaver trapping.

Six years ago, the program of live-trapping and moving was started. Beavers were taken from areas where they cause damage and moved to areas where they will be of value.

Withstand Spring Floods

The program is not expensive and the beaver know so much more engineering than man that their dams are seldom if ever washed out by spring floods.

Three two-man crews will be employed in live-trapping and moving of beaver in Alberta this summer. In addition, about 10 fish and game branch officers will be equipped with traps and will work in their own districts.

Live-trapping must be done early in the spring before the young are able to fend for themselves. Moving cannot be done safely after mid-September as the animals need time to store food and re-establish themselves for winter.

The trappers usually catch the beaver by breaking a small hole in a dam and setting a trap nearby. A piece of willow or poplar is used for bait. Traps also are placed on beaver feeding trails in some cases.

Most of the moving jobs are from districts where the dams flood valuable farm lands or highways.

Beavers will live almost anywhere they can find water and a few trees.

Trapping of beaver in Alberta still is kept under rigid control. Special permits are issued only on the recommendation of game wardens, who decide how many animals can be taken from each registered trapline. As a rule, the regulations provide that a trapper can take up to, but not more than, the annual increase in beaver in that area.

Steelworkers are highest paid industrial workers in Ontario, with $1.61 an hour average at December 1, 1951.

Canadian manufacturers made 5.8 cents profit on each dollar of sales in 1951, down from 7.1 cents in 1950.

Frozen Foods

From early history, man has tried to discover satisfactory methods of preserving food. Cave men lit fires to smoke their venison and fish. Drying, and later salting, became the vogue of their descendants. More recently, chemical methods were tried and when canning was introduced, it was thought that the perfect method of preserving had been found. The latest development is a return to one of nature's own methods — preservation by cold. Although freezing and cold storage of a kind have been used for some time, the new method of "quick-freezing" has revolutionized ideas on the subject.

Commercial freezing began in the United States in 1870. In 1924 the first frozen dressed foods, in the form of fish fillets, made their appearance on the consumer market. Because of their high quality, they were quickly accepted by the public. In 1930, the first quick-frozen packaged perishables — meats, poultry, fruits and vegetables, appeared. There is no doubt that frozen foods are becoming more popular in Canada. How much more, it is hard to say. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, were interested in two States, one made three years ago, recent surveys in the United the other only a few months ago. Consumers from 35 cities located were asked a number of questions about frozen foods. Here are some of the results. Three years ago, about three-quarters of the families were buying frozen foods. Now it is up to more than eight out of ten. Over half the homemakers serve frozen foods more than once a week and the main reasons given by the relatively small number who do not use frozen foods are that they are too expensive, they prefer fresh foods or they have their own home canned foods. The survey did show that when there were more than four children in the family, the number buying frozen foods was considerably less that when there were only one or two children. These facts are most interesting and while there are no Canadian figures, a survey in Canada would probably tell a similar story.

In the old methods of slow freezing, ice crystals formed in the food and grew to such a size that they pierced and damaged the cell walls and tissues. Consequently, on thawing the cells collapsed and the food lost its natural texture and flavor. In the new method of "quick-freezing", vast numbers of small ice crystals, too small to do any damage, are formed and when the food is thawed it retains its original flavor and firm texture. Some fruits do not freeze as well as others, but there are a great number of high quality flavorful frozen foods on the market in Canada today.

In the survey made in the United in different parts of the country States, it was found that strawberries were the most popular fruit — twice as popular as any other. Then came peaches, then raspberries. Probably strawberries are the most popular Canadian fruit. Right now, Canadian food processors are busy freezing these luscious red berries so that homemakers can enjoy strawberry shortcake, salad or ice cream later this year.

Credit for the introduction of quick freezing is generally given to a man named Clarence Birdseye, who made an accidental discovery on an Arctic expedition. While journeying north he buried some fish in the ice for feeding his dogs and on his return some moths later, was surprised to find that they had kept perfectly and that they were like freshly caught fish. He immediately recognized the commercial possibilities of preserving foods by quick freezing and commenced working on the project when he returned to his laboratories. The quick frozen foods now on sale are the result of his and other research.

The other day, one of the home economists of the Consumer Section was shopping in a large grocery store in Ottawa and decided to investigate the frozen food cabinet. She examined everything from top to bottom, for it is easy to miss some of the frozen foods that are not at the top of the cabinet. She found an amazing number of frozen fruits and vegetables, broccoli, corn, spinach, and cauliflower as well as Brussels sprouts, asparagus, mixed vegetables, squash and a combination of carrots and peas. This little jaunt was a reminder that Canadian food processors pack a wonderful variety of vegetables for Canadian consumers.

In 'Continental Moods'

This is Frosia Gregory, Toronto soprano, who lends a touch of glamor to Saturday night broadcast series, Continental Moods, heard at 9.05 on the CBC Trans-Canada network. With Ivan Romanoff conducting the orchestra, the show presents European cafe and dance music of yesterday and today. Miss Gregory has been active in radio since 1935. After graduating from the Juilliard School in New York she made a name for herself in concert and operatic work before turning to popular music as a dance band songatress.

Variety of Designs In Latest Ribbons

London (CP) — Three thousand yards of ribbon in a variety of designs, materials and colors was used recently to demonstrate to overseas buyers what the ribbon industry in Britain can produce.

The main demand until a year or so ago was for plain ribbons of high quality. Now United Kingdom firms are producing quantities of organdies, tinsel-striped organzas, nylon granits, satin-striped granits and petershams, new figured and spot designs and more attractive stripes and checks.

An interesting innovation of the last year or two has been printed floral ribbon.

The ribbon trade in Britain has a long history, for it was one of the first textiles in the United Kingdom ever to be woven of silk. Since 1946 millions of pounds' worth has been exported to over 60 countries.

A unique use for ribbon was shown the other day when one of London's prettiest mannequins wore a wedding dress made of 500 yards of one inch silk double satin ribbon plaited into a fabric and stitched to light canvas foundation.

Incidentally, in judging a good ribbon, the customer should look for evenness of weave, straightness and firmness of edge, crispness of texture and the non-twist hang of the free end.

Contemporary Living

What is contemporary living? That is a good question. First, it is living in our age and in our world. Living according to the standards which we ourselves set, and yet living for the future. By contemporary living, I do not mean running out to the store and buying everything just because this or that person has bought it, or just because a manufacturing concern decides to change the traditional design and therefore, as we live today, we should buy it, so that we can say we have it.

I mean by "contemporary living", living with an eye to permanency and not to fads. When you buy, you should buy for today, tomorrow and the next day, and not because it is new. Just because it is, is no guaranttee that it will endure.

Our world is full of gadgets, and things to make life more comfortable, more enjoyable — naturally, the extras in life are costly. How are we going to get the best for our money?

There is a book called "Consumers' Guide". In this book, ratings are given and different things are called into view, so that you can get a full appraisal of the commodity that you are buying. This is very handy to consult, and it makes you take notice of the different features that manufacturers have to take into account.

When we live in our age — and as our age is a world in transition — it is hard for us to picture what the future is going to be. Yet because of that very fact we have to rely upon our own good taste and foresight. Too, as we are living in a transitional state of affairs, many things are apt to be thrown on the market; and thus we don't know too much what they are, and are apt to use them wrongly. In this way, I hope that these articles will help — to use modern things in a capacity that will enhance them, and not make them seem cluttery.

Next week I will discuss the first topic, Modern Furniture.

OLD-TIMERS GATHER

Sewing Hints

When putting darts or tucks on inside of garments, you can eliminate tying threads and have the dart lie more smoothly if you follow this procedure. First stitch dart of tuck as usual. When you reach the end of the line of stitching, instead of cutting thread, turn and stitch back along the outer edge of the dart or tuck.

* * *

For accuracy when cutting out a pattern, sewing experts suggest that you first press pattern before laying sections out on the fabric. Use a very low-temperature iron while doing this, since too much heat will cause pattern pieces to curl.

* * *

When choosing a fabric for a home-dressmaking project, it is usually wiser to select your pattern first. Sewing experts say that more dressmaking failures are caused by an unfortunate combination of pattern and fabric, than for any other reason.

PIONEER HONORED

Carberry, Man. (CP) — A dinner at her home here honored the 95th birthday of Mrs. Ellen Dempsey, a pioneer resident of the Gregg district who was born at North Gover in Carleton county, Ont., and came west after her marriage.

FINDS EXTREMES

Liverpool, N.S. (CP) — A Mother's Day contest sponsored by the weekly Liverpool Advance brought forth an oldest mother of 100 years and six months, and a youngest of just 14 years.

Tiny Girl Pipers At N.S. Ceremony

St. Ann's, N.S. (CP) — Two tiny girl pipers provided music when a heather-planting ceremony was observed at the Gaelic College here, in the heart of the Cape Breton Highlands.

Mora Jean MacLeod and Norma Morrison, both 11, played the Jacobite song "Over The Seas To Skye" in the setting reminiscent of the Scottish moors. The girls belong to the Sydney Girls' Pipe Band.

Several clumps of heather were sent from Dunvegan Moor, Isle of Skye, by Flora MacLeod, chief of the Clan MacLeod, for the ceremony May 21. The planting, before a log museum, was in honor of the 1952 Skye week in Scotland.

Let's Eat

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"Poultry is fairly reasonable in price, Chef. If a 3 to 4 lb. hen is carefully used there will be enough meat for two meals for a family of four. For instance, the first day half the cooked bird might be made into a brown fricassee. The remainder could be minced and made into chicken timbales for use later in the week."

"I agree with the fricassee, Madame. But generally speaking, men do not like fine-chopped meat. They say, 'give me something I can get my teeth into.' So may I suggest instead of the timbales, Baked Chicken with Biscuit Topping, which is popular with men whenever it is served in restaurants."

Tomorrow's Dinner

Hot or Cold Tomato Juice
Chicken with Biscuit Topping
Baked Squash or Pumpkin
Pickled Beets
Mince-Stuffed Apples
Coffee, Tea or Milk

Note: A good time-and-fuel-saving oven meal. The chicken, squash and mince-stuffed apples can be baked all at once.

All measurements are level.

Recipes Serve Four

Two-Way Chicken

Chicken Fricassee: Order a 3 to 4 lb. fowl (enough for 2 meals). Clean, remove pin feathers, scrub with mild soapy water and rinse with cold water. Place in a kettle with 1 sliced peeled onion, 1 cup cut-up celery leaves, 1 bayleaf and 2 tsp. salt. Cover with boiling water; put on a lid, simmer until fork-tender, from 2 to 3 hours. (Or use only 3 cups water and pressure-cook 35 to 40 minutes at 15 lbs.) Cool. Remove the skin, cut the meat from the bones and make half into a fricassee with plain chicken gravy or chicken-tomato gravy. Serve over rice or noodles. Top the chicken with a chopped hard-cooked egg and parsley.

Chicken with Biscuit Topping: Melt 2 tbsp. butter or margarine, or heat 3 tbsp. chicken fat skimmed from the broth; stir in 4 tbsp flour. Gradually add 2 cups chicken broth and stir until boiling. Add pieces of the remaining cooked chicken. Pour into an oiled 3 pt.-size shallow baking dish. Top with rich biscuits. Bake 35 minutes at 375 F. Serve in the baking dish.

Rich Biscuits: Sift together 2 cups plain all-purpose flour, 4 tsp. baking powder and ½ tsp. salt. Combine ¼ cup softened lard or chicken fat with ¾ cup whole milk or reconstituted dried skim milk. Add all at once. Stir until mixed. Transfer to heavy waxed paper or a floured pastry board. Pat to 1-inch thickness. Shape into 2-inch rounds with a cookie cutter. Place on the chicken and gravy. Bake as directed.

Suggestion of the Chef

Before baking add 1 cup cooked or canned peas or lima beans and ½ cup cooked or canned carrots to biscuit topped chicken.

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Children and Water Safety

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"Another drowning accident in tonight's paper! A three-year-old was playing with a toy boat on the far end of a dock at a summer cottage. He must have lost his balance and fallen in. No one heard him call —"

"But why wasn't his mother watching him?"

"She thought he was having his afternoon nap in the pup tent he used as a playhouse. The paper says he must have wakened and gone out on the dock when no one was around — "

Every parent's heart goes out to a father or mother who loses a child. Several times each week, indeed every day in some weeks, drowning fatalities are reported in the daily press during the summer months. Watching little children is a twenty-four hour job, wherever they may be, and this is particularly true during the summer holidays! A youngster can be drowned so quickly!

The solution of the water safety problem is certainly not to scare a child into staying away from the water. Fear is no atmosphere to learn anything, including how to swim. A child should love the water and learn to be at home in it at as early an age as possible.

At the same time, he must be taught that water, like fire, must be treated with respect. It is a good friend if rules are followed, but it often rewards carelessness with terrible consequences. As a very little child, a boy or girl must know that mother and daddy insist on obedience to water safety regulations.

The swimming and boating routine at any good youth camp can guide parents in forming sensible rules. These regulations are usually posted up at camp and can be read on any Visitor's Day. The campers certainly know them! Post up your family rules at your cottage and go over them one by one at a Family Council.

Ignorance is no excuse for breaking a water safety rule, and it is a parent's duty to teach children water safety before they can read. In most camps any infraction of a swimming rule brings immediate cancellation of a swimming period. Not a bad plan for family swims! On a hot day, indeed on any day because "Swim Time" is a major event, not to be allowed in the water is a terrible disappointment.

No one should swim until one and a half to two hours after eating. No one should ever enter the water alone. If there are several children in the family, use the Buddy System. Swim in pairs, with each "buddy" responsible at all times for the whereabouts of his partner. A parent or capable adult must always supervise the swimming time, which must be at a set time and within a definite area.

The length of this swim period varies according to the age and health of the children, the temperature of the water and the kind of day it is — sunny or cool and windy. Never let a child become exhausted or chilled by too long a time in the water. They never want to come out — they love it so! But it is the task of the person in charge to keep the swimmers free from fatigue and illness as well as safe from accidents.

Other children visiting your youngsters, who want to stay during your swimming time, must ask permission from their parents and observe your rules. If parents know each other well, and agree on the same safety precautions, they can work out a plan of taking turns at supervision. If this is followed, they should not have to watch too many youngsters.

Sometimes a parent has trouble with a visitor ducking a small youngster in fun, and giving the small child a nasty scare. "No horse-play in the water" is a sensible rule.

Occasionally children want to swim in unfamiliar water. Better stick to a swimming place you know, with no holes or submerged rocks or logs, or sudden drop in the bottom of the lake or river. When on a picnic or motor trip, find the safe community or park swimming spots, and use them. Discourage long distance swims on the part of small youngsters, and never allow one unaccompanied by a boat.

A whistle is an asset to a parent looking after the children's swim. Make sure that every child knows that no one can go swimming until mother or father is on the dock or beach and one long blast is blown. Use the signal of two short blasts for each child to grab his buddy's hands — and blow these two blasts two or three times during the swimming period. Use three short blasts of the whistle as a warning that in three minutes everyone must be promptly out of the water, then three long blasts for "Everyone Out!" Make sure the whistle is obeyed. You might have to use it in an emergency, when tardiness might endanger a child's life!

WOODS CONSERVATION CONVENTION TOPIC FOR QUEBEC W.I.'s

Manny Wilson to Address Macdonald Gathering

"The Care of the Farmer's Woodlot" will be the topic of an address by M. R. (Manny) Wilson, resident manager of Canadian International Paper Co. at Grenville, at the 38th annual provincial convention of the Quebec Women's Institutes, to be held at Macdonald College, June 24-26. Conservation, with particular reference to reforestation and the care of the wood lot, has been the subject of many inquiries from Q.W.I. members during the year and the address is designed to stimulate further interest. This is arranged for the middle day of the convention, June 25, in the afternoon, and Mr. Wilson is planning to make use of films to illustrate points under discussion.

The curriculum in rural high schools has also been another matter of concern. A special committee was set up in the early spring with Mrs. W. B. Holmes, president of Stanstead County W.I., as chairman. A survey was conducted and the findings will be presented on the last day of the convention, in the morning. Prof. C. Wayne Hall, School for Teachers, Macdonald College, and chairman of the Curriculum Committee, Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers, will be present to assist in the discussion and will speak on the subject under the title, "What Should We Teach?"

