Specialists Study Conditions To Improve Fishing Grounds In Argenteuil County

Quebec Biological Bureau Expert Explains Improvement Work Going On in This Area

Fishing in the counties of Argenteuil and Terrebonne, and especially in Lake Macdonald, will be improved as the result of survey operations now being conducted by the Quebec Biological Bureau. Details of the work were outlined here when Professor Albert Courtemanche, director of the survey, as well as director of the Mont Tremblant biological station, dropped in at The Watchman Office.

The survey, it was stated, was begun simultaneously with the operation of an open season on bass fishing in the two counties. It followed reports that the bass population, planted in lakes of the region some 46 years ago, was not giving the same angling results as before. It was decided to take steps to find out just what is the state of the bass population, and especially whether, as some have claimed, there is an overpopulation with consequent dwindling in individual size.

Lake Macdonald was selected by the Quebec Biological Bureau as the central point of the survey, although many other lakes will be studied incidentally. Two biologists of the Bureau have accordingly begun work at Lake Macdonald and Bark Lake. They will take a friendly census of bass caught by anglers, as well as investigating the lake scientifically, making a map showing depths, fish concentrations, etc. In the upshot the Bureau will decide upon some means of improving the fishing.

As things have turned out, no great catch of bass has resulted from the declaration of the open season. Catching a 4-pound bass in the region this year has been heard of, but the fish was not seen or measured by the officers. The most accurate figures available concern Lake Macdonald. Up to June 16, only 17 bass had been taken there by anglers. The largest was 16 inches long, weighing 2½ pounds. The average was much smaller.

The 17 specimens were taken by some 20 anglers, nearly all of whom came from outside the district, chiefly from Montreal. Only three of these anglers came expressly to take advantage of the open season for bass fishing; the others were also interested in yellow perch, bullheads (barbotte), or the occasional speckled or grey trout which the lake contains.

While equally close official attention has not yet been paid to other lakes of the two counties, the results would appear to be about the same, namely, few anglers and fewer bass. A striking exception was at Lac Maskinonge near St. Jovite, where more than 100 bass, from one to three pounds in weight, have been taken, although fishing within the normal season in previous years has been notably unsuccessful there. Bark Lake (Lac des Ecorces) and Lac des Sables, both near Ste. Agathe, were both reported as having received but few anglers and yielded but small catches of bass.

The number of fish species in Lake Macdonald, including the smallmouth black bass of the region, is given as eleven. Six of these are considered native: speckled trout, fallfish, white suckers, lake trout, swallowwater cisco (lake herring) and whitefish. The bass were introduced as a private operation. It is considered that the sunfish, bullheads (barbotte), yellow perch and shiner minnows are undesirables, introduced here, as in many another Laurentian region, through anglers' minnow pails.

Mr. Courtemanche, in giving this information, emphasized that the purpose of the two-county survey is to ascertain means whereby the region may have more, healthier and bigger fish than ever before.

Bait Minnows Doom Another Trout Lake

In yet another Laurentian lake, notice to get out and stay out has been handed to the province's most popular and most tourist-attracting game fish, the speckled trout.

The lake is Lac Renaud, Terrebonne County. The eviction notice, now preserved in a bottle in the Montreal laboratory of the Department's Biological Bureau, consists of two three-spine sticklebacks, each a little over two inches long.

The fact that the sticklebacks were caught recently in a lake where they never existed before, means that they have secured a toe hold there. In all likelihood they will breed prolifically. So the speckled trout will have to go. For sticklebacks can crowd them out. Sticklebacks' spines may kill the trout which eat the apparently appetizing little fishes. They can carry a tapeworm and, as a link in the chain, complete and perpetuate the cycle whereby the parasite can find its way into trout. Sticklebacks are just one of the various minnows and minnowlike species that have done such great harm to Laurentian lakes after being introduced by anglers who use them as bait. Provincial authorities say a single overturned minnow pail can infect a lake, eventually infest a whole chain of lakes, and end up by causing damage to game fisheries to the extent of millions of dollars.

Vast areas of the Laurentians have thus been ruined, and the work of reclamation undertaken by the Department of Game and Fisheries is necessarily rendered more complicated by the thoughtlessness of some anglers.

Old Residential Landmark Doomed To Obscurity

An old landmark in Lachute, the Christie home over 100 years old, will soon be partially hidden from the Main Street throng. The lot fronting tnis stately, rambling residence has been leased to Shell Oil Company for the erection of a service station. The tall elms have been cut down and uprooted, and a mechanical excavator has dug up the lawn for the sinking of three immense tanks. These were placed in position last week, and forms are now being erected for the foundation of the new structure.

New Technique in Blazing Trees at Harrington, Que.

Blazing trees with paint instead of an axe is simplifying controlled tree cutting operations in Canadian forests. The paint is a highly visible brilliant yellow developed by Canadian Industries Limited specifically for tree marking. It may be applied with an Alemite gun or a packsack-type pressure sprayer. Trees for felling are marked at about eye-level and at the base of the trunk. This scene is at the Harrington Forest Farm of the Canadian International Paper Company near Grenville, Que., where work is done to aid woodlot owners in the management of their stands on a sustained yield basis.

Prov. Police Car Now Has Two-Way Radio Equipment

Traffic Officers Pressing Provincial Campaign Against Offending Drivers

A Provincial Police traffic drive has been pushed throughout the province in recent weeks, with the County of Argenteuil detachment taking no back seat in the campaign for safe highways. Tickets for fines have been given out by the local officers for speeding, defective headlights, tail-lights and lights over license plates, for having only one or no license plates, and for driving without a driver's license, as well as numerous other infractions. The time for warnings is over, the police officers advise — if you are guilty and caught, you pay. The local squad hands out tickets for infractions on town thoroughfares as well as on the highways.

It is reported that two of the local officers were on duty on Route 41 in the early hours of last Sunday morning. Contents, drivers and licenses were checked in the case of all cars entering Lachute.

The local Provincial Police squad car has been equipped with a short-wave radio transmitter-receiver, connected directly with Station XJC, Montreal, and XJB, St. Jerome. The local call number is M-4. Reception is excellent and headquarters can be contacted within seconds. Reports of accidents, robberies, stolen cars and similar incidents are now radioed to the local force at the same time as to police throughout the province.

In 1945 when Family Allowances were introduced the monthly payments cost $17.5 million; in 1953 the monthly cost has risen to $29.7 million.

Golden Wedding Celebrated At Cushing, Que.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Graham Honored by Friends

The community hall above the old general store at Cushing, has been the scene of many memorable events, but none moreso than that which took place last Wednesday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Archie Graham entertained on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Over 60 relatives and friends enjoyed an appetizing dinner served by the Frontier Women's Institute, of which Mrs. Graham is a charter member.

At the head table were the honored couple, Mr. and Mrs. Graham, their two daughters, Ivy (Mrs. John Dougall, of Cote St. Luc, Montreal), with Mr. Dougall, Elsie, of Montreal, their son Allan, of Cushing, three sisters of Mrs. Graham — Margaret, (Mrs. Albert Scott), Ellen (Mrs. Robt. Black, of Mabel), Miss Anna Pollock, of Lachute, and a brother-in-law, Mr. Allan Hammond.

Among other relatives present was a brother, Mr. Wm. Graham, of North River. Through a recent accident Mr. Andrew Graham, of Monalea, could not attend, while Mr. Fred Graham, of Cushing, was also unable to be present.

The one and only grandson, Graham Dougall, aged 4½ years, was also on hand to extend good wishes. Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Canning, of Cushing, who on July 8 will be 50 years married.

Mr. J. S. Giles, an old friend of the family, proposed a toast to the happy couple, who in a few words expressed their sincere appreciation of the honor thus accorded them.

In addition to the many messages of congratulation, there was a large number of useful and acceptable gifts.

Later in the evening a singsong was held, and a happy hour spent in reminiscing, by many who had not met for some time past.

Hit-and-Run Charge Following Collision

Route 29 between Carillon and St. Andrews was the scene of a hit-and-run accident Sunday at 1 a.m., when a car owned and driven by Osias Marinier, Hawkesbury, collided with a car owned by Gérard Ranger and driven by his brother, Marcel, of Lachute Mills. Considerable damage was done to both cars.

Ranger stopped his car some 100 yards from the scene of the accident to appraise the damage on his car, but left when Marinier ran back to speak with him. Marinier gave chase in a passing truck and caught up with Ranger at the St. Andrews bridge, commanding him to go back to the scene of the accident as they were sending for the police.

Traffic Officers Howard Jones and Roger Massie arrived and charged Marcel Ranger (who had since returned) with leaving the scene of the accident, driving under the influence of liquor and driving without a permit.

Brought to Lachute, he was detained in the local cells overnight and taken to St. Jerome by Det. Maurice Lamoureaux, where he was released on bail. Trial is scheduled for the latter part of July.

Youngsters Find Dynamite Sticks

Four young boys — Gerard Miron, 10, Daniel Desjardins, 9, Jean-Pierre Desjardins and Daniel Eggie, both 12 years of age — discovered 10 sticks of dynamite while playing recently on the river bank near the west-end parish church, St. Julien.

The boys had these dangerous objects in their possession, but after learning the potentiality of their find (capable of blowing up an entire house), they decided to to report to the town police.

Chief Villeneuve cites the action of these youngsters as a commendable example to follow. Anyone finding dynamite, blasting caps or other forms of explosive is strongly advised to report immediately to the authorities.

Farewell and Presentation to Minister Retiring After 24 Years' Pastorate Here

Lachute United Church was filled almost to capacity Monday evening, when the congregation of the church bade farewell to the Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Rosborough. The Rev. Rosborough, M.A., B.D., was inducted minister of this church 24 years ago, on September 12, 1929.

The assembly opened with a Scripture reading by Angus Taylor, who also offered a prayer. Mr. Taylor gave a sketch of the Rev. Rosborough's career, from college days to the present, also citing the number of various services and ceremonies that Mr. Rosborough had performed during his 24 years in Lachute. He brought to the attention of the gathering that there had been an increase of 62.5% in church members during this period.

Mrs. Leonard Armstrong rendered the solo, "Prayer Perfect", after which the choir sang an anthem.

Mr. Arthur McOuat read the presentation address and tendered to Mr. Rosborough the gift of a brief case and a substantial cheque. Miss Ann Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Thompson, presented Mrs. Rosborough with two dozen roses, one for each of her 24 years in Lachute, and Miss Elaine Wilson, daughter of Mrs. E. K. Wilson, pinned a corsage on the honored guest.

Complimentary remarks were made by Erskine Rodger and Melvin Smith, of East Settlement, and by the Rev. H. Carson, of Hawkesbury.

Mr. Rosborough thanked everyone on behalf of his wife and himself. He recalled his student days, and several incidents worthy of note in his ministerial experiences.

Mr. J. S. Giles sang "The Old Rugged Cross", and after a concluding prayer, the gathering adjourned to the church hall and the grounds for refreshments, prepared by Mrs. Ralph McOuat, convener, and the ladies of the congregation.

Mr. Merlyn Evans presented the Rev. and Mrs. Rosborough with a travelling clock on behalf of the teachers and pupils of the Sunday School. This presentation took place at the annual Sunday School picnic, held last week.

"IKE" AND "MIKE" THINK ALIKE

—Central Press Canadian

At Oyster Bay, N.Y., dedicating the home of the late President Theodore Roosevelt as a national U.S. shrine, External Affairs Minister "Mike" Pearson and President "Ike" Eisenhower both gave brief speeches. Both referred to the ideological threat of communism and both had the same answer: Make our system function better than that of communism.

Truck and Automobile Crash at Intersection

Approximately $750 damage resulted when a car and a panel truck collided at Barron Avenue and Grace Street last Saturday. No one was seriously injured.

The truck, owned by L'Heureux Dry Cleaners and driven by Jean Paul L'Heureux, was proceeding south on Barron Avenue, when it collided with a car going west on Grace Street. The car, owned by Denis Mallette, was driven by his father, G. H. Mallette, C.P.R. Station employee.

Police Chief Donat Villeneuve investigated.

Several other minor accidents and complaints were investigated, and numerous tickets have been handed out for the usual traffic offences.

Police have been alerted for an escaped prisoner from Hull, Que. He is Robert Lesage, 22 years old, 5' 8½" tall, weighs 164 pounds and has a clear complexion. Anyone seeing a stranger answering to this description is asked to notify the local police.

Election Campaigns in Quebec Both Federal and Provincial

George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, Addressed Meeting in Ancient Capital

"This Week at Quebec"

By Bernard Dufresne

Quebec, June 29 (CP) — Election campaigning in the Federal and Provincial fields held the news spotlight in Quebec this week.

The provincial capital's first touch of Federal campaigning for the August 10 national election, came when George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said at a public meeting his party was opposed to greater centralization of power in Ottawa and would defend provincial rights.

Speaking in French, in the working-class St. Sauveur district, Mr. Drew said: "I have been, I am and shall always be, an arch-defender of provincial autonomy."

He charged the liberal administration with wanting "to centralize power" in Ottawa, and spoke of his party's determination to restore the real principles of confederation.

He charged the Liberal government with "waste, extravagance and incompetence", especially within the defence department, adding it was possible to reduce taxation by $500,000,000 without reducing social security benefits and fulfilment of defence needs.

He also said: "Our constitution is threatened more than it has ever been since confederation. If the present trend continues, our Federal regime will be destroyed. That is one of the great questions, one of the essential questions, of this campaign.

In the provincial field, Premier Duplessis spoke at Amqui and Cap Santé in connection with by-elections in Matapedia and Portneuf ridings July 9. In both places, Mr. Duplessis reviewed his Union Nationale government's aid to the agricultural class through farm loans, rural electrification, farm grants, maintenance of winter roads and education. In Amqui, he spoke in support of Clovis Gagnon, Union Nationale candidate in Matapedia, while he spoke in support of Rosaire Chalifour, government candidate in Portneuf.

Liberal Leader Georges Lapalme, his party's candidate in the Montreal-Outremont by-election, also speaks this week in Matapedia and Portneuf.

The Civil Service Federation of Canada, which claims to represent more than 38,000 members across Canada, last week urged in a national convention resolution that the Federal Government grant collective bargaining rights to civil servants.

The convention of about 300 delegates attacked Prime Minister St. Laurent and the government for denying the Federation this right. It asked for collective bargaining rights as they are understood in the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act. Under the Act the organization would be permitted to strike to back up demands.

Stage Show Sponsored by Legion Auxiliary

"On Stage Canada" was presented last Thursday evening in the Auditorium by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Legion Branch 70.

This show consisted of a minstrel troupe, comprising mostly Legion boys.

There were also dancing girls, and a very good group of amateur entertainers. Winners among the amateurs were — 1st prize, Gerry and Claire Lepage; 2nd, Wayne Riddell; 3rd, Bonnie and Linda MacKimmie.

Clem Meservey presented a skit entitled, "Life Gets Tedious — Don't It!" which was excellently done. Also as an added attraction, Mr. Provost imitated Al Jolson — an impersonation which was enjoyed by all present.

Winners of the baby contest were Randy Scott, of Lachute, and Debby Maitland, of Brownsburg, who were presented with silver loving-cups.

Thanks, of the Auxiliary are extended to all the merchants and business men of Lachute who contributed to the success of this undertaking.

Philippe Valois Liberal Choice At Convention

At a well attended convention of the Liberal organization yesterday in the municipal hall at Ste. Scholastique, Philippe Valois, of Lachute (M.P. in the last federal representation) was again chosen, unanimously, as candidate for Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes in the coming federal election. There were no other nominees for the candidature.

Mayor Chalifoux of Ste. Scholastique and Georges E. Dansereau of Grenville were joint presidents. Principal speaker was the Hon. Alcide Coté, Postmaster General. Jas. W. McGibbon, of Lachute, and Jean Lefrancois, M.P. for Laurier-Montreal, were other notables on the platform. The Hon. Alcide Coté was thanked for his presence and his address, by Georges Methot.

Main Planks Party Platforms Aired in Opening Speeches By Ottawa Political Leaders

P.M. St. Laurent, George Drew, M. J. Coldwell and Solon Low Raise Few New Issues, Ideas, Accusations

By LESLIE WILSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, June 30 (CP) — Canada's political leaders unlimbered their big guns last week, aimed them carefully, and fired off the first salvoes of the campaign which will culminate in the August 10 general election.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, in a speech broadcast in English and French over CBC networks, warned Canadians that they risk a return to the depression-ridden 30s if his Liberal government is not returned to power. He repeated the speech, with some elaboration, at Windsor, Ont.

Progressive Conservative leader George Drew told a CBC audience that taxes in Canada can be reduced by $500,000,000 a year by increasing the efficiency of government.

He repeated his party's 16-plank election platform, announced the previous week at Guelph, Ont., and charged the Liberal government with extravagance and with policies of over-taxation.

CCF leader M. J. Coldwell in seven speeches delivered at points in Saskatchewan, discussed his party's manifesto which was announced the previous week.

He pledged his party, if elected, to an immediate national health insurance program and a program to construct 100,000 new homes a year. Income taxes would be reduced for low-income groups but corporation taxes would be increased and taxes on excess profits and capital gains instituted.

Social Credit leader Solon Low in a speech over a national radio network presented a platform of tax reductions and financial reform. He said his party's tax proposals would effect "an immediate reduction in the cost-of-living of no less than 15 per cent." Taxes found to be restrictive in their effect on productive enterprise would either be abolished or reduced. Social Credit would abolish all present sales taxes except the two-per-cent portion which finances old age pensions.

Low said his party if elected to power would establish a national monetary authority to exercise full control over issue of money and credit, at a rate necessary "to insure continued expansion of production and consumption." But he opposed "state socialism, totalitarianism and regimentation." His party advocated "free competitive individual enterprise", and "the highest standard of Christian morality in politics and government."

Mr. St. Laurent's keynote speech summarized accomplishment of the Liberal party during his four years in office and posed two problems for the government which is successful in the election — the threat of communism to world peace and Canada's dependence on a high level of international trade.

Every chance of better relations with the Communists must be explored, he said, but in the meantime the build-up of Canada's defences should continue. Maintenance of a high trade level would need vigilance and skill on the part of Canadians.

Mr. Drew's keynote speech pledged his party if elected to call a dominion-provincial conference to reduce property taxes for education, health and other services, to restore and expand world markets for farm products and to establish prices related to farm costs.

Mr. St. Laurent hit back at Mr. Drew in a later speech delivered at the progressive conservative leader's home town of Guelph. He declared the Progressive Conservative party couldn't deliver on the tax cut promises because too much national revenue is committed to defence and other large amounts had been committed by Progressive Conservative promises.

Mr. Coldwell attacked the Liberal government for allegedly making promises just before elections and breaking them just after. He said the Liberal party has been promising a national health insurance scheme since 1919. A CCF government would set up such a scheme immediately it got into power.

Uranium Finds — No Longer News

Ottawa (CP) — A government official here took a calm look at spots in the Gatineau Valley north of Ottawa, where hundreds of prospectors swarmed over the bushland to stake out claims in the hope of uranium strikes.

Two strikes were reported, one running north of Wakefield, Que., 30 miles north of Ottawa, and the other in the Lake Basatong area, 120 miles north of Ottawa.

The official noted that "discovering uranium is no longer news. Uranium is being discovered all over the country. But it is only when the claim proves its commercial value and production begins that the discovery becomes worthwhile."

The commercial value of the new Quebec Province strikes has not yet been determined.

N.Z. Seeks Market For Meat in Canada

Wellington, N.Z. (CP) — New Zealand in recent months has been quietly testing the Canadian market for lamb.

The New Zealand Meat Producers' Board is organizing a project which is designed to open up a market for New Zealand meat in a way which will not conflict with the interests of Canadian farmers.

The first shipment was sent in February. It amounted to 50,000 pounds. Several smaller trial shipments have been sent at intervals since.

The lamb cuts sent were specially prepared for the Canadian market and were timed to arrive in the Canadian off season. Detailed reports on the reception of the meat are awaited before future policy is decided upon.

Last year New Zealand sent a large quantity of meat to the United States under a three-way switch arrangement with Canada at the time of the foot-and-mouth disease outbreak. Under this arrangement meat which Canada would normally have sent to the United States, but which was barred there, was dispatched to Britain, while New Zealand meat was sent to the United States instead of to Britain.

This meat, selling at 39 cents a pound in the United States was bought up quickly. However, it was an emergency measure to overcome the foot-and-mouth problem in Canada. New Zealand is not sending any more meat to the United States. The present Canadian trials are designed to open up a more permanent outlet.

Nine Countries Confirm Entries in World Match At Cobourg, Ont.

Toronto — Nine countries, including Canada, have confirmed their entries in the first world plowing chamionship to be held this October at Cobourg — John A. Carroll of Toronto, president of World Championship Ploughing Organization, reported on his return from England. Mr. Carroll attended meetings of W.C.P.O. and the annual meeting of the British Ploughing Association.

Confirmed entries for the world match are expected from other countries. Four countries, said Mr. Carroll, have already chosen their national champions to compete at the match, and others will be selected within the next two months.

The first world plowing championship (restricted to two tractor classes) is being held by W.C.P.O. in conjunction with the Ontario Plowmen's Association's annual four-day International Match. The International will be held on the grounds of the Durham - Northumberland Counties Home Farm at Cobourg, Ontario, October 6 to 9.

To date, said Mr. Carroll, Great Britain, Northern Ireland, Eire, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Holland and Germany have confirmed their entries.

Filtering Milk On the Farm

Filtering milk should be considered only as an additional safeguard in the production of high quality milk. In itself filtering cannot overcome carelessness in other sanitary procedures. The immediate removal of sediment which may have entered during milking is important to safeguard the quality. The consumer is entitled to as clean milk as it is practical to produce.

The factors to be considered in selecting a farm strainer are: (1) efficiency of filtering; (2) speed of filtering; (3) ease of cleaning; (4) amount of milk one filter disc will strain; and (5) cost.

The speed at which milk can be filtered is important not only as a time saver, but to prevent slowing down the milking routine. To reduce the time required to filter milk, a method of increasing the filtering area of the cotton filter disc was tested by the Dairy Section, Animal Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. By the use of a monel metal screen, mesh 10 x 10, or 8 x 8, gauge 22 or 24, cut to fit a standard strainer and placed in the bottom of the strainer ahead of the cotton filter disc, the time required for the same grade and quantity to pass through the strainer with the standard metal disc.

This demonstrates, says Research Officer C. A. Gibson, that the speed of filtering milk on the farm is determined by the area of the openings in the strainer, not the area of the supporting disc. Therefore, in the selection of a farm strainer consideration should be given to the open area of the supporting disc. Under practical conditions the metal screen was not difficult to keep clean and free from milk stone.

Golden Wedding At Cushing, Que.

Those attending from a distance were Mrs. D. W. Candlish, of Shawville, Que., Mrs. Donald Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Banks, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilkinson and Miss Annie McDowall, all of Montreal.

The Watchman joins with other friends in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Graham many more years of happiness, and sincerely appreciates the latter's faithfulness as district news correspondent for so many years.

Memories

Attendance at the above ceremony reminded Mr. Giles of earlier days, which he has summarized as follows:

"It is not often that the occasion of attending marriage ceremonials 50 and 60 years and over is presented, but Wednesday evening it was my privilege to be present at the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Graham at Cushing. The occasion brought forth happy and cherished memories of a similar celebration in earlier days, which took place in Montreal in September of 1892, when my sweetheart came out to me from England and we were married by the Rev. Canon Renaud in the old St. Thomas Church at 7.30 p.m., later being presented by the Royal Templers of Temperance (in the old Sons of England Hall at the junction of Craig and Notre Dame Streets) with a complete dinner and tea service.

It was a hallowed time as I sat with this fine gathering of old friends at Cushing, and I pictured again the earlier days in which the Giles group of three were bundled up in a little buggy and drove out to the old stone church at Cushing. Here, with the Rev. Mr. Fraser officiating, Mrs. Margaret Whelehan's recitations and Mr. and Mrs. Giles' singing were duly appreciated. Here let me say that Mrs. Graham has been for many years our faithful correspondent to The Watchman, as also was Miss Whelehan, for Cushing West and Stonefield.

The Economy of Using the Best

The economy of using the best possible materials is made apparent in the upkeep problem. A house or business building may be "thrown together" with cheap material, and it may "look all right", but after it has stood the shock of weather, the real test comes.

It is false economy to use poor materials — and we so advise everyone who buys from us. Our success is due to honesty in materials and prices.

The Magic of Summer

THE SHOWERS end, the sky becomes deep blue dotted with fleecy white clouds, and the world seems to float lazily into the sunlit realms of summer.

To all Canadians, the warm season brings joys to be recalled with pleasure when cold winter lies heavily upon the land. For the young, the summer is a veritable season of enchantment.

Just as the springtime brings a renewal of life to all nature, so the summer provides a series of "firsts" over which the growing boy or girl can marvel.

In swift succession after the first day of the season a youngster can ride a bicycle over an ice-free country road, come the first day to go barefoot, the first swim of the year in the old millpond, the appearance of the first strawberry blossom, the discovery of the first red-ripe berry, and so on into the dreamy time of summer heat.

Children of tender years can scarcely believe their eyes as one amazing development succeeds another. Their older brothers and sisters, with longer memories, like to compare the season's progress with that of the previous summer, wondering over the sameness and the points of difference.

Whether on the seashore, the plains, the mountains or in the forests, youth finds summer a magic time. With the excitement of school-closing over, young hands turn to summer work or play and young minds to the pageant of life around them.

Who can forget finding a bird's nest with its clutch of colored eggs carefully hidden in a quiet fence corner? Day after day the discoverer steals back to see if the eggs have hatched, then watches the mother bird feeding and tending her brood, until, surprisingly soon, the young birds are strong enough to fly away and find their own way through summer's wonderland.

Almost everywhere in the drowsy, humming, clover-scented outdoors, life is astir. And when, at the long day's close, the gold-and-purple sunset fades into velvety blue, even the stars seem alive as they dance close to the earth in the summer night.

The season is a time for playing, for working, for learning many of the things not found in books, for growing and for dreaming.

Best of all, the thrill of childhood summers is never entirely lost. For while memory remains, one can always recapture and cherish some of the glow that is the magic of summer.

View on Stock Shows

WITH the annual Lachute Fair still fresh in the mind's eye, it is interesting to note this commentary in The Ottawa Farm Journal — which includes in its observations an impression taken from our local exhibition:

Three fairs have been held in Eastern Ontario and nearby Quebec to date this year and, on the whole, the exhibits of livestock have not been too impressive. Each show had a fair showing of one or two breeds, then trailed off to the point where only a single exhibitor showed up. Lack of adequate help back on the farm was the usual reason given.

It is to be hoped this does not represent a pattern for the remainder of this show season. Agricultural fairs are held to encourage breeders, to give them a chance to show their wares and advertise and to afford entertainment and education to those who pay at the gate. All other things are secondary to this. Moreover fairs have become very expensive to operate and require an increasing amount of time and attention on the part of directors and management. The only reason and encouragement for all this is a good entry of stock — and if the stock is not there it is hard to find reason and justification for the expenditure of time and money.

Most prospective exhibitors can find good reason this year for staying away from the shows. Before too many decide to stay away it might be well if the over-all situation was examined closely. We suggest that breeders, taken as a group, have a certain responsibility to the shows, from local to county and up to the class A exhibitions. If classes were dropped, prize money cut, they would be the first to complain. If fairs were operated simply as vaudeville and amusement enterprises there would be cries of anguish. Yet the only way to keep the agricultural interest in fairs, and to justify the large amounts of prize money offered, is to have sufficient animals out to make competition and justify placing ribbons. Putting ribbons on small classes is just a joke. Paying out prize money for them is worse.

Through-Highways

EXPRESS highways in Ontario are going to be maintained as express highways. They are not going to be cluttered with roadside stands, drive-in theatres and other distractions, according to a highways official.

It is a step which should have been taken the day the first superhighway was planned and one that other provinces would be well advised to follow, comments The Financial Post.

We are simply throwing money away when we buy expensive right-of-way and build roads capable of handling high-speed traffic safely, and then allow them to be hopelessly cluttered with local traffic and local business. There is no sense in spending millions of money in cutting down grades, hills and curves if traffic is going to be reduced to a crawl in any case.

In the last 10 years, millions of dollars have been poured out for what were intended to be main provincial arteries but have now become simply urban streets, solidly built up, with cars coming from all sides and all angles.

Poison Ivy Again

IF IT HAS three leaves on each stem — avoid it. That's the best advice on how to prevent poison ivy.

The innocent-looking plant that runs wild along the roadside, up riverbanks, frequently around the best looking picnic spots, and sometimes dangerously near to summer cottages and playgrounds, can cause a great deal of summertime discomfort — and even serious infection, warns the Health League of Canada.

If a word of warning is not sufficient and you find yourself in contact with poison ivy — or even with the smoke from burning poison ivy — then here is what to do:

(1) Immediately wash the exposed parts of the body with laundry soap and warm water. Make it a thorough washing but do not scrub with a brush. Rinse several times.

(2) Apply rubbing alcohol liberally to the exposed areas.

(3) Next take a complete shower or tub bath.

(4) Dress in clean clothing, and see that clothing which may have been contaminated is cleaned — either by laundering or with a cleaning solvent.

(5) If a rash appears, consult your doctor at once.

Immigration

THE ARGUMENTS for keeping down immigration to a point where it wholly fails to meet the needs of an expanding economy are too often both confusing and conflicting.

It is argued that new workers might rob native citizens of their jobs. And it is argued that these new citizens, because of language difficulties and conflicting ways, may be incapable of adapting themselves to a new way of life. It is hard to see how both arguments can be sustained.

Take a specific example, the case of Lievan Gevaert, Belgian boy 13 years old. He came to Canada just two years ago, knowing not one word of English. He went to school at St. Jerome's College, Kitchener.

A week or so ago he entered his name as a contestant in the International American Optimist Oratorical Contest. As a preliminary he had won over 277 Ontario boys who had heard English since their birth. Now he goes to Washington to face the best that a continent can produce.

Now perhaps this does suggest that the best man will get the best job. It hardly suggests that a lack of adaptability will be an insurmountable barrier against immigration. Perhaps it shows that we could easily double the 164,498 new citizens who entered Canada last year — to our advantage.

No Depression

FOR THE present and some time to come, "there is no risk whatsoever, of anything close to a depression", Heyward T. Denyes, general vice-president of the Industrial National Bank of Detroit, told the American Institute of Banking at its recent annual convention. He advised members to stop worrying about a depression as "there isn't going to be one". The nation is prepared to cope with any economic "danger signs" that may appear, he declared. "We are on the threshhold of expanding tremendously the possibilities of world trade as soon as we find some answer to the tariff problem."

MONTREAL – MAELSTROM AND MILLSTREAM

By GEOFF.

Pity the plight of my pal Milligan. I met up with him the other evening and he was in the depths of despair.

"What's the matter, old man", I asked, "you really look blue tonight."

"Faith, and it's terrible", he replied. "Oi've jist seen the election head-counting men and I'm a beaten man."

"How so?"

"Well, now, it's this way."

"As ye know, me boy, I'm a resident of Westmount. And what do ye think they're goin' to do to poor old Milligan come election day? Sure, and they're givin' me the grand choice of voting fer a Conservative lad I was at school with, or the Minister of Finance fer the Liberals."

'Well", I answered, "why don't you vote for your school pal?"

"Him?" Milligan laughed. "He used to pound the bejabbers out of me hide every day. Oi've got to beat him somehow, so I won't vote fer him. And as fer Mr. Abbott, he's got all me money, so why should I give him me vote as well?"

"Hmm", I mused, "that is a problem. Why don't you run for election yourself, Milligan?"

His great Irish grin burst across his honest face.

"Me boy, you've solved the solution. Oi will run. There's enough of me friends that'll vote fer me to make it worthwhile. Of course, Oi won't get in and it's safe to bet I'll lose me deposit. But oi'll split the vote and that alone will be worth it."

Milligan rose to his full stature and shook me vigorously by the hand.

"Me boy", he said, "I feel like a new man, thanks to you. And now, if ye'll excuse me, Milligan has work to do."

I just had a telephone call from Milligan.

"Oi've been tryin' to locate you fer a dog's age", he began. "Geoff, me boy, old Milligan's ruined entirely."

"Whatever is the matter?" I asked. "Are you sick?"

"Only at heart, me boy, only at heart. When I left you the other evening, Oi went straight home. Oi hadn't been inside the door of me house five minutes when the telephone rang. Sure and be-jabbers, if it wasn't the Liberals wantin' to know if I would help out at campaign headquarters on election day. And that's not all. Oi'd no sooner finished with them than the Conservatives did the very same thing."

"Well, what are you going to do now?", I asked.

"That's just what I phoned to tell you. Geoff, me boy, Oi'm leavin' fer old Erin on the next boat out. That way, Oi'll use my deposit money to good advantage. Oi won't have to run, nor work for them and nobody'll get my vote, either. Goodbye, boy, and have fun!"

He was chuckling as he hung up. And, just before the line went dead, I heard the pop of a cork.

Sees Flaw in St. Lawrence Seaway Plan

Professor of Economy Thinks Picture Too Rosy

The newspapers have painted a very rosy picture of the St. Lawrence Seaway, Professor A. W. Currie of the Political Economy department at the University of Toronto said recently. Professor Currie spoke in Ryerson auditorium as part of the series sponsored by the Social Science department.

"Don't think me too pessimistic", he said, "but there are many unfavorable aspects to the Seaway."

Natural barriers, such as rapids, waterfalls and islands, as well as ice conditions, limit the efficiency of the Seaway. With weather conditions as they are, the system would be bound to be tied up for four months of each year, he said. This would not only result in a loss in revenue when traffic ceased each fall, but also an added expense when the cost of maintaining the installations is considered.

Fish Fry

Dr. Currie suggested two alternatives to prevent this annual winter shutdown which has been inevitable so far. He thought ice breakers could keep the waterways open, but even then the spray would form so much ice on the ships' rigging that they would run the risk of capsizing. If the water could be heated with atomic energy, all navigation difficulties would be solved, but, he said, "I hate to think of what that would do to the fish."

Dr. Currie said he believed the Seaway would be of great benefit to Canada, but that many of its advocates had exaggerated its advantages. The reduction in the cost of transporting wheat from the prairies to the overseas markets is one factor that has been overplayed.

Montreal Nearer

Since the St. Lawrence points directly at the industrial heart of Europe and Montreal is 370 miles closer to Liverpool than New York, the Seaway will greatly facilitate Canadian exports abroad, while at the same time opening up the Canadian markets to goods imported from overseas.

Hydro will be another important by-product of the Seaway, he said. "According to estimates, it will add 60 per cent to Ontario's hydro capacity". Not all of this power will go to Ontario, for Quebec and New York State will also be entitled to their share.

Dr. Currie thinks the Seaway will cost Canada at least a billion dollars. Various ways have been suggested to raise this sum. The most popular idea so far as a toll tax to be levied on each vessel passing through the locks, with the toll charges graduated in respect to the cargo being carried.

This program has two obvious advantages, Dr. Currie said. "It would make the people who use the Seaway pay for it." Advocates of this plan say that if traffic comes up to expectations, the Seaway could pay off its construction costs and interest charges within 50 years. Then, too, since the U.S. has decided not to help build it, this system would make them pay for it after it was built anyway.

Since the Seaway installations will not be able to pass any ships with a draft deeper than 26 feet, 90 per cent of U.S. ocean-going shipping will be excluded from travelling through the whole system. Also many shipping companies would be reluctant about sending their ships into the Great Lakes in the fall season when there was danger they might be trapped in the ice for the winter.

How You Can Buy Coal At Off-Season Cost, Even If Low in Cash

Canadians from coast to coast find it economical and convenient to buy winter coal now — months ahead of the time they will need it in earnest. That way, they say, you avoid being caught off-base by an unseasonable drop in temperature, and you can take advantage of off-season prices. Furthermore, you can get it all at once and bone-dry to boot.

Of course, the good old summertime leaves many people short of funds. If that is your problem, call on Donald Hay, manager of the Lachute Bank of Montreal, and discuss a B of M Coal Loan. Its cost is very low. It's convenient, too, because you repay by easy instalments that can stretch as far ahead as next April.

It's the B of M's business to lend you money, if it is good business for you to borrow. Remember, when you ask for a loan at the B of M, you do not ask a favor. If you are in a position to repay out of income without strain on your budget, the bank is glad to lend you money for any useful purpose.

In 1943, the Canadian Pacific Railway received its first five 1,000 - horsepower diesel yard switchers. Today the C.P.R. dieselization program has broadened to the scope where whole divisions are being dieselized at one time. By the end of 1952, the C.P.R. had a total of 292 diesel units in service.

But good morning up there."

HARRIS — In loving memory of our darling Betty, who left us on July 7, 1952. — Loved and longed for always, Mummy and Daddy.
"A little spirit speeding through the night;
A little home grown lonely, dark and chill;
A sad heart groping for the light;
A little green-clad grave beneath the hill
— And that is all.
A little gathering of life's broken thread;
A little patience keeping back the tears;
A song that sings, 'Thy Darling is not dead'
God keep her safe through his eternal years."

HARRIS — In loving memory of my dear niece, Betty, who left us on July 7, 1952. — Lovingly remembered, Aunt Mary.
"God must have a beautiful garden,
For He always picks the best."

HARRIS — In loving memory of our dear granddaughter, Betty, who left us on July 7, 1952. — Lovingly remembered, Grandma and Grandpa McIntyre.
"'Thy will be done' is hard to say
When those we love are called away;
Someday sometime we'll understand,
When we meet again in that better land."

HARRIS — In fond memory of a dear friend, Betty (Be-Be) Harris, who passed away July 7, 1952. — Ever remembered by Brenda, Edie and Ward.
"Always smiling, always content,
Loved and respected wherever she went,
Always so good, unselfish and kind,
What a wonderful memory she left behind."

MacTAVISH — In loving memory of our dear little daughter, Shirley Joanne, who passed away four years ago today, July 2, 1949. — Loved and never forgotten, Mum, Dad and wee Ronald.
"We cannot read God's purpose,
But there will come a day
When He will help us understand
Why He took wee Joanne away."

MacTAVISH — In loving memory of our precious little granddaughter, who was called home on July 2, 1949. — Loved and always cherished by Grandpa and Grandma MacMillan, Alex, Joyce and Carl.
"She has gone across the river
To the shores of evergreen,
And we long to see her dear little face
But the river flows between.
Some day, some time, our eyes shall see
The wee face we loved so dear,
Some day we'll clasp her dear little hand,
Never to part again."

LEROY — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. P. Leroy, aged 89 years, who passed away June 27, 1952. — The Family.
"In our chest of cherished memories
Are locked up thoughts of you,
Your smiling face, your tender heart,
And things you used to do.
This token of love and affection,
Of a mother we'll never forget,
Her memory to us is a treasure,
Her loss a lifetime regret."

LEROY — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. P. Leroy, who passed away June 27, 1952. — Daughter, Edith, son-in-law, Adam Page.
"Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days,
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought the end so near;
Only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell."

Pictures of the Coronation

July 5-6-7 will be red letter days at the Bell Theatre in Morin Heights, as the management of this new enterprise have secured the picture showing the Coronation of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II. As this picture has been brought to Morin under special arrangements, everyone should take occasion to be present. It is hoped to make arrangements for a matinee; failing this the Curfew will be dispensed with for one of these nights, so that the children will have an opportunity to attend.

The Trinity — Divine Mystery or Pagan Myth ?

Perhaps on no doctrine are the differing sects of Christendom, both Catholic and Protestant, more agreed than on that of the trinity. Men have been anathematized, excommunicated, and persecuted to the extent of being roasted alive, all because they refused to believe in the trinity.

How can there be three Gods and yet but one God? How can there be three Omnipotents? The claim is made that the trinity is a divine mystery and therefore cannot be comprehended. True, some things we cannot comprehend; such as how God always existed. But to hold such is both reasonable and Scriptural; in fact, to hold otherwise is but to raise more questions. But is the trinity Scriptural and reasonable?

The term "trinity" is not found in the Bible; and first toward the end of the second century did it creep into ecclesiastical writings. It became the chief doctrine of the newly-adopted state religion at the Council of Nice, A.D. 325, when its presiding officer, the pagan emperor Constantine, championed it.

Even apart from what political considerations may have entered, Constantine doubtless had no difficulty in deciding for the trinity, as it was a part of the popular pagan philosophy of Plato. Not that it began with Plato. Far from it. Actually it goes back to the time of Nimrod, the "mighty hunter before the Lord", the grandson of Ham. (Genesis 10: 9).

According to the historian Hislop: "The recognition of the trinity was universal in all the ancient nations of the world". In one of India's ancient cave-temples was the inscription: "One God, three forms".

Taoism has its trinity or triad of gods with its founder, Lao-tse, occupying second place. The Mahayana Buddhists also have a trinity, a triple-bodied deity, Trikaya. Some Japanese worship a three-headed deity.

No Scriptural Support

The fact that the Scriptures frequently associate the Father, the Son and the holy spirit together, does not of itself prove that the three are co-equal, co-eternal, etc. At most it indicates a condition of unity or complete harmony.

The favorite text to prove the trinity has been I John 5:7, it being the only one in the Bible stating: "the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghost: and these three are one." However, this phrase has been rejected as spurious by all modern Bible authorities.

Another text used to support the trinity is John 1: 1: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God." At best this would prove a duality, but not a trinity. However, the Greek text shows the definite article before the first term "God" but not before the second one, and so we find modern translations reading "and the Word was divine". (Goodspeed; Moffatt). Or, "The Word was with God, and the Word was a god." — New World Trans. (Continued next week.)

What Has Religion Done for Mankind?

Dedicated to the peace and unity of all persons of good will of whatever race or nation, the book "What Has Religion Done for Mankind?" examines the fruits of the major religions of mankind in the light of the reliable criterion, the Bible. Containing 352 pages, with scripture and subject indexes, it is bound in beautiful canary-yellow cover, gold-leaf stamped, and is available on a contribution of 50 cents. — Watch Tower, 40 Irwin Ave., Toronto 5, Ontario.

Rev. S. J. Pike Retires from B'burg Pastorate, Takes Vacation in Newfoundland

The Rev. S. J. Pike

Brownsburg — The Rev. and Mrs. S. J. Pike, of Brownsburg, left this week for Newfoundland on an extended vacation. It is now some 20 years since Mr. and Mrs. Pike visited their native home, 17 years of which covered Mr. Pike's pastorate in Brownsburg. Officially he terminated his pastorate on Sunday last, except for this vacation which the church is providing.

While in St. John's, Nfld., Mr. Pike will occupy the pulpit of Cochrane Street Centennial United Church, in which he was ordained on July 2, 1917, and prior to that preached his trial sermon while on probation for the ministry in the Newfoundland Conference. Married in Cochrane Street Church on October 24 of the same year, Mrs. Pike also will renew many acquaintances, having been a member of the choir and on the teaching staff of the Sunday School.

Traveling by car to North Sydney, where they will take the boat for Port-aux-Basques, the first point in Newfoundland, Mr. and Mrs. Pike will make several stop-overs along the railway before reaching Carbonear, Mr. Pike's native home, on the East Coast, and St. John's, Mrs. Pike's home city.

At the close of the service on Sunday morning Mr. T. G. Pasco, on behalf of the congregation, wished Mr. and Mrs. Pike a pleasant journey and safe return.

Vacation Bible School At St. Simeon's Church

The annual Vacation Bible School, with Bible lessons, stories, games and handcraft, will be held in St. Simeon's Church, Lachute, July 6 to 17, inclusive. The hours of school will be from 9.30 to 11.30 a.m. The lesson course this year promises to be very interesting. All children 4 to 15 years of age are welcome.

Que. Temperance League

At the recent executive committee meeting of the Quebec Temperance League, it was reported that the educational films were in constant demand and appreciated where used.

The financial report showed an increase of $200 over that of the same period last year.

The Dominion Conference will be in Montreal on December 3 and 4.

For if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you.

Delegation to Attend "Witnesses" Convention In New York City

Lachute and Brownsburg will be represented by a delegation of 16 at the International Convention of Jehovah's Witnesses, at the Yankee Stadium, New York City. Albert C. Mierke, presiding minister here and head of the delegation, states that the group will travel by special train and by car to join more than 125,000 other Witnesses of Jehovah in their 8-day convention, opening July 19.

Jehovah's Witnesses are attending from every province in Canada and nearly 100 countries to participate in the largest religious convention ever to be held in America. Chartered planes carrying delegates from Africa, Europe and Latin America will soon converge on New York. Delegations from Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and the Orient are already on the high seas. Some 18,000 Canadians are expected to attend.

"It is significant in this materialistic age", Mr. Mierke said, "that people will spend millions of dollars for the privilege of assembling together to worship Jehovah God. It will be a feast for the mind on spiritual food. True faith in God is not declining. Jehovah's Witnesses annually report a worldwide increase of about 20 per cent in the number preaching. We expect thousands more will be baptized at the convention." Mr. Mierke says that Lachute has increased by 89 per cent this last year in the number preaching.

Correction

A slight error occurred last week in this column, regarding a farewell for the Rev. G. W. Case. It was mentioned that Mr. P. Hall, the chairman, made a presentation to the honored guest, whereas the token was presented by Mr. Fuller, of Cushing, on behalf of the four congregations in the charge.

Bible Society

The report for the year 1952 of the Bible Society shows some interesting items regarding our local workers. During the year the General Committee conferred Honorary Life Membership upon Mr. John Connelly, of Brownsburg, for 34 years of active service; on Mr. Godfrey Dixon, of Dalesville, for 41 years of active service; also on Mr. Gilbert Ryan, of Mille Isles, for 34 years of work.

The following branches of the Society in this district and county exceeded contributions of any previous year: Brownsburg, Calumet, Lachute, St. Andrews East, Terrebonne Heights.

A total of 18,947 copies of the Scriptures were circulated from the Montreal Auxiliary, in 35 languages, of which 6,114 were in French.

B.B.C. Special for Dominion Day

London — To mark Dominion Day this year, the BBC broadcast a single edition of its popular feature "Top of the Form" in the "Light Programme" on July 1. Competing were teams of girls and boys from the Forest Hill Collegiate in Toronto, and Harrow County Grammar School. Questions were posed in Canada by CBC commentator Reid Forsee, and in England by John Ellison. In the evening BBC listeners heard a Canadian play, "The Flower in the Rock", based on a novel by Joseph Schull. Bernard Braden played the lead, and the cast was mainly Canadian. "Town Forum" in the Home Service featured Canadian speakers.

Quebec Total in Payroll Savings Over $50-Million

"More than $50-million in payroll savings was invested in the Province of Quebec in last fall's 7th Series Canada Savings Bonds campaign", Gerard Gingras, Quebec Payroll Savings Director, said in Montreal, following his appointment to lead the payroll sales force in Quebec for the 8th Series drive next fall.

Payroll purchases of Savings Bonds by Quebec employees last year totalled $40,172,700. To this should be added about 30 per cent of the $42 - million purchased throughout Canada by Province of Quebec employees of railways, the Federal Civil Service, members of the armed services and bank employees.

Not counting these last categories, Quebec achieved a 4.6 per cent gain in payroll savings over 1951, when employees purchased $38,418,050 worth of Canada Savings Bonds through payroll deductions.

The total of payroll savings in Quebec has been going up steadily since World War II; it was more than $11 million higher last year than in 1949, prior to the Korean conflict.

"While all payroll investors do not hang on to their Savings Bonds", Mr. Gingras said, "a great many do, since there is now over $1.16 billion worth of bonds outstanding in Canada."

"For the employee, the habit of thrift is sound protection against contingencies. For management, thrifty employees mean stability. For the country as a whole, a thrifty public symbolizes faith in the future and economic well-being," said Mr. Gingras.

Mrs. Jack Pearson, of Shawinigan Falls, is spending a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. McMahon.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Cook, of Mountain View, are on a vacation trip to Winnipeg by automobile.

LAC. Buddy Cook, RCAF, Aylmer, Que., is spending a leave with his family in Lachute.

Mrs. A. H. Beecroft and daughters, Caroline and Frances, of Dunnville, Ont., attended the King-Copeland wedding in Montreal on Saturday, and will spend a vacation in Lachute and Montreal visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Rice and family spent Sunday visiting in Cornwall, Ont.

The Boxing Game In United States

SPORTS CAMERA
By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There's a boom and a depression going on in United States boxing today and nobody seems to know how things are going to wind up.

Television, a boon to stay-at-home fans but a menace to sports promoters, has the boxing boys in just as big a whirl as the bigwigs in baseball and football.

The boxing boom is on in popularity. Television webs spin across the U.S. with five boxing shows a week, increasing the number of fans by the thousands every showing.

But rust is gathering on the turnstiles in arenas and the depression is heavy in the small boxing clubs, which produces much of the fistic talent. One by one the small clubs have been falling by the wayside.

For example, 22 clubs operated in New York state last year. Only seven are in business now and only four of them schedule regular shows.

Promoters' Dilemma

Here's the promoters' dilemma: How are you going to get the fans out to the fight clubs when they can see it better and for free at home?

Some cities, such as New York, get boxing shows by TV every night of the week except Sunday.

Things reached a point last year where radio and TV sponsors paid more money for fights than came in through the turnstiles. Figures compiled by Ring Magazine, the boxing monthly, showed that $4,800,000 was distributed last year by the sponsors while only $4,600,000 was collected at the gate.

To meet the demands of TV, they are signing for main bouts today many boxers who wouldn't have rated a six-rounder in conditions a few years ago. In many cases, you can't blame the fight fans for remaining at home.

When the late Mike Jacobs, for instance, didn't have a good enough attraction in the old days, he just didn't put on a show. That's a luxury the promoter in these TV days can't afford.

"The tail is wagging the dog", says Nat Fleisher, editor of Ring Magazine and a boxing historian. He is convinced that unless something is done soon, the many network shows will ruin the sport.

"It's drying up the sources of boxing talent", Fleisher said. "Where are the new fighters to come from? In the last three years more than 50 per cent of the small clubs around the country have folded.

"Today there are about 2,300 less professional fighters in the U.S. than there were about three years ago when we had about 6,000."

Legion Softballers Visit St. Michel

On Sunday the Lachute Legion softball team, with President Doug Ogilvie, visited St. Michel for a friendly game at the field fronting Cyrille Gagné's restaurant.

The St. Michel boys, piloted by Armand Quenneville, were ahead 5-2 against Howard Ward's Legionnaires in the fourth inning, when a rainstorm drove the 150 spectators from the grounds to seek shelter in the restaurant, "Le Petit Canot". Here, the musicians set to and provided entertainment.

It is hoped to resume the softball engagement next Sunday, at the same place.

St. Andrews Country Club Welcomes Visiting Golfers

The St. Andrews County Club is now open and the course in good shape. Jim Seeney, the club pro, has done a marvelous job of renovating and rebuilding the course and its facilities. It was long, hard work, since it has been abandoned for the past three or four years.

The club now boasts over 125 members, and more are joining every week. Several important meets are scheduled for the months of July and August. Saturday and Sunday, July 4 and 5, the club will be host to the Power Boat Squadron of Montreal and Ottawa, and a few dozen yacht and luxury boats carrying some 200 sportsmen are expected to land at the club's beach.

Jim Seeney extends a special invitation to golfers of the Lachute area. "We would like them to see what we have done, and what we intend to do", said Jim. The daily fee is very low, and the atmosphere is one of cordiality and relaxation.

Labor Agreement Molson Employees

A labor agreement concluded last spring between the Molson's Brewery Employees' Association and Molson's Brewery Limited has made April 15, 1953, one of the most memorable dates in the recent record of labor relations in the province. On that day the pace was set for rates of pay which are now being established in the industry in Quebec.

The work week of Molson's employees was reduced from 48 hours to 40 — with no loss of pay.

The agreement, which becomes effective on October 5, established the highest minimum rates of pay in the industry: from $1.55 to $2.00 per hour generally, and from $1.65 to $2.27 per hour for tradesmen. Molson's employees have enjoyed a corresponding return since October, 1951 — but then on the 48-hour basis. The new rates incorporate the cost of living bonus and the special bonus of seven weeks' wages which has been paid employees since October 1950. In addition, the company maintains all the special benefits — pension plan, group insurance, sickness, hospitalization, surgical care, cafeteria, etc. — for which Molson's has long been noted.

The great advance represented by the new agreement becomes especially apparent where non-specialized labor is concerned. Here the new rates are far above the general level of pay in Montral.

The agreement was negotiated and signed, on behalf of the employees, by J. G. Lamoureux, president, and Georges Lord, secretary-treasurer and business agent of the Employees' Association. "We are naturally very pleased to have been concerned with working out this important agreement which has become a guide for others in the industry", states Mr. Lamoureux. "The friendly discussions and negotiations leading up to its completion provided further evidence of the spirit of goodwill and co-operation which has always been so noticeable throughout the history of the company."

BRITISH PAINTER FOR BANFF SCHOOL OF FINE ARTS

London — For the fifth consecutive year the British Council is co-operating with Alberta University in arranging for a British artist to be guest instructor at the Banff School of Fine Arts summer school, from July 6 to August 15. He is William Scott, 40, senior teacher of painting at the Bath Academy of Art, Corsham. Born at Greenock of Scottish and Irish parents, Mr. Scott studied at Belfast School of Art and the Royal Academy School, London. His first one-man show was held in London in 1942. His works have been purchased by numerous galleries in Britain and abroad, including Canada.

The big rose to the little one: "Hi, bud!"

One light to another: "Let's go out tonight!"

One ear to another: "Funny we haven't met — we live on the same block."

Bad year for dogs, glummed the Summerland, B.C., council as they totalled up and found that claims paid this year by the municipality for chickens, sheep and goats killed by dogs have amounted to $324.50. . . Something new has been added to Nelson, B.C., famous for its summer bonspiel; now they are to have a World Summer Hockey Championship series in mid-July.

Orange Celebration At Exhibn. Grounds in Avonmore, July 11

Avonmore, Ont. — The 263rd commemoration of the Battle of the Boyne will be observed at the Exhibition Grounds at Avonmore, Ontario, on Saturday, July 11. This commemoration was last held in Avonmore about 50 years ago. All 15 lodges of Stormont County will be attending, including L.O.L., L.O.B.A., Juveniles, and O.Y.B. Lodges from outside the county attending will include Winchester L.O.L. 862, Cannamore L.O.L. 653, and three lodges from Cardinal, L.O.L. 162, L.T.B. 355, and the Juveniles of the L.T.B., also many brethren from Mountain, Morrisburg, Prescott and Ottawa. Quite a number of the L.O.B.A. of Dundas and Grenville Counties are also expected, as there is no commemoration in these counties this year. There are also other lodges in the district who may be attending, which have not yet been heard from.

The parade of lodges through the town streets will get under way at 1.30. A good program has also been lined up, including horse races, with pari-mutuel, beginning immediately after the parade; a softball tournament, to be held during the afternoon; and Highland dancing, with plenty of pipe band music.

Many prominent speakers of the Orange Order will be on the platform, including Rt. Wor. H. A. Graham, of Kingston. There will be refreshment booths on the grounds, and the ladies of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will serve meals during the day in the Fair building.

A large crowd is expected from the surrounding district, at this year's commemoration.

Horse Laff !

SMILEY BURNETTE and his bosom pal, who will delight the crowd next Monday at Brownsburg Arena. Accompanying this favorite screen comedian and his cowboy troupe is Smiling Bill Russell, "the world's greatest harmonica player."

Stratford Festival

Among the top Canadian actors, selected to take part in the first Stratford, Ont., Shakespearean Festival in July are Eric House (left) and Bob Christie (right), pictured above with Alec Guinness who will star in the Stratford productions of Richard III and "All's Well That Ends Well". Christie and House are well known for their performances in CBC dramas, in both radio and television.

FIRE AT RESORT

Ivy Lea, Ont. (CP) — The High Oakes hotel, being prepared for the summer tourist trade, was destroyed by fire with loss of $35,000. The hotel was at the Canadian end of the Thousand Islands bridge near Brockville.

CBC Salutes Canada's Aircraft Industry

This year, the Canadian aircraft industry is celebrating its 50th anniversary, and on July 5 CBC Trans-Canada will mark the occasion with an hour-long documentary called "The Air Age in Canada."

Prepared by Norman McBain of the CBC, the program will tell the story of a great manufacturing industry and of the men and women who have made aircraft and flown them in Canada through the past fifty years.

The story starts with the first heavier-than-air flight in the British Empire on February 23, 1909. The pilot was J. A. D. McCurdy, a Canadian, now the Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia. The plane rose 30 feet from the ice off Cape Breton, flew a half mile, then landed safely. The documentary ends with a description of the future, including a proposed trans-Atlantic rocket.

In preparing the documentary, McBain visited some of the country's larger aircraft plants, talked with everyone from riveters to designers, examined laboratories and methods of production, taking, in all, a good look at the billion dollar industry and its 60,000 personnel.

Canadians Are Curious!

Canadians are eager to learn — according to figures released by the Family Herald and Weekly Star. The huge volume of mail addressed to Family Herald "Service Departments" last year bears out this fact.

Help in solving practical problems was the motivation of most enquiries — technical information furnished by the Farm Mechanics Department which answered 1252 enquiries, the Veterinary Department with 1220 queries, the Horticultural Department with 825 questions and the Legal Department with 1077.

The majority of the 734 letters addressed to the "Voice of the Farm" came from men, the 1404 Medical queries and the 807 requests for "Old Favorite" songs from men and women alike. 120,675 readers sent for one or more patterns from the three special pattern services offered by this famous farm magazine. The 3465 letters from children taking part in the Maple Leaf correspondence club indicate the all-round nature of the service.

The Family Herald provides interesting reading for every member of the Family. . . In one year the agricultural information would make up an encyclopedia of several volumes . . enough recipes are printed to fill a 300-page cookbook —book-length novels, short stories, special sections for girls, junior farmers and children, round out the fare. And to the wealth of reading has been added new features — Greg Clark's "Packsack" adds a bit of homely philosophy — the new Farm Engineering Page has received popular acclaim and children everywhere enjoyed the recent coloring contests.

Individuals soon get tired of being asked interminable questions, but magazines like the Family Herald and Weekly Star are eager to be asked, and pleased to answer — for the volume of such practical appeals for help is a good measure of a magazine's value and appeal to its readers.

Cherries

This is the month when the two large cherry-growing provinces, British Columbia and Ontario, provide us with sweet cherries to eat out of hand. Red, juicy, sour cherries from British Columbia, Ontario and Nova Scotia are available too for pies, puddings and the like. Everyone enjoys cherries for they have such a bright color and a wonderful flavor.

There are several varieties of sweet cherries sold on the market and the most well-known is the Bing cherry which is grown in both Ontario and British Columbia. Lamberts are a well-known sweet variety too and are grown for the most part in British Columbia, while the Black Tartarian, the Schmidt and the Windsor are grown mainly in Ontario. British Columbia also produces Royal Ann cherries which are sweet white cherries. When it comes to red sour cherries, there is one main variety grown in Canada and that is the Montmorency. A few Richmonds are grown in Ontario.

Be sure to have plenty of fresh sweet cherries on hand in the refrigerator because everyone loves to have a handful to munch. Do not forget that you may add fresh sweet cherries to fruit cups, to ice creams or to gelatine desserts. Pitted, sweet cherries mixed with cottage cheese and moulded on a bed of lettuce makes a wonderful luncheon salad.

