Brownsburg Tops Objective, Lachute in Progress For Record-Breaking "County" Blood Donor Clinic

Target 600 Bottles of Blood in Three-Day Red Cross Mobile Clinics, Ending Tonight

The first lap of the Argenteuil Blood Donor Clinic staged Tuesday at the Brownsburg Legion Hall, was a phenomenal success, with 230 bottles of blood donated. It was the occasion of the first such clinic held in Brownsburg and in view of this, a special opening was held.

At the official opening, all present — donors, committee members and Red Cross nurses — gathered in front of the hall and were led in prayer by the Rev. Father Coursol, who was one of the first donors, and by the Rev. N. H. Brock. All joined in the singing of "O Canada".

Mrs. N. E. Smillie, Brownsburg Red Cross President and active committee member, thanked all those present for the assistance and co-operation which had been given to the committee, and expressed confidence that, following the enthusiasm with which the people had greeted this clinic, it would be a sure success. Mayor Jas. Donaldson cut the ribbon and the clinic was declared officially open.

The Red Cross Mobile Unit now in this district comprises various vehicles, and is staffed with two full-fledged nurses, one technician, and 11 nurse's aids, as well as the transport drivers. Miss Rita Dugas is senior nurse in charge of the Argenteuil Clinic, which is equipped with 10 donor beds and a similar number of rest beds.

Local nurses assisting at the Brownsburg clinic were Mrs. Gordon Abercrombie, Mrs. Roger Raymond, Mrs. H. E. Potter, Mrs. Robert Sugden and Miss Olivette Legault.

Both Boy Scout and Girl Guide leaders were on duty during the evening session of the Clinic.

The Brownsburg organization pays special tribute to Urbane Tomalty, Dalesville merchant, who enlisted 44 donors for the clinic. Mr. Tomalty made this effort in appreciation for blood he had received from the Red Cross in the past.

"A total of 254 people volunteered to donate blood before the Clinic started. Out of these, 10 were refused for medical reasons and many others didn't show up. The remainder, together with other volunteers, helped to make this, our first clinic, the success it has been", said Mrs. N. E. Smillie. "It is hoped that any who did not give blood in Brownsburg will journey to Lachute to ensure that Argenteuil passes its objective by as much as possible", she added.

According to Chairman Syd Seary, "It has been a lot of work, but the groundwork has been laid, and when the people realize just how important the Red Cross Blood Donor Service is, they will turn out in much larger groups in the years to come."

Another committee member said that "the work had been strenuous, the hours long, but the results were well worth it."

Lachute Chairman Horace Lamarche stated that he was well pleased with the showing at Brownsburg, and every bit as pleased with the 245 donations that were received on the first day in Lachute. "With another day like this, we will be well over our objective of 600 bottles. And if the Clinic in Ste. Rose can make up the remainder of the 1,000 donations hoped for, Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes will have put on a good showing."

Good Send-Off for Lachute

The Lachute Clinic got off to an excellent start Wednesday afternoon with an inaugural parade in which several of the Red Cross Mobile Unit vehicles, as well as the local police and ambulances and many private cars took part.

The actual clinic got underway at 2 p.m. sharp — the Lions Club being the first local contingent to donate blood as a group. The nurses and assistants were busy throughout the afternoon and evening and the total count for the first day in Lachute was 245. This, on top of the 230 donations received in Brownsburg, means that Lachute has to go all out today (Thursday), to ensure that Argenteuil meets and passes its objective.

Local registered nurses helping the Red Cross staff are Mrs. Geo. F. Calder, Mrs. Richard Ayers, Mrs. Arnold Scott, Miss L. Harrison, Miss Lois Bennett, Miss Massie, Mrs. Leopold Carriere, Mrs. Leonard Ayers, Mrs. A. Vessie, and Miss Edith McOuat.

Louis M. Poitras, director of the Blood Donor Service for the Province of Quebec, was in attendance at the clinic Tuesday evening and in Lachute the following day. "I am very well pleased with the success that Brownsburg enjoyed and I expect that the clinic in Lachute will be as successful. On behalf of the Red Cross organization, I would like to thank all those associated with these clinics, either in the organising, assistance or giving their blood. We have the nurses and equipment, but we can do nothing without the donors. With your help, the Argenteuil objective can be reached; without it, we can do nothing", stated Mr. Poitras.

Last-Minute Details

The final committee meeting before the opening of the Argenteuil Blood Clinic (Lachute), was held at the Golf Club under chairmanship of Horace Lamarche. The various committees made their reports, and an up-to-date list of promised donors was read. Lowest influx of donors is expected during the hours of Thursday evening. The clinic at the Auditorium is open from 7.30 to 9 p.m. and a last-minute appeal is being made by telephone.

1954 Fair Dates, June 9 - 12

The 1954 Lachute Spring Fair is slated for June 9 to 12, according to Syd Patterson, secretary-manager. The dates were decided upon at a recent directors' meeting.

The annual meeting of the directors is scheduled for the latter part of November, and announcements concerning any possible change in policy, additional exhibits, prizes, and proposed entertainment, will be made at that time. An increase in cash prizes is anticipated for many of the exhibits.

Alterations have been made to the cow stables at the Exhibition Grounds during the summer months, to ensure cattle exhibitors of enlarged and improved accommodation at Lachute Spring Fair for '54 and the following years. Other improvements are planned for the spring.

"The ladies of the county will have a new and revised prize list in the near future, so they will know all classes for competition in handicrafts, etc. This should ensure more and better entries, as they will have longer to plan and prepare their show", Mr. Patterson added.

Youth is on the march all over the world, not necessarily in regiments as soldiers, but as men and women girded with experience from the past and a vision for the future. Those are the people, no matter what their age, who will contribute a better place to live in.

Water Supply Improves, Restrictions Relaxed

An improvement in water level at the intake of supply has eased the scarcity which caused low pressures in the higher sections of Lachute, and which presented a hazardous situation as regards fire protection. In consequence the application of the by-law prohibiting use of hoses and sprinklers has now been lifted by the town authorities. Announcement to this effect is given by Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur for publication in the local newspapers.

Wanted — Site for Annual Scouts' Toy Repair Shop

The Lachute Boy Scouts are planning early for their annual Christmas effort, the Toy Repair Shop, which is the means of providing cheer and gladness to many under-privileged youngsters at Christmas time.

The Scouts have need for suitable accommodation in which to work on this project, and any citizen or business man having premises which they could loan for this purpose, will be doing a "good turn" by communicating with Scoutmaster Bazil Riddell (tel. 1013-M.)

Two Killed, Seven Injured, in Grim Crash on Wet Pavement

Two Passenger Cars in Head-On Collision Sunday Morning Between St. Philippe, Grenville

Two persons died as a result of injuries suffered in a car crash on Route 8 near Chatboro. The accident, in which seven others were injured, occurred at approximately 10 a.m. last Sunday.

The two cars were approaching in opposite directions when one of them, owned and driven by Miss Annette Vezina, of Hull, Que., apparently skidded on the wet pavement. Miss Vezina, 38, was rushed to the Smiths' Clinic, Hawkesbury, where she died of a skull fracture and internal injuries an hour after admittance. Miss Vezina was accompanied in the car by Raymond De Carufel, 30, of Wrightville, Que., who was taken to Notre Dame Hospital at Hawkesbury. He died at 7.10 p.m. the same day. Both bodies were transferred to the morgue in Hawkesbury and were later released to the Quebec authorities by Arcade Perrier, coroner for Prescott and Russell Counties.

The seven injured were occupants of the other car, a sedan, owned and driven by Lucien Lepage, 21, of Ayersville. Lepage was taken to the Smiths' Clinic, where he was treated for head injuries and later released. Others taken to the same hospital were Roland Joly, 27, with head and jaw injuries, and Bernard Joly, 7, suffering from concussion.

Those treated in the Notre Dame Hospital, Hawkesbury, were Mme. Fernand Joly, 30, who sustained a possible skull fracture and a fractured left leg; Gaetan Joly, 6, with both thighs broken, various head and other injuries; Richard Joly, 5, suffering from shock; and Jacques Joly, 3, with a fractured right leg. All members of the Joly family reside in Brownsburg.

The car driven by Lepage was headed towards Ottawa, while the other car was travelling east proceeding to St. Eustache, when the accident occurred. Both cars were demolished.

Traffic Officers Howard Jones and Roger Massie, and Detective Maurice Lamoureux, investigated the accident.

Program of Talks, Teachers' Convention, Covers Varied Phases of Education

89th Annual Conference, Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers, October 8-9 at West Hill High

Two ladies, one the president of a Boston teachers' college, the other a Director of Music with wide experience as a choral director and speaker, and one man, the Canadian educator who is probably best known from coast to coast as a doughty champion of the modern school and the modern child, will deliver the main addresses at the 89th annual convention of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers. These keynote speakers are Dr. Winifred E. Bain, president of Wheelock College, Boston, Mass., Miss Helen M. Hosmer, Director of Music at the State Teachers' College, Potsdam, N.Y., and Dr. Charles E. Phillips, of the Ontario College of Education, Toronto.

This year's convention will be held at the new West Hill High School in Montreal on Thursday and Friday, October 8 and 9.

The administrative Problems Section has secured as speaker David L. Tough, principal of the collegiate division of the renowned Forest Hill Village school system in suburban Toronto. His subject will be "Public Relations — the School Principal and his Community."

The importance of a teacher's impact on the world outside as well as inside the classroom was also felt, apparently, by the program planners of the Primary Section, when they invited the Director of Public Relations of the John Robert Powers School, Miss Doris Clark, to speak to teachers on the theme "How Charming Can You Be?" This address will be heard Thursday. On Friday Dr. Bain will address the section on "The Child and His Curriculum".

Professor André Rigault of the Department of Romance Languages, McGill University, is addressing the Elementary French Section on "The Difficulties of Teaching French Vowel Sounds and Ways of Overcoming These Difficulties."

In social studies the emphasis will be on teaching methods at both elementary and secondary levels. Both speakers are from Macdonald College School for Teachers. Miss Frances Sexsmith will give "Practical Hints on Teaching Social Studies" on Thursday. On the second day of the convention, Professor David C. Munroe will discuss "Recent Trends in History Teaching."

The Guidance Section has invited Dr. Taylor Statten, psychiatrist of the Children's Memorial Hospital, to speak on the difficult but crucial (to a teacher) subject, "The Significance of Punishment".

As in past years, the physical education and recreation teachers have arranged a full program, with the spotlight in 1953 on folk dancing. The Audio-Visual section has a particularly varied and interesting group of features. The Library Section will have its usual helpful display of books and classroom aids in the school gymnasium, flanked by the wares of book publishers and manufacturers of school equipment and supplies in the impressive layout covering the gymnasium floor which has long been a feature of PAPT Conventions.

Local Couple In Crash While Touring in U.S.

Incident Stirs Up Hornet's Nest for State Police Officers

Gordon Tabrett, well known accountant of this town, was involved in a head-on accident on U.S. Route 9, some four miles south of Plattsburg, N.Y. The accident, in which Tabrett suffered lacerations to the head and injuries to the back and right arm, occurred at 1.40 a.m. Tuesday.

He was accompanied by his wife and daughter, Wendy, who were both badly shaken and bruised. The car was damaged beyond repair.

The driver of the other car involved in this accident was Raymond Le Clair, of Peru, N.Y. He was placed under arrest by the New York State Troopers for driving under the influence of liquor.

Tabrett was treated in the Physicians' Hospital, Plattsburg, and was released Tuesday afternoon. The Tabretts returned here with members of their family who proceeded to Plattsburg to bring them home.

Series of Offenders

It is reported by the Tabretts that while the State police were taking their damaged car to a garage, they arrested a middle-aged man for assault. He had a 16-year-old girl in his company at the time. Immediately after this, another motorist was charged with driving while his license was suspended. His offence was passing through a red light. Several men were arrested at the garage where the car was taken, for attempted robbery. They were right in the middle of a safe job when the Troopers arrived on the scene. One of the Troopers said, while in conversation with Mrs. Tabrett, "It was a bad night for you, but a good one for us, as they would have gotten away with several thousand dollars if we hadn't caught them in the act."

Merchant Drowned While Fishing At St. Andrews

Gérard Pharand, 32, general merchant at St. Andrews East, was drowned in the North River at St. Andrews at approximately 6.15 a.m. on Monday. His body was discovered 30 minutes after his cries for help were heard.

Pharand went out fishing in the early morning, and some time later, René Giroux and Romeo L. Laurante, both of St. Andrews, heard cries for help. They investigated immediately, and recovered the body about 40 feet from shore in about six feet of water. The man's boat was found some distance from the body.

George Deacon, Jr., rushed to the scene of the drowning with the Lions Club inhalator from Lachute, and artificial respiration was applied from 6.55 to 9.40 a.m. Deacon was assisted by Gaetan Lavigne and Emile Paquette, both of St. Andrews.

District Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur pronounced the death due to accidental drowning. No inquest will be held.

Traffic Officer Howard Jones investigated the fatality.

In July of this year Canada's labor force reached the record high of 5,515,000 persons, of whom about 1,150,000 were trades union members.

Two Children Rescued from River

Near-Tragedy as Youngsters Wander Into Deep Water

Two children were saved from drowning in the North River at the foot of Hope Street by Damasse Audette, Dominion Store employee. The two children, Nicole, 4½ years old, and her younger brother, Serge, 3½, children of Mr. and Mrs. Armand Campbell, were both under water when Audette was called to the scene by his 4-year-old son Peter, who had been playing with the other children. The incident occurred last week.

"The three children were playing in the yard while I was working in the garden, and when they disappeared, I thought that they had gone into the house", Audette said. He thought little of it until his son ran up and told him that that other two children were "in the river". Rushing to the river's edge behind Dawson's sawmill, he saw no sign of them until he spotted a little tuft of blond hair and a blue ribbon about 15 feet from shore. He plunged in, bringing Nicole to shore and leaving her on the bank. He immediately dove in again for the other child, finding him caught beneath a log that forms part of the boom for the mill. He brought him to shore and applied artificial respiration, as both children had been under water for some time.

Dr. Jules Lafleur happened to be in the vicinity and was summoned to the scene and as the children soon revived, no further assistance was needed.

According to Mr. L. Dawson, the water in this section of the river is approximately 35 feet deep.

Fines and Seizures By Local Police In Traffic Cases

Three motorists were charged in different accidents which occurred during the past week. They paid fines in all three instances, and in certain cases the cars were seized and held in local garages by the town police officers.

Two autos collided at Barron Avenue and Foundry Street early Wednesday evening, with $400 damage resulting. The cars were driven by Conrad Menier, of Lachute, and Philip Boyer, of Lachute Mills. Boyer, who had no driver's license, paid a fine for the offence.

Two cars hit head-on while crossing the C.P.R. tracks on lower Main Street. The drivers were Emile Raymond, of St. Placide, and Arthur Deforges, of Hawkesbury. The latter was fined for driving without a license; his car was seized, but was restored to its owner on Monday.

Deputy Chief W. Lepine investigated both accidents.

Main Street and Bethany was the scene of another accident Sunday afternoon. One of the drivers, Jéremie Trudeau, of Pointe au Chene, was also charged with driving without a license and fined accordingly.

Gregor Campbell, of Montreal, was proceeding down Bethany Street when he was struck at the post-office intersection by Trudeau's car. Trudeau had pulled to a stop but made too wide a turn. Damage to the extent of $350 resulted, the Montreal car suffering the heavier damage. Cst. O. Sabourin investigated.

Business Woman Wins Reg. Bull Calf, Ayrshire Field Day Successful Event

Over 100 local Ayrshire breeders and their families spent a very enjoyable day last Saturday at Jack and Wes McConnell's farm at Mont Rolland, Que.

Arriving at the farm, "Timber-Top", after a pleasant drive up and up the well colored hillsides, those attending toured the barns and then inspected the McConnell herd. The polled cattle attracted considerable attention.

After lunch four fine polled bulls were brought out. Wyman MacKecknie, vice-president of the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders Association, placed these bulls and gave his appraisal of their merits. Mr. MacKecknie pronounced the standing in a judging competition in which ladies, gentlemen and boys participated. This was a class of four polled heifers. Alex Bothwell, local agronomist, offered to look over the competitors' cards, after which Forbes McOuat, president of the Club, announced the winners as follows:

Junior Class — 1 John Oswald, 2 Carl Rodger, 3 Jean Philippe St. Jacques, 4 Ronnie Bain.

Senior Class — 1 Albert Leishman, 2 James Hazel, 3 Irvin Bain and John Heatlie (tied).

The feature event then took place — the drawing of two bull calves from the McConnell herd. The winners of these were Miss Louise Miller and Stuart Hume, Lachute.

Mr. MacKecknie introduced Hugh Hunt, new secretary-manager of the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association. The Club felt it a great honor and privilege to be the first to meet Mr. Hunt, and to have him attend their field day, as he had just recently landed from overseas, and although not yet settled in his new home and office, considered it well worthwhile to attend this event.

Citizen Bereaved in U.S. Highway Accident

Lucien Hamel, of Lachute (ex-president of Legion Branch 70) was grieved by his mother's death Tuesday afternoon in a highway accident near Middlebury, Vt. Mr. Hamel's father, Mr. J. O. Hamel, a manufacturer in Montreal, is in hospital at Middlebury suffering from multiple injuries, and three passengers in the Hamel car were also casualties taken to hospital in the same city.

Pianists at First Community Concert, Mauney Brothers, Are Identical Twins

Brilliant Duo Team to Be Heard Here In Season's First Program, October 5th

Ernest and Miles Mauney, brilliant duo-pianists to be heard in the first of this season's Community Concerts (Lachute High School auditorium, October 5), have the distinction of being identical twins, a circumstance which, as many critics have noted, may account for the unusual unity of their performance. As one reviewer described it, their work is "a blend of playing that makes the two instruments seem as one", while another commented on their "uncanny co-operation in getting unified effects in music imagery."

Natives of North Carolina, Ernest and Miles Mauney began their musical studies at the age of seven. Work at the Juilliard School was interrupted by nearly three years of Army service during which time they made many appearances at War Bond Rallies, with the Army Band, and in recital. In 1947 the young artists graduated with honors from Oberlin Conservatory of Music. Since then they have been working with Mme. Isabella Vengerova of the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia.

For the past several seasons the Mauney Twins have been touring, appearing as soloists with orchestras and in recital in the South, the East and in Canada. By special invitation they have played for the Annual Convention of the National Federation of Music and before several thousand delegates of the International Convention of Kiwanis Clubs at Miami. Among their orchestral appearances have been engagements at the Brevard Music Festival.

When the Mauneys appeared recently on the popular television show, "Chance of a Lifetime", they defeated all other contestants and won the highest rating on the applause meter and the $1,000 cash prize. The prize money is now travelling with them, for they invested it in a van in which they carry their own grand piano to their concert engagements.

Autos Collide Near Calumet, Occupants Hurt

A side-road off Route 8 near Calumet was the scene of an accident Sunday at 7 p.m., when a car owned and driven by Fred McVicar, of Vankleek Hill, Ont., crashed into an auto halted on the side of the highway.

The latter car, owned by Alfred Joanette, of Calumet, and driven by his son, Paul, was hurled into the ditch and turned end-over-end twice, being practically demolished.

Joanette, who was waiting to turn across the road into his driveway, was taken to Notre Dame Hospital, Hawkesbury, where he was treated for a fracture of the right leg and back injuries.

McVicar was coming towards Lachute when he lost control of his car and was forced into the stopped car. He was accompanied by his son, Earl, who suffered minor injuries. Damage to the McVicar car was estimated at $300.

The accident was investigated by Traffic Officer [illegible]

Gatineau LINES

Soon the leaves will begin to fall in earnest from many of our trees. Then it will be the best time of year for locating and removing the trees or branches which are likely to cause troubles during the winter.

Dead, broken or snow-laden branches cause short circuits and blown fuses, when they come in contact with power lines. Branches rubbing against lines bring voltage troubles.

Trees cause more power disruptions than anything else. The electric company is always glad to get reports from customers about trees which look as though they may soon become the cause of power failures.

This is particularly true during the season which is now approaching.

Local Shorthorn Among R.O.P. Leaders

Among class leaders for milk production in Dual Purpose Shorthorns reported under the R.O.P. for the month of August, was Ridge Wild Snowball, a three-year-old in the 365-day division of mature animals, owned by A. D. McGibbon & Sons, Lachute. The animal gave 10,314 pounds of milk and 394 pounds of fat.

Before harvesting began on our 1953 wheat crop, wheat in storage in Canada totalled 423 million bushels, sufficient to meet domestic needs for the next two and a half years.

Agricultural Films Prominent

Motion pictures on Canadian agriculture are not only getting world-wide distribution, but special attention is being given them in various international competitions. One of the most recent productions sponsored by the Canada Department of Agriculture and produced by the National Film Board is a film on soil, "The World At Your Feet". It has been entered in the fourth International Documentary Film Exhibition at Venice, Italy; the Edinburgh Film Festival, Edinburgh, Scotland; the film exhibition at the 23rd annual meeting of the Biological Photographic Association, Inc., Los Angeles, California; the seventh annual Congress of the International Rural Film Festival at Rome, Italy.

Also entered in the Rome festival are four other films from the Department: "Pole Barns and Milking Parlours", "Forage Harvesting", "Surface Silo" and "Western Wheat". "The World At Your Feet" will also be entered in the next Canadian Film Awards.

Films sponsored by the Department and produced by N.F.B. have won previous awards. "Milk-Made", a film on Canada's dairy industry, and "Western Wheat", were awarded major prizes in the Canadian Film Awards in 1951 and 1952. "Milk-Made" also took top place in an international film competition in Italy.

New Macdonald College Publications for Free Distribution

A new edition of the "Speakers' Pool and Program Guide" is now available free of charge to all those involved in Program Planning, it is announced by Roberta Ridley of the Information Centre, Adult Education Service, Macdonald College.

This publication lists names of speakers available from Macdonald College and elsewhere. Included in it are reading materials, films and filmstrips related to the various subjects. The publication is divided into sections dealing with Agriculture, Community Problems, Family and Home, and Arts and Crafts.

Miss Ridley also reported that a Film and Filmstrip Catalogue listing nearly 400 film titles will be available shortly. This booklet describes the films on agriculture and a variety of other subjects, that may now be obtained from the Provincial Film Library at the College.

Both of these new pamphlets may be obtained for the asking by writing the Information Centre, Macdonald College, Province of Quebec.

Will Caterpillars Be Back Next Spring?

Out of 1,000 pupae of the forest tent caterpillar collected at Macdonald College in May, only 46 adults emerged. The rest were killed by parasites, diseases and other enemies. Dr. F. O. Morrison of Macdonald says that providing 30 or 40 of the adults that have emerged fail to raise normal families, the population of caterpillars will be smaller next year. He adds that such a reduction is not at all unlikely as birds, egg-parasites, diseases of young caterpillars, cold and even starvation take a large toll every year.

Minor Elements Are Important

Instances of crops suffering from lack of minor elements in the soil have been reported from many points in Canada to the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

At the Experimental Station, Ste. Anne de la Pocatiere, Que., symptoms of severe magnesium deficiency appeared on lettuce and celery in the Station garden. Correction was brought about by applying a solution of magnesium sulphate in water to the garden soil.

In the Harrow district of Ontario, manganese deficiency appeared on soybeans to an unusual degree this year. Treatment by spraying the soybeans with a two per cent solution of manganese sulphate (30 to 50 gallons per acre) resulted in a marked improvement within five days, of affected crops.

"Whiptail" a disease of cauliflower caused by a shortage of molybdenum, was reported at Charlottetown, P.E.I., three years ago. When small quantities of molybdenum were applied the trouble disappeared.

Lennoxville Experimental Station found that apparently alfalfa will continue to grow on a silt loam plot field to which boron in the form of borax has been applied, while on untreated plots the plants die out. The Station plans more extensive tests, both in the greenhouse and in the field, to find out what minor elements are needed and in what amounts, in addition to lime and fertilizer requirements, to permit alfalfa to be successfully grown in the area.

At the Fredericton, N.B. Station, attention is being given to the use of molybdenum as an aid in growing clover in potato areas where the heavy use of lime tends to increase scab development on potatoes.

Dr. J. C. Woodward, Chief of the Chemistry Division at the Ottawa Farm says crops exhibiting characteristic boron deficiency symptoms have been reported from almost all parts of Canada. It has been estimated that in the apple industry in British Columbia the use of boron resulted in an increase of over 1,000,000 boxes of apples per year.

Manganese deficiency has been reported in both peach and apple crops and was shown to be a limiting factor in the production of spinach at Ottawa.

Applying minor elements to a soil or crop merely as a precautionary measure can be dangerous. Dr. Woodward states there is a relatively narrow range between deficient and toxic amounts. But where a deficiency definitely has been determined, the response to an application research now being made of the role of these elements in plant and animal life.

A RARITY IN THE ANIMAL WORLD

—Central Press Canadian

A rarity in the animal world are these twin calves, seen above with their mother and owner, Harley J. Tumbleson of Adams county, Indiana. The twin on the left is a Brown Swiss, while the other (actually only a half-sister) is a Holstein. The unusual occurrence came about when the mother was bred by artificial insemination with semen from Holstein and Brown Swiss bulls.

Plowing Champs Here From Eleven Countries

Montreal — Champion plowmen from eight European countries walked down the gangplank from the "Empress of Australia" Wednesday in the last lap of their overseas journey to compete for the Esso Golden Plow and the world tractor plowing championship. The match, the first world plowing tourney, will be held at Cobourg, Ont., in conjunction with the Ontario Plowmen's Association annual four-day International Match, October 6 to 9.

Countries represented in the party were Denmark, Finland, Great Britain, Germany, Holland, Northern Ireland, Republic of Ireland and Sweden. They were joined by Norwegian plowmen who arrived here five days earlier. The United States champions will travel direct to Cobourg later and the Canadian contestants will be declared at the O.P.A. match. Altogether 11 countries will compete.

The Esso Golden Plow trophy, emblematic of world plowing supremacy, was brought with the party by Alfred Hall, of England, secretary of World Championship Ploughing Organization. It is being jointly offered for competition by Imperial Oil in Canada and 11 companies in Europe and North Africa. It was designed and made by a firm of London, England, goldsmiths. It is a replica in miniature of the Norfolk plow, which was in common use in the early 18th century and is the forerunner of nearly all modern plows. The trophy will be held for one year by the national plowing association of the winner. The world champion will receive a copy for permanent possession.

The World Championship Ploughing Organization was formed last year. At a meeting in Stirling, Scotland, Canada was given the honor of being host to the first match. Next year the world match will be held in the Republic of Ireland.

During their stay in Canada as guests of Imperial Oil and Canadian plowmen the overseas teams will be taken on a two weeks' tour of Quebec and Ontario towns and farms between Montreal and Niagara Falls. Included is a visit to the Six Nations reserve at Brantford where Mr. Hall will be made an honorary Indian chief. Many civic and government organizations along the route plan special events for the overseas teams.

Gala Opening at New "Shell" Station

A good number of well-wishing citizens attended the ribbon-cutting ceremony at the new Shell Service Station on Main Street last Thursday evening. Manager Grant Staniforth and his attendants had a busy run at the gasoline pumps serving a line-up of waiting cars. Many Shell Oil Company officials were in attendance and kiddies were present in large numbers (there were free balloons and souvenirs for all).

Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur performed the ribbon-cutting rite. At the microphone he paid public tribute to the Company for fulfilling their agreement; on applying to the Town Council for a business building permit, Shell representatives had been requested to employ as much local help as possible in the construction work. This they had done, and the new service station was a credit to the Company and to the contractors and labor engaged.

A drawing for several handsome prizes to customers at this station is being held this evening.

Mercury POWER SEAT, now optional on all models. It adjusts four ways to provide your "just right" position. Simply press a button to move seat up or down, forward or back for the position from which you can see the best and drive the easiest with most relaxation.

There's no clutch—no gear shifting—MERC-O-MATIC is fully automatic. To go, set lever and step on gas. It gives instant, smooth power response. There's automatic down-shift for hill climbing. There's positive, safe control on curves. MERC-O-MATIC Drive is available on all models.

Immunization Week, Sept. 27 - Oct. 3

Be Wise — Immunize!

"THE THINGS we are constantly fighting against are complacency and indifference", declared Gordon Coyne, acting president of the Health League of Canada in a National Immunization Week statement. "And the danger is enhanced by our very success in seeing that more and more Canadian children are immunized every year. The fewer deaths there are from diphtheria, whooping cough, lockjaw and smallpox, the less parents think about the risk their children run when they are not given protection against them."

This is the reason for the year-after-year pounding on the same old theme — "Be wise! Immunize!" This is why the week of September 27 through October 3 is being observed by the press, public speakers, health officials and the medical profession across Canada as National Immunization Week.

"It is an uphill struggle to keep Canadian parents alerted to the lurking dangers of these preventable diseases", Mr. Coyne continued. "But if we fail to keep our guard up, we may expect a tragic upsurge in the number of victims claimed by these notorious child killers."

Lending point to the Health League executive's words is the history of smallpox epidemics in Vancouver in the 1930's and in Windsor, Ontario, in the 20's. In the latter outbreak there were 67 cases of smallpox of whom 32 (or 48 per cent) died. None of those who died had been vaccinated, although this protection was well known and easily available to all who sought it.

Preserving Our History

A PIONEERING country has little concern for the story of its own progress. Its settlers are so busy making their way against obstacles that they have no time for retrospection.

For many years, that was the situation in Canada. The job of settling the vast areas, building the railroads, clearing the farms and opening up the natural resources took so much energy that no one bothered much about landmarks and relics. The time for dallying with historical mementoes could come later.

Recently, however, as new-found oil and minerals have brought wealth and a high living standard to a swiftly-maturing Canada, there have been signs that the old indifference to historical subjects is giving way to keen interest in the still-remaining treasures from the nation's romantic past.

Lunenburg, N.S., recently celebrated the 200th anniversary of its settlement and Quebec is in the throes of a controversy over the accuracy of the name "Plains of Abraham" for the territory at Cape Diamond where Wolfe defeated Montcalm.

Within the last few months, the newspapers have told of renewed interest in the search for the burial place of Samuel de Champlain, founder of Quebec. A railway has been running a museum train in central Canada to display relics of pioneer days of rail travel.

Old Fort York, a Toronto landmark from the days of the War of 1812, has recently been renovated and reopened as a tourist attraction rivalling Old Fort Henry at Kingston, Ont. The silver-mining town of Cobalt in Northern Ontario this summer celebrated its 50th anniversary and set old-timers talking nostalgically of its early days.

In the West there is a revival of interest in the records of pioneers who pushed civilization across the Prairies and on to the Pacific. Regina, celebrating its 50th anniversary, recalled significant events in its history and that of Saskatchewan. Stories of Lord Selkirk's Red River settlement are being retold and in British Columbia the romance of the Cariboo Trail and the Klondike has not been forgotten.

The summer also saw the raising of the United States gunboat Scorpion from Ontario's Penetanguishene Bay 135 years after it was sunk under terms of a treaty restricting British and American naval strength on the Great Lakes after the war of 1812.

And so it goes across the country. Canada is growing up and turning to leisurely examination of her historical heritage. As the research continues and regional museums spring up, the study of Canadian history will surely become fascinating for the generation now entering our schools, as well as for their elders.

Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 4 - 10

Save Children from Fire

A GREAT DEAL of effort has been put into preventing traffic accidents, especially to children. But what about the number of children burned to death each year?

There can't be anything worse than being burned to death — at least, to our imagination. Yet every time you pick up a newspaper there's at least one story of some child who, left alone in his home, lost his life in an agony of fire.

Surely if preventative campaigns for traffic accidents have accomplished anything, the same type of thing might save the lives of countless children each year who will never live to appreciate the joys and miseries of adult life.

We must admit that it is not the fault of the children. Parents can be blamed in part. Any adult who would leave a child alone in a house, especially when such things as matches and lighters are close at hand, should be in an asylum.

Fire departments and police who do not arrive in time to save the lives of the burning children must feel badly — why make them feel worse? . . In fact, why blame anyone at all? Why not press a campaign in schools, in movies, over the radio, on television, written basically for children to teach them not to play with fire. Educate the little ones who, in the end, suffer most from the fire menace.

Educate parents! Obviously many of them need to be educated. Don't leave matches or lighters where children can reach them. Don't leave children alone in the house, unsupervised. After all, they're as curious as you were at that age. Remember, you lived through it; give them a chance.

Let's try to save as many children from the fire hazard as we have been able to save from auto accidents. True, that isn't a perfect score. But even some improvement is better than nothing.

The Easier Pace

OUR BIG cities are far too big already, thinks The Financial Post. Metropolitan Montreal and Toronto hold one in five Canadians, and account for nearly one quarter of the country's total retail sales.

Look at the costs of concentration: Often two hours a day going to and from work. . . Big city pressures. . . Incidence of ulcers in downtown Montreal or Toronto, compared with Main Street, Turtleford, Sask.

There's still a peaceful pace in the small town. . . The glowing promise of the morning sun, shaded if at all by trees, not buildings. . . The noisy silence of an idle noonhour. . . A sky overhead unpitted by soot. . . Twilight on the front porch. . . Day's end. . . These are the things the big cities will never know.

These are the things which millions of Canadians will never know. And which even memory will soon forget so long as factories insist on standing in herds instead of by themselves.

Reckless Cycling

UNLESS parents instruct their children to be more careful while riding their bicycles, a serious accident is going to occur sooner or later — observes the Winchester Press, in an editorial note which is also very appropriate to this town. We have noticed several close calls by youngsters, emerging from school on their bicycles. Racing around corners, popping out in front of cars, and ignoring pedestrians on sidewalks, are all included in some of the reckless wheeling practices common to the young people hereabouts.

Six sportsmen on a fishing trip ran out of provisions and sent one of the party to a nearby town to shop. He returned with six bottles of wine, four cases of beer, a dozen bottles of whiskey, and a loaf of bread. One of the group was heard to exclaim: "Good boy! You've even brought something for the birds."

A young doctor waited for his first patient. Days later one arrived — covered with an angry, dangerous-looking rash. The doctor consulted his text-book but could find no help there. Finally, he said:

"Did you ever have this affliction before?"

"Oh, sure, Doc", the patient replied. "I've had it twice before."

OLD MAN OF THE MOUNTAIN

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Hens have hit the headlines in widely separated parts of the world.

Mohammed Mossadegh, staging a brief hunger strike for better food in jail in Tehran, said he had to have three roast chickens every day to keep up his strength. The tearful ex-premier of Iran told the jailer that he also needed "a robust soup, a cutlet and a good dessert."

He won the hunger strike, and is presumably getting his three chickens a day. This seems rich fare in a country where many people are living on a few grains of cereal and the smell of an oiled rag.

In Canada, a big poultry man said it was not cruel to keep hens in small cages under artificial light to make them lay more eggs. He did not say whether or not it was cruel to keep Mossadegh in a cage, but then nobody asked him to voice an opinion on that point.

S. J. Sanders, president of the Canadian Federation of Hatchery Associations, defended the "battery hen system", which means keeping hens in small wire cages, under artificial light for more than 13 hours a day, with nothing to do but eat, drink and lay eggs.

Some SPCA members attacked the system as cruel, but Mr. Saunders said battery hens are probably happier than those that run loose. "A hen is interested in very little other than eating and drinking" he remarked.

Certain likenesses exist between Mossedegh and a battery hen. The Persian sage has done a lot of cackling in recent years, and he certainly laid an egg with his oil nationalization program. Both the ex-premier and the hen are on the inside looking out.

There the resemblance seems to end. The imprisoned hen continues to serve society, but Mossadegh does not. Of course, this may be a trifle early to tell. Research may show that statesmen do their best work while confined in cages, away from distracting influences. After a settling-down period, they may begin to lay plans like champions.

However, I doubt the value of the "battery statesman system". People are not hens. Statesmen and workers alike resent being clapped in prison — whether it is a material prison or a prison of the spirit such as dictatorship imposes. Most people prefer to scratch around for what they can find in the yard, rather than enjoy a varied menu in the cage.

Nations do not thrive in cages either. Many a nationalist has managed to shut his country in a cell, away from other countries, only to learn that no one was ready to fill the food-dish.

Ten Commandments For Safety with Guns

1—Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety.
2—Carry only empty guns, taken down or with the action open, into your automobile, camp and home.
3—Always be sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstructions.
4—Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle even if you stumble.
5—Be sure what your target is before you pull the trigger.
6—Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot.
7—Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first.
8—Never climb a tree or a fence with a loaded gun.
9—Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water.
10—Respect farmers' property.

WELL KEPT

Enhancing the beauty of our natural scenery, which we think is the equal of any in Canada, are the gardens and well kept lawns along our main streets. Even hard boiled tourists, many of whom pass through at excessive speeds, notice the well-kept appearance of our homes and schools.

— Stanstead (Que.) Journal

MONTREAL — MAELSTROM AND MILLSTREAM

By GEOFF.

One thing Montreal has in abundance is a fair share of "characters". There are the rubbydubs from Skid Row that haunt the parks in summer and the hospitals in winter. Then there are the panhandlers, some of whom are alcoholics but most of whom are just bone lazy. They are the happy breed who daily devise new ways and means of getting money from their betters.

They have developed a new dodge now, and a costlier one. No lobbying with the prospect for a small touch to get a mythical cup of coffee. Not they. All they want is five dollars — so they can get out of town and thereby rid Montreal of other undesirables.

But apart from the rubbydubs and the panhandlers, we have still another little group. Some call them harmless, others call them mad. But, in the main, they are an asset to the city, for, if nothing else, they make us smile. These are the few who don't exist as Mr. or Mrs. John Citizen. Why should they? After all, everyone should know at a glance that they are Napoleon and the Empress Josephine, respectively.

It was such a dear soul that I ran into tonight on an N.D.G. bus. When I boarded the conveyance, I noticed that everyone was in high spirits and that someone in the rear of the vehicle was talking in a high voice. Paying my fare, I trotted off to the end of the bus and there found a dear old gal busily talking to herself, with a few bon mots cast out to anyone who cared to listen.

"I'm off to the Mess", she informed us, "and as soon as I arrive, the fun will begin. Oh, I'm too lively for Canada, I am, and I'll be sixty-five come next birthday."

I ventured to ask my next door neighbor who she was, as she rattled on about her prowess as a femme fatale.

"Don't know for sure", he murmured, "but she seems to think she's Mata Hari."

Well, it was a change from the usual, anyway. At least she wasn't Josephine.

While September and October are my favorite months, I'm often sorry to see August come to a close. From the end of May until the first of September, I manage to get a bit of a holiday from the mad winter rush of activity. In the summer, all extra-curricular activities cease and I'm able to get a few nights to myself in every week. But as soon as the Labor Day week-end is over, I find myself enmeshed in a ceaseless round of dramatic rehearsals, choral practices, church groups and so on.

Still, the rush of the winter season has its advantages. If it does nothing else, it makes even a few hours' rest seem like an eternity. That is why tonight finds me tired in body but alert in mind and spirit.

Yesterday, I was able to hop on a bus and set out for a short week-end visit with good friends not seen for many a long moon. They pressed me to stay, bless them, and would that I might have done so. But duty called, and I had to get back to this teeming metropolis, post-haste. However, they very kindly invited me back whenever I can arrange to do so and stay longer. And that's one rain-check I shall pick up as soon as circumstances allow, for they are true-blue, first-rate pals.

And what are true-blue, first-rate pals? Simple! Honest-to-goodness folks who accept you for what you are, treat you as one of the family, and give you a terrific lift when the rush of everyday living has you so tense you could snap.

If you haven't got any friends like that, get some soon. I feel sure that if you do, you can leave out all the seltzer powders and headache pills in your medicine cabinet. Your blood pressure will revert to normal and you will feel like a new person. Why? Well, why not? After all, real friends are just a sham if they don't have the effect of a tonic.

So, dear friends, my hearty thanks for the few hours I enjoyed in your company. I'll be back for another dose of tonic soon!

He had no time for his brother-in-law, and was always threatening. At last his wife took him to task. "It's ridiculous for you to talk like that. You know it will cost you a $50 fine if you touch him."

When a month had elapsed and he hadn't mentioned the name of his brother-in-law once, his wife expressed her pleasure. "So you've given up the idea of hitting Jim?"

"Given up!" he snorted. "I'm saving up!"

Grenville High School News and Activities

— By Willis Young —

The annual track meet was held here last Thursday, when an enjoyable time was experienced. It appears that there are some promising entrants for the county school meet, to be held at L.H.S. this Saturday, October 3. Fans are hoping for a fine, warm day, so that the meet will take place as planned.

• • •

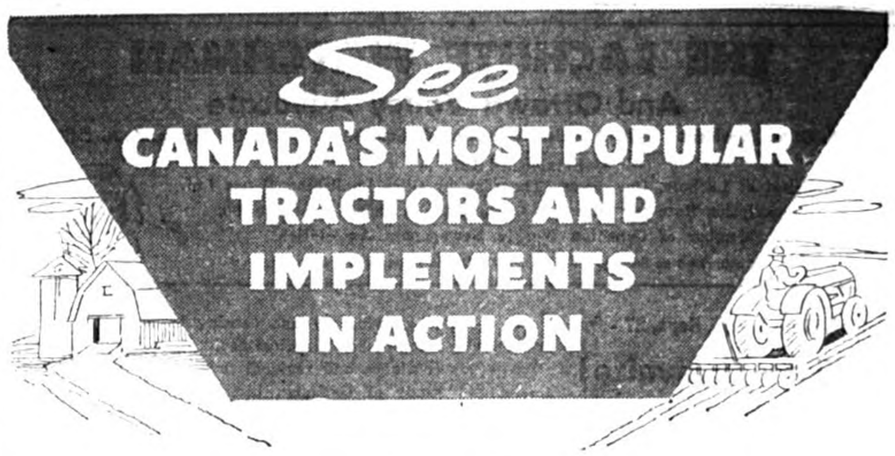

Due to lack of water in the school on Tuesday, the pupils had to return home shortly after their arrival here. This provided an unexpected but most welcome holiday.

• • •

The canteen is again in full operation, with your correspondent in charge. If the present boom in ice-cream sales continues, it looks as if Lowe Brothers Dairy will have to increase their manufacturing facilities.

• • •

All of this school's teaching staff from last year are with us again, with exception of Mrs. J. White and Mrs. V. Armstrong. These vacancies are being filled by Mrs. E. North, Grade I, and Mrs. R. Campbell, Grade V. Mr. K. Fraser, who was on the sick list most of last year, is at present teaching French in the High School grades every afternoon. His friends wish him good health this year.

The budget for 1954 to carry on the work in Quebec Province was placed at $5,000. It is hoped that the various churches will provide for sums towards this figure in their annual congregational budgets.

Rev. Wilson Bridge Commences Pastorate At Lachute United

World-wide Communion Day will have a special significance for members of Lachute United Church this year, for their new pastor, the Rev. Wilson Bridge, will commence his duties as minister of the church that day, Sunday, October 4.

Mr. Bridge follows in the steps of the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, who served here for almost 25 years, Mr. Rosborough retired in July, but is still on active ministerial service, at St. Giles United Church in Hamilton, Ont.

Coming to Canada about two years ago, Mr. Bridge has served at Andover, N.B., where he came with Mrs. Bridge and son, Alexander, from the Congregational Church in England. He was styled "the shelter padre" by newspapers during the blitz of London, where he spent several hazardous years.

They are expected to take up residence at the manse on Thursday or Friday, and will attend the Preparatory Service in the church hall on Friday evening.

Ministerial Association

The Argenteuil Protestant Ministerial Association will meet at 10 a.m., October 5 in the Maple Avenue Baptist Church, Brownsburg. The Rev. D. Merrett will lead the devotions. All ministers in charge of congregations are invited to attend.

"Rally Day" Observed At Brownsburg United

Brownsburg — It was Rally Day at the United Church last Sunday, when the Sunday School joined with the congregation at 11 a.m. in their annual service.

The superintendent, Mr. C. J. Wheeler, had charge of proceedings and, with the leadership of the organist, Mrs. Wheeler, and choir in the choral parts, conducted the service. Miss Joyce Lezneck read the story in connection with the program, "Go — Make Disciples of all Nations", and Mr. Frank Steere, by request, sang "The Old Rugged Cross". The special offering was taken on behalf of the new United Church mission in Northern Rhodesia.

The Rally address was given by the Rev. S. J. Pike, who enlarged on the meaning of the word "Rally", in that it was more than a gathering or get-together. It meant a Resolve for better things in the future. It was "excelsior" — higher yet. Giving a summary of the next quarter's Sunday School lessons, Mr. Pike dipicted "The Boy at his Books" as appearing in every lesson of the series, with the slogan, "Decide for Yourself". Resolve meant responsibility — in the Home, the Sunday School, the Church, to one's neighbor and friend, and, above all, towards God. The lessons were also presenting the School of Life, with its rules and regulations; the Christian Way with its fun, sport and use of talents. Its standards of Choice — Christ as our strength and guide, the Bible, as our greatest text book, Prayer and Worship in our fellowship, and lastly "Helping Others" regardless of color, class or creed.

Carrying out the title of the Rally program, "Go — Make Disciples of all Nations", Mr. Pike offered several reasons for speaking on this special occasion. One was because of his close relationship with the children of the Sunday School over the years. Jovially, he said, "I have held the most of you in my arms, in Baptism; have given you your names and dedicated you to the Lord and His Church". . . Another reason, perhaps, was that he had performed the marriage ceremonies for certain charter members of Mrs. Pike's Mission Band, as well as members of the Sunday School. Still another reason was his association, through the years, with their activities, meetings, social gatherings, sleigh drives and recreational periods.

Mr. Pike closed his talk by summing up what the Rally, or Resolve, should mean to the Sunday School: "Every member present, every Sunday, on time, with a prepared lesson, a liberal offering and a mind to learn".

Marriage Vows In Home Ceremony At Calumet, Que.

Carson - MacIntyre

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when Mary Elsie, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert MacIntyre, of Calumet, became the bride of Mr. J. Fraser Carson, of Ste. Agathe des Monts, the Rev. Mr. Watson officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina-length dress of white nylon illusion over nylon net and satin, fashioned with hoops and crinoline; the fitted jacket had long sleeves falling in points over the wrists, and the fingertip veil was held in place by a coronet of pearls. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and white stephanotis.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Stanley Harris, of Brownsburg, as matron of honor, who was gowned in mauve nylon sheer worn over deeper mauve. Her headdress was of mauve tulle in halo style, and she carried mauve orchids and mauve stephanotis.

Mr. S. Harris was best man for Mr. Carson.

The bridal couple left for a trip to Niagara Falls, Toronto, Buffalo and other points. The bride wore a Coronation red wool dress, with black accessories and a squirrel jacket. On their return they will reside in Ste. Agathe des Monts.

"Week in Quebec"

By Bernard Dufresne

Quebec, Sept. 30 (CP) — A couple of Lower St. Lawrence district pilots will be flying higher than ever.

Capt. Paul Lapointe, 31, of Rimouski, and his co-pilot, Bill Awatter, 45, of Mont Joli, stumbled onto a high-grade ore field and reported they are discussing disposal of their claims to the Iron Ore Company of Canada "for more than $1,000,000."

Premier Duplessis said at his Friday press conference that the find, 80 miles north of Havre St. Pierre on the St. Lawrence North shore, was estimated at between "50,000 and 60,000 tons." Lapointe says "there is much more than that."

Here is how Lapointe and Awatter discovered it:

They were flying from Goose Bay, Labrador, to Mont Joli when their plane compass "went screwy and we figured there was some iron ore down there."

The two pilots rented a seaplane, flew to the spot, 400 miles east of Quebec, picked some samples, and staked 20 claims covering 400 acres.

They got in touch with Dr. Steve Malshersick, of Montreal, a Hungarian-born geologist, when they "needed someone with experience."

All three plan to share in the money to be paid over a period of 27 years by the Iron Ore Company. One cheque has already been received from the ore company, they said.

Delegates from 20 local parents' schools — evening classes where common problems are discussed — met in Quebec last week-end to set up the Canadian Federation of Parents' Schools.

The schools, which started 13 years ago in Montreal and spread to many parts of the province, have been approved by Roman Catholic Church authorities who have appointed Msgr. Irenee Lussier, of Montreal, as chaplain.

The delegates chose Paul-Eugene Plante, 32, Levis insurance man, as president. Mr. Plante said the federation will send out invitations to French-speaking parents' organizations in western Canada and the Maritimes to join the federation.

Delegates from similar Ontario groups attended the organizational meeting of the federation which represents more than 6,000 parents in the province.

At his last press conference before leaving on a two-week holiday Premier Duplessis said his government is considering an amendment to the Quebec election act to deal with the problem of candidates who have similar names.

In recent elections it had frequently occurred that in one riding two or more candidates had identical family names.

Now, he said, the government is considering a proposal whereby the government candidate would be listed at the top of the ballot and the official opposition candidate second. The names of all others would follow in alphabetical order.

Mr. Duplessis said this might eliminate some of the confusion resulting from similar names. However, no decision has been taken and the government will study the proposal thoroughly, he said.

Protect Outboard Motor During Winter Months

Unless you happen to be one of the fortunate few who follow the sun around looking for warmer climates, you'll be packing away all the fishing gear and vacation equipment, to spend the next four or five months beside a warm fireside, dreaming of the big ones you caught and the bigger ones that got away.

Before you carefully pack your equipment in moth balls, it's a good idea to make sure your faithful outboard is properly prepared for storage. A few precautions taken at this time means you can start the spring season without a worry.

Like your automobile, proper care will lengthen the life of your outboard motor, and give you many miles of trouble-free fishing and boating.

First of all, take your outboard to your nearest dealer. He looks after the storage problem, and has the facilities to do the job properly, carefully checking and servicing every part.

Some of the Things To Do

So that you'll know — here are some of the things he will do:

1—He drains all gasoline and oil from the gas tank and carburetor.

2—Flushes the cooling system thoroughly, draining all water from the cooling system.

3—Drains and refills the gear housing according to factory specifications.

4—Injects a small amount of registered lubricating oil into each cylinder, and by revolving the flywheel slowly, spreads the oil over the cylinder walls, pistons and piston rings for protection against possible rust.

5—Cleans the entire outside of the motor, wiping it with an oily rag to prevent damage from rust or corrosion during storage.

When Spring Comes

When spring rolls around, before you call for the motor, he gets it in tip-top running condition.

If he finds any broken or unserviceable parts, affecting the operation of the motor, he will contact you for permission to replace. He'll instruct you on the proper operation and care of the motor. In other words — next spring you'll have an outboard motor that starts like a charm, and sings along wherever your gypsy blood may steer your course. It's the power that gets you there, and brings you home! You'll be the first to agree it's a smart sportsman who makes sure his outboard motor does not deteriorate while laid up during the winter months.

Farm System Spurs Yankees' Winning Ways

SPORTS CAMERA

By Gerry Lougheed, Canadian Press Staff Writer

You may have heard this chant a few weeks ago when the New York Yankees clinched their fifth straight American League pennant: They should break up the Yankees and give some of the other teams a chance.

Break up the Yankees? Why, they've been doing just about that for years.

It doesn't seem to make any difference, however. The Yanks keep piling pennant upon pennant.

To realize the big turnover that has taken place in what is probably baseball's most successful club, it is only necessary to look back to 1947. Of the 32 men who figured in the pennant drive that year, only eight stayed on to help the team win the world championship in 1951.

Of those eight, only four were with the club this season.

The four who departed were Joe DiMaggio, Bobby Brown, Frank Shea and Ralph Houk.

The Four Stalwarts

That left only Phil Rizzuto, Yogi Berra, Allie Reynolds and Vic Taschi as holdovers from the '47 squad. That quartet, the real core of the Yankee successes, now is in world series action against the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Anyone who thought that in the space of a few years the Yanks could survive the break-up of one of the finest outfields in history and keep on winning would have been considered a bit daft. But that's what happened.

Charley Keller left the club after the '49 season. Tommy Henrick quit the playing ranks the following year. DiMaggio retired.

A major share of the credit for the Yanks' winning ways must go to their general manager, canny George Weiss. He supervises the farm system and hires the best scouts to turn up fresh talent.

Year after year his scouts have come up with at least one outstanding freshman to take the place of a fading veteran.

Last season such fine-looking rookies as Gil McDougald, Mickey Mantle and Tom Morgan graced the roster. Eddie Ford was the brightest youngster in 1950. Gerry Coleman came up in '49, Hank Bauer in '48 and Berra and Brown in '47.

Weiss also strengthened his club with deals. He bagged pitchers Ed Lopat and Allie Reynolds (probably his greatest acquisition) from other American League clubs. From the National League (where all the clubs waived on the veteran) came pinch-hitter deluxe Johnny Mize.

MONSTER SHARK

Prince Rupert, B.C. (CP) — Alex Leighton, 15-year-old fisherman, battled 18 hours with a 1,500-pound basking shark which got tangled in his gillnet, before overcoming the fish and towing it to shore. Half of the net was destroyed.

Boy Scouts Re-convene Tonight (Thursday)

Calvert Trophy to Claude Groulx

The Calvert Trophy to the "player of distinction" (member voted the most valuable to his team during the baseball season) goes to Claude Groulx of the Tigers' line-up. René Laurin, president of l'Association de la Jeunesse Sportive de Lachute.

CURRENT SHOWS AND ENTERTAINMENT

Fall Schedule For Television

The new fall schedule on Station CBLT (including many programs which also go to stations CBOT and CBFT via the TV network) goes into effect this Sunday, October 4, and an outstanding feature is the extension of broadcasting hours, which henceforth will be from 2.30 p.m. to midnight, seven days a week. The service for young viewers in the audience has been expanded and will now run daily from 5.00 to 6.45 p.m.

Among the network program series starting this week or recently begun:

Sundays: "Small Fry Frolics" for children, from Montreal; the "C.G.E. Show" with Joyce Sullivan, Leslie Bell's Singers, Howard Cable's orchestra and guests; "Seven Lively Arts".

Mondays: "University Series", featuring various Canadian college activities; and "Studio One", the top American drama show, from CBS.

Tuesdays: "CBC Television Theatre"; the "Milton Berle Show"; and "Dinah Shore".

Wednesdays: "Jazz with Jackson", presenting pianist Cal Jackson with full orchestral support; a new quiz program; and "Music Hall", harking back to the Gay Nineties.

