Low-Wage Foreign Imports Have Cut Deeply Into Textiles, Says Clement Tremblay, O.B.E.

Speaker This Week at 30th Annual Meeting Of Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers Association

From April 1951, One of Most Severe Depressions In Industry; Big Drop in Employment Noted

Quebec City, Nov. 4 — The Canadian textile industry, which was founded in this province more than 300 years ago, has served a growing country throughout its history and is now Quebec's leading manufacturing enterprise, according to Clément Tremblay, O.B.E., Lachute Mills. Secretary-treasurer and a director of Ayers Limited, Mr. Tremblay spoke Tuesday at the opening luncheon of the three-day 30th annual meeting of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers Association, of which he is a past-president and a member of the Executive. More than 200 delegrates from all over Canada, their wives and guests, were in attendance.

Speaking alternately in English and French, Mr. Tremblay traced the growth of the textile industry in Quebec, from the first spinning wheels in the settlers' homes to the attractive "textile towns" of today.

He said that the textile industry had experienced its ups and downs through the years and, while expanding, had unfortunately not grown in proportion to the rest of the country. Currently domestic mills, under heavy pressure of imports, are supplying only 70% of the textiles used in Canada.

The making of textiles remained pretty much a household industry in this country until well into the 19th century, Mr. Tremblay said, and then the new mills enjoyed a certain amount of prosperity until early in the 1900s, when a bad depression struck.

"About this time Canada adopted a new system of reduced tariff duties, which included the controversial British Preferential. It is difficult to believe that this move was solely responsible for the bad years which followed, but it certainly added to the difficulties of the industry."

This industrial slump caused a great trek of Quebec workers to the U.S., Mr. Tremblay said. "Credit for halting this flood of emigration was in no small way due to the primary textile industry, which gradually overcame its handicaps".

Morin Taxpayers Meet Officials Of Central Board

In Disagreement Over Method of Property Assessment

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — A large gathering of the ratepayers of Morin Heights and Mille Isles took place Wednesday evening, to meet with the members of the Central School Board, who came to this School Municipality to explain the financial standing of the Central School area.

Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., and Mr. J. McGibbon spoke for the Central Board, and then questions were invited from those present.

Chief topic of discussion was the assessments based on the Wanklyn Report, and it was felt that Article 373 of the Educational Act had not been followed as it should have been. Many points of view were expressed, and notes of the meeting were taken by Mr. Linton Armstrong, secretary of the Central Board, so that further study could be given to the points brought out.

However, owing to the need for finances to carry on the school work, a motion was finally passed (but under protest): "That for this year only, the budget, as made up by the Central Board and based upon the Wanklyn Report, be accepted; but that before another budget is made, this Local School Board shall have assessors go out through the School Municipality and make an assessment of all properties within this School Municipality, upon a code system that would be fair to all proprietors."

The motion was carried, but with dissenters showing their disapproval.

No Quorum at Meeting of Protestant School Board

The members of the Protestant School Board met on Monday for their regular monthly session. Representatives from the Women's Institute were present, also representatives from the R.C.A.F. Station, to meet the School Board. Owing to the absence of some of the members, a quorum could not be formed and therefore the meeting had to be postponed to a later date.

Observances Planned by Legion Branch 171

The regular monthly meeting of the Morin Heights branch of the Canadian Legion was held Tuesday evening of last week. Comrade E. W. Kneeland was in the chair, in the absence of the president, Comrade F. C. Cameron.

Many important matters were brought up for discussion. The financial report was presented and accepted, also reports given by the different committees. Two new members were enrolled, Comrade Rev. Robert Blair and Comrade J. Morin.

The committee for Remembrance Day and services on the preceding Sunday, outlined the program for these occasions. Poppies will be on sale commencing this Saturday.

The Chinese language and its dialects are used by nearly 500 million people. The English language by a little more than 270 million.

Hit by Stray Bullet

A near victim of an unknown hunter's gun was Henri Durand, 41, of St. Jerome, who was struck in the back by a stray bullet.

He told Provincial Police that he was crossing the railroad track near St. Jerome at 4 p.m. Saturday, when he felt a sharp pain in his back. Friends drove him to the Hotel Dieu Hospital in St. Jerome, where doctors removed the bullet. His condition is reported good.

Quebec Drivers' Tests

Quebec, Nov. 3 (CP) — The Quebec government will ask the legislature to impose a pshycho-physical test on drivers who want permits to drive automobiles.

Solicitor General Antoine Rivard announced the government legislation, designed to cut down the high rate of traffic accidents in the province, will be introduced during the session opening November 12.

The bill will require permit applicants to submit to a series of tests which will establish whether they are fit to drive.

At first the tests will probably be applied only to new drivers, but eventually the government plans to generalize their application throughout the province.

Poppy Campaign, Remembrance Day Observance Outlined by Lachute Legion

Local Veterans to Participate in Sunday Rite At St. Andrews East, Innovation This Year

— By James A. Pillage —

On November 11 we will be observing Armistice Day, the end of World War I. And now, seven years after another world war, we are remembering another victory. We will not remember these happenings with triumph, however, but with solemnity. Many will recall the wild celebrations after these two victories; we thought we were celebrating the end of war — that we and our children would never need to go to war again.

But once more we appear to be under threat of another, more deadly fight for freedom. In two world wars we fought with our eyes on the future — we knew that, after the fight was over, we would have to roll up our sleeves and work to pay for them with vigilance and wisdom. As we remember our fallen comrades, we will also be thinking — "What of Tomorrow?"

In our practical measures to aid the maimed and displaced humanity of the last wars, let us try to build a better world without war and carnage. Only in this way can we really repay our debts to those who died for us.

The annual Poppy Campaign for Lachute will be brought before the local public commencing tomorrow, Friday, November 7, and it is timely to give thought to the aims and objects of this canvass.

The Memorial Hall built by Lachute Branch of the Canadian Legion may well be regarded as evidence of perseverance and prestige in this great organization, of which Lachute is only a minor segment. The Legionnaires are working to help in peace, as they did in war. But on the other side of the picture, are a proportion of veterans permanently impaired in health and barred from an active livelihood — also the wives left widowed, and families left fatherless, who still proudly carry on. The Poppy Fund is not for Legion Halls and Legion finances, it is a succor to veterans in personal privation and distress, and to dependents in need.

The Poppy — emblem of this humanitarian aid — is fabricated by ex-servicemen, disabled by wounds or sickness. The purchase price of the Poppies goes as revenue to the Vetcraft Shops employing these men, while local profits from the canvass accrue to the locally administered Poppy Fund. These facts deserve consideration so that the Poppy campaign will receive generous support throughout this district. When Legionnaires and High School girls visit your homes or canvass you on the street, please remember that all profits are to help local veterans and their families who are in need or distress. Wreaths will be displayed in store windows, and a large display will be shown in Cliff Cunningham's show-window on Main Street.

Remembrance Day services will be held at the Lachute Memorial Park, commencing at 10.45 a.m., Tuesday, November 11. Following is the order of ceremonies:

Legion members and veterans will fall in at 10.15 at the Legion Hall, Foundry Street, wearing berets and medals. Parading to the Park, they will arrive in formation at the civic plaque at 10.30 a.m. Then will follow — laying of wreath, assembly at the Cenotaph 10.35 a.m., with laying of wreaths and the traditional Remembrance ceremonies.

The Armistice Reunion supper will be held this Saturday, November 8, at 6.30 p.m. sharp, at the Legion Hall, Lachute. All Legionnaires and veterans are invited to attend.

A Memorial Service will be held in St. Andrews East this year, on Sunday, November 9, at 3 p.m. Local Legionnaires and veterans will meet at the Legion Hall in Lachute, at 2 p.m. Transportation will be provided for those who need it. A full attendance is urged for this service, honoring the veterans from St. Andrews East district who died in the two World Wars.

FOR THE FALLEN

They went with songs to the battle, they were young,
Straight of limb, true of eye, and steady and aglow.
They were staunch to the end against odds uncounted,
They fell with their faces to the foe.
They shall not grow old, as we who are left grow old,
Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn,
At the going down of the sun and in the morning,
We will remember them.

Trans-Northern Oil Products Line, via St. Eustache, Oka, Now in Operation

Feat Accomplished in Record Time by Company Engineers; Long Regarded with Misgivings as "Pipe That Would Never Be Built"

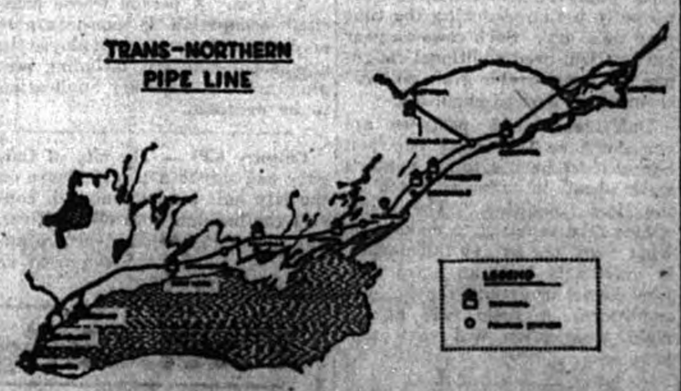

Petroleum products began to flow last Saturday through the Trans-Northern Pipe Line, whose construction has been witnessed by many in this area as it passed through St. Eustache and Oka, before crossing the Lake of Two Mountains.

The step marks the addition of an important transportation route to Canada's oil industry.

Through Trans-Northern, finished products from Montreal refineries will move year-round to Ontario markets. Trans-Northern is a 442-mile system that will transport refined products from McColl-Frontenac, British American and Shell refineries at Montreal and Clarkson (Ont.) to Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton and other intermediate points.

From Montreal to Toronto and Hamilton, a distance of 400 miles, the line is 10 inches in diameter; a 42-mile 8-inch branch line runs from Farran's Point, near Cornwall, to Ottawa. Four main pumping stations are located at Montreal, Farran's Point, Kilburnie and Brighton. The pipe line has an initial capacity of 40,000 barrels daily.

Nineteen refined petroleum products including motor gasolines, diesel fuel, stove and furnace oils, will be transported through the line. The line can also be used for transportation of liquid petroleum gases. Products are pumped through the pipe at about four miles per hour, thus taking about four days to travel from Montreal to Toronto.

Showing route of pipe line planned and owned by three major oil companies, connecting Montreal East (via St. Eustache and Oka) to Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa.

Arundel Boy Wins High Honors In Agriculture

The Kiwanis Club of Montreal held their annual Youth Day and luncheon last Thursday, when boys and girls from Huntingdon, Ormstown, Argenteuil and Buckingham who had won highest honors at the local exhibitions, were entertained by the Kiwanis members.

At 10 a.m., the club committee met the boys and girls at Canadair plant, where they spent nearly two hours on an inspection tour, viewing construction features of bombers and other aircraft.

At the luncheon at the Mount Royal Hotel, Mr. John S. M. Hayes was in the chair and presented each winning boy with a bronze model of a dairy cow. Mr. Hayes congratulated the winners and praised the work of the Agronomists for their efforts in training the boys and girls.

The winner for the North Shore of the Ottawa Valley was Edward Godin, of Arundel, and Gilles Patry of Buckingham came second. It is noted that Edward Godin stood first in competition with 172 boys and girls.

The boys from this district were accompanied by the local Agronomists, E. Seguin, of Buckingham, and Alex Bothwell, of Lachute.

3-Year-Old Boy Fatally Shot in Farmyard Mishap

Marc Lemay, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lemay, lost his life in a shooting mishap at his parents' home in Brown's Gore, between St. Andrews and East Settlement.

The tragedy occurred Saturday afternoon, under unusual circumstances. While the boy's elder brothers, Bernard and Jean-Pierre, and a friend Jeannot Moderie, 17, were target-practising with a .22 rifle, the youngster moved into range of the gun when Moderie fired. The target was a wagon rack leaning against a stable wall. The youngster stepped into the space behind the rack, which hid the victim from view.

Moderie fired a shot, and it was found later that the bullet had pierced the lad's shoulder and passed through his lung.

Mr. and Mrs. Lemay were absent in Quebec City at the time, and the little lad expired shortly after being hit, before assistance could be brought to the scene, there being no telephone in the immediate vicinity.

Patrolman Albert Legault arrived on the scene from Brownsburg, and immediately notified the coroner, Dr. Jules Lafleur, of Lachute, who pronounced the child's death accidental. Det. Philippe Therriault investigated.

Bro. W. K. McArthur, Past Sovereign Grand Messenger, made the presentation, and Noble Grand, Bro. J. Connelly, called on Bro. Smith to respond. An enjoyable social hour was spent at Mr. Smith's home, where the event took place.

CHAMBER'S TRIBUTE THIS MONTH TO "L'OUVROIR STE. ELISABETH" WOMEN'S BENEVOLENT ENTERPRISE

New Residential Subdivision Planned On Eastern Outskirts of Town

Lachute To Be Featured on English Network In "CBC Road Show" Program Series

"Industry and Commerce in Lachute"
Contributed by Lachute Chamber of Commerce

It is almost a year since the Chamber of Commerce instituted its "Industry of the Month" plan, spotlighting a different enterprise in the community each month. It seems appropriate now, in November and with the holiday season not far hence, that we should honor particularly a work-project which is purely benevolent, based on principles of Christian charity and giving succor to those less fortunate. . . Such an enterprise is "L'Ouvroir Ste. Elisabeth"—a hive of activity which Chamber of Commerce members were privileged to visit yesterday afternoon.

It may be mentioned at this point that, such information as this column presents, has been difficult to procure, for the directing figure in this "industry for the poor" (Mme Ernest Deslauriers) is humility personified, seeking no praise, congratulation or even recognition. She sees no purpose in publicizing her indefatigable devotion to this work; it is only on our persuasion, that publicity will augment the supply of bread and clothing for the poor, that she has consented to answer our questions and enquiries.

"L'Ouvroir Ste. Elisabeth" was started in December, 1947, when Ste. Anastasie Parish undertook to hand out Christmas cheer to poor families; 25 baskets were distributed in the parish. Gifts of money, food, toys, clothing, shoes, etc., were generously donated; and a small surplus of clothing, not immediately suitable, prompted the ladies to organize a sewing circle to repair and remake these garments. Subsequently, in order to meet the most urgent needs and make the most judicious disposal of this clothing, a visit was made to needy homes. And again, towards the end of January, a second distribution of parcels was made.

In February, 1948, on the suggestion of Curé the Rev. W. Lacourse, and with collaboration of the Sacred Heart League, a house-to-house collection brought forth 3,081 articles of clothing and footwear, and cash donations of $124.35. . . So, with this impetus l'Ouvroir Ste. Elisabeth was soundly established.

Real Estate Development East of Town Limits

A new development is announced by Messrs. E. M. Jones and W. S. Jones, local Insurance and Real Estate agents, who have bought 15 acres of land situated in the Parish of St. Jerusalem, quarter of a mile east of the town, lying between the St. Jerome highway and the North River and facing the Mountain.

The Jones brothers plan on having this area surveyed and to be known as the "Jones Development", with lots to be sold as choice residential lots. There will be one street facing the river, with bungalows only built on it, and three streets running between the highway and the river street. In all, there will be approximately 80 lots to be sold.

The promoters hope to include town water with hydrants, sewerage system, sidewalks, dwellings (to be built so many feet from the sidewalk), and maple trees to be planted on the corners of each lot.

Restrictions will be stipulated as to construction of dwellings permitted to be built. The lots will be put on the market for sale by the spring of 1953.

This high-quality show will do full justice to Lachute and its leading enterprises, and the Chamber of Commerce has been pleased to give its co-operation, in every way possible, for the preparation of the program.

Good listening, then — on CBM, Friday, November 14, at 7.15 p.m.

Draft of By-Law Has No Teeth for "Blare of Bands and Strum of Bass"

But Brownsburg Regulation 89, Duly Adopted, Controls Loudspeakers, Forbids on Sundays

Fire Apparatus Cannot Legally Ignore Red Light Says Advisor

Brownsburg — The Council's effort to control the hours at which grills and taverns could be opened and dance hall music played, fizzled out like a damp squib after the reading of a by-law drawn up for this purpose.

The Council's legal advisor informed that when the Quebec Government handed over control of liquor establishments to the local autonomy, "it had not spoken of the juke-box". The by-law was framed to control the hours of dancing in a public hall, and its prohibition on Sunday; but the main purpose of the Council's action, to stop the blare of bands and strum of bass, was left severely alone.

In obvious disappointment Councillor Rose said: "This is not what we want at all".

Councillor Lavoie couldn't understand why the government allows people to build grills and dance halls if there is a law to close them made by councils.

Councillor Ball suggested it was just a political move by the government, to divest itself of the thankless task of controlling hotels by shifting it onto the necks of councillors.

Mayor Pariseau was doubtful of what their rights were on the matter, or whether they could control hotels on a Sunday.

The secretary, Emile Hebert suggested the members take a copy of the by-law and study it with a view of discussing it at next meeting. . . Thus the matter ended.

By-law 88 dealing with taxes of all kinds was revised after 10 years of operation, and passed on the motion of Councillor Lavoie, seconded by Councillor Lafleur.

By-law 89 was read and adopted, whereby loudspeakers are banished from the streets except on the permission of the mayor, and prohibited on Sunday. Proposed by Councillor Rose and seconded by Councillor Ball.

Some discussion arose on the possibility of enforcing the present by-law which prohibited the playing of any musical instrument after midnight, in a public place; but nothing was decided.

The Council was also informed by its legal advisor that the fire apparatus or the private car of the Fire Chief could not go through the red light, no matter what the emergency, because of its legal implications as affecting pedestrians. To provide for such a contingency the light must be manually operated to allow the fire reels to get through.

Fall Replacement for Summer Pasturage

Farmers who get the most out of their dairy cattle know that well-bred cows need more than they get from good pastures. Therefore, it is much more necessary to provide them with extra feed when pasture herbage gets dry and fibrous as the summer season ends. Such a condition entails a manifold loss to the owner of a herd of dairy cattle. Not only does the dry herbage reduce the milk flow, it is also conducive to other serious consequences if extra feed cannot be or is not provided for dairy cows.

One of the serious conditions which is liable to occur when a cow in late summer is allowed to get into a run-down condition is that she is very liable to produce a weak, unhealthy calf. Cows bred for fall calving are just far enough along in their gestation period to be most vitally affected by under-feeding in August and September. The farmer must depend upon his calf crop for improvement and development. If he wilfully neglects his animals at this time he cannot expect his herd to become better.

Supplementary Feeding

Most dairy farmers are familiar with the usual decline of milk production during mid-summer. Many are inclined to ascribe the cause to flies and hot weather. But the chief cause of midsummer decline in milk flow is under-feeding, due to dry, unpalatable, inadequate pastures. Many farmers have learned to supplement such pastures with silage; others are improving their pasture management. Dry midsummer pasture grass either with or without other non-legume roughage requires additional protein in the grain mixture as compared with a suitable supplemental mixture for earlier pasture conditions.

Supplementing inadequate pastures during midsummer is particularly important for cows that freshen during the spring months. Such cows need full feeding of well-balanced rations during the time that pastures are in poor condition. Cows that freshen during the fall months and are approaching the close of their lactations during the time when pastures are inadequate, may need considerably more feed in preparation for their succeeding lactations and for milk production than is supplied by midsummer pastures. They will need some grain if they are to be in good condition at freshening time. If such cows are not in good condition when they freshen, their production for the succeeding lactation will be lower than it otherwise would be had the cows been properly prepared during the time they were dry. Such cows on poor pasture will need additional roughage and considerable grain to build them up to desired condition.

Dairymen whose pastures are run down so that cows can just barely exist have a tough winter's work ahead in order to catch up the lost condition. The extra winter feed required to make good what cows lose by dry fall pasture is practically lost; an extra milk flow cannot be expected under such conditions. A little feed at the right time often will save tons later on.

Soil Mechanics Conf'ce at Winnipeg

The sixth Canadian Soil Mechanics Conference, sponsored by the Associate Committee on Soil and Snow Mechanics of the National Research Council, will be held in Winnipeg on December 15 and 16, 1952. This meeting, which brings together soil scientists from across Canada, will be part of the 75th anniversary celebrations of the University of Manitoba.

The first day's program will be devoted to the study of Manitoba soils and particularly those in the Winnipeg area. Papers by Professors J. Ellis, O. Marantz and A. Grow Giant Spuds On Ontario Farm

Owen Sound (CP) — Potatoes weighing more than three pounds each are being grown at the small community of Park Head, 10 miles west of Owen Sound.

Rex Cruickshank introduced these large spuds — called Keswick — last year. The year's harvest has produced 200 bags an acre.

The potatoes are blight-resisting, and Mrs. Cruickshank says one potato is enough to feed the Cruickshank family of five for dinner.

Mr. Cruickshank is also experimenting with another type of large tuber called the Canso. It and the Keswick are grown extensively in the Maritimes but so far he and Ivan McClure of nearby Chatworth are the only two growers in this area.

Last year the Dominion government released four bags each of Canso and Keswick potatoes to certified seed growers. Cruickshank decided to give them a try. Out of four bags of Cansos the yield was 75 bags. Keswicks yielded slightly less.

Though free from blight, these potatoes suffer from other diseases. The Cruickshanks have a special dusting machine which looks like an octopus. It has a dozen jets.

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you: —

Q. It sometimes happens that payment of benefit is delayed because the employer has not returned the insurance book. Why should the insured person suffer in such cases?

A. It is the responsibility of the insured person to obtain the book from his employer at separation. Where the book cannot be obtained immediately, it is sometimes possible to take a provisional claim, which will be adjusted when the book is received.

Q. I am a farmer working about six months a year in the bush. May I get an exemption from insurance?

A. Yes. A person whose principal occupation is non-insurable may, upon becoming employed in a seasonal industry, including logging, make a voluntary application to be excepted.

Calgary (CP) — The city of Calgary has signed a 10-year lease on the city hall market and will convert the building into civic offices. The one-storey brick structure opposite city hall has been used as a market since 1920.

decade, is precision pumping and continuous control from the despatching office. All products are metered into the system at Montreal East and are again metered out of the system at the various delivery terminals. This enables each owner company to receive at its own terminal exactly the same barrel of product that its refinery delivered into the line.

Construction

At the peak of the construction period from 1,200 to 1,500 men were employed in laying the 440-mile system, which was completed in record time. Over its entire route the line makes 18 water crossings, 41 crossings under highways and 34 crossings under railways. Generally buried two to four feet underground, the line is laid deeper in congested areas.

Sections of the line were coated and wrapped to protect against corrosion. Where crossing water, the pipe was coated with coal tar, wrapped with asbestos and fiberglas; wooden slats were added for further protection. The water crossings included 7,700 feet at a 45-foot depth below the surface of Lake of Two Mountains; 2,200 feet under the Prairie River in 20 feet of water the Gananoque River, the Rideau Canal and Rideau River are among the other water crossings. Around Hamilton harbour Trans-Northern Pipe Line runs for some 3½ miles along the causeway and under the ship channel, crossing the channel at 40-foot depth.

Welding of the 40-foot pipe lengths was carefully inspected to ensure that no breaks or leaks would develop. The welds were checked by gamma ray and X-ray photography.

As the pipe line progressed along its 50-foot right-of-way — mainly across farmlands — clean-up crews followed the pipe layers to repair fences, replace sod and restore the land to its original condition. Crops will again be cultivated in farmers' fields while the petroleum products pass below ground.

Operation

The various fuels are pumped through the line in sequence according to their specific gravity. Grade one gasoline would be followed immediately by grade two gasoline, for example, and this would be followed by kerosene. Mixing of the products where they meet is negligible because the tendency for the products to commingle is minimized through modern techniques which control pressure and turbulence.

Meters measure the amount of products pumped into — and out of — the Trans-Northern line.

Montreal is a key station and all other stations synchronize their pressure and rate of flow with that established at Montreal. Pressure controls keep the line pressure within certain limits, approximately 1,000 lbs. A teletype system links the four pumping stations and ten meter stations.

History

Jointly owned by Shell, McColl-Frontenac and British American, the Trans-Northern Pipe Line Company was formed in 1949 to provide dependable day by day delivery of petroleum products to the constantly expanding markets in Quebec and Ontario. Previously, oil products were shipped by Lake tankers from Montreal to marine terminals located on the Great Lakes. Here they were stored pending distribution. Since navigation is closed for five months a year, the companies were faced with the necessity of expanding both tank fleets and storage capacity to carry through the winter season. This need for expansion coincided with Canada's critical steel shortage. Construction of Trans-Northern Pipe Line required less steel than would have been needed in an alternative program to provide adequate storage and shipping facilities. The pipe line also provides greater flexibility since products of any type and any quantity can be delivered any day in the year.

The products pipe line provides strategic advantages to Eastern Canada in the event of a national emergency as well. Less vulnerable than the canal system, there is a greater assurance of uninterrupted transportation.

Route

Beginning with the main pumping and meter stations at Pointe-aux-Trembles, the Trans-Northern Pipe Line crosses the Thousand Island and Prairie Rivers and then heads southwest, running a mile and a half under Lake of Two Mountains at Oka Point. The line continues to Cornwall, its first terminal, then following routes shown in the accompanying map.

Bell Communication System

A modern communications network, installed by Bell Telephone, will control distribution to the various terminals — utilizing telephone, teletype and special telephone wires to operate push-button control circuits.

All stations will also be linked by Bell teletype so that orders for various products can be transmitted to the Montreal East refineries, and advice received as to delivery time, etc.

Exact timing will be essential. When the Kingston centre, for example, teletypes orders for quantities of different products, the dispatching centre will advise exactly when each will reach the Kingston station, which will then draw them off the main pipeline through valves.

Remembrance Day

"GOD'S FINGER touched him and he slept."

After the first world war, the tomb of an unknown soldier was dedicated as a national shrine, to perpetuate the glorious deeds of the men who fought and died for the liberties they held dear — the liberties they wanted their sons and daughters to become heir to, in the generations to follow.

They died. Those who were left remembered the cause for which they died, and sought to give expression to the silence of those dead ones by erecting monuments of stone. The tomb of the unknown soldier, where the remains of some nameless body from the battlefields was placed in restful peace, became the catafalque of a nation's contribution to the cause for which he died.

In France, the Arc de Triomphe. In England, the Cenotaph. In the United States, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. In Canada, the Peace Tower. In all the cities and villages from which men went forth to die so that freedom could endure — the monument of stone, or wood, or whatever the form — a memorial through which speak the mighty hosts of those who fought and died so that we who are left could continue to live, and through which we can symbolize the debt we owe our soldier dead. — "Forever honored and forever mourned". — The Cenotaph.

As we stand in respectful silence at the memorial we have erected, in fact and in thought, let us remember that God alone knows the price we paid, and still are paying, for the triumphant dawn which followed the sacrifice of those young lives. Only He can ever know the extent of the unspoiled youth, untried genius, and unused leadership which were squandered so fruitlessly, so needlessly, to satiate the mad desire of power-drunk war lords. It was an intolerable price to pay for any transient triumph.

It is fitting that the memory of these valiant crusaders in the cause of human progress be perpetuated in the hearts and minds of all Canadians. It is fitting, too, that we who are left make that sacrifice a promise — a promise that it shall not be in vain.

Tests for Drivers

WITH NO statistics immediately at hand, we hazard a guess that the majority of Quebec traffic accidents are caused — neither by those of minor years, nor by those normally incapable of driving. The worst offenders are the reckless and the drunken driver; and both, in their saner moments, have full mental and physical qualifications to pass all tests. The proposed government legislation, to impose a test with the issuing of licenses, and to raise the eligible age for juniors, is therefore wielding an axe far from the root of the trouble.

However, the bill to be introduced during the coming session will be a step in the right direction — whatever its terms. It reveals a growing consciousness of the ill repute attendant upon Quebec's traffic record. It shows an earnest desire to cope with the evil and curb the toll; so that, out of this enactment, we may even hope for pressure where it's needed — on the road hog and the alcohol addict, to deprive them of their permits and halt their hazardous ways.

In Passing

IT TAKES all kinds to make a world, and in the experience of running a newspaper we meet up with many of the 59 varieties.

The sharpest contrast is between two types of contributors whose offerings reach the editorial desk. One says: "Please print this exactly" — complete with misspellings, poor grammar, and a verbose headline which pays no regard to limitations of column width. The other, more modest and kindly, says: "Please change this to suit" or "Please correct mistakes" — and even, once in a while, writes to thank us for our efforts and the improvement in the printed story.

While conscious of their shortcomings and open to correction, most editors bristle mildly when someone, obviously less qualified, tells them how it should be done or else.

Underground but Under Scrutiny

ABOUT a year from now Canada will be able to boast that she has, in at least one respect, the latest model in the world. That will be the Toronto rapid-transit system which is to open in December 1953.

Ever since the lever to start the first pile driver was pulled on September 8, 1949, by Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson, the construction of Toronto's subway has incorporated the best features of United States and European systems.

It will be one of seven in North America, other big ones being at New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia: one of four in the Commonwealth along with London, Glasgow and Sydney, Australia.

The spending of the $40,000,000 involved in the four-and-one-half-mile route has had at every stage the close attention of the people who provided the funds — the street-car riders. Crowds of sidewalk superintendents watched the excavation of downtown streets, and the almost incredible manipulation and placing of huge steel girders in the grip of electric cranes.

To keep watchers posted, the Toronto Transportation Commisson, builders of the subway, issued "Sidewalk Superintendents' Manuals" as progress on the work warranted, and shot a color movie which has been making the rounds of local organizations.

It cannot be said that Toronto takes Operation Subway just in its stride. The city is proud of it, and the pride is pardonable. Clippings from newspapers in all parts of the world except from behind the Iron Curtain indicate that the building of the world's 15th subway has not gone unnoticed.

So Canada's second largest city has something underground. It may not be oil and uranium or a great iron ore body. Nevertheless, the subway too reflects the tremendous development of post-war Canada.

Bone of Contention

TWO authorities disagree on the attitude of dogs with bones.

Adam Smith said: "Man is an animal that makes bargains; no other animal does this — one dog does not change a bone with another."

On the other hand, Aesop, you will remember, told of a dog holding a bone in his mouth and looking into the still waters of a pool. There he saw another dog looking up at him and this dog also held a bone. Certain that the dog's bone was the bigger one, the dog dropped his bone and snatched at the one in the water. When the ripples had subsided, he had no bone and neither had the dog looking up at him.

Perhaps Smith would have used a different simile if he'd been a philosopher and Aesop drawn a different moral if he'd been an economist. After all, dogs have been known to surrender their bones when they were tempted with a piece of meat and it's only by surrendering the things of lesser value that we can hope to snatch the opportunities of something better.

Wear A Poppy

Wear a Poppy —
For those who fought and gave their all
The land they loved to save;
How small our crown of sacrifice
To that lone foreign grave.

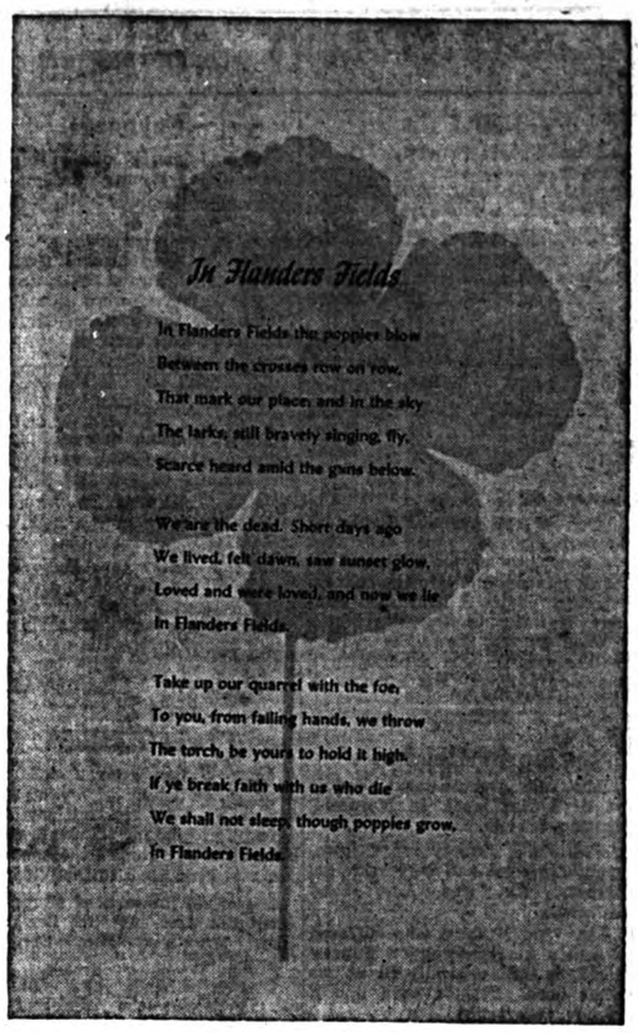

Wear a Poppy —
For those sailor boys who sleep afar
Beneath a mist-grey sea
Where the restless waves o'er the deep will sing
Their dirge while time shall be.

Wear a Poppy —
For the airmen who gallantly volunteered
But came not from the strife,
Theirs was a glorious mission to
The everlasting life.

Wear a Poppy —
For the men who came back to a humdrum world,
Their job to do once more —
And keep the faith to comrades left

The 'Freshman' M.P.

By R. J. Deachman

Some time ago I wrote a story entitled "Parliament and the New Members". It was a simple story. In it I pointed out that the new M.P.'s face difficulties. The majority of them have had very little experience, especially with critical audiences. They have not yet learned where to search for the needed facts. It's a tough job to write a speech for delivery in the House of Commons but what a load is lifted from the mind when it is all over.

The new member and, by this, I mean the man appearing in parliament for the first time, has never before had access to the sources of information. If he had he would now be able to make full use of his opportunity. Some day that man will appear in the House of Commons and make a speech which will be a credit to his constituency. Yes, many of them do it. Under the circumstances it is a tremendous task. Some rise to positions of distinction despite their lack of experience. They deserve the accolade.

My story suggested that they should be helped. It should be made clear to them that the facts they need are readily available. If the older members would give a few brief talks to their new associates it would be of great assistance. They could be told something about the Bureau of Statistics, the Parliamentary Library, the different departments of government and the work done by each. The parliamentary reading room gives free access to almost every daily and weekly paper in Canada. The new member should be prepared to study. An M.P. has a man's job and a tough one.

The replies I received from my story were outstanding. Many appreciated the suggestions I had made. One or two thought that I was trying to fashion everyone into a common form of speech. Nothing was further from my mind. The members have common sources of information but time could be saved if the new member were given a little more help at the start. The difference between the veterans of parliament and the "bottom rung" is that the former know the facts and how to state them. Once, years ago, I congratulated a middle aged man upon the splendid speech he delivered one evening in a small town in Ontario. He slipped his arm through mine as we walked along the street and said: "When I made my first speech I was a grown man but I cried myself to sleep that night, now I am convinced it was the best speech I ever made". Perhaps it was but I doubt it. He was an excellent speaker when I knew him.

A friend of mine raises this contention: "Parliament can rise no higher than its source. It is well that this should be so, otherwise we might have a perfect government. It would not be popular." He may be right but I doubt it. Sound political conceptions have struck deep into Canadian soil. A candidate once said to me, if a man could present a free umbrella to every voter he would never lose an election. I didn't believe him. There may be one here and there who could be bought with a stick of candy but the vast majority of Canadian voters are absolutely unpurchaseable.

The road to true democracy is long and difficult. When we reach the summit we may find that it was not worth the effort but that does not constitute a justification for indifference. It should provide an incentive to the constituents to do what they can to help their member but they should never ask him to do the impossible — leave that to the voters in the next constituency.

Casualties in Korea

I listened to the news today —
so many dead.
And you and I are guilty,
we killed them,
And go about our business daily.
We talk so glibly, "the United Nations",
"Terrible, isn't it, the war in Korea";
What has that to do with Death?
They die, we talk, the war goes on.

B. of M. Folder Is Helpful to Farmers

Many farmers planning farm improvements are held back by a lack of ready cash. For such men, the Bank of Montreal's "Quiz for a Go-Ahead Farmer" is especially helpful. This interesting little folder deals with Farm Improvement Loans. It explains what they are, how they can help farmers make more money, and how to go about getting a loan.

The "Quiz" emphasizes the extreme low cost and convenience of Farm Improvement Loans. The charge is five per cent, simple interest, repayable in instalments matched to seasonal-income peaks. It includes a check-list of the purposes for which these loans are available, such as payment for new or used implements and equipment; livestock; electrical or drainage installation; and additions or improvements to farm buildings.

If you have farm improvements to make and need a loan to complete your plans, call in at the B of M's Lachute branch for a copy of the bank's "Quiz" folder. It's yours for the asking. At the same time, have a chat with Donald Hay, the manager. Mr. Hay is experienced in farm financing, and you can count on him in every way possible. Why not drop into the B of M next time you're in town?

Open Letter of Thanks

To The Editor —

We, the 665 Jehovah's Witnesses who were assembled here in the Lachute Auditorium for three days, would like to express our thanks to all the town officials who made it possible for us to use the wonderful facilities of your town.

To the people of Lachute and Brownsburg who were so kind as to open up their homes to us, to the extent that very few people had to find accommodations in the hotels, our warm thanks and appreciation go to these people, who helped to make our assembly a success.

Let Not Our Hearts Forget !

They fought and died, those men of war,
They gave their lives — could they give more?
Now fields of crimson poppies tell
That here the bravest, noblest fell.

Supreme indeed, the sacrifice,
Can we forget the bitter price?
'Twas paid that all of human life
Would live without torment and strife.

That generations still to come
Would never know the roll of drum,
Or hear the thundrous roar of guns
That claimed the nation's gallant sons.

Their hope that peace would ever reign
Through city street, down country lane,
They died to pay a nation's debt.
Oh God! let not our hearts forget!

Dissatisfaction Aired on Administration Under Grenville School Board

(CORRESPONDENCE)

Calumet, Que.

Editor, The Watchman :

Many taxpayers are becoming more and more dissatisfied with regard to rulings of the Grenville School Board. A delegation of 15 taxpayers attended the local School Board meeting on Monday evening to voice their complaints. These are the points of contention:

Lachute School, and other schools under the Central Board, accept children into Grade I who will be six years old before December 31, while Grenville School Board will only accept children who are six years of age before the day school opens in September. This would seem to be a very flexible rule since it has been changed several times to accommodate children of members of the School Board. Accordingly, in July, several interested parents approached the School Board asking that this date be changed to coincide with Lachute. The taxpayers feel that since we follow Lachute in the matter of teachers, salaries, holidays, etc., we should also follow them in this respect. These six children involved are six years old at present, or will be shortly, and three of them are attending school in Hawkesbury, Ont., at a cost of $15 per month per child.

Although this was brought before the Grenville School Board in July, the parents did not receive an answer (negative) until the night before school opened in September.

Thirty-six taxpayers, when questioned about this, agreed that it was a disgrace that children should have to be sent to school outside the province, when they should be eligible to attend school in their own community, especially since there are only 16 pupils in Grade I in Grenville School, and all class rooms are equipped for 25-30 pupils.

Another complaint was brought up by a group of people from Rawcliffe, who felt that in bad weather, when the snow car is the only means of transportation, they should be allowed to travel in the school snow car (within reason and providing that they they are not crowding the children). As it is now these people, although Protestants, are refused the use of the Protestant bus and yet are allowed to travel in the Catholic bus.

(A third complaint — voiced at this meeting and reportedly brushed off as "not open to discussion" — claims that, according to Ruling 124 of the Quebec Education Act, one member of the Board is ineligible to hold office. This charge cannot be specifically printed as names are involved.

— Editor)

When the meeting reached the point that profane language was used in addressing a taxpayer, the delegation left the meeting feeling that nothing is to be gained unless problems can be discussed sensibly.

This delegation was just a representation of many other taxpayers who all feel that something must be done about this disgraceful situation in the very near future.

TRAVEL 12,000 MILES TO JOIN R.C.A.F.

Central Press Canadian

It was a long trek for these three young men when they decided to join the RCAF. Stewart Oliver, 21, left, and Keith Huckle, 22, centre, were in Northern Rhodesia, Africa, when they saw a Canadian newspaper calling for RCAF recruits. They travelled 12,000 miles by rail, air and ship to enlist. En route, in England, they picked up Denny Rudderforth, right, who also wanted to join. Flying Officer Jean Holmes discusses their application in Toronto.

DEER ON HIGHWAYS

It would almost appear that the Ontario government should offer to compensate car owners for damages if deer are to be allowed to increase further. We don't wish the animals any hard luck but they are not as important in the general picture as the safety of those who use the roads.

PREVENTION IS CHEAPER

If we have wondered why we should contribute to the Community chest, we need only to remember that an ounce of prevention is worth more — and costs less — than a pound of cure. Let us put out the money for prevention now, rather than pay incalculable sums later for cure.

Imports Have Cut Deeply into Canadian Textiles

The industry experienced varied fortunes for some time, performing well during World War I and arriving at the depression of the 1930s in good condition. "The primary mills lost 8% of total employees but were back to the 1929 level by 1934. In contrast, all other Canadian manufacturing industries lost 32% of their employees and did not regain their 1929 level until 1940."