Sour cherry pie tops the list of favorites with many pie lovers. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, also recommend cherry up-side-down cake. It is very good served with generous dabs of whipped cream. All the wonderful cherry recipes are far too numerous to mention, so homemakers will do well to look up their favorite recipes and use plenty of cherries while they last.

It is cherry time now and bright red sour cherries are on the market just waiting to be bought. Be sure to buy cherries that are plump and firm. They should not be over-ripe or have bruised spots or splits. Watch to see that the cherries are bright red all over. They should not have any green spots. Now is the time for the homemaker who owns a home freezer or rents a frozen food locker to freeze sour cherries or pie cherries, as many people call them. These are recommendations for freezing.

First stem and pit the firm, ripe red cherries. The cherries may be packed in dry sugar, using two cups of sugar to every eight cups of fruit or they may be packed in a cold heavy syrup to cover, that is, a syrup made with one cup of sugar and three-quarters of a cup of water. When using the dry sugar pack, be sure that the sugar is thoroughly mixed with the fruit. The home economists say that the best way to do this is to place a layer of prepared fruit in a bowl, then a layer of sugar, then more fruit, then more sugar and so on, until all the fruit and sugar are used up. Then stir slightly to mix the fruit and sugar evenly. If cherries are frozen this way, then they are all ready to use in pies or puddings. No additional sugar is needed, that is unless your family prefers pies that are very, very sweet.

The easiest way to can sweet cherries is by the cold pack method. Simply wash and stem the cherries and pack into sealers or in enamel cans which have a bright reddish gold lining. That is the type of can which should be used for red fruits. Cover the fruit with boiling thin syrup made with one cup of sugar and two cups of water, leaving a headspace of a half-inch in glass sealers and one-quarter inch in tin cans. Process the cherries for twenty-five minutes per quart in boiling water or thirty-five minutes per quart in a 275°F. oven. When canning sour cherries the solid pack method is a good one to use if the cherries are for pies or puddings. With this method, first wash, stem and pit the cherries. Then crush enough cherries to make a juice in the bottom of the preserving kettle. Add the remaining fruit and heat it for a few minutes. Stir the cherries occasionally just to be sure that they do not scorch. If the cherries do stick, add a little water. When the cherries are hot, pack them in sealers or in enamel cans, the same type of enamel cans as used for sweet cherries, crushing the cherries down slightly so that they are covered with their own juice. Sprinkle between the layers of cherries, in every quart jar, one to one and one-quarter cups of sugar. Leave about half an inch headspace in glass sealers and one-quarter inch headspace in tin cans. Process these cherries the same time as the sweet cherries, that is, twenty-five minutes in a boiling water bath and thirty-five minutes in a 275°F. oven.

For a surprise for gingerbread or pudding, add two tablespoons of unsulphured molasses to each cup of whipped cream.

A gill is one-eighth of a quart.

Fashions

The sleeveless dress with its cover-up jacket is a fashion that deserves every bit of its big success. This representative of a good fashion is especially nice. The dress is simply cut, its round neck piped in white. Beige cotton is used for the dress and jacket. It is seamed under the bust with a small flange tuck to match the tuck at the base of the short jacket which has a white collar and cuffs.

Why not serve a beet relish the next time you have roast pork! Simply mix diced canned beets with horseradish to taste and moisten with a little vinegar.

Provincial Convention Of Quebec Women's Inst.

"At this convention, when good resolutions are in order, perhaps we should resolve to play our individual parts a little better and to help, in any way we can, the other fellow in the execution of his duties", said Mrs. G. E. LeBaron, North Hatley, president, in opening the 39th Annual Provincial Convention of the Quebec Women's Institutes, held at Macdonald College, June 23-25. "In this way", she continued, "the year will be a successful one for us, individually and as a group".

The various reports presented in the following sessions would indicate there has been some success achieved and considerable expansion in the various fields of service. The resolutions approved give evidence of the diversity of interests. Enforcement of the law making it compulsory for all cars to stop behind school buses when children are getting on and off asking for a course in forestry to be taught in English speaking colleges in this province; Canadian railroads to equip freight cars with red reflectors so that approaching motorists can have warning at crossings, and picnic places be provided and maintained along highways of this province, for the enjoyment of tourists and the public in general. In addition, in co-operation with other provincial Institutes of Canada, a resolution was sent to the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada asking that the Prime Minister consider appointing a woman to the Senate to represent each province as a vacancy occurs, the selection to be made on her ability to make a contribution to the Senate and to assist others in understanding the function of government and their responsibilities as citizens.

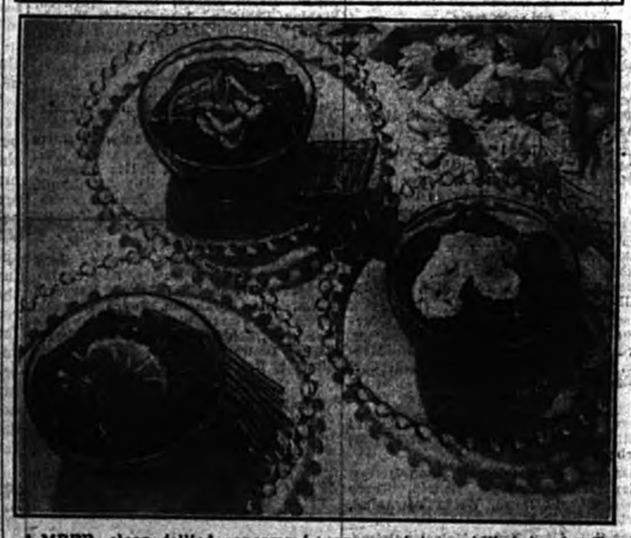
There were only two vacancies to be filled this year on standing committees. Elected to these positions were Mrs. J. Ossington, Granby, Citizenship, and Mrs. J. Smallwood, Dorion, Home Economics.

Membership in the province was reported as 2,700 with a total of 102 branches. A new Institute had been formed at Parent, in LaViolette County and Haldimand in Gaspé County had re-organized.

Approximately 140 were in attendence of exceptional merit, and the discussion period which followed in each case showed the interest taken in the various subjects, all related to W.I. Work. What is happening to Agriculture and Dairy Farmers in paricular, was discussed by Mr. Gilbert MacMillan, of Huntingdon, President Dairy Farmers of Canada. "Ideas in a Hungry World" was the title of a talk by Dr. Chas. J. Woodsworth, editor of the "Otawa Citizen" and an authority on the Far East, and a definite approach to a community mental health program was outlined by Dr. A. MacLeod, Assistant Director of the Mental Hygiene Institute, Montreal, a project to be undertaken by the Q.W.I. "Sing!" said Mrs. D. L. MacFarlane, Macdonald College, who has had much experience and training in working with rural groups, and went on to give a practical demonstration of methods of group singing and its value as a part of life in every rural community. Another enjoyable feature of the program was the demonstration "Decorating Delights with Wallpaper", by Miss Marie Fremont, Demonstrator and Counsellor, National Wallpaper Manufacturers Association.

Summing up the knowledge gained, and the interests enlarged, at the close of the convention in this "International Year", Mrs. LeBaron expressed the hope the delegates would be able to put this to good use in the cause of the Institute. "May you all have the courage, patience and endurance to carry on, as you go back to your homes and communities", were her concluding words.

Keep Cool With Consommé



AMBER, clear, jellied consommé. What could be cooler, more refreshing on a sweltering day!

This is the dish to keep ever-ready for summer eating. Store several cans of consommé in your refrigerator. Then it will be completely chilled and jellied when mealtime arrives. It takes about 4 hours to jell in the refrigerator. Put consommé in to chill at breakfast time; then it's just right for lunch.

Enjoy it with a bacon-tomato sandwich. Or with a vegetable and cottage cheese salad. Crisp crackers are always good nibbling with the consommé.

Lemon is traditional topping for this chilled specialty. Or a slice of lime adds a new tradition. There are many other crispy tidbits to sprinkle over or stir into the consommé. Also it combines well with other juices. You'll like the following variations.

CONSOMMÉ COOLERS

Consommé with Sour Cream and Chives: Chill a can (1¼ cups) condensed consommé in refrigerator at least 4 hours so it is jellied. Spoon consommé into chilled bowls. Top with combination of sour cream mixed with chopped chives.

Fruit Consommé: Combine 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed consommé with ½ soup can orange juice and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Chill in refrigerator at least 4 hours. Spoon into chilled bowls. Garnish with grated orange rind. 3 servings.

Hawaiian Consommé: Mix together 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed consommé, ¼ soup can pineapple juice, and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Chill in refrigerator at least 4 hours. Spoon into chilled bowls. Garnish with pieces of canned pineapple, if desired. 3 servings.

SOUP SCOOPS

Beans Are Picnic Special: A picnic is only complete with beans and pork, especially when prepared this way. Put 2 cans of beans into a 1-quart casserole. Cut 1 large tomato into 6 slices; arrange these over top of beans. Lay short strips of bacon over tomatoes. Bake casserole at 400°F. about 30 minutes or until bacon is browned. 6 servings. Just the thing with toasted franks and iced tea.

Holiday in A National Park

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"Mother, could we go on a trip this holiday? Why couldn't we visit one of our National Parks? They showed a film to the older pupils of a family camping at Banff. They had such fun!" Junior exclaimed, when he came home from school. "We couldn't travel far this summer — but if a camping trip to one of the nearest parks turned out to be a good vacation for all of us — we might take a longer jaunt another year. I really don't know how many national parks there are or where they are located — "

"I'll write for information", Junior offered eagerly. "Teacher said the address was easy to remember—"National Parks Branch, Department of Resources and Development, Ottawa."

Recently the record for the number of visitors to our National Parks reached an all time "high" — with over two million visitors. Four-fifths of this total were native Canadians, and many of the group were family units.

Mothers and fathers with children mostly took advantage of the equipped camp grounds, trailer parks or modest bungalow cabins. There are luxurious hotels in some of our parks, like Jasper Park Lodge. But a few days at one of our National Parks are not just within the reach of the wealthy. The parks provide a wonderful holiday setting for a great many people who must budget carefully.

Canada's system of National Parks began away back sixty-seven years ago, when the area around the hot mineral springs at Banff in the Rocky Mountains was set apart for the use of the public. In 1951, Fundy, the twenty-eighth link in the chain of parks across the Dominion was opened on the East Coast. Fundy is in the rugged forest region, halfway between Moncton and St. John.

Detailed information about any one park or about all of them can be obtained by writing to Ottawa, and anyone who looks over this literature will be impressed. What a wonderful system of National Parks we have stretching right across our thousand miles!

The functions served by our National Parks are many. Fun, relaxation, a change of scene, are uppermost in the minds of most holiday folk. All of these can be found at our national parks and the varied accommodation can fit almost any family budget.

These parks do preserve the primitive beauty of mountain slopes, the countryside island areas, river vallies, countryside and sea coast for this and future generations. The national historic park sites are windows through which visitors can catch a glimpse of days gone by. They are of special use to boys and girls studying history — just as wild life and bird sanctuaries are a stimulus to observations of natural scientific phenomena both by students and just ordinary folk. The protection of animals and birds given in these special areas is of great value too.

Eighty per cent of the visitors to our parks are Canadians. The total combined area of these parks, over twenty-eight thousand miles, comprises a great investment in our national life. These parks are dedicated to the people of Canada — "for their benefit, education and enjoyment". — These benefits can only be appreciated "first-hand" — so do give priority to a visit to a National Park in some part of Canada in your vacation plans this year!

Likely you will enjoy yourself so much that you will want to travel farther afield another summer to a different park. The more inter-provincial vacationing we can do as individuals and as families, the greater will be our appreciation and understanding of other parts of our Dominion. Travel, in the right spirit, within a vast country like ours, the third largest country in land area in the world, can be a wonderfully unifying force. So best luck to you with your National Park Adventures!

It's Strawberry Time

By Betty Barclay

If ever one feels like dancing, it's during the strawberry season — a season which to most folks is a joy and delight. You'll want to serve them often — on ready-to-eat cereals for breakfast, with cream for lunch or supper, and with ice cream. And, if you wish to be especially elegant, try them in these Strawberry Dream Cakes. Tender cupcakes, made in minutes with instant white cake mix, are topped with Strawberry Cream for a truly mouthwatering dessert.

Strawberry Dream Cakes

1 Package white cake mix; 2 egg yolks.

Prepare cupcakes according to package directions, adding egg yolks with first addition of milk. Bake in greased cupcake pans, filling only half full, in moderate oven (375°F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Cool cakes. Then top with Strawberry Cream Topping.

Strawberry Cream Topping

1 Cup sliced fresh strawberries, 3 to 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup cream, whipped.

Mix strawberries and sugar, let stand 15 minutes. Fold into whipped cream. Makes about 2½ cups.

FOWLED UP

Soon there'll be no excuses for the head of the house when it comes to carving, notes The Financial Post. The slipping and slithering of meat or fowl on the platter can be stopped by means of a new gadget. Secured to the platter with suction cups, it has prongs sticking up to hold the meat in place.

BAN ON "SHORTS"

Granby, Que. (CP) — City council noted a tendency of citizens to adopt cooler dress with the return of warm weather. The council reiterated its ban on wearing "shorts" in public and said the order would be strictly enforced.

From the Houses-for-Sale ads in Yorkton, Sask., Enterprise: "Four-room house, running water, full basement."

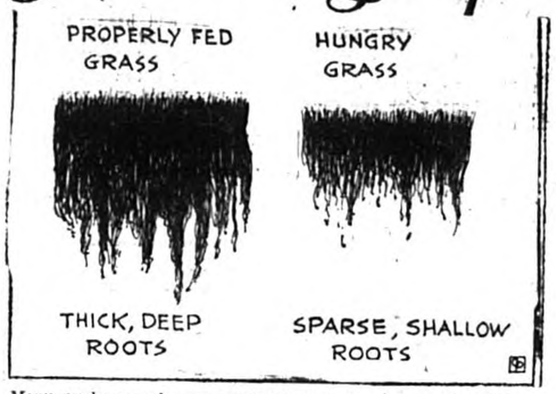
Garden-Graph



Many gardeners who are good to their lawns in other ways often let them go hungry. Some give a lawn a spring feeding and let it go at that. Others may give a spring and fall feeding. Actually, many lawns struggling on poor soils will benefit from a three times a year fertilizing program, April, June and August.

Grass may be fed with a complete fertilizer or turf builder every sixty days if it is thin and unhealthy. Proper feeding produces deep, extensive root systems which in turn deposit needed humus in the soil.

The best type of commereial fertilizer contains 10 per cent. nitrogen, 6 per cent. phosphorus and 4 per cent. potash. This is an excellent mixture for an established lawn. For a new lawn, or for use in the fall, a 4-12-4 mixture is usually recommended.

As a general rule, an adequate feeding for a lawn calls for the spreading of five pounds per thousand square feet. To arrive at the number of square feet, simply measure the length of the ground from the front sidewalk to your house and the distance from the front walk to the driveway. Then multiply the two figures and you have the number of square feet in that section.

Plant food will not burn if you spread it evenly when grass is dry and then water it in by sprinkling the lawn from your garden hose.

Picture News from C-I-L

THE TRAVEL TREND this summer will be Coronation-wards for many. This housewife may not be one of those to see London's dramatic celebrations, but she's about to follow the trend in home decoration by giving her walls the dramatic interest of new deep tones — Royal Red, Windsor Blue or any other of the nine special "Coronation Colours" now obtainable in C-I-L's washable, rubber-base paint, "Speed-Easy Satin".

"FIRST AID FOR APPLES" or "a tonic for tomatoes" could describe the work carried out in C-I-L's new soil-testing laboratory at Montreal as a free service to farmers. For sick plants and poor yields are usually the result of a deficiency of one or more essential plant foods in the soil. Chief soil chemist, Jean Leclerc, points out that soils can vary greatly even in one locality, says Chambly County, Quebec has some 30 types.

Church Wedding At Montreal East Of Interest Here

King - Copeland

The marriage of Lorna Caroline Copeland, of Montreal, daughter of Mrs. Albert H. Copeland and the late Mr. Copeland, of Lachute, to Mr. John Matthew King, of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Cecil King, of Oxford, N.S., was solemnized on Saturday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock in the United Community Church, Montreal East, with the Rev. A. S. C. Ritchie officiating. Mrs. E. Rosengren played the organ and Mrs. E. Begley sang "I'll Walk Beside You."

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. J. Gordon Pollock, the bride was attended by Mrs. George Govan, at matron of honor. Mr. George Govan, of Montreal, acted as best man, and Sgt. Stanley Cleland, also of Montreal, was usher.

The bride wore a cocktail-length dress of nylon net over blue taffeta worn with matching bolero and a Juliet cap of decorated straw and a nylon veil and carried a bouquet of red Briarcliff roses.

The matron of honor wore a street-length dress of mauve nylon with matching hat, and carried a bouquet of yellow Turner roses.

Mrs. Copeland, mother of the bride, wore a street-length dress of grey tucked crepe with white accessories and a corsage of American roses. Mrs. King was unable to attend her son's wedding.

Following the reception the happy couple left by motor on their wedding trip to the Eastern United States and Maritimes, before taking up residence in Montreal. For travelling the bride chose a dusty grey suit with blue and white accessories with an orchid corsage.

Grenville Girl Wed in Ottawa

Boyce - Ducharme

At Knox Presbyterian Church in Ottawa on Saturday, June 20, at 2.30 o'clock, the marriage took place of Marlene Lorraine, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Boyce, of Grenville, to Edward Delano Ducharme, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Ducharme, of Calgary, Alberta. The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. Collin F. Miller.

Mr. Proctor was organist, while Mr. Dillen O'Connor, soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Oh Perfect Love".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attended by Miss Helen Frost, of Campbell's Bay, as bridesmaid, and Mrs. Mona Barker, of Ottawa, as matron of honor. Mr. Gordon Malpass, of Calgary, was best man, while the ushers were George Barker and Olin Smith, both of Ottawa. Master David Sifard, nephew of the groom, was ring-bearer.

The bride wore a gown of three-tier nylon tulle over satin. The light-fitting bodice of Chantilly lace had a Queen Ann collar. Her headdress was a pearl tiara, with a fingertip veil of nylon tulle, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of red roses.

The bridesmaid wore a yellow gown of nylon and organdy and carried a nosegay of mauve mums and pansies.

The matron of honor wore a floor-length gown of mauve brocaded satin, and carried a nosegay of yellow mums and pansies.

The mother of the bride wore a dress of navy blue with dusty rose accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses. The mother of the groom wore navy blue with matching accessories, and a corsage of pink roses.

The reception was held at the O'Dell Tea Room on the Driveway.

For travelling the bride wore a beige check bolero suit, with green and white accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses and carnations.

Later the couple left for Quebec City.

Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. Willis Kennedy, of Windsor, Miss E. M. Pitcher, of Brockville; Mrs. R. J. Ducharme, Mr. Gordon Malpass, Mr. and Mrs. R. Bullock, Mrs. Ruth Orr and Mrs. R. J. Sifard, all of Calgary; Miss Audry MacDonald of Buckingham, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Thomas, Ivan and Leslie, of Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. Lester McCullagh, of Manotick.

Wilted cut flowers can be revived quickly by cutting the ends of the stems and immersing them in hot water. Have the water about as hot as your hand can stand. Wilted roses in particular respond dramatically to this hot-water treatment.

Couple Wed at Harrington, Que.

Ellis - Barnard

Lilacs and peonies decorated Our Lady of Victory Church at Harrington, Que., for the marriage of Yvonne Barnard, daughter of Mrs. Anne Joyes, of Toronto, to Mr. John Kenneth Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellis, of Harrington. The Rev. Father Adrian Koens officiated.

Given in marriage by Mr. Raoul Thomas, the bride wore a gown, made and designed by herself, of white Chantilly lace over satin. The Sweetheart neckline and lily point sleeves were edged in seed pearls, and her long skirt of white tulle over satin, hung in heavy folds from the waist. The bride wore a tiny gold cross, a gift of the groom. A pearl coronet held her fingertip veil of tulle illusion, and she carried an all-white bouquet of lily of the valley and carnations.

Mrs. Harold Smith, sister of the groom, was matron of honor, wearing a spring green strapless gown of net over taffeta, with matching bolero and coronet. She carried a cascade of yellow carnations.

Mr. Steven Ellis was best man, and Messrs. Clarence and Owen Ellis were ushers.

One hundred guests attended the dinner at the groom's home, and a reception and dance was held in the evening at the community hall, at Kilmar, Que.

Afterwards the bride and groom left on a wedding trip to Boston and New York. On their return they will live in Toronto.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR

Cobourg, Ont. (CP) — Katherine Cornell, the distinguished American actress, paid a brief visit here to see her aunt, Miss Lydia Cornell, who was observing her 86th birthday. Miss Cornell said, "I am always glad of an opportunity to get back to Cobourg."

NEW LUMBER MARKET

Prince Rupert, B.C. (CP) — Low-grade cedar logs prepared for shipment to Japan may open up a new market for B.C. lumbermen, amounting to about 6,000,000 board feet annually. The first shipment was loaded on the Japanese steamship Yayo Maru here recently.

HAIDA BAGS TWO RED TRAINS

—Central Press Canadian

Waiting and watching off the enemy-held North Korean coastline are men at this three-inch gun on board MCS Haida. In the foreground is AB Kenneth Brown of Belmont, N.S. The Haida was the only Canadian destroyer on battle duty June 2 and, during her patrol, she bagged two Communist supply trains as a coronation gift to the Queen. A famous veteran of World War II, the Haida now has three trains to her credit. War from the sea against the Communists involves attack on supply lines, support of sneak raids, destruction of enemy mines, bombardment of enemy troops and gun positions and medical aid and succor for friendly islanders north of the 38th parallel.

Delivery of 840 Canadian Army jeeps to the Dutch army as part of Canada's mutual aid program for NATO countries is now taking place. At a ceremony held in Rotterdam, Mr. Thomas A. Stone, left, Canadian ambassador to the Netherlands, formally handed over one of the jeeps as it was taken from a ship to Mr. F. Kranenburg, Holland's secretary of state for war, right.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. I am paid a low rate of wages but receive a fairly large sum in tips each week. My benefit is based on my wage rate only and is therefore very low. May I not contribute and receive benefits on the combined rate of wages and tips?

A. Yes, if you and your employer agree to regard such tips as part of your wages under your contract of employment and work out a satisfactory way of reckoning your total earnings so as to determine the correct class of contributions payable.

Q. If I am laid off in February and get three days' holiday pay, why am I docked three days' benefit even although I am not taking a holiday at that time? This is something new.

A. Until last year, holiday pay received at the time of termination was ignored. However, no benefits were paid during a plant shutdown for a holiday period. The regulations were changed last September and now, if the plant at which you are working shuts down for a holiday of a week or more, you are paid benefit for any days for which you receive no holiday pay. This made it necessary to also revise the regulation regarding holiday pay received at termination. If you were laid off in February and get three days' holiday pay and we ignored it as far as benefits are concerned, and you then got a new job at a plant which shut down in July for two weeks and you earned three days' holiday pay with your new employer, you would have received from your two employers a total of six days' holiday pay and been paid nine days' benefit; while another worker who had worked steadily for the same employer and earned six days' holiday pay would only receive six days' benefit when the plant shut down. This, of cuorse, would be unfair. Although we denied benefit when you were laid off in February, you get it back when your new employer's plant shuts down.

SHERLOCK'S HELPER

The "perfect crime" is now harder than ever to commit. Detection is difficult to evade when a new X-ray diffraction machine is brought to the "scene of the crime". Useful in many fields of scientific research, it can examine and lead to the identification of spots and stains too small for chemical analysis, according to a description in The Financial Post.

More for your money...

It's better business to buy Chevrolet Advance-Design Trucks more engine power!

Chevrolet Trucks offer you a selection of four famous valve-in-head engines to match load, grade and schedule. The two great 235.5 cu. in. Loadmasters (conventional and C.O.E.), the 248 cu. in. Torquemaster and the 270 cu. in. Workmaster all feature, full-pressure lubrication and improved Power-Jet carburetion for longer life, smoother performance and extra economy.

Twin-Action rear Brakes and Torque-Action front brakes, both with long wearing linings effectively sealed against dirt and moisture, combine to provide effective braking for greater safety and driving ease. Torque-Action front brakes are standard on all models. The positive Duo-Shoe parking brake on H.D. models, mounted at the rear of the transmission, eliminates cable stretching and greatly reduces service adjustments.

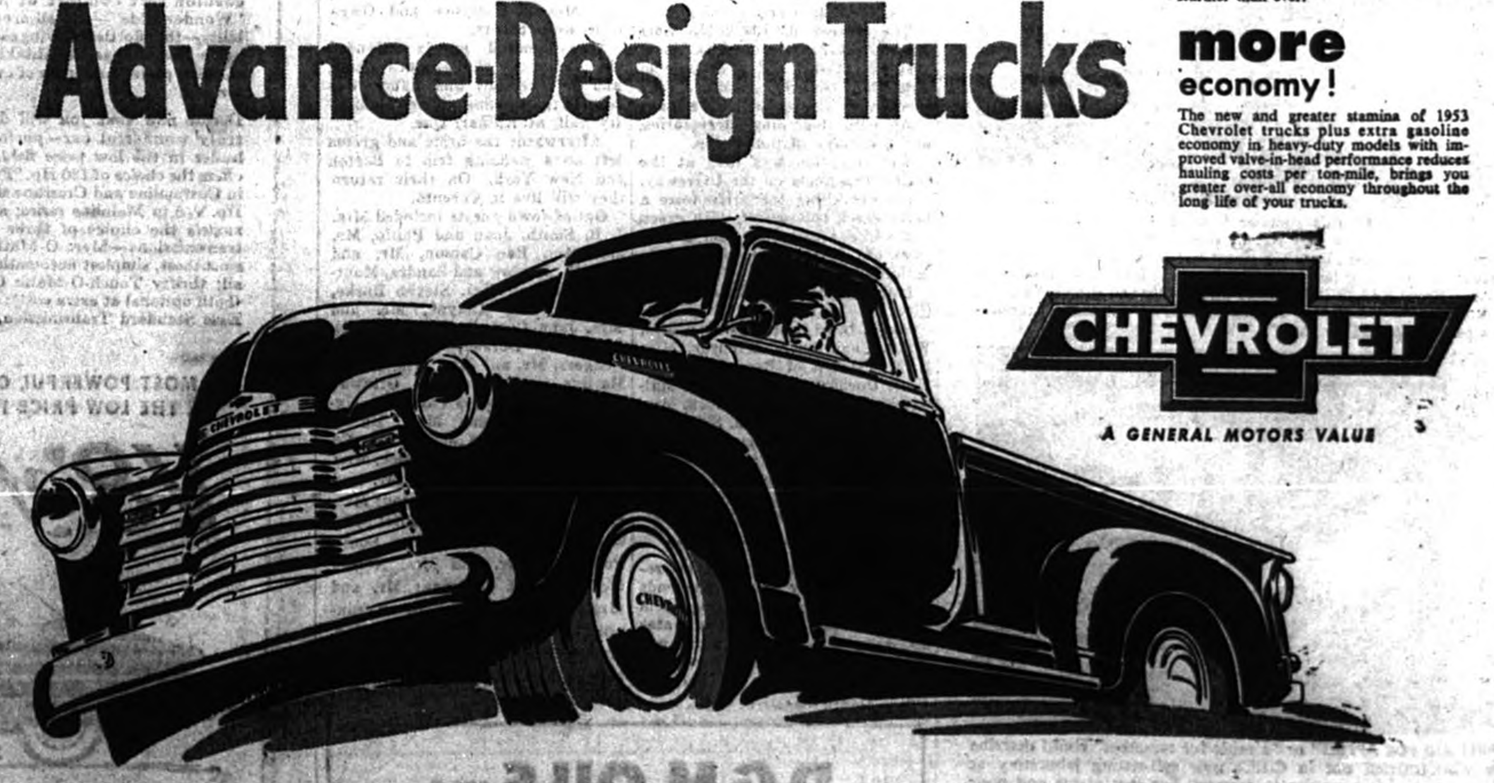
Now, heavier, stronger, more durable frames increase rigidity, add to ruggedness and stamina of all 1953 Chevrolet trucks. Long famous for their ability to take the toughest jobs day after day, Chevrolet trucks are now brawnier, sturdier than ever.

more economy!
The new and greater stamina of 1953 Chevrolet trucks plus extra gasoline economy in heavy-duty models with improved valve-in-head performance reduces hauling costs per ton-mile, brings you greater over-all economy throughout the long life of your trucks.



CHEVROLET
A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Here are a few things we think are worthy of your consideration before you buy your truck.

In 1953, Chevrolet trucks are more rugged, have huskier and more rigid construction than ever in the past. This means longer truck life and lower over-all costs to you.

You'll find the increased horsepower and higher compression ratios of the four great valve-in-head engines bring you greater power, greater stamina, greater performance, greater ability to do the job. You'll find that means faster acceleration, greater ability to climb the steepest grades. And you'll find a wonderful gain in gasoline mileage, too!

As any owner of a 1953 Chevrolet truck knows, these are the sturdiest, most powerful trucks Chevrolet has ever built. In every load range, they have proved themselves to be the world's leading money-makers on any hauling job.

Before you buy, drop in at our showroom and talk things over. Let us show you why it's better business to buy Chevrolet Advance-Design Trucks.

MORE PEOPLE BUY CHEVROLET TRUCKS THAN ANY OTHER MAKE!

Council Seeks Information On Spring Floods and Auditorium Extra Traffic Police Sought

Hears Progress and Offers Co-operation in Newly Established Social Service Centre

The regular monthly meeting of the Lachute Town Council was held last Thursday evening, with all members present. The minutes were read and approved.

The Rev. Father Manseau, representing the Diocesan Social Service Organization, gave a brief explanation of the work done by his group in this area. It was moved by Ald. H. G. Beaulieu, seconded by Ald. W. S. MacKimmie, that the Council be ready to co-operate with the Social Service at any time.

A petition was received for an extension of sewers and waterworks on George Street, in the west end of town. It was moved by Ald. R. Morrissette, seconded by Ald. W. S. MacKimmie, that the extension be made — the work to commence as soon as possible.

It was moved by Ald. Alcidas Laurin, seconded by Ald. H. G. Beaulieu, that a letter be sent the proper Federal authorities requesting them to study the condition of the North River and the reasons for its flooding in spring, and to inform the Council of their findings.

Chief of Police Donat Villeneuve was authorized to attend the annual convention of the Association of Police and Fire Chiefs for the Province of Quebec, to be held in Quebec City July 6 to 9.

A building permit was granted to Jean Paul Latreille, for the erection of a house on Elizabeth Street.

The sum of $100 was donated to the Laurentian District of the Canadian National Institute of the Blind. Other accounts to the amount of $10,316.38 were approved for payment.

The request that the Auditorium be rented by the Federal Government for training a Reserve Army Unit was turned down by a vote of 5 to 4. The Government sought to rent the building for $200 a month for the period of a year. All alterations necessary were to be made and paid for by them, and the building was to be returned to its original condition at the end of that period.

Six tenders were received to audit the town books. These were from the following companies — Denis Rouleau and Co., $1,200; Armant Parent, $950; T. C. Corry, $1,200; Ronald Morin, $1,400; Paul E. Bonnier and Co., $750 plus travelling expenses; and W. J. Adamson and Co., $1,000. The decision was left for further study at next meeting.

It was moved by Ald. H. G. Beaulieu, seconded by Ald. D. G. MacRae, that the compiling of the town census sheets be made by the census man for the sum of $75, the work to be completed not later than August 1.

It was moved by Ald. D. G. MacRae, seconded by Ald. A. Laurin, that the corporation should invest in a concrete-mixer for the town use.

The meeting was adjourned to Tuesday, July 7, at 8 p.m.

Business Resumed

The adjourned meeting of the Lachute Town Council was held in the Lachute Auditorium, Tuesday. All were present with the exception of Ald. W. S. MacKimmie.

The Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer were authorized to sign a deed of purchase with Muir Bros. for a strip of land at the corner of Bethany and Main Street. The land, purchased by the Council for the sum of one dollar, is subject to the following condition, namely, that the town will re-build the sidewalk.

A letter was received from the Brownsburg Rotary Club asking permission to erect a banner for their Rodeo across Main Street in the vicinity of the Town Hall. Permission was granted for the banner to be erected on or about July 10 and to be taken down on July 28.

It was moved by Ald. Morrissette and seconded by Ald. A. Laurin that an extension be made to the water works on Elizabeth Street from Filion's property to Latreille's property. This motion was carried.

A letter of appreciation was received from the Lachute Spring Fair thanking the Council for their co-operation and the use of the town chairs.

It was moved by Ald. H. G. Beaulieu and seconded by Ald. R. Morrissette that the $950 tender submitted by Armand Parent for the auditing of the town books be accepted.

It was moved in amendment by Ald. D. G. MacRae, seconded by Ald. E. Pollock that W. J. T. Adamson's tender for $1,000 be accepted.

It was moved in sub-amendment by Ald. W. Cousineau, seconded by Ald. L. Gibeault that the tender submitted by J. E. Bonnier for $800 straight be accepted. This tender was submitted as $750 plus travelling expenses, but was later changed to $800.

The vote was taken on the sub-amendment with three in favor. There were also three in favor of the amended motion. The main motion only had two in favor and therefore declared void.

The vote was taken on the amendment and the sub-amendment and the latter was carried 5-3. The tender from J. E. Bonnier and Co. was accepted for $800.

It was moved by Ald. H. G. Beaulieu, seconded by Ald. R. Morrissette that Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur and Alderman A. Laurin and D. G. MacRae meet with W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., seeking the possibilities and the proper channel to follow, and the cost of a private bill to eliminate all servitudes on the land presently occupied by the Lachute Auditorium.

It was moved by Ald. E. Pollock, seconded by Ald. D. G. MacRae that a vote of thanks be expressed to Mr. Cottingham, M.L.A., for having calcium placed on Main and Sydney Streets.

It was moved by Ald. E. Pollock, seconded by Ald. R. Morrissette, that the voluntary police project placed in the office of the secretary-treasurer by Ald. H. G. Beaulieu be approved in principle by the Council; the Police Committee to make recommendations subject to the approval of the Council.

The meeting was adjourned.

4 H Club held Judging Competition

At a recent meeting of the members of the Lachute 4-H Club held at the farm of Erskine McOuat of Brownsburg, with some 27 members present, George Pasco, Kenneth McOuat, and John Oswald were selected to represent the Club at the Inter-Club Competition to be held at Macdonald College early in August.

This competition was organized by Donald Robertson, Federal Live Stock Promoter, and Alex Bothwell, local Agronomist.

Progress Continues On Brownsburg Legion Hall

Fund Campaign Continues to Grow

The laying of tiles in the basement and upstairs kitchen of the Legion Memorial Hall in Brownsburg was completed last week, and the covering of the walls in the Club Room is now proceeding, with the assistance of many non-member citizens. The help of these tradesmen volunteers is very much appreciated, in that it reduces the cost of the building. Chairs have been on order for some time and they are expected to arrive this week. While the rehabilitation work will not be complete, it is hoped to have the Club Room and Hall proper in normal operation some time in August.

Subscriptions to the Memorial Fund, which is authorized by Ottawa, continues to grow, and about one-third of the objective of $10,000 has now been reached. Sympathetic residents of the district who have not been contacted and would like to make a contribution, are asked to contact Russ Somers, President or A. J. Quinn, Treasurer of the Memorial Fund, or any member of the Brownsburg Branch of the Canadian Legion.

Additional subsriptions are gratefully acknowledged below:

Carl Clausen $10, C. E. Prosser $5, A. G. Talbot $5, R. B. Johnston $5, L. R. Tomalty $5, Arthur Campbell $50, Morton Brewer $24, Hector Steele $25, Florence Newton $12, Madeleine Gougeon $12, Jeannine Gagné $12, Huguette Harding $12, Henri Charlebois $12, Ivy Vallée $12, Stanley Taylor $12, anonymous $10.

R. B. Elliott $15, R. E. Graham $20, Allan Taylor $12, Germaine Cadieux $12, Marie Claire Cuillerier $12, anonymous $25, Alex Masson 12, Remi Robert $12, anonymous $10, William Hulton $15 Harry Gardiner $40, Stan Thompson $10, Donald Todd $15, J. Gordon Todd $10, E. Castle $15, Andy Hardie $20, W. G. Richardson $4.

NO ELECTION FOR SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS AT GORE

Two new members have been given acclamation to the school board at Gore. They are Messrs. A. E. McDonald, Lakefield, and Fred Wilkinson, Montreal and Lakefield.

Two Injured In Auto Wreck Car Demolished

Gehard Doll, 23-year-old Hudson Heights resident was seriously injured when his car went out of control at 9 p.m. Sunday on the Brownsburg - St. Philippe Highway. Doll, and his companion, Roland Seguin, 18, of Hudson are in Hotel Dieu Hospital, St. Jerome.

Doll lost control of the car as it came over the hill at the Staynerville gully on the way to Brownsburg. The car went down the hill end over end and sideways five or six times before coming to a stop against the bridge.

Doll, was thrown into the back seat of the car while his companion, Roland Seguin, 18, from Hudson, was thrown out of the car. His injuries were minor ones.

Dr. Jacques Castagner, Brownsburg, treated the injured at the scene of the accident. They were later conveyed by ambulance to Hotel Dieu Hospital, St. Jerome.

Traffic Officer Albert Legault investigated.

Local Bicyclist In Fatal Accident At Intersection

Christopher Maidens, 72, a well-known Lachute Mills resident, was fatally injured last Thursday at 3.30 p.m. when the bicycle he was driving was involved in a collision, with a Hawkesbury car driven by Jacques Pressault, 19, a college student. The accident occurred at the intersection of Brownsburg Road and Chatham Street just beneath the traffic light.

The car was coming towards Lachute from Brownsburg while Mr. Maidens was turning from Brownsburg Road into Chatham Street. Following the accident, the victim was rushed to the Providence Hospital, where he received attention from Dr. Marc Papineau. He was then conveyed to Hotel Dieu Hospital in St. Jerome, where he died at 4 a.m. Friday.

The accident, investigated by Constable Sabourin, was turned over to Det. Bésette of the Quebec Provincial Police for further enquiries.

Taxi Crashes Telephone Pole Charges Laid

A 1952 Oldsmobile taxi driven by Claude Montpetit, 21-year-old Ayersville resident and owned by Leopold Girard is a total wreck after an accident on Number 8 Highway near Chatboro at 2.15 a.m. Wednesday.

The car, coming from Hawkesbury at a high rate of speed, went out of control on the west pavement after passing two other local taxies. It hit the shoulder of the highway, turned over and slid some 200 feet into the ditch, rolling over several times before crashing into a telephone pole which was severed.

Traffic Officer Howard Jones investigated the accident and placed Montpetit under custody. He was held in the local jail over night and taken to St. Jerome by Det. Maurice Lamoureaux Wednesday morning where he was charged with reckless driving and driving under the influence of liquor.

Lachute Mason Succumbs After Short Illness

The late James Archibald Middleton

Following a short illness, Mr. J. A. Middleton passed away at his home on Grace Street, Wednesday morning.

Born at Pointe Fortune, deceased gentleman, who was in his 85th year, came to Lachute at an early age. He was married in 1901 to Miss Ruth Riddell, who survives with two sons, Dr. Lyall, of Plymouth, Vt., and Eric, of Montreal.

Mr. Middleton was an ardent member of the Masonic Order, in which work he was highly skilled.

The funeral will be held in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, of which he was an elder, on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

HONOR TEACHER

North Bay, Ont. (CP) — A portrait in oils of F. D. Wallace will be done by a prominent Canadian artist and hung in the North Bay collegiate institute and vocation school. Mr. Wallace has retired as principal of the school, to which he came in 1913 as a mathematics teacher.

Another Total Loss

Two people are in Hotel Dieu Hospital as a result of the injuries sustained when the above car turned over on the St. Philippe—Brownsburg highway. The accident occured early Sunday evening.

Father Charged With Attempted Murder

Joseph Campeau, 35-year-old Ste. Scholastic farmer, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace J. C. Marchand, in St. Jerome on Monday, on a charge of attempted murder.

The Crown accused him of trying to drown his five-month-old daughter, Micheline, in a tub of water on the farm early Sunday morning.

An order signed by Ligouri Lacombe, Judge of Magistrates Court, directed that Campeau be given a mental examination at Bordeau Jail, Montreal, pending his appearance in St. Jerome Court on July 29.

The child is recovering in Hotel Dieu Hospital, St. Jerome.

Douglas Bradford Re-Elected to School Board

At the last meeting of Lachute Protestant School Commission, the Board named Sam Milnes to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Commissioner Alex Bothwell. The terms of two other members, Ross Muir and Douglas Bradford, were terminated at this meeting, and nominations were consequently posted for last Monday.

There was only one nomination — Douglas Bradford being re-elected for another term. The other vacancy will accordingly be filled by appointment by the Lieutenant Governor in Council, on recommendation of the Board.

Commissioner Bradford, considered one of the authoritative representatives for the interests of rural families and taxpayers, has served faithfully for three consecutive terms. His judgment has been considered valuable by the Board.

"Commissioner Of Transport"

Concerning Commissioner Ross Muir, who did not seek re-election, a word of appreciation is due in this proverbially thankless task of "school commissioning". For a period of six years Mr. Muir has been referred to by his colleagues as their "minister of transport". Transportation of pupils to Lachute High School, from the wide area now embraced, is no small undertaking. Commissioner Muir has superintended this department with considerable anxiety at times. He has even been called out of bed when drivers discovered, in the early winter mornings, that the roads were snowbound. At such times there was some necessary re-routing of buses on the various routes. Commissioner Muir has directed the maintenance of vehicles with a keen eye to economy, and there has been no major accident during his years of supervision. . . He has also supervised the school building maintenance since Commissioners S. J. McFaul and A. Bothwell relinquished this department due to ill health.

Members of Board

The membership of Lachute Protestant School Commission now comprises:

Jas. W. McGibbon, Ed. W. Smith, Sam Milnes, Douglas Bradford, a vacancy to be filled, and Roy P. Fraser as secretary. Mr. McGibbon has served as chairman; this position has to be filled anew when the Board reconvenes.

St. Jerusalem Parish Re-elects Officers

At a meeting of the St. Jerusalem ratepayers, held in the Court House on Wednesday morning, the following gentlemen were returned to office and will serve another two-year term:

W. M. Cottingham, mayor, and councillors, W. D. Hume, Seat No. 1, Dougal Leishman, Seat No. 5, and H. F. Gordon, Seat No. 6.

Hot Spot, Water Problem Keeps Burg Council Busy

Former Lachute Family Stirs up "Hornest's Nest".

The monthly meeting of the Municipal Council was held at the Social Club on Monday night, Mayor J. B. Donaldson presiding. Councillors Ouellette, Charbonneau, Lavoie, Lupin and Rose in attendance.

The minutes of last meeting being disposed of, the meeting took up an application from C. Binette to have water connected to his residence. It was explained that the line servicing the adjoining houses was not a municipal line, but was authorized without responsibility for service by the council. The applicant wanted to attach on under the same conditions as the other users. Permission was granted, subject to inspection and approval of the work. Councillor Rose commented that the prospects of the council running a line in that area in the near future was very remote.

Water - Water !

A long discussion took place on the possibility of relieving damage caused by wandering or diverted ditches in "Frogtown". Several complaints have been received over the years because of surplus water being diverted from its natural course. The secretary, Mr. Herbert, suggested the matter be incorporated in a "process verbal" so that this could be resolved once and for all. A meeting of all ratepayers to be called and decide where the water should go to the satisfaction of the majority. This was the eventual decision.

"Hot Spot" of Brownsburg

A letter received from a resident, complained of a family who had some months ago moved into a vacant house which was the subject of bankruptcy proceedings, and although several notices had been issued to have the premises vacated, the family was still there.

The letter complained that there were eleven children in this family, none of whom go to school or are under adequate control. They scour the dump for food, among other things, and have the place like a dump with the refuse accumulated there. They had a desire for lighting fires outside on the lot and were generally a nuisance.

Councillor Lupien was under the impression the premises were vacated.

Mayor Donaldson stated he was in communication with the officer of the Health Unit and steps were to be taken to deal with this nuisance. They are a danger to the whole village and came here from Lachute.

Fire Chief Robbins stated that fires in that corner could not be controlled by the town unit. That is the "hot-spot" of Brownsburg, and if it ever goes, it will be something.

Secretary Hebert commented the court action is now concluded and the property has been bought by Mr. J. D. Lepine, and after this week he will be in a position to deal with the matter.

It was decided to take legal advice in conjunction with some other Council business.

Lachute Tigers Appeal For Public Support

An enthusiastic gathering of approximately 250 baseball fans met in the Lachute Auditorium on Monday evening to discuss baseball problems with the directors and players of the Lachute Tigers.

The late Mr. Lionel Laurin, president, asked for everyone's support and co-operation for the team and for L'Association de la Jeunesse Sportive de Lachute.

At this point, Mr. Laurin was seriously stricken, necessitating medical attention.

Mr. Jean Lefebvre, Chamber of Commerce President, explained the seriousness of the situation and announced that half-season tickets would be sold for the remaining twenty games to be played in the Lachute Stadium.

The prices are as follows: Boxes $17; Reserve Seats $11. General Admission 85 cents, and children 25 cents and 10 cents in the special bleachers.

Township of Montcalm Hold Elections Monday

Keen interest in municipal affairs are evident in the Township of Montcalm, for elections for mayor and councillors will take place next Monday.

Mayor A. G. Munich is seeking re-election, and he is opposed by Jas. W. Breckenridge, a former councillor.

There are three vacancies for councillors, and six candidates filed papers with the township secretary. They are: Donald Colquhoun, Foster Ewart, Wilfred D. Morrison, Fredick J. Schnauffer, Emanuel L. Trottier and James D. Williams.

Lionel Laurin Baseball President Dies Suddenly

Lionel Laurin, prominent sports and business man, died at his home on Tuesday morning as the result of a heart attack, suffered at a baseball meeting the previous evening.

Born in St. Hermas, June 22, 1901, he received his education there before coming to Lachute 23 years later, establishing a transport service called Laurin Express Ltd.

Keenly intrested in sports, he was the promoter of numerous hockey teams, which resulted in many exciting and interesting games in the former town rink. As a summer sport, his interest was later centred on the local baseball club to which he gave much of his time and support. In 1949, he was named president of the "Tigers", an honor well deserved, for through his efforts Lachute now boasts of a real up-to-date Stadium. Last season, some 40,000 persons attended the games, a tribute to his work of organization.

His ambition however went still further and it was his hope to see in the near future an artificial ice rink which would supply a long felt need in this community. With this idea still in mind his many friends hope that his wishes will be realized and to this end a campaign will shortly be underway.

In his early years of business, Mr. Laurin did much, as owner of a number of large trucks in having the roads kept open during the winter months, serving also as a great convenience to motorists.

Disposing of his transport business in 1940, Mr. Laurin replaced the late Paul Lahaie as agent of the National Breweries, which position he held at time of his death.

Left to mourn his passing, besides a host of friends, are his wife, Aurèa, a brother, Emmanuel Laurin, one sister, Mrs. Oscar Hotte, two sons, René and Raymond, four daughters, Mrs. Dauphinais, Lachute, (Rita) Mrs. Brunet, St. Benoit, (Rollande) Mrs. Morin, Lachute, (Marie-Paule) and Suzanne Laurin.

Funeral service will be held Friday at 10 a.m., at Ste. Anastasie Parish Church.

Lapalme Stakes Political Life At Outremont By-Election; All Three Ridings Contested

Largest Canadian Built Ship Launched

By Alex Dimeo Canadian Press Writer

Quebec, July 7 (CP) — Provincial party leaders closed their by-elections campaign this week a few days before voters in three ridings were scheduled to cast their ballots.

Premier Duplessis and Georges Lapalme, Liberal party leader, broadcast their final shots in radio speeches addressed to electors in Montreal - Outremont.

Special attention is focussed on the Montreal riding because Mr. Lapalme is a candidate there in a second attempt to win a seat in the Legislative Assembly.

The other by-elections take place in Portneuf and Matapedia ridings.

Mr. Duplessis told Outremont voters Quebec province "is going ahead by leaps and bounds and nowhere in Canada has progress been so sustained and remarkable."

"We do not claim the extraordinary progress achieved since 1945 is due solely to the government. . . but we are certain that, by our stable and sanely progressive policy, we have contributed substantially to this marvellous and formidable progress."

Mr. Lapalme said Liberals laid the groundwork for Quebec's current industrial expansion.

Appealing for personal support, Mr. Lapalme said that in voting for the Liberal candidate "the people of Outremont will vote for the party and kind of government that helped make this province what it is today.

The by-elections were called to fill vacancies in the Quebec Legislative Assembly created by death of members.

Bernard Couvrette, a Montreal business man, is the Union Nationale candidate opposing Mr. Lapalme. Two candidates, Robert Holland, Independent, and Norman Nerenbery, Labor-Progressive, are also running.

In Portneuf, the Union Nationale candidate is Rosaire Chalifour, opposed by Delphis Marois, a Liberal defeated in the 1952 general election. Louis-Philippe Bertrand and Alexandre Paquette are two independents.

Clovis Gagnon and René DeBlois are respectively the Union Nationale and Liberal candidates in Matapedia. The Independent there is Marcel Gregoire, son of J. Ernest Gregoire who in 1948 unsuccessfully led a Quebec Social Credit group.

Davie Shipbuilding and Repair Company across the St. Lawrence River in Lauzon, Que., was the scene of the launching of the biggest ship ever built in Canada. The vessel, "Andros Venture" is a 28,000 ton oil tanker 620 feet long, with a beam of 80 feet. Immediately after the ship was launched workmen in the yard began laying the keel for another 28,000-ton vessel to be called "Andros Fortune."

Premier Duplessis was present at the launching and said the building of the ship was "another feather in Quebec's cap".

Premier Duplessis announced this week that the Quebec Hydro-Electricity Commission has been authorized to spend $4,000,000 on a power line to the Chibougamau gold mining area. He said mining developments in the Chibougamau area are "very considerable and are constantly growing."

"Chibougamau should profit greatly by the new power line which will provide electricity to the local industries at low cost", the premier said. "The population and industrial world has never had more electric power at its disposal since 1945."

In the last eight years, he said, the construction of new hydro projects and improvements to old ones increased the electricity production by more than 2,000,000 horse power.

The premier also announced that vacancies in the Quebec cabinet will be filled "at an opportune time". The post of municipal affairs minister and transport minister now are vacant.

Rotarians Report On Dist. Assembly At Kingston, Ont.

The regular meeting of the Rotary Club was held at Brownsburg last Thursday with the new president, Keith Rutherford, in the chair.

After the dinner Stewart Jones announced that 1,355 books of tickets for the Rodeo have been sold, but pointed out that many more must be sold before July 24.

President Keith Rutherford and Secretary Sid Stilwell gave a report on their visit to the District Assembly for in-coming presidents, held at Kingston, Ont. At this meeting many talks were given by officials of the Rotary Club, with special emphasis on the ideals of Rotary. The main objective of this assembly is to inspire the new presidents with high ideals and inspirations for the coming year, to pass on to their members, along with the desire to develop Rotary to a higher degree.

The ideal of Rotary is to serve without thought of reward to fulfill this ideal through four services — Vocational, International, Club and Community. . . In vocational service people in business should respect their competitors, dignify their business, and always be courteous and fair. Courtesy begets courtesy. By following these ideals the standard of business will be raised. . . International service is to develop a better feeling and understanding between countries. This can be done by having inter-club meetings with clubs in foreign countries, by visiting other clubs while on trips or vacations; but one should never criticize another country while visiting. . . Service to the club can be shown by a high level of attendance, encouraging absentees to make up, not to shame them for being absent but to praise and reward those with a high degree of attendance. . . Finally, service to the community was stressed as being high in the ideals of Rotary. Every member of the club should take part in this service. Besides the community projects carried on in the club, this service can be carried outside the club, by the members taking part in all community efforts and activities.

Rotarians Rutherford and Stilwell were thanked for their talks by Tom Hall, who felt that all the members would become better Rotarians from the inspirations brought to the club from the District Assembly.

Mayor Chas. D. Campbell Returned by Acclamation At Morin Heights

Secretary-Treasurer J. W. Green, of Morin Heights reported today that nomination day at Morin Heights was quite a busy one. Mayor Chas. D. Campbell was returned to office by acclamation and will commence his fourth term.

Nominations were also held for three seats. Andre Legault was given an acclamation for Seat 2, and Messrs. Max Baumel and Willis Seale had papers for Seat 4, but the former withdrew, due to the fact that he had served the council for many years. An election will be held, however, for Seat 6. Edwin Holgate, artist of Morin, and Carl E. Seale, general merchant, of Morin Heights will contest this seat.

The election will be held Monday next, July 13, from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. D.S.T. The returning officer will be J. W. Green, and poll clerk Fred Muncey.

Mayor Rene Lapierre, Sixteen Island Lake, Starts Eight Term

16 Island Lake — René Lapierre was elected by acclamation mayor of 16 Island Lake for his eighth consecutive term of two years, at nominations held recently. Mr. Lapierre's father was the first mayor of 16 Island Lake, in 1914.

Councillors elected also by acclamation were — Fred Scott, Georges Lebeau and Leslie Whitehouse. The gentlemen will be in office two years. Also on the Council are Gaston Leblanc, Tom Cresswell and Al Lamont, who still have one year to go. J. C. Calder is the secretary.

Gatineau LINES

Lightning Season

Summer time is the season of lightning troubles on power lines. Particularly in the mountain area served by Gatineau, lightning is likely to strike hard and often on the supply of electricity.

Gatineau makes use of every modern invention to reduce the service breaks caused by lightning, including lightning arresters which "cushion" the shock of a direct hit and usually prevent any interruption at all in service.

When breaks do occur, the line crews are out immediately to find and repair the damage.

Western Crop Prospects

Despite a late start and a dry spring, crop prospects in Western Canada are now promising, reports the grain correspondent of The Financial Post. He writes from Winnipeg: "Present outlook is good, with the possibility of a heavy yield. Experienced observers, although hopeful, restain their optimism, recalling that in most years the crop condition is at its best toward the end of June, and that there are many hazards to be run after that date.

No one ventures to hope that this year's outturn will equal the extraordinarily high yield of 1952. Average seeded is considerably less than last year, and much seeding was late, but heavy rains have pushed growth along at a remarkable rate.

Venezuela is the third largest source of Canadian imports.

Holstein Breeders To Hold Field Day

A crowd of 4,000 Holstein breeders and their families is expected at Macdonald College for the annual Holstein-Friesian field day and picnic on July 30, Professor A. R. Ness announced. Professor Ness and Hermas La Joie, secretary-manager of the Association, are in charge of arrangements.

The program will start at 11 a.m. with an inter-club judging contest at the college dairy barns. The morning program will consist of a demonstration of selective registration, bull selection and a parade of the college Holstein herd.

In the afternoon there will be an open judging competition, short talks and presentation of prizes. A special presentation will be made to Father Godin for outstanding service to the Association.

Prescott Farmers Form Seed Centre

Forty farmers in Prescott County, Eastern Ontario, have formed a Climax timothy seed production centre. They all occupy farms adjacent to each other thus enabling them to establish co-operatively the required isolation distances for production of registered and certified seed crops.

On the advice of Laurent Farmer, Agricultural Representative, Ontario Department of Agriculture, and Georges Gilbert, Plant Products Division, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, all farmers in the area agreed to plant only Climax timothy seed, regardless of whether they intend to produce a seed crop, or a forage crop for hay and pasture. This will remove most of the danger of the new improved variety becoming crossed with the commercial timothy now commonly grown.

Seed of four classes of Climax timothy, namely: Foundation, Approved, Registered, and Certified, sufficient to plant over 500 acres, has been purchased by these farmers for use in 1953. It is estimated that with normal crops, this relatively small group of farmers could, by 1957, produce over one-half million pounds of Certified Climax timothy seed.

The Climax variety was developed at Ottawa by the Division of Forage Plants, and licensed for sale in 1947. It has become very popular among farmers in Eastern United States. All available stocks of Climax seed, including from 30,000 to 50,000 pounds of pedigree seed, have been sold for 1953 planting.

Weed Control In Clover and Alfalfa . . .

Application of 2,4-D as a chemical weed spray is generally considered harmful to clover and alfalfa seedlings. On hay and pasture fields containing a good percentage of clover or alfalfa it is dangerous to apply weed sprays.

Frequently, however, the farmer is faced with the choice of injuring some of the clover and alfalfa or leaving a heavy infestation of weeds to go to seed. This is particularly true of fields in which the first crop is cut for hay and the aftermath used as pasture. In such cases there is a real temptation to apply a spray.

Information from results of experiments conducted during the past three years on four Illustration Stations in the northern Georgian Bay and Manitoulin Island district of Ontario indicate how severely clover and alfalfa may be injured by weed sprays when applied in strengths sufficient to kill the weeds completely.

In these experiments an ester form of 2,4-D was applied to new clover and alfalfa seedlings at rates of 2, 4, 8, 16 and 24 ounces of acid equivalent per acre. The average percentage stands of clover and alfalfa in the year following treatment, as compared with the areas where no treatment was applied, were as follows: no treatment — 100 per cent stand; 2 oz. 2,4-D — 73 per cent; 4 oz. — 74 per cent; 8 oz. — 35 per cent; 16 oz. — 18 per cent; and 24 oz. — 21 per cent.

From these results it would appear that 2,4-D in the ester form should not be used in strengths greater that 4 ounces of acid equivalent per acre to combat weeds in clover and alfalfa. In such strength the tops of the weeds may be killed and seeding prevented, but the roots usually survive. The National Weed Committee recommends that for clover and alfalfa not more than 4 oz. per acre of 2,4-D in the amine form be used.

Geo. Knowles, Weed Specialist, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, recommends applying fertilizer to such fields rather than run the risk of spraying. Clovers and alfalfa are vigorous growing crops and start early. Applying fertilizer has stimulated growth in good stands so that persistent perennial weeds such as Canada Thistle were smothered by them.

Keep Bees in Line With Laughing Gas

Ottawa (CP) — They're using dentists' laughing gas at the Dominion Experimental Farm to teach bees their duty.

Sounds complicated? It is.

Farmers nowadays use bees to pollinate their seed clover and orchard crops, apples, peaches, cherries and so on. They plant a bee-hive in the field or orchard and the bees in their search for honey carry pollen from flower to flower and ensure the production of plenty of clover-seed and of the fruit crops.

There's a difficulty. It appears that bees have fixed habits. Once they start working on a crop they're quite likely to continue doing so even though another and more attractive one appears right under their noses.

Thus, even if the hive is set in the middle of a cherry orchard in full bloom, the ornery insects are quite likely to continue to fly miles to a patch of wild flowers they spotted earlier.

This is where the laughing gas comes in. Released from an ordinary smudge pot — the type that bee-keepers use to quiet their charges — the gas makes the bees forget completely about that crop of flowers miles away.

After the bee-keeper gasses them the bees pick themselves up and head for the nearest bank of flowers and begin gathering honey — and pollination — industriously. The bee-keeper makes sure the nearest flowers are the ones he wants pollinated.

The method is in an experimental stage at the Dominion government farm.

