Social Highlight of Students' Year H.S. Graduation Exercises and Dance

The L.H.S. graduation exercises and dance, last Friday night in the school auditorium, were attended by a large number of parents, friends and the general public — who, in the glamor of this function, captivated something of the thrill which it imparts to youthful spirits as the social highlight of their school career.

There was something new this year in the motif of decorations, which featured the Coronation theme quite elaborately. This was an excellent piece of work, which made the hall a colorful scene for the annual event.

In other details, the traditional procedures were carried out. James Murdoch, of the graduating class, made a very capable master of ceremonies, announcing the items and stars on the program — James W. McGibbon, School Board chairman, and Fred Royal, principal, as speakers; Helen McMahon as class historian, introducing her classmates individually to the audience; Ruth Hammond and George Taylor as executors of Grade XI's "last will and testament"; Jean Muir and Stanley Alexander as the class prophets; and Heather Graham as valedictorian. Great credit was accorded to Margaret Doig as chairman of the Grad Dance Committee, and to her workers.

School Board Chairman James W. McGibbon had some interesting observations on the experience and outlook of the graduating pupils, who had started their school days in 1942 and had witnessed, since then, "a period of such advancement and prosperity as Canada had never seen before." In such environment they may have developed a tendency to take prosperity and security for granted. "Those of us who saw the depression of 1929 know, however, that with unemployment in such proportions, there could not be enough workers left on the job to ensure security. . . . There is a temptation these days to believe that hard work is obsolete; and it is time, perhaps, to sound a note of warning to our graduating pupils. They, too, will experience their ups and downs, but they have been well fortified with an education to meet their problems. . . To the graduating class, I say, whatever the future holds for you, do not expect security from others. Get it for yourself!" Mr. McGibbon concluded his remarks with sincere wishes for a happy and prosperous future.

Principal Fred Royal emphasized to the graduates that they had one great privilege to be thankful for — the privilege of living in a land of free enterprise. They were free to choose their friends and associates, free to choose their occupation; he trusted that their school education had adequately prepared them to exercise sound judgment. Mr. Royal also wished the graduates success in all their future endeavors.

Heather Graham, chosen as valedictorian for her outstanding qualities as a student, concluded on a note of gratitude to the teachers for their untiring assistance, and to the parents for their faithful understanding. "It was the best of times", she said, quoting from Dickens, "And whatever life may hold for us in future, the knowledge, the skills, the ideals we have learned here will guide us in our hour of need."

The Westernaires dance orchestra struck the note for a pleasant session, in which the graduates, their partners and escorts, led off with the Grand March, and the public then mingled with the white-gowned girls, and the graduating beaus in best bib-and-tucker, to make a colorful scene in the ensuing dances.

Refreshments were served later in the school cafeteria.

Week-End Crop Of Drinking and Dangerous Drivers

Police Chief Promises Vigorous Action Against Traffic Law Offenders

"Drunk while in charge of a car" was the charge on which a district driver was arrested in the Main Street shopping section Saturday afternoon. Fortunately he was not actually operating the car at the time. He was exhorted to keep peace and order, on deposit of $20 as guarantee of good behavior.

A local citizen of mature years was arrested Saturday afternoon on Barron's Bridge, where he was allegedly driving "under the influence".

Two others from the Lachute district were taken in charge at one o'clock Sunday morning, also on Main Street, where they collided with a station wagon in the centre parking lane opposite the Esquire Shop. Town police officers were soon on the scene from their headquarters nearby, and the offenders were taken to the town office in the patrol wagon. The rear of the station wagon was considerably damaged. The car driver later made good the costs.

A few minutes later, and a few yards distant, the police were summoned to remove an uninvited occupant from a citizen's car. The owner and a passenger, about to enter the car, found the intruder fast asleep and in no condition to vacate. At police headquarters the officers found the miscreant was actually more tired than inebriated, and he was released with a reprimand.

"Altogether quite a busy week-end", remarked Chief D. Villeneuve to The Watchman reporter — who was asked, incidentally, to give due warning that the local force is in earnest to curb speeding, drunken and reckless driving, and all infractions of the local traffic by-law.

Across the Country

By Jim Greenblat

An albino robin, white with pink breast, has been sighted at Powell River, B.C., according to the News.

The next thing we know we'll be celebrating Good Friday with firecrackers and general festivities, says the Grimshaw (Alta.) Voyageur. "Impossible? Not at all. Christmas has been commercialized to the point where it is difficult to determine whether it marks the birth of Jesus or of Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer".

Fisherman de luxe is Gary Andrews, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Andrews of St. Stephen, N.B., who took up an alder pole and safety pin at 7 a.m. to search for the elusive brook trout; luckily, says the St. Croix Courier, RCMP located him, and warned him of the penalties involved in fishing out of season.

Trenton (Ont.) Courier bewails the fact that the fire department loses precious minutes on calls because of "the confused manner in which streets are named and numbered." . . Stettler (Alta.) Independent claims that liquor is a commodity that has been misused by hogs masquerading as men."

Critics who feel that there is no Christianity in business may have their fondest theories shattered by the announcement that four White Rock (B.C.) building supply firms have decided to vacate the Venetian blind field in order that a paraplegic veteran may continue to rehabilitate himself.

Premier Pays Tribute To Late Bona Dussault

By Bernard Dufresne

Quebec, May 4 (CP) — Bona Dussault, a retired St. Lawrence river pilot who entered provincial politics late in life and rose to the rank of municipal affairs minister, died last Wednesday. He was 70.

The senior member of Premier Duplessis' cabinet died suddenly of a heart attack in his home at St. Marc des Carrieres.

Mr. Dussault was elected for Portneuf constituency for the first time in 1935. He became one of the early supporters of the Union Nationale party when it was formed in 1936. He was re-elected in 1936 when the Union Nationale won the general election, and became agriculture minister.

Defeated in 1939, he was elected in 1944 when the Union Nationale regained control of the provincial administration. He was re-elected in 1948 and 1952 elections.

A mild-mannered man, Mr. Dussault did not mix in bitter debates in the legislative assembly. He had not given any indication he was unwell. He rarely missed a meeting of the provincial cabinet.

Paying tribute to Mr. Dussault, Premier Duplessis at his press conference last Friday said his death caused "deep sorrow" among all who knew "his remarkable qualities of heart and mind."

Mr. Dussault's death increased the number of vacancies in the legislative assembly to three. The standing now is: Union Nationale, 66; Liberals, 22; Independent, one; vacant, three.

Mr. Duplessis announced by-elections will be held simultaneously in Portneuf, Montreal, Outremont and Matapedia "at an appropriate date."

Earlier, Mr. Duplessis had said by-elections would be called before the next session of the legislature scheduled to start in the fall.

Political circles speculated Mr. Dussault's post in the cabinet will remain vacant until after the by-elections. Another portfolio to be filled is that of the transport department created at the last session of the legislature but not set up.

There is also talk in government circles about a reshuffling of portfolios in the cabinet with some of the senior ministers resigning to take posts in Provincial courts or some other branch of provincial administration.

Elections in some 400 rural municipalities were postponed one day to May 19 because of the Queen's birthday, the department of municipal affairs announced. May 18 will be a holiday in Quebec.

Polling in some 400 communities regulated by Quebec's municipal code fall on the Monday following nomination day on the second Wednesday of May.

Vancouver (CP)—An "alarming" increase in automobile thefts was reported here in March and Chief Constable Mulligan said: "I am concerned over the number of juveniles around 14 and 15 who are engaging in this offence."

College Boy Will Join Tour to India, Pakistan

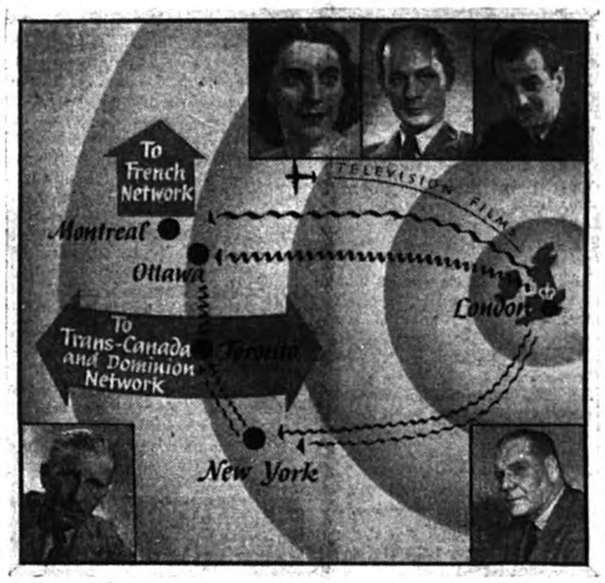

Scholastic distinction has come to Douglas Fogerty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Fogerty of Galt, Ont: (Mrs. Fogerty was formerly Margaret Jones, member of an old Lachute family.) Douglas, a 19-year-old six-footer at Galt Collegiate Institute (who has been latterly writing exams for his first year at McMaster University in political economics and history) will be the only freshman student in a study group to attend an important seminar conference this summer in Bangalore, India.

The delegates will proceed to Paris, leaving that city by plane June 4 for their destination.

A total of 150 professors and students from many nations will attend this conference, Canada supplying nearly half the contingent. About 20 of the group will be professors. From the beginning of June to mid-July, the seminar will take the form of discussion groups, lectures and panel talks. From then until the end of August the party will break up into smaller groups and tour India, Pakistan and Ceylon, where Universities and public institutions will be visited with an eye to observing developments in these countries.

Douglas Fogerty, who has won scholarships and top honors in Galt, hopes to go into external affairs work after his four-year course, so this opportunity to go to India will be an appreciable step in preparation for his career. His sister, Ruth (now Mrs. D. Bennett, of Ottawa) attended the seminar two years ago when it was held in Ottawa.

CBC Lays Plans for Comprehensive Coronation Broadcast, Both Languages

By means of radio, millions of listeners in Canada will be following the Coronation Parade along its route, as well as the service in Westminster Abbey.

Here's how these broadcasts will be relayed to listeners here: three transmissions of the same program, but on different frequencies, will be shortwaved by the BBC from London as the historic event takes place. One of these will be picked up by the CBC shortwave receiver near Ottawa, and the other two from New York. They will then be relayed to Toronto, from where the broadcast will be fed to the CBC networks. Toronto will have a choice of using the best of the three transmissions, and can switch from one to the other wave length, thereby assuring best possible reception for listeners in Canada.

In addition, a French-language broadcast of the event will be beamed directly to Montreal for distribution to the CBC's French Network; moving picture films will be flown over, to be televised by the Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal TV stations. The upper insets show (left to right) the CBC French Network commentators, Judith Jasmin, Rene Levesque and Gerard Arthur.

CBC personnel who will help arrange and broadcast the Coronation for English-speaking listeners will be (bottom left and right) A. E. Powley, Supervisor of Special Events, and Capt. W. E. S. Briggs, who will do a commentary from inside Westminster Abbey.

Art Exhibition At St. Andrews

By Noted Artist, Miss G. Paige Pinneo, Carillon Resident

On Saturday, May 16, at 3 p.m. in the Presbyterian Hall at St. Andrews, there will be a "one-man" show of oils and water-colors by Miss G. Paige Pinneo, of Carillon and Montreal. The exhibition will contain interesting material and reveals the painter as a water-colorist of direct, bold method and who handles her subject in a big way. Her arrangements are uniformly effective, her values true and her treatment free, confident and vibrant. Unnecessary detail has no place in her work, which is marked by force and individuality. Miss Pinneo is partial to the sea, to the city squares and market places, to picturesque details as widely separated as a pasture bridge, a barge on the Carillon Canal, old Quebec houses (in one of which she resides), to wood interiors and flower arrangements. Her subjects range from snowy lane to October color, from Spring vistas of Lake of Two Mountains, to Cape Breton and Nova Scotia harbors. The drawing is sound, the water is real water, the buildings will not fall if one leans against them.

Miss Pinneo has exhibited widely in Canada and is well known in Montreal, where she is a teacher of Art on the Montreal Protestant School Board and at Sir George Williams College. She has shown regularly at the Annual Spring Exhibitions and Royal Canadian Academy, has held two "one-man" shows at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, the latest being in February of this year and at the Quebec Provincial Museum, Quebec, where she is represented by two water-colors. Her work has also been included in the travelling exhibition of the Royal Canadian Academy.

Miss Pinneo is a B.A. from Acadia University, holds a diploma from the Nova Scotia College of Art, has studied with Stanley Woodward, N.A., of Rockport and Gloucester, Mass., is a member of the Commission on Art Education, N.Y., and the Society for Education Through Art, London.

The exhibition will be for one day only, and represents a new venture in the cultural life of this paricular community.

Warning on Renewal Of Auto Licenses

Provincial Traffic Officers for this district have orders from headquarters that any cars or motor vehicles still bearing 1952 license markers are to be seized and impounded, pending owner's purchase of new registration plates.

This order is official and now in effect.

Livestock Entries Close May 24th

Seed Oats Contest Also Announced by Lachute Fair Directors

Lachute Spring Fair has now become a "must" among farmers, exhibitors of livestock, horse racing fans, dealers in automobiles and farm machinery — and those who attend just for the pleasure of meeting old friends and enjoying the midway or grandstand performances.

The annual spring exhibition, being held on June 10-11-12-13 this year, has steadily grown in importance until it is now recognized as one of the leading fairs in Canada, with a race track that is hard to beat.

In addition to their activities in connection with Lachute Spring Fair, the Argenteuil Agricultural Society will again sponsor a contest for the growing of oats suitable for seed. This contest is open only to residents of the county. The plot to be judged should be about five acres in area, and oats will be judged in the field prior to harvesting. Farmers wishing to participate should contact the secretary, S. Patterson, prior to May 31. No entry fee will be charged.

Breeders of cattle should realize that one of the best ways of advertising, as in any form of business, is by exhibiting to the general public what they have for sale.

Entries, which close on May 24, are coming in well, but there is still room for more and exhibitors are urged to have their entry mailed to the secretary as soon as possible.

This year's Lachute Spring Fair promises to be even bigger and better than ever, and the local public can make no mistake in boosting it and inviting their friends to attend.

Main St. Premises Commercial Office For Bell Telephone

Business Couple to Retire From Geo. Paul Establishment

The Geo. Paul grocery and dry-goods store on Main Street, which for some 35 years has faithfully served the public, will soon be a thing of the past, and the proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Paul, will retire for a well-earned rest.

After June 30 the Bell Telephone Company will occupy these premises, which will be fitted up as their Commercial Office for the payment of telephone bills, dealings with the public and other business.

Mr. Paul has been a merchant in this town for 44 years, nine of which were spent in the building presently occupied by J. W. Lefebvre Ltd., before he moved to his present location.

Absorbing Topics Heard at Meeting Of Lions Club

Another enthusiastic meeting of Lachute Lions Club, with around 50 members and guests present, was held Tuesday at the Legion Hall — President Bertrand L'Heureux being welcomed back to the chairmanship after an absence in Florida. Among the guests was District Deputy Governor Bill Smith, of Northmount Lions, who dropped in informally and addressed a word of greeting from his club and district groups.

Speaker of the evening was Beverley H. Steeves, assistant supervisor of Safety and Training at Northern Electric Company (and brother of the club treasurer, Willard M. Steeves). Mr. Steeves spoke on "The Canadian Outlook" — a topic well prepared and provocative of thought (which will be reported in more adequate space, next issue of this journal). The speaker was introduced by Lion Jos. Dumais and thanked by Lion Phil Roy.

In his introductory remarks the visitor paid tribute to a brand of public speaking by home talent, heard during this occasion — Lion George Tattersfield having presented a pocket-treatise on textile manufacture, as nominee for the "Toot Your Own Horn" feature at this meeting.

Lion Tattersfield was born in Yorkshire, textiles being his heritage back from his great-grandfather. Entering the industry at an early age, he had come to Canada when 24 to manage a new branch mill for his firm established at Carleton Place, Ont., later joining the staff of Ayers Limited in Lachute.

Ninety per cent of heavy wool manufacture in England is located within a small radius of 15 miles in Yorkshire, Lion Tattersfield revealed. Batley, his birthplace, Bradford, Huddersfield and Leeds were prominent centres mentioned — woollen, worsted, tweed and clothing manufacture being their respective specialties. . . But the old fable that "they can produce better fabrics in England" is just that — a fable — in the opinion of this authority. Skill of workmanship is the most telling factor, for it takes years to train an operator in the handling of varied types and qualities of fibre. Ayers Limited, he stated, is competing with imported fabrics — the scope of this local manufacture being illustrated by the fact that at present, for the 1954 spring trade in men's clothing alone, his firm is preparing 50 ranges for different types of clothing, with around 20 fabrics in each type.

Lion Rod Carreau, of Gatineau Power Co., was selected as next speaker in these occupational talks, and was the recipient of Lion Tattersfield's gift.

Police Chief D. Villeneuve reported on enquiries concerning erection of safety lights on the town approaches. He also bespoke the co-operation of every citizen in the current campaign to suppress dangerous driving. In the distribution of luminous tape, by courtesy of the Lions Club to safeguard cyclists, it is noted that the police department attached strips to no fewer than 178 bicycles at the town office within a space of three days.

CONCLUDING SESSION OF CURRENT COUNCIL TERM AT BROWNSBURG; FOUR VACANCIES TO BE FILLED

Farewells by Mayor and Retiring Aldermen; Nominations for Seats Next Wednesday, May 13

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — The last meeting of the Municipal Council as presently constituted was the occasion of some farewell remarks by Mayor H. Pariseau and Councillors Charbonneau and Ball.

Councillor Charbonneau said that a lot of good and useful work had been accomplished by the Council, and there still remained a lot to do. He liked the work and the feeling of community well-being, which association with the other members made a pleasant experience, and he hoped with the assistance and desire of the electorate to continue another term.

Councillor Ball said he had learned quite a lot of the difficulties of administering a municipality. It was a refreshing experience and he felt that greater attention to municipal affairs should be paid by the people concerned and served. More interest in Council work and civic affairs should be manifested, and he felt that it was a good thing for new men to come into the Council for the experience gained. For that reason, among others, he would not seek re-election at the present time.

Mayor Pariseau remarked that he had experienced a very amicable and pleasant term with his fellow members and the general public. He thanked the Council members for their loyal co-operation and the unselfish manner in which they had shouldered the work imposed upon them. He felt that an expression of appreciation was in order on this the last meeting of his term. Next month there would be another occupying the chair, and to him and his new Council he wished every success.

Minutes

The Mayor's indisposition caused an adjournment of last month's meeting and the press was not present at the unannounced adjourned meeting.

A motion by Councillor Lafleur seconded by Councillor Charbonneau was passed to pay the monthly vouchers, and Daylight Saving Time was duly adopted.

An application by Stan Harris to have water and sewerage extended to connect up to his premises was adjourned for study. . .

"It's Spring, Let's Sing" — School Theme Lachute and B'burg in 'Voice of Youth'

By Anne Dwyer

"It's Spring, Let's Sing", presented by the Marconi Radio Public Service, was heard on CFCF at 5,30 o'clock last Sunday. This was the third time that Lachute High School had taken part in the "Voice of Youth" program. The Lachute Glee Club opened the show with "Oh What a Beautiful Morning", with George Taylor as the soloist, Wayne Riddell as pianist, and Mr. Shirley McKyes as director.

After announcing the program, Mr. Bill Pettee, Public Relations official, commenced by introducing Nancy Dobbie, of Grade I, who announced "The Postman" as the contribution from that grade. The Grade VIII music class then harmonized "Spin, Maiden, Spin". The progress which Mr. McKyes had made with music at L.H.S. was well evident in their rendition.

The Brownsburg Glee Club, also under the direction of Mr. McKyes, and accompanied by Mrs. C. Wheeler, sang "The Comrades' Song of Hope", after which Lachute again came on the air with Bill Steeves, clarinet soloist, giving his selection, "The Two Guitars". The L.H.S. Junior Choir sang the famous Irish ballad, "Oh Danny Boy".

David Foreman of Grenville, winner of the Public Speaking trophy, repeated his talk on the topic "Why Korea?" for the benefit of the radio audience. (His impressive technique was taught to him by his mother, who is now on the Kilmar school staff.)

The Lachute boys' Junior Choir sang "Cowboy's Riding Song"; this was followed by "The Owl", by Grade V of Brownsburg. The Brownsburg Junior Choir then sang Mozart's "Cradle Song", and the girls of the Lachute Junior Choir gave "Early One Morning" as their selection of the day. "The Fiddler" was presented by Grade III of L.H.S. Before the finale, Brownsburg's Grade II sang "Lullaby".

The L.H.S. Glee Club closed the program with "Oklahoma", theme song of the play to be presented here Friday evening, May 8.

The results of this program make it evident that the retirement of Mr. McKyes from the school staff of this county will greatly affect the younger generation. It is hoped, however, that music in the district schools will not deteriorate, but continue to prosper as it has in the past.

The above program was one of a series entitled "The Voice of Youth". Public Relations official Bill Pettee, and the reproduction engineer, Jack Humming, have travelled the province, tape-recording items for their show.

The "Voice of Youth" made its debut in October 1951. During the winter months projects in different schools of Quebec were broadcast, and summer-camp activities during July and August.

Radio Interference

Ever have your favorite radio program interrupted by 'Interference' from electrical equipment. It is annoying — but quite frequently the interference can be stopped or at least cut down.

Sometimes it is caused by electric razors, power tools, motors, welding machines, and other electrical equipment. An electrician can overcome the trouble by installing a noise eliminator and by making sure that the equipment is in good working order.

Another cause of static occurs when branches rub against power lines. The company keeps crews out constantly looking for offending trees and customers can also help by letting the company know about potential trouble spots of this nature.

GOOD LAMBING

Del Bonita, Alta. (CP) — Flock owners reported good lambing percentages when the lambing season got into full swing in this southern Alberta district. The late spring storms caused no general losses.

WORTHY SERVICE

Announcement by the Ontario department of agriculture that the student camp program by which labor was provided for Ontario farmers during the busy harvest season has been discontinued, will be received with regret by both farmers and students. It should not be allowed to pass out of existence without a generous acknowledgement of its value to the nation and the world during a critical period.

Booklet on Community Tree Planting

The Quebec Forestry Association, with collaboration of its sponsors and certain municipalities of this province, has issued a very practical publication on Arbour Days and Community Forests. Prepared by a group of specialists, this publication is available to the different branches of the Quebec Forestry Association, to 4-H Clubs, and all who could be individually or collectively interested in these two subjects.

The publication contains some notes about the original purpose of Arbour Day, and elementary notes regarding the planting of trees and their conservation. It explains how to start and how to manage a community forest, also how to produce a worthwhile revenue from it.

The publication ends on suggestions for an Arbour Day Program. All those interested in having this useful publication can contact the Q.F.A. or one of the 4-H Clubs.

"In Appreciation of Farm Broadcast"

A signal honor was bestowed on the CBC's Ontario Farm Broadcast on April 28, when the Junior Farmers' Association of Ontario at its annual convention in Guelph presented a framed scroll to CBC farm commentator Norn Garriock. The scroll read: "In Appreciation of the CBC Farm Broadcast and The Craigs for Outstanding Services to Ontario Farm Communities."

This was the sixth consecutive year that the CBC Ontario Farm Broadcast originated at the Junior Farmers' conference.

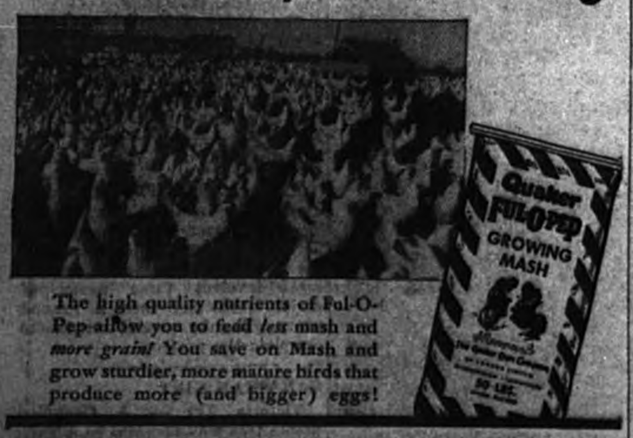

"Farmers are now producing 69 per cent more than 40 years ago on only 11 per cent more harvested acres, and with 20 per cent fewer man-hours of labor." — U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Sprinkler Irrigation

Ottawa — The term "irrigation" is popularly associated with dry or desert conditions, particularly by people in eastern Canada where all too frequently the abundant rain interferes with the favorite Sunday picnic. Nevertheless, a study of rainfall records (states C. A. Eaves, in charge of plant nutrition work at the Experimental Station, Kentville, N.S.) will show that while the average yearly rainfall of 33 inches at Kentville is reasonably adequate, it is often badly distributed. For example, it can be expected that once every three years either June, July or August will have less than one inch of rain, where a minimum of four inches in each month is required to maintain satisfactory plant development.

The need for sprinkler irrigation should be governed by certain considerations. First to consider is the potential value of the crop to be grown in relation to the initial and operational cost of the equipment. For example, the risk of losing a valuable shallow-rooted perennial crop such as strawberries due to drought is much greater than with potatoes which are planted annually and have a fairly deep rooting habit. Second, consideration should be given to the soil type because plants are better able to withstand dry periods on the heavier soils and those containing a plentiful supply of humus. Last, but not least in importance, is the availability of water and its proximity to the land to be irrigated.

Potato Planting

Don't slice those potato-seed pieces too thin! That's the advice of Bob Keith, CBC's Ontario Gardener.

Talking about potato planting in a recent Sunday morning broadcast, Bob said: "When making the cuts, don't just slither off thin pieces, but cut them in a nice chunky or block shape, from one-and-a-half ounces to two-and-a-half with one to three eyes. In this way, you'll provide more food and moisture for the development of the young sprout. You see, the sprout has to depend on the food in the piece of potato until the roots get established."

Watermelons in Home Gardens

Ottawa — Watermelons are a marginal crop in many parts of Canada, and it is only in the longer-season districts that locally grown melons are available. Thus most people have only tasted watermelons picked before ripening and shipped to their market, according to L. H. Lyall of the Division of Horticulture at Ottawa. A watermelon is at its best when vine-ripened and eaten fresh, and this is not the case with most of the melons consumed in Eastern Canada.

Asked, "Can the average home gardener grow and ripen watermelons successfully in the areas less favorable for this crop?", Mr. Lyall replied, "In the past perhaps not, but now with the earlier varieties in the trade it is possible to produce a satisfactory crop for home use at Ottawa, even though the summer conditions do not usually favor ripening of the melon fruits". Similarly, he said, it should be possible, even farther north, to ripen watermelons in sheltered home garden areas.

At Ottawa Experimental Farm the seed is sown in the field, and paper hotcaps placed over them until danger of cold injury is past. However, many growers prefer to sow them in berry boxes, pots or soil blocks, and transplant them. Sown in the field, several varieties have consistently ripened into good crops suitable for home use, the oldest being Early Canada. This is red fleshed, round to oval in shape and with good quality. If ripened on the vine, it grows about eight or nine inches in diameter, a medium-early variety ripening around the first week in September when field-sown at Ottawa. Another variety for the home garden is New Hampshire Midget, a few days earlier than Early Canada, but not quite equal in quality.

It is essential the home gardener remember the limitations of climate, warns Mr. Lyall. "There is no use trying to grow the large fruited varieties grown in the southern United States", he says. "It is better to stick to varieties fairly certain to ripen during late summer and to give a satisfactory crop before the fall frosts."

CBC Commentary On Rome Conference

The CBC will provide its listeners with complete and on-the-scene coverage of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers' Conference being held in Rome from June 2 to 13. The IFAP is the farmers' international organization, of which the Canadian Federation of Agriculture is the Canadian member.

Representing the CBC at the conference will be A. K. Morrow, supervisor of the farm and fisheries department of the Corporation, who will send back to Canada reports on the conference meetings, to be used on the CBC's noon-hour farm broadcasts across the country. Interviews with, and comments by, other Canadian agricultural officials attending the conference will form part of his reports.

During his trip abroad Mr. Morrow will stop over in Paris to discuss with UNESCO members their recently-completed survey of Canada's Farm Forum broadcasts, and he will go to London to observe first-hand the farm broadcasting operation of the BBC.

Local Observer Brings Impressions From Quebec Provincial Conference Fed'n of Home-School Associations

"Free Education for Those Who Can Afford It"; Food for Thought in Addresses, Panel Discussions

(Special — by Watchman Correspondent)

We have not yet proved that mass education is working. The Canadian public must decide whether they are going to spend their money on education or on alcohol. . The above are two excerpts from the address of Dr. Milton E. LaZerte, an outstanding authority on education and former Dean of Education at the University of Alberta, in an address before the Quebec Federation of Home and School Associations, at the closing banquet of the Federation's conference at the Windsor Hotel last week-end.

Dr. LaZerte told a large audience of parents and teachers that "education is free in Canada for those who can afford it." That the child of non-professional parents had a significantly slighter chance of attending High School than the child of professional parents.

"The reasons for this are many", he continued. "Some students have to earn money to help out at home. In other cases there is a lack of ability to purchase books. And the high cost of High School social life, including money for parties, clothes, dances, amusement and other things, makes the burden too great."

Dr. LaZerte said that Canada had to decide "whether we should have half-educated people driving 150 horse power cars, or educated people driving 50 horse power autos." The speaker admitted there was no direct road to a solution of this problem, but that "provincial scholarships with selection committees to find those who could profit from secondary school education may be one solution."

The sixth annual provincial conference of the Quebec Federation of Home and School Associations marked an important milestone along the road of Home and School progress. The Prince of Wales Salon of the Windsor was crowded almost to excess for the various section meetings, and so great was the interest in the program that three or more meetings and panel discussions were in progress in different salons at the same time. The retiring president, L. Mowbray Clark, welcomed the delegates, and under the chairmanship of J. Stuart Richardson a panel discussion on the topic "Meet the Principal" produced a lively and interesting disquisition.

Among the many informative highlights of the conference a report of the standing committee on School Education by Miss Ruth M. Low was of absorbing interest.

The new president of the Federation is a well-known Montreal lawyer, Reuben Resin. He has been a member of Home and School since 1942; one of the founders of the Fairmount Association and of the North-End Regional Council; served as president of the Association (1943-1946, 1949-51), and as president of the Regional Council (1949-51); a director of Quebec Federation since 1948, and vice-president since 1950; a member of the Federation's Council of Representatives since 1944.

The new vice-president is Ruth M. Low, Supervisor of English for the Protestant schools of the province; chairman of our School Education committee since 1951; member of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers for 15 years, and an executive member for five years.

Local delegates to the Montreal conference were Mrs. Sarah Graham and Miss Eleanor Hanson, of Brownsburg, representing the Brownsburg Association. Dave Atkins, president, Charles Stephens and M. V. Trayers, also attended the various activities of the conference.

Home and School Association, Brownsburg

The next general meeting of the Brownsburg Association takes place on May 20. This will be the last general meeting until the annual session in the fall, and to close out a successful season a first-class speaker in the person of Dr. W. A. Lang has been secured. Dr. Lang's topic will be "The Old Order Changes — for Better or for Worse?" The speaker will deal with some of the changes that have taken place and the reaction to them. Dr. Lang is the Executive Secretary of the Provincial Association of Protestant School Boards and to anyone interested in education (and who dare not be? — education is everybody's business) the message Dr. Lang has to deliver will be timely and important.

Home and School Associations in Brownsburg or elsewhere are open to anyone interested enough to attend. A particular invitation to parents and teachers throughout this county to come and spend an evening with Brownsburg Home and School on May 20 is offered through the medium of this report. There will be a social interval during the evening, and a discussion session in which everyone may take part.

STUDENTS HAVE THEIR DAY

—Central Press Canadian.

Big day in the lives of students at the Agricultural School College Royal at Kemptville, near Ottawa, is the annual show in which prizes are awarded. Robert Bennet of Elginburg, Ont., won top honors in the cattle ring with this Holstein cow. Other awards were made for swine and sheep. The 17 girls among the 64 students won several awards.

Second World Food Survey Is Published

The Second World Food Survey, a sequel to the original World Food Survey, published by FAO in 1946, has recently been issued.

The original survey set out to measure systematically, for the pre-war period, the gaps between actual world food consumption and nutritional requirements, and called attention to possibilities for closing these gaps.

The Second World Food Survey assesses what has happened in the post-war years, gauges the progress toward the objectives set up in the earlier survey, and discusses the prospects for the future.

The new survey gives no grounds for complacency. "The average food supply per person over large areas of the world, five years after war was over, was still lower than before the war. . . The proportion of the world's population with inadequate food supplies has grown appreciably larger. Annual increases in food production are barely keeping pace with the increasing population."

Second World Food Survey is available from the International Documents Service, Columbia University Press, 2960 Broadway, New York, N.Y., or at the Ryerson Press, 299 Queen Street West, Toronto 2, Ontario. Price: 50 cents (U.S.).

Traffic Outrages

THE RETURN of the "open season" has brought a disturbing increase in highway accidents, a hue and cry for police intervention and some encouraging action from provincial and municipal traffic authorities to clamp down on the offenders. Motorists negligent in driving with defective lights — those defiant in exceeding the speed limit — and others heedless of humanity in driving while inebriated, have been receiving the sort of treatment they deserve. But still there are many who get away with these varieties of offences, and also with those perilous road-hogging tactics which traffic officers cannot so readily apprehend.

Lachute too is raising the hue and cry for stricter law enforcement. But few stop to consider the limitations of this town's police personnel. With a three-man force on shifts over the 24-hour day, it is readily evident that the police cannot be on hand to check traffic at several places at once, where violations are most likely to occur. Reference to the local police docket of traffic cases last week-end illustrates how busy even two men, on duty together, can be over a short period.

Police Chief Villeneuve puts it squarely up to local citizens to co-operate in this menace. His force is zealous to follow up legitimate complaints, and it requires only two witnesses to swear to visual evidence, to bring legal action. Thus residents can help to curb these traffic abuses; and in the numerous cases which the police cannot be expected to witness at first-hand, we are confident that complainants will find the arm of the law effective to impose just penalties.

May Conquer Influenza

THE HOPE that future influenza epidemics might be warded off before they get under way is held by experts of the World Health Organization, the United Nations body that enlists workers all over the world.

They have already laid the foundations for the belief that within a year or so they may be able to announce mastery of influenza outbreaks. Maybe the news won't make the headlines when it comes, but it's hard to over-estimate the importance of such labors.

Influenza is one of the most important infectious diseases that still remain unconquered. In its milder forms it may be known as the 'flu or the grippe, and many can shrug it off lightly. But an influenza epidemic of severe proportions, coming every few years, causes a large number of deaths.

When this year's outbreaks started scientists reported developments to the World Health Organization as they occurred — in Europe, in the United States, Canada and Japan — and noted they were "mild" in comparison with the terrible epidemic of 1918 that caused millions of deaths.

What the scientists did in particular was analyze the exact type of influenza virus that was most prevalent. Experts at the Geneva headquarters were soon able to determine that in almost every country the culprit this time was the "A-Prime" virus. It was an important discovery; it meant that stocks of special "A-Prime" vaccine remaining from the last outbreak could be shipped to the trouble spots at once. It meant that in future, quantities of the several major types of vaccines could be prepared ahead of time and the proper ones sent out as soon as the specific virus had been identified.

It pointed the way for great vaccination campaigns wherever enough vaccines of the correct type could be produced, before outbreaks reach epidemic proportions.

DRIVERS have more than the responsibility of obeying the laws. They must also think for the child who is inclined to be irresponsible and careless. It is little comfort for a parent to be told that it was his child's own fault that he was killed. ## War on Ragweed

"HAY FEVER may not be a direct killer, but it does cause thousands of weeks of discomfort, misery and loss of efficiency each year", notes Dr. L. A. Pequegnat, medical officer of health for Toronto, in a declaration of war on ragweed. He estimates that upwards of 50,000 persons in the City of Toronto alone suffer from hay fever in some degree each year and many of them have associated asthma.

Public health is intensely concerned, because so much of hay fever can or could be controlled by individual and collective effort in the direction of removal or suppression of the principal offender — ragweed.

Here are six steps recommended for the control of hay fever:

1—Learn to recognize ragweed in all stages of growth.

2—Attack ragweed early, before the plant buds, blooms and gives off pollen.

3—Pull or dig out scattered plants and dispose of them carefully. Mow larger areas very short.

4—If growth of ragweed is abundant, use a 2-4-D spray.

5—Deal with new growth as it appears.

6—Garden, sod or plant those areas given to weed growth.

Safety, Community Affair

IT IS BECAUSE the problem of safety has such far-reaching consequences in our daily lives that May Safety Month, the first nation-wide campaign, is being sponsored by the Canadian automobile industry in conjunction with various service clubs, Chambers of Commerce and safety groups across the country. Safety has become "big business".

Experts say that safety is mostly a matter of attitude. Wake up early in the morning with a smile, they point out, and your chances of reaching the office with your car in the same condition it was when you left home are infinitely better than they would have been if you had awakened on the wrong side of the bed.

But attitude is too nebulous a quality to measure; too nebulous a quality on which to depend. Safety, then, is a problem of public education, a painstaking proposition of instilling in people the truth of the old maxim, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure". And everyone — from educator to engine driver — knows that this cannot be accomplished overnight.

To safety men, who rightly believe that being conscious of public safety is an indispensable part of good citizenship, the problem is vexatious. Much of their work — carefully-planned, long-term programs entailing a great deal of money — goes unheeded.

For this reason it is heartening that such great strides are being taken in the accident-prevention field in Canada. In this highly mechanized civilization it is no longer sufficient to warn children to stop and look both ways before crossing a street. Nor is it enough just to say about Bill Jones, who demolished his car the night before, "Too bad. He should have been more careful."

The problem of safety is a community problem. In many cities throughout Canada last year property damage caused by automobile accidents exceeded by far the total police force budgets. Safety is everybody's business — and "big" business, at that.

May is designated as Safety Month across the nation. Approximately 92 per cent of traffic accidents are caused by the errors of drivers and the remaining 8 per cent by faulty mechanism of automobiles.

Nevertheless, if only a fraction of the 3-million-odd motor vehicles in Canada are safety-checked during May, there is bound to be a progressive reduction of preventable accidents—a substantial advance on the road to a safety-conscious Canadian public.

So let's ring the bells, explode the fireworks and have a bang-up time. Let's make it a day that everyone will remember! — says the Napanee (Ont.) Post-Express. . . It may be timely here to add, the old maxim goes "Let joy be unconfined" — not unREfined.

British-American Commonwealth?

By Lewis Milligan

American politicians, and economists in particular, now realize that the United States cannot stand alone. This is made very plain in a "Statement on National Policy" issued by the Committee for Economic Development, the members of which represent a wide range of industrial, commercial and educational interests in the United States. The Statement is contained in a large booklet entitled, "Britain's Economic Problem and Its Meaning for America", which at the outset says: "Despite her present economic difficulties, Britain remains our strongest and closest ally. The solution of her economic problem and the strengthening of the British Commonwealth and Anglo-American partnership have a special importance for the United States and for the whole free world."

That is a frank and significant admission, and the Committee adds: "A new approach to Britain's economic problem must be found. . . Many of the measures needed are combined United States - United Kingdom - Commonwealth measures." The connecting hypens in that sentence may not be intended to suggest the combining of the United States with the British Commonwealth, but the National Policy prescribed reads to me very like a proposal that the United States should underwrite the economy of the British Empire, if not to take it over! The Committee further admits that American commercial policies have reduced the ability of other countries to earn the dollars they need to pay for American exports. "These policies, no longer justified on grounds of national interest", says the Committee, "keep other countries dependent on American aid, adding substantially to our tax burden and leading to less efficient use of our resources." The Committee therefore makes the following recommendations:

1—That we continue to negotiate selective reductions in our tariffs through an extended Trade Agreement Act, free of weakening legislative amendments.

2—That Congress grant the President authority to reduce tariff duties unilaterally, under principles and limitation laid down by Congress.

3—Simplificaton of our customs procedures.

4—Progressive removal of import quotas on our agricultural imports.

5—Great liberalization, if not outright repeal, of the 'Buy America Act'.

The instability of sterling and its unequal competition with the dollar in exchange is the basic problem of Britain's economic condition. The Committee presents a thorough analysis of that situation, and it offers some criticism of Britain's extravagant domestic policies which it contends have led to inflation. It also points to the slowness of British industry in making needed investments, and its failure to adapt its products to foreign markets and undertake necessary selling efforts. The solution suggested in this connection is "much more intensive trade and financial relations between Britain and the Commonwealth and the United States. . . A more secure access for British industry to the American market. A greater sense of security for American investors in Britain and other parts of the Commonwealth."

The pity of it all is that it has taken two world wars to bring these obvious truths home to the economists and politicians of the United States. Even between those two wars there were times when American politicians thought they could get along very well without Britain, and that the preservation of the British Commonwealth was no affair of theirs. Indeed, they frequently spoke and acted as if the British Empire were a nuisance and a hindrance to the United States and should be disbanded. Criticism in the American press, for example, was largely responsible for the secession of India with the disruptive consequences in that country and the weakening of British influence and power in the Near and Far East.

Not Tied to the Coat-Tails of Mars

It is nonsense to say that we could not find uses for the production we are now diverting to defence. Canada, and the other countries of the free world, could certainly use new schools, power plants, hospitals and highways. Every week that passes in producing arms makes such needs more urgent, thinks The Financial Post.

Man's intelligence has sunk low indeed if he can only keep himself prosperous by spending half his time in producing something he can't eat, use or enjoy. No sane country, least of all those with a standard of living like ours, ever relished the prospect of spending billions on armaments. Only dire necessity forced us into this costly business. Given assurance of real peace we will only be too happy to get out of it.

Our society and our prosperity are not tied to the coat-tails of Mars.

Other Viewpoint On Termination of U.K. Wheat Agreement

Nasty things are being said about the British because of their refusal to sign the new International Wheat Agreement. Those who are squawking the loudest about what they call the U.K.'s "betrayal" of Canada, naturally enough, are the same folk whose frenzied lamentations wrung $65 million out of the taxpayers of Canada to "compensate for losses" when the British insisted a couple of years ago on sticking to the terms of the now-defunct Anglo-Canadian Wheat Agreement.

Plain truth is that the British are to be congratulated for refusing to be hustled into another socialist substitute for the free market. U.K.'s refusal to sign on the dotted line at Washington just means the British prefer to take their chance on world markets rather than trust themselves to ineptitude of officials unwisely vested with power to buy and sell.

Help ! I'm Sinking !

It has been said that a man who performs a certain act a thousand times can do it more proficiently than one who has only done it a hundred times. In other words, "Practice Makes Perfect".

This rule, however, does not apply to one who writes a column for a paper week after week. He slowly but surely runs out of material and has to resort to Limericks such as these:

Said an Eskimo maiden from Ukluk
Who came home with only one mukluk
"I was chased by a buck —
Such luck! In the muck —
And in the muck there my mukluk stuck!"

There was a young man whose physique
Was like that of a beautiful Grique.
Alas! He gained weight
I am sorry to steight
And now he resembles a frique.

There was an old fellow, rheumatic,
Who rented a room in an attic.
Said he: "I am bound for
A room on the ground floor —
This clim-it affects my room-attic."

Come on, everybody. Send in your first or second name, or that of your home town, and I'll make a Limerick about you or it. A fellow named Harvey defied me to write one about him. I did; this is it:

A resourceful explorer named Harvey
One day was beginning to starve. He Knew what to do best —
Found a large hornets' nest
And ate all the immature larvae.

He hasn't spoken to me since.

Be seein' ya.

IF OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS — DON'T LET A LACK OF READY CASH HOLD YOU BACK

A Low-Cost B of M Loan Can Save the Day For You

Opportunity is said to knock but once, so you don't want to risk missing it. It may require ready cash that you do not have, but even that need not stop you. If you have a regular income and are in a position to repay, you can obtain funds for any useful purpose at the Bank of Montreal.

A B of M Personal Loan is inexpensive and convenient. The interest rate is only six per cent, and the loan is repayable in easy instalments. And you pay interest on what you still owe. If you borrow $100 and repay in monthly instalments over a year, it will cost you just 27 cents a month — a total cost of only $3.24. You can borrow more or less, for shorter or longer periods, at proportionately the same cost.

So next time you need money, don't hesitate to drop in and talk over your problem with Donald Hay, manager of the Lachute B of M. You'll find him an interested listener and ready to help whenever possible.

To Clarify Local Speed Limit

Answering an enquiry from this district regarding speed limit in Quebec towns (specifically, in Lachute), it may be noted as follows:

The restriction within town limits is 30 miles an hour — reduced to 20 miles an hour in business sections — and to 8 miles an hour at all intersections.

CHIEF BECOMES ANGLICAN PRIEST

—Central Press Canadian.

It was the "finest day of my life" for Ojibway Indian Chief Benaiswegezkik (Thundering Skies) of Ontario's Spanish River Indian reserve. He was one of nine candidates ordained into the priesthood of the Anglican church in the diocese of Algoma by Right Rev. W. L. Wright, D.D., of Sault Ste. Marie, lord bishop of the diocese. For over 20 years a lay reader with the Anglican church and chief councillor at the Indian reserve, which has more than 600 Indian residents, Chief Benaiswegezkik, or Rev. Douglas Sissenah, as he is now known, will continue to serve at the reserve. He is pictured above with the bishop, proudly wearing his clerical collar beneath the full dress of his Indian tribe.

Isolation of Lepers Declared Out-of-Date, Less Danger Than TB

Leprosy, a disease feared by man down through the ages, is not now considered as highly infectious as tuberculosis, according to reports from the World Health Organization Expert Committee on Leprosy, meeting in Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo. Leprosy is a serious disease affecting more than seven millions of the world's population, but there has been progress made in treating it.

The WHO committee submits that it is "inhuman and useless to continue to inflict on lepers treatment worse than that in vogue during the Middle Ages, namely internment in leprosaria." Feaf of such internment leads many to conceal leprosy infection until it is too late to treat them effectively and there is risk of contaminating those living near to them.

Confirming the recommendations made in Cairo as early as 1938, the WHO committee recommended that recourse should he had to segregation only in cases presenting a real danger of infection. If this humane policy is applied, it is felt that leprosy patients will come for treatment voluntarily and will thus themselves help to wipe out the disease.

Leprosy is a disease which is transmitted by direct and repeated contact and by nasal secretion soiling objects of everyday use (working implements, toilet articles, beds, tables, etc.). It develops more frequently among the young, and among men more than among women. All races are receptive and climate does not play a very important part in its spread, except insofar as climatic conditions bring about digestive disturbances, malnutrition and a lowering of resistance to infection. Women suffering from leprosy have been known to give birth to perfectly healthy children.

Prince Edward Island originally had the Indian name of Abegweit, and later the French name of Isle de St. Jean.

At Brownsburg Council

At the present meeting this matter was referred to by Councillor Rose, who had conducted an investigation into the possibilities and now recommended against it. He estimated the cost of putting in the necessary pipe, with excavation and back fill, would be $5,000. This figure could change with the terrain, but amortization of the cost would in any event be $500 a year. In return for that investment the revenue would be about $125 a year. Under the present set-up, waterworks are expected to be an economical proposition, self-supporting. This addition would be a drain on the finances, and at the present time he considered it inadvisable.

Mayor Pariseau: "Council could not touch that for the present. There are instances where it is necessary to provide water and sewerage irrespective of the cost — a civic obligation; but it has not been shown that this is such a case."

Parking Meters

A letter was received from a firm offering to install parking meters.

Councillor Rose: "We have enough trouble without going into that!"

Councillor Ball called attention to a road sign erected at the railway crossing on St. Joseph's Street, which he claimed was a danger to pedestrians because of its low position and over-reaching the sidewalk. The matter was referred to the road committee.

Post-humous

A letter was read from the late Minister of Municipal Affairs, the Hon. Bona Dussault, accepting the Council's notification of the observance of DST from April 26 to September 27.

Mayor: "When the council passes that motion, the observance of DST becomes law within the municipality, and no one can play with it to suit their own advantage."

Pure Water

Councillor Rose explained, regarding the purification of water, that a report from the laboratory at Montreal University indicates that six samples a week for 22 weeks showed results of no count, except a minor one in one sample. This is almost a perfect record of purity. There is only one place showing tests in Quebec which beat Brownsburg. Councillor Rose attributed the good record to the use of a system of hot water at the chlorinator. It cost a little money to install, but it is worth it.

Elections

Nominations for the office of Mayor and three councillors to fill the terms expiring of Hector Pariseau, Vincent Charbonneau, Lorne Ball and Aldege Carriere, will take place at the Social Club on Wednesday, May 13, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. And elections, if any, will be held on Tuesday, May 19. Voting polls will be set up at the Knights of Columbus Hall and the Social Club, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 7 p.m.; with Emile Hebert as returning officer.

The Bible Made Understandable

Proof of Divine Inspiration

The Bible is of the greatest importance to people in this atomic age because it is God's inspired Word of truth. This fact, though not believed by scoffers, can be proved beyond a question of doubt. Archaeology has dug up a host of ancient coins, monuments and clay tablets with inscriptions verifying the Bible accounts of events. Geology and its findings in the fossil deposits and rock strata have added an abundance of testimony in support of the Biblical record. And many other scientific facts known to man have likewise given credence and veracity to what is written in the Bible. Non-Christian writers of ancient times — men like Tacitus, Celsus, Lucian, Suetonius, Josephus, Pliny the Younger, etc. — confirm many of the historical names, places and events mentioned in the Scriptures. All of which proves that the Bible is not a collection of fictitious folklore and mythical fairy tales, but rather is indisputably true.

But the Bible is more than just the writings of honest men; it is more than just an accurate history of ancient happenings. Much of it is prophecy, a predicting of events of the future. Now, no human imagination can foretell the future with any degree of accuracy or in any exact detail, but the Bible does. This therefore furnishes the most positive kind of proof that the Bible was written under divine inspiration, that its real Author is Jehovah God.

The Bible Made Understandable

Masonic Choir In Fine Recital

The Montreal Masonic Choir, with the well-known conductor Harry Norris, was presented in the Lachute High School under sponsorship of the St. Simeon's Church Choir on Wednesday evening. The accompanist was Miss Joan Nauffts, also of Montreal.

The choir gave a repertoire of contrasting compositions, from the stately hymn of Mozart's 12th Mass, Negro spirituals, humorous ditties, to the grand Wagnerian "Pilgrim's Chorus". Many of the choruses were sung unaccompanied, but Miss Nauffts did an excellent job as the versatile accompanist.

Male voices are at their best when there is straight harmony, and the selections which seemed to leave a lasting impression were "Gloria" from Mozart's 12th Mass, the "Sicilian Mariner's Hymn", the "Pilgrim's Chorus" and "Close Thine Eyes". Two novelty numbers had much audience appeal, "Little Tommy Went a-Fishing" and "Mosquitoes". An encore, "The Jolly Roger", a rollicking nautical number, also went over well.

As a contrast to the general theme of this program Miss Denise Chamaillard, local pianist of note, rendered several solos, which were enthusiastically applauded by the audience.

The Rev. C. R. Lang made a fitting introduction prior to the performance, and the guest artists were warmly thanked by Mr. G. B. Hewitt, on behalf of St. Simeon's Choir.

Coronation Composers for CBC

To mark the Coronation the CBC has commissioned nine works from Canadian composers, which will have their premieres in network broadcasts in the next few weeks. Among those so honored are two Torontonians: conductor Godfrey Ridout (left) and the dean of Canadian composers, Dr. Healey Willan, whose impressive five-part suite for chorus and orchestra will have its first performance in a broadcast conducted by the CBC's director of music, Geoffrey Waddington, on May 31, at 8 p.m. on the CBC Trans-Canada network. Ridout's work, "Coronation Ode", for chorus and orchestra, will be premiered at a later date. Ridout has composed well over 200 musical background scores for the National Film Board and the CBC; his other original works include the dramatic symphony "Esther", performed on CBC Wednesday Night.

Red Cross Society Reviews Campaign And Relief Work

A special meeting of the Lachute Red Cross was held in the United Church hall recently, when all the canvassers met to iron out difficulties encountered in the recent campaign, to hear Mr. Louis Mercier, field supervisor and campaign organizer, tell of the remarkable welfare services of the Red Cross Society. Lachute was one of the oldest continuing branches, and he praised the membership for their very fine work.

Mrs. F. C. Morrison gave a report of the articles shipped to headquarters since the appeal had come in February for help for the flooded areas in Europe. She reported that some 600 articles had been shipped — this included 41 quilts. She thanked all for their co-operation, and wished also to give special thanks to the W.I., who had given several donations.

Mrs. A. Gordon thanked the speaker, and the president, Mrs. H. Watson, commended the conveners and canvassers of the campaign. Mrs. Watson also gave a special word of thanks to the treasurer, Mrs. F. E. Earle, whose report was presented, showing that Lachute once more had gone "over the top" — passing its objective of $3,000 by more than $600. All were asked to do some "spade work" during the summer for the Blood Clinic, which will be held in October.

Tea was served in conclusion.

Although dentists say that a toothbrush in good condition is essential for the proper care of teeth and gums, a survey has revealed that only 19 per cent of the toothbrushes in use are in satisfactory condition. The rest have bent, broken or matted bristles which are practically useless and often unsanitary.