Thursdays: the "Wild Bill Hickok" show from the U.S. (Saturdays on CBOT); and Canadian wrestling bouts.

Fridays: "Hit Parade" (Wednesdays on CBOT and CBFT); and the "Dave Garroway Show".

Saturdays: "Douglas Fairbanks Theatre"; NHL Hockey Broadcasts; and "Greatest Moments in the Prize Ring".

Many other new Canadian and American TV series are scheduled to start during the next few weeks, including "Space Command" (October 17), "The Big Revue" (November 6), the new afternoon show "Matinee Party" October 13), the National Film Board series "Window on Canada" (October 18), the "Dennis Day Show" (October 18), the "Garry Moore Show" (October 13) and "March of Medicine" (October 15).

CBC and Craig Family At International Plowing Match, Cobourg

Once again the CBC will bring to audiences in Canada and abroad on-the-spot coverage of the annual International Plowing Match, being held this year near Cobourg, on Lake Ontario. The event takes place October 6 - 9 and it will be the 40th of its kind. More than 1,000 acres of land will be used for the competitions, a feature of which will be the first "world contest" with entrants from the United Kingdom, Ireland, the United States, West Germany, Denmark, Holland, Norway, Finland and Sweden.

The hub of activities at the Match will be the "tented city" where the CBC will establish its broadcasting headquarters for the national and international services and for television — amid acres of exhibits of machinery of particular interest to farmers.

For the foreign audience, Dick Halhed of the CBC International Service will be on hand to gather information and results which will be transmitted to various countries in a number of languages. And, for the first time, the BBC will send its own representative to cover the Match — Alfred Hall, head of BBC Agricultural Department and secretary of the British and International Plowing Association; he will use CBC facilities.

On the home front, Norn Garriock will devote 10 minutes each day, in the noon-hour CBC "Farm Broadcast" for Ontario and Quebec, to news of the proceeding and interviews with farmers from all over Canada and abroad, and with the visiting Ontario mayors, who have a contest among themselves which is a highlight every year.

Mayor Allan Lamport of Toronto, who defeated Mayor Charlotte Whitton, of Ottawa in last year's competition, will face a big challenge when he mounts his tractor this time. Several of Ontario's sporting mayors have declared their intention to wrest the trophy from Mr. Lamport.

"Dorothy Dix of the CBC"

Those who are at the Match on Thursday, October 8, will be able to see the CBC farm family, the Craigs, putting on their regular show for the farm broadcast at the CBC booth.

One of the most agreeable aspects of Norn Garriock's work is opening the mail which arrives at the CBC offices in Toronto in response to The Craigs and to his daily farm commentaries. Many of the letters are very personal, which recently led Garriock to remark: "I have become the Dorothy Dix of the CBC".

So real have The Craigs become to some listeners that Garriock has received numerous letters asking for Martha Craig's "delicious" apple-pie recipe, sometimes mentioned on the program. Of course, there just isn't one.

Historical Society Meeting At Carillon Museum

Saturday, October 10, will be the occasion of the 19th annual meeting of the Argenteuil Historical Society, when a good attendance is expected for this reunion of members and friends at the Carillon Museum under chairmanship of the president, Benj. Howell. Annual reports will be given and the guest speaker will be Prof. W. Stanford Reid, of McGill University. Tea will be served at a nominal charge.

"Stage" Series Returns

Producer Andrew Allan (left) and composer-conductor Lucio Agostini (right) confer on plans for a broadcast of "Stage 54", heard each Sunday evening on the CBC. As in past years, the "Stage" series will include a large number of original Canadian dramas as well as adaptions of novels and plays, and will star many of the foremost radio actors on the continent.

Museum Records Pioneer History

Jordan, Ont. (CP) — One of the best museums of pioneer history in Canada has been established here as a result of cummunal enterprise.

Documents dealing with the development of this Niagara Peninsula district, the two racial groups who settled the area and ancient books back up a fine collection of pioneer utensils, tools, furniture, clothing and other articles.

The collection is housed in two buildings, one a house believed to have been built in 1840 and a stone schoolhouse nearly as old. The museum, to which contributions have been received from residents of Pelham, Beamsville, Campden and Jordan, and the orchard country between, is named the Museum of Twenty.

It takes its name from the Twenty-Mile Creek — 20 miles from the Niagara River.

Among the documents are ones dealing with crown grants in the late 1700s. The crown deeded to Col. Johnson Butler a large tract of land in South Township on either side of Jordan. He had organized Loyalist irregulars to help the British forces in the American revolution.

At the turn of the 18th century, there was an exodus of Mennonites from Bucks County, Pennsylvania, to the Jordan district. They had been guaranteed freedom of worship by the British. Many documents relating to purchases made by the Mennonites from the Butler tract are in the museum.

Cost of Running A Car

The true costs of running an automobile are startling, says an October Reader's Digest article. If you drive your car 10,000 miles a year you're probably paying over 10 cents a mile, or more than $1,000 for this service. That figure may jolt you, but it may also serve to point out what's at the root of your budget trouble.

The article divides the costs of running a car into two categories: fixed and operating. Depreciation is the biggest fixed expense. On a car two years old or less, annual depreciation will amount to a flat 20 per cent of the purchase price, including all extras and financing costs. On older cars, figure depreciation this way: Consult the used-car ads for average quoted prices for the same model as your own. Say it's $1,200. Probably that figure is inflated to allow for bargaining, so deduct ten per cent, leaving you $1,080 as the value of your car. Subtract that from the original purchase price and divide the result by the number of years you've had your auto. The figure is your depreciation cost for one year.

If you drive more than 18,000 miles in a year, charge extra depreciation of nine to ten cents a mile for all mileage over 18,000.

Add to fixed costs your yearly premiums on all automobile insurance, and the cost of license fees and property tax on cars if this tax is levied in your area. Then, as a final item of fixed costs, figure the interest, at three per cent, which you would draw on the money your car cost, if you hadn't bought it.

Operating expenses include gasoline, oil, tires, maintenance — including greasing, washing and repairs. And the Digest article reminds you to include parking fees, inspection, tools, anti-freeze, a new battery, etc.

Adding up all costs, the author found he had a figure of $1,042.28 a year for 10,000 miles of driving. What's yours? he asks.

Women's Interests -- The Homemaker's Section

Let's Eat

BY

IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"Working in a clutter makes cooking difficult." The chef paused to polish his monocle.

"Now, if the ladies would only clear the accumulated unnecessaries out of kitchen cupboards and drawers, hang up as many utensils as possible near the spot they are used; put up a rack to hold knives, instead of keeping them in a drawer where they can cause accidental cuts to the hands; and introduce a few co-ordinators and space-savers, this clutter would go 'pouf.' And cooking would be a pleasure instead of a chore."

"Quite a long speech, chef. I especially like those words 'co-ordinators' and 'space-savers.'"

Useful "Gadgets"

"This means gadgets to hold articles that belong together, so they will not jumble up in the drawers or cupboards. Par example, a knife-fork-and-spoon tray is a co-ordinator and space-saver. So is a set of mezzanine shelves placed in a cupboard to hold jars of spice and condiments, or cups and sauce dishes. For the refrigerator, there are revolving racks holding jars for leftovers, or sets of oblong plastic or heat-proof glass dishes that can be stacked up. I have found many good co-ordinators and space-savers in this mail-order catalogue. Have a look, madame!"

The "look" took the whole evening! Nothing like a mail-order catalogue for sheer fascination.

Casserole of Lamb with Rice

Cut 2 lbs. cooked breast or neck of lamb in bite-sized pieces. Add 1 tsp. minced parsley, 1 minced green pepper, 1 tsp. salt, ⅛ tsp. pepper, ½ tsp. mono-sodium glutamate and 1 tsp. poultry seasoning. Put ½ into a 2 qt. casserole. Add a layer of ¾ c. canned tomato and a layer of 1 c. cooked rice. Repeat, using the same quantities, to make three layers each. Dot with 1½ tbsp. butter or margarine. Cover and bake 40 min. in a moderate oven, 375 degrees F. Twenty minutes before serving, sprinkle with ¼ c. grated sharp cheese and finish baking time uncovered.

Plum Pot Pie

Wash, quarter, stone and stew for 5 min. 1 lb. plums with 1 c. sugar and 1½ c. water. Meantime, prepare ½ recipe for baking powder biscuit. Pat out the dough to form a circle a little smaller than the top of the pan in which the plum sauce has been made. Place on top of the boiling fruit. Cover and slow-boil 25 min. Serve hot, plain or with butter-cream sauce.

Trick of the Chef

NEW ZEALAND SCOTS CAN LOOK A HAGGIS IN THE EYE AGAIN

By L. C. Gresham
Canadian Press Correspondent

Dunedin, N.Z. (CP) — New Zealand's "Scottish" city of Dunedin, which claims to be the "Edinburgh of the south" is holding up its head and looking the world in the eye again. It has convinced itself that it can produce haggis to compare with any made in Scotland itself.

But for a few weeks the citizens almost lost faith in themselves. An overseas newspaper reported that the city leaders were scouring the district for a haggis maker. They knew the Duke of Edinburgh had a liking for haggis and wanted to serve it to him when he reached Dunedin on the Royal tour at the end of the year.

The paper declared no one could be found who could concoct a haggis fit to put before the Duke.

The report rocked the city. Furious Scots pointed out that haggis was the central feature of celebrations at the many Scottish societies with which the city abounds.

Outraged housewives declared that they had made haggis since childhood and that their mothers had given them the secret direct from the most famous glens in the Highlands.

But gradually there crept into the controversy an element of doubt. An elderly Scot suggested that none of the local residents could make a real haggis. "They call it haggis", he said sourly, "but it's a poor substitute for what the people in Scotland make."

Poor Concoction

Then a chef who had cooked for the royal family got into it. "If the Duke of Edinburgh wants haggis, he will get it all right", he said, "but he'll be disappointed. The local conctions are little better than oatmeal pudding."

Dunedin was shaken. So it staged a contest and appointed a panel of experienced haggis eaters as judges. There were 28 entries.

"I don't know if I'll last the distance", said one judge dubiously as he eyed the aromatic array. But he did — he was a Scot.

After lengthy smelling and tasting the judge-in-chief, Miss E. Murray, declared that the entries made "a very brave showing".

"I couldn't have made better myself", she declared. "I'd just like to have tasted them hot with mashed potatoes and turnips."

The Dunedin Burns Club, which sponsored the event, declared its honor was satisfied. It had proved conclusively that there were haggis makers in Dunedin, and good ones at that.

The winner, Mrs. M. Baker, is likely to be asked to put her skill to work again when the Duke of Edinburgh visits Dunedin.

Your Hair — Don't Wash It Too Clean !

Hair that is harsh, dry and difficult to manage when freshly shampooed may have been washed "too clean". The object in shampooing hair is to remove all the dirt but not every last trace of the natural oils. It is this small quantity of unwashed-out oil that gives clean hair its lustre and silky quality.

Bland soaps are less likely to degrease the hair completely than synthetic detergents. But, when soap shampoos are used with hard water they should be followed by a mild acid rinse of lemon juice or vinegar. These rinses decompose the dull film formed by the precipitation of lime and magnesium salts in hard water and leave a glossy film in its place. This is why synthetic detergent shampoos are often preferred in hard water districts.

The most efficient synthetic shampoos are those which contain agents for regulating their detergent action so that the hair is washed free of dirt but is not completely "degreased". When properly compounded they leave undisturbed enough natural oil to provide the hair with a desirable sheen, softness and texture. This oil is also important in keeping the scalp comfortable and healthy.

There are five essentials to a properly compounded shampoo. First of all, it should clean the hair and scalp thoroughly and economically and leave the hair lustrous. The hair should emerge soft rather than harsh and dry. The shampoo should rinse off easily without depositing any residue which might interfere with waving or dressing treatments.

The fifth and final essential is made up mostly of personal preferences. It insists that shampoos by psychologically satisfactory as to color, thickness, uniformity, degree or clarity or opacity and lathering power.

Contrary to popular opinion, the lathering power of shampoos is no indication of their efficiency as hair cleansers. However, since women have long determined the cleansing power of soaps by their foaming power, chemists have worked hard to impart these same sudsing and lathering properties to all types of detergents. One of the reasons the synthetic detergent types have been so successful in hard water is that they give just as good a lather as in soft water.

Whether a popular shampoo is clear or opaque, a liquid or a paste, colored or pearly white, rose or lilac scented, none of these physical characteristics has any bearing on the shampoo's ability to remove all the dirt and still leave the hair conditioned.

Some of the newest shampoos are semi-solids packaged in aerosol containers which, in addition to their push-button convenience, make more economical dispensers.

Fashions

Inky black velvet is basking in the sartorial spotlight once again. The fabric is nicely handled in a slim-lined dressy daytime dress that has a faille-banded melon neckline. It is horizontally tucked across the front forming a slight peg-top fullness above the straight line skirt. Self belt, buttons in back and little faille cuffs are other details.

Foliage Plants In the Home

The most essential requirements of house plants are attractiveness and durability, says A. P. Chan of the Division of Horticulture at the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa. No other group of plants can rival foliage plants in these two requirements. In general, foliage plants are tropical and semi-tropical, grown mainly for their attractive foliage, and are best known for their ability to withstand adverse growing conditions such as low light, high temperatures, low humidity.

Some foliage plants are large specimens suited for spacious rooms. Of these, Philodendron pertussum or Monstera is perhaps the most common and is generally recognized as the plant with the holes in the leaves. Others commonly in use are Philodendron hastatum, Ficus pandurata (fig-leaf rubber plant), various kinds of Dracaena, and old favorites such as Aspidistra and the common rubber plant.

The smaller foliage plants such as Chinese Evergreen, Nephthytis, Dracaena sanderiana and D. godseffiana, Peperomia and Pothos are being sold by the millions. They are generally grouped together in planters commonly called "dish gardens", which may use as containers, anything from driftwood to tea pots. The large selection of plants available and the unlimited possibilities of containers combine to make "dish gardens" a new kind of adventure in indoor gardening.

Foliage plants will thrive under conditions of warm temperatures, high humidity, diffused light and moist soil, but not water-logged soil. Most homes do not have high humidity but foliage plants are tough — as long as they are warm, have adequate moisture in the soil and have a little light.

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

"Like My Daddy!"

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"I want to grow up and be a man like my daddy!" Ruftus Jones once overheard his only son, Lowell, say to a little group of his playmates when they were discussing what they wanted to be when they were big. Lowell never grew to manhood but died at the age of eleven. His portrait hung above Dr. Jones' mantle in his study at Hartford. This father, forty years after his boy's death wrote about overhearing his little lad saying he wanted to be like him.

"Few things in my life ever touched me as those words did, or have given me a greater impulse to dedication. What kind of a man was I going to be, if I was to be a pattern for my boy?"

• • •

This is a sobering question for any man. A father is the first "hero" in a little child's eyes. What boastful words kindergarten children can say to their chums about their father!

"My daddy is the strongest man in our town! He could beat your daddy up without even trying!"

"We've got the fastest car in our block — you should see my dad drive!"

Not until most youngsters are approaching adolescence do they look at their parents with critical eyes. Then, in their desire to prove to themselves and the world how mature, how independent they are, they begin to see all kinds of things about their fathers and mothers which they would like to change. Mark Twain once remarked: "When I was a boy of fourteen, my father was so ignorant I could hardly stand to have the old man around. But when I got to be twenty-one, I was astonished at how much the old man had learned in seven years!"

Fathers color their children's attitude to work. A son or a daughter quickly sense whether or not dad gets satisfaction out of his job, even with all the petty irritations which are found in every vocation. They also absorb much of his attitude of respect or disdain for hard manual toil. Masaryk, that great leader in Czechoslvakia, followed a wise plan. He once explained to a friend.

"I take my boys every year to the blacksmith's shop where my father worked. I place their hands on the anvil on which he hammered. I then ask them to repeat after me their desire to be men like my father, that is my greatest wish for my little sons."

A son or a daughter gets their first pictures of what marriage is like, and what a home may be, from the life in the family. The greatest education for happy married life takes place when a boy and girl see mother and dad working together as partners, still in love with each other and with a zest for life. It is not by chance that social workers have discovered that frequently young men and women from broken homes have little stability in their own marriages.

One of the greatest gifts a father can give to his son is to share his leisure with him. In one of the outstanding recent biographies "A Man called Peter", the story of Peter Marshall by Catherine, his wife, published by McGraw and Hill, there is a delightful chapter "Man wi His Laddie." In it she quotes from one of her husband's lectures.

"I shall not soon forget the indictment I heard in our little boy's prayer one night. "Thank you, God", he prayed, "that you let my daddy stay home this one evening!"

Changes Adopted in Tweedsmuir Competition

"What are we going to do about the Tweedsmuir Competition?" This is the question asked by Mrs. G. E. LeBaron, president of the Quebec Women's Institutes, in announcing the coming contest. This is held every biennial term of the Federated Women's Institute of Canada, and plans for the next one were arranged at the national board meeting held recently in Toronto.

There are three sections: a village history, some form of handicraft and usually an essay. This term the third section is to be replaced by a painting and a change has also been made in the craft. This will feature an outfit for a six-year-old child. A committee has been appointed to work out the details for these last two sections; the histories will follow previous regulations.

Mrs. LeBaron feels the proposed changes will prove popular and she is hopeful more interest will be created, resulting in fuller participation by Institute members in next term's competition. Elimination contests are held in each province, the winners competing at a national level. A silver cup is given by Lady Tweedsmuir for each section in the final competition.

Rev. and Mrs. S. J. Pike Honored at Social and Presentation in Avoca

(Our District Correspondent)

Avoca — On Wednesday evening of last week, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Evan Bates, a chicken supper was given by the Ladies' Aid and members, and a few friends, of the Church of St. Andrew, Avoca, in honor of the Rev. S. J. Pike and Mrs. Pike, of Brownsburg, who are retiring from active work in this parish after 17 years of association with the members.

After the supper and social evening of Mrs. S. E. Smith, in a few well chosen words and on behalf of the members, presented the honored guests with a beautiful satin down comforter in dusty rose shade. Both Mr. and Mrs. Pike were deeply touched with this token of esteem. All joined in wishing the Rev. and Mrs. Pike a very happy time in their new field at Newtonville, Ont.

The Rev. and Mrs. Pike had fully intended retiring, but were approached by the United minister in Port Hope to consider this pastorate, which they duly accepted. They will be situated only a short distance from their son, Stephen, who lives in Port Hope.

Mr. Pike has been most faithful and devoted while in charge of this field, and always willing to help, regardless of creed. Friends and members wish them a long, useful and happy life.

Commonwealth Air Forces Memorial Will Honor 3,000 Canadian Airmen

Queen to Unveil Memorial October 17 At Historic Runnymede in England

By Ann Roger, Ottawa Journal

Runnymede, scene of the signing of the Magna Carta, will see a unique ceremony October 17 when Queen Elizabeth unveils the Commonwealth Air Forces Memorial there. A number of Canadians — with people from all parts of the Commonwealth will watch the ceremony.

The memorial commemorates officers and men of the Air Forces of the Commonwealth who died in World War II in operations from bases in the United Kingdom, and who have no known grave. It is being erected by the Imperial War Graves Commission to the design of Edward Maufe, R.A.

Relatives Invited

Nearly 3,000 of the 20,000 names inscribed on the monument will be those of Canadian Air Force personnel. The Canadian representation is second only to U.K. airmen.

Next-of-kin have been invited to attend the ceremony. The commission has sent 2,916 invitations to Canadians. For the most part these are close relatives, but a number of friends of those commemorated have also been invited. Consideration is being given as well to next-of-kin to men buried in known graves.

Pilgrimage to the unveiling is sponsored jointly by the Canadian Legion, the Imperial War Graves Commission and the Royal Canadian Air Force Association. Tours to various places in the U.K. and Europe have also been arranged.

Some 50 persons from all across Canada are planning to attend the ceremony.

Pathetic Enquiries

The Canadian Legion, which is looking after the arrangements, has received nearly 500 letters of enquiry. Many are pathetic reminders of personal pain. Many more want to see the grave of a son or husband desperately, but can't afford the trip.

One elderly man wrote that he wanted to see the memorial to his grandson, whom he had raised from the age of six. He forgot to include his address, however, and the Legion has been unable to trace him.

A woman wrote that she would use her son's "blood money" to make the trip. He had received his commission just before he was killed but hadn't got a backlog of commission pay. This was sent to his mother.

Majority of those interested in making the trip are in the upper age bracket. A few spoke of themselves as "past the age of travelling" but still feel they want to see the memorial. One couple, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eason, of Keene, Ont., are 77 and 78.

Several organizations among them the War Amputees Association and the Silver Cross women and some individuals are sending wreaths to be placed on the monument.

The RCAF will be represented by Air Marshal C. R. Slemon, Chief of the Air Staff; Air Marshal W. A. Curtis; Air Marshal Robert Leckie; Air Vice Marshal Frank Wait; Air Vice Marshal Frank Miller; Air Vice Marshal D. M. Smith; Air Vice Marshal Hugh Campbell; Air Vice Marshal J. L. Plant; and Wing Commander W. R. Gunn.

NEW BISHOP FOR OTTAWA DISTRICT

Converts Farm Silo Into Modern House

Bright's Grove, Ont. (CP) — A silo near here has been converted to a modern, four-room home.

For years before the Second World War, the building held the ensilage used to feed cattle on a farm owned by the Gallie family. But the post-war housing shortage gave a naval veteran some ideas about it.

Frank Blaybrook, while serving on the east coast, was struck with the idea of living in a converted lighthouse. He visited this Lake Huron community near Sarnia in search of one and finally decided the silo would serve his purpose just as well.

He, his wife and sister cleaned the building, installed a spiral staircase, put in four floors, ringed the top with 20 windows and put on a roof.

The building is 20 feet in diameter and 45 feet high. Now it's owned by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cogswell, who use the lower floor as a living room, second floor as a bedroom, third as the kitchen and fourth as a den.

The walls have been insulated and a space heater installed with air ducts for ventilation.

Bank Review Shows Canada "Prosperous"

Montreal — "Prosperous" is the single word in which the Bank of Montreal describes the Canadian economy during the first half of 1953. In its September Business Review, the bank notes declines in some sectors but considers that "good fortune far outweighed bad."

In no other field is this more apparent, the review says, than in the statistics of employment. "Of a total labor force estimated at 5½ millions in July, only 90,000, or 1.6 per cent were actually without work and seeking employment, and this despite the addition of 195,000 new applicants . . . in the preceding nine weeks." Wages also continued to rise.

Improvement in money income was made all the more significant by the fact that the Canadian dollar's purchasing power has been enhanced slowly but perceptibly until recent months. Of late, however, prices have moved more up than down. Some firming of wholesale prices has been noticeable, and during three successive months, the consumer price index has risen fractionally.

"The exceptions to this record of augmented industrial activity are few", the bank points out. "They are, however, significant. . . One of these is the farm implement industry, where a falling off in sales is related to declines in agricultural prices and income. Also, lower revenues received by producers of machine tools, other industrial machinery and iron castings denote a change in the pattern of capital expenditure.

As regards new house building, however, 1953 may well turn out to be a record year and retail sales have risen to new seasonal heights, wih all provinces showing higher figures.

"Merchandise sales to other countries . . have been less buoyant than those to the home market", the review continues. "The physical volume of export trade declined slightly. Merchandise imports, on the other hand, in quantitative terms may have averaged close to 20 per cent above the first half of 1952."

The rise in Canadian industrial production, in the first half of 1953 was in response to domestic rather than external demand. The strength of domestic demand attracted the record volume of imports and brought about a deficit in the merchandise trade balance. Up to July, we produced or imported more than we sold.

"In summary . . it would appear that the immediate situation is certainly not one that can be described as a sellers' market. Factors of competition both in domestic and export trade, bid fair to become increasingly apparent in the months ahead."

698 BLOOD DONATIONS AT RECORD CLINIC

Lachute, Que., October 5, 1953

To all who assisted so generously by giving their blood
And/or their time and efforts to the Blood Donor Campaign :

On behalf of the Lachute and Brownsburg branches of the Canadian Red Cross and their Blood Donor Committees, we wish to thank all those who, through their assistance and co-operation, made the campaign a success. It is impossible to mention everyone by name, but we wish particularly to thank and congratulate the Clergy, the Municipal, Federal and Provincial Authorities, Service Clubs, the Press, Business Firms, Women Volunteers, Scouts, those who loaned their cars for transportation, and the Nurses who were in constant attendance at the Clinic.

The ability of Red Cross to render aid to those needing blood transfusions is made possible because of public interest and support, and we are proud to congratulate all those who helped put the Argenteuil Blood Donor Campaign "over the top" with 748 pints of the life-giving fluid now put to use in the hospitals.

To September 25, the Red Cross in Quebec had reached 50,000 bottles of the 75,000 bottles of blood needed to fill its quota this year. The people of Lachute, Brownsburg and district have joined with the rest of the province in putting Quebec among the first in Canada's Blood Donor effort.

With sincere appreciation —

MRS. HOWARD WATSON, President, Lachute Branch.
MRS. N. E. SMILLIE, President, Brownsburg Branch.
HORACE LAMARCHE, Chairman, Lachute Committee.

Accident Verdict In Highway Deaths

Inquest into two deaths resulting from the recent automobile crash on Highway No. 8 at Chatboro, was held Monday afternoon at the Court House under presidency of Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur. It was found by the jury that Miss Annette Vezina, 38, and Raymond DeCarufel, 30, both of Hull district, met their death by accident.

Three witnesses gave their testimony — Lucien Lepage, of Ayersville, driver of of the local car involved; Roland Joly, of Brownsburg, a passenger; and Traffic Officer Roger Massie, who investigated the dual fatality. The first two witnesses testified that Miss Vezina's car skidded on the wet pavement into the path of Lepage's auto and that the latter was unable to avoid a collision. Lepage had been in possession of his car for only two days when the crash occurred, and he declared the car was in perfect condition.

The jury, in returning their verdict of accidental death, suggested that the authorities erect signs indicating that this highway is dangerous in wet weather, or as an alternative, apply non-skid asphalt surfacing.

Ayersville Council

At the September meeting of Ayersville Council, held last week, all councillors were present with the exception of Ald. Albert Lemay — Mayor Gilbert E. Ayers presiding.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, A. Brisson, and were approved. Council also authorized payment of the month's accounts, totalling $717.83.

It was decided that the municipality would attend to the clearing of sidewalks during the winter season.

Fire Prevention Week October 4 - 10

By Royal Proclamation, this week is Fire Prevention Week. Last year fire cost Canada 542 lives and nearly 66 million dollars in property. Think of the enormous waste. Every life and every dollar lost to fire is a life and a dollar lost to our country. Prevent fire, save lives and money. Be careful — this week and every week.

This is the week when you should be preparing your heating equipment to meet the chilly blasts of winter. Make sure your chimneys are in good condition and your stovepipes cleaned out. Renew them if necessary and see that they are well supported. Protect woodwork around stoves and pipes. Last year defective heating equipment and chimneys caused over 5,000 fires in Canada with a loss of over six million dollars.

Warm Acclaim For Talented Piano Team

At First Recital in Community Concerts 1953-54 Series

The local concert season opened Monday evening with two personable performers in a pleasing program — the Mauney Brothers, twin pianists — playing before a packed house at the High School. The Lachute Community Concerts membership was joined by over 60 friends from the Hawkesbury Association, leaving few if any vacancies in the auditorium — a happy circumstance, for this was a performance too good to waste on vacant seats. The high standard set by Ernest and Miles Mauney is a good omen for the 1953-54 season — a series in which it is hoped Lachute and Hawkesbury will continue to reciprocate for greater mutual enjoyment.

Miss Juliette Rodrigue, president, welcomed the audience of between 600 and 650 persons, and expressed her hope for an enjoyable musical season.

The Mauney boys, American-born pianists, are identical twins. They evidence a complete sympathy and collaboration in their work — a characteristic unexpected in two of such close family relationship. Although serious in their performance, they are likeable and human, with humor sufficient to put their listeners at their ease while spellbound with their piano playing.

The program was, as usual, well chosen for its variety of moods and composers. Few of the selections, perhaps, were really well known except to students of music, but this did not detract from their appeal. Notable for charm of melody was "The Lark" by Michael Glinka, Russian composer. For a lively blend of "two instruments that sound as one", "Duettino Concertante" by Mozart - Busoni. Rachmaninoff's "Romance Tarentelle" (Suite 2, Op. 17), which was simultaneously a masterpiece of melody and a feat of muscular endurance in its rendition. Weird and restless rhythm was a feature of Debussy's "Fêtes" (Nocturne) — not altogether unlike two Preludes by George Gershwin in the second lap of the program. These Preludes in minor key might be termed just "blues" in the upper bracket, typically Gershwin, typically American with their suggestion of slave-time pathos, lilt and laughter from the Deep South. Franz Liszt was represented too, in "Concerto Pathetique" — a drama in sweeping, sonorous phrases played by four hands fully occupied. Two lively Etudes by Chopin; and as a final selection, airs from the Strauss Operetta "Die Fledermaus", which included melodies more familiar to the audience, conjuring those visions of courtly grandeur and crinolines synonymous with the beloved Strauss waltzes.

In response to prolonged applause, the Mauney duettists played the Blue Danube Waltz on their two immense grand pianos and broke loose from their more dignified repertoire in several popular encores. This brief favor suggested what triumphs the Mauneys must have scored in their Army service as wartime recitalists.

Canadian Scouts will be hosts to brother Scouts from around the globe in 1955. An invitation to hold the 8th World Scout Jamboree in Canada was accepted at the 14th International Scout Conference in Vaduz, Liechtenstein, in August. It will be the first time an International Scout Jamboree has been held in Canada.

WATER EVERYWHERE

Oakville, Ont. (CP) — Game Warden Dudley Hitchcox was enthusiastic back in 1945 when he released four beaver in the headwaters of Sixteen Mile Creek. Now, he says, there's "beaver everywhere". The rapidly-increasing beavers have built a dam and flooded a stretch of swampy creek.

Parade Inaugurates Fire Prevention Week

Chief Geo. Y. Deacon Presses Campaign Year by Year For Community Protection

Sirens screamed through the streets of Lachute Monday night, as Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon and a good turnout of the volunteer firefighters, accompanied by members of the local police force, reminded the people that this is Fire Prevention Week. This observance is held every October in commemoration of the Great Chicago Fire of October 9, 1871; it is not the week that firemen go on holidays, as many people jokingly suggest.

More than two months have passed since the fire alarm has sounded over the rooftops of this town, although the fire brigade have been called to several fires outside the town limits. The last fire summons here, on August 3, turned out to be a false alarm — so Lachute has gone for nearly three months without a fire, an omen that is worth noting for Fire Prevention Week.

Chief Deacon and his assistants have done a job in the past 35 years that cannot be equalled. It cannot be estimated how much property they have saved, how much tragedy averted, by this annual effort — educating the children, visiting local schools, clubs and civic organizations, and explaining that the best way to combat fire is to prevent it before it starts.

Children in the local schools have been taught the proper manner in which to leave the school and other public buildings in event of a fire. Whether they will keep as calm and cool in an actual outbreak is something no one knows, but at least preparedness should forestall a possible panic.

Firemen Save Humble Dwelling by Tireless Effort, West of Town

Two men answered a call to the home of Jos. Dinelle, Sandy Hill, on Tuesday around 11 a.m. The auxiliary truck was taken out and a few minutes later a call for assistance was received at the fire station. In the meantime, the two men had laid the necessary hose and were pouring water from the booster tank on the small but fiercely burning building. The fire had started in a wall from a faulty stove pipe, and had ignited the wooden structure, which was tinder-dry.

The owner, neighbors, and several of the firemen had almost given the building up for lost, but they continued to battle the flames and, with what little water they had — only 100 gallons carried in the tank of the firetruck — the blaze was extinguished.

Today, the roof is repaired and the family, in poor circumstances, are again occupying their home, thanks to the efforts of a small band of men united for the protection of their community.

Low Tariff Protection to Canadian Woollen Textile Industry; Tougher Competition Seen from Brit. Imports

Local Textile Executives Attended Annual Meeting Of Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers Assn.

Toronto — A. L. Code, president of the Code Felt and Knitting Company, Perth, Ont., was re-elected president of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers Association at closing sessions of the 31st annual meeting of the association at the Royal York Hotel last week.

Jean Louis Héon, president of La Salle Knitting Company, Plessisville, Que., was re-elected vice-president.

Among those elected to head the various sections of the association for the coming year was Clement Tremblay, OBE, of Lachute.

(Others from Lachute who attended the conference with Mr. Tremblay were Messrs. Thos. Milnes, Roger Régimbal and Geo. Tattersfield.)

Expect Tougher Competition From British Imports

The Canadian wool textile industry can expect even tougher competition from imports from Britain, the Rt. Hon. Lord Barnby, CMG, CBE, MVO, of London, England, said in an address at the annual dinner. The international textile authority saw increased competition for the Canadian market when Britain is ready to make the bid.

"I am really convinced that when British domestic deliveries can be made in weeks instead of months, and profits are squeezed out, British competition, with its low wages, will be found in Canada to be even tougher."

Speaking as "a supplier from outside and a producer from within", Lord Barnby said he could claim to know "a little of the Canadian wool textile industry and I realize that it is efficient to meet the competition that it does. I have confidence in its future in anywhere near reasonable competition."

In discussing world trading conditions, the speaker said that every leading world country protects its textile industry. "Even Britain with its tradition of low tariffs offers more protection that Canada. . . To be frank I would think Canada's tariffs too low. Other countries with high tariffs can export; Canada cannot, since she pays wages three times as high as Britain's for the same work."

Lions Club Hears Home-Bred Expert On Wildlife

Sterling Pollock, Sportsman And Conservationist, Is Member of Local Family

Over 35 Lions and guests heard a noted wildlife enthusiast and former Lachute man, Sterling Pollock, with a commentary and interesting films on fish, game and outdoor sportsmanship.

The meeting was held Tuesday at the Legion Hall, under chairmanship of President E. M. Jones.

During the club business Secretary Phil Tremblay was instructed to acknowledge the gift of a framed picture sent by Mrs. E. A. Bulley, of Arundel. An appeal for the Salvation Army Campaign received warm approval — two members testifying to the fine work of this organization from personal wartime experience.

Lion Horace Lamarche, chairman of the Lachute Blood Clinic committee, reported on the outstanding success of this venture, also acknowledging the collaboration of many workers, including a fine representation of Lions members.

Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon gave his annual boost to Fire Prevention Week, substantiating his talk with forceful statistics: 5,000 children are burned to death in the United States every year; 112 perished in Quebec Province last year, and twice that many were injured. Chief Deacon stressed the effectiveness of educating children against fire hazards, and urged his fellow clubmen to do their part.

The guest speaker was introduced by Lion Herbie Graves. Sterling Pollock, an accountant with C.I.P. Company in Montreal, was born at Hill Head and educated at Lachute High School. He has three brothers in the district, and a strong sentimental attachment to his home surroundings. . .

It developed from Mr. Pollock's remarks that Argenteuil is rated highly, also, in fish and game resources. "One of the finest in the Province of Quebec", he termed this area — with deer, partridge, fish and other game species abundant.

Th average U.S. hunter spends $599 per annum visiting Canada, a fair portion of which comes to this province. Conservation movements deserve active support, so that these resources are not depleted. On this theme also, the speaker added a motto timely to the Fire Prevention observance: "Keep our forests green!"

As a hunter and fisherman, Sterling Pollock takes keener pleasure in camera shots of wildlife. His films included colorful productions on American bird life, sea fishing and game-bird shooting. Two films of his own production, however, showed scenery and wildlife more familiar to Quebecers. "Lures and Fins", photographed on Lake St. Louis, depicted the thrills of "muskie" fishing, and the film "Budworm City" showed spraying operations for forest conservation in New Brunswick.

Lion Nat Boyd thanked the visitor for his interesting program.

Sawmill Teamster Fatally Injured At Calumet

George Arnold, 63-year-old employee at the Canadian International Paper Company's sawmill at Calumet, was fatally hurt in an accident at his work on Wednesday of last week. His death occurred next day in hospital at Hawkesbury.

Mr. Arnold, a teamster, was hauling lumber on a track from the mill to the railroad siding. There were no eyewitnesses to the accident; first intimation of the mishap was his horse returning to its stable with a broken trace. Workers went to investigate, finding Arnold, the driver, badly injured and unconscious beside the track. Some of the lumber had fallen from the truck, and the horse had broken its chain and made for the stable.

The victim, removed to the Smiths' Clinic at Hawkesbury, died on Thursday afternoon of a broken skull. He had also suffered a leg fracture and multiple injuries.

Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur, of Lachute, pronounced the death accidental.

The late Mr. Arnold was unmarried. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Godfrey Dixon, of Dalesville, and Mrs. Alex Barker, of Lachute Mills.

Truck Driver Killed By Local Passenger Train

The eastbound CPR train arrived late at Lachute last Friday evening following a level-crossing accident between Plaisance and Papineauville, in which a truck triver, Lucien Lebeau, 37, of Ottawa, died of a fractured spine.

Coroner Dr. L. Bourgault, of St. André Avellin, set the inquest for Tuesday, at Papineauville.

It appears the victim was a fruit trucker and shortly before the accident had called at a store in Papineauville. The crash occurred two miles west of that place. The truck was dragged over 700 feet by the train, and the driver succumbed shortly after the crash. The track was littered with twisted debris. The locomotive was also considerably damaged and was replaced by another engine despatched from Ottawa.

Queen's Citation Honors Legionnaire At Morin Heights

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — the Secretary of State for Canada has recently forwarded the following Command from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II:

"By Command of Her Majesty the Queen, the accompanying Medal is forwarded to Fred Muncey, Esquire, to be worn in commemoration of Her Majesty's Coronation, 2nd June, 1953".

Fred Muncey, as he is known by his comrades of Branch 171 Canadian Legion, has served the Legion in many capacities since joining this organization. His first branch was No. 4, Verdun; he later became a charter member of "Postal Branch" No. 72, until moving to Morin Heights, where he became a member of this branch. He has also held the post of District Commander for a period of five years, and still is a member of Morin Heights Branch 171.

The citation was made through the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion for the Province of Quebec, and through the Dominion Command, Ottawa, for his valued services to the Canadian Legion in general.

Youngster Drowned In Rouge Tributary

Papineauville — a two-and-a-half-year-old child was drowned in the Petite Rouge River about 15 miles northeast of here last Friday afternoon.

Det. Conrad Bougeois of the Quebec Provincial Police said the child was sitting on the back of a truck driven by his father, Mr. Rioux. Crossing the stream, the truck, loaded with bags of grain, went through the bridge and the youngster was thrown into the water. There were other members of the family in the cab of the truck, but none of these suffered injury.

The victim's body was recovered about an hour after the accident in three feet of water.

Man Convicted, Guilty of Issuing False Cheques

Raymond Pellerin, of Montreal, was arrested recently by Police Chief Donat Villeneuve on a charge of issuing false cheques. He stood trial last week in St. Jerome, where he had been taken by Provincial Det. Maurice Lamoureux, and will be sentenced November 20.

Pellerin was charged with purchasing a car in Montreal and issuing a cheque for $1,865. He put about 1,000 miles on the car and then returned it.

Coming to Lachute, he stayed in a local hotel for several days, running up a bill. When the hotel manager refused a cheque, as the banks were closed, Pellerin left his valise for security. The following day, he went to see a local car dealer, gave a cheque for more than $2,900, got into his car and drove away to another garage, where he gave a cheque for $4.85 for gas. He stated that he would have the registration for the car fixed in Montreal that afternoon, as the local office was closed. After a trip to Quebec City and a few other short jaunts that totalled a mileage of 1,400 on the auto, it was returned to Lachute, where the dealer got his car back minus a wheel and tire. When questioned about the cheques not being valid, he stated that he had transferred his account.

The next day Pellerin secured a second-hand car from another local dealer, this time issuing a cheque for some $1,500. This car was also duly recovered.

All local debts have been paid by the man's family, but the charges were laid by provincial authorities for other offences outside this district.

Chatboro Victim Identified; Another Mishap Incidental

Doing a good turn for his neighbor proved a costly affair for Alex G. MacMillan, of Dalkeith, Ont., who was involved in an accident with a local motorist, Miville Trickey. The collision occurred at the corner of Foundry and Bethany Streets, when MacMillan failed to stop at the intersection.

MacMillan had just left the local police station, where he had gathered information concerning whereabouts of the body of an unidentified man killed near Chatboro on September 5. He was looking for the local morgue when the accident occurred.

MacMillan, whose car was extensively damaged, was accompanied by Albert and Russel Cousineau, both of Dalkeith, who turned out to be brothers of the hitherto unidentified accident victim. They told Det. Maurice Lamoureux that their brother, Frederick William Cousineau, had left for Western Ontario, and they had not connected the local death with his disappearance, until viewing a picture of the deceased taken here after his death, which was displayed in the Vankleek Hill police station.

Identification at the local morgue was made when the brothers viewed other photographs, also the clothes and effects of the deceased, who had meanwhile been buried in the lot adjoining the Catholic Cemetery. The body will be transferred to Dalkeith in the near future, for interment in the family plot.

Two Canadians Solve Problem Which Eluded Chemists For 50 Years

—Central Press Canadian

A problem which has dogged chemists for 50 years—the chemical synthesis of sugar—was reported solved by two Canadian researchers who gave a detailed account of their work to the 124th annual meeting of the American Chemical Society held in Chicago. Dr. Raymond U. Lemieux, 33, of Saskatoon, Sask., seen above, told the society the experiment was the fulfillment of a promise made to his wife five years ago. He was aided by Dr. George Huber. Many chemists were skeptical, while others likened the achievement to the climbing of Mt. Everest. If proved accurate, this is the first time that common sugar (sucrose) in pure crystalline form has been produced in a test tube.

Semi-Trailer Plunges Into Lievre River

Two truckers were injured, one of them critically, when their huge semi-trailer loaded with cases of empty beer bottles veered out of control on the curving approach to Lorrain Bridge at Masson last week and dropped 60 feet to the nearly-dry bottom of the Lievre River. Three youths hunting pigeons on the rocky bottom were almost crushed.

Eastern Canada's highest mountains are the Torngats in Labrador, just over a mile high. Western Canada's highest mountain is Logan, in the Yukon, nearly four miles high.

Gatineau Lines

Improvements and additions being made by the Company which affect your service are:

To keep abreast of the steadily increasing demand for electric power in the City of Hull, the capacity of the Lois Street substation is being doubled by the installation of a 5,000 kva transformer.

Deschenes and Aylmer are supplied from the Val Tetreau substation in Hull over two circuits of 4,000 and 11,000 volts. Erection is now under way of a new 26,400 volt transmission line to replace the 11,000 volt circuit, to meet the growing needs of Deschenes and Aylmer.

The Shawville staff and equipment are now housed in the new office building and garage recently completed in Shawville.

The capacities of the Quyon and Radford substations have been increased from 75 kva to 125 and 150 kva respectively.

Thorough inspection of all farm buildings, now, during Fire Prevention Week, means a real investment in future safety. Livestock, equipment, barns, sheds, the house and the family will be endangered by fire unless farm properties are inspected for fire hazards. Remember this, farmers: feed a hungry world — not fires!

Seasonal Farm Topics

Cross-Breeding Improves Quality

Scotland is the cradle of commercial cross-breeding of cattle and sheep for market purposes and in sheep, long established breeding practices have been developed to supply the required ewe stocks. The word "half bred" to a British farmer means the progeny of a Leicester ram and a North Country Cheviot ewe.

As market lambs in Britain are mainly the result of using Down rams on "half breds", it is significant to note in a review of lamb marketings for Scotland in 1952, that 97 per cent of the lambs "graded" 1st quality. The same report shows 96 per cent of their home bred steers grading either "Special" or "A". As the system of "grading" used by the Ministry is based on calculated carcass yield, it is evident that Scottish farmers are expert feeders as well as top breeders. The breeding practice followed no doubt can claim a share of the credit.

Lettuce Waste Salvaged

A new industry may soon grow out of lettuce waste.

A process developed in California uses damaged lettuce heads, outside leaves and culls to produce vegetable oil and cattle feed meal. The waste lettuce is chopped, pressed, dehydrated, ground up and extracted by use of solvents.

The extracted oil is rich in carotene, chlorophyll and xanthophyll. The residual meal contains about 27 per cent protein and 17 per cent fibre and has ben found useful as a cattle feed, C-I-L Agricultural News reports.

Lettuce meal is comparable to alfalfa meal in protein, carotene and chlorophyll content but has less fibre.

Experts Tackle Farm Problems at Indian Head

Indian Head, Sask. (CP) — A method of delivering hay from the field to the stack without the farmer having to touch it with a fork is one of the problems agricultural researchers have solved at the federal experimental farm here.

The barnyard scientists also seek the answer to why one shorthorn bull gains more weight daily than another of the same strain although both are fed the same ration.

Farm personel found swathing hay instead of moving it not only leaves hay in neat rows but prevents deterioration. After baling, it is picked up by a bale loader and taken to barns.

The method provents finger blisters and represents time saved. The old pitch fork comes into its own only for topping stacks.

Interesting Test

The farm has two Shorthorn bulls. One gains weight at 2½ pounds a day; the other 1½ pounds, despite identical feeding. To find out whether the different weight gains are hereditary, a herd of 30 Shorthorn cows has been split.

Each bull will sire the calves of 15 cows. The calves will be fed similar rations and again accurate charts kept to resolve the hereditary factor.

If the experiment is successful the farmer with the rapid weight gaining variety will be able to market his cattle at least one month before his neighbor who has the ordinary breed and at less cost.

Another farm project concerns work on a new variety of flax, yet to be named. The strain is taller than other types of flax, has good yield and good quality. The greater height is important for harvesting by combines.

Experiments also are being made in breeding foundation stocks of new wheats such as CT-186, resistant to Race 15B rust. Common garden vegetables are also being crossed for new seeds and better plants.

Quadruplet Calves Prairie Attraction

Creelman, Sask. (CP) — Quadruplet calves, a rarity especially in beef cattle, are thriving on the farm of Nat Woiton after being born to a four-year-old Hereford cow.

Veterinarians and livestock officials of the Creelman area, 75 miles southeast of Regina, have failed to find anything in provincial records matching the quadruplet beef cattle birth.

Because of a feeding problem, a foster-mother cow has taken over two of the calves. At first objecting to two calves, the foster-mother now is becoming quite attached to them.

Mr. Woiton who emigrated from Poland in 1927 has kept livestock since 1936. He said the calves were born either August 31 or September 1. Ten days after birth they averaged 60 to 70 pounds and it is estimated they probably weighed 45 to 55 pounds each at birth.

The mother cow is a grade animal with a line of Hereford sires. The calves were sired by a purebred Hereford bull.

INJECTION TO KILL CATTLE GRUBS

Injecting cattle with insecticides such as lindane is a new method being tried by agricultural scientists to kill cattle grubs. In recent experiments with yearling cattle, four injections gave first-rate control. However, research workers still have to determine if this new method of grub control is both economical and safe to use.

DRUG PROMOTES GROWTH OF SHEEP

London—The addition to sheep's food of phonothiazine has had the effect of promoting growth, it was disclosed in a paper read to the British Association meeting at Liverpool recently by Mr. E. L. Taylor, of the Veterinary Laboratory of the United Kingdom Ministry of Agriculture, Weibridge, Surrey, who recalled the success attained by using penicillin for pigs and poultry. Investigations by a colleague had shown that lambs given food with the drug in it were on the average 30 pounds heavier at the end of the summer, than animals fed in the normal way.

Based on first-quarter figures, home-building currently is on the upswing in Canada.

Low Protection, More Competition

Later he spoke on the Canadian economic picture: "It certainly is interesting that whereas in machinery Canada extends 50% of her requirements to imports, only 5% comes from Britain. In wool textiles she extends also 50% of her requirements to foreign suppliers, yet 85% comes from Britain.

"That seems to show how much more efficient and enterprising is the British wool textile industry than the British machinery industry."

"Textile Towns" of National Importance

Importance of Ontario's many "textile towns" to the economy of the province and the nation was stressed by B. K. Gunn, of Paris, Ont., in a luncheon speech.

Mr. Gunn, a past president of the Association and general manager of Penman's Limited, Paris, traced the history of the primary textile industry in Ontario from the cabin of the first settler.

"Today it is the largest manufacturing industry in the province, with 354 mills and 36,000 employees."

The small town nature of Ontario's textile industry is no accident, the speaker said. There is a definite historical reason for this unique situation.

"The textile industry was established in early centres of population to fill the need for clothing and textile products. It was, in fact, the first real industry in the province. Almost every community had its textile mill. Population shifts and other factors rarely added to the towns where these mills had been established. The result has been that the mills have grown to meet increasing demand, but the towns have remained static, or only grown in proportion to each mill."

Today, he said, Ontario's primary mills, more than half of which are located in towns or villages of less than 25,000 population, along with the mills of the rest of Canada, face a bitter fight to retain a fair share of the domestic Canadian market.

Production Costs, Low Tariffs Detrimental to Manufacturer

"Imports of textiles, both as fabrics and as finished garments, are usurping an increasing share of the Canadian market. Unit production costs in major textile producing countries are substantially lower than costs in Canada. This factor, coupled with the fact that Canadian tariffs on textiles and textile products are the lowest of any major world textile producer, has robbed the Canadian manufacturer of his opportunity to compete on a reasonably equitable basis in his own home market.

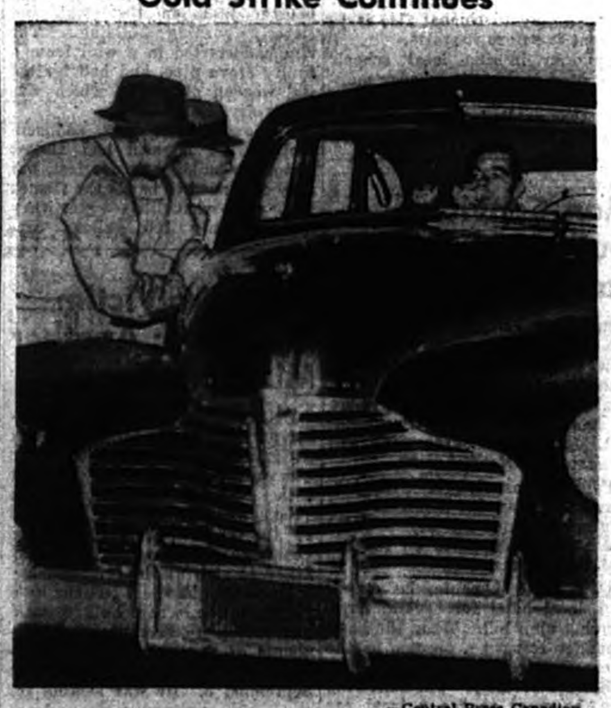

"If the trend toward increased textile imports continues", Mr. Gunn added, "the outcome can only be this: The Canadian public will be at the mercy of foreign suppliers for one of the basic necessities of life — textiles. You can be sure that the Canadian public would, under those conditions, get short shrift in any time of economic or political emergency."

NORTHWARD MIGRATION

Sydney, N.S. (CP) — Recruiting for jobs in northern Labrador was so heavy here that the national employment office remained open on a Saturday, a rare proceeding. The positions ranged from various types of construction jobs to butchers and bakers.

Average income of the 2,777,950 Canadians who paid personal income tax last year was $3,149 and their total income tax payment was $1,225,275,562.

Gold Strike Continues

—Central Press Canadian

Pickets now patrol Hollinger mine in Timmins, Ont., after a strike order was given by the United Steelworkers of America, which brought to 4,000 the number of miners on strike in the Porcupine area. Cars entering the mine property are stopped by pickets before they are allowed to continue. Hollinger's 1,600 men are now eligible for strike benefits from the union funds which, officials report, will be augmented by $1,000,000 contribution from other unions each month. The strike for higher wages and union security is in its 12th week.

Pioneer in Cheese, Ingersoll Thrives With New Industry

Ingersoll, Ont. (CP) — Perhaps not as quick on the trigger as their forbears, and with less cheese to their credit, the inhabitants of this town near Woodstock are nevertheless enterprising.

Ingersoll, a thriving industrial town of some 6,448 persons, boasts that nearly everybody in the town is working and last year only $3,000 was paid out in relief.

At one time the cheese centre of Canada — about 50 factories in the area produced at least 8,000,000 pounds in 1902 — there are only 18 factories now. However, these 18 produced 1,816,689 pounds of cheese during the first six months of this year.

Reason for the falling off was the introduction of condensed and powdered milk, giving the farmers another market for their milk besides cheese.

A housewife from New York State, Mrs. Homer Ranney, got the cheese industry underway in her pioneer kitchen in 1835. But it wasn't long before rivalry was so hot and heavy that cheesemakers went gunning for each other. Around the middle of the last century a cheesemaking farmer took his gun and headed for a rival's barn. The shot marks can still be seen in the beams.

Another American, Harvey Ferrington, came up from New York State and went into the cheese business in a big way. In the 1870s he started a co-operative group to stabilize grades and provide prosperity for all.

In 1866 Ingersoll turned out one cheese weighing 7,000 pounds, and it did the same thing last year for its centennial. The second big cheese still is used in displays overseas or here in Canada.

Ingersoll's most famous citizen was Laura Secord, daughter of Thomas Ingersoll, the man who credited by some with havin founded the settlement in 1793. Sh immortalized herself in the Wa of 1812 by slipping through th American lines ostensibly in searc of her cow, but actually carryin to the British warning of Ame ican plans to attack.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

Fire Prevention Week, October 4 - 10

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK, October 4 - 10, is being observed throughout Canada, and it is designed to focus public attention on the ever-present need for fire safety and protection.

Despite the constant efforts of many organizations, hundreds of fires occur every day, from the small ones in rubbish to the large spectacular fires.

Statistical figures bring to light that greater care must be exercised in order to reduce the economical waste. Millions of dollars go up in smoke every year, and unless time is given to analyse the figures, one does not realize the tremendous amount of money involved, the number of lives lost and injuries to persons.

On an average between 55,000 and 60,000 fires are reported every year, or over 150 fires every day. These losses account for anything from $60,000,000 to $70,000,000 per annum.