Sprinkler Irrigation

Ottawa — Farmers who have recently installed a sprinkler irrigation system or are seriously considering installing one will find much useful information in a new bulletin entitled "Sprinkler Irrigation in Eastern Canada" by D. J. Cooper and J. M. Armstrong, Experimental Farms Service, Ottawa.

The bulletin summarizes reports obtained from 82 farmers in Eastern Canada using this type of irrigation. It covers such problems as: water supply, amount of water applied per irrigation, moisture use of different crops, rate of water application, layout of system, costs of installation, and many other questions relating to the effective use of sprinkler irrigation to supplement the natural rainfall.

It is designed to answer many of the questions raised by those undertaking sprinkler irrigation for the first time, or who are called upon to davise others on these questions.

Write to Information Service, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Ont., and ask for "Sprinkler Irrigation in Eastern Canada" by D. J. Cooper and J. M. Armstrong.

At Lunenburg, N.S., they celebrated the Bicentennial and the landing of settlers in 1753 was re-enacted with colorful pageant. . . Death As Result of Bicycle-Auto Accident

Late Christopher Maidens

Sad indeed were the circumstances conected with the passing of Mr. Christopher Maidens, last Thursday. A resident of 41 Charles Street, Lachute Mills, the deceased gentleman was riding his bicycle, when at the corner of Princess Street and the Brownsburg Road, he was struck by a car. Severely injured, Mr. Maidens was removed to the Hotel Dieu Hospital at St. Jerome, where he died early on Friday morning. He was in his 72nd year.

Mr. Maidens, who came to Canada some 40 years ago, was born in Lincolnshire, England, and married to Miss E. English. He was employed for a lengthy time at the J. C. Wilson paper mill, and had also worked at the McOuat Foundry and Lachute Machine Works. Of a quiet and unassuming nature, he was a friend to all and was very fond of hunting, in which connection he was an expert gunsmith.

Surviving to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father are his wife, seven daughters, Mrs. W. Loughren (Mabel), of Port Arthur, Mrs. G. Shaw (Nellie), Lachute Mills, Mrs. F. Stansfield (Ivy), Lachute, Mrs. W. Licop (Doris), St. Therese, the Misses Ruby, Brownsburg, Ruth, at home in Lachute, and Emily, of Montreal. There are also five boys, Ben, of parts unknown, Harold, Frank and Sidney, of Lachute, George, out West, and John of the Camp Borden Air Force.

The funeral service was held on Sunday afternoon in the United Church, conducted by the Rev. Dr. D. McMillan. Pall bearers were — Messrs. G. Shaw, G. Demerse, M. Wilson, D. Beers, R. Warwick and P. MacAdam.

A college professor of logic was attempting to teach his young son the principles of clear thinking and the necessity for defining all terms. He pointed to a wall clock which had just struck the hour. "Now if I were to take a hammer and smash that clock", he said, "could I be arrested for killing time?"

"No", said the lad without a moment's hesitation. "It would be self-defense."

"How do you figure that out?" the professor frowned.

Annual Meeting Of Morin Heights Ch. of Commerce

Morin Heights — The annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held here recently, with 18 members present — which was considered poor showing for the first annual meeting of this community organization.

President A. Basler spoke briefly on his report which had been circulated to the members, adding a few points of general interest bearing on community improvement. He strongly stressed that there is place for more members in the Chamber, and urged present members to increase the membership. He also urged full attendance at the meetings and willingness of members to be appointed to the various committees; in this way they will greatly relieve the Council of the Chamber, and at the same time gain a further insight into the set-up and be prepared to accept office should the occasion arise.

The secretary's report was ably presented by Mrs. Cameron, who took over these duties at quick notice last February. Attendance of Council members at meetings was very good throughout the year, and the financial statement showed a fairly good bank balance with only one major account to finish off.

Chairmen of committees on the Lake Project, Ski Jump and Business Tax each presented their reports, and while these are unfinished activities of the Chamber, they all show that a great amount of work has been already done and they will eventually become a reality.

Eight new members were accepted — Messrs. Geo. Watchorn, F. E. Mattenberger, R. Goodfellow, P. Hurtubise, P. Whalley, F. T. Watchorn, F. LeGallee and Wm. Stock.

H. Millard conducted the nomination and election of officers for the year. With the addition of two names, the slate as proposed was acceptable, and only in the case of Council members was a ballot required. Officers for the present term are — President, A. Basler; vice-president, E. Kneeland; Council Members are — C. Cameron, P. St. Denis, C. Seale, F. E. Mattenberger, I. Allard, W. Bell, H. Lister and H. Gillingham. Fred Mooney resumed his duties as secretary-treasurer.

It is not what people eat, but what they digest that makes them grow; it is not what they read, but what they remember that makes them learned; it is not what they profess, but what they practice that makes them righteous.

Common-Sense To Prevent Robberies

LEAVING TOWN for your holidays? We don't want to worry you with precautions — but there are town officials who would like to do just that. Police Chief Donat Villeneuve and Ald. H. G. Beaulieu, have some effective suggestions that, if carried out, could facilitate the work of the police and save you possible loss of your household effects and any other valuables left around.

The first and most important suggestion is to inform a neighbor (if you know them well enough) and ask them, if they see anyone around the house during your absence, to notify the police immediately. Many people think this would be a natural procedure, but a great many people don't want to bother the police unless they are sure that something is amiss. Next on the list is to cancel your newspaper delivery during the period that you are away. Anyone seeing a pile of newspapers on the front doorstep is usually correct in concluding that the occupants are away on vacation. Milk and bread left on the doorstep also give the same impression. You may be absent just for a day or a week-end, but a few hours is long enough to clean out the valuables in a home.

Be extra careful just what you leave in your car, either on vacation or around your home town. A valuable-looking article or package is mighty tempting to some people and locks can be picked and windows broken with practically no sound at all. It is also a good idea to keep your car keys in, your pocket; it is difficult, although not impossible, to start the car without them. If you see anyone tampering with a car, notify the police. True, it may be their own car, but chances are that it belongs to someone else.

Leaving a night-light on in your office costs next to nothing, but if the police know there is supposed to be a light left on, and that light is off — they investigate. If the light is left on, shadows can also be seen from the street if someone is in the building. You might possibly get a call in the middle of the night informing you that the light is out; but a few minutes' lost sleep is better than staying awake nights wondering how you are going to make up the loss of a theft — a theft that occurred because the police had no way of knowing just what was going on. A light in the yard is also an excellent prevention against prowlers.

If anything is missing around the house or office, and things just keep on disappearing, don't try to catch the guilty person yourself (and in the meantime lose more), but notify the police. That is their job, and they know how to handle it. Besides, if you let the little boy repeatedly take money from your milk bottles, or the little girl take your daughter's dolls home and never get around to returning them, you might be letting yourself in for something more serious later on. So notify the police, who are there to protect you. That is their job — and it is yours to assist them in every manner possible.

Politics Is Everybody's Business

THAT WAS a strangely ambiguous statement Mrs. C. J. Embree of Halifax made the other day. "All women should be interested in politics because women are the nation's spenders", she said quite seriously. "If they're not interested in their own business, what will they be interested in?"

Well, any mere male could be expected to misconstrue her meaning. Women are the nation's spenders, all right — ask any husband what happens to his weekly pay cheque. And any man would say the gossipy female of the species is a lot more interested in other people's business than her own.

But of course that isn't what Mrs. Embree, 50-year-old mother of three children and president of the National Federation of Liberal Women, had in mind at all. And what she did have in mind makes sense.

Government costs money — big money — regardless of what party is in office. That cost is reflected in the cost of living — for in the long run every cent spent by the federal, provincial and municipal administrations comes from your pocket and mine.

Women, as the nation's spenders, must be interested in getting the best buy for their money. That goes for politics as well as groceries and clothes and rent. Politics is everybody's business.

The best buy isn't always the cheapest product on the market. Quality is as important as the cost. And so it is with politics. What do we want from government? Under our democratic system each voter has the chance to decide for himself — to decide which party will provide the best possible administration at the least possible expenditure.

Women, as the nation's spenders, should take Mrs. Embree's advice. What she says, as Liberal, applies to all, regardless of their political inclinations or convictions.

What she says, in effect, is this: "Think hard, then vote the way you think best — but vote."

Vital Roles of Home and Church

THE HOME and the church have vital roles to play in the prevention of juvenile delinquency, alcoholism, drug addiction and other psychosocial illnesses of our society; affirms Dr. C. A. Roberts, chief of mental health for the Department of National Health and Welfare, in an article in "Health". Every citizen has a share in the responsibility for removing the conditions in our communities which cause or contribute to these troubles.

"The more we study drug addiction, juvenile delinquency, and even the problems of our aging citizens, the more we realize that these result from a failure of our present social patterns to meet adequately the needs of the individual", writes the psychiatrist. "We are justifiably proud of our standard of living as measured by the material things it provides in our environment. To a lesser extent we boast of the improvement our progress has brought in nutrition and physical health. Too seldom do we measure our standard of living in terms of human happiness and contentment. . . More and more we are focussing attention on our physical needs while failing to provide an opportunity for the individual to feel he is a worthwhile citizen performing useful tasks and gaining for himself substantial satisfaction through accomplishment."

Dr. Roberts cites as the first essential in the making of useful citizens the provision of a home life full of love and security — in addition to proper diet, proper clothing, warmth and comfort. The infant must feel wanted.

"One wonders how such a climate can be provided in the overcrowded slums of our cities, in homes where there is discord between parents, in homes torn by alcoholism, separation or divorce, or when other such factors are present to mar the environment of the growing child.

The second need is for a re-evaluation of our moral and ethical standards, Dr. Roberts maintains. To develop normally, a child must grow in a proper atmosphere of right and wrong, or good and bad. From the first he must learn that certain actions on his part are to his advantage while others bring undesired results; that his behaviour in a group is necessarily related to that of others in the group, and if he wants to get along he has to give as well as to receive benefits.

"In meeting the challenge of all the psychosocial conditions the church has a vital role", he goes on. "No other agency has the same access to the individual, and through this relationship the church has a responsibility to prescribe many of the social and moral standards of our communities and of the people who make up these communities."

The school is also important, having a duty to teach for future living. The teacher, even more than the school, in a more personal and meaningful way has a terrific impact on the growing child. The attitudes, behaviour and moral values of the teacher often set the behaviour pattern for our children — particularly is this true of children coming from discordant homes.

"In community planning, let us ever be conscious of the inner needs of people — conscious that these are in many ways more important than their physical needs", the article concludes.

Licensing of Trades

MUNICIPAL authorities have every right to insist that only responsible and qualified people are issued licenses to operate taxi cabs, barber shops or plumbing services within their boundaries. We don't want thugs driving our wives to the station after dark, or greenhorns monkeying with our plumbing or our whiskers. But, declares The Financial Post, when these people use these powers to set up little sealed-off trading empires within our national boundaries, then that is carrying the power of licensing much too far. After all, we are all Canadians in this country and every citizen should have equal opportunities in making a living.

THE UNION JACK

By Lewis Milligan

Preacher at a Coronation service in Toronto was the Very Reverend Willard Brewing, ex-Moderator of the United Church. He spoke on the British Commonwealth of Nations as a means of promoting the "commonwealth" of the people of all nations. At the close of his sermon he turned to the Union Jack hanging in the chancel, and spoke feelingly of the beauty and sacred symbolism of that emblem of unity and loyalty to the British Crown. He said he could not understand why any loyal Canadian would want to discard so beautiful a flag, with its triple crosses representing Christian unity and ancient traditions.

While the preacher was speaking in this way, I noticed an elderly man in the pew in front of me wiping his eyes beneath his glasses. His body trembled as if he were trying to suppress his emotion. After the service I was told that many other members of the congregation were affected in the same way by the preacher's quiet eulogy of the old Flag.

This incident prompted me to look up the history of our Flag, and I found it in a book entitled, "The Story of the Union Jack" by Barlow Cumberland, a Canadian, published over fifty years ago. The author reminds us that national flags are not merely "haphazard patchwork of colored bunting", and in the folds of the Union Jack is written the "record of the steady growth of a great nation, tracing through centuries of adventure and progress, and gradual establishment by its people of constitutional government over a world-wide Empire".

Every schoolboy knows what the three crosses in the Flag stand for. French-Canadians who think they are not represented in the Union Jack should remember that when the Christian nations of Europe joined in the Crusade to the Holy Land, the warrior pilgrims wore crosses of different shapes and colors on their surcoats and shields as Crusaders or "Cross bearers". The Frenchmen wore the Red Cross, and in that respect they were one with the Englishmen whose banner was the Red Cross of St. George.

French-Canadians should remember that the Norman Conquest of England was a French invasion, and William the Conqueror readily adopted the Red Cross "Jacque", while the English people submitted to him as their King, just as the people of French Canada submitted to the British Crown after the conquest of Quebec.

Both of these conquests proved a blessing for the conquered. Moreover, the original French immigrants in Quebec were almost entirely from Normandy, and in honoring the Union Jack their descendants are giving allegiance to a Throne that was re-established by a Norman King.

As for the tri-color, the flag of the Revolution, Cartier sailed up the St. Lawrence in 1534 under the royal white flag bearing the lilies of ancient France, and it was under that flag that Quebec was founded by Champlain in 1608. The tri-color therefore carries no allegiance for French-Canadians.

It is interesting to note that the 13 English Colonies which became the United States were established under the St. George Cross of England. The Mayflower was an English ship, and the Pilgrim Fathers declared their loyalty to the British Crown. The Grand Union flag, with the English Jack in the corner and red and white stripes on the fly, continued to be used for a year after the Declaration of Independence. Even the stars and stripes and the eagle are of English origin, being adopted from the coat of arms of the Washington family in England.

The White Ensign was the signal flag with which Nelson flashed his famous message to the Fleet at Trafalgar: "England expects every man this day to do his duty". And it was fortunate for France and the whole free world that they did their duty and scotched the dictatorship of Napoleon.

In a radio broadcast during the last war, I heard a French-Canadian tell of the "thrill" he got at the sight of the Union Jack flying at the masthead of a British cruiser arriving off the Island of Crete in the Mediterranean.

MONTREAL – MAELSTROM AND MILLSTREAM

By GEOFF.

Montreal is dying a slow and agonizing death! It's too late to do anything about it medicinally. Surgery of a drastic nature is the city's only hope. And, even then, the chances of complete cure and recovery are very, very slim.

In human terms, the disease is known as arteriosclerosis. In the city's case, it's called hardening of the arteries of traffic and commerce. It's gone too far for too long and, statistically, here is how it works.

The number of resident cars is increasing day by day. The widening of existing roads, however, and the establishment of throughways and parking lots is not keeping pace. Added to that, an increase of tourist cars is augmenting the city's own traffic to set up a permanent stranglehold on all vehicular movement.

Roadwork is undertaken by day when traffic is heaviest. This calls for re-routing to already clogged thoroughfares. Left turns are permitted on the throughways and, conversely, right turns are prohibited on red lights, except in isolated instances.

Loading and unloading of trucks at private houses and commercial offices is still tolerated during the hours of daylight. Parking is allowed in down-town areas and on streets where public transport vehicles operate.

Public transportation officials are not interested in providing a speedy service. They strive only to adhere to schedules which have been drawn up for rush-hour traffic. When lines and roads are clear of obstructions, drivers and motormen are forced by eagle-eyed inspectors to adopt a "go-slow" policy.

It has been proven that one can walk faster in Montreal than one can travel by tram or taxi. It's true, too, and it's a lot easier on the nerves and the pocketbook. The overall cost of shoe leather is a great deal less than either tram or taxi fares. And walking is good exercise and much less frustrating than going for a ride.

So Montreal is dying. And those who are charged with her care and welfare are standing idly by waiting for the end. Perhaps, happy souls, they are of the old school that enjoys a bang-up funeral and a thundering good wake. If so, they haven't long to wait. But, in the time that's left, perhaps they'll have time to discover a sad and sorry truth. It won't be Montreal's funeral alone — it will be their funeral, too!

Requiescat in pace, my friends. And, while you're at it — push up in front!

SLOWPOKES MENACE

There should be some way of cracking down on slowpoke drivers — those who drive at such a slow speed that normal traffic is impeded or blocked.

SHOULD BE FIT

Canada is in position to require a high standard of health and general fitness from all those seeking to live in this country and to populate it. This is a reasonable requirement for self-protection, because no one is concerned about Canada's long-term well-being except Canada itself.

CANADIAN NATIONAL

JOHN McFAUL & SON

Whereas, Whereas —

The other day a woman asked that people view more seriously the resolutions they present to governments, reports The Financial Post.

She advised a closer look at resolutions to make sure the principles are sound and that the facts are straight.

Today everybody from dew-worm diggers to elephant trainers are organized into some sort of association. And every year the federal and provincial governments are showered with resolutions suggesting everything from a national flea week to pumping out Hudson Bay.

Many of these, dreamed up by national executives, are handed out to local meetings, and receive 100% endorsement" of Punkeydoodle Corners Cricket Club (of four members, three of whom may have been asleep) only to go back to national headquarters to be presented to the government representative of national thought.

Naturally, the resolutions' coinage has been debased. If the good advice were heeded, we might see its value restored.

Canada's northern territories have an area of 1.5 million square miles, a population of 25,000. Alaska, one third the area, has a population of 130,000.

"Loving memories never die,
As the years roll on and the days go by.
Deep in our hearts your memory is kept,
We smile with the world, but never forget."

CLARK — In loving memory of our father, George A. Clark, who passed away July 14, 1951; and our brother, Donald K. Clarke, killed in action overseas, January 14, 1945. — Always remembered by Douglas, Basil, Jennie, Perley and Catherine.
"Times have changed in many ways
Since we were all together,
But the memory of those happy days
Will linger on forever."

GORDON — In loving memory of John Gordon, who passed away, July 9, 1949, ever remembered by Edward and Marjorie.
"She was always smiling, always content,
Loved and respected wherever she went,
Always so good, unselfish and kind,
What a beautiful memory she left behind."

GORDON — In fond memory of my mother, who passed away July 9, 1949. Ever remembered by her daughter, Janet and son-in-law, Bob.

A traffic officer stopped Mr. Smith and said: "I'm going to give you a ticket for driving without a tail light."

Mr. Smith got out to investigate and let out a howl of dismay.

"Here", said the officer. "A tail light isn't as serious as all that."

"It's not my tail light I'm worried about", answered Mr. Smith "What's become of my trailer?"

"I'm very sorry", said the dentist to the patient on the phone "I can't take care of you today, I have 18 cavaties to fill". Then he hung up the phone, picked up his golf bag and hat, and left his office.

The Trinity — Divine Mystery or Pagan Myth?

Further support for the trinity doctrine is claimed by Jesus' words as found at John 10: 30: "I and my Father are one." Here again note that a duality and not a trinity is involved. That no equality but only oneness in purpose was intended by Jesus is apparent from his prayer in behalf of his followers: "That they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us." — John 17: 21.

"God was manifest in the flesh" is another text used to support the trinity. (I Timothy 3: 16). However, not that modern translations substitute "he" for "God", the pronoun referring to Christ Jesus. — See American Version; Moffatt; Goodspeed; Rotherham.

If the Son is coeternal with and uncreated by the Father, why is he called "the firstborn of every creature", "the beginning of the creation of God", whereas his Father is said to be "from everlasting to everlasting"? (Psalm 90: 2; Colossians 1: 15; Revelation 3: 14). And if coequal and omnipotent with God why did he say: "I can of mine own self do nothing" and "my Father is greater than I"? And how can one God be two witnesses? — John 5: 30; 8: 17; 14: 28.

TRINITY UNREASONABLE

The Son learned "obedience by the things which he suffered". Obedience to whom? Himself? And when he prayed "Not as I will, but as thou will" did he mean not as I will but as I will? It simply does not make sense! And when he thus prayed to his Father was he talking to himself? "Christ pleased not himself." But he did please God. If Christ is also God then Christ did please himself. He told the Devil that he could worship only the true God, Jehovah. Did he engage in worshiping himself? — Matthew 4: 10; 26: 39; Romans 15: 3; Hebrews 5: 8.

And what about the holy spirit ("ghost")? Can a person be poured out on others? Can people be baptized with a person? And if he is equal with the Father and the Son, why so little mention of him? Stephen and John saw the Father and the Son in heavenly visions, but not the "Holy Ghost". Why? — Matthew 3: 11; Acts 2: 17; 7: 55; Revelation 5: 1-6.

God says: "Come now, and let us reason together". (Isaiah 1: 18). Advocates of the trinity teaching admit that it is most impenetrable to reason, and the foregoing is but representative of the abundant testimony proving that it is also unscriptural. Briefly, the Bible shows that there is just one true God, of whom are all things, and one Lord Jesus Christ, by whom are all things. (I Corinthians 8: 6) and the holy spirit (Greek, pneuma; literally — wind) is God's active force sent forth to accomplish his purposes. — Zechariah 4: 6.

What Has Religion Done for Mankind?

Dedicated to the peace and unity of all persons of good will of whatever race or nation, the book "What Has Religion Done for Mankind?" examines the fruits of the major religions of mankind in the light of the reliable criterion, the Bible. Containing 352 pages, with scripture and subject indexes, it is bound in beautiful canary-yellow cover, gold-leaf stamped, and is available on a contribution of 50 cents. — Watch Tower, 40 Irwin Ave., Toronto 5, Ontario.

Recent Bishopton Wedding of Local Interest

Nicholls - Bishop

Bishopton, Que. — A very pretty wedding took place on Saturday afternoon, June 20, at 2.30 o'clock, in the United Church, Bishopton, Que., when Miss Ardyth Myrtle Bishop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney N. Bishop, became the bride of Mr. John Donald Nicholls, of Asbestos, Que., son of Mrs. Ruby Nicholls, of Asbestos, and of the late Mr. Leonard Nicholls. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. C. J. Gustafson, Mr. A. W. Bishop, of Danville, played the wedding music and Mr. George Rothney, of Asbestos, sang "The Lord's Prayer" just before the ceremony and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register. The alter was decorated with baskets of yellow and white gladioli and baskets of white and pale pink peonies and pink delphinium were used throughout the church. White satin bows with nosegays of bridal wreath spirea and rosebuds marked the pews reserved for the guests and the bridal arch was covered with summer flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was in a model gown of silk net sprinkled with mother of pearl beads over satin, fashioned with a basque bodice having draped shoulders and a full skirt which fell into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a tiny coronet trimmed with seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow Pinocchio roses and white stephanotis.

Mrs. William A. Royland was her sister's matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Cora Cruikshank, of Asbestos, and Miss Marilyn Andrews, Master Malcolm Jenkerson acted as ring bearer. The attendants wore ballerina length tier skirted frocks of nylon net over taffeta, styled with strapless bodices and matching jackets and mitts, the matron of honor in aqua and the bridesmaids in yellow and shrimp. They wore coronet styled hats of matching material and carried colonial bouquets of yellow and white Pinocchio roses and gladioli.

Mr. Eddie McKenna, of Asbestos, acted as best man, while the ushers were Mr. William Rowland and Mr. Norman Bishop, of Asbestos.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Bishop, was in a gown of navy blue lace and crepe with a small navy hat and accessories. Her corsage was of pale pink Pinocchio roses.

Mrs. Nicholls, mother of the groom, was in Queen's blue lace, and she wore a wide brim white hat and accessories and a corsage of deep pink pinocchio roses.

The reception was held at "Rockcliffe" Sherbrooke, following which Mr. and Mrs. Nicholls left for their wedding trip, the bride travelling in a pale blue summer tweed suit with white accessories and wearing a corsage of red carnations.

Guests from a distance who attended the wedding were from St. Albans, N.Y., Hempstead, N.Y., Boston, Mass., Detroit, Mich., Lachute, Montreal, St. Catharines, Ont., Sherbrooke, Thompsonville, Michigan, Danville, East Angus, Asbestos and Lennoxville.

Canada is the world's third trading nation and the fourth greatest industrial power.

Pretty Wedding At Lachute United Church

Hammond - Pollock

Baskets and standards of Peonies, delphiniums and mock orange blossoms were arranged in the Lachute United Church for the recent marriage of Margaret Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Pollock, to Mr. Melvin James Hammond, son of Mr. B. M. Hammond and the late Mrs. Hammond. The Rev. W. B. Rosborough performed the ceremony; Mrs. Kenneth McOuat played the wedding music and Mrs. Robert Blakley was soloist.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white embroidered nylon net over satin with fitted bodice and long pointed sleeves. Her elbow length veil of tulle illusion was held by a band of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Miss Barbara Pollock, maid of honor, dressed in mauve and Miss Ruth Hammond, bridesmaid, wearing yellow, were in similarly styled strapless gowns of nylon net over taffeta with matching bolero and net headdresses and mittens. They carried bouquets of yellow mums and sweet peas.

Mr. Allan Hammond acted as best man. Ushers were Mr. Keith Pollock and Mr. Edward Hammond.

The Church hall was decorated with summer flowers for the reception, following which the couple left by motor on their wedding trip to points in the United States and Ontario. For travelling the bride wore a blue linen suit with white accessories and a corsage bouquet of red roses. On their return they will take up residence on Marie Road, Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

Canada's petroleum industry last year accounted for almost 10 per cent of the total of all investment in this country.

Writing with colored inks is not a new development. Early Egyptian scribes, writing with quill pens on papyrus, often used different-colored inks to emphasize the subjects they wrote about, according to Sheaffer Pen Company researchers. They used blue for the sky, yellow for women, red for battles and celebrations.

Gangster Tactics in Hawkesbury Robbery

Vankleek Hill — John Darwin MacLennan of R.R. 1, Vankleek Hill, was robbed of approximately $70 in cash and a cheque in Hawkesbury one evening recently.

According to Mr. MacLennan he was sitting in his car on Main Street, waiting for the friends who had accompanied him, as a gangster quickly opened the door of his car and hit him five times in the face and grabbed his pocketbook in his hip pocket. Just before he realized what was happening the thief was on his way, but the victim claimed he got a good look at him and could identify the ruffian.

Mr. MacLennan suffered cuts over his right eye and a severely swollen face. The Hawkesbury police investigated. One suspect was brought before Mr. MacLennan next day, but turned out not to have been the right one. An addressed letter found near the car led to another suspect, but this also proved wrong.

NEW FISH LURE

London — Latest gimmick for fishermen is the "Buzzing Bee", developed by Jaromir Brygar, a Czech who went to Britain before the war and served in the R.A.F. His device consists of a plastic jar containing a battery-operated mechanism producing a buzzing sound. He got the idea from his grandfather, a keen fisherman — he used a jar of live bees whose buzzing, when lowered into the water, apparently attracted the fish.

At Lions' Convention

Mr. and Mrs. Willard M. Steeves with their son, Mr. Jack Steeves, left Saturday to visit their daughter, Mrs. R. THE SELFISH VIEW

There are two main classes of voters in this country. Strangely, most voters belong to both classes from time to time. The two classes are those who want to pay less taxes and those who want the government to give them more, at the expense of some other tax payers.

Shaughnessy Prize Up for Competition At Lachute Club

The Laurie and Peter Shaughnessy Memorial Trophy has been added to the more than 70 prizes which will be up for competition when the Sportsman's Association of Montreal stages its annual golf day at Lachute Golf and Country Club, July 15. Frank J. Shaughnessy, president of the International League and father of the two boys, will be honored by the Association and presented with the Macdonald Shield.

The newest trophy among the association's collection of handsome silverware is the gift of Vernon G. Cardy, prominent Quebec sportsman, who has long been an admirer of "Shag" and who has offered the trophy for an annual father-and-son competition at the Sportman's Association golf tournament. Low gross in four-ball foursome play will decide the winner each year.

It is not beyond possibility that the first name to be inscribed on the new Shaughnessy Memorial Trophy will be the name of Shaughnessy itself for Frank Sr., and Jr., are among the best known of the father-and-son golfing combinations in this area. Frank Jr. one time noted athlete with McGill and Loyola has teamed up with his father on numerous occasions.

Laurie and Peter Shaughnessy, like the other eight sons of the International League president, were sports stars at Montreal's Loyola College during that stretch of nearly 20 years when there was always a Shaughnessy on the west-end college's football team. Peter was killed two years ago in a traffic accident and Laurie died in a Washington, D.C., hospital only a short time ago.

Effect Changes In Lacrosse Rules

SPORTS CAMERA

By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Lacrosse officials are making a few changes in Canada's national game, attempting to improve the calibre of play and attract more fans.

Biggest innovation is elimination of the rover position. That means that lacrosse teams now will correspond to those in hockey: three forwards, two defencemen and a goalie.

The lacrosse hotbeds are Ontario and British Columbia and both now are using the six-man game in the senior divisions.

J. C. McLeod, president of the Canadian Lacrosse Association, suggested the smaller team and a reduced goal area last fall and asked the Ontario and B.C. branches to try it out.

British Columbia has been using it all season and the fans are reported in favor.

In Ontario the new system went into effect July 8 on a try-out basis. It will continue until the end of the regular schedule.

Next month when the playoffs start the teams will decide whether to continue under the new set-up.

Speeds Up Play

Team rosters in Ontario will be increased from 15 to 16. At the same time, six inches will be cut from the height and width of the goal. That will make a four-foot-square target to shoot at instead of four feet, six inches square.

"We figures that two fewer players on the floor at any time will speed up play", Chuck Rowan, secretary of the Ontario Lacrosse Association says.

"They'll have more room to move around and make plays. At the same time, the 16-man roster will mean that a team can carry three complete forward lines, six defencemen, a goalie."

The smaller goal is bound to cut down on the high scores for which lacrosse is noted, or 'cursed', if you are one of the multitude who think that numerous goals cheapen the game.

There have been some very lop-sided scores in the Ontario senior division this year, with the winning team running the tally up into the high 30's. That's one of the surest ways of killing off fan appeal.

Even the most rabid supporter doesn't like going out to a game if he knows one team is going to smother the other. It's the close games, the chances of an upset, which draw the crowds.

Already one team, Brampton has folded in the powerful OLA senior division. A shortage of good players and a rapid fall-off of attendance after some lop-sided losses were responsible. The new changes may remedy the situation.

Power Squadron Visit St. Andrews

The St. Andrews Country Club was host to the Power Squadron of Ottawa and Montreal over the week-end. More than a dozen luxury cruisers were anchored at the club's wharf on the North river and offered a magnificent sight to the many onlookers who came to St. Andrews Saturday or Sunday.

A golf tournament was played and all the distinguished guests returned to their respective homes thrilled at the magnificient and exclusive surroundings of the club.

It is also well to remember that Jim Seeney, the clubs' popular pro, invites all local golfers to pay him a visit on the course.

Wrestling Returns To Laurentians

The Brownsburg Community Rink Association presented a successful wrestling match, two weeks ago. The Association decided to present regular shows in this popular Laurentian area. Therefore, Monday, at 8.30 p.m. a wrestling match will be held in the Arena with the co-operation of the Montreal wrestlers. You will see the sensational young Ray Lortie, a Canadian star of stage and TV in the last match with Ray Couture, who is back from a Mexico tour. This ending match will be the night's main attraction. A new figure in Canada, "Chief Golden Hawk" vs Bull Hocoma, who last week presented the best show of the night, will be featured again.

A good crowd is expected from all reports. Future Brownsburg shows will present, Bob Lortie, Boris Kalmikoff, Ray Lortier, Jacques Larose, Les Dufresnes, and many others.

Chief Golden Hawk—Iroquois Wrestler will wrestle with Ray Lortie against Ray Couture and Bull Hocoma at the Monday night fights in Brownsburg.

Arundel School Board Defers Business

The regular meeting of the Arundel School Board was held at 8 p.m. on Thursday, July 2, with all members in attendance.

At the invitation of the Arundel School Board, Col. Garnet M. Strong, the chairman of the Morin Heights School Board and the Arundel representative on the Argenteuil and Two Mountains County Central Board, was present and prior to the meeting the members of the Arundel Board had a general discussion with Col. Strong regarding the problems confronting local school boards.

Routine matters were then dealt with by the Board but it was decided to defer certain important matters until two members have been elected to the Board following the expiration of the terms of office of Messrs. Leslie Cooke and Thomas Sinclair. This election meeting was held on Monday, and a special meeting of the Board will be held as soon as possible thereafter.

Lachute TIGERS

By J. C. PETITCLERC

Hello Baseball Fans

Here I am again after two weeks absence. First I want to thank all the fans who wrote to The Watchman about my column, I will keep on informing you about the Lachute "Tigers".

Well the Tigers are coming to life again after sickness to many players, bad luck here and there, etc, but it now looks like with the end of June, the jinks is over, for, in the last six games, the Tigers won 5. Two of those games I had the pleasure of seeing. Sunday's games shall be remembered for a long time to come. In the afternoon here at the stadium, the Tigers outclassed the Valleyfield Chiefs 23 to 2, and if I am not mistaken, records, or near records, were made. The first was Yeager coming to bat 7 times in 9 innings, second being two home runs in the same inning with the bases loaded when the Tigers scored 10 runs. Hits, home runs, and wonderful double plays were all around the Lachute Stadium.

Too bad only a few were there to see the parade. "Bang Tiger Groulx" won his game easily, but the nerve wracking game was played in Ste. Therese the same night with over two hundred fans from Lachute to cheer the Tigers. The Lachute Club scored the 1st run in the 2nd inning on a homer, but in the 3rd and 4th the Foxes came back with two runs in each, making the score read — Ste. Therese 4, Lachute 1. Our hopes came back a little in the 6th with another homer, then with a timely hit, Hoffman tied the score in the 8th. In the final inning Hoffman won his own game with a four bagger some 300 feet from the plate. He also struck out eight "Foxes". He certainly deserved a star for his performance. Another nice play was made by Coach Gerry Cotnoir when in the 10th he took Hoffman out and replaced him with Luciano for the lefties of Ste. Therese were coming to bat — Luciano kept them from scoring. I also congratulate the fans of Ste. Therese for their sportsmanship, I will always be pleased to go back. Since I left a lot of new faces are with the Tigers. All season I said the Lachute Tigers was a good team and I still maintain that if they don't finish at the top, they will not be far behind.

Ted Vachon, the business manager, is doing a wonderful job with the help of all the directors to give the fans the best baseball but with the poor showing of the fans I pity the directors at the end of the season. They will have to dig far in the bottom of their pockets. So come on fans, the players and the association need your support as well as your cheers. Come and enjoy real nice baseball and at the same time don't forget to vote for the player of distinction.

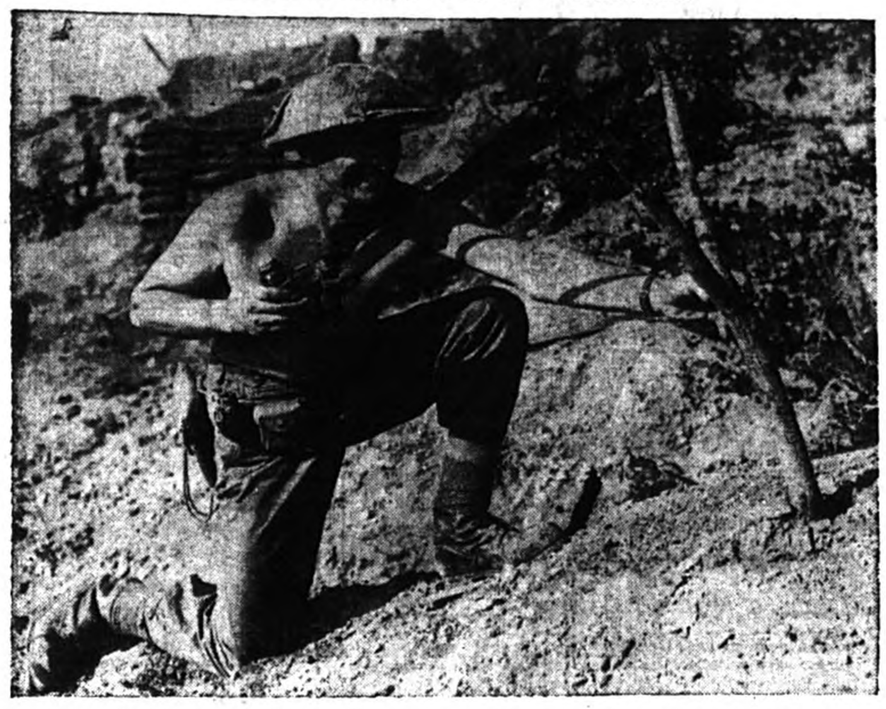
Guided Missile à la Chinaman



Capt. J. P. Dufour of Chicoutimi, Que., a member of the Royal 22nd Regiment in Korea, has good reason to grin. He knows the grenade he's holding in the giant sling-shot is plus pin and safe. This latest "ultra-modern" weapon is a relic from the guided missile proving ground of Ghengis Khan. It's a Chinese effort found by the "Van Doos" on the forward slope of one of their hill-top company positions on the Western Front in Korea. Only Kamikaze pilots need apply as gunners: sling-shots have been known to backfire.

Quebec is the only walled city in North America.

Little Known Fish Angling Attraction

Pointe Pelee, Ont. (CP) — Hundreds of Canadian and United States anglers are being attracted to the national park here by a little-known fish, known locally as the sheephead and in other areas as the gasperoux or fresh-water drum.

When the conditions are good there are plenty on the west side of Point Pelee, about 35 miles southwest of Windsor, but when conditions aren't right there are none to be found.

The slow-moving sheephead is usually a fair size and weighs from four to seven pounds. An angler using a light tackle can have a fair fight with it. Although not it does provide a 10-minute battle — or longer if the tackle is light in the same class as bass or trout, enough and the fish big enough.

Sheephead seldom break water when hooked and tend to dive for deeper water. They're bottom feeders. In appearance, they look like bass, but with a greater hump on the back and a long dorsal fin.

SAFETY MEASURE

Brantford, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Fire Fighters' Federation here urged that containers of paint or other inflammable liquids be painted orange instead of red. They noted that red is the color of many fire extinquishers and the two might be easily confused.

Moose Calling Easy For Oregon Expert

Edmonton (CP) — Jim Bond, wildlife expert from Portland, Oregon, is modest about his ability in moose calling, but came to Edmonton with proof of having lured seven of the big animals at one time.

A forestry graduate from the University of California, Mr. Bond has written three books and more than 50 magazine articles on wildlife. Before coming here he completed 36 showings of his films in Los Angeles.

The moose-calling incident was included in a film shown here for three days.

Accompanied by an Indian guide, Mr. Bond was hunting in the Mackenzie Mountain section of the Yukon. He heard a bull moose growling and making sounds resembling those of the cow moose, attempted to attract the bull. He explains that it was during the fall mating season, adding "there is no animal as mean as a bull moose" at that time of year."

The moose and Mr. Bond carried on a "calling" conversation until they were in sight of each other. But just as the hunter saw the first bull, a second came out of the bush.

An accomplished movie-maker, Mr. Bond attempted to provoke the two bulls into a fight — a common spectacle during the mating season.

The thought had hardly entered his mind when a third bull appeared, and within a few minutes three more arrived, all coming within 50 yards of the hunter. A seventh bull came out of the bush 30 feet from Mr. Bond and then charged.

He shot it, then took up his camera to film the other six moose, a sight included in one of three films he showed Edmonton sportsmen.

CURRENT SHOWS AND ENTERTAINMENT

Plans Ready for Highland Dance Test

The "clans" will gather in colorful array at Lansdowne Park on Wednesday, August 26, when the Central Canada Exhibition Association will again stage its famed Highland Dancing competition.

Lads and lassies from Eastern Ontario and the Northern American states will be attired in traditional Scottish costume for the many entertaining events comprising the competition.

There will be Highland Fling classes for boys and girls ranging in age from six to 16, five events for Sword Dances and four classes for the Seann Trubhas. For further variety there will be sections for those skilled in the Sailor's Hornpipe and the Irish Jig.

A feature event will be the Highland Fling and Sword Dance for the Ian Mackenzie Challenge Trophy. This is open to boys and girls 16 years and over.

Other Classes

Other outstanding classes, confined to Ottawa residents, will be for the Gaelic Society Challenge Cup and the Gaelic Society Christie Aird Memorial Trophy.

The Highland Dancing Competition will be held at the Bandshell at Lansdowne Park. Entries this year have been so heavy that the first events will start at 9 a.m. instead of at 10 o'clock as was the custom in past years.

Pipers will be provided by the C.C.E.A. All competitors must wear complete Highland dress, but no medals will be worn. Decision of the judges is final.

Entries for the competition must be turned into the C.C.E.A. by August 10. Full information and entry forms may be secured from the C.C.E.A. offices at Lansdowne Park.

CBC Goes to Stratford Shakespearean Festival

People from points as widely separated as Iceland, the British West Indies and Mexico are converging on Stratford, Ontario, for the Shakespearean Festival which gets underway on July 13 with a performance of Richard III. CBC commentator Thom Benson is preparing an hour-long documentary on the festival and the program will be heard on CBC Wednesday Night, July 15.

Benson intends to get interviews with such celebrities as Alec Guinness and Irene Worth, who were imported from England to play leading roles in the plays, and such well known critics as Brooks Atkinson and Wollcott Gibbs. He will also talk with Dr. Tyrone Guthrie, the festival director, and some residents of the town of Stratford, including Thos. Patterson, who is credited with the idea for the festival.

The festival, which will continue for a month includes such well-known CBC radio and TV actors in supporting roles as Robert Christie, Dick Easton, Tim Findley and Eric House.

The documentary broadcast will be heard on CBC Trans-Canada at the following times: 9.30 p.m. NDT; 9.00 p.m. ADT; 8.00 p.m. EDT; 8.00 p.m. CDT; 8.30 p.m MDT; 7.30 p.m. PDT.

Trained Personnel For Airforce Recreation

The RCAF will graduate its first class of Recreation Specialists from No. 2 Composite Training School, Aylmer, Ont., on July 10.

This new course will provide the Air Force with a much-needed supply of personnel trained in the direction and co-ordination of recreational programs of all kinds. Their training includes recreational leadership, the maintenance and operation of all types of recreational equipment and facilities, physical recreation and sports, social recreation and entertainment programs. Clubs, arts crafts, hobbies, special events, publicity and public relations in recreation, civilian-air force relations in recreation, are also included.

The man behind this Recreation training program is Wing Commander J. K. (Johnie) Tett, DFC, a former Second World War bomber pilot who is back in harness in the RCAF on loan from the Ontario Department of Education. In his civilian career, he held the position of Director of the Community Programs Branch, and was responsible for Provincial Recreation and Adult Education Services. For his two year period in the RCAF, he is responsible to the Director of Personnel Administration for the Development of RCAF Recreation Services and Programs.

SADLER'S WELLS BALLET TO VISIT CANADA

London — For the third time in four years the Sadler's Wells Ballet will undertake a tour of the United States and Canada. The tour will open at the Metropolitan Opera House on September 13. After four weeks in New York they will visit Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver, returning to the U.S. for further engagements.

How do you tell the difference between a male and female bass?

Making A Hit

Romantic songs and an attractive young twosome to sing them — that's the bill of fare on Trans-Canada Hit Parade, a Saturday CBC broadcast featuring Wally Koster and Joan Fairfax (above), with an orchestra conducted by Bert Niosi and the Gino Silvy Chorus. From juke boxes and other sources of popularity rating in the field of song hits, producer Norman Hollingshead and Niosi select the tunes each week that have been most requested. Then Niosi adds his own brand of sprightly polish to them, and Joan and Wally contribute a touch of romance.

THRIVING PESTS

Two prairie pests which have managed to survive and even thrive along with the advance of settlement and agriculture are the coyote and wild oat. The wild animal and the wild grain have learned to adapt themselves to changing conditions and get along well.

— Brooks (Alta.) Bulletin

VITAL FORESTS

Canadians are living in an age when forests and forest products have more influence in their daily living than during any previous period in history. A start should be made in the schools and the message of "Protect Our Heritage — Our Forests" hammered home repeatedly at the adult population.

— North Battleford (Sask.) News

THE TV ARGUMENT

The majority of people would rather see a reduction of say 10 millions in taxes than have millions expended by the government in establishing television. Private enterprise would see that service would be provided wherever the conditions warranted.

New roofs for old

A NUMBER of ancient English churches are replacing their equally ancient roofs with aluminum. One of these is the Chapel of St. James in the village of Nether Warton, Oxfordshire. Its lead roof, originally laid in 1665, brought £478 as scrap — enough to pay the whole cost of installing the new roof.

It is a neat example of how, while most metals have been getting more expensive through the centuries, the cost of aluminum has been going down. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan)

Women's Interests -- The Homemaker's Section

Summer Cabbage

This is the month when the season really gets into full swing for the wonderful fruits and vegetables we enjoy all summer long. Some of the vegetables were in the stores during the winter of course, but they were imports from our neighbors to the South. Fresh, local vegetables are now available, many in abundance.

The summer cabbage prospects for 1958 sound very good for Canadian homemakers and great green piles of cabbage are rolling into the markets. The quality of cabbage is good and the prices are very reasonable. Golden Acre is the most common variety of cabbage sold in Canada, but there is some of the Copenhagen Market variety grown too. When buying cabbage, be sure to choose heads that are firm, fairly hard and that feel heavy for their size. Don't expect that summer cabbage will be as hard and heavy as winter cabbage. Always avoid discolored heads of cabbage for they are wasteful.

A small head of cabbage weighs around two to four pounds, but larger heads may weigh as much as six or even eight pounds. For the average family, however, it is advisable to buy the smaller heads which can be used up easily. One pound of fresh cabbage will give about six cups of shredded cabbage, the shreds being average size, neither very fine nor very coarse. If the cabbage is shredded very, very fine, the yield will naturally be smaller. Generally speaking, one pound of raw cabbage when shredded and used in a salad will be sufficient for six servings. One pound of cabbage shredded, again a medium shred, and cooked will give about three and a half cups cooked cabbage. This amount is sufficient for three or four servings.

The crisp, chewy quality of cabbage and the fresh green color are two very good reasons for serving cabbage frequently. Speaking of serving cabbage, it is wise to remember that cabbage can come to the table either fresh or cooked, in a great variety of ways. Cabbage is one vegetable though that is often poorly cooked, and there is no reason why this should be because it is no harder to prepare and cook than any other vegetable. Here is how the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, tell us to cook cabbage. Cook cabbage quickly in a covered saucepan in a small amount of boiling water. Sprinkle the cabbage with salt just before covering. Shredded cabbage will cook in about five minutes but larger pieces will take a little longer. Add a generous dab of butter to the cooked, drained cabbage and perhaps a little vinegar too. The important thing to watch is not to cook the cabbage too long. When it is properly cooked, it should be still slightly crisp and chewy. If it is limp, then it is cooked too much.

The home economists have a cabbage recipe which is a meal in itself for six people.

Cabbage Salad

6 Cups shredded cabbage (about one pound shredded), 1½ cups cheese cubes (¼ inch cubes), ½ cup chopped green pepper or parsley, 1 cup sour cream, 2 tablespoons vinegar, salt to taste, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard.

Combine shredded cabbage, cheese and green pepper or parsley. Mix the sour cream with the sugar and vinegar. Season with salt and add the dry mustard. Pour over the cabbage mixture and toss lightly. Serve the salad with muffins or tea biscuits for luncheon or supper.

NO MAGIC FOODS TO BUILD SUPER-ATHLETES

There are no magic foods that will produce super-athletes, according to the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association. The same meat, milk, eggs, vegetables, enriched and whole grain breads and cereals that are fundamental to the health of every person are needed by the athlete.

There is no evidence, either, that drinking a judicious amount of fluids during strenuous exercise is harmful.

Studies have also shown that there is no need for quick energy after prolonged exercise of five hours or more. The body can furnish the required energy from its own reserves up to that time.

Hobby Provides New Role for Old Nylons

Hobbyists have found a new use for old nylon stockings. With the aid of inexpensive tinting powders, some copper screening, a few yards of floral tape and a household bleach, they are fashioning discarded hosiery into attractive shoulder corsages.

Petals are made from tinted squares of nylon and grouped together on a stem to form a flower. An arrangement of several flowers make a floral spray.

First step is to prepare the discarded hosiery for tinting by boiling them for about 20 minutes in bleaching water.

It is easier and more economical to adopt the assembly-line technique and collect several pairs of old nylons before embarking on the project. This will save wrestling with dye pots each time a shoulder bouquet is whipped up.

After the stockings have been bleached, pop one into the hot dye and boil until it reaches the desired depth of color. Repeat the process with additional stockings to obtain the required number of colors. One stocking is dyed green for the leaves. Left-over liquid dyes are stored in glass containers for future use.

Best results and most delicate or vivid shadings are obtained from sheer 15-denier hosiery. (Denier is the weight and thickness of the nylon thread). Although 15-denier is very fine, it is remarkably strong. And so there is little danger of the bleeching and boiling damaging the cobwebby yarns.

To form the petals and leaves, unravel a strand of wire from the copper screening and chop it into eight-inch lengths. Then cut the dyed nylon into squares of 3, 4 and 4½ inches. Bend a piece of wire into a petal or leaf shape and stretch a square of colored nylon over it. Gather the fabric together at the bottom and fasten with wire.

When five petals have been completed, make the centre by cutting a ¾-inch strip from the heavier welt at the top of a stocking which has been tinted a contrasting shade. Roll the strip around the index and second finger to form a pad. Make a hair crook in a long piece of wire and twist the short end around the pad. Tie the fabric ends with wire. With a pair of scissors clip tiny pieces of fabric from the smooth top of the pad and it will fluff up like a daisy centre.

To assemble the flower, group the five petals around the fluffy centre and secure them at the base with a piece of wire. Cover the exposed wire stem with green floral tape.

For a corsage, assemble three or four flowers and two or three leaves and pin your handiwork on your lapel.

Dietitian To Work With YWCA in Korea

Toronto (CP) — A Toronto dietitian is eagerly looking forward to going to Korea.

She is Barbara Broadfoot, a teaching dietitian at a hospital here, and she leaves for Korea in July to work on a new YWCA rehabilitation program for young people.

Miss Broadfoot is to be the director of the new rural training schools, a project under the Canadian YWCA World Service Program. The project is an expansion of the present YWCA services in Korea aimed at providing both residence and vocational training.

She will work in and around Pusan, which is YWCA headquarters, and Seoul. A start has already been made on the work about 40 miles out of Pusan.

"It will depend largely upon the needs what our work will be", Miss Broadfoot said. "But it will be helping young girls to find employment and new homes."

Most certainly the work will be concerned with nutrition and helping to organize housing units, she said.

No matter what the work may be, Barbara will be able to cope with it. After graduating in home economics from the University of Toronto in 1937 she spent some time teaching the subject at a hospital, a Toronto department store and Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B.

During the Second World War she did personnel work with the YWCA in the Farm Service Force, later spent four years with the Women's Institute. For the last year and a half she has been teaching dietetics to student nurses.

Games for the Family

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"Let's all have a game after supper!" Junior says eagerly. He knows from experience what a good time he and his brother have when mother and dad join with them in a family game.

The time which a family spend playing together is never wasted. Laughter and friendly competition form a kind of invisible cement in the family circle. The different members of the family get to know each other — and appreciate each other better.

In some homes where the family unite on a Saturday on a special work project, such as the housecleaning the cellar or attic or tidying up a yard, there is an understanding that in the evening there will be a "Games Session". Mother and Dad take time off to join in the good time because son and daughter have shared willingly in the household tasks. In other families right after the supper dishes are done, there is a short time when whoever feels like playing a game is free to do so. A third plan is to have "Family Fun Time" Friday or Saturday evening.

There should be a convenient place in every home where games are stored ready for use. This collection of games should be added to from time to time.

The old-fashioned games such as checkers, dominoes, tiddlywinks and parchesi, may be enjoyed by a school child or an older person. Croquinole, ping pong and darts are three excellent skill games for teenagers. Bean bags and ring tossing games can be played by smaller children.

A wide variety of attractive games help to pass the time when boys and girls are confined to the house with a cold or some minor ailment. They are a great help in the holiday season or when unexpected younger guests arrive eager for some fun. During a cold, wet spell of weather, young children are in doors more than when the weather is fine. If they have games to play they are less likely to get into mischief or start to quarrel or complain.

The person who takes the game out of the "game cupboard" should be responsible for putting it back. A set or rules for each game should be kept. By referring to written instructions, many heated arguments between players may be avoided. If necessary give a younger child a definite advantage at the start, in order to make a skill game such as tossing rubber horse shoes more interesting. The younger boy or girl could be allowed to stand two or three feet nearer the stake than the other players.

Stick to the rules, once they are agreed on, so that each child learns to play fair. "Good sports" are not born but made through experience. A child must learn by example and by encouragement to be a good loser and a generous winner. The little child of five or six hates to lose — but he will learn to take it in his stride in time.

Women's Institutes And Mental Health

"I definitely feel that the Quebec Women's Institutes can play a very important part in the developing of a proper mental health program in the rural communities", said Dr. A. W. MacLeod, Assistant Director of the Mental Hygiene Institute, Montreal, in a recent statement to that organization. One aspect of such a program, that has been a major concern of the Q.W.I. for some time, is suitable provision for training mentally retarded but educable children, who may be living in rural areas of this province. At the recent board meeting a recommendation, to be presented to provincial educational authorities, was unanimously approved and has been commended by both Dr. MacLeod and Prof. D. C. Munroe, Director, School for Teachers, Macdonald College.

Referring to the present lack of trained personnel, the recommendation suggests that retired members of the teaching profession be approached to ascertain their willingness to take specialized training to qualify them to return to teaching in this particular field, and that if this proposal meets with favor, provision be made that this will in no way jeopardize or interrupt the pension plan. It was felt that the fact this could be considered as part time work might be a determining factor.

Mentioning the "reasonable assurance" that a building may be erected, the recommendation goes on to say that until such time as permanent quarters can be established a temporary measure be considered of room for this work being provided in local schools, with necessary equipment, or where possible, in composite schools, which already have facilities. It was emphasized that the status of these teachers should be recognized by local school boards.

Vegetable plates are frequently popular in the summer season. To add additional interest and important body-building proteins to this meatless type of menu one suggestion is to serve baked custard, minus sugar and flavoring, but seasoned with onion or grated cheese. Creamed hard-cooked eggs with additional flavoring in the cream sauce such as Chili sauce, chopped sweet pickle or cheese, make another good addition.

When you are ironing, occasionally run your iron over a sheet of waxed paper. You'll find the ironing goes more easily.

W.C.T.U. Convention Held in Vancouver

Mrs. Usher has returned home from a six weeks tour to the Pacific Coast after stopping en route at Toronto, Niagara, Winnipeg, Regina, Banff and other points. Mrs. Usher met a party of delegates and visitors from Great Britain and Europe in Montreal and accompanied them to attend the World's Christian Temperance Union Convention. This was held at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver. Over 1,800 were present, representing 42 countries where this organization is active.

Members of the Canadian W.C.T.U. had raised by personal subscription the sum of $10,556 as a Hospitality Fund. This amount was used to provide accommodation, all meals, including the banquet, all sight-seeing tours and campus buses for the overseas guests and those from non-dollar countries during their whole stay in Canada.

Immediately following this convention, the Canadian WCTU held their Biennial Conference in Vancouver, Mrs. Usher was re-elected Recording-Secretary for Canada and after these ten days sessions was the guest of her cousin, Mrs. P. A. Woodward of Vancouver. Mrs. Usher also visited other friends in this city and in St. Paul and Austin, Minnesota, returning via Chicago and Toronto.

MOUNTAIN NAME STILL A MYSTERY

Towering 12,972 feet above the little settlement of Mt. Robson, British Columbia, on the Canadian National Railway's main line is Mount Robson, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies.

It's famous the world over — but no one knows who named it Mount Robson, or why.

B.F.Goodrich Tubeless Tire

Because IT HAS NO TUBE

It may save your life...

The B. F. Goodrich LIFE-SAVER Tubeless Tire gives you maximum protection against the hazard of blowouts and dangerous skids, that frequently result in serious injury, and even death.

It can save you trouble...

The B. F. Goodrich LIFE-SAVER Tubeless Tire seals punctures on running wheels . . . protects against the annoying trouble caused by flat tires.

It will save you money...

The B. F. Goodrich LIFE-SAVER Tubeless Tire provides greater safety than any tire and tube, yet it costs less than the conventional safety tire-tube combination.

Accidents like the one above can happen when blowouts occur—that's why you owe it to yourself to find out about the extra protection in B. F. Goodrich LIFE-SAVER Tubeless Tires. Most blowouts are caused when the inner tube explodes through weakened or broken cords. But, because it has no inner tube, a LIFE-SAVER Tire changes a sudden, dangerous blowout to a safe s-s-s-slowout—allowing you ample time to stop your car safely, with perfect control.

PUNCTURE PROTECTION
A gummy rubber compound under the tread immediately seals around puncturing objects, and permanently seals the hole when the object is removed. Inconvenience and delays are eliminated.

BLOWOUT PROTECTION
Instead of a tube, the LIFE-SAVER has a patented inner lining that's part of the tire. In event of damage there's no sudden blowout, only a small break in the liner, a s-s-s-slowout that lets you stop safely.

SKID PROTECTION
The LIFE-SAVER tread is cross-cut into thousands of tiny grip-blocks. At 30 miles per hour on wet roads, it stops you a car length quicker than regular tires . . . and gives you longer mileage too.

Your B.F. Goodrich dealer now has the Tubeless Tire ...it can be your LIFE-SAVER

Alberta Folk Love Benevolent Doctor

Consort, Alta. (CP) — A popular medical man in the Consort district, Dr. A. M. Day, recently completed 40 years as a physician in this central Alberta community.

Old timers recall how "Young Doc" was on the trail night and day, sometimes in bitterly cold weather, during the flu epidemic of 1918 and 1919.

Almost 35 years later, "Old Doc" is still on the job, making his calls over the same trails in fair weather or foul, and always with the same smile and the same ready wit.

His friends tell many anecdotes about the doctor. The one everyone likes best is the story about a telephone lineman, who was en route to remove a farmer's phone because the farmer did not pay his bill. The lineman ran into the doctor just after the latter had made a call on the farmer's invalid wife.

Dr. Day, determined that the woman should be in a position to phone him in case of emergency, gave the lineman $20 as a payment on the bill.

The lineman continued to the farmer's house to service the phone. When he arrived, he found the woman with tears in her eyes. The doctor, after being treated to tea and bread and butter, had hidden another $20 bill under the plate.

The Canadian Pacific Railway's equipment repair program in 1952 covered complete overhauls of 708 steam locomotives, periodic repair of 107 diesel electric units, and the general repair of 37,948 freight and 1,088 passenger cars.

Picture News from C-I-L

FIGURES of Annual Reports make fascinating reading when they come from the chemical industry. An interesting item from the record $26½ million C-I-L spent on new construction last year is its new Copperclift Plant. Here is control panel of this "push-button" plant where waste gases are turned into the liquid sulphur dioxide essential to pulp mills in the manufacture of paper.

CONGRATULATIONS to Donald Garrard! This year's Grand Award Winner on the popular, nation-wide radio program, "C-I-L Singing Stars of Tomorrow", receives his award from internationally known musical figure, Dr. Edward Johnson. Over $4,000 in musical awards were recently awarded to eight talented young Canadian singers who topped the 44 contestants heard throughout the past season on "C-I-L Singing Stars of Tomorrow"!

'Accordionated' English Is Everyday Stuff to TCA Teletype Girls

"Arr fit 2 date yzwg eta 2300 plse mt wga."