An outstanding record of the Canadian Pacific Railway's 4-8-4 Northern steam engines is that they have averaged 350 miles daily for 12 continuous months of service on the Montreal-Toronto night run.

Don't forget Saturday night and "The Passing Parade"! This show by George Merton and his dancing and singing marionettes is outstanding, and has received enthusiastic acclaim in England, Scotland and Canada. — In Lachute Auditorium this Saturday night.

Born Only Once

This is the undiscovered tragedy of mankind: a statement generally refuted but easily proven. Natural birth: "God giveth to all life, and breath and all things." But "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God." Even kings have stopped at conviction: "Almost thou (Paul) persuadest me (King Aggripa) to be a Christian." "For we must needs die, and as water spilt on the ground, which cannot be gathered up again." "And I (St. John) saw the dead . . stand before God . . and whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire." "Man that is born of a woman is of few days." The only remedy: "Except a man is born again, he cannot see the Kingdom of God."

"Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ, is born of God." A Christian is one with a dual personality. "I (Paul and all Christians) am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet no longer I, but Christ liveth in me; and that life which I now live in the flesh I live in the faith of the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me." "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creation." "Put on the new man . . created in righteousness." "Behold I shew you (the saved) a mystery; we shall not all sleep (die) but we shall be changed."

"I looked, and behold a door was opened in heaven." "Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honor and power; for thou hast created all things." "Blessed are they which are called unto the marriage supper of the Lamb." "And he (the angel) said unto me, these things are the true sayings of God."

Lachute — H. J. H.

Bright Spots in High School Week

By Anne Dwyer

Graduation

The Graduation Exercises and Dance, the big event of this Coronation Year at L.H.S., took place last Friday evening in the gaily decorated gymnasium. The exercises, which took place after picuates, were a gratifying success. uates, was a gratifying success.

James Murdoch, m.c. for the occasion, first introduced Mr. James McGibbon, chairman of the School Board. Mr. McGibbon wished the graduates success in later life as well as in the "quiz program" to take place in June.

Class Historian Helen McMahon introduced each graduate to the audience, with a comment about his chief activity.

Ruth Hammond and George Taylor, reading the Last Will and Testament, left Miss J. Catterson's history reference books and Mr. R. Wyse's dead cat and frogs, as well as many personal belongings and talents, to future classes.

Principal F. H. J. Royal spoke to the graduates about Shakespear's theme of the stages of life. He described each phrase as it should be. Mr. Royal particularly emphasized success and happiness and wished the graduates luck in achieving both.

Jean Muir and Stanley Alexander, the Class Prophets, chose a few students and went on a supersonic voyage into the future. The lives of the students revealed in 1965 were indeed surprising.

Heather Graham, Class Valedictorian, was the last speaker. She thanked the teachers and parents for the guidance they offered while the students "journeyed down the undergrðund passage towards the sea of life."

After thanking Margaret Doig, chairman of the Grad Dance Committee, James Murdoch asked the assembly to rise and sing "O Canada". The dance followed, with music by the "Westernaires". . . The excitement of Graduation ended at 1 o'clock, for another year.

Inter-Church Bowling Teams In Cup Play

Bowling teams from the Presbyterian, Anglican and United Church leagues lined up Tuesday evening for the annual silver cup contest. The Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church organization were the hosts, and the tournament was held in the United Church hall.

Two teams from each church entered the play-off, with total points of 20-ends each to count for the winner.

In the first games, the play concluded as follows: St. Simeon's (W. Shearsmith) 5, vs. United (L. W. Hammond) 11; St. Simeon's (Gordon Silverson) 7, vs. Presbyterian (Malcolm Cairns) 9; Presbyterian (John Simon) 6, vs. United (Mrs. L. Dion) 9.

Results of the second games were: St. Simeon's (Silverson) 7, vs. Presbyterian (Simon) 12; St. Simeon's (Shearsmith) 7, United (Dion) 6; Presbyterian (Cairns) 3, vs. United (Hammond) 9.

The final score was United 35, Presbyterian 30 and Anglican 26 — the trophy going to the United Church group.

A large group of spectators and players enjoyed refreshments prepared and served by the ladies of the Margaret Rodger Church bowling league. The m.c. was Cecil McFaul, of that league, and he called on Garnet Strong, president of St. Simeon's Church league (former winners), to present the cup to L. W. Hammond of the United teams. Expressions of appreciation were voiced by all three leaders, and all hoped that this tournament would continue for many years hence. Mr. Hammond also thanked the ladies of the Presbyterian Church for the refreshments served. The gathering closed with "Auld Lang Syne".

TIGERS and Local Sport

By J. C. PETITCLERC

Baseball Games Tonight

Don't forget the exhibition game tonight at the Lachute Stadium, between the St. Eustache Patriots and Lachute Tigers. Be on hand to hear, for the first time this season, the thrilling catch-word — "Play Ball!"

Lennie Pearson, Coach

Len Pearson commenced his baseball career in 1940 as manager of the Baltimore Giants. In 1950 we find him playing as 1st baseman for Milwaukee, in the American Baseball Association, with a batting average of .305. In 1951, he signed a contract with Hartford, Conn., of the Eastern League, where his average was .286. Last year his hits were .400.

Mr. Pearson has accepted the position as local coach for this season and we are confident that the Tigers will benefit greatly under his guidance. Len plays to win and is a sincere and devoted sport. In one of his letters he wrote, "I wish good luck and success to your club, whether I am coach or not, because the directors and the Lachute fans are grand people and deserve the best, what I would term, the championship."

To Len Pearson and the Tigers, the sporting public of Lachute, Ayersville and vicinity extend best wishes for the winning of the Championship.

Practice

On Sunday, May 3, more than 45 players had a good practice for over two hours. I was able to talk a few minutes with the coach, Len Pearson — who did not want to talk, however, until he had seen his team at work for a couple of days. But his aim is definitely — the Championship.

Len and all the players had a good sweating, and from what I saw, the Tigers should be a very hard club to beat. Bud Kimball at third base looks good to make our infield one of the most promising in the league. Claude Groulx was the first man at practice to hit the ball over the fence. The first two balls thrown to him were hit over the 315-foot mark. Keep it up, Claude! Hardy, a little later in the afternoon, also sent one over the fence.

Fans

There were over 100 baseball fans at this practice to look over the Tigers line-up, which included Messrs. Yeager, Kimball and Cotnoir.

Pitcher

Ted Vachon stated that a new pitcher, Chriss Haughey, who was with Dodgers in 1947 and afterwards with St. Paul, will be on the pitching staff of the local team.

Band

Since my article of April 16 I have not heard from the Band Leader; so I conclude this means that the Band will be up and ready for the Grand Opening, May 10, at 8 p.m. The directors of the Association will see that the members of the Band will have good seats.

W. Hardy

Do you know that our famous S.S., W. Hardy, after last season in Lachute played until the end of November with the Al Campanella All-Stars? Hardy looks to be in good condition for another good season with the Tigers.

Calvert Trophy

On page 13 in the Tigers' program you will find your voting ballot for the players of distinction in every game. Please vote for your choice of three best players in each game. A report will be given in this column every week, so PLEASE VOTE. Following is a replica of the voting coupon:

CALVERT TROPHY
I nominate the following for the Lachute Player of Distinction in this game.
1 (3 points) .
2 (2 points) .
3 (1 point) .

— ARTICLE VII —

Durley, Hants, April 29 — Not all ghosts are publicity hunters. That is the conclusion I have reached after last Saturday's entertainment at Mr. B's mansion. However, I still have to see the results of the photographs I took while I was in the Manor. Perhaps he will show up in one of those.

The Vicar and I had a most enjoyable evening with Mr. B. He told us, at the time he extended the invitation to visit him, that we would be required to dress for dinner. And, as per instruction, we both put on our finest evening togs. It was somewhat disconcerting, therefore, to find that our host's idea of dressing for dinner amounted to putting on a black bow-tie over an ordinary shirt, a blue smoking jacket and dress trousers. David, (the vicar type), fared better than I for he got by with his ordinary clerical collar and the usual dress fittings. I, however, being the guest of honor, had to squeeze into my boiled front and perform the inevitable wrestling match with a bat-wing collar and black bow. Nevertheless it was worth it and I don't regret it at all.

The dinner was everything it should have been. Cocktails for a starter; Bordeaux with the main course; Port to round out the meal, and brandy to sniff with the coffee. By all standards, both David and I should have been completely potted before the evening was out. Strange to relate, however, we remained sober as the proverbial judge, and were able to drive home without accident.

For entertainment — after I had taken pictures throughout the entire house — Mr. B. turned on the television. I had heard much about the British T.V. and, indeed, had seen bits of programs in various places. That it is the best in the world is no idle boast, for it would take some beating.

To begin with, there is no advertising. When you turn on the set, you are not hounded into trying patent medicines, soap powders, electric ranges, and a host of articles you could well do without. No, indeed! Here, a sweet gal tells you what you are about to see and, without further ado, the program begins. One hour of solid entertainment, uninterrupted by any huckster. The very thought is bliss.

The particular program we saw was Café Continental. It is, I understand, a monthly feature of the BBC T.V., and it's rattling good entertainment. The first half of the show is devoted to the supporting acts then showing at the Café, while the last half is devoted to the principal star. The supporting acts that we saw were exceptionally good, and we waited patiently for the mistress of ceremonies to announce each performer. Then, a fanfare by the orchestra and the star turn appeared, none other than Maurice Chevalier.

I don't know whether the question of Chevalier's political leanings has been finalized. As I recall, he had some difficulty with the Immigration people when he last visited Canada. However, political matters aside, there are few artists that can ever hope to achieve the heights reached by this 65-year-old French star. Who else can pack London's massive Palladium night after night with a one-man show? Who else, save Gracie Fields, would attempt a three-hour show unaided, and still be ready to sing encore after encore. No sir, in the entertainment world, Maurice Chevalier still leads the way. And he's just as good on T.V. as he is in person.

His act began at the half-way mark in the program. All things being equal, he should have finished the show at the half-hour mark. Yet, 10.30 came and went, and Maurice still kept singing, and no announcer came on the screen to express his or her regrets that Café Continental had had it. This seemed quite strange to me and I mentioned it to my friends.

"Oh", said David, "that's one of the beauties of our T.V. If a show is good, they don't close it off because it's over-running the time, they keep it on till the end. Don't they do that in Canada?"

Can you imagine the furore among the sponsors and the hucksters if such a thing happened on Canadian T.V.? The row would be heard around the earth. Yes, British T.V. is the best going and we could learn a lot from it. Unfortunately, however, British T.V. seems to be learning bad habits from us. Rumour hath it that sponsored T.V. will be introduced in Britain next year. Ah well, it was good while it lasted.

I regret now that I was unable to get my holidays from the end of April until the end of May. I hit the shores of England just when winter was finishing and spring was debating whether it should start or wait just a little. Sad to relate, it decided on the latter course and has actually only been springing for a week or so. May will be warm and beautiful; lovely beyond description. To my everlasting sorrow, I shall miss it. Still, another year I shall plan things better.

I took time off the other day to see Oxford, but I was not impressed. The city lacks something intangible and I believe it's warmth and color. True, the colleges are old and very beautiful in their way but it is difficult to tell where one ends and the other begins. It seems they were all constructed of the same stone and, through the years, they have acquired the same black grime. Cambridge has buildings of sandstone, limestone and brick — variety and color. Oxford? It left me cold.

There is, incidentally, a bookstore in Oxford that boasts it has any book you may care to ask for. And, judging from the size of the place, it should be able to live up to that claim. However, to my great delight, I caught them out.

I was interested in securing a copy of G. K. Chesterton's "Flying Inn", wherein appears the famous poem about the "Road to Roundabout". It's a common enough book and should be available at any small book-sellers.

"I'm sorry, we haven't got it", the salesgirl informed me.

"Have you got that poem in any other book?"

"No, I'm sorry!"

I turned to leave the shop.

"We could get it for you", she called after me, "in about three weeks time."

"Don't bother", I answered, "I'll get it in Montreal, if I can. I'll be back there then."

But I won't have to bother after all. I found it today in a small bookshop in Winchester. I'll read it on the boat.

Takes Defence Role "Too Seriously !"

—Central Press Canadian

When Windsor, Ont., held a mock air raid session recently, officials concluded that some residents, among which was Karl Ilk, seen above, took their civil defence training too seriously. Like 50 other "victims," Karl, aged 15, lay on the street sporting a "blood"-spattered shirt and large scars and bruises painted on his face. While waiting for civil defence trainees to arrive on the scene to treat his "wounds," he was spotted by a passerby, who called for an ambulance. The ambulance driver and attendant took one look at Karl and a slightly damaged car which happened to be parked nearby and presumed he was the victim of a traffic accident. He was rushed to a hospital, and only when he was placed on the operating table did Karl decide his act had gone far enough. He suddenly sat up and explained to the amazed interns and nurses that he had simply been the victim of an "atomic bomb explosion."

British Golfers To Meet U.S. Stars

SPORTS CAMERA
By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

British golf officials, undismayed by a record of 12 losses in 13 assaults on the Walker Cup, are lining up their team to meet the United States titleholders next fall.

From past performances in the amateur competition, it would appear that it isn't too important just whom Britain names. But Walker Cup matches are big events, full of goodwill, international cheer and prestige, and the British are preparing for the 1953 edition with care and confidence.

Lt.-Col. Tony Duncan of the famed Welsh Guards Regiment has been selected as team captain. Four players also named are Joe Carr, Ronnie White, J. L. Morgan and John Langley.

Four or five others will come from the English Amateur played at Royal Birkdale early this month and the British Amateur at Hoylake May 25-30. Usually the winners of those two events get positions on the team, regardless of what they have done before.

Lots of Material

There was a big entry for the English Amateur, so the Walker Cup selectors will have a large field to canvass. Entrants for the British Amateur shape up as even more numerous, with many Scots and Irish.

It's an unwritten law, a tradition, always to have a Scot or two and an Irishman on every British Walker Cup squad. Carr is Irish, so that spot is filled.

The matches, played alternately on each side of the Atlantic each year, will be played in the United States next September 4-5.

The U.S. team will probably be made up of Harvie Ward, winner of last year's British Amateur; Jack Westland, the 1952 U.S. Amateur king; Frank Stranahan, Jimmy McHale and Sam Urzetta.

The British members selected this month will be good wind golfers. It's said that no man tours Birkdale and Hoylake with a good score unless he knows how to shoot the breeze.

Both courses are on the north-west coast where the Irish Sea blows free.

Hoylake borders on the sea and the River Dee where a high-flying No. 9 iron will send your ball out of sight forever. The same can be said for Birkdale.

Both layouts are tough. Par at Hoylake is 74 and the distance is 7,078 yards.

The best amateur performance there was a 70 by Bobby Jones in 1930 British Open. That was the year he won golfing's "grand slam": the British Open, British Amateur, American Open and American Amateur.

The best over Birkdale's 6,844 yards was a 70 by a British professional, A. L. Padgham. That was years ago and the folks are still trying to figure how he did it.

Four brothers on one team are enough to befuddle any opposing club, especially when the quartet figures in all five goals in a playoff game. Such was the feat of the Robertson freres, who sparked the Kenora, Ont., Thistles to the Western Canada intermediate hockey championship with a 5-1 win over Ponoka, Alta., Stampeders in the sixth game of the best-of-seven series. The Robertsons took over scoring duties with Sugar Robertson scoring two and Murray one, while Sam and Spike set up Bernier Milliard and Frank Richards, respectively, for the others. ## Serve Asparagus In Month of May

Those lucky people who have an asparagus patch in their garden get quite a thrill watching the green shoots poking their heads through the ground and no one can tell them when asparagus is at its very best, for they know. But for those homemakers who buy asparagus at the market or in the shop here are a few useful pointers from the home economists of the Department of Agriculture. Asparagus stalks should be straight and firm, bright green in color, and should have tightly closed tips. If the stalks are tender, they should be very brittle. If the stalks look wilted and the tips of the asparagus are spread, then it is quite possible that the asparagus has been cut too long. After the homemaker has selected fresh, tender, firm bunches of asparagus, she should hurry home and cook it, because asparagus toughens rapidly after it has been cut. If all the asparagus is not going to be used immediately, it should be dried thoroughly, then wrapped and stored in a cool place. If the asparagus is stored in a moist condition, it will lose its quality quickly.

The home economists of the Consumer Section suggest that when cooking asparagus, the stalks should be tied in a bundle, then placed upright in a small amount of boiling salted water and cooked until they are just tender. Young slender asparagus stalks should be tender in ten minutes but large less tender stalks may take fifteen or even twenty minutes. When cooking asparagus pieces, cut the asparagus stalks in one-inch pieces. Place the stalk ends in a small amount of boiling salted water and cook covered. When the stalks are almost tender, place the tips on top of the stalks and cook until they are tender.

Now is the time for those who have either a home freezer or a locker to freeze asparagus, for it is plentiful and of good quality. Select young tender stalks with tightly closed tips, remove any tough butts and scrape off the scales. Wash thoroughly to remove any sand, then cut the stalks in uniform lengths to fit whatever type of container is to be used. These ends which are trimmed off may be saved and frozen separately. Later on, they can be used in soups or casserole dishes. Blanch the asparagus stalks in boiling water to preserve the natural color and flavor. The large stalks should be blanched for four minutes and the medium stalks for three minutes. Cool the stalks quickly in ice water then drain thoroughly and pack in cartons. Freeze the cartons of asparagus as fast as possible so as to retain the flavor. Looking ahead to winter when meals are sometimes a little dull, the serving of hot buttered asparagus will perk up the family appetites just as if it were spring.

Don't you love to go out to a tea where the hostess serves toasted asparagus rolls? The family will love them too if two or three toasted good-sized rolls topped with a cheese sauce are served as a luncheon dish. One easy way to prepare the rolls is to place them in a square baking dish or on a cookie sheet and broil until they are crisp and brown. For a change the cooked asparagus may be rolled in ham or bologna slices, broiled the same way and served on toast with a cream sauce.

Asparagus Pie

2 Cups milk, 1 large bay leaf, 4 sprigs parsley, 4 thin slices onions, pinch of thyme, pinch of marjoram, 6 peppercorns, 4 tablespoons fat, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon fat, 1 cup canned pork, cut in ¼" cubes, 1 lb. asparagus, 1 9" baked pie shell, ½ cup Cheddar cheese, ¾ cup very fine buttered crumbs.

Bring milk to scalding point with bay leaf, parsley, onion, thyme, marjoram and peppercorns, then strain to remove seasonings. Make a cream sauce of the fat, flour, salt and strained milk. Meanwhile heat the 1 tablespoon of fat and add the cubed pork. Allow to brown and add to the cream sauce. Cook the asparagus in boiling salted water until just tender. Drain. Line the baked pie shell with half the cooked asparagus, all points leading away from the centre. Pour over them a thin layer of the sauce. Add remaining asparagus, points in this time, on top of the sauce. Combine remaining sauce and cheese and pour over asparagus. Top the dish with the buttered crumbs and brown quickly under the broiler. Yield: six servings.

Asparagus Egg Casserole

1 Lb. bunch asparagus, 6 hard-cooked eggs, ¾ cup minced canned pork, ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon grated onion, ¾ teaspoon dry mustard, 1 tablespoon milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 4 tablespoons fat, 6 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups milk, 1 cup grated Cheddar cheese, ½ cup buttered bread crumbs.

Cook asparagus in boiling salted water until just tender. Drain. Cut hard-cooked eggs in half lengthwise and remove yolks. Mash egg-yolks and blend with the meat, Worchestershire sauce, onion, mustard, milk, salt and pepper. Fill centres of the egg-white halves with egg-yolk mixture. Melt fat, blend in flour, salt and pepper and slowly stir in milk. Cook, stirring constantly until sauce thickens. Add grated cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Place asparagus in a layer on the bottom of a casserole. Arrange stuffed eggs in a layer on top. Pour cheese over the top with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., until thoroughly heated and crumbs are browned — about 25 minutes. Yield: six servings.

Asparagus and Pork Scallop

1 Lb. bunch asparagus, 1½ cups cheese sauce, ½ tin canned pork (6 oz.), 1 tablespoon grated cheese.

Cook asparagus. Pour part of the cheese sauce into an oval or oblong casserole. Add half the asparagus and cover with the remaining sauce. Cut the pork into fingers or cubes and place down the centre of the casserole. Arrange remaining asparagus on either side of the meat. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Place in a moderately hot oven 375°F., until thoroughly heated — 25 to 30 minutes if ingredients are cold. Yield: four servings.

A cookbook cover can be kept clean and in good condition with a light coating of shellac. This will help keep off food and finger marks. Recipe cards, too, will benefit from a coat of transparent shellac. Greasy marks can be wiped off after use without smearing the ink.

---

What to do with the last bits of cheese when they become hard and dry? Grate them and keep in the refrigerator to use in soups or cream sauces.

Devil Eggs—And Bake In Mushroom Sauce

FOR lunch on a May day, spread the sunny atmosphere at your table. How? With peppy deviled eggs, baked in a sauce of cream of mushroom soup.

This is a luncheon dish you can practically fix while you prepare breakfast. That is, you can cook the eggs then. And later, devil the yolks with zippy seasonings. Some tips on the eggs will help to give best results. Have the water simmering instead of boiling as eggs cook. Otherwise they may be tough. Cool the cooked eggs quickly by running cold water over them; this helps prevent yolks turning dark. And cool eggs are easier to shell and to cut.

Eggs baked in a mushroom sauce, with a generous sprinkling of cheese, have real melt-in-your-mouth flavor. A crisp salad of greens, radishes and cucumber accompanies the eggs nicely. Last course, rhubarb betty with cream.

Baked Deviled Eggs With Mushroom Sauce

6 hard-cooked eggs, cut in half lengthwise
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
Dash salt and pepper
Dash Worcestershire sauce
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed cream of mushroom soup
¼ cup milk
½ cup shredded, sharp process cheese

Blend egg yolks, mayonnaise, mustard, salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce; stuff into egg whites. Place eggs in a small shallow baking pan. Blend soup and milk; pour over eggs; sprinkle cheese on top. Bake in a moderate oven (375°F.) about 30 minutes or until lightly browned. 6 servings.

Celebrate Mother's Day With Steak-Burger: Dad or the teenagers might well grill a steak dinner in honor of the "Lady of the House" on Mother's Day. The steak can be a mighty fine version when made with a pound of ground beef and a can (1¼ cups) of beef gravy. Just mix the beef with ½ cup of gravy, ¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon minced onion, salt and pepper. Shape this into a large "burger," about 1 inch thick. Broil until done and well browned. Pass remaining gravy to pour over burger. Dad can carve meat and serve with buttered green peas and fruit salad.

Reducers, Sip Bouillon or Consommé: If you're trying to lose weight, keep canned bouillon or consommé on hand for a nutritious snack. To prepare as a hot beverage, mix with an equal amount of water; heat. Serve with a wedge of lemon if you like. One cup of either beverage equals about 30 or 40 calories; and it contributes protein. Doctors often include these as "free foods" on low calorie diets.

For Men of All Ages

By Betty Barclay

Chances are the sweethearts in your life are the man of the house and the little fellow who's his Dad's carbon copy! But be it husband, son, or beau, all men have one thing in common — a well developed sweet-tooth! So what better way to tell them how much they mean to you than by baking these super-delicious Heart Cakes? They'll love them!

Heart Cakes

2¼ Cups sifted Swansdown cake flour; 2½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup shortening, 1½ cups sugar, 2 eggs, unbeaten, *milk (see below for amount), 1 teaspoon vanilla.

*With butter, margarine, or lard, use 1 cup milk. With vegetable or any other shortening, use 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons milk.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating very thoroughly after each. Then add flour mixture alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. • Add vanilla and blend. Bake in 13 x 9 x 2-inch pan which has been lined on bottom with paper in moderate oven (375°F.) 35 minutes, or until done. Cut out individual cakes with a heart-shaped cookie cutter. Frost with seven minute frosting and cover sides generously with coconut. Outline heart with confectioners' frosting tinted red with food coloring.

Cheaper Cuts of Meat Just as Nutritive As Expensive Steaks

There is good news for the budget-minded in the statement that the food value of cheaper cuts of meat is just as high as that of the more expensive ones. Miss Florence Swan, nutritionist in the Maternal and Child Health Division, Department of Health, N.B., is authority for the statement. She says that meat offers one of the best opportunities homemakers have of saving pennies by wise shopping.

"All muscle meats have practically the same nourishing qualities, the advantage, if any, being in favor of the less tender cuts", advises Miss Swan. "Such cuts may be made tender and tempting by slow cooking and combining with vegetables and seasonings in casseroles, meat loaves, meat pies, and the like. If cooked in these ways, a small amount of inexpensive meat will satisfy the family appetite and help to reduce meat bills."

The New Brunswick nutritionist recommends such cuts as chuck breast of veal, shoulder of lamb, chopped meat, and stew meat from the neck and shank. With the exception of chopped meat, these all need slow cooking; and this may appear to be a problem to women who work and reach home just before the dinner hour. Miss Swan suggests that in such households, provided there is refrigeration, meat required longer cooking can be partially cooked the preceding day and then given its final cooking a short time before eating.

"Soups and stews are popular, but while they save time and work, they have disadvantages", adds Miss Swan. "They usually contain meat with considerable fat, and vegetables cooked with fat are not suitable for children. Vegetables cooked in this way are often overcooked, with unnecessary destruction of vitamins. And there is the further point that the quantity of vegetables per person is usually less than a serving of vegetables cooked by themselves." Another way to cut meat bills is to plan the week's menu with meat on three or four days, fish at least once, and eggs, legumes (beans or peas), or cheese at least once. Nuts also may replace meat to a certain extent.

Says Busy Canadians Miss Life's By-Ways

Edmonton (CP) — Canadians are too busy racing down the highways of life, and should spend a few minutes daily looking into relaxing byways.

That's the opinion of Mamie S. Simpson, dean of women at the University of Alberta, who says we should take a little more time to look into the idealistic aspects if we are to lead balanced lives. She suggested five by-ways:

1—Reading is most important; not digests, not professional reading, but books for pure enjoyment and relaxation. Music, too, is "the truly universal language."

2—Although age changes a person's tastes in athletics, everyone should participate in some type of sport. "We must never feel that we can't accomplish something in sports. If it's nothing more than a little walk, it's still sport."

3—"The greatest thing in life is to have friends. Nothing else will really matter except people who come along when we need them."

4—Travel, but "when you know you're going somewhere, do a little reading so you'll know what to look for."

5—Plan a philosophy of living, based on giving, not receiving. "Ideals, like the stars, are not reached, but we use them to chart our course."

Tiny Chinchilla Stages Comeback

South American Rodent Among World's Top Fur-Bearing Animals

Winnipeg (CP) — A tiny, aristocratic rodent, worth its weight in gold, is staging a come-back in the fashion world.

The chinchilla is being slowly bred back from near extinction to resume its place among the finest fur bearing animals.

The chinchilla is not a rabbit, although often confused with the rabbit breed of the same name. It is a South American native, a branch of the rodent family.

Few animals are on the market at present and will probably not be made available as prospective fur coats until about three years have passed and their numbers have sufficiently increased. At that time about $40,000 will get milady a shimmering, silky blue-grey wrap.

About 40 Manitobans have paid $1,200 to $1,500 for a pair of the 20-ounce animals to start breeding.

Delicate Fur

Small and squirrel-faced, hardly larger than a man's hand, the chinchilla has dense fur which sprouts about 80 hairs to the follicle. The individual hair is so delicate the human hand cannot feel it. It is about 10 times finer than a spider's web and goes to make the warmest fur yet discovered.

Chinchillas resemble rabbits in their vegetarian diet but are monogamous by nature and are more difficult to bred. The average litter is two or three twice a year and if one mate dies the other is hard to rematch. The female is larger and more dangerous than the male.

The little animals make illusive prey for a hunter. They can jump from 20 to 30 feet.

The only pelts in Canada now are from culls or dead animals. There are only about enough pelts in the entire world to make 200 coats and only about 36 coats in existence. Among the favored owners are the Queen Mother, Princess Margaret, Hedy Lamarr and Lily Pons.

Feeding of Baby Is Big Business In Canning Trade

Hamilton — Canada's well-fed army of infants — with an estimated 395,000 new recruits annually — has given birth to a multi-million-dollar industry, the manufacture of canned baby foods.

First-hand evidence of the increased appetite of the nation's very young is the record of 120,026,880 cans (preliminary government estimate) of canned baby food turned out last year, valued at more than $10 millions, according to the American Can Company, which developed the modern infant food can in the mid-twenties.

"The nation's canners are not the only ones who are happy over babies' eating habits", stated G. H. McVean, Canadian sales manager for this company. "Canadian farmers, for example, annually receive significant revenue for the fruits, vegetables, meats and other products that canners preserve for junior."

"Mother is perhaps the happiest of all", he added. "It takes her more than an hour to prepare a serving of fresh strained green beans in her home and about half an hour for an order of strained peaches. She can open and warm a can of ready-to-eat baby food in less time than it takes baby to eat it."

Says Canuck Gals Doll Up Too Much

Toronto (CP) — Canadian women doll up too much. That's the opinion of Alan Hopper, 25-year-old YMCA delegate just back from a six-month trip covering half the world.

He thinks they wear too many clothes and the clothes they wear are too fancy.

"That's the first thing I noticed at the airport. I thought, "My gosh, you'd think they were celebrating something'," he said.

Mr. Hopper was selected, along with four other Canadians, to attend the third world Christian youth conference in southern India.

This drew 300 delegates from 42 nations. The sessions were picketed by Communists.

"India has troubles from nationalism, religion, land, poverty, the caste system and archaic marriage laws", Hopper said.

Women in Parliament

The all-male group questioned by The Financial Post is preponderantly in favor of giving women a bigger share in parliamentary and legislative responsibility.

Experience in U.S., India and China is cited as one precedent for electing more women for office. More women in government, it is urged, would result in less extravagant government — since women are experts in getting value for money, as one respondent puts it.

An opposing view holds that women as a group tend to take a short and personal view of social problems.

WOMEN IRKED BY INFORMALITY

Newcastle, England (CP) — The Women's Civic Committee, representing the women of this Yorkshire town, wrote the Chamber of Trade seeking "more formality in the way women shoppers are addressed by store assistants." Women are tired, it said, of being addressed as Luv, Duck, Dear, Treasure or Pet.

Mrs. Leggett, Convener, Issues W.I. Message For Mental Health Week

"Members of the Quebec Women's Institutes are keenly aware of the need for more knowledge of mental health services, especially in rural districts", says Mrs. George Leggett, Lachute, provincial convener of Welfare and Health, in a message urging observance of Mental Health Week, May 3 to 9.

Calling attention to the work of the Canadian Mental Health Association, the organization sponsoring this week, she quotes from a statement prefacing statistics recently published by that Association which state that the wide field of mental illness constitutes the largest special medical and hospital problem in Canada. She refers to the educational program in Mental Health to be undertaken by the Q.W.I. in country districts and urges all possible support be given to existing agencies working to that end.

Concluding her message, Mrs. Leggett gives the theme for Mental Health Week, "Poor Mental Health — Let us fight it where we find it", and adds, "Working together, learning together, dealing with problems together, we can do much to help our families and communities meet the challenge of our times."

MAGNETIC DENTURES

London — "Magnetic" dentures are now on sale both in Britain and overseas by a Lancashire firm. Each set of dentures is fitted with small but extremely powerful magnets of the same polarity. Because "like" poles of a magnet repel each other, the upper and lower dentures remain firmly in place on the gums.

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

On Mother's Day

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"Whatever you do, all of yer, never forget for one second that yer mother was a McGrill!" admonished Mrs. Ruggles as her final instruction to her children as to how to behave at a party to which they had all been invited.

Readers may smile at this little incident — but how many mothers have given their children guidance for their behavior when out "in company"! In China when a youth gets into trouble, it is the parents, and not the adolescent who are judged — and to a certain extent that is true in our country too. When young men or women distinguish themselves in their work or in their service to the community, is it not fair that their parents should also share the approval of the public?

On Mother's Day, men and women in every walk of life, boys and girls in all kinds of homes, pay tribute to their mothers. Famous people have written in glowing words of their mother's influence. Benjamin West, the president of the Royal Academy of Arts in London, England, early in the last century once said, "A kiss from my mother made me a painter." Abraham Lincoln, declared "All that I am, or hope to be, I owe to my angel mother."

A tribute to a mother is a very personal thing. It is colored by remembrance of childhood days. Although some people scoff at Mother's Day as a commercial scheme, surely it has its value! In a hurried age everyone seems to be in a rush. Many people are reticent about expressing their deeper emotions. It is well to have a time to pause and think of the debt to all mothers.

W. D. Howells once wrote: "A man never sees all that his mother has been to him till it's too late to let her know that he sees it." What a pity if this is so! If our mother has passed on to the "Great Beyond", let us recall all that she did for us, on her day. We can observe this occasion by making a special effort to do something she would delight to see us do — attend Divine Worship or help some poor mother who is having a hard struggle to bring up her children.

If we are fortunate enough to have our mothers still with us, Mother's Day is an occasion when we can use our imagination to give a gift which will express our love. Flowers, candy, a book, a picture, something for her to wear or for her home — what a wide variety of presents there are from which to select one which will give Mother real pleasure!

When there are small children in the family, Dad must take responsibility for planning with them, presents for Mother's Day and some special treat. One of the things which might give her the biggest thrill of all would be to surprise her with breakfast in bed — let her know that on this one day she won't have to prepare a meal or wash a dish! The family won't really suffer — and it will do them good to know from experience all the thought and work which goes into planning and cooking the family meals, and washing up afterwards three times a day, seven days in a week, fifty-two weeks in a year.

Make Mother's Day a real holiday for mother. "Deeds not words" — here is a practical tribute to mother's worth — a demonstration of how much she is appreciated, by everyone in the home. What if you burn the toast or scorch the vegetables? — Mother is having a little "break" away from her usual tasks!

60 Quebec Children Win Art Contest Awards

Presented at Annual Meet Of Quebec Federation of Home-School Associations

Sixty Quebec school children ranging in age from six to 18 have received awards in the "What I Do on Saturday" Art Contest, sponsored by the Quebec Federation of Home and School Associations. Prizes were presented to the winners by Dr. Arthur Lismer, Educational Supervisor, Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, and Mrs. Paul Weil, Chairman of the Art Contest Committee, last Saturday afternoon at the conclusion of the two-day annual meeting of the Quebec Federation, which was held at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal.

Several thousand entries from all over the province were received, according to Mrs. Weil. Prizes consisted of art materials donated by the Hughes-Owens Co. and by Grumbacher of Canada, and scholarships to the School of Art and Design. Prize-winning pictures were exhibited at the Windsor Hotel during the conference. Winners in the three age groups included children from Montreal and district, Hudson, Quebec City, Valleyfield, Lennoxville and Knowlton. Those receiving the first four prizes in each group were:

Ages 6-9: Mariam Blum (scholarship), Montreal; Melvin Baylin, Montreal; Roger Turcotte, Lennoxville; Marsha Goldstein, Montreal.

Ages 10-13: Margaret Poole (scholarship), Town of Mount Royal; Marsha Small, Montreal; David Peters, Town of Mount Royal; Pam Cousens, Hudson.

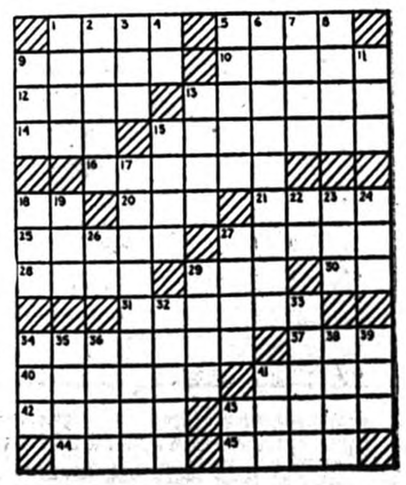

Ages 14 and over: Sandra Rich, Montreal; Bernice Thomas, Montreal West; Barbara Clarkson, Ville St. Laurent; Robert Woollerton, Lennoxville.

Some 500 delegates attended the Provincial Conference, representing 123 local Home and School Associations with an aggregate of over 17,000 parents and teacher members.

Garden-Graph

Tiptoe through your tulips this spring and look for any that have sent up single leaves of large size, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. If you find this type of single leaf it means that some of your tulips, at least, have "run out." It also means that underground a cluster of baby bulbs is struggling to grow up, as illustrated.

Tulips propagate naturally by producing a crop of new bulbs, some of them very small. These new baby bulbs take the place of the old bulb, which seems to disappear entirely.

When this happens to your tulips, dig up the baby bulbs and keep them for a month or so in a cool, dry, dark place to dry out. Then separate them and remove dried-up roots.

If you are interested in aiding Nature in her propagation program, plant the young bulbs again late in the fall. It is best to plant them in a bed of their own where you can keep tab on them. Set the bulbs four inches deep.

From then on for a few years or so it will be necessary to take up the bulbs every summer and replant them again in the fall in their special nursery bed.

The bulbs will reach blooming size again in from two to three years, after which they can be set out in garden beds.

Many home gardeners find it interesting to help develop the baby tulip bulbs. Others prefer to plant new full-sized bulbs every fall in order to enjoy the colorful blooms with certainty the following spring.

Fabrics of "Orlon" acrylic fibre will hold pleats well enough to withstand washings and the pleats can be set (and removed) with an ordinary hand iron.

The bravest battle that ever was fought;
Shall I tell you where and when?
On the maps of the world you will find it not;
It was fought by the mothers of men.

Prairie Province Attracts Anglers

Yorkton, Sask. (CP) — Angling in Saskatchewan is becoming increasingly popular, says A. J. MacDonald, director of fisheries.

Addressing a fish and game meeting here, he said fishing licenses last year brought in $93,000 — $42,000 of it from tourists. Ten years ago the over-all total was only $10,000.

Tourists in answer to queries said their main reason for visiting Saskatchewan was to fish.

Mr. MacDonald said the province has more than 20,000 square miles of water, an area equal in size to Nova Scotia and 10 times larger than Prince Edward Island.

Fish and Game Associations could assist greatly by encouraging conservation. This was necessary if Canada's 3,000,000 fishermen and the 25,000,000 in the United States were to continue to enjoy the sport and at the same time have resources managed wisely.

The department has investigated 120 farm reservoirs in Saskatchewan with the idea of stocking them. Restocking of lakes proved inefficient compared with nature's methods.

CAMP EXPERIMENTS

Winnipeg (CP) — Three experimental roadside parks have been built by the highways department and decision as to whether more will be built rests on the care taken of them by travellers this summer. The camps are at Emerson, Rat Creek and La Verendrye.

KITE FLYERS

Vauxhall, Alta. (CP) — Girls won two of the three prizes at a kite-flying contest at the elementary school here. Girls won awards for the best-constructed and best-decorated kites but a boy won the prize for flying his kite the highest.

Local residents might have thought the Korean war had suddenly come to Cushing, as two men in a car amused themselves on Saturday by firing shots as they drove along. Clifford was one of the first three Canadian sailors chosen to take this tour, the purpose of which was to familiarize the Navy with how the Army operates. After an eight-day tour, these three sailors from HMCS Crescent were happy to return to their quarters on the destroyer.

Family Circle Is Enlarged by Two Sets of Quints

—Central Press Canadian

Two sister nubians on the ranch of U.S. screen star Ronald Regan (seen above) made goat-history recently in one of the most unusual animal births on record. Both nubians produced quintuplets from the same sire within a span of eight hours. Experts who have estimated that the chances of one nubian goat giving birth to quints is one in 500,000, were unable to compute the odds on two sister goats both producing quintuplets. The screen star, who is attending the new additions himself on his ranch on the outskirts of Hollywood, Cal., reports all are doing fine although the feeding problem is complicated. The animals have to be individually bottle-fed—a chore which involves all hands on the Regan ranch.

Various Projects Discussed by Morin Ch. of Commerce

Restocking of Lakes, Bus Service, Curfew And Other Matters

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — The regular Chamber of Commerce meeting was held recently under chairmanship of the president, A. Basler.

Mr. C. A. Dagenais attended the meeting to give a full explanation on the survey made for the Lake Project. After discussing many important details, he advised the Chamber to have six blueprints made of this survey so that a committee might approach the land owners involved to explain how their respective properties will be affected. . . A committee was chosen accordingly.

It was moved that a letter of sympathy be sent to Mrs. E. J. Watchorn in her recent bereavement; also the Chamber would like her to accept the transfer of membership to her name.

A letter was read from Mr. A. Harold, of the Transportation Board, advising that a thorough study of bus service from the Victory Bus Lines will be made before the second week of September, 1953. He also stated that if the short stretch of road beyond Morin Heights was improved, the bus would give approximately the same service in the winter as in summer. However, if this stretch of road is not improved some arrangement will be made with Provincial Transport Company to provide temporary service.

Mrs. Graves read a letter from Mr. Prevost, of the Quebec Biological Bureau, stating his department would stock the Simon River (near Hamilton's) in the fall, and that they would test the village pond for biological value. As to Lac Marguerite and Black Lake, these were privately owned, and the owners would have to pay private hatcheries to stock their own lakes. It was suggested that if anyone knows of a public lake that the Chamber could have stocked, they should contact Mrs. Graves, chairman of this committee.

The secretary was asked to contact a Dr. Robertson, who, according to report, contemplates establishing a practice in Morin Heights.

After a short discussion as to Chamber membership fees, it was decided that persons joining in the last six months of the year should be charged only half the yearly rate.

The secretary was instructed to contact the committee and have the Welcome sign erected before the next meeting.

A letter was read from J. W. Green, secretary treasurer of the municipality, stating that Mr. Holgate has been appointed to act for the Council on any activities being planned for Coronation Day, June 2. Mr. Cameron was appointed to represent the Chamber of Commerce on the committee being formed. In the event of financial outlay the maximum amount to be spent by the Chamber is $25. It was also suggested that the committee try and defray costs of any amusements that day by whatever way they see fit.

The meeting decided to advise the Municipal Council that this Chamber approves the enactment of a curfew law banning children from the streets at 9 p.m., but that it was felt the age limit should be 14 and under, instead of 15.

Industrial Chemicals And Public Health

What keeps Canadians so healthy? Give credit to doctors, dentists, nurses, public health officials, educationists, volunteer groups and others. Parents too, of course, when you think of the younger generation's bounce and energy. All these share in the ceaseless work being done to maintain the nation's health. In the background, sometimes overlooked as an important members of this team, is the chemist.

For example, public health cannot be considered without noting the importance of a primary chemical, chlorine, used in sterilizing water. This chemical has been responsible for suppressing typhus and other epidemics once prevalent in urban areas, according to an article in the current issue of C-I-L Oval.

The disastrous Winnipeg flood three years ago gave chlorine another chance to prove its benefits to humanity when it was used extensively in flooded basements to prevent any possible outbreak of typhoid fever. Then again, chemicals we use for cleaning homes, clothes and our bodies (javel water, synthetic detergents and soap) are inexpensive and available to everyone.

Newer products of the chemical industry are also finding a place in the health picture. Nylon thread is used in sutures by surgeons. "Lucite" and other plastics frequently replace parts of smashed skulls and other bones. Nylon plastic has proved the most successful material yet known for use as a radium applicator.

The article points out that the chemical industry is actually an offshoot of the pharmaceutical industry and that 70 years ago a pharmacist and a chemist were generally thought of as one person.

One of the earliest chemical industries was established soon after 1856 when Sir William Perkin was trying to produce synthetically the anti-malaria drug — quinine. He found instead a purple dye, the first synthetic dye to be produced. Since then thousands of synthetic dyestuffs have been produced, nearly all of which stemmed from coal-tar derivatives like aniline.

On CBC Program 'Leicester Square'

Harry Pryce is one musician who doesn't care a fig for the current hit parade. As the smiling conductor of the Leicester Square to Broadway orchestra, heard Tuesday nights on CBC, he is mainly interested in the songs of 25 or 50 years ago. Much of the old concert-hall music used on the program has been contributed by faithful listeners. Harry Pryce was in at the start of Leicester Square when it began on the network nearly 11 years ago.

Eskimos Treated At Hamilton San

Hamilton, Ont. (CP)—Hamilton's Mountain Sanatorium is 500 miles from the icy wastes of the northland, but it is well known among the Eskimos.

For many years, Eskimos with severe cases of tuberculosis have been brought here for specialized treatment and surgery. The less serious cases are treated at the hospital at Moose Factory on the southernmost tip of James Bay.

At present, there are eight adult Eskimos, two men and six women, under treatment in Mountain. They come from Port Harrison in Northern Quebec and the Albany and Fort George areas of Ontario.

Although far from home and among strange people who do not know their language, the patients from the north appear happy.

Doctors and nurses at the San describe the Eskimos as wonderful patients who are always willing and quick to learn.

The greatest difficulty is the language barrier, but most communication between doctors and the natives is carried on by an improvised sign language.

After the Eskimos receive their special treatment here, they are returned to the 250-bed hospital at Moose Factory to convalesce.

"Most Excellent Majesty"

London — Development of the monarchy in England from Alfred the Great to Queen Elizabeth II is the theme of a lavishly illustrated booklet written by Dermot Morrah, late fellow of All Souls College, Oxford, and published by H.M. Stationery Office, London. Entitled "Most Excellent Majesty", the booklet summarises the history of the Crown, its place in the Commonwealth and its relation to the people, in 36 pages.

This booklet is available from the United Kingdom Information Office, 275 Albert Street, Ottawa, at 30 cents postpaid. It is included in the Coronation edition of the "British Package" prepared by the U.K.I.O. for the use of study groups, students, etc. The "package" contains posters, maps and pamphlets, and a film strip, "Royal Wedding", and sells at $2.50 postpaid.

Canadian Tanker Directs Air Attack On "Old Baldy"

—Central Press Canadian.

A Canadian army tanker, flying as an observer in a spotter plane, directed an incredible bomber strike only 50 yards from U.S. Seventh Division troops on tortured Old Baldy mountain in Korea. Lieut. William E. Ward, seen above, of Toronto, spotted a freshly dug circular trench on Baldy, and contacted ground commanders to see if they wanted it bombed. They did, and so Ward manoeuvred the bombers in the daring venture which saw 100 tons of bombs dropped on the scarred oval peak in perhaps the most merciless dawn-to-dusk pounding ever given a single enemy position in Korea.

On Government Housing

Housing record of Western Germany could stand examination by Canadians. Following figures show completions for both countries over the last four years:

| | Canada | Western Germany |
|---|---|---|
| 1949 | 91,655 | 215,000 |
| 1950 | 91,754 | 360,000 |
| 1951 | 84,810 | 433,000 |
| 1952 | 76,302 | 440,000 |

Population of Canada is 15 million; of Western Germany 50 million. Thus, Canada built five houses last year for every 1,000 of population; Germany built nine. Completions in Canada this year may reach 100,000; Germans are aiming at 500,000.

Lower costs in Germany may have something to do with these figures. Average new house costs $3,300. Average new house in Canada costs three times as much.

Congress in Washington is losing no time getting U.S. Government out of the housing business. Bill adopted by House Appropriations committee provides for termination June 30 of public housing program. In Ottawa, meanwhile, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, settled in luxurious multi-million dollar headquarters in the Capital, shows no sign of going out of business.

Reason is that Ottawa, unlike Washington and London, has not yet awakened to fact that notion of government embarking on business ventures at taxpayers' expense is no longer fashionable.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. I am moving to the U.S.A. Can I get a rebate on my insurance book?

A. No. However, under an agreement between the United States and Canada, to which nearly all the states have subscribed, you may have a claim for benefit taken by the U.S. office in your locality should you become unemployed in the United States, and you may be paid any benefit for which you qualify under the Canadian Unemployment Insurance Act.

Q. Do I have to accept any job offered to me while I am on claim?

A. No. A claimant may be disqualified for refusing suitable employment. Suitable employment is not defined and every case is decided on its own merits, the following factors, among others, being taken into consideration, namely previous occupation, previous wages and wages offered, length of time unemployed, physical capability of the claimant, his domestic circumstances, etc.

Q. If I take a job in non-insurable employment can I still be insured and pay my own premiums?

A. No, except where your employment becomes non-insurable because your yearly earnings have risen to more than $4,800, and where you have already been insured for at least 180 days in the two-year period immediately preceding this event.

How many Canadians keep warm with oil?

More than 4 millions. Oil is used in the furnaces or heaters of more than a million Canadian homes—better than one in four.

Oil plays a large and growing part in our everyday living. How many of these questions about it can you answer?

How does Canada rank among the nations in known oil reserves— 8th? 17th? 21st?
Far down the list a few years ago. Canada now ranks eighth. Except for a group of Middle East countries—Iran, Iraq, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia—only the U.S., Venezuela and Russia have larger reserves.

How many barrels of oil (35 gallons to a barrel) do you think Canadians use in a year— 8 millions? 165 millions? 300 millions?
Last year 165 million barrels—about one gallon each day for every man, woman and child. Canada uses twice as much oil as she did six years ago.

In the past 10 years, the average wholesale prices of all commodities have risen 85 per cent. Have prices of Esso gasolines risen— more? less? about the same?
Much less. The average wholesale price of Esso gasolines across Canada is up about one-third as much as the average for all commodities.

Energy produced at Niagara Falls each day is equal to that in 9,000 barrels of crude oil. Prairie oil fields now produce energy equal to how many "Niagaras"— 2? 11? 18?
The energy of the oil produced in the western oil fields each day is about 18 times that generated at Niagara.

Taxes take a big part of a company's income. How would you say Imperial's 1952 tax bill compared with its dividends? Was it— greater? less? about the same?
Taxes were $55 millions, about 2½ times dividends to shareholders. For each dollar of income, Imperial paid 10¢ in taxes and 4¢ in dividends. Tax figures do not include gasoline sales tax paid at the pump.

PAY-AS-YOU-GO TOWN CELEBRATES 21st BIRTHDAY

The proudest, most confident town council in Canada is that of Matachewan, Northern Ontario, celebrating its 21st birthday this summer. The council claims Matchewan is the only pay-as-you-go town in the province, but they still can afford a curling rink, an eight-team junior hockey league, tourists' camps — and the highest voting record in elections of any town in the Dominion. The 1,700 citizens have a major event to celebrate this year—the completion of the highway linking Matchewan with Kirkland Lake, shortening the town's link and its mineral and forest products with the outside world by 100 miles. The council members are Roy Stewart, Jim Fraser, J. B. McCormick, William Legace, Bernard Gelinas and Pete Larabie.

CBC Presents Life of Sir John A. Macdonald

The story of Canada's first prime minister, Sir John A. Macdonald, will be told over CBC Trans-Canada in two Wednesday Night broadcasts on May 13 and May 20.

The broadcasts will mark the first move in a new approach to Canadian historical biography. Written for radio by Tommy Tweed, the broadcasts are based to a large extent on the book "Sir John A. Macdonald, the Young Politician", written by Donald Creighton, a professor of history at the University of Toronto. The publication of the book a few months ago was likened to a fresh new wind blowing through the dusty museum of Canadian history and biography.

It was Sir Wilfrid Laurier who said that the life of Sir John A. Macdonald was the history of Canada from the date he entered parliament. The broadcasts, as did the book, will cut away much of what obscured the period and present it for what it was, an era of fierce antagonisms and struggle with a wilderness so vast that only men with the vision of a Macdonald could see Canada ever becoming a nation.

Each of the broadcasts will be of two hours duration, with John Drainie playing the role of Macdonald. Time of the broadcasts will be 8 p.m. EDT.

Maintain Sanity On the Home Front

Metropolitan Opera, New York, already in a shaky financial position, may be closed down by wage demands of musicians and stage hands for the 1953-54 season. Opera's "flat and final" offer is a 2 per cent increase, good for two years. But stage hands are insisting on 8 per cent, musicians on more.

Reporting these facts, the New York Times notes that some 40 of the Metropolitan's stage hands earned more than $10,000 each last year — "a figure not equalled by a good many of the second-line singers who provide the foundation of the regular casts." As for musicians, their minimum wage scale is among the best in the U.S., and with considerable overtime the average earnings are high.

Foreigners will think it strange that a few trade union bosses should be able to shut down one of the greatest cultural institutions in the world's leading nation. But is it stranger than the periodic shutting down of entire U.S. industries by the same kind of people? Eisenhower administration has not yet faced up to this absurdity; will have to do so, if only for sake of U.S. prestige abroad. Nations calling for sanity and order in the world at large must show themselves able to maintain sanity and order at home.

Dog-fight discourager

We know one bellicose dog who won't welcome the latest thing in aluminum: an electric dog-prod. Next time Towser rushes into battle, you can nonchalantly produce this two-foot aluminum rod and apply it to the handiest part of the dog's anatomy. The resulting shock is quite harmless, but they say a few "treatments" cure the pugnacity of even the toughest tyke.

Speaking of electricity, Canadians can take pride that the largest stranded electrical cable ever made for an overhead transmission line has been delivered by Alcan's Shawinigan Falls plant to the West Coast, to carry power to our new smelter now a-building at Kitimat. ## 15 "Missing" Canucks Are Found in Red Camps

Relatives and friends of 15 Canadian soldiers shed tears of joy on receiving news that their sons, husbands had been reported as prisoners of war after being listed as dead or missing in Korea. The soldiers' names were brought out in a notebook of Paul Dugal of Quebec City, first Canadian to be exchanged by Reds in program now being carried out at Panmunjom. Among the lucky ones to receive news that her husband was alive and safe is Mrs. Marion Rothwell of Dundas, Ont., seen above with her two children.

