Crafts, Fashion Display Show Practical Side of School Courses

Last Friday saw the annual exhibition of Industrial Arts projects undertaken by students of Grades VI to XI, inclusive, at Lachute High School.

Accompanying the various woodworking projects was a small display of drawings. These drawings were the result of the eight-week drafting course introduced to encourage the student to design and sketch ideas of his own. Outstanding in this particular phase were two modern designs. One, a cocktail table by Yvon Daoust of Grade IXB, featured a double top with a drawer between, which would also serve as a tray. Another was a modern desk by Duncan MacTavish of IXA. As is the case with most modern furniture this piece served a dual purpose, with its bookcase unit on one end.

Notable among the conventional pieces was a dining room buffet by Kenneth Pollock of Grade XI. This particular piece was made from local ash and finished in a dark oak. An oak desk by Kenneth Graham, IXB; inlaid card tables by George Doig and Wayne Berry, of IXA; lamps by Kenneth Gauley, VIIIA, David Touchette and Bill Lummis, Grade X, were equally prominent. A cedar chest by Douglas Thompson, IXB, and an upholstered desk chair by Ross Rodger, VIIIB, proved a highlight in craftsmanship.

The smaller projects were all worthy of mention, particularly a drum lamp by Bobby MacAdam, VIA, door stops by Serge Labreche and Sandy Jones, lawn ornaments by Bryan Noble, Frank Karch and Angus MacDonald.

The seven-week sheet metal course was well represented with a small table by Gordon Fitzgerald, VIIIA; a modern wall lamp by Art Gauley, and an anchor lamp by Neville Brown.

Some of the smaller projects were book ends, sugar scoops, cookie cutters made by Randolph Noble, Angus Todd and Hugh Pollock.

The students in these courses have been very ably instructed by Kenneth A. Dixon, specialist in Industrial Arts at Lachute High School.

Home Economics and Fashion Show

As a climax to the year's work in Home Economics, the girls of Lachute High School presented a fashion show in the school auditorium entitled "Cottons for '54". The fashion commentator, Shirley McGeorge, opened the show by introducing the Grade VI girls wearing their trim blue and white aprons. Gay printed skirts and denim play clothes were modelled by the Grade VII girls. The skirts were followed by dresses in a variety of styles including several sundresses modelled by the girls from Grades VIII and IX.

The setting for the show carried out the summer theme with a flower-covered picket fence and arch. The models approached the stage through the arch to accompaniment of suitable music played by Lois Silverson.

The fashion show was under the direction of Miss Nina Banfill, the Home Economics teacher, who was assisted with programs and make-up by Miss Ada Sudsbury and Miss Ruth Hammond.

In the Home Economics room, cooking and sewing projects were on display for interested parents and friends. Nutrition principles were emphasized by the comparison of "Good Breakfast Foods" with a poor breakfast consisting of coffee and doughnuts. The girls had planned a typical breakfast and set the table for a family of four, thus giving the visitors an opportunity to see how group projects play such an important part in training our homemakers of tomorrow.

Gérard Lefebvre Elected To Catholic School Board

Gérard Lefebvre, civil engineer, was unanimously elected to the Catholic School Commission replacing Georges Beaulieu, retiring commissioner. Mr. Beaulieu withdrew from the Commisison at the end of his term, for personal reasons, and his decision was accepted with regret. The commissioners' term is of three years duration.

Lachute Catholic School Commission comprises the following membership: Fernand Legault, chairman, Emmanuel Laurin, Dr. Roger Lavigne, Antonio Labonté and Gérard Lefebvre. The Commission exercises jurisdiction over three schools, l'Ecole Supérieure, St. Julien and St. Alexandre Schools, with an enrolment of approximately 1,000 pupils and 50 teachers, both lay and clerical.

Young Cyclist Suffered Splintered Elbow

Young Peter Riddell, Main Street, who has spent the past week in the Royal Victoria Hospital, is expected home this week-end. He is suffering from a fractured elbow, sustained when he crashed with his bicycle into an opening car door on Main Street several weeks ago. The splintered bone was set last Friday and doctors report the injury progressing favorably.

$370,000 Loan Issue For Catholic Building In Immaculate Conception

Sale of a $370,000 20-year serial bond issue by the Catholic School Commissioners for the Municipality of L'Immaculée Conception will finance construction of the convent in that parish, which will be ready for occupancy at the commencement of the new school year.

The loan, which was the first marketed by the Corporation since June 1950, was awarded to a syndicate composed of the Banque Canadienne Nationale and Crédit - Québec, the lowest of the four tenders received.

The new bonds bear the date of April 1, 1954, and mature from April 1, 1953, to April 1, 1974, inclusive, the half-yearly interest coupons being payable on April 1 and October 1 of each year. The debentures may be called prior to maturity. The capital and interest are payable at a chartered bank in Quebec, Montreal or Lachute. The loan is authorized by a resolution dated February 16, 1954. The $213,225 grant awarded by the Provincial Secretary, to be totally applied to servicing the loan is payable in ten equal and consecutive annual instalments of $21,322.50, from 1955 to 1964 inclusive.

The assessed valuation of the Board, for 1953-54, stands at $3,091,880. As of June 30th, 1953, the net funded debt of the Corporation amounted to $91,000 and a grant of $60,000 applied to it. In 1953, the territory within the jurisdiction of the Commission had a population of 2,350 souls.

Fire Call on Sunday

Minor damage was caused when overheated stove pipes scorched surrounding paint and started a chimney fire in the house of Gerald Noble, near the Catholic Cemetery. The fire, which occurred shortly after 11 a.m. Sunday, was not serious, and the local brigade extinguished the blaze in short order.

Social Service Office Here Friday Afternoons

The Social Service Bureau for St. Jerome Diocese, which hitherto has held office hours in Lachute on Wednesday afternoons, will in future be open on Fridays, from 2 to 4 p.m., in the Ste. Anastasie Church basement. A social service worker will be here weekly for public consultation.

Since its establishment one year ago, the district Social Service has done excellent work in many cases of child adoption, financial aid, job placement and other ways of assisting those in need.

Rev. J. L. Rodrigue Elevated As Canon of the Church

Cardinal Paul-Emile Leger, marking his 25th anniversary in the Catholic priesthood, last week conferred honorary canonical office upon five clerics in the Quebec archdiocese — among whom was the Rev. Louis-Joseph Rodrigue, curé of St. Eustache and a former Lachute townsboy. Incidentally, the Rev. Rodrigue (son of the late Dr. Alexandre Rodrigue and brother of Miss Juliette Rodrigue, Lachute) just recently celebrated his own 25th anniversary since being ordained to the priesthood. His service in different spheres of education and church work well justify the honor accorded in his appointment as Canon. His friends here extend sincere congratulations.

New Secretary Appointed to Ayersv'l Council

Ayersville Municipal Council held its regular monthly meeting Monday evening, under chairmanship of Mayor Gaetan Paquette. Councillors Horace Deslauriers, Germain Poulin, Laurent Tessier, Albert Seguin, Alfred Campeau and Douglas Bradford were in attendance.

The Council approved accounts totalling $2,585.64 for payment, and unanimously accepted the tender of Edouard Lavoie for the position of secretary.

Mr. Lavoie, who was awarded the position over tenders submitted by Wilfrid Duroucher of Ayersville and Germain Joly of Lachute Mills, was also named collector of the amusement tax in the municipality. His secretarial hours will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. week days, and from 9 a.m. until noon Saturdays.

Ald. Poulin gave notice of motion that at the next meeting he would propose the adoption of By-law 11 replacing By-law 1, changing the date and hours of regular meetings of the municipality to the first Monday of every month, in the Immaculate Conception School, at 8 p.m. in the summer and 7.30 p.m. in the winter months.

A committee comprising Douglas Simon, Douglas Bradford, Gaetan Paquette, Albert Seguin, Aurele Pharand, Louis Joseph Bigras, Roland Filion and Bertrand L'Heureux was formed to study the construction of sidewalks and zoning of the municipality; the committee will report at next meeting.

It was proposed by Ald. Seguin, seconded by Ald. Campeau, that a tax of $1.25 be levied on all bicycle owners, motorcycles excepted; and a dog tax of $2 for male and $5 for female dogs be levied on all owners.

It was moved by Ald. Poulin, seconded by Ald. Bradford, that Secretary Lavoie, Mayor Paquette, Ald. Germain Poulin and Ald. H. Deslauriers be authorized to sign cheques and other documents in the name of the municipality.

A vote of thanks to retiring Secretary Treasurer Armand Brisson for services rendered to the municipality in his 2½ years in office, was moved by Ald. Bradford and passed unanimously, after which the meeting was adjourned.

Wm. M. Cottingham Honored With Quebec Minister of Mines Portfolio

W. M. COTTINGHAM, M.L.A. FOR ARGENTEUIL

Friends and constituents extend congratulations to W. M. Cottingham, Member of the Quebec Legislative Assembly representing Argenteuil County, who yesterday was officially appointed and sworn in as Minister of Mines.

As representative of this constituency since 1948 in the Union Nationale Government, Mr. Cottingham has been regarded as a spokesman in the government ranks for English-speaking Quebecers. The honor accorded by Premier Duplessis in his elevation to the cabinet, is considered well merited by his record while in parliamentary office. Mr. Cottingham succeeds the late C. D. French as Quebec Minister of Mines. (The Hon. Mr. French died May 3 last.)

As a member of one of the oldest Lachute families, prominent in business and an active stock-breeder and agriculturist, Mr. Cottingham is recognized throughout Argenteuil for his knowledge of, and sympathy with, local problems. He has taken special interest in the progress of education, both Protestant and Catholic, and has served since 1946 as chairman of the Central School Board. He is also mayor of the Municipality of St. Jerusalem and — through these activities and his extensive experience in the construction business — is rated as a man well versed in administrative matters.

Mr. Cottingham's predecessor, the Hon. Georges-Etienne Dansereau, became Minister of Roads in the Quebec Liberal Government, and this constituency remains in favorable prominence with the appointment of its present representative to the U.N. cabinet.

GREENER FIELDS

All too often young people head for the far fields that look green . . the larger centres of population which seem to have a particular allure for the young. Many of them would be happier and, over the years, much more successful by remaining in the communities in which they had been raised, taking their part there and playing their proper role in municipal life.

Parish of St. Jerusalem Issues New $250,000 Public Works Debentures

The Parish of St. Jerusalem sold a $250,000 15-year serial bond issue May 15. The loan, authorized by By-law 255, is incurred for the construction of a waterworks and sewerage system. The award was made to a syndicate formed by J. E. Laflamme Ltée, La Corporation de Prêtes de Québec, Grenier Ruel & Cie Ltée., and Garneau Boulanger Ltée. A net cost of 4.616 per cent was paid for the debentures. The 1969 maturity of $202,000 includes a balance of $168,500 to be renewed for another 15-year term.

The Parish marketed another bond issue in April 1952, comprising $150,000 of 5 per cent 20-year serials at par, over the counter.

The new bonds, for which three tenders were received, bear the date of March 1, 1954, and mature from March 1, 1955 to March 1, 1969 inclusively, the interest coupons being payable half-yearly on March 1 and September 1 of each year. The capital and interest are payable at chartered banks in Quebec, Montreal, Toronto or Lachute. The debentures may be called prior to maturity.

The Municipality has an assessed valuation of $1,839,100 for 1954. As of December 31, 1953, the net funded debt of the Corporation stood at $140,000. The population of the Parish is 1,247 persons.

'Service' Keynotes Lions Club Deliberations

There was a full session and high attendance at the Lions' supper on Tuesday evening, matters of club business and community service occupying the session. President E. M. Jones was in the chair.

In a final report on Easter Seals, Dr. F. W. FitzGerald stated that Lachute ranked second highest outside Montreal, in all Quebec districts — total collections amounting to $1,194.99. The portion of these proceeds for local use is $385.50 — half of the gross receipts accruing to Quebec headquarters, for aid on behalf of cripples in institutions and under treatment . . . Lion Dr. FitzGerald was accorded a vote of thanks, and was also authorized to procure replacement parts on the community inhalator, to ensure its efficiency for the swimming season and possible emergencies.

A letter was read from Mme H. Lamarche, president of the Ste. Croix Convent alumnae, thanking the club for its $100 donation towards expenses of the coming 50th anniversary of the Religious Sisters' establishment here.

Certificate to a new member, P. Robitaille, was presented by ex-President Phil Roy, and attendance buttons were awarded by ex-President Léopold Carrière to 22 "hundred percenters" of the current season.

Herb Graves gave a boost to ticket sales for the Golf Tournament and car drawing; solicitation to the public will be pressed more actively hereabouts, as the date approaches for this annual drawing.

The club discussed school safety signs, and functioning of the Lions-sponsored highway flashers. Formal approval was expressed to the efforts of Police Chief Ducharme in the current Highway Safety Campaign; and Lion Donat Villeneuve, as safety committeeman, was requested to see what could be done to further the Chief's efforts.

A slate of officers for the coming year was presented by the nominating committee to be approved at next meeting, which will be the final session of this season.

Lion Phil Tremblay served in his usual efficient manner as secretary.

CITIZENS GET FIRST-HAND VIEW OF NAVY INSTALLATIONS

With a large map of the north Atlantic serving as a backdrop, Commodore E. P. Tisdall, commodore RCN Barracks, Halifax, explains the role of the Royal Canadian Navy in today's alliance of the free world nations. His audience is a group of 35 leaders of business, industry, trade unions and other national organizations who were guests of Hon. Brooke Claxton, minister of national defence, on a four-day tour of defence establishments in eastern Canada. Purpose of the tour was to familiarize business and industry with a large part of the country's defence effort.

SEAWAY BENEFITS

Being in the "fringe" area of the waterway development, this municipality may benefit in a number of ways. Gananoque, which has added only 1,000 people in the 50 years the seaway has been a talking point, will naturally welcome any benefits, and town fathers and planners should continue plans with an eye to the future.

CONSOLING THOUGHT

Birmingham, England (CP) — Edward Dodd, Birmingham police chief who used to fret because so many newly-trained police women get married, has one consolation. "Most of them marry policemen. These marriages are successful and invariably the husband does well in the force," he says.

Alderman Resigns, Nomination June 10

At the Council session last evening in Lachute Auditorium, Alderman Georges H. Beaulieu, centre ward representative, tendered his resignation.

Hearing the written resignation, which cited reasons of ill health, Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur stated Mr. Beaulieu had proved himself "an active member of this body, who had the interests of the municipality at heart." The Mayor expressed regret at his decision, and the resignation was accepted on motion of Ald. Judes Charlebois, seconded by Ald. Ross Muir.

According to provisions of the Municipal Code, which call for the filling of aldermanic vacancies within 10 days, the Mayor declared nominations for the centre ward seat would be open Thursday, June 10, from 12 noon to 2 p.m., at the town hall. In event of a contest, same would be held on June 17.

Gruesome Reminders in Safety Campaign Parade

A street parade in connection with the local and provincial Safety Campaign is planned this evening (Thursday) by Police Chief Laurent Ducharme, who hopes that by continual propaganda, reminding drivers of just how easily an accident can occur, some local tragedies and casualties may be averted.

The parade — which will consist of service trucks towing wrecked cars, ambulances and the morgue wagon, as well as police and civic officials — will proceed through the town thoroughfares for all to behold. . . Or failing the culmination of arrangements for this evening, the parade will be held within the next few days.

Constant reminders to drive more slowly will be distributed in conspicuous parts of town. Wrecked cars in which people have been killed or injured will be on view, in the hope that others may avoid the cost and anxiety caused by highway accidents.

L.O.B.A. Grand Lodge Annual Meeting Was Occasion of Various Anniversaries

Mrs. Margaret Boland Elected Grand Mistress At Recent Session Held at Lachute High School

A number of anniversaries were celebrated at the annual meeting of Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association of the Grand Lodge of Quebec, held recently in Lachute. The Quebec Grand Lodge marked its 25th anniversary — meeting in the auditorium of the Lachute High School, which is now celebrating its 100th anniversary. Argenteuil County L.O.A. has reached its 100th birthday, while the Quebec Grand Lodge of L.O.A. celebrated its 105th anniversary.

Reports showed that almost double the former year's welfare work had been done by the Quebec Lodges. Subscriptions received for the Children's Home at Rosemere were up 18% over the previous year, and the issuance of Orange insurance was up 13%.

Mrs. Margaret Boland, of Sherbrooke, was elected Grand Mistress, with Mrs. Florence Howarth, of Ste. Anne de Bellevue as Past-Mistress. Miss Gertrude Hoyle, of Montreal, is now Deputy Grand Mistress, and Mrs. Glenna Holt, of Lachute, Junior Deputy Mistress.

Others elected were — Miss Ellen Helm, recording secretary; Miss Catherine Watson, treasurer; Miss Elvina Stephens, chaplain; Mrs. Inez Cooke, deputy secretary; Mrs. Mary Davidson, deputy treasurer; Mrs. Mabel Richards, director of ceremonies; Mrs. Clara Atkins and Mrs. Florence Bridgeman, lecturers; Mrs. Laura MacVicar, director of Juvenile lodges; Mesdames Annie Moores, Eleanor DuVall and Jenny Coveduck, auditors.

There will be a large delegation from Quebec attending the sessions of the Grand Lodge of British America in Saskatoon in June, and the Quebec sessions for 1955 will be held in Sherbrooke.

Elected Director of Trade Organization

H. Stanley Church, Lachute businessman, was elected a director of the Province of Quebec Corporation of Master Electricians, at a three-day convention held in Three Rivers last week-end. For the past year, Mr. Church has held office as a director of the permanent committee on trade practices. He was also re-elected a director of the Laurentide regional section last April.

Guides and Brownies Attend Service

Last Sunday morning at St. Simeon's Anglican Church, the 1st Lachute Girl Guide Company and Brownies paraded in considerable number to occupy the front pews of the church — the rector, the Rev. C. R. Lang, receiving their colors and preaching a sermon suitable to the occasion. In uniform and accompanied by their leaders, the girls presented a smart appearance and paraded in creditable order.

In the current year CBC will receive about $23 million from public sources, about two thirds of it from the special 15 per cent tax on radio and television sets and parts.

Prot. Teachers Elect Officers

The Argenteuil and Two Mountains Teachers' Association held its final meeting for the year 1953-54 at Grenville Consolidated School on Wednesday evening, May 26.

Reports were given by the chairmen of the various committees, and election of officers was held. The following were chosen as the executive for 1954-55:

President, Miss E. Stanton; secretary-treasurer, Miss A. Sudsbury (both of Lachute High School); vice-president, G. P. Grant, Brownsburg Consolidated School; chairman of Athletic Committee, A. Petersen, Lachute High School; chairman of the Program Committee, Miss I. McOuat, Lake of Two Mountains High School; official delegates to P.A.P.T., Mrs. C. B. French, Lake of Two Mountains High School, Mrs. M. Andrews, Grenville Consolidated School, M. Blakely, Morin Heights Intermediate School, and G. K. Amos, Brownsburg Consolidated School.

A. W. Lang, secretary-treasurer of the Quebec Association of Protestant School Boards, was guest speaker for the occasion. He gave an inspiring and highly amusing address on some aspects of education — past and present, and contrasted teaching methods and conditions of the so-called "good old days" with those of today.

The serving of refreshments brought the meeting to a pleasant conclusion.

'Security' Trend Seen Detriment to Personal Initiative

At Rotary Meeting

Brownsburg — The possible harm that may be done to Canada's economy by individuals placing too great an emphasis on security rather than progress, was discussed by Mr. H. J. Roast, of Ottawa, in his talk to the Brownsburg Rotary Club last week.

Speaking on the theme, "The Curse of Security", Mr. Roast credited the tremendous developments in Canada during the past 30 or 40 years, to those people who had the initiative to break away from the established pattern and security of their daily living, and by virtue of hard work were able to carve out a better future for themselves in new enterprises. Pointing out that our tremendous natural resources were all here years ago, he stated that any progress we have made has been due to the efforts of those people who were willing to exchange the comforts of home for the hardships of a new land.

In Mr. Roast's opinion the growth of trade unions with their philosophy of "more pay for less work", the policies of a philanthropic government, and growth of large corporations in which individual enterprise is to some extent discouraged, have all had the effect of killing the incentive to work which people in this country had a generation ago. However, the incentives are still there for those who care to recognize them, and business men should encourage the youth of today to take advantage of them.

Mr. Roast was introduced by Les Thompson and thanked by Wes Freeland. Mrs. Roast, Mrs. Norman Somers of Brownsburg, and Mr. Lloyd Thomas, of Kilmar, were special guests at the meeting.

Musical Program Well Patronized

Event on Behalf of Sisters of Ste. Croix Anniversary Celebration

A musical entertainment at l'Ecole Supérieure last Monday evening was attended by approximately 300 persons. Performers included past and present pupils of the Sisters of Ste. Croix, and the event was under auspices of the Ste. Anastasie Amicale — proceeds being devoted to the 50th anniversary of the establishment of the Sisters of Ste. Croix in this community (to be celebrated in June 1955).

The fine musical program included concerto selections from Mozart and Beethoven and other classical numbers for pianoforte, played by Misses Pierrette Giroux, Claire Laurin, Nicole Quesnel, Claudette Palmieri and Marcelle Lafortune (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Lafortune) — a performance speaking highly for the musical tuition imparted by the Convent teachers. The Ste. Anastasie and St. Alexandre School choirs presented choral numbers.

Miss Lise Joannette, secretary of the Convent alumnae group, introduced the artists and selections. Gérard Lefebvre took occasion to present a cheque of $100 from the Lions Club to assist with the anniversary preparations. Mrs. Horace Lamarche, president, thanked the audience on behalf of the Ste. Anastasie Amicale, and the Rev. Curé Wm. Lacourse expressed appreciation of the fine performance. Tokens were presented to the assisting artists.

Among those noted in the attendance were the Rev. Sister Marie Ste. Celestine, of Cornwall, former superior of the local convent; many prominent figures in the local clerical orders, priesthood and education; Philippe Valois, M.P.; Mrs. Wm. Cottingham; Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur and Mrs. Lafleur, and others.

Gatineau LINES

Industrial Growth

In the past five years 117 new industrial customers have been added to the Company's system !

This number does not include industries or power customers which were connected and later disconnected within such period. In other words, it is the record of net industrial growth !

The Company is constantly in search of new industries which may be induced to locate in the richly endowed Laurentians and the Western Section of La Province de Quebec, which it is privileged to serve.

To better collaborate its endeavors with the Municipalities, the railways, the banks, telephone companies, construction companies and others promoting industrial growth, the Company has recently appointed Mr. Maurice Lavallee, P.Eng., as its Industrial Commissioner.

National Farm Forum Annual Meet June 16-17 At Univ. Saskatchewan

The University of Saskatchewan will be host to the annual Conference of National Farm Radio Forum June 16-17. Delegates from nine provinces will meet in Saskatoon to discuss reports of last year's work and to make plans for the coming season. Discussion topics will be selected from the subpects chosen by the Forums.

One of the highlights of the Conference will be the opportunity for Forum delegates from other provinces to question Saskatchewan's Royal Commission on Agriculture and Rural Life as to what it has discovered about the rural community.

Mr. J. R. Finlay, Supervisor of CBC Prairie Television, will speak on "The Potentialities of Television" — a subject of increasing interest to the Forums — at a banquet for the delegates Wednesday evening, June 16. The banquet is sponsored by the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture.

A panel of provincial Forum secretaries will discuss "How Farm Organizations Can Use Farm Forum", and the Conference will close with a basket picnic given by the University at the Sutherland Forest Nursery Thursday evening.

The National Farm Radio Forum Board will meet on June 15 prior to the convention, with the provincial secretaries meeting for a day on Monday, June 14.

Machine-Fed Piglets Weaned in 10 Days

Montreal (CP) — A mechanical "mother" capable of developing piglets bigger, better and faster than any natural sow may bring down the price of bacon for Canada's budget-minded housewives.

The foster mother has been developed by researchers at nearby Macdonald Agricultural College and is becoming popular with pig breeders throughout Canada and the United States.

Dolling out a carefully designed dry food ration to her charges, the artificial 'nanny' weans the animals in 10 days compared with 60 days taken by a natural mother.

Meantime the real sows are freed from their offspring and can get down to the important task of producing more piglets at a faster rate than ever before.

Prof. E. W. Crampton, chairman of the college's nutrition department, says sows whose piglets are weaned by the mechanical method can produce three litters a year. In the past two litters a year was an outstanding accomplishment.

Prof. Champton said the real value of the invention is that young pigs can be given a carefully prepared dry food diet, enabling them to grow bigger than piglets treated to a natural diet.

The scheme, first developed early in 1950, is leading to pig "hatcheries" similar to hen hatcheries, the professor said. Breeders will be able to specialize in producing the maximum number of pigs and selling them after 10 days to other producers who can rear the animals to the bacon stage.

Prof. Champton says the mechanical mother should also prove a boon to dog breeders and producers of guinea pigs. Both animals have been weaned on the mechanical mother at Macdonald and "thrived on it", he said.

Maintain Egg Quality For Greater Profit

Egg quality begins to decline as soon as an egg has been laid and it continues at a steady rate. The rate of decline is greatly increased by the high temperature and low humidity of the warmer months of the year. This means reduced profits for the poultryman especially during the summer months. Many poultrymen, however, do not realize how relatively easy it is to produce high quality eggs throughout the year. Walter Hunsaker of the Poultry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, suggests a few simple rules which will help to maintain egg quality, and combine greater profit for the producer with better quality for the consumer.

1. Gather eggs twice a day in winter and three times a day in summer and cool quickly. Heat is the most important factor in the loss of egg quality. An egg that has been left in the nest all day will be little better, by the time it is gathered, than a 3-day-old egg.

2. Use wire baskets to gather and cool eggs. Eggs will cool twice as fast in a wire basket as in a pail or egg case.

3. Hold eggs in a cool moist place. A temperature of 50 degrees to 60 degrees Fahrenheit and a relative humidity of 70 to 80 per cent is recommended.

4. Case eggs the next morning after they have been thoroughly cooled. Cases and flats should be cooled as well.

5. Place eggs in case with the large end up. Handle eggs carefully at all times to avoid cracking the shell.

6. Market eggs at least once a week and twice or three times if possible. The best time to sell an egg is as soon as possible after it has been laid.

7. Feed a complete ration. This means a good laying mash, scratch grains, oyster shell or limestone and plenty of fresh clean drinking water.

8. Provide plenty of nests and change the nesting material frequently in order to reduce the number of dirty eggs.

9. Confine layers until at least mid-afternoon. This will help to keep the eggs clean during damp, rainy weather. In addition the birds will eat less green grass and other materials outside which cause objectionably dark yolks.

10. Produce infertile eggs. Fertile eggs lose their market value very quickly if held at high temperature due to rapid development of the embryo.

A satisfactory egg cooler may be constructed quickly and at reasonable cost. Plans for such a cooler may be obtained by writing to the Poultry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Lachute Safety Campaign — Picture to Remember

A YOUNG LACHUTE resident lost his life in this automobile a little less than a year ago. A friend was also severely injured, when the car swerved out of control, entering a ditch, where it turned over before sliding into a house. Excessive speed was the cause — as it could be the cause of your losing your life or the life of a loved one. Drive slowly and carefully, observe the speed limit, help save a life.

Morin Hts. Legionnaires Attend Organization of Branch at St. Sauveur

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — At the Legion meeting held May 25, Comrade C. Baumel, membership chairman, reported four new applications had been received. These new members were duly accepted.

The building fund campaign committee reported that a total of $87.24 had been collected in the "piggy banks." Grateful thanks were expressed to the merchants who co-operated. The fund now stands at $671, and it was hoped to get the thermometer up in position without delay.

Delegation to St. Sauveur

A delegation from this branch attended a re-organization meeting of the St. Sauveur Branch. Com Gilbert, 3rd vice-president of Provincial Command, was in the chair. Comrade Kneeland gave the meeting a general idea of what had been accomplished in Morin Hts., and Comrade Green spoke of the benefits that could be obtained by co-operation with the municipal council and other local organizations. It was confidently felt that in a short while a very "live wire" branch of the Legion will be functioning in St. Sauveur.

WARNED TO EQUIP VEHICLES WITH REFLECTORS

The Province of Quebec Safety League warns farmers against taking horse-drawn vehicles out on public highways after dark unless they are equipped with reflectors and can be seen by approaching traffic.

In spite of the decrease in number of such vehicles, this type of accident occurs every summer because precautions aren't taken, says the League. The same is applicable to tractors. A minor negligence often produces a major accident.

Lachute Distributor For Petrofina Oils

The firm of L. J. Dumais Reg., Lachute, has been appointed district distributor for Canadian Petrofina — whose oil products are gaining wider repute in Eastern Canada with the erection of many new gasoline service stations.

This Canadian subsidiary of a large European company has been established in Calgary since 1949 and to provide for wider development across Canada is presently constructing a $24-million refinery in Montreal East.

Locally, a new Petrofina station has just been completed at Brownsburg, one is on the blueprints for immediate construction in Lachute, while there will be numerous dealerships in the district for the automotive trade — besides which, L. J. Dumais Reg. will give adequate service for domestic and farm users of all petroleum products.

HIGHWAY SAFETY CAMPAIGN
JUNE 1 to 15

The number of auto highway accidents is rising at an alarming rate:
901 dead . . . 8,923 injured . . . 175,052 damaged cars.
This is the catastrophic price that was paid last year.

This year the number of accidents must be cut by half!
"Cow-Boy" drivers, responsible for most accidents will have to be eliminated! This is the goal of the present campaign that has the solid backing of civil and religious authorities.

Traffic officers, provincial and municipal police have received strict orders: they have to see that all traffic laws are respected and act against those violating them, with courtesy if you will, but in a manner strict and impartial. The law provides for more severe penalties this year but the law will prove ineffectual if motorists themselves do not try to eliminate highway dangers. An educational campaign imposes itself at this season of the year: education of drivers first, but also of bicycle riders and pedestrians. Everyone must do their share to cut down the death and accident rate on our highways.

In the hands of a careful driver, an auto is a source of pleasure and distraction . . . but in the hands of a maniacal speed demon it becomes an instrument dealing death.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

The Campaign Is On

THE QUEBEC Highway Safety Campaign, of two weeks' duration, opened on Tuesday. Prompted by the increasing toll of traffic accidents, in fatalities and injuries throughout the province — this propaganda is aimed to spark the public conscience to its responsibilities behind the wheel of a car — Just that.

In Lachute, Police Chief Laurent Ducharme is collaborating — doing his part to make the campaign effective in Lachute town. Throughout this edition of The Watchman, publicity is given to the local and provincial aspects of the campaign. One or two grim pictures from the recent past are reproduced from our files, showing the utter waste, and suggesting the human tragedy, resultant from carelessness on the highway.

If self-preservation and respect for human life are ineffective to spur our realization — or too awesome, maybe — let us bring our motives down to the plain, simple ideal of Courtesy. The courteous citizen thinks of others, likewise the courteous driver. And with this quality of decency in all our moves and actions, we drivers will be SAFE drivers. Let's co-operate with our local police, and with the sponsors of the present Quebec Highway Safety Campaign!

Lots For Sale!

ANYONE who has seen what is happening in the suburbs of almost any Canadian city in the last five years knows that we are gobbling up land. And that land, in the great majority of cases, has been the most productive and best farmed on the continent.

There are few farms or even market gardens left on Montreal Island, once the most intensely cultivated tract in Quebec. There are few farms left along Queen Elizabeth Highway in Ontario, and here again the production per acre was among the highest in all Canada. And the same is true of the amazingly rich Lower Fraser Valley in British Columbia. New housing, factories, service stations, airfields and super-highways are pushing farming and commercial gardening farther and farther back, and most of this new encroachment, unfortunately, takes the choicest agricultural soil, because both farmer and builder have similar preferences.

Someday, believes The Financial Post, we are going to have to think twice where we are going to run our new highways or establish our farm-consuming airfields. A hundred years from now our great-grandchildren may look back upon us of this period as about as wasteful of natural resources as today we consider our pioneer great-grandfathers. . . As regards our woodland resources, the past decade has witnessed a consciousness of waste almost approaching the point of panic. Who knows — maybe The Post is right about our farmlands; the future generations may roundly condemn us for our greed and recklessness.

About Your Blood Pressure

MOST CASES of hypertension (high blood pressure) are, contrary to popular opinion, mild and fairly harmless, according to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation. An article by Dr. Alvarez, entitled "How to Live with your Blood Pressure," appeared in the current issue of "Family Doctor," published by the British Medical Association.

"To a lot of people, the very words 'high blood pressure' always mean a serious and fatal disease," Dr. Alvarez writes, "But happily they are wrong. On the average their span of life will be a little shorter than that of persons with a normal pressure and this is why insurance companies hesitate to accept them. But many of them will live comfortably into their sixties, and some will go on even into their seventies."

"The one thing you really have to know," says Dr. Alvarez, "is that in all but a few cases the disease is what is called an essential hypertension, and no localized cause will ever be found to explain it. So there is no point in going on for year after year seeing different doctors and asking for repeated examinations. Even if the doctor should find some minor local disease, its removal would not alter the raised blood pressure."

Every doctor who has looked after men and women with high blood pressure can tell several stories of patients who were advised to prepare for the end and then went on to live for 25 or 30 more fruitful years, according to Dr. Alvarez.

Progress in Maritimes

THEY TELL a story in Nova Scotia about the old Cape Breton lady, having some antipathy toward a bridge or causeway across the Canso Strait to mainland Nova Scotia, saying in her prayers each night: "... and please Lord don't ever let us be joined with them Nova Scotians."

It's an old story, and if the characteristic individualism of those living in the Atlantic provinces hasn't changed, their outlook doubtless has. And mainly because of mineral development in three of the four provinces and tremendous transportation changes.

To say they are unanimously optimistic would invite criticism. Newfoundland fishermen are having trouble marketing their catches. Nova Scotia miners have an unstable industry, rising freight rates are affecting producers.

But few will deny that the economic picture of the Atlantic provinces is changing for the better.

The mile-long, $23,000,000 Canso causeway will be firmly anchored to Cape Breton island this year. Three new ferries, being built at a total cost of $10,000,000, will next year be plying between Nova Scotia, Maine, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

An $11,000,000 suspension bridge will span Halifax harbor in November. A multi-million dollar highway and rail project will soon link Bathurst, N.B., with a big mineral development project in the nearby hills. Highway construction and repair this year will cost about $30,000,000.

The transportation improvements will be a boon to the tourist trade, a top-ranking industry in the Maritimes. They also will open markets.

Nova Scotia is gearing its coal industry to an expensive mechanization program to produce low-cost coal and meet growing competition. Apart from Prince Edward Island, the provinces are working feverishly in mineral development. Newfoundland has a long-range plan for its fisheries.

It's a healthy picture that should become better in the year ahead.

A Word in Time

JUNE is pestiferous with flies and mosquitoes, but families are already venturing to their summer camps — and it's not too soon to harp again on the hazards of swimming. Drowning takes its annual toll in this county, popular for its vacation resorts, and on the chance that we can save one life, The Watchman offers no apology for repeating this time-honored warning.

To those who cannot swim: never go in places where the water level is above the waist. If bathing in unknown waters, ask a swimmer to look for holes or pitfalls before venturing off the beach; never go too far from shore on a float; avoid choosing bathing places where there are currents.

To those who can swim: never believe you are an expert until you can swim a mile without excessive fatigue; if your body is warm, never dive in cold water without first cooling off by dipping your wrists in water and sprinkling your forehead; don't wait until you're tired to return to shore; never attempt stunts or take chances; never go in after meals; before diving from any height, check the depth of the water.

THERE'S SOLACE for sore backs in this comment from the Armstrong (B.C.) Advertiser: "Despite the admittedly routine nature of farming, there is a far greater satisfaction, and a definite achievement, in the fact that the products of the land are the most vital necessity to the human race."

Over the Years with THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

June 6, 1879 —

There is need for caution and moderation in drinking in hot weather. Let our teetotal readers remember that it is just possible to be intemperate in the use of water, as in the use of alcoholic drinks, and many persons injure themselves during the hot summer weather by drinking the wrong things, or by drinking too much of the right ones.

It is said by a person somewhat versed in botany that a Cyprus tree stands on the bank of the river just opposite the residence of Mr. Chisholm, and that very few such trees are known of in Canada. It might be an interesting exercise for the pupils of our schools to find out by observation or otherwise how many kinds of trees there are within the limits of their own school districts.

Legions of potato bugs have appeared since the recent showers.

From the number of strawberry blossoms seen, a good crop is anticipated.

50 YEARS AGO

June 3, 1904 —

The Rev. Geo. Schagel, of Lakefield, has been appointed to the pastorate of the Dorchester Street Church in Montreal.

The execution of Theophile Belanger, convicted of the murder of his wife's brother, Antoine Seguin, is set for Friday morning, June 10. Belanger was in jail for a year before his trial took place. There was no hesitation on the part of the jury in returning a verdict of guilty, but they recommended him to mercy.

Lieut.-Col. Hodgson was in Lachute last Wednesday, making arrangements for the 11th, when they go into camp 418 strong.

25 YEARS AGO

June 7, 1929 —

Cushing — Master Lawrence O'Brien, of Grece's Point, was quite seriously injured in a fall from a high beam in Mr. Lindley Kerr's barn last Sunday afternoon. Dr. J. H. Mason, of Lachute, was called and found it necessary to put a number of stitches in a bad cut on the forehead.

Mr. Urbain was appointed Town Constable and sworn in accordingly, at the regular meeting of the town council.

THE WEEKLIES SAY

PLANNING AHEAD

While the old settled sections of the East are struggling to replace the thoughtless waste of natural resources the outposts of today are trying not to commit the same offences, and to plan ahead for the generations who will live when the wealth of today has been harvested and spent.

— Oakville (Ont.) Journal

COSTLY CAR-WARMING

The January cold spell gave local residents something to yell about when light bills were examined. Keeping the car plugged-in during many nights kept the meter twirling like a merry-go-round.

— Rainy River (Ont.) Record

NEGLECT IS COSTLY

A run-down, dilapidated property with untidy surroundings can ruin the appearance of a whole neighborhood and affect property values in the whole area. It is not only for appearance sake that one should keep one's property looking its best; it is also good business.

— Prince George (B.C.) Citizen

PLACID APPROACH

Whether we prefer to be quieter in our approach to the big things that happen and are happening today, than the people of the U.S., we are certainly very placid about the impact of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

— Huntingdon (Que.) Gleaner

ECONOMY NOTE

In spite of the promptness with which the present issue of bonds was sold, the Town Council would be well advised, in our opinion, to continue the policy which they now have been following since early this year of curtailing expenses wherever possible.

ALL ABOARD
With G. E. Mortimore

A housewife in a half-rural suburb of a Canadian city looked out her window recently to see a woman alight from a fat car. The woman was expensively dressed, and she carried a parcel under her arm.

"Now, who is this calling on me?" the housewife muttered. "Nobody I know."

Nervously straightening a tablecloth, removing her apron and patting her hair, the housewife went to the door, ready to greet the visitor.

But the stranger walked only as far as the outside gate. Then she threw her bundle into the front yard, got back in the fat car and drove off. The bundle contained garbage — old grapefruit rinds, egg shells, used tea bags, rancid sardine tins and similar goods.

A townswoman had visited the country, and left her calling card. She was only one of thousands who do the same thing. But she was an extreme case, perhaps. Others are too shy to throw the garbage over the front gate. They throw it over the back gate instead, or cache it behind a bush in some beauty spot.

There are thousands of people, in fact, who look upon the whole of Canada as one vast kitchen-midden. Give them time, and they will make it just that.

Rusty soup tins are to be found on the highest peaks, and fragments of beer bottles in the remotest valleys.

I live on a small, pretty lake which provides fishing, swimming and drinking-water. Many people treat the lake as nature's refuse-pit.

Some of them throw scrap iron and cans into the water right off the beaches. Others can be seen rowing boats laden with trash at midnight, bound for their private dumping-grounds in the middle of the lake.

These people are residents, busy fouling their own nests. But the worst offenders are people from towns and urban districts that have poor garbage service. If they continue in their reckless ways, a city may soon be defined as "an inhabited area surrounded by garbage."

A farmer made the news recently when he drove into town with a load of junk and dumped it in the street. He said he was merely returning the stuff that people had strewn on his land.

Eventually, countrymen may get angry enough to take united action along this line. We may see an army of farmers converging on the city in trucks loaded with country rubbish, to be dumped on city lawns.

Perhaps some townspeople will return from holidays to find that their homes have been used as storehouses for surplus wheat. Now there is a prospect to scare any litter lout into good behaviour.

"WANTED: A FARMER"

This is a story for all farmers — concerning two young lads. I'm writing it because I know the youngsters deserve a chance, and because I'm hopeful that some farmer will respond to the offer.

There are, in this city, two boys who have set their hearts on working on a farm during the coming school vacation period. One is the son of a railwayman, the other a parson's boy. The bigger one is 14, the smaller, 12, and neither is afraid of hard work. Neither expects to reap a fortune for the summer's work, but both would like some remuneration for their labors.

The type of farm they would like to work on matters little, since neither one has ever been on a farm before. They would, of course, like to be somewhere congenial, where the farm family has time to play a bit as well as work. And, one important consideration, they'd like to be with a farmer who goes to church every Sunday. This is important because one is a head chorister and the other a junior soloist in a leading boys' choir in Montreal. If they can't get to church on a Sunday, then they'd rather stay home for the summer.

What are they like? Like any normal boys, and better. They have been brought up to respect their elders and know how to act when they're away from home. Both can furnish excellent references as to their character and dependability. If I didn't know that, I wouldn't be penning this article.

Well, there's the set-up! Are there any offers?

I hope there will be a number of offers. You see, both these lads are looking forward to the day when they finish high school and enter Macdonald College. The elder one hopes that, someday, he'll own his own farm. The younger hopes he'll eventually become an agronomist.

It's a strange fact that you can't be either an agronomist or a farmer if you don't know anything about the business. You have to start sometime, and what better time to start than when you're young?

So, to the farmers of Lachute and district, I pen this appeal. If any one of you can use two such lads this summer, will you contact me through The Watchman? And let me know soon, will you?

Thanks!

Four couples devised a vacation plan last year that was so satisfactory they are repeating it this year. Explaining the plan, one of the vacationers said: "We banded together and rented a country house for two months. Each couple spent their two-week vacation there, taking care of all 13 children."

"Good heavens!" exclaimed the listener, "I wouldn't call taking care of 13 children a 'vacation' — though it would be wonderful, of course, for the children."

"Oh, the two weeks were rough. The 'vacation' was the six weeks at home without the kids."

HOW BIG IS PURINA?

Many seem to think that the Purina Company is a "fly-by-night", one-horse concern that is just out to gouge big profits from the feeders! That COULD be done if they were a fly-by-night, but the Purina Company has been in business for 60 years and if they are to continue to make business and profit, YOU, THE FEEDER, MUST MAKE A PROFIT ALSO.

To give you some idea of the size of this Company: Last year the top 50 dealers in Canada, where the Company has been operating for only 25 years, shipped almost 3,000 cars of 500 bags — or a million-and-a-half bags, enough to make a train 23 miles long!

In the month of March only of this year, the entire company shipped 16,053 five-hundred-bag cars — or 401,318 tons — or over eight million bags of Purina Chows! Enough to make a train that would reach from Montreal to Ottawa.

The Purina Company is LARGER than the next five largest feed companies combined together, and last year they bought out two of them. Three years ago they had over 40 mills operating.

It seems unbelievable that there are that many feeders on this continent who no longer echo the old objection "Purina is too dear!"

Better get on the band wagon with the crowd; seems there are more on the wagon than on the ground! — Call, phone, write, or see us for a supply of Purina Chows, and get started making PROFITS. Our Prices are right and our Service is better.

OBITUARY

Late Resident, Aged 95, Was Link With Early Retail Business Here

The Late Mrs. G. H. Hills

In ailing health for the past few years, Mrs. Geo. H. Hills passed away at the home of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. A. A. Hills, Lachute, last Monday.

Deceased lady, who was in her 95th year, was before her marriage Miss Jessie Muir, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Muir of Upper Lachute. Her husband predeceased her in 1930.

While making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Chas. Joss, at Three Rivers, Mrs. Hills until recent years came back each summer to her old home east of Lachute, where her husband had conducted a general store. She was the last of a family of six.

Left to mourn her passing are a son, William, of Winnipeg, and a daughter, Margaret (Mrs. Chas. Joss), of Three Rivers, together with many relatives and friends. Another son, Albert, died in 1947.

The funeral, conducted by the Rev. Dr. W. H. Reid, was held on Wednesday, from the home of Mrs. A. A. Hills to the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, interment taking place in Lachute Cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. L. Hammond, C. McFaul, R. Muir, W. Black, M. Walker, and S. MacKay, of St. Urbain, Que.

Her death marks the passing of one of this town's oldest residents, a well known and highly respected link with the early environs of the community.

Lachute Family Bereaved

The Late Robt. Gauley

The death of Robert A. J. Gauley, in his 80th year, occurred on May 29 at St. Philippe, Que. Deceased was the husband of the late Jane Lyster and father of Albert, Margaret (Mrs. T. White), Amy (Mrs. E. Duffy), Laura (Mrs. H. Cunningham), Edith (Mrs. E. McRae) and James, all of Lachute.

The funeral service was held from the MacKimmie Funeral Home to Lachute United Church last Monday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. W. Bridge. Interment was in Lachute Cemetery.

CARVED BY INDIANS 3,500 YEARS AGO

—Central Press Canadian

"The most unusual discovery in Indian archaeology ever made in Canada and probably in North America" is the way Robert Popham, research associate at the University of Toronto, describes these carvings on a limestone rock near Lakefield, Ont. The carvings, he and other experts believe, are the work of Indians of the Laurentian tribe and were made about 3,500 years ago, long before the Greek and Roman empires. The carvings, ground into the rock rather than cut out of it, were darkened by charcoal by Mr. Popham to show a heron, spearheads and several human figures.

Are You Discouraged?

— Many persons are; and they have reason to be. Man's present life span is very short, filled with trouble and sorrow. During his few years of life man desires security, peace, happiness and good health, but finds only insecurity, war, gloom and sickness. These conditions cause many to wonder if life is worth living at all.

TAKE COURAGE! — Just ahead, for all lovers of righteousness, is unending life in a paradise earth of God's making. There will be no sickness, sorrow, pain or death in his new world. After reading of God's loving provisions in the 384-page book "New Heavens and a New Earth" and how he is carrying them out, you will be greatly comforted and encouraged. Your copy is waiting for you, together with an arresting 32-page booklet "After Armageddon — God's New World", on a contribution of 50 cents. — Write The Watch Tower, 40 Irwin Ave., Toronto.

Weather Man Prevents Scout - Guide Rally

A forecast of rain and cold, damp damp weather — which duly materialized — prompted a decision to cancel the Boy Scout and Girl Guide Rally last Saturday. The many hundreds of boys and girls planning to attend this annual reunion of the Laurentian Division and take part in the exercises and competitions at the local Exhibition Grounds, and the leaders who had planned for the event, were greatly disappointed.

No announcement has been made concerning possibility of holding a 1954 Rally at a later date.

Stirring Radio Broadcast By Dr. Frank Buchman

"For All Men Everywhere" is the title of a radio broadcast by Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman, which will be heard around the world on Friday, June 4. The Columbia Broadcasting System will carry the direct broadcast on Friday at 10.45 p.m. EDT, while CJAD, Montreal, will make a re-broadcast on Sunday, June 6, at 9.30 a.m.

In recent years, Dr. Buchman has become widely known as the initiator of the work of Moral Re-Armament. The wide recognition that this work has received has led to his nomination, on two occasions, for the Nobel Peace Prize. The Governments of Greece, Germany and France have awarded him honors.

During the past year, Dr. Buchman's work has made a significant advance in India and the East; and during the past months in city after city in Africa, including Salisbury, Cape Town and Durban, crowds of Europeans, Asiatics and Africans have mingled together in theatres and halls that were previously arranged with segregated seating arrangements, to see the Moral Re-Armament Plays that have been touring the country.

It is notable that on December 17, 1953, the President and Government of West Germany conferred on Dr. Buchman the Grand Cross of Merit of the German Order of Merit, the highest honor in their power to bestow, "in recognition of his significant work for peace and understanding between nations."

