All Schools in Two Counties Re-open; Lachute Enrolment at All-Time High

100 Youngsters Flock to Primary Grade At New Lake of Two Mountains School

New Faces Among Teaching Staffs

The familiar dark green school buses appeared again last Tuesday on the high-roads and by-roads of Argenteuil and Two Mountains, as all schools in these two counties re-opened for the new term.

According to latest reports, the enrolment at Lachute High School has reached an all-time high, well in excess of 600. Many pupils and parents are disappointed there is no Commercial Course this year. This is due to the fact that the Board was unable to obtain a qualified teacher, despite their efforts in canvassing the provinces of Quebec, Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. . . As a matter of fact, school officials report the teacher situation has not improved, despite substantially increased salaries.

Dennis Staniforth, principal of the new Lake of Two Mountains School at St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac, had many problems with which to contend. No fewer than 100 pupils turned up for Grade I. The two young first-grade teachers, Miss Vivian Barker of Lachute and Miss Marion Dixon of Dalesville, were at a loss to know where to put them all. It is expected an additional Grade I teacher may have to be found for this school. One of the new teachers for Grade V, Miss Sylvia Cleveland from Nova Scotia, arrived in Montreal last Friday on her way to the school and became ill with an attack of measles. At the same time, the Board had not been able to obtain the services of a second Grade IV teacher, so that a supply teacher had to be found. Other local members of this staff are Miss Jean McAdam and Miss Florrie MacRae, of Lachute, and Miss Isabelle McOuat, of St. Andrews East. Other newcomers to the St. Eustache personnel are Miss Olive Zwicker, from Nova Scotia; Mrs. S. R. Crone, from Montreal; Carl Jackson, from Cookshire, Que.; Donald Potts, from Montreal; J. A. Alwright, from Valois, Que.; and A. Vail, from Nova Scotia.

A Household Science course has been set up in this school for the first time, with Miss Norma Cartledge in charge. Another new department is that of Physical Education, under Mr. Vail. Other teachers on this staff are Mrs. Dennis Staniforth, Mrs. Annie Cameron, Mrs. C. French, Mrs. P. Johanson, and Murray Baldwin.

The enrolment at the Grenville school is about the same as last year. The children from Avoca were unable to reach this school for the first two days due to washed-out roads following last week's heavy rainstorm. There are two new teachers on this staff, Mrs. G. L. White of Harrington and Mrs. R. C. Whinfield of Calumet. The other teachers, under Principal Andrew McGerrigle, are Mrs. McGerrigle, Mrs. L. Murphy, Mrs. M. Andrews, Mrs. R. Dumouchel, Miss Eileen Hoare and Mrs. C. Armstrong.

The school and the annex at Kilmar re-opened with an increased enrolment and an entirely new staff. Gerald Langille, from Nova Scotia, is the principal, and the teaching staff comprises Mrs. Foreman, of Calumet, Mrs. I. Craig, of Arundel, Miss C. King, of Thetford Mines, Miss V. Scott, of New Carlisle East, Que., and Miss Grace Cox, of Thetford Mines.

It is expected the enrolment at Arundel will be about the same as last year. Melvin A. Graham is continuing as the principal in that school. A new departure here is the Agriculture course, with Willard Davidson, of Ottawa, in charge. Ronald Goodwin, from Nova Scotia, is a new member of the staff, together with Mrs. Florence Graham, of Arundel, and Miss Shirley Wallace, of Nova Scotia. The remaining teachers are Mrs. M. Cooke, Miss D. Huckins and Miss Heather Douglas.

Four new teachers are on the staff at Brownsburg, under Principal G. K. Amos. These are Miss J. Ford, of Montreal, Miss L. Syvaoja, of Arvida, Miss M. Reid, from New Brunswick, and Miss M. Jamer, of Buckingham. The other members on this staff are Mrs. M. Connelly, Mrs. R. Kennedy, Mrs. L. Dixon, Miss Lyla Primmerman, Miss Ruby Primmerman and G. Philip Grant.

The enrolment at Morin Heights has been increased substantially by a number of children from the Radar Project located between Morin and St. Adolphe. Marvin Blakely continues as principal of this school, and the other members of his staff are Mrs. W. Seale, Mrs. E. Bell, both of Morin Heights, Miss R. Wallace and Miss Una Mae Ashley, both from Nova Scotia, Miss Joan Laurin, of Lachute, and Miss M. Swail, of Arundel — the latter two being the only newcomers.

The only three Elementary Schools in the Central Board Unit also opened this week. These are in Harrington Township, and the teachers are Mrs. J. Dobbie and Mrs. Almey, of Harrington, and Miss E. Gauley, of Grenville.

Woman Rewarded for Courage Displayed in Ste. Dorothee Incident

Mrs. Therese Malkassoff-Dupuis was awarded the Girl Guides' Silver Cross during a rally held in Montreal last week-end. Mrs. Malkassoff, an assistant-captain in the Girl Guides, during the winter of 1951 saved a handicapped friend from sure death when she fell on a railway track at Ste. Dorothee, Que. Despite the approaching locomotive, Mrs. Malkassoff rushed back to the track and pulled her friend out of danger.

Junior Farm Show Saturday, Sept. 6th

Chatham School Fair, Calf Club Field Day

With over 100 school-age gardeners and over 30 Calf Club members displaying their exhibits, the annual junior farm show should prove to be full of interest and activity this Saturday at the Exhibition Grounds.

Displays in the School Fair division will include vegetables, flowers, crop exhibits, sewing, cooking, and wood handicrafts. The Calf Club show will feature the calves raised by Club members this year, as well as the yearlings, two-year-olds, three-year-olds and mature cows started as Club calves in previous years.

A cordial welcome is extended to all. The show is to be held at Lachute Fair Grounds as usual, starting at 10 a.m.

Keys of Car to Winsome Winner

Happy moment for Miss Shirley Woodward, Montreal Bell Telephone employee whose home is at St. Andrews East, as she receives the keys of the Chevrolet car won in the Lions Club drawing at the annual professional golf tournament. Miss Woodward, brunette and 21, is here being congratulated by Lion Ian Gordon, chairman of the ticket sales committee, as he hands over the car in front of Lachute Motor Sales Regd., who supplied the Chevrolet at cost price to the Lions Clubs.

Duck Hunting to Open Sept. 20th; Dates Announced

As the hunting season approaches, changes in the Quebec Game Laws are the concern of all local enthusiasts. The following restrictions are noted this year, with dates applying to this particular area:

Duck hunting permitted from Saturday, September 20, to Saturday, November 15, inclusive.

Partridge hunting from September 20 to November 16.

Deer hunting from September 25 to November 24 — with no restriction this year, male, female or fawn. One animal only.

Moose hunting forbidden in Argenteuil, and in Zones A and B. (Open October 11 to November 2 in Zones C, D, and E; male animals only.)

Hare, October 15 to January 31.

It should be recalled that every deer shot must be registered without delay with the game warden of the district. In Argenteuil County the two authorized officers are Fernando Lamarche, 201-A Bethany Road, Lachute, and Gordon Cooke, Arundel.

Hunting permits will be on sale within a week or 10 days, and may be obtained in Lachute from the Tourist Bureau, Sport Shop (Rio Building), Bedard Ltée, John McFoul & Son, Wilson & Gordon Reg., or Armand Rochon, Lachute Mills (possibly other sports goods outlets of which The Watchman has not been notified).

The game wardens are available for advice and information to hunters. It should be noted that an error appears in the handbook issued this year by the Fish and Game Department, and that the above dates specified by Officer Fernando Lamarche are correct and reliable.

Montreal Motorist Dies at Hawkesbury

Hawkesbury (CP) — An inquest was ordered into the death of Gerald Donat Allaire, 35-year-old Montreal motorist, who died Saturday night in the Hawkesbury police station. Coroner Dr. Albert Perrier said death was due to a heart attack, but an inquest would have to be held because the man died in a public office.

Allaire suffered an attack while driving through town. He stopped his car and police drove him to the station.

Three Men and Horse Near Disaster On River Bank at St. Andrews East

Brownsburg — While out for a Sunday afternoon drive with his wife and a friend, Harry Ball of Brownsburg had an exciting experience — and came dangerously near being drowned as well. The party pulled up at the wharf at St. Andrews East to take a view of the North River, and while they were idling there, two men approached the water with a horse. Getting the animal to drink turned out to be a bit of a problem and ended up by all three — the two men and the horse — plunging into the water.

Neither of the men could swim, and as the river is too deep for wading at this point, they were soon in difficulties. Harry Ball, who is a good swimmer, reluctantly went to their assistance, considering he was attired in his "Sunday best". One of the men grasped Ball by the tie and took him to the bottom before he could control events; and after coming up, the second man also clung to the breathless rescuer, with the result that all three were in danger of being drowned. Mrs. Ball, who during the struggle became increasingly alarmed for the safety of her husband, endeavored to lend a hand, and after some difficulty succeeded in dragging the trio to shore — but not before she also was soaked waist-high in water. The horse was subsequently brought ashore farther downstream. Mr. Ball suffered the loss of his glasses as well as the damage to his clothes, which he unfortunately failed to remove before going into the water. . . It is since reported that he is abed with a cold as a result of the experience.

Four Escape As Car Plunges into Lake

Montreal —

Four persons, all Montrealers, narrowly escaped drowning last Sunday when an auto careened down a 25-foot embankment and plunged into the waters of Round Lake, Weir.

Police said Eric Patterson, a passenger in the car, managed to extricate himself from the partially submerged vehicle, and pulled out Willa McKillop, 20. Both swam to shore but soon returned to the car when their companions failed to fight themselves free.

Patterson rescued Jim Ereaux, 23, while Miss McKillop assisted Florence Laraway, 21, out of the auto.

Local residents helped the four from the water.

Police said Patterson was taken to hospital in a state of severe shock. The others were uninjured.

The accident occurred when the vehicle hit a soft shoulder. The steering column apparently broke and the car plunged down the embankment, according to police information.

Local Successes At Provincial Gladiolus Show

Grand sweepstakes winner of the 18th annual Quebec Gladiolus Society exhibition was J. G. Todd of Brownsburg.

Mr. Todd amassed the greatest number of points in the show, held in the Canadian Legion Building in Montreal, to beat hundreds of other competitors. He won the Advanced Amateur Sweepstakes and the bronze medal for the best spike in the first day of the two-day exhibit, and also took firsts for the best gladiolus spikes in the open and recent introduction classes.

Another local exhibitor, H. Cordeau, of Lachute Mills, took the provincial honors in the Single Spike Aggregate and Amateur Spike, receiving the rosette of the New England Gladiolus Society and the "aggregate" bronze medal of the North American Gladiolus Society, among other awards.

Greatest honor of the exhibition went to A. W. Stinson, of Ville La Salle, when he copped the American Home Achievement Medal with "Chatterbox", a new species of gladiolus. It also took the Best Seedling Spike Award.

Labor Day — A Grim Fiasco

There was a picture at one of the local theatres recently which depicted, among other things, horrible scenes of death in the arena for the amusement of a sadistic Emperor. This utterly debasing spectacle, of men being torn into tortured fragments while thousands cheered, manifested the final degradation of the Roman Empire. . .

Last week-end — with the celebration of Labor Day — we had our Roman Holiday. Not thousands, but fourteen million of us, sat on the gallery and were as callously complacent about the slaughter as the grandstand crowds of Caesar's time. How else can one interpret the complete disregard of all the warnings which had been issued during the preceding week? Every radio outlet, every newspaper, every law officer, did everything possible to awaken the motoring public to the necessity of driving with care — but still the death roll was the largest in history. "Seventy killed in Canada; five hundred and thirty-five in U.S." — so ran the headline on the show staged over the Labor Day week-end. The greatest, stupidest, most suicidal show ever staged.

If the present averages continue, they will have marked down for death or injury one Canadian child in every three before their allotted life-span has run. It is the most pitiful indictment of man's careless disregard of safety regulations.

Oh, the worst of phrases ringing all through motordom today
Is that selfish bit of wording that is known as "right of way".
It has filled the graves of many who have sped some road along
Since Death never asks the question, "Is the driver right of wrong!"

Rotary Conducted On Inspection of Hosiery Plant

About 30 members of the Rotary Club journeyed to Hudson, Que., to visit the Hudson Hosiery Company factory last Thursday.

The plant tour was conducted by the vice-president of the company, W. E. Sugrue, and the visitors were amazed at the intricate machinery required to manufacture socks in the variety of styles and patterns in which they are marketed.

Following the visit, the Rotary Club held its regular weekly meeting at the Como Inn, where Mr. Sugrue was guest speaker. Mr. Sugrue, who celebrates 50 years in the hosiery business this year, was one of the first three young men who made ladies' stockings in Canada. He stated that the Hudson Hosiery Company started business in Hudson with only $10,000 capital in 1937, and with one girl and six machines. The business has grown since, and was forced to occupy larger premises, now having 170 machines and about 70 employees. Each machine, which is fully automatic, can knit a sock with any given pattern in 4½ minutes. The output of the plant is approximately 7,000 pairs of socks per day, under such well-known trade names as 'Hudson', 'Whitlock', 'Iroquois' and 'Berkeley Square'.

The speaker, who was introduced by Jean Belanger and thanked by Keith Russell, concluded by answering a number of questions.

During the meeting, the president of the Club, Mac E. Walker, reported that plans were underway to hold an auction sale of antiques, and household furniture and effects, on the lawn of his residence on Saturday afternoon, September 20. Proceeds will be assigned to welfare and community projects of the Club.

It was reported also that the Club would sponsor during this forthcoming winter an event which should prove of great interest to Brownsburg, Lachute and district. Negotiations are underway to bring the famous Minto Ice Follies to the Brownsburg Community Rink about the end of January next. Seating in the rink will be ample and satisfactory by that time.

Pioneer Lady Spent Most of Years In Lakefield

Late Mrs. Samuel Kerr

Mrs. Samuel Kerr, of Lakefield, Que., passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Morrison, in Lachute last Friday, August 29, in her 91st year.

The last of a family of seven children, she was the former Helena Jane Graham. She was born on the high seas, of Irish parentage, and spent most of her life in Lakefield, from the early age of six. Her husband predeceased her 41 years ago, and she has spent her remaining years on the homestead, residing with her son, Amos Kerr.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her son Amos, at Lakefield, and four daughters, Mrs. H. Chapman (Ethel), of Clute, Ont., Mrs. B. Chapman (Lillian), of Montreal, Mrs. W. J. Morrison (Lewena) and Mrs. H. Riddell (Olive), both of Lachute. One daughter, Mrs. G. Riddell (Edith), predeceased her in 1939. There remain also 34 grandchildren and 29 great-grandchildren to mourn her passing.

The funeral service was conducted on Sunday by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, at Lachute United Church. Pall-bearers were six grandsons — Messrs. Kenneth Chapman, Leslie Kerr, Harvey Kerr, Keith Morrison, Clayton Riddell and Alton Riddell. Interment was made at Lachute Cemetery.

Inaugurate CBC Regular Television Service, Saturday

Montreal, Sept. 3 — With ceremonies and technical demonstrations reminiscent of the official opening of the CBC's Radio-Canada Building last year, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will inaugurate regular television service over CBFT, its Montreal TV station, this Saturday evening, September 6.

Although test telecasts have been presented since July, Saturday will mark the debut of regular television service in Canada. CBLT, the CBC TV station in Toronto, will start regular service two days later, Monday, September 8.

The arrival of regular television service in Canada is the result of several years of research and practical study of the new medium. For some years, the CBC had been keeping track of developments in TV. The first specific step following the CBC Board of Governors' decision to undertake the establishment of a national television service was the appointment of a small staff of engineers and program specialists to undertake study tours of Europe and the United States so that Canada should have the benefit of the experience of systems already in operation.

At the beginning of 1949, CBC named as its Co-ordinator of Television, Alphonse Ouimet, the Corporation's General Supervising Engineer, who has since been appointed Assistant General Manager. His experience with TV went back sixteen years. Several months later, the Directors of Television in Toronto and Montreal were appointed to begin the job of building TV organizations in the two cities.

Starting in 1950, CBC placed the orders to provide the necessary technical facilities and in January 1951, obtained authority to construct a tower and transmitting facilities on the top of Mount Royal.

Finally, early in 1952, training preparations and studio facilities were far enough advanced to begin production training. In the months since, this program has built staffs at CBC Montreal and CBC Toronto that total more than 300 employees.

To launch Canadian television, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has had to arrange three loans totalling $8,000,000. This money has served to construct television centres in the country's two largest population centres; to hire and train the necessary staff; to acquire the necessary technical facilities; to pay for training productions, test telecasts and programs for the first months of regular service; to construct a third production centre in Ottawa and to undertake the establishment of a network linking the three Canadian centres and the American networks.

View Finance of B'bg Waterworks In Light of New 'Boarder' Tax

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — Some taxpayers — among others, Mr. Robillard and Mr. Brisson — attended the Council meeting Tuesday night to protest the imposition of $7.50 per year for usage by boarders in addition to the regular household rate for water service.

Mr. Robillard felt that a more even distribution of the tax could be made than placing it on a boarder. It was pointed out that in one case a householder had taken in a relative without charge, and found himself saddled with a $7.50 bill for his generosity!

Mr. Brisson claimed that some boarders were classed as "roomers" and charged a different rate.

Secretary Emile Hebert replied that a check must be made to ascertain who should be taxed and for what amount, now that this new tax was being applied. He did not know all the details and could not be sure of those he had just heard about. Complaining about injustice was ridiculous, when one considers the rate is cheaper than Grenville; there is no valuation tax, as in Lachute; and no one in Brownsburg is charged for sewerage facilities. The water system here is financed on a different basis from any in the county. The revenue from taxes must be such that interest and amortization charges on the money borrowed be met. The initial loan of $152,000 was financed by a set rate. The money was borrowed from Ottawa, but was guaranteed by Quebec. When the Council borrowed an additional $40,000 the same rate prevailed unchanged; and when another $12,000 was borrowed to provide extensions, still the rate remained the same. The result now is that it does not meet the interest charges and extra revenue must be obtained. There is no more logical source than from the extra water used. The project must be self-supporting; if it fails, the government at Quebec, to protect its own interest, will be compelled to step in and take over the Village finances.

Unwrapped Garbage

Mr. Roy, garbage collector, complained that garbage cans were uncovered and in some cases filled with water; also that householders put a lot of stuff, other than garbage, out on the roadside—one man putting out a load of old brick siding taken off his house.

Reference to the by-law revealed that all garbage should be wrapped in paper and placed in covered cans. It was decided to have instructions printed and dis-

Gatineau LINES

Electrified Farming

Electricity on the farm has a definite dollars and cents pay-off.

Electricity pumps water. In some cases that means larger crops because of better irrigation. In other cases it means more milk from well-watered cows.

Electricity provides heat and light. In the spring that means more and better chicks from the brooders. In the hen-house means more eggs. For the farmer himself means greater comfort and less likelihood of accidents at night.

In the farm home electricity means a whole range of appliances and comforts which once were possible only in the most luxurious of city homes.

Bringing greater prosperity and more comfort to the farmer is one of the many services performed by electricity, one of mankind's most useful servants.

MODERN POLITICS

There is an increasing tendency on the part of election candidates to conduct election campaigns from a radio studio. Seasonal Farm Topics

Getting Most from Poultry Equipment

Ottawa — Quite a lot of the equipment in poultry farming is needed only at certain times of the year, but the possibilities of damage or depreciation are greater during the idle periods if provisions are not made for proper storage.

At the Dominion Experimental Station at Harrow, Ont., says W. F. Mountain, a reference to the last inventory provides an indication of what may be expected from some kinds of poultry equipment that has received good care. The following entries show the percentage of original brooding equipment in use after 23 seasons; coal brooders 100 per cent; metal feed troughs 100 per cent; float fountains 80 per cent; vacuum fountains 80 per cent. The electric hovers have finished their twelfth season in good shape. These items are in use from three to six months every year.

There is one rule which can be applied to advantage anywhere; as soon as equipment is no longer needed that season it must be cleaned and put away. A dressing of oil or better still a coat of aluminum paint before storing does much to prolong the life of brooder stoves. A high wide shelf is a good spot to place small equipment and a blank wall is a convenient place to hang electric hovers out of the way. Instances of damage by delay are often seen where chicks, that have outgrown their electric hover, develop a ravenous appetite for its fibre board insulation.

Sometimes, of course, equipment becomes outmoded or perhaps was faulty in the first place, in which cases replacement is the answer. As a general rule, however, a little effort at the right time in cleaning and putting away equipment is one way of avoiding expenditures and making the job of getting ready for another lot of birds much easier.

Selection for Carcass Quality in Swine

Selection is the most conventional method of livestock improvement and although it is used widely by present-day breeders, it is quite often misused. The purpose of selection is to save the best animals as breeders so that the progeny of those selected are better than the parental generation. The problems of livestock selection revolve around what constitutes the best animals and what is a suitable selection program, says C. G. Hickman, Animal Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

For selection to be successful the best animals are those that are genetically best. Concerning carcass quality in swine, the best carcass pigs are those that are longer, deeper, leaner, heavier in the ham, and lighter in the shoulder than the average of the group from which they are selected. Unfortunately, only little is known about how accurately visual estimates on live hogs predict actual carcass quality. However, the success of this live hog method depends on whether an entire generation or only a selected group such as in a show-ring, are evaluated at one time. The Department of Agriculture provides a service whereby breeders can have pigs from their herds carcass tested to enable an evaluation of carcass quality in related, prospective breeding animals.

Regardless of the method used in determining the best pigs, Mr. Hickman states that information to date indicates that the best selection program consists of a closed herd of at least 20 sows and two boars, with progeny raised within seasons to allow accurate comparisons among the progeny, and with few introductions from outside herds where feeding and management practices are the same.

New R.O.P. Certificate

As a result of the further mechanization of the Record of Performance for Dairy Cattle office procedure, it is possible to provide Record of Performance herd owners with a new type of certificate of performance which should be of increased value to them, says J. A. Steele, Chief R.O.P. Inspector (Cattle), Ottawa.

In the past on the completion of the test of a cow, the herd owner was provided with a Record of Performance certificate on the record of that particular cow, on which was indicated the details of for the individual record involved. With each succeding test, further individual certificates were issued. if the animal qualfied in accordance with the minimum breed standard.

The new certificate is designed to be cumulative in that it will show all of the records made by each cow, starting with her first record and ending with her last record, and at the end of the cow's producing life-time, the certificate will carry her full record of production for the entire period.

This new type of certificate should be welcomed by breeders and workers in the field of dairy cattle improvement, more and more of whom are recognizing the importance of life-time rather than any individual annual production, and has been developed in harmony with the thinking of the Record of Performance Advisory Record.

At the present time, all herd owners have not received the new type of certificate for cows completing lactation records but the number being processed is increasing daily and very shortly it is expected that the new certificate will have general application.

Prior to the mechanization of the Record of Performance office procedure, the issuance of such a certificate was not feasible without very considerable increase in office staff and cost. Under present conditions, no additional costs are involved.

Detergents For Butterfat Test

Detergents — the "soapless soaps" which have become so widely used in the past few years — are now being employed experimentally to determine the fat content of milk and cream.

Instead of using sulphuric acid to act upon the milk proteins and break down the oil-water emulsion, as in the long-established Babcock test, dairy chemists are employing a low cost detergent compound and alcohol to accomplish the same results — to enable the separated fats to rise and be "read" directly in the neck of the test bottle, reports C-I-L Agricultural News.

The same type of graduated test bottles is used in the detergent test as in the Babcock fat test and, similarly, the bottles are whirled around in a centrifuge machine. In addition to permitting a clearer and more precise reading of a fat column in the test bottles, the detergent compound makes them easier to clean. At the same time the corrosive action of the acid will be eliminated. Time required to prepare and run the detergent test is about the same as for the Babcock test.

While these experiments have been successful in their initial stages, further work is being done to simplify the test so it can be conducted under average field conditions in farm or factory with relatively inexpensive equipment. The detergent butterfat test was developed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

$100,000 REPRESENTS "A LOT OF BULL" !

Central Press Canadian

This unpleasant-looking animal is "Prince Sunbeam 249th," the world's most valuable bull, following the sale of one-half of the 1,800-pound Aberdeen to a buyer from San Antonio, Texas, for $100,000—the highest price in the history of cattle buying. The bull will commute by air between his owner's farm at Red Bank, N.J., and San Antonio, spending six months in each location. Said Dr. Hammer about his bull's definitely non-adonislike appearance: "The uglier they are, the more attractive and masculine to a cow."

Bring Hachneys From Scotland

Montreal (CP) — Miss Mischief was tenderly lifted from a padded cell of a freighter here recently, hustled aboard a truck and then taken to Ottawa. White-coated attendants handled her with care.

Nothing but the best was provided the pure-bred hackney horse from Kilmarnock, Scotland. Balantrae, Will-O'-the-Wisp and Fragrant Memory received the same kind of attention.

The four hackneys — whose breed had knee-action long before autos — were transported to the 200-acre farm of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ryan, within the city limits of Ottawa.

Mrs. Ryan, a former newspaper woman, met the new additions to the farm at the dock. "We now have 12 hackneys", she said. "These new ones certainly had all the comforts of life during the ocean crossing."

The Farm Market

The United States may lose about 400,000 of its 5,400,000 farms by 1970, is the prediction of the Department of Agriculture, the estimate being based on a loss of more than 20,000 farms a year for the next 18 years. Higher production will be accomplished despite continuing farm population decreases, the department believes. People who sell to farmers will find different markets. There will be a bigger labor-saving demand for trucks, combines and other machinery; but with fewer farm workers, there will be a slackening demand for items like overalls, work shoes, straw hats, pitchforks. Department officials claim that the mechanical age has made it more economical to man the farm and get the work done with less help.

Laval University Will Honor Governor General

Quebec, Sept. 2 — Canada's Governor-General, the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, will receive a "Doctorate of Laval University honoris causa" during the final convocation of Laval's main centennial celebrations September 19 to 22.

The announcement was made over the week-end by Msgr. Ferdinand Vandry, university rector, following the arrival here of Mr. Massey, who plans to spend a month in Quebec at his residence, the Citadel.

Msgr. Vandry said the Governor-General is the first non-alumni of Laval to be honored with the university's highest distinction. Earlier this year, the honorary doctorate was conferred on three prominent Laval graduates, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, Cardinal McGuigan of Toronto and Premier Maurice Duplessis.

The Governor General will represent the Crown and the University of Oxford at the centennial celebrations and plans to attend several of the scheduled events.

He also will be host at a formal reception for all official centennial delegates, Sunday afternoon at the Citadel.

Back to School

THERE'S a certain rejuvenating effect, in watching a youngster return to school after the long summer vacation. The renewing of suspended friendships—re-embarking on the orderly routine — anticipating new interests in the classroom curriculum — these reactions fill young minds and reflect in smiling, sun-bronzed faces. No wonder that, with clothes cleaned and pressed, or in brand-new outfits, they tread with light footsteps to meet their new teacher and take their place in the new classroom.

Yes, there is something infectious about their enthusiasm — not to mention, on the parent's part, a somewhat soothing outlook, as school's firm but gentle discipline relieves tired Mother from continuous restraint upon her offspring. The energy of youth finds new absorption in study and in play; and home becomes a refuge of affection, rather than a centre of boisterous adventures or a resort on riotous, rainy days.

The new-found glamor fades, of course; schooldays become something of a drudgery. But happily, not as they used to be. For the school program nowadays is so varied and refreshing that youthful interests are more generally sustained. The facilities of the modern school, the subjects taught, and their newer forms of presentation, open new vistas at every session and in every chapter of the textbook; while extra-curricular diversions are equally varied, enlisting wayward talents, cultivating skills and physical attributes.

In Junior's new experience — going back to school — the family shares his keen excitement. And in the adult mind there is something of the same response: a quiet resolve to fulfill neglected intentions, to foster friendships, to improve the home, or maybe to develop oneself in craft and culture. Altogether it's a gladsome season, when schooldays commence again.

Labor Day Weather

"AS WE basked on the sunny beach or dangled our fishing lines in the trout streams . . " It was the day after Labor Day that we read, in a manufacturers' bulletin, this paragraph referring to the anticipated holiday. It was written, of course, in advance, otherwise the author might have waxed eloquent on the pelting of rain on the roof, and our thoroughly drenched spirits.

However, for those who shared our disappointment in the weather, the next holiday is Thanksgiving, which has been officially proclaimed for Monday, October 13.

Those Conventions

EVERY YEAR members of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers, representing weeklies located in communities from Vancouver Island to Newfoundland and from the Yukon to Southern Ontario, gather in convention. At these conferences the newspaper men and women discuss mutual problems, and ways and means of improving their weeklies that they may better serve their respective communities.

This year the C.W.N.A. convention is being held at beautiful St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, in New Brunswick. (Mr. R. A. Giles, manager of this publication, left Tuesday with Mrs. Giles to take part in the proceedings.)

When newspapermen gather at a convention they spend their time between formal sessions and entertainment in "shop talk". They exchange ideas, learn how others solve problems similar to theirs, find out new ways of doing things, discover short cuts which help to keep in line rising costs of production . . . in general they spend much of the convention time in gleaning ideas which will help them do a better job in their respective communities.

Turning out a creditable weekly newspaper is a complicated process. Thus C.W.N.A. members find plenty to talk about.

They discuss among other things, advertising both national and local, layouts, news and editorial writing, subscriptions, district news gathering, the use of pictures and other features, the development of classifieds, training of apprentices, care of typesetting and printing machinery, and, well, the list could go on.

Weekly newspaper men at convention time welcome representatives of the railways, advertising agencies, nation-wide companies, supply and machinery houses, federal and provincial governments and so forth. Over the years these people have proved themselves to be good friends of C.W.N.A. and of the more than 500 newspapers which make up its membership.

At such conventions as that as St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, at least one speaker is bound to refer to the good job being done by the weeklies in serving the "grass roots" people of Canada, the people of the smaller communities. That always causes weekly newspaper people to chuckle, for they know that the people who live on the farms and in the small towns are just as up-to-date in their thinking and ways of doing things as their city cousins.

Yet there is an element of truth in that "grass roots" expression, too, for rural people do seem to be more sane, more balanced, more conscientious and certainly more neighborly than many who live in the big cities of Canada.

Gradually through the years out of C.W.N.A. gatherings have evolved weekly newspapers vastly better than those of even a few decades ago, newspapers of which the communities they serve may well be proud. That there is still room for improvement in the average weekly, no one knows better than the men and women who are striving week in and week out to improve the papers they are producing. That's why the C.W.N.A. holds conventions.

About D.P.'s

NO ONE would argue about the fact that Canada needs more people, must have them, indeed, if the nation's resources are to be developed and the nation is to fulfill her destiny.

Yet one hears murmurings across the land on the part of some Canadians that those D.P.'s are taking jobs that rightfully belong to native-born men and women. Such an attitude merely indicates superficial thinking from a selfish point of view.

It is true, perhaps, that there are individual, perhaps isolated, cases of newcomers from Europe or other parts of this continent obtaining jobs that Canadians might well regard as theirs. But in the nation-wide picture the fact is that the more new-Canadians arrive in our land, the more jobs there will be, for these men and women and their families require food and housing and, in time, all the other things that Canadians today regard as necessities. Thus markets are extended for both farm and manufactured products, making for greater work opportunities.

The very term "Displaced Person" has come, unfortunately, to have a tinge of disapprobation. It is time it were dropped in referring to people from other lands who come to Canada to make their homes.

Not so long ago we overheard a bit of beefing because Indians were being employed on a certain construction job. The Indians were spoken of as D.P.'s. That of course is very funny, for who has more right to the term Canadian than the descendants of the tribes here long before the white man appeared on the scene?

Looking back a bit in our history, we find that Canada as we know it was built by men and women from old lands of Europe and Asia. And Canadians today who look askance at the arrival of immigrants forget that they, too, are the descendants of earlier D.P.'s.

Canada's population is a mixture of nationalities and from that mixture is arising a nation not quite like any that exists or ever has existed. Canada is young. Confederation is only a short 85 years old; and the evolution from colonial status to nationhood gained momentum only since World War I.

Newcomers, D.P.'s, are bringing with them to our land new skills, new ideas, a willingness to work hard, an ardent desire to participate in the freedoms and opportunities for development that are ours.

Canadians must welcome them, help them to become assimilated. And Canada must have millions more men and women from crowded Great Britain and the European countries, from the United States and, perhaps, from Asia to people our vast empty spaces and to help us build a great nation in the northern part of this continent.

But let's stop calling these new citizens D.P.'s; let's call them what they are, new Canadians.

Hay Fever !

An Allergy Written in a Country Churchyard

The curfew tolls the knell of parting day —
At-Choo !
There's pollen on the goldenrod and hay —
At-Choo !
Although the summer days are stunning
I do not feel like jokes or punning
Because my eyes and nose are running —
At-Choo !

My doctor says I'm past all curing —
At-Choo !
He little knows what I'm enduring —
At-Choo !
This year I'm never going near him
Because I dread and also fear him
With his infernal shots of serum —
At-Choo !

It's always this way in September —
At-Choo !
Each year as far as I remember —
At-Choo !
A cold in Winter is much easier
To cure, because it's much less sneezier
In weather that is crisp and breezier —
At-Choo !

But just the same, I love the summer —
At-Choo !
The one we're having is a hummer —
At-Choo !
I'd rather sneeze until I'm weary
Than live through days cold, dark and dreary
Like those we have in January —
At-Choo !

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt

Not New

So you're fed-up on politics? So are we. If it's any consolation, here is somebody else that was, too. Read what he says:

Politicians have strained their ingenuity to discover new sources of public revenue. They have continued the extraordinary taxes of war time into peace time. A man now has to defend himself against being rich as if it were the worst of crimes. Athletics have become professionalized. Philosophy has struggled to find some substitute for divine commandments and the surveillance of God.

Who said it? Nobody but our old friend Socrates, describing the political and economic life of Athens in the year 353 B.C.

If you have read this little magazine very long, you will know that we are generally on the side of believing that the world is slowly gettting better. Actually, we do believe it is, and Socrates was often on that side of the fence, too. Now and then, though, like all of us, he had his doubts.

Sometimes it pays us to read a little history. Then we learn that others have gone this way before, whether it be a way of joy or of sadness, of hope or despair. And then we conclude, with Solomon, that "there is nothing new under the sun."

LIGHTNING PERIL

Most of us have a tendency to treat lightning lightly. That is not meant as a joke, especially in view of the fact that lightning kills nearly 600 people each year and injures some 1,700 more on this continent. According to one authority, lightning bolts take more lives than do hurricanes, earthquakes, floods and other mass disasters, throughout the world.

PROVINCIAL HELP

To leave the municipalities with the financing of assistance to the needy, for hospitalization of the sick, and other similar services, all of which require maintenance of certain standards of health, welfare and other social services throughout the province, does not seem to be in the best interests of the people.

INDUSTRIAL BENEFITS

Industrialization has broadened individual viewpoints. Thanks to the mass circulation of the press, to the radio, the film, and now television, as well as to comfortable modes of travel, the average person can today be constantly well-informed.

THEY SEEK CHANGE

The tourist from across the border does not come up here to see another thousand miles of typical tourist cabins, to sleep a dozen nights in another series of "Welcome Inn" lodges, to eat another score or two of conventional meals, no matter how well cooked. He wants to see and do and experience something different from the ordinary way of life.

URGENT NEED

Since so much of our national economy depends on getting wheat to where it can be sent to other markets, it should be only natural that the powers-that-be should make every endeavor to place the marketable wheat in a place where it can be immediately handled. Certainly there is little chance that the average farmer can store as much as 80 per cent of his crop this year.

FISHERMEN PROUD OF CO-OP SUCCESS

Pork Bickerton, N.S. (CP) — A group of fishermen in this eastern Nova Scotia port turned businessmen, and they like it. It's three years now since they pooled their wits and their equipment, and decided to strike out on their own.

They formed a co-operative and built a processing plant which now has a yearly business turnover of nearly $250,000.

Leonard Hiltz, a crew member on one of the co-op's sword-fishing boats, likes the system because the men are running their own business.

"We have no middleman to look after", he says, "and we get all there is in it."

Modern equipment has helped the organization to forge ahead. The fishermen have forsaken their old boats for long-liners equipped with modern navigation equipment to stay on the fishing grounds a and refrigeration, which are able week at a time.

SCHOOL REPRIEVE

Trafalgar, Ont. (CP) — Children who are less than six years of age on the opening day of the fall term will not be admitted in schools here, the school board decided. Such children, however, will be given consideration if space is available September 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, of Montreal, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cooke. Mr. T. Sevigny was also a guest over the holiday.

Master Bobby Cooke left for Montreal, to attend West Hill High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Marshall, and Mr. and Mrs. Clair Marshall, have been spending some time at their respective cottages.

Mr. and Mrs. Val Swail and family, of Truro, N.S., are visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Val Swail.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Boyd and family have returned to the city after a summer's vacation at Bevan Lake.

Miss Annie Cooke has been the guest of her mother, Mrs. Wm. Cooke, for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Watson and Mrs. Scott, of Ottawa, were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Cooke.

Mrs. Henry Lochren is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Lochren in London, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Craig have left to take up residence in Kilmar. On Friday evening, Mrs. Craig was presented with a farewell gift from the members of the United Church Guild.

Silver Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Simonds celebrated the 25th anniversary of their marriage recently, and entertained a number of their friends. They have now returned to the city, accompanied by their week-end guest, Miss White.

Entertainment

A successful concert was held Friday evening in the school auditorium, under auspices of the Ladies' Union and Guild of the United Church. The program took the form of a variety concert, and the scene was set on the verandah of a ranch-house. The show opened with a lively chorus, followed by various items, such as trios, instrumental numbers, dances and readings, each of which proved enjoyable to the large audience. Candy, fancy work and home-cooking were sold during the evening, bringing the proceeds up to a very satisfying sum. Credit is tendered to the two instigators of this show, Mrs. F. Davis and Mrs. T. Sevigny, who originated and carried through the entire program.

Mabel

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Warwick visited Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Warwick here before leaving to take up residence in Western Ontario.

Mr. Ian Mahon, of Mimico, Ont., visited his grandmother, Mrs. R. Black, last week.

Mrs. M. MacKenzie and Miss J. MacKenzie, of Brownsburg, also Mr. and Mrs. George MacKenzie and family, of Lachute, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. Clark.

Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Black, celebrating Mrs. R. Black's birthday, were Mr. and Mrs. John Mahon, of Calumet, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Warwick and family, of Brownsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Bolland and family, of Ottawa, and Miss Ruth Maslin, of Brownsburg.

Mrs. Jack Morrin and little son, Kenneth, of Ottawa, spent a day recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Carson Tomalty and family, also Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Tomalty and family, were guests at the Tomalty-Farrara wedding last Friday evening at Calumet.

Elderly Man Killed In Crash at Plaisance

One person was killed and six others injured a mile east of Plaisance in a head-on collision between two cars, last Saturday night on No. 8 Highway.

Palma Perrier, 83, lifelong resident of Plaisance, was killed instantly in the crash when he was hurled from the rear seat of his son's car and went through the windshield. His neck was broken.

Delmer Perrier, son of the dead man, was driving west at 9.15 p.m. With him in the car were his wife and his father. A farm tractor, pulling a wagon loaded with grain, was also heading west. Police reported there were no lights on the rear of the high-loaded wagon.

Delmer Perrier told police he did not see the wagon until almost on top of it. He swerved to the left and crashed head-on into an eastbound car driven by Claude Richer, 22, of Papineauville. In Richer's car were his wife and four passengers — only two of whom emerged from the accident unhurt, all the others suffering varying degrees of shock, cuts, fractures and bruises. A team of three doctors from Thurso and Papineauville stitched and splinted the injured at the scene. Then they were taken to hospital at Buckingham, by ambulance.

Coroner Dr. Lucien Bourgeault, of St. André Avellin, opened an inquest Sunday night and then adjourned it to a later date.

BUSY PERIOD

Sydney, N.S. (CP) — The Sydney airport had one of its busiest periods on record when weather caused a temporary diversion from Gander in Newfoundland. Twelve trans-ocean clippers were serviced in less than four hours. They carried 632 passengers, mostly eastbound.

Ambrose Dowkes breezed into the editorial sanctum at Oxbow, Sask., and displayed an oddity, a turtle egg laid by a snapper on the farm. . . The Ford car of an American tourist standing in the garage yard of Boucier Motors at Val d'Or, Que., was flattened by a five-ton truck when a ten-year-old boy flipped the key in the ignition while the operator was out of the cab. . . An "appointment barber shop" for men, similar to the beauty parlor method, has been opened at New Glasgow, N.S.

Pork Is Plentiful

Thrifty meal planners can have variety in their meals and help the family food budget by keeping up to date on market supplies and prices. They will know that all meat is available in plentiful supply and right now pork is one of the best buys. This should please most appetites for, with cooler days approaching, the family will enjoy a good rib roast of pork served either hot or cold.

There are a number of other cuts too which can be seen at meat counters these days. Probably the most familiar is the leg of pork or fresh ham. It is divided into the shank and butt ends, both of which may be roasted. One or two slices are sometimes cut off the shank end and these can be either baked or braised as fresh ham steaks.

The loin may be divided and sold as three different loin roasts — the ham end, the centre and the rib end. To make two meals of a rib or centre loin roast, have your butcher cut off a few rib chops, then roast the rest of it. Be sure to have the back bone cut through so that the roast may be easily carved by slicing between the ribs. In this way, each serving has a good proportion of meat and bone. The ham end of the loin roast is the one which has the tenderloin. It is often removed and sold as a separate cut.

Shoulder roasts are sometimes sold as "fresh picnic" and "Boston butt". These cuts may be bought either bone in or boneless.

One of the most important points in cooking pork is that it should be cooked to the well done stage. At this stage the pork has completely lost its pink color and is greyish-white throughout. If a meat thermometer is used it will register an internal temperature of 185°F. Pork should be roasted without water on a rack, in an uncovered pan, fat side up, in a 300°F oven for 40-45 minutes per pound for leg or loin roasts and for 50-60 minutes for shoulder roasts.

Spareribs rank high among meat favorites and there are almost as many versions of this popular meat dish as there are cooks. Barbecued spareribs are a special treat for buffet suppers for the young crowd. To make them easier to serve, have the butcher cut them into serving size pieces, about three inches in length, with about three ribs to each serving. Allow at least two pounds for 3-4 servings.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture suggest that spareribs should first be browned for 30 minutes, uncovered in a 350°F., oven then covered with a favorite barbecue sauce and cooked, covered, for about 30 minutes longer. The pan is then uncovered and the spareribs cooked 20 minutes longer or until they are crisp and brown. The home economists have this recipe for barbecue sauce made with canned tomatoes which gives the spareribs a rich, red color. This recipe makes enough sauce for two pounds of spareribs.

Barbecue Sauce for Spareribs

2 Cups canned tomatoes, 1 tablespoon spicy meat sauce, ½ teaspoon chili powder, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 2 tablespoons vinegar, ¼ cup chopped onion, salt and pepper to taste.

Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly.

Another way to prepare spareribs is to cook them completely, then dip into a barbecue sauce when they are served. To do this bake in a 325°F., oven, on a rack, in an uncovered pan for one hour. A third way to serve spareribs is stuffed. For these, allow three-quarters of a pound for each person. Use two sides of spareribs or about three pounds for four servings. Place one side of the rib hollow side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. Spread with bread dressing then cover with a second side of ribs, hollow side down. Skewer or tie together and roast uncovered in a 325°F. oven for one hour or until tender. To carve, cut between the ribs giving each person two or three ribs with dressing between.

Peaches — Canning Or Freezing

Peaches may be canned either cold or hot pack method. In either case, a moderately thin syrup made with one cup of sugar to one and one-half cups of water is used.

Cold Pack: — Blanch peaches 15-60 seconds, dip in cold water. Remove skins and pits. Drop in brine bath made with 1 teaspoon salt in 1 quart water. Drain. Leave in halves or slice. Pack, cups down if halved. Cover with boiling syrup leaving half inch headspace with glass sealers and one-quarter inch headspace with tin cans.

