Tree Farm Certificates Presented at Harrington; Argenteuil Leader Among Canadian Municipalities

Annual Visit of Sponsors, Rotary Club, Becomes Community Affair With Notable Speakers and Township Officials

The Rotary Club meeting last Thursday took the form of a visit to the Harrington Tree Farm, where the Club members were guests of Canadian International Paper Company. One of the projects of the Club is the sponsoring of certified tree farms throughout this County according to the provisions of the Woodland Division of the Company, and it has become customary for the members to visit the Farm once a year.

The tree farmers of Argenteuil will soon have an association to facilitate exchanges of information and marketing data, if a proposal presented during this meeting is realized.

The proposal, outlined by Fred Witham, Pointe-au-Chene tree farmer, received general approval and steps were taken to hold an organization meeting in the near future.

Some 100 people, including 35 tree farmers certified by the Canadian Forestry Association, members of the Brownsburg Rotary, mayors and secretaries of neighboring municipalities, the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Quebec Minister of Mines and M.L.A. for Argenteuil, and representatives from the Canadian Forestry Association and Canadian International Paper Company, were present at the meeting during which 10 new tree farm certificates were awarded to county farmers.

Mansell Wilson, who acted as chairman of the meeting, called upon the president of the Rotary Club, Syd Stilwell. Syd expressed the thanks of the Club for the invitation to attend such an important meeting. He said that the Club was pleased to act as the sponsor for the Tree Farm Project in the County, but had to confess that it was "Manny" Wilson who did most of the work.

The Tree Farm certificates were presented by Syd Patterson, chairman of the Rotary committee on this project sponsoring the tree farm movement in Argenteuil County. Those who had just qualified as the owners of certified woodlots were: Thomas Hall and J. MacVicar, of Brownsburg; Keith McCaig, of Chatham; Albert Leishman, of St. Jerusalem; Angus Morris and Geo. McGibbon, of Dalesville; C. L. Bennett, of Harrington; Mrs. W. H. Owen, of St. Andrews East; Allan Evans, of Arundel; and one for a property owned jointly by Messrs. Graham, Hankin, Roy, Pitcairn and Ferguson, of Arundel and Lost River.

Robson Black, of Montreal, President Emeritus of the Canadian Forestry Association and President of the Canadian Scandinavian Association was the guest speaker at a dinner following the meeting, which was presided by Manny Wilson, resident woods manager of C.I.P. at Grenville and Harrington.

In the United States, Mr. Black said, there are 6,100 certified tree farms, comprising 37 million acres. In Canada, where the tree farm movement is younger, we now have 180 farms, certified by the C.F.A., with a total acreage of 350,000.

He said the movement was gathering momentum, particularly in the province of Quebec, where there are over 100 certified tree farms. Of these 46 are in Argentuil county, which, he said, bids well to become the model forestry county in Canada.

There was agreement among tree farmers and representatives of the municipalities that no tree farmer should be penalized by higher taxes because his woodlot was kept in good state by sound forestry practices.

Other speakers at the dinner were F. A. Harrison, Woodlands Manager of Canadian International Paper, J. Lloyd Van Camp, General Manager of the Canadian Forestry Association, and the Hon. W. M. Cottingham.

Scenes at Harrington Tree Farm

Argenteuil County tree farmers, municipal officials and members of the Brownsburg Rotary Club, sponsors of the tree farm movement in the county, were guests of Canadian International Paper at Harrington Forest Farm last week. Ten new tree farm certificates were distributed, including one to T. L. Bennett, of Bell Falls, shown displaying his official sign above. Man Drowned At Weir, Que.

Thomas Richard James, 21, of Montreal, was drowned in Round Lake, Weir, on Saturday, July 23—according to officers of the local Provincial Police. The body was recovered the following day.

James is reported to have been holding onto the chain on the front of a motorboat driven by Romuald Dinel, 20, also of Montreal. According to witnesses, he was ducking himself and apparently lost his hold on the chain, sinking into water above his depth. Traffic Officers Albert Legault and Gerard Loyer investigated.

Hitchhiker Suffers Broken Leg

J. E. Fisher, 47, of Montreal, suffered a broken right leg last Friday when he jumped from the front of a truck owned and driven by William Paquette, R.R. 7, Lachute. Fisher was reported to have been hitch-hiking and jumped off the truck before it stopped. The accident occurred in front of Davis Service Station off Route 41. Traffic Officers Legault and Loyer investigated.

Birthday Party For Rev. C. Baugh; Message from P.M.

Lakefield — On July 26 a large group of friends met at the Gibb Hall in Lakefield to celebrate the birthday of the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, and also to mark the 20th anniversary of his ministry in that parish.

A program of movies, piano selections and songs was followed by brief speeches from Messrs. Philippe Valois, M.P., C. J. Baugh, and the Rev. H. G. Baugh.