Earlier Dr. Buchman was invested with the order of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, on behalf of the French Government, in recognition of his contribution to better understanding between France and Germany — the ceremony of presentation taking place on German soil.

Values of imports into Canada during 1951 totalled $4,195 million, as against $808 million 15 years earlier.

An Ascension Hymn

(Tune, "Jesus Loves Me.")

1. Jesus died on Calvary's tree,
From sin's chains to set us free,
That together we should be
With Him through eternity.

Chorus:
Then He ascended,
As was intended;
His sufferings ended,
He lives eternally.

2. Often He Himself revealed,
To His followers whom He sealed,
When they to His claim did yield,
To be His eternally.

3. After serving fish and bread
To the fishermen He said,
"Will you follow Me instead,
And serve Me continually?"

4. See Him from the earth arise
To His Throne beyond the skies,
Christ's Ascension now supplies
Peace and joy eternally.

Expect Lachute Entries To "Beat Ben Hogan"

The annual national tee-off against world famous golfer Ben Hogan, is expected to be well patronized at the Lachute Golf and Country Club on National Golf Day, this Saturday. Manager Roger Gravel states that last year President Gilbert Ayers was the only local golfer to "beat the champion". "I Beat Ben Hogan" medals will be presented to all golfers entered in the tournament who actually better the great golfer's score.

Entire proceeds of the largest tournament (participated in by almost every golf course in Canada and the United States) go to the worthy work of the Red Cross, and also towards the development of junior golfers.

Ben Hogan will play his round on June 5 at the Baltusrol Club in Springfield, N.J., scene of the forthcoming 1954 U.S. Open.

Every golfer who pays his $1 entry fee to the pro or starter running the tournament at his local course is eligible to compete against Hogan. Participating clubs are supplied with official National Golf Day score sheets; players will sign up for the tournament on these. Score cards will be turned in to the club pro or club official at the end of each round. Contestants may play as many rounds as they wish with the payment of an additional fee for each 18-hole round played.

Results of Ben Hogan's round will be carried by radio on June 5 to all clubs and golf courses in every part of the country. Thus, at the end of the day every contestant will know how he fared against the defending champion.

TV Deal Is Triumph For Canadian Football

SPORTS CAMERA
By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian professional football has won a big battle in its conflict with the National Football League in the United States. Making victory sweeter, the Canadian game will be accumulating plenty of American ammunition in the form of U.S. dollars and U.S. television publicity.

The NFL during the last few years has been irked at American players heading north to play in the Western Interprovincial Football Union or the east's Big Four league.

As the Canadian leagues prospered and were able to make more enticing salary offers, the American league saw a number of their top players leave. The NFL's bitterest pill was when Arnie Weinmeister, an all-star tackle with the New York Giants for six years, signed to play for the British Columbia Lions next season.

Bert Bell, National League commissoner, promptly declared "the war is on." The NFL laid down a propaganda barrage at players considering offers from Canadian teams. One of the main arguments was that U.S. players in Canada would be dropping out of sight — that none of their relatives or friends would be able to see them play.

Big TV Deal

That was the setting when the Big Four announced it had signed an agreement to televise its Saturday games in Canada over the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and in the United States over the National Broadcasting Company.

Financial terms of the agreement weren't disclosed but Toronto newspapers speculated that the deal was a $300,000 affair, split evenly between the two networks.

If that figure is correct, it means each of the four clubs in the league will get $75,000 — money which can be used to obtain the best players available on either side of the border.

And it means that U.S. fans will get to know the Canadian game which, the coaches say, will be a big advantage when they try to sell a boy on coming to Canada.

Lew Haymen, general manager of the Montreal Alouettes, termed the TV deal "the greatest thing that has ever happened to Canadian football." He said that in the future when a Canadian coach is dealing with a player in the U.S. the American will know the kind of game we play up here.

The NBC's sudden interest in the Canadian game was plain business. The American Broadcasting Corporation had signed an exclusive contract to carry U.S. college football games on Saturdays. The Dumont network grabbed off the American pro games.

That left the NBC out in the cold as far as Saturday football was concerned and it turned to the Big Four. U.S. writers who have seen movies of last fall's Grey Cup battle between Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Winnipeg Blue Bombers believe the open-style Canadian game will be a big spectator attraction in the states.

Wrestling Card Features Giants and Midgets

Sylvio Samson, Montreal promoter, is bringing another selective cast for the mat program at Brownsburg Arena this Friday evening. Feature attractions will be the 7-foot giant, Goliath, weighing 325 pounds, and the two midgets, Pancho the Bull and Prince Nicol.

Main bout in this wrestling program will be a final, 2-out-of-three falls, between Ray Lortie and Roy "Pirate" Leboeuf.

Goliath, the Giant . .

. . An Alarming Close-Up

The semi-final event will match Pancho and Nicol, two well trained midgets who substitute strategy for weight, to produce a good exhibition of their art.

Goliath by virtue of habit and immense stature, meets two opponents, Roger Vallée and Pete McIntyre.

Vallee will appear again in a contest with J.-Paul Dufresne, and the Negro McIntyre will wrestle against Gérard Dugas — to complete a full and varied program at the Arena Friday night.

Season's Opening Event For Lady Golfers

Lady members of Lachute Golf and Country Club opened the season on Wednesday, May 26, with a "White Elephant Tournament," followed by a tea for social members and golfers, and presentation of prizes.

Mrs. René Coté, Mrs. Art Lapp and Mrs. Jack Archer led the field, in first second and third places respectively.

Pouring tea at the head table were the president of the ladies' section, Miss M. Scott; the vice-president, Mrs. J. McIndoe; and captain, Mrs. Gilbert Ayers. Mrs. Roger Gravel was convener.

Mixed Two-Ball Tourney With 30 Teams Entered

The opening two-ball foursome tournament at Lachute Golf Club scheduled for May 22 was twice postponed due to rain, and finally played Sunday in unfavorable weather, with only 30 of the original 84 entries contesting.

Winners of the rained-out opener were Mrs. Marie Tremblay and Rudie Vernandel, with a low net of 77½. The runner-up position, second place, was won in a tie by Mary Ruth MacKimmie - Ossie Carrière and Rita Gilbert - Mozart Carrière, these two teams carding a low net of 80.

Colorful Figure Passes

Ottawa (CP) —

The news last week recorded the sudden death of Lionel Conacher, Liberal member for Toronto Trinity, who a few years ago was voted Canada's greatest athlete of the half-century. He collapsed on third base during the annual softball game between members of Parliament and the parliamentary press gallery, on the lawn in front of the Parliament Buildings. He was dead of a heart attack on arrival at hospital 20 minutes later. The next day, his body was flown in an RCAF plane to Toronto, where he was buried.

In the Commons the legislators expressed their sorrow over the loss of the member-athlete. Prime Minister St. Laurent said he was a "great sportsman" and a "very hard-working member." Opposition Leader Drew said, "All of us say farewell to a good friend and a good sport."

Conacher excelled in many sports, in wrestling, boxing, lacrosse, baseball and fotball and as a defenceman in professional hockey. But his prowess as the Big Train of football in 1920s, when he played with Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four, and a later comeback career in hockey after it appeared he was through, brought him his greatest accolade.

After his retirement, the Big Train continued his interest in sports. He was elected to the Ontario legislature for Toronto - Bracondale in 1937 and became chairman of the Ontario Athletic commission and director of recreation for the RCAF during the war with the honorary rank of squadron leader. Te was elected to the House of Commons in 1949 and re-elected in 1953.

STRANGLE FISH

Fish and snakes often perish after trying to swallow the common mudcat. The barbs on the head of the mudcat, which appear to stiffen when danger threatens, usually prevent the fish or snake from swallowing the catfish, and they are invariably unable to disgorge the meat.

Tornado Blows Up Some Tall Tales

Really fantastic are some of the tales that come out of an area whipped by a tornado. That's the opinion expressed on a recent CBC broadcast by R. A. (Rube) Hornstein, of the Dominion Public Weather Office, Halifax.

He told about a mother and child seeking shelter in a clothes closet under a back stairway. When the wind ceased, the woman opened the closet door to find stairway and wall sole remainders of the house.

Then there was the tornado in which a loaded trunk was carried from one residence into the attic of another without injury. The same storm split a tree, blowing an automobile into the split, which then closed and held the auto as in a vise.

There is also a record of a cow's being blown away while it was being milked and the person doing the milking left sitting with no cow.

Said Hornstein: "Indeed, after a meteorologist has investigated a large number of these freaks, they all begin to seem so fantastic, even though well authenticated, that he's inclined to believe almost any of them, except, of course, such highly improbable reports as the one that an iron kettle was turned wrong side out without cracking or the one that a rooster was blown into a jug with only his head sticking out."

D-Day 10th Anniversary On Radio and Television

The 10th anniversary of D-Day — the day when the Allied Forces landed in Normandy under the supreme command of General Eisenhower to open the final phase of the war for the liberation of Europe from the Nazis — will be marked on Sunday, June 6, by special programs on both CBC Radio and Television.

On radio there will be two anniversary broadcasts — a one-hour commemorative program on CBC Trans-Canada at 8 p.m. EDT, including actuality coverage of the ceremonies to be held in Normandy that day, and a 45-minute feature on CBC Dominion at 10:15 p.m. EDT relayed directly from BBC shortwave recapitulating excerpts from the special actuality programs the BBC has planned for its own listeners.

Planned by CBC News Roundup editor Norman Depoe, the Canadian commemoration program on Trans-Canada will include interviews with veterans who were actually on the Normandy beaches on D-Day, a report by Matthew Halton who will have revisited the beaches to see what they look like today, actuality coverage, with Halton as commentator, of the Normandy ceremonies on June 6 in which about 100 Canadians will take part, including Major-General R. H. Keller, who commanded the Canadian troops in the D-Day landing operation; a visit to the D-Day Officers' Reunion Dinner, in progress in Toronto at the time of the program; reminiscences by Leonard W. Brockington, Q.C., who was with the Royal Canadian Navy in the invasion fleet; and a rebroadcast of part of the original actuality coverage which was heard in Canada during the evening of June 6, 1944, from the CBC's archives of historic broadcasts.

The BBC program on Dominion will cover not only the events of D-Day but the whole campaign from the moment the armada set sail from Britain to the signing of the German surrender at Luneberg, with emphasis on the events concerning Commonwealth troops. BBC war correspondents will speak from places from which they sent their original reports, including Portsmouth and the English Channel Naval Headquarters, a tank-landing craft off the coast of France, Arromanches, Brussels, the Scheldt Estuary, Nijmegen, Arnhem, the Rhine crossing at Xanten, and Luneberg. There will also be a message from Field-Marshal Viscount Montgomery of Alamein and Marshal of the Royal Air Force Lord Tedder, who was General Eisenhower's deputy commander, will be master of ceremonies.

On CBC News Magazine on television, viewers will see films of the invasion fleet and troops in action 10 years ago, along with films of the invasion beaches as they appear today.

I had spent the night with a friend and next morning was awakened by a commotion in the adjoining room, occupied by my host's brother, an Air Force officer. He rushed into the shower, then rushed to put his uniform on, then tore out of the house. Apparently he was late for the ride back to the base. I looked out the window, expecting to see him head for the bus stop.

Instead he made for an odd-looking coconut tree. Its palms had been cut off and it was spiked like a telephone pole. He proceeded to climb it, and had barely reached the top when a helicopter appeared, hovered for a moment, and off he went to work.

Racing Event on Television Screen

A big racing event, the Queen's Plate, will be covered on radio and TV June 12, starting at 5.15 p.m. (delayed to mid-evening on CBLT). The race will be called by Foster Dryden, assisted by Byng Whitteker (general commentary), Gordon Howard (stable chatter) and Rosemary Boxer (fashions). During the afternoon the regular Trans-Canada service will be interrupted for a commentary by Ken Murray on the U.S.-Canada team matches at the Mississauga Golf Club.

Fine Horticulture Show For Ottawa Exhibition

Entry Dates for Horticulture And Hobby Exhibits

Ottawa — The finest horticultural display in the history of the Central Canada Exhibition, with increased prize money and special appeal to rural entrants, will be held at Lansdowne Park, August 23-28.

Plans are underway to transform the Horticultural Building into the attractive, flower-laden design which has gained so much praise at previous exhibitions. A main feature of the flower show will be the sections open to rural Horticultural Societies. These will be for the best displays of garden flowers, with two competitions during the week.

In addition there will be many classes open to all comers. These will include cut flowers, such as gladioli, asters, sweet peas, zinnias, dahlias and many others.

Of particular interest to rural patrons will be the agricultural products and fruit sections — including potatoes, turnips, carrots, mangels, corn, beets, cabbages, celery, onions, tomatoes, etc. The fruit section is open only to growers with a bearing acreage of not more than five acres. The section provides for beautiful displays of apples with provision for open classes and commercial packages. Other classes under the fruit section include those for plums, melons, citrons, pears, etc.

The Canadian Horticultural Council will offer special diplomas for exhibitors securing highest points in cut flowers, vegetable classes and plant classes.

Prize lists and entry forms were mailed out June 1 to all previous exhibitors. New exhibitors may obtain prize lists by writing to the Central Canada Exhibition Association offices at Lansdowne Park. Closing date for entries in the Horticultural department is August 9.

An attractive prize list is also offered for the Hobby Show, featuring special awards for rural entrants.

Among the many Hobby Show classifications will be the Town and Rural Section which covers paintings, murals, creative design in any medium, posters, photography and others.

Another interesting section is that for Town and Rural Schools which offers prizes for articles of furniture, farm appliances, forged work, rope work and original devices.

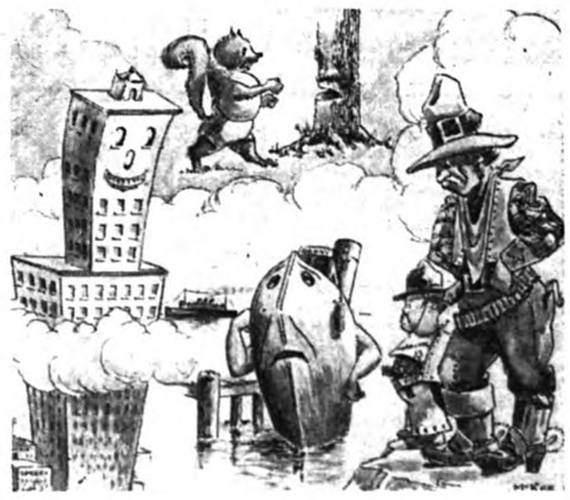

These are in addition to all the open classes for art, crafts, metal work, leathercraft and home economics.

Entries for the Hobby Show must be received by July 31. Entry forms and prize lists may be obtained from local teachers or the Exhibition offices at Lansdowne Park.

Townsman in Business as Commercial Photographer

Having followed photography as a pastime with considerable success, Syd Drew — a well known townsman who has been associated with the sales department of J. C. Once Upon A Time

A rather lazy squirrel who, by eating an acorn with an inchworm, grew to a hundred times his size and declared himself to be king of the forest — a slow-witted but well intentioned tugboat, name of Tugboat Danny, who wished he were an ocean liner — a small boy, a reader of comic books, who suddenly finds himself leading a gang of the desperate hombres he idolizes — and a very conceited skyscraper who looks with scorn at the other buildings around him. Characters like these are typical in the delightful series of fantasies designed for children from six to 60. Written by Ray Darby, with music by Morris Surdin, the "Once Upon a Time" series can be heard every Sunday evening on the CBC Trans-Canada network.

Lions Club 'Meteor' Is Symbol of Community Job

Annual Drawing Makes Service and Welfare Enterprises Possible

Interest is increasing in the annual Lions Club drawing, as the district Pro Golf Tournament date, climax of this event, draws nearer. The 1954 Meteor car, RCA-Victor television and other valuable prizes will be awarded August 1, the closing day of the week-end tournament, at Lakeshore Golf Club.

The Meteor (provided by Pollock & Graves, local dealers, at cost price to the Lions Club) is appearing in the Main Street shopping section Fridays and Saturdays. Nelson Carriere, who has aided the club in this manner in previous years, is in attendance to sell tickets. The car will also be a centre of interest at its customary stand in the exhibition grounds during Fair Week.

The success of this effort spells a-c-h-i-e-v-e-m-e-n-t in the various aspects of Lions' service work, with which this district are well acquainted. Public response in the ticket sales campaign will give impetus to this community welfare work in the coming year. . . Your support is therefore solicited in this good cause.

Romuald Bourque, M.P., Deplores Women Working in Industry

The heritage of women in industry is one of miserable, broken homes and families of neglected offspring heading for juvenile delinquency, Mayor Romuald Bourque, M.P., of Outremont, told the Kiwanis Club at Belleville, Ont., last week.

"It may be very well for a mother who works to help buy a television set or a car, or even make the down payment on a house, but this places tool making or some other trade above the duties of a mother to bring up her family properly," he said.

With all credit due to women, it can be admitted they may easily become as expert as any man at running a machine, but will any man ever become expert as they at running a home, Mayor Bourque said.

"It is no longer popular to say that a woman's place is in the home," the speaker added. "For some strange reason, in our topsy-turvy modern civilization, we have made it seem that to be in the home is a mark of inferiority."

"On the other hand, some women are so talented in certain fields it would be a criminal waste to prevent them from working. These are generally known as career women," Mayor Bourque noted.

"Nightgowns" for FIRE-FIGHTERS

Night-awake fire departments may soon be turned out in a new heat-resisting suit built on the general lines of the old-fashioned nightgown. Made of reflective aluminum foil, this outfit gives the hook-and-ladder lads a lot more protection from extreme heat.

Canadian farmers have the same idea when they build their barns of aluminum sheet. Not only is aluminum fire-resistant but it also keeps barns cooler in summer because it reflects the heat of the sun; and in winter reflects back into the barn heat that would otherwise escape. In fact you might say that in the products of Canada's aluminum industry are reflected countless aids to better living — on the farm, in the city, in your own home. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. Women's Interests -- The Homemaker's Section

Single and Double-Acting Baking Powder

Every now and then Mrs. Homemaker picks up a recipe and finds an expression or term about cooking which she does not understand. Of course, some homemakers are fortunate enough to have a food dictionary or a food encyclopedia, but there are many others who do not have one, and how to find out what the expression means is a problem. In many cities homemakers are fortunate because they can ask for help from the home ecohomists of the excellent home service departments of electrical or gas companies. And, something we found out the other day that is very interesting is that many stores now have a home economist whose job it is to help customers with their buying and cooking problems. All these home economics services are certainly a great help, but still there are plenty of cities where assistance is just not available and the homemakers living there often are in need of it. One way that they can get help is to write about their food problems to the home economists of the Canada Department of Agriculture, who are always glad to help.

Two cooking expressions which often confuse homemakers are "single-acting baking powder" and "double-acting baking powder". Just what do these terms mean? There actually are three types of baking powder on the market, all containing baking soda, to furnish the carbon dioxide that leavens the dough or batter, an acid which reacts with the soda to make it give up its carbon dioxide and starch which prevents the powder from reacting in the can before it is used. When the acid which makes the soda work is tartaric acid or cream of tartan we have what is known as a tartrate baking powder. If the acid is phosphate of calcium then the baking powder gets the name of a phosphate baking powder. Actually very little baking powder on the market today is the tartrate type, most of it is a phosphate powder. Both these types are what are known as "single-acting baking powders". They liberate their gas rapidly after liquid is added. So, with this type of baking powder it is advisable to work as quickly as possible or much of the gas will be lost in stirring.

Double-acting baking powder is the type which contains not one, but two acid ingredients. It is called "double-acting" because part of the leavening or rising action takes place with the cold moist ingredients and the rest takes place when the product is in the oven. These reactions are fairly slow and so it is spoken of as a slow acting powder. And, just a suggestion here from the home economists — when mother is planning to perhaps teach her young daughter to cook or if she is a little inexperienced at it herself she might find that "double-acting" baking powder is a help because it reacts more slowly than the single-acting. She may be a little slow in her preparation and this slow action is what is needed. Not all baking powders mention on the can what type they are but generally the "double-acting powder" is marked as such on the label.

So much for baking powders — now about vinegars. We often see vinegar labelled as cider vinegar, white vinegar, malt vinegar, wine vinegar, or blended vinegar. They are all vinegars but they are not all of the same origin. Cider vinegar is made from the fermented juice of apples, or the cider, whereas malt and wine vinegars are made from the fermented juice of malt and grapes respectively. White vinegar, which used to be called white wine vinegar, is not a wine vinegar at all but it is made from the fermentation of distilled alcohol. Blended vinegar is a combination of two or more vinegars of which white vinegar shall not constitute more than 55 per cent by volume. This is the type of vinegar that is recommended by the home economists in some pickle making, because of its "blended" flavor. This type of vinegar is not available in all cities but a homemaker can easily make her own by mixing about equal parts of cidar and white vinegar.

The home economists mention that the aroma of the herbs from a kitchen garden can be captured by soaking them in vinegar. And, at anytime of the year, the basil, sage, garlic or thyme vinegar can be used in cooking to bring back those delightful summer flavors.

On their recent world tour, Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, carried 12 tons of luggage, says the Reader's Digest. The Queen's wardrobe included 60 special costumes and 200 pairs of white gloves.

Fashions

No matter what happens to be the fashion fad frock of the moment, a good silk print is always an important member of the wardrobe. Printed silk surah in muted brown with blue and white dots is used for a very wearable, young dress. For a snowy, crisp touch there's a second collar of white organdy and matching bow-tab. Unpressed pleats flare away on the full skirt.

Let's Eat

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"How high is the P.Q. or Piquancy Quotient of the foods prepared for the average family?" I speculated.

"Perhaps the ladies will understand this better as Appetite Appeal," grinned the chef.

Where P.Q. Comes In

"I mean something a little different. Of course, all foods should be cooked to bring out their own finest natural flavor. Then, with right seasoning, they are appetizing in themselves. But a meal can often be made up of appetizing foods and still seem dull. It is then that the Piquancy Quotient comes in.

"One homemaker told me that when she serves browned hash with tossed iceberg lettuce, the meal tastes like a million! Another garnishes tapioca cream with strawberries to give it a flavor lift."

Mustard Sauce

"Another homemaker, in search of piquancy, said that when she was a little girl, her mother would ask her to mix up some mustard sauce for the cold meat for supper that otherwise would have tasted dull. 'But I've forgotten how I made it,' she added.

"It is very necessary in each meal to have a good P.Q.," chuckled the chef. "For today's trick, I will tell how to prepare that mustard sauce."

Chili Chopped Steak: In a skillet, melt 2 tbsp. butter or margarine over a low heat. Add 1 chopped peeled medium-sized onion, 1 minced section peeled garlic and ½ chopped, seeded green pepper. Cook and stir with a fork until the onion is tender.

Add 1 lb chopped beef, or equal parts chopped beef and veal. Cook and stir until light brown. Then add 1 can tomato, ¼ c. chili sauce, 1 tsp. chili powder.

Cover and simmer 30 min. Stir in ¼ c. sweet pickle relish, and simmer 10 min. longer. Serve heaped on buttered enriched toast.

Gingerbread Layer: Make up 1 pkg. prepared gingerbread mix. Bake in 2 layers, using round 8-in. layer cake pans. Cool and put together with lemon filling.

To make this filling, follow your recipe for lemon pie filling, or make up 1 pkg. lemon pie mix, adding a little grated lemon rind.

The Chef's Mix-Up Mustard

Blend together 1 level tsp. each of salt and pepper, 1 tbsp. powdered dry mustard, enough boiling water to rub to a smooth paste and sufficient cider vinegar to give the desired consistency.

Q.W.I. Provincial Board To Meet June 7

Members of the Provincial Board of the Quebec Women's Institutes are meeting at Macdonald College, Monday, June 7. This is the day immediately preceding the provincial convention and follows the usual custom of holding the two gatherings on consecutive dates.

The provincial president, Mrs. G. E. LeBaron, of North Hatley, will preside. A progress report on resolutions and recommendations made at the last annual meeting will be presented and round table discussions on action projects and organizational problems will again be a feature of the agenda. Recommendations will be framed, from this discussion, to be brought to the delegates at the open convention.

Applications show an almost perfect attendance can be anticipated, with all county units represented.

ORGANIZATION NEEDED IN EVERY HOME

The disorganized home can be a dangerous home for its inhabitants, warns the Province of Quebec Safety League.

Many accidents occur in the home and usually they are due to carelessness or negligence on the part of the home owner. Stumbling blocks, such as roller skates or children's toys should not be left about the house, on the verandah or in the stairway.

It is dangerous to leave a chair on a balcony particularly when there are toddlers in the family; butcher knives or bottles containing poisonous substances shouldn't be left within a child's reach.

Some 127 of every 100,000 Canadians enter mental institutions each year.

N.Z. 'Courtesy' Police Say Women Top Drivers

By J. C. Graham,
Canadian Press Correspondent

Auckland, N.Z. (CP) — Experts in New Zealand who are in an ideal position to make a test have settled the argument on whether women can drive — in favor of women.

The verdict: Women are better and safer drivers than men.

The finding has been given by New Zealand's newly-established corps of "courtesy cops." These are traffic officers who patrol the roads in plain clothes checking on dangerous driving practices. They use cars of different kinds which bear no distinguishing mark.

They do not impose fines, but merely stop drivers and point out their faults. After a month in operation, the authorities pronounce them a success. Driving has improved all round because car owners imagine every car they see may be a "courtesy cop." And even though no fine is involved, the average driver is proving anxious to avoid being told his driving ability is poor.

"Women may not have the wide experience of many men, but they are more cautious about running into danger and are more conscious of the need to observe safety rules," one patrol reports.

Another says: "There are some exceptions, but by and large women drivers are more law abiding and pay more heed to a warning issued by a traffic officer."

Only Four Women

Still another has stopped 200 motorists to issue warnings — 196 men and four women.

A fourth patrol says the only women he has spoken to have been those he helped because they were stopped for minor repairs.

There are exceptions to every rule and the prime example which has come to light so far was a woman driving down a busy thoroughfare steering the car with her elbows on the wheel. In one hand she held a mirror in front of her face, and with the other she was applying lipstick.

But there are male equivalents. One patrol stopped a man with an electric razor plugged into his dashboard, who was using the rear mirror to shave by. The patrol says: "He looked so much like an accident going somewhere to happen that I didn't even wait for him to finish his shave."

Vancouver Gals Have Own Ideas On Age Secrecy

Vancouver (CP) — There's little point in bothering yourself any longer over the question "Should women be truthful about their ages?"

If a sampling of local female opinion is indicative of the average woman's answer, the problem has been solved.

The answer is: "Women should not lie about their ages, but if they want to, it is strictly their own business."

In the survey the question asked was: "Should women over the age of 21 be forced to give true ages when signing government and other documents?"

The question was prompted by the decision of a panel of New York judges which stated that a woman's age is secret and because of this, as long as she is not a minor, it is unfair to expect her to tell the truth when it comes to filling out license forms and similar documents.

One of Vancouver's leading beauticians, Marianne Iavac, says a woman should "never be afraid to tell her age but should always be ashamed of showing it." There is the exception, however. "If she is seeking an executive position, she should never admit to being over 42."

Different Situation

How about the case of a woman seeking a husband?

"Ah," says Marianne, "that's a different situation. I don't think there is any sense in lying about your age on a marriage document — not because of any legal angle but because the man is bound to find out the truth sooner or later. Man aren't half the fools that some women would like to think they are."

Mrs. Gertrude McCabe, an attractive blonde assistant manageress, answers: "I don't see why women should lie about their ages. They do, but then so do men."

Admitting to 37 years herself, Mrs. McCabe added: "Why should I lie about it? Don't forget Cleopatra was over 40 when she and Antony were conducting the romance which made history."

Emma Kitsul, who is old enough to vote but young enough not to worry about her age, took a firm stand: "White lies are a woman's stock in trade."

Ginger Hardy, a dancing school manageress, contends that if a woman does lie about her age, it is "usually because men force her into it. Why do men make such a fuss about these things?"

Stern Parent: "Now, Willie, I'd like to go through a whole day without once scolding or punishing you."

Willie: "Well, mummy, you have my consent."

Wife Preservers

Camp Adventure

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

Camp is a real adventure and "the thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts." What finer expression of the idealism which stirs within campers at a good camp on "High Occasions" can be found than in this "Code for Campers":"

"We Aim
To live out the things we believe.
To have a sincere care for all people.
To be disciplined in all we do.
To see the job that needs to be done and carry it through.
To be constructive in our thinking and speaking.
To learn to work in a group.
To be willing to recognize and to correct our faults.
To study and work for sound homes, united communities and a peaceful world."

(Written by the "Crees" or senior girls at Camp Tanamiaboon, Algonquin Park)

To camp — or not to camp — that is the question in countless homes where boys and girls are eager to go to camp. "It's such fun!" they chorus.

A summer camp adventure for a boy or girl has become an accepted holiday pattern in thousands of Canadian families. But with rising camp fees, accompanied by the higher cost of living, many parents are wavering about camp this summer.

The younger generation show no signs of doubting the value of camp. They just know they will learn to swim and dive a lot better. "Jim can handle a canoe just like an Indian since he went to camp — and did he ever pick up some smart fishing tips!" Helen, who is an only child, says a bit wistfully. "Betty just raves about camp being such a friendly place. The girls had a marvellous time in their cabin group."

A good camp benefits the whole child — body, mind and spirit. It is not just a place for recreation, or even just for education, but for the growth of a boy's or girl's total character and physique.

A child's or youth's enthusiasm for a particular camp where he has summered is likely to be as ardent as his loyalty for his own school. There is a great satisfaction in meeting old friends again and returning to familiar haunts. It is quite possible that that camp your child loves, even if it costs quite a bit, is worth every cent at the present stage in his development.

But if increased camp fees make this particular camp really beyond the amount of money the family can devote to it, why not consider another camp where the rates are not quite so high? This would seem a better solution than cutting out camp completely. There are good camps in the different price ranges in most areas.

What is your idea of a "good camp?" Every parent will have a different answer — but they all want their child to be well cared for and happy. My husband and I want to be very sure that the camp our boy or girl goes to is a safe place, that adequate provision is made for nourishing food and sufficient rest, that the camp director and staff have some of the same ideals for the campers that we have for our children.

We would like to feel confident that our child will be happy at camp, swimming and diving and boating, and trying out fresh hobbies and making new friends. Discreet inquiries made to parents of last year's campers satisfy or disillusion a father or mother about the true quality of a camp.

Camp has all kinds of value for different campers, meeting their own special need and helping them grow. As a counsellor four years and as a director for six, we saw very clearly that although the contribution camp life made to some youngsters was much more vital than to others, with very few exceptions they all seemed to receive benefit from it. A camper can echo Ulysses' words in Tennyson's poem:

All experience is an arch, where through
Gleams the untravelled world, whose margin fades
Forever and forever as I move.

Women's Views at Consumers' Assn. Annual Meeting

No woman attending the recent annual meeting of the Quebec Provincial English Branch of th Canadian Association of Consumers will reply "Just a housewife" when asked her occupation! All speakers at the meeting agreed that mom's shoulders carried much of the weight of responsibility for the welfare of her family and her country's economy.

Mrs. W. Victor George, retiring president, in her report asked that homemaking be lifted from the scullery and given the dignity it deserved, and the meeting backed her proposal with a resolution asking McGill University to accept home economics as an optional subject for university entrance on the same basis as art and music.

Mrs. H. E. Vautelet, C.B.E., moderator of the afternoon panel discussion on "Consumer Education," stated that since the homemaker purchased most of the household goods used by the family, her use of the dollar vitally affected the economy of the country.

Mrs. Doreen Day, of T. Eaton Co. Limited, stated that producers and merchants were prepared to spend money on research and education in the form of labelling, but their efforts were wasted if women neglected to read the tags which would help them to care for material and get from it is utmost value.

Mrs. Gretta Andrews, Mental Hygiene Institute, said that our changing economy, drawing more and more people from rural to city life had so changed our way of life that the father was now at home only in the evening and most of the time the mother must provide that calm, secure background necessary for happy family life.

Mrs. Roswell Thomson, of the Protestant Education Committee, said that a 25-hour school week limited the time which could be spent on training girls for home management. She asked that mothers encourage girls to practice in the home what they have learned at school. Early teen-agers are not much interested in food shopping, but would enthusiastically share the responsibility of shopping for their own clothes and with mother's guidance could learn to choose what was suitable for their needs and within the budget. Mrs. V. W. G. Wilson was elected president of the Association replacing Mrs. W. Victor George who has finished her second year as president, and will soon be leaving to take up residence in England.

Others officers elected were: vice-presidents, Mrs. A. George Brewer and Mrs. A. M. Bain; recording secretary, Mrs. P. S. Edwards; assistant, Mrs. Lloyd J. Brown; treasurer, Mrs. W. R. Anderson; assistant, Mrs. Roger M. Varey; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. A. MacDonald; assistant, Mrs. Gordon Sinclair.

Committee Chairmen are Mrs. P. W. Calvert, Mrs. W. G. Kilpatrick, Mrs. Donald A. Killam, Mrs. J. H. Collyer, Mrs. A. L. Johnson, Mrs. Fraser MacIver, Mrs. Donald Storey.

Gananoque's oldest citizen Jake Pullaw, celebrated his 92nd birthday by playing progressive euchre with 24 friends, neighbors and relatives.

UP TO PARENTS

For the past several months there has been a hue and cry against indecent literature. Although some teen-agers are the buyers, it is the adults and parents of today who are the biggest buyers. It is, again, the parents who are to blame if such reading material is found in the house.

10th Anniversary of D-Day — June 6, 1954

Ten years ago, on June 6, shock troops of the 3rd Canadian Division stormed ashore near Berniere on the coast of Normandy and fought their way through Hitler's West Wall defences to establish the beach head over which poured the men and supplies to fight and win the battles of Normandy. The photos, above, taken by Canadian Army photographers on the fateful day, recall some of the torrid action which took place on the beaches. (1) A long line of German prisoners march over the beaches on their way to internment. (2) Major General Rod Keller, commander of 3rd Division, briefs some of his men on his arrival in France. (3) Barrage balloons float over the beaches as Engineers prepare roads for men and equipment. (4) Canadian tanks roar ashore from the sea. (5) and (6) Infantrymen wade ashore from the assault craft. (7) French civilians happily greet their Canadian liberators. (8) A group of German prisoners rounded up on the station platform at Berniere. (9) German prisoners carry their wounded to a beach dressing station.

In co-operation with this newspaper.

BE KIND TO YOUR STOMACH

The world is full of people who can and will eat anything, from champagne bottles to live rats. The world is also full of healthy fanatics who will shy away from a plateful of anything that hasn't been laboratory tested for vitamin content, chemical innocuousness, sterility, and general vapidity.

In the middle, there are great numbers of well-nourished people who do not care either to abuse their stomachs or bore themselves to death. Food is a morale-builder as well as a health-builder. It is believed, and it is possibly quite true, that our primeval ancestors had perfect teeth because they lived on raw meat. However, on the other hand, most people nowadays just plain don't like raw meat and in spite of this they manage to live longer and probably happier lives than their dentally perfect ancestors.

Most conservative nutritionists will recommend the middle course: Know your rules of nutrition; follow them; but remember that you were given a capacity to enjoy food and be guided accordingly.

Question:

"My husband and I are fond of pickles, and have been known to finish off a jar of mustard pickles in two days. Some of our friends tell us that we are damaging our digestive systems, but both of us are fairly healthy and not prone to digestive upsets of any kind. Of course I wouldn't dream of substituting pickles for other, more nutritious foods, but they do make eating more pleasant. Are our friends right?"

Answer:

Either you are exaggerating or your friends are. If you really eat so many pickles that you alarm your friends, as you say, it is surprising that you haven't yet experienced the discomfort of hyperacidity. Too much strong vinegar greatly increases the acidity of the gastric juice, which normally contains about .5 per cent hydrochloric acid. Your stomach is a delicate fabric. Try putting a delicate fabric repeatedly in a .5 per cent solution of acid fortified with vinegar and see what happens.

* * *

GR-R-R-OWL!

Question:

"They say that cooking meat takes out some of the vitamins. I have heard of people who eat raw meat, and I have eaten raw hamburger myself and enjoyed it. Wouldn't it be better to eat meat that way than to cook it?"

Answer:

While the practice of eating raw meat is said to be good for the teeth, it must be remembered that the human stomach and liver are delicate organs. They cannot do the work of a stone crusher or meat grinder. Cooking meat makes it possible for the digestive juices to do a better job of breaking the food into small particles, atoms and ions. . .

Another reason for avoiding raw meat is that certain types of bacteria can live on the outside surface of fish and meat even in freezing temperatures and work their way under the surface. If you had made a bacterial check on the raw hamburger you ate you might wish you had put it in the garbage can.

No Canadian Military Commitment On Southeast Asia Defence Pact

Diefenbaker Urges Active Stand; Contends "Indo-China May Be Turning Point in History"

THE WEEK AT OTTAWA
By Don Peacock, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, June 1 (CP) — The Canadian government believes in the principle of a defence pact for southeast Asia but will make no military commitment to join such an alliance.

External Affairs Minister Pearson told the Commons [illegible] Canada has no commitment to support world security [illegible] pilot in her member role in the United Nations and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. She is prepared, as far as possible, to help Southeast Asia peoples [illegible] NATO countries and wants to any such plan and would not enter one or any similar additional commitment without consultation Parliament.

"While it is true that Europe is threatened by Communist aggression anywhere it is threatened everywhere. It is also true that Canada cannot be expected to accept special regional defence commitments in every part of the world where collective arrangements may be advisable," he said.

The government is not [illegible] the free nations would be that it could [illegible] principle of a Southeast Asia pact [illegible] political and defence commitments [illegible] be concerned. There is a limit to what a country of Canada's population and resources can do.

Leader Diefenbaker (PC Prince Albert) the foreign affairs critic for the Progressive Conservative party, said Canada should exert pressure that will [illegible] South East Asia pact if the Geneva talks [illegible] Indo-China [illegible] be the first step in any Southeast Asia pact, he said.

Recognizing that a defence pact for Southeast Asia [illegible] should include Asian countries [illegible] India, Pakistan and Ceylon [illegible] as well as Australia, New Zealand, Britain, Canada and the U.S.

CCF leader Coldwell said the initiative for any Pacific pact should come from Asia, especially India. Canada should not join such a pact unless it had the approval of India, Burma, Pakistan and Ceylon.

The danger of a Pacific agreement not including these countries would be that it could be regarded by them as an attempt to inflict upon them a new colonialism."

Progressive Conservative leader George Drew said he questions whether it is wise to talk loosely against the preservation of colonialism. Immediate action to end colonialism without a period of transition would create a vacuum into which the Soviet Union could move.

First Treaty

Canada has negotiated its first bilateral trade pact with Spain, gaining wider markets for dry salted codfish in return for tariff cuts on edible olive oil, almonds and paprika.

Under the pact, Canada and Spain agree not to impose discriminatory import and exchange curbs, except for balance-of-payment reasons. Spain is a sterling-area country and is short of dollars. She gets some aid from the United States in return for air base concessions. Under the new pact, however, if she imposes curbs because of dollar problems, she must not discriminate between dollar countries. In other words she cannot impose some curb against Canada if she does not do so against the U.S.

MORE EVIDENCE TO COME, SAYS WREN

—Central Press Canadian

Promise of evidence of more irregularities in the Ontario department of highways contracts was given by Albert Wren, left, Liberal-Labor MPP from Kenora, as a select committee of the legislature heard evidence from government-appointed auditors. Wren, shown discussing the case with provincial CCF leader Grummett, said he would not reveal his evidence until the agenda of the committee was established.

Garden-Graph

Special care pays off with carrots, for they are a useful home vegetable crop in both summer and winter seasons.

The seed is small and slow to germinate. The seedlings themselves are so very delicate they often find it difficult to break their way up through the soil crust.

Give carrot seedlings a helpful hand by mixing either a small quantity of radish or spinach seeds with them at planting. The radishes or spinach seedlings, being quick germinators, will push up through the soil surface and thereby make it easier for the slower carrot seedlings to get through. Both radishes and/or spinach can be harvested ahead of the carrots.

When the carrot seedlings are three or four inches high they will need thinning. Thin the early, small varieties to stand about two inches apart and the later and larger kinds to four inches apart.

Carrots planted too thickly and not properly thinned will result in a mass of undersized, deformed and unedible roots. Carrots grown in soil manured too near the surface also often develop deformed roots, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

Carrots allowed to protrude above the ground, as illustrated, often develop "green shoulders." This can be prevented by carefully cultivating and drawing fine soil up and around the shoulders. When manure is used to fertilize the soil in which carrots are to be grown make sure that it is mixed deeply with the soil.

Our Industrial Heritage

By Lewis Milligan

Forty years ago the chief industry in Canada was agriculture and Canadians were proud of the title "The Granary of the Empire." Pictures of the Prairies, clothed with vast fields of golden grain, appeared regularly in all literature publicizing the wealth and prospects of Canada as a land of great achievement and opportunity. When I joined the editorial staff of the Toronto Globe at the beginning of 1914, the most important economic news items of the year came from the Prairies. Norman Lambert (now Senator) was annually assigned to report crop conditions and prospects in the Prairie provinces, and his reports were read with great interest as indications of the prosperity or otherwise of the immediate future.

Then came the First Great War in August, 1914, and Canada entered a new era of industrialization, which has expanded until today mining, processing and manufacturing are the chief bases of Canada's economic structure. Since 1939 the Canadian economy has expanded faster than at any other time in history. In that brief period the dollar value of Canada's gross national product has more than doubled, while today the country derives less than 13 per cent of its income from farming. Canada is now supremely a manufacturing country. In the last 15 years her manufacturing labor force has increased 107 per cent, while that of agriculture has decreased 40 per cent, despite the natural population increase and a million immigrants. The full story of this advancement is of epic proportions, including as it does the enormous development of mineral resources, hydro power, transportation and the expansion of great cities and minor urban communities.

Canada has grown up industrially, but are Canadians as a whole conscious of their adult responsibility for maintaining this inheritance? It can very easily be wasted by riotous thinking and selfish sectional demands for a division of its substance. This applies to those who seize every opportunity to increase prices and gain unfair profits, as well as to labor unions whose constant demands for wage increases and other profits have raised production costs to a point where the products cannot be marketed. This was emphasized recently by Mr. S. A. MacKay-Smith, president of the Canadian Exporters Association. He urged that trade unions should be informed of the consequences of those demands and the importance of exports to Canadian economy — "an importance", he said, "which seems to be entirely overlooked by labor leaders."

Our industrial inheritance can also be lost by government extravagance, which calls for crippling taxation, and especially by tariff policies that provide a free market in Canada for the products of other countries that can undersell those of our own factories and put their workers out of employment. Canadian light and heavy industries are suffering from this unfair competition. Many of them have been closed down or have had to discharge half their staffs. The textile industry is one of our oldest and in many instances is the chief source of employment in a community. Only a few years ago it led in the number of people employed, but with rising production costs and the lowering of tariffs, foreign competition is today finding the Canadian textile market one of the most easily accessible in the world.

A similar situation is beginning in the steel industry. I am told that light finished products with high labor content are now laid down from Europe at prices 40 per cent below Canadian domestic prices. Since it is quite impossible to counter such killing price competition, it has meant lay-offs and a reduced work-week for many employees, and the steel companies say that this is just the start of an invasion of "low-wage" produced goods from overseas. To be forewarned is to be fore-armed in defence of our great industrial heritage.

PLENTY OF DUCKS

Peterborough, Ont. (CP) — Members of Peterborough Nature Club on an expedition to Buckthorn and Pigeon Lakes found thousands of ducks assembled for their northern migration. They spotted scaup, golden-eyes, buffelheads, baldpates, ringnecks and mergansers. There were also geese and a wide variety of birds.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. I have lost my insurance book with stamps for the last ten months. I understand I cannot get benefit without them. What can I do about it?

A. Report the loss to your local office. They will provide you with forms to take to your employers so that the missing contributions can be rebuilt. It is your responsibility to see the employers concerned and to return the completed forms.

Q. I was drawing unemployment insurance but got myself a job to start last Wednesday. I went to the employment office on Tuesday afternoon, signed off my claim and drew my money. On the way to work on Wednesday, I slipped and broke my leg. I will be in the hospital four weeks. Can I get any benefits?

A. Yes, if you are not disqualified for any other reason.

From Canadian Looms And Knitting Machines

Thirty Canadian manufacturers of sportswear and knit goods are displaying their products in the Canadian Showroom in Rockefeller Center. Planned in co-operation with the Department of Trade and Commerce, the display will run until the end of June.

An array of beautifully styled women's suits, skirts and coats, made from loomed and hand-woven tartans; cashmere, pebble cloths and knitted fabrics, will be attractively displayed to catch the American buyer's eye. Canadian-made sports clothes, already popular in the U.S. market, will be represented by ski suits, sweaters and headwear, jackets and coats for the hunter, the fisherman and the golfer, and by tartan skirts, caps, socks, etc.

The Canadian sports clothing and knitwear industry has made impressive progress, especially since the end of World War II. Manufacturers have worked to develop distinctive Canadian styles made from the materials best suited to the wide range of climate on this continent. The American demand for Canadian sports clothing and knitwear has been particularly noteworthy and many of the firms taking part in this new exhibit at Rockefeller Center have already established outlets for their products in various parts of the United States.

FIBRE ROCK WOOL PRODUCED IN SCOTLAND

A new factory has been opened in Stirling to make a long-fibre rock wool know as "Rocksil". A well-known company with asbestos interests is behind the venture, the first of its kind to be undertaken in Britain. This commodity will be used for heat, cold and sound insulation. All the raw materials required are available in large quantities in Scotland. The factory has a floor area of approximately 100 thousand square feet and production will be at the rate of 25 million cubic feet a year.

Presence of mind is right, and this story is about 14-year-old Claire Harden, of Vernon, B.C. At the neighboring home, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Thompson were away at a spring playoff hockey game. Claire came out to look for his cat, saw a glow in the Thompson bedroom, phoned the fire department, found the hidden key of the house and had the blaze almost under control when the fire-fighters arrived.

New Currency Termed "Strictly Functional"

Ottawa (CP) — Canada's new paper currency, to be circulated next September, is a strictly functional, two-tone affair, stripped of all Victorian ornament and equipped with a few gimmicks to fool the forger.

The new bills, in eight denominations, were unveiled by Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada, and his staff at a press conference. This is the first bank note design change in 17 years and the first notes to bear the portrait of the Queen. The Queen appears uncrowned and rather sombre. The steel engraving is from a photograph by Yousuf Karsh of Ottawa, taken several years ago. The negative and all prints of that particular photo now are in the hands of the Bank of Canada.

RAILWAYS SALUTE CANADA'S FORCES

Montreal — A special salute to Canada's armed forces is featured on new attractive menu cards produced by the CPR and CNR for the month of June.

Personnel of the Navy, Army and Air Force, fighting ships, tanks and planes are depicted on the front cover. The message, on the back cover, reads: "It is hard to place a value on the debt we owe to our servicemen — to these young Canadians with the spirit of adventure and the intelligence to master the highly technical requirements of our modern Navy, Army and Air Force. These are proud men following an honored profession in the service of their country — and our freedom!"

BOX-CAR INNOVATION HELPS CNR YARDMEN

London, Ont. (CP) — A Canadian National Railways freight car at the railway yards here had passers-by rubbing their eyes recently. It had plexiglass doors that enabled outsiders to see inside.

It is being used to educate yard men on the danger of over-speed coupling.

H. D. Angus, supervisor of freight claim prevention, explained that cars coupled at speeds over four miles per hour would shift and possibly damage the freight being carried. A coupling demonstration at six miles an hour shoved a 1,700-pound lathe across the transparent car, gouging deep tracks in the flooring.

Mr. Angus said that even if freight was properly loaded and bolted down an over-sized bump would cause a shift.

The car is an exact copy of an ordinary freight car except for the glass doors and a large speedometer on its side.

With the Greatest of Ease

The Three Maxellos, to appear in the grandstand vaudeville shows at Lachute Spring Fair, June 9-12, present "one of the most sensational acts in the show business today." Tossing a young lady in the air with their feet, like a boomerang, they hold the crowd in suspense with this and similar skilful feats.

TO CHARTER SHIP FOR JAMBOREE TRIP

Some 1500 to 2000 Scouts from Great Britain, Sweden, Norway and Denmark, are planning to charter a Norwegian ship to bring them to Canada for the Eighth World Jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ontario, from August 18 to 28, 1955, it has been learned from R. T. Lund, Secretary of the Boy Scouts International Bureau, now visiting Canada.