Following his release by Chinese Communists, Lance-Corporal Paul Dugal, seen at left, was flown from Freedom Village at Panmunjom to Seoul military hospital. In a few days he will be evacuated to Kure, Japan, and then home to Canada. Captured June 23, 1952, during an attack by the Royal 22nd Regiment against enemy positions, Dugal was in a semi-paralyzed condition, due to a head wound, on his return to Allies, but despite this was overwhelmed with joy. Among 15 Canadians listed in his book as prisoners of Reds was Pte. E. J. R. Fields, at right, of Windsor, Ont.

—Central Press Canadian Photos

Other Canadians listed alive included Pte. Elmer James McInnis, left, Cape Breton; L.-Cpl. Gerald Allan McKinney of Melita, Man., and Pte. Donald Orson of Ridgetown, Ont. The list included 12 men from the Royal Canadian Regiment captured during the Little Gibraltar Hill battle last Oct. 23, when a company was overrun; two men from the Royal 22nd captured Nov. 24, 1951, and Pte. A. Baker of Montreal, the only one of them in hospital. Nine of them come from Ontario. Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Manitoba are also represented. With minor differences in spelling or address, all the names were listed by the army as missing in action in a recapitulation April 9 of Canadians who might be in the hands of the Reds. Only one man, Gnr. O. J. Jenkins of Hamilton, Ont., was mentioned in that list as a known prisoner.

Canada's Newest Industrial Giant

Nation's Largest Production Plant Under One Roof, Ford Oakville, Opens May 11

At 3.45 o'clock (DST) next Monday afternoon, the first car will drive off the assembly line at Ford of Canada's new plant at Oakville, Ont., signalling the start of production for Canada's newest industrial giant.

Although no large public ceremony is planned, a number of civic officials from the area will be present, with representatives of the press.

Start of the Oakville assembly line operations in the 32½ acre plant marks the completion of one stage in Ford of Canada's huge expansion program. The other stage is the enlargement and modernization of manufacturing facilities at Windsor to keep pace with the capacity of the Oakville plant. Cost of the total expansion program has been estimated at $65,000,000, approximately half for the Oakville plant and half for new facilities in Windsor.

The build-up production at the new plant will be gradual as Ford Oakville first takes over the assembly of cars, then the trucks. Installation of the truck assembly lines will proceed in one part of the plant while passenger cars are being built in another section. Step by step, with as little production interruption as possible, assembly operation will be moved from Windsor and, as fast as space is vacated in the Windsor plants, new manufacturing equipment will be installed to raise the overall production capacity of the company.

Embodying the latest in industrial architecture the Oakville plant will be almost smokeless, noiseless and odorless. The interior of the plant has been designed both for production efficiency and the comfort of employees.

The major construction job in the interior of the plant was the installation of the immensely complicated automobile assembly lines. The operation of the entire plant — the largest industrial plant under one roof in Canada — must be coordinated so that the right part reaches the right car at exactly the right moment. To supply the needed power, more than 300 miles of wire and high tension cable and a score of transformers have been installed.

A three-quarter mile race track could be laid out inside the building — and still leave plenty of room for thousands of spectators. Or you could put 14 Maple Leaf Gardens on its roof. More than 8,000 tons of steel went into its construction. It used more than 50,000 cubic yards of concrete; 250,000 square feet of aluminum siding; more than 1,000,000 bricks; and more than 2,000,000 man-hours of labor. The building is 1,760 feet in length (⅓ of a mile) and 800 feet wide, or close to 1,270,000 square feet of floor area.

When in full production the new plant will employ about 4,000 people.

When you go to the store you can be pretty sure that you will find whatever you need on the shelves. The wise storekeeper stockpiles his goods so as to always have them available for his customers.

But the power company cannot stockpile electricity. It can't be manufactured and then stored until it is needed. It must be used as soon as it is needed.

However, if electricity can't be stockpiled, the water that makes it can! To store the water the company has had to construct huge dams and the water is released as it is needed. Thus, no matter what hour of the day or night you need electricity, it is there at a flick of the switch.

A Swedish firm recently began to manufacture a bark remover. This machine stands on wheels, is electrically driven by two completely enclosed motors, and is assembled in a frame construction. It is entirely automatic and debarks 2,200 trunks in a 10½-hour day. The yearly capacity is 330 thousand trunks when it is effectively operated for 150 days with five men serving it. The machine weighs about three tons and develops 16 h.p. It is capable of debarking logs with diameters of from 2 to 12 inches. The debarking instrument is a counterbalanced drum of cast steel with three steel cutting blades so shaped that they are automically opened by the log and by centrifugal force successively. They are reported to scale off the bark without any appreciable loss of wood.

Wild Oats Control

"To control wild oats as effectively as mustard in cereal crops has been our objective for several years", says George Knowles of the Field Husbandry Division of the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa. It appears this objective may be attained, in part at least.

On the Central Experimental Farm in 1952 a heavy infestation of wild oats was controlled almost 100 per cent in barley with little injury, by applying in a low volume spray one pound per acre of Maleic Hydrazide (active ingredient), on barley which had been in head for six days. At that time the wild oats were only in the shot blade stage. This treatment controlled wild oats by making the heads sterile, that is, they contained hardly any seed. The same treatment applied on a variety of oats which headed at the same time as the wild oats, and on a variety of wheat which headed at the same time as the barley, caused almost complete sterility of the oat crop and a partial sterility of wheat. The germination of the wheat, moreover, was severely reduced.

This margin of difference in the growth stage between wild oats and some cereal crops may make the selective control of wild oats possible, says Mr. Knowles. He adds, "This promising method of controlling wild oats will be thoroughly tested with all cereal crops this year on five Experimental Farms located in areas where wild oats is a serious problem."

Applications of Maleic Hydrazide, a new chemical not yet available for commercial use, are still in the experimental stage.

What to Look For In Seed Grain

Ottawa — The most essential factors to be looked for in seed grain are adaptability, vitality and purity, advises H. A. Riordan, Assistant Technician at the Experimental Farm at Nappan, N.S.

The variety should be one which is recommended for the district concerned, he says.

It is important to use seed which has high germination, and proper management on the part of the grower is extremely important. Immature grain often heats and moulds in storage, thus lowering germination and such grain should not be used for seed purposes. Underdeveloped, diseased or frosted kernels also germinate poorly and should be removed. Modern seed cleaning equipment is available in most areas and capable of removing most of the undesirable kernels, straw and weed seeds.

It is a wise practice to select the best area in the field for the next year's seed grain. The threshed seed crop should be given storage preference.

When purchasing seed grain every effort should be made to obtain the best grade available. The small extra cost insures a much higher quality seed.

Wise and experienced growers find little fault with the statement that "The crop which is harvested will be no better than the seed which is sown."

For June Survey Of Quebec Farms

The annual June survey of farms is about to start. Forms have been, or will be, mailed to reach each farmer about the first of June and all farmers are urged to complete and return these forms without delay. The questionnaires come through the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in co-operation with the Provincial Departments of Agriculture and provide one of the of the basic methods of obtaining data on year-to-year changes in livestock and crop production by provinces and for Canada as a whole.

Figures on individual reports are kept confidential. When grouped with others they provide the statisticians with data for making the estimates and developing the annual statistics so important to farmers and their organizations, to businesses and services that deal with farmers, to governmental administrative and grading services and to all of us as consumers of agricultural products.

All farmers, therefore, are asked to co-operate in making this survey as complete and accurate as possible. It is in the farmers' interest to assist in providing these assessments on Canadian production for national and international use.

Business Tax Under Fire at B'burg Council

Councillor Lavoie explained that the amount of business did not set the tax rate; the by-law stipulated "a grill" and it could not now be altered.

Secretary Hebert: "It means a little more than that. With a grill service the premises are permitted to open on Sunday from 1 to 9; if the business is confined to a hotel it cannot be open for the sale of liquor on Sunday." When asked by a councillor if he would operate on a hotel license, Mr. Therriault demurred.

Councillor Rose: "By virtue of the 'grill' law you are open on Sunday; the amount of business you do has no bearing on the tax, so you are 'it' so far as the tax is concerned. You can't have your cake and eat it."

Mayor H. Pariseau: "There is nothing we can do."

One of the doctors also complained about the revised tax, from $10 to $35, but several of the councillors expressed the opinion the medical profession had no cause for complaint.

Streets and Sewers

The Protestant School Board, represented by J. R. Golphin, requested the Council to take over portion of the sewer line running under the public road along Maple Avenue.

Mayor Pariseau: "If it's on the main road, it's our responsibility; we should take it over". . . On the motion of Councillor Rose, seconded by Councillor Charbonneau, the Council accepted the responsibility for maintenance.

Paul Filion applied to Council for acceptance of a street serving several properties owned by him.

Secretary Hebert: "It is not the full 66-foot width and is not finished suitable for taking over."

Mayor Pariseau: "We cannot accept a new street. This is a matter for Quebec, after the necessary plans have been submitted."

Councillor Ball: "Just imagine trying to give something away and can't give it!"

Councillor Lavoie: "If we accept it we may get into trouble. The street is not finished and is not the required width."

Councillor Rose: "Being a residential street, it may be accepted by Quebec at less than 66 feet, but the plans must be approved before we take it."

Coronation Service Plans

Councillor L. Ball was delegated council representative to meet the clergy for formation of a non-denominational service sponsored by the local Canadian Legion Branch.

Fire Chief's Report

Fire Chief A. Robbins reported that the fire at the dump reached beyond the dump limits and was on its way into the bush. He recommended clearing a space around the burning area.

Councillor Rose wanted to know if the fire was out, would it stay out or ignite spontaneously? Chief Robbins thought it would not go on fire but it will be set on fire by the many people who use it.

Councillor Rose said they had exceeded the limits now and the owner is complaining of the danger of fire entering his bush. The possibility of obtaining a suitable place at Maple Avenue South was suggested. After some discussion the matter was left over.

Two other fires of small account were reported, occurring at Main and St. Louis Streets.

Chief Robbins thanked the outgoing Council and expressed a hope to see them back again; he had found it a pleasure to work with them.

Finances

The secretary-treasurer reported $5,381 had been spent on sidewalks; $3,005 had been paid. Municipal tax arrears 1950-51 were $1,105. Excavation at a new street cost $562. Cost of audit, $250.

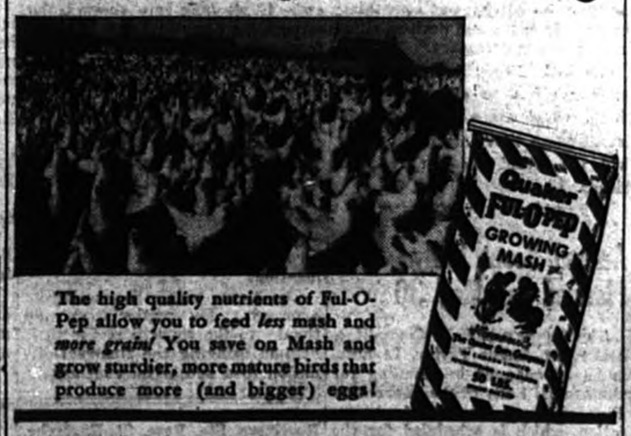

Councillor Rose asked to have three small maintenance jobs carried out.

Weird Canadian Fish To Grace London Zoo

Four prehistoric but lively fishes, to grace the London Zoo during Coronation year, are well on their way across the Atlantic aboard the Canadian Pacific steamship Beaverlake, it was stated this week.

The fishes are bowfins or beaverfish, a specious unique to North America and found largely in the St. Lawrence. Often called "living fossils", they are survivors of an otherwise extinct family which flourished some 50 million years ago.

Four specimens, two of them full grown at six pounds and two comparative babies at three-quarters of a pound, were stowed aboard the steamer in Montreal recently from the Lachine hatchery of the Quebec Biological Bureau. They are travelling in two 10-gallon cans maintained at 38 degrees Farenheit, and are being tended daily pending arrival at London May 18 or 19.

As befits ancient lineage, the bowfin is distinguished from more recent fishes by various interesting traits. It has much of the voracity of its contemporary, the shark. While living chiefly on insects and little fishes, it has been known to swallow a wild duckling alive.

Another ancestral characteristic is that the father bowfin protects the eggs after spawning and rears the young fry till they are big enough to fend for themselves. Bowfins have lost the heavy armor of their forebears, but keep the same type of lungs. They can breath pure air and so survive out of water longer than any other American fish.

Characteristic features of the bowfin, which reaches a length of 30 inches, include a paddle-shaped tailfin, also a long undulating dorsal fin which serves as means of propulsion.

On a hook the bowfin puts up a stiff fight. It is too rare to be classed among game fish, however. It's a living museum piece, rather ## Coronation Plans?

TIME is running short. We hear no plans for an organized celebration of Coronation Day in this community — apart from a beacon-fire demonstration by the Boy Scouts, whose leaders deserve recognition for their zeal in this matter.

Patriotic-minded citizens will display their decorations, and flags will be raised on business premises and public buildings. This great occasion, however, would seem to call for a wider community observance, rally or church service. It needs concerted effort to plan some fitting observance — to which this journal is prepared to give the utmost publicity and arouse all possible public enthusiasm.

Failing civic leadership at this time, it is confidently hoped that residents, and other service groups in town, will support the Boy Scouts and "rally round" to join in whatever program they prepare.

Advertising for Farmers

ARE FARMERS publicity-conscious? The general impression is "No" — although the Canadian Dairy Industry has at least attempted some organized advertising to counteract the inroads of competitive products.

In the latest issue of Ottawa Farm Journal, the editor stresses an aspect of livestock exhibiting which echoes an idea sparked by the energetic secretary of our own Lachute Spring Fair. The editor, moreover, concludes with a "plug" for the big event coming up in this community. Here is The Journal's comment:

"Some of our friends who know about such things are predicting this will be a good year for purebred exhibits at all our fairs. They point out that prior to last year the U.S. markets was so good that many a breeder and farmer felt he did not have to advertise his wares — hence many got out of the habit of showing. Things are different now, say those who claim to know, and a lot of the boys will be back advertising through the show ring.

"We have often wondered why more breeders did not admit that the show ring was as good a medium of advertising as there was. As a matter of fact we thought that breeders were very lucky to have the shows; they were the only producers we knew of who were actually paid to advertise what they had to sell.

"Anyway there are two good shows coming up soon — Ormstown and Lachute — with a fine prize list and good attendance. Entries close soon and they are both worth considering as a start for the 1953 show season."

Cramming for Exams

A STUDY TIME "budget" should be the first step in preparing to study for examinations, according to MacKay Tobin, instructor of Social Sciences at the Ryerson Institute in Toronto — whose viewpoint provides an interesting formula for young students now "cramming" for the June ordeal. . . The number of hours available for study each day should be listed, making certain that this time will not be taken up by other activities and breaking the study habit, Mr. Tobin maintains.

The subjects to be studied should then be listed and the time available proportioned to them in the order of their difficulty. A day-to-day chart can then be made with the subjects to be studied each day indicated.

No subject should be studied for more than an hour without a short break with a total of three one-hour periods daily as a maximum for one subject. It is a good idea to study a different subject each hour.

"Before the study period begins everything should be ready so that the time isn't spent looking for books or other things", Mr. Tobin warns. "It must be concentrated, uninterrupted with no warm-up periods to waste time.

Too much comfort is a detriment to proper study as it may relax the student too much. Simple surroundings, with no distractions such as radio, magazines or pictures, are best. A definite place used for study is a good idea as it tends to get the student into the proper attitude.

Immediate use of the material studied helps in learning it. This can be accomplished by putting the book down and recalling what has been read after finishing a few paragraphs or a chapter, by writing down general headings to help recall points after finishing a section of the work or by talking about the subject with someone else after studying it. This last method is particularly helpful if two students go over the subject after having studied it completely on their own.

Memorization of facts is not a good way to study. The best way to learn is to question the material as it is studied and to try and make it meaningful. This helps in establishing clear, concise ideas on the subject.

Difficult sections being studied should be read over quickly to get a general idea of the meaning and then re-read to clarify any questions. Slow reading in an effort to understand every word takes too long and makes for poor learning.

It is poor policy to study the evening before an exam unless the student does not know the subject and must cram. Under normal circumstances a one-hour review is the maximum at that time.

Studying the morning of the exam is also bad since it causes the student to get nervous and may tire him. It is best to get up a little early on the examination day and do everything in a leisurely manner before starting to write.

In writing the exam, the student should do the easiest questions first, budgeting his time on each question. Ten or 15 minutes should be allowed after the questions are completed for re-reading and checking of the paper.

Housing Headache

ONE OUT of six Canadians tosses his hat into, or leaves his tricycle in front of, a post-war home. This year we are building new houses faster than ever before. But there's still a housing shortage.

And right now there's looming some increasing pressure on mortgage funds because of the almost-open winter. Mortgage approvals this year are running sky-high over last year, reports The Financial Post. Lending institutions aren't deliberately cutting off mortgages. They haven't got the money to lend. They are close to the limits in mortgage investments.

How many houses do we need? Family formations, and old homes wearing out, put a physical base to the housing needs of something around 90,000 homes a year. But this is no limit. We will keep on wanting more and better homes as long as we have expanding tastes and as long as we have money to spend.

If we want to buy new cars, television sets, push back a frontier, build factories and support a defence program at the same time, we just won't have the money to build all the houses we may want. — And that's where we find ourselves right now.

Churchill, The Great Commoner

By Lewis Milligan

The young Queen Elizabeth must have had quite a time persuading Mr. Winston Churchill to accept a knighthood and exchange the common title of Mister for the distinguished and semi-lordly Sir. He could no doubt have chosen the loftiest title in the House of Lords if he had desired to step up to that chamber. But to Mr. Churchill, with his marvellous vitality in old age, and his love for the fighting arena in the House of Commons, his transfer to the Upper Chamber would have been a step down. As a scion of the nobility, no one has a greater respect than he for the House of Lords. But Mr. Churchill believed, and we all believe, that he can serve his country and the world best as a commoner in winning world peace as he did in the winning of the last war.

It has been said that Mr. Churchill was essentially a war-time leader, and that peacetime calls for a man of less fighting spirit and more given to persuasion and compromise. Well, Britain had such a man as Prime Minister in Mr. Clement Attlee who, in international politics, at least, went to great lengths to compromise and even placate Soviet leaders, whom he regarded as brother Socialists — until they double-crossed him and treated him as a weakling.

If compromise and pacifism could prevent war, the last World War would never have happened, for there never were great compromisers than Ramsay Macdonald, Stanley Baldwin, and Neville Chamberlain, and the British people were never before such meek pacifists as they were under the leadership of those Prime Ministers. During those years Mr. Churchill was a voice in the wilderness warning his country to prepare to defend itself in the face of the open threats of a rearmed Germany. Hitler dreaded the rise of Churchill to power and always referred to him as a "warmonger". The fact was that Churchill was the true peacemonger, and if his warnings had been heeded the war might have been averted.

We have an example of the power and safety of preparedness in the North Atlantic Treaty which has undoubtedly restrained the ambition of the Russian Communists for world domination, for the time being at least. There will be no Third World War while the Western Nations are united in strength to resist Communist aggression. A bully will never threaten, much less attack, any one whom he knows to be strong and ready to fight back.

In regard to Mr. Churchill's decision to remain in the House of Commons, it is interesting to note that all the really great British statesmen have been commoners. Although most of them were finally elevated to the House of Lords, they all won their laurels on the hustings and in the House of Commons. William Pitt the Elder was a dying man when he became Earl of Chatham; as a statesman he had earned the popular title of the "Great Commoner" with his powers of oratory and his work as an empire builder. Lloyd George had been long in retirement when he accepted a peerage, and was worn-out with his strenuous life as leader in the First World War. William Ewart Gladstone was, I think the only great statesman and orator who died a commoner. He refused an earldom at the downfall of his ministry in 1885, and afterwards was twice Prime Minister, latterly when he was past the age of eighty. Sir Winston Churchill, K.G., is now within two years of that age, but with Tennyson's Ulysses he can say:

"Old age hath yet his honor and his toil;
Death closes all; but something ere the end,
Some work of noble note, may yet be done,
Not unbecoming men that strove with gods.
To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

The Attic

I cannot think of a more interesting place to browse around in than somebody else's attic. I mean the attic of an old house where the same family has lived for two or three generations. To explore one of these old attics on a rainy afternoon is really a rewarding experience.

One attic that I have in mind belonged to a man over 80 years of age, the house itself being over 70 years old. He referred to it as "the new house" because it succeeded a still older house where he had spent his early childhood. Years ago I used to spend an occasional night in this attic, lying awake amid the eerie creaking of the ancient roof and admiring the stars through the cracks in the gable end. One cold October night I remember standing a big slab of beaverboard against the bed to break the force of the wind that whistled through the chinks.

The place was a veritable museum. An old perforated tin lantern, used before the days of glass chimneys, hung in a corner. A home-made baby's cradle; a broken spinning-wheel; a grain flail consisting of two sticks of unequal length joined together with the bark of the leatherwood, or moosewood bush; a solid iron tea-kettle with a bottom that protruded down into the stove-lid; old magazines of the 1880's and early 90's with their advertisements in small type for such things as electric belts, Regina music boxes, Rambler bicycles, Estey organs, Poco cameras and sure cures for consumption, cancer and catarrh, not to mention four full quarts of seven-year-old Rye Whiskey sent post-paid to your door in a plain wrapper for $3.20. And Tanglefoot Flypaper! You've got to be an old-timer to remember those large, sticky sheets laid out to entrap many a human victim as well as thousands of flies that infested the grocery stores of the period.

In another attic I remember, a large number of empty sap-cans lay rusting in a corner. Several of them were in use, but not for the purpose for which they were intended. The old, dried up hand-made shingles leaked badly on rainy days, so the owner placed a sap-can under each spot that was dripping. Over a dozen cans would be placed in strategic positions on the floor. Only he never could remember to empty them until they overflowed on the next wet day. In this attic were also some massive picture frames holding those ghastly crayon portraits of departed ancestors, and a wedge-shaped device with a long iron handle made by some long deceased village blacksmith for the purpose of splitting rails to make cedar fences. Two "camel-back" trunks stood closed below the cobwebbed window. I never got to see what was in those trunks, but I'll bet they contained many interesting souvenirs of an era that will come no more.

Know anybody who's got an old attic? I'd love to go through it some day.

Be seein' ya! — Uncle Walt.

Work for Students

National Employment Office
Unemployment Ins. Commission

Lachute, Que.,
May 11, 1953

Your children, the workers of tomorrow, the hope of our community, will be home from school in a few weeks. Filled with enthusiasm, willingness and physical strength, they will seek work in order to spend their abundant energy in a useful and honest manner, and they expect you to have faith in their ability. If you should require their services, you will soon come to realize that they are able to earn their day's salary.

At the National Employment Office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, we strive to find these young people remunerative work where they can gain experience and put their education and ability to good use. Some of these young people already can efficiently fill positions as stenographers, office clerks, tellers, sales clerks, bookkeepers, etc. Also, they are available for temporary replacements when members of regular staffs are away during summer holidays.

However, we have little opportunity to secure the right type of work for them unless the employers are willing to completely cooperate with us.

We shall, therefore, be grateful to all employers of the district who will be kind enough to inform us of vacancies and available positions that may be filled by these students. We shall deem it our duty to introduce to such employers the best qualified candidates for the type of work which they may be called upon to perform.

Yours very truly,
— J. G. Lamontagne, Manager.

A SAFE SUBSTITUTE FOR CASH USED BY MODERN TRAVELLERS

"A big roll of bank-notes may not be a heavy load, but it certainly can weigh you down when you travel", says Donald Hay, local Bank of Montreal manager. Pickpockets and sneak-thieves are always ready to catch the traveller with his guard down. And cash that's simply mislaid may never be recovered, either.

"Travellers Cheques are the safe and modern way to carry money on a trip. They are as convenient as cash — but only to the person who buys them. They're worthless to anyone else, and, if mislaid or stolen, can be replaced."

If you are contemplating a journey in the near future, you will be wise to take Mr. Hay's advice and put your money into B of M Travellers Cheques before you go. Why not drop into your B of M branch and enquire about this service today. Travellers Cheques can help you enjoy a really carefree holiday.

Australia Retains British Character

Sydney, Australia (CP) — Migration has not changed the Australian character and is not likely to change it, said William Borrie, population expert at Australia's National University in an address here.

He said that in spite of Australia's huge intake of European migrants since the war, not more than seven per cent of the population was non-British. During the gold rush days 90 years ago Chinese, Germans and other non-British races comprised eight per cent of the population.

"It is commonly assumed that we are a people almost 100-per-cent British", he said. "In fact, however, we are really almost 100-per-cent Australian now. For almost a century our natural increase has been more important than immigration in our population growth. Since 1870 most of our people have been born in Australia. Today 90 per cent of us are Australian-born, but what is provocative in us is Irish, what is cautious in us is Scottish and the rest of us, for good or evil, is English."

HISTORIC DERELICT

Sydney, N.S. (CP) — The old British navy ship Pelican was finally moved by a Halifax salvage firm to be taken out to deep water and sunk. Since some youthful swimmers pulled out the seacocks 33 years ago the old ship had defied numerous attempts to get her off the shore.

Cheque Deals Aired Before House of Commons

By Alan Donnelly,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, May 4 (CP) — A cheque-exchanging deal between two friends in Saskatchewan which began four years ago had a dramatic aftermath in the Commons recently.

One of the two men, Austin Edwin Dewar, 40-year-old Liberal member for Saskatchewan's Qu'Appelle constituency, resigned his seat.

Before he left, Mr. Dewar denied any "intentional wrongdoing" in his dealings with Harvey Lunam of Regina, head of a construction company handling federal contracts.

In a speech of resignation before a packed house, Mr. Dewar said that between 1949 and 1951 he had swapped cheques to help Mr. Lunam — "an old friend" in financial need, but stopped the practice when he came to realize that combined with his position as a member of parliament it might create a "false impression".

He said he had not profited at the expense of the public treasury or from Mr. Lunam — who held a number of government construction contracts, some of which were not completed.

Dewar's resignation developed into more than a personal question. It provided fuel for a new political controversy in Parliament that may echo in the federal election campaign later this year.

Opposition parties, led by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, demanded an inquiry into government contracts given Mr. Lunam.

"An Abuse"

The prime minister, however, termed the cheque-exchange practice "an abuse" which "took an unfair advantage of the bankers".

The Commons debate also swirled around another question — the position of sub-contractors to whom Mr. Lunam's company owed money when it went into insolvency before completing some of the government work.

Opposition speakers claimed Mr. Lunam owed these sub-contractors $239,000 and criticized the government for not protecting them. Mr. Drew said the Regina builder was Centre) called Mr. Lunam a "fly-by-night" operator. Both said the government should have known this before letting contracts to his firm.

Mr. St. Laurent and Works Minister Fournier replied that the government had not known of Mr. Lunam's past failures. The contracts had been awarded in good faith on the lowest-bidder basis to known for "notorious failure" to fulfil non-government contracts and John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake the Lunam company.

Mr. Fournier said his department was dealing only with the Lunam company — not with sub-contractors. Mr. St. Laurent said these firms should try to collect any debts through bankruptcy proceedings.

Try A Comeback

Mr. Dewar's speech made it clear he will again seek the Liberal nomination in Qu'Appelle. He would "place myself in the hands of my constituents. . . They will understand and have an opportunity to return me."

He referred to stories in the Toronto Telegram which said he got cheques totalling $71,000 from Mr. Lunam. He recalled that in 1945 Mr. Lunam loaned him money to help buy a hotel, that this was repaid in 1947 and that later they exchanged cheques to help Mr. Lunam "when he was hard pressed for funds to meet his obligations."

How long does an oil well last?

The average well goes dry in 20 to 30 years. To keep your car rolling and your home warm, a new well must be found to take its place. That's why the search for oil never ends; why Imperial, for instance, spent almost $50 millions to find and develop new oil in western Canada last year.

Oil has become one of Canada's important industries How many of these questions about it can you answer?

Which of the following contain petroleum
lipstick? binder twine? printing ink? insect spray?
→ Oil is a part of all the products named and of hundreds of others which contribute to our everyday living.

In 1946 Canada produced less than 10% of the oil she used. How much of her needs does she produce now
18%? 40%? 55%?
→ About 40%—and we use twice as much as in 1946. Today's production would meet 80% of the demand at that time.

How many service stations would you say Imperial operates across Canada
19,500? 10,000? 0?
→ None. Approximately 10,000 stations carry the Imperial Esso sign, but they are operated by independent dealers, each in business for himself.

In oil field language, a "roughneck" is one of the crew of a drilling rig. What is a "toolpusher" tool salesman? drilling foreman? motor mechanic?
→ Drilling foreman. Oil field slang is colorful. A "Christmas tree," for instance, is a combination of pipes and valves to regulate the flow of oil from a well.

Opinion surveys show that most Canadians believe a business is entitled to a profit of 15¢ on a dollar of revenue. Last year Imperial earned
7½¢? 11¢? 19¢?
→ In 1952 Imperial earned a profit of 7½¢ of each dollar received. Of this, 4¢ was paid to shareholders; the remaining 3½¢ was used to replace worn-out equipment and to make sure we can supply your future oil needs.

The Bible Preserved for A Purpose

Without the Bible man would never understand why this generation has experienced two global wars and is now facing up to a third; why the greatest famines, the worst pestilences, the most concentrated destruction by earthquakes, have befallen this generation. Nor would upright people understand why faithless Christendom acts the way she does. Professing to worship God, she spurns his Word, the Bible, as folklore or mythology, and substitutes in its place the doctrines and philosophies of men. Well does the inspired apostle describe these "fake Christians", as "lovers of themselves, lovers of money, self-assuming, haughty, blasphemers, disobedient to parents . . . without self-control, fierce . . . puffed up with self-esteem, lovers of pleasures rather than lovers of God, having a form of godly devotion, but proving false to its power". — 2 Timothy 3: 1-5.

Just think of it! a paradise earth free from crimes, calamities, wars, food shortages, sickness, and sorrow, yes, free from death itself! That is the glorious prospect held out in the Bible for all lovers of righteousness. God purposes to establish just such a theocratic realm and he will do it. The word has gone out of His mouth and it shall be accomplished. "The word spoken by Jehovah endures forever." (Isaiah 40: 8; I Peter 1: 25). So study this Word of truth and follow its counsel and instructions in order that you may learn how to survive this present evil world's end and live forever in the perfection of the blessed new world.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

District Baptist Rally For Dalesville Church

The Spring Rally of the Montreal - Ottawa Association of Baptist Churches will be held Monday, May 18, at Dalesville, commencing at 2 p.m. and concluding with an evening service at 8 p.m.

Special speaker, to be heard during the afternoon proceedings, will be the Rev. E. C. Corbett, of Whitby, Ont. There will be special music throughout the day.

Supper is being served by the ladies of the Dalesville Baptist Church at 5.30 p.m.

Ministerial Association

At a special meeting of the Argenteuil Protestant Ministerial Associaton held on Monday, the Rev. G. T. Spriggs was nominated to the executive committee of the Quebec Temperance League, also as regional vice-president for Argenteuil County on the Quebec Temperance League. For some years the Rev. W. H. Britton has ably filled these positions, and all regret his leaving for other fields of labor.

Illustrated Lecture On the Holy Land

The Rev. Dr. Robt. Lennox, principal of the Presbyterian College, Montreal, will give a lecture on the Holy Land, illustrated by natural color slides, in the Sunday School hall of the Presbyterian Church, Lachute, on Thursday evening, May 14, at 8 o'clock.

Last summer Dr. Lennox visited Palestine, and all who are interested in the study of the Bible are invited to attend this lecture. An offering will be received.

Need of Temperance Education Stressed at Meeting in Lachute

The Rev. John Linton, secretary of the Canadian Temperance Federation, was guest speaker at Lachute United Church last Sunday evening. This special service was held under auspices of the Argenteuil Ministerial Association, but the attendance was very poor compared to similar meetings held previously in Lachute.

The speaker appealed to the intelligence of his listeners in facing the temperance problem — far from the old cry of "alcohol and the devil". Mr. Linton described his duties and service while working for the Federation, and told of the fine co-operation he is receiving from several of the provincial premiers, who have realized the need for temperance education and made large grants for this work.

That statistics are showing ominous trends, was shown by the Rev. Mr. Linton. A few years ago, alcoholics were usually in their 50's, but now, the early 20's to 30's seem to be average ages for this serious "disease". Speaking about his contacts with Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and his cabinet ministers, Mr. Linton expressed his appreciation of their courteous and sympathetic response. Voicing his concern over the young men in the services, the speaker said in the war of 1914-18 the alcoholic was a rare specimen in the young man, but now, the rarity seems to be the man who does not indulge.

The speaker spoke of the fine work being done by our French-Canadian compatriots in the temperance field, and of recent encouraging statements by Cardinal Leger.

A film on temperance work was shown following the address, and the collection amounted to $41.60. . . . Contributions may also be sent to Quebec Temperance League, Room 601, 1224 St. Catherine St. W., Montreal 25.

A joint ministerial meeting was held on Monday by the Argenteuil and Hawkesbury associations, and Mr. Linton took part in a discussion period there. He left afterwards for Montreal, where he is flying to Newfoundland for a major effort in temperance work led by the premier of that province.

Piano Recital By Talented Young Artist

An appreciative audience at Lachute High School on Monday evening heard Miss Denise Chamaillard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henri Chamaillard, of Lachute Mills, present her first major piano recital. For the past eight years, Miss Chamaillard has been a pupil of Miss Juliette Rodrigue, L.Mus., who is a graduate of the Conservatoire de Fontainebleu, France.

A Fugue Prelude by Bach was the first selection by this young pianist, followed by the 3rd movement of Beethoven's Sonata Op. 2, No. 2. These pieces were very well interpreted, showing a nice contrast in their selection.

Part II of the program featured Le Rossignol (The Nightingale) by Liszt, and Jour de Mariage (Wedding Day) by Grieg. These are two popular pieces in the pianist's repertoire, and Miss Chamaillard displayed skill and technique in both.

A beautiful Nocturne by Fauré opened the program after the intermission, a rendition of minor tones and rich chording; this selection appealed greatly to those present. Chopin is a must on every pianist's program, and his Valse Op. 70, No. 1, was given by Miss Chamaillard.

The final and major item on the program was the Concerto in D by Haydn, Miss Chamaillard being accompanied by Miss Rodrigue as second pianist. Teacher and pupil combined their talents in this fine concerto, and the audience expressed its appreciation with warm applause.

After the performance, Miss Chamaillard received numerous floral tributes and gifts from her well-wishers.

Relatives and friends were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henri Chamaillard at a reception in the Legion Hall following the recital — affording a happy climax to this auspicious day in the career of a talented young pianist.

HAPPY TO BE HOME FROM KOREA

"Armed" with a Japanese cane, Pte. Wallace Jackson, at right, of Prescott, Ont., is seen with Pte. Tom McMechan of Edmonton following their arrival in Seattle, Wash., from Korea. A cheering throng of friends, pretty girls and military bands were on hand to meet the U.S. troopship, Marine Lynx, which was bringing home 1,063 Canadian troops, mostly from Royal Canadian Regiment's First Battalion, from a year's service in the war zone. Those from the west coast were scheduled to be sent home in special buses. The remainder were to be sent to Ottawa to be re-routed to their homes.

A Dream

"God speaketh in a dream" (Job. 33). "Behold a great image . . . stood before thee . . . the form thereof was terrible. Head was of fine gold, breast and arms silver, belly and thighs brass, legs of iron, feet part of iron and clay . . . a stone cut out without hands, smote the image upon his feet, and brake them to pieces. Then was the iron, clay, brass, silver and gold, broken to pieces together, and became like chaff, the wind carried them away, the stone became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth."

The interpretation follows: "Thou (Nebuchadnezzar, Babylonia 603 B.C.) art this head of gold; breast and arms, silver, was Medo-Persia; belly and thighs, brass, was Greece under Alexander the Great; legs of iron, Rome, east and west division, which continues to the present. Next follows feet of an impossible mixture of iron and clay. Ten toes, part of iron and part of clay, reveal our present political world chaos. The question arises, does clay represent our present vaunted democratic way of life and government? It would appear so when a coal miner can defy one president after another! The value of the respective metals by specific gravity is gold 19 to clay 1, contrasting absolute monarchy with modern democracy, to the great detriment of the latter. Daniel foretold world history from 603 B.C. to the fast approaching return of our Lord; the stone cut without hands and filling the whole earth. The Millenium reign on earth to follow this dispensation of the Church Age, will complete time when eternity will take over. — Thought provoking for the serious minded.

Lachute — H. J. H.

ANGLICAN VICAR'S TEN 'COMMANDMENTS' FOR PARISHIONERS

Ellacombe, England, (Reuters) — Rev. Ernest Robinson, Anglican vicar of this tiny Devon town, has drawn up a set of 10 "commandments" for his parishioners.

The rules, printed in his parish magazine, include:

"Thou shalt follow the sidesmen on to the seat pointed to thee, and go on to the farthest end thereof, not making thyself a seat-hog or endangering the corns of thy feet by having latecomers squeeze by thee.

"Thou shalt harken diligently unto the words of thy minister and not divert thy attention by planning thy dinner, devising a way by which thou mayest swat thy business rival, and especially not distort thy countenance and give forth sonorous sounds by falling into a deep sleep.

"Thou shalt not nervously stare at your wrist watch during the service, giving the impression that thy mind is upon thy dinner, early afternoon golf or cinema or the charabanc (bus) trip into the country.

"Thou shalt not interrupt the benediction by putting on thy gloves and coat before the close of the service that thou mayest be able to make a quick getaway before the vicar hath any time to speak to thee."

Grenville Pupils on Instructive Tour to City

GRENVILLE CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL NEWS

By Elva Fowler

On Saturday, May 9, the pupils of Grades VIII, IX, and X visited Montreal on a trip organized by Mr. Edward O'Brien, superintendent of Bell Telephone Company in Hawkesbury.

The bus left Grenville at 7.30 and arrived at the Beaver Hall Building at 10 o'clock. Here, under the guidance of Mr. Long, the students observed the improvement made on the telephone during the last 50 years. Of special interest was a display showing the construction and operation of the Bell Telephone towers to carry long-distance calls and television, transmission between Buffalo and Montreal.

From there the pupils toured the CNR Station. Mr. Hildred of Trans-Canada Airlines, pointed out many spots of interest during the ride to Dorval. A delicious lunch was served in the café on the TCA grounds. The boys and girls visited the hangars and saw planes in the "dry-docks" being repaired. Mr. Hildred took the students into a North Star airliner and explained how it is piloted.

On behalf of the group, David Foreman, Grade X student, thanked Mr. Hildred for his assistance in making the trip to Montreal most enjoyable.

Mr. Fraser, French Specialist at Grenville, is again in ill health, and is being replaced by Mrs. S. Dixon.

Mrs. White, Grade I teacher, is also on the sick list. Miss Peterson of Hawkesbury is taking over her duties.

It didn't snow. It didn't rain. It wasn't too cold. The baseball field wasn't wet.

But a game between two high school teams in West Haven, Conn., recently was called after seven innings: too much sun.

Scouts' Beacon Fires For Coronation Observance

G. Robley Mackay, Provincial Commissioner for Scouts in this province, has announced plans in connection with the celebration of the Coronation of Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II, which call for beacon fires and Scout council fires throughout the province on Tuesday, June 2. Similar observations will be held in all 10 provinces. Thus, in the 24 districts in Quebec from Gaspé on the east to Pontiac on the west, and in the districts in the neighboring provinces within the Eastern time zone, beacon fires and council fires will be lighted simultaneously at 9.30 p.m.

In the same way throughout the other four time zones from coast to coast, similar fires will be lighted at 9.30 p.m. local time. Thus while it is not practical or possible for a series of beacon fires within visible distance of each other to be started at the east coast and gradually carried on through to the west coast in the way it was done in days of old, in, say, Britain, nevertheless the same effect will be achieved. In that way this event of a lifetime — the crowning of a Queen — will be fittingly marked by Boy Scouts throughout one of the countries whose Scouts proudly wear the Queen's Scout Badge.

It is hoped to co-ordinate this observance with any local celebrations planned. The official Scouting council fire program includes some special guests, one of whom will speak briefly on the subject "Our Queen"; and the closing will take the form of a re-affirmation ceremony at which all Cubs will re-affirm their Cub Promise and all Scouts, Rovers and Leaders will re-affirm the Scout Promise. There will be a roll-call of the Queen's Scouts present, a message from Lord Rowallan, Chief Scout of the British Commonwealth and Empire, will be read, and two short prayers will be said on behalf of the Queen. The council-fire will be opened with the singing of "O Canada" and closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Canada has nearly 600,000 miles of roads. Only 14 per cent are paved.

Lachute TIGERS

By J. C. PETITCLERC

"PLAY BALL!"

At last on Sunday afternoon at Joliette we heard Referee Prince yell these exciting words for the opening of the Laurentide League 1953 season.

Scores

The Tigers lost the afternoon game, 4 to 3, but won the evening event 15 to 1.

At Joliette

Before the game at Joliette the vice-president of the league presented to Maurice Levesque, president of the Joliette Club, the pennant for the 1952 Championship.

The Seminaire de Joliette band, composed of 60 members under the direction of Rev. Father R. Brunet, c.s.v., was on hand for the opening game.

Mayor Boisvert threw the first ball to open the season, and Jack Halpin, manager of Joliette Club, gave the mayor the ball as a souvenir.

Halpin pitched the 9 innings for Joliette, giving our Tigers only 2 hits. Bouchard pitched a 6-hit game, giving a good account of himself.

McCullough, of Joliette, made the first hit of the season.

Len Pearson, our manager, scored the one run for the Tigers, on a gift from Halpin.

The attendance at Joliette's beautiful ball-park was near the 1,800 mark. It was a perfect day for baseball except — for the wind, that played funny tricks. (Ask Yeager!) Goulet, one of our catchers, hit one over the fence for the first home-run of 1953 season.

At Lachute

With a crowd of over 1,500 fans at Lachute, the League president, Dr. Alfred Cherrier, St. Jerome, threw the first ball, while the catcher was Leonard Ayers, a director of the local Association and director of Ayers Limited. For this big occasion, Lionel Laurin, League vice-president and president of the local club, swung at (and missed) the ball thrown by Dr. Cherrier. Prizes were given to those who had sold season tickets for the Association; also cups were presented to Len Pearson, Pete Taillefer, Ed Yeager, W. Hardy, F. Boudreau, C. Groulx, of last year's Tigers.

First Hit — Mitchell, s.s., of Joliette, hit the first hit of the season in Lachute.

First Out — Mitchell was also the first put out on a fielder choice.

Base on Ball — Yeager, able centre-field for the Tigers, had the first walk, and also scored the first run for the locals.

3-Base Hit — C. Groulx made a nice three-base hit. . . On Mitchell, hard grounder, Pete Taillefer made a spectacular stop. . . Ed Yeager, after a 100-foot run, made a wonderful catch on Clovinsky's fly ball in centre-field.

Double Play — Joliette in the sixth inning made the first d.p., second to first.

V. Caron — A newcomer, Vincent Caron, teacher in Hawkesbury, made a hit with the local fans and should prove a good acquisition for the Tigers.

New Player — Melvin Bosser, who was coaching at first base Sunday night after signing a contract with Ted Vachon, club business manager. Melvin, who in 1945 played AAA baseball, was in a $40,000 transaction. He was then called to Army service; later played AA Baseball until '51, then played in Kansas. Coach Len Pearson states that Melvin is a smart and outstanding ball player.

Supper — Eddie and Gerry, how was your supper Saturday night, May 9 ? ?

This England

— ARTICLE VIII —

Montreal, May 9 — We're back, more dead than alive, thanks entirely to coming home via New York. However, that tale can wait for a moment. First, let's go back to London and follow through from there.

Having seen relatively few signs of preparation for the Coronation, I made it my duty to wander along parts of the route. Even there I found it hard to believe that it would all be ready in time. The stands are up for the most part and the annex around the Abbey is almost complete. But the pace is so leisurely, what with time out for tea every five minutes, that one can't fail to marvel that they've accomplished as much as they have.

Much of the work, naturally, is going on behind the scenes. The banners and flags, displays and other decorations, all are being completed under cover to be put up at the last minutes. And, as a Midland gent observed:

"Eee! It'll look proper champion fer t'Coronation Day."

But I'll marvel forever as to how they'll get it done.

Were I a talent scout for Cecil B., the last place I should think of looking for top-notch entertainers would be among the crew of the world's largest liner. For one thing, they don't look like comedians or tragedians. They look what they are, men engaged in a job of work with plenty to do. Yet, it was in the sports-promenade smoke-room that I spent two of the most hilarious evenings in my life.

Quite by chance last Sunday night, I wandered up to the top deck to see if there was anything doing. If not, I was planning on succumbing to boredom and going to bed. At Cherbourg, we had shipped on 250 young and romantic French Airforce cadets, bound for Texas. And, from the moment of their arrival, we older Don Juans said goodbye to an interesting voyage.

As I stepped into the smoke-room, I saw everyone watching something in the direction of the piano. And around the corner, the strains of sweet music drifted to my ears. Most of the audience seemed to be in high spirits. (And why not? At two shillings a shot, anyone would.) So I decided to investigate and much to my surprise, I found a well-known member of the crew entertaining the passengers.

The evening was such a success that I persuaded the lad to ring up the curtain on the following evening, so that Grandfather could catch the act. This he promised he would do and the lounge steward informed me that he would see we got some choice seats.

The ship's concert was laid-on for the Monday night. However, both Grandfather and I had seen the passengers in action en route to England, and we were glad of an excuse not to attend. Too, the concert in the winter gardens meant that there would be a select few in the smoke-room. And at the stroke of nine, up we went to occupy a table near the piano.

Time and space, unfortunately, preclude a full description of the act. And, too, were you to read about it and then see it, you would know what was coming and that would spoil the whole show. So I won't say anything about it at all. But I will make a recommendation. When next you travel to Britain, book your passage via RMS Queen Elizabeth, Tourist Class. And on the first day out of port, go up to the sports-promenade deck smoke-room, hunt up the steward and say:

"Geoff told me to ask if the star pianist will be doing an act tonight?"

And, unless the gent — who prefers to remain anonymous in print — has gone on leave, you can bet your boots that you will see an evening's entertainment unequalled by anything bar Beatrice Lillie and the Marx Brothers. Certainly, I have paid outrageous sums in this city to see so-called entertainment. I should have saved the money to take another trip on the Q.E.

But don't think you can woo this fellow into performing in a night club. I tried and got nowhere. No. He's in love with the sea and he enjoys his job.

"This piano act? Oh, it's just a little hobby of mine."

And that's the way he wants it to stay.

I said earlier, "book your passage via RMS Queen Elizabeth". Book it from New York, but whatever you do, come back via Halifax, Quebec, Montreal, or any other port. Don't on any account come back by New York. Unless, of course, you wish to go stark-raving mad.

En route to Britain, one man handles all the Immigration details for the whole ship in one day. Coming back, however, 40 — count 'em — 40 American officers clamber aboard and clear the ship, when it suits them to start. And the customs people, while quite nice, charge you duty on gifts you have brought in, even though you are in transit to Canada. And they want to see everything, and stamp everything and cancel all the stamps as soon as they are stuck on. And then the fun begins.

From the shed floor, you take the elevator to the street level. There, all is organized confusion. Visitors are coming into the small public space, passengers are moving out to the narrow sidewalk to catch non-existent taxis, and on top of all this, a conveyor belt discharges masses of luggage onto any morsel of public space that contrives to exist in this melee.

New York is a far cry from the docks at Southampton. You can get off the boat and get away from customs there in twenty minutes. In New York, it takes three hours. You pay, too, for the privilege of being pushed around and insulted. And you pay heavily, too.

It took Grandfather and I five hours to get out of America's pride and joy. And it cost us $10 an hour. But it won't happen again, because the next flip will be from Dorval to Prestwick and return. Unfortunately, though, that is two years hence.

Perhaps I'll be able to give you the highlights of that excursion, too. We'll see.

Expansion, Resources, Future Exports Bright Indications in Canadian Outlook

Canada Saddled With A War Machine into the Indefinite Future? . . A glimpse at Labor Recruiting Supply and Productivity — Financial Burden of Government — Need for Well Developed Immigration

By B. H. Steeves, Lions Club Guest Speaker

The following paper on "THE CANADIAN OUTLOOK" was presented at the Lions Club recently by Beverley H. Steeves, assistant supervisor of Safety and Training at Northern Electric Company (and brother of Willard M. Steeves, Bank of Nova Scotia manager, Lachute). Previously in the banking business, following military service in World War I Mr. Steeves studied at university and took a degree in Mechanical Engineering. His topic, gleaned from various sources to which he gives due credit, proves him a studious observer of economic trends.

Among the factors which concern Canadian business men today are the continued weakness of the stock market and the prospects of cancellation or at least a slowing down of armament production. Farm prices are about 20% lower than at the peak of 1951. In fact they are down to the April 1948 level. Agriculture generally is faced with lower prices despite price and other supports. Raw material prices are dropping although wages are still rising. We are told by the banking experts that there is too much credit buying and that this tends to keep prices high, bringing about a situation very much like that of 1928 and 1929. The alert business man looks ahead and wonders about possible changes which may affect his business or estate.

There is good reason to believe that the dullness of the market is due to the fears that the Korean situation may be resolved and American investors especially are wary of a drop in prices and a mild recession. It is true that a settlement in Korea may result in the culmination of some contracts and the slowing down or stretching out of others, however, there is also good reason to expect that at least some of the fighting activity will be transferred to French Indo-China or Siam. The Chinese war machine can hardly be expected to run on a defensive basis, since conditions on the south Chinese border are quite different from those bordering on Russia. Even if peace does come, it is doubtful if it will be the kind of peace which we had in the years after World War I. The best that we can hope for is a type of uneasy peace more like the period which developed shortly after World War II when we woke up to the fact that our former Russian allies had no intention of living up to their agreements. In addition there is the rising unrest of the under-privileged races who during the war had a glimpse of the manner in which the Democratic people live. It can hardly be expected that the people of India, China, Russia and Africa will tolerate indefinitely the conditions under which they presently drag out a mere existence. Will even the people of Japan be content with their little island after having had a taste of empire building?

How will all these potential trouble spots affect us in Canada? It would seem that we are to be saddled with a war machine into the indefinite future, therefore the present high rate of taxation must continue. To our present burden of producing and maintaining a war machine may be added the additional responsibility of further aid to the backward nations.

Is our economy able to bear the burden? If we examine the statistics we learn that the gross national product in 1939 was 5½-million dollars. In 1952 it had risen to nearly 23-billion dollars. This certainly sounds very impressive and when we consider the vast amounts being spent for defence we cannot but feel that any slowing down will knock a terrific hole in that 23 billion. However, what are the facts? A 1953 dollar may look like a 1939 dollar, but we all know that the resemblance is in appearance only. It buys but little more than half as much as it would in 1939. The car we bought before the war for 12 or 13 hundred dollars now costs about 22 hundred dollars. When we allow for these price changes or measure output in goods and services, the 1952 gross product was just about double the 1939 figure. Allowing for the growth of population, the physical volume of output per capita rose only about 58% during the 13 years, moreover, we find that the greater part of the increase occurred during the early war years when a good deal of surplus capacity was already available and ready to use.

In spite of the seemingly enormous expansion in manufacturing facilities since the war, our gain when measured in cold figures, while very substantial as evidenced by the growth of new plants around so many Canadian cities, has not been really earth-shaking. Part of the increased productivity has been due to a 14% increase in population, although it should be noted that this 14% increase has provided only about 9% more workers. The burden of dependency has been increasing at a very rapid rate. There are now far more children and elderly people depending on each worker than at any time in our history. In fact, while before the war there were five dependents for every ten workers, there are now seven dependents for every 10 workers. Also due to baby bonuses and other forms of aid, these dependents live better than ever before.

Again in the manufacturing industry the work week has decreased considerably since 1939. In many cases the plant which was operated for 45 hours in 1939 now is used only 40 hours with a decrease in productivity of 10 or 12%. While this is fine for the worker there are those who decry our attempts to emulate the position of the American worker until our productivity matches theirs. In Switzerland, Germany and many of the countries with which we will have to compete for export markets, the work week has not been lowered to this extent. We may possibly be influenced by ideas which may be suitable for our American friends but may be a little too advanced for our economy. The International Unions of course play a big part in this trend.

A rise of ⅓ in children under 15 has been matched by a drop of 62 thousand in the age between 15 to 19 which we might call the recruiting age for industry. In other words, during the depression years the normal number of people just weren't born. If you look at the "positions vacant" columns in the Montreal Star on a Saturday, you will be struck by the fact that industry now is almost begging for recruits. It is possible that some productivity is being lost due to lack of workers. This is in comparison with the pre-war years when applicants far outnumbered the positions available, which brings us to the fact that Canadian productivity is about 20% below the output of the United States worker. We are not to infer that the Canadian worker is slow on the job, but only that the American manufacturer with his vast market can afford to tool up much more effectively than can his Canadian counterpart. If Canadians hope to live as well as their American cousins this 20% gap must be closed. The only way to close the gap is by longer hours or greatly increased efficiency. The first is not practical due to our close association with the American labor scene. Our prospects for effecting the latter are not too bright. We may rest assured, however, that our Swiss, German and Japanese friends will not only equal but probably exceed American productivity in their efforts to capture export markets. Of course we may be drawing on natural resources to the extent that we can live nearly as well just now, but in the long run productivity will determine our level of living.