A presentation was made to the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh by Mr. Amos Kerr on behalf of the people of Lakefield and vicinity; and by Mayor Clarence Neil on behalf of the parishioners of Louisa. Miss Donna Boyd presented Mrs. Baugh with a bouquet of 20 red roses, and Mrs. Austin Kyle presented a coffee table on behalf of Mrs. Baugh's many friends.

A highlight of the evening was the reading of a message from Prime Minister St. Laurent, congratulating Rev. Baugh on reaching his 83rd birthday, and wishing him many more such anniversaries. Greetings were also received from Bishop Dixon of Montreal, Bishop Frenette of St. Jerome, Venerable Archdeacon J. F. Morris, the Boys' Farm and Training School, and others.

Members of the family present were the Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Baugh, Morin Heights; Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Baugh, Sorel; Mr. and Mrs. John Baugh, Pointe Claire; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Dawson, Lachute.

Refreshments were served by the Lakefield ladies.

Change of Proprietorship, Main Street Business

Hammond's Radio Shop, for 10 years owned and operated by Gerald and Ted Hammond, was on Monday purchased by Rodney Walker and Bill Dawson, who will continue operations in the same location under the name of Walker and Dawson Electrical Centre Reg'd.

In announcing the change of ownership, "Jeb" Hammond mentioned that he had not severed his connection with the concern, and would continue to do specialized work for the firm, although not on his own.

The Cat Came Back — Feline Homing Instinct

The homing instincts of the domestic cat have frequently caused wonderment down the ages, but an incident of this kind in one's immediate acquaintance gives the characteristic an uncanny realism.

It happened to neighbors vacationing at Lake Louisa. The quite-ordinary cat, in the habit of wandering in its new surroundings, could not be found when the family packed up to return home. They left food at the doorstep and departed, hoping for the best when they passed that way again.

A week or so later the cat, thin and bedraggled, turned up at its home in Mountain View, Lachute, — having followed a trail which it had travelled only once (and that by automobile) — the distance being 16 miles by road.

Elmer Giles Prot. Education Director On Retirement of Dr. W. P. Percival

Dr. W. P. Percival, long-time director of Protestant Education in Quebec will leave his post September 1, Premier Maurice Duplessis announced last Friday at Quebec. He will be succeeded by Elmer S. Giles, Inspector-general of Protestant Schools of the Province, and a former citizen of this town.

Dr. Percival, author of many papers on education, was a lecturer and professor at the State Teachers' College, Milwaukee, and at the State Teachers' College, Indiana before joining the department. He also served for seven years as principal of the high school at Cowansville.

Mr. Giles, a native of this town and graduate of Lachute Academy became inspector of Protestant high schools in 1931 and was named inspector-general of Protestant schools of the Province in 1936, a position which he has since held.

Mr. Giles retains his long connection with these parts, having a summer residence at Lake Louisa, and is a frequent visitor among relatives and friends, and on school business hereabouts.

Recent Fire Calls, Town and Area

Fire gutted the residence of Pierre Malette, Ayersville trucker and scrap-dealer, last Wednesday evening when the two-storey frame house caught fire around 11 o'clock.

Lachute volunteer firemen answered their first general alarm in several months when summoned to the blaze, which caused an estimated $5,000 damage. The loss was covered by insurance.

According to Fire Chief George Y. Deacon, the walls, filled with dry shavings, continued smouldering after the fire was believed extinguished, and a short time later after returning to the fire-station, several of the men were once again called to the building which had broken out into flames. Both fire-trucks were at the scene of the blaze.

The previous afternoon, an insulation truck took fire on Main Street South. This outbreak was quickly extinguished and little damage resulted.

Elected Chairman of Morin Hts. School Board

Morin Heights — The Rev. Horace Baugh, rector of Morin Heights, was elected on Monday as chairman of the Morin Heights Intermediate School, replacing Colonel Garnet M. Strong, who had served two years in that office.

Notable Example of Highway Courtesy

Courtesy on the road may be demonstrated in various ways, but an interesting example was brought to our attention by a local citizen who reports that the following incident occurred on the Lachute-St. Andrews Road.

It seems our informant was headed towards St. Andrews East when he saw a broken bottle on the highway. As he was meeting another car, he slowed down rather than run over the broken glass, and when the highway was clear he bypassed the danger spot.

The oncoming driver, however, had also noticed the glass fragments, and pulling over to the side of the road, stopped and took a broom from the trunk of his car, with which he swept the glass off the pavement.

Identity of this benefactor was not known, but if more motorists would follow his example, there would be fewer hazards on the highway.

Break-in and Robbery at Morin; Camps Entered

Thieves entered the office of the Morin Heights municipal secretary-treasurer, J. W. Green, a week ago Monday, and according to Det. Ralph Allen, investigating officer, made good their escape with approximately $30 cash taken from a drawer.

From the official's office, they entered the Banque Canadienne Nationale, but reports indicate that nothing was stolen from the bank premises.

Det. Allen states that several camps in the Lake Louisa area have been entered, but only food has been reported stolen. These camps and a couple in the Dalesville district were all entered by the intruders breaking a window.