REPRESENTED CANADIANS

As Scoutmaster of the RCAF's No. 1 Fighter Wing Scout Troop at North Luffenham, England, Flt. Sgt. Thomas H. Ridley of Windsor, Ontario, represented Canadian Scouting at the annual St. George's Day National Scout Service this year in St. George's Chapel at Windsor Castle, London. . . Under the patronage of the Queen Mother, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, F.S. Ridley joined over 1,000 Queen's Scouts in a service of re-dedication to the memory of Lord Baden-Powell, Founder of Scouting.

KNOW WHAT TO DO

Determined to be prepared to do their part should disaster strike their community, some 50 Boy Scouts of Edmonton, Alberta, have been taking a course in fire fighting and fire prevention at the Edmonton Civil Defence Rescue School. Instructors from provincial and civic organizations taught the boys how to use fire alarms, fire extinguishers and other equipment, how to control panic, rescue animals, salvage property and a number of other public service skills, to help them earn the Fireman's proficiency badge.

HOSPITAL SCOUT WARD

In Fort William, Ont., a ward in McKellar Hospital will be designated "The Scout Ward" as the result of a gift of $775 by Mr. and Mrs. Ira D. Evans, who explained to the hospital board that they wished their contribution to go towards equipping a Boy Scout Ward, because of their regard for that organization of which their son, John Miliken Evans, had been a member for years, and who was a King's Scout at the time of his death.

SPECIAL RECOGNITION

The Hon. Walter E. Harris, Minister of Citizenship and Immigration, will, in future, send a letter of commendation to every Canadian Boy Scout qualifying for the Citizen Proficiency Badge. The Minister's offer to this effect was made and accepted at the annual dinner of the Canadian General Council of the Boy Scouts Association in Ottawa on April 30, at which he was the guest speaker.

RECORD NUMBER OF QUEEN'S SCOUTS

A new record for Nova Scotia was established recently when 114 Queen's Scouts were presented with their certificates by the Rt. Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Chief Justice for Nova Scotia, and Honorary President of the N.S. Provincial Scout Council, at a special ceremony in Provincial House, Halifax. . . Also honored by the Chief Justice at the same ceremony, was Wolf Cub James Carson of Jollimore, N.S., who received the Gilt Cross in recognition of his bravery in rescuing another boy from drowning in Lake Williams.

WINDOW FOR "GRAMPS"

To honor the memory of the man they knew as "Gramps", (Edmund Boyle Milnes), who was their Scoutmaster from 1918 until he died in 1949, former Scouts have erected a memorial window in St. Paul's Anglican Church in Vancouver, B.C. — The Milnes Memorial window is a reproduction of "The Pathfinder".

BISHOP HONORS SCOUTS

"Receive this badge and wear it as a pledge of your fidelity to the first Scout Law" said His Excellency Bishop MacDonald in presenting Religion and Life awards to 12 Scouts of the 2nd Antigonish, N.S. Troop recently at a service in the Cathedral. "Do your best to fulfil your duty to God. If you do that you will fulfil all the requirements of the Scout Law". His Excellency told the Scouts.

43½-Acre Passenger Car Assembly Plant

Upper right: Central Parts Distribution warehouse. Centre: Final Assembly Plant Foreground: Body Assembly Plant

Fifty-six acres are under roof at the site of the largest automobile manufacturing centre in Canada, General Motors' new assembly plants in south Oshawa. The factories (shown above) to be officially opened this Fall, will produce all GM passenger cars built in Canada. In all-out production the modern assembly plants, which cover 43½ acres of the 56, will raise GM capacity by more than 25 per cent to 1350 vehicles a day. Insert at upper left shows infra-red paint drying oven, a new installation that bakes paint from inside out to produce tough high-gloss finish. The Oshawa development is one unit of a General Motors expansion program that has seen 100 million dollars invested across Canada over the past four years.

SPENT ON LIQUOR

Regina (CP) — Saskatchewan residents spend about $65 on alcoholic beverages each year, it was estimated by Rev. Horace West, general secretary of the Saskatchewan Temperance Federation. "The average church member gives about $20 per year to his church," he added.

Wool Tariff Inquiry "Unexpected Threat to Britain's Overseas Market"

Leeds, England (CP) — The Yorkshire Post says that wool and worsted manufacturers are concerned by a Tariff Board Inquiry ordered by the Canadian Government.

The story refers to "an unexpected threat to Britain's most valuable overseas market for wool textiles" and says that the inquiry may lead to higher duties on British wools and worsted cloths.

The inquiry was ordered to determine the effect of a preferential tariff on British Woollens on the Canadian textile industry. The exisiting tariff, to which the Canadian industry has objected, was set by the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. Its future and revisions will be discussed this year.

Britain exported £13,100,000 worth of woollens and worsted — or 23 per cent of its total — to Canada last year.

The Post story says:

"The view in Yorkshire trade circles is that Britain will have a well-nigh impossible task in working toward the free convertibility of sterling, and in removing its restrictions on dollar purchases such as Canadian farm produce, unless Britain is allowed to pay for them in the manufactured goods in which the paper specializes.

"It is suggested in Yorkshire that efficient Canadian mills are able to do profitable business in their home markets with import duties at the present level."

ATLANTIC SALMON LANDLOCKED

The ouananiche, pronounced wananish, is the Indian name of the Atlantic salmon that has become landlocked, and taken on certain freshwater characteristics. Actually this fish is a fresh water Atlantic salmon, but unlike its forebears does not return to the Atlantic after spawning. The coloration changes from the steel grey of the ocean fish after a few years in fresh waters.

Lachute Spring Fair '54 Opens With Many Fine Displays

Competitive Spirit Spurs High Quality Entries; Needs Only Favorable Weather to Crown Success

The 1954 Lachute Spring Fair — 128th milestone in the history of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society's Exhibition — is well on its way to being another triumph. No elaborate ceremonies for the opening were held, but the grandstand show which commenced last night is much bigger and better than in years past. The best horse show in Eastern Canada is the highlight of the grandstand program, which should draw the usual enthusiastic crowd of onlookers.

All buildings on the grounds have been repaired and painted for the occasion, and the barns and stables, which were practically filled to capacity yesterday, have been whitewashed and disinfected.

Racing Program

Harness races are billed for Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons. The usual County Race has been cancelled due to lack of entries.

Machinery Displays

The largest exhibit of farm equipment ever, is on display by local dealers and the companies they represent. Massey Harris - Ferguson were the largest exhibitors on the grounds Wednesday, with John Deere, Allis Chalmers, Dion, Ford and Cockshutt all well represented. Everything imaginable in modern farm equipment is there, including loaders, ditchers, balers, combines, mowers, and all types of tractors and attachments are featured in the exhibits. A good display of automobiles and trucks sponsored by the local dealers is also in evidence.

Recruiting Unit

Two large tents house a Canadian Army Recruiting Centre. A high tower has been set up, and two parachutes are descending from arms on this structure. One suspends a dummy and the other a bundle of supplies, both of which can be seen from all angles of the fair grounds.

X-Ray Clinic

Free chest X-rays are available once again in the Main Building, through arrangements of the Anti-Tuberculosis League and the County Health Unit.

Handicrafts Tops

A gigantic hooked rug measuring about 12 feet in diameter, and hoards of smaller rugs, quilts and fancy work, help form the largest handicraft exhibit on record. This display fills the top floor of the Main Building. The Women's Institute section is overcrowded with entries in handicrafts, cooking and horticulture. The Brownsburg Cercle des Fermières also has a large and creditable display.

Description of the High School exhibits, of metal and woodworking by the boys, and dressmaking, needlecraft and cooking by the girls, could not do the numerous entries justice. This is definitely the largest and best all-round display ever, with desks, stools, all kinds of furniture, tables, lamps and novelties. Prize wining dresses, skirts, other articles of wearing apparel, and a large table of home-cooking, complete an exhibit that has to be seen to be appreciated.

Vaudeville

High wire, acrobatic acts, bicycle balancing and other almost unbelievable feats are standouts in the grandstand entertainment. The five-act vaudeville show features "The Two Olveras", equilibrists on a high-balancing steel perch; "The Keppo Family", who have perfected their acrobatics into a series of delightful demonstrations; "The Three Maxellos", who toss one another into the air with their feet in a startling manner; the bicycle act of Bobby Whaling and Yvette, that has thrills for the entire family; and "The Silhouettes", two young brothers who present one of the thrill entertainments in show business. Their hand balancing acts are performed on a lofty structure high above the ground without a net or any other safety device.

Fishermen Find Body of Second Drowning Victim

Last Thursday near Rigaud, residents fishing on the Ottawa River, discovered the body of young Pierre Brisebois, missing since the double drowning tragedy April 19 at Carillon.

The body of his brother Claude was recovered from the Carillon Canal a few days after the drowning. An intensive search was continued for some time, but there was no trace of the other victim, 11-year-old Pierre.

Funeral rites were held Friday afternoon at the Carillon Parish Church, and the body was interred in St. Andrews Cemetery.

Bond Issue Sold, Contract Awarded for Water and Sewers in St. Jerusalem

At the request of the majority of the ratepayers in that section of the Parish of St. Jerusalem situated south of Lachute Town, east of Isabella Street, west of Mr. Filion's farm and past the Golf Club, an ordinance was received from the Quebec Health Department some time ago to install sewers and water on the following streets — Arcade Blvd., Henry Street, Catherine Street, Mary Street, Stuart Street, Boyd Street, Mitchell Street, Barron Avenue and Noble Street.

Paul Laliberté, P.Eng., was named as consulting engineer, after a preliminary report by R. De L. French of McGill University had been received and studied by the council.

Negotiations were started with the Town of Lachute, certain members of both councils meeting, with their respective mayors and certain ratepayers of both municipalities, for the purpose of negotiating for the water supply and the construction of certain sewers common to both.

On May 13 last, tenders were publicly called by the secretary of the Parish of St. Jerusalem. In order to protect the taxpayers in that area who had to pay for the above-mentioned works and which are guaranteed by the municipality as a whole, certain conditions were asked of the bidders as follows:

(1) Unit prices on each and every item.

(2) Completion bonds.

(3) Certified cheque to the amount of 15% of the tender.

(4) Right of negotiation with any contractor.

The only two tenders legally submitted were from the following:

H. J. O'Connell Limited, Montreal, and Trudeau & Fils, Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

Thereupon, on advice of their legal advisor, the council authorized the mayor, the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, F. Touchette (promayor) and H. E. Carson (secretary-treasurer) to negotiate a contract with H. J. O'Connell Limited, who agreed to reduce their price by $4,750.

At the regular meeting of the Jerusalem Council, a contract was accordingly awarded to H J O'Connell.

In the meantime, tenders were called for sale of the obligations. Two tenders were received and the lower bid was accepted. The bonds were sold at a net cost of 4.61% interest.

The council now has the money in hand to pay for the necessary installations, and the work will start within the next two weeks.

Legal Offices to Close Saturdays During Summer

St. Jerome — At their last meeting, lawyers affiliated in the Library Association of the District of Terrebonne sanctioned an order to close all lawyers' offices every Saturday in July and August, and the first Saturday in September.

The installation of the Library will soon be completed, and will contain around 2,000 volumes. These will be at the disposal of all members of the Bar of the District of Terrebonne, and of the Judges and Magistrates. The volumes must be consulted in the Library proper, and may not be removed to the court, nor to the Judge's or Magistrate's Chamber.

The following officers were unanimously re-elected:

President, Joseph Fortier, QC.

Directors, Fernand Legault, QC., Paul Larose and Lucien Thinel, QC.

Secretary-treasurer, Guy Mathieu.

EXPENSIVE GOVERNMENT

Just as municipalities must work out better financing methods within the province, the provinces and the Dominion government must consider anew their financial problems. Government in Canada is becoming too expensive.

Chas. E. Bedard, License Registrar, Succumbs Suddenly

With Canadian Forces In World War I

The sudden death of Charles E. Bedard, a well known citizen, on Tuesday evening, occasioned a considerable shock to his friends, relatives and his neighbors in centre town. Mr. Bedard was conversing with the Hon. W. M. Cottingham during a friendly call at his home on Main Street, when he was stricken with a heart seizure and died instantly.

Member of one of Lachute's pioneer business families, Mr. Bedard, 64 years of age, was a friendly and genial townsman, widely known throughout Argenteuil in his capacity as registrar of vehicle licenses; he had filled this office capably for several years, being assisted by his wife during the busy spring season.

Charlie Bedard was born in Lachute, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Alphonse Bedard. He followed his father in the footwear and furniture business on Main Street. In 1915 he enlisted with the infantry serving in World War I, later transferring to the Airforce. On his discharge he worked in Toronto and Sudbury, then returning to Lachute, where he became a salesman for Cottingham Supply Co.

He was married in 1920 to Lila Heslop of Toronto, who is left to mourn with their family of three — Flying Officer Roy Bedard, RCAF, North Bay, Yvonne (Mrs. Douglas Gordon) of Cornwall, and Frank, of St. Johns, Que., also four grandchildren. He is survived by three members of his immediate family — a brother, Geoffroy, of Lachute, and two sisters, Mrs. Emile Ricard, Sarnia, Ont., and Mrs. Donat Dubé, Montreal.

The funeral, in charge of Raoul Joly, will be held Friday morning, with rites at the Ste. Anastasie Parish Church at 10 o'clock, and interment in the West End cemetery. The remains, meanwhile, are resting at his home.

Nominations Today for Council Vacancy On Centre Ward Resignation of Ald. Beaulieu

City Fathers Felicitate Provincial Deputy On Appointment as Minister of Mines

At the regular meeting of Town Council — with Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur presiding and two aldermen, E. O. Pollock and Georges Beaulieu absent — a matter of most newsworthy concern was the latter's resignation from office. Ald. Beaulieu having written a letter to that effect giving reasons of personal health, the resignation was accepted with regret, and nominations for the vacancy were called for Thursday, June 10.

Adrien Roy, autobus operator, requested permission to install a gasoline pump on his property at Main Street West. The Mayor asked him to submit a plan and to confer with Ald. D. G. MacRae, committeeman.

On motion of Ald. Réal Morrissette, seconded by Ald. A. Laurin, a sum of $200 was voted for Lachute Spring Fair.

Roland Audet, present at the meeting, was questioned by the Mayor on the price required for a strip of his land for construction of a sidewalk. Value of the land, said Mr. Audet, was $400 — on which the Mayor agreed to enter into further discussion.

Secretary Antonio Laurin read a letter signifying approval of the County Health Unit to a certain garbage dump-site in Chatham, providing that municipality also gave its approval... Chatham Council meanwhile having rejected the request, Mayor Lafleur considered the matter as closed — with the long-present need to "search elsewhere."

Ald. Judes Charlebois, seconded by Ald. A. Laurin, moved the acceptance of a $125 tender by Marcellin Lavoie, St. Andrews East, for planting and maintenance of the Park — providing the applicant pays the $22.50 civic business tax.

Ald. MacRae proposed an amendment that the contract be given to A. Paulsen, Lachute, for $185; there was no seconder, however, and the original motion was carried.

Following the resignation of Ald. Beaulieu, chairmanship of the Police Committee was delegated to Ald. Ross Muir, with a third member to be appointed on this body.

Ald. Muir, seconded by Ald. L. Gibeault, proposed that a letter of congratulation be forwarded to the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, following his appointment as Quebec Minister of Mines which was announced the day of this meeting. (A reception for the new Minister is planned for in the near future.)

It was decided to restrict parking to a half-hour limit on the east side of Main Street between Grace Street and Bedard Blvd. A request

URGE SCOTTISH "MONTH"

Antigonish, N.S. (CP) — Agreement to consider promoting an annual "Scottish month" in the province was reached at the annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Association of Scottish Societies. The meeting also urged a memorial for the late Premier Angus Macdonald and research on the early highland settlers.

Alberta, considered Canada's most mobile province, has 10 motor vehicles for every 33 citizens. Next is Ontario with 10 for every 37 souls.

Safety Parade Stresses Theme of Prov'l Campaign

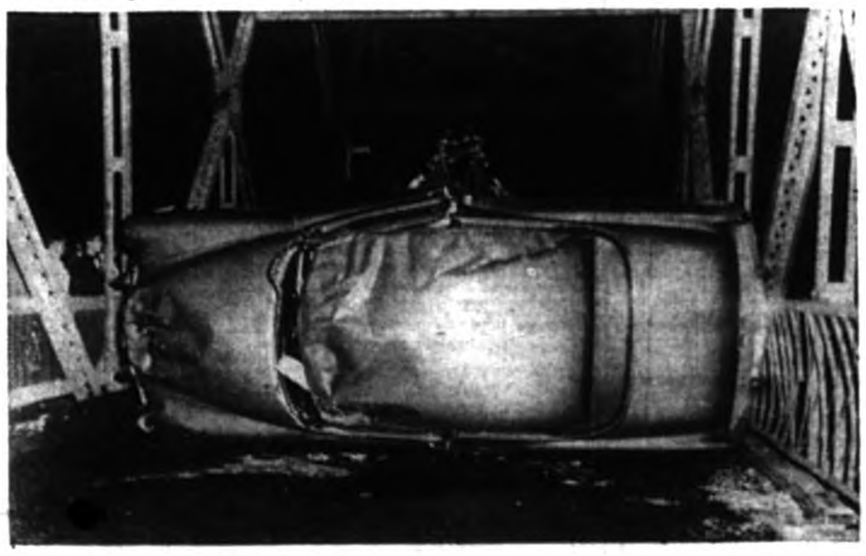

The Collège Ste. Anne drum and bugle band led Lachute's Safe Driving parade through the streets Monday evening. The band, from St. Scholastique, had several local youths in its ranks.

The parade, consisting of town and provincial police, representatives of the Town Council and a delegation from the Lions Club led by Safety Committee chairman Donat Villeneuve, was interspaced by service trucks towing wrecked cars from the various local garages — from Welden Motors, North River Motors, Deacon Motor Sales and Robitaille Motors. Ambulances and the morgue wagon were also in evidence, along with throngs on bicycles and in cars. The fire department was represented by the Chief Geo. Y. Deacon in his car, as well as the auxiliary firetruck.

In commenting on the parade, Police Chief Laurent Ducharme, the organizer, expressed a hope that all who took part or viewed the demonstration, will keep in mind a picture of those auto wrecks, and in this way maintain a safety-consciousness contributing to improved traffic records in the future.

Leamington, Ont., finds it quite nice to have a big industry in town; the H. P. Heinz Co. of Canada presented the town with a cheque for $30,000 towards a fund for a Recreation and Agriculture Centre.

Safety Week Setback — Unintentional Road-Block

An "unpremeditated" obstruction was piled up on Barron's Bridge at 2.45 a.m. Monday when the above car, driven by Jean Paul Nault, of Gatineau Mills, rolled over completely, coming to a halt on its side. The car was coming from Montreal when the driver, thinking that Route 8 continued along Main Street, swerved to make the corner and lost control of the 1954 model car owned by Turpain Motor Sales, Gatineau. The four occupants of the car, all from the Gatineau district, escaped injury. The car is a total loss. Photo by Maurice Lamoureux

Local Animals Win Top Rating at Ormstown

District livestock men were up in the prize lists at Ormstown Exhibition last week. The weather was far from the best, but Argenteuil farmers were on hand to take their share of the honors.

Ayrshires turned out the largest classes, with 109 animals in the show ring — Glengarry Wonderful, a dry, aged cow, bringing the female reserve senior and reserve grand championships to J. P. Bradley.

In Jerseys, Dr. D. R. McCall's North River Farms won senior and grand championships, both in males, with North River Standard Beacon, and in females, with Pine Gables Jester Tinsel. There were 77 Jerseys to judge, with six exhibitors.

L. T. Porter of St. Andrews took most of the top awards in the beef classes. North River Farms also showed beef cattle.

The heavy horse show was one of the best in years, A. T. Cleland being the principal exhibitor of Clydesdales; he took all the top awards except the reserve senior and reserve grand championships.

Lachute Objective Over-Subscribed in Red Cross Appeal

INDIANS IN LIMELIGHT

Calgary (CP) — Alberta Indian tribes who inhabit the Indian Village at the Calgary Stampede this year will be given every facility to show their folklore, handicrafts and tribal demonstrations. Practically all Indian activities will be concentrated in the village this year with an elevated circular platform around a big ceremonial tree.

Motorcyclists Crash In Rear of Parked Transport Trailer

Two motorcyclists narrowly escaped death four miles east of Lachute on Route 41 at 1.30 a.m. Tuesday when the machine they were riding crashed into the rear wheels of a parked semi-trailer. The driver of the cycle, Raymond Belanger, 23, and his passenger, 18-year-old Claude Clement, both of St. Jerome, received treatment in Lachute, Belanger then being transferred to the Hotel Dieu Hospital in St. Jerome with a probable skull fracture and other injuries.

The cycle was headed towards Lachute at a speed of about 50 m.p.h., according to the driver, when it crashed into the left rear wheels of a Hull-Montreal Express tractor and van driven by Ken Pinkos, 38, of Poltimore, Que. Pinkos stated he had stopped to tighten a wheel; he had just walked around to the front of the truck to start off again, when he noticed a light coming and then heard the crash. He rushed back and found the two men lying on the road with the motorcycle in the ditch.

Clement, the less injured of the two, was brought to Lachute by the transport driver, who, thinking Belanger was dead, left him by the roadside.

Traffic Officer Howard Jones hurried to the accident upon notification, and on his arrival, found Belanger missing from the scene. It was later discovered he had been brought to Lachute for medical aid by a passing motorist.

The semi-trailer was parked well to the side of the road and was well marked with five red lights, according to police. The accident, which caused considerable damage to the motorcycle and none to the truck, occurred on a straight stretch of highway in the vicinity of Doig's farm.

Ch. of Commerce Regional Meet At Ste. Agathe

The Laurentides Regional Chambers of Commerce are meeting Sunday at Ste. Agathe for their annual session, under presidency of Horace Lamarche, Lachute, to discuss current business, review progress and elect new officers. Gérard Lefebvre, of Lachute, is secretary of the group.

The program outlined for this assembly commences with registration at the Laurentide Inn, 1 p.m.; general meeting, 2 p.m.; election of officers, 4 p.m.; refreshment, 5 p.m.; banquet, 7 p.m.

Mr. Alan Brown, vice-president and general manager of Gatineau Power Company, will address the afternoon session on the industrial program of his company in servicing this area. During the Chamber proceedings, the wives and lady guests will be entertained on a boat trip around Lac des Sables. Special speaker for the evening banquet will be Mgr. H. D. J. Brosseau, curé of Montebello (an old friend of these parts).

Among specially invited guests are deputies of the constituencies of Argenteuil, Deux Montagnes and Terrebonne, including Philippe Valois, M.P., and the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., newly-appointed Quebec Minister of Mines; Jos. Racine, president of the Quebec Chamber of Commerce; also mayors of the regional municipalities.

Reckless Driving Charge, Collision Near Calumet

A reckless driving charge was lodged against Maurice C. Wilkins, 33, of Calumet, following an accident on the Kilmar Road two miles north of Calumet Village. He collided with a car owned and driven by René Parisien, of L'Orignal, causing more than $100 damage as well as $300 to his own car. The accident occurred late Wednesday night of last week.

Parisien, accompanied by three other persons, was going to work at Kilmar when he was sideswiped by Wilkins who, according to police, continued 255 feet along the paved highway and 75 feet in the ditch, then hit a large stone and moved a rock weighing almost a ton, before coming to a stop more than 1,000 feet along the road. He escaped serious injury.

He was arrested by Traffic Officer Howard Jones and taken to St. Jerome, where he was charged with reckless driving. He pleaded guilty and will be sentenced on June 18.

Arrests Following Two Fast Hold-Ups Solve Numerous District Bank Robberies

Ten bank hold-ups — four of them at the same branch — carried out mainly in the Lachute - Montreal district in the past four years, have been solved with the arrest of three Montrealers, one of whom has occupied a summer residence at St. Andrews East for some years.

Two of the men were arrested last Thursday evening at an inn in Vaudreuil, while the third was picked up in Montreal several days later. The arrests were made following armed hold-ups at the Banque Provinciale at St. Philippe and St. Augustin last Thursday, around noon.

The three men, Roy Blesdale, 27, Clifford French, 32, and Armand Paquin, 39 (who resides part time in St. Andrews), admitted their guilt before Judge Eugene Lafontaine in St. Jerome on Monday. Sentence was postponed until tomorrow, Friday.

The wife and four-year-old son of one of the pair arrested at Vaudreuil, who were taken to headquarters in Montreal while the mother was being questioned, were subsequently released. The fourth, member of the gang, which realized $47,000 from the various hold-ups, was killed in a Verdun traffic accident late last year.

Police say the hold-ups the trio admitted committing, with the amounts taken, were: Howick, $9,000, Oka, $3,000; St. Martin, $3,000; St. Placide, $3,000; St. Augustin, $3,000, $1,800, $1,600 and $500, in four hold-ups St. Philippe d'Argenteuil, $1,077; Ste. Scholastique, $16,000.

It was the two hold-ups within an hour of each other last Thursday that led to the gang's undoing. The trio made their getaway in a car stolen in Montreal on Wednesday. They went to Paquin's summer cottage near St. Andrews East after abandoning the automobile on the way. There, two of the gang picked up another car and, placing the woman and child in the car to avoid suspicion, drove toward Montreal. They avoided road blocks by crossing the Ottawa River by the ferry at Oka.

Det. Charles Nadeau saw them on the Como side of the river, and followed the car to Vaudreuil Inn. When help arrived they were picked up and taken to headquarters in Montreal. Two pistols, a blackjack and $1,563 in cash were found in their car. Later an additional $300 was discovered in the trunk of the vehicle.

Attempt at L'Orignal

Two Ottawa men have been charged with breaking and entry and a third with vagrancy in connection with an attempted safe-cracking at L'Orignal on Sunday.

George St. Amand, 38, of Ottawa, charged with breaking and entry, is under guard in hospital at Hawkesbury, with a gunshot wound in the chest.

Arthur Mann, 38, of Ottawa, also charged with breaking and entry, and Raymond Lafrance, 24, charged with vagrancy, were remanded indefinitely and refused bail.

St. Amand was found with a bullet in his chest near the heart after Edmond Latreille, manager of a co-operative store in L'Orignal which houses the Caisse Populaire, fired at three men he discovered attempting to open the safe of the small savings bank. Two of the men fled, but one was hit by a bullet from Latreille's .22-calibre rifle.

Mann and Lafrance were arrested later in Ottawa.

Trade Talk by Fellow Rotarian

Larry Pressault, of Brownsburg, entertained his fellow Rotarians at their meeting last week with a brief history of the diamond cutting industry.

Between the 13th and 18th centuries the diamond interests were located in Venice, Italy. However, with the formation of the Diamond Trading Company in London, the control of the industry gradually shifted, until now the whole world is supplied by the British market. Brazil was the chief source of diamonds until 1866, when the fabulous deposits were discovered in South Africa. Now 95% of the world supply comes from the latter country.

The actual cutting and polishing of diamonds have been almost exclusively in the hands of the people of Holland for centuries. Both are highly developed skills, requiring years of training. A great deal of specialized knowledge is required to know how and where to cut the raw stone so as to give the greatest value to the finished jewel.

Diamonds are used as a measure of hardness for testing materials. It is the hardest substance known, and can only be polished with its own dust, since no other substance will have any effect on the surface. It is significant that, although diamonds are made of pure carbon, they are one of the few substances in the world that man has not been able to make synthetically.

Mr. Pressault was introduced by Fred Gervais and thanked by Steve Istvanffy.

Top-Ranking Arts Student At Bishop's University

Miss Evelyn Laurin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Laurin and a graduate of Lachute High School, obtained first class honors in French and History, making her the top Arts graduate at Bishop's University, Lennoxville. She won the Lieutenant-Governor's bronze medal for History, the Vice-President's prize for the same subject, the Chief Justice Greenshields prize and the Lieut. Roddie Lemieux prize for French Literature. Miss Laurin and two other female students were the only three of 45 obtaining bachelor's degrees in Arts and Science to secure first class standing.

Miss Louise Laurin, a sister of Evelyn, also obtained her degree in the same course.

Gatineau LINES

Summer Storms

At this time of the year brief but violent storms sometimes tear down trees and branches and smash them across the electric lines.

The power company tries to keep such interruptions to a minimum, and when power failures occur the line crews are sent out immediately to find and repair the damage, thus restoring service as quickly as possible.

While it is inevitable that sometimes interruptions in service must occur, these are not as numerous as formerly. This is largely due to the many customers who have co-operated in spotting and reporting trees and branches which overhang the power lines.

This fight of the power company against the trouble caused by trees is a never ending one, in which the help of the customer frequently means improved service to that customer.

Ask Extension of Butter Floor Price

Stressing the importance of a stable dairy industry, the Dairy Farmers of Canada recently impressed upon the Federal Minister of Agriculture, Hon. James G. Gardiner, the necessity for a 58 cent a pound floor price under butter at least until May 1, 1956.

It was the opinion of the organization that price supports for butter had worked out satisfactorily since they maintained stable prices to all producers and assured consumers of an adequate supply. Butter stocks built up over the last three-year period amounted to just over 3 per cent of the total production. Butter support under the Agricultural Prices Support Act had cost the Canadian taxpayer but a fraction of a cent a pound per capita. It was pointed out that this was a small price to pay for a stable market.

Extension of the butter support price was needed on several counts. The price must be such as to insure a small annual expansion of dairy production to take care of the nutritional needs of an expanding population.

Dairy farming, because of the long-term aspects of livestock production, required advance planning to insure maximum efficiency. Coupled with this was the fact that dairy farming was one of the best and most economical ways of maintaining soil fertility, and for that reason alone the industry should be protected from deterioration.

The Dairy Farmers' brief concluded that a support price under butter at a reasonable level would strengthen the market for all dairy products.

Ragwort Weed Can Be Controlled With 2, 4-D

Ragwort, commonly called "Stinking Willie", which is one of the most troublesome weeds in many areas, can now be controlled satisfactorily with herbicides such as 2,4-D.

On farms, this weed which is poisonous to cattle and horses, is most commonly found in pastures but will spread into hay fields in a short time if left to set seed.

Ragwort differs from most other weeds in that it is not crowded out by competition from more desirable grasses and legumes when fertilizer and lime is applied but thrives much better under improved fertility conditions.

Tests conducted on Illustration Stations in eastern Nova Scotia, reports F. W. Calder, Agronomist at Nappan Experimental Station, have shown that eight ounces of 2,4-D acid per acre applied on a pasture sward will kill Ragwort plants without doing any appreciable damage to clover plants. Higher rates may be used when the weed is being eradicated from rough land or roadsides where damage to herbage plants such as clovers is not considered.

2,4-D should be applied when the plants are small and making their most rapid growth, in the case of this weed it may be necessary to make two applications as all the plants do not start their growth at the same time of year. Following this procedure, spray should be applied early in June and again about six weeks later.

For small areas and in rough terrain, a hand-operated knapsack sprayer may be used but for larger pasture fields a tractor mounted low pressure sprayer will give the most satisfactory results.

Spraying Forests For Budworm Pest

The weather turns out to be the deciding factor in the Quebec Province-Forest Industries joint aerial counter-offensive against the spruce budworm invasion in the Lower St. Lawrence woodlands along the New Brunswick boundary line.

Eight spray-planes based at Patapedia, Que., and six more at Horne's Gulch, N.B., near the Quebec border, are ready to douse 300 square miles of Quebec timber stands with 160,000 gallons of a DDT solution.

A succession of cold rainy days slowed down the normal rate of growth of the budworm, but two or three days of sun ought to help the insects catch up on Nature and grow to their full voracious size, when they chew up every new spruce and fir needle in sight. By the time the budworms are big enough for the kill, and weather permitting, the DDT squadron will start in earnest spraying the forest with a fine, deadly fog of insecticide. The ideal spraying time is fresh calm weather right after daybreak. Too high a temperature would cause the spray to go up instead of down and wind would play havoc with precision spraying.

The provincial government of Quebec foots half the bill for this aerial spraying — the first large scale one in the Province of Quebec — and the other half is shared equally by three companies with woodlands in the infested area: New Brunswick International Paper Company, Price Brothers & Company, and Restigouche Company Limited.

The volume rate of spray is about one half-gallon per acre. The whole operation must be over by the end of June, when the budworm changes from caterpillar into pupa and muffles up inside a cocoon impervious to the insecticide.

The Cutknife (Sask.) Grinder reports that during a Saskatchewan Farmers Union meeting: "A letter was read from R. W. Carmichael, income tax consultant, concerning obtaining a clearance sheet on income tax . . . he stated that the only way at present to obtain this was by dying or leaving the country."

Divorce Issue Stirs Commons Division

Screening System for Security Defended Against "McCarthyism" Charge

"The Week at Ottawa"

By Don Peacock
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, June 7 (CP) — The Commons has speeded its pace towards prorogation.

Trotting past its 120th sitting last week — a post-war record for length — it extended its usual working hours to include morning sessions as well as the regular afternoon and evening sittings. It is expected to wind up for the summer before the end of June.

So swift was the pace one day that even Finance Minister Abbott was surprised, remarking on the House's "unexpectedly rapid progress." He said he had not contemplated "we would reach this resolution as early as we have" as he was called on in mid-afternoon to present a resolution preliminary to introduction of another bill.

The Liberals stumbled at one point, but didn't fall. Members voted 66 to 63 to send a Quebec divorce petition back to a committee for review after CCF members said they doubted the testimony of private investigators in the case.

CCF Protest

The division did not involve a vote of confidence in the government. Four Liberals supported the CCF motion and decided the issue.

The motion by Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) to send the divorce petition back was a reflection of continuing CCF discontent over the fact Parliament deals with divorces from Quebec and Newfoundland, the only provinces without divorce courts. Most CCF members want those divorces handled by the Exchequer Court.

The Senate divorce committee, which hears evidence in all divorce petitions, has recommended that Parliament dissolve 382 marriages, compared with the former record of 350 divorces granted by Parliament in 1949. Last session 282 divorces were granted.

Discharge Security Risks

Prime Minister St. Laurent told the Commons the government's security screen has brought about the discharge of "quite a number" of men from the armed services but "not very many" from the civil service. He said, too, that the government is guarding against attempts by foreign powers to obtain secret information.

Defending the government's screening system after it was described as "McCarthyism" by Davie Fulton (PC — Kamloops), Mr. St. Laurent, who named no countries, said:

"We have got to assume that there are efforts made by foreign powers to obtain through their espionage or intelligence services information that we think they should not have."

Mr. Fulton, speaking during discussion of justice department estimates, said civil servants suspected of security risks have no chance to clear themselves of suspicion. And in determining their reliability, the government had accepted the principle of guilt by association.

"If there is McCarthyism here, you can see where it lies," said Mr. Fulton.

Mr. St. Laurent rejected Mr. Fulton's demand — made several times this session — for figures on security transfers and dismissals. He said only that quite a number of servicemen, screened after enlistment, "were found to be persons that it was felt preferable not to have in the armed forces. But in the civilian departments of government, there have not been very many."

Atomic Power Possible

Among legislation approved was a bill from Trade Minister Howe to amend the Atomic Energy Control Act. In proposing a major reorganization and expansion of Canada's atomic energy program, Mr. Howe said Canadian scientists now believe they can build at atomic power plant to produce electricity at an economical cost.

"To be more specific, we now see the possibility of producing atomic power at a cost which will be comparable to the cost of power generated from a steam plant using coal at $8 a ton."

He said existing research and development activities in the atomic field would come under a single agency, Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. The company would be responsible for the over-all direction of the Chalk River project, the production and sale of isotopes, including cobalt 60 used in the "cobalt bomb" therapy unit for the treatment of cancer, and the government's role in the mining of uranium ores.

The legislation changes the name of the company which now operates the Chalk River project to Nuclear Research Ltd. The company responsible for production and procurement of uranium would continue to be known as Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd.

New Prov. Department Operative June 30 to Oversee Traffic Laws

Quebec (CP) — "Slow down" is the warning to Quebec motorists during the current two-week traffic safety campaign. Premier Duplessis echoed the words of caution, he announced recently the formation of a new provincial department of oversee Quebec's traffic laws. It goes into operation June 30 and may be headed by Solicitor Antoine Rivard.

The department, which brings to 17 the number of ministries in the government, would ensure the enforcement of traffic laws amended during the last session of the legislature. Provincial transport commissions would also be directed by the new department.

VALUE OF WESTERN STUBBLE

More and more farmers are aware of the multiple value of the stubble to the soil. Fewer are burning off the stubble. Occasionally one still sees a smoke pall originating from a stubble field fire but the practice has almost died out, and agricultural advisers will no doubt be happy to see the last of such fires.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

Community On Show

THIS IS Fair Week. . . As we view the event in prospect, there seems little evidence of that mild excitement and anticipation we experienced a decade or so ago. That's understandable, perhaps, for then the Exhibition seemed more tied-up with individual loyalty and co-operation. Today things operate more smoothly; details are systematically managed; rules are observed with a little less sentiment; the catering is let by contract, usually to outsiders. All in all, arrangements are handled adequately by the committees concerned, the rank and file have little personal obligation . . . which is perhaps a sounder if less "sociable" basis, for Lachute Fair has steadily gained in size and importance, year by year, until today it is a big-time business.

Some aspects of Fair Week remain unchanged, of course. One is the capriciousness of the weather, on which the Exhibition depends considerably for attendance. Another is the impression of hospitality given by our town, and in this, the personal influence is as effective as it ever was. The attitude of our townsfolk towards visitors and strangers, who flock to Lachute in their hundreds, spells the difference in our reputation — either as a hospitable spot with kindly people, with good eating places and accommodations — or as a place to be avoided for its unfriendly reception.

No matter how business-like and impersonal Lachute Spring Fair may grow, this responsibility remains. During Fair Week, residents and business folk may count their role by no means negligible in community terms.

One Born Every Minute

IN THE SPIRIT of the Fair, and for young and old synonymous with a "rare good time", are those noisy amusements — the midway, the rides and the sideshows. It's well worth the fare to share the youngsters' thrill; the four-year-olds tremulously climbing on the merry-go-round for their first time; and to watch the teenagers whirling at break-neck speeds.

We're not worried about the juveniles. In fact, we're not really worried about the oldsters. But we feel impelled to mention those games of chance that seem to be a necessary evil in every glamorous midway. And if we can save but one poor sucker the loss of five, ten or fifteen dollars in hard-earned cash, the effort will be worthwhile, at the same time, our allegations will malign none who earns a decent, respectable living.

We would say just this. With their fluent oratory and practiced art, the operators of these booths have mulcted the public for a long time. Any who plays and wins, is only a dupe for the fellow looking over his shoulder. Any who continues with a serious conviction of his luck or skill, generally gets what he deserves, and deserves what he gets for his utter conceit. Unfortunately there's no law against it. But this is one kind of money we begrudge going out of town.

As Others See Us

NOEL COWARD is reported to have said, on viewing Niagara Falls for the first time, that it would be far more impressive if it went the other way. As a cynicism, the remark is merely amusing. But it shows the value of an unusual approach to a time-worn subject.

Among the thousands of newcomers arriving in this country every year there are many lively minds that can be held up as mirrors to Canada. First impressions, captured by the ultra-sensitive eye of the new immigrant, can tell us things about ourselves that we tend to overlook through familiarity or disregard for fear of being branded egoistic.

Many Canadians have recently shown themselves disturbed by what the world has come to know as the North American way of life — the restless search for an unknown quantity, the snowballing rush of progress. When the New Canadian walks through his first weeks in his adopted country his brain works like the photo-impressive film of a movie camera. Before the record becomes obliterated by "Canadianization" it makes interesting study.

A young Briton who landed at Halifax recently was surprised by the serious approach of Canadians to the business of living.

He found them apparently absorbed in cars, houses and business opportunities, in that order. These impressions were modified as time passed.

In Britain, men and women are more placid. They make early choice of profession or trade and usually seek promotion within the company that first recruited them in the town where they were born. So he was startled by the unconfined employment frontiers of Canada, where a man will start earning as a taxi-driver, graduating through logging, building, journalism and salesmanship to a market garden or company presidency.

He found Canadian children carefree, self-reliant and outspoken to an unusual degree. He wondered how they grew through uninhibited adolescence into quiet, well-mannered and poised young men and women with an intelligent interest in their surroundings.

He marvelled at the flamboyant girl teenagers who appear to pass through chrysalis stage into well-groomed Canadian women, who he says are smarter in toto than the women of any country in Edrope.

Parade!

IT TAKES a parade to stir enthusiasm! We hand it to Police Chief Laurent Ducharme, for organizing that demonstration to stress the Quebec Highway Safety Campaign. But if only the hundreds who took part, and the thousands who spectated, could be lastingly enthused!

The band, the posters, the wrecks and tow-trucks and flashing ambulances lacked, however, the details to tell a convincing tale. It needs blood and corpses, dirt and the stench of alcohol — it needs hospital bills, heartbreaks, impoverished widows, orphans, and tragic, staring eyes — to portray the real Cost of Carelessness. Without these, fanfare and figures leave the public unheeding.

Carry on, Mr. Police Chief. All right-thinking motorists are with you. We may be cynical; but, human nature being what it is, we pin more faith on correction than persuasion. The tickets, fines and reprimands for law-breakers — which have been noted more numerous of late — these, we believe, are the most effective form of education, in town and on the highways too.

DECLINING food prices and a sudden drop in cost of general household operations eased living costs during April. The consumer price index issued last week dropped by one-tenth of a point for April, to 115.5, reversing a similar rise in March. The index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

With the exception of March, living costs have been declining for five consecutive months, but the shifts have been small.

CLIMBING on the bandwagon with the zeal of salesmanship, we note the Canadian poultry industry is publicizing a "Chicken for Father's Day" campaign. Suits us, but how about the breast instead of the drumstick for Dad on this special occasion!

WRITING ON THE WALL? British and European manufacturers are "seriously invading" Canada's domestic markets and are creating considerable unemployment, O. W. Titus, president of the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers Association, charged before the Eastern Ontario Development Conference in Ottawa.

The vice-president and general manager of Canada Wire & Cable Co. declared: "It is my considered opinion that we face the choice of either altering our trade policies or of reverting to something approaching a 50 cents per hour economy."

Canadian electrical manufacturers are prepared to "meet the world or any part thereof on their ability to compete per man-hour," Mr. Titus said. "But there is a limit to the premiums they can pay per man-hour when these cheap labor-produced articles are freely admitted to our domestic markets. I think that point has now been reached and passed."

◇ ◆ ◇

THE HABIT some drivers have of opening their doors to indicate a left-hand turn, is strongly criticized by the Province of Quebec Safety League. Granted, there are days when a driver may be reluctant to open his window and let the rain or snow gush in. But it is argued that opening the door is a dangerous practice which may prompt accidents. It isn't sufficient notice for drivers in oncoming cars. The signal could be mistaken as an indication of a right-hand, instead of left-hand turn. A passing automobile could tear the opened door from its hinges. There are conventional traffic signals which all drivers of automobiles and trucks should adhere to, as they are a guarantee of safety.

NOW THAT the summer season is getting underway and most of us will be out enjoying our beautiful countryside, let's make some resolutions about keeping things clean and cutting down on the destruction — urges the Stanstead Journal.

Lachute Safety Campaign — Picture to Remember

ANOTHER TOTAL WRECK resulted from excessive speed when the above car went out of control on the Brownsburg - St. Philippe highway last July. Injuries were severe, two of the occupants having to remain in hospital for some time . . . It could happen to you, as it has happened to others.

Over the Years with THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

June 13, 1879 —

Grenville — A very severe frost occurred here Sunday morning, which did immense damage to the crops. Corn, beans and potatoes suffered most; they are in many cases ruined. Corn is, besides, suffering here from a grub — a great deal of the seed having been destroyed by them before germinating. Seed that failed to germinate, upon examination shows five or six worms frequently attacking one seed.

Two horses were killed on the railway tracks by a locomotive that passed sometime during the night, about a mile and a half east of the Grenville Station.

Mr. Alfred Daoust met with a painful accident on Monday last, while at work in the handle factory of the Lachute Shuttle Company. One of the pieces of wood on which he was working flew up and penetrated his face, inflicting several injuries.

The many friends of Mr. Robert Phillips (though sorry to lose him from Lachute) will be pleased to learn that he has been appointed Station Agent at Buckingham.

25 YEARS AGO

June 14, 1929 —

At the recent Ottawa Flying Club's first aerial circus, Mr. R. G. Perry, son of Mr. Wm. Perry, Lachute's young "old man", made a sensational parachute descent from a height of 2,500 feet. Slight injuries to the daring jumper were caused when he was drawn by the wind into a barbed wire fence after alighting on the ground.

The Boy Scout "treasure hunt" held on Tuesday evening was a huge success. Each patrol followed directions and Scout signs, and in this way the four patrols were spread over the mountain in quest of the treasure. The following were treasure finders: Wolf Patrol — Scout Gordon McFaul and Mildred Valpy; Crow patrol — Scout Stanley Langille and Ethel Stansfield; Fox Patrol — Scout Claude Roby and Reta Gordon; Bull Dog Patrol — Scout Robert Miller and Betty Clunie.

The boxer was sitting at home with a bruised head after being badly beaten, while his son was doing his homework.

"Tommy", said his wife, "don't count up to ten any more — it makes Daddy's head ache."

"WORK, I COULD LOVE THEE . . "

"Work, I could love thee, O so much loved I not pleasure more" — to misquote an old saw!

Lately, I've developed a distinct aversion to work of all kinds. It may be, of course, that I'm the victim of acute spring fever. Certainly, I've never been so out of love with work in all my life. This, I understand, is a sure sign of spring fever. But, in my case, I'm inclined to believe that this growing lethargy is all due to the reading I have been doing.

I'm ashamed to admit it, but in the past 12 years, I've only read a dozen or so books. Time just seems to get itself all used up and when I should have my face buried in a book, I find I'm so tired out from keeping pace with our way of living that I can only hit the hay and go to sleep. So, of late, my reading has been confined to newspapers and the odd periodical. And I blame my present attitude to work entirely on the reports I have read in the papers.

I firmly believe that every Canadian has a bounden duty to keep informed about his government. So, with that in mind, I've been devouring all the news emanating from Parliament Hill. Believe me, it's been my undoing, as far as work is concerned. I'm just not the fellow I was. Let me show you what I mean.

Not long ago, after a government pronouncement that was duly reported in the press, I brazenly walked into the personnel department and demanded a 66 2/3 per cent pay boost, tax free. There were to be no discussions about it. I wanted it, I expected it and I'd get it or know the reason why.

Naturally, my employers wanted to know what they could expect from me in return.

"I suppose," the personnel manager observed, "that we can expect 2/3 more work from you for this salary boost?"

"Not at all. In fact, I doubt if I'll do any work whatsoever. Certainly, I don't expect to be called upon to work more than five months out of the year. Also, I fully expect to be granted holidays from December 15th to February 1st, and three weeks both before and after Easter."

"One moment," the manager replied, fixing me with a cold stare and quickly telephoning for the staff psychologist. "I'd like Mr. Boys to have a word with you."

The psychologist came running to the manager's call. In the soothing tones he reserves for the occasional case of dictaphone dithers, he asked me to go through my routine again. When I'd finished, I knew by the look in his eyes that he'd marked me down for the booby hatch.

"Now, look, Geoff," he said at length, "let's be reasonable. You don't really expect Mr. Green to fall for a gag like that, do you?"

"Why not?" I asked. "He's already fallen, and so have you."

"You're overworked, old man. Why don't you take a holiday?"

"Holiday, be hanged," I thundered. "Listen! You pay taxes, don't you? And didn't your Member of Parliament just vote himself a 2/3 increase?"

"Now, check the record of your Member. How many months in the year does the House sit? How many holidays are granted for Christmas and Easter? Finally, how often does your man say or do anything to earn his money? In fact, can you tell me for sure that he's even been in the House one day this year to earn his $10,000?"

Green gazed out the window at this point, and Boys dropped his eyes from mine.

"If you pay taxes," I continued, "you're paying that man's salary. If you're paying his salary, then you're paying for nothing. And, what's more, you two put him in there — I didn't!"

Boys and Green went into a huddle while I waited. Finally, they gave me their considered judgment.

