School Results Higher Than Quebec Average

Gratifying Comparison Seen in Reports

The results of the Department of Education examinations in Lachute High School were considerably better than last year. In Grade X, out of 29 students 25 were promoted; 86.3% passed, whereas the provincial average percentage was 68.3.

The total of candidates in Grade XI was 39, of whom two were sick and unable to write all their examinations. The percentage of failures of those writing was 27%, whereas the percentage in the province (outside the Island of Montreal) was 29.5.

Eleven students wrote the Grade XII examinations, of whom eight were successful. This is 4.8% better than the provincial average.

There are no supplemental examinations held for Grade X. In Grade XI, six candidates who failed are eligible to write supplementals in September or next June to obtain their High School Leaving Certificates. The three candidates who failed in Grade XII are each eligible to write supplementals.

Several students in both Grades X and XI were only a few marks short of making Class I averages. In Grade XI, Marilyn Gray, Ann McGibbon and Marina Griffith each lacked only a few marks from making 80%. In Grade X, Anne Dwyer and Audrey McOuat missed a first class by a narrow margin.

The following is a list of the successful candidates in Grades X, XI and XII of Lachute High School. Names are in alphabetical order in each class.

Class I — 80-100%
Class II — 65-79%
Class III — 50-64%

GRADE XII

Class II — Joan Goldthorpe, Shirley Jackson, Ruth McDonald, Kenneth Trickey, Evelyn Welden.

Class III — James Campbell, Tommy Jamison, Robert McMahon.

GRADE XI

Class III — Wilmer Andrews, Garth Berry, Ruth Clark, Dilley Clattenburg, Florence Copeland, Norman Davis, Robert Duncan, Myrtle Gaston, Margaret Holt, Mary Ann Laurin, Marion Mason, Lona Meyer, Ronald Noble, Beverley Robinson, Violet Steele, Ruth Rae Walker, Lillian Warwick, Robert Warwick.

Extra Subjects — Barbara Bradford, Dianne Wright.

Aegrotat — Joan Oswald.

GRADE X

Class I — Heather Graham.

Class II — Stanley Alexander, Beverley Bain, Trenton Boyd, Roslyn Brown, Glen Copeland, Margaret Dolg, Anne Dwyer, Shirley Hay, Clare Mae Laurin, Mary Ruth MacKimmie, Helen McMahon, Audrey McOuat, Robert Morrow, Jean Muir, Wayne Riddell, Bill Steeves, Stuart Thompson, Eunice Warwick.

Class III — Lillian Barker, Ruth Hammond, Nancy Muir, Eileen Noble, Ivan Ward.

Neighbors Honor Hill Head Couple

Silver Leaf Dance Hall was the scene on Wednesday evening, July 30, of a very pleasant social event, when the proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hume, with neighbors and friends, were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. D. Hume, who have sold the farm where they have lived for 40 years past.

Mr. Cottingham, M.L.A., after a short address, presented Mr. and Mrs. Hume with a beautiful floor lamp.

The evening was spent in dancing, and refreshments were served by friends and neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Hume take this opportunity to thank all those who helped to make the evening a happy memory.

Windstorm Havoc At Morin Heights

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — During the severe windstorm on July 23, the walls of the partially completed movie theatre being constructed by Mayor Chas. D. Campbell, were blown down. On the following Monday evening, a bee was held, sponsored by the Morin Heights Branch of the Canadian Legion. About 35 men arrived with their tools and worked until dark. The rest of the week friends helped every evening, and now the walls are back to their former state. . . Mayor and Mrs. Campbell are most grateful and encouraged by this help, and also by the fine community spirit displayed.

Diamond Gauthier Wins 'Lachute Open', Fans See Julius Boros, U.S. Champion

The appearance of Julius Boros, U.S. Open champion, at the Lachute Open Tournament on July 27, created high interest among golfing enthusiasts. It is estimated that over 1,000 fans followed the champion on his round with Stan Horne, Jack Archer and Jules Huot.

Diamond Gauthier Wins With Two-Under-Par

Playing a long game off the tees and through the fairways, Diamond Gauthier, professional from Maisonneuve, romped home to victory among a starry field in this annual invitation event, an 18-hole medal play tournament. Gauthier made a two-under-par score of 36-34 — 70 to beat out by a stroke Julius Boros, who finished in the runner-up position with 36-35—71.

Rudolphe Huot, Royal Quebec, made a bold bid to repeat his victory of last year, but had to be content with third place with 37-35 —72. Bob Cunningham, Jr., Toronto, came through with a very fine showing when he wound up in a deadlock with Stanley Horne, Islesmere, and Murray Tucker, London, Ont., with 73s. They posted identical scores of 37 and 36.

Bill Kerr, the consistent Beaconsfield representative, was right on the heels of the pace-setters with 36-38—74 to share honors at this position with the veteran Willie Lamb from Toronto, who repeatedly hit the golfing headline with his consistent displays about a decade ago. Willie carded two 37s for his total.

Jerry Huot of Sherbrooke wound up in a tie with Bob Dean, Cornwall, with 75s, while Stan Baird, LaSalle, and Al Balding, Islington, Toronto, who had just won the Quebec Open title succeeding Bob Gray, Toronto Scarboro, shared the last money position with 76s.

Jules Huot, Laval-sur-le-Lac, and Jack Archer, home club professional, had putter trouble and finished with 77 and 79 respectively.

Joe Leblanc, Whitlock, won low amateur gross honors with 38-37 —75, while G. Bush was runner-up with 78.

R. C. McKenzie, Mount Royal, won the low amateur net prize with 78-6-72.

Julius Boros, of Southern Pines, who scooped the U.S. Open championship at Dallas, Texas, last June, plays a relaxed type of game with tremendous right-hand power in all his shots — reports George Whittaker, veteran commentator. It was the first time that he had played the course, but this didn't faze him any. The noted visitor chalked up four birdies, but three times slipped to par by a stroke.

Boros displayed a fine putting stroke and with a little more luck on the "carpets" would easily have posted a score in the sixties. Five putts simply hung on the lip of the cups, but the 200-pound North Carolina pro simply smiled at his misfortune. He was always quick to praise good shots.

Many Notables at Funeral of Late Mrs. W. H. Ayers

One of the Lachute's most widely known lady residents, Mrs. W. H. Ayers (widow of the late Harry Ayers, former president of Ayers Limited), died at the Hotel Dieu in Montreal on Wednesday, July 30, at the age of 75.

The former Bernadette Carriere, the late Mrs. Harry Ayers is mourned by three sons and two daughters — Richard, Leonard and Thomas Ayers, (Isabelle) Mrs. Ernest Deslauriers, and (Monique) Mrs. Roland Lamarche, all resident in this community. She is survived also by two sisters, Mrs. Emile Dumais, of Lachute, and the Rev. Sister Isidore, of the Holy Sacrament Order; and by her nephew, Gilbert E. Ayers.

Her funeral, one of the most impressive witnessed here in recent years, was held Saturday at the St. Julien Church, whose beautiful structure was a gift of the late Ayers brothers to the west-end parishioners. The Bishop of St. Jerome, Mgr. Emilien Frenette, chanted the service, with other prominent clerics assisting and around 30 priests in the sanctuary. Besides numerous relatives, there were notables from many places and many spheres of activity — social, civic and business.

From the church the funeral cortege proceeded to the Notre Dame de Lourdes shrine on the Brownsburg Road — a scene of fitting sentiment and association, for the last rites before committal at the Lachute Catholic Cemetery.

The many benefactions of the Ayers family are linked with her name. Beside the magnificent St. Julien Church, the Notre Dame de Lourdes shrine, which she later ceded to the Franciscan monks, was exclusively the creation of Mrs. Ayers and her family. In the erection of this site the late Eva Pearl — daughter of Mrs. Ayers who predeceased her parents — was closely associated. She died suddenly before completion of the statuary, in 1935. The late Mrs. Ayers subsequently donated the shrine to the Franciscans, in 1949.

83 Per Cent Cast Votes in Argenteuil Co.

COTTINGHAM (U.N. candidate)	8,248
GOSSELIN (Liberal candidate)	3,896
Spoiled ballots	202

In the 82 polls of this riding the official figure varied by 8 votes from the original report, received the morning after the election; the difference raised Mr. Cottingham's majority by 8 — from 4,338 to 4,346.

It is unusual to note that out of 14,843 eligible on the county voting lists, no fewer than 12,346 cast their ballots — representing over 83%, a very high proportion.

POWER FOR THE GASPE PENINSULA, DUPLESSIS GIVES PARTICULARS ON $100-MILLION HYDRO DEVELOPMENT

Quebec (CP) — One of the great North Shore rivers of the St. Lawrence will be harnessed at a cost of $100,000,000 to supply expanding need for electric power in the Gaspé Peninsula.

Premier Duplessis announced Friday at his regular press conference that the Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission has launched the project, which will increase by 500,000 horsepower Quebec's installed capacity by the end of 1956. Quebec's installed capacity in horsepower at December 31, 1951, was 6,755,351.

The development is located on the 260-mile long Bersimis River, which flows northwest-southeast and empties into the St. Lawrence about 30 miles west of Baie Comeau, the pulp and paper centre.

Plans include construction of a job site costing $20,000,000 which eventually will become a permanent town in the still virgin territory, Premier Duplessis said.

Preliminary work has already begun on the project, and when in full swing some 1,500 men will be employed.

The project was announced by Mr. Duplessis a few months ago and involves laying submarine cables across the St. Lawrence River to the South Shore 40 miles away. From a power station at Les Boules, near the town of Rimouski, lines will bring electricity to all corners of Gaspé Peninsula.

However, at the time of his previous announcement Mr. Duplessis did not give details of the cost or the planned horse-power capacity. Technical details of the project still have not been released. But it will involve at least four years of work barring unforeseen difficulties, Mr. Duplessis said.

The Bersimis was one of three rivers whose power potential was leased to the Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission some months ago. The other two rivers are the Outardes and Mancouagan. Technicians of the commission were free to pick a site of their choice on these rivers.

The development will use only one-third of the Bersimis' potential 1,500,000 horsepower.

In announcing launching of this project, Mr. Duplessis said he received many letters from Gaspé Peninsula residents asking him to bring about construction of a railroad to serve the area's North Shore.

He said construction of a railroad in Gaspé was "more urgent than ever". Mining developments in the peninsula are "only beginning", Mr. Duplessis said, and if that was one good reason to build a railroad, civil defence is another.

"Millions are spent to install radar equipment just about everywhere to protect the country against a possible enemy.

"Gaspé is at the very door of Canada and it would not seem logical to leave a door open to the enemy . . . rational protection of the country makes indispensable construction of a railroad and installation of telephone and telegraph facilities.

"I have reason to hope authorities of Canadian National Railways will not run away from their obligation . . ."

Speaking of Quebec's industrial expansion, Mr. Duplessis said it was "colossal".

Dr. Duplessis said an entire village will be built on the site of the Bersimis river project to lodge workers comfortably. All essential facilities of a modern town will be available to them.

While the power project is primarily aimed at serving Gaspé Peninsula's needs, it will also serve to supply mushrooming industry along the North Shore.

Municipality of Ayersville Strikes Tax Rate $1.40 per $100 Valuation

A tax rate of $1.40 on the hundred dollars was imposed on immoveable property, and a special tax of $3 on properties on sewer and water service lines, within the Ayersville Municipality. These rates were established at the regular session of Council, held on Monday, July 28.

All members were present, under presidency of Mayor Gilbert E. Ayers, and the meeting opened with prayer, preceding adoption of the minutes, passing of accounts, and other business preliminaries

The Council will press the enforcement of sanitation laws, especially in regard to outside toilets and open sewerage. Residents who do not conform with municipal standards will be formally notified — a copy of such notice being filed also with the County Health Officer, Dr. L. Turcotte.

An applicant seeking permission to operate a dog breeding business, was refused permit because of central location of his site. The Council had no objection to this type of business, but took exception to such enterprises in a residential section. . . The situation arose when tax collectors approached the citizen to take out individual licenses for his dogs, and the breeder refused, saying he wished to procure a general business permit.

Funeral Held for Young Seaman, Highway Victim

Son of Lakefield Couple Victim of Motorcycle Tragedy in N.S.

A very large gathering at Lachute Baptist Church on Wednesday afternoon evidenced the public sympathy for Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McDonald, of Lakefield, in the death of their son, Able Seaman Kenneth H. McDonald, who died in a motorcycle accident last Sunday at Windsor, N.S.

Kenneth McDonald, 19, who enlisted with the Navy in April, 1951, was serving on the naval ship R.C.N.S. Portage at Halifax. He was on a motorcycle trip with one of his comrades to Windsor, for a week-end leave. It is reported that McDonald, driving his own machine, skidded on the wet pavement and was hurled head-first against a pile of wood beside the highway; he died at the scene of the accident, of a fractured skull. His chum and passenger was taken to hospital, but was released the following day.

The body was brought to Lachute, being conveyed from Montreal to the local Baptist Church Wednesday morning by personnel of H.M.C.S. Donnacona, the Montreal training base.

At the funeral, conducted by the Rev. W. H. Britton, were numerous friends, relatives and neighbors, including summer residents at Long Lake near the McDonald home, and former school friends of the late seaman, who graduated from Lachute High School in 1950. A Navy escort was present at the church and at the grave, including one seaman from the ship on which young McDonald was training. The relatives included a number here from Detroit and Montreal.

Pall-bearers were — A/B. Ross Sutherland and A/B. Ronnie Taylor, from Montreal; Donald Maxwell, Donald Fuller, Lloyd Thompson; and A/B. Rodrigue Mouquin, a fellow crewman from H.M.C.S. Portage.

Besides his parents, Kenneth is survived by two younger sisters, Ruth and Beverley.

Rotarians Visit Forestry Farm At Harrington

Twenty-seven members of the Rotary Club of Brownsburg and Lachute visited the Forestry Farm at Harrington last Thursday, to enjoy the hospitality of the Canadian International Paper Company. The party arrived at about four o'clock in the afternoon, and were taken for a tour of the property, where they saw at first hand the conservation methods being developed and practised, which should contribute greatly towards the future prosperity of Quebec and Canada in general. Several pieces of original machinery, invented and adapted by the staff at Harrington for tree planting and log loading purposes, were examined and observed in operation.

Following an excellent dinner, the meeting was addressed by Mansel Wilson, resident manager of the forestry farm project, who explained that, in addition to research in forest conservation methods, the present activity in the woods was the result of a discovery of a process whereby local hardwood could be used for pulp. He stated that the C.I.P. plant at Hawkesbury is not a paper mill but a pulp mill, and that the development of an adequate supply of raw material is necessary for the economical operation of the mill. Thus a "Woods" Division has been established, with headquarters at Grenville and with men trained to advise farmers on good forestry practices. Three of the major reasons for establishing the forest farm at Harrington were explained, namely:

(a) To demonstrate to the farmer that he could make money by properly clearing his bush lots, or by utilizing unprofitable farm land for growing trees. Scientific cutting stimulates growth, provides a regular income to the farmer, and, at the same time, ensures the mill at Hawkesbury of a continued flow of pulpwood from the locality.

(b) For research work, i.e., to find answers to problems, such as the control or elimination of diseases and insects which destroy or have a detrimental effect on tree growth, and to establish the types of soil in which specific varieties of trees will flourish the best.

(c) To develop machinery and equipment which farmers can use to reduce costs, and to save labor and energy.

Following the address, films were shown, which added to the educational aspects of this visit. The speaker was introduced by Wes Freeland, and thanked by President Mac E. Walker.

Ayers Field Day This Saturday

The annual picnic for employees of Ayers Limited and Dominion Shuttle Company is planned for Saturday, August 9, to be held as usual at the Exhibition Grounds. (The event was set for last Saturday, but was postponed out of respect for the late Mrs. W. Harry Ayers, whose funeral took place in St. Julien Parish the same day.)

The sports events for employees and their families will occupy the the all-day program, and the public will be admitted to the grounds at 8.30 o'clock in the evening (admission free) for the vaudeville entertainment, band music and distribution of prizes.

Fire Occurred at Creamery Plant

One of the casein and milk-powder drying compartments at Lachute Creamery Ltd. was destroyed by fire on Tuesday of last week, but prompt work of the fire brigade prevented the blaze from spreading to other parts of the company's building on Water Street.

By utilizing the other dryer on day and night shifts, the Creamery was able to resume normal output immediately of its casein and milk-powder products.

The fire, attributed to spontaneous combustion due to too high temperature, was discovered at 1.30 p.m., and the blaze was under control by 3 p.m. The part of the building housing the dryer is a single-storey structure, which will be completely rebuilt, and a new entirely automatic dryer installed to replace the machine destroyed.

This is the first fire to have occurred at the Creamery plant in its 28 years of existence. The loss is covered by insurance.

Boy at Weir, Que., Injured by Glass

(Our District Correspondent)

Weir, Que. — Young Huntley Schippel met with a painful accident on Thursday evening, when he accidentally put his arm through a pane of glass in the door, causing a gash which necessitated 32 stitches. Huntley was rushed to the hospital at St. Agathe, remaining there until Saturday, when he was able to return home with his parents.

Variety Fare at Brownsburg Council

(Our District Correspondent)

Democracy

The mayor, six councillors, with the municipal secretary and a number of the public, sat for a period of one hour discussing the parking of a Provincial Transport bus on the French Hill, and wound up with a decision to follow the motion passed at last meeting of the council. The bus is not to park on Main Street any longer than is necessary to pick up its load, and residents in the area are not to be subjected to the idling motors, noise and odors.

Hit and Miss

Some householders in the central portion of the municipality applied to have connections made with the water and sewerage system where no branch line exists at present. Mayor H. Pariseau had previously offered "the Council supply the pipe, provided the applicants excavate the ditch and lay the pipes." A private water line runs along the street, and it was further suggested that connections be made to this line for water supply. The meeting allowed the suggestion to stand without provision for engineering requirements being maintained. Last year, when a similar difficulty arose, a pious hope was expressed that no further piecemeal additions be made to the water system, as difficulty with frost line depth was experienced.

First After Sixteen Years

Fernand Brisson questioned the Council's claim for tax payments for water supplied to a boarder in his dwelling-house. It was pointed

C.C.C. Special Premium To Main St. Resident

The Sunbeam Mixmaster, special premium in the merchants' C.C.C. sales campaign sponsored by Lachute Chamber of Commerce, was awarded to Miss Marie-Jeanne Dallaire, Main Street resident. The drawing, from names of participating coupon-collectors, was made at the baseball stadium July 31.

President Horace Lamarche of the Chamber of Commerce states that the campaign is still continuing with good support, the majority of participating merchants having decided to continue the practice of giving coupons with their sales. These coupons are exchangeable for premiums at any time, at the Chamber of Commerce bureau on Main Street (Caisse Populaire building).

Annual Regatta At Lake Louisa

The annual Lake Louisa regatta took place on Saturday and Sunday, July 26 and 27, at the lakeshore fronting the clubhouse, with a large group of spectators present and all classes of competition filled. Even though rain fell early Saturday afternoon, the majority of spectators and contestants held out until completion of the events.

There were several contestants in the "fastest boat on the lake" event, held Sunday, with George Deacon, Jr., the victor after a very exciting run around the course.

Lunch and dinner were served on Saturday by the ladies of the Lake Louisa Country Club, both meals being well patronized.

The distribution of prizes took place before the dance Saturday evening and after the motor-boat races on Sunday. Both were presided over by Jack Belcher, chairman of the regatta committee, who was assisted by several of the club directors and prize donors.

One Killed and 10 Injured in Route 8 Carnage

Highway Scene Described As "Worse Than A Butcher Shop"

Papineauville — Gerard Provost, 29, of Montreal, was killed and 10 other persons injured when a car sideswiped another vehicle and crashed head-on into a third, on Highway 8 about 2½ miles east of Papineauville recently.

A car containing Raymond St. Jean and Percy Lambert, both of Alfred, Ont. (police did not know who was driving) was heading west at 9.27 p.m.

Witnesses told police it was weaving from side to side. An east-bound vehicle driven by Raymond Major, of Ste. Therese, Que., pulled off to the south side of the road. It was sideswiped by the westbound car and thrown 180 feet to the other side of the road. The entire left side of the Major car was ripped off. Mr. Major and his wife were both slightly injured, while two other passengers were unhurt.

Police were told the west-bound vehicle continued its crazy course.

Mr. Provost, driving east with six passengers, saw the accident ahead and also pulled to the side of the road.

The west-bound vehicle struck it head-on, totally demolishing both cars, killing Mr. Provost instantly and injuring all other eight occupants of the vehicles.

St. Jean and Lambert suffered multiple fractures.

"Worse Than Butcher Shop"

Sgt. Gaston Garceau of Hull detachment, Quebec Provincial Police, who investigated, said the scene of the triple wreck was "worse than a butcher shop".

Detective Sgt. Gaston Archambault of Montreal homicide squad, took over the investigation, and Dr. Lucien Bourgeault of St. André Avelin, district coroner, opened an inquest, which was adjourned indefinitely until surviving witnesses are able to appear.

Mr. Provost was returning to Montreal after a day at his cottage near Papineauville.

Gatineau LINES

Electrified Prosperity

Throughout the Gatineau area are hundreds of factories, in an area which had little or no industry half a century ago. These factories supply employment for thousands, whose purchases in turn provide a market for the goods of other thousands.

The entire area can trace its advance in population and in prosperity and better living to the industrialization which has increased the importance of cities and towns, and has brought increased value to the farmlands and woodlands around.

Electric power is the very life-blood of the factories, for without electricity they could not have come into being in the first place — and without electricity they could not survive today.

VANISHING BERRIES

St. John's, Nfld. (CP) — The Resources Department is investigating the scarcity of cloud berries, also known as bakeapples, which have been vanishing on Newfoundland marshes. The plant has low-lying large, roundish leaves bearing in the centre a stem on which the berry grows.

Flies Are Expensive

Tolerating flies in the farm yard is not only unsanitary and unnecessary but expensive. According to the agricultural chemicals department of Canadian Industries Limited, the tormenting attacks of flies can reduce the milk flow of dairy cattle by as much as 15 per cent, considerably more when flies are extremely bad. Beef production may be decreased by one-quarter to one-half pound per day — or a total of some 30 pounds per head during the fly season.

To keep a farm "fly-clean", some suggestions are offered by J. A. Oakley, C-I-L entomologist:

Install screen wherever necessary and practical. Haul out manure and spread it at least once a week. Manure is the most serious single source of fly trouble on the farm. Don't let fly-breeding rubbish accumulate. Spray animals at least every three weeks and give buildings a thorough spraying at least once every four or five weeks during warm weather.

For syraying buildings, 50 per cent DDT wettable powder or lindane wettable powder are recommended by Mr. Oakley. But they should not be sprayed on milking animals or livestock being fattened for slaughter, he warns. Instead, a 50 per cent methoxychlor wettable powder should be used.

These control methods are effective with horseflies, horn flies, stable flies and other species that prevent cattle from grazing peacefully.

In 1530, after a violent epidemic of a new and unknown disease had swept Europe, the Italian physician Girolamo Fracastoro wrote an epic poem. In it the swineherd Syphilis (meaning "pig lover") was struck down by Apollo with the new disease for an act of impiety to the Sun God. Thus, says a Reader's Digest article, the disease got its lasting name.

Prairies Expect A Bumper Crop

Ottawa (CP) — The west and indeed all Canada — is looking hopefully for a bumper prairie grain crop.

A government report on crop conditions said grain development is "generally ahead of last year".

There is plenty of soil moisture. In most places there is enough to carry heavy stands of grain for some time — in some places until maturity. There was some fear however, especially in Alberta and Saskatchewan, that the same moisture, coupled with cool weather, might retard maturity.

From now on warm, sunny weather is needed to fill up grain heads and diminish the threat of stem rust which has appeared in southern sections of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Swathing of fall rye has begun in many areas and cutting of early sown spring grains should begin in southern areas this week or early next.

Prospects of a bumper crop indicate a need for between 2,000 and 3,000 harvesters from other parts of Canada — a movement which will begin about the middle of August and reach its peak the end of the month or early in September.

The federal labor department expects "no great difficulty" in getting workers from areas of Ontario and Quebec which have supplied them in the past. Some workers are also expected from British Columbia. Railways are again providing special low rates for harvest workers.

The Insects Are On the March

This has been quite a year for insects. Grasshoppers in certain areas of the prairies. Tent caterpillars in Ontario and Quebec. Spruce budworms in the Maritimes. Locusts in Brazil, North Africa and southern Europe — let alone the mosquitoes, house flies and black flies which seem always with us.

At one time the insect hordes pretty much had their own way. They stripped bare great areas of forest land and chewed up food crops on which millions of people were dependent. In their wake marched poverty. starvation and disease. It seemed that insects would eventually inherit the earth.

But it is encouraging to note that man is starting to outsmart the insects. He has developed a wide variety of chemical insecticides which are able to control most species. The simple hand sprayer has developed into great power sprayers capable of covering large insect-infested areas. For coverage of forests and jungles he uses fleets of airplanes and helicopters.

The counter offensive against insects has merely begun. The successful spraying this summer of 200,000 acres of budworm infested forest in New Brunswick to save 2,000,000 cords of pulp wood is indeed encouraging. Almost $2,500,000 was spent in the last three years in the states of Washington and Oregon to save $63,000,000 worth of timber (Douglas fir and white spruce) against the same scourge.

Lessons from these pioneer ventures in large-scale pest control indicate that careful planning, preparation and co-operation are necessary to achieve successful results. If this is done, there need be little fear of devastating insect plagues in Canada.

FEW HOGS

St. John's, Nfld. (CP) — Total pig population of Newfoundland is only about 3,500, census figures show. The Provincial Resources Department is urging farmers to raise more livestock.

Only 1/14th of the land area of the Dominion has been improved by man or used as pastures.

Care of Young Orchard Trees

Ottawa — The heavy loss of young orchard trees before they produce a crop of fruit has prompted the suggestion that half the trees planted die in their early years. The death of these trees along with the use of the land and the labor, constitute a serious loss. The evidence is convincing that stunted trees — or even trees that make light growth in their early years — never recover and produce as heavily as well grown young trees. This serious loss is rarely recognized. Special care is require to avoid these losses and to produce orchards which will be profitable and a pride to the fruit growers, states R. P. Longley, Senior Horticulturist, Experimental Station, Kentville, N.S.

Land that produced a crop of vegetables or other intertilled crops the previous year should be in excellent condition for planting. Grain stubble or clover sod plowed and worked following harvest is nearly as suitable.

Trees that have had a minimum chance to dry out should be planted as early in the spring as possible when the soil is still moist and cool. One-year old, well grown trees are preferred.

The most serious pests of young trees are apple scab, canker, buffalo tree hopper, green aphids, mice and weeds, particularly couch. Clean cultivation will largely control the buffalo tree hopper, mice and weeds. A full spray program using bordeaux mixture is preferred for disease control. Nicotine sulphate added to the bordeaux when needed will take care of aphids, leaf hoppers and bud moth. A cover crop of buckwheat will add needed organic matter and improve soil texture. Wire guards are a necessity in grass and mulch orchards for mouse control.

Pruning to take out sharp angled crotches and cross limbs will improve the trees. Too heavy pruning will reduce growth and retard production. Barnyard manure and/or a high nitrogen commercial fertilizer or grass mulch will give the needed nutrients. The aim should be eighteen to twenty-four inches of terminal growth.

Prevent Pre-Harvest Falling of Apples

Ottawa — As harvest time approaches, the occurrence of a pre-harvest drop in apples is a major problem. The dropping of apples just before and during harvest annually confronts the apple grower and in many years the resulting losses amount to thousands of dollars. Not only does a serious reduction in yield occur, but also a certain amount of quality is lost; that is, a grower must pick the fruit before best size, color and quality are attained.

Although this problem centres around McIntosh, it is not confined to any one variety. The McIntosh variety receives the most attention not only because it is the most widely grown, but also since it responds least favorably to the growth-regulating substances used as harvest sprays.

Since 1939, the date when this phase of orcharding was first suggested, the development of growth-regulating substances to control the pre-harvest drop of apples has been rapid. Today, it is a spray that should be incorporated into every apple grower's spray schedule. There are a number of materials that may be used. Sprays containing naphthaleneacetic acid, the sodium salt of naphthaleneacetic acid and/or naphthaleneacetamide as the active ingredient have proved successful and are quite suitable for many varieties. With McIntosh, however, the effect of these sprays is very short-lived in many seasons, and often the material has lost its effectiveness before harvesting takes place.

Recently a new growth-regulating substance known as 2,4,5-trichlephen xypropionic acid 2,4,5-T.P.) has been found to have a much longer period of effectiveness than naphthaleneacetic acid in the control of drop in McIntosh and many other varieties. Furthermore, this substance tends to speed up and increase the amount of red color. At Ottawa, report D. S. Blair and S. H. Nelson of the Horticultural Division, Department of Agriculture, experiments have shown that 2,4,5-T.P. is more effective on the early maturing varieties, such as Melba, than McIntosh. Both the drop control and color increase was very apparent with the variety Melba. However, with McIntosh, although there was a definite increase in "Extra Fancy" apples, the results were not as outstanding. This chemical aided greatly in the reduction of pre-harvest drop in McIntosh, having approximately a three-week period of effectiveness compared to a one-week period for napthaleneacetic acid.

It is apparent that 2,4,5-T.P. is a more effective chemical for controlling pre-harvest drop and where satisfactory control is not being obtained with naphthaleneacetic acid or closely related compounds, commercial preparations containing 2,4,5-T.P. as the active ingredient should be tried according to manufacturer's directions.

"Famous Trains"

Montreal — British Railways has added another name-train to its roster of world-famous trains such as "The Flying Scotsman" and "The Royal Scot".

Henceforth, the crack Pullman boat express that runs between London's Waterloo Station and Ocean Terminal at Southampton to connect with arrivals and departures of the Cunard Liners Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mary will be known as "The Cunarder".

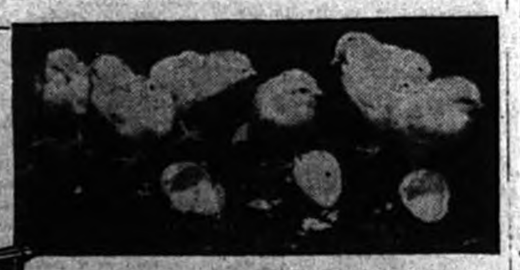

Locomotives hauling the special trains will carry a shield titled "The Cunarder" and the roof labels — long name plates attached to both sides of the cars' roofs — will carry the same identification.

Home-Vacation Perils

THINKING of spending your vacation at home to escape the highway traffic and the bugs and the flies of our great outdoors?

Considering loafing on a cool front porch to get away from the resort crowds or the rugged life in a cottage? . . . Think again, brother.

Those people who talk so convincingly about the ease of vacationing at home compared to travelling to a holiday spot probably haven't experienced the hazards strewn in the path of a man bent on loafing around the house for two weeks.

A man deprived of his pretension to overwork at the office is a sitting duck for all the work his family can think of. All those little jobs around the house that have been piling up these past few months are lined up as matters brooking no further delay "now that you have so much time". It takes real thinking and ingenuity to loaf under this sort of prodding.

And the dishes! How can a man recline on his spine while his wife swishes dishes? We're not giving the answer; just asking the question.

Add a few errands any wife can think up for each day and the gardening that's under one's nose every hour, and only a strong character determined to loaf and do nothing else can enjoy a holiday at home.

Another hazard are the out-of-town visitors who hear you're at home and decide to visit you on their vacation. Again, you're a sitting duck. They over-run the house, eat up your food and make so much noise it's almost impossible to get in a couple of hours' nap in the afternoon.

We know one chap who's dropped his diet and is getting fatter than ever, just because of visitors. Says he has to eat up the food before his wife's relatives get it.

So if you're planning to stay at home, weigh these perils carefully against the open road.

Seems it's pretty much of a toss-up and perhaps the city man we heard about the other day has the right idea. He's moving a couch into his air-conditioned office and intends spending two weeks catching up on his reading.

Peace by Armed Strength

CANADA'S present recruiting difficulties reflect the vast differences between the problems of this half-continent and those of its tiny fellow-democracy in the centre of Europe, Switzerland. While Canada has trouble attracting a relatively small number of volunteers into her forces, the Swiss casually revealed the other day that they can mobilize 15 divisions of well-trained soldiers in 48 hours.

Unfortunately (from the Canadian viewpoint), the Swiss are able to do this only because they use universal military training. Regarded in Canada as pretty much of a wartime emergency measure, Switzerland has kept up her U.M.T. for over 100 years, all peaceful. During that time, her neighbor nations have fought in mortal combat more than once. But, as everyone knows, Switzerland has not been troubled, mainly because it has been regarded as a very tough nut to crack.

Today, it is tougher than ever, from an invader's viewpoint. It bristles with well-concealed tank traps, skilful snipers, heavy fortifications, even hollowed-out fortress mountains. Its jet-fighter pilots can manoeuvre over and in between mountains that would take a toll of other flyers who simply attempt to navigate this region.

The Swiss are naturally proud of their nation's reputation as "a hard nut". This pride is reflected even in their attitude toward undergoing army training, especially when their individualistic temperament is taken into account. Where Canadian conscripts, for good reason or bad, have often shown marked resentment about the whole business, the average Swiss lad takes keen interest in soldering and treats his rifle as tenderly as his sweetheart.

Every man in Switzerland has two jobs. Whether he is a watchmaker, a street-car operator or a salesman, he is also a citizen-soldier who works hard at being a member of the military forces. It is a responsibility which each man carries from the age of 18 to 60, and it calls for annual refresher courses. In between times, he keeps his rifle and uniform at home where they're handy — in case.

Assist to Nature

THERE isn't a schoolboy who hasn't heard of Niagara Falls, one of the modern world's scenic wonders. Grown-ups know of it, too, as a source of hydro-electric power, of its attraction for honeymooners, to say nothing of stunt artists from all over the world.

But only those who have visited the cataract have a full appreciation of what the Ontario government has accomplished in preserving the historic and scenic areas above and below the Falls.

Less than a century ago the vicinity of the Falls had taken on the aspect of a colossal carnival. Peddlers hawked their wares and sideshows were filled with freaks brought from far and near.

Today the Niagara Parks Commission administers parklands bordering the Canadian bank of the Niagara River from Lake Erie to Lake Ontario, a distance of 35 miles.

United States visitors come to the Canadian side for a panoramic view of the cataract. They stay to wonder at the beauty of the parklands along the splendid Niagara Boulevard which follows the entire length of the wildly-rushing river from the Falls to Niagara-on-the-Lake.

Right at the Falls is Queen Victoria Park, saved from exploitation nearly 100 years ago. Nearby, the Oakes Garden Theatre, four acres of rock-gardens, lily ponds, terraces, promenades, flower beds, shrubbery and an amphitheatre, overlooks the American cataract. It was given by the late Sir Harry Oakes and has been called "man's offering to the majesty of Niagara."

But all along the winding gorge highway to the historic shores of Lake Ontario, once the scene of North American warfare, are evidences of the commission's inspired planning.

There is the natural beauty of the Niagara Glen with its rare plants, ferns, trees and flowers. In a beautiful park setting at Queenston Heights is the towering monument to Sir Isaac Brock, hero of the war of 1812.

At every turn the visitor is fascinated by the magnificence of nature and by the historic sites of one of the oldest continuously settled parts of Ontario.

Another Savings Issue

THE FACT that there is soon to be placed before the public the 7th issue of Canada Savings Bonds is most encouraging, a proof of their soundness, and an incentive for citizens to take part in the Dominion's financial move, while at the same time receiving a substantial rate of interest on their investment.

We recently overheard a lady say that she wouldn't buy any Bonds in case the Government failed. It sounds foolish — yet there are still people who do not trust either banks or government. They do not realize that nothing can be safer than Government bonds, especially those of our own Dominion. Canada is backed by so many resources, rich in farming, forestry and fishing, with an ever-growing development in mines and minerals, comprising production of iron ore, titanium, coal, copper, gold, lead, magnesium and silver, to mention only a part. . . There surely should be no doubt as to security, for where could one find another country as rich or sound as this Dominion.

The new bond issue will be obtainable from Banks, Investment Dealers, and Trust or Loan Companies. Your order can be placed with your employer if you so wish, when regular deductions to cover it will be made from your salary over a period of 12 months. This we feel is an easy way for the average person to save on a sound investment. Furthermore, should the occasion arise when you are pressed for ready money, these bonds are immediately redeemable.

The lot of our people has been prosperous and happy, and we would urge all good citizens to do their utmost in furthering Canada's progressive future, as well as their own interests, by investing and encouraging others to do likewise.

"THINGS AN' STUFF"

— By —
WALTER HENRY JACKSON

A Tale of Two Dutchmen

During the war, butter, in Holland under German occupation, was unobtainable. But in one town lived a resident who had accumulated a large stock of butter before the occupation. Through underground channels he let it be known that he would supply a pound or two to others — at a price.

A nearby householder heard about this man, and called on him with the intention of buying some butter. But the butterman shook his head. "Money", he said, "is of no value. One can no longer buy anything with it. But if you can offer me some useful articles, such as a pair of woollen mitts, for instance, I will let you have a pound of butter."

The customer went home and described the situation to his wife. "That's easy", she said. "I will knit a pair of mitts right away."

"Where will you get the wool?" he asked.

"Upstairs in the attic is an old bedquilt made entirely of wool. I will unravel enough from it to complete the mitts."

It was as easy as that. In two days the man had his butter and the butterman had the mitts. But in a few days the butterman called on the mittman.

"My wife took a fancy to those mitts", he said. "Can you get me another pair, for which you may have another pound of butter?"

Again the woman unravelled enough wool from the old bedquilt for another pair. And this went on all winter. At last the day arrived when there was not enough wool left to complete a pair. There was just enough wool for one, and the poor old bedquilt was no more. But the mittman carried the lone mitt over to the butterman.

"I hate to ask you to do this", he said, "but could you, as a favor, let me have half-a-pound of butter for one mitt?"

"Why, certainly. I'd be delighted!" replied the butterman.

"It's certainly most kind of you", said the mittman. "I realize that one mitt without another is of little value."

"On the contrary", said the butterman, "One mitt is all I require. There is just enough wool in that one mitt to permit my wife to complete a bedquilt that she has been making all winter!"

— Uncle Walt.

Start New Course In Child Guidance

Toronto (CP) — A course aimed at helping young women interested in working with children will open at Ryerson Institute of Technology in September.

The two-year course in childhood management requires a grade 12 diploma for entrance. It will cover such basic subjects as English, mathematics and physical training, together with child psychology, theory and principle of child guidance, a study of the child as he grows, and nursery-school program and equipment.

The Ryerson course is the first of its type in Canada and applications already are being accepted. About 30 are expected to enrol this year.

The Nursery Education Association of Ontario reports a serious shortage of workers for nursery schools and day nurseries and it is hoped the course may relieve this situation.

ESKIMO EXCITED OVER CNR LOCOMOTIVE RIDE

Moncton — An Eskimo from Happy Valley, Labrador, Ben Monemia, got his first glimpe of a modern steam locomotive recently when he was given a ride in the cab of a Canadian National 6100-type at Moncton.

Ben was flown into Moncton by air from Goose Bay for hospital treatment. Before returning to Happy Valley, he was taken to the C.N.R. station at Moncton where he climbed into the locomotive to see its workings. He was as excited as a child and will be able to tell his relatives and friends all about his experiences in riding a huge monstrous puffing sledge dog or whatever the equivalent is in Eskimo language.

OBITUARY

Lady Resident Died Suddenly

The Late Mrs. H. E. Carson

The sudden passing of Mrs. H. E. Carson on July 28, at her home on Main Street, caused a severe shock to her friends and relatives. While for some years she had been subject to high blood pressure, just previous to her recent illness she was in apparent good health.

The late Mrs. Carson, who was 64 years of age, was formerly Miss Edith Holstead, of Montreal, and was married in 1912. Mr. and Mrs. Carson had resided in Lachute for the past 16 years.

One daughter Enid (Mrs. Dixon) and a grandchild, Gayle, are left with her husband to mourn her passing. There are also her stepmother, Mrs. P. Holstead, and two sisters, (Mina) Mrs. A. Payne, and (Phyllis) Mrs. R. Barwick, all of Montreal, together with two brothers, Sidney, of Montreal, and William, in Detroit.

The funeral was held on Wednesday, from their home to the Lachute Cemetery, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Hayworth, of Chicago. Sympathy was expressed in the many beautiful flowers sent by relatives and friends.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. A. Scott, A. Taylor, F. A. Brennian, R. Muir, S. Boyd and R. A. Giles.

Late John D. MacLeod

Funeral service for the late John D. McLeod was held on Tuesday afternoon, July 29, at the United Church, St. Andrews East.

The Rev. G. Case conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Wm. McMillan, of the Presbyterion Church. "Nearer, My God, to Thee" was sung by Mr. H. W. Flower. A profusion of lovely flowers, and the large gathering of friends, neighbors and relatives, testified to the esteem in which he was held.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Ross Hyde, George Bryson, Alner Snowdon, of St. Andrews East, Neil MacLeod, Dan MacClennan, Douglas MacMillan, of Dalkeith, Ont.

Chief mourners are his wife, formerly Annie J. Hyde, and daughter, Phyllis, also a sister, Mrs. Leslie Cameron, and brother-in-law, Mr. Cameron, of Chateauguay, Que.; a brother, W. R. MacLeod, of Dalkeith, and sister-in-law, also several nieces and nephews. Also attending were friends from Dalkeith and district, and from St. Eugene and district.

The late John McLeod, passed away on July 26 after a week's illness, at the age of 78. A native of Glen Sandfield, the second son of Alexander and Margaret McLeod, he lived most of his life at Dalkeith before coming to St. Andrews East about nine years ago.

Col. E. J. Ryan Dies in B.C.; Was Related Here

Col. E. J. Ryan, former president of a Vancouver construction company, and well known in Montreal, died last week in Vancouver. He was 66.

Born in Mille Iles, Que., he moved to the west coast in 1911 and became interested in the construction business. He founded the E. J. Ryan Construction Company and remained as president until five years ago, when he retired.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Lila Ryan; two sons, Arthur and Gladstone; two daughters, Patricia and Doreen; three brothers, Robert of Montreal, Gilbert of Mille Isles, and T. W. Ryan, of Boston; and four sisters, Mrs. Fenley Fry and Mrs. Hector Day, both of Montreal, Mrs. James Dawson of Lachute and Mrs. Margaret Davis of Vancouver.

Death Summons Last of Local Pioneer Family

Late Mrs. Duncan D. MacGibbon

After a brief illness, Mrs. D. D. MacGibbon passed peacefully away here on Monday, in her 91st year.

The last of a family of ten children, she was the former Ann Buchan, born at Geneva (Lachute Road) Settlement. After her marriage she took up residence in Brownsburg. Mr. MacGibbon predeceased her in 1928.

Three children remain to mourn the loss of a loving and devoted mother — (Frances) Mrs. C. E. Richardson, and William, both of Lachute, also Stuart, of Edmonton.

Service was conducted at the MacKimmie Funeral Parlor on Wednesday by the Rev. Dr. W. H. Reid, in the presence of sympathizing friends and relatives.

Pall-bearers were — Messrs. Allan Todd, Lachute Road; Ross Todd, Kiosk, Ont.; Robt. Todd, Alwyn Stewart and Harry Gardiner, all of Brownsburg, and Wyman MacGibbon, of Lachute.

Out-of-town friends attending were — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gervan, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lamb, Ottawa; Mrs. E. L. Johnson, Montreal; Mr. Doug Todd, Orillia; and Mr. Ross Todd, Kiosk.