Collision at Marelan

Costly damage resulted from an accident on Route 8 opposite the Canadian Refractories plant at Marelan, shortly before noon last Wednesday, when a car driven by Rossire Paradis, of Deep River, Ont., collided with an auto driven by Paul Gendreau, of Montreal.

According to police, the cars sideswiped one another, the Paradis car swerving out of control and spinning on the pavement. It came to a stop against a Boyd's Lachute Express open semi-trailer, which was only slightly damaged. The Paradis car, a 1953 Buick sedan, was demolished, while an estimated $500 damage was reported on the car driven by Gendreau. Traffic Officer Albert Legault investigated.

Town By-passed By Freak Storm And Needed Rain

Lachute Town was humid Monday afternoon, but such was not the case in the adjacent Lachute Road area south to the River Rouge settlement. This district south of Lachute was subject to one of the most sudden and violent storms that have struck these parts this summer.

There were numerous cases of roofs being blown off wood and machinery sheds, and in several spots the roads were blocked by fallen trees. Power and telephone lines were down and the electric service was not restored until around midnight in some sections.

The rain was heavy in parts, and was much appreciated by farmers whose crops have suffered from the drought.

Duped at Montebello With Fake Gold Bricks

(CP) — Gerry Furness appeared in court at Hull, Que., recently charged with hoodwinking Montebello citizens out of $7,000 by selling them fake gold bricks. Furness is from Val d'Or, Que.

The accused was charged with selling one brick for $2,500 to Lionel Pregent, of Montebello. He allegedly picked up the balance of the $7,000 from other residents of the area.

He was remanded for preliminary hearing.

Housewives Satisfied With Marketing Service

The housewife in Quebec has little complaint to make about her marketing service. This seems to be the concensus, at least if one can judge from the results of a survey just completed by the Quebec Women's Institutes. With chain stores and super-markets there are few parts of the province that have difficulty in procuring the essentials for comfortable living.

A study of marketing of agricultural products has been conducted at the request of the Associated Country Women of the World, with whom the QWI is affiliated. The ACWW in turn, is carrying it on at the request of the Food and Agriculture Organization.

At the 1953 Conference, FAO recommended that all member nations make a study of this problem. To get the practical aspects, the ACWW, who has consultative status with FAO, was asked to help by going to the housewives themselves for the answers.

A questionnaire was drawn up and sent to each constituent society, numbering about 120 in 27 countries, and the result for Quebec has just been announced. This applies only to those districts outside the larger cities and does not reach to the far northern section of the province where there are no Institutes.

Other questions elicited the information that with new type packaging and refrigeration the housewife in general is satisfied with the quality and freshness of the goods supplied, that there was usually a choice of markets, and that early spring was the only time when fresh fruit and vegetables might be in short supply — and expensive.

Some pertinent additional comments were made. Many felt that the consumer should know cost of production and distribution and understand how to buy by weight and grades. Courses in Nutrition and Buying should be taught in every school, was another point made.

This summary is representative of Quebec's English-speaking farm women only. Les Cercles des Fermières are also affiliated with the ACWW and will be conducting their own study.

Recognition for Bravery To St. Jerome Employee Of Bell Telephone

A Citation Certificate has been awarded to Raoul Archambault, St. Jerome employee of the Bell Telephone Company, for his heroic attempt to save a drowning man in the North River at St. Jerome last May 19. Mr. Archambault, who is a Building Serviceman, was told that police were trying to rescue a man from the river about 500 feet from the Company building. He rushed to the scene to find the police endeavoring to throw a rope to the victim, who was floating unconscious in the middle of the river.

Mr. Archambault threw off his heavy clothing and plunged into the close-to-freezing water and brought the victim, A. Cyr, to shore. Artificial respiration was applied in relays by a group of five persons but the victim failed to respond.

The Citation Certificate and an award have been approved by the Company's Benefit Committee in recognition of Mr. Archambault's distinguished service at the risk of his own life. Presentation will be made at the Company's First Aid banquet next spring.

Speeder Gets Fine, Costs And License Suspension

Robert Sauvé, 30, of Hull, was sentenced to a fine of $100 plus costs and his driving permit was suspended for a six-month period, when he was found guilty of a charge of speeding before Judge Nampel in St. Jerome court last Friday.

The fine resulted from charges laid by Traffic Officer Howard Jones on May 12 — according to the officer — when he and Det. Maurice Lamoureux had to drive at 95 m.p.h. before overtaking Sauvé.

The incident occurred on Route 8 west of Lachute, in a 50 m.p.h. zone. Traffic Officer Jones testified during the case, at which the accused was represented by a lawyer.

What Is "Demand"?

Demand is the word used to describe the amount of electricity used by each customer when his requirements are at a peak. For instance, if you had ten 100 watt bulbs all on at once, your "demand" would be 1000 watts or 1 kilowatt — meaning that the greatest amount of power you needed at one time was 1 kilowatt.