"Your length of service and work capacity warrant a boost in pay, but not 2/3 of what you're getting now. We're willing to give you 1/3 more, however, if you'll agree to do something in return."

"What's that?" I asked defensively.

"Stop reading the daily papers and all references to members of the government. Such ideas are dangerous. Agreed?"

For a 33 1/3 per cent boost in pay, what would you do?

So did I!

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Our code of door and sidewalk manners is full of holes. It needs mending. For instance, we have such problems as . . .

1. Sidewalk Dodging. Two polite citizens meet head on. With muttered apologies, they both dodge to one side and attempt to pass. But they both dodge to the same side. They find themselves face-to-face again.

And so they feint to right and left like a pair of gamecocks fencing for an opening. Two well-synchronized sidewalk dodgers can sway back and forth for hours, until they give up in disgust and go home.

The only answer is a rule along the lines of Department of Transport air regulations, specifying whether sidewalk dodgers should peel off to port or to starboard.

2. Long Range Door-Holding. A man sees a woman coming, a long way off. She is heading for a door. So he holds it open. If the woman has good eyesight, she notices from afar that the man is holding the door open. She feels a sense of obligation. She doesn't want to keep him waiting too long.

Consequently the poor creature breaks into a run, and arrives at the door with scarcely breath enough to say "Thank you."

It is a doubtful favor to make a woman sprint 100 yards or so, perhaps straining her heart, and then expect her to thank you for it. Our new code should set a maximum distance.

3. The Human Archway. A male opens a door for a female who is coming towards him in a hurry. Because of his haste, he is compelled to thrust the door from him at arm's length. The lady has to duck under his arm, as though playing "London Bridge is Falling Down," or one of those old nursery games.

Perhaps the man would be better advised to lie down and hold the door open with his feet, allowing the lady to step gracefully over him. We need a new rule here.

4. The Bus Problem. According to the old rules, a man gets off a vehicle and offers his hand to a lady. But the rules weren't made for buses. If a man alights from a bus and offers his hand to a strange blonde, she will likely as not give him a stinging slap on the palm with her gloves, and walk on disdainfully.

But if he lets her alight first, and and she trips and is stamped into the sidewalk by a herd of pedestrians, he is a boor, or perhaps a murderer. Emily Post! Kate Aiken! Help, ho!

In a debate on the merits of front or rear license plates, a senator argued that the rear plate was more help to pursuing police, clinched his point with: "After all, most pinches are made from the rear."

HAVE YOUR COWS GOT A LAWN-MOWER FOR A MOUTH ?

Spring grass is 85% WATER, or in every 100 lbs. of grass there are 85 lbs. of water and 15 pounds of dry feed. And even if your cow had a lawn mower for a mouth, it would keep her busy to take in enough lush grass to satisfy her body's needs and make her supply of milk. Grass is just the hay you feed during the winter, minus the water and whatever proteins that have gotten into the seeds before you cut it.

Cured hay contains 15% MOISTURE, or, in every 100 lbs. of hay you have 15 lbs. of water and 85 lbs. of dry feed. If you feed 30 lbs. of hay per cow per day your cow will be getting 25 lbs. of dry feed a day.

To get 25 lbs. of dry feed out of green grass, she would have to crop off 165 lbs. of grass — an impossibility with the mouth the good Lord gave her!

Feed her BULKY LAS, DRY & FRESH or MILK CHOW to make up this shortage of dry matter, and stop her putting herself in the milk pail. Cow flesh is a power dearer to make milk with than Purina.

Won't you let us send out a supply of good PURINA today; we deliver anywhere.

Main Street Storekeeper, Mrs. Assad, Died Monday

A well known business woman of this town, Mrs. Abraham Assad, died Monday at Ste. Adele. Widow of a long-established Main Street merchant, she had carried on the business since her husband's retirement and death, continuing to assist her nephew, John Assad, when he modernized the store and took over the business. The premises were latterly rented to the Dansereau Stores, but Mrs. Assad continued to occupy her apartment. Critically ill this past winter, she had somewhat recovered her health and was staying at Ste. Adele when her death occurred.

The late Mrs. Assad was of Syrian birth, and had many friends among her fellow countryfolk in Eastern Canada. The funeral, held Wednesday in Montreal, was attended by several from Lachute and neighboring centres.

Births, Marriages, Deaths, etc.

Deadline, Wednesday, 5 p.m. (Payable in advance)

TORONTO PLANS ELEVATED HIGHWAY

—Central Press Canadian

A new era in Canadian highway construction will be born if plans for this six-lane elevated highway are accepted by the city council in Toronto. The plan, estimated to cost $50,000,000, would have the elevated expressway built along the shoreline of Lake Ontario and offer 50-mph. travel from one end of the city to the other without a stoplight. City traffic could leave the expressway at cloverleafs, and, in places, a second ramp, between ground level and the highway surface, would provide accommodation for parking 2,000 cars. The cost is expected to result in a one-mill increase in the city tax rate. Some of the expense will be accepted by the province. The highway would rival similar projects in New York, Los Angeles and Chicago. This view shows how it would appear as it passed the Maple Leaf baseball stadium.

Piano Recital Enjoyed At Brownsburg

Brownsburg — Pupils of Mrs. Robena Cumbers were heard in a piano recital at the school Monday evening. The affair was attended by a good representation of parents and friends, who commented favorably on the advancement shown by these pupils under Mrs. Cumbers' tuition. Mr. King Amos, principal of the school, expressed gratification in the number of children taking pianoforte lessons, and hoped that most of them would continue with their studies and perhaps become accomplished musicians.

Protestant School Board

BROWNSBURG, QUE.

Mr. G. King Amos, Principal of the Brownsburg Intermediate School, will be in his office on Tuesday, June 15, 9 o'clock to 11:30 in the morning and 1:30 to 3:30 in the afternoon to register the names of children for enrolment in Grade 1 for the school term commencing Sept. 7, 1954.

All parents concerned are therefore requested to be governed accordingly, so that the school board may have this information on hand for consideration.

Young Lachute Couple In Pretty Ceremony At St. Simeon's Church

Jamison - Lavis

The marriage of Margaret Jean Lavis, daughter of Arthur John Lavis and of the late Mrs. Lavis, to Gordon Campbell Jamison, son of Mrs. I. W. Jamison and of the late Mr. Jamison, took place at 3.30 p.m. Saturday, June 5, in St. Simeon's Anglican Church. The Rev. C. R. Lang performed the double-ring ceremony against a background of spring flowers. Mrs. A. W. Dawson played the wedding music and Mrs. D. K. Barbour, as soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Marion Dixon as maid of honor and by Misses Willa Murdoch and Mary Lou Hooper as bridesmaids. Mr. Thomas Jamison acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Messrs. Robert McLeod, of Montreal, and Grant Riddell, of Lachute.

The bride wore a waltz-length gown of Viennese-type lace over taffeta, having a fitted bodice and a full bouffant skirt finished with a scalloped hemline. She wore a short bolero with a small stand-up collar and long pointed sleeves. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place by a Juliet cap of matching lace, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley.

Her attendants were gowned alike in silk parkistan with low, open necklines and large collars, shirred bodices and very full skirts over crinoline — the maid of honor being in heaven blue and the bridesmaids in shrimp color. They wore large picture hats and mitts of matching net, and carried identical colonial bouquets of blue and white sweet peas.

After a reception in St. Simeon's Church hall, the bridal couple left by automobile, the bride travelling in a navy blue shantung suit with pink accessories and wearing a corsage of pink baby roses.

Transmitting God's Word

The Bible was not originally written in the English language. The prophets wrote primarily in the Hebrew language and the apostles in the Greek. Neither of these languages is spoken or read by very many English-speaking people today. Therefore, to benefit from the Bible's treasured contents, translations are necessary.

Have you obtained the noteworthy and up-to-date New World Translation in English? This fine translation is now available in two volumes, containing thus far the books from Genesis to Ruth and from Matthew to Revelation. In addition to being thoroughly understandable, enjoyable and faithful translations, they also contain excellent and valuable introductory material and appendixes together with many thousands of helpful cross references and explanatory footnotes. At only $1.50 per volume, they are of unsurpassed value, worth many times this modest sum.

DeLuxe editions of these volumes, bound in green morocco leather, and with gold-edged leaves, may be obtained for $6.50 each, postpaid. — Write The Watch Tower, 40 Irwin Ave., Toronto, Ont.

"Pioneering With Christ" Vacation School Theme

The time is here to think about Daily Vacation Bible School. People's Church, Lachute, are once again planning a two-week course (July 5 to 16) entitled "Pioneering With Christ". This course will teach children from 5 to 13 years years of age many interesting things that happened to our forefathers when they were pioneering this country.

This is a Bible-centred course which is bound to interest many more boys and girls than the number who attended last year. To start the school off, there will be a "Brandin' Time Party" in order to renew acquaintances with last year's class and to enroll the new members for this year. Encourage your children to attend this evening of fun, June 18 at 7.30, at People's Church, Legion Hall.

Illustrated Talk by Missionary from India

Miss Margaret Kennedy, who has been a Presbyterian missionary for a number of years in Central India and is now home on furlough, will address an open meeting of the W.M.S. in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, Lachute, on Wednesday, June 16, at 8 p.m. Kodachrome slides of India will be shown, and an invitation is extended to all who are interested.

Should Be "Aggressors In War of Ideas"

Christians should be the agressors in the war of ideas, Stuart D. Hemsley, of the Department of External Affairs, Ottawa, told a large audience at the Pre-Assembly Congress, Presbyterian Church in Canada. An elder in St. Andrew's Church, Ottawa, Mr. Hemsley spoke in Toronto. His subject was "The Church and the international problem".

He challenged Christians to take a lead in the war of ideas and ideals. Stressing the fact that our cultural problem is moral and spiritual, he said: "The battle against evil has to be won in the realm of the minds of men. Man needs an increase of soul to go with the tremendous increase in power that has come to his hands through science and new industrial techniques.

"There is no question," he said, "but that our technological advances during the last fifty years, and particularly the last ten years, could become capable of infinite good to mankind, if only the conscience of our lusty child, science, gets a chance to catch up with the growth of its body."

On the subject of Communism, Mr. Hemsley quoted his chief, Hon. Lester B. Pearson, as saying: "Of all the false gods that have risen to plague us in the last 75 years, Communism is probably the most dangerous and at the same time the most enticing. . . It is, in short, a perversion of a creed that the disciples might have taught and the perversion of the best is always the worst."

30th Annual Meeting, Montreal-Ottawa Conf'ce United Church of Canada

By the Rev. J. R. Watson

Last week the annual meeting of the Montreal and Ottawa Conference of the United Church of Canada was held in St. James Church, Ottawa. Reports on the various aspects of the work of the Church were presented, and plans made for the future.

The Missionary and Maintenance Fund raised $3,859,580, and the Woman's Missionary Society over $1,150,000 in 1953 to support the Mission work throughout Canada and on seven separate Overseas Missions around the world. To support this work on four of the world's five continents the Church, through the M. & M. Fund, is asking for "$4,000,000 and more in '54", together with a further increase in the W.M.S. allocations. Of the M. & M. objective, the Montreal and Ottawa Conference has been asked to raise $466,000 and more, an approximate increase of 10%.

Among the other reports it was noted that the United Church through the Board of Evangelism and Social Service, had presented a brief to the Parliamentary Committee on "Changes in Canada's Criminal Code," particularly those sections dealing with lotteries and gambling, and capital and corporal punishment.

Three well-attended evening services were held during Conference. On Monday a Communion service was held, when Rt. Rev. A. A. Scott, D.D., Moderator of the General Council, preached the sermon. On Tuesday the laymen conducted a Family Service, with Dr. Harry Denman as speaker. The Ordination service was held Wednesday evening, when five young men were ordained to the ministry, part of some 80-90 who will be ordained by the 11 Conferences of the United Church.

The noon-day devotional addresses were given by Dr. Harry Denman, of the Board of Evangelism of the Methodist Church in the U.S.A. His theme was based on the words of Jesus, "Follow thou Me," and laid stress on the world's need of Christian witnesses who knew Christ as Saviour and Lord, and who were aware of His eternal presence and power in life.

The Conference president was the Rev. C. H. Ferguson, of Kemptville, Ont. During the sessions the Rev. C. D. Donald, D.D., of Southminster Church, Ottawa, was elected president for the new Conference year.

Tigers Take 15-9 Win Against Sorel Team

A leading offensive of 14 hits on the part of the Lachute Tigers against Sorel Tuesday evening gave the home team a 15-9 win. Total count showed 27 runs, 27 hits and 7 errors.

Best man at bat for the Tigers was Manager Gerry Cotnoir, who knocked out two home runs, making five points. Hardy hit a double, Dubé three singles, and Stobbs, Groulx, Bougie each had two hits; Gohier and Ballow each got singles. René Valois hit a homer for the losers, but the bases were empty at the time.

The Tigers scored in all innings except the third and seventh. Ballow led off pitching for the Tigers, but was replaced by Robitaille after allowing nine hits in just over six innings. He got credit for the win nevertheless, while DeGregorio took onus for the loss.

Jimmy Connors Fete At Rigaud Park

The racing program scheduled for Rigaud Park last Sunday was postponed on account of rain, and will be held this Sunday with the same classes, including a Junior Free-for-All for the best racing horses of the district.

Several owners from the Cornwall and Ottawa regions presently at Blue Bonnets or Richelieu, will be on hand with their pacers to honor Jimmy Connors, long-time friend of district horse fanciers, who is now over 60. The Rigaud Park track directors, as a token of recognition for all that Jimmy has done to promote the sport hereabouts, will make several presentations before he quits the harness racing game. All enthusiasts therefore are invited.

The fine program will include entries by St. Jacques and Joly, of Lachute, with other star names from the stables of neighboring counties, both Ontario and Quebec.

Wrestling Called Off

A number of fans were disappointed when the wrestling program, billed for last Friday evening at the Brownsburg Arena, was called off due to insufficient attendance. The slim crowd had their money refunded when it was announced the show was suspended.

Amateur Assocn. Resolves "Best Possible" Line-Up To Recover Hockey Crown

By Gerry Lougheed
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's amateur hockey bosses have decided that boys should not be sent to do a man's job at the world hockey championships next winter.

Criticized for selecting a Senior B team which lost to Russia in the final round of the 1954 tournament at Stockholm, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association says it is going to select a team of the "highest possible calibre" to represent Canada next time.

The CAHA annual meeting last month came to the conclusion it would go all out for the 1955 event for prestige purposes — dipping into the association's reserve fund if necessary. There was talk of making one supreme effort at the next tournament, wining back the international crown and then withdrawing from the event.

Sending a team to Europe is a costly affair — often the receipts from pre-tournament games don't meet the travelling expenses — and removing a team from league competition here disrupts playing schedules.

Best of Crop

CAHA delegates voted to give the executive the job of selecting the best possible team. The interested clubs will have until the end of this month to apply.

The executive will choose what appears to be the strongest squad, then build around it with reinforcement players from CAHA branches anywhere in the Dominion.

The final Canadian team, bearing the name of the "backbone" outfit, would be a sort of all-star club. It would play together for a month or six weeks in this country, then play a European tour before the championship.

Expenses played a big part in the selection of Toronto East Yorks to represent Canada last winter. The CAHA said teams of senior A calibre were willing to make the trip but they wanted to be reimbursed for the gates they would lose by being absent for their own league competition, and their players wanted hockey salaries and compensation for being absent from work.

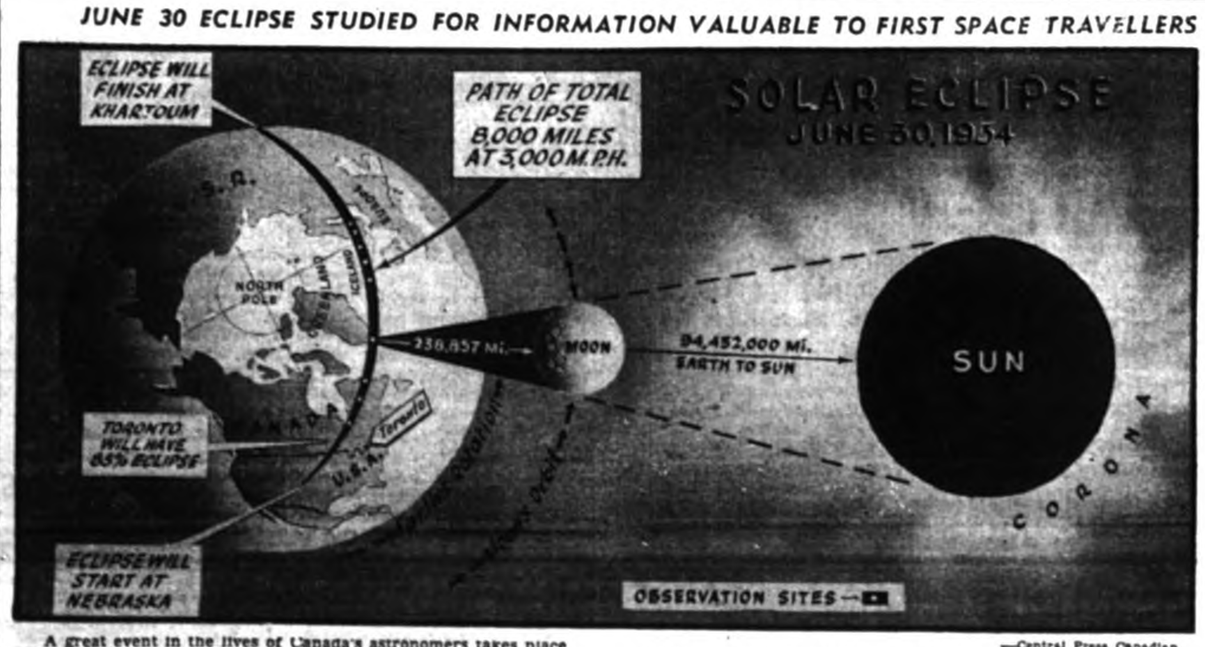

East Yorks, operating in the less costly senior B set-up, represented the best deal from a financial viewpoint. "Spare no expense" will be the policy next time.

Said George Dudley, CAHA secretary manager: "Don't worry about the expense — let us even resort to the reserve fund if necessary to show the best for one year only."

And Ed Benson, first vice-president of the CAHA's British Columbia branch: "The crux of the matter is should we get out of what has become a political hot potato . . . or are we prepared to spend money to go all out."

The decision on the team make-up follows the precedent of 1952 when only eight members of the original Edmonton Mercurys team — a senior B club — made the European trip. The other players were selected from top calibre players in other centres willing to make the trip. They came home with the championship.

JUNE 30 ECLIPSE STUDIED FOR INFORMATION VALUABLE TO FIRST SPACE TRAVELLERS

A great event in the lives of Canada's astronomers takes place on June 30 when an eclipse of the sun will take place. The eclipse, which will cause a shadow to race at 3,000 miles an hour through the U.S., Canada and Norway to end at Khartoum, will be studied by scientists stationed along its path. Of particular interest will be the huge fingers of exploding gases which leap from the sun's surface and are most clearly seen during an eclipse caused by the moon getting in the path of the sun's light rays. Astronomers and physicists are now seriously seeking information on the matter flying through space, information that will be valuable to the first space traveller or space station.

N.H.L. Statistics

Final N.H.L. statistics for the last hockey season are available for the writing, according to Ken McKenzie, the league's Publicity Director. The eight-page folder gives the final standings, individual scoring and penalty records, goalkeepers' records, total Club penalties, as well as all play-off statistics and results.

To obtain one of these statistical cards, simply write: Information Bureau, National Hockey League, 603 Sun Life Building, Montreal.

New Fish Book Is Argument Settler

For the first time anglers may settle arguments and positively identify freshwater fish of Quebec and vicinity, except a few minnows, by referring to a book published in English. Vianney Legendre, whose original work in French a year ago has drawn commendations from anglers and fish scientists in three continents, has now produced an extended version of his work in translation.

"Key to Game and Commercial Fishes of the Province of Quebec" is pioneer work. Prepared specifically for fishwardens, its compactness and completeness make it an indispensable pocket compendium for all who go fishing for sport, commerce or science.

In 100 pages, 6 by 8 inches, with a three-color cover and bound in durable, water resistant plastic, the present volume includes a detailed introduction completely outlining the method and listing the fishes, an identification key, an illustrated glossary of special terms and 200 pictures, from thumbnail sketches to full-page plates. A foreword to the English edition has been contributed by the well known Canadian writer on outdoor topics, George H. Carpenter.

New to this edition are three specially prepared maps of the province and immediate environs showing in five colors the areas in which the best known species of fish are to be found.

This volume is obtainable at Canadian Society of Ecology, D'613, University of Montreal, 2900 Mount Royal Blvd., Montreal, Que. Postpaid: $2.

City Under the Ice

Miriam Newman, in the role of young newspaper woman named Cora, got herself into a peck of trouble when she stowed away on a space ship and ended up in the grip of some "mole men" in a strange city beneath the antarctic ice. Attempting to rescue her here are her space-ship colleagues Majors Will Brant and Archy Porter (played by Arthur Hartling and Clive Scheafer). But the three of them will get a surprise when they see "The Black Mask" (Clyde Douglas) waving a businesslike revolver in their ears. It's all part of the fun on the current radio series "City under the Ice" which is being produced every Wednesday at CBC's Halifax studios and relayed by the Trans-Canada network to adventure-loving kids right out to the west coast.

Quick Canadian Quiz

1. Farmers of which province produce the most wool?
2. Since 1939 what industry has doubled its number of employees, now far exceeds all others in providing employment in Canada?
3. Canadians spent how much in 1953 on new housing?
4. Where in Canada are the St Elias Mountains?
5. Last year did Canadians pay more to Ottawa through individual income taxes or through corporation income taxes?

ANSWERS: 5. Almost the same, $1,280 million individual income taxes, $1,249 million corporation income taxes. 3. A billion dollars, an all-time record amount. 1. Alberta. 4. Partly in British Columbia, partly in the Yukon. 2. Manufacturing.

CURRENT SHOWS AND ENTERTAINMENT

Television Prospects

Ottawa (CP) — Revenue Minister McCann says the government will retain its policy of one television station in any area — whether CBC or privately-owned. It may change later. But he said in reply to Opposition criticism, that this policy remains "for a further period" of time.

He gave no hint how long this would be, but added: "It may not be long before there is sufficient degree of national coverage to justify the government and the CBC giving consideration to permitting two and perhaps in some cases more than two stations in certain areas."

Opposition leader Drew said Canadians are paying enormous sums for a television policy which isn't doing the job the government said it would. Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton) and Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC-MacLeod) described it as a monopoly for the CBC which places freedom in jeopardy. Under the policy, the six major population centres — Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver — are reserved for exclusive CBC television.

TV Film Interviews With A Famous Canadian

One of Canada's oldest and most distinguished citizens, Joseph Burr Tyrrell, of Toronto, will appear on CBC-TV in a series of three short filmed interviews with Percy Saltzman, to be presented on "Tabloid" June 10, 11 and 12.

The films were made at the Walmer Road home in Toronto of the famous Canadian geologist, mining engineer, explorer and scholar, who is 95 years old.

In the first film, to be seen Thursday evening, Dr. Tyrrell recalls the year 1897, when news of a fabulous gold strike in the Yukon was flashed around the world, and his experiences in 1898 when the Geological Survey sent him to Dawson City. He speaks of his trip to the Yukon, the way of life in that outpost settlement during the gold rush, the arrival of his wife and daughter to join him, the warmth and good humor of the miners.

Finally he points out that he is eight years older than Canada itself, having been born at Weston, near Toronto, late in 1858. He remembers his thoughts upon graduating from the University of Toronto. At that time Canada was little more than a thin strip of newly-discovered land with nothing to the north and the U.S. to the south.

From 1884-87 Dr. Tyrrell was in charge of a party surveying and exploring the surface and the mineral resources of Alberta, from the Bow River to the Saskatchewan. His subsequent report and map were standards of reference for many years, as he points out in the second film, to be seen on Friday. During the three years Dr. Tyrrell explored the coal seams on the banks of the Red Deer River, at and near Drumheller, where large coal mines have since been opened; and not far away he found the first dinosaur skull to be unearthed in Canada.

Dr. Tyrrell's father was a friend and associate of some of the Fathers of Confederation and in the final interview he will talk about the attitude of Parliament at the turn of the century. He will also recall his journey through the Barren Lands, in which he was preceded by only one other explorer, Samuel Hearne — 100 years earlier. He remembers living without fire during this trip and describes the taste of polar-bear meat.

MONTREAL GROUP "SCORES A HIT" IN DOMINION DRAMA FESTIVAL

—Central Press Canadian

For the second time running, a Montreal company, La Nouvelle Equipe, presenting a Canadian-authored French language play, won top honors at the 15th annual Dominion Drama festival held at Hamilton, Ont. "Le Roi David," a five-act dramatic treatment of the Biblical story of David and Bathsheba, written by Jean Filiatrault, was awarded the Calvert trophy and a cash prize of $1,000 as the best production in the festival by Mr. Hugh Hunt, the English director and playwright who came to Canada to adjudicate eight plays. In addition to the Calvert award, Mr. Hunt presented the Henry Osborne Challenge trophy, for the best male performance of the festival, to Gordon Robertson of the Kingston Domino Players, seen at left with his wife, for his performance as the fractious Christopher Mahon in "The Ulayboy of the Western World." The Nella Jeffris Challenge trophy, for the best female performance went to Edna Pozer, at right, who played Jennet Jourdemayne in Calgary's "The Lady's Not For Burning."

"BLUEBOTTLE" IN CANADA

London — The Royal racing yacht "Bluebottle" arrived in Montreal last week with her 41-year-old skipper Lt. Cdr. R. Hewitt, R.N. She will take part in races on Lake St. Louis and in Toronto later this month.

Organized Vacation Tours To Canadian Arctic

Tourists Assured of Exciting Tours North of Chesterfield Inlet

Gore Bay, Ont. (CP) — A Manitoulin Island doctor will open the Canadian East Arctic to summer vacationists this year for the first time. Organized tours, called snow safaris, will include icefield navigation, exploring, prospecting, and polar bear, walrus and white whale hunts.

Dr. Joseph P. Moody, 32, head of the Indian health services hospital at Manitowaning, will lead the two safaris leaving Winnipeg in June and August.

In 1946, Dr. Moody was appointed as Canadian government medical officer in Keewatin district and was assigned to the post at Chesterfield Inlet, 400 miles north of Churchill, Man. He spent four years travelling 10,000 miles in the Arctic treating white, Eskimo and Indian inhabitants.

Produced Color Film

His work in the north produced "Arctic Wonderland", a 90-minute color film on his travels, and "Patients on Ice", a forthcoming book written in collaboration with W. de van Embden, a travel writer.

He plans now to retrace his steps and convert the paths to his former patients into a commercial venture to attract scientists, explorers, prospectors and tourists.

The 17-day tour will cost $1,575 round trip from Winnipeg to Roes Welcome Camp, the safari's headquarters, 100 miles north of Chesterfield Inlet. A cook will prepare American and Eskimo dishes.

Each safari will accommodate 24 persons between the ages of 18 and 25.

Annual Feature Of Interest At Lachute Fair

As closely identified with the Lachute area as all its exhibits of livestock, crafts and handiwork — is the year-round service work of the Lions Club, of which the Meteor car at the Fair Grounds this week is a symbol. Prominently placed on its platform near the main entrance, this is now a regular attraction at the Spring Fair — where, by courtesy of the Agricultural Society directors, the club derives a certain publicity to its work and promotes ticket sales on this annual fund-raising feature. The sympathetic co-operation of all fair-goers is solicited. The Lions Club counts on Fair Week for a considerable boost to the success of this drawing.

District branches of the Club are participating in the venture, which will conclude with the Lions' Pro Golf Tournament, taking place this year at Lakeshore Golf Club on July 31 and August 1. On the latter day the drawing will be held for the 1954 Meteor, an RCA-Victor television set, and 20 other attractive prizes.

In addition, for the benefit of local subscribers, there will be a special drawing this Saturday evening at Lachute Fair of a Crosley television set, awarded to a ticket-holder who has subscribed through Lachute Lions Club. (In the same spirit of co-operation, this television has been supplied at cost price by T. McOuat & Son Ltd., local dealers.)

The friendly support of all passers-by will be appreciated, and will be translated by the Lions into terms of charity and service work for this community.

CENTENNIAL CHOIR

Guelph, Ont. (CP) — A mass choir of more than 200 voices is being planned for the dedication of a cairn to be placed in front of the new Wellington County registry office. The ceremony July 17 will conclude three-day celebrations of the county centennial.

HISTORIC MARKS

Foremost, Alta. (CP) — A prairie fire that burned over about 100 acres in this southern Alberta district uncovered a number of Indian "teepee circles," clusters of rocks left by early tribes on the prairies.

London — A contemporary colored aquatint described as "View of City of Quebec, Capital of Canada", viewed from a rock on Pont Levi by Wm. Peachy on October 23, 1784, will be among the many interesting items on view at the Antique Dealers Fair, to be held in London from June 9-24.

Sturdy Ship Tends Labrador Hospitals

Lunenburg, N.S. (CP) — Some day soon, when the ice has begun to clear away from the rugged Labrador coastline, the Nellie A. Cluett will slip out of harbor here and point her bows northward.

She'll be starting her 13th summer of tending Grenfell Mission hospitals and nursing stations in isolated outposts. The Nellie Cluett carries coal, groceries and medical supplies too bulky to be brought in by dog team or plane. In repeated trips during the summer she'll build up a stockpile of supplies that will carry the settlements through next winter.

The Nellie is only 145 feet long grossing 350 tons, but she's the lifeline of the Grenfell organization. The vessel is in the experienced hands of Capt. Kennedy Iversen, a veteran of 25 summers supplying the Arctic.

The Grenfell missions were started by Sir Wilfred Grenfell, an English missionary doctor who died in 1940.

Wholesome goodness in each frosty bottle

Just like generations of Canadians before them, young folks love Coke!

When churning legs and high spirits slow down for a pause, watch the boys and girls reach for a frosty bottle—see the smiles of anticipation—the pleasure as they taste its sparkling delights.

Coke is pure as sunlight. The water that goes into Coca-Cola is treated and made neutral to taste to protect the delicate flavor of the drink. The ingredients are the finest obtainable in the markets of the world. And in our plant, lines of stainless steel carry sparkling-clean bottles to be filled and crowned under the eyes of trained personnel. The flavor of Coca-Cola is world famous . . . the quality continuous for 68 years.

Women's Interests -- The Homemaker's Section

Freezing Foods

Not long ago the home economists of the Consumer Section gave a demonstration in Montreal on the freezing of foods. Following the demonstration there was a very animated question and answer period. It was felt that probably homemakers in all parts of Canada would have some of the same questions as did the Montreal ladies. These questions should interest all homemakers who own home freezers or who rent frozen food lockers. . . The Consumer Section booklet "Freezing Foods" contains a great deal of information about frozen foods and everyone should have a copy — procurable fro mthe Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

"What is the difference between a freezer, a refrigerator and a combination freezer-refrigerator?" The difference is this — a freezer or a home freezer whichever you prefer to call it, is a piece of equipment which is specially constructed for freezing foods and which will keep food frozen for long periods. In other words, it operates at a temperature below freezing. A refrigerator, on the other hand, is a piece of equipment constructed for keeping foods cool and which will keep food fresh for short periods. So the difference is — the freezer keeps food frozen for long periods, the refrigerator keeps food cool for short periods. The combination refrigerator-freezer is a piece of equipment which is primarily a refrigerator, but it has a special compartment where frozen foods may be either frozen or stored. Usually this compartment is designed mainly as a storage space for keeping food which has already been frozen rather than for freezing foods.

Another question: "What is the meaning of the word 'quick-freeze'?" The Oxford dictionary explains the word "freeze" as to convert into or cover with ice; to become rigid as a result of cold or to fasten to or together by frost. From that we can readily see that quick-freeze means to convert to or cover with ice quickly. We know that water freezes at 32°F., but the lower the temperature is, the quicker the water freezes. When foods are frozen slowly, large ice crystals are formed, but when they are frozen quickly, small ice crystals are formed and it is the small crystals we want in frozen food. Hence in modern freezing practice, food is frozen quickly so that the ice crystals are small. That explanation should clear up the matter of why we freeze quickly.

And next this question, "When you bring home frozen fruits and vegetables from your locker or from the store, how long can you keep them in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator before having them deteriorate in any way?" That is rather a hard question to answer, because many homemakers have refrigerators of slightly ancient vintage where the freezing compartment is small and perhaps does not have a door on it. In that case, the food may stay completely frozen or only one part of it may stay frozen. If the refrigerator is in that category, it is not advisable to try to keep frozen food for any length of time. It should be used right away because thawed food will spoil quickly. However, if the freezing compartment of the refrigerator will keep the food completely frozen, then it is safe to keep it perhaps a week or even two weeks. But the two weeks is recommended only if the food can be kept frozen while the refrigerator is defrosting. If the refrigerator is the combination freezer - refrigerator mentioned earlier, then follow the storage times recommended in the manufacturer's book which was received with it.

The woman motorist was trying to navigate a traffic jam. She rammed the car in front of her, then tried to back and knocked down a pedestrian. Then she tried to move over to the curb and smacked into a hydrant. A policeman came up.

"Okay, lady, let's see your license," he demanded.

"Don't be silly," she grunted, "who'd give me a license?"

Little Jean was watching her mother spread cold cream on her face.

"What's that for, mummy?" she asked.

"It's to make me beautiful, darling," replied her mother.

Jean watched her mother remove the cream, then, in tones of great sadness, whispered:

"It didn't work, did it?"

Butter Cookies

In the active summer season, the children seem to come home absolutely ravenous, and the cookie jar needs to be well filled. We all know that the liberal use of butter adds a flavor to foods that we just cannot seem to obtain in any other way. And what better way to fill the cookie jar than with cookies made with good Canadian butter.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Ottawa, remind you that butter cookies need not be expensive. Some butter cookies are very rich and are naturally more costly, but that does not necessarily say that all butter cookies need be expensive. The three cookie recipes listed below are for cookies made with butter. The figures show the relative costs of making them with butter, with margarine, with vegetable shortening or with half butter and half shortening. From the comparison it is certainly easy to see that the butter cookies are not expensive. Next time you are shopping compare the cost of these cookies, when you make them yourself, with the cost of the ready-made product, which by the way is probably made of vegetable shortening.

Incidentally, each or all of these cookies are perfect to serve with icy fruit sherbets, ice cream, desserts or fresh fruits with cream.

Butterscotch Oat Squares

2 Cups quick rolled oats, 1 teaspoon baking powder, pinch of salt, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup butter or shortening, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Combine rolled oats, baking powder and salt. Add brown sugar and mix thoroughly. Add melted butter and vanilla, blending thoroughly. Spread thinly in two 8"x8" ungreased cake pans. Bake in a moderately hot oven — 275°F. until golden brown, about 10 minutes. Remove from oven. Let stand 5 minutes. Cut in squares or bars with a sharp knife. Allow to cool thoroughly before removing bars from pans.

Makes 40 squares 1½ x 1"

Approximate cost per dozen:

With butter — approximately 8 cents per dozen.

With half butter and half shortening — 6½ cents.

With vegetable shortening — 5½ cents.

Lace Cookies

1 Cup quick rolled oats, 1 cup white sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon baking powder, 1 egg beaten, ½ cup melted butter or shortening, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon almond.

Drop by half teaspoons, about 3 inches apart on buttered baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven. Remove from pan while warm.

Makes six dozen 2½" cookies.

Approximate cost per dozen:

With butter — approximately 5 cents per dozen.

With half butter and half shortening — 4 cents.

With vegetable shortening — 3½ cents.

With margarine — 3½ cents.

Raspberry Jam Squares

½ Cup white sugar, 1 cup all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, salt (pinch), grated rind of 1 lemon, 1/3 cup shortening, 1 egg, 1/2 cup raspberry jam.

Cut shortening or butter and add egg (beaten). Put 2/3 in greased pan 7" x 7". Put 1 2 cup of raspberry jam by spoonfuls, then spread remainder of mixture over jam. Bake at 350°F. about 20 minutes or until slightly browned.

Makes 25 squares 1" x 1".

Approximate cost per dozen:

With butter — approximately 17 cents per dozen.

With half butter and half shortening — 16 cents.

With vegetable shortening — 14 cents.

With margarine — 15 cents.

N.B. This recipe was made with pure commercial jam. Home-made jam would be less expensive.

Do not sear a roast of veal in a hot oven; this just makes the surface hard and dry. Roast the veal in a moderately slow oven 325°F. for 40-45 minutes per pound. When it is done, it will be well browned.

Mrs. A. G. Leggett Reports on Q.W.I. Health - Welfare

Ste. Anne de Bellevue — The Quebec Women's Institutes increased its branches to 104 in the past year, Mrs. H. G. Taylor, told the annual board meeting preceding the Institute's convention last week-end at Macdonald College.

The Institute's 3,000 membership remained steady "Although we are not a money-making organization," Mrs. Taylor said, "$28,769 was raised by members."

Health-Welfare Report

Mrs. A. George Leggett, of Lachute, provincial convener for the health and welfare committee, told the board meeting that "the work accomplished for health and welfare by members of these 20 counties in the province has been outstanding. Nurses, health nurses and supervisors also have given freely of their time and talents to encourage others in this all-out effort to make our communities healthier and to help welfare work."

Hospitals, she continued, came in for a great deal of attention, and schools received donations of money for students' luncheons; Red Cross was supported; demonstrations were sponsored in first-aid, and donations were made to welfare services and hospitals.

Miss Verna I. Hatch, of Sherbrooke, convener for education, said nine branches sponsored libraries and "nearly all branches support bursaries, either individually or as a county project."

Reporting for the committee on agriculture, Mrs. Gordon Brown, of Cowansville, said 17 counties, representing 90 branches, reported on their agricultural activities. School fairs, she said, are popular and are carried on with the help of the Quebec Department of Agriculture.

Reports also were read on citizenship and publicity.

In the first electronic range designed for home kitchens a cake bakes in three minutes, a potato in five, a 16-pound turkey roasts in an hour and a quarter, reports the current Reader's Digest. Bacon is broiled on a paper plate, with a paper napkin underneath to absorb the grease. No pots to wash, since food is cooked on dishes on which it is to be served.

Roses for Brides and Graduates

The world's largest grower of flowers under glass is the Dale Estate of Brampton, Ont., where 8,000,000 roses are grown each year. June 13 to 19 is Rose Week in Canada to celebrate the vast production of roses for girl graduates and June brides. May Genno and June Stevens visit the rose section of the 32-miles of flowers grown under glass by the Dale Estate. Annual output is 15,000,000 blooms.

To Get More Sleep

Ten hints on how to sleep well are given by British science writer, Chapman Pincher, in his new book, "How To Get More Sleep".

He advises: shed your worries before you shed your clothes; go to sleep early enough to get all the sleep you need; go to bed with a satisfied but not overburdened stomach; ensure complete darkness in the bedroom; fix that dripping tap and that noisy cistern; take pains to make yourself as comfortable as possible in bed; never count sheep; try deliberately relaxing your muscles; try to convince yourself that you will go to sleep; if you still have a few bad nights, don't worry, and do not be scared to take sleeping drugs if these are prescribed by your doctor and you keep meticulously to his dosage.

Q.W.I. Bursaries To Macdonald College

The Quebec Women's Institutes has released the names of the winners of the awards offered annually at Macdonald College. These were announced at the annual board meeting of that organization, held at the College this week.

Miss J. M. Wideman, Deschenes, who is entering the third year of the B.Sc. (H.Ec.) course, wins the Frederica Campbell MacFarlane Memorial Scholarship, and the Mrs. Alfred Watt Memorial Scholarship goes to Miss Jean Fairley, Riverbend, going on to her final year. These awards go only to girls from rural districts of this Province.

The bursary, offered in the first year of the Diploma Course in Agriculture to the highest ranking student from a farm who is continuing on for the second year, was awarded to Mr. W. R. Elliott, Howick.

The Q.W.I. congratulates the winners and knows these young people will maintain the high standard already established in their studies.

Mother's Vacation

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Oh dear, I could do with a splendid holiday
In a complete vacuum."

— From Christopher Fry's
"The Lady's Not for Burning"

Vacation plans are in the minds of everyone. Half the fun of a holiday lies in anticipating its joys. Son is talking about camp or working on a farm. Daughter is looking forward to a trip or to her best chum visiting with her at the family cottage. Dad is overhauling his fishing tackle — but what about mother?

The hours of the average homemakers are much longer than those of women in any other occupation. There is nothing new about this — but there is an increased tempo in modern living and greater demands on mother's reserve energy.

To far too many homemakers, the summer months are the most taxing ones of the whole year. Shopping for additions to the summer outfits for all the family — remodelling last year's clothes, figuring out costs of vacation plans, plus extra outlay for entertainment of guests, trying out new menus to tempt flagging appetites in the torrid weather, who would choose to fill a mother's role during July and August?

What can be done about this situation? Just accepting an unsatisfactory summer for mother in so far as any real change from her regular household duties is decidedly unfair. Mother needs a vacation as much as anyone. Feeling sorry for herself is exhausting for her emotional health. All summer the constant heavy demands on her physical reserves frequently leave her very little optimism or energy for the Autumn work.

Every household has its own peculiar set-up and so contrasting solutions appeal to different homemakers. But the very fact that her partner in marriage is tackling this knotty point with her will put new heart into mother.

In one home Monday Wash Day during the summer months without the usual outside help paid by the hour invariably ended up with mother laid low with a sick headache brought on by fatigue. A decision to send out the washing to a commercial laundry proved to be an excellent investment in mother's health. One husband bought a much needed new combination washing and drying machine as a summer surprise for his wife. Still another family, with school age children at home, were organized by Dad to give Mother more help with the housework, especially on Wash Day.

A family trip still leaves mother with the major responsibility for supervising the children and keeping them from distracting dad's attention when he is driving. A carefree vacation for mother and dad, without their children, is strongly advocated by many marriage counsellors. This is an excellent cement for a happy partnership. Mother and father have a chance to talk without interruption from the "small fry". They can recall their honeymoon days and discover in a new way what good company the other person is!

This plan is difficult to carry out when the children are pre-school age unless their is a willing granny, aunt or housekeeper whom the youngsters know and love who will "double" for mother. Little folk are usually looked after by a mother-substitute in their own home, following their usual routine.

But once boys and girls are of school age, a camp holiday for son and daughter sometimes leaves the parents free to vacation together. In some families a "barter" arrangement has worked out. Ellen Johnston looked after the Brown's children for a week while their parents got away in July. Then in August, June Brown took on Ellen's twins, and for the first time in ten years, mother and father Johnston went holidaying alone together.

"Where there is a will there is a way!" has proved to be a sensible saying. Mother needs a vacation. Father and the children, if they are determined to give her a bit of a holiday, can surely manage it!

MODERN ALUMINUM alloys seem tough enough to take almost anything. For instance, one manufacturer uses aluminum for those little electrically driven cars the kids love to climb into at carnivals and fairs. The idea is to whirl around at high speed exchanging spine-shattering bumps with other "motorists". They actually stand up under this treatment (the cars, we mean). Our own Alcan researchers are constantly developing and testing new applications, better products, improved production techniques. There's always something new in aluminum! BEER ON WHISKEY

Someday someone should make a collection of "old wives tales" about health. They would fill a book, and if they were properly answered, the book would advance public health anywhere from 100 to 1000 years.

There are still people extant who believe

1. That smallpox vaccination can produce syphilis;
2. That aluminum dinnerware can produce cancer;
3. That fluoridination of water supplies is a form of mass-poisoning.

Etcetera, etcetera. One can go on enumerating these as long as the paper mills can go on turning out paper.

The subject of alcoholism has produced more of these old wives tales, probably, than any other health subject. One function of the Alcoholism Committee of the Health League is to knock these in the head as fast as they spring up. Alcoholism can be prevented but only by looking at alcohol squarely and honestly and not through a haze of word-of-mouth myths.

Question:

"Is there any truth in the saying 'Beer on Whiskey, pretty risky. Whiskey on Beer; never fear.' Of course I know that the 'never fear' is exaggerated, but is it based on any truth at all? Or have I got it the wrong way round? Don't say 'alcohol is risky, period,' because that's not the answer to my question."

Answer:

It is related to the well-established idea that there is more danger in mixing drinks. Actually the danger from drinking is either from drinking too much and obtaining blood alcohol levels that have serious anaesthetic effects, or because one might have an atypical, uncontrollable reacation to alcohol. There is no particular safety or danger from a medical standpoint in drinking beer first and whiskey later, or vice versa, except under the conditions mentioned.

* * *

"SNEAKY PETE"

Question:

"Does fortified wine like muscatel have anything in it besides alcohol that makes it more dangerous than whiskey or beer or natural wine? I have seen people called "Winos", mostly in the far west, who are popularly supposed to be in worse shape than other kinds of alcoholics because of the effects of 'Sneaky Pete' (their name for muscatel). They are usually dreamy and gentle and utterly useless mentally and physically — more like hopheads than ordinary drunks."

Answer:

To the best of my knowledge, fortified wines do not contain other ingredients which make them more dangerous than whiskey, beer or natural wines. Most people who could be called "Winos" have had a deterioration in their tolerance for alcohol. Accordingly they experience anaesthetic effects from smaller amounts of alcohol than most people. Fortified wines are natural wines fortified with pure ethyl alcohol, and are the least expensive ways of procuring alcohol in the form of a social beverage. The serious effects produced by wine would be produced by any other alcoholic beverage that would achieve a comparable level of alcohol in the body.

by Ald. W. Cousineau concerning parking on Chatham Street, was tabled for further study. Ald. J. Charlebois asked that the Police Chief give special surveillance to the parking restriction on Millway from Fish's Bridge to Harbour Pharmacy, also to vehicles speeding on Hamford Street.

Ald. Morrissette, seconded by Ald. Charlebois, proposed that 200 chairs be loaned to the Exhibition management, and that the water supply be attended to, as required.

Authorization was given to Police Chief L. Ducharme to organize a street parade during the Highway Safety Campaign, June 1-15.

Application from a firm desiring to install parking meters, was held for consideration. The Mayor suggested that proprietors on Main Street be consulted and a petition be circulated if the idea was sufficiently commendable.

Paul Lamarche, Hawkesbury, and Rosco Metal Products, Montreal, had tenders for metal signs, which were filed for reference. The Police Committee was commissioned to purchase necessary signs, Chairman R. Muir to report back at next regular meeting. It was noted that the tender from the Montreal firm did not conform to the local requirements.

The Mayor suggested an "industrial committee" to confer with directors of a company interested in locating here. The Mayor, Aldermen Muir and Cousineau were named to this assignment.

Mayor Lafleur also stated he had been approached by a Mr. Houle with an idea to print maps of the town, free, carrying advertising from local merchants. Applicant, however, asked exemption from the $22.50 business tax. It was ruled that, if Mr. Houle wished to proceed with this venture, he must pay the tax.

Expenses of $15 per day were voted to Police Chief Ducharme, to attend the annual Police and Fire Chiefs' Convention, on July 5-8 at Rivière du Loup.

Offer of services and equipment for waterworks installations, received from Orient Menard, St. Jerome, was filed for future reference. A tender for pipe from Arc Supply Company was rejected since the contract had been awarded to R. McArthur & Son Ltd., and date for the acceptance of tenders was past.

The month's vouchers were passed for payment; on this point the new Police Committee chairman was reminded all expenditures in that department must bear his signature and authorization.

Building permits were granted to three applicants — René Lauzon, Lachute Lumber & Millwork, and Roland Lamarche—under approval of the Roads Committee.

The regular session was then adjourned.

Change in Calumet Bank Managership

F. J. Paul Jobin left his customary position here recently to succeed J. L. A. Ranger as manager of the Bank of Montreal's Calumet branch. Mr. Jobin has served as accountant of the Lachute office since 1951. Mr. Ranger becomes manager of the B of M. branch at Mont Joli.

F. J. Paul Jobin

A native of St. Cesaire, Que., Mr. Jobin joined the bank at his home town in 1926. He served at several branches of the bank before he was appointed accountant at Buckingham in 1947. Four and a half years later he was transferred, in the same capacity, to Lachute.