Teacher Shortage Claimed Acute

Quebec's teacher shortage is acute and the number training for the profession next year is "still insufficient to meet the needs of the school", according to Dr. W. P. Percival, Director of Protestant Education.

In announcing that 217 candidates will be admitted to Protestant teaching centres of the province this fall, Dr. Percival said that in spite of efforts to better conditions for teachers, "the supply does not equal the demand". He said that only 12 more candidates were admitted this year than last, and this falls far short of Quebec's school needs.

Salaries Raised

"Great efforts", he said "have been made in recent years to bring before high school graduates the advantages of the teaching profession. Salaries have been raised, teachers' pensions in Quebec are the best in Canada. Other benefits have been added in many cases such as sick leave, and the many new school buildings are very pleasant places in which to work."

He continued: "In addition, credit to graduates for work completed in the school for teachers has been granted by Bishop's University and Sir George Williams College. In spite of these efforts, however, the supply does not equal the demand."

Applicants for admission for teacher training are approved by the Protestant Central Board of examiners, the certifying body.

183 For Macdonald

Macdonald College will receive the bulk of entrants. These total 183 in the following divisions: kindergarten class, 14; elementary, 127; intermediate (regular course), 23; intermediate (alternative two-year course), 19.

McGill University, through its department of education where studies lead to the high school teaching diploma, will receive 25 and Bishop's University, department of education, will enroll nine.

Language Students Make Queer Errors

Quebec (CP) — Miss Valerie Fielden-Briggs of Toronto, teaching summer French courses at Laval University, described in light vein some mistakes made in French grammar and pronunciation by new students.

In an article which appeared in Potin (Chit-Chat), weekly mimeographed organ of the university French courses, she explained the errors were mistakes anyone could make when studying a new language

A girl being introduced to Quebec's lieutenant-governor, Gaspard Fauteux, slipped in acknowledging "Je suis charmante!" (I am charming) instead of the traditional "Je suis charmée" (I am charmed).

Another student translated, "I was left behind" into "Je suis gauche derriere", which could mean "I am leftist behind".

Tough ones to explain in English are something like the student who said Joan of Arc died on the "boucher" (butcher) instead of "bucher" (at the stake).

PRAISES SPLENDOR OF VICTORIA FALLS

Toronto (CP) — Niagara Falls is beautiful but out-classed by the splendor of Victoria Falls in Southern Rhodesia, Myles Patrick Crowe, a 36-year-old Irishman on the last leg of a trip round the world, said here.

"They look much higher and you can look down the river shore and see elephants and giraffes coming down to get water while crocodiles swim around", he said in an interview.

In the last five years Mr. Crowe has travelled in Africa, Australia, New Zealand and Canada. He plans to settle in Southern Rhodesia as "the world's best place to live."

Death Takes A Holiday

To climax the greatest thrill show of all time, this year's 1952 edition of the "Congress of Canadian Dare-Devils" really keeps a rendez-vous with Death, by introducing the super thrill stunt — of actually shooting a 1952 Ford Convertible from the barrel of a 30-foot cannon. Behind the wheel of this car is the steel-nerved 'Buddy' Young, who roars down the track at 55 m.p.h., to enter the cannon breach, with less than 4" of clearance on either side, and with the aid of atomic-like explosions, the car is speeded up an extra 15 m.p.h. so that it will be propelled the 80 feet through space, to land on the run-down ramp. To make it even more spine-tingling, "Buttercup" Pearce will travel round the track, hub to hub with Buddy Young — by-passing the cannon — and attempt to pass directly underneath the jet-rocketed car. This is considered the all-time high for skill, precision, courage and originality in the thrill show world.

This show will appear in Vankleek Hill at the Exhibition Grounds on Saturday, August 9, starting at 8.30 p.m.

KING OF DENMARK VISITS GREENLAND

Copenhagen (CP) — Aboard the Royal yacht, Dannebrog, King Frederik of Denmark is now on a voyage to Greenland ports — the longest trip ever made by a Danish royal ship. Greenland is a Danish colony and the king wishes to visit the settlement on the west coast which has only once before, in 1921 been visited by a reigning monarch.

The Dannebrog is being accompanied by the Greenland ship, "Umanak", in which 14 Danish and 16 foreign journalists are accommodated. The king's itinerary depends on ice conditions in the area.

Card Party Held At Lakefield, Que.

Lakefield — A card party was held recently at Thompson's Hall, under auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of Holy Trinity Church. The prize-winners were as follows:

Ladies, 1st, Mrs. M. Lees, Lachute; 2nd, Mrs. W. A. Sherritt.

Men, 1st, Mr. Frank Leavitt; 2nd, Master Ronald Peccimi.

Consolation, Mrs. R. Andrews, Mr. Ross Evans.

Door prize, Mrs. MacKenzie.

Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh, the president, takes occasion to thank Mr. and Mrs. J. Thompson for the gratuitous use of their hall, also Mrs. Yeudell and members who lent their efforts to the success of this function.

Advance Sale Tickets For Ottawa Exhibition

The Central Canada Exhibition Association has announced that there will be a reduction in the number of advance sale tickets made available for purchase prior to the 1952 Ottawa Exhibition.

The advance sale tickets will sell at three for $1.00 enabling a saving of 50 cents over the prices that will prevail during Exhibition Week. The tickets are each good for admittance of one adult or two children into the Lansdowne Park grounds or the afternoon grandstand performance.

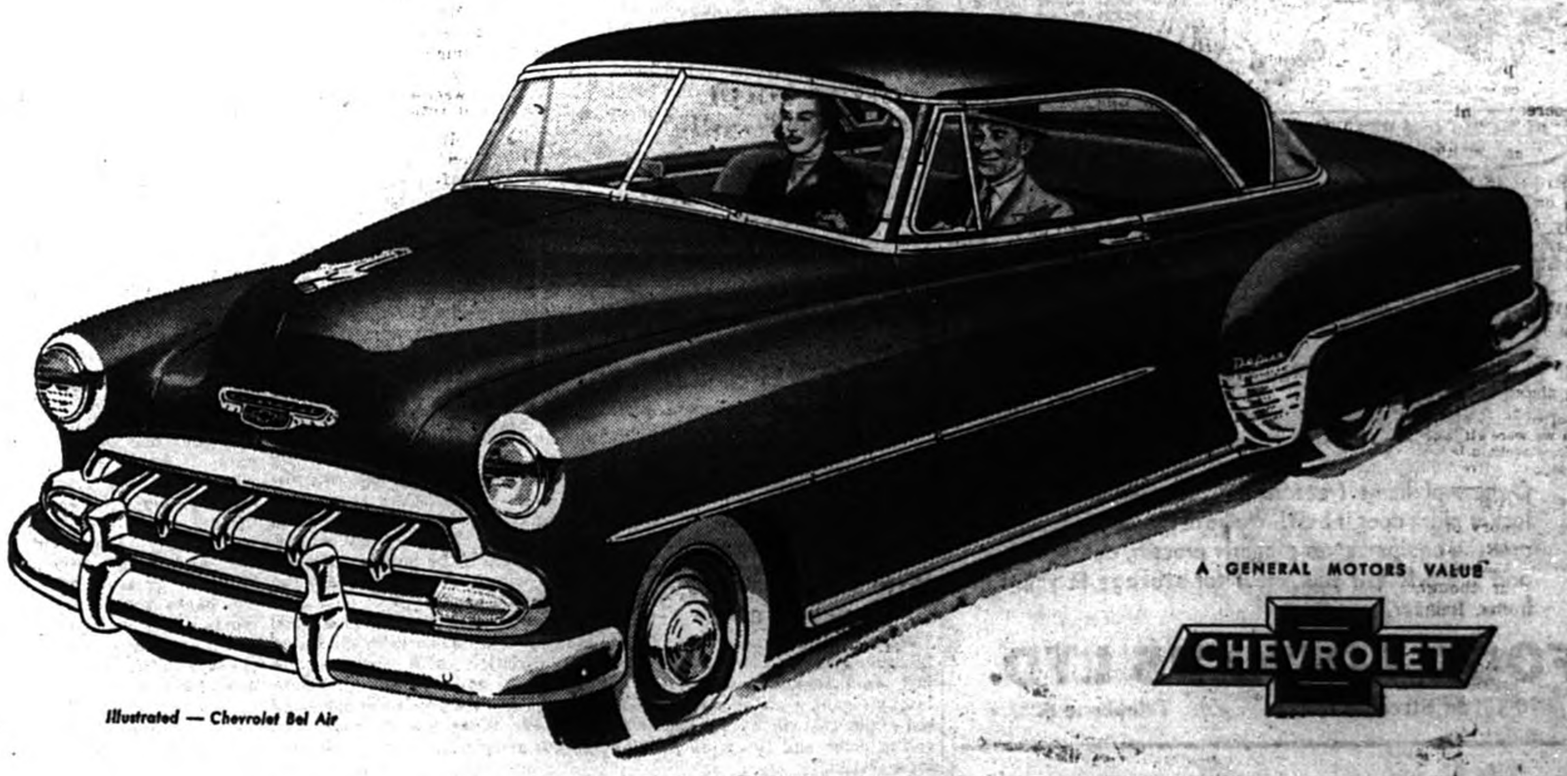

CCEA officials pointed out that the total attendance of the 1951 Exhibition was 425,327. But this year there will be issued only 25,000 strips of advance sale tickets. The sale will close definitely at 9 p.m. on Saturday, August 16.

The advance tickets may be purchased from merchants in Ottawa and district centres.

Salad Designs

"Cool, crisp and colorful" are fashion headlines this summer, and they can apply to salads too — cool to counteract hot summer days, crisp to give interesting texture and colorful for captivating eye appeal. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, tell us that the design of the salad is important for eye appeal too. If a salad looks intriguing, it will tempt the appetite and add sparkle to a meal.

The same principles of color and texture contrast, balance and proportion which are used by a dress designer should be applied in making attractive salads. Always keep the size of the salad in proportion to the plate. If a plain salad looks flat and uninteresting, give it a lift by garnishing it with curly endive or parsley. Textures should be related, too — marshmallows, for example, do not go with cabbage leaves any more than velvet does with denim.

In making salads, use color with a lavish hand but with good taste. Colors should never clash. For instance, red tomatoes and orange carrots should not be served together on a plate unless well relieved with greens. It is also well to be careful with beets, for the color tends to run into the other ingredients. For pleasing contrast, accent crisp light greens with dark parsley or watercress, or brighten the edges of lettuce leaves by dipping the damp leaves in a little gay paprika — this is particularly effective if the lettuce cup is used as a frame for the salad. To add a special note of color to vegetable salads, use pencil-thin rings of green or red peppers, shredded raw carrots, radish slices or tomato wedges.

Make salad designs interesting by using different shapes and sizes of foods. Vegetables, fruits, meats, eggs and cheese may be diced, cubed, sliced or slivered. Some foods such as melons can be cut into balls, celery or carrots into sticks. Other foods may be served whole or cut in halves or quarters. One rule to remember is this: a salad should never look too precisely arranged or as if it had been given much handling. A stiff looking salad or one that is overly-decorated never looks as "eatable" as a simply designed one.

Give salads shape by moulding them. There are several ways to do this. A salad made of chopped chicken, celery and nuts looks most appealing if the mixture is pressed into a custard cup, then unmoulded and served on a gay lettuce leaf with sliced cucumbers for garnish. This same mixture could be used as a filling for scooped-out tomatoes or peppers or it could be moulded by jellying it. For interest, fancy moulds or odd shaped bowls, custard cups and other dishes can be used to give different shapes to jellied salads. Jellied salads can also be used as a stuffing. For example, green peppers filled with a jellied vegetable mixture, or small melon halves, filled with jellied fruit, are most intriguing when the pepper or melon is sliced to show the jellied centre. The melons may be peeled and covered with an icing of cream cheese for added effect.

An interesting salad can be made by hollowing out half a cucumber to form a boat large enough for one serving. This cucumber boat is then filled with cheese balls or with a mixed salad. A similar fruit salad is made by filling lengthwise wedges of small green melon with tiny cantaloupe balls.

A potato salad roll is another intriguing salad that is attractive to look at, tasty to eat, and a little different to make. Here is the recipe for it from the home economists of the Consumer Section:

Potato Salad Roll

1½ Tablespoons milk, 6 tablespoons mayonnaise, ¾ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons finely chopped onion, ½ teaspoon paprika, 1 diced hard-cooked egg (optional), 2 tablespoons finely diced green pepper (optional), 3 cups mashed potatoes, chopped parsley, spinach or celery leaves.

Add milk, mayonnaise, salt, onion, paprika, egg and green pepper to mashed potatoes. Sprinkle parsley, spinach or celery leaves over a piece of wax paper. Spread potato mixture about 1 inch thick over the parsley, spinach or celery leaves in an oblong about 12 inches by 8 inches. Spread one of the fillings suggested below evenly over the potatoes and roll as for jelly roll. Chill thoroughly. Slice and serve, garnished, on lettuce or other greens. Yield: 6 servings.

Egg Filling: Combine 6 chopped hard-cooked eggs, ¼ cup chopped green pepper, ¼ cup chopped red pepper or pimiento and salt and pepper to taste. Moisten with mayonnaise or salad dressing (omit egg and green pepper when making potato mixture).

Meat Filling: Combine ⅓ pound minced bologna or cooked ham (about 1 cup), 3 tablespoons chopped pickles, 2 teaspoons vinegar from pickles, ¾ teaspoon minced onion, ½ teaspoon spicy meat sauce, ½ cup shredded raw carrots and 3 tablespoons diced celery. Moisten with mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Tangy Cheese Filling: Combine ¼ cup chopped onions which have been sautéed in 2 tablespoons mild-flavored fat, 2 cups grated Canadian Cheddar cheese (medium or old), 2 chopped hard-cooked eggs and ¼ cup chili sauce.

A New Fish Story With Red Pimiento

By Betty Barclay

Here's a fish with a flair! Whether you're having a party or just want to add new interest to family meals, a jar or can of whole red pimientos will work wonders in giving color and flavor to popular tuna dishes.

Pimientos are not only a pretty garnish, they are rich in Vitamin C. Pimiento Tuna Royal is vivid, appetizing — both the tuna fish and the "pimiento fish" garnish are nutritious.

Pimiento Tuna Royal

3 Tablespoons flour, 3 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon salt, dash paprika, ⅔ cup milk, ⅔ cup chicken stock (or use bouillon cube), 2 cups flaked tuna, ½ cup sliced mushrooms, 1 egg (beaten), ½ cup chopped pimiento, 4-oz. jar or can whole, red pimientos for garnish.

Melt butter, add flour, seasonings; mix to smooth paste, add milk and stock. Stir constantly until mixture thickens. Add tuna, mushrooms (drained), pimiento, and add slowly to egg, stirring constantly. Serve hot. Garnish with fish cut from whole, canned pimientos. Serves 6.

The predominant size of Canadian dwellings is five rooms.

National Contest Award to Resident Of Lachute Mills

Mrs. Ferdinand Desjardins, Lachute Mills, is announced as the winner of a prize in the recent nation-wide contest sponsored by Pyrofax Gas Company, New York. This local winner's name was announced through T. McOuat & Son Ltd., Lachute Mills, the local distributor for "Pyrofax" bottled gas.

Mrs. Desjardins' prize is a blanket made of Dynel, the new synthetic fibre recently perfected by Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation. The entry was selected from among many thousands submitted by "Pyrofax" gas customers completing the sentence "I like using 'Pyrofax' gas because . "

Thirty-three other major prizes were awarded in this "Win-A-Kitchen" contest sponsored by Pyrofax Gas Company, a division of Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation.

Versatile Apple

The apple is becoming as versatile as the soybean or peanut — thanks to chemistry. Chemists have taken this "one a day keeps the doctors away" fruit and have discovered exactly what makes it "tick".

After laborious experiments, they've found, for instance, that 26 different compounds were responsible for the apple's aromatic flavor — no mean feat considering that the fruit's flavoring matter represents only 50 parts per million of the original juice, reports C-I-L Agricultural News.

Chemists have developed a syrup that is not only good for table use but which is used in coated paper, cosmetics, toothpaste, tobacco and in milk products for infant feeding. They've recently developed a high-density apple juice concentrate that will keep a whole year without being frozen.

Cool Salad for Warm Days

Easy and simple to make, Tossed Salad is a favorite member of the salad family. It's the "thing" to serve on hot summer days when greens are plentiful. There's a variation to suit every taste.

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Your Child and Older People

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"To old people, rich or poor,
I must bow and bow some more.
For I am only two and seven.
They are wise and close to Heaven."

— By Gerald Chan Sieg

These four lines from "Thoughts of a Chinese Child" are true to the training for generations past of Oriental children in their attitude to older people. Chinese, Japanese, and Korean boys and girls have been taught to be courteous not only to their own grandparents but to all older people.

Some years ago a Canadian who travelled the northern route to the Far East, remarked, "Russia is a hard land in which to grow old, but in China older people are respected and loved. I would vastly prefer, if I had to choose, to grow old in the Orient than in a Communist country!" Now that China has fallen under the Red regime, one wonders if the position of older people will be swiftly altered to an undesirable one!

Do you think Canada is a good country in which to grow old? Are you satisfied with the way in which boys and girls in your neighborhood act towards older men and women? What about your own child's attitude to older people?

If your child has grandparents they are likely by far the most important older folk in his life. A grandmother can play a very vital part in a small child's world. So can grandfather! Sometimes a great-aunt or a great-uncle love and care for a small relative. In Professor J. D. Robins' "A Pocketful of Canada" there is a delightful poem about an older uncle taking a small boy fishing. This attractive book can now be purchased in a Pocket Edition and this and many other poems and bits of prose make it well worth buying.

Older people often have more leisure time than mothers and fathers. That is one reason why so many of them share happy outdoor activities like fishing or gardening or walking or driving with little friends. Children dislike being hurried, and the slower tempo of an older person's life often appeals to them. Anyone, young or old, likes to be loved and appreciated. Many a small boy or girl expands and grows in the atmosphere of a grandparent's affection and commendation.

Insurance companies and others interested in statistics have been pointing out in recent years that a number of factors have contributed to people living longer than they did one or two generations ago. It has been estimated that whereas at the beginning of the century only 4 per cent of the population were over 65, by 1980 approximately 14 per cent will be in that age group. Men and women have a greater life expectancy thanks to the reduction in infant mortality, the virtual elimination of such diseases as diphtheria and typhoid fever, and the discovery of new techniques in medicine and such new drugs as the penicillin and the sulfa drugs.

Although people are living longer, no one likes to be considered "old"! To a great extent this is a result of financial anxiety from the policy of many large industries that employees must retire at an early chronological age regardless of their degree of mental ability, their skill or good health. There is a Hebrew proverb "Youth is a garland of roses, age is a crown of thorns". Franklin once said: "All would live long but none would be old."

There are various reasons why for many people "the sunset years" are far from happy. The adjustment from a full and busy life to one of retirement from work is extremely difficult for most men and women. If the retired husband is restless and discontent, he is not a pleasant companion for his wife. Failing health, financial anxieties and the loss of close friends and relatives by death are other reasons why older people often tend to look on the dark side of life. The changing housing conditions, with the popularity of small homes and apartments, leaves little or no room for the aging dependent relative.

Shakespeare pointed out that "Crabbed age and youth cannot live together". No one likes the adjective "crabbed" but the noise and ceaseless activity of children in the same house tire an older person. Grandparents find this wearing on their nerves and they find it hard to be patient with the small dynamo who goes so hard from early morning till bed time.

If there is an older relative living in the same household with a small child it is not an easy situation to handle. The parents must do their best to teach their child to be considerate of the feeling and needs of the older relative.

At the same time the responsibility for the child's training rests with mother and dad, and a grandparent should not make the task of discipline harder by spoiling the youngster on every occasion! There must be a definite agreement that the parent's routine for the child will be respected and that the grandparents will follow the procedures in handling the child of which the parents approve.

The small courtesies of opening a door, or doing small errands for a grandparent, can add so much to the older person's happiness. It does a boy or girl good to perform these small services willingly. In return grandmother will often go more than "the second mile" in reading to the small child, in knitting little garments or doing other things for him.

"I've never tasted oatmeal and date cookies like my grandma used to make!" a middle-aged man declared the other day. "She always had a wonderful supply of them in her cookie jar. At least twice a week I was allowed to visit her after school and she gave me date cookies and milk at the end of the kitchen table. We had wonderful chats together!"

A grandparent can be a very wonderful friend to a small boy or girl. The child's relationship with that older person depends very much on his mother's and his father's attitude. Are you training your son or daughter in courtesy and appreciation of older folk?

2nd Timothy, 3: 16-17 — All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness. That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works.

Jehovah keeps his secrets until his due time to reveal them. Then he makes his purposes known. He first makes known his purposes to those who fear to displease him and who therefore love him and serve him faithfully and unselfishly. (Ps. 25: 14). Those who seek knowledge and understanding in God's appointed way will find it. Trusting in the shed blood of Jesus Christ as the price of man's redemption, the one who seeks knowledge will make an agreement to do the will of God. That means consecration. The man thus entering into a covenant with God and then doing his best to perform his part of that covenant or agreement will get understanding. When God begets or brings forth one in Christ as his son he gives that one his spirit. To such are the words of the prophet addressed: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths." — Prov. 3: 5, 6.

The knowledge of the Lord shall cover the Earth as the waters cover the sea. — Isaiah 11: 9.

And men may know that Thou whose name alone is Jehovah, art the most high over all the Earth. — Psalms 83: 18.

NIGHTLY COMPLAINT

Guelph, Ont. (CP) — Authorities here are thinking about cracking down on cafes where loud-playing juke boxes are disturbing the neighbors. The noise is particularly objectionable to apartment-dwellers whose slumbers are fitful because of the heat.

How do you read character?

Whether or not you believe in any system of "character analysis", you can always tell something about the character of a man simply from the fact that he owns life insurance.

This fact alone tells you, for instance, that he is a good provider. For here is proof that he feels genuine concern for the future welfare of his family—a concern that usually reflects a considerate nature.

It's pretty reliable evidence, too, that he is thrifty, foresighted, realistic—and a good credit risk.

To his employer, his ownership of life insurance suggests readiness to assume responsibility—an attitude that will carry him toward success in any job.

And, if he is using his life insurance to build income for his later years, you can be quite sure that he's the self-reliant type. No relatives or public welfare organization will ever have to support him!

All in all, you'll find that most of the solid citizens in any community own life insurance!

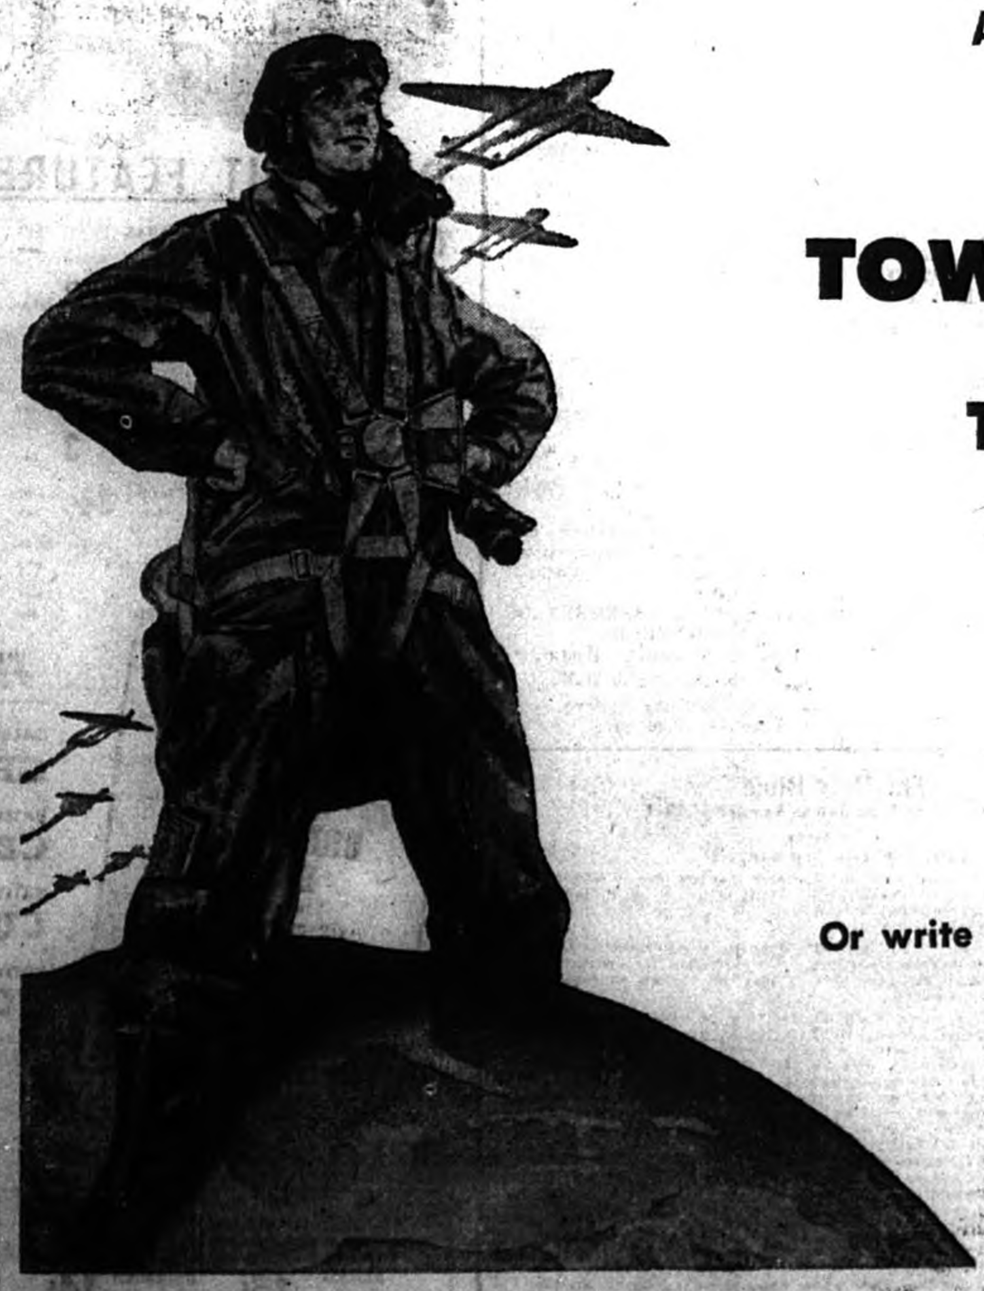

AT YOUR SERVICE! A trained life underwriter, representing one of the more than 50 Canadian, British and United States life insurance companies in Canada, will gladly help you plan for your family's security and your own needs in later years. Rely on him!

Ancient pastime: Dice-playing has been traced back almost to the beginning of history and there were sharpies even in that era, because loaded dice have been unearthed in the ruins of Pompeii.

Neighbor: "Your baby certainly is a cute little rascal. Does he take after his father?"

Mother: "Well, yes, in a way. His father is not quite so cute, but he's much more of a rascal."

Softball Schedule Concludes Sunday

In the Argenteuil Softball League, Carillon, St. Andrews East, Colford Lodge and Lachute Lions are the four teams lined up for the Boyd Trophy play-offs — Lowe Bros. and the Lachute Legion being apparently out of the final running. The last scheduled games will be held this Sunday, when Carillon visits St. Andrews and Lions will visit the Lowe Bros. team, before the semi-finals.

The play-off series and season's games will conclude with a soirée at the St. Andrews Inn on September 19, for presentation of the Boyd Trophy.

Hours for Rotary Swimming Pool

The swimming pool at the Community Park on the Brownsburg Road, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Brownsburg, is supervised daily from 1 to 6 p.m.

Mr. King Amos is on duty each week day, and a different Rotarian is appointed each Sunday, to see that safety is maintained.

Passport to Adventure

After the Second Great War, Larry Henderson set out to see the world as a foreign correspondent, with a passport to adventure. He travelled through 30 countries in Europe, the Middle East, and the Far East. His object was to observe all aspects of life and to record conversations, interviews, folk songs, dances and music. His wife, Joan, formerly of the CBC engineering division, who accompanied him on most of these travels, made the recordings possible. The result is a series of travel diaries called Passport to Adventure, which Henderson broadcasts Tuesday nights on the CBC Trans-Canada network at 8.00. Here the Hendersons are with the tape recording machine that captured foreign sounds and voices for Canadian listeners.

Another Big Muskie From North River

It was reported recently that Cecil Tomalty, camping at Ste. Malvina, Upper Lachute, hauled in a 20-pound muskie (maskinonge) measuring 38 inches, from the North River. The big fish was hooked not far from the Malvina summer settlement, and it took about an hour to play it to exhaustion and land it safely.

out that the Lachute Council, among others, have been charging tax where boarders are accommodated, and that in the present case the charge was made under a clause whereby roomers are liable. The secretary, Emile Herbert, said the costs of government have gone up so that it is difficult to maintain a balanced budget. The by-law governing taxes provides for this tax, which has never been charged on boarders, but the time has come when every angle of tax collecting must be probed. Mr. Brisson felt it was a doubtful honor to be the first to pay this tax. Councillor Lavoie proposed that the Lachute tax of $15 be cut in two and a rate of $7.50 be established. This was agreed to.

Uphill Sewerage

A letter was read from the Council's engineers relative to the question of correcting the fall of a sewerage line on Maple Avenue North. When the contractors had finished with this project, it was found that the engineers had passed an uphill gradient on the sewerage line. It was now suggested the work of correcting the fault be given to a sub-contractor at the original cost per foot, and the amount charged back to the contractors, who are now in bankruptcy. The secretary informed the meeting that a sum of money had been held back as a guarantee that the work was efficiently performed, and the present proposal could be charged against it. It was decided to have the work carried out, as several householders in the district were without sewerage as a consequence, and the Provincial Health Unit were pressing to have them connected under the sanitation laws.

An Old Landmark

The old blacksmith's shop which has now been acquired by the Council was ordered to be advertised for sale and removal. An offer of $40 was already on the table but was retained pending the outcome of advertising in The Watchman.

Gassed

Councillor Rose asked to have an addition built to the present chlorinator plant so that gas cylinders could be stored outside of the building. When changing a cylinder there was danger of becoming gassed. . . It was decided to have the building erected.

Street Lamps

Applications were received for street-lights, one at the Protestant School grounds, the charge to be borne by the school, and one at the corner of Maple South, near the Safety Fuse Company's property. Both applications were granted.

Odds

An application for an additional $25 per month to the police chief was met with an increase in tax commission to 15%, with an admonition to check the amusement tax tickets with more care.

Ends

Mayor H. Pariseau suggested that the opening business deposit of $100 which is required from all new businesses, be not returned at the end of the year, as at present. No action was taken.

Good Work by Anti-Tuberculosis Mobile Units

Hull, Que. Aug. 6 (Special) — Hundreds of citizens in Hull have, during the past few days, been taking advantage of the presence of four mobile units of the Montreal Anti-Tuberculosis League, to have chest X-ray pictures taken. Every afternoon and evening this week, queues of men and women lined up at the four centres in the city where clinics were established, and have been amazed at the speed with which the nurse-technicians from the League operate.

The Montreal organization, which already has undertaken the mass X-ray survey for the detection of tuberculosis and indications of other diseases in 22 counties adjacent to Montreal, went to Hull this week at the request of the Quebec Provincial Department of Health to make a survey in the four counties of Hull, Pontiac, Papineau and Gatineau. They will devote the whole of the month of August to this work, operating in collaboration with Dr. Napoleon Tremblay, medical director of the St. Laurent de Hull Sanatorium, and Dr. F. V. Gosselin, chairman of the Hull Health Unit.

Considerable preparatory work was done by Dr. Philippe Landry, medical director, and Nurse Yolande Cardinal, of the Montreal Anti-Tuberculosis League, in the organizing of the clinics.

Hon. Alphonse Fournier, M.P., Minister of Public Works, who has represented Hull County in the Federal Parliament for 23 years, was one of the first to be X-rayed at the clinic in Hull. "I think this is a marvellous work that the Montreal Anti-Tuberculosis League is doing", he said. "People who think there may be something wrong with them have the opportunity to get a free X-ray and will know in the course of a day or so whether their fears are well-founded or not. If they are, they can get the medical attention they need before the disease has gone too far — if the X-ray shows their fears are groundless, they will be much happier."

Charles O. Monat, League president, expressed his happiness at being able to co-operate with the local League to turn to good use the funds which had been raised through Christmas Seals sales. He pointed out that as the mobile units could not be used in Montreal during the summer months, the League had undertaken to make examinations in 22 counties outside the metropolitan area at the request of the Provincial Health Department. Then had come the request to cover the four counties in the Ottawa River Valley, and also to send a staff down to Gaspé and the Magdalen Islands to train nurse-technicians to deal with mass X-ray surveys there. He considered this a tribute to the recognition of the efficient work the Montreal Anti-Tuberculosis League was doing, and he was glad to co-operate. Mr. Monat added that none of the funds subscribed to the Montreal Anti-Tuberculosis League were expended in any of the 26 counties, the cost of operating the mobile units, developing films and so on being borne by local organizations, the League supplying the administrative and operating staffs with the apparatus.

Schoolboys Arriving On Sightseeing Tour

Montreal — Forty boys selected by headmasters of secondary schools in Glasgow, Birmingham, Bradford and London, are scheduled to arrive at Quebec on August 8 by the Cunard liner Samaria for a two-week sightseeing and educational tour of eastern Canada.

Ranging in age between 17 and 19, the youths will comprise the second post-war party to travel to Canada under a $75,000 educational trust founded in 1948 by Walter H. Rhodes, Bradford textile manufacturer.

During the tour, the boys will see Canada's cities and town life and meet the people. They will meet many Canadians in their homes and during the journey numerous Canadian businessmen and Canadian children. They also will have the opportunity to mingle with Canadian youths of their own age so they can exchange ideas and information about their respective countries.

En route, brief halts will be made in Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto. The itinerary calls also for Niagara Falls and a three-day stop at Camp Wanapitei on Lake Temagami in northern Ontario.

The boys will return to England aboard the Cunarder Ascania, sailing from Montreal August 20.

Council to Seek New Dumpsite Notice of Motion for By-Law On Waterworks Project Loan

Salaries and Allowances Voted On; Further Restriction on Parking — Main Street West In Vicinity of Fire Station

Several matters of public concern came before the Lachute Town Council at its regular meeting for August, with Mayor Jas. W. McGibbon presiding. All members were present with the exception of Ald. W. S. MacKimmie and Ald. Réal Morrissette.

By-law 189, authorizing the corporation to issue a $15,000 loan, was passed in its first reading on motion of Ald. E. Provost, seconded by Ald. Judes Charlebois; and second reading was ratified on motion of Ald. Dr. Jules Lafleur, supported by Ald. D. G. MacRae.

It was proposed by Ald. Stanley Holt that A. Keifer, consulting engineer, be engaged to verify the plans and report of Paul Laliberté, town engineer, relative to the waterworks improvement project. Ald. Provost seconded, and the motion was passed.

Notice of motion was given by Ald. D. G. McRae that he will present at next regular meeting a loan by-law to borrow a sum adequate for costs of the waterworks project.

A petition from 30 taxpayers was presented asking revision of the allocation passed to the Police Chief for use of his automobile. The request was "tabled" — on motion of Ald. S. Holt, seconded by Ald. E. Provost, the council voting 4-3, with Alderman E. Provost, J. E. Charlebois, S. Holt and A. Laurin in favor of tabling the request, and Dr. J. Lafleur, D. G. MacRae and L. Gibeault against.

Dr. L. Turcotte, County Health Officer, appeared before the Council to enquire what had been decided regarding the municipal dump. Being informed that no solution had been devised for this problem, he recommended that the present practice of burning the garbage be discontinued, and that the rubbish be covered with earth to a depth of 10 inches — suggesting, for this purpose, that a man be engaged for the time being on full-time duty at the dump-site.

After some deliberation it was proposed by Ald. Provost, supported by Ald. MacRae, that the Mayor and Ald. Dr. Jules Lafleur enquire the possibilities of purchasing some site which might serve as a town dump, and report accordingly to next meeting of Council.

It was decided that a property belonging to the Estate of L. C. Barron, on Sydney Street, be sold for taxes. Ald. D. G. MacRae sponsored and Ald. Dr. Lafleur seconded the motion.

Ald. MacRae was authorized to have repairs made to the town's heavy-duty truck.

Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon requested a 60-minute restriction on parking on Main Street West, from the Grace Street intersection to the Fire Station. On proposal of Ald. Holt, seconded by Ald. A. Laurin, it was moved that By-law 182 be amended to impose this limitation.

Council then adjourned for a closed session in the secretary's office, where a request was received from Secretary-Treasurer Antonio Laurin for a $500 increase in his remuneration, or otherwise that his resignation be accepted. Council gave approval to this increase, effective August 1, on motion of Ald. Provost supported by Ald. Dr. Lafleur, and the meeting was forthwith adjourned.

Young Canadians See Capital; Report To Rotary on 'Adventure in Citizenship'

The regular weekly meeting of Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club was held last Thursday, with President Mac E. Walker in the chair.

Several guests were in attendance — Peter Williamson, of the Scarborough club, Ontario; Jack Burrows and George Kelly, both of the Westmount club; Bob Johnston, of Brownsburg, and his daughter, Beverley, who was speaker of the evening. The guests were introduced by Rotarian Ozzie Blouin.

Arrangements have been made for the club to visit Hudson Hosiery Mill on August 28 — the club meeting to be held in the Como Inn, Como.

The St. Laurent Rotary Club members, accompanied by their wives and children, arranged a Fellowship meeting for August 9 at the Rotary Park in Brownsburg. This event proved very successful.

Vice-president Keith Rutherford introduced the speaker, Beverley Johnston, a charming young lady from Brownsburg. Beverley has just graduated from Grade X in Brownsburg and intends entering Lachute High in September for Grade XI.

Beverley attended the "Adventure in Citizenship" sponsored by Ottawa Rotary Club. This venture is an attempt to teach teenagers their responsibilities in our great Democracy; representatives come from all over Canada and the United States. Beverley attended as representative of the local club. One year a pupil from Lachute is chosen, and the next year a pupil from Brownsburg.

Beverley divided her talk into three main phases, namely, Places, Personalities and Purpose. The last was to give everyone a broader view of, and interest in, domestic and world affairs. A list of places Beverley remembered as outstanding were — the Chateau Laurier; Carleton College, where a mock parliament session was held; each of the representatives had Canadian Citizenship papers presented to them by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent. Visits were made to the Canadian Mint, the Archives and the R.C.M.P. training depot. They also attended a tea at Government House, and were shown through the National Museum and Art Gallery.

Several luncheons were held, with national figures as speakers, among whom she mentioned the Hon. Brooke Claxton, Minister of National Defence, and the Hon. Geo. Drew, leader of the Opposition.

Fisher Park High School played host to all the representatives and held a dance. Everyone attended a ball game in Ottawa.

Her Worship Mayor Charlotte Whitton gave the group a civic welcome. B. K. Sandwell, editor of "Saturday Night", gave a memorable speech on Democracy. Beverley noted that all speakers stressed the dangers of modern Communism, and that Education was the key to solving the world crisis. The practical value in dollars and cents could not be posted in a ledger, but its intrinsic value is tremendous.

All of the representatives in this "Adventure" return to their home clubs and present a report.

Emphatically New, In the Corn Patch

It is commonly said there is "nothing new under the sun." However, a local farmer has come up with an idea which, so far as can be learned, is unquestionably original.

Year after year this farmer has successfully grown some of the best table corn in the vicinity — despite a constant struggle against adverse weather, weeds, crows and, more recently, the insidious corn-borer. This year he had carefully nursed his corn patch to the stage where it was almost ready to satisfy the most exacting tastes of those who love good corn-on-the-cob, when a new enemy appeared on the scene — in the shape of one or more hungry raccoons. These otherwise cute little animals set about with amazing dexterity to reduce the corn patch to a total failure from the point of view of a cash crop.

The situation called for careful deliberation, and the farmer rose to the occasion. He installed a radio in the centre of the corn patch, connected in to a light socket in the barn nearby, and let it play all night. This has proved too much for the raccoons. They haven't returned since. . . . The farmer is now toying with the idea of allowing the radio to play during the day also. He still has the corn-borers, and no one knows what effect soap operas may have on them.

2 Killed Instantly Under Falling Concrete Hoist

Shortly before 8 o'clock this morning at the Foundation Company project at Marelan (on Highway 8 between St. Philippe and Grenville), two workers were killed by the collapse of a skip used for hoisting concrete to the top of a silo.

The men, Lionel Allard, 49, of Grece's Point, and Gaetan Gagné, 18, of Brownsburg, died instantly.

It is understood the two workers were underneath the hoist when it failed, possibly due to a mechanical defect. The skip, or bucket, was empty at the time when it fell and crushed the two men.

Dr. G. C. Bowes, of Grenville, was immediately summoned to the scene, and pronounced the victims dead. Circumstances of the accident are under investigation by provincial police — Det. Philippe Therriault having been summoned from Lachute. Dr. Jules Lafleur, coroner, set the inquest for Monday evening, at Desforges Funeral Parlors, Grenville.

Lionel Allard had been engaged with Foundation Company on the Canadian Refractories building since June, 1951. Gaetan Gagné had been working there only since last month.

Ayers Ltd. and Lachute Golf Club On Weekly Radio

Quality entertainment and good publicity were combined in the initial program of a ¼-hour radio series last Sunday, which emanated from the Lachute Golf and Country Club via Station CFCF. The program, sponsored by Ayers Limited, was presented at 10.15 p.m. immediately following the regular Doug Smith week-end golf commentary. The presentation, m-c'd by George McDonald, included some fine music by the Golf Club's regular entertainers, Phil Ladouceur at the organ and his son, Ray Ladouceur, at the piano. This accomplished team, popular with members and visitors at the club, provided equally pleasurable radio entertainment. The commercial touch to this program made reference to the firm of Ayers Limited, its situation and social aspects — and less obtrusively, to its wool blanket products. Lachute and its surroundings also came in for favorable mention.

This program will be a weekly feature, which should prove of interest specially to local listeners.

Held Responsible For Death of Hit-Run Victim

Inquest on the death of 23-year-old Rodrigue Durocher, cyclist from Hawkesbury, who was killed in a hit-and-run accident on Route 8 near St. Philippe on the evening of July 22, was held at the Court House here in Lachute. Dr. Jules Lafleur presided as district coroner, and the jurors returned a verdict holding Lionel Larocque, of Lachute Mills, criminally responsible.

According to evidence, it was shown that Larocque, 21, was driving a 3-ton truck belonging to Henri Legault. Accompanying him in the cab were two others from Lachute, Raymond Laubre and René Raymond. They were driving eastward when the truck hit the cyclist from the rear. On July 25, three days after the mishap, Larocque gave himself up to the provincial police authorities.

Larocque was arraigned before the district magistrate at St. Jerome last Friday, and ordered to stand for preliminary hearing September 10 on a charge of manslaughter.

On Annual Cruise

Mr. and Mrs. Aimé Trudel and two children, of Lachute Mills, left last week-end for a motor-launch cruise, which is their annual form of vacation. Aimé, now well familiar with the district waterways and adept as marine mechanic, intends to navigate his craft to Messina, N.Y., then returning via the Ottawa River and the Rideau Canal to a point near Smiths Falls. The family plan to be absent until August 27 in their cabin launch.