This tremendous sum of money is lost, chiefly through carelessness. For instance, smokers' carelessness and matches cause approximately 25% to 30% of reported fires, misuse of electricity 10%, stoves, furnaces, boilers and smoke pipes 10%, defective and overheated chimneys and flues, hot ashes and open fires 9%.

The above are the chief causes of reported fires and it leaves little to the imagination of how many are caused through just carelessness.

Fire is man's most useful force, but it is never completely servile. A moment's carelessness, a brief lack of respect for it, can cause a lifetime of grief.

The high level of fire losses is a drain on the resources of the country and must be controlled.

Large as the fire loss is, the current relationship between losses and property subject to damage points up the efficacy of the means now available to control this national fire waste.

A Time for Scrutiny

WITH THE hurry and scurry of harvest over — whether the year of hard work has been profitable or not, the farmer and his family will be looking forward to a period of comparative relaxation during the next few months.

These months, however, can often be turned to profit by using the time to acquire further knowledge on better farming methods.

Information on the most efficient methods of farming is actually going begging. Provincial and federal departments of agricultue have an abundance of literature which describes the latest findings of agricultural scientists in experimental stations across the country. These are available usually without charge. Many Canadian industries are constantly turning out reams of valuable informative matter for various segments of the rural population. The closer scrutiny of farm journals and weekly newspapers and careful attention to farm broadcasts, will often provide information that can be turned into dollars and cents by the farmer.

For the benefit of the young farmer, most Canadian agricultural colleges run short courses during the slack farm periods. These cover special or general subjects ranging from fruit culture to farm management. Enrolment fees and cost of board and room are so low that the return on the investment can be incalculable.

Association with farm boys from other sections of the country and with some of Canada's top agricultural scientists who serve as instructors, leads to the broadening of vision — an intangible factor in successful farming as in other vocations.

Increased vision plus greater knowledge pave the way to increased efficiency.

Stamp of Value

THIS SYMBOL is often called "the hallmark of circulation value." It is the emblem of the Audit Bureau of Circulations. This week we should like to pause from our news-gathering duties to explain the significance of our A.B.C. membership to our advertisers and our readers.

Just as manufacturers and merchants buy and sell merchandise on the basis of known standards of grade, weight and measure, so are we prepared to tell advertisers all about our circulation.

That's why we belong to the Bureau — to give our advertisers a verified count and description of the circulation audience that they get when they buy advertising in The Lachute Watchman.

There are definite standards for advertising values as well as for merchandise. We believe that newspaper advertising should be bought and sold on the basis of these standards.

The Bureau is a non-profit, co-operative association of 3,450 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers of newspapers, business publications, magazines and farm publications in the United States and Canada. It has a staff of experienced circulation auditors. At regular intervals these men visit all publisher members and make a thorough audit of their circulation records. The information from these audits is then issued in reports which are available to advertisers.

While the major objective of the Bureau's work is to furnish advertisers with verified information about the circulation of publisher members, it also has a very real importance in our relations with our readers.

Our A.B.C. reports serve us as editorial guides. For example, by knowing exactly where our circulation audience is located, as shown in the A.B.C. report, we can arrange our editorial coverage so that we might best serve the interests of our readers. There is a host of other factual information contained in the A.B.C. reports which guides us in our planning, helping us to give our readers the type of newspaper they want.

Our membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulations is a protection to our advertisers and our readers.

For our advertisers, it means verified circulation information, based on universally accepted standards and practices. Since A.B.C. audits only publications with paid circulation, our membership assures advertisers that The Lachute Watchman stays in business by the voluntary support of its readers.

To maintain that voluntary reader support we must demonstrate our responsiveness and responsibility to our readers. The A.B.C. audit of circulation tells both the advertiser and the editor whether our newspaper is performing a service to our readers — if the readers don't want it, neither do the advertisers.

The Watchman joins with almost 1,900 other newspapers and some 1,600 advertiser, advertising agency and periodical members in paying tribute to the Audit Bureau of Circulations this month. We are proud to be a member of the Bureau and to display its emblem, which has become synonymous with the words "factual" and "integrity" in the interests of both the advertiser and the reader.

The Blood Clinic — A Fine Example

THE LAST blood donation, concluding this year's Argenteuil Blood Donor Clinic, was received at the Lachute Auditorium shortly after nine p.m. Thursday. During the three days of the Red Cross Mobile Unit's visit in Brownsburg and Lachute, a record of 748 donors attended the clinics. From these, 698 bottles of blood were collected, this being 470 more than the 228 bottles collected from Argenteuil last year. Of the 748 potential donors, nine left before giving blood and 41 were rejected for medical reasons.

A record was made, and it is one we may well be proud of, until the Blood Donor Clinic rolls around next year — then this new record will have to be broken. True, the Mobile Unit was in operation here two days longer than in previous years, but the important thing is that the 10 donor beds were occupied a good 90 per cent of the time the clinics were open, and on several occasions the Unit staff and local assistants had to stay overtime to catch up with the waiting donors.

The blood you donated has ceased flowing in the Brownsburg Legion Hall and the Auditorium in Lachute, but the job it is to do has just commenced. It is a week since the blood was collected, and by this time it has all been tested, stored according to its type and classification, some of it sent to hospitals where it will be held, and some of this has been transfused to needy persons. This is the blood that has saved a life — blood which at the present time is flowing in someone's veins. The patient, without this blood, might not have lived. The blood you donated at the Argenteuil Blood Clinics has saved lives to date, and will continue to do so in the future as long as it lasts. No one knows when he might need blood. It could be urgently needed in Argenteuil; then the donors would have the satisfaction of knowing they saved a friend's or a neighbor's life. It is a wonderful feeling, and we may be proud to have helped an organization such as the Red Cross, that exists for one sole purpose — to help those in need.

It is not enough, however, to thank the donors and forget all those who contributed in other ways. Many of these volunteers could not give blood, but they gave freely of their time. Some gave both. Members of the various committees worked long, tiresome hours, as did the Red Cross and volunteer nurses and workers. Many businesses, industries and individuals donated refreshments, transportation and time for their employees to give what is more important to life than anything else — blood. Without all these, the clinics would not have been the success they were. You may not be presented with an award of any kind, but you will know that you too saved a life.

There was a wholesome mixture of local blood — as English and French residents, Protestant and Catholic, and many others, showed once again that they can collaborate for the betterment of one another and mankind in general. It is a happy thought that when this blood permeates the veins and arteries of those in need, they will share in some measure the "bonne entente" for which this county has distinguished itself in the past and which has exemplified itself again in this fine gesture.

Congratulations — and on behalf of the local committee, thanks to you all!

NO DOUBT there are many people who, like ourselves, as they drive along a country road are impressed about a farm and take a look at the rural mail box to see who lives there — only to find that the name, if there ever had been one on the box, has been obliterated, remarks the Pembroke (Ont.) Bulletin.

Thanksgiving

Oh let's be thankful for simple things —
The aster in the autumn sun,
The pumpkin golden in the field,
The harvest and the haying done.

Oh, let's be thankful for little things —
For simple joys that come and go,
For friendly nods and pleasant smiles
That brighten faces that we know.

Oh let's be thankful for simple things —
For children laughing as they play,
The wild geese flying south at dusk,
The reddening sun at break of day.

Oh let's be thankful for little things
As we go on life's highway broad,
And on our lips and in our hearts,
A joyful hymn of thanks to God.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Many publicly-owned wild parks have books which visitors are expected to sign. Alongside the space for the visitor's name there are spaces for his address and for comments.

The park registers prove that the average person cannot express any feeling about natural beauty. He is inarticulate. Confronted by a canyon, a snowy mountain, a forest or a waterfall, he says, "Fine view".

Certain visitors try to salute the landscape with words. They write: "Vistas of sylvan loveliness", or "Nature in all her rugged grandeur". That kind of talk is bad enough in publicity folders, but among the hills, lakes and forests it seems as cheap as a commercial announcement in church.

Most of the people who come to the parks feel inadequate to describe what they have seen. That may be the reason why a number of them do not use the guest book at all. Instead they write or carve their names and comments on woodwork of registration booths, or on the picnic furniture.

Those who do use the guest book show their inadequacy in different ways. Some use the old worn words. Women write "lovely", or "beautiful". Men write "great", "terrific", or "not bad".

Other people try to be funny: "We got a better park than this back home, but we call it the city dump." "Biggest and hungriest mosquitoes in Canada are right here."

Probably the most useful comments, from the viewpoint of park staffs, are those which contain suggestions. Suggestions that the management provide beer or girl companions are only received and filed, but such advice as "Need more garbage cans" or "Cut wider trails" often brings results.

People who write for a living, above others, seem incapable of meeting the challenge put forward by a blank sheet of paper in a public place. I have seen one or two professional writers slink away from registration booths in parks, unable on the spur of the moment to think of anything bright enough to say.

Perhaps a man who did a lot of park visiting could prepare an epigram or a sonnet suitable for any park register. Or perhaps he could write a serial story in very short chapters, one chapter to each park.

"Does John Love Mary? Who is E.M.K. from Winnipeg? Will Joe run out of money before he finishes his holiday? Read the register in Beaver Park and find out."

To make people talk, you should catch them in the grip of some emotion. The mood induced by beautiful scenery is usually one of calm.

Livelier results might be obtained by placing a drive-in booth near a dangerous highway corner, so that motorists could write down their opinion of other motorists.

Nuts to You !

Did I ever tell you about the time when I was a waiter in the dining room of a mental hospital? I used to serve soup to nuts.

We had some amusing inmates. One man had been a carpenter, and one day the Superintendent asked him if he would be capable of erecting a small building for the gardeners to keep their tools in. "Certainly", he said. "Just give me the tools, lumber, and an assistant. I can't do it alone." These were supplied, and the work started. . . Suddenly the boss carpenter noticed the assistant acting strangely. He took a handful of nails from his left pocket, threw two or three away and put the rest in his right pocket. Taking another handful, he repeated this action, throwing a few over his shoulder and pocketing the rest. "What's going on here?" asked the boss. "Just noticed", said the assistant, "that some of these nails have their heads on the wrong end." The boss came to him and inspected the nails. "By golly, you're right!" he exclaimed. "But don't throw them away. We'll use them at the back of the building and the Superintendent won't even notice it!"

• • •

Another time one of the inmates was looking over the stone wall that surrounded the grounds. A farmer drove slowly by with a load of manure. . .

"What's that stuff you got there mister?" asked the inmate.

"Fertilizer", answered the farmer.

"What do you do with it?"

"I put it on my strawberries."

"Gee, Mister, you ought to be in here. We get sugar and cream on ours!"

• • •

Two other inmates were discussing what they were going to do when they were released from the asylum.

"I'm going to make a lot of money", said one. "On nearly every farm you'll find a well that has run dry. After I get out, I'm going to buy a second-hand car and drive all over the country buying up these dry wells from the farmers, who will be glad to get rid of them."

"But what will you do with them?" asked the other.

"Gonna cut 'em up into short lengths and sell 'em for fence-post holes."

Be seein' ya!

Good Deeds you may have done unknowingly

1. Here's a new home you may have helped provide for one of your neighbours — if you are a life insurance policyholder. For part of your premium money is invested by your life insurance company in ways that provide funds for building not only houses, but schools, roads, power plants, other developments.

2. Perhaps, too, you can take a small part of the credit for Tommy's recovery from a serious illness. Medical science is always learning more, through research, about how to combat disease. And you may be providing some of the funds that life insurance companies contribute to such vital research projects.

3. Ever help a man get a job? You may have — unknowingly. For life insurance money, invested in ways that enable an industry to expand, has played an important part in providing new jobs for many workers — including, perhaps, yourself.

4. As a life insurance policyholder, you do all your fellow-citizens a service. For the financial security you've provided for your family reduces the chance of their ever becoming a burden to others. The more protection you own, the more that chance is reduced.

In all these ways, millions of life insurance policyholders are building security for their future — and helping to make Canada a better land to live in!

MONTREAL — MAELSTROM AND MILLSTREAM

By GEOFF.

The camera, unfortunately, never lies! Conversely, however, actors perjure themselves almost daily. But that is only natural since the prime duty of an actor is, after all, to misrepresent himself. And, depending upon his ability to become the person he represents, so he either becomes a star or dwells forever in the ranks of the extras.

The lengths to which some actors will go in order to falsify themselves was brought forcibly to my attention the other day. Early last week, our little amateur theatre group started rehearsals for its next production. Securing the services of a reasonably capable director, the difficult task of casting began. By the week's end, the cast was complete and the director began his work of weaving humanity and memory work into coherent drama. Then Miss Trubshaw threw the inevitable wrench into the transmission, so to speak.

"Why not", she asked the committee meeting, "take pictures of the cast and mount them in a big easel-frame outside the hall? Then, in our program, we could print the photos of the leading characters. Geoff can take them for us so it won't cost us a cent!"

I just love rare birds like Miss Trubshaw who brazenly donate other people's time and services to worthy causes, without counting up the costs. And, even more, I love the kind souls on committees who agree so wholeheartedly with proposals of this nature that you dare not back down. So, I too, agreed.

On Monday last, I lined up the camera and the cast — to say nothing of an imposing array of flood-lights — and proceeded to get the required pictures. On Tuesday morning, I turned the film over to the developers and, after work that same evening, picked up the prints.

None of the cast is photogenic; the hero and the heroine least of all. For my money, the lead man and his lady are far too old to play the parts assigned to them. And the camera, truthful to a fault, proved just how antiquated the poor dears really are. In short, the results were ghastly. However, as time was pressing and the printers were screaming for copy and cuts, I sent the pictures to them for inclusion in the program.

By some unfortunate miscalculation, the printers sent the program proofs to Miss Trubshaw this morning. Within half an hour, I had a frantic call from Trubby saying that we were not to use the pictures on any conditions.

"They're awful", she gurgled. "The leads have seen them and they're positively furious. They refuse to allow their publication."

"And just why can't we use them?" I asked.

"Well, really", Miss T. responded, "just look at the wrinkles in those faces!"

"So what? They have wrinkles, the camera saw wrinkles, it photographed wrinkles. Whether they like it or not, they're stuck with wrinkles to their dying days!"

"That's beside the point", Trubby crowed. "Anyway, they're sending down good portraits of themselves and you're to use them instead."

I was beaten. I told Trubby to get the new shots down to me post-haste as the printers could not delay another minute. She acted with the speed of a striking cobra and packed them off to me by special messenger as soon as we finished talking. As I suspected, both parties submitted proper portraits, taken, I gather, thirty-odd years ago when they were in their prime. Attached to the photos was a note from Miss T.

"Incidentally", it said, "we've decided to get pix of everybody in our group. Would you send me one, please, to keep here with your file."

Would I send her one? Gladly, old girl, gladly! And I had just the thing at hand. From an old family album, I tore out a fetching snap of myself, taken when I was the tender age of five. To it, I attached a note to Trubby.

"Herewith, the picture you asked for. It's the best one I've ever had taken. No wrinkles, you know!"

Too bad that we can't learn to grow old gracefully and, more important, face the fact that nobody ever grows younger. But maybe that's why people become actors. The young play old parts, and the old act young. And, as for make-up, it covers a multitude of sins — and wrinkles!

Former Bank Manager, Basil Stead, Dies In New Brunswick

Basil Stead, a former manager of the Bank of Montreal in Lachute, died last Thursday at the Moncton (N.B.) General Hospital, after a long illness.

Born in Rothesay, N.B., Mr. Stead began his career as a banker at St. Thomas, N.B., with the former Molsons Bank. He served at Sydney, N.S., for nine years as manager of the BM, which meanwhile had absorbed the Molsons Bank. He later saw service in many central and western cities, also in Lachute, where he was favorably known in this community some years ago. Following his retirement he took up residence at Shediac, N.B., and became a well known figure in the business and community life of that town, serving at one time as mayor. He was the recipient of the Silver Jubilee Medal of the late King George V, for his leadership in many fields, and notably in the Victorian Order of Nurses organization at Sydney.

"Estate Planning" Interesting Topic At Rotary Club

John E. Main, of the Montreal Trust Company, was guest speaker at last week's regular meeting of the Brownsburg Rotary Club. Mr. Main, who has a brilliant record both in his own field of Estate Planning and in the government service handling Inheritance Taxes, spoke on the various points to be considered in the handling of personal assets, in order to keep succession duties to a minimum while still making adequate provision for the needs of the beneficiaries.

Succession duties are taxes imposed on the beneficiary, and not on the estate as is generally believed. They depend on the size of the estate, the amount of the inheritance, and the relationship of the beneficiary and the deceased. An estate is made up of all the property of an individual, including insurance policies payable to someone else, and also gifts made during a definite period prior to death of the owner of the estate. Duties are payable according to an increasing scale of percentages, similar to income taxes, and, even in the case of comparatively modest estates, are of the order of ten per cent.

As an example of efficient planning, Mr. Main showed that it is often advisable to avoid paying double inheritance taxes by naming as beneficiary a child of the owner of the estate, while keeping the property in trust to be used by his wife during her life. However, in that case, care must be taken to avoid having the estate actually come under the wife's control, or it will be considered to be her property and additional duties will have to be paid on her death. These additional duties would still have to be paid even if the wife did not exercise her control.

Gifts made less than three years prior to the death of the owner of the estate become subject to Quebec provincial gift taxes. If less than five years has elapsed, Federal gift taxes may also be levied. In many cases the combination of gift taxes and succession duties may be more than the succession duties alone, so it is evident that a thorough study of the laws which apply should be made in order to efficiently manage an estate. An important point regarding gifts is that taxes are levied as at date of death, rather than date of gift. Increases in values of property may introduce serious problems, especially if the beneficiary has disposed of his holding and is not able to take advantage of the increased values in making provision for paying the tax.

In handling a family business, it was suggested that by using a company organization the affairs could be arranged in such a way that the older members take only a nominal amount of profit, while the eventual heirs will benefit directly from any increase in value and return from the enterprise.

In summarizing his remarks, Mr. Main stressed the fact that he was only trying to show how intelligent planning can achieve results. A thorough and detailed study of any case by a competent person is necessary to do an efficient job of estate planning.

Mr. Main was introduced by Stewart Jones and thanked by Les Thompson.

Following the meeting the general interest of the members in the subject was shown by many of them waiting their turn to discuss with the speaker the various points raised by his talk.

In Brownsburg

Brownsburg —

There was a meeting of the Council on Monday night, as away the agenda of business was light. The mix-up of confl ting laws governing the hours of closing of the Parker trade was up for discussion, but the Municipal Council is the proper legislative body to alter or if the present by-law is expected to be made. It is a general maxim of law, that no law can be promulgated or a municipal body which conflicts with an already established by-law. Before making a new law, the parties so doing should be aware of whatever laws were previously enacted and in operation respecting the matter legislated upon. The Lachute Ratepayers Association had a lot to take exception of.

Waterworks

The present waterworks system suffers from a colloquial and water-tight line from the intake to the reservoir. The present line, besides being too small, has developed several cases from poorly made joints, or joints which have become poor during the years it has been in operation. To overcome this difficulty several suggestions have been offered, but the most favored solution is the construction or laying of another line beside the existing one, of larger capacity and more sound mechanical structure. The Council is at present inquiring into the costs and availability of suitable water carrying pipe for this purpose. Prices so far received suggest the cost will be in the neighborhood of $40,000. This sum is about one-third the cost of the whole system when it was put into operation in 1940. At that time a large debt was incurred, which has not yet been amortized; and to borrow this sum now, no matter how urgent it may be from the point of view of fire protection or adequate supply for domestic purposes, will need sanction from the Department of Municipal Affairs at Quebec. It would also mean a higher cost in water rates. There is a compensating advantage in the matter of fire insurance. No reduction in premium cost can be expected till this very necessary work has been carried out.

Home and School Association

A recent meeting of the above Association discussed the program of activities for the coming season. The nominating committee has formulated a slate to be put before the general meeting on October 21, when the work of the Association gets under way for the coming year. This slate will be open to additions or alternates from the floor, and it is to be hoped that an alert executive will be in office to entertain the work ahead. It may be pointed out that membership in the Home and School Association is open to anyone interested in the work of education. It is a national association and while a lot of local executives are concerned with the work in their particular area, it is not forgotten that the work of all branches is inter-related and established on a nation-wide basis for the purpose of furthering the cause of education in Canada as a whole. Some progress in the establishment of scholarships applicable to students in the local school has been made; of this further information will be forthcoming at a later date.

Awakening Those Who Sleep

(Eph. 5: 14, N.W.)

There is great need for all persons to be awake to the sign of the times. Bible prophecies are being fulfilled by events occurring in the earth during this generation. The mission of the Awake! magazine is to present information in the light of God's Word that will provoke and stimulate thought on current affairs. With courage Awake! slices into the thick darkness of falsehood and misinformation that covers a great many subjects affecting the destiny of millions of people. It follows the precept that the truth is beneficial to all, and it endeavors to present the truth so that those who sleep under the burden of old-world propaganda may be awakened to the seriousness of these times. During October Jehovah's witnesses everywhere will offer Awake! from house to house on a subscription basis of $1 a year (24 issues), with three booklets free. Why not subscribe? — Mail your subscription to The Watch Tower, 40 Irving Ave., Toronto, Ont.

WEEK AT OTTAWA

By Don Haworth,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Oct. 5 (CP) — The new parliament opening next month will receive government legislation aimed at providing smaller down payments, and a longer time to pay off mortgage loans, for Canadians who want to build new houses.

Prime Minister St. Laurent has announced the government is considering both these measures, "to broaden the opportunity for people of moderate incomes to build their own homes." This legislation will provide for establishment of residential mortgage insurance, and will enable the chartered banks as well as other lending institutions to lend money on insured home mortgages.

Mr. St. Laurent said the government feels the present sources of mortgage loans are not sufficient to keep pace with housing needs. Although housing construction is at the highest level in history, the growth of the population requires a further expansion of housing.

Banks Enter Field

The official announcement said: "Having in mind the increase in construction costs since the present limit of $10,000 on National Housing Act loans was set, the government is considering a higher limit for loans under the new system. Consideration is also being given to increasing the proportion of loans to lending values, in order to make possible a smaller down payment for lower-priced houses.

"To take care of these factors and possible variations in interest rates, it is contemplated that the period of repayment will be lengthened by the new arrangement."

The statement explained that the great bulk of personal savings in Canada are in the chartered banks, which are not legally empowered to loan money on residential mortgages. The establishment of mortgage insurance will make it possible to remove this barrier.

Trade Problem

What is the United States going to do about Canadian trade?

There is concern here about the agitation against imports to the U.S., and now Prime Minister St. Laurent has said straight out that Canada wants to know where she fits into U.S. trade policy.

This country, he said, does not want to be regarded as a "marginal supplier to be cut off (from U.S. markets) whenever the going is tough."

Investigations are being made, or about to be made, by U.S. tariff bodies into the import of Canadian oats, ground-fish fillets, lead and zinc.

The U.S., which last year took more than half of Canada's total exports, has already imposed restrictions on Canadian cheese and dried milk products. Despite protests, the restrictions stay.

Northern Defence

Canadian and American defence experts, concerned about Russia's growing atomic power, are studying the expansion of their continental defences.

At present both Canadians and Americans man radar stations in Canada. Canada pays a third of the cost; the U.S. the rest.

A Washington report said planners there believe the first step to strengthen defence should be "expansion of the radar warning net in high latitudes of the Arctic as well as stations further south."

Asked where the money would come from to pay Canada's share of such an expansion, an Ottawa spokesman said, "There's still some left in the kitty."

He added that if more is needed an additional appropriation will be sought.

Canada was testing this summer a new low-cost electronic device known as "McGill fence" to supplement the radar warning system.

More Beef-Eating

The price of beef has fallen below the price of pork for the first time since the Second World War.

The Agriculture Department says Canadians are eating more beef than ever. In the first eight months of this year they ate 456,000,000 pounds — 100,000,000 pounds more than in the same time last year.

But beef exports are sharply down. Only 14,000,000 pounds was shipped against 40,000,000 pounds last year.

Local Response to Salvation Army Red Shield Appeal

It is reported by Donald M. Hay, chairman of the district Red Shield Appeal on behalf of the Salvation Army, that contributions to date have reached only $562. Last year's total amounted to $1,145 from this district, and it is fully anticipated that this amount will be equalled or surpassed this year. Many loyal and regular contributors have yet to be heard from, and Mr. Hay would appreciate receiving such donations in order to conclude the campaign. — Please hand in or send your subscription to the Bank of Montreal, Lachute branch.

Legion Auxiliary 71 Held Card Party

Brownsburg — On Wednesday of last week the Ladies' Auxiliary of Branch 71, B.E.S.L., held a military whist, with players participating at 14 tables.

Mr. Hector Steele proved a capable master of ceremonies.

Captain of the winning table was Mrs. J. T. Seary, with Mrs. Hall, Mrs. E. Filoon and Mrs. Dumouchel as scouts.

Consolation prizes were won by Captain Sylvester Hall, with Mrs. S. Hall, Mrs. R. Goldthorpe and Miss J. Goldthorpe.

Miss Margaret Seary won the novelty prize.

The ladies wish to thank friends from Lachute, Grenville, Cushing, Hawkesbury and Brownsburg for making this, their first military whist in their new Legion Hall, a very enjoyable evening.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Joe Cumbers, social convener, and her committee.

There is no reason for the 35,000 fires which break out annually in our homes . . . no reason for hundreds of helpless children to die in flames which their parents could have prevented! Protect your family from fire, now during Fire Prevention Week October 4 to 10 — and every week by being careful with fire.

Hole-in-One For Golf Club Manager

Roger Gravel, manager of the Lachute Golf and Country Club, scored a hole-in-one last week over the home course, when he holed out a No. 7 iron shot at the 170-yard 15th hole while playing with Mrs. Gravel. Mrs. Philippe Tremblay and Guy Lafortune witnessed the feat.

Lowe's Braves Take Argenteuil League Title

Double-Header Concludes Softball Finals Here Sunday

By J. J. Dupré

Lowe Bros. Braves of the Argenteuil Softball League beat Roland Descoste's Lachute Lions in the two games of a double-header Sunday afternoon at Lachute Stadium, to win the championship of the league and the J. René Laurin trophy. Gaetan Legault, Lowe's coach, led his men to two victories with scores of 12-5 and 15-5.

In the first encounter Réal "Red" Martin pitched an excellent game for the champions. Jean Guy Larocque, Nap. Tessier and Roland Descoste took their turn at the mound for Lions. Jean Louis hit a homer while there were two players on bases for Lions.

The second game followed much the same line of play, with Gerard Jacob pitching for Lowe's. Jean Guy Larocque suffered defeat at the mound for Lions in this game. Lowe's Jacques Poirier hit a four-bagger with two men on base.

The new champions played with fine spirit and team work, qualities which seemed lacking to the Lions in these two games. The latter's many errors in the field were the cause of their two defeats.

After the games Raymond Laurin, representing his brother, presented the J. René Laurin cup to Gaetan Legault, Lowe's jubilant coach.

Appreciation and congratulations are offered by the league to the two umpires who officiated for the 18 innings — Fred Atkinson at the plate and Maurice Miron on bases. They had a tough job to perform, and accomplished it with the efficiency of professionals.

The softball season is now over for another year. It was a good season. Many thanks are extended to those who supported the different teams.

What Happens to Football Players?

SPORTS CAMERA
By The Canadian Press

The annual return trek of American football players across the border leaves us wondering what happens to these young men after they leave Canada.

Certainly October 1 — the deadline for cutting to eight imports — is too late for them to catch on with American teams. They probably got back to selling cars or manning ribbon counters, always hopeful of getting back into the game next season.

The system that cuts them adrift in mid-season seems unnecessarily harsh but no better one offers itself. In other team sports such as baseball and hockey, the man who doesn't catch on in the big league is moved to a job in a minor outfit with an eventual chance of returning to the big time.

In Canadian football, there's practically no chance of work in the only minor league, the Ontario Union.

Buyer's Market

From the start of the season, it's a buyer's market. The Americans stream over the border looking for jobs. Only the most highly rated get a contract in the eastern Big Four or the western league.

Clubs are tight-lipped about money arrangements but it is probable the job seekers get expense money and anywhere from $200 to $500 for each game they play.

That's peanuts, of course, for anyone who has to make his living in the game.

The wonder is that they ever try. The market is flooded, they have to compete against the best and there's always a chance that, no matter how good they are, they won't fit into a particular team's style. Or they may be injured, out for the season or even two, and the axe falls sharply on October 1, injured or not.

A few make good, of course, and earn big salaries. Some get good jobs in industry as well, and settle down in Canada as men of substance. But the odds seem so long that it would appear the time would be better spent getting a start on a business career.

The clubs can't be blamed for the situation. They're trying to get the best possible teams and if the Americans come looking for jobs the Canadians are bound to inspect them. The 34 Americans who were cut lose last week represent a substantial part, in salary and training and travelling expenses, of the $2,000,000 the eight Canadian major league clubs will spend this year.

It's a far cry from the bad old amateur days. In the early 20s in Ottawa one outstanding player was also a fireman. The only money he saw from the game was the $4 he was given after each practice to pay his substitute at the fire hall.

He kept two bucks for himself, of course.

WOLF CUB NEWS

By "Akela"

The 1st Lachute Wolf Cub Pack met in the High School basement on Monday evening to renew their activities for the season.

The meeting opened with the "Grand Howl" by Sixer Sandy Jones, of the Blue Six.

Fifteen new "chums" joined the pack, and the follbwing were allotted to the different sixes:

Blue Six — Wayne Laurin, Grant McGibbon.

Black Six — Michael McDonald, Bobby Cunningham, Glenn Morrin, Sidney Painter.

Grey Six — Barry and Brian Jones, Lawrence Carriere, Eddie McRae.

Red Six — Peter Lang, Barry Buckle.

The pack now stands at 50 Cubs, with at least two or three new Cubs who were not present due to sickness, including Howard Graham; these new boys will be allotted to their sixes at next meeting.

Three of the older Cubs — Bruce Hay, Bertie Wigney and Malcolm MacDonald are still with the pack but will be invested in the Scouts at a ceremony to be held at a later date.

The following were promoted:

Grey Six — Bryant Graves as Sixer; Terry Scott as Second.

Where Do Deer's Horns Go When Shed?

Joe operates a gas station and lunch room near Sharbot Lake, Ont., but his main interest is his little private zoo.

On his half-acre of land Joe has 13 deer and five fawns; two bear cubs; a 50-pound beaver and a monkey. Each presents a problem in care and feeding.

Each evening Joe spends an hour cutting fresh brush for his deer herd. He explains:

"They need fresh elm leaves in their diet, or they will get mangy and sickly. That is why animals seen in the city zoos lose the wild sheen in their coats.

The bear cubs are being brought up on the bottle. Harry is ticklish and has a temper. Henry is quiet.

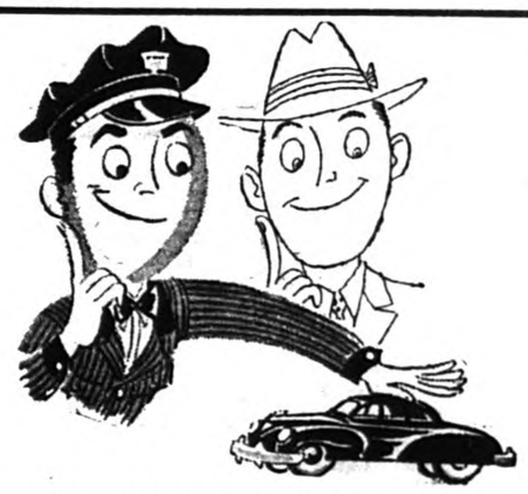

The peacock enjoys riding in the back seat of Joe's car.

The beaver lives in the same hut with the peacock all winter. Joe says they get along fine because "a beaver won't attack anything, not even an insect or a mouse."

The monkey is a woman-hater. She chatters angrily whenever a woman approaches.

About those deer horns. Joe claims porcupines eat them.

"In one day flat, a porcupine can grind up the horn of a two-year-old buck."

"NOW ON TOUR"

Correspondence From Overseas

Brighton, Sept. 26, 1953

Dear Readers:

The old saying "Time flies" is being experienced by us, so much so that we could not get in the expected tour of Scotland as had been hoped for.

On our return from the Continent we visited a few spots around this southern district, one of which was Shoreham where in our war training we were stationed for a time. This of course brought back old memories of continued drill, but also of many happy times spent in nearby Brighton and Worthing. Often on a Sunday afternoon we would take a walk through the pretty countryside, which is still just as beautiful as ever, and stop for refreshments at some quaint old tea-shop before our return. This I did once again visiting the ruins of the Bramber Castle which is one of the oldest in existence.

Canada being such a new and young country, its inhabitants know little of really old churches, cathedrals and castles, but there are many hundreds of them scattered throughout the British Isles, dating back to real early history. One of these the Arundel Castle, we visited and were intrigued with the grandeur of it, both inside and out. Dating back to the year 901, it stands out prominently, the original building still in first class order and proving that structures of the early days were built solidly and lasting. Still to be noted is the wide moat all around and the various draw bridges which we have read so much about. Rivalry was the cause of much trouble in early days and this castle was besieged three times and marks of the cannon balls, fired in the last one, during eighteen days, are still to be seen. To the original building have been added various other structures, at different times. From the top of the tower, which is quite a climb, there is a fine view of the surrounding country, with the River Arun winding to the sea. On clear days, the Isle of Wight can be seen and there is a good view of the battlements and towers of the tilting yard, where long ago the Knights held jousting tournaments. Within, there is a galaxy of beautiful paintings, and ancient, but marvelously carved furniture and woodwork. The Great Hall, measuring 133 feet long, 38 feet wide and 50 feet high is exquisite, the roof being of oak, the walls ashlar faced and wainscotted in oak, with the floor also in oak from the estate. This is still in use and several times each year a Charity Ball is held at which there are upwards of 1500 present. Most of this grand old structure is now a show place, with an admission fee being charged for maintenance and upkeep which is considerable. One section however, is still occupied by descendants, the Duke and Duchess of Norfolk, and in a large glass cage we viewed the gorgeous red robes and coronet crown worn by the latter at the recent coronation and which many of you saw in television and movies. There were also the two chairs on which the Duke and Duchess had sat while in attendance, they being allowed to retain them somewhat as souvenirs of this great occasion. I had hired a "drive yourself" car for a couple of weeks, which was an excellent idea, so, much as we wished to remain here longer, time was passing and after viewing the Fitz Alan Chapel, where many notables were buried, we started up and headed along the south coast with Weymouth as our next objective.

Many will, I know, wonder how I got along with driving on the left hand side of the road. It was quite simple and with the driving wheel on the right hand side of the car, after a few hours, it seemed quite natural, and I really surprised myself at doing so well. By being on our own we did not need to hurry too much and were able to enjoy the grand scenery, travelling along narrow roads, where scarcely two cars could pass, through quaint villages with rustic greens and thatched cottages, busy little towns, gay holiday resorts and peaceful seaside hamlets. Hills, valleys, downs and dales gave us many a picturesque scene that will never be forgotten.

Arriving at Weymouth towards evening we were greeted by relatives, including Mr. J. S. Giles, his sister, 87 years young, and numerous cousins. Their home is right on the sea front and one has an excellent view all along the promenade.

This section of England, Dorset County, has been traced back to the early stone age, some 3,000 years B.C. The inhabitants practised agriculture, made pottery and wove cloth. The chief material for their tools was flint and, more rarely, other stone. They lived in villages, which implies not only a settled home, but some measure of law and order. Through the ages various evidences of early villages and mode of life have been unearthed, some of which we viewed with interest. The most impressive of the innumerable local Roman remains is the huge amphitheatre known as Maumbury Rings, with space on its terraces for some 12,000 people. The cottage in which Thomas Hardy was born in 1840 is still intact. We also visited the Court Room, where there were a series of trials known as the "Bloody Assize", in the course of which Judge Jeffreys earned notoriety for his ruthless savagery, and men were hanged for sheep stealing — this during the years about 1685.

One day was spent in visiting Taunton, Somerset, where during World War I, I had been in hospital. My old nurse, to whom during the shortage of food here, I have been sending a parcel each month, was delighted to see me again as it was 30 years since my last visit. She keeps well and we had a good chin-wag about war days, and all the worries she had looking after us. Reluctantly we said goodbye and motored back over hill and dale to our friends at Weymouth. In this section there are hundreds of other historical places to visit, but time was passing, so loading up again we departed for Bristol to visit our cousin, Frank Titman (Don's brother), taking Dad along with us. The weather has been ideal and we again marvelled at the beautiful scenery which kept on cropping up as we would round a bend or reach the top of a hill.

Dating back to about 1050 Bristol has done her share in shaping the history of Britain and the world, and more recently has developed that modern form of transportation, the aeroplane, but in the last war, suffered greatly under the attack of bombers. The development of atomic physics is closely connected with Bristol University and today, the all important battle for production, not only takes place in Bristol's factories and houses of commerce, but can be seen beating in the import-export pulse of Bristol's Docks. Due to heavy bombing little now remains of old Bristol, but there are still old buildings to remind of the times when she wined and dined Edward III on his return from the French wars, saw Richard II off to Ireland and John Cabot on his more peaceful journey to the unchartered continent across the unknown ocean. Close to its present Centre are the cobbles of streets which Chatterton, Coleridge, Wordsworth and John Wesley knew and buildings which were already old when they saw Daniel Defoe, Admiral Penn, Dr. Jenner or Humphrey Davy.

Clifton Down comprises some 442 acres of open space, 300 feet above sea level, showing the deep gorge below steep rock walls and similar to that of the Niagara Falls district. A grand panorama can be had from this vantage point which includes the famous suspension bridge 287 feet above low water, with a span of 705 feet from pier to pier.

An afternoon at the Bristol Zoo was well spent and greatly enjoyed. Here we saw every conceivable type of animal, reptile, fish, bird and flower that exists, and I did bemoan the fact that such privileges were not available to our people of Canada to the same extent as they are here, especially for children, as it is an education in itself.

Bath was our next place to visit — a great centre of healing, its origin and fame founded on the hot springs which for countless years have poured forth their unceasing, unvarying flow of health-giving waters. About the year A.D. 54 the Romans commenced to build baths and a temple, and houses for those seeking relief from war wounds and rheumatic conditions. After the Romans withdrew however, the baths were allowed to fall into ruin, and for centuries lay buried, thus preserving one of the finest Roman buildings in Europe. Though excavations had begun in the 18th century to discover the Roman Baths, it was not until 1878 that an intensive effort was made and a few years later the Baths as now seen were discovered.

Many famous personages lived in this district, among them Gainsborough who painted some of his most famous pictures here; Sir William Parry the Arctic explorer; Sir Isaac Pitman, inventor of phonography; Wolfe, who was dwelling here when he received the despatch which sent him forth to be the hero of Quebec.

The Bath Abbey which was started in 1499 is remarkable for its architecture which is perpendicular in style and is noted for its magnificent fan-vaulting of the roof. Within are beautiful stained glass windows and the walls are lined with memorial tablets.

So ended our visit of a few only of the magnificent beauty spots of Southern England and our next move was to the heart of London, with its wonderful underground and bus system of travel not forgetting the maze of railway lines which outskirt the numerous stations. Trafalgar Square where the pigeons still abound and are so tame that they eat from your hand, Picadilly Circus, the White Hall and Big Ben at Westminster, still stand supreme, but from heights we could still see hundreds of ruins from the last war's bombings. To see it all, is but to realize even more impressively than ever what this country was up against in hardships which we in Canada knew absolutely nothing of. Thanks again to these brave people who bore the brunt of battle and really had to tighten their belts for lack of food while we enjoyed the fat of the land. In fact things here are just getting back to normal, with meat easily obtainable and sugar only released from ration yesterday. My impression of it all? That we in Canada should be more appreciative of our many blessings.

So our holiday will soon be over, for we are packing for the return voyage. Yes it's been a wonderful experience, meeting so many kind friends, and seeing so many places of interest. The weatherman has favored us with sunshine almost every day and we have enjoyed every minute.

With it all however, it will be nice to get back home again, and with due respect to the various countries we have visited and all our activities, Lachute will look and feel very good to us, for "There's no place like home".

Until then, cheerio,

— R. A. Giles

Women's Interests -- The Homemaker's Section

Thanksgiving!

It is a happy custom at Thanksgiving to gather with our friends to give thanks for the bountiful gifts of the harvest and for the gift of life in Canada. Actually, the festival, which is primarily a religious one dates back to our early ancestors.

Just as Easter and Christmas have their age old customs, so there are traditions to Thanksgiving. We adorn our churches with fruits and vegetables and we gather around the family table for a dinner of roast turkey and pumpkin pie.

Thanksgiving this year has a special significance to the home economists of the Consumer Section at Ottawa. In August, two of the home economists attended the Convention of the Associated Country Women of the World, held in Toronto. There were a thousand women delegates at this meeting and they represented five and a half million rural women from all parts of the world. Many of the delegates came from countries where there was very little food and they were absolutely astonished at the abundance of everything we had in Canada. Sometimes you would see these women sitting, with tears in their eyes, unable to eat, thinking of their homes where so many people had no food at all. This actual contact with women who knew of want for food and who had experience with starving families impressed the home economists and at this time, they want to impress upon you too, that we should give special thanks for the abundance we have in Canada.

Speaking of the traditional Thanksgiving meal of turkey and pumpkin pie, this year, homemakers will be able to buy small turkeys, medium size ones, or big 25 to 30 pound toms. It does not matter whether you buy a large turkey or a small one so long as you look for the signs of good quality, that is a plump bird with a broad breast and thick-meated thighs. A bird which has a clear yellow skin, free from pin feathers, cuts and bruises. Of course when you buy a Grade A bird, it should have all these qualities. A Grade B bird will not be quite so well-fleshed and will not have quite as good an appearance as Grade A, but both grades are good eating and are fine for the table.

Perhaps you want to have turkey for Thanksgiving this year, but a big turkey is too large for the size of your family, a half turkey is the solution to your problem. Most butcher shops today sell half turkeys that weigh from 10 to 15 pounds. They are cooked the same way that you cook a whole turkey but the preparation for roasting is slightly different. These are the recommendations from the home economists of the Consumer Section. After the turkey is washed, sprinkle the inside of the body cavity with salt and then tie the leg to the tail and skewer the wing flat against the breast. Next fasten the skin along the cut surface of the breast meat to the keel bone. If this is not done, the skin will shrink back during roasting and the breast meat which is exposed will dry out. Then the bird is ready to go into the roasting pan. Just before putting the bird in the pan, trim a double thickness of waxed paper, brown paper or aluminium foil to the approximate size and shape of the cut surface of the bird. Place the paper on a rack in a roaster and mound the dressing on this paper so that it fits into the cavity of the bird. Place the half turkey on top of the dressing and roast the turkey in the same manner as you would roast a whole turkey.

To test an electric waffle iron for the correct heat, place a sheet of white paper between the grids. When the paper turns brown, the iron is ready for the first batch.

Good Beef Available At Reasonable Price

Now is a good time to talk about beef, for their is plenty available and it is very reasonable in price. Last year there were 35,000,000 pounds of beef inspected for grade in Canada by officials of the Canada Department of Agriculture. About one-third of this amount was graded into the two top grades, Grade A or Red Brand and Grade B or Blue Brand. The remainder fell into the C and D Grades.

Canadians love good beef and last year each person in Canada ate about 45 pounds of beef alone. As compared to 7 pounds of veal and 2 pounds of lamb.

In most homes more roast beef is purchased than any other beef cut. That seems natural enough because after all a good slice of roast beef would appeal to anyone at any time. Generally, the cuts of meat which are most suitable for oven roasting, broiling or pan frying, in other words those most suited to dry heat cookery are the most expensive. This is because they are in the greatest demand and there are fewer of these cuts than those which have to be cooked by moist heat. However, less tender cuts which are usually less expensive are just as delicious and just as nutritious provided they are cooked slowly in moist heat. There is no material difference in the nutritive value of the different cuts of beef. The main difference is that less tender cuts take more cooking time, tender cuts take more money. It is up to you to decide which you have the most of.

Are you wondering what to have for dinner today? What could be better than a good hot stew with plenty of vegetables? When served with a bowl of crisp green salad it makes a delicious low cost meal. Beef continues to be a good buy and what is better for stew than beef. The beef usually sold as stew meat comes from the flank, the neck, the brisket or the shank of the animal. Always unwrap meat as soon as you get it home from the butcher and plan to use it quickly for cut meat deteriorates rapidly.

The secret of making a good stew is to cook the meat to fork tenderness with not overcooked vegetables with a rich gravy which is smooth and seasoned to perfection. This, of course, means long slow simmering of the meat with the vegetables put in just long enough before the meat is done to cook them. That point is most important. Put the vegetables in long enough before the meat is done to cook them.

The home economists of the Consumer Section suggest the use of different combinations of vegetables in stew for instance — carrots with lima beans and small onions, or celery with peas and carrots or green beans with onions and potatoes. To enhance the flavor of stew add a bay leaf or perhaps a garlic clove or a little meat sauce.

Thickened stews are usually more popular than those which are not thickened and a special favorite with the home economists is a thickened stew topped with a fluffy mashed potato crust which has been slipped under the broiler to heat through and to delicately brown. For another variation why not serve dumplings or rice instead of potatoes with stew.

There are certain seasons for certain foods and right now lamb is in season and will be for several weeks. People usually talk about "spring lamb" thinking it is a product of the spring, but actually lamb does not appear on our markets until late summer or early winter. It takes several months after the lambs are born in the spring before they are actually big enough to make good eating. Speaking of good eating what has more distinctive flavor and sweetness than lamb. Some of our sister dominions are great lamb eaters, but in Canada we do not eat much lamb, as a matter of fact last year each person in Canada ate only two pounds of lamb. That certainly was not much and the home economists wonder why, because lamb is so delicious, if it is of good quality and has been properly cooked.

If the family loves lamb, why not make a lamb stew? The meat commonly sold as lamb stew come from the flank, the shank or the neck.

The original lamb stew which we know as "Irish stew" served with dumplings was always made with light meat, in other words the lamb was not browned in fat. Today we prefer to brown the meat for our stews.

Fire has killed 2,908 Canadians in the past 10 years and has destroyed property valued at more than $270,000,000. Enlist in the war against fire, today, during Fire Prevention Week, October 4 to 10.

Fashions

The popularity of interchangeable separates continues unabated, and this season they are in more varied supply than ever, and for every type of dressing. Gay for party time is a turquoise blue felt skirt, an almost circular style. Its one large patch pocket in the showspot for rhinestone and pearl embroidery. With it a black jersey blouse with the neck draped into V-shape l seaming and batwing, push-up sleeves. Each item is ready to go places with other things.

A Versatile Recipe

A receipe for a dual purpose is no novelty but in this case we offer one which may appear as a delicious fluffy frosting on a cake, a topping for a pudding, or with the addition of thick cream may be made into a delectable ice cream for that special dinner. Following is the recipe for Maple Fluff Icing and variations: —

Maple Fluff Icing

½ Cup maple syrup, 12 marshmallows (cut into pieces), few grains of salt, 1 egg white.

Bring syrup to boiling point and boil 1 minute. Remove from heat and add marshmallows and stir until practically all melted. It may be necessary to set pan over heat if syrup cools too quickly when marshmallows are added. Add salt to egg white and using rotary beater or electric mixer gradually beat in the hot syrup mixture. Continue beating until mixture will hold its shape. Yield — 2 cups icing.

Variations:

1. Maple Marshmallow Pudding or Ice Cream Sauce — reduce marshmallows in recipe to 6 and beat only until cool.

2. Maple Marshmallow Ice Cream — Proceed as for icing but when mixture holds its shape fold in ½ cup cream whipped until almost stiff. Pour into freezing tray of mechanical refrigerator and freeze. Yield — 4 servings.

Q.W.I.'s Discuss Mental Health Program

Plans for implementing the proposed Community Mental Health Program of the Quebec Women's Institutes were discussed at a recent executive meeting of that organization. The suggestion that such a project be considered was made at the annual provincial convention this year, sparked by an address given at that time by Dr. A. W. MacLeod, Assistant Director, Mental Hygiene Institute, Montreal.

Dr. MacLeod also attended this executive meeting to advise on possible steps to be taken in implementing such a program. Emphasizing that it was important to integrate all existing community agencies in such a plan he felt the Women's Institute was in a strategic position to serve in that capacity, as an organization that cuts across all natural divisions and includes representatives from all other groups in its membership.

Further talks are to be held with representatives of the Canadian Mental Health Association with a view to developing this provincial program on a sound and workable basis.

GIRL FROM NORTH SAYS YUKON BEST FOR GOOD LIVING

Montreal (CP) — Montreal may be fine for shopping — but nothing beats the Yukon for living.

That's the opinion of 27-year-old Mrs. Michael Mazurkewich, formerly Carol Robinson, who was born here but has lived for 2½ years in the Yukon.

She and her husband went north on their honeymoon trip and learned to like the place so much they settled down in Elso, 300 miles north of Whitehorse, where Michael found work.

There were few modern conveniences in Elso, said Carol, and when they moved to Whitehorse a year ago the ringing of her telephone startled her for a while.

Here to visit her parents, Mrs. Mazurkewich made it clear she is returning to the Yukon as soon as she had stocked up on clothes and shoes.

Costly Food and Clothing

In the north, she said, the only women's shoes available were in "C" width. And clothes for herself and her 14-months-old son are expensive there, as are certain types of food.

Fresh vegetables have to be flown in if they are to remain fresh and the air freight adds to costs. The Mazurkewichs live mainly on canned foods, which they buy by the carload.

"We lay in a year's supply at a time", Carol said, "and we buy more than we expect to use". She admits that balancing the food budget is quite a chore.

The snow did not bother her, she said, because there never was as much as the Yukon is popularly supposed to have.

She was, and still is, awed by strangeness of the midnight sun in summer and the noonday moon in winter. It was queer, she said, to look out of a window at midnight and see gardens bathed in an afternoon light.

Women in the north were as style-conscious as women everywhere. They did not walk around in shapeless parkas and baggy sweaters but in the same smart clothes their southern sisters wore.

"We don't like the new short skirt-lengths", Mrs. Mazurkewich said, "and we hope they just won't take."

Library Big Help To New Canadians

Estonian Girl a Good Friend to Newcomers at London, Ont.

London, Ont. (CP) — There are some pretty glum new Canadians here. They have just lost — temporarily they hope — one of their best friends and interpreters, Asta Pirnimae.

Asta, an Estonian girl and a good linguist, left London public library recently to study for a year at the University of Toronto to obtain her BA in library science. However, she would like to return to London on completion of her studies.

Asta, who started in the library in 1952, came to Canada from England, where she attended nursing school for three years.

During the Second World War she was forced to work in an aircraft factory in Berlin. Prior to that she studied literature and languages at Tartu University in Estonia. She speaks German, Finnish, Estonian and English fluently. At one time she spoke Russian, but has forgotten most of it.

Some 150 immigrants have been helped by the bright Estonian girl. She told a reporter that most of them look for books in their own language, or for translations of their home-country authors into English.

On Library Shelves

"The library has a good stock of German and French books, and I found one Estonian book", Asta said.

Mrs. M. J. Barber, also of the library staff, says there is a big demand for the 50 simplified English editions of classics such as "Treasure Island".

The simplified editions, which are also abbreviated, are kept strictly for immigrants.

"Some high school students come in asking for them", she said, "apparently trying to cut down on their classic reading time — but we won't let them have the special editions."

The library intends to use a booklet just published to help immigrants learn spoken English, she said. The booklet teaches the language phonetically.

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Your Thanksgiving

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

What happens in your home on Thanksgiving week-end? Is it just another holiday when the whole family can come together at the old homstead for a big turkey and pumpkin pie dinner? Is it a free week-end when you can all get away or a little trip in the beautiful countryside ablaze with autumn colors? Or do you also take advantage of this occasion to teach your children that every good gift comes from God? Has your son or daughter ever heard you point out that we owe our Creator our gratitude and praise, both in public worship and in our own prayers?

On Thanksgiving Sunday do attend the church of your choice as a family and enter wholeheartedly into the service of worship! It is a great pity when parents by their indifference to church, interpret "Freedom of Worship" as the right to stay at home! The psalmist wrote "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go up into the House of the Lord". If, as a household, you have drifted away from regular attendance at Divine Worship, now is a good time to begin.

Many a father and mother who feel no inner urge to worship, because they have neglected their spiritual life, do start back to church for the sake of a small son or daughter. They realize that there is no other experience which is a substitute for the worship of God in His House on His Day. The church Service on Thanksgiving Sunday, as well as Christmas and Easter can be High Occasions in which both adults and children can participate.

As individuals we Canadians have much for which to be thankful. Our great land is blessed with vast resources of field and mine and forest, of lakes and streams! We are all too apt to take for granted the blessings which have been bestowed upon us. Unlike many other lands, our country has not been ravaged by war. Thousands of miles of unfortified border stretch between us and our good neighbors to the South. Across the ocean we look with pride and loyalty to our young Queen as she begins her reign.

During recent years thousands of displaced persons have come from Europe to make a new home on this continent. If we have done our part as older citizens, we have tried to be neighborly to the lonely families or individuals in our vicinity. We have shown hospitality and in getting to know our guests, perhaps we have caught a glimpse of the insecurity, the privation which many New Canadians have suffered. We have a fresh realization of the horrible atmosphere of fear of a dictatorship or a communist regime. Perhaps we have had a new surge of thanksgiving for the free air in a democracy!

As a people we Canadians are not nearly as grateful as we should be! Too many individuals prosper financially and glory in being "self-made". Too many women, as well as men, measure success by the money yardstick. The blight of materialism threatens our spiritual and cultural life.

Children growing up in a home, to a very great extent, accept their parent's standards. It is not their fault if Thanksgiving has no real meaning except as another secular holiday!

During the pre-school years a little child should often hear from his mother's lips that God is the Creator of all the beauty and the wonder of the out-of-doors. Parents should not leave it completely to the Sunday School teachers to speak of Jesus' teaching of God as a Loving Heavenly Father. All true thanksgiving springs from our sense of our dependence upon God and our faith in His care. Even a small boy or girl eating a slice of bread can learn and understand —

"Back of the loaf is the snowy flour,
Back of the flour the mill;
Back of the mill the wheat, the shower,
The sun and our Father's will."

BIG ENOUGH TO HIDE IN

Fall always brings pumpkins, but seldom such whoppers as this. The two of them are as tall as John Rainbird attending the 98th Great Northern exhibition at Collingwood, Ont.