The mention of natural resources brings us up sharply against the question of whether we have any right to export our raw products in such vast quantities to our neighbor to the south and then turn around and buy them back in a manufactured state after they have contributed to the prosperity of foreign workers. Some readjustment of this condition for the protection of our children may be necessary.

We in Canada are carrying a great financial burden of government and government services which must be paid for by only 14 million people. It would seem that a well developed immigration policy is necessary so that this burden may be lessened per individual. With a larger market for consumer goods made available within our own borders, this in turn should result in a greater part of our productivity being manufactured for home consumption, resulting in greatly increased employment and national wealth. We also need these people to help bear the burden of our extended transportation system. Since the bulk of our people will always be strung along a strip within a hundred miles or so of the American border, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, transportation will always be a problem as compared with a country say like England where no point is more than a hundred miles from the centre.

Women's Interests -- The Homemaker's Section

Pork Tenderloin

Are you wondering what you are going to serve when you entertain special company for dinner this week? The home economists of the Consumer Section at Ottawa suggest that you consider pork tenderloin. You may think that it is rather expensive and there is no doubt that it is one of the highest priced of all the tender pork cuts — but when you consider that it is all meat with no waste and can be extended with a bread stuffing to give additional servings if desired, it is worth the money.

Pork tenderloin is a long, tapering piece of lean meat from the under side of the loin. It is about two inches in diameter at the thickest part, gradually decreasing in thickness. Tenderloins vary in length from seven to ten inches and weigh from one-half to three-quarters of a pound each. When buying tenderloin pork, look for fresh, light, pink colored meat with a moderate amount of fat covering. Pork tenderloin may be bought either whole or cut into small pieces and Frenched, that is flattened to make the pieces larger and thinner. Whole pork tenderloin may be stuffed with a bread or fruit stuffing and roasted. Frenched tenderloins may be panfried and served with a sauce made from tomato juice, sour cream or canned mushroom soup.

When roasting stuffed pork tenderloin, split the tenderloin lengthwise and spread it open. Fill with a bread stuffing or since apple goes well with pork, a little tart apple may be added to the stuffing. Spread the stuffing between the split halves and then fasten them together with skewers. Place in a roasting pan on a rack in the centre of the oven. Roast in a moderate oven, 350°F., for about one hour or until the meat is tender and the pink color has disappeared. If the tenderloin seems rather lean, put two or three bacon strips across the top. The bacon will give the extra-fat necessary to prevent the top surface of the meat from drying out.

One pound of Frenched pork tenderloin will serve three to four, that is allowing two thin pieces per person. Homemakers like to serve tenderloin this way because it makes a delicious main course and can be prepared in a short time. These are the directions for cooking from the home economists: Dredge the pieces in seasoned flour, if desired. Brown in a hot frying pan in about two tablespoons of fat for each pound of tenderloin. Brown the tenderloin quickly for one minute on each side, then reduce the heat, cover the pan and cook over low heat for an additional ten minutes or until the pink color in the centre of the meat has just disappeared. This may seem like a very short time to cook pork but with these thin pieces of meat, the heat penetrates very quickly and shortens the cooking time.

Picnic Suggestions

Canadians as a whole are enthusiastic picnickers. This will be proven anew as the sunny weekends and holidays arrive. Of course food plays a major role in any outing of this sort. According to the dictionary the word "picnic" means "a pleasure-party, the members of which carry provisions along with them on excursions to some place in the country." Of course one does not have to go to the country, a picnic to most people simply means eating out of doors.

It is a good idea to plan menus for picnics whether for just the family or a large group. Keep in mind the rush and confusion there is apt to be if too many things have to be made the day of the picnic.

Choose sandwich fillings which may be mixed up ahead of time. Eggs will be well chilled and easy to peel if hard-cooked the day before and stored in the refrigerator. For a small family-picnic try serving cold roast stuffed chicken breasts or legs. The pieces of chicken are boned, stuffed with dressing and roasted to a golden turn, refrigerated overnight; and what would make for better eating at the picnic with them than buttered bread or rolls or jelly sandwiches, crisp celery, pickles, butter tarts and beverage. Cold fried chicken is another picnic favorite with many.

Have food well chilled before packing it and to insulate it against the warm atmosphere, line the picnic hamper with several thicknesses of newspaper.

Practically everyone loves cake at a picnic but too often the icing sticks to the waxed paper placed over it but here is a recipe for a chocolate icing which when made ahead of time and chilled on the cake will wrap for carrying even in a lunch box.

Chocolate Icing

1 Egg white, pinch of salt, 1¼ cups icing sugar, 2½ tablespoons butter (melted), 1 to 2 squares unsweeetened chocolate, additional icing sugar.

Beat egg white and salt until frothy with an electric or rotary egg beater. Gradually beat in sugar, a little at a time. Beat until stiff. Meanwhile melt butter and chocolate over hot (not boiling) water. Beat into egg. Add vanilla. If necessary, add additional sugar a little at a time until icing is of the required spreading consistency. Spread at once on cooled cake. Sprinkle with chopped nuts if desired. Yields enough for top of 8x8-inch square cake.

Note: Use smaller quantity of chocolate if a mild chocolate flavor is preferred.

Full Support to Country Women's Conf'ce

Provincial units of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada are giving unstinted financial support to the coming A.C.W.W. Conference. Mrs. A. A. Shaw, Vancouver, chairman of the National Finance Committee, states when all provinces have paid their assessment of 20 cents per member she believes it will cover all the heavy lieves it will cover all the heavy

In her report Mrs. Shaw mentions the Quebec Women's Institutes were the first to meet this obligation in full, and a letter has been received at the Q.W.I. office from Mrs. G. Gordon Maynard, F.W.I.C. secretary, extending the grateful thanks of the national organization for this whole-hearted response.

Mrs. Maynard is also making a public acknowledgment of the country-wide support. "F.W.I.C. have met with such a generous response to their appeals to the Provincial Women's Institutes for funds to assist in the A.C.W.W. Conference expenses", says her statement, "that we wish to take this opportunity of making public our acknowledgment of our sincere appreciation and thanks."

Danish Girl Shares, Paints Indian Life

Edmonton (CP) — Gerda Christofferson's portraits of the tranquil expression of the North American Indian have made her pastel paintings well-known, not only because of the skill and knowledge displayed, but because of the artist's own interesting background.

Of Danish birth, Gerda has actively pursued the ambition to paint Indians since she first came to Canada as a child.

She studied art here and elsewhere in Canada, and returned to Denmark to further her studies. On coming back to Canada, she studied the history of migration, in order to understand the true heritage of the Indian race. She painted Indians on the prairies and at the Pacific Coast, in Arizona and New Mexico, and exhibited her work in California.

She is married to Noel Wuttunee of North Battleford, Sask., the son of Chief Red Pheasant who had become enfranchised in order to give his children a better education. Gerda met her husband while he was studying art in Calgary.

Because she shared their life she was the only white woman ever allowed to take part in the sun dance of the Stoney Indians at Morley. She became the adopted daughter of Chief John Hunter and his wife, Leah, and was given the Indian name of O'Hazee Tah, "Princess Blue Sky", well fitted to the artist's blonde Scandinavian features and vivid blue eyes.

Gerda Christofferson is also writing a book. A satire, it is the triumph of the insect over man who destroyed himself through the science of warfare. In the illustrated story, the "oodees", Indian gnomes and fairies, come to the aid of mankind.

Her husband is also an accomplished painter, and last year both exhibited and sold their canvases at their own Indian art cabin situated on the Banff highway. This year's plans call for expansion.

Ever use cheese in breads? It's delicious. Just add grated Canadian Cheddar cheese to your ordinary muffin or waffle recipe.

Fashions

The whole beige family is doing well this season, ranging from pale bamboo to deep camel tones. The latter color is used for a street dress of sheer wool, the sort of thing that always looks good in a smartly tailored way. The saddle pockets are the standout feature, the long tabs extending up above the waist thus allowing the brown leather belt to run through. There is a stitched border on the collar, button band and pockets.

Nurse is Also Doctor to 2,090 Newfoundlanders

—Central Press Canadian

Nurses at La Scie, Nfld., have found they are the pioneers of their profession. They operate in a territory where there are no doctors or dentists, no roads and no transportation other than their own two feet. On one 10-hour visit to Horse Island, 15 miles from La Scie, where English-born Kathleen Quarmby is assigned as district nurse, she pulled 70 teeth, gave 70 inoculations and examined 300 patients. Her winter trips are made by snowshoe, many in snowstorms. In summer she travels by boat or on foot. "The responsibility is terrifying," says Kathleen, but the satisfaction of doing one's best is reward enough for Nurse Quarmby, seen above about to set off on another case with 'a bit of help' from Norm Toms, owned of La Scie's general store.

"Planting for Pleasure"

Valuable tips on making the most of grounds around a home are in a booklet called "Planting for Pleasure", written by R. W. Oliver of the Division of Horticulture, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. For instance, Mr. Oliver advises: —

When your lot is being graded remember to save the top soil to put back on top. Subsoil won't grow a good lawn or flowers so you must leave room to spread at least four inches of good top soil over the rough grade. A long slope from house to sidewalk is best, but if a terrace slope must be arranged do not make it steeper than one foot rise in two feet. A dry stone retaining wall with solid stone steps is the most attractive way to make up difference in levels but costs a bit more than a sodded slope.

If the house is attractive, keep the planting at the front simple; just enough evergreens or shrubs to soften the corners, frame the front steps and break up large wall spaces. Only ugly foundations need hiding by a full bank of green. Evergreens are good against a light background but they don't soften ugly lines as well as loose growing deciduous shrubs and they won't grow where floods of water and snow fall from the roof. Use ash-leaf spirea or early flowering hydrangeas in such situations.

Tall shrubs suitable for corners or large wall spaces are lilac, tartarian honeysuckle, mock-orange, or in shade, highbush cranberry. Medium shrubs for framing steps are van Houtte spiraea, Bouquet, or Dame Blanc mock-orange or golden leaf mock-orange. Low shrubs to plant beneath windows or in front of others are weigelia, Thumbergi barberry, Oregon grape, or in shade, snowberry and early hydrangea. Plant all shrubs at least three feet from the wall and five feet apart or away from a walk or step.

Evergreens have definite shapes. Do not use large growing native trees like cedar, spruce or pine for foundation planting unless you know how to clip them regularly and are prepared to do it.

If your hobby is growing things, by all means have a vegetable garden behind the garage with a row of currant bushes or raspberries to divide it from the lawn and flower garden. In an informal layout, borders should be varied in width; not scalloped regularly, but an outline of long sweeping curves that lead your eye on to one attractive view after another. Flowering shrubs or a hedge form the best background for the bright colors of the flowers.

Prepare the soil in these beds by digging-in well-rotted manure the previous fall to a depth of a foot or more. Plant mostly perennial plants that come up year after year but leave a few spaces for annuals to give color in July and August after the majority of showy perennials are finished. In general, early blooming perennials and shrubs should be planted in fall; late blooming ones in spring.

These are only a few of the ideas presented in the booklet by Mr. Oliver. He also writes about planting street trees, shade trees at the back, boundaries and hedges, what trees to select for certain shapes, how to arrange driveways, how to hide garbage cans by vines, planning recreation areas and other suggestions.

For a copy of the booklet, write to Information Service, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Ontario.

Buy A Flag! Buy A Flag!

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"Let's buy our own flag!" Tom suggested in the Family Council on Friday after supper.

"We had better brush up on our flag regulations before we invest in one", father remarked.

"Will we get a Union Jack or a Canadian Red Ensign?" Eleanor asked.

"We can decide that later, but first we had better find out how much it will cost", said mother, "but whatever the price I think it is a good idea."

A flag is a symbol of a nation and must be treated with honor and respect. It must never be allowed to touch the ground. Nor should it be flown on stormy weather or after dark. Nothing should be placed on it, neither objects nor printer letters. When hung indoors it must never be on a lower level than that of a person when sitting.

The correct way to dispose of a flag which is torn or too old for further use, is to burn it. Two flags should never be flown from the same staff . . . this signifies that the nation represented by the top flag is the victor at war! Sometimes ignorant people fly the Union Jack upside down and this is a signal of distress. The broad white stripe bordering the cross of St. Andrew's must be on the upper side in the top quarter of the flag next the mast-head.

In "flag language" certain colored flags throughout the years came to have definite meanings. Every one knows that white is the flag of truce and that a red cross on a white ground is a plea for peace and protection, and is used by doctors and nurses caring for the wounded amidst fighting. But how many could name the meaning of a yellow, a green, a red or a black flag? A yellow flag is hoisted above a ship which has infectious sickness on board. A green flag is flown over a wreck at sea. In olden days a red flag meant rebellion or mutiny. Pirates brazenly ran up their black flag. The most famous of all flags commands in British History History should be familiar to every Canadian: "England expects every man to do his duty" — Nelson's challenge before the battle of Trafalgar.

Some flag terms which are interesting to know are as follows: The "ground" is the main color of a flag. The "halyards" are the ropes which haul the flag up the staff and secure it. The "truck" is the knob at the top of the flagstaff. The width or part of the flag next the staff is the "hoist", while the length or outer part is the "fly" or "field". A flag is divided into quarters or "cantons", two next the staff and two in the fly. The terms used to raise a flag on the staff are to "run it up" or "hoist" it. To "strike" a flag means to lower it completely. To "break" a flag, it is rolled up in a ball, hoisted to the truck, and released at a given signal by pulling the halyard, and thus letting it float free.

Regimental colors are attached to "color pikes". When new colors are presented to a regiment, then the old colors are "trooped" or placed in a church or public building.

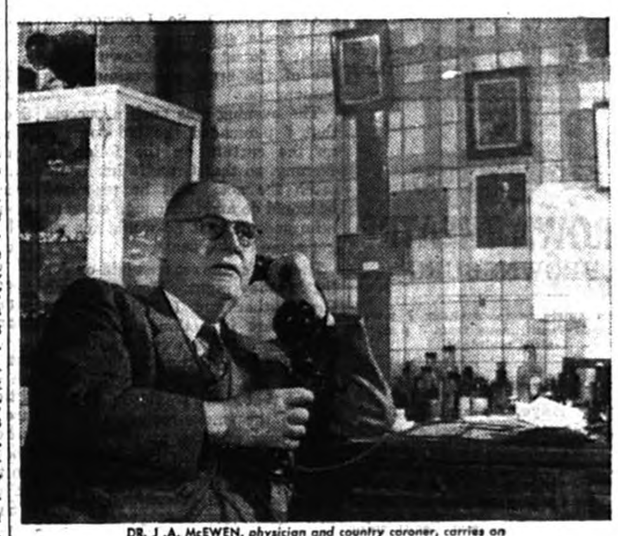

The admiral of a navy is called the "flag officer", and his ship the "flag ship". In the Royal Navy the white ensign is flown, with its St. George's cross on a white ground and the Union Jack in the upper left-hand corner. The royal naval reserve uses the blue ensign and has the Arms of Canada in the fly.

It is fascinating to examine the color and design of the different flags of the countries in the world. An attractive poster in color issued by the United Nations Department of Public Information in September 1951 shows the U.N. flag in the upper corner, and the flags of the sixty member nations at that date. Single copies of this can be obtained from the United Nations Association in Canada's headquarters in Ottawa. Here the Union Jack is shown as the flag of the United Kingdom, and the Canadian Red Ensign is Canada's symbol.

Canadian parents should not delegate completely to school teachers or camp counsellors the job of training their children in patriotism. Imparting knowledge of our past, respect for the flag, our symbol of nationhood, and challenging boys and girls to prepare themselves to give their best to their country is a home responsibility too. Here is a poem, "The Flag", by an unknown writer, which any Canadian would do well to memorize:

"When you see the flag of beauty
Do you feel the call to duty?
Do you hear the bugle sounding in your heart?
When you see its colors blowing
Does it set your spirit glowing
For your country, make you strong to do your part?
That Freedom may not perish
From the land that Freemen cherish

School Board At Morin Heights

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — The Morin Heights Protestant School Board met last Thursday, with Col. Garnet M. Strong in the chair and all members present.

The chairman, after opening the meeting, called upon the secretary-treasurer, A. Hamilton, to report upon the valuation rolls, and whether any complaints had been received during the legal period provided. After being assured that no complaints had been registered, the amended valuation roll was then accepted and the secretary instructed to post notices, in accordance with Article 382 of the Education Act, calling the people and the Board together to adopt the rolls, to order a collection roll made in accordance with same, and set the mill rate to cover the budget necessary to provide funds.

Certain other financial matters were discussed and left over until after June 30, when the local board would be responsible for finding its own finances.

The board authorized the membership in the P.A.P.S.B. and also appointed Principal Marven Blakely as its delegate to the local Coronation committee.

Mr. Hamilton was appointed as delegate to meet with others to appoint a member from this district to the New Central School Board.

Other matters regarding defects occurring in the school building were acted upon, the secretary being instructed to call in the architect to have them rectified.

Bright Indications In Canadian Outlook

When preparing for such a program of immigration it would seem advisable that a complete survey of the potential wealth, still undiscovered, should be made so that in seeking immigrants a proper distribution of the type of immigrant could be determined. In the years gone by we have been bringing in brawn for our labor force, latterly we may have been bringing in refugees without sufficient knowledge of how they will fit into our economy. The Neopolitan and Sicilian Italians who flooded into United States in the 1890's have been more or less problem children ever since, although their northern countrymen make the very finest type of citizen. Selection seems important.

If we should add the West Indies to our present territory it is possible that we would run into somewhat similar problems.

Under all these circumstances what is the outlook? The hopeful signs are that we have a combination in Canada of vast natural resources, stable government, trained people, good home market and even fair export markets. We have water power, transportation and food in abundance. With the water power which we have in Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia and the oil in Alberta and Saskatchewan, it is easy to be optimistic about the future. The average Canadian and especially the young Canadian, is prone to spend his money as he goes and our statistics show that for every dollar put away in personal savings, industries are plowing back $1.80 into the plant. One corporation in Montreal which recently had 8,600,000 dollars available as profits after paying 58% to the government in taxes, paid out only 600,000 to the share holders while returning eight million to the industry for expansion. No doubt this is exceptional but it indicates a trend. There is reason to believe that this trend is typical of many businesses at the present time. You may be able to think of both large and small concerns which are doing the same thing.

In many of these situations there are the hopeful signs. United States has taken the cream off her natural resources and will depend more and more on imports from Canada. Resistance to the exporting of raw materials may force them to accelerate the trend of opening branch plants in Canada. Every branch will employ more Canadians. If United States buys more products in other countries, these other countries will tend to move into a position to purchase more from us. American tariff policies are disappointing at the moment but may change.

The pattern of aid to our allies seems to be changing from a stage of handouts to a pattern of help to put them on a sound economic basis. If their prosperity increases our position may also improve. The continued plowing back of earnings into plant would seem to make investment in basic Canadian industry appear favorable in the long run.

The inflationary trend will continue at a slow but steady rate which over a period of many years would seem to make investment in physical assets or property fairly attractive. This is not to say that investments in bonds, insurance, annuities, etc., should be entirely abandoned. Prospects for employment of teen-agers are very bright and should continue so for several more years. The exporting of university educated people to United States is liable to slow down due to more favorable conditions for employment in our own country, although American research will continue to draw the very bright. Housing is apt to continue short and if immigration is speeded up to take up the slack in the labor force, this shortage will become more pronounced.

Our country is in the growth stage. With the opening up of new sources of new materials, new towns are bound to spring up. Every new town means prosperity for the suppliers of lumber, plumbing, hardware and other building materials. In fact it should mean better conditions for all of us. You have read about Ford's new plant at Oakville, Ontario, which will employ 5,000 workers. This plant will result in the building of a complete, new, carefully planned city of 25,000 people. This type of expansion is going on on a smaller scale all over the country. If you think back 25 or 30 years about your own community and have faith that the next 25 years will bring changes as great if not greater, then you can confidently look forward to continued growth in the long run. I believe that all of these factors add up to a far greater potential for continued prosperity than is generally realized.

The extent to which these growth opportunities can be grasped will be continued by certain limiting factors. Failing substantial immigration there will be a limitation in the size and composition of our population itself, especially in the dearth of new entrants into the labor force. There are more subtle limitations in the balance of social and economic forces, which under conditions of full employment tend to expand purchasing power more rapidly than productivity, and to weaken and extend the link between effort and reward. In these respects, we are vulnerable on two counts; there is a danger to both the cost structure and to the savings process.

The United States is still definitely opposed to raising the price of gold, feeling that it may help the wrong people, but there are some signs that a change may come. London believes that higher gold prices would help international trade.

All in all, while prospects over the years look exceptionally good, I would be the last one to advocate plunging into a heavy investment program just now. The trend will be up, but there will be fluctuations in the general trend which can be turned to advantage if one is watchful and takes appropriate action at the right time.

Coronation Preview

By Willis Young

(Part I)

When we speak of the Coronation, many people wonder what it really is; they cannot attempt to compare it with anything they have yet viewed. The latter statement is actually "putting it mild", because the Coronation ceremony, which is the oldest ceremony in British history, is composed of some of the most colorful and most regal decorations that man has ever seen. Added to these are some of the oldest jewels and costumes, as well as customs, England has ever known.

Again, when we stop and think of the Coronation, we ask: "Where did all this come from?" and "What is its benefit?"

In response to the former question we can first think of the Coronation Chair, which is also known as "St. Edward's Chair". It was built by Edward I in 1300, and was designed to hold the Stone of Scone, which was brought from Scotland to London in 1296. On this chair, with blaze of banner and color of costume, Elizabeth will receive the emblems of her sovereignty. Two crowns will be employed during the memorable event. Firstly, St. Edward's crown dating back to Charles II. It weighs over five pounds and is composed of diamonds, rubies, pearls, sapphires and emeralds. This is placed on Elizabeth's head only for a few brief moments during the Coronation and is then returned to its abode in the Tower of London, never to be used again during that monarch's lifetime. The second crown, the Imperial State Crown, is used, however, by the monarch on all state occasions. It was made for Queen Victoria in 1838 and its value is incalculable. It contains 2,783 diamonds, 277 pearls, 18 sapphires, 11 emeralds and five rubies. If these gems could only speak, they could unravel a tale that would keep an ordinary person spell-bound for days.

To answer the question, "what is its benefit?" I would like to mention how disappointed most of us would be if we were to learn that Queen Elizabeth II was not to have a Coronation!

"What?" we would protest. "But that is impossible! It is — and has been for ages — the most memorable incident in the life of the new Sovereign!"

Heavy Agenda At Morin Council

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — The Municipal Council assembled to transact its monthly business — Councillors Max Baumel, Edwin Holgate, R. E. Jamieson, Edward Greer and Paul Baumel forming a quorum, with Mayor Chas. D. Campbell in the chair later in the session.

The councillors appointed one of their members, R. E. Jamieson, as chairman to act pending arrival of the Mayor, who was unavoidably detained.

The meeting was opened with prayer, followed by the reading of the minutes. The chairman then declared the meeting open to the public for representation on any matters they wished to lay before the Council. Frank Weekes spoke about the recent appointment of a new Municipal Inspector, and also on the state of the roads and culverts on the 4th Range. Fire Chief Gillingham stated he had been requested by a number of citizens who were unable to be present, to voice their approval of this Council passing a Curfew By-law. These matters were all noted for discussion.

The secretary then read the monthly reports of the Fire Chief and Police Department. Four fires had occurred in the month, with very little loss, and two robberies investigated and information had been turned over to the Provincial Police. One conviction was made for reckless driving, with a sentence of 30 days in St. Jerome jail, and suspension of license for the period of a year, given to the offender.

Accounts were presented and approved for payment.

Mayor Campbell assumed the chair at this point.

In moving the adoption of the Fire Chief's report, Councillor Edwin Hoglate, who is also commissioner for the Fire and Police Departments, paid a sincere tribute to the loyalty of Jackie Watchorn, who had recently passed away, and to his devotion to duty as a member of the fire brigade.

The yearly Financial Statement was tabled for further study, to be dealt with at the meeting to be held in June.

Notice of motion was then given by Councillor Edwin Holgate that at a subsequent meeting he would present a Curfew By-law.

Unsatisfactory sanitary conditions on the Guenette property on the St. Adolphe Road were discussed and the secretary ordered to see that this was corrected immediately.

Councillor R. E. Jamieson spoke of necessity of the immediate passing of a Building By-law, even though perhaps later it would mean that it would have to be amended, at a little trouble by voting; he then gave notice of motion that at a subsequent meeting he would present a by-law on this question.

Dumping of refuse was reported to the Council and the secretary was instructed to purchase a number of signs and have them placed, and then instruct the Police Department to take any action necessary to correct this nuisance.

The new road in Christieville was discussed, and while no final decision was arrived at, it was felt the only way to deal with those who would try to hold up the municipality for unfair sums for public works, would be by expropriation proceedings.

Romeo Gauthier requested that he be supplied with water for his new garage — this being duly granted.

The secretary was authorized to purchase a ticket box for the collection of tickets at the new Campbell Bros.' Theatre, which would be opened in Morin ~~Heights~~ on Friday, May 15.

Councillor Edwin Holgate made a report regarding progress of arrangements for the Coronation festivities, and stated that all organizations had been most co-operative and had appointed their respective delegates to join his committee, also guaranteed certain sums to defray any expenses. The Council then authorized that the sum of $250 be made available to this committee; the motion was carried unanimously.

The Fire Chief asked that consideration be given to placing a hydrant at the four cross-roads in the village, as recommended by the Fire Underwriters. The secretary was instructed to proceed with this work as soon as possible. . . There being no further business, the meeting was closed.

Lions Club Contributes to Cyclists' Safety

Red phosphorescent tape is provided free by Lachute Lions Club for the safeguard of local cyclists after dark — the strips being handed out by the Police Department with the issue of licenses this spring.

RALLY OPENS CAMPAIGN FOR COMMUNITY CONCERT MEMBERS

Workers Keyed for Full Recruitment, Warranting Topmost Program Bookings

The membership campaign for the Lachute Community Concerts Association in 1953-54 in now underway, to continue until May 23. An enthusiastic rally of workers at the Legion Hall on Tuesday evening started the ball rolling, and canvassers are now at work to enlist a full membership.

Miss Juliette Rodrigue, president of the Association, welcomed the 60-odd persons representing Lachute, Brownsburg and district centres. She presented the list of the year's officers and paid tribute to those who had promoted the success of the organization last season. Miss Janet McOuat, campaign chairman, also spoke briefly, followed by Willard Sistaire from the Community Concert Association in New York. Mr. Sistaire gave some interesting facts on this project and its parent organization, Columbia Artists Corporation. . .

Lachute has enjoyed a fair share of leading artists, said Mr. Sistaire, reviewing past programs presented in this community. The objective of his organization was a "build audiences", and the calibre of programs is designed accordingly for the pleasure and entertainment of "Mr. and Mrs. Lachute" — not for those who would be "pulled by the boot-straps to the peak of musical education". Programs are selected on the available budget; therefore the choice is not completed until the membership is enrolled. The season's membership fee is $6. Members in Lachute next season would have the privilege of attending concerts presented by the neighboring group at Hawkesbury, without extra charge. The Lachute series will include the Trapp Family Singers, and other popular choices. The Hawkesbury programs will include: Conrad Thibault, baritone; The Angelaires, harp ensemble; Mario Braggiotti, pianist; and Pierrette Alarie, French-Canadian soprano.

A film was shown depicting activities at "Tanglewood", a musical summer school in the Berkshire Hills of Massachusetts, and performances of the First Boston Symphony Orchestra. Another film showed outstanding musicians in action — all artists on the Community Concerts personnel. The film projectionist was Laurent Beaudry, of Ayers Limited.

Raymond Beaulieu, energetic secretary, spoke in detail concerning the campaign and equipped the various canvassers for their duties.

Willard M. Steeves, treasurer since the inauguration of the Association here, gave a favorable financial report on last year's activities and also thanked Miss Rodrigue for her fine presidential address.

Buffet refreshments were served at the conclusion of this meeting.

'OKLAHOMA' MUSICAL REVUE PROVES PEAK PERFORMANCE BY H.S. PUPILS

By Anne Dwyer

The performance of "Oklahoma" by the Lachute High School Glee Club, last Friday evening in the school auditorium, amazed and delighted the Lachute audience as much as its original performance surprised Broadway 10 years ago. The people left gaily humming the melodies — a true testimony of satisfaction.

"Oklahoma" — an absorbing story founded on the Theatre Guild play, "Green Grow the Lilacs", by Lynn Riggs — has now become an American classic. Oscar Hammerstein and Richard Rodgers put in many new songs, as well as a few comical characters such as "Will" and "Ado Annie", to brighten the original script.

Briefly, the following is a summary of the adaptation directed by Miss Jane Catterson and Mr. S. McKyes, of the school teaching staff:

The opening action takes place in front of Laurey's ranch house with George Taylor as Curley singing "O What a Beautiful Morning". During the scene, Curley tries to persuade Laurie, acted by Olive-Jane Pollock, to accompany him to the hoedown. He describes to her "The Surrey with the Fringe on Top", which she rightly hesitates to believe. He resolves to break Laurey's date for the dance.

Will, played by Kenneth Gauley, entertains the audience with his rendition of "Kansas City". His girl friend Ado Annie (Helen Barker) shocks the assembly, as well as her friend Mary (Margaret Doig), with "I Cain't Say No". . . Helen here received an encore for her pleasing presentation.

Laurey then tries to fool herself about her feelings for Curley, singing "Many a New Day". However, her mood changes while singing "People Will Say We're in Love". Curley, inspired with a new determination, endeavors to induce Laurey's date, Jud (played by Kenneth Wilson) to hang himself, singing the persuasive song "Poor Jud is Dead". . . This selection too, was especially well received.

During the intermission, Miss Juliette Rodrigue and Wayne Riddell played the "Golliwog's Cakewalk" for two pianos, by Debussy. They played "Gopak", by Moussorgsky, as an encore.

The second act commenced with a lively square dance, called by Kenneth Wilson — the fiddle music being supplied by Mr. B. A. Millar. That laughter provoking couple, Ado Annie and Will, sang "All er Nothing", to the keen delight of the audience.

Helen McMahon, as Aunt Eller, persuades the two couples to get married and work for their home state. The reply is a patriotic "Oklahoma" sung in chorus by the entire company — a fitting conclusion for this performance.

Special tribute should be paid to Olive-Jane Pollock, who displayed the qualities of a real trouper.

"Oklahoma" could not have been produced without the capable part of Miss Jane Catterson as stage director. Other faculty members who lent their valuable aid were Miss B. Vrooman (make-up), Mrs. A. Cousins (setting), Mr. B. A. Millar (music), Mr. Wyse (stage manager) and Mr. Dixon and Mr. Russell (stage carpenters).

The Junior Choir gave a demonstration of their skill preceding curtain time. The Girls' Choir sang "Early One Morning". "The Cowboy's Riding Song" was presented by the boys, and the combined choirs repeated "O Danny Boy" for those who had missed hearing it the previous Sunday on the Voice of Youth radio program.

Since Mr. Shirley McKyes joined the staff of the County schools, music has reached an all-time high among the pupils. The production of "Oklahoma" was proof of this fact. Now the pupils face a severe loss in his departure — Mr. McKyes having been appointed music supervisor of Hudson, Ste. Anne's and Pointe Claire. Pointe Claire was Mr. McKyes' home for 10 years. However, he assures us he is indeed sorry to say good-bye to his many friends. "I have enjoyed working with the young people", he said, "and I have learned to love them."

Mr. McKyes will be greatly missed, not only in the schools but in social events here, and parents and friends listened to "Oklahoma" with a tinge of regret, realizing that it was a virtual farewell to his inspirational leadership in music.

Construction Permits Issued, Signals for Town Approaches, Tenders Called for Sidewalks

May Council Session Replete with Many Details of Town Needs and Improvements

The regular meeting of Lachute Town Council was held last Wednseay, all members being present with the exception of Ald. E. Pollock. Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur presided.

Ald. W. Cousineau reported that permission had been granted to the corporation by the Township of Chatham to use lot No. 856 as a municipal dump, subject to the Provincial Government regulations. Cost for preparing this dumpsite is being studied by the committee.

Major Campbell, 37th Field Regiment, RCA, enquired as to possibilities of renting the Auditorium for an Army Reserve Unit. A discussion took place as to possible damage to the floor and necessary repairs to be made. The Major was informed by Mayor Lafleur that no definite answer could be given until July, due to the present problems as to the City Hall.

Ald. Beaulieu gave notice that at the next council meeting he would present a by-law to regulate public dance halls used for commercial purposes, with or without a license, in the town limits.

Chamber of Commerce President Gérard Lefèbvre requested and was granted a $26 refund on money paid the Council by Roland Paquette for rental of the Auditorium for the Chamber.

The Chamber of Commerce requested by letter that a civic reception be held for the members of the Granby Chamber of Commerce, who are to visit Lachute, at an estimated cost of $100. The reception committee was authorized to organize a civic reception, with the cost not to exceed this amount.

The two Caution flashers offered to the town by the Lachute Lions Club are to be installed by the Road and Police Committees at the town's expense. These will be placed on Routes 8 and 41.

Police Chief D. Villeneuve was given instructions to notify all taxi operators using the public roads as a taxi stand to move to private properties, and also that the conducting of business on the streets was contrary to by-law. The Chief was requested to apply the by-law regarding traffic circulation.

It was decided that By-law 117 regarding dog licenses be put into effect immediately.

One tender was received to supply flowers for the Memorial Park for the season, at a cost of $185. This tender was accepted, from A. Paulsen.

A vote of thanks to W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., for use of the Provincial Government machinery, was moved by Ald. R. Morrissette, seconded by Ald. L. Gibeau.

The auditor's report was presented and left for further study.

Certain pool-room permits were authorized.

Tenders were called to build concrete sidewalks on Princess, Mary and Wilson Streets, and Brownsburg Road; to supply 20 gallons of white traffic paint; also for purchasing of the town garbage wagon. It was decided to purchase eight pairs of safety goggles, at $2.95 a pair.

Building permits were granted to the following: Farmers' Supply Co., for a warehouse on Robert Street; R. Hooper, a house on Charles Street; L. Deslauriers, a house on St. Julien Street; Felix Brisebois, a house on Hamford Street; Marcel Dallaire, a house on Emily Street; Romeo Legault, a house on Bedard Blvd.; Willie Gougeon, alterations to house on Chatham Street; Henri Campeau, a house on St. Julien Street; and Camille Lamoureux, a house on St. Jacques Street. . . It was decided that all building permits be considered void after six months if the work has not been started within that period.

Ald. D. G. MacRae was appointed pro-mayor for the ensuing three months.

Business Tax Under Fire at B'burg Council

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — The recent revision of tax rates on business enterprises brought a plethora of complaints, both within and outside the Council.

Mr. O'Brien, a business man on St. Joseph Street, doubted the Council's legal position in assessing a tax for taking orders for material not stocked on his premises but supplied direct to a customer's order. He had obtained legal opinion and was informed no tax could be charged on such transactions. A lengthy discussion took place on the merits of the charge and taxes in general — Mr. O'Brien questioning the application of this tax to like businesses.

The secretary assured him all such business within the Council's knowledge was taxed on an equal basis. The secretary produced an article of the Municipal Code which defined the municipality's right to tax any business from which a profit is obtained.

Mr. O'Brien informed the Council that by far the most of his business in the line was conducted outside of the Council area. In future he would not accept orders within the municipal jurisdiction, so that no tax would be payable.

Mr. Therriault protested a $75 tax on his grill apart from his hotel tax of $100. He maintained his grill was just a tap-room and not used for dancing or floor-shows, and therefore not in the same category as the other grills operating at the same tax levy.

Masonic Jewel To Wm. Duncan, Member 55 Years

Joining the Masonic Order in the year 1898 at Saint Andrews Lodge No. 199, Cumbernauld, Scotland, William Duncan came to make his home in Canada in 1903. While living at Brownsburg, Que., he affiliated in 1920 with Argenteuil Lodge No. 67 at Lachute, where he still is a member in good standing.

It was a unique occasion on Monday evening, when Wm. Duncan received his 50-year jewel — this being the first time in the history of Argenteuil Lodge that such honor had been conferred by them, and Bro. Duncan being the only living member to wear this coveted emblem. The late Rt. Wor. Dr. G. A. Clunie was the only other member of Argenteuil Lodge to enjoy this privilege.

The presentation was made by Rt. Wor. Bro. H. M. Gall, on behalf of the Grand Master, the Wor. Master and brethren of Argenteuil Lodge, with best wishes for many more happy years of membership.

Mr. Duncan still enjoying good health at 77, and residing at 412 Greenock Ave., Town of Mount Royal, expressed his sincere appreciation of the honor bestowed upon him, and for the jewel, which he will henceforth wear with deep pride.

Wor. Bro. R. Graham occupied the chair and the work of the evening consisted in the conferring of the first degree.

Among the visiting brethren were Rt. Wor. Bro. G. A. Stimson and Bros. G. Watson, C. Fraser and J. Bridge, of Alexandria, Ont.

SECOND CHANCE

Sydney, N.S. (CP) — An experimental probationary system started in June, 1951, seems to be working successfully for youthful offenders. Seventy-seven persons, mostly young boys, have completed their probationary periods and another 44 are still under supervision of Sheriff James MacKillop. Only 15 infractions were recorded.

Cheap Imports Seen Threat to Textile Industry

Cardinal P. E. Leger Attacks Alcoholism

"WEEK IN QUEBEC"
By Bernard Dufresne

Quebec, May 11 (CP)—A national economic crisis would leave Quebec virtually untouched, except for its textiles industry, Premier Duplessis said last Friday.

The industry was in danger of falling into a "disastrous situation" as a result of United States sales of textile products "at sacrifice prices" on the Canadian market.

"I am not in a position to know if an economic crisis is shaping up but Quebec's industries, based on development of natural resources will function in an economy geared for peace or war.

"There is only one cloud that darkens the horizon and that is the textile industry, and industries manufacturing textile products. Our Canadian market is swamped, not to say infested, with these American products sold at sacrifice prices to the detriment of our textile industry and our people.

"I realize this is a complicated problem but I have serious reasons to believe that if it is not solved in the near future, an important industry providing work for a large portion of our people will be irreparably in a disastrous situation that will benefit the unjust American invasion", he said.

Quebec is Canada's biggest producer of textiles and textile products. Last year, there were 1,725 clothing plants and 421 primary textile industries in Quebec, more than half the Canadian total in 1950.

Mr. Duplessis said there is "no doubt the national economy is directed towards military production, but I believe Quebec is in a particular position to remain stable economically because we have so many industries that fit in with a peacetime economy . . ."

Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal last week told the Richelieu Club of Quebec that while men starve in many parts of the world, millions of bushels of wheat, barley and rice are "wasted" to satisfy the thirst of alcoholics.

"To remain indifferent in the face of the social problem placed in our society by alcohol would be simply admitting that we have lost our sense of responsibility as men and as Christians.

"It is not showing surprise and horror at crimes committed by drunken men that the Christian conscience manifests itself, but rather increasing the means to eliminate the cause of these bloody orgies."

Cardinal Leger said "alcohol flows everywhere in our country, in our cities and in our homes."

"This is where the social question starts. Education starts here. The duty of all Christians starts here. When on the world's table there is not enough to fill everyone's needs, there is only one solution that of men of good will — and all Christians should be in that category — cutting out something from their needs and desires, eliminating the unnecessary."

Cardinal Leger called for a greater effort to eliminate those things which are a burden to society, adding that only in this way will the world become free and richer.

Mayor of Town Discusses Speed Law, Asks Co-operation to Prevent Accidents

Make Haste Slowly !

In accordance with the safety campaign across Canada to suppress the scourge of Speeding, Lachute Town Council deems it timely to acquaint the citizens with its stand, to aid in curbing this growing threat.

The poulation of this town should know, first of all, that Lachute, like other Quebec municipalities, is subject to the provincial Motor Vehicles Act, and that it is not within the town's jurisdiction to make its own traffic laws.

The provincial regulations, however, impose a speed limit of 20 miles per hour in business sections, 8 miles an hour at intersections and school crossings — and a limit of 30 miles an hour in all other sections not specified, within town or village limits.

We are well aware that the approaches and exits of our town are virtually "speedways" where motorists drive at their pleasure and heart's desire. However, certain of our service clubs, with the aid and approval of the town body, plan to install signal lights, which should, I am sure, improve the situation insofar as these approaches are concerned.

Parking must also be considered as an essential factor in our municipal transit, but under orderly restriction.

We solicit the co-operation of all owners and drivers of motor vehicles among our citizenry, to help in the observance of these laws. It must be emphasized that our police officers cannot be everywhere at the same time, to enforce the regulations.

We shall act for the observance of the law, and believe me, no personal concession to traffic offenders, or political influence, shall be allowed to prevent the payment of a fine.

Let's beat this increasing scourge of accidents — so many of them fatal; let us be ever on our guard and scrupulously obey the rules of common sense and prudence. Let us voluntarily abstain from the use of liquor and excess of speed. We will thereby enjoy life to a greater extent, and contribute to the welfare and happiness of others.

MAKE HASTE SLOWLY!

(Signed) Jules Lafleur, M.D.,
Mayor of Lachute.

Good Report From Chatham Municipality

St. Philippe — At its last meeting, the Council of the Corporation of the Township of Chatham heard the auditor give the financial report for the past year. The municipality started the year 1952 with a deficit amounting to $12,783.82, and reduced it to $519.83. Moreover, if we take into account the corporation owns $1,750.00 of snow fence, no one can deny that 1952 has been a successful year. Quoting Mr. Turgeon of the Municipal Commission, the auditor, G. Tabrett, said: "If the Council would erase half of the deficit this year and half next year, they would have done very well!"

Chatham has done better, and in having paid 96% of their debt and owning their snow fence, they have accomplished a feat worthy of mention.

The Mayor ended the meeting by expressing his appreciation and thanks to the councillors for their help in bringing the financial situation to a successful conclusion.

Annual Scout Rally Planned for May 30

The Boy Scouts Rally Committee, headed by Angus Taylor, Lachute, is busily engaged in planning for the Annual Rally of the Laurentian District of the Boy Scouts Association, which is scheduled for the Lachute Fair Grounds on Saturday, May 30. Guides, Brownies, Scouts and Cubs will take part in this year's Rally. The District includes Brownsburg, Grenville, Lachute, Rosemere, Ste. Rose, St. Eustache, Laval West, St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac, and The Boys' Farm and Training School at Shawbridge. Admittance is free, and a large attendance is hoped for.

Boy Drowned At Huberdeau

An inmate of the Huberdeau Orphanage, 13-year-old André Champlain, lost his life by misadventure, in the Rouge River last Sunday afternoon.

Members of the religious brotherhood in charge of the orphanage, had taken a party of boys on a fishing outing to the bank of the river, giving instructions that they were to stay on the shore. André and a young companion found an old rowboat, however, and, having no oars, they paddled it from the shore with their hands. Seen by those in charge, they were told to come ashore, and in manipulating the boat they somehow capsized it. Both boys were thrown into the water. André Champlain, becoming tangled in his fishing line, sank while his companion was helped to shore.

The accident occurred at 4.30 o'clock, and the boy's body was recovered around 6.30. Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur was summoned from Lachute. Accompanied by Det. Philippe Therriault, he conducted an inquiry and pronounced death due to accidental drowning.

Election Contest for Chatham Township

St. Philippe — Nominations for council vacancies in the Municipality of the Township of Chatham, on Tuesday, resulted in three nominations for the mayoralty to replace D. G. Simon, retiring. The nominees are Romeo Foucault, Romeo Lemay and Noel Lemay.

Paul Richer was re-elected by acclamation for Seat No. 2.

James Derouin and John F. Black (retiring) were nominated for Seat No. 3.

As the nominations stand at this date, there will be a contest for mayor and one aldermanic seat next Tuesday, May 19.

MORE ACCIDENTS

Regina (CP) — Accidents reported to the Workmen's Compensation Board in 1952 totalled 16,330, greatest number in Saskatchewan's history and an increase of 2,674 over 1951.

Scholastic Merit Awards Granted to Two County Teachers

The Board of Scholastic merit of the Protestant Committee of Education has granted awards to two teachers associated with this district — Miss Vera B. Gauley, of Cote des Neiges School (related in Grenville), receiving the first degree award, and Mrs. Donald McCabe receiving the third degree award.

Mrs. Donald (Grace) McCabe, from Harrington, formerly helping teacher in the Argenteuil - Two Mountains Unit, is now assistant supervisor of English with the Quebec Department of Education.

The first degree is for merit, the second for great merit, and the third degree for distinguished merit, to teachers who have given a minimum of 20 years' service in schools of the province.

Good Response from Citizens, Groups, In Campaign for New B'burg Legion Hall

Brownsburg — The campaign for funds for the new Memorial Hall in Brownsburg appears to have got off to an auspicious start, judging by the early returns from Legion canvassers. The idea of spreading payment of contributions over a period of one year seems to be proving popular, as the vast majority of pledges received so far are to be redeemed in this manner. The building of the new Memorial Hall is progressing favorably, and while it will be several months before the work will be finished, it is expected that progress will be sufficent to permit the scheduled Coronation Dance to be held on June 1.

The Brownsburg Legion sincerely appreciates the support it is receiving from citizens of Brownsburg, Lachute and other centres, and it is with thanks that they report having received an overall total of $313 from the Lachute Legion as proceeds of the dance which it organized on behalf of the Brownsburg Branch. It acknowledges too the kind pledge made by the Brownsburg Dance Recital Group, comprising Mrs. Myra Summers, Mrs. Pat Seary and Mrs. Dorothy Beaudry, who have promised a piano for the new hall. To raise funds for this end, dance recitals are scheduled for June 5 in Brownsburg and June 6 in Lachute.

'Quebec the Awakening Giant' -- Iron Deposits Key to 'Economic Security of North America'

Speaker L. W. Armstrong Eloquent Salesman For Heritage and Progress of Province

An ardent campaigner for publicizing the great potentialities, the tangible and traditional wealth of this province, was heard by an interested audience at the Lions Club on Tuesday evening. Linton W. Armstrong, a persuasive and accomplished speaker, proved himself equally qualified with facts and figures to justify his pride in Quebec Province. His discourse was indeed a sales talk, which instilled enthusiasm in many who admittedly love their home and habitat, but who take its advantages largely for granted.

The meeting was chaired by President Bertrand L'Heureux. There were approximately 40 members in attendance. Mr. Armstrong, past-president of the Rotary Club, past-president of Community Concerts Association, and Commissioner of Laurentian Division of the Boy Scouts Association, was introduced as an active community citizen by Lion Gordon McOuat, and in conclusion was cordially thanked by Lion Dr. F. W. FitzGerald.

Following is a resumé of this absorbing topic, entitled "Quebec the Awakening Giant":

The speaker compared the size of Quebec with other provinces and states of the Union and countries of Europe. For example, he stated there was a county in Quebec equal in area to that of Texas, Massachusetts, Vermont, New Jersey, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Rhode Island and a country the size of Wales. There were some who might maintain that this was of little value because such a large portion of this province was barren wasteland far to the North. The records show, however, that there are over 100,000 square miles of forest in this province which produce over 50 per cent of the entire pulp and paper output of Canada. Forestry production is expected to produce a revenue of $1,000,000,000 this year. Upwards of 50 per cent of the total revenue of $6,000,000,000 comes from this so-called "wasteland".

Independent surveys reveal that the provinces of Quebec and Alberta have shown the greatest progress during the last 10 years. The value of practically every single industry in this province has at least doubled in that time.

The story of the developments in hydraulic power and mining is almost incredible. This province produced less than 1,000,000 horsepower at the end of the First Great War. This has increased until, at the present time, it is in excess of 6,000,000,000 horsepower, which is more than 50 per cent of the total hydraulic production of Canada. The second largest single power site in the world is the Shipshaw development, where there is a turbine capacity of 1,200,000 horsepower. A new devolpment is now underway in the Saint John River district which is expected to develop 1,500,000 horsepower.

Development in mining in recent years in the Province of Quebec is frequently mentioned in various periodicals. The world's largest aluminum smelter plant is located at Arvida. The world's largest titanium deposits have recently been discovered at Allard Lake. This is expected to become one of industry's most valuable minerals in the near future, comparable to iron and aluminum. The recent discoveries of iron in Northern Quebec are the envy of the world and they are of particular interest to the world's largest consumer of this metal, the United States. By 1954 the present development is expected to yield at least 10,000,000 tons a year, and certain experts maintain that this production will double within a few more years. One of the large American steel companies at present interested in this project states that the iron ore of this frozen northland means "economic security for all of us in North America for many years to come".

Canada's only refractory plant is located in this province — indeed, in this County of Argenteuil. This was of extreme importance during World War II, ranking second to the Aluminum Company of Canada.

The speaker mentioned Quebec's unique position with regard to representation in the House of Commons at Ottawa, where all the other provinces must have the same proportion of representatives to their population as the number 65 gives to the Province of Quebec.

In closing the speaker stated that, in his opinion, Quebec's greatest boast was her tradition and history — the homeland of the French-Canadian who carved a home for himself out of a wilderness and laid the foundation for a nation.

PROJECT AT FAIR GROUNDS ON FRIDAY INITIATING FIRST CERTIFIED TREE FARM IN EASTERN CANADA

The local public are invited to attend the Argenteuil Agricultural Society Tree Farm inauguration this Friday, May 22, at 2 p.m. on the exhibition grounds.

Recently a National Tree Farm organization has been formed and this will be the first tree farm in Eastern Canada to be certified under this organization. It is part of an educational effort to stimulate interest in sound woodlot management to save Canada's forest resources from depletion.

The Vocational Service Committee of the local Rotary Club are sponsoring the movement in Argenteuil.

During the afternoon trees will be planted by Mayor Gilbert Ayers of Ayersville and by Major Dr. Jules Lafleur of Lachute. School children will operate a modern tree planting machine. Chemical brush-killing methods will also be demonstrated.

Mr. Lloyd Van Camp, manager of the Canadian Forestry Association and co-ordinator of the National Tree movement, will speak on the objectives of certified tree farms.

The president of the Rotary Club will present the first certified woodlot certificate to George McGibbon, president of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society.

In the event of rain the event will be postponed until Saturday, at the same hour.

First Manager for Bell Telephone Co. Appointed Here

Indicative of the growing importance of Lachute as a telephone centre, A. Desmond Connolly, of Montreal, has been appointed Bell Telephone manager with headquarters here, it was announced this week. Mr. Connolly will take over his new duties on Monday, May 25.

Lachute's first telephone manager was born in Ireland and attended public school in Montreal and Montreal High School. He graduated with a B.A. degree from McGill University in 1950. In the Second World War, Mr. Connolly served with the Royal Canadian Air Force in Canada and overseas and retired with the rank of Flying Officer.

Mr. Connolly joined Bell's commercial department at Montreal in March, 1951, and since last July has been with the company's sales department there.

In the postwar period, the number of telephones in the Lachute exchange area has more than doubled. There are now 2,619 telephones in service here as compared with 1,239 at the end of December, 1945.

Farmer H. D. Pengally phoned the Watrous, Sask., Manitou a stop-press item; he had just heard the CBC Farm Broadcast whereby the commentator told of a female sow. . . "Alcohol-oat-burner is a bad mixture", heads the Kamloops Sentinel, telling of Ray Peters, an Indian there, allegedly under the influence of firewater, trying to ride a horse across the CNR trestle bridge, and it took all the king's men to get dobbin back on to dry land.

Third Term Mayor, Acclamation for Donaldson, B'burg

Two New Aldermen And One Re-elected

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — James B. Donaldson was returned to the mayoralty by acclamation here last Tuesday, for a third term. "Jim" Donaldson succeeds Mayor Hector Pariseau, and inherits a sound, well ordered municipal administration — the credit for which belongs to Mr. Donaldson himself to a great extent.

At the moment there are no outstanding problems deserving Council attention, and beyond routine maintenance, the incoming mayor's term of office should be a pleasant and easy one. The waterworks is a self-supporting proposition, and although some extensions have been requested, on the whole the village is well served. Streets and roads are in excellent condition, and fire protection under the able guidance of Chief Arthur Robbins is first-class.

For the three vacant Council seats, five men were nominated — the vacancies occurring when Vincent Charbonneau's, Lorne Ball's, and Aldege Carriere's terms of office expired. Voting took place on Tuesday, an extension of one day beyond the legal requirement, owing to the Victoria Day holiday. Results were as follows:

| | Upper Town | Lower Town | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Alfred Lupien (elected) | 104 | 160 | 264 |
| Bill Ouellette (elected) | 197 | 57 | 254 |
| V. Charbonneau (re-elected) | 143 | 69 | 212 |
| Albert Gagné | 44 | 145 | 189 |
| Antonio Denault | 110 | 57 | 167 |

Poor Showing

There was a very poor turnout of voters. Out of 1,286 registered on the lists, only slightly over 300 cast their votes. Lack of notice was the general excuse — but the result shows a pathetic lack of civic awareness.

Heard Recently in Piano Recital

Miss Denise Chamaillard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henri Chamaillard, Lachute, who was heard last week in a successful piano concert recital at Lachute High School. A pupil of Miss Juliette Rodrigue, Miss Chamaillard received her Laureate in Pianoforte with high distinction from l'Academie de Musique de Québec in 1952.