During his banking career Mr. Jobin has played a part in community affairs at the many points at which he has been stationed. At Buckingham he was president of the Lions Club for 1951-52 and was treasurer of the Papineau County advisory board of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. In Lachute he was appointed treasurer of l'Association de la Jeunesse Sportive in 1951, and has been an active member on various committees of the Curling Club.

J. L. A. Ranger

In 1946, he was appointed accountant here at Lachute, and in 1947 was transferred to Sorel in a similar capacity. Two and a half years later he became accountant-in-charge of the Calumet branch, and in 1951 was appointed manager of the branch.

Active in local affairs, Mr. Ranger was secretary of both the Sorel Chamber of Commerce and the Regional Chambers of Commerce (Richelieu and Vercheres Counties).

Manager Transferred

Mr. Ranger, who joined the Bank of Montreal 26 years ago, leaves Calumet after three and a half years' service at the branch.

business manager of a Toronto engineering company.

Basically it teaches liberal arts and in a short time Cartier expects bachelor of arts degrees will be offered. It also teaches pre-medicine and pre-nursing.

College Has 61 Students On Co-op Basis

Students Cook Own Meals and Look After Dormitories in British Columbia School

Nelson, B.C. (CP) — Notre Dame College here, like its counterpart at Wilcox, Sask., offers an education at low cost and students cook their own meals, clean their dormitories and desks and do other chores.

Board and room costs only $35 a month. Tuition fees for first year Arts are $60.

This year the college received a federal grant. It is the fast-expanding dream of A. L. Cartier, Toronto, who aims to bring higher education within the reach of interior British Columbia's young people.

In four years the junior college has increased its student population five times, jumped from senior matriculation to third year arts and moved three times, from an abandoned bakery to a parish hall, to an $80,000 pre-fabricated school on one of Nelson's best land sites.

"Education isn't just for the monied but the willing," said Cartier. The school is on a co-operative basis and students do almost everything for themselves.

Students are not barred because they can't pay the fees. They are encouraged to come anyway. One student is from Ontario.

Cartier spent a year at Notre Dame College, Wilcox, Sask., as a teacher after giving up his job as

Canadian Stability Lures South African

Vancouver (CP)—Roy Makepeace, 28-year-old industrial consultant and psychology professor from South Africa, believes that if a man can't "make good" in Canada he "can't anywhere."

Tired of his country's racial fight and economic instability, Makepeace chose Canada as his new home "because it had the most to offer."

"I didn't expect," he said upon his arrival here from Port Elizabeth recently, "that you should pick up diamonds in the river, as you might in my country. But you have something better, stability and an unlimited economic future."

Commenting on his country's problems, the university professor said that although South Africa is a "fine country geographically, it has such a tough racial fight on its hands that stable conditions seem a long way off."

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. I have a job as a stevedore and sometimes work 24 hours right through. Do I just get one stamp for this?

A. No. Contributions for stevedores in certain ports are determined on the hourly rate of wages and earnings. A stevedore in Halifax, for example earning $1.10 an hour, is entitled to one day's contribution for every $8.00 earned in a week. A stevedore earning $26.40 in a twenty-four hour stretch would be entitled to three days' contributions for the twenty-four hours worked.

* * *

Q. I retired six months ago from my job as foreman in a steel company. I am drawing unemployment insurance. I plan to go to Florida and am willing to take any suitable work I can find there. What about my benefits?

A. Only persons having immigrant visas as permanent residents are permitted to take work in the United States. If you go to Florida and are not in possession of such a visa you are considered not available for work and, therefore, not entitled to benefit.

* * *

Q. I had an accident on the job and until recently was getting sick benefits on a group insurance plan. I can go back to my old job when I recover but that won't be for some months. I could do light work now and would be glad to get it. Am I entitled to benefits?

A. If you are able to work, are willing to work, and are otherwise qualified, you are entitled to benefit.

128th Annual Lachute Fair Rated Tops for Quality

Ample Interest for Every Taste in All-Round Show of Livestock and Handicrafts, Harness Racing and Amusements

Celebrating its 128th anniversary, the Lachute Spring Fair last week presented the biggest all-around line up and program on record. The four-day and four-night run closed Saturday evening, with the paid attendance down considerably as compared with last year, in spite of the favorable weather conditions which prevailed most of the time.

The well-rounded livestock show had plenty for all to see, and offered excellent competition for the exhibitors, even though entries in some breeds were a little lower than in previous years. Entries in other classes were heavier, however, setting new records in several instances.

Trade Shows

The trade and industrial section, which covers the exhibits of farm machinery, farm equipment, cars and trucks, household appliances, boats and motors, and household innovations, etc., was much larger than in previous years. Most of those in charge of these exhibits were pleased with the public interest displayed, and felt that the effort would be repaid in good publicity and business returns. Many local firms were represented, both outdoors and in the covered booths. The Lions Club and Rotary Club also capitalized on this big occasion, as in previous years.

Midway Concession Transferred

Model Shows of Canada returned this year with the midway concession, due to the organization who signed the contract with the directors not being able to show up. They presented the usual games of chance, which, from observations, appeared not overly encouraged by local citizens, and had rides, amusements and sideshows for young and old alike.

In the Main Building

A drawing card for the Main Building was the Argenteuil Health Unit's free chest X-ray examinations. Examinations were down 301 from last year's record, with 1,053 people due to receive their results for 1954 within a month or so. (The decrease in applicants is doubtless due to a more complete coverage by the mobile X-ray unit during the past year, in district industries and communities.)

Excellent displays of Women's Handicrafts were also on show in the Main Building, with all local branches of the Women's Institutes, as well as the Cercle des Fermières from Brownsburg. Similar exhibits from Lachute High and Grenville Consolidated Schools were also shown, along with an excellent display of wood and metal work. (Winners of these competitions are published on pages 6 and 8.)

Before the Grandstand

This year's horse show, one of the main attractions of the Fair, will long be remembered as one of the best ever, an excellent display having been presented at all performances. Talented vaudeville numbers also added to the interest of the shows. Main points of interest besides the heavy horses, jumpers, hunters, and saddle horses were the four and six-horse teams.

Calf Show

Saturday forenoon, the bleachers at the cow barns were filled to overflowing for the juvenile farmers' special events. All interested in the youngsters' progress were on hand to do justice to the calf show and the judging contest. It was evident from the enthusiasm of the young farmers, farmerettes and onlookers, that this section of the Fair is being fostered and improved to hold a position of importance. (Winners of this competition will be found on page 6.)

Law and Order

Members of Lt. Col. Ernest Emmett's Imperial Frontiersmen were out in numbers doing police duties on the grounds and keeping traffic in the district under as orderly control as possible. Several of these officers were on special duty under Lachute Police Chief Laurent Ducharme, to supplement the local force during this unusually busy period.

Attendance

The attendance figures this year are the lowest since the record of 25,698 was set in 1948, being down 3,345 paid admissions from last year.

50-Year Reminiscence On Local Hockey

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hampton, of Transcona, Man., are here on a visit with the former's sisters, the Misses L. and R. Hampton, and his brother, Gordon (Dick) Hampton, after an absence of five years.

In paying his usual call to The Watchman Office, the old Lachute hockey team was mentioned. The Watchman files of March 1904 were referred to, and a picture of the team was found, with an account of their winning the championship of the Lower Ottawa. Both Harry and Dick Hampton were on this team, members of which at that time were presented with gold watches. Harry produced the watch from his pocket on this occasion, he says it has been running perfectly ever since his presentation, with exception of the odd time out for cleaning.

District Scout Rally Arranged for Sept. 18

A meeting of the District Council of the Boy Scouts' Laurentian Division was held Tuesday evening at St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac, and it was decided that the annual District Rally (suspended May 29 on account of rain) will be held on Saturday, September 18. Locale of the Rally will be the Lachute Exhibition Grounds, as usual. It was signified, however, that the Guide and Brownie units would not take part, as there would be insufficient preparation on resuming their season's activities.

Regional Ch. Commerce Annual Meet Attended by Delegates of 15 Branches

Gérard Lefebvre President, Phil Tremblay Sec'y, Elected at Enthusiastic Gathering in Ste. Agathe

Guest Speakers Msgr. Brosseau, Montebello, and Alan Brown, General Manager of Gatineau Power

At the annual session of the Laurentides Regional Chamber of Commerce, held Sunday at the Laurentide Inn, Ste. Agathe, a representation from 15 of the 18 member branches gave evidence of aggressive interest in the progress of this area — with Lachute prominent in a directive role, linking the public-spirited citizenry of Laurentian towns in co-ordinated effort for progress.

Horace Lamarche, retiring president, and Gérard Lefebvre, retiring secretary and president-elect, well exemplify this leadership — judging by sentiments expressed during the proceedings and election of officers. The secretaryship for the year 1954-55 was also voted to a Lachute businessman, Philippe Tremblay. The retiring vice-president, George Dunnigan, St. Jerome, declined nomination to the presidency; John O'Donnell, Laval des Rapides, was elected vice-president.

Address by Gatineau Company Vice-President Alan Brown

Alan Brown, vice-president and general manager of Gatineau Power Company, was speaker at the afternoon business session, with Horace Lamarche presiding. Mr. Brown outlined the growth of his Company, with which he has been associated for 28 years. The absorption of numerous power developments in the area, recalled a series of privately-owned plants whose origin is now half-forgotten in local annals.

Gatineau Power was originally founded by Canadian International Paper; however, it is now owned by 10,000 individual shareholders, 90 per cent of whom are Canadian. The speaker stressed the point that Gatineau is by no means "remote controlled". Its personnel and management are community men, whose interests are in the immediate neighborhood which they serve.

Roger Regimbal 1954-55 President Of Lions Club

Successful Year Under Review

At the Lions Club meeting Tuesday, terminating the season's regular gatherings, a new slate of officers was elected for the coming year. President E. M. Jones reviewed the year's achievements in charitable work. The review showed an imposing list of donations to youth welfare, athletics, education and cases requiring medical aid. The president thanked the committeemen and members for their loyal support.

President-elect Roger Regimbal (Personnel Supervisor of Ayers Limited) was welcomed to the chair and pledged his utmost effort. "There is no other organization to which I would rather give that effort than to Lionism" he stated. He paid tribute to the record of retiring President Jones and preceding presidents, and hoped in his term to foster contributions to citizenship as noteworthy as the club's contributions to charity.

A message of congratulation was sent to Lion W. M. Cottingham, deputy for Argenteuil, on his appointment as Minister of Mines, also a letter of appreciation to Premier Duplessis for the honor thus accorded to this county.

L. J. Dumais and his team received personal tokens from President Jones on winning the season's attendance contest.

Herb Graves and Ian Gordon reported gratifying results from the club's booth at Lachute Fair and urged continued efforts in ticket sales for the car drawing.

The Lions' "Summer Frolic" at Lachute Golf Club is set for Saturday, June 26, and the annual district Service Clubs' Golf Tournament at Dunany, July 21.

There was lengthy discussion on aid to two charity cases, one requiring optical surgery and the other dental care.

Officers elected are as follows:

President, R. E. Regimbal; 1st vice-pres., Ian Gordon; 2nd vice-pres., L. J. Dumais; 3rd vice-pres., J. L. Lowe. Secretary, L. P. Tremblay; assistant, Carl Demers. Treasurer, W. M. Steeves. Legal Advisor, Fernand Legault. Directors, J. R. Carreau, Gordon Davidson, Romain Desjardins, R. H. Dixon, H. D. Graves, Horace J. Lamarche, André Lefebvre, Gérard Lefebvre, W. E. Snadden, Gordon McOuat, Lion Tamer, Douglas Ogilvie. Tail Twister, Col. E. Emmett. Bulletin Editor, Keith W. Clarke.

New Officers for Inst. of the Blind

The annual meeting of the district branch of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind was held Monday evening, Messrs. T. Zaplasky and R. Hodgson being present from Montreal as representatives of the CNIB.

Several cases from the district were brought before the meeting, on which a report was made by Mr. Zaplasky, the district fieldman, who has periodically visited and aided in their re-establishment to useful life. (It may be a surprise to many to know that in the vicinity of Lachute there are some 30 cases of total or partial blindness, and it is the aim of this organization, not only to assist those who have already lost their sight, but to try and prevent others from becoming so handicapped.)

At a meeting of the nominating committee, held May 31, the following slate of officers was drawn up, and was unanimously approved at this meeting, as follows:

Chairman, J. B. Chalmers; 1st vice-chairman, A. Lefebvre; 2nd vice-chairman, S. Milnes; treasurer, Miss L. Miller; secretary, Miss A. David.

Members of the Board comprise Messrs. W. Richardson, J. S. Giles, F. Royal, B. Massicotte, D. Villeneuve, R. Cairns, Chief L. Ducharme, Ord Anderson and Dr. E. Mongeon.

Robt. Cairns, who had headed the branch organization here since its inception two and a half years ago, was thanked for the time and effort he had devoted to this important and worthy cause.

Next to life itself, God's most gracious gift is sight. Artificial limbs can operate in place of lost arms or legs, but there is absolutely nothing to replace lost sight.

A warning to both young and old is therefore given to protect this greatest gift, their eyesight.

Council Agreement With J. C. Wilson Ltd. Ensures New Factory to Establish Here

Principal Item of Public Interest In Lachute Town Council Business

A special assembly of the Lachute Town Council was held in the civic auditorium Monday evening, at which the possibilities of granting sanction to a verbal and written request from the J. C. Wilson Company for a fixed 12-year municipal valuation of $370,000 on lots 1422 to 1429, were discussed and agreed upon. Several buildings and store rooms will be torn down and a one-storey building of cement block and brick construction with an approximate floor area of 42,000 square feet will be erected. Approximately 80 additional employees will be taken on the payroll of the Company here.

It was unaminously decided at the meeting — at which Alderman E. O. Pollock and Alcidas Laurin were absent — to agree to this request, subject to the approval of the next session of the Provincial Legislature. A Bill requesting a change in the charter will then be requested, the amendment giving the Council authority to grant this and similar requests to new industries if deemed advisable.

Construction on the new building, which is to house a paper box making factory, will commence shortly, with the verbal agreement to be replaced by a written one as soon as the Council has proper authorization from the Quebec Legislature.

Decision on Dumpsite

Verbal agreement from all parties concerned has now been obtained, and if and when official permission comes from the Health Department and the Parish of St. Jerusalem Council, and a right of way is decided upon, the previously considered property of Jos. De Bellefeuille just off the Dunany Road will be purchased by the Town and used as a dumpsite.

De Bellefeuille's land can be purchased for $300 by the Town providing the Council signs an agreement with the owner for his services as garbage collector for a five-year period. Remuneration was set at $120 a week, $20 of which will go towards maintenance of the dump.

It was decided that a search certificate be taken on the property before the deed and agreement be signed.

Construction Halted

A motion by Ald. Real Morrissette, seconded by Ald. Ross Muir, that Jean Lemay be notified to stop work immediately on a house on Water Street until a building permit be issued by the Council, was duly carried. Building permits were granted to the same Jean Lemay for a house on Cruise Blvd., and to Fernand Legault for a house on Sydney Street, for construction under supervision of the Roads Committee.

Messrs. Bilodeau and Cayer requested that the 30-minute parking area in front of their respective establishments on Main Street West be changed. It was decided that the Roads Committee would investigate and report at next meeting.

Authorization to have the big town truck repaired was granted by Council.

June 24 (St. Jean-Baptiste Day) and July 1 (Dominion Day) were declared civic holidays.

The meeting was adjourned by Ald. D. G. MacRae, pro-mayor, who replaced Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur during the meeting.

Civic Reception Monday for Hon. Wm. Cottingham

Council Invites Premier And Cabinet Members

Lachute Town Council is sponsoring a reception next Monday afternoon in honor of the Hon. William McOuat Cottingham, M.L.A. for Argenteuil, who was appointed recently as Minister of Mines in the Quebec cabinet.

The reception will be held in the civic auditorium Monday, between the hours of 3 and 5 p.m. The town authorities extend a cordial invitation to all citizens and townsfolk, to join in this gesture of congratulation to the provincial deputy for Argenteuil constituency.

An invitation to attend this function has been extended to Premier Maurice Duplessis; the Hon. J. P. Sauvé, deputy for Deux Montagnes, Minister of Youth and Social Welfare; the Hon. Albiny Paquette, deputy for Labelle County, Minister of Health; the Hon. Omer Coté (Montreal - St. Jacques), Provincial Secretary; and the Hon. Romeo Lorrain, deputy for Papineau, Minister of Public Works.

HISTORIC BELL

Victoria (CP) — A wooden-handled brass school bell which first called children to classes in Indianapolis in 1888 is being used at the one-room Sylvania school near here. It was brought here in 1905 by Mrs. J. W. Alan, who said she wanted it to go to a school like that which it came from.

Two Life Sentences, One 30-Year Term, In Bob Taylor Killing

Montreal — Mr. Justice Francois Caron in the Court of Queen's Bench on Tuesday told two young criminals, whom he sentenced to life imprisonment for the slaying of taxi driver Robert Taylor, that he was forced to put a stop to their way of living "like stray dogs, guided only by the lowest instincts."

A 17-year-old boy was given 30 years for his part in the same crime.

Found guilty of manslaughter in connection with Taylor's death were Andre Trudel, 24, Eugene Beaulieu, 22, and Jean Noel Champagne, 17.

Originally charged with murder, they pleaded guilty to a lesser charge of manslaughter at a second trial after the first had been declared a mistrial.

Champagne received 30 years because of his age and the fact that he was orphaned when 12 years old.

Depending on good behaviour, Beaulieu and Trudel will be eligible for parole after 20 years. Champagne may apply to the attorney general at Quebec for a review of his sentence after 15 years.

Bob Taylor, former Brownsburg taxi man, was bludgeoned to death in the Montreal east end last October.

Statement on Transfer Of J. C. Wilson Plant

In connection with an agreement reached in the Council proceedings (reported on this page), The Watchman has received the following statement of public interest direct from J. C. Wilson Ltd.:

June 15, 1954

Mr. J. C. Wilson, President of J. C. Wilson Limited, is pleased to announce the transfer of their Montreal factory to Lachute sometime in the first quarter of 1955.

A building is now under construction on our Lachute Mill property, to house our Folding Box and Printing Plant, which produces all types of Folding Boxes, such as Suit Boxes, Egg Boxes, Fish Boxes, Printed Butter Wrappers, Shipping Tags, etc., and this operation requires approximately eighty employees.

The Head Office and Distributing Warehouse will remain in Montreal.

Govt. Official, Well Known Figure, Dies Suddenly

Late J. G. Lamontagne Was Mg'r of Employment Office And Unemployment Insurance

Another shock to this community was occasioned by the sudden death of J. Gedéon Lamontagne last Saturday morning. Although suffering from a heart ailment, it was only recently that Mr. Lamontagne has been confined to his bed. Up to that time he had carried on his duties as local manager of the National Employment and Unemployment Insurance Office, and had mingled in his usual cordial manner among his friends.

Born in Lewiston, Maine, Mr. Lamontagne would have been 59 years of age in August. He was married to Miss Vera J. Kett, of Tilbury, Ont., who survives to mourn his passing together with one son, Joseph Gérard, of the Royal Canadian Marines, stationed at Halifax.

Before assuming his position here, Mr. Lamontagne had been in the employ of the Arnold Farms in Grenville as general manager, and previously had managed several branches of the Provincial Bank in Ontario.

Keenly interested in all matters of local welfare Mr. Lamontagne had taken an active part in church affairs, clubs and organizations, and incidental to his work had frequently addressed service clubs and shown films with the idea of rehabilitating less fortunate and handicapped workers. In this capacity he proved himself a well qualified bilinguist.

One of his last projects was participation in the forming of a Saint Jean Baptiste Society branch in this vicinity.

Funeral service was held Tuesday morning in St. Julien Church, Lachute Mills, interment being made in the Roman Catholic Cemetery. Many friends and fellow citizens followed the remains to their last resting place.

MORE GIRL GUIDES

Saint John, N.B. (CP) — Girl Guide membership in New Brunswick reached 3,385 in 1953, an increase of 479, it was reported at the annual meeting of the New Brunswick Girl Guide council here. This is the first time it has passed the 3,000 mark.

Two Candidates For Council Seat, Contest Today

There was no lack of interest in the council vacancy left by the resignation of Alderman Georges Beaulieu, Centre Ward. At the closing of nominations, at 2 p.m. last Thursday, there were three contenders for the seat — Romain Desjardins, automobile salesman and drive-yourself proprietor, Bertrand Ferron, plastering contractor, and John Lemay, building contractor. Mr. Ferron subsequently withdrew his candidature, last Saturday.

There has been considerable orderly campaigning for the respective candidates in the intervening week, and the successor to Mr. Beaulieu will be decided in an election contest today, Thursday, in which Centre Ward proprietors and tenants are entitled to vote. Voting takes place from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the Auditorium.

SEALS IN HARBOR

Corner Brook, Nfld. (CP) — Seals were seen swimming in the Humber Arm early in April, poking their heads over the light patches of ice. Several were taken in nets by fishermen farther out.

LAURIER STATUE

Quebec (CP) — Following unanimous approval in the legislature, the Quebec government has granted $20,000 to the local group which plans to erect a monument in Quebec East to the memory of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Stamp Honors U.N.

Above is one of 12 stamps which Nicaragua has issued to honor the United Nations. It is a three-centavo, magenta color, air mail stamp. Others—both ordinary and air mail—range in face value from three centavos to five córdobas. Many other countries have issued stamps to honor the U.N., including Liberia, Indonesia, France, Ecuador and Honduras. The United States issued one with a United Nations theme in 1945 during the San Francisco Conference.

At Kelsey, near Wetaskiwin, Alta., a 60-acre field was seeded on the farm of Gerald Anderson by airplane; the wheat seeding was an experiment; fertilizer was broadcast first, then the seed; the pilot saw great possibilities in seeding where the land is too wet to work.

$500,000 ORDER FOR BAILEY PONTOONS

London — Bailey pontoons worth $½-million have been ordered by the Canadian Government from a U.K. firm. The Ontario Department of Highways has used Bailey bridges extensively on the construction of the Trans-Canada Highway in Northern Ontario; they have also been used in hydro-electric developments.

Highway Safety

This Company is glad to co-operate in this month's Highway Safety Drive of the Province of Quebec Safety League.

The campaign has the solid backing of civil and religious authorities. It will prove ineffectual, however, if motorists themselves do not try to eliminate highway dangers.

Everyone must do his share to cut down the death and accident rate on our highways.

In your driving and walking exercise the restraint and control necessary to ensure your safety and the safety of others.

The Quebec Public Utility Safety Association has recently awarded medallions to 67 employees of this Company for accident-free driving. These employees have completed a combined total of 360 years driving of company vehicles without accident.

Skimmilk Product

Considerable interest is being shown in the new instant dry skimmilk which has been developed, states the Dairy Division, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. This dry skimmilk will dissolve instantly and completely in cold water. At the present time only one firm has marketed the product in a limited way in the United States, but some Canadian manufacturers are reported to have knowledge of the process and it is expected it may be on this market within a short time.

Woodlot Management Course at Macdonald

Courses in Woodlot Management will be offered to Macdonald College students for the first time this fall. Present plans call for an elective lecture and laboratory course for degree students in agriculture and a similar but more practical course to be taken by all second year diploma students.

Setting up a full-time lectureship in this subject is another first for Macdonald College in the field of woodlot management. For the past five years the work of improving the square mile area formerly known as "Morgan's Woods" has been under the supervision of a skilled forester. Operations have included management of 375 acres of timberland, a 4000 bucket maple sugar grove, reforestation and woodland development projects.

In the area known as "Morgan Arboretum" efforts have been largely confined to securing selections of native trees and others which may have a special value in this country. Objectives have been widened and certain experimental features added to the project.

The Arboretum, together with the woodlot and reforested areas, is an out-of-door laboratory where the principles and practices of woodlot management may be taught. The excellence of the work done so far was recognized last year by the conferring of the first Tree Farm Certificate to be granted to any educational institution.

The College has already been active in promotion of better woodlot management. When the new program is inaugerated the already active educational campaign among rural groups by means of field day, tours and demonstrations will be stimulated.

Canadian Potatoes Planted in Greece

Canada's first shipment of seed potatoes to Greece is being planted this spring in competition with seed imported from England, Holland and West Germany, reports the Canadian Commercial Secretary in Athens.

The shipment consisted of 430 tons of Sebago and Katahdin varieties supplied by two Canadian firms. They were mostly of Grade B size of Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick origin.

Only a small portion of the seed potatoes required in Greece is produced locally — a little over 1,000 tons in 1952. During that year another 8,800 tons were purchased from England, Holland and West Germany, most of them of the Irish Banner variety.

A leading Greek Ministry of Agriculture official states he expects Greek potato growers will find Canadian seed so satisfactory that they will fill a large part of their annual requirements from the Canadian varieties next year. If this occurs it will indicate the effectiveness of the close co-operation between Canadian growers and the Department of Agriculture's inspectors in the production and certification of Canadian seed potatoes.

New Instrument for Research at Macdonald

A new instrument called a mass spectrometer has recently been set up in the Physics Department at Macdonald College. This piece of equipment will be used to study such problems as the part nitrogen plays in the life of fungi and bacteria, or the plant uptake of nitrogen from a fertilizer. The spectromter will be operated for various departments within the College by W. F. Oliver, Professor of Physics. The purchase of this instrument has been made possible through industrial, private and government grants. It is the first instrument of its kind in Canada set up specifically for furthering agricultural research.

Here is how it works. The scientist for example may make up a fertilizer containing nitrogen with a slightly altered ratio of the two types of nitrogen atoms as found in nature. These atoms are similar in respect except in weight. Nitrogen in the plant is then measured atom by atom by means of the spectrometer. The weighing does not involve the use of any ordinary scales or balances but rather uses a powerful magnet and a set of complicated electronic circuits. By means of the instrument it will now be possible for scientists to know how much nitrogen a farmer gets into his crops from the fertilizer he puts on his fields.

A group of staff and graduate students at Macdonald has been using radioactive materials in their tracer programs for some time now. However, some materials cannot be made radioactive and therefore have no rays by which they may be traced in and through plants and animals. This is where the mass spectrometer comes into the picture. The instrument will be used to weigh and trace materials that can not be made radioactive. The Tracer research program at Macdonald College will now be extended.

Fire Hazards in Summer Cottages

The average summer cottage contains more fire hazards than almost any other building, according to a survey.

The All Canada Insurance Federation, representing more than 200 fire, automobile and casualty insurance companies, offers the following tips to cut the annual cottage fire toll:

1. Grass, brush and small trees near the cottage should be cut or trimmed.

2. Adequate fire fighting equipment, such as portable extinguishers and pails of water and sand, should be kept near at hand.

3. Stoves should be kept free from grease, have baking soda or salt ready in case of grease fires.

4. Matches should be stored in metal containers and kept out of the reach of children.

5. Chimneys should be equipped with spark screens or heat deflectors.

6. Pipes passing through partitions should be fitted with metal guards.

7. Oil lanterns always should be hung up, never left on floors or tables. Shut off lamps when leaving cottage.

8. Inflammable liquids should be kept in spill-proof safety cans with pouring spouts. Their contents should be plainly designated.

9. Floors directly under stoves and heaters should be protected by galvanized iron, concrete or brickwork.

10. Electric cords never should be placed under rugs or over hooks.

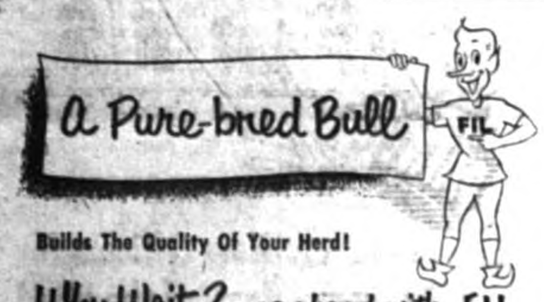

11. Towels or clothing should not be dried near stoves or heaters.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

Human Dynamos

"IDEA Plus Action" was the theme of the Quebec Women's Institutes' annual convention last week. The president, Mrs. G. E. LeBarron, in the course of her remarks suggested that the quality of leadership is "not lacking, but suffering from disuse."

It has been our recent experience to attend the annual meetings of various groups, to hear their reports, and listen to their officers, outgoing and incoming. And without unjustified pride in our community, we go on record as being thrilled by the dynamic energy of some officers in these organizations. There is certainly no dearth of leadership hereabouts. And if there are organizations languishing through lack of live-wire executives — they need but to tap these potentialities of leadership to jump on the band-wagon of progress.

We take off our hat to the successful presidents, vice-presidents, secretaries, etc. we wish that every citizen so endowed were enlisted into some constructive role for his community — or hers.

And Come Back Alive

VACATIONS are designed to boost our health — rest our bodies and minds — help us to live longer and to enjoy living. Too often they end in tragedy. Over 3,000 people were killed on Canadian highways last year, 901 of them in the Province of Quebec.

Most people today drive cars. When they go off on a holiday they pack the family and the family pets into the automobile and head for the highway. Usually unaccustomed to long drives and frequently tired from over-work they are in a hurry to reach the lakes or the mountains. And so, every summer our highway accident rate increases and there are more and more highway fatalities.

There are a few simple rules which may help save a few lives on the highways this summer. They are good rules to study before you begin your vacation.

First, remember that most summer highway accidents are caused by fatigue. Your reflexes slow down, even if your car doesn't. Thus, accidents may be prevented if you take precautions to overcome fatigue. Here are suggestions from the Quebec Safety League:

1. Start trips when rested, not after a day's work.
2. Take along a thermos bottle of hot coffee. It will be useful if you travel at night, or if you are on long stretches when eating places are few and far between.
3. Drive according to conditions. Sometimes it's safer to drive slower than posted speed limits.
4. Don't pass on hills or curves — and don't cut in.
5. Don't be a "bumper rider". Stay 100 feet or so behind the car ahead.
6. Don't drive after drinking. About 17 out of 100 drivers involved in fatal accidents had been drinking (not coffee).
7. Always dim your headlights when another car is approaching.
8. Keep your car windows open and breathe deeply.
9. Drink coffee or some similar beverage every two hours.
10. Stop to exercise if you feel drowsy, or rest if you are sleepy.
11. Change drivers every two hours, if possible.
12. Don't engage in heated conversation with other occupants — this may take your mind off the road.

Obey these rules — you will probably have a happy vacation and come back alive!

June Brings — Insects

WHILE JUNE is referred to sentimentally as the month of flowers, it is also the time for insects to hatch out in countless thousands. Many are relatively harmless to man. Some are extremely useful. But hundreds of species will again compete with humans for survival by consuming his foodstuffs and despoiling his forests.

More than a century ago, human beings had reason to beware of the month of June. They had no weapons to combat insect pests. On a small scale they were able to shake them off their plants, swat, crush and burn them, but by and large insects had the upper hand.

One hundred years ago man began to study the life cycle of insects, their habits and their effect on mankind. Thus entomology was born, and this year entomologists the world over are observing the 100th anniversary of their profession. In later years their knowledge was passed on to chemists, and chemical weapons were devised to fight the insect hordes. Today there are many such weapons, and there is hardly a harmful insect in the civilized world that cannot be effectively controlled.

Across Canada the month of June sees planes skimming over the tree tops in New Brunswick and Quebec spraying DDT on the destructive spruce budworm. The same chemical is being used to wipe out the creeping army of tent caterpillars. Other chemicals are being used for other insect species.

The insect is no longer a threat to man's existence, thanks to the men who study bugs and develop chemical weapons to subdue them.

Trade Trends

THIS MAY BE propaganda, it may be the "goods" we hand it along to you television enthusiasts for what it's worth.

The "real bottleneck" in color television's progress, says the president of a big TV manufacturing concern, is want of a simplified color tube adaptable to mass production techniques. At the best only a mere trickle of color TV receivers can be produced during 1954 — he says — scarcely more than enough to serve as demonstrators in key dealers' stores. And it will be two to three years before anything approaching mass production can be achieved." This spokesman concludes that black-and-white TV will be the backbone of television both in programs and receivers, for a long time in the future.

Here's another trend you may have been wondering about — and we glean these notes from Marketing, which keeps a finger on the pulse of modern merchandising.

The so-called "Giveaway Fever" is mounting steadily. Premium offers have long been made to purchasers of many products, but keen sales competition is bringing a big increase in such customer lures, and in the extension of gift offers. For some manufacturers, increased sales to the premium people are partly offsetting a decline in their sales to regular retailers.

Rural Medical Fraternity

NEW IDEAS for encouraging doctors to take up practices in rural and small-town areas may be a step toward solving a problem in many communities.

The problem itself was discussed again at recent graduations across the country. Speakers advised young doctors just coming out of the medical schools to go into general practice for a few years, at least, rather than go on immediately to become specialists.

The same sort of advice has been offered in other years, but some communities looking for country doctors have had to go without the medical service they desired.

The difficulty has been to bring together the district wanting a doctor and the doctor looking for a place to settle. Such a doctor is not necessarily the eager young graduate. Sometimes a resident physician in a big-city hospital hopes to find a private practice. Occasionally a metropolitan specialist looks around for more congenial surroundings in a rural practice.

Finding a suitable doctor becomes a community task and an important one. The area stands to benefit from his professional services and also from the way he, and his family as well, can fit into the life and activities of the community.

One small Ontario centre found a good man by financing a new house and selling it on attractive terms to a young doctor who had just married and was looking for a place to settle.

This was one case in which both the village and the doctor gained by their association. For working in the smaller places enables a newcomer to the profession to gain prestige, a broad range of experience, a knowledge of human nature and an acquaintance with community affairs — all of which may later stand him in good stead in a wider field.

Occasionally, too, a young doctor goes to a small community to get his start and becomes so interested in its welfare that he stays on year after year. Eventually he may become the country doctor who retires with satisfaction after a lifetime of hard work during which he has made himself a secure place in the affection and gratitude of the people he has served.

Green-Tinted Windshields Limit Night Vision

The Canadian Medical Association has expressed concern over green windshields in autos and the resulting reduction of night vision. The Journal states that a green windshield reduces the effectiveness of the headlights by two-thirds.

"The continuing toll of road accidents is one of the penalties of modern civilization, but education of the driver and the manufacturer can help in reducing this toll," the editorial said.

"When driving at night the driver studies the road at the distance limits of his headlights, and any decrease of illumination will obviously delay his reaction time.

"The driver's eyes become adapted to the average reflection of the lights from the head lamps from objects both on and off the road.

"Green-tinted windshields are useful in daytime driving, because they cut out red and infrared rays which carry heat; on the other hand, almost two-thirds of a headlight's power is concentrated into the red end of spectrum and obviously two-thirds of the headlight's power is removed by using a green windshield.

"Experiment under night-driving conditions" . . . show that "visual acuity was reduced from 20/32 to 20/46 with a green-tinted windshield," the editorial stated.

The editorial also said that two objects would appear separate at 100 feet in the path of headlights, but a green windshield make them appear single, until a distance of 25 feet.

"Implications . . . are interesting. Should manufacturers of automobiles take these experiments as regards green-tinted windshields? Or should the public be warned of the dangers and left to draw their own conclusions?" the article asks.

"Everyone in town is talking," remarked the wife, "about the Jones' quarrel. Some are taking her part and some his."

"And," replied her husband, "I suppose a few eccentric individuals are minding their own business."

ACTUARILY SPEAKING

According to the actuaries, it costs one dollar to write and send out a letter. That is, they point out, a simple business letter, with no frills. The costs include such things as the dictator's and stenographer's time, typewriter depreciation, letterhead printing, office rental, and a hundred other hidden contributing items. A personal letter costs less, naturally, and specially prepared and embellished direct-mail pieces can cost twice or even three times as much.

The part that interests me about the cost of letters, is this: How can some firms afford to carry out these campaigns? In some cases, the action taken by the recipient of direct-mail may mean a substantial monetary benefit for the advertiser. In others, however, the advertiser merely throws good money after bad.

For example, let's look into the question of my recent magazine subscriptions. About two years ago, a friend of a friend of mine came into the office, and sold a cut-rate subscription to two well-known magazines. They no sooner came into my mailbox than I discovered that I could obtain both from my sister who had received them as Christmas presents from one of her pals. So, when my subscriptions ran out, I didn't bother to renew. That's when the fun began.

I immediately started to receive a barrage of direct-mail advertising. Nothing cheap about it, either. The poorest of the pieces I received must have set the company back from $1.50 to $2, and the most impressive must have cost about $3.50. In all, I've had about thirty letters from these magazines which I estimate must have cost between $60 and $75 to send me. Added to that, there was a telephone call from the circulation department exhorting me to renew my subscription. And each time I received a communication from these people, the cost of renewing fell sharply downward.

The collection of material is interesting to see. There are countless IBM punch cards, air-mail reply cards, multigraphed letters with fancy signatures, specially printed letters with artwork, and even one letter in which my name appears inscribed in gold leaf. The last one I got was a dilly, too. The envelope was the color of watered grape juice and had the imprint of a dog's footprints on it. The price for renewal was slashed in half, but another look at the watered grape turned me against it. So, despite all further overtures, I shall not renew my subscriptions. Therefore, what advantage will the magazine people gain?

They will have spent some $70-odd trying to get my subscription for half price. At the same time, judging by the effort put into the preparation of their appeals, there must be thousands more who are not going to renew. How, then, can the companies expect to show a profit at the end of the year? Well, that's where the actuaries will step into the breach once more.

They'll figure something out for the publishers, and the result of their figuring will affect the buying public. They will suggest that either one or both of the following courses be taken: subscription rates be raised, or an arbitrary 10 per cent be added to advertising rates. They won't suggest, of course, that the direct-mail campaigns be reduced because, you see, they, too, like pastel-shade envelopes and names inscribed in gold leaf — even if you and I don't.

After six years of marriage eight minutes is about the right time for a quarrel. A good quarrel gives the wife a chance for much needed emotional release. It is unfair for any husband to leave the room during a quarrel and slam the door as he goes out before eight minutes have elapsed.

WANT BIG PULLET EGGS OR PEE-WEES?

WHEN your pullet begins to lay, is not entirely up to you. Most of this is inherited, and your influence in this direction is negligible. You may feed her oats to hold her back, and you may hold her a short time, but you have held up her growth also, which is the greater evil of the two. Again we hear of forcing; but feeding a pullet all she can eat of a well balanced feed like PURINA, is not forcing, and never can be.

THE SIZE your pullet is when she begins laying is entirely UP TO YOU. . . There is a definite relationship between the size of the pullet and the size and number of eggs she lays.

Even if PURINA did cost a dollar a bag more than other imitation feeds, there are five laying pullets in each bag of PURINA GROWENA. That will make each pullet cost 20c more than on the imitation feed. A half pound more pullet ready to lay, will more than pay the extra cost. BUT there can easily be a pound and a half difference which you won't even notice. Then the difference in price between large and pullet eggs in the fall can easily amount to 15c a dozen. Your extra cost of raising them on PURINA will be paid by the first dozen and a quarter eggs; you then have the extra weight and the extra large eggs for PROFIT.

PURINA will grow you the BEST AND CHEAPEST PULLETS anyway you can figure it. Guessing ("Well, Purina is a good feed but too dear" — isn't that what you say?) — well, don't guess any longer. Order your supply of CHICK GROWENA today so you can have big pullets and lots of big, early eggs that mean profit. We carry a full line of Purina Chows, and deliver anywhere.

Now a scientist claims that queen bees control their subjects by turning them into dope addicts.

Dr. Colin Butler, head of a bee research project in Britain, announced his findings in a new book: "The World of the Honeybee."

The dope is "queen substance" — a kind of wax that covers the queen's body. Worker bees lick it off, and keep returning for more. They are slaves to the stuff.

This is the best news of the week. Bees have long been smugly parading themselves as examples of the duller virtues. These pompous insects led us to believe that they never wasted time. All their thoughts were for the community and the next generation. They had a place for everything, and everything in its place.

Well, they never fooled me. I had a hunch all along that there was something phony about those bees. They were too good to be true.

My hunch was right. At last they have been unmasked before the world as rakes and debauchees.

Drug addict! Hophead! Those are the words I intend to yell at the next bee that buzzes past my ear, putting on its big hardworking act.

How doth the little busy bee improve each shining hour? I'm glad you asked that question. The bee never improved a shining hour in her life.

She spends much of her time skulking around the poppies, a depraved, hollow-cheeked denizen of the insect skidroad, with fuzzy bags under her eyes, waiting for some drone to take her in to Queenie for a "fix" — a shot of her favorite poison.

Later on, I hope, science will debunk a few more of Nature's heroes and villains.

The ant may turn out to be a sluggard who inherited all his money. The beaver may be exposed as a secret drinker. The hare may be shown in a new light as a former Olympic distance runner who was wounded in the war.

London — Last year Canada bought the record figure of 60,367 bicycles, worth $1.4 million. In the first four months of this year, Britain exported 34,715 machines, worth $.77 million to Canada — more than half the total for last year.

Grenville High School

By Willis Young

Many students are get busy with examinations, while others have now left the school for this year.

This is the last G.H.S. report by Willis Young. He, with the other graduates of '54, bids farewell to the old alma mater, and all express their thanks to the teachers for their tireless efforts.

DAFFYNITIONS

Addressee: The last person to read a post card.

Desk: A wastebasket with drawers.

Automobile: A guided missile.

Hug: A roundabout way of expressing your feelings.

Alcatraz: The pen with a lifetime guarantee.

Husband: A man who is spouse-broken.

The baby car was speeding along the road, but every 50 yards or so it would hop a few feet into the air and then rush on again. At last a puzzled policeman halted the car.

"Am I crazy or is there something wrong with your car?" he asked.

"The car's all right," said the driver. "It's me. I've got the hiccoughs."

Women's Inst. Branch Meetings, Month of June

At Arundel, there were 17 members present for the June meeting of the W.I. Mrs. W. Graham, secretary, gave an interesting report on the annual County Convention. A sewing machine demonstration was given by Mr. A. Lefebvre of Lachute. Plans were made for a bazaar on July 6.

Jerusalem - Bethany branch held a guessing contest on carpenter tools; $15 was donated to the Cancer Society. A gift of plants was sent to a hospitalized member and to a member on Mother's Day.

At Lakefield, plans were made for a bazaar and food sale to be held at Kerr's Farm, July 21, also for a "mid-late" whist to be held later in the year. A contest "What's his name?" by the hostess proved both amusing and interesting.

Pioneer branch made plans for a food sale to be held on the afternoon of June 19 in the lobby of the Cinema Lachute. A report of the semi-annual convention was given. A contest was held on button hole making, and prizes were given by members. Knitted wool squares were made for afghans for people of Greece. The members planned a summer outing to Winchester Line for the next meeting.

Upper Lachute had 28 members and one guest present. An interesting talk was given by Dr. F. W. FitzGerald on "Diseases of women from childhood to old age". Mrs. Leishman gave an interesting report on the Leadership Training course she had attended at Macdonald College, and showed a basket she had made while there. A branch history is to be compiled. A picnic is to be held on July 6 at the home of Mr. Jas. Robertson; $10 was donated for prizes. A dance is to be held at Silver Leaf Dance Hall on August 4. $150 was donated to the Cancer Society, this sum having been realized by a house-to-house canvass by the members.

Is Hell Hot?

Egyptian and Buddhist priests taught hell fire centuries before Christendom's religious did. The pagan philosophers Plato and Socrates taught a purgatory theory. But the Bible teaches neither one. To be tormented one must be conscious. The dead are unconscious, unable to suffer. "Hell" in the Bible means the common grave of mankind. Of those in hell the Douay Bible says ". . . the dead know nothing more," and advises the living: "Whatsoever thy hand is able to do, do it earnestly: for neither work, nor reason, nor wisdom, nor knowledge, shall be in hell, whither thou art hastening." — Eccl. 9: 5, 10.

This hell or grave is not eternal, but is to be destroyed when "there shall be no more death." So the Bible says: "Death and hell were cast into the lake of fire." If hell is the lake of fire, as many say, how is it cast into itself? Actually, the lake of fire is only a symbol of destruction, and is itself called "the second death," meaning final death with no chance of restoration. (Rev. 21: 4; 20: 14). So hell is not hot, but is the cold grave, and will end when in the new world men will live forever. As for purgatory, the Bible never even mentions it! For more information on Bible teachings send for four free tracts. A free catalogue will also be sent. Write to — Watch Tower, 40 Irwin Avenue, Toronto 5, Ont.

Who Was This?

By A.A.M.

The Bible is rich in stories, and the purpose of this series is to encourage readers to look up for themselves the Bible versions of these incidents. If there are children in the family it is suggested that the story, and the Bible verses on which it is based, be read aloud.

Who was the young rebel prince who lost his life when he was caught fast by his long hair in the branches of an oak tree and left dangling in the air when his mule went on? This young man was leading a force against his own father, the King of Israel. In spite of his disloyalty, his father loved him greatly. The King had commanded his army that if his boy was captured, "For my sake protect the young man."

One of the king's men discovered this man hanging by his hair and ran and told his captain, Joab, who asked, "why did you not strike him down to the ground?" But the man reminded Joab of the king's instruction to deal gently with his wayward son. The captain said shortly, "I will not waste time like this with you."

With ten of his men, Joab quickly found the king's son. Three darts were plunged into the young man's heart and he was killed. Then Joab blew his trumpet. He restrained his soldiers from pursuing the enemy further now their leader was destroyed. The body of the King's son was thrown into a great pit in the forest and heaped with stones.

But when his father heard of his son's fate, the King cried aloud, "Would I had died instead of you, my son, my son!" The day of rejoicing over the victory of the army was turned into mourning because of the king's sorrow.

Then Joab went in to the king and reproached him for having no gratitude for his soldiers who had risked their lives to put down this uprising. He warned the King that if he did not put aside his personal loss and go out to his people, that "not a man will stay with you this night." Then the king followed his captain's counsel and took his place at the city gate. You can find the name of this rebel son and this story in II Samuel Ch. 18 and Ch. 19 vs. 1-8.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Dedication Service For New Elders at Lachute United Church

Lachute United Church was the scene of an impressive service of dedication last Sunday evening, when the following newly-elected elders were enrolled: Merlyn Evans, Herbert Graham, Herbert Graves, Allan Hammond, Stuart Jones, Edgar Pollock, Keith Pollock, Basil Riddell, Glen Warwick and William Wilson. After the prayer of dedication, the Rev. Wilson Bridge, minister of the church, extended to the newly-dedicated elders the right hand of fellowship, and presented to each man a copy of Dr. Riddell's book dealing with the history and purpose of the Eldership.

In the course of his sermon on "Service of Our Lives," Mr. Bridge stressed the importance of the work they were undertaking with him on behalf of the church. He asked them to cultivate the friendship of the people who would be committed to their charge in the various districts, and to visit them. No minister could be expected to do all the visitation which was so essential in these days, but minister and elders together could fulfil the task to which they had put their hands.

He also asked each elder to be on the look-out for young men and women who might be willing to offer their lives for the ministry, or the overseas mission fields. The service concluded with George Croly's hymn, "Spirit of God, descend upon my heart."

A special feature of the service was the rendering of the anthem, "Glorious Things of Thee Are Spoken" by the church choir; Wayne Riddell was at the organ.

Sunday, June 20, will be the last Sunday of Mr. Bridge's ministry, prior to his resumed ministry in Lachute on Sunday, August 22. Next Wednesday he and his wife and son leave for a trip to the Old Country.

Minister Receives Felicitations From Choir

Following the evening service last Sunday, the choir of Lachute United Church assembled in the church parlor to felicitate the Rev. Wilson Bridge. Choir Director J. F. Gorman voiced the sentiments of the choir in wishing "bon voyage" and happy reunions in England to Mr. and Mrs. Bridge, and presented them with a picture of the group and a recording that was made recently.

The Rev. Bridge expressed his appreciation for the fine co-operation received during the past six months, and the excellent turnout for the special dedication service.

"All Nature's Beauty"

(Tune, "Unto the Hills Around".)

1 All Nature's beauty speaks to us of God.
In every clime.
The varied clouds which always sail abroad
Are oft sublime.
The glorious sunrise always brings good cheer.
The glowing sunset sings that God is near.

2 The tree-capped hills surrounding verdant vales
Proclaim God's plan.
They tell of homes which will withstand the gales
And shelter man.
They show eternal wisdom, love and skills —
We're all possessed by Him who planned the hills.