With the outbreak of World War II, the industry entered a new phase, Mr. Tremblay said. "The war record of the textile industry of Quebec is an excellent one. Mills upped production and Canadians were furnished with sufficient textiles for their current use, with the exception of certain particular articles.

"After the war, production naturally dropped a certain amount, but maintained a comparatively high level as the huge civilian backlog, built up during the war years, developed into a No. 1 priority.

"Until the outbreak of the Korean War, in June of 1950, business was spotty, but picked up immediately as fears of shortages and greatly inflated prices sent retailers and consumers to stockpiling.

"When it became apparent that there would be no shortages, business began to drop off again, and about April of 1951 there started one of the most severe depressions ever experienced by the industry. Within 18 months, employment on a national scale had dropped from a peak of 106,500 to 82,400 and most remaining workers were on short time.

"This situation still exists to some extent today." Seriousness of this depression to Quebec could be realized, Mr. Tremblay said, with the knowledge that of 691 primary textile mills in Canada, 361 were in Quebec, while the province's industry provided employment for more than half the total employees.

"In this province we produce 70% of all cotton cloth made in the country, 70% of rayon and nylon fabrics, 40% of the knitted goods and 25% of woollen textiles. Because it holds the distinction of being the largest employer of manufacturing labor in this province, with the correspondingly highest total of salaries and wages paid, the textile industry can truly be termed a major enterprise."

Yet, he pointed out, the industry is widely decentralized and normally provides the main employment in many happy, prosperous "textile towns" in the province. "These famous towns extend from Valleyfield, near the western tip of Quebec, to Montmagny, in the east, like a gigantic fan sweeping through the Eastern Townships as far south as the borders of New York and Vermont, and extending up the beautiful St. Maurice River Valley north from Lac St. Pierre."

What the future holds for the textile industry of Quebec is difficult to judge, the speaker said, "particularly in view of the most recent depression which struck with a severity not imagined possible by most of the industry.

"The circumstance which caused this recession originated outside the country — mostly in the mass-producing or low-wage industries outside this country — and it is not improbable that such a depression could recur, though the industry has now experience and knowledge it lacked before."

To help meet the heavy import competition, the entire Canadian industry had spent some $372 millions on modernization of already up-to-date machinery and equipment during the past five years. It is realized that increased efficiency alone cannot overcome the advantages held by foreign producers, but, Mr. Tremblay said: "There is a growing recognition among the general public, and in some government circles, of the importance of the textile industry to the actual existence of the country."

To be able to respond in a crisis an industry should not be allowed to be beaten down by low-wage foreign imports until it was supplying less than 70% of the fabrics used in this country today, Mr. Tremblay said.

Passchendaele Cost "Sacrifice on Scale Out of All Decent Measure"

(From the Montreal Star)

Just 35 years ago now the Canadian Corps was plunged into the bloody and terrible series of engagements now known under the name of Passchendaele. The memories are such as to evoke a lively gratitude that Canadians were never subjected in World War II to a similar ordeal.

The battle, as Sir Arthur Currie said, was fought more for high political reasons than for the actual tactical worth of the objectives sought. The French Army was only slowly recovering from its collapse the previous spring (1917), and, one day after the Canadians first attacked in the north, the Italians were involved in the disaster of Caporetto so movingly described in Hemingway's "A Farewell to Arms". In the circumstances Passchendaele was fought through under conditions which survivors still speak of with horror. From October 26 to November 10, the Corps suffered a total of 16,404 casualties.

The most bloody Canadian battles of the second war saw nothing like this. The opening of the Scheldt in the autumn of 1944, the fierce fighting for the Hochwald in 1945's early spring, were battles which lasted, all told, nine weeks, against that concentrated fortnight of savagery at Passchendaele. Taking them both together, our army losses were 11,671. Lord Alexander once remarked that in the Italian campaign, no division under his command suffered as much as any single battalion did at Passchendaele.

The fighting in the churned, torn-up mud of Flanders did indeed write a glorious page in our military annals, but it was a page inscribed by sacrifices on a scale out of all decent measure.

Electioneering Madness

"Is there no limit, we venture to ask, to the permissible economy of truth?" was a question C. E. Montagu put into the mouth of his newspaper hero in "A Hind Let Loose". It is a question, one might think, which would be in the mouths of many these days as they watch the spectacle, the extraordinary charges and countercharges, of the U.S. presidential election.

According to the Republicans, it was the Democrats who (1) handed China over to the Communists, (2) committed treason against the U.S. at Yalta, (3) put up "welcome" signs in the State Department for Stalin's spies, (4) started the war in Korea, and (5) deliberately launched inflation.

According to the Democrats, the Republicans want to (1) betray and abandon Europe, (2) betray and abandon South Korea, (3) scuttle the United Nations, (4) hand over the country to Wall Street, (5) hand over the nation's oil tidelands to oil-multi-millionaires, (6) turn all U.S. workers into serfs, and (7) start another depression.

So what we have is a terrible picture of two parties of black traitors or friends of traitors, warmongers, robbers, exploiters of the poor — gangs of rogues, ruffians and villains bent on ruining their country.

A terrible picture, if anybody believed it! But the fact and saving grace, of course, is that nobody believes it — that there is such an inflation in the terminology of abuse that nobody any longer takes it seriously, feeling sure that after the ballots are counted nobody will much remember nor much care what was said, but will just accept the verdict and go back to work, certain that the Republic will somehow endure a little longer.

That, at any rate, is the way it has been all through democratic history; during elections we make crazy statements and act in the maddest way, but fundamentally our system is sound, so it continues to work.

Have Turkey Any Time

Roast turkey, brown as a nut and glistening in its own rich juices, is no longer a delicacy exclusive for Thanksgiving or Christmas. Plump, mature turkeys are now on the market in heavy supply, so make your next Sunday dinner festive with roast turkey — the rest of the "clan" will probably want to join you, too.

When estimating the amount of turkey to buy, allow three quarters to one pound, undrawn weight, that is, for each serving. Here are some suggestions from the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, on how to prepare the bird. Clean it thoroughly and wipe inside and out with a clean cloth, or wash in running water; do not allow it to soak. If the bird is frozen, thaw completely before cooking. It can be defrosted at room temperature, allowing about two hours per pound, or in the refrigerator, allowing about six hours per pound. Once poultry is thawed, it is very perishable, so cook it as soon as possible.

Rub the inside of the bird with salt, then fill loosely with a favorite dressing. Close the opening and truss, that is, tie the wings and legs close to the body to make the bird more compact. The bird may be roasted breast down on a rack or crossed skewers in an uncovered pan, turning on its back the last hour of cooking for even browning. However, if the turkey is large and difficult to turn, you can roast it breast side up. Place a piece of cheesecloth dipped in melted fat on top of the bird during roasting to keep it moist, or the bird may be roasted in metal foil, parchment or brown paper. No water should be added.

Roast turkey in a 300°F. oven allowing twenty to twenty-five minutes per pound, undrawn weight. To test for doneness, run a metal skewer or a long fork into the thick part of the breast or thigh. When it is done, the meat is tender and the juice does not show a reddish tinge.

The dressing, or stuffing, as it is often called, is an important part of roast turkey. It has several functions. Besides being a tempting meat stretcher, it "upholsters" and pads the inside of the bird to help it keep its streamlined shape during cooking. Then, the aromatic herbs and spices add extra fragrance and flavor to the bird. However, dressing that is too highly seasoned should never be used. A savoury dressing is probably the most common, but dressings with cooked chopped giblets, mushrooms, nuts or raisins are good too. Cranberry stuffing is particularly delicious. When making dressing, allow one cup of dressing per pound of turkey, undrawn weight, remembering that one slightly stale loaf weighing one and one half pounds will make six cups of dry crumbs.

Incidentally, if you have trouble making smooth, colorful gravy, follow these instructions from the home economists. They say that you are sure to win complimentary praises. To make the gravy, allow two tablespoons of turkey fat for each cup of gravy desired. If you cannot judge the amount, pour the drippings from the roasting pan, measure the required amount of fat, and pour it back into the roasting pan. Add an equal amount of flour, that is, for two tablespoons of fat add two tablespoons of flour and blend well. Cook until the flour becomes browned but not burned. Remove from the heat and add one cup of cool or lukewarm liquid — the water that the giblets were simmered in may be used for this, or you may prefer to add milk or water. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thick and smooth. Continue cooking for about five minutes, then season with salt and pepper to taste and add cooked, chopped giblets. If the gravy is too thick it may be thinned with additional hot liquid. Be sure to serve it piping hot.

To some, the giblets are the "pièce de résistance" of the turkey; others like to use them in the dressing or gravy. Whichever way you are preparing them, remember that the gizzard and heart need long, slow cooking to make them tender, so simmer them for two to three hours in salted water. If they are cut up, they take less time to cook, or the pressure cooker may be used to shorten the length of cooking time. The liver, which is tender, needs only brief cooking. Be sure to save the water in which the giblets were cooked to use in the dressing or gravy.

For complete cooking instructions, write to the Department of Agriculture in Ottawa, for their free turkey folder.

Turn-About Meat Loaf

A CLASSIC in every best cook's repertoire is brown-crusted, tender meat loaf. Perfect sauce to use in it and over it is condensed tomato soup.

And you can use different condensed soup-sauces to vary this basic loaf into other scrumptious versions. Just a "presto-chango" and you can turn the Tomato Loaf into a Mushroom Meat Loaf—by using cream of mushroom soup instead of tomato soup for the sauce. Or make the loaf with cream of celery soup for still another good one.

Master Meat Loaf

2 cans (2½ cups) condensed tomato soup
1 pound ground beef
½ pound ground pork
1½ cups soft bread cubes
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Combine ½ cup of soup with other ingredients. (Save rest of soup for sauce.) Shape into a loaf or pack lightly into a greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 1 hour. Remove loaf from pan; pour in remaining soup and simmer about 5 minutes. Pour hot sauce over loaf. Makes 6 servings.

Meat Loaf with Mushroom Sauce: Simply follow recipe for Master Meat Loaf except use 2 cans (2½ cups) of condensed cream of mushroom soup instead of tomato soup. When making sauce with the mushroom soup (2 cups), blend soup with ½ cup of milk and/or meat drippings.

Meat Loaf with Celery-Parsley Sauce: Simply follow recipe for Master Meat Loaf except use 2 cans (2½ cups) of condensed cream of celery soup instead of tomato soup. When making sauce with celery soup (2 cups), blend with ½ cup of milk and/or drippings. And add ¼ cup of chopped parsley to the sauce.

SOUP SCOOPS

Here's Likely Candidate for Cookie Jar. A likely candidate for your cookie jar is this spicy, rosy-hued cookie made with condensed tomato soup. They're full of oatmeal and nuts, too—good nourishment for the nibblers in your family:

Rosy Oatmeal Cookies

¾ cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup
3 cups uncooked oatmeal
2 cups seedless raisins, chopped
1 cup chopped walnuts

Cream butter and sugar; add eggs and blend thoroughly. Sift dry ingredients together; add alternately with soup to the butter mixture. Mix well after each addition. Blend in oatmeal, raisins and walnuts. Drop by spoonfuls on a lightly greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) about 20 minutes or until lightly brown. Makes about 6 dozen cookies, 3 inches in diameter.

British Royalty, A Complex Family

At 26 years of age Queen Elizabeth is head of a family of 40, most of them connected, by blood or marriage to some of the other 400 descendants of Queen Victoria, writes Mollie McGee from London, England, in the November issue of Canadian Home Journal.

The article, titled: "British Royalty: The World's Most Complex Family," claims that "contrary to predictions at various periods, British Royalty has not died out; in numbers it has increased. And it is still closely connected with nearly every other European royalty, whether on or off a throne."

Certain important changes have taken place since the days when Royalty's marriage to a commoner could be set aside. In the reign of George V the King permitted his cousin, Princess Patricia of Connaught (who gave her name to a famous Canadian regiment), to marry a commoner and destowed his blessing on the marriage of his second son to Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, now the Queen Mother.

It was George V too who, during World War I, inaugurated the House of Windsor, when six of Queen Victoria's descendants fought for England, while five grandsons and a half a dozen great-grandsons were mustered on enemy rolls. "The Royal House of Windsor narrowed its ranks not without heartbreak", according to the author.

"Today, Elizabeth II presides over a family of about 40, of whom 15 are in direct succession to the throne", Miss McGee writes, as she traces the Commonwealth's Royal lineage with gossipy paragraphs about the people whose Royal names are well known to all Canadians.

They Can the Best, The Best They Can

Retail sales statistics indicate most busy housewives would rather reach for a can of corn or tomatoes on their grocer's shelves, than undertake the chores of home-canning. When housewives take this short-cut, however, they little realize the vast amount of organization that lies behind these items on their grocery list.

Scientific planning begins almost a year before the crops reach maturity, under a system whereby farmers contract to grow certain crops on a specified acreage. Care of the plants at every stage of growth provides nutrition and protection from insects and diseases. Even the harvesting and delivery of the crops are most carefully planned and scientific care taken in grading and in the actual canning.

Some vegetables will not retain their full flavor unless picked at the exact time they reach maturity and canned immediately. Therefore, to the canneries, timing and speed are of the utmost importance. Peas, for instance, are canned and labelled and ready for shipment the same day they are picked.

This scientific approach to the growing, harvesting and canning of the foodstuffs which appear on the shelves of super markets and corner stores, has resulted in a steady increase in both quantity and the quality of canned goods. Chemical plant starters aid the growth of seedlings. Other plant foods or fertilizers supply the nourishment needed at later stages of growth. Chemical insecticides and fungicides protect the crops from a host of pests.

Like the man who complains that "nobody can make pie today like mother used to make", some housewives occasionally complain that these chemical aids to plant growth have destroyed the flavor of vegetables or fruit or have been harmful in other ways. These complaints have proved just as groundless as the one about mother's pie. As a matter of fact, scientific research on the subject has shown the opposite to be the case.

A U.S. congressional committee assigned to investigate the use of chemicals as they affect food has declared that they "result in crops whose yield and nutritional quality are equal to or better than crops grown in any other manner". The committee also emphasized the necessity of using chemical fertilizers on most soils to provide adequate food for growing crops.

In spite of the many jokes on the subject, the modern housewife may well be thankful that she can quickly set a nutritious meal before her family with the aid of a can opener.

You, too, can have a locker filled with tender, tempting cuts of meat... all bought in WHOLESALE quantities. Join the thrifty housewives of this community who are serving better foods to their families for less by using a frozen food locker.

One-Third of Day's Food Needs Should Be In School Lunch

As much care and planning should go into the lunch youngsters take to school as a mother puts into any meal she serves on the dining room table, contends Miss Margaret E. Smith, director of nutrition for the Health League of Canada. Furthermore, the box lunch must have eye appeal as well as high food value.

"The noonday lunch should provide one third of the whole day's requirements of the energy-producing, body-building foods", notes Miss Smith. "This means proteins, minerals and vitamins for growth and repair of body tissues; and carbohydrates or starches, fats and proteins to yield energy for work and play."

In ordinary grocery store parlance, the nutritionist's suggestions boil down to these, which are based on Canada's Food Rules: —

Include about eight ounces of pasteurized, white milk, varying this occasionally with buttermilk or pure fruit juices.

Use whole grain bread for sandwiches, and see that the fillings provide proteins — meat, fish, cheese, eggs, or cottage cheese (delicious mixed with crushed pineapple).

Put in at least one fresh vegetable — raw carrot strips, celery, a whole tomato, or a little salad made with cabbage, parsley, green peppers or cooked green beans.

For dessert use fresh fruit in place of sweets.

Young Farmer Wins Q.W.I. Bursary

Ralph R. Craig, Ormstown, Que., is the winner of the Quebec Women's Institutes bursary in the Diploma Course in Agriculture at Macdonald College.

This is given annually and is awarded to a farmer's son from this province who obtains highest standing in the first year of that course, and is intending to return to his father's farm upon the completion of his studies, or to operate one of his own. As a further stipulation he must enroll in the second year of this course.

In the ten years since this bursary was established there has always been a student that could qualify in this practical course designed especially for the young man on the farm.

"Tough eggs" may have their place in a gangster picture, but at a meal they are a reflection against the cook. Since eggs are a protein food they should always be cooked at low or moderate temperatures.

SPICED SUGAR

In the tenth century, the question arose whether eating "spiced-sugar" was a violation of the rules of fasting as defined by the church. Thomas Aquinas rendered a decision on this interesting point, ruling that sugared spices were not "consumed with the intention to partake of food, but only to facilitate digestion", and therefore they did not break the rules of fasting.

Soaking dirty clothes in cold water before washing can do more harm than good. A soaking of more than 10 or 15 minutes allows dirt to soak back into the fabric and cold water hinders the cleansing action of soap. Hot water opens the fabric mesh, permitting suds to circulate and loosen dirt.

Home-Made Playthings

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"Mummy, isn't there anything I can play with? I'm tired of my toys and I want to do something new!" How many mothers of small children are confronted with this urgent question several times a day. Boys and girls want to be busy. They are eager to try new things, to experiment with fresh toys. Mothers, knowing how expensive many playthings are, often sigh when their children pursue them for fresh suggestions for interesting activities. Few of them realize how many ordinary things in the kitchen and around the house may be converted into play material for a pre-school child.

Here is a list of articles found in almost every home, articles with which a small boy or girl can have a good time either playing himself or with other children — clothes pegs, spools, colored buttons, cardboard boxes such as shoe boxes, wooden boxes such as orange crates or butter boxes, egg beater and bowl, measuring spoons and measuring cups, empty tin cans of different sizes, pitcher and funnel, baby's bath tub or a large water basin.

Of course, care must be taken that these playthings such as tin cans have no rough edges, or that harmful paint will not be chewed, or tiny objects like small buttons placed in a little child's mouth and swallowed. A boy or girl can have a grand time making a clothes pin house with a clothes peg zig-zag fence around it. Colored buttons are fascinating to transfer, one by one, from one container to another. They can also be strung on a blunt needle and thread, or sewn on a card, as the face, fists and shoes, for a little "button-man". The bright colored, different-sized measuring cups are good fun to fit one inside another. The tin cans may be painted and attractive colored illustrations from magazines pasted on them.

Paste for scrapbook fun can be made from ordinary flour and water. Mother can make modeling clay from two cups of flour, one cup of salt and a teaspoonful of alum. Enough water should be added so that it can be kneaded. The clay should be wrapped in a damp cloth to keep it from drying out and hardening when it is not in use. Vegetable coloring or poster paints will color the clay.

All kinds of dolls can be made. Clothespin dolls dressed in scraps of material or crepe paper can be made in whole families, because they are so inexpensive. Shredded newspapers can be used to stuff oilcloth or rag or stocking dolls. Spool dolls are great fun too, especially when they are strung on elastic. Pipe cleaners can be twisted into doll shapes with cork faces. Peanuts in the shell may also be converted into dolls by threading them on heavy thread. choose different shapes which are suitable, and ink the faces onto the "head peanut".

A little child revels in a little house in which to play. An ordinary card table with sheets draped down the sides can be converted into a temporary square dwelling. Rugs over a broom-handle balanced between two chairs can give the imaginative youngster a ridge-pole tent. Even newspapers can be pressed into service to make a small tepee or a house with chair backs for walls.

Play material for a child is important because he is eager to find out about things and because his adventures are full of pleasure for him. A little child should not have to work with too small objects because he finds it easier to use his large muscles than his small ones. Active outdoor play is essential to build sturdy bodies, but on days when the weather is very bad or when a child must be confined to the house with a cold or for any other reason, it is a fine thing for a mother to have some new play suggestions. If a mother keeps her eyes open, she will discover for herself some other excellent materials around the house which will provide happy play for her son or daughter.

Teen-Agers Mix School and Farming

Farm at Indian Head, Sask., Operated by Young Orphans

Indian Head, Sask. (CP) — Who says farming is a man's job? A dozen Saskatchewan school-aged boys are proving their ability to do the job.

On the eastern outskirts of Indian Head, 40 miles due east of Regina, is the Downing Memorial Farm, or as it is better known, the Orange Home Farm. This estate, with its well-appointed house and buildings, is maintained by 12 boys of school age, supervised and directed by Sam Jamieson.

Two housekeepers are employed to look after the feminine duties but the working of a section of land and the running of the mixed farming activities is up to the boys. They keep some 45 head of cattle, 30 pigs, 300 chickens and 20-odd turkeys.

These young farmers-in-the-making, orphans from many places, enjoy a busy and healthy life of farming, but their school and social education is by no means neglected. During the school term the boys ranging from 12 to 18 years, help with the farm chores morning and evening, prompting an "early to bed, early to rise" routine.

Social Activities

However, occasions arise which call for late nights and the older boys are allowed "late leaves" to attend school parties and the like. Time is given for troop meetings for those who are active Scouts and some take time off to study piano and other musical lessons.

During the summer, farming is the main activity. This year the boys ran binders and threshing machines and after taking off 300 acres of crop they gathered in many tons of hay. Then the summerfallow was worked.

The boys love the life, and their sun and wind-tanned faces advertise the healthy atmosphere they live in. Each Sunday they attend church.

"The farm is a place to be proud of", Mr. Jamieson said, "and the boys are doing their utmost to build it up."

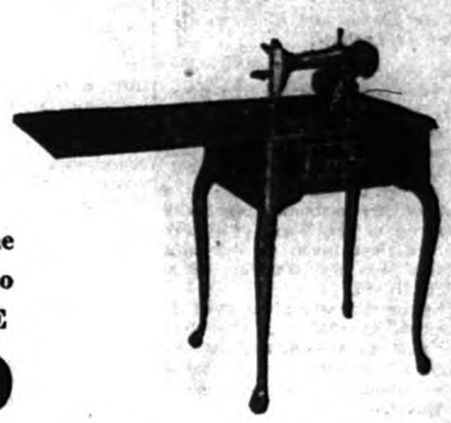

The Orange Home Farm was donated to the Orange order primarily to provide a place for orphans of former Orange members. Now children from far and wide enjoy the friendliness, comforts and cares of the home and farm life.

Art Club Popular Aboard Magnificent

Halifax (CP) — Canada's navy is going artistic.

Mention "painting" to a sailor aboard the carrier Magnificent these days and he no longer thinks of the never-ending job of keeping the ship well-painted.

He thinks instead of the carrier's enthusiastic 25-member Art Club.

The move has been swift. Six months ago none of the sailors had ever wielded brush and palette. But only recently some 48 paintings of club members went on exhibition in a down-town Halifax gallery.

Lieut. Cmdr. C. Anthony (Tony) Law, an artist in his own right, started the club.

Fort Saskatchewan Gets Good Citizens

Fort Saskatchewan, Alta. (CP) — Frequently when a boom period hits a town, the pre-boom residents grouse about the quality of the newcomers attracted by the greater business and circulation of money.

But that hasn't been the experience in this town of 1,200 population situated about 20 miles northeast of Edmonton. Mayor Charles Lowe commented on the type of new residents, arriving at the town almost daily.

"At church recently", he said, "I noticed our Sunday attendances were steadily increasing, and surely this is a good indication of the type of good average citizen we are getting and want."

Fort Saskatchewan made itself ready for a boom by installing a natural-gas distribution system as a heating and cooking utility and later added a completely-new water and sewer system.

Then the Sherritt-Gordon base-metal mining company announced it would build a $17,500,000 refinery at Fort Saskatchwen.

Demand for home-building sites has been so great that civic officials have replotted several areas into residential areas.

Garden-Graph

When planting bulbs indoors in soil one can use bulb pans or shallow flower pots. Old flower pots should be scrubbed thoroughly to eliminate fungus germs.

Line the bottom of each pot with small stones or broken pieces of flower pots and a layer of moss or coarse leafmold to provide proper drainage. Next add the soil. Use the best garden soil available or mix together equal parts of sand, leafmold and humus. To either mixture add some bonemeal but do not use manure.

Set in the bulbs so that the tops are barely covered. Do not press the bulbs down hard for that packs the soil beneath and makes it hard for the roots to penetrate the soil. Once the bulbs are potted they should be given a thorough soaking.

The pots of bulbs can be stored in a box of peatmoss in the cellar, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. The potted bulbs should not be set on a cement floor, for the coldness of it prevents the roots from growing down. The storage box, illustrated, should be raised off the floor and the section of the cellar where it is placed should be dark and cool.

Bulbs require at least six weeks, and 10 weeks is better, in the dark and cold to secure ample root growth before being brought into a higher temperature. Then, keep the bulbs at 40 to 50 degrees for 10 days to three weeks.

When the bulbs have made several inches of growth, as illustrated, they can be placed in a sunny window. When the blossoms open, move the pots out of the sun.

The blooms will last much longer if they are set in a cool place at night. Water well from the time the top growth appears until the flowers fade.

Open Letter on Lachute's Proposed Water Project

To the Mayor and Aldermen,
Town of Lachute.

Dear Sirs: —

I have been informed that somebody told your meeting that my estimate for Ayersville water and sewer system was too low, $170,000.

I regret to tell you, this is a mistake, my estimate, previously approved by the Board of Health and the Department of Muhicipal Affairs, was $288,000 for 26,000 feet in length.

The contract was given to H. J. O'Connell at $255,000. The final cost paid to the contractor was $282,000 and included even extra works outside the contract, repairing the streets, etc.

The last report was approved by the engineers of H. J. O'Connell, by the Board of Health, and the Department of Municipal Affairs.

In 1947, when iron pipe was 25% less in cost and only for 14,000 feet in length, I had made an estimate of around $152,000; but in 1950, it became necessary to increase the length to 26,000 feet; and the result was below $288,000 or $282,000. I leave the conclusions to your own judgment.

Now, I have read with interest the report of Leclerc and Cartier, consulting engineers, in which they say that "taking the water in Lake Sir John by gravity through pipes should not be considered".

I was astonished when other experts of long experience, and the engineers of the Board of Health, declared this project to be ideal and the most economical one for a town. The water of Lake Sir John appearing to be colored a little by iron under a great thickness, is the most hygienic water in the world. It is certainly better than hard water when you replace the iron by alum in a filtration plant. In summer the surface water on the lake is warm, and the bacteria are living more on the surface, when the water in the bottom is cooler and pleasant to drink. The intake pipe at the lake will be at least 0 feet deep.

The same warm water coming from the surface of the lake will form a tepid "mud lake" at the pumping house, operated nearly 24 hours per day. Machinery will have to be replaced every seven years, with many other repairs at a cost of about $85,000, averaging $5,000.00 per year.

That mud lake will be filled with leaves, weeds and vegetation fertilized by manure and earth carried to the creek by rain water. It will take a great deal more alum and chlorine to clarify it and to treat the warm water of the mud lake than the cold water from the bottom of the lake.

The report of Leclerc and Cartier, Engineers, is not complete. I was engaged in 1929 by the Council at the suggestion of Engineer Ernest Loignon to make a complete study of your problem of water supply, and to test the watershed of the lake and to make plans, and so on.

I did it under the spirit of a contract, that, when a by-law sooner or later would be passed, I would be the consulting engineer of your town. I did it at my own expense in the meantime. My conclusion was:

1. To go to Lake Sir John, with necessary piping to eliminate pumping.
2. To have cold water in summertime.
3. To drink clear water at any time — as clear as you see it in a glass in wintertime — less discolored and less polluted than that along the creek.
4. To keep the iron in the water for the best hygienic purposes as it is today.
5. In order not to lose the water of the lake in dry weather: My test of the watershed of the lake in 1929 showed that the flow fell to the capacity of a 4-inch pipe or 117,000 gallons per 24 hours during many weeks; your town need presently, however, is around 800,000 gallons, and it will increase with the future population.

Do not take the risk of a dangerous situation in the future. Today with the small control dam at the lake, you lose water, and the water is taking many hours to reach the present intake pipe. My report was approved by well known engineers and the Provincial Board of Health.

6. Your experts did not calculate the saving in capital cost in a 3 million gallon filtration plant instead of 1½ million gallon plant, which is too small in my opinion. You have only to consult other towns where I have put filtration plants in this Province, as in St. Jean d'Iberville, where the Town Council was obliged to double their 3-million gallon plant. All towns are regretting to have made their filtration plants too small.

7. I am of the opinion that you do not need a filtration plant in bringing water by one 18-inch pipe, giving 6 million gallons, or two 16-inch pipes giving also 6 million gallons per 24 hours, or 3 million gallons per 12 hours.

That provision is very important in case of fire and conflagration in dry weather, such as I have seen in Lachute. You may have to find out another watershed, although the lake is the best reserve of water, giving 85-pound pressure by a special valve for ordinary necessity, and 120 to 160-pounds in case of fire or conflagration.

The pressure will be reduced by friction to 45 pounds at the end of a hose in town, and more in the upper town. A man of experience, as Fire Chief Deacon, knows what I mean.

A filtration plant or a reservoir at the proposed site chosen by your experts will not give 85 pounds to satisfy the Underwriters in the upper part of your town, and above all, the free advantages of the available pressure by a by-pass from the lake being controlled at will by a reducing pressure valve and many ordinary valves.

8. The control pressure valve of 6 million gallons drawn from the lake and located about 800 feet above Pollock's Bridge along the creek, with four ordinary valves along the piping, will be sufficient in pressure and in capacity for a population of 50,000 or for many years to come.

The cost of such 6-million gallon pressure valve is not $25,000 but $917.00, according to present tenders. Therefore the risk is not great.

9. The difference of the true economical aspects of the two sites has been forgotten by your experts. They give an estimate of $250,000 to go to the lake. This price can be reduced.

Anyhow, let us make the comparison which might be applicable, because I ignore many details of their proposed filtration plant of only 1½-million gallons capacity.

1. Annual salaries of two to three operators	$5,000
2. Surplus of alum and chlorine at the mud lake	1,000
3. Renewal of machines, and many repairs every seventh year, averaging $5,000 per year	5,000
4. Electricity for at least 50 horse-power at $40.00	2,000
5. Surplus of gasoline to emergency motors	1,000
	$14,000

Conclusion

The annual fixed charge of $14,000 or more means the interest of a loan of $350,000 which is never redeemable.

Therefore you will do better to go to the lake, at $250,000, which is redeemable, including many above mentioned advantages.

In the future a filtration plant of 3 million or 6 millon is at your disposal on the site of the pressure valve, then:

1. Annual salaries, operator	$2,500
2. No surplus of alum and chlorine.
3. Renewal of machine every 12 years, or averaging $3,200 per year	3,200
4. Electricity for washing filters, 20 h.p.	800
5. No surplus of gasoline to emergency motor.
	$6,500

The unredeemable capital will be reduced to $6,500, at least 50%.

Therefore, it is wiser and more economical to go to the lake, to face all contingencies and to have Nature pay the pumping bill, indefinitely.

— Seraphin Ouimet,
Consulting Engineer

Three Good Reasons to Save

Asked why he is buying a Canada Savings Bond on the payroll plan, Richard Wilkinson, 33, shown above with his family in their home at 3157 Wellington Street, Verdun, had a ready answer: "The reason I save is obvious enough. It's right here." And he introduced Mrs. Wilkinson, nine-year-old Richard, Jr., and Coleen, a young lady of seven months. Dick Wilkinson started saving on the payroll plan during the war when he was in the R.C.A.F. — "When I went back to the Imperial Tobacco Company after the war", he says, "I was a confirmed payroll plan saver. I've been purchasing Savings Bonds ever since, and always on the payroll plan because that's the painless way to achieve security."

Windshield Wiping In Community Interest

The Prince Albert, Sask., Board of Trade came up with a novel publicity project this summer and other organizations might well be interested in emulating it. Each morning, before most people were up and around, representatives of the Board sought out cars with out-of town license plates that were parked in the vicinity of hotels or other tourist accommodation. They washed the windshields of these cars and left under the windshield wiper a card which reads in part as follows: "Good morning. . . Welcome to Prince Albert. Your windshield has been cleaned this morning through the courtesy of the Prince Albert Board of Trade. The services of our office are at your disposal while you are visiting this area". The card also gives the address of the tourist bureau and of the Board of Trade office.

"A very valuable citizen"

When a bank manager was transferred recently a group of citizens wrote the bank in tribute to his sense of public service:

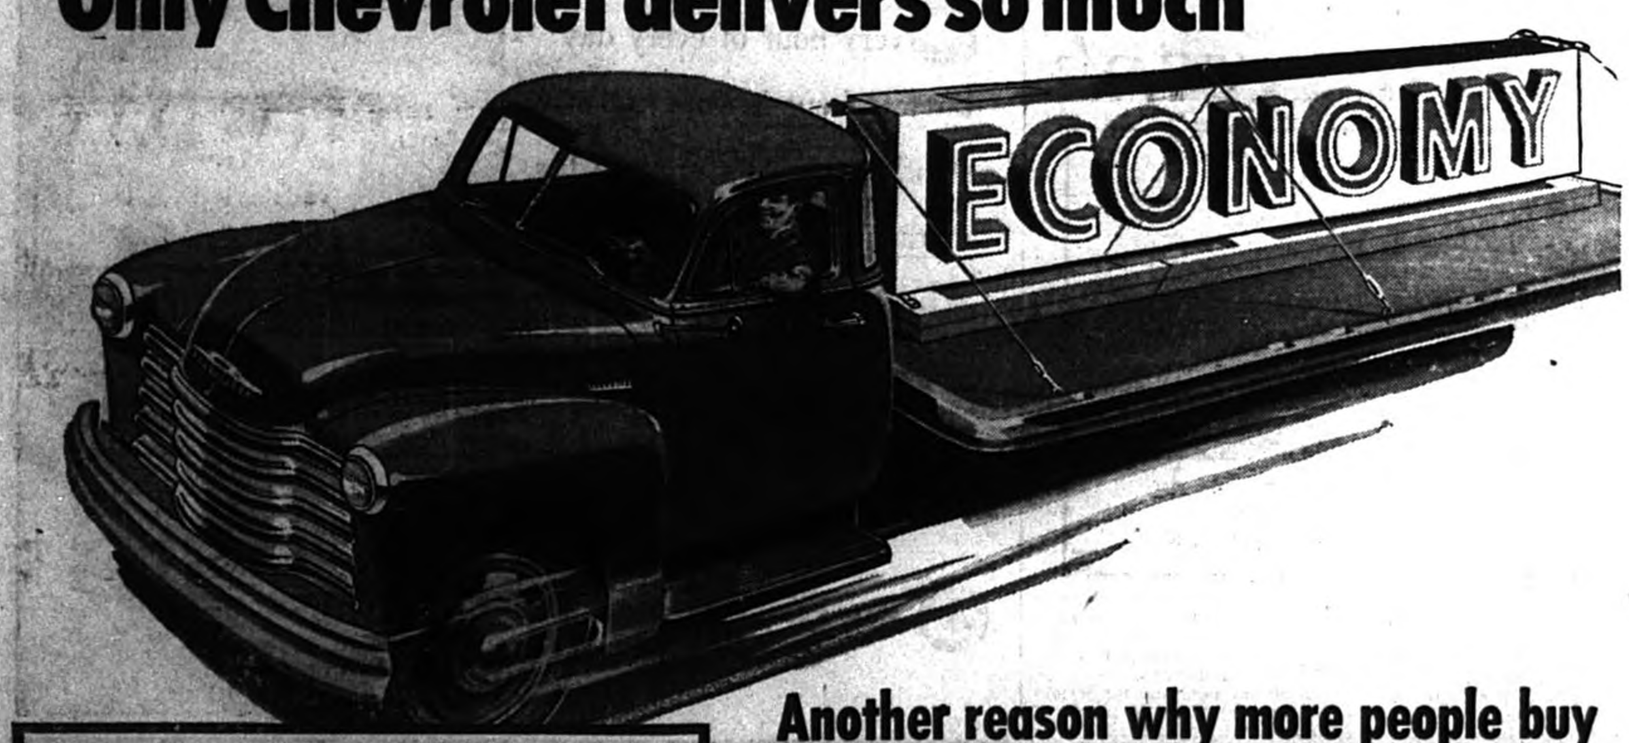

"During the time he was here, we found him to be a very valuable citizen. He always took a deep interest in our community, so we feel we have lost a valuable asset. However, we feel sure that his replacement will be made with a man of similar calibre."

A bank man, by the very nature of his work, becomes part of the life around him. During his training in various branches, and as he takes on growing responsibilities, he learns more and more about people and how his bank can help them. Man Searches the Universe

BUT he has not yet found the secret of everlasting life. Though he were to devote himself to science's telescopes, microscopes and other modern research equipment for a million years, he would still not find the secret of life. Why not? Because the secret of life cannot be revealed by natural creation. To the Creator of life we must go for the answer, and to his written Word. Only research based upon the Bible will reveal this secret. The 320-page illustrated book "This Means Everlasting Life" will guide you unerringly to the Bible for authoritative information on the subject of life. WEEK IN OTTAWA

By Alan Donnelly,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Nov. 4 (CP) — Liberal party leaders, representing rank-and-file party supporters across the country, held the political stage in Ottawa last week. The 235-member Advisory Council of the National Liberal Federation — the party's directing body — met for two days, during which it heard a cautious statement by Prime Minister St. Laurent that lower taxes are possible.

Mr. St. Laurent said, however, that he could not honestly hold out "any too easy hopes for any too great reductions" with war in the background.

The week's news from the capital also brought further casualty lists, pointing up the cost of the Canadian 25th Brigade's staunch defence of a strategic Korean hill position, and a hint from Trade Minister Howe that Canada may drop out of the International Wheat Agreement next summer and sell her wheat on the open world market.

The Tax Question

At the Liberal Federation's annual dinner, Mr. St. Laurent added his voice to those of cabinet ministers who for several weeks have been discussing the question of tax cuts.

The Prime Minister reviewed government spending — much of it on defence — and said there was "just no use in pretending we can buy our national security in a bargain basement."

However, if national production kept increasing and government spending was strictly controlled, "some relief should be possible."

"But it would not be honest to hold out any too easy hopes for any too great reductions at this time, because of the state of the world at large."

The Federation's sessions came up with one surprise — a resolution that ran counter to government policy on private television stations. Members voted for "the development of television in Canada by private enterprise along with the CBC."

Delegates at the closed session said it was adopted over the objections of Revenue Minister McCann, through whom the CBC reports to Parliament. In the debate the minister set out the government's view that no private television licenses should be issued until the CBC has set up stations in key points.

Wheat Outlook

Trade Minister Howe's speech contained a bright outlook for this year's grain production. He forecast that the value of grain crops this year may total more than $1,800,000,000.

He said, however, that problems are developing in the renewal of the four-year Internationanl Wheat Agreement which ends July 31 next. Canada would take part in the 44-country negotiations to renew the pact, "but we shall not be easily satisfied".

Renewal would be good for Canada and for the world generally, but Canada could get along without the agreement and its renewal "can by no means be taken for granted."

Canada and other exporting nations in the agreement will demand higher prices in negotiations which open in Washington, January 12. The present agreement calls for a ceiling of $1.80 in U.S. funds per bushel, basis No. 1 Northern grade, and a floor of $1.30 in the 1951-52 crop year and $1.20 in the 1952-53 crop year.

Seaway Start Soon

Transport Minister Chevrier said that next year may see the start of construction on the giant St. Lawrence seaway-power project.

He made the prediction shortly after the International Joint Commission approved the Canada-United States application for approval of power installations in the river's International Rapids section that will yield 2,200,000 horsepower.

One major obstacle remains — the naming of a United States agency to join with the Ontario Hydro Commission in developing power. Mr. Chevrier said he hopes that problem will be settled in time for a beginning of construction next year.

The minister set the over-all cost of the project at $750,000,000. The hydro project would cost $450,000,000 — to be shared by Ontario and the U.S. agency — and the seaway system to open the Great Lakes to deep-sea shipping would cost $300,000,000. The seaway will be built by Canada alone.

Find New Mineral

Huge deposits of kyanite, a highly heat-resistant mineral, have been located in the Mattawa area of Eastern Ontario. One of the uses for this mineral is in the manufacture of exhaust pipes for jet aircraft.

The discovery was made by a young engineer of the federal industrial minerals division, while examining rock samples that were first believed to contain graphite. Canada currently imports kyanite from India and other overseas sources and it is used in various forms, including lining for big mill furnaces and in cement to form a heat-resistant lining for various types of pipes.

November Meeting of Lachute W.I. Branch

The November meeting of the Lachute Women's Institute was held in the Legion Hall on Tuesday, with the president, Mrs. A. Taylor, in the chair.

Reports were heard from various committees. Mrs. F. A. Brennian gave an interesting report on the semi-annual convention, which was held in the Legion Hall on October 18.

The Lachute W.I. are catering for a luncheon for the Students' Council Conference to be held in the Lachute High School on Saturday, November 15.

Miss McLeod read an interesting paper on the history of Lachute W.I. since its formation some 20 years ago. This sketch was found most interesting, and was deeply appreciated by the members present. Miss McLeod was thanked by Mrs. Rod Carreau.

The December meeting will be under the convenership of Mrs. G. Muir and Mrs. G. Guilbert.