To help prevent any possible darkening of light-colored fruits, ascorbic acid (Vitamin C) may be added to the sealer just before filling with fruit. The suggested amount of ascorbic acid is 200 milligrams for each quart and 150 milligrams for each pint. When the processing is complete and the sealer is cold, invert for a short time to distribute ascorbic acid more evenly. Process in a boiling water bath 20 minutes for pint sealers or 20 oz. cans and 125 minutes for quart sealers or 28 oz. cans.

Hot Pack: — Blanch peaches 15-60 seconds, dip in cold water. Remove skins and pits. Drop in brine bath. Drain. Leave in halves or slice. Bring to boil in syrup and simmer three minutes. Pack hot, leaving one-half inch headspace for glass sealers and one-quarter inch headspace for tin cans. Process in a boiling water bath 15 minutes for pint sealers or 20 oz. cans and 15 minutes for quart sealers or 28 oz. cans. If the peaches are to be oven cannned, they should be processed in the oven for 25 minutes at 275°F.

Freezing Peaches: — Frozen peaches are a very acceptable product. Peaches discolor readily and require quick, careful handling and special treatment to prevent darkening. The following method has been found effective. Use 200 milligrams of ascorbic acid per cup of syrup. Crush tablets and dissolve in syrup. While the use of ascorbic acid will prevent discoloration in peaches, it adds considerably to the cost. To freeze peaches, choose firm ripe peaches, blanch in boiling water one-half to one minute then dip in cold water. Remove skins and pits, slice fruit directly into syrup in containers. Use a cold moderately thin syrup made by adding one cup of sugar to one and one-half cups of water.

Synthetic Food Or Starvation ?

Since the dawn of history, there has never been a moment when people were not dying from lack of food somewhere on the earth. So far, widespread famine has not threatened this continent, but strangely enough, the prospect is beginning to concern thoughtful men.

Within 25 years the land available for food production, in the United States alone, will be short of requirement by 23,000,000 acres. Where will the needed food come from, then?

The answer, says Jacob Rosin in the September Reader's Digest, is to liberate ourselves from our age-old "bondage to the plant". We must cease to rely on growing food, and begin to manufacture it. In other words, synthesize food, as we have already synthesized perfumes, dyes, rubber and fibre.

Mr. Rosin, author of a forthcoming book called "The Road to Abundance", takes a new, fresh look at the whole concept of agriculture. In his Reader's Digest article Rosin says: "Agriculture, as a gigantic food factory, is an industrial monstrosity". Its "floor space" is prohibitive; its manpower is staggering. Industry, unlike agriculture, goes on producing, rain or shine, all year 'round, and does in days what plants accomplish in months."

A factory efficiently bends its whole effort to producing the goods needed. But with a plant the "goods" are usually incidental. How much of a wheat field goes into bread? How much of an apple orchard into apples? Man's job is to make the equivalent of wheat, leaving out the chaff and straw; to make the substance of the apple, omitting the wood and leaves of the tree.

It is all very well to synthesize rubber and clothing, Rosin says, but with synthetic food we run afoul of prejudice: a feeling that "natural" foods are better, or more wholesome, than "artificial" foods. But natural foods are a mixture of chemical compounds, and often we make them "unnatural" by cooking or other processing.

The synthetic food of the future can taste as good as the "natural", and need not be in the form of pills. Carbohydrates, fats and proteins are the main elements, and all can be synthesized eventually. Already, a partial synthesis of fat has resulted in oleomargarine. Starch, the Digest article says, could have been synthesized before now. But atomic research has claimed prior attention of science, and starch-bearing grains are so cheap that the economic incentive to synthesize starch has been minor. The protein problem resolves itself to a synthesis of the amino acids from which all proteins are formed.

Rosin asks: Why not start on this road to abundance now, before we are faced with starvation?

Pen Pals for Months, Guides Finally Met

Montreal — Pen pals with a purpose are the Girl Guides of the 4th St. Lambert Company and the Girl Scouts of Troop No. 32 of Des Plaines, Ill., who met at the C.N.R. Station here recently after 15 months of letter writing.

The U.S. girls were greeted by the St. Lambert Guides to form the first International Friendship Link with a Girl Guide Company of Quebec, this being accomplished after months of hard work on the part of both groups.

In order to earn their fares to Montreal the U.S. Troop collected and sold herbs, rags and papers; held food sales and staged card parties. They pooled their baby sitting money as well in order to meet with their friends of St. Lambert, who in the meantime were saving money to act as suitable hosts for the visitors. They sold nearly 1,000 bottles of homemade marmalade, to earn almost $400.

A whirlwind tour of the city followed the arrival of the Des Plaines Scouts and then a week's camping program was arranged at Morin Heights. The Des Plaines girls entrained for Toronto to attend the Canadian National Exhibition before returning to Des Plaines. The St. Lambert Company has begun saving money to visit the Des Plaines Troop next summer.

Toronto Great-Grandmother Among Founders of Shut-In Association to Help Those in Hospital

Saskatoon (CP) — Mrs. Lily S. Rye of Toronto, herself an invalid has devoted her life to bringing happiness to other invalids and shut-ins.

Mrs. Rye this summer is visiting a daughter in Sutherland, near here. She is the mother of five girls and is proud of her grandchildren and her 20 great-grandchildren.

Crippled with arthritis and suffering from a heart ailment, 77-year-old Mrs. Rye writes dozens of letters every week to shut-ins all over the world. Hardly a day passes without tthe mailman leaving her a handful of letters from pen pals in hospital or confined to their homes.

Years in Hospital

Mrs. Rye knows from experience how much a message or a visit means to those who are ill, for she has spent many years in hospital. At one time, both she and her husband were wheelchair patients.

She was one of the originators of the Shut-In Friends Association. Its activities include a publication, handicraft, picnics and packing of gift parcels.

Mrs. Rye claims part of the credit for the idea of "Shut-Ins Day" in June, when through the church citizens are asked to remember those who are ill and unable to get around.

Some of the letters she has received over the years are among her most valued possessions. One of these is an uncompleted letter, found beside an elderly patient who had just died. It told what happiness she had found through Mrs. Rye's friendship.

Raymond, Alta. (CP) — Cliff Dahl and his family were awakened one night when a pig came crashing through their basement window. The pig, which had escaped from a neighbor's pen, was chased through the window by dogs.

Barbecue Roast Pork for Zippy Flavor

ROAST pork hits a new high for tantalizing flavor when you barbecue it in a rich tomato sauce. Celebrate the first fall days with a luscious platter of pork fixed this irresistible way.

Just the right recipe for the sauce is half the secret to successful barbecuing. One sauce is sure to make all partakers smack their lips. It's a sharp-rich blend of rosy tomato soup, chopped onion, vinegar and lively seasonings. Tastes good enough to make even an "old cowhand" give a cheer.

Serve the barbecued pork from a handsome platter at your table. Or slice and enjoy it sandwich-style at a picnic or backyard supper.

Oven-Barbecued Pork

1 5-pound pork loin
⅓ cup finely chopped onion
⅓ cup finely chopped celery
⅓ clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons lemon juice and vinegar
4 drops Tabasco sauce

Place pork in a shallow pan and roast in a slow oven (325°F.) for 2 hours. Combine sauce ingredients; mix well and pour over roast. Continue cooking for 1½ hours basting frequently. Serve hot barbecue sauce over pork slices. Makes 8 servings.

TEACHER SHORTAGE

Sydney, N.S. (CP) — There are about 100 teaching vacancies in Cape Breton's rural schools, closed for a time last term by teachers seeking salary increases. It is expected many of the vacancies will be filled by "permissive teachers", with lower qualifications.

Handkerchief Brings Greeting

Realizing that greeting cards are eventually thrown away, an enterpriser has produced the "Thankerchief" to take the place of greetings now purchased on paper. An ink that washes away without stain is used on Irish linen to bring a message "that cheers and then disappears". The producer's belief is that the handkerchief will be kept and the sender's thought remembered for a longer time. Sizes are for men women, and children.

SOUP SCOOPS

TRY SPICY PORK AND BEANS

Bubbling with spicy flavor is a pork and bean casserole made with chopped apple, sausage and spices. First pour one 1-pound can of pork and beans into a baking dish. Cut a medium-sized apple into bite-size pieces and stir it into the beans; add ¼ teaspoon cinnamon. Dot the top with 1 large link sausage, cut into coin-slices. Heat to bubbling in a hot oven (400°F.) about 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

SPAGHETTI AND OLIVES ARE HAPPY DUET

Bright slices of stuffed olive turn the trick when you want an extra-elegant dish from cans of spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese. Open and heat the spaghetti as usual. Gently fold in about ¼ cup of sliced stuffed olives while the spaghetti heats. The 15-fluid-ounce can of spaghetti will make 3 good servings fixed this way.

TEAM SOUP WITH MILK

Good hot soup is a perfect feature for school lunch boxes. How youngsters do enjoy a thermos filled with such a hot savory combination. And the soup teams so well with milk, another valuable item to include with lunches. The whole array of condensed soups are good bets for the thermos bottle. To prepare any of them with milk, simply blend a can of soup with a can of milk before heating.

History Comes Alive

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"A wise nation fosters national pride and love of country by perpetual reference to the sacrifices and glories of the past", wrote Joseph Howe, Canadian Maritime statesman of the last century. Our National Historic Parks and Sites are dedicated to this very purpose. There are over four hundred of these administered by the National Parks Service. Their selection has been made by the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada. This group is made up of historians from the different parts of our Dominion.

Perhaps you have motored by one of these smaller sites and have scarcely noticed it until you have passed. The traffic may be heavy and you are dubious about trying to turn back so that you can park nearby, let the family get out and examine the site on foot. It is well worth your while to write to the Canadian Travel Bureau and ask for their printed booklet "National Historic Parks and Sites in Canada".

The illustrations in this excellent little booklet do show that although a motorist might not notice a tablet or even a cairn, there are many imposing monuments which can be seen for some distance and cannot but attract attention. On the cover is the picture of the statue of Madeleine de Vercheres, at Vercheres, Quebec. The bust of Sieur de Monts on the monument in the Fort Anne National Historic Park, Annapolis Royal, Nova Scotia, the Jacques Cartier cross Gaspé, Quebec, General Brock's monument on top of Queenston Heights all dominate the surrounding landscape.

The pictures in this booklet also show that there is a wide variety in the ways by which historic sites are marked and in the kinds of events which they recall. At the Port Royal National Historic Park at Lower Granville, Nova Scotia there is the site where the first settlers in Canada erected their homes. Early in the seventeenth century Champlain and De Monts directed the establishment of the Port Royal Habitation on the shore of the Annapolis Basin. This settlement with its excellent harbour became the first permanent trading centre on this continent north of the Spanish centres on the Gulf of Mexico. The illustration of the central courtyard with a covered well and solid wooden buildings, turns back the pages of history almost three and a half centuries.

The visitor to this point should also make a trip to see nearby Fort Anne. Here a large building was erected in 1797 during the English occupation and was restored in 1935. The fine library and the carefully planned museum, divided into rooms in historical sequence, call forth many appreciative comments by observant visitors. So do the historic places in Fort Beausejour National Park, N.B., half-way between Sackville, New Brunswick, and Amherst, Nova Scotia.

On the provincial legislative grounds, Charlottetown, P.E.I., is an imposing cut stone monument to commemorate the four-hundredth anniversary of the landing of Jacques Cartier on the Island, 1534. The solid stone buildings at Fort Lennox and Fort Chambly, both on the Richelieu River, are well worth seeing.

In Ontario, Fort Wellington at Prescott and Fort Malden at Amherstburg are reminders of the period around the war of 1812 - 1814 when the border between Canada and the United States was studded with military posts. The fortifications, the special features such as the "listening post" at Fort Wellington, would delight the heart of any small boy or girl either!

Several historic sites including the Peace Arch in Douglas, B.C. are reminders of the harmonious relationship between us and our southern neighbor. The tablet at Douglas commemorates the settling of a perplexing boundary problem in the signing of the Oregon Treaty.

Opposite the Port of Churchill in Manitoba is found Fort Prince of Wales, which is located farther north than any other fort in Canada. It is a reminder of the days of the Hudson's Bay Company and the struggle between the Company and a French naval port in 1782.

The history of Eastern Canada stretches farther back into the past than the rest of our Dominion and the national historic parks are a vivid reminder of other days. But in every province there are interesting national historic sites, marked and maintained by the National Parks Service. The bronze tablets marking these locations mention a great many different kinds of fascinating events in Canada's past.

Some of these recall some of the men and women who have contributed to Canadian culture. "Anne of Green Gables" is one of the best known figures in fiction to thousands of girls and the author of the Anne books, Lucy Maud Montgomery, is honored in a cut-stone monument at Cavendish, Prince Edward Island. There is a tablet in the University Women's Club in Winnipeg to the memory of another well loved writer, Charles William Gordon, or "Ralph Connor", the author of "The Sky Pilot" and many other novels of life in Canada. A tablet is found in the Municipal Building, Beamsville, to the memory of George Herbert Locke, author and chief librarian of the Toronto Public Library for almost thirty years. The famous singer Madame Albani's birthplace is marked on Martel Street, Chambly, Quebec.

Quite a number of explorers are named in various places. At Boucherville, Quebec, is found the cut stone monument to the memory of Father Jacques Marquette who with Louis Jolliet discovered the Mississippi River in 1673. In St. John's Park in Winnipeg there is a cut-stone monument to the memory of Thomas Simpson, explorer in the Arctic, while in Devon Park, The Pas, there is a cairn in memory of Henry Kelsey, Hudson's Bay fur trader and explorer. There is also a monument on the Marine Drive in Vancouver to mark the place where Simon Fraser ended his exploration of the Fraser River from Fort George in 1808.

"Playing Indians" is one of the most popular activities of small school boys and reminders of the Indians never fail to interest them. No one who has seen the magnificent sculpture work in Couchiching Beach Park, Orillia, commemorating the treaties with the Indians is apt to forget this fine piece of art. A great many of the historic sites in Western Canada mention the First Canadians. The cairn at the Hudson's Bay Company Post at Norway House, Manitoba, tells that here the Cree Syllabic System was invented.

Quite a few sites recall treaties with the Indians, as the cairn at Carlton, Sask., and that at Cluny, Alberta, on the Blackfoot Indian Reserve. Strife with the first inhabitants of this continent is recorded at some sites and at Frog Lake, Alberta, there is a cairn at the cemetery in memory of those massacred by rebel Indians during the North West Rebellion. But on The Reserve, Gleichen, Alberta, there is a fine cut stone monument to Chief Crowfoot of the Blackfoot Confederacy, who was "fearless in war but a lover of peace, he promoted amity among the tribes of the plains and friendship with the white mass". What a simple, moving tribute to this leader of the Red Men!

Our National Historic Parks and Sites can mean a great deal more to our younger generation if parents would take a greater interest in planning visits to them and in encouraging their children to find out more about the events and people they recall. These places can greatly enrich our appreciation of the men and women who put their very best in many walks of life into the building of our Dominion. They can make history come alive for your child! So do find out where they are and make a point of visiting them as a family!

Mobile Television Unit

CBFT Mobile Unit is a control room on wheels that uses the Montreal area as its studio. Limited only by the 20-mile range of its microwave link with the CBFT transmitter facilities, the unit's 10-man crew can take their three cameras — the same camera capacity as the biggest TV studio at CBC Montreal — almost anywhere. The sights captured by the unit's cameras are sent by its microwave transmitter to CBC Montreal's mobile-unit receiving equipment which feeds them to the CBFT transmitter on Mount Royal for telecast on Channel 2.

Some idea of the heavy expenditures necessary to establish television service can be drawn from the example of the two mobile units purchased for Toronto and Montreal. Each cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, nine-tenths of this being accounted for by the electronic equipment installed.

CBC Montreal will begin regular TV transmissions over a temporary antenna tower on Mount Royal. Installation of the permanent tower designed for the mountain transmitter site has been held up by the steel shortage.

When this installation is completed, CBFT's transmitter antenna will stand more than 900 feet above average terrain within ten miles of Mount Royal. The success of the temporary antenna 200 feet shorter than the permanent installation gives ground for optimism about the reception to be provided Montreal viewers once the permanent tower is completed.

Several years ago, CBC decided to adopt the TV standards used in the United States, that is, a picture with 525-line definition. The United States is our only neighbor and the exchange of programs with the American network will be more convenient and more economical if the same standards are used on both sides of the border. In addition, there are already more than 100,000 receiving sets installed in Canada using the 525-line system. In the number of sets in use, Canada stands third in the world, ranking immediately after the United States and Great Britain.

As well as working towards the provision of regular services in Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto, CBC is studying the possibilities of eventually serving the whole country as it does with radio. However, this will depend on solving the economic problems posed by our geography. Canada is, in fact, one of the largest countries of the world but at the same time, it is one of the most thinly populated.

During the first months of operation, CBFT will provide a daily schedule of at least three hours. Of necessity, it will present programs for both French and English-speaking audiences. The programs will be as varied as possible in character including some planned for children, others for women and some, such as sportscasts, which are primarily of interest to men. The schedule will include drama, variety, actuality, documentary, in fact the whole gamut of program ideas suitable for telecasting.

CBFT will make use of both "live" talent and films. The TV wing of the Radio-Canada Building provides three studios, two for "live" productions and the other for the presentation of films and kinescope recordings of TV programs.

The CBFT operation is centered in the TV wing incorporated into the Radio-Canada Building. In addition to the studios, it provides scenery shops and dressing rooms in the basement, master control facilities, a telecine room for recording TV programs and with equipment for transmitting these recordings and other filmed material, and maintenance shops.

Are Insecticides Menacing Wildlife?

With the increasing use of modern insecticides such as DDT, some Canadian bird lovers and sportsmen have expressed concern about the effect of these chemicals on wildlife. However, a recent statement by Avery S. Hoyt, chief of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, should dispel much of their apprehension.

Chemical pest control is an important element in conservation, said Mr. Hoyt. Forest pests now are regarded as guilty as forest fires in causing wildlife destruction. As a matter of fact, many of the devastating forest fires are due to insects. There is no need to recount what forest fires mean to wildlife.

Large scale control operations usually are under the direction of trained personnel. Control of forest-destroying insects such as the spruce budworm and the tussock moth can readily be obtained by the application of DDT at the rate of one pound per acre.

Population studies of birds before and after spraying indicated that there was no abandonment of nests or any nesting mortality that could be attributed to DDT. Repopulation of insects used by birds and animals as food was rapid. Direct fish losses in streams were small in comparison to the total population present. The loss of brook trout in one stream studied was estimated to be only 1.3 per cent.

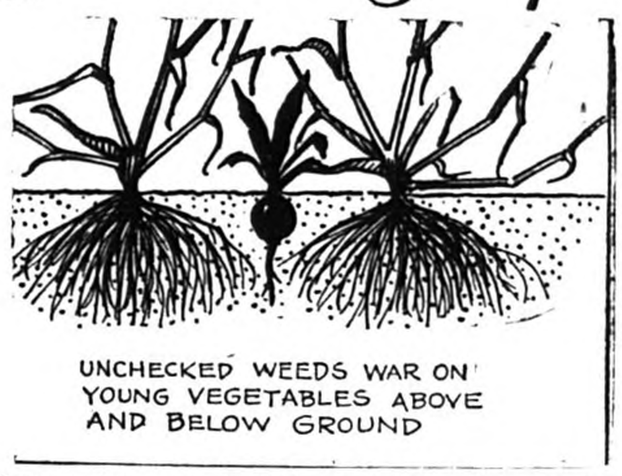

Tests by the U.S. Public Health Service and the Tennessee Valley Authority have shown that airplane application of DDT at the rate of 0.1 pound per acres has been effective in eliminating malaria-carrying mosquitoes, Mr. Hoyt reported. Those who have been concerned over the widespread use of DDT for mosquito control should be relieved to know that after 16 consecutive applications there was no injurious effect to the resident fish population.

While Mr. Hoyt's statement referred to the United States, it can be applied to Canada as well since similar conditions exist here. As long as insecticides are used according to government-approved recommendations usually found on the label of the container, there should be little fear that modern agricultural chemicals are a threat to Canadian wildlife. Dead forests and grasshopper-devastated prairies are infinitely more dangerous.

More than 87 per cent of all Canadian homes had electric lighting in 1951.

Garden-Graph

Some gardeners war on weeds until late August and then grow lax. Late weeding, however, is especially necessary if you are attempting to grow crops for storage or freezing.

At this time of year, weeds can be especially troublesome to small, slow-growing crops. The accompanying Garden-Graph shows how they can smother young beets both above and below ground. Weeds can also choke out late-planted carrots, onions, even parsley.

Regular use of the hoe is the only way the gardener can obtain a maximum crop return for time and effort and cost of seeding or setting out late crop seedlings.

Weeds should be hoed out before they can push their roots deep into the soil. The hoe must be used as often as new weed seedlings sprout. You can't afford to hang up the hoe for long during the late crop growing season.

Should weeds be put on the compost pile or left in between crop rows? The answer is: Know your weeds. If weeds have not flowered or produced seed pods, or are the types that do not re-root easily, such as purslane and crabgrass, it is a good practice to leave the uprooted plants between the rows. With easily rooting weeds, turning them upside down and exposing the roots to the sun and air is effective.

A weed mulch between the rows will help keep other weed seeds from germinating and when finally worked into the soil will add organic matter to it.

Weeds may be put on the compost pile if they are not infested with insect pests or are diseased.

Pretty Wedding At United Church In Grenville

Tomalty - Farrara

A pretty wedding was solemnized in Grenville United Church on Friday, August 29, at 8 p.m., when Ramona Violet Farrara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Farrara, of Calumet, Que., became the bride of James Harold Tomalty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Tomalty, of Brownsburg, Que. The Rev. G. Case, of Cushing, officiated and Mrs. Russell Owens played the organ. The church was beautifully decorated for the ceremony.

The bride, in a floor-length gown of white satin with overlace and fingertip veil, was given away by her father. Her flowers were American Beauty roses. Her maid of honor, Miss Shirley Gray, of Grenville, was dressed in a floor-length gown of pale blue taffeta with a bouquet of gladioli. The bridesmaid, Miss Joyce Trineer, of Grenville, was gowned in floor-length yellow taffeta, with matching gladioli, and the flower girl, little Heather Tomalty, of Brownsburg, wore a floor-length dress of pale green taffeta.

The groom was supported by his cousin, Gerald Tomalty. The ushers were James Tomalty and Fred McLeod.

A luncheon was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McMichael, and a reception followed at McIntyre's Hall, Grenville. The large gathering of friends wished them good fortune and happiness as the newlywed couple left on a short trip to Belleville, Ont.

The purple violet comes in for particular acclaim in New Brunswick and is used as the flower emblem of that province.

Arundel Ceremony, Airman and Bride

Graham - Gray

The marriage of Gladys May, daughter of the late Mr. Alfred Edgar Gray and of Mrs. Christina Gray, of Czar, Alta., to LAC. Clark Alvin Graham, R.C.A.F., Trenton, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Graham, of Arundel, took place Saturday evening at seven thirty o'clock in Arundel United Church, the Rev. Charles Cushing, of Montreal, officiating. Mrs. Melvin Graham played the wedding music and Mr. Edgar Davis sang "Oh Promise Me", during the signing of the register. Pastel gladioli were used to decorate the church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by LAC. Wilfred Featherstone, of Carleton Place, Ont., was in a gown of white satin with tiered satin and lace skirt, with sleeves ending in points over her hands. Her fingertip-length veil was held in place with white roses, and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli and red roses.

Miss Diane Barrie, of Montreal, as bridesmaid, was in a gown of lemon frosted organdy over taffeta, with squared neckline, short puffed sleeves and wide bouffant skirt. She wore a yellow mohair and tulle Juliet cap and carried pastel colored gladioli.

Mr. Norman Graham acted as best man for his brother. The ushers were Mr. Earl Graham, brother of the groom, and Mr. Ivan Rathwell.

Mrs. Christina Gray, the bride's mother, was unable to attend.

Mrs. Alvin Graham, mother of the bridegroom, wore a frock of grey and navy blue printed silk, a black picture hat, and a corsage of red carnations.

The reception was held in the school auditorium, where gladioli were used as decorations. Supper was served by the Arundel Women's Institute.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Graham left for a motor trip, the bride travelling in a navy blue frock of nylon net over taffeta with matching accessories. The couple will reside in Trenton, Ont. The bride was a former member of the R.C.A.F.

Among the out-of-town guests were — Messrs. Neil Kennedy, Norman Foien, Malcolm Matheson, all of R.C.A.F., Trenton, Ont.; LAC. and Mrs. Wilfred Featherstone, of Carleton Place, Ont.; Mr. Robert Holdridge, of Buckingham, Que.; Mr. Roy Webber, of St. Lambert, Que.; Miss Diane Barrie, Miss Isabel Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCord, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Houston, Mrs. Harry Gentleman, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Graham, Mr. and Mrs. August Carl, all of Montreal; Mrs. D. Theroux, Mr. Harry Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Beattie, all of St. Jovite, Que.

County Couple Wed at Grenv'l Anglican Church

Genest - Martin

St. Matthew's Anglican Church, Grenville, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday at 3.30 o'clock, when the Rev. P. R. Stote, assisted by Rev. S. J. Pike, officiated at the marriage of Beverley Evelyn Martin, only daughter of Mr. P. G. Martin, of Brownsburg, Que., to Maurice Herbert Genest, son of Mrs. W. C. Grece, of Cushing, Que.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was becomingly attired in a ballerina-length gown of ice-blue nylon marquisette over taffeta, in a strapless bouffant style with a matching short-sleeved bolero; she wore matching mittens and shoes, and her shoulder-length veil was held in place by a headdress of fresh flowers. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and pink roses.

The bride's only attendant, Miss Jean Genest, sister of the groom, wore a ballerina-length dress of pale green, made on similar lines to the bride's, with matching mittens and shoes, and a flowered headband, and she carried a nosegay of mauve and white sweet peas.

Mr. Donald Hooper supported the groom, and Mr. J. C. Hazel was the usher. The organist was Mr. Leonard Young, of New York and Cushing, Que.

A reception in the Brownsburg Legion Hall followed the ceremony. Out of town guests included — Mr. and Mrs. J. McLean, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. J. Goodman, Mr. and Mrs. L. Demers, Miss S. Carstairs, Miss P. Martin, all of Montreal; and Miss J. Dingwell, of Berwick, Ont.

The happy couple will reside in London, Ont.

Reports From Five W. Inst. Branches

Jerusalem - Bethany Women's Institute reports 14 members present at the August meeting — one new member having joined on this occasion. The branch voted $5 for the Progress prize at Lachute High School, and $10 to the School Fair. A paper was read, entitled "Do You Remember?" — a resumé of the work of the Jerusalem - Bethany W.I. from the time of its formation in May, 1919.

Mille Isles reports 10 members and seven visitors present. A community picnic was held. Twenty-five cents per member was voted for the A.C.W.W. Plans were made to send a food parcel to England. Mr. A. Bothwell, County Agronomist, spoke on "Wheat".

At Brownsburg, no meeting was held in August. A group from this branch, attended the Ottawa Exhibition August 20 — some of the members having handmade articles on exhibition this year, including sewing, knitting and fancy work.

Arundel reports 22 members present. This meeting dealt chiefly with the planning of School Fair work, to be held in the school on September 5. The W.I. members planned to cater for a wedding reception. It was also planned to start a scholarship fund under the direction of Mrs. E. A. Bulley. One new member was enrolled.

Lakefield reports nine members and eight visitors present, answering the roll-call with "A favorite subject at school". Letters of appreciation were read from two members for flowers sent; also a letter from Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., in reply to the W.I. protest on conditions in Fullum Street Jail. The meeting was held at the summer home of Mrs. R. McOuat. Plans were made for a card party in September.

This Week in Ottawa

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Alan Donnelly, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Finance Minister Abbott and Premier Frost of Ontario signed an agreement at Ottawa last week under which Ontario will rent its corporation tax and personal income tax fields to the federal government in return for a fixed annual payment.

This is an improved version of the plan which Ontario rejected at the dominion-provincial conference about six years ago. Nine provinces now rent such tax fields to the federal government; Quebec is the only province which has not signed such agreements.

The annual federal payments to Ontario will have a guaranteed minimum of $101,800,000 yearly. Premier Frost said that under present circumstances the new tax alignment is the best possible, but said it should be regarded as a temporary arrangement pending the working out of a more satisfactory distribution of tax and revenue sources.

Actual tax rates in Ontario are not altered by the agreement, except that the total tax on corporations is lowered from 54 to 52 per cent.

Federal Surplus

The federal government budgetary surplus now has reached $334,916,000 for the first four months of the fiscal year. The latest monthly treasury report said that defence expenditures in particular have been lower than the authorized rate of spending so far, but that heavier spending will show up later. The current surplus compares with a forecast of a $9,000,000 surplus for the entire fiscal year ending March 31, 1953.

Jet Plane Planning

While Britain's new Canberra jet bomber flashed across the Atlantic Ocean and back last week in slightly more than 10 hours, there was talk in Ottawa of a new jet plane for Canada.

Although the new CF-100 Canuck is only now coming into use by the R.C.A.F., it was understood the Air Force has begun a search for a new jet fighter plane.

The present search for something new points up the need for long-range planning in the international race for supremacy of the skies.

The Canuck was started four or five years ago and, with the modern F-86E Sabre, is considered existing movement, which was enacted by Federal legislation two years later. The second gathering, a biennial General Conference, met in Montreal in 1928.

The organization has now grown to 540 affiliated congregations, plus 80 associated congregations with a membership of 100,000 in Canada, plus a larger number on the mission fields where it operates.

capable of protecting Canada for another three to five years. What the Air Force wants is a plane that will be ready to take over the job of defence around 1956.

It takes years to design and produce a fighter, and the final product when completed will have to be a match for whatever aircraft a potential enemy has then. By 1956, Russia — which Defence Minister Claxton calls the only potential enemy — may well have jet bombers to throw at North America.

Canada's new jet fighter is almost certain to be supersonic jet — bigger, more complex and costlier than her present jets which streak across the skies at around 500 to 600 miles an hour.

General Conference of Pentecostal Assemblies In Montreal Next Week

Montreal — The 18th biennial 10-day national General Conference of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada will open in the Central French Pentecostal Church next Thursday, under presidency of Rev. Campbell Bannerman Smith, of Victoria, B.C., General Superintendent. . . The Rev. L. S. Poirier, of Brownsburg, and the Rev. Maurice Almey, of Calumet, will be delegates to the conference.

The Conference will be attended by some 200 voting delegates, plus non-voting observers. All ordained ministers have voting rights, in addition to three lay delegates from each of the seven District Conferences across Canada, special representatives from the 12 overseas mission fields, and women ministers who hold credentials known as "Ministerial License for Women", a limited form of ordination for women who are preachers in their own right.

A distinguished overseas visitor will be Rev. Nicholas Bhengu, a Bantu negro evangelist of Port Elizabeth, South Africa, who last Easter Sunday baptized 1,300 adult believers by immersion in a single baptismal service. He will address the Friday night service, September 12.

This is the third national gathering of Pentecostal Assemblies in Montreal. The first, the constitutional conference of the organization, met in Montreal in 1917, when the 12 ordained ministers petitioned the Dominion Government for legal recognition of the Old Resident Dies; Came to Centerville At Turn of Century

Late Mrs. John Matthews

After a brief illness, the death of Mrs. John Matthews occurred last Wednesday, August 27, at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, George McDougall, in Centerville.

Born at Lakefield, she was the daughter of the late Colonel Samuel Rogers and his wife, Rachel Sherritt. In 1900 she married John Matthews, of Centerville, where she has since resided.

She leaves to mourn her loss, a daughter, (Dorothy) Mrs. George MacDougall; a son, Percy, of Powell River, B.C.; and one granddaughter. A sister, Mrs. George Matthews, of Fort Bragg, Calif., also remains.

The Rev. W. B. Rosborugh conducted the funeral service, which was held Friday in Lachute United Church. Interment was at Lachute Cemetery.

Pall-bearers were — Messrs. Douglas and Bruce Bradford, Arthur and Charles Pollock, Daniel deHertel and Inkerman Bryce.

Former Lachute Resident Dies in United States

The Late James Combie

James Combie, 51, of 2408 Sherman Avenue, Middletown, Ohio, passed away at the Middletown Hospital on Monday, August 25, after a brief illness.

He is survived by his beloved wife, the former Ethel Boyd, of Louisa, Que., whom he married in 1926; one daughter, Mrs. Robert Boyd, of Albuqerque, N. Mexico; one son, Keith, stationed at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas; one sister, Mrs. Hector Mason, of Brownsburg, and one brother, George, of Lachute.

Mr. Combie was born in Lachute, in 1900. He went to the States in 1922 and was employed as tour foreman at Gardner Beard & Carton Company for the past 30 years.

He was an active member of Jefferson Lodge 90, A.F. & A.M.; Middletown Chapter 87, Royal Arch Masons; L.O.L. 717 at Louisa, Que.; and a member of the First Evangelical United Brethren Church.

The funeral was conducted by the Rev. E. H. Hammon, of the above church, last Friday. The large attendance and many floral tributes showed the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Burial was at Woodside Cemetery.

FAMILIAR FIGURE

Regina (CP) — John Simpson, 75, of Regina has not missed an exhibition in the city since the first stock show in 1884. He was a familiar figure at the provincial exhibition again this year.

SAYS YOUNGER MEN COOL TO FISHERY

Westport, N.S. (CP) — A lifelong fisherman of this Digby Islands community is wondering who is going to uphold its fishing traditions once the old hands quit.

Lou Baily is worried because so many of Westport's younger men are forsaking the fishery for what he calls easier work. He knows that to be successful in Digby Islands a fisherman has to live on the waters all his life. Outsiders don't stand much chance against the fog and fierce tidal ripe.

Lou points to the populatiton — now shrunk from a peak of 800 to 350 — as proof that the youngsters aren't interested in following their fishing fathers' footsteps.

There are 40 cars on the Island "and the only place to go is off", he says "Westport, maybe, in years to come will be a ghost town."

Up She Goes!

Canada's long range all-weather interceptor jet fighter, the CF-100 Canuck, is shown during a jet assisted takeoff (JATO) at RCAF Station, Uplands, Ont., where it is being tested by the RCAF. Designed to enable heavy aircraft to take off on small landing strips, the six JATO bottles under the Canuck's fuselage give its two Orenda jet engines an added thrust of 1000 pounds each. In the test shown above, the CF-100 took off with a full load of fuel and armament plus two one-thousand pound bombs, visible under the wings, in less than half the normal take-off run. The CF-100 is designed and built in Canada by A. V. Roe (Canada) Ltd., of Toronto.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO FARMERS:

I am pleased to announce that I am opening a FEED STORE at 605 Main Street, Lachute, across from Muir's Gas Station. I will have in stock at all times a full line of GOODYEAR CATTLE, HOG AND POULTRY FEEDS and SUPPLEMENTS available in MASH, PELLETS, or CRUMBLES as desired. Also available will be whole and ground grains, millfeeds, salt, feed molasses and binder twine.

FARMERS, GOODYEAR balanced rations for cattle, hogs, and poultry have been manufactured for almost 20 years, and it is their continuous high quality that has permitted their widespread acceptance. To-day these feeds have been further fortified with the NEW antibiotics and Vitamin B-12 following an established policy of including in GOODYEAR FEEDS all proven new products.

TESTIMONIALS from feeders of GOODYEAR FEEDS show chicks weighing 3 lbs at 9 weeks produced on 9 lbs of feed, hogs marketed at 5 months on less than 600 lbs of feed, and a Holstein cow that produced 1365 lbs of fat from 31,878 lbs of 4.28% milk in 365 days (world championship for fat). She graded excellent and went on to the Quebec Exhibition Grand Championship.

Farmers, you pay no more for this superior quality feed, and I suggest you either come in, or phone in your order for a trial order of GOODYEAR FEED, for convincing proof that there is no better feed made.

Labor Day Week-End Was Golfers' Special

Keen Play for Championship And Ayers Memorial Trophy

Labor Day week-end was a traditional "golfers' special" for members of the local club, the club championship tourneys being staged for A, B and C class golfers.

The major club championship for the coveted Ayers Memorial Trophy was won, for the second year in succession, by Jack Reade. Johnny Watson, runner-up (playing for the first year in A Class) gave Jack some highly creditable competition. At the end of 27 holes in the 36-hole contest, Watson had whittled his opponent's lead to only one hole, and in the final 9 the battle was exciting. After 34 holes however, Reade had the title clinched with a 3-hole lead.

B Class was won by Robt. Hamilton (a previous winner, in 1950) defeating Royal Carriere in a keen game.

Philippe Valois, M.P., took the C Class title, defeating Frank Capstik, of Montreal, his opponent in the final.

Gritty Young Golfer

SPORTS CAMERA

By Don Peacock, Canadian Press Staff Writer

A gritty young Vancouver golfer provided more than the usual drama on a couple of west coast golf courses during the last two weeks.

Lanky Bill Mawhinney, 23-year-old bond salesman who won the Canadian Amateur golf championship in 1950, stepped into the sport pages during the United States amateur championship in Seattle. Ignoring a sore back that had kept him out of the America's cup matches nine days earlier, Mawhinney drove through to the semi-finals to become the first Canadian to go that far in the event since 1932 when Sandy Somerville of London, Ont., won the title.

Big Bill then was eliminated by Jack Westland of Everett, Wash., who went on to victory in the final a day later.

A lot of golfers would have figured that was enough for one week and gone home to rest up the sore back. But not Mawhinney.

Helps Win Willingdon

The day after he lost out in the Vancouver and limped around the U.S. Amateur, he returned to Capilano golf course to help British Columbia win the interprovincial golf championship from the defending champion, Ontario.

Mawhinney took a fat — for him — 79 on his morning round. Then, slouching along in pain, he blazed a two-under-par 70 on his final 18 and B.C.'s four-man team finished the 36-hole medal play tournament for the Willingdon cup with a total of 587, six better than runner-up Ontario and 12 better than third-place Quebec.

Briefly, then, the aching back caught up with Mawhinney. He collapsed on the last green and had to be carried to the clubhouse, where he lay writhing in pain until taken to hospital.

Had enough, Bill? No sir! He hadn't been in the hospital more than a few hours when the doctors said he probably would be able to enter the Canadian amateur opening two days hence.

And that's just what Mawhinney did. Given a bye in the first round, he came out of hospital to hobble through the second round, despite the fact he couldn't put the strength of his whole body in his shots and had to depend mainly on his arms.

Maybe his fellow-townsman, 45-year-old veteran golfer Dick Moore, finally did big Bill a favor in the third round of the Canadian amateur. He eliminated the pain-plagued Mawhinney with a 2 and 1 match play score.

Perhaps now Bill Mawhinney will go home and rest that aching back.

Softball Eliminations, Contest Grows Keener

In a protested game at Lachute, St. Andrews East defeated the Legion 19-7, thus eliminating the latter in the Boyd Trophy contest. In another engagement, Lowe Bros. made a surprise coup to eliminate the efficient Carillon squad 8-0.

Lions and Colford Lodge were billed as next contenders to conclude this elimination series — the winner of these two teams to enter the semi-finals with St. Andrews East and Lowe Bros. The rivalry is becoming more tense, and there will be an interesting battle for the Argenteuil Softball League title and the Boyd Trophy.

Cooking School at Brownsb'g Next Week

Canada Packers to Return With Demonstration

Miss Gislaine Montpetit, Cooking Demonstrator

At the Brownsburg High School next Thursday evening, Canada Packers Limited will present their Cooking Demonstration under the auspices of the Junior Women's Association of Brownsburg United Church. All proceeds from admission tickets sold are given to this organization for their work.

Canada Packers Limited gave their demonstration at Lachute High School this past June, and were very well received. This is their first school for this season.

Various ways of preparing delicious and economical meals will be shown from the stage, and many delicious dishes are prepared during the demonstration.

There are a number of door prizes, kindly donated by the district merchants, and the articles baked on the stage will also go to some lucky people in attendance. There will also be hampers of groceries.

This school will be conducted by Miss Gislaine Montpetit, graduate with Bachelor of Science (Nutrition) from the University of Montreal, who is employed as home economist of Canada Packers Limited. While this school will be in English, Miss Montpetit is bilingual and has presented these demonstrations in French in many towns in this province. Master-of-ceremonies and commentator is C. Gordon Hynes, of Montreal.

Tickets are now procurable from any member of the Women's Association of the church, and those planning to attend are advised to secure their tickets early.

Miss Beatrice Simpson of Westmount spent Sunday here.

The Mississippi River, big as it is, is hardly more than a creek by comparison with the Amazon in South America. In the Amazon's 4,000-mile length it carries a volume of water equal to 20 Mississippis, says Willard Price in the current Reader's Digest. All of Europe could be placed in the Amazon's drainage basin. Its mouth is ten times the span of the English channel between Dover and Calais, and contains three huge islands, one of them the size of Switzerland.

Reservation for Stadium, Baseball League Play-Offs

Baseball fans are notified that tickets for the Laurentide League elimination games will be on sale at the Sport Shop in the Rio Building. Box seat holders are entitled to these seats only on condition that they call and make their reservations before 3 p.m. on the day of the game. After 3 p.m., box seats then unreserved will be sold to the general public — at the Sport Shop until 6 p.m., and at the Stadium after that hour (if any remain available).

No purchaser may procure box tickets for more than two games at a time. No seats will be reserved by telephone, and season ticket holders must call personally at the Sport Shop and identify themselves, in order to take advantage of their privilege.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you: —

Q. A man has been receiving unemployment insurance benefit and is still receiving some. Is he entitled to draw benefit if he carries on an illegal business over the week-end and through this business derives a fairly good income?

A. A claimant must prove that on each day for which he is claiming benefit he is unemployed and available for employment. The amount of his earnings on other days does not affect his right to benefit. However, if a person is carrying on a business, even though he gets most of his customers only at the week-end, he may not be considered unemployed for any part of the week.

Q. I am a student and I work during the summer holidays. Must I pay contributions during such employment?

A. Ordinarily a student is insurable during the summer holidays. However, a person who does not ordinarily depend for his livelihood on insurable employment, which generally applies to a student, may be exempted if employed in certain kinds of seasonable industries. Written applications for exemption must be made on the form provided.

tributed, after which nothing but properly placed garbage will be collected.

Safety, Gain and Pain

Two letters were received about fines imposed for violation of the traffic light. A Montreal visitor said he went on the amber; and that his receipt was not official. A visitor from Michigan enquired if the police chief paid the fine in to the Council; he had doubts.

Councillor Charbonneau said that he travelled a lot in the States and found most police were lenient to strangers. It is not good policy to be too strict.

Councillor Rose felt the purpose was not to make the Corporation solvent by collecting fines; the idea was to stop accidents.

None So Blind, etc.

One of the Council's employees backed the town truck into the municipal garage through the closed door. Mr. Larocque presented a bill for $62.80 for fixing the door, which was paid.

Uphill Flow

Repairs to the sewerage system to alter the gradient of flow cost $222.75 for pipes. The other costs were not yet in.

The Asphalt Was Free

Maurice Lafleur tendered a bill for $600 for hauling 30 loads of asphalt for the public streets from Ste. Therese. He informed the Council he could not submit weight checks as he lost them from his truck, but he averaged the loads at 10 tons each.

Councillor Charbonneau questioned the weights. He thought 10 tons too high; he was sure some were only seven tons. (The hauling cost was $2 per ton). He asked to have payment held until copies of the weight checks be obtained from the H. J. O'Connell Company.

Empty Promises

When a bill for $1,887 was received from Mr. F. Brisson, sidewalk contractor, Councillor Charbonneau remarked that before the sidewalk was laid everyone was ready to pay cash; now that it is laid there are more excuses for time than cash payments.

Mr. Brisson reported he had some trouble getting the property line at Mason's lots.

Mr. Hector Mason said he did not know his line. It was decided to consult the registrar.

Cleaning Up

Mr. Réal Ouellette asked to have a manhole connected to the sewer line to take the excess water from his property.

Mayor Pariseau said the culvert at Mr. Legault's is a processverbal waterway and cannot be changed.