If, however, you also use a 3,000-watt water-heater at the same time, your "demand" would be 4 kilowatts — 1 kw. for the bulbs and 3 kw. for the water-heater.

The "demand" for electricity is the factor which governs the size of the generating, substation, transmission and transforming equipment required to provide the service.

Power companies everywhere are installing "demand" meters so that they can have a more accurate measure of the amount of power actually required by each customer.

With so many appliances used in the home, the "demand" of each customer is many times what it was when lighting was the only use made of electricity.

Future of Wheat Sales None Too Bright

Ottawa (CP) — Canada may produce a bumper wheat crop this year but the future for sales is none too bright because many overseas countries are also anticipating rich harvests.

Grain men in Ottawa and Washington estimate that India may have a record crop. Japan's crop may be above average though slightly less than the big, 51,000,000 bushel harvest last year. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics in its monthly wheat review said Italy has reported an expected near-record harvest. Growth is reported rapid in Germany and comment on the harvest in Turkey is optimistic.

Despite a reduced acreage, Trade Minister Howe has forecast a near-record Canadian grain crop. Some federal officials belive the wheat crop will yield more than 500,000,000 bushels which would be higher than average.

An 11-year low of 298,000,000 bushels was raised last year. The yield in 1953 was 614,000,000. In federal quarters it is anticipated acreage may only be about 22,500,000 compared to the 24,260,000 seeded last year. Earlier this year farmers reported they intended to plant 23,600,000 acres.

A crop of more than 500,000,000 bushels added to a possible carry-over of about 475,000,000 would place stocks at 975,000,000, slightly below the record 983,000,000 in 1953. Last year, stocks and carry-over totalled 881,700,000. It appears that exports for the current year will about equal last year's 255,000,000 which was well below the high of 385,000,000 in 1952-53.

Honey Bees and Effect On Clover Seed Yield

Seed yield of red clover definitely increases up to a certain point as the numbers of honey bees working the field for pollen and nectar increases. A report from the Bee Division of the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa substantiates this relationship between seed yield and honey bee populations. It is emphasized, however, that recommendations cannot as yet be made as to how many bees are needed to produce the largest possible seed set.

Observations have been made on honey bee activity in red clover over the past few years, and although some satisfactory results have developed, complications due to external factors which are impossible to control have also developed. For example, in one particular instance, four fields of red clover were laid out and varying numbers of honey bee colonies were introduced to them. One colony was placed in one field, two in another, three in another and five colonies in the fourth field. In the first field the harvested seed yield was 115 pounds per acre, and in the second field the red clover produced a yield of 226 pounds per acre. In the field where three colonies had been added the yield dropped off to 195 pounds per acre and in the five-colony field the yield was 186 pounds per acre. A check field where no honey bees had been introduced produced a yield of 60 pounds per acre.

At first glance these figures appeared to indicate no advantage in adding more than two colonies of honey bees to this specific acreage of red clover. However, closer investigation proved otherwise. It is believed that seed yield would have continued to increase with the increase in honey bees had it been for competitive crops such as buckwheat in the area. Possibly other factors should also be considered as responsible for the drop in seed yield at the three colony level.

Another factor contributing to higher seed yield is the control of injurious insects by the use of insecticides. Control of these insects by the application of toxaphene appears to encourage honey bees to forage for nectar and pollen, resulting in greater seed set.

Garden-Graph

Grandmother grew rhubarb because she firmly believed it made a good spring health tonic. She was partly right at least, for we now know rhubarb is a good source of vitamin C.

In line with other modern things, rhubarb now flaunts a glamorous red color, through and through. This variety is known as MacDonald's new Canadian red. It is grown only from divisions. Its long stalks, shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, can be picked all summer—not just in the spring. When one stalk is cut, another one fills in to take its place.

If you feel the urge to grow rhubarb, the roots can be set out now. When you plant the root divisions, do so with the crown about four inches deep, as shown in the Garden-Graph. Set the roots about three feet apart.

Rhubarb is a heavy feeder and appreciates generous applications of manure or other fertilizers, as well as ample amounts of water. Many gardeners mix manure with the soil before setting out the roots.

When planting root divisions be sure that each division has one or two eyes, as illustrated. Allow the plants to grow undisturbed the first year. Four clumps should prove enough for the average family.

If you have been growing rhubarb for some years, remember that the plants are improved by being divided after they are from six to eight years old. Dig up the old plants, then cut each one into several good-sized pieces with a sharp spade. Each division should have eyes and roots attached.

Rotary Club Hears Facts and Figures On Lachute Fair

Rotarian Syd Patterson was speaker at the Rotary Club meeting on July 21. His subject was the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, or the Lachute Spring Fair as it is more generally known to the public. He mentioned that this was one of the oldest fairs in the country, having first started in 1828. The original objective was to improve agriculture in Argenteuil County and this has been maintained to the present day, although the scope has been widened to the extent that exhibitors now come from distant parts of Quebec and Ontario. There are a number of very prominent breeders in this area, and there is no doubt but that the annual fair has been a contributing factor in this connection. Outside exhibitors often admit that the Fair plays a major part in the advancement of agriculture in the country.