Pretty Ceremony Held Recently in Un. Church

Warwick - Gordon

Lachute United Church was the scene of a wedding on Saturday afternoon, October 25, at 2.30 o'clock, when Reta Joyce, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gordon, became the bride of Mr. Harold J. Warwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Warwick, of Lachute. The Rev. W. B. Rosborough performed the ceremony, while Mrs. K. McOuat played the wedding music. 'Mums and gladioli formed the decorations.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white nylon sheer and lace. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a bandeau of white lilacs. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Coreen Cunningham, as maid of honor, was dressed in blue nylon sheer and carried a nosegay of yellow poms. As bridesmaid, Miss Eleanor Warwick, sister of the groom, wore pink nylon sheer and carried a nosegay of white poms. Little Judy Gordon, cousin of the bride, was flower girl, dressed in yellow organdie and carrying a basket of mauve poms.

Mr. Keith Warwick, brother of the groom, acted as best man, while the ushers were Mr. Donald Boa and Mr. John Heatlie, Jr.

Mrs. Gordon, mother of the bride, was dressed in gray crepe, with coral hat and black accessories, and a shoulder corsage of Johanna Hill roses. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Warwick, was dressed in green crepe with black accessories and wore a corsage of gold 'mums.

Following the reception in the church hall, where autumn flowers were arranged, Mr. and Mrs. Warwick left by motor on their wedding trip to Niagara Falls and other parts of Ontario. For travelling the bride wore a grey crepe dress under a brown coat, with a green velvet hat and toning accessories, while bronze 'mums composed her shoulder corsage. The couple will reside in Lachute upon their return.

GOOD CUSTOMERS

One tourist camp we heard about the other day reports "booked solid" for the hunting season. It's a big camp, too — one that had considered closing for the season this year.

CIVIC LEADERSHIP

Some of the younger generation of business men, professional men and workers should "take the bull by the horns" and organize a ratepayers association to give leadership in civic affairs. Otherwise we may have lackadaisical administration instead of the energetic, keen and "take a chance" variety.

GRAND COUNTRY

The Prairies contain a beauty and, in this season particularly, a compelling loveliness that outrivals anything elswhere in this grand country. Nowhere in the world is there the same sense of space on land or in the sky, and once it fastens its grip upon a man, go where he will he never wholly succeeds in shaking it.

Q

How Can I Start An Investment Programme?

A

By Planned Savings Through Life Insurance.

The basis of an investment plan in most cases should be life insurance. It meets in a sound and regular way the real objectives of investment — savings for the future, a retirement income and money for your family should anything happen to you. What is more, life insurance achieves these ends economically and without worry or risk. Discuss with a Mutual Life of Canada representative a life insurance investment plan for your future.

"Mr. Showbusiness"

The dapper, 63-year-old Torontonian, Jack Arthur, backed by 50 years' experience in the entertainment field, tells his life story as Mr. Showbusiness, every Tuesday night at 8.30 on the CBC Trans-Canada network. The show traces Arthur's career from the time he wore knee-breeches on the Glasgow stage to his showtime years in Canada and the United States, with lively music by Howard Cable's orchestra and chorus to spark his reminiscences. The gay days of vaudeville, burlesque and the old showboat are relived each Tuesday night by Canada's Mr. Showbusiness, Jack Arthur.

LACHUTE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS AND ACTIVITIES

By Anne Dwyer

The school children waited with great expectations for the end of the week — and Hallowe'en. Most of the lower grades had some treat arranged for the afternoon. The most outstanding feature of Friday afternoon's celebrating was a puppet show put on by Grade V-A for the entertainment for the B class. This was organized by Ruth Peverly, aided by Mrs. E. Armstrong. The girls who took part in the fun were Eileen Bryson, Margaret Yeamen, Carol Parker and Coral Nelson. Frank Karch added to the entertainment by asking riddles. With jack-o-lanterns strung up everywhere, and other decorations befitting a Hallowe'en party, Mrs. Armstrong told the class a ghost story. Ruth Peverly and her helpers had everyone's curiosity aroused when they announced that there would be a surprise. It turned out to be candy for "all hands".

Several new groups have started in the school for those who do not wish to participate in the Glee Club. One such group is the Current Events Club, which is being run by Mr. R. Wyse. It has been operating for only three weeks, but Mr. Wyse is getting splendid response in return for his efforts to make this interesting. So far, this club has been discussing old newsreels, famous personages and other events in the limelight. Last Friday, the Rev. Dr. W. H. Reid spoke to them and showed slides on the United Nations. The pupils have found their work, thus far, very interesting.

Miss Catterson has organized the Dramatic Club, for those who would rather act than sing. One of their plans is to perform the famous play, "The Valiant", by H. Hall and R. Middlemass (from the Grade X textbook) at the Christmas concert. The group also intends to take part in the operetta "Oklahoma". Mr. K. Russell is head of the committee which is looking after stage props for these presentations.

Mr. R. Bailly and Mr. Peterson are holding basketball and volleyball classes for those particularly interested in sports.

COLOR FILM OF CORONATION

London — J. Arthur Rank plans a full-length feature film, in color, of the Coronation, including the ceremony in the Abbey. Producer will be Castleton Knight ("Theirs Is the Glory"). The film will be released throughout the world a few days after the event.

Form Inter-School Basketball League, Opening Nov. 15

Representatives from several schools in the vicinity assembled last week in the Brownsburg Protestant School and formed an Inter-scholastic Basketball League for both boys and girls. A three-member executive was chosen, with Philip Grant, Brownsburg, as president; Robert Bailey, Lachute, as secretary; and Joseph Hunt, of Hawkesbury, as third member.

The boys' teams were divided into two sections, Senior and Intermediate — Buckingham, St. Eustache, Lachute and Hawkesbury comprising the Senior Section, while Hudson, Ste. Agathe, Grenville and Brownsburg comprise the Intermediate Section. The girls' teams were all classed as Senior, but will play against the same schools as the boys. There may be a play-off between the girls' sections in the spring to determine the championship.

This year the league is a trial, and if successful will be continued, with the hope that more schools will participate.

With only four teams in each section, it is possible that the schedule will be run through twice, if it can be arranged.

The league will open Saturday, November 15, with all eight schools in action:

St. Eustache at Lachute;
Hawkesbury at Buckingham;
Grenville at Hudson;
Brownsburg at Ste. Agathe.

FUSILIERS' COLORS

Cubs Entertained At Summer Home For Hallowe'en

WOLF CUB NEWS

By Howard Jones, Cubmaster, and Fred Atkinson, Asst. Cubmaster

The Hallowe'en party given by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Romer and daughter, Sonia, of Montreal, at their summer home at Lake Sir John last Friday night, was greatly enjoyed by all the youngsters — about 30 Wolf Cubs attending, in costumes of every description.

The cottage was decorated to suit the occasion, with lighted pumpkins along the driveway as the guests drove in. The Cubs entered the cottage in single file and were presented to their hosts.

First prize for costumes was won by Cub Gary Cruise, who was dressed as Hobo Joe. Second prize went to Cub Bertie Wigney, dressed as Aunt Jemima.

A bingo game was enjoyed by the boys, the winners being —

The prizes were all kindly donated by Mr. and Mrs. Romer. A sing-song was held, and different Cubs gave song selections, told stories, and performed tricks for the amusement of the party.

Weiners, candy, soft drinks, and ice cream were served, and after the refreshments the boys shook hands with Mr. and Mrs. Romer, and thanked them heartily. The party ended with the "grand howl" as a rousing expression of appreciation to the host and hostess of the evening.

The following meeting was to have been held in McArthur's Hall on Monday, but was cancelled due to illness of both Leaders.

Next meeting will be held Monday, November 10, at the High School.

"Faust" November 10 On Opera Broadcast

Gounod's popular opera "Faust" will be presented by Le Théâtre Lyrique sponsored by Molson's, over CBF and the French network from 9 to 10 p.m. on Monday, November 10.

Principal roles will be sung by Nicola Rossi-Lemini, Pierre Boutet and Dolores Drolet. The singers will be supported by Jean Deslauriers and the symphony orchestra, with Albert Duquesne acting as narrator, and Roger Baulu, announcer.

L'Ouvroir Ste. Elisabeth

After being disinfected, all these articles had to be sorted, washed, pressed, repaired or made over. There followed the problem of accommodation — where to carry on this work, which necessitated sewing machines, ironing boards, chairs, tables, shelves, etc. . . . Where could this paraphernalia be stored in safety? . . Mme Deslauriers offered two rooms in her home on Bedard Blvd.; the enterprise spread shortly to four rooms, and two attics — in these hospitable quarters it still continues.

From September 15 until June 15 each year, numerous ladies of the parish give their time, one afternoon a week at l'Ouvroir. Others assist by doing work in their own homes.

Originally, the distribution of clothing was made at l'Ouvroir, where the poor and needy called in considerable numbers every Wednesday. But answering their needs, distracted three ladies from the work of sewing, and it was consequently decided to make one distribution per month at the needy homes, where particular wants have first been ascertained by ladies visiting these homes. Menfolk were enlisted to deliver the actual bundles, during their evening hours.

The spiritual scope of this work — which it is not possible to see and investigate personally — may well be visualized, however: the personal visits, the Christian influence, the cheer and encouragement imparted in otherwise depressed and cheerless homes. And both for its moral and material benefits in four years of tireless operation, l'Ouvroir has gained the esteem and respect of the entire parish.

This work of charity entails the investigation of needs, and keeping of records as to families, ages, sizes, etc. Also records as to articles and materials available or needed. A few actual figures will further illustrate the extent of this big undertaking:

Home visits, February 1947 to June 1952 — 432.
Interviews at l'Ouvroir (first year of operation only) — 221.
Articles of clothing collected — 12,507.
Used garments distributed — 14,421.
New garments distributed — 1,838.
Cash donations received — $1,036.31.
Hours worked at l'Ouvroir — 4,203.
Articles made or repaired in private homes — 1,096.
Number of families assisted — 187. (Average per year — 38).

Note: Used garments distributed exceed number of garments collected, due to the fact that adult clothing is cut down to make two or three child-size garments.

In this manner, l'Ouvroir has been quietly, unostentatiously tackling its job for the past six years — enjoying support in the way of gifts from Catholic and non-religious organizations, K. of C., Lions Club, business firms and anonymous individuals.

The visiting group from Lachute Chamber of Commerce were much impressed with the enthusiasm which impells these ladies in their charitable work, even though they derive nothing from it save the satisfaction of aiding the poor. They deserve warm public admiration and support — which may best be shown in our generous response whenever they appeal for our co-operation.

Taxi-Cabs Crowd Montreal Streets

Montreal (CP) — It would be no surprise to most residents of Montreal to learn that this city has more taxis than six large cities in the United States combined.

Montrealers, accustomed to seeing taxis edging bumper-to-bumper along the traffic-clogged streets, were given the data on their taxi population by Hawley S. Simpson, a Philadelphia traffic expert.

Testifying before the Quebec public service board in connection with a tramway-fare increase, Mr. Simpson said that whenever a public transit company boosts its fare the public turns to taxis for transportation.

He said Montreal probably has a higher proportion per capita of cabs than any major United States city except Washington, D.C.

"Montreal has 4.20 cabs per 1,000 persons — that is from two to 11 times the ratio in major American cities", he added. "In fact, Montreal alone has more cabs than six cities, such as Buffalo, N.Y., Minneapolis, Minn., St. Paul, Minn., Detroit, Pittsburgh, and Baltimore, which have a combined population of 5,800,000 persons."

The population of greater Montreal is 1,725,000.

Mr. Simpson's figure showed that New York has 11,822 cabs, Washington 8,500 and Montreal 4,300.

DRY SPELL ENDS

Charlottetown (CP) — The two-day snow in the third week of October ended a long spell of fine sunny weather in most of Prince Edward Island that had stretched from late June. The snowflakes melted as soon as they fell.

Peter Vandervoort, of Chesley, Ont., grieved when his little black dog, which rode the top of his garbage truck, disappeared 18 months ago; last week it turned up in its usual place. . . Mrs. Ponton Armour, of Toronto, hunting partridge near Pembroke, saw a wolf loping just 30 feet from her, promptly let blaze with her 20-gauge double-barreled shotgun and got him. . . Slocan, B.C., with 374 people, claims to be the smallest city in the British Empire. Reason: incorporated as a city in 1901 during mining boom.

A STOP IN TIME

Too many drivers of vehicles are forgetting to stop when a sign tells them to do so. When they fail to stop — and look and listen — they are endangering not only their own lives but those of others who are obeying traffic laws. It is common courtesy to stop at a stop sign. It is also common sense.

NAMING OF LAKES PROVES HEADACHE

Number of Trout Lakes Reduced In Ontario from 97 to 22 and 90 Beaver Lakes to 19

Toronto (CP) — Ontario has an estimated 350,000 lakes, but luckily the Indians and settlers named only about 45,000 of them.

Luckily, because the Indians gave tongue-twisting names to the lakes while the settlers gave the same name to many different lakes. One body of water was called Lake Mijnemungshing or "Lake Running Water In". On the other hand, settlers named 97 Trout Lakes in the province.

Making names easier for everyone is one of the jobs of Canadian Board on Geographical Names, an organization formed in 1897. The board controls the naming and changing of names of geographical features across Canada and any decision it makes is final. Each province has a representative on the board.

During the course of its duties, the board has managed to reduce the number of Trout Lakes to 22. There are still 24 Clear Lakes in Ontario, between 40 and 50 having been given new names. There were about 90 Beaver Lakes, but now the figure is only 19.

An effort is made to retain a portion of the original name if simplification is needed. Lake Nipigon, the largest within the boundaries of the province, has had its present spelling since 1801, but before that the French knew it as Lake Alemenipigon. The lake is in the Thunder Bay region north of Fort William and covers 1,870 square miles.

There are 20 accepted ways of spelling Lake Timiskaming near Cobalt in Northern Ontario. Today's version was established in 1703. The translation of the Indian name is "It Is Deep in the Water".

Mississagi, the Indian name for "Great River Mouth", has been used for many waterways in Ontario and the spelling is left to the local residents to decide. Among recognized spellings are Mississauga, Massassauga and Mississagua.

Central School Board Passes Resolution to Cease Operation

Local Boards Again to Function Independently

Complaints Received from Various School Municipalities on Increased Education Costs and Tax Valuations

At the regular meeting of the Central School Board, held in Lachute High School, on Monday evening with W. M. Cottingham, chairman, presiding, a resolution was unanimously adopted to dissolve the Board.

This Central Board was formed by Order-in-Council in 1945. First meeting was held in January 1946 and consisted of the following members: the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh of Lakefield, W. M. Cottingham and Dr. F. W. FitzGerald of Lachute, the Rev. A. E. Hawes of Grenville, and Carl Seale of Morin Heights. Mr. Cottingham was elected chairman of the Board at this meeting, and has served continuously in that capacity to the present time. Dr. FitzGerald resigned in 1947 and was replaced by James W. McGibbon of Lachute. The Rev. A. E. Hawes resigned in 1949 and was replaced by Mr. Ernest Rodger of St. Andrews East; and Mr. M. P. Reilly was elected in 1949 replacing Mr. Carl Seale.

The resolution to dissolve the Board, passed at the meeting on Monday evening, reads as follows:

Whereas the Argenteuil and Two Mountains County Central School Board has enjoyed a certain measure of success in raising the general level of Protestant Education in the territory within its jurisdiction:

Whereas better educational facilities have been provided, particularly for Protestant children in rural and remote areas, as is evident by the fact that —

(a) Approximately 300 children who formerly attended one-room elementary schools are now enrolled either in intermediate or high schools in the area, such as — children from St. Andrews East now attend Lachute High School as well as those from Gore and Dunany, most of the children from Rouge River attend either the Kilmar school or the Grenville school, children from Montcalm attend school at Arundel as well as those from Rockway Valley and Rouge Valley.

(b) In general, the quality of the teaching staffs in all schools has greatly improved, particularly in that qualified French specialists have been engaged in each of the larger schools.

(c) That additional special courses have been provided, such as Grade XII, Manual Training and Physical Education in Lachute High School, Music in all schools, and Agriculture in Lachute, Brownsburg and Grenville.

(d) The number of children now attending high school grades has increased from a total of 212 in the years 1946-47 to 428 for the year 1952-53.

(e) Transportation facilities have been almost completely modernized.

(f) Remarkable strides have been made in education at St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac where the former elementary school has now become a high school.

(g) A school nurse has been provided to visit all schools.

(h) The courses of study and most examinations have been standardized under the general direction of the Supervisor.

Whereas improved and modern educational facilities have been provided as is evident by the fact that new additions have been built to the schools at Arundel, Brownsburg, Grenville, Lachute, Lake of Two Mountains, and a new school at Morin Heights.

Whereas a conscientious and sincere effort has been made by the Board to adjust school tax burdens throughout the area in an attempt to equalize taxation among all Protestant ratepayers in accordance with the provisions of Act 8, George VI, Chapter 15, an Act to provide for the Incorporation of Protestant Central School Boards:

Whereas these adjustments, year after year have given rise to much dissatisfaction and disagreement among local Boards and local school municipalities:

Whereas this continuous dissatisfaction and disagreement on taxation matters is creating serious discord among local school boards, when mutual co-operation is essential:

Whereas experience has shown that Act 8, George VI, Chapter 15, is ambiguous, difficult to apply in a practical manner, and, in general contrary to the system of education in the Province of Quebec and the fundamentals of democracy:

Whereas these ambiguities in the Act, together with the many improvements which have been effected have necessarily resulted in increased expenditures:

Whereas the local boards and the ratepayers are now of the opinion that these increased expenditures, however justified they may have been in the past, are no longer necessary in view of the fact that the ideals and the purposes for which the Central Board was originally formed have now been attained:

Whereas the members of the Argenteuil and Two Mountains Central School Board, after serious deliberation, are now of the opinion that the Board, as such, has achieved its purpose, that any further attempt to continue in operation would create additional discord, which, in turn, could be to the detriment of Protestant education in the area:

Be it resolved, therefore, that the Argenteuil and Two Mountains Central School Board petition the Superintendent of Education for the Province of Quebec to instigate the necessary proceedings to allow the Board to dissolve and terminate as of June 30, 1952.

In the discussion that followed the presentation of the motion for dissolution, the members explained how they had earnestly tried to do their best and that they were confident they had contributed substantially to the progress of education throughout the entire area. However, they now felt that the principal objectives had been attained and that the local boards should be able to carry on independently. Added to this was the fact there were so many complaints about school taxes. It was felt that possibly the local boards would be able to effect greater economies if operated independently.

Certain members of a delegation of ratepayers from Grenville and Calumet who were present at the meeting expressed the hope that this action on the part of the board would not result in the status of education in the district being lowered.

Among the various other items of business discussed at this meeting was a legal opinion submitted by a local law firm, on the position of the Central Board with regard to the setting of the tax rate, the homologation of valuation and collection rolls, and the collection of taxes. This opinion was to the effect that it was the responsibility of the Central Board to set the tax rate for the entire area, and to homologate all valuation and collection rolls. In the event any local Board refused to collect the taxes as imposed by the Central Board, the latter was obliged to take over these duties and collect the taxes.

The meeting was informed that, of the 12 local boards within the jurisdiction of the Central Board, ten had approved the current budget and the tax rate for the year 1952-53, while two had rejected it. These were the local boards of Morin Heights and Dunany.

Routine Matters Before November Meeting of Municipal Council

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — All members were present at the regular council meeting last week, with Mayor C. Campbell presiding.

The meeting opened with prayer, and the public were invited to submit any matters they might wish to place before the Council.

Mr. Elwood Kirkpatrick enquired about a suspended Van Packer chimney which he wished to install. It was pointed out that, while the chimney was permissible, it must be installed according to the terms of By-Law 56, that is, from the foundation, with a proper clean-out.

The Fire and Police reports were read and adopted; also accounts for the month, presented by the secretary-treasurer, were approved for payment.

A letter was read from the Morin Hts. branch of the Canadian Legion, inviting the Mayor and Council to participate in the Remembrance Day services. The secretary was instructed to suitably reply.

The report of the Arbitration Board for the expropriation which had taken place on Mr. Wade's property in the 3rd Range, was accepted, and the necessary authority given to the mayor and secretary-treasurer to sign any deeds or documents which may be required.

By-law bearing No. 60 "to close a portion of council road from lots 46 to 51-52, 3rd Range", was presented by Councillor Max Baumel. As all formalities had been complied with, it was unanimously adopted by the Council, and the secretary was ordered to have the regular notices posted, as required by law.

Councillor R. E. Jamieson gave a resumé of progress made on expropriations in Christieville for the new road, and a committee consisting of the mayor and the roads

His condition was described as serious. Also hospitalized was a daughter Barbara, 6, who is doing "satisfactorily" in the Neurological Institute. She suffered facial lacerations. A son Hugh, two, who was in the auto, was not injured.

Scouts Appeal for Discarded Toys

The childish joy we witness in our homes at Christmas time, is but a sample of the pleasure imparted by gifts to those in luckless circumstances. The Lachute Boy Scouts have brought gladness to many poorer children through their Annual Good Turn — the Christmas Toy Repair Shop.

Only by early co-operation of the public can they make their job effective. They are now awaiting contributions — toys, games, playthings no longer wanted — which a coat of paint or a touch of glue will make over, into an acceptable gift for a needy child.

Parents, do it now! Gather up the family's unwanted toys. Telephone Scoutmaster Basil Riddell (1013-M) or Asst. Scoutmaster Fred Stansfield (37-J), and your parcel will be gratefully collected.

(The Scouts' workshop is situated at the old government garage in East Ward — not in a private home, as reported in the Scout News of this issue.)

Denise Larocque, 9, of St. Eustache, died in Ste. Justine Hospital Monday morning, from injuries received in a fall in a barn near her home last Sunday.

Provincial Police reported that the child seemed well shortly after the accident, and was not taken to the hospital until late in the evening when she complained of head pains. Det. Roger Paiement investigated, preparatory to an inquest being held.

Dedication of Brownsburg Memorial Hall

Home and School Assoc'n Mooted

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — A meeting of all those interested in the formation of a branch of the Home and School Association will be held at the Brownsburg Protestant School auditorium on Friday night at 8 o'clock. Mr. Alex Pryde, of the Quebec Federation, will be present to outline the aims and objects of the movement, which has made such rapid progress of late years. Membership is open to everyone interested in education, school improvement and a better future for pupils and adults alike. Its work affects everyone. A large attendance at this initial meeting is expected.

Whether our civilization is on the way out or not, depends on whether we do, or do not, take the religious way again.

— Dr. Arnold J. Toynbee

Brownsburg — Following an address in both French and English, the president of Quebec Provincial Command, Canadian Legion, Comrade Bob Munich, officially opened the Memorial Hall in Brownsburg last Saturday. Approximately 140 persons, including members of the Branch and its Auxiliary, witnessed the ceremony, following a turkey dinner which had been arranged by the ladies of the Auxiliary.

Guests of Honor Include Justice Georges Héon, Who Procured Original Charter

Branch President Steve Istvanffy, who directed the affairs of the evening, paid high tribute to the assistance which had been received from the public and organizations of both Brownsburg and Lachute, which had helped materially towards the building of the Hall. Sid Stilwell, co-chairman of the campaign, covered the history of the campaign until the successful completion of the building, while Justice Georges H. Héon, the other co-chairman, who was instrumental in securing the original charter, gave an inspiring address, exemplifying the building of the Hall as "a voluntary accomplishment which could only be achieved in a free society such as exists in Canada". (Judge Héon, incidentally, had to terminate the proceedings of a Board of Inquiry at Chicoutimi and make special travel arrangements in order to be present at the Brownsburg Hall inauguration.) Other speakers included Philippe Valois, M.P. for Argenteuil; Bill Cottingham, M.L.A. for Argenteuil; Hector Pariseau, Mayor of Brownsburg; and Ted Round, chairman of the Quebec Command Provincial Council. Special guests who were present, in most cases with their wives, included the four Memorial Fund administrators, namely, the Hon. Georges E. Dansereau; James W. McGibbon, Mayor of Lachute; Dennis Staniforth, Principal of the High School at St. Eustache; and Oswald Blouin, local bank manager. Other special guests were L. C. Thompson, representing C-I-L; J. P. Martin, representing Canadian Safety Fuse Co.; Jack Giles, representing the Lions Club; Keith Rutherford, representing Brownsburg Rotary Club, and Leonard Wilson.

During the course of the dinner Elmer Cowan, who recently returned from Korea where he served with the P.P.C.L.I., was introduced to the gathering and received a thunderous ovation. Professional entertainment, through the courtesy of Hector Bourgeois and Romeo Gervais, was provided later in the evening and greatly enjoyed, as was the dance music provided by Don Reid and his orchestra.

During the afternoon, approximately 100 people took advantage of the Legion's invitation to visit the Hall, and were served tea and cookies by members of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

A feature which received great admiration at the Hall, was its Memorial aspect in the form of a scroll, which was designed and executed by George E. Donaldson of Brownsburg, in conjunction with the Memorial Committee under chairmanship of Sydney Seary. The names of the dead of World Wars I and II appear on the scroll. The beautiful frame was provided by Allan Vowles, of Cushing.

Useless Fire Extinguishers (No Charge) Sales to Municipality (No Discount)

"In Brownsburg"

Brownsburg — Some people buy fire extinguishers with the expectations of employing them, as the name implies, for extinguishing a fire. The name could be very misleading. Fire extinguishers do not of themselves extinguish a fire. They are of no use in extinguishing a fire except — and this is a point that Fire Chief Robbins wants to put over — they are charged; and like the chimney which is the prime cause of fire, unless they are inspected about once a year.

Fire Chief Robbins should know, because he had rather a bitter experience with an uncharged fire extinguisher. He picked up one at the scene of a fire and turned it on the base of the blaze; but lo and behold, nothing happened. — It was not charged. He called to one of his brigade to bring on a hose, which someone did, and doused the fire.

Some other person with an uncharged fire extinguisher may not be so fortunate as to have someone with a hose standing by. Better see that your fire extinguisher is fully charged. In Brownsburg, call the fire brigade to do the job.

There are three schools in Brownsburg, with hundreds of pupils big and small. There might be some doubt as to the efficiency of their fire preventive methods and apparatus. We could be wrong; we hope for the children's sake we are. But we would like to be assured.

Retail Sales

Brownsburg Council buys a lot of materials locally. This may be good, or it may be bad. Last year the cost of repairs to motor vehicles was twice what it was the previous year. Every month a long list of gasoline and oil items are read out, always at top prices. Pipes and fittings for waterworks are bought singly, and recurring items are listed at each meeting — always with sales tax added on. Tires and batteries are passed at prices that councillors would be very hesitant to pay personally.

The secretary has called attention to this method of purchasing more than once, but each item is so small that no one considers the aggregate cost. Such a batch of little trifles were listed on a bill at last meeting, and amounted to $316. In one year those little trifles cost the taxpayers $3,792 — almost $10,000 during the term of office of a councillor.

Remembrance Day Exercises In Lachute's Memorial Park

Tribute to Heroes of Two World Wars — Wreaths Laid at Civic Plaque and Argenteuil Memorial

The Legion (Branch 70) paraded in full strength to pay their annual tribute of remembrance to fallen comrades, at the ceremonies Tuesday in Lachute's memorial park. The Remembrance Day exercises digressed somewhat from the traditional program, there being no devotional service in the Auditorium building. The proceedings included brief tributes and laying of poppy wreaths, both at the civic plaque and at the cenotaph, an appropriate address, and the bugle sounding "Last Post" and "Reveille" as an impressive conclusion. Chairman of the exercises was Mayor Jas. W. McGibbon, who first laid a wreath at the plaque on behalf of the Town Corporation.

The Legion contingent, wearing smart berets and medals — led by their president, Comrade Lucien Hamel, marshalled by Comrade Bob St. Laurent, and preceded by their color bearers — numbered approximately 60 members. The veterans were supported by the Boy Scouts, Wolf Cubs and Girl Guides, each with their colors flying — these units together, completely circling the cenotaph. A fair crowd of citizens was in attendance.

"We have gathered together to pay tribute to those who died in two World Wars", said Mayor McGibbon. "These heroic Canadians paid the supreme sacrifice to secure not only their own freedom, and that of their fellow citizens, but also of all freedom-loving people everywhere.

"It is fitting that we honor them today, at this cenotaph, and in so doing realize that we, too, must be prepared to make sacrifices if necessary, to maintain that freedom so nobly handed down to us.

"Fellow-citizens, let us pledge ourselves to the cause of peace and freedom, and so, with God's help, carry on the great Canadian tradition for which so many gave their lives."

Special speaker for the occasion was the Rev. Dr. W. H. Reid, who spoke briefly on the topic, "The Way of Peace".

"Many nations today are striving sincerely for world peace", said Dr. Reid in the course of his remarks. "Some progress has been made. The United Nations has justified its existence even if it has not accomplished all that it hoped for. We know however that no organization of nations, no treaty or peace pact, can assure world peace apart from a world-wide DESIRE for peace. . .

"How then may all nations be brought to a desire for peace? . . . There can be no possibility of realizing the great ideal of world peace apart from a wholehearted acceptance of Christ and the Christian way of life. . . . Moreover, we cannot have international peace until we have established peace within the nation — which must be brought right down to our small family circles. Until we learn to live in harmony at home, it is a delusion to talk about international and world peace."

The Mayor then called upon representatives of various organizations, business firms, churches, ladies' groups, service clubs and private families, to deposit their wreaths, and a total of 25 such tributes were placed at the base of the monument.

The ceremonies concluded with the sounding of the "Last Post" and "Reveille" over a public-address amplifier, which gave to the last, silvery notes a pathos of realism, a fitting echo of reverence and sentiment, which terminated in a few bars of the national anthem to close these annual memorial rites.

Armistice Dinner, Annual Re-union At Legion Hall

The annual re-union of Legion Branch No. 70, a gathering both in remembrance and celebration of Armistice Day, was held in the Legion Hall on Saturday evening. This was one of the largest assemblies that has ever taken place, there being 135 veterans present to enjoy the turkey dinner prepared by the Ladies' Auxiliary, who received warm praise for their endeavors.

President Comrade L. Hamel extended a welcome to all, and particularly to Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., who, although pressed with other engagements, had been able to attend and give a brief address of praise and encouragement.

A toast was given by Comrade C. Duncan to those who paid the supreme sacrifice, with the veterans standing reverently in silence.

Later in the evening, a dance was enjoyed by the veterans, who had been joined by their wives and lady guests, thus making a fitting climax to this memorial event.

Lions Club Visit To Shawbridge Training School

A visit to the Boys' Farm and Training School at Shawbridge on Tuesday afternoon by members of the Lachute Lions Club, proved a welcome variation from their regular form of meeting. The contact gave the members an added interest as they were personally conducted in their tour of inspection by a selected group of the boys, who appeared to be most appreciative of the confidence thus placed in them.

The original founders of the Boys' Farm were members of the directorate of the Boys' Home on Mountain Street in Montreal. In its early association were such men as J. S. Buchan, K.C., T. G. Todd and Norman Holland, all well known names in this community, who were active in welfare work. A 250-acre farm was bought by Mr. H. G. Goodfellow for $8,500; it contained a neat cottage and a rather dilapidated barn. The directors started a campaign for funds, and erected a wooden building which cost $12,300. This building was to house the staff and boys and provide accommodation for kitchen, dining room, dormitories, schoolroom and storeroom.

The first group of boys arrived at the school in 1909. They were 15 in number and came from Sherbrooke Jail, where they had been detained. The boys were tough; but kindness, patience and tact won through. The second group of 15 boys arrived later from the Roman Catholic Reformatory in Montreal, where many Protestant boys were sent at that time. The lads were treated, not as criminals but as misguided children needing help, advice and encouragement.

One of the pleasing sidelights was a visit to the print-shop, where "The Beehive" is published, a little monthly magazine which records activities and happenings of all departments. This product reflects great credit upon the lads in charge.

It was a pleasure to have the privilege of meeting with Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Evans, Mr. Pepperdine (boys' counsellor), Mr. J. C. Connely, Douglas Case, and others of the staff, who did their utmost in making this visit so pleasant.

Absence of occupation is not rest: a mind quite vacant is a mind distressed.

2 Lost Hunters Found in Bush

Two youths from The Glen, in the direction of Dunany and Shrewsbury, had a harrowing experience when lost in the dense bush while hunting last Saturday. Watson Creswell, 17 (who works in Montreal) and his brother Allen, 19 — sons of Reuben Creswell — left home in the afternoon. They struck the trail of a deer and followed it, until snow obliterated their tracks and they discovered they were lost.

The youths were only lightly clad, and they had no matches with which to light a fire and keep themselves warm.

When they were missed from home, two older brothers, accompanied by Keith Morrison of Dalesville, set out in search, and the trio tramped the bush all night, calling and firing in the darkness. They eventually found the lost hunters about three miles from home, and it was around 5 a.m. before the party regained the farmhouse. The pair were little the worse for their misadventure.

Gatineau LINES

Improvements on the Way

Last week we told you about some of the work completed on our lines this year. Here is what is to be finished before the end of the year:

— Re-insulation of the line from St. Jovite to Labelle; and boosting of the voltage from 13,200 to 26,400 volts.

— Re-insulation of the line from Mirabel to Ste. Scholastique; erection of new sub-stations at St. Hermas, St. Benoit and Ste. Scholastique; boosting of voltage from 13,200 to 26,400 volts.

— Completion of a new 26,000-volt line from Dorion to St. Polycarpe to replace the present 13,000-volt line, thus improving service throughout Vaudreuil and Soulanges Counties.

These major developments are in addition to the normal large program of line extensions which is proceeding on schedule. The work now in progress had to be planned as much as two years ago — and is designed to assure that electricity remains your Most Valuable Servant.

Local retailers will argue that they are the people who pay the taxes, and they should have first draw from the pot. Under this line of reasoning, the Transport Department at Quebec might increase the road tax on vehicles to the municipality; instead, they just charge the nominal fee of $1. Civic-minded individuals and companies have made free grants of land and other concessions to the municipality, and associations and organizations give of time and money to improve the general appearance and welfare of their immediate neighborhood. Charity begins at home, so they say, but what charity does the taxpayer get, who has nothing to sell to the Council! Perhaps he is the guy who buys the ticket which isn't drawn.

Sidewalks

$10,000 worth of sidewalks have been laid around Brownsburg this year. It is money well spent — even possibly in terms of lives saved.

Oh, No!

A bill for asphalt road material from the O'Connell Company for Lachute was before the Council for payment. Guess what happened? How right you are.

The Law Is An Ass

Daniel O'Connell is reported as saying that there never was a law but he could drive a "coach and four" through it. Someone in Lachute had better get a modern Daniel O'Connell, if he desires to sell beer in Brownsburg. Secretary Hebert at a council meeting quoted the law as "saying" a wholesale beer vendor cannot sell his amber fluid in Brownsburg if he resides in Lachute, because his territory only extends to the adjoining municipality. Lachute and Brownsburg are not adjoining municipalities. He'd better move to Chatham and cover all three. Don Marquis once wrote, "The law can make you quit drinking; but it can't make you quit being the kind that needs a law to make you quit drinking."

CANDY MAKERS SEEK TAX CUTS

"The candy industry, in the doldrums since a double tax was imposed in 1950, will appeal to the government again to remove the excise tax", Fred Saunders, secretary-manager of Confectionery, Chocolate and Cocoa Industries of Canada, announced recently.

Since the double tax was introduced, consumption of candy in Canada has fallen off badly. Mr. Saunders stated that sales had dropped from 37,876,124 dozen chocolate bars in first half of 1950, to 23,630,462 dozen in first half of 1952.

Canadian Plow Champs Compete in Scotland

Montreal — Canada's two champion plowmen and their team manager left Montreal by air last Friday to begin a month-long tour of the British Isles and take part in the British Plowing Association national match at Falkirk, Scotland, on November 12.

The trip will be the first visit to the United Kingdom for all three: Algie Wallace, 35, of North Gower, Ont., champion tractor plowman; Douglas S. Reid, 26, of Brampton, Ont., champion tractor plowman, and Roy Shaver, of Finch, Ont., team manager.

They will be the seventh team to make the trip as guests of Imperial Oil since 1946.

During their trip the Canadian plowmen will visit Scotland, Northern Ireland, Eire, and England. They will return on the "Queen Elizabeth" from England on December 8 and should arrive back in Canada on December 15.

At the British Plowing Association match they will compete against some of Europe's finest plowmen. The special overseas class will be conducted under a new set of international rules which has been tentatively accepted by Canada, Great Britain, Sweden, Holland, Eire and Finland. It is hoped these rules will serve as a basis for proposed future world championship matches.

Better Roughage For Dairy Herd

When breeding operations succeed in raising cows that give higher yields of milk than their predecessors a new problem is created, that of better feeding. A good producing herd needs better care and better feeds. The average yearly production of many cows is under 200 pounds of butterfat. When a cow does this amount of work very little breeding trouble is experienced, and the rations are usually adequate to support such production and reproduction.

The higher producing herds require more total nutrients. The cow doing a large amount of work and reproducing herself each year demands a better ration. The demands on the body of high producing cows require a ration carrying minerals beyond the demand of the average cow.

Through fertilization of the land the quality of roughage grown on it is improved. Fertilization produces a greater number of bushels of grain per acre, but does not materially change the composition of the kernel.

But the quality of roughage is influenced very much by fertilizing the land. A cow's production and reproduction are influenced by the quality of feed she receives.

The progressive dairy farmer must understand how to feed the soil of his farm in order to produce the roughage that will so nourish the high producing cows that they will not only give a good account of themselves at the pail, but will also produce a calf each year. This will help them to become healthy and strong and remain in the dairy for a greater number of years.

No question but that the dairy cow will give the best account of any animal when her owner is able, through adequate fertilization, to produce a better quality of roughage.

Canada Expanding Market for Wheat

In the last crop year, Canada shipped substantial quantities of wheat and flour to countries that seldom bought from us previously, says The Financial Post. Japan, Ceylon, India and Egypt are examples.

This is a welcome and important development. We can certainly use more markets for our wheat. The greater the number of customers, the more stable and firm the permanent demand.

Several of these new customers for wheat and wheat flour were formerly almost exclusively rice eaters. But rice is much more costly to produce than wheat.

In recent years, due to military and political disturbances in Asia, international shipments of rice have slumped, hence big importers like India, Ceylon and Japan have been forced to turn to wheat. If the people of those countries develop a real taste for wheat that will mean bigger permanent markets. Because we can grow this grain more cheaply than most other countries, any increase in world demand is bound to benefit us.

In this business, too, it is well to remember that wheat is one of our major exports and will continue to occupy that position for a long time to come, concludes the Post.

Legume Silage for Dairy Cattle

Over the past few years legume silage has rapidly gained in popularity as a feed for dairy cattle. Indeed, some dairymen have developed the practice of curing all the legume-grass forage as silage for the winter supply of roughage. Following such a plan, cows are fed silage at a rate of approximately six pounds per hundred pounds of live weight daily. A simple low protein meal allowance is fed in conjunction with legume silage at a rate of two to four pounds per 10 pounds of milk produced.

This practice has advantages in that curing legume roughage as silage instead of hay ensures a better conservation of nutrients under adverse weather conditions. It also fits in with the current trend toward grassland farming and permits of a better distribution of labor in the rush harvest season.

Whether the feeding of silage as the sole roughage is superior to the more or less standard recommendation of feeding one pound of good hay and three pounds of silage per hundred pounds of live weight daily, has not been proved. The handicap to the standard plan is to provide a constant high quality in the hay.

Experiments at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ont., have shown that wilted legume silage harvested under adverse weather conditions was equal to good quality hay when fed either as the sole roughage or with hay in the ratio of three pounds of silage to one pound of hay.

At the Experimental Station, Lennoxville, Quebec, when legume silage provided the full roughage complement, it was equal to corn silage and hay for milk production. The comparison was conducted through five winter seasons.

When legume silage is first introduced in the dairy ration, it does not appear to be as palatable as corn silage. Unless cows are accustomed to it, they may at first refuse legume silage or nibble at it gingerly. However, providing the ration contains no spoiled material, their appetite for this silage will gradually increase to a high rate of intake.

While it has been shown that cows will produce well during the winter season on legume silage as the only roughage, it might be advisable to allow a small quantity of hay daily which will provide needed vitamin D and tend to increase the over-all consumption of roughage.

"On Guard" For Canada's Plants

Just mention the word "bulbs" to one of the Plant Protection inspectors in Montreal and you'll get a withering look. About half the nursery stock imported to Canada originates in Holland and about 40 per cent in the United States. From Holland come nearly 45,000,000 tulip and daffodil bulbs, every year, most of them through Montreal and all during a six-week period ending in October. Inspection of all this is on top of their regular duties, which are far from routine.

During the last fiscal year, more than 95,000,000 plants and bulbs, imported from 39 countries, were inspected by the men of the Plant Protection Division, Science Service, Canada Department of Agriculture. More than 6,000,000 were inspected and certified for export to 44 countries. In addition, special health certificates were issued on seeds, cereals and other plants, and more than 40,000 acres of seed potatoes were inspected and passed as 2,000,000 bushels were exported to 13 countries.