Councillor Lavoie explained he had asked Mr. Ouellette to clean his end, and the water would not lie there. The ditch was blocked with cases and cartons. No action was taken.

Letters from the County Health Unit enclosed copies of letters sent to house-owners who had not connected to the sewerage. If, after the time limit had expired, this was not done, the Unit would demand the Council do the work and charge cost against the property. Councillors expressed agreement.

There was a fire at Lorne Clark's on August 15, caused by road maintenance men burning brush. The charge for fire department services was transferred to Chatham Council.

It was arranged that in the event of a village fire, the siren would give two blasts for east-side and three blasts for west-side locations.

The meeting wound-up discussing a series of complaints about noisy motorcycles; horns blowing after 11 p.m.; dance hall music disturbing the peace at night; grills open after hours; slot machines in which someone lost $25 and borrowed another dollar (that was lost too). . . The Mayor instructed the Police Committee to do something.

Council Discussions on Salaries, Loans

Full Agenda for September Session

At the regular Town Council session for September, Mayor Jas. W. McGibbon presided, with all councillors present excepting Ald. Wm. S. MacKimmie and Ald. Judes Charlebois.

Ald. Ernest Provost was appointed pro-mayor for the ensuing three months, with mayoral authority in absence of the elected chief magistrate.

The firm of Boucher, Cartier & Leclerc, consulting engineers, will be engaged to study and verify plans and estimates prepared for the improvement to Lachute's waterworks intake. The decision was passed on motion of Ald. E. Provost seconded by Ald. Stanley Holt.

Jos. de Bellefeuille, garbage collector, requested that from September 15, garbage be placed for disposal Mondays instead of Tuesdays on streets from the C.P.R. track up to and including Sydney, also east of Bethany Street. The request was agreed to, on motion of Ald. Dr. Jules Lafleur, seconded by Ald. Alcidas Laurin.

Theodore Mallette appeared before Council to request construction of a sidewalk on the north side of Robert Street between Gilbert and Fraser Streets. The secretary-treasurer was instructed to give 15 days' notice to property-holders concerned for the construction of such sidewalk.

It was ruled that Lachute Town should revert to Standard Time at midnight Saturday, September 27.

For interim financing it was decided to seek permission from Quebec Department of Municipal Affairs to obtain a bank loan of $15,000, to be duly repaid on Lachute's early issue of debentures. This decision was on motion of Ald. E. Provost, supported by Ald. D. G. MacRae. . . The latter then gave notice that, at next regular meeting, he will present for adoption a by-law authorizing the town to borrow a sum sufficient to meet costs of projected waterworks construction.

SCHOOL FAIR, CALF CLUB SHOW HELD AT EXHIBITION GROUNDS

On Saturday last, the Lachute Exhibition Grounds were the centre of activity for over 100 junior farmers and gardeners from this locality. Exhibits of vegetables, flowers, cooking, and handicrafts were shown in the main building, while outside, the Calf Club members were showing their calves of 1952 and previous years.

In the School Fair department, the top honors were won by Eileen Elder and Hugh Pollock. These were awarded the Agricultural Society trophies by Mr. Erskine Rodger, Society director, and Mr. William Wilson, School Fair president.

Prizes which will be awarded for the best gardens are as follows:

Age 8-10 Years

First, Lois Oswald.
Second, Kenneth Brown.
Third, Ronald Bain.

Age 11-13 Years

First, Wayne Berry.
Second, Eileen Elder.
Third, Dale MacAdam.

Age 14 and Over

First, Bertha Pollock
Second, Frances Taylor.
Third, Neville Brown.

Among the interesting features at this year's Fair were the basket displays of vegetables. One of these, shown by Rose Ann Welden, contained 22 different varieties. Exhibits of dolls with hand-made clothes, by the girls, also bows and arrows by the younger boys, and weed collections by the older boys, helped add more variety than in previous Fairs. Judges for the various School Fair classes were Mrs. J. G. Lamontagne, Miss B. Vrooman, Mr. Dixon, Mr. A. Ogilvie, Mr. Evans, Mr. L. Hammond, and Mr. A. Bothwell.

Radio-Controlled Model Aircraft Lost and Found

Luck was with three young enthusiasts who recently sent their home-made model plane from St. Eugene airport on its first flight. The following narrative from Don Demeza explains just what happened:

"Al Blackwood, Bob Deans and myself have been working on the aircraft for about two years. It's a 7½-foot scale model of a Bellanca, powered by a small gas engine, and rudder controlled by means of a small radio receiver in the aircraft and a transmitter on the ground. This eventful flight was the first we have attempted, and we were mainly concerned about whether the model would fly at all. It took off perfectly, and was climbing into the blue, when we realized that we'd forgotten to turn on the radio in the aircraft, so had absolutely no control whatsoever. The engine probably ran for about 15 minutes. I chased it through fields for ¾ of a mile and then lost sight of it. The other chaps chased by car, but their efforts met a similar fate. We spent all day canvassing the area and searching the fields, with no results. . . I planned an hour's search from the air, but it wasn't necessary." (The model, it transpired, had landed on a St. Eugene farm, and was returned undamaged to its owners, for a sum of $5.)

"The parts making up the model are worth about $75, but if our labor is counted also, it would be worth over $300, and that's a conservative estimate", concludes the young hobbyist recounting this experience.

Attends East-West Conventions of Lumber Retailers

Léopold Carrière, ex-mayor and one of Lachute's leading industrialists, attended the Maritime Retail Lumber Dealers' Association annual convention, held at Keltic Lodge, Sydney, N.S., last week, and addressed one of the sessions at that gathering. As an executive member of the National Council of Retail Lumbermen of Canada, he reported on the progress of the senior organization.

He told the delegates that the lumber interests were enjoying a prosperous year, and emphasized the necessity of co-operation and unity to maintain "stabilization within the industry". Mr. Carrière pointed out that business across Canada was generally favorable, with local situations such as the recent west coast strike causing slight upsets in the market.

Léopold Carrière was also guest speaker at a luncheon Saturday noon, when he took occasion to publicize his home-town, speaking with some pride on the attractions and advantages of Lachute — its favored geographical situation; its industrial, social, recreational and cultural highlights; and its spirit of "bonne entente". In this latter connection he made favorable mention of the two weekly newspapers serving neighbors of both languages.

Scarcely home from this Maritime assembly, Mr. Carrière left by plane this week for Banff, where he is presiding at the annual convention of the National Retail Lumbermen's Council of Canada, September 11-12-13. For the past two years Mr. Carrière has been president of this important organization, numbering around 5,000 dealers in lumber and construction supplies across the whole Dominion.

Convinced Four Desperadoes Seen in Hawkesbury Tuesday Crossing Bridge Into Quebec

Police Believe Highly Improbable Fugitives Would Remain in This District

Provincial and town police were alerted here Tuesday morning from Montreal headquarters, on advice from Hawkesbury that a car with the four Toronto jail-breakers had been seen in that town heading across the Perley Inter-Provincial Bridge into Quebec Province.

Hawkesbury police, both civic and provincial, were here in Lachute to follow up the clue; it was stated by them that one of the men entered a drugstore in Hawkesbury and purchased some peroxide and dye serviceable for disguise. He was identified with some conviction as Edwin Boyd, by the woman attendant who served him. She stated that another man accompanied him, and believed there were two others waiting in the car (a dark blue Quebec-licensed auto, she affirmed), which later turned off Main Street to cross the Perley Bridge. The woman had been viewing portraits of the fugitives in the newspaper, she said, and was so certain of Boyd's identity that she watched the direction of the car on its departure, then notified the police.

Meanwhile, around 9.20 o'clock, Det. P. Therriault and Traffic Officer A. Legault of Brownsburg had received warning here at Lachute. They immediately drove by No. 8 Highway as far as the bridge, then returning by the river-front road via Cushing and St. Andrews, but they saw or heard no trace of the car.

CANADIAN LADIES' GOLF UNION FIELD DAY STAGED AT LACHUTE

Distinguished Players Here, Enjoy Season's Event, Surroundings and Club Attractions

Mrs. J. C. (Yolande) Whitelaw, of Laval, won the low gross title last Friday in the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union field day at Lachute. The ace lady golfer scored a 77, one-under-par for ladies on the Lachute course; and the provincial champion, Mrs. Graeme Pyke, of Whitlock (who is one of the two players on Canada's team going to Britain next spring) was runner-up with 82 for low gross in the silver division.

There were two local players with leading scores among this galaxy of experts — in the Silver and Bronze divisions, respectively.

Myrtle Cook, well known sports writer, has an interesting story on this annual event, in The Montreal Star — some really nice things to say about Lachute Golf & Country Club, and some revealing statements about the course, with which this was seemingly her first acquaintance. Following are highlights of the day, as placed on record by this writer:

Mrs. Pyke was consistent with her long game but had trouble with her putter. In sharp contrast, Mrs. Whitelaw's putting was deadly, and her chip shots accurate each time trouble threatened. She

Report on "Little Major League" Shows Lions Club Support "Money Well Spent"

Roger Regimbal Gives Reassuring Review; Enthusiastic Season in Junior Baseball Made Largely Possible by Club Sponsorship

At the Legion Hall on Tuesday evening, with Rolland Paquette catering, the Lachute Lions staged their first meeting of the club year. Business discussions occupied the entire session, getting the club away to a good start on its program of community service.

President Bertrand L'Heureux voiced his appreciation for the honor accorded to him, and as helmsman of the meeting, gave indication of energetic and enthusiastic leadership during his term of office.

A review of finances was given by Treasurer Willard M. Steeves, and by E. M. Jones, chairman of the finance committee. A slight increase in the club fees was agreed upon.

A report of more general interest was that given by Roger Regimbal on one of the Lions' welfare projects, the "Little Major League". The club had accepted the sponsorship of this baseball organization with high hopes but with some uncertainty, being totally inexperienced in such ventures. Now, at the close of the season, however, Lion Regimbal gave assurance that their support had proved "a sound investment in young citizenship".

A total of 84 boys had participated in the six teams, it was stated. Each team had been expertly coached and trained by a member of Lachute's senior "Tigers". The junior squads had each played 12 games in the season's schedule, the play-offs and finals bringing the league title to Anderson's "Yankees". Notable records had been chalked up by some of the young players, who had entered wholeheartedly into the spirit of the game, and great credit was due to Al Fleming as manager of the entire set-up. Georges Proulx had been entrusted with charge of the equipment, and an indication of the youngsters' sincerity might be taken from the careful manner in which this equipment had been handled — no item whatever being missing after the season's use.

Cost of equipment represented the major expense in this undertaking, and while the Lions Club share of support next year would be that much less costly, still greater achievements might be expected among the young baseballers, aspiring even to wider competition outside this area. It was a project with which the Lions Club might feel very creditably associated, Mr. Regimbal stated.

TWO TOWN WORKERS GRIEVOUSLY HURT IN DYNAMITE EXPLOSION HERE

Blast During Excavation for Sydney Street Water and Sewer Installation

Two Lachute Town employees are disfigured for life — one probably sightless and the other with his sight impaired — as the result of a dynamite blast Tuesday morning on Sydney Street, where a crew of workmen had been engaged in excavating for a sewer and water-main installation.

Exact extent of the injuries is not yet stated, the two victims, Anthime Beausejour and Henri Larocque, having been removed to the Hotel Dieu Hospital at St. Jerome, after first aid and shock treatment at the Providence Hospital here following the accident. According to Dr. Jules Lafleur, who attended the injured men together with Dr. Roger Lavigne, Beausejour will probably lose both eyes; he also has fractured ribs and collarbone. Larocque, meanwhile, may be more fortunate, probably losing only one eye as result of the blast. He also has one arm and several ribs fractured.

Blasting operations in the rock ledge had been carried out the previous day, but it seems that one of the charges had not ignited. On Tuesday morning the crew of five men were chopping and removing fragments of rock from the ditch, and it is thought one of the men hit the blasting cap or dynamite stick which had remained unexploded in the rock.

Anthime Beausejour and Henri Larocque were working immediately over the spot, and caught the full force of the blast in their faces, chests, and the upper portion of their bodies, which were riddled with rock splinters in the manner of shrapnel. Their fellow workers, who fortunately escaped injury, rushed to their assistance, and police, ambulance and medical aid was soon rallied to the scene. The accident occurred around 10 a.m.

Beausejour and Larocque, approximately 51 and 45 years of age, were familiar figures in the town working crew. They are both married and the fathers of large families.

Cancer Section Accelerating Its Activities

Since commencement of the local section of the Cancer Society, a considerable amount of welfare work has been completed. Quite a number of cases have been looked after. The patients have been visited at their homes; dressings and drugs have been provided, and the services of doctors and nurses have been utilized in many cases. This branch of the Society is constantly expanding, and its members are on the alert to render aid on every occasion.

The Education Committee is also doing a great deal of work and is prepared to arrange films, talks, etc., on the subject.

The Campaign Committee is organized and is about to undertake a drive for membership.

Just as the small child dreads his first days of school, so do we, the people, dread learning about "Cancer". . . But as we learn, our fear diminishes. Experts from all over the world are doing extensive research in their efforts to combat this disease.

Here in Lachute, we can help in the fight by becoming members of the Lachute Section of the Canadian Cancer Society.

A drive for membership will be held from October 1 to 8. Part of the proceeds will be kept here in Lachute to aid sufferers in this district; the rest goes toward education and research.

Gives Sidelights On Mexico and Rotary Conf'ce

The weekly Rotary dinner meeting was held in Brownsburg last Thursday, under the presidency of Mac E. Walker. Rotarian Keith Russell introduced the sole guest of the evening, Mr. Davidson, secretary of the Provincial Farm Forums.

The after-dinner singsong was led by the speaker of the evening, Executive Secretary Hewitson, of the Montreal Rotary Club. Rotarian King Amos made mention of the Rotary Auction on September 20. Rotarian Wes Freeland, supervisor of the Community Park, asked for volunteers to help close the park and take in equipment, and also called for assistance to erect a Rotary Wheel sign outside the hotel. The president thanked Rotarian Freeland for his time and energy devoted to the Park and in helping to make it so successful.

Rotarian Harris Sherwood ably introduced the speaker. Rotarian Herb Hewitson, executive secretary of Montreal branch of the club, was born in England and came to Canada while still a young boy. After graduating from high school and McGill, it happened that he was the radio announcer for Rotary, and it was in this capacity that he first came in contact with Rotary service. He joined, and became assistant secretary in 1949; in 1950 he was made executive secretary. This is one of the busiest jobs in Rotary. Besides his own work in the home club, he visits a large number of other clubs in the course of his duties. He also attends a large number of Rotary gatherings, and has been present at three Rotary International conventions.

3-Year-Old Child Severely Injured By Automobile

On the Staynerville road just outside the Village of St. Philippe on Sunday afternoon, little Lisette Drouin, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Drouin, darted from the driveway beside her home into the path of an approaching automobile, and her little body was badly mutilated when the driver, Jerome Larose, local hotelman, was unable to stop.

The accident happened just before 3 o'clock. Brought to the Providence Hospital by ambulance, the girl was found to have her two legs fractured at the thigh, her left arm broken in two places, and severe cuts on the face and head, which required many stitches. She was attended by Dr. Jules Lafleur. Possibilities of a fractured skull were also entertained, but this fear was allayed on her removal to St. Jerome Hospital, where the little victim is now reported to be encased in a plaster cast, almost bodily with the exception of her head and one arm. She is stated to be making satisfactory progress.

Traffic Officer Albert Legault, of Brownsburg, investigated the accident.

Nothing is politically right that is morally wrong.

Boat Builders Mark Increase In Export Trade

Sometime this week two ships will drop their moorings at Montreal to carry the products of Argenteuil craftsmanship to distant parts of the world. Long Sault Woodcraft Limited, who have manufactured small pleasure craft for use with outboard motors at St. Andrews East since 1946, are delivering a shipment of their 18-foot Outboard Express Cruisers to Matadi for transport overland to Léopoldville, capital of the Belgian Congo, where they will ply the Congo River, and another shipment, including one of the cruisers, direct to Maracaibo, Venezuela, where they will be used along the shores of the Caribbean Sea.

These are not the first export sales this firm has made; each year nearly half their output is sold in the United States, and orders are received regularly from dealers in every province in Canada, most of the States, and Alaska. However, it is the first time Long Sault boats have been shipped overseas, and it is the first time Canadian pleasure boats have been sold to either the Belgian Congo or Venezuela. While only trial orders, these actually constitute the largest sales by any Canadian boat manufacturer to foreign countries in recent years.

The 18-foot Outboard Express Cruiser, illustrated here, is the largest boat which Long Sault manufactures as a stock model. It is fully equipped for extended cruising, with two large permanent berths, a complete galley and marine toilet in the cabin, a roomy cockpit and plenty of stowage space. The hull is built of marine plywood, and the cabin top is a reinforced plastic molding which is also made by the firm. The plant is able to manufacture these boats at a rate of nearly one per day, and smaller boats at five per day.

School Fair at Arundel Under W.I. Auspices

(Our District Correspondent)

Arundel — In the setting of a perfect autumn day, Arundel held its annual School Fair on Friday afternoon. The Fair is sponsored by the Arundel Women's Institute, and the enthusiastic response they receive from the children more than compensates for the work and effort entailed.

This year there were over 500 exhibits. The hall looked bright and cheerful with its various display booths. This year also, a booth of handicrafts was featured, by members of the Institute, and attracted considerable attention.

Judging of the sewing and cooking exhibits was in the capable hands of Miss Elizabeth Campbell, of Macdonald College, while the vegetables, corn, grain and flowers were judged by Mr. Alex Bothwell and Mr. Read. While the judging was going on, competitive games, under supervision of Mr. Melvin Graham and Mr. Davidson, were played on the school grounds.

At the conclusion of the judging the hall was thrown open for public inspection, after which the president, Mrs. Percy Staniforth, welcomed the visitors and thanked all who had taken part in the Fair to make it a success. Mr. Bothwell complimented the boys and girls on their splendid display. The prizes were then distributed by Mayor R. B. Henry, as follows:

Prize for the highest points; Girls — Miss Doreen Graham (donated by Cook Bros.).

Prize for the highest points; Boys — David Beatty (donated by Graham's Store).

Prize for greatest number of exhibits — Miss Shirley Graham (donated by Mr. and Mrs. P. Staniforth).

Prize for the best exhibit on Handicraft table — Miss Doreen Graham (donated by Dr. Wm. Morrison).

Prize for the best exhibit on Cooking table — Miss Doreen Graham (donated by Dr. Wm. Morrison).

Among the visitors noticed were Mr. J. Davidson, provincial secretary of the Farm Forums, and Mrs. Taylor, provincial secretary of the Women's Institutes.

BRITISH HOUSES FOR CANADA

British builders of prefabricated houses are preparing to invade the Canadian market, reports The Financial Post. They have already erected some of these buildings in Newfoundland and plans are being developed to test them out in various other parts of the country. It is expected they will be shipped to Eastern and Central Canada on small tramp freighters.

To travel by train in Canada costs less than three cents a mile.

Outbreak of Fire in East End Residence

Fire occurred at the home of Kenneth McAllister on Quinn Street early Wednesday afternoon. Answering a call from neighbors, the brigade found the house locked and apparently unoccupied. They were obliged to break in and brave the smoke to be sure there was no one upstairs or elsewhere in the premises. The outbreak was confined to one room at the rear of the house, used by Mr. McAllister as a workshop in his radio business. The room and contents were burned, and damage through the house caused by the dense smoke. Cause of the blaze was not known.

The Family Wash

Electricity does a lot of things around the house these days, but probably the thing that appeals to the housewife most is the way it helps with the family wash.

In most electrified homes today electricity brings the water into the home to start with, it heats the water to the temperature desired by the housewife, it washes the clothes, it wrings them out or dries them by spinning. It contributes greatly to the ease of ironing them too.

Some day, probably, it will be common practice to have electricity sew buttons and darn socks. In the meantime, electricity has already taken much of the drudgery out of the housewife's most inevitable and most arduous task.

Making the family wash easier is one of the many services performed by electricity, one of mankind's most useful servants.

Q

A
Ten years earlier than men . . . usually at 55.

They also live longer. Business women, therefore, require retirement income for a much longer period of time than men. Many women find Mutual Life of Canada policies, with their absolute safety, their steady increase in values and their long record of generous dividend payments, the best possible way of providing adequate income for the future. Discuss your problem today with a Mutual Life of Canada representative.

Electric Hoist Aid to Haying

Mechanically minded farmers are finding easier ways of doing most jobs. One of the latest ways of handling baled hay, long considered an ornery job on most farms, is to use an electric hoist.

These electric chain hoists have been in use in garages and warehouses for some time, but farmers have taken the idea and by using the tracks that are in most barns can now unload bales with great speed and efficiency.

When not used for hay, the hoist can lighten many other lifting jobs around the farm.

To Assist Grain Harvest, 1,800 Left for West

The annual movement of Eastern harvesters to the Prairie Provinces commenced August 10, and it was expected by the Hon. Milton P. Gregg, Minister of Labor, that about 2,500 would be needed to help harvest this year's bumper Western grain crop. The Minister did not foresee any great difficulty in obtaining this number. Already about 1,800 men had left for the West by the end of last week, and more were leaving each day.

Under arrangements set up by the Federal and Provincial Governments under their Farm Labor Agreements, the workers are all despatched to Winnipeg, where they are given transportation to the various Prairie points as needed. Officials concerned with the movement and placement of the workers felt that with the assistance of the volunteers from the East and the use of available farm help in the West, the demand for farm help in the Prairie Provinces would be met.

Placement on farms in the West is arranged by the co-operative efforts of the provincial Agriculture representatives of Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan and National Employment Service officials. Recruiting in the East is also arranged by Agriculture representatives of Ontario and Quebec, working in conjunction with National Employment Service.

In a co-operative effort between the railroads, the Federal Government and the Provincial Governments of the Prairie Provinces, a low excursion rate of $15 for the outgoing journey and $11.50 for the return journey is provided for the volunteer harvesters.

FREAK HAIL RUINS ONE TOBACCO CROP BUT SPARES OTHERS

Central Press Canadian

The difference of width of a roadway spelled disaster for this tobacco crop. Betty de Block, daughter of tobacco farmer Peter de Block of Brantford, Ont., shows the damage done by a freak hail-storm. It ruined her crop but left the tobacco fields across the road untouched. A million pounds of tobacco was rendered valueless.

Two Irish immigrants were walking along a city street when they came to a large building with a sign which read "Crematory".

"What does that mean", Mike asked.

"I don't know", Pat answered, "but it must have something to do with cream. I'll go in and find out."

Almost immediately, Pat landed on his ear out on the sidewalk.

"What happened?", Mike wanted to know.

"I don't know", Pat said. "I went in and there was a crowd standing around a big fire. I just asked "what's cookin'" and they threw me out."

U.S. Swine and Swine Products Prohibited

Ottawa — Effective immediately all import into Canada from the United States of swine, uncooked pork, pork products and parts, is now prohibited under authority of the Animal Contagious Diseases Act, according to Dr. T. Childs, Veterinary Director General of the Federal Department of Agriculture.

This action was taken because of the prevalence in the United States of "vesicular exanthema", a highly infectious disease of swine, which if introduced into Canada could cause serious damage to the Canadian swine industry.

Vesicular exanthema closely resembles foot and mouth disease, but it is entirely confined to swine, whereas foot and mouth disease affects cattle and sheep in addition to swine.

Transparent Containers For Fresh Fruits And Vegetables

When buying fresh fruits and vegetables, customers want to see what they are getting. At the same time these products should be protected from dust and other sources of contamination. Many of the transparent packages, now commonly used, fulfill both of these requirements.

One of the features of these transparent packages or films as they are called, is that they are much more air-tight than paper, cardboard or other packaging materials. Being air-tight means that the natural moisture of the fruits or vegetables is not allowed to escape. This had a decided advantage in the preservation of the fresh natural condition of the produce.

But in some respects it is not advantageous. Enclosing fresh garden produce in an air-tight container results in the accumulation of carbon dioxide, water vapour and other substances, report W. R. Phillips and P. A. Poapst, Division of Horticulture, of the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa. In instances where leafy crops like spinach are held in such containers the accumulation of moisture encourages growth of micro-organisms. These may or may not be injurious, but they certainly do cause eventual deterioration of the product. This condition may require several days to develop, but is more rapid at higher temperatures.

For this reason, fresh non-acid type vegetables, packed in transparent films, should be marketed as quickly as possible. A number of perforations in the container help to correct excessive moisture, but are not a complete protection against development of micro-organisms under the confined conditions created by transparent materials currently being used.

The United States Department of Agriculture has issued a study showing that in the next five years U.S. farmers could produce 20 per cent more than they did in 1950 and 18 per cent more than in 1951, if need should arise for such a volume of farm output and provided the necessary direction is given to assure production.

The Economy of Using the Best

"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

The economy of using the best possible materials is made apparent in the upkeep problem. A house or business building may be "thrown together" with cheap material, and it may "look all right", but after it has stood the shock of weather, the real test comes.

It is false economy to use poor materials — and we so advise everyone who buys from us. Our success is due to honesty in materials and prices.

At Toronto Exhibition

An extract from our correspondent's impression of the Toronto "Ex" (page 6) deserves repetition in this column, being of special amusement to farm readers:

We tarried longest at the livestock exhibits and would have stayed longer still if it hadn't been for the smell. Mind you, we don't object to the good clean smell of a well-kept barn. There's nothing likelier to make us feel at home, in fact. But the Ex people seemed to object to it and filled the place with so much disinfectant it smelled like anything but a barn.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

A Plea to Drivers

WHILE stressing the responsibilities of teachers, pupils and parents with the opening of the new school session, it would be well not to overlook the obligations of the man-in-the-street — and we mean just that, the motorist and the truck driver.

Each year sees an increasing attendance at our schools, while each year brings heavier traffic and increasing hazards to youngsters on our thoroughfares. The Main Street crossing in Lachute is police-patrolled during the midday exodus from school; but on adjacent streets, and at other schools, there is no protection except the warning signs erected by Lachute Lions Club; in other towns, not even these.

Despite all efforts to instil the safety consciousness in children, their movements cannot be predicted or relied upon. It is therefore the responsibility of all drivers to exercise their maturer judgment, and to proceed with utmost caution while in the proximity of children walking, running or playing beside the road.

New Sounds and Old

SOME young couples like to start their married life with a fast ride in a cavalcade of wedding party motorcars on which the horns are held down to make an earshattering and discordant din. They drown out the soft peal of the wedding chimes with one of the harshest noises of modern times.

In the name of progress, man has let the pleasant sounds of yesteryear be replaced by the clatter of the machine age. All too often he has paid the price with jangled nerves and loss of contentment.

The crashing of six-shooters on a wild west radio program often takes the place of a mother's bedtime lullaby. Families awaken to the roar of a dairy truck instead of the gentle clip-clop of the milkman's horse. At the county fair, a big shiny public-address system magnifies the barker's shout to a disturbing thunderclap.

We have exchanged the swish of a reaper's sickle for the rattle of a combine, the lonesome moan of a locomotive in distant hills for the piercing blast of a klaxon horn on a diesel, the whinny of the chestnut mare for the chugging tractor, the Sunday night harmony singing around the parlor piano for the slick recorded music of a big-city choir.

Seldom heard any more are the thump of the old-time wooden butter churn, the creaking of a hand-turned ice cream freezer, the buggy wheel's metallic clang on the gravel. The chainsaw chatters now in woods that once resounded to the clean ring of the pioneer's axe.

New sounds are forcing their way into our lives but some of the old ones still remain to soothe us. The pines whisper yet in the thickets by the shore, the waves lap and the brooks murmur far from the city's din. In the countryside, both in the farmlands and in the sparsely-settled regions of rock and forest, the music of birdsongs can lull us to sleep at dusk and awaken us at dawn.

The loon's laugh, the gull's cry, the bark of the fox, the plaintive bleating of the lambs are still heard in those vast areas, where the clamour of modern living echoes only faintly yet, if at all.

Bad Introduction

FROM A trans-Atlantic plane at Dorval's international airport, says Napier Moore in The Financial Post, the first thing you see is a sign reading "Welcome to Canada". Many of the passengers on the plane we came back on were making their first visit to this country. Their welcome consisted of being held in a stuffy room for 45 minutes before they got into the customs shed, where some spent another hour. Two customs officers did their best, but were snowed under. No matter what kind of flight one makes, the west-bound trip from Britain to Montreal is long and fatiguing, and the long waits for officialdom to move don't help. Gander airport is in Canada, too. And some re-arrangement ought to be made so that passengers, laden with small baggage, babies and whatnot, aren't compelled to walk endless distances through cheerless corridors. . . Our Transport Department would do well to send someone to study how much better things are handled at London Airport and continental ports of entry.

For Juveniles, A Bigger Job

The inability of teen age boys and girls to see beyond the dollar sign is posing a great problem in our growing country. Especially is it becoming harder to see beyond it as it grows larger by the hour.

This country is growing by leaps and bounds and employment is at an all-time high with wages following the general pattern. A teen age boy or girl today can make thirty-five or forty dollars a week on a vacation job that six or seven years ago would have brought him perhaps seven or ten dollars. This tendency is nice for the children and surely is an indication of prosperity, but it is defeating our purpose to an alarming degree. This country needs engineers and technicians by the thousands and the need is becoming more urgent every day. Industry is screaming for highly educated young men and women and more and more boys and girls are leaving high school and even leaving before they finish high school, to take up jobs that offer them what they think is big money.

Youth is impetuous and not given to looking too far ahead nor listening to advice from their elders. The dollar in the hand looks a lot better than the two or three that might be there five or six years hence. Especially when you think that life is impossible without a car.

Civilization is becoming more complex by the hour. The simple life went out with the horse and buggy. You may not need any more brains today to enjoy the fuller life, but you certainly need to develop them along more technical lines. The easiest way to do this is by formal education. Don't fool yourself that you can pick up technical education enough after you leave school. If you are smarter than average and gifted with a lot of drive, you probably can pick up the equivalent of a college education after you leave high school, you might even be able to do it in eight or nine years. Then you can spend the next eight or nine years trying to convince someone you have it. In the meantime, the fellow with the degree will get the job.

The tendency of our educational system is gradually drawing away from the purely technical. We are beginning to see that a broader, fuller, liberal education will fit us for the job of getting more of the really worthwhile things out of this life. Keep this in mind. Try to have at least a nodding acquaintance with as many phases of education as you possibly can and be sure you learn all you possibly can about the application of religion to everyday living. You can have these things and also specialize in your chosen line. If you specialize without the other you are dooming yourself to a shallow, unsatisfying existence and robbing your chosen profession of much that you might give it.

Remember, boys and girls, this country needs educated technicians and engineers. We must have them if we are to grow into a great nation. If you do not qualify they will have to be imported. Never let it be said that we imported our brains while our own citizens became hewers of wood and drawers of water.

Education is only part of the answer. Don't start out from school with the idea that the world owes you a living just as soon as you get a college degree. You are going to need a lot of drive and a very active and enquiring mind to develop Canada into a leader among nations. Industry is not yet ready to hand you out a living just for sitting behind a desk and telling someone else what to do.

Canada has lots of room for well educated young men and women with good, practical ideas.

Forget that thirty-five dollars a week you have been earning this summer. You have a big job to do and you are going to need all the education you can get. Get back to school and work — you will never regret it.

Whenever you hear it said that there is a beautiful tie between father and son, the son is probably wearing it.

The purest treasure mortal times afford,
Is spotless reputation.

Government By the People . . Seven Years to Train A Lawyer . . Six Years for A Plumber . . But Members of Parliament Are Chosen by Chance.

The more I think of it the more astounding it becomes. We live in a democracy, government by the people for the people, and yet the men who rule over us are largely a product of hazard and chance. It takes about seven years to train a lawyer, six years or more for a doctor, five or six for a plumber or a chartered accountant, but the members of parliament are chosen by chance or accident from the widest possible range of occupations. They lack experience. They know little of the tasks which confront them. The marvel is that we succeed in getting away with it, and we do — at least after a fashion!

What happens when the newly elected members arrive at the House of Commons? They hope to shine in the field of politics. There are times when genius finds a way, but to this group we give little and expect much. What do we do for the members when they are elected? Nothing! They are simply thrown into the House of Commons, left to the mercy of the Goddess of Luck. The party owes everything to the active members — they should have more help.

Consider the new member. The chances are that he was not born to the job, few are. The task is new to him. He has much to learn. He must now confront men of wide experience. He is not, as a general rule, a student of political affairs. Everything is new to him. He is faced with many problems, he moves in a maze. What is being done to start him on the right road?

The work of parliament does not consist solely of speeches, delivered in the House. These are often the dried bones of past political efforts. The work of the committees is often more important than the work in the Chamber. It takes real effort to bring out the facts, to examine an issue as it ought to be examined. The new member will want to be on the committee which deals with the subjects in which he is particularly interested. The methods followed in committee are often quite free and informal. They constitute a first class training ground for the new members. The qualities needed are the possession of a broad intelligence, a questioning mind. Naturally enough, for the committees, members are chosen from different sides, there will be a wide divergence of opinion. Some members will have a certain amount of mis-information. The informed members, the ones who know the field, are invaluable. There is abundant material on which the new member can feed. There will be those who have the capacity to use it. The committee moves forward gradually by the synthesis of divergent opinions. Above all the new member must retain an open mind. The capacity to analyse, the ability to form reasonable conclusions based on facts, is of vital importance for any M.P. When this is natural the member speaks with assurance and conviction.

The House of Commons is critical but tolerant. It has a measure of sympathy for the new member. When the subject turns to something with which he is familiar, he should enter the discussion, state his own point of view and sit down. The curse of the House of Commons and of Parliamentary Committees is the tendency of some members to keep on speaking when they have nothing to say.

Something might very well be done in the first session after an election to aid the new members in their search for facts. There is the Bureau of Statistics, the basic source of facts. The library of the House of Commons is also an amazing source of information. There are experts in government departments who are always willing to help new members of the House, drawing, of course, their wisdom from past experiences. Members should attend the party caucus and make some effort to speak upon questions which interest them. It is even helpful to the new member to ask questions, if for no other reason than to get acquainted with the sound of his own voice when heard at a public meeting.

Every effort of this kind when strictly party questions are under discussion will, of course, be confined to the separate parties, but there should be in the early weeks of a new parliament, an opportunity to discuss in camera, the policies of the various parties including that of the government party. It is only in this way that the policies of the different parties can be examined, explained, bravely defended or seriously attacked. It is essential also that each individual member should study and know intimately the policies of the opposing parties as well as the policies of his own. The more he knows on this subject the stronger will be his position in either attack or defence.

The young member ought to be able to answer off-hand every criticism against the party to which he belongs. If he knows the weaknesses of the opposing party he will be better able to attack and remember — the attack is almost always the best defence.

We have reached a stage in our political life when among the voters there is a growing indifference to political issues. They should be more freely discussed, more carefully examined. I do not fear particularly the triumph of one party or the other, but I do fear the indifference of the electorate — the attitude which smugly says: "A curse on both your Houses, I am not interested in politics".

$1,300 Buys A Lot Of Higher Education

Putting your youngster through high school and college is a costly business. And, if you're like most people, you will have to prepare for that expense well in advance.

An easy way to do it, should you not need the Family Allowance Cheques for their primary purpose of paying for the youngster's day-to-day expenses, is to earmark all of them for his later education. The cheques for one child, saved in a B of M account until the age of 16 is reached, total more than $1,300, including interest. It's a handy start toward a higher education. And it means you have ready money in the bank available for any unexpected opportunity or emergency.

Start while your youngster is still tiny, and you'll have a sum which will really count when the first college bills arrive. Why not drop into the B of M next time you are passing, and open your child's "Fund for the Future". Donald Hay, manager of the Lachute branch, says any member of his staff will gladly welcome the opportunity of assisting you in putting this good idea into practice.

The Argenteuil Museum

We of present generations certainly have to hand it to the early pioneers of Argenteuil County.

Those old-timers must have been made of stout timber to have endured the conditions existing in those early days, when they went back into the hills to carve out a homestead in the trackless wilderness.

My first visit to the Argenteuil Museum at Carillon, on July 1 of this year, was an eye-opener.

One would not find a more interesting museum even in any of Canada's big cities. One could spend two whole days inspecting the relics of bygone days and having each item explained at length by the very competent and genial caretaker, Mr. Lund.

The ancient and primitive implements for farming, harvesting and household duties were of particular interest, as also were the books, clocks, costumes, furniture and firearms.

Those of you who have not yet visited this museum should lose no time in doing so. You will undoubtedly return for a second visit. You will be transported back to the days when hand-made tallow candles were the rule, and a coal-oil lamp was a luxury.

Yet people lived, loved, worked, played and dined in those far-off days, even as they do today, but under vastly different conditions. But only the fittest survived. We today are a bunch of softies, but we live longer. Perhaps we abstain from dying because we want to stick around to find out what the heck is going to happen next!

Anyway, Argenteuil has a right to be proud of its museum, its early pioneers, and its present-day population of industrious and happy families.

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt.

BIRTH

STEPHENS — At the Providence Hospital, Lachute, Que., on Sept. 7, 1952, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Owen Stephens (née Cora Guilbert), a son, Christopher Michael. Both well.

APPROACHING MARRIAGE

WHITE-MacLEOD — Mrs. Nellie MacLeod, of Kilmar, Que., announces the approaching marriage of her daughter, Glenna Iris, to Arthur Ray White, son of Col. and Mrs. H. H. White, of "White Acres", on Saturday, Sept. 20, in Holy Trinity Church, Calumet, Que.

IN MEMORIAM

BEATON — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Ellen Beaton, who passed away Sept. 12, 1947. — Always remembered by her husband and family.

"Peacefully sleeping lies one of the best,
In God's own garden now at rest."

BEATON — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Ellen Beaton, who passed away on Sept. 12, 1947. — Always remembered by Christie, Ross and family.

"In her grave, quietly sleeping,
Where the green grass gently waves,
Lies the one we loved so dearly,
The one we loved but could not save.
To those who have a mother,
Cherish her with care,
For you do not know her value
Until you see her vacant chair."

CHAMPAGNE — In loving memory of my dear husband, Felix Champagne, who passed away September 11, 1949. — Always loved and remembered by his wife, Dolly.

"In tears and with a broken heart
I watched you fade away,
God knows how much I miss you
As it dawns three years today.
Sweet is your memory, dear to my heart,
The place that you held will never depart,
And all through my years, be they many or few,
Will be years of remembrance, dear Felix, of you."

CHAMPAGNE — In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Felix Champagne, who was called home to his beautiful mansion on Sept. 11, 1949. Loved and sadly missed by all the family.

"We mourn for him in silence,
No eyes can see us weep,
But we shed many a silent tear
While others are asleep;
But we know dear Dad is happy
In his beautiful home above.
If all the world were ours to give,
We'd give it, yes, and more,
To see the face of our dear dad,
Come smiling through the door."

JONES — In loving memory of a dear father, Matthew Jones, who passed away on September 13, 1951. — Ever remembered by the family.

"Deep in our hearts your memory is kept,
We loved you too dearly to ever forget."

WAITE — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Chesser Waite, who passed away, Sept. 12, 1948. — Ever remembered by his loving wife and family.

"Memories are the lamp
That lights the darkest road,
To the beautiful hope and reunion
When we meet at the end of the road."

YOUNG — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Margaret Young, who passed away very suddenly on Sept. 7, 1948. — Ever remembered by her husband Asa, daughter Ruby, son-in-law Wyman, and grandsons Willis and Carl Young.

"Her memory to us is ever dear;
And at this, the close of another year,
The yearning for her is keener still,

Man Injured as Circular Saw Hurtles in Air

While cutting wood with a portable saw outfit last evening, Ernest Massie, 31, was badly mutilated when the shaft, pulley and flywheel hurtled from the frame of the saw, and the circular blade cut into the man's shoulder, arm and back. He was also struck on the forehead.

Massie was working with the saw at Morrissette's on Hamford Street, near the Exhibition Grounds and across the Ayersville town line. The accident happened around 6 p.m. Dr. Roger Lavigne gave first aid at the scene and had the victim rushed by ambulance to the Hotel Dieu at St. Jerome — the doctor also proceeding to the hospital. The patient suffered no bone fractures, but his injuries are extensive and critical, the flying saw having severed a number of the large muscles.

Incorporation Granted for Mille Isles Cemetery

In the Quebec Official Gazette appears a notice under provisions of the Quebec Cemetery Companies' Act, that incorporation has been granted "without share capital" to Colonel Garnet Strong, gentleman, of Mille-Isles, George Calder, registrar, William M. Cottingham, M.L.A., farmer, both of Lachute, "to establish, maintain and manage a cemetery, under the name of 'Mille-Isles Protestant Cemetery'.

"The amount to which the value of the immovable property which the Company may possess is to be limited is $25,000, and the office of the company will be at Mille-Isles, judicial district of Terrebonne."

THE TV CAMERA works something like the human eye. Light from the studio scene is focused on a sensitized surface in the tube. When the light strikes this photo-electric surface, it sends millions of electrons flowing to the target plate. The electrical components of the picture image are scanned or picked off one by one by the electron gun. Thirty complete electronic images or pictures are released from the tube each second — a pace much too rapid for the human eye to separate on the television screen when the image is received. In the above photo the camera scans a scene in the new CBC studios where TV commentators Laddie Dennis and Joel Aldred are shown making a commercial announcement during a Westinghouse television show.

4-H Club Members In Competition at Recent Ottawa Fair

Ottawa — Some 500 4-H Club members from 12 Eastern Ontario counties crowded into the Coliseum at the Ex to take part in the three-day junior program sponsored by the Central Canada Exhibition Association.

With 46 entries in the senior section and 89 in the junior, the Open Judging Competition was closely contested. The Fraser Hurdman Challenge Trophy, awarded for the first time this year to the highest of the junior section, went to Delbert O'Brien, Westmeath, Renfrew County. The Sheriff Sam Crooks Challenge Trophy for the high senior was awarded to Keith Cassidy, Carleton Place, Lanark.

Replacing Flat Tire, Man Fatally Struck By Hit-Run Driver

Provincial Police are searching for the driver of an automobile which struck Gilles Corbeil, 27, of St. Jerome, on Tuesday. Corbeil was taken to hospital in St. Jerome, where he died later.

Police said that the man was struck while fixing a flat tire on a car parked on Labelle Boulevard, Ste. Therese. Witnesses said the auto was speeding down the boulevard when it swung around a bus and sideswiped the parked auto. A passenger in the bus said that the driver was a young man, alone in the vehicle.

Ste. Therese police said that all cars answering the description of the hit and run vehicle were being stopped and checked for damage. Garages were notified to report any suspicious marks.

Corbeil, police said, suffered a skull fracture, broken legs and internal injuries.

Vegetables For Autumn Meals

The word "vegetable" comes from a latin word "vegetabilis" meaning to "enliven". It's a fitting name for there are a host of colorful fall vegetables that can be used to enliven autumn meals. Try some of the less usual vegetables like egg plant and Swiss chard. These vegetables are generally available at this time of the year, but there are some of the more uncommon ones that may be a little difficult to obtain like kohlrabi, salsify, and artichokes.

Those new to kohlrabi are always curious about it. It's like an above-the-ground turnip with leaves sprouting out like the quills of a porcupine and it is prepared and served in much the same manner as turnip. Wash, peel, cut in half inch cubes and cook in boiling salted water for 20-25 minutes. Drain and season with salt, pepper and a little grated cheese.

Salsify is sometimes known as the "oyster plant" because the flavor of the cooked root somewhat resembles that of an oyster. It is a long tapered root not unlike a carrot in shape, but more like a parsnip in color. When peeling or scraping salsify, they turn brown very quickly. But they can be kept white if a little vinegar or flour is added to the cold water — one teaspoon vinegar or one tablespoon flour in three cups water should be sufficient. To prepare salsify, peel and cut in half inch slices, then cook in boiling salted water until tender, about 15 minutes. It may then be added to cream sauce and served hot or Mock Oyster Soup can be made. In the latter, milk and finely rolled crackers are added to the cooked salsify. The mixture is then brought to the boil, butter and seasonings are added and it is served piping hot.