B'burg Legion Hall Campaign Now In Full Stride

Brownsburg — The Legion appeal for financial assistance to complete the bigger Memorial Hall, now in progress of construction, is meeting sympathetic response, and canvassers report that the great majority of contacts made so far indicate willingness to help. There are many others who have not yet been approached, and it would be a great help if they would take the initiative if they would like to assist, and approach their nearest Legion member or the co-chairman of the campaign, Sid Stilwell. A pledge of a small amount each month may seem insignificant to the donor but over a period of 12 months it becomes a substantial amount, and this will mean a lot to the Brownsburg Legion if they can obtain their objective of 1,000 subscribers. It is estimated that the over-all debt on the new hall, completely equipped, will approach the $20,000 figure, and it is imperative that this be reduced to reasonable proportions to permit the hall to be operated successfully with a gradual retirement of the debt by annual payments, in addition to interest.

Grateful acknowledgment is made by the Brownsburg Legion of the two large framed color photographs of the Queen and the Prince Consort, which have been donated by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Forrest, of Montreal.

The names of further subscribers reported this week are:

Gordon Anderson $10, William Campbell $10, Charles Harding $12, Victor Billingham $10, Albert Brown $12, George A. Connelly $14, Willis Kennedy $6, Oscar Moore $5, Georges E. Desforges $6, F. L. Tessier $12, C. J. Wheeler $10, Mrs. L. Berube $6, Mrs. Mima Elliott, Lachute $5.

J. H. Murdoch $12, H. K. Rutherford $5, Miss Isabel Low $12, Miss Marion Low $12, Lionel Gaunt $5, Mrs. Marguerite Millar $6, Steven Millar $6, Miss Joan Brewer $10, Mrs. Claire Pascis $5, Miss Lucienne Whelan $5, Miss Hazel Fortier $6, Miss Muriel Jackson $5, Miss Florence Trainor $5, Gerry Chapman $10, Miss Vivian Kennedy $5.

Miss Estelle Stilwell $2, Miss Madeleine MacGregor $2, Boris Arran, Lachute $5, Allan F. Dewar $12, Michael Sahyoun $12, Armand Racine $2, Alvin Tomalty $5, Albert Gagné $50, Edgar Morrow, Lachute $1, Wesley Mason $2, Sidney Painter, Lachute $10, Carl Clausen, Jr. $5.

British Empire Medal To Former Lachute Boy

A/WO2 Paul A. Lynch, 1st Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, was awarded the British Empire Medal at Calgary on Tuesday, for distinguished service.

The presentations to 21 members of the Army and two RCAF officers were made by Governor General Vincent Massey at an investiture there.

Paul served with a number of local boys in the Black Watch during the Second World War. His family now reside in Vancouver, while Paul has been stationed in Calgary for some time.

Lost Money Returned By Caretaker

A couple presenting a show here recently on behalf of a local church organization suffered a temporary misfortune, when the lady lost $40 in bills from her purse while at the Lachute Auditorium. Her husband, returning here from l'Orignal, Ont., to enquire concerning the loss, was directed to the caretaker of the town premises, Aurele Chevrier, who luckily had found the cash while cleaning the hall; he promptly returned the sum to its owner, who was grateful indeed to have recovered the loss.

Community Concerts Membership Deadline This Saturday, May 23

Good Progress Reported in Association's Sixth Annual Membership Campaign

The sixth annual Membership Campaign of the Lachute Community Concert Association reaches its deadline on Saturday evening, at which time the membership list will be closed.

Miss Janet McOuat, campaign chairman, reports returns from the 60 volunteer workers have been gratifying, and indicate another successful concert series next season.

There are still two days left for those who may not have been solicited, to obtain their memberships. Arrangements may be made either by calling at or telephoning Bedard Ltée on Main Street, (phone 563).

Miss Juliette Rodrigue, president of the Community Concerts Association, reminds local music enthusiasts that, in addition to the three or four concerts to be presented in Lachute next season — which will include the world-renowned Trapp Family Singers — members will be able to attend concerts at Hawkesbury, which will have its first Community Concerts next season, at no extra cost. Artists and ensembles selected for Hawkesbury include Conrad Thibault, popular concert baritone, Mario Bragiotti, celebrated pianist, Pierrette Alarie, brilliant French-Canadian soprano of the Metropolitan and Paris Opera Companies, and The Angelaires, a harp quintet comprising five talented and attractive young women harpists.

This privilege gives local members an opportunity to hear seven or eight concerts for the $6 membership fee.

Blaze in Ayersville

Smoke and flames caused approximately $1,000 damage Monday morning to a building on Chatham Street, Ayersville, owned by Albert Morrissette and occupied as a restaurant. The fire had a head start on the local fire brigade, as they were misled by a wrong address phoned in with the alarm. The correct information was on hand when Chief Geo. Y. Deacon returned to the fire station, and both fire trucks were immediately dispatched.

The fire was said to have been caused by overloaded electrical wiring.

A chimney fire was extinguished by Chief Deacon in a Main Street house on May 13. The call was transmitted to the Chief on the short-wave radio, and he was on the spot to put out the fire before it really got started.

Det. Philippe Therriault Goes to Investigation Dept., Fire Commissioner's Office

Detective Philippe Therriault, who has been stationed here as district Provincial Police officer for the past five years, left Tuesday to reside in Quebec City, where he will have charge of arson investigations in Quebec Division for the Fire Commissioner's Bureau.

Detective Maurice Lamoureux, who served here briefly before going to St. Jerome and Montreal, is back in Lachute to succeed Detective Therriault in this area.

Philippe Therriault has been well occupied since his appointment to this division, having handled over 700 investigations in various types of offences. In 1952 there were 234 cases requiring his attention, of which well over 150 were brought to legal conclusion in the courts. . . Detective Therriault's new field of operation will include a large area from Three Rivers to Gaspé, part of the St. Lawrence north shore and Beauce County.

Woman Killed in Crash, Four Injured in Hawkesb'y Hospitals

Alexandria, Ont. (CP) — A Hawkesbury woman, Mrs. Antoine Sauvé, died and four other persons were injured when the car in which they were travelling went into a ditch on the highway between Alexandria and Hawkesbury last Friday night.

Roger Belair, 20, of Hawkesbury, driver of the car, suffered critical injuries and was taken to the Smiths' Clinic at Hawkesbury.

Antoine Sauvé, husband of the dead woman, was also seriously injured and taken to the Smiths' Clinic.

Bernie Cholette, 15, and his sister, Bernadette Cholette, both of Williamstown, suffered serious injuries and are in Kelly's Hospital at Hawkesbury.

According to Ontario Provincial Police officers, the car, travelling north on Highway 34, went out of control on a curve at McCrimmon's Corners.

It went into a ditch, somersaulted at least three times and travelled 200 feet along the ditch. It was a complete wreck when it came to a stop.

Annual Effort For Lions Club Charity Funds

New 1953 Chevrolet Prize Drawing to be Staged in September

Lions Club charity and service work in this community needs no forceful publicity; instances of this activity come to public attention periodically throughout the year. Once during each season, however, the club comes before the public with a fund-raising appeal through its annual Golf Tournament and drawing — to which the citizenry are generally ardent in their response, welcoming this opportunity to co-operate in the good work.

The drawing for a new automobile and other worthwhile prizes comes most notably to the public attention through the exhibiting of these awards at Lachute Spring Fair. The car will appear again at the Fair this year, and the ticket-selling campaign is now under way — reaching the climax of this joint effort with Montreal district Lions Clubs at the annual Golf Tourney, to be held this time at the LaSalle Golf & Country Club on September 12-13.

Top prizes in this campaign are a 1953 two-door Chevrolet sedan, and a 17-inch Victor television with 20 other attractive offerings. In addition, for supporters in this area, a Crosley television will be drawn for at the Fair Grounds on the closing day of the exhibition.

Generous participation of the public in this effort is anticipated by the Lions committee, in charge of Léopold Carrière as chairman.

Chief of Staff, Quebec Command

Col. J. G. G. Charlebois, 44, Canadian military attache to France for the past three years, will return to Canada this summer to become Chief of Staff at Quebec Command Headquarters, Montreal. The appointment of a new military attache to succeed Col. Charlebois in Paris will be announced later.

Col. Charlebois, former Director of Infantry at Army Headquarters before going to Paris, was born at Manwaki, Que.; he is a B.A. and B.Ph. from University of Ottawa.

Gatineau Co. Manager Gives Sidelights Old and New in Local Electric Power Service

Rodrigue Carreau Rates High Interest in Service Club's Local Business Topics

Service club speakers in this community offer, not infrequently, topics which merit a wider audience. And not the least of these, in point of interest, are the local business talks given informally by members at each Lions Club meeting. This feature (humorously styled the "Toot your own horn" session) has developed into a public relations gesture familiarizing the members with local enterprises.

Lion Rod Carreau, speaking at the club meeting Tuesday evening in the Legion Hall, told some interesting facts concerning electricity service in this area, both early and up-to-date, and dealt with the functions of Gatineau Power Company, of which he is local manager.

The Gatineau Power Company is a comparatively young Company in the electric utility field, said Lion Carreau. Its history, as known to the general public, is related almost entirely to the Gatineau and Ottawa Rivers and began only in 1926.

The area served by Gatineau Power Company and its distribution system extends from Campbell's Bay in the County of Pontiac, easterly through the Counties of Gatineau, Hull, Papineau, Argenteuil, Labelle, Terrebonne, Two Mountains, l'Assomption and Montcalm north of the Ottawa River — Vaudreuil and Soulanges Counties between the Ottawa and St. Lawrence Rivers — Laprairie, St. Jean and Napierville Counties south of the St. Lawrence River.

The Gatineau Company also has power plants in Grand Falls, N.B., and at Kipawa in Quebec, in both places supplying large paper mills and distribution systems nearby.

A fact that is not so well known is that Gatineau also sells in bulk, mostly to the Ontario Hydro; as a matter of fact, the entire output of its largest plant is sold to Ontario Hydro and delivered to them at their Leaside sub-station, near Toronto, at 240,000 volts.

Actually Gatineau Power Company comprises a large number of smaller companies, some of which started operations as early as 1896.

Originally a number of communities were served by small individual plants, whose operations covered but a small area. Through amalgamation of small companies, inter-connections of their networks, and a huge construction program of storage dams, power plants and high voltage transmission lines, the system which started with less than 15,000 customers has grown until it now serves in excess of 70,000.

At the time of its incorporation in 1926 the Company's large hydro-electric power plants on the Gatineau River were not in operation, but were under construction; their capacity today is in excess of 530,000 horsepower, out of a total installed capacity of 775,000 horsepower. . .

Concerning the operations of this Company here in Lachute, and developments which could possibly have some effect in this division, Manager Rod Carreau made the following observations. . . It is not generally realized what the interconnection of so many small plants and system in the early days has meant to a community such as this. Some will recall when Lachute was first served by the Ayers Electric Company of Lachute, which commenced operations in 1897. Their original plant had a generating capacity of 400 h.p.; this was more than sufficient for their own needs and permitted them to distribute electricity to Lachute, Brownsburg, St. Philippe and Staynerville. The distribution rights of the Ayers Electric Company were purchased by the Ottawa-Montreal Power Company in 1925, and this latter company was acquired by Gatineau Power in 1927.

New Theatre Opens at Morin

Due Ceremony Marks Outset of Local Venture, M.P. in Attendance

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — At long last this community has hit as high spot insofar as amusement is concerned. After many discouragements, on Friday night the efforts of those responsible achieved their aim and opened to the local public a picture theatre of worthy proportions promising a high class of entertainment.

The film for the opening night was "By the Light of the Silvery Moon", featuring Doris Day and Gordon MacRae.

A large attendance was present, and prior to the commencement, amid a profusion of flowers sent by the well-wishers and friends of the Campbell Bros., pioneers of this propect, a short ceremony took place with the Rev. Mr. Blair in the chair. On the platform with him were Philippe Valois, M.P. for Argenteuil-Two Mountains, the Rev. Capt. H. Baugh, and the two promoters, namely, Mayor Chas. D. Campbell and his brother, Raymond Campbell.

Mayor Campbell voiced warm tribute to those assisting him and his brother in completing this project, particularly mentioning Eric McCullough and Leonard Weekes, and their many friends from Canadair Co. They also mentioned the valuable assistance given by the members of the Legion and others of the community, in the construction stage when wind demolished the walls after these were almost completed. The Rev. Mr. Baugh congratulated the Campbell Bros., and hoped the public would give this new project all their support. Mr. Raymond Campbell also recalled the difficulties encountered; he offered his thanks to all who had helped in overcoming the disastrous results of the windstorm, and to his many friends in Canadair, the electricians, and others. He then made a token gift to his mother, Mrs. M. Campbell, which was warmly applauded by all present. Mr. Blair then called upon Philippe Valois to formally open the theatre. Following a few appropriate remarks Mr. Valois cut the ribbon and declared the establishment officially open to the public for their enjoyment.

After the show, the proprietors held an informal gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Campbell, and about 40 guests were present.

Safety Rally at Civic Auditorium

A special rally for workers, in the interests of Industrial Safety, is planned for next Thursday, May 28, at 8 p.m. in Lachute Auditorium.

The program will include pep talks on safe practices in the plant, motion pictures and a drawing for door prizes. Admission is free.

Reduction of accidents can only be obtained through repeated and relentless effort. Accidents can be prevented. And the success of this safety rally, sponsored by the Quebec Association for the Prevention of Industrial Accidents, depends on the co-operation of all concerned.

Romeo Lemay Elected Mayor Of Chatham Twp.

Succeeds D. G. Simon For Two-Year Term

Following the nomination of Jas. H. Derouin and John F. Black for council vacancy in Seat No. 3 for the Municipality of the Township of Chatham, Mr. Derouin subsequently withdrew and Mr. Black received an acclamation to the seat.

The three nominees for the mayoralty remained in the field — Romeo Foucault, Noel Lemay and Romeo Lemay — and the election contest was held Tuesday, Romeo Lemay winning the race with a 16-vote majority.

The number of ballots polled, as reported by Gerard Trottier, secretary of the municipality, was: Noel Lemay 168, Romeo Foucault 204, Romeo Lemay 220.

Romeo Lemay succeeds Douglas S. Simon to the mayoral office for a two-year term.

Stolen Car Recovered By Local Police

Floriant Thériault, a Hawkesbury motorist in Lachute last weekend, was obliged to return home by taxi when he discovered that his automobile had been stolen from the centre parking lane on Main Street.

Before leaving, however, Mr. Thériault notified the local police and Constable G. Slabowski recovered the missing 1949 Pontiac sedan around midnight, not far from the spot where it had disappeared.

Gatineau LINES

Standardization

As many of you know, Gatineau Power Company was formed over a quarter-century ago by the amalgamation of 25 small electricity companies, each serving a little area of what is now the territory served by Gatineau. One of the great advantages of this amalgamation has been standardization.

For one thing, rates are now standard where before the rates of all the little companies were different, and all of them were at least twice as high as those now in effect. Another important factor is the continuity of service. Formerly, trouble in a single power plant meant a complete blackout of all territory served by that power plant. Today a network of wires serves all the Gatineau area. If there is trouble in one plant, plants in other areas are ready at all times to take up the load.

Flea Beetles

(From a series on destructive insect pests by entomologists of C-I-L's agricultural chemicals department.)

Flea beetles are small insects common across Canada. Few vegetable gardens are not harmed by them. Radishes, turnips, cabbages and Brussels sprouts are especially subject to their attacks. Beans, beets, tomatoes and other vegetables are injured to a lesser degree.

The insects may appear suddenly in large numbers to feed on the leaves, leaving numerous small round holes. The early leaves on young seedlings may be destroyed, which results in the plant's death. Leaves of transplants may suffer so severely plants are set back or die. A serious outbreak of a second brood of flea bettles in August may destroy leaves of mature plants.

The hind legs of flea bettles are so enlarged, they are able to jump like fleas. Although there are several common species, most are shiny black in color between one-sixteenth to one-eight of an inch long. Winter is passed in the adult stage under leaves and other debris around the garden.

With the arrival of warm weather, adults feed on weeds and early-planted vegetables. Eggs are laid in the soil. White larvae hatch out and remain in the soil feeding on fine rotolets but doing little damage. After three to four weeks, larvae change into the pupal stage from which the new generation of beetles emerges in August to cause much damage before retiring to winter quarters.

Flea bettles are easily controlled by spraying with a solution containing 50 per cent wettable DDT or dusting with three per cent DDT dust. Prepared garden dusts like "Atox" which contains rotenone should be used on edible vegetables near harvest time when second generation adults are present. It is important to watch for flea beetle injury on seedlings and transplants as these can be killed in a few days if not protected. Insecticide should be applied at weekly intervals as long as the insects are present or injury by them evident.

Farm Ponds

On May 1 Prof. A. Banting, chairman of the Macdonald College Agricultural Engineering Department, spoke to the Farm Forum Rally for Brome County at Knowlton on farm ponds. He emphasized their value as a water supply for stock, irrigation, and fire protection; as sports centres for swimming, fishing and skating; as a source of food fish; as beauty spots; and as wild life sanctuaries. He stated too that whether your land is flat, rolling or in gully or swamp areas, you can make a pond fitted to the nature of your land and your needs.

Navy Learns How Army Operates In Korea

—Central Press Canadian

After an eight-day tour of Canadian army positions in Korea, three sailors from HMCS Crescent have decided that sleeping in a hammock in a destroyer at sea is more comfortable than a cot in an army tent. The first Canadian sailors to take the tour, the purpose of which is to familiarize the navy with how the army operates, the trio, after leaving their ship in Kure, Japan, were flown to Seoul, Korea, jeeped to the Princess Patricias' camp, where they spent four days learning about army life, then whisked to the artillery positions of the RCHA, where they spent another two days. A trip to a Canadian observation post at the front and a final two days back with the "Pats" in camp completed the trip. Above, A.B. Keith Bennett of Winnipeg is given lowdown on army by Don Mason of Victoria, B.C.

Gatineau Manager Gives Sidelights . . .

In looking over the records it may be noted with interest that at the time of purchase by the Ottawa-Montreal Power Company, the Town of Lachute boasted of two electric ranges; one was owned by the late Notary Gaetan Valois and the second Clément Tremblay; and in the records are listed nine customers with washing machines. Another thing that might sound strange today, the service was only "from dusk to dawn".

Today, to serve the same area supplied by the Ayers Electric Company, Gatineau Power has an installed capacity of some 5,000 horsepower for domestic and commercial customers only, excluding all large power customers. To back up this service, this Division has a step-down bank of transformers of over 20,000 horsepower on the Ile aux Chats road; and the Bell Falls power plant with a capacity of 8,000 horsepower. There is also a transmission line at 26,400 volts from St. Jerome and, in case of emergency, there is provision for a tie-in with the Ontario Hydro.

Gatineau Power, in addition to having the sources of supply, constantly aims to maintain good service. Its line crews are made up of men who are members of this community; they may be witnessed in action at the scene of any accident where power equipment is involved. However, less generally in the public view, these same men are the people who are out in the winter's worst blizzards or sleet storms; they travel by trucks, snowmobiles, horses or snowshoes, if need be, to reach the break-down, and stay with it until service is restored and again becomes the "public servant at the flip of a wall switch."

It is not always possible to maintain continuous service in situations such as those described — and the speaker here took the opportunity to thank all customers for their patience and understanding when these accidents, blizzards or wind storms do cause service interruptions.

Of passing interest is a small plant that was operated north of St. Canut. In 1897 J. A. Faucher began operation of a 100 horsepower plant on a tributary of the North River and supplied electric lights to the village of St. Canut and Ste. Scholastique. In the springtime, or after a heavy rainfall, all was well and good, but in the dry season that was another story! At dusk the operator would start up the generator and stay on the line as long as the water lasted; when the pond started to run low, he would blink the lights three times — which was the signal for consumers either to go to bed or light their oil lamps, as the power would be turned off in a few minutes. "I shudder to think what would happen if this was tried today", remarked Manager Carreau.

Gatineau customers have increased in number, but in addition there has also been a large increase in manufacturing loads supplied by this company. Individual customers' demands have also grown. Where a customer had lights, washing machine and electric iron and toaster in 1927, he now has a radio, range, refrigerator, water heater and many other appliances. All this calls for more and more power. Gatineau cannot wait until the power is actually needed by its customers, and therefore the Company has to estimate, as best it can, how much power and where this power will be required, by as much as five years in advance, and plan accordingly. This planning is going on constantly, and the latest addition to the electric system is the transmission line from Lachute to Cedars on the St. Lawrence, which will be able to deliver over 50,000 horsepower to the system whenever it is needed. Gatineau engineers have taken care of requirements in the past, and it may be assured that as long as it is their privilege to serve you, they will endeavor to do so in the future.

Miss Rodrigue adds that only through a plan such as provided by Community Concerts could such an array of outstanding talent be presented here, since the Community Concert operates on a pay-as-you-go plan of presenting concerts without sponsors or guarantors, and on a non-profit, no-loss basis.

Cattle that are allowed to become thoroughly infested with lice will develop a dry starchy coat, loss of hair resulting in exposed patches of skin and a general unthrifty appearance. Such a condition brings lowered milk production, retarded growth and costly maintenance. Early detection of lice and prompt treatment with sprays, dips or powders will prevent any ill effects to infested animals.

Keep History Alive

HISTORY and tradition with all their significance and pageantry are taking the spotlight this year of Coronation. The service in Westminster Abbey June 2 consecrates a European institution second in age only to the papacy.

The very age of the monarchy of Great Britain is now a matter for wonder when it is remembered how many European thrones have toppled in the last 35 years. Even more remarkable is the way in which the sovereign and royal family have integrated themselves with the nation. It is a popular monarchy in its widest sense.

The identification of past with present, of tradition with modernity, is at once the charm and power of Britain's reigning house. But such identification is not limited to royalty. It is one of the chief attractions of Old World countries for tourists and sightseers.

Many of the recent immigrants to Canada's smaller places must have looked in vain for the same evidence of Canada's past. True, old cities like Halifax and Quebec, the St. Lawrence, Fort Garry, Craigellachie where the last spike of the first transcontinental railway was driven, Mackenzie's discovery stone on the Pacific coast, have their past always with them. Many historic monuments and plaques marking important sites of significance to local regions have been allowed to disappear.

The first schoolhouse, Indian graves, York boats used by fur trading companies in the west, routes of early roads, and many another item must be either collected in local museums or adequately marked and described.

Diligence by local committees in rescuing from decay and oblivion the material of Canada's tradition is often a difficult and thankless job. But by their work is woven the very warp and woof of social and historic tradition. It is part of a nation's maturity, part of her dignity which she shares with her citizens and gives to her immigrants.

In a year when the significance of history is so much a part of our interest in and devotion to our young Queen Elizabeth II, let us give it tangible expression by preserving aspects and items of our own country's history.

Factors in Competition

SEEMS that Competition brings us right down to earth. . . Some of those who complain the loudest about the decline in exports to the U.K. are chiefly to blame for it, thinks The Financial Post. They have continually pressed for measures that have increased costs and sent up prices. Already in some lines like lumber, fish and meats, these increasing costs have completely offset our natural advantages to the point where we cannot compete with producers who are not nearly as rich as we are in resources.

During the war and the shortage years that followed we didn't have to pay much attention to costs and prices, but we are going to have to watch those things now, if we hope to keep our export trade growing.

Let's Be Ourselves

AMERICAN tourists do not like to see the Stars and Stripes flying in Canada and they wish Canadians would "stop acting like Americans and be Canadians," Quebec Municipal Tourist Bureau director Louis Pare says these are among the most common complaints by visiting Americans.

He says tourists complain that when they come here from the United States they like to feel they are in a foreign country, but Canadians are "so much like us that we might just as well stay home."

The Good Earth Again

THE ADVENT of springtime warmth sends the backyard gardener out to tackle his season's tasks. Likely as not, the gardening man approaches his long session of toil and joys with mingled feelings.

First off, he can make up his mind to endure aching muscles and stiffened joints for a week or more after his initial bout with the soil. Warm sunshine, the perfume of bursting buds and the general sense of well-being at the arrival of spring combine to lull him into a false feeling of unlimited capacity for hard work. The satisfaction of turning over the rich black earth makes him stay with the task far longer than he should.

The next day he pays the price in aches and pains and blisters. But by that time he's out buying plants and seeds, his enthusiasm for gardening still on the rise.

Sunburn is his next hazard. It's hard to realize the sun's rays can sear as painfully in early spring as in late July, but the throb of lobster-red skin around the neck and forehead after a long afternoon's planting will attest to it.

Once the planting is completed, the gardener says he's going to sit back and watch the garden grow and perhaps take a Saturday off for fishing. Trouble is, when the seedlings shoot up, so do the weeds. That means the gardening man must do plenty of hoeing and weeding, with a fresh batch of physical discomfort.

Then comes mid-summer, glorious season of growth and fulfilment. It's also the time when the gardener has to spray and dust to fight insect pests attacking his growing crops.

Finally, in the long slow cycle of the seasons, harvest time comes. It brings the work of gathering in the fruits of the months of toil. It also has its accompanying satisfactions.

That is when the gardener tenderly picks up the potatoes and carrots from his own vegetable plot and handles them admiringly. Try to tell him he might just as well buy them at the store and save himself a lot of trouble, and his reaction will be one of mingled pity and scorn.

Probably he couldn't put it into words, this feeling about his garden. But he counts as one of his yearly satisfactions the sowing, the cultivation and the reaping, the partnership with the good earth, in spite of its physical hardships.

Beware Sunburn

BY LEARNING and heeding the facts about the sun's rays you can avoid painful — and sometimes harmful — sunburn in the outdoor season now beginning. Common-sense hints on treating the sun with respect are offered in the June Reader's Digest.

The ultraviolet rays of the sun are what burn you, and as their intensity may be doubled by reflection from water or white sand you may be exposed on a cloudy day or even under a beach umbrella. Most suntan oils are based on the fact that it is possible to screen out the ultraviolet rays. Vegetable (but not mineral) oils have this screening ability, and certain ray-filtering chemicals are added to commercial oils for extra protection.

You should guard against over-exposure even when using these preparations, however, as they wash off easily. The best rule is to limit your exposure to ten minutes at the start, gradually increasing it. You're safer before 10 a.m. and after 3 p.m.

Reliable sunglasses are recommended; so are cotton pads to cover the eyes when you are lying in the sun.

Mild sunburn should be treated with soothing calamine lotion, olive oil or cocoa butter. Bad burns require a doctor's treatment.

While well-tanned skin seems less likely to burn and blister than untanned skin, scientists discount the pigment as a natural sunburn preventive. According to the Digest article, the therapeutic value of sunbathing is no longer highly rated. Doctors take a dim view of fanatical sun-worshippers who strive for the deep-mahogany coloring. Frequent over-exposure to the ultraviolet radiation causes much skin and lip cancer.

BARBAROUS METHOD

There is a certain amount of barbarity in the practice of hanging criminals. If the Commons does not see fit to abolish the death penalty, it should consider the advisability of carrying out the sentence in a more humane manner.

— Claresholm (Alta.) Local Press

PRAIRIE SKIES

The sky above the broad prairie is, according to Bryant's beautiful poem, "a nearer vault and of a tenderer blue than that which bends above the eastern hills." But more beautiful still, to our mind, is the depth of color in the western twilight.

— Brooks (Alta.) Bulletin

FRIENDLY GREETING

In small communities where the tempo of life is a bit more leisurely than in the cities, we can afford to take time to get to know our neighbors, to talk with them about their activities and ours, to watch for a chance to lend a hand. That's why we say "good morning" to strangers as a matter of course.

— Humboldt (Sask.) Journal

Strange Case Of Mr. Kelly

By Lewis Milligan

"Has anybody here seen Kelly?" We have heard that question put before, but the Kelly referred to in the song was an unidentified person, except that he was "from the Emerald Isle", and, as far as we know, he was never located and is still at large. The question is again posed in the title of an article in The Sunday Times (London) by George Schwartz, and it has reference to a real Kelly. He is described as, "A most immoral man. A knave, a rascally knave. For the past seven years, he has, without qualification, permit, license or imprescriptible union card, been washing down paintwork at Westminster Hospital." Mr. Kelly is said to be the father of seven children, and he will not wash paintwork much longer, in spite of his boast that he has learned all there is to know about paint washing and has earned only praise from the foreman painter.

The National Society of Painters has intervened and Mr. Kelly is on his way out of a job. The case against him has been presented by an official of the Society of Painters as follows:

"We must put our members first. Washing paintwork is in many ways a more skilled job than painting. Unskilled washing can lead to paint cracking, tidemarks and the removal of surface gloss. It is morally wrong for casual laborers to do this work while skilled men are out of work."

This leaves Mr. William Kelly no recourse but to retire gracefully and to fall back upon the Public Assistance. "Morally wrong!" exclaims Mr. Schwartz. "It does occur to me that the unnamed official of the National Society of Painters is himself doing a bit of blacklegging. What are his qualifications for entering the field of morals? Has he a degree in moral philosophy or only a surface gloss? Is he in succession to Plato, Aristotle, Hobbs, Locke, Kant, Rousseau, Hegel, Sidwick and T. H. Green?"

Mr. Schwartz is perhaps too hard on the union official, and he may be pushing him too far out of his depth in asking him if he has "explored the idea of unconscious rationality in a spontaneously self-ordering society." But Mr. George Schwartz is thinking about himself. He notes that the spring-cleaning season is at hand, and on this issue of paint washing he wants to know: "Do I or I not at my age have to fetch step-ladders for irascible womenfolk?"

Unfortunately for Geo. Schwartz, husbands are not unionized and are not protected by fixed rules as to what they should do or refuse to do in assisting wives in spring-cleaning or anything else. The rule is, "Let George do it", and he must not only fetch the step-ladder but wash the paint as well when he is told to — or else!

Mr. Schwartz is on safer ground when he gets away from domestic politics. "There is a popular belief", he says, "that it is the solitary man who goes off his head. On the contrary, it is the gregarious man who goes crazy. Any joint action by more than a dozen persons, except for purposes of conviviality, tends to become an insensate conspiracy against the rest of humanity. . . No single individual wants to inflict hardship or injustice on Mr. Kelly, but 70,000 individuals in association would put him on the street." Mr. Schwartz cites the case of Robinson Crusoe who in isolation behaved as a rational being. "He didn't go about erecting obstacles so that he could trip himself up. But I wonder how long he would have got on amicably with Man Friday. The time would have come when he started bawling him out: 'Put that spanner down, you blackleg —in more senses in one. If I see you touching that tool box again I'll throw you off the island'."

That may be good humor, but I'm afraid it will not be appreciated in union quarters where the individual, within or out of bounds, has no separate identity or free will apart from the mass. We are coming to a time when society as a whole will be organized into a system of closed shops, and the only hope for Mr. Kelly is to organize a Paintwashers Union.

Krakatoa and the Atom Bomb

There are very few people alive today who remember the world's biggest explosion of all time — the Krakatoa Eruption in 1883, when the island of that name situated between Sunda and Sumatra blew up during a volcanic eruption when the sea finally penetrated a thin wall of basalt rock and poured suddenly into the white-hot interior of the volcano. Two-thirds of the island fell into the creater and 14 cubic miles of materials were blown high into the air. Then came huge tidal waves that destroyed 300 villages and took 36,500 lives. These waves, in varying degrees of intensity, reached all over the world, including England.

The sun was unable to penetrate the huge quantity of volcanic dust for two years after the explosion. This, of course, caused nearly famine conditions as crops were unable to ripen in many parts of the world.

Scientists try to tell us that the experiments with atomic bombs recently conducted in Nevada and other places can in no way affect the weather. Personally, I cannot agree with them. I have no doubt that one such man-made explosion might have no effect, but how about the cumulative effect of many such explosions? Collectively, they may well have reached the point where the intensity equals or surpasses the Krakatoa disaster. What have the scientists to say about our present freak weather, with May weather in March and January weather in April? Excessive rains and only occasional sunshine anywhere in North America?

My bet is that man will eventually destroy himself with his own cleverness. Just as disastrous floods and soil erosion were and are caused by man's lack of foresight in deforesting lands, so there will always be calamities and misfortune caused by man's upsetting of the balance of nature.

I am not a scientist, but I'm either right or wrong — and you can depend on that!

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt.

Essential Service Crippled by Taxes

The plight of London cabbies shows how taxes can destroy an essential industry. For every five cabs on London's streets at the end of 1950, there were only four at the end of 1952. A special parliamentary committee warns that if the trend continues, London will end up without an effective taxi-cab service.

The committee admits that taxes are the principal reason. Before the war, a cab cost $980. Now, it costs $3,700, of which $1,320 is purchase tax. Gasoline too, is heavily taxed, costs drivers 70 cents a gallon. At this price, it takes nearly half their revenue.

Fare increase is no answer. London taxi rates were boosted in 1950 and 1952, but the corresponding decrease in patronage kept receipts unchanged.

Replaces "Empress of Canada"

The Chateau Frontenac made an imposing background as the Empress of Australia, making her first westbound voyage under Canadian Pacific colors, passed Quebec City on her way up the St. Lawrence River to Montreal. The 19,600-ton vessel was purchased by Canadian Pacific Steamships to replace the Empress of Canada, destroyed by fire at her Liverpool dock last January. She was formerly the "De Grasse" of the French Line. This is the first of 10 round-trip voyages between Liverpool and Montreal which this vessel will make during the present season of St. Lawrence navigation.

Many Stores to Close 6 p.m. Saturdays Effective June 6, for Summer Months

"Industry and Commerce in Lachute"
Contributed by Lachute Chamber of Commerce

For Saturday Evening Store-Closing

For some time past a considerable number of storekeepers, members of the Chamber of Commerce, have been agitating for early closing of business establishments on Saturday evenings during the summer season. The Chamber has recognized this move as a step in keeping with the times, and has endorsed the measure in the interests of town merchants.

At this stage approximately 50 of our more prominent business proprietors have agreed to close at 6 p.m. on Saturdays, effective the first week of June. Accordingly, on June 6, practically all our business establishments will close early, and will continue this practice for the summer.

We commend the promoters of this move, and trust all retailers in Lachute and Ayersville and St. Jerusalem will follow suit. Early closing will afford well-deserved relaxation to store personnel; the shorter hours should in no way detract from business volume, but should foster their more cheerful service to the public.

Industry in general has enjoyed the advantage of increasingly shorter hours, but the retail business has improved least of all in the matter of leisure time. We believe our merchants are justly entitled to this benefit.

Important Meeting

On Tuesday, May 26, the Lachute Chamber of Commerce will hold a general meeting at the Legion Hall, at 8 o'clock p.m., for discussion of several matters of prime importance. There will be no supper served at this gathering, which will concern itself with the business in hand. Various committeemen will present these matters before the membership; there will be no formal speaker, and all will have the opportunity of voicing their opinions.

New Heating Method Wins Growing Favor

A new method of warm air heating for homes has won the favor of homeowners, architects and builders across the nation. The new method is said to save on installation time and material, and yet do a much better heating job than older, more conventional types of heating installations.

The new method is called warm air perimeter heating. Its great growth in popularity is shown in a statement released by the Lennox Furnace Company, world's largest manufacturers of warm air heating systems. The company has disclosed that the vast majority of its 5,000 retail dealers now use this new heating method in residential heating applications, whereas two years ago, warm air perimeter heating was still in the experimental stage. Hydr-Oil-Ectric (Stan Harris), Lennox dealer in Brownsburg, says that warm air perimeter heating can be installed faster and at less cost than any other type of central heating with which he is familiar.

Briefly, these are the basic principles of warm air perimeter heating:

A spray of warm, clean air "blankets" windows and walls where drafts usually start. Thus, drafts are stopped before they enter the home. The warm air is supplied by small slot-shaped warm air diffusers located in the floor around the perimeter of the house.

The ducts are simple and may be of several different styles. Most popular is four-inch pipe which leads directly from the warm air furnace to each warm air diffuser. Sometimes, in a home with a concrete slab floor, ordinary clay tile is used for air duct, and the heat is generated by a reverse-flow furnace which discharges warm air from the bottom. In basementless homes with a "crawl space" beneath, the reverse-flow furnace can be used or a "stowaway" furnace can be installed right in the crawl space. Basement homes usually employ a conventional warm air furnace with the small ducts taking a minimum of head room; they are easily run between joists, around pipes, and in tight places.

The simplicity of the return air system is another feature of warm air perimeter heating. Usually one central return air grille is all that is needed. It can be taken either in the ceiling, baseboard or floor. Cutting into the wall is unnecessary.

Because it is adaptable to any type of building, old or new, and because warm air furnaces for perimeter heating are available in gas, oil and coal models, heating engineers are predicting even greater things for this new type of heating in the years ahead.

Sincere Expressions at Farewell Gathering for Rev. and Mrs. H. Britton

The congregation of the Lachute Baptist Church met last Friday evening in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian hall, for a farewell supper in honor of their pastor, the Rev. Hartley Britton, who is leaving shortly to fill the pastorate of the United Valley Baptist Churches near Moncton, N.B.

When all had assemgled, the Rev. John Armstrong, of Snowdon Baptist Church, Montreal, who was chairman for the evening, called on the Rev. George Hicks, of the Brownsburg Regular Baptist Church, to ask a blessing. At the close of the supper, Mrs. Jas. Murdoch presented Mr. Britton with a wallet and sum of money, expressing appreciation for the faithful service he had given during the seven years he had been pastor of the church, and of the many kindnesses he had shown to all in times of trouble or sorrow. Mrs. A. Titley then presented a handbag to Mrs. Britton, thanking her for the assistance she had given in the work of the church, the Young People's Society, Sunday School and the Women's Missionary Society.

The Rev. Mr. Britton, in a few brief words, expressed his thanks for the kind thoughts spoken and for the gifts to himself and Mrs. Britton.

Some of the friends from the Dalesville Church provided musical entertainment for the evening, which was greatly enjoyed. The Rev. Donald. Merrett, Mr. Reg Morrow and Mr. Kenneth Tomalty sang the beautiful hymn, "Lead Me to Calvary", accompanied at the piano by Miss Ada Morrow, and Mrs. Keith Morrison and Miss Morrow gave a message in song, entitled "His Plan"; they were accompanied by Mrs. Merrett.

In a short address by the chairman, Mr. Armstrong spoke of having first met Mr. Britton when the latter was 17 years of age, and that all who knew him then were amazed at the enthusiasm and energy he showed for the cause of Christ. Mr. Armstrong believed that this devotion and zeal had continued and grown with the years, and that the prayers and good wishes of all would accompany him in his new field of service

During the evening the congregation joined wholeheartedly in singing some of the old-fashioned hymns.

The Rev. Merrett brought the evening to a close with the benediction.

Ottawa Valley Baptist Conference Held at Dalesville

A happy time of fellowship was enjoyed in the historic Dalesville Baptist Church on Monday, when the Ottawa Valley Association of the Union of Regular Baptist Churches met for its Spring Rally.

The church was filled with people from Baptist churches of Snowdon, Ville St. Laurent, Ville Emard, Emmanuel (Montreal), Drummondville, Sawyerville, Westboro (Ottawa), Hull, Lachute, Brownsburg and Dalesville.

The Rev. E. C. Corbett, of Whitby, Ont., was the special speaker. In the afternoon he spoke on "Who Is My Neighbor?" And in the evening he took as his subject, "The Great Commission". The music was provided by the Dalesville Chorus and Maurice Boillat with his violin.

The ladies of Dalesville Baptist Church served dinner to more than 100 who attended. The people had gathered for a time of testimony, song, prayer and ministry. It was a joyous occasion, and many felt it was one of the finest of such meetings ever held here.

Missionary Tells Of Rhodesian Life

Baptist Minister Translating Old Testament Into Native Dialect

Guelph, Ont. (CP) — The Rev. E. S. Frost, a Baptist minister on leave from the Kasempa mission in Northern Rhodesia, has set himself a big task.

He's translating the Old Testament into the dialect of the Rhodesian natives who are mostly of Bantu origin. Mr. Frost hopes to have it completed within the next five years.

There are obvious difficulties in translating, he said. For example, "And Abraham sat under an Oak." No such tree exists in the country so another tree has to be substituted.

"It is only after extensive discussion and a great deal of work that a passage may be translated," said Mr. Frost.

His wife, the former May Russell of Toronto, went to Africa some 12 years ago, although Mr. Frost, an Englishman, has spent 21 years there. At present they are visiting friends here and later will hold a series of meetings in various parts of Ontario.

The couple work for the South Africa General Mission, an interdenominational group. The natives are described as "animists" — that is, they worship their ancestors.

Fear of Death

"There is a great deal of fear associated with death amongst the natives", said Mr. Frost.

"When a member of the family dies everyone gathers about the casket and pleads with the dead person to leave them forever and to insure this they place money and riches with the body."

If a mother dies while giving birth to a child the infant too is buried with its mother.

Mr. Frost once saved a baby after the mother died and took it into the mission. However, at the end of two years he went on furlough and gave the child to its Christian aunt. Within a few hours after the child left the mission it was poisoned by the natives.

"A Rhodesian native need never be bored with the same wife. All he has to do is send her back to her mother and marry another", said Mr. Frost.

Life in A New World

Do you repeat the "Lord's Prayer" with its clause, "Let your will come to pass, as in heaven, also upon earth?". Then you should be vitally interested in Jehovah God's long-promised new world. The apostle Peter, when nineteen hundred years farther away from that new world's complete realization that we are today, showed his unswerving faith in its coming, saying: "But there are new heavens and a new earth that we are awaiting according to his promise, and in these righteousness is to dwell." — 2 Peter 3: 13.

"Behold, a king shall reign in righteousness" (Isaiah 32: 1). A complete end to all political corruption guaranteed. What a relief! This is but the beginning of earthly blessings under the rule of God's heavenly Son, Christ Jesus. This mild-tempered Ruler and his associate rulers promise to end all oppression, so that their inheriting the earth to rule over it will pave the way for meek ones of humankind to occupy it in tranquility: "But the meek shall inherit the land, and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace. The righteous shall inherit the land, and dwell therein forever" (Psalm 37: 11, 29). Furthermore, with such glowing examples of right-doing in the new government, it will surprise none to find a total absence of crime and delinquency.

The new world will be a free world. No want or fear will lurk there. Clean speech and true worship will be established as the worthwhile freedoms that will be completely realized for the first time.

Such unbroken peace can be a wonderful contributor to profitable works. At any rate we are promised that in the new world no building, planting or any labor will be in vain: "And they shall build houses, and inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them. They shall not build, and another inhabit; they shall not plant, and another eat: for as the days of a tree shall be the days of my people, and my chosen shall long enjoy the work of their hands. They shall not labor in vain, nor bring forth for calamity; for they are the seed of the blessed of Jehovah, and their offspring with them" (Isaiah 65: 21-23).

Total peace on earth will mean peace among all living things. Peace among men: The righteous King "will judge the poor of the people, he will save the children of the needy, and will break in pieces the oppressor" (Psalm 72: 4, 7, 8).

Truth for Careless Christians

Our vanishing Sunday: "I (St. John) was in the Spirit on the Lord's Day." "If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on my holy day; and call the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord, honorable; and shalt honor Him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words; then shalt thou delight thyself in the Lord; and I will cause thee to ride upon the high places of the earth, and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob."

"And she (Jezebel) painted her face . . and looked out of the window . . so they (the eunchs) threw her down" — a king's daughter; dogs ate the flesh of Jezebel. "We" (Christians) look for the Saviour, who shall change our bodies of humiliation, that they may be fashioned like unto His body of glory." — Cosmetics are not important to the spiritually minded.

As to manner of dress: "The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth to the man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment: for all that do so are abomination unto the Lord" (Deut. 22). — If as many men paraded in skirts as women are doing in pants, chaos would be complete!

"The truth of the Lord endureth forever." "I have chosen the way of truth: thy judgments have I laid before me." "Buy the truth and sell it not; also wisdom, instruction and understanding." "Judgment is turned away backward, truth is fallen in the street and equity cannot enter." "Oh that my head were waters, and my eyes a fountain of tears, that I might weep day and night for the slain of the daughter of my people." "Speak ye every man truth to his neighbor; execute the judgments of truth and peace in your gates." "The only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth."

Softball

The second softball league game of the season was played Wednesday evening, May 13, between Lachute and Hawkesbury, on the latter's diamond. Since Hawkesbury has only a young and inexperienced team, Lachute, by far the stronger, outclassed them by a score of 17-3.

Bill Cribb, pitcher for Lachute, threw at least 12 strike-outs. Stuart Thompson took over during the last inning. Bill Cribb again took honors in the game, by scoring a home run. Bob Warwick, hitting the ball out of reach of the fielders, also made a home run. In the last inning an excellent catch by Jack McMartin made the third out.

A return engagement was to have been played the next evening, but Hawkesbury cancelled this event. However, the local boys played against a pick-up team consisting of graduates and teachers. They were defeated by a score of 9-3. In the bottom half of the seventh inning, pitcher Bill Cribb, struck out three players on the opposing team.

When you come to the games, buy a program, which gives you the chance of winning one of the two attendance prizes. And on page 13, you have the balloting slip for players of distinction in the Lachute Tigers. So — buy a program and VOTE!

Travel

Do you know that Claude Groulx and André Petit always travel together in André's car; this is nice co-operation. . . Claude, how d'you like thumbing a ride from St. Jerome to Lachute?

Little Major League

Saturday, May 23, is the opening of the Little Major League. They will play again this year every Saturday afternoon, under the management of Pierson, Hardy, Bosser, Cotnoir, etc., all members of the Tigers team. Come and cheer the youngsters!

Calvert Trophy

Here is the standing as at Sunday, May 24, for the "Player of Distinction":

| | Votes |
|---|---|
| 1—Fred "Shafty" Bourbeau | 137 |
| 2—Jerry Cotnoir | 134 |
| 3—Pete Taillefer | 130 |
| 4—Walter Hardy | 100 |
| 5—Claude Groulx | 92 |
| 5—Paul Goulet | 92 |
| 7—Eddie Yeager | 91 |
| 8—B. Bouchard | 70 |
| 9—Len Pearson | 67 |
| 10—Bud Kimball | 66 |
| 11—Guy Potvin | 26 |

It is a close race — 7 votes between the first three players.

Vote for your favorite player at every game!

New Player

Ted Vachon states that he is in contact with another outstanding player, and it is a matter of days until we will know the identity of this prospect.

Scattelbury, last year's pitcher for Lachute, should be in town any day now.

Sportsmanship

Vincent Caron, who played a few games with the Tigers, has asked Coach Pearson to replace him in right field and has requested to be released from the Tigers. Sorry to see you go, Professor, but we hope to meet you in the stands at some future games.

Weak Spot

After seeing a couple of baseball games I think that the Tigers will be the club to beat in the league. Adding Kimball at 3rd seems to make our infield nearly perfect. The pitching staff with Fred Bourbeau, Marcel Bouchard, Bosser and Scatelbury, are up-to-the-minute. In the outfield at left Claude Groulx will be hard to replace. At centrefield you can't find any better than Eddie Yeager. At right field there's a weakness that I think will be remedied at a later date, or maybe Potvin can improve with better weather. At any rate the Tigers will be hard to beat.

At bat it seems that we have a couple of new hitters that can send the ball over the fence. Goulet, the new catcher has 3, 4 bases already, and should improve. Cotnoir can also hit a good one all around the place — and with good weather, Len "Home-Run" Pearson should find last year's form and show his team-mates that over the fence is an easy job. So Len, good luck!

Attendance

L'Association de la Jeunesse Sportive de Lachute is doing its best to promote the best possible baseball for Lachute, Ayersville and district. So fans, it is up to you to show appreciation of their efforts by coming to the games and cheering for the Tigers — either at Lachute Stadium or by boarding the bus at Chez Armand for out-of-town games. — And bring your friends, too.

Star in Lachute 'Open' Leaves for British Amateur Golf Contest

Marlene Stewart, who starred here with her sister in the 1950 Lachute Open Golf Tournament, will fly from Canada to Great Britain May 28, with six other Canadian women, to compete in the British Amateur Open Golf Championship and Commonwealth matches. The Canadian competitors were chosen from across Canada in open competition and they will arrive in Great Britain in time for a few practice matches against each other and see the Coronation procession as guests of Garfield Weston.

Miss Ada Mackenzie, captain of the Canadian team, said she thought that Marlene Stewart, Fonthill, will be the youngest among the competing golfers from all over the Commonwealth.

The Canadian team has been given golfing privileges on three courses near London to get used to the English courses and conditions.

While playing in the competitions, the Canadian team will wear similar gray skirts, green sweaters (the color of a maple leaf), and green blazers with a special crest, showing crossed golf clubs, a beaver ringed with maple leaves and Canada written under the crest.

Marlene will have her Royal Stewart tartan hat which she never plays in competitions without, and it is expected to go over well in Scotland, where the Canadian team will be guests as well as Ireland, Wales, and England. As guests, the Canadian team will be billeted or stay at the various hotels connected with the clubs they are playing against.

Quebec Vacation Spots On Television Show

A salute to Quebec as one of North America's outstanding vacation areas will be seen by millions of television viewers over a coast-to-coast NBC-TV network during the week of May 24-30.

Eastern Canada will be featured when John Cameron Swayze and his family tour these areas in the new television series, "Vacationland America."

A total of 49 TV stations across the United States and Canada will televise the vacation tour of the Swayzes, actually filmed in parts of Quebec several months ago, promoting vacation travel to this province.

An additional lift for Quebec's tourist business will be given by the Fram Corporation, sposors of "Vacationland America" who have prepared a travel book outlining a complete day-to-day tour through this area.

More than 1,000,000 of these free travel books will be distributed by 120,000 Fram dealers in the U.S. and Canada, giving further impetus to Quebec's tourist and vacation business which brings millions of dollars into the province each year.

The choice of John Cameron Swayze to star in the nationwide travel program about Quebec adds to the entertainment value of the program. As NBC's top TV newscaster, Mr. Swayze is seen on television each week by more people than any other person in the world.

"Vacationland America" also marks the TV debut of the Swayze family — Tuffie, his wife; John Jr., 19 and Suzanne, 16. Television spokesmen note that the show is unique in one respect — it's the first family TV show devoted entirely to travel.

Helping co-sponsor the travel show are hundreds of service stations, garages and automobile dealers in this area. Designated as official "Vacationland America" Headquarters, the co-sponsors are supplied with the travel booklets which will be given away free to motorists.

The books contain photos and descriptions of historical, scenic and well-known places of interest and Eastern Canada; tips on travel; and maps outlining the tour and indicating some of Quebec's attractions that have become vacation favorites.

The Fram Corporation has designed the show to promote travel throughout America in the family automobile.

50 Teen-Age Girls On Coronation Tour

Toronto — Fifty Canadian teen-age girls sail this week for the Coronation and a month-long tour of England, Wales, Northern Ireland and France. The girls, going as guests of Canadian-born international industrialist W. Garfield Weston, will leave Montreal May 22 on the Empress of France.

All outstanding students chosen in co-operation with provincial education departments for their leadership qualities and ability to absorb the experiences of the tour, the girls will arrive at Liverpool May 29, three days before the Coronation. They have special seats for the Coronation.

While in London, the Canadian party will spend several days with a similar group of British girls who will be coming to Canada in June, also as Mr. Weston's guests.

In England, the group will see the Derby at Epsom Downs, visit the Tower of London, attend a performance of the Royal Military Tournament which will be opened by the Queen, visit the House of Commons and House of Lords and see the Coronation River Pageant on the Thames, near Windsor. Among many public figures they will meet in England will be the Dean of St. Paul's, Lord Waverly and Canada's High Commissioner, Norman A. Robertson.

Mid-way in their tour, the girls will visit France. They will see Paris and historic points including the Arch of Triumph, Eiffel Tower, Invalides, the Louvre, Notre Dame Cathedral and Versailles. At Dieppe, the group will lay a wreath on the Canadian War Memorial.

After returning to Britain, the girls will tour various cities, industries and historical points. They will visit General Wolfe's birthplace at Westerham, Shakespeare's home at Stratford-on-Avon and the Princess Royal's residence, Harewood House.

In Scotland, they will be received by the Lord Provost of Edinburgh and attend the presentation of the colors by the Queen to the Argyl and Sutherland Highlanders at Holyroodhouse Palace.

Final feature of the girls' tour will be a three-day excursion to Northern Ireland where, among other things, they will be received by the Prime Minister and Governor. The group returns to Canada June 30 on the Empress of Australia.

WRITING COURSE

Vancouver (CP) — The annual summer school of fine arts operated by the University of British Columbia this year for the first time will offer a five-week course in radio and television writing, conducted by prominent radio and television personalities.

Maestro and Moppet

This obviously impressed little girl has just attended her first concert of symphonic music, and seems to be taking interest in what conductor Alfred Strombergs has to say about the workings of a clarinet. The picture was taken in Nova Scotia where Strombergs has conducted the Halifax Symphonette in twenty concerts this season in schools throughout the province — a series jointly sponsored by the schools and the Nova Scotia Department of Education. The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is currently giving national recognition to the praiseworthy efforts of music groups such as the Halifax Symphonette, through a series of broadcast concerts on the CBC's Trans-Canada network, in the "Canadian Symphonies" series.