Other speakers at the convention will be Miss Margaret E. Kerr, R.N., and Mrs. W. H. Holmes, B.A., D.C.L., both of Montreal. Their talks will be given Wednesday, June 25, at the morning and evening sessions respectively, when reports of standing committees on Welfare & Health and Citizenship will be considered.

The annual board meeting will be held immediately preceding the convention, with the provincial president, Mrs. G. E. LeBarron, North Hatley, presiding.

Final Report on In Brownsburg Red Cross Drive

Brownsburg — Final returns in the Red Cross Campaign for funds in Brownsburg have been released by Mr. H. M. Sherwood, who was co-chairman with Mrs. N. E. Smillie.

Total receipts amounted to $1,249.10. While the objective of $1,500 was not attained, the amount received exceeds last year's total by nearly $150.

Mr. Sherwood feels that all organizations which participated in this year's campaign, the canvassers, and Mr. A. G. Talbot, the treasurer, are to be congratulated for their excellent achievement.

This total includes the sum of $66.70 collected from districts outside Brownsburg.

Human nature being what it is a lot of teen-agers will accept day work with its immediate higher gain, rather than learning-while-working at a trade that would bring greater satisfaction with steady work at a higher rate of pay over the years. NOTICE

The Honourable Antonio Barrette, Minister of Labour of the Province of Quebec, pursuant to the provisions of Section 5 of the Collective Labour Agreement Act (R.S.Q. 1941, chapter 163 and amendments), hereby gives notice that he intends to recommend the approval of the following amendments to the decree relating to the barber and hairdressing trades, which territorial jurisdiction comprises — Argenteuil, Deux-Montagnes, Terrebonne and Laval counties.

The notice of request of modification has been published in the Quebec Official Gazette of June 7, 1952, in the following manner:

Pursuant to the procedure established under section 8 of the Collective Agreement Act (Revised Statutes of Quebec 1941, chapter 163 and amendments), the Honourable Antonio Barrette, Minister of Labour, hereby gives notice that he intends to recommend the approval of the following amendments to the decree number 140 of February 27, 1952, relating to the barber and hairdressing trades in Argenteuil, Deux-Montagnes, Terrebonne and Laval counties:

a) In subsection "a" of section IV (Hours of Work):

1. The following provisions will be added to the paragraph concerning barbers in the county of Laval:

"However, in the town of Ste-Rose, the hours of work shall be those established by the Municipal Council."

2. Paragraphs "i" and "ii" concerning the duration of work for barbers of the county of Terrebonne will be replaced by the following:

"i". Within the limits of the towns of Terrebonne and Ste-Agathe des Monts and the municipalities of St. Jovite, St. Sauveur-des-Monts, Mont-Rolland and Val Morin, the hours of work shall be those established by the Municipal Council."

"ii. In the municipalities of Ste-Adèle and Shawbridge, work may cease at 7.00 p.m., Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, and at 9.00 p.m. Saturday."

Quits As Miner After 44 Yeras

Drumheller, Alta. (CP) — Thirty minutes spent under a 40-ton fall of rock in the Inverness Mine, Nova Scotia, in 1910 is recalled by Alex MacKinnon who retired recently at Midland Collieries here after 44 years of mining.

MacKinnon recalls that as the first crash of the 40 tons showered down on him his partner was able to reach through and touch his shoulder. As strain continued on the roof, MacKinnon warned his fellow workers back. Through a heroic effort of a rescue crew 30 minutes later MacKinnon was free. His only injury in the crash left a deep scar on one of his fingers.

In 44 years of mining MacKinnon worked at Inverness, Coleman, Alta., and then Drumheller. Recently he was made a life member of the Drumheller Fire Bosses' Union for his service here.

While it may not be common knowledge, says the secretary of the Ontario Creamery Association, it is nevertheless a fact that, for the past 37 years, the average price of June butter in Canada was lower than in the United States. From 1914 to 1950 the average June price for butter in New York was 40.28 cents a pound, while in Canada, the average was 33.71 cents.

Television Control Room in Montreal

Picture showing the central control room for television in the CBC Montreal radio headquarters. The control staff performs the same functions as in radio, except that it is concerned with visual as well as sound production. Television transmission instruments are far more complex than those of sound transmission, and the synchronizer-control is the most important factor in this department — regulating the lines of script per "scene", the number of images per second, etc., before transmission. . . Maurice Duplessis on the Menace of Communism

Quebec, June 16 — At Pont Rouge near Quebec last week, Premier Duplessis took issue with the Quebec Liberals for arguing that his Union Nationale party majority was too heavy in the last legislature. It was his first political rally since announcing the general election for July 16.

"What's too strong doesn't break", said Mr. Duplessis, who added his party was out to break the threat of Communism in the province. Communists hated the Union Nationale and hated him, the Premier said. "Our opponents are not Communists . . but some people claim the Communist menace is a farce, that there is no such thing — and they're not people from our party who say such things", he added.

Mr. Duplessis officially opened the Union Nationale campaign for re-election last Sunday, June 15, in his home-town of Three Rivers, and is launching a tour of the province, beginning in the lower St. Lawrence region with stops at Mont Joli, Rimouski, Cabano, and Riviere du Loup.

Mr. and Mrs L. J. King Receive Tokens and Good Wishes on Departure

A special Fireside Hour was held Sunday evening after the United Church service, to honor the Rev. and Mrs. Lewis J. King upon their retirement from active service in the community, and to extend best wishes to them before departing to Burnt Church, N.B., where they will reside.

After a hymn-sing, led by Chas. L. Duncan with Mrs. K. McOuat at the piano, Mr. W. M. Steeves, m.c. for the program, called upon Mr. A. A. McCuat to express good wishes on behalf of the Official Board and members of Lachute United Church to Mr. and Mrs. King, and to present them with a purse of money as a small token of esteem.

Mr. King, in accepting the gift, expressed amazement at the calling of a meeting of this kind "under false pretences". He expressed his pleasure in having been able to serve the Lachute church in various capacities, and also in his educational work during the past 20 years. He paid fitting tribute to his co-worker in the latter field, Mr. Geo. Y. Deacon, saying that, if it had not been for Mr. Deacon, many county children would not be enjoying the privileges of advanced education today.

The Rev. W. B. Rosborough also paid tribute to Mr. King for his loyal service in the church for the past 20 years — in the session, the choir and the Sunday School.

The choir group of the church also presented Mr. King with an Ayers "Rough-Rider" rug; Mr. J. S. Giles, in making this presentation, referred to the Lewis King School in Terrebonne, as a lasting monument to constructive service.

Refreshments were served by the Ladies' Aid, a society in which Mrs. King had long been active. Mr. Steeves expressed appreciation to this group for their contribution to the success of the evening.

During the morning, the Sunday School had their own presentation to Mr. King, and during the week, the W.M.S. of the United Church presented Mrs. King with several useful gifts — this latter meeting being held at the home of Mrs. F. S. McGibbon.

"Around the Country"

By Jim Greenblat

A surprise cheque for $333 to settle a bill incurred in 1913 came to Copeland-Chatterson of Brampton, Ont., from a man who went out West and hadn't "made good" until now; but he remembered — showing the world is quite honest, mostly. . . . An Indian Head, Sask., bottle dealer took in a case of empty beer bottles, thought it too heavy, investigated; mice had chewed a hole in the box and filled every bottle full of wheat; the empties came from a farm.

Elizabeth Gaeler, the new-born daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Gaeler, Chesley, Ont., came into the world with one tooth complete. . . . Although he has eight grandchildren and last winter marked his 61st wedding anniversary, 84-year old Joseph Watson still feels young enough to teach a class of youngsters at Sandwell school, 8 miles from Pontilas, Sask.; he says he has never had a day of sickness in his whole life.

Giving God's Word First Place in Our Lives

"How can a young man keep his path pure? By heeding thy word. I find joy in thy statutes; I will not forget thy word." (Psalm 119: 9, 16, AT). This is pre-eminent counsel for both young and old and shows the attitude one should take toward God's Word. Honest and sincere persons today seek to know and do God's will. The study of God's Word is essential for such. They learn precious truths from the perusal of its pages, and then also seek to share the knowledge gained with others, near and far.

Thousands of persons are sighing and crying about the abominations that are being committed daily. To whom can these persons turn for comfort and hope? An almost six thousand-year record of failure rules out political, commercial and false religious leaders. But Jehovah is the great, unfailing God of comfort and it is to him that a great crowd of persons are now turning in hope, as his servants continue to publish uplift and comfort for the poor. — Ps. 113: 7, 8, AS.

JET SQUADRON FLIES ATLANTIC. — The 439 Pursuit Squadron of the R.C.A.F. crossed this week to join the 1st Squadron at North Luffenham, England. Latterly stationed at Uplands, Ottawa, the squadron, flying F-86 Jet Sabres, is in command of Squadron Leader Carl Bricker, D.F.C., of Grenfell, Sask. (inset), who was a Spitfire pilot during World War II. While in the American aviation service, Bricker piloted a Thunderjet across the Atlantic, being the first Canadian to have made a trans-oceanic jet flight. . . In directing this flight he carried on under handicaps, suffering from an appendix attack and also enduring undue delays due to hazardous weather. The crossing was completed Sunday night.

Route of the squadron crossing is shown in the above maps. In Great Britain the 439th will be linked with the 410 and 441 Pursuit Squadrons.

There will come a time when you will cross the line between being insurable and non-insurable.

OBITUARY

Lifetime Resident Dies at Avoca

Late Thos. J. Young

Thomas John Young passed away at his home in Avoca, Que. — having resided all his lifetime in that community, on the same farm to which his grandparents came, from Tyrone, Ireland, and which his father later occupied, who predeceased him in 1884.

The late Mr. Young was born July 17, 1880, and was married in September, 1919, to Catharine McPhee, youngest daughter of the late Alexander McPhee, of Avoca.

He was a staunch Anglican, having been church warden of St. Mary's for about 40 years. He was secretary-treasurer of the Bible Society for over 25 years, also secretary-treasurer of the School Board for 18 years.

The funeral, held from his late residence, was largely attended, for he had made many friends both of his own generation and those of more youthful years.

The Rev. P. R. Stote, of Grenville, conducted the service assisted by the Rev. S. J. Pike, United Church minister at Brownsburg, who had often visited him during his illness.

The late Mr. Young is mourned by his sister, (Mattie) Mrs. MacArthur, of Calumet, another sister (Minnie) Mrs. Jos. H. Bates, of Port Colborne, Ont., also Mr. J. H. Bates, and a nephew, Thomas J. Bates and his wife Jean, of Port Colborne, Ont.

Former Resident Dies in B.C.

Late Mrs. M. G. Roberts

Relatives here learn with regret of the passing of Mrs. Margaret Grace Roberts, which occurred May 26 in hospital at New Westminster, B.C. The remains were taken to Hoosier, Sask., for interment.

The late Mrs. Roberts was born in Upper Lachute, a daughter of the late Paul B. Doig and his wife Annie Todd. She spent her early life in this community.

She is mourned by a son, Kenneth, in Hoosier, Sask.; two daughters, Mrs. L. Proud, of Youbou, B.C., formerly of Langley Prairie, and Mrs. Grace Thornton, Kenora, Ont.; three brothers, Bob, Ralph and Henry Doig; two sisters, Mrs. M. Yeomans, and Mrs. E. Steven, all in Saskatchewan; and three grandsons.

Need a LUMP SUM to fill your coal bin?
COAL usually comes cheaper in the good old summer time. But, for many of us, it's often a problem getting those dollars on the line right now — to take advantage of today's lower prices. That's where a B of M Coal Loan can be so handy.
To get in while the going's good, you should see the manager in your neighborhood branch of the Bank of Montreal. If you have an assured income and can repay a loan in nine monthly instalments, or less, the B of M will gladly underwrite your coal bill.
To take advantage of seasonally lower prices . . . to be sure of your full supply . . . to get your coal delivered dry . . . and to be snug — and smug — next winter when the last-minute rush to the coal dealer is on . . . see the man in "MY BANK". And why not do it today while you have it in mind?

Notable Baritone Booked for B'burg Flamingo Grill

The engagement of Carlos Ramirez for the evening of Monday, June 23, at the Flamingo Grill, Brownsburg, is a venture in higher class entertainment. The proprietor, R. Gervais, anticipates keen public interest in this booking, which is an ambitious undertaking on his part.

Ramirez is claimed as the continent's leading Latin American baritone. His three Carnegie Hall concerts, singing with 60 members of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, were complete sell-outs. A Victor recording artist outstanding in his particular interpretations, he has also been heard by radio audiences in the Hall of Fame, Bing Crosby, Charlie McCarthy, Frank Sinatra and such popular programs. He has sung with the famed Xavier Cugat Orchestra and acted in the Hollywood films "Night and Day" and "Bathing Beauty".

Mr. Ramirez, performing at Brownsburg, will be accompanied by a top-rating pianist, while Pierrette Champoux of CKVL, and other radio personalities, will appear with him on this occasion.

Many Prizes at Event in Lachute High School

For the first time in this district, a Cooking School is being held this evening (Thursday) at 8.15, in the Lachute High School auditorium. The event is under auspices of the Guild of St. Simeon's Church.

Presented by Canada Packers Limited of Montreal, this school will be conducted by Miss Ghislaine Montpetit, who recently received her degree of Bachelor of Science (Nutrition) from the University of Montreal, and who is presently employed as Home Economist of Canada Packers Home Clinic.

During this school Miss Montpetit will demonstrate various ways of preparing delicious meals, starting with breakfast, then preparing a quick lunch, and finishing with a delicious dinner.

Mr. C. Gordon Hynes, of Montreal, who has acted as m.c. and commentator for a number of these schools in Montreal, will act in this capacity at the school tonight. During the evening a number of prizes will be drawn for, including hampers of groceries, and special door prizes that have been donated by local merchants. The items cooked on the stage during the School will also be drawn for.

Proceeds are in aid of St. Simeon's Church Guild; tickets (50c) may be secured from any member of this organization, or admission is payable at the door.

Putting Their Money On It!

Proving enthusiasm and confidence in their rival teams, Lachute and St. Jerome, in the Laurentian Baseball League, the two respective managers have put up a $100 bet on the result of three games this week-end. Above is a reproduction of the $100 deposited by Larry Beauchamp, St. Jerome manager, payable to Ted Vachon, Lachute Tigers' manager, if St. Jerome loses.

DISTRICT NEWS

Arundel

Mr. George Henvis spent the week-end at the home of his mother, Mrs. Henvis.

Will church members take note, Sunday services will be held in the evening until the fall. Next Sunday evening, the service will start at a quarter past seven and will be conducted by the children of the Sunday School.

We are pleased to note that work is continuing steadily on the roads, and paving will be commenced soon.

Outbreak of Fire Caused by Lightning

Quick efforts on the part of residents and people from the district, averted what might have been a serious conflagration when the home of Mr. Hillrich was struck by lightning during the severe electrical storm one day last week. The lightning entered by way of the chimney and set fire in the roof. When the fire was noticed the siren was sounded to give the alarm, and in very short time a gathering of townsfolk were on the scene, who with aid of the pump and the recently purchased hose were able to confine the fire to the top of the house. By quick work the volunteers were also able to remove everything from the home. . . . Considerable damage was caused by water, soaking the walls and ceiling.

Mr. and Mrs. Hillrich would like to take this opportunity to thank all the neighbors and volunteers who responded so readily to the alarm, and did such good work in salvaging their effects. Also they would like to thank the Municipality of Huberdeau for sending over their pump. At the time of the fire, Mr. and Mrs. Hillrich were absent from their home.