The Home Economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, say that artichokes are another of our more unusual dishes. The type grown here are called Jerusalem artichokes and they are round, white and knobby, really very much like a potato, but sweetish in flavor and more watery. Artichokes should always be cooked without being peeled. To prepare them, cook in a small amount of water, then serve with a cream sauce and cheese. Another way to prepare them is to parboil them about 10 minutes, then slice into half-inch slices and panfry. An artichoke salad, made like potato salad, is also delicious.

Another star in the galaxy of fall vegetables is egg plant. Satiny, sleek and sophisticated with its smooth purple-black curves, you almost expect to see it wearing a top hat and tails. This regal vegetable also makes distinctive eating. The classic, quick method to prepare egg plant is to fry it. Here's how it is done. Peel and cut the egg plant into half inch slices then dip into egg and crumbs and sauté in a small amount of fat until tender and brown, about 8 minutes. Broiled egg plant is equally good especially if cheese is sprinkled on top of each slice just before it is done.

An egg plant casserole is a supper dish that is uncommonly good. To make it, dice and precook egg plant for about 5 minutes, then place in a casserole and add a can of heated cream of mushroom soup to which a little onion has been added. Sprinkle with grated cheese and arrange tomato slices on top of the cheese for extra flavor, then top with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven of 350°F. until tender, about 30 minutes. Here's another delicious egg plant supper dish. Cut the egg plant in half lengthwise, scoop out a portion of the centre and fill the shell with a tasty stuffing, such as creamed meat or vegetables. Bake in a moderately hot oven of 375°F. until the egg plant is tender, about 30 minutes.

Swiss chard is really two vegetaables in one. One way to prepare it is to cook the leaves and stalks separately. The leaves may be prepared and cooked like spinach with perhaps a little nutmeg added for flavor, while the stalks are cut into one half inch pieces and cooked like celery or asparagus. It isn't often one can have spinach and asparagus from the same plant! Some like to cook the stalks until almost tender, then add the leaves or if the stalks are particularly tender, they may be cooked right with the leaves. Cream of chard soup made in the same way as cream of spinach soup is a delicious lunch or supper dish served with a substantial cheese sandwich.

MOTHERLY HEN

Winnipeg (CP) — A nest of partridge eggs that was located here was turned over to a hen. All were reported well hatched after the hen conscientiously carried out the sitting duties.

Fashions

Fashion goes to the sleeves in many of the newest clothes. For instance, this dress of worsted jersey has sleeves of hand-knit cashmere that continue round the back like a little bolero. The dress is brown, the sleeves a creamy beige. The bodice buttons to the waist, and the skirt which is gathered in front only, has an inverted pleat, while the back is gored.

Tweedsmuir Competitions For Women's Institutes

The Tweedsmuir Competitions are again engaging the attention of branches of the Quebec Women's Institutes. These are held every biennial term of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada and consist of three sections; essay, village history, and handicraft. This term the topic for the essay was "The Rural Home", so chosen as the Associated Country Women of the World was using that subject for an international contest and the winning entries from the national Tweedsmuir contest could thus be used for the larger competition.

For this reason that section closed early and results have now been announced by the F.W.I.C. There were 14 entries with none from Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island, and only one each from Quebec and Alberta. The winner was Mrs. Leigh D. Long, Kempt, Queens County, N.S. Honorable mention Mrs. Bruce Edie, Dugald, Manitoba.

Entries in the other sections, village history and appliquéd quilt, must be in the Q.W.I. office by February 1, 1953, and the provincial convener of Education, Miss Verna I. Hatch, of Sherbrooke, who has charge of this project in Quebec, is urging the branches to take a more active part in this competition.

We recently heard a woman remark that she felt better and looked younger now that she was taking care of her feet instead of her face.

Queen Mother Tours Gardens of London

London (CP) — Started after the Second World War, the Queen Mother's tour of the small gardens in London's suburbs has become a tradition.

The Londoner is a keen gardener, even if he has only a window-box for his flowers, and many of the small pre-fabricated houses which have replaced buildings flattened by bombs during the war now have beautiful gardens.

The Queen Mother's visits are organized by the London Gardens Society. She likes her visits to be informal and she invariably takes tea with one of the families. Often a housewife will show her around the house after the garden inspection.

Recently the Queen Mother made a tour of gardens in southwest London. The visit began with a call at Peterborough school, Fulham, where the children's garden was ablaze with flowers.

The Queen Mother had tea with Mrs. Lena Atkinson and her family at their community-built, prefab house in another suburb and enjoyed home-made buns. At another house she was given a miniature pink rose which she placed behind her maple-leaf brooch, a memento of the 1939 tour of Canada.

But what touched the royal visitor most was a tiny garden, awarded first prize in the London County Council's competition for five successive years. The plot — seven feet by eight — was planted by Edward Carpenter of Upper Tooting after the First World War had made him a permanent invalid. Sitting on a wooden stool he was able to work at his garden for short period, until he died last year.

"What courage there is if you look around for it", commented the Queen Mother after hearing Mrs. Carpenter tell the story of her husband.

If he doesn't marry, he's a Bachelor, a glamorous word. If she doesn't marry, she's an Old Maid.

Let's Eat

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"Why is it, madame, that in Canada and the U.S. it is customary to serve only two courses at dinner in most homes?"

"Probably because most homemakers consider a third course too expensive."

"Pouf," exploded the chef. "These ladies have not considered the problem. What is the most expensive part of the dinner? The meat, n'est-ce pas? If the family sits down to a first course of meat and vegetables, she must supply plenty of meat, oui? But if a nice first course is served, then the edge of the appetite is met before the main course, and so less expensive food will be needed.

"In France a first course is always served, madame; in la cuisine bourgeoise, which means plain, family-style cooking in France, this first course is usually composed of leftovers in tasty combinations—a very good way to use them and to add an appetizing touch to the meal, while saving money."

TOMORROW'S DINNER

Tossed Peanut Lettuce Bowl
Braised Lamb Shanks with Potatoes, Onions and Carrots
Pumpkin Cheese Pie
Hot or Iced Coffee or Tea Milk

All Measurements Are Level
Recipes Serve Four

Braised Lamb Shanks with Vegetables

Remove excess fat from 4 medium-sized lamb shanks. Mix together 1 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. monosodium glutamate, ¼ tsp. pepper, 1 tsp. paprika, 1 section crushed peeled garlic, and 2 tbsp. enriched flour. Rub into the lamb shanks. Slow-fry all over in 2 tbsp. shortening.

Add 2 c. boiling water. Cover and simmer 1 hr. Then add 4 good-sized carrots, which have been peeled, halved and quartered, 8 peeled small potatoes and 8 halved peeled medium-sized onions. Cover and simmer 35 min. longer. If too dry, add 1 c. extra boiling water.

When done, remove the vegetables and the lamb. Skim excess fat from the liquid. Add ½ tbsp. lemon juice and thicken with 1½ tbsp. enriched flour blended with 2 tbsp. cold water. Arrange the lamb and vegetables on a heated platter. Pour over the gravy. Garnish with minced parsley.

Pumpkin Cheese Pie

Roll pie pastry to a scant ¼" in thickness, and line a 9" pie plate. Press into the bottom crust 1 tsp. fine dry bread crumbs to absorb excess liquid.

Next, combine 1 (1-lb.) can sifted pumpkin, 1 c. cottage cheese, ¾ c. brown sugar, ½ c. granulated sugar, ½ tsp. salt, 1 tsp. ginger, ½ tsp. cinnamon and ¼ tsp. nutmeg. Beat 1 good-sized egg light; add ½ c. milk and stir into the pumpkin mixture. Transfer to the pie plate.

Start to bake for 10 min. in a hot oven, 425 deg. F.; then reduce the heat to 350 deg. F. and bake about 35 min. longer, or until the pie is firm in the centre when a clean toothpick is inserted. Serve cold the day it is made.

TRICK OF THE CHEF

Add 1 tbsp. minced fresh dill to lamb gravy.

MINE TUNNEL HELPED ARTHRITIS SUFFERER

Calgary (CP) — After years of intense pain an arthritis patient will try anything that offers a chance of relief — even a trip down an old mine shaft.

Mrs. Andrew Ross of Calgary, crippled with arthritis for 14 years, maintains that a 450-foot wheelchair trip down an old mine tunnel in Montana has helped her. She illustrated to friends how she could lift herself out of bed, move her fingers, comb her hair and powder her nose.

Mrs. Ross has tried the "gold treatment", the hot baths at Banff, electric treatment and others, but the little relief was short-lived.

A few weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Ross set off for Helena, Mont., where an old gold mine that had been closed for 45 years was recently reopened. People suffering from rheumatism, arthritis and other painful ailments were rumored to have benefitted from visits to two similar mines near Butte.

Mrs. Ross took several trips down into the mine shaft to gain relief. She also brought home a boxful of rocks from the mine which she keeps under her bed.

GOOD OLD DAYS

One of the lost characteristics of the younger married women of today is interest in their reputation as a cook. Time was, so our grandmothers tell us, that the biggest compliment that could be paid a housewife was to tell her that her blueberry pie was the finest ever tasted.

Alarm Clock With Mattress

"This mattress invention sleeps you so soundly you actually need an alarm clock to wake you up!" is the caption to an advertisement. So, the manufacturer offers each purchaser an alarm clock to prevent over-sleeping. The offer reads: "We'll give you this alarm clock to wake you from Springwell-slumber. With any Eclipse Springwell mattress purchased before November 15, your dealer will give you an Eclipse Wake-Up Certificate. Mail this certificate to us and we'll send you — without extra cost — this beautiful Telechron electric alarm clock". Within two days the advertiser had over 500 phone calls asking where the mattress could be bought.

Coffee Pot Works While You Sleep

Toronto (CP) — A device which makes coffee for you while you're still in bed in the mornings was on display at the Canadian National Exhibition. It works fine — if you have a stove with a timing mechanism.

The device is a new coffeemaker which you simply attach to the stove and leave overnight. At the appointed hour it starts making coffee, strong or weak according to what button you pressed.

Then there's a combination steam and dry iron, attached to a counterweight, that automatically takes the weight of the iron, saving strain on arm and shoulder muscles. The price — about the same as standard irons.

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

The Small Artist

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"Can I paint pictures, Mummy?" how eagerly a child asks this question. Painting is such fun! The different colors are fascinating — and there is all the thrill of adventure as a small artist dips his brush into a bottle of paint and then draws it across his page.

Most small children first of all go through a manipulative stage when they play with their art material. Then they usually go on to making their own symbols for familiar objects such as a man, a house, a car or an animal.

Before long they want to portray some experience in their own lives, such as skipping, swinging, skating, etc. Their pictures reflect their own thinking about their small world. The blue sky is high overhead and so it is represented by blue paint at the top of the page — which usually is not brought down to meet the horizon. That unpainted part of the page to the child shows the space which he feels is between the ground he stands on and the sky above him. Sometimes a child will paint a picture of a new story which he has heard, or an old bedtime favorite.

Long before he has mastered an extensive word vocabulary, through painting, a child can express his thoughts and emotions. The observant parent can see something of the child's reactions to his environment in his pictures.

Mother's job is to purchase art material, place it in a cupboard where the child can get it for himself and also provide a place for him to work without feeling he is in the way. Children's paint boxes are not very satisfactory. It is much better to buy tempera or poster paint in powder form or in small bottles, with a brush for each bottle.

Children usually prefer large sheets of paper because they do not feel cramped when drawing on them. Wrapping paper or plain sheets of wallpaper are both inexpensive and satisfactory.

Some spills are inevitable and so the kitchen is a good location for art work. A low table or even the floor is frequently used by the small artist. But if father is handy with his tools, without much difficulty he can construct a small easel which will delight his son or daughter. A rag for wiping excess paint off the brushes is also needed.

Most children receive far too many directions from their parents — especially from mother. In painting this is a particularly bad mistake. It stifles the inner urge to paint. 'Any person, little or big, who is concentrating on painting (or any other task) should have the chance to work in "peace and quiet". Don't break the train of thought by talking!

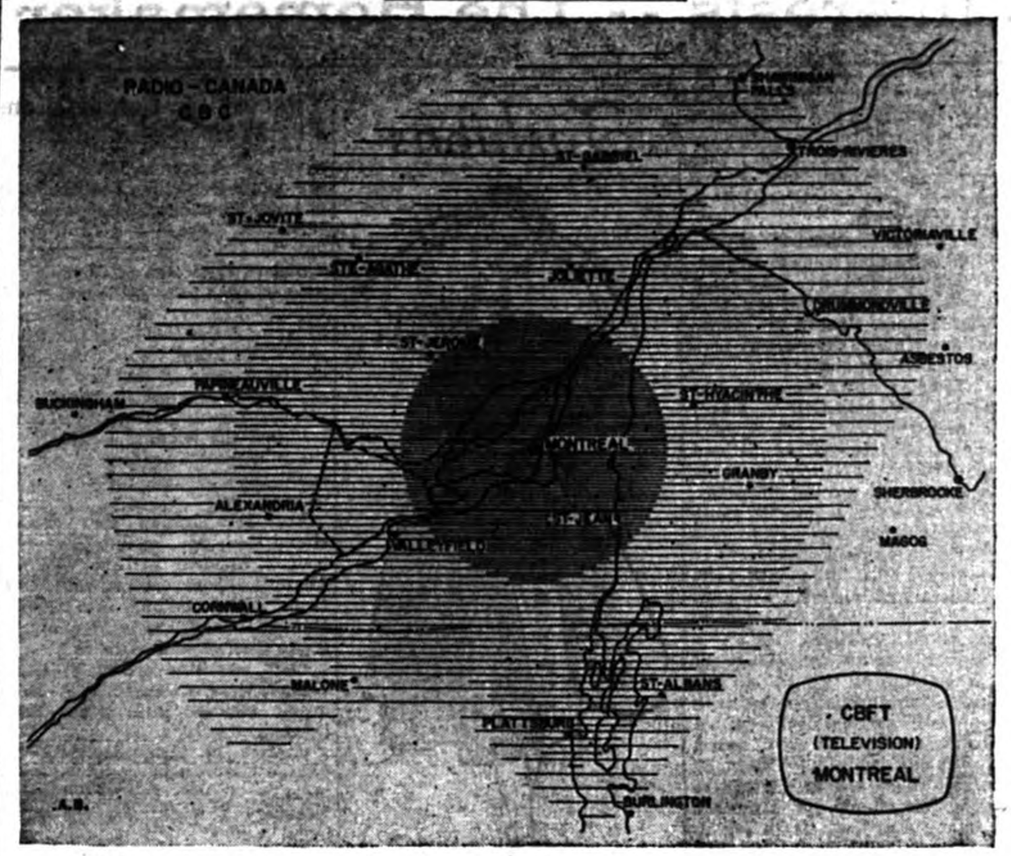

Leave your child alone to paint what he wants, use the colors he likes and set his own pace. When his picture is done and he wants mother to see it — do take time then and there to admire the artistic production! Hang it up in the kitchen or living room or in the child's room. This will give your child the special pleasure of seeing his own picture on a wall.

Parents often feel very much at sea in taking an intelligent interest in their child's art training. When they were young the emphasis was on attaining skill and producing a certain type of picture. Today, educators realize that only a small proportion of students will become professional artists. Nevertheless art can be a happy activity for every child. It can play an important part in his psychological growth.

One of the best inexpensive books for the mother of a small child is "Art Education in the Kindergarten" published by the Ryerson Press. It can be highly recommended and so can the 16 m.m. color film "The Beginnings of Picture Making", by the Crawley Films, Ottawa. Both of these are based on the findings of a study of over nine thousand children in over four hundred kindergartens in Ontario. This research took two years and was under a brilliant teacher, Dr. C. D. Gaitskell, director of Art Education in the Public Schools of Ontario.

Our children are growing up in a world where leisure hours are constantly increasing. This makes the encouragement of creative hobbies such as art one of the most vital tasks of both the home and the school. So do give the potential small artist in your home the material and the encouragement necessary for him to express his thoughts and experiences in his paintings!

Quality of Reception in Montreal TV.

THIS MAP gives an approximate representation of the coverage of CBC's new Television station in Montreal — CBFT on channel 2. In actual fact, there is no clear line between each of these shaded areas. The map has been prepared by CBC's engineers to give people an approximate idea of the areas of excellent, good and fair reception. (It will be noted that Lachute, unmarked, comes just beyond the borderline of "excellent".) The lighter the shading of an area, or, in other words, the farther you are from the transmitter, the greater the need for a suitable antenna to provide satisfactory reception. CBC has already received reports of reception beyond the shaded areas on the map.

SO THEY SAY...

MR. LANDLORD — If your tenants continually complain, we advise you to remedy some of those ailments which strain both patience and human relationships. . .

B.N.A. Act Published In Abridged Edition

A long felt need for a short edition of the British North America Act for use by Universities, Colleges and students will now be filled. The Honorable F. Gordon Bradley, Secretary of State and Minister in charge of the Department of Public Printing and Stationery, has announced that authority has been granted to the Queen's Printer to publish such an edition to be sold at the nominal price of ten cents.

The past years have seen an increasing demand on the Queen's Printer, Mr. Edmond Cloutier, from University and College professors and students, for a low-priced abridged edition of the 1948 edition of the "British North America Act and Amendments".

The new edition differs from that of 1948, which is for sale at $1.50 for a paper bound copy, in that the British North America Acts of 1949-51 have been added, while considerable other material has been omitted.

Included in the new edition are: (Part I) an introductory Historical Review up to 1867 of Parliamentary Government and the Constitution: (Part II) The British North America Acts, 1867 through to 1951, with notes: (Part III) The Statutes of Westminster with extensive notes. Part II also includes the Rupert's Land Act, 1868: The Parliament of Canada Act, 1875, (Validating Oaths Act); The Canada (Ontario Boundary) Act, 1889; The Statute Law Revisions Act, 1893 and 1927; The Canadian Speaker (Appointment of Deputy) Act, 1895.

Copies of this booklet may be had for bona fide students by sending orders to the Queen's Printer, Ottawa. Money must accompany orders and no reduction is allowable for quantity orders.

The Toronto "Ex" — A Personal Impression

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

Weird and wonderful are the words for the Canadian National Exhibition.

Where else in the world can you see pure-bred cattle strutting in their blue ribbons and a few minutes away watch 100 matched dancing girls kicking their legs in unison?

Fortunately the dancing girls are only on for a few minutes before the grandstand each night and there's time for the thousands of other attractions in the big two-week show at Toronto.

The casual visitor is likely to be most impressed with the amount of eating that goes on at the big fair, essentially a larger version of the hundreds of fairs across Canada each Fall.

People seem to be forever munching on hot dogs, hamburgers, corn-on-the-cob or floss candy and when they aren't moving around with these they're sitting in one of the refreshment booths eating full meals at a cost that would feed a whole family a few years ago.

It was no surprise, therefore, to see dozens of them lined up in the food exhibits building for a sample of soup you could put in your eye. They seem to go on the principle that every little bit helps.

We tarried longest at the livestock exhibits and would have stayed longer still if it hadn't been for the smell. Mind you, we don't object to the good clean smell of a well-kept barn. There's nothing likelier to make us feel at home, in fact. But the Ex people seemed to object to it and filled the place with so much disinfectant it smelled like anything but a barn.

The midway was too noisy and the flower show too formal. We thought one exhibitor there should have passed the award on to his stonemason, who must have spent weeks building the garden walls. The flowers and grass seemed an afterthought.

But the Ex is wonderful — a place of pushing crowds, tired feet and freaks as well as beauty and interest.

For many the trip would have been worthwhile only to view the R.C.M.P. musical ride in front of the grandstand. The sight of 24 men and 24 horses moving faultlessly through colorful manoeuvres to the music of the big band left a lasting impression. So too, did Canada's jet fighters roaring over the grounds at tremendous speeds and carrying out intricate aerobatics.

In Washington, I hired a taxi to take me on a tour of the city. At the Lincoln Memorial I spent a long time inside, reading Lincoln's words again and studying that wonderful, compassionate face.

When I got back to the taxi the driver eyed me keenly. "Yeah", he said, "they all look like that. And then what do they do? They go back home and they don't even vote."

FOR SAFER CARS

Engineers have gone to the race track for hints on building safer cars. And they seem to have made some worthwhile discoveries too, remarks The Financial Post.

They point out that more than 60% of fatal automobile accidents occur at impact speeds of less than 40 miles per hour. Stunt drivers and racers repeatedly crash their cars at such speeds and very seldom are they seriously hurt because they employ basic safety principles and equipment.

Builders of regular passenger vehicles, these engineers believe, could learn much from the sort of cars the stunt men use.

It is too much to expect that all people can be made into safe drivers, but safer cars will certainly help reduce our traffic toll.

93-Year-Old Takes Part in Orange Service

(Our District Correspondent)

Grenville — Members of the L.O.B.A. and L.O.L. in Grenville and district, with visitors and Juveniles from other parts of Argenteuil County and Buckingham, Que., Cassburn and Dunvegan, Ont., gathered Sunday afternoon for their annual divine service at the United Church in Grenville.

The service was conducted by the Rev. G. A. Case, of Cushing, assisted by the Rev. P. R. Stote, of St. Matthew's Anglican Church. Mr. Henry Trineer, at the age of 93, was able to take part in the service. He is one of the oldest members in the county and an honorary member, having joined the Orange Order 75 years ago on July 12.

The parade was marshalled by Rt. Wor. W. M. Cooper, Grand Auditor of Quebec. Other Grand Lodge officers who attended were Duncan MacLeod, of Dunvegan, Past Grand Master of the Orange Young Britons of Ontario East; Stanley Holt, County Master of Argenteuil; Nelson Morrison, Past Grand Master of Quebec; Lorne Tomalty, Junior Deputy Grand Master of Quebec; Mrs. Laura MacVicar, Grand Director of the Juveniles of Quebec; Miss Stella MacVicar, Grand Auditor of Quebec.

After the service the members of the Association, preceded by seven pipers of the R.C.A.F. Highland Band of Montreal, paraded to the Grenville Consolidated School, where refreshments were served by the ladies of the Order.

Local Woman And 40 Men on Chibougamau Site

Mrs. Hans Jacobsen, former resident and active churchwoman in Lachute, writes to a member of the publishing staff, describing her recent 28-hour motor trip, 620 miles from Pine Hill to Chibougamau, stopping only a few hours for sleep.

The contingent from Pine Hill formed something of a mobile expedition — two cars, a truck, seven men and Mrs. Jacobsen. At the end of their trip they had three miles of water to cross to their destination, which is a building project by the Tower Company Ltd. (Lachute) in connection with Quebec's northern mining development.

"I am the only woman on the point with 40 men, of all nations — English and French Canadian, Italian, Finlander, German and Indian", writes Mrs. Jacobsen. "Fifteen work here and cross over by their canoes at night, but most of them have outboard motors. The site at present consists of tents and a few shacks, but most of the inhabitants seem happy. Most of the men, at this time, have left by plane to go hunting up north."

Those engaged on the Tower Company construction project from this district are — Jean-Paul Gagné, Aurele Gagné, Hans Jacobsen (accompanied by Mrs. Jacobsen) and Paul Jacobsen, from Pine Hill; Jos. Laurin, Paul St. Onge, Fernand Foucault and Henry McDonald, from Lachute.

Mrs. Jacobsen gives her postal address as Box 134, St. Felicien, Que.

"AWAKE!"
"NOW IT IS HIGH TIME TO AWAKE." — ROMANS 13: 11

"Behold, a king shall reign in righteousness, and princes shall rule in justice." (Isa. 32:1, AS). These heartening words point to the administration of a righteous government, now at hand. Without here questioning the motives of many who have held public office in an effort to benefit their fellow men, all will acknowledge that such have been in the minority and their efforts have brought no permanent blessings. How thrilling, then, to point to God's kingdom and its servants, the "princes", whose rule is for the honor of God and the blessing of all its subjects! The just rule of these "princes", under the King of righteousness, Christ Jesus, is now being announced.

"At the name of Jesus every knee shall bow". — Read Philippians, 2nd Chapter, verses 5 to 11.

Is it not now high time to Awake and get acquainted with God's wonderful promises which He gives us in His word, the Bible — and learn the true meaning of the things we see coming on the earth. — Send in your subscription to this wonderful magazine called "Awake". Home Wedding Solemnized

Warwick - Smith

The marriage of Mildred Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Smith, of Lachute, to Mr. Glenn William Warwick, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Warwick, of Lachute, took place Saturday afternoon, August 30, at 3.30 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. W. B. Rosborough officiated, assisted by the Rev. C. R. Lang. Miss Eileen Morrison played the wedding music. The house was decorated with gladioli and sweet peas.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina-length gown of white embroidered organdy, with a round neckline and short sleeves. She wore a Juliet cap of white tulle and matching mitts. Her colonial bouquet was composed of roses and white sweet peas.

The bride's only attendant, Miss Shirley Rodger, wore a gown of blue embroidered organdy made on similar lines to the bride's, with matching cap and mitts. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and white sweet peas.

Mr. Ronald Warwick was best man for his brother.

Mrs. Smith, mother of the bride, wore a gown of raspberry crepe with black accessories. Her corsage was of pink sweet peas. Mrs. Warwick, mother of the groom, chose a dress of navy blue with navy accessories, and a corsage of red sweet peas.

Supper was served on the lawn, where the tables were decorated with summer flowers.

The bride and groom left for a motor trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls, the bride wearing a suit of Havana blue with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Upon their return a reception was held in the Lachute Legion Hall, where many friends and relatives gathered to extend their best wishes to the newlywed couple. Mr. and Mrs. Warwick will reside near Lachute.

Pentecostal Supt. Visits Two Churches Here Next Sunday

The Rev. W. B. Greenwood, of Belleville, Ont., will visit two Pentecostal churches in this county next Sunday, September 14, in his capacity as Superintendent of the Eastern Ontario and Quebec District of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada.

Mr. Greenwood will preach at the Faith Pentecostal Church, Calumet, at 11 a.m., and at Harrington Pentecostal Church at 7.30 p.m. Sunday. The Rev. Maurice Almey is pastor of both congregations.

Members of the Argenteuil County Pentecostal churches will be at their homes on Sunday afternoon to hear the "Religious Period" broadcast from 2.30 to 3 D.S.T. over CBM, Montreal, and affiliated stations of the Trans-Canada network.

The broadcast will be conducted by the Rev. Emile L. Lassegues, pastor of the Central French Pentecostal Church, Montreal, the address being given by the Rev. C. B. Smith, of Victoria, B.C., retiring general superintendent of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada. The broadcast is being held in conjunction with the 18th biennial national General Conference of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada which begins tonight, and continues till next Wednesday.

The Rev. and Mrs. Maurice Almey will be attending the Montreal religious meet.

Christian Science Theme for Sunday

"Substance" is the subject of the lesson-sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 14.

This lesson-sermon brings out that everything created by God is Godlike, hence spiritual, perfect, substantial, eternal; whereas the mortal dream of a material universe with corporeal man made of good and bad elements is "as a shadow that passeth away".

The Golden Text is from Hebrews (11:1): "Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.'"

Citations from the Bible include the following: "All thy works shall praise thee, O Lord; and thy saints shall bless thee." (Psalm 145: 10.)

Correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook 'Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures' by Mary Baker Eddy include the following: "Substance is that which is eternal and incapable of discord or decay. Truth, Life and Love are substance, as the Scriptures use this word in Hebrews: 'The substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen'. Spirit, the synonym of Mind, Soul, or God, is the only real substance. The spiritual universe, including individual man, is a compound idea, reflecting the divine substance of Spirit."

SISTERS MEET

Eaglesham, Alta. (CP) — Two sisters met for the first time in 44 years at this Peace River country town. Mrs. Gilbert Randall of Sarnia, Ont., paid a surprise visit to Mrs. W. H. Campbell of Eaglesham.

Lachute Couple Wed Recently

Noble - Hodge

The marriage of Marjorie Gweneth, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hodge, of Lachute, to Mr. Stanley Charles Noble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Noble, also of Lachute, took place at four o'clock Saturday, August 23, in the Lachute United Church, the Rev. W. B. Rosborough officiating.

To the strains of the Wedding March played by Mr. Wayne Riddell, the radiant young bride entered the church escorted by her father and preceded by her attendants. Baskets of multi-colored gladioli decorated the church and yellow gladioli marked the guest pews.

For the ceremony the bride chose a floor-length white gown of nylon marquisette with a peplum trimmed with nylon lace, and long sleeves ending in points over her hands. Her fingertip-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet of nylon marquisette trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Sterling Noble, attending her sister as matron of honor, and Miss Eileen Noble, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, were identically dressed in strapless frocks of green celanese taffeta worn with tiny matching boleros. Their headdresses were little caps to match. They carried cascade bouquets of yellow gladioli.

Little Miss Elizabeth Hodge, cousin of the bride, was flower girl, dressed in yellow celanese taffeta, with a bandeau of sweet peas in her hair and carrying a basket of sweet peas.

Mr. Sterling Noble, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. Ushers were Mr. Stanley Hodge, brother of the bride, and Mr. Ronald Noble, brother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Hodge, the bride's mother, wore a street-length dress of blue crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Noble, mother of the groom, was dressed in orchid crepe, with navy accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held in the church hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Noble motored to Prince Edward Island, the bride travelling in a light blue suit with navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The couple will reside in Lachute.

Church Notes

The closing service of the Rivington Baptist Church for this season will be held Sunday morning at 11, with Mr. B. Smith officiating. Mr. Smith has served the charge for the summer months, and will be returning to his studies in Toronto. The public are cordially invited to attend this service.

A 25-minute "refresher course" on why a Christian should rejoice and be glad even in these days of unrest, confusion and wickedness will be given Sunday morning, September 14, in Harrington United Church during the regular worship service. The student pastor will present God's wonderful promise in a message entitled "They Shall Be Mine". If your faith has been shaken by the condition of the world today; if you wonder what "good" there is in being a follower of Christ; if you are still outside the family of the Lord of Hosts, join in this service of re-discovery of the glorious future prepared by God for all who seek to know and serve Him.

Sunday School will be held at the usual hour, 10 a.m., in Harrington United Church.

"How did your brother, die?"
"He fell through some scaffolding."
"What was he doing up there?"
"Being hanged."

Christening

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. M. Rodger, of River Rouge, was baptized in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday afternoon, by the Rev. Dr. Wm. MacMillan. The baby, who was given the names, Brian Geoffrey, wore the robe which his maternal grandmother had worn. After the ceremony, friends were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Rodger.

Monthly Session Of Town Council

Three bids were received for laying of cement sidewalk.— Gaetan Masson quoting $1.70 a foot for repairs and $3.75 a foot for construction, on Isabella Street; Adelard Desjardins, $4.75, $1.75 and $1.50 on Robert Street.

It was moved by Ald. E. Provost, seconded by Ald. Réal Morrissette, that contract for construction on Isabella be awarded to Gaetan Masson, at $3.75 a foot, the work to commence immediatey; and contract to Adelard Desjardins, at $1.50, for construction on Robert Street, with exception of frontage belonging to Mr. McArthur.

It was arranged to call for similar tenders for sidewalk projects on various thoroughfares — Grace, Barron, Foundry, Chatham, Milway and Princess (from St. Julien to Hamelin St.) — offers to be received up to 5.30 p.m. on September 17. Ald. D. G. MacRae moved and Ald. Stanley Holt seconded.

Ald. MacRae also proposed, and Ald. Provost seconded, that the Bell Telephone Company be given permission to lay an underground cable on Gilbert Street.

It was decided to purchase an electric adding machine, price $375, from Walker-Kingsbury Inc. — Ald. Provost proposing and Ald. Morrissette seconding the motion.

Purchase of a three-inch centrifugal pump, from Construction Equipment Co. Ltd. ($370) was also approved; Ald. Morrissette was sponsor, Ald. Provost seconder.

Salaries were again up for discussion, and it was proposed to increase by 5 cents the hourly rate paid to town employees, effective September 1; that J. Senecal, town officer, be paid at the rate of $3,500 per annum, retroactive from August 1; and that Simard Larocque be paid $1.10 an hour, effective from the same date. These proposals were presented in a motion by Ald. Morrissette, supported by Ald. Ludger Gibeault.

The motion brought forth an amendment, however — Ald. S. Holt, seconded by Ald. A. Laurin, proposing that the increases be adopted as stated, but effective only from September 1.

In a vote for the amendment, Messrs. Holt and Laurin were the only supporters; Morrissette, Lafleur and Provost dissented. The original motion was therefore passed, three in favor, two against. Ald. D. G. MacRae opposed both the main motion and the amendment.

Building permits were granted to Réal Lepage, for residential construction on St. Jacques Street, and to the Knights of Columbus for an assembly hall on Foundry Street, under surveillance of the Roads Committee. . . The meeting was then adjourned.

YOUNG IDEAS

In a parked car a boy about eight was wildly twisting the steering wheel and uttering motorlike sounds. I watched him awhile, then leaned over and said, "Hey, bud, you better stick your arm out when you go around a curve or you'll get a ticket."

He regarded me scornfully. "Look, bub", he said, "you stick your arm out of a space ship and you'll have it ripped off."

LOWEST-PRICED IN ITS FIELD!
Chevrolet, the Leader is the lowest-priced car in its field. It's Canada's most beautiful low-priced car — and Canada's most wonderful motor car value!

Illustrated — Chevrolet Bel Air

Only Chevrolet the Lowest-Priced Fine Car offers all these Extra Features

EXTRA WIDE CHOICE of styling and colors

Ten models to choose from! Wide choice of solid colors or two-tone combinations. Here's the most wonderful array of colors in the low-price field . . . with color-matched interiors on all De Luxe models.

EXTRA BEAUTY AND QUALITY of Body by Fisher

The graceful, flowing lines of Body by Fisher styling . . . with extra quality in every detail and appointment. You'll notice the finer workmanship inside and out . . . in brightwork and upholstery, metal and fabric.

EXTRA SMOOTH PERFORMANCE of Centrepoise Power

Here's power so smooth you'd hardly know the engine's in the car! Engine rides flexibly suspended — centred, poised, cushioned in rubber — to screen out vibration from driver and passengers.

EXTRA RIDING COMFORT of Improved Knee-Action

Chevrolet's famed unitized Knee-Action ride is now smoother, softer than ever. New Quick-Reflex shock absorber action gives instant and continuous spring control — levels the ride, gnaches the bumps.

GM "SHADE-LITE" GLASS Reduces Glare, Heat and Fatigue

Chevrolet offers "Shade-Lite" tinted glass with exclusive, shaded windshield-tinting for your extra protection. "Shade-Lite" glass all 'round reduces glare and heat, helps you drive more safely and comfortably. (Optional at extra cost.)

EXTRA STOPPING POWER of Jumbo-Drum Brakes

Bigger brakes give more leverage, for more stopping power with less pedal effort. Chevrolet Jumbo-Drum brakes have full 11" drums — for smoother, safer stops. Bonded linings last up to twice as long.

EXTRA STEERING EASE of Centre-Point Steering

Control is centred between the front wheels . . . giving a smoother feel to steering on road bumps or ruts. You steer, park and manoeuvre with wonderful ease, little wheel effort.

EXTRA PRESTIGE of Canada's Most Popular Car

Make your choice Canada's choice. Enjoy the satisfaction of owning the car that leads them all in sales and popularity. Nationwide preference for Chevrolet confirms your good judgment.

EXTRA SMOOTHNESS of Powerglide Automatic Transmission

It's more than an automatic transmission alone. It's a complete power team with extra-powerful Valve-in-Head engine, Automatic Choke and EconoMiser axle. Only Powerglide in its field is all-smooth, all-cooled. Optional on De Luxe models at extra cost.

When Smith walked into his friend's office, he found him sitting in his chair looking very depressed.

"What's the matter, old man?" Smith asked solicitously.

"Oh, just my wife", his friend said. "She's engaged a new secretary for me."

"Well, there's nothing so bad about that", Smith said. "Is she blonde or brunette?"

"He's bald", the fried answered.

C.L.G.U. Season's Field Day at Local Golf Club

started out with a birdie on the 2nd, got a bogey at the 4th and then had a string of pars. At the 9th she missed the green but chipped back. A long put on the 10th gave her another birdie. At the 14th, she overshot the green but got back to within 4" of the pin. At the 16th she was in a trap, but not for long. An explosion shot brought the ball close to the cup. She took a bogey on the 18th, and came home in 37.

Mrs. H. L. Mussells of Kanawaki earned the third best gross with an 86.

Silver division low net honors went to Mrs. A. C. Pratt of Whitlock who carded a 95 gross and 79 net. Mrs. J. Dagenais was second with a net 81 and Miss Marie Kent third with 81, half stroke behind Mrs. Dagenais.

Mrs. Whitelaw, a veteran of many major tournaments, had to share the plaudits with 14-year-old Judy Darling. Judy pencilled a 97 for the best low gross in the bronze division. Her performance compared very favorably with many of the leaders in the silver division. Isobel Cooper of Summerlea with 101 was runner-up for the bronze gross with Mrs. T. Fisher in the third spot with 103. Net prizes in this class went to Mrs. F. Stein, Lachute club captain, with 78; Mrs. J. P. Sutcliffe of Country Club with 81, and Mrs. J. Shipley of Whitlock with 82.

Course Surprises

Water holes which dot the course wrought havoc with some of the players' games. After losing her sixth ball, one competitor called it a day and toured the rest of the course as a spectator. The majority of the contestants, however, sailed over these picturesque hazards. Gay colored totem poles, four spring water pumps (a help on a day that registered 75) and some unusual markings caught the players' eyes. Your reporter was startled to see an old tree bearing a rope noose near a bend of the course. In the noose was a skeleton — the ancestor to someone's pet cow. "We call this suicidal alley" observed pro Jack Archer. Several other tree lined fairways were like velvet; verily the scenic beauty was for the poets.

"Once I was so busy admiring the scenery I forgot to look where my ball landed", confessed one player.

Contestants liked the informal "snack bar" outside the clubhouse where a hamburger went good at the end of a round.

Players complimented club president Mrs. W. M. Cottingham on the lovely appointments in the lounge, dining room and locker-room. In the latter, the ladies had separate vanity tables, each with its own special cologne atomizer. As each player went to the shower, she was handed a towel, a pair of slippers and a tin of lavender powder. Canaries kept up a cheerful warble during luncheon.

Gilbert Ayers and his committee have overlooked nothing in making this Lachute Club a place where "beauty beckons and recreation satisfies". The password of the day was "When do we play here again." As for that 14th hole! "It's a honey."

Following were the leading scores:

Hunting permits will be procurable at the following establishments in Lachute, according to a list provided by Game Warden Fernando Lamarche:

Chamber of Commerce Tourist Bureau; Fairway Sales & Service (Bethany Road); Bedard Ltd.; Sport Shop (Rio Building); John McFaul & Son; Stade Reg.; Wilson & Gordon Reg.; Farmers' Supply Co.; Armand Rochon (Lachute Mills).

Non-resident hunters' licenses and trappers' permits are procurable, in the Lachute district, only from Officer Lamarche, at 201-A Bethany Street.

Lions Win Exciting Softball Elimination

In an exciting 10 innings of play, the Lions defeated White Rose 7-6 in the Argenteuil Softball League play-offs. The Lions having thus downed last year's title-holders, are now set to meet St. Andrews East and Lowe Bros.' Braves.

Kindergarten Of the Air

In the back-to-school rush, preschool youngsters got a head start on their older brothers and sisters this year. "Kindergarten of the Air" returned to the airlanes September 2nd, and will be heard each weekday morning on the CBC's Trans-Canada network. Pictured above are two interested youngsters taking advantage of a portable radio to hear their favorite program. As in other years, "teachers" Dorothy Jane Goulding and Ruth Johnson take turns conducting the broadcasts.

Mysterious Light Again Being Seen

Esterhazy, Sask. (CP) — A strange light, which mystified crowds of curious people and brought newspaper men from as far as Chicago and scientists from neighboring provinces back in 1937, again is making frequent appearance in this area.

Colloquially named the Tabor light because it made its appearance in the neighborhood of the Tabor Protestant cemetery here in 1937, it now is being seen about four miles south of its former haunts.

J. C. Nicholson, local jeweller who followed the light for more than three miles with a companion one night in August, described it as resembling the headlight of a railway locomotive. It seemed to drift along ahead of them, sometimes fading, rising and falling, but staying always about 20 yards in front of the men.

Favorite Topic

The reappearance of the phenomenon has brought forth lively discussions among citizens telling of the first sightings 15 years ago.

It was first reported by an R.C.M.P. constable on road patrol, who thought a car with only one headlight was approaching. He was prepared to stop the "car" when the light went across a fence into a meadow and then back across the road again. The constable followed it at more than 50 miles an hour in his car and seemed to pass right over it.

Superstitious people believe the light is a restless soul wandering lonely in the night.

From the Tabor cemetery, some took shotguns and fired through the light to dispel the belief it was an owl with phosphorous on its wings. Others felt it was caused by gases rising from rich potash deposits.

Several carloads of people have journeyed out to the spot some 15 miles northwest of Esterhazy to catch a glimpse of the light. Some were rewarded but other evenings the light seemed loath to make an appearance.

Descriptions of the light are varied. It seems to be very bright on some nights and dull red on others. It appears to drift along about five feet off the ground, travelling at a high speed at times and then just drifting along slowly.

Doing nothing is a tiresome job, because you can't rest.

Herb's particular topic was the convention held in Mexico City last spring. This was the 43rd annual conference. Although only a delegates' convention, it was attended by a total of 7,225 persons representing Rotary in 53 countries. Four members from Montreal travelled by air, whereas the speaker and his companion had travelled by train "for a rest and an opportunity to see the country" — for, as he remarked, they were very anxious to see Texas after hearing so much about it. It is comparatively large from the viewpoint of other American States, but much smaller than our own province. When arriving at the Mexican border the train is pushed across the Rio Grande, and there a Mexican locomotive hooks on and takes the train the rest of the way, to prevent any international situation arising. The temperature that day was rather cool, "only 104 degrees".

To illustrate the power of Rotary, the speaker stated that the Mexican Government had instructed the border inspectors to make only a token search, and so they were not inconvenienced in any way. He also noticed many modern stations in Mexico — and many not so modern, in fact, squalid. His impression of the Mexican army was a ragged, scruffy group with fixed bayonets, doing guard duty at the stations. They had a bit of power and liked to show it.

Plowing by primitive means was noticed from the train windows. The Mexicans seem to live a simple life; they follow a pattern, none of them is in any hurry. The traveller also noted an amazing contrast in people, in economic status, in buildings, etc. Immediately beside a modern office building would be an adobe hut affair. The trains did not follow any rigid schedule. Sunday the group registered for the convention, and later were all taken to a bull fight. The arena seated 50 thousand persons. In the centre was a Rotary wheel with the word "Welcome" made up of flowers. A cloudburst dampened the spirits as well the bodies, of all present. Mr. Hewitson went into some detail on the procedure followed in a bull fight.

The actual opening of the convention was preceded by a mourited procession carrying flags of all the countries represented. A welcome speech was made in Spanish by the President of Mexico. President Frank Spain of Rotary replied, also in Spanish. The actual sessions were held in two parts, one in English and the other in Spanish. A chance to Blend Cultures for Peace was the main theme of the conference. Monday evening they were treated to a symphony concert. Tuesday a plenary session was held, an open session from the floor, which proved very lively and interesting. On Tuesday night a floral fiesta was on the program.

One of the main items for discussion was a more democratic method of electing the Rotary International president. After much debate and discussion during a seven-hour session, a vote was taken and it was decided to retain the present method.

Rotary International is also to build a home for itself outside Chicago. On Thursday the last session was held, and the new officials were presented; the Canadian representative is from Charlottetown, P.E.I.

Later in the same evening the Mexican Rotarians opened their homes to the visitors. Herb Hewitson said the main thing he noted was the close ties of family life in Mexico. He closed his speech by repeating for emphasis the obvious contrasts in Mexico, particularly from an economic point of view; the rich are very rich and the poor very poor.

Rotarian Fred Royal thanked the speaker on behalf of the Brownsburg members.