While the Fair is actually a "show window" for the best stock in the country, many people do not know that it assists this industry in other ways, particularly with regard to the breeding of better stock.

One of the chief criticisms of the Fair is the small prize money, although over $11,000 was paid out for this item in 1954. However, this is a very real problem, as there is just so much money and there are many expenses.

Chief sources of revenue are the gate receipts, the provincial government grant of $5,000, the rental of space, particularly the midway, and so forth. While every effort is made to make the Fair as attractive as possible, it is imperative to balance the budget. Despite the most careful planning, this is not always achieved. For example, in 1954 the total revenue was about $29,500 and total expenses slightly over $31,000. However, in 1953 these figures were practically reversed. As this is an open-air show, gate receipts can suffer severely from adverse weather.

The speaker maintained that the Fair performed a very real service to the community, and, as the main objective of Rotary was "service," he solicited the full co-operation of all members of the Club. It is doubtful if any other organization does more to advertise Lachute, with the possible exception of the Golf Club during the last few years.

A good job has been done in the past and must be maintained if the Fair is to continue as a success. Ideas for improvement are more than welcome. The estimated value of the property is in excess of $120,000 and it is possible some ways and means could be devised to put it to more use than just the one week in each year.

Rotarian Patterson was introduced and thanked by fellow-members Mac Walker and Dick MacLean.

President Syd Stilwell read excerpts from the Governor's monthly letter indicating an average attendance of 91.3% for the Club year ending June 30. This earned the local Club third place among the 45 clubs in District 250.

Time for a QUICK PICK-UP

You don't argue with a locomotive. So a manufacturer of rail equipment has developed a lightweight rail inspection car that carries four people yet can be taken off the track by one man.

Since men who design rail cars, aircraft and other transportation equipment regularly use aluminum to cut down dead weight and increase pay load, it is no surprise that aluminum was used to replace heavier materials in many parts of this inspection car. The person who will be surprised is the locomotive engineer who first sees a rail inspector nonchalantly—and single-handedly—hoisting his scooter from the track.

for this wide-open beauty

The 4-Door Riviera!

THERE seems to be some confusion about what a hardtop really is, and we'd like to set the matter straight.

A hardtop is a car that looks like a Convertible with the top up—but has a solid steel roof overhead—and no centre posts in the side window areas.

Up until just recently, it could be built in volume only with two doors—not more—because it would take wholly new structural principles to hinge another set of doors without floor-to-roof centre posts.

But Buick came up with those new structural principles and is now building—in volume—hardtops with four doors.

You see one pictured here. It's the 4-Door Riviera. And it's taking the country by storm . . .

Because here, at long last, is an automobile with the sleek and sporty styling of a true hardtop—but with separate doors for rear-seat passengers, plus the added room of a full-size Buick Sedan.

On top of that, this Buick is all Buick—with the buoyant ride of Buick's all-coil springing—the walloping might of Buick's record-high V8 power—the whip-quick getaway and sizeable gas savings of Buick's spectacular Variable Pitch Dynaflow* automatic transmission.

And it's available in Buick's two lowest priced Series—the budget-tagged 188 hp SPECIAL, and the high-performance 236 hp CENTURY, illustrated here.

Come visit us for a first-hand meeting with the 4-Door Riviera—and see how quickly and how easily the last word in automobiles can be yours.

*Dynaflow Drive automatic transmission is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Marilyn Bell

WHILE the plaudits of the world echo in the ears of Marilyn Bell — while wealth and fame, maudlin sentiment, and fantastic offers gild her future — the little people of her native Canada swell with pride!

Her latest triumph in swimming the English Channel, the youngest swimmer to have accomplished this gruelling trek, finds her still unspoiled and unaffected. And it is the wholesome simplicity, the cleancut youth and physical prowess of this Toronto schoolgirl — rather than the prizes, the fanfare and the ballyhoo — which commend our warmest admiration in the communities of her homeland.

Footloose Dollars

CANADIANS hear so much about United States tourists bringing a flow of dollars into Canada that they seldom think about the traffic southward across the international boundary.

That's why a recent Canadian Press story from Washington was particularly startling. It quoted the U.S. Chamber of Commerce as saying Canadian tourists spend more money annually in the U.S. than Americans spend in Canada.

The figures for 1954 placed Canadian spending in the U.S. at $311,000,000, while American visitors left $284,000,000. Canada's Bureau of Statistics estimated American spending in Canada as somewhat less, $278,000,000.

Last year was the third successive year during which Canadians outspent Americans in travel between the two countries.

When one considers that the population of the U.S. is roughly 10 times that of Canada, Canadians shape up as free-spenders with pockets full of cash.

Just why the situation should arise is a bit puzzling. It is understandable that Canadians near the border should range into the States for the occasional shopping expedition, that others should go there once in a while for a vacation, and that still others should sometimes take a week-end jaunt to the nearest U.S. city.