Women's Institute

The monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held last Wednesday evening in the school auditorium. About 30 members were present. Plans were made for the forthcoming bazaar, which will be held next month. At the close of the business the meeting was turned over to the program convener, Mrs. Wilfred Morrison, who had as guest speakers Mr. A. Bothwell, Agronome of Argenteuil, and Mr. A. Ogilvie, horticulturist, of Lachute. Mr. Ogilvie gave a very instructive and interesting talk on soil conditions and how to prepare a flower bed, after which, questions were answered and much useful information was learned Mr. Bothwell read an interesting paper on Wheat, giving interesting facts on how wheat is transported and which nations grow it. It was stated that Canada is the fourth largest wheat growing country, China being the first; Canada however stands first in the quality of her wheat production.

The speakers were thanked by Mrs. E. A. Bulley. An exchange of plant slips and bulbs was then held, and the meeting closed with the serving of refreshments by Mrs. Morrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Clifton, Messrs. Gerald Clifton and Thos. Clark, of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Craig and sons, Lyall and Norman, of Joliette, spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Robt. Williams.

Mrs. E. J. Craig spent a few days last week visiting friends in Valois and Joliette.

Mrs. Stanley Langdon, with her small daughter Milna, arrived last week from Normetal to spend some time at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bennett.

Service in the Church of the Redeemer next Sunday will be Holy Eucharist, with the Rev. P. W. F. Busing as the celebrant. Members and visitors are cordially invited to be present at this service.

Former Resident Meets Accidental Death

Word has been received here this week of the accidental death of Mr. Carl Williams, of Vancouver. It is understood that he was sharpening a tool on a motor-powered grindstone, when the stone suddenly broke, a fragment striking Carl in the face and killing him instantly.

Carl Williams resided here until about the age of 10, when he moved with his parents (the late Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Williams) to Vancouver some 40 years ago. He leaves to mourn his passing his wife and three sons, also two sisters, (Pearl) Mrs. Ritchie and (Lila) Mrs. Shirey, and one brother, George, all residing in and around Vancouver.

100TH BIRTHDAY

London, Ont. (CP) — The 100th birthday of Dr. John Dearness, educationist and natural scientist, was marked by a tree planting ceremony at Fanshawe dam. Dr. Dearness' centenary coincided with the planting of the 100,000th tree on the Fanshawe project.

A Forecast on Olympic Games

"SPORTS CAMERA"

By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

More hopeful than confident, an organization of exiled sportsmen from behind the Iron Curtain will make several provisional entries in the Olympic Games at Helsinki this summer.

The sportsmen hope that the International Olympic Committee will approve their participation as a group representing the "Union of Free Eastern European Sportsmen".

Chances are the group won't be admitted. As the Olympic rules now read, any athlete who has competed previously cannot represent another country in the Olympics. It's quite possible the I.O.C., not wishing to become embroiled in the East-West political battle, will turn down the group and avert a possible protest from Russia and her satellites.

An I.O.C. meeting preceding the Winter Games in Oslo tossed the matter back to the executive committee for study. That group will meet a few days before the summer events get under way in Finland July 19.

A decision regarding the exiles' application probably will be made then.

"We are more hopeful than confident the committee will approve our entries", Anthony Szapary, chairman of the recently-formed sportsmen's group said. "We realize that the time is short but even if we do not obtain approval to compete at Helsinki, we hope to obtain permission for our exiled athletes to participate in future events."

Thousands in Exile

Szapary, a Hungarian sportsman who spent time in a Nazi concentration camp and then fled the Communists, estimated there are several thousand European sportsmen living in the Western world who in past years have had to flee their native countries.

"Of these", he added, "I would say there are at least 100 capable of holding their own in international competition."

Szapary listed such prominent athletes as Kornel Pajor, world champion speed skater from Hungary, now living in Sweden; Davis Cup tennis players Jaroslav Drobny of Czechoslovakia and Dragutin Mitic of Yugoslavia; Sandor Szegedy, Oszkar Csuvik and Elemar Szatmari, swimmers from Hungary; fencing champions Imre Rajczy, Imre Erdelyi and Jozsef Vida of Hungary and Ferenc Nemeth of Hungary, now rated the best basketball player in France.

He added that about 25 first-class basketball players, some 45 top soccer players from Hungary and Czechosovakia and 20 prominent hockey players from those two countries now in exile.

"These stateless athletes are barred from the most noble festival of the youth just because their political convictions were against a regime, which took over each of their countries by force and which will tolerate no political opposition whatsoever", the Union said in a letter to the International Olympic Committee.

Candidates Plan Election Campaigns

Interest Sparked by Announcement Of B. Gosselin, Liberal, to Oppose W. Cottingham, Union Nationale

At a Liberal party meeting in Lachute Auditorium on Monday evening, Bernard Gosselin, a local citizen, was chosen as candidate for this constituency in the coming Provincial Election, to oppose W. M. Cottingham, standard-bearer of the Union Nationale.

The choice of Argenteuil's Liberal candidate filled the party representation in Quebec's 92 counties. The Union Nationale at this stage had still a few candidatures undecided, notably in St. Anne and St. Louis constituencies in Montreal.

In Argenteuil the retiring deputy, Mr. Cottingham, is presented again as official party candidate for the Union Nationale, stating he has an imposing list of signatories, including the County Warden and the mayors of 19 municipalities in Argenteuil. Tomorrow evening (Friday) Mr. Cottingham will be heard in a radio address supporting the Union Nationale campaign, speaking at 6.45 o'clock fom Station C.B.M. on the subject, "Facts and Figures".

At Liberal Meeting in Lachute Auditorium

Mayor James W. McGibbon, and Mayor Hector Pariseau of Brownsburg, served jointly as chairmen of the gathering, which was attended by approximately 125 or 130 persons. Mr. Gosselin was the sole nominee for the Liberal candidature

Jean-Marie Nadeau, of Montreal, chief party organizer, John Long, Advocate, of Montreal (a veteran election campaigner) and the candidate-elect were among the evening's speakers. Other supporters on the platform included Philippe Valois, M.P., Notary Gaetan Valois and Fernand Legault, Q.C., of Lachute.

The speeches were presented in both languages.

Mr. Nadeau expressed his confidence that Mr. Cottingham, the opposing candidate, could be defeated in Argenteuil. "Whatever his qualities as an individual — as a representative of the Union Nationale, he must be defeated," he exclaimed.

Mr. Long reproached the Duplessis Government on its abolishing of free schooling and free textbooks, and declared himself, moreover, disgusted with the "corruption" which had prevailed in this province for the past eight years. He referred specifically to the widespread issuing of the liquor licenses; contracts without tender for works of every description; an administration of justice so deplorable that "a labor union leader is treated like a criminal, while a wholesale bandit is treated mildly instead of imprisoned as he deserves". Taxes, said the speaker, are higher here than elsewhere "because there are too many friends of the Union Nationale to be taken care of".

Bernard Gosselin, 36-year-old Liberal candidate and resident here for 25 years, gave the record of his education and citizenship. He studied Chemistry at the University of Montreal, served for three years in the R.C.M.P., and then became chief of the chemical and metallurgical department of C-I-L at Brownsburg, which position he has occupied since 1943.

The Quebec electors, said Mr. Gosselin, must voluntarily rid the province of a corrupt regime, and cease to sacrifice their liberties for a few personal favors. "Duplessis", he said, "is a dictator, an enemy of the working classes. We must establish in his stead the Liberal leader, Georges Lapalme, with his program of social justice."

A Liberal rally has been planned for Sunday, June 29, also at Lachute Auditorium, when the principal speaker will be J. A. Mongrain, Mayor of Three Rivers. It is expected that George Marler will also visit Lachute to speak during the Liberal campaign.

Fatal Accident With Stone Crusher at Buckingham, Que.

Buckingham — Murray Bigelow, 29, of Glen Almond, north of Buckingham, was fatally injured Monday morning when he fell on a stone crusher belt.

The man was working at the Canadian Flint and Spar Company, and had stopped the belt to put some dressing on it. Witnesses said he did not wait for the belt to come to a standstill, tripped, and was carried into the crusher wheels.

He was taken to hospital in Buckingham, but died on arrival. Dr. Jean Lorrain, of Ste. Rose de Lima, coroner, was notified.

Radio Relay Station Erected Near Here

Installation at Rigaud To Relay Long-Distance By Microwave

A new landmark is under construction near Rigaud as part of a large-scale project designed to help keep Canada at the forefront in modern communication advances.

Work is well advanced on the microwave radio-relay station being built on Rigaud Mountain, about two miles south of Rigaud. It will be one of the 15 stations in the Bell Telephone's new communications "skyway" linking Buffalo, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal.

The station will include a one-storey radio equipment building and an open steel tower supporting four horn-shaped antennae. The building is under construction now and the tower, which will be about 75 feet high, will be erected late this year.

The entire system is scheduled to be ready next spring. Initially it will provide 60 additional telephone circuits between Toronto and Montreal, 12 between Toronto and Ottawa and 12 between Montreal and Ottawa. It will also relay network television programs for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

As called for in a contract with the CBC, Bell will provide network facilities to relay whatever United States television programs the CBC requires from Buffalo for telecasting in Toronto and Montreal, and also relay CBC programs from Toronto to Montreal. In addition, when the CBC requires it, a westbound channel will be equipped to relay programs from Montreal to Toronto.

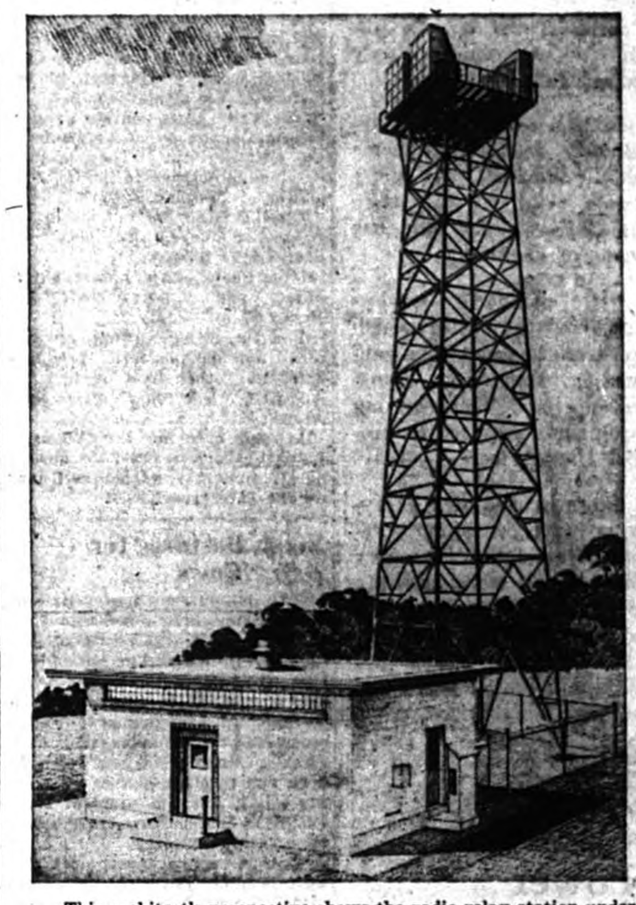

A Bell spokesman explained that residents along the route will not be able to "tune in" the TV programs directly, because the network itself will not be capable of telecasting programs. The telephone programs will be transmitted in a narrow beam from tower to tower at super-high frequencies known as "microwaves", which are well above the range of home receivers.

The relay stations in the chain will be located on an average of 25-30 miles apart. The two stations on either side of Rigaud will be near Maxville and in Montreal.

The microwave system is primarily designed to augment the number of telephone circuits between Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa and to provide an alternate long distance path not connected in any way with existing cable lines. It is potentially capable of providing hundreds of long distance circuits, using the same facilities that will carry television programs.

The system thus will play a major role in the development of long distance service over these highly important routes, as well as making an important contribution to the development of a national TV network.

Under Construction Near Rigaud

This architect's perspective shows the radio-relay station under construction near Rigaud for the Bell Telephone's new microwave system. The 15-station network is scheduled to be ready next spring to carry long distance telephone conversations between Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal. It will also relay network television programs between Buffalo, Toronto and Montreal for the CBC.

Labor Matters At Brownsburg Under Long Dispute

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — The Board of Arbitration constituted to study and rule on the dispute between C-I-L and its employees of the United Mineworkers of America (local union 13148) — presided over by J. Alfred Gaudet representing the Quebec Minister of Labor, with Raymond Caron representing the interests of C-I-L and Charles A. Lussier representing the employees — has submitted its report, which except for the question of Union Security is unanimous in its findings.

There were nine matters listed as in dispute between the parties. Eight of those were unanimously resolved, the company and union representatives assenting. The ninth item, which was ruled by a majority vote of the Board, was the old question of a Union Shop. On this question the union representative sought to make union membership a condition of employment, or at least the Rand formula. To this the company was not willing to agree.

Under the present contract, the company deducts union dues from any employee signing an authorization to do so, but does not go so far as to collect dues as a condition of employment. There are quite a number of older hands who have not joined the union, and no doubt the company is reluctant to force them to do so, as would be the case in a Union Shop agreement.

Of the eight points handed down by the Board in unanimous agreement, the most pertinent, so far as the worker is concerned, is the increase in hourly wage rates. The Union requested a general wage increase of 37 cents an hour. The evidence submitted to the Board did not justify such an increase. The matter was exhaustively examined, and comparative rates in effect all across Canada tabulated and considered. Based on the cost of living index, which rose from 172.5 at the time of the signing of the last contract, to 186.7 for the month of May this year, the increase is represented as 8.25%. After weighing the evidence and considering the many factors involved, the Board found that an increase was called for, and established the figure of 16% over the rates existing in the old contract at the time it was signed, February of last year. To meet the higher cost of living which took place since the signing of last year's

NEW INDUSTRY FOR THIS COMMUNITY

Chamber of Commerce Summarizes Activities of Past Year, in Final Report Before the Vacation Season

"Industry and Commerce in Lachute"

Contributed by Lachute Chamber of Commerce

Survey of Merchants On Early Closing

A report on this subject is given by Miville Trickey, chairman of the Commerce Committee, who states:

Following numerous requests by merchants of our town, we have made a serious investigation to find out how many are interested in closing their stores at 6 p.m. every Saturday during July and August.

According to information received, 54% of the merchants are in favor of closing, 40% are absolutely against, while 6% will close only if all stores are closed.

In consideration of such divergence of opinions by those directly concerned, your Chamber prefers not to insist, and to leave each one do what seems best in his interests.

New Industry

Further to the headline announcing the establishment of a new industry in town, the news is a last minute scoop on the definite assurance of President Horace Lamarche — full particulars of which will be given in next week's Watchman. It is understood this is to be a branch factory of a well-established industry.

Resumé of Activities

Having conducted its regular report in weekly issues of The Watchman and L'Argenteuil, the committee, before suspending this medium of publicity for the vacation season, takes occasion to review all Chamber of Commerce activities in the period from December 1, 1951, to date:

1. Christmas "shop at home" campaign promoted during December.
2. Christmas decorations contest for residential and business properties.
3. Active collaboration in establishment of the new French-language weekly, L'Argenteuil.
4. Publicity column opened in both local newspapers.
5. Membership drive; 104 members at December 1, 1951—now 217.
6. Group Insurance, covering 180 members or their employees. $11,700 claims paid in the last 12 months.
7. Monthly industrial tours inaugurated. Five industries visited to date.
8. Monthly general meetings for members and guests; high-ranking speakers.
9. Memorial cards made available for display by local firms, on death of His Majesty King George VI.
10. Representations to Lachute and Ayersville councils expressing appreciation of civic administration.
11. Interviews and correspondence with industrial bureau of Provincial Government, also with City of Montreal, railway companies and other public services.
12. Interviews with visiting industrialists seeking sites for new plants.
13. Parking improvements effected, through council co-operation.
14. Improvement in garbage schedule, to avoid exposure of rubbish at roadsides Sunday evenings.
15. Garbage cans made available at advantageous prices, to replace unsightly receptacles.
16. 25,000 Seals circulated advertising Lachute Spring Fair.
17. "Kraft" Evening at Auditorium, attended by 500 persons. Prizes distributed to L'Argenteuil subscription canvassers, and Certificates of Merit to two deserving citizens.
18. "C.C.C." Sales Promotion Campaign, with 46 merchants participating, under slogan "Lachute, Shopping Centre of the Ottawa Valley".
19. Industrial Caravan to City of Granby, May 28, with 36 automobiles, 130 members and guests. Radio interview by CKVL at Sunset Barbeque.
20. Dinner conference for directors, ex-presidents, and committee chairmen; expenses defrayed by Chamber.
21. Opening of permanent office and tourist bureau on Main Street. Provincial grant of $500 received with appreciation.
22. Gilbert E. Ayers to be "Man of the Month" in the July issue of "Commerce". Mr. Ayers is president of the Ayers Limited, Dominion Shuttle Company, Lachute Golf and Country Club, also Mayor of Ayersville.