Play-Offs Commence In Baseball League

A four-out-of-seven series between Lachute and Valleyfield in the section eliminations of the Laurentide Baseball League, commenced at the local ball park Tuesday evening — Lachute Tigers taking a 7-2 victory, to the satisfaction of the crowd.

Second game of the series at the Lachute Stadium is billed for tonight, Thursday.

COUPON PLAN ENDS SEPT. 30th IN CH. OF COMMERCE 'BOOST TO SALES'

"Industry and Commerce in Lachute"
Contributed by Lachute Chamber of Commerce

With the return of fall, our many social and community organizations resume a more active stride after the summer season. Lachute Chamber of Commerce similarly renews its efforts to the aims of service and progress, which are its prime objectives.

To C.C.C. Members

Following a meeting of merchants participating in the C.C.C., held August 26, the chairman of this committee, Miville Trickey, wishes to make the following announcements:

After having reviewed the effects of this scheme and appraised the pros and cons, it was decided to terminate the campaign on September 30. Coupon-holders, however, will have until October 31 to exchange their tokens for premiums, at the Chamber of Commerce Bureau in the Caisse Populaire premises on Main Street.

It is trusted that all merchants participating will continue to issue premium coupons right up to the closing date, so that ther customers may enjoy the highest benefits of this campaign. Merchants are also urged if possible to have coupons all issued by September 30 — even if, in order to do so, they must procure only one roll at a time. This is essential to the merchant, since the Chamber will be unable to refund money for unused coupons once the campaign is terminated. If it happens that merchants have coupons left over after September 30, they will be privileged to exchange them personally for premiums.

The Sales Promotion committee and the Chamber directors have done everything possible to make this effort an outstanding success, and we are gratified that, all in all, it will have achieved much in inducing consumers to shop at home and in making Lachute "the shopping centre of the Ottawa Valley".

On completion of the C.C.C., a full report will be given to the membership.

Next Industrial Visit

On October 1 it is planned to make an organized visit to the C-I-L at Brownsburg, followed by a general meeting the next evening, October 2. Advance news of this industrial tour will be interesting to many members, who will appreciate the opportunity to view this plant. When it is realized that Brownsburg C-I-L employs around 175 of our own Lachute residents, the relationship between this industry and the community is better appreciated.

C-I-L will deservedly qualify as the Chamber's "Industry of the Month".

MEMBERSHIP CONFERRED

Wolfville, N.S. (CP) — Harold E. The order, first social club in North America, was conferred when Mr. Stassen visited here.

7-Year Sentence For Pte. Fortune Bank Hold-Up

Montreal — Judge C. E. Guerin sentenced Raymond Paré, 37, a taxi driver, to seven years in the penitentiary for the $1,300 armed robbery of the Banque Canadienne Nationale at Pointe Fortune on August 8.

Provincial Police liaison officer Omer Coté told the court that Paré had promised to reimburse the bank, but that only $347 had been returned to date.

Judge Guerin's sentence was the first case following his promise to impose stiffer penalties for armed robbery in the Montreal district.

Judge Guerin said the action was the result of an armed robbery and payroll snatching outbreak within the past three weeks.

"If the epidemic of hold-ups continues, I will sentence such gunmen to 10 years when it is a first offence, and 25 years for bandits committing more than one offence" he said.

Judge Guerin said these terms would also be imposed by other criminal court judges in Montreal.

Increase Boat Exports

Long Sault Cruisers are now in use on most of the principal waterways of this continent. One is now known to be on an extended cruise through the Trent Canal system; another is on her way from New York to Florida. Soon they will be seen in Africa and South America. The firm is also actively engaged in developing other export markets, for although foreign sales are encouraging evidence of the high esteem in which Long Sault boats are held, their real value is that they provide off-season employment to the men who build Long Sault boats, all of whom are drawn from the St. Andrews and Lachute areas. The extremely seasonal nature of the pleasure boat business in Canada has always made it difficult to hold a staff together through the fall and winter months, and is a matter of great concern to the Long Sault management.

The Long Sault factory is situated on Highway 29 between St. Andrews East and Carillon, and visitors are always welcome.

Arrests and Fines On Driving Charges

Two cases of driving or being in charge of a motor vehicle while "under the influence", were brought to justice by Det. Philippe Therriault during the past week.

At St. Jerome before Justice Lafontaine, Paul Leduc, Hawkesbury, who collided with two telephone poles at the Sydney Street and Barron Avenue intersection, pleaded guilty and was fined $50. On a somewhat similar charge René Laurin, of Lachute, found asleep at the steering wheel of his parked truck, also pleaded guilty, receiving a $50 fine and confiscation of his driving permit for a three-month period.

Mission From France to Visit Lachute September 25

"Industry and Commerce in Lachute"
Contributed by Lachute Chamber of Commerce

Another Notable Date

Next Thursday, September 25, the Chamber of Commerce in collaboration with Lachute Golf and Country Club will play host to an important assembly. The educational and good-will mission from France, including many notables in the religious and civil spheres — the president of the Banque de France, principals of Universities, leading lights in the faculties of law, medicine and civil engneering, Chamber of Commerce chairmen and textile authorities — will be joined by many dignitaries of this province, to visit Lachute on this occasion.

It was at the instigation of the Montreal Chamber of Commerce that the Lachute group accepted the honor of this visit — an honor which will reflect also upon our Golf Club, whose modern appointments and whose hospitality are an infailing source of pleasure to visitors.

Fernand Legault, Q.C., has been named chairman of the reception committee.

Notice from Directorate

At a recent meeting of directors and committee chairmen it was decided to hold the annual general meeting and election of officers on Thursday, October 2. This will permit the new directors to form their committees and to fully prepare the Chamber's program for consideration and action, before the winter season.

Members will be notified of the time, place and other details of this annual meeting; the same notification will remind them of the next industrial tour, to the C-I-L plant at Brownsburg, to be held the previous day, Wednesday afternoon, October 1.

Another New Industry In Prospect

There is possibility of the establishment of another new industry here, by a company specializing in the manufacture of sponge rubber for upholstery, mattresses, automobile cushions, sports shoes, etc. Our industrial relations committee, under the energetic chairmanship of Gérard Lefèbrve, industrial engineer, has been in contact with officials of this firm, and we look forward to publishing further details of these negotiations.

On the subject of industrial expansion, we are pleased to announce that two active citizens have offered the Chamber of Commerce approximately 15 acres of land, for the accommodation of prospective industries. This is remarkable evidence of co-operation in the interests of civic progress. — Roméo Legault, Publicist

Aim For 300 Volunteers Sept. 30 At Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic

Lachute Auditorium will be a scene of quiet but efficient activity on September 30, the date set for the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic. The mobile unit and technicians from Montreal headquarters will be established here, and the clinic will be conducted from 3 to 6 o'clock, and 7 to 9.30 o'clock, providing hours suitable to all comers.

The local aspects of free blood transfusion service come foremost, perhaps, in the attitude of volunteers. In this connection it is interesting to note, among the figures for Western Quebec, that the Providence Hospital, Lachute, gave 49 free transfusions in the first six months of 1951 through facilities of the Red Cross; the figure increased to 68 in a comparable period for 1952. (This gives no indication, however, of the number of free transfusions given to local patients in city hospitals.)

The objective of the Red Cross is to achieve complete coverage of every institution in Canada, and to provide free transfusions "to all citizens, regardless of race, creed or wealth". Those who contribute to the Red Cross program are aiding a community service which supplies free transfusions to the vast majority of Montreal and district hospitals — but further, they are assisting a program to provide plasma for Korea and for Civil Defence.

The current appeal is for volunteers from Lachute, Brownsburg, St. Andrews and the rural district, and it is hoped to enrol 300 donors this time, to ensure the success of the venture.

Lady organizers of this clinic on behalf of Lachute Red Cross Unit are — Mrs. Robt. Cairns, Mrs. F. Terriault and Mrs. Jack Archer.

How empty is learning, how vain is art, but as it mends the life and guides the heart. — Young

435 Exhibits at Grenville Annual School Fair

Largest Juvenile Show In County This Year

The annual Grenville School Fair was held at the Consolidated School last Friday, and the event proved to be the largest school fair in Argenteuil County this year, with 123 pupils exhibiting over 435 items. The poultry exhibits were outstanding, with about 24 crates of splendid birds.

Mr. A. Marshall, of Montreal, judged the vegetables and flowers, Mr. Alex Bothwell judged the field crops, three local ladies judged the cooking and canning, and Mr. Desjardins, of St. Jerome, handled the placing of all the poultry. Mr. Young had charge of the feline and other pets.

The prize-winners in flowers, produce and poultry, as furnished by Alex Bothwell, Agronomist, are listed on page 9.

Publish French Chronicle, "History of Brownsburg"

Brownsburg—A volume entitled "The History of Brownsburg" has just been published for sale — a story of the village from its first inception, compiled jointly by the Rev. Paul Manseau and Florian Guitard. The text, in the French language, carries a preface by Bishop Emilien Frenette of St. Jerome, and the story traces the growth of parish life among the Catholic community in this Anglo-Protestant industrial centre.

Uninvited Guests Found In Attic at Morin Heights

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — Excitement ran high here last Thursday when Miss Brzezinski, of the Red and White Farm, discovered a couple of men in her attic. The story goes as follows: Mrs. Brzezinski went up to the attic to get a double window and startled a man sleeping on an old mattress. As she dashed downstairs he made his escape from an upper window. Another man was also seen to follow. The householder called the police officer, Chas. Baumel, but the intruders had quickly made their get-away in the nearby bush, and in the meantime the telephone wires had been cut. The Provincial Police also investigated, but nothing further has been learned.

M.L.A. IN ROLE OF CLUB SPEAKER; WM. M. COTTINGHAM GIVES ROTARY TOPIC, 'PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE'

In one of the most interesting topics heard at the Rotary Club in recent months, Mr. W. M. Cottingham, local M.L.A., spoke to the Club on 'Parliamentary Procedure'.

Mr. Cottingham pointed out that Quebec Province has retained the old British parliamentary traditions to a greater degree than any other Canadian province. Quebec is the only province which still has the Upper House, or Senate. The speaker is a strong believer in the Provincial Senate, and its value as a "brake" applied by experienced statesmen to unwise acts of legislation.

Mr. Cottingham explained in some detail the pageantry of the opening of Parliament — some of the details he mentioned being the entrance of the Usher of the Black Rod, who announces the arrival of the Lieutenant-Governor; and the Lieutenant-Governor reading the Speech from the Throne, which outlines the main items of legislation to be considered during the session.

Parliament cannot do business unless the Mace is present. The Mace is a very ornate object, the special concern of the Sergeant-at-Arms. Mr. Cottingham related an incident which happened several years ago, when on one occasion the Mace was stolen. The House was very busy, and some of the members had tired of the tedium of the evening meetings. They stole the Mace, so that parliament could not sit, and took the evening off. The Mace, of course, was recovered the next day.

After the opening and the Throne Speech, the Debate on the Speech takes place, sometimes lasting for several days. Following this, the business of the session gets underway. The "referee" is the Speaker, a government member chosen for his impartiality and acceptable to both parties.

Mr. Cottingham explained that private and public bills are first read in the house, and later presented to an appropriate committee for consideration and recommendation.

In order that the public may be fully informed, parliament welcomes the press as a necessary adjunct in the picture. In fact, newspaper representatives are paid a salary of $400 per year by the government, to ensure their attendance.

The speaker issued an invitation to the visitors' galleries during sittings of the legislature. He called on the Rotary members to inform themselves thoroughly concerning the activities of parliament, and to actively support the party of their choice.

Mr. Cottingham was introduced by Rotarian Linton Armstrong and thanked by Rotarian Dudley Boal.

During the business meeting reference was made to the Rotary Auction, to be held on President Mac Walker's lawn on Saturday.

Guests included Holden Lingley, of Fredericton (Rotarian Phil Grant's brother-in-law), Roly Moncrieff, Jack Golphin and Hector Bourgeois, all of Brownsburg. Among the few absentees was Rotarian John Hawes, who had left to attend his mother's funeral in Nova Scotia. The Club joins with the community in extending sincere sympathy to Mr. Hawes in his sorrow.

Adults Join Pupils on Prize Nite, Recapture Thrills of School Days

It was children's night last Friday at Lachute High School, when the pupils of all grades gathered to receive their prizes, or to applaud their more successful fellows — but also present were the school commissioners, the teachers, interested adults and parents, to share the youngsters' triumphs and to catch, once again, the thrills of their youth in the opening days of school.

Commissioner Ed. W. Smith was chairman in the absence of the school board president. The Rev. C. R. Lang opened the proceedings with prayer. Besides the Commissioners on the platform (Ross Muir, Douglas Bradford and Alex Bothwell), were several members of the clergy; representative prize-donors including ladies of four W.I. branches; Principal F. H. J. Royal; W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., chairman of the Central Board; Geo. Y. Deacon, member of the Quebec Protestant Committee of Education, and others.

Principal F. Royal gave a creditable report on the academic standing among last year's seniors and graduates, and made brief reference to the new members of the teaching staff. Mr. Royal also mentioned the aim of his staff to maintain a "democratic" policy insofar as possible, and this policy, he said, would be the subject of a questionnaire to be brought shortly to the attention of the parents.

W. M. Cottingham stated during his brief remarks: "I think that within this Unit we have one of the finest teaching staffs in the Province of Quebec". He urged that parents and taxpayers should attend the board meetings, learn something of the problems which arise, and give moral support to those entrusted with the matters of school administration.

Commissioner Alex Bothwell tendered traditional thanks to the prize-donors, making mention of the cash and material value, but stressing particularly the spirit of impetus and encouragement inspired by these awards.

Robt. Cairns, among those on the platform, acknowledged this appreciation, and spoke very appropriately on behalf of the prize donors.

A pleasing feature of the program was a selection of songs by the junior choir, who, with smart appearance and orderly formation, flanked the piano in front of the platform. Directed by Shirley McKyes, music instructor, and ably accompanied by Wayne Riddell, the young songsters gave evidence of precision, control and, in the livelier themes, a rollicking enjoyment of their performance.

French Weekly, Tho Still In Infancy, "Comes of Age"

"L'Argenteuil", French-language contemporary of this newspaper, was accorded special consideration at the annual convention of the Canadian French-Language Weeklies, held last week at Val d'Or and Rouyn — being admitted to the membership of this organization after only six months of publication. This was an exception to the established rule, which requires that new journals must have been in existence a period of one year before being eligible for membership. The reason for this ruling is that many new publications fail and close up within a few months. It happens in certain cases that well established papers are also refused membership in the French Weeklies for various reasons, such as disloyal and dishonest practices, un-Canadian character and obvious lack of sincerity.

In the case of "L'Argenteuil", the editor, Conrad Langlois, who attended the conference, received many compliments on the new weekly and the prestige it had already gained in the fraternity. Another factor in the decision of the organization to admit this paper to its membership, was the soundly established reputation of its sponsors, Giles Publishing House Ltd., with well over half-a-century in the publishing business.

Mr. Langlois feels that the affiliation of L'Argenteuil with the French Weeklies Association will promote further publicity for the benefit and in the interests of Lachute Town.

BATTLE OF BRITAIN RECALLED—With their exploits immortalized in the superb prose of Winston Churchill, and with the free world forever in their debt, the "famous few," who held back the tide of Nazi aggression in the summer of 1940, will again be saluted this weekend (21 September) when Battle of Britain Sunday is commemorated. Church parades and memorial services at RCAF units across the country will once more recall the significance of those eventful days when the destiny of Britain lay in the balance, and the skill and courage of a few fighter pilots snatched victory from the skies. The composite picture above recalls that period of courage and high endeavour. (Top left) A squadron of Spitfires en route to intercept the enemy. (Top right) Members of No. 1 Canadian Fighter Squadron, with their commanding officer in the centre, Group Captain Ernest McNab, OBE, DFC. (Bottom left) London's Tower Bridge, symbolizing the strength and dignity of the city it graces. (Bottom right) The beautiful window of the Battle of Britain Memorial Chapel in Westminster Abbey. Teachers from Catholic Schools In Conference Here

Over 200 Catholic school teachers — male and female, both religious and lay instructors — from the district surrounding Lachute, gathered at the L'Ecole Supérieure on Mary Street last Tuesday for a day of educational study. The occasion also afforded a holiday for all Catholic school children of the district. Inspector Alfred Dionne presided over the day's proeedings.

In attendance were school teachers from Lachute, Ayersville, Brownsburg, St. Andrews, Carillon, St. Placide, St. Hermas, Ste. Scholastique St., Joseph-du-Lac, Ste. Marthe-du-Lac and St. Michel de Wentworth.

Prominent among subjects dealt with was the teaching of the French language. A film entitled "Problems of Childhood" was shown by Philippe Desbois of the Quebec provincial film service. Mr. Dionne spoke on the new program of primary and secondary schools in this province.

Tot Fractured Skull In Falling From Crib

(Our District Correspondent)

At International Boy Scout Meeting

Mr. Jackson Dodds, C.B.E., of Montreal, Deputy Chief Scout for Canada, has flown to England to attend a meeting of the Boy Scouts International Committee in London from September 16 to 18. Also attending the meeting is Major-General D. C. Spry, C.B.E., D.S.O., of Ottawa, Chief Executive Commissioner of Canada's Boy Scouts and Deputy Director of the Boy Scouts International Bureau.

Local Appeal Until September 30 for Salvation Army

In an advertisement and editorial on page three this week, support is given to the district campaign of the Salvation Army, being conducted in this community from September 15 to 30. The quota for this section is a modest $1,200.

To those with even a casual knowledge of this organization, the Red Shield Appeal needs no further emphasis. But to others unacquainted with the great humanitarian work of the Salvation Army, The Watchman commends the reading of this editorial, and a grateful recognition of the Christian aid extended to humanity less favored and less fortunate.

Mr. D. M. Hay, chairman and treasurer for this district, will welcome and acknowledge all donations. These may be forwarded or handed to Mr. Hay at the Bank of Montreal, Lachute.

Company Chartered To Explore for Oil

Notice in the Quebec Official Gazette states that, under provisions of the Quebec Mining Companies Act, letters patent have been issued incorporating Raoul Desrosiers, locater, of Montreal, Edmund Fancott, editor, of Pointe-Claire, and Omer Lachance farmer, of Ste. Scholastique, for the following purposes:

"To prospect and explore for mines, minerals, oils and petroleum, under the name of 'Oka Oil Ltd.' (No Personal Liability), with a capital stock of $40,000, divided into 40,000 shares of $1 each. . . Gatineau LINES

Your Most Valuable Servant

During the past few weeks Gatineau Lines has brought to your attention the many labor saving appliances on the farm and in the home which would have been impossible, were it not for electricity.

In an earlier series Gatineau Lines told how electricity provides an economic and convenient form of energy as motive power for a wide variety of manufacturing plants in the Province of Quebec.

Electricity did not displace coal or fuel oil. The appliances followed electricity and the factories grew around electricity as a source of motive power. Coal and fuel oil should continue to be used to produce heat.

If Quebec is to continue its industrial expansion, electricity must be conserved for domestic and industrial uses where it can make its greatest contribution as your most valuable servant.

Those Food Surpluses

If producers really want to get consumers buying quickly and in volume they might take a tip from the experienced merchant, suggest The Financial Post. When he finds his shelves getting overloaded with some line of goods, what does he do? He cuts the price and he tells his customers about the bargains he is offering. In that way consumption is stimulated, brand new buyers are attracted and the way paved for a firm and larger permanent demand for the particular product.

That price lever is something a lot of our food producers seem very reluctant to use. We had a wonderful opportunity when foot and mouth closed the U.S. market to get a lot of new customers eating beef. Instead of offering a bargain, Ottawa stepped in with an urealistically high floor price and a whopping subsidy, charged to Canadian taxpayers.

We had another opportunity with pork. But what happened? Just as soon as the prices began to ease and the housewife started figuring on serving a pork roast again, Ottawa stepped in, commenced buying and shoved the stuff into cans and stored it. It costs little more to raise a bumper crop than one that will hardly return the seed, little more to land a ton of fish than to haul in near-empty nets. When that happens, offer consumers cheaper fish, cheaper meat, cheaper cheese, and watch consumption rise.

Canned Pork Surplus Awaiting Sale

United States Possible Market as Government Seeks to Dispose of 30,000,000 Pounds

By Harold Morrison, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa (CP) — Despite offerings at fire-sale prices, big surpluses of canned pork still line government shelves.

Officials say that some 16,000,000 pounds of the government-owned surplus has been sold during recent weeks at the below-cost price of 40 cents a pound, but more than 30,000,000 pounds remain for disposal.

And the government, in a drive to stabilize the pork market, is continuing to buy more of the canned product at 57 cents a pound, reduced from a support price that previously ranged as high as 63.8 cents a pound.

With the domestic market close to the saturation point on canned pork at the current price, government officials now are looking to the United States market as a possible sales point, but things are not too encouraging there either.

Big Producer Too

In the first place, Americans are big producers of canned pork. In the second, the U.S. government demands that labels on cans bear a detailed summary of the product's ingredients, including seasoning and spices used. That means all Canadian canning labels, which don't go into such detail, must be changed. And in the third, the price of the highly-advertised American product is just a little higher than the Canadian fire-sale prices, informants said.

Nevertheless, the Canadian government is preparing to tackle the American market, offering the product in the U.S. at about the same price as in Canada.

The pork surplus was one of the repercussions of foot-and-mouth disease which resulted in the U.S. embargo on Canadian cattle and livestock. The outbreak has been declared officially eradicated, but the U.S. ban still remains in force. It does not include canned meats.

When the government first began putting its surplus pork on the market at below cost, sales were lively. They now seem to be tapering off, informants said.

The pork was put up in 12-ounce tins. Storekeepers, buying the tins in big lots, offered them to the consumer at about 35 cents a pound, about 15 cents below normal selling price. Some even offered them at 29 cents a pound less as loss leaders to attract customers to other merchandise.

CRITICIZES

Quebec — Premier Maurice Duplessis said last week that farming is indispensible for the survival of French-speaking Canadians, and attacked a practice in some regions of dividing farmlands for the erection of homes.

Speaking at a banquet for winners of the Order of Agricultural Merit, Mr. Duplessis said, "Money cannot replace the land".

British Judge for Dairy Shorthorns

London — Entries of Dairy Shorthorns at Toronto Royal Winter Fair in November will be judged by E. C. J. Allday, owner of the Fothering herd. Afterwards he is to make an extensive tour of Shorthorn herds in the United States.

A past president of the Shorthorn Society, Mr. Allday founded his own herd almost 30 years ago. Probably no family in recent history of the breed is now better known than that of the Fothering Foggathorpes. They trace their ancestry right back to that famous cow Conishead Foggathorpe, through Dupplin Portia, a foundation member of the herd, whose daughter, Fothering Foggathorpe, was the originator of this grand family.

The policy at Fotheringhay has always been centred round very close line-breeding to this cow and has resulted in a remarkable uniformity of type throughout the herd, a fact which is reflected in the consistently high prices commanded by members at the Society's sales.

Aberdeen Angus Fatstock Champion

Toronto (CP) — Angus is one creature that will never have his expanding waistline criticized. Recently he won the Canadian National Exhibition grand championship for fat cattle.

The bulky Aberdeen Angus steer is owned by Don and Alex Edwards of Watford and Arva, Ont., who make sure Angus' life is an unending round of pampering, food and sleep.

Angus is doomed to a rather short life, but his owners are sure it will be a reasonably pleasant one. Until the day he dies Angus will have his every wish fulfilled. Malnutrition will cause him no concern.

Shortly Angus will be moving to competition in the Western Fair at London, Ont. And later it's the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto. But between times Don plans to head the sleek, jet black steer back to Watford where Angus will loaf around, chewing his cud and gulping food.

But no matter what happens at the Royal, there is only one fate in store for Angus. He's going to end up on a plate.

If he wins, he'll go out in a blaze of glory, bedecked with ribbons and cheered by the crowd as the time for his execution nears. If he loses — well — he won at the C.N.E., anyway.

In his stall Angus views the whole thing philosophically. Not so different after all, he figures, from the glory-filled career of a bull in the rings of old Spain and Mexico — and a lot less work.

B.C. Fruit Experts Develop New Apricot

Summerland, B.C. (CP) — Horticulturists at the federal government's agricultural experimental station here have developed a new apricot that may defeat the criticisms of present varieties and place apricot growing in the Okanagan on a new and more prosperous basis.

It is one tree among 4,000 apricot seedlings being grown by Dr. R. C. Palmer's fruit experts in a search for the "ideal" 'cot. On the tree it answers almost every qualification the scientists have been seeking.

The fruit is now being tested for canning and, if it answers the question posed by processing, it will probably be one of the major accomplishments of the station in recent years.

Experts say it may be 10 years before they can say "this is it, this is the champion", because the fruit has to be tested in the orchards, in good and bad weather, and on varying soils.

Summerland plant breeders have been working since 1935 to grow an apricot that meets these qualifications:

Bear early, with heavy regular crops. Produce fruit uniform in size and coloring that would ripen uniformly but stay firm enough to remain on the tree during the picking period; and when processed discard its pit freely and produce clean, firm and flavorsome halves.

So far, the experimental station's new apricot appears to meet the qualifications.

In the six years up to December 31, 1945, Canada admitted 534,694 immigrants and lost 206,500 emigrants.

Told You So!

THE DENOUEMENT of the Boyd-Jackson-Suchan affair on Tuesday (their hide-out being discovered near Toronto) gave a ha-ha to the rumor that these gangsters were seen last week crossing from Hawkesbury on the interprovincial bridge. It also gave some satisfaction to the I-told-you-so's, who were convinced the desperadoes had never eluded the dragnet of Toronto police.

That a drugstore attendant across the river was so thoroughly convinced of their identity, illustrates how nervous humanity reacts to sensational news. Indeed, it is understandable, for it happens so often. Since the escape of these criminals from the Don Jail, people were similarly deceived in many other places.

Right here, the rumor caused a deal of excitement. Long-distance phone lines were hot with the news. The police of two towns, and of two provinces, were kept hopping in the search; and one detective had his car smashed up in the hustle. Yet there was no alternative in the duty of police officers to follow these supposed clues.

Now that the foursome are under lock and key, it remains for the authorities to suppress the glamor, the adventure, the dramatics — and in the public interest to guard them closely.

Humanity's Friend

THERE ARE many ways in which the Salvation Army ministers to human need. Into homes torn by domestic dissension — to displaced persons in a strange land — Army workers bring tactful and experienced counsel. Its Missing Persons' Bureau undertakes to trace for friends and relatives those who have become separated by time and distance. It works through a global network of intercommunication and voluminous record and file system. Projects for the children who come within its orbit are a prime concern with The Army, providing character building outlets for growing boys and girls. And in Fresh Air Camps, children of crowded urban areas and their overworked mothers are given each summer a touch of nature's healing hand and the benefit of good food far from the dust and noise of cities.

Men who have sunk low through sin or circumstance — men who have lost hope and self-respect — men who have become desperate and ready for crime — to these the Men's Social Service Department of the Salvation Army offers help and restoration.

Nothing is quite so pathetic as an old person denied the shelter and comfort proper to the sunset years of life. To such the Salvation Army brings the means of enjoying a protected and tranquil old age in congenial surroundings and under the care of sympathetic and tactful attendants. Sunset Lodges for aged ladies and Eventide Homes for aged men provide good food, comfortable quarters, and the orderly peace to which age has a right.

Magistrates and Judges have long had reason to rely on the Salvation Army for the kind of help the law cannot give. Many who come before the police for the first time are entrusted to the Salvation Army in lieu of sentence. Those who go to prison, or have completed their term, find in the Army worker a friend who points the way and provides the means to reinstatement in the community and an honorable existence. To patients in hospitals, homes and public institutions, the Army volunteer visitors bring cheer and practical solace.

Girls in dire trouble — beguiled by the dazzle of the city to which they have come from quiet country homes — find sanctuary in Receiving and Maternity Homes; little ones marked with the stigma of their mothers' weakness, find affection, honor, encouragement in the S.A. Homes for Boys and Girls.

There is an inspiring legend in this wide activity of the Salvation Army, with its "understanding heart" and "human touch". And in the appeal for public help (under local chairmanship of Donald M. Hay, Lachute), The Watchman enlists the sincere support of all its readers, to meet the district quota of donations, $1,200.

Traffic in the Classroom

IT IS our daily lot to fall in line with waiting cars each noon-hour, as the police officer regulates the exodus of High School children across Main Street. This delay causes no impatience or annoyance; we are glad to wait. But during the interval, we are not entirely unobservant — and it seems opportune once again to call for a little more co-operation from the children. In other words, a little more effort on the part of teachers and parents, to impress the safety consciousness.

In fact, we feel that a few minutes' safety instruction each day, in the school assembly hall or classroom, would be time well spent.

One may continually observe at this spot, that while the patrolman halts traffic at the intersection, the children step blithely along, crossing the street diagonally towards Barron Avenue and in various directions, regardless of the pavement markings. The same haphazard crossing may be noticed as they return to school, exposing themselves to traffic from several directions instead of only east and west.

It is also observed that, when the officer drops his restraining hand to give passage to the waiting traffic, the children keep on coming just the same, to be halted and harbored in mid-street by the kindly cop.

And in boarding and disembarking from the school buses out of town, there are doubtless other hazards against which our schoolchildren are not adequately cautioned.

These are little safeguards which could well be taught in school, even though — like courtesy and good manners — they find no place on the official curriculum. A few words occasionally from a willing policeman or school bus driver, might add a more authoritative touch; while parents also can do much to emphasize the safety theme.

The Baby Boom

CANADA'S diaper-wearers have edged out the grown-ups.

Adding up the country's population last year, census-takers found that babes and toddlers, aged four years and under, are the biggest age group in the country. In 1941 the leader was the 15 to 19-year-old group, but since then the tots added almost 600,000 to their ranks to take the lead.

Census-takers attributed the baby boom to the big crop of war and post-war marriages. In 1951 there were 1,722,000 in the youngest age bracket.

In the 10 years before 1951, Canada's population climbed to 14,000,000 from 11,500,000 and of that increase 1,000,000 were under 15.

Of the total population 4,200,000 were 14 years old and under — a mighty crowd of school and pre-school youngsters. Another 4,300,000 were between the age of 15 and 34, while the remainder, about 5,500,000, were 35 and over.

The census also showed that in the marriageable age groups, between 20 and 34, there were more women than men in 1951 — a reversal of the 1941 situation.

A CAT-FIGHT ON THE LAWN

By Lewis Milligan

A friend sent me some back-numbers of that high-class English magazine, Country Life, which I have been browsing and browsing through in the shade of the baronial trees on the lawn of my estate, with a lazy dog at my feet, the rhododendrons in full bloom, and a lark singing on high over my broad acres. This estate and the picturesque details, by the way, are purely imaginary and based partly on the pictures of manorial mansions advertised for sale in the magazine, and chiefly on my memories of Croxteth Hall and Sandfield Park in West Derby on the outskirts of Liverpool. As a boy I had a part ownership in those estates and mansions, for I spent many happy hours wandering through their woods and over their meadows, and lying on a hillock listening in rapture to the lark scattering a fountain of passionate melody over the countryside — until it was all merged into the realms of sleep and dreams.

It was a dream-ownership, of course, but I have full rights of possession and can enter into them, especially on hot summer afternoons, with the aid of this charming review of Country Life in Old England. Which reminds me of an elderly Englishman whom I met some years ago in one of the smaller cities of Ontario. I believe he was a "remittance man" whose remittances had run-out or had been considerably reduced, so that he had difficulty in keeping up his appearance as a gentleman of means. He used to try to sell me tickets for Irish Sweepstakes, and he once told me confidentially that he had picked out an estate advertised in Country Life which he intended to buy when he got a lucky ticket. I felt sorry for him, but he seemed happy in his dream of future affluence and return to those haunts of ancient peace.

But I have wandered away from what I intended to write about in the first place. In this magazine Major C. S. Jarvis writes a column entitled, "A Countryman's Notes", in which he tells a vivid story of a cat-fight that seemed to me to present a parable of nature and human nature in the world in general. "A neighbor of mine", writes the major, "owns a large tom-cat who is very insistent about his manorial rights and has the greatest objection to trespassers on his preserves. The other morning a stray tom-cat visited the garden, and a fight took place on the lawn between the two animals which lasted for many rounds before it was stopped by the owner of the home cat. The contest had evidently been far more savage and protracted than the usual verbal encounters which take place between males of the feline species, since the newly-mown lawn was bestrewn with tufts of grey and ginger fur, and my neighbor was about to fetch a broom to clear up the unsightly litter when it became obvious that there was a fatigue party ready to perform this task for him.

"With a joyful twitter that obviously said, 'The very thing I have been hunting for everywhere', a chaffinch swooped down from a nearby tree to carry off a beakful of grey fur for the lining of her nest, with a few strands of ginger for decorative purposes. She was followed by two blue tits, a great tit and a hedge sparrow. . . Then a goldfinch and a bullfinch arrived to select some of the few wisps that remained, and when they had collected their requirements the lawn was cleared of all the untidy traces of the combat."

That is a nice little story, charmingly told, of a sudden outbreak of war in a peaceful old-world garden, with a happy and profitable ending — for the birds. The Major did not point the moral of his story, but it has a wide application to this world in general, and we can only hope and pray that the man-fights of ideas and arms will have as useful and peaceful ending as that cat-fight on the lawn.

"THINGS AN' STUFF"

Never A Dull Moment

The season that is nearly due is something to look forward to — those mellow Autumn days, although it's sad to see the Summer go.

Just think how fortunate we are! We never have to travel far, or even have to travel near, to get a change of climate here. There's no monotony at all, we have the Summer, Spring and Fall, and even Winter's not so bad as those that the old-timers had.

Indoors, protected from the storm, with maple logs to keep us warm, it's nice to entertain old friends each evening till the Winter ends, and listen to the blizzard roar while talking of the days of yore. We then have time to do some chores (the kind that can be done indoors). There's pickles on the pantry shelf (the ones that Mother made herself). There's jam and cookies on the shelves, so handy we can help ourselves. The apple barrel's standing by the cider keg, and apple pie is on the table every night. Why shouldn't we be gay and bright?

In Southern climes it's always found to be the same the whole year round, and most monotonous, but here, we get a change four times a year. Trees budding, trees in bloom, trees bare, and not a cent for railroad fare. Just stick around the seasons through. The one you like will come to you!

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt.

TOBACCO NOT SINFUL

The commission set up by the General Council of the United Church of Canada to study the tobacco question has decided that the use and distribution of tobacco is not sinful. However, the commission recommends that tobacco advertising in press and radio be kept within bounds, and that the CBC impose a strict code of rules on television advertising in order to protect Canadian homes from unwarranted intrusions into the family circle. — Marketing

Family Allowance Cheques Can 'Roost' for Future Use At the Bank of Montreal

While your Family Allowance Cheques are intended, first and foremost, to help you pay for your youngsters' day-to-day expenses, they can also be used to give them a good start in agricultural or other college courses, later in life.

If you deposit every Family Allowance cheque for one child in a B of M savings account, there will be over $1,300, including interest, in it by the time the age of 16 is reached, points out Donald Hay, Lachute's Bank of Montreal manager. And, through the years, this nest-egg will always be immediately available, should emergency or opportunity arise.

By this means you can do much to make sure that your youngsters will have every chance to earn a good living when they start their own career or when your farm is passed on to them. If you can't manage to set aside the whole cheque try to bank at least a part of it regularly. You'll find the practice will pay off in the future.

So, next time you receive your Family Allowance cheque, why not drop into the B of M and open a savings account in your youngster's name. When you do that, you'll be building security and opportunity into his or her future — and that gives any parent a wonderful feeling!

"Though travelling alone . . ."

Miss S. N., home from Europe, writes to thank her bank for the way the accountant helped her with money arrangements:

"Mr. W. expended considerable effort to arm me with details of various European currencies and methods of procedure, enabling me, though travelling alone, to avoid much of the delay and embarrassment encountered by many experienced travellers whom I met along the way. All of which contributed in no small degree to my comfort and enjoyment."

COST OF LIVING RISE

As every one who has to spend money to keep a family clothed, housed and fed knows very well, living costs are not going down. It's just about time this problem was considered of prime importance, for a very unhappy state of affairs is developing. It is now practically impossible for a wage-earner to save money.

IN MEMORIAM

BOYD — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Leonard J. Boyd, who passed away Sept. 21, 1950. — Always remembered by his wife, Blanche, Lucy, Brannan, Charles, Leonard and Nancy.

"We mention your name
And speak of you often
God bless you, dear Leonard
You are never forgotten."

BOYD — In loving memory of a dear brother, Leonard J. Boyd, who passed away Sept. 21, 1950. — Ever remembered by his brother, Alex, sister-in-law, Elsie, Samuel, Lucy, Laureen and Judy, of New Jersey.

"Four years have passed since that sad day
When our great sorrow fell,
The shock that we received that day
We remember well.
Your end came sudden, you made us cry,
But the saddest part of all —
You never said 'goodbye'!"

DISTRICT NEWS FROM OUR COUNTY CORRESPONDENTS

Brownsburg

Sympathy is extended to Mr. T. G. Pasco and other relatives of the late Albert Pasco, who passed away last week.

Mrs. John Mason, Mrs. P. MacAdam and Mrs. N. E. Smillie spent Tuesday in Montreal.

Dr. Sydney Hillyer, of Toronto, was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Morrison.

Mr. R. G. Tomalty, of Hamilton, visited Mrs. Robert Tomalty and other relatives here this week.

Miss Ruby Eastman, of Cornwall, spent the week-end with friends here.

Women's Groups

The regular monthly meetings of the Women's Missionary Society and the Women's Association reopened last week, both being held in the United Church hall. At the meeting of the Senior Women's Association final arrangements were made for the harvest supper to be held next Wednesday, September 24.

Cushing West

Mr. Frank Rowan, who has been spending the summer as the guest of Mr. Leonard Young, returned to New York last week.

Guests of Mrs. Wm. Usher on Monday included Mrs. D. M. McLeod, of Alexandria, Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Irvine, of Williamstown, and the Rev. and Mrs. Robertson Millar, of Martintown, Ont.

Mrs. T. W. Weir, and Mrs. A. Stalker and family, are spending this week at Lac Marois.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Prior entertained a party of friends from Montreal at their cottage on Sunday.

Miss Helen Rayson, of Montreal, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rayson.

Best wishes of this community are extended to Mr. and Mrs. C. Edgerton and son, Bobby, formerly of Maniwaki, who are residing in the former manse here, which they purchased early in the summer.

Miss M. Whelehan is the guest of her sister, Mrs. R. Funcheon, at Monalea.

Arundel

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Simon spent the week-end at their cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cooke, accompanied by Mrs. T. Sevigny and young son, were at their cottage over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. James and family were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Staniforth.

Women's Institute

The Women's Institute met last Wednesday evening in the school auditorium with the president, Mrs. P. Staniforth, in the chair. Final plans were discussed for the variety concert to be held October 25. The convener, Mrs. E. A. Bulley, reported she had secured a group of professional artists who will make up the program.

On conclusion of the business, the meeting was turned over to the convener for the evening, Mrs. Robert Allan, who introduced as her speaker Judge Nicholson. The latter gave an enlightening talk on the functioning of the Social Welfare Juvenile Delinquency Court, afterwards answering questions put to him by the members. The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Douglas Cooke, and the president called on Mayor R. B. Henry to address the meeting. The attendance was augmented by quite a number of gentlemen as invited guests.

The October meeting will be taken by the Home Economics convener, who will have as her guest speaker Mr. Henry Cavill, president of the Optimist Club, who will discuss "Boys' Work and Economy".

It is reported that both Mrs. May and Mrs. Newton are on the sick list, the former having met with a slight accident. Friends wish them a speedy recovery.

Athletic Association

The A.A.A.A. are holding their first meeting and election of officers on Tuesday evening, and plan to commence their winter activities the first of next month.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Scharf and son, Bruce, of Ottawa, were week-end guests of Mrs. G. C. Conway.

Friends of Mrs. Mary Steele regret to hear that she is under medical treatment in the Smiths' Clinic at Hawkesbury; hopes are extended for her speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Mimee are spending Tuesday and Wednesday of this week in Montreal.

We Thought We'd Had it!

When The Watchman carried on last year, uninterrupted, while the old frame building was pulled down over our heads — we thought we had endured the worst! But it seems there's always something just a little more disturbing, to add zip to that old gag "The show must go on".

This week both The Watchman and L'Argenteuil appear on schedule, though they are published to the frenzied staccato of an air-drill, and under a thick coating of white dust — the upheaval this time being the excavation of our cement floor, to construct a pit under a new press.

With this press, purchased from a daily publication in the Eastern Townships, it is hoped to facilitate our work and to provide for expansion of our two journals in the future. But be it noted, this new stage of transition is not without some difficulty and disturbance in the publishing routine.

Mrs. Kay Champagne, Miss Hilda Page and Mr. Robert Young, also Miss M. Bigelow, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Page last week-end.

Mrs. Joseph Provencal is progressing favorably after her operation at Dr. Kelly's Hospital, at Hawkesbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stewart and Mrs. Clarence McMahon attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Fred McVicar in Vankleek Hill last Saturday.

Sermon Topic

What is the most important question ever asked? A Montreal newspaper recently claimed in an editorial that the most vital question facing us is, "Will Russia Start a World War?" In his message for next Sunday morning, the student pastor of the Harrington United Church will present what God says is the greatest question confronting us, and will give the Lord's answer to it. The subject, "The A-B-C's of Eternal Life".

Seek Subscribing Members for Local Cancer Society

The local branch of the Canadian Cancer Society is now active, a number of meetings having been held and plans being underway for their membership drive, from October 1 to 8.

As mentioned in previous articles, their object is to obtain more members for the Lachute branch. The group are anxious to render assistance wherever necessary, and it is only by an increased number of members that they will be able to continue their good work. They are anxious to educate both young and old in the dangers of this disease, and they are willing to arrange talks and show films whenever arrangements can be made. Considerable work has already been done by extending assistance to cancer patients, but there still remains a great deal more to be done, and it is only through the wholehearted co-operation of members in this community that the work can be carried on.

It is hoped that as many as possible will enroll as members of this organization and give support to its endeavors, by sending their remittances to the treasurer, Mr. W. M. Steeves, c/o Bank of Nova Scotia, Lachute. A remittance of $1 or more gives membership in this Society.

Colorful Foods in Autumn Season

What a colorful array! Orange, green, crimson, gold — food counters blaze with fall fruits and vegetables! Bring autumn to your table with some of these gypsy-colored foods nature has painted with such reckless abandon, and make the most of them while there is still a good supply. The home economists of the Department of Agriculture remind us that there is just time for one final corn-roast before the corn gets too old and mealy — and before fall evenings get too chilly for outdoor meals.

Good hot meals will be appreciated after months of salads and cold plates. Fall vegetables, like cauliflower topped with a creamy cheese sauce, golden buttered carrots, plump onions cooked to tender goodness and rosy-red broiled tomatoes, satisfy this need for more substantial meals. Serve fall vegetables creamed or in casseroles, or try them stuffed — most fall vegetables, like peppers, onions, eggplant, tomatoes and, later on, squash, are improved with a tasty stuffing.

In using up the odds and ends of the fall vegetable crop, do not forget green tomatoes. They are wonderful for chow-chow and Green Tomato Relish, but they also make tempting casserole dishes, for instance, Red and Green Tomato Scallop. This would be served as a vegetable with the meal.

Red and Green Casserole

3 Medium green tomatoes, 3 medium red tomatoes, 1 large onion (sliced), 2 tablespoons fat, 2 teaspoons sugar, ½ cup dry bread crumbs, salt and pepper, 1 tablespoon butter.

Peel and slice tomatoes. Sauté onion in hot fat until lightly browned, about 5 minutes. Arrange half the red and green tomatoes, onions and bread crumbs in layers in a greased 6-cup casserole, sprinkling the tomatoes with sugar, salt and pepper. Repeat arrangement with remaining half of ingredients. Dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., twenty minutes or until vegetables are tender. Yield: four to six servings.

Everyone has used cucumbers in salads, but did you know you could fry them, boil them, or scallop them? Here are two cooked cucumber dishes that will add distinction to any meal.