Working out of offices located at 22 seacoast and inland points, the inspectors also inspect the holds of vessels previous to loading cargoes of grain and cereal products, to make sure they are free from insects. Because many countries demand special certification of flour and processed cereals, regular inspections of grain elevators, flour mills and storage warehouses are made so that Canada's extensive export trade may be safely maintained.

It rests with these men to enforce regulations under the Destructive Insect and Pest Act where it relates to import and export plant products, to keep insects, pests and diseases that might destroy vegetation away from Canada. Several of the Division's offices are located abroad so inspections and tests may be made before the produce leaves its native land.

Hence, the use of the term "extremely busy", not only applies to the Plant Protection inspectors at any time of the year, but is really a term much too mild to describe the pressure under which they operate for the protection of Canadian vegetation, and the maintenance of the high quality of Canada's export goods.

Big Prize List For Toronto Royal Winter Fair

Toronto, Nov. 10 — The Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, world's largest indoor farm exhibition, opens here November 14. Founded 30 years ago, this year's show will be the 24th — during the war the fair was suspended when its buildings were taken over by the R.C.A.F.

Held in the big Coliseum at Exhibition Park, the Royal has accommodation for 1,200 horses, 2,200 cattle, 1,200 sheep, 1,000 swine, 8,000 poultry and hundreds of other exhibits. While it is essentially an agricultural exhibition, the annual horse show attracts competitors from many countries.

The Royal offers an imposing prize list. More than 17,000 entries will vie for prize money totalling $136,000 as well as titles, including eight which carry with them "world champion" recognition.

Characteristic of the "show window" aspect of the Royal is the seed, grain and hay show which usuallly attracts world-wide competition for its eight world championships in wheat, oats, barley, rye, corn, potatoes, soy beans and forage seed crops.

This year, Great Britain is expected to provide keen competition for the wheat world championship, traditionally won by a Canadian. The British entry, a sample of the world's record yield of wheat — 125 bushels to the acre — was grown by three brothers in Norfolk.

The fair has its lighter side. Another feature is the Miniature Royal, an exhibit of baby farm animals, that has become one of the most popular attractions.

Once again the Royal will be the scene of the selection of a young Canadian, chosen from among candidates from every province except Newfoundland, who will be sent to an agricultural college, for a four-year degree course, on the Eaton Scholarship.

Dancing New Feature

A square dancing competition is a new feature of the show. More than 400 dancers will compete for $1,100 in prizes.

Although agriculture claims the limelight, the Royal Horse Show is the favorite with city folk. This year, for the first time since 1949, the R.C.M.P. musical ride will appear at the fair.

In addition teams representing the U.S., the Republic of Ireland, Mexico, France and Canada will compete in jumping contests. An English Earl and a United States General of Cavalry are among the judges.

During the fair 22,000 school children from all over Ontario — and some from U.S.A. including a group from Alabama — will tour the Royal, as an educational project, with their teachers. Highlights will be livestock judging for boys, domestic science competitions for girls, plus joint visits to industries.

Another event for young people is the Queen's Guineas, in which Ontario boys and girls will compete in the champion baby beef class.

Cattle breeders from all sections of Canada will compete. Despite the hoof-mouth disease outbreak last winter in Saskatchewan a record-breaking entry from that province will be shipped.

Echo of Remembrance

THE STRENGTH and solidarity of Lachute Branch 70, Canadian Legion, was one of the most forceful impressions one gathered from the Remembrance Day ceremonies in this town. That impression is further augmented by reports of Legion progress in the neighboring centres where branches have been established.

This evidence of sound organization is gratifying, as we dwell once more upon the real significance of Remembrance Day. For the occasion implies not only a tribute to the dead, but a rededication to the ideals for which they gave their lives. And who may better defend and assert those ideals than the veterans — the comrades beside whom our heroes fell and died! In literal truth, to them the torch of freedom was handed in that tragic hour, to be cherished and kept aflame.

This nation-wide body may be regarded also as a stabilizer, a governor, on the mechanism of political democracy. Their strength and prestige assure them of considerable influence. And who should have more effective voice in the nation's affairs, than those who fight her wars and loyally sacrifice their all when need demands!

Our tribute on Remembrance Day can be very practically demonstrated, in consistent support to the Legion's aims and objectives. Our veterans deserve the utmost public backing.

Soft in the Head?

REPORTERS were talking to Adlai Stevenson a few hours after it became apparent that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had been elected president of the United States.

One newspaper man asked whether the defeated candidate would run again in 1956.

"Have that man's head examined!" quipped Stevenson.

Who could blame him, if, at the end of one hectic campaign from coast to coast, he felt he would refuse to take part in another? And yet there is already talk he will be drafted by the 1956 Democratic convention. Despite the election-night allusion to soft-headedness, he likely would accept.

To seek the presidency — or to be president, despite the personal glory accruing from that office — calls for extreme personal sacrifice.

So does any form of voluntary public service. Few obtain personal gain from their public activities. Many members of parliament receive less in stipend and allowances than they can make in private business. Mayors and reeves, councillors and school trustees devote much time and effort to their jobs, often with inadequate remuneration.

The same sort of sacrifice, though on a smaller scale, applies to all forms of community endeavor.

We owe a vote of thanks to men and women willing to participate in public affairs, even though we may not all agree with everything they do.

And we all should give some thought to whether we are doing as much as we should to help improve our government — from parliament to the lowest public elective office — and the community organizations which operate in our neighborhood.

Free democratic government can continue only as long as it has public support. The man or woman who takes part in public activities is helping keep alive our democratic processes.

"Have that man's head examined!" said Adlai Stevenson.

But even in defeat he would be among the first to say that without wide participation in public affairs the form of government we have and want to keep is bound to suffer.

Right or Duty

THERE ONCE was a poster which showed two lumbermen tramping together through the frozen forest. They were going to vote in the nearest town and, as they went, they shook their fists in each other's face. Obviously they were going to vote for opposing candidates . . . and a moment's thought would have made them realize that, since their votes could only cancel each other out, they'd achieve just as much if they agreed with each other to stay at home. But their minds had no room for that kind of thinking.

Why did they go to vote? It certainly wasn't because a poster had ordered them to, they did it because they wanted to do it. Because, for some reason which, probably, neither of them could have put into words, they felt that it mattered.

Of course is mattered. Everything worthwhile which we had, have or will ever have, depends upon our freedom. What use is loyalty when it can be coerced? What value is in a friendship that can be commanded? What good are our hopes if we haven't the freedom to strive towards their achievement? And, sustaining all our freedoms, is the common vote. While we possess the right to vote, we possess the power to safeguard those freedoms and, if we don't make use of our right, we thereby surrender that power.

Despite what all the posters tell us, use of the vote is, primarily, a right and not a duty. It was a right first and it is a duty only so far as we accept it as such, though we may of course, as individuals, hold it as a duty to ourselves. We have as much right, if we want it, to refrain from voting as we have to vote. Our decision should be our own and not merely the sheepish acceptance of instructions from a billboard.

Our fathers fought for their rights and handed them on to us and, if we don't keep those rights alive, we betray the men who won them. The way to preserve a right is to use it. Let's await with eagerness the days when we enjoy this greatest of all our rights — the right to cast our vote which way we like and so assure the power which guards our freedom.

Farm Labor Drop

FOR THE first time in Canada's history farm workers are no longer the biggest labor group in the country. Last year's census, reflecting the country's industrial growth, showed manufacturing and mechanical workers as the top group.

During the decade from 1941, the bureau of statistics now reports, the ranks of farm workers showed a remarkable drop — from 1,132,565 to 830,441.

That rural change, reflecting a growing mechanization on farms, took place in the same period that the country's total occupied labor force grew by 776,000 — from 4,510,000 in 1941 to 5,286,153 last year.

In the decade, Newfoundland entered Confederation, and along with increased immigration and natural population growth, total population rose from 11,500,000 to 14,000,000.

The manufacturing and mechanical group increased by almost 100,000 to 841,368. The number of women workers, mostly in clerical jobs, made a bigger jump — from 834,000 to 1,164,000.

Suitable Entertainment?

BOTH the American medical profession and the televiewing public are claimed to have taken the public televising of a gory surgical operation in their stride (according to an account in the current issue of "Health" magazine). There were those, however, including some executives of the American Medical Association and U.S. television critics, who questioned the propriety of such a spectacle.

Observed the Journal of the British Medical Association: "Relays direct from the operating theatre should be banned as unsuitable entertainment."

The controversial operation was performed by Dr. Samuel Fogelson in Wesley Memorial Hospital, Chicago, and the telecast was arranged in conjunction with the annual meeting of the American Medical Association there. The operation involved cutting away about half the stomach of a 60-year-old man suffering from a duodenal ulcer. The entire operation was not shown, since it lasted for more than four hours, but an estimated seven million Americans watched the cutting and bleeding and stitching for many long, fascinating minutes while Dr. Fogelson himself told them what was being done and why.

The Health League of Canada magazine poses a pertinent question: Do you think such invasions of the privacy of the individual patient are desirable?

Political Dishonesty

By Lewis Milligan

A news dispatch from Halifax, England, reports the Archbishop of York as saying that "widespread dishonesty, one of the sins of our times, has affected all classes in Britain", and he urged the Church of England to "dedicate and sharpen the people's moral and social conscience". This goes to confirm other reports of the increase in crime under the Welfare State. In the bad old days crime was attributed to poverty, and as far back as four hundred years ago Sir Thomas More conceived the idea of his "utopia", which was a sort of welfare state, as a means of abolishing poverty, which he declared was the chief cause of crime. Those were the days when a man was hanged for stealing a sheep, and the hanging seemed to have little effect in the reduction of theft or of other crimes of dishonesty that were liable to capital punshiment.

Extreme poverty is undoubtedly degrading and drives people to beggary and dishonesty. Robert Burns sings of "honest poverty" and says "a man's a man for a' that"; and some have made a virtue and a religion of poverty. Sydney Smith was nearer the mark when he said: "Poverty is no disgrace to a man, but it is confoundedly inconvenient". The happy mean is contained in William Cobbett's prayer: "Give me, Lord, neither poverty nor riches". But it would seem that the abolition of poverty and riches in the Welfare State has not made for happiness and contentment. According to the archbishop, the more equal distribution of money has made both the former poor and rich dishonest.

I have been trying to think of some reasonable explanation for that apparently unreasonable state of things. One would imagine that the poor — that is what we call the working class — being better off with higher wages, having full employment and "social security", would be more content with their lot and less inclined to dishonesty. Why then should they be more discontented and dishonest under Socialism than they were under Capitalism? The only reason I can think of is that, while they receive nominally higher pay for their work than formerly, more is taken from them in higher direct and indirect taxation and higher prices. Moreover, owing to shortages due to government control and marketing, even the necessaries of life are rationed and this and many other restrictions induce blackmarketing and other means of evading the law. Another example of discontent under the Welfare State is the enormous increase in gambling among the working class. Gambling has taken the place of saving as a short-cut to personal gain and big money. This is the very opposite to the Socialist principle of equality in the distribution of wealth, and if what has been called the "big gambling industry" continues to prosper, the winners may form a class of "New Rich" in the midst of the Welfare State.

As for the alleged dishonesty among the ex-rich or the middle classes, the hated capitalists, who promoted the trade and industry of the country — that is quite understandable in view of the restrictions and penalties imposed upon private enterprise. No business can be carried on, much less promoted, without profitable returns, and where profits are taxed away and business processes are handicapped by strict government controls, the temptation to resort to dishonest practices is increased. Even the Socialist government discovered that it could not carry on its nationalized industries without profits, which are the only source of capital, and the Chancellor of the Exchequer had to resort to predatory taxation and "austerity" (poverty) in order to save the nation from bankruptcy.

We are all in favor of public welfare, but it is a fallacy to suppose that the State can bestow welfare upon the people by taxation and by relieving them of their responsibilities for thrift and enterprise. That is dishonest political economy, and it is evidently popularly contagious.

OUT-OF-TOWNERS OBTAIN BANKING SERVICE BY MAIL

Many rural residents of this district have the mailman do their banking for them at the Bank of Montreal. By this practice, they save themselves both time and trouble.

The service is fast, too. Deposits and instructions received at the bank through the mails receive prompt attention. Every day, before the bank opens, the staff of Lachute's B of M are busy dealing with the business received by the latest mail.

Anyone desiring more information about this service should write to, or visit, Donald Hay, manager of the B of M's Lachute branch. He will gladly provide a leaflet about banking by mail, as well as answer any specific questions.

Green Auto Windshields Against Headlight Glare

Pieces of shaded glass, often bits of bottle, have been used by generations to watch the moon move across the sun during an eclipse. Any boy knows that the shaded glass makes it possible to gaze directly into the sun and see the moon without blinding glare.

Today, automotive authorities are pointing with pride to the latest and "newest" safety factor in driving — green glass windshields the effectively reduce glare from the sun, snow, headlights or any other source. The tinted glass is now optional with most makes of new Canadian automobiles. But present trends indicate that within five years green glass will be standard on all new cars.

This is the belief of J. Walter Morris, sales manager of Duplate Canada Limited, the company that introduced safety glass for cars in Canada.

During 1951, in Ontario alone, 97,637 motor car accidents were reported to the Department of Highways, and "Blinded by Headlights" figured frequently in the headlines that told of thousands of mishaps.

AGAINST SUNDAY SPORT

The desire for Sunday sport is creeping along the Old Ontario Strand. There is Sunday sport in Cornwall. Gananoque council is about to be petitioned to hold a vote on the question, and Kingston will shortly be under the fire of the proponents. So far Napanee has escaped. We hold this lack of desire for organized Sunday sport in Napanee to be one of the most attractive features of life in the town.

Making life joyous and living worthwhile.

Former Grenville Doctor On Health Insurance Study

Ottawa — The Hon. Paul Martin, Minister of National Health and Social Welfare, has announced the appointment of Dr. Olivier Leroux, 45, of Ottawa, as deputy civil director of Health Insurance study — succeeding the late Dr. Martel in this office. His duties will be concerned with Federal-Provincial negotiations on the development of a National Health scheme.

Graduating in Arts and Science from Ottawa University, and in medicine from the University of Montreal, Dr. Leroux practiced at Grenville for two years, then went to London, England, for special courses. In 1935 he joined the Royal Medical Corps in England, and served in India, where following the war he filled various important offices before returning to England in 1945. He later served in Jamaica, being discharged from military service in 1947 with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel.

Having entered the Federal Department of Health in February 1947 and served at Prince Rupert, B.C., Dr. Leroux later was appointed regional superintendent of Public Health (Indian Branch) for the Province of Quebec, and in 1948, director of this service. Early this year, he led a Canadian delegation at the World Health Organization assembly in Geneva.

Grenville Consolidated School News

By Willis Young

On Monday evening, the annual Opening exercises were held at the school.

The Rev. P. R. Stote opened the program with a prayer for the school and the pupils, and the gathering sang "God of Our Fathers". The book prizes were then given out for last term's academic standing. Several individual grades entertained either with a song or a choral recitation.

Prizes for the School Fair, and ribbons and trophies, were also presented, and Mr. Alex Bothwell, Agronomist, gave a short talk on the School Fair held last September, saying this had been the largest school agricultural event in the county.

Mr. K. Fraser spoke on the importance of keeping Armistice Day — which helped to impress his listeners that Armistice was not just a "holiday" but a day on which to honor the dead soldiers.

The evening ended with the singing of "O God, Our Help in Ages Past" and the national anthem.

Premier Duplessis Gives Outline of Legislation On Eve of Reopening

By Ken Stewart

Quebec, Nov. 10 (CP) — Premier Duplessis announced at his regular press conference plans to crack down on drivers and operators of overweight trucks and buses, as the Quebec Government prepared legislation to be introduced at a session of the legislature starting Wednesday.

Topmost in the campaign for safer driving on Quebec highways will be bills establishing a transport and communications department — the government's 18th department — and a revision of the motor vehicles act.

Other top legislation announced by Mr. Duplessis concerns wider jurisdiction of magistrate's court and amendments for stricter application of provincial anti-margarine and rent control laws.

The bill creating the department of transport and communications new portfolio or a new minister will provide that one of the 21 cabinet ministers may take over the may be appointed.

Although he did not say whether the new department will administer tightened motor vehicle laws, it is believed it will have jurisdiction over bus and truck transportation.

The revised motor vehicles act will provide increased penalties for its violators, drivers' tests — to be set later by the Provincial cabinet in orders-in-council — and automatic conviction of contempt of court for drivers who fail to turn in suspended licenses.

Magistrate's court, whose judges are appointed by the provincial government, will have its jurisdiction extended to all provincial and municipal affairs. Henceforth it will be called district court, and magistrates will be called district judges.

Recorder's courts throughout the province will be called municipal courts and recorders will be called judges.

Mr. Duplessis said the circuit court — Montreal district's is the only one left — will be abolished because the magistrate's court has equal jurisdiction.

New steps to curb illegal sale of margarine will be taken in a bill calling for the confiscation of buses and trucks used for the transportation of margarine, and seized vehicles will become the property of the Crown.

The premier said the government intends to stand pat on its anti-margarine legislation adopted in 1949 "in spite of the fact it is unpopular in some quarters."

Rent control will be extended another year, past April 30 next, when it was originally scheduled to be dropped. Amendments to the rentals laws will provide cancellation of sale of unneeded furniture to unwilling tenants at excessive prices.

Tenants who paid exaggerated prices for furniture they wished to keep may go to rentals administrators who will fix a true value. They will be authorized to retain from the landlord's rent the amount paid for either a forced sale or paid in excess of the value set by the administrators.

BRIDGE IS OKAY

Saint John, N.B. (CP) — Failure of a concrete support caused one corner of the west end of the Reversing Falls bridge to settle slightly. While permanent repairs were being made, engineers said there was no danger of collapse of the structure.

PROUD COMMUNITY

Stavely, Alta. (CP) — This southern Alberta town may have only 327 population, but it has a new waterworks system, all streets are paved, it has three churches, good fire equipment and schools, a community library, covered curling and skating rink, baseball diamond, race track and nine-hole golf course.

Victor Watson, a rancher at Airdrie, Alta., has confidence in the cattle market; went down to Montana and bought a Hereford bull for $37,500. . . The Portage La Prairie, Man., ministerial association expressed concern about local business employing children under the age of 18. . . Big news from Brampton, Ont., where Mrs. Cyril O'Reilly, internationally known cat fancier, has imported from Florida a husband for Fatima, which until recently was Canada's only Abyssinian cat.

Meat in Supper Dishes

Cold November days demand heartier meals and the family will be well satisfied if meat is served in substantial supper dishes. Hamburger or minced beef can be used to good advantage in many casseroles. These meats are economical too, for when you buy ground meat, you can be sure you are getting all meat and not paying for bone. One thing to remember about ground meat is that it should be used promptly, for it spoils more quickly than meat in the piece.

It is regular practice to serve meat patties with a sauce made with condensed cream of mushroom or tomato soup, but have you tried cream of asparagus or celery soup as well? It's also delicious. Meat patties may also be served on a bed of spaghetti or baked beans. Instead of making patties, the ground beef could be made into a loaf with a layer of baked, mashed squash or cooked mashed peas topping it.

Here is a meat pie idea with a new twist. Make a crust of seasoned ground beef mixed with Worcestershire sauce, sautéed onions, and bread crumbs — about half a cup of crumbs to a pound of beef. Line a pie-plate with the ground beef mixture, then fill with seasoned vegetables, such as drained canned tomatoes and corn. Instead, the ground beef "crust" could be put into muffin tins to make individual pies. It looks good, tastes good, and is good.

Here is another idea for a tempting supper dish — not stuffing in the meat, but meat in the stuffing! Use seasoned minced beef or hamburger mixed with sautéed onions to stuff vegetables like onions, squash, or cabbage.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, have tested some casseroles using ground beef which they have found very good. The first, Cheesy-Noodle Casserole is a rather unusual dish which you will want to try soon.

Cheesy-Noodle Casserole

1 Cup noodles (2 cups cooked), 1 tablespoon fat, ½ pound ground beef, ½ 10-ounce can tomato soup, 2 tablespoons water, ½ teaspoon spicy meat sauce, ½ cup cottage cheese (about ¼ pound), 1 4-ounce package cream cheese, 2 tablespoons sour cream, 3 tablespoons finely chopped onion, 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper.

Cook noodles in boiling water until tender, about 15 minutes. Drain and rinse with cold water. Heat fat in frying pan, add ground beef and sauté until brown, about 5 minutes. Dilute tomato soup with water, add spicy meat sauce and add to meat, blending thoroughly. Combine cottage cheese, cream cheese, sour cream, onions and green pepper. Arrange half the noodles in the bottom of a greased 6-cup casserole, cover with cheese mixture, then remaining noodles. Pour tomato-meat mixture over the top. Chill, bake in a moderately hot oven, 375°F., until thoroughly heated, about 30 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Lasagna is typically Italian and makes a distinguished company dish. In fact, the recipe is party-sized and will give eight generous servings. The original recipe calls for several types of exotic Italian cheeses like Mozzarella, which is a soft cream cheese, Ricotta, a whey cheese, and Parmesan, a very hard cheese. However, the home economists substituted our own Canadian Cheddar and soft cream cheese without loss of flavor. You will find the unusual blend of these cheeses with the tomato-meat mixture makes this a very unique dish.

Lasagna

2 Tablespoons salad oil, 1 cup minced onion, 1 clove minced garlic, 1 pound ground beef, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 28-ounce can tomatoes, 2 8-ounce cans tomato paste, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1½ teaspoons marjoram, 1 teaspoon onion salt, 1 8-ounce package broad noodles, ¼ pound soft cream cheese, 3 cups grated Cheddar cheese, medium or old.

Heat salad oil in a large heavy saucepan, add onion and garlic and sauté until lightly browned, about 5 minutes. Add beef and salt and cook until meat is lightly browned. Add tomatoes, tomato paste, salt, pepper, marjoram and onion salt and simmer covered, until thickened, about 2½ hours. Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender, about 15 minutes. Drain and rinse with cold water. In a greased 12" x 8" x 2" baking dish arrange in layers — one-third of the sauce, half the noodles and the cream and Cheddar cheese. Repeat this arrangement topping with remaining third of sauce. Bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., until thoroughly heated, about 5 minutes. Yield: 8 servings.

Plan "Canada Day" at Conf'ce of Associated Country Women

Many items relating to the forthcoming conference of the Associated Country Women of the World were discussed at an executive meeting of the Quebec Women's Institutes held in Montreal this week. The international gathering is taking place August 12-23 next, in Toronto.

A report of the last meeting of the National Main Planning Committee was given by the Q.W.I. president, Mrs. G. E. LeBaron, of North Hatley, who is chairman of the Exhibits Sub-Committee and attended the meeting in that capacity. Tentative plans were drawn up by the Q.W.I. executive for meeting delegates who may be entering Canada at ports in this province, and any pre - or post-conference tours made in this province, will also be Quebec's responsibility. Mrs. G. D. Harvey, of Stanbridge East, Q.W.I. 1st vice-president, is a member of the Pre - and Post-Conference Tours Sub-Committee, and led in the discussion of suggestions to be presented to the chairman, Mrs. Howard Thomas, Woodstock, N.B.

"Canada Day" at the Conference has been set for August 21. Already many branches have sent in estimates of the number of members hoping to attend this event, which promises to be one of the highlights of the Conference.

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Cooking Is Fun!

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"Let me bake!" How many mothers busy with their mixing bowl have heard this urgent appeal! To a small child, a kitchen is a fascinating spot with its tantalizing odors, the sunshine streaming in the windows, and delicious-looking food appearing as if by magic.

Often a busy mother is tempted to reply, "Run along and play, dear." But if a child's request is ignored, he may never discover what fun he can have cooking.

Do let him wash his hands, don an apron, and if he can read, look up the recipe in the Cook Book. Then he can help assemble the necessary utensils and ingredients.

If the flour and baking powder and other materials which are used frequently are kept on a low shelf, even a small child can help mother get these on the kitchen table. There are a number of simple things like greasing a pan, or beating an egg, which little, willing fingers can complete.

A child who is old enough to read is old enough to start cooking "on his own". If he is allowed gradually to take more responsibility for making a simple dish or following an easy recipe, he will get real pride in this achievement.

Let him have his own Cook Book and copy out the recipes he has tried. A loose leaf book or a card index file box are both a good idea for a child's recipe collection. If he wants, let him illustrate his recipes, and color the drawings.

Cooking and baking should NOT be limited to the girls and the women in a household. Irma S. Rombauer, who wrote "The Joy of Cooking" once pointed out:

"The most famous cooks of all time have been men. It is a mistake to think of cooking merely as 'woman's work'."

The secret of encouraging a boy (little or big) is to let him be "on his own" as far as possible. Start with something he wants to bake himself, and let him get along with the minimum of directions. Most boys prefer to have the kitchen to themselves and learn from their own failures as well as their successes. Some lads in Scouts are eager to master recipes which can be used in Outdoor Cookery. Other boys start on learning how to bake or fry fish after a fishing expedition with their Dad.

Cooking can be great fun — and the younger a child tastes its delights the better. A mother who leaves her daughter's training to the domestic science teacher is missing a lot herself and so is the girl. What kind of a preparation is this for homemaking, the greatest of all of women's vocations?

A girl's interest in cooking can often be encouraged if she is allowed to plan, prepare and serve a meal when one of her chums is a guest. A boy may be a bit shy about the meat patties being his own concoction, or the "Pigs in Blankets" he has baked, but he can take real pride in his culinary products too.

A good cook is a real artist, experiencing the joy of creation. Food which is appetizing, which has "eye appeal" and is nourishing is one of the most important products in the world. So, mother, when your child pleads, "Let me bake!" do go half way to meet the eager little cook!

Hail to the Apple!

Pie of the Month

By Betty Barclay

Nobody really knows how many varieties of apples there are, although estimates reach as high as three thousand. We are inclined to believe that there are almost that many ways to use them! Since apples are abundant at this time of year (and reasonable too) it's the perfect time to serve apple desserts often. You might start with this delectable Coconut Apple Pie. The filling calls for plenty of tangy apple slices and, instead of a second crust, you top the pie with a luscious crumb mixture of sugar, flour, butter, and lots of tender, shredded coconut, that browns to a nice crunchiness. You'll find Coconut Apple Pie a very special treat indeed.

Coconut Apple Pie

Pastry for one-crust pie — 2 tablespoons flour, ½ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 5 cups tangy apple slices (¼ inch thick), 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

¼ Cup sugar, ½ cup flour, ¼ cup butter (melted), ¾ cup shredded coconut (cut).

Line a 9-inch pan with pastry, rolled ⅛ inch thick, allowing pastry to extend one inch beyond edge. Fold edge back to form standing rim; flute with fingers. Combine 2 tablespoons flour, ½ cup sugar, salt, and cinnamon. Place a layer of apple slices in pie shell and sprinkle part of flour-sugar mixture over apples. Add remaining apples in layers, alternately with flour-sugar mixture. Sprinkle lemon juice over top of pie and dot with butter. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 45 minutes, or until apples are tender.

Combine ¼ cup sugar and ½ cup flour. Add melted butter and mix well until of crumbly consistency. Add coconut. Sprinkle coconut-crumb mixture over top of baked pie. Return to oven and bake 7 minutes longer, or until topping is browned.

It is best to wash your nylon stockings every day. During wear the stocking is stretched out of shape. Warm water washing will cause the stocking to spring back into shape and the elasticity is thus preserved.

Old Ice Boxes Are Danger To Children

Discarded ice boxes can be a danger, and especially where young children are concerned. From time to time we read accounts of children playing and choosing the old ice box as a grand place in which to hide. This is where the danger comes in. A child getting inside one of these boxes and closing the door has small chance of getting out unaided. Many children have died of suffocation through being shut in an ice box for many hours; some have recovered if they have been found in time, but they have suffered other ill effects.

May we suggest that if you have a discarded ice box around your home and your children are ever missing for any length of time, be sure to look at the ice box first.

Better still, go right now and chop it up, burn it up, or somehow get rid of it. It is not only a danger to your children, it may be a danger to a neighbor's children or to some children that may visit you at some time. If you must keep it around take off the door, or the latch, or in some way fix it that the door cannot become latched if children attempt to hide in it. It is not likely you will ever use it again for the purpose it was first intended, therefore change it from a danger zone into a safety zone. — Huntingdon Gleaner

Good Luck, Mike Pearson!

By Nancy Cleaver
(For Parents Only)

"It's a great honor for Canada and a great responsibility for me. I will do my best to discharge that responsibility", Lester B. Pearson told reporters when he was elected by 51 votes in the secret balloting for the new president of the Seventh General Assembly of the United Nations. Anyone who has known Canada's Minister of External Affairs is confident that a wise choice has been made in the man who will guide the Assembly's debates in the fine new building on New Work's East Side.

Parents of school age boys and girls are glad that their attention is focused on the U.N. Assembly now a Canadian has become its president. Mike Pearson is critical of useless debate. In order to bring matters quickly to a head, he follows the plan, as U.N. president, of giving his own opinion at the first of the discussion. Then the delegates from sixty nations can either agree or vote down his suggestions.

Sometimes students think that history is made of events which have little relation to their own lives. It was our privilege to study history under "Mike" Pearson at Varsity and it was anything but boring when he was the teacher. Possibly it was his desire not just to teach but to make history, which led to his decision to enter the Department of External Affairs at Ottawa in 1928.

Carlyle once said that "Biography is the only true history". A good way to study history is through the lives of the outstanding men of each age. There are many very lovable traits about Mike Pearson's character which make him seem to youngsters a "regular guy".

When Mike Pearson was just six, a fifteen year old boy, Jack Tait, lived next door. Jack was distinguishing himself as a runner. Later he made the Canadian Olympic Team of 1912, and continued to shine at sports. Mike Pearson said of him, "He was my first idol as a boy!"

An interest in athletics came naturally to the three Pearson brothers, and Mike when he was a little fellow used to go with his grandfather to baseball games. The old man's eyesight was failing and young Mike used to recount the game, play by play, to his grandad, Marmaduke.

As he grew older Mike Pearson played baseball, hockey, lacrosse, rugby, and also coached these games. For a short time in Guelph he played for a semi-professional baseball team. He was remembering this experience when a woman reporter at the U.N. San Francisco Conference in 1945 asked him, "Mr. Pearson, what have you got that the other diplomats lack?" and he answered, "Perhaps I'm the only one here who has been paid for playing baseball."

His own comment on his school life explodes the myth that he was such a brilliant scholar that he never had to do a tap of work. He once said, "I plugged at my studies. Some things may have come to me quickly, but I did my share of homework always. On the whole I worked for everything I got." Mothers might find this well worth knowing round about homework time some evening!

Both Mike's father and his grandfather were outstanding Methodist ministers. His mother truly graced the parsonage in which she lived. Recently when he was made Chancellor of Victoria College, there was no more happy guest present than his mother. "At eighty-four, she gets more out of life than almost anyone I know", was her distinguished son's quiet comment. How many children can say that of their mothers?

Last December, for the second consecutive year he was chosen by the British United Press editors as Canadian News "Man of the Year". He is our most travelled diplomat, although he doesn't sleep well on trains and gets sick on planes. But in London as High Commissioner for Canada from 1935 to 1938, in Washington, where after two promotions he became our Canadian Ambassador in 1945, people speak of him with admiration and affection.

He has been on the ground floor of the United Nations from the start, and served on the Security Council, the Political Committee and the Conference of Food and Agriculture. In 1950 he was one of three men appointed by the Assembly to negotiate a truce. One of his finest pieces of work was in the Palestine partition which established Israel. This brought to an end the strife between the Arabs and Jews which threatened the peace of the world.

"Lester B. Pearson is one of the really BIG men in the United Nations limelight!" was the judgment of one of the outstanding news commentators. As Canadians we are proud of his record and of the honor which has come to him. We all — parents, and boys and girls — wish him the very best in the perplexing, and often frustrating international field.

Good luck to you, Mike Pearson!

Maybe you should cut this ribbon!

Of course, when a new bridge or highway is completed, it's traditional for some prominent citizen or government official to cut the ribbon in the opening ceremony. And yet . . .

Often this honour might be awarded with good reason to any one of the nation's life insurance policyholders.

● Why should they deserve this distinction?

Because it is their premium money, part of which is invested for them by life insurance companies, which makes it possible to build many such useful public works. Not only roads and bridges, but electrical power stations, waterworks, stores, homes, office buildings and industrial plants are built with the help of life insurance dollars.

So here's to the life insurance policyholders! While they provide financial security for their families and themselves, they also help make Canada a better land to live in!

SEEM STRANGE to be putting anti-freeze in your car now? Actually it's the thing to do. Some drivers use it as a coolant all year round. Anti-freeze has a higher boiling point than water, yet when the cold comes it's a protection against freezing. You can get protection right down to 62° below with C-I-L Ethylene Glycol Anti-Freeze.

FAMILY PICNICS are fun when you can all hop into the car and drive to out-of-the-way spots easily. Man Searches the Universe

BUT he has not yet found the secret of everlasting life. Though he were to devote himself to science's telescopes, microscopes and other modern research equipment for a million years, he would still not find the secret of life. Why not? Because the secret of life cannot be revealed by natural creation. To the Creator of life we must go for the answer, and to his written Word. Only research based upon the Bible will reveal this secret. The 320-page illustrated book "This Means Everlasting Life" will guide you unerringly to the Bible for authoritative information on the subject of life. AMONG THE CHURCHES

Dedication of New Pastoral Residence At Cushing, Que.

(Our District Correspondent)

Cushing — An interesting dedication service took place in Cushing on Saturday afternoon, when the Rev. Harvey Campbell, of Montreal, dedicated the new manse, which had been built through the summer as a residence for the ministers of St. Mungo's Church, by the congregations and friends of this pastorial charge.

After the opening devotionals, Mr. Fraser Watson, who was the contractor in charge of the building, tendered the key of the manse to the Rev. H. Campbell. The latter accepted the key in the name of the Presbytery, which he represented, and after a few brief words presented it to the Rev. G. Case, the present minister and occupant. The Rev. A. Carson, of Hawkesbury, the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, of Lachute, and the Rev. S. J. Pike, of Brownsburg, took part in the service — giving the Scripture reading, the prayer, and the benediction, respectively.

The Rev. G. Case gave an interesting resumé of the history of the old manse, after the Rev. Campbell had spoken briefly. Several appropriate hymns were sung during the service, and Mr. H. W. Flower, of St. Andrews East, favored with a beautiful solo, "Bless This House".

The congregations of Cushing, Calumet, Grenville and St. Andrews East were well represented, and afterwards joined together in a social time, when refreshments were served. The new manse was inspected, and all present expressed satisfaction with the building.

Improvements Noted At Christ Church, St. Andrews East

At Christ Church, St. Andrews East, a number of improvements have been made recently to the building. The window which was destroyed last August by lightning has been replaced, and the brickwork restored. An oil reservoir his been installed outside the church, and the heating units are fed by pipes direct from the tanks.

The seats in the church have also been improved, to make them more comfortable. Finally, the men's vestry has been equipped with cupboards, shelves and coathooks. All this work was executed by James Pollock, with exception of the oil tanks.

The old, historic church is now very beautiful, comfortable and in good repair. The improvements are keenly appreciated among the congregation, and those responsible deserve credit for their efforts.

Vital Christianity Heals Physically, Says Lecturer

Montreal — Complete healing of heart trouble, pronounced incurable, and of a full fracture of the leg, without medical or surgical treatment, were described in detail as examples of the application of the healing power of God, by Mrs. Mary C. Holloway of Shreveport, La., in a Christian Science lecture in Montreal High School auditorium last Friday evening.

The lecturer was brought here by First Church of Christ, Scientist, Montreal, in the course of a nation-wide tour as a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship. She declared that spiritual understanding brings healing when properly applied because it reveals divine laws of health, right at hand. "A knowledge of God brings with it all the good that men can desire", she added.

Christian Science, the speaker said, reveals demonstrable laws and divine resources which material investigations do not disclose. Thus enlightened, she went on, man will understand that his every conceivable need already is fully supplied by God. This can be proved in practical life, in the solution of every kind of problem through prayer, she emphasized.

It was this same understanding, Mrs. Holloway said, that was employed in healing by the early followers of Jesus in the first centuries of the Christian era, and is employed by Christian Science to heal today. In each instance of what is called healing — whether it be of sin, disease, lack or any other form of human discord — the healing takes place "through a meeting of the law or letter of Science and the grace, mercy and love of spiritual understanding", she said.

WEEK IN OTTAWA

By Alan Donnelly,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Nov. 10 (CP) — Dwight Eisenhower's sweep to the presidency in the United States elections last week was of vital interest to government officials on Parliament Hill. The elections were an inevitable topic of discussion at a routine cabinet meeting here two days later.

From that meeting came an authoritative report that Prime Minister St. Laurent feels the Republican triumph will not alter the friendly relations across the Canada-United States border developed during 20 years of Democratic party rule.

He is also reported sharing Ottawa's hopes that a number of important developments are in the wind now that the U.S. election is over.

See Vital Steps

Mr. St. Laurent is understood to hope that the U.S. will lift the ban on imports of Canadian meat and livestock "very soon". This would re-open the American market to producers who have been shut off from it more than nine months because of last winter's foot-and-mouth disease outbreak.

There are also hopes that something will be done soon south of the border to name an American authority — quite possibly the State of New York — to co-operate with Canada on construction of the power phase of the St. Lawrence Seaway project.

Naming of that authority is the only bar remaining to a start on construction of the power project — a joint undertaking between the two countries — and the seaway, which will be built by Canada alone.

No broad change is expected in relations between the two countries which in past years have been major strides in mutual trade, defence co-operation, diplomacy and other fields. There appears to be confidence that this trend will continue under General Eisenhower.

It is understood Mr. St. Laurent has no plans now to go to Washington to visit the new president. But that doesn't necessarily mean he won't go sometime in the next six months.

Wheat Crisis Shapes Up

A close look at world marketing conditions showed signs that a world crisis in wheat is shaping up. The problem — at least to farmers — is: too much wheat chasing too few dollars.

It threatens to become one of the biggest fights involving wheat prices. In the midst will be Canada with huge wheat supplies in her elevators.

A turning point may come at Washington where next January 12, Canada and 43 other member countries of the International Wheat Agreement will meet in a final attempt to reach agreement on a new pact when the current one ends next July 31.

Canadian experts aren't too hopeful of agreement on the biggest issue — price. As a result the whole wheat stabilization program may crumble and Canadian wheat farmers would be selling most of their output on a free world market.

Although the four-year international wheat pact has been both praised and criticized, most Canadian farmers want it continued if they can get higher prices.

Importing countries strongly oppose this, and some feel they can do better buying at the lowest prices that show on the world market.

Both Canada and the United States have huge surpluses. Two other large exporters, Argentina and Australia, have had poor crops and Canada will be able to sell a large part of her record crop this year without trouble.

But still Canada will have large carry-overs next August 1 and if Australia and Argentina enter the export picture in a big way in the next crop year, Canada may face a tough job selling wheat without long-term buying commitments from importing countries.

Anti-Combines Action

Justice Minister Garson last week studied what action should be taken against two alleged price-fixing combines.

He made public a report accusing 44 fine-paper companies — virtually the entire $50,000 industry in Canada — of operating an illegal price-fixing combine.

Mr. Garson will announce later whether court prosecution will be launched.

The next day he said the government will prosecute rubber companies alleged to have taken part in a similar combine. Altogether, 19 companies and the Rubber Association of Canada were named in a report made public last June. The number to be brought into court will depend on evidence obtained under search warrants recently issued.

The new 1953 Dodge Regent 4-door sedan, reported as being new in seventy-five ways, is a lower, wider-looking car without in any way sacrificing road clearance, head room or leg room. The low sweeping line of the front fender carries straight through to the rear, accentuated by the tasteful use of chrome speed lines. Six popular body styles are available in the Regent and Crusader series in a wide variety of body colour and interior trim choices.

Tribute Paid at B'burg Cenotaph

Brownsburg — The customary Remembrance Day ceremony was held at the Cenotaph in front of the Social Club at Brownsburg on Tuesday, with the Rev. S. J. Pike, the Rev. G. B. Hicks, the Rev. N. H. Brock and the Rev. Father Courcelles officiating. The parade, under the command of Past President Comrade Hector Steele, started from the Legion Hall, marching through the central streets of the town to reach the site of the ceremony at 10.45 a.m. The Brownsburg Boy Scout Troop and Cubs also took part in the parade. During the ceremony approximately 20 wreaths were deposited by the representatives of all churches and organizations, and various business establishments of Brownsburg. At the conclusion, members of the Legion and its Auxiliary deposited their poppies at the base of the Cenotaph.

Remembrance at St. Andrews East

St. Andrews East — Sunday, November 9, will be a memorable day to many in this village, who were privileged to attend the first community observance of Armistice Day ever held here.