On this occasion — with the conclusion of this season of constructive effort by a citizen group working for the progress of our town —the Publicity Committee extends its thanks to all who have assisted in this particular department.

As publicist of the Chamber of Commerce responsible for this column, I express to all readers in sympathy with the Chamber's activities, my continuing goodwill and collaboration.

Cenotaph Unveiling at Ste. Agathe on Sunday

Veterans from Legion branches in the Laurentian district, detachments of the armed forces, officers of the Legion's provincial command, and Federal and Provincial Government representatives will join Ste. Agathe citizens and summer residents on Sunday, June 29, at the unveiling ceremonies of the town's first Cenotaph, commemorating its dead of two world wars.

The 18-ton monument of polished Laurentian granite, donated by Ste. Agathe citizens through a subscription campaign conducted by Ste. Agathe branch of the Legion, will be unveiled by the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, the Hon. Dr. Gaspard Fauteux, who will also place the first memorial wreath and will deliver an address to the assembled citizens and visitors.

Tributes will also be paid by Mayor Jacques Duquette of Ste. Agathe; Lionel Bertrand, M.P. for Terrebonne; J. L. Blanchard, M.L.A. for Terrebonne; A. G. Munich, Jr., president of the Provincial Command of the Legion; and Norbert Morin, president of the Ste. Agathe branch.

The unveiling ceremony will take place at 3 o'clock. The Cenotaph stands on a plot of ground near to the Town Hall, on property donated by the municipality.

Arundel W.I. meeting was attended by 26 members. There were two guest speakers at this meeting, Mr. A. Bothwell and Mr. A. Ogilvie, both of Lachute. Mr. Bothwell spoke about Wheat, and Mr. Ogilvie about Plants and Shrubs. The meeting was under the convenership of Mrs. W. Morrison (Agriculture). The Arundel W.I. catered to the Teachers' Association meeting, held in the school, proceeds to go to W.I. work.

Upper Lachute - East-End Branch. — A number from this branch attended the Annual County Convention at Lachute. $10 was voted to the Crippled Children's Hospital Fund. A social evening and party was held. At the regular meeting 20 members and four guests were present.

Brownsburg reports an attendance of 35. Two members attended the Macdonald Short Course, and gave reports at the meeting. The Lachute convention report was read and plans were made to send handwork to the Macdonald College provincial convention. It was also decided to arrange for a bus to take members from this branch to the convention. The branch provided refreshments at Lachute Fair Grounds for the Scout Rally, also furnished the supper for the graduating class at the Brownsburg School. It was arranged to send an overseas parcel. An interesting talk on Mental Health was given by Mrs. S. M. Istvanffy, R.N., of Brownsburg, also two films on this subject were shown.

Lachute branch reports an attendance of 34. Mrs. George McGibbon invited the Lachute W.I. to her farm, situated in a picturesque valley up in the Laurentians. After viewing the surroundings, the ladies went to her home, which was built in 1840 and recently remodelled with modern fixtures and decoration. At the meeting, a loan was discussed for a boy or girl wishing further education;

Summer Frolic By Lions Club

The usual Ladies' Night concluding the Lions Club program of activities, was replaced this year by a dance, which was enjoyed by the members, guests and a far wider circle of friends. The event was held last Saturday at Lachute Golf and Country Club, where the large gathering included many from Montreal, Morin Heights, St. Eustache and other points outside Lachute. Dancing was enjoyed in the spacious clubroom, to the music of Romeo Duhamel's orchestra from Montreal. About 150 couples attended, and the event was considered a happy social climax to the Lions Club season.

Historians today agree reasonably well that the Scots were the inventors of knitting.

Youth Drowned in Grenville Canal

A week-end picnic outing ended in tragedy last Sunday afternoon, when Albert Sauvé, 16, of Vankleek Hill, dived into the Grenville Canal and failed to reappear.

Henri Rochon, of Grenville, recovered the body in deep water 25 minutes after the fatal dive. Dr. L. Perrier was summoned from Hawkesbury, and artificial respiration was applied for an hour without success.

The drowning occurred about 2 p.m. some 100 feet west of the Perley Bridge pier, a favorite spot for picnics and swimming.

The victim had eaten a picnic lunch with members of his family on the canal bank a short time before the accident occurred.

Three Hawkesbury youths were swimming nearby as the Sauvé boy dove from a bank about three feet above the water. When he did not reappear, all three immediately began diving in an attempt to locate him. Rochon, using a boat and a grappling hook, finally located the body. There was no indication that the victim had struck his head on any object or on the bottom of the canal.

Dr. Jules Lafleur, of Lachute, district coroner, pronounced the death due to accidental drowning.

New Sidelights on Southern Travel, At Rotary Club

Last week the Rev. Dr. Bernard Holden entertained the Rotary gathering with an illustrated talk on his recent trip to Arizona.

A former Rotarian himself, Dr. Holden remarked that travelling south in late fall gives one a sensation of "going backward". The climate gets progressively warmer, moving back into the early fall and late summer months. The speaker related how strange it seemed to celebrate Christmas in perfect September weather.

Dr. Holden, an accomplished painter, was able to show his audience many of the points of interest and beauty along the route he followed.

Commenting on the perfect winter climate in Arizona, the speaker told his audience that the people of that State excuse themselves from going to church by the fact that their winter climate is so "heavenly" that it is as close as they need to get! (The speaker intimated, however, that their summer climate is so hot it might well serve as the lower extreme in the afterworld.)

During the course of his address, Dr. Holden commented on the wonderful work that had been done by the Spanish missions in earlier days. Concerning the complete disregard for distance in the Western States, the speaker told of the church organist driving 600 miles to Santiago to attend a concert.

The land is very dry, but very fertile if irrigated. Record crops of cotton can be grown if water is provided.

Having visited New Orleans in his travels in other Southern States, Dr. Holden remarked that the famous slave market in New Orleans, so well known in fiction, is now a used-car lot. The speaker also visited Palm Springs, winter rendez-vous of movie actors.

Dr. Holden was introduced by Keith Russell and thanked by Ozzie Blouin.

Health Department Urges No Bathing In North River

Recent Analysis Shows High Contamination

The following communiqué is issued by the Argenteuil County Health Unit:

Swimming is an exercise to be encouraged. However, it involves certain hazards of which the public should be aware — danger of drowning, and danger from water contamination.

Precaution against drowning mishaps: (1) Enter the water gradually, especially if the body is overheated. (2) Wait at least two hours after a meal. (3) Learn the technique of artificial respiration.

In case of drowning: (1) Commence artificial respiration immediately, without waiting for assistance. (2) Have someone call a doctor, and telephone Lachute No. 9 for inhalator, maintained by the Lions Club for public emergency.

Danger of contamination: It becomes increasingly certain the polio microbe is conveyed, perhaps exclusively, by objects contaminated with the feces of sufferers or carriers.

The Department of Health has been consistently opposed to bathing in the North River, both above and below Lachute, which river receives the sewage of many adjacent towns and villages.

A recent analysis of the river water at different points near Lachute shows that it is highly contaminated.

What Is "Demand"?

"Demand" is the word used to describe the amount of electricity used by each customer when his takings are at a peak. For instance, if you had 10 100-watt bulbs all on at once, your "demand" would be 1000 watts or 1 kilowatt — meaning that the greatest amount of power you needed at one time was 1 kilowatt. If, however, you also use a 3,000-watt water-heater at the same time, your "demand" would be 4 kilowatts — 1 kw. for the bulbs and 3 kw. for the water-heater.

In a case like that, the power company has to provide 4 kilowatts of power and line capacity for your use, even though you use the full 4 kilowatts of "demand" for only a few minutes at a time and only occasionally.

With so many other appliances used in the home the "demand" is many times what it was when lighting was the only use made of electricity.

The "demand" for electricity is the factor which governs the size of the generating, substation, transmission and transforming equipment required to provide the service.

Power companies everywhere are installing "demand" meters so that they can have a more accurate measure, of the amount of power actually used by each customer when his takings are at a peak.

Prize Lists Issued for Ottawa Exhibition

Ottawa — Prize lists for the 1952 Central Canada Exhibition, August 18 to 23, are now available for distribution, according to H. H. McElroy, general manager. This year, the awards will top the $40,000 mark — highest in the history of the Exhibition.

The Prize Lists contain detailed information on all departments of the Ottawa Fair. They may be obtained by writing to the C.C.E.A. offices at Lansdowne Park.

For Junior Agriculture, agricultural and horticultural products, dairy and other food products — August 4. Dog Show entries close August 6.

Fresh Pastures for Dairy Cows

Ottawa — It is a happy time of the year for cattle when they first go down the lane to pasture. Can such fresh pasturage be given them throughout the season without a "feast" in spring and a "famine" in late summer? Farmers know the stimulus that each fresh pasture gives to cows in milk and to other classes of grazing stock, but the problem is to ensure fresh pasture throughout the grazing season.

Various management schemes have been devised with this aim in view. Rotating the cattle on several small fields has advantages such as rapid recovery, and the possibility of saving one of the rotation fields for silage or hay. The Animal Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, has made a preliminary test on a system of pasture management that is giving very encouraging results. In the "Daily Pasturing" plan being investigated at the Farm the cattle are given, by the use of electric fences, a fresh pasture every morning.

On lush pastures the daily allotment of fresh herbage amounts to about one sixtieth of an acre for each animal. This area is varied according to how closely the grass is grazed. At the end of each week the area grazed over is fenced off. Thus, the area grazed during the previous week is permitted to recover while the cows progress along the new portions of the pasture. This method of pasture management forces the cows to utilize the available grass more completely and makes it possible to cut for silage a portion of the area that would normally be pastured. This silage may be used to supplement the pasture during mid-season when growth becomes retarded, or can be saved for winter feeding.

A similar method of pasturing is being used extensively in New Zealand, where the returns over conventional management practices are measured in increased butterfat production per acre. As Canadian agriculture intensifies, such management schemes will be an essential part of the program of securing an increasing agricultural production from Canadian soils.

Men from West and Maritimes Asked to Aid Ont. Hay Harvest

In view of present expectations that Ontario's hay crop will be heavy, recruiting of workers has begun from the Prairies and Maritimes to assist the farmers of Ontario.

Hon. Milton F. Gregg, Minister of Labour, pointed out that workers would not be recruited from any areas where the men were needed for farm work in their own provinces. Only men who could be spared would be recruited.

As Ontario's hay crop is usually earlier than in other provinces it was expected that as in past years the men would be finished in ample time to return for the harvesting in their own provinces.

The Federal-Provincial Farm Labour organization, which had been responsible for many of the movements of agricultural workers in the past, would again be brought into play, explained the Minister. It is expected that later this year, probably in August, farm workers from Ontario would be asked to reciprocate by going West to help with the prairie harvesting.

As in similar movements in the past, the railways are again co-operating with the Federal-Provincial authorities by providing special low rates to all accepted workers.

Startling Camparison

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

June 20, 1952.

Editor, The Watchman.

Sir:

A bricklayer in Holland lays 1,500 bricks a day; in Ottawa 500. This startling fact came out because a reporter of the Ottawa Citizen saw a bricklayer at work. He differed from all other bricklayers on the job. He was wearing wooden shoes, brown corduroy pants and a blouse that came down to his waist. He couldn't speak a word of English. He came from Holland.

Bricklaying in Holland is similar to bricklaying in Canada, the only real difference is that in Holland the bricklayer does three times the work, he accomplishes more in a day.

Now take the case of two nations situated side by side. In one, the worker produces 1,500 of whatever it may be, the other 500 of the same. In which country would you rather live? In which would the workers be richer, the people more prosperous? Which would have the best housing, the highest standard of living, the happiest and most contented people?

The question is open to all. Who will give the best answer to this question?

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

Are You Listed?

ABOUT 20,000 enumerators have been calling from door to door in every Quebec municipality to draw up the electoral lists of an estimated 2,250,000 persons eligible to vote in the general Provincial Election July 16. The enumeration concluded last Friday.

Voters who want to be listed, but who were not at home for the maximum of two calls by enumerators, will have to register personally in electoral offices in Lachute or in their polling districts — for one may be called upon to produce the certificate, to prove eligibility to vote. The revision will be made from June 29 to July 3 in the Town of Lachute, and from July 1 to July 3 in the rural municipalities.

To be eligible to vote, a person must be a Canadian citizen, 21 years old, a resident of Quebec Province for at least two years and to be domiciled in a polling-subdivision of the first day of the enumeration.

Persons who may not be included in the lists are: All judges; election officers; Indians living on reservations; those who have taken an oath of allegiance to any foreign country or have become naturalized elsewhere; those disqualified by the Legislative Assembly or the courts; those who have not fully served a sentence for a crime punishable by two years or more; the insane in hospital.

Modesty Best Policy

CANADIANS used to go around telling people they were stolid and unimaginative, in an effort to assert some sort of native character, and be thought of as something, even if nothing much — observes our contemporary, The Printed Word. It is no longer necessary for Canadians to run themselves down in order to gain attention. This country is so envied by others that the sound course for its citizens is modesty — the writer asserts. When a poor dependent has climbed rather suddenly to an equal partnership in the firm, he had best walk softly. Even jokes told on himself may be detected by intelligent people to be bragging — "Although it is deplorable, I do exist and am a fascinating subject of conversation, don't you think?" Chances are the listeners won't think so.

Self-respect, pride, egotism are strong and useful qualities in a nation as in a man. The wise egotist doesn't tell anybody about himself; he just keeps doing things well. Canadians are now too successful to boast, even by running down their weather.

While the Russians go on inventing everything and the United Statesians know they did, and the English act the role of Mrs. Betterdays in The Mohawk Crossroads Ladies' Aid — Canadians have an opportunity to contrive a new art form in deportment. A suggested national model for all is the most able and modest person one happens to know.

Coal-Dust Picketers

ANY MAN who ever got in the way of a woman intent on housecleaning can sympathize with the recent plight of the mayor of Morgantown, West Virginia.

The mayor was peacefully minding his own business when he got an urgent call from two local coal mines and a coal-cleaning plant, complaining that they were beset by a picket line of angry women, and asking His Honor to do something about it.

The women said they were taking action because coal dust was ruining their kitchen curtains and preventing them from keeping the house tidy.

The 700 male employees of the three establishments took one look at the picket line, decided to take the day off, and went home. They probably spent the day helping their wives get rid of some of the coal dust.

The mayor did his best. He asked the picketers to go home and promised to get in touch with the coal company to see what could be done.

The coal company did its best. It pleaded with the manufacturers of its coal-cleaning equipment to rush in a gadget to take care of the dust.

Somehow the mayor managed to talk the women into giving the company more time and the mines and cleaning plant resumed operations. But, short of buying them all mink coats at the coal company's expense, he can't stall the women off indefinitely.

Of course, they have a Taft-Hartley Act in the United States providing severe penalties for people who set up picket-lines before they resort to long and complicated negotiations. But somehow we doubt that Congress or anyone else will give serious thought to invoking the act this time.

A Familiar Figure

DON FAIRBAIRN, spokesman of the Quebec-Ontario weeklies in "Neighborly News", has joined the Dairy Farmers of Canada as executive assistant in Publicity. Mr. Fairbairn brings to his new post a wide experience in both agriculture and publicity. Born and raised on the home farm in the Niagara Peninsula, he attended the Ontario Agricultural College before entering radio as a farm commentator, writer and producer in 1935. In 1939 he joined the CBC Farm Broadcast Department as its first commentator.