But when one thinks of Canada's world famous holiday attractions, it is hard to credit Canadians passing them up in favor of U.S. spots, no matter how alluring.

Yet one Northern Ontario tourist operator claims 95 per cent of his patrons are from the United States, five per cent from Canada.

It's something to consider when putting the finishing touches on holiday plans.

Shine Our Trophies

WHILE MODESTY is becoming at times, there are occasions when there is much can be done through drams, song, symphony — or just plain horn-blowing — to bolster our national pride. Our Southern neighbor has never been slow to take advantage of this philosophy . . . and in this connection the latest resurrection is that of one D. Crockett, a many-faceted gentleman whose amazing career began at the age of three.

(These comments on "Our Southern Exposure" are from that lively bulletin "Industry", issued by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.) The article continues:

Indeed, the more modest Canadian might learn much from his Southern cousin to help relieve the pangs of inferiority he unnecessarily suffers as he listens to the more vociferous American sing the glories of his many kings of the wild frontier.

To be sure, let's look at the record:

While we don't have a counterpart for the man from the mountains in Tennessee, Canada has had her share of buckskin heroes. The legendary Paul Bunyon was a lightweight when contrasted with Nova Scotia's famed Angus McAskill, the strongarm wonder of the British Empire who was sent to Britain to meet Queen Victoria. McAskill didn't die at the Alamo. He expired after an injury sustained during World War I while carrying an anchor on his back in a Halifax dockyard.

Louis Cyr, too, the man from Quebec, dented the ego of the world's boxing pundits by heaving world heavyweight champion John L. Sullivan bodily out of a bar.

(And to give the record a more recent impact, let us tarry on the exploits of, say, Barbara Ann Scott, the Penticton V's, and our heroine of the hour, Marilyn Bell.)

Canada need never fear the tarnish on the quality of her heroes. Tarnish disappears with a little rubbing. We need only shine up our trophies once in a while to see that it's not the number of trophies that counts. It's what each one stands for that's important.

Eyesore

WE RESPECTFULLY suggest that the excavation beneath the old Victoria Hall be speedily filled and levelled, to hide the blemishes of demolition which convey a bad impression to summer tourists.

The fact that this offending corner is town property, is (fortunately) not apparent to strangers. It is painfully obvious to our residents, however. And whether or not the demolition contractor left his job uncompleted, the remedy — involving the matter of a truck and a few hours' labor — should be effected immediately by the town authorities.

Safety Always

WATER, like fire, is a good friend but a bad enemy. Already this year, more than 500 persons have been drowned in Canada.

Because most drownings occur in the holiday season, which is just half over, the death toll for 1955 of the oceans, lakes and rivers may exceed last year's figure of 1,187.

Most of these deaths could be avoided. Safety, Red Cross and police officials attribute most drownings to carelessness among non-swimmers and beginners. Other drownings are secondary results of other accidents, such as automobile mishaps, buckling ice, commercial shipping accidents, motorboat sinkings and explosions, and sudden storms.

Ontario this year leads the toll of water deaths and Quebec is second. Every province has had its casualties.

The Red Cross says most drownings occur in the 19-to-35 age group, not among children. These are suggestions for reducing the number of water accidents:

1. All small children who can't swim should wear life-jackets.

2. All non-swimmers in small boats — especially those aged 19 to 35 — should wear life-jackets.

3. Swimming should be confined to supervised areas whenever possible. In any case, no one should swim alone.

4. There should be no drinking of alcoholic beverages in boats.

As more Canadians turn to the water for relaxation, the number of boating accidents increases. Many small, fast boats are being handled by novices who know none of the safety rules of boating — not even the "rules of the road" that govern the handling of boats in congested waters.

This summer the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, charged with enforcement of regulations under the Canada Shipping Act, have under way an intensive campaign to make sure every boat is properly equipped and operated.

Police action will help reduce the number of drownings, but will not eliminate death on the water. Swimmers and boatmen must make "Safety Always" their slogan.

The Textile Outlook

SKIES ARE a shade brighter for the Canadian textile industry. There is still plenty of trouble, but the situation is better than it was, better perhaps than at any time in the last four trying years, reports The Financial Post.

Employment has stopped dropping, even inched up slightly in recent months. Prices are a little firmer. Volume has risen, consumption of raw cotton has moved up, new lines have been introduced.

Profits, however, are still few and far between, and foreign competition is as tough as ever.

From earliest times the textile industry has been an important one for Canada. It is widely spread throughout the country and the primary industry alone provides direct employment for over 75,000 Canadians.

IT IS NOT enough these days for people to take the attitude that they pay their taxes and that is all that should be asked of them. Claim-Staking Banned In Northern Quebec

By Shirley Morris

Quebec (CP)—Some 300,000 square miles of mineral-rich territory in Northern Quebec was banned to claim-staking last week.

Premier Duplessis said the action was taken by order-in-council "to facilitate an appraisal of the area and to safeguard the rights of the province."