Speaking of habits — when I was a baby my mother hired a woman to wheel me about, and I've been pushed for money ever since.

Garden-Graph

It is a simple matter to grow hyacinths indoors during the winter months. They only require water and pebbles as a supporting medium, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Large bulbs for forcing can be grown in special hyacinth glasses, as illustrated. Nurseries which specialize in bulbs have such glasses for sale, or they can be obtained at garden supply shops.

When bulbs are to be grown in water and pebbles, set them sufficiently deep so that the lower third of each bulb is submerged in the water and add more stones to hold the bulbs in place.

Top growth will begin simultaneously with root development, placing the containers in a cool, frost-proof, dark place has a tendency to stimulate root growth, but keep the top growth back. This results in more and larger blooms.

A clothes closet or cupboard can be used for forcing the bulbs in darkness. A root system will have formed within two or three weeks.

Then bring the bulbs into a room with a temperature of 50 to 60 degrees. Keep them away from direct sunlight for a day or two until the top growth has turned a rich, green color then place them in a sunny window.

When hyacinth bulbs are brought out into the light, place a paper cone about them to force the buds to grow up before blooming.

Scouters' Conf'ce, Annual Conclave This Week-end

Most of the 24 Scout districts of the Province will be represented at the 18th Provincial Scouters' Conference which will be held over Thanksgiving week-end at North Hatley, according to an announcement from Provincial Scout Headquarters. G. Robley Mackay of Montreal, the Provincial Commissioner, will be general chairman, and it is expected that 175 or more adult leaders of Wolf Cubs, Boy Scouts and Rover Scouts will sit down for the opening dinner on Saturday at 6 p.m.

The guest of honor will be R. D. F. Bourne of Hamilton, Ont. He is Assistant Regional Commissioner for Rover Scouts in South Central Ontario, and was born in Longueuil, Que., and started his Scouting career in 1910. John L. MacGregor, Executive Commissioner for Training at Canadian Scout Headquarters, will speak after lunch on Sunday; and Major-General D. C. Spry, CBE, DSO, CD, retiring Chief Executive Commissioner for Canada, will be introduced by Jackson Dodds, CBE, of Montreal, Deputy Chief Scout for Canada, and will bid farewell to Scout leaders in this province before he leaves next week to take up his new duties in Britain as Director of the International Scout Bureau.

After the opening dinner on Saturday evening the conference dance will be held. Sunday's program will include divine services at 8 a.m. and a Scouts' Own at 10 o'clock conducted by Rev. Elton Scott of Bishop's College, Lennoxville; morning and afternoon conference sessions on the theme of the conference — understanding and training boys — and informal talks, singing and practical demonstrators. The conference findings will be reviewed on Monday morning by Mr. Bourne, and General Spry will speak following the closing luncheon at noon, after which the delegates will disperse.

At a recent meeting in Montreal Mr. Mackay stressed the importance of this annual gathering and expressed the hope that all districts would be well represented by both uniformed leaders and interested laymen.

A Housebuilding Project On Co-operative Lines

Lindsay, Ont. (CP) — Thirty-two men in this town of 10,000 have decided to do something about the housing shortage. They plan to build their own houses.

They are all members of the Maryknoll Builders Co-operative formed a year ago and which received its provincial charter this month.

"Ours is the pioneer home builders' co-operative in Ontario", explained Guy Mills, chairman of the group. "We got our enthusiasm last October at a parent-teachers association meeting. The need is so great that we decided to form a housing co-op."

The group meets for 1½ hours one night each week to study the problems of the venture and consider an eight-phase study course offered by St. Patrick's College, Ottawa.

Each member of the group pays dues of $2 a week and from funds acquired an 11 acre site has been purchased for the 32 homes.

"The land", said Mr. Mills, "provides enough room for 32 homes on 58 by 120-foot lots, plus four lots for a children's playground."

Build Two Types

Two types of homes will be built, some two-storey and the rest 1½-storeys. The former will sell for less than $7,500 and the latter for less than $6,500. Financing is through the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, with monthly payments of between $35 and $45 over a 20 to 30-year period. Monthly payments will cover interest, principal, insurance and taxes and begin with the month of occupancy.

Sixteen homes are to be built this year and members of the group have drawn lots to determine who will occupy them. Each house will have six to eight rooms with modern installations including oil heating.

Joe Begley, bartender member of the group, explained its organization:

"We are divided into groups of eight, each with a manager, assistant manager and timekeeper. The contractor is guarenteed 14 man-hours weekly from each member and the timekeepers schedule the work to be done by each of us.

"As the work progresses, the developing skill of each group member is noted and applied where it will do the most good. The groups are chosen with a view to using as much already-acquired skill as possible."

Group leaders note that similar co-operatives are in operation in Quebec and the Maritimes.

"Still A Communist" On Release From Jail

—Central Press Canadian

Ending his second prison term at penitentiary in Kingston Ont., in the Communist cause, Sam Carr of Toronto, former national organizer of the Labor-Progressive party, declared: "I'm still a Communist," but added he had had no connection with the Labor-Progressive party for some years before his capture in New York in January, 1949. Carr served four years, seven months and 13 days of a six-year term imposed for conspiracy in connection with Canada's spy ring exposed by Igor Gouzenko, Soviet embassy cipher clerk, who is still living secretly under RCMP protection. Carr is the last of those convicted in the spy ring. All others have served their terms and have been released. Previously he had served two years and four months when convicted with Tim Buck and four other Communists for being members of an unlawful assembly, being released in 1934. On hand to greet the 47-year-old ex-organizer, who looked healthy and tanned on his release, were his wife and son, the only ones allowed to see him during his term in prison.

Haileybury School Dedicates Grotto

Sisters of the Assumption Mark Order's Centenary

Haileybury, Ont. (CP) — One hundred years ago four French Canadian women from St. Gregoire, Que., decided to devote their lives to the education of the young.

They were Leacadie Bourgeois, Julie Heone, Hedwidge Buisson and Mathilde Leduc who together founded the order of the Sisters of the Assumption.

Their century of educational work, which is carried on in some 138 centres in Canada, the United States and Japan, was honored here recently at St. Mary's Academy on the shores of Lake Timiskaming where a grotto was opened.

The grotto symbolizes the appearance of the Virgin Mary to Saint Bernadette Soubirous at Lourdes in 1858.

It stands only a few feet from where sisters and pupils stood up to their necks in water while St. Mary's Academy and all Haileybury were swept by a great fire in 1922.

It was in 1910 that five sisters arrived in the pioneer centre of Haileybury some 80 miles northeast of Sudbury. Housed at first in a tiny residence the sisters had by 1922 constructed a large stone academy for 100 girl boarders.

This was destroyed in the fire, but by 1927 the academy was rebuilt and enlarged again in 1930.

It is designed to give a high school education to as many as 150 boarders. The sisters stress a wide cultural program including music and singing and applicants far exceed the number the academy can accommodate.

QUEBEC FROSTED FOOD LOCKER ASSOCIATION HOLDS FIRST SEASON'S MEETING IN LACHUTE

Members Inspect Most Modern Packaging Equipment, On Visit to Local Frosted Food Center

Meeting Addressed by Wm. G. Chamberlain

Members of the Quebec Frosted Food Locker Association held their first season's meeting at the Lachute Golf Club on Wednesday, September 30.

Previously, they visited Food Lockers Ltd., and witnessed a demonstration of the most modern vacuum packaging equipment for frozen foods recently installed at that plant. Demonstrations on wrapping with aluminum foil were also given. "While aluminum foil is more expensive than paper", stated Lloyd Creswell, president of the Association and manager of the local locker plant, "it gives much superior protection to meats for freezing, and should be given consideration by all locker operators."

The meeting was addressed by Wm. G. Chamberlain, president of Dominion Provisioners Ltd., who explained to the operators how the Food Vault System brought better living to thousands of Canadians across Canada. "More food, better food and greater variety at no extra cost", were among the benefits listed by Mr. Chamberlain.

The speaker was introduced by Lloyd Creswell and thanked by Dr. Jean David.

At a dinner following the business meeting, no less than 13 varieties of frozen vegetables were included with the meal to demonstrate the variety possible in today's menus. A comparison with so-called fresh vegetables, revealed that, for example, carrots that had been pulled not less than 48 hours previously retained only 30% of their nutritional value, while fresh-frozen carrots retained 95%. These figures are based on U.S. Department of Agriculture findings.

The visitors, from all over the province, expressed admiration for the town of Lachute and the facilities found at the Golf Club.

Somewhere in Canada and the United States some person is burned to death every 50 minutes. Once every 90 seconds somebody's home is attacked by fire. Every 15 minutes some farm, producing food for a starving world, becomes a flaming beacon to someone's carelessness. Enlist in the war against the ever present enemy, fire, now, during Fire Prevention Week, October 4 to 10.

To Salvage Wrecks Off Pacific Coast

Vancouver (CP) — John Pieters and George Alce of Vancouver, have formed a partnership to rob the sea bottom of its wealth.

They say their first job, salvaging five barnacle-encrusted trucks was a cinch compared to the fantastic plans they have made for the future.

The trucks spilled off a barge five years ago in 45 feet of water. They will never run again, but 29 heavy duty tires, still in good condition and with full pressure, hydraulic lift equipment, dump bodies, rear axles and engine blocks were recovered.

Some time ago Pieters dived 950 feet in a home-made diving bell to the wreck of the big tug F. M. Yorke, lying on the bottom of Howe Sound. He has made 17 dives to the Yorke wreck and had completed preliminary work when somebody stole his equipment, setting him back three years.

Now he is ready to try again.

The pair plan to raise the 45-foot ex-Navy tug Barkerville, in 300 feet of water off Bedwell Bay, clean up her hull and engines and use it in their operations.

The men say they have five or six wrecks charted along the British Columbia coast and they plan to raise all of them.

"We're getting our heads above water", says George Alce. "A few more small jobs and we'll be ready to tackle the biggest wrecks on the coast."

Statistics show that nearly one-fifth of the households in Canada were overcrowded in 1951. An overcrowded house is one in which the number of persons exceeds the number of rooms in the dwelling.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. I wrote to the unemployment office on June 10 for my insurance. I received forms on June 15 and returned them on August 12. Why do I get paid only from August 12?

A. A claim begins on the date on which a claimant completes an application for benefit. Had you completed the forms and returned them promptly, it would have been possible to pay you benefits from the date your first letter reached the office. However, you held these forms for nearly two months and in the meantime you were not registered for employment nor did we have a record of whether or not you were unemployed. It was therefore only possible to pay you benefit from the date you returned the forms on August 12.

• • •

Q. Why do I lose a day's benefit when I am working on Sunday?

A. Because a Sunday on which work is done is a day of employment just the same as any other day.

• • •

Q. Does my employer have to give me my insurance book when I leave my job?

A. An employer is required to give you your insurance book when you leave your job or within a reasonable time thereafter. If the insurance books are not kept at the premises where the work is done, it is not always possible to deliver the books immediately.

• • •

Q. Can I stay on benefit if I work a few days each week?

A. A claimant may work short-time and still draw benefit for the idle days as may a person who gets casual work while on benefit. A claimant may be disqualified, however, if he only works some days in the week through choice.

• • •

Q. Will you pay benefits if I go away on vacation or to look for work?

A. If you intend leaving your local office area to search for work you must first advise your local office of your intention. You must also take reasonable steps to insure that any notice of an opportunity of suitable work will reach you promptly and you must be prepare to immediately curtail your absence in order to accept suitable employment. Benefit is not payable if you leave your home area to go on vacation.

Out of each dollar of sales last year Canadian manufacturers paid nearly 23 cents for wages and employee benefits, nearly 9 cents for taxes, and 5 cents went to net profit.

Council Debates Merits of Traffic Island Project for Intersection Main St. W.

Grants Use of Auditorium to Various Applicants; Fire Chief Reports on Recent Convention

The need for two fire pumps so that water can be pumped from the river to the upper sections of town — was the main point which Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon emphasized in presenting his report of the Canadian and International Fire Chiefs' Conventions, to the Town Council meeting in the Civic Auditorium last week. . . All Council members were present with the exception of Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur, and the assembly was presided over by Pro-Mayor D. G. MacRae.

Chief Deacon's observation on the need for new equipment was in line with a paper on the relaying of water over long distances, presented at the fire chiefs' conference. In the interview he said, "The water pressure in many of our hydrants is only 40 pounds, and in some cases possibly less. For adequate fire protection, the water should be at least 100 pounds, and preferably 125 pounds; and the only way to get it there is by the installation of a new waterworks system, which the Town Council is working on at present. Even with a new system, we will need an additional pump and at least another 1,500 feet of hose."

An interesting discussion on the need or futility of a traffic island at the corners of Main Street West, Robert Street and Mary Street, was the main business before the Council.

"What is the sense of an island there; it would only hinder the traffic and turning, more than it is hindered at present", stated Ald. H. G. Beaulieu, who added his opinion that "the best thing to do would be to erect a temporary island of barrels and see just how the trucks turn and how many accidents occur."

The majority of the councillors agreed that a traffic island would not help the situation and, on a suggestion from Ald. W. Cousineau, they decided to meet at this contentious corner on Tuesday at 1 p.m., so that it might be easier for all to make their proper decision.

Another matter related to this controversy is the sidewalk presently being built on Robert Street.

"If the sidewalk is kept in line with the one on the other side of the street, it will go right through McArthur's building", Ald. H. G. Beaulieu pointed out. "A recent survey gave the total area of lot 1137 as 11,183 square feet, and the Official Book gives it 8,272 square feet, English measure. The question is, where did the surplus land come from?"

A map of the section, with two plans for the sidewalk, was presented to the members present, and it was decided that this would be discussed after viewing the property in question. Both matters were tabled for further discussion at the next meeting.

The Lachute Badminton Club was represented at the meeting by Roland Maxwell, who requested the use of the Auditorium every Tuesday and every second Thursday evening. It was moved by Ald. Edgar Pollock, seconded by Ald. Alcidas Laurin, that this request be granted under the same conditions as last year. The rent for this period is $150.

A letter was received from the Highland Cadets, who were represented at the meeting by Cadet Lieut. Gordon Tabrett, requesting the use of the Auditorium which had been suspended by Mayor Lafleur. Reason for the suspension was that some of the cadets had been riding bicycles in the hall and black tire-tracks had been found on the floor. Permission was granted the cadets to use the Auditorium under the supervision of Lieut. Tabrett.

The matter of parking in the vicinity of the Fire Station was tabled for further discussion at the next meeting.

It was moved by Ald. W. S. MacKimmie, seconded by Ald. H. G. Beaulieu, that L'Association de la Jeunesse Sportive de Lachute be granted permission to hold a tag-day, in order to augment their funds.

A letter from the Public Works Department assuring the town that something would be done about Barron's Bridge, was read at the meeting. It was mentioned that the Provincial Government had already repaired the bridge.

A request for more water was received from the Ayersville Council. The municipality wants to supply water to several houses up to 400 feet on the west side of the North River Road on Ayers Street.

Accounts to the amount of $9,473.82 were approved for payment.

Permission to use the basement of the Auditorium free of charge every Tuesday evening for one hour, was granted to Charles Del Venne, whose music courses are given free of charge under a Provincial Government grant.

The Bell Telephone Company was authorized to move a pole 12 feet on Bellingham Street.

It was moved by Ald. R. Morrissette, seconded by Ald. W. Cousineau, that the sand for sidewalks be obtained from Mr. Fournier, St. Andrews East, instead of from Mr. Gunn in Dalesville — the cost for the sand from St. Andrews being nil, the only charges being $1.50 for the use of the loader. It was pointed out that this cost is much less than loading by hand.

Discussions on the maintenance of the Auditorium and speeding on Route 41 within the town limits, were left for further discussion.

Building permits were granted to E. Laurin, for a 20 x 60 ft. extension on his warehouse, and for the construction of two bungalows on Sydney Street by Lachute Lumber and Millwork Ltd.

Tenders for police uniforms were received from three firms — E. L'Heureux being the only local bidder. It was moved by Ald. W. S. MacKimmie, seconded by Ald. E. Pollock, that the uniforms be purchased from L'Heureux. The uniforms consist of a tunic, two pairs of trousers, a hat, three shirts and ties, and an overcoat.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned until Wednesday, October 14, at 8 p.m.

Arrests Connected With Thefts from Summer Camps

Five Montreal youths are being questioned and will be charged with the theft of over $2,000 worth of effects including radios, fishing rods, blankets, tools, clocks, kitchen utensils, and a four-man rubber boat. Five outboard motors ranging from 3.3 to 25 h.p. were also recovered, representing a total loot to over $4,000. All was stolen from nine camps which were broken into at Lake Farmer, and three at Mille Isles.

Det. Maurice Lamoureux, assisted by Traffic Officer Roger Massie, recovered the stolen goods in Montreal last week, and while some of the articles have been claimed, the majority are being held at the Provincial Police office here for identification, and the remainder in Montreal.

The officers also recovered similar articles stolen from Rawdon, Chambly and various other points.

Selling Salmon

Fisheries Minister Sinclair and officials of the canning industry have gone selling salmon to Britain. The dollar shortage over there has caused imports of Canadian salmon to be cut drastically since 1948.

'L'Argenteuil' Ranks 6th Across Canada In Large-Format French Weekly Papers

At the 21st annual meeting of the French weekly newspapers association (l'Association des hebdomadaires de langue française du Canada), held last Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Ottawa and Hull, a signal honor was accorded to "L'Argenteuil" of Lachute in the contest for best newspapers of large-size format. The home journal ranked sixth in this contest among the French weeklies across Canada, and a certificate was presented to the editor, Fernand Bethiaume, as testimony of this merit.

During the proceedings this group was honored by the presence of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent; Mayor Charlotte Whitton, of Ottawa; the Hon. Alexandre Taché, Speaker in the House of Commons; the Hon. Jean Lesage, Minister of Mines and Resources, and other notables, both federal and provincial.

Gérard Légaré, M.P. for Rimouski, was elected president for a two-year term.

The gathering, which included 100 members and approximately 150 guests from Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and other parts, were guests of Quebec Province, the City of Hull, and Molsons Brewery for different phases of the convention.

Donald Angus MacLennan, piper from Dalkeith, Ont., entertained the gathering with bagpipe selections.

Buckingham Youth Set Fire Repeatedly To Father's Property

Convicted at Hull Court On Five Arson Charges

Ottawa — A 20-year-old Buckingham youth, Phillip Charbonneau, pleaded guilty to five charges of arson in Hull Court last week and was remanded until October 13 by Judge Jacques Boucher for sentencing.

Charbonneau was arrested September 28 in Buckingham after Detective John L. Ross and Ontario Fire Marshal Leo Beauleau had tracked down his spectacular five-year career of setting fires.

The youth was given a psychiatric examination and was judged fit to stand trial.

His ominous career began in September, 1948, in Perkins when he set fire to the house in which he lived with his father.

A second fire was set three months later at Perkins.

Three other fires followed in July, 1951, September, 1952, and July 19, 1953, all at Buckingham.

Property damage which ran to thousands of dollars was covered by insurance.

Thanksgiving Dinner With Free Delivery

It is not unusual for game birds to court disaster by crashing through glass windows, but one incident of this kind has now hit the high-spot for timeliness.

At Linton Tomalty's in Brownsburg, the tell-tale crash was heard at 6.30 Thanksgiving morning. The window blind reeled upward, the glass remained unbroken, and the partridge was knocked cold. . . The unhappy bird, well browned and trimmed, turned up for Thanksgiving dinner!

Foreign Investment Canadian Economy Closely Related

Rotary Club Hears Interesting Topic

Aubrey D. Hunt, vice-president of W. C. Pitfield Co., investment dealers of Montreal, was guest speaker at last week's meeting of the Brownsburg Rotary Club. Mr. Hunt, during his 30 years in the investment business, has had a wide range of experience which particularly well qualified him to speak on his subject, "The Impact of Foreign Investment on the Canadian Economy".

When first told, just after the last war, that the Canadian economy would soon give a standard of living second to none in the world, Mr. Hunt admitted to being "more than a little sceptical". However, developments of the last few years have indicated that the forecast may soon become a reality.

In 1937, when the W. C. Pitfield Co. first started marketing Canadian securities in the United States, there was little interest and even less knowledge of Canadian stocks. Similarly, British investors were primarily interested in the more easily marketed American securities. During the early years of the war, foreign exchange regulations in this country restricted the flow of capital to such an extent that Canadian securities were sold at a discount, with a marked adverse effect on the Canadian market.

Following the war there was a terrific surge of interest in Canadian investments on the part of American investors, thereby increasing the value of the Canadian dollar on the world market. In 1952 some British capital was released for investment in very special situations where a purchase would expand the operations of a British company.

As an example of the effect of these foreign investments on the Canadian economy Mr. Hunt cited the case of the Canadian Petrofina Company, which, in adidtion to obtaining a share of the oil business in Alberta, is in the process of providing refinery and retail facilities for its products in Eastern Canada. Eighty per cent of the capital of this company is being provided from European sources, while Canadians are being invited to participate to the extent of the remaining 20 per cent. Naturally, Canadian Petrofina will become a customer of many other Canadian companies, as well as providing employment for a great many Canadian people. From the $25,000,000 to be invested immediately, it is conceivable that $100,000,000 worth of business could result within a year, without considering the marketing to be done by the company.

Mr. Hunt stated that he felt Canadians were in the favored position of being able to purchase technical knowledge, plus managerial know-how, for a small fraction of the cost of setting up a business, and thus we would as a nation benefit from a greatly increased standard of living through the effect of foreign investment on the Canadian economy.

Mr. Hunt was introduced by Steve Istvanffy and thanked by Phil Grant.

Rotary President Keith Rutherford thanked the members of the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary for providing emergency catering facilities for the Club when it became necessary to find a substitute for the regular meeting place. .

Traffic Control

Brownsburg — At a recent meeting of the corporation, some changes were made in the parking regulations. A narrow street from a point where MacMaster intersects Main, to the junction at Filion, has been declared a one-way street. This street meets Main at the top of a hill and was always difficult to negotiate in view of the fact that it is a blind corner. To add to the difficulty, the approach from the east up St. Onge Hill was usually cluttered with parked cars. This has now been cleared, as parking on either side of the hill is prohibited. This latter change is in accordance with the provisions of the original by-law.

Speed Control

At this council meeting, also, a number of signs were obtained for erection, which will provide speed traps to assist the police in controlling excessive speed through the streets. A limit of 25 m.p.h. was set, and an all-out endeavor will be made to cut down on dangerous driving.

Eviction

Last week the effects of a local resident were removed from the premises he occupied, and the house was taken possession of by the owner. The cause of the eviction by the court messenger was sustainable in law.

Waterworks

The intake pipe to supply the water system is to be enlarged to 12 inches. Samples of the new pipe were on view before the council meeting, and it is assured that the system of joints will allow for ample movement in clay soil, and a lead seat with rubber gasket will prevent leakage and loss of pressure. The cost of a complete new line is estimated at $40,000.

Home and School

The Brownsburg Home and School Association will get under way for the coming season at its annual meeting on Wednesday, October 21. A new slate of officers has been nominated for election, and a large attendance is expected. Members were notified by mail, but many prospective new members are expected to be present when enrolment takes place during a social interlude.

Hunting Mishap Near St. Jovite

Harvey Cooperstone, 17, of Montreal, was struck in the lung by a bullet while hunting along the shore of a lake about 10 miles east of St. Jovite last week-end.

Police said an unidentified hunter apparently was shooting across the lake when the mishap occurred. Treated at St. Jovite, Cooperstone, was then taken to the Jewish General Hospital in Montreal.

Lachute 4-H Club Holds Judging Contest

Members of the Lachute 4-H Calf Club met last week at the farm of Paul St. Jacques, where they judged a class of splendid Holstein cows.

Ross Oswald, the club leader, organized the meeting and Simon Wilson acted as official judge. Alex Bothwell, local Agronomist, checked the judging cards and announced the winners. Carl Rodgers and David Adams had the highest scores in the competition.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. St. Jacques for his kindness in helping the Club.

Lachute Prospects In Quebec-Ontario Hockey League

District centres represented at a meeting of the Quebec-Ontario Hockey League, held recently at the King Edward Hotel in Hawkesbury, included — St. Jerome, Brownsburg, Lachute, Hawkesbury, L'Orignal, Vankleek Hill, Alexandria and Lancaster.

There was favorable accord to the entry of a Lachute team in this league, and certain concessions were made to facilitate this move. It was agreed that Lachute might scout the surrounding villages of St. Andrews, St. Placide, St. Benoit and Oka for player material, and that any of the league hockeyists from these centres must play under the Lachute colors. In addition, Lachute will have the privilege of importing five outside players.

Lachute's home games will be staged at the Brownsburg Arena, which is a central site for component teams of this league.

Jean-Jacques Dupré, who represented Lachute at the league conclave, is confident that local prowess will be upheld with a creditable line-up and will receive good support from local interests. It is planned to sell season tickets for the home games and to operate bus services to and from these games.

In order to meet the financial end of this venture, the committee plans to publish a souvenir program, in which the town merchants and industrialists are invited to advertise. At the time of this writing only a handful have been contacted, but all have shown enthusiasm over the project. A list of advertisers to date, will appear next week.

• • •

At a subsequent meeting at Hawkesbury on Tuesday of this week, the definite line-up of the league was set to include four teams, namely, Hawkesbury, L'Orignal, Brownsburg and Lachute.

Next meeting to discuss the season's business will be held here in Lachute, on Tuesday, October 27.

Annual Meeting at Carillon Highlight in Affairs of County Historical Society

Paper on History of Mille Isles Seigniory Reveals Detailed Research, Provides Great Interest

On Saturday afternoon, October 10, a large and representative group gathered in the library of the Carillon Museum for the annual meeting of the Historical Society of Argenteuil. The meeting was chaired by the president, Benjamin A. Howell.

Mr. Howell spoke feelingly of the losses suffered by the Society during the year. A brief tribute to the memory of the late Gaetan Valois was read by Miss J. G. Wales. The president read a tribute to the memory of the late Gustave Kuhring, one of the founders, whose services over the years had been of inestimable value to the Society. The president then read a tribute to the late Mrs. Lund, wife of the caretaker of the Museum. The company stood for a moment in memory of these valued members.

The report of the nominating committee was read by Mrs. Archie Graham. The following officers were elected or returned to office:

Honorary presidents, Mrs. G. F. W. Kuhring and J. S. Giles; president, B. A. Howell; first vice-president, Mrs. Geo. McGibbon; second vice-president, Fraser Watson; secretary, Miss Beatrice Robertson; treasurer, Miss Edith Simpson.

Directors, Mrs. Norman Holland, Mac Walker, Russell Graham, Miss Mildred Douglas, Miss A. L. Wales, Mrs. W. Windsor, Mrs. R. E. Thorne, Mrs. Stuart Forbes, Mrs. Archie Graham, Mrs. W. K. Pitcairn, Mrs. Alex Bothwell, Clément Tremblay.

Mr. Lund's report showed that the 2,254 visitors to the Museum during the year included not only Canadians and Americans but people of many European and other countries.

After the business meeting an interesting address was given by the Rev. Stanford Reid, professor of History at McGill University. The subject was the History of the Seigniory of Mille Isles, on which Prof. Reid has conducted extensive researches in Ottawa and St. Jerome. He explained the seigniorial system in general, the development of Mille Isles (illustrated by a map), and the details of life in the seigniories in the old days. Prof. and Mrs. Reid have organized, in charts, masses of material on the subject drawn from the original documents.

Before closing the meeting, the president recalled the aims and objects of the Society as laid down in 1936:

"To honor and preserve the memory of the pioneers who bequeathed to us so rich an inheritance . . to educate the youth of the land in the story of the past . . to hand on to posterity an achievement worthy of the heritage of our beloved country."

"As Lincoln said, in his homely way", the president concluded, "I like to see a man proud of the place in which he was born".

At the conclusion of the meeting tea was served downstairs. The corridor of the museum with its beautiful fanlights, the terrace, the Habitant room, the Colonial room, the Abbott room, and the Indian room with their views of the Ottawa and the rich autumn landscape, were looking their best and made a fine setting for a stimulating social hour.

Following are the tributes presented at this meeting in memory of three departed members and associates:

The Late Gaetan Valois

The Historical Society of Argenteuil has suffered a profound loss in the passing of Mr. Gaetan Valois, long one of our directors and one who has contributed much to our Society both in scholarship and in human relations.

Mr. Valois will be inexpressibly missed in the life of the whole county. He was widely valued for his integrity and wisdom, and was unusually distinguished also for his cultivation, humor and social charm. He took a paternal interest in his clients, who relied for advice upon his experience and judgment.

Widely read in the literature of his language, possessed of an excellent private library in both French and English, accomplished in music, and something of a connoisseur in painting, he was interested in the fostering in Canada of all the arts.

In an introduction to Mr. Valois' book, "Minutes Retrouvées", which was in the press at the time of his death, the Honorable Victor Morin lays stress upon his talent as a writer both of verse and prose. The book, of which a copy will be placed in our Museum library, is in the best tradition of memoirs and familiar essays, and with its vivid recollections of a lifetime and its delightful local color, will be treasured by all as a fine example of his work for the County of Argenteuil.

The Late Gustave Kuhring

On Friday, September 25, 1953, we lost through death another of our active directors, Gustave Francis Wycliffe Kuhring. The late Mr. Kuhring, with his wife, took a leading part in the work of organizing this Society and had also a great deal to do with the restoration of this beautiful building. The minutes of the meetings held in the late thirties record his untiring efforts to make the Museum what it is today. Perhaps we take too much for granted, to the efforts of people like the late Gustave Kuhring, who never spared himself on your behalf and the many other organizations to which he belonged. He was a kindly man. He never refused a duty in connection with the work of the Society.

We therefore record our appreciation of his sincere efforts, and to his wife we express our deep sympathy.

The Late Mrs. T. Lund

Mrs. Pamelia Campbell Lund, wife of the guardian of the Museum, Mr. Trygve Lund, was a woman of great determination and broad vision in her travelled. Those of us who knew her during the period of her husband's ministry as Dominion Archivist, entered her life and fortunes. We extend our sympathy to her husband in his great loss.

Two Arrests, Two Convictions In Traffic Cases

Dollard Levesque, a truckdriver of Eastview, Ont., was charged on Tuesday with driving under the influence of liquor. He will appear in court at St. Jerome this Friday.

The man was arrested by Det. Maurice Lamoureux and taken to St. Jerome, where he was held for trial. The truck he was operating for Mustyis Cartage was seized and later released to another of the company's drivers.

The lawn of the Catholic presbytery at St. Philippe was the scene of an accident Monday at 2.10 p.m., when a car driven by Jacques Trudeau, of Longueuil, Que., swerved to avoid an auto which pulled out in front of him. He ran into a tree, causing considerable damage to his car.

The other car had just entered the highway from the yard opposite the church and the driver, Armand Demerse, 44, of Lachute Mills, continued on his way towards Lachute.

Traffic Officer Howard Jones happened to be entering the village at the time of the accident and was stopped while passing through. Trudeau gave him the license number and a description of the car, and the officer proceeded towards Lachute in search of it, returning to the scene of the accident via the North River Road, where he met the car driven by Demerse.

Demerse was escorted back to the scene of the accident in the police car, and later placed under arrest and lodged in the Lachute cells. He was transferred to St. Jerome jail by Traffic Officers Jones and Legault, on orders from Lieut. Valiquette, of Montreal headquarters.

Demerse was charged with operating a vehicle while his ability was impaired with liquor. He was released on bail, and trial is set for this Friday.

He was not charged with leaving the scene of an accident as his auto was not involved in the accident, although it was the cause of the accident.

Claude Montpetit, 21-year-old Ayersville resident, was found guilty on a charge of driving while his ability was impaired, and sentenced to eight days in St. Jerome jail in addition to a fine of $100 plus costs. The sentence was given by Judge Fontaine on Friday, October 10.

While found guilty on the charge of driving "under the influence", the accused was acquitted on another charge of reckless driving.

The accident in which the charges were laid occurred on Route 8, near Chatboro, some time ago. A taxi, driven by Montpetit and owned by Leopold Girard, went out of control on the wet pavement, hit the shoulder of the road, turned over and slid some 200 feet in the ditch before striking and severing a telephone pole.

• • •

Roland Tremblay, of Rawdon, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving 55 m.p.h. on Route 31 at the intersection of that highway and Cottingham Blvd. The charges were laid in the early part of July, and numerous similar charges have been laid since against both local and outside motorists. Tremblay was fined $50 plus costs for his offence.

Last year 21,254,139 tons of freight moved through Canadian canals. This was a record volume.

Please Report Trouble

If your power fails, check and make sure the cause does not lie with your own wiring before calling the power company. It may be a blown fuse, a frayed or parted wire or a small circuit overloaded by the use of too many appliances at one time.

It costs time and money to send out crews to look for the source of troubles. If the trouble lies in the house it will cost the customer money because the cost will be charged to him.

Naturally, as soon as you are sure the trouble lies outside your own wiring, the power company would appreciate your trouble call, because it allows the trouble shooters to get moving on the remedy as quickly as possible.

It is much more effective to call the power company directly about troubles, as they may be of a local nature and unknown to the company.

NEW MARKET FOUND FOR ALBERTA STOCK

Edmonton — A new market for Alberta's pure-bred stock has been opened in Texas.

A shipment of four large English white hogs from the Namao farm of Hon. David Ure, provincial Minister of Agriculture, left recently via CNR for Naeogdoeker, Texas, where they will serve as foundation stock at the ranch of M. S. Wright.

It is believed to be the first shipment of its kind from Alberta to the southern state.

Comparison of 4-H Club Work in Quebec and U. S.

"If you compare Quebec 4-H Clubs with their American counterpart, you will be impressed by the extent that ours depend on local leadership and initiative". This observation was made by Professor L. H. Hamilton of Macdonald College, who took part in a recent 4-H Club program in Harrisonburg, Virginia.

Prof. Hamilton pointed out that the U.S. Clubs he saw in action had most enthusiastic members. He commented that the County Agents in Virginia took a keen interest in their club work and seemed to be largely responsible for it.

On the other hand Prof. Hamilton feels that Quebec 4-H Clubs should be proud of the high degree of community interest that backs up their clubs. Local club enthusiasm and the quality of 4-H Club work in the province compares very favorably, he points out. Prof. Hamilton commented on the part played by Macdonald Diploma Course gradutes in local 4-H Club work.

Grass Silage Protein For Milk Production

Ottawa — The increasing tendency to cure the hay crop as silage, to avoid losses due to weather, is causing a shift by dairymen to feeding a greater proportion of grass silage in the roughage. Indeed, many dairymen are feeding grass silage as the sole roughage for their milking cows.

Since grass silage is usually harvested earlier than the hay crop, the proportion of protein to total digestible nutrients is higher for silage than for hay from the same crop. The proportion of portein is even higher where the silage contains a high proportion legume.

When a milking cow is fed all the high quality grass silage she will eat, she will be receiving protein in excess of her needs and insufficient total digestible nutrients or energy to meet her requirements. A grain mixture of three parts of oats and two parts of barley appears to be satisfactory as a supplement where a high proportion of good quality grass silage is fed.

In an experiment at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, milking cows were fed a roughage ration consisting of five pounds of grass silage and ½ pound of hay per 100 pounds live weight daily. This roughage was supplemented with a meal mixture of oats and barley for one ration, which was compared with a ration of the same roughage, supplemented with a meal mixture of oats, barley, bran, and linseed oilmeal. The latter supplement contained three per cent more digestible protein than the oat and barley mixture.

In this trial, the production of milk from the oat and barley supplement was equal to and even slightly higher than when the roughage, high in silage, was supplemented with a meal mixture three per cent higher in digestible protein.

The feeding of grass silage as the sole roughage to milking cows has given satisfactory results. This economical sourse of protein can be supplemehted with less costly low protein feeds and should materially assist in the search for a more economical means of producing milk.

Check Alfalfa and Red Clover Seed

Ottawa — Canadian-grown alfalfa and red clover seed does not contain any stained or colored seeds. This uncolored seed (denoting Canadian origin) is the safest to use for seeding.

Any seed which contains a small proportion of colored seeds — red, green, methyl violet or black — is imported seed and under provisions of the Canada Seeds Act it is colored purposely to warn Canadian buyers that it is of foreign origin. Such imported seed is not likely to possess the winter hardiness of Canadian alfalfa or red clover seed.

The colored seeds are thoroughly mixed in the bulk and though every seed may not be colored there are sufficient in any lot of seed to indicate foreign origin. Red is the color used to indicate that the seed is not likely to possess any winter hardiness. The other colors — green, methyl violet and black — are used to indicate doubtful adaptation to Canadian requirements.

Suitability of Seed For Specific Purpose

It is pointed out by officials of the Plant Products Division that the licensing of a new variety does not constitute a recommendation for the variety by the Department of Agriculture. It means that a new origination which is different and superior in some respects to varieties already established has been added to the list of varieties which have been approved for sale under provisions of the Federal Seeds Act.

The use of improved and well adapted varieties is fundamental for good yields and better quality crops. A variety may be well adapted to a certain region or highly suitable for a special reason, but the same variety may be useless in a different region or for a different purpose.

Growers should base their choice of a variety on its record of performance at the nearest experimental station or agricultural institution, and not on the fact that it is a well advertised recent introduction.

An executive of a large company maintains on his farm a pure-bred dairy herd whose milk is sold locally at a few cents over the regular price. His cows have the latest word in living quarters, are given vitamin-enriched feed, and when the milk is periodically examined the bacteria count is always low and the butterfat content high.

A lady who lives nearby visited the farm one day and after admiring everything said to the owner, "I have only one compaint: I don't like having to pay a special price for my milk. As a neighbor, I feel I ought to receive it at cost."

"Why, I'll be gald to arrange that", said the gentleman farmer.

"PERFECT" APPLE ELUDES RESEARCHERS

Through two world wars, depressions and all other world catastrophies, the search for a perfect apple has been continued at Vineland, Ont. At the horticultural experimental station there, hundreds of varieties of apples have been developed by grafting, cross-breeding and transplanting since the search began in 1913. They haven't yet produced their ideal apple — and that's not surprising since it would have to be able to grow just about anywhere, be delicious to eat, surperlative when cooked, and on top of that has to be able to mature in 32-degree fahrenheit storage. In the meanwhile, apple lovers are quite content, as this model, to revel in the present products of Vinelar

LONE CANADA GOOSE WINDSOR ATTRACTION

Windsor, Ont. (CP) — A Canadian goose which took up residence near the sprawling Ford of Canada plant here recently has found more friends than enemies among his new neighbors.

Since the annual mass migration of Canada geese from the north had not yet started, bird experts say they believe the bird was the victim of a miscalculation. He apparently started the flight south ahead of schedule and then decided to wait here for his feathered friends for the flight South.

Although most Ford employees have been kind to the goose, several men got to thinking of him in terms of a fine dinner and set a trap. Among the spectators was a deputy game warden who reported the incident to company officials. Employees have since been warned not to harm the bird.

The goose has made his home in a sand pile and takes the occasional dip in the nearby Detroit River. His antics have attracted the attention of many patients at nearby East Windsor hospital who spend hours watching him.

Of 177,000 British emigrants last year, 44,000 went to Canada, 23,000 to the United States, 52,000 to Australia, and 58,000 to New Zealand and South Africa.

Plowing Is An Art

GOOD PLOWING, farm experts say, is the key to successful soil cultivation.

Practical farmers agree. They know that, other conditions being equal, the well-plowed field will yield better crops and grow fewer weeds than one where the soil has not all been turned, or where the furrows are uneven.

That explains the growing emphasis on plowing matches which put a premium on skill in this basic and ancient function of the farmer.

Plowing competitions hit the limelight this month when the first world plowing championship was held in connection with Ontario's 40th annual international match near Cobourg. Twenty champion plowmen from 11 countries competed.

Plowing matches have won wide acceptance in Canada although many successful farmers are a bit dubious about their value.

Almost every district in Ontario and Quebec has its regional match. The annual international match, actually an Ontario affair with some events open to competitors from other provinces and countries, attracts spectators in the thousands.

The doubt as to value lies in the feeling that match plowing isn't practical for the every-day farmer who hasn't time to fuss with his furrows and has to get his job done with as much dispatch as possible.

These doubts were fostered for years when many matches put the emphasis on horse-plowing with single-furrowed plows, although most farm plowing was done with tractors.

But in the matches now, this has changed. For example the world championship rules call for tractors and two-furrow plows. Competitors are required to plow in stubble one day and in sod another, to demonstrate their skill under different conditions.

In other words, competition is getting closer to practical conditions. The plowing match competitor learns how to do a better job back at home, and the spectator learns some new wrinkles as well.

The Kinsey Report

"WHY don't you write something about the Kinsey Report?" was the whimsical query we received from one of our feminine readers. . . We snorted, audibly.

Does it need to be told that the coverage of Canadian weeklies does not lend itself to sensationalism of this type? Not that the weeklies consciously aim to be different. By the nature of their policies and their constructive role, they ARE different. And in this instance we believe our fellow editors will cheerfully acclaim those characteristics which set them apart from the average periodicals in our cultured living-rooms.

In fact, we are unreservedly ashamed of those Canadian magazines which have joined the hue and cry on the Kinsey Report. In their feignedly disinterested views, they betray only an impulse to jump on the bandwagon of public allure and thus augment their sales. They can certainly have achieved no good by publicizing this treatise on a subject of personal and intimate concern. And if we are disturbed to hear our juniors openly discussing the topic of sex — we blush, this time, to think that even some of our better-class Canadian periodicals have spurred their interest in this direction.

What Makes People Buy?

THIS IS the $64 question in almost any line of business.

A hardware retailer would give a good deal to know the gardening weather we will have next spring. The beauty parlor operator could make a bigger profit if hair styles were known in advance. So it goes for all of us — what the future holds is unknown.

The businessman can only guess about public reaction to his product or service. Even an experienced businessman can only make an experienced guess. The public taste and fancy is an uncertain thing. It is what makes fortunes, and it is also what sometimes destroys fortunes, too. This is just as true for the wage earner, the professional man — even the journalist.

But the prudent among us have some protection too. Insurance, pension plans, family allowances and many other safeguards are available to help weather the unexpected squalls. This is one of the reasons why the Canada Savings Bond habit has caught on so well in Canada. It always adds to your peace of mind when you have a few bonds tucked away.

More than a million Canadians — many among our readers — purchase these bonds each year. They know they're a safe buy and a sound investment.

Aroma Notwithstanding

IN ADDITION to creating a fire hazard, it should be realized that the burning of leaves (their tangy fragrance notwithstanding) is a waste of potential fertilizer. Advice from an American authority states that, with only a small amount of work, fall leaves can be changed into a valuable compost material.

The best composts are made by alternating layers of leaves or other organic material to a depth of eight to ten inches with about two inches of a fertile soil. Some nitrogen fertilizer, in moderate applications, should be added to the leaves before the soil is spread over them. This will hasten decomposition of the leaves.

Home Help

MORE HELP is forthcoming for the baby sitter. The Ontario Department of Public Welfare has published a booklet entitled "A Guide for Baby Sitters".

It's a comprehensive manual intended for distribution among a wide variety of young people's groups and women's organizations. Nothing is left to chance. In fact, you might call it the baby sitter's 50 commandments.

There are bureaux where baby sitters — young, old, male, female — can be hired by the hour. Naturally, the applicants must be pretty personable folks, baby must be well-trained, the house must be clean, and you're on top of the world if you can provide TV and motor transportation to and fro.

Church-going has been made easy too. One church started something when it installed a glass-fronted parlor conveniently located so that Johnny — in good care of course — can see Mom and Dad at their devotions.

Now some enterprising recording outfit should come up with a series of musical "Dos" and "Don'ts" for baby sitters.

With all the attention being lavished on this addition to the modern family's expanding budget, there seems no good reason why mother's help shouldn't get instruction while on the job in an up-to-date and entertaining fashion.

The records would go over in a big way with our baby sitter — and with baby too. They'd both get a big kick out of the burping operation done to music. And Betsy would surely be more careful with the safety pins, if a tinkling voice issued admonitions on the subject.

Of course, we might go the whole hog with visual aid through the medium of TV's grey-haired Aunt Lucy. Or would it be too difficult to find a soothing syrup manufacturer willing to sponsor a nightly program just about the time baby is most fretful. The snag would be in deciding when babies are most fretful.

But there is little doubt the last word will come from the baby sitters themselves. Before long we shall have a baby sitter's union and then — well, the sky's the limit.

Good Business

IN THE first eight months of this year more than 600,000 people from overseas visited Britain. About half of these came from the United States and Commonwealth countries. By the end of the year the total of such visitors is expected to be around 800,000 and the amount they will spend, about $350 millions.

This is the sort of trade which can be expanded almost indefinitely, without friction, without any drain on material resources, thinks The Financial Post.

Tourist spending on transportation, and on hotel and other accommodation, benefits Great Britain in exactly the same way as if we spent the same amount of money at home on British woollens, china or cutlery. It provides the British with the wherewithal to buy our lumber, wheat, aluminum and a host of other goods.

CANDID. — Until someone figures out how to put a farm on eight hours a day, five days a week, and make it pay equal returns with other industry, we see little hope of keeping the boys on the old homestead. Let's hope someone finds the answer before we start running out of the things the farmer produces — says the Stanstead Journal.

CAN YOU make quick decisions? If you can't, you had better stay off heavily travelled highways and streets in your automobile driving. It has been estimated that the average motorist has to make from 20 to 50 decisions an hour, depending on the traffic, and a wrong decision can be fatal. In heavy traffic a driver is never more than a second away from an accident.

"I've hit the jackpot!"

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Has any baseball player ever won an argument with the umpire? I doubt it. In the wake of the World Series, the question is something to consider.

At least once in every ball game a husky character storms up to the umpire, pushes his chin within a few inches of the umpire's nose, and waves his fists in the air.

The fans see the incident as a pantomime, with large gestures of the arms and legs that come straight from a Victorian stage melodrama. Sometimes a whole team runs out to join the act.

The umpire, meanwhile, just stands there with arms folded, a small lonely figure in black representing law and order. If he makes a gesture it is a decisive one — the arm extending toward the dugout, like a father of the 1890's ordering his errant daughter out of doors into the blizzard.

The umpire does not change his mind. Why, then, do we see this colossal waste of man-hours and energy spent in the discharge of angry words? Partly because it belongs to the spirit of the game, which fits the North American temperament. To make a noise, to play to win, to fight all the way — these are threads in the fabric of baseball tradition.

Baseball isn't cricket. Baseball fans do not clap faintly with their thumbnails. Baseball players do not accept every decision of the umpire in a gentlemanly way. They look upon the umpire as a human being, subject to error and persuasion, rather than as an abstract symbol of the rule-book.

But the umpire doesn't care how the players look upon him. He makes his decision and sticks to it.

I asked a friend what he thought. It seemed to him that players now and then staged their apparently futile displays of temper to please the fans, who love a fight.

Also there was the chance that the umpire, though refusing to yield at the time, might give the injured one the benefit of the next doubt. However, an irritable umpire's mind might work just the opposite way.

Most often, my friend thought, players protest simply to blow off steam. A man who hits his thumb with a hammer knows it is useless to curse, but he curses anyway. Tennis players fling their rackets on the ground and golfers snap their clubs across their knees, as though those inanimate objects were live creatures with an evil purpose.

Baseball players know they are up against an immovable force, but they argue with the umpire anyway, because they can't help doing it.

Glass House

Cartoonists selling to U.S. periodicals have a continuing reliable joke about the Russians' claims to having invented most everything and been first or best in the triumphs of civilization through the years. Occasionally U.S. publications run articles on the same amusing subject. Canadian readers enjoy all this, but their amusement is even greater than that of readers in the U.S. because of having also as a subject of mirth the cartoons and articles in U.S. publications about the triumphs of the U.S.

According to the "Saturday Evening Post", for instance, nobody but the Wrights had much to do with inventing the airplane and interminable instalments about one of the first hundred or so people to fly the Atlantic, one Lindbergh or something, had trouble remembering Alcock and Brown, who flew the Atlantic (in case you came in late) from Newfoundland to Ireland in 1919 — eight years before Lindbergh. Truly we love our neighbors, but let them look to their motes.

MONTREAL — MAELSTROM AND MILLSTREAM

By GEOFF.

"Among My Souvenirs"

When I first heard she was coming to Montreal, I began a search. The object I sought was, I knew, somewhere in the midst of the trunk I long ago reserved for the souvenirs of the 1939-1945 War. The collection is of no value to anyone but me since the value of the articles I have saved is nil. I have, for example, a German admiral's vehicle flag, a Hun's shoulder tab, a piece of metal from a V-2, an empty package of Indian V-Cigarettes (equal in lethal qualities to either the V-1 or V-2), and a hodge-podge of theatre stubs, bus and train tickets, together with maps and the odd photograph.

The prize of these possessions, however, was a well-worn theatre programme to a sparkling revue called "All Clear". It was playing in London just at the time our regiment hit the shores of Britain. I spent my disembarkation leave in the old city and "All Clear" was the first show I saw over there. For that reason alone, I would have kept the programme. However, my chief reason for holding it by me all these years is that the star of the revue — the most gracious star in theatre — took time to write across the face of the programme:

"God Luck, Canada! All the best!"

And to it, she added: "Sincerely Beatrice Lillie."

It was, therefore, when I first heard that Bea Lillie was coming to Montreal, that I began to search for this old programme. Sure enough, there in the jumbled collection of odds and ends was the prized possession. And what nostalgia it provoked! As I scanned the programme, I saw the revue come to life again, in the old Queen's Theatre, and dance before my eyes. I saw that riotous comedienne re-acting the choir-boy skit — "Sic Transit Gloria". I lived again through the tumult of laughter that re-echoed in the theatre when, after the W.A.A.F.'s plaintive lullaby to a barrage balloon, the audience discovered that fat and jolly Fred Emney had been squeezed — cigar and all — into the front of the balloon.

And, as the mind wandered over the revue, it wandered, too, over the days in which we found ourselves. We were, in effect, mere school-kids playing seriously at the game of war. But despite our adolescence, we were impressed by these wonderful stage people who did so much to make Britain laugh through her tears. And we were impressed even more by the fact that not only did they make Britain laugh through her tears, but they did it when their own hearts were breaking, too. Yes, indeed, wonderful people!

So, Beatrice Lillie is with us once more; back in a city that is no stranger to her. The comedienne, who delighted audiences of yesteryear, is still as vibrant and as full of life as ever. She is the same Bea Lillie that rolled me in the aisles, when I was but a child of ten, with her hair-brained skit about the "double-Damask dinner napkins". (Note to B.L. — I'm getting on, but I'm not that old.) And Her Majesty's Theatre is rocking with laughter anew at her zany antics.

I haven't caught this show yet, but I hope to see it tonight. And when half-time comes 'round, I'll send a copy of this article to her dressing-room and ask her to autograph it, just as I did with my programme for "All Clear" some 13 years ago.

And why should I trouble the artist, you ask? Well, it's this way; I need a new autograph. After looking at the old programme for "All Clear", the other evening, I forgot to replace it among my souvenirs. I expect the housekeeper must have thrown it out when she cleaned up my room the following morning. At all events, I haven't been able to find the programme since.

P.S. — I got it! How? Well, I'll tell you that one next week!

Retail Sales

Canadian retailers sold a record $3,135,900,000 worth of goods in the second quarter of this year (April to June), the Bureau of Statistics reports.

Despite Finance Minister Abbott's warning several months ago about the danger of excessive credit, about one third of the quarter's sales were on credit.

THE BUY OF THE YEAR AND A YEAR TO BUY IT

Donald Hay, manager of the Bank of Montreal in Lachute, states that the new Canada Savings Bonds go on sale next Monday and already the orders are flowing in. "This year", he says, "they're the best ever. In fact, they're the buy of the year, and — if you wish it, as many people do — you have a full year in which to pay for them.

"The increased interest rate may be considered the chief attraction this year", said Mr. Hay, "and at 3¾ per cent per annum, the bonds give a splendid return.

"But the features that appeal to most people are the ease with which bonds can be bought—just 5 per cent down, $2.50 on a $50-bond, $5 on a $100-bond, and the balance in easy monthly instalments over a year — and the fact that they may be redeemed by the holder at their full face value at any time without loss, plus interest to the end of the previous calendar month."

"This", said Mr. Hay, "provides a golden opportunity to carry on a personal savings program with the full backing of the Government."

Bonds in the $50 and $100 denominations carry 12 yearly coupons at the rate of 3% per cent, while those of larger denominations can be obtained either in the same form, or in "fully registered" form with interest being paid to the bond-holder annually by cheque.

Whether you buy for cash or on the instalment plan, the purchase of Canada Savings Bonds is a simple matter at the B of M. Mr. Hay invites everyone interested to drop in and discuss "the buy of the year" with him.

In effect, 85.8% of the French companies and 57.1% of the English companies which replied to a questionnaire, find it "to their advantage to have Arts graduates among their executives."

Farewell, Summer Camp

Each Spring, when Maytime rolls around, I open up my shack. With joy I take the shutters down and pile them in a stack. I sweep the floors and air the beds with joyful whoop and song — the sun is warm, the birds are back now Springtime's come along.

How different is the picture now that Autumn's here again! The situation is reversed and I am filled with pain. The jobs I tackled with a will now seem a dismal chore as I pack up my fishing togs — won't need them any more. The rain comes down without a stop, the trees are sere and brown, as sadly I load up my car for that last trip to town. The coons I used to feed at night outside my cabin door, the squirrels and old Mrs. Skunk — they'll miss me, I am sure. It's like a theatre in the night when everyone has gone—the stage is dark, the music stilled where all was joy and fun.

But never mind! Next March you'll find me in my easy chair, reading the new seed catalog in my red underwear. Before the blazing fire of logs I'll plan next season's deeds, deriving satisfaction from descriptions of new seeds. For Spring will come around once more as it has done for years, so don't despair — no need to shed a quart of bitter tears.

Next May I'll take the shutters down as I have done before, and hang up that new calendar for 1954. The trees now bare will bloom again, the birds will all come back, but in the meantime, Adios! Good-bye, old summer shack!

Be seein' ya!

IN MEMORIAM

DAMANT — In remembrance of a dear wife and loving mother.