During the war Don Fairbairn served with the R.C.A.F. in both Canada and Europe. On his return to Canada, he was producer in charge of rehabilitation programs for the CBC, and later resumed a microphone career as writer and commentator. When Andy Clark, the originator of Neighborly News, died in 1948, Mr. Fairbairn succeeded him and is a regular Sunday morning visitor in thousands of Ontario and Quebec homes.

MOST PEOPLE are annoyed when they get ink on their fingers. But not the Arabs. They do it on purpose.

Although many Arabs can neither read nor write, they have long been enthusiastic buyers of fountain pens, which are prized as articles of adornment and for barter purposes.

Now, however, an American fountain pen company reports that the pens are coming into their own as writing instruments in Arabia. When a tribesman wishes to sign his name, he simply squirts ink from his fountain pen onto his thumb and makes the traditional mark on the document.

It's a 20th century refinement of the old custom of making a blood smear by pricking the thumb.

"THINGS AN' STUFF"

— By — WALTER HENRY JACKSON

The Weather Forecaster

Two American tourists entered a general store in a remote village in Argenteuil County, and asked the proprietor if he had a radio. "Ain't got no radio", the latter replied. "Well", said one of the tourists, "it doesn't really matter, but we are camping near here for a few days' fishing and we just wanted to listen to the newscast to find out what the weather is going to be like tomorrow."

"Oh, that's easy", said the storekeeper. "We have an old Indian here who is very good at foretelling the weather. Stick around. He always drops in about this time every evening."

"Say, Chief", said the storekeeper. "These two gentlemen want to know what the weather is going to be tomorrow."

"Chief" gave a long glance at the sky. "Tomorrow, heap big rain all day", he said. . . He was absolutely right. It poured all the next day and the two campers were confined to their tents. That evening they were back in the general store, and the Chief was there placidly smoking his pipe.

"Tomorrow cooler. Heap fine day. Plenty sun. Fishing good."

Again the Chief was perfectly right. The campers enjoyed a wonderful day, and in the evening appeared once more at the store. In a few minutes the Chief came in.

"How about the weather tomorrow?"

"Me not know."

"What?" said the surprised American. "How come you don't know? Yesterday you foretold the weather perfectly, and the day before, too. Why can't you tell us about tomorrow's weather?"

The Indian looked about cautiously before replying, and then said confidentially:

"Today, my radio, him broke!"

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you: —

Q. I have worked for two years. Now I wish to take a course in nursing. Am I entitled to draw benefits during such a course?

A. No. Benefit is only payable when a claimant is available for employment. A person who is taking a nursing course or other educational course cannot satisfy this condition. However, a person is considered available for work and may be paid benefit if attending a course that the Unemployment Commission has directed him to attend for the purpose of fitting him for employment.

Q. I have a sister aged 15 years in a boarding school. I pay her board and my brother pays her other expenses. At present I am unemployed. Am I entitled to draw benefits as a person with a dependent?

A. This claimant would be paid benefit at the dependency rate if (1) he maintains a self-contained domestic establishment, (2) his sister has her domicile therein with him (rather than with the other brother or in any other place), (3) the sister is mainly maintained by the claimant, and (4) the sister's income from any source, apart from the support given by the claimant, does not exceed $12.00 a week.

Q. I live far from the unemployment insurance office. I do not know how to write. What shall I do in order to get my insurance?

A. A claimant who lives at a long distance from any local office is permitted to make an application for benefit by mail. If he cannot write, he should ask someone else to write for an application form for him and to help him in completing it, with such evidence of his signature as might be considered sufficient by the insurance

NOBLE — At the Providence Hospital, on June 12, 1952, to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Noble, a son.

MARRIAGE

MONCRIEFF - MILLAR — On Saturday, June 21, 1952, at Cornwall, Ont., by the Rev. S. Eikenaar, Isabel L., daughter of Mrs. Millar and the late Arthur Millar, to Mr. Edward A. Moncrieff, son of Mrs. Moncrieff and the late George Moncrieff, of Grenville, Que.

DEATHS

CONNELL — At Dunany, June 25, 1952, in her 78th year, Mrs. Adelaide Connell, mother of Mrs. Wilfrid Crooks (and resident of Dunany for the past six years, formerly of St. Catharines, Ont.) Funeral Friday, 2 p.m., burial in Dunany.

TOWNSEND — Henderson Townsend, beloved husband of Violet Gain and father of Brent, aged 3, died in the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, on June 20, 1952; buried in Lachute Cemetery on Sunday, June 22.

IN MEMORIAM

GAULEY — In loving memory of a husband and dad, Howard Gauley, who passed away June 29, 1950. — Always remembered by his wife, Flossie, son Edwin, and daughter-in-law Linda.

"A tribute of love and remembrance
The joys that he missed on life's highway,

MacTAVISH — In loving memory of our darling little daughter, Shirley Joanne, who was called home on July 2, 1949. — Loved and sadly missed, Mummy and Daddy.

"Our dear little lamb He lent awhile,
Pure as Himself from stain;
Then said, 'My kingdom is of such',
And He called her home again."

MacTAVISH — In loving memory of our dear little darling granddaughter, Shirley Joanne, who was called to her beautiful home in heaven on July 2, 1949. Loved and always remembered by Grandpa and Grandma MacMillan, Alex, Joyce and Carl.

"Things have changed in many ways,
But one thing changeth never,
The memories of your little face,
When we were all together.
But someday God will call us home,
To be with you forever."

CLIFFORD — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, who passed away June 23, 1948. — Ever remembered by her husband and family.

"We miss her face and lovely ways,
With her we spent our happiest days,
One of the best that God could lend,
A loving mother and faithful friend,
Two little words not hard to write,
They will be our guiding light,
'My Mother'."

OBITUARY

Many Attended Funeral of Late H. Townsend

The funeral of the late James Weston Henderson Townsend, beloved husband of Violet Gain, who died in the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, on June 20, was held in Lachute Baptist Church last Sunday afternoon. The service was conducted by the Rev. W. H. Britton, who was assisted by the Rev. C. R. Lang.

Mr. Townsend was born August 22, 1912, and was a resident of this district all his life, having resided in Lachute for the past five years.

The many floral tributes, and the very large attendance at this funeral service, gave evidence of the high esteem with which the deceased was regarded in the community.

Left to mourn his passing, besides his wife, are one son, Brent, aged three; his father, Mr. Fred Townsend, of Ogdensburg; three sisters, (Elsie) Mrs. Raymond Warwick, (Iris) Mrs. Ray Derouin, (Jean) Mrs. Lorne Wert; one brother, Milton, of Toronto; and a sister, (Muriel) Mrs. Calvert McKenzie. A brother, Ross Townsend, predeceased him only last fall.

Out of town friends attending the funeral included Mr. and Mrs. Milton Townsend, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Blair, of Perth; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Graham, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hinds, Miss Helen Hinds, Mrs. Edward McLeod, of Ville St. Laurent; Mrs. Dalton Drake, of Montreal; Miss Lillian Blair, of Chicago, Ill.

The remains were laid to rest in Lachute Cemetery. Pall-bearers were Messrs. Walter Murdoch, Kenneth Murdoch, Howard Tomalty, Grant Tomalty, Gordon Silverson and William Currie.

The Sophisticated Month of June Trousseau Teas, School Failures

"Exile From Sunnyacres"
By Margaret Cook

To pick up where we left off — the week at Sunnyacres, the end of May, was a complete success, with never a drop of rain from one Sunday to the other, a fact that many week-enders must have noted with some exasperation. Day after day, we woke to happy, blue sky with a few puffy white clouds to accent the serene beauty; night after night, the sky was blue velvet studded with diamonds, with a shy sickle of a moon, late in the evening. The whippoorwill called plaintively from afar, but otherwise, the hours were silent and it was splendid sleeping on the screened porch under the big Hudson's Bay blankets. Note the "screened" — for the winged pests are worse than usual; not since 1943 have we seen or suffered so many onslaughts from these creatures. These things seem to go in cycles, and it promises to be a good year from the point of view of an insect.

But, in spite of these distractions, we enjoyed the simple life of Sunnyacres and there are always moments that amply reward one for any minor discomforts of life on the farm. Such a moment came, unexpectedly, one morning at the well, whither Betty and I had gone for the joy of a cup of clear, sparkling water, straight from its rocky recess. Looking up, we chanced to see a deer come lightly over the top of the hill and into a little hollow, not 20 feet away; here she paused, and proceeded to tread out a dance, her legs quite stiff and a puckish expression on her face. This way and that way she curtsied, with a leap off the ground in between; suddenly she wheeled and was gone up the opposite hill, in two long, unbelievably effortless leaps, the white flag of her tail erect over her rump. We had never known the deer disported themselves thus, but a week later, we chanced to see a movie of the elk of the Olympic mountains, off Puget Sound, and there were scores of slim-legged elk dancing about on a snowy field just as had our deer of Sunnyacres. Evidently, the spirit of fun is not unknown in animals; maybe the ugliness of sin has spoiled that bright heritage as it has so much else. C. S. Lewis in his book, "Miracles", has touched on a similar thought; he ventures the opinion that in the time of Man's innocence, even the lion was content to live up to his noble expression and that when he roared, he roared for fun, or approval, or sheer good-will, so that one would be constrained to beg with Shakespeare, "Let him roar again, let him roar again!" We chanced upon a story on the same theme — in Esquire; yes, Esquire. The editor must have suffered from a temporary aberration.

But now it is June — June, the most sophisticated month of the year. It always appears to us that June preens itself as the most beautiful month, the month given up to youth, to love and to weddings. True; but it also has something to do with mosquitoes, black flies, failures at school, showers, and worst of all, Trousseau Teas. There is something revolting about the Trousseau Tea, as practised in America; we believe it has no vogue elsewhere. The sight of dozens of sheets, pillow-cases, towels and holders, with a quota of kitchen-ware, cutlery and glassware, alongside the personal, very personal, underwear of the bride, excites our merriment or our disgust, but never our envy or admiration; and if such feelings are not aroused, why the Trousseau Tea?

. . . . Come to think of it, why IS the Trousseau Tea? Surely in this era of plenty we do not have to reassure the neighbors that we have the necessities of modern life! Surely, we do not wish to parade our superior possessions. If we wish to have one last tea-party with the girls, why not have it, sans the small-time imitation of the country-store? It isn't Father who is to blame; we have known men, sophisticated men, who have fled cringing to the club or the bar, till the horrible thing was over and home was home again, not an Eastern bazaar. To us, the all-time depth was the sight of a set of black lace step-ins and matching brassiere, the latter stuffed with kapok to make it sit up jauntily and realistically. . . But we had better change the subject before the editor gets busy with the broad, soft black pencil.

How about school failures, always a touchy subject? Time was when Johnny, coming home with "Not Promoted" on his report, was in for a session with Father, probably in the woodshed. Now, Father feels that the whole thing is an unaccountable mystery, rather an act of God, if anything; or, if not quite so inscrutable, perhaps to be explained by the fact that Johnny was a premature baby, or that the humiliation of a physical defect is gettting him down, or that he "just can't get along" with his teacher. The idea that there is any connection between hard work and results, never enters Father's head. All those warnings on the monthly reports, those were just expressions of the incurably soured and pessimistic nature of Johnny's teacher. So, Father goes to see the Principal — who has braced himself for this day, or has not, according to his nature or his educational creed. If the creed says, "Keep them in school, regardless", Father gets a warm welcome; Johnny's broad, straight way is smoothed out for yet another year and Johnny, consciously or unconsciously, gets the idea that work is for "greasy grinds" and that for bright boys like him, work is unnecessary, for Life (read Father, at this stage) wil undoubtedly adjust itself to his satisfaction. These are the boys that later demand Security rather than Opportunity, who prefer a "good thing" now rather than a modest thing which may lead to a Good Thing. . . At least, that is the way it looks to us; or maybe we're just jealous because we have to work.

The sun glows a pale yellow on the big maple in front of the sun-room, whose 256 window-panes we have helped wash this week, telling us that it is time to officiate at the going-to-bed rites of the daughter. She is still interested in the Solar System and there is some reason to believe that she will see some of the planets through the telescope at the Dominion Observatory, a visit to Ottawa being on the agenda for this week—one of those weddings, but not a Trousseau Tea!

A LITTLE PREMATURE

Cambridge, England (CP) — A 16-year-old girl put her name down for a house provided by municipal authorities at subsidized rentals. She said: "I may want one in 10 years' time, when I hope to get married."

Employ New Technique in Search For Minerals West of Hudson Bay

Mines minister Prudham told in Calgary how government geologists had launched an ambitious aerial reconnaissance over an area of 100,000 square miles west of Hudson Bay.

Conventional methods of geological exploration by canoe and overland have proven too slow and costly to be of much value.

The survey, dubbed "Operation Keewatin", will cover an area known to be rich in minerals but not touched by normal reconnaissance mapping by expeditions from Yellowknife, Goldfields and Churchill.

Two chartered helicopters and a Norseman aircraft with 16 experienced geologists aboard will be employed in the operations.

Geological observations will be made from low-level, low-speed aerial traverses, using magnetic instruments. Promising areas will be checked by landings where necessary.

Areas where valuable minerals are known to exist will receive closer attention, such as copper and nickel deposits at Rankin Lake, uranium around Black Lake and the east arm of Great Slave Lake and gold and minor strategic materials around Yellowknife.

Much detailed planning has been necessary. More than 22,000 aerial photographs have been studied and new topographical maps prepared.

FISHPOND CHANGE GOES TO CRIPPLES

The pond was turned in to a wishing well shortly after the theatre opened in March 1951. Patrons kept tossing in coins, and as the change piled up, the owner decided it should go to some good use.

MOOSE vs. MOTORCAR

Timmins, Ont. (CP) — Raymond Feldman was slightly injured, his car suffered damages of $500, and a moose was killed when the car struck the animal as it lumbered suddenly on to the highway near Pamour. Other passengers in the car were not injured.