3 The rumbling river stumbles over stones.
Shouting its praise.
The twittering birds in rich harmonious tones
Blend their glad lays.
The green-leaved trees their fruitful branches wave,
Worshipping One Who to them power gave.

4 The fertile fields and valleys in between Bespeak God's care.
The sparkling stars which in the night are seen
Call us to prayer.
And lovely gardens gaily decked with flowers,
Challenge to serve God all our living hours.

Lachute Girl Wed, Pretty Ceremony At United Church

Wolthuizen - Pollock

Standards of purple lilac and gladioli, and baskets of white lilac and tulips, were arranged in the Lachute United Church for the recent marriage of Mary Eleanor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Pollock, to Mr. Berend Wolthuizen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jan Wolthuizen of Spencerville, Ont. The Rev. Wilson Bridge officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mr. Wayne Riddell played the wedding music and Mrs. Robert Blakely sang "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer" during the service.

Mrs. Maurice Taylor, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, with Miss Bertha Pollock, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid. Keith Pollock was best man, and ushering were Steven Shepperman and Enne Wolthuizen.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over nylon tulle net and taffeta.

The fitted bodice featured a scoop neckline with a shirred yolk of nylon tulle over lace, with long sleeves ending in points. The full lace skirt ended in scallops over a nylon tulle-edged skirt, and she wore a fingertip-length Juliet sweetheart veil of tulle illusion and carried a bouquet of lily of the valley.

Her attendants were dressed alike in blue strapless gowns of nylon net over net and taffeta, with lace boleros and full frilled skirts. They wore matching mittens and flowered bandeaux with half-veil, and carried bouquets of yellow 'mums.

Spring flowers decorated the church hall, where the reception was held. Later the couple left by motor on their wedding trip to Niagara and other points in Ontario. For travelling the bride wore a rosewood wool suit with white hat and navy accessories, and a corsage bouquet of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolthuizen will make their home in Smiths Falls, Ont.

Recent Wedding At Brownsburg

Stevenson - Gagné

A pretty wedding took place in the Brownsburg United Church on Saturday afternoon, June 5, at three o'clock, when Marion Emily, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Gagne, of Brownsburg, became the bride of Alexander Stevenson, Jr., eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Stevenson, of Montreal. The Rev. Garfield Bruce officiated at the double ring ceremony. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Cedric Wheeler and the soloist was Mr. Frank Steere.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Shirley, as maid of honor, with Miss Greta Stevenson, sister of the groom, and Miss Nancy Worsley, cousin of the bride, as bridesmaids, and little Miss Diane Lefebvre as flower girl. Mr. John Snyder, brother-in-law of the groom, acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Lloyd Anderson and Mr. Sidney Griffith, of Montreal.

The bride wore a Spanish gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle. Her fingertip veil of nylon tulle was held in place by a wreath of white lilac and lily of the valley, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of red roses and lily of the valley. Her only ornament was a gold watch, gift of the groom. Her maid of honor was in a gown of blush pink taffeta with white nylon trim, and wore a stole of pink nylon tulle. Her headdress was of tulle and pink lilac. The bridesmaids wore gowns of powder blue styled similarly to that of the maid of honor, with a headdress of pink and blue forget-me-nots. They carried nosegay bouquets of mixed sweet peas. The little flower girl was in pink taffeta and nylon tulle, and carried a basket of mixed sweet peas.

Mrs. Gagne, mother of the bride, was in a frock of printed nylon with black and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Stevenson, mother of the groom, wore a frock of medium blue printed crepe, with navy and white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

The reception was held in the church hall, which was decorated with spring flowers. Later Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson, Jr., left on their wedding trip to New York City and Washington, D.C.

For travelling the bride wore a suit of light blue gabardine with navy and white accessories, a grey wool coat and a corsage of red roses. On their return they will reside in Montreal West.

Among the out-of-town guests were — Mr. and Mrs. G. Pride, Mr. D. Sinclair, Mr. O. Finn, Mr. Don Scott, Mr. C. Farnsworth, Mr. J. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. John Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. A. Stevenson, Miss Greta Stevenson, Miss L. Quirk, Miss N. Munro, Mr. Lloyd Anderson, Mr. S. Griffith, Mr. and Mrs. B. Worsley, Mr. and Mrs. P. Pride, Mr. Garry Worsley, Bobby and Nina Worsley, Barbara Worsley and Miss Nancy Worsley, Mrs. N. Seviere, Mrs. W. Sinclair, Miss Joan Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. R. Morrow, all of Montreal, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Villeneuve, of Kilmar.

Each year more than half of all immigrants to Canada settle in Ontario.

Good Stuff Lined Up For Boxing Program

By John Molloy

Brownsburg — Three 5-rounders have been set for the forthcoming show in Brownsburg Arena. . .

Echart Korzer, the young German boy who was Montreal champion and junior provincial champion at his weight, will shape up against Marcel Durant, who made the finals of the recent British Empire Games trials. This is the headliner and, as both of these boys are on the threshold of what looks like successful ring careers, this may be a preview of a future Canadian Championship bout. This bout is scheduled at 155 lbs.

Jim Leblanc, another Montreal Golden Gloves champ, will tackle Harold Miles, from Rosemount Boys' Club. This is in the 119 lb. class, and these bantams have the reputation of being tough scrappers.

At 135 lbs., Jimmy Fields and Yvon Riverin will try to outwit, outbox and outslug each other. Fields is a young colored boy, and according to all reports he adds color in more ways than one to any boxing card. Riverin's stable is Palestre Nationale.

It would not be surprising if Tommy Sullivan doesn't steal the show himself. He's been on TV quite a lot lately in the telecasts from Mont St. Louis gym, either as ref or judge or organizer. He has hopes of inducing Marcel Burgin to come along for one of the five 3-rounders. Marcel is in training for the British Empire Games at Vancouver, and consequently may be a little reluctant.

Among those already lined up for the supporting bouts are: Gary More, the Juvenile Golden Gloves champion; Bob Croxen, a well-built young colored boy; Bryan Falle; and a local boy, Lloyd Thompson, from Lakefield. Most of these boys are from the Grenadier Guards, Tommy Sullivan's own farm.

Muskie Season Opens; May Become Popular Quebec Game-Fish

Capture of a 26-inch 5-pound maskinonge in Lac Superieur, Terrebonne County, was hailed today by the Quebec Biological Bureau as marking the success of experimental plantings made three years ago.

It bids fair to signal the start of a new era in Laurentian angling, when in many a lake system the muskie will take the place of the native but disappearing speckled trout, authorities believe.

The successful outcome of the test may also point the way to a method of correcting the damage done to Laurentian waters by indiscriminate and accidental dissemination of bait minnows. This damage has been estimated in the millions of dollars.

The capture was made by J. O. Pellerin, of Montreal, in mid-May as part of a government-sponsored try-out, and the fish has since been studied in the Biological Bureau of the provincial Game and Fisheries Department. (The muskie season officially opened June 16, and minimum length is 30 inches.)

Provincial biologists say if this one fish has not only survived, but gained weight at the rate of more than 1½ lbs. a year, then there can be no doubt that others also have come through, so subsequent plantings can be confidently undertaken.

They believe other hatchery muskies have most certainly been caught in the total of 17 Laurentian, St. Lawrence and Eastern Townships lakes planted with the same subspecies in 1951 but have not been recognized by the anglers. The young muskie is easily mistaken for a pike. In the St. Lawrence the planted subspecies, hatched at Lachine from eggs imported from New York State, is hard to tell from the native muskie.

Between a young northern pike and a young muskie, the chief difference to the layman's eye is that the pike has light-colored marks on a dark green-brown ground, while the muskie has dark blotches instead of the light marks.

Vianney Legendre, the Biological Bureau's expert on fish identification, will summer at the Laurentian fish hatchery, St. Faustin, Que., of which he is director, and will be interested to hear of any muskie captures made in the province this coming season. Specimens should be preserved by refrigeration or in either commercial alcohol or formaldehyde. There is a $3 reward for muskies, payable by the Bureau and underwritten by the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations.

Marlene Stewart to Try the "Impossible"

By Jim Peacock

Marlene Stewart flies to Britain late in June to try again the "impossible" which she has conquered before.

The sturdy little fighter from Fonthill, Ont., who for three years has had the experts a-reeling, will defend her British women's amateur open golf championship at Canton, Scarborough, England, June 28 to July 3. Victory would place her among the golf immortals.

"Litle Ben" — she won the nickname as a sort of pocket female edition of the great Ben Hogan — was 17 in 1951 when she won a double-barrelled triumph in her first major competition — the Canadian women's close and open titles. No Canadian had been able to win both these titles for a dozen years, or since ranking American competitors entered the open.

Still it seemed impossible that a 'teen-ager should win the Canadian close three times running. Not to Marlene. She has toppled newcomer and veteran alike since 1951 and still holds the close title.

Even close friends were skeptical that the determined youngster at 19 could win the British open last year. Yet she did, with a thumping 7 and 6 victory over Irish champion Philomena Garvey in the final at Porthcawl, Wales.

That "unbelievable" accomplishment placed Little Ben among Canada's fairway elite. She became the first Canadian golfer to win a major British crown and the first Canadian woma ever to win on foreign soil.

Only Sandy Somerville of London, Ont., went before Marlene in winning for Canada a major outside golf championship — the U.S. open in 1932. No Canadian has won twice on foreign ground.

This year, even the skeptics may feel that this package of dynamite from the Niagara peninsula might explode another "impossible".

This apparently steel-nerved excaddy was well schooled in golf before last year's British open. From the tutoring of Fonthill professional Gord McInnis and national competitions, she had obviously learned well.

Competition against top-ranking United States women amateurs and professionals — including Babe Zaharias and Patty Berg — during last winter in Florida, where Marlene attends college, has added to this learning.

Miss Stewart didn't win in Florida but she was among the leaders almost every time out. And for a 20-year-old with many years to look forward to, that experience is invaluable.

Golf's International hall of fame will have another applicant if Marlene wins in Britain this year. Certainly she has already proven her right to walk in Canadian golf's high places.

Lachute Ladies in Seigniory Club Tourney

Seigniory Club — A field of 44 ladies will take part in the Seigniory Club's 23rd annual 36-hole medal play golf tournament, which opened here Wednesday. The second 18-hole round takes place today (Thursday).

Lachute ladies entered in the tournament are — Mrs. Jack Archer, Mrs. Leonard Ayers, Mrs. Richard Stephens and Mrs. Howard Watson.

Harness Race Features At Rigaud Park

A highlight at the Rigaud Park race-track last Sunday was the presentation of a fine trophy to Jimmy Connors, of Dickenson's Landing, Ont., in recognition of his long and loyal support to harness racing enterprises. The presentation was made by the race-track directorate. A token was also presented to Mrs. Connors.

New heats were run off and all the track events were well contested.

Another good program is arranged for next Sunday, featuring a number of new horses. The management hopes for an enthusiastic spectatorship, to encourage both the organizers and the horse owners taking part.

Ottawa Valley Groups In Square Dance Contests

Ottawa — Town and rural square-dance enthusiasts will have an opportunity of showing their talents and winning major cash awards at the Ottawa Exhibition's square-dancing competition, to be held at Lansdowne Park, August 23-28.

Total prize money of $1,100, donated by Canada Packers Ltd., will be awarded to the dancers who show the most skill. There will be three divisions in the competitions, for juniors, 10 to 15 years of age; intermediate, 16 to 25 years; and senior, for 26 years of age and over. Five prizes will be awarded in each division.

The newly formed Ottawa Valley Square Dance Association will welcome enquiries as to available material to assist new groups in preparing for the competition.

Many entries in last year's competition were sponsored by community associations. Included in last year's competition were entries from Windsor, North Bay, Eganville, Renfrew, Perth, Kemptville, Shawville, Quyon, Aylmer, Campbell's Bay and Richmond.

A group of school children were brought by their teacher to a meeting of the village board in the hope that they would learn something about government. Occasionally the mayor interrupted the board proceedings to explain things. The youngsters squirmed and looked around at maps on one wall and a huge moose's head on another.

When the meeting closed, the mayor asked, "Any questions, children?"

"Yes", said one small boy, "Who shot the moose?"

For Radio Coverage Of Second Stratford Shakespearian Festival

CBC producers have been busy at Stratford, Ontario, preparing radio and TV program to help mark the opening of the second Shakespearian festival. Their work has been carried on amid the bustle of preparations for the opening on Monday, June 28.

First of all, Harry Rasky and a TV film crew went to the festival site to gather material for "CBC News Magazine" on June 20 — 6 p.m. on the CBC-TV network.

Then a party from the radio side of CBC Toronto began preparing a CBC Wednesday Night feature, to be heard from 8 to 9 p.m. on June 23. Andrew Allan, CBC's drama supervisor, will be the host and act as chairman of a discussion to be recorded at Stratford.

Dr. Guthrie, who successfully directed the first festival last year, is again contributing his skill and talent. Actor Robert Christie, who also took part last year, is scheduled to appear in all three of this summer's productions — Shakespeare's "Measure for Measure" and "The Taming of the Shrew", and "Oedipus Rex" by Sophocles. Frances Hyland, the Regina-born actress, recently returned from successes in England to prepare for her first professional appearance in Canada, which will be on the Stratford stage. These three festival personalities will be joined on the panel by John Beaufort, who covered the festival last year for the Christian Science Monitor.

A program of a different sort has been prepared by Thom Benson of the CBC for broadcast on CBC at 8 p.m. on June 27 — the eve of the opening.

"The whole idea of this program," says Benson, "will be to present a picture through sound, of Stratford town in the days and weeks preceding the festival. Although the emphasis is on Shakespeare, it is not entirely on the festival, but certainly the festival is the reason for the program.

"One of the features will be a conversation with an 83-year-old resident named Tomm Orr, who started the Shakespeare Memorial Gardens in Stratford, and planned the beautification of the parklands and most of the city. Another feature will be a short bit by Tyrone Guthrie as he directs his players during rehearsal and explains how he sees a particular scene and the way he believes it should be played. During the program three or four actors and actresses (including Miss Hyland) will be busily learning their lines, and Cecil Clarke, director of "Measure for Measure", will take us on a short tour of the property department, and he does a smashing bit of description."

An interesting footnote on the festival is the fact that exactly half the players named in the official brochure are well known to listeners and viewers, having appeared in many CBC drama productions.

Art Exhibition, Church Auspices

Hawkesbury — An exhibit of paintings by Mrs. Peter L. Walker (the former Vivian Knox), of Montreal, will be held in the Town Hall, Hawkesbury, this Friday afternoon, June 18, from 3 to 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Walker is a well-known Canadian artist who has won numerous awards for her paintings in the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts. She has also held exhibitions in the Manoir Richelieu, Murray Bay. She is a summer resident of Carillon and is known by many in Lachute and St. Andrews East.

Tea will be served at this exhibit by the Ladies' Society of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Hawkesbury.

Lions' TV Prize To Ticket Holder In Centre Town

A hive of activity in "commercial row" — where business and tradesmen had their exhibits displayed on the Fair Grounds last week — was the Lions Club stand. Adjacent, also, was the Rotary Club booth; here prizes were on view and tickets for sale.

Peak hour was 6 p.m. Saturday, when crowds gathered around the Lions Club automobile to witness the drawing for a television set. Jas. MacKimmie, chairman of the Agricultural Society, kindly drew the ticket (No. 72999) and this prize was won by Mrs. Fred Giroux, 476 Thomas Street, Lachute.

The booth attendants extended their loudspeaker facilities at this time for three drawings conducted by nearby exhibitors:

Mme Arthur Larocque, Corbeil Street, Lachute Mills, was the winner of a cookware set given by Sharon Steelwares Company.

Marguerite Bernsky, 1085 Beaudry Street, Montreal, was the winner of an electric iron given by Laurent Tessier Enrg.

Pete Todd, Lachute, was the winner of a 24-piece glassware set given by T. McOuat & Son Ltd.

With its headwaters, the Mackenzie is the longest river in Canada, 2,635 miles.

Radio Interviews By Frank Ryan At Fair Grounds

CFRA Farm Program On Location, Setting for Calf Club Drawing

An interesting sidelight of the Lachute Fair was the "Farmer's Notebook" broadcast, last Saturday, in which Frank Ryan, radio producer, depicted the scene at Farmers' Supply Company booth. This was the climax of the 4-H Calf Club's drawing for a registered Holstein calf — for which ticket sales have been in progress for the past several weeks. Mr. Ryan, m.c. of this popular noonhour program, came to Lachute at the invitation of Farmers' Supply (co-sponsors of the regular broadcast). During the proceedings several prominent figures in local business and agriculture were interviewed. Jas. MacKimmie, president of the Agricultural Society; Gilbert Arnold, of the horse exhibits committee; Syd Patterson, manager and secretary of the Fair; Forbes McOuat, vice-president; Geo. Defossés, spokesman of the French-speaking 4-H's; Jim and Colin McOuat, members of the Farmers' Supply management — each gave impressions of the Exhibition and of the Calf Club event. The lucky ticket was then drawn from an appropriately decorated butter churn, and the winner was Jean Clark, of R.R. 1, Brownsburg. The winning ticket was No. 132.

Estimated profits on this drawing for the benefit of the Club were $500, according to Colin McOuat, who thanked everybody for their co-operation.

Radio Talks About Canada's New Citizens

Canada welcomed her millionth post-war immigrant this summer and today one in every five Canadians is of other than British or French origin.

On two consecutive Tuesday evenings at 10.15 p.m. Sheila Patterson will talk about these newcomers in Canada on the CBC Trans-Canada program 'Canadiana'. In her first talk on June 22, Mrs. Patterson will point out the difference between newcomers who were forced by circumstances to leave their own countries and those who came to Canada because they wanted to improve their standard of living. In her second talk, she will describe how the immigrants are received by others who arrived before them from the same countries.

During the last few months, Mrs. Paterson has met and talked with many New Canadians, concentrating on those of Polish extraction as they are the subject of a Ph.D. thesis she is preparing for the University of London, England. After her graduation in anthropology from London University, Mrs. Patterson lived for four years in South Africa. Recently she moved to Canada with her husband and is continuing her studies under a fellowship from the Canadian Social Science Research Council.

Angus was displaying to his neighbor, McDonald, the second-hand car he'd bought.

"It looks fine, mon," said McDonald, "but ah'm thinking it'll be costing ye a lot in fuel."

"No' so bad," replied Angus proudly. "Ye ken, it's downhill tae the town, and I can get a tow home most days."

THE OLD HOME TOWN By STANLEY

Report from Basutoland

"Footloose in Basutoland" is the title of next week's program in a series of reports from far away countries heard every Thursday at 8 p.m. on CBC. Harry Franklin, a Luska (Northern Rhodesia) broadcaster who is a member of the Northern and Southern Rhodesia, Tanganyika and Nyasaland New Federation, is the author and narrator of the program.

He lays particular emphasis upon the strained relationship between Basutoland and the Union of South Africa which, he says, is determined to incorporate Basutoland, although this would be against the wishes of the native population.

Included in the broadcast is a tape-recorded scene from the trial of a man accused of ritual murder, and an account of the work of Catholic missionaries from Ontario.

At Elmira, Ont., the town council sanitation committee recommended that no garbage from persons not resident in Elmira be placed in the town dump unless special arrangements are made.

Full of vim and vigour, the Hanover, Ont., Post tells of William Huenemoerder of Brant Township striding into the office to pay his subscription; the point was that this gentleman is 96 years old.

The Campbell River (B.C.) Courier reports that the latest wrinkle to control cougars as "Cyanide guns"; these are baited with catnip and seal-oil and planted in the ground automatically discharge when the animal tugs at the bait.

Says the Brooks (Alta.) Bulletin: A reasonable amount of credit is useful and even necessary. But the piling up of a mountain of consumer indebtedness is a serious thing for any nation."

Another sealing season has closed on a sombre note, reports the Grand Falls (Nfld.) Advertiser, but "The one outstanding characteristic of the Newfoundlander through past generations is his ability to take punishment and to cover up from disappointments. But there is a limit to that."

At Wiarton, Ont., Police Chief Art Lemcke's ire was roused when some boys put glue in the parking meters; the boys' parents were handed a repair bill of $6; costly glue.

Plenty of interest and spark in his job is still being shown by John Little of Yarmouth, N.S., 90, who has been on the staff of a wholesale business there ever since he started working for them 74 years ago; he serves as secretary now.

BUSINESS NEVER BETTER AT TRADE FAIR

—Central Press Canadian

Almost all exhibitors at the Canadian International Trade Fair in Toronto tell of more business being transacted than ever before. To many of the 27 countries exhibiting their wares, the Fair is the only meeting place for buyers and sellers from other lands. This rubber sailboat, made in Austria and paddled by Nina Logan, has found several agencies ready to market it in other countries. Space in the Fair has been retained for as far ahead as six years.

Quick Canadian Quiz

1. Roald Amundsen, Norwegian explorer, achieved fame in Canada for what feat?

Women's Interests -- The Homemaker's Section

More Hints on Freezing Food

Last week the home economists of the Consumer Section gave some questions and answers on freezing foods; this week we continue them. It should be emphasized again, however, that the Consumer Section booklet "Freezing Foods" should be the consumer's first freezing guide. Anyone who does not have a copy of it, should write for one, free, to the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

The questions this week are, "Can you stuff poultry before freezing?" "Are certain types of freezer wrappings better for some foods than others?" And the last question, "Does it pay to freeze your own food?"

The first question, "Can you stuff poultry before freezing? . . The home economists do not recommend it. When they experimented with stuffing birds before freezing they found that during the storage period the seasonings and the dressing tended to change. Some of the herbs took on a bitter flavor after a few month's storage. It was also noted that the actual flesh of the bird became permeated with the flavor of the herbs to such an extent that the meat was not acceptable. The American Institute of Baking also did an extensive study on this matter; they too concluded that it was not a good idea to freeze stuffed poultry, because when stuffed the bird takes longer to thaw and there is always the danger of the flesh deteriorating.

The second question, "Are certain types of freezer wraps better than others?" . . . The home economists mention that consumers who have just bought new home freezers do not seem to know what types of freezer paper and freezer cartons to use. Let us start by saying what types of paper not to use for frozen food. Ordinary wax paper, butcher paper, wrapping paper or newspaper should never be used for frozen foods. These papers will allow the moisture to be drawn out of the food and the food will become dried out. This drying action is known as freezer burn. Now the types of paper that can be used are these: any wrapping paper which is moisture-vapour-proof, that is any that will allow little or no loss of moisture during storage, is a satisfactory wrap. The wrap should not only prevent the drying out of food but should also protect it from absorbing flavors. In addition to this, the wrap must of course be odourless and tasteless. And what what papers will do all these things, consumers ask? One type is a special paper called locker paper. It may be white, peach or buff in color. It is a heavy Kraft paper on the outside — that is like ordinary wrapping paper — but it has a special wax coating on the inside. Many Canadian paper companies make locker papers and all are quite satisfactory. Aluminum foil is another good wrapping paper for frozen foods. It is available in most grocery stores in two widths — 12 inches and 18 inches. Incidentally, if aluminum foil is handled carefully and cleaned well after using, it can be re-used a second or even a third time. Moisture-vapour-proof cellophane is another good frozen food wrap. All these wrappings may be bought from our large mail order houses in Canada. Sometimes the companies who sell freezer-units also sell the wraps for the foods going into the freezer. Many grocery stores too sell freezer wraps, so there are a great variety of places where freezer wraps can be bought. By the way, when buying the cellophane be sure to ask if it is the type that is specially made for wrapping frozen foods. It is not the same kind of celleophane that you wrap birthday gifts in — it is heavier and more pliable. And one other class of papers that is satisfactory are the plastic films. There are many types of plastic film papers on the market and most of them are suitable for frozen foods, but here too, is a good idea to ask when buying the paper if it is suitable for wrapping frozen foods.

Now the last question, "Does it pay to freeze your own fruits and vegetables?" . . . The answer is both "yes" and "no". Yes, it pays to freeze your own food if you raise the fruits and vegetables in your own garden or if you can buy fresh fruits and vegetables in large quantities from a farmer or from a market at less than retail price. The answer is no if you have to pay retail price for the raw produce you are going to freeze. If you have a home freezer but you do not have access to cheaper fruits and vegetables, then the home economists' advice to you is to buy commercially prepared frozen foods and store them in your freezer. After all, it stands to reason that our large Canadian canneries who freeze foods buy large quantities of fresh fruits and vegetables at the peak of supply, then buy them at regulated prices which are less than retail prices and they can produce frozen foods quickly and efficiently. Much quicker and much more efficiently than the average homemaker can do. And to illustrate this point, take the case of a package of frozen peas. Mrs. Homemaker can buy a package of Fancy Quality frozen peas in the grocery store for around 27c per carton. They are all ready to eat. For Mrs. Homemaker to freeze her own peas, however, she has to buy the raw unshelled peas at her grocer's at top prices, and it would probably cost just as much to buy the food and prepare it herself as it would to buy the package already frozen. And why? Because first of all it takes about 2 pounds of raw unshelled peas to fill one 16-ounce carton. The cost of peas is often as much as 2 pounds for 25c. In other words that allows only 2c for the cost of the carton, the time of preparation, the cost of freezing. So it is easy to see why we say yes — freeze your own food if you have access to fresh fruits and vegetables at less than retail cost but no if you have not.

Favorite Potpie For Father's Day

A poll of fathers to determine one of their favorite meals usually produces a great many votes for chicken potpie "with a nice flakey pastry." For those Dads who like potpie, we offer a recipe for Father's Day dinner.

The stewing chicken is not always the least expensive member of the chicken family so compare prices before buying. Choose the size of the bird required for your family, allowing about 2/3 of a pound per serving of eviscerated or 3/4 of a pound per serving of undrawn bird. Less chicken per serving is required for potpie than when serving it roasted or fried because of the extra vegetables and the crust topping which are added.

If a chicken is undrawn, have dealer eviscerate it or draw it yourself. Cut up and disjoint chicken for serving, wipe pieces with clean damp cloth, singe if necessary and remove any pin feathers.

Cook chicken in dutch oven, covered kettle or pressure cooker. For a bird of 4½ ponuds eviscerated weight, add about 3 cups of water, two or three slices of onion, a few celery leaves, piece of bay leaf, one small carrot, two teaspoons salt, and 1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate. Simmer covered until tender, about 3½ hours or cook according to manufacturer's directions, if using pressure cooker.

Vegetables may be added the last 20 to 30 minutes to cook until just tender. Suggestions are small potatoes, carrots, small onions and if desired mushrooms. Transfer cooked chicken and vegetables to large baking dish. Thicken gravy to the desired degree with flour, adjust seasonings and add to baking dish. Cover with pastry, slit to allow steam to escape. Bake in hot oven 425°F. for 10 to 15 minutes or until crust is golden brown. If desired small tea biscuits may be used to cover potpie in place of pastry. Yield: 6 servings.

An electrically operated kitchen does not always provide a convenient way to singe a roasting chicken, which must be held over an open flame to burn off the hairs. Don't risk burning the house down by wadding up a roll of newspaper and setting it afire. Simply place 2 to 3 (not more) tablespoons of methylated spirits (wood alcohol) in a metal pie plate. Set it in the sink where there is no danger of upsetting it, then light it and "presto", a smokeless flame over which to turn the chicken and singe it. Be sure not to get the chicken into the liquid, as wood alcohol is poisonous. Wash the pie plate thoroughly after using it also.

Let's Eat

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"Homemakers who have outside jobs are undoubtedly rushed for time," remarked the chef.

"Then they will be tempted to do what many young apprentice chefs sometimes do: They guess at the measurements. But this does not always work. Ah, no! And the result may be unappetizing foods because of poor seasoning, sauces with lumps, hot breads or cakes that fall.

Wasteful Failures

"Such cooking failures waste time, food, money, energy and temper. No matter how rushed the cook may be, time taken to measure accurately means time saved."

"Right you are, chef.

"I have today's double-quick menu already planned. This main dish is a fresh fish loaf, which will be a welcome change from prepared fish sticks or shellfish, or sauteed or broiled fish fillets; yet it can be completed within an hour.

"To save time, I'm also suggesting the use of four commercially prepared foods: Jellied madrilene, frozen or canned string beans, potato chips, and fig cookies."

Tomorrow's Double-quick Dinner

Jellied Madrilene
Fresh Fish Loaf
Egg-Dill Cream Sauce
Hot Potato Chips String Beans
Frappeed Fruits Fig Cookies
Hot or Iced Coffee or Tea, Milk

Procedure: Chill canned madrilene. Prepare and bake fish loaf. Cook frozen or canned string beans. Prepare frappeed fruits. Make egg-dill cream sauce. Heat potato chips in oven.

All Measurements Are Level Recipes Serve 4 to 6

Fresh Fish Loaf: Use 1½ lbs. fresh or thawed frozen fillets of cod, perch, haddock or flounder. Put through the chopper three times.

Combine 2 tbsp. enriched farina and 2 tsbp. enriched flour with ¼ c. milk. Cook and stir until boiling. Add the fish. Add 1 beaten egg, 1 tsp. scraped onion, 1 tbsp. minced parsley, 1 tsp. salt and ¼ tsp. pepper.

Transfer to an oiled 5 x 9 in. loaf pan. Set in a pan of hot water. Bake 35 min., or until firm, in a moderately hot oven, 375 deg. F.

Unmold on a platter. Garnish the top with thin slices of lemon, border with string beans, pass egg-dill cream sauce or ketchup.

Frappeed Fruits: Almost any combination of fresh and/or canned fruits may be used. Sweetening may be sugar or honey dissolved in a little warm water for easy blending.

Chill the fruit mixture to freezing point in the refrigerator or food freezer. Top each serving with brightly colored fruit, such as a strawberry or cherry.

Trick of the Chef

Dust potato chips with celery salt before heating.

Fashions

Cotton lingerie has come a long way from its original interpretation and is now, both in fabric easy care and fine detail, as smart, as practical and as pretty as many more expensive fabrics. For proof, we offer this beguiling, figure-flattering slip of combed cotton plisse. It is made with a front shadow panel, has all-over embroidered nylon sheer at top and inset of bodice and also at the hem, and extra frothing in the form of nylon satin ribbon edging and bows. Washes, of course, easily and being crinkled scorns the touch of an iron.

PERSONAL CONTRIBUTION

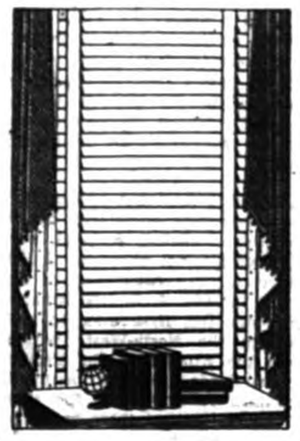

Snake River, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Charles Whitmore, 92, presented the women's missionary society of this community near Pembroke with a quilt which she had bought and pieced by herself. Mrs. Whitmore is a regular attendant at the meetings.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on 'nerves'—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better. 136

Dad -- An Active Partner

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

A group of small boys were bragging about their fathers. Tom boasted his Dad had a brand new car, and that he got a new one every year. Jimmie claimed his father worked harder and made more money than the other fathers.

Bill said his dad won first place in the golf tournament at his club the week before. But Bob silenced them all when he said, "My dad can catch fish — and sometimes he asks me to come."

* * *

There is nothing a small boy appreciates more than his father taking time to do things with him. Giving him playthings or money of paying for a treat at the movies — none of these are substitutes for a father-and-son adventure. With his dad as a companion, a boy gets a glimpse of a man's world which is so fascinating — and which he must enter some day.

Small boys cannot keep up with grown men, but a father can moderate his pace so that his son won't be completely out of breath. It means so much to a boy for his dad to include him in his leisure time plans once in a while. How can they get to know each other if they are not alone occasionally? When a boy reaches adolescence, he will be "off with the gang" — father will not have the same chance then to spend time with him.

A father plays a very special part in a daughter's development. His word of praise about her appearance in a new dress gives her confidence in her feminine appeal. When she is upset over a quarrel with a little chum or if she is not getting along well at school, father can usually help her by just listening to her tale of woe. He is likely to be more objective than a mother and he can encourage her to see that there are two sides to every story. A happy solution can usually be worked out for most childhood problems.

It is good for children, as they grow older, to know something about the way their father earns a living. If they have no opportunity to learn about his work, they are apt to take him very much for granted. It is partly his own fault if father becomes just "an animated pay cheque."

A father can often influence his children in their attitude not only to his own job but to all work. Mother's task is home-making and Dad earns the money; he sees more of the outside world than his wife. For that reason he can frequently be more helpful to a son or daughter in the choice of their own work — providing father realizes that this is a decision a young person must make for himself or herself.

Children need both parents. If they lose a father by death or divorce they are apt to be bitter. But it is quite possible for them to lose touch with a father if he is indifferent to them, if he is too preoccupied with making money or if he is away from home a great deal of the time.

The children who are unadjusted and unhappy frequently come from homes where father and mother have not given them loving understanding and guidance. The mother has the major responsibility for the children's upbringing, but the father provides necessary balance. In a family where parents work and plan and play together with their children, boys and girls are prepared for adulthood when they will have homes of their own. Building a home is a co-operative enterprise. Dad, are you an active partner in your household?

QUICK KNOCKDOWN

THE NEW BOXING ring recently installed in Madison Square Garden can be knocked down almost as fast as some fighters we could name. This is important to the Garden, with its quick-change schedule of sports events, from boxing to basketball to hockey and back to boxing again. Made of lightweight aluminum, this ring promises to be more than a match for the toughest heavyweight.

Aluminum is constantly making news in our own sports world. Anglers, yachtsmen and other strenuous types go for the light, strong, non-rusting equipment made by Canadian manufacturers from Canadian aluminum. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

SPARTAN SWIMMERS

"What is so rare as a day in June?"

June is a magical month for youngsters. For mothers it falls short of magical. It's the time when Junior and Sis hear adventure calling over the lazy green hills. It's a special sort of adventure that for some reason or other has to be approach barefoot through poison ivy and shirtless through swarms of yellow jackets under a blistering sun. Somewhere at the end of it there's a dip in good ol' Typhoid Pond or quaint ol' Iceberg Brook.

Poor mother has to make the decisions. If she puts her foot down she is Mrs. Simon Legree and the target of hurt, rebellious glances. If she is easy-going she finds herself in charge of a miniature hospital ward, surrounded by doctors and druggists who eventually have to be paid.

It is a time for delicate diplomacy. A certain amount of adventure and risk-taking belongs in a child's life. If the world were a hothouse perhaps it would be all right for children to grow up as hothouse plants, but the world is not. On the other hand, a child can overdo this adventure business and not grow up at all.

Here's a typical June problem:

Question:

"I have two children, ages seven and eight, who seem more like walruses than children. They can swim around happily for hours in Lake Ontario when the water is so cold it takes my breath away. I try to be game and keep up with them, but when my teeth begin chattering I call them out. They act as though I were an ogre, but it seems to me that when the cold becomes too much for me it cannot be doing the children any good. Is there any sort of rule about how long children be allowed to swim, and how warm the water should be?"

Answer:

In connection with allowing children to swim long periods of time, especially in Lake Ontario: I think one has to be a disciplinarian here, as with every other control placed on children. Various people have different responses to cold. Some very fat individuals can stay in the water for long periods of time without feeling cold, whereas the thin, wiry type of child gets very cold and blue after a short time in cold water. There is no definite rule about how long children should be allowed to swim in water, but I should say that one half to one hour would certainly be long enough and much shorter periods would be advisable.

Have You A Question ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. Why am I considered to be not available for work when I am willing to work for six hours a day?

A. If you previously worked longer hours; are now restricted to six hours per day and there are no six-hour day jobs to be had in your area, then you cannot be considered as available for work so long as you will accept employment only for the shorter hours.

* * *

Q. If I give two months notice of leaving and am dismissed immediately am I entitled to benefit?

A. This would depend entirely on the circumstances that brought about your dismissal. If, however, dismissal occurred simply because you gave notice, and you are otherwise qualified, benefit would be paid.

Faces Charges Laid by N'fld Premier

Dr. Alfred Valdmanis, shown left with his lawyer, faces criminal and civil charges involving $420,000 laid by the Newfoundland Government. The trial of Valdmanis, formerly the chief aide to Premier Joseph Smallwood, is one of the most spectacular of Canadian political history, as the charges have been laid by Premier Smallwood himself.

Annual Meeting Laurentides Region Ch. of Commerce

Twenty-seven years ago, Gatineau bought out these various plants producing a total horsepower which today could not even supply the needs of St. Jerome. By means of storage dams and a progressive program of development, the Company could now adequately supply all demands and ensure good service in its area. It had, in fact, been able to draw on its reserves to supply such industries as Dominion Rubber, Ayers Limited and Dominion Shuttle when operation of these mills was threatened by low water in the North River. The Gatineau program had similarly provided for future possibilities of expansion in its field of service.

The role of Gatineau's recently appointed Industrial Commissioner, Maurice Lavallée, was defined by Mr. Brown in conclusion; and a question period ensued, in which many customer-municipalities took part.

The speaker was introduced by George Duningan, St. Jerome, and thanked by Gaston Clouthier, Ste. Agathe. . . "If the Laurentides Chamber of Commerce has done nothing more than to have fostered better understanding between Gatineau Power Company and its consumers, then this Chamber will have justified its purpose in the past year," commented President Horace Lamarche.

Local Reports

Reports from the member groups indicated a reorganization of several Chambers of Commerce and formation of new ones. Reports were heard from the following branches:

L'Annonciation, Laval des Rapides, Mont Laurier, Morin Heights, Rawdon, Ste. Adele, St. Hippolyte, St. Jerome, St. Jovite, Ste. Agathe, St. Andrews East, Ste. Scholastique, Ste. Therese, Ste. Rose and Lachute.

Radio Publicity

George Powell, formerly of Lachute and now assistant-manager of the Chantecler, Ste. Adele, outlined plans for a weekly news broadcast from Station CJAD originating at Ste. Adele, and invited all Laurentian centres to communicate items of news for this commentary, to commence the first week in July.

Resolutions

Three resolutions of public interest were carried — one for attention of the Quebec Chamber of Commerce and two to be directed to the Quebec Government, as follows:

Sumbitted by the Chamber of Commerce of L'Annonciation:

That the Provincial Chamber of Commerce request Premier Maurice Duplessis to exercise efforts for better protection of fish and game in the Laurentians — in view of the increasing number of tourists, and depredations on game not by tourists but by some seeking to make a few dollars at the expense of our future tourist revenue.

Submitted by the Chamber of Commerce of Ste. Agathe:

Roadside Improvement

That, considering roadside embellishment as an asset in publicity for the Laurentian area, the Laurentides Chamber of Commerce be requested to seek co-operation of the provincial authorities by the removal of their "shack" serving as police quarters at the approach to Carterville Bridge, and its replacement by an attractive station such as those seen on U.S. and certain Ontario highways.

Traffic on Highway 11

That, in view of increasing week-end traffic between Montreal and St. Jovite, the Laurentides Chamber of Commerce be requested to petition the provincial authorities to prohibit use of this highway by trucks of more than 1½ tons between midnight Saturday and midnight Sunday.

Following the election of officers, the lounge of the Laurentide Inn was the scene of a cocktail party and musicale. Here, as guests of the Ste. Agathe Town Council and Chamber of Commerce, the delegates and members were joined by their wives, who had been entertained meanwhile by a boat trip on Lac des Sables and tea on the hotel terrace. Lachute's inimitable Romeo Legault was m.c. and vocalist for a community song session in the lounge, and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

Monseigneur H. D. J. Brosseau Evening Speaker

At an evening banquet in the spacious dining room, Mayor J. B. Lafreniere of Ste. Agathe extended an official welcome. President Horace Lamarche conveyed the regrets of the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur, of Lachute, L. Bertrand, M.P. for Terrebonne, and Bernard Couvrette, vice president of the Provincial Chamber of Commerce, for their inability to attend. Notable guests introduced to the gathering were Msgr. H. D. J. Brosseau, of Montebello; Msgr. S. Noiseux, of Ste. Agathe; J. L. Blanchard, M.L.A. for Terrebonne; Philippe Valois, M.P. for Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes; Joseph Racine, president, and Viateur Gendron, secretary, of the Provincial Chamber of Commerce.

A highlight of the evening was President Lamarche's expression of appreciation on relinquishing office to his successor. Mr. Lamarche was presented with a desk set, and Mrs. Lamarche was presented with a corsage, acknowledging their devoted services to the Laurentides Chamber. Mr. and Mrs. George Dunnigan, of St. Jerome, made the presentations.

Remarks by Gérard Lefebvre, president-elect, on assuming his new office, gave indication of energetic leadership in the coming year.

"Father Brosseau", introduced by Mayor Quesnel, of Montebello, spoke in his usual happy manner on "The Secret of Success". The elements of success, he affirmed, dwell within each one; individually or collectively, man "succeeds" only as he develops each faculty and talent with which he is endowed. He fails because he has not accepted the directives of Providence; a sense of spiritual values is the basis of guidance. "If you do not succeed, begin by blaming yourself. If you use all the faculties and opportunities God has given you, I guarantee you success". . . . Interwoven with his theme was that spice of humor and philosophy for which Msgr. Brosseau is loved in his pastorate and circle of acquaintanceship.

Léopold Carrière, "industrialist of Lachute, Brownsburg and Montebello", ably expressed the thanks of the assembly.

Other speakers during the banquet were Msgr. Noiseux, of Ste. Agathe; Philippe Valois, M.P.; and Jos. Racine, provincial president, who reviewed the day's proceedings. Gérard Lefebvre in conclusion extended thanks to the Town, Chamber of Commerce and Industrial Commission of Ste. Agathe, and to all who had contributed to the success of this occasion.

Conserve Our Gains

By Lewis Milligan

"Our aim should be to build up Canadian interests, that capital may find profitable investment, labor diversified employment and the people prosperous and contended homes."

The above statement was made 77 years ago by Thomas White, a newspaper man, at the conclusion of a speech delivered in London, Ontario, on Free Trade and Protection. At that time Canada had a population of four million and was an open and free market for the growing industries of the United States, with a population of 44 million. Canadian industries were struggling in vain against that handicap, and there was a strong annexationist sentiment even among Canadians of British descent. French-Canadians, although lacking hereditary attachment to the British Crown, were strongly opposed to annexation, for language and religious reasons.

Canada had enjoyed a period of great prosperity in the early 1850s, during the building of the Grand Trunk Railway, when enormous sums of British capital were introduced into the country, accompanied by an influx of immigrants from the Old World. With the completion of the Grand Trunk in 1857 the brief period of prosperity declined and Canadians were faced with an economic crisis. In 1858 Sir Alexander Galt, for the first time in Canada, introduced the protection princple, as a result of which new industries "sprang up as if by magic" in different parts of the Dominion.

As a result of this period of prosperity the idea of annexation faded away and Canada as a nation was born with the establishment of Confederation. But in the process of uniting all the provinces there had to be a compromise on the question of Free Trade and Protection. Tariffs were reduced or abolished in some instances. Meanwhile Canada continued to be prosperous owing to the Civil War in the United States which had paralyzed all their industries, so that Canadians suffered nothing from the reduction of import duties.

By 1873, however, the industries of the United States were fast resuming their old state and the situation was reversed. The United States raised their tariff walls and Canada became a "slaughter market" for American goods. A depression set in and, in spite of Confederation, the idea of annexation was revived. That was averted only by the strenuous campaign of John A. MacDonald for a National Policy of Protection, with the slogan, "We don't want to be hewers of wood and drawers of water for our neighbors for all time to come."

As a result of that National Policy, Canadian industries and agriculture made great strides; the Canadian Pacific Railway spanned the Dominion and Western Canada was opened up by an influx of immigrants from Britain and continental Europe. Since then Canada has become more and more consolidated and independent as a nation.

There is no need for an extreme protectionist policy today, but it seems to me that, if we are to avoid an economic depression, Canada must conserve what she has gained by reasonable protection of those industries and their workers that are suffering from unfair foreign competition. Industrialists and organized labor alike, for their common good, can today surely endorse that national policy briefly stated by Thomas White 77 years ago:

"Our aim should be to legislate to build up Canadian interests, that capital may find profitable investment, labor diversified employment and the people prosperous and contented homes."

Transistors operate on about one-millionth of a watt. A tube requires one watt merely to heat its filament.

He's changing the nation's landscape

You may see the result of what he is doing in the city's changing skyline — or out where the corn grows tall . . . in the mushrooming suburbs — or in the new look of Main Street in a mellow old town.

Where many a vacant lot once stood, he helps fill it with a fine new school. Where you used to see a structure that was an eyesore you may now see a new apartment house, store or other building he played a role in providing.

Thanks in part to him, many houses rise here and there, or row on row, in community after community. New black ribbons of asphalt tie town to town. Somewhere, a new bridge is built.

New industrial plants, too, are sometimes the by-products of his helping hand. Perhaps one of them has provided you with a job.

Who is he?

He represents all the millions of life insurance policyholders in Canada. And it's money from their premiums, which life insurance companies invest for them, that makes possible such improvements as these throughout the nation.

So, if you are a life insurance policyholder building security for your family and yourself, you're also helping to build a better Canada!

AT YOUR SERVICE!

Hon. W. M. Cottingham Feted at Civic Reception

Presentation at Function Honoring His Appointment to Quebec Cabinet

Many hundreds of residents from Lachute and district gathered at the civic auditorium Monday afternoon to honor the provincial deputy of this county, the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, on his recent appointment to the Quebec cabinet as Minister of Mines. Sponsored by Lachute Town authorities as a public reception on Mr. Cottingham's behalf, the affair was also an occasion for tangible expression of the people's good will — a handsome gift, in the form of a rich mahogany office suite, being presented to the honored guest, from the town and a number of local business men.

Noted on the platform besides Mr. Cottingham, Dr. Lafleur and their respective wives, were the Hon. Romeo Lorrain and Mrs. Lorrain, of Papineau County, the Hon. Jean-Paul Sauvé, of Deux Montagnes, Philippe Valois, M.P. for this constituency, members of the clergy and of the town council, various prominent citizens and their ladies.

With Romeo Legault as m.c., Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur spoke as representative of the populace, extending good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Cottingham. "Bill", he remarked, was born, brought up, and resides here. His high appointment is a matter of pride to his friends and also to the community in general. The mayor read telegrams from Premier Duplessis, the Hon. Albiny Paquette, Minister of Health, and the Hon. Omer Coté, Provincial Secretary, regretting their inability to be present and conveying their congratulations.

Representing Premier Maurice Duplessis, the Hon. Romeo Lorrain, Minister of Public Works and M.L.A. for Papineau County, brought good wishes from the government chief — who, he said, had been happy to place Mr. Cottingham in an office of high responsibility in the executive council of the province. The Ministry of Mines is essentially linked with the economy of Quebec, and the administration of this department reflected high honor upon its new incumbent as a man of energy, dependability and loyalty.

The Hon. Jean-Paul Sauvé, Minister of Youth and Welfare and M.L.A. for Deux Montagnes, also paid warm tribute to Mr. Cottingham and extended wishes for his successful career. The appointment of his colleague, he stated, had a two-fold significance. It was a tribute to a man of proven capacity for work and responsibility, and also to the constituency which he represents — a county which is one of the best examples of harmony and understanding between the two great races.

Philippe Valois, M.P. for Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes, also paid tribute to "Bill" Cottingham. Although his views differed from Mr. Cottingham's in some matters, their interests were identical for the welfare and progress of Argenteuil County.

All speakers gave generous credit to Mrs. Cottingham, for her share in her husband's work and success, and following the presentation by Mayor Lafleur, little Patricia, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lafleur, handed a beautiful basket of roses as a token of public esteem to Mrs. Cottingham.

Mr. Cottingham then expressed his sincere appreciation to the gathering. Never since the incorporation of Lachute in 1885 (as Mayor Lafleur had remarked) had the town been represented in the provincial cabinet. Mr. Cottingham recalled, however, that the town boundary was laid literally through his parental home. "And although I am proud to be a citizen of Lachute, after all, I do live in St. Jerusalem," he humorously observed.

In conclusion, the audience had the opportunity of personally greeting and shaking hands with Mr. Cottingham as the crowd dispersed.

A grand parade inaugurated the proceedings. Mr. Cottingham and his guests, driving from his farm in St. Jerusalem, was joined at White's Bridge by a long procession of automobiles. In the lead were the town police on horseback (mounts kindly loaned by Carriere Riding School, Oka), with a number of provincial and traffic officers lending an official air to the party.