If the average housewife were to receive such a garbled message from friend hubby, serious conjecture would unquestionably enter her mind as to his sobriety. A quick check with a local TCA office would dispell any doubts about the soberness of the man-about-the-house. The message translated by the airline's teletype operators would be clarified to read: "Arriving on flight 2 from Toronto to Winnipeg at 11.00 p.m. and would you please meet me at Winnipeg airport!"

This "accordionated" English is not a mystery to the two hundred TCA personnel concerned with the handling of 25,000,000 teletype messages each year.

One such is attractive Doris Luxford, Reservations Teletype Supervisor at Montreal. Miss Luxford's office is in touch with 48 stations along 17,300 miles of routes in the United States and Canada.

A former airwoman in the wartime RCAF, the young woman-in-charge-of-dancing-fingers, finds nothing unusual in the complexities of her job. Even the habit of abbreviating everything conversation-wise which arises from close contact with teletype jargon. In describing her job language, Miss Luxford says "If you were handed a sheet of paper containing the words ARUNK, MBRAT, or FURAT, it probably wouldn't mean a thing! But to the teletype operators of TCA it means plenty."

"It means", says Doris, "the safe, speedy operations of the whole system across Canada and over the Atlantic. The code is formed by "accordioning" two or three words into one. . . Operators know, for instance, that ARUNK MBRAT and FURAT mean "arrival unknown", "may be reached at" and "further information at".

An example given by Miss Luxford of a coded message is "UNA 51-17 ONE ULYZ FIRAV 1-18", which teletype operators would translate as: "unable to verify flight 51 of June, but one seat available on flight one on June 18 from Montreal to Toronto.

The modern teletype is a far cry from pounding the brass, according to old-timers in the department who recall the days when all airline messages were radioed by morse code with a telegraph "bug". Manually operated teletype machines replaced the telegraphers key, and later automatic stripping equipment further speeded messages. "Stripping is an apparatus which commits a message to an endless tap with a perforated code, read and transmitted by an automatic machine.

The life of a teletype operator may not be glamorous, but Doris Luxford regards this mode of communications as the nerve system of the airline.

For every one of the 1,135,000 passengers who flew in a TCA aircraft last year, an average of two and a half messages were sent over the system, which represents 23,000 each day. The messages cover a variety of subjects, ranging from Company policy to a request for a seat, and from directions to a station manager to tracking down an aircraft due for overhaul.

"Telyops" play a vital role in an emergency, such as in the Winnipeg flood, when co-ordination of communications with the outside world depended on a small group of operators. The TCA operators worked the clock-round and slept in cots beside their machines.

All is not seriousness, of course, and the intricate machines that relay the messages on perforated strips of paper often lead to fun-making in slack moments or at Christmas-time. One operator was sitting in the dead quiet of the office last Christmas Eve when the teletype machine suddenly sprang into life and started to bang away in a rhythm that resembled 'Jingle Bells'. The astounded telyop examined the tape and realized that some enterprising operator had perforated the tape so the clicking sound would resemble the Christmas favorite.

One message, however, caused some consternation along the TCA system, relates Miss Luxford: "We have several cats in the office, Aah, real kittens of the feline breed, mothered by our mascot Saphire. One day a kitten climbed up on a machine and began walking on the keyboard originating a message now referred to as the "Kitten-On-The-Keys" transmission. The result was puzzled queries from every corner of Canada and the United States."

The only privately operated communications system in North America, TCA's telecommunications span the continent from Victoria to St. John's and beyond to Europe.

PRESIDENT OF IOOF ASSEMBLY

—Central Press Canadian

Miss Emma Bothwell, Ottawa, was installed as 1953-54 president of the 30,000-member Rebekah Assembly of Ontario, at the annual sessions of the IOOF in Toronto. Miss Bothwell, who succeeds Mrs. Caroline Cutler, of Welland, has been active in Rebekah fraternal work since 1922. She heads the largest single chapter of Rebekahs in the world.

BEYOND THEIR DEPTH

Canadian schools are wandering too far out of their territory, says Dr. J. B. Kirkpatrick of McGill University. They are attempting to teach a lot of things not directly associated with formal education, and as a result are in danger of falling down in their regular work, he thinks. A great many people in this country will certainly agree with that criticism, says The Financial Post.

At present far too many students are getting merely a smattering of this and a smattering of that. When they are through they are neither good cooks nor good spellers they can't put up a kitchen shelf, nor add up a bridge score.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. For several years I worked for a public utility company, but I had to quit because of illness. A few months later I took another job but I was soon laid off. I am unemployed but cannot yet accept a permanent position. I always paid my contributions while working, and I never reported at the National Employment Office. Am I entitled to benefit, and must I turn my book in?

A. You would be entitled to benefits on any day on which, having met the qualifying conditions, you were capable of and available for work of some kind. Consult your local office.

* * *

Q. A person who has worked for six consecutive years can draw benefit for the last five years, for a period of one year. When this is over does she have the right to claim benefit for the first year?

A. No. In any claim for benefit only the contributions earned in the five years immediately preceding the claim are taken into account.

Fire Underwriters' Report Gives Councillors Jolt at Brownsb'g Town Meeting

Includes Interesting Facts and Statistics, But Recommendations Appear Idealistic

Close Watch on Speeding at Town Approaches, Council Upholds Fines and Drastic Action

Brownsburg — Fire Chief A. Robbins, reporting to Brownsburg Council at its regular meeting, recorded four fires attended during the month. One, at Forget's on Mountain, was caused by an overloaded electric plug, which became overheated and burned a bed and clothes to the value of $100. A fire at C-I-L caused $200 damage. A bush fire occurred on July 4, and there was a fire at a garage, which might have been serious if not brought under control. This fire had been burning for some time before the brigade was called, but he was told it was the electric sign over the door. Smoke was pouring through the roof when the men arrived, and it was necessary to open the roof to get the water in there. The roof was of the poorest construction Chief Robbins ever saw. There was some sawdust spread on the ceiling, and the roof was supported by 2 x 4's so far apart that if he had been aware of it he would not have risked the men's lives up there. The wiring did not look bad; in fact it was the best-looking thing in the building. There was an explosion from the roof at the start, so he could not say if it was the wiring. The damage would be from $1,000 to $1,500. Mayor Donaldson said he did not believe the wiring used in this building was a good system.

The Chief read a long report from the underwriters' inspector covering the water pressure, hydrants, hose, fire-pump and every other aspect of fire hazard in Brownsburg.

Councillor Lupien commented: "We thought we were well ahead but according to that we are 50 years behind the times, and if we followed all the recommendations we would be bankrupt."

Mayor: "It reads like a system to be installed in a model town going under construction."

One or two of the items were considered, such as an outside switch for the siren and a building by-law embodying control of oil-burners particularly with overheat limit switches. Some of the statistics included in the report informed the meeting that since the last survey in 1943 the population of the municipality had decreased. The valuation went up from $1,157,000 to $2,800,000. There are six miles of streets, most of which are maintained by the Provincial Government. There are 120 street-lights. Water circulation is fair — with gravity supply varying from 107 to 17 pounds pressure. Usage of water, about half a million gallons per day.

Speed Laws

For some time past a close watch has been kept on vehicles approaching and leaving the town, and a large number of fines have been imposed. There is considerable complaint from the motorists who object to traps and timing; and one motorist who became so riled on being caught on his way to Carling Lake, went around north and back to Montreal by the St. Jerome highway, rather than pass through this sanguine, blazing town again. Within the last few years a number of pedestrians have been killed on this stretch between Lachute and Brownsburg — and desperate diseases require drastic remedies. If motorists insist on speeding into and out of Brownsburg, they will have to put up with the inconvenience of fines, and no fixing of tickets by the mayor or councillors can be arranged to salve their wounded pride. This was the decision arrived at during last Council meeting.

Sewerage

Councillor Lupien tabled a request to have the sewerage entrance from St. Joseph Street adequately covered at the point where it enters the river. Mayor Donaldson said he inspected the pipe there and it was time a permanent job was done on this, not a patch-job as has been done in the past. Councillor Charbonneau wanted to have some holes in the road patched with asphalt, to which Councillor Ouellette agreed, asking that one good load be obtained to do a good job all over the street. A load would only cost $35. Councillor Lupien, on being told that the town crew comprised three men who were two days a week on garbage, asked how all this work could be done and if there was no order in the method of doing it. He suggested the most necessary work be attended to first, and a list be scheduled so that the whole thing does not end in talk only. The sewerage was the most important work, and should be done first. It was decided to have the items listed and attended to in order.

Traffic Officers Press Enforcement

The local detachment of the Provincial Traffic Police are still on the job, according to reports. Several days last week were "ticket days" in the vicinity of Sixteen Island Lake. The traffic officers have also been on their toes within town limits, and have been apprehending various offenders on Lachute's Main Street.

A 30-mile-an-hour speed limit is to be enforced in the Parish of St. Jerusalem, particularly on Route 8, from the Lachute limits to the far side of the Lachute Golf and Country Club. These signs are visibly displayed at the present time, also new ones in Ayerswille.

Various charges have been laid for more serious offences and these cases will be heard in court at St. Jerome the latter part of the month.

Lifelong Resident Mrs. M. Rodgers Succumbs to Illness

Late Mrs. Matthew Rodgers

A well loved Lachute resident, Mrs. Matthew Rodgers, died at her home on Foundry Street in the early hours of Tuesday morning, following several weeks of illness.

"Grandma" Rodgers, as she was happily known to her neighbors and friends, was born 88 years ago in Mille Isles. The former Margaret W. Elliott, she was married in 1889 to Matthew Rodgers. The family came to reside in Lachute in 1912, and Mr. Rodgers predeceased his wife two years later.

Active in affairs of the Anglican Church until latter years, she was esteemed as a genial friend, kindly in her associations with a wide circle of acquaintances.

She is mourned by her two daughters, Mrs. A. Graham (Ruth), of the Lachute High School teaching staff, Mrs. John MacKimmie (Ruby), and one son, Russell, businessman of this town. A daughter, Gertrude, died at the age of 19 years. Surviving also are her sister, Mrs. Wm. John Rodger, and one brother, Andrew Elliott, both of this community.

The funeral service at St. Simeon's Church on Thursday afternoon was conducted by the rector of the parish, the Rev. C. R. Lang, and attended by a large gathering. The remains were borne to their last resting place in Lachute Cemetery — a profusion of flowers bearing testimony to the love and esteem in which she was held.

Pallbearers were — Messrs. C. Rogers, A. Maxwell, R. Elliott, R. Rodgers, A. Kyle and R. A. Giles.

A mere 97, Mrs. W. Stephenson insisted on going to vote in the recent election, at Morden, Manitoba; has a record of never having missed casting her ballot.

At MacLeod, Alta., a man wanted a certain brand of box tops (ostensibly for some radio program) and paid $4.80 for an advertisement in The Gazette, got wonderful results; the paper proudly reported it on the front page. . . F. Carleton MacNaughton of the Grey Sage Ranch, near Oliver, B.C., makes a hobby of killing rattlesnakes; killed 65 one day; has spent 31 years learning a good deal about them and figures he's doing the Okanagan Valley a good turn by exterminating them.

Hawkesbury Hospital Gets $23,000 Grant

Toronto — A grant of $23,000 for the Notre Dame Hospital at Hawkesbury was announced recently by Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario. This money is designed to increase the hospital's accommodation by 23 active-treatment beds.

The grant was included in a list of grants totalling $665,000 for 10 different hospitals. The Hawkesbury hospital was the only one in Eastern Ontario receiving a grant in the list.

S. A. Dodge Named New President Lions International

Chicago — S. A. Dodge, Detroit, Mich., is the new president of the International Association of Lions Clubs. He was elected by unanimous vote at the 36th annual convention of the Association which closed July 11 at the Chicago Stadium. Dodge succeeds Edgar M. Elbert, Maywood, Illinois.

The convention concluded the most successful year in the history of Lions International, according to the report made by R. Roy Keaton, Chicago, Director-General of the Association. He reports that during the 12-month period ended June 30, 1953, there was an addition of 915 new Lions Clubs and 26,058 men to the roster of the Association, and that the total as of May 31, 1953, is 10,260 clubs and 475,013 members. During the fiscal year Lions Clubs were established in eight additional countries: Paraguay, Lebanon, Morocco, Scotland, Austria, Luxembourg, Algeria and Liechtenstein. He added that Lions International is the largest, strongest and most active club organization in the world, with Lions Clubs in 45 countries on six continents.

Dodge, in accepting the presidency, said: "Personal integrity; codes of honor in our business and professions; a living faith; these my friends, are the ideals which I shall always encourage, these are the objectives toward which we shall ever struggle, to the end that in some distant day they may permeate the hearts and minds of all men everywhere and bring about a new day in which men shall beat their swords into plowshares and thoughts of hate, and greed and power shall give way to thoughts of kindness, generosity and tolerance, that we, in truth, may become instruments of His peace, and where there is hatred, we may sow love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is doubt, faith; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light; and where there is sadness, joy. Faith in man — faith in country — faith in God, 'tis down this road we shall eventually find peace on earth."

Dodge was graduated from the University of Michigan School of Business Administration in 1917 and became a Certified Public Accountant in 1922 after having served two years with the Air Force during World War I. He has been financially interested in various business enterprises since that time and is presently vice-President and Treasurer of Solventol Chemical Products, Inc., Detroit. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of several business institutions in Detroit and for many years has been a member of the Board of Management of the Detroit Y.M.C.A. He was one of the original incorporators of Leader Dogs for the Blind of Rochester, Michigan.

Re-elected to Wentworth School Commission

At a meeting of the ratepayers of Wentworth, held in Louisa last Monday, Gilbert Boyd, chairman, and Edward Cleary, commissioner, were re-elected to the local school board.

The Wentworth board for the coming year comprises — Messrs. Gilbert Boyd, Douglas Boyd, Edward Cleary, George Seale, Gordon Watchorn and the secretary-treasurer, W. J. Morrison.

Carl Seale Elected Councillor at Morin

Morin Heights — Election for a council vacancy, Seat No. 6, at Morin Heights on Monday proved one of the most enthusiastic contests in years — the total number of ballots cast representing the largest turnout of civic voters on record.

Carl E. Seale (322 votes) defeated retiring Councillor Edwin Holgate (85). There were seven spoiled ballots, making a total of 414.

Mayor Chas. D. Campbell was previously re-elected by acclamation for his fourth term. Max Baumel withdrew in favor of Willis Seale for Seat No. 4, while André Legault was elected by acclamation to Seat No. 2.

Hawkesbury Business Man, Well Known in District, Dies Suddenly in N.Y.

Robt. J. G. Allen, proprietor of Allen Motor Sales, Hawkesbury, died last Monday while on an auto trip with members of his family in New York State. He was suddenly stricken while driving his car near Batavia, N.Y.; taken to hospital in that city, he expired a short time later.

The late "Bob" Allen, 60 years of age, was well known hereabouts, being an active Rotarian, curler and community figure. He enjoyed a wide circle of friendships in this district. He was the Dodge-DeSoto distributor for his district, and one of the oldest dealers for McColl-Frontenac Oils on the company's records.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mary W. Scott; two sons, Douglas (in business with his late father) and William, all of Hawkesbury; two daughters, Roberta, of Hawkesbury, and Mrs. Keith Rutherford (Eileen), of Brownsburg, Que.; a brother, Dr. G. D. Allen, of Chicago, and a sister, Mrs. J. D. Fletcher, of Cornwall, Ont.

Funeral service will be held Friday at 2 p.m. in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, followed by interment in the Hillside Cemetery, Hawkesbury.

Last Call on Behalf Of Blind Institute

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind is drawing to a close its second financial campaign in Lachute and Brownsburg. If your home or business establishment has not been contacted by a canvasser, it will be greatly appreciated if you will send your donation to the Bank of Montreal, c/o Miss L. Miller.

The Institute representatives here wish to take this opportunity of thanking the citizens of Lachute and Brownsburg for their generosity to this campaign. All the money raised will be used in this area to carry out the services to the blind people of Argenteuil by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Verdict "Accidental" In Cyclist's Death At Intersection

The inquest into the death of Christopher Maidens, killed recently while riding a bicycle at the intersection of Chatham Street and the Brownsburg Road, was held in the Court House Tuesday evening, with District Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur presiding. Evidence was given by several witnesses and by Det. Bessette, Provincial Police, Montreal. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

Two recommendations were made, firstly that a 30-mile-an-hour sign be erected at the entrance to town on Route 31, and secondly that the traffic light over the intersection be kept in working order. (This flasher was not working at the time of the accident.)

Clubmen Hear Interesting Discourse on History and Evolution of the Horse

Last week at the Rotary Club, Mr. C. G. Higginson, of Montreal, gave a highly interesting talk on a commonplace subject — the horse.

Millions of years before the advent of man on the earth, the horse roamed this continent; but at that time he had the proportions of a medium-sized dog and had toes similar to the dog, the speaker revealed. When the ice ages arrived the horse disappeared from this continent, and reappeared in Europe, and it was here that man first domesticized the horse, around 2,000 B.C. The horse had by now increased in size to that of the modern pony.

At first the horse was used by man for purposes of war. The Persians and Alexander the Great developed horse warfare to a high degree, Alexander the Great being the first to use cavalry. The Greeks were the first to use horses for sport. At first the Greeks would place a number of horses in a ring and then throw things at them until they began to fight among themselves; however, the Greeks soon discontinued this perverted practice; they started to train horses and to hold horse shows similar to horse performances in the modern circus.

The Romans, like the Greeks, used horses more for sport than for war, and developed chariot racing to the point where it was more of a massacre than a race. The drivers were required to tie the reins around their bodies, but were allowed to carry a knife to free themselves when necessary (which was often; usually, however, they did not have time to cut the reins.)

Genghis Khan, the great Mongol leader, used horses for war to a great extent, and the Tartars under his command became outstanding horsemen. They were not allowed to strike their horses, but had to guide them by word of mouth and the swaying of their bodies.

When the Romans arrived in England, they discovered that the English had developed a splendid breed of horses which were used chiefly for war. It was also in England that the first commercial horse was bred, called the Hackney, and from this Hackney all of the modern work horses have evolved. This same strain is now disappearing from the earth, being gradually replaced by machinery.

Important Meeting Resolutions Passed By Arundel Board

Arundel — A special meeting of the School Board was held on Monday, July 6. Present were Commissioners Mrs. T. C. Stuart, Leonard Rathwell, Terence D. H. Cox, Thos. Sinclair and Leslie Cooke — the latter two commissioners having been re-elected by acclamation at an election meeting held that day at 10 a.m. Mr. Cox was in the chair, and the secretary, W. D. Graham, was in attendance.

At this meeting certain general and special resolutions were adopted unanimously. The general resolutions covered the following matters:

1. The establishment of books of account.
2. The duties and responsibilities of the secretary-treasurer.
3. Banking arrangements.
4. Non-payment of school fees.
5. Bonding of the secretary-treasurer.
6. The appointment of auditors.
7. Fixing the time and place of the regular meetings of the Board, which will henceforth be held on the first Monday in each month.

The special resolutions relating to matters arising from the decisions of the Argenteuil and Two Mountains County Central School Board are given in full below:

(1) Whereas — the following resolution was passed at a meeting of the Argenteuil and Two Mountains County Central School Board held on April 13th, 1953:

"It Is Hereby Resolved therefore that as of June 30th, 1953, each local board be advised that the Central Board will assume no responsibility for the payment of any accounts for operational expenses on their behalf, that the Central Board will not be responsible for the engagement of any bus drivers, that each local board must set its own tax rate and balance their own budget and that the only responsibility the Central Board will assume is the engagement and the payment of the teaching staffs, providing each local board deposits each month in the account of the Central Board sufficient funds to pay the salaries in question, all this until such time as Act 8, Geo. VI, Chap. 15, has been amended."

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — At a meeting of the executive committee of the Brownsburg Red Cross Society, with Mrs. N. E. Smillie in the chair, a report was read on the activity of the branch's life-saving effort. In co-operation with the Rotary Club an instructor, Mr. Pearson, has been obtained to instruct would-be swimmers on the best methods, and in the event of getting into danger, the most up-to-date procedure of appyling artificial respiration or resuscitation. Classes have been formed and instruction is available to anyone applying to the club's steward, G. King Amos, at the pool any evening. This is the fulfilment of a long-felt want and a very worthwhile activity on the behalf of the local Red Cross Branch, with co-operation of the Rotary Club.

Discussion centred around the blood donor clinic, which is arranged for two days, September 30 to October 1. Plasma is urgently needed to augment exhausted supplies, and a generous contribution of 500 pints is to be aimed at when this clinic gets under way.

Mrs. Barker reported that during the summer months sewing and knitting was slow, but on August 12 between the hours of 2 to 4 o'clock work will be available for anyone willing to help, at the Social Club. Reports from the other chairmen were of a routine nature. A meeting, with a showing of pictures, at the Knights of Columbus Hall, was a pronounced success according to a report from Mrs. Charron. The question of a general meeting was discussed and adjourned till the fall. Next executive meeting is arranged for August 17.

Acclamations to Wentworth Council

At a meeting of the Wentworth ratepayers in the Court House, Lachute, on Wednesday, July 8, the following were elected to office as members of the municipal council:

Clarence W. Nelli, mayor (re-elected for his second term), Councillors Harvey Barlow for Seat No. 3, George Lebeau for Seat No. 1, Gilbert Boyd for Seat No. 2 (replacing W. D. Bickerdike).

Other members of the Council are — Messrs. Ulric Charland, F. W. Doherty and Walter Watchorn. W. J. Morrison is secretary-treasurer.

School Accommodation In Kilmar-Avoca-Harrington Problem for Central Board

Possible Reopening of Avoca and Harrington Rural Elementary Schools Next September

Col. G. M. Strong and Douglas Watts Sworn In As New Commissioners, First Meeting of New Central Board

The regular monthly meeting of the Central School Board was held Monday evening in Lachute High School. As this was the first meeting of the new Board, each member was administered the oath of office by the secretary-treasurer, Linton Armstrong. There are two new members on the Board; Col. Garnet M. Strong, of Mille Iles and Montreal, who was elected to the local Board of Morin Heights a few months ago and is now the chairman of that Board; he replaces the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh. The other new member is Douglas Watts, who has served as a member of the local Board of Lake of Two Monutains at St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac for a number of years; he replaces Commissioner Ernest Rogers of St. Andrews East. The remaining members of the Board are W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., and James W. McGibbon, of Lachute, and M. P. Reilly, of Brownsburg.

One of the first items of business was the appointment of a chairman. Mr. Cottingham was nominated without opposition and took the chair, a position he has held continuously since the formation of the Central Board over seven years ago.

Others present at this meeting included Messrs. D. Bradford, E. W. Smith, S. Milnes and Roy Fraser, of the local Board of Lachute; Messrs. John Doherty and S. E. Smith of the local Board of Rouge River; Mrs. T. C. Stuart and Mr. T. Cox of the local Board of Arundel; Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Perry, Mr. John White and Mr. Carson representing Canadian Refractories Limited of Kilmar, and the auditor, Gordon Tabrett.

A motion was adopted expressing the appreciation of the Board to the two retiring members, the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh and Ernest Rogers. It was unanimously felt that both had rendered valuable services to the cause of education in this district. The Rev. Mr. Baugh had been a member of the Board since it was first formed, and Mr. Rogers had served during the last four years.

Some discussion took place regarding a request from the local Board of Lachute to approve the agreement recently negotiated between that Board and the local Board of St. Andrews East, regarding the education of children from the latter municipality. The basis of this agreement was that Lachute would accept all the children from St. Andrews East and pay all their bills, providing this Board imposed the same rate of taxation as that in effect in Lachute, and forwarded all revenues to Lachute. It was explained that a similar offer had been made to the local Boards of Gore and Dunany, but that no agreement had as yet been reached. The Central Board approved such an agreement in principle for any local Boards in the unit.

The chairman reminded the Board that Linton Armstrong had resigned as secretary-treasurer several months ago, this to become effective as of June 30, although it had been understood that Mr. Armstrong would continue in office until certain important work had been completed. It was finally agreed that Mr. Armstrong would continue in office for another month, when the matter would come up for further discussion.

In view of the fact that each local Board will have to balance its own budget and pay its own bills as of July 1, the auditor was instructed to recommend a uniform system of account books for all local Boards.

Accommodation Problem At Kilmar

Considerable discussion took place regarding educational problems in Avoca, Harrington and Kilmar. A letter was read from the Department of Education advising the Board that N. P. Pitt, president of Canadian Refractories Limited, had made a personal inspection of the school and annex at Kilmar. He had found conditions so deplorable at the annex (a building that was originally built by the Company as a men's sleep camp) that he questioned the advisability of attempting to educate children there for another year. It was explained that it was originally intended that this building would only be used as classrooms for one year, but that so many problems had arisen in the school situation in that general area, that nothing had been done to date.

Mr. Perry was of the opinion that something should be done to settle this problem, which was continuously becoming more serious. He said that his Company was not insisting that the proposed new school be built at Kilmar. As a matter of fact, they would prefer

One Injured In Weir Mishap

A corner on Route 31 near Round Lake and Weir was the scene of an auto accident Sunday, around 12.15 a.m. No one was seriously injured.

The car, a sedan owned and driven by Frank Page of Hawkesbury, was proceeding south from Weir to Kilmar when the driver lost control. The car slid into the ditch and struck a house, moving it 18 inches off its foundation. Estimated damage to the house, owned by Mrs. W. M. Golding of Weir and Montreal, is $750, while the car was damaged to an extent of more than $1,000.

Page was accompanied by his brother, John, of Bell Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Comba, of Kilmar, and three hitch-hikers. Mrs. Comba, 21, was given first-aid treatment by Dr. R. B. Henry, of Arundel, and was transferred to the Smiths' Clinic at Hawkesbury; she was released the following day.

Traffic Officer Howard Jones investigated this and several other accidents of a minor nature during the past week.

Internat'l Sports Figure Honored At Golf Club

Frank (Shag) Shaughnessy Feted by Many Notables At Gala Gathering

Frank "Shag" Shaughnessy, International Baseball League president, was guest of honor at the Sportsmen's Association's annual golf tournament-dinner, held here yesterday at the Lachute Golf and Country Club.

Joe E. Brown, well-known and popular comedian, paid a personal tribute to "Shag" by attending yesterday's tournament, and in doing so, enlightened the day for all the golfers.

A total of 16 trophies were competed for in all classes. The presentation of the MacDonald Shield to Shaughnessy, the tournament's guest of honor, was the highlight of the numerous proceedings. The presentation was made during the dinner following the tournament.

Among other trophies up for competition was the Andy Hamilton Trophy, for amateurs and professionals; this is the oldest trophy in the Association and was presented by its first president in 1933; also the Alfred Eaves trophy, which goes to the Association director with the low net. Yesterday marks the first time that the Peter and Lawrence Memorial Trophy was up for competition. It was donated by Vernon Cardy in memory of the two sons of the tournament's guest of honor.

A record field was out for the big event.

Shaughnessy was born 68 years ago; he has been interested in sports of all kinds since a youngster. His well-filled sports life adds up to one of the most varied and exciting international careers in all sports history.

"Shag" was manager of the Ottawa Senators in the days when they were N.H.L. material and got the team as far as the Stanley Cup finals in Vancouver.

While in Montreal running the McGill football squad, he copped three Dominion titles for them and

Gatineau LINES

Summer Customers

Gatineau Power supplies electricity into world-famous vacation areas, so naturally the demand for electric connections is exceptionally high in the summer months.

When the summer visitor makes normal, planned-for use of electricity, there is no problem. Sometimes, however, summer visitors bring heavy electrical equipment to their cottages without advising the power company.

When we expect a normal load on our power lines and suddenly find we have an extra-high load instead, low voltage becomes a serious problem to us and to our other customers.

To ensure satisfactory service please let us know what additional appliances are being installed.

Ayrshire Society Provincial Field Day

On July 23 at the farm of the St. Hyacinthe Dairy School there will be a big Provincial Field Day for all Ayrshire breeders of this province. Around 5,000 breeders and farmers will witness this demonstration. The program will include a judging competition and demonstration; lunch and reception for the guests of honor (among these, the Hon. Laurent Barre, Minister of Agriculture); visit to farm of the Dairy School and the Artificial Insemination Centre; distribution of prizes and closing of the event.

Butter-Margarine Battle Looms in United Kingdom

London (CP)—New types of margarine and margarine name brands are to return to the British food scene early in 1954 for the first time since rationing was imposed 14 years ago.

The step toward de-control, sought by margarine producers since 1949, is expected to draw the lines of a bitter margarine-butter battle long delayed in this country by rationing.

Armed with a lower price, plus new types claimed to be more palatable, margarine makers are confident that the British housewife will favor margarine over butter. (Margarine sold in Britain is colored.)

Margarine manufacturers will probably be allowed to put out two kinds of branded product as a starter. One standard brand will continue to be subsidized and rationed, like butter. The other, a premium brand, will be sold at a higher price on the free market.

Principles of Barn Ventilation

Barn ventilation is a winter problem, but re-modelling the barn to provide for it is most easily done in the summer.

In "Principles of Barn Ventilation" Wm. Kalbfleisch and J. W. White, Experimental Farms Service, describe why ventilation of barns is necessary and two methods of doing it effectively — one where electric power is available, the other where it must be done by natural movement of the air.

A thousand-pound dairy cow breathes approximately 2 cubic feet of air per minute. In this action oxygen is absorbed and warm moist air containing carbon dioxide is given off. This moisture may range from 10 to 15 pounds per day, or from a gallon to a gallon and a half. Other livestock in groups of 1,000 pounds each, give off about the same amount of moisture as the dairy cow. For the health of livestock stabled in the barn it is necessary to remove this foul moist air and admit a continuous supply of fresh air.

The amount of fresh air required to remove moisture from a barn varies considerably depending on the temperature and humidity of the air inside and outside the building. A large amount is required when the outside temperature is about the same as the temperature in the barn. A relatively small volume is sufficient if the outside temperature is low because cold air will absorb more moisture when heated to barn temperature.

With the natural draft method of ventilation, a vertical stack or flue is used to remove foul air from the barn while fresh air is admitted through vents located along the outside walls of the building. A movement of air is obtained in this system of ventilation because warm air is lighter in weight than cooler air. Thus the relatively warm air from the barn tends to rise through the stack as it is displaced by cooler air that enters the barn through the fresh air intakes.

In mechanical or fan ventilation, farm, moist, foul air is removed from a barn with fans powered by an electric motor, while fresh air enters the building through intake vents similar to those used for a natural draft system. This system, properly installed in an adequately constructed barn is superior to flue ventilation in many respects, but its use is restricted to farms that have electric power. It is particularly advantageous under moderate weather conditions when the outside temperature is within about 15 degrees of barn temperature, a condition which limits the operation of a natural draft system.

Methods of construction of the outlets and intakes for both natural draft and fan ventilation systems; number and sizes of openings, insulation requirements, and barn temperatures required by the various classes of livestock are given in detail in the publication.

Getting Pullets Ready For Laying

Pullets which do not begin to lay about November or when frost makes its appearance in the Fall will usually wait until Spring. This means a dead loss for several months. Late hatched pullets will often have to be forced to get them ready to lay in the Fall.

A mash containing about 10 to 15 pounds of meat meal to every 100 pounds of mash of mixed ground grains and unlimited skim milk will do this. However, when young stock are forced there is a danger of paralysis or leg weakness. This must be watched for constantly, and reduction of meat meal must be made at the first signs of its appearance.

Leghorns pullets should weigh 3 to 3½ pounds and start to lay on an average of 180 days of age.

The weight of Rhode Island Reds should be 5 to 5½ pounds and it will take about a month longer for them than for Leghorns to mature. It will take about 7½ months for Plymouth Rocks to mature. Their weight at laying should be 5½ to 6 pounds.

Small eggs and a reduced annual yield result from having egg production start before the pullets are bodily mature. The poultryman must judge himself whether his pullets are so backward as to need forcing, or so far advanced sexually, compared to their bodily maturity, as to be in need of checking.

Increasing the proportion of scratch feed to dry mash and reducing the meat meal content of the dry mash will put weight on the pullets and hold back their production. When the pullets are ready to lay, a gradual change should be made in the laying ration. The pullets should be housed away from the hens.

High Rating for Locally-Bred Holstein

A member of the Raymondale Farm Holstein herd at Vaudreuil has recently completed a Record of Performance test of 860 pounds fat from 20181 pounds milk as a senior four-year-old. She is Laurview Urma Vera, who was bred by Wm. S. Wilson & Son, Lachute. Her record was made in 365 days on three-times-a-day milking.

"Vera" has been classified as Very Good, the second highest rating attainable for conformation.

Farmer Shows Experts New Heating Wrinkle

As experts in heating control, Minneapolis-Honeywell engineers thought they knew every heating trick in the book, but they've learned a new one from a farmer in Sweden. . . He heats his house with cows!

He does it, the company's Stockholm office reported, through a variation of the familiar heat pump principle, using air from his barn that is warmed by heat thrown off by cows and other animals.

By means of a compressor unit, this warm air is forced through ducts to heating coils inside the house, then out again. The heating coil warms the house. The barn air itself does not, of course, come into contact with the residence air.

While they don't recommend it, the engineers admit the system is workable. They point out it takes 80,000 BTU's an hour to heat an average house. A cow gives off 3,500 BTU's an hour. Theoretically, then, 23 cows would be needed to keep the average house cozy.

Marsh Farmers Reclaim More Land

—Central Press Canadian

In a land-reclamation project at Holland Marsh, at Bradford, Ont., two Hungarian immigrants hope to turn marsh that could be bought for $250 in 1930 into half-million-dollar real estate. Steve Varga and Andy Gatti expect that $100,000 will have to be spent to drain their 7,000-acre section of the marsh, a stone's throw from Lake Simcoe and 45 miles from Toronto. They base their hopes of land value on the fact that the 6,000 acres of land already drained yielded a crop worth $6,500,000 last year. Steve Varga, above, stands beside one of the flumes by which water from the marsh is drained and siphoned

Watch for New Weeds

There are few weeds which cannot be eradicated if attacked before they become firmly established. The most vulnerable period is when there are just a few individuals.

How do new weeds arrive? Probably the majority still come in with seed and feed as they did in the days of the pioneer and homesteader. Many newer garden and forage plants are now being tested and used, and seeds of these are very likely to contain weed seeds from faraway places. Nursery stock with soil on the roots is another very common source of new weed introduction. Long distance trucking, tourists from distant points are all potential carriers of plant seeds and parts. Now that highway traffic is so speedy and such long distances covered, the menace of weed introduction from remoter places is far greater than in the days of the ox carts and horse drawn vehicles.

Where can we expect to find new species? Probably the most likely spots are in gardens and forage plant areas, but roadsides, railway yards and rights of way, parking and camping grounds are common locations for strange and unknown plants.

What should be done about them, if found? The wisest course to take on finding a strange plant is to gather it and send it to the nearest institution where botanists or plant taxonomists can identify it. If it is not a weed or a potential weed, no harm is done and one's mind is at rest concerning it. If it is a weed likely to become a menace, then prompt remedial action should be taken if so advised. It is unwise to wait until the plants have obtained a good foothold before taking action. Your nearest Experimental Farm or University is the logical place to send suspected plants for identification.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

Canadian Achievement

THE ATTENTION of more than 5,000,000 women in rural communities of the world will be focused on Canada next month when the Associated Country Women of the World hold their seventh triennial conference in Toronto, August 12 to 23.

Their connection with Canada is much closer than the holding of an international conference 20 years after the central organization was set up in Stockholm.

Mrs. Alfred Watt, born in Collingwood, Ont., was the first president of the Associated Country Women of the World, and held office from 1933 to 1947 when she was succeeded by Mrs. Raymond Sayre of Iowa. It was Mrs. Watt who took the idea of Women's Institutes to Great Britain in 1915, and from there this rural women's society spread to Australia and New Zealand. Now Women's Institutes or parallel organizations are active in 26 countries.

Mrs. Watt's work was built on that of yet another famous Canadian, Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless who in 1897 at Stoney Creek, Ont., organized the first Women's Institute. Today more than 90,000 Canadian women are members of Women's Institutes, of Les Cercles des Fermieres de Quebec and the Jubilee Guild of Newfoundland.

More than 800 delegates are expected at the conference, to be held in Canada for the first time. These women are acknowledged leaders in their own lands. Active in many fields, such as the Red Cross, the National Council of Women and in professional occupations, they are well qualified to represent women whose work is closely bound up with home and country.

The Associated Country Women of the World constitutes a bond among women at a crucial time in world history. From their homes and local societies they participate in world affairs. This international federation takes its place at international conferences of many types, and is among voluntary organizations co-operating with the United Nations and its subsidiary bodies.

Canadian women can well be proud that from an initial meeting of 101 women in Stoney Creek, Ont., on February 19, 1897, has sprung this influential world federation.

Don't Fret About Health

IT IS entirely normal to be interested, even to be a little concerned about our personal health, points out Dr. J. D. M. Griffin, general director of the Canadian Mental Health Association. But many people become anxious, worried and even fearful about it, and this can prove to be very unhealthful indeed.

Some people try to put any question of their state of health out of their mind. ("This looks like lack of interest or apathy, but I suspect it is just a disguise for real concern", observes the psychiatrist.)

A second type of reaction finds a man or woman with fear about his health much closer to the surface. These are the people who avoid their doctor for fear of what he may discover about them.

The third category of health worrier referred to by Dr. Griffin is the one comprising those who talk endlessly about their health and are forever pestering their doctor with some new ailment they are convinced they have.

"Health information is vitally important to us all", sums up Dr. Griffin. "But its usefulness depends on how we react to it. If our reaction is one of anxiety and fear, it can lead to difficulties. An honest, candid look at the facts, however, can do no harm, and, indeed, may yield information that will enable us to maintain our health for many years to come."

Painting Pictures

ONE GOOD thing about summer is that it is the time when more people paint pictures — says an observant writer in The Printed Word. Professional artists are at it the year round (he remarks) but the hot weather brings out the amateurs who paint for fun, and for selfish satisfaction. Vacation time provides the leisure hours that make is possible, but it is more than just this that gets the inexpert dauber rooting out the old set of oils and picking up a new tube of burnt sienna, one of chrome yellow and a big one of plain ordinary essential white. It is the need to be doing something with those idle hours, one of man's most highly commendable characteristics.

Doing something is extra fun when that something is beautiful, even if you are the only one who appreciates its beauty. Lurking beneath the consciousness may be hidden hope that Canada is on the point of discovering its own Grandma Moses, but more likely the drive comes from the sensation of mixing indian red with cobalt blue and magically capturing the exact shade of those sun-bathed rocks, or nearly. The feeling is as warm as the color.

Insect Fighters

SUMMER is the season for insects. Thousands of types and species are invading our crops and forests as well as being a health threat and unbearable nuisances to humans and animals.

Leading the fight against the insect hordes is a group of professional men known as entomologists. Their knowledge of the habits and life cycle of insects has provided agricultural chemists with information of prime importance in the development of weapons for insect control. DDT, methoxychlor, rotenone, benzene hexachloride, parathion and many other insecticides came into general use only after entomologists had supplied chemists with the facts about the "enemy".

The ground work of the entomologists was largely responsible for the successful grasshopper control program in western Canada. They preceded the planes in the large-scale aerial spraying of forests in New Brunswick this year and in 1952 to combat the voracious spruce budworm. They are uncovering the breeding places of the great locust swarms which have ravaged for centuries several areas of Eurasia and Africa. Their prediction of possible insect infestation by egg counts the year before has made it possible for industry to prepare insecticides for a forthcoming year's campaign.

But the entomologists are not interested solely in killing bugs. Many are working on the propagation of useful insects like bees. One group makes a special study of predators — insects which are harmless to man but destroy harmful insects.

Because of Canada's extensive forests and food producing areas, entomologists are contributing a great deal to Canadian economy. Their ceaseless efforts to reduce the millions of dollars in losses caused by insects annually in this country should be encouraged in every way.

High-Cost Benefits

POLITICIANS who have an alert eye and ear for the popular appeal of all manner of welfare undertakings might be on surer ground if they knew and explained the attendant facts. For instance, any reasoning person would favor health insurance that cost nothing, but might be opposed if it cost more than it benefitted.

The fact that is rarely stressed is that any health measure the government may undertake must be paid for in taxes. There can be no advance estimate of what such taxes might be, but there are certain indications that might be suggestive.

The ratio of claims in various commercial forms of insurance might offer a starting point.

The 1952 figures show that fire insurance companies had claims representing 43.7 per cent of premiums for business written. Accident policies showed only 35.62 per cent. Employers' liability stood at 39.66 per cent. Automobile claims were somewhat higher at 55.45 per cent, while those for aircraft were 56.225.

But coming to sickness and accident claims, the story was markedly different. In 1952 these stood at 73.96 per cent. The average from 1948 was 69 per cent, with the percentage increasing yearly.

If nothing else, these figures prove that government proposes to undertake the form of insurance having the highest hazard and the least control. Think how this could be reflected in taxation.

CHAIN LIGHTNING!

By GEOFF.

Discontent reigns universal and supreme. Some bright soul has just made the unhappy discovery that there is no federal or provincial holiday coming up in August. Seems we sort of get used to a four-day week every now and then. Before we know it, everyone will want a four-day week all the time. Then it will be three days, and two, and one, until we reach the bindlestiff's Utopia and do no work at all.

As Friday dragged on and on, the following lines crept into my brain. I pass them on to you, confident that they will strike many a responsive chord. Who knows? They might even inspire some worthy to form a League for the Promotion of Four-day Weeks. Wouldn't be a bad idea — during the summer, at least.

Let's Have a Four-Day Week

Mondays break a universal heart,
Tuesdays see our commerce functions start,
Wednesdays find things run in higher gear,
Thursdays find things running even freer,
Fridays seem to drag a bit,
And Saturdays and Sundays flit.
Zzzt! Zzzt!

Last week, I discovered the best way to ease oneself through ports of customs. I went to visit a sister who lives near the Phillipsburg, Que., port. At the insistence of my young niece and nephew, I loaded some eight young bloods into the car and drove them down to the sandy beach at Highgate Springs, Vermont.

Going into the States, I had no trouble at all. The Canadian fellow was used to seeing the car and thinks I have an honest face. The American fellow, however, was new to the post and, taking one look at the mass of kids, called out to his friend:

"Hey, Jim, come here. You think you're doing O.K., look at this fellow!"

I was on the point of explaining I was still a bachelor, but decided I better not.

Coming home was even easier. The Canadian fellow thought I was a brave man to undertake such an expedition and wanted to know how the swimming was. After an exchange of courtesies, he waved me through. Neither going nor coming was I asked the amount of stuff I was bringing in. Nor was I asked to open the trunk. Just as well, too, for we discovered last night that the young niece had brought home a very dead fish she found in the the lake. I understand some diamond smugglers have used that method of getting things from one country to another. Might have been a little difficult to explain its presence to those trusting souls at Phillipsburg!

Rosetta Couzens Hauss, of Detroit, reluctantly invested $100 in a newly formed automobile business in 1903. By 1919 she had collected $95,000 in dividends, and that year she sold her $100 share for $260,000 — says the August Reader's Digest. Rosetta's brother James Couzens, less reulctant, put in $2,400 in 1903, added to his holding later, cashed in for $30,000,000 in 1919. This "greatest get-rich-quick scheme ever heard of" was the Ford Motor Co.

Through the Telescope

By Lewis Milligan

A hundred years isn't a very long time when one comes to look back historically. I was struck with this fact in reading some excerpts from the files of the Toronto Globe of Saturday, June 4, 1853, which casually reported what Dickens, Thackeray, Tennyson, Browning, Carlyle and Macaulay were doing at that time. Dickens was said to be sitting in a fine large house in Tavistock Square, London, "busy as a bee over Bleak House and Household Words." Thackery had just got home and could be found at the Garrick Club poring over a French newspaper or "chatting with Albert Smith over a mutton chop with sherry additions." Tennyson was musing in a modest brick house in the Village of Twickenham. The Brownings were "like swallows flitting from clime to clime" and might be met at the National Gallery or at the opera. Carlyle, as usual, was in seclusion at Cheyne Row and it was hard to get even a glimpse of him in his garden. Macauley might be found among his idols, the books at the British Museum, or at one of his clubs.

Many other names could be added to that galaxy of genius which shone in the literary firmament of London a hundred years ago, and to read a brief account of their activities in an old newspaper brings them very near to us. It is like looking through a telescope and seeing them moving about and living their lives much as we are doing today. In 1853 Queen Victoria was a young woman of 33 and had been on the throne 16 years. She had married Prince Albert in 1840 and they were living happily with their growing family for half of each year at Osborne in the Isle of Wight or in the Scottish Highlands at Balmoral Castle. Britain was at peace with the world in 1853, but trouble was brewing with Russia, and the Crimean War, which Victoria had tried hard to avert, broke out at the end of the year.

It is interesting to compare the Crimean War with the Korean War of today. Russia, under Nicholas I, an ambitious monarch, was encroaching on the Near East as she is doing today on the Far East, and was threatening the dismemberment of Turkey and the occupation of Constantinople and the Darlanelles. Britain and France were vitally interested in the preservation of those strategic points, and when Turkey declared war on Russia she found willing allies. Like Korea, Crimea was a peninsula and a mountainous and muddy country with extremes of climate. The British soldiers, who seem to have done most of the fighting, suffered terrible hardships and losses. Also like Korea, the Crimean War was an inflorious one, except for exhibitions of bravery, such as the Charge of the Light Brigade, about which Tennyson was to write his popular poem of that name. But even that heroic charge was a mistake, as the poet hinted — "someone had blundered". And there have been enough blunders in Korea.

There is another historical coincidence in the fact that when the aggressive Czar Nicholas died during the siege of Sevastopol, his successor, Alexander II, sought peace and gave himself to internal reforms, emancipating 25 million Russian serfs. With the fall of Sevastopol all combatants were glad to bring the war to an end after over two years of undecisive fighting. The miserable condition of the troops, depicted by the first war correspondents, was alleviated by the heroic service of Florence Nightingale. The peace Treaty was signed in Paris, and the Black Sea and Dardanelles were neutralized. Russian ambition in the Near East was checkmated. It is perhaps too much to expect that the end of the Korean War will have the same effect upon Soviet Russia's aggressive policy in the Far East; but there are signs that the new Soviet Zzar is not so keen as his predecessor on supplying the Chinese with unlimited armaments. A highly militarized China might in the future prove a troublesome neighbor for the Soviet Union. Malenkov may be turning the telescope on the future as we have been doing on the past.

TAME ELECTIONS

The Canada Elections Act seems to take a certain devilish delight in curbing such proclivities on the part of the populace as in other days made an election a lively affair. No wonder present-day elections are such tame affairs. It wasn't like that in the old days. At least, that is, if the stories which have come down to us from the old-timers have not been grossly exaggerated.

OBITUARY

Avoca Resident Widely Mourned

Late Mrs. Shoddie Young

Friends were shocked and saddened by the death of Mrs. Shoddie Young, who passed away Thursday evening, July 9, at her home in Avoca. She had been a resident of Avoca for approximately 47 years. Mrs. Young, who was 62, had suffered from arthritis and a heart condition for a number of years.

The former Florence Rubena Rourke, she was born in Calumet, where she lived until her marriage in 1906. Her parents were the late Thomas Rourke and his wife, Ellen Bigelow.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Young leaves to mourn her loss six daughters — Mrs. Howard McCutcheon (Irene), and Mrs. Harold Kelly (Bernice), both of Port Colborne, Ont.; Mrs. Herbert Smith (Ruth), of Rivington; Mrs. Nelson Young (Twyla), of Montebello (formerly of Sheffield, Mass); Mrs. Albert Thomas (Lyla), of Grenville; and Mrs. Earl MacLeod (Junia), at home; four sons — Stanley, of Calumet; Wyman, of Grenville Bay; Herman, of Grenville, and Clayton at home; also 20 grandchilden.

The body rested at her late residence, where the funeral service was held Sunday afternoon, July 12, with Mr. Wm. Sim officiating. Burial was in the Avoca Cemetery. Pall-bearers were her six sons-in-law, Messrs. Howard McCutcheon, Harold Kelly, Herbert Smith, Nelson Young, Albert Thomas and Earl MacLeod.

The great number of floral tributes bore token of the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

Those who attended from a distance were — Mr. and Mrs. Howard McCutcheon and Janice, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kelly and Peggy, all of Port Colborne; Mr. and Mrs. James Young and family, of Millbrook, Ont., Mrs. Leslie Gray, of Newboro, Ont.; Mrs. Alex Smith and Lorraine, of Landsdowne, Ont.; Miss Mabel Young, of Renfrew; Mrs. Stuart Gunn, Misses Eileen and Luella Gunn, Fern Gibbs and Beulah Cougler, all of Winchester; Mr. Roy Bell, from Jamica, B.W.I.; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Herron, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Rourke and Mrs. A. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. E. Shippey, Miss Rubena Young, Miss Geraldine Young, Mrs. Thos. Kennedy, Miss Laura Crawford, and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Simpson, all of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Cross, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas McCallum, Miss Ruth Cross and Mr. Elton Cunning, all of Vankleek Hill, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stansfield, Miss Ruby Maidens, Frank Maidens, and Mr. Brown, all of Lachute; and Mr. William McDonald, of Lakefield.

Eisenhower to Aid Drough-Stricken Texans

—Central Press Canadian

The worst drought in the history of Texas is ruining crops and threatening financial ruin to hundreds of cattle and grain farmers. Dust storms, reminiscent of those of the 1930's, have piled up huge banks of sand on areas that once flourished with grass and cotton. J. F. Laud, whose farm is near Dallas, holds up a burned corn root to illustrate how cornfields in many sections of Texas are being ruined by the present drought. President Eisenhower has declared the Texas-Oklahoma region a disaster area and has allocated $8,000,000 to help the stricken ranchers and farmers.

Problem For Central Board

that it be not built on Company property. They had had many difficulties in conection with the present school, where they have been supplying electricity, water, janitor service and fuel for many years. He felt that the parents of the children at the mine would have no objection to their children attending a school in Harrington. On the other hand, there was the possibility that the Rouge River Board would build a school only large enough for their own needs, in which case it was likely the present school in Kilmar would be sufficient to accommodate all their children.

Mr. Doherty and Mr. Smith, of the Rouge River Board, were satisfied that the great majority of rate payers and parents of their municipality favored the proposed new school being built on the original site at Bell Falls, which property already belongs to the Board. They stated that the bus route from Avoca to Grenville was imposing a tremendous hardship on those children, and that the condition could not continue indefinitely.

It was finally agreed, however, that there was not much chance of doing anything about a new school until the present financial position of that Board, and certain other local boards, was clarified. In the meantime, there was the possibility that the remaining rural elementary schools in Avoca and Harrington would have to be re-opened this September.

Spencer Church, of Calabogie, Ont., near Perth, celebrated his 103rd birthday; only two of his 16 children survive, but 35 grandchildren and 56 great-grandchildren. He is still active around the farm, needs glasses only for reading, hair still black, only touches of gray; does not drink, smoke or worry; stands under five feet, never weighed over 100 pounds.

Police Report

The Police Chief reported he attended to 20 complaints, made six arrests and had one sent to St. Jerome during the month.

Public Assistance

The new system of awarding public assistance direct from Quebec with a contribution from the municipality, was lauded as much less costly on the Council and generous to the recipient. The Rev. Paul Manseau, who has been appointed welfare officer from the St. Jerome diocese, is in charge of the work and a great extension of the service is already reported.

Cleaning Up

The secretary asked to have the hour of a travelling concert party extended to one o'clock. The mayor was agreeable but Councillor Lavoie objected to the procedure as there was a by-law which prohibited it. The matter caused a flutter when Councillor Lavoie persisted that he wanted a tolerance when the law was adopted and he was voted down; now that it was the law he wanted it to be observed.

Mayor: "If the law is there it has got to be observed, and in future no matter who asks for an extension they will be refused."

The Rotary asked permission to erect a banner across the main street. This was agreed to. Stop-signs were passed for erection at Elmwood and Main, and St. Lawrence and St. George. L'Association Sportive, Lachute, asked permission to send a loudspeaker around the village.

Mayor Donaldson: "No. They don't allow other associations to circulate in Lachute. So why should we do so."

A grant of $100 was voted to the Rotary Club to assist them in maintaining the community playground and swimming pool. The Canadian Legion grant was renewed and a sum of $15 granted to the Institute for the Blind.

An order was issued to the police department to seize any cycles found circulating in and out of traffic or without lights or licenses.

Bell Falls

Mr. W. H. Warren spent last week-end at his home in Bell Falls.

Mrs. W. H. Warren is leaving this week for New York to attend the convention of Jehovah's Witnesses at the Yankee Stadium.

Henry VIII introduced a bill which required that all horses under 14-hands be slaughtered; the bill compelled all horse owners to keep a record of their horses, and today thoroughbreds can trace their lineage back to this time. If the horse's ancestry can be traced to this time, it is a thoroughbred; others are called purebreds.

Henry VIII also introduced to England three Arabian horses, which were used to develop the marvellous racing stock which England possesses today. The Arabian horse is the only distinct breed of horses in existence today. No other breed resembles it, although all other breeds have some form of Arabian blood in them. Their origin is not definitely known, but it is thought that the Bedouins interbred different breeds of horses until they arrived at the famous Arabian. The Arabian has greater stamina than any other breed, it is the most intelligent and the finest looking.

Mr. Higginson was introduced by Rotarian Andy Hardy and thanked by Rotarian Wes Freeland.

Rotarian Stewart Jones gave a further report on progress of ticket sales for the Rodeo, to take place July 24-25, and urged greater efforts to get out and sell. Rotarian King Amos reported that swimming instruction had started at the swimming pool and that two or three classes would be held each week, depending upon the number interested. All those interested were asked to get in touch with Rotarian Amos, who is also chairman of the Water Safety Committee of the local Red Cross. Sometime in August badges will be awarded to those who pass the tests. These badges are for Junior, Intermediate and Senior swimmers. The classes are under the instruction of Mr. Pearson, who is a qualified swimming instructor for the Red Cross.

NEW $3,000,000 JASPER PARK LODGE IS "OPEN FOR BUSINESS"

—Central Press Canadian

With the completion of its $3,000,000 main lodge — which was destroyed by fire last July — Canada's famed Jasper Park resort, owned by the CNR, is now once again "open for business." Already the lodge, nestled in the heart of Jasper National Park in Athabaska valley region of Alberta, has a jam-packed register for the 100-day season, of which U.S. visitors comprise 80 per cent. of the 650 the lodge accomodates. An estimated 12,000 guests will spend close to $1,000,000 to coddle bear and deer, gaze at snow-capped mountains and swim, golf and ride to their hearts content.

What Do Jehovah's Witnesses Believe ?

From time to time a religious writer discusses the beliefs of Jehovah's Witnesses. However, in view of the unfriendly and critical tones of these discussions, it would be a mistake to expect to obtain from such discussions an accurate picture of what Jehovah's Witnesses really do believe.

Jehovah God and Christ Jesus

Since there are many 'gods' and many 'lords', the true God has a personal name to distinguish him from all other gods: "Thou alone, whose name is Jehovah, art the Most High over all the earth". And referring to Abrahaln, Isaac and Jacob, God said to Moses: "But by my name Jehovah I was not known to them." Jesus made this name known to his followers: "I have made your name manifest to the men you gave me." Jehovah's Witnesses today likewise make known Jehovah's name.

Jehovah's first creation was his Son: "the faithful and true witness, the beginning of the creation by God", "the firstborn of all creation". (Colossians 1: 15; Revelation 3: 14). Jehovah's Witnesses reject the doctrine of the trinity as being unscriptural.

Adam and His Penalty

After preparing the earth for man's habitation, "Jehovah God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." Note, man did not receive an immortal soul, he became, he then was, a living soul. God commanded man to "be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth and subdue it"; also to take care of the garden and not to eat of the fruit of a certain tree. — Genesis 1: 26-28; 2: 7, 15-17.

Adam's life depended upon his obedience. . . . Adam was a soul: Adam died. . . . Adam the "living soul" died? Yes, "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." "He poured out his soul unto death", foretold the prophet of Jesus. (Isaiah 53-12; Ezekiel 18: 4, 20). According to the Scriptures the lower animals also are souls, and so we read: "That which befalleth the sons of men befalleth beasts; even one thing befalleth them; as the one dieth, so dieth the other; yea, they have all one breath." There is no misunderstanding these plain statements. (Genesis 1: 30, margin; Numbers 31: 28; Ecclesiastes 3: 19). Therefore Jehovah's Witnesses do not believe in the doctrines of eternal torment and immortality of the human soul. . . (Continued next week.)

The earth's surface is rising slowly in some places, sinking in others, says Lincoln Barnett in the current Reader's Digest. The whole of France appears to be tilting slowly northward, rising in the south, sinking along the Channel coast. If this movement continues, the Atlantic will ultimately inundate great areas of France.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Pastoral Supply at Lachute United Church

The supply committee of Lachute United Church has arranged for the following ministers to be in the pulpit during the next three weeks:

Sunday, July 19 —
Rev. Wilson Bridge, Andover, N.B.

Sunday, July 26 —
Rev. W. B. Perry, Coaticook, Que.

Sunday, August 2 —
Rev. Garfield Bruce,
Tatamagouche, N.S.

Though the summer congregations are usually small, it is hoped that persons at their lake residences and in the country will make a special effort to be present at these services; members and adherents in Lachute are also specially requested to attend.

Special Speaker At Lachute Baptist Next Sunday Morning

The Rev. Roy Campbell

Just back from Chicago and Winona Lake, Indiana Convention of Youth for Christ International, the Rev. Roy Campbell will be speaking at the Lachute Baptist Church on Sunday morning, July 19th.

While at the Convention, Mr. Campbell, Maritime director of Youth for Christ and the "Light of Life" broadcast, spoke over Chicago's Moody Bible Institute station, WMBI. He is constantly engaged in campaigns in Canada and the U.S.A. The public are cordially invited to hear him. He is vacationing in Lachute at the residence of his brother, Mr. Randy Campbell, of Montreal and Lachute.

To Attend Convention Of Jehovah's Witnesses

Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Racine, Brownsburg, are leaving Wednesday, July 22, to attend the last four days of the International Convention of Jehovah's Witnesses, at Yankee Stadium (July 9-26). They will travel to New York by train. In New York they will meet with over 125,000 other Witnesses from about 100 countries to participate in the largest religious convention ever held in America. The convention will show that "people from all nations and races can have complete unity when God's Word and Laws are the basis for what they do."

On their return trip home they will go sightseeing and visiting some of the State parks.

Golden Wedding Couple "At Home" In Cushing, Que.

Cushing — A very pleasing event took place Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Canning when they were "at home" on the afternoon and evening of that date to their many friends and relatives in honor of their 50th anniversary. One hundred and twenty five persons coming from various places, signed the guest book.

Those from a distance were from New York, U.S.A., Sudbury, Finch and Newington, Ont.; also from Hull, Montreal and Pointe Claire, Que., with many local friends and others from the outlying districts.

Mrs. S. H. Longmore, of Pointe Claire, poured tea in the afternoon and Mrs. John Canning, of Stonefield (sister-in-law of the bridal couple and wife of their groomsman) poured tea in the evening. Both the bridesmaid, Mrs. Emerson Cooke (the former Maud Veitch of Centreville, now of Saskatoon) and groomsman, Mr. John Canning, of Stonefield, were present.