U.N. Spurs Drive Against Desert Locust

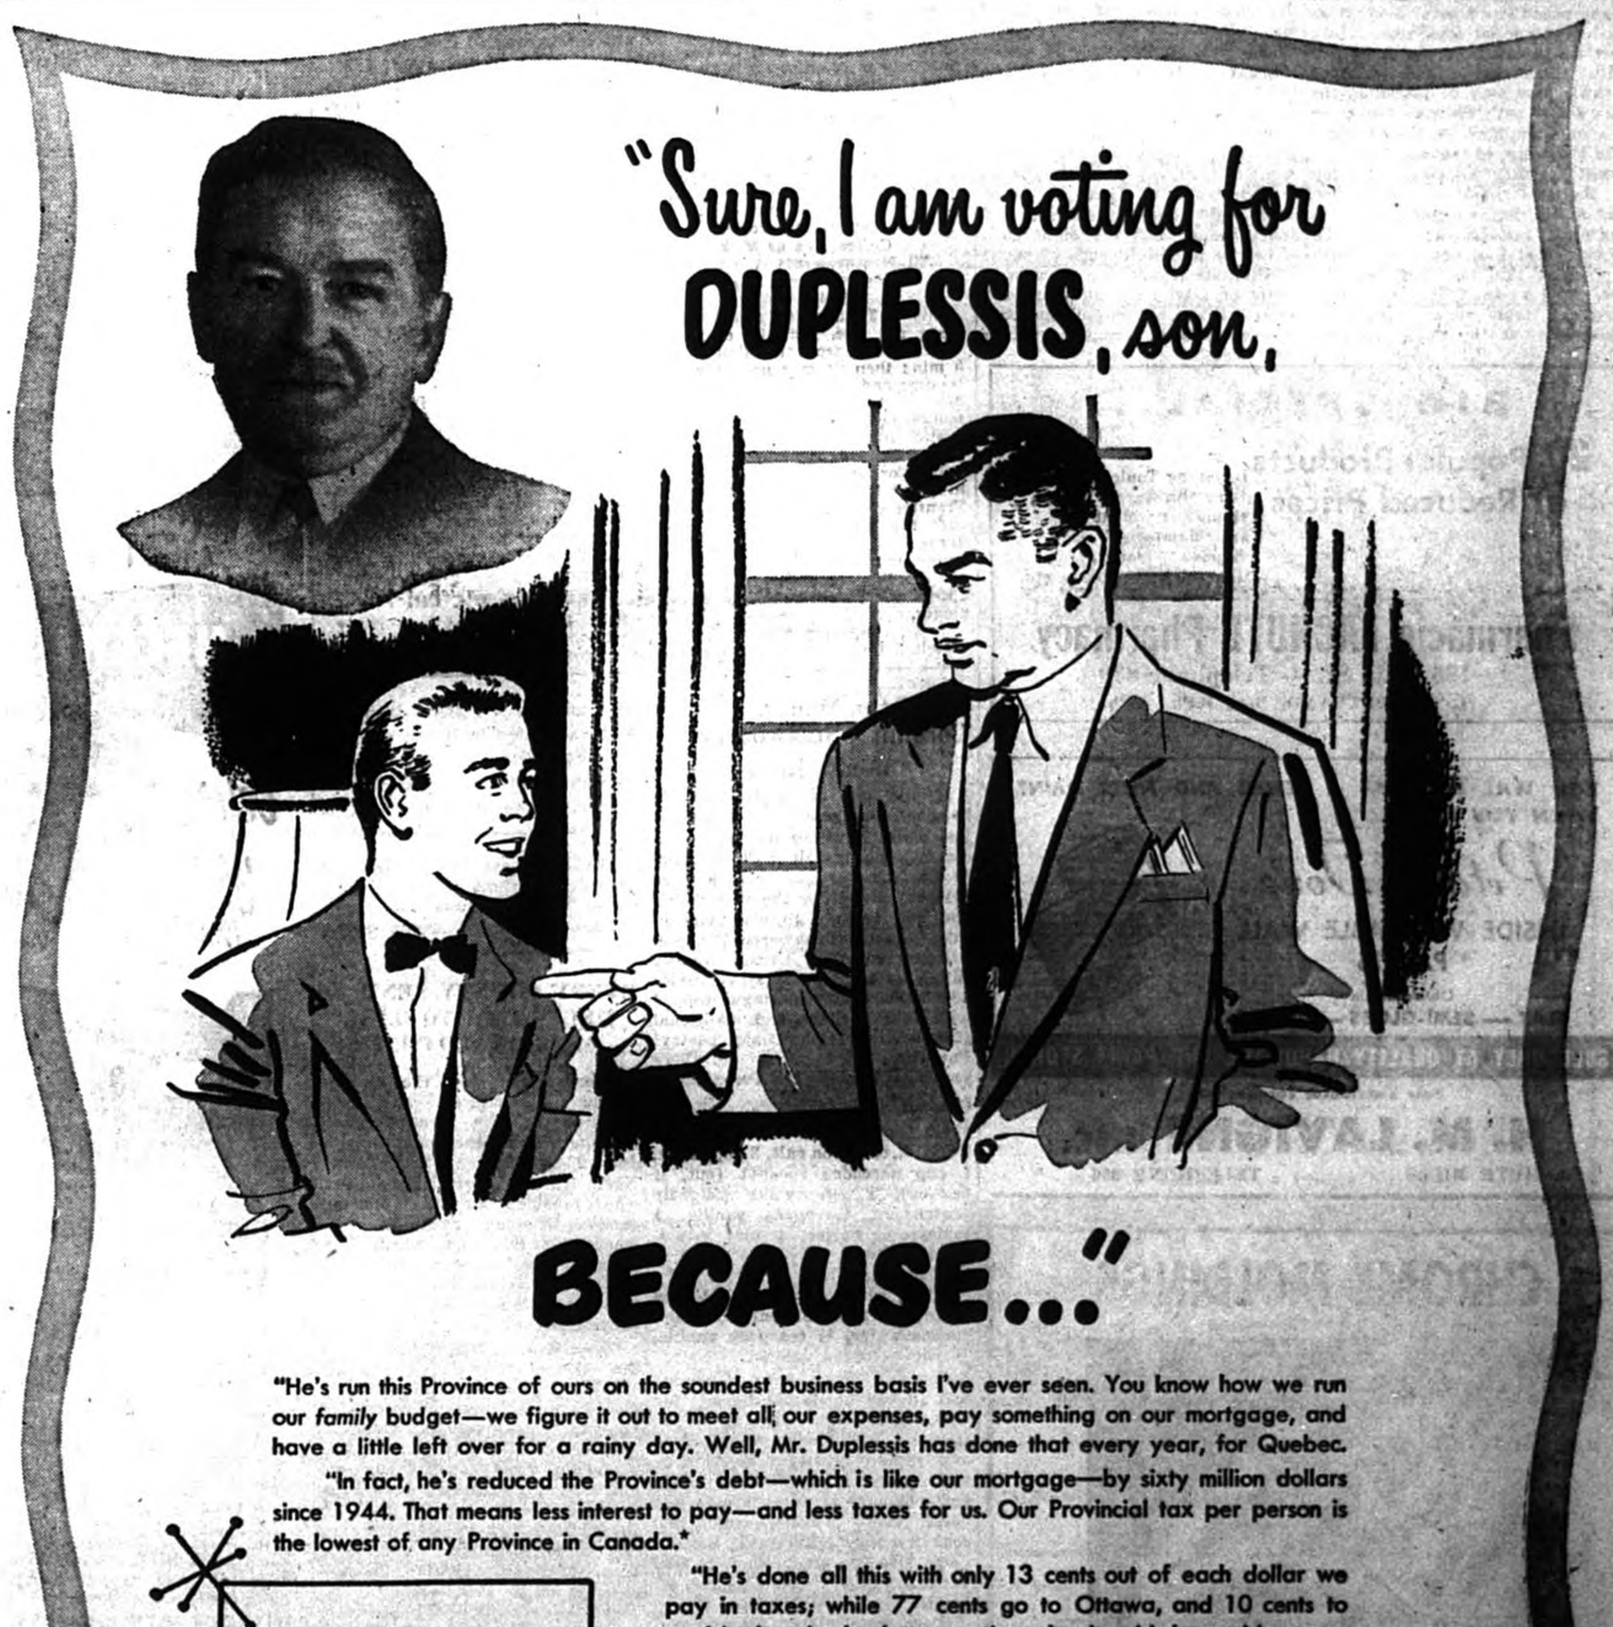

Since Biblical times, the farmers of the Middle East have considered the desert locust a sort of "Public Enemy No. 1." This situation has not changed much, but now, for the first time in history a number of nations are joining forces with the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO), to combat the plague. Above, entomologists of the USA and Pakistan examine dead locusts on a desert of Pakistan. Through its expanded program of technical assistance FAO is offering material aid in combatting the plague.

Berry Ripe

Early spring is noted for its April showers and May flowers, but early summer brings, besides brides, tempting luscious strawberries. What a wonderful fruit they are! Have you ever wondered where they got their name? Here is one story. It is said that originally, they were brought to market strung on straws — hence "strawberries". Nowadays strawberries are not strung on straws but are sold in pint and quart baskets.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, have some tips on what to look for when buying strawberries. The best guide in this case is eye-appeal. If the strawberries look good, they are likely to be good. They should be bright and fresh looking, ripe, firm and rosy red. Check to see that the berries at the bottom of the box are as good as the ones on top. Damp berries spoil quickly so do not wash them until they are to be used. To preserve the flavor, they should be washed before the hulls are removed. Drain well, for if strawberries are left in water for any length of time, they lose color and flavor and become watery.

Strawberries should be served as often as possible while they are in season. Everyone enjoys strawberries and cream but there are many other strawberry desserts as well. For special occasions, dainty tart shells can be made and filled with strawberries and whipped strawberries may be placed in the tart shells with whipped cream on top or they may be folded right into the whipped cream. Save the nicest berries to garnish the top of the tarts. For a change the tart shells may be made out of a meringue instead of pastry. To do this, beat four egg whites with a pinch of salt until stiff but not dry. Add a cup of fine granulated sugar or fruit sugar slowly (a tablespoon at a time) beating after each addition. Add one teaspoon vanilla. Continue beating until all the sugar is dissolved and the mixture is stiff and glossy. Then lightly spread the meringue on the bottom and sides of greased tart tins or large muffin tins and bake at 250°F for about 1¼ hours. Cool and fill with strawberries and whipped cream.

Another delicious dessert is made by using whipped cream and strawberries as a filling for jelly roll. Fresh strawberry ice cream could be substituted in the filling for the fresh berries and cream.

Strawberries are ever so good in a host of other desserts too, for instance in whips, Bavarian creams and sherbets. Strawberry shortcake is a traditional June dessert that the family will not want to miss, and, of course, they are counting on at least one strawberry pie!

Everyone loves fresh strawberries, but do not let the season go by without preserving, in some way, some of these luscious berries. One of the best ways is to freeze them. The washed hulled berries may be frozen whole or sliced in either a sugar syrup or dry sugar. To make the syrup, use one cup of sugar to one cup of water, then chill and pour over the berries packed in a carton. Two-thirds to one cup of syrup is needed for each pint carton and one to one and a half cups for each quart. When freezing the berries with dry sugar, use four pounds of sliced fruit, which is about twelve cups to one or two cups of sugar.

What could be better than a batch or two of rich, red strawberry jam to use in tarts, puddings or on hot buttered toast or muffins. Use firm, ripe berries for making jam. Wash and hull the fruit, then measure it. There should be about eight cups of fruit from two quart boxes. Put the eight cups of berries and eight cups of sugar in alternate layers in a preserving kettle or bowl. Let stand 2 or 3 hours. Bring to the boil and boil, uncovered, for 5 minutes, counting the time from the moment the fruit begins to boil vigorously. Add a half cup of lemon juice and boil for about 5 more minutes until the jam stage is reached. The best way to test for this is to remove the kettle from the heat, place a teaspoon of jam on a cold saucer and chill quickly. If it does not set to proper thickness, cook the jam a few minutes more and test it again. When the jam is done, remove it from the heat. Skim and stir for 5 minutes to keep the berries from floating to the top. Then pour the jam into hot sterilized jars leaving at least one-quarter inch headspace at the top of the jar. Carefully remove any jam clinging to the inside of the jar above the jam level with a clean cloth. Cool slightly, then pour a layer of melted paraffin over the jam and let it stand until it hardens. Then add a second layer, rotating the jar so that the wax will come well up the sides to form a close seal. Cover with paper or a metal lid and store in a cool dry place. This recipe makes about 7 cups of jam.

Tea-Time Talk

Jeanne Lambert

Like so many things we take for granted, I wonder if any of us realize how much time, labor and effort goes into every cup of tea we drink. . . I'd like to tell you something about tea — its growing and manufacturing.

Tea comes from an evergreen plant which grows in tropical and semi-tropical countries — from sea level to an elevation of 6,000 feet. A hot, moist climate with plenty of sun and rain is essential. The gardens in the tropical or subtropical plains yield the biggest harvest but the finer varieties of tea are produced from the slower-growing estates in the hills.

Although the tea bush would grow to a height of 40 to 50 feet, under cultivation it is kept pruned to a height of 3 to 4 feet so that the bush will produce an abundance of leaves and make plucking easier. In Ceylon where the climate is always hot and moist, tea is plucked throughout the year but in some areas like Northeast India plucking is seasonal. The quality of the tea we drink in Canada depends on the style and skill of tea plucking. Most of the plucking is done by busy women workers, whose nimble fingers select the top two leaves and a bud. When the day's work is done, the baskets of leaf are examined for stalks and other foreign matter, the leaf is weighed and then transported to the factory for processing.

There are three types of tea — black, green and oolong — but, of course, black tea is by far the most popular in Canada. In the manufacture of black tea, the leaf first is withered. That is, the moisture is evaporated leaving it soft and pliable. Then the leaf is rolled in huge rolling machines which break up the cells and liberate the juices and enzymes. The next step is the fermentation process during which chemical changes take place. The leaf changes color and gives off the characteristic odor of black tea. To prevent further fermentation, the leaf is fired (dried) and then, finally, graded according to leaf size. In the manufacture of green tea, the leaf is not allowed to ferment, while with oolong the leaf is semi-fermented. All three, of course, come from the same bush.

The tea then is packed in plywood chests and sent all over the world. After expert blending by the tea taster, it is ready for the grocer's shelf. And, while we're at it, here's a never-fail formula for making perfect tea: Bring cold, fresh water to a furious boil; warm the teapot; measure the tea — one teaspoon (or one tea bag) for each person and one for the pot; and brew for five minutes. It takes a full five minutes to develop the pleasing aroma and delicious flavor of a perfect cup of tea.

Persian Rice

Into a 2 qt. sauce pan measure 1½ c. dry rice. Add 4½ c. boiling water and ½ tsp. salt. Boil slowly 5 min.; then simmer until the rice is dry and flaky, about 23 min. Meantime melt 3 tbsp. butter or margarine. Add ½ c. any kind broken nutmeats, ¾ c. raisins and 1 tsp. cinnamon. Cook gently 5 min.; with a fork stir into the cooked rice; keep hot 15 min. to season through. Transfer to a buttered baking dish; then heat in the oven for 10 min. Serve with meat or as dessert with honey and cream.

Note: For an exotic touch, add 3 tbsp. minced candied or preserved ginger.

Spanish Rice

Melt 2 tbsp. butter or margarine in a 2 qt. sauce pan. Add 1 (No. 2½) can tomatoes, 1 c. water, 2 tbsp. minced onion, ½ tsp. sugar, 1 tsp. salt and ⅛ tsp. pepper. Bring to boiling point. Stir in 1 c. dry rice. Boil 5 min., then simmer-cook 20 min. Add 4 shredded sweet green peppers. Cook 10 min. longer. Serve with or without grated cheese.

Creole Rice Fritters

Place 1½ c. cold cooked rice in a mixing bowl and break up the grains with a fork. Mix in 1 well-beaten egg, ½ tsp. salt, ½ c. milk, 1 tsp. melted shortening and 1 c. plain all-purpose flour mixed with 3 tsp. baking powder. Drop the batter into hot deep fat, 350 F., by medium-sized tablespoonfuls and fry until golden brown; then drain on crumpled absorbent paper. Or saute in a frying pan using only enough shortening to barely cover the bottom, also dropping in the batter by tablespoonfuls. Brown first on one side, then the other, allowing about 6 min. Serve as an accompaniment to meat or fish; or top with a cheese sauce as a main dish. Or use as a dessert, with a fruit sauce.

Pie of the Month, Coconut - Strawberry

By Betty Barclay

If, like one of Mother Goose's heroines, you prefer to feed upon just plain "strawberries, sugar and cream", nobody will challenge your choice — never was there a finer dessert. But if, on the other hand, you will venture to use them in this Coconut Strawberry Pie, you will not regret it. Creamy vanilla filling with juicy fat strawberries added, and fluffy meringue topped with lacy coconut and additional strawberries, tender flaky pastry! Put them all together and there you have Spring in a Pie Shell!

Coconut Strawberry Pie

⅓ Cup sugar, ½ cup sifted flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 cups milk, 1 cup shredded coconut (cut, if desired), 2 egg yolks (slightly beaten), 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 pint strawberries (cut in halves) 1 baked 9-inch pie shell.

2 Egg whites (unbeaten), ½ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons water, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup shredded coconut.

Combine ⅓ cup sugar, flour, and salt in top of double boiler; add milk gradually, stirring until smooth. Add 1 cup coconut. Cook over rapidly boiling water 15 minutes, stirring constantly. Mix small amount of mixture with egg yolks, return to double boiler, and cook 2 minutes longer. Remove from heat. Add vanilla and butter. Cool. Place 1 cup of berries in pie shell then add filling.

Place egg whites, sugar, salt, and water in top of double boiler; beat with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water and beat 1 minute; then remove from heat and continue beating 2 minutes, or until mixture will stand in peaks. Add vanilla. Pile lightly on filling. Sprinkle with coconut and garnish with additional strawberries. Serve at once.