"AFTER ALL — I LIVE IN ST. JERUSALEM"

The Hon. W. M. Cottingham expresses thanks to large and representative gathering at the Auditorium following public presentation.

Luminous Signs Show 30 mph Limits

Montreal (CP) — Luminous signs, limiting traffic to 30 miles an hour in municipal areas, have now been set up along many of the Quebec highways.

The signs mark the beginning of uniform speed zones in built-up areas throughout the province and have been produced by the Quebec Roads Department in answer to requests by the Royal Automobile Club of Canada and the Quebec Safety League.

Police said a new campaign against speeders will start as soon as all the signs are installed.

Young Cyclist Struck, Suffers Severe Injuries

Maurice Maringer, 13, of Elizabeth Street, suffered fractures of both shoulders and minor cuts and bruises when he was struck by a car driven by Henri Roy, of St. Jerome.

The accident occurred Monday afternoon shortly after five o'clock when, according to police, the youth darted out of the intersection at Elizabeth and Foundry Streets on his bicycle, into the path of the car. Mr. Roy was driving in an easterly direction on Foundry Street.

Taken to Dr. Marc Papineau's office by taxi, young Maringer received medical attention before returning home.

The accident was investigated by Cst. Oscar Sabourin.

Knights Columbus Officers Elected At Annual Meeting

$100 Donation Acknowledged From Local Legion Branch

The local Knights of Columbus council held their regular meeting in their Foundry Street hall Tuesday evening, at which the election of officers for the coming year took place. Retiring Grand Knight Roland Husereau was re-elected to his position for a third consecutive term.

Other officers re-elected were Theodore Malette, deputy Grand Knight; Henri Trichard, chancellor; Notary Jacques Beaudoin, treasurer; Philippe Guenette, financial secretary; Charles Emile Dorris, recording secretary; Henri St. Onge, consultant; J. H. Malette, Donat Gauthier and Gerard De-Bellefeuille, financial committee; Ovila Brunet, interior guard; Rosaire Lemay, exterior guard; Nelson Lepage, caretaker; Jules Lafleur, M.D., physician; and the Rev. Eugene Cloutier, chaplain.

Following the elections, the Grand Knight proceeded with the forming of the various committees comprising the following: Catholic ceremonials, Notary Richard Valois, Publicity, Fernand Berthiaume and Lucien Savard; Reception, Alexandre Guenette; Membership, Phillippe Joly.

A cheque for $100 from the Canadian Legion Branch 70 was gratefully received by the directors and members of the council.

Rumor George Marler, Quebec Liberal, Successor to Finance Minister Abbott

Duplessis on Participation in Seaway

"The Week in Quebec" — by Alex Dimeo

Quebec, June 21 (CP) — A rumor that George Marler, financial expert of Quebec's Liberal opposition party, will shortly replace Finance Minister Abbott in Ottawa, went the rounds in Quebec last week. Georges Laplame, Provincial Liberal leader, declined to comment on the circulated report but said he knew nothing "personally" about the rumored shuffle.

The 52-year-old lawyer, who led the Liberal opposition in the legislative assembly while Mr. Lapalme was without a seat from 1948 to 1953, could not be reached for comment. He was believed vacationing at his summer home near Metis, Que.

Mr. Marler entered politics in 1942 and became politically close to Liberal Premier Godbout, who was defeated in his own riding in 1948 provincial elections. He became opposition house leader until the summer of 1953, when Mr. Lapalme won a seat in the Montreal Outremont constituency.

English-speaking, Mr. Marler hurdled the language barrier to the extent where he could exchange barbed pleasantries with sharp-tongued Premier Duplessis on the legislature floor. Mr. Duplessis often said Marler was "a real gentleman", but on the wrong side of the political fence.

• • •

Premier Duplessis said last week that Quebec is hesitant about joining Federal authorities in a $400,000,000 hydro-navigation development, part of the St. Lawrence Seaway project in the Montreal area.

He told his weekly press conference the building of the seaway is a Federal matter, while the development of electric power is "exclusively" a provincial one.

Mr. Duplessis said the Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission will study the whole question before a decision is reached.

The proposed power project will harness 1,200,000 horsepower of electricity.

Sir Winston Churchill, Anthony Eden Expected to Visit Ottawa This Month

By Don Peacock, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, June 21 (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill probably will pay a call in Ottawa at the end of this month.

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced in the Commons that the 79-year-old British prime minister and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden have every hope of coming to Ottawa for a day or a day and a half during June 29, 30 and July 1 after their informal talks with President Eisenhower at the week-end in Washington.

Sir Winston, no stranger to Canada, will make no public speeches if he does come. His purpose would be to have an informal talk with Mr. St. Laurent and the cabinet.

Mr. St. Laurent indicated that the cabinet would listen for the most part to British views on the world situation. He spoke of "the opportunity of hearing direct from them (Sir Winston and Mr. Eden) their appreciation of the present situation."

The Ganadian government would like to hear up-to-date British views on such questions as:

1. Relations between the United Kingdom and the United States.
2. India's position in Asia.
3. The crisis in Indo-China.
4. The next move on the Korean question.
5. Germany and the European Defence Community.

Sir Winston was last here January 11-15, 1952. He also attended the two wartime Quebec conferences.

Prorogation Plans

Parliament is expected to end this week. If it lasts until June 24 it will set a modern record of 137 sitting days, exceeding the wartime top of 136 days in 1944-45.

It has worked long and hard but blazed no major legislative trails during the current session. Observers view the first session of Canada's 22nd Parliament as lacking in either political fireworks or surprises.

In more than seven months — the session began last November 12 — and 6,000,000 words, probably the chief accomplishments were three pieces of legislation, all of which required prolonged study. They were completion of a two-year job of redrafting the massive Criminal Code, the decennial revision of Canada's banking laws and a re-writing of the national housing legislation.

The few fireworks involved such proposals as a one-cent-an-ounce increase in postal rates, boosts in parliamentary pay and drawn-out debates on unemployment, wheat-marketing and foreign policy.

The streamlined Criminal Code will come into effect next January 1. And despite detailed study certain issues still are undecided — retention of present laws on the death penalty, whipping and lotteries, which were investigated by a Senate-Commons committee, and questions involving the legal defence of insanity and criminal sexual psychopaths. Two royal commissions are reviewing those matters.

The revision of the banking laws brought chartered banks into the field of residential and chattel mortgages. Housing legislation provided for lower down payments, longer mortgage terms and a system of insured mortgages which banks can lend.

Finance Minister Abbott's 10th budget brought few changes. Tax cuts, worth $36,000,000 in the 1954-55 fiscal year, were less than one per cent of the national tax bill. Reductions were centred mainly on excise and sales taxes.

Opposition members criticized the size of the reductions but most of the budget debate dealt with the announcement that the government would not grant Quebec's request for full deduction from federal income tax payments of the province's new 15-per-cent income tax.

For the current fiscal year, the government has planned expenditures totalling $4,534,065,000, a peacetime high compared with $4,389,979,000 estimated as spent in thet fiscal year ended last March 31.

One measure, adopted after extended debate, raised parliamentary pay to $10,000 from $6,000 annually by doubling the $4,000 taxable indemnity, to which is added a $2,000 expense allowance.

Mounting unemployment during the winter months touched off a six-day debate in which 52 members spoke on two opposition motions of non-confidence in the government. Both motions were defeated — a PC call for study of problems by a parliamentary committee and a CCF demand for immediate government action.

Fines, Jail Terms In Two Local Traffic Charges

A Lachute Mills resident, Albiny Tremblay, who was involved in an accident May 14, was sentenced to 14 days in jail and a fine of $50 and costs, or an additional 15 days. The sentence, resulting from a charge of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol, was handed down by Judge Eugene Lafontaine in St. Jerome on Friday.

Tremblay was also convicted of dangerous driving arising out of the same accident, and sentenced to five days — the sentences to run concurrently. On the second charge, he was fined an additional $50 and costs, or 30 more days. His license was suspended for six months.

Gordon Spriggings, of Outremont, was sentenced to a day in jail and a fine of $50 for having been in charge of an automobile in Lachute, late in May, while his ability to drive was impaired. Both men were arrested by municipal police, and the cases were transferred to Det. Maurice Lamoureux, of the provincial force.

Judge Lafontaine, who has campaigned vigorously to rid the Laurentian highways of speeders and dangerous drivers, observed that during the same week last year — when sentences were less severe — so many drivers appeared before him that the court had to remain in session until 7 p.m. Last week, the roll was cleared by 3 p.m.

The Kincardine, Ont., News claims the town is defenceless in case of attack, captured German gun standing in front of the armouries has been taken from that spot to be scrapped.

Alex Bothwell, Former Mayor and Public Figure, Succumbs to Long Illness

As this issue goes to press, The Watchman records the death of another well known citizen, Alex Bothwell, who succumbed to a long illness early this morning (Thursday). His death occurred at his home in east ward.

Mr. Bothwell served many years as Agronome for the county, and was intensely interested in the progress of local agriculture, especially juvenile crop and livestock promotion. He was mayor of Lachute for a two-year term, a councillor, school commissioner and prominent in many other community and church roles.

Sympathy is extended to his wife, the former Maud Dobbie, and his niece, (Jessie) Mrs. Clifford Lowe, of Lachute.

Funeral rites will be held at St. Simeon's Anglican Church Saturday at 2.30 p.m., followed by interment at Lachute Cemetery.

Couple 53 Years Married

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hume, of Hill Head, who were 53 years married last Saturday, June 19. Presently residing with their daughter, Mrs. Randolph Rodger, at West Gore, the couple are both well and in full enjoyment of their faculties. Mr. Hume is 91 and his wife (the former Mary Jane Smith Doig) is 74. They were married in 1901 by the Rev. Mr. Ferlong at Upper Lachute, and have three children, Mrs. Randolph Rodger, of West Gore; William Ross Hume, of Langley Prairie, B.C.; and Lloyd Hume, of Hill Head.

Head of Institutes Sees All Provinces

Vancouver (CP) — Attractive Mrs. W. J. Adams has a two-year "travelling job" as national president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, representing 95,000 farm women.

She was elected last September for a two-year term and is spending most of the period in office "on the road," visiting Women's Institutes in each province.

"And I'm saving 50-cent pieces for the Associated Country Women of the World convention in Ceylon in 1956," she told an interviewer. "So far I have eight dollars." Mrs. Adams experienced her first taste of rural life when she taught in a tiny Saskatchewan school at the age of 17.

Now she lives on a modern Saskatchewan farm two miles from the hamlet of Athelton. "We have all the modern electrical conviences now," she said. "But when I was first married we lived in a shack."

Speaking at the 12th biennial convention of the British Columbia Women's Institutes, Mrs. Adams emphasized the increasing importance of women in the world picture.

Morin Heights Chamber of Commerce Reviews Year's Work, Elects Officers

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — An innovation at the Morin Heights Chamber of Commerce last Tuesday was a combined dinner and business meeting for the annual assembly. The event was held at the Rock Cliff Inn, and was well attended by members and their ladies. Invited guests were Mr. Gerard Lefebvre, newly elected president of the Laurentian Chamber of Commerce, Mr. H. Lamarche, immediate past-president, Mayor C. Campbell and Mrs. Campbell.

Following the dinner, the guests were invited to say a few words. President A. Basler then declared the evening open for business matters.

Reports were presented by the president and secretary-treasurer, covering the past year's activities; these reports indicated that the group had accomplished a fair amount of work. The proposed lake is still a major project, although it will be impossible to do any further work unless a grant of some kind can be obtained. Work on the new road to Highway 11 which would follow the Simon River and by-pass St. Sauveur, has been taken up with the municipal and provincial authorities and brought to the fore very strongly by the president at regional meetings of the Laurentian Chamber of Commerce, who are supporting this project. An alternative has been offered to the new road, that the present one be widened in some places and the hills graded a little. The local Chamber does not believe this will lessen the hazard of driving over the present road, and intends to continue to press for the new road.

The election of officers was next on the agenda; the slate presented by the nominating committee was accepted, as follows:

President, A. Basler; vice-president, F. C. Cameron.

Council members, Mrs. M. Graves, Messrs. P. St. Denis, H. Lacken, K. Binns, F. E. Mattenberger, G. De-Bassecourt, L. Kennedy and J. Lussier.

Secretary-treasurer, F. Muncey.

Corpus Christi Fete Observed in 3 Local Parishes

Fine weather favored the Corpus Christi rites observed last Sunday in the three Catholic parishes of this community.

In Ste. Anastasie, a large procession paraded Sunday evening from Grace Street via Foundry and Bethany, to end at the church. All organizations of the parish were represented, and religious devotions were performed at an impressively arranged altar at the entry of the new Knights of Columbus Hall on Foundry Street. Here considerable effort and material had been contributed to make an effective setting for the annual rites.

The procession in St. Julien Parish was held during the forenoon. An altar was set up at the residence of Thomas Ayers, and the ceremonials here were equally impressive.

In the Immaculate Conception, parishioners formed a procession after the 11 o'clock mass Sunday morning, proceeding to an altar established at the home of Mme Ernest Laseize on Chatham Street.

Provincial governments spent $393 million on health and social welfare in 1952.

Retires From Teaching After Notable Career

Miss M. Cameron Hay, B.A.

Miss M. Cameron Hay, B.A., principal of Strathcona Academy since 1940, retires from the teaching profession this week after a long and noteworthy career. She was one of 32 retiring teachers to be honored by the Greater Montreal Protestant School Board at a dinner Tuesday evening in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

Miss Hay taught Mathematics at Strathcona High since 1919, and since 1940 has served as principal of the school. A graduate of Lachute Academy and McGill, she toook post-graduate courses at Teachers' College, Columbia University, and the Ontario College of Education in Toronto.

Before joining Strathcona's staff, she taught at two Montreal west-end high schools — Montreal West and West Hill.

A past vice-president of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers, Miss Hay served as a director of the University Women's Club and in many executive positions with the Montreal Zonta Club. She holds the Order of Scholastic Merit, second degree.

Sam McGee of Northern Lights fame, up Lake La Barge way, would turn over in his grave, perhaps, at this news: Employees in the cocktail lounge and tavern at Whitehorse in the Yukon have become unionized.

Romain Desjardins Wins Council Seat For Centre Ward

In the contest between Romain Desjardins and John Lemay for the centre ward council seat vacated by Ald. Georges Beaulieu, Desjardins polled a decisive majority of votes in the balloting last Thursday at the civic auditorium. The count was: Desjardins 371, and Lemay 107.

Of the 822 proprietors, business firms and householders eligible to vote, 482 exercised their franchise. Four ballots were spoiled, and Mr. Desjardins' majority was 264 votes over his opponent.

He was sworn into office Monday by Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur.

Romain Desjardins, a native of this town, is 36 years of age; he is sales manager for Robitaille Motors, proprietor of Lachute Drive-Yourself, and president of Zenith Insurance, an automobile protective group. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, Lions Club, Golf Club, and a third degree K. of C. He is married, has five children, and owns a summer property at Lake Louisa.

Gatineau LINES

Please Report Changes

Gatineau Power supplies electricity to world-famous vacation areas, so naturally the demand for electric connections is exceptionally high in the summer months.

When the summer visitor makes normal, planned-for use of electricity there is no problem. Sometimes, however, heavy electrical equipment is brought to summer cottages, without advice to the power company.

In their own interests, customers should advise the company when about to install such items as a stove or a water heater.

Such advice enables the company to take steps to avoid the annoyance of low voltage, by checking the size of the transformer serving your premises and those of your neighbors.

As well, it is important to make sure that your wiring will carry the electricity to the new appliances efficiently—that it is adequate to handle any new demands to be placed upon it.

GATINEAU POWER COMPANY

MAYOR ON THEIR SIDE

When 10,000 Brownies, Wolf Cubs, Girl Guides and Boy Scouts marched past the City Hall in Hamilton, Ont., on May 29, they had a special smile for Mayor Lloyd D. Jackson. Before he took office in 1950 the parade, believed to be the largest youth parade in Canada, used to be routed through the side streets — Mayor Jackson secured permission for them to march through the main streets as a symbol of the importance of youth in the city's future, and declined to officiate unless they passed the City Hall.

The salute was taken by Rhys M. Sale, of Windsor, who is president of the Canadian General Council of the Boy Scouts Association.

The Kamloops Sentinel had a picture on its front page of a cowpoke, Pioneer John S. Morrison, and his pony, combined ages 111 years; Morrison is 84.

Farm Topics

Now — Cowless Pastures

One of these days dairy cows may disappear from Canadian pastures. Experiments now underway in New Jersey indicate that it is much more profitable to bring pasture to the cows than to let them out on pasture.

During the tests, 50 head of Holstein cows were kept in their barn all summer. Each day at 7 a.m. and 2 p.m. a wagon load of green feed was harvested and fed to the cattle. Cows were given the opportunity to eat all the green feed they could consume.

The experiment showed that 50 cows each ate an average of 92 pounds of green feed daily. The persistency of their production was greater than cows out on pasture. The latter dropped off in production sharply during the summer when pastures were short. It was estimated that at least 920 pounds of feed (green basis) were saved daily by bringing it to the cows instead of letting them trample the pasture. Fertilization was an important part of the project.

Experimenters were promted to carry out these tests by two factors. The first was the excessive waste, which reached as high as 25 per cent of the total grass available.

This wastage represents an economic loss to dairymen that is becoming increasingly critical as the value of land increases. By cutting the grass and taking it to the cows it is possible to harvest all the forage grown without any grazing losses.

Perhaps the most important advantage of this type of feeding is the elemination of summer slumps in milk production during dry spells when grass becomes short. Many cows never recover from this slump during the same lactation. Fencing and supplying water on pasture was no longer required with "zero" pastures.

Say Draught Horses Getting Scare

Calgary (CP)—Looking for young draught horses in Alberta is a real task. The demise of the horse, even in this rangeland country, was indicated when it took Hardy E. Salter of Calgary one week and 2,700 miles of travelling to gather nine head of top four-year-old Percherons for the Capital City Tally-Ho Co. of Victoria, B.C.

Salter, secretary of the Canadian Percheron Association, bought the horses from five different ranches, never finding more than two at one place. The horses will be used in teams of four to pull sight-seeing wagons through the streets of the coast city. It takes a good team, for they travel nearly 30 miles a day on the tours.

Feeding Growing Turkeys

Turkey raisers generally make a special effort to get the poult well started during the first few weeks. But frequently an adequate diet is not supplied during the growing period which follows. Growing turkeys require definite amounts of protein, minerals and vitamins if they are to develop sound bodies which will be able to resist diseases and take on a proper market finish. A straight grain ration will not supply any of these items in the required amounts says R. M. Blakely, Swift Current Experimental Station, Sask.

The following are the desirable protein levels for various ages of turkeys: 0-8 weeks, 26 per cent; 8-12 weeks, 22 per cent; 12-16 weeks, 20 per cent; 16-20 weeks, 18 per cent; 20-24 weeks, 16 per cent; 24-28 weeks, 14 per cent. A straight grain ration will not supply over 12 per cent protein.

Vitamins are very important in the diet of growing turkeys for proper growth and disease resistance. Many of these are found in fresh succulent young green feed but under some conditions good green feed may be scarce after mid-summer. Minerals are essential for the development of proper bone structure. A straight grain ration is definitely deficient in many of the required minerals.

To overcome these deficiencies it is necessary to supplement a grain ration with a commercial protein-mineral-vitamin concentrate or supplement designed especially for growing turkeys. This may be purchased in either powdered or pelleted form. The powdered form is mixed with ground grain to make up a growing mash. The pellet form is mixed with whole grain as feed. In all cases the directions of the manufacturer should be followed in mixing the concentrate.

Proper attention to a balanced diet will eliminate many of the diseases which can affect turkeys during the late fall. Poorly developed turkeys with deformed bodies and those which are subject to nasal infections, including colds and "roup", have as a rule been raised on a diet deficient in at least some of the essential ingredients.

$100,000 WORTH OF HEREFORD

—Central Press Canadian

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fair of Fair Oaks Farm, Boerne, Tex., smilingly pat the broad side of Hillcrest Larry 25th, which they bought at auction in Chester, W.V., for $100,000. Looking on is C. A. Smith, Jr., son of the bull's late owner, whose "Hereford Empire" was broken up.

Factors in Silage Quality

Ottawa — The moisture content and ensiling conditions largely determine the quality, palatability and spoilage loss associatied with grass and legume crops. W. E. Cordukes reports that such findings are the result of silage experiments by the Division of Field Husbandry, Soils and Agricultural Engineering, at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

The moisture content of young, immature forages is normally 80 per cent or higher and steadily decreases with maturity, until at the full bloom stage the crop will contain approximately 72 per cent moisture. Excellent silage can be made from these crops, ensilaged when the moisture content ranges from 65 to 75 per cent. If the chopped forage when squeezed in the palm of the hand does not ooze moisture and slowly springs apart on opening of the hand, the moisture content will be in the desired range. The length of cut and degree of compaction should be varied according to the moisture content of the crop at ensiling time.

When forages have a high moisture content, the grass or legumes should be wilted slightly before ensiling. The ensilage cutter should be set to cut in 2 to 3 inch lengths and the material thoroughly spread and lightly packed. This will enhance the desired lactic acid fermentation and help to prevent the offensive butyric acid development. As the forages mature and their moisture level decreases, the length of cut should be progressively shortened and the degree of packing increased. Thus, at the full bloom growth stage a short cut from ¼ to ½ inch cut should be employed and the silage thoroughly compacted.

Grass and legume crops properly ensiled have a pleasant odour, a green to light-brown color and a minimum spoilage. When ensiled at too low a level of moisture or poorly compacted, the silage have a higher spoilage loss. Often, some mouldy spots occur throughout and are usually dark-brown to black in color with a sweet sugar-like smell. On the other hand, crops ensiled in a very wet condition and overly-compacted are dark in color with a disagreeable odour.

Two-Week Course For Prospectors

La Ronge, Sask. (CP) — The atomic age has complicated everything. Prospectors no longer rely on a tin pan and luck. Now they go to school.

Some 22 would-be prospectors graduated recently from a 15-day course offered by the Saskatchewan mineral resources department here, about 130 miles north of Prince Albert.

The course, about to enter its third year, includes practical and theoretical studies. The curriculum includes identifying minerals, canoe-carrying, prospecting techniques and the use of equipment.

This year's 22 students were picked from 70 applicants. They included a former Norwegian air force pilot, an Indian trapper and fisherman and two miner-brothers.

Most graduates hope to get jobs with northern Saskatchewan mining companies, as did 80 per cent of last year's graduates.

Taxes will take one dollar in three of the net national income of Canadians in the current year.

Canada's street railways carried more than a billion and a quarter passengers last year.

The Economy of Using the Best

The economy of using the best possible materials is made apparent in the upkeep problem. A house or business building may be "thrown together" with cheap material, and it may "look all right", but after it has stood the shock of weather, the real test comes.

It is false economy to use poor materials — and we so advise everyone who buys from us. Our success is due to honesty in materials and prices.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

For Vacation Time — And Any Time

SCHOOL VACATIONS have begun. They raise a question not exclusively related to vacations, but to the wholesome recreation of the youth of this town. Lachute still lacks a recreation centre, and were it not for the hospitality of the Ayers swimming pool and the Rotary community park, youngsters of this town would have no safe bathing place whatever this summer.

In casual conversation this week, members of two or three different organizations were impressed by the same thought, namely, the diversified objects of their charity, and the lack of some major community effort on which to concentrate their aims. With the closing of our schools, we come across impromptu ball games on the back streets, Indian war-whoops on the vacant lots, bicycle racing on traffic-busy thoroughfares. Our clubs and organizations have, in many cases, suspended activities for the season, but when they re-open in the fall, this picture may well inspire us with a pressing need, and invoke our earnest effort to remedy it.

The arena project was brought into the spotlight last winter, at which time this community's lack of a public rink was again painfully obvious. Some good groundwork was laid by the Chamber of Commerce in conferring with other bodies and forming a committee. At this point the enterprise rests in unproductive quiescence.

A community centre for both summer and winter suggests — safe, supervised activities for our young people, games and organized competition, music, dancing and social diversions in a sane atmosphere unfogged by alcoholic indulgence. Maybe the thought is too idealistic, too impractical, too old-fashioned for our teen-age sophisticates. We think not. Facilities and leadership in sport can bring out the finest qualities and cultivate the best in today's young citizens.

It's worth a trial. In fact it's worth a whole lot of thought, activity, work and financial backing from a lot of clubs and groups with no present objective to aim for.

Our Peculiar Prestige

MORE THAN one-half of the people in Canada live outside the cities and buy more than half the goods bought in Canada. One of the best ways of reaching the large part of this market (we don't say the only way, but one of the best ways) is through the columns of a country weekly paper.

A country weekly newspaper carries a distinctly different kind of prestige than any other kind of medium. The people believe in you, they believe what you say in the editorial columns and that feeling carries over into the advertising. So far as the readers are concerned, publishers are personally responsible for every word and every ad in the paper.

There's nothing to match a weekly for readership. It's the same paper that carried the reader's birth notice, his engagement, marriage, birth notices of his children, sometimes of their deaths. No other medium in the world gives him just what he gets in his weekly newspaper — simply because it's the only paper that's interested in HIS community.

— For the above we are indebted to one of our colleagues, F. P. Galbraith, publisher of the Red Deer Advocate, presenting the case of the weekly newspaper before a receptive, ready-to-be-convinced group, the Association of Canadian Advertisers. There were other convincing plaudits, too — some from the advertisers who use the weeklies on a systematic national scale. But, with commendable modesty, we'll save these bouquets for another day.

Too Short — Too Fat

NOW the news is out. Instead of being the tall, slim-waisted Appollo he thought he was, a grim set of statistics has told the Canadian male that he is really short and dumpy. Worse still, the same description goes for milady.

After weighing, measuring and talking to some 22,000 Canadians, the Federal Health Department has come up with the conclusion that the average Canadian male is five feet, seven inches tall and weighs about 160 pounds. That puts him some 13 pounds overweight.

But what has happened to the lissome "average Canadian girl?" The cruel facts, apparently, put her at an average five feet one and three-quarter inches into which is packed about 135 pounds — again 13 pounds overweight.

Now few Canadians have ever taken their appearance too seriously. There hasn't been much of the super-race complex. But most people thought their fellow countryman and woman would have come up with a better showing than this — comments The Financial Post.

To Avert Tragedy

THUS FAR, the district of Lachute has been happily exempt from drowning fatalities this season. Summer heat appears to have asserted itself almost in the wake of belated spring showers. The two, incidentally, present a certain element of danger. The Red Cross Water Safety Division takes note of this circumstance and voices a warning — which The Watchman here re-echoes — to forestall possible tragedies in this county.

This time of year is exceptionally dangerous since the water is still very cold in most places and people who find the heat unbearable may go in never to come out.

The Red Cross, which is presently staging an instructors' school for nearly 100 candidates at Trois Saumons, near Quebec City, issues pamphlets listing all the do's and don'ts about water hazards, and these are available at no cost to the public.

Most important from the list at this season is probably the one advising not to enter water when overheated, since the cold may easily cause cramps which could become fatal. High water levels in many lakes and streams add to the peril of swimmers suffering attacks of this kind.

Metropolitan Headache

NOW THAT the warm weather is here, the big-city dweller looks with envy upon the fellow in the small town. In the industrial age, finding a place for a family picnic is no easy matter, and in this detail, we who have the countryside at our doorsteps may count ourselves fortunate.

To be sure, there are parks. But for the real, down-to-earth family picnic, nothing can beat a retreat to the country where the kids can run free of city traffic and mom and pop can sit in the shade of a tree, preferably beside a brook that just a little imagination can make babble.

For city folk, going out to the country for a day is an expedition. Gone are the secluded, sylvan spots within easy reach of the hemmed-in city man who used to take a street-car to the city limits and there he was, right in the country.

For instance, take Toronto, not necessarily a typical Canadian city but illustrative of the problems inherent in a city man's setting out for a picnic. He must drive miles before reaching the city limits. And he can't stop there, smack in the middle of huge suburban housing developments or a maze of modern factories.

He must drive perhaps 20 or more miles before reaching open country. There, he faces farmland carefully fenced in by farmers who have rueful recollections of past excursions of some city folk — the few who always spoil things for the tidy majority.

If he's lucky, he'll eventually find a cool spot a bit off the beaten path — not too far off, though he's mindful of the car springs. But he'll have so far to drive home that there won't be much time to enjoy the beauties of the countryside. Then it's back to the crowded highway and home.

He'd like to stay in the country, living in a small town where the pace is slower and it's only a walk to a summer retreat. But economics being what they are, he'll just have to put up with the long drives for a family outing.

Shunning Responsibility

THE ARCHBISHOP of York, Dr. Cyril Garbett, protests in his latest Diocesan Letter that too many people in the United Kingdom today do not wish to accept responsibility. Warning that this leads to dictatorship, Dr. Garbett suggests that one of the reasons for it may be the Welfare State, which has assumed many responsibilities previously borne by the individual.

Commenting on this, the Fort Erie Letter-Review notes there are other reasons, in Canada as in the U.K., why responsibility is shunned. People in responsible positions used to be paid a good deal more than those in more routine ones. Now, they get very little more; sometimes not as much. Teachers and nurses, for example, get less than factory workers.

Again, there is the incidence of taxation, which punishes the responsible by taking away much or most of what their responsibility has earned, and handing it over to the irresponsible. That this is right and proper is the basic premise of the Welfare State — says the Fort Erie commentary, in part.

"SIC TRANSIT M.T.C."

One of the most maligned institutions in Canada is the Montreal Tramways Commission. Kids misuse it, adults abuse it — and visiting fireman die laughing at it. But why? Actually, the M.T.C. serves a very worthwhile purpose, even though it's so obscure few people can see it.

The Montreal Tramways Commission is one of our most venerable features. It's been in operation for donkey's ages and traces its history back to the Ark of Noah, at which time the first cars — still in operation, mind you — were designed and constructed. And its main purpose today is to so train Montrealers to discomfort that when — if ever — something better comes along, they'll know how to appreciate it.

Perhaps the public's attitude toward the M.T.C. is fostered entirely by abysmal ignorance. Only a smattering of dwellers in Canada's metropolis really know the truth about the M.T.C. Luckily, I'm one of them. Maybe if more people were conscious of the facts about this worthy body, there would be less complaint. So, in the interests of good citizenship, let me enlighten you. Then, when next your steps lead you to Montreal, you may, perhaps, see the M.T.C. in its proper light and be more tolerant of its shortcomings.

The M.T.C. rolling stock comprises two units — trams and buses. Buses may be defined as rectangular four-wheeled steel boxes. Each is fitted with a split exhaust so that 90 per cent of the engine fumes are carried into the vehicle, the remaining 10, outside.

The trams may be defined as rectangular eight-wheeled boxes, which are designed to hold 60 passengers comfortably but usually carry 500 intimately. These monsters work, when they will, by electricity. Both these units scurry hither and thither about the city at a cool 1½ miles per hour — downhill.

Most equipment of the M.T.C. is well stocked with signs to show the public the proposed destination of the vehicle. However, the signs rarely agree, thus providing Montrealers with a daily opportunity to play that fascinating game, "Guess Where?" For example, let us suppose that you are waiting at the corner of University Street and St. Catherine, and intend to go west, with luck, as far as the Forum. There are any number of cars that you can take. A 3, 3A, 15, 43, 97, or even a stray 17, re-routed from a fire in Hochelaga, will do the trick. Will one of these cars appear to pick you up? Of course not. The first arrival will be a car that says on the sign "EXTRA" and carrying, in front, the number "XX", right side front "AA", right side rear "22" and the note "SHOPS-REMISES", at the back "99", and, left side rear "XE".

At all costs, don't be fooled by the signs. Things are definitely not what they seem. Actually, the car is a "WELLINGTON — 58", going to Verdun, down Windsor Street. But take it anyway. Before it gets two blocks west it will be re-routed to St. Henri, and will pass the Forum in its flight.

The same applies to those hardy souls who intend travelling via buses. Stick to your guns and take the first one that comes along. If it isn't going where you are, you get there in a flash. But if you wait till something comes along marked to pass your destination, stay off. You'll only end up in the barns, and I refuse to be blamed for it.

All the M.T.C. needs is a little understanding on the part of the public and it will be able to operate with speed and efficiency. That, in itself, will be a welcome change and we can hope that the straphangers will quickly strive to understand this struggling system, to the betterment of all mankind.

Next week, we'll discuss the people that make M.T.C. transit sic.

Quick Canadian Quiz

1. On the average how many acres are planted to wheat annually in the Prairie Provinces?

2. In racial origin Canada's four largest population groups are, in order, French, English, Scottish and Irish. Which is the fifth largest group?

3. Fifty years ago 14.5 per cent of Canadians were 50 years of age or older. Today is the proportion of the population in this age group larger or smaller?

4. In 1949 the federal government spent $2,157 million, provincial and municipal governments spent $1,655 million. What were the 1953 figures?

5. Among all countries does Canada rank 15th, 19th or 7th as a steel producer?

ANSWERS: 5. Canada has recently moved into 7th rank as a steel producer. 3. 21.2 per cent of Canadians were 50 years of age or older at time of the 1951 census. 1. About 26 million acres. 4. In 1953 federal spending was $4,530 million, provincial and municipal spending was $2,361 million. 2. Fifth largest racial group is of German extraction.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Rushing in where Dorothy Dix fears to tread, this department today launches its own question-and-answer service on minor personal problems. Here is our first problem.

Dear Professor:

Pencils are the plague of my life. They constantly burrow through my pockets and into the lining of my coat.

The hole in the pocket works like a lobster trap — it lets the pencils in but it won't let them out.

Consequently I rattle like the tambourine and castinet section of a South American band. My waistpiece of pencils gives me a lumpy bulge around the equator. I feel as though I was wearing a coat of chain mail.

Can you suggest a remedy?

Yours sincerely,

— Porcupine

Well, Porcupine, you could try cutting six inches off the bottom of your jacket all round, so that the pencils fall out. Or else sew up all your pockets and keep your pencils in a quiver, or a bandolier.

Dear Professor:

I don't know what to do. My wife has grown biceps.

Before our son was born, she had no muscles. But after she had been lifting the little boy for some weeks, distinct bumps began to appear on her upper arm, each the size of a bantam egg.

I used to be the only one in the house with any muscles. But since those biceps grew on my wife's arm, she has lost all respect for me. I am no longer the boss of the house. It hasn't come to a test of strength yet, but when it does, I am afraid my wife will win. I am not very strong. What should I do?

Yours sincerely,

— Desperate George

I am rushing you in a plain envelope the names of several competent ju-jitsu teachers. If anything should go wrong in the meantime, hold your son in front of your face as a shield. Your wife will never hit him.

Any more questions?

More Profit From Your Hens

YOU CAN'T boost the price of eggs, but by culling you can lower your production costs. Every hen that is not laying is eating up the profit two or three laying hens make for you. It's wise to study your production costs, then determine the production rate necessary to leave you a profit. Holding production at 60, 65, or 75%, may take close culling, but it is the best way I know to protect profits.

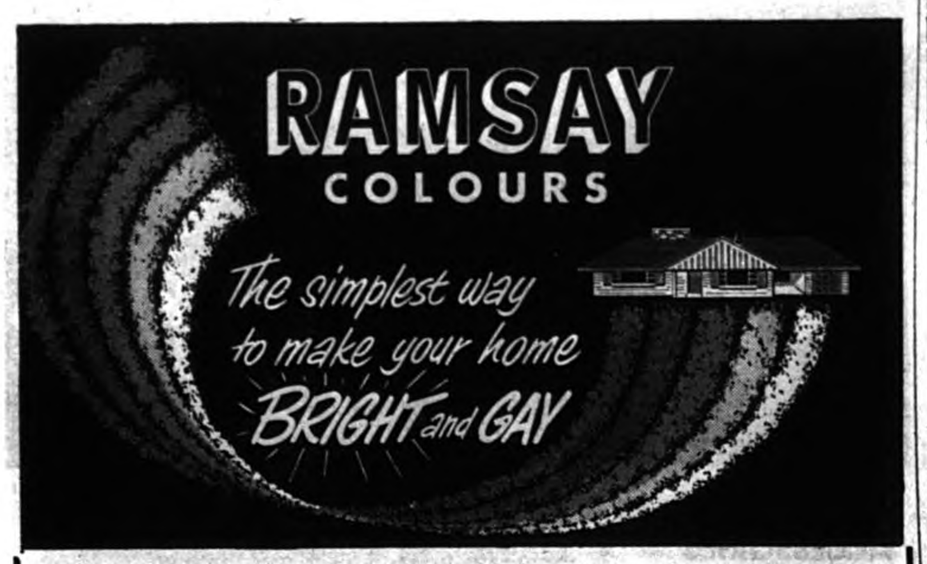

EVER WATCH lice eat money? . . . Actually you don't see them eating holes in your profits, but this is exactly what takes place whenever lice get ahead of you. At this season, lice are most active, but with Purina Roost Paint you can knock them cold! Painted on the roost, with a brush or oil can, the fumes rise and suffocate the lice. It's the sure way. It's easy and the cost is low. THEY'LL KNOCK PRODUCTION IF YOU DON'T KNOCK THEM FIRST.

You can get ROOST PAINT along with your LAYING CHOWS today. Call, or phone or write; we deliver anywhere.

Missionary Speaker

Miss Edith Clutton, missionary on furlough from India, was guest speaker at the morning service of the Maple Avenue Baptist Church on Sunday last. She told of many experiences in her life since going to India in 1929, and stated that there was a considerable change in the attitude of the natives toward Christian missionaries, as compared to former years. They are now pleading for missionaries to come to their villages, she said. "The doors are wide open." . . . At the close of the service the members of the Mission Circle honored Mrs. (Rev.) N. H. Brock by presenting her with a Dominion life membership for her faithfulness in missionary work.

The Maoris of New Zealand were cannibals at the time the first European settlers arrived. Their cannibalism, however, was "ceremonial" only, that is, exclusively associated with tribal rituals. The Maoris even had a disparaging word — kaitangato — to describe anyone who indulged his taste for leg of man on non-ceremonial occasions. — The Reader's Digest

Is Hell Hot?

Egyptian and Buddhist priests taught hell-fire centuries before Christendom's religions did. The pagan philosophers Plato and Socrates taught a purgatory theory. But the Bible teaches neither one. To be tormented one must be conscious. The dead are unconscious, unable to suffer. "Hell" in the Bible means the common grave of mankind. Of those in hell the Douay Bible says ". . . . the dead know nothing more," and advises the living: "Whatsoever thy hand is able to do, do it earnestly: for neither work, nor reason, nor wisdom, nor knowledge, shall be in hell, whither thou art hastening." — Eccl. 9: 5, 10.

This hell or grave is not eternal, but is to be destroyed when "there shall be no more death." So the Bible says: "Death and hell were cast into the lake of fire." If hell is the lake of fire, as many say, how is it cast into itself? Actually, the lake of fire is only a symbol of destruction, and is itself called "the second death," meaning final death with no chance of restoration. (Rev. 21: 4; 20: 14). So hell is not hot, but is the cold grave, and will end when in the new world men will live forever. As for purgatory, the Bible never even mentions it! For more information on Bible teachings send for four free tracts. A free catalogue will also be sent. Write to — Watch Tower, 40 Irwin Avenue, Toronto 5, Ont.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Local Pastor Ordained Last Night in Ottawa

Last evening in Ottawa many people gathered to watch the Rev. L. E. Tuck, pastor of People's Church, Lachute, who was escorted down the aisle of the Metropolitan Tabernacle in the capital by Mr. Wilfred Morrison and Mr. John Kettyle, elders in the Lachute church, to be ordained by the Associated Gospel Churches of Canada.

The Rev. Tuck was born in Ottawa, and received his training for the ministry at the London Bible Institute and Theological Seminary at London, Ont.

The president of this denomination, the Rev. John Hadall, of Stratford, Ont., conducted this service of commendation to the Gospel ministry. The Rev. John F. Dempster, of People's Church, Montreal, charged the pastor in a brief message with his responsibility as a preacher of God's Word to his congregation. The Rev. James P. Vold, of the Metropolitan Tabernacle, Ottawa, charged the congregation (many of whom were present) with their responsibility to their pastor.

Following this impressive service of the laying-on of hands and dedication by prayer, an informal time of fellowship was enjoyed, when the Rev. Tuck gave his testimony to those gathered, telling of his call into the ministry.

On Sunday, June 27, at 2 p.m., the Rev. Tuck will conduct his first baptismal service of believers, at Campbell's Mill pond at Dalesville, when seven people will be baptized. Later this year, probably in September, People's Church, Lachute, will be publicly received into the fellowship of the Associated Gospel Churches of Canada, at which time the Rev. Tuck will be duly inducted as pastor.

Attended Celebration for Rev. and Mrs. B. Brown At St. James United

On the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary, a reception was tendered to the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. B. B. Brown at Sheridan Hall, St. James United Church, Montreal, on Tuesday evening. For two hours a steady line-up of friends passed before the happy couple and their children, Dr. Lila Brown and Dr. Stanley Brown, to offer their sincere and heartfelt congratulations.

Among those present from Lachute were Messrs. J. S., R. A., and Albert Giles, the former expressing appreciation of his long friendship with the honored guests and referring to their four years' residence in the pastorate of the former Methodist Church here in Lachute.

Refreshments were served, and the well-loved hymn, "Abide With Me", was sung to conclude a most enjoyable evening — fitting homage having been paid to their 50 years of happy married life and to 55 years in the ministerial service.

Various Guest Preachers To Supply for Pulpit of Lachute United Church

The congregation and friends of Lachute United Church are to hear several ministers during the absence of the Rev. Wilson Bridge, who left this week for Britain with his family.

On June 27 and July 4, the Rev. Dr. Wm. MacMillan, of Lachute, will be guest preacher. The following Sunday, July 11, a ministeral friend of the local church for over 25 years, the Rev. J. Hayworth, of Chicago, will again preach here. On July 18, the Rev. John Travis, of Franklyn Centre, a former minister of the Congregational Church, England (friend of the Rev. Mr. Bridge) will supply for one week. The minister of Morin Heights United Church, the Rev. Robt. Blair, B.A., B.D., will take the service on July 25. A native of Scotland, Mr. Blair should be well appreciated by the folk of Scots descent in this vicinity. During August, the Rev. Dr. William Holmes, of Hemmingford United Church, will possibly spend two Sundays in Lachute.

Dedicate New Building Of Pentecostal Church Next Sunday in B'burg

Special dedicatory speaker, the Rev. W. H. Kautz

Dedication of the new building of the Brownsburg Pentecostal Church, Maple Avenue South, opposite the Canadian Legion Hall, will take place on Sunday, June 27, at 3 p.m., according to Pastor Earl McNutt, minister of the Brownsburg congregation.

Founded about eight years ago through the efforts of two students of the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College, Norman Schlaurbaum and Harold Grant, the church has had a slow but steady growth under ministry of the Rev. L. S. Poirier, now of Winnipeg, and the present minister, Mr. Earl McNutt, who has pastored the group the last two years.

Under Mr. McNutt's leadership the congregation has become self-supporting and relinquished home-missions grants. The new church building has been erected by local funds on a "pay-as-you-go" basis and will be opened practically free of debt.

Special speaker for the dedicatory service will be the Rev. William H. Kautz, pastor of Evangel Pentecostal Church, Closse Street, Montreal, and member-at-large of the Eastern Ontario and Quebec District Conference Executive of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada. His Montreal church contributed the home-missions grants that sustained the Brownsburg church until it became self-sustaining.

Other visiting clergy to participate in the dedication will be the Rev. L. M. Hornby, of Greenfield Park, chairman of the Quebec Presbytery of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada, and the Rev. Ian M. Presely, pastor of Bethel Tabernacle, Rosemount, Montreal, presbytery secretary.

The service of morning worship at 11, and the evening evangelistic service at 7.30, will be conducted by Mrs. Madeleine Kautz.

Who Was This?

By A.A.M.

The Bible is rich in stories, and the purpose of this series is to encourage readers to look up for themselves the Bible versions of these incidents. If there are children in the family it is suggested that the story, and the Bible verses on which it is based, be read aloud.

Who was the young man who dreamed of a ladder stretching from the earth to the heaven with angels ascending and descending it? Strangely enough, this dream came to him as he slept on the sands of the Syrian desert, a fugitive from his own home.

This man was his mother's favourite son. He had schemed with her to deceive his old father and cheat his brother of the blessing which was his brother's right as the eldest son.

He had run away to escape his brother's anger for his very life was in danger. When night fell, he looked about for a stone for a pillow and lay down exhausted. Then his dream of a ladder with angels on it came to him and the Lord stood above it and blessed the sleeping refuge.

Early in the morning when he wakened he cried, "Surely the Lord is in this place; and I did not know it." Then as he recalled his dream he was filled with awe and exclaimed, "This is none other than the house of God, and this is the gate of heaven!"

He rose up, took the stone which had served as a pillow, stood it up on its end and poured oil over it. He called the place where he had slept "Bethel." This was the vow he made before setting out again on his journey. "If God will be with me and keep me in this way that I go, and will give me bread to eat and clothing to wear, so that I come again to my father's house in peace, then the Lord shall be my God. This stone which I have set up for a pillar shall be God's house; and all that Thou givest me I will give the tenth to Thee."

This man's name and this story is found in Genesis, Ch. 28.

Last year Canadians paid to the federal government $1,280 million in individual income taxes, $1,518 million in sales and excise taxes and customs duties.

Week at Ottawa

The question of diplomatic recognition of the Communist Chinese government was the main theme of a five-day debate on external affairs policy. Progressive Conservatives expressed fears that government policy might lead to recognition. Prime Minister St. Laurent said there is no thought of recognizing the Chinese Reds.

The country's large wheat surplus and a decline in world wheat sales led to several debates on government marketing policies. Two non-confidence motions, stemming from an export price cut of 10 cents a bushel, were defeated.

The security screening of civil servants was a recurring theme. Government members refused repeated PC requests for figures on numbers of employees fired or transferred as security risks, and denied opposition charges of unfairness in the lack of a system of appeals.

On the legislative front, the government allowed the Emergency Powers Act to expire May 31. The act, criticized often by opposition members, gave the government power to control the country's economy and security without reference to Parliament.

TOWN FOLK TRAINED FOR ORGAN FACTORY

Burford, Ont. (CP) — When the wedding march peals forth in churches across Canada these June days, its strains may well come from a pipe organ produced in this little village in the Brantford district of Ontario.

In the nine years since William F. Legge started a pipe organ business here, two sections and a new office have been added to the long, one-storey plant. Under his direction, several district residents have learned the specialized trade of organ-construction and have helped to build the delicate instruments.

Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur, through the medium of The Watchman, wishes to thank all who assisted in the parade, reception and presentation Monday afternoon — affording a fitting demonstration of tribute to William M. Cottingham, new Quebec Minister of Mines, and Mrs. Cottingham, from their home community and fellow citizens.

Financing Delegates To Q.W.I. Conferences

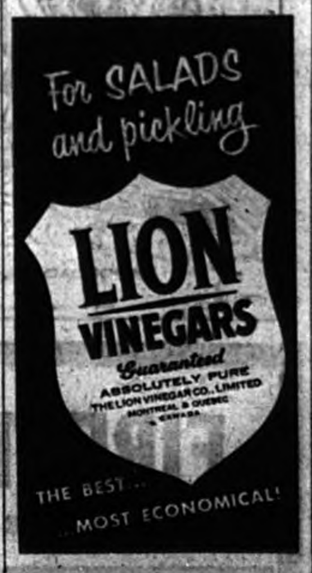

Pooling of fares for branch delegates attending provincial conventions of the Quebec Women's Institutes has now been adopted. This was decided at the one held this month at Macdonald College, and is the result of long and exhaustive study.

In this province, of long distances and much variation in size of branches, there is great inequality in what it costs the individual branch to send its official delegate to the convention, with the result that representation is never what it should be; those near at hand can always be there, while outlying district only infrequently.

A committee was set up a few years ago to study this problem. Information was obtained from other provinces where such systems had been adopted and where highly commended, and estimates made, based on figures covering fares from the various points served by the Q.W.I. It was also thoroughly discussed in all branches, with the result the plan was finally adopted by a large majority, to go into effect next year. This is to be for a trial period of three years; the whole question to be reviewed again at the end of that time in the light of the experience gained.