MINIATURE REFRIGERATORS KEEP JET PILOTS COOL

London — Weighing only 9½ lbs., cockpit refrigerators deliver 20 lbs. of cool air a minute to the latest jet fighters, "Venom" and "Hunter". Without this unique equipment, built by Sir George Godfrey and Pattners, these fighters become unbearably hot, not only from the heat of the sun, but through friction between the outside air and the fuselage at high speed.

Field Day for Mill Employees And Families Is Gala Annual Event at Exhibition Grounds

Age Displays the Youthful Spirit — Athletic Program Concludes with Evening Features, Music, Calisthenics, Vaudeville, Prizes

Clear skies and a "good time for one and all" were the order of the day last Saturday, when Ayers Limited and Dominion Shuttle Company presented their annual picnic for employees and their families at the Lachute Exhibition Grounds.

From early afternoon until 11 o'clock at night some 2,000 people enjoyed races, special events, tournaments and inter-plant contests, which were thoroughly enjoyed.

In the evening an attendance estimated between 5,000 and 6,000 witnessed a gala show concluding the day's activities. This event had originally been scheduled for Saturday, August 2, but had been delayed one week in respectful tribute to the memory of Mrs. W. H. Ayers, whose presence was sadly missed throughout the proceedings.

The afternoon activities started at 1.30 o'clock with track races featuring horses owned and driven by employees of these firms. This event created a great deal of rivalry and set the program off to an enthusiastic start. Then followed the program of sports events (winners of which are listed in the contemporory issue of L'Argenteuil). Soft drinks and ice cream were handed out free of charge and were particularly enjoyed by the hundreds of children present.

Inter-plant matches were held in soft-ball, the Ayers Limited team being victors by a score of 9 to 4; and also in a tug-of-war, where the Dominion Shuttle team dominated.

In the evening at 7.30 a short musical interlude was presented by the Ayers Limited band, and a smart exhibition of physical training presented by the children of the Recreational Centre, under direction of Armand Alie. Then came the annual door-prize draw, which gave the following results:

Ayers Limited

2nd Prize, combination radio — Wm. Leblanc, winner.

Dominion Shuttle

2nd Prize, combination radio — Oris Chénier, winner.
3rd Prize, bicycle — Jean Jacques Mayer, winner.

Pilot Injured in Crash Landing At St. Michel

Two men escaped death last Sunday when rain and fog forced their light plane down in a crash-landing in St. Michel de Wentworth, due north of Lachute, during a group training flight of Montreal Flying Club pilots.

The aircraft, a second-hand Cornell trainer, was demolished.

Pilot Robert Degarie, 24, of Chandler, Que., was brought to the Providence Hospital, Lachute, with a possible skull fracture, and was later transferred to Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital, where his condition was described as "serious".

His co-pilot, Oswald Stevens, 21, of Prince Albert, Sask., suffered minor bruises when the plane broke up on landing.

Stevens pulled Degarie from the wrecked plane, which did not burn, and carried him about 500 feet to the road. From this point he was brought to Lachute by Cyrille Gagné in his truck.

Both men are ground crew members of the R.C.A.F. 426 Squadron, Lachine. The plane was participating in a flight from St. Jovite to Montreal, Stevens said, when it became lost. When the weather grew stormy and rough, Degarie tried to come down "to get his bearings". He attempted to land in a field on the farm of Honoré Hoff at St. Michel, but the light plane broke up on impact.

Stevens said the aircraft was nearing the ground when Degarie realized he was not going to make it. He tried to pull the Cornell up again, but a gust of wind flipped the plane over, and one wing dug into the turf and broke off. The plane spun around and crashed.

Degarie was knocked unconscious. When he came to, his first words were for the plane, Stevens said. Degarie had purchased the craft from the War Assets Corporation after the war for $750 and later put an estimated $3,000 worth of repairs on it.

Det. Philippe Therriault, of Lachute, visited the scene and investigated the mishap.

Popular Cleric Leaving Brownsburg

The Rev. Fr. Paul Manseau, C.C., is leaving Brownsburg shortly to take a two-year course on Social Welfare at the University of Montreal. Fr. Manseau has been well and favorably known in this district for the past several years, and has been very active in providing playground activities for the children of the local schools. He took a keen interest in hockey and other sports, and was a very fast player during his own participation in the game. Through his efforts a swimming pool was provided for all the children of the district, without distinction as to class or creed. An outdoor skating rink was also erected, and everything possible was done to keep young children off the streets and on the playing fields.

In the religious sphere he was an exemplary churchman. Possessed of a fine voice, he was a fluent and interesting speaker and was devoutly attached to the Church, its ceremonies, and the faithful. He will be greatly missed by a wide circle of friends and admirers. It is expected that he will return periodically to assist the Rev. Fr. Bouchard in the onerous duties demanded by the St. Louis de France parish.

Holidays Over

Who first invented work, and bound the free
And holiday-rejoicing spirit down?
Under the leaves, amid the grass,

Through the great life ocean

Bank Hold-Up At Pte. Fortune

An armed bandit held up a branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale at Pointe Fortune, across the Ottawa River, last Friday, and escaped with an estimated $2,000, Provincial Police reported.

The man, police said, entered the bank, which is in a house, at 10.30, forced the managers, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Bisaillon, to lie on the floor, scooped out the contents of the till and fled in a green car.

According to the police, Mrs. Bisaillon was in the cage at the time and her husband was in the back, working on the ledgers.

Two Arraigned in Oka Robbery Case

Two men were arraigned in St. Jerome on Tuesday for ransacking A. Chene's general store at Oka, last Saturday, according to Provincial Police.

The suspects were arrested at an Oka garage. Police said the men were seen by a night watchman on duty in a restaurant next door to the store. When the suspects noticed the watchman, they fled in a truck parked outside.

Detective Bob Casavant and traffic officers found the truck in a garage at Oka, police said, while the two men in it were having a tire fixed. In the truck was $4,000 worth of merchandise.

The men arrested were identified as Lucien Sigouin, 29, and Lucien Goulet, 28, both of Montreal.

40th Anniversary as B'burg Parish Priest

Sunday, August 24, will mark the 40th anniversary of the arrival of Rev. Father Vitalis Bouchard to minister to the Catholic community of Brownsburg, and the occasion will be fittingly celebrated by the parishioners of St. Louis de France. Besides the religious devotions, the observance will include a banquet at 1 p.m. for a limited number of invited guests, mostly members of the clergy, at the presbytery, and a social evening at 8.30 o'clock in the auditorium of the Protestant School.

Light Means Safety

During the last half-century, night-time has become a much safer time for mankind in all those parts of the world which have the advantages of electricity.

Today, our city streets with their electric lighting, offer less hazards than they did when people knew that to venture out after dark meant inviting disaster. Thanks to electricity, there is less chance of falls and stumbles around the farm. Good lighting in our homes makes it safer to move around after dark.

Term "Sour Land" Often Misunderstood

The term "sour land" is often misunderstood and misused, says P. S. Stobbie, field husbandry division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. By sour land is meant land which is acid in reaction and which requires a certain amount of lime or other alkaline substances to make the soil sweet or neutral in reaction. Very frequently farmers and others use the term "sour land" for poorly or imperfectly drained soils, which do not produce satisfactory crops and which generally favor the growth of moisture-loving plants, such as horse tail, sedges and moss. Such land may or may not be sour or acid in reaction.

In areas where some limestone rock fragments are found in the sub soils and in the underlying geological materials, the poorly drained, dark colored soils in gentle depressions are generally less acid than the surrounding well-drained soils. In many instances such poorly drained soils are neutral or alkaline in reaction and therefore require no lime, whereas the adjacent well-drained soils may be acid to various degrees. Such poorly drained soils, which have often been wrongly referred to as sour land, do not need lime, but improved drainage. The application of additional lime without improving the drainage of such soils would in many cases lower the productive capacity of such land.

In areas where limestone rock fragments are absent from the sub-soil and the underlying geological materials, the poorly drained, as well as the well-drained soils, are generally sour or acid in reaction. Under such conditions the poorly and imperfectly drained soils are often somewhat more acid than the associated well-drained soils. The cultivated surface soils of such sour, poorly drained soils are generally more greyish in color than the well-drained soils. Applications of lime to the land in such areas are generally more beneficial on the well-drained soils than on the more acid, poorly drained land, unless the drainage conditions of the latter are improved at the same time.

Weight Per Bushel Is A Measure of Feed Efficiency

Weight per measured quart or bushel of the feed ration is a direct measure of the feed mixture's digestibility and its effectiveness in producing gains in market pigs, as disclosed by Prof. E. W. Crampton, of Macdonald College, who is in charge of a feed investigation undertaken jointly by the Federal Department of Agriculture and Macdonald College, Quebec.

In this experiment combinations of coarse grains with wheat were made up, so that feed mixtures were obtained with weight-per-bushel values ranging from 30 to 50 lbs. When these various combinations — all fortified with the same protein-mineral-vitamin supplement — were fed to different groups of pigs, it was found that the amount of feed required to produce gains of one pound was directly proportional to the weight-per-bushel values of the feed mixtures. It made little difference what particular combinations of grains were used in this experiment.

Important Factors for Profitable Poultry

Size of business and labor efficiency appear to be two of the major reasons why some poultrymen make more money on their flocks than their neighbors. While rate of egg production based on good breeding stock, disease control, and nutrition are recognized as fundamental to success in the poultry business, a bullet entitled "Commercial Poultry Farming in Nova Scotia" recently released by the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, underlines the fact that flock size and time required to care for the flock often provide the major difference between the highly successful and average poultryman. The two factors are closely interrelated — larger flocks usually mean a saving on labor — that is, less labor per bird, and higher net returns per bird.

Poultrymen who analyse the findings of this significant study will probably agree with the Department of Agriculture officials, that, while rate of production is still fundamental to success, more attention should be paid to enlarging the flock and reducing the labor of caring for it through the use of labor saving devices and techniques and better organization of poultry chore routines.

U.S. FIRM INVESTS $30,000,000 IN CANADA

E. G. Burton

In one of the largest business transactions in Canadian history, Sears, Roebuck of Chicago has invested an estimated $30,000,000 to expand the Robert Simpson Company's mail order business. The investment results in a new company with 50 per cent. owned by both original companies. The new company will not control the five large department stores operated by the Robert Simpson Co. Ltd., but will set up as many as 50 separate stores from the Atlantic to Pacific and will specialize in mail order business. The announcement of the enterprise was made by Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of Sears, and by Charles L. Burton, chairman of Simpson's Ltd. President and chief executive of Simpsons-Sears will be E. G. Burton.

$25,000 Sawmill Fire At St. Eugene, Ont.

St. Eugene, Ont. — Damage estimated at from $25,000 to $30,000 was caused when fire destroyed the G. A. Lafrance sawmill and gristmill near the C.P.R. station at St. Eugene on Wednesday of last week.

The 1½-storey frame building also housed a planing mill. The building was 75 feet long by 60 feet wide.

Not much lumber was destroyed but about $2,000 in feed was lost. Two diesel engines mounted in cement were saved.

For a time the C.P.R. station was threatened, but the local volunteer fire brigade with a pumper managed to keep the building wetted down so that sparks could not get a foothold.

Mr. Lafrance thought the fire may have been started by the clutch slipping on one of the engines, causing a spark which ignited sawdust.

No insurance was carried, but the proprietor plans to rebuild immediately.

BANKING OWLS

The Financial Post reports that two owls have joined the staff of a Vancouver branch of the Bank of Montreal. The bank tried everything in the book to get rid of an estimated 1,000 pigeons that roosted on the building.

Finally, they added two stuffed owls to its staff, mounted them on the cornices of the building. The pigeons vacated — for the first week, anyway.

Death Summons One of Chatham's Oldest Residents

Late Miss Margaret Graham

One of Chatham's oldest residents, Miss Margaret Graham, was called to her rest on Tuesday, August 5, at the home of her niece, Mrs. John Somerville, after a short illness.

The late Miss Graham was the last of a large family. Born in the district in 1855, she was a daughter of the late Archibald Graham and his wife, Janet Black.

Funeral service was held at the home of Mrs. J. Somerville on Thursday, August 7, the Rev. Dr. Wm. MacMillan, of St. Andrews East, officiating. Burial took place in the family plot at St. Andrews East Cemetery. Pallbearers were Messrs. Jas. Robertson, Wm. Chambers, John and Fred Graham.

Late Leslie Bates Was Member of Old County Family

Was Prominent in Orangeism and Widely Known

A well known resident and member of an old county family, George Leslie Bates, died Monday at his home in East Ward — having returned a few days previously from a Hawkesbury hospital.

Born in Avoca in 1879, Leslie Bates had resided on Charles Street, Lachute, for the past five years. He was one of a large family which left the home settlement of Avoca to live in many distant parts; his relatives and descendants are therefore widespread and numerous.

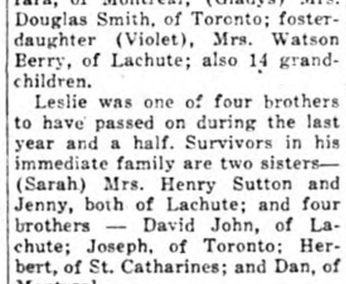

The late Mr. Bates is survived by his widow, the former Eleanor Amelia Crawford (the couple celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last January); also by his two sons, five daughters and a foster-daughter — all of whom were here for the funeral. They are: Cecil and Alvin Bates, of Timmins, Ont.; (Lillian) Mrs. Harold Cook, of Flint, Mich.; (Melissa) Mrs. John McGarry and Grace, both also of Timmins; (Ruth) Mrs. Earl Farrara, of Montreal; (Gladys) Mrs. Douglas Smith, of Toronto; foster-daughter (Violet), Mrs. Watson Berry, of Lachute; also 14 grandchildren.

Leslie was one of four brothers to have passed on during the last year and a half. Survivors in his immediate family are two sisters—(Sarah) Mrs. Henry Sutton and Jenny, both of Lachute; and four brothers — David John, of Lachute; Joseph, of Toronto; Herbert, of St. Catharines; and Dan, of Montreal.

The late Leslie Bates owned and operated cheese factories for 22 years in Avoca, where he also farmed from 1908 to 1946. He was latterly widely known as game warden in the Argenteuil division. He had been a member of the Anglican Church at Avoca, and a church warden for 20 years. He was Master of the Orange Lodge No. 721, Avoca, for 18 years, having also been Lecturer of the Supreme Grand Lodge of British America, Master of the Scarlet Chapter, County Master, and an honorary member of Grenville L.O.B.A.

The funeral, held Wednesday afternoon at St. Simeon's Anglican Church, was attended by a very large gathering of relatives, friends and associates. The rites were conducted by the Rev. G. T. Spriggs, and the remains were conveyed to Avoca for interment in the Anglican burial ground. Pallbearers were — Messrs. Watson Berry, James Bates, Perley Murdoch, William Graham, Joseph Provencal and Laurence McGill.

Many beautiful flowers bore testimony to the friendships enjoyed by this genial figure, and to the sympathy of many acquaintances in his passing.

When August Smiles

AUGUST is the mellow month, almost everywhere in Canada a season of languorous fruitfulness.

It brings kindly warmth in place of the scorching breath of late July. Yet its afternoon breezes bear a hint of the fresh clear air of the autumn only a few weeks away.

Canadians fortunate enough to choose August vacation dates enjoy lazy days of watching the year's bounty in field and orchard mature in the golden sunshine. Time seems to lose itself in a drowsy hum of contentment.

It is a time for adults to relax on the screened porch at the cottage and watch the gulls wheel over the lake.

For the young folk, it brings swimming, long hours of frolicking and sun-bathing on the beaches. Its nights are cool enough for corn roasts, for dancing, for strolls under the harvest moon.

The farmer's hay is safely in the mow. Probably most of his grain is threshed and stored in the granary. His root crops continue to soak up goodness from the sun and soil. Calves, lambs and poultry grow big and plump in readiness for early marketing. If the summer weather in his district has been favorable, the farmer, like everyone else, can find at least a little time to bask in the August glow.

Forgotten for the carefree present are the special tasks the fall will bring in town and country, the responsibilities the grown-ups must face, the studies the youth faces at school. This is the happy month when all Nature conspires to induce man to take it easy, to shed his cares, perhaps to call up rich memories of other summers or to fashion bright dreams of the future.

There will be another time for work, for deliberation, for putting plans into action. But, for now, it is sufficient to capture the magic of the hours when August smiles.

Something Lacking in Provision for Tourists

A LOT has been done in this province during the past ten years to attract tourists from other lands to come and visit us and spend their money while enjoying the hospitality we have to offer. The part we (or our government) have played in making their stay more enjoyable, is small indeed compared with the bountiful generosity Nature lavished on our lakes, our mountains, our rivers, our valleys and dells. We were handed a profitable industry in the scenic beauty of our province without tax or tribute from us, and we were, to say the least of it, rather slow to capitalize on the good fortune Nature left on our doorstep.

True, we built a number of good roads to facilitate our modern mode of travel, and we made the inaccessible beauty-spots, whether for fishing or skiing, more easily arrived at. We built hotel accommodation of a first-class kind, and service at the innermost reaches of secluded routes, and we endeavored to provide this service at a reasonable and satisfying return for the tourist — and in expectation that his vacation would be a yearly event.

But there are other attractions which could be so easily provided at so little cost, in which we are so lamentably lacking. Our tourist bureaus are few and far between, our road signs are not all that could be desired, and our towns and municipalities hide behind a maddening anonymity in their display of place-names. True, the Roads Department tries to fill the need of this latter neglect, but the towns themselves go into deep self-effacement. But the greatest need, which is so obviously lacking — is resting or parking spots along our highways. Neighboring provinces have not been slow in providing the traveller with comfortable parking sites, where running water and sturdy tables and chairs, and outdoor fireplaces with even a supply of firewood, is available for the weary tourist to stretch his legs or rest his road-stung eyes. In Argenteuil we have none of these things, and we no doubt suffer in consequence. It is high time something was done about providing these amenities. Why not lead the rest of the province in the matter and start now?

Towards Worker Security

AMID ALL the contentions between management and labor about laws, rights, privileges, practices and prerogatives, one thing becomes clearer and clearer. It is that, unless management and labor stop fighting and get together on a basis of co-operation for the common good, this country is likely to share poverty instead of prosperity.

We have now reached the stage where management, when it wants to use the labor market, has to guarantee security to the employee. This security may consist of a guaranteed annual wage, or a closed shop, or maintenance of membership, or a health and welfare fund — any one or all of these. It is not surprising that the employee wants security, nor is it to be objected to in principle. But at the time he is seeking security, the employee is also asking for more wages. He wants more pay than he is getting for a given amount of work.

To meet this unproductive expenditure, management is forcing technological development beyond its natural pace. This combination, while resulting in temporary advantages for employees who remain at work, is tending to bring about less total employment.

There is nothing wrong in principle with security for the worker, neither is there anything wrong in principle with technological development. In the long run it enables the nation to produce more goods at less cost for more people. But if the natural development of a decade is compressed into a couple of years unemployment, attending hardships are bound to come about. Some workers will carry a burden of unemployment during a period of readjustment, instead of having all workers benefit by gradual development over a longer period.

From Aloft

MANY TOWNS and cities which would like to grow bigger are missing a bet when they conceal their identity from passing planes, remarks The Financial Post. They don't need to give the overhead passengers all the details on what days the local service clubs meet or whether theirs is the prettiest town in Canada. But they might at least have the name of the place laid out on some hillside where it can be seen and identified a mile or so up. Lacking a suitable hillside, the centre of the local race track or football field would make an excellent aerial billboard.

Overhead, who knows, some representative of a company may be looking for a place to build a new plant. The name he sees below may be the first link in the establishment of a new business that will mean growth, and employment and more prosperity. . . Here is a passing thought for our Chamber of Commerce.

ALONG COMES a radiation expert at London, Ont., who attributes many cases of skin cancer to too much sunlight, and warns farmers especially against the growing habit of stripping to the waist while at work during the summer. The expert may be right, but if the hatless and shirtless farmer is in danger of developing skin cancer, what about the young fellows and girls who sport themselves on the bathing beaches?

Bundles for Canada Program Suggested

India, it seems, has asked Ottawa for another gift of wheat under the Colombo Plan. Being what the international bureaucrats classify as an under-developed country, India's request will undoubtedly meet with a sympathetic response. The money which India would normally use to buy wheat in Canada will be diverted and spent for the improvement of her railways, or her industrial plants or her educational system.

Last year Canadian taxpayers generously provided India with $10 million worth of wheat, $4.5 million worth of buses and trucks and $500,000 worth of dam and irrigation equipment. Pakistan, in the same year, got $10 million from Ottawa for bulding a cement mill and for making surveys of that country's industrial potential.

Unfortunately, it doesn't seem to have occurred to anyone in Ottawa, or New Delhi or Karachi that Canada, in some respects, is just as under-developed as India or Pakistan. Oriental rugs and tea are commodities in which Canadians are no less backward than are the Indians in the matter of canals or the Pakistan folk in the matter of cement mills. If the Indian could teach us how to make oriental rugs, or how to grow tea in the Arctic tundra, it might go a long way towards combatting the growth of communism in Canada.

Time was, of course, when Canadians were content to acquire their oriental rugs or their tea by the simple process of trading with the Orient. Since Ottawa has decided to substitute the Colombo Plan for trade, it mightn't be such a bad idea if India and Pakistan were to start a 'Bundles for Canada' program, sending every Canadian taxpayer a case of tea wrapped in an oriental rug each Christmas, in order to ward off the spread of communism.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you: —

Q. I am a woman and have been working for over ten years. I have never drawn unemployment insurance benefit. Now I am married and will have to stop work definitely soon. Am I entitled to benefit for a certain time, or have I paid all these years for nothing?

A. You cannot qualify for benefit unless you are available for and unable to obtain suitable employment. While working you were insured against the risk of unemployment. If because of domestic responsibilities you withdrew from the employment field, you become ineligible for benefit.

• • •

Q. Is an old age pensioner entitled to unemployment insurance benefit?

A. Yes, if he is available for, capable of and unable to obtain suitable work.

• • •

Q. If a person receives $200 in insurance benefit is it taxable?

A. Unemployment insurance benefit is not taxable income.

I wish I were a Soft Drink Man!
There must be millions in it.
One can't keep pace with all the brands —
A new one's born each minute.
You see the signs on every hand
In rich and gaudy hues
Advising you to buy a drink
Of Gogswamp's Bitter Booze.
And as you journey down the road
Around the curving hill
A poster smacks you in the eye
For Swivelton's Swell Swill.
Then there's another further on
Where all the traffic stops —
A neon sign — red, white and blue
For Hiccup's Hiccold Hops.
Across the road's another one
But nearly twice as big Inviting you to try a glass
Of Swineherd's Swivel Swig.
Another one that's popular
And made from pumpkin pulp
And advertised in magazines,
Is Gumboot's Gurgle Gulp.
The surface hardly has been scratched
I've mentioned just a few.
So let's go in and have a drink
Of Gloopott's Gastric Goo.
Aw, come on in. I'll pay for both,
T'will only take a minute!
It cannot do you any harm
'Cause you don't know what's in it.
The advertiser says it's pure
And he would not be fickle,
A little bottle of the stuff
Will only cost a nickle.
Not thirsty now? Oh, very well.
Come in and have some pie
While I mop up a tall, thin glass
Of Coffdrop's Caustic Lye.

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS

Winnipeg (CP) — T. S. Sullivan, general superintendent of Canadian National Railway, says negligence which leads to accidents often has its beginning in the home. He says each family should review railway safety rules.

Q

How can I best provide for my retirement?

A

Through a low cost Mutual Life Retirement policy.

While you are working it safeguards the future of your dependents, then, usually at 60 or 65, it pays a regular monthly income for the rest of your life. Only life insurance enables you to save for the days when you stop earning and at the same time provide an estate for your loved ones should anything happen to you. You should discuss this plan for security with a Mutual Life of Canada representative.

OBITUARY

Spent Lifetime In Community Of Dalesville

The Late Thomas Morrow

The death of Mr. Thomas Morrow occurred on Sunday, August 10 at his home in Dalesville, after 10, at his home in Dalesville, after a lengthy illness. He was in his 65th year.

A son of the late Hugh Morrow and his wife Janet McFaul, early settlers in this district, Mr. Morrow was born in Dalesville, where he spent his life engaged in farming, until recent years.

He married Miss Catherine Murdoch, of Dalesville, who is left to mourn his passing, together with one daughter, Frances, at home, and two sons, Russell and William, of Montreal. There are also one brother, Austin, of Dalesville, and five sisters — Mrs. J. Murdoch, Lachute (Catherine); Mrs. A. Murdoch, Brownsburg (Agnes), Mrs. W. Wert, of Ogdensburg (Jessie); Mrs. J. Stephenson, Dalesville (Annie); and Mrs. A. Titley, Lachute (Aida).

The funeral service was held Tuesday, August 12, in the Dalesville Baptist Church, conducted by the Rev. N. H. Brock, assisted by the Rev. Geo. B. Hicks.

Pall-bearers were six nephews, Theodore and Stanley Murdoch, Russell Silverson, Howard and Reg Morrow and Nelson Titley.

Interment was made in the Dalesville Cemetery.

Townsman Suffers Bereavement

Late Mrs. Alexandre Guenette

The death of Mrs. Alexandre Guenette occurred last Thursday in Lachute, at the age of 59. Wife of a respected citizen and senior employee of J. C. Wilson Ltd., Mrs. Guenette was the former Jeanne Lafleur. Residing on Grace Street, she was well and favorably known in her town and parish.

Besides her husband she leaves two sons, Philippe and Paul, and a daughter, Mrs. Gaetan St. Jacques. She is survived also by three brothers, Jacques, Roland and Paul Lafleur, in Montreal, and one sister, Mrs. Jos. Parenteau, of St. Jerome.

The funeral was held Saturday from Ste. Anastasie Parish Church to Lachute Catholic Cemetery. There were many friends in attendance, and a profusion of flowers bore testimony of sincere sympathy.

Avoca

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Drew, of Peterborough, were visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. James Waite on Tuesday last.

Mr. Claude Andrews, of Lowe, Que., visited his parents over the week-end, also Mr. John MacLeod of Pointe au Chene, Mr. Allen MacLeod, of Ottawa, and Mr. Fred MacLeod, of Avoca.

Use Fruit In Season

Fruit is a refreshing addition to any meal -- and it is tasty between meals too. The light delicate flavors of most fruits are good by themselves and they blend well with many other foods. When in season and plentiful, fruit is not only a good buy but a time-saving, easy way to serve better meals. Use it, not only as an appetizer or dessert, but with the main course as well. Fruit adds pleasing contrast to most meats — for instance, broiled or baked fresh peach halves, spiced or filled with jelly, are delicious with cooked ham. Freshly made applesauce or cooked apple rings are standard fare with pork dishes while baked pears are refreshing with many other meat dishes.

Serve fruit in different ways for variety. One of the best ways is raw, so pack an apple or a pear in a lunch box for dessert or keep a fruit bowl on the table filled with ripe, luscious assorted fruits like grapes, apples, pears and peaches. For an appetizer or dessert, a fresh fruit cup is always a favorite.

Even in the midst of the fresh fruit season, stewed fruit is a welcome change. When stewing apples, pears, peaches and plums, simmer the fruit in water until tender before adding sugar to taste. This gives a better fruit flavor.

To make puréed fruit, quarter and slice the fruit (it is not necessary to peel it), then cook, covered, until tender in just enough water to keep it from sticking. When it is tender, strain to remove the skin and cores, then add sugar to taste, and reheat. For a change, add a little cinnamon or lemon juice.

Peaches should be peeled for baking, but pears may be baked in their skins. To bake just cut them in half, then sprinkle with either brown or white sugar and lemon juice, dot with butter and bake in a moderate oven of 350-375°F. These fruits can also be broiled. To do it place the prepared fruit on the broiler pan, sprinkle with sugar and baste with tart fruit juice. Dot with butter and broil until tender.

There are many other delicious dishes that can be made with fruit — tempting pies and tarts, mouth-watering puddings, whips, ice creams, ices and eye catching jellies.

When serving fruit, enhance the flavor with small amounts of spices. Cinnamon is commonly added to apple pie or applesauce but it can also be used with plums and peaches, either in pie or sauce. To complement the flavor of a sour cherry pie or cherry sauce, try a bit of mace. Ginger is good with a Fruit Betty, and lemon juice or vinegar, used sparingly, adds a little tartness to blueberries. A fruit cup is most refreshing if mint is added to it, and a pinch of marjoram adds an unusual and fresh flavor to fruit salad. Another idea is to serve a favorite cheese with fruit. Whether it is a salad, a pie or just a plain fruit bowl, it is a superb combination.

As a special treat make some jam or conserve now for enjoying later in the year. Here is a recipe for Peach Conserve from the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture:

Peach Conserve

3 Medium oranges, 3 cups water, 1 6-oz. bottle maraschino cherries, 9 cups sugar, 8 cups peaches cut into small cubes.

Slice orange thinly then cut into cubes. Place in kettle, add water and simmer until tender but not soft, about 20 minutes. Meanwhile, drain cherries, reserving the juice, and cut cherries into quarters. To the cooked oranges, add peaches, sugar and the juice from cherries and cook until thickened, about 20 minutes. Add cherries and boil 5 minutes longer. Pour into sterilized jars leaving at least ¼ inch headspace. Cool slightly then pour a thin layer of melted paraffin over the jam. Leave until hardened then add a second layer of paraffin.

Jellied Fruit Salad

2 Tablespoons gelatine, ¾ cup cold water, 1½ tablespoons sugar, 1¾ cups boiling water, 3¾ cups of sliced peaches, diced cantaloupe and raspberries (or 3¾ cups sliced pears, diced watermelon and pitted cherries).

Soak gelatine in cold water for five minutes. Add the soaked gelatine and sugar to the boiling water and stir until dissolved. Chill until partially set. Fold in peaches, cantaloupe and raspberries. Turn into moistened jelly moulds and chill until firm. Yield: 5 to 6 servings.

Note: To mould in small cantaloupes, cut a slice from the top of the cantaloupe, remove seeds and peel. Fill centre with jellied salad. When set, cut in slices and serve garnished on lettuce or other greens.

Lessons in French For Society Use

(Fergus News-Record)

A couple of frivolous editors, up north, have been struggling with those letters that you often see at the bottom corner of a wedding invitation. Here's how The Wiarton Echo sums it up:

A fellow in Dundalk has suggested to the editor of the Herald that the letters, R.S.V.P., often printed on wedding invitations, mean "Relatives Send Valuable Presents". I was glad to know this, as I always thought it meant, "Return Silver Very Promptly" and thought it was rather a rude way to remind guests that they were not supposed to lift the family heirlooms during the reception.

GIRLS IN TRAINING HAVE BUSY CAMP SCHEDULE

Among the 64 girls at the summer conference for senior members of the Canadian Girls in Training at Skelton Lake, Muskoka, Ont., every province was represented. Their schedule of activities, starting at 7 p.m., continuing until 11 p.m., included paddling, swimming, tennis, volleyball, baseball and picknicking, along with the camp lectures and discipline. Left to right, Patricia Gillard, Nfld.; Blanche Roper, N.S.; June Bowman, P.E.I.; Helene Manning, N.B.; Gwen Mercer, Que.; Dorothy Scott, Ont.; Beverley Christianson, Man.; Grace Schnoll, Sask.; and Audrey Allison, Alta.

Use Tomatoes For Variety

One point of controversy for years has been: "Is the tomato a fruit or vegetable?" Legal authorities finally decided it is a vegetable, although botanists still maintain it is a fruit. Fruit or vegetable, it can serve the purpose of both in nearly every course of all three meals each day.

While tomatoes are in season, use them fresh in salads or pack some in the picnic basket or lunch pail to eat out of hand. When addsealers or 20-ounce cans and 35 home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture in Ottawa, say to be sure to add them at the last minute for they tend to thin the dressing. Slice tomatoes the French way, that is vertically; they lose less juice this way.

Stuffed tomatoes are always a delicacy. Cut them in half, then scoop out the centres and fill with a tasty stuffing. Cottage cheese, well-seasoned and moistened with salad dressing, is one that complements both the flavor and the color of the tomato. Egg salad, made by combining chopped pickle, diced green pepper, diced celery and chopped hard-cooked eggs with salad dressing, is another delicious filling.

Tomato fan-tans are most intriguing. To make them, slice tomatoes vertically not quite through in slices about one-quarter of an inch thick, then insert slices of cucumbers or devilled eggs between the tomato slices. The cucumbers are particularly tempting if they have been chilled and seasoned in sour cream for about half an hour. To make an enticing cartwheel salad, remove a thin slice from the end of a peeled tomato, then hollow out the tomato with a small spoon, being careful to keep the centre ribs intact. Fill the hollows with the tangy cheese spread, then chill. Cut in thick slices and place on crisp greens.

Fresh, vine-ripened tomatoes are delicious cooked. To broil them, cut the tomatoes in slices about one inch thick, season and top with buttered crumbs, grated cheese or devilled ham and broil the slices until tender, about ten minutes. Baked stuffed tomatoes make very good eating too. Tempting fillings can be made with creamed left-over meat or poultry. In place of the heavy cream sauce, try undiluted condensed soup — mushroom soup is particularly good. Another filling that is a little unusual is made by using half an ordinary six serving recipe for Cheese Soufflé or Fluffy Omelette. The mixture puffs up and browns enticingly in the baked tomatoes, making a splendid contrast with the red of the vegetable.

Then there is that tongue twister that goes "Eat what you can and what you can't eat, you can." This suggestion really makes sense these days if you apply it to tomatoes — use as many fresh ones as possible but also make some tomato juice, tomato soup, catsup or plain canned tomatoes.

When canning tomatoes, the home economists suggest the Cold Pack Method to keep the shape as much as possible. This is it. Wash firm ripe tomatoes, then dip them, a few at a time, in boiling water for 15 to 60 seconds. Immediately give them a second dip in cold water, then remove the stem ends and peel. This blanching, as it is called, makes it easier to peel the tomatoes without tearing into their flesh. Next pack the whole tomatoes into perfect hot, clean sealers. Salt may be added for flavor, although it isn't absolutely necessary. Usually half a teaspoon is used for each "small" or what is commonly known as the "pint" sealer, and one teaspoon for each "medium" sealer. Cover with hot tomato juice leaving a headspace, and partially seal.

Tomatoes, particularly the firm fresh varieties, take longer processing than most fruits. Allow 30 minutes processing time for small minutes for medium quart sealers or 28-ounce cans. When using the pressure canner allow 10 minutes at 5-pounds pressure for all sealers or tin cans.

Incidentally, when canning tomatoes or tomato juice in tin cans, use only the plain cans.

Summer Sherbets

Light and refreshing — these are the qualifications for a summer dessert that will please most people. Often it's the simple dessert that is enjoyed most — one that requires very little fussing in preparation and yet is tempting and flavorful.

Nothing could fill the bill better than sherbet. The full fruit flavors are a natural for the summer season. The cooling texture is a refreshing climax to any meal. And the homemaker can't consider preparation a chore when a packaged sherbet mix need only be mixed with milk and water and rebeaten once during freezing. That's all there is to making sherbet this modern, easy way. Serve it with cookies and your dessert is one that's prepared with a minimum of effort and enjoyed by all.

Sherbet

1 Cup milk, 1 cup water, 1 package sherbet mix — orange, raspberry or lemon.

Measure milk and water into bowl. Add contents of package. Beat with rotary beater until dissolved — about 2 minutes. Pour mixture into refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment. When mixture is firmly frozen remove from tray to bowl. Break up into small lumps with fork or potato masher. Beat with electric or hand beater until free from lumps but still a thick mush. Return to refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment until fairly firm. If frozen too hard, place in refrigerator just below freezing compartment to soften. 4-5 Servings.

Q.W.I.'s Co-operate With Cancer Society

"On behalf of the Canadian Cancer Society may I offer our very grateful thanks to you for your co-operation in our work", reads an open letter from Mrs. Charles Spearman, supervisor of the cancer dressing services, Canadian Cancer Society, Montreal, to members of the Quebec Women's Institutes.

Support for the Cancer Society is one of the activities of the Q.W.I., and following an appeal a few years ago for donations of used cotton, this form of service has met with a generous response. In this letter Mrs. Spearman states 36 branches have sent large parcels of cotton within the past year, prepaid, in excellent condition, which their volunteers have prepared with comparative ease for the tops of bed-pad dressings.

Also commending the Q.W.I. branches for these donations, Miss M. S. Taylor, field secretary for the Cancer Society, mentions their co-operation in reporting cancer cases in rural districts and in giving publicity to the services offered by the Society.

If you do not have a salad bowl suitable for "tossing" a salad, an ordinary clean brown paper bag does the job beautifully.

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Birds For Company

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"I was an only boy growing up on rather a lonely farm", an outstanding Canadian said recently, "but I was never lonely because I got such satisfaction out of birds. My dad used to laugh and say that I had 'the birds for company', when strangers asked what I did in my leisure time. I am so thankful my parents gave me bird books and encouraged me in this interest. Before long we all became enthusiasts. There is nothing like a vital hobby to bind a family together . . and so I'm sharing my love of birds with my youngsters today."

Mothers and fathers who want to encourage their child's interest in "the feathered folk" should be on the lookout for practical suggestions for this activity. There are a number of hints which bird watchers pass on. Suggestions on techniques for not alarming the birds are important. So is happy living out-of-doors, even if one must use an insect repellant!

Choose light, adequate, not too conspicuous clothes. Take special care to wear comfortable socks and shoes. The best time of all to look for birds is in the early morning, although they can be found any time of the day. Late afternoon provides another good bird observation opportunity.

Field glasses, preferably those which have six power lenses are a great help. They are best carried on a strap around the neck so as to leave the hands free. The sun should be at the back of the bird hiker because it is difficult to see clearly a small object such as a bird against a bright background of sky, water or field.

The bird hiker soon discovers that he must walk slowly and quietly or he will frighten the birds. He need not talk in whispers; a quiet low tone is best. A knapsack for a note book, pencil and a bird guide, and a small compass is a good idea. Keep a record of your bird finds as you go along. Pack into your knapsack a chocolate bar or fruit or a little snack to eat during the rest before starting home. Give yourself plenty of time for the return journey so that your pleasure in walking will not be marred by hurry.

Bird tracks on the damp earth or sand attract a hiker's attention. Plaster of Paris casts can easily be made of these. Place a small cardboard "collar" around a footprint. Mix up the Plaster of Paris powder with water to form a thin paste. Pour into mould and leave to harden. The reverse impression can be made by greasing the hard cast with vaseline and dipping it into a second container with the soft Plaster of Paris paste in it.

A good bird guide is a necessary tool for studying birds. Look over the books on birds in the public library. Among them you will find some of the following books:

Roger Tory Peterson's "A Field Guide to Birds" is a small illustrated book which can easily be carried on a hike. The less expensive "Birds" by Zim and Gabriclson in the Golden Nature Guide Series is another good choice, especially for a public school age child. P. A. Taverner's "Birds of Canada" and "Jack Miner and the Birds" are two splendid additions to the book shelf of a bird enthusiast.

The fine thing about bird hikes is that they combine a child's natural love of the world out-of-doors with his enjoyment of activity and his eager pursuit of scientific facts. Living things and children have an affinity. The normal child is just naturally interested in the quick motions, the colors, the shape and the songs of birds. Birds are marvellous company for mankind at any age!

BOUND FOR HUDSON BAY

London — The 10,000 ton cargo steamer "Wakworth" left the Tyne recently for Churchill, to maintain its record of being the first ship to reach the Hudson Bay port after the ice break-up. The vessel is bringing home two Saskatchewan youths, Don Weese and Roy Richford, who won a trip to Britain in a "Buy British" essay competition.

In Korea one sergeant's outfit discussed the rotation plan morning, noon and night. Fed up, the sergeant called them together. "Attenshun! Left turn, left turn, left turn!" he commanded in rapid succession. "Now every last one of you has been rotated", he barked, "and I don't want to hear the word again!"

New Book Gives Canning Hints

Sugar points up the true flavor of fruits and berries, and protects their color and texture, says "So You're Canning", a booklet prepared by Sugar Information, New York. Continuing, the booklet points out that sugar acts as a preserative, helps to conserve vitamins and is an important nutrient in itself — pound for pound our cheapest source of food energy.

Some of the "De's" and "Dont's" emphasized by the booklet to ensure good canning results are:

Do can fruits within a few hours of gathering. Be sure everything you use, even the cloth for wiping off sealing surfaces, is clean. Remember that "boiling" means just that — not warm simmering. Follow canning instructions carefully.

Don't hold produce ever, but if you must, in an emergency, keep it in the refrigerator. Don't try to can non-acid vegetables or fish, meat or poultry, unless you have a pressure canner. The deadly bacilli botulinus may get you if you do. Don't undertake too much canning or preserving on any one day. Weariness, carelessness, haste and "nerves" may result in jars of wasted food. Don't use rubber rings a second time. Don't use unsound or overripe produce. Don't delay between steps in canning.

Announce Winners of Q.W.I. Scholarships

Winners of the scholarships offered annually by the Quebec Women's Institutes, in the School of Household Science, Macdonald College, have just been announced. These are Miss Lorna E. Fleming, of Dundee, who receives the Macfarlane Memorial, and Miss Gertrude E. MacEwen, of Buckingham, the Mrs. Alfred Watt Memorial, Both scholarships are valued at $50.

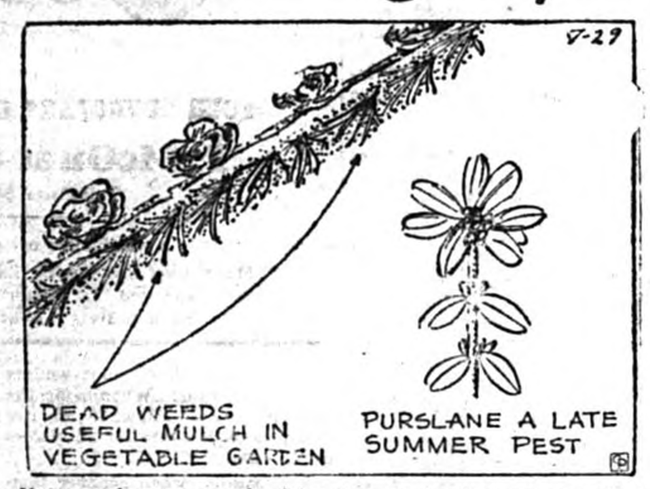

The first was established in memory of the first Q.W.I. demonstrator, Frederica Campbell Macfarlane, 1913-1919, and is awarded to a student from a rural district of this province who obtains highest standing in any of the first three years of the B.Sc. (H.Ec.) Course at Macdonald College. The second scholarship is to perpetuate the memory of the late Mrs. Alfred Watt, M.B.E., the Canadian woman who took the Women's Institute to Great Britain and later organized and became the first president of the Associated Country Women of the World. This is also given to a student of rural Quebec, and in the same course, but stresses other attributes such as personality, and qualities of leadership.

Both girls were highly recommended for these awards by the staff of that Department and the Q.W.I. executive were pleased to confirm the selection of such suitable candidates.

Weekly Garden-Graph

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Canadian

Home gardeners are only doing what comes naturally when they let up in their war on weeds during late summer. A truce with weeds at this time of year, however, can prove disastrous, especially in the vegetable garden.

Vegetables planted late in the season must grow quickly if they are to provide storage crops. They must also compete with fast-growing weeds, unless hoe and cultivator are kept going at full tilt.