EVERY COUNTY SENT DELEGATES TO Q.W.I. MACDONALD CONF'CE

Every county in the Quebec Women's Institutes was represented at the annual board meeting held at Macdonald College, June 23-24. Mrs. G. E. LeBaron, North Hatley, provincial president, who presided at the opening session Monday evening, commented on this fact, which is a record seldom attained. All members of the Q.W.I. executive were also present and all but one of the provincial conveners.

"New Era — New Effort", was the theme for the convention which followed immediately after the board meeting, and reports of standing committees presented to to the Q.W.I. board, showed this challenge was being understood and accepted. Discussions on such topics as homes for the aged in the community, suitable training for mentally deficient children to make them useful citizens, the curriculum as it now exists in the rural high schools of this province, soil conservation and reforestation, all emphasized a new approach to basic problems that have engaged the attention of the W.I. for many years.

Mrs. A. E. Abercrombie, of Lennoxville, was appointed recording secretary for both board meeting and convention, the latter carrying on until this afternoon (Thursday) June 26.

She — I have a confession to make, dear. I can't cook.

He—Don't let that worry you, honey, I can't make a living, so there won't be anything to cook.

WIFE SERVES IN KOREA BUT HUBBY IN CALGARY

Calgary (CP) — Twenty-year-old Mrs. Jane Deller is off to Korea while hubby stays at home.

Mrs. Deller is Staff Sergeant Deller, United States Women's Army Corps. On her way from Virginia to Korea to work as an intelligence analyst, she stopped in to visit hubby in Calgary.

He's Leading Aircraftsman Keith Deller, 24, of Toronto, engaged in water purification work with an R.C.A.F. maintenance unit here.

Sgt. Deller, a brunette, very small, neat and trim, met her tall dark husband two years ago when he went to Fort Belvoir, Va., for a course. Deller went back to Belvoir twice on leave and they were married in October, 1951.

So far they have spent only 24 days of married life together. But Jane is expecting her discharge in October and will come to Calgary to live.

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Build Self Confidence

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"Why can't you get on the ball team, Bill? When I was your age I was pitching for our school's first team every game".

* * *

"Marion, I'm so sorry you tried to give your hair a home permanent! It is quite neat braided and you've only made your head look queer!"

* * *

"Your older brother was always near the top of his class! John, why are you always trailing along near the bottom? If you would only work hard like he did, you might get somewhere with your studies."

* * *

The three parents who made these remarks would be very much annoyed if anyone accused them of destroying their child's self-confidence. They certainly don't want to do that! But they have been so eager for their child to play on a team, or look attractive, or excell at school that they have forgotten their responsibility for building their child's self-confidence.

Self-esteem is important for the happiness and success of any child as well as any grown-up. We all need that inner glow of self assurance which accompanies it. Quiet poise of manner springs from a person's conviction of his own worth.

This essential character trait is easily hurt, or even destroyed. Bill's dad was damaging his boy's self-confidence by making an unflattering comparison with his own boyhood prowess. Marion's mother was harming her child by criticizing Marion's efforts at hairdressing, and of all things, suggesting her adolescent daughter looked "queer"! John's parent reproached the poor boy for his school standing by reminding him of his older brother's brilliant record. What surer ways can be found than these of pulling a child down — instead of — building him up?

There are other thoughtless techniques for dissolving a child's self assurance, such as too much protection as well as too much direction. A home atmosphere which is constantly tense and worried does not send well-poised children out into the world.

A child should not be allowed to withdraw from a situation which he should face, or leave a task unfinished which should be done. If a parent shuts his eyes, the child will not face a similar situation or complete the same kind of task with self-reliance the next time he meets them. The greatest stimulus to the growth of confidence is the personal satisfaction which follows an obstacle met and successfully overcome.

A parent should not substitute the desire for praise from mother or dad, for the child's own judgment that his action has been praiseworthy, whether or not anyone else thinks so. Encouragement is always welcome, and praise if it is sincere and deserved should be given to a boy or girl. But a child should not be trained to think that his goal is the commendation of his parents. Real achievement brings its own reward.

Thus it is the wise parent who from the child's earliest years provides him with simple tasks he can do, and easy problems he can solve. As his knowledge and skill grows, he should be confronted with jobs and situations which demand more of him. At the same time, the child should not be tested with something which is so beyond his powers that the repeated failure will only bring discouragement.

A boy or girl needs an immediate goal. Parents forget their own public school days when they expect their child to save for a college education! At this stage a youngster is more apt to set aside a small amount for a definite purpose, like saving for a bicycle he can ride in a month's time.

Mothers who measure their children's height know how they vary in their growth. All children are different in their inner development too. A mother can help her child who lacks self-confedence by showing him that she loves him and accepts him as he is. He may be very poor at reading, but look how smart he is in arithmetic! He may be quite dumb at throwing a ball but he certainly can roller-skate better than any other child in the block! He may benefit from extra help in places where he is weak, but his parents will not nag at him or make unfavorable comparisons.

Self-confidence is a sort of invisable armour which a child wears, which repels the darts of an unfriendly or a hostile world. Dryden said truly: "They can conquer who believe they can." Have you given your child this self-protection which he needs now and which will stand him in good stead in his adventures tomorrow as an adult?

Sewing Hint

For the beginner at home-sewing: When selecting a pattern, look for a natural shoulder line, set-in sleeves, natural waistline, designs that cut on the double of the fabric. Avoid intricate drapery and elaborate detail.

Normal, Healthy Life Best Polio Protection

Summer vacation time and the knowledge that this is also the season when most poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) cases occur in Canada, causes much unnecessary worry and alarm among parents, according to Dr. Crawford Anglin, writing in the current issue of "Health".

Dr. Anglin points out that the relative seriousness of polio has been over-emphasized to the general public, mainly because of its dramatic course in some patients who may die during the acute stages of the illness or may be left with severe paralysis and deformaties.

"It should be realized, however, that other diseases not receiving the publicity that poliomyelitis does, are a greater menace to our children", the Health article states. "Whooping cough kills twice as many children in Canada as poliomyelitis, and rheumatic fever has crippled children far more severely by damaging the heart."

To illustrate the actual possibility of developing a recognizable form of polio, the following statistical analysis is reassuring. During a severe epidemic, there is only one chance in 1,500 of developing polio, one in 7,500 of being paralyzed, and one in 30,000 of dying of the disease. Even in patients who are paralyzed during the acute stage, it has been estimated that 50 per cent recover from their weaknesses and have no residual paralysis one year later.

"While this information is small consolation to parents of a child who has been left severely paralyzed or has died from poliomyelitis, it is mentioned in an effort to help dispel the panic that occurs among members of our population who may not be aware of the actual facts concerning the prevalence of serious effects of this disease", adds Dr. Anglin.

The Health League of Canada magazine goes on to quote eight rules for the guidance of parents in guarding their youngsters against polio:

1—Any minor illness or fever occurring during the poliomyelitis season should be treated by bed rest and isolation pending diagnosis. It might be poliomyelitis and if it is it can be made more severe by forcing the person to carry on usual activity.

2—Excessive physical strain and unnecessary travel and visiting should be avoided during the poliomyelitis season.

3—Water that might be contaminated by sewage should be avoided for swimming, washing or drinking.

4—Flies should be suppressed and, in particular, food should be protected from fly contamination. All fresh fruit should be washed well before eating.

5—All except urgent nose or throat operations and dental extractions should be postponed until the poliomyelitis season is past.

6—With regard to summer camps, it has been recommended that camps be opened if no outbreak exists in the area, but children should not be admitted from an epidemic region. If a case develops in a camp, new children should not be admitted, but retained for 14 days after the last contact with the case.

7—Attendance of children at fairs, theatres and swimming pools should be discouraged.

8—In all events, hysteria and panic should be avoided. A normal healthy life should be led and special attention to cleanliness of person and environment maintained.

Says Canadian Women Behind in Politics

Montreal — The record of Canadian women in politics was termed pathetic in a recent discussion here, in which three prominent speakers discussed political growth of women in Canada, India and Israel.

Canadian women were the only group to draw fire and the criticism came from a Canadian, Mrs. Wilhelmina Holmes, a Montreal lawyer. Other members of the panel were Miss K. Rukmini, secretary to the High Commissioner of India, and Miss Mina Rogozik, former commander-in-chief of the Israeli Women's Army.

Mrs. Holmes told the Pioneer Women's Organization, sponsors of the discussion, that Canadian women have been slow in accepting political responsibility.

"Though we have had the right to vote and hold public office for over 30 years, we have been very slow to accept political responsibility. Look at the record. In all those 30 years, there have been only seven women in the House of Commons, and at the present time there is only one woman in the federal house — and six in the 10 provincial legislatures", she said.

Canadian women must realize, Mrs. Holmes said, that for every right they possess, there is a corresponding duty and responsibility.

Miss Rogozi said women had played a vital role in the growth of three-year-old Israel. There are 11 women in parliament and many women made contributions to agriculture, industry and defence.

WORK SHOULD YIELD MORE THAN MONEY, SAYS PSYCHIATRIST

"A great many people believe that work is what you do to earn enough so that you can have fun during the time when you don't have to work", sums up Dr. R. O. Jones, professor of psychiatry, Dalhousie University, in an article in the current issue of "Health".

"This is a poor and curious philosophy, and it would be an important social change to make some general modification in this attitude by trying to teach our young people that work has some worth for itself and should be a source of satisfaction and of support to our mental health."

Dr. Jones points out that this is all the more so today, when homes are no longer close-knit family groups of people who do things together and give each other mutual support.

Work, he writes in the Health League of Canada magazine, should yield economic security, some measure of satisfaction from creative activity, and social contacts. And Dr. Jones finds that business and industry are attempting to meet these human needs in some degree. Furthermore he sites actual cases where study has shown that where these needs have been met successfully, absenteeism has been substantially reduced and production has increased.

The Maritime psychiatrist does not think for a minute that vocational guidance has all the answers; but he does believe that a careful selection of workers and a fitting of individuals to jobs according to their temperament and ability is an important starting point.

"The worker who isn't properly placed in a job is almost bound to be discontented and dissatisfied", comments Dr. Jones. "Discontentment and dissatisfaction are just about as contagious as the measles, and only a very few workers feeling this way may infect all the rest of the plant."

The second recommendation in the Health League of Canada magazine article is for the provision of consultation facilities for workers who are dissatisfied. In companies where there is a medical service, a worker with any health problem, either mental or physical, should be encouraged to discuss his case with the doctor or nurse in charge.

Even in smaller plants which cannot afford their own personnel and medical services, something can be done about the all-important morale factor, notes Dr. Jones. Good morale is achieved when the natural leaders that occur in every group of individual are recognized and the informal organization that forms around them fits as closely as possible with the formal organization of the plant. This makes the natural leader into the real leader rather than a subversive force which may run against the goals of management.

"Techniques have been devised to study plants and to pick out natural leaders", adds Dr. Jones. "This proved effective in raising military morale and it has proved equally effective among civilians."

Dr. Jones concluded by declaring that the mental health of industrial workers and of the nation as a whole could be greatly improved if everyone concerned made use of the many facts now available as a result of a great deal of research by social scientists.

WAR SOUVENIR FOR PRIME MINISTER

Central Press Canadian

An ash tray made from the casing of the first shell fired by the Canadian forces in the Korean war is presented to Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, at the House of Commons by Vice-Admiral E. R. Mainguy, chief of the naval staff, on behalf of the Royal Canadian navy. The shell from which the ash tray was made was fired August 15, 1950, by HMCS Cayuga, then commanded by Captain Jeffry Brock of Winnipeg. Three Canadian destroyers, the Cayuga, Sioux and Athabaskan were despatched to the Far East on July 5, 1950, and within a month were serving in Korean waters under United Nations command.

U.K. COMMENTATOR

This is Sam Pollock, North-country Englishman, who tells Canadians about happenings in England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland in the Sunday morning broadcast series, "Postmark: U.K.", heard weekly at 8.05 on the CBC Trans-Canada. Pollock is also heard frequently in Home News from Britain, also on Sundays, following the 12 (noon) news on Trans-Canada. Both these programs offer behind-the-scenes information specially tailored for Canadians.

At the opening parade of the Calgary Stampede last summer an icy wind forced many spectators into winter coats. Some of the Indians in full regalia kept warm by wearing clear plastic raincoats over their magnificent beadwork. One old Indian scorned these new fangdangled ways and rode stoically along in the bitter wind, bare from the waist up except for his war paint. The procession halted by one shivering spectator, who called to the brave:

"Aren't you cold in that get up?"

"Why, no", replied the tourist.

"Me all face", said the Indian.

Pupil Won Prize in Essay Contest

The Catholic diocesan committee held an essay contest preliminary to the French-Language Congress, which opened last week. In this contest a pupil of the Immaculate Conception School, Ayersville — Therese Beausejour — won first prize in Section "B", and three local pupils received mention — in Section "A" (Superior Schools), Gyselle Audy, of the Ste. Anastasie Convent, and in Section "B" Noella Desormeaux, of the St. Julien School, and Denise Ouellet, of the St. Alexandre School. Section "B" was open to pupils of Grades VII, VIII and IX.

A total of 52 entries, the best essays selected from 26 different schools, were considered by the diocesan committee.

B. C. Air Transport Grows With Industry

Vancouver (CP) — Backed by aluminum, pulp and paper, power and lumbering, British Columbia's air transport business is making its mark in a big way. Air activity in B.C., it is estimated, has expanded 10 times in six years.

One company has grown from a $500 debt in 1944 to a gross profit of $1,850,000 in 1951 and another that hunted business for its two light planes in 1946 now operates the largest commercial fleet of helicopters in the world.

Most spectacular growth has been done by Queen Charlotte Airlines which started in 1944 with a half interest in a plane. It now operates 30 aircraft and gross revenue doubles yearly.

Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. is a new company which teamed up with Alcan and operates equipment with a replacement value of $600,000. The firm's 12 pilots fly two Sikorsky S55 five passenger ships, the only two in commercial service in the world. They also use 10 Bell two-passenger helicopters. Surveys that once took five years by foot are now taking five days by air.

Canadian Pacific Airlines, second only to Trans-Canada in Canadian aviation, has greatly increased its service to all parts of the province and an aggressive group of growing young companies is crowding these leaders in the field.

Here's A Shocker If You Go Abroad

If you're planning to vacation in foreign lands this summer, here's a tip from Minneapolis-Honeywell engineers that may come as a shock.

Electrical current, they point out, varies in most foreign countries even more than language. So you may find that your electric razor, hair dryer and other portable electrical gadgets are just useless baggage.

In Canada most electrical devices operate on 60-cycle alternating current (with the exception of Southern Ontario, which is being converted from 25 to 60 cycle). But not so in other lands. Cairo has 40-cycle current, but you can cross the street and run into 50. The Isle of Capri is powered on 42, Gibraltar on 76, and Wuchang, China, on 40. Voltages make still more of a crazy-quilt pattern on the world map.

Honeywell engineers worry about these things because they have to design special equipment for foreign use. They get around the problem of odd voltages and frequencies by generating in their own plant the various types of current used throughout the world.

In Canada the price of a telephone pole averages $6.77.

THE CASE OF THE PEOPLE vs. DUPLESSIS

EXHIBIT NO. 40

Reduced Debt proves nothing but mirage

THE FACTS
Union Nationale claims Province's debt lowered $52,000,000
BUT
new debts of more than $100,000,000 will burden taxpayers for years to come.
ACTUALLY
Quebec's debt has increased over $50,000,000 under Duplessis
Per capita tax has jumped from $20.67 to $55.76 in 7 years!

Duplessis "arithmetic" shows an imaginary debt reduction of $52,000,000 since 1944 . . . conveniently omits numerous commitments which must be paid out of future revenues. For instance — bonds to pay school debts, $51,201,700; increase in commitments to hospitals, $14,000,000; rebates payable under housing legislation, $22,000,000; commitments for school buildings, at least $30,000,000. Duplessis has mortgaged our Province's future, while raising taxes from $65,000,000 a year to the backbreaking total of $223,000,000 this year.

The Watch Tower in These Last Days

But the last or ending days of Satan's rule. (Read Revelations 12, verses 7 to 12). He knows now that his time is short.