A Year Ago —

I gazed on Thee and said unto myself,
"Can this be death? You lie so still.
Yet you remain as yesterday,
And through the years
I'll hear your voice and see your tender smile."

You are not dead. Such love as yours can never die;
And in the Great Beyond I'll hear your call,
And hasten to your loving, outstretched arms,
And you will lead me through enchanted lands
Where death and partings are unknown.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Rev. Wilson Bridge Inducted to Lachute United Church Pastorate

The Montreal Presbytery of the United Church of Canada, represented by the immediate past-chairman, the Rev. Harvey B. Campbell, the Rev. Ralph E. Spencer, of St. Luke's Church, the Rev. R. DeWitt Scott, secretary, and the Rev. J. Ralph Watson, of Cushing, Que., formally inducted the new minister of Lachute United Church, the Rev. Wilson Bridge — over 400 members and friends witnessing this impressive service Tuesday evening.

The Call to Worship and invocation were led by the Rev. Harvey Campbell, while the scripture was read by the Rev. DeWitt Scott, followed by a session of prayer by the Rev. Ralph Watson. The choir sang the 23rd Psalm after the offering.

During the service, a telegram was read by the Rev. DeWitt Scott from the former minister of the Lachute church, the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, extending all good wishes to the new minister and his family.

The Rev. Ralph Spencer, who had acted as interim minister of the Lachute Church after the resignation of the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, was guest preacher. He charged that the induction of the new minister was an event of great importance to the life of a church; and of the Lachute Church in particular, he said that the congregation had a fine reputation of co-operation, friendliness and content, and that he looked forward to great things in the future.

He appealed to the members to let the minister "be himself . . to do things in his own way", and to realize that it was impossible for a minister "to please everybody", but if he did right by everyone, he would please most of the people most of the time. Mr. Spencer said that a minister was called to lead his congregation in worship and to serve God, and then went on to describe the necessity of worship for man, as found in the hidden records of the earth for thousands of years. He stressed also that the church was necessary to remind man of his human limitations and his dependence upon God.

Concluding, the speaker appealed for the congregation to make friends with the minister and his family. The manse can be a lonely place, he said, unless fellowship was evident, and asked that church members give all the companionship that is needed to those in the pastorate.

The induction service was led by the Rev. Harvey Campbell, after the Rev. Mr. Spencer had recalled the steps pertaining to the calling of the Rev. Wilson Bridge. The new minister pronounced the benediction.

Formerly a minister of the Congregational Church in Britain, the Rev. Wilson Bridge came to Lachute from Andover, N.B., where he has spent the past two years. . . During the last war, he was termed "the shelter padre" because of his sympathetic work and leadership during the blitz days of London, England.

After the service, the congregation and friends adjourned to the church hall, where refreshments were served by the Young Women's Auxiliary.

Bible Study Course

A Bible Study course to be given by the Rev. Dr. W. Harold Reid will be held this fall in the Presbyterian Church at Brownsburg. The course will start on October 15, being continued on Thursdays from 8 to 9 p.m. for about 10 weeks.

A detailed study of Paul's Epistle to the Galatians will be taken up; this is a small book but one of his greatest epistles, that sets forth the "Charter of Christian Freedom". All interested will be welcome to attend.

Rev. Garfield Bruce To Be Inducted at Brownsburg United

The Montreal Presbytery of the United Church of Canada was arranged for the induction of the new minister of the Brownsburg United Church, the Rev. Garfield W. Bruce, to take place next Tuesday, at 8 p.m.

Executives and other members of the Montreal-Ottawa conference will be attending, one of whom will preach the sermon.

The Rev. Mr. Bruce comes to Brownsburg from Tatamagouche, N.S., where he served for six years. The other 13 years of his ministry were spent in the Maritimes.

Members and friends of the congregation are cordially invited to attend this service. A social evening will be spent afterwards, when light refreshments will be served.

Co-incidence on Sermon Theme

CORRESPONDENCE TO THE EDITOR

Editor, Lachute Watchman

Dear Sir:

After the evening service on Sunday (October 3) I mentioned to the choir conductor of the United Church that I had been moved to write a piece based upon the passage the Rev. Mr. Bridge had spoken from in Luke's Gospel (chap. 10: 38-42). As I had written this hymn on October first, two ministers of the United Church, who were absolute strangers to each other, had evidently been moved to meditate at the same time on the incident recorded in that portion of the Bible — and that though they were separated by over 1,500 miles, with no earthly reason for choosing this portion.

I do not suppose the sermon will be sent to you for publication, although it was worthy of a place in your columns, but I am sending for your readers what I was moved to write here in Lachute. I hope you will have space for it as the idea should be impressed upon our hearts.

Yours sincerely,
— (Rev.) Arch. Penman

SITTING AND LISTENING

Suggested by Luke 10: 38-42.

Tune, "Standing on the Promises"

1—Sitting at the feet of Christ, as Mary did,
We believe our hearts from sin will soon be rid,
Then our life will in Almighty God be hid,
Sitting at the feet of Christ, the Lord.

Chorus:
Sitting, sitting, sitting at the feet of Christ, the souls desire,
Listening, listening, we're longing that our hearts be filled with fire.

2—When He sweetly speaks about His Father's love,
Something in the stubborn heart begins to move,
Sitting at the feet of Christ, the Lord.

3—Some day in the Glory-Land we all can be,
From the toils and cares of earth completely free,
There the shining multitudes we now may see,
Sitting at the feet of Christ, the Lord.

— Rev. Arch. D. Penman.

(Eph. 5: 14, N.W.)

There is great need for all persons to be awake to the sign of the times. Bible prophecies are being fulfilled by events occurring in the earth during this generation. The mission of the Awake! magazine is to present information in the light of God's Word that will provoke and stimulate thought on current affairs. With courage Awake! slices into the thick darkness of falsehood and misinformation that covers a great many subjects affecting the destiny of millions of people. It follows the precept that the truth is beneficial to all, and it endeavors to present the truth so that those who sleep under the burden of old-world propaganda may be awakened to the seriousness of these times. During October Jehovah's witnesses everywhere will offer Awake! from house to house on a subscription basis of $1 a year (24 issues), with three booklets free. Laurentide League Bid for Entry in Organized Baseball

Prospects Look Good For 'Acceptance With Class "C" Rating

Chances of the Laurentide League moving into organized baseball next year look very good, according to Dr. Alfred Cherrier, president of the League, who discussed the matter with George Trautman, Commissioner of Minor League Baseball, while the latter was in Montreal recently for the Little World Series.

Trautman assured Dr. Cherrier the Laurentide League had a very good chance of being accepted with a class "C" rating.

Dr. Cherrier made application for a berth in organized baseball earlier this year and the matter is scheduled to come up at the Minor League's meeting in December. All seven teams in the Laurentide League are behind the move.

This would put them in the same classification as the Provincial League and pave the way for a Quebec World Series between the two leagues. The Laurentide League would not interfere with the Provincial League, as they are in entirely different districts.

If accepted into organized baseball, the the Laurentide League would probably draw aid from major clubs in the United States in the way of sponsorship. It would also be a big step in cutting down outlaw ball and would also serve to keep the Laurentide teams' payrolls within the minor league scale.

Veteran Baseballer Takes Curtain Bow

SPORTS CAMERA

By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In the uproar over the recent World Series, when Yankees downed Dodgers for their fifth straight title, you may have missed the story of a grand old competitor passing from the playing ranks of major league baseball.

Early this season at the advanced age of 43, Emil (Dutch) Leonard appeared to be settling down for quite a stay with the Chicago Cubs. The veteran pitcher was in his fourth season with the Cubs after previous major-league stops with Washington Senators, Brooklyn Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies.

Leonard was handed his release by the seventh-place Cubs just as the World Series got under way. He goes to pasture with a lifetime record of 191 pitching triumphs in the majors.

Although he had lost the "live" stuff that made him a 20-game winner in 1939, Dutch still retained his famed knuckle ball which raised havoc with batters since he began his professional career with Mobile of the Southern Association in 1930.

The native of Auburn, Ill., was one of baseball's most exceptional physical specimens. He was in far better shape than some players who were many years younger, but his pitching skill had faded. The well-muscled 197-pounder had to move over for a crop of youngsters.

Leonard said his release didn't come as a surprise.

"The Cubs are talking about rebuilding for 1954. And where does a 43-year-old guy fit into a youth program?"

Knuckleball Expert

The old Dutchman fitted into a special category. In the past many managers had been reluctant to use a knuckleball hurler in relief. But Dutch showed terrific flashes of superb control.

As late as August he appeared in both ends of a double-header against Pittsburg Pirates and pitched scoreless ball in each game. In the opener he pitched two-thirds of an inning to protect a 9-5 lead. In the second game his three-inning stint preserved a 4-3 lead and gave the starting pitcher the victory.

A fierce competitor, Leonard averaged 10 victories a season for his 20 years in the majors. "I still think I can be a relief pitcher," he says. "I'm sure I can pitch well for three or four innings, three or four times a week."

Dutch played on six American League All-Star teams and was the winning pitcher in 1943 during his nine-year stay with Washington. That's where he had his best season — 20 wins and eight losses in 1939.

Fellow players claimed that his knuckleballs often broke so sharply that occasionally two catchers would warm him up — one backing up the other.

Eight Shakespeare Plays On CBC 'Wednesday Night'

By Andrew Allan

Beginning on October 21, CBC "Wednesday Night" will present the eight plays in Shakespeare's Chronicle Cycle of the deposition of Richard II and the long contention of the Houses of Lancaster and York for the English Crown.

Through almost a hundred years of stress and bloodshed, from the end of the 14th century until almost the end of the 15th, the Crown of England was in contention. Of seven kings, four died by violence. Why? Modern historians see in it the struggle for supremacy between King and Barons, the emergence of the Commons, the birth-pangs of nationalism. But to Shakespeare and the other Tudor writers the main thing in it all was that with the deposition of Richard II God's economy had been disturbed and nothing could be right again until that economy was restored.

Richard II was God's Anointed. He was a weak king, wayward and petulant, but he was God's Anointed. He sat the throne on the principle of legitimacy; and, no matter how bad a king he might be, it was not man's job to depose him: it was man's job to obey, God's job to depose if God wished to depose. But, if God did not depose, it was because Richard was intended as a punishment upon the realm for its sins.

Henry Bolingbroke deposed Richard, and (an even greater impiety) was responsible for Richard's death. Bolingbroke had every human reason for ridding the realm of Richard; and, as Henry IV, Bolingbroke was a good king. But the point was that through all his able but uneasy reign, beset by rebellion, Henry IV was not God's king and he knew it. And when his son, the warrior king, Henry V, prayed on the battlefield before Agincourt, he prayed that God would not visit the guilt of Richard's blood upon the English banners on the morrow.

By endless vigilance and effort Henry V (not the Barons' man but the People's man, a strength in English monarchs) might have established a kind of legitimacy for his kingship, but he died young and was succeeded by his infant son, Henry VI.

'Tis much when sceptres are in children's hands,
But more when envy breeds unkind division:
There comes the ruin, there begins confusion.

Envy, division, ruin, and confusion did then indeed reign; because a crown which has been got by impiety can be taken away without impiety. The son became a studious and saintly man, but he was not God's man, and the Wars of the Roses were his legacy. And, although there was more than a smack of legitimacy about Edward IV, who gained the throne at St. Albans, he was not God's man either: he was Warwick's man — and whom Warwick proposed he could with equal ease depose. Why Edward or his ill-starred princelings more than Richard, Duke of Gloucester? And so the Crookback Duke, claiming the popular will, waded through blood to the throne which he could maintain only with blood.

By this time where was God's man? Through the intricacies of succession he was Henry Tudor, Earl of Richmond; and, on Bosworth field, the hacked body of Richard III at his feet, Henry by the legitimacy in his own proper person, became Henry VII and in that moment stilled a century of tumult. To make assurance doubly sure, he married the one princess whose claim might have confounded his, Elizabeth of York. The Rose of Lancaster and the Rose of York blended to become the Rose of Tudor. Blessed with this legitimacy, Henry added the two things yet needed: popularity and strength. And his son, that expert propagandist, Henry VIII, by the dawn of Elizabeth's Age, had established secure the Tudor myth which Shakespeare has perpetuated in his Chronicle Plays.

The Elizabethans had a high conception of order and degree in the universe — in things seen and unseen, in the heavens and on earth. All things had their place in the divine economy. The bloody contention of Lancaster and York — touched off by intereference in God's plan — might obscure the plan for a time but could never obliterate it. Order must return, as return it did. The plays were not written in the sequence in which they are performed, the chronological sequence; but they have their unity because the grand theme was clear in the mind of Shakespeare, a citizen of his Age. The theme was the long trudge back to God's economy.

Second CBC-TV Outlet For Montreal

Plans to establish a second television transmitter in Montreal before the end of this year have been announced by R. P. Landry, CBC director for the Province of Quebec.

Mr. Landry said that the CBC has placed an order with RCA Victor for the necessary transmitter, and that broadcasting can start within a few weeks of its delivery. It is hoped the transmitter will be operating sometime in December.

Space for the new equipment was provided within the present CBC transmitter building on Mount Royal at the time of construction. The present television mast was also designed to accommodate a second television antenna.

The new installation will mean separate language transmissions for viewers within the Montreal area, a need which has become increasingly apparent over the past year. The two CBC stations will share studios and other production facilities.

French-language programs will continue to originate in Montreal. English programs originating in Montreal will be supplemented by the CBC television network service.

The hula dance is not native of Hawaii, according to an article in Reader's Digest, but was brought there by the Tahitians when they conquered the Hawaiian Islands centuries ago. The hula of Hawaii today is a very mild version of the original hula of Tahiti — a traditional dance which missionaries have not been able to change.

Fabulous Jack Arthur

The story of showbusiness, from days over 50 years ago to the present, and covering the wacky days of Mississippi showboats, vaudeville, the Jazz Age, burlesque and the name dance bands, is told in the CBC series, "Mr. Showbusiness" on Trans-Canada network every week. The programs are based on the personal experiences of that fabulous showman, Jack Arthur, who does the narration. With him is Howard Cable and his orchestra, and a host of top singers and actors. Arthur now produces the Canadian National Exhibition's extravagant grandstand show each year, attended by over 20,000 persons at each performance, a terrific task which serves as a fitting climax to a great man's long career. Here he talks to dancer Janet Macrae, on the CNE set.

FREE CIRCUS DAILY FOR LUCKY CHILDREN

Malvern, Ont. (CP) — Every day is circus day for youngsters in this community some 15 miles northeast of Toronto.

Each day hundreds of children flock to a nearby farm where they can watch elephants, lions, monkeys, dancing bears and horses cavorting.

The farm, owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Garden, provides winter quarters for the animals who tour with the show through the United States and Canada during the summer.

Twice each day trainers Charlotte Walsh and Joe Hartman put their 12 bears and other animals through a 30-minute routine especially for neighborhood children who line the farm fences.

Mr. Garden, a circus operator since 1938, does not mind the daily visits by the young fans. As a matter of fact he says he is planning to build a playground for the youngsters.

Some $6,000,000 worth of zippers are made each year in Canada.

Women's Interests -- The Homemaker's Section

Grades of Butter

Every consumer knows that creamery butter is sold in Canada by grade, for they are familiar with the grade mark on the wrapper. There are three grades of butter, first and second grade and third grade, the most important factor in governing the grade is the flavor. Flavor tells the story to the butter grader. Butter is also graded for moisture, aroma, saltiness and texture. This is the story of how butter is graded as told by the home economists of the Consumer Section. Before grading butter, the grader always avoids smoking and the eating of strong flavored food in order that his senses of taste and smell will stay sharp. He starts his job by first checking the boxes the butter is packed in. The boxes must be new ones and must be made of special wood. Incidentally butter is packed in 56 pound boxes in the creamery and is made up into pound blocks later. The boxes cannot be dirty or damaged and they must have the proper markings as required by the Canada Dairy Products Act. While the grader is checking the boxes, he looks at the butter to see that it has been neatly packed in the boxes and he also looks at the surface to see if there is any discoloration or mould growth on the butter. If there is any mould growth whatsoever, the butter is immediately graded below 3rd grade. The next procedure is to insert a long hollow implement called a "trier" into a block of butter. He draws out a sample plug from within the block. When he has pulled out the sample plug, he examines the butter to see if the moisture in it is well dispersed throughout. The moisture should be distributed in small droplets throughout the butter and no free moisture should show on the surface.

Then the grader smells the butter very carefully, for by its taste and smell he can tell if good quality cream has been used in making it. Speaking of cream, it is interesting to know that creamery butter must contain not less than 80 per cent milk fat and it must be milk fat, no other fat is allowed, and not more than 16 per cent water. To bring that down to figures that homemakers will understand, in each pound of butter there is a quart of whipping cream.

After the grader has become thoroughly acquainted with the aroma of the butter, he tastes it to see if the taste corresponds with the smell. While tasting, he also checks to see if the salt in the butter has been dissolved. If it has not been thoroughly dissolved, there may be a slight sandiness to the texture. Next, the grader places a sample of the butter in a bottle and sends it to the Dairy Research Division, at Ottawa. Here the butter will be checked for moisture, mould growth, butter fat content and salt. Then the grader places a portion of the "sample plug" back in the butter, in order the seal the hole made by the "trier". That is the story of how butter is graded. The grader has a grading score card with maximum and minimum scores allotted to flavor, texture, moisture, color, salting and packing. Butter that scores a total of 92 points or over with minimum score of 39 points for flavor ranks as first grade butter. Second grade butter must score a minimum of 87 points with not less than 37 points for flavor, and third grade less than 87 points.

When thinking of butter, one thing which comes to mind is cookies, for what better ingredient for making luscious cookies than our own fine quality Canadian butter. Ice box cookies are a staple with many homemakers. They like to have a feeling that when they have two or three rolls of this rich cookie dough stored in the refrigerator, they can pop a pan of cookies in the oven at a moments' notice.

The home economists suggest that with just a little imagination a homemaker can dress up these regular standbys to give them a festive air. For instance, if double the recipe is prepared, the dough can be divided into three or four parts. To one part may be added some chopped candied cherries, to the second part, some finely chopped chocolate and to the third and fourth part, finely grated orange peel or cocoanut, or finely chopped dates. If each part is wrapped separately, when it comes to cooking them, a few cookies of each type may be baked and there will be no lack of quantity or variety. For a fancy cookie this dough may be shaped into long fingers and as soon as it is baked and cooled, one end may be dipped in chocolate icing and the other end either left as it or dipped in white or pink icing.

Let's Eat

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"Many foods taste so tame, madame, they have no appetite appeal," declared the chef. "It is for these foods, or for those that are dry, that a good sauce is what you call 'a must.' By this, I do not mean plain white sauce, which in my opinion belongs in nursery meals, but a zippy sauce, with verve and flair."

"But every homemaker can't be a 'saucier,' chef. She hasn't the knowledge or the time."

Ideas from Escoffier

"She may not be a trained 'saucier,' madame, but she can learn how to make many sauces.

"Par example, if the ladies will only spend a few hours studying a cook book of Escoffier, that greatest of all chefs, and which is in public libraries, they will get many fine ideas. And, of course, with your permission I will occasionally include my own special sauce recipes in this column."

Line Up New Colors For U.K. Fashions

London (CP) — Thirty-three colors are shown in the ranges for woollens sponsored by the British Color Council for the next two seasons. Neutral shades are still fashionable but have more life in them, as the new rose-tinted chocolate and briar brown show.

The colors for silk and rayon are closely related to the wool shades. For instance, Clarence rose (one of the three colors chosen by Princess Margaret as patron of the British Color Council) has its correlated shade in wool and the same may be said of the royal blue and ambassador blue, the other two colors chosen by the Princess to commemorate the coming royal tour to Australia.

The knitwear card shows 10 colors, again chosen to blend or contrast with the main wool range. These, including crescent gold, mistletoe (green), Pacific emerald, blush rose and garter blue, are designed for knitwear, sportswear and both machine-knit and hand-knit goods.

Important now in a woman's wardrobe is the smart cotton dress.

There is a continued demand for stronger colors for cotton as well as the need for more subtle colors for use in the type of elegant dress which a woman will wear for semi-formal occasions.

This sort of gown was brought into the limelight by the Duchess of Kent during her Malaya tour early this year. She chose a number of dresses from the ready-made range of Horrockses Fashions Limited of London, and had them slightly modified, with the result that women realized how elegant they could be with the right accessories.

Refrigerator interiors should be cleaned at least once a month, using a cellulose sponge dipped in a lukewarm solution of borax. Scald metal ice trays occasionally with boiling water to which a little bicarbonate of soda has been added.

Booklet on Garment Fabrics and Their Care

Some excellent advice on the proper selection and care of fabrics and garments is contained in a booklet "Facts You Should Know About Clothing" issued by the Better Business Bureau.

The pamphlet stresses the proper use of fabrics, proper finishing of garments and discusses stains and ways and means of treating them. Here are some excerpts.

"In most purchases of clothing, you may depend on honest quality by manufacturers, the marvelous accomplishments in textiles.

"Textile fabrics do not have absolute perfection. All materials and fabrics have their own characteristics or peculiarities. . . If we understand them, we can buy more wisely and get more satisfaction out of our purchases.

"An article is serviceable when it gives reasonable use or wear with reasonable care, for the purpose intended.

"Garment construction also effects serviceability. Poor construction might easily outweigh other qualities.

"Proper size and fit are important for comfort and serviceability. Size and fit are different. 'Fit' refers to personal body shape, contour and characteristics.

"Delicate fabrics cannot be expected to stand the strain of improper size and fit.

"There are numerous conditions which, separately or in combination, may affect color — light or sunlight, washing, dry cleaning, perspiration, pressing, stain removal, atmospheric gasses, and others.

"Shrinkage is a natural characteristic in certain fabrics, and a manufactured characteristic in some others, and shrinkable may occur even in expert treatment, but more seriously with careless handling."

The booklet deals in detail with stain treatment, dry cleaning and wet cleaning and is concluded with a chapter advising that wear often depends on care.

The youngest children are the most vulnerable to disease, warns the Health League of Canada. Infants should be immunized against whooping cough, diphtheria, lockjaw and smallpox by the time they are six months old. And booster doses should be administered during pre-school and school years in order to keep their guard up against these notorious killers.

Broadcasts of Interest To W. Inst. Members

Broadcasts of special interest to Women's Institute members are begining. These will be heard on Trans-Canada Matinee at the regular period, Mondays, 2.30 p.m., and the talks will be given by women of different countries.

The speakers taking part are all members of the Associated Country Women of the World, the old international organization of rural women in the world, which recently held the seventh triennial conference in Toronto.

Living conditions in areas as far apart as Ceylon and Canada will be described and the last two programs in the series will present excerpts from two of the prize-winning essays on "The Rural Home". This was a world-wide competition held by the ACWW and the first prize was won by Mrs. Laura Penttinen of Finland. Mrs. Leigh DeLong of Queen's County, Nova Scotia, was also among the prize winners, so the series will wind up with a talk on the interests and activities of a Canadian farm woman.

Much Can Be Done For Hay Fever Victims

Since hay fever, unless it is treated by injections, is apt to last 10 or 20 years and even longer, with ashma always prone to appear, early medical treatment of the condition is worthwhile, notes Dr. C. Collins-Williams in an article in the Health League of Canada's magazine "Health".

"During the first season of hay fever, a child is usually thought to be suffering from a cold", the Toronto paediatrician explains. "However, the symptoms do not respond to the usual treatment for a cold, and when this same type of "cold" develops at the same season of the next year the true diagnosis usually becomes apparent."

Once hay fever has been diagnosed, what can be done about it? — If the hay fever is treated only by drugs capable of giving temporary relief, the patient has about a 50 per cent chance of developing ashma later. To give permanent help he must be skin-tested to determine the substances which are responsible for his symptoms and then must receive injections of minute amounts of these substances in order to build up immunity to them.

Some physicians prefer to give these injections for several months before the "season" each year, others to give them the year round. Whichever method is adopted, it takes a few years to obtain complete relief of symptoms, though partial relief should be noted the first season.

"If you have an allergic child, do not be discouraged", concludes Dr. Collins-Williams. "Whatever allergy he suffers from a great deal can be done to help him. There is a good chance that he can be given such complete relief that he can lead a normal or almost normal life. If he does not do this well, at least he can be helped a great deal.

"With patience and proper care you can either relieve him completely or enable him to live relatively happily with his disease, instead of turning him into a chronic invalid."

Adolescent Acne

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"My pimples are awful!" Sally exclaimed. "I hate to see them when I look in the mirror!" Her mother looked at her impatiently, "I've told you again and again to leave your face alone" she reproached. "If it was a serious infection I would take you to the doctor." — "You think he'd laugh at my complexion! But pimples are no joke to the person who has them!"

* * *

What can teen age boys or girls afflicted with poor complexions do to improve their appearance? At this self-conscious age, it is of utmost importance to their self-confidence that they look as attractive as possible — particularly to the other sex.

If a teen ager has a severe case of acne (or skin trouble) he should lose no time in seeking expert advice from a doctor — and then follow his instructions to the letter. But if pimples and blackheads are an occasional "headache", then an adolescent can use common sense in tackling this handicap.

The "sweet tooth", which dentists deplore, is at the root of many complexion upsets. The clear condition of the skin has a direct relation to a simple, well-balanced diet. Chocolate, rich foods such as pastries and nuts eaten in excess, frequently result in an outbreak of pimples.

"What is one man's food is another man's poison" and so there is no one sure diet sheet for every acne sufferer. If this is a sore point for the teen ager in your home, encourage him to do some experimenting in food selection. See if he will follow a strict regime for a fortnight, avoiding chocolate in any form — icings, milk shakes, sundaes or candy. Fat foods such as "French Frieds" should be shunned too.

At the same time the consumption of plenty of fresh fruit and vegetables, and drinking an abundance of water will prevent constipation. This is frequently a contributing factor in skin eruptions. Fruit juice, celery and carrot sticks, frozen fruit juice cubes colored with vegetable coloring, are good "between meal" snacks.

An understanding of the basic reasons for complexion defects are helpful in overcoming them. An adolescent wants to know why he and so many of his chums are plagued by acne.

At puberty the sabaceous glands of the skin are apt to become overactive producing a greasy product. If this collects underneath the skin, instead of being thrown off, a reddish area on the face appears. Frequently this symptom is followed by a "head" of yellowish pus. Unfortunately, an ugly pimple may leave a tiny scar.

A daily rigorous cleansing routine can do wonders to get rid of this undesirable greasy material on the skin's surface. Two or three times a day a bland soap should be used. Scrub the face with a wash cloth. Rinse with cold water to close the pores. Frequent showers and tub baths are also desirable, especially after exercise.

Boys sometimes appear to be more troubled with acne than girls. But they are not empted to apply a foundation cream for a powder base! The last thing a girl should do is to use a greasy cream on her skin if she is bothered by pimples or blackheads.

Warm soapy water will often loosen blackheads. A tiny "blackhead remover" may be purchased at a drug store. This should be sterilized by boiling each time before using it. It is less apt to injure the surrounding tissue when taking out a blackhead than the usual method of squeezing with the fingers. If a blackhead is stubborn and will not come out, do not continue to work on it. Pat the afflicted area with alcohol after treating it.

The best thing to do with pimples is to leave them strictly alone! Resist the urge to squeeze them! Let Nature pursue her own healing process. Sometimes an antiseptic salve or lotion, used in moderation, appears to help this condition. But to get rid of it, requires patient vigilance.

Acne is a teen-age hurdle for many adolescents but only rarely does it persist into the twenties. This may be small comfort, to the miserable sufferer from pimples and blackheads. But like many other ills of the flesh, it does disappear in time! Disciplined eating and faithful cleansing not only help to cure it but may prevent further outbreaks. They are well worth trying!

Establish Research Fund For Obstetrics and Gynaecology

Toronto — The establishment of a research fund for the Department of Obstetrics and Gynaecology is announced by the officials of Dominion Stores Limited and the Faculty of Medicine of the University of Toronto.

The $25,000 initially contributed will enable the Department of Obstetrics and Gynaecology to carry out programs of research and teaching, the need for which has long been apparent. The benefits of this fund will be passed on to the entire Canadian public through lives saved by discoveries made in the field of research and by improved teaching of obstetrics and gynaecology.

Since the Department of Obstetrics and Gynaecology was established in 1912 it has earned for itself an enviable reputation through its research program and techniques that have been developed as a result.

"In establishing this research fund we believe that we are assisting a branch of medicine that is extremely important, but that has not received the recognition it is due", J. William Horsey, president of Dominion Stores Limited, said, in announcing the fund.

A NUMBER of ancient English churches are replacing their equally ancient roofs with aluminum. One of these is the Chapel of St. James in the village of Nether Warton, Oxfordshire. Its lead roof, originally laid in 1665, brought £478 as scrap — enough to pay the whole cost of installing the new roof.

It is a neat example of how, while most metals have been getting more expensive through the centuries, the cost of aluminum has been going down. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan)

THOUGHTS AND DEEDS

Specially Contributed
By M. V. Trayers

When Milton wrote, "They also serve who only stand and wait", I wonder if he felt the adjective making so light of the action was really justified. Why ONLY stand and wait? Can there be any action so tiring and depressing as standing and waiting? . . . Waiting. It is such a simple, disarming little word, conveying, as it does, an atmosphere of peace, patience and virtuous resignation. It suggests the humility of quiet submission and human faith in the future of things. It adds dignity to the individual and gives point to his existence and ultimate end. But what an amount of damage it does in the process!

Waiting outside a sick room and fearing the worst. Waiting for the evening newsboy who screams his way through the streets and has completely disappeared by the time you get to the door. Waiting to make up your mind on the question of whether to go and get a thing or wait for it. Waiting for the postman to deliver a letter with the expected cheque and fearing a bill. Waiting for the jury to come out and the foreman to say "Not Guilty" or — . Waiting for a telephone call on a party line. Waiting for the doctor's report. Waiting and burning up energy faster than a soured appetite can put it back. Well what are we waiting for?

Coming home late the other night I met an old man sitting on the steps outside a restaurant. He appeared as if he had seen better days and was quietly contemplating the last of them. Feeling compassion, I asked him what he was doing there? And he replied, "I'm waiting for the last bus!"

Thinking Back

There is a sound reason for everything if we could only find it. Einstein put this thought in a much more beautiful way when he said, "God is mysterious but never mischievous". Sometimes when we read a banner headline in our daily newspaper, or feel our pulse beat quicker when we hear a radio news-flash, we are apt to accept the surface evidence in a mentally-lazy desire "not to be bothered". Sometime later, in retrospect, quite frequently we see things in an altogether different light.

Recently we had the Communist Beria escaping from his God-despising captors; we felt a little thrill, if not of sympathy, for Beria, a kind of satisfaction at the chagrin of his masters. Now, when we think back, what were we so pleased about? . . . You remember Captain Carlsen's heroic efforts to salvage his ship. It still remains an epic of the sea and a proud memorial to the men who command ships; but now the whole thing takes on a new significance. The Flying Enterprise was lying over at an impossible angle and on either side lay an American destroyer. One of the reputed largest tugs in the world was towing the stricken ship to a port that was the farthest away, or the least accessible, of three. Disregarding all the extra hazards of weather and currents for no apparent reason, and the longer run to the port of Torquay — while the port of Cork, so easily approachable and under the lee of the southern coastline, was "wide open"; and the French port of Brest, with favorable currents and weather advantage and a French tug standing by, offering its own inducements. It seemed stupid, but now there appears to be a sound reason for the action. It was not so much the salvaging of the ship. Nor was it to set the stage for Carlsen to prove his mettle. It was something of a "Top Secret". It's on the cards that Carlsen did not know of its existence. Suppose he had abandoned ship. The unoccupied wreck would be at the mercy of the first tow-rope and its "Top Secret" no longer safe. The heroic Carlsen shed tears when he saw his ship sliding under; but those whose duty it was to guard its secret, must have heaved a sigh of relief.

The Builder

An old man, treading the lone highway,
Came on an evening cold and grey
To a chasm dark and deep and wide.
The old man crossed in the twilight dim;
The sullen stream had no fears for him;
But he turned when safe on the other side
And builded a bridge to span the tide.
"My friend", said a pilgrim passing near
"You are wasting your strength when you are building here;
Your journey will end with the close of day.
You never again will pass this way.
You've crossed the chasm deep and wide.
Why build this bridge at the evening tide?
The old man lifted his hoary head.
"Good friend, in the path I've come", he said,
"There followed after me today,
A youth who must later pass this way.
This chasm that meaneth naught to me,
To that fair haired youth a danger be,
He, too, must cross in the twilight dim.
Good friend, I am building this bridge for him!"

Appeal for Food Donations For Orange Prot. Home At Rosemere, Que.

Once again the L.O.B.A. 943 are issuing their annual appeal to the farmers and citizens of Argenteuil County for donations of food for the Orange Home at Rosemere, Que.

This Home is kept up by donations sent to the Home Committee by various organizations and individuals. Every fall its supporters hold what is called "Pound Day", which this year is being held October 24. On this day it is aimed to supply the Home with potatoes, vegetables and canned foods, etc., for the winter months.

There are 17 children now at the Home. Six of these are from Argenteuil County. It can be well imagined how much food it takes to provide for so many children. The little inmates range in age from 3 to 12 years.

If any readers feel they could spare a bag of potatoes or vegetables, or some of that good food they canned from their garden, anything in the line of edibles that children might like — please advise the Orange ladies before October 24, and such donations will be gladly accepted.

The L.O.B.A. wishes to thank all who have generously donated in the past, and it is hoped that this year the appeal will go over bigger and better than before.

Any who wish to donate something to this worthy cause, kindly telephone 359, Lachute.

FALSE ALARM

London (CP) — Two fire engines, a police car and an ambulance hurried to rescue a boy, reported trapped up a tree. Nine-year-old Patricia Thompson admitted on their arrival that she had been so excited in summoning help that she had said "boy" instead of "cat".

Job Security for The Older Man

"Community, employers, and older workers themselves have to revise their ideas about when old age begins and when a man, or woman, ought to consider it's time to knock off work for good and take it easy", writes J. B. McGeachy, associate editor of The Globe and Mail, in the current issue of "Health". "We are living much longer lives than we used to — thanks to health laws, medical science, a good diet and other causes — and it stands to reason that a longer lifespan should mean a longer work-span, with benefit to both the individual and society."

Mr. McGeachy quotes Dr. A. J. Carlson, an authority on industrial health, on the principle that rates of pay for older workers, past the peak of their productive power but still able to contribute to the economy, should be adjusted to meet the realities of this situation. The formula suggested would provide mximum pay for the fully adult worker whose skill, strength, experience and endurance are at or near the maximum; and a somewhat lower pay for younger men who haven't arrived at that maximum and for the older men who have fallen below it.

"I suppose that a plan of that sort, applied in any business or industry, would have to be arbitrary in defining age groups — let us say, top pay from 30 to 60, somewhat lower rates before 30 and after 60 — and that would be unfair to some exceptionally up-and-coming young men and to some exceptionally durable older men", continues the Health League of Canada magazine article. "But we can't have perfect justice in this highly mechanized world — rough justice is the best we can hope for. This formula certainly corresponds to the known facts about human nature and human physique; and perhaps it points the way to job security for the older man."

Mme. Pandit Takes Over as Assembly President

The meetings of the United Nations General Assembly will now come to order when Mme. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, of India, raps the gavel. The new president of the eighth session is shown receiving the gavel from retiring president, Lester B. Pearson of Canada. United Nations' Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld looks on.

Emotion Headaches Not Often Serious

When something bothers a turtle, he pulls his head into his shell; and when something bothers a human, he frequently pulls his head into an ache.

"The emotional, fidgety person, besieged by worry, anxieties, and fatigue, often suffers from headaches", writes Dr. Noah D. Fabricant in a publication of the American Medical Association. "In many instances he is not aware of the underlying difficulty responsible for precipitating the head pain.

"The human being similarly can be thrown off balance by emotions such as hate, hostility, anger, rage, resentment, jealousy and suspicion. Professional men, business executives and white-collar workers are vulnerable to psychogenic headaches, which are likely to put in an appearance at the end of a trying day."

Headaches of such emotional origin rarely interfere with work, play, or sleep, and they are usually relieved by a nap or a pain-killing tablet. Such headaches, according to Dr. Fabricant, may go on for years without seriously impairing vigor or wellbeing.

...and discover why
More people buy Chevrolets than any other car

You're "sitting pretty" when you get behind the wheel
First thing you'll notice is the quality of the interior. Rich-looking upholstery and appointments — color-matched to the exterior color. Chevrolet, you know, has the world-famous Body by Fisher — and you can certainly tell the difference in workmanship!

You'll find you get more power on less gas
Chevrolet's two great valve-in-head engines are high-compression engines. In Powerglide* models, you get the most powerful engine in Chevrolet's field — the new 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame." Gearshift models offer you the new 108-h.p. "Thrift-King" engine.

You'll discover it's the lowest-priced line
Chevrolet offers just about everything you could want. Yet it's the lowest-priced line in the low-price field. You can be ahead in every way with a new Chevrolet!
*Combination of Powerglide automatic transmission and 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine optional on "Two-Ten" and Bel Air models at extra cost.

You can even get Power Steering
You ought to try Power Steering to see how easy driving can be. Even standing still, you can spin the wheel with one finger! Yet there's nothing new to learn and you actually have safer control under all conditions. It's optional, of course, at extra cost.

You get greater getaway with the new Powerglide*
With Powerglide automatic transmission, you're automatically in "low" range for standing starts and for quick passing in city traffic. Then — automatically again — you slip smoothly into "cruising" range as you pick up speed.

Jumbo-Drum brakes give you smoother, easier stops
You'll feel safe and secure with these greatly improved Chevrolet brakes under your foot. An easy nudge on the brake pedal brings smooth, positive response—right now! With their 11-inch drums, Chevrolet brakes are extra large for extra safety.

College Street To Be Partly Closed To Motor Traffic During Winter

If revenues are received as estimated, and expenses for the months of July to December do not exceed the first six months of the year, the town surplus will be $11,143.14 as compared with the estimated surplus of $3,143.14 shown in the original budget — according to Miss Delaney, C.A., in charge of auditing the books for the Town of Lachute. Miss Delaney is an employee of J. A. Bonnier and Co., Chartered Accountants. All Council members were present at the adjourned meeting last Wednesday, with the exception of Aldermen E. Pollock and W. S. MacKimmie.

Among numerous recommendations the auditors made to the Council was that every purchase made by anyone should be accompanied by a signed order, and that the merchants should not give out any merchandise without this order; that the Council have a stock room so they can buy necessary materials ahead of time and have them on hand; and that the Council eliminate three savings accounts from the seven bank accounts.

"We are prepared to adopt a new system as to the preparation of the general ledger free of charge in order to facilitate auditing of the books in future years. It is the same system as used by numerous small towns and many larger cities", said Miss Delaney.

Water Supply Worse

Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur thanked the auditors; he stated that he was prepared to talk on the proposed waterworks system for several hours, but as time was short, he would only comment on the report presented to him by the Provincial Health Department regarding the town and district water supply. "As time passes, pollution increases and we all know that very soon we are going to have to install a new waterworks system and intake. The main point of this is — are we going to go half way to the Lake and have poor water, or go all the way and have better water? The bacteria count from Lake Sir John to the actual intake is getting fearfully high, and for that reason alone, I feel that there is no other solution but to go to the Lake with our intake and in that way, spend money that will be more profitable to the citizens of Lachute and surrounding communities which get their water supply from us", said Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur. The report on the increase in bacteria is based on the Milton Hershey Report prepared on March 26, 1930, and compared with a September 1, 1953, report prepared by the Provincial Health Department.

The subject of the caretaker, tabled from the previous meeting, was brought up again when Aurele Chevrier, not in attendance at the meeting, tendered his resignation as a town employee through the secretary-treasurer, A. Laurin. It was approved and, after further discussion, it was decided that there would be no official caretaker. Mr. Larocque, hired by the Council two months ago, will look after the Auditorium, Town Hall and Memorial Park, and will be under the supervision of the secretary-treasurer. If he needs additional help, this will be obtained from Jos. Senecal, town foreman, who will assign a man to assist him.

The mayor and secretary-treasurer were authorized to purchase a lot from Roland Lamarche for the sum of $1. for the prolongation of Charles Street from Ayers siding to Hamford Street. The said lot is opposite the Dominion Shuttle Company's plant.

Discussion was heard on a new Valuation Roll which the Council contemplates having prepared by experts. The new roll, if adopted, will be set at the present-day value of 100%, whereas the present roll is only 46% of the present value. This is based on a survey made for the School Valuation Rolls and prepared by Lobley and Wanklin assessors. The taxable value in town according to the present roll is $5,760,750, and non-taxable, such as churches and schools, $1,192,025

A letter was presented from Roger Legault, of Fairway Sales and Service, Bethany Road, requesting fire protection. Mr. Legault stated that he has an insurance policy to the amount of $250 to pay costs of the fire brigade in event of a fire. The Council directed the secretary-treasurer to write Mr. Legault asking proof of existence of the policy in question, from the Company holding the policy, before assuring him the requested fire protection.

Traffic and Sidewalk Problem

Discussion on the sidewalk, and pros and cons of a traffic island, at the corner of Mary, Robert and Main Street West, was continued from the previous meeting and the on-the-spot conference of the Council held at the site on Tuesday. Walker McArthur, when asked his opinion of the proper remedy, stated, "I will sell the property in question to the Council for the nominal fee of one dollar, but I don't think that you should cut my corner off. The solution to this would be to use the plan for the smaller corner." Later, on the idea of a traffic island at this site, he added, "I think that an island would solve the traffic problem, as it needs to be solved, but if the Council will install a traffic light, I will be quite satisfied."

Proper Flashers Obtainable

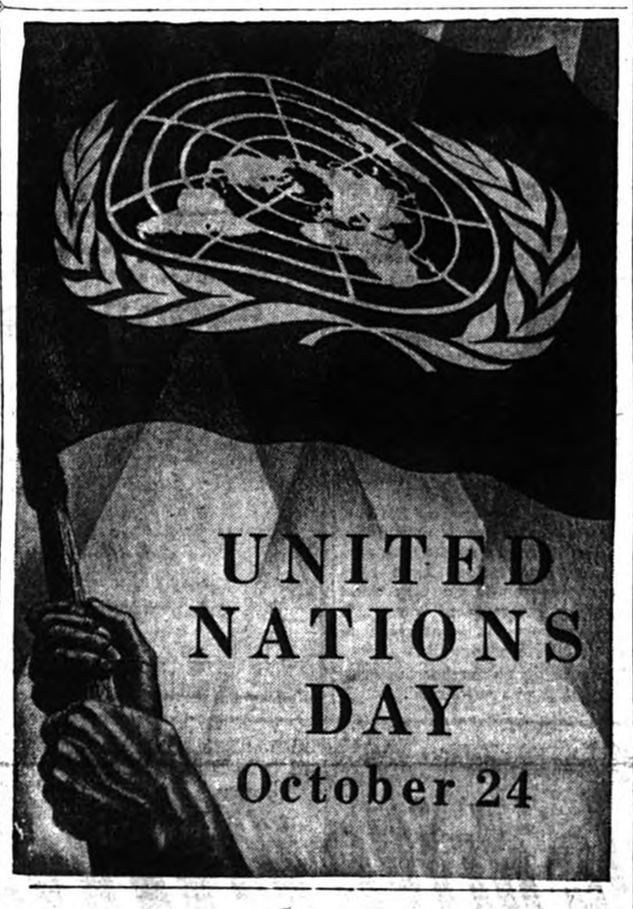

Police Chief Villeneuve stated that, in his opinion, four flashers would be necessary. "If installing lights", he said, "yellow flashers will be needed on both sides of Main Street, while both Robert and Mary Streets will need red flashers. I believe it would be possible

Agronomist and The Farmer—Topic On Nov. 2 Forum

Topic for discussion by the Farm Forum groups on November 2 will be "The Ag. Rep. (Agronomist) and the Farmer" — presenting the problem of the government agricultural worker in how best to serve the farmer.

In doing his work, the Agronomist faces certain problems.

How many farmers, or what farmers, should he try to reach?

In Massachusetts, a survey was made of the farm visits made by county agricultural agents. The agents called on farmers to give help and advice and to get their co-operation in demonstrations, meetings, and so on. The survey revealed, however, that the county agents visited 77 per cent of the large farms, but less than 40 per cent of the smaller ones. They visited 60 per cent of the more prosperous but only 25 per cent of the poorer farmers. They called on 56 per cent of the farmers with 20 years or more experience, but only on 21 per cent of those with five years' experience or less.

In other words, the younger, newer and poorer farmers received less attention than the well-established and more prosperous farmers.

Would a survey in a Canadian province reveal a similar situation?

Ag. Reps., or Agronomists, say that there are some farmers who are not interested in improving their methods, and it is hard to help them.

In some areas, the representatives complain that they are expected to help with, or hold office in, so many community organizations, that they don't have enough time for the work they should do.

A recent article in "The Maritime Co-operator" listed three main types of Ag. Rep.:

1—Those who develop leaders in community;

2—Those who do all the work and accept all the responsibility themselves;

3—Those who are complacent and satisfied that all is well.

Which of these three types is likely to be most helpful to the farmers?

Boy's 70-lb. Pumpkin For Jack o' Lantern

Grant Rogers, 12-year-old L.H.S. pupil and son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rogers, Lachute East, has no worries about finding a sizeable pumpkin for Hallowe'en.

A specimen grown by this lad from School Fair seed, and with no special care or nurturing, measures 64 inches in circumference and weighs 70 pounds.

Although somewhat heavy for Grant to handle, he has ideas for something really spectacular in a Hallowe'en jack o' lantern next week.

IGNORANCE AT HOME

Once in a while Canadians are moved to scorn for residents of the United States who appear to know little or nothing of Canada or things Canadian. Ignorance of things about Canada which should be common knowledge can be found, however, a great deal closer to home.

Agreement on Wage Increase Wilson Paper Co.

The management of J. C. Wilson Ltd. and their employees, through Local 437 of the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers, recently signed a new wage-scale agreement providing for three cents an hour increase, retroactive from May 1 to September 1 of this year, and an additional general increase of two cents an hour from September 1, 1953, to May 1, 1954.

Other provisions of the agreement are that employees with over 20 years' service with the company will have three weeks annual holiday, and an additional statutory holiday will be effective each year — making seven days of legal holidays instead of six.

Basic rate of pay in the local paper mills is $1 an hour. The company employs approximately 140 mill workers here, mostly men.

Marcel Malouin acted as mediator between the management and the employees, the latter being represented by Alfred Lambert. Officers of the workers' group, Local 437, are — Anselme Guenette, president; Gaetan Belanger, vice-president; Wilfrid Durocher, secretary.

Pitfalls Beset A Man's Estate, Topic Reveals

Eye-Opening Discourse On Wills, Inheritances, At Lions Club

There was an attendance of 35 members at the Lions Club meeting Tuesday evening in the Legion Hall, with Edward M. Jones presiding.

Thirteen local members had attended a Zone meeting in St. Lambert the previous evehing. Horace Lamarche gave a report on this session. A letter of greeting was read from a popular member on last year's roll, Dr. Florent Terriault, now removed to Montreal; also a letter from Lachute Red Cross, in appreciation of the Lions' valuable aid in the recent blood donor clinic.

Maurice Forget, the guest speaker, was introduced by Roger Regimbal. A man of wide international experience in military service and administrative work with United Nations departments, Mr. Forget is now assistant manager of the Royal Trust Company. He spoke with authority on the subject of Wills — leaving no doubt in the minds of his listeners that the making of a will is an essential safeguard in any man's affairs. It is paradoxical that many a good, well meaning citizen by utter neglect punishes — and tortures — on his death, those whom he cherished most in his lifetime. By dying intestate he may leave a "perfect hell" for his loved ones to remember him by. Too many put off, until it is too late, the making of a will — thus neglecting the security of those who "made life worth living".

Three principal reasons for making a will were specified by Mr. Forget: (1) In order to designate our heirs. (2) To designate who shall take over the assets and attend to the complex problem of settling the estate; in other words, the executors. (3) To continue, even after our death, to protect our family and our property.

In Quebec Province a will may be prepared in one of three legal forms, the speaker stated. (1) The holograph will, in personal handwriting, which requires no witness. (2) The typewritten will, derived from English law — duly signed in the presence of two disinterested witnesses. (3) The notarial will. Of these, the first two types require to be probated; in the third type, this is not required.

The speaker warned against "the home-made will", touching upon the loopholes and pitfalls which require the guidance of experienced advice. He explained the role of corporate executors, or trust companies, the scale of succession dues, the powers of trustees to invest, etc. — and in numerous questions following his formal address, he gave concise information on matters of particular interest to his listeners. Altogether it was an instructive and thought provoking topic. . . Mr. Forget was thanked by Dr. F. W. FitzGerald.

To help flood-stricken Scouts in the United Kingdom, Holland and Belgium, a total of $3,000 in cash has been sent overseas from the Canadian Scout Brotherhood Fund. Grateful acknowledgments have been received from the Scout Headquarters of the three countries concerned.

St. Jerome Plans "Blood Marathon"

The St. Jerome Red Cross Branch will launch a blood marathon next week. It is hoped to collect 750 bottles of blood during a three-day clinic scheduled to take place on October 27, 28 and 29.

All blood donors will be provided with entertainment, refreshments, as well as free transportation.

Red Cross authorities are confident that the marathon will be a huge success, as Hotel Dieu of St. Jerome is one of the 80 hospitals in Western Quebec benefitting by its free transfusion service.

84-Year-Old Woman Injured on Highway

An 84-year-old Angers, Que., resident, Mrs. Adrien Desjardins, was seriously injured when she was struck by a Hull car on Route 8, a short distance from her home. The victim is at present in St. Michael's Hospital, Buckingham.

The driver of the westbound car, Willy Perriard, of Hull, told police he sounded his horn twice and veered onto the soulder of the road, but was unable to avoid striking the woman.

Mrs. Desjardins was rushed to hospital by ambulance with a severed left arm.

MURDERED TAXI MAN, BOB TAYLOR, OLD CITIZEN HERE; FUNERAL AT B'BG

Had Lived for Past Two Years in Montreal; Victim of Vicious Attack by Young Thugs

Bob Taylor, 54, a well known former resident and taxi-driver at Brownsburg, died of injuries suffered in Montreal when he was beaten by thugs with an 18-inch lead pipe. The victim of this brutal attack had been working for the E. Lanthier Taxi Company in the city for over two years past. Unconscious when he was admitted to hospital about 2 p.m. on Monday, he died in an oxygen tent several hours later.

Taylor's cab was hailed by three men at St. Catherine and Peel Streets; they asked to be driven to a street in Tetreaultville, where the driver was ordered to stop. It was in this vicinity that he was savagely and repeatedly struck over the head with a length of pipe and robbed.

Leaving the injured cabbie, the miscreants were followed by a 16-year-old youth who, along with a woman, notified the police of the robbery that had netted the murderers only $2.50 in cash. The three suspects were apprehended at gunpoint by Sgt. Armand Courval and Cst. Jacques of the Montreal Police Department and later turned over to Homicide Squad detectives.

A coroner's inquest was opened Tuesday, when Dr. Rosario Fontaine, provincial medico-legal expert, testified that Taylor had died of multiple skull fractures and brain injuries. The inquest is continuing, and the three suspects, Eugene Beaulieu, 20, an army deserter, André Trudel, 18, and a juvenile, are scheduled to testify.

Prior to leaving Brownsburg, "Bob" Taylor, as he was familiarly known to all, operated the first Veteran Taxi concern in this vicinity. He was a member of the Black Watch in the First World War and served overseas.

Of the 10 children surviving, four are still in Brownsburg. They are Bob, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Taylor and children, Alan and Lionel.

The funeral will be held from the Brownsburg United Church today, Thursday, at 2.30 p.m., followed by interment in Lachute.

Certified Tree Farm Idea Makes Good Progress in Argenteuil County

Since its formation in May of this year, the Argenteuil Tree Farm Committee has been very active in promoting the idea of Tree Farm certification and in contacting owners of woodlots which might qualify under the plan. Results to date have been more than satisfactory. Of the 15 certified tree farms in the province to date, six are in Argenteuil County.

The following owners have received certificates:

Argenteuil Agricultural Society.
Howard B. Crooks, Grenville.
C. Lauzon, St. Philippe.
Lake Anne Club, Morin Heights.
Jos. E. Brown, Morin Heights.
Fred Witham & Leslie Keay, Pte. au Chene.

These owners agree to maintain their forest lands for growing continuous wood crops; to co-operate with public agencies in protecting their land from damage by fire, insects, disease and grazing; to practice cutting operations which will insure good present and future crops, and to allow accredited foresters of the Committee to inspect and report on progress made by owners.

The Steering Committee, composed of several members of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club and two C.I.P. foresters, is continuing its work. The procedure in each case is as follows: When an owner who is contacted shows interest, his land is inspected by several members of the Steering Committee. If the inspection shows the property to be satisfactory and if the owner agrees to the conditions of certification, application for certification is made by the Committee to the National Tree Farm Committee. After the National Committee has given its approval, certificates may be awarded.

Because so many woodlot owners have shown interest in the project, it is expected that the number of certified Tree Farms in Argenteuil County will increase rapidly during the next few years.

All Branches Represented at County W.Inst. Semi-Annual

Mrs. Sosnkowski, Guest Speaker, Describes Work of Women's Organizations in Europe

The semi-annual convention of the Argenteuil County Women's Institutes was held Saturday in the Lachute High School; all ten branches were represented.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and adopted.

Mrs. P. Clarke reported on the C.I.P. convention held in Harrington last August.

Mrs. D. Cooke, county president, gave an interesting and amusing account of her trip to Toronto to attend the Associated Country Women's conference.

A W.I. memorial wreath will be placed at the county cenotaph on Armistice Day.

The county president introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Sosnkowski, who spoke on the different women's organizations in Europe and their work during wartime. She mentioned specially the women of Finland. The latter being such a small country, when invaded by the Russian army had no chance to stand their own ground, and yet the courage and determination of the women was amazing. . . One should be so happy to live in such a peace-loving country as Canada, she emphasized. The women of Europe are extremely proud of their handicraft, including weaving and carving. The buildings of Finland are finished in black and white marble. Finland was the first country in Europe to have a women's organization, namely, the "White Sisters". They did splendid work during the war, helping the needy, caring for the sick and injured. After the war, the women were paid very high tribute for their work.