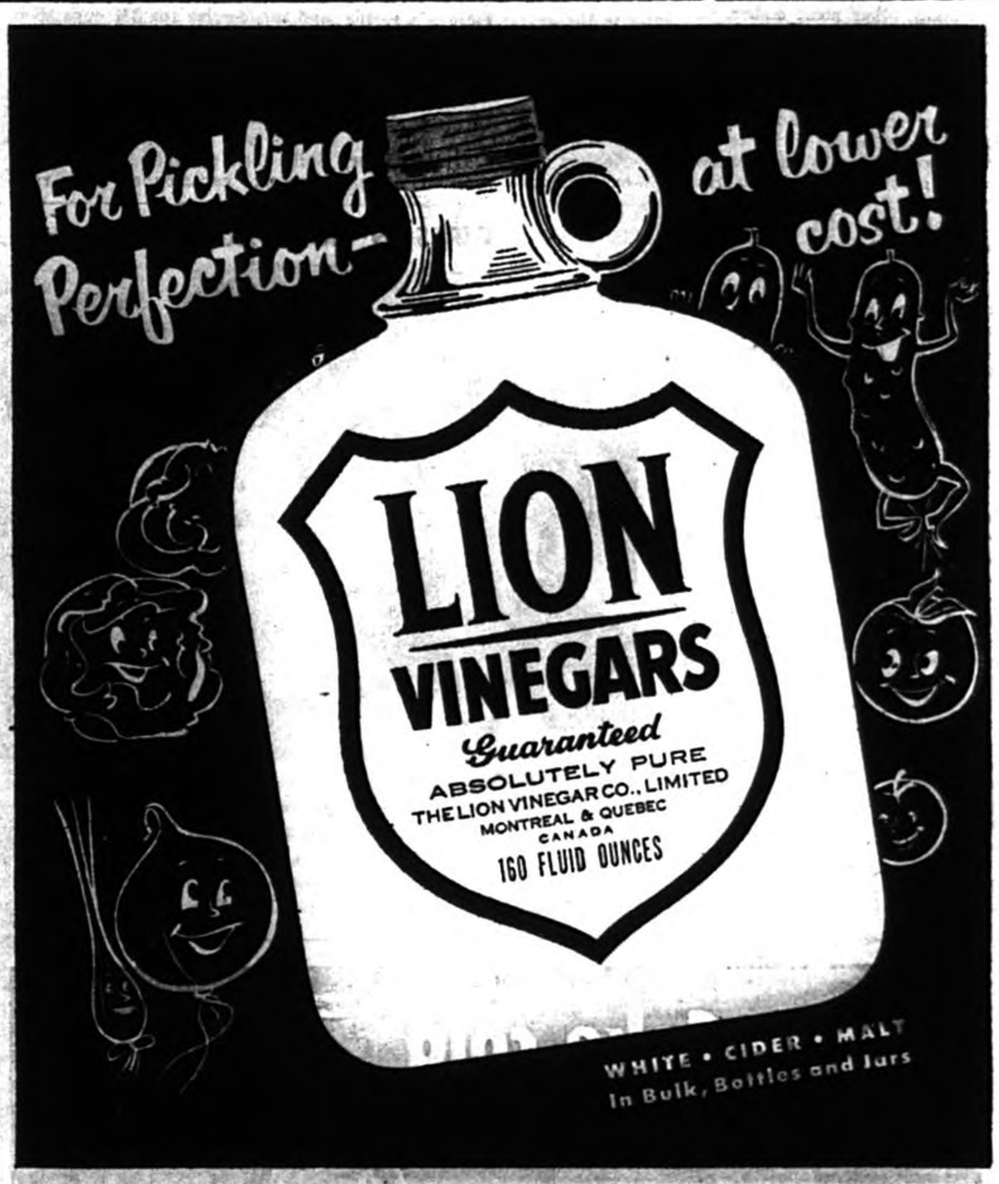

Unless controlled, weeds have the energy to win out over most crop plans in their competition for food, moisture, light and air. Unless weeds are checked with vegetables are still young the available nutrients and soil moisture may be seriously depleted before the hoped-for crop reaches maturity.

Aside from competing for food and moisture in the vegetable garden, weeds often act as hosts for insects and diseases which attack related crop plants.

Weeds, however, can be made to serve a useful purpose. After they have been hoed out, or pulled out, of the vegetable rows, leave them exposed on the soil surface between the rows, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Quickly killed by sun and air, they can be left to serve as a mulch. Later, when worked into the soil the weeds will add organic matter to it.

Weeds which re-root easily should be burned or added to the compost heap. Purslane, illustrated, is one which unless grubbed out can become a bothersome pest in late summer. It appears with the advent of hot, mid-summer weather. It develops rapidly and seeds quickly to bring more similar pests into the Garden. Learn to know it by its appearance and then keep after it.

Tom Gard's Note Book

A few days ago I came across what might be called the Wonder House. This had been erected by an enterprising young man who carefully collected slats from packing boxes, cutting them to uniform lengths and storing away for future use. In course of time, he drew the plans for a humble cottage, then built it in sections and assembled the various units. The roof was made of used lumber from the local wreckers. The house was finally covered with insulated siding, and the roof covered with imitation shingles. His objective is to take it down and again assemble it as a summer cottage. I could not help but exclaim "more power to his elbow".

DRAIN BOARDS ARE HANDY

Entering one of the small homes constructed during the war years, I came across another item of interest. Space was at a premium, and many items had been left out of the general plan, including a drain board. The good lady of the house had complained on many occasions, especially when looking for a place to put clothing when run through the ringer. The matter was finally settled to her satisfaction by her husband. Collecting discarded pieces of boxes he built a board, supporting it against the wall with an upright piece of one-inch pine. A cleat against the wall gave added support. His intention is to rebuild with B.C. Fir Plywood. Masonite is also excellent for such purposes. Quarter inch moulding finished off the edges to prevent water leaking to the floor.

UTILITY TABLE

When visiting towns where sawmills are located it is always good policy to watch out for the local craftsman. One I met last summer was a worker from the shipyard. He had used pieces of 2" x 6" pine planks to make an exceptionally good coffee or utility table. Sanding down the edges gave good close joints on the top, and when painted these were hardly discernable. The legs and supports were constructed of the same material. I was more than interested to find two other articles made by the same hands, a table lamp of 2" x 4" scantling, and a flower pot which turned out to be a grapefruit juice tin, nicely painted to match the drapes and carpet.

OUTDOOR TABLES

When we think of outdoor tables we naturally have to think of rain and inclement weather. I was impressed by a touch of hospitality over the border when, passing a fine garden, I noticed a sign on the gate: "Enter here all those who love a little beauty" — and so I entered. In a shady nook I noticed a picnic table, and later learned it was made by the local plumber as a gift to a local service club. This man had constructed most of the table by using old water piping, joints and caps which had been discarded. It was painted in pearl gray and could easily grace garden, park or roadside. Seats and top were made of planks, but two by fours could be used instead. Asking if it might be copied the builder replied "Well copying is the sincerest type of flattery". So, here it is for you.

Garden Party Aug. 23 At Carillon Museum

The annual garden party of the Argenteuil Historical Society has been arranged for Saturday, August 23, from 3 to 5.30 at the Carillon Museum. During the past year many new and worthwhile exhibits have been added to the museum display, and the occasion should afford another of those sociable and interesting gatherings enjoyed by friends at this historic spot. Members of the Society and all interested are cordially invited to attend. Tea will be served at a nominal cost, and there will be appropriate items of entertainment. -1x

Wedding at Huberdeau, Reception at Barkmere

Labrosse - Leboeuf

At Huberdeau Church on Saturday, August 9, the marriage took place of Miss Marielle Labrosse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Labrosse, and Pierre Paul Leboeuf, son of Mrs. Aurel Leboeuf, of Valleyfield, Que.

The father of the bride acted as her witness, while Gerard Leboeuf acted as witness for the groom. The bride wore a pale blue figured nylon dress with a pale blue veil to match, and carried a bridal bouquet of small red rosebuds and white mums.

After the wedding ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents at Barkmere, Que., after which the happy couple left for a wedding trip to Quebec City and other points. On their return they will reside in Ahuntsic, Que.

Double-Ring Ceremony At Brownsburg Church

Brayne - Vowles

The marriage of Marjorie Winnifred, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Vowles, of Brownsburg, to Mr. John Robert Brayne, elder son of Mrs. C. H. Brayne and the late Mr. Brayne, of Ste. Anne de Bellevue, was solemnized in a double-ring ceremony at the Brownsburg Presbyterian Church at three o'clock Saturday afternoon, amidst a setting of pink and yellow gladioli. The Rev. Dr. W. H. Reid officiated, while Mr. Leonard Young was at the organ and Mr. Howard Burman sang, "The Lord's Prayer", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white floor-length gown with brocaded satin bodice, matching bolero and net skirt, white net mittens and Juliet cap with fingertip veil, and carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty gladioli with baby's breath.

The matron of honor, Mrs. K. C. Ball, sister of the bride, wore a heavenly blue floor-length gown with fitted bodice of embroidered net and net skirt with matching stole, mittens and headdress, and carried a cascade bouquet of golden gladioli and white satin ribbon. The bridesmaids, Miss Elaine Meredith and Miss Clarice Mason, were dressed alike in heavenly blue floor-length gowns, matching headdress and mittens, and carried bouquets of pink gladioli.

Mr. Edward Pollock acted as best man, while the ushers were Mr. William Brayne, brother of the groom, and Mr. Allister Barclay, all of Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

Mrs. Vowles, the bride's mother, wore a two-piece street-length dress of pale blue Faconne crepe, with navy blue accessories and a corsage of pink sweet peas. Mrs. Brayne, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in a street-length dress of navy nylon Faconne, with white accessories and a corsage of pink gladioli.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church hall, where the tables were decorated with mixed sweet peas and gladioli. During the reception Mr. H. Burman sang "Because", accompanied by the organist, Mr. Leonard Young, of New York, who also played several piano solos. For the wedding trip to the Northeastern States, the bride wore for travelling a two-piece blue-gray nylon suit, with navy and white accessories and a corsage of white sweet peas. . . On their return, Mr. and Mrs. John Robert Brayne will reside at Sillery, Quebec City.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. Morkill and Miss Norma Farewell, of Sherbrooke; the Misses N. and D. Brayne and Mrs. Clarke, of Ste. Anne de Bellevue; Mr. and Mrs. A. Campbell and Miss June Campbell, of Perth; Mr. and Mrs. D. Staniforth, Mr. and Mrs. H. Burman and Mrs. G. Johanson, of St. Eustache; Mr. and Mrs. Meredith and Miss Elaine Meredith, of Aylmer, Que.; and Miss Doris King, of Toronto.

The bride is a graduate of the Macdonald School for Teachers. The bridegroom, graduated from McGill University in Civil Engineering in the class of '50.

The Toronto Coliseum, home of the annual Royal Winter Fair, covers 26 acres.

This special edition contains the unaltered text and has in addition a brief but valuable concordance and other study helps. It has a binding of maroon color, and measures approximately 7" x 5" x 1 1/2". Sent postpaid, on a contribution of $1.00 per copy.

2nd Timothy, 3: 16-17 — All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness. That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works.

Jehovah keeps his secrets until his due time to reveal them. Then he makes his purposes known. He first makes known his purposes to those who fear to displease him and who therefore love him and serve him faithfully and unselfishly. (Ps. 25: 14). Those who seek knowledge and understanding in God's appointed way will find it. Trusting in the shed blood of Jesus Christ as the price of man's redemption, the one who seeks knowledge will make an agreement to do the will of God. That means consecration. The man thus entering into a covenant with God and then doing his best to perform his part of that covenant or agreement will get understanding. When God begets or brings forth one in Christ as his son he gives that one his spirit. To such are the words of the prophet addressed: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths." — Prov. 3: 5., 6.

The knowledge of the Lord shall cover the Earth as the waters cover the sea. — Isaiah 11: 9.

And men may know that Thou whose name alone is Jehovah, art the most high over all the Earth. — Psalms 83: 18.

Flanagan-Palmer Nuptials At Grace Church, Arundel

At Grace Church, Arundel, the marriage was solemnized on Saturday afternoon, August 2, of Shirley Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max B. Palmer, of Kingston, Jamaica, and Mr. Peter Flanagan, son of Dr. J. Cyril Flanagan and of the late Mrs. Flanagan, of Westmount. The Rev. Paul Busing officiated, and Miss Lorna Haines played the wedding music. White and yellow summer flowers were used to decorate.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length frock of white nylon marquisette with a fitted bodice and a bouffant skirt. Her veil of nylon net, reaching to the hem of her skirt, was held by a Juliet cap of marquisette and she carried pink roses.

Miss Noreen Moncur, of Almonte, Ont., as maid of honor, and Miss Patricia Flanagan, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Mary-Lou Graham, as bridesmaids, wore redingotes of white organdy over glazed sateen, the maid of honor in green and the bridesmaids in mauve.

Little Miss Diana Orr, as flowergirl, wore a floor-length frock of white organdy over green. All wore bandeaux of white, yellow and mauve carnations in their hair and carried bouquets of the same flowers.

Mr. David Flanagan acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Bruce Lloyd, Mr. William Morrison, Mr. William Ritchie and Mr. Graham Steele.

Mrs. Palmer, the bride's mother, in a gown of silver grey taffeta, wore a matching feathered hat and a corsage bouquet of gardenias.

The reception, followed by a dance in the evening, was held at the summer cottage of the bridegroom's father, at Bevan's Lake. Later Mr. and Mrs. Flanagan left on a motor trip, the bride travelling in a charcoal grey worsted suit with navy blue accessories. They will reside at Coolgreany Farm, Arundel, on their return.

The bride received her B.Sc. in Home Economics and the bridegroom his B.Sc. in Agriculture from Macdonald College.

Old English Sport Revived in U.S.A.

By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The coaching marathon — an ancient British sporting tradition involving top-hatted gentlemen, prancing horses and ancient coaches — has been revived in North America.

The old sport was staged recently at the annual horse show and country fair at Devon, Pa., after an absence of 10 years. A show spokesman called the event the only coaching marathon on the continent.

Eight coaches, each drawn by four horses or ponies, took part in the colorful competition.

The high-stepping horses haul their coaches and drivers and assorted other riders over an 8½-mile course. But it's not a race. The "turnouts" (carriage and horses) are judged on intangibles, such as how they look, how they handle, their condition and so on.

The Devon event attracted entries from various parts of the United States and Canadian representatives from Quebec although a prize ribbon was the only award for the winner. "Turnouts" often represent thousands of dollars and hours of preparation — but the owners are in it for more blue ribbons.

"It's the thrill in having a comeback of a fine sport", one competitor remarked.

In the language of the coaching world, the driver is a "whip", who sits on the "box" or seat, atop the coach and handles the reins.

At the rear of the coach sits the guard who toots a long horn, known as the "yard of tin", although it's 42 inches long. He sounds coaching calls such as "get ready" and "clear the road".

Completing the official crew is the horse show steward who goes along to see that all the regulations are observed.

Husband-Wife Golf Tourney

A husband-and-wife tournament was the feature event for club members at the golf course last Friday — Mr. and Mrs. Philippe Valois winning with a combined low gross of 195, with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Watson taking the low net with a combined 158.

On Sunday next, the members' two-ball mixed tournament will be played, an 18-hole event, followed by a corn-roast on the terrace for participants in the game.

A big event this Friday, August 15, is the two-ball mixed Quebec championship to be staged at Lachute. This event is arranged annually by the Province of Quebec Golf Association.

Gala Aquatics at Ayers Swimming Pool For Sunday Afternoon

For the entertainment of members and invited guests, an "aquacade" event is billed for next Sunday afternoon at the Ayers swimming pool, Lachute Mills. The program will include demonstrations of rhythmic swimming and of fancy diving, with other swimming stunts and attractions. In contrast to similar events in former years, most of the performers will be from Lachute and district, with very few outsiders participating.

Boxing Event Monday Under Legion Auspices At Hawkesbury

Hawkesbury — The Canadian Legion takes the initiative to provide top-rated boxing here for the first time in over 20 years, matching members of the Beaver Boxing Club and the Ottawa Boys' Club against members of the Valleyfield Boxing Club. . . . Next Monday evening, August 18, at 8.30 sharp, the Hawkesbury Legion through its sports committee will present a full evening's boxing program.

Some 20 years ago boxing was a favorite sport locally, and it was not unusual to have prominent boxers in the local ring. Enthusiasts are assured of the best again, for with Irish Jimmy Berry, Ottawa Valley Champion from the Beaver Boxing Club of Ottawa, clashing with Noel Malboeuf of the Valleyfield Boxing Club, five rounds of action galore is assured.

In the semi-final, 140-lb. Fernand Joannette, Valleyfield, meets Sammy McKnight, Ottawa, and this battle will have spectators on their toes for the full four rounds.

The pre-lims are just as good. There are five separate bouts, and they bring together at 140 lbs. for three rounds — Earl Wintle, Ottawa Boys' Club, and Johnie Lauzon, Rigaud; at 160 lbs. for three rounds, George Nuthers, Ottawa Boys' Club, vs. Laurier Vinet, of Valleyfield; also at 160 lbs. and for three rounds, Ray Proulx, Ottawa Beaver Boxing Club, vs. Jean Gauthier, Valleyfield; next at 140 lbs. for three rounds, Freddie Gravel, Beaver Boxing Club, and Guy Arsenault, Valleyfield. In the opening of hostilities for the evening at 145 lbs. and for three rounds, Hal Foucher, Beaver Boxing Club, will touch gloves with Pit Morrisseau of Valleyfield.

The refereeing for the evening will be capably handled by Eddie Carrol, of Ottawa, himself a well known boxer of a few years ago, assisted by Johnny Fisher, of Hawkesbury, who promoted boxing here in past years.

Rare Luxury in Torrid Weather: The Rainy Day for Relaxation

"SUNNYACRES SKETCHES"
By Margaret Cook

A nice, rainy, quiet Sunday — there is something very relaxing and soothing about a rainy day after a succession of bright, garish ones. It is unlikely that guests will come, the fire is comforting, mystery stories and other worthier literature await, and, best of all — it is impossible to pick berries.

This has been a tremendous year for berries and allied fruit; the blueberry bushes are a thing of fecund beauty, the large, pink, unripe berries snuggling against their frosted-blue sisters, with yet a few yellowy-green knobs that will be ripe, if the season is kind. As for currants, we are sick of the sight of them. The bushes here are large and established and, at first glance, look like a mound of innocent green; but let the unwary observer but lift a branch and there are thousands upon thousands of ruby globes strung all along the underside of the branch. Then, if said observer is a good housewife, conscience begins to whisper, "It will be a long, hard winter and each jar of jam or jelly you buy, will be at least thirty cents." Whereupon, we sadly don sun-hat, get a pail and settle down to the preliminary of jelly-making. At the moment of writing, three jelly-bags are flapping on the line, letting the rain do what it can for them. There should be a respite now till the blackberries ripen, and fortunately, the apple crop this year is small. Of course, one could ignore all this lavishness, but it is not in our nature, or, perhaps it is habit, waste being anathema to any person born in the Eastern Townships.

Waste in this country is appalling; wood is cut and the slash is left where it falls. Not only is this waste of good kindling, but it is also a fire hazard, not to speak of the untidy aspect it gives the woods. The native always avers that it is left to fertilize the land; this, obviously, is just an excuse, since a conservative estimate places the fertilizing potentialities as twenty-five years in the future. Actually, the wood-cutter is both lazy and uhinformed. Forestry should be a compulsory course in all rural schools, or, rather, in all schools serving a rural district. Still on the subject of waste, there must be tons of iron waste in this district. The daughter of the house, aged eleven, has sold $6 worth in the last three weeks and the future is bounded only by her strength and ambition.

Just now, her ambition is to make a game of Canfield come out. Such deterioration at an early age must distress some readers, but the writer is in no position to criticize, having learned to count by means of cards. One of our earliest recollections is of playing Old Maid with our father. From there, we advanced to Five Hundred (or was it FOUR Hundred?) and thence to Bridge. The last-named phase was so prolonged that now we can scarcely bear to look at cards; but they do teach quickness of perception and concentration, both valuable assets.

The rain has worsened since we began, and now is blowing in sheets from the east; the tiger-lilies are nodding their heads and dancing gracefully on their seven ballet shoes. A pretty flower, the tiger-lily; something Oriental about it. The phlox, now tossing its white and mauve tufts helplessly, is pure English, giving off a spicy smell in the late afternoon and evening, but it does not like the rain, which blackens or destroys its blossoms. The aconite, or monk's hood, bears the rain better, because of its shape; and the bergamot and fox-glove are so nearly gone that the rain only completes their dissolution.

This is the day that our young friend, Alan, will resort to his own domain, called Hilltop Pighouse. The name, you will agree, is unusual, and perhaps deserves explanation. Alan's father owns six acres on top of one of our lesser mountains, and this area boasts a house, a henhouse, a barn, an icehouse and a pighouse, as opposed to the usual pig-pen. Now the henhouse and the pighouse are so placed that the view is magnificent, Mount Royal, St. Joseph's Oratory and the U. of M. buildings are plainly discernible on a clear day; so, the owner has planned that as his elder son and his daughter marry, they shall have the pighouse and henhouse respectively — both appropriately remodelled, of course. This appealed to Alan, aged eight, who has pre-empted the pighouse in the meantime, and has happily named it Hilltop Pighouse. The thought of brother, tall, handsome and an embryo mining-engineer, bringing his palpitating bride to a residence called Hilltop Pighouse, has afforded friends and acquaintances many delightful moments, augmented by a Spoonerism by the writer, who referred to the place as Pigtop Hillhouse.

We thought of Hilltop Pighouse the other morning when, at four o'clock, we arose to let out Peter, the cat, and stood for many minutes lost in the beauty of the scene. At that hour, brilliant moonlight flooded the lawn, upon which lay blue shadows of the maple and fir trees; the phlox were distinguishable the one from the other, in that clear light; the two garden chairs stood mutely empty, waiting for the sun; the rocks we are piling preparatory to a fireplace, were grey and cold-looking; the young fir trees over the hill were etchings at the edge. It was ethereal; it was awe-inspiring. Then, suddenly, true to life, ecstacy became comedy in the shape of an erect, pointed shadow which moved mysteriously along the lawn at my feet. Peter was promenading on the roof, but at such an angle that only the tail cast a shadow.

The maple trees are twisting and turning their leaves inside out, a sure sign (my Scotch stepmother used to say) that the rain will continue for some time. She was stocked with quaint superstitions: One must not begin a task on a Friday. The last Friday of a month controls the weather of the next month. Salt must not be spilled. Thirteen must not sit at a table. Misfortunes come in threes. Umbrellas are to be kept furled in a house. A black cat is lucky (the reverse is true, according to others). A bride must not be seen by her groom on the day of the wedding, prior to the ceremony. — All this and more, were part of my infant and childhood instruction, and to that teaching I feel I owe my complete freedom from superstition, thus refuting all contemporary ideas regarding the instruction of the young and its influence on the adult. . . Anyway, it still rains, and the head of the house says he is hungry; so, being a writer only by accident, we revert to our more customary vocation.

Bible Society Service

Service at the United Church on Sunday evening was under auspices of the British and Foreign Bible Society, and the congregations of the Anglican and United churches attended. Mr. Stern gave the call to worship and the reading from the scriptures, followed by the second reading delivered by the Rev. P. Busing. During the service a quartet was sung, "The Ninety and Nine". The Rev. Mr. Rayner gave a brief address.

At the close of the regular service, the congregation adjourned to the church hall, where a splendid film was shown depicting the work of the Bible Society, with a commentary by the Rev. Mr. Rayner.

Quebec Pros to Meet Here in Lions' C.P.G.A. Annual Tourney

At Lachute Golf Club This Week-end

Bill Kerr Defends Title in $4,000 Event; Automobile and Lions Club Awards on Sunday Accentuate Public Interest in Big Meet

All the top-notch pros in Quebec will be competing in the Lions' C.P.G.A. 7th annual golf tournament at the Lachute Golf and Country Club this Saturday and Sunday, August 23 and 24. The Lions and C.P.G.A. officials have completed all arrangements and over $4,000 in prize money and Lions trophies will be awaiting the winners. The tournament will also be the deciding match in the C.P.G.A. of Quebec Medal Play Championship.

Jules Huot, Stan Horne, Jack Archer, Diamond Gauthier, Sid Fry, Rudolph Huot, Red Mackenzie, Buddy Clark and many other well-known pros will be competing against last year's winner, Bill Kerr, in 54 holes of medal play, 36 of which will be played on the Saturday and the remaining 18 holes on Sunday.

The Pros' Golf Clinic, which is rapidly gaining in favor, will be staged on both days of the tournament.

The Lions Clubs of the district have lined up a host of worthwhile prizes, and at the end of the final day's play, a 1952 automobile will be drawn for. . .

The people of Lachute district are now well acquainted with this venture — the Chevrolet car having been on display at the 1952 Spring Fair. County residents are also well aware of the charity works for which Lachute Lions Club is noted — and for which the proceeds of this big undertaking will be allotted partly to the local club. Tickets are still on sale by Lions Club members and other canvassers — the cover of each book giving admission to the golf tournament on either day; those in attendance will also be eligible for a number of entry prizes.

Brownsb'g Picnic 'Rained Out'—Will Be Held Saturday

Rain intervened last Saturday to frustrate all well-laid plans for the Annual Brownsburg Picnic, arranged by the Brownsburg Social and Athletic Club — all, that is, except the evening amusements in the Community Rink and the Legion Hall, which were held as announced, and enjoyed by a considerable crowd.

The main program of the day, however — which included trap and skeet shooting, the races, pony rides and all the usual outdoor attractions — will be held this coming Saturday, starting at 9 o'clock with the rifle competitions. Arrangements have been made for Tom Auburn, the noted musician, to be present, and the softball game with Cornwall will also be held as scheduled. The change of date is further advertised on page 4 of this issue.

Successful Event In Fifth Annual Gladiolus Show

The fifth annual Gladiolus Show of Hawkesbury and district was held in Lachute Auditorium on Tuesday. Competition was keen among the many exhibitors. An added feature this year was an exhibit of cut garden flowers; this class attracted high interest among lady residents.

Advanced Amateur Class

Mr. T. Iddon 1st, Mr. L. Hammond 2nd, Mr. H. Cordeau 3rd, Mr. G. Todd 4th, Mr. R. Sherman 5th, Mr. L. Wilson 6th.

Amateur

Mr. K. Rutherford 1st, Mr. R. McFaul 2nd.

In the Garden Flowers class, Mrs. F. A. Brennian, of Lachute, was the winner.

Special awards went to Mr. T. Iddon (silver trophy); and Mr. K. Rutherford, Amateur Sweepstake.

Best Spike in the show was exhibited by Mr. H. Cordeau, who also won in the Three-Spike class and the Longest Flower Head.

Mr. K. Rutherford won the award for the largest florette, and many other awards went to exhibitors for baskets, vases and other floral arrangements.

The officers and directors wish to thank all who helped to make this event a success, and are also grateful to the public for their support.

Cadet Company To Resume Weekly Training

The cadets of "D" Company, Highland Cadet Battalion, will resume regular weekly training in the basement of the Lachute Auditorium next Monday evening, at 8 o'clock.

On Saturday, August 23, 13 cadets under the command of 2/Lieut. Jean Bevillard, of Brownsburg, will return from summer camp at Valcartier, where they have been undergoing intensive training for the past seven weeks, and it is felt that their arrival will stimulate the training program here in Lachute. 2/Lieut. Bevillard, who was commissioned after completion of the Officers Training Course at Valcartier, will take up duties as second in command of the local unit, and will be replaced as Company Sergeant-Major by Sgt. B. Nymark. Reports from Valcartier indicate that the boys there have passed an interesting and enjoyable summer while on course, and the only casualty reported is Cpl. Ralph Zimmer, of Brownsburg, who fractured his right leg a couple of weeks ago. It is expected that several of the cadets from camp will receive promotions upon their return, and it is hoped that there will be a fairly substantial number of recruits this fall in order to build up the strength of the unit. There are openings particularly for a number of older boys, 18 and 19 years of age, who would be interested in serving with the cadets for a short time before transferring to the Royal Canadian Artillery of the Reserve Army. All recruits must be between the ages of 15 and 19, at least 5'4" tall, and in good physical condition.

Training parades will be held in the basement of the Lachute Auditorium every Monday evening at 8, and more information may be had there or from Lieut. G. Tabrett or 2/Lieut. Jean Bevillard.

Expects 700,000 School Enrolments in Quebec

Quebec Protestant and Catholic schools will open officially September 2. Omer Jules Desaulniers, Superintendent of Public Education, said that 700,000 children are expected to register. Opening date will vary for special reasons in some localities, despite the official date.

Constructed in 1908, a gift of the Anglicans of Great Britain, St. Bridget's Church at Baljennie, Sask., was struck by lightning and destroyed recently.

Dieppe

Today all that remains is a deserted beach, with a wrecked breakwater, weed-grown promenades, tumbled-down houses, decay and desolation—abounding, deserted and lonesome. That is Dieppe.

Ten years ago five thousand of Canada's fairest manhood disembarked on its murderous strand; 3,300 failed to come back, and just a few short of one thousand rest in peace in its well-kept graves.

Before the war its beaches were crowded by gay throngs of merry-makers. Its casino was a magnet for the tourist and playboy alike. Gay laughter echoed from its bright colored attractions, and life was merrily enjoyed.

But on that grey dawn of August 19, 1942, Death stalked its streets, its beaches and its slopes. Young lives were offered in a glorious failure.

History has not yet recorded its worth. Did its cost "pay a handsome dividend", or did the loss of the element of surprise, when the party ran into a convoy of Germans in the channel, make it a failure? Who can tell.

On this beach officers and men of the Royal Regiment of Canada died at dawn, August 19, 1942, striving to reach the heights beyond. . . You who are alive, on this beach, remember that these men died far away from home, that others, here and everywhere, might enjoy life in God's mercy.

Thousands Attend Demonstration at Catholic Shrine

Thousands of Catholics, from parishes in this diocese and elsewhere, attended the Blessed Assumption ceremonies and pontifical mass at Notre Dame de Lourdes shrine on the Brownsburg Road last Sunday, engaging in collective prayer and listening to special messages of inspiration.

Beautiful mass selections were sung collectively in the morning session, at which the Rev. Father Hilaire Tardif, o.f.m., preached an eloquent sermon narrating the dogma of the Assumption.

The Rosary was recited in the early afternoon by the Rev. Father Pascal, o.f.m., and the faithful followed the "road to the cross", assembling then in an immense crowd upon the mountainside overlooked by 14 wooden crosses, where the Rev. Father Clementien Piette dramatically retold the drama of Calvary.

A memorable scene was enacted in the evening, with a torchlight procession led by L'Abbé V. Bouchard, at his 40th anniversary as parish priest of Brownsburg. The Rev. Father Laurent Pelletier, o.f.m., Superior of the shrine, concluded the exercises with a devout plea for the prayers of the parishioners under charge of His Excellency Mgr. E. Frenette, and with a tribute of gratitude to the late departed Mrs. W. H. Ayers, founder of this beautiful Notre Dame de Lourdes shrine.

The Franciscan monks, guardians of the shrine, have spared no effort to beautify this sanctuary, making it a spot well fitted to such reverent occasions as that witnessed here last Sunday.

In the ten years 1940-49 the pulp and paper industry used one-fifth of the total forest depletion in Canada and it is estimated the rate of regrowth at least equalled this depletion.

Accident Verdict In Two Deaths at Marelan Works

Verdict of accidental death was returned in the case of Lionel Allard, 49, and Gaetan Gagné, 15, who lost their lives last Thursday morning when crushed beneath a falling hoist at the Foundation Company project in Marelan.

Inquest was held Monday at the Desforges Funeral Parlor in Grenville, under Dr. Jules Lafleur, district coroner. It was indicated by the evidence that the victims, both willing workers, had been too venturesome where precaution was required. The jury accordingly recommended that a safety engineer be permanently stationed on the job, and that workers be more closely supervised, to avert similar tragedies in future. As regards heavy hoists and overhead machinery engaged in the Marelan construction, the jury advised that wood timbers be placed under them when not in motion, to prevent possibility of this heavy equipment falling by accident.

Testimony showed that the younger victim, Gaetan Gagné, of Brownsburg, was only 15, but had overstated his age in applying for the job. Gagné was a student at the Ottawa University, and was working during the vacation to earn money for his schooling. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Josephat Gagné, Brownsburg.

The older victim, Lionel Allard, of Grece's Point, was married and the father of six children. He had worked for over a year with the Foundation Company at Marelan.

Highway Death At St. Adolphe

At St. Adolphe d'Howard last Saturday night around 11 o'clock, 27-year-old Grace Horrocks, of Notre Dame de Grace, was struck by a car allegedly zigzagging on the highway, and died of injuries while being taken to the Providence Hospital at Ste. Agathe.

A companion, Jim Clenton, 23, was also taken to Ste. Agathe and later transferred to the Royal Victoria Hospital, suffering from a fractured skull.

According to Sgt. Det. Gaston Archambault, who investigated, the victims were one of two couples walking along beside the highway. The car approached them from the opposite direction and suddenly lurched across the road. The other couple were uninjured.

Following the accident, it is reported that the car, in charge of N. Hodge, took to the ditch, regaining the road 50 feet farther on. Leslie Hodgson, of Montreal, 20, a passenger in the car, suffered a broken shoulder, and was taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital. A third occupant, Robt. Little, 20, of Outremont, was unhurt.

Killed by Train on St. Eustache Bridge

William Rochon, 64, of St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac, was fatally injured Tuesday evening when struck by a train while walking across the railway bridge at St. Eustache.

Provincial Police reported that the man was hit by a Montreal-bound locomotive. He was hurled into the swiftly-flowing Mille Iles river. The body was not recovered.

Strides in Developing Province's Resources

Rotary Speaker Proves Ardent Salesman For Quebec; Views Great Potentialities

The regular meeting of the Rotary Club was held in Brownsburg last Thursday, with President Mac E. Walker in the chair. Stewart Russell, brother of Rotarian Keith Russell, was the only guest of the evening. A sing-song was led by King Amos, with Wesley Freeland at the piano.

Beauharnois, Que., has recently inaugurated a Rotary Club, and Brownsburg was asked to send as many representatives as possible to attend the charter night on August 18. Some of the local members reported having attended meetings elsewhere — in Halifax, N.S., in Amherst, N.S., and in Montreal.

Past-president John Chalmers, as convener of the catering committee, outlined plans for catering to the C-I-L picnic, and asked for volunteers to assist at the stands to be erected on the grounds.

Wesley Freeland reported regarding road signs, and the comparatively high cost of obtaining and placing these signs on all entrances to Lachute and Brownsburg.

An auction, to have been held in conjunction with the Carnival and postponed at that time, was discussed, and it was decided to hold this furniture auction in September.

Secretary Sid Stilwell reported final arrangements regarding three meetings to be held away from home — with the St. Laurent Club, at Dagwood's Restaurant in September, and at Hudson, later in August.

"Quebec—the Unknown Province"

Dave Schwartz ably introduced the speaker of the evening, Rotarian Linton W. Armstrong. His topic was "The Province of Quebec", or "The Unknown Province". The speaker started out by showing how Texans boast about their state, which is only a small expanse of land compared with Quebec Province. He stated that with our inborn conservatism we fail to stress enough the resources at our disposal. He believes that the very size of our country is to our disadvantage. We should be aware of what we have and take advantage of it to the full extent. We should advertise our natural wealth and publicize our vastness and greatness. He went on to show that the State of Texas was only as large as one of our counties, and besides, we could "throw in a few more states to keep it company". The speaker stated he was rather tired of the worn-out inferences that our province was "backward". These aspersions always seemed to come from the West, particularly our sister province, Ontario. Quebec, he said, is much larger than Ontario; or again, if Saskatchewan and Alberta were put in our land space, we would still have room left over for Newfoundland. He encouraged all Quebecers to "speak up for our province", and to reply to people who referred to our barren areas — that these same areas have over 100-million square miles of forest, and we produce 50% of all the pulp and paper produced in Canada. Our revenue from newsprint alone is in excess of $700-million a year, from electric power $100-million, and over $400-million from mining (this is exclusive of new developments). In our province we have an annual production exceeding $6-billion, and over half of that comes from the so-called "wasteland".

In the last ten years, Quebec Province has developed more than any other in the Dominion — "bar none". The value of every industry has at least doubled in the past decade. For example, we produce over 50% of all the hydro-electric power produced in the whole country. We have a river, the Hamilton River in Quebec Labrador, whose Grand Falls are twice

Orange Assoc'n Visited by Prov'l Grand Master

Argenteuil County Loyal Orange Association held a special meeting in the L.O.B.A. Hall at Lachute last Saturday evening, with Stanley Holt, County Master, in the chair.

Members from nine lodges were in attendance, the occasion being the annual visitation of the Provincial Grand Master, Walter E. Atkins, and other Grand Lodge officers.

Interesting and inspiring addresses were given, and it was reported that a History of the Orange Association is in process of compilation; members were urged to forward their names for copies, through their lodge secretaries. The Rosemere Home for needy children is progressing, and the public are giving good support.

Aquacade Held at Recreation Centre Swimming Pool

Many invited guests, including civic and religious authorities and prominent citizens, joined the crowd to witness the annual aquatic fete at Ayers swimming pool last Sunday afternoon. There was a large gathering, and the event proved interesting to all in attendance.

Roger Regimbal, director of personnel at Ayers Ltd., was master of ceremonies. Several Red Cross water safety certificates were presented during the proceedings.

Most of the performers this year were members of the Recreational Centre, with only a few outside experts aiding in the demonstrations. Among these were Maurice Bricault, provincial head of the Red Cross water safety enterprise, and Jean Malchelosse, examiner. Rejean Lacoursière, of style swimming champ, and Bernard Valois, provincial 3-metre diving champion, displayed their wares. Lucien Labonté, local instructor, gave life-saving demonstrations, and his star swimmers performed rhythmic exercises in the sparkling pool. Ayers Band provided the musical accompaniments.

Prizes were awarded for outstanding merit in swimming, athletics and physical culture.

Technical Talk and Social Meet by Radiologist Group

A group of 13 radiologists from centres in southern Quebec gathered here last Saturday in one of their regular summer forums, meeting during the afternoon at the clinic of Dr. A. Pager and Dr. M. Papineau on Main Street. X-ray subjects and cases were studied under the chairmanship of Prof. A. Jutras, chief radiologist of the Hotel Dieu, Montreal. In the evening, the medicos with their wives and lady guests enjoyed luncheon and a social interlude at Lachute Golf and Country Club.

Among the group were members of the medical profession from Montreal, Sherbrooke, Three Rivers, Drummondville, Valleyfield and Hull, Que.

Successful Bazaar at Gibb Hall, Lakefield

Lakefield — In the Gibb Hall last Saturday, a bazaar was held under auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of Holy Trinity Church. Despite rainy weather the event proved a success from both social and financial viewpoints. Substantial amounts were derived from the various tables and also from the ice cream, soft drinks, and fish pond, which drew enthusiastic patronage from the young fry until the "sold out" sign was posted up.

Institute Membership Is Two-Way Traffic

"When everyone sweeps their own doorstep, the street is clean", said Lady Brunner, Chairman of the National Federation of Women's Institutes, in England, speaking at the annual general meeting held recently in London. She went on to say, "But however clean our own doorsteps, we shall lead lonely lives if we never step over them to help a neighbor clean hers. Our Institute membership is a two-way traffic. It brings us out from our homes, but it should send us back with enhanced skill in the crafts and duties that are needed to make a home, and with a kindlier and more understanding approach to our neighbors, with minds open to new ideas and a wider knowledge of our heritage, and a deeper sense of responsibility as citizens."

That could be said of the W.I. anywhere in the world and members of the Quebec Women's Institutes, who are making a study of the British Isles preparatory to the coming ACWW Conference, will be interested in other items from that report, which paralleled so closely topics discussed at their own annual meeting. Branches asked to keep teachers in country districts by friendliness and trying to influence those in training, or already teaching, to take jobs in the country; to remember their fundamental task of growing and preserving more food; a request for more rural electricity; and concern for the welfare of children, with particular reference to cases of neglect that should be reported.

A Handicraft Exhibit, the first one since the war, had been held in the spring in rooms loaned by the Victoria and Albert Museum. This was visited by 43,000 people. "A financial success to the tune of £2,000", adds the report.

No laws can prevent people (and nations) from making fools of themselves.

Gatineau LINES

Night Baseball

Baseball is a popular sport throughout Quebec. It was once an afternoon game only, and so most people could watch a ball game only on week-ends, or by missing their regular work.

Night baseball now is enjoyed by thousands of people in Quebec — people who in the past could only occasionally afford the relaxation of watching a good and exciting game.

Turning night into day at the ball park is a job which only electricity can accomplish — and only electricity can do the same kind of job at a hockey rink in the winter.

OBITUARY

Aged Resident Mourned At St. Amedée, Que.

The Late James Curren

After a brief illness Mr. James Curren passed peacefully away on the morning of August 7, at his home in St. Amedée, Que., in his 82nd year.

The Rev. Mr. Fricker conducted the funeral service at St. John's Church, St. Amedée.

A profusion of lovely flowers, and the large gathering of relatives, friends and neighbors, testified to the esteem in which he was held.

Mr. Curren is survived by his wife, the former Isabella Sutton; two sons, Calvin and Garnet; two daughters, (Bertha) Mrs. Victor Barfoot, of Toronto, (Elsie) Mrs. Basil Jackson, of Bronwsburg; also a brother, Mr. William Curren, of St. Amedée, and two sisters, Elsie and Nellie, Mrs. Loveless, and seven grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Curren celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary two years ago.

Townsman Bereaved

Late Mrs. D. McEntyre

On August 13 the death occurred in Montreal of Amanda Creed McEntyre, widow of the late Daniel McEntyre, in her 89th year. Deceased was the mother of Hugh McEntyre of Lachute, a member of the Giles Publishing staff, and mother-in-law of Mrs. McEntyre, besides whom she is survived only by her three grandchildren — Mrs. F. Lundberg (Muriel) and Mrs. N. L. Shotwell (Grace), both of San Francisco, and Gloria McEntyre.

The funeral, held from Armstrong's Funeral Parlor last Saturday, was attended by relatives and friends — Mrs. F. Lundberg, from San Francisco, being among those present. The Rev. B. B. Brown conducted the service.

Allied Police Forces Seen as "First Line Of Defence" in War

Quebec (CP)—Some police officers believe that police forces constitute "the first line of defence" in their home countries and would like their respective governments to recognize this.

The international relations committee of the International Association of Police Chiefs, which met behind closed doors here recently, passed resolutions embodying this view.

The committee plans to submit the resolutions to the association's annual meeting in Los Angeles September 21-25.

The committee, headed by Lt.-Col. Leon Lambert, assistant director of Quebec Provincial Police, has members from Canada, England, the United States, Honolulu and Puerto Rico. The association groups police forces from all Allied nations except France and Belgium.

"The first action in a world war is infiltration by the enemy", he said. "They even get into army and police forces of Allied countries". This was a field for police investigation.

He said armed services of Allied nations had a specific place under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization but the police forces of these countries which played a first-line defence role at home did not have recognition or support of their governments as such.

Police forces also played an important part in civil defence, he said.

Treason, sedition and loopholes in the law's application in both Canada and the United States were studied by the committee.

Quebec's padlock law, adopted in 1936, was discussed by the committee as one type of anti-Communist security measure. Under the law Communist propaganda may be seized by police and premises employed for propaganda padlocked.