The tea table was prettily decorated and candle-lighted. Mrs. J. R. McGlashan, Mrs. Nelson Blore and Miss Elsie Graham assisted the daughter of the house, Mrs. George Drew, of Verdun, in serving the guests.

A great many lovely and useful gifts testified to the popularity of the honored couple.

A telegram of congratulations was received from relatives and friends in Port Arthur, Ont., and a lovely gold-colored Ayers blanket was presented to Mrs. Canning on Tuesday by Mrs. Archie Graham in the name of Frontier Branch members of the W.I., at the monthly meeting and afternoon tea held at the home of Mrs. T. W. Weir.

Resolutions Passed By Arundel Board

And Whereas — the Protestant Committee of the Council of Education is studying amendments to Act 8, Geo. VI, Chap. 15, with a view to making recommendations to the Quebec Government in the hope that such changes will be made at the next session of the Provincial Legislature;

Be It Resolved — that, notwithstanding the fact that this School Board has reservations as to whether the procedure outlined in the above resolution passed by the Argenteuil and Two Mountains County Central School Board is in the best interests of education in the various school municipalities concerned, under present circumstances this Board undertake, for the school year ending June 30, 1954, only —

1. To accept responsibility for the payment of operational expenses, exclusive of instructional salaries.
2. To engage bus drivers.
3. To set its own tax rate and balance its own budget.
4. To make appropriate arrangements with the Central Board for the payment of instructional salaries, on the understanding that —

(a) Recommendations regarding the changes in Act 8, George VI, Chap. 15 will be made this year by the Protestant Committee to the Quebec Government, and

(b) This resolution will not alter the basis of allocation of Provincial Government grants."

(2) It Was Resolved — that a copy of the foregoing resolution should be forwarded to —

The secretary-treasurer of the Argenteuil and Two Mountains County Central School Board;

Dr. W. P. Percival, Director of Protestant Education;

Dr. G. G. D. Kilpatrick, convener of the special sub-committee appointed to consider the situation in Argenteuil - Two Mountains.

(3) The secretary - treasurer presented to the Board a letter from the Argenteuil and Two Mountains County School Board dated June 18, 1953, requesting that the Protestant School Municipality of Arundel take steps to issue serial bonds repayable over five years to finance the deficit accumulated from the inception of the Central Board in 1946 to 30th June 1953. A statement prepared by the Central Board shows that the estimated deficit of Arundel amounts to $54,250.06.

It Was Resolved — that the secretary-treasurer is hereby directed to inform the Argenteuil and Two Mountains County Central School Board that pending the receipt of the recommendations of the special sub-committee of the Protestant Committee appointed to consider the situation in Argenteuil - Two Mountains, the Board of School Commissioners of Arundel consider that they cannot proceed with the request of the Central Board to finance the accumulated deficit of the Protestant School Municipality of Arundel.

And Be It Further Resolved — that the Board of School Commissioners of Arundel consider that the aforementioned proposal of the Central Board would place an intolerable burden upon the ratepayers of this school municipality, having due and proper regard to their source and amount of revenue, and their related ability to assume an increase in taxes of over 100% which would be required under the proposal of the Central Board; THAT the Board of School Commissioners of Arundel strongly stress the fact that there are no industries in this school municipality, that there are extremely limited sources of employment, and that accordingly, the burden of increased taxation would be borne chiefly by ratepayers engaged in farming.

And Be It Further Resolved — that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Dr. G. G. D. Kilpatrick, convener of the aforementioned special sub-committee, to the secretary-treasurer of The Argenteuil and Two Mountains County Central School Board, and to Dr. Percival.

Logan and Miss Jessie Logan, of Lachute, Mr. Richard Low, Kenogami, Mayor Houde, Mr. and Mrs. S. Seniw, Mrs. Wm. Weir, Mr. and Mrs. B. Kalba, Mr. and Mrs. David Walker, Miss Rose Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. M. Dragan, of Montreal.

Old Carillon - Grenville Line Made Pioneer Rail History

"Ottawa Valley Days" by Harry J. Walker, in The Ottawa Farm Journal

Nearly 100 years ago it made railway history when it puffed its way around the curves of the Ottawa, snorting disdainfully at the rapids and the canal as it led its three passenger cars over a 13-mile broad gauge stretch into Grenville.

In its lush pre-Confederation days it once took Royalty on a tour around the Long Sault. Later, in its cosmopolitan career, during the boom period of river transportation, it hauled (at a speed of 25 miles an hour) a motley human cargo which included pioneer river tycoons, fighting lumberjacks and silk-hatted politicos, together with mess pork and other shanty fare.

And in its last days it received the homage and respect that go with age and distinguished service when famous engine designers of two continents came to watch it in action and take its pressure as it panted up-grade. Now all that is left of an early railway system on the Ottawa is a length of funnel and two pinch bars.

13-Mile Link

Thus the brief life span of a pioneer locomotive named the "Ottawa" which was once the pride of the famous Carillon-Grenville Railway — one of the oldest in Canada and the shortest in America.

As for the railway itself, short stretches of the ancient right-of-way can still be traced as it passes through a part of the Village of Carillon. One can visualize the checkered story of this unique railway which once was an important link in the Lower Ottawa transportation system, for river travellers boarded this little train at Carillon and then transferred to the steamer again at Grenville on their journey to Ottawa.

According to one source, the "Carillon-Grenville Railway of Canada" was once called the "Old Sykes Line" after William Sykes, one of the English contractors who constructed it. This railroad was built in 1853 as part of a projected Bytown route, connecting at Montreal with Quebec City. Maurice Delisle was the president of the company which undertook its construction. But the difficulty of financing it during a depression led to its stoppage.

Famous Old Engine.

The Carillon-Grenville section was all that was ever completed, and it was eventually sold by the sheriff to a company which included the Hon. John J. C. C. Abbott (later Sir John C. Abbott, the first Canadian born Prime Minister), Judge Cross and Messrs. Courtland and Freer. In 1864 the shares of the railway were acquired on purchase from this company by the newly organized Ottawa River Navigation Company, under the presidency of Captain R. W. Shepherd. Eventually the railway lost its identity when it became merged into the Grand Trunk system and finally even its roadbed was abandoned.

For years, however, with its quaint puffing wood-burning apparatus, the squat "Ottawa" was a feature of river transport. The railway was of old Irish broad gauge of five feet six inches (standard gauge in most countries is four feet 8½ inches). The locomotive, built in Liverpool, in 1849, presented a remarkable appearance with its great breadth of beam necessitated by its broad gauge, and it had a cowcatcher on each end. The rails were U-shaped and of iron, and on these the "Ottawa" travelled at about 25 miles per hour.

Complementary to the service given by the Carillon-Grenville Railway was the fleet of river steamers, also owned by the Ottawa River Navigation Company.

Lower River Fleet

There is no finer record of achievement in Ottawa River navigation that that of those early river firms, bitter rivals though they were. Finally, the Ottawa and Rideau River Forwarding Company gained virtual control of the carrying trade on these waterways.

In 1846, however, when the enlarged St. Lawrence canals were opened, much of the rivalry disappeared, when several forwarders "pulled out" from the Ottawa. Then, with several associates, Captain Shepherd purchased the steamer "Oldfield" as the nucleus of a river fleet and thus established the Ottawa River Navigation Company. Two of the earliest boats on the stretch of river between the head of the Long Sault and Bytown were the "Union" and the "Shannon", the former running from Hawkesbury and the latter from Grenville.

The "Shannon", with smaller steamers, constituted one of the main links of transportation from Montreal to Kingston, via the Ottawa River and the Rideau Canal. Stages from Montreal to Lachine formed the first link; thence by steamer to Carillon was the second part of the journey (with the advant of the Carillon-Grenville Railway, this gap was covered by rail), and at Grenville the steamer journey continued to Bytown and thence to Kingston.

The overgrown railway roadbed is the last vestige of those vanished yesterdays. As for the "Ottawa", the faithful old engine was dissected for junk and the last record we had of it was that a length of its funnel was used as a flower pot on a front lawn overlooking the scene of its once busy terminal.

Canadian Sleeping Bag Used by Everest Crew

Included in the equipment of the British team that successfully scaled Mount Everest last month were Canadian-made sleeping bags.

Sir John Hunt's crew had 12 of the bags, designed and made in Ottawa and winners of a design merit award sponsored by the National Industrial Design Committee of Canada. For the past two years they have been standard equipment in the emergency kits of R.C.A.F. Arctic flyers.

The lightweight bag — 8½ pounds of nylon, wool and duck's down — was tested on Everest by reconnaissance expeditions in 1951 and 1952. With them, climbers were able to overcome one of their main problems, exhaustion from the biting cold at night.

Tombstone Tourney By Lady Golfers

Tombstones were planted all over the Lachute Golf Course last Thursday when the lady golfers played their Tombstone Tournament — each player marking the spot where she succumbed or dropped out of the game after taking the regulation number of strokes according to her handicap. Mrs. Lorna Browne won on the 18th hole, followed closely by Mrs. Philippe Valois and Mrs. Howard Watson. The Business Girls, playing in the same tournament after five o'clock, were led by Miss Bernice Ogilvie.

Mrs. Philippe Valois won the qualifying round of the Drew Trophy on the July 1st Ladies' Day.

Winners for the first round of the Drew Trophy were as follows: Miss Joyce Tingley, Mrs. Jack Reade, Miss Christine MacKenzie, Miss Marthe Lafortune, Miss Cecile Ethier, Mrs. Philippe Valois, Mrs. Edith McFetrick, Miss Bernice Ogilvie.

At the July meeting of the Ladies' Committee, it was decided to send a wire to Miss Marlene Stewart congratulating her on behalf of the Lachute members on winning the British Open Golf Tournament.

It was regrettable that rain cancelled plans for a tournament and tea for the ladies last Monday, as many beginners were planning to attend.

Canadian Heavyweight Among Ranking Boxers

SPORTS CAMERA

By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A few years back some fellow wrote a song called "What a Difference A Day Makes". Earl Walls, Canada's heavyweight boxing champion, could be excused these days if he thought up a parody along the lines of "What A Difference A Fight Makes."

A few weeks ago, few Canadians could have told you the name of our heavyweight champion. Probably still fewer persons in the United States, the hotbed of professional boxing, ever heard of him.

Things are different now. Walls, a hard-punching slugger from Windsor, Ont., who now lives in Edmonton, hadn't had a real bout since he lifted the title from Toronto's Vern Escoe last year. He was strictly an unknown quantity on the world boxing horizon.

He was matched with Rex Layne, from Salt Lake City, Utah, and ranked seventh among the ranks of world contenders for the title of champion Rocky Marciano.

The Layne-Walls bout took place a couple of weeks ago in the Alberta capital and Walls, a logical underdog in the betting, lifted a lot of eyebrows when he knocked out the American after 53 seconds of the first round.

To Meet Again

There'll be a rematch in Salt City sometime in August or early September. If Walls makes another good impression — even in losing — he'll probably be in line for more topflight bouts.

Despite his potentialities, good or bad, the Canadian arrived among the upper brackets of the heavyweight division with a bang. The top-weight group lacks new faces and Walls certainly fills the bill there.

If his knockout of Layne wasn't a bit of a fluke — and after the bout Layne said he hadn't been hit so hard before — Walls will be in demand by heavyweight-hungry boxing promoters.

One former world boxing champion even figures Walls has the making of another Joe Lewis. That's probably overstepping the mark of Walls' past record, but it shows how his reputation has soared overnight.

Henry Armstrong, holder a few years ago of three world titles simultaneously, said he wanted Walls to head a charity boxing show he is putting on in California later this year. He even saw visions of Walls meeting Marciano for the world championship.

It may be that some of Armstrong's rave notices about the Canadian fighter were designed to publicize his charity show. But then, maybe, we have had a real boxing diamond in the rough in this country all the time.

in intermediate for Loyola College. "Shag" came to McGill after he received recognition as a line coach at Harvard.

Going back a little farther, "Shag" was a football star with Notre Dame and was captain of that squad for one year. At these and other sports events of his day, "Shag" was interested if not participating in the game or rhubarb that followed.

So it goes, with "Shag's" memory lane always drifting back to baseball. But that is to be expected of a man who reached the majors at 17 as a player with Washington, and later with Connie Mack's A's, then with phenomenal success turning to managing — taking five pennants and two seconds in the first seven years.

Today, in his 17th year as International League president, he is recognized as the keenest mind in minor league ball — a position calling for dignity, which occasionally gets ruffled by episodes from his robust past.

Lachute
TIGERS

By J. C. PETITCLERC

Games Played

Last Sunday afternoon at Lachute Stadium:

Ste. Therese	400	030	000	7
Lachute	025	000	01x	8

Winning pitcher, Bourbeau (his 11th).

In tribute to the memory of the late Lionel Laurin, all games last week were postponed and will be played at a later date.

Next Games

Thurs., July 16, 8 p.m. — St. Eustache (bus leaves 6 p.m.)
Sun., July 19, 8 p.m. — Jollette — at Lachute.
Sun., July 19, 2 p.m. — Ste. Therese (bus leaves 11.30 a.m.)
Tues., July 21, 8 p.m. — Lachine (bus leaves 5.30 p.m.)
Wed., July 22, 8 p.m. — St. Jerome (bus leaves 6.00 p.m.)
Thurs., July 23, 8 p.m. — Jollette — at Lachute.
Sat., July 25, 8 p.m. — Valleyfield (bus leaves 5.00 p.m.)
Sun., July 26, 2 p.m. — St. Eustache — at Lachute.

Bus

Don't forget, baseball fans, that for a minimum fare you may enjoy bus transport, leaving the Armand Restaurant, 238 Main Street, for all outside games. Come and cheer the Tigers!

Program

When you attend the games, buy a program. This will give you a chance of winning one of the two attendance prizes; also, on page 13, you have a balloting slip for the players of distinction on the Lachute Tigers team — So, buy a program and please vote.

Calvert Trophy

Hardy has taken the most votes in the past week, 456, thus making the race between him and Groulx a little closer. Groulx took 404, to keep him in first place. Kimball took 286 votes this week — not bad; this brought him from sixth place to fourth. There has been very little change otherwise. . . Every vote shows appreciation to the players, to the Association, and to the Calvert people who donated this trophy.

1—Groulx 1,191 (1)
2—Hardy 1,004 (2)
3—Taillefer 668 (3)
4—Kimball 614 (6)
5—Boubeau 574 (4)
6—Cotnoir 571 (5)
7—Goulet 411 (7)
8—Yeager 380 (9)
9—Ricciani 371 (11)
10—Hoffman 343 (8)
11—Luciano 273 (10)
12—Paulus 127 (14)
13—Petit 40 (12)
14—Savarino 38 (13)

New Players

Ted Vachon stated that before the deadline date, July 20, he should have another good pitcher signed for Tigers, so as to make the pitching staff one of the best in the league. (For the time being he is keeping it under his hat!)

The Tigers

In May, I stated that the Tigers would eventually be the club to beat, and I repeat myself today — confident that if the Tigers are not first, they won't be far from it, even if Rosaire Beaudry, of the Jollette Journal, states that we should finish sixth. Here are Mr. Baudry's choices, and my own, respectively:

St. Eustache	Ste. Therese
Lachine	Lachute
Jollette	St. Eustache
Valleyfield	Lachine
Ste. Therese	Valleyfield
Lachute	Jollette
St. Jerome	St. Jerome

My choice as second or first is based on these factors:

Yeager is about, if not the best, in the league as centre field.

Hardy as short, and Pete Taillefer at second, are a tough combination; many a batter should know this by now.

At 3rd Kimball is holding his performance o.k.

We could see much worse at first base; in the field Ricciani is o.k.; and Tiger Bang Groulx can show a lot of players how to do it.

Cotnoir and Goulet behind home plate are again another good combination.

The pitching staff: Boudreau with 11 wins 1 loss, is leading the league; Groulx can also pitch a nice game; Hoffman has shown Lachine, with 14 strike-outs, that he can play. And Malone should have something to say before the season is over.

Now, at bat, maybe we do not head the league, but Kimball has now 10 homers, Hardy 9, and Goulet 9. Other dangerous hitters are Groulx, Cotnoir, Ricciani and Pete Taillefer.

So altogether, before the final game, the Tigers will have a word or two to say. . . I nearly forgot, in the pitching staff, Luciano, who already has pitched a one-hit game.

Attendance

The crowd was a little better last Sunday. But if you want your Tigers to win they need your cheers. So for the next 20 games, especially with half-season tickets on sale, everyone should be on hand.

Average

Lachine	30	15	667
St. Eustache	24	16	600	3½
Valleyfield	21	20	512	7
Ste. Therese	20	22	476	8½
Lachute	19	23	452	9½
Jollette	18	23	439	10
St. Jerome	11	27	289	15½

(This report is up to last Saturday. Since then, le's hope the Tigers have won at least 5 out of 7.

All-Star Game

At Ste. Therese on Monday, July 27, at 8 p.m. the Canadian boys meet the American players of the league. As a few of our Tigers should be on these all-star teams, let's hope to meet a lot of Lachute fans at Ste. Therese on the 27th.

Maurice Levesque, president of the Jollette Club, will make the choice for the Canadian team. Good luck, Mr. Levesque. Oscar Latour, president of St. Eustache, will select the American Club. Good luck to you too — that's one job I wouldn't like! . . This should be a real game to see.

Strange But True

Dale Long, 1st baseman for Hollywood Stars, made 2 out in a triple play — the 1st one at 1st base, then running to 3rd base, retiring the 3rd out.

Well, if the Tigers need a fielder — Tommy Iddon, a real baseball fan, caught a nice fly in the stand recently. So Gerry Cotnoir, keep an eye on Tommy; one never knows.

No-Hit, No-Run Game

Earl McDonald, a 22-year-old pitcher for St. Eustache pitched a 9-inning, no-hit, no-run game, beating the leaders, Lachine, 4-0. Nice pitching, Earl.

GESTURE OF TRIBUTE TO LATE PRESIDENT, LIONEL LAURIN

Prior to the game against Ste. Therese here last Sunday afternoon, a brief ceremony took place, and a tribute which I will translate to the best of my ability:

"The spectacle now seen before you is not without reason.

"You may have noticed that since opening of the gate for this afternoon's game, contrary to the usual custom at baseball parks, you have heard no music; the loudspeakers have been silent. Spectators took their seats looking for someone who is not here anymore — one whose smile has welcomed us at the Lachute Stadium.

"The referee at home plate has not yet called the familiar words, 'Play Ball'. The players of both teams, instead of taking their regular positions, are now standing in line — the Tigers, wearing black armbands, between home plate and third — the Foxes, from home plate to first. Let us together meditate and pay our last respect to that dynamic citizen, the president of "La Jeunesse Sportive de Lachute', whose sudden death has removed him from his family and from our midst — Lionel Laurin.

"Without minimizing the gifts, work and sacrifices of many of us so that baseball could grow as it has today, it is unnecessary to say that none has staked so much — in money, health, even in life itself — to maintain enthusiasm behind this sporting enterprise of his desire.

"Lionel Laurin was one of those responsible for the erection of our popular Stadium, which for the past few years the Lachute Tigers have called their 'Home'.

"Vice-president of the Laurentide League, Lionel in his own way has contributed to the constructive publicity of his home-town, and to its efficiency. For these many reasons, Ladies and Gentlemen, it behooves each one of us to continue his beneficent work.

"Fans and guests who share our sorrows — when a hard-fought game is over, we record on a strip of paper the three stars of that game now, it seems fitting that, in our thoughts we inscribe the name of a great star who did so much for Lachute. And may we keep, in our thoughts and our hearts for a long time, the name of our most loyal and worthy friend—Lionel Laurin.

"To the memory of the late Lionel Laurin, president of this organization, I would ask you now to observe one minute's silence."

Cherokee Rodeo Coming to Lachute

Cowboy yells, the zip of maguey rope, and the jingle of spurs will usher in a real, ring-tailed tornado of Western thrills when former world's champion trick rider John Baldwin and the Cherokee Oklahoma Rodeo descend on the Lachute Fair Grounds, July 24 and 25. The Cherokee outfit, one of the finest bunches of bronc riders, bulldoggers and fancy ropers in the country, was secured through George A. Hamid & Son, famous producers of outdoor attractions, and is appearing in Lachute under the auspices of the Brownsburg Rotary Club.

John Baldwin, a real old-timer, was winning prize money back in 1907 and performed before Teddy Roosevelt. His son, Buddie, who has been doing mounted acrobatics with his dad's show since he was four, will be on hand with "Major", the horse he has trained to jump over a parked auto.

Also starring is Opal Ashby and her dancing horse, "Smoky", product of two years' intensive training, the King brothers, masters of the lariat, who invented the "double Texas skip", and the celebrated rodeo clown, Red Pilz, familiar to TV audiences, with his bucking Ford.

Thirty-five top-money rodeo contestants from the Southwest will take part and nearly a hundred saddle broncs, brahma bulls, calves and dogging steers. The broncs and bulls are fresh from Texas; how they will perform or what they will do no one can say ahead of time, except that it is sure to be high, wide and handsome. The popular rodeo announcer, Hub Hubbell, will emcee.

New Movement by Quebec Forestry Assocn.

The Quebec Forestry Association, through its Western Quebec Branch, has launched a new movement to interest settlers in protecting the forest. Name of the movement is the "Association of Guardians of the Forest"; it is specifically planned for the colonization districts of this province.

To date, three sections have been organized and the entire project covers the organization of at least 15 sections. All those who enter the new association are requested to sign a pledge agreeing to respect the various regulations dealing with slash burning, forest circulation, blueberry picking and fish and game regulations. A contest is also organized, its object being to burn all slashes and the feelings and to control such fires. At the end of the forest protection season, prizes and certificates will also be given.

The Quebec Forestry Association hopes in this way to reduce the number of fires, and if the movement shows good results, other district will be organized next summer.

Teen-Agers on Tour Return to Canada

Montreal — Fifty teen-age girls returned to Canada last week after more than a month abroad as guests of industrialist W. Garfield Weston.

The group, which left Canada on May 22 for the Coronation and a month-long tour of Britain, arrived here aboard the Empress of Australia.

During their trip, the Canadian girls visited England, Wales, Scotland, Northern Ireland and France. They saw the Coronation from bleachers specially built on a bombed-out site in London with 50 British girls who later came to Canada, also as guests of the Canadian-born international industrialist.

There were 13 girls from Quebec Province.

Haligonians Cram For Tourist Trade

Halifax (CP) — People who serve the needs of tourists here this summer are well equipped to give directions and answer enquiries.

City council gave a two-night course to acquaint hotel, restaurant and service station employees, as well as police and firemen, with beauty and historic sites and other attractions in and around Halifax.

Dr. Bruce Ferguson, assistant provincial archivist, gave a word picture of tourist attractions in the city. Dr. Will R. Bird, writer and lecturer, discussed similar places of interest in the rest of the province.

Radio Blurb Proves Queer Ad for Canada

Montreal (CP) — In Australia it seems a certain cough syrup company sponsors this radio commercial:

"When blizzards come down in blizzardly Canada, everyone uses Canadaoil for coughs and colds . ."

The advertisement is accompanied by realistic howls of a wolf and the whistling of a blizzard.

The commercial was enough to lure two young Australian girls to this country as first stop on an aerial hitch-hike tour of the world.

"This was all we ever heard about Canada in Australia", said Jeannette Johnston and Zonia Hutcherson recently. "But it intrigued us, so we decided to see what the country looked like."

Both were air stewardesses with British Commonwealth Pacific Airways when they decided on their trip. Now they have similar jobs with Trans-Canada Air Lines and are learning that Canada isn't all blizzards and wolves.

The girls plan to work here for a time. Then they'll move on to Europe. So far they have had little trouble becoming accustomed to the climate, although, says Jeannette, "I must admit we froze when we first came here a few months ago."

"Canadian girls are very friendly", Zonia said. "But Canadian men are — well, a little too friendly, too quickly."

Project No. 1 for the two girls while in Montreal is to learn the French language and about French cooking.

However, one thing still puzzles them. "You know, we haven't seen a bottle of Canadaoil since arriving here", Jeannette said. "Do you suppose people in Canada don't use it after all?"

The Commodores

Add old-time fiddling to the feats of The Commodores, known to listeners through Canada for their four-part rendition on CBC networks of sea chanteys, western ballads, Negro spirituals and "the old songs". The nautical gents haven't actually taken up violins yet, but they'll be backing Canada's 1953 champion old-time fiddlers on the CBC Trans-Canada network broadcast from the All-Canadian Open Old-Time Fiddlers' Contest in Shelburne, Ont., Saturday, August 8. The Commodores are (from top to bottom) John Ringham, of Vancouver, baritone; Donald Parrish of Wallaceburg, Ont., bass; Carl Tapscott, Toronto, second tenor and arranger; and Harvard Reddick, Bloomfield, Ont., first tenor.

Women's Interests -- The Homemaker's Section

Green Beans, Peas and Beets Now in Prime

Everyone is interested in vegetables these days. The farmer is busy delivering vegetables to the market and the retailer displays the farmer's vegetables in a most attractive manner so that homemakers will buy.

Early summer beets are a sort of two-in-one vegetable for if the beets are young enough, the tender beet tops may be cooked separately and served as a green. Be sure to buy a bunch or two of beets the next time you shop. Choose beets that are smooth and free from blemishes. Watch to see that they are not rough or that they do not have deep cracks. If the beet tops are to be used, be sure that they are fresh, tender and clean. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture suggest that to retain that lovely red color in cooked beets, always cook them with the skin, the root and about two inches of the stem on. Once you have cooked the beets, you can serve them hot with butter and perhaps a little vinegar or a sweet-sour sauce. Another way to cook beets is to cut them in small dices or in coarse shreds then cook the dices or shreds in a covered saucepan with just enough water to prevent burning.

Even before Columbus came to North America, beans were grown and eaten by the Indians. When the white man arrived, he ate these green pods and loved them. Of course the beans he ate were tough and stringy compared to our snap beans. During the last few years, agriculturists have developed the tender, stringless snap beans we enjoy so much today. Green beans are one of the favorite frozen vegetables and now is the time for the lucky people who have facilities to freeze some to enjoy next winter. Be sure to choose beans which are fresh, crisp, tender and stringless and that snap readily when broken. It is best to use pods that have immature seeds because if the seeds are large and almost completely grown the beans will be tough and woody.

Green or waxed beans may be frozen whole, sliced crosswise or cut lengthwise in strips. They must be blanched before freezing just like any other vegetable. The blanching time for beans is three minutes. After they are blanched, they must be cooled quickly in ice water, drained and packed dry in freezer cartons or bags.

More and more frozen vegetables are appearing on Canadian dinner tables every day. Probably the most popular one is frozen peas. In the canned food line, canned tomatoes rank first, but frozen vegetables have no competition from tomtato products and it is frozen peas that hold the first place. Many homemakers own home freezers or rent a frozen food locker and they will be interested in these directions for freezing green peas from the home economists. There are many, many varieties of green peas grown and sold in Canada but some varities are better than others for freezing. In order to be sure which varieties are best for freezing, it is advisable to write to your Provincial Department of Agriculture and ask them. The quality of the frozen vegetable depends upon the quality and freshness of the vegetable frozen. Be sure to freeze only fresh, young tender peas. Vegetables must always be blanched before freezing. To do this, cook the vegetables in salted water for a definite length of time. Peas are blanched two minutes. After they have been blanched, they must be chilled immediately in ice water, then they should be drained and packed in freezing cartons or bags. After the vegetables are packaged, get them into the freezer or locker as quickly as possible in order to retain that lovely green color and sweet, delicate flavor. There is another reason for this hurry to get them in the freezer quickly. Once vegetables have been blanched, they will sour quickly if left too long at room temperature.

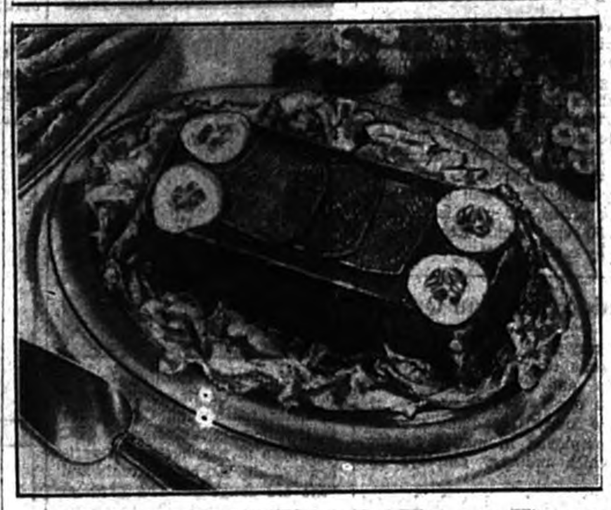
Tricks to Keep Milk In Camp or Cottage

There is a very easy way to keep milk and butter cool on the warmest day this summer without benefit of ice, frigidaire, or the old-fashioned spring house. All you need is a sturdy crock and a cake of ordinary washing blue.

Dissolve your cake of blue in a little water, and then add enough water to reach half way up your quart of milk. Butter may also be kept in the crock in a covered bowl. Keep the crock tightly covered and it will stay cool on the hottest day. Water should be changed once a week.

Many cottage owners will be using ice in old-fashioned iceboxes. You can double the life of your cake of ice by covering it with a quilt made of a flour bag or sack filled with sawdust. This keeps the warm air out and makes your ice last and last.

Consommé Salad is Star at Summer Meals



STAR performers at your summer meals are the cool, jewel-like gelatin salads. For the richest flavored salads, start with condensed consommé as the base.

A can of this meaty broth, which contains gelatin, is a natural for these jellied specialties. Just add chopped meat and vegetables to consommé (along with more gelatin); and let the refrigerator take over. One bite. Then you know how good a salad can taste.

A basic recipe for consommé salad can be made with either chopped chicken or tongue. Both a joy to eat. Try one, then the other. You're sure of two delightful summer suppers.

Jellied Consommé Tongue Salad

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed consommé
2 to 4 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup diced tongue (smoked, canned, or cured)
½ cup minced cucumber
2 tablespoons sliced, stuffed olives
1 hard-cooked egg, chopped

Soften gelatin in cold water; then set container of gelatin in pan of boiling water until gelatin is dissolved. Combine gelatin, consommé and lemon juice; chill until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in remaining ingredients. Rinse a 1-quart mold or loaf pan with cold water (for decoration, arrange slices of tongue in bottom of mold so they form a pattern on top of jellied salad); pour in salad. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve on crisp greens. 4 servings.

Chicken Consommé Salad: Follow recipe for Consommé Tongue Salad, except use ½ cup diced cooked chicken instead of tongue. And use the 4 tablespoons lemon juice.

SOUP SCOOPS

Beans Team with Deviled Eggs: Hot, hearty beans and pork go deliciously with deviled eggs for warm weather feasts. Have them at your next porch supper or beach picnic. Tote the beans in a covered casserole. For the deviled eggs, give an extra zip of flavor by mixing deviled ham with the usual egg yolk filling. Count on generous helpings of beans and at least 2 eggs per person.

Gravy Glorifies Sandwich: When there's roast meat left from dinner, fix double deck sandwiches for the next meal. Glorify sandwiches with hot gravy (using 1 can of beef gravy). For each sandwich, place slice of meat between 2 slices toast and top with more meat. Pour on the hot brown gravy. Each can contains 1¼ cups beef gravy, enough for 3 or 4 sandwiches. Garnish sandwich plates with cold crisp celery, carrot sticks, and pickles. Man, that's a meal!

War Brides' Folder Now Available

An attractive folder in connection with the Queen Elizabeth War Brides' Excursion, on September 16, has just come off the press and has already been distributed in small quantities.

This war-brides' excursion will especially appeal to the many war-brides who have not been home on a visit since they came to live here and who perhaps have children to introduce to their grandparents.

In view of the continued interest on both sides of the Atlantic, it is anticipated that this September 16 venture will be a success. There has been a steady source of business both ways, and on a recent arrival of the Queen Mary in New York 39 mothers and one father came to visit daughters in the United States and Canada, wives of World War II veterans, whom they had not seen for seven, eight or nine years. The Queen Elizabeth's special excursion will prove a popular means of travel for those war brides planning to go home. They will have the company of other war brides, enjoy the comfort and luxury of the biggest ship in the world, and special privileges for child care and amusement will make it a real holiday for all.

Women's Institutes Started in Malaya

London (CP) — Women's Institues have been introduced to Malaya by Miss Margaret Herbertson, an Englishwoman.

Now back in London, Miss Herbertson travelled 11,000 miles and started 70 village institutes. She also formed 37 territorial associations whose task is to set up institutes in urban areas.

One of her difficulties, in a country where members of the Malayan, Chinese and Indian races live side by side, was the matter of language, but she solved the problem by producing publications in English, Malay, Chinese and Tamil.

"If I had instructors", she said, "I could open 200 more institutes at once."

Her place in Malaya has been taken by Miss Viola Williams. She will give talks on farming, cookery, fruit preservation, poultry keeping, bacon curing and other rural jobs.

"Here", said Johnny to his father, "is my report card". " And here", he added triumphantly, "is an old one of yours I found in the attic."

Fashions

Even the prettiest of this year's bathing suits seem to be of the functional variety, yet becoming enough to be successful for beach fun or just lolling. This one is of striped cotton worked out in various color combinations. It is made up of three parts, a strapless bra, a fascia and romper shorts. The waistband may be removed to make an open midriff. The top also can be match mated with black shorts or a dark skirt.

Economy Meats for Iron and Body-Building

Liver, heart and kidney should often be included in the family meal, notes Miss Margaret Munro, Nutritionist with the Manitoba Bureau of Health and Welfare Education, Winnipeg. And for the twin reasons of health and economy.

"They are important sources of iron, which is important in building healthy, red blood", points out Miss Munro. "In addition, liver provides large quantities of vitamins A and C, and heart and kidney are rich in B vitamins, especially riboflavin."

Liver and onions, or liver and bacon are not the only ways of serving this important food, although too many homemakers seem to think this is the case. Liver can be brushed with melted butter and broiled (calves liver is best for this method). Beef and pork liver can be ground and used in liver patties or meat loaf. Ground cooked liver, mixed with mayonnaise, grated onions and a dash of lemon juice, makes a tasty sandwich spread. Liver is also delicious when baked in a tomato sauce.

Steak and kidney stew is not the only way to serve kidneys either. They can be cut into fairly small pieces, dipped in egg, rolled in bread crumbs and fried in melted fat. They can be used in meat pies, where they add greatly to the flavor. Like liver, kidneys can also be brushed with melted fat and broiled until tender. Broiled, sprinkled with lemon juice and served on buttered toast, they are delicious as a supper dish.

Ground heart makes nutritious meat patties. The heart is mixed with seasoning, milk, egg, bread crumbs and grated onion, formed into patties and fried in hot fat until brown. Heart is probably served most often stuffed. Chicken heart can be cut into half-inch into patties and friend in hot fat and then simmered in a small amount of water for 30 to 45 minutes.

"These meats are extremely nutritious, as well as economical", emphasizes Miss Munro. "If a little thought is given their preparation the whole family will be delighted. Once a week is not too often to include them in the menu."

The egg is really one of nature's delicacies for which there is no substitute. It comes to us in its own individual package. No bottle, can, nor wrapper is needed to improve or dress up a fine egg, and no factory process has tried to improve its flavor. The Poultry Products Institute of Canada points out it should be treated with care. Store it in a cool place to help retain its quality and cook at a low or moderate temperature to maintain its tenderness and fine flavor.

In most large Canadian cities all dressed poultry is now sold according to grade, but even where the sale of graded poultry is not compulsory you can usually buy it by grade.

Care With Campfires

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"This is where the Big Fire swept through last year!" the driver said. We were motoring in Northern Ontario and suddenly we passed from a wonderland of green into a strange country, barren of trees with great black trunks jutting against the sky. These formed a stark contrast to the green and the mauve Giant Willow Herb, or "Fire Weed".

No one knew who started that particular conflagration but it was suspected that a holidaying fisherman had built a fire and failed to choose his site with sufficient care. Possibly he went on before he had made certain that his fire was completely out.

Whatever the camper's mistake, the Big Fire had destroyed thousands of dollars worth of pulp wood and had wiped out a dozen homes. Only a miracle had saved the lives of one family. They had crouched in a small pond and almost smothered when the flames swept past.

* * *

School children are warned about the waste of forest fires: The movies and the press frequently stress it. But why is it that in a recent year Canada's total damage, from forest fires and fire fighting costs, was over six million dollars? Many fires were started by carelessness with camp fires.

The most effective way to teach boys and girls the right way to build and put out a camper's fire is to have them do it with competent adult supervision and cooperation. Youth groups often give this instruction. But who is better equipped to help a child to "learn by doing" than a parent? Here is one vital piece of training which fathers might well take over!

"A Camper's Fire" is a good topic for a family discussion, before setting out on a camping trip. In many areas a permit to build a fire must be obtained. The comments of the official responsible for this permission are often enlightening. They impress on a boy or girl that although cooking over a campfire is fun, and the warmth and light in the evening are enjoyable, fire can change from being a wonderful friend into a terrible foe.

A metal container for matches is essential, and a small piece of sandpaper can be glued inside the cover for striking ordinary matches. "Safety" matches in a booklet are also popular. But whatever kind is used, a camper must be sure that the match is completely out before throwing it away and it is a good idea to toss it into the fire. Take the extra precaution of breaking the match stick in two.

A campfire should be built whenever possible on sand or bare rock. It is very dangerous to kindle it on the forest's dead evergreen needles or leaf mould bed. When it must be built in the woods, the camper must prepare a suitable area by scraping away the needles, dead leaves and branches, right down to the underlying soil. The site of the fire should be beside a lake or stream.

A fire must never be built under a tree, near shrubs or against a fallen log. Overhanging branches may easily catch fire. There is always danger of the camper having a much larger blaze than he can control. It is only a greenhorn who kindles a bonfire!

Before striking a match, do collect all the necessary wood, build the fire on the site keeping the extra wood supplya short distance away. A platform of small hardwood sticks as a fire base is worth laying for a lasting fire. When lighting, cup the hands around the match and ignite the tinder on the windward side so that the breeze will work with and not against the flames.

Dry leaves, pine needles or grass or weeds make excellent tinder. Damp wood produces a smudge which mosquitoes detest but is no good for cooking. Small sticks of soft wood, frayed with a knife, catch easily. The pointed tepee shape is popular because it allows a draft to circulate. Often a log cabin of hardwood sticks is constructed around the tepee.

Take time to do a thorough job in putting out the fire. Scatter the embers with a green stick, turning them over in the process. Soak the area thoroughly with water, and add an extra pail for good measure. Poke the site again, just to make sure no live spark is lurking which might kindle another fire. If sand is nearby pour some sand on the site. Here is one task which certainly illustrates the old saying: "What's worth doing is worth doing well!"

Quebec Tours for Delegates to World Country Women's Conf.

Plans of the Quebec tours for delegates attending the Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World, in Toronto next month, have been completed. This has been announced by Mrs. G. D. Harvey, Stanbridge East, 1st vice-president of the Quebec Women's Institutes and a member of the National Sub-Committee on Tours. All tours are post-conference and Mrs. Harvey, who is in charge of arrangements for the two in this province, has, with Mrs. R. Thomson, of Abbotsford, another member of the Q.W.I. executive, worked out attractive schedules.

Both tours will leave from Montreal, Thursday, August 27, the date the delegates arrive from Toronto. Tour No. 1 will make the loop through the Eastern Townships, going to Granby and returning through the Chateauguay-Huntingdon district, a distance of 405 miles, reaching Montreal Saturday evening, August 30. Overnight stops will be made at Lennoxville and Howick. The other tour, through the Laurentians, will be 300 miles in length, with an overnight stop at Rawdon. On both tours points of interest along the route will be visited and meals and overnight hospitality furnished by Institute members.

A tour of the City of Montreal is planned for the entire group, Sunday, August 30. The delegates will then en train for Quebec City where they will be the guests of the Quebec Government the following day.

Daily Dusting

YEARS of medical research sponsored by the Ontario Mining Association may have found the answer to silicosis, the disease which attacks the lungs of miners exposed to silica dust. Curiously enough, the treatment consists of breathing very fine aluminum dust directly into the lungs; the aluminum renders the silica particles harmless. The treatment has been adopted in gold and other mining areas in Canada and throughout the world.

Aluminum, long used in hospital kitchens, today serves the medical profession in many ways —from aluminum foil for covering serious burns, to aluminum acetate for medical dressings, to aluminum blenders for the preparation of sterile biological products. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan)

Romance Inspired Famous Old Song

90-Year-Old Ballad Written For Bride by Ontario Man

Hamilton, Ont. (CP) — One of the most popular ballads of the last century is about a mill that once stood about 10 miles south of here and a girl who died before she was 20 years old.

The "creaking old mill" is referred to in the song "When You and I Were Young, Maggie", written by George Washington Johnson and presented to his 17-year-old bride on their wedding day.

Johnson, a native of nearby Binbrook, was a teacher who met Margaret Clark while she was a student at his school near the mill. He was 17. She was 12, daughter of a local farmer.

There walks across the Glanford township countryside inspired the song. The creek was Twenty-Mile Creek and the mill is believed to have ben ownd by a Stephen Fletcher.

But tragedy dogged the couple's footsteps. A few months after their marriage, Maggie died of typhus fever. The couple were in Cleveland at the time, where Johnson was working as a newspaper man for the Plain Dealer.

Johnson returned to Hamilton some years after her death and worked on the Hamilton Spectator. Later he attended the University of Toronto, taught at Hamilton and became principal of Central School.

He later taught at the University of Toronto and Cornell University, Maltimore. He died in California in 1941, at the age of 78.

Married twice after Maggie's death, his third wife died in 1941 at the age of 84. In her will was a bequest to the Hamilton Sanatorium, made at Johnson's request.

In 1937, the Native Sons of Canada erected a plaque to Johnson's memory at the western entrance to Hamilton.

Lord Dalhousie, a descendant of the 9th Earl of Dalhousie, accepted an invitation of the Town Coucil of Dalhousie, N.S., after whom it was named, to visit there this summer. . . "Three Rivers, Que., can justly claim to be the birthplace of heavy manufacturing in Canada", Vice-President Crombie, of Dominion Engineering Works Ltd., told the Rotary Club there. . . At Brampton, Ont., some 130 Latvians, fugitives from behind the Iron Curtain, held a special service in honor of Her Majesty's Coronation.

CROW CONTROL during the spring provides hunting thrills for this lad, as well as being a good protective measure for the more useful forms of wildlife. During the off-season, more and more experienced hunters, too, find that shooting gophers, groundhogs, magpies and other pests as well as the wily crow helps to keep their eye "sharp" for the fall hunting season. Meditation on Movies, Sophistication, And Simplicity of God's Tiny Creatures

"SUNNYACRES SKETCHES"
By Margaret Cook

Whoever wrote "Confusion worse confounded" must have had in mind something similar to life at Sunnyacres at present! It seems as if our waking hours are totally made up of searching for something vital, in the dozens of ingenious places in which we hid them last Autumn. Occasionally, the fog is pierced by the triumphant cry, "I've found it!" and someone gallops in waving the missing apatula or the colander or a half-dozen plates — well, no, we do not actually wave the plates. After a week of this, we are beginning to feel that renovating an old house is, as our American friends say, strictly for the birds. But then, we take a walk and inspect a new cottage being built at the lake and are informed that five thousand will buy it; this makes us very content, for a cottage is a cottage, is a cottage, as Gertrude Stein has so sapiently observed, and our is a house, is a house—and what a house! Probably the oldest and heaviest around here, confirms the contractor. We are reminded of the men who tore down the house of Mr. Blandings and got a hernia! Our workmen got nothing worse than a feeling of despair and a copy of a 75-year-old newspaper. They are sure it is still around, and it well may be, in the welter of rubbish which occupies a good part of our erstwhile pretty yard, but we have not yet seen it. Anyway, the house is certainly more than three-quarters of a century old and we like it that way. New houses, like babies, are attractive to look at but with very little character.

We now have one old house made snug and comfortable, one entirely new kitchen and bathroom of sorts, and a new-old porch, that is, the lumber is old but the shape and position new. Due to the medley of old and new wood, the outside has a queer, mottled look, but it will have to remain that way for another year, for there is enough to keep us busy inside all this summer. The walls of the new part must be painted, screens must be renewed, curtains need to be made. All of you who own a country place dear to your heart, will understand that the summer is all too short for what must be done.

With so much to do, we have not ventured abroad much. The beach is still golden and warm in the sun, but nothing would tempt the writer into those icy waves, beating up so cruelly. Betty reports that the bathing is Perfect, but that is an overworked word in the pre-adolescent world, and we interpret it as "moderately cold". But the canoe slips very pleasantly over the water, and the scent and sight of the pines and balsams are still something to lift the heart. At night, we fall asleep to the sound of the whippoorwill being plaintive a long way off, and occasionally a thrush calls out "Like ice-cubes in a glass", says Betty. then follows up with the question, "Do you think shrews are shrewd? Peter just caught one". Even the motorboats on the lake are muted by the distance into large bumblebees, quite bearable.

Culture has come to the district, in the shape of movies at each of the two nearest villages. We have not yet patronized either, but we mean to. The larger venture puts out a weekly program and the choices are rather better than many we suffer in the city. Children, we hear, are tolerated. . . We had quite an interesting discussion at the dinner-table of the local hotel the other day. Most people deplore the law which prohibits children from attending movies, but we feel it is a good law. Most of the pictures are of no value to the child mind; when a suitable one does come along, the paternal powers generally have a heart and it is advertised, "For the Whole Family". It seems fair enough — although we are advised that one can legally marry at 14, which does seem a little inconsistent. However, few of our friends or acquaintances go in for child-marriage, and we do like our children kept a little unsophisticated until they have reached years that compliment sophistication. It is pleasant to be able to be amused and surprised at 30 instead of so blasé that nothing disturbs or even interests. This intense desire to make our offspring taste all the pleasures before they are even adolescent, seems to the writer to be false psychology. Judgment does not always develop at the same pace as does the appetite for pleasures.

Another topic touched on at the noon meetings is that old cliché that Schooldays are the best days. This is surely the philosophy of the leaner and the misfit, or perhaps it is only idle repetition of a popular superstition. Dear Reader, as Jane Austen used to say, can you really believe that your school days were your happiest time? If so, you must have lived a very bleak life since. Most of the school children we know are consumed with anxieties about whether they will win a stripe in gymnasium; whether they will make the required percentage for promotion; whether little Mary will get invited to the dance by handsome Bill, or have to fall back on runty Jack; whether the teacher will be in a good mood and allow the Project to be handed in two days late. No, thank you, we'll take adult problems; after all, we have, or are supposed to have, an adult mind, with which to cope with them. Phooey to childhood!

Just after we wrote the above, we went to the kitchen to prepare a bit of supper and thus became a spectator of two dramas of nature. First, we saw Peter, the cat, obviously patting something in the grass, so Betty was sent out to investigate. She found Peter happily patting and licking three mice. That does not indicate that our cat is a super-cat but rather that our mice at Sunnyacres have that non-sophistication we so applauded in the paragraph above. We suspect that these mice walk up to a cat and ask to be tortured. These mice were destined to be saved from their folly, for Betty promptly whisked the two smaller ones away to her special lair she calls Camp No. 2, and then brought the largest in for us to admire. Master Mouse lay quite calm and comfortable in the warm hand; he was loath to leave the shelter even when offered his freedom. . . Then we had our supper in front of the kitchen windows looking up the hill to the row of maples against the sky. Bringing our gaze down for purposes of eating, we were amazed to see a young rabbit lope into the yard and begin to eat plantain and clover. We were clearly visible through the uncurtained window, but young Jack for 15 minutes amused us with his antics. He would come up under the window and look at us with a bright and enquiring eye, then food would occupy his attention for a few minutes; between times, he would leap to the gravel pile and rest, waving his ears back and forth. Finally, with two tremendous leaps, he gained the grove back of the house and doubtless is now regaling his brothers and sisters with the account of his adventures. We are told that there are many of these little creatures about; partridge, too, are plentiful. The man of the house saw six on the path to the well; and a mother partridge skilfully led Betty away from her nest last week. This is a good place to be. One realizes that man may be the Creator's supreme effort, but certainly not His only one. Man has the brains but other animals have more beauty. . . . Now we all rush to the mirror!

7,000 Visit New-Style Ontario Dairy Farm

—Central Press Canadian Photos

Mervyn Shantz, dairy farmer of Alma, Ont., was host to 7,000 other farmers who came to see his new style barn and dairy methods he has practised since his old barn burned to the ground last September. Instead of building the typical, tall, expensive structure other farmers have, Shantz spent $4,000 on a loafing stall, which is nothing more than a roof enclosed on three sides. He says he never had healthier cattle.

The Ontario department of agriculture staged the show at the Shantz farm to demonstrate to the visiting dairymen the progress made in dairy farming. The one vital link in milk production that can't be mechanized is shown by Marie Kozak of Alma

No Meter, No Tips On Calgary Taxi

A Calgary couple were standing shivering at an isolated suburban bus stop on a bitterly cold morning, reports the August Reader's Digest, as car after car passed them by. Then a battered old coupe stopped, the door opened and a cracked voice shouted, "Come on, get in!"

The couple gladly complied, and found that although the upholstery was ancient and torn, it was warm and snug inside the car. The elderly driver asked where they were bound, and upon being told that they were on their way to church he chuckled and said, "Thought so. This is a taxi, you know".

On catching the look of surprise on the faces of his passengers, he explained. "Yep — the Good Samaritan Taxi. Been operating in Calgary for 16 years, and never charged a cent."

Asked the reason for his kindly action, the old gentleman replied: "I get a kick out of watching people's faces. And it gives ME a lift, too!" And he drove on to church, two miles away.

The Digest story reports that inquiries into the ownership of the car produced the information that the driver was over 70, and that every Sunday for 16 years — in sun, rain or snow — he had driven his car to hospitals in Calgary suburbs to take home nurses and internes coming off duty, and then had patrolled isolated bus stops and picked up stranded people. Furthermore, says the Digest, the owner of the "Good Samaritan Taxi" had no pension, and worked for his living every day except Sunday!

SOLUTION TO CROSS-WORD PUZZLE (Page 7)

The dying man gasped pitifully. "Grant me one last request, Mary", he pleaded. "Of course", she said softly. "Six months after I die", he went on, "I want you to marry "Joe". She cried, "I thought you hated that man". "Exactly", he said, and passed away.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. Is it true that a woman who has drawn benefit for a year is entitled to make another claim, that is to borrow on her unemployment insurance, for one to six months?

A. If a benefit year is exhausted or terminated, a person may qualify for another benefit year provided that he has earned either 60 contributions in the 12 months preceding the second claim or since the commencement of the previous benefit year, whichever is shorter; or, in the alternative, 45 contributions in the six months immediately preceding the second benefit year or the commencement of that benefit year, if less than six months.

Q. Failing to qualify for benefit, I asked for and was granted an extension of the qualifying period because of illness. Subsequently, I was told that I did have the required 180 contributions but not the 60 or 45 and was therefore not entitled to benefit. If the extension does one thing why not the others?

A. The extension applies to all of the qualifying conditions, including the 60 or 45. If you were unable to qualify, it must have been that, even with the extension, you failed to have the 60 or 45 contributions in the extended period.

LOOK AHEAD

Every boy or girl who is nearing the time when the first phase of their education is nearing its end, should make plans as to what they intend to do in their after life. When taking a job, what the future of that job holds is the important part of it.

The House of Commons is the supreme power in the United Kingdom. It makes all the laws and supervises their enforcement. Because its acts are subject neither to executive veto nor court review it could declare war, tax to an unlimited degree, or even abolish the monarchy overnight — says the August Reader's Digest.

Two Years' Planning Behind Boy Scout Canadian Jamboree; Ottawa This Week

More than 2,000 Boy Scouts and Leaders from all Canadian Provinces, the United States, Mexico, Cuba, Chili and Grand Cayman, B.W.I., are assembled in Ottawa this week for the Second Canadian Jamboree at Connaught Camp, July 18 - 26.

As Chief Scout for Canada, His Excellency the Right Honorable Vincent Massey, C.H., formally opened the Jamboree at 11 a.m. on Monday.

Sir Ian Bolton, of West Plean, Stirling, Scotland, is representing Lord Rowallan, Chief Scout of the British Commonwealth, at the Jamboree. The Boy Scouts of Italy have their Assistant International Commissioner, G. Romagnoli of Rome, present to represent them.

Roderick A. MacGregor, of New Glasgow, Provincial Commissioner for Nova Scotia, is Camp Chief. Under his direction are four Sub-Camp Chiefs, each in charge of a camp named after places which have figured prominently in the life of Baden-Powell, founder of Scouting.

Sub-Camp names and their Chiefs are: "Ashanti", C.H.P. Killick, Winnipeg; "Matabele", Fred J. Finlay, Toronto; "Mafeking", Rees Hugh, Camrose, Alberta; and "Brownsea", Eli Boyaner, Saint John, N.B.

There will be suitable religious services for Scouts of all denominations at the Jamboree, which has a large staff of chaplains for the camp period.

Located 14 miles west of Ottawa, Cannaught Camp has been placed at the disposal of the Boy Scouts Association by the Department of National Defence. It is completely equipped with water and sewerage facilities and has its own fire department.

A 40-bed hospital on the camp grounds is staffed by active Army doctors and nurses. The Third Canadian Signals Regiment has installed and is operating a communications and loud-speaker system for the entire camp area.

Two years of careful planning by national, provincial and district Scout staffs have gone into the preparations for the Jamboree. Not the least of these preparations has been the planning of menus and providing the food for 60,000 meals. The Scouts cook their food over charcoal fires.

There will be music aplenty. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police Band played at the formal opening of the Jamboree. The Band of the Royal Canadian Air Force will play for the provincial displays during the week, and at the closing ceremony on Saturday, July 25, the Governor General's Foot Guards Band will be heard. Two Scout Bands, one from Toronto, the other from Montreal, are also attending.

Enthusiast Makes Radio-Controlled Model Aircraft

An enthusiast in model aircraft, J. A. W. Robertson, of St. Andrews East, has sent a picture of his "baby", a radio-controlled plane which can be controlled from the ground within a range of half a mile.

Mr. Robertson, who recently completed the construction of this model, gives the following particulars: It weighs only 35 ounces; the radio receiver in the model weighs only 1¾ ounces. The single radio tube used is of British manufacture, and was designed solely for this purpose. They have a life of only 8 to 10 hours. Small penlight and photoflash batteries provide the power for the radio. Control of flight is by rudder only; however, experienced flyers are capable of making the model perform any manoeuvre whatsoever. The transmitter shown at the right with its attached antenna has a power of 4 to 5 watts. This low power, however, is sufficient to keep the model under control within the range stated above. The flight is entirely controlled by pushing and releasing the push-button seen in the operator's hand.

Chances are 50-50, however, that is will not survive its first flight due to the sensitivity of the radio — "plus my inexperience", adds Mr. Robertson.

Bushfire Menaces Community of Grece's Point

A serious blaze occurred in the area bordering a section of Grece's Point Monday afternoon, approaching to within 500 feet of the village homes and buildings.

Almost the entire population of the little community—men, women and children — rallied around in the torrid heat to check the spread of the fire, which appeared within minutes of reaching the wood-frame residences. While the men cleared a ditch with axes and shovels, the womenfolk carried water from the neighboring wells. And when the Tessier well was drained dry, many carried water in buckets from the river, a distance of 400 feet.

The fire started around 2 p.m. and was not extinguished until 6 p.m. The Raymond barn was in most immediate danger, but was only slightly damaged. If this structure had ignited, the entire village would have been in imminent peril.

Dense smoke hovered over the surrounding district.

Break-In, Robbery At Legion Hall

The first local break-in for some time was discovered early Monday morning at the Legion Hall on Foundry Street, when approximately $100 in silver coin was reported missing.

Police Chief D. Villeneuve investigated immediately and found several clues which he believes will lead to arrest of the guilty person.

It is believed that a first attempt to enter the canteen was made during the time a religious service was being held in the hall; it seems however, that the door was broken after everyone else had left the building. Several bayonets taken from the walls of the hall were used to enter the canteen.

It is reported the intruder tried to leave the impression the building had been entered by a cellar window, but according to Police Chief Villeneuve, this was impossible and it was apparent the work on the window was done from the inside.

Steps were taken Monday morning to prevent the exchange of the money at any of the local banks, but as yet no such attempt has been made.

Lachute Census Lists 843 Tenants, 714 Proprietors

Population Increase 131 Since 1952 Civic Census

The 1953 census of Lachute Town has been completed, showing an increase of 131 population over last year's figures. There are 6,381 men, women and children living in Lachute at the present time.

Of the 2,312 children under 18 years of age, 1,191 are in school, 1,097 are not attending school, 14 are working and 10 are at home. There are only 61 out of 3,260 in the 17 to 60 age group attending school. There are 1,831 working people in this class. Among these are 779 engaged in industries, 398 in commercial establishments, and 654 in other trades.

There are 480 persons over 60 years of age, and 106 of these are at work.

In the town proper, there are 1,051 Catholic families and 409 Protestant, and two or three of other religious sects; languages and racial origins compare closely to these figures.

Two hundred men and four women have received military training.

There are 714 property owners and 843 tenants. The latter pay an average of $36.30 a month rent.

There are 1,321 telephones, 1,440 radios, 130 TV sets, and 1647 electric meters in the homes and establishments of this town, while 612 people own cars, 163 have trucks and 376 have reported bicycles — although the town office reports selling more licenses than this. Animals also entered into the picture, as 147 residents said they owned a dog, 30 had cows, and 12 had horses.

Three on Motorcycle Out of Control; Visitors in Crash, Treated for Injuries

Traffic Officers Called On Various Mishaps During Past Week

Route 29 near Grenville Bay was the scene of an accident Saturday at 3.30 p.m., when a solo motorcycle driven by Fernand Girard, Montreal, swerved to pass a parked car owned by Alphire Paquette, L'Orignal, and another car coming towards the cycle. Girard lost control of the motorcycle, on which he had two passengers, and slid 78 feet on the pavement, then 67 feet in the ditch, before striking a gate. The cycle was damaged to the extent of $25

Both passengers, Miss Germaine Houde, of Montreal, and Mrs. Camille Houde, of Lavaltrie, suffered lacerations to the arms and face, and the latter suffered a broken arm. Girard also sustained minor injuries. All three were treated by Dr. G. Bowes, Grenville.

Girard was charged with driving without a permit, and with having three on a motorcycle. Traffic Officer Howard Jones investigated. He was assisted by Officer Albert Legault.

Three persons from Riviere du Loup were treated at the Lachute Providence Hospital on Sunday for injuries suffered when their car was involved in an accident near Chatboro. The mishap occurred at 3.30 p.m.

Leo Ouellette, driver of the car coming towards Lachute on Route 8, attempted to pass a car travelling in the same direction, and collided with an auto proceeding west. His car skidded 140 feet on the slippery road and went into the ditch, hitting a fence and a pile of rocks.

Ouellette was accompanied by his wife, who was thrown from the car and suffered minor injuries; his daughter, Jeannine who had a broken wrist and cuts on both legs; and Mrs. G. C. Drolette, who was treated for a broken collarbone. The three victims were treated by Dr. Jacques Castagner, Brownsburg, before being conveyed to hospital in Lachute.