Veterans of the village, members of Lachute Branch 70 of the Canadian Legion, had expressed a desire for their comrades to join in organizing this observance, and at 2 p.m. about a dozen autos left the Legion Hall bringing the delegation to St. Andrews. The veterans, around 65 in number, paraded with their colors before the bronze plaque at the post-office.

In a brief but impressive ceremony, Mayor George Duhamel laid a wreath on behalf of the municipal council, and spoke a few words. Other wreaths were laid by representatives of churches and local groups. The Rev. Father Dulude, parish priest, spoke touchingly in the spirit of the occasion, and read the names of those from this parish who had sacrificed their lives.

Maj.-Gen. F. R. Phelan, C.M.G., thanked the Legion for their participation, and the Rev. Dr. Wm. McMillan gave a brief but fitting message in conclusion. Comrade Pierre Lecorre, of Legion 70, voiced an impressive "Salute to the Dead" in absence of the traditional "Last Post" and "Reveille", and spectators applauded as the veterans marched away from the spot.

Farm Forum Opinion on Women in Public Affairs

(Our District Correspondent)

Mabel — The regular Farm Forum meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carson Tomalty on Monday evening, with 18 persons present. The topic for discussion concerned 'Farm Women in Public Affairs'.

It was agreed that farm women, especially, know how to co-operate, which is a valuable asset to public life; and their interests outside their home helped them make a better home. This group thought that, if a farm woman could not take a part in public affairs herself, she could encourage her husband to do so, taking for example the Queen Mother, who did so much to help the late King to a successful reign.

There are no dead ends. There is always a way out. What you learn in one failure, you utilize in your next success. — Henry Ford

SPORTS CAMERA

By Gerry Lougheed, Canada Press Staff Writer

Old-time wrestling fans long for the days of Jim Londos, Ed (Strangler) Lewis, Henri DeGlaine and others of that era. This group believe the present-day version is show business, rather than sport.

Granted, nobody will tell you wrestling now is on the level. By the same token, nobody will tell you it's a fake. Newspaper ads bill the bouts as an evening's "entertainment".

There's no denying it's entertainment, what with characters like the grotesque French Angel, giants with a dozen crowd-getting phony names, and team matches.

Wrestling grossed about $15,000,000 in the United States last year. No estimate of the Canadian take is available but it also is big business.

How does the game operate? Well a New York co-promoter let the folks in on the behind-the-scenes set-up recently in New York.

He's an ex-wrestler, Pedro Montanez, who teams with Toots Mondt in the Manhattan Booking Agency.

Well-Organized Business

They book some 60 wrestlers — about .24 of them under regular $5,000 minimum yearly contracts — into 28 cities. Sometimes their "stars" go into the territory of the 36 other bookers who make up the National Wrestling Alliance south of the border. Sometimes they book the other's talent in their cities.

Anthony Rocca is the "star" of the Manhattan Agency. Montanez claims Rocca made high as $127,000 last year, working six nights a week. Naturally the agency took part of his earnings for its booking services.

New "stars" are made by television. Once they click in the ring and over TV, they last six or seven years.

"We're giving Lord Carlton the build-up now", Montanez said. "He's in his third week on the Wednesday TV show out of Chicago. People in New York know Carlton because he worked here and did well. But now he's getting the national treatment."

Carlton's real name is Leo Whippern and he used to wrestle under the name of Tug Carlson of the U.S. Navy.

Now he has added a monocle and a valet. "We thought up that gimmick", Montanez went on. "All he has to do is work in the ring. We do the rest."

Wrestling puts on shows in towns you never heard of, towns that no sports promotion ever hit. "Six nights a week is the trick", the promoter explained.

"A boxer gets a build-up on TV but he can only fight about once a month. Our guys can — and do — go every night in the week except Sunday."

Montanez has a ready answer for critics of wrestling: "As long as you enjoy yourself, what's the difference?"

LACHUTE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS AND ACTIVITIES

By Anne Dwyer

Guidance

The first in the series of Vocational Guidance talks was held in the music room Monday afternoon, November 3. Mr. W. J. Milks, a representative from the Canadian National Railways, spoke on the positions high school students might expect to receive if they applied for employment in the C.N.R. At the end of his talk, Mr. Milks answered many questions put to him by interested students. At the close of the assembly, Wayne Riddell thanked Mr. Milks for his informative address.

Art

Art lessons under the direction of Miss Irene Adshead started their third year at Lachute High School, on Wednesday, November 12, following the afternoon classes. These sessions are for children from the ages of 5 to 15. The lessons serve to lend expression to the pupils' conception of people and things. Pupils are provided with all the necessary equipment, free of extra charge; the enrolment fee of $15 covers all. Miss Adshead has done marvellous work in the past with the art talent of this school, and everyone is sure that she will continue her good work again this year.

Football

The only inter-school football game was played Saturday morning on the school grounds, Lachute vs. St. Eustache. The final score was 16-5 for St. Eustache. True to football style, there were many casualties — and ripped shirts. Seeing that this marks the close of the football season, the Lachute team takes this opportunity to thank Mr. James Martin for devoting his time to coaching them.

Basketball

First basketball game of the season took place in the Brownsburg School gym last Saturday. This was an exhibition game; the league fixtures are scheduled to start this Saturday, November 15.

The girls' game, played in the morning, was won by Brownsburg, with only one basket ahead of Lachute. The score was 15-13. Chief players for Lachute were Frances Laurin and Beverley Johnston, who made 5 points each. Other scorers for the team were Marilyn Mitchell (2) and Marlene Trayers (1). For Brownsburg the star scorer was Doreen Ball, with 3 baskets to her credit. Others scorers were Doreen Bell and Evelyn Stilwell, who made 4 points, and Twilla Thompson, who made a basket and a foul shot.

Lachute High School fared slightly better in the afternoon game between the boys. Mr. R. Burton, assistant basketball coach, who refereed this fast game, started the players off around two o'clock. Lachute took the lead practically as soon as the game got under way. The final score was 32-19. High scorer was Bob Duncan with 12 points, Bill Cribb and Bruce Mason coming second, with 6. Bill Steeves and Bernard Golphin each tallied four points. The most points made by Brownsburg were thrown by Brian Brownrigg (10), Joe Parisien (6) and Jacques Leveillé (3).

The Argenteuil and Two Mountains County League's executive (Mr. P. Grant, Mr. B. Bailly and Mr. Hunt) have planned that six games will be played by each team before and after Christmas. The first of the series will start this Saturday — Lachute, along with Buckingham, Hawkesbury and St. Eustache, belonging to the senior group.

Four Singers — Four Cities

The four young singers pictured above are heard on the CBC Roadshow, a fast-moving 15 minutes packed with music and chatter originating from four points across Canada each week. On Mondays, Maxine Ware (upper right) shares the spotlight with the Winnipeg aggregation. On Tuesdays, the Toronto group takes over with Dorothy Alt (upper left) the feminine vocalist. Thursday's CBC roadshow originates in Vancouver where petite Betty Power takes part in the fun (lower left). The musical caravan pulls into Montreal every Friday with a gay company of songsters including pretty Joyce Hahn (lower right). CBC Roadshow is heard on the Trans-Canada network.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you: —

Q. I work in a navy yard. It sometimes happens that I lose time on account of cold or bad weather. The employer sends us home after giving us one hour's pay for expenses. Can I draw benefit for such a day or days because I did not work and earned less than $2?

A. No. Regardless of the reduced earnings you cannot draw benefit for a day in which you work at, or receive remuneration from, your regular job.

* * *

Q. My husband has just died and left me only his insurance benefits. What am I entitled to draw?

A. You could only receive payment if benefit had been granted for a period of proved unemployment on the part of your husband preceding his death, and if payment of such benefit had not been actually made. The amount would then be paid to your husband's estate.

* * *

Q. I have to lay off some employees for an indefinite period. I will give them a week's holiday. Must I put stamps in their books?

A. A lay-off in these circumstances is considered as a separation and no contributions are required beyond the last day worked.

Calf Club Meeting — Idea to Form Sheep Club

The Lachute Calf Club held their first meeting on November 7 in Lachute High School. There were 18 members present, with George Pasco as chairman.

It was decided that the club would sponsor a dance to raise funds. This dance is to be held in the Legion Hall on Friday, November 28. A committee has been organized to make further arrangements.

They also decided to form a Sheep Club, in which they would learn facts on the care, showing and judging of sheep. A judging competition will be held twice a year.

The Calf Club will hold a meeting once a month, at which there will be movies, debates and quizes. It was decided to have movies in December, a speaker in January (giving advice on sheep), a debate in February, and a quiz in March.

Lachute Boy Scouts

The 1st Lachute Troop Boy Scouts are ready for action in their Christmas Toy Repair effort, with their workshop established at the residence of Mr. Ed Rowe. Their most pressing need, however, is toys and playthings — for which they issue now a more urgent appeal to local homes having articles of this kind to contribute. A phone call to the Scoutmasters (1013-M or 37-J) will bring a grateful member to collect donations.

Ian Duncan, Bobby Campbell (former Cubs) and Bobby Lemay were inducted as new Scouts in the troop this week.

Scott Taylor and Bobby Hay, two ambitious members of the troop, fulfilled their Journey test last week-end as one of the qualifications for the 1st Class badge.

WOLF CUB NEWS

By Howard Jones, Cubmaster, and Fred Atkinson, Asst. Cubmaster

The Cubs of the 1st Lachute Pack met in the High School basement on Monday.

The meeting opened with the Grand Howl, and the two Cub Leaders were then presented with their hat badges by Linton W. Armstrong, District Scout Commissioner.

A game was played consisting of Cub work which the boys have been taught to date. Also a new game, designed to encourage the boys to think for themselves; this was won by Cub Bryant Graves. Marching drill was also practised for a brief period.

The Pack now stands at 35 members, and nearly all the Cubs have their uniforms.

A Cub parade was held on Remembrance Day, along with the Scouts and Guides, who formed a procession from the High School to the Memorial Park.

Next meeting will be on Monday, November 17, at 6.30 p.m. in the school basement.

Inspection Service Gives Notice Town Hall Unfit for Public Use

A measure concerning the renting of Lachute's civic auditorium was passed at the November session of Town Council. Ald. Dr. Jules Lafleur proposed, and Ald. Judes Charlebois seconded, a motion that the secretary-treasurer may in future rent the building to interested parties, but with the authorization of the Auditorium committee; and that a receipt to that effect must be countersigned by two members of the committee.

Mayor Jas. W. McGibbon presided, and all members of the Council were present with exception of Ald. Stanley Holt and Ald. W. S. MacKimmie.

Secretary A. Laurin was instructed to write M. Lafrenière, chief engineer of the Department of Health, asking an early reply concerning the waterworks projects submitted for his opinion — inasmuch as the present dam is in a critical condition and needing immediate repair.

Ald. Ernest Provost was named pro-mayor for the ensuing three months.

Ald. Alcidas Laurin gave notice that he would submit a motion at next meeting for the levy of 1953 taxes.

A letter condemning the Victoria Hall for public use, was read by the secretary, as follows:

Province of Quebec
Ministry of Public Works
(Inspection Dept.)

October 6, 1952

Sir:

Following my recent inspection of the Lachute Town Hall, I have to inform you that I find this building — from the viewpoint of structural soundness — in a decidedly doubtful condition.

1. The outer walls, of brick, are cracked and in danger of disintegrating.
2. The foundations need to be replaced.
3. The council chamber is heated by a stove, presenting constant danger of fire.
4. This room, accommodating 100 people, has only one exit, constituting a hazard to the occupants.
5. The building also houses three prison cells, also used for storage, dog pound, etc. There is only one lighted cell and no toilet provisions for prisoners — a thoroughly unhygienic condition.

For the above reasons you are called upon to return to this department, within 30 days, an architect's declaration concerning solidarity and structural condition of this building — until such time it is forbidden to use the hall for meetings or public purposes.

I understand the Corporation of Lachute Town owns the Lachute Auditorium, a building of good quality and repair which could, in the meantime perhaps, serve as a town hall. This, however, is only a suggestion on my part.

Trusting that you will comply with the above recommendations with the least possible delay.

(Signed) Clovis Bernier,
Chief Inspector.

On motion of Ald. Provost, seconded by Ald. Morrissette, it was decided to acknowledge the letter, giving assurance that it is duly entered in the minutes and taken under cognizance of the Council.

Accounts to the total of $12,807 were passed for payment.

It was decided to amend the traffic by-law to prohibit parking on Millway Street, from Main to the bridge, between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., and between 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. The motion was sponsored by Ald. Don MacRae, seconded by Ald. R. Morrissette. It was further enacted to prohibit parking between 12 midnight and 9 a.m. on all thoroughfares, effective from November 15—as usual during the winter months, to facilitate snow clearing.

Annual Convention of Fish-Game Associations

Montreal — Fishermen and hunters from all parts of Quebec will gather in Montreal for the annual convention of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations on Friday and Saturday, November 21 and 22. President Omer Bernier said that a record attendance is expected, as Federation membership now includes more than 300 fish and game protective associations and fish and game clubs in the province.

The activities of 1952 will be outlined by committee chairmen, and resolutions covering wildlife conservation and restoration will be discussed at game fish, small game, big game, migratory bird and other forums.

The Federation convention will be preceded by a joint gathering of Federation representatives and those of the Canadian and Quebec Forestry Associations, Forest Protective Associations and other bodies whose interests are closely related to those of hunters, fishermen and other outdoor enthusiasts.

The business sessions at the Sheraton Mount-Royal Hotel will be concluded by an annual luncheon meeting at 1 p.m. Saturday, November 22.

Industry and Commerce in Lachute

Contributed by
Lachute Chamber of Commerce

At the recent visit of the Chamber group to Mme E. Deslauriers' "Ouvroir Ste. Elisabeth", refreshments were served by courtesy of the firm of Deslauriers & Rozon Inc., after which President Gérard Lefebvre presented to Mme Deslauriers a certificate of merit from the Chamber of Commerce, in appreciation of this fine endeavor, of which she is the guiding spirit.

In reply to the presentation, Mme Deslauriers said: "I accept this certificate in the name of l'Ouvroir, and in the name of all those ladies who devote their time regularly — ten months of the year, and several of them for almost five years past — to the continuance of this task." Mme Deslauriers also paid tribute to the Rev. Father Savage for his untiring interest, to the Lions Club, the Knights of Columbus, the Town Council and other generous supporters.

Town Affairs — Paul Lalliberté.
Business Promotion — L. J. Dumais.
Health & Welfare — Dr. L. Turcotte.
Industrial Promotion — Horace Lamarche.
Publicity — Simon Valois.

Pat Carriere, the Chamber's inimitable secretary, reported on attendance at the meetings last year. Team captain of the winning group was Simon Valois, to whom the ex-president, Horace Lamarche, presented a personal prize of a cigarette lighter. Also, to each member of the team Mr. Lamarche presented a tin of 50 cigarettes.

As chairman of Industrial Promotion, Horace Lamarche discussed various projects, and announced that the plan of monthly visits to industries would be continued. Next establishments to be inspected will probably be the Rolland Paper Company at St. Jerome, and Lachute Lumber & Millwork Ltd.

Simon Valois, in charge of Publicity, made mention of a weekly radio broadcast which the Chamber is at present working on; further information will be given on this project.

L. J. Dumais, on behalf of Business Promotion, spoke of a series of advertisements planned to increase local sales in the Christmas season.

Philippe Valois, M.P., as principal speaker of the evening, discussed the complex problem of taxation, and the respective fields of federal, provincial and municipal governments. Each of these jurisdictions is charged with obligations of administrative and social nature. As source of revenue, the Constitution provides that federal parliament may impose taxes of various types and by different means, whereas the provinces may levy direct taxes only within the limits of the province and for the administration of provincial interests.

Whether the B.N.A. is in theory a "pact" or a "law", it is of prime importance to all Canadians that governments at the three levels co-operate for just distribution of taxation and fairness to the taxpayer.

Central Board's Demise Discussed at Brownsburg Home-School Association

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — The Watchman's "scoop" on the unexpected attempted suicide of the Argenteuil Central School Board, published last week, had uneasy repercussions in this district, so that the recently established Home and School Association invited its school member on the board, Mr. M. P. Reilly, to throw some light in explanation of the action.

Speaking at the school auditorium Mr. Reilly blamed the archaic Central School Board Act for the "impasse" now confronting the board. He assured the taxpayers that the School Bonds were sold by the Brownsburg School Board, through the co-operation of the Central Board, and that the Bonds are guaranteed by the Local School Board and by the Municipal Commission in Quebec, so they would not be affected if the Central Board were dissolved by Order-in-Council.

Mr. Reilly explained how the Central Board could only be dissolved by Order-in-Council, as it was set up by an Act of Parliament (Act 8 Geo. VI, Chapter 15, asssented to June 3, 1944). The resolution passed by the Central School Board was a petition to the Superintendent of Education to instigate the necessary proceedings to allow the Board to dissolve.

There were some grave doubts that the Superintendent of Education would look with favor upon the dissolution, and he believed that a thorough investigation would probably be made of the reasons for the petition.

It was hoped that this investigation would bring to light the need for revisions to the Central School Board Act, which has never been revised since its original passing.

A brief description of the Wanklyn Report was given by Mr. Reilly, who explained how the firm of Lobly, Wanklyn & Co., of Montreal, had been employed to make a survey of the percentage which the various municipal valuation rolls bear to today's 100% valuation. The tax rate is then set to bring in the necessary revenue from all municipalities, translating their assessed value to 100%. In the case of Brownsburg, the percentage is 45%, so the value shown on the municipal roll is multiplied by 100 divided by 45, to bring the value to 100%.

Some local boards have questioned the percentage figure, Mr. Reilly continued — and this is one of the points of dissension and has caused unnecessary delays in preparing the tax rolls and collecting the taxes. This is the chief reason why it is necessary to borrow money from the banks for meeting current obligations until the tax money and grants are available.

Question: Would the dissolution of the Central Board mean an end to the present co-operation among the various boards, or a break up of the present system?

Answer: Not necessarily, as some other form of authority could be set up to replace the present system. One suggestion would be that the chairman of each local board could form a committee to sit periodically to discuss and agree on items of common interest.

Question: How would the dissolution of Central Board affect the Brownsburg School Board, and the cost to local taxpayers?

Answer: The proposed tax rate of 8 mills on 100% valuation would practically balance Brownsburg's local budget, so the tax rate would be no different whether there was a Central Board or not. Some other Local Boards are not quite so fortunate as they show a deficit, and by the same token, some show a surplus. It would mean radical changes in some instances. The object of Central Board has been to equalize costs over the Unit, to give equal opportunities to all students. Some boards for some years have shown a surplus and now are showing a deficit, and vice-versa; that is how Central Board has balanced the costs throughout the Unit.

Late Citizen Was Member of Pioneer County Family

Stuart S. Campbell, Familiar Townsman, Mourned By Many Friends

One of Lachute's most popular residents and former businessmen, passed away at his home in the east ward on Monday evening, in the person of Samuel Stuart Campbell.

Born at Dalesville, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell, the deceased was 72 years of age, one of a family of 11 — eight boys and three girls, of whom there remain two brothers, Arthur, of Dalesville, and Peter, of Salmon Arm, B.C., and three sisters, Mrs. Geo. Murdoch, of Edmonton, Mrs. Geo. Fuller, of North Battleford, and Mrs. Jas. McKenzie, of Lachute.

Mr. Campbell received his early education at Lachute Academy, and on the death of his brother, James, took over the Campbell grocery business on Main Street, which he conducted successfully for some 24 years. On account of ill health he gave up his occupation seven years ago, and for the past five years had been troubled with a heart ailment. Notwithstanding this, he enjoyed life to the largest possible extent, and with his cheery disposition was a familiar figure at the Curling Club and Lions Club (of which he was a charter member). Stuart also belonged to the Masonic Order and Odd Fellows Lodge, and was a regular attendant at Lachute United Church. He also served for several terms as school commissioner here.

Mr. Campbell was married in 1926 to Miss Elsie McIntyre. His wife, a daughter, (Betty) Mrs. Ian Gordon, and grandchild, Linda, are left to mourn his loss.

The funeral service took place today (Thursday) in the United Church, conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough and attended by a host of sympathizing friends and relatives. There was a profusion of flowers, bearing silent tribute to his qualities as a sterling citizen and true friend.

Auto Snaps Power Poles, Bush Afire at Roadside

The hectic course of a northbound car at Ste. Malvina Camps, Route 41, left a trail of havoc Monday evening around 6 o'clock — with two Gatineau Power poles snapped, the bush afire from a 26,000-volt line, and $1,000 estimated damage to the car. The latter careened on its side, then righted itself on the highway before it halted — according to the occupants; there were no other eyewitnesses.

Rodrigue Lalande, 65, and his passenger, Adonias Cadieux, 78, were proceeding towards St. Jerome when the car went out of control just beyond the town limits. Both gentlemen are from Ste. Scholastique. Tracks indicated that the auto had snapped one pole, proceeded 150 feet and broken another pole, then had come to rest 100 feet farther along the highway.

The two men, brought to the Providence Hospital by ambulance, were treated by Dr. Marc Papineau. Twelve stitches were required to repair a gash in the driver's forehead, while the older man suffered minor cuts on the face and bruises on the chest.

Traffic Officer Howard Jones investigated. Flares were placed at the obstruction, where the poles had fallen on the right-of-way. Linesmen from the Gatineau Power arrived to switch off the current and to repair the damage. Brush was burning at the summer camp belonging to the Rev. Father Raymond, and smoke hung heavily over the immediate area.

Injured in Crash At Pte. au Chene

James Sproule, of St. Bernadin, was the only casualty in a collision between two automobiles around midnight on Saturday, on Route 8 near Pte. au Chene. The victim suffered a severe cut on the upper lip which required about 20 stitches, both inside the mouth and externally. He was treated in hospital at Hawkesbury.

Mr. Sproule's car crashed with another auto driven by Drummond Telsmore, of Kilmar, at a spot where road repairs are underway. According to Traffic Officer E. Descoeurs from Montebello, Telsmore's car was only slightly damaged, while the other car was battered to the extent of at least $600.

School Board Takes Tax Valuation Protest To Minister of Education

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — The executive council of the Chamber of Commerce met with President A. Basler in the chair, Fred Muncey as secretary, and the full council present.

Many important matters were brought up for discussion. Chief among these was the transportation problem. The Chamber is not at all satisfied with the Provincial Transport schedule as at present, since approximately 90% of the people travel to and from St. Adolphe and Morin, through Morin Heights to St. Jerome and Montreal. It was finally decided that the Chamber should take up this matter with the Transportation Board at Quebec, and a committee consisting of C. E. Seale, P. St. Denis and J. W. Green were selected to handle the matter.

To help continue with the work on the Ski Jump, the Morin Heights Ski Club had given a donation of $100; this was suitably acknowledged.

The regular meeting was set to take place on Tuesday, November 18.

Break With Tradition, No Firemen's Ball

An institution long established in Lachute — 30 years, to be exact — will be missed by many in the holiday season this year. The Firemen's Annual New Year's Ball is to be abandoned this year, according to word from Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon. The change is indicative of the modern trend — the fashion for New Year's Eve parties and competitive diversions, having diminished the attendance from year to year until the original purpose of the Firemen's Ball, namely, to raise funds for new equipment, has been scarcely justified by the monetary returns.

3 Notaries in Same Family, Local Firm

Third Generation in Lachute Business

It is remarked that the firm of Valois & Valois, Notaries, has been joined by another member of the family, Richard Valois, who — having passed the Board of Notaries examinations recently — has now been admitted into full partnership with his father, Gaetan Valois, and his elder brother, Simon.

The family tradition is thus still more strongly established in this business, which was started here in 1889 by the late J. E. Valois.

A daughter of Mr. Gaetan Valois, Miss Françoise, is also actively engaged, in the secretarial duties of this firm.

L.H.S. Host to Students' Council Annual Conf'ce

— By Anne Dwyer —

The ninth annual Students' Council Conference was held at Lachute High School last week-end. Approximately 35 schools sent in representatives and staff advisors, and all Friday afternoon the welcoming committee was busy registering the visitors.

The opening banquet, with Wayne Riddell occupying the chair, was held at 7 p.m. in the school cafeteria. The address of welcome was given by Mayor Jas. W. McGibbon of Lachute. Mr. A. W. Lang, executive secretary of the Provincial Association of Protestant School Boards, told the representatives present that they were "Canada's Real Wealth". Heather Graham, chairman of the Students' Council Conference Committee, thanked Mr. Lang, and the meeting adjourned to the school gym, where the dance was held.

The L.H.S. Dance Band supplied the music, and Mr. Keith Russell, as m.c. for the occasion, had several novelty items on the program, including a gymnastic display by Mr. A. Peterson, Physical Training instructor. Winners in a new type of "musical chairs" were Edith Common, of Macdonald High, and Ronald Robinson, of Shawville High. The spot dance was won by Faye Foster and Gordon Buchanan, of Verdun High. Jane Clements and Grant Peterson, of Westhill High, won the elimination dance. This social event ended at 11.30.

The sessions began Saturday morning at 9.30 o'clock. Robert Gubltier, from Montreal High School for Boys, was chairman for the "big high school" session, which took place in the science lecture

"Do Christmas Shopping In Lachute" Keynote of Current Business Boost

New Chamber of Commerce Sales Campaign, Member Merchants Contributing Space for Publicity in French and English Weeklies

Contributed by Lachute Chamber of Commerce

"Do Your Christmas Shopping in Lachute"

This is the theme of the Chamber's current campaign; and the support of member firms has been enlisted to re-iterate the message through advertisements in the local newspapers. To this end, many staunch advertisers in The Watchman and L'Argenteuil have kindly consented to give their regular spaces, for one or more issues, on behalf of the campaign. Accordingly, this week the advertisements of Lachute Lumber & Millwork Ltd. and of Lachute Motor Sales Reg., are devoted to this important theme. Others will extend the same co-operation throughout the pre-holiday season.

Directing this shop-at-home publicity is L. Jos. Dumais, chairman of the Business Promotion committee. It is a somewhat onerous undertaking, deserving the active support of all members. And we are confident of such support from every quarter.

Lachute on the Airwaves Week by Week

In order to publicize the name of this fair town far and wide throughout the province, the Chamber has negotiated with Station CKAC (La Presse) for a 13-weeks contract. The broadcasts will be heard from January 13 next, at 10.30 p.m. on Tuesdays. Local businessmen and industrialists are invited to co-operate with the Chamber in the preparation of these publicity programs, which will afford a golden opportunity to direct the attention of the listening public to Lachute, its amenities, advantages and attractions. . . The Chamber executive will be pleased to receive constructive suggestions.

On a proposal from Georges H. Beaulieu the executive will hold its monthly conclave in public session, in order that all members of the Chamber may have their say and offer their ideas.

Prospective Newcomers

The earnest effort of this Chamber, especially its Industrial Promotion committee, to atttract new enterprises to Lachute, seems to have met with some success, for it is definite that within two or three weeks another new plant will be established here — about which we will be in a position to give further information shortly.

Donation

In conclusion we are happy to announce that, thanks to the generosity of our members, the Chamber has been privileged to tender a substantial contribution of $100 to l'Ouvroir Ste. Elisabeth. On behalf of this organization, and of our executive body, we thank all those who have aided in this contribution.

Topic at Rotary — Stride of Canada's Chemical Industry

Has Opened Opportunities For Canadian-Trained Chemists, Says Speaker

The record expansion of the chemical industry is not a new phase but an acceleration of a long-term trend towards a more balanced Canadian industrial economy, said Dr. Guest of Canadian Industries Limited, at Brownsburg last Thursday.

Speaking before the Rotary Club at the Café Marquise, Dr. Guest explained that, with this expansion, Canada is processing more and more of her basic raw materials in a growing variety of plants.

"This has not only resulted in increased flexibility in our national economy, but has opened up more employment to Canadian-trained chemists and chemical engineers who, at one time, sought opportunities outside the country", he said.

According to the speaker, the three basic materials used by the chemical industry are sulphuric acid, sulphur dioxide and salt. More than 700,000 tons of sulphuric acid are produced in Canada annually, almost two-thirds of which is used for the manufacture of commercial fertilizer. An excess of a half-million tons of sulphur dioxide is made, mostly for the pulp and paper industry. With the recent completion of C-I-L's new sulphur dioxide plant at Copper Cliff, Ont., this industry will be assured of the equivalent of 45,000 extra tons of sulphur annually — a product which was in short supply until very recently. Salt is used for the manufacture of chlorine, caustic soda (lye) and muriatic acid. With extensive deposits in the Maritimes, Ontario and the prairie provinces, salt resources in Canada are virtually inexhaustible, Dr. Guest said.

Educationalists Visit — Study School Methods of French Language Teaching

Lachute and Brownsburg Protestant Schools were honored with a visit from four distinguished educationalists on Tuesday. These were Prof. Theodore Anderson of Yale University, Director of the Faculty of Arts and Teaching, especially Modern Languages. He has also been named by UNESCO as director of the next seminar on foreign languages, to be held in Europe in the near future. Prof. Anderson is particularly interested in the methods and the system used in Quebec schools for the teaching of French. There is an upsurge of interest in Modern Languages in many sections of the United States, and some are beginning the teaching of French, particularly in the lower grades.

A second visitor was Mr. Kenneth Ketchum, Headmaster of St. Andrews College, Aurora, Ontario. Mr. Ketchum is also interested in the teaching of French in Quebec schools.

Accompanying these guests were Mr. C. T. Teakle, Supervisor of French for the Protestant Schools of Quebec Province, and Mr. E. Caron, Assistant Supervisor of French.

Shoots Big Bear In North Country

Lucky in two respects was Jim McOuat, Lachute townsman, who with Albert Meilleur went hunting in the neighborhood of Maniwaki. It happened at 10 o'clock Monday morning at 31 Mile Lake, Gracefield, when Jim spotted a bear browsing through the bush, and pulled the trigger on him. Wounded, the animal savagely sought his assailant in revenge, tearing huge pieces from trees on his way. McOuat had to act quickly, and felled him with another shot at very close range. The carcass of the bear, seen at the Farmers Supply Co. here, measured 7 feet in height and weighed 405 lbs. Recently Jim McOuat shot a 1200 lb. bull moose in the same district.

Lost Cash Returned By Honest Resident

Alphonse Leroux, Sr., of Brownsburg, cashed his old age pension cheque this month and promptly lost the money. He thought he had put the bills in the pocket of his trousers, over which he was wearing overalls, but apparently the cash slipped down — and out.

Visiting at the home of Leroux' son Alfred a few days later, was a neighbor, Mme Donat Tessier. During the conversation the old gentleman's loss was mentioned — whereupon Mme Tessier was happy to exclaim that she had found the money. By keeping mum about her discovery, she was sure of eventually learning the legitimate owner. . . The bills had been found intact, near the Nova Scotia Bank.

This is the time of year that motorists should be just that little bit more careful than usual. From now on they can expect snow and icy streets from time to time until winter really sets in.

Argenteuil Ayrshires Score at Winter Fair

222 Quebec Dairy Animals Entered In Competition at Toronto "Royal"

By R. F. GILES

Toronto (Special) —

The Union Jack fluttered for ten spotlighted seconds Friday night as Sir Archibald Nye, British High Commissioner to Canada, officially opened the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair in Toronto before thousands of top-hatted or plainly dressed citizens.

A less spectacular part of the show, though no less important to the entrants, had been underway for several days — the judging of exhibits.

Approximately 17,000 entries for the $136,000 prize list will have to be sorted, compared, shuffled, felt and hefted by the judges before the eight days of the fair wind up next Saturday night, November 22.

The big show will retain all the splendor, pomp and color of the past, though there have been a few changes. The customary pre-opening night dinner which entertained about 1,000 guests had to be forgotten this year as a financial expedient.

Innovations this year are a goat show and a square dancing contest that is sponsored by Canada Packers and has prizes totalling $1,100. This contest was open to anyone in Canada and the United States, and 40 sets of dancers turned out to make it a big success.

Eight world championships will be decided this year in the seed, grain and hay class. Wheat, corn, oats and other "kings" in this category were decided on during the opening days of the fair.

Canadian wheat growers are in for some tough competition this year. For the first time there is an entry from the British farm sections. There is a sample, from a Norfolk farm, of the world's record wheat yield — 125 bushels to the acre.

Cattle entries — despite the foot and mouth epidemic which haunted western cattle raisers — are setting records in many classes. Alberta has sent 104 prize beef cattle and Saskatchewan's entry is 50 per cent higher than last year. Quebec dairy farmers have 222 animals at this year's fair.

The Coliseum looked something like Noah's Ark — a week ago animals were being led in two by two, or as many as could get through the entrance at once, and carpenters and electricians were working fast, in preparation for the flood . . of spectators . . to arrive Friday for the opening of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

Livestock men and commercial exhibitors were still preparing their displays and, although several came early this year, workmen had to work all last Thursday night to get the fair in tip-top shape for Friday's opening.

Even the animals couldn't take it easy. Horses were being exercised, cattle brushed, and sheep trimmed. The buzz of clippers, the rustle of grain, and the shuffle of reluctant hooves could be heard everywhere.

BRIEF HISTORY OF ST. MUNGO'S CHURCH AND MANSE AT CUSHING

Board Resolution 1867 "That Henceforth Congregation Put Silver in Offering Plate Instead of Copper"

Notable Contrast in Building Costs — 10 Times Higher Today than 90 Years Ago

— By Rev. G. W. Case —

In the summer of 1833, the Rev. Wm. Mair arrived in Chatham to organize the first Presbyterian Church in the area. His coming was welcomed by the families of the Presbyterian faith, and the church was quickly organized and plans made for the erection of a church building.

For Mr. Mair's first communion service there were 120 members. One year later the membership roll was 200.

Mr. Mair donated part of the farm which he had purchased upon his arrival, for a site for the church. The church, a stone one, was erected on that portion along the river and occupied for service in 1836.

The Presbyterian Church in Grenville was then organized by Mr. Mair and another stone church (St. Giles) was erected there, with a membership of 100. Receiving an invitation from Hakesbury Mills, he crossed the river and organized a church there, with a membership of 50.

The Rev. Mair was never married, and during his ministry employed the services of a housekeeper. The minutes of his session read like a personal diary. Upon his death on October 17, 1860, the congregations of Chatham and Grenville issued a call to the Rev. James Black, M.A.

When the Rev. Black began his ministry in 1861 the charge was completely reorganized, a Board of Managers appointed, and the name of the stone church in Chatham changed to St. Mungo's Presbyterian Church.

Up until then, December 1861, there was no residence for the minister, and the need for such a place was pressing.

METERS

Your electric meter is the finely-adjusted machine which shows how much use you make of your Most Valuable Servant.

Under Federal law, nobody is allowed to tamper with the inside of an electric meter while it bears the Government seal — neither the power company nor the customer.

Under Federal law, too, each meter must be taken out and tested by the government every six years. If it has been recording LESS electricity than has actually been used, the customer seldom hears about it. Federal laws provide adequate safeguards to see that the customer is not overcharged.

Each year Gatineau Power replaces an average of 12,000 meters with newly sealed meters. The ones which have been removed are cleaned, adjusted and presented for the testing and sealing by a Government inspector.

room. Three topics were discussed — "How the work of the Students' Council can be made more meaningful to the Student Body as a whole", by Tom Carmichael of Chambly County High; "How to educate your school population to vote intelligently in a democratic organization", by Keith Morgan of Quebec High; and "Provincial Co-ordination of Students' Council Activities", by Jane Bartlett of Westmount Senior High.

With Neil MacArthur in the chair for the "small high school" session, topics discussed were — first (similar to the other session) "How the work of the Students' Council can be made more meaningful to the Student Body as a whole", by Edith Common of Macdonald High; "Budgeting of the Students' Council Funds", by John Rider of Gault Institute; and "How the Student Council can serve the community", by Kaye Huet of Granby High.

In the general session, for which Heather Graham was chairman, the two forums were discussed by Mr. A. Lannon of Quebec High School and Miss Doris Welch of Cowansville High School, respectively.

The closing banquet, with Ann McGibbon in charge, took place after the general session. Mr. Victor Birks (whose company kindly sponsored the banquet) gave an illustrated talk on Silver. This brought to a close the ninth annual Students' Council Conference — for which Heather Graham, with Mr. R. Burton as school staff advisor, and their committee, had worked so hard to ensure smooth-running efficiency in all details.

Quebec Wins Top Honors Dairy Cattle Contest for National 4-H Club Week

Held in Conjunction With Toronto "Royal" Fair

Sixty-nine boys and 43 girls, selected from 58,706 members representing 4,440 4-H Clubs organized in nine provinces, competed for national championships in clothing, foods, dairy and beef cattle, swine, poultry, grain and potato projects sponsored by the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs in conjunction with the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto.

Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia each sent a dozen delegates, while New Brunswick sent 14. From the Maritimes there were 25 boys and 13 girls. Quebec delegated six boys only. Ontario this year favored the fair sex, the girls being eight in number and the boys six. As a matter of fact, two Ontario teams contesting for livestock honors were all-girl teams. Manitoba sent ten boys and four girls; Saskatchewan settled for eight boys and six girls; Alberta sent eight girls and six boys. British Columbia had eight boys to four girls.

These youthful competitors displayed fine exhibits, exemplifying how through their 4-H Club associations they are training themselves in citizenship and team work in a way that augurs well for the future of our rural communities. The trip to National 4-H Club Week — with its national championship, dinner functions, educational tours, attendance at the Royal Winter Fair and side trips to Hamilton, Niagara Falls and Ottawa — is not only the highest honor in 4-H Club work but provides for club members a broader vision of Canada and of Canadian agriculture.

Quebec Wins Dairy Honors

4-H teams from Western Canada won eight of the nine competitions. Quebec won top honors in the dairy cattle contest.

Food, clothing, and garden teams from Alberta were named national champions in their classes.

Saskatchewan teams representing beef cattle and grain clubs came first in these competitions.

Ontario Chosen for World Plowing Meet

Toronto (CP) — The world plowing championship will be held in Ontario next October, the Provincial Department of Agriculture has announced.

The department stated it had just received word from London that an 11-country meeting had voted to accept the invitation from the Ontario Plowmen's Association to hold the 1953 world competition here in conjunction with Ontario's international plowing match, which will be at Cobourg, about 70 miles east of Toronto.

The world match usually is held in the British Isles or in northern Europe.

"Farmers Should Strive To Grow New Products"

Quebec (CP) — Agriculture Minister Barré told the annual meeting of the Quebec Truck Gardeners' Association that higher prices are not the only way to higher farm profits.

"You must use better framing methods to increase your profits", he said. He urged farmers to keep informed about the market possibilities of various farm products so that they will not grow products in market-glutting quantities. Farmers should strive to grow new products, he said.

Old England In Color Films

The "Old Country Program" presented at St. Simeon's hall last Thursday under auspices of the church W.A., was enjoyed by many native English-folk and others interested.

Walter L. Payne of St. Andrews East, formerly director of the C.P.R. Motion Picture and Speaker Bureau, brought beautiful color films depicting a sea voyage, with all the comforts and social adjuncts of modern travel, from Montreal to Liverpool; England's colorful gardens, from the famed Hampton Court to the humble thatched cottages surrounded with glorious bloom; and another spectacular subject, the Trooping of the Color, ceremonial highspot in Old London's annual calendar.

Mr. Payne was commentator for an interesting series of still views, also in color, photographed personally around the ancient churches, abbeys and cathedrals, the rustic scenes, and the air-raid havoc in London and other centres.

The speaker and his projectionist were thanked on behalf of the W.A. by Mrs. E. Morrow, president.

Home and School Association Formed In Brownsburg

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg joined the Home and School Federation on Friday evening, when Mr. A. G. Pryde, vice-president of the Quebec Federation, attended a public meeting at the school auditorium. The formation of the Brownsburg group is the outcome of a meeting of parents and teachers held some months ago, where a committee was elected to enquire into the advisability of joining the Federation and prepare a slate of officers to undertake the task of conducting the business of an Association, in the event it was decided to go ahead.

The regulations demand that a representative of the Federation be present to take the nominations for office, after explaining the constitution, its aims and purpose, to a public meeting.

Mr. M. P. Reilly, chairman of the local school board, presided, and after explaining the procedure to be adopted, called upon Mr. King Amos, principal of the Brownsburg School, to introduce Mr. Pryde. Mr. Amos impressed upon those present the value of such an Association, and introduced Mr. Pryde as a past-president of the Farnham Home and School Association, district representative on the Regional Council, and vice-president in charge of organization for the Federation.