Real Country Home of Mythical Farm Family

(From "CBC Times")

One of the best-known farm families in Ontario and Quebec is the Craig family, which broadcasts in the CBC's noon-hour broadcast on Monday to Friday every week. And the man responsible for making its name a by-word along nearly every concession road in the region is Dean Hughes, who has been writing about the Craigs for over 13 years.

The family doesn't really exist, except in Hughes' imagination. But its members have become so real to him through the years that he says the scripts almost write themselves. He claims he has met their prototypes dozens of times — when he was growing up on a farm in Ontario, in the months he worked on a farm out west, and in the years he has been on his own land.

After he reached his 'teens there were a good many years when he didn't get very close to a cow or any other farm animal. He reported for the Financial Post for a year, then for five years was editor of three business newspapers. That was followed by a year in England as a sub-editor for Who's Who Publications, and as a reporter for movie and theatrical papers. Then rural life beckoned to him again, and he spent a year in a Canadian county cottage, reviewing books. Venturing next into radio, he spent several years as a writer and announcer, and then tried his hand at writing advertising copy.

In February, 1939, Orville J. W. Shrugg, who was then supervisor of CBC farm broadcasts (now a Dairy Farmers executive), suggested the idea for a dairy farm serial and the show soon materialized in Hughes' scripts.

After writing about this lovable farm family for over six years, Hughes began to realize what he was missing by living in the dusty, bustling city, and determined to get out into the country. He found just the sort of place he was looking for outside Unionville, near Toronto. He named it Briarwood Farm, after the one owned by Thomas Craig in the serial. There are 100 acres of woods, brook, rolling pasture and fields.

By an odd coincidence, which he has taken pains to develop, his farm house is laid out very much the same as The Craigs', and he has seen to it that the barn and outbuildings of the radio family are in the same plan as his, too. The house is 135 years old, a compact red brick building with 10 rooms. The bricks were made and baked out behind the barn, and the one-and-a-half-inch-thick flooring and woodwork were made from the pine trees cleared from the land by the Scotsman who first owned the place. This chap, one MacLean, brought some spruce trees over from Scotland and planted them as a hedge between the front lawn and the lane leading down to the road. Now they're 75 feet high. The other side of the lawn is bordered with cedars.

Hughes and his wife, Lynn, have scraped off the old paint and varnish off the woodwork in the house, and modernized the kitchen and bathroom. Otherwise the house has retained its atmosphere of early 19th-century grace and solidarity, brightened by gay slipcovers and cushions.

When Thomas Craig "decided" to make the old summer kitchen into an all-season sun-room, Hughes liked the idea so much that he made over his summer kitchen, too, and now that's where he writes his scripts, with the sun shining through two-and-a-half sides of windows onto pine-panelled walls and wide pine floor planks. The room is 20 by 25 feet and opens unto the back lawn. They have an acre-and-a-half of lawn, on which Hughes has a one-hole golf course, and a long pond kept filled to a level of about four feet by an overflow from the well of 6,000 gallons a day.

When Hughes bought the place, the former owner, who sports the colorful name of King Snowball, decided to stay on as hired man, and it has worked out well, for Snowball loves the land and knows his job well, leaving Hughes time to write his scripts.

They have two big black mares, called Queen and June, and until six months ago they had 40 head of Jerseys, which they had built up over a period of seven years. But looking after them, in addition to all the other chores, proved too much work, so Hughes sold them all except Janice (named after The Craigs' daughter) which he kept for milking. Now he's starting to build up a herd of beef cattle. He has six Shorthorns so far. He keeps five sows and 15 ewes, too, and enough hens to keep the house supplied with fresh eggs. The piggery is pretty old, and he plans to tear it down and erect a new one — so, of course, the Craigs will be doing the same thing. (Thomas Craig has been threatening it for some time!) The other farm animals are two dogs — Old Roger, a 13-year-old hound who spends most of his time snoozing or poking around in slow motion, and Michael, a purebred Collie. Michael's favorite sport is catching woodchucks, which Old Roger eats.

Hughes grows oats for feed, and fall wheat and malt barley as cash crops. He has an acre of corn and potatoes, a few rows of raspberry canes, and 50 apple trees — including 17 different varieties!

Naturally, Hughes bases a lot of happenings in the lives of the Craigs on incidents on and around his own farm. This sometimes leads to amusing situations. A few years ago when The Craigs lost a cow, Hughes' neighbors told him how sorry they were to hear about his cow dying! "When I told them it was the Craigs' cow, they scratched their heads!" he says. "There's a certain fear among my neighbors that if they do or say anything out of the ordinary, or 'unseemly', I'll put them in the Craigs!"

Since the farm serial began, the same cast has played the principal roles. Hughes says: "They've interpreted my words in a manner that makes me wonder at times if I've writtten the script! I say that, because there are days when I'm none too proud of what I've written — call it an 'off-day' — but my 'family' lifts the words off the paper and gives them a life and meaning I wouldn't have thought possible. I've often been asked if it isn't a horrible chore to write a five-times-a-week show for nearly 14 years. Well, the answer is that it seems less and less a question of writing about the Craig family every day, and more and more a question of living with them."

The Truth About The Cow!

All statistics are ignored in this treatise based only on observation and experience:

The cow is a female quadruped with an alto voice and a countenance in which there is no guile. She collaborates with the pump in the production of a liquid called milk, provides the filler for hash, and at last is skinned by those whom she has benefitted, as mortals commonly are.

The young cow is called a calf, and is used in the manufacture of chicken salad.

The cow's tail is mounted aft and has a universal joint. It is used to disturb marauding flies, and the tassel on the end has a unique educational value. Persons who milk cows and come often in contact with the tassel have vocabularies of peculiar and impressive force.

The cow has two stomachs. The one on the ground floor is used as a warehouse and has no other function. When this one is filled, the cow retires to a quiet place where her ill manners occasion no comment and devotes herself to belching. The raw material thus conveyed for the second time to the interior of her face is pulverized and delivered to the auxiliary stomach. There it is converted into cow.

The cow has no upper plate. All her teeth are parked in the lower part of her face. This arrangement was perfected by an efficiency expert to keep her from gumming things up. As as result, she bites up and gums down.

The male cow is called bull and is lassoed in Texas, fought in Mexico, and shot in Ottawa.

A slice of cow is worth 8 cents in the cow, 14 cents in the hands of the packers, and $2.40 at the nearest restaurant.

Rotarian Proves Ardent Salesman for Quebec

the height of Niagara, shooting spray a thousand feet into the air. Engineers estimate its potential at 5-million horsepower. In addition this river has two more falls which will each produce over one million horsepower. Rotarian Armstrong referred to an article in the Toronto Star which, when referring to hydro power developments in Canada, failed to mention that we have 1,200,000 horsepower developed at Shipshaw, and have had it for over ten years; even at Beauharnois we have in excess of 600,000. The St. John River valley will produce about 1½ million h.p. at peak.

The speaker then "explored" the mining field and stated that Quebec has the world's largest aluminum smelter, at Arvida. We have large deposits of titanium, which will in a short time be a very common metal and one with a large number of uses. We have large copper deposits, "which haven't even been touched as yet".

Developments in iron ore in Northern Quebec have so far proved that it is the largest deposit in the world and will be of a great economic value to both Canada and the United States. Before 1939 Canada only produced ½-million tons of ore; now we produce 5 million and can consume that amount. But in Northern Quebec we will take out at least 10 million tons annually, and will be in a position to export large quantities.

"Mr. Hilliard of the Toronto Star makes great stress of the iron ore deposits in B.C. and in Ontario", continued the speaker. "However, he fails to observe that in Ontario, at Steep Rock, the vein is only six miles long, whereas in our province the potential is 225 miles long and 60 miles wide, and a great deal of our northland hasn't even been explored. Men have raised the question, will it pay to take it out? As an answer to that there has already been 250 million dollars spent in the north, and surely companies would not make expenditures of that nature without first knowing the potential and the possibilities...

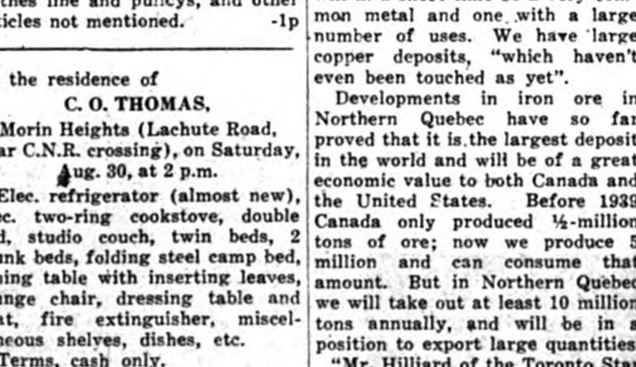

"This will mean economic security for years to come, and with teamwork, will aid in building a better world. The 20th century belongs to Canada, and Quebec is making it possible. In our province, and our county, is the only refractory plant in Canada. We in Argenteuil have the largest horse dealer, the largest farm, and the largest felt-making looms. Quebec is the basis of seats in the House of Parliament at Ottawa. We have a province steeped in history and tradition; the largest city in Canada with the largest inland port, the largest office building in the Empire. We have historic Quebec City, with the well known Plains of Abraham. Ours is a land of a million lakes. Jean Baptiste and Johnny Canuck — side by side, a commendable example of harmony and peaceful, constructive relationships.

Mr. Armstrong was cordially thanked for his address by Les Thompson.

The Polite Host

THIS IS the big year for the United States, which elects a new president on November 4. Naturally, we in Canada have a warm interest in the result. But as with neighbors on the street, discretion is the better part of valor — and it's a lot more polite.

The tourist trade is one of Canada's biggest assets, and this year Canadians in vacation spots from Atlantic to Pacific are meeting American visitors in perhaps record numbers.

The majority of visitors are well-mannered and well-acquainted with the news of the day; well versed in history and adult enough to respect the other fellow's opinions.

But in many a visiting party there's a political pundit who knows the name of every presidential candidate from away back, and who will tell you just how every state is going to vote next November. If you express doubts, this character will go into details of how Ike couldn't possibly win South Dakota; or else why Adlai hasn't a hope in New York.

The way we figure it, this year's candidates are among the best who ever sought the highest office in the United States. As far as we're concerned, either Dwight Eisenhower or Adlai Stevenson would make a good president. Each has fine qualities.

The Democrats have been in power since Franklin D. Roosevelt started his first term in 1933. Since F.D.R.'s sudden death just before the war's end, Harry Truman has done a pretty fair job. President Truman will do his best to elect Stevenson, the Illinois governor who appears like a breath of fresh air in the Democratic party.

The Republicans, in General Eisenhower — the Allied Supreme Commander from D-Day until the war was won — have a man who has earned a world reputation for ability and diplomacy. He demonstrated this again as chief of the North Atlantic pact organization in Europe. He's no mere field general.

Individual Canadians may prefer one or the other. But the only way we can lose is by getting entangled in arguments with Americans about their respective merits. It's their business, and you can trust the voice of the people — the American people.

Challenging Words on Canada's Potentialities

DIGNIFIED old England was hit by a whirlwind last week — a visit from Newfoundland's ultra-energetic premier, Joseph R. (Joey) Smallwood.

Mr. Smallwood's mission was to urge British industrialists to take an interest in the large-scale development of Newfoundland and Labrador. He wants "brains, money and machinery".

"What is wanted", he said, "is a new Hudson's Bay Company, a modern East India Company. Not to trade, not to buy and sell. Just to develop the vast resources of this last and greatest storehouse of Empire wealth. . . If Britain doesn't pile in and do it, with the knowledge that centuries of pioneering have perfected, another country will. And you don't need 78 guesses to say which country that will be."

Mr. Smallwood spoke of United States interest in the Labrador iron ore deposits which will "supersede the Mesabi range of Minnesota, up to now the main source of U.S. steel."

"We could make a $100,000,000 concession to any British industry which will go in and spend ready money. We are anxious that British interests should go in and undertake this great program. It is the biggest thing of this century." He estimated that development of Labrador would need capital of $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000. Labrador is a "bleak wild place — in winter, anyway. No roads, no railroads, a hard and difficult terrain. But when did that ever stop the British?" asked the premier.

At the same time as Mr. Smallwood was granting enthusiastic interviews on Canada, Englishmen were urged from another source to invest in this country. The Board of Trade Journal featured a front-page article, "The Rising Tide of Capital Goods Investment in Canada", written by a U.K. trade commissioner.

Having urged British industry to consider the export of engineering and capital goods to Canada in connection with the St. Lawrence Seaway project and power developments in a previous issue, the publication said: "Exporters will realize that apart from the plant and equipment required for completion of these schemes, there will be much development of secondary industries; bringing with them rapid expansion of townships and consequential demand for complete ranges of industrial and consumer goods. . . It is commonly said that the second half of the 20th century belongs to Canada. In less than a quarter century, physical output has been doubled; and the rate of investment since 1946 has been higher than ever before. Industrialization is on the increase, manufacturing, which accounted for only 23 per cent of the national income in 1948, accounted for 30 per cent in 1950. With boundless raw material resources . . there is every reason to believe that the Canadian economy is set fair for continued expansion."

Home-Building and Public Services

THE PRESSING need of more housing is fast becoming the greatest problem this country has to meet. Since the end of the war the emphasis has been on more houses, and for a time building operations became accelerated and hope was expressed that the great deficiency would be met. For some reason or another the momentum has spent itself, and a sharp decline has set in. There were 24 per cent fewer houses built last year than in the previous year, and so far this year, building is 17 per cent less than in a comparable period last year.

Various reasons are put forward to account for this deplorable situation — higher building costs, scarcity of money and suitable building lots. While admitting that building material costs are high and a tightness of available money exists, increased carrying charges and down payments having risen considerably during the past few years, the most vital necessity is "serviced lots".

It is a maxim of municipal government that building follows services. Water and sewerage lines extending out beyond the built-up sections are followed by new homes, and taxes making for more revenue. But the tight money situation applies to municipalities too, with the result that extensions of service come in the footsteps of the building of homes.

It costs money to service land beyond the extension of the municipality. Not only are water and sewerage lines required, but streets, sidewalks, electricity, telephone service and other amenities of present-day living must be provided. It is estimated that it takes $8,000 to service an acre of building lots; and when we consider that the goal of 100,000 new homes a year (which has been set as Canada's minimum requirement) needs 25,000 acres of serviced land, we find it represents a capital investment of $200,000,000.

Municipalities haven't got that kind of money to spend. Municipalities haven't got the taxable capacity to obtain it, and there lies the crux of the whole situation. When the Federal and Provincial Governments have satisfied their seemingly insatiable appetites, there is nothing left for the local powers. . . Some effort has been made to return some of the Federal surpluses to the municipalities, but the result has been disappointing. Before anything tangible can result a revision of the whole tax structure must be made.

AFTER 4,000 years or more of trying, man hasn't designed comfortable and functional business clothes, replies to a Financial Post question seem to indicate. . . As to what reforms these Canadians would suggest, some would pull out the stops: kilts on the golf course, shorts at the office, removal of shoulder pads and other build-ups or slimming devices, for frank, yet honest, simple, cheaper, and more freedom-giving attire.

Clothing experts strike a serious note. On the way, it's indicated, are slimmer, trimmer, lighter-weight designs. . . The ladies extend sympathy, give the nod to men to take it off, leave it off, or loosen it up. . . Advocated for the shirt department are loose necks, short sleeves, shirts to be worn outside the belt. If four-in-hands go, many of the respondents won't be at the wake!

DURING recent years Canadian taxpayers have been exposed to a plethora of so-called experts in many fields. What we need before it is too late is someone to protect us from the "experts". Sort of an expert on experts.

"THINGS AN' STUFF"

— By —
WALTER HENRY JACKSON

Irish, English and Scotch

Once upon a time there were two Irishmen. Today there's millions of 'em! But the jokes about Pat and Mike go on forever. Here's one, for instance, that you may not have heard lately. . .

Pat, newly arrived from Ireland, went into a store to buy a new pair of overalls. After serving him, the enterprising clerk said: "While you're here, wouldn't you like to take advantage of our special sale of pyjamas — today only?"

"And phat are peejammas?" asked Pat.

The clerk took him over to a long table on which were displayed pyjamas of every size, style and dazzling colors.

"Oi never saw fancy suits loike that in Oireland", said Pat. "On what occasion does anybody wear the loikes of them?"

The clerk explained: "Those are meant to wear at night, Sir."

"Then they're no use to me", said Pat. "Oi niver go no place at night — except to bed!"

And speaking of pyjamas, here's one about the English big-game hunter relating his experiences to his pals in a London club.

"I knew there was a dangerous mad elephant in the neighborhood", he stated. "I heard him trumpeting outside my tent at daybreak one morning. I didn't bother to dress. I just stepped out and shot the elephant in my pyjamas."

To which one of his listeners replied: "I say, old top, what I cawn't understand is how the elephant ever got into your pyjamas!"

And we mustn't forget Mac, the Scotsman, who was in the habit of borrowing articles from his neighbor, Jones. He invariably failed to return them and Jones got tired of going over to Mac's house to get them back, finally resolving never to lend him another thing.

One Saturday morning Mac showed up at Jones' door.

"Will you be needin' your lawnmower today, Mr. Jones?"

"Yes", said Jones. "I'll be using it all day long."

"Fine!" said Mac. "Then ye'll no be needin' yer golf sticks. I'd like to borrow them!"

— Be seein' ya!

Let's Not Handicap The Handicapped

(Editorial in C-I-L Oval)

There is in this country a group of people referred to by employment officers as "handicapped employables". We can probably think of some who live in our communities. Perhaps we know a few.

By and large, they are fellow-Canadians who have certain physical, mental or social handicaps which limit them in terms of the types of work they can do. But many of them have valuable job skills. Others may have no particular skills, but certainly have the capacity to develop them.

The individual types of handicaps range into the hundreds, and include many readily recognizable, such as physical deformity, disfigurement, blindness, deafness, amputations, age and a wide variety of non-infectious diseases.

But, in addition to their individual handicaps, these people suffer in common from one other handicap. This one is by far the most serious, the most formidable, and the most discouraging of all.

It is the attitude of many employers — or could-be employers — toward them.

Many employers, probably without realizing the consequences, automatically demand a high physical capacity of all the people they engage, whether the job requires high physical capacity or not.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce drew attention to this problem at its last annual meeting when it noted that: "Available evidence demonstrates that those employers who have had experience with physically handicapped workers have found that their performance when suitably placed, compares favorably with that of the able-bodied in similar work. The Canadian Chamber of Commerce believes their employment to the greatest extent possible is socially and economically desirable."

Employers who do not weigh these factors are virtually robbing themselves — and society — of a good source of workers whose productivity and loyalty have been repeatedly and conclusively demonstrated. At the same time, they are needlessly withholding from a sizable group of Canadians the opportunity to achieve a fair measure of social and financial independence.

For example, a person with one arm would be fully efficient doing work that requires the use of only one arm; a person with the use of only one foot, or no feet at all, would be fully efficient doing a sedentary job; a person with a disfigurement would be fully efficient if his fellow workers treated him just like any other human being.

The "handicapped employables" ask only for a chance to show their worth. They ask only that they be judged for employment on the basis of what they can do, not on the basis of what they cannot do.

INSECT CONTROL

It is encouraging to note that man is starting to outsmart the insects. Pioneer ventures in large-scale pest control indicate that careful planning, preparation and co-operation are necessary to achieve successful results. If this is done, there need be little fear of devastating insect plagues in Canada.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO FARMERS:

I am pleased to announce that I am opening a FEED STORE at 605 Main Street, Lachute, across from Muir's Gas Station. I will have in stock at all times a full line of GOODYEAR CATTLE, HOG AND POULTRY FEEDS and SUPPLEMENTS available in MASH, PELLETS, or CRUMBLES as desired. Also available will be whole and ground grains, millfeeds, salt, feed molasses and binder twine.

FARMERS, GOODYEAR balanced rations for cattle, hogs, and poultry have been manufactured for almost 20 years, and it is their continuous high quality that has permitted their widespread acceptance. To-day these feeds have been further fortified with the NEW antibiotics and Vitamin B-12 following an established policy of including in GOODYEAR FEEDS all proven new products.

TESTIMONIALS from feeders of GOODYEAR FEEDS show chicks weighing 3 lbs at 9 weeks produced on 9 lbs of feed, hogs marketed at 5 months on less than 600 lbs of feed, and a Holstein cow that produced 1365 lbs of fat from 31,878 lbs of 4.28% milk in 365 days (world championship for fat). She graded excellent and went on to the Quebec Exhibition Grand Championship.

Farmers, you pay no more for this superior quality feed, and I suggest you either come in, or phone in your order for a trial order of GOODYEAR FEED, for convincing proof that there is no better feed made.

OBITUARY

Old County Resident Laid to Rest at Arundel

Late Mrs. John Bigrow

Arundel — The funeral took place on Friday afternoon of Maggie McCluskey, widow of the late John Bigrow, of Gray Valley, Que., who died at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Moore, with whom she had resided for some time past. She had attained the ripe old age of 87, and her quiet and kindly disposition was loved and admired by all with whom she came in contact.

A short service was held at the house by the Rev. Paul Busing, after which the cortege proceeded to Grace (Anglican) Church, where the Rev. Busing was assisted in the service by Mr. Stern, acting minister of Arundel United Church. Interment took place in the family plot at Arundel Cemetery.

The pall-bearers were the six grandsons, Messrs. Ross, Stanley and Gordon Moore, Howard Davis, Howard Barklay and John Shute.

Those attending from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Davis and family, Mrs. Maggie Barklay, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Moore, Mr. Paul Kulagouski, Mrs. George Williams, all of Montreal, also Mr. H. R. Barkley, of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. J. Shute, of Verdun, Que.

The deceased leaves to mourn her passing two daughters, Mrs. Lorne Moore, of Arundel, Mrs. Mary Barkley, of Montreal, also 11 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

The sympathy of friends in the Arundel district is tendered to the bereaved family.

FLOOD ENDS FARMING FOR ALBERTA VICTIM

Calgary (CP) — To the parched cowboy in the old western song, cool water would have been a godsend, but it was a bad blow to Edward Parsons, 62-year-old farmer near here.

More than 75 per cent of his farm was inundated in the spring floods when the flood waters threatened to wash away part of the Edmonton-Calgary highway.

Parsons did not plant a crop this year and recently sold his cattle at auction. Travel by boat was the only way he could get back and forth from his farm home.

Married in Montreal, To Reside at Calumet

Willman - Darroch

At St. George's Church, Montreal, the marriage was solemnized on Saturday, August 9, of Mrs. Edith Darroch, of Chicago, formerly of Montreal and widow of Donald MacKenzie Darroch of Grenoch, Scotland, to Major F. L. Willman, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Willman, of Calumet, Que. The Ven. Archdeacon J. F. Morris officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Ian McMartin Darroch, of Toronto, son and daughter-in-law of the bride, attended the couple and were hosts at a reception at the Ritz-Carlton following the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of beige French crepe trimmed with white, and a matching original hat.

Our Primal Need For Applause

"Spoken at the right time, in the right way, there is magic in a word of praise", said the late Fulton Oursler in one of his last articles, appearing in the August Reader's Digest.

Oursler, who used to bid his friends goodbye with the words "God bless", understood the deep, primal need of all humans for applause. Without praise and encouragement, anyone can lose self-confidence. Thus we all have a double necessity: to be commended and to know how to commend.

The art of praising, if properly exercised, "can turn the noisy rattle of the world into music". But discernment and sincerity are needed if your compliment is really to warm the recipient's heart. A woman of the author's acquaintance congratulated a businessman on the "wonderfully convincing" speech he had delivered. But when she added, "I could not help thinking what a fine lawyer you would have made", the merchant flushed like a schoolboy at the unexpected character of the tribute.

Nowhere do the principles of the art of praise need recognition more than in marriage. Oursler wrote: the wife or husband who is alert to say the heartening thing at the right moment has taken out valuable marriage insurance. Children especially are hungry for appreciation, and the want of it in childhood can endanger the growth of character.

Oursler emphasized the importance of expressing now, while they are in our minds, the pleasant truths we all know about our wives, husbands, friends. We should remember that "a rose to the living is more than sumptuous wreaths to the dead", and utter the good word today while the ears it is intended for can still hear it. Tomorrow, or next week or next year, may be too late.

Life insurance — because a large part of the money that people put aside in life insurance is invested in ways that help provide new roads and bridges . . . as well as new homes, stores, waterworks, power plants, other aids to better living.

Life insurance — through several important medical research projects which are supported wholly or in part by funds contributed by life insurance companies. As a result, chances of living longer, healthier lives are being increased for all Canadians.

3 helps keep Canada strong?

Again — life insurance! The money set aside by millions of policyholders plays an important part in financing Canada's industrial economy. And this, in turn, strengthens the nation's defence program.

4 sends boys and girls to college?

This is another important job that life insurance does — while also providing money for family emergencies. Some other important uses: retirement income, mortgage repayment, business insurance.

A trained life underwriter — representing one of the more than 50 Canadian, British and United States life insurance companies in Canada — will gladly help you plan for your family's security and your own needs in later years. Rely on him!

"It is Good Citizenship to own Life Insurance"

Now and Then, A Little —

NONSENSE

— M. V. Trayers —

The English politician, William Pitt, once said "Don't tell me of a man's being able to talk sense; everyone can talk sense. Can he talk nonsense?" What is nonsense? Prof. M. G. Kendall, of the London (Eng.) School of Economics, explains it this way: "Something which is really absurd but does not sound like it the first time you hear it — the kind of thing which is sufficiently like sense to give you, at first impression, the feeling of being soundly argued and properly expressed."

In chemistry and science you hear expressions like — given the volume and temperature of a given mass of gas, we can find the pressure almost exactly. Maybe a lot of hot air, but outside of the natural sciences there are few such exact laws. Insurance companies collect life expectancy figures. They can tell you how long, on the average, persons aged X years can be expected to live. But they do not pretend to predict the exact date of your death. That really would be nonsense.

A lot of intelligent people have arrived at false conclusions because of failure to recognize nonsense. To recognize it, one must make its acquaintance.

How far can you depend on statistics? To understand statistics you will find that nonsense plays a very large part in getting a grasp of the theory of the subject.

For instance, it was noticed at one time that stylish women's skirts were highest during a period of prosperity, and that they came down shortly before an economic slump. From these statistically true facts, theories could be evolved by which business conditions could be forecast or determined by a study of the length of women's skirts. . . Nonsense? Yes! It is not until you know how to recognize and explain nonsense that you can draw scientific conclusions from the situations which do make sense. . .

Don't go away. Try this one: Zeno, the great Greek mathematician, invented this nonsense concerning motion, and it has exercised great brains ever since. There was a race between Achilles and the tortoise. The tortoise had a 100-yard start, and although Achilles ran ten times as fast as the tortoise, when he had run 100 yards the tortoise had gone an extra ten, when he had run the extra ten the tortoise had gone a yard; so no matter how fast Achilles ran to where the tortoise was, the tortoise had gone a tenth of that distance ahead. He could never catch up. . . Nonsense! But to explain how and when Achilles did pass the tortoise, led to the development of the differential and integral calculus.

If you think all this is ridiculous and beneath the notice of grave and serious-minded adults, you may care to know that students of the theory of probability are still discussing the question whether one can take an even chance on the truth of any proposition whose meaning is not known. Else why all those systems to beat the bookies? Or Lewis Carroll in his "Hunting of the Snark"? Or take that one in which the conductor on a train, half a mile long, tries to shoot the engineer at the other end of the train (which is racing along at a 60-mile-an-hour clip) with a rifle from whose muzzle a bullet travels at 60-miles-an-hour, the identical speed of the train on which they are both riding. Will the bullet reach the engineer? . . Nonsense!

Pascal said that there was no opinion so absurd that it has not been held by some philosopher. We can well believe that. No political candidate ever yet stood for election, no matter how crazy his platform, but he got someone to vote for him. It is only by studying the absurd that we can hope to obtain a complete understanding of sound thought. . . "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men".

Have You A Question

ON

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you: —

Q. I am an insured person who is earning $20.75 a week. If I should become unemployed, how much benefit would I be entitled to?

A. The rate would be $10.20 a week if you are maintaining a dependent; if not, $8.10 a week. The number of weeks would depend on the number of contributions you had made.

* * *

Q. For many years I worked in Montreal and paid into the unemployment insurance fund. I never drew a cent. Now I am back on the farm. I am wondering if I must lose the money I contributed or if I can get it back. I think my old insurance books are in Montreal, but I have the last one.

A. Contributions cannot be refunded merely because you withdrew from insurable employment. However, if unemployed and able to satisfy the other necessary conditions, you can claim benefit on the basis of the contributions that you made while in insurable employment.

Canada's primary textile industry, the country's largest manufacturing employer, consists of 791 mills located in 269 cities and towns scattered through all ten provinces.

PRAIRIE SCHOONER

Here are four of the Winnipeg musicians who board an imaginary covered wagon every Saturday night and put themselves through a spirited half-hour session of old-time dances calculated to make the rafters ring wherever a radio is tuned to their broadcast. Prairie Schooner goes on the air at 10 on the CBC Trans-Canada network. In the picture left to right are Emil Magnacca, violinist; Jimmy Gowler, conductor; Pete Couture, violinist; and Ted Komar, accordionist. Couture is a descendant of one of the Red River Settlement's most famous musicians. Gowler's forefathers were Selkirk settlers who moved to the Prairies through York Factory on Hudson Bay in 1836. His vast collection of folk and dance music enables him to go through the year without repeating a number.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT

Turtleford, Sask. (CP) — A storm which levelled the partially-constructed curling and skating rink here brought a quick response. At a public meeting the same night, it was decided to rebuild the rink immediately and $2,000 was contributed to replace lost lumber.

HELP FOR MOTORISTS

Regina (CP) — The job of painting white lines down the centre of some 500 miles of blacktop highways in Saskatchewan is well advanced. This is the first year in which the provincial highways department has undertaken this job on a large scale.

B.C. Speeds Survey Of Timber Resources

Foresters Supervise Students Taking Inventory of Forest Area

Victoria (CP) — The provincial government survey of British Columbia's sprawling timber resources has been speeded up as new forest industries move in.

Trucks, boats, and planes and two radio networks are being used in the inventory effort, part of a five-year federal-provincial government agreement.

Forester H. M. Pogue is in charge of operations. He says trees are counted in sample plots, including the amount of usuable timber. The result is multiplied by the number of similar areas in all British Columbia forests.

"At the moment", said Mr. Pogue, "we are the position of a storekeeper who doesn't know what merchandise he has on the shelves."

It is hoped this year to cover 35,000,000 acres. Work is being done by 250 men, mostly university students, supervised by trained foresters. They are split into 102 crews working in 17 regions.

Keeping all of these men supplied in the field for a whole summer is a problem. Basic transportation is the station wagon and 50 of these are in use.

Along the coast where trucks are of little use, eight skiffs and four outboard runabouts supply work parties and shore camps. "Mother ships" to the fleet of small boats are two 65-foot launches.

Crews working in spots unreachable by road or water are supplied by air. When there is no landing spot, supplies are dropped by parachute, in cartons protected by steel framework.

CIVIC IMPROVEMENT

Blairmore, Alta. (CP) — Work started here on the new water main to be laid along the entire length of the Blairmore main street. Council obtained a provincial loan of $12,000 for the project.

HISTORIC TOWN

Annapolis Royal, N.S. (CP) — Thousands from near and far gathered to celebrate the 347th birthday of this old town on August 4. Festivities included a colorful parade escorting the Natal Day Queen, Miss Ann Hersey.

KILLED BY BULL

Montreal (CP) — Mrs. Mike Masylychin, about 60, died in hospital here from injuries suffered when she was attacked by a bull near her home at St. Basile le Grand.

It's Pickling Time

This is the time of year when you can walk down any street and know, just by sniffing the tantalizing spiciness that wafts through kitchen doors and windows, exactly what kind of pickle is being made in the Jones or Smith home! Recipes, just like old legends, have been handed down from mother to daughter and the contents of the recipes guarded almost as closely as their lives.

Pickles may not add much as far as food value is concerned, but like icing on a cake, they add the finishing touch to a meal. This year make some special pickles for those all important occasions when the ladies' bridge club meets or Sis celebrates her sixteenth birthday. Gherkins enter this special class for they are attractive to serve and tasty to eat.

Gherkins have a pleasing flavor — a blend of the sour, the sweet, the salty and the spicy. The texture is crisp, crunchy and tender, not leathery, limp and tough. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture have some information about the requirements for a good gherkin. Firm, fresh cucumbers 2½ inches in length or less should be used for best results. It is important that these cucumbers be put in brine as soon after picking as possible — cucumbers held at room temperature for even a few hours often develop hollow centres.

The home economists recommend that you use blended vinegar which is a combination of different kinds of vinegar — usually equal portions of white and cider vinegar are used. Be careful not to use too much sugar in the pickling mixture for this causes shrivelling. Any combination of spices may be used in pickles to suit the taste, but use spices with caution — too much will result in a dark color and a bitter flavor. Whole spices give better color and flavor than ground spices.

When making pickles use enamel, aluminum or stainless steel utensils. Vinegar and salt react with iron, copper and brass causing discoloration.

Pickles, like Rome, cannot be made in a day. Quite often attempts to shorten the method results in an inferior quality pickle but in spite of the time taken they are quite easy to make. Here are two recipes from the home economists which they have tested and found very satisfactory.

Gherkins (Nine-Day Pickles)

4 Quarts small cucumbers, 16 cups boiling water (3 quarts plus 1 cup), 2 cups salt, 1 teaspoon alum, 16 cups boiling water, 8 cups blended vinegar, 6 cups sugar, 1 tablespoon celery seed, 2 teaspoons whole cloves.

Wash the cucumbers, scrub well, rinse, drain well and place in a crock. Cover with hot brine made by combining 16 cups boiling water with the salt. Let stand 3 days. Drain cucumbers from brine, bring brine to boiling point, pour over cucumbers and again let stand 3 days. Repeat this and again let stand 3 days. Drain cucumbers and place in crock. Add alum to remaining 16 cups boiling water and pour over cucumbers. Let stand 6 hours, then drain and rinse thoroughly. Pack pickles into sterilized jars. Prepare pickle mixture by combining the vinegar, sugar and spices. Boil mixture for 5 minutes. Strain through cheesecloth and pour over pickles. Seal and store. Yield, approximately 4 quarts.

Gherkins

4 Quarts small cucumbers, 16 cups boiling water, 1 cup salt, 8 cups blended vinegar, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ cup salt, ¼ cup mustard seed, ½ cup mixed pickling spice, 7 cups sugar.

Wash the cucumbers, scrub well, rinse, drain well and place in a crock. Cover wtih hot brine made by combining boiling water and salt. Pour over cucumbers, cover and let stand overnight. Drain cucumbers thoroughly and place in clean dry crock. Prepare pickle mixture by combining cold vinegar, salt, the ¼ up sugar, mustard seed and pickling spice. Pour over cucumbers. Each morning for the next 14 days, add ½ cup sugar, stirring well to dissolve the sugar. When last of sugar is added, remove spices and pour over pickles. Seal and store. Yield, approximately 4 quarts.

How Are Your Nylons ?

If you're looking for the sheerest in hosiery for those "all-dressed-up" occasions, ask for 15 denier stockings. But if you want a more durable yet still fairly sheer stocking, ask for 30 dernier. For around-the-house activities, it's your best buy because the higher the denier the stronger the yarn.

And here are some more hints on hosiery:

If you are wearing nylon stocking that are too short, your feet may burn. Sitting, bending or reaching may become uncomfortable movements. If you have these discomforts, consult a foot-size chart available at most hosiery counters. On the other hand, if your stockings are too long they will snag more easily because of the looseness of the fit.

One way to avoid unnecessary runs is to roll the stocking down to the toe before slipping it on. Then straighten the foot seam, unroll the stocking slowly and smoothen it over the leg. To assure stockings longer life, be seated when fastening front and side garters to allow for knee action. Stand up to fasten the back garter. Whether your stockings are full fashioned or seamless, fasten garter in the welt (reinforced part) and not on the seam.

The term "gauge" indicates fineness of stitch. A stocking with a high gauge like 66 has smaller stitches and so gives better snag-resistance than one with a lower gauge like 42. Dernier — the weight and thickness of the thread — is the guide for sheerness and the most important factor in wear.

Mustard Butter adds an interesting flavor to cooked vegetables. To make it, cream ½ cup of butter, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard, 1 teaspoon sugar and ½ teaspoon salt. Stir in two teaspoons vinegar. Keep in the refrigerator and use in place of butter with hot vegetables.

Fashions

Party-going cottons are popular this year, especially those black beauties, such as this frock. It is of black birds-eye pique and is ready for anything from afternoon into the night. The dress is slim and elegant with white pique trim on the criss-cross halter neck and hip pockets. For an extra touch of chic there's an oversized black and white chiffon hankie that makes like a side panel as it tumbles from a pocket.

Reading carefully through a recipe for tea biscuits on the cover of a flour package, the cook was startled and wholly pleased to come upon the following direction: "Rest for five minutes".

All kinds of lettuce are on the market now and will be coming to the market in the next few weeks. You'll find it with curly leaves or smooth leaves, firm heads or loose ones, dark green in color or light green. Leaf lettuce is a light green loose head with delicate leaves. Iceberg lettuce or head lettuce is the best known kind of Canadian lettuce. The heads are firm and compact, with the outer leaves greener than the inside ones. Boston lettuce has a looser head than Iceberg and is not so crisp. The leaves are rather flat and almost round in shape.

"I always encourage my husband to recline in an easy chair and put his feet on the mantlepiece."

"Why ?"

Fashion Stitches Give New Middy Look

The new middy look poses a problem for fashion-loving women who are short-waisted. There just isn't enough room in a two-piece costume for a fitted top to drape nicely without bunching. And, if the waist-line in a one-piece dress is lowered, the result may be in fashion, but, alas, the dress doesn't fit.

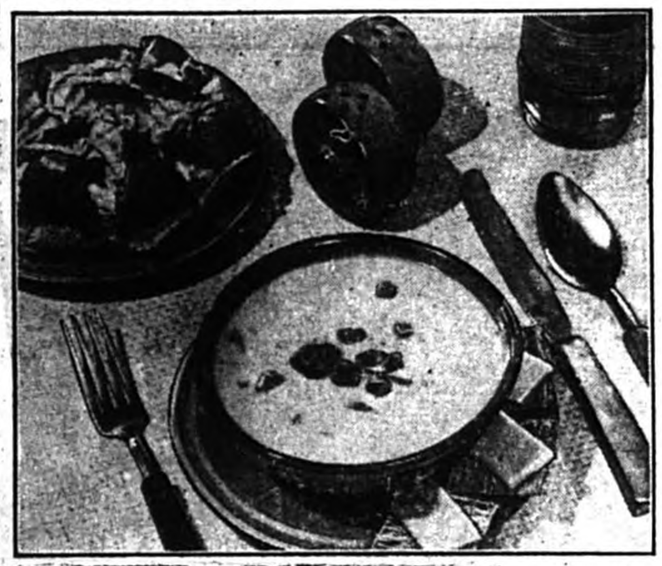

There is a neat way out of the dilemma for those who do their own sewing. Home dressmakers with short waists can fit their material to their natural waist-lines and achieve the middy effect with a few rows of fashion stitches.

The rows should encircle the skirt from the natural waist-line to a depth sufficiently low to give the middy effect. No attachments are needed on the sewing machine for making fashion stitches. The art of machine-sewing these pretty embroidery stitches can be learned at any sewing instructor. Braid, or ribbon, too, can be applied to give a middy effect.

For an evening dress, where fashion is always important, the metallic stitch gives a pleasing outline at the hips, and adds a dash of glamor. The stitching could even be extended up into the bodice to add the equally fashionable empire line above the waist. This styling is especially attractive for those blessed with narrow midriffs. The spiral, spark or cordonnet stitch creates airy, not too-pronounced rows for a woman who is not very long in the hips, and who would want only the merest suggestion of the middy effect. These three stitches are particularly appealing on light summery fabrics. For wool or corduroy for fall, the bouclé stitch gives a heavier, more deeply embroidered look. This more sharply defines the middy line, and is carried off best by the woman with long, narrow hips and long legs.

Most important, fashion-stitching may be modified, with few or many rows, light or pronounced stitching, to suit the individual figure. The middy look is not flattering if applied, without modification, to the excessively wide-hipped, short-legged figure. With fashion stitches, the woman who appraises herself carefully in the mirror, can have just the right suggestion of the current fashion without doing an injustice to her natural figure line.

Soups and Salads Gladden Summer Days

MOST pleasant interlude on a summer day is the pause for dining. It's especially welcome when the table is set with a refreshing spread of fragrant soup and a big salad.

Always complimentary to each other, soups and salads have special charm in warm weather. The tempting flavor of a soup like cream of mushroom or tomato acts like magic on appetites. Salad gives a nice contrast with the crispness of fresh greens and other vegetables or fruits.

There's joy for the cook in such menus too. Fixing time is so quick when you use the fine canned soups. No dallying in the kitchen, no standing over the stove. By keeping a wide choice on your soup shelf, you're ready with the current-favorite flavor at a moment's notice. Plenty of easy variety is another advantage. Each day, you can have a different condensed soup, a new salad.

These add up to wonderful possibilities for meal after meal during warm weather. Some perfect couples in the soup-salad line are the following:

SOUPS AND SALADS FOR SUMMER

Soup:	Salad:
Cream of mushroom	Tomato stuffed with tuna
Tomato	Deviled egg and asparagus
Cream of chicken	Peach and cottage cheese
Vegetable	Shrimp and celery

SOUP SCOOPS

For feasting at your summer picnics, carry along a glorified casserole of pork and beans. Pour two cans (15-fluid ounce size) of the beans into the deep dish; over these arrange 3 slices of fresh tomato and 3 strips of bacon. Heat in a hot oven (400°F.) about 20 minutes or until heated through. Wrap in heavy paper to carry to the picnic. Makes 6 servings.

• • •

A cold-plate menu is the best bet on days that are scorchers. For a pretty plate, have a bowl of chilled jellied consommé; beside it on the plate put deviled eggs, sliced tomatoes, and carrot sticks. Pass crusty buttered rolls to go with it.

• • •

Tuna or salmon croquettes, crisp and brown, supply you with an easy main dish. For a magical sauce to accompany these, blend 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed cream of mushroom soup with ½ cup milk; heat. Enough sauce for 6 croquettes.

Junior Starts to School

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"I have made Caroline a smart yellow smocked dress for her first day at school", Mrs. Brown told her neighbor proudly. "It's expensive material and has been a lot of work, so she'll just have to take care of it! What is your Junior going to wear?"

Mrs. Cameron hesitated a minute. "I would like to send him off in his new sailor suit, but he wouldn't be a bit comfortable in it. He insists it is just for Sundays. On his first day at school Junior will wear a little wash suit the same as the other little fellows in our block. As a matter of fact, he vastly prefers his old clothes. Children are funny!"

Children may be funny, but when it comes to clothing a little child for school, parents are sometimes even more puzzling! Of course, mother wants to be proud of her child's appearance on this very special day. Likely she will take a snapshot of him going down the walk, or with a little playmate to keep as a record of how he looked. But it is really much more essential, as Mrs. Cameron knew quite well, that a child should feel at home in his clothes, than that he should don a brand new outfit.

The last thing a kindergarten or first grade youngster wants is to be "different"! If his clothes make him feel conspicuous or ill at ease, he is "out of things". He needs to feel that he belongs, and so it is a help for him to look like "the other kids!" Boys especially dread the taunt of being, "Mother's pet!" or "A sissy!"

From the teacher's point of view, she likes to see the children in clothes which are attractive and practical. Mother has only one or two or perhaps three small youngsters in her home, but the teacher's "family" comprises twenty or thirty little folk.