Stuffed Cucumbers

6 Cucumbers (about 6 inches long), 2 cups sausage meat (about 1 pound), ⅔ cup finely chopped celery leaves, ⅓ cup chopped onions, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon sage, 2 cups soft stale bread crumbs.

Cut cucumbers in half lengthwise, remove seeds and soft portion with a spoon. Cook cucumbers in boiling salted water for 10 minutes. Drain well. Brown sausage meat in a hot frying pan. Add seasonings and crumbs and mix well together. Pile stuffing in cucumber shells. Place in a greased baking dish and bake in a hot oven, 400°F., for 35 minutes, or until the cucumbers are tender. Yield: six servings. These cucumbers are delicious served with baked or scalloped potatoes.

Creamed Cucumbers

3 Medium cucumbers, 3 tablespoons mild-flavored fat, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, 1¼ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, dash of mace.

Wash and peel cucumbers. Cut in half lengthwise. Scoop out soft pulp and seeds with a spoon. Cut cucumbers in ¼" slices. Melt 2 tablespoons fat in pan. Sauté cucumbers in it for 5 minutes, tossing constantly. Make cream sauce of remaining fat and other ingredients. Add cucumbers, reheat and serve. Yield: six servings.

One fall fruit which is nearing the end of its season is peaches. Make the most of them in tantalizing desserts while they last — right now some of the more substantial desserts, like a glistening crusty-topped Peach Cobbler, will be appreciated. Make it with sweetened biscuit dough dropped on top of peeled peach halves and baked in a hot oven. The home economists suggest that peaches need very little sweetening and brown sugar adds more flavor than white. For a spicy touch add a little cinnamon or stick whole cloves into the peaches.

Here is a peach dessert that is a little more unusual. It is called Peach Fritters. To make the fritters, peel peaches, remove the pits, and cut in half. Sprinkle with a little brown sugar, then dip into a sweetened regular fritter batter. Fry a few at a time until delicately browned — three to five minutes — in deep fat, 365°F., then remove them and drain on crumpled ungreased paper. Serve hot.

Afternoon Program For Women

Elizabeth Long, Supervisor of Women's Interests for the CBC, has announced a new series of 45-minute programs entitled "Trans-Canada Matinee", starting September 29. The programs will appeal to afternoon listeners and will include discussions, talks and news on current topics of interest, along with music and a few helpful hints for housewives. Miss Long has figured prominently in promoting the interests of Canadian women. For many years she has had considerable experience in the field of journalism and in national women's groups, and several of her articles have appeared in leading magazines.

School Fairs Now Major Project of Women's Institutes

This is the season of school fairs. Branches of the Quebec Women's Institutes have already sponsored many such events. "84 children, 262 exhibits", says the report from just one branch, a story that can be repeated in varying degrees many times before the end of this month.

School fairs are a major project of the W.I. and are carried on through the committee on Agriculture. Garden seeds are furnished free to school children in the spring, their plots, which are their own charge, are judged during the summer, and the produce brought together for an exhibit in the fall. Cooking and sewing sections are added for variety and often woodwork and other forms of crafts.

Local agronomes are always most co-operative in this project, advising the youthful gardeners on the care of their plots and acting as judges for them and at the fair in the fall, assisted at the latter time by the Q.W.I. technicians. Sports add to the fun at the fair, and picnic lunches are the order of the day, with the whole family attending. "Better than the county fair", is a comment often heard.

Some of the older fairs have been carried on for more than 30 years, and as new branches are formed the value of this project has been recognized, until now there are approximately 21 such fairs sponsored by W.I. groups, many of them on a county basis with participation by all branches in that district.

COLOR IN THE KITCHEN

Spots of color in the kitchen are becoming larger and more numerous, and housewives are becoming more and more interested in the decorative scheme of what is one of the most important departments of the domestic "plant". A large manufacturer of gas and electric cooking ranges reports that nearly 40 per cent of ranges sold are in color. He introduced color three years ago and now has a line of seven pastels.

ENGLISH PRE-FAB HOUSES FOR CANADA

London — A $100,000 order for 28 factory-built houses, to be supplied to Canada in crates, has been received by a firm in Lincoln, England. The houses incorporate the following main features: two or three bedrooms, living room with dining recess, kitchen, bathroom and basement, and built-in clothes closets in all rooms; glass fibre insulation, storm windows and screens; and Canadian-type plumbing. The first four houses will go to Ajax, near Toronto, and the remaining 24 to Gander, Nfld.

MOTHER WOULD ACT

The purveyors of this (newsstand) trash were to be prosecuted according to the Act which went through parliament. But how many prosecutions have there been? Those entrusted with the carrying out of the act seem to be bogged down with the problem of what is good and what is bad. It would not take the average mother long to decide the question.

— Grenfell (Sask.) Sun

A city youth speading his vacation working on a farm was discovered one morning stuffing a small, squealing pig into a bucket, and muttering, "It's a miracle!"

"What are you trying to do?" demanded the farmer. "And what's a miracle?"

"I can't figure it out", said the city fellow. "This pig just drank two buckets of milk, and I put him into the bucket and he doesn't even half fill it!"

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

The Tattle-Tale

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"Tattle-tale tit!
Your tongue shall split!
All the dogs in our town
Shall have a bit of it!"

How many children have chanted this taunt!

The tale bearer is anything but popular with his friends! They despise him because he renounces his kinship with his own age group and goes over to the side of grown-ups. But they also dislike him and fear him. What if his report starts an inquiry which ends up in punishment to the offenders?

"Our teacher doesn't let us do any tattling in our room, and I don't think you should allow Junior to go wailing to you about every little thing. Why don't you stamp on him?" big brother asks beligerently.

Mother wonders if this is the thing to do — it sounds like a simple solution. But is it right in every case? What does a parent do when his child comes to him with a story about another's wrong doing? Many mothers and fathers feel uncomfortable and perplexed when this happens.

They are not sure whether they should refuse to listen to the tale bearer at all and scold him for approaching them as well. Or should they hear the report to its end? Perhaps a brother or sister has been up to some more or less serious mischief which should be attended to at once. Maybe a small boy or girl is being bullied by a larger, stronger child, and "telling" seems to be the only way to seek protection.

Naturally a parent is curious as to whether or not the story is correct. Every person colors his recitation of an event to some extent by his own reaction to it. Instead of being true or false, likely it is somewhere in between. By a few skilful questions, by checking on the answers, and by taking time to hear the other person's version of the incident, a parent can usually discover if the story is right. Christine may complain that Patty has broken the leg off her dolly . . . but maybe both little girls were having a tug-of-war for possession of it!

If a child is maliciously lying about another child, he should learn that this just "isn't done!" To a little child, a regard for the "truth" may not be very clear. Nevertheless, he must not make up damaging stories.

A child who lies about another in order to get him into trouble likely has a deep sense of hostility against this other child. This may not arise from one incident, but from a succession of small squabbles, in which the tattling child has been defeated. The tattling child is a child in trouble — in trouble with himself and in trouble with others. A parent will want to find out why there is this antagonism and see if anything can be done to promote a better relationship between the two youngsters.

Once in a while a child neither feels hostile nor resentful to the child against whom he is talking. He may not even know him very well. Perhaps he saw a child a couple of blocks away, abusing a pussy. Although he has been allowed no pet of his own, he has continued to ask for one. He has been taught animals should be treated kindly. As he recounts the other child's cruelty, he is saying to himself — "I would never act in this way — I would be good to my little cat — why, oh why, will Mummy not let me have a pussy of my very own?"

Parents have to guard against jumping to conclusions or getting "all wrought up". There is no truer proverb than "there are two sides to every question." An "informer" must learn that he is responsible for his own actions, not his brother's, or sister's, or a neighbor's child.

Many families have found that a regular Family Council has greatly diminished tattle-tale activities within the home circle. If a boy or girl has a complaint to make, he must have patience and state it there.

He will be more careful of his facts, if the person against whom he is reporting, is on the other side of the circle, ready to defend his actions. The knowledge that wrong-doing will likely be discussed at a Family Council session also strengthens a child's resistance to temptation. It puts a check on bullying, or greediness, or carelessness or any other small irritations which poison a peaceful atmosphere.

Whether it is at a Family Council or in a private talk, mother or dad can usually "get it across" to the tattling child that everyone has to work towards the goal of Happy Living Together. Constant tale bearing is no help to happiness. But if a wrong must be told, the parent and the children concerned can together try to see how it happened, what can be done about it and how that particular offence can be avoided in the future.

Billy may tattle that Tom broke the neighbor's garage window — but perhaps Billy refused to go with Tom to play ball at the park! Tom can discover that he takes the sting out of Billy's story if, "on his own steam" he tells the neighbor that he broke the glass and with his Dad's help he will repair the damage.

It is easier to repair windows than it is to mend broken relationships! The tattle tale cuts himself off from his friends.

As parents we must encourage our children to face up to their own small troubles themselves. They must learn to "take it on the chin". At the same time, if a child is deeply perplexed or terribly upset he should always feel free to go to mother and dad and talk things over. A lot of first steps in juvenile delinquency are avoided if the adolescent trusts mother or dad sufficiently to confide in them.

Sometimes tale-bearing is in self-defence! But it's a wise parent who helps a child to resist the urge to tattle, with few exceptions, "I'll tell my mother on you!" is the cry of a little child who cannot quite cope with his small world. Our children all want to "grow up!" Let us do all we can to encourage them to leave tale-bearing strictly alone.

Picture News from C-I-L

SEEM STRANGE to be putting anti-freeze in your car now? Actually it's the thing to do. Some drivers use it as a coolant all year round. Anti-freeze has a higher boiling point than water, yet when the cold comes it's a protection against freezing. You can get protection right down to 62° below with C-I-L Ethylene Glycol Anti-Freeze.

FAMILY PICNICS are fun when you can all hop into the car and drive to out-of-the-way spots easily. To help motorists get the most out of driving, the chemical industry supplies Tetraethyl Lead which increases the anti-knock property of gasoline and helps make today's standard gas far superior to the premium gasoline of yesterday.

"OPERATION ALUMINUM" is the fitting term applied to the industry's huge expansion program in British Columbia. In road-building, tunnelling and construction, indispensable assistants to development are the modern explosives supplied by C-I-L.

Sees Canadian Agriculture in the Doldrums

Pro and Con of the Large Farm Unit, Mechanization, Exodus of Manpower

Argenteuil Agriculturist Answers Academicians

The lawyer in the court room, the doctor in the ward, the weaver at his loom, and the golfer on the sward, the prisoner in his cell, and his jailer too, as well — are all sustained on this their earthly pilgrimage by the "farmer in the dell", of the old nursery rhyme.

The farmer is the direct lineal descendant of the ancient hunters who sought food for their tribe or family. And woe to the huntsman who failed in the chase, for his family probably starved.

Big machines on the farms today, to be economically operated require very large farms. The farms are becoming larger, and fewer and fewer farmers must face the burden of feeding humanity.

That the loss in numbers of farmers is felt, in spite of modern machines, is indicated by the fact that there are fewer cattle on the farms than there were several years ago.

The industrial revolution of over 100 years ago also displaced manpower and brought down on humanity the thunder of one Karl Marx. The reverberation of that thunder, which has split humanity into two hostile camps, echoes still.

Likewise, the agricultural revolution going on today in our land, is adding fuel to the fires of agrarian discontent.

Most academic agronomists condone the changing farm picture.

Unfit as I am, intellectually, to cross swords with the editor of the Macdonald College Journal, I cannot let pass unchallenged his remark that fewer farm operators, and larger farms, will mean more money for those that remain on the land, and therefore the exodus of our youth from the farms is a good thing in a way. Professor Barr of the Kemptville College also supports the modern trend and gives it his unequivocal approbation and benediction, regretting only the departure of the finest brains from the farm.

I agree with them that the large farm unit and modern mechanization are the most efficient way of conducting our agriculture, but I contend that farming needs most all its youth today, also that morally it is wrong for so many of our youth to have to leave the countryside, to make way for larger farms and more concentration of wealth in the hands of those that remain.

Do we want our agriculture to fall into the hands of millionaires? Do we want it to drift into the maw of totalitarianism or onto the shoals of socialism — which I am forced to believe is its ultimate destination if the tendency continues.

The poor yeomanry of England manned the fleets of Elizabeth the Great.

The last-ditch defenders of the old system in Russia were the farmers, and many paid with their lives for their audacity.

The hard work of the farm, the general apathy of the public towards our farmers, combined with the modern trend, are driving our English-speaking farmers of Quebec from the land.

Over many a pleasant plain, over many a beautiful valley, the happy cries of English-speaking children at play, re-echo no longer on the still evening air. Upton, in the Eastern Townships, was once completely English - Canadian; now there is not one left and even the bones in the cemetery have been transported to Actonvale. Yes, our French-Canadian compatriots and friends know better. They are striving to keep their youths on the farm, and are succeeding much better than we.

Some of the finest farms in this County of Argenteuil were developed by men whose book learning was practically nil.

In Saskatchewan, probably the most scientifically advanced of our provinces in agriculture, what do we see? We see a decline in population over a 10-year period. We also see a socialist government in power.

Canadian agriculture is in the doldrums, in spite of the pious platitudes of the professors. The professor in the cloistered walls of his college, with plenty of public money to indulge his latest whims, has lost touch with practical agriculture. (The professor himself probably left the farm years ago, to escape drudgery and hard work.)

Some time ago I read where 10 husky farm youths entered college to specialize in sociology. "No more farming for us", they said. As though Canada desperately needed sociologists! And so the farms are impoverished of their youth.

Many of our ablest citizens who should be laboring hard for society are doing practically nothing. An article in the Reader's Digest accused the English-speaking people of South Africa of making easy money in the cities whilst the Boers and the Blacks fed them. If we do not want an analagous condition in Quebec, let us keep our youth on the farms, as Jean Baptiste is doing, and not have him feeding us altogether.

Shade of Robbie Burns, darling of old Scotia! — you turned the sod of your beloved Ayr, that man might live on the morrow. You herded the same cattle we herd today. You believed the honest man to be the noblest work of God; so do we. You believed in the approaching brotherhood of man; so do we. But that time is long a-coming and sometimes we lose patience.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you: —

Q. I was working for two employers and earning a total of $50.00 a week. I lost one of these jobs. The second employer is paying me only $20.00 a week. Am I entitled to draw benefit because of having lost one of these jobs?

A. No. You are not unemployed.

Q. Can a person who is receiving a pension from the Canadian National Railways draw unemployment insurance benefits?

A. A person in receipt of a pension is not debarred from receiving unemployment insurance benefit because of his pension so long as he is able and willing to accept suitable employment when offered.

• • •

Q. We are two brothers and both of us are unemployed at present. We both contribute to the upkeep of our mother, a widow. Can we both draw benefit as persons with a dependent?

A. No. Benefit at the dependency rate is paid to a son only when he is wholly or mainly maintaining his mother. Obviously you and your brother cannot both fulfil this requirement.

Canadians in Korea Clad for Climate

Canadian troops in Korea are feeling the advantages of the long-established ability of the Canadian textile industry to produce for varying climatic conditions.

The Canucks have for some time been the envy of all troops in the theatre with their natty bush jackets, worn with olive-colored summer shirts. And their summer trousers have been described as "very comfortable" in warm weather.

Now the army is getting ready for winter, which in Korea varies almost as much as in Canada. All British troops will soon be wearing Canadian-type string vests of cellular cotton, and new parkas are being cut more along Canadian lines. The Canadian version of a good sleeping bag, with an inner washable bag that can be removed for cleaning, is coming more and more into use too.

Fall Transplanting Of Evergreen Seedlings

Due to circumstances beyond his control the farmer is frequently unable to plant, in the spring of the year, the evergreen seedlings that he receives from the Forest Nursery Station, says J. Wilner, of Indian Head, Sask. He is faced that year with the dilemma of either planting the properly heeled-in evergreens in the fall; storing them over winter; or leaving them heeled in, until the following spring.

Studies made at the Forest Station on the effect of fall transplanting on survival of Blue and White Spruces, and Scotch Pine, have indicated no great injurious effect from fall transplanting of these evergreens as compared with spring planting. This was especially noted in the case of the spruces. The optimum time for fall transplanting of evergreens at the nursery was found in 1950 and 1951 to be between August 7 and 23. Further investigations will be needed, however, to substantiate the findings of these preliminary studies.

No evidence has been found yet to indicate that survival of evergreens following fall transplanting was superior to those planted in the spring. Fall planting is only recommended as an alternative to spring planting when the latter cannot be completed. An adequate soil moisture supply is essential, however, if fall planting of evergreen seedlings is to be successful.

Delegates of 48 Parliaments Assemble At Ottawa; Consciousness of Need for Immigration on Commonwealth Basis

One More Member to Each Family and Canada's Population Could Soon Be Doubled

By ALAN DONNELLY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Sept. 16 (CP) — Parliament Hill became the forum last week for a wide and free discussion of the issues facing the Commonwealth.

The 41-year-old Commonwealth Parliamentary Association, with delegates from 48 parliaments, met in Canada for the first time since 1928. The topics ranged over immigration, economic and financial relations, international affairs and defence.

The discussions were frank — the speakers included both government supporters and opposition members from the various parliaments, and the meetings were held privately. The association adopts no resolutions for governments back home.

Many of the proposals, made public in daily summaries, seemed pointed toward the forthcoming Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London in November.

Population Factor

A commission to study immigration on a Commonwealth basis was urged by Hector Hughes, Labor member of the United Kingdom parliament. Hon. Jules Koenig of Mauritius said the London meeting might help to solve immigration problems.

A fundamental approach to the problems of over-populated and under-populated countries was suggested by T. G. D. Galbraith, Conservative member of the U.K. government. He urged family control, rather than mass migration.

If each family in India were to reduce its size by one, the population of that crowded country would decrease by 50,000,000 in one generation, he said. If Canada were to add one member to each family, it could soon double its population.

Trade and economic problems were also laid at the doorstep of the prime ministers' conference. D. Heathcoat-Amory, Britain's Minister of Pensions, said he hopes the London meeting will discuss the need for more investment money for the development of Commonwealth production.

Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson opened the conference a few hours before flying overseas for talks with North Atlantic Treaty Organization leaders in London and Paris.

He urged constructive policies to resist the threat of the reactionary right or the communist left. Whatever its label, the threat was the same. "Under whatever name it masquerades, it is as old and repulsive as tyranny itself."

No Border For Civil Defence

A United States civil defence expert told an Ottawa conference that planning for civil defence must go ahead "as though no boundary line existed."

Alden E. Bevier, director of civil defence welfare services for New York State, spoke at a national Civil Defence welfare conference. He said joint planning between the two countries was not "just another international gesture."

"When we say that we need you and that we think you will need us, we are in dead earnest. The test exercise in Niagara Falls, N.Y., last month made our mutual dependence very clear.

"Thousands of people theoretically would have suffered and died had it not been possible for New Yorkers to cross into Ontario and for Canadian aid to come across into New York."

FOREIGN HUNTER?

Winnipeg (CP) — Canadian ducks are better known than some people think. Ducks Unlimited here reported they received and answered a request for information on ducks from Maad Khaldi of Aleppo, Syria.

A Canadian engineer, Sir Sandford Fleming, invented the Standard Time system in 1878 and about 40 years later an English builder, William Willet, proposed the idea of Daylight Saving Time.

"AWAKE!"

"NOW IT IS HIGH TIME TO AWAKE." — ROMANS 13: 11

"Behold, a king shall reign in righteousness, and princes shall rule in justice." (Isa. 32:1, AS). These heartening words point to the administration of a righteous government, now at hand. Without here questioning the motives of many who have held public office in an effort to benefit their fellow men, all will acknowledge that such have been in the minority and their efforts have brought no permanent blessings. How thrilling, then, to point to God's kingdom and its servants, the "princes", whose rule is for the honor of God and the blessing of all its subjects! The just rule of these "princes", under the King of righteousness, Christ Jesus, is now being announced.

"At the name of Jesus every knee shall bow". — Read Philippians, 2nd Chapter, verses 5 to 11.

Is it not now high time to Awake and get acquainted with God's wonderful promises which He gives us in His word, the Bible — and learn the true meaning of the things we see coming on the earth. — Send in your subscription to this wonderful magazine called "Awake". The price is only $1 per year; twice monthly. — Write Jehovah's Witnesses, 40 Irwin Ave., Toronto, Ont.

County W.I. Branches In Month of September

Lakefield Women's Institute reports six members present at the September meeting. There was a discussion on ways and means of raising funds for the W.I. The roll-call was, "Name a health rule". A card party is to be held later on.

Arundel had 21 members present, and several visitors. The guest speaker, Judge Nicholson, spoke of his work with the Social Welfare Court. This meeting was planned by the convener of Health and Welfare, Mrs. R. Allen.

Brownsburg had an attendance of 32. Fire Chief Arthur Robbins gave a talk on "Fire Prevention in the Home". Articles which were shown at the Central Canada Exhibition, Ottawa, were on display — two prizes having been won. 45 Articles of handicraft were also on display at the School Fair in Lachute.

Pioneer branch had discussions on finishing a rose quilt; and a letter was read from Mrs. Moore, of Coventry, England, thanking the branch for a parcel sent in July. $5 was voted to the school fair, and $5 for prizes at Lachute High School.

Jerusalem-Bethany had 11 members present. A parcel was sent overseas. The ladies planned a sight-seeing tour. A paper was read on "Education in Great Britain and Canada".

At Upper Lachute - East End, a very interesting talk was given by Mrs. S. Istvanffy, R.N., on "Emotional Ills". The branch catered for a wedding supper. A large number of members attended the School Fair.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Ministerial Association

The Argenteuil Protestant Ministerial Association will meet n the hall of the Presbyteran Church, Lachute, at 10 a.m. on Wednesday, September 24. The Rev. Dr. W. H. Reid will give a lecture illustrated by films. All ministers are welcome to attend.

Attending 75th Jubilee Celebration of Anglican Theological College

The Rev. G. T. Spriggs is in Toronto attending the 75th Jubilee Celebration of Wycliffe College.

Among those taking part in the proceedings are the Primate (Archbishop W. Barfoot); the Rev. Canon T. W. Isherwood, of Halifax; Bishop A. H. Sovereign; the Rev. Dr. T. R. Millman; the Rev. Dr. Armitage; the Hon. W. J. Dunlop; the Very Rev. W. R. Matthews, Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, England; Archbishop R. J. Renison; and Bishop J. Lofthouse.

Thank-Offering Service Of Baptist W.M.S.

The annual Thank-Offering service of the Women's Mission Circle of Lachute Baptist Church will be held on Thursday, September 25, at 8 o'clock.

Special speaker will be Pastor Wm. Phillips, of the Ville Emard Baptist Church, Montreal. Mrs. Phillips, who was a teacher at the LaSarre French Protestant School, will relate some of her experiences while serving in that area during the 1951-52 term.

Pastor and Mrs. Phillips are both gifted musicians and will play special selections on the violin, saw and accordian.

Refreshments will be served at the close, and a cordial invitation is extended to all to attend.

Argenteuil County Bible Rally

On September 30 the new Revised Standard Version of the Bible is to be published, and 3,000 Rallies are being held throughout Canada. In Argenteuil County the Rally will be on the above date, at 8 p.m. in the Lachute United Church. The Rev. Dr. W. H. Reid is the special speaker. Representatives from the principal parts of the county will be present. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Lachute W.I. Tenders Reception for Teachers

The September meeting of the Lachute W.I. was held in the Legion Hall on Tuesday, the hall and tea tables being decorated with autumn flowers. The president, Mrs. A. Taylor, was in the chair.

Reports were heard from various committees. Mrs. George Muir and Mrs. George McGibbon, who were appointed delegates to the provincial convention at Macdonald College in June, gave an interesting review of their trip.

Five ladies from this branch were guests of the Ottawa Exhibition Committee and attended the annual tea given for W.I. members in the assembly hall. Mrs. Geo. Y. Deacon gave an interesting report on this experience.

Mrs. A. G. Leggett mentioned that Lachute Section of the Canadian Cancer Society is holding its membership drive for local welfare work from October 1 to 8.

At the conclusion of the meeting the annual reception for the teachers of Lachute High School was held. Mrs. Taylor welcomed the teachers, hoping that the newcomers to the school staff would get to know the community quickly. A group of student teachers accompanied the L.H.S. staff members. Principal F. H. J. Royal in a few well chosen words thanked the ladies for their kindly gesture.

The October meeting will be under the convenership of Miss L. Stalker, and guest speaker will be Mr. J. S. Giles.

Former Lachute Couple Observe 40th Anniversary

Saturday afternoon, September 13, was the occasion of a happy gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Minshall, of Pointe Claire, in celebration of the 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Amos N. McVicar, former Lachute residents now living at Lachine.

The honored couple received many gifts, accompanied by congratulations and good wishes, their two grandchildren, little Miss Alexa and Master Rickey Kidney, presenting them with flowers.

Their three daughters, who arranged the reception, were present — Mrs. Arthur Kidney, St. Lambert; Mrs. Don Montgomery, Washington, D.C.; and Mrs. Ross Ullathorne, St. Lambert.

Others present were Mr. A. Kidney, Mr. R. Ullathorne, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. C. Kidney, Laval West, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hammond, Hawkesbury, Mr. J. S. Giles, and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Giles, Lachute.

Appreciation was expressed by Mr. McVicar for the kindness shown them, especially to Mr. and Mrs. Minshall for the hospitality of their home, and to the family for the buffet supper so daintly served.

Of 17 persons attending their wedding, 10 have passed on; two were absent on Saturday and five, including themselves, were present.

Tigers Ousted Valleyfield In Eliminations

Lachute-St. Jerome Now In Semi-Finals of Laurentide League

Sunday clinched the Lachute-Valleyfield series for the local Tigers, who chalked up their fourth victory here in the fifth game of the scheduled seven.

St. Jerome meanwhile eliminated St. Eustache, while in the Joliette-Montreal East circuit, the former team took the honors, their decisive game being a 5-2 victory on Tuesday.

Lachute is now meeting St. Jerome in a best-four-of-seven series, the first of which was staged here Tuesday (Lachute 7, St. Jerome 4), with the second game billed for tonight, also at Lachute Stadium. The third game is at St. Jerome on Saturday.

The winner of this round will meet the victors of the Joliette-Montreal East series, in the finals for the championship of the Laurentide Baseball League.

The drawing for a Champion television set given by Lacoste & Ampleman, of Champion Television Co., will take place this Sunday, September 21, at the Lachute Stadium. This drawing was organized to help your baseball team.

Nearly 2,000 new television stations may be licensed soon in the United States because television scientists and engineers, led by a team from the Radio Corporation of America, found that an estimated 70 channels in the upper regions of the air waves could be used for Ultra-High-Frenquency telecasts.

With Hockey In Prospect

"SPORTS CAMERA"
By Gerry Lougheed
Canada Press Staff Writer

Milt Schmidt, Boston Bruins' veteran centre star, would like to play on another Stanley Cup team before he hangs up his skates.

Now 34, Milt talked like an evergreen rookie this month when he signed his 14th contract with the National Hockey League club.

His 13 seasons with the Bruins brought Milt most of the honors any player could hope for — being on two Stanley Cup teams (in 1939 and 1941), the individual scoring championship (in 1940), the Hart Trophy (most valuable player to his team) in 1951 and centre on the N.H.L. No. 1 All-Star team for three years (1940, '47 and '51).

Schmidt, teamed with Woody Dumart and Bobby Bauer, centred the Kitchener Line of the late '30's which became one of the league's top-scoring units. They all enlisted in the armed services in 1942 and were out of hockey for three years.

Soon after the war Bauer retired in Kitchener, Ont. — they all came from there — for business reasons. Dumart and Schmidt stayed on with the Bruins but only Schmidt, defying the years, retained his brilliance.

Powerful Line

Last season Milt still centred Boston's No. 1 and despite numerous injuries scored 21 goals and 29 assists for 50 points during the regular schedule. Dumart, mainly relegated to utility spots, counted only five goals and seven assists.

Schmidt centred for two youngsters who had played with the Barrie, Ont., juniors the previous year, Real Chevrefils and Leo Labine, and is looking forward to teaming with them again this season.

"I'll have young legs playing with me", he said as he signed his contract.

"Chevrefils and Labine will dig that puck out for me just like Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe did for Sid Abel and the Detroit Red Wings. They helped the Wings win the Stanley Cup and a similar combination can do it for the Bruins."

Incidentally, Schmidt — now that Turk Broda (38) has retired from the Toronto Maple Leafs — will be the league's oldest player in point of service.

Though he'll be the patriarch of the N.H.L., we'll wager no opposing players will take any liberties with him. Schmidt, in our books, is the most rugged performer in the loop. He plays it rough and asks no quarter.

"Farming No Longer Occupation Just for Men With Strong Backs"...

TIMELY TOPICS FOR FARM FORUMS

If you were deciding what career you wanted to follow, would you choose farming?

"Farming is no longer an occupation just for men with strong backs", Floyd Griesbach, National Farm Forum Secretary, said recently in an interview. "Farming has become a highly skilled profession. That is why National Farm Radio Forum will focus attention this fall on many problems involved in farming as an occupation."

The new season gets under way November 3 with a broadcast on "Farming as a Career" which will be heard on the CBC Trans-Canada network. This will be followed on November 10 by "Farm Women in Public Life", and on November 17 by the topic "Are We Over-Mechanized?"

Later in the season topics of special interest will be: "Why Price Supports?"; "The Cost of Marketing"; "How to Use Farm Credit"; "Is Equality in Education Possible?"

About 30,000 farm people meet regularly on Monday nights to take part in Farm Forum discussions, according to Mr. Griesbach.

Lowe's "Braves" Take Softball Semi-Finals

In a double-header engagement last Sunday, Lowe Bros' Braves met and defeated the Lachute Lions in the semi-final round of the Argenteuil Softball League — thus taking a two-out-of-three supremacy, eliminating the Lions, and qualifying to meet St. Andrews East in the grand final. Scores in the two games were 3-1 and 14-7.

The final round is scheduled to commence Sunday, September 28.

The closing event of the season is set for October 23, when W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., has consented to present the Boyd championship trophy at a soirée in the St. Andrews Inn. (Tickets are now available at the Sport Shop, Rio Building, Lachute, or from the team captains.)

At breakfast the man of the house was on the defensive.

"Well", he said to his wife, "you can't say I made any noise coming home last night."

"No", she agreed, "but the three men who were carrying you did."

Canadian Ace in Korea Air War

Ottawa (CP) — A Canadian pilot in Korea is rapidly shaping up as an ace. Flt. Lt. Ernest Glover of Leaside, Ont., is one of a half-dozen R.C.A.F. pilots serving with the U.S. Air Force to gain experience.

In two days he destroyed two Red MIGs, the first one without shooting when he outmanoeuvred the Red pilot and forced him to crash. In addition he has damaged three other Communist planes in little more than two months. The bag total of the six Canadians is five destroyed, two probably destroyed and damaged.

Fighter planes have been Flt. Lt. Glover's stock-in-trade. In the Second World War he flew Hurricanes for the R.A.F. until shot down by German anti-aircraft fire in 1943 and taken prisoner. Now the 29-year-old flier is aboard Sabre jets.

A pound of ice occupies more space than a pound of water.

Engineers Remove Doubt on Town Water Supply Alternatives

Council Accepts Report and Orders Drafting of By-law for Public Vote

Consultants' Opinions Given Verbatim For Public Perusal and Study

At a special meeting of Lachute Town Council on Tuesday evening, the city fathers heard a lengthy report from the consulting engineers, Cartier & Leclerc, of Montreal, on the three alternative plans for improvement of the town waterworks intake. The report was read by the Mayor and unanimously accepted.

The meeting gave authority to the law firm of Legault & Legault, in collaboration with Paul-Emile Laliberté, to draw up a by-law for the financing and execution of necessary improvements, to be submitted to the ratepayers for public vote.

The meeting was under chairmanship of Mayor Jas. W. McGibbon, with all councillors, the secretary-treasurer and the town engineer, Mr. Laliberté, in attendance.

In view of the importance of this subject to the local public, text of the engineers' report is published here verbatim:

Report of an Investigation of Various Projects for the Improvement of the Waterworks System, Town of Lachute.

Preliminary

The services of our firm have been retained by the Corporation of the Town of Lachute to investigate the various solutions proposed for the improvement of the Town's waterworks system and also to revise the projects prepared by Mr. Paul-Emile Laliberté, P.Eng., Consulting Engineer for the Town in this undertaking.

We have examined all the aspects of the proposed solutions and prepared projects at their present stage, as naturally no final plans and specifications have yet been issued.

We have made an inspection of the various sites considered in these projects, namely Lake Sir John, Pollock Falls, the present intake works and the proposed new dam site. Samples were taken of the water in Lake Sir John and at the actual intake for analysis. Our findings and conclusions can be summarized as follows:

Water Demand

The figures presented by the Consulting Engineer for an actual demand of 3 million imperial gallons per day and for a demand of 4 million imperial gallons per day when the population will attain 12,000 inhabitants, possibly in some ten years, are based on present rates of water consumption for regular use and on the requirements of the Canadian Underwriters' Association for fire protection. We feel though that because those C.U.A. standards are very high they are often quite expensive to satisfy and that a reasonable reduction in the design capacity may be assumed, yet insuring the town of a perfectly adequate fire protection. The reductions in capacity or size suggested further on in this report are based upon this consideration.

The high rate of 114.8 gallons per capita per day actually measured may be due to some leakage or waste or higher than assumed consumption by industries. Metering of industrial water consumption would detect and possibly reduce any high rate of water use; leakage should also be reduced to a minimum.

Sources of Supply

Quantity — The present source of supply in William Brook is fully sufficient for long range future development. An intake in Lake Sir John would also provide equally well for the water requirements. The other possible source of supply, the North River, is evidently sufficient for any future development.

Quality — In April 1952, samples of water were taken at Lake Sir John, at the present intake works and in the North River. Analyses made in the laboratories of the Ministry of Health showed practically the same color and turbidity at the first two sites. The water from Lake Sir John was slightly less polluted than that of the present intake. Nevertheless both waters require chlorination to render them safe for domestic consumption. The water of the North River was definitely highly polluted, slightly more turbid and colored than the others.

On the 8th of September, 1952, in the presence of Dr. Lafleur and Mr. Laliberté, the writers have taken samples of water at Lake Sir John and at the present intake works in William Brook. Visual inspection shows the same degree of coloration in both waters. The water sample at the intake works shows a little more deposition at the bottom of the container after some time. The report of the analyses made by the Ministry of Health, which is attached to this report, shows that at the present time the coloration has increased, the value being 70 against 40 and 43 last April, this being due mainly to vegetation and reduced flow.

Brownsburg Rink Improvement Plans For Coming Season

Brownsburg — At a meeting of the Community Rink Association (a sub-committee of the general project of a Community Centre), a program of work was mapped out for the coming two months, which, when completed, should make the rink's winter amusements very much more enjoyable to the patrons.

It was decided that the installation of permanent electrical fixtures be proceeded with. At the present time the lighting fixtures are temporarily arranged, and a decided improvement in visibility is promised when the job is permanently done.

A new roof has been added to the dressing rooms, and the work of installing a furnace and laying new floors with a consequent rearranging of the room space, is at present being executed.

Plumbing facilities have to be installed, a job which is considered very necessary at the present stage.

In the rink proper, additional seating space must be provided, and it is expected to complete one side before the first games are whistled onto the ice.

The work of putting on the outside shingles is almost completed, and the appearance of the building has improved immensely — for which congratulations are due to Lem Wilson and his crew of volunteer workers.

It is expected that the above program can be completed by voluntary labor, as has most of the work up to the present, and the chairman has issued a call for help to all so disposed, to contribute a little time to the welfare and beautification of the community. We have no doubt the response will be generous and timely.

Four Hurled From Falling Scaffold

Four men on a scaffold at a Lachute Mills property were hurled 20 feet to the ground last Thursday, when the structure collapsed under their combined weight. All suffered various degrees of injury, three of the victims receiving hospital treatment.

Rosario Leroux, 57, was placing some brick siding on an extension to his store, aided by one of his sons. Another son, accompanied by Maurice Paquette, climbed onto the scaffold to speak to the two workers, and their added weight caused the scaffolding to collapse.

Mr. Leroux, although suffering sprains of the arm and leg when he struck a timber in falling, refused to go to hospital. The younger men, however, were given treatment at the Providence — Jean Leroux, 17, having a fractured foot, Roger Leroux, 25, and Maurice Paquette, 18, having sprained thighs. The latter two have resumed their work, while Jean Leroux is now in the Hotel Dieu Hospital at St. Jerome.

Argenteuil Trip For Members of Railway Historical Society

The "field day" of the Canadian Railways Historical Society will take the form, as usual, of a rail excursion. Chosen for the autumn expedition is the C.N.R. line from Montreal to Lac Remi. The event is to be held Sunday, October 5.

The special train will stop at Lac St. François Xavier, where the passengers will have a picnic lunch on the lakeshore. Other stops are scheduled at Montfort, Newago, 16 Island Lake and Huberdeau.

Back to Standard, Saturday Midnight

Standard Time will be resumed this Saturday at 12 o'clock midnight, and the perennial reminder is directed to our readers regarding change in times of church services and train schedules effective Sunday. . . Set your clocks back one hour on retiring Saturday night, and avoid possible confusion — and also not to miss that extra sleep!

Lachute Soldier in Korea Casualty List

In the Canadian Army 136th casualty list of the Korean war, issued last week, appears the name of a local soldier wounded in action — Pte. André Joseph Georges Vaillancourt, Royal 22nd Regt. — whose wife, Mrs. J. Joly Vaillancourt, resides at 68 Main Street, Lachute Mills. Pte. Vaillancourt, son of Willie Vaillancourt of this town, is 26 years of age. Official information makes no mention of the nature or severity of his wounds.

Serviceman Home from Korea

Photographed on arrival at Windsor Station in Montreal, Pte. Brian A. Townsend, of Lachute, receives a warm welcome from his son Danny, aged 2½, and his wife, the former Anne Adams. Pte. Townsend is home on leave after more than a year's service in Korea.

Numerous Traffic Mix-Ups With Extensive Damage, Various Injuries

House Rammed — Horse Killed — Car Stolen — Wrecks for Scrap Heap or Repair Shop

Walking homeward on No. 8 Highway early Sunday morning, Leopold Lafleur, of Marelan, was struck by a car proceeding towards Lachute, at around 3 a.m. After receiving first-aid treatment by Dr. Roger Lavigne, the man was taken by Menard ambulance to the St. Jerome hospital, and is under treatment for a fractured left leg.

Driver of the car was Jos. Raymond, of Ste. Monique.

Osias Lascelle, of Hawkesbury, driving home at 10.30 o'clock Saturday night, met up with a horse straying on the Grenville highway. The horse, a black five-year-old valued at $250, was killed by the impact, and the car was damaged to the extent of $200. The animal belonged to Richd. Cooper, a farmer on one of the montées between Route 8 and the Ottawa riverfront.

• • •

Rain and slippery pavement caused a three-vehicle mishap two miles west of St. Philippe on Route 8 last Thursday, resulting in one casualty (a fracture) and considerable damage to rolling stock.

Rolland Charrette, of Montreal, was driving eastward around 6.15 o'clock when he lost control of his car and upset in the ditch. He was accompanied by his wife, who was severely hurt, suffering a fractured left knee. She was given first aid by Dr. Jacques Castagnay, who was summoned from Brownsburg; the victim was then taken by Menard ambulance to the Hotel Dieu Hospital in Montreal.

While the Montrealer was helping his injured wife, another motorist, Fernand Plouffe, stopped his small English car a few yards behind and got out to give assistance. A truck driver, Victor Corbeil, of Dorion, Que., was also coming east, in a panel vehicle. The two cars were perfectly visible ahead of him, and he slowed down as he approached, but according to his statement to the police, he too lost control on the wet pavement, and slithered into the English car. Net damage was around $400 to the car and a similar toll on the truck. Charrette's automobile, the first to come to grief, was damaged to the extent of around $500.

Two cars and a truck were in a smash-up just west of St. Philippe Village at 9.15 p.m. Tuesday. A Fargo truck driven by Lionel Leclair, of Cushing, followed by a car driven by Philippe Lefebvre, and a westbound Hillman driven by Mrs. C. Lalande, of Lachute, all suffered considerable damage — the Lefebrve car, a 1951 model, being a complete wreck. Mr. Lefebvre was treated by Dr. R. Lavigne for cuts and bruises, and was brought to the Providence Hospital, Lachute.

• • •

In another three-car accident the same evening east of Lachute, at Nichol's farm on the St. Jerome Highway, Bernard Cousineau of Lachute, proceeding east, braked when he saw two oncoming cars apparently passing ahead of him. He swerved, struck a pole, and although missed by the first of the westbound drivers, the rear of his car swung into the path of Miss Beatrice Robertson's car from St. Andrews East. A passenger in the latter car, Mrs. Alice Payne, also of St. Andrews, sustained a fractured ankle. Treated by Dr. F. W. FitzGerald, she was taken to the Providence Hospital, Lachute. The accident occurred around 8.10 p.m.

Traffic Officer Albert Legault had a busy week investigating these mishaps in the absence of his colleague, Officer Howard Jones, on holiday.

A large spectatorship viewed the havoc in a spectacular crash Sunday at 9.30 p.m. at the Bethany and Grace intersection in Lachute Town. According to police information, an eastbound car on Grace Street failed to halt at the stop sign and crashed into an automobile in the Sunday evening stream of Montreal-bound traffic. All occupants, eight in number, were taken to the Providence Hospital by passing motorists, and received treatment from Dr. Marc Papineau for superficial injuries — none of which was serious.

Henri Portelance, of Hawkesbury, was driving the car on Grace Street, with three passengers, also from Hawkesbury. Sgt. Det. Damien Longpré, of the Montreal Police, with his wife, daughter and Dr. A. Simoneau, was driving the city-bound car, which was hurled from the road into the verandah of Romeo Roussel's property. The latter was bady damaged and the sergeant-detective's car was described as a complete loss.

Police Chief D. Villeneuve and Cst. O. Sabourin investigated.

• • •

In Lachute, also, a car was reported stolen during Tuesday night from Main Street, in front of the Emile Poirier feed store. The car, belonging to Mr. Poirier, was a "sedan delivery" model, light green in color. It disappeared between 3.30 and 6.30 a.m. Wednesday, according to the proprietor. The town police officers, are investigating all possibilities.

It's Vintage Time in Niagara

Betty Neden's smile lends a charming background to this vineyard scene as the first sun-ripened grapes of the 1952 harvest leave a Niagara vineyard. This year a bumper crop of 50,000 tons will be sent to the fresh fruit market and Niagara Peninsula wineries. The grape growers are now preparing for their first annual Niagara Grape Festival, which will be climaxed by a huge parade and sports program in St. Catharines on October 4.

Blood Transfusion Service Involves Intricate System And Meticulous Checking

Details Described Here by Club Speaker, Graphically Illustrated by Film

Some impression of the detailed organization behind the now-familiar "blood donor service", was given by the provincial director of this Red Cross activity, Capt. Louis M. Poitras, at the Lions Club meeting Tuesday evening in the Legion Hall. Capt. Poitras studied the operation of this service in Vancouver and Western Canada for four years prior to his work with the Red Cross in this province.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. W. M. Cottingham, president of the Lachute Red Cross Unit, and Mrs. Florent Terriault, committee-worker on the coming blood donor clinic in Lachute. The session was under chairmanship of the club president, Lion Bertrand L'Heureux.

Capt. Louis M. Poitras was introduced by Lion Léopold Carrière.

Free blood transfusion service was started in this province early in 1949 with a membership of two hospitals, the Montreal General and the Misericorde. Today there are 70 institutions in the province west of Three Rivers, in contract with the Red Cross for this service. And to keep the machine in efficient operation no fewer than 1,200 to 1,500 bottles of blood are required every week, said the speaker.

In addition to its commitments to member hospitals, the Red Cross also provides plasma for Korea and for possible needs of civic defence.

In the first six months of 1952, over 38,000 blood donations were received — more than 8,000 over the same period in the previous year — but these are still not enough to meet the demands upon this service.