Mr. Pryde covered the groundwork of Home and School Federation from the theme, "Education Is Everybody's Business". Within the Island of Montreal there are 58 active Associations of the Home and School movement, and throughout the province there is a like number, 58, with a total membership of 16,500. In an inspiring and interesting address, Mr. Pryde outlined the aims and objects of the Association and its value to teacher, parent and pupil alike. Organizational details were as follows:

Mr. George Connelly, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the slate of proposed officers, with a report of the work of the committee. Mr. O. Blouin proposed that the organization be created, with Mrs. N. E. Smillie seconding. This motion was passed unanimously. Mrs. Dixon moved that the report be received, Mr. P. Grant seconding. After the constitution was tabled, Mr. George Connelly moved that the committee's slate of officers be declared elected: Mr. Oswald Blouin, chairman; Mrs. S. Graham, 1st vice-president; Mr. King Amos, 2nd vice-president; Mr. Charles Stephens, treasurer; Mr. M. V. Trayers, corresponding secretary. After calling for further nominations from the floor, Mr. Pryde put the motion, which was seconded by Mr. Wes Mason and passed.

Current Interests At Morin Heights

Article 373 was discussed at this meeting, and its application by the Argenteuil - Two Mountains Central Board. The Local Board in their discussions emphasized that they were not at variance with the Central Board, but with the application of Article 373. One point was particularly emphasized by Mr. Mignon, the lawyer, when he asked, "did one man make the review of the percentages given in the Wanklyn Report?" Later in their discussions the hon. minister asked that he be supplied with a certified copy of the different percentages and substantiation that they were made in accordance with the Educational Act. Even though a mill rate has been set, no notices have as yet been posted. It is the intention of the Central School Board to take the different rolls into consideration, as the Act distinctly states that this must be given to the public, by public notices. . . Ratepayers of Morin Heights are still awaiting the results of the situation.

Fire Brigade

This week has been a busy one for the Morin Heights Fire Brigade. While no serious damage was done, the two fires which occurred could easily have caused serious loss, had it not been for the quick action of the Brigade. The first outbreak was at Norman Woods', occupant of Mrs. Hollingsworth's property, and the second was the following day at Mrs. Millard's on Second Avenue. Both fires were reported to be caused through uncleaned chimneys. The Fire Chief and the members of the Brigade again wish to emphasize how important it is to watch chimneys at this time of the year.

Legion Affairs

The Poppy Fund committee of this branch acknowledge with thanks the generous response of the public and the Air Force personnel stationed in this district, in the purchase of poppies this year. The committee reports that over $100 was collected.

The local branch of the Legion are bringing the Canadian Legion "Command Review" to Morin Heights again this year; the show will be held on Wednesday, December 3. (Watch for ad in The Watchman). Through the kindness of the president and the members of the Protestant School Board, the auditorium will be used, as last year. This is a completely new show and should attract a large number of the people around the district. About 45 artists will be present.

The Legion's regular monthly meeting will be held on Tuesday, November 25, at 8 p.m.

PLAN AERIAL ATTACK ON SPRUCE BUDWORM

Fredericton (CP) — Completion of five air strips to assist New Brunswick and the pulp and paper industry in their joint fight against next year's anticipated spruce budworm attack on provincial forests is expected early in the new year.

A spokesman for Forest Protection Ltd. says construction on the strips is already well under way. The new strips are located to reach as much as possible of the infected area.

He emphasized that the company, a joint venture of the province and four big paper interests, was "just building the fields and no program for the spraying has been mapped out as yet."

A question in the physiology examination read: "How may one obtain good posture?"

The country boy puzzled a moment and then wrote: "Keep the cows off it and let it grow."

"Lady, could you gimme a quarter to get to where my folks are?"

"I guess so. Here's a quarter. And where are your folks?"

"At the movies, ma'am."

"... the building of my herd"

Many a farmer knows that initiative, hard work and the financial support of the bank can all play their part in developing a successful farming operation.

One such man, a rancher in the West, recently wrote to his bank manager:

"I wish to express my appreciation of the way your bank has treated me through the years . . . the encouragement you have given me in the building of my herd. I feel the success we have achieved could hardly have been obtained without your intelligent support."

The farmer uses bank credit in many ways: to develop his land, buy livestock and equipment, market crops. Aiding Canada's food producers is an important part of the broad service the chartered banks perform for all Canadians.

Books and Youth

TODAY'S civilization is largely a paper one. If it were not for the invention of printing and the consequent masses of books and printed records, the history of the past and the progress of the present would be only sketchily and laboriously preserved.

Books exist not just for the purpose of record, they are a source of never-ending pleasure to the reader. And the connection between education and books is both obvious and vital.

No one gets through life now without reading.

In reading either for pleasure or education, time should not be wasted on second-rate books. Only the best are good enough, and this is particularly important for young readers whose taste is in the formative stage.

The fourth annual Young Canada's Book Week, being observed November 15-22, focuses attention on getting the best books into the young readers' hands at home, at school and in the library.

Contact with the best books carries double significance. The child enjoys them, the adult sees the importance of the impact on the young mind.

With good books children enjoy experiences which anticipate those of later life, and unconsciously absorb familiarity with words, standards of conduct and an understanding of people.

While one thinks of reading as a personal and individual pastime, no older person can forget the pleasure of having a book read out loud. The holiday reading of Dickens' "Christmas Carol" lingers in many a mind. Sharing the fun and enjoyment of books makes many a happy memory.

For one week the pleasure and profit inherent in reading is being paraded before the public in the library, over the radio, and in the newspapers. But best of all from the young readers' standpoint, there are another 51 weeks in the year to read.

A Peaceful Battle

A BEHIND-THE-SCENES campaign against a serious new threat to Canada's wheat crops, came into the open last week.

Two Canadian seed experts embarked on a six-weeks tour of Latin-America in a quest for a strain of wheat that can stand up against the virulent 15-B stem rust which threatened prairie crops last spring.

They are Dr. C. H. Goulden, Dominion cerealist, and A. H. Parker of Gilbert Plains, Man., president of the Canadian Seed Growers' Manitoba section. They will examine hundreds of varieties of seed at farm stations in six South American countries to see how resistant they are to the fungus growth. The rust is believed to have originated in the south and been carried by wind to the United States and Canada.

However, they will do something more. Canada has a new wheat variety which research men are confident may prove impregnable to 15-B. It is being tested in Canada and at stations to be visited in Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Peru and Ecuador. There are only a few bushels of the seed, and it couldn't be provided on a commercial basis until about 1954 or even later.

Pre-Holiday "Crop"

THE CHRISTMAS TREE "harvest" has already started in many districts of the province, and according to reports, 1952 will reach a new record. Experts believe that more than 2,000,000 trees will be cut.

The Quebec Forestry Association, which aims at the conservation and the protection of the forest resources of the province, is somewhat alarmed, not so much by the number of trees that will be cut, as by the way they are being cut. The Christmas tree business is profitable for farmers, but it should be remembered that that small trees of today will be the wood crop of tomorrow. Technical methods should be considered in this exploitation, and woods owners should always cut their trees themselves; it is wasteful to allow traders to do the cutting, for they have little interest in conservation.

The Quebec Forestry Association, in collaboration with the Forest Extension of the Department of Lands and Forests, is willing to give all the information desired, to assure the best exploitation of this crop. Farmers of this district may also have a readier reference to conservation in the services of the C.I.P. Forest Farm at Harrington — whose helpful advice, we are sure, would be at their disposal.

Election "Probs"

THE SEVENTH session of Canada's 21st parliament opening this week could be the last before a general election.

The government's legislative program remains a secret until the Speech from the Throne is delivered at the opening Thursday; but if other pre-election sessions are a guide, it will not contain much that is controversial, but will hold things pleasing to voters generally.

Possibly no legislation is awaited more eagerly than the 1953-54 budget. (It may contain a definite clue as to whether this is an election session.)

Finance Minister Abbott and other cabinet members have hinted that the time for tax reductions is approaching. Progressive Conservatives have charged that the government is postponing tax relief until just before an election.

The term of the present Parliament, elected June 27, 1949, does not expire until August, 1954. Governments, however, usually call an election, dissolving the house, before the full term expires and there has been speculation the election will come possibly on Monday, October 5, 1953.

A few observers forecast a snap election next spring shortly before the coronation of Queen Elizabeth (June 2). But indications are that the session will last until late April or mid-May, giving members a chance to travel to London for the ceremony.

Santa's Steeds Not So Mythical

IN THE VAST stretch of country across the top of the world — Canada, Alaska, Greenland, Scandinavia and Siberia — the reindeer is the only animal of its type (with the possible exception of the musk ox) which can thrive and multiply. As well as hauling Santa's sleigh, the reindeer is a valuable economic asset — says an article in December Reader's Digest.

At the top of the world the reindeer is food, clothing and transportation. Its hair is used for mattresses, its tail for shaving brushes. The skin makes parkas, mittens, trousers. Sinew thread is especially good for sewing canoes because it swells, making watertight seams. Knife handles and needles are also contributed by the animal. The stomach membranes (a reindeer has six stomachs) are used for packing cheese. Skin from the forehead produces a nonskid leather for shoe soles, excellent for walking on ice and snow.

In northern Scandinavia the Lapps' reindeer herds total about 600,000. The Russians are said to have a million reindeer on collective farms. In Siberia the deer carry mail, pull buses, and haul material for the Red Army. Evidence of Russia's growing interest is a recently published book on reindeer breeding.

In Canada 30 years ago the government started experimenting with reindeer herds in the far north. Today, there are 3,600 in a government herd at the mouth of the Mackenzie, and another 4,000 in herds managed by Eskimos. These may develop into a valuable new industry of the Canadian North.

Government Could Save

INVESTIGATION of the whole civil service set-up by a private firm of management consultants, is favored by a group of Canadians who replied to a question from The Financial Post. Some would have the same job done by a special commission.

Many, who aren't necessarily crying inefficiency, think the time is ripe in any case for an exhaustive efficiency report along the lines of the U.S. Hoover Commission report.

Increased civil servant numbers since prewar are generally termed inevitable to meet increased population and increased government along many lines, particularly social service. Suggestions made to The Post of where things could be tightened up:

— Encourage individual initiative by stressing ability rather than seniority.

— Simplify hiring and firing regulations.

— Make suitable and adequate training readily available at all levels; raise pay of professional and top men to private industry standards.

— Take a closer look at modern business methods and office machines.

— Cut down on publicity and public relations and overlapping endeavor; cutback on government controls.

Overmuch governing kills the self-help and energy of the governed. — Wendell Phillips

Brief History . . .

On November 3, 1861, a letter was received from the Montreal Presbytery stating the General Assembly's Colonial Committee would pay the sum of £40 sterling towards the minister's stipend if the congregation provided a manse and glebe. Accordingly, a Manse Committee of 13 was appointed to collect funds for the glebe lot and erection of a manse.

On May 19, 1862, this committee reported to the congregation and recommended that a lot be purchased from Jeremiah Murphy for $600, and a brick house constructed. Bricks could then be purchased for $5 per 1,000, delivered.

The report of the Manse Committee was adopted, and a contract for labor awarded Thomas Ferguson of Vankleek Hill, for $1,820. The contract was concluded in December, 1862.

The initial collections for the manse were as follows:

Collected locally	$620
Collected in Montreal	$128
Dr. R. Hamilton	$50
Thompson (Quebec)	$50
Mr. Stayner	$40
Total	$888

The building of the manse can thus be seen as a venture of faith on the part of the congregation. That faith was to be tested sorely in the ensuing years. Some who had promised, failed to fulfil their promise. ("These ye have always with you".)

On November 28, 1865, the following extract from the minutes is self-illuminating: "Resolved that a list of those who have not paid their subscription be posted in the church, and that this resolution be read from the pulpit. A year later, the minutes of December 26, 1866, reveal that the congregation of St. Giles was appealed to for support for the manse, since the minister of St. Mungo's was also serving them.

On July 16, 1867, the Board of Managers, at a regular meeting of said Board, was constrained to adopt a resolution, "That from henceforth the congregation put silver in the offering plate instead of copper". Apparently they did not have too much faith in that resolution, as at the same meeting they resolved, "That a committee of six ladies take in hand to make an extraordinary collection to assist in collecting the back dues." Leave it to the ladies! Just two years later, October 13, 1869, the minutes of a congregational meeting record that, "On motion of Mr. McPhaden, seconded by Mr. McCallum, a vote of thanks is unanimously passed to the ladies for their valuable efforts and assistance in paying off the church debt."

The Ladies' Association had been organized a few months previously, (January 12, 1869) with a membership of 45. Once the manse was out of debt they started making improvements and additions. In 1882 they persuaded the men to draw logs and have them sawn for a barn; they would provide the money. This offer the men could not reasonably turn down, so the barn was erected that year from logs from the glebe and from James Miller, and sawn at the mill, free of charge.

In 1888, the Ladies' Association paid for the digging of a well, and two years later had the roof done over with tin. In 1891 the brick work was painted.

In July, 1909, Albert Fuller offered to build a new fence in front of the manse. This offer was accepted.

The Ladies' Association installed electric lights in January, 1926, and in October of the same year, with the assistance of Calumet, a phone was installed, and the piano purchased in March, 1927.

Other repairs have since been made, but of recent years it has been felt by many that a new manse was necessary, as the old one was too large for the upkeep, and extensive repairs were needed. Rather than incur these expenses the Trustees decided to try to sell the manse, and an advertisement of sale was published in The Montreal Star, with no tangible results. In the Spring of 1952 the matter was again taken up, and a buyer found in the person of Mr. Calvin Edgerton, of Maniwaki. Montreal Presbytery approved the sale and a building committee was formed as follows:

Fraser Watson, chairman; Alan Vowles, secretary-treasurer; Irving Fuller, Archie Graham, Thos. Weir, Vincent Elliott, Mansiel Wilson, Roy Dobbie, Rev. G. Case. Later three ladies were added, namely, Mrs. Wm. Usher, Mrs. M. Wilson, and Miss Alberta Cleland.

A building lot, approximately 90 x 200 feet, was purchased from Mr. Prior and an eight-room house, including bathroom and built-in garage, was erected. This building, well-insulated, and heated with an air-conditioning furnace, has copper plumbing throughout, with an artesian well. The study has a separate entrance. The building was constructed by Mr. Fraser Watson.

The first sod was turned the last week of June, 1952, and the building was ready for occupancy September 24, 1952.

It was officially opened on November 8 by the Rev. Dr. H. B. Campbell, chairman of the Montreal Presbytery, assisted by the minister, the Rev. G. W. Case, the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, of Lachute, the Rev. S. J. Pike, of Brownsburg, and the Rev. Dr. H. A. Carson, of Hawkesbury.

The building is completely furnished, thanks to the efforts of the Women's Associations of Cushing, Calumet and Grenville.

It might well be noted that construction costs had increased more than 10 times during the past 90 years, since the building of the original manse.

FARMERS SAVE TIME BANKING BY MAIL

Nowadays, farmers are often too busy to spare time for trips into town. That's why many find the Bank of Montreal's "banking-by-mail" service particularly useful. They save time and trouble by having the postman do their banking for them.

Banking by mail is quick, too. Deposits and banking instructions received by the B of M through the mail claim immediate attention. Many a farmer makes a practice of sending in his poultry or livestock cheques for deposit in his savings account, along with his passbook, which the B of M people mark up and return by the following post.

If you find it inconvenient to get into town during banking hours, write or call Paul Jobin, accountant of Lachute's B of M (telephone number 11). He will gladly provide you with full details about banking by mail. Otherwise you might drop into the B of M next time you're in town and pick up a copy of the bank's leaflet about this useful, time-saving service.

Shiny, dark-blue beetles, the size of ladybirds, are almost miraculously succeeeding where chemicals have failed in the extermination of goat-weed, a scourge of British Columbia farmers.

Cereal for Breakfast

To many, the words "breakfast" and "cereal" are synonymous, for cereal is usually the main dish around which breakfast is built. By setting the example, parents should see that children form the cereal habit early. It is not necessary to have the same cereal day after day — you can avoid monotony by varying the cereal served and the ways of serving it. For example, the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, suggest that honey or molasses may be added to cereals while they are cooking, and fresh fruit, maple syrup, honey, fruit juices, preserves, or jelly are flavorful alternatives for sugar.

The term "cereal" comes from "Ceres", the name of the mythological goddess of man's oldest foods, and the story of grain is a fascinating one which parallels all plant foods. Cereal grains are among man's development through many civilizations up to his present form. It was grain that first made the cave man a stay-at-home, for when he discovered that the wild plant with the nourishing seeds could be cultivated, he settled down to farming instead of roving and hunting. Eventually, communities formed and they learned to share or trade the food instead of fighting for that which grew wild. In later years, the abundance or lack of cereals often meant the difference between starvation and plenty in a country, and they were frequently factors in the rise and fall of nations.

For centuries, cereals were chiefly used as gruel, porridge, and mush. Then, housewives of the Gay Nineties were amazed and delighted with a great and dramatic change for around the turn of the century, the first quick-cooking and ready-to-eat cereals made their debut. In many homes, the new simple products which required only a few minutes to prepare soon replaced the slow-cooking, long-bubbling porridge of grandmother's day.

The quick-cooking properties of most cereals are due to the fineness of the particles rather than to any partial cooking. In making "regular" rolled oats, for example, the whole kernel is passed through a steam chamber, then put through heavy rollers. For the quick-cooking flakes, the same process is used, but each kernel is cut or "clipped" into three sections or granules before rolling it.

The types of cereals available today are many and varied. Wheat and oats are the most common breakfast cereals, although others are made from grains, such as rye, corn, flax, and buckwheat. Sometimes two or more of these grains are mixed together to give extra flavor and food value.

Here are some of the wheat cereals which can be obtained from your grocer's shelf. Cracked wheat is one. It's made, as the name implies, from whole grain which is cleaned, then cracked fairly coarsely. Instead of cracking it, the whole grain may be passed between heated rollers to make flaked or rolled wheat. Farina, often called wheatlets or semolina, is another familiar wheat cereal. Unlike cracked wheat or rolled wheat, it is quite highly refined. Dark farina is the small granular particles formed during the process of milling wheat into whole wheat flour, while light farina is formed in the milling of white flour.

Bran is the husk or outer-coat of the wheat kernel, which is separated out in the milling process. It may be bought separately and added to uncooked cereal for extra flavor.

People are sometimes not quite sure as to what wheat germ is. It is the germ or embryo of the wheat kernel, which may be removed and sold separately as a supplement to add to other cereals for extra food value. It is sometimes processed to prevent it from becoming rancid. Wheat germ is always sold as wheat germ — not under any other name. If you wish to add extra nourishment to cereal, two tablespoons of wheat germ per cup of uncooked cereal may be added to the cereal just before it is completely cooked. Skim milk powder is another way to add food value. Mix it with the cereal allowing one to two tablespoons skim milk powder to one cup of water. Pour cereal and skim milk powder slowly into boiling water, stirring as usual to prevent lumping.

When combining two or more cereals, allow time for the cereals requiring the longest cooking time. When cooking packaged cereal, it is best to follow the manufacturer's directions.

Whole grain cereals should be bought in very small quantities, particularly in hot weather. Keep cereals tightly covered in a cool dry place, protected against insects. Glass sealers are excellent for storing bulk cereals, while packaged cereals may be kept tightly covered in their own container.

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

Choosing A Pet

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"Can I have a pet?" How many parents are faced with this urgent request! Children are enthusiastic owners of pets. Who ever found a small boy who did not love his dog or a little girl who was not fond of her pussy?

A very small child is not old enough to be left with a puppy or a kitten. A youngster may squeeze an animal so hard in his efforts to hug him that he really hurts his pet! In self-protection, a cat often scratches or a dog growls and may bite his young master — and who can blame the pet?

Some mothers are busy with a new baby or other duties and they cannot constantly supervise a little child's play. If this is the case acquiring a pet might well be postponed until the child is of school age.

In choosing a pet, parents must think not just of the initial cash outlay and the child's preference, but also of the cost of upkeep. Approximately what will the pet's food add up to each month? A child's pet must be in a healthy condition, but if it falls ill, is there money enough to seek a veterinary's advice? During the holiday season, what satisfactory provision can be planned for the pet?

One of the sad mistakes families sometimes make is to get a large dog when they have only a small yard. Any animal needs exercise, and a big dog cannot get sufficient exercise in a tiny space or tethered to a post or clothes line. As well as knowing the cost of the dog tax, prospective owners should find out what are the city or town regulations about a dog being tied up during the spring, summer and autumn months.

No matter what pet is chosen, a clean warm bed, dishes for food and water, and a "corner of his own" is his right. Before purchasing a pet, a parent should discuss with the child where the pet is going to sleep and what division of responsibility there will be in training and caring for the new addition to the family.

Anyone who has loved a pet will not laugh at the phrase "new addition to the family", because that is just what a pet becomes. If it is going to be a continual source of irritation to a member of the household, especially an older person, such as a grandparent, a mother hesitates to add to family friction. If one person in the family is subject to hay fever or known to possess allergies, do make sure before purchasing a cat or a dog, that the new pet will not be a health hazard

Often if one particular pet is not feasible, another one is — and there is a great variety of pets from which to choose. Dogs and cats rate very high on the list, but they are not the only satisfactory pets.

In recent years, among the pet animals in a cage, hamsters have been competing successfully with rabbits, white mice, and guinea pigs. Some children become interested in fish as a hobby and with very little assistance they assemble the necessary things for a balanced aquarium home for gold or other kinds of tropical fish.

Canaries, because of their sweet song, have long been very much sought after. But the small "budgie" birds, belonging to the parrot family, who can learn to talk, have had a tremendous sale during the last few years. Pigeons, especially carrier pigeons, are the choice of quite a number of boys.

There is not a toy or plaything which can ever mean as much to a child as a living, loving pet of his own. Boys and girls on a farm who own a number of pets, and who live where there is room for a dog to run around, and where a cat who is a good "mouser" in the barn is a real asset, have a distinct advantage over most city and town children. A pet's care is an added responsibility. This investment demands time and energy and patience. It can pay big dividends in happiness. A pet is never a substitute for a child, but pets and children do go together. A home is incomplete without both of them!

Q.W.I. Urges Compulsory Milk Pasteurization Throughout Province

Why can't all milk sold in this province be pasteurized? What can be done to educate the public to the need for laws that would make this compulsory? These are questions that have been engaging the attention of the Quebec Women's Institutes for some time and resolutions have been presented at the annual provincial conventions for the past two years, asking the provincial government to put such legislation in effect in sections where it would be applicable until such time as more pasteurization plants are available.

The Provincial Canadian Association of Consumers is now concerning itself with this problem and at a recent director's meeting of the English Branch of that organization the matter was discussed with the Q.W.I. president, Mrs. G. E. LeBaron, who is also a member of that body.

It was agreed that consumer education was the first essential and this approach is to be continued. Information as to what progress has been made and on the situation as it exists in rural areas, has been made available to the CAC and methods for concerted action will be evolved at further meetings.

They Asked the Ladies

All jokes to the contrary, what's on a woman's mind is of vital importance to Canadian businessmen. Instead of distrusting women's opinions they have developed a healthy respect for what the Canadian housewife thinks and they have done so with scientific surveys.

Consumer research, as it is called, tells Canadian business whether milady selects that tricky looking package with the brand new recipe or whether she prefers hers round or square, as well as a host of other facts about her buying habits.

The "Cellaphane" Division of Canadian Industries Limited was one of the pioneer users of these research methods and it gives full credit to the housewife. Many of the original ideas for making "Cellophane" cellulose film useful came from the women who were questioned.

From such studies, new ideas for more effective and more informative packaging were developed: packaging designed for small families where waste is a problem; paskaging to assure freshness and packaging which stresses convenience. Today's housewife shops with her eyes and buys what looks good, but she is also extremely conscious of packaging for sanitation and cleanliness.

The ladies interviewed placed food items at the top of the list of things they liked to buy in protective packages. Baby's clothing and toys came next for obvious reasons. Household articles like linens and towels were third and clothing fourth. They consider it important that such things as blouses, men's shirts and sheer hosiery be packaged.

Although the housewife is still the "king pin" shopper of the family, the surveys reveal that she no longer does all the family food buying. Her husband or children often trail along with her and they greatly influence her buying.

Men like the convenience of self-service stores but the surveys show they do a lot more impulse buying than their wives. The males are inclined to spend more, buy larger quantities and succumb to the temptation of exotic food items which may catch the eye.

Junior is getting in his say, too, according to consumer studies. A recent survey showed that 77 per cent of women shoppers bought something at the request of their small fry. Cookies, crackers, candies and soft drinks were typical of these purchases.

All these facts and more, modern business is learning by asking the ladies.

Young English Girl Is Expert Thatcher

London (CP) — After years of decline, thatching is popular again in Britain. Some householders are having roof tiles and slates replaced with thatch, which is warm in winter and cool in summer.

The art is handed down from father to son in some families. But the only woman thatcher in Britain is said to be Ruth Pollack, a graduate of London University and a former flight officer in the Women's Auxiliary Air Force.

While convalescing in Berkshire after an illness she watched 76-year-old Willie Lowe thatching and persuaded him to teach her the art. For two years she worked with him, learning how to use the implements and how to split hazel sticks and twist them so that the fibre is locked in the wood.

Wheat straw is mainly used for thatching, and a thatched roof is good for 50 years. Three tons of straw and 25 bundles of hazel branches cut into 3,000 sprays are required to roof a six-roomed cottage, and the work takes about six weeks.

Willie and Ruth, now in partnership, say thatching is the best job in the world.

Try adding a pinch of marjoram to scrambled eggs before cooking. This herb gives a new lift to an old favorite.

Scouts Appeal for Discarded Toys

The childish joy we witness in our homes at Christmas time, is but a sample of the pleasure imparted by gifts to those in luckless circumstances. The Lachute Boy Scouts have brought gladness to many poorer children through their Annual Good Turn — the Christmas Toy Repair Shop.

Only by early co-operation of the public can they make their job effective. They are now awaiting contributions — toys, games, playthings no longer wanted — which a coat of paint or a touch of glue will make over, into an acceptable gift for a needy child.

Parents, do it now! Gather up the family's unwanted toys. Telephone Scoutmaster Basil Riddell (1013-M) or Asst. Scoutmaster Fred Stansfield (37-J), and your parcel will be gratefully collected.

In love of home, the love of country has its rise.

EXPLOSION IN MINIATURE! It happens frequently these days in the Montreal plant where Sabre jets are made. Worker is using explosive rivets on a wing section. Developed by the chemical industry to speed up riveting operations, especially in hard-to-get-at places, they contain a tiny explosive charge which fastens the rivet when fired.

SUPER-SOFTNESS is a "must" in everything that touches baby's tender skin. For bath-time, mothers find that C-I-L Cellulose Sponges are just the thing — wonderfully soft and absorbent. Available in smart colours — blue, green, coral, yellow and natural.

SWEETENING UP the air under sinks is done differently today. The modern homemaker's helper is the aerosol — a new type of package that dispenses deodorants, fly-sprays, paints, shaving-cream just by pressing a button. "Freon" is the chemical propellent that makes this handy method possible.

Did you know?

C-I-L products are making mighty contributions to Canada's air defence. In addition to explosive rivets for the F-86E Sabre, chemicals, nylon, "Cellophane", play a vital role.

S. McKYES, L.R.S.M., DISCUSSES MUSIC DEVELOPMENT IN DISTRICT SCHOOLS

Digest of Address, "Music in the Country", at Recent Quebec Protestant Teachers' Association Convention

The story of how music — that is, organized music in the schools — got its start, is quite interesting. You will remember the International Music Festival of 1947, organized by Irvin Cooper, D. M. Herbert and the other music specialists in Montreal, and held in the Forum. . . Earle Morrison attended that Festival with a small choir from Lachute. Morrison became inspired. He was a science teacher, but being musical anyway, he saw the possibilities. He organized choirs in Lachute and Brownsburg, and a Band in Lachute — all in spare time. He became enthused and so did the children and the public. Then came the idea of a Music Festival to embrace all the schools in the two counties. Mr. Morrison, with the help of other teachers, organized the first County Music Festival in 1950. Harry Norris and myself acted as adjudicators. Appraising the vocal end of the Festival, I was pleased with everything, and gave most of the participants honor certificates (which incidentally, they deserved).

The growth of music in the schools has been coincident with the consolidation of schools and the instituting of many other good things.

The music course, as set down by the Department of Education, has been established in all grades in all the schools. Every child is equipped with the necessary materials, each teacher is supplied with all information, all schools have pianos, gramophones, records, etc., and we are well under way.

The Supervisor of Music spends one day each week visiting the County Schools. He gives a lesson in each class in front of the class teacher, irons out any problems which may arise, encourages her in her work, and generally keeps the pot boiling. The eager faces of the children of all ages, the welcome afforded to the supervisor by the teachers, and the advance made from visit to visit, all add up to more than an ample reward for any effort expended.

Three days a week are spent in the Lachute High School, where I teach Grades VI, VII and VIII. The music in Grade VIII is "elective", that is, the pupils taking music, do so in lieu of another subject. Grades I to V inclusive, are taught by the grade teachers with supervision. One day per week is spent in the Brownsburg Intermediate School. Here I actually teach one lesson each week, and the grade teacher carries on with the other lesson on another day. This system of Specialist-and-class-teacher seems to work out very well.

Regular assemblies and special assemblies are held in all schools when the occasion affords itself. School concerts, of course, are given in all schools at Christmas, Easter, Prize-Giving, etc.

Large Choirs, both junior and senior, have been established in all schools, three of these numbering well over 100. The Lachute High School Band is carrying on, as well as the instrumental work in Brownsburg. Music, which not so long ago was considered "sissy" by older boys, is fast becoming the accepted thing, as evident in the male attendance in the senior Glee Clubs.

I could go on in my enthusiasm for a long time, telling you of many interesting things in connection with music in the schools — but I shall confine myself to two items of importance. The first of these is our annual Music Festival. This is held in early May, when the roads are open for easy travel, and embraces all schools and every possible child from Grade I to XI. The Festival is held in the Lachute High School, where there is ample room for the 1,500 participants, a good auditorium, music room, cafeteria, etc. The staff of the school acts as host. The whole affair is well organized, and the Festival, (which is sponsored by the Teachers' Association of the two counties) is highly successful and most beneficial to all concerned. The various Boards, which are generous and co-operative in all our ventures, supply the buses and other facilities, contributing greatly to our success.

Last spring the Music Festival had to be cancelled, due to the spread of contagious diseases, so we had a "Muisic Festival of the Air". This actually was a brain child of our good friend Bill Pettie, of Radio Station CFCF. He was to have come to the regular Festival to make recordings for a subsequent broadcast, and not to be outdone by the cancellation, conceived the idea of the Music Festival of the Air. We got together, made a plan, and started out. The CFCF panel truck broke down, so we borrowed Keith Russell's panel — Keith is the Agriculture expert here. We visited the schools, all of them, picking up items of interest and numbers that we thought might make an interesting broadcast and which would give the public a cross-section of what we are trying to do musically in Argenteuil and Two Mountains. The broadcast turned out to be a huge success. Many congratulatory letters have come in from all sides, commenting highly on the calibre of the singing and technique of the instrumentalists.

The last thing I would mention is the Music School for Teachers, which is held in Lachute during the last week in August. This is a practical approach to classroom teaching, techniques and problems, Here, as time permits, all the integral factors pertaining to the teaching of music in the classroom are discussed and aired. The course embraces the teaching of a rote song, conducting and baton technique, the use of the pitch pipe and tuning fork, reading the score (with all that that entails), the changing voice, the non-singer, the listening lesson, etc. In other words, we attempt to help the teacher, in clinic fashion, with her classroom procedures as concerns music. I have found that this idea has done much good for the cause of music in our schools, and the result and effects are immediate.

Queen Elizabeth Urges Simplicity

Ottawa (CP) — Queen Elizabeth is not in favor of costly celebrations outside London during her coronation on June 2. A government circular at London said, "It is Her Majesty's wish the celebrations should be as simple as possible, and that all undue expenditure should be avoided."

The suggestion was aimed solely at local council expenditures, not at private donations or affairs. Many cities and villages in Britain have made elaborate plans for pageants, street-dancing and parades during the Coronation.

As far as London is concerned, however, advance preparations for the coronation itself indicate that austerity will be forgotten, at least for the big day. Erection of special seats in Westminster Abbey and along the royal procession route alone will cost an estimated £270,000.

Wants Central Board and Transportation to School -- Taxes Paid, Expenses Cut

(CORRESPONDENCE)

Calumet, Que., Nov. 17, 1952

The Lachute Watchman,
Editor:

Will you allow me just a little space in your paper. I would like very much to reply to the statement in last week's issue given by the Central School Board.

Surely our Member, Mr. Cottingham, along with the Central School Board, are not going to send us back to the old times of school days with little or no education for our children.

The statement was made that it was the high cost of transportation that was putting the School Board in debt. But it is the high-paid salaries to people such as the officials, assistant principals, school nurses and doctor for the school clinic. Why not cut out all this high expense!

I, as a ratepayer, demand that the people be made to pay their taxes. Then let every child have a fair way of transportation to school, so that the children of today may receive an education and not have them go back to the old time of 40 years ago. There is nothing so disgusting as to listen to a person trying to speak, or read in public, when he cannot pronounce his words properly.

So come on, parents, wake up, and fight for the rights of your children's education. We want a Central School Board with transportation for our children.

Oh Canada ! -- A Grand Country, But --

An Awful Country to Live In, Says Local Resident

(CORRESPONDENCE)

Lachute, Nov. 19, 1952

The query arises in the writer's mind: has our civilization gone completely mad . . . or is the writer unable to appreciate modern progress?

Take for instance our naturally beautiful Brownsburg Road — no place to walk but in the traffic lanes of automobiles averaging sixty!

Children and ladies must ever be alert and ready to jump off into long grass, brush or the ditch, while endeavoring to hold hat and coat from being torn off by suction. Is it that in this day and age no sane person is supposed to walk?

Governments expending countless millions for car comfort ought surely to provide some accommodation and safety for poor unfortunates still unashamed to use their God-given limbs.

Let the auto maniacs crash head-on if that is their form of diversion, but also let us provide footpaths for the diminishing sane while they last.

Just one more complaint for this time. Now that our highways are all but impossible for humble pedestrians, how nice to turn to the woods of a Saturday or Sunday afternoon, giving oneself and the children a joyful ramble in the Fall season, when nature is mature and flies not troublesome. Here again, the plan is suicidal, for the countryside is alive with juvenile hunters — who should be limited to pea-shooters but carry high-power rifles with a firing range of nearly five miles. In many cases they know not, nor care, as to the destination of their ammunition. Literally hundreds of domestic animals are shot, and also many people. The bag usually results in a squirrel or woodpecker, and very, very rarely, legitimate game.

Yes — Oh Canada, a grand country, but an awful place to live in!

Opera "Aida" For Radio Broadcast

Le Théâtre Lyrique, sponsored by Molson's, will present Verdi's celebrated opera "Aida" on Monday evening, November 24, over CBF. and the French network.

Louise Roy, Alphonse Ledoux and Simone Lamarche will take the principal roles; Jean Deslauriers will direct the symphony orchestra; Albert Duquesne will do the narrating; and Roger Baulu the announcing.

The theatrical producer was giving an audition to a man with a new act.

Producing a parrot from his pocket, the man placed it at a tiny piano, whereupon the parrot calmly proceeded to play part of one of the operas.

"Wonderful!" exclaimed the producer. "I'll give you $1,000 a week for that."

"But that's not all", said the man, producing from another pocket a canary, which perched on the piano, sang an aria from the opera to the parrot's accompaniment.

Almost speechless by now, the producer managed to bring out an offer of "2,000 a week for that."

"Er-er", said the man, nervously, "before you decide, I must tell you this act's a bit of a cheat. You see, the canary can't sing. The parrot's a ventriloquist."

"The New World Translation of the Christian Greek Scriptures" is widely acknowledged as a splendid translation of the Greek Scriptures in modern English. It is accurate in expressing forcefully and clearly the thought of the original language. Delightfully refreshing to read, this translation helps one to appreciate the wise counsel and instruction of the Lord Jesus Christ and of the apostles. "The New World Translation" also contains a valuable appendix, providing much additional information on texts often the subject of dispute. A good chain reference enables the student to follow through from book to book on a given subject, word or name. Several maps and diagrams, plus marginal cross-reference notes, further enhance the translation. Measuring approximately 5" x 7¼ x 1", the volume is bound in green leatherette. The cost is $1.50, sent postpaid. — Write The Watch Tower, 40 Irwin Ave., Toronto.

Curling Season Well Started

With the artificial ice now in fine shape for immediate play, the Lachute Curling Club is looking forward to an active season of sport. The 4th Annual Invitation Bonspiel starts this week-end, and will be largely attended by local and out-of-town enthusiasts.

The ladies are again serving meals and local members are invited to patronize them, along with the numerous visitors who will attend.

The semi-annual meeting was held Wednesday evening, with a good attendance and the president, Leonard Bedard, occupying the chair. In tribute to three members who have passed on — Messrs. E. Kilgour Wilson, Stuart Wilson and Stuart Campbell — the gathering stood for a moment in reverent silence.

Various committees were appointed for the coming season, and from present appearances this local sport should be brimful of interest.

Second Robbery at St. Andrews Post-Office

Special to The Watchman and L'Argenteuil

A second break-in and robbery within six months occurred last week at the St. Andrews East post-office, where the robbers again removed a strong-box containing cash, to an unspecified amount.

The intruders made their entrance during the night by the rear door, having first broken the light, to work under cover of darkness. They removed the strong-box and pried it open with a bar, then making away with the contents.

The post office building is unoccupied in non-business hours, and the robbery was not discovered till next morning when the pastmaster, Ovila Giroux, opened the premises.

HUBBY BIG HELP TO WORKING WIFE

Montreal (CP) — A survey conducted by a Montreal newspaper among working wives concludes that today's husband is losing his grip on his castle.

While modern wives are steadily emancipating themselves from household drudgery, it states, the lord of the manor is being steadily embroiled further into it.

Almost all wives questioned stated their husband did "some housework" and over half felt that household chores were now shared on an approximately 50-50 basis.

In a few cases where the knight still had complete hold on his castle and refused household duties, his lady was resentful, but one Montreal wife has so thoroughly trained her spouse that he now does the cooking while she condescends to do the dishes.

A fascinating book with the above title is now available from Canadian Scout Headquarters. Each of the 53 quarto pages contains five or six sketches of incidents in the life of Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell, Founder of the Boy Scout Movement which now has a world membership of over five million. These drawings are most vivid and the artist has been particularly successful in capturing B.P.'s likeness and expression.

Two Encounters in Inter-School Basketball

LACHUTE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

By Anne Dwyer

The first game in this year's basketball season was played Saturday afternoon in the gymnasium of the Lake of Two Mountains High School, St. Eustache.

The girls' game, refereed by Mr. B. Bailly, was won by the Lachute High girls with a very decisive score of 34 to 7. Frances Laurin was the girl in the limelight for Lachute, with 8 baskets to her credit. Marilyn Mitchell shot 5 baskets. Dorothy Underhill (3) and Beverly Johnston (1) also tallied for Lachute. St. Eustache did not score any points until a minute before the first half was called, when Joyce Howard shot in a basket. She later repeated the performance. The remainder of the points were made in foul shots, Cynthia Smith (3) and Anita Boiven (1).

The boys' game, which got under way on conclusion of the girls' match, was by far the more exciting of the two. This was refereed by Mr. R. Burton. The final score was 35-34 for St. Eustache. All Lachute needed was one basket and they wonld have won by a point. The score was see-sawing all through the game. However, at the end of the first half Lachute was winning by a count of 16-13. In the third quarter, the St. Eustache boys were more lively; they started scoring point after point, gradually creeping up on Lachute, and finally winning.

The high scorer for Lachute was Bill Cribb, with 8 points. The remaining points for Lachute were by B. Golphin (5), S. Alexander (5), Trenton Boyd (5), Bob Duncan (4), Bruce Mason (4) and Bill Steeves (2). Four boys, R. Chapman (7), J. Galbraith (4 and a foul), Wills (1 and a foul) and R. Gleason (4 and 1 foul shot), scored for St. Eustache.

Both teams enjoyed the event, and hope that all other league games played this season will be equally interesting.

Rocket Richard Tops the Record

SPORTS CAMERA

By Gerry Lougheed, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Professional hockey's record book, already crowded with the name of Joseph Henri Maurice Richard, has another new mark chalked up to the Rocket.

Now in his 11th season with Montreal Canadiens, Richard early this month capped a brilliant career by scoring goal No. 325 — the most ever scored by a National Hockey League player.

The old mark, which stood for 11 years, was 324. It was set by Nels (Old Poison) Stewart during his 15 seasons with the Montreal Maroons, Boston Bruins and New York Americans.

It's difficult to compare their accomplishments.

For one thing, the N.H.L. has no record of how many games Stewart played in compiling his mark. Richard's record-breaking goal came in his 540th contest.

The league schedule now is 70 games for each team, compared with 30 in Stewart's era of a decade or so ago. On the face of that, you'd say Richard has had many more opportunities than Old Poison. Not necessarily, as Stewart himself explained recently.

In today's game with its frequent player changes, a forward seldom plays more than 20 minutes out of the hour. In Stewart's time a forward averaged about 30 minutes — and more if the game went overtime, discarded by the N.H.L. since the war years.

Good Line-Mates Help

Richard, over a good part of his professional career, got passes from two fine linemates — left-winger Toe Blake and centre Elmer Lach, both stars in their own right. Blake has since retired but Lach, one of the best pivot men in the game, is still going strong and joined the exclusive 200-goal club on the same night Richard set his record.