It is a great help to her if Junior's clothes are made so that he can manage his own zipper or buttons when he goes to the toilet. On rainy days the teacher will be thankful if the majority of children have large enough rubbers, marked with their names, and if they can take them off and put them on themselves.

Clothes in September are usually fairly simple. But when it comes to winter time, the teacher hopes her small charges will have snow suits and goloshes which they can remove and dress in themselves, without any assistance. After all, she has only one pair of hands! The time for recess or even the noon break is brief enough. If the scholars are independent, the teacher has more free time.

This first day of school will be much more satisfying for a child if mother talks about it beforehand as an experience which he will enjoy. A good mother hides the little tug at her heart that her "baby" is a baby no longer, but entering into a new phase in his life. Teacher shares a place in a child's heart along with mother and dad from now on, if she is a likeable person.

Mother wants her child to look forward to school, to playing and working with other children, to learning new ideas and discovering how to do different things. By anticipating a happy experience, the mother prepares a son or daughter to enter wholeheartedly into this world of school.

The unknown is always a bit terrifying. Mother will want to take away some of this fear of the strange adventure ahead. She will tell little stories about when she started to school, little friends she knew, teachers she liked.

A few days before school opens, Mother will walk to school with the child and remind him to stop at the corner, listen and look both ways and wait till the way is clear before crossing. Just in case he should get lost or be in an accident, he should be able to repeat clearly his name, address and phone number. Mother will also try to make sure that her child knows at least one other youngster who is starting to school in the same class.

A physical check up by the doctor and dentist, and the eye specialist too if necessary, are also important. Many a child is handicapped in school by some small physical defect. There are many ways of preparing a child for school.

Is your child ready for his new adventure?

Busy Mother Is Trucker Too

8-Hour Job "Part-Time Work" Says Mrs. Alex Gardner

Edmonton (CP) — Raising five children, keeping house and all the chores that go with bringing up a family is a big job any day. Usually there isn't much time left over.

However, Mrs. Alex Gardner of Edmonton, does this and drives a three-ton gravel truck as well.

Two years ago Mrs. Gardner came to Edmonton with her husband from Kenora, Ont. A trucker there, Mr. Gardner had heard of Edmonton's oil boom and wanted to seek possible business opportunities.

Not being familiar with city licensing regulations, he thought he first must be a resident for six months before he could obtain a trucking permit — so Mr. Gardiner stored his truck and took a job with the Canadian National Railways.

Then when he did receive his license he was reluctant to leave his job as machinist's helper.

Mrs. Gardner took the truck out of storage herself and now has an eight-hour daily job.

"Don't get the idea I'm the chief breadwinner in the family", warned Mrs. Gardner, who is modest about her job. "My husband taught me how to drive the truck, and it's only part time work.

"My husband and the children have always shared in the housework and packing the lunches, so it isn't hard for me to get out and work, too."

Being a truck driver is something quite new to Mrs. Gardner. She really is a tailor by trade and had taught this craft for four years in Kenora.

She delivered washed rock during construction of the 16-storey addition to the C.N.R.'s downtown Macdonald hotel, and also had a hand in the construction of many of the city's new schools.

Poison Ivy and Its Treatment

Your arm begins to itch. You rub it again and again. A rash develops followed by inflammation of the skin. When the inflamed area begins to spread and small watery blisters form, the itch becomes maddening. . . These developments may occur in a few hours or may take several days. . . Poison ivy, Borgia of the countryside, has struck.

Found in every province, poison ivy grows in greatest profusion in Ontario and western Quebec. From Quebec City eastward it is found less frequently, and from Winnipeg to the Pacific coast grows mainly at lake and woodland resorts.

Poison ivy grows as a trailing vine or an upright plant. The leaves, arranged alternately on woody stems, are composed of three smaller leaflets. In early summer small whitish flowers appear in the axils of the leaves. Clusters of greenish yellow fruit which gradually turn white, suceed the flowers in some locations.

The toxic substance in poison ivy is called "urushiol", which is contained in the leaves, flowers, fruit, stems or roots. It may persist for months on gloves, tools, shoes and picnic outfits. Dogs, cats and other animals may transmit it to humans. It is even claimed that particles of it are carried in the smoke from burning ivy.

Treatment for ivy poisoning consists of washing affected parts with laundry soap and warm water immediately after contact. Washing with alcohol, kerosene or gasoline are alternatives. Potassium permanganate solution and calamine lotion are recommended for certain cases of poison ivy dermatitis.

Y.W.C.A. WORKERS ACTIVE OVERSEAS

Toronto (CP) — Six Canadian Y.W.C.A. workers are spending the summer viewing "Y" activities in other lands.

The National Council, Y.W.C.A., says that Jean Moore, women's program director at Port Arthur "Y", is in Europe and will attend a Y.M.C.A. - Y.W.C.A. Institute there.

Reta Horner, teen-age program director at Hamilton, is a consellor at a Y.W.C.A. camp in France, while Cathie Erb and Norma Baechler, teen-age "Y" members from Kitchener, Ont., are camp counsellors in Belgium.

Misses E. Darjis and H. Dickin of Regina are visiting the "Y" in Jamaica.

FUTURE CITIZENS

Winnipeg (CP) — Officials estimate that Winnipeg's school population in 1963 will be almost 70 per cent higher than in 1945. In the latter year the enrolment was 29,854 pupils.

Pass The Aspirin

(Globe and Mail)

As the American people become more prosperious, so they become more upset. We deduce this from U.S. Government statistics which show that while they made a great deal more money in 1951 than they made in the previous year, they also took a great deal more medicine — 49 per cent more, to be exact. Their consumption of aspirin rose from 11 million pounds to 13 million; and their consumption of barbiturates from 639,000 pounds to 789,000.

This confirms the commonest European criticism of the New World. The Americans are rich, yes; but they do not know how to live. Their wealth only gives them headaches, theiir success only brings them insomnia. What the European critics fail to understand is that the Americans themselves clearly recognize, and cheerfully accept, this state of affairs. They would rather toss and turn on silk than sleep soundly on flannelette; they would rather have migraine in a custom-built convertible than be at ease in a street car.

As between the curse of wealth and the blessings of poverty, the Americans unanimously and enthusiastically choose the former. (So, it might be noted, do the large number of Europeans who have migrated, or would dearly love to migrate, to the Land of Freedom, Plenty and Duodenal Ulcers.)

Whether the Americans or the Europeans are right, is something for sages to argue. We merely note that the great American headache has made a substantial contribution to freedom's cause in the last generation or so and that if Western Europe is eating regularly, much of the credit belongs with men in Minneapolis and Mobile who haven't slept a wink for three nights handrunning.

The Americans are not a happy people, to be sure but as one of their own philosophers has remarked, what use is happiness? You can't buy money with it.

HOLDS STERN VIEWS ON WIVES WHO WORK

Cape Town, S. Africa (CP) — If a husband holds the correct ideals of marriage he will regard it as a "disgrace" that his wife has to work, says the Rev. J. R. Albertyn, secretary of the social welfare council of one of South Africa's leading Afrikaans churches.

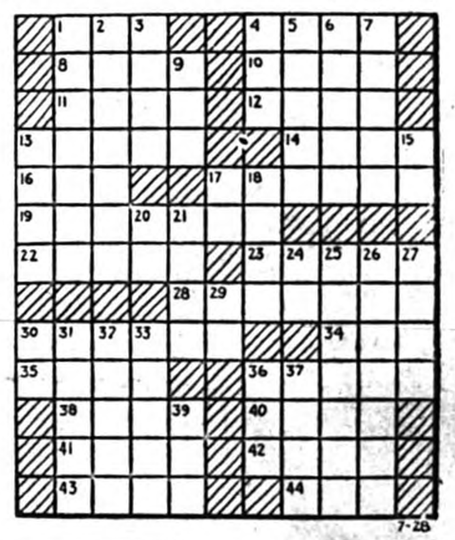

The high cost of living is not always the excuse for both husbands and wives working, he wrote in the church publication. In some cases "it is solely the craving for luxury and pleasure which moves the mother", he said.

"It makes her less dependent on the man, with the result that divorce becomes easier. It reacts unfavorably on her willingness to accept motherhood, and birth control is often practised."

Tom Gard's Note Book

Sometimes little feet come home from school quite cold, or wet after snow or rain needing a quick change to something warm and dry. The answer might be found in an article used by Hurons, Iroquois and Algonquins of other days — a pair of moccasins.

MOCCASINS

This leather or felt makes good working material. Departmental stores provide working kits and patterns should the craftsman wish to do a finished job. Perhaps it is best to try a pair from felt, first cutting out a pattern for guidance. The cross stitch gives strength, and tone if it is a bright colour. Insoles can be added, or stitched on the bottom of the moccasin for added strength.

BROOM AND TOOL RACK

Nothing is so exasperating to a housewife as to find equipment scattered all over the place. (We often find the gardener does the same with garden articles such as watering can, cultivator, flower pots, etc.) A good citizen of Granby made an attractive rack for his wife, in which she placed articles she was constantly using. Now she says, "Well, at least we know where to find them".

GARDEN TOOLS

If we expect to find things decently in order indoors, then perhaps the same applies to the yard. The enemy of metal is rust, often due to excess moisture. Garden tools may be housed in a discarded packing case. The side or bottom is removed, then replaced towards the middle, forming a shelf. A slat across the front completes the assembly. If the top is covered with a piece of used linoleum it keeps out the weather. I asked the gardener "What could be more simple" and I was astonished to hear him say, "Well, the wife says I am". However, this man's work in home and garden proved him to be the good citizen.

WALL BRACKETS

If it can be said "We are nearer God's heart in a garden than any place on earth", then why not have a little of it indoors for winter. I suppose this was the philosophy of the man in Montreal who made the pair of wall brackets. Small holes were bored at the widest places, permitting a bolt to hold pots or hoop. Small blocks kept the brackets from touching the wall. Cut with a fret saw from pieces of B.C. Fir plywood, leave natural or paint to desired colour. Vines such as vinca, ivy and philodendron like light, but not too much water. Lift the pots out and set them in water. When the moisture shows on the surface, let drain and replace in the bracket. Plants do not like what is sometimes called "wet feet".

AROUND THE HOME

HANDY TIPS

FOR FINISH: When sanding down a board for a smooth surface, always go with the grain. After coat of shellac or lacquer, rub with steel wool along the grain. Then give second coat.

ALWAYS OIL GOOD TOOLS for summer, so the damp basement will not induce rust. Polish them up with emery paper occasionally.

After using TROWELS, always wash off the cement or mortar to prevent hardening. This makes the next job easier. To prevent rusting, rub with oil.

Grease the SAW when not in use, as this prevents rust doing damage.

The amateur craftsman should never ruin the "set" of a saw by sharpening it himself. Let the man who knows how do the job. Knowledge of this kind of thing only comes with experience.

Long-Time Resident Dies After Long Illness

Late Mrs. W. J. Elliott

A long time resident of Lachute, Mrs. W. J. Elliott, passed away on Tuesday, July 1, in the Lachine General Hospital — having been a patient for many years in a convalescent hospital in that city.

Born in Lakefield in 1883, the youngest daughter of the late James Boyd and Mrs. Boyd, she had resided in Lachute from the time of her marriage in 1920 until her later illness necessitated entering hospital. She was a member of a large family, and although the immediate members of her family predeceased her, yet she has many nieces and nephews living in widespread places.

As Miss Caroline Boyd she was married to William James Elliott, of Lachute, 30 years ago. He predeceased her in 1950.

Mrs. Elliott was a member of the Anglican Church and attended services at St. Simeon's, Lachute, until her illness prevented her from being able to get about.

The funeral took place from the Kingston Funeral Home to St. Simeon's Church, where service was held, and thence to the Lachute Protestant Cemetery. The Rev. C. R. Lang officiated. Two beautiful hymns were sung by the St. Simeon's choir, "On the Resurrection Morning" and "Rock of Ages". Many friends attended the service to pay tribute to the deceased.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Herbert, Albert and Haddon MacDonald, R. Elliott and R. Rogers.

Electronic Brain Research, New Hope In War on Polio

New light may be thrown on the behavior of nerve cells affected by the virus of poliomyelitis as the result of a research fellowship awarded by the Canadian Legion March of Dimes to a Chinese born scientist at the Montreal Neurological Institute.

The grant of $4,600 for one year, including $500 for photographic supplies, goes to Dr. Choh-luh Li, 34 year old senior investigator at the institute, who is working there under the direction of Dr. Wilder Penfield, M.N.I. director, and Dr. Herbert Jasper, chairman of experimental neurology at McGill University.

"Dr. Li is going to study the way individual units of the nervous system — neurons or nerve cells — behave when they are affected by polio virus", Dr. Jasper explained in an interview at the institute.

"This is a new approach because so far we have only studied the effects on large numbers of neurons, though we have been studying — for some years — effects produced by polio in muscle units.

"Dr. Li's work represents a more direct approach to the central mechanism of the nerve cells rather than merely studying the muscle paralysis, which itself is due to the nervous activity.

"It is part of a general analysis of the motor system of the brain — the part that causes motion in the body — under normal conditions so that this normal activity can be compared with what takes place under the influence of the polio virus."

Dr. Li has made considerable progress in the development of a technique for recording the electrical activity from single nerve cells. The technique yields far more information than could be obtained with cruder methods of research.

The results of Dr. Li's research measured with a micro-electrode. This consists of a tiny glass tube tapering off to a point so fine it can be plunged into a single cell without destroying the cell or interrupting its normal behavior.

The electrical discharge of a neuron is recorded through a column of salt solution in the electrode. The electrode findings are magnified and appear on an oscilloscope. They are recorded for future study by means of thousands of photographs.

The results of Dr. Li's research will be co-ordinated with studies of patients who had polio in the epidemic of 1946. They were examined at that time under the National Research Council program. They will be re-examined to find out what kind of change in motor unit patterns has taken place since that time.

Fire Destroyed Recreation Hall At Tamaracouta

The recreation hall at Camp Tamaracouta, Mille Isles, familiar to many Scouts from troops in this division, was destroyed by an early morning fire last week while 100 campers and officials watched helplessly from the shelter of the tall pines surrounding the frame building.

At daybreak, only the shaft of the huge stone fireplace remained above the blackened ruins. There was nothing left to suggest that a spacious hall, 100 feet long and 30 feet wide, once stood there.

Cause of the blaze is unknown. Flames were noticed at 4 a.m. by Jeff Edgell, one of the camp's senior staff. The outbreak is thought to have started in a dressing room off the stage.

About 50 tents, valued at $1,500, a 14-foot dingy, the camp's largest boat, and four flat-bottomed boats were destroyed. They were stored in a workshop under the hall when the fire started.

The fire, which is thought to have started perhaps two hours before it was spotted, represents a loss of about $25,000 to the Scouts, camp director L. C. Houldsworth told press reporters.

Fire-fighting apparatus could not be summoned to the camp in time, and the Scouts' equipment — a soda-acid pump and a bucket brigade — proved hopelessly inadequate as flames fed on the British Columbia cedar of which the building was constructed.

Although the fire singed several of the pines nearby, it did not spread to the administration buildings and dormitory some distance away. Nor was the four-bed hospital touched.

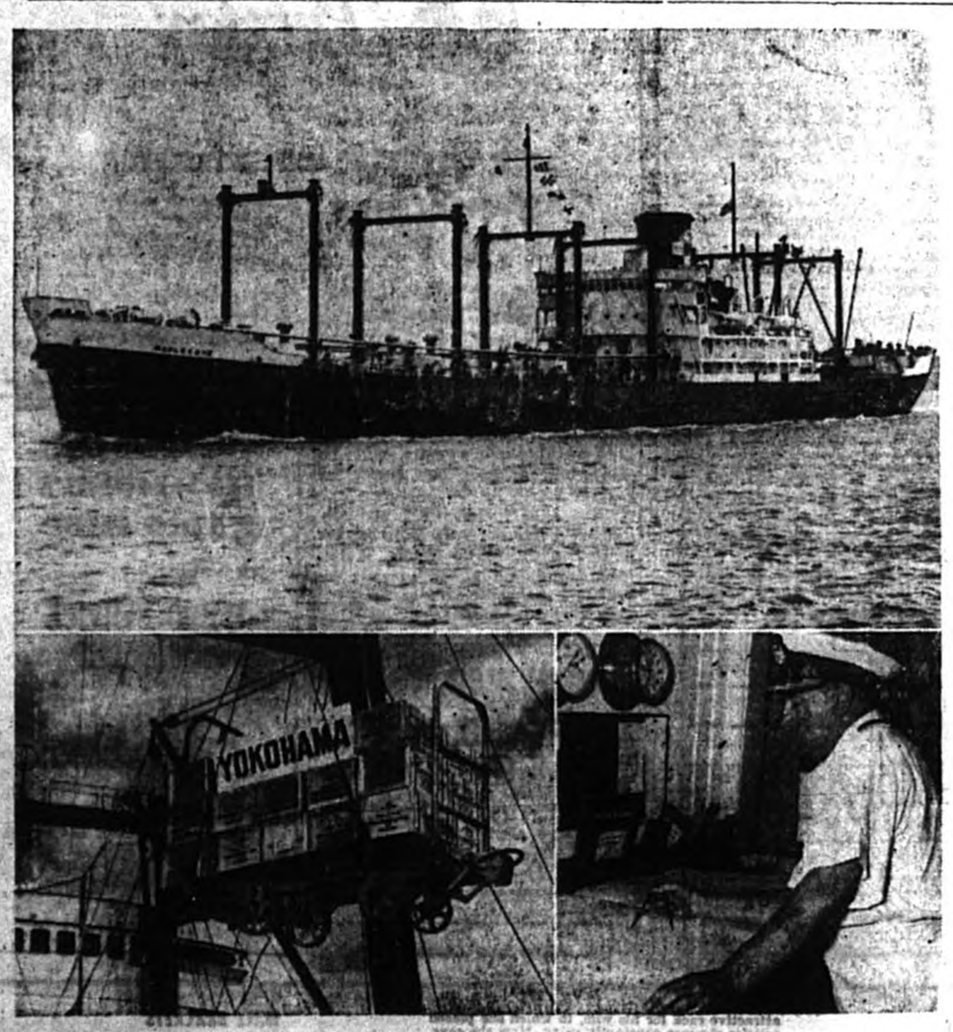

Edgall, who had noticed nothing unusual on his rounds at 12.30 a.m., saw flames shooting through the roof later in the morning and immediately roused the camp.

By five o'clock, flames had consumed the building.

Camp Closed Saturday

The blaze came as Scouts preparing to "break camp" for the season. Camp Tamaracouta closed last Saturday.

The recreation hall, second largest of seven buildings on the campsite, was named "Jubilee Hall" when it was started in 1935, and was first used during the summer of 1936.

FAR EAST BOUND — To the Canadian Pacific Steamships' 10,000 ton cargo vessel Maplecove goes the honor of being the first company ship to return to Pacific service since World War II. The ship, which sailed from Montreal recently, is headed for Vancouver, where she will take on the balance of her cargo. The route for the new service will be between Tacoma, Seattle, Vancouver, Yokohama, Kobe, Manila, Cebu, Hong Kong and Nageya, and late in September the Maplecove will be joined by her sister ship Mapledell, to offer a monthly service between these ports. Formerly the Beaverdell and Beavercove, both these vessels were on regular C.P.S. Atlantic service before the changeover. Lower right shows Maplecove's skipper Captain R. A. Leicester, of Vancouver, in the chartroom of his ship, studying the route the vessel will sail, while lower left shows a cargo sling with a load of Canadian produce bound for Yokohama, Japan, being loaded on the ship at Montreal. All-Canadian crews will staff the two ships.

COMMUNITY BACKS CRIPPLED EDITORS

Toronto (CP) — Two arthritis and polio victims, Gordon and Verna Agnew, are providing community news for 5,000 residents of suburban Queensway, although they haven't left their home in the area during the eight weeks they've been putting out their four-page weekly.

Handicapped by the need for crutches and but three arms between them, the Agnews use telephone and typewriter to gather and put together news for "The Queensway".

Now they're eagerly awaiting installation of an elevator in the home built for them by the community, so that they can get outside to gather news in person.

The couple was invited to the Queensway by William Stroud, himself a cripple, after the newspaper they had edited in Newcastle, Ont., was put up for sale.

Stroud presented them with "The Queensway". He himself had tried to make a go of the paper last year, but pressure of his printing press business made it unsuccessful.

Queensway residents are co-operating to bring the Agnews the elevator and — business. Merchants feel "The Queensway" is such a good paper that they're buying advertising space in advance to ensure its future publication.

In 1939 Ottawa took 49 cents out of Canadians' tax dollar, provinces and municipalities took 51 cents; in 1951 Ottawa took 73 cents of the tax dollar, and other governments 27 cents.

Prehistoric Relics Sought on Prairies

Southern Saskatchewan Is Archaeologists' Favorite Spot

Regina (CP) — While oil drillers scour Saskatchewan for black gold, a few well-trained crews are digging into Saskatchewan's earth in another totally unheralded hunt — the search for prehistoric remains.

The southwestern corner of Saskatchewan in the vicinity of Eastend has long been a favorite stamping ground for archaeologists and museum workers. It contains deposits of a type not found elsewhere in Canada.

It started before the Second World War, when Fenley Hunter, a New York paleontologist, found some valuable remains in the Eastend district hills. Since then it has attracted the attention of the provincial museum, the Royal Ontario and National museums.

Examples of the ancient remains were on display recently at the government's natural resources department office in Regina.

Included were fossils, jaw bones, teeth and horn core of a rhinoceros-like animal with the frightful name of Titanothere. These extinct creatures were about eight feet tall and 15 feet long. Findings indicate they were numerous in the area, which millions of years ago was an extensive river delta.

Also on display was the jaw bone of a buffalo wolf. This animal now is extinct, but survived until recent times, as time is calculated by men who dig for prehistoric remains.

Other items include a human skull found at an old Indian campsite, a stone hammer used to pound dried meat for pemmican, skin scrapers for fleshing hides, and flaking tools for the manufacture of arrowheads.

Naturalists say lichens, growing on rocks across Canada, may be the oldest living things on earth. Their annual growth is microscopic.

Couple Pledge Vows at Maple Avenue Church

Wilson - Morrison

The marriage of Marjorie Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Morrison, of Brownsburg, to Mr. John Haig Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Wilson, of Sydenham, Ont., took place at 3 o'clock on Saturday, August 16, in the Maple Avenue Baptist Church, Brownsburg. The Rev. N. H. Brock performed the ceremony and Mrs. N. E. Smillie played the wedding music. Pink and white gladioli composed the floral decorations.

The bride wore a street-length strapless gown of blue crepe, topped by a matching redingote of nylon marquisette. Her headdress was a white lace Juliet cap, with shoulder-length veil of nylon tulle held in place by rhinestone ornaments. She carried a nosegay of pink and white sweet peas and baby's breath, and wore a triple strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Isabel McOuat as bridesmaid. Mr. Floyd Twa acted as best man, while the ushers were Mr. Arthur Morrison, brother of the bride, and Mr. Edward Brown, nephew of the groom.

The bridesmaid wore a gown of pink nylon marquisette over matching taffeta and a headdress of pink net ornamented with pearls and wore a corsage of sweet peas and baby's breath. Mrs. Morrison, the bride's mother, wore a two-piece dress of navy blue sheer with navy accessories and wore a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church hall, where the tables were decorated with gladioli.

Out-of-town guests included — Mr. D. J. "Let God Be True"

The Way to God Through Prayer

Prayer above all things is a matter of faith. He that approaches God must believe that He is; that requires faith, because no man has seen God at any time. Nor, in fact, can see him.

Those who really have faith will please God, for faith includes the confidence that God becomes the rewarder of those who earnestly seek Him, and the way we demonstrate that confidence is by our works. That is why James says, "Faith without works is dead". (James 2, 19 — 17-18.)

God through His word encourages us to pray (Psalms 50: 15), but if we go to Him in prayer only if ye are in particular need of His help, there is something radically wrong with us. Do we not owe our life to the great fountain of life? And has He not given us all things necessary to sustain that life? Is He not the giver of every perfect gift? (Psalms 36: 9 — James 1: 17); also Psalm 107, verse 8, says: Oh that men would praise Jehovah, for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men. Psalm 139:14 and Job 21: 22 refer to this also: We do not need to go to some church building to be heard of God. Psalm 34: 15 says: The eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous, and his ears are open unto their cry. Acts 7: 48 says: The most high dwelleth not in Temples made with hands. Matthew 6: 5-6, says: And when thou prayest thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are, for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, they have their reward. But thou when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret: and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly. Proverbs 15: 29. The Lord is far from the wicked, but he hears the prayers of the righteous. . . The only way of approach to the great creator of the heavens and earth, whose name alone is Jehovah (Psalms 83: 18) is through Christ Jesus, who gave His life a ransom. . . He said no man cometh unto the Father but by me, and if you ask anything in my name I will do it. (John 14: 14).

The disciples of Jesus realized the importance of Prayer, and asked him to teach them how to pray. Jesus gave instructions that are indispensable to the Christian today. Luke 11: 1-4. When ye pray, say, "Our Father which art in Heaven, hallowed be thy name, thy Kingdom come, thy will be done, as in Heaven so in Earth" . . So Christians today should be very busy drawing the attention of the people to this only hope for mankind.

Lachute Girl Wed Recently in Toronto

Clarke - Stewart

The marriage of Heather Christena Grace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stewart, of Lachute, to Mr. Norman Howard Clarke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Clarke, of Toronto, was solemnized at 3 o'clock Saturday, July 26, in Deer Park United Church, Toronto, the Rev. Victor Levan officiating. Mr. Weatherseed played the wedding music, and Mr. Clarke, father of the bridegroom, sang, "I'll Walk Beside You."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a strapless gown of imported French lace over tulle and satin, with matching lace jacket. The skirt featured a lace peplum over a full skirt. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion and lace was held by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of red rosebuds and white mums.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Jean Stewart, as maid of honor. Her gown was of blue marquisette over nylon with lace cape. She wore a bandeau of blue flowers to match her gown. Miss Joyce Stewart, also a sister of the bride, and Miss Marlene Clarke, sister of the bridegroom, wore similar gowns in pink, and carried nosegays of mixed summer flowers.

Mr. Jack Church acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. William Stewart, brother of the bride, and Mr. William Clarke, brother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Stewart, the bride's mother, wore a two-piece dress of grey taffeta with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Clarke, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of pink crepe with navy and pink accessories, and a corsage of pink roses.

Mixed summer flowers decorated the Clarendon Hall, where the reception was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke will reside at 445 Lakeshore Road, Toronto.

Kilmar Girl Is Bride In Montreal Ceremony

Carson - MacRae

The marriage of Clara Agnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert MacRae, of Kilmar, Que., to Mr. James Carson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Carson, of Montreal, took place on Saturday morning, at ten o'clock, in St. Malacky's Church, Montreal, the Rev. Father George Thoms officiating. Mr. McCaffrey played the wedding music and Mr. Ruggles Perrier sang during the service. Multi-colored gladioli were used to decorate.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore an ankle-length gown of white Chantilly lace over satin and net, the lace bodice having long fitted sleeves. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a lace Juliet cap and orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white pompoms.

Miss Kathleen MacRae, as maid of honor for her sister, and Miss Patricia Lane, Miss Ellen Gannon and Miss Victoria McDougall, as bridesmaids, were in ankle-frocks of Swiss organdy over taffeta — the maid of honor being in blue and the bridesmaids in yellow, mauve and pink, having fitted bodices and full skirts. They wore matching Juliet caps and carried colonial bouquets of multi-colored flowers.

Mr. Edward Brown acted as best man for Mr. Carson, and the ushers were Mr. Jim Graham, Mr. Gerald Lane and Mr. Thomas Lane, Jr.

A luncheon was held in the Green Room of Victoria Hall, Westmount, where bowls of pink and white carnations centred the table. Mrs. MacRae, the bride's mother, was gowned in navy blue crepe and wore a white hat and accessories and a corsage bouquet of pink carnations. Mrs. Carson, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of silver flecked burgundy crepe with a grey hat and matching accessories, and a corsage bouquet of yellow carnations.

A reception was held in the Community Hall, Kilmar, where supper was served to over 200 guests.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Carson left for New York and the northern United States, the bride travelling in a yellow suit and wearing a turquoise hat and accessories, and a corsage bouquet of orchids. On their return, they will reside in Montreal.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer MacRae, and Mrs. Nelson MacRae, from Niagara Falls, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stewart and Helen, Mr. and Mrs. Edley Woodbury, Donald, Ronnie and Linda, of Ottawa; Mr. Bruce Woodbury, of Temiskaming, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellis, Mr. Gerald Ellis, Miss Gilda MacRae and Mr. Pete Bracelin, of Kilmar, Que., attended the marriage and luncheon in Montreal.

The monthly meeting of the Grace Church Ladies' Auxiliary was held at Mrs. Jack Smith's, where final plans for the annual bazaar were made. At the conclusion of the afternoon the hostess served refreshments.

Annual Bazaar

The Grace (Anglican) Church annual bazaar was held Saturday evening in the school auditorium, where well-filled booths were the main attraction for those who attended. During the evening a well planned program, entitled "Arundel Revue of 52", was rendered by some of the original cast of the Blue and Gold Revue of Macdonald College. This program was in the form of a variety show and each item was fully enjoyed. Mr. Bill Bell acted as a very efficient master of ceremonies and his interspersed chatter was much enjoyed. During the proceedings the Rev. P. Busing welcomed the visitors to the evening's event. A good sum was realized, which will be used to carry on the work of the Auxiliary.

Acknowledgment

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Moore wish to express sincere appreciation and thanks to all kind neighbors, relatives and friends, for kindnesses and help during their recent bereavement.

Lowest-Priced in Its Field!

Chevrolet The Leader, is the lowest-priced car in its field. It's Canada's most beautiful low-priced car — and Canada's most wonderful motor car value!

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Only Chevrolet the Leader gives you all these fine car features!

Yes, Chevrolet brings you lowest prices on model after model... as well as these extra features for your extra pleasure, comfort and safety.

Take a look at the wonderful new Chevrolets for '52! Examine their radiant new Royal-Tone Styling and ultra-luxurious Bodies by Fisher, available in a wide choice of solid-tone and two-tone color combinations—most wonderful array of colors in their field. These cars bring you everything from thrilling new Centrepoise Power to fleet, spirited, thoroughly dependable Valve-in-Head engine performance; and from a new smoother, softer ride to extra-large Jumbo-Drum Brakes. Realize, too, that with all their finer quality the new Chevrolets are the lowest-priced line in their field, in addition to being exceedingly economical to operate and maintain. Come in . . . see and drive the new Chevrolet for '52 . . . and let us show you how easily you can own one!

CENTREPOISE POWER

Engine vibration and power impulses are "screened out" — isolated from driver and passengers. Engine rides flexibly suspended between new high-side mountings . . . centred, poised, cushioned in rubber.

EXTRA LARGE BRAKES

Chevrolet's Jumbo-Drum brakes with their big 11-inch brake drums, apply more leverage for more stopping power. Stops are smoother, safe, with less driver effort. Bonded linings last up to twice as long.

GORGEOUS NEW COLORS

Choose from a wide choice of rich new colors and two-tone color combinations . . . the most wonderful in Chevrolet's field. Distinctive new De Luxe interiors are color-matched to the exterior body colors for new color harmony inside and out.

BODY BY FISHER

Fisher Body sets the standard in the automobile industry — for styling, for craftsmanship, for comfort and convenience! And Fisher Unisteel construction guards you with the solid strength of steel welded to steel . . . above you, beneath you, all around you.

CAST IRON ALLOY PISTONS

Pistons are formed from the same material as the cylinder block — expand and contract at the same rate. This helps maintain a precise fit at all engine temperatures — reduces piston wear and oil consumption!

EXTRA WIDE TREAD

Chevrolet measures a full 58¾ inches between centres of rear wheels — providing a broader base to give you more stability on the road, less sway on the curves!

POWERGLIDE AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION

It's an oil-smooth, oil-cooled automatic transmission. It's simpler with fewer parts to wear or require adjustment. It's smoother because oil does it all without complicated intermediate gears. Optional on De Luxe models at extra cost.

POWERFUL VALVE-IN-HEAD ENGINE

Teamed with Powerglide* is the powerful valve-in-head engine — an outstanding performer by any measure! This Powerglide engine's Hydraulic-Hushed valve lifters are another important Chevrolet exclusive. *(Powerglide automatic transmission available on De Luxe models at extra cost.)

UNITIZED KNEE-ACTION RIDE

Chevrolet's famous Knee-Action ride is now even softer, smoother. New shock absorber action smothers bumps and jolts more quickly and effectively than ever.

EXTRA-EASY CENTRE-POINT STEERING

4-WAY ENGINE LUBRICATION

GM "SHADE-LITE" GLASS Reduces Glare, Heat, Fatigue

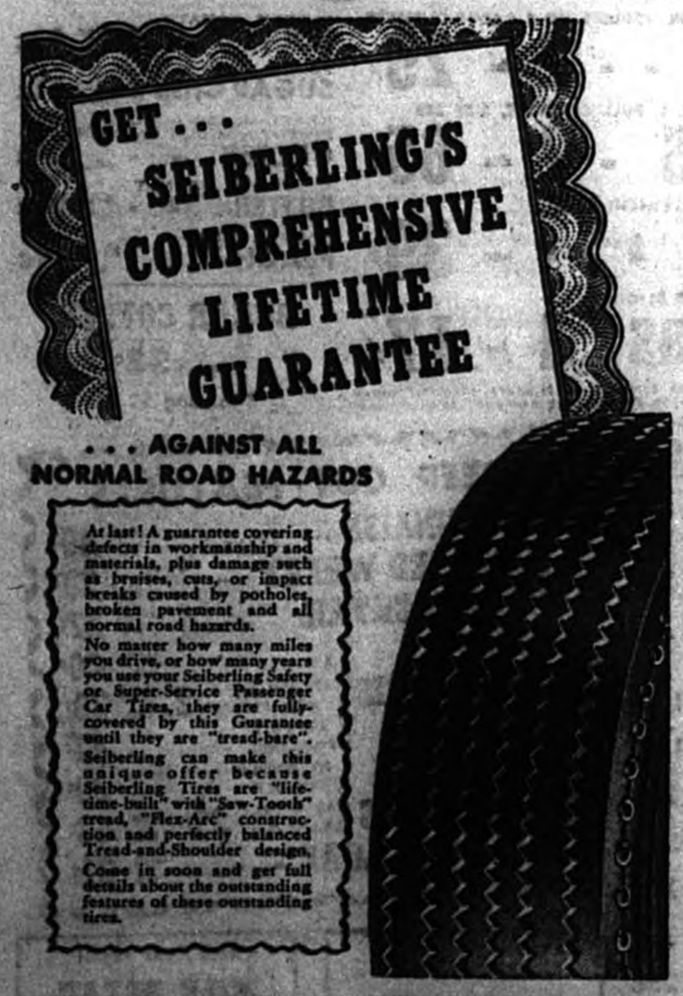

Chevrolet offers "Shade-Lite" glass with exclusive, shaded windshield-tinting for your extra protection. "Shade-Lite" glass all 'round reduces glare and heat, helps you drive more safely and comfortably. (Optional at extra cost).

Indian Exponents Of Folk Lore, at Carillon Saturday

The annual garden party of the Argenteuil Historical Society has been arranged for Saturday, August 23, from 3 to 5.30 at the Carillon Museum. During the past year many new and worthwhile exhibits have been added to the museum display. In connection with this annual event, Mrs. Phoebe Erskine McKellar has arranged for a group of Oka Indians to give a traditional demonstration. There will also be folk dancing by local talent.

Members of the Society and all interested are cordially invited to attend. Tea will be served at a nominal cost.

Lakeshore Couple Win Mixed Golf Championship

Lachute Players Rank High In Strong Competition

Mr. and Mrs. René Pilon of the Lakeshore Golf Club romped away to a one-stroke triumph in the popular Quebec Mixed Foursome Championship of the Province of Quebec Association when they posted a gross total of 83 in the two-ball 18-hole tournament here last Friday.

The winners rounded the turn in 43, but came back in 40 for their well deserved victory.

Right on their heels came Jack Cameron, Laval-sur-le-Lac, one of the Dominion's better players a decade ago, and Mrs. R. (Bob) Lyle of Kanawaki — reports George Whittaker in The Montreal Star. This pair finished in the runner-up position with an 83.

One of the most popular prize winners were the combination of Mrs. Emile Collette and Gilbert Ayers, president of the Lachute Club. They finished in third place among the low gross scorers and when the presentation of prizes took place they were given an ovation. They were out in 44 and back in 41 for an 85.

Stuart Gordon and Mrs. Tren Bishop, also of Lachute, walked off with low net honors with 68½. The runners-up in this division were another Lachute combination, Dave Campbell and Mrs. Norma Rogers, with 71, while Joe Leblanc, Whitlock, who will represent Quebec in the Willingdon Cup matches at Vancouver on August 23 at Vancouver, and Miss J. A. Bull, won the third low net award.

Two Canadiens Stars At Brownsburg Sunday

An exciting sidelight — especially insofar as juvenile sport fans are concerned — is announced in connection with the Bouchard anniversary this week-end in Brownsburg, marking the 40th milestone of the Rev. V. Bouchard as curé of the St. Louis de France parish.

Adding to the lighter vein of these celebrations on Sunday will be the appearance of two Canadiens hockey stars — Gerry McNeil, goaler, who will referee the softball game and personally meet the crowd at the picnic grounds that afternoon; and the popular Maurice "Rocket" Richard, who will be at the social evening (8.30 p.m.) at the Protestant School in honor of this occasion.

Alleys Now Open – Bolodrome Innovation

Bowling enthusiasts will be interested to note that Lachute Bolodrome has reopened for the season, and it is expected that teams will be linking up for the various leagues in anticipation of keen schedules and highly competitive games.

An innovation at the Bolodrome is the installation of a Champion television receiver, which is now in operation every evening. It is believed to be the first instance of a TV set installed in a bowling establishment in this province, and the management deserves credit for this initiative in entertainment.

Members' Mixed Tourney Held Last Sunday

Field Replete With 84 Enthusiastic Entries

A mixed two-ball foursome at the Golf Club last Sunday drew no fewer than 84 entries among the club membership. The competition was entered into with a spirit of keen enjoyment, concluding with a corn roast for the participants, held on the clubhouse terrace.

Winners with 1st low net were Mrs. Shirley Reade and Howard Watson, 72½.

2nd low net, Miss Joyce Tingley and Bob Hamilton, 74.

3rd and 4th, tied — Miss Jean Ogilvie and Tony Cassidy; Mrs. Geo. Leggett and Laurier Carriere, 77.

Two consolation prizes were awarded, for candid high score to the "most honest golfers", Mrs. Vermandel and Geo. Leggett, Jr.; and also to Mrs. Norma Rodgers and Dave Campbell, whose accomplishments included 12 strokes on a par-3 hole (No. 15) and four lost balls in the water hazard. (The prize to Mr. Campbell was a landing net!)

The Ayers Ltd. weekly broadcast was held at 10.15 o'clock from the club, affording a new angle of entertainment for the patrons.

Game Protested in Arg. Softball League

At St. Andrews East last Sunday, the home team defeated Lachute Legion 7-6. Carillon meanwhile beat Colford Lodge, but this game was protested by Frank McLean, manager of the latter team. The protest will be under consideration at next meeting of the Argenteuil Softball League directors.

It is announced that, on termination of the play-offs, Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., has agreed to be present at the closing soirée of the league, at St. Andrews Inn, and to present the Boyd Trophy to the champion team. This occasion has been set back to sometime in October, due to rainy weather and delays in the schedule. Tickets are now on sale.

A visitor to a mental hospital noticed one of the patients running about the grounds, flapping his arms and cackling. Puzzled, he turned to the doctor who was escorting him. "What's the matter with that poor fellow?" he asked. "He imagines that he's a chicken", replied the doctor. "Can't anything be done for him?" inquired the visitor. "Oh yes", replied the doctor, "we would cure him, but we need the eggs".

Nuptials of Interest to Riverfront Community

Graham - Wishart

A marriage which took place on August 16 in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, Ont., is of interest to a number of residents hereabouts—the bride having been a frequent visitor in Cushing as the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. W. Usher. Miss Mary Lois Wishart, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wishart, Belleville, Ont., was given in marriage by her father, to Mr. John Osborne Graham, son of Dr. and Mrs. John Graham, of Goderich, Ont., Dr. Duncan MacTavish officiating.

The bridesmaids were Elspeth and Carol, sisters of the bride, while Mr. Dudley Burland, of Toronto, acted as best man.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white embroidered Swiss organdy over white taffeta with nylon net ruffles. The fingertip veil of tulle illusion fell from a shaped headdress of net. White pompoms, baby's breath and pale yellow Sweetheart roses composed her colonial bouquet.

Miss Elspeth Wishart wore white embroidered organdy over powder blue taffeta and net, with halo hat in blue nylon net, and Miss Carol Wishart was dressed in a similar costume of primrose yellow. Both carried colonial bouquets of yellow Sweetheart roses, blue cornflowers and baby's breath.

Mrs. Wishart, mother of the bride, was dressed in a periwinkle blue chiffon and lace floor-length gown, with corsage of pink carnations and black velour hat. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Graham, was in a soft blue silk shantung suit, with pink flower hat and corsage of pink roses.

The historic and picturesque church was beautifully decorated with masses of ferns and gladiolus in pastel shades, with white glads and satin streamers for the guest pews. Miss Mary Graham, of Toronto, sang "I'll Walk Beside You."

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents; the flowers throughout the rooms were white glads, cosmas in shades of pink, with Chinese forget-me-nots all in blue and white Wedgewood containers.

Leaving by motor for their wedding trip to Quebec City, the New England beaches and Boston, the bride was dressed in blue figured nylon silk with navy velour hat, a silk duster coat and navy accessories, with a corsage of Talisman roses.

Both bride and groom are graduates of Toronto University. They will reside in Goderich, Ont.

Toronto Stadium Draws the Crowd

SPORTS CAMERA

By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With attendance down at most ball parks in the big leagues and the minors, it's a novelty to find a club that is clicking at the turnstiles. But that's the case with the Toronto Maple Leafs this year under Jack Kent Cooke.

Cooke, who already owned New Liberty magazine and a Toronto radio station, bought a controlling interest in the ball club last summer. Since then the team hasn't been any shucks in the International League standings — it finished fifth (and out of the playoffs) last season and this August had only a slim hold on fourth place — but it has been paying off at the box office.

How has he done it? By handing out loads of prizes to the fans, providing entertainment before the game and between innings, and by loosening his bank roll to buy players.

Something Every Night

Here's a list of the goings-on at Maple Leaf Stadium on a typical recent week:

Monday: (Children's Night). First 500 children entering the park got a free rubber ball. Prizes to lucky tickets; a live pony complete with saddle; a boy's bicycle and a girl's bicycle; three pedigreed pups, toys, construction sets, wagons and doll carriages.

Tuesday: (Ladies' Appreciation night): Prizes included tins of honey, cartons of pop, earrings, chocolates and aluminum cooking utensils. And, a fashion parade.

Wednesday: Children accompanied by their parents admitted free and given comic books. Hair cream for the first 1,000 men.

Thursday: Prizes included a new automobile, a television set, automatic washer, automatic electric range.

Friday: Entertainment by vaudeville acts. Exhibition ball game between Turk Broda's National Hockey League All Stars and Toronto sports writers and sportscasters. Military band concert. Prizes: another new car, TV set, electric stove, refrigerator, suit and a diamond ring.