Mrs. M. Crosby thanked Mrs. Sosnkowski. The national anthem was sung, and the ladies were served tea.

Premier Duplessis Outlines Coming Legislation

By Bernard Dufresne

Quebec, Oct. 20 (CP) — Premier Duplessis has announced that "several additional millions" for farm loans will be proposed by his government at the forthcoming session of the Quebec Legislature.

The government will also propose an increase of $15,000,000 in housing aid funds, bringing the total to $55,000,000 to be used to pay part of the interest on loans made by home builders.

Other bills announced by Mr. Duplessis include legislation on margarine, rent control, traffic laws, forest fire protection and amendments to the Election Act. He gave no details.

Mr. Duplessis made the announcements at his press conference last week.

Municipal Affairs Minister Prevost said last week, at the Quebec Union of County Councils convention in Riviere du Loup, that municipalities have to render too many services for the amount of revenue they receive.

Although the financial position of municipalities is improving, "there are still many essential needs that must be satisfied . . . and many tasks to fulfill, tasks that are too costly for municipalities unless their means are improved", Mr. Prevost added.

The municipalities received their powers over local matters from the provincial governments", since it is impossible for a provincial government to rule everything and do everything."

The union re-elected Dr. A. B. Clement, Montreal district coroner, as president.

Premier Duplessis told the Quebec Province League of Property-Owners in Victoriaville last Saturday that rent controls must continue, although small property is being pushed "into an abyss" by an "absolutely unjust" burden of taxation.

Mr. Duplessis said rent control legislation was "abnormal" but there is not enough self-control, and "when the public interest is at stake we must act".

Small property has been badly treated by municipalities and school commissions; property-owners were the "shock troops" that bore the brunt of every taxation need.

"Charges on property have mounted to a ruinous level; property is taxed for roads, waterworks and all public services."

Speaking of the public charities cost, which the league seeks to transfer entirely to the provincial government, Mr. Duplessis said municipalities must continue to pay their share.

Solicitor-General Rivard of Quebec said last week that property-owners are the backbone of Canada's national life.

Speaking at the first convention of the Quebec Province Association of Real Estate Boards, Mr. Rivard said "the day a man acquires a few feet of land, it is as if he becomes integrated with what the nation holds most sacred — its soil."

Real estate is perhaps the best stronghold of Canada's economy, because while fortunes are made and lost in stocks and shares, real estate remains stable. A home, moreover, has a sentimental value which unites members of a family.

Fewer Canadians Voted in Election

Ottawa (CP) —

With a record number of 8,334,178 persons on the voters' list at the August General Election, the number of votes cast was a little below that of the 1949 election. The official electoral report now shows 5,640,837 votes were polled against 5,848,971 in 1949.

The winning Liberal party slipped slightly from its 1949 vote total and the CCF also lost votes. Social Credit made the heaviest gain in votes, largely by polling 123,700 in British Columbia this year, against 2,109, in 1949. The Progressive Conservatives gained ballots, and so did the Communists although the latter won no seats.

The Liberals polled 48.5% per cent of the popular vote against 49 per cent in 1949. The Progressive Conservatives gained 10 seats by increasing their share of the popular vote by one per cent to 31 per cent.

The CCF gained 10 seats also, although they took only 11 per cent of the vote against 13 per cent last time.

Social Credit won five more seats and its share in the popular vote rose from 2.3 per cent to 5.4 per cent.

MORE ABOUT TROUBLE CALLS

Last week we talked about power failures which are caused by trouble on the customer's own wiring.

The power company would like to learn about troubles which result from tree branches which fall against or rub against power lines, whether the branches are affecting wires on the customer's premises or not, so that experienced line crews can clear up the difficulty without danger.

Occasionally customers, with the best intentions in the world, cause even more serious troubles by damaging lines in attempting to remove trees or branches which are close to power lines. Quite aside from the damages, there is always the danger to the life of the inexperienced person who works too close to live wires.

Please help us to provide better service by continuing to report cases where trees are spreading close to power lines, and by co-operating in the removal of dangerous branches on your property.

Seasonal Farm Topics

Nitrogen Seen Key to More Food Production

One of the most important elements in producing more food on our farms is nitrogen, says a current Reader's Digest article. A colorless, odorless gas which makes up about 80 per cent of the earth's atmosphere, nitrogen is essential to both animal and plant life — yet it is the one element most generally lacking, in sufficient quantity, in the soil. Natural forces have been "fixing" nitrogen — that is, combining it with other elements in the atmosphere, such as oxygen and hydrogen — and depositing it in the earth almost since the beginning of time. But our crops are using it up faster than nature can replace it.

Now modern chemists have learned how to "fix" nitrogen synthetically at low cost, and a solution to the problem is in sight. Properly applied to the soil, in combination with waste matter, a 12-cent pound of nitrogen may produce an extra 30 pounds of grain. In Illinois, where the average farm produces just over 50 bushels of corn per acre, a farmer who used generous quantities of nitrogen and waste matter has averaged 117 bushels to the acre for the past five years.

Not only has nitrogen accounted for tremendous increases in farm production, the Digest article adds, but it has also been successfully combined with such waste matter as corncobs, cornstalks and straw to provide an inexpensive and nutritious feed for cattle. This type of cattle feed, called "one of the most significant developments since man first domesticated animals", could mean that thousands of tons of linseed, cottonseed and soybean meal formerly used for feeding cattle will be made available to hogs and poultry, with a resultant increase in our national production of meat for the dinner table.

Self-Feeders Popular

Canadian farmers are discovering that efficiency on the farm can be improved by machines but also by other non-mechanical devices. A simple contrivance or device growing in popularity, is the movable self-feeder of the fence type, used where hay is stored at ground level. This feeder slides on runners and as the cows eat into the hay piled behind it they push it ahead, or it can be moved ahead evenly every two or three weeks as the hay is consumed. Cheaply made, often with lumber available on the farm, the feeder keeps the cows out of the hay storage, and avoids the necessity of moving the hay more than six feet.

The feeder should be long enough to allow 12 to 18 inches per animal and so constructed as to prevent cattle pulling the hay out of the feeder. These feeders are successfully used with long or chopped hay, but impractical for baled hay.

More details in this and several other types of feeder arrangements are available in the bulletin (No. 874) "Loose Housing of Dairy Cattle", procurable from Information Service, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Defoliation of Trees

Questions are frequently asked as to what happens to trees when leaves are removed by tent caterpillars or other leaf-eating insects.

The Forest Biology Division of the Department of Agriculture in Ottawa reports that experiments in the artificial defoliation of trees and observations of natural defoliation have suggested broad-leaved trees will survive complete loss of foliage for two or more successive years, regardless of the time of year defoliation occurs. Recent experiments in the Maritime provinces indicate beech is an exception. Removal of leaves in late June and early July was not followed by growth of new foliage and the next spring some of the beech trees were dead, while others were in poor condition.

In contrast, birch and poplar have produced a second crop of foliage the year of defoliation and satisfactory growth the following spring, provided dormant buds were not removed. Defoliation in late summer caused less damage on all trees. The capacity to survive defoliation is apparently related to the capacity to produce a second crop of leaves.

Among the conifers, ability to survive defoliation depends upon its character and extent. In the majority of coniferous species, one complete defoliation will kill trees. Loss of new growth, only, even if accompanied by killing of buds, may be tolerated for as many as four or five years before death of the tree ensues; an example is defoliation of balsam fir by the spruce budworm. Partial loss of old growth only, without killing of buds, may be tolerated for considerable periods, as in the case of spruce defoliated by the European spruce sawfly. Many trees in eastern Canada have withstood partial defoliation of the old growth for six or more consecutive years.

GOOD MAPLE SUGAR

Toronto (CP) — One of Canada's oldest farm industries will be featured in a new division at this year's Royal Winter Fair, November 13-21. Maple syrup and maple sugar classes have been established for the first time in the history of the Royal. Called the maple products division, the new department will have three sections, two for sugar and one for syrup.

Adjourned Session Of Town Council

to purchase all four flashers in one box that would be satisfactory for this corner, as the streets in question are not at right angles to one another."

It was moved by Ald. H. G. Beaulieu, seconded by Ald. W. Cousineau, that the small-corner sidewalk be constructed and that the traffic lights be installed at the discretion of the Council.

Later, Mr. McArthur stated, "I appreciate the fact that the Council has taken time to come and look at the site in question. It is the first time that Council has taken enough interest to come to the corner as a group and, then after doing that, do something about the situation that has been before previous Councils many times in the past."

"Although this is the first time appreciation has been expressed in this manner for the Council doing their duty, it is not, however, the first time that the present Council have visited sites of civic interest and importance. A notable instance was in the spring, when all went to the present dam and viewed, with alarm, the condition of our water supply", Mayor Lafleur stated at this point.

At the Contentious Corner

The members of the Council met at McArthur's corner Tuesday of last week, as stated, and, on looking the situation over, decided to draw a chalk circle on the proposed place for the traffic island and then have traffic go around it. A semi-trailer was sent from Boyd's Lachute Express and manouvred the circle with ease. Discussion on the traffic island and the sidewalk followed, and the Councillors left with a first-hand view of this situation to be discussed at Council the following day.

Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur and Ald. W. Cousineau were called from the meeting on an urgent matter and Pro-Mayor D. G. MacRae took the chair. On his return, Mayor Lafleur moved that a vote of sympathy be extended to Ald. Cousineau, who had been called from the meeting due to the death of his mother-in-law.

A building permit was granted to Ald. H. G. Beaulieu for the erection of a house on the corner of Robert Street and Barron Avenue.

The Council recommended that Town Foreman Jos. Senecal use his judgment in connection with a request that single instead of married men be laid off when work was slack.

Narrow Street

Discussion then centred on the possibility of the widening of College Street, the thoroughfare running parallel to the C.P.R. tracks east of Bethany Street. Ald. D. G. MacRae said he had contacted the property owners on this street and had only received the co-operation of the Plymouth Brethren, who occupy Hugh Street Hall. Others wished to sell their property to the town at a ridiculous price, or else would not listen to reason at all. "There have been numerous complaints in years past, of the plow damaging taxpayers' property", Ald. MacRae said. "However, if we haven't the room to get the plow in and out of the street, what are we to do?"

"We certainly haven't the money or men to shovel this street by hand, and besides, it wouldn't be fair to the rest of the taxpayers", said Mayor Lafleur. Various other opinions were voiced and the Council decided that "due to the fact that the street is not wide enough to allow the snowplow to pass without damaging private property, and since the property owners will not co-operate with the Council in widening the street, the Council has decided the section of College Street from the Baldwin properties to the Plymouth Brethren Hall on Hugh Street will not be open for automobile traffic during the winter months. Sidewalks will be plowed, however, and all concerned will be notified by letter."

Orders were given the Police Department to enforce the curfew by-law which has been in effect for some time. This regulation calls for all children under the age of 14 to be off the streets at 9 p.m. unless accompanied by a responsible person, and offenders are subject to a fine of $20, to be paid by their parents or guardian, after warning on the first offence.

Pictures and information concerning a truck to be sold by the Gatineau Power Co. were shown the Council members, and it was decided that the town could make do with the present road equipment for the time being. "Rather than buy this truck, I suggest the Council purchase a snow-blower, so that everyone will benefit, by having the streets of the town free of snow during the winter months", said Secretary Antonio Laurin. Debate on this subject followed, and it was tabled for further discussion.

The question of the moving of the dump was again brought up, this time by Mayor Dr. Lafleur. No definite site for a new dump has been approved as yet, but several new suggestions have been brought before the Council; these are being investigated and it is hoped a report will be available at next Council meeting.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

James Eccles, Brampton, Ont., first tractor plowing champion of the world, who won his crown at the world plowing match, Cobourg, Ont., October 8 and 9. He defeated plowmen from ten other countries and Robert Timbers of Stouffville, Ont., Ontario and Canadian champion. Timbers placed third in the world match. Eccles, winner of the world trophy, the Esso Golden Plow, and Timbers will also compete in the second world match in Europe next fall. They will travel as guests of Imperial Oil.

Driver Escapes After Truck Goes Into Canal

Gordon Stark, 56-year-old transport driver from St. Eustache, swam to safety when his 10-ton tractor trailer combination left the highway and plunged into 25 feet of water last week. The accident happened on No. 2 Highway about 5½ miles west of Cornwall.

Stark said he believed faulty steering gear was responsible for the accident, which sent his eastbound transport, carrying a full load of empty beer bottles, plummeting into the chill waters of Bergin Lake, part of the Cornwall Canal system.

The outfit swerved sharply around a curve, ripped out five staunch guide posts and plunged down a 25-foot embankment.

Stark remained with his outfit until it hit the water. He said he crawled through an open window and swam the short distance to shore. Aside from the cold ducking, he suffered minor cuts to his knee and a bruised forehead.

It took more than 10 hours before salvage crews succeeded in removing the submerged truck from the water. Traffic on No. 2 Highway was tied up for five hours while work was in progress.

Come in and sample the superior ride of a truly luxurious automobile. As soon as you step on the gas you will realize what a sensational value this bigger-powered, better-riding Buick really is. For only Buick offers you the amazing driving and handling ease of the Million Dollar Ride. Its elegant appointments, opulent styling and luxurious comfort give you the pride and satisfaction that comes from owning the best.

Yet the lowest-priced Buick is surprisingly close to the low-priced car field. Arrange to sample-drive these great Buicks at your dealer's today.

The world's newest V-8 engine powers the Roadmaster and the Super—developing 188 h.p. on the Roadmaster and 170 h.p. with Dynaflow in the Super. The Custom is powered by the improved Straight Eight which delivers 130 h.p. with Dynaflow.

You'll have to sample-drive Buick before you'll believe the whip-quick, quiet getaway of Dynaflow Drive. You accelerate or decelerate in one uninterrupted motion. Dynaflow is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other series.

Amazing Buick Power Steering takes over all steering effort above four pounds, but maintains the "feel" of the road. Allows one-handed parking—adds greater safety. Standard on every Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other series equipped with Dynaflow automatic transmission.

There's a pleasant ease to positive, effortless stops given by Buick Power Brakes*. They cut pedal pressure by as much as 50 per cent. Barely more than a touch suffices to bring your Buick to a smooth, easy stop.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

Support Your Council!

COUNCILS in the past have made few sensational moves to startle the placid tenor of this town. Nor have the citizens taken any notable interest in civic affairs. All they do is to elect aldermen for their ward and let it go at that. The Council cannot do things and remedy problems unless they know what needs to be done. The Council meetings are open to the public but it is very seldom that citizens show up at a meeting.

The Town needs new fire equipment, a new waterworks system, a new dumpsite, a new City Hall, and many other things. It needs them now, and has needed them for many years. If we want to grow in population, we have to be equipped to do so; and a few members of the present Council have the ambition to achieve something towards this end. It is up to the citizens to support their Council. Civic elections will be due in February of next year. Maybe February is a long way off, but many important decisions have to be made between now and then, and many more decisions will have to be made in the subsequent term. Residents who have the welfare of the town at heart, should be thinking and working openly with that aim. The Council is going to need money to accomplish what has to be done; it needs the citizens' support and the taxpayers' understanding. . .

Attend your Council meetings; see what the men you have elected are doing, and then let them know if you are not satisfied. If this had been done in the past years, our present councillors doubtless would not have so many problems to cope with — for these are problems that should have been attended to years ago.

The next meeting is scheduled for November 4, at 8 p.m. Let's see you at the Auditorium!

For Hunters

IN VIEW of the popularity of Argenteuil County with the gunning fraternity, a warning by Director Hilaire Beauregard of the Quebec Provincial Police bears repetition in this column. Urging hunters to take precautions with their guns, and to be prepared should they become lost, the Chief suggests four elementary rules to be observed:

1—Always carry a plentiful supply of matches in a waterproof container.

2—If lost at night, climb a prominent hill and light a fire.

3—To avoid going around in circles, follow the mossy side of trees. Moss grows on the east of the trees.

4—Never point a gun in another person's direction, and always keep them out of the reach of children at home.

High School Hemlines

FASHIONWISE, the world seemed at peace when Christian Dior's shorter hemlines faded from international headlines. The big three of fashion — London, Paris and New York — apparently have compromised on the matter.

But not Trenton, Ontario. A skirt-length question has split public opinion in the pleasant air force town on the shores of Lake Ontario.

One faction claims Trenton high school girls wear the skirts of their uniforms "ridiculously" short. Spokesmen for this group claim indignantly that the high hemlines make the girls look like drum majorettes on parade.

But the reference to majorettes gave backers of the short skirts valuable ammunition.

"Most schools have to get along with just one majorette", they shot back. "Trenton should be proud to have a whole schoolful of majorettes."

All the girls wear pretty much the same type of skirts — all short. Someone suggested their brevity was easy on the pocketbook, although there was doubt that economics had as much to do with the choice as the girls' own preference.

When the board of education tackled the topic, someone suggested the skirts are supposed to be "fingertip length".

In fashion circles, fingertip length is the length of the down-stretched arm of the girl wearing the skirt. The height of the hem above the ground would vary with the size of the girl wearing it.

The school board discussion did nothing to settle the question but only tossed it into the lap of the parents. Since then, it's been threshed out over back fences, bridge tables and countless cups of afternoon tea.

Those most directly concerned, the girls themselves, apparently are unworried. They merely toss their pretty heads and go their way, pretending to pay no attention whatever to the good-natured whistle or the admiring glance.

The Curfew By-Law

IN RECENT years, the Lachute fire siren has sounded a long blast every evening at 9 o'clock as a warning to all children under 14 to head for home with haste. But ever since the inauguration of this practice, it seems our citizens have used it for little else than to check the time. This was the situation until Alderman H. G. Beaulieu brought the matter to attention at last week's Town Council meeting.

The councillor urged that the Curfew By-law be rigidly enforced hereafter. As chairman of the Police and Fire Committee, he has received continuous complaints that children are playing on the streets and grouped in front of stores watching television. Possible restriction was considered against stores displaying TV programs in their windows, but the only loophole the Council can apply in the case of children watching these sets, is a clause concerning disturbance of the peace. This by-law and numerous others were passed years ago for one reason, namely, to be enforced, and this particular regulation entitles the police to escort to their home any children under 14 who are not accompanied by a responsible person. Parents or guardians are subject to a fine of $20 for each offence after the first instance.

The Council, in unanimous support of Alderman Beaulieu, decided to instruct the police to enforce this by-law at all times, and it is requested that parents see that their children obey the law and co-operate for their own protection.

Food For Thought

TALENT does what it can . . . genius doth what it must. Every great man is great only because he has done what he had to do.

The ultimate effect of every action is always measured by the length and breadth and depth of the sentiment from which it springs. That's why so many of our greatest men and women never knew that they were great. It took a century or two for that fact to become known.

That too is why the permanent value of anything you read is fixed only by its own specific gravity — that is, by the intrinsic importance of its message to YOUR mind.

The effect of anything ever written, upon your mind, is mathematically measurable by its length and breadth and DEPTH of thought. To you it is worthless until and unless it makes you think. . . Your newspaper strives incessantly to make you think.

AN OLD-TIMER recalls that the first bicycle in North America was brought to Montreal in 1876 by A. T. Lane. It was so great a wonder that the City Council declared a half holiday so "Tommy" Lane could ride on the principal streets for the benefit of the crowd which gathered.

Today it would take nothing less than a stratosphere streamliner landing on a backlot, to suspend operations in a school-fry softball game.

"I PRAY that in Canada we shall be on guard against the methods of the informer, the agent provocateur, the witch-hunter or the Gestapo, the concept of guilt by association and the technique of the smear, which are foreign to the concept of liberty that we cherish." — President Sidney Smith of the University of Toronto.

"She can't spend this—it's registered in my name."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

As if we didn't have enough troubles already, someone is trying to extend the summer holidays for school children by three weeks.

Certain rash members of the Canadian Tourist Association urged at their annual meeting that Labor Day should be pushed back to the third Monday in September. They say a longer season is the only way to enliven the tourist business, which is slow in spring and winter.

According to another body of opinion, it might be better to let the tourist industry die.

The idea of keeping the kids out of school for an extra three weeks will be about as popular with grown-ups as a proposal to extend the mosquito season.

Parents need a rest between school holidays, just as boxers need a rest between rounds. Does a boxer tell the timekeeper to hurry up and ring the gong so that he can get started again? Does a deer petition the game authorities to let the hunting season continue just a little while longer?

The members of the Tourist Association should watch their step. They may find themselves on a tour of their own, aboard a rail, with a posse of enraged parents and neighbors swinging rawride whips behind them.

The school term is too short already. I am amazed how much the term has shrunk since I was a boy. When I was at school, the distance between one holiday and another seemed to be roughly two and one half years. Now that another generation is at school, the term seems to last seven days or less.

Suppose we let the tourist people shove back Labor Day to the third Monday in September — what will be their next demand? They will want to push it back to the fourth Friday in November, and then the first Saturday in March.

And while the Tourist Association is pushing Labor Day back, the merchants are pushing Christmas forward, until the year is twisted into a pretzel.

After the calendar cranks have finished playing Chinese checkers with our feast days, we won't be able to tell Hogmanay from National Cheese Week.

Even a cynic's heart will be touched by the sight of kiddies running to find their Christmas presents only to be cuffed and sent back to bed because it isn't Christmas after all — it's Hallowe'en.

Freight tonnage moves ahead: In 1952 Canadian railways moved an average of 31.6 tons per loaded freight car mile against 30.5 tons the year previous.

Conservation

I could never see the reason why they set aside the season to destroy our harmless creatures of the wild. Why they legalize the slaughter of our friends in woods or water who are normally defenceless, meek and mild.

If a "sportsman" with a shotgun or a rifle, if he's got one, will set out to destroy a harmless critter, and derive a certain pleasure shooting holes in things I treasure, if he's a "sportsman", then my thoughts are bitter. We hear talks on conservation from the leaders of our nation, where protection of our wildlife is the theme, yet the law protects the gunman and I'm not the only one man who wishes he could realize his dream.

What we need is legislation to protect each child of Nature and prohibit guns and rifles to be used — to elect more forest wardens to patrol all woods and gardens and to see the law's respected, not abused.

When a hunter from the city shoots another, it's a pity. But he only met a fate that he deserved. For he would have shot the mother of some young fawn or another whose welfare is what should have been preserved.

Why waste a lot of cartridges by shooting down some partridges whose only wish is to be left alone? Why turn some forest denizen into a lump of venison? That's one thing that I never could condone. If a woodsman who is starving has to shoot a deer for carving, which I must admit he has a right to do, then he has a valid reason to stock up on meat in season and provide his hungry family with a stew. But if you and I have plenty and have food enough for twenty and have money to go out and buy some more, then there isn't any reason why the so-called "hunting season" should give us right to spill some creature's gore.

I'm all out for conservation, and that ain't just conversation, and I'm dead against all guys that carry arms. Let our pastors and our teachers educate our youth with features such as saving wildlife near our homes and farms. Would you like to have a bullet through your gizzard or your gullet, in your stomach, lungs, or right behind the ear? If you're askin' me, I wouldn't. And a wildlife lover shouldn't ever try to do the same thing to a deer.

Be seein' ya!

A Stab at Public Relations

Beatrice Lillie is a lady by nature as well as by name. And, for that reason, I know she will not object if I don't relate today the incidents that got me my autograph. Suffice it to say that I got an interview with her. In actual fact, she interviewed me and we had a most enjoyable chat. From that meeting I learned the secret of her success and I shall relate it to you at a later date. But, for the moment, I have an item of news to pass on which may be old hat if it's not recorded now. So, to those who may have been anticipating another article with Lady Peel, my humble apologies. I hope you enjoy this one as well.

* * *

Members of the Anglican church in the city are righteously indignant. At first they said nothing; then they started whispering and murmuring, until now they are definitely vocal. And the cause of their indignation is what they term "common decency". In the professional and business world the term is "public relations". But whichever way you look at it, it's a matter of human relations. In the Anglican church here, apparently, human relations just don't exist.

It began, so I'm told, when the Dean of Coventry and his party came to Montreal to begin their fund-raising tour for the rebuilding of blitzed Coventry cathedral. As is common with distinguished dignitaries of church and state, they paid their respects to His Worship the Mayor at City Hall. And here's the bone of contention. When these good people went to City Hall, they were escorted into the Mayor's office by a city police constable. No representative of the Anglican church was provided to introduce the party to the city's chief executive.

One down — two to go!

When the Choir of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, England, decided to visit Montreal, they contacted the Church of England authorities here. Their letter, I have it on the best authority, was completely ignored. When plans were announced for the Choir's recital, however, the Church woke up and sent a rather barbed letter to the St. Paul's officials. Much to the credit of the British churchmen, they replied to this missive in like manner. And, even more to their credit, they fitted in an extra program for the city by agreeing to sing Evensong at Christ Church Cathedral. Point two!

A real wave of vocal protest went up on Sunday last when the St. Paul's Choir sang that beautiful Evensong at the Cathedral. Various choirmasters in the city wanted their boys to hear their English counterparts. Seats, however, could not and would not be reserved for anyone. As far as the Cathedral authorities were concerned, the whole service would be on a first-come-first-served basis.

On this understanding, the leading Anglican boys' choir in the city sent nine representatives. They arrived early and took the best seats available, right under the pulpit. There, the lads were able to see the choir from the best vantage point and hear them, too. But their triumph was short-lived. Church offialdom descended on them within a minute of their arrival and they were hustled off to the rear of the Cathedral where they could neither hear nor see properly. It was not difficult to guess why the boys were disgusted, upset and disinterested for the remainder of the service. Quod erat demonstrandum, the third point!

The Church of England has announced that it will set up a public relations department in the near future to further advance the church in this country. They will appoint one man to handle the job from coast to coast. And, unless he is endowed with supernatural strength, he'll fail miserably.

By making this momentous decision to entrust the public relations of the Anglican communion across Canada to one person, the Church is only making a stab at the job. A comprehensive program of p.r. will never be accomplished until there is a public relations officer in every province, every diocese, every deanery and every church, and until every archbishop, bishop, priest, deacon and layman is a p.r. officer.

That the Church of England in Canada needs a program of public relations goes without saying. A friend of mine, interested in p.r. and the church, wrote on September 8 to enquire about applying for the job. The Dean of New Westminster, who heads the committee on p.r., hasn't replied as yet to that letter. And one of the basic rules of p.r. is that you answer correspondence without delay.

The outcome of all this will be very interesting. And I'll be watching it most closely. Not only am I interested in the business of p.r., but I'm also an Anglican!

New ideas in bank premises are designed to give you speedier, more convenient service. They are part of the easy, informal way you like to do your banking. Canada's chartered banks — built on sound banking practice — continually adapt their services to meet changing, expanding needs.

THE BANKS SERVING YOUR COMMUNITY

DON'T WAVE GOODBYE TO THIS GOOD BUY!

"Opportunity is knocking at our doors again", says Donald Hay, manager of the Bank of Montreal's Lachute Branch. "This time it's golden — an opportunity no one will want to miss.

"I'm speaking of the opportunity provided by Canada to make the buy of the year — Canada Savings Bonds", Mr. Hay continued. "The new issue of these bonds has just gone on sale and, this year, they are better than ever.

"Take for example the new, high rate of interest. This year it stands at 3¾ per cent per annum. Further, the bonds are redeemable anytime, at full face value, plus interest to the end of the previous calendar month.

"The most appealing feature of these bonds", said Mr. Hay, "is that they can be purchased on the instalment plan. The down-payment is only 5 per cent — $2.50 for a $50 bond, $5 for a $100 bond — with the balance paid over a year in easy monthly instalments."

The purchase of your Canada Savings Bonds is a simple matter. You can arrange it easily and quickly at the Bank of Montreal, whether you buy for cash, or on the instalment plan. You should drop in at the B of M without delay and see Mr. Hay about your share in Canada's best investment.

KELLY — In loving memory of our daughter and sister, Minnie, who died Oct. 21, 1950. — Ever remembered by Dad, Mother, brothers and sister.

"Those we love we never lose,
For always they will be Forever near, forever dear,
In cherished memory.
We often think of bygone days
When we were all together,
The family chain is broken now,
But memory lives forever."

KELLY — In fond and loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Minnie Kelly, who passed away Oct. 21, 1950. — Always remembered by Freda, Wendell, Sharon, Sandra.

"Thoughts drift back to bygone days.
Life goes on but memories stay."

KELLY — In loving memory of a dear mother, Minnie Kelly, who passed away Oct. 21, 1950. — Always loved and sadly missed by her daughter, Lorna, and son-in-law, Gordon.

"Dearer to me than words can tell
Was my dear mother I loved so well.
Wherever I go, whatever I do,
Always dear Mama I think of you.
There is still an ache in my heart today
That countless years won't take away.
A place in my heart that no one can fill —
I miss you dear Mama and always will."

KELLY — In loving memory of a dear mother, Minnie Kelly, who passed away Oct. 21, 1950. — Sadly missed by her son, Donnie, daughter-in-law, Ella, and little girl, Linda.

"In her grave, quietly sleeping,
Where the grass gently waves,
Lies the one we loved so dearly,
The one we loved but could not save.
To those who have a mother,
Cherish her with care,
For you do not know her value
Until you see her vacant chair."

KELLY — In loving memory of a dear mother, Minnie Kelly, who passed away Oct. 21, 1950. — Always loved and sadly missed by her daughter, Euphemia, and sons, Gerald, Harry, Jonty.

"Gone, dear Mom, gone forever.
How we miss your smiling face,
But you gave us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
The happy times we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill."

WEALTH OF HISTORY

It has been said that any community interested in tourists should take the lead in bringing to light its historical past. As a matter of fact, every community should be interested in its own past even if it involves a little work, a little organization, to bring it to light.

In Brownsburg

Bob Taylor

The brutal slaying of Bob Taylor in Montreal shocked the residents of this district as no other crime within memory has done. "Bob", as everyone knew him and called him, was an old-time resident of Brownsburg. He was deservedly popular with all, and although recently moved to Montreal, was kindly remembered and was a frequent visitor. Bob answered his country's call in the first World War and was quietly proud of his record with the armed forces. He came through the campaign without serious injury and it is ironic now that he was struck down in death by an army deserter, as is alleged at the moment. Several members of his family reside here, and to those we tender our sincere sympathy. May he rest in peace.

Indian Summer

The recent spell of delightful weather serves to accentuate the beauties of nature's garb in this autumn season. Children at school are given the task of describing the variegated colors of the foliage for their home-work paragraph, and their parents take a last drive, before putting the car away, out into the country to marvel at the wonderful brushwork of nature, its shades and shadows, its tints and colors. It's a sobering thought that the many-hued garb of the trees, that brings delight to all who behold it, is nature's raiment of death. The beauty of the fading tree, denuded of life-giving chlorophyll, that green nitrogenous coloring matter which clothes all nature in its verdant green, now dressed in the beautiful shroud of autumn, is like the delicate rouged complexion of the consumptive slowly changing into the corpse of winter. Truly, in the midst of life there is death.

Home and School

"I often wonder what our country would be like if we did not have men and women who would give their time voluntarily to the improvement of education and public betterment", said the Quebec Deputy-Minister of Education, Dr. W. P. Percival, when last week he urged parents to be more active in Home and School Associations and to preach to their children the responsibilities to retain their Canadian way of life.

Brownsburg Local of the United Mine Workers Union have replied to representations by the Home and School Association and the Union has set aside a sum of $50 each to the Protestant and Catholic Schools to be awarded yearly to the pupil having the highest general proficiency when leaving the school to pursue their studies in a higher grade. This is a headline which might well be followed by other welfare-minded groups, to assist the parents of bright children who find difficulty in financing their education at this crucial time. We commend the Brownsburg Local for their thoughtful action towards "the improvement of education and public betterment." The matter will come up for acceptance and thanks at a Home and School meeting this week.

Red Cross Meeting

Mrs. N. E. Smillie, president, was chairman at a meeting of the Red Cross executive on Monday evening, when several matters of importance were discussed and dealt with.

It was felt that there is still some uncertainty as to the function of the Blood Bank service. Sid Seary, who was in charge of the Brownsburg arrangements at the recent successful clinic, made it clear that no one, at any hospital, will be denied or charged for blood if they but take the elemental precaution of acquainting their local Red Cross Association of the need. Some recent doubtful patients were assured that a supply was available, and it is felt that the disturbing factor of cost may retard speedy recovery in some cases if it is not known how the Blood Bank functions. A call to Mrs. Smillie or Mrs. Charron in Brownsburg, will quickly facilitate anyone in the district needing a supply.

The Society has possession of a hospital bed, which is available to anyone who needs it. (Application to be made to Mrs. Roger Raymond.) It is expected to have a second hospital bed available in the near future.

The Society reviewed the question of suitable swimming and life-saving badges being obtained for presentation to the pupils who took the recent course at the Rotary Pool, under tuition of Lundy Pearson, Red Cross instructor — and it is expected that the presentation will be made at an opportune moment. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the Rotary Club for their generous use of the pool and the other facilities placed at the disposal of the Society.

After the disposal of other routine business, the meeting adjourned.

Maybe you should cut this ribbon!

Of course, when a new bridge or highway is completed, it's traditional for some prominent citizen or government official to cut the ribbon in the opening ceremony. And yet . . .

Often this honour might be awarded with good reason to any one of the nation's life insurance policyholders.

Why should they deserve this distinction?

Because it is their premium money, part of which is invested for them by life insurance companies, which makes it possible to build many such useful public works. Not only roads and bridges, but electrical power stations, waterworks, stores, homes, office buildings and industrial plants are built with the help of life insurance dollars.

So here's to the life insurance policyholders! While they provide financial security for their families and themselves, they also help make Canada a better land to live in!

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Bishop of Montreal In Radio Address

The Rt. Rev. John Dixon, M.A., D.D., LL.D., D.C.L., Bishop of Montreal, will speak to the people of this Diocese over Station CJAD on Friday, October 23, from 10.45 to 11.00 p.m. His address will also be broadcast over Station CFRA, Ottawa, on Sunday, October 25, from 10.05 to 10.20 p.m.

Bishop Dixon Visits St. Aidan's, Louisa

The Rt. Rev. John Dixon, Bishop of Montreal, visited St. Aidan's Anglican Church in Louisa last Sunday afternoon and administered the rite of Confirmation to a class of 19 candidates presented by the rector, the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh. The Rev. H. G. Baugh, of Morin Heights, assisted.

During the service the Bishop dedicated three beautiful stained-glass windows, placed over the altar of the church in memory of Henry John Neill and of his wife, Sarah Beattie. The windows were a gift of the Neill family. The recently installed electric organ was also fittingly dedicated.

This was the Bishop's first visit to the parish during the past nine years, and a great many parishioners were present to greet him.

Rev. Garfield Bruce Inducted to Pastorate Of Brownsburg United

Those privileged to attend the induction service of the Rev. Garfield W. Bruce at Brownsburg United Church on Tuesday evening, could not have left the church without inspiration from the words of the Rev. Norman Buchanan, who preached the sermon of charge to the congregation and to the new minister.

The church was practically full, with members and friends and a good delegation from Lachute United Church headed by their new minister, the Rev. Wilson Bridge.

Chairman was the Rev. DeWitt Scott, D.D., of Montreal, and besides the Rev. Buchanan, the Rev. J. Ralph Watson, of Cushing, interim minister of the Brownsburg Church, participated in the service.

Speaking on "See that Ye Fulfill the Ministry", the Rev. Norman Buchanan gave a challenge to both laymen and clergy. He said that there was a stirring in the church, in the ministry, and among both theologians and members. He said that "all Christians are ministers — all ambassadors for Christ, and representatives of Jesus", and charged that we must at all times be ready, whether in the home or at work, to testify before all men.

The speaker stressed the importance of ministry in the home — of grace before meals, of family devotions, and the importance of Christian stewardship, which should be the concern of all the family.

Many make the claim that they are "just ordinary Christians", with no special talents or responsibilities, but Mr. Buchanan said there is "no such thing". We are all called at all times to serve.

The importance of the ministry of our leisure time was another aspect stressed by the speaker. How any man spends his leisure depends on his real interests, and if his leisure is not used to develop character, then that important ministry is lost.

Quoting the evangelist Templeton who said that "Christ was God's gift to the church, and the church God's gift to the world", Mr. Buchanan emphasized the need of workers for the church.

In charging the new minister, the preacher stressed the importance of feeding the soul, with good fellowship, with good reading, and with quietness.

That a minister must not expect too much of a congregation, or make the mistake of expecting too little, was also firmly proclaimed.

In conclusion, Mr. Buchanan asked the congregation to pray for their new minister and to be charitable.

The Steps leading to the call to the Brownsburg Church were reviewed by the Rev. J. Ralph Watson, who presented Mr. Bruce to Dr. DeWitt Scott for the induction rites — after which the new minister, the Rev. Garfield Bruce, pronounced the benediction.

A graduate of Mount Allison University, the Rev. Garfield Bruce has served in the mining region of Glace Bay, N.S., was for a time in New Brunswick, and came to Brownsburg from Tatamagouche, N.S.

Refreshments were served by the Senior and Junior Women's Associations after the ceremony, followed by a brief family service led by the Rev. Mr. Bruce.

Witnesses of Jehovah Win Decision in Supreme Court

The Witnesses of Jehovah won a decision in the Supreme Court of Canada, which ruled that Quebec City has no right to stop the Witnesses from distributing pamphlets on the street.

Quebec province had about 800 Witnesses lined up for prosecution. All these cases will have to be dropped.

The test appeal was brought by Witness evangelist Laurier Saumur, who was convicted in 1946 of violation of a Quebec City By-law by distributing tracts on the street without police permission.

Four Supreme Court judges — three Roman Catholics and an Anglican — said the By-law is valid and the appeal should be thrown out.

Four others — all Protestants — said the By-law is invalid and the appeal should be allowed.

That made five to four. And evangelist Saumur walked out the winner.

(Eph. 5: 14, N.W.)

There is great need for all persons to be awake to the sign of the times. Bible prophecies are being fulfilled by events occurring in the earth during this generation. The mission of the Awake! magazine is to present information in the light of God's Word that will provoke and stimulate thought on current affairs. With courage Awake! slices into the thick darkness of falsehood and misinformation that covers a great many subjects affecting the destiny of millions of people. It follows the precept that the truth is beneficial to all, and it endeavors to present the truth so that those who sleep under the burden of old-world propaganda may be awakened to the seriousness of these times. During October Jehovah's witnesses everywhere will offer Awake! from house to house on a subscription basis of $1 a year (24 issues), with three booklets free. Pretty Wedding In Vankleek Hill

Parkes - Bigelow

A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized recently in Knox Presbyterian Church, Vankleek Hill, when Aletha Frances Bigelow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Bigelow, of Calumet, became the bride of Mr. Howard Walter Parkes, of Montreal, son of the Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Parkes of Wichita, Kansas.

Dr. Donald N. MacMillan, M.A., B.D., officiated, assisted by the Rev. Harold G. Funston. The church was decorated with baskets of rose orchids and pink gladioli by Mr. Sidney Mode.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. J. T. MacDonald. During the signing of the register Misses Joy and Ann Kingsbury, nieces of the bride, sang "O Perfect Love".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of imported princess lace and pleated nylon tulle over skinner bridal satin, styled with fitted bodice, long sleeves tapering to points over her hands and a low portrait neckline. Her full skirt ended in a cathedral train. The neck, skirt and train were scalloped and embroidered with hundreds of seed pearls and rhinestones. Her hand-made veil was of tulle illusion and imported French lace held in place by a tiara of seed pearls and ended in a train. She carried a bouquet of orchids and cascading stephanotis.

The bride's only sister, Mrs. William Kingsbury, was matron of honor. Her other attendants were Mrs. Keith Bigelow and Miss Margaret MacAllar as bridesmaids. Miss Bernice Bigelow, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid and little Linda McNilly, niece of the groom, was flower girl. Mr. Don MacDonald was best man. The ushers were Mr. Gordon Lee and Messrs. Keith and Berton Bigelow, brothers of the bride.

The matron of honor wore a floor-length gown of lavender tulle nylon over American taffeta. Styled with fitted bodice and short sleeves, the yoke and front were shirred to form a Sweetheart neck. The full skirt was finished with tiers of nylon, each tier bordered with shirred nylon. Rhinestones were used as a trimming. She wore mitts to match her dress and her fingertip veil was held in place by a tiara fashioned after the bride's.

The bridesmaids were dressed identical to the matron-of-honor except in color. Mrs. Keith Bigelow was in bitter-sweet pink, Miss Margaret MacAllar in sea blue, Miss Bernice Bigelow in lime. Each one carried a bouquet of yellow cascading carnations. The little flower girl wore a floor-length gown of yellow taffeta with matching hat and carried a basket of pink and white rose buds. The dresses were designed and made by the bride's sister.

Mrs. Bigelow, the bride's mother, was gowned in teal blue crepe, with navy velvet hat and navy accessories. Her shoulder spray was of pink carnations. Mrs. Parkes, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in black faille crepe with white feathered hat and black accessories. Her shoulder spray was of white carnations.

Gladioli, asters and other fall flowers decorated the Town Hall for the reception.

For travelling on a wedding trip by motor to New York City, Atlantic City and other points, the bride chose an original suit of grey English wool with black picture hat and black suede accessories. A corsage of orchids was pinned at her shoulder.

Mr. and Mrs. Parkes will reside in Montreal.

Guests attending the wedding were from Toronto, Hamilton, Niagara Falls, Wichita (Kansas), Ottawa, Harrington, Rivington, Kilmar, Calumet, Grenville, Hawkesbury, Vankleek Hill, Bell Falls, Dalkeith, Montreal, Dunvegan, Val Barrette, and New York.

Local Couple Wed Recently At Brownsburg

Muir - Mason

The marriage of Clarice Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wesley Mason, of Brownsburg, to Mr. William George Muir, son of Mr. and Mrs. 'Ross Muir, of Lachute, took place recently in the Maple Avenue Baptist Church, Brownsburg, the Rev. N. H. Brock officiating. The wedding music was played by Mrs. John Dewar, and Mr. King Amos sang during the signing of the register. Gladioli in fall colors were used as decorations.

The bride, given away by her father, was in a gown of French lace and tulle over satin, fashioned with a bodice having a portrait neckline, and sleeves ending in points, and a tulle skirt with lace panels. Her fingertip-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a tulle and lace Juliet cap, and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of red roses and stephanotis. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Marion Mason, as maid of honor for her sister, and Miss Nancy Muir, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaid, were dressed in frocks of velvet and tulle, fashioned with tulle skirts, and velvet boleros, the maid of honor being in hunter's green, and the bridesmaid being in bronze. They wore matching headdresses, and carried Colonial bouquets of bronze and yellow chyrsanthemums.

Little Miss Shirley Dixon-Smith, as flower-girl, wore a frock of Nile green taffeta. She carried a nosegay of bronze, yellow and mauve pom-poms, and wore a matching bandeau.

Mr. Richard MacLean acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Robert Ogilvie, of Lachute, and Mr. Bruce Mason, the bride's brother, of Brownsburg.

Mrs. Mason, the bride's mother, was in a gown of lilac lace and crepe, and wore a navy blue hat and accessories, and a corsage bouquet of white carnations.

Mrs. Muir, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of beige crepe, with a hat and accessories of dusty pink, and a corsage bouquet of pink carnations.

The reception was held in the Brownsburg Legion Hall, where gladioli in fall colors were used to decorate.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Muir left by motor for the eastern United States, the bride travelling in a navy blue suit, and wearing a powder blue hat, and a corsage bouquet of blue carnations.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. Richard Muir, brother of the bridegroom, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Sheen, Mr. and Mrs. William Wilkinson, Mrs. William Morrison, Miss Margaret McOuat, Miss Jean McOuat and Miss Ethel McOuat, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Taylor and Mr. Dawson Taylor, of Perth, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brayse, of Sillery, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Shand, of Valois; Miss Betty MacMillan, of Temiskaming; and Miss Iva Wilkinson, of Toronto.

Double-Ring Ceremony Held At St. Simeon's

Mooney - Dorion

Multicolored gladioli formed the decorations in St. Simeon's Anglican Church for the recent marriage of Frances Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Dorion, of Upper Lachute, and Mr. Alexander T. Mooney, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Mooney, also of Upper Lachute. The Rev. C. R. Lang performed the ceremony and Mrs. J. Pollock played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Ann Zozulak as maid of honor. Mr. Gordon Welden acted as best man for the bridegroom. The ushers were Mr. Wm. Todd, cousin of the bridegroom, and Mr. Douglas Welden, of Verdun.

The bride wore a floor-length strapless gown of tulle over satin, having a bolero jacket of Chantilly lace with long fitted sleeves. She wore a fingertip veil of nylon tulle held in place by a half-crown of Chantilly lace over satin, decorated with a lover's knot and simulated pearl trim. She carried a Colonial bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

The maid of honor wore a floor-length gown of coral taffeta and nylon tulle with matching accessories, and carried a nosegay of white and mauve chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Dorion, mother of the bride, wore a street-length gown of navy blue crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of red carnations. The mother of the bridegroom wore a dark blue dress with navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The out-of-town guests were — Miss Ann Zozulak, Mr. and Mrs. G. Welden, Mr. D. Welden, Miss A. Glassop, Mr. and Mrs. A. Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. J. Whelan, Mr. and Mrs. F. Donahue, Mr. and Mrs. J. McLaughlin, Mr. Wm. Drennan and Mrs. J. Clayton, who motored from Flint, Mich., to be present at the wedding.

Dead Fish Show Polluted Water

Anglers have been alerted to consider any sudden jump in the numbers of dead fish in their favorite fishing waters as a likely indication of water pollution.

In pointing this out, Hon. Camille-E. Pouliot, M.D., Minister of the Department of Game and Fisheries, emphasized that the foul-water hazard of the province is under strict control, thanks to the activities of provincial officers and the co-operation of most industries.

Nevertheless, the Minister said, water spoilage by discharge of waste products is something to be watched for in an increasingly industrialized province.

Pollution should be suspected when fish are found dead in masses, more than one species being concerned. For bad water does a scattershot job; it does not single out individual species for attack, as sickness may do.

However, some species are more delicate than others. Doré (wall-eyed) and trout die most easily from pollution, while carp, suckers and bullheads are better able to tough it out. Long-term pollution kills frogs, insects and such mollusks as snails, as well as fishes, but transcient pollution may just kill the fishes.

As regards snails, there's a curious effect that can be a perfect tip-off in pollution. When familiar snails begin to take on unfamiliar shape or color, suspect long-term mild pollution.

Fishermen can help by reporting cases to the Department's Biological Bureau in Montreal or in Quebec.

HIGHWAY MOTORIST ANNOYS BULL MOOSE

Vernon, B.C. (CP) — An irascible bull moose has declared open season on automobiles travelling the Big Bend Highway in this area.

J. R. Barnard was driving the highway recently when he caught up to the moose trotting down the road. But when he tried to pass, the moose took the offensive, slashing a tire and denting the grill and fenders before he wandered away.

"Did you have the car out last night, son?"

"Yes, Dad, I took some of the boys for a run."

"Well, tell the boys I found one of their little lace handkerchiefs."

Australia Develops Tennis Players

SPORTS CAMERA

By Gerry Lougheed, Canadian Press Staff Writer

It's no accident that Australia produces such outstanding tennis stars as Frank Sedgman, Ken McGregor, Rex Hartwig, Johnny Bromwich, Ken Rosewell and Mervyn Rose.

With such players Australia has been able to dominate Davis Cup play over the United States, whose population is about 20 times as large.

Twenty-three-year-old Mervyn Rose, Australia's No. 1 player and seeded fifth in world rankings, gave a few of the reasons when he was competing at the Canadian tennis championships at Toronto this summer.

"First of all, tennis is THE sport in Australia", he said. "About one person in eight is an ardent tennis player. That's about 1,000,000 people."

There's nothing haphazard about the way players are developed there.

"It's a planned, orderly process. For example a boy starts off in the schoolboy championships. If he's good enough, he moves up to the Linton Cup matches which are patterned after the Davis Cup and are an interstate competition for teenagers.

"Next step is the interstate tournament for those out of their teens, the nationals and finally the Davis Cup team."

Like a fighter training for a match, Aussie Davis Cup players keep in shape all the time.

When Rose and Hartwig turned up for the Canadian tournament they arrived on a Sunday morning. They worked out a couple of hours later on the courts and again in the afternoon. Then they went for a two-mile run.

"We run all the time and often work out in a nearby gym", Rose said.

Echoes of Past

Ad Wolgast, whose name last appeared in the sports pages almost 40 years ago, was back in the news recently. He was critically ill in a California mental hospital that has ben his home for a number of years.

Now 65, Wolgast held the world lightweight boxing title from 1910 to 1912. He won it on a technical knockout over Battling Nelson in a real fight to the finish.

The referee stopped the fight in the 40th round, Nelson a bleeding and helpless hulk.

Wolgast, who was confident he could outlast the "Durable Dane", bet heavily on himself and was reported to have won $20,000. Gentleman Jim Corbett's poolroom in San Francisco was said to have handled close to $1,000,000 in wagers.

Wolgast was said to have been worth $250,000 at the peak of his brief career.

"SUNNYACRES SKETCHES"
By Margaret Cook

This little number has been long in gestation — seven weeks, in fact — so it ought to be better than it probably will be. (Think that sentence over; you will need to, for it is pure Irish.) Just a drop of negro blood seems to pour oil on the muscles and put an antidote to worry in the blood, so, a pinch of Irish affects the tongue with whimsy. Our friends love it and our enemies hate it, and who could hesitate as to which are more important? . . .

Speaking of enemies, I hate the typesetter who sold the Sunnyacres bulbs short to the tune of 4,500 in the second to last article. There were 5,000 bulbs at Sunnyacres. We disposed of the last of them on Thanksgiving Day, after a terrific struggle, involving 1,035 in a single week-end. It's not the planting, you understand, but the digging, some of which we did with our own scarred and blackened hands. About half of the 5,000 was given away, so some of our readers can now say, in a bad parody of Brooke's poem, "Wherever a bulb lies, there lies a bit of Sunnyacres". The moral of all this is that bulbs should be dug up and separated at frequent intervals in order to discourage their simple but excessive propagating habits.

* * *

Sunnyacres was at its best the Thanksgiving week-end, or so we thought, although Amos tells us that the previous week was the better. Anyway, the hills were clothed in beauty. We drove up to the "Look-out", above Christieville, and there the panorama of the ancient Laurentians unfolded itself, colored by the Master Painter. Fold upon fold of what looked like velvet in shades of burnt orange, purple, indigo, scarlet, umber and beige, stretched around us and cradled the village of Morin Heights in the trough of the bowl made by the hills. This look-out is a favorite spot of ours and we recommend it to people who wish to "get away from it all". We drove back along Route 30 on a grey road twisting its way through a tunnel of color. That particular day, the sun was lacking to light the road into cathedral beauty. But Thanksgiving Day outdid itself. We ate breakfast, with our eyes on the little grove behind the house, lighted up by the morning sun; for some reason the maples in that grove do not put on tapestry colors, they deck themselves in chartreuse, lime, shocking pink and clear yellow. The effect is enough to make one forget the lumps in the porridge that the man of the house insists on making — and worse, on our eating.

* * *

Along with 50 others, we ate a delicious Thanksgiving dinner at the local hotel. The room was colorful with sprays of autumn leaves, and the tables beautifully decorated, the best piece being a pumpkin hollowed out and filled with the fruits of the countryside. The bright sun poured in through the windows and we were a happy company, served by two pretty girls. I thought, as I looked around at the various tables and the animated faces, how fortunate we are in Canada! Food is plentiful and can be skilfully prepared, which adds to its enjoyment. The climate is capricious but can be utterly delightful, as it was on Thanksgiving. We all can earn enough money to exist comfortably, and, best of all, we are FREE. . .

We feel that the famous three freedoms should also list a fourth, the blessed freedom to grumble. If we think the Prime Minister, the Governor-General, the rector, the school principal, the local bigwig, collectively or singly drips or dim-wits, we are free to say so, thereby letting off steam, which if bottled up would, like all steam, explode with disastrous consequences. But just try any of these little vocal exercises in an undemocratic country and see what would happen. The writer feels that she would have spent all her life in a concentration camp, did she live in some well-known countries. So, stop grouching for a moment and count your blessings.

* * *

All this must be very dry fare for our younger readers, so we give them two animal stories. The first is a sequel to the tale of Petunia, the skunk, which we wrote some months ago. Petunia is now in the zoo at Granby. As she was the second skunk to be admitted, the authorities thought it a pretty good idea to put them together. The pair were happy, but Petunia got rapidly fat and the other quickly thin. Then it was discovered that Petunia was eating both her share and that of her room-mate; you see, Petunia, having lived with humans, had become sophisticated, so that the novelty of her surroundings and the strangeness of her keepers affected her not at all. The other skunk was evidently of a retiring nature. Now Petunia has a place all to herself where she graciously welcomes her former owners when they visit her. She is thoroughly content, so that story ends happily.

The other story concerns a dog and a cat in Huntingdon. The cat had kittens and, in her zeal to supply herself and her family, tried to cross the busy main street of the town, only to be run down by a hit-and-run driver. The kittens, who were still dependent on their mother for their food, were in a bad spot. Their mistress made attempts with a doll's nursing bottle, but had little success. In this emergency, the dog of the family, a beautiful Irish setter, also a recent mother, took over. Picking up the pitiful orphans by their necks, she transferred them to her basket and proceeded to teach them the facts of suckling as practised by dogs. Since an Irish setter is many times larger than a cat, the structural difficulties were immense, and all the kittens but one died. He learned to extract nourishment from his foster mother and is now several weeks old and growing mightier by the hour. Only one thing distinguishes him from any small cat; the back of his neck is always damp from being carried about by the setter, who seemingly worries a lot about its charge and insists on carrying it hither and yon, probably doubting its power to walk, or perhaps haunted by the thought of the fate of its friend, the mother cat.

Our own Peter, the Persian, has just jumped up onto the typewriter table and is startled by the way the keys jump up and down; come to think of it, so am I! I have just realized that the typing now goes along at quite a reasonable rate. We even use three fingers on each hand. "Never mind that", urges Peter, "I'm hungry". So, we go to feed the cat, wash the dishes, answer the phone, sort the laundry, dust the house, answer the phone, unpack a bag, answer the phone, begin the green tomato pickles, answer the phone — well, anyway, you get the idea. Nothing, as we have observed before, is so difficult as being both Martha and Mary. We have enjoyed the Mary phase and we shall detest the Martha part, but both are necessary.