The banned area includes all of New Quebec stretching from James Bay to Labrador. A previous order-in-Council banned staking in parts of the northern region.

New Quebec is rich in iron, copper, gold, zinc, lead, nickel and silver.

The Premier said the ban "is not and never has been a question of state development of mineral resources. We are convinced that all mineral developments should be done by private enterprise."

• • •

Alleged Irregularities

Mr. Duplessis also told his press conference that the Liberals had an organized system for telegraphing votes in the recent by-election in Montreal-Laurier.

Several Liberals had tattoo marks on their hands indicating a plan for allowing persons to use the names of qualified voters to cast ballots, he said.

Arsene Gagne, Union Nationale candidate, was elected but the Liberals have served notice they will contest the election on the grounds that a partial recount disclosed irregularities.

In 1953 Canadian railways had in operation 4,818 locomotives, 6,456 passenger cars and 187,990 freight cars.

Oppose Compulsory Auto Insurance

Halifax (CP) — The All-Canadian Insurance Federation opposed the introduction of compulsory car insurance on the grounds that it does not promote safer driving but makes people "claims conscious."

The Federation, representing automobile insurance companies, set forth its stand in a brief to the Nova Scotia Royal Commission on automobile insurance which opened hearings here under Mr. Justice Eugene Parker of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court.

The brief regarded compulsory insurance as unnecessary because less than one per cent of the vehicles involved in accidents in Nova Scotia are uninsured under the existing Safety Responsibility Law.

It said insurance companies are opposed to a law compelling them to sell insurance to anyone seeking it because they would have to accept the business of proven bad drivers. This, in turn, would force them to boost their rates.

Although agriculture remains Canada's most important primary industry, only 15 per cent of the total labor force now is directly employed on the farms.

OF MANY THINGS

By Ambrose Hills

How To Be Elected

The older I get the more I am amazed at the gullibility of us voters and the smooth methods of professional politicians in deluding us. I have just read a classic example of such smoothness.

Senator Neurberger from Oregon, realizing what a wonderful vote-catcher the Canadian Family Allowance plan was, is now championing it in the U.S.A. But just listen to the Senator! . .

"In the United States the government subsidizes airlines, steamship companies, agricultural crops, and many big corporations through accelerated tax write-offs. What valid grounds exists for criticizing a subsidy to the most precious thing of all, children?"

So stupid are such arguments, they are hard to refute with reason. They are something like saying, "We can spend billions for war — so why can't we spend millions on our roads, libraries, public buildings, etc?" Or, "We spend fortunes heating our homes in winter, so surely we should all have cottages by the lake in summer, and lots of ice cream, and an automobile or two!"

The Senator was careful to avoid saying that he favored subsidizing big corporations — yet he used it as an argument for family allowances. He knows we all love our children — so he uses that basic human instinct to garner in some votes.

Well, Senator, some of us who love our children just as much as you love yours are not at all convinced that we want to pay the government billions so that it can hire a lot of cheque writers to pay us back a fraction of it as a family allowance. We would much prefer to hand our own money to our own children without the government hirelings getting a finger on a single cent of it.

As for me, I don't want any politician kissing my children and mumbling "precious", as they do. I just don't think they mean it! That goes for the Senator from Oregon, too!

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

I have a summer cold. This isn't a bid for sympathy, or free medical advice. I get all the sympathy I want from myself.

"Oh, my poor head," I keep saying. "Ah, my poor throat. Tough luck on my nose. It hurts from blowing."

I let various parts know that I feel sorry for them, to maintain their morale. I suspect that they are ready to quit and look for work somewhere else, and I want to keep them on the team.

Prescriptions for my case have been offered by almost everyone I know, except a doctor. People from all walks of life have been kind enough to share the secrets of their never-fail remedies.

A printer advised a bottle of rum. A carpenter prescribed a bottle of rye. A mechanic suggested a bottle of brandy. A liquor store clerk recommended aspirin. I turned down all these medicines, except the last, as pleasant but too expensive.

For two weeks a gay assembly of germs has been holding fiesta in my nose, throat and bronchial tubes, and using one of my tonsils for a maypole.

I'm tired of going around looking like a fat man, from kleenex stuffed in my pockets. I'm tired of sounding like Donald Duck.

It is small consolation to know that a few other people have summer sniffles too. However, the knowledge strengthens my plea to the scientists, which is this: stop toying with such trifles as nuclear energy and moon rockets, and get busy on the common cold.

Consider all the man-hours that are wasted by people who stay home from work. Consider all the man-hours that are wasted reading columns like this. Something must be done.

Research has been slow and spiritless. Those of us who are martyrs to colds should herd all the medical researchers into a big drafty laboratory, sneeze on them and lock them inside until they come out with a medicine that tastes as good as whisky but also cures a cold.

WHO CAN ENTER? Boys, girls, husbands (the Boss), wives (Top Boss), or anyone interested in dairy cattle.

In case of duplicate answers the earliest postmark will get the preference. Also, if the prize does not suit, we endeavor to exchange for one of equal value that is more suitable to you.