And there have been loads of other crowd-pullers, too. On one night all policemen were admitted free; another night street-car operators; another evening firemen. On July 12, all Orangemen in regalia got free admittance. On Redhead Night" the carrot-topped fans didn't need tickets.

Since he took over the team Cooke has spent well over $200,000 in an attempt to give Toronto fans a winning club.

The biggest chunk of cash was $20,000 to Baltimore Orioles for Marvin Rickert, a hardhitting outfielder who was the international League's home-run king last year. Pitcher Phil Haugstad from the Cincinnati Reds was a $17,500 purchase.

It cost Cooke $15,000 to get hurler Gerry Fahr from the Cleveland Indians; $12,500 each for pitcher John Hetki and infielder Bill Jennings from St. Louis Browns; the same amount for infielder Pete Pavlick from Seattle. Others were cheaper.

Aids Night Racing

The United States Trotting Association has announced the first successful use of a photographic system to aid officiating at night harness track racing.

The new system, now in effect only at Sportsman's Park in a Chicago suburb, probably will be adopted at other harness tracks.

One of the film companies devised a new-type film which eliminates exposure problems previously encountered at night. In the past, officials said, no method had been available to insure photographic success in the dark hours.

The new film is reported sufficiently hard to allow the use of a hot developer, necessary in the processing of film underexposed by night photography.

The veterinary surgeon instructed the farmer how to give the powder he prescribed to his sick horse. "Take a piece of gas pipe two feet long, put the powder in it, put one end of the pipe well back in the horse's mouth and blow."

A short time later the farmer came rushing into the veterinary's office. "I'm dying, I'm dying!" he cried. "The horse blew first!"

Opportunity Winners

The camera man dropped into a rehearsal for the radio show Opportunity Winners, (heard Monday nights at 8.30 on the CBC) and caught the three stars of the show as they listened to some advice from conductor-m.c. John Adaskin. That's William B. Williams on the left, a baritone from Hamilton; next is Adaskin; and the girls are Angela Antonelli (left), a coloratura soprano from Guelph, Ontario, and Sylvia Grant, a mezzo-soprano from Calgary. All three are studying at the Royal Conservatory of Music of Toronto. They got their chance to star in a network show of their own by winning first place in the three Opportunity Knocks series broadcast last winter. Starting on August 22, they'll be featured with Adaskin and the Opportunity Winners orchestra in the grandstand show at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

MOTORISTS' ZOO

Offensive driver types are whimsically put in animal classifications in a glossary drawn up by the Canadian Police Gazette. They are: lion — an individualist who thinks he always has the right of way; bull — a quick-tempered operator who sees red at a traffic light and charges on; elephant — an unpassable operator who sticks to the middle of the road; chimpanzee — a motorist who hangs onto the roof of the car with one hand while he drives with the other; jack rabbit — a driver who zigs and zags through traffic like a frightened bunny; and jackass — most versatile of all, the show-off who risks his own neck and others' by speeding and weaving.

Devastation Caused by Heavy Rainfall

Railway and Road Washouts, Church Damaged by Lightning

Floods, washouts, damage to highways and the C.P.R. roadbed, fire and near-tragedy — these were effects experienced in this area following a prolonged rainstorm last Thursday which swept over Montreal and along the Ottawa Valley. Almost three inches of rain fell in a 24-hour period, it is reported.

The C.P.R. north shore line was undermined between Calumet and Thurso, the gravel being washed out in stretches from 60 to 200 feet long and the track suspended several feet above ground. In this area both road and railway beds are raised considerably above the ground level. Culverts under the embankments were unable to carry off the surplus of a normally small stream that flows into the Ottawa River.

While through freight traffic was suspended, and passenger trains moved only to Montebello westward, or to Thurso eastward — gravel trains were rolling through Lachute to supply the construction crews established at the scene of the damage, and rail services were finally restored late Tuesday afternoon.

Bus Service Interrupted

Provincial Transport bus driver Rolland Perras told reporters that his bus and 28 passengers were caught between two of the highway washouts.

The Hull-bound vehicle passed the first washout at Pointe-au-Chene after the passengers disembarked and walked across. The second in Montebello near the entrance to the Seigniory Club, swept away 50 feet of the road and no vehicles could pass. By that time the return route was also impassable.

Road traffic was being rerouted around the area via Hawkesbury, Ont. There were no major accidents reported as a result of the flooding.

Many Roads Undermined

A check of highway damage in Argenteuil would probably reach unexpected proportions. Reference to specific cases by our correspondents and informants, indicates roads washed out between Lachute and Arundel, between Dalesville and Louisa, in the Rouge River Valley, and many other places. It is stated by one correspondent at Brownsburg that the West River rose "almost six feet" above its usual level and that workers labored on an eight-hour stretch to ease the flow of water in a precarious spot. Traffic was delayed on many neighboring highways.

Lightning Strikes Church

During the height of the storm lightning struck the steeple of historic Christ Church (Anglican) at St. Andrews East, causing several hundred dollars damage.

Wm. Entwistle, living in the parsonage next door, was first aware of damage after the lightning crash when he saw bricks

Drowned at Ste. Therese

Simone DeRider, 20, of Rimouski was drowned Tuesday in a hotel swimming pool at Ste. Therese.

The girl, who came to Canada from Belgium five years ago, was swimming with friends in the pool at Ste. Therese Hotel, police reported. Dr. Jean-Louis Taillon, district coroner, said the girl probably suffered a cramp. She failed to come up after a dive. Friends pulled her out almost immediately.

Bell Telephone Girl Lions Car Winner

Bought Ticket in June at Lachute Spring Fair

Committeeman Ian Gordon drove to St. Andrews East Sunday evening in the Lions Club 1952 Chevrolet car to announce to the winner her good fortune (the family could not be reached by phone); but he failed to view Miss Woodward's reaction, as she had left 10 minutes earlier to return to the city by bus. . .

Shirley Woodward, an attractive young brunette of 21 years, is employed with the Bell Telephone Company revenue accounting department in Montreal, and comes to her home each week-end. Notified by her parents, she came with them to Lachute on Monday to receive the car, the keys and full ownership rights. The presentation was made outside Lachute Motor Sales premises on Main Street, Ian Gordon (chairman of the Lachute Lions Club committee) handing over the keys with warm congratulations, in the presence of other Lions officials and Jim Duncan, manager of Lachute Motor Sales, who supplied the car at cost.

Miss Woodward, expressing her keen pleasure and gratitude, stated she had purchased a book of tickets at Lachute Spring Fair. She had also been present at the Golf Club last Sunday but had been compelled to leave before the drawing, in order to catch her bus at St. Andrews.

Stan Horne Wins Lions' Pro Tournament -- 218 Aggregate

Redvers MacKenzie Tops Veteran Pros

The all-pro tournament — seventh annual event sponsored by the Montreal district Lions Clubs — was favored by fine sunny weather and attracted a good crowd at Lachute Golf Club last week-end.

The tournament was a 54-hole affair, 36 holes being played Saturday and 18 Sunday. Stan Horne, Islesmere, took the honors, the trophy and the top cash prize, with 218. (Winner last year at Lasalle Country Club was Bill Kerr, Beaconsfield — who ranked third this time with two others carding 224). The old-timers played 36 holes, Redvers MacKenzie, of Elm Ridge Club, taking the shield and the laurels — plus the major cash award in this class, with 159.

The play was closely followed by interested fans, who trekked in crowds along the fairways, and stood breathless around the greens until subdued "ohs" and "ahs" rang a concerto of emotion, or dignified applause greeted some outstanding shot by the pros.

A highly interesting Golf Clinic was conducted by Jules Huot, captain and spokesman for the C.P.G.A. of Quebec, in which the pros went through their paces as Jules called the tune to demonstrate technique, stance and stroke of the golfing game.

Ci Costello then introduced from the platform the leading lights of the big tournament; and proceeding with presentation of the trophies and cash prizes he announced the winners and their scores as follows:

1st — Stan Horne, Islesmere, 218 (Trophy).
2nd — Diamond Gauthier, Municipal, 223.
3rd, 4th, 5th — Jules Huot, Laval; Roland Huot, Lorette; Bill Kerr, Beaconsfield (tied), 224.
6th — Rudolphe Huot, Royal Quebec, 226.
7th — Jack Archer, Lachute, 227.
8th, 9th — Len Harman, Knowlton; Ken Clark, Ottawa Hunt Club (tied), 232.
10th, 11th — Stan Kolar, Gatineau; Jack Kay, Mount Bruno (tied) 233.
12th — Jim Westwell, Wentworth, 234.

Senior Pros (Over 50's)

1st — Red MacKenzie, Elm Ridge, 159 (Trophy).
2nd — Frank Grant, Country Club, Montreal, 175.
3rd — Geo. Ireland, Val Morin, 186.

The highlight of more general public interest, of course, was the grand climax, the drawing for prizes in connection with this big annual event — the first and most valuable of which was a 1952 Chevrolet car. Chairman Ci Costello drew the tickets from an immense revolving drum, and the automobile went to an Argenteuil County subscriber, Miss Shirley Woodward, of St. Andrews East, the ticket number being 19,146.

Vandals Damage Rockway Valley Anglican Church

St. George's Anglican Church at Rockway Valley, near Arundel, was seriously damaged by some unknown persons throwing stones through the windows, causing considerable and expensive havoc. The three side-windows and a most beautiful back window, all stained glass, were destroyed, and it will be very difficult to replace them.

The Rev. P. F. Busing, rector, is endeavoring to have the Provincial Police from Montreal investigate this act of vandalism, which took place on August 14, but it is reported that up to the early part of this week no action had been taken.

Local Horses Prize Winners at Ottawa Exhib'n

A. T. Cleland & Son, of St. Hermas, captured the Grand Champion stallion award with their Clydesdales at the Ottawa Exhibition. Other prizes taken by this exhibitor were —

Gilbert E. Arnold, of Grenville, took all the stallion classes, with one exception, in the Percheron breed. Wins in mares and other classes included:

Arnold was equally successful in Belgians, Mr. Arnold had the Champion stallion ribbon, and the Reserve Champion mare.

John Heatlie & Son, Ogdensburg, took 1st for two-year-old stallion and 2nd for one-year-old stallion in Clydes. Other wins in this breed included:

2nd foal; 4th get of sire; 4th progeny of dam.

Brownsb'g Priest Feted; 40 Years Curé of Parish

Brownsburg — The Rev. Father Vitalis Bouchard, curé of Brownsburg, was feted last Sunday on celebration of his 40th anniversary as priest of the parish of St. Louis de France, and the 45th anniversary of his ordination into the Catholic priesthood. The proceedings include the chanting of special mass, a banquet, a sports meet, social evening, the presentation of an address and a purse of money to the hero of the occasion.

The Bishop of St. Jerome, Mgr. Emilien Frenette, and several distinguished members of the clergy were present to pay tribute to the Rev. Father Bouchard. Mayor Hector Pariseau presented an address in the name of the parishioners, and Dr. René Coté, also on their behalf, presented a cheque of $1,500.

The midday banquet was held at the Brownsburg Hotel, where the speakers included the Bishop, Philippe Valois, M.P., W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., and Dr. Coté. Master of ceremonies was Adrien Lacasse, and numerous priests from the St. Jerome Diocese were among those present.

The Rev. Father Bouchard, in thanking his friends, recalled the early days of the parish, touching upon the hardships and difficulties encountered in his role as first pastor to the flock . . of the difficulties of transit, before the general use of automobiles, by horse-drawn vehicle to St. Philippe and to the mission of St. Michel . . and of the lack of suitable facilities and accommodation for the worshippers.

Blessed with good health through these 40 years, the genial cleric was able to review, with keen satisfaction, the progress, the achievements of his pastorate, and the expansion of his flock. It was a gratifying record.

Gerry McNeil, popular goaler of the N.H.L. Canadiens, was present to referee the softball game between Brownsburg pupils and the Alfred Industrial School, held during the afternoon. He met the crowd, greeted the young fans, and posed for many camera-fiends. A sports program provided interest to complete the afternoon.

In the evening, the program of entertainment at the Protestant School included several well-known artists of Radio-Canada, with Henri Poulin as m.c. and Omer Danis officially welcoming the crowd.

The Rev. Father Bouchard spoke briefly in conclusion — inviting one and all to "return in five years' time" for the golden anniversary of his ordination as a priest.

Statisticians, reporting that sport fishing is big business in Canada, estmate it is worth an annual $80,000,000 annually.

Newcomers to High School Staff on Reopening of Classes September 2nd

Physical Education Instructor Has Served as Olympics Coach; No Teacher, No Course, in Commerce

When Lachute High School reopens next Tuesday, September 2, there will be a staff of 31 teachers headed by Principal F. H. J. Royal, M.A.

Among those who have taught on the school staff before and who are returning this year are: B. A. Millar, M.A.; A. E. Thompson, B.A.; J. C. Hawes, B.Sc.; Russell Burton, B.Sc.; Miss E. Stanton, B.A.; R. Wyse, B.Sc., B.Ed.; Miss J. Catterson, B.A.; Miss B. Vrooman, B.Sc.; Keith Russell, B.Sc.; S. E. McKyes, L.R.S.M. (London); Mrs. N. Rogers, Miss M. MacLachlan, Mrs. M. McDonell, Mrs. E. Armstrong, Mrs. A. Walker, Mrs. E. R. Graham, Miss J. Wickenden, Mrs. D. Robinson, Miss Grace McMahon, Mrs. E. Dixon, Miss Gertrude McMahon and Miss M. McBain.

There are several newcomers to the staff, including: Robert Bailly, B.Sc., who is a native of Lunenburg, N.S. Mr. Bailly has been teaching for the past four years in the Danville-Asbestos-Shipton High School at Danville, Que. He will specialize in the teaching of Mathematics at Lachute High School. Miss Diana Hawkins, B.Sc., is another newcomer. She is a specialist in Physical Education and will work in this capacity in Lachute and Brownsburg. Miss Hawkins is a native of Toronto, but has been teaching for a number of years in Ottawa. Arne Petersen, B.Sc., comes to Lachute from Copenhagen, Denmark. He will be in charge of Physical Education for the schools in both Lachute and Brownsburg. He is particularly well qualified for this position, having trained a number of teams for the 1948 Olympics. Kenneth Dixon, of Sydney, N.S., will be in charge of the Industrial Arts Department and has had several years' experience in this work. James Martin will be a Grade VII teacher. His home is in Campbell's Bay, Que. Mrs. Arthur Cousins will teach a Grade VI. Mrs. Cousins has taught for several years in Montreal. Mrs. James Hay, of Lachute, who has been teaching for several years in the High School at Valois, Que., will be teacher for Grade IV. Miss Helen Kennedy will teach a Grade I. Miss Kenny comes from Milton, N.S., and is especially qualified to teach primary grades.

Despite every possible effort on the part of the School Board, they have been unable to obtain the services of a qualified teacher for the Commercial Course, with the result that this subject will not be taught this year.

A new departure this year will be the teaching of elective music in the High School grades, starting with Grade VIII. This is accepted by McGill University as a subject for matriculation.

The regular annual opening exercises and prize giving will be held in the Lachute High School auditorium on Friday evening, September 12, at 8 o'clock.

Tom-toms Echo Again at Historic Carillon, Scene of Iroquois Onslaught

Large Gathering at Argenteuil Historical Society's Mid-Season Garden Party

Mellow warmth and sunny weather enticed a considerable crowd to the garden party at Carillon Museum last Saturday afternoon. Or was it the program; or a surging interest in the welfare of the Argenteuil Historical Society? — Whatever the reason, the attendance was gratifying to the Society directors and organizers of this event.

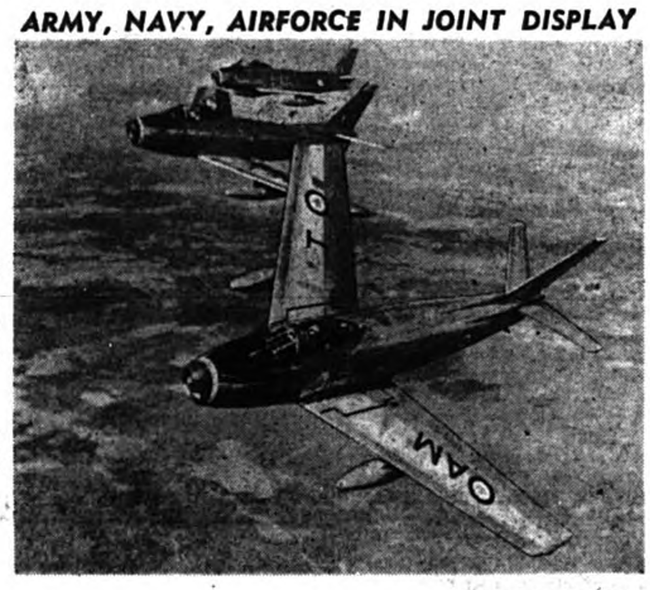

Long-time members and associates, browsing through the Museum, found new items to capture their attention — found new significance in the old, original exhibits — or perhaps experienced anew that satisfied feeling, that traditional treasures were here assembled in safekeeping. . . Old friends and members renewed acquaintances from the riverfront and countryside, or politely nodded to others with familiar faces but whose names escaped them. (Historical Society gatherings were ever thus, it seems, with the grace and dignity of Victorian days but lacking in all the modern zeal of cordiality.)

Mrs. Phoebe Erskine McKellar excelled again, bringing the right touch of local and national tradition, to present a program aptly appropriate to the spot and to the occasion. Between the broad, sunflecked Ottawa River, and the historic stone building that once rang to the sound of regimental armory and trappings — here into the trim Museum grounds Mrs. McKellar escorted a group of 20-odd Indians, both young and old, with tom-toms, costumes and feathered headdress, from the nearby village of Oka. They sang and recited in the native tongue, danced and enacted traditional plays, including the welcome dance, the scalping dance and other themes.

Folk-lore of the countryside was also exemplified by a troupe of young ladies from St. Andrews East, directed by Miss M. Paré, who sang traditional French-Canadian airs and danced the steps of old folk-dances.

The performers were thanked by Mrs. Geo. McGibbon, vice-president and convener, and in conclusion, ladies of the Historical Society served tea on the balcony of the Museum or in the adjacent habitant room. . . Altogether, an interesting and enjoyable occasion.

ARMY, NAVY, AIRFORCE IN JOINT DISPLAY

Central Press Canadian

From Bagotville, Que., a squadron of RCAF jet planes has flown to Toronto to demonstrate high-speed formation flying at the Canadian National Exhibition. The squadron is joining naval aircraft from Dartmouth, N.S., paratroops, artillery and tanks to put on a display of all branches of the Canadian armed services.

Prescott M.P. Hurt In Fall from Train

Hawkesbury — Raymond Bruneau, M.P. for Prescott, narrowly escaped serious injury recently when he tumbled from a moving train at Vankleek Hill Station. He was rushed by ambulance to the Notre Dame Hospital, Hawkesbury, suffering from head and shoulder injuries.

Mr. Bruneau had boarded the train with his wife, who was travelling to Quebec City, and in attempting a last-minute leap from the fast-moving parlor car, he fell to the station platform.

Papineau Descendant Died in Montreal

Funeral ceremonies were held in Montreal last week for the late Mme Louis-Joseph Papineau, widow of the grandson of the Hon. Louis-Joseph Papineau, leader of the 1837 rebellion in this province.

Mme Papineau died in Montreal after a lengthy illness, at the age of 93. The remains were interred in the family burial ground in the ancient Seigneurie de la Petite Nation, now the Seigniory Club.

Formerly Caroline Pilkin Rogers, she moved from Philadelphia to Montreal around 1880 and was married to the late Louis Joseph Papineau, who predeceased her in 1904.

Archbishop's Gift To Workers' League Camp at La Baie

A new camp or chalet added to the vacation spot of the Ligue Ouvrière Catholique (Montreal) was opened recently at the site at La Baie, St. Andrews East. The settlement now comprises a lodge, 11 chalets, a tent and a chapel, where numerous families from the working classes of Montreal can spend two weeks' vacation on the 36-acre property, for only $10 a week. Social gatherings, camp fires, evening prayer, and many other communal activities maintain a happy relationship between the families on vacation.

The new chalet was made possible by a gift of $1,000 from Archbishop Paul-Emile Leger, of Montreal, plus voluntary labor on the part of numerous workers. Mgr. Albert Valois officiated at the inauguration and blessing of the new structure.

Service for Advertisers

A new convenience is available to Watchman advertisers, featuring seasonal illustrations for trades, services and stores. Such items as ladies' wear, fur coats, hair styling, furniture, etc., which must be à la mode to meet competitive business, are illustrated in cuts for our newspaper advertisers, or for the printing of merchants' sale bills.

Customers are invited to refer to the seasonal catalogue and avail themselves of this service without extra charge.

Strange Object Seen in Flight – Unidentified

Last Saturday around 12 noon, an object was seen flying through the air by William Brown, of Undermount Farm, seven miles north of Lachute. The object is described as "quite large in size", shaped like a balloon, and the color of aluminum. It was flying in a southerly direction about 50 feet above the tree-tops, at a moderate speed. It is stated the object almost came to the ground as the observer was watching, then ascended again and continued on its course.

It is wondered by our correspondent whether this object was a weather balloon from Dorval, or some species of the much talked-about "flying saucers".

WINNING IS HABIT WITH LUMSDEN

Central Press Canadian

Accepting the winner's cheque for the world's professional swimming championship has become a habit with Cliff Lumsden, 21, of New Toronto. This year's 10-mile grind before Canadian National Exhibition crowds at Toronto netted the champ $5,200. It was his third victory in four starts. Mayor Lamport presented the cheque.

Recent Changes In Brownsburg Phone Numbers

Telephone numbers of about 85 subscribers in Brownsburg have been changed, effective recently — it is reported by L. W. Ball, Bell Telephone manager for this region, who urges all residents to make a note of the changes in case they have occasion to call the numbers affected.

The changes involved all those Brownsburg numbers which formerly started with the figures "24". The first figure "2" in each of these numbers was replaced by a "4", but the other three figures remain the same. For example, number 2495 was changed to 4495.

"Unfortunately, it isn't possible to intercept calls dialed to the old numbers, so unless the new numbers are dialed correctly in each case, a connection will not be obtained", Mr. Ball said. He suggested that subscribers whose numbers were changed inform as many of their friends as possible of their new numbers.

The changes were made necessary by technical considerations relating to an extension being made to the dial equipment in the Brownsburg exchange. Modifications had to be made to existing equipment as part of the work of installing the additional switching apparatus.

When the new equipment is ready for service, it will provide exchange facilities for 200 more telephone numbers — sufficient to meet Brownsburg's estimated telephone growth for some time to come.

Rockland Man Killed, Plunged 40 Feet Into Rain-Swollen Creek

Rockland, Ont. — A Rockland father of five was killed, and six persons — three of them Ottawa men — injured when the car in which they were riding sliced through a guard rail, plunging down a 40-foot embankment into a muddy, rain-swollen creek on Highway 17, five miles east of Rockland early last Sunday.

The car was westbound toward Rockland following a party at Wendover, seven miles east of Rockland.

Coroner Dr. W. C. Tweedie, of Rockland, who was called to the scene, ordered an inquest.

Police said the group were homeward bound from a pre-marriage party for a niece of the McCauleys, when the accident occurred about 2.30 a.m. Sunday. The car was rounding a curve when its driver was apparently blinded by the headlights of an oncoming vehicle.

Costly Collision at Town Intersection

At the Foundry-Barron intersection last evening, a Lachute car driven by James Pillage was rammed and badly damaged by a Sherbrooke driver, Laurea Lajoie, who was accompanied in a Plymouth car by its owner Frank Pomerleau, of St. Antoine des Laurentides. It appears that the out-of-town vehicle, travelling southward on Barron Avenue, failed to heed the stop sign, resulting in the subsequent crash. Lajoie could not produce a driver's license. Both occupants of the Plymouth spent the night in the town jail pending their removal to St. Jerome, where they will be arraigned in court.

There's No Place Like Home

The quiet evening at home with the family or in the company of a few chosen friends is still something that is pleasant and relaxing for all of us.

With all the distractions offered outside, probably the "evening at home" would be much less desirable if it were not for the fact that it very definitely has attractions of its own.

Electricity plays its part in adding to the pleasure of such an evening. It provides the lighting we want. Frequently it helps provide heat in the winter and cool air through fans in the summer — and cold water and ice too. Above all it makes possible that greatest of all home entertainment — the radio.

Contributing to the pleasure, comfort and satisfaction of an evening at home is another of the many services of electricity, one of mankind's most useful servants.

Greece Purchases Canadian Wheat

For the first time since the beginning of World War II, the Greek Government has purchased Canadian wheat. On June 24, 1952, an adjudication was held simultaneously in Athens and in Ottawa for the procurement of 37 thousand metric tons of grade No. 5 wheat. According to the results of this adjudication, half of the quantity was purchased for shipment via the St. Lawrence during the second half of July, and the other half for shipment via Churchill during the second half of August.

Ottawa Spotlight on Agriculture

By Alan Donnelly,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 26 (CP) — The biggest news out of Ottawa last week concerned agriculture — and it was both good and bad.

Good news was the long-awaited announcement that Canada is free from the foot-and-mouth disease that has cost the livestock industry untold thousands of dollars since it broke out last winter in South Saskatchewan.

Not so pleasant was the news that huge stores of grain from last year's crops are still on hand, crowding elevator and transport facilities on the eve of a wheat harvest forecast as the greatest the country has ever had.

The all-clear signal to the livestock industry meant the lifting of the last of the restrictions on the free movement of meat and livestock in Canada. Quarantines in 59 Saskatchewan municipalities, clamped on after the foot-and-mouth disease outbreak was announced last February, were lifted and farmers now can begin restocking.

But it did not mean the end of the six-month United States embargo on Canadian animals and meat which has cut off a $130,000,000-a-year export market. The U.S. embargo is responsible for the largest part of the economic loss from the disease outbreak, which officials estimate may total between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000.

The Canadian government informed U.S. authorities that Canada is free of the disease, but Ottawa informants said they don't expect immediate action.

"We don't plan to bring any pressure on them to remove the embargo", an official said. "We know the U.S. government will consider the matter carefully and reasonably and act as quickly as possible."

U.S. Caution

A news story from Washington quoted the acting chief of the U.S. Bureau of Animal Husbandry that no immediate action will be forthcoming. "We want to make sure that all danger of infecting our livestock industry is over", an official in Washington said.

Ottawa officials seemed to think the American fear was that the foot-and-mouth virus may still be lurking in some Canadian food locker. Another view was that the U.S. embargo won't come off until after the U.S. presidential election in November.

Meanwhile, federal price support for the beef industry will continue as long as the U.S. market is closed, the government promises. The basic 25-cent-a-pound on beef will be maintained until September 30, and if it is to be changed after that, the government will make an announcement before that date.

There has been no sign of the disease in Canada since May 4. Veterinarians even checked packing plants at some Ontario and Quebec points before announcing the end of the disease, mainly to assure the U.S., and a top official said that if the disease should break aout again it won't be from last winter's virus but from a reintroduction of the disease into the country.

A Premium on Storage

As the first of the combines warmed up on the prairies, farmers intensified their hunt for a place to store grain.

Their situation can best be explained by figures announced in Ottawa — an estimated record crop of 656,000,000 bushels of wheat on top of a carryover of 213,000,000 bushels from last year's grain. During the U.S. steel strike ore boats were diverted to help handle the rush but with the strike's end they went back to carrying ore and elevator stores began to grow higher.

Some western farmers were reported building expanded storage facilities on their farms to hold grain in case elevators can't take it. There were indicatons that extra temporary shelter may have to be built at inland elevator and lake points.

Transport officials said that if the new grain is harvested in good condition — and with co-operation from all concerned — the crops will be moved and stored without serious loss.

But it appeared likely that organized farmers may repeat requests made last year — without success then — for federal government payments to farmers for farm grain storage.

The government may revive the plan it adopted last year — to guarantee 25 per cent of bank loans to farmers with stored grain as security.

Dr. G. S. H. Barton To Visit Finland

A well-known Canadian agricultural expert, Dr. G. S. H. Barton, a former Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Canada and prominent in the work of the Food and Agriculture Organization, is to visit Finland.

Under the auspices of FAO, he has been requested by the Finnish Government to advise and assist in a survey of agricultural activities in which local personnel require training, in establishing priorities for the development of such activities, and in preparing an agricultural development plan to be implemented by the Government.

It is felt by FAO authorities that Dr. Barton's wide experience of agriculture in Canada and elsewhere qualify him particularly well for such a mission.

Dr. Barton left Canada on August 22, and expects to spend two months in Finland this fall, after which he will discuss his findings with specialists at FAO and in Canada. He will return to Finland next spring for further discussions with authorities in that country.

How Can I Start An Investment Programme?

A

By Planned Savings Through Life Insurance.

The basis of an investment plan in most cases should be life insurance. It meets in a sound and regular way the real objectives of investment — savings for the future, a retirement income and money for your family should anything happen to you. What is more, life insurance achieves these ends economically and without worry or risk. Discuss with a Mutual Life of Canada representative a life insurance investment plan for your future.

Quebec Production Of Green Peas

Hamilton — Quebec farmers planted an estimated 9,910 acres with green peas for canning this year, only slightly less than the province's 1951 acreage of that crop.

Quebec ranks second only to Ontario in acreage and production among the six provinces that grow green peas for commercial canning, according to H. T. Moore, Canadian agronomist for the American Can Company, whose development of improved container and canning methods helped to stimulate demand for the popular vegetable.

Last year commercial vegetable canners in Quebec packed 650,000 cases of green peas, according to government estimates.

"The importance of canning, both to farmers and the province's overall economy is indicated by the fact that it provided a large majority of the income growers received from the sale of green peas last year", stated Mr. Moore.

shattered on the steps entering the church, then looked up and saw smoke emerging from the steeple window. Near-Tragedy

A Montreal woman forced to leave a stranded auto, was nearly drowned near Papineauville.

Mrs. Denise Lerouzes, 32, was swept into a rampaging stream near the village, and then rescued by two students, roads department employees, as she clung, dazed, to a tree in the flood 600 feet from the highway.

Members of a highways department crew, Emile Lecuyer, of Verdun, and Gilles Lahaise, of Montreal, swam to her aid. While they fought strong currents to reach her, two companions took a rowboat out to the tree where Lecuyer and Lahaise were holding the woman.

She was later taken to hospital at Buckingham, Que.

Police said Mrs. Lerouzes and five others from Montreal were in a car stopped by a washout on the highway. The driver, Andre Tremblay, said they waited, hoping the flood would subside. When it got worse, they crawled out the windows — the doors would not open.

They held to guide rails beside the road and were struggling to reach dry land when Mrs. Lerouzes was swept away. The car was later washed off the road. Thinking Mrs. Lerouzes had drowned, the five others made their way to Papineauville.

The towns of Plaisance, Papineauville, Montebello, Fassett and Pointe au Chene were without rail or highway communications as a result of the floods.

At Perth, Ont., hailstones the size of marbles damaged windows and slashed at farm crops. Barns were destroyed by lightning-set fires, and other farms and summer camps reported lightning damage.

Montebello was virtually isolated when swollen streams inundated both highway and rail line. Traffic was resumed when a temporary bridge was constructed to allow autos over the miniature lake which had formed on railway tracks at a crossing.

Farm Accidents

Even non-fatal mishaps and fires on the farm often cause more disruption than similar occurrences in other businesses, it is pointed out in an article "Accident Hazards on the Farm", in Canada's Health and Welfare for June, a publication of the Department of National Health and Welfare.

The temporary lay-off of one member of the family farm can often reduce production considerably, for he can seldom be replaced effectively. The destruction by fire of farm home or important buildings and equipment can virtually bring operations to a standstill, for unlike less seasonal businesses, operations cannot be resumed almost immediately in a new location.

Surveys of farm accidents show that falls, the use of cutting or piercing implements, and crushing, account for 71 per cent of the total time lost through accidents. Almost 27 per cent of time lost arises from accidents such as kicks from farm animals and misadventures with tractors and motors. Burns are responsible for the balance.

The majority of farm accidents happen to people in the working years and those between the ages of 14 and 64 account for 84 per cent of all accidents. Fifty-eight per cent occur in the fields and 27 per cent in the home or farm buildings.

Fire is the worst hazard on most Canadian farms, particularly those that are not serviced by electricity, for of necessity inflammable fluids must be used for illumination and wood must often be used for cooking and heating. During the years 1946 to 1949, 321 rural homes were destroyed by fire, making an average of 80 farm homes per year lost through fire. The death toll in rural fires during this four-year period was 576 persons, something over half of the victims being children.

Authorities agree that education presents the only permanent solution to the dangers of farm accidents. "With an eye to the future", the article concludes, "much of the accident prevention education in rural areas is now being directed to the children, the farm owners of the future. Schools, junior farmers clubs, Boy Scout and Girl Guide movements and many other groups have played a large part in the continuing plan for farm safety".

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

Sidewalk Kibitzers

WE HAVE a still-vivid recollection — it goes back well over 25 years — of a coterie of young folk in a Main Street "ice cream parlor". The conversation at that time would have presented a remarkable contrast to the near-hysteria of expression which passes for parlor talk among today's teen-agers. But, strangely, there was no conversation among this group. They were huddled in strained, wrapt attention around one of this town's first radio sets. Their ears were keyed to catch the strains of canned music, amplified through earphones clamped to a chrome loudspeaker shaped like an ancient phonograph horn. The static was excellent; but the broadcast — well, it scarcely merited that name. The program faded, fluctuated and rose to an occasional crescendo which at its loudest was little more than a whisper. And any listener who shifted his tense position, or scraped a foot to interrupt this dubious reception, was frowned upon by his mute companions.

The scene has changed. The teen-agers of that day are now the middle-aged; in fact, few of those former friends remain still in Lachute. But we relived this memory last Saturday night, while walking along the crowded Main Street. . .

Outside two or three of our restaurants and furniture stores there was a congestion on the sidewalk. Kibitzers were watching the television screens inside the show-windows. At another establishment the loudspeaker was broadcasting tuneful music. And in other restaurants the jukebox was emitting less pleasant noises — remote-controlled by turning an indicator and depositing a nickel.

Yes, times have changed most notably, in the kibitzing and the light amusements of Main Street.

Roadside Facilities

FROM TWO separate sources, we have voiced in current issues the need for an improvement in Quebec's tourist facilities; and by coincidence, in each case it has been suggested that Argenteuil's M.L.A. might see fit to initiate this move, in the same progressive spirit for which he has won fair recognition.

No, this is no plea for another stupendous grant! The suggestion is merely to establish one or two roadside picnic grounds and rest spots — not an expensive undertaking, although it might, of course, most easily lend itself to graft and rake-off, those elements which boost the cost of government works.

We have often deplored the lack of safe public beaches in this county, which has so many lovely lakes and streams. And failing a remedy to this drawback, it might be possible to compromise and provide a few roadside parking sites for motorists. We have seen many such inviting spots in Ontario and elsewhere, affording shade beneath tall pines, rustic benches and tables, sometimes a stone fireplace, and toilet facilities.

There should be no great obstacle of expense to prevent the establishment of such spots along our Quebec highways; and we have at least two correspondents who have expressed the desirability of such improvements here in Argenteuil. This county has scenic attractions and accommodations to equal any of its neighboring areas. A little more thought and effort might place us well up front in the tourist's estimation.

Pearl of Great Price

WE TAKE a leaf from another contributor's notebook, giving warm support to a private agitation by Uncle Walt, in his adjacent column. His remarks might fittingly apply to certain trade and professional men of our acquaintance, even in this town — those who glibly promise to fulfill a job at a specified time, without the least intention of keeping their pledge. This type is familiar to our readers, and the species is sufficiently numerous to clinch our admiration for those who really can be relied upon.

Service is exactly what the term denotes — service that can be trusted and depended upon; and the professional man, the craftsman, even the unskilled laborer whose word is his sacred bond, such citizen is a pearl of great price, a man we feel it a privilege to patronize.

Who Wins?

WE HAVE often wondered just who, if anyone, wins a strike. We are inclined to think that everyone — the striker, the employer and certainly the consumer — is in the long run the loser. A strike is something like a war; neither side really wins.

In the loggers' strike in British Columbia, for instance, which ended recently after some 45 days, it has been estimated that each day of the strike cost the employers a million dollars, while for each day the strikers lost half a million in wages. Only strikers with families received strike relief. Who pays for the cost of the strike and for the increase in wages (much less than was demanded) won by the members of the union? Ultimately, the consumer pays all.

That's why every citizen of Canada has a stake in every strike; that's why differences between unions and employers should be settled as far as possible by negotiation before, rather than during, a strike.

Even when strikers gain everything they demand, it may take them a long time to recover wages lost during the strike period. It looks as if strikes are just "bad medicine" for curing economic ills.

At a time in history when apparently only the strength of democratic nations is warding off a world-wide war, it seems to us that strikes may be regarded as economic "sabotage". In addition they do not help out the cost of living situation which affects every Canadian citizen.

The Harvest Exile

HARVEST-TIME is the happy time on the prairies, but for the prairie native working in the city it's a period of dreams and vulnerability.

No matter how far he may have drifted from the old homestead, a certain change comes over him as the crops ripen, whether he's in salty old Halifax, cosmopolitan Montreal, mundane Toronto or even fair Vancouver.

Farmers' sons from Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes may also be smitten with the fall fever, but hardly with the same roaming restlessness that comes over the prairie son. He remembers the vast fields, sweeping half a hundred miles with their golden sea of grain.

The danger comes in the way he stares idly into space, his mind with the combines. He walks into traffic, and gives up his street-car seat as they used to do in the old days, or forgets to wear a tie with his shirt.

The malady comes from having been too close to the land in his earlier days; too near the ripening grain and too much involved in the rugged fun of harvesting.

From his office or factory, or in a crowded theatre or restaurant, his thoughts go back to the bustle of men and machines under the wide prairie sky, to the chaff and dust from the slow-moving combines, to the streams pouring from the threshing machine and the rows of stooked grain.

There he got a real meal, and if he was just a youngster he got a piece of rich apple pie or a he-man's steak sandwich.

He thinks to himself — the city meals are never like those we used to get at harvest-time.

Auto Insurance Rates

YOU MAY have to pay more for your automobile insurance next year, reports The Financial Post. And if you have been involved in a couple of accidents, you may have to pay even more.

That's the way Canada's automobile insurance picture is shaping up right now. The picture itself is being painted by the increasing number and cost of accidents. And during a particular year, it is estimated, over 90% of insured private passenger cars will have a clear record. The other 10% cause the heavy losses.

Under the "demerit system" insurance men are studying now, the 10% responsible for the accident frequency would have to pay more.

"THINGS AN' STUFF"

— By — WALTER HENRY JACKSON

Unreliability

I know a man back home in town whose word I cannot trust, and every time I deal with him, he fills me with disgust.

He says: "Tonight, I'll phone you sure." I listen for his ring until the midnight whistles blow, but I don't hear a thing. Next day he says: "I tried to phone, your line was always busy." I know I didn't use the phone; his lying makes me dizzy.

He promises to do a job for me or for the neighbors, but every time you meet him he is resting from his labors. Tomorrow is the only time that you might catch him working. Today, you'll find him in some bar just drinking beer and shirking.

A man who fails to keep his word without a valid reason, soon finds himself without a job right in the busy season. This does not worry him at all. He just apologizes, and if rewards were given for lies, he'd take home all the prizes.

By fooling honest folks for years he's built a reputation, for causing, by his slipshod ways, distress and lamentation.

Thus, day by day he spends his time inventing alibis — procrastinating, hesitating, thinking up new lies. And when he's dead, he'll say to Satan: "I'm sorry to have kept you waitin'."

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you: —

Q. I have just been married, but previous to my marriage I worked for three years. I suppose I will lose my right to benefit if I do not work. As I am able to work I applied for a job in a factory but, on account of the low wages offered, I left after one month. I cannot find any suitable employment. Can I file a benefit claim?

A. A married woman, to obtain benefit at any time within the two years immediately following her marriage, must prove that she has had employment for at least 90 days since her marriage. As you have only worked for one month, or approximately 26 days, you cannot qualify for benefit at the present time.

• • •

Q. Some little time ago I was told to have an X-ray made of my lungs. The report was that I had a spot on one of my lungs, but I was ordered to undergo other X-ray examinations. I was in the hospital for some time and finally it was found that I had no spot on my lungs. During the time I was in the hospital I was unable to draw benefit. With a medical certificate would I be able to draw the benefits I was unable to receive during my stay in the hospital? As a matter of fact I was not sick at all, since a mistake has been made.

A. As you were not available for employment during the time spent in hospital you cannot draw benefit for that period.

When Lightning Strikes

On this continent lightning kills nearly 600 people each year and injures some 1,700 more. Throughout the world lightning takes more lives, says Andrew Hamilton in the September Reader's Digest, than do hurricanes, earthquakes, floods and other mass disasters.

In this Digest article Hamilton says the most dangerous areas are the Rocky Mountains and a belt across the southern United States. Lightning damage costs fire-insurance companies more than $5,000,000 a year. In Canada alone, lightning bolts started 940 forest fires last year.

Down through the ages lightning has made man's hair stand on end, Hamilton remarks. Not until 200 years ago was any scientific study attempted. Then an inquisitive Philadelphia printer named Benjamin Franklin flew a kite into a summer thunderstorm with a metal key on the lower end of the string. The result is known to every schoolboy.

Only within the past 30 years have we learned much more than Franklin knew. Scientists now liken the earth to a giant condenser. Thunderstorms are nature's batteries to keep the condenser charged. Lightning actually jumps up — from the positively charged earth to a negatively charged cloud — at a speed of 22 million miles an hour. As the heated air around a lightning flash cools and shrinks, other air rushes into the space and makes the noise of thunder.

To protect yourself from lightning, the author counsels: Don't play golf, ride a bicycle or a tractor, or eat a picnic lunch in a storm. If you are caught outdoors, run to the nearest shelter, preferably a building (skyscrapers are safest) but not a tree. Keep away from wire fences and metal pipes. If on the water, get ashore quickly. Inside a house, stay clear of stoves, fireplaces, doors and windows; above all, don't take a bath. If in an automobile, bus, train or even an all-metal airplane, you're relatively safe.

Clever Safecracker Is Honest Craftsman

Montreal Expert Now Master In Locksmiths' Guild

Montreal (CP) — Ronald C. Lister has been safecracking and breaking locks here for 20 years — and has never been arrested.

In fact, he was recently appointed a master in the select Locksmiths' Guild of America, but only after his application underwent a thorough screening at the guild's New York headquarters.

"Boy, they checked up on me right back to when I was born", the Montreal lock expert said in an interview. "They checked with police, they checked with everyone. Even my neighbors got letters."

He said he once received a sinister telephone call in the dead of night offering him $1,000 to open a safe owned by one of Montreal's big chain stores. It certainly wasn't the store manager calling and Lister nervously hung up.

One of his commonest jobs is repairing damage done by bungling safecrackers who smash a lock without opening the safe.

Many safecrackers sandpaper their fingertips to make them sensitive. Mr. Lister depends on his senses of touch and hearing to handle intricate locking systems. When that doesn't work he may use a drill or torch.

Much of his work is done in a little shop near the waterfront. He works with two assistants in a room filled with keys, padlocks and the other tools of his trade.

Canada's knit goods industry has spent $38,000,000 since the Second World War on a campaign of modernization.

Search For Murderer Shifts to Gatineau

The search for Henri Séguin, suspected murderer of Leonard Hurd, Maxville garageman, has shifted from Argenteuil County to the Gatineau region.