Stewart, now 51 and 20 years older than the Rocket, had quite an array of partners in his 15 years with three different clubs.

Nels says the French-Canadian flash would have been terrific in any era.

"He's got the brain. He doesn't back-check much, but then neither did I", Stewart said. "Some players have to wind up, but not the Rocket. He gets started on a dime, is awfully strong and bulls his way in."

Here are the other N.H.L. records credited to the Rocket:

Most goals in one season: 50. (Set in the 1944-45 season during a 50-game schedule.)

Most points in one game: 8. (Set December 29, 1944, with five goals and three assists).

Most goals in a playoff series: 8. (Set in nine games in 1943-44 playoffs).

Most goals scored in a playoff game: 5. (He scored all his team's goals as Canadiens defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 5-1, March 23, 1944).

Most points in playoff competition: 65.

Most goals in playoff competition: 43.

Grenville Consolidated School News

Miss B. Stuart, helping teacher of the Central School Unit, is at present on a visit to this school.

The boards for the rink are again set up. All that is needed now is some snow and cold weather.

Films were shown recently to the pupils by the National Film Board, operated by Mr. Roy Stringer of Hawkesbury. One of these was a Bell Telephone picture.

On Saturday, November 15, the basketball team played against Hudson. Although our team were defeated, a pleasant time was reported by all who took part.

Teacher: "Johnny, what the the three great American parties?"

Johnny: "Democratic, Republican and cocktail."

"And now, gentlemen", continued the councillor, "I wish to tax your memory."

Behind the Scenes With R.C.M.P. Musical Ride

As policemen they possibly shouldn't have stolen it. But they did. The Mounties stole the show Saturday night at the Royal Winter Fair.

Thirty-two red-coated men astride 32 glinting black horses performing complicated manoeuvres brought repeated ovations from nearly 9,000 people jammed into the Coliseum for the second night of the big fair, which concludes on November 22.

Horses and riders had all the precision of a drill press, the rhythm of a Strauss waltz and the color of an autumn landscape. But they had one other priceless thing which sent a thrill through the crowd. They were the only ones in the world — and they were Canadian.

To the average onlooker so used to having to look at imported talent it was a boast to national ego. A maple leaf, a beaver, a wheat sheaf — all with admirable qualities and significance — fall far short of stirring national pride like the Mounties can. The crowd seemed to sense this, and glory in it, as the swaying riders wheeled and swung in ballet-like grace to the band's lilting Garry Owen, Bonnie Dundee and British Grenadiers.

Have you ever seen the world-famed Musical Ride? If so, you've probably paid close attention to those faultless steeds stepping so sure-footedly through their paces.

Seeing them at the Royal Winter Faih it's difficult to believe there's not a thoroughbred in the lot. The highest priced stallion or bay cost not a penny more than $250.

Behind the scenes of the Musical Ride it is not so glamorous, but just as prideful a show is going on 24 hours a day. A mountie and his horse are rarely parted — especially these 32 men and mounts.

Up at 6 a.m. every morning, the horse comes first in this show. Only after it has been fed, brushed, clipped, combed, and watered, do the 32 mounties get breakfast.

Then it's back to the stables to do all the grooming, clean the stables, exercise the horses, see the feet are shod, doctor any cuts. Chores go on right through Sunday, because each mountie is responsible for his mount.

When the last performance of the evening is over at the Royal, three mounties post guard in the stables all night. "If the horses sniff, we have to run down to the clinic", said one of the week-end night guards. "A sick horse is more worry to us than a sick man. The horses depend on us, you know".

That kind of attention from its own rider breeds a trust, a sympathy between man and horse that stands both in good stead when they go through the 57 movements of the Musical Ride.

But behind this day-to-day care and attention lies the whole training of man and mount for musical riding. Behind them is a three to six-month course of riding all day, every day, in preparation for the show.

A man picked for the ride — and he is usually already a good rider — is first assigned to his own special horse for the duration. This may be a horse who has had other riders in other years, or a completely untrained mount.

But trained or untrained, practice starts from the bottom for this man with this horse. At the riding school at Fort Walsh, Sask., they start through five hours daily of troop movements, walking sideways, backwards and criss-crossing. Staff Sergeant C. W. Anderson, riding master, is a perfectionist. He demands the best and gets it.

The horses get newspapers thrown in their faces and have guns fired under their bellies, to get used to the noise, paper and crowds. One thing that they do not learn is to keep in step with the music. It's the horses that set the pace, the orchestra, particularly the drums, keep time with them. So exact are the steeds in walking, cantering and trotting, this is a fairly simple job.

When the course is over, the Musical Ride goes on tour — renowned as one of the three best horse troops in the world, the other two being the Spanish Cavalry and the British Lifeguards.

This year's riders will do eight months of constant travelling. Already they have been all through the United States as far south as California. A million people have already seen the Musical Ride this year, the R.C.M.P. estimates, and this does not include the show that they are putting on at the Royal this week.

Cottingham Views Quebec Program

In Radio Talk on Opening of Session

Discusses Proposed Act Requiring Drivers' Tests For Traffic Safety

"The National Union administration of Premier Maurice Duplessis, ever conscious of its responsibilities towards the people of Quebec, has introduced comprehensive measures before the Legislature, destined to assure the safety of pedestrians and motorists", said W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A. for Argenteuil, in a radio address from Station CBM last Monday evening. "While the present government time and time again has admonished the electorate that self-control is the greatest of all forms of control, the continued infractions on the existing law by careless motorists have necessitated enforcement of strict driving tests for all."

Though the proposed legislation be severe, it is corrective rather than punitive, and the tests for driving permits will speedily improve traffic conditions throughout the province, Mr. Cottingham believed. An applicant for a driving permit will undergo a psycho-physical test, including an eye test, examination of ability to judge distances, testing of reflexes with regard to situations calling for split-second action, demonstration of efficiency in night driving, testing of the angle of vision, checking of hearing ability, a steadiness test, and, finally, a practical demonstration of driving competence in the presence of a License Bureau inspector. Furthermore, a detailed questionnaire on provincial traffic and road regulations must be completed.

"Adversaries of the government will say, no doubt, that it would have been better to introduce a system of compulsory insurance", added Mr. Cottingham. "Were the government to impose compulsory insurance, on what would premiums be based? There is no precedent for the plan. . . On the other hand, the new legislation will eliminate incompetent persons from obtaining driving permits, and actuaries will be soon at work calculating appreciable decreases in rates.

"The proposed measure is a step in keeping with similar moves made in other lands, and it is a good step. It is a step in keeping with the constructive and progressive leadership of Premier Duplessis, and a confident proof of his interest in the general welfare of Quebec", said Mr. Cottingham.

Pre-Christmas Plans in This Month's Argenteuil W. Inst. Branch Programs

Lakefield Women's Institute had nine members present to answer the roll-call: "What would you like to be for the rest of your life?" Names were drawn for Christmas gifts, and articles were brought in for an overseas box. A report of the county semi-annual convention was given, and final plans were made for a "military whist".

At Mille Isles the county president, Mrs. Gordon Cooke, attended the regular branch meeting. A Christmas box was sent overseas, and $10 was subscribed to the Morin Heights School towards book prizes and the scholarship fund.

Upper Lachute-East End branch had a very interesting talk by Mr. James W. McGibbon, Mayor of Lachute, who reminded the members of their responsibilties as good citizens towards a fair and honest government, also as taxpayers, to make a study of the financial statement of our schools. Plans were made for the Christmas meeting. A quilt is being made for the Red Cross. Three wedding gifts were presented, and a gift is to be sent to a soldier returning from Korea.

Brownsburg had 41 members and 19 visitors present. "The History of Brownsburg" was reveiwed by Mr. S. Wyman McGibbon. At this meeting the members entertained the teachers, their husbands and wives. It was decided to ask for a course on Glove Making and Needlepoint for the month of February.

This branch cooked and served a turkey supper November 8 for the Legion and Women's Auxiliary members. They will also provide refreshments for the Teachers' Association on November 28 in the Brownsburg School. The branch intends holding a home-cooking sale and afternoon tea on December 6 in the Presbyterian Church hall, to raise money for their general fund.

It was decided to buy an air cushion for an invalid of Brownsburg. The sick were remembered by cards and parcels, and $10 per year was voted towards purchase of books for the library of the school.

Traffic "Cones" Appear In Hawkesbury

Hawkesbury — New traffic signs drawing motorists' attention to school crossing zones made their appearance in the Town of Hawkesbury just recently.

The new signs are shaped like an inverted ice cream cone. About four feet high, they are made of rubber and are easily portable. Six cones were ordered by the Town Council.

They are painted orange and black and are easily seen by drivers of approaching traffic.

OLD HARNESS MAKER SERVES LARGE AREA

Enterprise, Ont. (CP) — A 77-year-old harness maker in this Rideau Lake district village draws customers for his vanishing art from an 80-mile radius.

Charles K. Keech, who began serving the needs of district farmers in his father's shop 67 years ago, is one of the last of the harness makers in Eastern Ontario. As a result, his work is sought from as far away as Brockville, 80 miles to the east.

LACHUTE A-B IS MEASURED FOR FITTING

On board the Canadian destroyer HMCS Nootka, while operating with the UN fleet in the Korean theatre, there was no excuse for torn or ragged working clothes or uniforms. A Chinese tailor was carried aboard and he could make anything from a No. 1 dress uniform to the latest dress style from 'Esquire'. Here he is shown checking the first fitting of a blue uniform for Able Seaman Bruce Ian Hewitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Hewitt, Barron Ave., Lachute. The tailor's prices were reasonable and service fast. His shop was located in the after end of the after canopy. Hours, from 8 p.m. until "pipe down". Terms, cash. The Nootka is now homeward bound, due to arrive in Halifax December 17 after almost a year away from her home port.

Cleric Spends Night Lost in Northern Woods

Special to The Watchman and L'Argenteuil

Laurel, Que.—The Rev. Br. Come of the Ste. Croix order, attached to the Lisbourg College near Laurel, lost his direction while out hunting last Monday, and was obliged to pass the night in the woods. C-I-L Long Service Employees Hold Annual Banquet

Employees and Pensioners Enjoy Pleasant Event

Brownsburg — The annual dinner of the employees' 25-Year Club of the C-I-L Ammunition Division and Canadian Safety Fuse Company was held in the new Legion Memorial Hall in Brownsburg last Saturday. Approximately 100 of the 132 employees and pensioners having 25 years' service or more were present, and, in congratulating them, H. M. Sherwood, Works Manager of the Ammunition plant at Brownsburg, noted that there were 17 employees and pensioners who had more than 40 years' service, including Leonard and Oliver Wilson, who both had more than 50 years' service, and 78 with more than 30 years' service. Other speakers who extended felicitations were L. W. Haslett, Manager of the Explosives and Ammunition Department of C-I-L; J. B. Chalmers, General Manager of the Canadian Safety Fuse Co., Ltd.; S. J. Smart, Ammunition Division Manager; and A. Carpenter, Assistant Works Manager of the C-I-L Explosives factory at Beloeil. The latter's remarks were of particular interest to those present, in that he covered the activities and manner in which the C-I-L 25-Year Club in his locality was operated.

Fred Brunelle, president of the "Club", was in the chair and introduced the speakers. He paid tribute to the ladies of the Legion Auxiliary for the excellent turkey dinner they had provided. After the dinner, entertainment was furnished by local talent, with Fred Hosgood acting as master of ceremonies. The several ballads rendered by Frank Steere, accompanied on the piano by his sister Mrs. Ivy Wheeler, were enjoyed immensely, while those perennial comics, Albert Vary and Harold Robinson with his guitar, evoked considerable mirth with their humorous songs and antics. Other contributors to the program were Omer Danis and Ernest Lavoie, who told several funny stories in both English and French, to the delight of the audience.

Following the entertainment, elections took place for the 1953 officers of the Club — Fred Brunelle and A. J. Quinn being re-elected as president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, and Mrs. M. A. Mailhot, Mrs. Bertha Enlow, Fred Hosgood, Earl Smillie and Tom Izzard as members of the committee.

Top Award at 'Royal' to Local Shorthorn Herd

Toronto — Dual Purpose Shorthorn female grand champion at the Toronto "Royal" was Ridge Wild Monica II, owned by A. D. McGibbon & Sons Ltd., of Lachute Mills, winner of the senior award. The reserve went to the reserve senior winner, Northland Jean 29th, W. B. Parnell & Son, of Drumbo.

"Kilwin Mina's Graceful" (Estate of E. K. Wilson) and "Ridge Wild Kirk" (A. D. McGibbon) came 5th and 6th respectively, in the Junior Bull Calf class of the above breed. The latter exhibitor also took 6th place in Senior Bull Calf and 2nd place 2-Year-Old Dry Heifer and 3rd place Progeny of Dam; while other animals from both these herds ranked high among the winners.

A. D. McGibbon & Sons Ltd. sold their champion cow "Ridge Wild Monica II" for $1,000 in the "Sale of the Stars". Erskine McOuat is reported to have purchased a valuable Ayrshire bull in this sale.

More Triumphs

Further successes not listed last week include the Cornell Challenge Trophy to J. H. Black, Lachute (donated by G. and R. Templeton, of Carnell Farm, Hurlford Scotland) for best Get of Sire in the Ayrshire breed.

Prize-Winning Horses

Gilbert E. Arnold's triumphs in Canadian and Percheron horses — in addition to prizes in the Belgian classes, mentioned last week — are too numerous to list; in Percherons he won the Archie Peden Memorial Trophy for premier breeder. . . These results have just been received from our reporter-on-the-spot, Bob Giles, Jr.

New Executive of C-I-L (Brownsburg) 25-Year Club

Beg Pardon!

The Watchman greets its customers in a somewhat larger form, a bigger page; and some may have difficulty to adapt their reading habits to the change.

Our friends, for instance, who read their familiar Watchman at the supper table Thursday evening, propped against the milk pitcher. We're sorry for the added space it occupies; more especially if, in turning to those well-read Want Ads, the added section slides into the soup! And those happy subscribers who retire to bed and read their Watchman by the boudoir light. It's a little harder to handle — we're sorry about that, too.

And blessings on that fellow smoker, who finds The Watchman just the right size to "roll his own" and catch the trimmings from falling on the rose-toned Axminster. We're sorry 'n all that — but it's in the interests of Progress.

Morin Heights Ch. of Commerce Active in Promotion

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — The regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held Tuesday, November 18, with President A. Basler in the chair. F. Muncey, secretary, and Council members H. Lacken, F. C. Cameron and I. J. Allard were present, together with many of the members.

The president welcomed seven new members to the gathering, and trusted they would find the proceedings of the Chamber agreeable and to their general benefit. He then stated that Mr. F. E. Rogers, a representative of the newspaper Le Droit, of Ottawa, would like to address the gathering regarding a special issue of Le Droit, "Champlain Trail" edition, which it was intended to publish. It was finally decided that, with those who had signified their intention to take space, the Chamber would undertake to have a full page for Morin Heights.

A progress report was made upon the work at the Ski Jump, and was accepted by the meeting.

A committee was formed to make a vigorous protest to the Transport Board regarding the present bus service.

An information and tourist bureau was established at the Black & White Taxi stand, where pamphlets and information could be had at any time by phoning 333 Morin Heights or applying in person.

New direction signs had been placed upon the Highway 11 and at the Village of St. Sauveur. The Welcome signs were practically completed, it was reported.

N.H.A. Revisions for Additional $200-Million in Housing Loans

Among Acts and Legislative Amendments Forecast This Session

"WEEK AT OTTAWA"

By Alan Donnelly, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Nov. 24 (CP) — Parliament launched what may be a pre-election session with a government announcement of a far-reaching legislative program.

The Speech from the Throne, read at Thursday's opening by Governor-General Vincent Massey, contained government forecasts of more than 30 measures.

It also carried what some political observers interpreted as a hint of possible tax reductions in the words: "There are signs of a lessening of the danger of an outbreak of war on a global scale."

Observers were quick to recall that last spring Prime Minister St. Laurent told the Commons there could be no tax cuts until the danger of war decreased. The next budget is due in late March or early April — months before the anticipated election date. Most believe a general election will be called for next October.

The government announced its decision to allow private broadcasters to enter the television field, now occupied solely by the publicly-owned CBC. Licenses will be considered for private television stations in areas other than Montreal, Toronto, Halifax, Ottawa, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

The Throne Speech said international tension continues and parliament will be asked to extend the Emergency Powers Act, whose powers of regulation extend to price controls if the government sees fit.

School Matters Discussed by Morin Hts. Board

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights —

The Morin Heights Protestant School Board held their regular monthly meeting with President Willis Seale in the chair, Commissioners Geo. Watchorn, C. E. Seale, R. N. Goodfellow and the secretary, A. Hamilton, in attendance — together with representatives from the Women's Institute, also the school principal, Mr. M. Blakely, and members of the public.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Included in these was a resolution to the Central School Board as to disposition of the $40,000.00, which the local board wished to use to redeem the longest-term bonds. Reading of the Central Board's minutes later in the evening, indicated that this request was duly approved by the Central Board.

The accounts were presented, approved for payment and forwarded to the Central Board.

Principal Blakely asked that the school auditorium be withheld for use of outside activities during the week of December 15-20, as it was needed for preparation for the school closing and concert; this was granted.

Discussion took place regarding the new bus which was needed to transport children from the R.C.A.F. Station, and the secretary was instructed to write the Central Board to ask when same may be expected.

A report was given of an interview by members of the Local Board with Mr. Leslie Buzzell, chairman of the Protestant Financial Committee, and it was moved that the Central Board be asked to supply two copies of the Wanklyn Report and two copies of the Auditors' 1953 Budget, so that these could be sent to Mr. Buzzell and the Hon. Mr. Desaulniers, Minister of Education, for their information.

Minutes of the meetings of the Central Board held in Lachute in October and November were then read. Included in these was a legal opinion as to the application of Article 373 of the Education Act, which was enlightening to all present, and which information appeared to justify the Local Board in the actions they have taken to date.

Snow-clearing in the school area was discussed and arranged for — this work to be finished before 8.30 a.m.

The secretary was instructed to send all arrears of property taxes to the Municipal Secretary, to be placed on the list for sale for taxes.

Lucite plastic is now being used by doctors at the Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital, Montreal, for making artificial eyes. So sturdy they can be bounced on a concrete floor without damaging them, these eyes also have red nylon threads or "veins" to add to their naturalness.

Brownsburg Children Enjoy Santa Claus Parade On Television Screen

Legion Authorized to Close Memorial Fund at End of Current Year

Brownsburg — The Legion Memorial Hall in Brownsburg was packed to its doors last Saturday morning, when nearly 300 happy youngsters saw the televised program of the Santa Claus parade in Montreal. Following the show each child was given a bag of candy, kindly donated by North River Motors, who had installed the television set in the Legion Hall. As a result of the success of this showing, it is probable that children of the community will, from time to time, be given the opportunity of seeing further special features suited to their entertainment.

To Close Campaign

The Brownsburg Legion has announced that it has received permission from Ottawa to close out its Memorial Fund Campaign at the end of this year. Thus receipts for pledges redeemed after that date cannot be used for income tax purposes. There are still a number of pledges yet to be redeemed, and the honoring of these pledges will help to reduce the large debt outstanding on the Memorial Hall. Payments should be made to A. J. Quinn, treasurer of the campaign.

Prospective Lowering of Fire Insurance Rates; Other Community Sidelights

"In Brownsburg"

Lower Premiums

Brownsburg — In the near future an adjuster from one of the major insurance companies is slated to review the cost of fire insurance in the district, in the light of the increased fire preventive facilities which have been built up over the past five years. One of the most efficient firefighting forces in the possession of any municipality in Canada is on call at any time, and the equipment available is second to none. The record demands that a review of insurance costs be made.

• • •

To the Side

By an ordinance of the Corporation, pedestrians and car drivers are to proceed immediately to the side at the sound of the fire siren, so as not to encumber the speedy assembly of firemen.

• • •

New Management

The management of the Flamingo Hotel changed hands this week, as did the old-established Dominion a few weeks ago. All three hotels are now under new management.

• • •

Hard to Believe

Last week a councillor expressed his disagreement with our note on quantity buying effecting a saving on Council finances. At the time he held in his hands two automobile tires he had just received at the express office in Lachute, from Toronto. Voila!

Home and School

At a recent meeting of the executive of the Home and School Association, it was decided to hold a general meeting December 9 in the school laboratory to hear a talk on Central School Board affairs by two of its members, Mr. Linton Armstrong, secretary, and Mr. Jas. McGibbon, chairman of Lachute board. A drive for membership in the Association is now in progress, and interested parties would do well to contact the membership chairman, Mr. Charles Stephens, and become registered members. The fee is $1 per home. Publicity, social, program and membership committees are now forming.

Community Concert Coming December 11

Second of this season's programs for Community Concert-goers will be on Thursday, December 11, and will feature the American-born Martha Lipton, attractive young mezzo-soprano of the Metropolitan who has sung star roles in no fewer than 28 operas.

Members of the Community Concerts Association will keenly anticipate the pleasure of this performance.

Gatineau LINES

KITES

Wonderful fun, flying kites. Not when they tangle with electric lines though. Then the kite is lost — and possibly in addition, electric service is interrupted to many people.

A kite which is wrapped around a single line and cannot touch another line probably won't do any damage. But if it blows across two or more wires, it would probably cause a short circuit. Service would be completely interrupted for many people.

Impress on children that flying kites near power lines is not a good idea. That is another little way in which you, the customer, can help assure a steady supply of electricity, your Most Valuable Servant.

Wintering Beef Calves For Normal Development

Ottawa, Nov. 18 — In the development of the spring-born calf, the first winter is always a critical period. From birth to weaning, the nursing calf has had an easy life. However, at weaning time in the fall, it is cut off from its natural food, milk, and also from any green herbage which it may have been consuming. The sudden change to coarse feed is complicated further by the fact that it is still in a stage of rapid development.

The results of experiments at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, says P. E. Sylvestre, indicate that a beef calf which has gained from 130 to 160 pounds during the winter, will develop into a well grown feeder steer or heifer. It was also found that a ration of 6 to 8 pounds of legume hay, 10 to 14 pounds of silage, and 1.5 to 2 pounds of a mixture of ⅝ oats, ⅓ bran, was sufficient to produce approximately one pound of gain per head per day for the winter period.

Under this regime, the calves did not get fat, but they showed considerable bloom, and were well grown in the spring. Because of the growth impulse which is still strong at that age, a small amount of grain daily will produce quite economical gains; and, everything else being equal, it is the well grown steer which will reach the market at an early age.

NOT MUCH HELP

The farmers have equipped their farms for only one purpose, that of production, and the least that a government can do is to let them produce. All directives to have them curtail production in one phase of farming or another are only obstructive.

FARM TOPICS

Importation of Scottish Livestock

Ottawa — It is announced by the Health of Animals Division, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, that Scottish cattle which have been in quarantine in Northern Ireland for a period of 60 days may now be imported into Canada direct from Northern Ireland ports. Such cattle are subject to a further 30 days period of detention in a Canadian Quarantine Station, subject to the Regulations made under authority of the Animal Contagious Diseases Act.

Chopped versus Uncut Forages for Silage

Ottawa — Grasses and legumes may be ensiled for silage purposes in either the chopped or uncut form. Such factors as farm equipment, labor for harvesting, tonnage harvested, and the type of silo available, will determine whether the crop will be chopped or unchopped, says W. E. Cordukes of the Field Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Long grass for silage may be handled in the field with the regular farm equipment such as mower with swathing attachment or mower and side-delivery rake, and a green crop loader. The silage sweep rake may also be used effectively for moving the crop short distances. Harvesting the crop by the former method requires considerable labor and becomes costly when large tonnages are involved. The sweep rake method requires only a modest investment in silage equipment and will handle 1½ to 2 tons per hour where the length of haul is less than one-third of a mile. Chopped silage may be obtained from two general methods of harvesting. The crop may be brought to the silo in the uncut form and then put through an ensilage cutter or it may be harvested initially with the forage harvester. Where more than 200 tons of silage are required, the forage harvester method provides the lowest cost per ton for harvesting and the least amount of labor.

Uncut silage crops can only be stored in horizontal or pit silos, while the chopped crops may be ensiled in a number of silo types. Thus, type of silo is an important consideration, as the standard upright silo or the horizontal silo with constructed walls are more efficient storage houses than silage heaps built on the side of a hill or on top of the level ground. In addition, in filling operations, the chopped forages are easier to unload, spread and compact than the uncut crop.

Palatable nutritious silage can be produced from either chopped or unchopped forages. However, experimental results at the Experimental Farms clearly show that silage losses are greater for uncut silages. In addition, uncut silages are more difficult to remove from the silo for feeding than the chopped forages.

Canada has seven time zones.

"Sunnyacres" in Mid-November; Laurentians' Deserted Countryside

"EXILE FROM SUNNYACRES"
By Margaret Cook

As we write, a grey November day is drawing to a close. November is probably the least beloved of months, as witness some of the charges against it: there is no sun; there are too many colds (can it be that Dr. Brady is right and there is a connection between those facts?); there are too many church bazaars, and too few bargains anywhere; the Santa Claus parade is a nuisance; there are too many appeals for charity and not enough money. We submit that some of these grouses are not the fault of November but of society at large. There is something to be said on the other side. In November, we can prepare for December — and that can be fun.

Let me interpolate a reminder to all good housewives, that it is high time that the Christmas cakes and puddings were made.

If there is little sun in November, there is, nevertheless, a delicate color on the countryside. It is neither blue nor mauve, but something in between, as delicate as the faint rose one sees on the porcelain cheek of a very old person. Also, the cloud effects are very beautiful; the shy sun peeps through the scattered cirrus clouds and just etches the edge of a fir tree against the otherwise dark sky. . . "She can build up a case out of nothing", mutters an unconvinced reader; so let us turn to our cod-liver oil and other mundane affairs.

We skipped the Santa Claus parade in favor of a trip to Sunnyacres, and imagine our delight to see the warm glow of red bricks in a new chimney as we drove up the lane! Also, the stove was again in its place and we ate our sandwiches in real comfort, sitting on empty nail kegs around the big, black warm stove; we spilled tea on the new floor, and pried up a board in order to inspect the new cellar, and otherwise conducted ourselves in a manner to bring tears to the eyes of the builder; but he was away hunting and we had a lovely time. The new floor IS soft wood and it, too, has knots in it, so that the old house will not feel that we are scorning its pioneer beginnings. Actually, it is two floors, with paper between to insure that no dampness will penetrate to the living-quarters. There are drain pipes in the cellar, or maybe they are tiles; anyway, there should be no water beneath the floor. And four windows in the concrete promise a circulation of air so that the logs of the walls will be preserved indefinitely. The heatilator is sitting awaiting its installation, and other bits of equipment hint of the wonders-to-be. I thought the old house looked quite comfortable on its new foundation and not at all as if it resented these extensive and impertinent explorations of its vitals. The new chimney especially intrigued a friend who was with us. In order to make the chimney come out at the requisite spot in the roof, the mason had been obliged to lay the bricks in a fearsome and wondrous way. The result is that the upper reaches of the chimney are distinctly cock-eyed, as if, said our friend, they had been laid by Churchill. He also added that the chimney undoubtedly added much to the value of the property as it needed only a few dents and bits of mortar knocked out, to be an authentic antique. (These city fellows must have their fun!) However, we all agreed that the workman had exercised considerable ingenuity; it is much easier to build a new house than to make over an old one.

After our lunch, we cut our Christmas tree, picked ground pine and fox-tail vine, and walked over the hill to the little lake, which looked very deserted. November must be a sad month indeed for the wild folk who live in our woods. They miss our good friend and neighbor, now deceased, who used to put out hay for the deer and do other small deeds of kindness for the inhabitants of his fields and woods. If any reader is interested in the deer's-point of view, let him read "Bambi", by Felix Salten, now required reading in Grade VI of our public schools.

Later in the day we paid calls on two friends, and although they are very different in looks, temperament and outlook, yet they have one thing in common: from a small beginning, they have each built up a thriving business or, perhaps one should say, businesses, for each is concerned with many ventures as well as the main one. We discussed this attribute of success on our way home, and we all agreed that men of that type would certainly be poor Communists. As long as Canada has such people, she need not fear for her future. At one place, too, we were privileged to see portraits of a son of the house in full R.C.M.P. uniform. It is an honorable uniform, well and favorably known throughout the world. In fact, 25 years ago, the only thing Europeans knew about Canada were two groups of initials — C.P.R. and R.C.M.P.!

Our friend, who as well as dabbling in Real Estate, is somewhat of a writer, and therefore very observant of people's reactions and beliefs, told us a pathetic story of some Europeans who were looking for land in Canada. We all have encountered this longing and reverence for land, in the Europeans. So deep is this feeling, says our friend, that people of Latvia, Lithuania and other similar countries where the fortunes of war have handed them back and forth across national borders but never has given them land, are accustomed to make Sunday picnics on the graves of their ancestors, not that they particularly honor their predecessors, but that the family plot in the cemetery is the only bit of land they own or are ever likely to own. To them, Canada is truly the Land of Promise.

And so home to urban living, which at the moment of writing, means for the daughter of the house doing drawings of the life history of a mosquito. This, gentle reader, as Jane Austen would say, is enough to make your blood curdle. Insects seen or drawn magnified, are ferocious creatures; one would hardly dare swat the little pests if one stopped to think of their lineaments. "Oh, well", says Betty, "I drank a cup of water once full of wrigglers!" Probably she did, too. We can remember several little experiments of our own.

We went to see "The Quiet Man" and are quite enthusiastic. We know people who have been three times to see this particular play. For me, it was not THAT good, but it did point up some Irish characteristics that threw light on some of our less lovable traits, such as the fighting-Irish aversion to being imposed upon. We give happily and generously, if we give at all, but let anyone take so much as five cents without the appropriate approach, and we fly into a fine Irish rage and remain sleepless until the nickel is restored to the fold. Now that we feel that this is a national affair, we cease to feel ashamed of it and can keep on emoting with a free conscience. The power of the cinema!

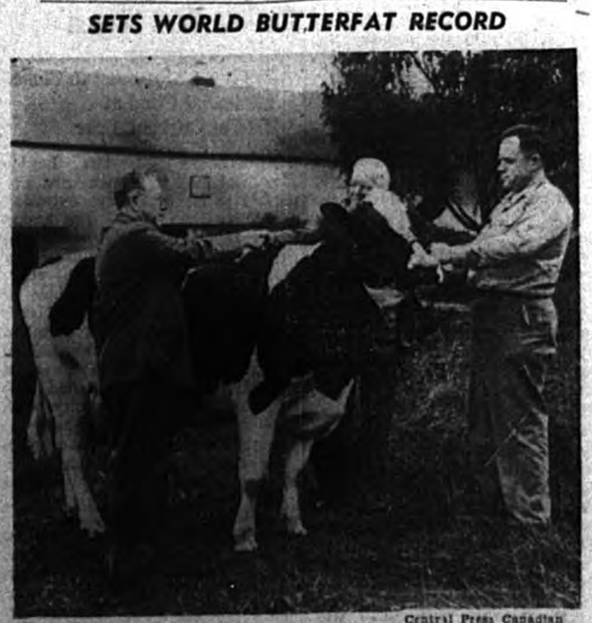

We did not see Katherine Cornell, because of "sitter" trouble, but we have seen Helen Hayes; and perhaps it would be too much to see both these "grandes dames" of the theatre. Anyway, as a recently-returned-from-New-York friend unkindly said, "You really have to go to London for good theater." She also added that Mario Lanza acted like a bull. Come to think of it, there is that same aura of pawing the earth and of flaring nostril. Which reminds me, we know someone who insists that everyone looks like some kind of animal. She used to refer to me as the Bird Woman and she did not mean that I was an ornithologist; she meant I reminded her of a wren. There's a project for the long, wet November evenings!

Central Press Canadian

Placid despite her renown is this Holstein cow, Mooseheart Princess Star, which set a world record for butterfat production. Conducted by the National Holstein-Fresian association of America, the 365-day test at Mooseheart, Ill. dairy farm, showed that she produced 22,844 pounds of milk containing 1,114.6 pounds of butterfat during the year. The old record for the three-year-old class was 1,035.9 pounds. George Eubank (left), supreme secretary of the Loyal Order of Moose, is being congratulated by H. W. Rumbles of Progress

THE WATCHMAN and its contemporary, "L'Argenteuil", appear this week in a new form — an eight-column page with more space to provide our readers with seasonal features and illustrations, and to give better balance between news and advertising.

It looks simple. But we could tell a tale of worry incidental to this change. It has entailed the purchase of a larger, speedier press, which prints and folds in a continuous operation. We could mention the trips and the truckloads, the blueprints and the contracts. The sinking of a pit in our perfectly good cement floor. Tearing down a concrete wall in our brand-new building. And the variety of machines employed by builders and movers, from air-drills to jacks, hoists and what-have-you. Through which, despite noise, dust and subterranean dirt piled on the floor, our business has proceeded as usual.

So here it is — we hope! Barring mishaps in our first experience with this new press, The Watchman and "L'Argenteuil" will reach our subscribers on time and in readable form, thus marking another step in modernization.

Misguided Effort

A MANCHESTER industrialist has found, in old-time nursery rhymes, a sure palliative for occupational ulcers. That much, anyway. . .

Geoffrey Hall, 51-year-old textile manufacturer, has undertaken the re-writing of 500 such ditties in "de-brutalized" form. He maintains that a new world could be made by educating children to the idea of good to counteract evil. "Nursery rhymes contain the first knowledge every child gets of evil. By careful reform, they could be made into a powerful educational medium for good", he declared.

We question whether such world-shaking reform is at all necessary. If we have any knowledge of child temperament at all, it would seem that the horrors of the fairy tales and couplets have about as much effect on a child's intentions as water on a duck's plumage. Such sadistic diversions as decapitating unpopular giants — and even those medieval atrocities whose victims were hung, drawn and quartered, tortured or roasted at the stake — are relished like an adventure story; they leave no impression whatever on the attitude of the average child.

The author may find keen satisfaction in his pastime, but we doubt if his efforts will rank among the moral achievements of this age.

Winter's Good Side

WINTER has its compensations. There's no dust and no hay fever; no mosquitoes and no sunburn. Sure, the snow will pile up and it will get really cold now and then, but what of it? If it wasn't for our good Canadian winters this country could be a lot worse off.

There was a report the other day that northern parts of Norway in early November already had temperatures 17 below zero, with plenty of snow. Some Canadian communities will beat that more than once before Spring rolls around.

But over the broad grain-growing areas of Canada, winter snow is a vital necessity. It helps restore the sub-soil moisture which is needed to grow good crops the following year. It would take an army of statisticians to figure out the dire results of a snowless winter in this country.

In crowded cities a heavy snowfall can be a serious setback to normal activities. But the white blanket over the countryside is not merely pleasing to the eye; it's a sign that the land is regarding its vitality for another growing season.

The ones who really enjoy the winter countryside are the city relatives who come back to the farm [illegible] Maybe there's snow and maybe a cold [illegible] there aren't the dusty [illegible] and the rush [illegible] for [illegible]

Along the same lines [illegible] temporary, The Printed Word, [illegible] omical [illegible] whereby [illegible] of and the national [illegible] of hundred million dollars.

Radical changes are suggested by this student of economics. First he would alter the family allowance system by giving the income taxpayers the choice of receiving the monthly cheque, or not receiving it and being allowed the full exemption for dependent children. He thinks this would, in time, reduce the gross government outlay by $10,000,000, increase administration costs by $3,000,000 and decrease personal income taxes by $10,000,000, a net saving of $27,000,000.

He would change the elaborate, complicated and costly system of unemployment insurance to a straight payroll tax (says The Printed Word). This, it is contended, could cut $10,000,000 from the administration cost and further millions in employers' costs. There would be no deduction from the employee's wages. The employer pays both in any event.

The old-age pension he would [illegible] individual contracts, with the provision that who proved he was providing equivalent protection through an insurance company would be exempt from the payments. In course of time this would relieve the taxpayer of most of the burden and place it where it belongs — on the person to be benefitted. The administration cost might go up but the total cost would be vastly reduced.

All this would make feasible a health scheme that would not bankrupt the nation. A health scheme that put the first $50 or $100 of expense in a given year on an individual or head of a family would reduce the public cost and yet save the unfortunate citizen of average income from a major disaster in family finance. It is an axiom in insurance that you insure yourself against disaster, not against casual and routine expense.

Debate Launched

In the traditional throne speech debate, which opened this week, the leaders of Canada's four main political parties place on record their views on national and international affairs.

The usual motion for adoption of an address in reply to the speech from the throne was moved last Friday by Joseph Deslieres (L-Brome-Missisquoi) and seconded by Norman C. Schneider (L-Waterloo North).

Mr. Deslieres, speaking mostly in French, praised the good understanding that exists between the English and French-speaking people of Canada, and congratulated the government for establishing a bilingual military college at St. Johns, Que.

Mr. Schneider suggested abolition of the annual $2.50 licence fee on radio sets, and urged the government to remove the means test from pensions paid to the blind.

A professor was delivering the last lecture of the term. "The examination papers are now in the hands of the printer. Are there any last minute questions?" he asked of the class.

Silence prevailed, and then a voice piped up, "Who is the printer?"

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

"We and They"

By Lewis Milligan

[illegible] Kipling [illegible] poem entitled "We and They", which in [illegible]

I was reminded of this when reading Arthur Bryant's "Note Book" page in the Illustrated London News, in which he refers to a report by the Acton Society on the attitude of miners in British coal mines towards the management of the industry he serves. The gist of the report is that the overwhelming majority of miners are under the impression that they are carrying on their backs a horde of unproductive officials who are merely an intensified version of the former owners and their agents whom they got rid of at the time of nationalization. Indeed, according to the report, many of the miners believe that nationalization was a cunning device of the "boss class" to put the industry on its feet at the taxpayer's expense before returning it to the owners, re-equipped and re-capitalized, at the first convenient political opportunity.

"In other words", says Mr. Bryant, "the 'they' and 'we' mentality — 'They' being the monopolizers of political power and enjoyers of all social and economic benefits, and 'We' the exploited 'mugs' who sweat for 'They' — appears to be as rife in the mining industry as before the war and has not been cured by nationalism at all." The investigator gives examples of extravagance in the employment of unnecessary officials and their assistants on the management staff. The officials of the Coal Board are said to be referred to by the miners as the 'Glamor Boys' and 'Little Caesars' and other much less polite names.

Having got rid of the private owners and their agents, and having had their places filled from the ranks of labor, the miners have discovered that the new bosses are no better and even worse than the old. Thus by their "class warfare" they have created a new class of bosses in the bureaucrats who manage the nationalized industry. The same thing happened in Soviet Russia, where all industries are nationalized, and where an iron-handed bureaucracy has taken the place of the old aristocracy.

It looks as though mankind were so constituted as to be unable to get rid of class distinctions. Class consciousness begins, as Kipling pointed out, in the family, in its members' attitude to the people next door or in the next street who are referred to as "They". A daughter or son may be accused of marrying "beneath" them. It is all right if they marry "above" them. This mixture of inferiority and superiority complexes is not so pronounced in Canada, but it was very prevalent in the Old Country, especially in the middle classes. Among the working class generally there was little envy or hatred of the upper classes. There was a constant rise and fall by merit and demerit of individuals between the lower and upper strata of society. The rabid Socialist was usually one who had tried and failed to be a capitalist; he was a boss out of a job — if he had not already got one with his union or party.

All attempts to abolish class distinctions forcibly have only tended to accentuate and intensify them. The Marxian doctrine of "class warfare" has spread to races and nations, with the result that the world is divided into conflicting "We's" and "They's". And there will be no peace and good will among men until all classes, races and nations realize and agree that, with all their differences, they are interdependent and one universal WE.

DEPOSITORS BY MAIL ARE No. 1 CUSTOMERS AT B OF M

Many of the Bank of Montreal's first customers each day don't come anywhere near its office, says Donald Hay, manager of the B of M branch in Lachute. These are the men and women who find it more convenient to do their banking through the mails than by calling in person.

"You can get an almost complete range of banking services and protection through the postal service", Mr. Hay explains. "You can deposit funds, pay bills by cheque, arrange for the bank to issue money orders for you or give it instructions about your securities in its safe-keeping. In short, you can do as much of your spending and saving just as conveniently as if you were visiting the bank yourself."

A B of M folder on banking by mail is yours on request. Simply drop a line to the Lachute branch of the B of M. Mr. Hay will gladly answer any specific questions you may have.

Technicians of the world's first coal-hydrogenation plant in West Virginia expect to extract more than 200 chemicals from coal, reports a December Reader's Digest article. Engineers have come up with a process that "knocks the technical spots" off the German method used to produce motor fuels for the Nazis in World War II.

Says Local Schools Tribute to Success Of Central Board

(CORRESPONDENCE)

Calumet, Nov. 26, 1952.