THE WATCHTOWER stands as a watchman on a lookout post, alert to what's going on, awake to spot signs that warn of danger, quick to point the way to life in a new world. It does not privately interpret Bible prophecy, but calls notice to physical facts, sets them alongside prophecy, and you see for yourself how well the two match, how accurately events of our time fulfil prophecy. In the interests of your salvation, this magazine keeps sharp focus on Bible truth and religious news.

AWAKE! broadens its view to take in a wider sweep of human affairs. Its correspondents in many lands supply articles on a variety of subjects, to interest young and old, male and female. Varying individual tastes are satisfied, as its reports cover politics, commerce, religion, science, social conditions, natural history, etc. Yet, with all its general coverage, it points up the news of vital significance, fearlessly exposes error, and warns of dangers to which many are asleep.

Neither of the above mentioned magazines carries commercial advertising, or owes allegiance or favors to any man or group, as such might cramp freedom to publish uncensored truth. Let these magazines help you be watchful and awake to the perilous times, and be comforted by knowledge of a new world. Both magazines will come to your home for one year for $2, or either one for $1. — Write The Watch Tower, 40 Irwin Ave., Toronto, 5, Ont.

Mrs. Thomas MacCullough, of N.D.G., visited her mother, Mrs. George Murdoch, last week.

Mrs. Perley Clark entertained at a Stanley demonstration party last Friday evening.

Lake Keatley

Mrs. Ruby White, of Montreal, accompanied by her grandchildren, Joyce and Dianne Davis, of Lachute, and Gale Ford, of Montreal, is spending the summer holiday here.

Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Bennett, of "Echo Valley Camp", spent Friday in Montreal.

Mrs. John White left Saturday to take a six weeks' course at the National College in Evanston, Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Meneault and the latter's mother, Mrs. J. Thomas, and her son Maurice Thomas, of Mount Rock, Ont. (who recently returned home after serving 18 months in Korea) held a family party for the young soldier, at the home of Morris McAndrew in Harrington last Saturday evening. Maurice, his mother, sister and brother-in-law, will also visit relatives in Port Colborne, Ont.

Mr. Smith, of the Baptist Church, and Mr. MacLeod, of the United Church, made pastoral calls in this vicinity last week.

Mr. Fred Parent and Ken Ford spent the week-end at "Oak Bend".

Mr. Dave MacVicar and his grandsons, Sandy and Richard Jones, of Lachute, are spending a week at Lake Wentworth.

Mr. Lawrence Thomas, of Ottawa, spent the week-end with his wife and family.

Labor Matters At Brownsburg

contract, the company had already granted an increase of 5 cents to male and 3 cents to female employees. These increases are now included in the 16% award.

The Brownsburg workers at present enjoy seven paid holidays. This has now been increased to eight.

The award as a whole is a lengthy document containing numerous articles, clauses and subsections. At a general meeting held by Union members to hear the instrument read last week, a vote was also taken on its acceptance or rejection.

The vote registered 3 to 1 against acceptance. Since then, further meetings between C-I-L and Union representatives have been held, but no progress has been reported to date. A lot of uncertainty prevails and it is generally conceded that an adequate understanding of the terms of the award has not been arrived at by the rank and file.

Talk of a strike is in the air but at this writing the possibility seems remote.

DISTRICT NEWS FROM OUR COUNTY CORRESPONDENTS

Cushing

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Drew, of Verdun, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Canning.

Mr. J. Phillips, of Montreal, is occupying 'Green Acre' at present. Week-end guests were his son, John, Miss Betty O'Neil and Mr. Jas. Heasley, of Montreal.

Mr. W. H. Godwin, of Montreal, is occupying "Glenelen" at present, having as guests Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hall and son, Jimmie.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Clark, of Upper Lachute, and Mr. W. A. Graham, of North River, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Graham.

Miss Annie and Mr. Jack McDowell occupied "Glenifer Cottage" over the week-end.

Mr. Meredith Burton and Mrs. Geo. Burton were week-end guests of the Misses Cleland.

Mrs. H. V. Elliott and Mrs. Jas. Coney attended the Women's Institute convention at Macdonald College this week.

Miss E. M. Graham is spending the summer holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Graham.

Mrs. Roy Dobbie spent several days as the guest of her sister, Mrs. John Heatlie, of Ogdensburg.

The McGain family, also Mr. J. Brown, of Montreal, were at their summer home here for the week-end.

Mrs. A. Graham left on Monday for London, Ont., where she will attend the Dominion Convention of the Canadian Authors Association, to be held in the University of Western Ontario this week.

Miss F. Cushing was the week-end guest of Mrs. W. Y. King. Mrs. King also entertained the Ladies' Association of St. Mungo's Church on Thursday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Leclair and family attended the wedding of Mrs. Leclair's brother, Mr. Léon Decaire, to Miss Yolande Bélanger, on Saturday morning at Papineauville Church. Other guests who accompanied the Leclair family to Papineauville were Mr. J. Brunet, Mr. J., Miss S. and Mr. E. Raymond, also Mr. J. Fahey.

Miss Jeannine Leclair is to be congratulated on her successful graduation from High School in Hawkesbury. With her brother, Mr. Lionel Leclair, she enjoyed a motor trip to Niagara Falls.

Mr. Ted Moncrieff, formerly of Stonefield, has rented Mrs. W. Y. King's cottage and will reside there with his bride of Saturday (the former Isabel Miller of Cornwall, Ont., previously of Vankleek Hill). Cushing residents wish them every happiness, and also extend the same good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Decaire, who will reside in Papineauville.

Golden Wedding Celebration

The Misses Alberta and Leila Cleland played host to their sister on the occasion of her golden wedding, the occasion being in the form of a family gathering. Mr. and Mrs. John W. Richardson (who were married on June 18, 1902) together with their son, Howard, spent a very enjoyable afternoon at the Clelands', and Mrs. Jessie B. Burton, together with Mr. and Mrs. Donald McDiarmid, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Burton, paid fitting tribute to their sister.

Cushing West

Saturday guests included Mrs. MacNaughton, from N.B., and Miss Mildred Douglas, of Montreal; and guests of Mrs. Usher on Sunday included Miss J. Wickenden, of Lachute, and Mr. Jas. Watson, of Hawkesbury.

Miss M. Douglas and Mrs. G. MacNaughton called on several old friends while in this district. The latter (formerly Miss Grace Fraser) spent many years in her youth at the manse here.

Change of Property

The manse property, consisting of glebe and large brick house, owned since 1862 by the Montreal Presbytery, was sold last week to Mr. Calvin Edgerton of Maniwaki, who will take up residence in the near future.

The new manse is now under construction, on the property formerly owned by Mr. Walter Prior of Montreal, situated to the west of Mrs. Wm. Usher's home.

Northern Grenville

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Owens were — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnston and Mr. Gerald Johnston, of Thetford Mines, and Miss Mary McLennan, of Arvida.

Mrs. Roy Nixon recently entertained at a birthday party for her little son, Clifton, who was two years old. Approximately 30 guests attended, helping to make the party a success.

Mrs. Arthur Millar, of Cornwall, is at present visiting her daughter, Mrs. Henry Stewart.

On June 18, a party was held at the Deforges Hotel, Stonefield, for Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moncrieff (the former Isabel Millar). Mr. Moncrieff was presented with a gift from his friends. A large number attended, and all reported a pleasant time.

Avoca

Mrs. S. McArthur has returned to her home in Calumet after visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. T. J. Young, for three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles (Dan) McCallum and youngest son, Kenneth, of Vancouver, called on a number of old friends in this vicinity last week.

Mr. Elden Bates, of Eganville, Ont., visited his family here last week-end. He was accompanied back by Mrs. Van Copeland, of Belwood, Ont.

DUPLESSIS A GREAT CANADIAN

The brilliant administration he has given the Province of Quebec since 1944 has earned for Premier Maurice Duplessis encomiums of the highest praise from every class and in every quarter. The Press, trade, industry, finance, farmers, labor, professional men, artisans, wage earners from every race and creed have been unanimous in praising the Premier's devotion to duty and his spirit of progress.

"Mr. Duplessis is not an extreme nationalist. He is for his own province first (As what Provincial Premier isn't!). But his record shows him to be a good staunch Canadian who has a reputation for getting things done; and they are almost invariably things which are for the ultimate good of the Province — and accordingly for Canada's own. Mr. Duplessis can look back with real satisfaction to a job well and truly done. As it is, by all signs and portents he can look forward to carrying on the good work for some time to come."

FINANCIAL TIMES
(January 1952)

"Labor legislation in the Province of Quebec is regarded as among the best on the continent."

R. I. MENARY,
International Vice-President, International Union of Moulders and Foundry Workers

"Quebec, ahead of all provinces in public health, knew how to make use of the federal-provincial agreement to best advantage. Since commencing its program the Quebec Government has added 9,500 new beds of which 4,400 are for general sickness, 1,900 for tuberculosis, 2,200 for mental patients, 750 for convalescents and 750 more for children.

Hon. PAUL MARTIN,
Federal Health Minister,
(June 1951)

"Our board is happy to inform you that it considers with favor your stand opposing an amendment to the Canadian constitution which would have enabled the provinces to collect an indirect tax of 3 per cent on the total volume of business. Your opposition prevented the levying of this tax which our association regards as dangerous and prejudicial to the retail trade. Our board wishes in the name of the retail trade to express its gratitude and thanks at the stand you took in safeguarding the interests of the retail merchants."

RETAIL MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION OF CANADA.

"The Quebec Premier is deserving of our congratulations for the 25 years he has spent in the service of his province. In looking over the Premier's career, I see it as a source of inspiration to our young people. We admire him as a worthy opponent and as a tireless worker. We also admire his great courage. The foundation to his political career we trace right back to his family, to the wise influence of his father and mother in whom we find the first cause of his success."

GEORGE MARLER
Leader of the Opposition

●

"This is an important and long-awaited piece of news that the Quebec Premier has just released. In brief, he fully agrees with the proposal of his English-speaking colleague, Premier John B. McNair, of New Brunswick, that the British North America Act be not only amended, but wholly revised and replaced, this while safeguarding the basic principles that attended its conception."

LA PATRIE,
(September 1951)

"Premier Duplessis is the actual embodiment of civil authority in this Province. It is but just to acknowledge that his 25 years in public life have been filled to overflowing. Let our young people remember that today as yesterday, in politics as in other spheres of life, hard work, ambition and the will to succeed remain our best means to success. The knowledge that he had provided an example in this respect would be for the Premier his greatest consolation and his most noble source of pride."

L'ACTION CATHOLIQUE,
(Quebec, April 1952)

"On the 25th anniversary of his political career, Mr. Duplessis has reason to be proud of his success, and even more so, of the success of his administration which has brought to this province unprecedented development."

THE GAZETTE, Montreal,
(April, 1952)

Rotary Playground In Full Swing

The Brownsburg Rotary Club playground opened for another season's activity, starting on Saturday, June 21.

Once again the facilities of the park are available to the children of this district. Swimming, softball, horseshoes and volleyball, carried on under the supervision of Rotarian King Amos, should tend to keep the local boys and girls occupied in the summer months. Last year approximately 150 children a day availed themselves of the opportunities provided by the Rotary playground. It is quite possible that the presence of the Rotary park may already have prevented injury and death to those children who otherwise would have to play in the streets.

While the playground is intended primarily as a place for children, the shade trees and picnic tables provided, make the park an excellent location for a family picnic. The Rotary Club invites everyone to make use of the facilities provided at the park.

Patient: Doctor, I don't smoke, drink, gamble or chase around with women. Will I live a hundred years?

Doctor: No, but it will seem like it!

Carillon Climbs to Softball Lead

Sunday afternoon at Carillon, Jos. Moreau's riverside team, captained by Jean-Paul Roy, defeated Frank McLean's Colford Lodge softballers 10-9, as the schedule continued — Carillon thus riding to top place in the league.

St. Andrews "Association Sportive" beat Lowe Bros. at the St. Andrews Inn field, climbing to second position with Colford Lodge.

This evening (Thursday) the Lachute Legion will receive Gaston Dupre's boys from St. Andrews, at the Wilson field, and for next Sunday afternoon two games are on the program — Colford Lodge at St. Andrews, and Lowe Bros. at Carillon.

Standing, Sunday, June 22

Team	GP	W	L	Pts.
Carillon	7	6	1	12
Colford Lodge	6	4	2	8
St. Andrews	7	4	3	8
Lowe Bros.	6	3	3	6
Lions	6	2	4	4
Lachute Legion	6	0	6	0

Exciting Program For Air Show This Sunday

Sixth Annual Event At Hawkesbury

The program for the local Air Show on Sunday, June 29, sponsored by the Hawkesbury Flying Club, is now almost complete and will include the following items:

1. R.C.A.F. Fly Past — 3 Sabre Jet aircraft.
2. Mass Parachute Jump — Royal Canadian Regiment.
3. Aerobatics by Ottawa Flying Club — Chipmunks.
4. Glider Demonstrations — Buckingham Gliding Club.
5. Mass Flight of Flying Club Aircraft — Hawkesbury Flying Club, Ottawa Flying Club and Montreal Flying Club.

In addition to this, efforts are being made to obtain a helicopter display and other attractions.

The Department of Highways and the Provincial Police, at the request of the Royal Canadian Regiment and the Club officials, are co-operating to prevent parking along Highway 17 adjacent to the Airport — to protect any paratroopers in case some drift away from the field and alight in this area.

People who wish to attend the show are again reminded that there will be no charge for parking their cars on the field. A free parking area is being arranged for, and a special committee will be on duty to assist in parking cars.

Youthful Conductor

One of Canadian radio's youngest and busiest arranger-conductors is Howard Cable (above), whose newest broadcast series is Cable's Concert Band, heard Sunday evenings at 7.30 on the CBC Trans-Canada network. Born in Toronto, he gave up an athletic career to join a high school orchestra as clarinetist. Then he organized his own aggregation, which had that "certain something" that attracted attention and got him his first break in radio. Since 1943 nearly every major radio musical show has featured arrangements by Cable. He has arranged and conducted for the Leslie Bell Singers since 1948, and during the winter he also waves the baton for the Musical Kitchen radio series.

Kits for Asian, Latin American Midwives

The United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF), is supplying 2000 midwifery kits to countries in Asia and Latin America. The kits (as shown above) will be used by villages' midwives on whom women in those parts of the world are almost wholly dependent. For the first time these kits will have at hand the essential instruments, medicine and material for modern midwifery practice. They weigh about fifteen pounds, and can be carried on the midwife's back or separated and carried by hand.

Dance Recital At Brownsburg

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — A local school of dancing under the direction of Mrs. Myra Summers and Mrs. Pat Seary topped off the season's activities by a dance display of the pupils under tuition, assisted by a finished artist of the ballet in the person of Jo Ann Holland, of the Ballet School of Montreal.

The entertainment was under auspices of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, and was held at the school auditorium, with Mr. Steve Istvanffy, Legion president, as m.c.

Various numbers were tastefully executed, with the members in gay and colorful costumes depicting the theme of the dance. The items were put on in rapid succession, without the usual irritating delays usually associated with such functions, making a refreshing change.

The program opened with a number called "The Teddy Bears' Picnic", setting the timing and atmosphere for the whole show. A Hornpipe number was well received. An amusing and colorful representation of Dutch symbols, employing nine members of the youthful cast, was delightfully conceived. Miss Holland (who has paternal ties with Brownsburg) displayed a charming and talented originality in two numbers, and received well-merited applause.

The Enchanted Wedding; Parade of the Wooden Soldiers; Irish Dance, Scandinavian Frolic; Hop Scotch Polka; and a Minstrel number presented variety to please every taste.

A word of praise is due the painstaking thoroughness with which the teachers prepared the artists for this enjoyable event. The best praise we could give is to ask for some more in the near future. Mrs. Dorothy Beaudry proved an understanding and efficient accompanist. The costumes were a credit to Mrs. Gordon Todd; we have come to expect much from her tasteful designing. The make-up and scenic effects by Mrs. Paul Villard showed descrimination and plearantness.