To systematize the collection of these blood donations, and save undue strain on the staff and itineraries, it is desirable that an average of 200 volunteers be handled at each call of the mobile clinic. "That is why we ask for an enrolment of from 200 to 300 donors", said the speaker. This continued program of blood collection is in addition to the permanent clinic established in Montreal, with its roll of regular donors and others willing to contribute.

Among the non-participating hospitals (in Montreal, these include the Royal Victoria and the Queen Elizabeth) the Red Cross has undertaken to replace in their blood banks any free transfusion given to a blood-clinic volunteer or any member of his family. This is an obligation assumed by the Red Cross in addition to the free transfusion service provided in member institutions to all donors or their families, as the need may arise.

All able adults, 18 to 65, may cooperate in this humanitarian work, and the speaker here enlisted the influence of the club members, to interest their fellow workers or employees in becoming donors.

In answer to questions from his audience, he further explained the purpose of the identification card issued to donors, showing their blood grouping and RH factor — which could be a very great help in case of personal need and emergency.

In the first six months of 1952, the local Providence Hospital had used 60 bottles of blood provided through its contract with the Red Cross, he stated. Fresh supplies are sent weekly to member institutions, and those unused within two or three weeks are returned to headquarters to be turned into plasma — blood supply in the "unperishable" form.

The Red Cross film (shown by courtesy of Laurent Baudry, the 'projector man' from Ayers Ltd.) gave a graphic impression of life-saving incidents; it also revealed the workings of a clinic, and the meticulous details of technique, blood typing and analysis, sterilization, and packing and sealing of instruments to form the blood donor and blood transfusion kits.

Capt. Poitras was cordially thanked by Lion A. Gordon McOuat.

300 Donors Objective for Blood Clinic

Mobile Unit Visits Lachute Auditorium On September 30

The Red Cross mobile blood clinic, visiting Lachute Auditorium next Tuesday, is a unit operating in a systematic program. The blood transfusion service is now so widely adopted among hospitals of Western Quebec that these units, in order to operate economically, look for a minimum donor list of 200-300 volunteers at each stopping place.

The aim in Lachute in therefore 300 donors, in order to ensure the success of this visit.

The Red Cross transfusion service has proven its worth in accident, sickness and emergency, even in the far outposts of civilization. But the vast system can function only with the co-operation of volunteer donors.

Give your blood, to save a life. Read the appeal (advertised on page 5 of this issue), and enroll your name in this humanitarian cause. Phone 993-W, Lachute.

Infantry Sergeant Takes Special Defence Course At U.S. Army School

Sgt. Frederick J. Gaudry, of Grenville, has graduated from the Infantry Center Chemical, Biological and Radiological Defence Course at Fort Benning, Georgia.

During the three weeks' course, Sgt. Gaudry learned the latest Army-approved methods of detecting and combatting the effects of the many agents which could be used in chemical, biological and radiological warfare. Following the course he returned to his company, at the detachment stationed at Fort Benning, Georgia.

Sgt. Gaudry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor D. Gaudry, live in Grenville.

Crushed to Death By Enraged Bull

Keith Wyman, 30, was crushed to death against a barn wall on his father's farm by an enraged bull last Thursday afternoon at Chute-à-Blondeau, Ont.

The victim was taking the bull into the barn. His brother, Allits Wyman, was in the barnyard. Screams from the barn brought Allits running into the building. He found his brother pinned against the inside wall, dead, the angry bull still pushing against the slumped body.

Coroner Dr. A. Perrier, of Hawkesbury, decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

The late Keith Wyman was unmarried; he had many friends and acquaintances in the Argenteuil riverfront communities.

The usefulness of "old dobbin" for farm work is quickly disappearing, as is indicated by the fact that in 1951 there were only 1,206,634 horses in Canada, less than half of the 1941 total. — Exchange

Gatineau LINES

Stones and Bullets

The transmission lines on which all of us depend to get our electricity are inclined to take a beating in the early fall. Between the stones thrown by children — and sometimes by adults — and the bullets of hunters when the season is on, insulators are broken and wires snapped each year.

Every broken insulator or snapped wire means an interruption of electrical service, which in turn means annoying trouble for somebody. And that somebody is often a friend or acquaintance of the person responsible for the trouble.

People who use electric wires for targets are poor friends indeed to their neighbors.

Canning Crops in Quebec Province

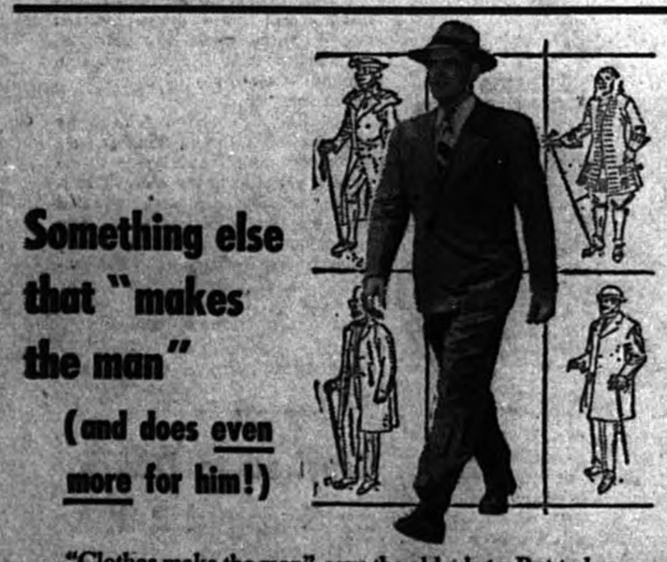

Three of the four crops on which Quebec's canning industry leans most heavily — corn, tomatoes and snap beans — were unkown to the civilized world before John Cabot and Jacques Cartier first landed in Canada.

Corn has long been cultivated by North American Indians and had religious significance to the ancient Mayans of South America, according to an American Can Company study. However, until the first explorers reached the Western Hemisphere, corn has been unknown to Europeans.

This popular vegetable, now an important factor in Quebec's expanding canning industry, was the leading crop from Canada to Florida when Cartier planted a cross in New France in 1534. An old legend relates that a crow brought corn and beans to the North American Indians, carrying a kernel of corn in one ear and a bean in the other.

Tomatoes, for many years a leading canning crop in Quebec, are native to South America, and until comparatively recent times were considered a poison because of their botanical relation to the nightshade (any of several poisonous plants). One of the first persons to process tomatoes on a commercial scale in Quebec, in Montreal about the turn of the century, was the late William Clark. Since that time, the development of new types of containers had greatly expanded the markets for canned tomatoes and made possible the processing of products such as tomato juice.

Snap beans have a long history in this province, and Quebec leads Canada in the canning of this vegetable. The old Indian beans have been modified over the years by horticulturists to develop the familiar "stringless", bean which is widely known in the canned form.

Something else that "makes the man" (and does even more for him!)

"Clothes make the man", says the old adage. But today more and more men are learning that they can also enhance their standing with certain people by owning life insurance.

Take employers, for instance. To them, a man's ownership of life insurance suggests that he is foresighted, thrifty, realistic. Above all, it reflects willingness to accept responsibility — an attitude that impresses every employer.

In fact, anyone who learns that a man owns life insurance regards him with added respect. They know that it represents one of the most important assets any man can have.

Yet perhaps the most important effect of owning life insurance is on the policyholder himself. It gives him a sense of achievement. For in no other way can he create such a valuable estate for so little in so short a time.

So life insurance can do more than provide financial security for your family and yourself in later years. It also influences people in ways that help win success!

Commentary on Big International Plowing Match at Carp

Norn Garrieck, CBC Farm Broadcast commentator for Ontario and Quebec, will cover the 39th International Plowing Match to be held in Carp, Ontario, from October 7 to 10. Working from the CBC exhibit tent beside the Plowing Match headquarters building, Norn's reports, interviews and commentaries from the Match and vicinity will be heard on all CBC noon-hour farm broadcasts from Vancouver to St. John's, News Roundup, and throughout the world on CBC International Service programs.

Each year at this international competition of plowing skill, a tent city is erected on the one thousand acres required for the various classes of competitions, and displays of the latest word in farm machinery. In addition to entrants from many parts of Canada and the United States, 25 to 30 thousand visitors are expected to watch the competitions during the four days, and inspect the various exhibits of machinery and equipment.

Canadian Barley Finds Market in Japan

Traditionally, barley has formed an important part of the Japanese diet. Domestic production of barley which, as a crop, ranks next to rice in importance, established a 30-year record in 1951. Even so, production could not meet demand and had to be augmented by large imports. Canada sent her first shipment of barley to Japan in 1950, 12,049 metric tons. In 1951 sales of Canadian barley in the Japanese market increased sharply to 123,762 metric tons. The trade considers the Canadian product competitive both in quality and price. This is good news in Canada today, with the West expecting a record barley harvest of 280 million bushels.

Faced with a shortage of cheap staple foods in recent years, the Japanese Government has, with considerable success, encouraged farmers to increase their barley production. Output in 1951 was 87.9 million bushels, compared with 78.9 million in 1950. A five-year program to increase rice and barley production by 18 per cent has been instituted by the Government to meet the growing demand.

Care of Pigs From Birth to Weaning

Mortality is high among young pigs during the period from birth to weaning. The first week after birth is a critical time since 10 to 35 per cent of the litter may die during that time.

Becaus sows farrow several pigs that are small and easily injured, special care must be taken. Normally sows need little help at farrowing. Too much assistance is often disastrous for the litter, since it makes the sow nervous and restless. At the Experimental Station, Kapuskasing, Ont., says L. A. Charette, the practice followed is to remove all pigs about one hour after she has finished farrowing. This is done with as little interference as possible, and the attendant is never a stranger.

In cool weather, warmth is an important factor in saving pigs. Where electricity is available, heat can be supplied from a reflector type electric brooder. This brooder is placed in a corner of the pen where the sow cannot disturb it. A brooder provides heat for the young pigs and keeps them away from the sow.

After the first three days, the danger of pigs being crushed drops, but the danger of anaemia increases. To prevent this condition, L. A. Charette reports that enough reduced iron to cover a ten cent piece should be given to each pig on the second day after birth and repeated twice at weekly intervals. By treating the suckling pigs individually, every pig in the litter will receive the correct dose and the danger of loss from anaemia is prevented.

Although the best age for castration is not well known, the practice at Kapuskasing has been to castrate all males that are not to be used for breeding purposes, at three weeks of age. At this age, the operation is easily performed and the pig recovers rapidly.

Creep feeding is usually started at three weeks of age. Since sows may not be capable of supplying enough milk, skim-milk should be supplied if it is available, along with sifted oats. If this is impossible, a commercial pig starter can be used to great advantage.

"EXILE FROM SUNNYACRES"
By Margaret Cook

The title "Exile from Sunnyacres" is to be taken literally this time — for the old house is in the hands of workmen. After long years, the cedar logs that serve as a foundation show signs of decay, causing a shifting and settling of the whole structure. Faced with the necessity for repairs, we decided to make further changes which, while not necessary, would add to our comfort and pleasure. When all is completed, the building will rest on a concrete foundation enclosing a full cellar (the present one is a dismal hole under a trap-door in the kitchen) and will have a large stone fireplace at one end and a kitchen at the other, fashioned from part of the existing porch. The porch, in its turn, will face in a different direction and will be somewhat diminished. With a new coat of paint in the spring, the old place will hardly know itself. . . The thing is, will it be pleased?

We have cited before in this column, the ancient theory that houses take on the spiritual attributes of their owners. If that is so, we feel sure that all will be well, for we hear from various sources that the original lady of the house was a remarkable person, well ahead of her generation in ideas. For instance, in a time when hens laid only in the summer, hers produced all winter, because she kept the poor things warm with a gadget made of tin cans and candles! The male member of the pair can have been no sissy either, as the hand-hewn beams in the ceiling attest. The contractor who is making the alterations tells us that all houses in the district were similarly constructed of logs, with generally an unfinished loft above. To those born and brought up in these parts, such houses are something to be forgotten as quickly as possible; but to us others, they are a record of a not unhonorable era of the history of our country, and should be preserved.

Which reminds us of a story we recently heard, that solved a riddle long bothering us. All Morris cars, put out under the company headed by Lord Nuffield, carry the mystic initials M.G.; we hear around the city, "It's an M.G. car". Finally, someone enlightened us, M.G. stands for Morris Garage, a perpetual reminder to Lord Nuffield of his early efforts. We wonder, in passing, if His Lordship votes Labor or Conservative. In a country down-trodden for centuries by the nasty Conservatives, it is astonishing how many men have risen from poverty to wealth, from indignity to dignity, from obscurity to prominence. Could it be that it is not politics, but personality, that counts?

On the subject of politics, we took part recently in an interesting discussion on the approaching presidential election in the U.S.A. One member insisted that Stevenson would win because of two factors — he has a united party behind him, and "the people" will vote for him because he is not one of them, just as they did for Roosevelt. Said our cynical friend, "They know their own kind and mistrust them, therefore they will vote for the man of a more cultured background."

"What does she think she is doing, writing a political column?" grumbles a Long Lake reader. No, never in my wildest nightmares did I sink so low, so we return to the pure air of the Laurentians — specifically to the "Lookout", a clearing some 1300 feet above sea-level between Mille Isles and Christieville. It is a beautiful spot, with grass, rocks and towering trees. Some thoughtful soul has made a stone fireplace, so that the happy explorer may cook his supper while enjoying the scenery. The ancient hills lie all about one, dark blue against the light blue sky. In the valley at one's feet snuggles Morin Heights, a toy village on a green plain. It is a lovely spot, a place to fill one's mind with, against the long winter nights. We had brought a thermos of tea and another of milk, and appropriate sandwiches and cakes, so spent a pleasant half hour with the scenery and a young man who lived in the neighborhood and was out for a walk. Toward six o'clock, we decided to slide down the mountain to Morin Heights, rather than retrace our road up from Mille Isles. It was one of the longest and steepest hills we had so far encountered in the Laurentians, and it was fascinating to see the distant plain become more and more distinct. When we arrived at Morin Heights, we were tired and hungry again, and happy to be only ten miles from Sunnyacres. It was while getting gasoline, that we discovered that we had left the two thermos bottles and Betty's shoes on top of the mountain! So the Buick, containing three exasperated people, re-climbed that mountain. Somehow the scenery failed to arouse our enthusiasm on the return trip and when we arrived at the Lookout, there was no sign of either thermoses or shoes, only a crude drawing in some sand which we interpreted as that of a house; so disconsolately we started down the Mille Isles side of our mountain and stopped at the first house, some distance down, and lo, there was our acquaintance of the hill-top with the knapsack containing the missing articles. The drawing, said he, was of a knapsack! . . Comedy events like this are always happening in our family; we wonder, do other people suffer these humiliations, or is this the penalty we pay for a mixture of Irish, English and Dutch blood? Anyway, life is seldom dull.

The people at Hilltop Pighouse, of whom we wrote a month ago, have now acquired a kitten, and Allan has named it Sylvester. We like to think of Sylvester of Hilltop Pighouse in our idler moments, especially as the other feline member of the family is called Mackenzie. We like these high-sounding names for pets, but are deterred from using them on our own by the difficulty in calling the creatures in at night. Imagine calling, "Sylvester, Sylvester, Sylvester!" out the back door! Peter, our grey Persian, has just joined me under the crab-apple tree, and is making things difficult by dashing at my ankles, while the daughter of the house plaintively asks when the sandwiches are going to be made, for we are taking our lunch to St. Helen's Island, the only pleasant country spot near us. The City of Montreal has just completed a most magnificent swimming-pool on the south-east side of the island, quite the best we have ever seen. It is not yet open to the public, but one may lie on the grass and watch the liners and tug-boats inch into harbor, and admire the lacey ironwork of the Jacques Cartier bridge, or walk through the ancient barracks (where Betty's grandfather kept vigil, as a young man, against the Fenians). Thus we have a few hours in the open, although they are a poor substitute for a day at Sunnyacres.

Hunting Season

A girl in a New England summer resort purchased a marriage license from the village clerk in order to wed a local swain. A week later she marched back to his office and said she wanted her money refunded — her swain had just run off with an actress from the summer stock company.

The clerk thought for a moment. "Can't give you a refund, Emmy", he said, "but tell you what I'll do; for another $2 I'll sell you a hunting license and you can go git him back."

Coming Up — Important!

IN THE SCRAMBLE to designate weeks to further the cause of some particular project, the really important ones may tend to be overlooked. By Royal Proclamation at Ottawa, October 5 to 11 has been designated "Fire Prevention Week". This is one week that should be taken seriously. A couple of hours spent by every householder in checking possible fire hazards would be amply repaid by a reduction in fire losses in Canada. And fire protection brings ease of mind. — You'll be hearing more about it.

The Power of Ideas

TESTS of secret atomic weapons by the British Navy off the northern coast of Australia this autumn show how far things have changed since the days of Nelson and the other doughty admirals of history.

But no matter how they change the weapons and the ships themselves, the navy is only as good as the men who operate it. And Horatio Nelson would be as successful today as he was in the days of sail.

Because Nelson's secret — the famous "Nelson touch" — in a nutshell, was the ability to figure out a new and better way of doing things. You see it exemplified by some great figure in every age, in every field of activity.

Every schoolboy knows that Nelson won the battle of Trafalgar, and was fatally wounded that day — October 21, 1805 — on his flagship Victory. Less well known is the dramatic manner in which Nelson accomplished the decisive victory over the combined French and Spanish fleets on that fateful day.

The wooden ships, dependent on the vagaries of the wind, had always fought their battles in the same style — in parallel lines opposite each other, slugging away with guns large and small.

Not Nelson. When his great opportunity came, and he found the combined French and Spanish fleets steering in battle array between Cadiz and Gibraltar, he made the bold decision.

He formed his British fleet, numerically inferior to the enemy, into two columns, one led by himself and the other by Admiral Collingwood. Instead of standing off and slugging at long range all along the long enemy column, Nelson drove the two British columns like spears through the deadly enemy procession.

The resulting struggle at close quarters, with the enemy's rear cut off from the rest, saw the enemy fleet shattered. Nelson lost his life, but Napoleon lost his hopes of conquering England.

And Trafalgar to this day remains not only a glorious page of history, but a tremendous testimonial to the power of ideas.

What the Public Favors

GOING FROM door to door canvassing funds for one organization or another, is not a task which commends itself to the diffident or one of modest disposition. Nor is it a task likely to contribute to one's personal popularity or self-esteem. Yet it is a necessary part of the work of social service and there is a certain satisfaction of soul, if not of mental stimulation, for having contributed to the work of canvassing. If one were to take a philosophical attitude and examine the human reaction to the various appeals which are publicly conducted, there is a surprising difference, and without any apparent reason, between one and another.

In this district there is the Red Cross; the Salvation Army; Boy Scouts; Cancer Society; the Navy League — in addition to many local appeals — and it is a difficult matter to judge the value of one when compared with another. But to the canvasser going from house to house there is a most decided difference in public reaction — to judge by the reception he receives, if not by the subscriptions.

The wonderful work of the Red Cross should rank high in its recognition by the Canadian people, and although subscriptions are generous, there is always a slight "sales resistance" noticeable. This year's campaign target was for $750,000, but donations fell almost $100,000 short. In fact, there have been campaign deficits for the past four years in this province. The services conducted by this organization are of a most worthy and necessary nature, yet their operation has to be severely curtailed because of lack of funds to meet all the demands. The Salvation Army, on the other hand, finds its campaign generously over-subscribed year after year, and the Army is planning expansion of its humanitarian services. Major Carswell says, "Wherever our people called, the response this year was wonderful. I think it's because the Salvation Army is really at the top of the ladder in public esteem."

This pattern of esteem becomes more confused when you consider the Boy Scouts were only $3,000 short of a $105,000 objective, while the Navy League was $12,000 short of its $45,000 target. "We have never in five years achieved our objective", said a spokesman. . . Our examination does not permit us to criticize public opinion or public sentiment, we are well content opinion or public sentiment; we are well content wisest critic.

Hay Fever Sufferers

ONE OF the most important items in the newspapers these days is the ragweed pollen count. The hay fever season lasts from the dog days of August until the first frosts of October.

Pity the poor sneezer. Displaying the symptoms of a "summer cold" every year, carrying a box of paper tissues and the current remedy, he might well envy the hospital patient with a broken leg. The latter has at least a cast to display, and tangible evidences of sympathy, such as flowers, candy and visitors, not to mention the attentions of attractive nurses.

But it would seem that hay fever is about to come into its own as a recognized complaint. More and more papers carry the pollen count daily during the season. The federal government travel bureau put out a brochure this year on havens from hay fever. Local councils are becoming more industrious about weed eradication.

All that the sufferer needs to do now is to take advantage of the information provided. If he lives in Ontario or Quebec, a transfer for the pollen season to British Columbia, Banff, James Bay or Prince Edward Island will relieve him of all distressing symptoms. It's just as simple as that, they say.

Many pollen victims may not be able to take six weeks out for mountain climbing or beach combing, pleasant as the experience would be. A suggested alternative is withdrawing for the duration into a sealed room where not a grain of pollen can penetrate.

Compromise is the best that most of us can hope for. With the alleviations that medicine can offer, we'll probably go on sneezing and keep hoping that tomorrow's pollen count is down.

Ten-Dollar Words

"DESCEND from your pedestals, mix with the common man, and learn some basic English. Get down to the market place of humanity", The Financial Post quotes a woman who challenged a panel of professors at a conference.

The professors had been using terms like absolution versus relativism, psychocultural evolution, etc., so this member of the audience said, "It's too much for me. Your vocabularies are too stiff."

This is a charge which can be levelled as well at many doctors, lawyers, ministers, engineers, accountants, economists, businessmen and a lot of other members of the community. Specialists in any field are apt to adopt their own jargon where one word can serve for many. But they too often forget that when they talk to the public they must use the public's language.

IT IS SAID in Africa a man can't hold public office until he has shot a rhinoceros. In this country one is sometimes inclined to think that voters consider a man qualified for office if he can shoot the bull, says the Campbellton (N.B.) Tribune.

SOME OF our Dominion representatives are prone to make wild statements about the "crime of interest" and our "debt-creating system" and they strive to create the impression that debts and interest are an unmitigated evil. What do these gentlemen want? Idle money with its vicious circle of idle machinery and idle men? asks the Brooks (Alta.) Bulletin.

Stewiacke, N.S. (CP)—Dr. Harry Bernard Havey has been mayor of Stewiacke for 32 years, and citizens think it may be a record for Canada. He came to Stewiacke to practice medicine in 1913, and was elected mayor in 1920.

In the first five months of this year, Brazil bought one third of all cars and trucks exported by Canada. Brazil was the leading buyer with 15,377 vehicles, Australia was second with 7,374 vehicles.

TALKING SHOP

A bit of news from south of the border is that 3,622 persons, drawing more than a total of $17,000,000 a year in federal salaries, are handling the White House "publicity and public relations."

This may have prompted an inquiry from a friend, who asked: "What are public relations? People on relief?"

Hunting With A Saw

Hunting with a gun may be a lot of fun for some folks, but not for me. I could never see any fun in taking the lives of any wild creatures.

There is a man in California who hunts with a saw. Not only that, but he makes a living out of it. His system is to search the ocean beaches for oddly shaped pieces of driftwood, take them home, and fashion them into different useful or ornamental objects.

One does not have to live in California in order to take up this fascinating hobby. Any cedar swamp in Argenteuil will do almost as well. The best place to look for some of Nature's oddities is on the banks of some mountain stream where the freshets of the previous Spring have undermined the roots of trees that grow along its banks.

The hunter must possess some imagination. He will eventually find some oddly twisted root with the earth washed away, and will see by its shape that it suggests the head of a deer. Another curved piece might suggest a fighting trout. Another network of roots might suggest a background for a plant-stand on which a climbing plant could be trained. The list is endless. Right now, I have the makings of a refectory table that will be, when finished, the only one of its kind in the world. Another smaller piece is to be a unique table-lamp when polished, bored through and wired.

When on the prowl for these specimens, I carry a 10-inch steel-backed saw. A larger one might be better, but the small one is more portable. When I come to a likely-looking root I cut it off, leaving plenty to spare to allow for trimming. I don't decide what to make of it at the time, but take it along if it has any useful or ornamental possibilities. It can be subsequently scraped, sandpapered and shellacked or varnished so as to preserve the natural look. I don't suggest painting it.

So, instead of taking an aimless walk through the woods, take along a small saw and keep your eyes open for some of Nature's little jokes. The specimens you collect will be well dried and seasoned in time to make Christmas presents for everyone from little Willie to Aunt Martha.

And let your slogan be: "When you see it, saw it!"

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt.

More About Our Parliamentary Representatives — Constituencies Know Little of the Tasks of an M.P. — Competent Legislator Is One Who Knows the Facts on Both Sides.

I have discussed, on previous occasions, parliament and its problems. The constituencies send to the House of Commons many members who are almost wholly without qualification for the job.

They are selected as candidates by a constituency which, in reality, knows little of the tasks of an M.P. That they succeed in finding a good many fairly competent men for the purpose, is one of the enigmas of political life.

The selection may be based on personal friendship. To use the familiar phrase: "He is a good head". But it is safe to say that in many cases he hasn't the slightest idea of the work which lies before a new M.P. For a time at least he marches up a blind alley. The candidate may be a good business man, a competent farmer, a professional man, but the chances are that he has never studied political and economic problems. He has a great deal to learn before he becomes a good M.P. In some cases he may be too old to begin a new and difficult way of life.

The task of selecting candidates for the House of Commons is difficult. It is easy to criticize, but is there a better way of selecting candidates? If there is I haven't heard of it. If the constituencies fail in the task, parliament takes hold of the raw material and, in time, turns out a finished product. The new members are not widely read, at least on political and economic problems. They know little of the sources of information. To ask them to study a simple economic problem and whip the facts into a 10 or 15-minute spe would present to them a very difficult task. They have only a scant knowledge of the facts — or of the various sources of information.

There are abundant facts available. The Bureau of Statistics is a source of great help. There is a competent staff. Then we have the parliamentary library — damaged recently by a serious fire. The various departments know the facts bearing on their own work. When the new M.P. has mastered his information he will be able to take his place in the discussion of public issues.

There is another fact of vital importance. The new M.P.'s are not likely to be competent speakers. The main barriers to good speaking may be listed as follows:

(1) Lack of knowledge. The new member has had little opportunity for direct and concentrated study. He should avail himself of every opportunity for practice even if it involves going out to a field and talking to the birds.

(2) He may be nervous. Practice will solve this problem. He should speak often. He is nervous becaue he knows he is not fully prepared and possibly fears that he may forget what he wanted to say.

(3) The new member should join the discussions at the party caucus and committee meetings. Here is his real opportunity for improving his performance.

The competent man in the House of Commons is the one who knows the facts on both sides of our economic problems. When he does he is able to answer any question which arises — he is master of his subject, the proud possessor of a probing mind. Parliament lacks penetrating power. The members should learn to attack from the bottom. When that happens we shall have a new parliament worthy of our highest admiration. It may be, even now, a not too distant goal.

ENJOY TOMORROW'S VACATION BY PLANNING FOR IT TODAY !

For most of us, it's a bit late to talk about saving for this year's holidays. But it's never too soon to plan for those you've just been hoping for next year.

Many Bank of Montreal customers have found that the easy way to save for first-rate yearly vacations is by starting early. Before they get the sand out of their shoes this year, they'll be saving for next summer's holiday jaunt! They keep a special Savings Account for the purpose — their "Sunshine Account".

Good sense? Of course it is. Most of us have endured a "pinch-penny" holiday or two. Every day we've wondered how much we could afford to do and still have just enough money left for the trip home. And we've promised ourselves "never again!"

The way to keep that promise is a program of year-round saving, putting aside enough for a day or two's holiday every month. And the best way to carry out a program of regular saving is through Personal Planning, the Bank of Montreal's system of money management for the family or individual. Personal Planning has shown many Canadians how to save despite today's high cost of living, and it can help you, too. Any member of the staff at the Lachute B of M will be pleased to give you literature on Personal Planning and help you open your "Sunshine Account". Why not drop in next time you are passing?

Trailers Move Canada's Perishables

Canada's perishable food supply is moving over the highway in mechanically refrigerated stainless steel trailers. As a result farm products are reaching Canadian tables fresher and more palatable. Food products are transported at proper temperatures. Frozen foods, for example, have to be kept as low as 10 degrees below zero, say Fruehauf Trailer company engineers.

Glass fiber insulation has been very helpful because it keeps the heat out. It is also light, durable, fire and vermin proof, able to withstand shock and vibration and has no tendency to settle, sag, pack or disintegrate.

Dead air space is also used. Diagram herewith, shows how a combination of F, fiber glass, A, dead air and S, styrofoam (vapor seal) is employed. R, designates refrigeration unit mounted on trailer.

Character Witness

In a biography published lately of General Robert E. Lee, the beloved and venerated commander of the Confederate Army in the war between the States, there is told a simple incident. In defeat and in the tragic years of reconstruction that followed it, bitterness was to be expected, and because the Negro had been lifted up and the white man beaten down, it was not too difficult to understand the hate with which any apparent insolence on the part of the Negroes was met. So the story tells of the historic St. Paul's Church in Richmond when a tall Negro was the first up the aisle and first to kneel for communion. Angry whispers began to grow into an ugly sound as the Negro knelt alone. Then it stilled as the tall, grey form of the beloved commander moved to the chancel rail and knelt beside the Negro.

WE MUST BE TRAINED AND READY TO DEFEND

Every patriotic Canadian is ready to pick up arms to defend this country if we are attacked.

BUT . . . patriotism and courage are not enough. Training is essential for effective service in our defence forces. In time of crisis our modern Canadian Army can use men who know how to handle today's complex weapons.

If you are not serving in Canada's Active Forces, you may obtain this training in the Reserve Force.

- You will learn how to defend your home — Canada.
- You will achieve new physical fitness.
- You will receive full Active Force rates of pay for training time.
- You will be fulfilling your duty to your community and Canada by being trained and ready to defend should the need arise.

There are many opportunities in Canada's growing Reserve Army for promotion. Every trade and profession of civilian life is needed immediately.

MOUNTIE EXPLOIT BASIS FOR MOVIE OF PIONEER WEST

Filmdom Thriller Built on Sergeant's Trek With Madman in Northland

Regina (CP) — An R.C.M.P. exploit, in the headlines in 1903, is thrilling movie-goers, nearly 50 years later.

The story of Sgt. Albert Reuben Pedley and his 300-mile trip with a northern madman, has been turned into the film "The Wild North".

The motion picture differs widely from the original story. Nevertheless, a major part of it is based on the epic trip.

To show accurately general conditions of the gruelling journey, motion picture representatives drew on the advice of the veteran policeman himself.

Remembered In West

The bluff sergeant, six feet tall in his stocking feet and weighing 220 pounds, sported a heavy moustache. He was a familiar figure in Regina from 1904 to 1924, driving a horse and democrat serving the R.C.M.P. post here as mailman.

Now, at the age of 74, he lives in retirement at Salisbury, England.

The story of the red-headed sergeant, known as "Clancy" and the same Clancy that appears in Robt. W. Service's poem of the trek, "Clancy of the Mounted Police", began when Sgt. Pedley was detailed to bring a mad trapper out of the north.

The wounds and privations of his experiences with starving wolves, and the cold of the north with only a madman for company, cast Sgt. Pedley into delirium. He still bears the scars where a wolf sank his teeth into his shoulder.

Position Reversed

By a quirk of fate, the man who the sergeant had been bringing back for treatment, was shocked out of his mental state. He took over the patrol and finally brought Sgt. Pedley to safety.

The sergeant was severely frozen during the journey and on his recovery he was brought to Regina, where he served until his 1924 retirement.

The trip from Fort Chipewyan, 300 miles north of Edmonton, to Fort Saskatchewan, just north of the Alberta capital, took nearly a month.

The people of the Fort Saskatchewan area remember Sgt. Pedley and the town of Pedley, Alta., now commemorates his exploit. It was named after him a few years after the journey.

AROUND THE COUNTRY

By Jim Greenblat

At Summerside, P.E.I., Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gardiner, 95 and 90, celebrated their 73rd wedding anniversary in the home they founded shortly after their marriage; they have five children living. . . Four lakeshore residents of Bronte's west side have told Oakville Council they are willing to spend $6,000 for a breakwater to prevent their properties from disappearing into Lake Ontario; in five days the shoreline at that point had retreated five feet.

The Rocky Mountain (Alberta) Mountaineer reports that black bears are becoming a serious problem for farmers on both sides of the North Saskatchewan River; they like young calves best, and the more valuable a calf, the better they seem to like it. . . Floyd Knopf, of Warren, Ohio, fishing on the Severn River in Ontario, after years of trying, finally caught himself a 20-lb. 40-inch muskellunge, and was satisfied after figuring it had cost him $2,500, or $125 a pound, considering the many trips, some by plane, with guides, over a period of years seeking a muskie.

Phenomenal Grain Crop – But Critical Congestion Seen in Lakehead Clearing

Political Breezes Blow in Nation's Capital

By Alan Donnelly, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Sept. 22 (CP) — Through the chill days and nights of early fall, Canada's prairie farmers this week are taking a grain harvest that promises to set records far surpassing anything yet achieved.

But this year, along with their annual race against the weather, farmers have another headache — how to get their bumper crops to market.

The biggest threat to the grain movement was averted last week when — only two hours before a strike deadline — a wage settlement was reached between grain elevator companies and 1,500 grain handlers at the Lakehead.

The strike could have halted grain movements through Port Arthur and Fort William, the twin ports which handle 70 per cent of the western crop.

The settlement ended a two-day embargo, ordered by the federal government, on rail loadings of prairie grain for the Lakehead. Still not solved, however, was the congestion of grain at the giant Lakehead terminals, caused by a shortage of shipping, which had brought about the embargo. Transport Controller Roy Milner continued previous controls on rail shipments, directing boxcars to points where the grain could be best handled.

Crop Forecast

Statisticians here gave some idea of how much grain to expect this year. They estimated the country's wheat crop at a whopping 675,000,000 bushels — 651,000,000 of it from the prairies. Barring serious reverses from heavy rains or frost, western harvests would be 120,000,000 bushels more than last year.

The prospect for all principal grains in Canada was 1,482,800,000 bushels — almost 170,000,000 bushels above last year. The total of the five principal prairie grain crops was estimated at 1,320,040,000. Records were also estimated for barley and soybeans, and near-records for rye, sugar beets and shelled corn.

For the prairies, all this means the likelihood of a scramble for storage space, with emergency shelter pressed into service in many municipalities.

The critical point will be how quickly the grain can flow through the Lakehead. With many Great Lakes ships diverted to carrying iron ore, grain has been piling up there. Even with the grain-handlers' strike averted it was estimated that at present rates the ports would be jammed in four weeks.

Last week the elevators there held some 62,000,000 bushels — close to their operating capacity of about 75,000,000 bushels. Boxcars can pour grain into them at between 12,000,000 and 13,900,000 bushels a week, but the average outward shipments are from 8,500,000 to 9,000,000 bushels. The difference could spell congestion worse than at present unless more lake shipping can be found.

Mosher Steps Down

Aaron R. Mosher, 72-year-old founder and president of Canada's biggest transport union, last week stepped down from the presidency of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees. He told delegates to the C.B.R.E. convention he would not be a candidate for re-election "not because I am too old or incapable of carrying on, but because I believe it to be in the best interests of the brotherhood which always has been my sole concern."

Mosher's announcement was a surprise because only two days previously the convention voted down a challange to Mosher from James E. McGuire, who had been expelled last March as the union's secretary-treasurer on grounds of insubordination. McGuire had long contested Mosher's leadership, but the convention by 190 to 162 endorsed the dismissal of McGuire.

After Mosher subsequently announced his retirement from the presidency, the C.B.R.E. unanimously elected as its new president Harry Chappel of Winnipeg, 49-year-old labor leader who has been the union's western representative since 1933. Mosher was named honorary president and was voted a pension of $6,000 a year. He made no announcement then as to whether he would continue in the presidency of the Canadian Congress of Labor.

Political Breezes

The political winds are blowing more strongly about Ottawa.

They picked up following statements by Prime Minister St. Laurent on his recent westeern tour that a federal general election is always a possibility. He did not see it as a probability this year, but indicated that, health allowing, he will lead the Liberals to the polls again when it does come.

Moves by his political opponents indicate they don't intend to be caught napping.

The C.C.F. party has announced the most intensive pre-election campaign in its history. The Progressive Conservatives, alert throughout the country, are organizing in the ridings. The Social Credit party, with provincial victories under its belt in Alberta and British Columbia, plans to field enough candidiates to form a government if elected.

Leaders of the three parties in opposition, George Drew, Progressive Conservative, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F., and Solon Low, Social Credit, all plan western trips like that taken by the Prime Minister. Mr. Drew left by plane on what he termed a fact-finding tour of the United Kingdom and Western Europe and likely will return with ammunition to attack the government's trade policies.

Mr. St. Laurent plans no further political tours for the present. Most observers believe the general election will come about October next year.

RESORT OWNER MAKES LEGAL HISTORY BY SUING GOVERNMENT

Central Press Canadian

"Closed Because of Flood Damage" is the sign on this summer resort at Pine Cove, Ont., largest on the French river, a favorite fishing mecca of thousands of Americans and Canadians. Because of the flooding, owner Jean Rioux is entering a $100,000 damage suit against the Federal government's department of public works. It will be a case unique in Canadian legal records. Rioux claims that not only did the spillway built by the government to control the level of Lake Nippissing lower value of his property, but that the "destructive" operation of the spillway made it impossible to catch fish in the river. His lodge accommodated 1,200 guests.

From June 1, 1951, to June 1, 1952, average weekly wages rose 10.6 per cent in manufacturing, 10.4 per cent in mining, 20.9 per cent in building construction.

In the ten years from 1941 to 1951 the largest increase in housing rents was in Vancouver, where average monthly rental rose from $26 to $43.

11,836 Motor vehicles and 18,640 bicycles were stolen in Canada in 1950, and 11,600 motor vehicles and 15,244 bicycles recovered that year.

What Is Your Favorite Dessert?

As far as desserts are concerned, some feel that apple pie with cheese is a gourmet's heaven, while others swear by cherry ice cream dripping with chocolate syrup. What is your favorite? If it is apple pie, then you are like Mr. and Mrs. Average Canadian, according to an unofficial survey made by one of our national magazines in leading restaurants in one of our larger cities. They say that pie far outsells any other dessert, and of all the kinds of pie, apple, either with or without cheese, heads the list. Second in popularity is ice cream, with fruit cups and various types of puddings tied for third place.

Another interesting point is that there was a difference in the type of desserts sold depending on whether the customers were men or women. In the survey, restaurants serving more male customers sold far more pie than any other dessert. When customers of the fairer-sex were in greater number, jellies and puddings accounted for a large share of the business, although even here pie was a top seller.

When planning desserts in the home, you can't go far wrong if you take the hint of the familiar restaurant order, "I'll have apple pie, please". Here are some suggestions from the home economists of the Consumer Section of the Department of Agriculture in Ottawa for making that "apple pie with a difference".

Instead of serving cheese with pie at the table, why not include it right in the crust? Line the pie-plate with pastry, then fill with apples, sugar, cinnamon or nutmeg as for any apple pie. Roll a half cup of grated cheese into the pastry for the upper crust and cover the apples with this cheese crust. Bake in a hot oven of 425°F., for 15 minutes, then reduce the heat to 350°F., and bake for 20 to 30 minutes or until the apples are tender. Instead of making a cheese crust, the pie could be baked without an upper crust for a change and grated cheese sprinkled over the top of the cooked pie. This pie should be returned to the oven just long enough to melt the cheese.

A deep dish apple pie is always a winner. To make it, slice and arrange six or eight medium apples in a greased casserole. Dot with butter and add a cup of maple syrup. Cover with pastry which has been pricked to allow steam to escape and bake in a hot oven of 400°F., for 25 minutes or until the apples are tender.

If you have a pie shell already baked, try a Fairy Apple Pie. To make it, fold two stiffly beaten egg whites into sweetened apple sauce made from about six medium apples. Pour into the baked pie shell and bake at 350°F., for 15 minutes.

Other mouth-watering desserts can be prepared with grapes. Grapes are an excellent buy and are in plentiful supply, so be sure to make the most of them while they are in season. Here is a simple recipe for a grape mixture that can be used to make either a pie, whip or roly-poly.

Grape Mixture

5 Cups (1 quart) grapes (preferably blue), ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, dash of salt.

Wash grapes and separate skin and pulp. Heat pulp to boiling point and boil gently 5 minutes, rub through a sieve to remove seeds. Combine pulp and skins and cook together 5 minutes longer. Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt and blend smooth with some of the grape mixture. Stir into the rest of the grape mixture and cook until thick, stirring frequently.

If a family is very fond of grapes, triple the quantity of grapes, cook and store for several days in the refrigerator. When making a dessert, take a third of the grapes and add the ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch and dash of salt as above.

To Make Grape Pie

Pour the grape mixture into an unbaked pie shell. Cover with a lattice top of pastry and bake in a hot oven, 425°F., until pastry is golden brown. Serve cold.

To Make Grape Whip

Chill the grape mixture and add two egg whites. Beat until mixture holds a peak. Pile lightly in individual sherbets and serve with custard sauce, using the egg yolks. Serves 6 to 8.

To Make Grape Roly-Poly

Prepare a slightly sweetened baking powder biscuit dough using 2 cups flour. Roll out one third inch thick. Spread with the grape mixture and roll up like a jelly roll. Cut into one-inch slices and bake on a greased baking sheet at 400°F., for about 15 minutes, or leave whole and bake for 20 minutes. Serves six.

Queen Mother Sets Fashion in Jewelry

London (CP) — Since resuming her public appointments the Queen Mother's jewelry has been attracting the notice of fashion-conscious women.

An unusually large flower spray, at least six inches long, has been worn by the Queen Mother on many occasions. The brooch which realistically simulates a real flower with a long stalk and leaves, was a wedding present 29 years ago.

Another diamond clip which has been much admired is a circular brooch in diamonds with a diamond fringe. The Queen Mother wears this unusual clip high on her dress near the left shoulder.

At a recent engagement she wore a diamond bracelet and a diamond wrist watch on the same wrist over her glove giving an unusual but effective touch which is now expected to become fashionable.

Princess Margaret is setting a vogue for wearing an initial set in precious stones, on her handbag. It is a diamond "M", and jewellers are now making a specialty of handbag clips to suit individual tastes. Some women prefer clips produced from the full name written in the owner's own handwriting.

Four Junior W.I.'s Formed Within Month

Four new junior branches within a month; that is the record made by the Quebec Women's Institutes, for the first time in its history. Active groups have been formed by the Junior Supervisor, Miss F. Elizabeth Campbell, at Stanbridge East, Port Daniel - Shigawake, Athelstan and Scotstown, in that order.

To support the growing interest in this phase of the W.I. program, handbooks for the juniors themselves, and their consellors, have been compiled by Miss Campbell and her committee. Put out in attractive form and outlining a practical but exciting program for the girls and their leaders, these are creating much favorable comment and are serving to stimulate interest in groups already established and in districts where there is no other organized activity for girls.

Commenting on the value of this movement for the teen-age rural girl, Miss Campbell speaks of the opportunity it gives her to share in group activities and projects. "The Junior Women's Institute", she states, "offers each member a chance to take her part in day to day affairs which closely affect her welfare and that of others; to have a say in everyday decisions concerning community life; and to learn to be a good neighbor, a good Canadian and a good citizen of the world".

Sugar Deficiency Affects Memory

Tests have shown that certain people who go without food for some hours suffer from loss of memory due to low blood sugar levels, says Doctor John Matheson, medical officer of Brixton Jail, London.

The brain depends on blood sugar for nourishment, the doctor reports, and after a period of hunger some people may suffer blackouts and behave abnormally. As a result of tests carried out recently, some criminals have been given lighter sentences. Some have been acquitted.