The other car in the accident was driven by Clarence Graham, of Cityview, Ont., who was accompanied by his wife and two children. Damage to this car was estimated at $300, while Ouellette's car was damaged to the extent of $900.

Ouellette was charged with passing a car when the road in front was not clear. Traffic Officer Howard Jones, assisted by Traffic Officer Albert Legault, investigated.

Damage of $1,400 resulted from an accident on Route 8, in Ayersville last Sunday at 12.15 a.m. The car, owned by Fernand Gagné and driven by Gaetan Bergeron, attempted to pass an auto owned and driven by Belmont Perriard. A collison resulted, and Perriard's car was thrown into the ditch. Bergeron then lost control of his car and also took the ditch. Both drivers suffered minor injuries.

Traffic Officer A. Legault was summoned to the scene.

Annual "Open" At Golf Club This Week-End

Top-Ranking Pros and Amateurs; Quebec Open Here Tomorrow, Friday

The 18-hole $1,000 Lachute Open golf tournament featuring many of Canada's top-ranking professionals and amateurs is slated to be held at the Lachute Golf and Country Club this Sunday. Another big event at the Club, on Friday, will be the Quebec Open, a 36-hole medal play.

The Lachute Open date was set for the same week-end as the Quebec Open so that players in the latter event would be able to benefit by their experience over the local layout, according to Jack Archer, club professional.

An impressive field of amateurs and professionals, including several Americans, will take part in these tournaments, as well as the Alpine Open being held Saturday at Ste. Marguerite Golf Club.

July Meetings Of Women's Inst. County Branches

Upper Lachute - East End W.I. branch discussed their picnic to be held in August, and heard reports of delegates to the convention at Macdonald College. A "white elephant" sale was held by this branch to augment funds.

Frontier members were given more information on the coming conference of the Associated Country Women of the World. Reports were given on the Leadership Training course and on the Provincial Convention at Macdonald College. Money made at an afternoon tea was donated by Mrs. Weir's group to the branch funds. A lovely gold-colored wool blanket was presented to a golden wedding "bride" for her anniversary, July 8.

Jerusalem - Bethany branch had 15 members present, answering the roll-call, "Where I would like to go to spend a vacation, and why". Mrs. Robt. Blakely favored with music and a number of favorite songs were enjoyed. (This meeting was held at Mrs. Blakely's summer home in Ogdensburg.)

Brownsburg had 27 members and two visitors present. Reports on the Q.W.I. convention were given by delegates, Mrs. Mason Crosby and Mrs. Howard Elliott. Plans were made for the members' annual picnic in August, to be held at Shawbridge Boys' Farm. The W.I. members canvassed for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. Plans were made for a luncheon to be served to the A.C.W.W. delegates on tour through the Laurentians, at the end of August. A regular overseas parcel was sent.

Pioneer branch meeting was attended by 18 members and six visitors. Plans were made for an outing in August, and for a lawn social in July. A report was given by Mrs. Jos. Bradley on the Macdonald College convention. Mrs. J. G. Lamontagne gave a talk and showed samples of work done by those attending short courses at Macdonald.

Arundel branch reports an attendance of 23 members. Mrs. J. D. Williams, convener of Publicity, had as guest speaker the Rev. Gordon Phillips, chaplain of Montreal prison, who spoke on his work. The president, Mrs. P. Staniforth, gave an account of her visit to the convention. A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. Leagh, of England, the recipient of a food parcel.

Lakefield had 11 members and 10 visitors present, answering the roll-call, "Name an amusing incident of your school days". Final arrangements were made for a "military whist" to be held July 22 and for a food sale July 25. A Stanley Brush demonstration, by Mrs. Dubeau, of Weir, was witnessed by the members. A report of the Provincial Convention was heard, and presentation was made to a couple celebrating their golden wedding.

PUBLIC SHOULD KNOW

Cornwall, Ont. (CP) — The importance of public relations in industry was stressed by A. G. Mackie of Toronto, personnel director with a brewing company. He said industry must tell what it is doing in terms of the public interest.

Law Has Teeth, Licenses Suspended

Highway speedsters convicted before Judge Eugene Lafontaine in Sessions of the Peace, have found lately that the law has teeth even more voracious than a cash fine or other painless penalty. A new policy adopted by the judge at St. Jerome in charges of traffic speeding, automatically deprives the offenders of their driving permits until issuance of new licenses in February 1954, if they are found guilty and convicted.

With the temperature in the 80s, Carodic Street folks in Strathroy, Ont., had the unusual sight of snow shovels being used to clear the street — of sand — and back into a sewer trench.

City Pays for Injury in Fall

Judgment was handed down recently by Justice Elie Salvas in Superior Court, Montreal, awarding damages of $564 to a Lachute lady, Mrs. David Girling, for injuries suffered in a fall.

The claimant sustained injuries to her right wrist when she tripped over a pipe projecting from a sidewalk on Sherbrooke Street West. The case was entered against the City of Montreal, being heard in Superior Court May 5 last. Judge Salvas rendered decision in her favor.

Fernand Legault, Q.C., of the local law firm of Legault & Legault, was counsel for the plaintiff.

Rotarians Visit Trout Hatchery At Dalesville, Enterprise Described

Report on Recreation Park And Preparations for Big Rodeo Show

Brownsburg — Prior to the regular meeting of the Rotary Club last Thursday, the members were shown through the trout fish hatchery at Dalesville. A very interesting hour was spent observing fish at various stages of development, and discussing with Angus Morris, owner and manager of the hatchery, the various problems which have arisen in starting up and operating his business.

The site for the hatchery was chosen because of natural springs in this area which supply fresh water needed in the operations. The spring water is at a nearly constant temperature winter and summer, and can be used for the growing of fish all year round.

A three-inch trout is the minimum size which Mr. Morris recommends for use in stocking lakes, and under ideal conditions they can be grown in about six months; unless a lake has been cleared of all other fish, the survival rate of trout smaller than the three-inch size is very low.

Feeding the trout is quite a problem, since they will not eat any type of meal fish-food. They are fed only fresh meat, mostly liver scraps which have been rejected for human consumption.

Following the regular luncheon meeting of the club, Mr. Morris spoke on his earlier interest in the fish hatchery business and of his experiences at the world's largest fish hatchery in Pennsylvania. Due to greater concentration of population in the United States, the natural increase has not kept up with the demand for lake fish. Since many lakes in Quebec are privately owned, he foresees the same situation developing in this province and therefore hopes for a good future for the fish hatchery business in this area.

Mr. Morris was introduced by Rotarian Larry Pressault. Rotarian Stan Harris thanked the speaker for the hospitality shown to members at the hatchery, and wished him every success in his new business.

Rotarian Phil Grant reported on the operation of the refreshment stand at the swimming pool. He expressed the opinion that it was a worthwhile addition to the facilities of the pool.

Lundy Pearson was introduced to the members by Rotarian Wes Freeland. Mr. Pearson, who is a qualified Red Cross swimming instructor, will be conducting classes at the pool on Monday and Wednesday evenings.

Rotarian Art Lapp reported that arrangements for the Rodeo in Lachute, July 24-25, were well in hand. A greater effort was urged upon all members to get out into the surrounding districts with plenty of books of tickets to increase the sales.

British Court Judge Frowns on Spiritualist, Address Morin Heights

A Canadian Press dispatch from Bristol, England, tells this story, dated July 2:

A Canadian spiritualist minister snapped a picture of a witness in a British assize court today and explained she was trying to capture spiritual emanations on film.

Mrs. Frances Cooper, of Morin Heights, Que., who identified herself as an ordained minister of the Nationalist Spiritualist Association of Canada, was immediately censured by Mr. Justice Bryne. He ruled that the picture she took must be destroyed.

The judge looked up and commented when the click of the camera was heard. Mrs. Cooper immediately stood up.

Explaining her action, she said, "When a person is under severe strain, we spiritualists know he or she is surrounded by an aura of ectoplasm (emanations from a medium's body), I was capturing this on film when the judge looked up."

Mobile Police Radio In Hawkesbury

At a council meeting in the neighboring town of Hawkesbury it was decided by the councillors to have a radio-telephone installed in the town police car. The installation is temporary, on trial for one month, before the council passes on permanent adoption of this equipment for its police force.

California Man, Related Here, Gets Top Geology Post

Dr. L. W. LeRoy, a native of Moorpark, has been appointed head of the department of geology at the Colorado School of Mines, Golden, Colo.

Dr. LeRoy is a member of the LeRoy family in St. Andrews East, where he lived as a child. (He is a nephew of the late Capt. Osmond E. LeRoy, who was killed in World War I, and also of Mr. Gilbert Hamilton, St. Andrews.) He has been a member of the Colorado school's faculty since 1942. He received his geological engineering degree there in 1933 and his doctorate in 1945. He has served as a consultant for several private petroleum companies and his work has taken him to Venezuela, Sumatra and Egypt. He is the author of two texts on geology and he has had about 30 papers published on this subject.

Scouts and Cubs Held Successful Camp Periods

The Laurentian District Campsite at Tamaracouta was occupied for the first time by Boy Scouts from Lachute and Rosemere, under the supervision of Capt. G. S. Edgell, the District Scoutmaster, assisted by Bernard Golphin, a Queen's Scout from Brownsburg, between June 27 and July 11.

During the week July 4 to 11, about 140 Wolf Cubs from the Laurentian District and Montreal were at Camp MacAuley at L'Orignal, Ont. This camp was under the capable direction of A. J. McGerrigle, Grenville. Paul Villard, Brownsburg, District Cubmaster, had the Herculean task of planning and organizing this first Cub camp of the Laurentian District. It was very successful — with swimming and other badges being passed.

Among the 15 leaders was Miss Ida Thompson and Mr. Chris Coleman, of Montreal and Rosemere, respectively, both Scouters with long experience. Billy Cribb was leader of the Brownsburg Cubs.

Bishop J. R. MacDonald of Antigonish, N.S., presided with other clergymen sanctifying a former C.N.R. locomotive bell installed on a church on the Micmac reservation.

EX-RED FROM QUEBEC TESTIFIES IN U.S

—Central Press Canadian

Pat Walsh, of Quebec City, Que., a former Communist international courier, appears to be hiding from camera while testifying before a house un-American activities subcommittee in Albany, N.Y., that the 1949 shipping strike in the U.S., was part of a global conspiracy hatched by the Communists to damage the Marshall Plan and the Western Defence Alliance. He added the fact that the strike was planned in the interest of the Soviet Union and that there were no trade union reasons for it. Walsh said that he himself was placed on a Canadian ship prior to the strike to contact dock workers in foreign ports to insure their support.

BEST OF BOTH

True, we do have two cultures in Canada, and two major religions, but in this we are fortunate. What other country in the world can boast of having so much of what is best of old France and old England? We also have a true Canadian culture to build and from the best of the French and English we will build it, if we are wise enough to forget our differences and become Canadians first.

Summer or Simmer?

WHO COINED those words about the "good old summer time"? In such sweltering periods as this, we think back refreshingly to the winter season — but we quickly recall its wheezes and sneezes, its blizzards and breezes; and we recall, too, how often in that frigid season we have advocated giving Canada back to the Indians!

The thermometer has been well up in the nineties during the past week. In the glare of the sun outside our office one afternoon, the mercury registered 117 degrees — only one degree from the topmost marking.

The best we can do is to grin and bear it without complaint — rejoicing in the growth of garden crops; in the fact that the heat has dispelled most of our black flies and mosquitoes; and in other compensations not hard to find. . . Also in the assurance that this heat wave will subside. We know — for whenever this column ventures some observation on the weather, it promptly changes before The Watchman is off press!

Common Sense Vacations

SUMMER vacation is a time to forget the day-to-day problems that beset us throughout the rest of the year. We forget our jobs, our financial worries, and we put on old clothes and forget about keeping up with the Joneses.

All too often we forget our common sense as well. It's a failing that makes summer anything but a vacation time for police and safety officials, and has its grim evidence in fatality statistics which invariably reach their peak with the coming of warm weather.

Some of the mishaps are unavoidable and the direct result of our highly mechanized and mobile society. All too many have their beginnings in the dangerously carefree state of mind which overtakes many otherwise cautious citizens as soon as they lock the door of their city homes, climb into the family car and head for two weeks of relaxation.

With some, it is an understandable temptation to get there in a hurry which leads to disaster. Speed, traffic officials report, is by far the greatest cause of highway crashes — greater than mechanical defects or unsafe roads. In the city of Toronto, despite the greatest traffic-control and driver-education campaign in its history, the number of traffic deaths is already well ahead of last year.

Drowning rates second only to traffic as the greatest vacation killer, and often the carelessness factor here is even greater. Non-swimmers venture far offshore in frail craft without life preservers. Frolicsome boaters endanger their own lives and those of their passengers with acrobatics on the water. Inexperienced oarsmen stand up to change places. Motorboat fans, anxious for thrills, drastically overpower skimpy and unstable flat-bottom skiffs with 15-horse-power outboards.

One of the blackest marks on Canada's summer drowning record, some officials feel, is the fact that many lives are lost through ignorance after the body of the victim has been recovered from the water. Dr. Gordon Bates, director of the Health League of Canada, said recently that cases continue to come to light where artificial respiration has been abandoned too soon. There is hope of reviving persons who have been in water as long as half an hour if artificial respiration is started immediately and carried on at least four hours or until rigor mortis sets in.

EDUCATION makes a people easy to lead, but difficult to drive; easy to govern, but impossible to enslave. — Lord Brougham

On the Election Front

WITHIN the next few days the political parties teeing off for the August 10 election are expected to ignore the fairway aspects, and concentrate on the rough. . . Meanwhile, what has happened to the Progressive Conservative organizers in this constituency is difficult to ascertain. So far no candidate has been advanced to officially carry the standard of the party.

Elsewhere, the political campaign to date has been largely a question of hurling accusations, both by the Liberals in power and their opponents. The public has heard criticism of the present government, voiced primarily by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, of waste in government administration. The prime minister, Mr. St. Laurent, has, in essence, turned around and said "you can't do it any cheaper". That's how the situation stands.

Now, Mr. Drew and Mr. Coldwell are expected to come up with specific charges on alleged government waste in administration. Mr. St. Laurent is, of course, expected to answer promptly.

Bearing on this situation is public taxation. Both Mr. Drew and Mr. Coldwell have said it can be drastically cut. The Liberal Prime Minister does not see how this can be accomplished.

Within the past week markets also came into the picture. Mr. Drew said that a Progressive Conservative government would act immediately to re-open British markets for Canada's basic producers.

He said also that it would give financial backing to hydro development "in every province where federal co-operation is required."

Mr. St. Laurent contended that if the Progressive Conservatives had their way, there would be a return to trade policies which had proved disastrous in the early 1930s. They would erect new trade barriers, giving "some sort of artificial stimulus" to uneconomic manufacturing. (On this score the Textile industry, closely concerning this community, is doubtless a sore-spot.) Mr. Drew said that his party two years ago had called upon the government to take steps to break the dollar-pound barrier, but he said the government had "sneered" at the suggestion. "I congratulate them" he said, "on the fact they have finally accepted reality."

Mr. Coldwell, speaking on the national health plan as advocated by the CCF, said it might cost as much as $600,000,000. He said that this amount, according to the Liberals, was too costly, but he termed it a "ridiculous" excuse.

— So the argument goes; but in Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes it seems we may be sitting on the sidelines, with no fight in the ring.

Tired Drivers Dangerous

A VERY GOOD suggestion to those who undertake long drives at the week-end, comes from J. P. Bickell, of the Ontario Department of Highways — says The Financial Post. Make a stop, every two hours or so, he says, and relax or change drivers. After extensive tests the U.S. army has now adopted such a practice as regular routine.

At this time of year, Mr. Bickell points out, many people are driving much longer distances than at other seasons and at higher speeds. A few miles back and forth to the office at 20 or 25 miles an hour is not to be compared in effort to a hundred or more miles at 50 or 60 to the cottage or summer hotel.

More Tourists

The annual invasion of lakes and seaboard for sun, fun and rest is in high gear from coast to coast to provide what is shaping up as the best year yet for Canada's tourist industry.

First indications are that there will be more U.S. visitors than ever before, says The Financial Post, but like the Canadians, individually, they'll be spending less per day, travelling further and doing more shopping around to stretch the vacation dollar.

As before, transportation for upwards of 80% of U.S. visitors and 60% of Canadians means the family auto, often crammed with children, pets and gear and sometimes hauling a trailer or small boat.

Appreciate Aid in Transportation to Scout and Cub Camps

TO THE EDITOR

Lachute, Que.
The Editor, July 21, 1953
Lachute Watchman

Dear Sir:

If you will allow me sufficient space in your valuable paper, I wish to publicly thank Mr. George Y. Deacon of Geo. Y. Deacon Regd., and Mr. Emile Lacasse of North River Motors Ltd., who respectively supplied free transportation for the 1st Lachute Troop Boy Scouts to and from Camp Tamaracouta, and the 1st Lachute Wolf Cub Pack to Camp McAuley, at L'Orignal, Ont., and return. Mr. (Bud) Willard Langille donated his services as chauffeur for the Cubs.

Scout and Cub Leaders must frequently seek assistance of this nature with their work, and it is most encouraging to receive this help willingly.

We also thank Mr. Robert Giles, Sr., of Giles Publishing House, and his staff, who are always keen to assist our efforts.

Your sincerely,

— B. A. Jenkins, Chairman,
Lachute Scout Group Committee

British Parliament Rules by Discussion

The essence of British government is not speechmaking but reasoned discussion in a conversational style, says Edwin Muller in the August Reader's Digest, in an article condensed from the Winnipeg Tribune. The old Chamber of the House of Commons, designed not for oratory but for quiet and thoughtful talk, was destroyed by a German bomb in May 1941. Fortunately it was empty at the time. Upon rebuilding, some Members proposed a large oval room, but Prime Minister Churchill insisted that the new Chamber be built on exactly the same plans as the old. The Prime Minister succeeded in persuading the Members that only a small oblong room would promote good discussion and the two-party system, "where Government and Opposition face each other."

House Members do not declaim, or raise their voices, or make gestures, says the Digest article. If an excited Member leaves off the conversational style and begins to declaim, he may be stopped by cries of "Speak up!" (which means "Speak down!"). Dull talk quickly empties the benches. One former member was known as the "Chambermaid", for when he rose to speak he emptied the Chamber.

The standard of excellence of House talk permits no mixed metaphors. Once a Member said: "Mr. Speaker, I smell a rat. But mark me, sir, I will nip him in the bud." Such oratory gets more cries of "Shame!" (the House expression of violent disapproval) than the proposal of a ridiculous bill.

Through all the interchange of talk, the Digest says, things get done. Government and Opposition reason, compromise, collectively think through their problems. Discussion begun in the Chamber is sometimes finished "behind the Speaker's chair", which is likely to mean the Smoking Room, where no non-Member is permitted.

In theory, every law must have the assent of the Queen and must pass the House of Lords. But for several generations the Monarch has never refused assent, and today the Lords have only the power of a minor delaying action. The House of Commons, with its good conversation, rules the realm.

MONTREAL — MAELSTROM AND MILLSTREAM

By GEOFF.

Phew! It's hot! ! Hot, as only Montreal can be, when old sol beats down upon this city's blackened streets and buildings. Shirts and suits cling to the body like glue. And the bright morning faces one sees en route to work in the tram-cars, take on the color of boiled lobster well before high noon.

Today is the sort of day one wishes it were possible to move, lock, stock and filing cases, to some wooded country dell. It's a day for lying on one's back by the old swimming hole, under a shady tree, gazing at the lazy clouds in the hazy blue. But it sure is no day for work!

As a kid, I used to beat the heat of summer very successfully. I settled myself, in nothing but a pair of shorts, in the comparative cool of the living room. Then I read stories of the Scott and Byrd expeditions to the South Pole. If I let my imagination wander far enough and well enough, I got a severe chill within an hour. The only drawback, of course, was that I eventually awoke to reality and the stifling heat.

I wonder how it would go over if I tried the same gag now in the office? Somehow, I don't think it would meet with general approval. And especially among the women! Seems they have it in for the men when it comes to hot weather. Apparently every telephone pole in the city and the country has a notice reminding them that it costs $40 for them to appear on the streets in shorts and halters. Tough lines!

I'm not surprised, really, that most municipalities ban females from appearing in shorts and halters, except at beaches. Few indeed are the girls that can appear beautiful in such attire. And they're limited to the one to twenty-one age group.

Guess, maybe, that a lot of women would fly back to long concealing dresses if they could just equip themselves with rear-view mirrors when they hop about in shorts and slacks. But, instead of mirrors, they get hold of a gal friend who tells them, quite seriously, mind you: "Oh, dahling, you look just peachy from the back!" Peachy? Oh, well, what's in a name anyway?

And while we're on the subject of beauty, I spotted a couple of teen-age girls striding along St. Catherine Street, yesterday. They were identical twins — up to a point. And as I watched them, I began to think that maybe the elderly maiden ladies have something in their well-worn battle-cry about the younger generation going to the dogs. There was one glaring difference between these two young sisters. And it was so glaring, it prompted the muse of poetry to break through again. Here is the result.

Saw two young girls in the street today,
Identical twins in every way,
The one was a beauty, sweet and quaint,
But the other was slathered with rouge and paint.

An unhappy thought has just struck me. When I talk like this, it's not the heat and it's not the humidity. I'm just getting old!

Value of A Smile — $20,000

A little boy had been struck by the broken end of a live wire which touched one side of his face, burning and paralyzing it. In court, the boy's lawyer asked the little fellow to turn toward the jury and smile.

He tried. One side of his face smiled, but the injured side just puckered up in a hideous and pitiful contortion. It took that jury just twenty minutes to give him a verdict for $20,000.

Twenty thousand dollars was thus legally certified as the value of a smile. There's a grand thought there. If a smile is worth $20,000 after you lose it, it must certainly be worth at least that much while you still have it.

Then every one of us has a twenty-thousand dollar asset that we haven't so considered. Question: Are we investing it as if it had that much value?

He's changing the nation's landscape

You may see the result of what he is doing in the city's changing skyline — or out where the corn grows tall . . . in the mushrooming suburbs — or in the new look of Main Street in a mellow old town.

Where many a vacant lot once stood, he helps fill it with a fine new school. Where you used to see a building that was an eyesore you may now see a new apartment house, store or post office that he played a role in providing.

Thanks in part to him, many houses rise here and there, or row on row, in community after community. New black ribbons of asphalt tie town to town. Somewhere, a new bridge is built.

New industrial plants, too, are sometimes the by-products of his helping hand. Perhaps one of them has provided you with a job.

Who is he?

He represents all the millions of life insurance policyholders in Canada. And it's money from their premiums, which life insurance companies invest for them, that makes possible such improvements as these throughout the nation.

So, if you are a life insurance policyholder building security for your family and yourself, you're also helping to build a better Canada!

Gatineau LINES

Watch Those Trees

Particularly after a heavy rain, when branches hang lower because of the weight of water on the leaves, watch those trees! You may avoid power troubles in the future.

Branches which hang close to power lines are a constant menace to electric service. In a storm they rub against the lines, causing short circuits; or pull down wires with them as they fall.

One way of reducing power failure is to make sure that no tree branches are threatening power lines.

Beet Harvester Designed For Canadian Farmers

London — At the request of the Canadian Sugar Beet Growers' Association, a British firm has designed a new type of windrowing sugar beet harvester, the first production model of which is on its way to Canada.

With the normal type of sugar beet harvester there is an elevator attachment which drops the topped beet into a following loading trailer. Using this method, it is necessary for an operator to be employed full-time driving the trailer. In place of the elevator the harvester designed for Canada has a windrowing conveyor which can windrow the beet from six rows into one line. The conveyor is so adjustable that it can windrow each of the six rows in succession. When this operation has been completed, an automatic loader is driven down the line and loads all six rows at one sweep. On a large farm where a number of harvesters are employed, the loading vehicle can thus operate at maximum capacity and deal with loads from two harvesters instead of one.

Shorthorn Breeders To Meet in August

Quebec Shorthorn Breeders will hold a Field Day and Picnic at Saraguay Farms near Cartierville on August 5, it was announced today by Prof. L. H. Hamilton, of the Animal Husbandry Department at Macdonald College.

A Shorthorn bull, which will be raffled, has been donated by the owner of Saraguay Farms, Mrs. W. C. Pitfield. Proceeds from the raffle will go to help 4-H Calf Club work. Prof. Hamilton outlined the program for the Day. Both milking and beef type shorthorns will be featured. Over 100 boys, members of 4-H Beef Clubs will compete in a special judging competition. Open judging competitions and demonstrations of type will also be featured.

Chairman for the show will be J. A. Ste. Marie, former superintendent of Lennoxville Experimental Farm. Speakers will include Prof. L. H. Hamilton from Macdonald College and Ab Stoltz, shorthorn fieldman.

How Much Do Tractors Compact Clay Soils ?

Ottawa — The intensive tillage required to produce row crops may result in a very poor physical condition on clay soils, especially if the soil is high in moisture at the time of tillage. If clay soils are worked when wet, they become compacted and the pore space available for air and water is reduced to a point where crops are unable to make economical growth. Legume and grass crops produce a stable soil structure which enables the soil to withstand more tillage operations before the physical condition again reaches a critical level.

Some effects of tractor compaction on a clay soil have been studied by E. F. Bolton on the Experimental Substantion, Woodslee. A standard farm tractor with a rear wheel weight of 2,000 pounds was used to compact a clay soil under different cropping systems. These cropping systems included an alfalfa sod, a bluegrass sod, and an area that had been cropped to corn for many years.

When the test was carried out during dry weather, there were no great differences in pore space and water percolation rates brought about by the weight of tractor. When the test was carried out under excessive moisture conditions, marked differences resulted. Compaction of wet soil reduced the air pore space by 20 per cent on bluegrass sod while compaction of wet corn soil reduced the air pore space by 31 per cent.

The effect of compaction treatment on water movement through these soils was even more impressive. Compaction of wet bluegrass sod reduced the volume of water moving through the surface six inches from 39.9 to 12.9 inches per hour while compaction of wet corn soil reduced the volume of water from 2.4 to 0.7 inches per hour. Measurements for alfalfa sod showed a great deal of variation as a result of root distribution but gave values almost in line with bluegrass sod. The results emphasize the importance of legumes and grasses in a row crop rotation to maintain the soil in a favorable physical condition for economical production. It also emphasizes the importance of keeping tractors and other heavy implements off clay soils when they are too wet.

RABIES PROTECTION

Calgary (CP) — Alberta doctors are taking no chances against rabies. They have advised a Pasteur inoculation to more than 50 persons bitten by animals which might be infected.

Manitoba and North Dakota 4-H Clubs join at Langdon, N.D., in a series of international events, believed the only one of their kind on the continent.

Control Apple Drop At Harvest Time

Ottawa — Over the years the apple industry of Canada has suffered losses amounting to thousands of dollars due to the dropping of apples just before and during harvest. These losses can be largely overcome by the use of chemicals. This is a relatively new orchard practice, but it should be incorporated into every orchard spray schedule report D. S. Blair and S. H. Nelson, Division of Horticulture, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Until recently the chemical sprays used to prevent harvest drop have, for the most part, contained naphthaleneacetic acid, the sodium salt of naphthaleneacetic acid and/or naphthaleneacetamide as the active ingredient. Now, two new chemicals with equally long names have been introduced; 2,4,5-trichlorophenoxyacetic acid (2,4,5-T.A.) and 2,4,5-trichlorophenoxypropionic acid (2,4,5-T.P.), which have a much longer period of effectiveness than the naphthaleneacetic acid compounds. These newer chemicals have been tested extensively at the Division of Horticulture, Ottawa; the Experimental Substation, Smithfield, Ontario, and the Experimental Substation, Ste. Clothilde, P.Q. It is recommended that 2,4,5-T.A. and 2,4,5-T.P. be applied at 20 p.p.m., (parts per million) ten to fifteen days before the harvesting commences.

When using these harvest sprays, care should be taken not to allow the fruit to remain on the tree beyond its normal picking date. Fruit that are permitted to become overmature on the tree have a shorter storage life.

FARM DISPLAY

Regina (CP) — A big moving van equipped with electric appliances to lessen work in farms and workshops is touring field days and Class B fairs in Saskatchewan. The van is sponsored by local agriculture representatives, the University of Saskatchewan and the Saskatchewan Power Corporation.

Vank. Hill Farmer Gets Head Caught in Baler

Robert Wilson, 28, of Vankleek Hill, was seriously injured last week by the hay baler which he was operating.

When the mishap occurred Mr. Wilson was checking his baler to see why it was not tying the bales, and caught his head in the machine.

Approximately a half hour later his hired man, Emerson Allen, noticed the machine had stopped and as he walked toward it he saw Wilson's arm waving to attract attention.

The two men managed to squeeze Wilson's head out of the machine, and he was taken to a Hawkesbury hospital. He suffered severe cuts, a broken bone and loss of blood.

HAPPENS EVERY SUMMER

Halifax (CP) — The third time wasn't lucky for Frankie Dunphy. Frankie had this year's bicycle two weeks before it was stolen while he was swimming. Last year's model had the same fate after four hours. His first bike, in 1951, was stolen too.

CROSS-CHANNEL POWER CABLE

London — Cable laying trials will shortly start for power cables in connection with the proposed cross-Channel interchange of electricity between France and the U.K. at peak periods which do not coincide. It is expected that final tests will be completed by the end of this year. The submarine cable will be capable of transferring a total of 100,000 k.w. at 132,000 volts.

Mosquito Model Aids in Malaria Fight

Model of a deadly mosquito is studied by Charles L. Garret-Jones, an entomologist of the World Health Organization, who is working with a Malaria Control Demonstration team in Lebanon. The British insect expert will help instruct Lebanese sanitary inspectors who study at the new Public Health Department of the University of Beirut. Mrs. Jones, who designed the model, looks on.

OBITUARY

Late Albt. Steere Was Old Resident Of Brownsburg

The Village of Brownsburg lost one of its well known citizens on July 16 with the death of Albert Steere. Mr. Steere was recovering satisfactorily from an operation in the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, when his condition suddenly became serious and he passed away in a few hours. His sudden passing was a great shock to his family and friends.

Mr. Steere was born in Pirbright, Surrey, England, on July 13, 1883. In 1911 he was married in Scotland to Annabella McLennan and shortly afterwards they came to Canada. Upon arrival, they came to Brownsburg, where they have resided since that time.

Mr. Steere, an armourer by trade, worked in the Dominion Cartridge Company and its successor, Canadian Industries Limited, for 38 years. In 1949 he retired and thereafter he entered wholeheartedly into his favorite hobby of gardening, specializing in flowers. He was a member of St. George's Anglican Church, where he held the position of warden for many years. Quiet by nature, but always ready to make new friends — industrious and dependable — he will be missed by a wide circle of friends.

Left to mourn his loss are his wife, two daughters (Ivy), Mrs. C. Wheeler, Brownsburg, (Dolly) Mrs. Walker, of Montreal, and one son, Frank, of Brownsburg; two grandchildren, Sandra Lee and Rosemary. He is also survived by two brothers, Harry, of Surrey, England, and Alfred, of London, England, and two sisters, Mrs. Collyer, of Aldershot, England, and Mrs. Hill, of Guelph, Ont.

The funeral service, conducted by the Rev. C. R. Lang, was held Sunday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. Wheeler. Burial was in the Lachute Protestant Cemetery. Pall-bearers were Messrs. Charles Low, Walter Dewar, Wyman Hazel, Stanley Murdoch, Alex McCullough and David Atkins.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

STEERE — Mrs. Albert Steere and family wish to thank their kind friends and neighbors for sympathy and assistance at the time of their recent bereavement.

IN MEMORIAM

BENNETT — In fond and loving memory of our dear son and brother, Borden (Black Watch R.H.R. of Canada), who gave his life in the Battle of Caen, France, July 25, 1944. — Ever remembered by Father, Mother and sisters.

Famed Peaks Become 'Queen Elizabeth Range'

—Central Press Canadian

Sixteen peaks which encircle Maligne lake — the most photographed body of water in North America — in Jasper National Park, Canadian Rockies, are now called the Queen Elizabeth ranges in honor of the Queen's coronation. The peaks in the ranges, all more than 10,000 feet high, will retain their individual names. Seven of these peaks with their icefields and glaciers, shown in this picture, are, left to right: Mount Sampson, Maligne Mountain, Mount Paul, Mount Warren, Mount Mary Vaux, Mount Carlton and Mount [illegible].

Halifax Gets Credit For Sturdy 'Bluenose'

Racing Captain Says Lunenburgers Shouldn't Get All Credit For Schooner

Lunenburg, N.S. (CP) — Capt. Angus Walters, the salty seafarer who sailed the schooner Bluenose to fame, says that Lunenburgers shouldn't get all the credit for the ship.

Actually, he says, a group of Halifax business men was responsible for having the Bluenose built in an effort to beat the best from Gloucester, Mass.

He said Senator W. H. Dennis, and the late Reg Corbett and Harry DeWolf, discussed the idea of a fisherman's race with some Lunenburg captains in 1920.

The race was arranged and the schooner Delawana won. Then the Americans were invited to compete and the Gloucester schooner Esperanto sailed off with the title.

The Halifax group, wanting to regain the honor, asked about building a better schooner and asked Capt. Angus if he would sail her. He agreed and so W. J. Roue was called upon to design the Bluenose, not only as a racing schooner but with all the advantages of a full-time work horse on the fishing banks.

She was built and sailed and from there on it is history. Winning time after time the famed schooner topped everything the Americans sent against her.

With her racing days over, the Bluenose went to work and earned her keep. Walters, at one time, put up $7,200 to keep her from the auction block.

"None of the other owners", says Walters, "offered any help at that time. Later on the vessel was offered to them but they would not purchase it from the Bluenose Schooner Co. Ltd., of which I was the majority owner and again I had to stake what I had to buy her. I was glad I did so because I think I saved her then."

When the Second World War began Walters tried to sell the Bluenose to the provincial government, but failed, so he sold her to owners in the West Indies. Stripped of her proud masts she sailed as a coastal trader until she foundered on a bed of rocks in southern waters.

SUMMER FAIRS

Edmonton (CP) — Twenty-seven fairs ranging from class A to C are being held in Alberta cities and towns between June 22 and August 22. The Class A fairs were at Calgary July 6-11 and at Edmonton July 13-18.

Blaze in Shed Last Evening

Fire caused considerable damage to a shed at the rear of the Goodyear Feed Store (formerly Menard's Bakery), Main Street, at 8.15 p.m. Wednesday. The store is operated by Emile Poirier, who resides in the same building.

The Lachute Fire Brigade was at the scene several minutes after the alarm sounded, and laid two hoses from a Main Street hydrant, quelling the blaze with little difficulty.

No immediate estimate of the loss is available but there was some smoke damage throughout the building. No feed or grain was stored in this section, which was being rebuilt.

THE WEEKLIES SAY

HOME OF ONE'S OWN

Although there is much talk about the sacrifice of other things to own cars and television sets, no one scorns a person who goes out on a limb to buy a home. There is great satisfaction in holding title to a piece of ground and feeling that one can call it his very own.

— Napenee (Ont.) Post-Express

No newspaper editor ever expects to run an independent, impartial newspaper and still please everyone. Any forthright stories will naturally be resented by those closely involved and an editor may often be a very unpopular person as he pursues his accepted calling.

— Scarboro (Ont.) Mail

Bottles thrown indiscriminately into fields by thoughtless persons are becoming a pest to Alberta farmers and are likely to prove more costly than the periodic outbreaks of weeds and wild oats.

Further Business In Arundel School Board

Arundel — An interesting and instructive School Board meeting was held in the school auditorium on Monday, July 20, attended by a large number of ratepayers. At the close of the meeting Mr. E. A. Bulley moved a vote of thanks, on behalf of the ratepayers, for the very capable manner in which the new School Board is handling its many difficult problems.

Following is a summary of the main resolutions adopted since last report:

WHEREAS the following resolution was passed at a special meeting of this School Board held on July 6, 1953:

"THAT the Secretary Treasurer is hereby directed to inform the Argenteuil and Two Mountains County Central School Board that pending the receipt of the recommendations of the special sub-committee of the Protestant Committee appointed to consider the situation in Argenteuil, Two Mountains, the Board of School Commissioners of Arundel consider that they cannot proceed with the request of the Central Board to finance the accumulated deficit of the Protestant School Municipality of Arundel."

AND WHEREAS at the regular meeting of the Argenteuil and Two Mountains County Central School Board held on July 13, 1953, and attended by T. D. H. Cox, the chairman of this Board, and by Mrs. T. C. Stewart, a commissioner, it was stated by the chairman of the Central Board that the aforementioned special sub-committee had completed its studies but had no specific recommendations to make at this time regarding finances.

AND WHEREAS at the aforementioned meeting of the Central Board the representatives of this Board were informed that the Quebec Municipal Commission would not grant permission to this Board to borrow funds until such time as this Board completes arrangements with the Central Board to finance the deficit accumulated and attributed to the Protestant School Municipality of Arundel as at June 30, 1953, as determined and certified by the auditors of the Central Board.

IT WAS RESOLVED —

(a) THAT the Protestant School Municipality of Arundel accept the accumulated deficit attributed to it in the estimated stated amount of $54,250.06, or such amount as may be finally determined and certified by the auditors of the Central Board as at June 30, 1953, less such amount, if any, that may be obtained from the Protestant Committee as a grant for capital expenditures in respect of the capital expenditures of $19,287.55 included in the above stated amount of deficit of $54,250.06.

(b) THAT the Protestant School Municipality of Arundel enter into such agreements with the Argenteuil and Two Mountains County Central School Board as may be necessary in the circumstances to evidence the acceptance of the accumulated deficit of this school municipality as determined in the manner stated in paragraph (a) of this resolution, provided that the rate of interest due and payable on any unpaid portion thereof does not exceed the rate of interest payable by the Central Board in respect to the financing of the consolidated deficit of the constituent school municipalities associated with the Central Board.

AFRICAN VIOLET SHOW GALT WOMAN'S PRIDE

Galt (CP) — Mrs. G. Witter, 75, has a streptocarpus and panamega but she feels just fine.

So would any African violet fan who owned these novelty "relatives" of the violet. Panamega is a type of creeper with an odd leaf and streptocarpus has a long-throated bloom that resembles the gloxinia flower but has leaves like the African violet.

Mrs. Witter has what is believed to be one of the largest collections of African violets in Canada. More than 600 of the plants crowd the wide window sills of the fine old stone house in which she and her husband live.

She thinks so much of her plants that when the sun is shining she puts protective paper on the windows. She admits watering the plants is quite a chore, but it doesn't have to be done often.

Every specimen in her big collection is labelled.

What Do Jehovah's Witnesses Believe?

The Issue of Supremacy

To guide and protect man, God provided a cherub, a guardian angel. This cherub became ambitious to be worshiped like Jehovah God and so turned traitor and caused man to disobey God. (Genesis 3: 1-6; Ezekiel 28: 13-19; Matthew 4:9). This immediately raised the question: Whose fault was it that man sinned? Had Jehovah God made man weak and yet required of him perfect obedience if he would live? So the Devil contended, boasting that he could turn all men away from God.

Jehovah's name and supremacy thus became involved. To prove His supremacy, to prove the Devil a liar, to prove that He could put men on earth that would remain faithful to him in spite of all that the Devil could do, Jehovah permitted the first human pair and the Devil to live. He knew that some of their offspring would remain faithful to him and thus witness to His supremacy. From Abel on Jehovah has had witnesses on earth. — Proverbs 27: 11; Hebrews 11.

Christ's Ransom Sacrifice

That His name might be vindicated, that His purpose regarding the earth might be realised, and that men who kept integrity might get life, Jehovah sent his Son into the world: "to give his soul a ransom in exchange for many," and to "bear witness to the truth". (Matthew 20: 28; John 17: 4; 18: 37). Conceived by a virgin, "the Word became flesh".

Since Pentecost God has been calling and preparing a "bride", a 'little flock', a body of 144,000 'purchased from the earth' to share heavenly life and rulership 'as kings with (Christ) for the thousand years'. These, Christ and his bride, constitute 'the kingdom of the heavens'. — Matthew 5: 10; Luke 12: 32; Acts 2; Revelation 14: 1-3; 20: 5; 6; 21: 9.

However, Jesus also died for his 'other sheep', of which there will be many. (Matthew 20: 28; John 10: 16). To such the call now goes forth: 'Seek righteousness, seek meekness: it may be ye will be hid in the day of Jehovah's anger', the day when 'all the earth shall be devoured with the fire of (God's) jealousy', known as 'Armageddon'. Not the literal earth, of course, for it 'abideth for ever'. Jesus said: 'My kingdom is no part of this world.'

Christ's Second Presence and the New World

The present generation is seeing the sign marking Christ's second presence: 'Nation will rise against nation . . there will be food shortages and earthquakes . . you will be hated by all nations . . And this good news of the kingdom will be preached in all the inhabited earth.' (Matthew 24). After destroying this old world like a potter's vessel, Christ will usher in the new world wherein 'righteousness is to dwell'. — Psalm 2: 9; II Peter 3:13.

Then no more war, fear or want. (Isaiah 65: 21; Micah 4: 3, 4). Even the dead will be remembered, for 'there is going to be a resurrection of both the righteous and the unrighteous'.

— This, in brief, is what Jehovah's Witnesses understand the Bible to teach and what they believe. (Scriptures quoted are from the "American Standard Version" or the 'New World Translation of the Christian Greek Scriptures').

LET GOD BE TRUE

'Let God be found true, though every man be found a liar'. (Romans 3: 4). So wrote the apostle Paul, and Jehovah's Witnesses today adhere strictly to that principle, even as evinced by the foregoing. For further proof see the Bible study aid 'Let God Be True'. Contains 320 pages, with scripture and subject indexes. Bound in beautiful green cover, gold-leaf stamped. Available on a contribution of 50 cents. Write to — The Watchtower, 40 Irwin Ave., Toronto, 5.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

At 100th Anniversary Of St. Sauveur Parish

The Rev. Capt. Horace G. Baugh was invited to represent the Protestant clergy of the district at the banquet held in St. Sauveur des Monts on Sunday, commemorating the 100th anniversary of the Parish of St. Sauveur. Many dignitaries, including representatives of the Federal and Provincial Governments, attended. The Rev. Mr. Baugh, speaking in English and French, pleaded for harmony between the two great races in the province, in order that full benefits of Quebec's exceptional prosperity may be enjoyed.

Conclusion of Successful Vacation Summer School At St. Simeon's Church

The annual Vacation Summer School held at St. Simeon's Anglican Church, Lachute, from July 6 to 17 for children four to 14 years of age, was successfully concluded by a special program on Friday night, enjoyed by both pupils and parents.

The attendance at the school was most encouraging and the enthusiasm of those attending was very marked.

The staff was composed of the Rev. C. R. Lang, Miss Gertrude McMahon, Mrs. Lorne Dawson, Mrs. Ronald Dawson, Miss Roslyn Brown and Miss Iris Lang. Appreciation of the children for this Vacation School was expressed in several instances by the remark, "I wish it would last longer!"

Induction of The Rev. G. W. Case At Three Rivers, Que.

The Rev. Guy W. Case, M.A., B.D., was formally inducted recently as minister of St. Andrew's United Church, Three Rivers — the ceremonies being conducted by the Rev. N. McMurray, chairman of the Montreal Presbytery. The Rev. Mr. Case went to the Three Rivers charge from Cushing.

The induction sermon was preached by the Rev. Ivor D. Williams, after which the Rev. Dr. R. deWitt Scott, secretary of the Presbytery, outlined the steps which had been taken since the charge of St. Andrew's had become vacant.

A large number attended the congregational service and the reception which followed in the church hall. Among these was the Rev. Robert Charlton, of Shawinigan Falls, who had acted as interim minister of St. Andrew's during the vacancy.

The Rev. Mr. Case preached his first sermon in Three Rivers two weeks ago to a large and appreciative audience.

Family Reunited After 14 Years

She had not seen her father, Dr. L. Von Kuttel, or her two sisters, Mrs. William G. Evans and Miss Helen Von Kuttel, since she left her home in search of an education.

In Budapest and Istanbul she learned mechanical dentistry, although she has never been employed in that work. More important in the ensuing years was her love of languages, which Mme Suire adopted as a hobby.

After a short while in Istanbul, the former Eva Von Kuttel "escaped" with others who believed they would find safety in the Far East. However, in the sequence of world events Istanbul remained comparatively untouched, while those who had fled to the east were caught in the throes of all-out war and occupation by Japanese troops. Mme Suire was not an exception.

In Shanghai the young Hungarian girl was placed in a concentration camp, where she remained for two and one-half years.

After her release, she worked for several months at the Red Cross headquarters in Shanghai, where her knowledge of languages proved valuable. She had learned English while in the concentration camp.

Then she went to Paris and became a beauty specialist for a French perfume company. Her job was to educate beauty specialists in all parts of Europe who handled her company's product.

In 1948 she married Roger Suire, art director for an international radio firm.

She and her husband plan to return to their Paris home in about two months.

A doctor was called in to see a very testy aristocrat. "Well, sir, what's the matter?" the doctor asked cheerfully.

"That, sir", snapped the patient, "is for you to find out."

"I see", said the doctor thoughtfully. "Well, if you'll excuse me for an hour or so I'll go along and fetch a friend of mine — a veterinarian. He's the only chap I know who can make a diagnosis without asking questions."

Father: "Doctor, my son has cholera, and the worst of it is that he admits he caught it from kissing our maid."

Doctor: "Well, well. Young people certainly do thoughtless things these days, don't they?"

Doctor: "Oh, I see."

Father: "And what's more, I've kissed my wife too."

Doctor: "What! Say, this is bad! Now we'll all have it."

Nuptial Ceremony At Arundel Church

Rathwell - Douglas

The marriage of Mary Heather, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Douglas, of St. Lambert, to Mr. Ivan Morrison Rathwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rathwell, of Arundel, took place on July 11, at 7.30 o'clock in Grace Church, Arundel, the Rev. Paul Busing officiating. Mrs. W. L. Morrison played the wedding music and Mrs. Kenneth Hall, aunt of the bride, sang. Pink and white gladioli and baskets of delphinium with white snapdragons decorated the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. James McMahon, of Lachute, as matron of honor. Mr. Keith Rathwell acted as best man for his brother and the ushers were Mr. Owen Rathwell and Mr. Rathwell-Morrison.

The bride wore a ballerina length strapless gown of white French rose point lace and nylon tulle, with a tulle and lace bolero. Her elbow-length circular veil was held in place by a headdress of tulle and orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of red roses and stephanotis. She wore a pearl necklace, the gift of the bridegroom, as her only jewelry.

The matron of honor, in a ballerina length strapless frock of yellow rose point lace and tulle, with a matching stole, wore a yellow headdrees and carried a bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Douglas, the bride's mother, wore a grey and white frock with white accessories and a corsage bouquet of Talisman roses. Mrs. Rathwell, the bridegroom's mother, wore a navy frock with white accessories and a corsage bouquet of pink sweetheart roses.

Following the reception which was held in the school auditorium, the couple left on their wedding trip, the bride wearing a yellow sharkskin suit with navy accessories. On their return the couple will reside in Arundel.

The bride is a graduate of Macdonald College School for Teachers, class of '50.

NEW PRESS MAKES BOARD FROM SCRAP

London — A revolutionary new press, capable of turning out high quality board from waste wood in any length and various thicknesses, has just been demonstrated in London. "It is estimated the invention will result in an annual saving to Britain of around $1.4 million in timber purchases. Output of each press is 16,000 tons — between 25 and 35 million square feet a year, depending on thickness. The Bartrev Press, as it is called, can turn green wood chips into seasoned stable board in a matter of 20 minutes. This board, it is claimed, is lightweight and strong, suitable for use as partitions, linings, ceiling boards, flush and panelled doors, flooring, built-in fittings, bulkheads and a number of other items.

Pretty Wedding in Montreal Church

Thompson - Fenner

The Church of the Ascension, Park Avenue, Montreal, was decorated with white gladioli for the wedding at 5 o'clock on Saturday afternoon of Miss Dorothy Joyce Fenner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Fenner, and Mr. Garfield Lester Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Albert Thompson, of Lachute. The Rev. Gordon R. Addie officiated.

Miss Pat Protonotarios was the maid of honor, and Mr. Richard Stuart Thompson acted as best man for Mr. Thompson. Ushering were Mr. Ian MacDougall and Mr. James Welden.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white nylon net and Chantilly lace over taffeta, made with Peter Pan collar and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion fell from a coronet of white orange blossoms that had been worn by her mother twenty-five years ago, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

The maid of honor's ballet-length frock of white and pink pure silk had a low round neckline, cape sleeves and full skirt. She wore rose pink accessories, with a coronet of rose buds and pink tulle in her hair, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink carnations.

Mrs. Fenner, mother of the bride, was gowned in dusty pink Chantilly lace over crepe with white accessories and shoulder spray of white carnations. Mrs. Thompson, mother of the bridegroom, wore blue nylon over crepe with white accessories and a cluster of pink carnations pinned to her shoulder.

After a reception the bridal couple left on a wedding trip to the United States and the Laurentians, the bride travelling in a white and brown nylon seersucker dress with white accessories and shoulder bouquet of Talisman roses. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will make their home in Montreal.

Pro Jack Archer Scores His Fifth Hole-in-One

A record field of over 68 golfers teed off Sunday in the Mixed Two-Ball tournament at the Lachute Golf and Country Club.

First prize-winers with a sparkling 60½ net were Mrs. Philippe Valois and A. Laplante, and playing in the same foursome with 65½ net were second prize-winners Mrs. Howard Watson and George Leggett, Sr. Third place was won by Mrs. R. M. Cairns and George Leggett, Jr.

Prizes were also presented to winners of preceding tournaments as follows: —

Low net in the Qualifying Round of the Club Handicap Trophy — Mrs. George Leggett, Sr.

President's vs Vice President's prize — Vice-President's team won, with Stewart Gordon 1st low net and Ted Pirie second.

Husband - Wife Tournament — Mr. and Mrs. L. Ayers, 1st Low net, Mr. and Mrs. J. Huggins, 2nd low net; Mr. and Mrs. George Leggett, 3rd low net.

Mr. Ian Gordon, captain of the Men's Committee, then called on Richard "B" Stevens to accept his trophy for the first Hole-in-One of the season, and asked him to present President Gilbert Ayers with the "Beat Boros" medal won recently with a 76 gross. Mr. Ayers was also cheered for winning low amateur place in the Pro-Director tournament at the Seigniory Club last week.

* * *

In the Ladies' Sweepstake tournament last Wednesday, Mrs. Joe Martin led the field; tying for second place were Mrs. William Wrap and Mrs. Jack Archer. Winner of the Business Girls' 9-hole Sweepstake was Miss Bernice Ogilvie, with 46 gross.

* * *

The Business Girls have taken the lead in the Drew Trophy tournament, Miss Bernice Ogilvie winning her match with Mrs. Jack Reade and Miss Cecile Ethier winning against Mrs. Philippe Valois. Miss Ogilvie and Miss Ethier now meet in the finals.

* * *

Congratulations to Miss Marthe Lafortune on her sizzling round Saturday when she broke 100 with a 94 and reduced her handicap from 31 to 26. Congratulations also to Mrs. Peter Lurie on her win at Beaconsfield C.L.G.U. tournament Friday, with a 95 gross.

* * *

The second Hole-in-One of the season was sunk Monday by Jack Archer on the 9th playing with Jules Huot and Jack Kay, and bringing Jack's total to five Holes-in-One. Jack Kay shot a sensational 66 to tie the course record already held by Rudolph Huot, of Royal Quebec, and Stan Kolar, of Ottawa.

Members are looking forward to the Inter-Club matches August 8, when Ilsesmere comes to Lachute, and on August 22, when Lachute goes to Islesmere — also to the Provincial Two-Ball on July 31 at Laval.

* * *

With all the tourney winners, holes-in-one and low scorers, it took Mrs. J. E. Leonard to play the most spectacular shot of the season last week on the tricky 13th hole. Everyone has heard of men accusing their wives of going through their pockets, but Mrs. Leonard, starting her first season as a golfer, played directly into her husband's pocket!

To discourage her ball from going into the water, Mr. Leonard (gallant man that he is) offered to stand on the water's edge and deflect the ball. Mrs. Leonard swung through; her husband jumped and the ball disappeared — there was no splash and no ball in evidence. Then the old Rabbit trick — Mr. Leonard put his hand into his pocket and pulled out the ball!

Notable Stars in Tennis Firmament

SPORTS CAMERA
By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

When Bill Tilden died last month in California many observers stepped up to acclaim him as the greatest tennis player of all time. The opinion was unanimous in North America except for a few fans of Don Budge, American star of a decade or so ago.

They figured Budge rated that distinction.

Ellsworth Vines, in his time one of the court's great perfectionists, thinks there shouldn't be any argument at all. His choice, by a wide margin: Tilden.

"Budge never saw the day when he could beat Tilden at his best", Vines said recently in Toronto where he competed in the Canadian Open golf championship.

"Sure, he beat Tilden. So did I. But Tilden was giving us 19 years in age at the time. And we were going five sets in order to beat him."

For the record, Vines played Tilren 125 matches in their professional tour and Vines won at least 100 of them. But Vines, a real admirer of Big Bill, maintained the results had no particular significance.

"I was 23 at the time, Tilden was 42. I beat Hilden simply by running him ragged."

Couldn't Keep Up

In the first 20 matches of the tour, Tilden won nine. After that he couldn't keep up. He was starting to tire and youth was in Vines' favor.

Ten years later Tilden was still playing stars like Budge, Fred Perry and Bobby Riggs. And making a pretty fair showing.

Vines was looking ahead during the latter stages of his pro tennis travels. Wanting something to do when he quit the court, he took three golf lessons a week for six months.

An apt pupil, Vines turned out to be a better-than-average golfer and set out on his second career as a professional. He is the pro at a California club and competes in a few tournaments.

He figures professional golf is tougher than pro tennis.

"For one thing there are more good players in golf than there are in tennis. There's a golf tournament every week. You don't have that in pro tennis."

He named the late Jack Wright as the best Canadian he ever saw in tennis. "He could have been among the top 10 in any U.S. rating during his time", Vines said. "He had a good serve."

That was high praise, coming from Vines whose service was rated the best in the modern game.

Lachute TIGERS

By J. C. PETITCLERC

Games Played

Last Sunday afternoon at Ste. Therese, Lachute won 2 to 1.

Winning pitcher, Hoffman, who kept Ste. Therese hitless until the 8th inning. In the 8th and 9th he allowed 4 hits. He helped in winning the game by hitting a 4-bagger. Kimball also did the same, a nice homer.

In the evening our visitors were the Castors from Joliette —

Lachute	0	3	1	1	1	0	02x	8

Winning pitcher, Claude Bourbeau.

Homers — Joliette, Fitzgerald.

Homers — Lachute, Paulus (2), Ricciani, Cotnoir, Claude Groulx.

Next Games

Thurs., July 23, 8 p.m. — at Lachute; Joliette.
Sat., July 25, 8 p.m. — at Valleyfield (bus leaves 5 p.m.).
Sun., July 26, 2 p.m. — at Lachute; St. Eustache.
Mon., July 27, 8 p.m. — at Ste. Therese; All-Star games, Americans vs Canadians.
Tues., July 28, 8 p.m. — at Lachute; Valleyfield.
Wed., July 29, 8 p.m. — at Valleyfield (bus leaves 5 p.m.).
Thurs., July 30, 8 p.m. — at Joliette (bus leaves 5 p.m.).

New Players

Ted Vachon, business manager, stated at the Sunday night game that a new pitcher from Florida International League should report soon to Gerry Cotnoir. . . Sulkowski, the Tigers fans welcome you.

Tigers

Well, the Tigers have been going places in the last 12 games, they won 10, losing only 2; a nice average. Let's hope that now they will keep it up until the end of the season, August 30.

Claude Bourbeau has won 12 games out of 13 starts. Keep it up Claude. All Lachute is cheering for you.

Hoffman certainly knows when to hit homers. Not only winning his games in pitching vs Ste. Therese, but twice his home-runs clinched victory for the Tigers.

Paulus, first baseman, went wild Sunday night, hitting the ball over the fence, the first one in the 3rd, the second in the 5th.

Gerry Cotnoir, besides being a very good coach and catcher, seems to be able to hit them over the fence. Gerry certainly deserves a lot of credit for the way the Tigers are now going.

Incidentally, Lachute Tigers are the only club to beat Lachine 6 out of 10 games this season.

Attendance

We appreciate the good attendance of fans at the Stadium, but there are still a few places to fill. We are witnessing some superfine baseball these days; and since the crowd is cheering good and loud, the Tigers are wining. . . However, for outside games, (Rex Café) Gagnon and myself seem to be the only ones cheering for Lachute. Let's hope we two will get more help from Tigers fans in the future.

Average
(As at Saturday, July 18)

Lachine	33	18	647
Ste. Therese	25	22	532	6
St. Eustache	23	21	523	6½
Valleyfield	23	24	489	8
Lachute	23	24	489	8
Joliette	20	26	435	10½
St. Jerome	15	28	346	14

New President

René Laurin, who for the past three years had been the official scorer for the Tigers, was asked to replace his late father as president of "L'Association de la Jeunesse Sportive de Lachute". Not a surprise, for anyone, I am sure. But all baseball fans should be pleased to hear of this appointment. René has done a lot for baseball these past years, under guidance of late Lionel, his father, whose contribution to sport in Lachute and vicinity is immeasurable.

René came to Lachute at the tender age of 12, studied at L'Ecole Superieur, worked for Paul Lahaie (who then had the Dow agency) and afterwards for his father, who took over this business from Mr. Lahaie. . . To René we wish the best of luck.

All-Star Game

Next Monday night at Ste. Therese, in the Laurentide League All-Star game, the American team will be managed by Pappy Smith from Valleyfield, with Jack Halpin (Joliette) on the ptiching staff and R. Lapointe (St. Jerome) at 3rd base.

Paul Martin (Ste. Therese will coach the Canadian team. Gerry Cotnoir (Lachute coach) will be behind home plate. I am sure that two or more Tigers will be chosen to play in the All-Star game — so plan to come to Ste. Therese; it's not very far.

League Wants to Enter Organized Baseball

On the recommendation of Harry Simmons, Dr. Alfred Cherrier, president of the league, will make an official demand to Geo. Trautman, commissary of professional baseball, to be qualified into Class "C" baseball.

Guy Moreau, general manager of Montreal Royals, stated at the same time that he would support the League's demand and would really be pleased to see a series at the end of next season betwen th Provincial League and the Laurentide League for the Province of Quebec Championship.

Gagnon's Club

René Gagnon (Rex Café) is organizing a cheering section for the Tigers. At Sunday's game he had a drawing of many gifts given by sport fans for his club, and as usual Mr. Gagnon seemed to be on the good side. Anyone wanting to join Gagnon's cheering section, phone or see him soon.

Weekly Games Schedule

Thursday, July 23 — Royals vs Lions, St. Andrews vs Lowe Bros.
Sunday, July 26 — Lowe Bros. vs St. Andrews, Lions vs Royals
Tuesday, July 28 — St. Andrews vs Royals, Lowe Bros. vs Lions
Thursday, July 30 — Lions vs St. Andrews, Lowe Bros. vs Royals

The fight for the Argenteuil Softball League championship has been so far something like a duel between Lowe Bros. and the Lachute Lions, but as the season progresses it seems as if St. Andrews is thinking of making a fight to the finish against the Lachute teams. They have won two games in the past week, and they look good for more successes. Lachute Royals have won only 4 of their 19 games so far, but they have been unlucky, having lost several games by only one or two points. Nevertheless, they are resolved to fight till the end. With the return of a few players now on vacation, they bid fair to win a few games.