LOW FLYING

Peterborough, Ont. (CP) — Complaints from residents that low-flying aircraft created unnecessary noise led council to ask authorities at the RCAF station at Trenton to enforce standing orders against low flying of planes over this city.

MONEY GUIDE

Off to Europe? There is a new currency calculator printed in black and red on white plastic which fits conveniently into your passport — a handy quick-reference chart of foreign exchange, says The Financial Post. Compares currency values of 14 European countries straight across the board to give at-a-glance approximate information. On the back of the chart, time is compared between leading world capitals, measurements in miles and kilometres, gallons and litres, pounds and kilos. Also compares European sizes of apparel with American sizes.

You can no more measure a home by inches, or weigh it by ounces, than you can set up the boundaries of a summer breeze, or calculate the fragrance of a rose. Home is the love which is in it.

Boy Scouts The World Over

FRENCH SCOUTS COMING

A French Scout contingent of 40 Troops of 30 boys each will be coming to Canada for the 8th World Scout Jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake, August 18 to 28, 1955, Canadian Scout Headquarters has been advised. Arrangements are now being made for the French Scouts to spend eight days prior to the Jamboree on a tour of Canadian points of interest.

UNUSUAL INVESTITURE

Propped up in bed with pillows, two Indian boys, Sinclair Weapincappo and Louis Whiskeychan, who have been patients at Essex County Sanatorium, Windsor, Ont., for the past five years, were recently invested as Boy Scouts. Through the windows of their hospital room they could see a special guard of honor of 122 members of the 43rd Windsor Scout Group into which they were being inducted. There were 72 Wolf Cubs, 38 Scouts and 12 Rovers of the 43rd (Prince Road Community Centre) Group on hand to welcome the new Scouts into the World Brotherhood.

FIVE SCOUTS WIN AWARD

Five young Scouts at Marpole United Church, Vancouver, B.C., were recently presented with Religion and Life Awards by Rev. E. L. Bishop. The awards were granted them after successfully completing stiff written examinations, following a long period of instruction by their Scoutmaster, E. F. P. Lloyd, who is a teacher in Marpole Sunday School.

SCOUTS OF ALL FAITHS

In "News from Zanzibar": At the Maulidi Celebrations to commemorate the birthday of the Prophet of Mohammed, Scouts of all faiths joined together in assisting to control the crowds and serving refreshments.

A LOT OF SEWING

During the past 26 years, Mrs. W. D. Yelf, Hamilton, Ont., has sewn more than 1,500 feet of material into neckerchiefs for the 26th Hamilton (All Saints Church) Scout Group which she helped get started. In appreciation of her efforts Wolf Cubs of the Group recently presented her with a bouquet and a set of engraved book-ends. Mrs. Yelf still sews neckerchiefs for the 60-odd boys in the "26th".

SERVING ROVER CREW

In keeping with the Rover Scout motto of "Service", members of the 21st Shawville, Que., Crew are truly service-minded. All have been typed as Blood Donors, and are available when required. Recently the Rovers redecorated two rooms in the Nurses' Residence as a community good turn. They entered a team in a provincial marksmanship competition for the Burland Trophy, assisted with the Pontiac District Cub, Scout and Rover Rally on May 24th, and all are serving with the Ground Observer Corps in which a number have earned their Observer Wings.

Teacher was explaining to the class that a number of sheep is called a flock, and a number of quail is called a bevy.

"Now," she said, "what is a number of camels called?"

A nine-year-old reader had a quick answer: "A carton."

Empire Games Contender To Appear in Arena Boxing Program Friday

By John Molloy

Brownsburg — There's big news for local boxing fans. To add to the already attractive card of five-rounders, Mickey Burgin, Canadian amateur champion, has agreed to box a three-round exhibition against Willie Durant. Burgin will represent Canada at Vancouver in August in the British Empire Games, and is already considered as an Olympics possibility for 1956.

Bob Crozen, the up-and-coming young Negro, will face Bernie Donahue in another three-rounder, while Steve Karpuk, the novice Golden Gloves champ, takes on Harry Maxwell in yet another three-rounder.

Local boy Lloyd Thompson, of Lakefield, will try to show Rene Turcotte the ropes in three periods, and Gary Moore tackles Pete McCabe in the other fight.

All in all, it looks like just as attractive an amateur card as you could see, and with all of these boys just coming into the eye of the Canadian public, it's a bet they'll be going all out from the first bell to strengthen their fast-growing reputations.

SUCKER EGGS FOR MUSKIES

It takes 10,000,000 sucker eggs to satisfy the voracious appetites of fingerling maskinonge at the Deer Lake Hatchery, according to Department of Lands and Forests hatchery management officials. The eggs themselves are not fed to "muskies", but hatched out and fed as fry. From fingerling age maskinonge will take only live food. This presented a problem, at times, which is now solved by obtaining sucker eggs from spawn taking operations conducted at several locations in Ontario and bringing them up to the fry stage in the hatcheries.

A "PADDLE CHALLENGE"

Two Halifax, N.S., Scout Leaders recently paddled by canoe some 50 miles through a chain of lakes from Dartmouth to Elmsdale, N.S., then up the Shubenacadie River to Stewiacke where they were met by a Patrol of Scouts from Truro. To these Scouts they presented a small carved paddle and challenged them to return it to Halifax, travelled only by canoe or bicycle.

PORKERS PENNED

Sydney, N.S. (CP) — Police constables had a hectic chase but finally captured two pigs that escaped from a farmer and raced two miles through city streets. The porkers attracted a large juvenile audience.

Short Season Handicap To Professional Golf

SPORTS CAMERA

By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Steps are being taken to make amends, but right now Canadian professional golfers are probably the world's most handicapped.

Of all the major countries where golf is played, Canada's climate is the most rigorous. Comes a late spring and their short season is almost half gone before they can get on a course.

A prime example of that turned up at the International Golf Association matches at Port Credit, near Toronto, this month.

The IGA tournament pits a seven-man United States team against a similar squad representing this country. All the players are professionals, chosen for their record in various competitions during the previous year.

The Americans were a seasoned bunch who had been playing golf virtually 12 months a year, in the winter in the southern states, up north during the summer. On the Canadian team only two had wielded a club during the winter and one of them only briefly.

South Africa's great Bobby Locke, an honorary member of the Canadian Professional Golfers Association and thus eligible to play for Canada, was the only one on a par with the Americans as far as playing time was concerned. He plays the year round, following the sun, and won the Egyptian Open not long before competing at Toronto.

Stan Leonard, a professional from Vancouver, was able to get in a few rounds last winter in his city's temperate climate and played a few matches in the western United States.

Starting Cold

The rest of the Canadians were just getting their game out of mothballs when the International matches opened. The worst off was Saskatoon's Pat Fletcher. A cold and damp spring in the west had held him to only three nine-hole rounds before the tournament.

The Americans won the match play competition as was generally expected. The event was scored on a point system with the United States piling up 42½, Canada 20½. Undoubtedly it would have been closer if the Canadians had a few month's more playing under their belt.

A couple of moves have been made to give the Canadians a better break.

A large Canadian oil company last year began sponsoring a tournament in which the top players get expense money to take part in winter events in the United States.

And a golf-minded group of business men in Toronto got together last fall to give promising Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Ont., a chance. They provided a car and enough spending money so that Gerry and his wife could tour the winter circuit.

The players sponsored by the oil company, and Kesselring, picked up a lot of experience and made creditable showings.

If the trend continues Canadian professionals should be able to take part in the international matches on an almost even footing.

Tigers' Standing For Calvert Trophy Fan-Votes

New Pitcher on Line-Up This Week-End

Points have been piling up in favor of the various Tigers players in the Calvert Trophy competition with manager Gerry Cotnoir now holding down second place after several weeks at the top. Cotnoir has been off the line-up with injuries for the last few games, and in this manner the fans have been casting their votes for other valuable players.

Point compilations this week are:

Bougie	70
Cotnoir	60
Gohier	50
Groulx	50
Dubé	50
Taillefer	50
Beauchemin	40
Hardy	40
Robitaille	35
Stobbs	25
Luciano	15

New Pitcher

Bill Boyette, 25-year-old American who has gone through the Florida International League Class B baseball battles, is expected on the Tigers' line-up this week-end. A left-handed pitcher, he will supplement Groulx, Luciano, Bollou, Robitaille and Carpentier. At the same time, business manager Ted Vachon informed The Watchman that both Jacques Plante and Weinning have obtained their release from L'Association de la Jeunesse Sportive contract.

Playing-coach Gerry Cotnoir is slowly recovering from his ankle injury received during the Saturday night game against Ste. Therese. Since that time, Cotnoir has been replaced behind home-plate by Bougie, and Luciano has been acting coach.

FREE FISH

Nokomis, Sask. (CP) — Farmer Frank Greenfield vouches for this fish story. He was driving his truck when a pelican dropped a large fish on the highway. Frank was grateful there were no game wardens around; the fishing season hadn't opened.

Does it pay to be tall? A survey of 1037 professional men disclosed that bishops averaged 5'10½" compared to 5'8½" for rural preachers. Presidents of large universities measured 5'10½" as against 5'9½" for heads of small colleges, city school superintendents, 5'10½", small-town principals, 5'9½", sales managers, 5'10", salesmen, 5'9". Life insurance policies averaged $2979 for men 5 feet tall, and increased steadily, for men of taller stature, to an average of $6180 for 6'4" giants. "Brilliant exceptions" to the rule, however, are noted.

Work on Trans-Canada And South Shore Highways

Ottawa — Tenders have been called by the Ontario Department of Highways for resurfacing 14½ miles of Highway 17 from L'Orignal, Hawkesbury, Chute à Blondeau to Pointe Fortune. This is the old road and has been a source of complaint from car drivers.

Approximate cost of the project is $200,000, with the contract to be awarded about the middle of July.

Work on the new Trans-Canada Highway between Ottawa and the Quebec border is progressing. The Ontario Highways Department said that all the contracts have been let for grading. Paving would be done next year.

The Trans-Canada is paved as far east as Wendover. The Dibblee Construction Company started paving Tuesday the eight miles from Wendover to Plantagenet. The stretch from Plantagenet east to Alfred already has been paved. From Alfred the grading is going on. Both Hawkesbury and Pointe Fortune will be by-passed.

The highways department also said that work is well advanced on the highway bridge over the Nation River, two miles west of Plantagenet.

Rotary Announces 2nd Annual Rodeo Coming July 15-17

Big Time In Store at Exhibition Grounds

For the second year in succession the Rotary Club of Brownsburg and Lachute is staging a Rodeo with all its excitement, thrills, danger and comedy at the Lachute Exhibition Grounds on July 15, 16 and 17. Evening performances will commence at 8 o'clock. There will be a matinee also at 2.30 p.m. on Saturday, July 17.

This ambitious undertaking was such a success last year that the Club has arranged to double the seating capacity by importing well over a thousand seats from Montreal. The price of admission will include free seating anywhere on the grounds. Ticket offices are being set up in every community within a 50-mile radius, and there is an advantage in purchasing tickets in advance.

John Baldwin, world champion from 1907 to 1920, will be the arena director. John has appeared with Will Rogers and Buster Crabbe, and has performed before Roosevelt and at a Command Performance before the Prince of Wales at Calgary. "Snake" Rogers, famous Texas Rodeo announcer, direct from the winter season in Florida, will be announcer. He has years of Rodeo announcing behind him, and knows every cowboy in the business. All contestants and artists are top rodeo performers drawn from the ranching states of the United States.

Contests will include saddle bronc riding, a fascinating and dangerous sport, one of the first and greatest accomplishments of the early Western days when each ranch broke its own stock for the handling of cattle. In order to win the rider must keep the rein in one hand, both feet in the stirrups and keep both feet moving in a kicking motion throughout the ride. With just one rein to keep balance, to stay upright in the saddle and be master of the situation while the bronc goes through a series of long leaps, bounds and weaves to unseat the rider is an accomplishment which has long been admired by the public.

Needless to say there will also be Brahma bull riding. This is never part of a cowboy's work on a ranch. It is a sport of the impromptu rodeos of years ago and wild steers ridden were more or less of the longhorn breed. In an effort to make the contest more thrilling Brahma steers were introduced, and finally the huge Brahma bulls of today's rodeo, the most dangerous event of all.

Other contests will include wild calf roping, a thrilling and scientific sport, bulldogging (sometimes called steer wrestling), and bareback bronc riding.

There will be innumerable specialty acts between contests such as trick and fancy riding by cowboys and cowgirls who are real experts in the saddle, roman riding, a bullwhip specialty act, a trick mule, a trained Brahma bull weighing 2,350 pounds, "Major", a spectacular automobile jumping horse, and many other acts of extreme interest both funny and thrilling. The Rodeo clown will be there too. Little do people realize the perfect condition, mental alertness and agility required to ably fill this important part of the rodeo. Not only does the clown work hard to make people laugh and enjoy themselves but he is the safety value of the wild Brahma bull riding event. Watch how he charges a fighting mad wild bull. Many a cowboy has been saved from serious injury by the funny man of the arena who is always taken for granted.

No adult will want to miss the tremendous action-filled performances, and the children will clamor to see real wild west cowboys and girls performing their daring stunts.

"Holiday Ranch" Becomes Roadshow

From June 25 to July 11 the CBC-TV "Holiday Ranch" gang will be on tour, meeting viewers in person in several Ontario and Quebec communities.

While the show is on the road the weekly television program will originate in Ottawa (Auditorium, June 26) and the CBC's television studios in Montreal (July 3 and 10). The show of the 10th from Montreal will be the last "Holiday Ranch" program of the series.

Cliff McKay, genial foreman of the "Ranch", has planned a two-hour stage show for personal appearances in various Ontario and Quebec towns and cities. All the regular "Holiday Ranch" performers will be on hand.

Attraction at Coming Rodeo

Bronco-busting cowboys still hold priority over the supermen and space pilots — and there'll be many star performers for the top popularity ranks, to thrill kiddies, and adults too, at the coming Rodeo at Lachute Exhibition Grounds. . . Here is a bull-riding act, one of the most thrilling items on the program.

Over the Years with THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

June 27, 1879 —

It is reported that salmon have been seen in the North River but that persons are not allowed to catch them.

The little steamer "Islander" appears to have plenty to do navigating on the North River. She made her first trip to St. Jerome yesterday.

There should be a railing along the bank of the river at the railway bridge, near the Court House, as some narrow escapes from horses backing down the bank into the river have been experienced frequently.

• • •

June 24, 1904 —

The new principal of the Academy, Mr. Mabon, of Waterloo, spent Friday and Saturday in Lachute.

Tonight, our citizens will have the pleasure of witnessing a boat race between three of our townsmen, Messrs. J. R. Parris, G. E. Bampton and John Hope. Considerable interest is roused and much speculation is rife as to the outcome of the race, which starts from Banford's boat house, finishing at Lane's bridge.

The Rev. W. H. Raney and family left on Tuesday for their new field of labor in Carp.

The C.P.R.'s eastbound train due in Lachute at 9 o'clock collided with a valuable cow belonging to Jno. McDiarmid at Cleland's crossing in the West End.

25 YEARS AGO

June 28, 1929 —

A congregational meeting of the Lachute United Church was held Monday night for the purpose of electing a minister to fill the vacancy now existing. A number of names were before the meeting, but the first ballot resulted in the unanimous election of the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, B.A., B.D., of Amherst, N.S.

The many friends of Mr. Harry Carpenter will be sorry to learn of his having fractured his arm, which, as a result of war wounds, was none too strong.

Just recovering from a painful accident by having his eye burnt with lime, Mr. James Hay met with another accident Monday morning by being thrown from his express while driving to the station with his milk. He and Mr. Tattersall were thrown to the ground and both suffered fractures of the leg. They were tended by Doctors Drew and Mason and driven by special express to hospital in Montreal.

"EXILE FROM SUNNYACRES"
By Margaret Cook

Still an exile, you see. We did spend one week-end at our Laurentian Shangri-La, but it rained every minute, so our activities were almost completely confined to the house. If we were labeling it, we would call it "Susie's Week-End." Susie (because it isn't her real name) is sometimes called by envious friends "faithful retainer," but to us she is always affectionately Susie. Anyway, she had expressed a desire to see Sunnyacres with its "new look", so I proposed to exchange a week-end for a cleaning job on the range. We refer to a stove, not a pasture. A range, as every country-dweller knows, is the focal point of a kitchen; ours is a large affair with a high oven, it has white enamel back and side, and bits of chrome here and there. It should gleam, but ever since we have known it, some 20 years, it has presented a rusty, mottled effect. From time to time, I have made futile dabs at it, but the response was negligible. Susie professed to know just what to do, so we made a deal. For four hours, Susie cleaned with kerosene, abrasive and steel wool, ending up with polish on the appropriate parts. As she worked, she talked to the creature. "Now you'll shine. Wait till I finish, you won't know yourself. Nobody has given you any attention." At five o'clock, we relighted the fire, in a stove reflecting the light from a score of points; the chrome gleamed, the white was innocent of blemish, the steel shone like a pair of British shoes. It was lear about housekeeping." We complimented Susie, and she modestly gave all the credit to her early training, obtained in one of the "big houses" in Montreal, where she began service at the age of 13. "Awful strict they were; they started me on the brass and silver, stoves came later. My mother said that was the place to learn about housekeeping. We shouldn't wonder mother had something! Certainly the writer never learned how to deal with stoves, silver or brass, and we doubt that such necessary lore is included in the curriculum of the Domestic Science courses. A pity, as Susie would say.

• • •

While we are on the subject of Susie, we should like to muse a bit on the subject of Fear. Fear plays a large part in Susie's life and we often ponder on the fact. Is she just naturally a coward, or did life make her that way? Are all people of limited education fearful? Hardly, for the converse would be absurd. We know plenty of educated people that are scared of the most ridiculous things. Is it addiction to lurid murder stories and comics? We doubt that Susie ever reads a book. Whatever the cause, the facts are fascinating. If we go out on a casual errand when Susie is here, we cannot re-enter, even with a key, unless we signal on the bell; if the vacuum cleaner is running, the bell is not heard. This week, Betty was forced to squeeze through the milk-hatch in the wall. Asked why all these precautions in a respectable suburb, Susie murmurs something about "all those dreadful things in the paper." Knives are hidden when she is alone in the house, lights kept on in vacant rooms, visitors scanned through the window before the bell is answered. So far as we can see, Susie lives her whole life in constant expectation of being murdered. Since she is the kindest and least evil of persons, whence this dismal foreboding? We know some people that would undoubtedly be the better for a little murder, but Susie is not among them. Personally, our only fear is spiders. We no longer scream and run, but we can feel the little hairs on the neck stand straight up at the sight of an ugly, black spider.

• • •

We see we have wandered far from Sunnyacres; that's the worst of an active mind, you never know where it may lead you. Right now, we indicate that we wish to return to suburbia, where life is always difficult for the scatter-brained but sometimes amusing. For instance, the telephone conversations.

Voice: "Hello! Is that OR 1-1668? Is that Mrs. Forrest?

M.C.: "No. You must have the wrong number."

Voice: "So sorry!"

We had time to walk the length of the house before the phone rang again. . .

Voice: "Is that Mrs. Forrest?"

M.C. "No. What number do you think you are calling?"

Voice: "OR.1-1668."

M.C. "This is OR.1-1668, but there is no Mrs. Forrest here, nor ever has been."

Voice: "Are you in Mackayville?"

Let me explain to local readers that this is equivalent to asking a Lachute person if he lives in Lakefield. The rest of that exchange was short. We brewed a pot of coffee to sooth our injured feelings and were about to pour when the phone rang. . .

Voice: "Is that Mrs. Forrest?"

M.C.: "No! And stop pestering me."

This time, we had barely left the room, when the phone rang again. Our first impulse was to ignore it, but then we reflected that probably some one of our friends had been impatiently waiting for the line to be free and would certainly know we were in, so we lifted the receiver.

Voice: "Is that Mrs. Forrest in Sacré Coeur?" (It is as if we had now holed up in Mille Isles.)

M.C. (In a fine Irish rage). . . "No, I am not Mrs. Forrest. I am not in Mackayville, nor yet in Sacré Coeur. If this is a joke, it is in bad taste. If it is not a joke, why don't you call information?

Voice: "Well, you see, we want to talk to a friend in Sacré Coeur and we were told that if we called this number, she would get our friend to the telephone. Have you any suggestions?"

M.C.: "Yes. Call Information."

We took our pot of coffee into the garden and stared angrily at the peonies. The telephone rang. We did not answer. This kind of thing is not a daily occurrence, but it happens often enough to explain why we flee to Sunnyacres whenever possible.

• • •

Then there is the matter of agents. Mostly, they do not get in, but we were in a lenient mood the other day and admitted a young

Women's Interests -- The Homemaker's Section

Estimating Weight For Family Chicken

A frequent question, particularly among newer homemakers, is "how much chicken should I buy to serve my family?" Poultry Products Institute offers some timely advice on this question.

To estimate the amount of chicken to buy, allow about ½ of a pound per serving (not per person — some people expect "seconds") of eviscerated (drawn) and up to one pound per serving of the dressed (undrawn) birds.

In some sections of Canada homemakers are in the habit of buying only eviscerated chickens, that is, drawn birds, practically ready for the oven. In other sections, the so-called "dressed" chicken is still the type most generally displayed. In the latter case the head and feet are still on and the bird has only the feathers removed. Some dealers may remove the head and feet, but the bird remains undrawn. Confusion sometimes results in calculating cooking times since most modern cook books and cooking columns give roasting times for poultry based on the eviscerated (drawn) weight. If the dealer draws the chicken for you, have him weigh it after it is drawn and mark it down for you. If you forget to do this, deduct approximately one quarter from the dressed weight to arrive at the eviscerated weight.

Apple pie... coming up

A KING-SIZE apple pie weighing over a hundred pounds was recently baked for the Washington State Apple Blossom Festival. The specially built aluminum pie pan — the largest ever made — measured eight feet across.

Made us wonder how big a pie you'd get if all the apple pies baked in one day on regular-size aluminum pans were put together. And that brings to mind all the different aluminum cooking utensils used today in homes and hospitals and restaurants... No wonder Canada is stepping up her production of this light, bright metal to one and a quarter billion pounds a year! Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Cherries For Freezing

Do you freeze you own foods then you should have a copy of the Consumer Section booklet "Freezing Foods"? If you do not have one, all you have to do is write to the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and ask for a copy. Many consumers do have this excellent publication and perhaps they have noticed that there are no directions for the freezing of sweet cherries, apricots and cantaloupe. In answer to why there are no directions for these fruits, the home economists tell us that when they printed their first freezing book in 1945, they had directions in it for freezing all fruits. However, as the years went by and more experimental work was done, it was found that the results of freezing sweet cherries, cantaloupe and apricots were not completely satisfactory. Rather than have homemakers disappointed with freezing such fruits, it was decided to take the directions out of their booklet until more experimental work was done. So they kept on working, trying to find satisfactory ways of freezing.

Last summer the home economists froze more sweet cherries and last month held another series of taste panels. At last they are satisfied and are now ready to give out the directions for freezing these fruits. The next time their bulletin on freezing foods is revised they will, of course, include the new directions. However, this will not be done until 1955, so the home economists want to give you the new directions as each of these fruits comes on the market.

Around the end of June or the first week in July, one of our favorite fruits appears on the market — sweet cherries. Those beautiful Bings, Lamberts and Schmidts, that everyone loves so well. It certainly is no effort whatsoever to eat our fill of this luscious fruit. As a matter of fact we often try to eat enough when they are in season to last all year round. Today we do not have to do that. We are very lucky, because we have a great variety of frozen fruits available and they are nearly like the fresh ones. We can have strawberries in March and peaches in November. Now, to add to that list of fine frozen fruits we have sweet cherries. We must point out that when we say cherries, we are referring to the sweet dark cherries only, not the sweet white ones, such as the Royal Ann's or the Napoleons. The home economists mention that frozen cherries can be thawed, but just until the icy crystals have been melted and then served in a bowl to be eaten out of hand or with a spoon, or they can be served raw in fruit salads. Their recommendations for freezing them are these: sweet dark cherries retain better flavor, color and general appearance when frozen unpitted; they may be packed dry, but the flavor is better if they are packed in a very thin syrup of 1 cup of sugar to 3 cups of water.

Ideas for Picnics

We all have our own ideas about what foods we like to take on picnics, but the home economists at Ottawa have some picnic ideas which will be useful to everyone. The first idea they mention is the role of aluminum foil. This is one way to use it: there is nothing like vegetables cooked outdoors in a bonfire, but there is the odd time when the fire gets too hot or smoky and each person, instead of being given a nicely baked potato or a brown ear of corn, receives a charred offering which is not too palatable. Of course, it is eaten charred or not, because on a picnic, no one complains. Now aluminum foil enters into the picture. If the vegetables that are to be roasted are wrapped in aluminum foil and placed in the bonfire, they will cook just beautifully. The foil will not burn and the vegetables are protected from flames and from smoke, as they cook.

Thinking of flames and smoke, have you ever tried to toast a weiner on a stick which was too short and you kept burning your hand. Every time you jerked your hand back, invariably the weiner fell off into the bonfire and you had a difficult time trying to rescue it. The home economists have come up with a solution to the weiner-roasting problem. This is a popcorn popper, the one with the long handle. It is the ideal utensil for roasting weiners. If several weiners are put in the popper, held over the fire and shaken occasionally so that all sides are evenly roasted, a prefectly cooked weiner will be the result and there will be no burnt hands and no lost weiners.

Many Canadian homemakers now own home freezers, and frozen foods are ideal for picnics. If sandwiches are to be the picnic fare, they can be made up ahead of time, several days or even a week or two in advance. On the day of the picnic, the sandwiches can be taken out of the freezer just when you are ready to leave. There are a few sandwich fillings which do not freeze too well, such as egg, tomato, cucumber and lettuce but meat, cheese or fish fillings are all excellent so they are the ones to use. It is wise to be sparing with the mayonnaise because it may soak into the bread and make the sandwiches soggy. As mentioned, salad makings like cucumbers and tomatoes do not freeze well because they are so watery, and when they thaw, they become limp and spongy — take them along fresh.

Hamburgers or weiners can be cooked and put into buns and then wrapped and frozen. If the buns, complete with cooked hamburgers or weiners, are wrapped in aluminum foil, they can be reheated right in the bonfire or in a barbecue fireplace. The foil will not burn and the bun and meat will be heated without further cooking. It is quite an advantage to be able to prepare these foods days ahead, then on the day of the picnic, all that has to be done is to pack them in the basket. The home economists suggest that cooked meats such as fried chicken, baked spareribs and sausage rolls can be frozen weeks ahead and just removed from the freezer on the picnic day. The same principle applies to these foods. If they are wrapped with foil, they can be heated on the bonfire. If the picnic day is rather a cool one, it is nice to serve hot food. Chili con carne, stew or soup may all be cooked ahead of time and stored in the freezer. On the day of the picnic, they can be heated and placed in a large thermos jug. When the family is ready to sit down to the picnic, they will be thrilled with the piping hot food. Fresh fruits are in season now and of course you will want to take plenty of them on the picnic with you but if your family likes cake or cookies as well, any type of butter or sponge cake, chocolate brownies, peanut butter cookies, tarts, etc., freeze well. They keep very fresh and moist in the freezer just so long as they are properly wrapped or packaged. They too can be removed just before leaving for the picnic.

Sunnyacres

man and woman, whom we suspected, for no good reason, to be Communists talking about Peace. They turned out to be magazine agents, and we were not to vote for Peace, but for them, so that they could collect emoluments varying from $500 to $10,000. They no longer make pretence of going to college. They are quite frankly after money. The male of the duo was from Cornwall and the female from Pennsylvania. The latter looked hard-boiled and the former tried to. They had been carefully primed and soon recovered their official brashness after a momentary hesitation. They both exclaimed over an oil, depicting the usual winter habitant scene. "That I suppose," said the youth, flicking the habitant with his finger, "is the old man." We had a fleeting mental picture of our tall, lean and somewhat dignified spouse as "the old man" and cut off a gurgle of delight. Then, the hooked rug on the wall caught their attention. "Did you make it, Mrs. Cook?" queried the girl. We denied the flattering assumption, said it had been made in a workshop down the St. Lawrence. "You've travelled quite a bit, haven't you?" was the next question. We were saved a reply by the brash young man. "I always wanted to travel and I sure have. I've been in Noranda, North Bay, Port Arthur, Three Rivers and points in between and mostly on my feet." The girl, too, had had a yen for travelling, which was being satiated. Somehow, we got to talking about prices and she quoted the cost of a hair-do. It had been a pony-tail. "And it sure made her look like a horse'", commented Youth with its charming frankness. After 15 minutes of rapid-fire conversation, we were worn down to the point where we gave them a subscription for a well-known periodical, which netted them seven points. When they got their required number of points, something astronomical, they could go home. The youth planned to return home to the farm, the girl, more sensibly, did not discuss her plans. Judging by the comments from other housewives, they will be out all summer. Our French-speaking neighbor made the mistake of saying "Je ne comprends pas l'anglais," whereupon, Youth slipped into fluent French. They were a brash pair but amusing — which is probably more than the writer is by this time! See you in a few weeks from Sunnyacres and the midst of Summer. Magic words!

Says Average Canuck A Five-By-Five

—Central Press Canadian Photos

A Canada-wide survey, sure to send conceit out the window, shows the average Canadian adult is short and dumpy. This unflattering picture was unfolded by Dr. L. B. Pett, top, director of the federal nutrition department, who has statistics based on weighing some 22,000 persons to back up his claim. Judging by the slim figure of Toby Robins, above, pretty Canadian actress, it is difficult to believe that the average Canadian woman over 20 is five feet, one and three-quarter inches tall and weighs 135 pounds. Many other well known actresses and models also dispute this claim but so far no males have protested the statistics showing their average weight is 161½ pounds for a five foot, seven inch height.

LAW OF THE CAESARS

Caesarian section is one of the most ancient of surgical operations. Since the 19th Century discoveries of anaesthesia and antiseptic surgery it has developed into a blessfor many expectant mothers, but it wasn't originally intended as such. According to Roman law, an expectant mother who was unable to have a normal delivery or who died before being delivered was required to be cut open. This was for the sake of the child; the mother, if not dead already, nearly always died shortly afterwards as a result of infection. Since all Roman law became Caesarian law after the accession of Augustus, this legal practice became known as Caesarian delivery. It had the stamp of officialdom. There is no historical basis for the medieval myth that Julius Caesar was delivered through a Caesarian section. As far as is known, Julius was born in normal childbirth, and his mother survived.

Question:

"I expect to have my first baby next month. My doctor thinks he will have to perform a Caesarian. Is that bad? Will I ever be able to have another baby?"

Answer:

Caesarian section occurs in about one out of every 50 or 60 deliveries at the present time and it is certainly the answer to prayer for many a mother whose pelvis is too small to allow passage of even a normally sized baby.

In the hands of a good gynaecologist, Caesarian section is now just as safe as any other surgical operation. The rule is "Once Caesarian, always Caesarian," but there is the occasional exception to this.

COMFORT FOR GOURMETS

Question:

"You hear a lot about the wonderful food values of cottage cheese, but never anything about the soft-ripening cheese like Camembert or Limburger or Brie, or the blue-moldy cheese like Stilton or Roquefort or Gorgonzola. Do these cheeses have any food value or are they merely a delightfully useless luxury?"

Answer:

The cheeses mentioned are good cheeses of foreign origin. They are high in food value, but, of course, expensive. Cottage and our own Canadian Cheddar at various degrees of ageing are of excellent food value and the cheapest available. Processed cheeses are lacking in food value.

Canadian Heritage

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

Each Canada or Dominion Day we are reminded of our Canadian heritage. This is a good time to send for the new map of Canada which may be obtained from the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys for half a dollar. This is an attractive colored map showing many islands in the Northern Section which do not appear in earlier surveys. Mother and dad might point out the places where they have lived or visited, and tell their children about them.

One of our happiest memories of childhood was mother telling us about teaching in Halifax, and walking in the beautiful pine woods outside the city. There she found heather and she could hear the waves pounding on the shore on a windy day. She also told us of her early married life in the Okanogan Valley. Sometimes she went on a picnic in the summer when the sun would be shining on the peaks of one range of mountains, while on the other side of the valley a thunderstorm was pouring down upon the mountain slopes. Later when we visited the East and West coasts, these stories of other Canadian provinces heightened our enjoyment of the magnificent scenery.

A map of Canada or another person's description cannot give an accurate idea of the vastness of our country. Few Canadians realize that we have the third largest nation in the world with its land of almost three and one half million square miles. Only Russia and China cover a larger territory. Canada is larger than United States and Alaska combined.

Parents should not leave the cultivation of a love of Canada completely to teachers. They should encourage their children as they grow up to learn more and more about Canada as a nation, about her history, her contribution to the world of art and literature, and the part her scientists have played in this new industrial era.

Whenever possible, parents should take their children on trips to other parts of this country and visit the Art Galleries and places of public interest. Camping in the lovely National and Provincial parks can be a thrilling family adventure in the vacation weeks. Mothers and fathers should do all they can to help their boys and girls catch a glimpse of the beauty and vastness of our country, the amazing resources and the variety and number of her industries.

Almost every school child in most areas in Canada is aware of the New Canadians who have come to make their home here. Parents might well point out the fine contribution which is being made by many of the potential new Canadians who have come here in the displaced persons quota. It is up to the mothers and fathers to keep before their children the ideal of the nation being one large family — a family which has been growing greatly in numerical strength.

We in Canada with well over fourteen million of a population have about twenty-five different races speaking over thirty different languages. Here in our land, what a variety we have of races — British, French, German, Ukrainian, Scandinavian, Netherlandish, Polish, Italian, Russian, Czech and Slovak, Finnish, Chinese and others. These people have all sought a new life here and are bound together by the ties of loyalty to their new homeland. What a challenge this mosaic of races presents to the thoughtful citizens, to the true patriot!

Let's all work a little harder, each in our own small way, at being worthy citizens. Let's keep alive this ideal of a Great Canadian family, colorful and strong because of the very diversity of our racial strains, knit together by bonds of understanding and appreciation!

Kipling wrote the truth in these lines:

"God gives all men all earth to love
But since man's heart is small
Ordains for each one spot shall prove Beloved over all."

Controlling Garden Pests

A simple hand sprayer and suitable spray will control most of the insects that delight in spoiling garden shrubs and plants. Here are some of the common pests and the simplest spray for the amateur gardener.

Rose Curculio: The rose curculio is a snout beetle about ¼ of an inch in length, is bright red on top and black on the underside. It feeds on the buds and often cuts them off. Use of spray of DDT, one teaspoon 50 per cent wettable powder in one quart of water, applied as soon as the buds or beetles appear, and at ten day intervals.

Gladiolus Thrips: These are small insects that suck the juice from the plant causing white spots on the leaves. If flowers develop they will be small. Use the same spray as for rose, curculio, first applying it when the plants are ten inches high and every ten days thereafter. DDT powder should be mixed with the corms when they are stored in the fall to kill the over-wintering stages of the strips.

Leaf Hopper on Virginia Creeper: The adult leaf hopper, a small active greenish colored insect with red markings, appears shortly after the leaves expand and feeds on the leaves by sucking the sap from them. A severe infestation will cause the leaves to drop off. The same DDT spray may be used for this insect, applied soon after the leaves expand and at ten day intervals if necessary.

Aphids: There are a number of different species of aphids most of which are familiar to the gardener. They can be controlled with a spray of nicotine sulphate, ¼ teaspoon 40 per cent nicotine sulphate in one quart of water in which ¼ ounce of soap has been dissolved. The spray should be thoroughly applied as only the aphids which are wetted will be killed.

Spider Mites: The spider mites are very small and greenish in color. They usually feed on the underside of the leaves sucking the sap from the plant. Severe infestation will cause a white flecking or yellowing of the leaves and possibly leaf drop. They can be controlled with sprays of 1 teaspoonful 15 per cent Armite wettable powder in one quart of water, or 1 teaspoon 25 per cent Malathion wettable powder in one quart of water.

Ottawa Valley Couple Wed Saturday, To Reside At Chute à Blondeau

Conway - MacKinnon

A very pretty wedding took place Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock when Beulah Eileen MacKinnon, youngest daughter of Mrs. A. MacKinnon of Grece's Point, and of the late Mr. A. MacKinnon, became the bride of Mr. Leo John Conway, son of Mrs. Thomas Conway, of Chute-à-Blondeau, and of the late Mr. T. Conway.

Scene of the double-ring ceremony was the Chapel of the Church of the Ascension of Our Lord, Westmount, Que., with the Rev. H. Conway, brother of the groom, officiating. The alter of the chapel was decorated with gladioli and peonies in pastel shades, for the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Douglas MacKinnon, the bride was attended by Mrs. J. Hernblade as matron of honor. Mr. Cecil Conway acted as best man for the groom, and the ushers were Messrs. Raymond Conway and James Murdoch.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white satin with a lace bodice, and a Juliet cap with fingertip veil; she carried a bouquet of red roses. The matron of honor wore a floor-length gown of pale blue net over taffeta with matching headdress, and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mrs. A. MacKinnon, mother of the bride, wore a street-length dress of navy blue crepe, with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Conway, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in a street-length dress of black and white nylon, with accessories to match, and a corsage of white carnations.

The reception was held at the Vaudreuil Inn, Dorion, Que., where the tables were decorated with summer flowers and a beautiful three-tiered wedding cake centred the bride's table. There were 75 guests in attendance.

Following the reception the bride and groom left on their wedding trip to New York and the Eastern States, the bride travelling in a pink linen suit with white accesories and a corsage of Souvenir roses. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Conway will reside in Chute-à-Blondeau.

St. Andrews East

Mrs. Aiken has returned from Europe and is staying with her daughter, Mrs. Mellers.

Mrs. Larmonth, of Ottawa, has opened her house and will be here for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Rejall and family, of Montreal, spent the week-end at their home here.

Mrs. Green, of Montreal, spent the week-end with Miss Franzen, who is staying with Mrs. Pierce.

Tony Hungerbuhler, who has been attending Bishop's College School, has returned home to spend his vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Entwistle and son, Douglas, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Entwistle. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Entwistle were also their guests for the week-end.

Mrs. Armstrong is spending this week with Miss Walsh and Mr. and Mrs. McPhee.

Mrs. H. W. Hill is spending this week at her home here.

Visitor With Notable War Service Record

Sister E. M. Lewis, of Malvern Links, Worcestershire, England, was a visitor recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Howell.

Miss Lewis served with distinction as a nursing sister in the Great War of 1914-18, and received many military orders and decorations from Allied governments, including the Legion of Honor and Medaille Militaire (France), the Serbian Order for Valour (equivalent to our V.C.), the Order of St. Salvia, Serbian Red Cross, and King Peter's Medal (Serbian), the Belgian Croix de Guerre (with bar), the Royal Red Cross (Britain), 1914-15 Star, Victory and General Service Medals, as well as the Defence of Britain Medal 1939-45.

Miss Lewis sailed for England on the S.S. Scythia following a visit to her sister, Mrs. Alex Cox, at Oliver, B.C.

CAPABLE OPPOSITION

It is possible for any government, regardless of its political stripe, to develop a disregard for the wishes of the people when it has been in power too long and when it has a large majority. Thus a capable opposition, effectively led, is a necessity for our welfare.

Garden-Graph

Sometimes a husky, healthy squash vine will wilt in a mysterious manner. When it happens, start looking for the squash borer. It is a whitish colored pest which tunnels in the stems of squash vines. It does the same damage to pumpkin, cucumber and muskmelon vines.

To those who find squash leaves wilting this season, best advice is to use a sharp knife to slit the stem lengthwise in the section where the borer is believed to be at work. A section of vine with the borer exposed is shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. When the borer is found, flip it out of its hiding place with the knife blade and destroy it.

Next cover the cut section of the stem with a "mud plaster" of moist soil, as illustrated. This will help the vine to heal and new roots will form at that point.

If borers give you trouble, do not grow squashes two years in succession in the same ground. When the squashes are harvested, pull and burn the vines at once. At the start of the growing season spray or dust the vines with rotenone or nicotine.

Squash bugs sometimes are a problem to the home gardener. These pests are especially fond of the hubbard and marrow varieties of squashes. In the spring these bugs can be controlled by spraying with nocotine sulphate. When the bugs are full grown such spraying cannot be depended upon to kill them.

Grenville Girl Married Recently in Westmount

Spencer - Barron

The marriage took place Saturday in the Church of the Ascension of Our Lord, Westmount, Rev. John Colford officiating, of Miss Ramona Elizabeth Barron and Arnold Ernest Spencer. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Barron, of Grenville, and the bridegroom is the son of Roland Spencer and of the late Mrs. Spencer, of Westmount.

Mrs. Vietta Corby was matron of honor for her sister, and another sister, Mrs. Beatrice Timmons, was the other attendant. Little Miss Daphne Barron, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Ronald Kuranoff was best man and ushering were Colin Barron, brother of the bride, and Joseph Marshall, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original gown of white Chantilly lace over satin with empire waistline and full skirt with a circular train. The portrait neckline was scalloped and trimmed with seed pearls and the long sleeves extended to points over her hands. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion and lace was held by a coronet of satin trimmed with seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of Easter lilies.

The attendants wore floor-length, strapless gowns with boleros of nylon tulle over taffeta, the matron of honor's being in yellow, and Mrs. Timmons' in ice blue. They wore headdresses to match their gowns and carried cascade bouquets of pink carnations. The little flower girl wore a floor-length gown of pink nylon tulle over taffeta with bandeau of pink roses in her hair and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses with powder blue streamers.

Pink and white peonies and other summer flowers decorated the home of the bride's parents at Grenville for the reception. Leaving later on a motor trip through the Eastern States, the bride wore a powder blue linen frock with matching jacket, her accessories being white and her corsage bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer will live in Westmount. Many out-of-town guests attended the wedding.

Gratitude of People Encourages Missionary In Huge Artic Area

Coppermine, N.W.T. (CP) — It is convenient for Eskimos in this Arctic area to be born, to wed or to die just around a certain date — when the Anglican missionary from Coppermine pays a visit.

Rev. John R. Sperry performs baptisms, weddings and burials in addition to conducting normal services. With his headquarters here, nearly 1,000 miles north of Edmonton and 100 miles inside the Arctic Circle, he travels some 3,000 miles by dog team every winter, calling at tiny Eskimo outposts set in the white wilderness.

Coppermine is a big city by Far North standards. It has a white population of 23, Roman Catholic and Anglican misisons, a school, nursing station, trading post, transport department office, RCMP and radio communications.

Here Mr. Sperry's duties are of a regular pastoral type with church and Sunday school. He is helped by his wife, a trained nurse.

Mr. Sperry is a lieutenant in the Coppermine detachment of the Canadian militia rangers and also serves as local dentist.

When he harnesses his dogs for trips into the tundra, however, life gets rougher and tougher. He has a huge district to cover — almost half the size of Alberta, taking in Holman Island, Reid Island, Bathurst Island and Cambridge Bay.

"I go where the natives are," he says. Of the 600 natives in the area, about 85 per cent are Protestant.

Nomadic People

Some Eskimos don't stay in one place, which doesn't help matters. On a recent trip to Cambridge Bay, Mr. Sperry followed a trail for half a day thinking it to have been left by a nomad camp. It turned out to be a trap line.

Then at Reid Island, with the temperature 50 below, he ate some bad caribou meat and was taken ill. He was about to return to Coppermine when the pain left as quickly as it had come.

Last winter he was en route to Coppermine from Holman Island when distemper broke out among the dogs. Soon there were only three left of a pack of 11. Mr. Sperry and his Eskimo guide wound up pulling the sled themselves.

Born in Leicester, England, John Sperry has been here four years. He first became interested in Eskimo missionary work at the age of 15. This interest was heightened while he was serving with the Royal Navy in China during the latter stages of the Second World War.

"I saw the positive need of Christian teachings and the good it can do when the people accept it."

Discharged from the navy in 1945, he began theological studies and was ordained in Winnipeg five years later. He came here immediately afterwards.

His future plans are "just to keep on with the job; the gratitude of the people is well worth everything I put into it."

Canada's Finest Quality House Paint
NO SECOND COAT NEEDED
WITH SOLO-COAT WHITE

2 COAT PAINTING WITH 1 BRUSH STROKE!
This new super quality house paint easily and completely covers most old painted surfaces in ONE-COAT instead of the Conventional two. That's because SOLO-COAT WHITE has double the hiding pigment — the second coat is actually "built in" to SOLO-COAT'S One Coat beauty.

PLUS THESE EXTRA ADVANTAGES
1. TREATED WITH SPECIAL TONER — SOLO-COAT White is toned to give a warm radiance, mellow reflection and depth.
2. ALKYD FORTIFIED — Solo-Coat White contains Alkyd Resin, the ingredient that gives outstanding, wear-and-water resistance.
3. LONGER LIFE — SOLO-COAT White gives extraordinary durability. Yes, one coat of SOLO-COAT White is the equal of other prescribed exterior painting methods that call for 1 coat of undercoater and one or more coats of the finish.
4. SELF CLEANSING — SOLO-COAT White actually welcomes dirty weather because each rain fall leaves it cleaner and fresher looking.

For Parachute Rescue Personnel

New Badge Emblematic of High Qualifications

Ottawa — A new badge to be worn by all qualified RCAF para-rescue personnel has been approved, it was announced recently by Air Force Headquarters.

The new badge, featuring an open parachute between upswept wings, will be worn by the nursing sisters, medical officers, airmen and NCO's who have completed the rigid para-rescue course held at Edmonton and Jasper, Alberta. Although wings have not previosuly been awarded, a small badge featuring an open parachute was worn on the working-dress sleeve of para-rescue personnel.

It will mark the first time female officers of any Canadian service have worn a Canadian badge emblematic of aerial operations.

To date five doctors, seven nursing sisters and 44 airmen have passed the gruelling 18-week course. All are volunteers, chosen on a basis of general fitness and mental alertness. On completion of the course they are ready to cope with climbing mountains, or parachuting into heavily timbered country to aid aircraft crash victims.

Most spectacular part of the training is the actual jumping. Each graduate makes ten jumps before qualifying for the coveted para-rescue badge. The syllabus also includes 150 hours of first-aid instruction, many hours of lectures and demonstrations, and learning to live in the open with a minimum of equipment.

The RCAF has trained teams of para-rescue specialists working at nine locations across Canada where search and rescue organizations are maintained.

13 Sure Ways to Ruin A Good Town

1. Don't pay taxes. Let the other fellow pay his. Vote against taxes. Then fuss because the streets are not kept up.

2. Never attend any of the meetings called for the good of the town. If you do, don't have anything to say. Wait until you get outside and then cuss those who made the suggestions. Find fault with everything that was done.

3. Get all the town will give you, and don't give anything in return. Write unsigned letters to the editor demanding more for your tax money.

4. Talk co-operation but don't do anything for your town unless you get paid for it. And by all means refuse to serve unless you are chairman.

5. Never accept an office. It's easier to criticize than to do things. Accuse anybody who serves in an elected office of being a publicity seeker.

6. Don't do any more than you have to. When others willingly and unselfishly give their time to make a better town, howl because that town is run by a clique.

7. Don't back your fire department or your police department. If the firemen work to bring the insurance rates down, tell everybody that is what they are supposed to do. Don't thank them or the policeman for endangering their lives that you might have a safer town in which to live. Demand special treatment; raise cain if anybody expects you to obey traffic and parking laws.

8. Look at every proposition in a selfish way. If you are not the one that gets the most good out of it, vote against it. Never consider what it will do for the town as a whole.

9. Don't do anything for the youth of the town. Criticize them as potential delinquents. Keep your feet on them. Encourage them to move away when they grow up.

10. If you have good town leaders, don't follow them. Take a jealous attitude and talk down everything they do.

11. Don't work on any committee. Tell them, "I'm too busy."

12. Don't say anything good about your town. Be the first to point up its shortcomings. Pretend that if trouble comes your way it will be residents of some other town who will visit you while you are ill, bring in the fire department if your home is burning; comfort you if you lose a dear one; stand back of you in disaster.

13. And don't support your local retail stores and industries. Claim the prices and services in stores in other towns are better. Claim industry hurts the town. But if you need a donation, ask your local stores and industries for it. Expect them to back you, but don't back them.

If these 13 steps don't ruin your town, it isn't your fault!