Early this week the police are reported to have traced his steps to Grenville, where farmers of the district were warned to be on the alert for a man of 6-foot robust stature and dark hair, who might possibly approach them for a job.

Criticizes Heavy Taxation on Autos

Toronto, Aug. 26 (CP) — E. C. Row, president of the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, said the automobile should no longer be considered "a beast of burden for heavy taxes".

Speaking at a Canadian National Exhibition luncheon, he said:

"While the government must have revenue, we question the fairness of applying to a proven necessity the tax burden of approximately $350 on a low-priced car."

Six of every 10 cars bought in Canada were for work or business. Pleasure driving accounted for only nine per cent of the annual mileage driven by Canadians.

"However, we have full confidence the government will some day in the near future realize the place of the car in today's mode of living and then fairly adjust the tax load", he said.

Gasoline Drum Causes Spectacular Blaze

A spectacular fire one night last week destroyed a small shed housing a 200-gallon drum of gasoline on the property of Oka Ferries Ltd., at Hudson.

Firemen said the blaze started about 8.30 o'clock, shortly after two employees entered the shed with a lighted oil lantern.

Within a matter of minutes the flames had destroyed the wooden shed and set the drum of gasoline afire. Although no explosion occurred, flames roared 100 feet into the air, lighting up the immediate area of the Lake of Two Mountains.

At the height of the fire the Oka ferry, for which the gasoline was stored, docked at a ramp 200 feet away and discharged passengers.

What Made "The Little Woman" a Tough Critic?

Better Living — for Everybody!

Today's home-maker is a shrewd buyer, an informed critic of everything she buys. She knows values better than her mother or grandmother ever did. When it comes to food, she buys wisely to obtain the greatest nutrition yield and menu variety for every dollar. Textiles and clothing she judges as carefully, gauging workmanship, wearing qualities. She is an expert buyer.

Advertising helped make the "Little Woman" what she is today. Through the advertising pages of her newspaper she is informed of the qualities of goods offered for sale. The advertising messages strive to give her the facts that guide her buying. Advertising helped make her an expert buyer. Now, advertising must work all the harder to continue answering her demands for facts before buying.

Information makes the big difference in the buying performance of today's homemaker. We live better because we set high standards on everything we buy. Manufacturers of goods, merchants who sell those goods—all of them must meet our high standards because we know how good the things we want can be. Today, nobody need buy a pig in a poke.

Information is the force of advertising. Scan the advertising columns of this paper, and you'll find them packed with information that makes intelligent buyers of all of us. It adds up to better living that surpasses the dreams of a generation ago.

Because of advertising appearing regularly in its pages, this newspaper is aware that the service it performs for its readers is far greater and much more valuable than it could otherwise be.

Canadian Cheese In 52 Varieties

There are 52 varieties of cheese available in Canada — variety enough to suit every taste. There is, for instance, the ever-popular Canadian Cheddar, which is sold according to age as new (mild), medium, and old (strong). Process cheese is another favorite. It is made from Cheddar which is ground and heated to pasteurization temperature, then poured into moulds or packages to solidify. Also, many types of foreign cheese are now manufactured in Canada.

For more than 75 years, Canadian cheese has been noted for its fine quality. At the Philadelphia Exhibition in 1875, Canadian cheese took top honors, but it did not stop with winning the sweepstakes. There have been great improvements in the cheese industry here and we can now boast of having some of the finest tasting cheese in the world. In spite of all this, Canadians use only 4.7 pounds of cheese per person in a year, less than half that eaten by our neighbors to the South and far less than that consumed in many European countries. Canada's Food Rules suggest cheese should be eaten at least three times a week, allowing four to six ounces per person each week, depending on the person's age. This means that each one of us should eat between 13 and 19 pounds of cheese a year.

How often do you buy Cheddar or process cheese? Canadian housewives were asked this question in three cities, Ottawa, Montreal and Vancouver, in a survey by the Economics Division of the Canada Department of Agriculture. Half the families interviewed bought each type of cheese less than once a week. Except in Vancouver, cottage cheese is not bought as often as Cheddar or process cheese. Many families buy cottage cheese only once in a while and more than half of those who buy special kinds do so less than once a month.

Buying cheese is a thrifty way to buy concentrated food value. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture in Ottawa, have some suggestions on how to enrich menus by increasing the amount of cheese. They say that cheese may be added to omelettes or scrambled eggs to make a flavorsome and nutritious dish for lunch. It lends a magic all its own to vegetable casserole dishes, and cream soups are given a subtle flavor by sprinkling a little grated cheese over them. Here are two recipes, one for Tomato Onion Scallop and the other for Cheese Corn Fritters. Both of these make appetizing dishes to serve for lunch or supper.

Tomato-Onion Scallop

6 Medium-ripe tomatoes, 1 large onion, 2 tablespoons fat, 1½ cups grated Cheddar cheese (medium or old), ½ cup dry bread crumbs, salt and pepper, 1 tablespoon butter.

Peel and slice tomatoes. Sauté onion in hot fat until lightly browned, about 5 minutes. Arrange half the tomatoes, onions, cheese and bread crumbs in alternate layers in a greased 6-cup casserole, sprinkling the tomatoes with salt and pepper. Repeat arrangement with remaining half of ingredients. Dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., 20 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Yield: four to six servings.

Cheese-Corn Fritters

1¾ Cups sifted all-purpose flour (or 2 cups sifted pastry flour), 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups cooked whole kernel corn, 1 cup grated Cheddar cheese (medium or old), 1 egg (beaten), ¾ cup milk.

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Mix corn, cheese, egg and milk. Add to dry ingredients and mix well. Drop by spoonfuls into hot, deep fat, 365°F., and fry 2 to 5 minutes, turning once. Drain on crumpled unglazed paper. Serve with syrup or a tart jelly. Yield: six servings.

How Dry I Am!

There's a new electric clothes dryer, says The Financial Post. When the clothes are dry it plays a tune to call the housewife. (The tune? "How Dry I Am").

Have you some sour cream in your refrigerator? What are you going to do with it? Why not season it with a little pepper and salt and use as a salad dressing? It is perfect on coleslaw or sliced cucumbers.

Farm women are also finding it difficult to meet the high cost of eating, just like city folks."

Raise Own Food

"But on the farm," said the chef, "you raise the pigs, maybe a calf; you have chickens and also fresh eggs and vegetables."

"That's true, but the cost of feeding and raising animals is high. Now that freezer lockers and deep freezers are practical, farmers can store their meat when butchered. Of course, they raise and freeze or can, many of their vegetables and fruits. But that is by no means 'free' food. It costs good money for seed and fertilizer, and farm labor is expensive.

"Besides, who does the freezing and the canning? The farm homemaker, who pours out her labor to save money by conserving the food. Her day starts early, and ends late. Fortunately, most farm homemakers today have modern conveniences. But the reason they manage to do so much is because they have learned how to plan ahead and schedule their work."

TOMORROW'S DINNER
Garden Vegetable Soup
Barbecued Beef on Buns
Cottage Cheese and Tomato Salad
Jellied Fruits
Pound Cake Cookies
Hot or Iced Coffee or Tea Milk

All Measurements Are Level
Recipes Serve Four

Barbecued Beef on Buns

Open 1 (12oz.) can roast beef and chop medium fine. Peel and fine-chop 1 small onion and saute in 2 tbsp. butter or margarine until the color turns. Add the beef and ½ c. barbecue sauce, either bottled or homemade. Simmer 10 min.

Meantime, split and toast 8 buns. Arrange the lower halves on a platter. Top with the barbecued beef and fit on the bun tops.

Pound Cake Cookies

Sift together 4½ c. already-sifted enriched flour, 3 tsp. baking powder, ½ tsp. salt and ½ tsp. nutmeg. Add 1 c. butter, margarine or shortening. Chop with a pastry blender until flaky. Beat 3 eggs; then blend with them 1½ c. sifted powdered sugar and 1 c. milk. Stir into the first mixture. But until smooth and free from lumps. Drop by large teaspoonfuls on to an oiled cookie sheet. Bake in a hot oven, 375-400 degree F., for 12 min., or until brown on top. Makes about 5 doz.

TRICK OF THE CHEF

CANADIAN FURS ATTRACT WOMEN AT EXHIBITION

Soft shoulders, sleeves not quite so full as last year, and with narrower cuffs, are on display. The manufacturers are trying to impress Canadian women — and the husbands who foot the bills — with the fact there's a fur coat for every size of budget.

Frank Dodman, of Montreal, fur supervisor for one of the country's biggest retail outlets, says a fur coat may be had in any price range from $200 to $28,000 (or more). The working girl buys a good mouton (sheared lamb) or dyed rabbit fur coat. The rich sophisticate can get a fabulous royal pastel mink costing nearly $30,000.

A good muskrat coat this year costs around $300. Sheared raccoon comes around $500, Canadian squirrel $500 and up, beaver and otter around $1,000. A woman can get into the mink coat set for about $2,000, but there's a wide range of mink prices.

Fur coat manufacturers don't change their styles too much, for women don't buy new fur coats every year. The biggest change this year is in the collars, and several new necklines are being shown.

TINY LAPEL WATCHES LATEST BRITISH FAD

London (CP) — More and more women in Britain now are wearing fob watches which may be pinned to the lapel or fastened to a belt. The watches are chosen for their elaborate appearance, and are used more as an article of jewelry than as a mere timepiece, although they have a practical use too.

Actress Heather Thatcher takes a modern view of the way to wear a watch. She slips her timepiece into the end of a giant safety pin, which is pinned in front of her dress or used to fasten the neckline.

CANADA "TOO FAST" FOR ASIAN VISITOR

Quebec (CP) — Maria Pham Thi Tu, a 20-year-old student from Vietnam, thinks life in Canada is "too fast".

Comparing the ways of Canadians with those of her own people, Maria says "nobody seems to lend any thought to today or tomorrow."

Here is her opinion of the daily routine of the unmarried Canadian male:

"He dashes out of bed in the morning, gulps down a quick breakfast, and rushes to the office. He seldom has lunch at home and after a whirlwind supper he puts on his best bib and tucker to see his girl friend.

"Does he love the girl? Does she love him? Not a chance. Their acquaintance is merely a distraction — something to occupy their leisure time.

"They're much slower at home, and less flighty."

Maria, who is taking a three-year course at Laval University's faculty of Social Sciences, insists on wearing the conventional costume of her country while she is in Canada.

Seaweed, rich in vitamins A, B and C, is the principal vegetable of the Japanese, the coast-dwelling Chinese, the South Sea Islanders and the Greenland Eskimo, says Donald Culross Peattie in the current Reader's Digest.

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

The Child's Musical Background

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"When music sounds, gone is the earth I know,
Like burdened branches, stilled with ecstasies."

— From "Music"
— Walter de la Mare.

What happens "when music sounds" in your child's presence? Any kind of music — singing, a band, an orchestra, a piano or another musical instrument? Does he suddenly pause in whatever he is doing and listen? What expression is there on his face? Does it reflect rapt attention and enjoyment? or a fleeting interest? or is he indifferent?

Some parents make the mistake of judging their child as "not a bit musical." Undoubtedly children inherit various degrees of musical ability. But every normal child has within him the capacity to enjoy music. The little boy's or girl's pleasure in hearing a mother sing a Nursery Rhyme or lullaby is quite apparent. Memories of a parent's singing form one of the happiest recollections of many a child's early life.

The radio forms a musical background in many homes. It can be good, bad or indifferent, according to the programs which the child hears. Sometimes the plan to have Sunday supper on trays in the living room is followed so that the family can listen to the radio music. The CBC "Times" is an excellent guide to the special musical treats on our Canadian nation-wide network. Other families find the "small fry" are especially fond of band music, others of opera or instrumental pieces. Consideration is given to the different tastes of different members of the home circle.

Years ago in a Parents' Forum on "What to do on a Rainy Day", one mother mentioned that she had bought a large, old-fashioned gramophone, in excellent condition and forty records for five dollars at an auction sale. She placed it in the attic in the "Rumpus Room", and planned before long to invest in a number of children's records. But before she did this her son and daughter discovered several Gilbert and Sullivan records. These they immediately "froze" to and played over and over again with the greatest pleasure.

The various phonograph companies are constantly producing excellent musical records, especially for children. Parents should ask for the free descriptive booklets. These include a wide variety of songs and other types of music. Quite a number of these are suitable, not only for marches, but also as an accompaniment for rhythmic movement and dramatic play. If mother shows a little interest and provides a few "props" as a paper hat for the "Little Toy Soldier" or a bouquet for the bride in "The Wedding of the Painted Doll", these can add greatly to the child's fun.

The piano in a home, played by someone who loves music, also provides a musical background for the children in the home. In "Sing, Swing, Play" by Martha Stockton Russell (Viking Press) she describes her conviction as a child about rhythm and motion — and it is one a great many little folk share. She says quite simply:

"Once upon a time there was a little girl who had the notion that everything that moved, sang, and that everything that sang, moved; and she had a happy time moving to the things that sang and singing to the things that moved!"

A wonderful help for mothers who can play the piano and want to encourage this kind of creative activity is found in a new book on the market "Dancing Time" by Satis N. Coleman, illustrated by Vana Earle (John Day Co). The author of this book has recently retired from the staff of Teachers College, Columbia University, and her choice of songs comes from her own experiments in music education in the Lincoln School.

Some of the titles of the pieces in "Dancing Time" are, Indian Creep Through the Forest, Cowboys on Ponies, Daffodils Waving in the Breeze, Tiptoe Music, and Airplanes. There are three animal pieces — Rabbits, High-Stepping Ponies and Elephant Walk, one "I Clap My Hands", which follows the folk-dance type of music. "The Farmer Boy at Rest" is a listening piece, and the little child can lie down on the floor and enjoy this music in a completely relaxed state.

The number of people who are sufficiently gifted to become outstanding performers in music are comparatively few, but the number who obtain great pleasure from listening are legion. Appreciation of "the organization of sound towards beauty" begins in childhood. Shakespeare revealed his knowledge of people when he wrote:

"The man who hath no music
Nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds,
Is fit for treasons, stratagems and spoils."

Canadian Vocalist

Gisele MacKenzie, popular Canadian vocalist who has made good in the United States in recent years, has returned to her native land to carry out an extended personal-appearance tour. Earlier this month she was heard on a special CBC broadcast welcoming her home. Since moving to California over a year ago she has been featured regularly on Bob Crosby's Club 15 and the Mario Lanza Show on CBC Dominion. She has also made several records for Capitol.

Valley of Indecision

Hear the city's sly voice,
"(I will give you your cash
In your hand) —
Where the lights twinkle bright,
All the day, all the night,
You're a fool if you stick
On the land!"

"Oh, stay! — please stay! — "
All the friendly fields say,
"(For security's precious
You know) —
Where there's leisure to look
At a tree, or a brook,
Or pencil new pages
Of snow!"

Oh, to go — or to stay
Is a problem today,
And a choice country children
Must make;
If they go, they may rue —
If they stay, they may too;
Each career has its joy,
And its ache!

"SUNNYACRES SKETCHES"
By Margaret Cook

We seem always to be writing to the rhythm of rain on the roof. It is at it again, but there is a difference; the rain of a fortnight ago was a boisterous, rebellious summer rain, this is an autumn downpour, soft, steady, carrying with it a faint whiff of decay. August, the buxom, is inexorably being superseded by dignified, mature September. Well, it has been a lovely summer, a summer to recall when the winds howl and the snow flies next January, or even to remember in the winter of our days. It is quite likely that the happiness of old age lies in the beauty of the past.

As always, there is a flurry at the end of August. It is then that we take the trips, planned all summer—friends pay that anticipated call — last-minute jam is made. It is a good thing that we are busy, otherwise there would be much melancholy over the imminence of the return to the city. As it is, Betty always sighs at bedtime, "Only a week more". . . "Only four more days".

We recently made a trip to Ste. Agathe, with which the writer has some associations, and found the air and the lake as wonderful as we remembered, but the streets were alien with tourists and the shops obviously designed to attract the tourist rather than the native. We visited the church where Queen Elizabeth worshipped last Autumn, and noticed a pulpit with the inscription, " In memory of George VI. Multum Amatus". A good epitaph we thought, for that was our Sovereign's great attribute, that he so inspired love. We wondered if the young Queen had given the pulpit in memory of her father and of her visit to Ste. Agathe, but lacked the energy to inquire at the rectory. We were pleased to see how beautifully groomed were the lawns about the property; it is all a credit to the Anglican church in general and to the Rev. Anthony Grant (now deceased) in particular, for, to his foresight and perseverance do we owe the present place of worship, replacing a very ugly and shoddy building. For years, this was the only Protestant parish in the Laurentians and Mr. Grant, who was a man of humor and wit, used to say that his parish extended from Shawbridge to Hudson Bay. We visited "the San", too, a cluster of handsome buildings in a magnificent setting. The Quebec Government is to be congratulated on the fight it is waging against tuberculosis; better still, we believe that it is winning that fight. We were interested to learn that at this institution, the medical staff comprises one Japanese, two Poles and two Canadians, one of the last-named being the Superintendent.

From Ste. Agathe we went to St. Sauveur, and tried to look at the road and surrounding territory with the eyes of tourists rather than of natives. The roadbed is excellent and the rounded Laurentian hills as beautiful as advertized; there are few bill-boards, but some of the smaller settlements are almost squalid and we lack roadside facilities such as are common in Ontario. Anyone who motors much will agree that a lunch outdoors with its chance to walk about, is greatly preferable to a long stop for an involved meal in a restaurant or hotel. All that is required is a bench and table, a fireplace, a trash basket and toilet facilities. Perhaps the efficient and alert M.L.A. of Argenteuil will interest himself in this project.

At St. Sauveur, we had tea (roadside facilities being lacking) at an inn, noted for its gracious host and hostess, as well as for its food and general excellence. Quebec needs more places of this calibre; places that, inside, remind one of the cosy inns of England, while outside all the glory of the Laurentians unfolds itself, from window to window. Here is one place that the writer's abomination, the picture window, comes into its own. We like, too, the collection of doll-like houses so gaily painted, the pinks, reds, purples that would be revolting in an urban centre, are just right against the grey and green of summer or the white and blue-grey of winter.

But maybe our readers really don't care for the "Cook's Tour" kind of article, so we return you to Sunnyacres and its rural annals. . . . Last night we rescued a toad from an untimely death in our water-butt. When discovered, he was swimming valiantly around and around, at intervals raising his feet, so like hands, to grasp the top; the sides are metal and the water-level too low, so he was eventually doomed, but Betty gently lifted him out and he croaked three times in gratitude.

Then we have added to our information about mice. Evidently, they sun-bathe, for Betty and her pals came upon what must have been two families carefully arranged on two logs; in each group there were two large mice and three small ones, with the peculiarity that one lot had an extra mouse. (Maybe Grandma or Auntie, or perhaps the perennial bachelor uncle?) The mice were lying with front and back legs outstretched, their heads between the front paws, in a neat row under the hot sun. At the rustle of approaching feet, they dove off the logs into the grass precisely as a swimmer takes to water from a raft.

From mice, it is a natural transition to hawks, of which there are many this year; one of the latter allowed us to observe him from the car parked only a yard under him. The hawk is a handsome bird, especially in flight, but if I were a mouse, my sunbathing would be marred by the thought of that cruel, curved bill.

The child of the house is making really distinctive composition difficult, by constructing a bird-house with appropriate saw and hammer noises, also, there is bread rising, which will soon demand our attention. From all these delightful rural avocations, we are recalled by the question, "Mummy, have you ever seen a hypocrite?" To which, in an unguarded and truthful moment, we replied, "You bet! Dozens". Asked further to explain, we said that a hypocrite was a person who pretended to feel an emotion that he did not possess. Now we are wondering if Webster agrees with us. . . Something called a hack-saw is being used on the bird-house and, as this tool is a prized possession of its owner, we have decided to quit and leave before the peace of Sunnyacres is shattered!

FIRST FLIGHT: The first scheduled airlines service between Toronto and the northern Ontario and Quebec mining country around Kirkland Lake, Rouyn-Noranda, Haileybury, Val d'Or, Cobalt, and New Liskeard, was inaugurated August 4, when a Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-3 took off from the Rouyn-Noranda airfield shortly before noon (bottom right) bound for the Queen City on an extension of its former Montreal - Val d'Or - Rouyn - Noranda trip. The new service provides the northland with an air link to Canada's two major cities, Toronto and Montreal, with one round trip daily. C.P.A. has been flying the Montreal leg of the flight for the past three years. Pictures show the first flight from Rouyn airfield to Toronto (lower right); Capt. C. N. McNeal (left) waving from the cockpit before take-off; and Toronto Alderman William Allen (right), representing Mayor Allan Lamport, shakes hands with (left) Rouyn's Mayor, Maurice Caouette and Noranda Mayor Frederic Hebert, during a civic dinner given by the twin cities of Rouyn and Noranda to celebrate the occasion.

PUMPING STATION ON BIG PIPELINE WORKS BY ITSELF

Crude Oil Boosted by Automatic Devices — Radio Signals Report Cases of Trouble

Edmonton (CP) — Imperial Pipeline Company's newest pumping station does just about everything but talk.

Located four miles west of Ellerslie and about five miles south of Edmonton, it is designed as Canada's first fully automatic oil pumping unit.

At present, one man is on duty at the pumping station at all times. When special radio equipment is added later this year, the station will be left to its own devices.

Starting, stopping and operation of the station is entirely automatic. When the volume of oil passing through the main pipeline reaches a certain peak, the station automatically turns itself on and boosts crude oil along the route to Edmonton.

Imperial intends to install a radio transmitter which will send a signal in case of trouble. Thus the pumping station will make up its own mind as to when it should go to work and when it has done its required duty each day. If anything goes wrong, it will be equipped to "cry" for help.

Officials believe the automatic pumper will be particularly valuable during the winter. In case a heavy snowfall isolates the pumping unit, it can be left unattended for days and oil will continue to be pumped to the Edmonton refineries and on to the Great Lakes.

Starts Forest In Own Back Garden

Toronto (CP) — A city policeman has started a forest of 12,000 trees in his backyard.

Sgt. A. R. Glover has raised his conifers from seeds to seedlings in a yard 100 feet by 45 feet and still found room for flowers and vegetable garden. He decided to start his own reforestation four years ago with seed imported from the United States.

There are Austin, Scotch and Mugo Pine; Douglas, Japanese and Colorado Silver Fir; Norway and Colorado Spruce, and Japanese larch.

Sgt. Glover did not start his private nursery as a commercial venture. But now the trees present a problem: what to do with them next?

They are rapidly outgrowing the space available. He can't take time to sell them, nor can he buy a farm and give the trees all his attention.

The Amazon region of Brazil is the world's richest storehouse of natural resources, says Willard Price in the September Reader's Digest. Amazon species of trees exceed 800, and so plentiful are rosewood and mahogany that they are burned as fuel on river boats. As to oil, "half of Brazil floats on a sea of the precious fluid". In one recently discovered diamond field 2,000 stones of good size were picked off the ground in a week. Rubber, after a period of boom and bust, is flowing out in quantity. Cotton's yield per acre averages four times that of Georgia's fields.

CHURCHES SUFFER

The scarcity of teachers has been a topic of conversation over most of the country for the last 12 years but few have noticed the scarcity of ministers until lately. Almost all religious denominations have too few newly-ordained men to take the place of ministers who are retiring.

"Let God Be True"

The Way to God Through Prayer

Prayer above all things is a matter of faith. He that approaches God must believe that He is; that requires faith, because no man has seen God at any time. Nor, in fact, can see him.

Those who really have faith will please God, for faith includes the confidence that God becomes the rewarder of those who earnestly seek Him, and the way we demonstrate that confidence is by our works. That is why James says, "Faith without works is dead". (James 2, 19 — 17-18.)

God through His word encourages us to pray (Psalms 50: 15), but if we go to Him in prayer only if ye are in particular need of His help, there is something radically wrong with us. Do we not owe our life to the great fountain of life? And has He not given us all things necessary to sustain that life? Is He not the giver of every perfect gift? (Psalms 36: 9 — James 1: 17); also Psalm 107, verse 8, says: Oh that men would praise Jehovah, for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men. Psalm 139:14 and Job 21: 22 refer to this also: We do not need to go to some church building to be heard of God. Psalm 34: 15 says: The eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous, and his ears are open unto their cry. Acts 7: 48 says: The most high dwelleth not in Temples made with hands. Matthew 6: 5-6, says: And when thou prayest thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are, for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, they have their reward. But thou when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret: and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly. Proverbs 15: 29. The Lord is far from the wicked, but he heans the prayers of the righteous. . . The only way of approach to the great creator of the heavens and earth, whose name alone is Jehovah (Psalms 83: 18) is through Christ Jesus, who gave His life a ransom, . . He said no man cometh unto the Father but by me, and if you ask anything in my name I will do it. (John 14: 14).

The disciples of Jesus realised the importance of Prayer, and asked him to teach them how to pray. Jesus gave instructions that are indispensable to the Christian today. Luke 11: 1-4. When ye pray, say, "Our Father which art in Heaven, hallowed be thy name, thy Kingdom come, thy will be done, as in Heaven so in Earth" . . So Christians today should be very busy drawing the attention of the people to this only hope for mankind.

Rite of Baptism by Pentecostal Pastor, in Rouge River, Bell Falls

(Our District Correspondent)

Harrington —

There will be a service of baptism by immersion held in connection with the Pentecostal Churches of Calumet and Harrington, in the Rouge River at Bell Falls on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The baptism will be conducted by Pastor M. Almey.

One of the highlights of the day in these churches will be the speaker, Miss Della McLean, in the morning at Calumet and in the evening in Harrington — this being the first time for her to preach since her accident over one year ago. . . Everyone is invited out to hear her testimony.

Approaching Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Prosser, of Brownsburg, announce the engagement of their only daughter, Meryle Elizabeth (Betty), to Mr. Linton Robert Tomalty, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Tomalty, of Brownsburg, Que. The marriage has been arranged to take place on Saturday, September 27, at 2.30 o'clock in Maple Avenue Baptist Church, Brownsburg.

Visitors at the home of Mr. Albert Cleland during the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. U. Hodgins, Mr. and Mrs. F. Hodgins, of Chilliwack, B.C., also Miss Grace Copeland, of Montreal.

Busy Bees

Bee experts have been trying to find the answer to this question for almost half a century and all of them come up with a different answer. One father and son team, after 40 years of observing bees under varying conditions, credit each working field bee with an average day of eight hours gathering honey at the rate of 20 flowers per minute and 20 minutes an average trip.

Another authority, reports C-I-L Agricultural News, rates bee activity slightly lower. He states that a bee often visits 10 to 20 flowers per minute and makes only 10 trips a day. If it were possible for a single bee to gather all the nectar for one pound of honey at this rate, it would have to work 365 days a year for more than eight years.

Bees have been observed gathering honey at all hours. Some have been seen leaving clover fields at 9.22 p.m. Others worked basswood from 4 to 5 a.m. — just before sunrise. From other similar observations it was concluded that a bee's working hours were determined by the time of day flowers surrounding the hive yielded the most nectar. Some yield most of the day while others, such as buckwheat, only part of the day. Some blossoms close early in the afternoon and do not open until late in the morning.

Sugar content of nectar varies in different kinds of flowers or in flowers of the same species from season to season or even in the same flower from day to day.

The distance of the source of nectar from the hive is another important factor in honey production. Bees will go eight miles if they cannot find nectar nearer home. But because of lost time and reduced loads this is not profitable and bees prefer to work at a source of nectar with a low sugar content near the hive before they will fly to flowers with a sweeter nectar much farther away.

MAIDEN VOYAGE SALUTE TO CANADA . . . A pretty Netherlander in authentic Dutch costume waves happily as the new pride of the Holland-America Line, S.S. Maasdam steams under the Jacques Cartier Bridge in Montreal Harbor on her maiden voyage from Rotterdam. The first foreign passenger ship ever to make a maiden voyage to this country, the Maasdam is paying tribute to Canada for the part played by Canadian Forces in the liberation of Holland and to acknowledge the friendly reception shown by this country to thousands of Netherlanders who have emigrated here. The sleek 503 foot, 15,024 gross ton vessel is designed to cater almost exclusively to tourist-class travellers and arrived here with a capacity list of 881 passengers.

Sudbury Taxidermist Prepares Birds and Beats; Busy Season Around Christmas

Sudbury (CP) — Around Christmas Bill Ruff, Sudbury's only taxidermist, is about the busiest man in town. This isn't so much because Santa Claus give away stuffed animals as because Christmas follows on the heels of the hunting season.

Everything from owls to bears end up in Bill's workshop. And the treatment they get varies.

First, the flesh is removed and the skin placed on a specially-built frame to simulate the original body shape. While the chemicals which tan the skin are a taxidermist's trade secret, they include preparations to make the specimen vermin-proof.

The skin of a furred animal is placed "in the tan" for a week or 10 days. Then it is removed and placed on its frame. Wires — light or heavy depending on the size of the animal — keep the limbs in the right position for the three to six weeks needed to dry the specimen.

For birds, the procedure is much the same except that the cure is painted on in the form of a paste. The feathers can't be soaked in a tanning solution.

After the animal specimen dries, some of the supporting wires are removed. The specimen having dried in a certain position will remain in that shape indefinitely.

The cost of having a bird or animal stuffed varies according to size. A small bird may cost $4 whereas a moose head these days would probably run to $50 or $55.

Police Witness: "No sir. But he was trying to fold up the white line."

St. Andrews East

Mrs. J. O. E. Moore and Mrs. John Crawford, of Montreal, spent a day with Mrs. H. W. Hill last week.

Petty Officer Wm. Bryson, of Chatham, N.B., spent the week-end with his father, Mr. George Bryson.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Downs, of Lachine, Que., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hall.

Miss Annie Dewar returned to Ottawa on Sunday after spending a few days with Miss Mary Lamb. Miss Jean Stewart was her guest over the week-end.

Mrs. E. B. McLaren, Mrs. E. W. Francis and Miss Dorothy Flower, of Montreal, called on Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Flower on their return from the W.M.S. School of Leaders at L'Orignal, Ont.

Mrs. A. D. Jeffrey, of Buckingham, Que., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Flower.

45th Wedding Anniversary

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gates, who celebrated the 45th anniversary of their marriage last week.

Mr. Arthur B. Robertson returned to No. 201 Radio Station, Mont Atrica, on Sunday after spending two weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Robertson.

Visitors at the Rejall home over the week-end were Dr. Alfred Rejall, of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rejall and family, of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rejall, of Toronto.

Many St. Andrews people attended the garden party at the Museum at Carillon last Saturday to enjoy the Indian and French-Canadian folk dances arranged by Miss Paré and Mrs. McKellar.

Church Groups Regret Family's Departure

A joint meeting of the W.M.S. and the Women's Guild of the United Church was held on Thursday, August 21, at the home of Mrs. Clattenburg.

On the occasion of her leaving St. Andrews to live in Montreal, Mrs. Robt. Robinson was presented with a life membership and a pin from the W.M.S., and a cup and saucer from the Guild. Miss Beverley Robinson received a fountain pen, as a gift of the Sunday School and choir.

HER SUCCESS FORMULA

Hunstanton, Norfolk, Eng. (CP) — Dorothy Sansom, a Leicester hairdresser, uses psychology to win beauty contests. Her success formula is that if most of the judges are women, wear not the briefest of clothing. If most of the judges are men, wear swim suits. This summer she has won six contests, been second twice and fourth once.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO FARMERS:

I am pleased to announce that I am opening a FEED STORE at 605 Main Street, Lachute, across from Muir's Gas Station. I will have in stock at all times a full line of GOODYEAR CATTLE, HOG AND POULTRY FEEDS and SUPPLEMENTS available in MASH, PELLETS, or CRUMBLES as desired. Also available will be whole and ground grains, millfeeds, salt, feed molasses and binder twine.

FARMERS, GOODYEAR balanced rations for cattle, hogs, and poultry have been manufactured for almost 20 years, and it is their continuous high quality that has permitted their widespread acceptance. To-day these feeds have been further fortified with the NEW antibiotics and Vitamin B-12 following an established policy of including in GOODYEAR FEEDS all proven new products.

TESTIMONIALS from feeders of GOODYEAR FEEDS show chicks weighing 3 lbs at 9 weeks produced on 9 lbs of feed, hogs marketed at 5 months on less than 600 lbs of feed, and a Holstein cow that produced 1365 lbs of fat from 31,878 lbs of 4.28% milk in 365 days (world championship for fat). She graded excellent and went on to the Quebec Exhibition Grand Championship.

Farmers, you pay no more for this superior quality feed, and I suggest you either come in, or phone in your order for a trial order of GOODYEAR FEED, for convincing proof that there is no better feed made.

Semi-Finals in Softball League

Frank Ladouceur's St. Andrews club received the Lachue Legion; St. Andrews won the first game, 8-7, while Legion took the second, 11-4.

Jos. Morreau's Carillon squad were defeated 15-7 in their first game with Lowe Bros, and won the second clash with this same team, 7-4.

At Lachute, Frank McLean's Colford Lodge also divided the honors with their oponents, Lachute Lions.

This semi-final series is for 2-out-of-3 games supremacy. Statistics for the league schedule and eliminations are given by Jean-Jacques Dupré, publicist, as follows:

League Standing

Carillon	32
St. Andrews East	22
Lachute Lions	20
Colford Lodge	16
Lowe Bros	14
Lachute Legion	14

Eliminations

	W	L	Pts.

Baseball on Montreal TV.

Television broadcasting of the baseball games between Montreal Royals and their visiting clubs in the International league will commence tomorrow, August 29, from Station CBFT, and will continue until September 5 inclusive. Baltimore, Ottawa and Toronto will be the opposing teams during this period.

On Labor Day, September 1, CBFT will transmit the last of two games televised that afternoon; all other games of the series are night engagements. Gerard Renaud will be the commentator.

Western Air School Gets Big Expansion

Winnipeg (CP) — Winnipeg's No. 2 R.C.A.F. Air Navigation School, currently the largest air training centre in Canada, will be $12,000,000 greater in 1953.

Millions of dollars already have been poured into the construction project at the school, part of a $500,000,000 national building program. About $250,000,000 will be spent in western Canada alone. In comparison the British Commonwealth Air Training plan in Canada from 1941-46 cost $220,000,000.

On the western edge of Stevenson field here, acres of steel, brick and concrete buildings rise out of the prairie. The accent is on permanence.

Chattering jackhammers slam rivets into rigid steel for two $1,250,000 hangars racing for a November deadline. Giant earth movers plow out a course for a $1,000,000 taxi strip and parking area.

Other buildings, many with late completion schedules, will include quarters, classrooms and other facilities. All buildings were designed by the R.C.A.F. with aid of civilian consultants.

SINGER FROM HOLLAND TAKES ONTARIO CLASS

Belleville, Ont. (CP) — Students at Albert College here have an opera singer for their teacher this fall, when Mrs. Michael Hendrikes starts her new career.

Mrs. Hendrikes has sung at Amsterdam and other European centres with the Dutch opera. She has also taught classes in Holland, and so brings an unusual amount of experience to her job here.

She arrived with her husband and five-year-old son last May. The son was the main reason for their coming to Canada. Mrs. Hendrikes says "the future for children in Europe is difficult", and they speak of Canada as "a wonderful free country".

They have learned to speak English since they arrived. The couple had a chicken farm in Holland and one of the first things they are going to save up for here is a farm near Belleville where they can raise "Canadian chickens".

R.C.A.F. Band — With Junior Edition

Forgetting his earlier wish to be a fireman, five-year-old Mike McVeigh, of Toronto, decided he'd rather be a bass drummer in the R.C.A.F. Band so he can pound away on a really big drum without someone telling him to keep quiet. Meanwhile, he gets a lesson in technique from Corporal Russell Hepburn, of Calgary, Alta., during a rehearsal for the band's appearance, as feature concert band, at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. Marking the first time in many years that a Canadian band has been in the C.N.E. spotlight, the R.C.A.F.'s musical aggregation is giving 28 concerts including vocal selections by a talented chorus of airwomen. The band, comprised of 75 musicians, is proving an outstanding attraction for all music-lovers.

It may sound like a "live" broadcast from the stage of a packed English theatre, but the CBC show "Memory Music Hall" is entirely the work of Gerry Peters and Freddy Tudor. By playing sound effects records, Freddy gives listeners the impression that a tremendous audience is cheering and whistling after each act, the acts being on records also. Joke-cracking Gerry is the producer and Master of Ceremonies on the show. He is well-fitted for the job, having been an M.C. in theatres all over England before bringing himself and his talent to Canada. The show is now in its third year and can be heard every Saturday evening on the Dominion Network.

LADY LUCK HELPS OUT

Wadena (CP)—Howard Blackely, 38-year-old carpenter's helper from Tisdale, believes in miracles these days. At the annual Kinsmen fair here he won a new car. Only recently, he said, family sickness wiped out his savings. He has a young family of three girls and two boys.

"My wife has a bad habit of talking to herself."

"So has mine, but she thinks I'm listening."

Mountain Expert Says Old Tales Popular

Old-Timer Conducted Royalty, Has Written Many Books and Lectures on Mountain Lore

Banff, Alta. (CP) — Back in 1907, when sick abed, Dan McCowan read in a British magazine about a contest for stories from what the publishers were pleased to call their colonial readers.

So McCowan, having just arrived from Scotland, decided to enter and for his pains he earned five guineas. This started him on a writing career which since has made him known for his works on mountain wildlife and lore.

When he landed in Banff — he came for his health and has felt too good to leave, although he now winters in Vancouver — he took on odd jobs, preferably those which gave him time to use the camera he had bought to photograph the scenery.

Lantern Slides Popular

He gave away so many negatives and prints to admirers that he found the more he worked the less he had. Finally he decided to make lantern slides, feeling they were something nobody would take as a gift.

During the First World War he visited prairie hospitals, showing slides of mountain scenes to veterans. Then a speaker failed to appear for a Banff convention. The officials asked him to fill in, which he did by showing his slides on a sheet hung between two trees.

The convention secretary told Sir Edward Beatty, then president of the C.P.R., there was a young chap at Banff who was a real whizz with interesting information.

His fame and knowledge are such that during the royal visit of 1939 he accompanied the King and Queen from Banff to Revelstoke, B.C., to explain the mountain growth and life. McCowan has written so many articles he has lost count and currently is finishing his sixth book.

Today, a man of 70, he lectures each week at Banff and Lake Louise and he says the age-old stories of the mountains are still popular.

CHILDREN'S HOBBIES

Fashions in children's hobbies change frequently and that fact is of considerable interest to firms who make use of premiums appealing to the young fry. According to the American Hobby Federation, a survey of over 8,000 hobby clubs of children, 8 to 16, shows the ten top hobbies to be — seals and labels (collecting); autographs; model plane making; woodcraft; insect collecting; stamps; painting; dolls; photography and model railroading.

Postponed Picnic Held Saturday At Brownsburg

The weather was bright and clear last Saturday, on the second attempt to hold the Brownsburg picnic, giving promise of an enjoyable day for all.

As often happens when an event must be postponed, the crowd was not as large as hoped for. What was lacking in numbers was made up in enthusiasm, however. Carol Moore and Jeannine Brisebois, participants in the girls' 8 and 9-year race, had to run four times to determine first and second places. The judges finally called it a tie and sent both girls to collect their well-earned prizes.

5 Years and Under, Boys — 1 Hubert Drouin, 2 Jean Menard, 3 Jules Cadieux.
Girls — 1 Bonny Jean Anderson, 2 Betty Ann Anderson, 3 Anne Hamilton.

6 Years, Boys — Robert Ouellette, Andrew Izzard, Billy Simpson.
Girls — Gail Todd, Annette Groulx, Dianne Ouellette.

Girls — Sandra Steere, Sandra Cruise, Claudette Menard.

8 and 9 Years, Boys — "Junior" Jackson, Réal Poirier, Donald Campbell.

10 and 11 Years, Boys — Kenneth MacGibbon, Garry Racine, Jimmy Martin.
Girls — Willow Smith, Marlene Hebert, Judy Seary.

Girls — Amy Hazel, Audrey Copeland, Elaine Stilwell.

Girls — Evelyn Stilwell, Ethel Saxhaug, Louise Raymond.

Also included on the program were field sports for men, races for women, and competitions in which a man and woman teamed up to compete.

Winners in the 100-yard dash were Gerry Hebert, Gerald Tomalty, and Jim Tomalty.

John Duncan and Mrs. Perry Rowe easily won the thread-the-needle race. Bobby Tomalty and Barbara Bradford placed second.

Mrs. Wyman Hazel showed good form in capturing first place in the married women's distance race. Mrs. Elaine Freeborn was second and Mrs. Roger Brisson third.

Barbara Bradford proved she could handle a wheelbarrow when she drove hers (Bobby Tomalty) across the finish line in record time for first place. Arlette Hebert and André Ouellette placed second.

High jump honors went to Jim Tomalty first, Bill Hewitt second, and Gerald Tomalty third.

Paul Emile Hebert placed first in Broad Jump and Shot Put.

Bill Hewitt was second in Broad Jump and Jim Tomalty third.

Germain Hebert placed second in Shot Put and Gerald Tomalty third.

Stan Horne Wins Lions Club Pro Golf Tournament

M.C. for this exciting part of the program was genial Leopold Carrière of Lachute, an ex-president of the local Lions. Mr. Costello took occasion to thank the public for their support, and mentioned that through efforts of this kind it had been possible for the Lions Clubs of Ontario and Quebec to spend over $1-million last year in charity works.

Twenty other attractive prizes were won by the following:

Mr. M. Morris, Glenranald Avenue, Montreal; E. F. Huntley, Ouimet St., St. Laurent; E. Spencer, Riviere des Prairies; L. Landry, Ste. Dorothee; F. L. Sutton, Summerlea Ave., Montreal; H. J. Legault, Montreal; A. Summers, De Gaspé St., Montreal; W. J. Nunn, Cornwall.

Aline Leclaire, Montreal; P. Rodgers, Cartier St., Montreal; P. Malcolm, Parkdale Ave., Ottawa; R. Chisholm, Clark Ave., Westmount; Kenneth C. Murray, Laval; Mrs. Roy Morrison, R.R. 3, Lachute.

N. C. McDonald, Montreal; Simon Chaput, Joliette; Mme B. Diotte, Montreal, Mrs. B. Thompson, Montreal; A. Richard, Montreal; W. Bronson, Montreal.

Door Prizes

Admittance prizes on Sunday afternoon were drawn for the following, most of whom were present and so eligible to receive their awards:

Ernest Manuel (Bigras), Ellen Lawrence, Mme André Lefebvre (Lachute), Roland Morin (Lachute), Mrs. Geo. Walsh, Paul Decoteau (Bigras), E. B. Spiers, A. E. Forbes (Bigras), Walter Forest.

(Saturday door prizes — list not received for publication.)

HERE AND THERE

Barrie, Ont., council has a new by-law introduced to outlaw pinball machines. . . Last year Farmer Harold Campbell of Hay Township in old Ontario, lost his wallet containing $200; while harvesting his crop this year he found it, although previous searches had failed. . . A storm did funny things at Dave Shinfield's farm in the Glen Ewen district of Saskatchewan; he had two buildings side by side, one roofed, the other not yet; the wind lifted the roof off the one, flipped it over a couple of times and laid it neatly atop the roofless building, with a perfect fit.

BIGGEST YEAR

This year will probably go down in Melville's history book as one showing the greatest natural development since incorporation in 1908. Saskatchewan's largest town will continue to go ahead, and right now we appear to be on the threshold of even bigger and better things.