Official Coronation Film To Be Shown Oct. 29

Color Program Appearing In Local Church Hall

The official Coronation technicolor film, "A Queen is Crowned", will be shown in St. Simeon's Church hall, Lachute, at 8.15 p.m. Thursday, October 29. This picture has been drawing capacity audiences in Canada and United States, and it is expected that many people in the Lachute area who have not yet seen it will be glad of this opportunity to do so.

An added feature will be a fine film, "Canadian Pattern", which has recently completed a successful run in one of the leading Montreal theatres. In color and sound, a tour of the 10 provinces of Canada is shown.

Walter L. Payne, of St. Andrews East, who has recently returned from an extended visit to the West, will introduce the program and give a few personal impressions of what has been described as the "fantastic" development of Canada in recent years.

Canadian industry produces some 815,000,000 paper drinking cups each year.

Hockey's Hewitt

Now the 1953-54 hockey season is under way, Foster Hewitt, Canada's best-known sports commentator will soon celebrate 23 years of broadcasting play-by-play accounts of the great Canadian sport. His vivid descriptions of NHL games from the Maple Leaf Gardens are heard each week during the winter months by an estimated audience of 5,000,000 sports fans in Canada and the United States. By way of the exciting voice on CBC networks, Saturday night has truly become "Hockey Night in Canada".

MUSIC SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED TO CANADIANS

London — As a result of the examination conducted in Canada this year the Associated Board of Royal Schools of Music in Britain has elected two candidates to the Scholarships which it offered in the Dominion. Scholarships, each worth $560 a year for three years, have been awarded to Daryl Irvine of Toronto, whose award is tenable at the Royal College of Music, and Constance Voth, of Winnipeg, whose award is tenable at the Royal Academy of Music.

At the annual meeting of the Laurentian Resorts Association, held at La Sapinière, Val David, it was decided to sponsor a photo contest with a view of publicizing the Laurentians pictorially through the press.

A report of the proceedings includes the following paragraphs:

"It was unanimously decided to launch a Photo Contest through newspapers to obtain 8" x 10" glossy print, exclusive photos of Laurentian scenes, offering prizes of $15, $10 and $5 for the three best pictures selected by the jury, with contest closing November 15. Any other pictures submitted and considered good for publicity purposes will be paid for, at the specified price of $2, when published. Pictures submitted for the contest must be exclusive, unpublished ones and they shall not be returned to the senders. All pictures entered shall become the exclusive property of Laurentian Resorts Association, whether or not they are used for publicity purposes or otherwise, but payment therefor shall become due only when they are released to the press for publication.

"A second contest could be held a month or so later, the first pictures so gathered to be used for immediate fall publicity and the second lot as promotional material later this winter when the skiing season is in full swing and more recent pictures of special events or snow-clad scenery can be obtained."

The assembly was under chairmanship of the president, Louis Cochand.

The president read to the meeting a letter from Gerard Lefebvre, of Lachute, secretary of the Chambre de Commerce des Laurentides, advising that a letter of congratulation has been written by the Chamber to Prime Minister Duplessis for his favorable remarks regarding the improvement of the highways leading to the Laurentians, possibly including a toll super-highway.

S. W. Ferguson was unanimously elected as president for the ensuing year.

Orange seeds were brought to Haiti by Columbus on his second voyage, in 1493, says the Reader's Digest. By the 16th century oranges were plentiful in Florida. The first sizable grove in California was planted by a Jesuit priest in 1804. Today Americans consume more oranges — about a pound a week per person — than all other fruits combined.

Strange Sight in Park

On a high place in a park two people were lying beneath a tree. They had brought a rug and two pillows. This was early last month at about three in the afternoon of a warm day. A thermos bottle and lunch basket indicated there had been a picnic. The two picnickers were asleep now, man and woman, sprawled on the rug among magazines, a book about bird-watching, a camera and a pair of field glasses.

To the little group wandering along a path of the park and coming upon this tableau it all looked very pleasant and even romantic — except for one thing. This one thing was sitting up on the rug and it didn't fit the picture at all, even although on reflection its purpose could be reconciled with the surroundings. The thing was an alarm clock. — The Printed Word

At Home

Are you planning a Hallowe'en party for the children? Here's a game that's bound to keep them laughing. It's called "Chin the Apple".

The children are divided into two teams. Each team forms a line of alternating boys and girls. The person at the end of each line is given an apple which he places under his chin, holding it in place by pressing it to his chest with his lower jaw. At the command "GO!" the heads of each line turn around and try to pass the apple to the chin of the person next in line. No one may use his hands. The apple is passed down the line and of course the first team to pass the apple all the way down the line is the winner. If the apple should fall to the ground, the person who was trying to pass it must pick it up, replace it under his chin, and try again.

Note: If some bright boy suggests using an egg instead of an apple, well, we'll leave that up to you.

* * *

Does this ever happen to you?

The afternoon was not in vain,
This meal looks not half bad.
It looks almost as good
As the "full-color" ad.

When I set it on the table,
It will be my claim to fame,
But I'll bet the dirty dishes
That I'll hear, "NOT THAT AGAIN!"

While we're in the kitchen, here's an easy apple dessert to use up some of those still-plentiful apples. . . . Pour your favorite light cake batter into a pan. Cover it with a thick layer of very thinly sliced apples. Sprinkle with half white, half brown sugar, and a very little cinnamon. Bake as usual for your light cake. It's extra delicious when sprinkled with walnut meats. Or, if your family are cheese lovers, try topping it with thin slices of cheese.

* * *

Thought on fall housecleaning. . . The most difficult part of it seems to be: keeping your mind on the job at hand, and forgetting how much has still to be done.

* * *

And a note to golf widows. . . If the nice weather continues much longer, he'll be spending Christmas Day putting on the storm windows.

Around the Town

Nice people — seen at the Post Office. One of the pleasant young employees taking time out during the twelve o'clock rush to help a small, shy girl through her first attempt at "getting the mail".

* * *

One local mother has a new definition for Television. She says that it's an invention specially designed for keeping children up past their bedtime.

* * *

And another mother has hit on a clever idea. She sends her wandering two-year-old out to play with a card firmly pinned on her chest. The card gives the wee girl's name and "return" address.

* * *

Now that these evening "buying" parties are in full swing again, we can't help wishing that some company would organize a series of them to sell their products to men. Then we might not have so much difficulty explaining why we spent $15 on things we really didn't need, at a "Nylon Party"!

See you next week.

You can't go "ALL-OUT" If you feel "ALL-IN"

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 53

Let's Eat
BY
IDA BAILEY ALLEN

Experiments are currently being made to find out what determines success in pre-packaging fresh produce.

Test Results

These tests showed that successful pre-packaging of vegetables for consumers depends not only on the initial quality of the vegetables and the container used, but also on the proper ventilation of the package and on adequate refrigeration.

Proper ventilation of the containers or bags helps to retain the original quality of the vegetables and to delay spoilage. Refrigeration was found to be essential, particularly with the vegetables that spoil easily. This included cooling the vegetables before packaging, and also refrigerated storage after they are packaged.

To insure top eating quality, there's one thing left for you to do in your home: Keep the packaged produce cold, and use as soon as possible.

It's Pumpkin Time!

At this time of the year it is a case of going, going, gone for peaches, tomatoes and cherries are all a thing of the past. At present, however, plenty of rich, orange pumpkins are waiting for homemakers all across Canada to make use of them.

Pumpkins are native to our country and their history dates back to the Indians who inhabited our vast land. Botanically, there is no established basis for distinguishing squash and pumpkin, but the term pumpkin is used in the proper sense as meaning the big orange colored fruit which is used for pies, Hallowe'en lanterns and for canning. Pumpkins are a favorite at this time of year for it is now that children delight in scaring adults with gratesque faces. However, besides this important service of entertainment, the pumpkin has many uses as a food.

In general, there are two classes of pumpkins grown in Canada, those used for stock feed and those used for pie making. The "Small Sugar" pumpkin, the "Winter Luxury" and the "Large Cheese", are the best varieties for eating. Always choose those that are heavy for their size and that are bright in color. When you get them home, store the pumpkins in a cool, dry place.

Pumpkin pie is a superlative dessert and one that everyone loves. The home economists of the Consumer Section at Ottawa have a couple of ideas for dressing up pumpkin pie that sound very good. They suggest adding a little ginger to the whipped cream used for topping the pie. It gives a different flavor to the cream which is most delightful. Another good idea they suggest, is to sprinkle chopped peanut brittle over the cooked pie.

Did you know that pumpkin is one fruit that is used in different ways in different countries? In Canada we add spices and perhaps a little molasses to cooked pumpkin and we have a fragrant pie. In South America they use pumpkin to make soups and stews or in that country, you may find pumpkin combined with egg and formed into delicate little cakes that are fried in deep fat. In Mexico, they like to eat pumpkin seeds. They roast them and eat them as we would eat roasted peanuts. Sometimes they use the home freezers or frozen food seeds to make pumpkin meal.

Now that many homemakers have lockers, they preserve their winter food supply by freezing rather than by canning. The Consumer Section has just published a new bulletin entitled "Freezing Foods". The bulletin tells how to freeze fruits and vegetables, meat, poultry, eggs and baked foods. It is available, free of charge, from the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Write now for a copy of this excellent bulletin. The instructions for freezing pumpkin as given in the new bulletin are as follows: Select well-matured pumpkins with dry pulp. Cut or break the pumpkin apart, remove the seeds and pit by portions. Cut the pumpkin into small pieces and steam, boil or bake until tender. Cool quickly and remove rind. Mash or sieve the pulp and pack dry in freezer cartons. When you are ready to use this frozen pumpkin it should be thawed and used just as you would use canned or fresh cooked pumpkin.

Homemakers who do not have a frozen food locker, can still store pumpkin for use later on by keeping it in a cool, dry place.

School Days Again For Dutch Mother Of 9

—Central Press Canadian

Five little Dutch immigrant children have no chance to play hookey, for their mother, age 45, is a daily attendant at the same county school at Paincourt, Ont. Mrs. Adrianus Smit, mother of nine, is determined to learn English so she hustles through her household chores in time to set off with five of her brood to school. The Smits arrived in Canada in July from Rotterdam. Mr. Smit, a carpenter in Holland, works as a farm laborer.

Mrs. Skinner: "So! What do you want for $4 a week? Bull fights?"

Our United Nations

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"The U.N. is not a group of foreigners, but one family struggling for peace and security" commented Shirley Hornseth, one of the four Saskatchewan representatives on the U.N. Youth Pilgrimage Tour which recently were escorted through the U.N. Headquarters. To visit New York must be thrilling — but to be one of a group of thirty-one young people from the Western area of Canada and United States to see the U.N. at work must have been a wonderful experience.

We cannot all go on a trip to the centre of U.N. activities, but we can all become better informed about just what the United Nations is doing. For interesting facts we can ask the librarian at the Public Library to show us the books or pamphlets on the U.N. One of the best 1953 books on international co-operation is "World in the Making" by James Avery Joyce (Thomas Neilson & Sons) which parents and Collegiate students could read and discuss. Among the new books, "A Fair World For All", by D. C. Fisher, published by McGraw Hill is also worth buying. Mention these two books as good additions for a school or public library.

Children are naturally interested in other children throughout the world and the United Nations has a fine record in the practical help it has given to sixty million needy youngsters through the U.N. International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF). For over six years both governments and individuals have voluntarily contributed over one hundred and fifty-five million dollars to aid children in over seventy countries. These hungry, ill-clad children are scattered over Africa, Asia, Europe, the Eastern Mediterranean and Latin America.

Large scale feeding propects, distributing essential commodities such as milk and rice have been carried out. Cotton, wool and leather have been sent to clothe and shoe five million European little waifs. Penicillin and D.D.T. have saved thousands of children from disease. All the profit from the UNICEF Christmas Greeting and Note Cards go directly towards assisting needy children. These cards picture small boys and girls in five different lands watching various animals transport supplies.

Why not show your interest by ordering these cards from the U.N. Association in Canada, (340 McLeod Street, Ottawa)? At the same time, ask for free pamphlets and information on individual, family and group membership in this organization which is doing so much to arouse public support of the U.N. A copy of the light blue U.N. flag poster, showing the white laurel leaves and also the color poster of the flags of the member nations of the U.N. may be obtained from this office too.

A librarian in Boys and Girls House (the library for children in Toronto) recently said, "Children certainly are keen about flags! Our books on them are out all the time!" Every Canadian child should know the United Nations flag as well as the Red Ensign and the Union Jack. A most attractive volume, "The Book of Flags" by Campbell and Evans (Oxford University Press) with its fine color plates would make a splendid Birthday or Christmas gift for a school age son or daughter.

October 24th, United Nations Day, should be celebrated in your home. It falls this year on a Saturday. At meal time, why not discuss the U.N. with your children?

It is so foolish to look for perfection and criticise the U.N. for the amount of debate which takes place and the slowness of political action. Do remember that questions are being discussed in five languages by delegates from sixty different countries familiar with varying parliamentary procedure! For better or for worse, the hope of the peace, progress and prosperity of our world to a very great extent lies with the United Nations.

As fathers and mothers let's become better informed about all the vast amount of work the U.N. committees are quietly accomplishing from year to year! Let's back the U.N. whole-heartedly! It is our United Nations! If we don't hang together we will most certainly hang separately! Surely a sobering thought!

Protection for Flowers

Were you disappointed in some of the plants in your flower garden this summer? Were they killed off with rust or mildew just when they should have been coming into bloom?

During the growing season, the Botany and Plant Pathology Division of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, receives a large number of requests for information about the diseases of ornamental plants. A frequent request concerns rust disease of hollyhocks, and as a rule the information is sought at a time when the plants are severely affected. Since the older fungicides were effective, as protectants only, requiring the leaves of the plants to be kept covered with it well before and during the time the disease might make its appearance, little or no control could be effected after the infection was established and became noticeable.

Some of the newer fungicides, however, are proving effective after infection has occurred. A Zineb spray powder (known under various trade names as Dithane-Z-78, King Dithane Z-78, Parzate Zineb Wetable Powder, or Blightox 50-W) used as a spray four times at 10-day intervals will successfully halt the progress of rust and provide protection from further infections without injuring the flowers. It has proved effective in controlling rust on hollyhocks and snapdragons, and mildrew on tuberous begonias and phlox, but a few plants are subject to injury from it ,notably certain carities of roses, so it should not be used indiscriminately. Follow closely the directions on the package.

Plants wintered over in the garden should be treated as soon as evidence of infection appears and again if re-infection occurs.

Waste paper baskets that can be rinsed out under a cold water tap are among the plastics industry's latest contribution to easy housekeeping. Moulded of flexible polythene, they will outlast most conventional types.

THOUGHTS AND DEEDS

By M. V. Trayers

Spain

I was all wrong about Spain. It was not altogether my fault; like the late Will Rogers, "I only know what I read in the papers", and the opinions I held about Spain were not by own, much as I prided myself on my independent thinking. They were served up to me daily. Spain was among the "untouchables", she was an outcast among the comity of nations. For the life of me I can't say why, but the fact was there. Now the trend has changed. Spain is absolutely necessary to the preservation of peace. . . Peace! What travesties have been perpetuated in thy name. Mackay said: "Every man's experience of today, is that he was a fool yesterday and the day before yesterday. Tomorrow he will most likely be of exactly the same opinion." Experience keeps a dear school. Nobody will use other people's experience, nor has any of his own till it is too late to use it. Like John Wesley, "When I was young I was sure of everything; in a few years, having been mistaken a thousand times, I was not half so sure of most things as I was before; at present, I am hardly sure of anything but what God has revealed to me."

But to get back to Spain. Years ago I was told, "There is no country in Europe which is so easy to overrun as Spain; there is no country in Europe which is so difficult to conquer. Nothing can be more contemptible than the regular military resistance which Spain offers to an invader; nothing more formidable than the energy which she puts forth when her regular military resistance has been beaten down. Her armies have long borne too much resemblance to mobs; but her mobs have had, in an unusual degree, the spirit of armies. The soldier, as compared with other soldiers, is deficient in military qualities; but the peasant has as much of those qualities as the soldier. In no country have such strong fortresses been taken by surprise; in no country have unfortified towns made so furious and obstinate a resistance to great armies. War in Spain has, from the days of the Romans, had a character of its own; it burns fiercely under the embers; and long after it has, to all seeming, been extinguished, it bursts forth more violently than ever. This was seen in the last war. Spain had no army which could have looked in the face of an equal number of French or German soldiers, but one day she laid the Prussian monarchy in the dust, and one day she put the crown of France at the disposal of invaders. No Jena, no Waterloo. Spain the antithesis."

To Stand and Stare

What is this life if, full of care,
We have no time to stand and stare?
No time to stand beneath the boughs,
And stare as long as sheep and cows.
No time to see when woods we pass,
Where squirrels hide their nuts in grass.
No time to see in broad daylight
Streams full of stars, like skies at night.
No time to turn at beauty's glance,
And watch her feet — how they can dance.
No time to wait till her mouth can enrich
That smile her eyes began.
A poor life this if, full of care,
We have no time to stand and stare.

No Fire-Sale Prices For Defence Plants

The Federal Government is willing to sell arms plants to private industry if buyers will keep them ready for defence production.

A. V. Roe Canada Ltd., the aircraft manufacturers, have bought up the Malton, Ont., jet engine plant on that basis.

Since the outbreak of the Korean war the Government has invested about $200,000,000 in defence plants.

"If we sell out", a federal official said, "we would like to get back 100 cents to the dollar on the taxpayers' investment. We are not willing to sell for fire-sale prices."

CANADIANS FIND NEW "MA" IN ANTWERP — It seems that wherever the Canadian soldier goes he soon finds himself a "Ma". When the 27th Brigade moved to Antwerp they discovered a little café, the Saxonia, near their headquarters and it was not long before the charming owner had won the patriotism of a good number of Canadian soldiers. It was obvious that they would soon be calling her "ma". "Ma" Van Geel has served a lot of Canadian soldiers since she opened her little café, and was there to welcome the Canadians after the liberation in 1945. Here she serves Belgium-style tea to RCASC Driver Pte. Vernon Nickerson of Overton, N.S., centre, and Sgt. Bill Martin, of London, Ont. — National Defence Photo

Badges of New Active-Force Regiments

These are the hat badges of two newly-formed regiments of the Active Force, the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada and the Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment) of Canada, details of which were announced at Ottawa recently, in a statement on changes in organization of the Canadian Army Active Force. Histories of the units date back to the earliest days of the Canadian Militia. The units replace the 1st and 2nd Canadian Rifle Battalions and the 1st and 2nd Canadian Highland Battalions.

West Germany Sells More to Canada

German exports to Canada during the first six months of this year were 50 per cent higher than for the same period last year, primarily because of effective promotion in the Canadian market. Western German exporters, slightly discouraged by the decrease in sales to Canada during 1952, have grown optimistic again as the effort to cultivate the Canadian market over the past few years begins to bear fruit. April exports from Germany to Canada totalled $3 million, compared with $1.1 million for April 1952, and the increase was maintained during May and June, with totals of $2.6 and $2.8 million respectively. The value for the first six months rose to almost $14 million, compared with approximately $9 million for the same period of 1952. This development in trade between Germany and Canada is particularly significant because it takes place in the face of trade uncertainties stemming from the conclusion of the Korean armistice. However, there is still a sizable balance in Canada's favor.

Cotton and synthetic textiles, machine tools, automobiles, chemicals, cameras, sewing machines, surgical instruments, sheet glass, scissors, clocks, hand tools, etc., have all shared in the increased sales to Canada. Machine tool makers feel somewhat less optimistic about prospects in the Canadian market than they were earlier this year, but this is partly the result of an anticipated rearmament slowdown. However, demand for consumer goods shows an upturn.

Regina (CP) — Weeds choking the cooling water intakes forced a shutdown of Regina's power house for a short period. Wascana Lake is high this year because of abundant rain which increased the weed growth.

Fred forgot one thing...

He forgot that a bit of wood preservative*, applied at little cost when the fence was put in, would have saved him the cost of new posts now.

In the telephone business, as around your own home, we find it's better to do the job right in the first place and then look after it. It's the best way we know to avoid heavy repair and replacement costs, to save expense and give you most service for your money.

That's why we treat telephone poles against rot; why we keep our trucks clean and in good repair; why we put up exchanges and offices to last.

It's common sense if we are to keep our costs down—and the price of your telephone service low.

Ottawa Appoints Ambassador To Spain

Eisenhower, on Visit to Capital, Expected to Address Parliament

By Don Haworth,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Oct. 20 (CP) — Canada has appointed its first ambassador to Franco's Spain.

He is Lt.-Gen. Maurice Pope, who has been for three years Ambassador to Belgium and Minister to Luxembourg. He is 64, and comes from Riviere du Loup, Que.

Previously Canada has only a trade commissioner in Madrid.

An External Affairs Department spokesman said the new appointment does not imply Canadian approval of Franco's government, but "rounds out" Canadian representation overseas.

In 1946 the United Nations condemned the Franco regime as a dictatorship. Some countries withdrew their envoys. Then in 1950 the UN changed its mind. And the envoys went back again.

A few weeks ago the U.S. signed a pact exchanging financial help to Spain for the use of Spanish military bases.

But for Britain, Spain can have no real friendship until Gibraltar is handed over. Mariano de Yturralde y Orbegoso, recently appointed Spanish Ambassador to Canada, said so recently.

Eisenhower Here Soon

President Eisenhower, accompanied by his wife, will arrive at Ottawa Friday November 13 for a three-day visit.

It is hoped he will address both Houses of Parliament on Saturday, November 14.

Mr. Eisenhower was last at Ottawa in January, 1951, when he came for a day as Supreme Commander of NATO forces.

It will be the third state visit to Ottawa by a U.S. president. President Roosevelt was here in August, 1943, and President Truman in July, 1947. Mr. Eisenhower will be the first Republican president to make an official visit.

Freight Rates Changed

The West has got the cut it has long been demanding in rail freight charges.

The Board of Transport Commissioners here ordered the railways to reduce class (ceiling) rates in western Canada by five per cent; to compensate they can charge up to 10 per cent more in Ontario and Quebec.

These changes, which come into effect November 15, are a temporary measure for rate equalization. A permanent arrangement should go into effect at the beginning of 1955.

The CPR says it will lose $5,200,000 a year. Both CPR and CNR say the gain in central Canada will not compensate for the loss in the West.

C.I.P. Buys $1-million Hardwoods Annually from Argenteuil Farmers

Directors of the International Paper Company of New York and officers of the Canadian International Paper Company visited the four company mills at Gatineau and its Ottawa subsidiary recently and expressed keen satisfaction with production.

"There is no limit to the amount of jackpine that we can use at Gatineau in the masonite, ten-test and sulphite processes", said Vernon Johnston, C.I.P. president.

Mr. Johnston said that about 3,000 men are already at work in the Upper and Lower camps of the company getting next winter's cut of wood under way.

The company had spent about $9,000,000 in converting the Hawkesbury mill so that hardwoods could be used in the manufacture of pulp which, in turn, was used for the manufacture of rayon products, backing for carpets; cellophane, plastics, film paper and textiles, he stated.

Operations at Hawkesbury meant $1,000,000 a year to the farmers of Argenteuil County, who sold their hardwoods — mostly maple — to the Hawkesbury plant. About 50,000 cords were purchased annually.

The Hawkesbury mill is the only one in North America where hardwoods were used to produce pulp.

Mr. Johnston was also enthusiastic about the company's Harrington forest farm in Argenteuil County, where farmers were taught how to handle their own woodlots. The farm was operated so it would replenish itself. "We try to help Nature to replant and restock", he added. He was sure "Nature did a better job than we do in reforestation."

Mr. Johnston said the company had evolved a spray which had been used successfully over 2,000,000 acres in Northern New Brunswick in combatting the spruce budworm.

The International Paper and Canadian International Paper directors and officials visited the Hawkesbury plant and industrial cellulose research laboratory also at Hawkesbury.

Pay for ex-P.O.W.s?

Ottawa (CP) —

Prime Minister St. Laurent indicated that the government is likely to make money awards as compensation to all the 8,000 Canadian military personnel and merchant seamen who were prisoners in Europe in the Second World War.

The 1,417 Canadians held in the Far East or by criminal organizations such as Hitler's S.S. have already been given $1 a day for the term of their imprisonment. Such awards are additional to regular service pay.

Chief Justice Thane A. Campbell, chief war claims commissioner, who has inquired into general P.O.W. conditions in Europe, now reports that all Canadian captives were maltreated to some degree. The recommended compensation ranges from 20 cents per day to a maximum of $1 per day of imprisonment, the latter for those

Excavation Started for Post Office Building

Original Plans Revised To Provide for Two-Storey Structure

Construction on Lachute's new $252,000 two-storey post-office commenced Monday when Paul Lafleur, contractor, of Montreal, started work on the foundation, employing local truckers.

The 85 by 65-foot building is to be erected on the site of the former Cosy Inn between the present post-office and Mrs. Douglas McOuat's business block. As regards the ground floor it will closely follow the original plan which was reproduced in both local papers in March, 1952. In addition to this plan, a second storey has now been added. The ground floor, according to the architect's drawing, will be a public office almost at street level, well lighted with plate-glass windows.

The Customs and Excise Departments will be housed in the second storey of the new building, and alterations will be made to the old building to allow adequate space for the National Employment Office, which will be housed on the ground floor. Several offices, for other Federal Government employees serving this locality, will be on the second storey, along with the caretaker's quarters.

The contract was given to the lowest tenderer, and the time provision for completion is nine months.

Week-End Bush Fire Menaced Camps, Homes at St. Colomban

A heavy rainstorm early Monday morning quelled the bush fire near St. Colomban, some 15 miles north-east of Lachute. The fast-spreading fire, fanned by changing winds, burned through a 20-mile area of dense timberland in the vicinity of the village.

The fire, believed to have been started by careless hunters in the district, threatened the camp homes of more than 30 families on the St. Colomban - St. Jerome road. Three families were evacuated from their homes.

Some 400 volunteer firefighters from neighboring villages and St. Jerome, managed to confine the blaze Sunday night. A constantly changing wind made it difficult to head off the advance of the blaze.

A bulldozer was called in to dig a ditch to prevent the fire from spreading.

Early Sunday morning, Leo-Paul Cavana, a garage owner at St. Colomban, contacted parish priests at St. Canut, Ste. Scholastique, St. Hermas and Cote St. Louis. The priests recruited the volunteers, who battled the fire from morning until late evening. The firefighters gathered at St. Colomban a short time after Cavana's call and then entered the dense timberland.

The fire was first spotted late Saturday night by two hunters, who reported the blaze to officials at St. Colomban.

The Val Morin Fire Department was asked to send 8,000 feet of hose to pump water from a nearby creek.

Meanwhile, residents cut down trees in the path of the fire and dug ditches to prevent the flames reaching the village.

Fears that some of the men might become lost in the woods proved groundless when all of the recruits were accounted for. Many of the volunteers were between 14 and 18 years of age.

Police Chief's Message To Hallowe'en Funsters

With the advent of Hallowe'en comes the likelihood of much unnecessary damage. To children and teen-agers with a distorted sense of fun, the following message is issued by Police Chief Donat Villeneuve:

"I would like to point out one fact to these young citizens of our town," says the Police Chief. "When you damage street and stop signs, you and your parents have to pay for the purchase of new ones, and the town employees have to spend time replacing them when they should be concentrating on other work that is more important. These stop signs have to be erected to instruct motorists as to who has the right of way.

"Another very dangerous practice is the placing of rocks and other obstructions on the town streets and highways. Think how you would feel if your family were seriously injured or killed in the car that crashed into a road-block which you had set up 'just for fun'. It could easily happen.

"When out in the sreets this Saturday evening, have a good time — but remember, a good time is possible without causing damage to other people's property, which your family may have to pay for."

$4,000 Robbery At C.P.R. Station And Express Office

Thieves escaped with about 50 express packages valued in the vicinity of $4,000 from the Canadian Pacific Express office late Thursday night. The miscreants gained entry to the office — and the C.P.R. ticket office, where they took a portable radio — by breaking the glass in the windows. An attempt had been made to enter by prying the windows open but all were locked and resisted their efforts.

Several local citizens who noted a suspicious-looking trio in town, have been questioned by Police Chief Donat Villeneuve, Det. Maurice Lamoureux and Georges-E. Gravel of the Canadian Pacific Railway police, and search for the suspects is being continued here and across the river in Ontario.

Iron Ore Starts Rolling Next Year From Ungava

Premier Duplessis Will Inaugurate $200-Million Mining Development

By Bernard Dufresne

Quebec, Oct. 26 (CP) — Iron ore from the Ungava region of Northern Quebec will start rolling next year on a $125,000,000 railway, to be loaded on ore carriers for the United States, Premier Duplessis has announced.

Production and shipping of Ungava ore, said to compare with Minnesota's famed but dwindling Mesabi Range, will start sometime "next fall", Mr. Duplessis said. He wil personally inaugurate the $200,000,000 development.

He said the Ungava ore project was only the start of an era of development throughout the 311,000-square-mile area.

Officials of the developing company, the Iron Ore Company of Canada, have visited the premier to seek help in construction of homes for company employees at Sept Iles, St. Lawrence gulf town where the ore carriers will take on the ore.

"There are more than 6,000 employed on this project at the moment, and when the job is finished about 2,000 will be permanently employed", Mr. Duplessis noted.

Grenv'l Physician Goes To U.N. Post in India

Ottawa — Dr. Oliver Leroux, a Grenville, Que., physician, has left Canada to assume a new position in India with the United Nations' World Health Organization.

The National Health Department said Dr. Leroux, 46, will serve for two years as area supervisor for Southeast India, with headquarters at New Delhi. He served in India during the war with the Royal Army Medical Corps.

Dr. Leroux is on leave of absence from the National Health Department, where he has served as assistant director of health insurance studies.

Sugar Camp and Equipment Burned In Bush Fire

Over $1,000 damage resulted from what started as a small bush fire and spread to a sugar camp on the farm of Russel Silverson, six miles east of Lachute on Route 41.

The fire started late Tuesday afternoon in the sugar bush, and the camp and all equipment were destroyed before the blaze was brought under control.

Farmers from the immediate district and from several miles away answered the call for help, and fought the fire with shovels and other tools. The only source of water in the immediate vicinity was a well, which had previously gone dry.

Minor damage was done to the sugar bush, which is expected to be put into operation again next spring.

Catholic Teachers' Resolution on School Book Costs

By Bernard Dufresne

Quebec, Oct. 26 (CP) — Roman Catholic teachers of this province asked last week that the cost of school books be shared by the government, school boards and parents.

At a week-end meeting, the general council of the Provincial Corporation of Catholic Teachers urged in a resolution that the cost be split up this way: 50 per cent by the Provincial Government, 25 per cent by the school boards and 25 per cent by the parents.

The resolution said is was backing up a similar resolution adopted at a recent convention of the Quebec Federation of School Commissions at Trois Rivières.

The teachers also decided to ask the Public Education Department to make school holidays uniform throughout the province. They said Montreal schools are closed on Thanksgiving Day but schools are not closed elsewhere in the province.

The corporation decided to hold its annual convention in Quebec July 1-3 next.

Most Rev. Maurice Roy, Archbishop of Quebec and Roman Catholic Ordinary of Canada's armed forces, left last Sunday for a month's visit to Canadian troops and seamen in Korea and Japan.

New Parliamentary Appointments at Ottawa

By Don Haworth, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Oct. 20 (CP) — One of the first items of business when the new parliament opens next month is the election of Speakers for both Commons and Senate. Prime Minister St. Laurent has announced the men who will be recommended by the Cabinet for these important posts.

L. Rene Beaudoin, 41-year-old Liberal Member for Vaudreuil-Soulanges, has been recommended by the Cabinet as Speaker of the Commons.

He was Deputy Speaker in the last House, and that post will be taken over by William Robinson, 48, (Simcoe East), chairman of the House Committee for the last few years.

The Speaker gets $6,000 above the sessional indemnity; his deputy gets an extra $4,000.

The former Commons Speaker, Hon. W. Ross Macdonald, 62, of Brantford, Ont., will be government leader in the senate to which he was appointed early last summer. The post carries a seat in the Cabinet without portfolio.

The Speaker of the senate will be Senator W. McL. Robertson, 62, of Halifax, who was government leader in the upper chamber last session. It is understood that for health reasons Senator Robertson preferred that post to continuing as government leader.

Step Up Ladder

Five new men became parliamentary assistants — a step up the ladder to the cabinet — and two other assistants switch departments for the new session.

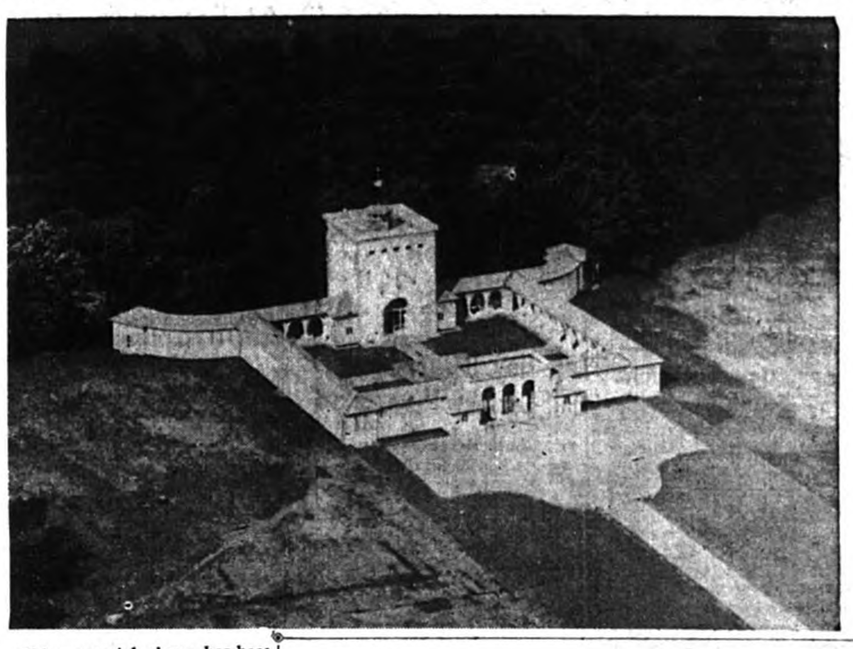

Group Capt. Colin E. Bennett (Grey North, Ont.) a retired RCAF officer who has been in the Commons since 1949, becomes assistant in Veterans Affairs. He is 45.

Maurice Bourget (Levis, Que.), 45-year-old engineer who entered the Commons in 1940, will be assistant to the Works Minister.

T. A. M. Kirk, (Shelburne-Yarmouth-Clare, N.S.) will be assistant to the Postmaster General.

Built of stone it contains 52 chapels, each with the badge of a wartime air force squadron inscribed in the copper ceiling.

Six Fined For Killing Moose

Animals Protected in Argenteuil County Under Game Regulations

Six local hunters have been brought to justice by Fernando Lamarche, District Game Warden, and Arthur Larouche, a warden from Montreal headquarters. The six hunters, five from Grenville and one from Lachute, were convicted of killing a bull moose on the morning of October 12. The animal was shot some two miles east of Dalesville in Argenteuil County, which has been declared a restricted area for moose hunting for a five-year period.

The six were fined a total of $400 for the violation, which was their first offence under Quebec game regulations.

Warden Lamarche and other local officers have received strict orders from the Provincial Fish and Game Department to see that all hunting and fishing laws are strictly observed.

Several other offenders have been brought before the courts and are presently awaiting sentences, to be handed down in the near future.

Court Tightens Rein On Traffic Offenders

St. Jerome Magistrate Gives Further Warning

Lionel Sauvé was fined $100 and costs or 30 days in jail — and his driving permit was suspended throughout Canada, effective immediately, until March 1, 1954 — when he was convicted in St. Jerome court on a double charge of driving while his ability was impaired and of leaving the scene of an accident.

The incident occurred at 4 a.m. September 20 on the Quebec side of the Inter-provincial bridge, when Sauvé, preceeding towards Grenville, struck a car owned by Gerard Lafrance. The arrest was made by Traffic Officer Howard Jones.

Sauvé was refused permission to delay payment of the fine and costs, and is still held in St. Jerome.

Several other local traffic offenders were found guilty of various charges, and paid fines.

"Instead of getting better, speeding and traffic violations of all kinds are getting worse and, commencing immediately, all persons convicted of driving over 50 m.p.h. in towns will lose their driver's license, and anyone convicted of doing 60 in towns will wind up in jail", said Judge Fontaine at the close of Friday's session.

Lachute Represented at Ch. Commerce Laurentide Meeting, Ste. Adele en Bas

Around 50 delegates, representing nearly all the Chambers of Commerce in the Laurentide Region, gathered last Thursday evening at Ste. Adele for a conference of executive members — being the first session held since the new directorate was elected at the regional meeting held in Lachute last month.

Representing Lachute were: Horace Lamarche and Gérard Lefebvre, regional administrator and secretary, respectively; R. A. Giles, local president; Antonio Laurin, representing Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur; Police Chief Donat Villeneuve.

At the Chalet "Quidi Vidi" the secretary of the Ste. Adele Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Lambert, greeted the visitors. Mr. Guérette, from the Quebec Chambers of Commerce, presented the budget for the provincial organization, explaining reason for an increase in the affiliation fees. Proceedings of business at the provincial congress were also reviewed and it was decided to address a letter to Premier Maurice Duplessis and the Quebec authorities, urging construction of a new Laurentian traffic-way to relieve highway congestion.

The question of raising funds for the regional administration, which is without financial resources whatever, occupied attention of the gathering. Many affairs require attendance of the regional officials, who personally defray the incidental expenses, besides giving their time and study. Unanimous approval was given to a suggestion to levy a minimum annual fee from participating groups, and additional for those of larger membership. The region includes 12 groups, comprising roughly 750 members in all.

Others attending from this immediate vicinity included citizens from St. Andrews East and Ste. Scholastique, who both voiced their intention to affiliate with the regional body. A new Chamber of Commerce at St. Hippolyte will also link up with this area.

W.I. Branches Report Doings For October

Lachute Women's Institute reports an attendance of 28 at the October meeting. The roll-call was, "How to be a good Canadian". The Lachute W.I. Library, in the High School, is open to the public every Friday from 3.30 to 4.30 p.m. Miss Smith, the librarian, is receiving 50 new books, for a four months' period, from the McLennan Travelling Library, McGill University. Mr. George F. Calder, the guest speaker, chose as his subject, "Legal Documents, and How to Make a Proper Will".

At Upper Lachute-East End, a committee was appointed to make arrangements for a card party in November. Mrs. Geo. Leggett gave a very interesting talk on the A.C.W.W. convention, telling of the women she had met, and what she learned about their countries and customs.

Frontier branch had a talk on "Education and Better Schools" by Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A. A Hallowe'en party is planned for the children. Donations were voted as follows: $25 to the Service Fund; $10 to the School Fair; $10.75 to the Educational Fund; $10 to the School for the Blind, in memory of Miss L. Cleland.

Lakefield members answered the roll-call with a Safety Rule. A report of the board meeting was heard. Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh was named as delegate to the semi-annual convention. Plans were made for a "military whist", also a Hallowe'en party for October 31.

At Pioneer branch, a talk was given by Dr. F. W. FitzGerald on Women's Diseases. There were 17 members present. A parcel of food is being sent overseas for Christmas. A list of articles was made up for the Exhibition in 1954.

Brownsburg reports an attendance of 38; the roll-call was a First Aid Hint. The Health and Welfare convener had charge of the meeting and Miss Lois Bennett, R.N., gave a talk on "The Duties of a School Nurse". The sum of $47 was given to the Quebec Service Fund, and $11.75 to the Educational Fund. Plans were made for entertaining the teachers at next meeting.

There are primary textile mills in 269 Canadian communities and the industry is the country's largest employer of manufacturing labor.

October Meeting, Ayersv'l Council

The regular session of Ayersville Council was held Monday evening, under chairmanship of Mayor Gilbert E. Ayers and with all councillors attending.

Accounts to the total of $464.77 were approved for payment.

A resolution was drawn up to petition the Quebec Roads Department to install a 40-inch pipe under Route 8 — the municipality agreeing to dig a ditch ½-mile in length to facilitate drainage of water.

The mayor and Secretary Armand Brisson were authorized to sign all documents constituting agreements with Lachute Town on the matter of water supply.

Notice of motion will be presented at next meeting concerning winter road maintenance; also for a by-law to regulate traffic and parking, and to decree stops at various intersections within the municipality.

Local Chamber of Commerce Resumes Progress Activities

The fall activities of Lachute Chamber of Commerce commenced Tuesday evening at a meeting held in the Legion Hall. Forty members were present at this, the first session of the year, which was presided over by President Robt. A. Giles.

Gérard Lefèbvre, past-president of the local organization and secretary of the Laurentian Regional Chambers of Commerce; Horace Lamarche, administrator of the Laurentian Division; André Lefèbvre, local vice-president; Fernand Legault, legal advisor; Donald M. Hay, treasurer; and directors Herbert Graves, Gerald Walker and Lucien St. Jacques, with Lions Club President Edward M. Jones, all occupied places at the head-table along with the president.

Robt. Marcil presented last year's financial report, which was accepted as read. A report of the regional meeting was then presented by Horace Lamarche. (The meeting, held at Ste. Adèle last week, is also reported on this page.)

Gérard Lefèbvre then gave a resumé of the local Chamber's activities of the past year, mentioning among other things the considerable expansion of the local organization in his year of office as President; the fact that Lachute had become known in all parts of the province due to the radio broadcasts presented over Montreal stations; the exchange of visits enjoyed by both the local and the Granby groups; the regional conference held in Lachute last September; and the numerous visits to industries and places of business in this town. He believed that all these activities had collectively given a good standing to the local Chamber, which in turn had done its best to help publicize the town. Special reference was made to the directors of the Baseball Club, who had helped the Chamber with good publicity by giving Lachute a championship club in the Laurentian League.

Considerable building of new houses is noticeable about the village. Although it is a national need, the local contribution is also welcomed for its effect upon the many taxes which real estate is called upon to furnish.

Traffic

There is a lot of comment on the Council's effort to control speeding through the streets. Speed traps of 25 miles per hour have been posted, sometimes on the same road signs as the provincial speed limit of 30 miles. This may be confusing to motorists, but the implication is that either can be chosen. The local police will settle for the greater but would prefer the lesser.

Minor Traffic

The boy on his bicycle may be a natural institution, but under certain circumstances he may become a nuisance and a danger to himself and the pedestrian. At a recent meeting the Municipal Council issued orders to stop the practice of circling around a limited area, particularly in the neighborhood of the post office. Some minor accidents have been reported resulting from this practice.

Trapping the Kilowatt for Mexico

Industry in Mexico, where the number of machines increases fast enough to swallow all available electricity, urgently needs the kilowatts which huge governmental hydroelectric developments are trapping. Shown here is the first hydroelectric plant of a system not far from the capital. A loan of $35 million from the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development is helping to finance the construction of the system, destined to be a mainstay of new industry.

Home-and-School Annual Meeting At Brownsburg

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — Dave Atkins, president, addressed the opening meeting of the Brownsburg Home and School Association, at the school cafeteria on Wednesday, October 21. In extending a welcome to those present, he expressed a hope that in this second year the organization "may serve an increasingly useful role in uniting the efforts of the teaching staff, the parents, the community and the school boards in the interests of education for our children, and in the process, the education of ourselves."

Not only was this the first meeting of the year, it was also the annual meeting, and the president reviewed briefly the activities of the past year. As mentioned in the secretary's report, on one or two occasions opportunities were provided for organized discussion of some of the everyday problems of parents and of teachers, and of ways and means of meeting them. These discussions were well received and it is the recommendation of the present executive that they should be included in one form or another in considering plans for the future. The exchange of ideas is vital to the success of this type of organization and he was convinced that such exchange may best be accomplished in informal discussion. The Association conducted a number of successful dances and a skating party for the teen-agers. The enthusiasm with which these activities were received leads the executive to urge

For efficient and reliable service, the wiring on your premises must be heavy enough to carry the electricity to your appliances without undue loss.

For efficient and reliable service, the transformer outside your premises must also have enough capacity to provide for your needs and those of your neighbors.

If you install additional appliances using a lot of electricity you may suffer from unsatisfactory service due to inadequate wiring on your premises or an overloaded transformer outside.

Blown fuses and interrupted service may occur.

It is important for your own comfort to make sure that your wiring will carry the electricity to the new appliances efficiently.

It is also important for your neighbors to notify the electric company when you contemplate installing additional appliances so that the company may have an opportunity to check the size of the transformer serving your premises and those of your neighbors.

Discusses Mechanization

S. L. Tallman, Market Research specialist for Massey Harris Ltd., outlined the new mechanized developments in agriculture in different parts of the world, at a recent meeting of the Macdonald College branch of the Agricultural Institute of Canada.

Using pictures to illustrate his talk, Mr. Tallman discussed at some length the problems encountered in the British South-East Africa ground-nuts project. He pointed out that first mistakes such as trying to establish a one-crop agriculture have been corrected, and a diversity of crops are now being grown. This project has required the use of specially designed machines.

Mr. Tallman showed how other special farm machinery was being developed to meet various needs — like special combines for harvesting rice paddies, new-type cotton pickers, etc. Mechanization of agriculture in presently underdeveloped areas, Mr. Tallman felt, offers a special challenge to implement manufacturers. Many of the newer types of machinery being designed to meet Canadian and American conditions were also discussed by the speaker.

Prepare Soil Compost For Spring Hot-Beds

Planning a hot-bed for next spring? If you are, you have some work to do before freeze up.

Prof. H. A. Murray of the Horticulture Department at Macdonald College suggests mixing your soil compost now and storing it under cover where it won't freeze.

Soil compost is made up by mixing a good garden soil with a quarter to a third of well-rotted manure or other well-rotted organic material like compost. If the garden soil is a heavy clay, sand should be mixed into it as well.

Of course in the spring you will have to have fresh manure to provide heat in the frames. But your soil compost will be ready to be put on top when you need it.

In connection with the problem of obtaining well-rotted organic matter, Prof. Murray suggests that every home gardener should have a compost pile. If you don't have one now you might start collecting the plant refuse and leaves that abound at this time of year. Information on making a compost pile may be obtained by writing to Prof. H. A. Murray at Macdonald College.

OBITUARY

Former Victoria Councillor Was Born in Lachute

The Late Gilbert D. Christie

Gilbert David Christie, 80, well-known Victoria businessman, died October 20 in that city and was buried in the Ross Bay Cemetery.

The late Mr. Christie was born in Lachute. He moved to Victoria 64 years ago and was connected with the retail shoe business during most of his business career. He retired in 1940. He was a former city alderman and school trustee, also a member of Columbia Lodge No. 1, A.F. & A.M., and an official in the city's early automobile association.

Mr. Christie was predeceased by his wife in January, and there are no surviving relatives.

Late Hny. Barker Lived Half-Century Here

Late Henry Barker

An old and respected resident of this community, Henry Barker, passed away last Friday in Lachute after a lengthy illness.

Born in Etwell, England, in 1868, the late Mr. Barker settled in New Jersey in 1890, then moving to Montreal and coming to Lachute in the year 1902. He had lived here ever since. In the earlier days he operated the first local electric light plant here, owned by the late Joseph Palliser, another pioneer resident of this town.

The funeral service, conducted by the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh of Lakefield, was held in St. Simeon's Anglican Church. Interment was made in the Lachute Protesant Cemetery.

The late Henry Barker was married in 1897 to Margaret McCurdy, of Rawdon, who predeceased him December 18, 1937. Left to mourn his loss are three sons, Alex and Eddie, of Lachute, and Fred, of Brownsburg, a daughter (Myrtle) Mrs. Victor Elliott, also of Lachute, seven grandchildren, and a brother, Edward, of Youngstown, Ohio.

that every effort should be made to organize along those lines on a sound regular basis.

During the summer months the executive explored possibilities of securing additional scholarships for the higher-grade students. The president was pleased to report progress in this regard. The local of the United Mine Workers of America have agreed to provide annually a sum of $50 for scholarship distribution at the discretion of the Association, with the object of providing financial assistance to further the education of successful scholars in the upper grades of both the Protestant and the Catholic schools. Other assistance of a like nature is at present under discussion. It is hoped that the outcome will be equally successful.

The secretary, Miss Eleanor Hanson, presented her report covering the year's activities, which was adopted by acclamation. Mr. Stephens' statement of the Association's finances showed a satisfactory balance, and was also adopted.

George Connolly, chairman of the nominating committee, moved the adoption of the following slate, Mr. G. H. Quinn seconding:

President, D. N. Atkins;
Vice-Presidents, Bob Sugden, Mrs. W. Richardson;
Treasurer, C. L. Stephens;
Secretary, Miss E. Hanson;
Corr. secretary, M. V. Trayers;
Chairman, Student Recreation, Roy Jackson;
Program Planning, G. King Amos;
Publicity, Miss Forde;
Social Committee, Mrs. H. Elliott, Mrs. B. Clarke.
Home Study, Mrs. Sarah Graham;
Membership & Mag., Andrew Forbes.

M. V. Trayers moved a vote of appreciation from this organization to the local Union, for their generous gesture in making a scholarship available to the youth of the community. C. L. Stephens seconded the motion, which was passed with applause.

After the general business, two short sketches were presented showing "how to" and "how not to" interview the teacher. Mrs. George Witham, Mrs. Silverson, Mrs. B. Graham and Mrs. Stephens were the cast, and gave a delightful and thought-provoking characterization.

A lively discussion on the subject of Music in the school curriculum was initiated by Wesley Freeland, who felt that more could be done in presenting this subject to the pupils. G. K. Amos replied to point out the advantages which the pupils of the Brownsburg school enjoyed in this respect, despite the fact that it was not a regular subject. The necessary economy which the Central Board had to enforce leaned heavily on the two subjects of Music and Agriculture, but this may be adjusted at a future date.

The origin of the present school scholarship was questioned by Mrs. N. E. Smillie, who thought that credit should be given where credit was due. John Connolly explained that the money was provided by the dividend of a bond purchased by the commissions on the sale of bonds by a number of residents during the first World War. It was administered by the School Board but not financed by that Board. Mrs. Kennedy inquired if the amount was not based on a motion of the accepting school board to match dollar-for-dollar the amount of the dividend. Mr. Trayers suggested that inquiry be made to establish the facts and so set any doubt at rest.

A social repast was provided by the social convener, Mrs. Sarah Graham, and Mrs. B. Clark, prior to which the national anthem brought the business of the meeting to a close.

Canada Supplies Blueberries

In 1952, eighteen carlots of blueberries — equivalent to 172,800 quarts — arrived in Boston from Nova Scotia. Approximately one million quarts are imported from Canada every year for processing in Maine canning plants. And yet the New England region provides over half of the United States supply of the dusty-blue fruit. More Canadians living within easy reach of the big New England market would do well to examine the possibility of sharing in this lucrative seasonal trade, the Canadian Trade Commissioner in Boston says.

During recent weeks Canadian blueberries have been selling at 35 to 50 cents a quart on the Boston wholesale markets. At retail, wild berries sell for 60 to 65 cents a quart and cultivated at 66 to 90 cents.

During 1952 hourly earnings in Canadian manufacturing rose by 10.6 per cent over 1951.

Good Manners Lacking

"EXCUSE ME, SIR". . . It might be too idealistic to expect that Canadian youngsters could emulate the politeness of a London choir boy. Maybe, we would not even desire such perfection of manners. . . But we refer you at this point to Geoff, our columnist on this page, who — although he exaggerates (we hope) the uncouth conversation of the average Montreal school-ager — certainly touches a sore spot in youth upbringing.

Geoff has echoed our own oft-expressed sentiments. It does not appear to be within the scope of our Canadian or American public schools to teach politeness of speech and manners. WHY? we ask. The reaction of our own 10-year-old to the suggestion it would be proper to address his school teacher as "sir" or "miss" or "madam" evokes only a scoff at the idea of making himself conspicuous among his fellows. True, there are youngsters who address their seniors as "sir", but in this community they are rare. By contrast, the more polished forms of address and conversation, raising the hat, and begging the pardon, are peculiar to boys who have attended certain residential schools, many of them operated along English lines. In our younger citizens in this average community, we would ask only the elements of respect, humility and good breeding; but what we get is smart-aleck repartee and defiance. We believe these qualities are just as valuable in human relations as a knowledge of French verbs and geometric theories. But we would like good manners to be taught in our own schools; we do not want to send our lads away from home to learn them.

The argument will be heard, inevitably, that we parents should teach politeness at home. We have tried that too, only to find ourselves unpopular. Sonny shuns the idea of putting our precepts into practice — and being branded a cissy by his schoolmates. It's an unhappy fact, but true.

Geoff, our columnist, has a suggestion — the home and school association to foster such trends of training. In Lachute we have no "home and school"; but if, through this means, we could make our schools more manners-conscious, then for heaven's sake let's organize.

Should Taxmen Tell?

ANXIOUS DAYS are these for smugglers, bookies, burglars and operators of illegal businesses.

At present, income tax returns are secret and cannot be produced in criminal court cases. Theoretically a burglar, without endangering himself, could declare his loot, pay his tax — and get a rebate for depreciation of his tools!

Now a case is pending in the Supreme Court of Canada which will decide whether individual tax returns are to remain secret from the courts.

It arose in Vancouver, where 27 persons were charged as bookies. The prosecutor asked that their tax returns should be produced. The income tax department refused.

The British Columbia court of appeal said the decision should be up to the trial judge.

Moderating Hallowe'en

THE ONCE virile tradition of Hallowe'en is dying. At one time — and not too long ago — the accepted behavior for sturdy youngsters and many younger adults abroad on All Hallows' Night, was a fear-inspiring determination to reach home at the hour Mom decreed, with a stuffed shopping bag full of goodies.

This era seems to have passed. Not only have many of the children deserted the streets in favor of indoor apple-bobbing parties, but the spoils available to those who still roam from door to door are becoming sparser every year.