It is with great concern that the ratepayers of Argenteuil and Two Mountains area view the asking of the Central Board to be dissolved. We earnestly hope that, before any such action is contemplated by the Superintendent of Education, all angles of this problem will be investigated thoroughly.

Some local boards have been quibbling and suggesting a breakaway for a number of years. However, a tribute and a memorial to the success of the Central Board may be seen in the schools of today.

The majority of the ratepayers are in complete approval of the Central Board rulings, since it has given to us a better and higher education than we have ever before known. When one thinks back a few years to the little wooden schools, with underpaid schoolteachers working under extreme difficulties, trying to give a knowledge of learning to a number of pupils in six or seven different grades — then compare it to our present-day schools — one realizes how fortunate we are.

The Central Board has had to contend with difficulties that we cannot comprehend, and since this did not agree with some die-hards on the local boards at different times, the average ratepayer feels he is not rightly represented.

The biggest reason for this situation can be blamed on we, the people, who have been too lackadaisical and uninterested to attend the local board meetings and elections, to air problems and debate on them honestly, diligently and with the interest of the majority of the people in mind.

Therefore, Ratepayers, this is a call to arms! We cannot go back to the past. We must go ahead to the future, to better education through well-paid teachers and more interest in school affairs by the ratepayers. Attend your next board meeting and give the Central Board the backing it needs to continue its difficult, thankless, payless job of giving us better education.

At your board meeting, find out about tax income, government grants and expenditures, and see what increase will have to be made in your taxes if we lose the Central School Board. See that your local board gives its support to the Central Board!

MYSTERY BOX IS MYSTERY YET

Montreal — The question of whether old Bonaventure station ever had a cornerstone containing a copper box with possible historical documents therein, will probably remain unanswered forever.

Every brick of the historic, 105-year-old Canadian National Railways terminal has been torn down and cleared away. Demolition workers have reported no sign of the box.

Since the building was constructed in the days when it was customary to lay cornerstones containing documents of some kind, officials of the Canadian National Railways thought Bonaventure would be no exception. It looks like it was.

Aussie City Wars On Argentine Ants

Sydney, Australia (CP) — Federal and State Government and local councils are fighting over whose job it is to exterminate an invasion of Argentine ants which have established themselves in 800 acres of southern Sydney.

There are plenty of ordinary ants in Sydney, but people are fearing the coming of the Argentine ant, or the Iridomyrmex humilis. Though only one eighth or one tenth of an inch long, it resists everything but chlordane and strong DDT barriers. It gets through brick walls by eating or crumbling away the mortar; it gets into screw jars by crawling round the threads and eating the rubber washers.

A bird lover in one suburb lost all his young birds when ants swarmed into the cages and ate them alive. Beekeepers have lost the honey in their hives to the ants.

Argentine ants are still spreading in the southern states of the United States. Research Officers here believe they will be able to control Sydney's infestation but fear that the ants will not delay their spread while people discuss who is going to pay for the campaign against them.

How The Bank of Nova Scotia Helps Canada Grow

Thousands of Canadians from all walks of life call upon The Bank of Nova Scotia to help with their financial affairs, both personal and business . . . They can save money, buy money orders, safeguard their valuables, obtain foreign exchange, transfer funds, buy Travellers' Cheques—through 400 branches at home and abroad.

The Bank of Nova Scotia helps Canada GROW, by making funds available for businesses . . . to Municipalities for public works . . . to farmers and fishermen, lumbermen and prospectors for needed equipment . . . to manufacturers for production of goods.

For 121 years the growth of The Bank of Nova Scotia has reflected its faith in Canada's future. With the publication of the 121st Annual Statement, the Bank presents a report on how it is working to help Canada grow.

BNS invests its money in literally thousands of different enterprises.

Much of it goes to work to help build highways, hospitals, airports, welfare centres and schools; for hydro-electric schemes, scientific research and the development of natural resources.

BNS also helps private industry and commerce to expand—leading to more employment and a higher standard of living for all Canadians.

Then there are the thousands of "little" enterprises that are the backbone of Canada's economy: your neighbourhood stores, the local bus-line, lumber and fishing businesses, farms, bakeries and many others. Loans to all these mean increased production and prosperity.

As Canadians, by investing our own money in our own country, we help Canada continue to grow.

Cottingham Views Quebec Program

Following are further extracts from this address:

A week ago one of the most important annual events in the administrative life of the province took place — when members of the Legislative Assembly, our Lower House, and of the Legislative Council, our Upper House, convened to adopt the Acts needed for the good administration of Quebec.

Bills presented before and Acts passed by the Legislature are of vital interest to the provincial economy and welfare, and to the country as a whole.

It is imperative that we understand the workings of our governmental system, because those responsible for its efficiency are duly elected by us, the people of the province. They are your trustees; it is only fair you should support their efforts to enact legislation which is directly aimed at catering to your requirements and your desires. These men sacrifice a great deal to voice your opinions in legislative matters. . . That they have done a good job, and will continue to do so, is evident from the progress and prosperity which Quebec has known during the past eight years.

From coast to coast come tributes to the tremendous achievements wrought by a government which is enlightened by the will of a progressive population. Financial and industrial interests in the United States vie with each other to invest in this part of our great country. From Europe, too, businessmen and bankers, merchants, engineers, manufacturers, governments and their leaders, see in Quebec and its development a clear-cut answer to the shaky economy of a war-blistered world.

The Premier and his Cabinet spend months in preparing and drafting legislation. Each measure goes through first, second and third reading. Opposition members are given ample time to study and to criticize them.

All elements of the province will be pleased with the extension of rental controls for another year. By the government's continued policy on housing loans, thousands of young home-builders will be encouraged.

One of the sweet "rackets" that prevailed in certain parts of the province will be crushed. The enforced purchase of unneeded furniture by tenants will be curbed, and provisions have been made so that victims of this vicious practice will be re-imbursed.

Premier Duplessis has announced that the province will be worthily represented at the Coronation of our beloved Queen next June.

Development of Quebec along lines set down by previous National Union legislation will be kept up; already, news of vast new discoveries of minerals in the Ungava region brings assurance of further gigantic possibilities for that once-barren district.

Meanwhile, the huge hydro-electric project on the Bersimis River, on the North Shore, at a cost of $100,000,000, will be a godsend for the exploitation of stupendous copper and zinc deposits in the Gaspe. Quebec's progress will never let up for a moment under the present administration.

Annual Police Fund Entertainment Well Attended

The fourth annual concert in support of the Lachute Police Fund, held in the Auditorium last evening, was attended by well over 500 persons, who fully enjoyed the fine and varied program. This was, without doubt, the best program in such events held during the past four years by the local police, and Chief D. Villeneuve is to be congratulated — along with Mr. A. Normand, who was in charge of the Montreal talent.

Acting as master of ceremonies was Mr. C. Beauchamp, who kept the audience in top humor with his fluent wit, and pleased them with his talented dancing. There was singing by Miss Durand, acrobatics by the Eric Brothers, juggling by Ken Shelbourne, 19-year-old boy from the U.S.A., while the Magician Don Grosinier held the crowd completely mystified. The pianist, Mr. Robbins, proved a versatile accompanist to the various acts.

While the Montreal talent was excellent, the performance by local entertainers is also to be commended.

Miss Denise Chamaillard, pianist, accompanied Mr. M. Bedard and his violin in well-received selections.

The "Lepage Kids", Claire and Jerry, showed skill in their tap-dancing and received repeated encores. They are the talented children of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Lepage.

As a highlight to the evening's entertainment H. Y. Maranda, of Montreal, gave an exciting exhibit of revolver-shooting, climaxing the act by firing into a balloon held in the mouth of his assistant.

Generally speaking, this concert was an excellent display of talent, and the sponsors are to be congratulated.

Two Distinguished Visitors To Canadian Capital

Ottawa (CP) —

Ottawa had two distinguished visitors last week — British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Mr. Eden, on a private trip to visit his son, Nicholas, who is aide-de-camp to the governor-general, took time out to speak to the Ottawa Canadian Club. He told a distinguished audience that the United Kingdom hopes to find the answer to her trading difficulties in Canadian markets.

Mr. Eden said he did not accept "for one instant" the view of those who see Britain's role declining in world affairs.

"On the contrary I am convinced that the leadership and experience we have to give can be as decisive in shaping world events as at any time in our long history. The mood of our people is one of confidence and resolution."

Two world wars had drained Britain's resources, but opportunities remained. He declared: "We can rebuild within this commonwealth and empire."

At the end of the week, Mr. Acheson arrived for a friendly three-day farewell to one of his country's most friendly neighbors. The election defeat of the Democrat party means Acheson will lose his job to Republican John Foster Dulles early next year.

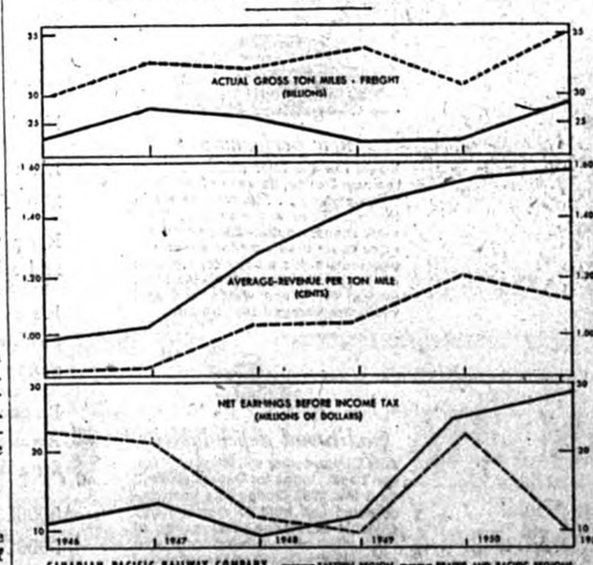

HARBOR PROBLEM

Penticton, B.C. (CP) — Board of Trade here will continue to press for a small-boat harbor. Although it was stated that engineering difficulties had arisen over the location at the present mouth of the Okanagan River, it was felt such a project was essential.

BIG PROJECT

Moose Jaw, Sask. (CP) — Moose Jaw will go ahead with construction of a new hospital wing to cost $1,200,000. City council approved starting the project next spring.

CHARTS REFUTE FREIGHT ARGUMENT

The charts shown above were used as exhibits by the Canadian Pacific Railway at recent hearings before the Board of Transport Commissioners at Ottawa to refute arguments that the burden of freight rates is borne largely by the western provinces. The first chart for gross ton-miles shows that the railway's service in western Canada is substantially greater than that in eastern Canada. The second shows that average revenue per ton-mile is much greater in eastern Canada and that the difference has been increasing since 1943. The third chart shows that the net earnings of the company, before income tax, once higher in western Canada than in eastern Canada, have been lower since mid-1948 despite the fact that two-thirds of the C.P.R. mileage is in the west.

Central School Board Announcement

Notice is hereby given that an error occurred in a typewritten report to The Lachute Watchman of November 13, dealing with the meeting of the Central School Board held November 10. The resolution adopted at that meeting stated that the Board petitioned the Superintendent of Education to instigate proceedings to dissolve the Board, to become effective as of June 30, 1953, and not June 30, 1952, as quoted.

Notice is also given that the next regular meeting of the Board will be held in Lachute High School on December 8, 1952, at 8 p.m. As these are public meetings, all ratepayers are welcome and are cordially invited to attend.

OBITUARY

Late Mrs. Edward Morrison Was Member of Old County Family

After an illness of almost two months, one of the older residents of this community, Mrs. Edward Morrison, passed away at the Hamilton Nursing Home on Friday, November 21.

The former Catherine Rathwell, she was born at Shrewsbury, Que., on August 26, 1868, the daughter of the late Samuel Rathwell and his wife, Margaret McCullough. She was one of the youngest members of a large family, of which only one brother survives. She spent her early life in that community and graduated from Lachute Academy. She took the teachers' course at the McGill Normal School and taught school in several centres, particularly at Victoria School in Montreal, where she was employed for approximately 10 years.

In 1904 she married Edward Morrison, of Shrewsbury, and from that time has spent most of her life in Lachute and Shrewsbury. Her life was one of devotion to her family, and she will be long remembered for the cheer she radiated wherever she went.

Surviving are her husband, a daughter, Kathleen, of Montreal, and son, Edward, of Lachute; also one brother, Samuel John Rathwell, of Fairlight, Saskatchewan. Mrs. Morrison was predeceased by a son, Douglas, in 1927, and a daughter, Grace, in 1938.

The funeral service, conducted by the Rev. C. R. Lang, was held at St. Simeon's Anglican Church, Lachute, on Monday at 2.30 p.m. Pall-bearers were Dr. William Morrison, Messrs. Alfred Morrison and Leonard Rathwell, nephews of the deceased, also Messrs. Melvin Boyd, James Hay and Melvin Wilson.

Many beautiful floral tributes were evidence of the esteem in which the deceased was held by her many friends.

Interment was made in the Lachute Cemetery.

Late Mrs. Daniel Byrne Was Esteemed Resident

Cushing — Residents of Cushing and vicinity are mourning the loss of one of the most respected ladies of this community, in the passing last Sunday of Mrs. Daniel Byrne, at the age of 87.

Her years well spent in the service of her family and home, and in helpfulness to the community and her church — it might well be said of her that she was "given to hospitality" and service to her church. More than once she has been heard to remark that "people who neglect their church could not and should not expect the blessing of health and prosperity, when they forget the Giver of those good gifts".

Mrs. Byrne was formerly Margaret Ellen Johnson, of Grenville, daughter of the late John Johnson and Margaret Morrow, his wife. She has left to mourn her loss her two daughters, Catherine and Mary, and her son, Edward, all at home, also her sister, Mrs. Wm. Loughren, of Stonefield, Mr. John Johnson, of Grenville, and a number of nephews and nieces. Mr. Byrne pre-deceased her 21 years ago.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held in St. Philippe Parish Church, where a requiem high mass was sung by Father Clement and assisting clergy. Burial was made in the St. Philippe Cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. John Johnson, Wm. Loughren, Guy Villeneuve, Wm. Robert, also Fred Barron and Albert Burke of Montreal.

Basketball

Lachute High played host to Buckingham on Friday night, November 21, for the second game of the basketball league. Buckingham had a head start over Lachute, then two of Lachute's star players arrived late and began scoring. The Buckingham players were unable to score again until the last quarter. Lachute won the game 48-23. The points for Lachute were tallied by Bill Cribb (15), Bernard Golphin (13), Bruce Mason (11), Bob Duncan (7) and Trenton Boyd (2). Torry Dunn (8), Phillip Fong (5), Bob Baldwin (4), Bill Johnson (4) and Guy Weir (2), scored for Buckingham.

The Lachute girls lost their game by one point. The match was tied 18-18 when a foul was called on a Lachute girl. Lynda Bryant threw in the winning point for Buckingham. Francis Laurin and Marilyn Mitchell each tallied 9 points for Lachute. Total score for Buckingham was made by Joyce MacEwen (11) and Lynda Bryant (8).

Saturday morning an exhibition game was played between the boys' regular team and the graduate team. It was an overtime game, the Lachute boys finally winning 46-42. Bill Cribb (15), Bernard Golphin (13), Bruce Mason (4), Trenton Boyd (4), Val Pattee (4), Stanley Alexander (2), Wayne Riddell (2), and Bill Steeves (2), tallied Lachute's points. The baskets for the graduate team were made by Bob MacLeod (18), Mac Thomas (17), John Watson (4), Gordon Jamison (2) and Stuart Gordon (1).

Next week the team plays against St. Eustache. The Intermediate teams are to play Morin Heights in the near future. They do not belong to a league; these are only exhibition games.

Toronto Braced for Western Invasion

SPORTS CAMERA

By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It's Grey Cup time again and Toronto is braced for the Western invasion by Edmonton Eskimos and their rootin' tootin' supporters. Once again the football final will dwarf all other Canadian sport spectacles.

In the last four years all four cities in the Western Conference — Calgary, Winnipeg, Regina and now Edmonton — have taken over the Ontario capital with their antics and given former Prairie folks there a poignant breath of home.

Each of the Western cities has tried to outdo its predecessor in putting on a show. Ten-gallon hats, chuckwagons serving hot flapjacks, Western ponies, cowboy outfits and colorful floats have made the Grey Cup show a production worthy of Hollywood.

The Eskimos are coming East for the first time in 20 years and Toronto residents aren't too sure what to expect.

However, the team's promotion committee announced they'll be arriving with 30,000 table place mats — in the form of an exaggerated map of Canada, featuring mainly Edmonton and Alberta — to be handed around before the November 29 game.

And noise makers, supposed to produce an imitation crow's call, will be issued to all Westerners making the trip. They'll be a two-purpose gadget. Three toots will mean an Eskimo fan has found somebody who wants to bet on the Eastern representative. That's supposed to bring a Westerner, presumably loaded with oil riches, to the spot.

Each year it seems there are never enough tickets to Toronto's big Varsity Stadium, but this time some of the fans who don't get there will get the next-best thing via television.

Could Change System

One suggestion that seems worthy of consideration by football bigwigs has been put forward in the East this year.

The Eastern champ is decided in a playooff between the powerful Big Four league and the lesser Ontario Rugby Football Union. For a number of years the O.R.F.U. teams have been weak and fans figured the Eastern final was a foregone conclusion.

Meantime, the Western league has already determined its champion, who has to mark time waiting for the East and possibly loses timing and condition.

It has been suggested — though the football powers haven't even acknowledged the idea — that the O.R.F.U. titleholder make a trip to the West and play off with the Prairie winner.

The big drawback seems to be the off chance that the O.R.F.U. club might win, meaning there'd be no western outfit in the Grey Cup final. No Eastern fan would like getting cheated out of the Western hi-jinx.

"Look at the lovely ring John's given me. It fits beautifully."
"Yes, it's very nice, dear. It was a bit tight on me."

Wildlife Museum In Old Streetcar

The collection — ranging from a large brown bear to a baby rabbit held in the mouth of a fox — is housed in a discarded streetcar.

It is the work of John Hunter, a self-made taxidermist. Mr. Hunter's knowledge of chemistry has enabled him to work out his own formula for preserving his animals. He used no poisons. He says that arsenic, used by many taxidermists, kills the gloss of the fur and eventually the skin.

Mr. Hunter farmed in the Saskatoon district after emigrating to Canada from Scotland. However, he was unable to continue farming for health reasons and found employment as a cemetery caretaker.

He also found work mounting animals for hunters. That was the start of his wildlife museum which has continued to grow over the years.

The overflow from the museum is crowded into Mr. Hunter's small home.

Some of the animals Mr. Hunter has mounted include: a barren land caribou, wolves, badgers, foxes, the head of a buffalo, numerous deer, various birds and a white whale. His biggest job? A 450 pound bear. The smallest? A humming bird.

4-Club Set-Up For Argenteuil Hockey League

— By J. J. Dupré —

Representatives of four district clubs met on Monday to officially organize the Argenteuil Hockey League for this season. The four teams are to be sponsored by Ayers Ltd.; Café Marquise, of Brownsburg; St. Andrews Sports Association; and Lachute Spitfires (Edmond Pagé, Gaetan Legault and J. Champagne, representatives).

The league was limited to these four clubs with a view to minimizing travel expenses — all being situated in close proximity within Lachute, St. Andrews East and Brownsburg.

A 12-game schedule was agreed upon, each team receiving and visiting each of the other three participating teams twice during the season.

Each club is to present the names of referees considered well qualified, from which the league at a future meeting will make their selection.

St. Andrews East representatives expressed their preference for Sunday afternoon games, while Brownsburg preferred Saturday evenings, and the two Lachute teams Tuesdays and Thursdays insofar as the schedule permits.

Officers elected for the Argenteuil Hockey League were — Roger Regimbal (Ayers Ltd.), president; Hector Bourgeois (Café Marquise), vice-pres.; Jean-Jacques Dupré, secretary-treasurer. Representatives will meet again next Monday, at the Sports Shop (Rio Building, Lachute), for appointment of four directors for the member teams and for further discussion of plans.

Keen Interest in Invitation Event At Curling Club

The fourth annual Invitation Bonspiel at Lachute Curling Club — while not having as many entries as last year — is progressing favorably and being keenly contested.

The play comprises 10 ends, the four highest-plus scorers being in the finals. These will take place on Saturday, and should be most interesting. Meals are being served by the ladies, to which all are invited.

The standing as of Wednesday evening is as follows:

W. Smart, Outremont, 15
vs.
A. Wilson, Vankleek Hill, 3
Outremont Plus 12.

E. G. Hunt, Lachine, 15
vs.
Dr. McPhee, Vankleek Hill, 1
Lachine Plus 14

C. Ott, Outremont, 19
vs.
A. Ogilvie, Lachute, 3
Outremont Plus 16

B. Brownridge, Cornwall, 4
vs.
G. Muir, Lachute, 16
Lachute Plus 12

WOLF CUB NEWS

By Howard Jones, Cubmaster, and Fred Atkinson, Asst. Cubmaster

The Wolf Cubs of the 1st Lachute Pack met in the school basement last Thursday evening, instead of Monday as usual.

The meeting opened with the Grand Howl; 32 Cubs were present.

A game which was played the week before, and which captivated the Cubs' enthusiasm, was again enjoyed — the winner being Cub Teddy McKyes. This game calls for knowledge of the Cub Law, Cub Promise, and knots.

A talk on the "Highway Code" was given by Leader Howard Jones to the Scouts and the Cubs, in which the laws for bicyclists and pedestrians were discussed and questions were answered by the speaker.

It has been decided by the Leaders to hold a Christmas Tree in MacArthur's Hall, on Wednesday, December 17, at 7.30 p.m. The program will be put on by the Pack. Everybody is welcome, and a special invitation is given to the parents. (A silver collection will be received.) On this occasion Santa Claus will appear in person.

B of M Statement Reflects Canada's Industrial Stride

Reflecting the swift rate of Canada's industrial growth, the Bank of Montreal's 135th annual statement, just published, features record figures for deposits, loans and total resources. Most notable of these are deposits of $2,147,900,000. — the highest total in the B of M's long history. These deposits comprise the funds of more than 1,900,000 customers from coast to coast.

"Fully half these deposits are made up of the savings of private citizens", was the comment which Donald M. Hay, the local branch manager, made in a message just issued by the B of M, in reviewing for its customers the highlights of its annual statement.

The report, which is for the year ended October 31, shows an increase in loans of $65,811,000. over the 1951 figure. This brings total loans up to the highest record in the bank's history — $712,179,846. These loans, the message from the manager states, were made " . . . . to business and industrial enterprises for production of every kind — to farmers, fishermen, oil men, miners, lumbermen and ranchers — to citizens of every calling, and to provincial and municipal governments and school districts."

Strong Liquid Position

Neary a billion dollars of the bank's assets are in high-grade government bonds and other public securities which have a ready market. In referring to these holdings, the manager's report notes that "this money helps to finance government projects for the betterment of Canada and the welfare of her people." Amounting to $987,000,000, these holdings represent the greater portion of the bank's quickly available assets, which total $1,552,000,000, equivalent to 70 per cent of liabilities to the public.

Total resources have also reached an all-time high, at $2,286,477,930. — an increase of close to $65,000,000. over the 1951 year-end figure and an all-time record for Canada's senior banking institution.

Taxes Exceed Net Earnings

After providing for a tax bill of almost six million dollars — $900,000. more than for 1951 — the bank reports net earnings of $5,668,778 from the operations of its nearly 600 branches. After payments to shareholders there was a balance in profit and loss account of $2,7000,000. and from this the bank made a transfer to reserve fund of two million dollars. This fund now stands at $53,000,000.

JAPANESE VISITOR LIKES STYLE SENSE OF WOMENFOLK

Regina (CP) — A Japanese visitor to Canada noted one thing that brought Canadian women closer to her.

"It is the conservative way in which the Canadian women dress and use make-up", said Mrs. Kosho Ohtani of Kyoto.

She is touring North America with her husband, Lord Abbot Kosho Ohtani, spiritual leader of the 7,500,000-member Buddhist sect, Hompa Hanfiwanji.

"In the United States women wear more extreme clothes, go in for brighter colors and more vivid make-up", Mrs. Ohtani said in her halting English as she outlined in an interview the impressions she has picked up on the tour.

"In Japan, like in Canada, women go easy on these things", she added.

Mrs. Ohtani said that almost the entire Japanese population wears western-style dress. Kimonas and state robes come out only on special occasions and many families don't own anything but Occidental-style dress.

Suits for Travelling

Attired in a conservative brown-corded dressmaker suit with brown velvet lapels and cuffs, Mrs. Ohtani said she usually wears suits while travelling, but she carries in her luggage some of the colorful traditional Japanese kimonas in bright colors.

"I have no part in the services", Mrs.Ohtani said about the religious ceremonies conducted by her husband.

"But sometimes I am asked to speak to the women present about life in Japan", she added. "This I always do in my native tongue. I am travelling with my husband principally to keep him company."

Born and educated in Tokyo, the former Yoshilo Tokudaiji is the daughter of Prince Tukudaiji. In her early 20s she married Ohtani and they live in a "large house" in Kyoto.

They have four children — three girls aged 13, 11 and 3; and a boy of 7.

ROYAL CLOSEUP

Central Press Canadian

This closeup study of Queen Elizabeth, II, was made as she rode in the Irish state coach after having delivered her first speech from the throne, the first queen to do so since 1880, traditionally opening a new session of parliament, in the House of Lords in London. Faltering only once—as she expressed her gratitude for sympathy shown her after her father's death—Elizabeth read from her throne with easy assurance the speech written for her by the Churchill government outlining its legislative program, and pledged the same devotion to duty as was shown by her late father.

FASHION HINT

We're not hearing quite so much about navy this season, but just the same, despite all the emphasis on black and gray and the blonde tones, it's a color that is having itself quite a whirl. For some of the prettiest bright-lights numbers are of navy silk, as is this pretty afternoon frock. The fabric is silk taffeta and it has a scooped neck-line nicely pointed up with a pair of sparkling clips. The sleeves are pushed up to the elbow and the skirt flares out gracefully from a tucked hip line.

Young Woman Buyer Knows Ins and Outs Of Fish Trade

Pointe au Baril, Ont, (CP) — Fish are Mrs. Dorothy Whateley's business. In fact she says she inherited the love of the finny family from 'way back. Her grandfather was a fisherman and her father still is and her husband is in the fish-freighting business.

So Mrs. Whateley was just doing what came naturally when she became one of Ontario's two woman fish buyers.

Her job is dealing with the many commercial fishermen along the 300-mile Georgian Bay coastline from Tobermory to Key Harbor. She buys from them the 10 to 12 tons of whitefish and trout that she ships weekly to fish markets in New York, Buffalo and Detroit.

Dorothy, who is 25 and makes her home in this Georgian Bay town, confesses that her interest in fish got her expelled from school six times.

A Wild Dash

"Whenever Dad had a big catch he would blow the whistle on the boat as he came in", she said. "And no matter what time it was I would jump up and dash out of the classroom. I just had to see the fish."

Many a fisherman has met his match in Dorothy Whateley, whose knowledge of fish makes her a hard person to put anything over on.

Her entry into the business has changed somewhat the habits of local fishermen. Formerly they laboriously cleaned their tons of fish, but Dorothy's clients like to buy fish uncleaned. Now they are shipped that way.

Frequently price changes make it necessary for her to remain in constant touch by phone with the markets. Early this fall fish reached a record high of 82 cents. Not long after it was down to 28 cents. Religious holidays, she says, cause most of the ups and downs in prices.

Your Electric Refrigerator

The glistening white refrigerator which has become such standard equipment in modern kitchens is an achievement of the last 25 years. It was in the mid-twenties, when skirts barely covered the knees and waistlines had reached an all-time low, that mechanical refrigerators were first produced in volume. Like milady's fashions, the refrigerator has improved a great deal since then.

The first refrigerators were unwieldy and expensive but competition was keen and improvements were quickly developed. Perhaps more fields of research are represented in the refrigerator than in any other modern convenience except the automobile. Large and small industries worked together to produce attractive, durable units that were mechanically sound and less costly.

The finish alone required extensive research and development. Many of the earlier models had a porcelain finish. Later, a fast-drying finish known as "Duco", which had been developed for automobiles, was tried out on the kitchen appliance. Although it had high chip resistance it was not entirely satisfactory in resisting grease stains.

More research produced "Dulux", a new-type synthetic finish which was a definite improvement. Still more work was needed to make it stain-proof and scratch-resistant, and the three coats which were required slowed down production and upped costs. The chemists kept on trying.

Continued research finally resulted in the improved "Dulux" high bake finish which you see on today's refrigerators. It is stain, scratch and chip resistant and protects the steel from oxidation and corrosion. The fact that it can be applied rapidly has also helped reduce the cost of the finished product.

Research has been responsible, too, for radical changes in the design of refrigerators. Industry has been able to keep one step ahead of householders' requirements by providing refrigerators and refrigerants which will allow for storage of perishable goods at exactly the right temperature and will defrost automatically in order to maintain the best efficiency and operating conditions.

Chemistry and the chemical industry has played its part in the development of new and better refrigerants, such as "Freon" which is used in most domestic installations today. "Freon" is an odorless, non-toxic, non-inflammable chemical constantly changing from a liquid to a gas and back again to a liquid as it goes about its business of cooling, or more properly, of absorbing heat within the coils of the freezing compartment.

And the research continues in all fields to improve the quality and reduce the costs in all the things we refer to as "modern conveniences". Typical of many developments, the refrigerator represents the combined efforts of many chemists, engineers and industries.

An old blouse can be given a new and flattering lease on life with the addition of a circle of buttons that will hug the throat, or maybe a row along each shoulder line. The collar too may be pepped up with button trimming salvaged from the sewing basket.

Prune Nut Squares

Mix and sift together first four ingredients. Make a well and add in order salad oil, eggs, milk, vanilla and lemon rind. Beat until smooth. Add prunes and nuts; mix well. Turn into a greased shallow baking pan (12 x 9 x 2 inches). Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 35 to 40 minutes. Cut into squares while warm. Dust with confectioners' sugar. (Cookies may be baked in two greased 8 x 8 x 2-inch pans 25 to 30 minutes.)

There are many different kinds of cookies to choose from — rolled and drop cookies, and easy refrigerator cookies of different flavors. For a special treat, include this unusual cooky.

Almond Cakes

2½ Cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 egg yolk, ¾ cup sugar, ⅔ cup salad oil, 1 tablespoon orange juice, 2 teaspoons almond extract, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 egg white.

Mix and sift together first three ingredients. Beat egg yolk in large bowl. Add sugar gradually, and beat until mixture is well blended. Add salad oil alternately with orange juice, beating constantly until mixture is smooth. Add one-half of the sifted dry ingredients to mixture, beating until smooth. Beat egg white until stiff but not dry. Fold into first mixture. Then fold in remaining dry ingredients, kneading lightly with fingers to make a smooth dough. Form 1-inch balls and place on greased cooky sheet. Flatten with fingers or fork.

Combine beaten egg and water, and brush each cooky lightly. Place almond in centre of each. Bake in moderate oven (350°F) about 12 minutes. Makes about 3 dozen very rich cookies.

THE CHRISTMAS MONTH

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"When will December be here?" is a question often asked by a small son or daughter. They can hardly wait for the "Christmas month" to arrive! It is a great moment when November can be pulled off the calendar on the kitchen wall. Even a baby seems to enter into the happy anticipation which the first of December brings!

You want your children to know that the true meaning of Christmas is that it is the baby Jesus' birthday. But on Christmas Eve all over the world little children are hoping that Santa, who represents the Spirit of Giving, at this happy time, will visit their homes. If mothers and fathers tell their children they must leave money out on the mantel-piece for Santa along with his Christmas cake and glass of milk, it is a help in explaining the necessary limitation of gifts. Santa does the best he can with the amount the parents can afford to give him!

The immortal poem "The Night Before Christmas" continues to be very popular even if Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer has had such a large sale too! Santa Claus is best told to children in this poem which suggests that he is a "jolly old elf". What parent can produce a better answer than that when questioned "Is Santa real?" Santa is as "real" as an elf or a fairy or any of the other imaginative creatures which people a little child's world. "Is Santa fair?" is another difficult question asked by the boy or girl who cannot help but notice the difference in quantity and quality of the gifts left by Santa for the only child of wealthy parents and those left for the younger child or poor people with a large family.

Every home should have a favorite carol book. The piano rack should be cleared for Christmas music and the book of carols placed there. An excellent time for the family to gather around the piano to sing carols is after an early supper on Friday night, when the school week is over. Let the children take turns choosing their favorite songs. The music which you produce may not be remarkable, but you will have a grand time singing the youngest child's choice of "Away in a Manger", or an older child's selection "Jesus Our Brother, Kind and Good". Take time to learn the lovely "Gentle Mary Laid Her Child", by Joseph Simpson Cook, a Canadian. Don't forget the lovely French Canadian carols such as "Whence, O Shepherd Maiden".

Do invest in at least one good illustrated Christmas Book with the story of the baby Jesus in the Manager, Mary Joseph, the Wise Men and the Shepherds. The prose poetry of the story of the First Christmas quoted from the Bible is unsurpassed by modern writers. But children love their own book with colored pictures. Ask the clerk at a book store or the children's librarian at the Public Library to show you their choice of books about the First Christmas.

The first of December! There are four whole weeks . . or very nearly, in which to get ready for the Day of Days! May no worry over gifts, no hectic shopping or elaborate preparations for company spoil the family atmosphere on this last month of the old year! There may be rush and hurry, drifts and cold outside, but warmth and happy times are found indoors in countless homes. This season which marks the birthday of a child is the Children's Month. With singing carols and reading aloud, not to mention making decorations and buying gifts, how quickly the days pass There is no doubt at all in the minds of our youngsters that the last weeks in the year are the best of all — and parents are inclined to agree with them!

SEVEN YEARS' WORK PUTS WATER SCHEME AT HALF-WAY MARK

Huge Development to Irrigate Thousands of Acres in Alberta

Lethbridge, Alta. (CP) — Canada's largest irrigation project made spectacular progress this year and now, after seven years of work, development is well past the halfway mark.

More than 1,000 men working on the St. Mary-Milk Rivers Development enjoyed an almost-ideal construction season and were able to make up for time lost in the poor construction season of 1951.

Sweeping across almost the full width of Southern Alberta, the development extends from the proposed Waterton River reservoir, north of Waterton Lakes National Park in the province's southwest area to Medicine Hat.

From now on substantial acreages of fertile land will be placed "under the ditch" annually as progress is made on the project which is designed to irrigate 510,000 acres at a cost now estimated at more than $40,000,000. The area lies south, southeast and east of Lethbridge.

The project's main canal has been virtually completed for 187 miles — from the huge St. Mary River dam, 26 miles southwest of Lethbridge, to the Rattlesnake reservoir site near Medicine Hat.

Well-Planned Systems

This year water distribution systems were constructed to serve 45,000 acres next year. Only construction of water-distribution networks from the main canal is needed to irrigate another 100,000 acres and thus increase the irrigated acreage in the whole project to about 275,000 acres.

With only a little more work on the water-distribution systems, the project will be able to irrigate 176,000 acres next summer.

Much of the land is in regions where large-scale wheat farming and short-grass ranching has limited the population to an average of three persons a square mile.

Generally, the land is at least as fertile as that around Taber, where irrigation has brought specialized crops and population growth to between 50 and 60 persons a square mile.

Expectations are that similar progress is in store for those areas which now are starting to come "under the ditch" after a long history of light yields and often outright crop failures because of scanty rainfall during the growing season.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you: —

Q. After death, can someone draw our benefits if we have always paid contributions without drawing benefit?

A. No. Regardless of whether a deceased person drew benefit or not, his right to benefit ends with his death.

Q. Why cannot I draw unemployment insurance now that I am retired and, because of my age and physical condition, cannot work any longer? I have paid into this scheme since it started, and have never drawn any money from it.

A. The Unemployment Insurance Act insures you against loss of work if you are able to work and available for work but for industrial or economic reasons cannot obtain work. It does no provide against inability to work because of sickness or old age; just as carrying insurance against fire does not enable you to collect if your house is destroyed by an earthquake.

Q. I was married on December 26, 1950. I quit my job to get married. Two months after my wedding I became ill and went to the hospital. As I have been unemployed for almost two years on account of sickness, can I ask for an extension of the two-year period in order to qualify for insurance benefit?

A. The two-year period may be extended by the length of time you were sick, but not so as to extend beyond four years in all. However, during the two years after the date of her marriage a married woman must satisfy certain special conditions in order to qualify for benefit. Unless you can do this you will not be able to qualify until December 26, 1952.

Sequel to Bank Robbery At St. Jerome -- Five Years For Possession of Bonds

St. Jerome — Romeo Bernier, alias R. P. Prevost, of Montreal, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary last week after he pleaded guilty to charges of receiving some of the bonds that were stolen from St. Jerome branch of the Provincial Bank of Canada a year ago.

Judge Eugene Lafontaine handed down the sentence at St. Jerome in the presence of various persons connected with the case. Bernier, who has been paralyzed for months, was arraigned and finally sentenced while on the stretcher on which he was brought from Montreal.

He is the first to be convicted and sentenced among 13 persons charged with receiving part of the stolen bonds.

Judge Lafontaine, in his judgment, noted that Bernier had a criminal record, in fact a very long record. He had served a five-year sentence and was now serving a 23-month sentence at the Montreal Jail.

The judge pointed out that Bernier managed to sell about $25,000 worth of the bonds which disappeared at the time of the burglary in November, 1951.

"You can count yourself very lucky", Judge Lafontaine told Bernier, "that Lucien Thinel, Q.C., Crown Prosecutor, did not have you charged with being a habitual criminal. You are a real enemy of society."

Judge Lafontaine also criticized Bernier for his conduct of the past 20 years. "Every time you served time in jail, you showed no regret. You immediately resumed your criminal career as soon as you were freed", he said.

Factors in High Cost Of Auto Insurance

Montreal — The claims payments and operating expenses of more than 200 companies providing automobile insurance in Canada have been collected by a central statistical agency and insurance officials are examining the "sad record" of Canada's most accident-ridden year in history, insurance spokesmen revealed today.

No decision has yet been possible as to when announcements about new insurance rates will be made in various parts of Canada. When announced, the rates will be based on 1951-52 claims' experience. Private passenger cars, as usual, will be broken down into three classifications for insurance purposes — pleasure cars; pleasure cars sometimes driven by under-25 drivers, a group noted for its high accident record; and cars used in business.

Insurance officials said that, once again, rates would be set on a district rather than a national basis, with Canada divided into almost 100 "statistical areas".

"This will give drivers the benefit of a fair rate that is directly related to local accident frequency and local repair costs", they said. "The cost of insurance in each area will be based entirely on the record of that area. Insurance rates in large centres, for instance, are almost always many times the rates in rural areas."

Explaining the insurance rate situation, W. C. Butler, president of the All Canada Insurance Federation, which represents more than 200 fire, automobile and casualty insurance companies, said the business was being faced with constantly increasing costs.

"The rising number of accidents, increased repair costs and more generous court judgments in recognition of costlier medical care are reflecting on automobile insurance costs", Mr. Butler said.

"Despite increases in these factors of more than 150 per cent, automobile insurance for the average pleasure car has risen only about 80 per cent since 1939 in most parts of Canada", he said.

"However, in proportion, automobile insurance actually costs 40 per cent less today than it did 15 years ago."

"For example, before the war, one popular make of car cost $835 and the average insurance rate was $5.16 per $100 insurance. Today, the same make of car costs $2,400 and the average rate is only $3.10 per $100 insurance — and this is despite increased costs", Mr. Butler said.

Automobile insurance costs have been kept down primarily because the companies have slashed operating expenses and have been willing to take losses until the situation is relieved, he explained. It is estimated that the companies lost about $8,000,000 on automobile insurance last year.

Calling on the motoring public for more careful driving, Mr. Butler said that when accidents decrease, automobile insurance costs can also decline.

"While drivers cannot control the cost of repairs and medical care, they can reduce the number of accidents, and thus the cost of automobile insurance", he said.

"However, there is far more than money involved — 30,000 people have been killed and half-million more have been injured by automobile accidents during the past 20 years."

TAXES ARE NECESSARY

Are we being quite fair in blaming the government for the position in which we find ourselves with regard to taxation? We would howl our heads off if the Russians sent over invading forces and we did not have the equipment with which to meet it. Until fear that Russia may attack is dispelled with certainty, there does not seem much that any government can do but remain on the alert and ready.

Key Man in Averagetown, Canada

If you live in an average Canadian community, you can easily see that it's changing.

Everywhere you look, new construction tells a story of progress. Here, perhaps, is a handsome new store. There, a new bridge, office building, power plant, highway, housing project — or some other vital development that makes life better for all.

But do you know that many of these developments are made possible by a certain Key Man? And can you guess who he is?

Because a large part of his premium dollars is invested for him in sound securities which help finance many such projects. Each year, more than 225 million life insurance dollars are put to work in these useful ways from coast to coast!

The life insurance policyholder is a helpful citizen in another way. For the money he puts aside for the future helps safeguard his family from ever becoming a financial burden to others.