Radio News Coverage Extended to Far North

Montreal — Radio listeners in six isolated communities of the Canadian north are now able to hear regularly the CBC National News and News Roundup programs of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Beginning July 19, the National News Bullet and National News Roundup is being relayed by the shortwave facilities of the CBC International Service into northern areas which are beyond the range of national network stations.

These relay broadcasts will service mainly Churchill, Man., Yellowknife and Hay River, N.W.T., and Aklavik and Dawson, Y.T. The International Service will record the news and News Roundup as they are broadcast over the national network. The recording is then beamed to the northwest territories by the two 50,000-watt shortwave transmitters in Sackville, N. B.

This service will be daily. In addition, the previous evening's program will be transmitted again at 7.20 a.m. EST. The morning repeat transmission is intended to overcome occasional poor reception conditions interfering with the original broadcast.

Local radio stations in the north will in turn record the CBC transmissions and re-broadcast them over their own wave-length for listeners who do not hear them directly by shortwave.

Lou Snider, jazz pianist, arranger, accompanist, celebrates his 25th year in Canadian show business this summer. Recognized as one of the best in his field, Snider has little trouble keeping busy. He conducts a 24-piece orchestra on "Serenade for Sunday", heard on the Dominion network, sharing the spotlight with pretty Peggy Brooks and baritone Charles Jordan. Playing organ accompaniment, he is also heard on several regular shows each week, his famed trio has been heard for many years on the networks. When he is not in the CBC studios it is ten-to-one he is pursuing his favorite pastime — golfing.

Star Performers in Rodeo Round-Up This Friday-Saturday

A press release gives the following sketches on several main performers of the Cherokee Ranch Rodeo, being presented under auspices of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club at the Exhibition Grounds here this Friday and Saturday:

John Baldwin is an old-timer from Claremont, Oklahoma, who has spent all his life either on the range or with rodeos. He is a former world's champion of four rodeo events—trick riding, Roman riding, relay and pony express. In 1910 at Cheyenne, Wyoming, he performed before Teddy Roosevelt and three years later played a command performance before the Prince of Wales at Calgary. In 1915 he played 23 weeks on the Keith Circuit with Will Rogers, riding a bucking horse on the stage.

Dale "Buddie" Baldwin, 24, son of John Baldwin, has been trick-riding with his dad's show since he was four years old. He is a master of every style of riding, having won a wall full of horse-show ribbons in hunter, jumper, five-gait and three-gait events, as well as being one of the outstanding acrobatic riders of all time. Fittingly enough, not long ago he had an equestrian wedding — Buddie, his bride, the parson and all the wedding party were on horseback. Winnie, the bride, had never been on a horse prior to her marriage but in three months she mastered the first feats of trick riding and has been a full-fledged member of the outfit ever since.

Opal Ashby, outstanding high-school equestrienne, spent two years training her dancing horse, "Smoky".

George and Harry King, are two brothers among the top half-dozen fancy ropers in the world. They originated the "double Texas skip", which is a part of their act.

Red Pilz, a famous rodeo clown, appears with the "bucking Ford". He is known to TV audiences for his comedy with the educated mule, "Maud".

Hub Hubbell, well known rodeo announcer from Ocala, Florida, will emcee the show.

The regular rodeo stock includes 10 Brahma bulls, 20 broncs, 25 saddle horses, 6 Brahma calves and 6 dogging steers with other animals added for special acts. This show plays outstanding fairs, Shrine and service club dates, parks and celebrations in the Eastern States and Canada.

Welfare "Red Feather" Catches Two Fish At Bevan Lake, Weir

Latest in fish stories. . . A Montreal lawyer, closely interested in social welfare work, is prepared to swear that he recently caught two bass (each weighing two pounds) with the aid of the symbol used by Welfare Federation of Montreal in its annual campaigns to finance its 26 agencies — the Red Feather.

The lawyer says here's how and where: He had been using various renowned flies without success in the waters of Bevan Lake, near Weir, in the Laurentians. A brainwave led him to remove the lapel pin he was wearing to boost Red Feather's health and welfare services. The pin is a vivid red, in plastic. He took out the pin proper and linked up the colorful inch-long feather symbol with a Mickey-Finn fly.

"Whereas the fish had scorned the flies but grabbed lustily at the fly-feather combination, it is clear that Red Feather does good work in peaceful lakes as well as in crowded cities", declared the lawyer.

THEY TELL TIME, INSTEAD OF "PEEP"

Ottawa (CP) — Time signals from the Dominion Observatory, which now operates 24 hours daily through short-wave on a system of "peeps", will be replaced by a voice which will tell the hour and minute each minute.

The Mines and Technical Surveys Department which operates the present "peep" system so surveyors, navigators on ship and plane, other technical personnel and persons in remote areas can check the time, said the new method would be an automatic voice on film.

Purchase of the new equipment is being negotiated with a firm in France. Similar equipment is used in the United States.

ROCKIES PEAKS NAMED QUEEN ELIZABETH RANGES

Ottawa — The mountains surrounding Maligne Lake in the Canadian Rockies have been re-named the "Queen Elizabeth Ranges" to commemorate the Coronation, the government announced recently.

Hon. Robert Winters, Resources Minister, said that Queen Elizabeth had approved a proposal that mountains in Jasper National Park which practically encircle beautiful Maligne Lake, one of the most photographed bodies of water in the Rockies, be named the "Queen Elizabeth Ranges".

Salad Days

Nutritionists say a balanced diet requires 537 pounds of fresh fruits and vegetables a year. Statistics say the average Canadian eats only 376 pounds annually.

Nevertheless, the per capita consuption of fresh produce in Canada is improving gradually, though it still lags far behind the U.S. level. Whether Canadians will ever match the Americans is questionable because of our longer winters.

One of the reasons for the improvement is revolutionary changes in marketing and merchandising fresh fruits and vegetables. Improved refrigeration and new and better ways of packaging food have changed buying habits in retail outlets across the country.

The first requisite in prepackaging produce is top quality. Fruits and vegetables wrapped in such visible materials as polythene and "Cellophane" cellulose film must look better and therefore usually taste better and last longer.

These packaging films are not merely carrying bags. They have been carefully engineered to cut down waste and shrinkage. It is well known among shippers, for instance, that prepackaging fruits reduces bruise damage.

Because of size, shape, degree of hardness and perishability, each fruit and vegetable presents a special packaging problem. Some 24 different varieties of "Cellophane" in three different weights and four colors have been developed to meet as many different packaging requirements. There are films to keep moisture in or out, films which are grease-proof, films that can be heat-sealed to form a completely air-tight, dust-proof package.

Because all fruits and vegetables breathe in oxygen, give off carbon dioxide and water after harvesting, it is necessary to package them in materials that allow this respiration to continue but prevent dehydration. A special "Cellophane" that doesn't fog, allows the fruit to breathe and reduces deterioration was developed recently for fruit basket covers.

Lettuce is the trickiest of all vegetables to handle. Like other greens, it retains field heat which shortens its life. Prepackaged lettuce often stays garden-crisp even after several days in the home refrigerator because it has undergone several types of cooling systems in its progress of grower to grocer. So keep it in its "Cellophane" jacket. It is that moisture-proof, specially-coated wrapper with the small breathing holes that has kept it dewy-fresh and uncontaminated during its long journey.

Let's Eat

IDA BAILEY ALLEN

The chef pushed a wheel tray into the patio—ice tinkling in glass goblets filled with cool drinks in jewel colors. The electric blender top filled with a rosy pink mixture, soft as a cloud.

"Madame," said he, "relax, take your time and taste-test. Here are straws. These are new beverages I have created as cooler-offers for our readers."

Here are my favorites:

Grape-Pineapple Goblet: In a blender top or electric mixer, combine ½ (6-oz.) can frozen grape concentrate, ½ (6-oz.) can of frozen orange concentrate, 1 cup cold water and 1 tbsp. frozen lemonade concentrate. Run until well blended.

Strawberry Velvet: In a blender top or electric mixer, put 8 oz. frozen strawberries and juice, 1 cup milk and 2 scoops vanilla, peach or strawberry ice cream. Run until blended and frothy.

Note: A rotary egg beater will also prove to be a good mixer

All Measurements Are Level
Recipes Serve Six

Asparagus Salad with Soured Cream

Serve 6 chilled stalks cooked asparagus to a person, top with lettuce.

Soured Cream Dressing: To ¾ c. soured cream, add 1 tbsp. mayonnaise, 1 tsp. lemon juice and a few grains nutmeg or mace.

Raisin-Taffy Custard

Beat 2 eggs slightly with ¼ c. unsulphured molasses, 1 tbsp. granulated or brown sugar, ¼ tsp. salt and ¼ tsp. nutmeg. Add 1 c. very small, fresh enriched bread cubes and ½ c. moist raisins. Stir in 1¼ c. heated milk.

Transfer to 6 buttered or margarined custard cups. Place in a shallow pan, surround with hot water and bake 30 min. in a moderate oven, 350-375 deg. F. Cool at once.

To Pressure-Cook: Prepare the custard as directed. Pour ½ c hot water into a presure saucepan. Put in the rack. Arrange 3 custard cups on this. Cover with a second rack; on this place the remaining 3 custards. Close the cooker; bring to 15 lbs. pressure and process 3 min. Cook the cooker at once.

The Chef on Cold Cuts

Mesdames: A platter of cold cuts can be a disappointment or a success, depending on the arrangement. Put a low bowl of horseradish soured cream sauce in the centre. Around this place each kind of meat in a section by itself, overlapping the slices, and separating with cucumber or dill pickle sticks. Ring the platter with sliced tomatoes, cucumbers and sprigs of cress—

To the Garden, for Succulent Desserts

For desserts with a capital "D", turn to your garden for these seasonal delights: Raspberry Meringues, Rhubarb Crisp.

Raspberry Meringues — good to look at, but better to eat! Use succulent raspberries plucked from well trimmed canes, simmered in a thick sweet syrup and poured into featherweight pastel-tinted meringue shells from your baker's never-fail oven.

Rhubarb Crisp — a new version, as good and reliable as grandmother's was! Pull tender rhubarb sticks from healthy plants — and combine with other wholesome foods in this rhubarb treat:

½ Cup butter or margarine, 1¼ cups sugar, 2 eggs, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups toast cubes, 4 cups cereal flakes, 4 cups diced fresh rhubarb.

Blend butter or margarine and ½ cup of the sugar together thoroughly. Add eggs and beat well. Stir in nutmeg and flavoring. Fold in toast cubes and cereal flakes. Spread half of this mixture in buttering baking pans; arrange rhubarb evenly over the top; sprinkle with remaining sugar and cover with remainder of the first mixture. Bake in moderate oven (375 degree F.), about 40 minutes or until rhubarb is tender. Serve warm with whipped cream. Makes 10 servings.

If you have a home freezer, or a refrigerator with a frozen food compartment, try freezing whipped cream. Whip until stiff, add flavoring, drop by spoonfuls onto wax paper, aluminum foil or Cellophane. Freeze solid, wrap and seal. When you want whipped cream just remove portions and serve. This frozen whipped cream is delicious for a change.

CAMP LAQUEMAC OFFERS SPECIAL BURSARIES FOR RURAL GROUPS

Members of Women's Institutes, Farm Forums or people connected with folk schools and farm organizations can qualify for special bursaries to Camp Laquemac, according to an announcement put out by the Adult Education Service at Macdonald College.

The special bursaries enable members of rural organizations to come for a nominal charge, the announcement stated. Laquemac is a 10-day summer camp for people interested in community work. The camp is bilingual and includes people from all walks of life. Laquemac will be held at Lac Chapleau north of Montreal from August 14 to 24.

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Outdoor Play Equipment

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

Look out on your yard with the eyes of a small child and answer this question honestly:

"Is it an attractive place to play?"

No matter how small or large the yard is, if there are pre-school children in the family or one little child, it should have play equipment. Out door play is essential to the growth of body and mind and spirit. If the yard is a spot where the child has happy times, he will not have to be sent out of the house, he will just naturally want to play there.

An investment in home play equipment may save a child's life or prevent serious injury to him. Careful surveys have shown that many children are killed or hurt while playing on roads and in streets near their own homes. If there is nothing to focus their attention in their own yard they just naturally gravitate to a "danger area"!

In spite of careful training and constant warning a little child is apt to forget the rule "stay off the road" and run out into the path of traffic after a ball or toy. In a rural home, tiny children often get into danger from machinery or animals. They too, need play material in their yard. An enclosed play area for the small child who has graduated from the playpen, but who is not old enough to play without supervision, is the best possible safety device for a home, in town or country.

The cost need not be great. Parents may spend as little or as much money as they like. If they are willing to use time and thought and energy in homemade play equipment, they can save much strain on the family budget. A boy or girl loves to see things happening in the home yard. A child will be eager to help make home play things and will take pride in the equipment he has had a part in producing. Crates, barrels, boxes, boards, nails, rope for a swing, all these cost but a fraction of the outlay needed to pay for a child's injury, in even a minor accident, to say nothing of the saving in the parent's anxiety!

A home made junglegym gives small children the chance to climb safely. A ladder at one end and a slide at the other are good additions. These must be sturdily built and free from splinters.

Swings never lose their popularity with children. The supports should be well sunk in the ground. If they are placed in cement or coated with creosote they are not apt to rot. Hang heavy seasoned Manila rope from heavy iron screws, or better still attach them to iron hooks, which hook on the screws, to avoid rope friction. Bore two holes for the rope to go through the wooden seat to prevent tipping.

For pre-school children it is hard to surpass the play possibilities of a home-made sand box, equipped with seats, a few pails, shovels, wooden spoons, a sifter and moulding "forms" for sand cakes made from different sizes of tins. Sunshine should fall on the sand part of the day but in the hot summer weather some shade must be provided. A new load of sand each spring is essential. No matter how strictly the rule "No sand throwing!" is enforced, it just does gradually leak away. To prevent it from vanishing too fast, it must be enclosed in a large box, or surrounded with substantial boards or by sand bags. When children approach school age, a "sand pit" with more sand and a bigger space than the usual sand box, will keep them playing happily for long periods of time.

A play house, where a child can "housekeep" is a fascinating spot. A little girl will love mothering her dolls there and a small boy will likely climb the roof and pretend he is on a plane.

Children grow up so quickly. Do provide your son or daughter with play equipment which can be enjoyed in the fresh air and sunshine of your own back yard!

Associated Country Women

The last London meeting of the executive committee of the Associated Country Women of the World has just been held; there will be a brief one just prior to the Toronto Conference. A news release from that meeting has been received at the office of the Quebec Women's Institutes. In this the ACWW Press Officer, Mrs. Putland Van Someren, states 700 delegates and visitors from 26 different countries are expected at the Conference. Mrs. Van Someren goes on to say that 150 entries were received for the International Essay Competition, "The Rural Home", from 18 different countries, the winners to be announced at the Toronto Conference.

During this triennial period since the Copenhagen Conference in 1950, the ACWW has submitted two major papers to the UN Status of Women Commission; "The Status of Women in Private Law" and "Part-time Work of Rural Women", both based on surveys carried on by affilitiated societies in their own countries. A photographic display on the work of ACWW is also being arranged for the International Agricultural Exhibition in Rome this fall.

Mrs. Chas. Russell will be retiring in August as chairman of the Executive Committee after six years in that position. Mrs. Meier, Switzerland, presented flowers and a small gift to Mrs. Russell, expressing the appreciation of the Committee for her faithful and efficient service.

To Study Radiology In European Cities

Regina (CP) — A young Regina woman doctor is attending the International Congress of Radiology in Copenhagen.

She is Dr. Helen Bean of the Allan Blair Memorial clinic here. The trip was made possible through the Saskatchewan United Commercial Travellers' Auxiliary Cancer Fellowship fund.

Two other Saskatchewan doctors, Dr. C. C. Burkell and Dr. Harold Johns, both of Saskatoon, are also attending the congress.

Dr. Bean said the conference will give her an opportunity to exchange and clarify ideas with doctors in clinics all over the world. She will visit radiology centres in Stockholm, Edinburgh, Manchester, London and Paris after the conference.

A native of Moosomin, Sask., Dr. Bean graduated in medicine from the University of Manitoba. She served two years with the Canadian Army Medical Corps before she joined the clinic in 1946.

Starts on Career As Fashion Stylist

Miss Joan Blanchard

Montreal — Pretty young Joan Blanchard, former student of the Jésus-Marie convent in Quebec City, and home economics graduate of l'Ecole Ménagère at Plessisville, starts a new and exciting career as home economist and fashion co-ordinator of Dominion Textile Company Limited, Montreal, according to an announcement from the company.

Travelling back and forth across the country is to be Miss Blanchard's job, as she makes personal appearances in department stores in all the large cities, giving lectures on the care and selection of the company's wide range of Texmade products for all household purposes. In addition she will operate a help-for-housewives service by direct mail from her headquarters at 1950 Sherbrooke Street West, Montreal, and write a national column of advice to housewives.

Joan was set to be a teacher when she graduated from convent, but she went on to study for her degree in home economics at Plessisville, and later graduated from the Traphagen School of Fashion in New York City. For a time she was with the fashion department of a large Montreal department store, then she served for two years as Canadian stylist for the McCall Corporation of New York, handling their patterns right across Canada. She has also been fashion coordinator for Hudson's Bay Company in Vancouver and, more recently, stylist and designer for R. M. Ballantyne Co., Stratford, Ont.

Joan's new career will be a busy one, taking her to all parts of Canada to appear in retail stores. Her lectures, at first at least, will be primarily on the use of Texmade household cottons in their various ranges.

How she will manage to do all her work and travel too, Joan hardly knows herself, yet somehow she hopes to find time to engage in a variety of hobbies. She sings (a rich contralto voice) and paints with real talent, and keeps up her studies at both. And her spare time? Well, she's very fond of horse-back riding and dancing which she says is fun as well as exercise.

Apple Juice Pack Below Average

Montreal — Commercial canneries in Quebec last year packed an estimated 736,440 cans (20-ounce or equivalent) of apple juice — considerably smaller than recent years — according to pack figures compiled recently by the Federal Government.

The nation-wide pack of the popular beverage in 1952 totalled 14,797,380 cans. This was well below the 1951 output and was due to a sharp decrease in the 1952 apple crop.

"During the past 10 years apple juice has been an important addition to the growing list of food products commercially canned in this province," said F. J. Brennan, Atlantic district sales manager for the American Can Company, which made possible large scale canning of apple juice by developing a special enamel for the cans which take it to market.

Would you like to know an easy way to decorate your meat pie? Cut biscuit dough with a doughnut cutter, being sure to remove the "holes". Place on top of meat pie and bake. To serve, fill the centres of the biscuits with whole kernel corn, small diced carrots or green peas.

Picture News from C-I-L

THE TRAVEL TREND this summer will be Coronation-wards for many. This housewife may not be one of those to see London's dramatic celebrations, but she's about to follow the trend in home decoration by giving her walls the dramatic interest of new deep tones — Royal Red, Windsor Blue or any other of the nine special "Coronation Colours" now obtainable in C-I-L's washable, rubber-base paint, "Speed-Easy Satin".

"FIRST AID FOR APPLES" or "a tonic for tomatoes" could describe the work carried out in C-I-L's new soil-testing laboratory at Montreal as a free service to farmers. For sick plants and poor yields are usually the result of a deficiency of one or more essential plant foods in the soil. Chief soil chemist, Jean Leclerc, points out that soils can vary greatly even in one locality, says Chambly County, Quebec has some 30 types.

LATE SQUASH AMONG ROWS OF SWEET CORN

Instead of weeds, why not enjoy late crops from your garden where early vegetables have been harvested.

A practical method of growing late crop vegetables is to plant them between the rows of sweet corn after cultivating for the last time.

Turnips also can be planted for a late crop between corn rows. Before severe frosts come, lift the turnip roots and store for the winter.

Early peas are sometimes grown with late sweet corn as an inter-row crop. Such shade as the growing corn may give the peas in the last stages of their growth is beneficial.

Lettuce and mustard greens are likely to bolt to seed quickly good practice to sow these crops in hot weather; therefore, it is good practice to sow these seeds in August. They will be ready to mature as the weather becomes increasingly cooler.

The cabbage group provides excellent crops for fall gardens and winter storage. Young plants set out about the middle of July will produce mature plants before frost. When fully mature, however, the members of the cabbage group are highly resistant to frost.

Late crops of celery and endive may still be planted in the middle of July, also winter radishes

300 LONDON PUPILS STUDY CANADA

London — 300 senior pupils, ranging in age from 16 to 18, from 20 London grammar schools, have just attended a study conference to broaden their knowledge of Canada. Arranged by the Imperial Institute the conference's subject was "Canada — Hinge Between the Old World and the New". Canadian High Commissioner, His Excellency Mr. Norman A. Robertson, opened the conference and most of the lectures were given by atchewan Agent-General in London, Graham Spry, and by Matthew Halton. Lecture subjects included "Conapectus of Canada", "The People of Canada", "Canada's Role in World Affairs" and "Contemporary Development."

Ice-Cream Too Cold For Eskimo Patient

Montreal (CP) — A three-year-old Eskimo boy in hospital here can't stand ice-cream. The reason: it's too cold.

Born in Fort Chimo, in the Ungava Bay region of Quebec, Markussie will tackle practically anything on the hospital menu except ice-cream.

Recovering from an attack of meningitis, he has become fond of nurses — and bread. For Markussie buttered bread has become what candy is for the other children.

The youngster has been dubbed by his nurses as "the guy with the sweetest smile this side of the Arctic circle". He has learned to use such expressions as "I love you" and "hubba hubba" when they come around.

He is not the only Eskimo in the ward. His roommate is Bobby Snowball, who is almost twice as old. No love is lost between the two.

Since the hospital staff doesn't understand Eskimo, the reason for the youngsters' dislike of one another is unknown.

When some particular antic of Bobby's annoy's Markussie, he is sure to point an accusing finger at his roommate and scream: "you Eskimo, you!"

Reply to Correspondence, Sewerage and Services In Parish St. Jerusalem

OPEN LETTER TO
"THE WATCHMAN"

A few weeks ago there appeared in The Lachute Watchman a copy of my letter to the Council of St. Jerusalem, with comment by the council.

In answer to paragraph one: "Every taxpayer had an opportunity to complain before the collection roll was prepared" — a letter dated March 26, 1953, to the Council proves to the contrary.

At the first meeting following this letter I pleaded my case for a few hours. They decided the valuation, and after that, they politely asked me if I had anything to say. My answer was short. My opinion was "dirty work", as they already had also decided that there would be no further improvements to justify this heavy rise in taxes; therefore, this extra money was to be spent towards a loan made of $150,000 for a road to Dunany, and not a thought of this vicinity with our taxes.

Their second paragraph: To their engineer's quotation . . . price as follows, $175,000. . . . — We sent them a letter January 28, 1952, which tells its own story. Due to lack of space this letter cannot appear in this week's issue but we hope it may be published at a later date. This letter proves a small amount of approximately $40,000 would have, for the present, been sufficient to meet the needs, and not overburden the taxpayers as it exists in Ayersville.

We do not ask for sewers including ALL LAND and extending to the boundaries of St. Jerusalem. That would be ridiculous. We asked that a little of our tax money be spent on the streets bordering from Lachute. Those streets that are being opened in St. Jerusalem — Bethany Street and a few near streets adjoined to Lachute — being opened district on the point of being developed. NO MATTER WHICH BOUNDARY, at our stage of civilization, people living in town expect to have sewers and water, if they are taxed accordingly. If we were not taxed, then we would NOT complain.

We ask therefore that an interested Committee of six capable businessmen be appointed at once. Let the Council vote the amount that this Committee can spend this year.

This Committee will then proceed to PROVE what can be done, starting from the river or from our line, Isabella Street, going eastward. The Committee can pick good men here in Lachute or vicinity who know their business well. The Council will then be in a position to learn what these men can do with that part of the money voted. It will mean more work for the money spent. . . This district being bilingual, it would be a good thing also to have a bilingual committee.

Paragraph four: The high taxes which I am called upon to pay. . . I understand that this increase of 3,000% and over is to cover the service that I am not getting from the Municipality! Are some of my lots, which cannot be sold before five years as they are far from Lachute boundary, as valuable and taxable as my lots or others where there are paved roads, lights, sidewalks, and near enough to Lachute that they can connect with water and sewerage?

Re opinion to Box 2 as asked by the Council in The Lachute Watchman. . . To date 99% have left the matter to the Council and never went to the meetings. They are unable to give their opinion either by letter or by word, not being able to converse in English fluently, but if they are notified of a special BILINGUAL meeting to study the sewer question, then they will be in a position to give their ideas.

This is my opinion, which I am glad to give in writing since I may be the 1% who followed all the meetings which I was aware of.

Announce Season for Pheasant Hunting Sept. 19 to Oct. 4

After extensive study in the region of Ste. Agathe and St. Jerome, and after educating the population on conservation of the pheasant, biologists from the Department of Fish and Game are releasing thousands of pheasants in the fields around the above mentioned towns, thus preparing an interesting hunting season for this fall.

Last year, a few thousand pheasants were released on Ile aux Coudres, near Baie St. Paul, and on Ile d'Orleans, near Quebec. The population of these islands were happy to find out this spring that, thanks to the care of the Department of Fish and Game, the greater proportion of these pheasants had survived the winter.

This first experiment having been a success, the Department of Fish and Game has decided to release this magnificent bird into other regions of the province.

For the benefit of sportsmen, Honorable Camille-E. Poullot, minister of Game and Fisheries, has announced for this year a hunting season for pheasant from September 19 to October 4 inclusive. It will be permitted to kill cock and hen alike. However, hunters will limit themselves to 3 pheasants a day, or a total of 9 pheasants for the hunting season.

It is interesting to note that all these pheasants released in the province come from the breeding farm at Mount Orford Provincial Parks. They weigh from two to three pounds and will weigh at least four pounds when the season opens this fall.

POLICE HAVE MANY THEORIES, BUT NONE GIVES FULL STORY OF GASPE TRAGEDY

Bits of blood-stained clothing and a few metal camp supplies are packed in an orange crate by Gaspe Game Warden Bernard Donohue to be taken to Montreal for clues on the deaths of three U.S. hunters who disappeared in the dense Gaspe bush. One skeleton has been found—headless and almost decomposed. Bones are being examined to determine if they are of other members of the hunting party.

—Central Press Canadian Photos

The three U.S. hunters, Eugene Lindsay; his son, Richard, 17, and a school chum, Frederick Claar, all from Holidaysburg, Pa., are believed to have stopped at this cabin deep in the bear country of Gaspe. Near the cabin were found their camp stove, two sleeping bags and several small camp articles. The headless skeleton was found by a stream nearby.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. I have been working with a Canadian company for the past four years. I always paid my contributions and drew no benefits. This summer I am going to be married. Will I be entitled to draw benefit?

A. No. If you quit your job to get married, you must show your attachment to the labor market by earning an additional 60 contributions after marriage.

• • •

Q. Can a person qualify for benefit when he is unable to work because of illness?

A. No. To draw benefits, a person must be capable of and available for work.

Note: This will be modified if legislation now before Parliament becomes law.

• • •

Q. The employees for the firm where I work are on strike. I do not belong to the union, yet I have been refused benefits. Why is this?

A. If there is a work stoppage at the plant at which you work due to a labor dispute, no benefits are paid to any of the employees whether or not they belong to the union involved unless they prove that they are not participating in or financing or directly interested in the dispute and that they do not belong to a grade or class of workers who are participating in the dispute.

• • •

Q. I had 126 days benefit left on my previous claim. Do I lose those days now that I have made a new claim?

A. Yes, except contributions used in the caluculation of the old claim which have been accumulated during the five years prior to the new claim are again used to calculate the duration of your new claim.

The Liberals say they can't cut your taxes!
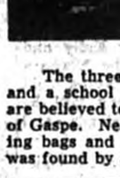
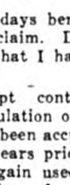
WE CAN... WE WILL!
the Main Issue in this election is YOUR MONEY!

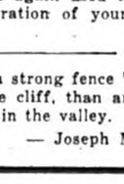


We will budget for Government's legitimate needs . . . we will stop budgeting for bloated surpluses which—in three years—took from the people's pockets the staggering sum of $1,618,000,000 more than the Government needed.

We will end the shocking conditions in our Defence Department which the Government's own investigator, (Col. G. S. Currie) described as: "A general breakdown in the system of administration, supervision and accounting . . . Accounting records in a chaotic condition and of little use in determining the nature and extent of irregularities . . . Waste and inefficiency far more costly in loss than that covered by actual dishonesty".



We will, without impairing the efficiency of our Armed Forces, correct the appalling inefficiencies in the administration of the Department of National Defence.



We will provide the nation with an administration whose attitude towards the spending of public monies will be one of prudence and common sense. A new Government in itself will mean substantial savings to the taxpayer—it will replace a Government whose arrogant indifference to economy was best expressed by Mr. Howe's scornful remark, "What's a Million?". Or, "If they need a gold-plated piano it is our duty to buy it".

We will reduce or eliminate countless hidden, indirect taxes which grossly inflate the cost of consumer goods, add to the grievous cost of living, increase the price of homes beyond the capacity of most of our people to pay, discourage saving and initiative.

We will reduce federal taxes by at least $500,000,000 a year . . . without reducing any pensions, family allowances, or other social security payments.

$500,000,000 TAX CUT NOW!

Prospect of Acclamation Effectively Dispelled As Three Candidates File Nomination Papers

Liberal, Prog. Conservative, Ind. Conservative Contenders Entered for Three-Way Campaign In Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes Riding

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent to Tour Area; Will Address Meeting Here August 6

Possibilities of an acclamation in the constituency of Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes seemed to have been a little over-estimated — for at the present time there are no fewer than three candidates for the August 10 election. The Progressive Conservatives are represented by two men, the official candidate, Linton Armstrong, Lachute, and Ovila Gagnon, St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac, who is running as an Independent P.C., while Philippe Valois, Liberal M.P., is standing for re-election.

The nomination meeting was held Monday. Mr. Valois and Mr. Armstrong were present along with many speakers and supporters for both parties. The meeting was presided over by Dr. Jules Lafleur, Mayor of Lachute.

The first speaker, Philippe Valois, made frequent references to his past record and both he and another speaker mentioned that never before had grants for two post-offices in one riding been allotted in the same budget. The foundation of the post-office in St. Eustache is almost ready, and tenders for Lachute's new building are expected to go out in a week or so. Mr. Valois mentioned that, besides these two buildings, a sub-post office had been built in Brownsburg, and buildings in Ayersville and Grenville had been opened up. At the close of the meeting Mr. Valois made his rebuttal, speaking in English.

Besides these buildings, and a $42,000 grant towards the Catholic school in Oka, allotted in view of the fact that many Indian children attend that particular school, the people in the counties of Argenteuil and Deux Montagnes have received $1,241,000 (for 17,400 children in 6,500 families) in family allowances, $806,000 for 1,710 people receiving old age pensions, and $80,000 in special benefits in the past year.

Mr. Valois stated that the Liberal party would reduce taxes just as soon as it is possible, and that they will inform the people when this time comes.

Other speakers for Mr. Valois were G. E. Dansereau, Mr. Kieran, Mr. Penverne, Bernard Gosselin and Mrs. George McGibbon — who all stated that they were proud to be on the platform with Mr. Valois where they could give him their full support.

After the Liberal and Conservative speakers and supporters, the official Progressive Conservative candidate, Linton Armstrong, took the stand, speaking in both French and English. Mr. Armstrong stated that one of the main reasons that he was taking part in the coming election was that he had been requested to do so by hundreds of electors in Argenteuil, and that he had been assured of wide support of the electors in the neighboring county of Deux Montagnes. Over half the mayors of all the municipalities in Deux Montagnes had signed Mr. Armstrong's nomination papers.

He added that, in travelling throughout the two counties, he had found many good reasons for this support; that the electors in general felt it was time for a change, and that the present government was no longer representing the will of the majority of the people.

In his reference to high taxes, Mr. Armstrong pointed out that a person earning between $3,000 and $4,000 a year had to work just four months of that period to pay direct and indirect taxes. Mr. Armstrong and the Progressive Conservative party assert that, if they are elected, they will effect savings of at least $500,000,000 a year.

Speakers in support of Mr. Armstrong were John Carlin, Bernard Goulet, J. O. Latour and Victor Barré.

G. Ovila Gagnon, Independent Conservative, did not make an appearance at the nomination meeting.

Contenders in Three-Way Contest for This Riding

Philippe Valois, Liberal M.P. for Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes, who was appointed at a party convention to Ste. Scholastique to stand again as candidate for the Liberals in the coming federal election.

Linton W. Armstrong, local choice and official candidate for the Progressive Conservatives. A newcomer to political representation, Mr. Armstrong has however supported contenders for the party in several previous campaigns, both federal and provincial.

Ovila Gagnon, third contender, campaigning on the Conservative ticket. Mr. Gagnon, 44-year-old resident of St. Eustache, is an accountant by profession. He launched his campaign Wednesday at St. Benoit, in the County of Deux-Montagnes.

Watchman, L'Argenteuil Staff Vacation

There will be no publication of The Watchman and L'Argenteuil on Thursday, August 20. Correspondents and advertisers, please keep this date in mind.

A small press-room staff will be maintained during the week of August 16-20 to attend to rush printing orders. Customers are requested, however, to withhold all but imperative orders that week, or to stock up ahead on their essential printing.

News Travels Far From Home, Read in Japan

A lady visiting in Lachute received a letter recently from a soldier in Japan, where he is on leave from Korea. Enclosed was a clipping from The Watchman, concerning a local hen owned by Erskine Rodger, Lachute, laying a double egg.

The soldier had never visited Lachute — in fact he didn't know such a place existed — but thought that the clipping would be of some interest to his acquaintance in Canada. (It happens this little news item was reproduced from The Watchman in newspapers across the Dominion.)

Ayersville Votes To Issue $10,000 Works Loan

At the last meeting of the Municipality of Ayersville, the councillors studied problems of the water system serving Ayers Street. A loan of $10,000 was voted by the council, under Mayor Gilbert E. Ayers.

This loan will not, however, be used exclusively for the water project, but also for other important needs in the municipality. The resolution was passed on motion of Ald. Laurent Tessier, seconded by Ald. Germain Poulin. There is still a distance of 400 feet in the sewerage work to be completed on Ayers Street.

At the opening of the meeting, bills for the township amounting to $805.25 were passed for payment.

Court Judgment In Favor of Taxi Owner

Complaint Laid by Autobus Association

A court case was decided last week in favor of taxi operators in Lachute.

Léon Larocque, well known local taxi owner, had been arrested on a complaint by "L'Association des Propriétaires d'Autobus de la Province de Québec" to the effect that he had illegally driven passengers to and from Ayers Mills at so much per head and on a weekly basis.

The case was heard before District Magistrate Liguori Lacombe, and Larocque was honorably acquitted. The judgment was to the effect that Larocque had not in any way, shape or form infringed upon the law. The Judge was severe in his remarks concerning testimony of one of the investigators for the complaint, and he added that the law should not be used as a means of persecution.

Town Resident, Church Woman Tragic Victim of Auto Accident

Mrs. Kenneth (Betty) McOuat, 45, of Lachute, and an eight-year-old boy, James Zehr, of Malone, N.Y., died last Friday evening in St. Joseph's Hospital, Lachine, shortly after an auto crash on Metropolitan Boulevard near suburban Lachine. Mrs. McOuat had been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Winter, Pointe Claire. Mrs. Winter, 70, suffered severe shock and injuries and is still under treatment in the same hospital.

Others injured and taken to hospital following the accident were Mrs. J. W. Walker, 60 (a neighbor of the Winters in Pointe Claire), Mrs. Laura Zehr, 47, mother of the dead boy, also of Malone, N.Y., and Bruno Chapelle, 40, of Ville LaSalle. Mrs. Winter and Mrs. Walker both suffered head and facial injuries.

Mrs. Walker's grandsons, William, nine, and David, six, who were also passengers in one of the autos, were not injured.

All of the injured, except Bruno Chapelle, were passengers in an auto driven by Mrs. Walker. Chapelle, the other driver, was released from hospital after treatment for rib fractures. He was driving alone at the time of the accident.

Mrs. McOuat and her younger daughter, Jean, were visiting the Winters prior to leaving for a vacation in Maine. Mrs. McOuat and her mother accompanied the neighbor, Mrs. J. W. Walker, on a late afternoon drive, while Jean McOuat remained with friends of her grandfather. It is understood Mrs. Walker was crossing an intersection at Lachine northward into the four-lane Metropolitan Boulevard, around 4.00 p.m., but before she reached the centre division between the east-west traffic-ways, the rear of her car was violently struck by Chapelle's car travelling east. The Walker car was hurled onto the grass boulevard centering the highway. Young James Zehr died shortly after the accident, and Mrs. McOuat succumbed at 7.30 o'clock without regaining consciousness. Her death resulted from skull fracture and internal injuries.

The inquest, opened Saturday morning, was postponed till testimony is available from participants injured in the accident.

Mrs. Kenneth McOuat, a well-known resident and for many years organist of the United Church here, is survived by her husband and two daughters, in Lachute, and by her parents in Pointe Claire. Her funeral was held Sunday afternoon in the presence of many sorrowing friends and sympathizers.

Top Bid for Record, 20-lb Grey Trout

Norm Somers, of Brownsburg, displays a 20-lb. grey trout caught July 11, which he believes should be a record in this district for the current fishing season. Norm hooked this whopper in Wolf Lake, just 25 miles from Brownsburg.

Success Attends Rotary-Sponsored Rodeo Show

One of the best outdoor shows to play in this district in recent years was seen at Lachute Exhibition Grounds last week-end, when the great Cherokee Ranch Rodeo came to town. The rodeo, sponsored by the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club, was a tremendous success, packing the grandstand for each performance and drawing generally favorable comments by those who saw the show. In all, close to 6,000 people witnessed the Rodeo — over 2,000 being in attendance Saturday evening, when it was necessary to turn people away from the grandstand long before the program got under way.

The Rodeo featured most of the cowboy contests of a real stampede, including steer and bucking-horse riding, calf roping and bull dogging. The latter events particularly thrilled the crowd; in this feature a cowboy would leap from the back of a racing pony, grasping the horns of a young steer, which he then proceeded to wrestle to the ground.

The trick-riding and roping acts were of exceptionally high calibre; the announcer added to the interest in each event by recounting over the loudspeaker some of the personal history of each performer.

During the intermission in the Saturday evening performance, Rotary President Keith Rutherford thanked the public for their support of this undertaking. He also expressed the appreciation of the club to the Argenteuil Agricultural Society for the use of the fair grounds, which was given free of charge. He then asked George McGibbon, president of the Society, to draw the winning ticket on the Rotary television set; this was won by Henry (Bing) Dion, of Lachute.

The Rotary Club also takes this occasion to thank Lachute Lumber Co. and Gordon McOuat, for help given in providing refreshments facilities; also the town and provincial police for their aid in controlling traffic, both at the fair grounds and during the parade through Lachute on Thursday evening.

Court Cases on Traffic Counts At St. Jerome

Frank Page, Hawkesbury, driver of the car involved in an accident on Route 31 near Round Lake and Weir on July 12, was found guilty in St. Jerome yesterday of charges laid against him at that time. The charges specified dangerous driving and driving under the influence of liquor. Page was sentenced to a $50 fine, plus all costs, and his driver's license was suspended for one year.

Two local men were convicted of various charges in connection with an accident on Grace Street last Friday evening. Both had to pay fines plus costs, and one was released on a $300 bond to keep the peace for a year. This charge was laid for interfering with a police officer and attempting to hinder him from doing his duty.

Six local motorcyclists were arrested in the City of St. Jerome yesterday and were charged with dangerous driving. The six motorcycles reportedly held up traffic on Route 11 from Shawbridge to St. Jerome by criss-crossing the highway. All lost their driver's permits for a period of two years.

Two Brownsburg men were ordered to pay fines totalling $35 each for resisting a police officer and disturbing the peace. Each was obliged also to furnish a $300 bond to keep the peace for the period of one year.

The magistrate warned all present that, if reckless driving and driving under the influence of liquor charges continued to be brought before him, the offenders would be sentenced to jail terms. In recent months, the Judge has been suspending numerous licenses, but accidents still occur.

Illustrated Feature on "Browns of Brownsburg"

Bill and Alex Brown will be well known to all readers of C-I-L "Contact", the current issue of which devotes a two-page spread to their know-how with firearms and ammunition. Bill, who has been with C-I-L in Brownsburg for 35 years, and his son, Alex, demonstrate the proper manner in which a rifle should be used when target-shooting and hunting. In one photo, the two are shown examining four pine blocks which failed to stop a .22 bullet fired into them. A .22 is no toy — it deserves the same respect accorded higher powered rifles, this feature emphasizes.

Annual Regatta At Lake Louisa Well Patronized

The annual Lake Louisa Regatta was held at the Lake Louisa Country Club last Saturday and Sunday, before a large spectatorship. Fine weather was enjoyed on Saturday, and occasional showers the following day did not dampen the spirits of the crowd.

The Junior Regatta was held Saturday morning, and the majority of the events were filled to capacity. Aggregate winners were Roy Nelson with 15 points, for the boys, and Maureen Sutton with 9 points, for the girls. The trophies were presented, along with the individual trophies and other prizes, early Saturday evening.

Don Willard was the recipient of the Senior Aggregate award, which he won with a total of 24 points, while Sheila Donnan, a Junior, took honors in the Senior class. She scored 12 points in the Senior Regatta besides numerous wins in the Junior events, which did not count towards her winning the aggregate.

Don Anderson took the trophy for the fastest boat on the lake, with Cliff Rhodes running a close second. George Deacon, Jr., did not enter his hydroplane in this event, although he paced a demonstration after the event was over. This craft travels at approximately 80 m.p.h. on water.

Trophies for the motor boat races were given out immediately after the races on Sunday afternoon.

Pianist Attends Summer School Pursues Further Studies

Miss JULIETTE RODRIGUE (right), well known Lachute pianist, who is spending the summer in study at Berkshire Music Center, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., the summer-school maintained by the Boston Symphony Orchestra in conjunction with its Berkshire Festival. Miss Rodrigue is here seen in conversation with CHARLES MUNCH, Head of the School and Music Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, on the grounds of Tanglewood. On the left is LILY HSIA, student from Shanghai, China.

G. F. Calder, County Registrar, of Lachute, was also present at the meeting.

Premier Duplessis To Visit Ungava; Mining Project Nearing Completion

"THE WEEK IN QUEBEC"

Quebec, July 29 (CP) — Premier Duplessis will visit the gigantic iron ore developments in northeastern Quebec's Ungava for a second time.

Mr. Duplessis, who paid a flying visit in 1949 to the barren subartic region where a wealth of surface iron ore was discovered a few years ago, plans to spend "three or four days" in the area bordering Newfoundland's Labrador.

The trip has been arranged by Joseph Thompson of Cleveland, President of the Iron Ore Company of Canada which has a lease on a large area in the Ungava region.

The $200,000,000 mining project is nearing completion and 174 miles of a 360-mile railway—linking the interior of Ungava with the St. Lawrence gulf town of Sept Iles — have been laid down.

Mr. Duplessis said he has been informed that construction of the railway is proceeding at the rate of one mile a day.

Mr. Duplessis announced no date for his visit, but presumably it will take place in August or September.

* * *

Premier Duplessis and Premier Flemming of New Brunswick conferred in Quebec City last week on problems arising from the projected hydro-electric development on the Saint John River.

The development may cause flooding of an area in Quebec's Temiscouata county.

However, Mr. Duplessis said Quebec would be happy to co-operate in the solution of one of New Brunswick's biggest headaches.

Mr. Duplessis said New Brunswick needs the electric power to push ahead its industrial development.

Quebec would not, however, make any decision until religious and civil authorities of Temiscouata have been consulted, he added.

Cost of development on the Saint John is estimated at $250,000,000.

Crash on Highway 41, One in Hospital

One person was conveyed to Hotel Dieu Hospital, St. Jerome, early Monday morning when a 1949 convertible owned by Maurice Demontigny, of Lachute Mills, and driven by Guy Gauthier, 20, of Lachute, crashed into a telephone pole on Route 41, on the outskirts of Lachute. Damage to the car was estimated at $300.

Gauthier stated that he met another car and was blinded by the headlights. He lost control of his auto which went into the ditch, sliding a short distance, and then hitting a telephone pole which was broken in two places.

Gauthier was thrown from the car and his right leg was pinned between the pole and the auto. He suffered an open fracture of the leg and a fractured thigh.

Taken to hospital by ambulance, the victim was treated by Dr. Roger Lavigne, of Lachute and several doctors at the hospital.

Gauthier was accompanied by Jean-Marie Demontigny, Lachute Mills, who suffered minor injuries.

Traffic Officer Howard Janes investigated the accident.

Keith Russell B.Sc.(A) Assumes Forum Secretary Role

Keith Russell, formerly Agriculture instructor at Lachute High School, will assume his new duties August 3 as secretary of the Quebec Farm Forum.

Following a recent Provincial Council meeting at Macdonald College, Mrs. Telford of Shawville, re-elected president, stated that the Quebec Farm Forum office is to be re-organized this year. "We hope by these changes", Mrs. Telford stated, "that we can free our provincial secretary for more field work among the Forums."

Keith Russell, the new secretary, who besides his teaching duties took as active part in agricultural organizations of Argenteuil County, hails from Nova Scotia and was born and raised on a dairy farm. He is 27 years of age, a graduate of the Nova Scotia Agricultural College and Macdonald College. He served in the Royal Canadian Navy during the last war. Mr. Russell has also had extensive experience in educational work in New Brunswick and Quebec, and has been active in Farm Forum work in both provinces. He succeeds J. T. Davidson, who has taken up new duties at Macdonald College.

Coronation Choir to Tour U. S.

THE CHOIR which sang throughout the Coronation service of Queen Elizabeth II in Westminster Abbey will cross the Atlantic this fall for an eight-week, 40-city tour of the U. S. and Canada. Known as the St. Paul's Cathedral Choir, the group is made up of 30 boys and 18 men. Their tour will coincide with the building of the American Memorial Chapel in St. Paul's Cathedral to honor the 28,000 members of the U. S. armed forces who lost their lives while based in Britain during World War II. Here the choir is seen entering the chancel of St. Paul's Cathedral during a recent service.

Apple Tree Bursts into Bloom

Something unusual was noted this week on the farm of W. D. Hume, Hill Head, where at this late date a wild apple tree has produced several clusters of bloom. There are well formed apples on the remainder of the tree.

This delayed growth is believed to be due to setback caused by caterpillars earlier in the season.

Sportsmen's Assn. Formed at Kilmar

Kilmar — The second meeting of district fishing enthusiasts took place in the Community Hall here recently to form an association for the protection and preservation of fish and game in this area. The official title was proclaimed as Fish and Game Protection Association of the Townships of Grenville and Harrington.

Following are the officers elected by the group; President, Lieut.-Col. White; vice-president, Aldege Thomas; secretary-treasurer, Henri Lessard; directors, Gibson Pearson and Sandford McVicar.

Membership in this Association is open to the public with a $1 donation to cover administration costs and the cost of the badge issued to each member.

The Department of Fisheries of the Province of Quebec is to be asked to stock several of the lakes in the area with trout. Each member of the Association will act as an unofficial warden to see that the Fishing Regulations are observed.

The aim of the Association is to promote better hunting and fishing; to preserve present fish and game reserves; and to help enforce the provincial game laws.

Improved Farm Life

Electricity can take credit for helping to solve one of the great problems of the Canadian people.

Not so many years ago, there was great concern that so many young people were leaving the farm because of the enticement of what seemed to be better and easier living in the cities.

Today it appears that the trend is being checked. Part of the reason lies in the fact that electric inventions provide a farm with all the labor saving devices of the city.

Bicycles are dangerous on sidewalks — but a great many of them are more dangerous on the streets and highways.

It may take all kinds of people to make a world, but it could still be made with a few less of some kinds.

Ayrshire Field Day At West Brome

An Ayrshire Field Day is being held August 1 at Boval Inc. Farm, owned by Raymond Lanctot, at West Brome, Que.

The program of the day will include a judging competition open to all. This competition, commencing 10 a.m., will be for the elimination of the Provincial Ayrshire Judging contest. Explanation of the judging by D. A. Ness, Howick. Talk on Ensilage, by Prof. L. C. Raymond, of Macdonald College. Farm machinery demonstration. Distribution of prizes and closing.

Dairy Industry Show In Montreal This Fall

A Canadian Dairy Industry Show is to be held in Montreal from October 23-27, at the Show Mart. It will be the first dairy exhibition since 1940 and it is being put on by the Quebec Dairy Technicians' Society, headed by Peter Nadeau, of St. Hyacinthe.

On display will be all the dairy products made and sold in Canada, modern machinery and equipment for use in dairies manufactured products in which dairy products are used; examples of what is being done to promote the dairy industry. There will be something to interest anyone who is connected with the dairy industry.

Three dairy groups have announced they are holding their annual meetings in Montreal at this time, and it is hoped others will follow and include a visit to the Show Mart on their program.

Ayrshire Manager Resigns Post

E. Wilson Richmond has resigned as secretary-manager of the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association. It is understood this resignation takes place as of August 6 and that Mr. Wilson plans to return to Western Ontario.

Three committee meetings of the Ayrshire Association were held in Ottawa recently and several names came up as possible successors to Mr. Richmond. An executive meeting on Friday, August 31, will likely make the final decision.

Storing Grass and Legume Crops

Pure stands of such legumes as alfalfa or red clover are more difficult to ensile successfully than mixed legumes and grasses. This is because legumes are high in protein and low in carbohydrates and the latter are required in the silage process.

Experts at the Central Experimental Farm make the following suggestions. The maturity of the crop is important and forage should be cut from early bloom to full bloom. The moisture content is also important and the crop should contain 65 per cent to 75 per cent moisture at time of ensiling. To judge this a sample of chopped forage should be squeezed in the hand. If the material oozes moisture the moisture content is greater than 75 per cent and is too wet. If material will not form a ball in the hand and falls apart it is too dry. If the material forms a ball in the hand, slowly springs apart and does not ooze moisture, the moisture content is between 65 and 75 per cent and the crop is in excellent condition for immediate ensiling.

The forage should be well spread and packed in the silo. Horizontal or trench silos especially should be well compacted by means of a truck or tractor during filling operations and for a period of four to seven days after.

Argentina To Buy Seed Potatoes

The Argentine Ministry of Agriculture has announced that the Central Bank has allocated the sum of U.S. $1,430,000 for the official purchase of certified seed potatoes from Canada and the United States.

The Import will be made next November and the varieties preferred are Katahdin and White Rose. They will be planted in the southeast of the province of Buenos Aires.

Permits Will Allow Shooting of Birds

Special permits authorizing farmers to shoot ducks and other migratory birds that damage or threaten their crops will be issued this year, the Department of Resources and Development announced recently.

Sweeping changes in the regulations have been made under a recent order in council, the department said.

Local provincial game officers or members of the RCMP will be authorized to issue special permits to farmers for areas up to two square miles.

Where damage from waterfowl is more widespread, the new regulations will permit the chief game officer of a province to authorize all residents of specified districts to kill or use firearms to frighten the marauding birds.

Reviewing Activities Of Quebec 4-H Clubs

The 4-H Clubs will officially close their 11th year of activities in this province with their annual provincial convention, August 11-12-13. Their 11th year was successfully marked by numerous activities in all parts of Quebec.

The 4-Hers during that period, planted no fewer than 102,000 trees, most of which came from 4-H nurseries or government nurseries, and the others from forests or woodlots from which they transplanted them themselves. Young 4-Hers also worked hard on beautification — leveling grounds, planting sod, installing flower boxes and embellishing properties with trees, hedges, etc.

The 4-Hers aged from 10 to 20 and recruited mostly in the rural districts organized during 1952-53 close to 300 study excursions, from which their herbariums and natural history collections were greatly increased. Twenty Clubs organized exhibitions to show their parents and friends the products of 4-H work. Fifteen Clubs organized a festival during last winter, to familiarize the public with their activities and purposes. Seven Clubs added their own nurseries to the 17 4-H nurseries already established, to furnish the 4-H Clubs and the population in general with trees necessary for embellishment or reforestation work. The 4-Hers also promoted sylviculture work to enhance the value of barren lands. The 4-H Clubs, organized and maintained by the Quebec Forestry Association, now comprise nearly 10,000 members, collaborating for the conservation of natural and forest resources.

EXPECT BIG GROWTH FOR URANIUM CITY, JUST VILLAGE NOW

Uranium City, Sask. (CP) — The dishevelled appearance of this community, hub of the uranium hunt in the Beaverlodge area of northern Saskatchewan, belies some reports that exaggerate its status.

A community born "in a test tube" as some say, its population now is 300, but as the central community of a northern wilderness rather than an actual "boom town" it seems almost certain to double its population by the end of the summer.

There can be no mistaking its merits as a townsite. Within its boundary are three 20 and 30-foot waterfalls along a creek which slips out of the town through a narrow canyon. Uranium City may hold within its confines the physical features which may make it one of Saskatchewan's most attractive communities.

Today it is struggling to make itself look like a town. Shack tents abound. Frame stores and business establishments — some of them moved in from Goldfields — flank the two main thoroughfares. There are few substantial buildings.

Not Major Community

Uranium city is not the major community in the uranium belt as it stands today. Seven hundred people live seven miles away on he Eldorado Mining and Refining Co. propterty. As time goes on other mining communities may grow up as other mines progress.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce boasts the most substantial structure in twon, a stuccoed, concrete block building.

There are two barber shops, one of them in a shack tent. The men of the uranium era sit in a barber's chair which was used in the Goldfields gold boom of the 1930's.

Cosmopolitan School

Indian, Metis and white children attend classes in a one-room plywood building. The school contains a drum stove and a wall diagram of a wheat plant — 500 miles from Saskatchewan's nearest wheat field.

A Roman Catholic church has been moved into the community from Goldfields. Both school sessions and church services are held in this building.

Space for a boulevard has been left in the middle of many of the streets that are laid out. Spruce trees still grow there and often found tied up to them are the Indians' mongrel sledge dogs.

Labor Situation Summer Season

Ottawa — The usual influx of students into the labor market took place in June. More than matching this increase in labor supply was the further expansion of seasonal employment activities, and hiring by employers to replace an increasing number of workers on vacation. By July 1, the labor market was generally in balance in 85 of the 115 main employment areas in the country. Labor surpluses existed in 22 areas, while shortages prevailed in the remaining eight. Some difficulty in recruiting sufficient workers was encountered by farmers and employers in other seasonal industries in Ontario and the Prairie provinces. On the other hand, lay-offs and short-time either continued or took place in the farm implement, textile and aircraft industries in Quebec and Ontario.

In the Election Swing!

THE OLD constituency feels happier today, the way things are shaping. We now have candidates for each of the old-line parties!

Till a few days before nominations, it looked as if we might be one of the few ridings to "sit this one out" — to pick up our knitting, or rock in our chairs, while tuning-in the furore of election battles elsewhere across the nation. The Liberal party had their standard-bearer (the present M.P. for this constituency, Philippe Valois) chosen in quick time and without opposing voice — even though the local party was reportedly unorganized. But if the Liberals were unorganized, the Progressive Conservatives hereabouts appeared completely disintegrated, insofar as sources of authority and information were concerned. It was therefore some gratification to the old P.C. stalwarts when official support was given last week-end to a representative from the local citizenry, Linton Armstrong, as opponent to the government candidate. . . However, another Conservative contender, G. Ovila Gagnon, St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac, came forward in a last-minute nomination Monday to make a three-way contest.

So at least, the old constituency will not be left in the cold. The halls and hustings of Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes will ring again with the zip and zest of a resounding campaign. And in this countryside, so well reputed for its "bonne entente", we hope — and we believe — the candidates and their supporters will keep their oratory untainted. There are axes to grind, and Democracy's grindstone makes sweet music; but a clean, wholesome contest will suit most of our electors. . . Go to it, boys!

Time to Think — Time to Vote

IN 1949, close to two million Canadian voters refused or were unable to demonstrate their acceptance of their responsibility as citizens of a democracy. Democracy cannot long survive this kind of indifference.

In a campaign to Get Out the Vote, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce makes these pertinent observations:

It has been said that democracy is government of the people, by the people and for the people. If we accept this concept then we must recognize the responsibility of the individual to know something about government and to play an active part in its operation. The opportunity to accept this responsibility will be offered on August 10 to all Canadian citizens or British subjects, men and women, who have attained the age of 21 years and who have been ordinarily resident in Canada for twelve months at that time. In 1949 there were 7,893,629 Canadian voters on the list. Less than 75 percent of these voters exercised their franchise.

In June of this year 93.7 percent of the electorate cast their ballots in Italy's national elections. Despite this remarkably high percentage of voters democracy won a perilously close margin over chaos. Had there not been such a fine turnout of electors a decision might well have gone to totalitarianism.

The charge is frequently levelled at modern civilization that the power of the individual is disappearing, that the individual has become part of a mass. If that be true then the world is in a very sorry state indeed. If the individual is prepared to accept the judgment that his must be a passive and obedient role and that self-styled experts must be the real rulers, then all of man's dignity as a human being has been lost. In the free world we still have the power to choose those who will act as our representatives in the seats of government. If we fail to exercise that power then it can wither away and die.

The dignity of man survives so long as he demonstrates his willingness to exercise the rights and discharge the responsibilities of citizenship. In times such as these it is necessary for us to demonstrate to the whole world that we are proud of our way of life and are willing to accept the challenges which it offers.

Every Canadian has ample opportunity to learn something of the men and women who are standing for office. We are capable of judging between the claims, assertions and promises of the candidates. No great physical effort is required to cast our ballot. Let us see to it that on August 10 the clear voice of an informed and intelligent electorate is heard strongly throughout the land.

Two Prime Issues

THE ELECTION campaign in Canada is "peaceful, muted, listless", according to New York Times, which suggests: "The chief reason undoubtedly lies in the fact that there are no important issues to be debated."

There are, or should be, at least two important issues — asserts the Fort Erie Letter-Review. One is that, because of high prices, Canada is losing its overseas markets, and becoming dangerously dependent on sales to the U.S. The Toronto Star, strong Liberal supporter, admits this in its July 10 issue: "Strong as the Canadian economy may be, we cannot hope to escape the effect of a serious American recession. We are much too dependent on the U.S. for that."

The other important issue is high taxation, which along with high wages and short hours is pricing Canadian goods out of world markets. Federal taxation this year will total roughly $4.8 billion; provincial taxation $900 million; municipal taxation $600 million, making a total of $6.3 billion, or $420 per capita. This will have to be reduced, either by the Conservatives, who say they can reduce it; or by the Liberals, who say they cannot.

Get It Straight

IF THERE ever was a time when the public should read its newspapers carefully, count the blessings of a free press gratefully, this is it. At no other period in Canada's history has intelligent understanding of world events by the common man been more necessary.

World information comes easily to Canadians through daily and weekly newspapers across the land, but all too many of them skim them hurriedly and fail to absorb the full meaning of news stories.