If the present trend continues, the streets on Hallowe'en may become mere thoroughfares on which eager party-goers make their way from one celebration to another. And think of the poor storekeepers, with all that Hallowe'en candy and apples left on their shelves; and the ghosts, witches and others of the hobgoblin clan denied of these exciting hours of communion with their would-be earthly counterparts.

While the Hallowe'en of ghosts and goblins may be fading, something else is going with it — something we're not so sorry to lose. Years ago, Hallowe'en was celebrated by pranksters and costumed immitations of the afterworld causing considerable anxiety to innocent citizens, and damage to public and private property. Along with the damage one could note, in fewer instances, the manifestation of an odd good-turn to someone in need.

Now, the night of All Hallows is not the same as it was a few years ago. The police used to patrol the streets to protect innocent townsfolk. . . We do not regret the trend to moderation, but we wouldn't want the children to miss ALL the spirited fun of this celebration.

U.S. Policy Helps Us

THE AMERICAN way of life should still be safe enough from the threats of the foreigners.

Around 7.5% of the U.S. white population is foreign born, compared to Canada's 14.7%. And there's not much danger that their new "open door" policy will upset things too much, thinks The Financial Post.

Some 154,657 persons are permitted to enter the U.S. on quota every year. An additional 214,000 are to be accepted over the next three years by special dispensation of Congress. That's an annual flow of something like one immigrant to the U.S. for every 7,000 of population. For Canada such a fiddling program would make us the laughing-stock of the world.

This year alone we will have around 150,000 immigrants — one for every 100 of our people. And to the end of August we had received 901,798 immigrants since the war. That's pretty good for a country of 15 millions.

Of course, Canada is fortunate the Americans don't like immigrants. It means we are getting the very cream of the crop of people who have the energy, the will, the means, to come here and make a new life in this great land and to bring with them the riches of great cultural heritages.

Names in A Paper . . .

WE SELDOM actually know the people who die in traffic accidents. To most of us they are just names in the paper or statistics in a column. Only occasionally can such an incident touch us closely.

Yet those who die are people . . . people who just a while ago had feeling, knew ambition, shared happiness, or survived defeat. They are folks who go to the movies, to church, to cocktail bars; they are women who gossip and men who dig in their gardens; they are boys who play hookey and girls who giggle; they are people who follow baseball scores, suffer from pimples, like listening to Chopin or Spike Jones, enjoy fried oysters, fall in love and are loved in return. . . .

Then suddenly, because someone lacked judgment, or was in a hurry, or took a chance, or had stayed up too late the night before and wasn't quick enough in getting to the brake . . . it's all over, for all time.

People died yesterday who would have been alive today if a driver somewhere had practiced the little courtesies, the small cautions, that add up to the habit of safety. For safety isn't coming out of a crisis successfully; it's making sure the crisis never happens.

RUSSIA CALLS FOR "HIGHEST LEVEL" MEETING

Things 'n Stuff

WALTER HENRY JACKSON

Economical Transportation

The councillors of an American town about the size of Lachute decided to run a bus service for the convenience of their townsmen, from one end of the town to the other along the principal street. The tickets were four for twenty-five cents.

After a month of operation a council meeting was held and it was found that the bus line was losing money. One of the councilmen who had a reputation for being a tight-fisted miser lived in a small house at the far end of the town. He opened the meeting with a suggestion that the fare was too cheap. Three tickets for a quarter, instead of four would soon make up the deficit, he claimed. Another alderman then got up and said it would do nothing of the kind. He stated that if the fare was fixed at six tickets for a quarter, more people would use the bus and thus put the service on a paying basis. A vote was held, and it was agreed that his plan would be tried for a month. Everyone was agreeable except the old miser, who grabbed his hat and walked out after calling the others a pack of fools.

A month went by and another meeting was held. It was proved that for the first time the bus service was out of the red, and was making a profit. Far more people were using the bus. Everyone was happy except the old miser. "Why should you complain?" asked one of the others. "You live farther out than any of us."

"That's just it!" exclaimed the miser. "Now, to save a quarter, I have to walk into town six times instead of four!"

* * *

Speaking of misers, I just thought of another.

There were two millionaires, competitors in the same line of business, who were deadly rivals. One was a great philanthropist, the other a selfish skinflint. A collector for the Community Chest, or Red Feather drive, called on the miser at his office and stated the purpose of his visit. "Mr. B.", he said (mentioning the name of his competitor), "Is much interested in our work this year. Our objective, as you know, is $100,000, and he has very generously offered to donate a quarter of this amount. I was hoping that we might expect the same from you."

The miser thought it over for a full minute, then replied:

"Yes, I guess I can. If he can give a quarter, so can I. Have you got change for fifty cents?"

Be seein' ya!

"Good afternoon, ladies and gentlemen. Blabbies, the breakfast flakes that talk back to you while you eat them, present the first ten minutes in this day's session of the House of Commons. Friends, for the treat of a lifetime, try Blabbies at breakfast tomorrow. They're new! They're delicious! Before we take you to the House, here is a word from Felix Glib, member for Sludge River. Mr. Glib, how do you feel about Blabbies?"

"They're new! They're delicious."

"And to what do you attribute your success in politics, Mr. Glib?"

"To the fact that I enjoy a nourishing bowl of Blabbies every morning. Their zestful flavor gives me strength to carry on."

"Thank you, Felix Glib. Friends, Mr. Glib is right. Blabbies, the flakes milled and roasted from ripe alfalfa, guarantee a flying start to every day. And now we take you to the House of Commons. The next voice you hear will be that of the Hon. Nathan Goatgirdle, minister of sanitation."

Goatgirdle: "And so this government looks to the future, and to the youth of this great country of ours. Furthermore . . ."

Announcer: "Thank you, Nathan Goatgirdle. Friends, Blabbies, the breakfast flakes that explode, have brought you ten minutes in the House of Commons. Try Blabbies tomorrow. They're good, good, good. Well, that winds it up for Blabbies, folks. Now Glom, the only soap on the market that actually smells of perspiration, brings you the next ten minutes in the House of Commons. Use Glom, the miracle soap, for that clean, fresh, NATURAL odor.

"Before we take you to the House of Commons, though, here is a brief interview with George Blue, leader of the opposition. Mr. Blue, what is your opinion of Glom?"

"I like its clean, fresh, natural odor. Nine out of ten statesmen prefer Glom."

"Thank you, George Blue. And now Glom, the soap that shines your face while it washes, takes you to the House of Commons. The next voice you hear will be that of Tom Downhill, member for Catfish Valley."

Downhill: "I, er . . ."

Announcer: "Thank you, Tom Downhill. Friends, Glom, the non-skid soap, is bringing you a broadcast direct from the House of Commons. Glom doesn't float. It sinks to the bottom of the bath and stays there. Also — and this is important — you can't pry it loose."

"Yes, friends, politics in Canada are clean, and that's the way Glom gets you — clean, clean, clean. Tune in tomorrow at this same time, when Glom brings you another glimpse of democracy at work."

"As Others See Us"

Since we considered the Anglican Church and public relations last week, let's do it again. While we're at it, let's rope in the St. Paul's Cathedral Choir School. They are masters in the art of human relations. I believe that educators and parents can learn much from them — if it's not too late. And if, naturally, they want to learn anything.

* * *

It's not hard to imagine the consternation of the hotel authorities when they heard the news. The old Queen's Hotel here has played host to many distinguished parties. But being asked to look after a gang of thirty young boys for three days was piling it on a bit thick. After all, there are limits to human endurance. And, if the hotelmen knew anything about boys, the St. Paul's Cathedral choristers would be no different from any others.

As zero hour approached, the hotel staff made mental notes of things to watch for. They anticipated a hectic 72 hours, dragging kids down from the chandeliers and drapes. It would take a gang of men to keep them from running up and down stairs, or riding the elevators ad infinitum. They might even have to call for reinforcements to keep these lads out of mischief during their off-duty hours. The hotel prepared for the shock.

And it got a greater shock than it anticipated!

The behaviour of the St. Paul's choristers, wherever they have appeared, has been exemplary. And all along the line hotelmen have been quick to acknowledge that, in many ways, these youngsters are less bother to care for than a similar number of adults. Would they have them back again? Of course! Any day; any day at all!

In recital, these lads are as near perfect as top-notch training can make them. Off-duty — by our standards, at least — they are perfect. Soft-spoken and well-mannered, they show up American and Canadian children to the point of complete embarrassment. Such outstanding conduct makes one think; or should do, at any rate. And very seriously, too!

Take, for instance, the incident that occurred after the Evensong held in the Cathedral here. Wandering 'round the church grounds after the service, I saw one of the lads come out of the building, look about him for a second, and then approach a gentleman standing near me.

"Excuse me, sir", he said, touching his cap and standing erect. "Can you direct me to the parish hall, please?"

It was a joy to listen to the youngster. And it made me wonder how the average Yank or Canuck child would go about the business. Here's how it would sound, I think. Correct me if I'm wrong.

"Hey, mate", he would cry, slouching with hands in pockets. "Where'er they dishin' out the grub for us guys, huh?"

Yes, indeed, it makes you think. It makes you wonder what has happened to simple etiquette on this side of the world. Makes one wish the home and school associations would get together and do something about the situation, without delay.

Bobby Burns wrote long years ago:

"Oh, wad some Pow'r the giftie gi'e us
To see ourselves as ithers see us!"

And every once in a while, when that Power acts on the poet's suggestion and shows us up for what we are, it comes as a bit of a shock. But unfortunately, the shocks don't come often enough to do us any good.

A pity, isn't it?

He has just paid for another load of fuel for his old-fashioned, wasteful furnace and he is feeling broke. What to do? With a new, scientifically designed, economical SMART'S Furnace he could save money by saving fuel, pay for his new furnace and enjoy himself. Be wise; see your SMART'S dealer now and get full particulars.

IMPORTED TEACHERS

The proposition of solving the current teacher shortage by bringing teachers from the Old Country gives rise to interesting speculations. For instance, we can visualize children of Central European parentage coming home with a distinct Irish accent in their pronunciation. Not that this would be a bad thing.

RCAF TWINS CAUSE PLENTY OF MIX-UPS

Portage La Prairie, Man. (CP) — Twenty-year-old twins at nearby MacDonald air force station have their RCAF instructors guessing.

FOs Bernard and Gerald Gowler of Westworth, N.S., are students at the pilot weapons school. Bernard says when they were babies their mother tied a string around the finger of one so she would not feed one twice and let the other starve.

THOUGHTS AND DEEDS

By M. V. Trayers

Bluff and Bluster

It is with narrow-souled people as with narrow-necked bottles; the less they have in them, the more noise they make in pouring it out. Take for example Tito and Trieste.

Trieste, for which both the Italians and Yugoslavs are massing troops on the border, was built by the Austrians less than a hundred years ago. The whole point and purpose of the port when the Austrians made it, was to serve the trade of the old Empire. In 1919 the Italians, sitting on the victors' side of the table at the peace conference, took Trieste from the fallen Austrians. Immediately young Italians flocked to fill its offices. It was the high-water mark of expansion for the Italians, and this is the reason why the name is so charged with emotion for them today. In 1945 there was a race for Trieste and the Allies were just in time to keep Tito from annexing it. The British, through their General Morgan, divided it into the two zones, which are in the news today as "A" and "B". Zone "A" contains the port and city, and zone "B" is Slovene country, wild and rough. "B" is peopled with Croats as well as Slovenes, who by a stroke of the pen were all made Yugoslavs in 1919. Tito is a Croat, but is also a trained Marxist Communist — that is the hub of the whole situation. The last election results in Italy were disappointing for the West, and the decision to hand over Zone "A" to Italy has caused, as it was expected to do, great pleasure in Pome and an equal amount of indignation in Belgrade.

How far will Tito go in trying to get the Italians out of Zone "A"? Immediately he moved up his American tanks and guns, Moscow backed up his action; but his people reacted most adversely so that he had to disavow Moscow aid. He has no desire to become involved with the Italians with America and Britain behind them, and he would be very foolhardy to expose his flanks to the Moscow-led communist countries all round his frontiers. . . Sabre-rattling it was called in 1914.

Joseph Philippe Lanctôt, Q.C., well known lawyer of Montreal and St. Andrews East, and a figure in Argenteuil County politics in past years, died Tuesday at his home in Outremont, Que. Mr. Lanctôt served as counsel for the citizens of Montreal during the Coderre inquiry of 1924-25.

He was made King's Counsel in 1934 and two years later represented the textile industry in the Turgeon Inquiry.

Lachute Couple Honored On 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James A. MacKimmie were guests at a party held in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary, Sunday afternoon at "Philengaifair", Green Lake, the summer residence of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ayers.

There were over 50 guests present at the gathering, at which Mr. Howard Morrison presented the couple with a silver tea service on behalf of their many friends.

Out of town guests were the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. MacKimmie, Mary Ruth, now studying at Bishop's University, Lennoxville, and Mr. and Mrs. Art St. Onge of Sherbrooke.

OPPORTUNITY UP NORTH

Too often the remark has been carelessly made "there is no future for our young people up here." Today more than ever, young people have a greater future in the north country than what can be offered in the south. The opportunity is here to open up, develop, build and grow with the country.

Long-Service Citizens Receive Queen's Medals

Seven citizens of Lachute have received Coronation Medals so far, with the possibility of others having been awarded through the district, of whom The Watchman has not been informed. These medals are given for public service in various spheres of activity. Those awarded medals are Philippe Valois, M.P., and Mrs. Valois; W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., and Mrs. Cottingham; Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon; Postmaster H. M. Gall; and Jas. W. McGibbon.

The medals, forwarded from Buckingham Palace, carry a likeness of the Queen on one side and the Crown on the other, with the following inscription: "June 2nd, 1953. Queen Elizabeth crowned." The medals, the size of a 50-cent piece, are attached to a red ribbon with two blue stripes across it and white trimmings around. Each is accompanied by the following citation on Buckingham Palace stationery: "By Command of Her Majesty The Queen, the accompanying medal is forwarded to — — to be worn in commemoration of Her Majesty's Coronation, 2nd June, 1953."

Roving Church Bell Recalls Pioneer Days

Windermere, B.C. (CP) — The bell that rings today in the belfry of St. Paul's Anglican Church at Golden, B.C., should be in St. Peter's church here. And St. Peter's church should be in Revelstoke.

It's a long story.

Another B.C. town, Donald, had a fine Anglican church with a fine 600-pound bell given by Baroness Burdett-Coutts, the English-woman after whom a couple of Alberta towns were named.

But in 1899 the Canadian Pacific Railway decided to move its divisional point from Donald to Revelstoke, B.C. That doomed Donald and all the town's buildings were ordered removed.

Revelstoke applied for and was given authority by the diocese to obtain the church building. A crew was recruited to arrange transport but when the crew arrived in Donald, the building was gone.

Someone, apparently attached to the church, had heard it was to be moved to Revelstoke. In any case, the church was loaded on a flat car and moved to Golden, then put on a barge and taken 100 miles up the Columbia River to Windermere.

There was quite a furore about the situation but in time all was forgiven.

In the meantime the people of Windermere wanted to know what had happened to the church bell.

Later it was learned that an employee of the barge company that moved the church up the Columbia was a member of the Church of England. He took a fancy to the bell and before the barge sailed, the Golden church was in possession and there it remained.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Former Captain of Coastal Mission Craft Addresses W.M.S. Meeting

The interesting life of a missionary was ably presented to the large gathering at the Fall Thank-Offering service of the Lachute United Church Women's Missionary Society. Guest speaker at the open meeting was the Rev. Rayburn H. McColl, former Captain of the Thomas Crosby IV, United Church Mission Ship which has been operating on the Pacific Coast for many years. The United Church has nine other similar boats operating off both coasts.

The Rev. Capt. McColl was former Gunnery Officer of the H.M.C.S. "Lachute" during the length of her commission. He was then a Lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Navy, a position which helped him a great deal in his role as Captain of the Mission Boat.

The Rev. McColl administered to 52 communities along the 350 miles of coastline from the northern tip of Vancouver Island to the Alaska boundary. During his four years' service there, he was assisted by his wife, who was at one time head nurse at Bella Bella Hospital.

Among the 175 illustrative slides shown by the speaker to his appreciative audience, were many beautiful scenic shots for which that part of our country is noted. Various towns, both permanent and temporary, built on log rafts and towed from place to place, were shown along with pictures of the numerous lighthouses and their keepers situated along the coast. It is interesting to note that the keepers of these buildings are their own and their children's teachers, as the children have to "attend" correspondence schools. Among other duties, one member of each family is appointed "weather man" and as such, transmits the weather reports by radio to distant officials every few hours. At Prince Rupert, the site of one lighthouse, the tide rises and falls 26 feet in 24 hours.

Vacation School meetings and other ceremonies connected with the church, many of which were held in beautifully decorated church buildings, were depicted in the many slides. The members of the Vacation Schools in the area served by the Rev. McColl were 80% Indian children.

One interesting fact concerning marriages of these Indians, is that the father of the bride pays for the ceremonies and celebrations, which are every bit as elaborate as those conducted in towns and cities. However, to pay the father-in-law back, the new son has to work for him for a period of one year!

Another interesting fact about these Indians is that they keep the tombstones of their dead in their front yards, so all can see them. In days not so long ago, the bodies of the dead used to be placed at the top of totem poles, which when used for this purpose, were called mortuary poles. These Indian totem poles, which are sometimes 75 feet high and six feet in diameter, were not built until the white man arrived, as the Indians had no tools to fashion such masterpieces. The reason for the mortuary poles was the frozen ground which was next to impossible to break.

The meeting was opened by a short devotional period led by the Rev. Wilson Bridge, who later turned the meeting over to Mrs. Geo. Y. Deacon, W.M.S. President.

A vocal duet was rendered by Mrs. Chas. Duncan and Mrs. Angus Taylor. Numerous associate members of the organization, as well as many guests, were present.

The Rev. McColl was thanked by Mrs. Walker Scott at the close of the meeting, after which the Rev. Bridge led in prayer.

Ministerial Association

The Argenteuil Protestant Ministerial Association will convene at 10 a.m. on Monday, November 2, in the Dalesville Baptist Church. The Rev. D. C. Merrett will lead the devotional period.

Missionary Evening For St. Andrews Deanery

A missionary evening for the Deanery of St. Andrews will be held in St. Simeon's Church, Lachute, on Monday, November 2, at 8 p.m. Special speaker will be the Rt. Rev. C. R. H. Wilkinson, M.A., D.D., Bishop of Amritsar, India. Colored pictures of the church's work in India will also be shown. The public are cordially invited.

St. Andrews East To Pay Tribute Sunday, Nov. 8th

Parade and Memorial Ceremonies at Cenotaph

St. Andrews East — Arrangements have been completed for a parade and Cenotaph service in St. Andrews East on Sunday afternoon, November 8, in tribute to those of the surrounding country who paid the supreme sacrifice in the service of their country in two Great Wars.

A committee headed by Mrs. Dawson Burwash, CWAC, and Mrs. J. P. G. Mellers, RCAF (WD), have been working hard to have even a larger turnout than last year, when the Lachute Branch 70 of the Canadian Legion visited St. Andrews and assisted at their Cenotaph service.

Special morning services will be held in all St. Andrews churches, and in the afternoon it is expected that the Rev. Canon Stanley Andrews, Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, himself a veteran of two wars, and also an Army chaplain will be in attendance at the Cenotaph, as well as the Rev. Father Dulude, curé of St. Andrews. A short parade from the wharfhead on Main Street to the post-office (Cenotaph) will take place. It is expected a Highland piper from the Black Watch (RHR) will join the veterans in their parade.

An invitation to march is extended to all widows, parents or other relatives of those who have paid the supreme sacrifice.

Wreaths will be deposited by all churches, the Town and individuals during the Cenotaph ceremonies. No religious service will be held at the Cenotaph. Col. Stuart Forbes, OBE., MC, ED, (PPCLI), will be marshal of the parade. Lt.-Col. Walter H. Scott, MC, ED, Canadian Grenadier Guards, will act as master of ceremonies at the Cenotaph, which will conclude with the sounding of Last Post by a Grenadier Guards bugler.

It is hoped citizens able to do so will turn out on November 8 to honor those of Argenteuil County who died in the service of their country.

All persons buying poppies may deposit them on the Cenotaph.

Orders for wreaths are being taken for the Canadian Legion, Lachute Branch, by Danny Bryson (phone 56-M), who is also organizing the sale of poppies in St. Andrews.

Basis for Belief in A New World

A new world of righteousness, peace and eternal prosperity may appear to you to be beyond reach. Your heart is heavy under the weight of woe now upon this old world, with its uncertainty and fear. You would like a completely new world, yes, but you feel that you will never live to see any such world. Do you know that there is a sound basis for belief in a new world? Do you know that all evidence points to the early realization of a complete change in earth's affairs — a change from corruption, distress and perplexity to a new system of things under the direct administration of Almighty God and his Son Jesus Christ? If your mind is open to consider the facts, the 64-page booklet Basis for Belief in a New World will provide absorbing reading for you. At the conclusion you will have a comforting basis for belief in a righteous new world. The booklet may be obtained for five cents a copy, or seven copies for 25 cents.

C-I-L "Contact" Salutes Two Recent Winners

Jack McIndoe, a supervisor at Brownsburg C-I-L and active member in the Lachute Golf Club, was winner of the A. B. Purvis Golf Trophy competition, the final match being played at Kanawaki golf course a few miles from Montreal — according to the current issue of "Contact", C-I-L employee magazine.

Also pictured in "Contact" is Ernie Kennedy, and "Senator Bars", a thoroughbred pacer he raised and trained himself. "Senator Bars" won a one-mile race at Blue Bonnets, Montreal, in 2 minutes 12 and 3/5 seconds, which was the horse's best time this year.

Precarious Tenure Of NHL Stardom

SPORTS CAMERA
By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

One of the surprises when the National Hockey League season opened a few weeks ago was the fellow guarding the nets for the New York Rangers.

The Rangers unveiled Johnny Bower, a 28-year-old goalie who has been performing in minor professional company for eight years. But the real story — and it's almost in the jinx category — was that Lorne (Gump) Worsley, voted the top rookie of the 1952-53 season only a few months before, had been relegated to Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League, a good two notches below the NHL.

Worsley, you may recall, got the Ranger job when Chuck Rayner was injured, and in the 50 games he played caught the eye of a number of the fellows who vote to select the NHL's best freshman.

The Calder Memorial Trophy is awarded annually to "the player selected as the most proficient in his first year of NHL competition". Worsley, 24, polled 41 points out of a possible 90 in the balloting conducted by 18 hockey writers and broadcasters in the NHL cities.

He nosed out two Toronto Maple Leaf rookies — left-winger Gordie Hannigan and defenceman Leo Boivin. Hannigan got 36 points, Boivin 30. And both are still in the league which is getting along without Worsley.

Could Be Jinx

It wasn't the first time that the selectors chose a player who couldn't stick in the big time. Either the voters erred or the Calder award has turned into a jinx in some cases.

Take 1945, for example. The selectors — all experienced hockey observers — tagged goalie Frank McCool with Toronto Maple Leafs as the year's top rookie. Yet two years later he wasn't even in the league. In picking McCool the voters passed over a hustling Detroit Red Wing freshman named Ted Lindsay, who has turned out to be the best left-winger in hockey.

Johnny Quilty got the nod in 1941 when he performed with Montreal Canadiens. He scored 34 points that year and 24 the next. But that was the extent of his NHL career.

Also eligible for those 1941 votes but rejected in favor of Quilty were two of the game's all-time greats, still doing business; Elmer Lach and Max Bentley.

Another player who got the Calder award and then passed from the scene after a few seasons was Jack Gelineau in 1950. Goalie for Boston Bruins then but now in the minors, Gelineau was preferred over Bert Olmstead, a sharpshooting left-winger now with Montreal Canadiens.

But the selectors haven't always been wrong. Here are some of their choices who went on to make a good showing in big-time hockey: Terry Sawchuk, Bernie Geoffrion, Edgar Laprade, Syl Apps, Sweeney Schriner, Frankie Brimsek and Howie Meeker.

League Votes to Enter Organized Baseball

The Laurentide Baseball League voted unanimously Monday night to venture into Organized Baseball next season, if their application is approved at the minor leagues meeting in Atlanta, Ga., in December.

The Laurentide loop this week received application form from the office of the president of the association of minor baseball leagues, George Trautman. It will be completed by President Dr. Alfred Cherrier and forwarded to Trautman.

The league is seeking a "C" rating in O.B. and may increase the number of teams in the league to eight. Cornwall is being sought as the eighth club.

Hunting Equipment Of Law Violators Will Be Confiscated

Honorable Camille-E. Pouliot, M.D., Minister of the Quebec Game and Fisheries Department, has taken measures to stop jacklighting of deer by poachers. The Minister has instructed the officers of his Department to confiscate all hunting equipment used in an unlawful way, according to Article 71 of the Quebec Game Laws.

The Minister deems that there are too many consciencious and honest sportsmen to tolerate such abuse of a few unconscientious hunters who, violating the law, deprive others of their share.

Since the opening of the hunting season, 75 violators have been taken to court for illegal hunting of deer with jack-lights. Officers have even arrested a club member and a club game warden for hunting with a jack-light. They were fined $200.

"With this decision", said Dr. Pouliot, "I am happy to give my support to honest sportsmen who have asked me to protect the game for those who abide by the laws during the hunting season. 150,000 hunting licenses have been handed out this fall, and every one of them entitles its holder to a fair share of the hunt."

Set Tentative Dates for Quebec-Ontario League Opening Hockey Games

A meeting of the Quebec-Ontario Hockey League was held Tuesday evening at the Léonard Hotel, Ayersville, and it was decided that the schedule would start Tuesday, December 29, when Hawkesbury will be hosts to the L'Orignal team. On the following day, Wednesday, December 30, the Lachute Canadiens will receive their old-time rivals, the Brownsburg Bombers, at the Brownsburg Arena. These fixtures were decided on the experience of last winter's weather, but if conditions this year prove satisfactory for an earlier opening, the dates will be duly published on this page. The play-offs will be a 4-out-of-7 series, the team finishing first meeting the third, and the second and fourth teams battling it out to qualify for the finals.

Sales of advertising space in the local team's hockey program reached new heights this week. Twenty more local merchants have contributed the sum of $460, for a grand total to date of $1,175 to the funds of the team. Here is the additional list of business men:

Ayers Ltd. $100, Interprovincial Lumber Co. Inc. $50, Bishop Asphalt Papers Ltd. $50, J. P. MacKimmie & Sons $40, H. M. Lavigne Inc. $20, Hotel Laurentien, Lachute $20, Hotel Laval $20, Dansereau Stores $20, Boyd's Lachute Express $20, Lachute Lumber & Millwork $20.

Garage Leger $20, Guy Lagarde, Insurance $10, Beaton Pharmacy $10, S. Greenspon & Sons $10, Leonard 5c - $1 Store $10, Hammond Radio Shop $10, Esquire Shop $10, Holt Mfg. & Supply Reg. $10, Walker-Kingsbury Inc. $5, Magasin Royal $5.

The sale of season tickets has also begun and is progressing satisfactorily. These tickets will admit purchasers to all the regular scheduled home games of the Canadiens at the Brownsburg Arena; they sell for the modest price of $3. The directorate of the team hopes that all interested in hockey and good town publicity will subscribe for season tickets.

B'burg Enthusiast Organizes First Al Jolson 'Chapter'

Brownsburg — On Friday evening, October 23, a group of admirers of the late Al Jolson founded a new organization in this district, to be known as the Brownsburg Chapter of the Al Jolson Memorial Club. President of the local group is Irvin Warwick; Ronald Kennedy is the secretary-treasurer.

Main purposes of the Al Jolson Memorial Club (with headquarters in Milwaukee, Wisconsin) are to bring together Jolson fans all over the world; and to assist in keeping the name of "the world's greatest entertainer" before the public, thus stimulating demand for a sequel to the biographical films, "The Jolson Story" and "Jolson Sings Again", the issuing of previously unrehearsed recordings, etc. The Chapter has similar aims; in addition, local members will have a get-together at least once a month, and place increased emphasis on welfare work.

Although the club is well on its way to becoming a world-wide organization, the chapter in this district is the first in the world, as the decision to form chapters was made just recently. The date of its founding is of special significance — October 23, 1953, marking the third aniversary of the death of Al Jolson, one of the all-time greats of show business, who during his lifetime gave unstintingly of his talent and wealth to help others less fortunate than he, and who lost his life as result of the strain of entertaining the United Nations forces in Korea.

Anyone wishing full details about membership in this club, may write to: The Al Jolson Memorial Club, Brownsburg, Que. Time and place of the next chapter meeting will be announced at a later date.

It is now begining its second season with programs of concertos, suites, and symphonies of many countries and periods. Included are contemporary works not usually found on other programs. First Day Covers of New 50c. Textile Stamp

Persons wishing First Day Covers with the new issue 50-cent (Textile) stamp cancelled on the date of first issue, November 2, 1953, are advised of the following by the Post Office:

"Forward self-addressed covers to the Postmaster, Ottawa 2, Ontario, not the Philatelic Section, prior to the date of issue. All covers must contain 'fillers' and must be sealed or have the flap turned in. Do not fold covers when forwarding them through the mails. Enclose all covers in an outside cover marked 'First Day of Issue'.

"Orders for First Day Covers must not include orders for mint or unused stamps. Remarks or enquiries not related directly to the order for First Day Covers should be written on a separate piece of paper. All First Day Covers are normally returned by ordinary mail unless the patron specifically requests other methods of despatch.

"The new issue stamp, overprinted with the letter 'G' will not be affixed to First Day Covers; no orders for covers prepaid with these stamps will be accepted.

"In view of the high denomination of the stamp being issued, the normal First Day Cover Service fee is suspended for this issue. All remittances are to be made payable to the Receiver General of Canada. Remittances should be made out for the exact amount of the postage required to be affixed to the covers forwarded for service.

"Remittances for the purchases of mint stamps should be made payable to the Receiver General of Canada, but should be forwarded to the Philatelic Section, Financial Branch, Post Office Department, Ottawa 4, not to the Postmaster, Ottawa."

Edinburgh to View Canadian Northwest

Ottawa (CP) —

The Duke of Edinburgh will generally steer clear of the bigger cities when he makes his 20-day visit to Canada next summer.

He will leave out Montreal and Toronto — and he won't see anything of the Atlantic provinces and the Prairies except from the air.

The Duke will arrive at Ottawa July 29 and leave for home from Quebec City August 17. He will visit the British Empire Games at Vancouver. He will also visit Victoria and Kitimat, B.C., before flying north to see Port Radium, Coppermine and Yellowknife in the Northwest territories and Churchill in Manitoba.

Near Quebec he will visit the Valcartier military camp, where Canada is doing research on guided missiles.

To put is to place a thing where you want it. . . To putt is a vain attempt to do the same thing.

Robin Hood or Santa Claus?

By Lewis Milligan

Is the Welfare State Robin Hood or Santa Claus? This question was raised by a columnist who signs himself "Ilico" in the British Weekly. He says the question was prompted by a passage in a lecture he heard recently at Oxford delivered by Professor Jewkes, who was speaking of the "modern State which removes so much of our earnings in the form of taxation (our total tax bill is about two-fifths of our national income), and which hands out money so lavishly for education, for health, for social services in general."

In the passage referred to Prof. Jewkes said: "At the moment each one of us in his financial dealing with the State is waylaid by a fantastic creature combining in one body the proclivities of Robin Hood and Santa Claus, a creature which may be interested in transferring money from rich to poor but seems even more concerned that people shall carry their wealth in the right pockets and in approved forms." And the lecturer added that "after these incredible conjuring tricks have been performed, many people do not know whether they are better off or poorer in the end."

Prof. Jewkes is an eminent economist, and in his diagnosis of the economic situation in Britain was not entirely pessimistic. He did not expect any sudden or overwhelming disaster; he thought that most of post-war economic troubles had been due to incompetence and inexperience on the part of her rulers. But he thought there was some danger of floundering gradually, "like a water-logged raft", and said, "We should very seriously consider whether we really have the means to fulfill all our good intentions towards one another in these islands and towards those who may rightly look to us for help."

Prof. Jewkes sums up his reflections in a balance sheet which deserves quotation in full for careful study by Canadians who admire the Welfare State experiment in Britain and would like to see it repeated in this country.

"We have in Britain", said Prof. Jewkes, "a numerous, mildly indolent, highly ingenious people living in a country with few natural resources but with an accumulated mass of relatively efficient capital equipment; a people whose sense of independence has been somewhat sapped in recent years, who have fallen into the improvident habit of not providing capital for the future and who, since the end of the war, have shown more enthusiasm for doing good to others than power to do good in fact. And the question is whether, looking at the balance sheet, it would be wise for us to drop our enthusiasm, lower our sights and parochially potter about with our own affairs, or whether we shall retain our enthusiasm by doing what is necessary to turn them into something more than pipe-dreams. As between the two possibilities, the economist, of course, is concerned only to point out that there must be a choice, conscious or unconscious. . . If we are to choose the former, the lazy way, we must give up talking about the New Elizabethan Age."

Ilico the columnist, who in person is Nathaniel Micklem, for some years on the staff of Queen University at Kingston, does not entirely agree with Prof. Jewkes' claim that "the primary responsibility of government should be stability in the value of currency." Speaking as "a kind of theologian", Dr. Micklem points out that "man is a spiritual being, and the State is, or should be, concerned with providing the framework within which human nature can best flower." But he admits that without a stable currency the welfare state cannot be maintained. "Only in the sense", he says, "may we put economic issues first". But that sense is common sense so far as government is concerned. A Robin Hood and Santa Claus State can only lower both the material and spiritual welfare of its people.

At Home

When your doorbell starts ringing on Saturday night, how about handing out some well-wrapped Popcorn Balls to the small ghosts and goblins. They will love them and they are so easy to make. Here's the recipe:

3 Quarts of popped corn (that is, 1 cup of unpopped corn), 1 cup molasses, ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ teaspoon salt.

Put the popcorn in a large pan and sprinkle with salt. Melt the butter and add molasses and sugar. Boil until mixture will become brittle when tried in cold water. Pour mixture gradually, while stirring, over the popcorn. Shape gently into balls. Wrap in wax paper.

Do you know the difference between a rug and a carpet? Well, an expert informs us there is no difference, except in how it's laid. Carpet goes right up to the walls; rugs show flooring around their edges. By the way, we are also told that green is the top color in rugs and carpeting these days.

Have you ever had the shock of listening to your own voice on a recording? A friend of ours tells us that she got the same effect the other day when she heard her little girl being "mommie" while playing "house". Which should prove that even though the children don't always do as they are told, at least they hear us talking, and can imitate us right down to the smallest inflection.

Around the Town

A fish story: There are going to be some well-fed fish in Lachute. One of the prizes at the recent opening of a new service station was a food mixer. It was won by a gentleman who keeps large quantities of Tropical fish. Since his wife already has a food mixer, he says that his prize will be used to mix the fish-food. There was no comment from his wife, but the fish are reported to be very happy.

One young local couple have decided to leave our town and make their home in the sunny climes of the southern States. By the middle of January, probably we'll all be wishing we were with them. Good luck, friends.

* * *

There's a gentleman in town who says there is one sure sign that you're not as young as you used to be. It's that first phone call asking your daughter to baby-sit. He knows, because it happened to him last week, and his wife reports that he is still in a state of disbelief. He just can't be that old.

We know of two local mothers who have finished their Christmas shopping. And there are probably more. That's all on that subject. We promise not to mention it again for at least two weeks.

A member of the "very-young" set came home from her first Sunday School class this fall somewhat disillusioned. She had received a prize all right, when she put her money in the plate (her Sunday School paper), but no bubble-gum!

See you next week.

Apples, Grading, Packaging

There is no fruit quite as fine as our own Canadian Apples. Apples are grown for the most part in four provinces — British Columbia, Ontario, Quebec and Nova Scotia, and to some extent in a fifth province, New Brunswick. When apples are shipped for sale from one province into another, their grade is checked by the inspectors of the Fruit and Vegetable Division of the Canada Department of Agriculture. Apples are graded as: Extra Fancy, Fancy and Commercial or C. And the factors which govern the grades of apples are these: First the condition of the apple — it must be smooth, well-formed, clean, hand picked and free from serious damage due to insects, hail marks, bruises, etc. Next the size — the smallest apple which can be sold as a graded apple is one which has a diameter of 2¼ inches. Anything smaller than that cannot be sold on the fresh market. The maturity of the apple enters into the grading too. The Canada Department of Agriculture Regulations governing the grading of fresh fruits state that there must be a specified amount of color to apples which are sold by grade. Now, of course, this amount of color varies with the variety of the apple, because some varieties just naturally are not as rosy as others. The final factor which enters into the grading is the manner in which the apples are packed. This is probably the most important factor, for actually, the grading of apples is done when they are packed, but inspectors of the Canada Department of Agriculture check the graded apples to see that they come up to the grade standards.

Some of the aspects of the actual method of packing apples vary in the regions in which they are grown, but this is the way it is done generally in Canada. The boxes of apples which have come from the orchard or from the cold storage warehouses are emptied onto a conveyor belt and as they travel along, they are automically wiped by towels or brushes. After this wiping process, the apples continue along the belt where sorters pick out any apples which lack color or which show signs of damage or injuries or which are poorly shaped. This is a part of the grading process which is done by humans. It is not mechanical. Therefore, the women who do this sorting are highly trained and very consciencious about their job. The women place the sorted apples on one of three belts depending on the grade. On the top belt are probably the Extra Fancy apples, next the Fancy apples and on the bottom belt the Commercial or C apples. The apples then travel along to the grading machine. These machines are specially built and the mechanism sorts the apples as to size. After the apples leave the machine they continue along the belts to large bins. The apples pour off the belts into canvas troughs and are lowered into the bins. The largest sizes come off first and the small apples come off at the far end of the belt. From the bins, the apples are packed into boxes, barrels, hampers, bags and all the many containers in which apples are now sold.

As we mentioned, apples are handled slightly different in the four regions in which they are grown — but the main difference is in the way in which they are packed, and the containers used for packing the apples. In British Columbia, for instance, all apples are packed in boxes in packing houses. The boxes may be made of wood or corregated cardboard, but they are always boxes, not hampers or baskets. Each apple in the box may or may not be individually wrapped in paper to prevent bruising, depending on the grade, that is. Naturally C grade apples do not usually warrant the expenses of individual wrapping, but the more expensive, Extra Fancy and Fancy, do. On the end of each box is a label stating the grade, the variety, the name of the packer and the net weight. Many consumers like these transparent packages for they can see what they are buying.

In the Maritimes, apples are packed mostly in barrels, crates or boxes. However, here too the new types of packages are beginning to be used and who knows, it may be that in the near future we will see less and less apples packed in hampers, barrels and more and more packed in bags, boxes or perhaps some other type of new containers which the apple industry will have found suitable for their purpose.

Wife Preservers

To clean sponge rubber shoe soles, use a small brush to apply thick soapsuds mixed with a little ammonia, then wipe with a clean, damp cloth.

Scientists tell us that the average shower adds between ¼ and ½ pounds of water vapor to the moisture content of a bathroom. For a tub bath, the amount of moisture is somewhat less. Four tub baths taken consecutively equal about the same as one shower. To prevent water vapor from spreading throughout the air in the home, close the bathroom door while bathing. Open the window a few inches at both top and bottom immediately following the bath. The walls and ceiling of the bathroom may also be coated with a moisture-resistant enamel.

Q.W.I. Bursary in Agriculture Course

Forrest W. Dawson, of Glen Elm, Que., is the winner of the Bursary awarded annually by the Quebec Women's Institutes in the Diploma Course in Agriculture, Macdonald College—as announced by the Q.W.I. executive, on the eve of the opening of the next term.

The Bursary is given annually in the first year of that course to the student with highest standing who is returning for the second year. He must be a farmer's son, who has spent at least one season in his father's employ, and who intends on completion of the two year's course to continue in this profession.

The Q.W.I. is pleased to confirm this selection of candidate and wishes Mr. Dawson continued success in his chosen career.

Contrasting Colors In Latest Footwear

London (CP) — A pair of shoes with the right shoe in one color and the left in a contrasting or blending shade provided one of the most eye-catching features at the Fashion in Footwear exhibition which opened in London recently.

Equally interesting but less spectacular contrasts in color and material are being used by many of the other new season's styles shown by the British shoe manufacturers. Slashing and cut-outs give an Elizabeth I air to some designs.

An "Airborne" pump in coffee-color red suede has flashes of contrasting calf on heels and toes, and peak cut-outs on the ankle line. Black is interlaced to contrast with white on the vamp of a sandal, while white stitching provides contrast on a tan casual shoe. Thronging in the same or different colored leather is also employed — on the vamp of a classic tie shoe and in interlaced fashion on the tab of a teenager casual shoe.

Special item in the exhibition is a satin cocktail sandal, with slender t-strap and spindle heel which has been designed by a Norwich firm on its new Spanish toe last.

Variations on the Spanish toe and spindle heel are seen on many shoes in the display and often the heel is fined down to the size of a dime. This slimming process is used not only on tall heels but also on the medium heights, which are shaved to a delicate slenderness giving comfort with a deceptively high look.

New shoe shapes include round and triangular toes and heels. Square heels, too, are found on a brogue pump and on a poppy red and black-trimmed shoe. Metallic colors made their appearance too for day as well as evening wear and a dressy pump is made in gun-metal patent.

Hallowe'en Plans

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

October is a special month for boys and girls. School is well started and the pupils are becoming used to their new teachers. The trees are ablaze with color — bright red, dark crimson, gold and amber. What fun the children have playing in the leaves! On Saturdays Dad looks for some help in the odd jobs preparing for winter — cleaning up the garden, planting bulbs, putting on storm windows. Indoors mother is glad for assistance in pickling and preserving. Then as a climax, on the last day of the month, along comes Hallowe'en!

What jolly times the children have in the activities connected with this day! Plans for Hallowe'en fill many leisure hours, providing parents do not regard them as troublesome "extras". Mother should not be so busy or so weary that she cannot enter into her child's spirit of play. Boys and girls need an understanding mother to gather the necessary material, for fun on October 31.

Pumpkins in a store or at the market square attract children like a magnet. The cost of a big orange globe is comparatively small measured in terms of the pleasure it gives! Mother's pumpkin pie may be "super" — and daughter should have the opportunity to practice the art of pie making on her own. But carving a Jack o' Lantern face has a charm all its own.

Spread old newspapers on the kitchen table first. This will make the final clean up job easy. Younger children need to help a parent with this sculpturing job. But whatever their age, it is well to remind youngsters to take care in handling a sharp knife. If a school age child should cut his hand, he should know where the first aid supplies are kept. Teach him how to apply antiseptic and put on a sterile bandage. As soon as they are old enough, do let the children carve out their own pumpkin face, with the minimum of adult supervision!

Fortunately, imagination is a faculty which most children have in abundance. The chance to dress up and go visiting on Hallowe'en night lets them step through the magic door into the world of Make-Believe. Mother has to look up various articles of clothing for this annual expedition.

An old trunk or large carton in which are stored old hats, scarves, gloves, feathers and other costumes is invaluable in any home with several children. Every Hallowe'en it can be added to. On rainy or too stormy days in the winter it stands ready to clothe the amateur actors in a play. A masquerade party for the neighborhood "gang" is bound to be popular.

The wise mother lets each of her children decide how he or she wants to dress. Don't be critical of the final effect! As long as Junior feels certain his costume is a "wow" for October 31 or any other special occasion, he'll have a marvellous time!

School children this month come home with their "works of art". They have delighted in drawing witches and Hallowe'en scenes in vivid colors. Hang up their pictures for a few days in the kitchen or their bedroom. Large crayons or Poster Paint jars and big sheets of plain wrapping paper are all that are needed for youngsters to have fun at home depicting Hallowe'en scenes.

Sisters to Meet After 45 Years

Caledonia, N.S. (CP) — A telephone call brought Mrs. Eva Ashkin of Caledonia news that her sister, whom she had not seen in 45 years and though was dead, still lived at Flushing, N.Y.

The call was from Abram Gottlieb, her nephew, who had reached Saint John, N.B., in a tour of the Maritimes with his wife and family. He continued on to Caledonia and while here arranged a telephone conversation between Mrs. Ashkin and his widowed mother, Mrs. Dora Gottlieb. Mrs. Ashkin made plans to visit her sister in Flushing.

The two became separated after Mrs. Ashkin came to Canada from her native Lithuania in 1901. Her sister visited her briefly in Saint John, then returned to Lithuania. Mrs. Ashkin with her husband and four children moved to Caledonia.

Then came the First World War, and Mrs. Ashkin learned that many of her people in Lithuania had been wiped out. She heard nothing of her sister and assumed she was one of the victims.

She did not know until told by the nephew that her sister had married and gone to the United States.

Tom: "My, but that girl you just introduced me to is magnetic."

Bill: "She ought to be. Everything she has on is charged."

Marelan Plant Now Biggest Unit of Cdn. Refractories

The new Marelan magnesite firebrick plant, now in steady production, is the subject of a comment in the current "CRL News", published for Canadian Refractories Ltd. employees. Reviewing the completion of this plant and start of manufacture, the bulletin states as follows:

We doubt if many plants of this size have been built and started up as easily. When the inevitable delays on delivery of some machinery were overcome, the management lighted up the tunnel kiln, and then of course it was necessary to feed it, so we just had to mould brick from that time on. Each machine in the flow sheet had to be run in, then kept running in synchronization with the Moulding Department. Management was prepared to lose the best part of two months on burned brick which could result from heavy losses in burning until we knew the tricks of our new Dressler kiln. Therefore, the Kilmar brick plant was kept running at a high rate for months on burned brick to maintain supply. However, we were far too cautious since the Magnecon turned out the first week were in excellent condition. We therefore gradually increased the rate of throughput, more machines were put on the line, and more labor shifts were added.

As soon as we had our backlog of CRB-20 (high fire brick) well in hand, the last crew left the Kilmar brick plant, which turned out its last basic brick on August 22, 1953, some 17 years after it had turned out the first kiln liner for our own rotaries.

Years ago we used to have a backlog of six months on Magnecon Kiln blocks. As soon as Marelan came into operation, our Export Department was very happy to be able to give faster and faster deliveries, until our Overseas customers were obtaining brick as needed, and many shipments made within 48 hours for emergencies.

During August, our special MFX-100 brick have been turned out in quantity to build the first of two open hearths at Algoma Steel Corporation. These 300-ton furnaces will be the largest in Canada.

Mike Phelan, our Export Manager, is in Europe at this time, and to safeguard our export market, we have built up a large stock of kiln blocks. With this behind us, we have switched on to the production of other brands which require different temperatures of burning. The first of these is hard-burned Magnesite or Brucite (you can call it BRB-100 if you like). These have come through in a beautiful rich maroon color: we are sorry we have no female customers or these would go over big.

By mid-September our temperatures were up to Cone 32, or high fire as we call it, for making the very refractory Chrome-Magnesite brick, CRB-20, which have gone from Kilmar mostly to the new Sorel plant of Quebec Iron & Titanium Company.

From the present production we will be supplying International Nickel, Steel Co. of Canada, Falconbridge Nickel Mines, Noranda Mines Limited and Algoma Steel Corporation. We regret that our export agents have no orders on the books at this time for these super-quality basic refractories.

Two complete production lines enable us to make chemically bonded brick as well as feed for the kiln. The special dryer unit did not give perfect performance. Some of the first brick we made were almost black from soot film, so our ingenious engineers have moved the exhaust fans from the Kilmar tunnel kiln and have used them as boosters on the Marelan dryer.

The steel fabrication gang moved down from Kilmar en masse and Stan Dodd came along to train them before going back home. During September, this department has been working like beavers to catch up on orders which got ahead of them in August.

Surely CRL has been overly modest to date in publicity given on bringing into full swing what is now by far our largest employer of labor and biggest dollar-earner in the CRL organization.

Woman Keen Chairman Of Industrial Board

Aurora, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Jean Moffat, chairman of the town's industrial commission, first woman in Ontario to hold such an appointment, has set her sights on an industrial Aurora which will keep workers in their home town.

Mrs. Moffat, mother of two teenage daughters, says some 300 Aurora wage earners travel to work in Toronto or elsewhere. The town has a population of about 3,500.

Her first job will be to publish a brochue of vital facts of interest to industry about this town 20 miles north of Toronto. There are six established industries in Aurora and Mrs. Moffat and the six-man commission are confident they can "sell" Aurora to many other companies.

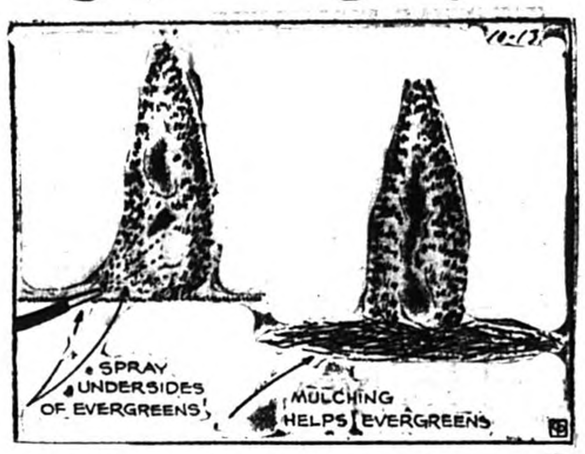

The attractive Mrs. Moffat was elected as the town's only woman councillor last year and is a member of the IODE and president of the North York Ladies' Conservative Association.

Garden-Graph

Evergreens planted early last spring or those planted this fall need "health insurance" to carry them over their critical first year.

Keep their roots from drying out. Remember, too, that evergreens need moisture even in wintertime. Unlike deciduous plants, they do not have a real dormant period.

Best method of watering newly planted evergreens is to soak the ground around and under them down to the subsoil. Watering should be done in the late afternoon or evening.

Spray so that the undersides of the newly planted trees are washed as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. This helps to control red spiders, especially if the evergreens have to endure a dry fall.

Mulching, illustrated, is also a form of health insurance. Mulch material should be applied at planting time, whether fall or spring. Peatmoss, leafmold, straw or rotted manure can be used.

A mulch, in addition to retaining moisture in the soil, helps to keep the soil cool on warm days, a condition relished by evergreens.

All fall plantings should be mulched to prevent winter injury to the roots, as well as excessive evaporation of moisture from the plant.

Lakehead Bears Voracious This Season

Drought and Frosts Leave Foraging Areas Barren

Port Arthur (CP) — There are plenty of knocks on back doors in the lakehead area these days but not all are made by the milkman. They're often made by hungry black bears looking for a free breakfast.

The bruins are so hungry, they're desperate. Only desperation could account for their antics. Normally shy and retiring by nature, the bears are venturing into gardens and farmyards. Many have even been seen inside the Port Arthur city limits.

The same story has come from other parts of the province. Bears have been seen in northern district around New Liskeard and Haileybury.

Bears are voracious at this time of year. They must eat to store up a heavy layer of fat to last them during hibernation until spring.

This year they have had slim pickings. A dry summer and early frosts have ruined wild berry crops and left their usual foraging areas almost barren. Lacking their favorite foods, they will eat anything — and go almost anywhere to get it.

One farmer near here shot two bears after he was awakened by their pawing at his back porch. A father was horrified after his young daughter showed him her new playmate — a "nice puppy dog" which turned out to be a 35-pound bear cub.

Army Worms Busy

Kelly Charmandy, Ramore woodsman, says army worms which invaded the northern forests have devoured forage and left many animals hungry.

"We've seen bears eating at a bush camp while wolves hovered in the background awaiting their turn", he said.

Ramore is near Haileybury, where a bear and her three cubs wandered into town. One of the cubs was shot. Not long afterwards, the two survivors were seen roaming around the hospital grounds at New Liskeard, a few miles away.

Nobody has been attacked by the bears. Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, fish and wildlife chief of the Ontario department of lands and forests, says he has received no official reports on a "bear menace."

However, farmers near here say more than a dozen calves and scores of chickens have been killed by the bears. Beehives are also a favorite target for the raiders.

Woodsmen differ on how far a bear has to be driven before it will turn on a man, but most agree it's bad business to get fresh with one of the animals.

"If you have a good rifle and you meet a bear", says district forester W. E. Gimby of Pembroke, "the best thing to do is shoot it."

"If you haven't a rifle, just get out of there — fast."

DEAD GIVE-AWAY

Fort Frances, Ont. (CP) — Provincial police caught a chicken thief by throwing a road block across a local highway and searching all cars for feathers. When they found some, they grilled the suspect until he told where the denuded bodies were hidden.

At present she is in Canada to see her kinfolk in Ontario and Quebec. She has visited Canada and the U.S. twice and hopes to call the clan together in Australia and New Zealand next season. John Younger MacLeod, left, a grandson, will inherit the mantle of chieftain. Patrick, right, is his twin brother.

MORE CANADIANS VISIT BRITAIN THIS YEAR

London — 30,042 Canadians visited Britain in the first eight months of this year, an increase of 17 per cent on the 25,361 visitors from Canada in the same period of last year.

"Wherever have you been, Jake. "I haven't seen you for ages?" asked an old friend.

"Getting censored?"

"Yes", said Jake. "I had several important parts cut out."

New Regulations on Unemployment Benefits

Ottawa — Important amendments to Unemployment Insurance Benefit Regulations with respect to holidays, and money received on separation from employment, are announced by the Unemployment Insurance Commmission.

Under the new provisions, now in effect, benefit is not paid to an employee for the first week of a plant or factory shutdown for a general holiday, regardless of whether the employee is paid for the holiday or not. However, if the shutdown for holidays lasts for more than a week benefit is paid for days (other than statutory holidays) in the second and subsequent weeks, for which the employee does not receive pay. Holiday pay, received at termination of employment, will not deprive a claimant of benefit.

Another amendment provides that when an employer does not require his employee to work on the day before a statutory holiday, or on the day following the holiday, or on both, benefit will not be paid for any of the days on which the employees do not work.

Formerly, when a person received money from his employer on termination of employment (other than pension payments or overtime) that person was not paid benefit until the period represented by this money had elapsed. Now all money received on termination will be disregarded in determining whether or not a person is unemployed, unless paid in consideration of the recipient undertaking to return to his former employer when required, in accordance with a guaranteed wage plan, for retirement leave credits, or in lieu of notice. If it is paid in the circumstances just mentioned, a person receiving it will not be entitled to benefit until the period represnted by the money has elapsed.