Young Canada Listens

CBC National School Broadcasts, now in their 10th year, provide interesting information for young student and teacher alike. Each program is planned by experts to suit classroom needs at times when students can best hear it. These school programs are not substitutes for classroom teaching, but supplement the teacher's efforts with dramatisations of history, descriptions of nature study, and character studies of important Canadian personages. Above, Mrs. Margaret Eckel, an occasional teacher at Lampton-Kingston Public School in Toronto, tunes in on one of the programs for Peggy Nichols, who has recently come to Canada from England.

Appeals for Kiddies In Korea and Greece

Unitarian Services Committee Starts Dual Relief Campaign

Ottawa (CP) — A dual relief campaign to assist children at opposite corners of the globe has been launched by the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada which for six years has ministered to the needs of children in war-torn countries.

After travelling 15,000 miles to Europe and back, 18,000 miles to and from Japan and Korea, the Committee's untiring director, Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, now tells Canadians of the want in countries she visited.

"My eyes are filled with images of hungry, frightened, homeless children", Dr. Hitschmanova said recently. "You helped before, and your help is still needed . . desperately. Our task is far from finished."

While in Greece the Director found severe drought had ruined crops.

"Bread for Greece"

"More than a quarter of a million people face starvation unless help is again rushed to them from abroad", she said. "To save the children, the Unitarian Service Committee is launching a second 'Bread for Greece Crusade', asking its supporters to donate at least one dollar which will purchase enough Canadian flour to feed a hungry Greek boy or girl for a whole month."

During her visit to Korea the Director said she looked "into the saddest children's eyes I have ever seen."

An emergency "Help Korea Campaign" has been launched by the Committee to help thousands of suffering Korean chilldren,

"Much help is needed at once to fight this terrible want and suffering", said Dr. Hitschmanova. "No mother in this country would resist the cry for assistance of these helpless little ones in Korea, if they could actually see their tragic lack of clothing, milk, rice, medicines."

To Help Housewives Balance Budget

London (CP) — How to "balance the budget" is the chief topic discussed at a new housewives' club organized in a London residential district.

The object is to cut down the number of housewives applying to welfare officials for financial help because they have run hopelessly into debt.

"It's not due to shortage of money, but simply that they seem incapable of budgeting within their income", said Mrs. O. A. MacIver, who runs the Battersea and Wandsworth Family Welfare Scheme. Some wives applying for financial help come in the £1,000-a-year class.

Housewives who join the club are taken on shopping expeditions and taught to draw up their budgets with stress on economies. Women in debt are encouraged to put aside a small amount weekly to pay off arrears.

CURFEW, KIDS

Kindersley, Sask. (CP) — The town council has agreed to reimpose its by-law covering curfew hours following a petition with more than 500 names. Curfew will be sounded at 9.30 p.m. each night except Saturday, when curfew is at 10.

Contrary to popular opinion, the thermometer in your thermostat has no connection with the operation of the instrument. The thermometer, Minneapolis-Honeywell engineers explain, is there merely for your convenience.

McINTOSH MONUMENT

Iroquois, Ont. (CP) — Members of the McIntosh clan came from many parts of Canada to the graveside of John McIntosh here to dedicate a monument to the discoverer of the McIntosh apple tree. Prof. N. B. Davis said the apple discovered by McIntosh in 1786 now is being produced at a rate of more than 15,000,000 bushels yearly in Canada and the U.S.

Canadian children are more apt to be in trouble with the law in spring and autumn; juvenile courts are busiest in the months of April, May, June, October and November.

"We Are Canadians!"

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

Did you ever wonder whether you would be willing to leave Canada for good and make your home in another land? In 1940 over fifteen thousand of our fellow countrymen emigrated across the Border. Ten years later this number had more than doubled to thirty-one thousand. During the last decade a much smaller group from the U.S.A. have moved here. It is true that many thousands have come from Europe to make their home in Canada. But this steady leak of Canadians to the States is serious. It provokes the question, "Do we Canadians appreciate our own land?"

There are no statistics on the number of Canadians who have had the chance of a job at a higher salary across the Border but have turned it down. Most of us know a few such people. Just last week an outstanding professional man explained his decision in this manner:

"It would mean I'd make more money. But if we moved now we would doubtless remain in the States. Our children would grow up, be educated, and likely settle down and marry there. That's not what we want. We are Canadians!"

This man's children will catch from their father his deep love for his own country. Patriotism, like religion, is often "caught" not "taught"! When parents are willing to sacrifice material advancement in order to remain in Canada their youngsters will conclude that here is a country which is worth while.

Canadians are often criticized for their lack of pride of nationhood. Edward McCourt, English professor, University of Saskatchewan, in his comments on Canadian Letters in the Royal Commission Study points out:

"The Canadian suffers, without realizing that he does so, from an ingrained sense of inferiority which is the inevitable consequence of history and geographical relationship. The typical Canadian is a thoroughly nice fellow who makes a virtue of moderation. He is reticent, a little Puritanical perhaps, and decidedly unsure of himself. He takes no pride in being Canadian; he accepts the fact without regret but is seldom disposed to shout it to the world."

Is this a fair appraisal of us as Canadians? If it is, we cannot feel very complacent about it! If our children are growing up with no pride in being Canadians, we as parents are certainly falling down on our job!

J. B. Priestly, that brilliant British writer, recently pointed out that world civilization forms a sort of tartan, with the rich and varied strands of the colors of the cultures of all the different countries woven together. He urged Canadians not to be carbon copies of the life of the Southern neighbor, nor did he want us to substitute what is British for what is American. He wrote, "I do not ask you to be less American and more British. I ask you to be more Canadian, to show me a way of living I cannot find anywhere else."

How do those of us who are parents help our children to feel that they are Canadians? Not a boastful, shouting from the house-top emotion! Nor a vague inarticulate, not-sure-of-itself attitude! But a quiet, steady, growing love of our own country. The sort of feeling which inspired Sir Walter Scott to exclaim:

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself has said,
'This is my own, my native land!' "

There are various ways to do this, but the surest is for mothers and fathers to take a long look at themselves as citizens. What does Canada mean to them?

When they have clarified their own thinking, then they should talk with their children about Canada's past, about Canada today and what Winston Churchill, in his last visit to Ottawa, called "our magnificent future".

What happens in your family on a national holiday, such as July 1st? Is it just a vacation day, or do you give it meaning for your children as Canadians? Do you hang out a flag? Perhaps in choosing between the Union Jack, the Red Ensign, and wondering about a new Canadian flag used throughout our whole Dominion, you might even write to your federal member and the Prime Minister and tell them that we are losing out in having no one national symbol!

If anyone glanced at the pile of magazines in your living room would they conclude by the predominance of Canadian magazines that your home was here? What about your books of Canadian poetry, fiction or drama, the record of Canada's writers? Is there a map of Canada on your wall or a globe in your home where your children can see for themselves that the land area of Canada is the third largest in the world, with only the U.S.S.R. and China greater than our Dominion? Have you and your family visited one of our fine National Parks when on a vacation trip?

Whether or not your child thrills to the exclamation, "We are Canadians!" depends very much on mother and dad. What is your child's reaction? What are you doing to help him grow into a good Canadian citizen?

The First Job – How to Be A Good Employee

Business management has done a good deal of soul searching in recent years, questioning itself on its employee relations, seeking to make workers happier in their jobs. The result has been better pay, better working conditions, and employee benefits virtually unknown in business and industry a generation ago.

On the other hand, there has been little evidence of a similar sense of responsibility on the part of workers to management.

Most of us are employees, yet little if anything has been written on how to be a good one. Employee advice has been focused on special fields: you can learn a great deal on how to be a good salesman, bookkeeper or metallurgist. But all special skills have employeeship in common, says the October Reader's Digest. "And certainly more people fail because they do not know the requirements of an employee than because they do not adequately possess the skills of their trade." Being an employee means working with people, therefore character and integrity can be more important than a specific skill.

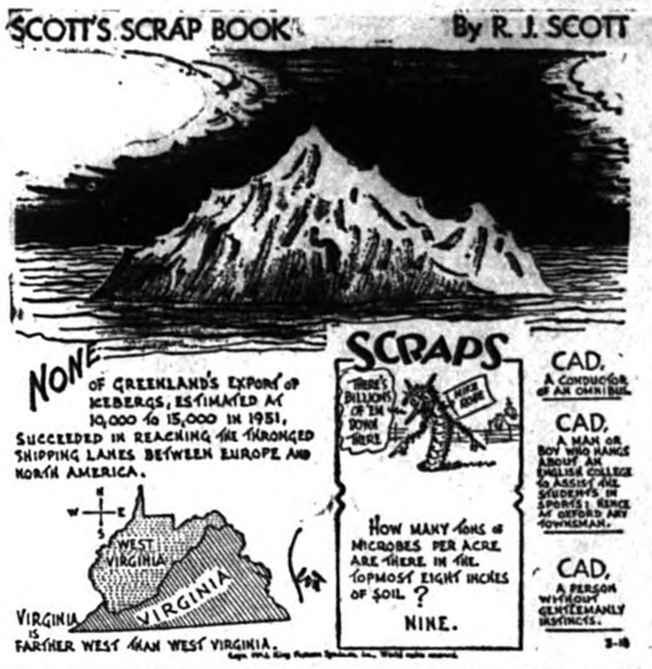

What kind of employee you are depends on four choices you alone can make: (1) Do you seek "security" primarily, or do you belong in a job that offers a challenge to imagination and ingenuity — with the attendant penalty for failure? (2) Do you belong in a large firm, where business is done through established "channels" of organization, or in a small one which operates chiefly through personal contacts? (3) Should you start at the bottom, or are you equipped to take the responsibility of a "management trainee" position or a post as assistant to one of the bosses? (4) Will you be more effective and happy as a specialist or as a "generalist"?

However you choose, don't look upon your first job as necessarily permanent, for it will be "pure accident" if it proves to be just right for you. Usually your first job provides little more than an opportunity to analyse your fitness as an employee. Being fired from your first job can be a good experience, in hardening you against future shocks, this Digest article points out. Better still, resigning a job that is not suited to you will give you an "inner independence that you will never lose."

Drucker advises the begineer to remember that promotion is not the essence of a job. "There is no surer way to kill a job and one's usefulness than to consider it as but one rung in the promotional ladder rather than a job in itself that deserves serious effort."

HELPFUL DECISION

Trail, B.C. (CP) — Decision of an Idaho Power Company to store water from mid-August and reduce the Pend D'Oreille River to a comparative trickle was helpful to contractors building a dam at Waneta, 13 miles south of here. Previously, they planned to build a six-ton, eight--storey monolith and drop it at Waneta to dam the river.

Boy Scouts The World Over

"CAN ANYONE SWIM?"

A desperate shout of "Can anyone here swim?" brought prompt action from Chistopher Carr, 14, of Westmount, Que., recently, at the wharf at Kingston, Ont. Fully clothed, Carr dived into 18 feet of water to rescue Eleanor Smith, 7, and Veronica Dillon, 16, of Perth, who had fallen off the wharf while waiting for a ferry.

MORE AND MORE

Canada now has 138,908 Boy Scouts, which is an increase of 10,148 over the 1951 total of 128,760 and the highest Canadian membership total in the history of the Movement. In 1950 there were 117,680 Scouts in Canada. The 1939 total was 95,083.

LIEUT.-GOVERNOR HONORS 109 QUEEN'S SCOUTS

LEAD TINY TROOP

What is probably the smallest Boy Scout Troop in England's smallest county is reported under the leadership of two former Canadian Scouts. L.A.C. Igmar Larsen, formerly a King's Scout in Nelson, B.C., and now with the R.C.A.F. No. 1 Fighter Wing at North Luffenham, England, shares the leadership of a three-Scout troop there with ex-Rover Scout Roger Montpetit, of Montreal.

NEW MILLION DOLLAR PLANT — A new $1,000,000 plant is being constructed in Canada by Sylvania Electric Limited. When completed, a 38,000-square-foot, one storey structure will produce electronic equipment for the Canadian Armed Forces. The first plant of its kind to be built outside of the United States, it is located in Drummondville, Que., and will be served by the Canadian National Railways. Turning the first sod for the new industry is F. J. Healy, president of Sylvania Electric (Canada) Ltd. From left to right are: W. E. White, director of electronic production, Canadian Arsenals Limited; W. B. O'Keefe, Sylvania plant manager; Mr. Healy; Mayor Antoine Biron of Drummondville, and Bernard Pinard, M.L.A. for Drummond County.

Similarities — Three Great Leaders Of Britain in Time of Nation's Peril

By Lewis Milligan

Britain has never lacked a leader in a time of national danger, and the leader has usually been a man who has been unpopular and whose leadership has been rejected in time of peace. This was the case with Lord Chatham, the elder Pitt, whose shrewd and bold leadership guided and saved England and the Empire in the Seven Years' War with the French. Before that war he was known as the "Great Commoner" and was an unrivalled orator, but he was distrusted by the king, George II, and frustrated in his political ambitions by members of his own party.

A biography of Pitt, entitled "Lord Chaham: A War Minister in the Making", by O. A. Sherrard, has just been published in London, and is reveiwing in John o' London's Weekly by Christopher Wright. Mr. Wright reminds us that the careers of Chatham, Lloyd George and Winston Churchill have a remarkable similarity. All three, he says, "infuriated peacetime collegues by their assumption of superiority, and dominated a great war through that very arrogance; all suffered for their success after the war was completed; all three endured periods of frustration, in which it seemed that their chances of the highest office were finally fading."

Lloyd George, in his early days, was a voice crying in the wilderness, and those of us who heard or read his fiery speeches against the Conservative Party could not have imagined that one day he would rise to power as the leader of a union of all parties in a great war. He was distrusted by his own party, and Asquith, the Liberal leader, scorned him as a demagogue. Churchill was a very young man at that time, newly returned from his adventures in the Boer War. There was nothing arrogant about his personality or his speeches. I happened to be in a room at the rear of a hall in Liverpool, where he was to be one of the speakers, when he strolled in with his thumb in his vest. He looked around with a quizzical smile. He was very ordinary in appearance, but he had an air of alertness and self-confidence that one associates with a very efficient mechanic who is called in to size up a difficult job. I was not much impressed by his speech from the platform it was perky and humorous, but he suffered from an impediment in the form of boyish lisp by which he got the nickname "Winnie".

Churchill was a great admirer of Lord Chatham and of his son. I recall how he once remarked that he never ceased to wonder that the younger Pitt so distinguished himself as an orator as to become chancellor of the exchequer at the age of 23. As an orator and statesman, Mr. Churchill is more like Lord Chatham than was Lloyd George, who was always a politician, after the style of Joseph Chamberlain whom he privately admired and publicly fought, tooth and nail. But Chatham, Lloyd George and Churchill will go down in history as the three greatest British leaders in times of national peril. As Mr. Wright says in his review, "Here are men whom power did not corrupt but ennobled. There was something defiantly grand about Pitt's: 'I know that I can save this country, and that no one else can'."

Mr. Churchill did not repeat that saying when he assumed the leadership in the black hour of 1940; but he knew, and the people knew, that he was the only man who could save the nation from disaster. He at once proved this in his clarion call to "Blood, toil, tears and sweat" at Dunkirk and the Battle of Britain. The pity is that he was not allowed to "finish the job", but was dismissed from the leadership before peace was secured. Roosevelt was dead, and Churchill was discharged, leaving Stalin as the sole survivor in world leadership — and how he used it! He captivated the Labor Party in Britain and a majority of the people were led to believe that he was a benevolent dictator and the Messiah of a Socialist Millennium. Churchill is again in office, but he is not in power, and he is an old man, worn out in a tremendous fight for his country. If he were to die at this time, he might well utter the last words of the younger Pitt: "Oh, my country! how I leave my country!"

BUDGIE'S BAD BREAK

Elmira, Ont. (CP) — Peter, the budgie who lives with Alexander "Dad" Brant in this town near Kitchener, has a vocabulary of 100 words and is picking up more all the time.

His accomplishments range from rhymes such as "Peter Peter Pumpkin Eater" to political quotations and greetings like "Good Morning Dad".

Peter's greatest slip came one day when the missionary society was meeting. During the silence after a prayer for missionaries and the peoples they serve, Peter burst out with the words "poor beggars".

Canada's 1952 wheat crop is estimated at the all-time peak of 675,000,000 bushels; 1928 was the previous record year, 567,000,000 bushels.

OLD BUFFALO POUND IS SCIENCE TARGET

Yorkton, Sask. (CP)—An ancient Indian buffalo pound was uncovered by a farmer's plow near here this summer, and Yorkton archaeologists brought it to the attention of the curator of the Saskatchewan provincial museum. Archaeologists say very few similar finds have been made in Saskatchewan and it is hoped to have this one studied scientifically.

A careful search through test pits would probably uncover relics including pottery that could be used to determine dates and possibly fit in another piece of the picture being built up from other such sites in western Canada and the border states.

A howdah is a canopied seat upon the back of an elephant.

Psychology's Failure

Riots in prisons in Canada and the United States suggest that modern psychology, as applied to criminals, is not a pronounced success. For years there has been a growing tendency to handle criminals as if they were mentally ill persons needing to be cured, rather than dangers to society needing punishment and restraint. Some convicts do reform after serving time; but it may be questioned whether the relatively easy life of the modern jail or penitentiary accounts for a higher percentage of reforms than the abhorred methods of the old days.

As far as one can learn without first-hand experience, life in the modern Canadian prison provides more in the way of welfare-state benefits than are available to the average citizen outside. For example, food and clothing are free; some free amusement is provided. Earnings are low, by union scales, but are not subject to deductions for income tax, unemployment insurance or old-age pensions.

Yet riots occur, either from boredom with too much social security, or as a result of the lax discipline advised by modern psychologists. On the theory that the psychology may have been wrong, authorities of the prison farm at Guelph, Ont., where one of the most destructive of recent riots took place, now appear to be trying a policy of strictness. The prisoners may not like it, but then it is only a theory of psychologists that prisons should be made happy places for the inmates.

Strict discipline, justice without molly-coddling, will not harm prisoners who are worth reforming, but may keep them from repeating the offences that brought them to prison in the first place. It is unlikely to do much for the prisoners who are incapable of reform. They will always be society's problem; but the problem of society in connection with them is first a matter of self-protection.

Fire-Tower Watchers Have Lonely Posts

Kirkland Lake, Ont. (CP) — Each clear day during the forest fire season observers located in 310 towers file some 3,000 reports on conditions throughout 25,000 miles of Ontario's northland.

The network of towers, spaced about 15 miles from each other, is manned by employees of the Ontario lands department.

Some are located near communities, but for many lonely observers their hourly report by radio is their only association with the outside world. Some leave their isolated posts only three or four times a year.

The clarity of the northern air sometimes permits vision for over 90 miles. The observer towers are linked from the upper Ottawa Valley to the Manitoba border.

Such towers are not used in southern parts of the province because humidity from the Great Lakes makes visibility poor.

A fleet of 40 aircraft supply the towers with necessities and bring in equipment and men when fires break out.

The network, built up during the last 50 years, is considered one of the best in North America.

Disease Threatens Yellow Birches

Toronto (CP) — A disease is killing young yellow birch trees in Ontario, and as yet officials of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests don't know what it is.

Don Burton, Lands and Forests official whose job it is to keep the yellow birch stands growing, calls the tree disease "die-back". He has a laboratory of two or three square miles at the edge of Swan Lake in Algonquin Park. And he finds the disease is causing the trees to die at the top before they can be used for anything but firewood.

Yellow birch is an important forest crop in the province. Each year lumbermen from Parry Sound to Pembroke take $6,000,000 worth of the wood from the bush for tongue-and-groove flooring and veneer logs.

Though he hasn't found the cause of "die-back", Mr. Burton has determined that all trees in an area must be taken out if the yellow birch is to grow. Seeds won't germinate on a floor of leaves and conifer needles so they must be raked in to reach the soil. On the other hand he has found yellow birch grows best in association with conifers.

Lumbermen don't want to clear-cut an area when they're after yellow birch. They prefer to take out the more-valuable birch logs and let other trees stand.

Economic research, presumably, must be aimed at uses for the associated species grown with the birch.

FALSE ALARM

Halifax (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. Steve Sabodas captured a six-foot "shark" with a grappling hook after a 15-minute struggle in the North-west Arm, and swimmers thanked them for removing the menace. But fisheries experts later found it was an over-sized dogfish, relatively harmless.

New Ledger-Keeping System at B of M Here

Customers of the Bank of Montreal's Lachute Branch will soon be receiving speedier and more convenient service. This will be made possible by the installation of a new ledger-keeping system, which will revolve around what is known as a combination posting machine.

This complex mechanism will automatically record all withdrawals, deposits, balances, dates and other pertinent data.

Current-account customers will not require pass-books, and thus be free from time-consuming delays while passbooks are being made up as at present. Instead they will regularly receive complete statements, with debits, credits and balances concisely set out for quick reference. These statements will always be instantly available. The machine will also take care of the Savings department, and all withdrawals and deposits will be mechanically entered in the bank's records. Savings passbooks, however, will still be hand-written.

Thus, when the new equipment goes into operation, the ancient and honorable (but laborious) practice of keeping ledgers up-to-date by hand will become a thing of the past.

Mr. D. M. Hay, manager of the B of M here, is much pleased with this new development. "With the help of this equipment, we will be able to provide much faster and more convenient service for our customers", he states.

"I put away my hard-earned money"

This young bank depositor recently wrote to his bank manager:

"I made a goal of $1,000 for this year. It is two years since I opened the account with two dollars. I owe thanks to you that I put away my hard-earned money where it will benefit me . . . I do not wish to touch it for the time being."

Building up a bank account means work and sacrifice. But Canadians know the value of having savings handy in time of opportunity or need: they maintain 7½ million savings accounts in the chartered banks—almost twice as many as ten years ago. At the same time bank staffs have almost doubled. That, and higher wages, have increased bank payrolls almost three times.

More people use the banks, more people work for the banks than ever before.

Water Supply Alternatives

The turbidity at the two sources remains about the same as in April. Mainly due to a smaller flow and to the present season of the year, the bacterial content of the water in the brook has increased much.

It is our opinion that the quality of the water would be much bettered by filtration, color and turbidity being removed, thus insuring at all times the Town of Lachute of a perfectly satisfactory water for all domestic and industrial uses. The high quality of the water in addition to its abundance under adequate pressure is a great asset for a municipality, since many types of industries require perfectly clear water for their processes. Your Consulting Engineer is presently having filtration tests made which demonstrate the improvement in quality resulting from this treatment.

First Project — Intake at Lake Sir John

As prepared, this project consists of building an intake at Lake Sir John and laying 16,335 feet of 20-inch Transite pipe from the lake down to the 14-inch and 8-inch parallel pipes at the present intake to feed the city directly with water from Lake Sir John. This requires a device at an intermediate elevation to reduce the pressure which otherwise would be much too high in the distribution system of the town. This device may be either an automatic pressure regulator or an open constant level reservoir equipped with a float valve.

Our appreciation of the above project is as follows:

(a) The proposed 20-inch pipe in connection with the present 14 and 8-inch pipes is of the required size to satisfy the maximum demand for ordinary water use and C.U.A. fire protection standards for a population up to 18,000 inhabitants. Based upon our remarks in article on Water Demand, in this report, we would advise that a 16-inch pipe is of sufficient capacity to meet the needs of ordinary use and fire protection for a population up to 16,000 inhabitants.

(b) We would recommend that an automatic pressure regulator with a by-pass be used rather than an open reservoir, for the reason that, as the consumption increases, it would be very easy to increase the residual pressure at the outlet of this regulator to maintain an adequate pressure in the distribution system of the town.

(c) We do not advise that two parallel pipes, instead of one, be laid from Lake Sir John because it would not be economical. The present intake should rather be kept as a stand-by to be used in case a break occurs in the Transite pipe. This would prevent the town from being completely without water while the repairs are made. The present dam should be maintained adequately for this purpose.

(d) The total approximate cost of this project would amount to three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000) for a 20-inch pipe and to two hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($250,000) for a 16-inch pipe.

(e) This project does not include a filtration plant and consequently would furnish a colored water with some turbidity (see article on Quality, in this report). Chlorination of water would still be necessary.

Second Project — New Dam and Filtration Plant

The project, as prepared by your Consulting Engineer, consists of building a new dam approximately 100 feet downstream from the present one on William Brook, on Mr. W. M. Cottingham's property. The level of the pond thus formed would stand at Elevation 373, creating a reserve of 48 million gallons of water. The water would be pumped from an intake in this pond to a filtration plant having a capacity of 2 million gallons per day. A filtered water reservoir at Elevation 418.5 containing 500 thousand gallons would insure a maximum pressure of 85 pounds per square inch in the town during present ordinary water consumption.

Our appreciation of this project follows:

(a) We would recommend to build a filtration plant of 1.5 million gallons per day capacity, with a period of operation of 16 hours per day at the present time and gradually extending to 24 hours as needed. This capacity would provide for a population up to 16,000 inhabitants.

(b) We recommend that the height of the dam be reduced so that the pond be at Elevation 368.0. The reserve of 25 million gallons so created is amply sufficient and the technical problems involved in the design and construction of the dam on such a foundation are much less complex. The character of this foundation has been ascertained by soil investigations conducted by the Foundation Company of Canada, Limited. Moreover this reduction in height of the dam would entail a saving of some twenty thousand dollars ($20,000). A new design of this structure will be required in this case.

(c) The site on Mr. W. M. Cottingham's property is the best because it permits the construction of a dam not too expensive and the reservoir thus created has a great capacity. The site at Pollock Falls is not suitable because the capacity of the reservoir would be much less even with a more expensive dam.

(d) The capacity of the proposed filtered water reservoir (500,000 gallons) will be sufficient for adequate fire protection with the recommended filtration capacity.

(e) The annual operating expense would amount to $6,500 for the present consumption and increase to $8,500 as the population increases to 16,000 inhabitants.

(f) The total cost of the dam, pumping station and filtration plant would reach approximately two hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars ($275,000), the exact figure to be ascertained upon completion of detailed plans and specifications.

Third Project — Water From the North River

No definte project has been prepared by Mr. P. E. Laliberté by which the water of the North River would be filtered and pumped directly into the distribution system. This project is to be rejected mainly because of the definitely inferior quality of the source of supply which would not be accepted by the authorities of the Ministry of Health in this case where there is available at convenient distance a much better source of supply. The project would also involve presently a high annual operating charge of some twelve thousand dollars ($12,000) which will increase as consumption rises. Moreover this project would necessitate discarding the present 14 and 8-inch lines which is not at all economical.

Conclusions

We put aside the project of using water from the North River for reasons explained above.

We positively recommend, for reasons of economy and reliability, the adoption of the second project which consists of a new dam at the site proposed by Mr. P. E. Laliberté, but with a pond Elevation of 368, a pumping station, a filtration plant of 1.5 million gallons per day capacity at Elevation 428 and filtered water reservoir of 500,000 gallons capacity at Elevation 418.

While it would cost two hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($250,000) to bring the water of Lake Sir John down to the present intake, this would be without any improvement in the physical properties of the water. We are convinced it is much more advisable to collect the water in the brook and to invest this amount of money in a filtration plant which will insure a high quality of water for the Town of Lachute and satisfy at the same time all requirements for quantity and pressure.

Since the surroundings of Lake Sir John do not belong to the Municipality, nothing can be done to prevent any development on the shores which might have the effect of reducing the quality of the water. Only a filtration plant can insure the Town of Lachute of a perfect water independently of any future development along the source of supply. An intake at Lake Sir John plus a filtration plant is economically out of the question.

We would also advise that the distribution system be improved as soon as possible by multiple interconnection and by the replacement of water mains of insufficient diameter.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Rector Named For Montebello Parish

Appointment of the Rev. Mark Beaufoy as rector of the Parish of Montebello has been announced by the Rt. Rev. John Dixon, Lord Bishop of Montreal.

Mr. Beaufoy, who will take up his duties on October 1, has been incumbent of North Hatley for the past four years. He is an Oxford M.A. and a graduate from Cambridge in Divinity. He served in several churches near Canterbury, England, before coming to Canada; and last year was Lecturer in Church History at Bishop's College, Lennoxville. His wife and two children will accompany him to his new parish.

Montebello Parish includes not only that village, but also the districts of Papineauville, St. Amedee, Avoca and Sedbergh School at Montebello. Christ Church is located at the Seigniory Club in the grounds near the Manor House.

Mr. Beaufoy will be instituted by the Bishop and inducted by the Ven. J. F. Morris, Archdeacon of Clarendon and St. Andrews, on Friday evening, October 3, at Montebello.

Deanery W.A. Conference Held at Rawdon, Que.

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Andrews Deanery met at Rawdon, Que., on Tuesday, with 122 members present, 21 officers of the Montreal Board, and six clergymen.

The meeting was opened with celebration of Holy Communion, the celebrant being the rector, the Rev. S. T. Willis, assisted by Rev. C. Rendell, of Montreal, and the Rev. P. R. Stote, of Grenville. The Rev. C. Rendell was guest preacher.

Luncheon was served at the home of Mrs. Burns, president of the Rawdon senior branch W.A.

The afternoon session was opened by the Rev. S. T. Willis, Mrs. Burns being chairman for the session. Mrs. Dickerson, president of the Montreal branch, brought greetings and gave a few highlights of her recent trip to the Dominion annual convention. The guest speaker was the Rev. Canon H. Hives, who gave a very interesting talk on missionary work done among the Indians. Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh thanked the speaker.

The collection was apportioned to the Pledge fund and the Missionary fund.

Mrs. Walsh, Deanery secretary of Montreal, extended thanks of the officers and visitors to their hostesses for the lovely luncheon and tea.

Missionary Speaker From South Africa at Lachute Baptist Church

Mr. Russell Hughes, a missionary who has just returned from South Africa, will address a special missionary rally in the Lachute Baptist Church on Wednesday, October 1, at 7.30 p.m. Mr. Hughes will have a number of curios on display and will show motion pictures of his missionary labors. One film which will be especially interesting to young people is on "Wild Animal Life in South Africa", from which he draws a spiritual message and application. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend this meeting, and to hear Mr. Hughes, whose ministry has been blessed of God.

Mr. Hughes will be speaking in the Dalesville church on Thursday night.

Two Timely Tracts

HELL-FIRE. — For long centuries various religions have used the hell-fire scare to preserve their power. How much actual truth is there in the idea? Is the doctrine Scriptural and Christian? Is it reasonable and just? What about the 'lake of fire and sulphur'? By letting God's Word do the teaching you will be able to learn the facts. Read this revealing tract, "Hell-Fire — Bible Truth or Pagan Scare?"

"AWAKE FROM SLEEP!" — That these are significant times is obvious to all the mentally competent. Yet, while acknowledging this fact, few appreciate the real meaning of these critical times. The most vital information is being side-stepped. Why? Do you want to know the truth about the world situation? Then read the tract "Awake from Sleep!" It will enlighten and profit you, alerting you to this day's significance, and the things that lie ahead.

25 CENTS FOR 200 "Hell-Fire" tracts; 25 cents for 200 "Awake from Sleep". — Get them to pass along to your neighbors and friends, and thus help in the vindication of the name of our great, loving "creator of the heavens and the earth, whose name alone is Jehovah". Have You A Question

ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you: —

Q. My husband owns a store and employs me at $15.00 a week. Am I entitled to participate in the unemployment insurance plan?

A. No. Contributions are not payable for a wife employed by her husband.

* * *

Q. I work in a hotel and earn $20.00 a week, board and room included. What class of stamp should I get in my insurance book?

A. The weekly value of board and room is fixed by regulation at $6.00 unless employer and employee have agreed on a higher valuation. Thus if you get board and room plus $20.00 weekly wages your total weekly earnings are valued at $26.00. A 72c stamp is therefore required, 36c payable by you and 36c payable by your employer.

* * *

Q. Why can't we draw benefit when unemployed if we leave our district in order to travel, without permission of the Commission's local office?

A. A local office's permission is not required before a claimant can travel. However, when a claimant intends leaving his home area for a short period, he should so inform his local office of his intent and purpose when it will be determined whether or not benefit can be paid for the period of his absence. A claimant, to obtain benefit, must be ready and willing to immediately accept an offer of suitable employment and, if a claimant failed to keep his local office informed of his whereabouts the local office would be unable to locate him should an opportunity to work arise.

YOU NEVER KNOW where you're next going to meet the modern plastic called polythene — as a flexible ice cube tray, a protective bag for fruit and vegetables or in a variety of other forms. Here it is as a handy "squeeze" bottle for deodorants.

FOR THOUSANDS of Canadians nothing can match the thrill of duck hunting — the wheeling flock of birds, the smell of powder in the brisk fall air and a "big one" plummeting down! Shot shell this man is reaching for is another product of the chemical industry.

INCREASED AWARDS for the winners of the popular radio series "C-I-L Singing Stars of Tomorrow" is big news for hundreds of young Canadian singers. Over $4,000 in C-I-L musical awards will be the goal of talented competitors on the program.

Did you know...

The opening of C-I-L's new plant near Edmonton will mark the first time polythene plastic has been manufactured in Canada. The annual output from this plant would be sufficient to make a 1¼" water main long enough to stretch from Halifax to Vancouver.

Softball Now In Final Series

Lowe Bros.' Braves and St. Andrews East Are Last-Ditch Contenders

Lowe Bros' Braves took the lead last Sunday in the Argenteuil Softball League finals, winning against St. Andrews East in the first of the 5-game series.

The trophy presentation to the League champions will be held on October 24 at St. Andrews Inn, with a soiree and dance — W. M. Cottingham having consented to be present and award the Boyd Trophy to the winning club. (Date incorrectly stated last week).

Tigers Drop From Laurentide League In Semi-Finals

St. Jerome Takes Fourth Tilt in Close and Exciting Series

Joliette, Montreal East Even at 4-4 Games

Three-to-two for St. Jerome was the standing after last week-end's games in the exciting semi-finals with Lachute, in the Laurentide Baseball League.

Lachute Tigers won their game here Saturday night, but on Sunday the St. Jerome Lions won each clash in a double-header engagement.

At the game last evening in St. Jerome, with excitement tense and a large spectatorship present from Lachute, St. Jerome took the fourth game with a 2-1 score, thus winning the 4-out-of-7 series and eliminating the local Tigers from the semi-finals.

Brilliant pitching by Bob Weisler, ex-New York Yankees, who has lined up with St. Jerome in the past few weeks, is credited here as the deciding factor for St. Jerome in this series.

Montreal East won their game with Joliette on Tuesday evening, to make the standing 4-4 in this circuit of the semi-finals. At this date (Wednesday), St. Jerome team awaits the outcome in that circuit, to decide who will be their opponents for the finals and the title.

HERE AND THERE

S. Sturgeon, of Midland, Ont., hauled in a 26½ lb. muskie in the bay and the Free Press made quite a play on the names. . . It happened in Oshawa when a man banged Sydney Calber, 51, on the head with a baseball bat and tried to grab his payroll. But Calber grabbed the bat and hit right back, resulting in Joe Paolo, 20, being arrested by police, charged with assault with intent to rob. . . According to the Windsor, N.S., Journal, R.C.M.P. have been called in to stop marauders who travel the highways along orchards, equipped with baskets, strip trees bare and permanently damage the trees.

LACHUTE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS AND ACTIVITIES

By Anne Dwyer

Students' Council

The first Students' Council was held on Tuesday of last week, at the noon hour. The officers for this year are Wayne Riddell, president; Jocelyn Wilson, vice-president; Scott Taylor, secretary; and Anne Dwyer, treasurer.

The representatives for Grade VIII are Patricia Stansfield, Wayne Berry, Ernest Morrison, Audrey Copeland. For Grade IX they are Barbara Wilson, Ronnie Neil, Kenneth Wilson and Joan Dwyer. Those elected in Grade X are Ruth Cowan, Clifton Scott and Jack MacMartin. Heather Graham, Bill Steeves, Marlene Murdoch and Glen Copeland are the representatives for Grade XI.

The first business was to appoint chairmen for the House Committee, Social Committee and Athletic Committee. Ruth Cowan, Anne Dwyer and Glen Copeland were elected, respectively.

This year it is planned to hold the Students' Council Conference here at Lachute High School. This means hard work ahead. A committee was elected to study the procedure of the conference. Headed by Wayne Riddell as chairman, the committee comprises Scott Taylor, secretary, Heather Graham, Marlene Murdoch and Glen Copeland. This group will start the ball rolling and soon the entire school will be planning for the smooth-running of the conference, tentatively set for the week-end of November 15.

Music

This year something new has been added in the music department — a Boys' Choir. This choir consists of about 60 boys in the grades from IV to VIII, all singing soprano. Mr. S. McKyes will teach them songs specially composed and arranged for young male voices. This choir will prepare for the Christmas and Easter concerts, as well as the Music Festival.

The Junior Girls' Choir is also in full swing under the direction of Mr. McKyes. At their rehearsals (Friday noons), 80 girls from grades IV to VIII have shown up. The girls will train in part-singing this year. They are aiming at a good repertoire of songs in harmony.

The Glee Club is larger than ever before, and Mr. McKyes is planning for an ambitious pageant for the Christmas entertainment. Another tentative plan is the production of the operetta, "Oklahoma", in the spring. Despite the hard work ahead of them, the Glee Club is keen on attaining a high standard of performance.

The band lessons have again been resumed by Mr. McKyes. The various instruments purchased by the School Board are loaned to any pupil from Grade V up, interested in music. There is only a slight charge of 50 cents a month, to defray operating expenses.

Top-Rankers in Canadian Boxing

SPORTS CAMERA

By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Canadian Boxing Federation has announced its 1952 list of professional title-holders and top contenders, showing champions from Montreal in half of the eight divisions.

The others are split among Toronto, Quebec City and Vancouver, with one title — the flyweight — vacant.

Here is a run-down on the fellows who rule the roost in the various poundages: heavyweight, Earl Walls, Toronto; light heavyweight, Eddie Zastre, Montreal (formerly of Winnipeg); middleweight, Roy Wouter, Montreal (formerly of Vancouver); welterweight, Johnny Greco, Montreal; lightweight, Armand Savoie, Montreal; featherweight, Frankie Almond, Vancouver; bantamweight, Fernando Gagnon, Quebec City.

Boxing's Strongholds

Montreal is probably Canada's best fight town as far as attendance is concerned, helped along no end by topnotch French boxers such as Laurent Dauthuille who have made it their headquarters on this side of the Atlantic.

The most astonishing part of the federation's announcement was sprinkled down through the various lists of contenders: the numerous mention of Edmonton fighters.

With a population roughly one-tenth that of Montreal, Edmonton placed nine men in the outstanding-boxer class. In contrast, Montreal had only four in that category.

The last heavyweight championship bout, between Walls and Vern Escoe, also of Toronto, was held in Edmonton this summer and that fast-growing oil city has supplied two contenders for Walls' title: Sonny Mathiason and Doug Harper.

There's no apparent reason for Edmonton's upsurge in the boxing picture. True, the Alberta capital is growing rapidly. But it still is many, many thousands off such established boxing centres as Montreal and Toronto.

Perhaps the large number of American oil workers now living in the Edmonton area (with their great interest in boxing) and some good cards, have stirred up the sport there.

Solly Cantor of Toronto, who had a good record while fighting in Britain and is one of the leading contenders for Canadian lightweight honors, was attracted by prospects in Edmonton and moved there earlier this year. For some reason, however, he returned to the east.

Probably because they like to watch their fine group of home-grown lightweights, Toronto fans chiefly support matches in that division. That city's most numerous mentions were in that weight; Cantor, L'il Arthur King (British Empire champion who now fights mainly in the United States), Bryan Kelly and the current favorite rated by many as a good prospect to topple Savoie's crown — Alan McFater.

The man had been recalled by the draft board. After a physical examination, a bored sergeant took over the questioning. "Did you go to grammar school?"

"Yes", he answered. "Also to high school."

"College?" the sergeant yawned.

"I have a B.A. from the University of North Carolina; then graduate courses at Cornell, back to Columbia for journalism, a degree from the University of Mexico, and —"

The sergeant nodded, picked up a rubber stamp, flourished it in mid-air, and stamped it on the questionnaire — one word: "Literate".

Close to 3,000 Teachers Expected At Convention

Close to 3,000 Quebec educators from parts of the province as remote as the Gaspé Peninsula and the mining town of Noranda, will converge on Montreal, October 9 and 10, for the 88th annual convention of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers. As in past years, the session will be held at the High School of Montreal.

The typical convention provides its delegates with a holiday-type atmosphere but the teachers' annual get-together is of a completely serious nature. In addition to hearing keynote addresses on Thursday and Friday mornings, close to 30 sectional meetings are scheduled. At these, specialized problems are discussed in a way that not only gives the teachers of this province an opportunity to learn of new methods that are being tried in the United States and other parts of Canada, but also a chance to evaluate their own techniques by comparing them with those who are attempting to teach the same subject matter in schools scattered throughout Quebec.

Dr. Florence B. Stratemeyer, of Teachers' College, Columbia University, will address two of these sectional meetings. Her subjects are "The Primary Curriculum" and "Towards More Effective Supervision".

Professor Theodore Andersson of Yale University will address teachers of French on "The Trend Towards French in the American Elementary School".

The audio-visual section will hear a talk on British experience with television, from a representative of the British Broadcasting Corporation.

Two important business sessions of the Provincial Association are also on the program. In addition, the teachers will elect a new slate of officers for the 1952-53 year.

On Thursday night, October 9, the annual Award of Merit dinner will be held at the Victoria Hall, Westmount, when a select group of Quebec's teachers will be honored for long and distinguished service. At this time, also Dr. L. P. Patterson, retiring president of the P.A.P.T. and principal of the School for Crippled Children, Montreal, will present the annual presidential report.

Howard Atwood, a member of the staff of Westmount Junior High School, is chairman of this year's Convention Committee of the P.A.P.T.

C-I-L PLANT VISIT ON PROGRAM FOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NEXT WEEK

"Industry and Commerce in Lachute"
Contributed by Lachute Chamber of Commerce

Annual General Meeting Announced, Election of New Officers and Executive

Industrial Tour, October 1

The next industrial visit for the Chamber of Commerce members and guests takes place, as previously announced, on October 1. On this occasion the group will tour the C-I-L plant at Brownsburg.

During the current year of this organization, we have been privileged to visit a number of interesting establishments, including Ayers Limited, Dominion Shuttle Co. Ltd., J. C. Wilson Ltd., J. P. MacKimmie & Sons, and Giles Publishing House Ltd. Each tour has contributed to our better acquaintance with the operations and the products of industries with which this town is vitally concerned.

Next Wednesday's visit to the Brownsburg plant of C-I-L, and meeting with its personnel, will be another special privilege which few will care to miss, and we are assured in advance of a highly pleasant and instructive afternoon.

• • •

Annual General Meeting

October 2 is the date of the annual general meeting, to be held at 7 p.m. in the Hotel Laurentien. Following the supper, the Chamber of Commerce officers for the ensuing year will be duly elected.

The membership is enthusiastic for a year of effective activity, and in this anticipation it goes without saying, that every member should be present — to show appreciation to the retiring officers, and to express encouragement to the new executive.

• • •

The Tourist Bureau

Those of our residents, or visiting friends, who had recourse to the information service of our Tourist Bureau during the past season, can testify to the efficient work of this office — whether in advice on fishing grounds, spots of interest, or accommodation. We wish to give public recognition to the co-operation of Mr. Tommy Stewart in his assistance to visitors through this Tourist Bureau. The visitors' register, incidentally, shows a considerable list of names; and the Chamber feels well repaid for its effort, in the satisfaction of having given good service to passing tourists.

VISITS CANADA

Lord Willingdon, a son of a former Governor-General of Canada, is visiting Jasper, Alta., and inspecting some of the features of North America's largest park. He is president of the Preservation of Fauna Society of Great Britain. Accompanied by his wife, he is making his first visit to Jasper in 25 years. In 1927, he accompanied his father when the Governor-General paid a visit to Jasper Park Lodge.

CHRISTMAS PROBLEM

Moose Jaw, Sask (CP). — Moose Jaw's "Golden Mile" may not twinkle this Christmas. The junior chamber of commerce which has decorated the main street with lights for the last 10 Christmases says it cannot do it this year unless it receives more financial backing.

In the stock market a smart man can always catch on but the wise man knows when to let go.