It is not unusual to hear repeated, as fact, information that has been carefully labelled in news story as rumor or supposition. Perhaps the Paris radio reports a political correspondent's guess that Russia soon will demand the Dardanelles from Turkey. The newspaper story will give the exact source of the report and call it the speculation it is. But by the time it reaches the conversation of hasty newspaper readers Russia has taken over the Dardanelles.

Radio offers another pitfall for those who believe everything they think they hear. Speculation becomes fact, dramatization reality, for one-ear listeners.

In recent years Canada has had a leading place in world councils. Her voice is heard with respect in the United Nations organization. But this new role of Canada's can be played successfully only with the support of the Canadian people. And the workman, the professional man, the women of the nation must understand what is being done if Canada's voice is to be strong.

One avenue to clear understanding is offered by careful reading of newspapers, which make every effort in their power to bring the world situation before the Canadian people and explain its complexities.

Unbutton your collars, men. A clergyman in Miami, Fla., thinks the necktie is going out of fashion. The sports shirt is killing the tie, says Rev. Wilfred P. Harman.

According to a recent news story, Dr. Harman's research shows that ties change every 50 years. "We may expect a new necktie altogether, except possibly for dress wear."

As it happens, Dr. Harman is a collector of ties. He has cravats once owned by a number of celebrities, including Tom Mix and Harry Truman. Nasty critics, therefore, may accuse him of trying to stampede the tie market with rumors of scarcity, so that he can sell his duplicates above catalogue price.

Other critics will claim that he shows a sourgrapes attitude toward an item of dress which (I suppose) he is not allowed to wear.

However, I will not hear such evil talk about a man of the cloth, spread as it must be by the vested interests. If Dr. Harman says the tie will go, then the tie will go thank goodness. It can't go soon enough for me. If its disappearance leaves Aunt Martha at a loss what to buy for presents, let me suggest a small bundle of $10 bills, tastefully wrapped.

Speaking as one whose windpipe has been too long imprisoned in a noose of pesky fabric, I will be happy to bid the necktie farewell and bon voyage to the garbage pail. I can hardly wait to feel the breeze stroking the Adam's apple.

Coats shield a man from the weather. No one will deny, I hope, that pants are useful. But what good did a tie ever do? It doesn't keep you warm. It doesn't hold anything up. The tie is the parasite of the garment world.

Some people may object that there is a place for things which are purely ornamental. Of course there is. But there is no place for them on me. My neck is not an art gallery, despite the efforts of certain manufacturers to make it one.

Colored pictures of bucking horses, bathing beauties and pheasants winging into the sunset have appeared on some neckties. It will be regrettable, of course, if the decay of the necktie throws needy artists out of work. However, they can busy themselves painting pictures on sports shirts, as long as I don't have to wear the things. If they get desperate, they might try painting pictures on canvas.

Dr. Harman put up two alternatives: a different kind of necktie, or no necktie. One of the nastier recent developments is the tie that lights up in the dark. If this is the tie of the future, I'm on my way to some place where the loin cloth is standard dress. I prefer to believe that the days of the tie are numbered.

"But the tie is one mark of a well-dressed man", reactionaries will say. So were the ruffle and the wig and, earlier still, the bearskin cloak.

As she got on the bus at the depot she confided to the driver that she had forgotten the name of the suburban street she was headed for and wanted to sit near him in case she recognized it when she saw it. The driver affably offered to assist by calling the street names as the bus came to them.

"Thank you", said the lady. "I'd recognize it if I heard it. It has something to do with hats — is there a Hatfield Street or a Hatteras?"

The driver shook his head and when the bus reached the suburbs he began announcing the street names. "Tryon Street", he called at last.

The lady jumped up. "That's it", she said triumphantly.

MONTREAL – MAELSTROM AND MILLSTREAM

By GEOFF.

I hate line-jumpers! You know the people I mean. They worm their way into line-ups for football tickets, rail tickets, bus tickets, bargain-day sales, soup kitchens, or any old thing that's going. And, strange to relate, they invariably get away with it. But once in a long, long while, justice is done and the line-jumper gets just what he deserves. Take last Friday night, for instance.

Friday was, without a doubt, a scorcher. (I'm talking, of course, about July 17.) And, just to show that the bosses had their hearts in the right place, they issued an edict from their air-conditioned eyries that the heat-cured underdogs could leave their bake ovens half an hour early. Accordingly, I hot-footed it to the Provincial Bus Terminal, as soon as I was let out, there to wait until the Cowansville bus left to carry me out of the city and away from the stifling heat.

I was one of the first in the line-up and parked my bags on the platform. The head of the line started where the bus door usually ends up when the vehicle draws in. We were an orderly crew and we read our papers and magazines as we waited.

Suddenly, out of nowhere, a woman and her husband bustled up to the head of the line, parked their bags on the platform and sat down upon them. They stared at us defiantly as though daring us to challenge their easily won position. We, in turn, glared back with the lok on our faces that says: "You get into that bus first over our dead bodies." So we waited, silent and perspiring.

In due course of time, the Cowansville bus nosed its way into the platform. We put our papers aside and prepared to board it. The trio in front — they had been joined by a friend — got up and made short work of picking up their bags and heading for the bus. Then, one of the threesome saw the sign on the front of the bus.

"Cowansville!" she cried. "Doesn't this bus go to Clarenceville?"

"No", I replied coolly, "it doesn't. It goes, as advertised in large black letters, to Cowansville."

"Well, the platform sign says that the Clarenceville bus comes in here."

"So what? You don't really believe public transportation signs, do you?"

She ignored this remark.

"Well, where is the Clarenceville bus, wise-guy?"

"It's been in the next platform over for the past five minutes", I crowed, jubilantly. "And it's full to capacity, too."

Our line-up was quite polite, really. Nobody laughed out loud, but a ripple of snickers rolled along the line. The trio, hot and defeated, dragged themselves and their luggage across to the adjoining platform.

From my seat in the almost-empty Cowansville bus, I caught a glimpse of our pals in the Clarenceville vehicle as it pulled out. They were sandwiched in the aisle, along with several other poor unfortunates who had arrived late at the terminal.

I'm not a vindictive type at heart. But, even now, I find myself expressing the fond hope that those three line-jumpers had to stand all the way. Maybe next time they won't be in such an all-fired hurry.

KEEP THE LAWS

Sportsmen cannot have their cake and eat it too. They cannot exceed bag limits, shoot game out of season, and in other ways violate laws placed on the statute books for the protection of furred and feathered creatures without paying the penalty.

Conservation must be more than conservation; words are a feeble substitute for action.

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. How many contributions are necessary to establish a benefit year?

A. 180 contributions in the two years immediately preceding the claim; and, of these, either 60 must have been earned in the year prior to the claim or 45 in the six months prior to the claim.

* * *

Q. Is a widow entitled to any return of contributions or payment of benefit if her husband was not on claim when he died?

A. No. This is an insurance plan, not a saving plan, and contributions are not refundable either to the contributor or to his heirs.

* * *

Q. I have worked for more than 60 days since I was married, and I separated from employment last week. Can I draw benefits? I am ready and able to work.

A. A woman, married within the two years prior to her claim, must have worked at least 60 days since her marriage if unemployed at that time. If employed at time of marriage, however, she must have worked at least 60 days since leaving the employer for whom she worked at that time.

* * *

Q. What happens to my stamps when my employer becomes bankrupt?

A. Contributions are collectible from the estate of a bankrupt employer and if uncollectible provision is made for crediting the contributor with the unpaid contributions.

* * *

Q. I am fifteen years old. Can I draw benefits?

A. Yes, provided that you meet the qualifying conditions.

Salesman: "My hotel bill."

Salesmanager: "Well, I wish you wouldn't buy any more hotels."

She wanted to impress the Hollywood magnate with whom she sat at dinner, and remarked gushingly: "I love Keats".

OBITUARY

Many at Funeral of Accident Victim, Late Mrs. Kenneth McOuat

Service for the late Mrs. Kenneth (Betty) McOuat, whose sudden death occurred Friday afternoon, was held at the United Church on Sunday. The Rev. W. B. Rosborough officiated and referred to her sterling qualities and Christian character, coupled with willing and efficient service rendered as organist and choir leader — truly a well deserved tribute to a fine personality. The Rev. Mr. Rose, of Pointe Claire, assisted.

The church was filled, as were the choir seats, by friends and relatives, and there was a profusion of flowers marking in small measure the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Left to mourn her passing are her husband, Kenneth, two daughters, Pat and Jean, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Winter, of Pointe Claire, together with many relatives.

Among immediate relatives attending from out-of-town were her father, Mr. A. Winter, of Pointe Claire, Mr. Harold McOuat, of Toronto, Mrs. Egbert McOuat and son Donald, of Ste. Dorothee, Mr. Edward McOuat and son Grenfel, of Dorval, and Miss Grace McOuat, of Sorel.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. D. McOuat, S. McAdam, R. Muir, W. Blakley, A. Taylor and R. A. Giles.

Interment was made in Lachute Cemetery.

Died at St. Andrews After Lengthy Illness

Late Isaac N. Draper

The death of Isaac N. Draper, resident of St. Andrews East for the past six years, occurred Monday morning following a long illness.

The late Mr. Draper, 81 years of age, was a retired civil servant of the Ontario Public Trustee's Department, Osgoode Hall, Toronto. A native of New Brunswick, he was a teacher and school principal in Woodstock in his earlier years.

He is mourned by his wife, the former Georgina Lindsay, his daughter, Mrs. T. Donald Titman, of Lachute, a stepson, Stewart K. Lindsay, O.B.E., of Guelph, Ont., and a grandson, Rodger Titman. One sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Bartlett, of Lachute, also survives.

Funeral service conducted by the Rev. C. R. Laing, assisted by the Rev. G. T. Spriggs, was held Wednesday afternoon at Christ Church, St. Andrews East; interment was in the St. Andrews Cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. L. Yorke, Thos. Fournier, B. Robertson, R. G. Parker, D. Morrison and Ewen Albright.

DIRECTS $6,000,000 ELECTION JOB

—Central Press Canadian

Directing a $6,000,000 job is Nelson Castonguay, Canada's chief electoral officer. That's the estimated cost of the Aug. 10 federal election and it will be the most expensive one in Canada's history. Mr. Castonguay normally has a staff of 60 in his Ottawa offices, but during election times his staff swells to about 200,000, most of them enumerators. And as soon as this election is over he starts preparing for another.

The Water Carnival held at beautiful Morrison's Beach on Bevan's Lake on July 26, under the capable administration of Alfred Morrison, Jr., was a huge success. It is to be hoped this will become an annual event, to which all those who were fortunate enough to be present will look forward next year.

You gave him this job to do and St. Laurent is getting RESULTS!

In 1949 the Canadian people expressed their confidence in St. Laurent and the Liberal program. This glance at the record reveals some of Canada's tremendous accomplishments under St. Laurent's leadership. No other country has fought a war, balanced its budget, reduced its debt, cut taxes—all at the same time. Now there's another big job ahead. And Louis St. Laurent has proved that he, more than ever, is the Canadian best fitted to do the job.

MASS PILGRIMAGE

More than 90,000 pilgrims jammed the little town of Ste. Anne de Beaupre Sunday to celebrate the feast of Ste. Anne.

Cardinal Paul-Emile Leger, of Montreal, officiated, assisted by Archbishop Maurice Roy, of Quebec.

The traditional feast drew hundreds of cripples to the shrine in the hope of a cure. About 34,000 pilgrims came from the United States.

Bible Society At Mille Isles

Mille Isles — The annual meeting of the district British and Foreign Bible Society was held in Christ Church, Mille Isles, on Thursday evening, with a splendid attendance. The Rev. Horace G. Baugh opened the meeting, and a film, "Bible on the Table", was shown. The sum of $108.40 was given to the Society representative, one of the largest collections in recent years.

SCHOOL PLAN

Sydney, N.S. (CP) — Mayor Gallagher says this steel city will build a vocational school of its own if Cape Breton municipalities will not share the cost. He said most towns in the industrial area however, were behind the proposal.

COIN COLLECTOR

Report of Witnesses' World Assembly, Yankee Stadium

The tremendous New World Society Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses at Yankee Stadium is now history. News of it circled the world and, what is more important, its influence will be felt by Christians all over the globe. Were you able to attend? Do you know what an outstanding event it was?

If not, then you will surely want a copy of the 96-page report on the assembly, complete with many pictures. It will set forth convention highlights, and many details concerning Jehovah's Witnesses and their organization. It may be obtained for only 25 cents a copy. Write 40 Irwin Ave., Toronto, Ont.

Pretty Wedding At Finch Bay

Bennett - Huckins

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Matthias Church, Fitch Bay, on Saturday afternoon, July 4, at three o'clock, when Phyllis Dawn, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald H. Huckins, and Mr. Garnett Archibald Bennett, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Bennett, of Arundel, Que., were joined in marriage, the Rev. R. A. Carson officiating.

Mrs. C. P. Rider played the wedding music and during the signing of the register Miss June Dey, of Otterburn Park, sang "Where E'er You Walk".

The church was decorated with baskets of delphinium, ferns and summer flowers, red and white flowers were on the altar, and the pews reserved for guests were marked with white satin ribbon and pale mauve flowers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white bridal satin, made with a very full skirt, fitted bodice and small rolled collar, long sleeves with points extending over the hands and trimmed with small covered buttons. Her fingertip veil was of embroidered illusion, and was held in place with a bandeau of white flowers. She wore the groom's gift, a necklace of pearls, and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

She was attended by her sister, Barbara Huckins, as maid of honor, who wore a strapless gown of pale green nylon net over taffeta with a taffeta bolero, and wore matching net mitts. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place by a bandeau of pink flowers and she carried a colonial bouquet of bronze roses.

Miss Eva Huckins, as bridesmaid, wore pale yellow nylon net over taffeta made on similar lines as the maid of honor with a bolero of pale yellow lace. She wore matching net mitts and her shoulder length veil was held in place by a bandeau of pale yellow flowers. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses.

Mr. James Bennett, brother of the groom, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Ross Dey of Otterburn Park and Mr. Rupert Huckins, brother of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a street-length navy sheer dress, navy hat, and her corsage was of American Beauty roses, tied with matching ribbon.

Following the ceremony the reception was held in Canon Gustin Hall. The receiving line was on the lawn of the hall, where the young couple received the congratulations and good wishes of the many guests. The bride's table was centered with the wedding cake, and tapers in silver holders. The guests were seated at small tables. Rev. R. A. Carson proposed a toast to the bride, which was responded to by the groom. Mr. James Bennett, best man, read a telegram of congratulations from friends in Arundel, and a cablegram from the bridegroom's brother in England.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett left for a motor trip to the New England States, the bride wearing for travelling a teal blue wool suit, white hat and accessories. They will reside in Arundel.

Marriage Ceremony At St. Matthew's

Cameron - Crawford

The Anglican Church of St. Matthew, at Grenville, was the scene of the marriage of Jean, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Crawford, of Avoca, to Mr. Keith Cameron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cameron, of Vankleek Hill. The ceremony was performed by the rector of the parish, the Rev. Mr. P. R. Stote. The church was prettily decorated with summer flowers. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Russel Owens.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white net over white satin and bolero of lace with long sleeves; the bodice was trimmed with sequins. The long veil was fan shaped and ornamented with flowers. The bride carried a bouquet of roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Marilyn Crawford, the bride's sister, was dressed in blue net over satin, and the bridesmaid, Miss June Cameron, sister of the groom, was in pink net over satin. Both had lace boleros and shoulder length veils. They each carried a bouquet of gladioli and iris.

The best man was Mr. Edward Graham. Ushers were Messrs. Calvin, Andrew and Glen Cameron.

The bride's mother was in tourquoise nylon with white accessories, with a corsage of roses. The mother of the groom was in a dress of navy blue, with a pink hat and a corsage of pink roses.

After the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents, while the groom's parents gave a reception at McIntyre's Hall in the evening, after which the young couple left on a wedding trip. They will reside in Montreal upon their return.

Couple Married in Pointe au Chene

De Santis - St. Amant

The parish Church of Pointe au Chene, Que., was the scene of a pretty wedding on Thursday morning, July 23 — the parish priest officiating at the marriage of Jeannette St. Amant, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward St. Amant, of Pointe au Chene, to Mr. Oswald De Santis, son of Mrs. N. De Santis, of Trail, B.C.

The bride, who was unattended, was given in marriage by her father. Mr. A. DeSantis acted as best man for his brother.

The bride wore a cocktail-length dress of white taffeta and nylon, the bodice being ornamented with rhinestones, and a large hat of white Milan straw. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white carnations and pink roses.

Mrs. St. Amant, the bride's mother, was in a blue taffeta dress and navy blue velvet hat, with white accessories.

The young couple left later on their wedding trip to Trail, B.C., and will return through the Rockies to Calgary where they will make their home. They are accompanied by the good wishes of their many friends.

B.A. STARS IN 'DOMESTIC ROLE' IN LONDON

—Central Press Canadian

Canada's famed figure-skating champ is holding down a different type of job for the summer, and is "loving every minute of it." Since the first of June, Barbara Ann Scott has been baby-sitting in London, Ont., and is very happy about the job, since one of her two charges, Elizabeth, seen above with her, is her godchild. Away from her theatrical career for the summer, Barbara Ann volunteered to hold the fort at the residence of Dr. George Edward Hall, president of the University of Western Ontario, while he and his wife went off to the coronation and a tour of Europe. When the Halls are back from their holiday in August, it will be time for Barbara Ann to go "back to work" in Chicago for six weeks of solid rehearsals.

August 10th, 1953, is a day of the utmost importance to you.

It is the day you, as a free citizen of a free country, sit in judgment and render your decision.

On that day, you, and you alone must decide whether you wish to see a continuation of wastefulness, extravagance and inefficiency unparallelled in Canadian history, whether a government which has persistently ignored you as a voter, through your elected representatives, and continues to enact legislation by Order-in-Council, should be returned to power, whether this should be stopped and a new government be elected to represent you in a truly democratic manner; a government committed to a program of savings in every department, savings which can amount to at least $500,000,000. per year of your money, and with the consequent result of a reduction in the awful taxes which we are now paying.

OR

The issues are clear-cut and you will not be deceived.

VOTE so that your burden of taxes may be eased.

VOTE that you may have a government which respects your will.

VOTE for your official Progressive-Conservative candidate —

LINTON W. ARMSTRONG

"No", said the guest, "I wake up every morning at seven."

"In that case", said the proprietor, "would you mind calling the maid."

Grandpa's purchase of a Missouri mule for his farm was a sad deal. Unable to make the critter gee or haw or whoa or anything, he hired a professional mule trainer. The first thing the trainer did was to whap the mule over the head with a two-by-four plank. The mule didn't budge. The trainer whacked him again with his murderous bludgeon.

"Hey", protested Grandpa, "are you a'goin' to kill off my mule?"

Teacher Discusses The Athletic Code

SPORTS CAMERA
By Garry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

For a real sports fan, it's pretty difficult to realize that some of the attitudes and practices of professional and commercialized sport aren't of the very highest order.

But if you look at the picture with a critical eye you'll find the odd occurrence that isn't exactly "cricket".

Joseph McCulley, warden of Hart House, University of Toronto, looked at professional sport from a teacher's standpoint and decided there's an ever-present danger that it will influence both players and coaches on school teams — and not for good.

Addressing the men's physical education section of the Ontario Education Association, Mr. McCulley said there is nothing to be gained by teachers complaining about the inroads of professionalism.

"It is the role of the teacher to emphasize continually those values in sport which contribute positively to the growth and development of the normal adolescent.

"An educator must constantly reassert his fundamental belief in the dignity of the individual. He must constantly reaffirm that games, sports, athletics are a vital part of an educational program designed to assist in the development of well-rounded human beings."

Athletic Code

Mr. McCulley presented a worthy code for both players and coaches in school athletics.

For players: Play the game for the game's sake; be generous in winning; be graceful in losing; be fair at all times, no matter what the cost; be obedient to the rules; work for the good of the team.

Accept gracefully the decision of officials; believe in the honesty of opponents; conduct yourself with honor and dignity, and recognize the efforts of team-mates or opponents regardless of color, race or creed.

For coaches: The game is a game for happiness; the rules are to be regarded as mutual agreements; visiting teams and spectators are to be regarded as honored guests of the home team; no advantages are to be sought over others except those of superior skill.

Decisions of officials are to be accepted without outward appearance of vexation; officials and opponents are to be regarded and treated as honest in intentions; to win at any cost defeats the purpose of the game; losing can be a great triumph when the best has been given.

The muskrat is not a rat. He is an amphibious rodent and should be called a "musquash".

St. Louis Cardinals' Try-Out Camp Aug. 7-8 At Valleyfield

Eddie Stanky

Valleyfield, Que., has been selected as one of the sites of the St. Louis Cardinals' famous tryout camps, when Red Bird scouts will look for diamond talent there on Friday and Saturday, August 7-8.

Manager Eddie Stanky at St. Louis stressed the importance of tryout camps by relating that, "The Cardinals since 1926 — when they won their first pennant and World Eeries — have been a first division ball club in 23 out of 27 years, primarily because they operate the finest farm system in professional baseball.

"Three-fourths of the players on the Cardinals were developed in our own minor league system and one-fourth of them were developed and discovered in our tryout camps."

Each summer the St. Louis National Leaguers conduct tryout camps throughout the United States and Canada as a means of giving young players between 17 and 23 a chance to win a professional contract with the Red Birds.

"Major league talent", emphasized the Red Bird skipper, "must be developed in the minors. And today the Cardinals — with 18 farm clubs throughout 14 States and Canada—have the best system for the development and advancement of young players."

Many players from Canada are getting a chance to develop into major leaguers in the Cards' farm system. In particular, Stanky pointed with pride to Outfielder Tom Burgess of London, Ont., who is with the Red Birds' Rochester, N.Y., farm club in the AAA International League, just one step below the majors.

Workout at Valleyfield will get underway each day at 10 a.m. Players between 17 and 23 are invited to attend and should bring their own glove, shoes and a uniform, if they have one.

Player Missing Seeks Cooler Clime

By Garry Lougheed

Toronto Maple Leafs, who bought a ball player who doesn't like the heat, were hunting for him this month in the relative coolness of Northern Ontario.

The Leafs bought Al Cihocki from the St. Louis Browns to fill their injury-riddled infield. Cihocki was playing in the Texas League at the time and when the Leafs tried to contact him they found that the heeat of drought-stricken Texas was too much for him. He had left his team without permission and was reported heading into Northern Ontario for some fishing. At last reports the Leafs were still on the lookout.

Gagnon's Club

René Gagnon, proprietor of Rex Café, Main Street, has started a club, and you sport fans in the last few games must have been asked to buy a ticket (3 for 25c, 15 for $1). Well, the money made from these drawings is handed over to the Lachute Tigers Club to help them financially; and if you want to help still more by giving a prize, call René's establishment and ask for that enthusiastic supporter of the Tigers — one who knows baseball inside out. And if you want to know anything about baseball, incidentally, ask René Gagnon and you can be sure to get the answer.

Last Sunday four prizes were drawn — 1st, $10 worth of merchandise; 2nd, $5 ditto; 3rd, a big box of chocolates; 4th, an autographed baseball. — Yours truly was the lucky winner of the 4th prize, given by Gagnon and autographed by all the Tigers team.

Calvert Trophy

Groulx still leads the parade with 1,659 votes, Hardy keeping a steady pace in second place. Luciano has moved up from 10th to 8th. Yeager, being unlucky this summer with sickness and an accident to his fingers, has dropped to 9th place, but he should take a lot of votes before the season is over. Bourbeau, winning his 13th game out of 14, has gained one notch in the list.

Changes

It may not be news by now, but a lot of changes and new players in the Laurentide League were noted last week.

Joliette — new players from Hampstead, N.H.; a 19-year-old pitcher, Nick Malfara, formerly with St. Eustache.

Lachine — Wingo Lariviere.

Ste. Therese — Jackie Leclair.

Lachute — Beauchemin, a new pitcher; and none other than Stan Breard, who should add a lot of strength to the Tigers.

News

Bourbeau for Lachute, and Harvey Cohen for Valleyfield, are the only two pitchers to have beaten all clubs in the League. R. Latour, Ste. Therese, all clubs except St. Jerome.

Luck and Bad Luck

Too bad that Pitcher Malone was hit by a hard line drive in Lachine last Wednesday, for up to that time he was keeping Lachine from hitting too much. After his accident he had to be replaced by Jeanneau, in the 8th, who lost 1 inning and a half, giving away 2 hits and 4 hits, and then was replaced by Beauchemin, who can throw them very fast. But it was then too late, Lachute losing 3 to 2.

Sunday afternoon at the Lachute Stadium the fans certainly saw a nice game, especially the 9th inning; with the score 3 to 1, the Tigers placed three men on bases and the St. Eustache 3rd baseman saved the day by making a miracle stop on Cotnoir's drive to 3rd — the game finishing 3 to 2 for St. Eustache. But there were thrills for all.

Home Runs

On Saturday Kimball, the Tigers' 3rd baseman, got himself two homers, and Sunday afternoon he got another one. Keep it up, Bud; you're now not very far from Gerry Claude — if my calculations are right, you now have the 15th.

The All-Star Game

At Ste. Therese last Monday night the Canadian Aces defeated the American Aces 7 to 6. The Canadians had to come from behind to win the game.

Showman Ralph Lapointe, from St. Jerome, playing for the American team, was thrown out of the game by referee Trudel.

The Lachute Tigers where well represented in this game by Groulx, Taillefer, Paules, Luciano, Hardy, Ricciani, and in absentia, Gerry Cotnoir, Yeager, Bourbeau.

The vice-president pitched the first ball of the game, while the president, Dr. Cherrier of St. Jerome, was catcher and the M.P.P. was at bat.

All the players of both teams were lined up at the 7th inning, and President Cherrier gave each of them a very nice ash tray as a souvenir, and a crest reading, "La Ligue des Laurentides All-Star Game 1953".

Banville from Ste. Therese Club was badly hit by a fast ball and had to be sent to hospital; here's hoping to see Banville soon in uniform again.

It was announced at the start of the game that Lachute's famous pitcher, Fred Bourbeau (13 wins, 1 loss) who was supposed to pitch, was absent due to the death of his brother in Sorel. Friends extend to Fred their deepest sympathy.

Eight prizes were drawn during the game, given by supporters of the league and from every town represented in the league.

Altogether, it was a nice baseball game to see.

Many newsmen from various papers were on hand to see this game, also the manager of the Quebec Baseball Club Provincial League.

PATROLS KEEP TAB ON GAS PIPELINES

Edmonton (CP) — To ensure the smooth operation of Alberta's 1,100 miles of gas transmission pipelines, the province's gas companies employ crews of men known as "linewalkers".

Their job is to patrol the line on foot, following a carefully designed schedule. A linewalker averages 12 miles a day, using snowshoes or skis in the winter.

He examines closely all aboveground portions of the line. Where it crosses a river he looks for changes in the river and erosion of the banks.

Leaks in underground pipelines are rare, but if they occur, the highly-trained inspector detects them from such clues as discolored vegetation or swarms of flies.

Marked Increase in Manufacture of Autos in Canada

Toronto — Canadian automobile manufacturers produced over 52,000 more motor vehicles in the first six months of 1953 than in the comparable period of 1952. This was an increase of 22% over 1952 production. Although passenger car production increased by over 41%, motor truck production decreased approximately 10%.

The demand of the home market accounted mainly for the increase in passenger cars as export vehicles dropped for both cars and trucks and was the chief reason for the drop in truck production.

Passenger car production for sale in Canada totalled 185,819 units as against 123,177 for the first six months last year. Trucks for sale in Canada were 67,331 compared with 62,468 in the first six months last year.

There were over 40,000 workers in the Canadian automobile factories as of the end of June in comparison to 36,240 in January this year and 36,200 in June 1952.

The payroll for these employees was up over $10 million to $76,619,600 as compared with $66,402,500 for the same six month period in 1952.

Total excise and sales taxes of $93,388,000 collected by the manufacturers and remitted to the federal government for the first six months exceeded by more than $21,480,000 the taxes remitted for the same period last year. This figure also exceeds by over $16,700,000 the total wages and salaries paid out by the manufacturers for the same period.

Available for the first time are figures on registrations for 1952. Passenger cars soared to 2,290,800, an increase of 20% over 1951 registrations of 1,910,100. Motor truck registrations of 768,000 were over 24% above the 1951 figure of 617,200.

Evidently piqued the editor of the Moosomin (Sask.) World-Spectator writes: "Those mistakes you see in the paper don't always happen. There are some readers who are always looking for mistakes and these are put there for their benefit. This isn't the largest paper, by any means, but we try to have something for everyone."

G. Jacobsen of Local Construction Firm On Expedition Near the North Pole

George Jacobsen, president of the Tower Company, Lachute, and E. E. Reid, both long interested in Arctic investigation, will join three Ottawa experts in a field trip to within some 500 miles of the North Pole.

The party left Monday by plane from Ottawa to Churchill, then to Resolute Bay, Cornwallis Island and Axel Heiberg Island, which shares with Ellesmere Island the distinction of being the two most northerly islands in Canada.

Both Mr. Jacobsen and Mr. Reid took their skis and during one of their field trips inland, will attempt to ski over a high permanent glacier covering some of the mountains of Axel Heiberg Island.

Permafrost Research

Their particular interest is permafrost, which has given rise to some of the knottiest building problems in the Arctic.

The purpose of this year's expedition is to make a reconnaissance for a suitable site as a base for the main expedition for which major work is planned for the years 1954 and 1955.

Other members of the party are Dr. A. E. Porsild of the National Museum, Ottawa, Col. Graham W. Rowley, of the Defence Research Board, Ottawa, and Dalton Muir, of the National Film Board, Ottawa. Pilot for the party is W. W. Phipps of Ottawa.

Urges Conservation Of Ontario Forests

Toronto (CP) — Lumbermen in the Parry Sound district are cutting trees faster than nature is growing them, the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests says.

"If the present rate of cutting continues the supply of mature timber in several species will be exhausted inside of 10 years". J. F. Sharpe, chief of the Timber management division, said recently.

The findings came as a result of a five year survey of 172,000 square miles of Ontario's forests started in 1945. The report points out that acual cuttings in the Parry Sound, North Bay and Algonquin districts were approximately twice as heavy as had been figured.

"Until the present situation has been rectified we will not encourage new applications for lumber cutting", Mr. Sharpe said. But he pointed out that the government had no control over those already licensed. "Some of their permits predate Confederation", he said. He pointed out that the Ontario government would not curtail cuttings to the extent where mills dependent on a timber stand for their lumber would have to operate at a deficit.

One means of rectifying the situation has been the planting of 650,000 trees in the Parry Sound district as part of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests reforestation plan. Where the going was too rough for mechanical methods the trees were planted by hand.

School Radio Audience Still Growing

Figures just released on the part being played by radio in the Canadian school curriculum show that CBC school broadcasts are continuing to grow in popularity with both teachers and students.

Of the 21,650 English-language schools in Canada, no less than 55 per cent are equipped with radios. This adds up to a classrooom audience alone of about one million students. Not taken into account are numerous shut-in students in hospitals and other institutions across the country and many adults who tune in to hear such productions as Shakespear's Julius Caesar and Macbeth,

The great growth in the CBC's school broadcast classroom audience is reflected by figures showing that more than 12,000 English-language schools in Canada are now equipped with radios, an increase of more than seven thousand over 1949.

CBC school broadcasts are now in their 11th year and the programs are planned by the CBC and the National Advisory Council on School Broadcasting. The council includes representatives of the provincial departments of education and teachers' organizations.

The CBC produces more than 1,200 school broadcasts each year, with the content of the programs generally related to some phase of the school course or some aspect of life in Canada. The success of the broadcasts is striking evidence of the high degree of co-operation between the departments of education, the teachers, the CBC and privately-owned affiliated stations, and the parents of Canada.

Peggi Loder

One of the cutest little actresses in Canadian radio is Peggi Loder of Toronto, heard in such CBC series as The Tylers, Summer Fallow, Cockoo Clock House, Cross Section, and Aunt Lucy, as well as in a good many other programs from time to time. She was one of the few child radio performers who had steady work right through her teens, and now, married to a musician and the mother of two, she is heard on the air nearly every day.

HAPPY YOUNGSTER LEARNS TO TALK

Montreal — When 10-year-old Marjorie Golinski of Glenevia, Alta., came east to Halifax last fall she had been completely in a world of her own since birth — she couldn't see, hear or speak.

She recently passed through Canadian National Railway's Central Station here en route home after nine months at the Halifax School for the Deaf. While she still can't see or hear, her future is considerably brighter because of the fact that she has developed a 200-word vocabulary through her sense of touch.

Miss L. Fearon, an instructress at the school, is accompanying the child home and will stay with her until Marjorie's mother develops the knack of teaching the youngster.

Salads and Dressings

This is National Salad Week, so it is a good time to talk about salads. There are many reasons why we should eat salads especially on hot summer days. The first reason is that we dress coolly in the summer so why not eat coolly. When we think of cool food, we just naturally think of salads. If you are hot and tired and not very hungry and you sit down to the table and there in front of you is a crisp, cool salad, just looking at it will actually refresh the eyes and make you feel refreshed as well. Another reason for eating salads is that fruits and vegetables are plentiful now and it is our pleasant duty to eat as many as we can. Of course, it is wise to remember that at all times we should eat plenty of fruits and vegetables.

The making of salads gives us a chance to use all the imagination and artistry we possess. With some foods it is a little difficult to be artistic, but with salads, you can let your talents have full play. Anyone having difficulty thinking of ideas for salad combinations can write to the Department of Agriculture in Ottawa for the Consumer Section folder "Salads". It has all kinds of suggestions for salad combinations and there are some very good recipes for salad dressings too.

People have been writing about salads for ages. Why, even Shakespeare refers to salads in one of his plays when Cleopatra says "My salad days when I was green in judgment". Green is the exact word we think of when we say salads. Actually, fruits and vegetables of every hue and color may be used in salads, but usually the foundation or background is green. No matter what the color, the salad should taste as good as it looks and to make it taste good, the right salad dressing should be used. Salad dressings have not been the subject of the literary pen as salads have, but they have a history which is most interesting. It seems that Louis XIV is credited with introducing salad dressings or salad sauces as they were known then. It is reported that at one time when the French and the British were warring, after a certain French victory, the commanding general ordered a feast of celebration. His personal chef developed a special sauce and named it after the Village of Mahon where the festivities took place. French chefs introduced this sauce to almost all countries and today mayonnaise is used in many salads.

A plain mayonnaise is very good as it is, but it has countless variations which blend well with different salad ingredients. For instance, with meat or poultry salads, the home economists suggest the addition of a dash of curry or chili powder to give the mayonnaise a different flavor. Egg salads are particularly good when some chopped pickle or pickle relish is mixed with the mayonnaise which is to be used. Another dressing the home economists are very fond of is a mixture of half mayonnaise and half sour cream, to which finely chopped cucumber is added. This dressing is very good with fish salads or with cole slaw for it has a most appealing tartness. A little chopped green onion and a sprinkling of celery seed is a good combination to add to mayonnaise when it is to be used on jellied vegetable salads.

There is a wide variety of French dressings that can be used too. For instance, the home economists particularly recommend the addition of a little crumbled Roquefort cheese to French dressing when it is to be used on tossed green salads or vegetable salads. Many homemakers like to marinate meat or poultry when they are to be used in salads. When marinating, allow the meat or poultry to stand in French dressing about one hour. The French dressing is especially good if it has meat sauce, chili sauce or horseradish added to it. Sweet, clear French dressing is wonderful with fruit salad, and the home economists suggest adding a little tart jelly or cranberry sauce to the dressing for extra special flavor.

BEAUTY AND THE FEAST — With National Salad Week opening on July 30 across Canada, Lois Brown, of Ottawa, "Miss Agriculture of 1953", poses with a basket of ingredients for almost any kind of delicious salad you want to make. National Salad Week is held each year to promote the use of Canadian fruits and vegetables and advice and recipes are made available everywhere to encourage the most advantageous use of this country's high-quality garden produce.

Serve food attractively. This is almost as important as cooking food well. Carelessly served food looks unappetizing—and it usually is.

Pie of the Month — Ice Cream Parfait

By Betty Barclay

As a command performance, that "perfect" dessert — Ice Cream Parfait Pie — is here again. And no wonder folks take to it so fast. For who doesn't like ice cream, fruit, a tender, flaky pie crust and the light, frothiness made possible by fruit-flavored gelatin. Here, to remind you how delightfully simple it is to prepare, we give you Orange-Banana Parfait Pie. As other fresh fruits come into season, change your flavor combinations around. The variations are numerous but the deliciousness is always there.

Banana-Orange Parfait Pie

1 Package orange-flavored gelatin, 1¼ cups hot water, 1 pint vanilla ice cream, ½ cup sliced banana, ½ cup diced orange sections (drained), 1 baked 9-inch pastry shell (cooled).

Dissolve gelatin in hot water in 2-quart saucepan. Add ice cream by spoonfuls, stirring until melted. Then chill until thickened but not set (15 to 25 minutes). Fold in fruit. Turn into pastry shell. Chill until firm (20 to 30 minutes). Garnish with whipped cream and additional fruit.

Green Peas Were Royal Favorite, 17th Century

Hamilton — Green peas, Canada's most popular vegetable in fresh, canned and frozen varieties, originated in ancient times in Asia and reached a zenith of popularity in the royal courts of Europe in the 17th Century, according to historical records.

"Kings, princes and nobility set an example in the eating of this dish which might be characterized as gluttonous", is the way one writer described the succulent vegetable's acceptance in European countries 300 years ago.

During the Middle Ages garden pea seeds were imported from France and English gardeners were the first to give names to varieties which they developed, reports the American Can Company, which developed a method of retaining the green color of fresh peas in the canning process.

Cultivation of green peas in North America dates back to the earliest settlers who planted pea seeds in kitchen gardens. They are still a standby for backyard gardens as well as being a leading commercial canning crop an important in the frozen food industry.

"Canned green peas have become the most popular vegetable on the grocer's shelf and are now a staple item of diet in many thousands of Canadian homes the year 'round", said G. H. McVean, Canadian manager of sales for the can-making firm.

Last year's Canadian pack totalled 79,776,000 cans (Federal Government estimate), he said.

"Pace Eggs" Featured In Institute Display

Blackpool, England (CP).— There is not an agricultural show held in England or Wales today which does not include exhibits by the local branches of the Women's Institute. There now are 7,962 branches with 460,000 members.

Home cooking and fine needlework appear on the Women's Institute stands at every agricultural show as a matter of course, but among the exhibits at the Royal Show here in July an additional fine local flavor was provided by "pace eggs".

These are hen's eggs dyed and decorated by methods hundreds of years old. They were at one time connected with the medieval Easter Mummers' play, "St. George and the Saracen", and now are given to children who tour towns and villages singing the "Pace Egging Song" which tells the story of the play.

Week's Salad Quiz

Quiz Programs are quite the style today and the home economists of the Consumer Section at Ottawa have sent this salad quiz which every homemaker should be interested in answering.

If you answer "yes" to seven out of the ten questions, the home economists say you are a better than average homemaker, but if you answer "yes" to only four or five questions, then there is a little room for improvement.

Question No. 1—Did you know that Canadian Salad Week starts July 30 and continues until August 8?. These days were chosen because they coincide with the time when there is the greatest variety of fruits and vegetables on the market. We all know that we should eat salads all year round, not just during Salad Week, but this particular week is to bring to the attention of Canadians the importance of fruits and vegetables in the diet.

Question No. 2—Does your family have one serving of citrus fruit or tomatoes or their juices; and one serving of potatoes and two servings of vegetables, preferably leafy, green and yellow and frequently raw, every day? In other words, do you follow the recommendations from Canada's Food Rules in the daily meals you plan for the family?

Question No. 3—Do you serve some type of a salad to your family every day? By some type of a salad, the home economists mean that it may be just a plain vegetable, such as lettuce served with a dressing, or it may be a number of vegetables or fruits alone or combined with meat, cheese or eggs.

Question No. 4—(May rate a few "no's"). Do you serve salads which appeal to your family? You should not have to say: "Please eat this salad because you haven't had your green vegetables today". The family should enjoy salads. If they don't, try and find a remedy. If the male members of the family feel that salads are not filling enough and if they half facetiously refer to them as "bunny" food, then add some cheese, meat, fish or eggs. For instance, with tossed salad, add strips or dices of meat or with a potato salad, a few meat cubes or plenty of chopped eggs. Sometimes a special dressing will add that certain something to a salad which will make it appeal to everyone. For instance, a little strong cheese added to a French dressing gives it a special tang or some tart jelly like currant jelly added to a mayonnaise will give extra flavor to a fruit salad. If the family does not like to make a salad their whole meal, then be sure to serve small salads with the main course. A side salad may take the place of a vegetable and your family can enjoy the greens along with the meat.

Question No. 5—Do you realize that salads can be economical? Notice the home economists say can be, because all salads are not economical. Some use out-of-season foods, others use imported foods, both of which may be quite expensive. If salads are made out of foods which are produced in Canada, and are in season, then naturally, they are less expensive, but full of flavor and attractive.

Question No. 6—Do your salads have eye appeal? After all—eye appeal is the keynote to a perfect salad. Perhaps you feel that you are not the artistic type and you have difficulty arranging a salad so that it will look attractive. If that is the case, keep garnishes simple but let your imagination have full play in using them. One important thing if not to give a fixed look to a salad for it loses its attractiveness if the ingredients are placed in a regular pattern. Another thing that so often ruins a salad is that the ingredients look wilted. Always have your salad makings crisp, cool and clean and be sure that the fruits and vegetables are well drained before they are used. A salad which has too much dressing on it will look flat, so be sparing with the dressing. Extra dressing may be served in a separate bowl.

Question No. 7—Do you serve different types of salad dressings with different salads? Do you first select a dressing that suits your salad? There are three basic types of salad dressings, mayonnaise, cooked salad dressing and French dressing, and each of the three types has many variations. For instance you can vary French dressing by adding crumbled cheese, finely chopped parsley, sweet pickle, dill pickle, olives, green pepper or hard cooked eggs. Try these variations and find which type you prefer with certain salads.

Question No. 8—Do you serve several green in salads? Some people are in a rut with salads for they do not use any green but lettuce. Do not forget that crisp, tender spinach or chard leaves are excellent, curly endive which has a loose crinkly leaf is another good green and Chinese cabbage, watercress or even celery leaves are all fine to use.

Question No. 9—Do you combine canned vegetables or fruits with fresh fruits or vegetables in salads? When all fresh fruits and vegetables are not available for salads, canned or frozen vegetables may be used very successfully. For color, crisp texture and appearance, combine the canned food with crisp lettuce, tomatoes, cucumbers or other fresh fruits and vegetables.

Question No. 10—Do you plan to serve a salad every day from now on? The consumption of fruits and vegetables in Canada is much lower than it should be and it is our pleasant duty to try and use more. The home economists of the Consumer Section have a salad folder of all sorts of salad ideas. Write now to the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, for a copy.

"It is awful, Mrs. Smith, the way sports are degenerating. My boy was dismissed from the ball team because he was too honest.

"What was the matter?"

"He wouldn't steal bases."

Try soup and a sandwich — the common, but quick 'n tasty lunch. For one of those extra busy days, make up plain, sliced cheese sandwiches before you put the bread away. Leave them whole, with crusts on, and wrap them all together in waxed paper — or the bread wrapper. When the clock says lunch time, heat your favorite soup, grill the cheese sandwiches, cut into fingers for easy catsup dipping, and your family will eat 'em up. Better make sure you have plenty of the 'made ahead' cheese sandwiches; someone might just ask for more!

The Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Watson had as guests last Saturday — their mother, Mrs. Jean Watson, sister, Miss Norma Watson, and cousins, the Misses Jean Rea and Mary O'Neill, all of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. H. LeRoy and two sons, Lynne and Peter, motored to Grece's Point last Wednesday and were guests of Miss Eileen MacKinnon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Prior spent last week at "Shangri-La", the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Prior.

Christening Ceremonies

A christening ceremony took place at St. Mungo's United Church on July 5 at 6.30 p.m., when the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Villeneuve received the names Violetta Olive — the Rev. R. Watson officiating. Mr. W. Canning was godfather for his grandniece.

After the regular Sunday morning service at St. Mungo's on July 12, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Fitchett was baptized, receiving the names Albert Weir, after which afternoon tea was served at Mr. and Mrs. W. Fitchett's summer home; Mrs. Fitchett Sr., and Miss Sheila Fitchett, of Montreal, were guests.

Agenda Announced for Country Women's Conf'ce

The agenda for the Toronto Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World is now released. Round table discussions are being featured at this triennial meeting, as it is felt informal group discussion is the best method of eliciting information on the needs of rural women and helping them solve their problems. Experts will be present to give advice as needed, including representatives from UNESCO, FAO, WHO and the Economics Division of the Canadian Department of Agriculture.

There are eight such discussions listed: Problems and programs of rural women in less developed areas, Technical assistance programs (including rural home economics), Education of Rural Youth and the part of the family in training for world understanding, (Mrs. R. Thomson, a member of the Q.W.I. executive has been asked to assist in this discussion) Ways and means of spreading information about UN and its agencies, Adult Education programs for ACWW societies (including citizenship and raising standards of living), Economic problems of people on the land, Conservation of natural resources, and International exchange programs.

Women from all over the world will be in these groups to compare notes and "generally speak their mind" — the comment made by the ACWW Press Officer, Mrs. Putland Van Someren, who goes on to say, "The result may well mean a great step forward in the life of rural women.

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Your Child's Health

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

Most mothers look on the vacation period in the summer as a splendid opportunity to build up their child's health. The hours of play in the fresh air and sunshine and the freedom from school routines are welcomed by youngsters and their parents.

Mothers do have to guard that sun tan will not turn into sunburn and that the "no hat" fashion will not produce a sunstroke. Boys and girls should be able to recognize the three-leaved poison ivy menace and avoid this wretched plant! If polio should strike, children should be kept away from crowds and be protected from becoming exhausted by play.

Every parent wants to give his child as good a start in healthy living as he can. Mothers try to follow essential health rules in bringing up their children, by getting them inoculated against diphtheria, smallpox and whooping cough, by including cod liver oil and fruit in the breakfast menu, by serving balanced meals, and by being careful on vacations that milk is pasteurized and water is safe.

A mother and father who have taken turns sitting up at night by the bedside of a sick child, know what anxiety sickness can bring to a parent's heart! Modern parents are interested in news of schemes to promote the good health of boys and girls.

Many school children have the benefit of visits from a school nurse. The fine job which these nurses do for hundreds of boys and girls should receive more recognition. Their work is often supplemented by special health projects sponsored by Service Clubs such as eye examinations and necessary glasses provided for needy youngsters. The field of preventive medicine is a most important one. It builds a fence at the top of a precipice instead of picking up and caring for wrecks of humanity at the foot of the cliff.

However, these measures do not replace an annual check-up of a child's physical condition by a doctor. He is the guardian of the child's health and parents look to him for guidance.

There are a number of defects he may point out which must be looked after.

Tooth decay is a too common defect and enlarged or diseased tonsils come second. Less general disorders are skin infections such as acne, scabies, impetigo, flat feet, anemia and poor posture.

In almost every school some scholars are handicapped by poor vision or poor hearing. Their parents may be unaware of these barriers to their progress at school. In some cases low marks and failure to pass examinations in the past have been due not to the child's refusal to concentrate, nor to his lack of eagerness to learn, but because his eyesight or hearing were far below normal. Hernia and bone or joint defects sometimes come to light in children as well as heart damage from rheumatic fever or some other cause in a thorough physical examination.

There is such a thing as being too fussy about a child's health and handicapping a child's mental health by spoiling his happiness and sense of security by an overconcern for his well-being. There is a "golden mean" or right middle course in promoting good health in a child!

CHANCES are you have, because practically everything we eat — grains, vegetables, meat, milk, eggs — contains aluminum. This is not surprising, since one-eighth of the earth's crust is aluminum.

Aluminum is most readily available commercially, however, in the form of bauxite ore. Alcan ships this ore from South America to feed its pot lines at Arvida, Isle Maligne, Shawinigan Falls and Beauharnois, P. Que. When the huge new Kitimat development is completed in B.C., refined ore will be shipped up the West Coast from South American or other abundant sources. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

A community springs up and, as it grows, a branch bank opens its doors. This pattern, basic in Canada's development, has been repeated again and again in pioneer areas, villages, towns and cities. Through local branches, the chartered banks bring to small communities, as well as large, the same broad range of banking service.

There are now 3,800 branches of Canada's chartered banks serving the banking needs of Canadians, 700 opened in the past ten years.

Ways of City Folk, and Marvels Of Midsummer in the Country

"SUNNYACRES SKETCHES"
By Margaret Cook

The conversations at Sunnyacres are often peculiar, not to say screwy, as witness the following:

Betty: "Mummy, what is Nassau?"

Mother: "It is the capital of the Bahamas, as you very well ought to know."

— From this, the reader will deduce that our daughter is allowed to read the crime novels. It is a queer thing, but the actors in that type of literature are always being attacked by nausea. As a child, our reading was strictly censored, our fare being predominantly Dickens and Shakespeare, with large rations of Bible stories on the side. As a result, our taste was utterly ruined, so much so, that we cannot read a trashy story through; just when we arrive at the crucial seduction scene, we have to yawn and go back to history, or tales of exploration, or even, at a pinch, a treatise on psychology. Not wanting our offspring to grow up with no knowledge of modern trends, we allow some browsing among the crime shelf, with tactful steering toward Agatha Christie, Mary Roberts Rhineheart and Ngaio Marsh. . . Having written that, we are struck with the fact that all our favorite crime writers are women! Their style is more subtle, not so many spitoons and guns, more poisons and powder-puffs. Anyway, as some critic has recently pointed out, when one reads a mystery novel, one can at least be sure that there is a plot and a story. These noisome delvings into the subconscious, sold as novels, hardly rate the name of story.

No article this summer would be complete without some mention of the weather. You will remember that we mentioned icy waves; no sooner was that in print, than the heat was upon us and the water became a blessed haven to which we gave our bodies with delight and gratitude. The beach in the afternoons was thronged with small fry and their parents, everybody grumbling about the heat. Sometimes, we took a few minutes off to speak pityingly of our friends frying in the city. In the midst of the heat wave, our neighbors joined us, and the man of the trio spent most of his time down at the well, having the icy water pumped over him. These, we felt, were heroic measures, but our guest was refreshed and strengthened. The bread-and-butter letter, that duly arrived, mentioned that the poor fellow was still talking wistfully of "that beautiful water". Now, as we write, the wheel has made a complete turn and our new guests are sitting happily around the hearth fire. . . As we have mentioned before, we have a horrid climate.

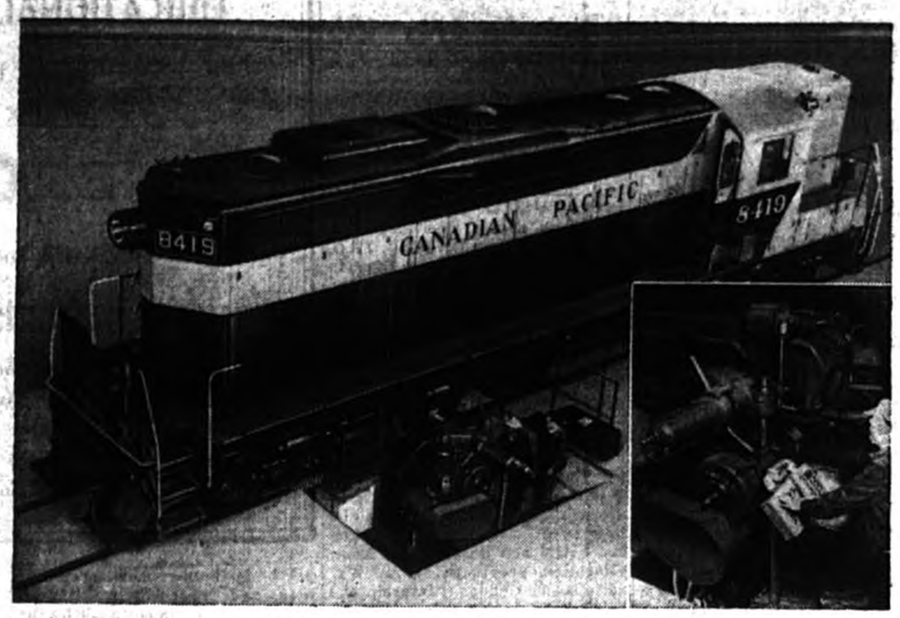
Speaking of guests, we are always amused by the different reactions to life in the country. Short stories innumerable have been written about the amusing antics of the country bumpkin in the city, but nothing could be funnier than the city slicker in the country! Betty has recently had a young visitor whose life has been spent in Ottawa and in our suburb. Life up here was bewildering and exhausting. We would find her curled up asleep after what was to us a normal exertion, and such things as well-water and unguarded beaches were obviously unwelcome novelties. The chlorinated sewage that Montreal and its suburbs drink was as ambrosia to her palate, and she finds the swimming better in it, also. As for trees and animal life, our pride and pleasure, they were menaces. The trees were "those ghostly trees", and all animal life a source of fear. It seems a pity that thousands of our children are brought up deprived of their natural heritage. There should be a compulsory exchange of youth between country and city, so that the one could learn the use of gadgets, and how to enter crowded buildings and rooms without falling over one's feet — and the other find out about wildlife, flowers, and how to tell which end of the cow is milked.

They could also learn about raspberries. After considerable thought, we have decided that in raspberries lies the embodiment of summer. Keats had other ideas, perhaps, but for us Summer is Raspberries! This week, we spent an afternoon on a sawdust heap surrounded by raspberries. There they hung, great, red, luscious globes of juice. There were so many that one could smell them, as we topped the hill. We picked and picked, but still there were more. The sun bored into our backs, perspiration gathered on our brows, the scent of berries and sawdust rose in our nostrils, a vagrant wind occasionally gambolled across the hillside and was lost in the bracken, distant cries of children hardly broke the silence; and we thought, "This is Canada, this is summer". The raspberries were converted into jelly, and the scent and flavor lie entombed in jars. Next winter, sitting around the breakfast table, we shall look at the glowing, red prescence, and be gratefully reminded of the hot summer day and Sunnyacres.

Time goes on, and we have arrived at the hour for Sunday night supper — which, in our household, is always one of two kinds, the take-what-you-like variety or the buffet style. In the first, everybody scrounges around for himself and eats his choice wherever he likes; by the same token, he washes his own dishes. In the buffet type, the hostess lays out the food and necessary cutlery, and after that, everybody is on his own. Males, we notice, approach this with caution and tend to usurp corners of the dining-room table, but, after a few minutes, when the possibilities of the situation dawn on them, they wax quite enthusiastic and eat quantities of food. The dishes, we regret, do not get themselves done in a painless way, although their number is appreciably diminished. We recommend either method to the tired housewife on these warm summer days.

Still speaking of food, we had a most delectable dessert at dinner today. It consisted of honeydew melon, scooped out and filled with raspberry gelatine and fresh raspberries, the whole "frosted" with cream cheese. I forgot to say that the melon was first peeled. Slices were cut off this white bomb, and lo, there was a ring of white around the green melon, with the ruby of the jelly and fruit in the middle. Scrumptious! This is not our own; we found the recipe in a farm magazine. Now we are intrigued by the thought of a half-scooped-out watermelon filled with lime jelly and green grapes. This monstrosity will undoubtedly find its way to our table. Don't try it till we do.

Diesel Locomotive Servicing Unit



First of its kind in Canada is this new wheel-truing machine now in operation at the new $1,000,000 diesel plant being completed by the Canadian Pacific Railway at Nelson, B.C. The unit, shown in operation here, permits diesel locomotive wheels to be machined without removing either the wheels or trucks from under the locomotive, and will be used in the servicing of diesel locomotives operating on the Kootenay - Kettle Valley divisions of the C.P.R. in southern British Columbia. Its purpose is to restore by means of specially designed milling cutters the normal contour of the tread and flange of wheels worn by operation of locomotives over frequent, tight curves on the right-of-way through mountainous territory.

Dominion Provisioners Ltd. Establishing Here for Frozen Food Distribution

Local Food Locker Concern Undertakes New Enterprise In This Area

In May, 1952, many thousands of Canadian families became acquainted with what is now known as the "Food Vault" program of complete home provisioning, which was introduced to Western Canada. Since then, in every major centre and most smaller communities across Canada, 50 to 75 thousand Canadians have been enjoying the benefits of the "Food Vault" program, while thousands more every month are adopting this method of provisioning.

Dominion Provisioners' "Food Vault" program is the ultimate in efficient food distribution. Developed and perfected by William G. Chamberlin, originally from Alberta, with more than 20 years' experience as a consultant to some of North America's largest corporations, the "Food Vault" program renders old-fashioned methods of food marketing obsolete! By streamlining the food handling process, this program saves overhead, handling costs and multiple profits, passing the saving on to its customers in reduced food prices.

There are now 18 modern food processing, warehousing and distributing plants in the five Western Province owned and operated by the principals of the provisioning companies founded by Mr. Chamberlin and food distributors in each province. More plants and offices are being added monthly as facilities permit. All utilize the proved "Food Vault" system which is now made available to the people of Quebec by Dominion Provisioners Ltd.

Dominion Provisioners Ltd., with head offices in Montreal and an authorized capital of $100,000, is under the personal supervision of Mr. Chamberlin to guarantee the residents of Quebec better food, more food, a permanent supply of food over the years ahead at great savings, made possible only by its ultra-modern method of marketing. Branches are soon to be established in Hull, Sherbrooke and other Quebec cities.

Dominion Provisioners' food processing plant is located here in Lachute, strategically situated to serve both the Montreal and Hull marketing areas. It has been operated since 1946 by Lloyd E. Creswell, builder of the first locker plant in this province. Mr. Creswell is president of the Quebec Locker Association. His entire facilities are at the disposal of Dominion Provisioners to assure its customers an unlimited supply of the finest foods, perfectly processed and efficiently distributed.

All meats distributed by Dominion Provisioners are personally selected from packing house and feed lot stocks by James A. Aikins, who headed the meat buying departments of Swift Canadian, Burns and several other large meat packers in Western Canada. Mr. Aikins has also had extensive experience as a government meat inspector, cattle raiser, meat broker, etc. Most beef will be purchased from feed lots in the Prairie Provinces, where the finest of all grain-fed steer beef is raised.

Dominion Provisioners' "Department of Home Economics" will be under supervision of Jane Arnold, one of the West's best known authorities on the processing, preservation and preparation of meats, vegetables and fruit. Jane Arnold and her staff of Kitchen Counselors are at the disposal of all Dominion Provisioners' customers.

QUARANTINE LAW SEPARATES FRIENDS

—Central Press Canadian

When she left her home in Renaix, Belgium, to join her brother in Windsor, Ontario, Adelaide van Liefde evidently did not know about Canadian quarantine regulations, so she had to say goodby to Dounia, a St. Bernard, before going ashore at Montreal from the Netherlands liner Ryndam. If all goes well, she will be reunited with Dounia some time in the future when quarantine regulations have been satisfied. Sharing in the farewell to the dejected-looking pooch are brother John and nephew Christian, who journeyed from Windsor to meet her in Montreal.