Coronation Medallions Ready for School Pupils

Ottawa (CP) — About 3,000,000 Coronation medallions to be issued to school children now are ready for distribution through the provinces. They are of bronze — the same metal as the one-cent pieces — and slightly smaller than Canada's dollar coins.

The front of the medallions bears a shoulder-length portrait of Queen Elizabeth, crowned and robed. She is wearing the Tudor Crown, first authorized by King Edward VII in 1901 for use on medals and medallions.

The other side shows the St. Edward's Crown with the word Canada below. Surrounding this is the Latin inscription "Elizabeth II Regina Coronata MCMLIII (Elizabeth II crowned Queen 1953).

The St. Edward's Crown is the Coronation Crown. It is to remain on her head for about five minutes and then is to be replaced by the Imperial State Crown.

The St. Edward's Crown is solid gold, weighing about five pounds, and is studded with pearls, rubies, sapphires and emeralds.

Radio Queen

Coronation Year has special significance for charming CBC actress Ruth Springford, who has played the role of queen so often during her radio career that she feels like just another member of the Royal Family. To date she has been cast as Mary Queen of Scots, Queen Wilhelmina, Carlotta of Mexico, Anne Boleyn, Lady Macbeth and Elizabeth I. Her latest queen-portrayal, one she has done before, is that of Quen Victoria in the Stage 53 productions of two of the Palace Plays of Laurence Housman. "Just call me Queenie", she says jokingly.

Television and Sport Attendance

SPORTS CAMERA

By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The man most concerned about the success of minor league baseball says it will take years to determine whether televising of games affects attendance drastically.

George Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues, thinks unlimited television of major league games is hurting some minor leagues now. However, he believes it will be several years before it can be determined whether TV harms or stimulates attendance generally.

There have been a number of cases the last few years in minor league towns where the fans preferred to stay home, and watch major games on TV rather than go to the ball park to watch the local team. That's poison to the local team and some have folded or moved to new territory.

Lessons from Boxing

Trautman thinks baseball can learn plenty from the boxing game about the television "menace".

"They (the boxing promoters) have allowed some television, with closed-TV to theatres and radio broadcasting", he said. "Now they want to see if it will build up a better game by not allowing any boxing fan to see or hear the fight without buying a ticket.

"That may prove something."

You can't deny that the producer of any sports event such as baseball has some rights. It's his show. It has to pay off at the gate.

Trautman mentioned he was on the West Coast when Hollywood and San Diego of the Pacific Coast League played a four-game series.

"There were 8,000 at both of the first two games", he recalled. "The third was televised. There were 3,500 fans for that one.

"The fourth game, which wasn't on video, again drew about 8,000."

The problem about some new medium hurting the box office isn't new. Just about 10 years ago some minor league baseball owners were worried about radio broadcasts of their games.

Trautman had an anecdote about those days.

"Mike Kelly, who then owned the Minneapolis Millers of the American Association, said he would never allow his games to be broadcast. But he soon found out that radio was an attribute, not a detriment. His games were broadcast later."

Home-made Bread

Isn't it funny how things change? In our grandmother's day, homemakers made their own bread. Then bakeries came into being and in almost every town, no matter how small, the local baker took the load off the homemaker. What aroma could be more tempting than the fragrance of homemade bread? Everyone loves homemade bread but many homemakers feel a little timid about making it — they think it is difficult. The home economists of the Consumer Section at Ottawa assure homemakers that it isn't. If they have never made bread or rolls and are somewhat skeptical about turning their hand to it, they should start with rolls first. It is fun to work with yeast dough and homemakers get more satisfaction out of baking bread and rolls than almost anything else in the baking line.

Flour, of course is the main ingredient used in both bread and rolls. There are two common types of Canadian wheat. One from spring wheat is a hard flour with considerable gluten in it which is needed for bread and rolls because it gives a tough, elastic dough. Soft wheat flour from winter wheat is sold as pastry flour and is used for making pastry. Cake flour, also made from winter wheat is used for making cakes. It is true that hard wheat flour is often called all-purpose because it can be used for all types of baking, but a soft wheat flour is not suitable for bread and rolls.

Without yeast, homemade bread is not possible. As a bread making ingredient, it is of prime importance. Yeast has been known since the most ancient times. Back again to our grandmother's time — the green blossoms of the hop vines that grew in the backyard were gathered and dried for making yeast. It was quite a job combining the hops with the right amount of flour, sugar, salt and potato to make perfect yeast which was needed for perfect bread. Today, the yeast is made for us and there are two kinds available. The compressed cake yeast and the dehydrated granular fast-rising yeast. The dry yeast seems to be largely replacing the compressed yeast, no doubt because it is not as perishable as the compressed type sold in small cakes wrapped in foil.

The ingredients for bread making are flour, liquid — which may be either water or milk, or potato water and some shortening, lard, butter or a vegetable shortening, is always added to bread dough. Last but not least, we must not forget sugar and salt. Bread and rolls would be very insipid without it.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, have some ideas for the homemaker who is a little frightened about tackling bread making. The first point they mention is that temperature is a thing which must be watched in bread making. Yeast, the leavening agent of bread works best at 75 to 80 degrees Farhenheit. Incidentally, when using the granular yeast rather than the compressed type, the amount of liquid used to dissolve the yeast must be water rather than milk. Getting back to temperature, this 75 to 80 degrees temperature should be maintained in every step of the way. If hot milk is being used in the recipe, it should be cooled to lukewarm before combining with the yeast. In the final step, the dough should be allowed to rise in this 75 to 80 degree temperature. To be sure that the water or milk used is cool, it can be tested with a standard thermometer, but the quickest and easiest test is the same test used in testing a baby's bottle—pour a little on your wrist. If the liquid feels neither hot nor cold, then it is just right. In hot weather when the air is warmer than 85° it is best to place the yeast to rise in a pan of cool water. This will keep the temperature of the dough around 80°F.

The reason for kneading bread is to thoroughly distribute the yeast and the air bubbles. When kneading the dough, turn it out on a greased board. The home economists say a greased board but a floured board may also be used just as long as you are careful not to work too much flour into the dough.

For Mothers With A Hungry Brood

"Desserts disappear like snow under a warm wind." So says one young mother of our acquaintance. Well, if that is a common occurrence in your household, the following recipe for a pudding mix which you can make in quantity and store in screw top jars ready to use, should be a welcome addition to the recipe file. It is inexpensive, easy to use and may be varied by the addition of chocolate, nuts, cocoanut, etc. It is a nourishing dessert with its extra milk solids and eggs and is a good finish for a lunch or supper otherwise low in protein.

Home-Made Pudding Mix

1½ Cups cornstarch, 1½ cups sugar, 7½ cups dried skim milk powder, 1 teaspoon salt.

Mix and sift together 3 times, the cornstarch, sugar, milk powder and salt. Store in tightly closed containers. Yields 10½ cups mix or 7 puddings of 6 servings.

To make pudding, use: 2½ cups water, 1½ cups home-made pudding mix, 2 eggs, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Gradually blend water into pudding mix in top of double boiler stirring until smooth and free of lumps. Bring slowly to boiling point stirring constantly and boil 1 minute. Place over hot water and cook until all taste of raw starch has disappeared. Beat eggs slightly and slowly add some of hot mixture. Blend and stir gradually into remaining hot mixture. Stir and cook one minute. Remove from heat, add vanilla. Pour into serving dish and chill. Serve with whipped cream, pouring cream, fresh, canned or frozen fruit or chocolate sauce. Note: If a stiffer pudding is desired reduce water slightly. If a sweeter pudding is desired add 2 to 4 tablespoons sugar when making pudding or an additional 7/8 to 1¼ cups sugar to original mix.

Variation

Chocolate Pudding: To basic recipe add 2 squares chocolate and ¼ cup sugar (unless additional sugar has already been added as suggested in "note" above). Chocolate will melt as pudding cooks.

You've Heard of Corned Beef on Rye?

Here's a new version. Use ready-cooked, easy-to-open, canned corned beef hash. Toast rounds of rye bread on one side only. Heap the corned beef hash on the untoasted side of each round, sprinkle lightly with grated cheese and pop into a moderate oven for heating. Served with tomato and Spanish onion slices. It's really taste with a "T".

CANADIAN FRUITS AND VEGETABLES GO SOUTH

Even though New Orleans is 1,500 miles south of Canada, certain Canadian fruits and vegetables still find their way into this market. In 1952, out of a total of 10,814 carloads of fruits and vegetables which entered the New Orleans market, 35 carloads came from Canada. Included in this figures were 11 carloads of apples and 22 carloads of rutabagas. Of the rutabagas 17 carloads were received by rail and five by truck.

Fashions

The silk suit, softly tailored for important townwear, long a favorite abroad, is winning laurels here, too. Black textured silk, imported from Italy, makes up into a very chic, very wearable suit, with interesting detail. The double-breasted closing of the jacket is relieved by the saw-tooth edge. It features a buttoned-on white pique collar and cuffs, with suit fabric underneath so that it can be worn with or without trim. Horizontal slit pockets at hips, and a pencil slim skirt are other details.

FOOD STORAGE

With the approach of warm weather, proper food storage takes on added importance. Poultry Products Institute of Canada points out that eggs and poultry being perishable products should be kept cool and used within a reasonable length of time. Eggs should never be left at room temperature unless you want them to lose the refrigerator chill before being used in a cake or some other recipe. But once they have been purchased get them into cool storage as soon as possible. While eggs have a probable storage life of 2 to 4 weeks in a good refrigerator, for best quality use them up within 7 days.

Poultry should be stored in the coldest spot in the refrigerator after removing it from its store wrapping and rewrapping loosely in waxed paper. Use it within 2 to 3 days.

Widow Transforms Nova Scotia Farm

Lower Sackville, N.S. (CP) — When John Peverill died 23 years ago he left his wife and young son with a run-down farm and seven scraggly cows.

Mrs. Peverill, a farmer's daughter herself, was undaunted by these prospects, and began a long-range plan to put the farm back on its feet.

Today she has a handsome herd of 55 cattle, all Jerseys and only three not registered. Her farm is one of the most modern in the district, equipped with electric milking machines and other conveniences.

She has found that purebred cattle and a large flock of hens pay big dividends, but admits that her accomplishment took years of toil and planning. She began by buying a Jersey bull calf.

Not long after she bought a registered cow and calf. They were the nucleus of the Peverill herd. Then she built up a flock of 600 hens, restored the soil and acquired pasture lands.

She is assisted now by her son John and a hired man. "But it wasn't always this easy", she said. "I can remember when I milked 18 cows twice daily. I'm glad those days are over."

"Have you ever sold brushes?" she asked.

"No", he replied.

"Well, you'd better take this one and start selling it to me — here comes my husband."

Sea-going trailers

A WESTERN shipper thought this one up. He handles freight to and from Alaska by means of aluminum vans which are loaded, driven to the dock, and there lifted by cranes from their chassis into the ship's hold. Saves a lot of cargo handling, damage and pilfering. The vans can be individually heated or refrigerated to protect special cargoes, too.

More than a thousand different Canadian companies keep busy turning Canadian-made aluminum into everything from ash trays to minesweepers. And it keeps us busy wondering how next they will use this modern metal to save weight, or time, or trouble, or dollars for somebody. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

40 Registered for Course Next Week in Leadership Training

The Leadership Training Course, sponsored by the Quebec Women's Institutes, opens next week at Macdonald College with a full registration of 40. For the first time in the five years this project has been carried on, this quota has been fully met and the office announces the attendance is well distributed among the various districts served by the Q.W.I., another gratifying feature. This is a five day course, May 25-29.

The Q.W.I. is also fortunate in obtaining skilled instructors from various departments at the College: Prof. H. R. C. Avison, Director, Adult Education Service; Miss Marjorie Chapman, of that office; Mr. Jas. Davidson, Prov. Secretary, Quebec Council of Farm Forums; Miss Roberta Ridley, Information Centre; Miss Elisabeth Meikle, Handicrafts Department; and Prof. A. Banting, Chairman Agricultural Engineering. Miss Ida R. Bruneau and Miss F. Elizabeth Campbell of the Q.W.I. staff are assisting and two W.I. members; Mrs. Chas. Bolduc, Tomifobia and Mrs. A. Little, Ste. Anne de Bellevue. The Q.W.I. president, Mrs. G. E. LeBaron, North Hatley, will be present for the opening day.

The course is financed by the Q.W.I. Service Fund, which is sustained entirely by voluntary contributions from local Institutes, and a generous grant from the Department of Agriculture, Quebec.

Make Fruit Knives With China Handles

London (CP) — Fruit knives with china handles — an 18th century fashion — have been revived by the Royal Crown Derby Porcelain Co. Ltd., of Derby.

There is a big North American demand for the knives and in two weeks recently orders were received from one United States city for 120,000 pieces.

China handles for knives were first made 200 years ago, but they went out of fashion and the manufacture of them lapsed.

The handles are produced in a variety of colors and decorations. After being made at Derby they are sent to Sheffield for the blades to be mounted, returning to Derby for final examination.

The installation of a conveyor-belt system in the factory to speed the work through its various processes has not eliminated hand craftsmanship, and it is the policy of the firm that machinery is only used where it can do a job better than handcraft or where it can perpetuate everything that is best in handcrafts.

WELCOME OVERSEAS WOMEN

They will be delegates of organizations affiliated to the International Federation of University Women which is holding its conference at Bedford College.

Wife Preservers

When wax is tracked from one floor to another, it is an indication that too much wax has been used. The only remedy is to remove all the wax and start over.

Coronation Ball Dress Follows Simple Pattern

Many women are sewing their own gowns—even for a Coronation ball. For such ambitious home dressmakers, sewing centers have a practical suggestion. It is not always necessary to buy expensive fabrics to achieve a richly formal-looking effect. They point to Norman Hartnell, the designer to Her Majesty the Queen, who has designed regal-looking robes for peeresses who will walk in the procession at Westminster, which are not unduly expensive.

The formality and grace in a ball gown comes from the styling. There are several fashion details which will give a gown a rayon satin, for instance, a stately appearance gracious enough for a Coronation ball. One of these which the home dressmaker can easily achieve herself is the discreet placement of tucks and pleats.

By horizontally tucking the bodice and vertically pleating the skirt of a satin evening dress, you can add lustre and depth to the appearance of the satin. The straight horizontal lines enhance the moulded curve of the bodice, and the straight vertical lines dignify the flowing skirt.

The tucks can be sewn on the sewing machine with the tucker. The skirt can be sent out to be pleated. Any basic pattern, available in all standard pattern books, for a strapless bodice and circular skirt is adequate for a ball-gown. Purchase enough additional material for the bodice to allow for tucking. The bodice fabric should be tucked on the machine before the sections are cut out. A circular skirt pattern will usually allow enough fullness for pleating. The skirt should be sent out for pleating, after the side seams have been sewn and before it is joined to the bodice.

Now — for an expenditure of about $30 you have a ball gown graciously complete in itself. Few accessories are needed. A simple necklace, perhaps a bracelet and hair ornament if you wish.

Unique Trade Promotion Project in Laurentians

A unique trade promotion project, in which seven Canadian sportswear manufacturers are cooperated with the Dominion Government and the Quebec Government, was held privately May 15 at a Laurentian resort.

That morning, a number of business executives, buyers and publicity representatives were flown from New York to the resort to witness a showing of Canadian sportswear and similar items. They arrived back by plane in New York the same day.

The object of this special showing was to demonstrate the proximity of Canada as a source of supply of desirable merchandise and to encourage buyers to visit this market on their regular trips.

Hungarian Sisters Church Art Collectors

Hamilton (CP) — Two young Hungarian girls are helping to beautify Canadian churches.

Edith and Isabel Piczek are artists whose work decorates convents and churches in Rome and Hungary. During the 18 months they have been in Canada the girls have beautified three Ontario churches.

Using a room at Mount Cenacle retreat house here, the Piczek sisters have designed pictures for St. Ladislaus Church, Courtland; Our Lady's, Welland, and Mount Cenacle.

Isabel and Edith studied in Budapest, at the University of Fine Arts. After graduation they went to Rome where they painted large frescoes for several religious convents, including the Precious Blood Monastery in Rome.

They received an invitation from the Pontifical Bible Institute to prepare plans for a 377-square-foot fresco.

The original plans were judged by professors of the University of Fine Arts, Rome. Using the technique of the old masters, they completed the work during the Holy Year, 1950.

Former Lachute Girl Made Notable Contribution to Nursing Profession

Elinor M. Palliser Retired as Director Of Vancouver General Hospital Nursing School

Miss Elinor M. Palliser, a former Lachute girl who retired last October as director of nurses at the Vancouver General Hospital, receives warm tribute for her service to the nursing profession, in a recent issue of The Vancouver Province B.C. Magazine.

With her predecessor, Miss Grace M. Fairly, Miss Palliser is credited with having put the Vancouver General Hospital "on the map". The "new look" she gave to the nursing profession will be in evidence for many years to come, and the energies of these two women have affected nursing standards in many countries, according to the writer, Donald Duff.

The article says in part:

Nearly 850 young women have graduated from VGH School of Nursing since April, 1943, when Miss Palliser stepped into the VGH nursing directorship. Hundreds of "Palliser graduates" are working in hospitals throughout Canada, the United States and in other countries, too. Many others have married. Still others have pioneered new fields of nursing.

"Palliser graduates" have, by their contributions to the communities in which they live, earned for the VGH School of Nursing a high place among the nursing schools of this country.

Since the days of Florence Nightingale, nursing has been looked upon as a dedicated profession. Young women entered nursing because they wanted to serve by helping to heal the sick and the injured. But, in many cases, it meant personal sacrifices — especially poor living quarters and loss of health.

"Nursing is a dedicated profession", said Miss Palliser, "but the dedication should always be one of service, not of sacrifice." With this in mind, she worked untiringly on behalf of the young women who chose nursing as their life's work.

One tribute to her success is the new residence for student nurses at VGH. Thousands of Vancouver citizens heard Miss Palliser's appeals, often fiery, for a new residence, and, in 1944, voted "yes" on a money by-law to give VGH student nurses a new home.

Another tribute to her success is the fact that since September, 1947, when anti-tuberculosis vaccinations were made an entrance requirement for the VGH School of Nursing, not a single student has contracted the disease.

Miss Palliser emphasized service. "I don't worry about little things", she said. "I look at the patients' faces. If they're happy, then I know that the quality of nursing service is high."

She emphasized the spirit of nursing, too, by introducing to Canadian nursing the candlelight capping ceremony.

Miss Palliser understood her students and recognized their problems. "Especially well", said one nursing associate, "because she was a student herself, not many years ago." Miss Palliser, after many years of active nursing, enrolled as a student in McGill University's nursing administration course. "She was older than the rest of us in years, but as young as any of us in spirit", said one of her McGill classmates, now living in Vancouver.

"Palliser graduates", like "Fairley graduates" everywhere, are making a name for themselves. One, Marion Macdonald, holds the rank of Flying Officer in the RCAF and was one of the first nurses to qualify as a parachutist for attending air crash victims in remote areas.

Another, Fern Evoy, went to Ethiopia as nurse to Haile Selassie's grandson.

Two others, Muriel Scott and Jean Webster, are with the World Health Organization. Their addresses are invariably some spot in a far corner of the world.

Another VGH graduate, Pauline Woodward, spoke the prologue in the movie, "Lady with the Lamp."

Just a few names really, but indicative of the work being done by "Palliser graduates" of the Vancouver General Hospital's School of Nursing. Others are matrons and nursing directors of hospitals, and leaders in public health nursing. Still others are opening new fields for nurses in business and industry.

On the day she retired from VGH's staff, Miss Palliser was asked if she had any advice to give to nurses. She smiled thoughtfully before replying, then said:

"Take time out each day — to pray. Do that and you will never lose the real meaning behind the spirit of nursing."

Home-School Association at Brownsburg

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — At an executive committee meeting of the Brownsburg Home and School Association, presided over by Dave Atkins, chairman, a glowing report of progress and virility of the annual conference recently held in Montreal was read by the Association's delegates, Mrs. Sarah Graham and Miss Eleanor Hanson.

Arrangements were made for the general meeting, May 20, for which a first-class speaker has been secured, Dr. A. W. Lang, executive secretary of the Protestant Schoool Boards, Montreal, and a very interesting topic selected: "The Old and the New — for Better or Worse?"

Preparations were also made for the election of officers to the executive for the coming year, and a nominating committee appointed. The fall program was discussed, and bigger and better events planned for the coming season.

Growing Corn In the Garden

Don't crowd your corn! That's the advice of Bob Keith, CBC's Ontario Gardener.

Talking about corn planting in a recent Sunday-morning broadcast, Bob said: "If you plan on having some corn in the garden just remember it must have room to grow properly. If crowded, the cobs will be small and poorly-developed. Sow the seed one to two inches deep, spacing them three to four inches apart in the row.

"Another system is to plant the seeds in hills, planting five to six seeds to each hill and have the hills three feet apart each way. If planting in rows, have the rows three feet apart also.

"When the seedlings are a few inches high, they should be thinned out. If planted in rows, thin them out to about 10 to 12 inches apart. If in hills, thin them leaving not more than three or four plants to a hill."

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

Buy A Flag! Buy A Flag!

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"I've a pile of homework to do tonight so I can't help with the dishes!" 13 year-old Ann announces decisively.

"Nonsense! It is only fair that you take your share of work around the house. What is your teacher thinking of to load you up with homework?" her weary mother answers indignantly.

Is homework a frequent problem in your family? What is your child's attitude to it? What do you think of it? How often the pros and cons of homework have been discussed! With parents and teachers, and children too, it is unfortunately often a most contentious subject. In far too many homes homework is a "battle ground". What are some practical suggestions about getting it done instead of arguing about it?

If your child has homework which his teacher has given to his class, don't make it harder for him by pouring scorn on homework, criticising the teacher, or by being too anxious for a perfect record for your child in his school marks.

Accept homework as a job to be done, regularly without fuss. This piece of work, if done well by the pupil "on his own", will help him in habits of concentration and self discipline. It will also add to his knowledge and grasp of his school work.

Provide a place for your child to study — if possible a table and in a room by himself. See that he is comfortable and that the lighting is good. The family living room often has a radio on as well as other interesting interruptions. Neither does the kitchen table, if people are coming in and out, provide the quiet atmosphere for academic work.

Help your child to budget his hours out of school wisely. Have a set time when he agrees to begin homework each evening. A definite other substitute time between four o'clock and supper is necessary on the special occasions when this evening schedule is broken in to.

Many boarding school students have "study hours" begun and ended by a bell. This is an easy way to remind a youngster that homework time has come. Boarding Schools also usually provide a simple "snack" at bed time of crackers and cheese or some light refreshment. This is a jolly session! Mother or dad should take a few minutes to be sociable with a boy or girl at home at "snack time" after homework is done, just before "sleep time."

Have a casual attitude to your child's homework. Remind him it is his job, not yours. (You have your own evening tasks to see to). Be very sparing in your assistance. School subjects are taught so differently now from what they were when parents were young, that chances are your help will only confuse your youngster as well as tend to make him a "leaner!"

Five Provinces Will Be Represented By Airwomen In Coronation Parade

—Central Press Canadian

A select group of airwomen from Ontario, Quebec, Alberta, British Columbia and Nova Scotia have assembled in Ottawa for last-minute arrangements prior to their departure by boat to London and the coronation. Looking forward to June 2nd are Cpl. Winona McKee, left, of Penticton, B.C.; LAW Marie Lawrence of N.S., Sergt. Kay Dutney, Ottawa and Squadron Leader Sydiva Evans of Calgary, among 12 W.D.'s, handpicked on the basis of distribution, proficiency and appearance among 3,500 sisters in the service, and two RCAF nurses who have impressive records. They all realize, however, that pleasure involves sacrifice, and that a 14-mile march in coronation parade, past some of the most famous landmarks in history, will call for considerable practice. "We don't expect to do much walking now, but during two weeks of preparation in England we'll be on the road every day," said Squadron Leader Sylvia Evans, officer in charge. "We'll start with puny little hikes of five miles and work up to 15, just to be sure."

How many products do we get from crude oil?

From eggs, a hen can expect just one product—chicks. But from crude oil, Imperial refines 679 different products, ranging from weed killers to heavy asphalts. And that is not all—crude oil also supplies petroleum gases and other raw materials for plastics and synthetic rubber.

Oil plays a large and growing part in our everyday living. How many of these questions about it can you answer?

Oil supplies are vital to defence. The gasoline required to move one armoured division 100 miles would run your car for 10 years? 95 years? 350 years?
→ The average family car could be operated for 350 years on the gasoline needed to move an armoured division 100 miles.

The average weekly pay cheque of Canadians in 1939 would buy 84 gallons of gasoline. How many gallons will today's cheque buy
79? 135? 93?
→ Even though gasoline road taxes are higher in all provinces, today's average pay cheque will buy 135 gallons.

Scientists believe oil was formed from the remains of tiny sea creatures which lived millions of years ago. Would you say oil is found in rock? pools? swamps?
→ Oil is usually found far underground in the tiny pores of rock such as limestone or sandstone. The word petroleum is derived from the Latin "petra" and "oleum"—rock oil.

How much will the oil industry spend each week this year to find and develop oil fields in western Canada
$2¾ millions? $6 millions? $12 millions?
→ The industry is expected to spend $300 millions on exploration and development this year—about $6 millions a week.

It takes many millions of dollars in plant and equipment to provide high-quality oil products when and where you need them. How much does this amount to per Imperial employee
$3,856? $16,597? $30,715?
→ Imperial's investment in plant and equipment is $30,715 for each of its 13,500 employees, and it is still rising.

Kerosene Inventor Died in Obscurity

Halifax (CP) — A brilliant doctor, geologist and inventor who brought light to millions and wealth to many died in near obsurity in this city 89 years ago.

Dr. Abraham Gesner, inventor of kerosene, was born at Cornwallis, N.S., in 1797, son of a United Empire Loyalist who lost everything in the Revolutionary War.

His grave has been marked by a stone shaft erected by Imperial Oil Limited "in appreciation of his important contribution to the oil industry."

After studying medicine in London Dr. Gesner opened a practice in Parrsboro, N.S., and later did so well in geology, a hobby, that he became New Brunswick's chief geologist. In 1837 he invented a retort that enabled him to distil a clear, oily liquid from coal which had better illuminating qualities than gases in use at the time.

He patented his invention in New York, and eventually sold it. He formed a small company at Hunter's Point, N.Y., but returned in 10 years to Nova Scotia.

When the Canadian Pacific Railway receives the last of its $15,000,000 order for 73 diesel locomotives this summer, the new motive power will completely dieselize operations on the Kettle Valley and Kootenay divisions of the C.P.R. in southern British Columbia.

Surveyor Completes Tough Job in North

Cuts Boundary Line Separating Cochrane and Thunder Bay Districts

Peterborough (CP) — John G. Pierce, Ontario land surveyor has completed one of the smallest jobs of his career. Nevertheless he considers it the toughest.

Mr. Pierce's task, which started in mid-January and took seven weeks to complete, was to cut an 80-mile territorial boundary line between the electoral districts of Thunder Bay and Cochrane.

Cutting the boundary, a difficult job at any time, was made more difficult by overcast skies and a great deal of snow. Overcast skies held up the start of the operation from Crony Lake because the surveyors were not able to take astral readings for days. The thick snow caused two motor toboggans and two pack tractors, supplied by the department of lands and forests, to bog down and the weight of the snow on the small landing lakes made constant slush ice conditions for a Beaver aircraft.

Jimmy Kirk of Sault Ste. Marie, pilot of the aircraft, serviced the crew for 30 miles until he ran out of lake landing areas.

A helicopter was brought into service and pilot Jerry Turner of Oshawa had difficulty warming up the machine for morning takeoffs. Its 500-pound payload was too small. It took 2½ flying hours to move 14 men five miles, but the machine stayed on the job until it was finished at the terminal point on the Albany River near Martin's Falls.

Other obstacles encountered by Mr. Pierce included the blowing out of the base radio transmitter, having to replace 11 of the original 18-man ax crew and the resignation of the cook. The land surveyor took these in stride.

The line that has just been completed will serve as a "shooting base line" for aerial mapping this summer.

Mr. Pierce insists that cutting the territorial boundary line between the electoral district of Thunder Bay and Cochrane was the hardest job of his career — harder even than the completion of the Manitoba-Ontario provincial boundary in 1948.

To Stimulate Good Canadian Novels

Maclean's Magazine announces that it is prepared to spend up to fifteen thousand dollars a year to stimulate the writing of good Canadian novels.

In an announcement unprecedented in Canadian letters, the magazine announced the establishment of a 'Maclean's Novel Award' of $5,000 for a good Canadian novel. The announcement said that the editors expect to make at least one award a year and are prepared to make as many as three.

Ralph Allen, editor of MacLean's, said that the magazine "is interested primarily in good creative fiction." He said literary merit would be the chief criterion in selecting award winning novels.

The award is wide open to all writers, professional or amateur. Any Canadian citizen who writes a novel on any subject is eligible for the award, "if the editors feel it is worthy of the attention of the reading public." Non-Canadians are eligible if they write a novel with a strong Canadian theme.

After publication in Maclean's all further rights will revert to the authors, who will be free to make their own arrangements for book publication both in Canada and elsewhere.

Fort William M.D. Top Tree Farmer

Dr. W. P. Hogarth Proves That Poor Farm Land Can Be Put Into Productive Woodlots

Port Arthur (CP) — Fourteen years ago it was only a dream — today it has brought Dr. W. P. Hogarth of Fort William national recognition.

Dr. Hogarth's dream in 1939 was to prove that land, worthless for farming, could be put into productive and valuable woodlots.

He bought a tract of land on which a fruitless attempt had been made at farming. Today its 105 acres, eight miles west of lakehead, hold orderly rows of red pine and spruce trees, ranging from 20-foot adolescents to infant seedlings.

The crop holds a potential wealth of thousands of dollars and its value is increasing by $1,500 annually. For his achievement, Dr. Hogarth was selected by the Canadian Forestry Association as the country's outstanding tree farmer and winner of the 1953 Conservation Award.

The citation reads: "Without assistance from government or industry and as a public service to the community, Dr. Hogarth has voluntarily spent time and money in developing plantations of pine and spruce."

Big Experiment

Dr. Hogarth, who has a busy practice in addition to supervising a government clinic, found that red pine and spruce were best suited to the sandy loam of this district so he planted 1,600 in 1940 and 5,500 the next year. It was five years before he was sure the trees were going to do well. He estimates that to date he has planted a total of 40,000 young seedlings.

During a trip to Toronto in 1945, Dr. Hogarth was told by the department of lands and forest that he was using more seedling than everyone else in Northern Ontario combined. The department was curious to know what he was doing with them.

Dr. Hogarth told the department of his woodlot but expressed an opinion that native stock would be better for transplanting in this area because of a difference in the length of growing seasons.

The following year the department started work on the Thunder Bay nursery to serve Northwestern Ontario and, in 1952, after a laborious seven-year job of collecting cones with the help of gangs of Indians from the surrounding country, the first seedlings were produced. The nursery is turning out millions of seedlings this spring.

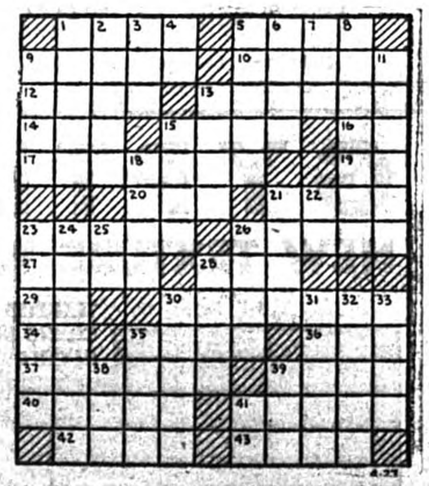

Dr. Hogarth will be presented with the 1953 Forest Conservation award at a joint meeting of the Chambers of Commerce and the Kiwanis clubs of Port Arthur and Fort William.

RCAF Survival Pack Valuable Equipment

53 Items Weighing 36 Pounds Taken by Pilots on Hazardous Flights

Toronto (CP) — RCAF pilots flying across the oceans or the rugged northlands sit on a survival pack, containing about $600 worth of items ranging from an edible candle to a .22-calibre rifle.

There are two types of pack, one for the summer which includes a dinghy and another for winter which has a sleeping bag instead of a dinghy.

The 36-pound pack contains 53 items, among them a two-way radio, radio battery, anti-glare eyeshields, flares, fishing kit, food pack, dry socks and a primus stove.

The packs are the result of suggestions by experts made to the RCAF Institute of Aviation Medicine. Sqdn. Ldr. Jack Jaworski whittled down the suggestions until the requirements fitted the necessary dimensions and weight.

The question asked about every item before it was included was: Will it save a man's life? Cigarettes, for instance, are not included. Food is reduced to an absolute minimum, but everything needed for living off the country is there.

Veteran of North

Jaworski, although not a doctor, has eight years' experience in the north, including six years of flying. He once lived on fish and seal liver for 22 days when his plane was forced down.

The food in the packs has been concentrated so that it will fit into a one-pound box of chocolates. One day's ration consists of three squares of sugary stuff like Turkish delight, and half an ounce of energy tablets.

Fliers who may have to fight for survival in some wild country are given a course in one of RCAF's western establishments. Their survival kits are hitched to parachute harness.

And just in case they forget how to use the kit there's a pamphlet inside telling them how to use it.

Coronation Preview

By Willis Young

(Part II)

In view of the coming Coronation, many of us like to turn back the pages of the family album of Britain's Royalty and see for ourselves how history has evolved to set Elizabeth II in the great position in which she now finds herself.

Elizabeth was born April 21, 1926, to their Royal Highnesses, Albert, Duke of York and his Duchess, the former Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon. This royal birth occurred in London at the home of the Princess's maternal grandparents, the Earl and Countess of Strathmore.

It was not until four years later, and in Scotland, that Elizabeth acquired a sister — Margaret Rose.

These two girls have always been the closest of companions and, even now that Elizabeth is Queen, it is hard for Margaret to think of her as such.

The position of Queen is much greater than in name only. It requires a great amount of poise, dignity, and self control as well as a great knowledge of history, economics and current events. Elizabeth's training in this respect began at an early age for, when she was only 10, her father was proclaimed King George VI.

The latter proclamation was the result of an unusual change of events. When George V died January 20, 1936, his eldest son, Edward, Prince of Wales, became King. After ruling for only eleven months, however, Edward became dissatisfied and abdicated the throne to marry "the woman I love" — the twice divorced Wallis Warfield Simpson — as he, himself, has said. This, then, put Elizabeth's father on the throne and she herself became heiress presumptive.

Elizabeth received much of her poise and dignity from her self-disciplined grandmother, the late Queen Mary, but her own mother has also been very instrumental in her training. George VI often confided in her and revealed many secret papers to her. In this way she was able to help him and advise him in many ways.

The Queen's present charm is typical of the happy childhood that she has experienced. She has said that the sun seemed always to be shining while she was growing up. She lived in a home where doors were never slammed in anger. And now, as she prepares for next month's Coronation she must often think nostalgically of an upbringing modelled on her mother's ruling:

"We want Elizabeth and her sister, Margaret, to have a happy childhood which they can always look back on."

Informality and simplicity have also sounded loud notes in Elizthem to think as a commoner was born — not of Royal, but of Noble birth, knew how to introduce this informality into the lives of her family. The princesses also had a governess who was a commoner and who taught them many things about the common man and his interests. She helped to broaden their minds and she taught them to think as a commoner would.

The simplicity and unconventionality is exemplified in the fact that the King and Queen, as Duke and Duchess of York, were subject to getting down "on all fours" and playing horse-back riding with the horse-loving Elizabeth. When the latter heard that she might have a baby sister, she exclaimed:

"Good! Now there'll be four horses instead of three!"

George VI was always a very shy and retiring man. It is said that he would sit in a dark corner of a Buckingham Palace room, rather than ask a servant to turn on the gas light. He found it very hard to speak because of his speech impediment — stuttering — and when he proposed to his future bride, he sent an aide to do so. But Lady Bowes-Lyon just said: "No! I'll not marry him until he asks me himself!"

It was because of his own shyness that George desired his children to meet the public at an early age. He had them join many different organizations during the war that would bring them into closer contact with other people.

Once as he watched Elizabeth and Margaret act their parts in a Christmas Pantomime at Windsor Royal Lodge, during the last war, he remarked to Marion Crawford, former governess:

"I don't know how they do it, Crawfie! At that age I was so terribly shy and self-conscious!"

Malenkov Has Instinct For Self-Preservation

Though little is known of Georgi Maximilanovitch Malenkov in or out of Russia, the record of his career indicates that he is at once the most ruthless and the most cautious of men. Whether the ruthlessness or the caution will dictate Malenkov's future moves is a question the world is asking today.

Appraising the probabilities, a June Reader's Digest articles outlines the new Soviet dictator's career, and finds an "instinct for self-preservation" guiding him throughout his rise to supreme power. "So long as this instinct warns Malenkov of danger, there is a chance of keeping the cold war cold", the Digest article concludes.

Malenkov's sense of caution was evident as early as the Soviet revolution of 1917, when he was 15 years old. For two years, uncertainty persisted as to whether the Red or White Russians would win. Malenkov did not commit himself to either side until he saw the Reds were gaining the upper hand. Perceiving in the new Communist Party a means to gain personal power, he joined it in 1920.

Political opportunism and the desire to be on the winning side seem to have motivated Malenkov's every step, rather than any conviction as to right and wrong.

Rising gradually in Party ranks, Malenkov took a prominent role in the purges of 1936-38. In 1941 he was named an alternate member of the Politburo; after Hitler attacked, he became one of five on the State Defense Committee.

Malenkov's most dangerous rival for power, Andrei Zhdanov, died suddenly and mysteriously in 1948. Thereafter Malenkov's eminence was little questioned. He was one of very few to be given living quarters in the Kremlin, and he was living there, with his wife and two children, at the time of Stalin's death.

But, says Reader's Digest, Malenkov's supreme sense of self-preservation must now be warning him. Although he has inherited Stalin's position he does not have Stalin's all-embracing power. He can be sure of no one under him, particularly men like Beria, Chief of the Soviet Police, and Marshals Zhukov and Vasilevsky of the Red Army.

To build himself into a myth that will be revered by the masses, as Stalin was, will be more difficult for Malenkov than for Stalin. No element of heroism exists in Malenkov's past or in his personality. His machine-like character is anything but glamorous.

Which way will the machine turn? Toward the weakest point, claims the Reader's Digest. In 1949 Malenkov veered toward weak Asia. The day he senses the weakening of the West he will move westward.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. What must I do if my employer has not put stamps in my book for every day that I worked for him?

A. Draw this matter to your employer's attention. If you get no satisfaction from him, report the case to the local Unemployment Insurance Commission office, giving the full details of your wages and periods worked, as well as for what periods stamps were not put in your book, and if possible the amount of deductions for unemployment insurance that were made from your wages.

Q. Can a school bus driver draw unemployment insurance during the summer if there is no other work available for him? His wife and children cultivate their property at which he helps in his spare time. They have a horse, a few cows, some hens and pigs. Would this disqualify him from receipt of unemployment insurance benefit during the summer?

A. It is assumed that he looks to employment for wages as his main means of livelihood and that his spare time activity on the property could ordinarily be carried on in addition to and outside the ordinary working hours of his usual employment. On this basis he would not be disqualified from receipt of benefit while unemployed during the summer, provided that his income from his spare time activities does not exceed $2.00 a day and that he fulfills the other conditions of entitlement.

Tree Farm Dedicated Here Friday Adjoining Arg. Exhibition Grounds

First "Certified" Project Under Canadian Tree Farms Program, Attended by Civic Leaders and School Pupils

The first Tree Farm given a certificate under the Canadian Tree Farms Program was dedicated last Friday, here at the Lachute Exhibition Grounds. George McGibbon, president of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, accepted the certificate from Mac E. Walker, president of the Brownsburg Rotary Club, sponsors of the Tree Farm Movement in Argenteuil County.

Officials from the Society and civic representatives were on hand for the ceremonies. Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur, members of the teaching staffs of the two local high schools, and officers of the Canadian International Paper Company were seated on the stage.

The Tree Farm of the Argenteuil Society will comprise 8½ acres of plantation, immediately adjoining the Fair Grounds. The first spruce trees were planted by boys and girls of the two high schools. Mayor Dr. Lafleur planted two sugar maples, to mark the entrance to the farm.

The Tree Farm Committee of the Canadian Forestry Association is especially pleased to have a Tree Farm managed and directed by an Agricultural Society. The movement is designed to improve the quantity and quality of wood grown on privately-owned lands, for the benefit of the owner and the community. Close co-operation between foresters and agricultural organizations will assist this community effort.

National Tree Farm Certificate No. Q-AA-1 marks the beginning of a program to honor woods owners who are protecting and managing their timber better than the average owner. Eventually, many thousands of acres of timber in counties such as Argenteuil will be operating as Tree Farms, under the management of farmers, forest industry, Agricultural Societies and investors, who see the value of timber production from the rough lands of this region.

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Canadian International Paper Company, for it is only through their kind co-operation that this tree planting demonstration has been made possible", said George McGibbon, president of Argenteuil Agricultural Society, speaking over the public address system.

"Sometimes, I think we Canadians do not fully appreciate the heritage that is ours; but today, with all eyes on Canada, we are beginning to realize our great privileges and opportunities. Through waste and carelessness many of Canada's finest forests have been destroyed. Therefore, it is up to us today as good Canadians to help restore these forests, so that we may make Canada a country even better than she now is.

"I hope that, when each year you revisit our Grounds, you will admire these trees, and that you may be just a little more careful of throwing away a burning match or cigarette butt, which can so quickly destroy the growth of a lifetime."

Mr. McGibbon also referred to the Shell Oil Company's demonstration of chemical brush - killing, and thanked all who had displayed their interest by attending this event.

Many Storekeepers Refute Statement On Early Closing

It was stated in the Chamber of Commerce column last week that a number of leading storekeepers had endorsed the move to close Saturday evenings, from June 6, during the summer months. The Watchman has received complaints that this statement gave the impression the practice would be generally adopted. Such, however, is not the case, and a number of stores, including many of the largest retailers in the Main Street shopping centre, have signified their intention to remain open as usual Fridays and Saturdays until 10 p.m.

Signatories to this agreement, to remain open, as advertised on page 4 of this issue, are the following business firms:

M. G. Assaly, Wilson & Gordon Reg., S. Greenspon & Son, J. W. Lefebvre Ltée, John McFaul & Son, Chas. McFaul & Son, Yvon Cadieux Jewellery, J. U. Nadon Jewellery, Pariseau & Freres, Beaton's Drugstore, Omer Lafortune, L. A. Pharand & Fils, Royal Store Reg., R. A. Beamish Stores, C. & T. Fauteux and Lachute Pharmacy.

$2,500 Aim in Local Appeal for Blind Institute

Next to life itself, God's most precious gift to mankind is Eyesight; and to assist those who have lost the precious gift, and those who are threatened with its loss, a group of citizens has humbly dedicated its service.

Between June 3 and 17 the citizens of Lachute and Brownsburg will be asked to support the second annual apeal for funds in support of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind (Lachute and Brownsburg area). This campaign will be under the sponsorship of the local advisory board, the executive of which is as follows:

Robt. Cairns, president; John Chalmers, 1st vice-president; Ord Anderson, 2nd vice-president; Miss L. Miller, treasurer; A. Laurin, secretary.

Temporary headquarters for the campaign have been established in the Victoria Hall, Lachute. All those desiring to assist please contact Mr. M. Campeau or Mr. A. C. Zaplaski (telephone 970, Lachute).

The objective for the campaign has been set at $2,500. The 35 blind people of Argenteuil County need your help. — Won't you invest in the eyesight of your neighbor? Remember also, that blindness does not choose its victims! . . . When the canvasser calls do not turn him away empty-handed.

Our Queen Is Crowned

"God save our Queen", the people shout,
And in every heart there is no doubt
That she will sacrifice her life
To keep her people free from strife.

Though on her head a crown is worn,
Her heart is with the lowly born,
With all who toil in fields by day,
And kneel at night to God and pray.

What of the future? This we ask.
For one so young, how great the task.
God help Her Majesty the Queen
To walk through life calm and serene.

Again is heard, "Long may she reign
O'er all this wonderful domain,
From shore to shore, from sea to sea,
O God, help her to keep us free!"

Organized for Coronation Beacon-Fire Celebration

Parades, Fireworks, Street Dance to Link with Scouts' Nation-Wide Program

On initiative of the local Canadian Legion, and in conjunction with a Boy Scout beacon-fire program outlined by Dominion Scout Headquarters for nation-wide observance, Coronation Day next Tuesday will be marked by a fitting celebration to include a mammoth parade, bonfire and ceremonies at the Lachute High School grounds, fireworks display and a street dance. The parade will terminate at the school grounds around 8.30 — the entire program being summarized elsewhere on this page.

A meeting of patriotic-minded citizens sat in with the Boy Scout Committee last Friday evening at the school, and Gordon Tabrett was appointed as co-ordinator and chairman of the arrangements.

Bernard Jenkins, Scout Committee chairman, and Linton Armstrong, District Scout Commissioner, outlined the beacon fire proceedings, and plans were made for the tie-in of a mass parade, Legion fireworks demonstration and a street dance in conclusion.

Together with the Scout Group members at the organization meeting, representatives were present from the Girl Guides, Wolf Cubs, Legion, Town Council, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club, Lions Club, Fire Department and the Press.

Enlisted by Chairman Tabrett for group participation in the parade are the Legionnaires, boys' and girls' units of the Scout Movement, a platoon of Cadets, Fire Brigade equipment, Police escort and the Ayers Band. A physical training group from l'Ecole Supérieure is also expected to form a contingent in the bonfire attendance. The uniformed parade will be preceded by a procession of private cars and bicycles starting 15 minutes earlier.

To complete the spirit of this great occasion all citizens and businessmen are asked to co-operate by decorating their premises, merchants are asked to close their stores in observance of the proclamation of a national holiday, and television and furniture dealers are asked to have television sets operating in their show-windows for the Coronation broadcasts.

St. Andrews Lady Celebrates Her 100th Birthday

Messages of Congratulation From Her Majesty and Governor-General

(Our District Correspondent)

St. Andrews East — Saturday, May 23, was a festive occasion at the home of Mrs. J. D. McLeod, who entertained at the tea hour in honor of her step-aunt, Miss Mary Jane Hanevan, who was celebrating her 100th birthday.

This was a unique event for St. Andrews East, as there is no record of any person here having attained that advanced age.

Her name was mentioned on the "Over 90" birthday list on Radio Station CJAD. A cablegram from Buckingham Palace reads, "The Queen is much interested to hear that you are celebrating your hundredth birthday, and sends you warm congratulations and good wishes" (Private Secretary). Also a telegram was sent from the Governor-General at Ottawa.

Miss Hanevan was given a gift of cash from friends and neighbors. Among the cards and flowers received was a bouquet and card with original verse from the Women's Guild of the United Church, which is reproduced hereunder. The table was centred with an attractively decorated three-tiered cake, with "Happy Birthday" on each side of the bottom layer and "100 Years" on each side of the second layer. Mrs. David Morrison poured tea. Miss Phyllis McLeod assisted in serving.

Miss Hanevan enjoys quite good health, but keeps to her room for most of the time owing to failing strength. Her only relatives are Mrs. McLeod and two step-nephews, Thos. and Ernest Hyde, of St. Eugene, for whom she kept house till about 15 years ago when she came to make her home with Mrs. McLeod.

CONGRATULATIONS
To Miss Hanevan on Her One Hundredth Birthday

It is not often that a town can boast
One who has known a hundred years of life;
Today a centenarian we toast
Whose memories bridge an age of joy and strife.

When she was young, the coal-oil lamp was new,
There was no telegraph or telephone,
No airplane sailed across the heaven's blue,
Movies and radio were quite unknown.

Electric gadgets rule the world today;
Tractors usurp the part of horse and plow;
The icebox takes the place of cellar-way —
How altered is the housewife's routine now!

And yet, despite the change each era brings,
We keep the cherished values of the past;
The love of gardens and of growing things,
Our faith, our homes, and friendships that will last.

We wish our friend good health and happiness;
Her kin and neighbors prize her presence here;
And may God in his loving-kindness bless
Her tranquil days this Coronation year.

Resolutions Passed, Officers Elected At County W. Inst. Annual Convention

Mrs. H. Ellard, 2nd Provincial Vice-President, Guest Speaker at Well Attended Conference

The 33rd annual convention of the Argenteuil County Women's Institutes was held in Lachute High School last Saturday, presided over by Mrs. G. Cooke.

The meeting opened by the singing of the Ode and repeating of the Mary Stewart Collect.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

There are 362 members in County Institutes and the amount of money raised during the year was $3,050.57; disbursements amounted to $3,067.45.

Mrs. Cooke, the president, asked that all the branches discuss the Service Fund at their meetings, urging all branches which do not already contribute, to do so at once. The branches were also asked to pay in their Fair money as soon as possible.

It was agreed that the county treasurer pay rent for the premises in which conventions are held, and not the branch that is host to these assemblies.

There will be a display of handicrafts at the Lachute Fair in June.

The roll-call was answered by the following attendance from the various branches: Arundel 10, Frontier 11, Lachute 11, Mille Isles 5, Pioneer 6, Brownsburg 22, Jerusalem - Bethany 13, Lakefield 8, Morin Heights 10, Upper Lachute - East End 14, visitors 2.

Mrs. Geo. Leggett, provincial convener for Health and Welfare, spoke on the various convenerships. She urged the members to "get acquainted" with new Canadians in their neighborhoods. The branches should also publicize all their activities. The Cancer Society had sent a letter of thanks to all members for contributions of linens. Mrs. Leggett recommended the "Well Women's Clinic", and that all women should have a yearly check-up.

It was unanimously agreed that the wording in the "Salutation to the Flag" remain unchanged.

Jerusalem - Bethany Women's Institute was host to the gathering, and served a fine meal.

The luncheon speakers included Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur, Mr. Jas. W. McGibbon, Mr. Philippe Valois, M.P., Dr. L. Turcotte and Mrs. H. Ellard. Dr. Turcotte urged that adults in the county attend the TB X-ray clinics, which are being held in various centres in June and July.

The afternoon session opened with the "Salutation to the Flag". Mr. Wayne Riddell played two delightful piano selections and Mrs. Robt. Blakely sang two songs. Mrs. G. Cooke thanked the artists.

The secretary gave a brief resumé of the morning session.

Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh conducted a memorial service, in which the ladies stood one minute in silent memory of the late Mrs. Wm. McFarlane.

After some discussion, it was moved by Mrs. Mason Crosby that the county women keep their reservations at Whitney Hall in Toronto and go by train to the A.C.W.W. convention in August.

Mrs. Crosby introduced Mrs. H. Ellard, 2nd vice-president of the Quebec Women's Institutes. Mrs. Ellard urged the members to support the Q.W.I. Service Fund as the Leadership Training course is financed solely from this source, also the Junior W.I. work. She informed her listeners of the valuable assistance the W.I. receives from the Department of

Scout-Guide Rally At Fair Grounds This Saturday

Saturday will be a red letter occasion for the Scout contingents of Laurentian District — including all ages and both sexes of the organization, Boy Scouts, Wolf Cubs, Girl Guides and Brownies. The occasion is the annual district rally at Lachute Fair Grounds, which brings together many troops, packs and companies in friendly competition and demonstration of their crafts.

Troop committees and leaders have been working on the details of this pow-wow, and it is expected that everything will contribute to a gratifying and pleasant day for all concerned. The boys and girls are all set to make it so; and, a good attendance of parents and friends will afford the encouragement which this big effort deserves.

Good representations of groups and leaders are expected from the entire Laurentian District of the Scout organization.

Fire Destroys Maj.-Gen. Walford Country Property

Morrison Homestead, 125-Year-Old Farmhouse At Hill Head

A fast-spreading blaze destroyed a 125-year-old stone farmhouse owned by Major-General A. E. Walford and rented by W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., for one of his farm employees. The building was situated on Route 30, 2½ miles northeast of Lachute.

The farmhouse was the old Morrison homestead and was built approximately 125 years ago by the great-grandfather of Howard Morrison, Lachute. It was occupied by the late Geo. Morrison and later by Tom Morrison, before being purchased by Maj.-Gen. Walford.

Lachute Fire Brigade answered a call at 1.30 p.m. Sunday but the fire had gained a headstart; lack of water also made their efforts ineffectual.

Furniture and belongings were saved from the downstairs of the building, but Maj.-Gen. Walford's effects on the upper floor were lost in the blaze. The walls and foundation are all that is left standing of the structure.

According to Mr. Cottingham, Chief G. Y. Deacon and his men did all that could be done by answering the alarm.

Of 1950's 6,418 juvenile delinquents, 70 per cent were children whose both parents were born in Canada; only 83 of the 6,418 delinquents were born outside of Canada.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN!

On June 2nd Elizabeth II will be crowned Queen of Great Britain and the Empire.

It is interesting to note that electric power came into use during the lifetime of another Queen, Victoria. . . When Queen Victoria's reign ended in 1901 the number of homes using electricity was very small. Electric cooking, electric water heating, electric cleaning were unknown. Industry had yet to be electrified and such things as radios and air-conditioning weren't even dreams.

Electricity has made tremendous changes since Victoria's time and it will make further great changes in the years ahead. As one of the leaders in the industry we join with everyone in wishing the Queen a long and prosperous reign and in saying, "God Save the Queen!"

Coronation Dance First Function at New B'burg Hall

Apt Occasion to Mark Re-opening of Legion Memorial Building

Brownsburg — Work is being rushed to have the new Memorial Hall (proper) ready for the Coronation Dance, scheduled to take place on Monday evening next, June 1. The Hall has been painted and the floors are now being sanded and waxed. Much work still has to be done in the basement, but it is felt that the Hall generally will be in a usable condition for the dance. Visitors at this function will be able to see for themselves the progress which has been made, and it is hoped that the attendance will be large.

The fund campaign continues to progress steadily, and it is hoped that the objective can be reached by the end of June. So far 162 subscribers have donated or pledged a total of $1,817, which averages slightly more than $10 a person; this is gratifying indeed. ### BIBLE FOR CAMP CHAPEL

Scouts of the Woodlands (Montreal) Troop recently presented an old Scottish Bible to the Boy Scouts Association of Quebec for use in the chapel at the Provincial Scout Camp, Tamaracouta, in the Laurentians.

Miss Florence Reynolds, Information and Educational Officer of the United Nations' Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), Washington, speaker at the National Farm Radio Forum Conference held at Niagara Falls on May 21-22.

Canada's People Are "Best Informed" In the World

"Canada's people are the best informed people in the world", said Miss Florence Reynolds, FAO's North American Information and Education Officer. "After 25 years as a professional in the field of information throughout the world, I know this to be so".

Miss Reynolds addressed the luncheon meeting of the annual conference of National Farm Radio Forum held in Niagara Falls, Ont., May 21-22.

It was her opinion National Farm Radio Forum had contributed a great deal toward making Canadian farmers so well informed. She felt that this section of the public were now in a good position to assist in solving the world's greatest single problem. The problem is food surplusses in the Western world while hunger and starvation still exist elsewhere."

"This is the month of two great Agricultural anniversaries", stated Miss Reynolds.

"Twenty years ago the idea of FAO was born in the mind of Sir John Boyd-Orr. He and several leading nutritionists pledged themselves to the task of attempting to bring the governments of the world together in an effort to find a plan which would take surplus foods into those sections of the world where they were so badly needed. Ten years ago this month, at Hot Springs, Virginia, Sir John Boyd-Orr (now Lord Boyd-Orr), saw this plan come nearer to completion, for at Hot Springs, FAO came into being."

"Governments of the world", said Miss Reynolds, "must come together to face the common problem of distributing our food surplusses. Governments cannot act without the support of their people and this support should come from the producers of the food, the farmers". Only an informed farm public can correctly advise its government", she said, "and Canada's farmers, thanks to Farm Forum, are the best informed in the world. Through its 68-government member body, FAO has done more to assist under-developed nations than any other international organization working in the food field", claimed Miss Reynolds, "but, even so, food surplusses still remain our greatest problem. FAO and the farm people must solve it."

Name your farm and you almost give it a soul, writes the Leamington, Ont., Post and News. "Rarely if ever, do you find a run-down or bad-appearing farm with the name painted on its barn or gate."

Seasonal Farm Topics

Weeds Worst Enemy Of Cultivated Crops

Losses to crops of all kinds caused by insects, and fungi and bacteria causing plant diseases, have always attracted more attention than the losses caused by weeds, inspite of the fact that the losses due to weeds exceed those of any other agricultural pest. There are two reasons for this:

(1) The damage caused by insects and fungi are generally very conspicuous. Even people who are not engaged in any form of agriculture are impressed when they drive past an orchard which has been denuded of leaves by caterpillars. Losses from insects and plant disease organisms are both highly visible and alarmingly costly.

(2) On the other hand weeds are commonplace. They are found everywhere on cultivated land, on all types of soil, and under the many climatic conditions across Canada. Infestations must be very heavy before the extent of the damage they do is fully apparent. In spite of weeds there is generally some kind of crop yield, so the importance of getting rid of them is not very noticeable.

Research

Partly on account of the spectacular nature of the damage caused by insects and disease-causing organisms and partly due to the attitude of farmers themselves, far more reasearch has been done in the fighting of these pests than has been done for weed control. Recommendations for controlling weeds have been based on methods of cultivation. Though many of these have been successful, others have not, due to the fact that such methods are not based on truly accurate knowledge of the characters of the individual weeds or the behavior of their seeds.

Plowing to bury weeds beyond the depth from which they can emerge does not kill the seeds. Wild oats are capable of penetrating eight or more inches of soil. Experiments made at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, and at other places in different countries, have proved that the seeds of many weeds will germinate surprisingly well after being buried for long periods. Wild mustard germinated 28%, stinkweed 60%, and Canada thistle 66% after being buried for three years. Since experiments show that weed seeds germinate best in the first inch and one-half of soil, they should be kept there so that they can be easily destroyed in the seedling stage by light cultivation.

The use of chemicals in weed control is proving very effective, but will not solve the whole problem. Much study of root systems is required to find out when the roots are the most easily killed and why some weeds are resistant to chemicals.

Co-operation

Every farmer has difficulty in ridding his land of weeds and keeping it free. Weeds know no bounds and are easily spread by many agencies, wind, water, animals, birds. But the worst offender of all is man himself, especially when he sows untested and ungraded seed.

Infestations may cover large areas, groups of adjoining farms or may be confined to individual farms. For this reason the problem of controlling weeds should not be looked upon solely as the affair of the individual. Only by the co-ordinated effort of farmers using clean, graded and tested seed, and working with the rein co-operation with the local search men can the best results be achieved in co-operation with the Township and county councils agricultural advisers can do wonders in producing areas free from certain weeds. It has been done in districts where dodder became serious, and it could be done where wild carrot, chicory and other weeds are taking over large tracts of pasture land. It is being done most successfully in many districts on the prairies.

To Show Rare Breed

A novel entry among cattle exhibits at the coming Lachute Spring Fair will be animals of the Belted Galloway breed to be shown by H. G. Green, of Montreal. These are the only "Belties" in Canada. The two pictured above were imported from Scotland. The dam is "Boreland Zena" and the heifer calf "Green Arpents Bella".

Coronation Day

WHEN Elizabeth goes to her crowning June 2, Canadians will celebrate with her. There will be dancing in the streets 'midst the explosion of fireworks. Troops will parade. Beacons will light the night sky from coast to coast. There will be solemn church services, too, as Canadians pray for a long and happy reign for their young Queen.

With municipal and provincial plans for the celebration all but complete, it is expected that each locality will express its joy in its own individual fashion.

Appropriately, Ottawa's television station CBOT opens officially Coronation Day. It will televise for Ottawa viewers the impressive official ceremonies on Parliament Hill and, over the recently-opened TV network, for Toronto and Montreal.

Late in the day Canada's TV stations — in Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal — will show films of the Coronation, flown across the Atlantic by Canberra jet bomber and from Labrador by a CF-100 jet fighter. In localities within range of the three stations special arrangements have been made for public viewing over groups of receivers.

Simultaneously Coronation night, Boy Scouts across Canada will light beacon fires. From Newfoundland to Vancouver their flames will redden the evening skies.

Lachute — late at the start, but enthusiastic to the finish — is well organized to stage a fitting celebration. Many storekeepers have decorated their show-windows; it is hoped that many others, likewise private homes and business firms, will measure up to the occasion.

And lest there be misapprehension, we take occasion to repeat: the adage goes, "Let joy be unconfined" — not "unREfined". This is a celebration to remain a memorable day with the younger generation of this community. Let nothing unseemingly mar their recollections of the event.

LONG LIVE THE QUEEN!

Pays to Advertise!

"IN ADDITION to the advertising messages sprouting on parking meters in some areas, we are now confronted with a proposal to the Post Office Department to sell advertising space on mail boxes and mail trucks", says Editor & Publisher. "The suggestion might include ad plugs on postage stamps or cancellation marks: 'This letter mailed (or cancelled) through the courtesy of Burpo's anti-hiccough remedy' ,etc. As long as government is being urged into the space selling field, what's the matter with neon signs on top of government buildings and courthouses? Municipal governments should realize that lamp-posts and fire hydrants are a natural for selling dog food."

WE WELCOME to this page an old friend, "Geoff", who latterly regaled our readers with observations on his trip to the Old Country. Having now settled down (with some difficulty, no doubt) to his normal routine — Geoff brings us another regular column, on the human side-lights of the Big City. We direct this feature to the attention of our readers, with confidence that it will afford the same high standard of interest on facets and angles of metropolitan life.

The Human Element

A VIGOROUS warfare against the human element as a cause of forest fires is being pressed by government and forestry officials.

It is needed. Careless smokers who toss away still-burning cigarettes, heedless campers who forget to douse camp-fire embers — these represent possibly the greatest hazard to Canada's enormous timber stands.

The irresponsible tourist and sportsman is the main reason why Canadian provinces close their forests to travellers when the fire hazard becomes critical.

At stake are billions of dollars in pulpwood, timber, wild life and forest products. The Canadian public simply must be educated to the value of their forests, the need for conservation and the necessary methods of protection.

Canadians are living in an age when forests and forest products have more influence in their daily living than during any previous period of their history. Besides their monetary value the forests furnish immense recreational opportunities and exercise highly-beneficial effects on the flow of streams.

The start should be made in the schools and the message of "Protect our Heritage — our Forests" hammered home repeatedly at the adult population.

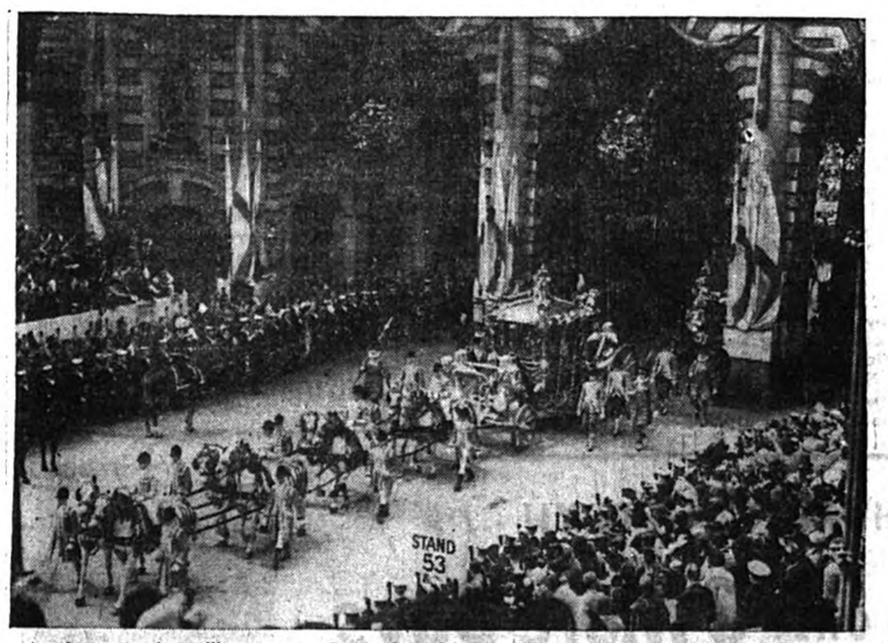

As one example of this, timber-rich New Brunswick is providing woodlots for regional high schools, allowing practical training in forest conservation. The woodlots are donated through the generosity of lumbermen and other interested persons. Similar projects in other provinces have emphasized the importance of the forests to Canada.

This importance is illustrated by the pulp and paper industry — just one of those using forest products. Total production in Canadian pulp and paper now is valued at $1,200,000,000.

MONTREAL – MAELSTROM AND MILLSTREAM

By GEOFF.

Why the Title?

Well, let's put it this way; why not? Webster tells us that a maelstrom is a whirlpool; a millstream is the waterway that feeds a mill. A whirlpool is a grotesque giant, ever alert to trap the unwary and spin them to their doom. A millstream, on the other hand, is a small body of water. Sometimes it rushes with great speed to run the mill. But, often, when the mill is idle, the millstream is quiescent, too.

The city of Montreal is very like these waters. To many, it is a dizzying giant with many a pitfall for the careless traveller. To other people at other times, the city travels with great speed and purpose toward a definite goal. And there are occasions, too, when Canada's metropolis becomes completely docile. The clatter of commerce ceases . . the night-owls wing their way to bed, and — if only for a fleeting moment — Montreal is at rest.

How better can I describe this city and its life? You tell me!

Tale With A Moral

I heard an amusing true story this week. Seems an unemployed type hereabouts applied to one of Canada's large insurance companies for a job. The employing officer looked the fellow over and decided he was just the man the company needed to train as a life insurance salesman.

"Come in tomorrow and write our adaptability tests", the staff man told the applicant. "Frankly, I'd like to have you start work right now. The Company's strict, though. Leaves nothing to chance, you know, and the test we give you is tops. After you write it, we'll know for sure whether salesmanship is your line."

Came the morrow and the jobseeker wrote the tests.

"Answer the questions carefully", the insurance joker commented, "but don't try to swing things your way. You just can't do it, old man. Test's fool-proof, ya' know."

The applicant wrote and, in due course, the test was completed and handed in. The employing fellow assessed it immediately and jubilantly informed the candidate of the results.

"Knew I was right", he crowed. "Spotted you for a natural insurance salesman right from the start. You've just gained the highest marks in this test of any applicant in years. You can start working here tomorrow!"

Tomorrow, however, never came. The ace prospect was snared by the men with white coats and butterfly nets as he left the insurance company's office.

And the moral of the story? It has many morals, I think. But it points up what a great many people have thought for a great many years, viz., that you've really got to be bug-house to sell life insurance!

The Rainmaker

There's always some sand on the floor of my car (in fact I'd feel lonesome without it), but when it gets over the tops of my shoes it's time to do something about it.

So once in a while I just roll up my sleeves on a day when it's windy and brisk, removing remains of last year's autumn leaves with the aid of a short-handled whisk. At last, having got the interior clean, I might as well wash the whole car. So out come the soapsuds, warm water and sponge, removing all tarnish and tar. I polish the chromium better than new, the windows both inside and out. No car in a showroom looks better than mine — it's clean beyond shadow of doubt. I put on good clothes and start on a trip when storm clouds appear in the East, and in a few minutes I'm driving in mud for two or three hours at least!

Some fellow out West makes a living, I hear, by causing some showers to fall. He's made a small fortune by making it rain. But me? I get nothing at all. Won't someone take pity and offer me dough for bringing wet weather around? I have my own system. I just wash my car. Then everything near me gets drowned!

The Weather Forecasters are usually right when they say what the weather's to be, Doc. Chase and his Almanac says: "Warm and Bright", or "Rainy" or "Stormy at Sea". But once in a while their predictions go wrong, while my way is better by far. I just make the weather stay fine right along by simply NOT washing my car!

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt.

What's Your Hurry?

By Lewis Milligan

Watching day by day the maple leaves unfolding from the buds, it occurred to me how slow and silent Nature works in the weaving of her summer garments on the looms of spring. Unlike man, Nature is never in a hurry and she never worries over her work. A tree is a fountain, a fountain of life springing up from the roots and spreading a shower of leaves and blossoms, transforming the dead winter world into a fairyland. The process is slow and imperceptible, as is the budding and blooming of a flower. If man had the making of a tree he would want to speed-up the process into an explosion, like the "mushroom" formed by the atomic bomb, the sight of which fills him with wonder and some pride at his ingenuity and power of swift and massive destruction.

Come to think of it, most of the worries, calamities, and tragedies of modern life are the result of hurry; the desire to get something or somewhere quickly, to save time and labor. Speed is the passport to pleasure, to success in domestic, social and political affairs. The craze for speed started with the Twentieth Century; it opened with a rush of motor traffic and all kinds of time-saving machinery, and the haste extended to mental ideas and processes. The Nineteenth Century was slow, but it was creative. The Twentieth Century inherited the creative ideas of the Nineteenth and has rapidly developed them and put them into effect, so far as mechanics and scientific discoveries are concerned.

The big initial effect was the First World War, which was the result of haste on the part of a machine-minded Germany to achieve a world empire to be ruled by her supermen. The British Empire was of slow growth over a period of 300 yeras. Its growth was so slow and imperceptible that the people of Britain were hardly aware that they had an empire until Kipling began to sing about it. Perhaps it had been better if Kipling had kept his mouth shut. His songs made Germany jealous and gave the Kaiser and his Prussian junker the idea of acquiring a ready-made empire at one fell-swoop. The swoop was fell all right for the Kaiser and his family, but the junker rose from the junk in the guise of Hitler with his hurry-up blitz plan for "a thousand years of world peace", with "Germany over all". Hitler finally blew out his brains beneath the debris and left Germany under all.

That should have been sufficient to show the insanity of attempting to dominate the world and achieve the millennium by force of arms; but Stalen withdrew behind an iron curtain and planned to do the same thing. He was not in quite the same burry as Hitler, but his purpose was the same. The Communists had achieved domination in Russia by revolution — a sudden and violent change of government. The success of that coup led them to believe they could extend their dominion and hasten the Maxian millennium by the prescribed "World Revolution". Stalin's method was one of guile and intimidation, backed by massive military might ready to strike at a suitable moment. But he was afraid of the atomic bomb, and he died of hypertension waiting for the suitable moment.

With Stalin good and dead, the new Soviet leaders appear to have been relieved of their tension, for the time being. It is to be hoped that they will enjoy a long period of relaxation and reflection, in which they might listen and hear the still, small voice of Nature saying: "What's your hurry?" We can all listen and learn from the slow processes of Nature in the recreation of life and beauty that is going on around us at this springtime. Revolutionists never created anything but enmity, hatred and chaos.

How You Can Buy Coal at Off-Season Cost Even If Low in Cash

Canadians from coast to coast find it economical and convenient to buy winter coal now — months ahead of the time they will need it in earnest. That way, they say, you avoid being caught off-base by an unseasonable drop in temperature, and you can take advantage of off-season prices. Furthermore, you can get it all at once and bone-dry to boot.

Of course, the good old summertime leaves many people short of funds. If that is your problem, call on Donald Hay, manager of the Lachute Bank of Montreal, and discuss a B of M Loan. Its cost is very low. It's convenient, too, because you repay by easy instalments that can stretch as far ahead as next April.

It's the B of M's business to lend you money, if it is good business for you to borrow. Remember, when you ask for a loan at the B of M, you do not ask a favor. If you are in a position to repay out of income without strain on your budget, the bank is glad to lend you money for any useful purpose.

To speed up loading and unloading hand baggage of trans-Atlantic passengers aboard the Canadian Pacific's Empress liners while in the port of Montreal, a baggage conveyor belt was put into operation in 1952.

Chamber Urges Coronation Decorating

Prizes for Attractive Decorating of Premises And for Boy and Girl Bicycle Festoons

"Industry and Commerce in Lachute"
Contributed by Lachute Chamber of Commerce

Business Problem

The Lachute Chamber of Commerce has always considered Industrial Expansion as one of the most important items on its program, and this has reference to those industries already established as well as the seeking of new ones. We have in our midst new ventures which have problems often quite difficult to solve, and where more public co-operation is needed.

One of these, which specializes in the making of garments, is presently short of workers and we understand that this firm could employ twice as many as it now has, with the greater part of the work being done in individual homes.

We desire to draw particular attention to this young establishment and request that any of our readers who are interested in this type of work, get in touch with the National Employment Office or with the secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce. From these sources they can procure all information on extra work, which will at the same time be rendering an appreciable service to one of our local industries.

Decorate for Coronation!

On Tuesday of next week, we will celebrate the Coronation of our gracious Queen Elizabeth II. This is a very special occasion and worthy of the highest celebration. A committee, comprising representatives of the principal organizations in Lachute, has been organized to draw up a suitable program.

The Chamber of Commerce is pleased to join in this celebration and requests that all its members and citizens decorate their dwellings, their places of business, and their cars. A substantial amount has been donated for prizes for the best decorations in the above mentioned classes, and there will be six special gifts for children (three for boys and three for girls) having the most attractive bicycles. It is desirable that decorating of establishments be done early and that decorations be left standing during the time of our Exhibition.

Visitors from Granby

On June 11, the Granby Chamber of Commerce is making a return visit to this community. Further details of this next week — and also another reason for leaving your decorations up after Coronation Day!

The volume will be on sale in different stores and at the office of the Chamber of Commerce.

Fine Address At Brownsburg Home and School

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — A general meeting of the Brownsburg Home and School Association was held in the school cafeteria last Wednesday evening. There was a good attendance of members.

The secretary, Miss E. Hanson, read the minutes of the last meetings, which were approved and passed. It was decided to hold an amateur night at the start of operations in the fall. The annual election of officers was also postponed till the September meeting, and a nominating committee to submit a slate at that time was appointed consisting of Andrew Forbes, Geo. Connolly and Mrs. R. Sugden, to work in co-operation with the corresponding secretary, M. V. Trayers.

Reports on the various activities of the provincial conference were read by the Association's delegates, Mrs. R. Graham and Miss E. Hanson. At the conclusion of the business session Mr. A. W. Lang, executive secretary of the Provincial Protestant School Boards Association, addressed the meeting, his topic being "The Old Order Changes — for Better or Worse?"

Mr. Lang dealt with the rise of Home and School organizations during the past 12 years, when from a small start the Federation in Quebec alone numbered several thousand people. At first people were dubious about the advent of an organization which might clash with teachers or school boards, and whose position in the order of things might not be co-operative in promoting harmony in the educational field. He had found during his eight years in contact with Home and School, as a school principal, that the organization's efforts were a direct benefit to the school, and a most helpful adjunct to both teachers and school boards. Now the dubious ones had been converted to the feeling that Home and School had a lot of merit and was a very useful instrument in educational progress. Home and School Associations are there to help, not to hinder; their purpose is not negative or harmful but a positive good, with the aim of co-operating with both teachers and boards and bringing a community prestige into the work of making education progressive and attractive.

Dr. Leacock defines the attitude of Home and School as not being designed to be a "ladies' aid to the principal". Its object is to devote its efforts to the school curriculum in the place you live, and bring parents and taxpayers into contact with school affairs, its needs and its successes. Any school area awake to the problems which beset schools today should have a virile, worthwhile Home and School Association in its civic activities. In Montreal, Home and School procured a lot of things that could not be got from or through school boards. A lot of constructive work has been done by the Federation. It is today a strong, powerful organization, growing remarkably, and it deserves to go ahead. It offers a ground or liaison between parents and teachers, and between either and the school board. This is an age of "conference and compromise"; no one can stand aloof, or on their dignity — in fact, no one's dignity is improved by standing on it (as Sir Winston Churchill aptly remarked).

The speaker was secretary to the Protestant School Boards Association, and as such knew of all the effort and work that had gone into representations to improve the positions of teachers throughout the province. They had worked out the deficits which might be incurred by coming up to the Montreal salary scale, if paid by outside boards. This data had been incorporated in a brief to Quebec, and very soon an effort would be made to get assistance for operating expenses. There is a limit to what the government can do. Extra generous grants can be had for schools, but when we consider what we pay for amusement, or liquor, or smoking, in Canada, and the small amount in proportion devoted to education, we should pause and think.

Some people say our schools are becoming too elaborate; but just think, are they any finer than our modern offices or factories? They are more important to the future of this country and it is time we tried to realize this fact. Our children deserve the best; and on that point, if some of them do not make the top grade, we need feel no shame. It is said, "God must be fond of the common people, He made so many of them"; so if your boy does not become Prime Minister, what matter so long as he has character and is a "good sport"? Let him get a job, do it honestly and well, do his best to build a clean strong body, and he will find favor in the sight of God. Nothing else matters.

At the conclusion of Mr. Lang's address a discussion period and social interval rounded out the evening's program.

Report on Home-School Conference in Montreal

In her report to the Brownsburg Home and School Association's monthly meeting, Mrs. Russell Graham, vice-president and delegate to the recent Home and School Conference at Montreal, had this to say:

We met the Principal in a new light at the Quebec Home and School Convention. We had not realized that as well as teaching and seeing that the school curriculum is followed the Principal also acts as a buffer or shock absorber between the Staff and School Boards, the Staff and Parents, the Staff itself. He has to teach the children not to lose anything. See that the children go home. Arrange all holidays, so that they fit in with all the activities of all the families. He must see that Mary doesn't sit in a draft, that Tommy and Jimmy don't fight. He must be prepared at a moment's notice to speak on any subject to any group. He must see to it that the parents do not have to look after the children except when they are asleep. Above all the Principal is human, very likely has a wife and family and would like to spend a few minutes a week with them.' Besides all this the Principal fills in enough reports to fill the world if anyone took the trouble to keep them.

A question period followed, very efficiently handled by a panel of six Principals.

For instance, is there a barrier between Teacher and Parent?

A small barrier may be a goood thing, familiarity often makes for some contempt. At a social gathering one does not ask a lawyer a legal question, nor does one discuss the state of his appendix with his surgeon, but some people do not hesitate to ask why Johnnie failed in his exam.

Another question dealt with Parent-Teacher interviews. If your child is doing well at school, do not ask for an interview, which would last for at least half an hour. This can mean so much to an already overworked teacher. If there are thirty-five pupils in a class and the teacher devotes half or an hour to half the parents twice a year, one can easily see how a teacher would not have the extra time to spend. For obvious reasons no teacher wishes to discuss a child on the telephone, and she wishes to have before her the permanent record, as no interview is complete without it.

Home study groups were given well earned prominence at the Convention. The importance of mental and physical health, our feelings towards ourselves, our feelings towards others, our feelings on the demands life makes on us. How do we react?

Child's Leisure Reading was also a very interesting and important subject; is your child a bookworm? Should parents read aloud to their children.

All in all, the sixth annual conference of the Quebec Federation of Home and School Associations was a revelation in the study of your child, in the home and community.

Tree Farm Dedicated

Ayersville (in which municipality the function took place), also addressed a few words to the gathering.

"The tree has always played a most important part in the life of man", said Mr. Tremblay. "Apart from its beautiful foliage, its shade, and the animals it protects — from its wood we get our building materials, fine carpentry work and even heating. From early time our trees have formed the coal which we use in such abundance, and today there are vast expanses of growth giving us many varieties of wood and bearing tasty fruit.

"In Canada our forests cover a space of 1,290,960 square miles, or approximately one-third of all Canadian soil. The United States has only 900,000 square miles of forests.

"Fires were the cause of our losing 400 million cubic feet of lumber in the year 1939, while parasites destroyed 700 million cubic feet; and so we must protect our forests or in time we will lose this great heritage. Let us learn by this demonstration today how important this new reforestation development is in Lachute, Argenteuil and our Quebec Province."

Life in A New World

"And the wolf shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them. And the cow and the bear shall feed; their young ones shall lie down together; and the lion shall eat straw like the ox. They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain; for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of Jehovah, as the waters cover the sea." Isaiah 11: 6, 7, 9.

This earth-covering "knowledge of Jehovah" will make possible the very best use of time — and think of the good works possible when renewed minds and bodies do not suffer the relentless inroads of degeneration inherited from Adam!

Parents and all interested in the security of the home and family will delight in the lofty moral standards of the new world. So high, in fact, are they that not the very best of this old world's living codes will prove good enough to survive under the new system of things. The original purpose for the first Edenic pair, never carried out, will be restated to pure-hearted survivors of this world's end, namely, "Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth." Happily, the populace of the new earth will experience the exultation of the psalmist who recorded: "Happy shalt thou be, and it shall be well with thee. Thy wife shall be as a fruitful vine, in the innermost parts of thy house; thy children like olive plants, round about thy table." (Psalm 128: 2, 3). Their off-spring will be reared in the "discipline and authoritative advice of Jehovah" and will maintain this righteous standard. (Ephesians 6: 4). Then, no mockeries of marriage; no immorality, divorce, nor any of the social ills now known.

For all persons in search of life it is vitally important to remember that the new society described will rest upon the psalmist's command:: "Let everything that hath breath praise Jehovah." (Psalm 150: 6). This first requires the life-giving knowledge of Jehovah' that is even now available Do not shrink before visions of straw-eating lions and lasting peace, thinking such too good to be true. It may be too good for the corrupt old world to deserve, but not too good from the hand of Jehovah God. "This means everlasting life", this knowledge; life in the matchless new world. How worthwhile, to reach out for it and gain the prize! How necessary to do so now!

Reports on Executive Meeting of Quebec Temperance League

The Rev. G. T. Spriggs, recently appointed Argenteuil regional vice-president of the Quebec Temperance League, reports that he attended the executive meeting of that group on Monday.

The secretary, Miss C. C. Sifton, stated she had received word from the Premier of Quebec Province that no liquor would be served at the new restaurants in the city parks; also that steps are being taken to reduce the number of liquor permits in the province; and that at the next session of Parliament it is hoped to introduce a new Liquor Law.

The Quebec Temperance League is inviting the Canadian Temperance Federation to hold its annual sessions in Montreal in December.

Some churches in the province are making grants to the League, provided by the annual church budget for expenses, and it is hoped this will be followed by others, so that Quebec Temperance League will have a more stable revenue.

There is cause for alarm in respect to a prominent Montreal college, whose students' bulletin states that the coming graduation class are to be provided with means to obtain liquor cocktails on the occasion of their graduation. The Quebec Temperance League is taking steps to prevent this development.

Local Couple in Pretty Ceremony at Lachute United Church

Warwick - Cunningham

In the Lachute United Church the marriage was solemnized on Saturday afternoon, May 23, at three o'clock, of Coreen Mavis, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh R. Cuningham, to Mr. Keith Marshall Warwick, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Warwick. The Rev. W. B. Rosborough performed the ceremony and Mrs. K. McOuat played the wedding music. Colored gladioli formed the decorations.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Mrs. Harold Warwick, as matron of honor, and Miss Betty-Ann Cunningham, her sister, and Miss Eleanor Warwick, sister of the groom, as bridesmaids. Mr. Harold Warwick was best man for his brother and the ushers were Mr. Robert A. Gordon, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Ronald Warwick, the groom's brother.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white Chantilly rose point lace over nylon taffeta, with long sleeves ending in points over the wrists, a heart shaped neckline and fan shaped insertion of tiny pleats from the waistline to the hem. A Juliet cap held in place her elbow-length veil of tulle illusion and she wore a single strand of pearls, the gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

The attendants were gowned in floor-length dresses of marquisette over taffeta, Juliet caps and matching mittens. The matron of honor wore ice blue and carried a nosegay of yellow carnations. The bridesmaids wore orchid with white carnations and yellow with blue carnations respectively.

Mrs. Cunningham, mother of the bride, wore a street-length dress of navy blue nylon crepe, navy and white accessories and white carnations at the corsage. The groom's mother was wearing a light blue nylon gown, navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church hall after which the happy couple left by motor for points in Ontario. Going away the bride wore a light blue English worsted suit, navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Warwick will take up residence in Lachute.

Vows Solemnized in Anglican Parish Church At Fredericton, N.B.

Shearsmith - Clark

Standards of pink and white snapdragons were arranged in St. Anne's Parish Church, Fredericton, N.B., for the marriage of Patricia Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark, to Gordon Victor Shearsmith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shearsmith, of Lachute, which took place at 10.30 o'clock on Thursday morning, May 14. The Rev. Canon A. S. Coster performed the ceremony and Mr. J. O. Manchip, church organist, played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Clark, of Toronto, as maid of honor, with Miss Winnie Hawkes as bridesmaid. Mr. Grant Riddell, of Lachute, acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Curwood Johnston, of Gatineau, Que., and Mr. Everett Boyle, of Gaspé, Que.

The bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace over white bridal satin, the anug bodice fashioned with a yoke of illusion, the long sleeves ending in points over the hands while the very full net skirt had panels of lace. Her fingertip-length veil of tulle illusion fell from a coronet of tulle and she carried a cascade bouquet of Sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley.

The maid of honor, in an apple green frock styled with the same lines as the bride's dress, wore a coronet of net. The bridesmaid was similarly dressed in shades of orchid, and both carried semi-cascade bouquets of Johanna Hill roses with stephanotis.

Mrs. Clark, mother of the bride, gowned in Periwinkle blue French crepe, wore a matching straw hat, mink furs and shoulder spray of Briarcliff roses. Mrs. Shearsmith, mother of the bridegroom, chose a gown of powder blue crepe with pink Baku straw hat, pink accessories and a shoulder spray of Perfection roses.

Following the reception at the home of the bride's parents, St. John Street, Fredericton, where spring flowers were arranged throughout the rooms, the bridal couple left on a wedding trip to New England States, before taking up residence in Three Rivers, Que. The bride travelled in a nylon dress topped with a velvet coat, a Milan straw hat, and a cluster of Talisman roses at her shoulder.

The bride graduated in Arts and the bridegroom in Forestry from the University of New Brunswick, class of 1953.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shearsmith, Mr. Jas. Campbell and Mr. Grant Riddell, all of Lachute, and Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Thomas, of Montreal.

Grenville Consolidated School News

— By Elva Fowler —

On May 24, the 1st Grenville Units of Guides, Brownies, Scouts and Cubs attended the United Church in Grenville. The group left the school and paraded along Main Street to the church. Each unit carrying a flag of its individual colors, made a colorful procession. The groups, one at a time, entered the church and presented their flags to the Rev. G. Case.

The hymns sung were, "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind", "Land of Our Birth" and "The Lord is My Shepherd". Four Scouts read the scripture lesson, Proverbs 29. The sermon by the Rev. Mr. Case was based on the text (Proverbs 29, v. 18), "Where there is no vision, the people perish" — affording an appropriate subject.

The same Grenville Units will attend the Annual Rally to be held at Lachute Exhibition Grounds on Saturday, May 30.

SPORTS AND JUVENILE ACTIVITIES

Graduation Dance At Arundel School

(Our District Correspondent)

Arundel — The Intermediate School activities were brought to a close with the graduation dance, held on Friday evening, May 23. The students, staff, former graduates and guests were received by Miss Patricia Deegan and Miss Joan Bennett. A white trellis, covered with lilacs and apple blossoms, formed the entrance to the hall, which had been transformed into a springtime garden. The tables, arranged in cabaret style, and the main decorations, tastefully featured the school colors — gold and green. The stage was effectively banked with small evergreen trees, apple blossoms and lilacs, surrounded by a small white picket fence.

Music for the evening was provided by a five-piece orchestra led by Frank Boyd. After the supper dance and refreshments, a farewell speech to the Grade X graduates was given by Miss Patricia Deegan, vice-president of the Students' Council.

Good Pitching

SPORTS CAMERA
By Gerry Lougheed,
Canada Press Staff Writer

It doesn't seem long since a strong-armed farm boy from Van Meter, Iowa, strode into major league baseball to make a fine mark in the record books.

Just to show you how time flies, that was 14 years ago. The man in question is Bob Feller, now 34 and still pitching for Cleveland Indians.

He has lost some of his effectiveness and his fast ball doesn't whizz toward the plate with its old-time speed. But he's in a very special class: the only major league pitched with a chance of reaching 300 victories in the next few seasons.

He now has 240-odd victories. That's more than any other big-leaguer still active.

If Feller can stick around to pick up about 60 more triumphs he will become the 13th pitcher to reach the 300 mark. The others in that category are an illustrious group.

Cy Young turned in 511 wins, tops in that department and a mark that probably will never be equalled. Walter Johnson, had 414 and Grover Cleveland Alexander and Christy Mathewson 373 each. The last one to attain the 300-mark was Lefty Grove who just made it, an even 300.

Stretch in Navy

Feller's four-year hitch in the U.S. Navy at the height of his career (1942-1945) hurt his chances of joining the select group.

Trim and still youthful-looking, Bobby won 24 games in 1939, 27 in 1940, 26 in 1946, 20 in 1947, 22 in 1951 but slumped to nine last year. Over that period he has pitched three no-hit games.

The only others to hurl that many no-hitters in the majors were Larry Corcoran, the old Chicago Nationals ace who did it in 1880-82-84, and Cy Young who clicked in 1897, 1904, and 1908.

Nobody has ever racked up four in the big time. That's Feller's main objective. He says:

"I figure it's the one important all-time record that's still within my reach. Sure, I'd like to win a World Series game, since I never have. And I wish I could have won 300 games, but now I'm afraid there's not much hope of that."

Feller hopes to keep pitching until 1956 which would give him a 20-year span in baseball, not counting his years in the navy.

"I'm not complaining, because I got out of the service in good shape and was mighty lucky. But I figure I left 100 victories and 1,000 strikeouts there."

In the past several years observers have counted Feller out several times and figured he was through. Each time he has bounced back. Don't bet he won't do it again.

A seven-storey office building adjoining Windsor Station on the site of the St. Antoine St. yard is now being constructed and will house all branches of the C.P.R.'s accounting department.

SPORTS AND ACTIVITIES AT LACH. HIGH SCHOOL

By Anne Dwyer

Biology Awards

Two beautiful Mark Trail "Conservation" cartoons were anonymously presented to the Grade XI biology class several weeks ago. In order to decide who the winners would be, Mr. R. Wyse, biology instructor at Lachute High School, held a test Wednesday, May 20, on "Conservation of Biological Resources". The successful candidates were Wayne Riddell for the boys, and Anne Dwyer for the girls.

Softball

On Wednesday, May 20, following the school sessions, Brownsburg softball team visited Lachute. The score see-sawed throughout the game. With unexpected luck the Brownsburg team made five points in the last inning, coming ahead with a score of 8-5.

Both teams were on their toes during the first inning. An excellent catch by Glen Copeland ruined the chance of a possible home run by Jacques Leveillé of Brownsburg.

Brownsburg made the first two points in the second inning. Brent Steele came in on a home run by Keith Hazel. Bob Tomalty, also of Brownsburg, was determined not to let Bob Warwick of Lachute run home. He caught the fast ball batted out by Warwick.

In the third inning only four Brownsburg men got to bat. A difficult catch by Stanley Alexander sent Jacques Leveillé out. Brent Steele managed to make it to second base. Keith Hazel tried for a second home run but Bob Warwick caught the ball. Jack McMartin practically picked the ball off the ground sent out by Melvin Tomalty. In the bottom half of the third inning John Rodger, Jim Murdoch and Stanley Alexander all came home, pulling Lachute ahead with a score of 3-2.

In the fourth, Bob Warwick first got to second base, and then in, making the score 4-2. There was no scoring in the fifth inning.

Keith Hazel again scored a point for Brownsburg in the sixth. During this inning Tom Goldthorpe was substituting for Franklyn Jackson. Reggie Mason made a spectacular home run for Lachute, practically sending the ball to the fence. This made the score 5-3 for Lachute.

In the last inning Bob Tomalty, Jacques Leveillé, Brent Steele, Carl Gagné and Gardner all came in for Brownsburg. No points for Lachute, changed the score to 8-5 for Brownsburg.

Pitchers in the game were Bill Cribb for Lachute and Carl Gagné for Brownsburg. The catchers were Stanley Alexander and Chas. Moseley, of Lachute and Brownsburg, respectively.

This softball game was umpired by Mr. S. McKyes, music supervisor of Lachute High School.

Bourbeau has dropped to sixth place. Hardy has gained 219 votes this week bringing him up to first place. In fact, a lot of changes have taken place up until last Sunday. Here are the Players of Distinction as at May 23:

1—Walter Hardy — 319 votes (previously 4th in the standing).
2—Pete Taillefer — 278 ( previously 3rd).
3—Jerry Cotnoir — 221 (previously 2nd).
4—Claude (Tiger) Groulx — 200 (previously 5th).
5—Len Pearson — 196 ( previously 9th).
6—Claude Bourbeau — 160 (previously 1st).
7—Eddie Yeager — 117 (previously 7th).
8—Paul Goulet — 105 (previously 5th).
9—Bud Kimball — 99 (previously 10).
10—B. Bouchard — 70 (previously 8th).
11—Guy Potvin — 41 (previously 11th).
12—André Petit — 20 (previously 12th).

Almost 100 votes between the three first favorites; but the season is young yet, so vote for the best one at every game.

New Players

Ted Vachon, business manager for the Tigers, has announced that Jim Tyler, an AA experienced pitcher with Medicine Hat Baseball Club, will arrive by plane Monday and should be ready for action in the very near future.

Baseball Oddities

A baseball game was stopped on account of the sun — strange but true. It happened last June at Bethel, Conn. The Abbott Tech and Woodbury teams were 9 to 9 in the ninth inning, when the referee stopped the game — the sun being so strong that the glare blinded the players at bat.

In a double-header in the Virginia League in 1951, Outfielder Doug Clark scored a run for Emporia vs. Franklin, and in the 2nd game he scored the winning run for Franklin. Due to the fact that he was sold to Franklin during the first game, making him eligible for the second one.

Anything can happen in baseball — and usually does!

Weak Spot

Last week I spoke of a weak spot in right field, but since then, under the good guidance of Coach Len Pearson, Potvin is coming to life. Saturday at St. Eustache he went for three good hits; and here last Sunday, his first time at bat was good for a safety.

Attendance

A good crowd was at the Stadium Sunday, but it could have been a lot better. The weather was fine and at the seventh inning a Halsa watch, donated by J. U. Nadon, Main Street jeweller, was won; also, as second prize, a barbeque lunch for four persons, donated by Paul Desnoyers of "Miss Lachute".

With warmer weather let's hope to see all Lachute at the Stadium!

Golf President Tops Champ Julius Boros

Two local golfers, Gilbert Ayers, Lachute Golf and Country Club president, and Joe Joy, of the Seigniory Club, Montebello, can claim that they beat the U.S. Open Champion, Julius Boros, during the National Golf Day tournament on Saturday. All in all, 418 Canadians beat Boros' score of 70 at the Oakmount Country Club in Pittsburg.

Boros starred in the Lachute Open last July.

Mr. Ayers posted a gross score of 86, which netted him a 69, one stroke better than the U.S. Open Champion.

CORONATION EDITION

Symbol Saves Traditional Glove Ceremony From Extinction

London (Reuters)—The Queen's decision to accept a symbolic embroidered glove from a "stand-in" has saved a centuries-old Coronation tradition from extinction.

The 400-year-old custom of bestowing the glove on the monarch appeared doomed when officials ruled last year that an incorporated company could not take over the role from the lord of an ancient manor.

Ever since the time of Henry VIII the Coronation ceremony has included the bestowal of the glove by the current lord of the manor of Worksop in central England. Henry claimed the glove in return for granting the manor lands to the first lord.

But the present incumbent, the Duke of Newcastle, joined the ancient manor with other lands and turned them into a corporation. The Duke himself has moved to Southern Rhodesia.

Officials of the court of claims ruled that the corporation could not perform the function in the duke's place.

Solution of the problem came when Lord Woolton, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, was named April 22 to make the presentation. Lord Woolton's duties as chancellor are largely honorary, but his job makes him available for special duties that cannot be properly assigned to other notables.

Lord Woolton will not perform the whole of the traditional glove ceremony. That part which requires the bestower of the glove to support the monarch's right arm which she holds the royal sceptre is being discontinued.

And the arms of the lord of the manor of Workshop will not appear on the white silk glove. They are being replaced with the embroidered royal cipher "ER II".

Queen Approves Coronation Medal

Many Canadians to Get Memento

London (CP) — The Queen recently approved a silver Coronation Medal, her personal souvenir of the Coronation.

Individuals selected for the traditional medal in the United Kingdom will receive it shortly after the Coronation. The medals will be shipped in bulk to the Commonwealth countries for dispersal to persons chosen by arrangement with the individual governments and at a time to be settled in each country.

Number of medals to be struck was not disclosed. There were 90,000 struck for the 1937 Coronation, of which 10,000 went to Canada. The Sovereign allocated 2,000 to each of the services of the United Kingdom.

The 1¼-inch-wide medal bears an effigy of the Queen, crowned and robed, on the front. The other side bears the Royal Cipher, E II R, surmounted by the crown, and the inscription "Queen Elizabeth II, Crowned 2nd June, 1953". It will be suspended from a 1¼-inch-wide ribbon, dark red with narrow white strips at the edges and two narrow dark blue strips near the middle.

It must be worn on all occasions when decorations or medals are worn, affixed to the left breast. In precedence, it follows War Medals, Jubilee and previous Coronation Medals but precedes Efficiency and Long Service Medals.

No individual member of the public can apply for it, it was emprasized.

Some probable Canadian recipients are troops and other personnel taking part in the Coronation procession, as well as prominent citizens.

EVERY DETAIL OF STATELY RITUAL HAS ITS OWN SPECIAL SIGNIFICANCE IN COLORFUL CORONATION RITES

No ceremony in the world is so colorful, so complex and so impressive as the crowning of an English Sovereign. The sense of occasion inspired by the presence of the most distinguished people in the world; the majesty of Westminster Abbey itself, its grey stones steeped in the history of centuries; the brilliant robes and uniforms; tiaras, medals and orders scintillating in the mellow light . . . the stately ritual, the prayers, the music and singing . . it is symphony in sight and sound.

But it is, of course, very much more than that. It is a service of dedication, evolved over a thousand years. It is rich in symbolism—meanings conveyed by signs, gestures, rituals and objects. And there are innumerable survivals from the ceremonies of long ago.

Queen "Recognized"

One of the oldest is probably the ceremony of "recognition", a direct survival of the old custom, in Anglo-Saxon times, of the election of kings by the bishops and people. As the royal procession moves up the Church and the national anthem is played, the Queen reaches a raised dais between the high altar and the choir. The Archbishop of Canterbury moves, together with the Lord Chancellor, Lord Great Chamberlain, Lord High Constable and the Earl Marshal, to first one side of the stage and then another, so that the waiting throng are addressed from every direction. Then he makes his declaration and appeal:

"Sirs, I here present unto you Queen Elizabeth, the undoubted Queen of this Realm: Wherefore, all you who are come this day to do your hommage and service, are you willing to do the same?"

Dramatic Moment

While these words are spoken, the Queen stands by the chair and, turning shows herself to the congregation, in all four directions. This is a dramatic moment, and one that seldom fails to bring a lump to the throat of a visiting spectator, for the concourse signify their approval with the fervent cry of GOD SAVE THE QUEEN!

The cheers ring out, the trumpets blare, and we are taken back over fifteen hundred years, when kings were elected by the spoken votes of their people.

Now the real ceremony of Coronation begins, for when the bishops and choir have sung the Litany, Holy Communion is celebrated.

Solemn Oath

The Coronation Oath, which is next administered, has changed in wording over the centuries. In its earliest form the king has three main duties; to maintain the peace of the Church, and civil peace, to prevent wrong-doing and to uphold justice with mercy. "Their office", wrote Professor Trevelyan, "was sacrosanct, a commission from God, not to do their own pleasure but to enforce the law, by and through which they reigned."

In the past there has been dispute as to whether the oath bound the king to accept future parliamentary legislation. Charles the First was disabused by losing his head, James the Second, who wanted to make laws as well as uphold them, was driven from his throne by the revolution of 1688. When William and Mary were welcomed by parliament as joint sovereigns, a new oath was worded, and except for minor changes has remained substantially the same ever since.

Amendments Necessary

The Union with Scotland, the Disestablishment of the Church of Ireland and the changing constitutional status of the member countries of the Commonwealth have, of course, necessitated amendments. Because of constitutional changes which have taken place since the Coronation of King George VI, some alterations will probably have to be made in the wording of the oath taken by the new Queen. If the oath follows the form observed at the last Coronation, the Archbishop of Canterbury will demand of the Queen:

Archbishop: Will you solemnly promise and swear to govern the peoples of Great Britain, Ireland, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and the Union of South Africa . . . according to their respective laws and customs?

The Queen: I solemnly promise so to do.

Archbishop: Will you to your power cause Law and Justice, in Mercy, to be executed in all your judgments?

The Queen: I will.

She next promises to maintain the "Protestant Reformed Religion" established by law and preserve the settlement of the Church of England. Next follows the most solemn moment of the Coronation Service — the anointing. The choir sings the hymn "Veni, Creator Spiritus", after which the Archbishop, in a prayer will say:

"O Lord, Holy Father, who by anointing with oil didst of old make and consecrate kings, priests and prophets . . Bless and santify thy chosen servant ELIZABETH, who by our office and ministry is now to be anointed with this Oil, and consecrated Queen of this Realm."

Anointing Ceremony

The Queen will discard her outer robes and seat herself in the ancient Coronation Chair, containing the Stone of Scone, on which kings were crowned over eight hundred years ago. The chair itself was finished in 1301, and has been used continually ever since. The holy Oil is poured into a silver-gilt spoon from the ampulla, a gold vessel shaped like an eagle, and the Queen will be anointed on the head, the breast and the palms of both hands by the Archbishop. "As Solomon was anointed king by Zadok . . so be you anointed, blessed and consecrated Queen over this people . . . "

The significance of these words is that by the ceremony of aointing, evidence was given of the Divine selection of the Kings of Israel; similarly, the sovereigns of Britain are blessed to their responsibility.

Symbolic of Power

Now come the emblems of temporal power. The golden spurs, emblems of chivalry, are removed from the altar by the Dean of Westminster and handed to the Lord Chamberlain, who touches Her Majesty's heels with them. The magnificent State Sword, made for £6,000 for the Coronation of George IV in 1821, is handed to the Queen by the Archbishop with the admonition to " . . . do justice, stop growth of iniquity, protect the holy Church of God, help and defend widows and orphans . . " At the head of the hilt is a huge diamond hedged in with rubies. The rest is heavily encrusted with diamonds, while the scabbard is pure gold.

This sword is girt about a king, but will be placed in the Queen's right hand. It is heavy, and will later be "redeemed" for 100 shillings after the Queen has placed it herself on the alter. (The point here is that at the moment of handing over to the sovereign the sword becomes the property of the Church, but is later recovered by the Keeper of the Jewel House from the Archbishop).

Regal Emblems

The emblems of regality follow; the beautiful Imperial Robe in rich cloth-of-gold, embroidered in purple silk enriched with coronets, eagles, Tudor roses and other emblems. Its shape is meant to symbolise the four courners of the world. The Royal Orb, a globe of solid gold six inches in diameter, surmounted by a diamond cross set in a large amethyst, is next handed to the Queen.

"And when you see this Orb set under the Cross", the Archbishop says, "remember that the whole world is subject to the Power and Empire of Christ our Redeemer."

It is the symbol of the Faith she has sworn to defend.

The ring is next placed on the third finger of the Queen's right hand. This is "the ensign of Queenly dignity, and of defence of the Catholic Faith". The sceptres, one with a cross and another with a dove, follow.

Long-Awaited Moment

Now comes the moment for which the world has waited. The putting on of the Crown. It is not the most important feature of the Coronation, which is primarily a religious ceremony with the anointing as its most solemn moment. But the crowning is a climax. The placing of St. Edward's Crown on the Queen's head is the signal for tremendous cheering. The grey stones of the Abbey will echo to the simple but inspiring words: GOD SAVE THE QUEEN! The peers don their coronets, the trumpets sound, and at the Tower of London, the ancient cannon boom their salute.

The Queen will then receive from the Archbishop the Bible, Chalice and Paten. Of the Bible, he will tell her that " . . it is the most valuable thing that this world affords. Here is wisdom; this is the Royal Law". The Chalice and Patten, of pure gold, are the communion cup and plate used for Holy Communion.

The Coronation ceremony will be over. Princes and peers will pay homage. The stately procession will line up and leave, and a hush of expectancy will spread through the crowded streets outside, where the Queen's loyal subjects await to pay their own personal tribute to a young and lovely sovereign.

The Crowns of England

The Crown of England

St. Edward's Crown, copied in the time of Charles II from the ancient Crown worn by Edward the Confessor, is the Crown of England and is the Crown with which all our Monarchs since that time have been crowned.

The Imperial State Crown

After the Coronation Ceremony the Imperial State Crown is worn by the Reigning Monarch on all State occasions such as the Opening of Parliament. The existing Crown was made for Queen Victoria in 1838 and embodies many historical gems, the Black Prince's ruby, sapphire from the ring of Edward the Confessor, Queen Elizabeth's earrings and many other ancient gems. In front is the Second Star of Africa, weighing 309½ carats, cut from the great Cullinan Diamond. In all the crown contains 2,783 diamonds, 277 pearls, 17 sapphires, 11 emeralds and five rubies.

Warriors Will Escort The Queen On Entry Into Westminster Abbey

By Peter Wildeblood (London Daily Mail)

The men who led Britain's fighting forces in the war have been chosen to walk beside the Queen when she enters Wstminster Abbey on Coronation Day.

In January the Earl Marshal announced the names of those who have been chosen for the Queen's Procession — names which were made famous on the battlefields of Burma, of France, of the Western Desert, in the air, and at sea.

The chief honor, of walking in front of the Queen carrying the St. Edward's Crown, has been given to Admiral of the Fleet Viscount Cunningham, war-time Commander-in-Chief Mediterranean and First Sea Lord. His appointment as Lord High Steward is made for Coronation Day alone.

Field-Marshal Viscout Montgomery of Alemein will carry the Royal Standard. The Sceptre with the Cross, which contains one of the largest diamonds in the world, will be borne by Marshal of the R.A.F. Viscount Portal, who was head of Bomber Command and Chief of the Air Staff during the war.

The office of Lord High Constable of England, which was carried out at three successive Coronations by the great Duke of Wellington, has been given to Field - Marshal Viscount Alanbrooke, the war-time Chief of the Imperial General Staff. He will walk in the procession beside the Earl Marshal, the Duke of Norfolk.

The Standard of Ireland

The Orb, a golden globe surmounted by a jewelled cross, will be carried into the Abbey by Field-Marshal Earl Alexander of Tunis, Mediterranean Supreme Commander at the end of the war.

Others in the procession who have given distinguished service to their country are Lord De L'Isle and Dudley, V.C. — who will carry the Standard of Ireland — and three holders of the Military Cross: the Earl of Derby, carrying the Standard of England. Viscount Allendale, and Earl Fortescue, who as Knights of the Garter will hold the golden canopy over the Queen during the Anointing ceremony.

The Union Standard will be borne in the procession by Captain J. L. M. Dymoke, whose ancestors have taken part in Coronations since the 14th century. Up to the Coronation of George IV the head of the Dymoke family acted as King's Champion.

He had the right to appear, fully armed and on horseback, at the banquet after the Coronation and challenge to mortal combat anyone who dared to gainsay the Sovereign's right to the Crown. This picturesque custom was afterwards abandoned, together with the banquet, and the Dymokes have since then been given a less colorful part in the celebrations.

Another hereditary right to take part in the procession is that of Discount Dudhope, who will bear the Standard of Scotland as his forebears, the Scrymogeour — Wedderburns — the first name means "a good fighter" — have done for generations.

Began With King Charles I

These men, with other representatives of the Church, the nobility, and the Orders of Chivalry, will be by the Queen's side when she enters by the West Door of the Abbey while the choir sings the 122nd Psalm, as they have since the Coronation of Charles I: "I was glad when they said unto me, We will go into the House of the Lord."

And, when the ceremony is finished, they will escort their Queen, now wearing the glittering Imperial Crown and carrying a sceptre in each hand, out into the bell-loud streets where her people are waiting to greet Elizabeth the Second.

TWO FLAGS NOW

Beamsville, Ont. (CP) — The flag stolen from the village hall here by pranksters last month was found by three youths in a ravine nearby. Meantime the flag has been replaced, so now the hall has two flags ready for the Coronation celebrations.

Quebec Parks Job Is Family Affair

Chief's Grandfather Started First Hothouse in 1891

Quebec (CP) — Paul Emile Lamonde, 42-year-old Quebec City superintendent of parks, figures he was born into his job. His grandfather, Edouard Morency, took charge of the municipal hothouse when it was first built in 1891.

"It wasn't as big as it is today", he said.

"My father sort of married into the business.He joined my grandfather in 1926 and worked with all these flowers until he died in 1948.

"I can remember coming here as a boy and watching the men transplant a large rubber plant said to flower only once in a hundred years. "The plant's about 50 years old now. Maybe my son, Daniel, will see that one day if he decides to make it a four-generation affair."

Lamonde knows his business by heart. He can tell a visitor just what plants he has and where they are.

Thousands of Plants

"We have 15,000 potted plants and 24,000 other new ones now in hot-beds.There are more than a hundred varieties from Orange and lemon trees to lilies and snapdragons", he said.

In summer some 7,000 plants decorate the ground around the city hall and the remaineder are planted in the city's 26 parks. "The palms" he said, "are kept for decoration purposes. They were used when the president of France came here and when Cardinal Leger spoke to a large gathering."

Lamond's job also includes caring for about 3,500 trees and more than 1,146,000 square feet of grass throughout the city.

He has a pet spaniel too. She follows him everywhere he goes about his work, summer or winter.

"Her name's Riette", he said. "She was dad's pet spaniel. She's over 14 now but the night watchman finds her good company, so I guess we'll keep her for awhile."

At the time of the 1951 census there were 652,776 Canadians of age 70 and over eligible for the universal old age pension.

Canned Pork

The modern homemaker includes canned meats in her weekly shopping list because she knows they are of good quality and are easy to use. Today there is a wide variety of such meats, each one giving good eating satisfaction. Homemakers are all interested in saving pennies and one way that they can really economize is to buy canned pork luncheon meat. There is plenty on the grocer's shelves now and it is very reasonable in price. The prices vary slightly in different areas but all brands are packed in 12-ounce cans so it is easy to figure the low price per serving. This canned meat is made from top quality pork.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, want to stress that this economy meat may be included often in menus. Canned meat is becoming a favorite with so many homemakers because they realize that there is not just one best meat for one purpose but there are usually several that can be used with equal success. Because of the changes in supply and demand, one meat may be the best buy one day and the next day another meat may wear a lower price tag. Today the economy meat is canned pork luncheon meat.

Canned pork luncheon meat can be served in a great number of ways but all of them are quick to prepare and none take long cooking. One way which people really enjoy luncheon meat is baked. To bake it, place a whole can or two on a shallow pan, score the meat lightly and heat in a 325°F. oven. The home economists say to "heat" rather than to "bake" because after all the luncheon meat is already cooked and it only needs to be heated. The meat may be glazed with a mixture of equal parts of money and brown sugar mixed to a paste with flour and dry mustard or it may be glazed with fruit juices or even jellies such as grape and red currants. This delicious hot loaf may be served for dinner with garden fresh vegetables, or it may be served cold with pickled beets or a jellied salad.

Pork luncheon meat may also be pan fried or broiled. To either pan fry or broil, it takes only five minutes to cook the slices. Prepared this way they are very good served with scrambled or fried eggs.

For the homemaker who wants simplicity to keynote her meals, main-dish casseroles are the thing to serve. Most casserole dishes are quick to prepare and can be made ahead of time. This makes them ideal to serve on days when everything is rushed and time is precious. Another important point in favor of serving casserole dishes is that there is only one dish to wash, not two or three pots and pans.

This canned pork luncheon meat is one canned meat that lends itself perfectly to being used in many combinations. For instance, macaroni or noodles and canned pork luncheon meat go well together. One such casserole which is really good has a layer of cooked noodles, the broad ones, as the bottom layer, then a layer of diced pork luncheon meat and the mixture is topped with either a cream sauce or a mushroom soup sauce. A little diced green pepper, a few sliced olives, and some chopped nuts mixed in with the sauce gives added flavor to the casserole.

Every family enjoys ham and scalloped potatoes. Pork luncheon meat is an excellent and economical substitute for ham in this dish and it will be a welcome change. Any homemaker can develop a great variety of casserole dishes by using a little ingenuity and by watching the papers constantly to see what are the economical buys. Today canned pork luncheon meat is one of them.

Picnic Food

Here is a tip on how to keep a small quantity of food cool on a picnic, as recommended by Poultry Products Institute of Canada Inc. Freeze two or three unopened cans of tomato or fruit juice in the freezing compartment of a mechanical refrigerator. Wrap in waxed paper or place in small refrigerator bags. This is to protect the food, you pack around the cans, from getting wet with the moisture which condenses on the cans. Place the cans in picnic hamper or box lined with several layers of newspaper. Arrange the parcels of food around the cans. Cover with more newspaper and close container. If the food is well-chilled before packing, this arrangement will keep it cool for three or four hours or maybe more. When it is time to serve the tomato or fruit juice it will be thawed and delightfully cool. This is a good method to follow when cold meat or roast poultry or other perishable foods are in the picnic hamper.

Garden Topics Prominent in W. Inst. Branch Meetings for Month of May

Lachute Women's Institute had an attendance of 20 for the May meeting. The roll-call was answered by naming a favorite flower. Various business projects were discussed. Material was collected to make scrapbooks for the Country Women's World Conference in August.

Brownsburg had 37 members present. The Agriculture convener, Mrs. H. Zimmer, read a paper on "The Age of Trees". The entertainment was in the form of an amateur hour staged by some of the members, and a number of ladies attended in attire of the gay nineties, causing many laughs. There were 16 visitors present. It was arranged to cater for the school graduation banquet, also for the Scout and Guide Rally in Lachute on May 23. This branch is continuing to send food parcels overseas.

Upper Lachute - East End enjoyed a demonstration on sandwich making, given by Miss Janet McOuat.

Pioneer branch had 15 members present. It was planned to make scrapbooks for visitors to the A.C.W.W. Conference. A greeting card was received from Coventry, England. The members had an exchange of plants and flower slips. An interesting talk on bulbs and shrubs was given by Mr. Merlin Evans, of Lachute. The sum of $10 was voted for the Cancer Society.

Frontier heard an Agriculture paper entitled, "How to make two blades of grass grow where only one grew before", and enjoyed a contest in the agricultural vien, involving jumbled letters and names of fruit and vegetables. The members discussed a project to make scrapbooks for A.C.W.W. convention, in August. The sum of $10 was voted towards the School Fair.

Jerusalem - Bethany branch reports 18 members present to answer the roll-call with "A benefit derived from our local Health Unit." Mr. Ernest Emmett, health inspector, gave a talk on "Contamination of Wells".

Lakefield had nine members present, and the roll-call was "A home cure that Grandma used". A letter was read from the County president. Another letter acknowledged fruit sent to a sick member. Guest speaker was the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh. A poem was read by Mrs. Baugh on "My husband's idea of W.I." A contest was held and plans made for the County convention.

At Arundel, 22 members attended the May meeting. Mrs. Arthur Scott, convener of Citizenship, had as guest speaker Mrs. Sosnkowski, who spoke on her experience coming from Europe to Canada. Members brought in snapshots as the roll-call — these to be used in scrapbooks to be given to A.C.W.W. delegates. Garden seeds were given out to school children by W.I. members. A parcel was received from Mrs. Robinson, in England, containing fancy articles for a bazaar. A letter was also received acknowledging a food parcel sent overseas recently.

"There are no more seasons in cooking," remarked the chef. "For example, with frozen vegetables and fruits, we can have green peas and fresh strawberries the year round."

"And it's smart not only to serve turkey on holidays, but any time." I added. "And as sensible to use mincemeat in May as to wear a velvet hat in July."

New Pie-Cakes

"With the hat part I must confess I do not agree, madam. As to the mincemeat, oui—delicatement, as a filling for sponge rolls instead of jam, or stirred into old-fashioned rice pudding to make it more substantial. And it is perfect when used in making your new pie-cakes, madam. I think the ladies should learn about them."

The chef cleared his throat. "Mesdames: The pie-cakes of Madame Allen are newcomers to the pastry field, and are called pie-cakes because they are like a combination of pie and cake—two square layers of sweet cookie pastry, put together with a thickened filling of fruit, a cooked cream or mincemeat."

Main Course Casserole

Melt 2 tbsp. fat in a skillet. In it brown 1 lb. chopped beef and 1 chopped peeled onion. Season with 1 tsp. salt and ½ tsp. monosodium glutamate. Stir in 1 can tomato sauce and 1 c. water with 1 tsp. beef extract or 1 bouillon cube. Add 1 c. thin-sliced carrots and 2½ c. cooked fresh or canned green beans. Transfer to a well-oiled casserole; bake about 15 min. in a hot oven, 450 deg. F. Then top with hot plain or cornmeal baking powder biscuits, and bake 15 min. longer, or until well-browned.

Mince Pie-Cake

Pie-Cake Pastry: Into a bowl sift 2 c. enriched flour, ½ c. powdered sugar and ½ tsp. salt. Heap up and make a well in the centre. Drop in 2 egg yolks, the grated rind ½ lemon and ¾ c. shortening. Mix with a pastry blender until the mixture looks like bran flakes. Gradually add 6 tbsp. cold water. Roll to ¼-in. thickness.

Bake pie-cake pastry in layers in two 8-in. square or round cake pans. Cool, and put together with 1½ c. canned mincemeat thickened with 1 tbsp. cornstarch blended with 1 tbsp. fruit juice and simmered until thick. Serve within 2 hrs., a little powdered sugar sifted over the top.

Trick of the Chef

Devilled Egg Balls

(for Salad Garnish or Sandwich Filling)

From the Test Kitchen of Poultry Products Institute of Canada comes the following suggestion for dressing up salads:

4 Hard-cooked eggs (peeled and chopped), 1½ teaspoons sliced green onion tops, or ½ teaspoon grated onion, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon prepared mustard, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, grated cheese.

Mix all ingredients together except cheese. Form into 8 balls. Roll in grated cheese. Use as garnish for salads. This mixture makes a good sandwich filling also. Sprinkle filling of each sandwich with grated cheese. Enough for about 8 sandwiches.

Washington Pie

Here's what Dad always called a "Washington Pie!" Have your husband pick up a plain round uriced sponge cake at your favorite bakery. Split the cake horizontally and fill with fresh frozen fruit or home-made preserves. Cut the "pie" in wedges and place each wedge on its side. Choice of toppings include more of the fruit; freshly whipped cream; or spoonsful of 'made-ahead' thick custard sauce. It's really good!

Summer Souvenirs

The good-looking gal pictured above is Pat Patterson, your genial hostess on "Souvenir of Sometime", heard on the CBC's Dominion network every Sunday. She paints pleasant word pictures of experiences shared by most Canadians during the summer months. Holidays, travel, gardening and the like are brought to mind. These souvenirs set a leisurely pace for the songs of Joyce Sullivan and instrumental stylings of violinist Jack Groob and his orchestra. Folk-songs, light classics, and Latin-American music blend into a sunset of sound — an appropriate setting for summer relaxation.

Hostels Provide Cheap Vacations

Toronto (CP) — One way to have a good cheap holiday is provided by the Canadian Youth Hostels Association.

Tourists can see much of Canada, from the Rockies to eastern Quebec towns and New England, and anywhere in Europe where they can live for less than $50 a month. And the $50 includes occasional train fares and theatre tickets.

There is a group of hostels around Toronto and a chain of four from Barrie to Algonquin Park. Additions are planned so that the chain will streteh from Niagara Falls to the Park.

Young travellers, with nothing more than a three-speed bicycle and association membership, can stay overnight at hostels, which are generally farm homes, for 50 cents. They cook their own meals and bring their own sheets. Bunks, blankets and mattresses are provided.

In the Rockies, there are 10 hostels from Jasper to Banff. The association sponsors two-week group trips from Ontario, including one in July which takes in the Calgary Stampede, for $157.

There are other group trips in Ontario, Quebec and New England and a 9½ week tour of Britain and Europe, costing $600.

Hostellers are expected to do a certain amount of work in the places in which they stay, helping to keep them in good condition. Last year, the CYHA had more than 800 members, most of them in the Toronto area. There is no age limit for membership.

Topics for Conference Of Assoc. Country Women

Topics connected with the coming Toronto conference of the Associated Country Women of the World, August 12-23, were discussed at a recent meeting of the ACWW Executive Committee. A report of this meeting has just reached the office of the Quebec Women's Institutes from London, which states great interest was taken in the plans for tours that are being arranged in this country after the conference, which will take various groups to all provinces of Canada, with the exception of Newfoundland. Delegates will be guests of farm women in their homes en route.

The report goes on to say, "One of the round table discussions at the conference will deal with the problems of women in the less developed countries and we hope that as well as representatives of our own societies we shall have observers from Egypt, Lebanon, Syria, Indo-China, Thailand and the Philippines. Through this round table discussion we should get a much clearer idea of the needs and aims of the women in these countries, which may well prove to be of great benefit to all of us, and must certainly lead to better understanding."

PATIENT GUIDANCE HELPS DEFECTIVE SPEECH, HEARING

Calgary (CP) — A room at James Short School is probably the only classroom in Calgary where the students can stick out their tongues at the teacher and get away with it.

The gesture is part of the class daily routine. The teacher, Mrs. Annie Clarke, takes no offence. It was she who started the idea.

Mrs. Clarke and her 17 pupils comprise the speech and hard-of-hearing class, operated to accommodate children suffering from these defects.

To get back to the tongues — sticking them out at teacher is just an exercise to help overcome speech defects and help the children talk normally.

The class, covering grades I to VI, has the same courses of studies as other children but more is added to the conventional three R's.

Lip-reading is one of the major subjects. Many of the children couldn't say a word when they started with Mrs. Clarke and just as many couldn't hear a word. Some could do neither.

But under Mrs. Clarke's patient guidance, they are learning words and how to "hear" with their eyes. Many of the deaf children wear hearing aids but even with these they must learn to lip-read.

Studied in U.S.

Mrs. Clarke is an expert in this line, having studied the work in universaries throughout the United States. And she makes it interesting to maintain attention.

To teach lip-reading to the older students, she stands behind a glass door to speak so that the children can't hear her; only watch her mouth form the words.

The pupils learn correct pronounciation by putting a plasticine tongue in the proper position in a plaster mouth and then copying it in their own mouths.

It is often said that when deaf people learn to speak their voices are a monotonous drone. To overcome this Mrs. Clarke has the children stand with their hands and heads touching a piano, and, through the vibrations, she shows them the varying volumes of tone which they must incorporate into their speaking voice. The same thing is done for pitch.

Famous Ring Symbol Of Kingly Dignity

London (CP) — Queen Elizabeth will be invested at her Coronation with the ring originally made for William IV, her great-great-great-great uncle, and worn in turn by Edward VII, George V, and George VI.

Sometimes known as the Wedding Ring of England, it is placed by the archbishop, during the ceremony, on the fourth finger of the Queen's right hand and is the symbol of kingly dignity and of the defence of the faith.

The ring is of heavily chased gold set with a large oval-shaped sapphire surrounded by diamonds, with the Cross of St. George superimposed upon the sapphire in rubies. Although it becomes the private property of the reigning monarch it is normally kept in the Tower of London with the crown jewels.

A visitor calling on a young married couple marvelled at the speed with which their five children were bathed and put to bed. "How do you do it so quickly?" he asked.

"Oh, it's not too bad", replied the wife. "I wash and Bill wipes."

ONE OF THE WORLD'S BUSIEST PEOPLE IN ROLE OF MONARCH, WIFE, MOTHER

By any computation the present Queen is one of the — if not actually the busiest — woman in the world.

It could be said that all lines of communication in an Empire covering nearly a quarter of the world's land surface meet at a central point known as Buckingham Palace. The Queen is not only the personification of the State. In law she is the supreme authority, an integral part of the legislature. This makes her the head of the judiciary in England and Wales, and Scotland, head of the Army, Navy and Air Force and the sole representative of the nation in international affairs.

Of course, in process of history, many of these prerogatives have become restricted. Today the Queen acts on the advice of her ministers — advice which she cannot constitutionally ignore. And the supreme legislative authority is the House of Commons and the House of Lords, which between them represent all elements of the nation.

But this does not mean that the Queen's duties are nominal; far from it. They are onerous and they are important. The Queen reigns, if she does not rule. She summonses, prorogues and dissolves Parliament; she opens the new session with a speech from the throne; a Bill which has been passed by both legislative Houses requires her consent before it becomes law. The jurisdictions of the Courts derive from her; she makes appointments of peerages, knighthoods and suchlike honors; as head of the the established Church of England she is concerned with appointments within it. Her approval is required for a minister to assume office or a Cabinet to be formed.

Add to these duties of the Queen the manifold demands of participation in the ceremonial and public life of the nation, and one sees, to quote Mrs. Roosevelt, how heavy a burden lies on such young shoulders.

The Queen's diary is invariably crowded. Britain's new Ambassador to Turkey must be received before departing to take up his duties. India's new High Commissioner in London must be received. The president and secretary call to submit the business of the Royal Academy of Arts.

Grasps Essentials Readily

A host of official documents must be examined; the cabinet agenda, the contents of those red-leather covered despatch boxes from the Foreign Office; the minutes and proceedings of defence committees. There will be correspondence or visits from her personal representatives abroad, such as ambassadors and governors-general. The state documents which go to the Prime Minister go also to the Queen, and she has already astonished those about her by her ready grasp of essentials.

These constitutional duties are not purely formal because if things are done in the name of the Queen, she must keep well informed about them. Every day, for instance, she reads a detailed summary of the Commonwealth newspapers.

Many Documents to Read

Documents are usually dealt with in the morning. The Queen sees her private secretary as soon as she has read the newspapers, consults cabinet papers and then goes over the business of the day. Various other documents come for consideration, and then correspondence is answered. There is Hansard — the verbatim proceeding of the House of Commons and the House of Lords — to be read. There will be appeals from municipalities, charities and public institutions of all kinds, hoping that she can grace their proceedings.

At lunch there is usually some important visitor. Afterwards there may be public duties, often necessitating a long journey by train. There may be discussions with the Keeper of the Privy Purse on the details of management of the royal estates. There are details of the Coronation to discuss with the Earl Marshal of England; perhaps the new designs for postage stamps or the new coinage will have to be examined, or the arrangements for some state function approved.

Heavy Correspondence

Correspondence is often very heavy, and Buckingham Palace has, naturally enough, its own post office. And on special occasions, such as the death of King George VI, the incoming mail can be enormous; on that occasion over 15,000 letters and telegrams were received in a single day.

The duties of a monarch have increased immensely during the last 50 years, mainly because participation in public life as distinct from constitutional and ceremonial life, has grown as civilization has become more complex. Remembering the strain to which the late King was subject, and with an uneasy feeling that his uncomplaining acceptance of heavy burdens may have blinded us to the fact that they were too heavy, even for a robust man, hopes have been expressed that moderation will be shown in public demands upon the Queen.

The Queen, however, has taken up her duties with unruffled enthusiasm and great understanding. She has a mission which, though well within her capacities, few people in this world could undertake successfully.

MANY FLAT FEET

Calgary (CP) — An increase in cases of flat feet among school children here was reported to the public school board by Nurse Supervisor May Deane-Freeman. She said 133 cases were found among 967 children examined in one month, and said "this is the age of snowboots and loafers; it seems to be telling on the feet".

FAMILY TRIP

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"Of journeying the benefits are many:
the freshness it brings to the heart,
the seeing and hearing of marvellous things,
the delights of beholding new cities,
the meeting of unknown friends,
the learning of high manners."
(written by Saadi in the 13th Century)

Vacation time is approaching and many families are making plans to go on a trip. Parents realize the educational values of travel some of which are mentioned in the above quotation written so long ago. Adventuring in far places has cast its magic spell over people in every generation. Robert Louis Stevenson once said, "For my part, I travel not to go anywhere, but to go. I travel for travel's sake!"

Journeying for the individual is much simpler than travel for a group, especially for a family group which includes small children. But never before in the history of mankind have so many families had the leisure, the money and the facilities for voyages of discovery on land and sea!

Careful planning beforehand removes many of the difficulties of family travel — it is fun to look forward to holiday good times as well as remember them afterwards with pleasure! Plans should be flexible enough that they can be changed if unexpected events occur.

It is very important to remember not to travel too far any one day or to plan too long a trip. If any member of the group becomes exhausted, extreme fatigue almost always shows itself in irritability or lowered resistance to illness. The too weary traveller is miserable — and John Buchan once wisely remarked — "Misery knows no manners."

On a trip the members of the family see more of each other than they do on ordinary days at home when father goes to work and the children attend school. It takes a little extra effort to continue to be courteous and considerate throughout the whole day on a trip. Mark Twain once observed, " I have found that there ain't no surer way to find out whether you like people or hate them than to travel with them."

To prevent individuals in the family from getting on each other's nerves, it is wise to split up into smaller groups of mother and daughters or father and sons in the latter part of the day. If the family are motoring, and father is doing the driving while mother has major responsibility for keeping the children happy and occupied in the car, perhaps after supper at a tourist camp, dad will offer to take the children on a walk while mother has the chance to relax all by herself. Then during the children's bed-time hour, dad can do as he wishes.

No careful parents would take their children on a trip in a car which had not been carefully checked by a reliable mechanic. Many of the accidents on our highways however can be traced not to defective brakes or a stalled engine but to the driver being crowded or his attention being distracted at a critical moment. Whether mother or dad is driving, there should be a strict rule that the driver must have plenty of room. The driver's complete attention must be on his job. Heavy traffic frequently demands quick and wise decisions.

In recent years a number of families have taken advantage of between week-end and off season lower plane rates for families. If a long trip is being considered, a plane trip can be a never-to-be forgotten experience for a boy or girl! So can a train trip!

Such a large number of families own cars, that many children of the present generation have never known the thrill of living on a train, eating in a diner and going to sleep in a berth. The inexpensive fares of the large Bus companies do attract many families who must budget very carefully. If dad is a commercial traveller or must do a good deal of driving in connection with his work, it is worthwhile giving thought to the advantage of a family trip by plane, train or bus.

Sunburn, poison ivy and drinking untested water are all carefully avoided by experienced trippers. Clothes for travel should above all be comfortable. In the hot weather the "small fry" can wear sun suits combined with cotton jerseys when necessary. On cooler days seersucker or corduroy overalls for tiny tots are practical.

A large thermos bottle with drinking water and plastic cups, a different color for each member of the family is a good idea. So are damp clean wash rags in a plastic bag and a small bath towel to wipe off sticky fingers and faces. A number of simple games are a MUST. Look up some new ones in a library book before you set out. Whatever are your vacation plans Good Luck to you and "Happy Landings!"

We may live without poetry,
music and art,
We may live without conscience
and live without heart,
We may live without friends,
we may live without books;
But civilized man cannot live without cooks.

We may live without books —
what is knowledge but grieving?
We may live without hope —
what is hope but deceiving?
We may live without love —
what is passion but pining?
But where is the man that can live without dining?

— From the writings of Owen Meredith

"World and the West" New Radio Series

The noted English historian, Professor Arnold Toynbee, will be heard in a series of six BBC-transcribed broadcast talks under the title The World and the West. The broadcasts will be heard from 10.30 - 11.00 p.m. Wednesdays on CBC Trans-Canada, starting on June 3.

In an article in Radio Times Professor Toynbee wrote, when the programs were first presented in England, that his series is addressed to western listeners, and his aim is "to do something like what Alice did when she went through the looking-glass. When once she was on the other side she was able to look at her own world from outside instead of from inside. . . To see ourselves as others see us is a wholesome experience for all of us in all times and places, because human being are in danger, all the time, of being led to destruction by their natural self-centredness."

Bricks, Mortar . . Pageant of Spring And Excitement of the Coronation

"EXILE FROM SUNNYACRES"
By Margaret Cook

It should really read "Sunnyacres Revisited" — so, anyone who is bored by summer places should look elsewhere for amusement; and, in our paper, one does not have to look far. A perfectly disinterested person has expressed the opinion that The Watchman reads like a very good magazine. If you have not counted your blessings lately, buy yourself a sheaf of weekly newspapers, read them and return thankfully to this paper. (Thank you, we blush! — Ed.)

Confusion Abounds

So now we talk about Sunnyacres. Our first thought, on entering the yard this spring, was an unconscious paraphrase of Sir Winston, "Never was there so much confusion in so small a space", for affairs at Sunnyacres are currently at that stage where things are at their worst before they turn better. Only an owner could love the present chaos that is normally the Cooks' pride and joy. In all this welter of rocks, sand, gravel, old decayed beams, new resinous ones, bags of cement, strips of gyproc, old bricks, fresh bricks — the daffodils, narcissi and grape hyacinths are bravely blooming. The lillies-of-the-valley are hopelessly squashed beneath some particularly massive logs, and nothing can be seen of the peonies. One apple tree is threatened by the new kitchen, but lilacs will be untouched.

Inside, we are awed by the most massive fireplace we have ever seen in a private residence. It is made of stones, which retain the contours that the glacier gave them a millennium ago. A skilled and loving hand has fashioned Scotch granite, grey granite and lesser allied rocks into a large and harmonious creation that rears a mighty head to the ceiling. The fireplace dominates the room and would dwarf a smaller chamber, but downstairs is now all one room, so it is all right, although one is irresistibly reminded of an altar. We could not light the first fire on the altar, however, as the requisite chimney was not quite completed. But that would have been too much, anyway. The new floor, innocent of knots or other irregularities, and the modern staircase, were all our bemused minds could encompass at one time. Rather more, in fact, for the head of the house, accustomed to the steep ascent and narrow treads of the former stair, promptly fell up the new one, and on the return trip forgot the turn at the bottom and fell down the last two steps. Peter-the-Cat, meanwhile, with more memory than perspicacity, firmly sat himself down beside a non-existent mousehole where in the olden days he was accustomed to have much sport. Betty and the writer, having more childlike minds, can take our miracles with more equanimity. Another month will see the re-created Sunnyacres all set for another hundred years.

Springtime and Caterpillars

So enthralled were we with all the changes at the homestead, that we barely noticed the pageant of Spring. We have a distinct impression that there was much green about and that the wild cherry and plum trees looked, as usual, like brides in misty white, and the white-throated sparrow undoubtedly was back, as were the swallows. Worse, there were caterpillars, but not until we later made a trip to Ile Perrot did we realize how serious is the invasion of these pests. Whole rows of trees have been stripped of their leaves. We saw one man optimistically giving battle in his orchard, but most of them seemed to have given up.

More pleasantly, on Ile Perrot we saw two cars of ancient make—about 1910, we thought. There must be a club thereabout where elderly and affluent men can indulge their adolescent taste. They looked very happy and relaxed driving their antiquated models; it is hard to realize that these small, high, mobile carriages are the ancestors of our large, low, heavy machines.

Fairy Tale Come True

Here in the suburbs and in the city, everybody is cleaning and decorating for the Coronation. We have in mind something fetching for the front door, some bunting, a crown or two, and perhaps a decent print of the Queen. Inside, the living-room is being redecorated, so that, come June 2nd, we'll be able to salute our youthful sovereign with a spurious look of youth, ourselves. With true Canadian reserve, most of us are fearful of showing too much emotion, but the feeling is there, and in most unexpected places. The very young are enthralled by this fairy-princess tale in real life; contemporaries of the Queen feel that they have much in common; the middle-aged salute her courage and dependability, while the aged feel admiration and, I suspect, pity, for only the aged know what life can do to those who start out with youth, love, ideals and optimism. The whole world will be watching that lovely face and figure on Coronation Day, and nearly the whole world will wish it well. Look and listen well, for stories of that day will be demanded by your children and their children, in turn. Never was there such an opportunity to teach history; even the dress of Prince Charles and of Princess Anne can lead to interesting discussion on costumes of bygone days. Then there is the story of the founding of the Order of the Garter and the meaning of all the symbols, of which the Orb seems most to catch the fancy of the child mind. . . The displays of replicas of the crown jewels and insignia of Coronation have practically stolen the first place in favor from the animated, carved bear, which wends its way through the forest in the Central Station.

Crown May Bring Historic Changes In Coat-of-Arms

Ottawa (CP) —A new crown is to come into use in Canada.

It is expected to emerge gradually in many Canadian military badges, buttons and insignia, on stamps, on coins, on the Governor General's standard or personal flag and elsewhere. It might even lead to the first alteration in the Canadian coat of arms in 32 years.

The reason is Queen Elizabeth's decision to change the heraldic representation of St. Edward's crown, the Coronation crown, which has adorned such things in Commonwealth countries for 52 years.

The change is relatively simple but its effects will range far and its significance is symbolic of the fluid political pattern of the countries that owe allegience to the throne.

The representation of the crown that is going out had imperial significance. It stemmed from a decision of Queen Victoria to alter the heraldic representation to make it more in keeping with her status as an Empress. Elizabeth, a Queen but not an Empress, is going back to a design that omits the imperial touch.

Subtle Differences

The difference briefly is this:

The four pearl-studded arches of gold — symbols of independent sovereignty — form a semi-circle in the design being abondoned. In the new representation, they go back to the downward curve — forming a kind of figure eight cut in two lengthwise — at the point of intersection. They dip at the centre as they do in the real St. Edward's crown.

The Queen also is changing the type of lettering in her Royal cypher — E II R — to straight Roman style from the italic script used since Edward VII.

St. Edward's crown is the one which for brief seconds will touch the head of Elizabeth in the Abbey June 2 and never be worn by her again. It weighs five pounds. The crown she will wear on state occasions in the future is another crown, the imperial state crown, which weighs about two pounds.

Some heraldry experts feel that if a change is to be made in the Canadian coat of arms — or, more rightly, the armorial bearings — the opportunity should be seized to make a general overhaul. They feel the present design is hardly compatible with the autonomy and eminence Canada has achieved since 1921.

In particular, they feel that the maple leaves which signify Canada are in a subordinate position hardly in keeping with Canada's present status.

But there is no sign yet that Cabinet or its top officials are considering any change.

GALLANTRY AWARD

For his bravery in rescuing Edward Nykyforak 14, of Roblin, Manitoba, from drowning in Goose Lake last winter, Scoutmaster Dick Greenland, 26, also of Roblin, has been awarded the Gilt Cross by Canada's Chief Scout, the Right Honorable Vincent Massey, C.H., Governor General. The boy was skating about 70 feet from shore when he broke through thin ice and was in the water about 15 minutes before the rescue was completed.

How much does a wildcat cost?

A "wildcat" is a well drilled in an area where oil has never been found. Drilling costs vary, but the average wildcat in western Canada runs to more than $100,000. One well cost $1,600,000—and found no oil!

Oil is making an increasingly important contribution to our standard of living. How many of these questions about it can you answer?

How many wildcat wells find a new oil field— 1 in 3? 1 in 7? 1 in 23? → The long-term average in western Canada is 1 in 23. Only 1 in 87 has found a field capable of producing as much as 2,000 barrels a day.

Since 1939 the cost of living index has risen by 85%. During that time has the price you pay for gasoline gone up by— 44%? 79%? 103%? → The average retail price of gasoline is only 44% higher than prewar, even with higher road taxes in all provinces.

A lot of oil has been discovered in the west since 1946. In that time have Canada's oil reserves increased— 4 times? 23 times? 37 times? → Reserves have increased 23-fold in the past six years. Canadian fields now supply all the prairies and part of B.C. and Ontario.

How many companies, would you say, are engaged in the oil business in Canada— 23? 174? 750? → About 750 companies in which the public has an investment interest, as well as several hundred private firms and partnerships. And this doesn't include the thousands of privately operated service stations and other retail and wholesale outlets for oil products.

Canada's growing oil industry means orders for many businesses, jobs for many Canadians. Last year Imperial's purchasing department bought equipment and supplies from Canadian firms amounting to— $12 millions? $56 millions? $110 millions? → $56 millions. About 4,500 Canadian companies sold Imperial supplies ranging from heavy steel plates to paper clips.

NAVY MAN HEADS ROYAL FAMILY AN UNWRITTEN TRADITION UPHELD

It is unwritten tradition in Britain that the head of the Royal household be a Navy man — and in every sense of the term the man at the Queen's side is a Navy man, through and through.

In a very real way, his Naval training has been of immeasurable help to Phince Philip in coping with his rather difficult position as Prince Consort, a position which in precise terms of precedence, can hardly be defined. But as head of his household and husband of Queen Elizabeth he is certainly the best-known citizen in Britain, and probably the most popular.

What is he like, the man at the Queen's side?

The Duke of Edinburgh was at one time sixth in line of succession to the Greek throne. His father was Prince Andrew of Greece, who died in 1943, and his mother Princess Alice of Battenberg, daughter of the first Marquess of Milford Haven.

He was born in Corfu, but from the start received a thoroughly British upbringing, spending most of his boyhood with his uncle, Lord Mountbatten, in whose house in Park Lane — as also at the White Lodge, Windsor and the Piccadilly home of the then Duke and Duchess of York — he quite frequently met Princess Elizabeth.

The young girl and the rather shy, lanky boy were good friends from the start, but it was only a childhood association. They exchanged presents and letters, but Philip, boylike, was very much absorbed in boyish pursuits and had already announced his longing to make the Navy a career. It was an ambition easy to gratify, for he had, as time proved, all the makings of a seaman — a willingness to work hard, a keen sense of discipline, a liking for the comradeship of men, a sense of adventure and a love of athletics. In due course Prince Philip was admitted to the Royal Naval College, Dartmouth, where he won the King's Dirk for the best cadet.

Fond of Athletics

As a scholar — he was educated at the progressive school at Gordonstoun, Scotland, run by the distinguished German educationalist, Dr. Kurt Hahn — he was not outstanding. On the whole, he prefered games.

One characteristic of Prince Philip was remarked by all who met him as a boy. Although reserved, he was entirely without "side". He mixed with everyone without the slightest trace of self-consciousness and by his own example proved that he never wished or expected to compete on anything but equal terms.

Philip was a popular officer, though a strict disciplinarian. He had no side off duty, but would stand no nonsense at work. If he has a grievance, he gets it off his mind at once (he had some hard words to say to press photographers during a recent visit to a coal mine) and bears no malice. In action with the Royal Navy during the war — he saw his first action at the Battle of Matapan — his energy and cool bearing won high praise.

His hobbies and interests are in keeping with his temperament. The National Playing Fields Association, which provides playing fields for young children, has always been one of his favorite interests. He is fond of photography, amateur theatricals, gardening, swimming and boxing. He has made a special study of British history.

Engagement Announced

It was known before 1947 that Princess Elizabeth and Lieutenant Philip Mountbatten, R.N., had been seeing rather more of each other than social formality would demand. With unerring judgment the public sensed a reciprocal affection, and when for the first time the couple were allowed to meet each other for longer periods during a holiday in the Highlands of Scotland, everyone knew that an engagement was a virtual certainty. On July 9, 1947, King George VI, with great happiness gave his consent to the bethroval of the Heiress-Presumptive to Lieutenant Mountbatten, R.N.

The whole nation and commonwealth were happy about the match, and those around the Princess were delighted, for they knew better than anyone else that it was indeed a love match. The marriage solemnized at Westminster Abbey was an event of great rejoicing and so, too, was the birth of Prince Charles a year later.

Everywhere the couple have been together — in Paris or Washington or Kenya — the Duke has proved immensely popular.

Many Responsibilities

What is the role of a Consort? He is, of course, in no sense a King and has no special authority. But as head of his family and confidential advisor to the Queen there is, manifestly, plenty of scope for his capacities. In the complex administration of the Royal household, in the management of the Royal estates and arranging of countless state ceremonies, his understanding and support will be of great value. His own patronage of learned socities, too, is not simply a well-meaning acceptance of duty. He knows a good deal about science and its vital importance in modern society.

Recognizes Tradition

On ceremonial occasions it will be noted that the Duke walks behind the Queen. He understands the recognized traditions of the monarchy too well to mind this. He has been nurtured and bred on British tradition; that the Queens and Kings of England must be in direct line of descent is something he not only knows but admires.

It may be rather old-fashioned, but the British still consider the description "British" to be a proud title not to be bestowed indiscriminately. When friends who know the Duke of Edinburgh describe him as being "as British as they make 'em" they mean it in the very highest sense a compliment.

Will Compulsory Retirement Speed Symptoms of Age ?

Cornell University has embarked upon a seven-year nation-wide survey in the United States to determine whether or not there is any truth in the belief that involuntary retirement based on age speeds up symptoms of disease and even death.

"Why all this concern about older people?" remarks Irving Ladimer in "Occupational Health", published by the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. "Probably because we see more of them around than ever before. Although the population of the United States has doubled in the last half century, the number of middle aged — 45 to 64 — has tripled. The number of persons over 65 has quadrupled. One in every 12 persons today is 65 or older."

There are many pros and cons on the question of compulsory retirement at a set age, Mr. Ladimer goes on. In its favor are ease of operation, fairness, certainty, and advance financial and psychological planning for all parties. Against it are the arguments of known variation in aging and ability, continued participation in production, possible money savings by reduced pensions, and the satis- who can and wants to work.

The issues with which industry faction and well-being of the man has to grapple therefore are (1) how to use older people profitably — or else shoulder the cost of supporting them directly by pensions and indirectly by government benefits and welfare services, and (2) how to introduce them to the future, when the job is over, so they can help themselves, the community and, last but not least, the company.

"Firms with successful pre-retirement plans not only have captured worker approval but also have netted profits by using skills which less resourceful managements have overlooked", notes Mr. Ladimer.

DUKE SHARES SPOTLIGHT WITH TWO DOGS

When the Duke of Edinburgh began his address at the formal opening of the Hoole coronation playing fields in Chester, the two dogs in foreground jumped the gun and began the playing before the duke could declare the fields open for business. Sharing the amusement of the spectators, the duke cut short his speech and referred to the antics of the dogs with: "Anyway, they've got the right idea."

Missionary's Cattle First Roamed Range

Calgary (CP) — The first steers to roam the Alberta range were turned out 80 years ago, not by a cattleman, but by Rev. John McDougall, a missionary.

Mr. McDougall's neighbors said he was crazy to turn out cattle into the open country where they might be shot by Indians or wander away with the buffalo. When roundup time came in the spring, all the cattle were there.

The next pioneer in the cattle field in Alberta was Sgt. Whitney of the RCMP at Ford MacLeod who turned out his now-famous "24 cows and a bull". He was followed in Alberta cattle history by Fred Kanouse, the amazing whisky-trader.

The big trails started in 1881 when the cattle were brought in from Montana. In 1882, Harry Sissons moved 100 head all the way from Medicine Hat to Dawson City to feed the Klondike gold-diggers.

In the years that followed the industry had its ups and downs. Then Alberta cattle became world famous in 1913 when a western steer won the grand championship at Chicago. In the early '30s depression brought a setback followed by foot-and-mouth disease restrictions, but the business now is reaching a peak.

You may see the result of what he is doing in the city's changing skyline — or out where the corn grows tall . . . in the mushrooming suburbs — or in the new look of Main Street in a mellow old town.

Where many a vacant lot once stood, he helps fill it with a fine new school. Where you used to see a building that was an eyesore you may now see a new apartment house, store or post office that he played a role in providing.

Thanks in part to him, many houses rise here and there, or row on row, in community after community. New black ribbons of asphalt tie town to town. Somewhere, a new bridge is built.

New industrial plants, too, are sometimes the by-products of his helping hand. Perhaps one of them has provided you with a job.

Panthers Increase In New Brunswick

Hartland, N.B. (CP) — Panthers are multiplying in New Brunswick forests, according to information obtained by Bruce Wright, Fredericton, director of the Northeastern Wildlife Institute.

Once believed extinct in this province, they are thriving and have moved into Nova Scotia, he told the Hartland branch of the New Brunswick Fish and Game Protective Association.

Old records show three types of cat once roamed New Brunswick — lynx, bobcats and panthers. Between 1860 and 1930 the latter was believed to have vanished.

In 1930, however, a Kent County man shot a panther measuring seven feet seven inches. None is known to have been killed since but the species has been reported in almost every county. The weight of one tracked panther was estimated at 200 pounds with an overall measurement of nine feet.

The panther hunts only at night and stays out of sight by day, Mr. Wright said. It feeds chiefly on deer, breeds every two or three years and has litters up to six. The most successful way to bag a panther would be by trapping, he considered.

ALUMINUM has a habit of turning up almost everywhere. But "farthest north" was reached recently, when a U.S. Air Force pilot set down his aircraft at the geographic North Pole — on a pair of aluminum skis.

Aluminum's lightness - with - strength has made it the basic material of the aircraft industry. And because aluminum is only ½ to ¼ as heavy as other base metals, a pound of it goes a lot further. Which is one more reason why so many manufacturers of so many products have turned to aluminum to help keep their prices down. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Graduation Event At Morin Heights Intermed. School

Union Jack Presented By Women's Institute

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — The 1953 class of Morin Heights Intermediate School held their graduation exercises Friday evening in the school auditorium. The graduates for 1953 were Dante Sicuso, Mille Isles; Beverly Kirkpatrick, Mille Isles; Doreen Seale, of Morin Heights; Marion Kirkpatrick, Mille Isles; Beverly Bell, Morin Heights.

The graduates claimed the spotlight for the evening. The program commenced with the singing of "O Canada", followed by the Principal's remarks. Principal Marven Blakely then announced that the Women's Institute had a presentation to make to the school, and called Mrs. F. C. Cameron, president of the Morin Branch, and also Col. J. W. Green, to the platform. Mrs. Cameron, with a few appropriate remarks, made the presentation of a Union Jack, Col. Green suitably thanking her and her colleagues for their generous and timely gift. The gift was then dedicated by the Rev. Horace Baugh and blessed by the Rev. Robert Blair.

The program then proceeded. Grade I sang a current favorite, "Tell Me a Story". Grades II and III performed a Scottish dance, and the school Glee Club sang two numbers, "Some Enchanted Evening" and "It's a Grand Night for Singing". Grades III and IV sang "Because", after which the graduates assembled on the stage, with Dante Sicuso as chairman. The Valedictory address was given by Beverly Kirkpatrick, and Doreen Seale narrated the "Class History". Marion Kirkpatrick's contribution was an interesting and amusing "Class Prophecy", and last but not least, Beverly Bell pronounced the "Last Will and Testament".

Col. Green substituted for Col. Garnet M. Strong, school board chairman, who through unforeseen circumstances was unable to be present, and gave a short address. The Graduation Song to the graduates was provided by the Glee Club. Principal Blakely then introduced the speaker of the evening, the Rev. Stanley Smith, who gave an inspiring and interesting talk, which was enjoyed not only by the graduates and pupils present, but also by those assembled in the auditorium. After the address Col. Green thanked the guest speaker on behalf of the school board, the principal, teachers and pupils of the school, and also those who had assembled to congratulate the graduates. The program then concluded by the singing of "God Save the Queen".

Dancing and prizes concluded the evening's entertainment and all present were loud in their praise of the decorations, which had been arranged by the principal, teachers and students.

Coronation Preview

By Willis Young

(Part III)

History is repeating itself with the reign of Queen Elizabeth. We realize, of course, that much of the ancient ceremony which surrounded Queen Victoria at her Coronation in 1838 will be either changed or omitted in 1953 — but, as far as queens and consorts are concerned, history is repeating itself.

When Victoria married Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha in 1840, many people mistrusted him because he was a German. They accused him of trying to corrupt England. It took Victoria 17 years to make sure that her husband was well enough liked to bestow upon him the title of "Prince Consort". Some people, however, never got around to trusting him, although he was, all but in name, King of England.

Albert was able to wield such extensive power over England through his wife's devotion to him, it has been said that "his every whim was her law."

Philip, the Graeco-Danish prince who married Princess Elizabeth November 20, 1947, on the other hand, has the advantage of being highly popular with his wife's subjects.

He, like Albert, is wielding great power upon the British throne. His influence will, no doubt, be a healthy one, since he was brought up as a commoner and can understand the difficulties which arise in everyday life. Elizabeth, like her great-great-grandmother, adores her husband and it is probable that she will give him no small place in State affairs. It is believed that Philip, again like Albert, will be in many respects the true King of England.

Philip renounced all his foreign titles (he was Prince of Greece and was also next in line to the Danish throne) five years ago to become an English citizen. His father-in-law, the late King George VI, created him Duke of Edinburgh, and since that time many hereditary title have become his own.

Philip and Elizabeth now have two children. Their first child — Prince Charles Philip Arthur George — was born in Buckingham Palace, November 14, 1948. This birth carried out the traditional custom that all Heirs Presumptive should be born in "Buck House", as the queen affectionately refers to her 600-room dwelling. Then on August 15, 1950, Princess Anne Elizabeth Alice Louise was born in Clarence House, the Royal couple's first home.

Charles and Anne may not attend their mother's Coronation, but they will appear on the Palace balcony when the Queen and the Duke return from Westminster Abbey. They will, no doubt, see the proceedings when the Queen herself relaxes to watch the ceremony on TV in the Palace, when the strenuous day is ended.

Since Elizabeth is a Queen, we often think that there is no place in her emotions for nervousness or stage-fright. True, she is much more disciplined in this respect than her late father was, but nevertheless she is human and will be uneasy lest she should make even the smallest error during the lengthy proceedings.

She has, however, learned to conceal this uneasiness under her charming smile and she will go through the ceremony with the same determination that was evidenced in that remark she once made to a friend: "Of course I'll go! How could I disappoint all those people?"

(To be concluded)

Reputation is character minus what you get caught at.

WORLD'S FIRST MOBILE MUSEUM—"Varnished boxes" and "snoozers", three ancient baggage cars, and three locomotives of yesteryear make up this Canadian National Railways museum train. It houses, in permanent display, exhibits ranging all the way from tickets, lanterns, rails, Bible racks and pictures of historical events to the power plant of the first diesel-electric car in North America.

Special sections are devoted to Royal Tours, pioneer railways, steamships, telegraphs, express and motive power. A family tree traces the growth of 265 pioneer railways, from Canada's first steam road in 1836, to the present 24,000-mile Canadian National System, the largest on this continent. The history of railway development is the history of Canada.

Pretty girls dressed in crinoline, hoop skirts, poke bonnets and all, and veteran trainmen wearing costumes of a century ago, are shown, left, with M. A. Metcalf, vice-president and executive assistant of the Canadian National System, and Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal on the occasion of the train making its public debut.

Mogul No. 674, of 1899, the oldest locomotive still operating on the CNR, is used to haul the train. It is a far cry from today's powerful locomotives.

Religious Aspect of Coronation; Canadian Contingents in Rehearsal

By Harry Eccles, Canadian Press Staff Writer

The religious aspect of the coronation service was emphasized by Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, in a statement in London at the week-end.

The prelate who will place the crown on Queen Elizabeth's head in Westminster Abbey on June 2, said the Queen "is called to stand before us all and to stand for us all in her own person expressing the whole virtue of our people's history and tradition."

He said: "She comes to commit herself before us all to God, acknowledging her dependence and ours upon God for true health and power, seeking through the church in her anointing and communion that God will consecrate her for the work and ministry of her life among us.

"Her self-dedication to God must be matched by ours. We must sincerely seek for our own daily lives and relations with others the strength of God as she does.

"The Queen pledges herself to God that by His grace she may be faithful and true to us. We pledge ourselves to God that we by His grace may be faithful and true to the Queen, our fellows, to the nation in every good and honorable cause. That is loyalty."

London was jammed last week-end with thousands of Britons and overseas visitors for the coronation who were getting advance glimpses of the great events. Latest official arrivals included guests from the Pacific Islands, Central Africa and Southeast Asia.

Among those doing the sights of London was Queen Salote of Tonga, six-foot three-inch ruler of the Friendly Islands. Hotel lobby-sitters saw also Jacob Vouza, a fuzzy-haired Guadalcanal native decorated by both Britain and the United States for heroism during the bitter fighting there in 1942-43. Vouza arrived as a special guest of the British government. He proudly exhibited the George Medal, awarded for civilian gallantry, and told how he was caught by the Japanese while acting as Scout for American troops. He was tortured and left for dead, but escaped.

The four invited Malayan sultans were there, with many other native rulers from distant parts of the world.

Canadians Ready

Canada's contingent was among thousands of Commonwealth troops who went through a full-dress rehearsal for their part in the Coronation parade in London. Wing Commander J. V. Watts of Hamilton, contingent commander, said his men looked "very sharp" and were in good condition. All Commonwealth troops marched 12 abreast, to the beat of the Canadian Royal 22nd Regiment band.

An RCAF officer commands the Canadian contingent because he is in the van. The reason is that the senior services take a position closest to the Queen's coach, and the Canadians are marching ahead of the coach. So the senior service, the Navy, will be at the rear of the 450-man Canadian contingent, with the army in the middle.

What Is the Limit Of Your Mind?

A garageman in New York can tell you the license numbers of hundreds of cars in his garage. A former steward on the Twentieth Century Limited knew the names of hundreds of passengers, and learned new ones on every run.

Such accomplishments are within reach of all of us, a June Reader's Digest article says. All of us live at a lower mental level than we need to, keeping our reserve brain power under wraps for use in times of emergency. We can train our memeroy and our subconsious mind, and learn to summon these powers at will.

At Darmouth's reading clinic students who normally could read 230 words a minute jumped to 500 in a few weeks. One experiment indicates that we may even be able to learn while we sleep. A recording of 15 words was repeated 30 times while a group of students slept. Next morning this group could list the words in proper order much more rapidly than students who had not "studied" while asleep.

Few of us have any trouble remembering what is important to us, the Digest article notes. Youngsters who cannot recall history dates can easily keep track of the season's baseball scores and batting averages.

Every time we call a phone number without looking it up we buttress our memory. By forcing ourselves to observe how things look in a room or a garden, and to remember them afterward, we train our sensory responses and learn to summon the power of the mind at will. By keeping alive a curiosity about other people and their problems we enrich our own minds.

B.F. Goodrich Tubeless Tire

Because IT HAS NO TUBE

It may save your life...

The B. F. Goodrich LIFE-SAVER Tubeless Tire gives you maximum protection against the hazard of blowouts and dangerous skids, that frequently result in serious injury, and even death.

It can save you trouble...

The B. F. Goodrich LIFE-SAVER Tubeless Tire seals punctures on running wheels . . . protects against the annoying trouble caused by flat tires.

The B. F. Goodrich LIFE-SAVER Tubeless Tire provides greater safety than any tire and tube, yet it costs less than the conventional safety tire-tube combination.

Act now to prevent this!

Accidents like the one above can happen when blowouts occur—that's why you owe it to yourself to find out about the extra protection in B. F. Goodrich LIFE-SAVER Tubeless Tires. Most blowouts are caused when the inner tube explodes through weakened or broken cords. But, because it has no inner tube, a LIFE-SAVER Tire changes a sudden, dangerous blowout to a safe s-s-s-slowout—allowing you ample time to stop your car safely, with perfect control.

PUNCTURE PROTECTION
A gummy rubber compound under the tread immediately seals around puncturing objects, and permanently seals the hole when the object is removed. Inconvenience and delays are eliminated.

BLOWOUT PROTECTION
Instead of a tube, the LIFE-SAVER has a patented inner lining that's part of the tire. In event of damage there's no sudden blowout, only a small break in the liner, a s-s-s-slowout that lets you stop safely.

SKID PROTECTION
The LIFE-SAVER tread is cross-cut into thousands of tiny grip-blocks. At 30 miles per hour on wet roads, it stops you a car length quicker than regular tires . . . and gives you longer mileage too.

Your B.F. Goodrich dealer now has the Tubeless Tire ...it can be your LIFE-SAVER