THE PRIZES		If a sales-slip of ours in enclosed:
1st, 2nd, 3rd	$10.00	$20.00
4th and 5th	60 lb. milk scale	A Milk Scale and Purina Apron or Jacknife
6th to 15th	A Purina Jack-knife	A Jacknife and Weighing Tape
16th to 40th	A Purina Apron	An Apron and a Checkerboard Pencil
41st up	A Purina Pencil	Two Checkerboard Pencils

THE PROBLEM

A salesman sold a dairyman on the 30-day Bulky Las feeding test. The dairyman had 25 cows milking, and that day they gave 710 lbs. milk. The salesman also taped the cows for body weight — the cows averaged, being in their fifth month of lactation.

After 30 days on Bulky Las the cows and milk were weighed again. This time the milk weighed 718 lbs. and the cows gained an average of 38.3 lbs. in body weight.

The dairyman received $4 per hundred for his milk, and could get 10c a pound live weight for his cows at a local packing plant.

Not exactly pleased, the dairyman said, "How am I going to pay for that $100 worth of Bulky Las with only 8 lbs. of milk?"

DID THIS DAIRYMAN ACTUALLY LOSE OR GAIN, AND HOW MUCH?

Your answer must not just say he lost or made. We want to know how much he lost or gained, and how you arrived at your solution.

• • •

Come on and try, as often as you like (only one prize per entrant). The prizes will be given even if answers are not all correct. Boys and girls, get your dad or mom to help you get some pin money or at least get you pencils for school. And remember, the early bird gets the worm. So get your answer on the way PROMPTLY.

The answer will be given in the August 25 issue of the Watchman. Look for it.

OBITUARY

Late Lachute Lady Was Member of Old Family

Late Mrs. Wm. Wilson

In the early hours of July 24 Mrs. Wm. Wilson passed away after a long illness, patiently borne, at the advanced age of 91 years.

Mrs. Wilson was one of a family of nine, of the late Simon MacKimmie and Janet Pollock.

In her early years she taught school in several local communities and spent a number of years with her sister, Mrs. Jas. Elliott of Prescott, where she made many friends.

Mrs. Wilson was a faithful member of Lachute United Church and a stalwart supporter of the Women's Missionary Society.

Her husband predeceased her 33 years ago. She leaves to mourn her passing five children — two daughters, Mrs. Leonard Boa (Margaret) and Mrs. Wm. D. Hume (Janet), and three sons, James, Simon and William, all of Lachute; a brother, Thomas MacKimmie, of South Haven, Mich., and a sister, Mrs. James Elliott, of Lachute, also 14 grandchildren and 32 great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held on Tuesday, July 26, from her late residence to Lachute United Church and thence to the family plot in Lachute Cemetery. The Rev. Wilson Bridge conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough.

The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful, and bore silent tribute to the esteem she enjoyed among a large circle of friends and relatives.

Friends attending from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. John Eeten, of Wheaton, Ill., Mr. Milton Elliott, of Prescott, and several from Huntingdon, Que.

The pall-bearers were her six grandsons, Harold and Allan Wilson, Keith and Wm. Boa, Harold and Donald Hume.

Lady Resident Mourned In Riverfront Community

Late Mrs. Ray Dawson

The sudden passing of Mrs. Ray Dawson, after a brief illness at the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury, came as a great shock to her many relatives and friends.

The late Mrs. Dawson, formerly Euphemia Gray, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Gray of Grenville, died in her 70th year on Tuesday, July 26. Left to mourn are her husband and three sons, Vernon, of Blind River, Edgar at home, and Garth, of Montreal, also four grandchildren.

The funeral service, conducted by the Rev P. R. Stote, was held Friday from her late residence to St. Matthew's Anglican Church, Grenville, where she had been a faithful attendant all her life. Burial took place in the adjoining cemetery. A profusion of flowers and a large attendance gave indication of the esteem in which the deceased was held. Pallbearers were — Messrs. Harris Dewar, Ronald and Melvin Matthew, Alan R. Vowles, John Owens and Keith Canning.

Among those attending from a distance were — Mr. and Mrs. B. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. P. Barron, Mr. and Mrs. A. Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. Garth Dawson and Mr. and Mrs. W. Davison, of Montreal; Mrs. Edith Routecliff, of Aylmer; Mr. Vernon Dawson, of Blind River; Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Dawson and Mr. Wm. Dawson, of Lacolle; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bowerman, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Dawson and Mr. Summers Dawson, of Carrying Place; Mrs. W. Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. W. Dawson and son, Ernest, Mr. M. Dawson and Mr. Sterling Dawson, of Mille Isles.

Pretty Wedding In Parish Church At Brownsburg

Robinson - St. Jean

The marriage of Agnes Loretta, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand St. Jean of Masson, Que., to Mr. Harold Archibald Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Robinson of Brownsburg, Que., was solemnized at eleven o'clock Saturday morning, July 16, in the St. Louis de France Church, Brownsburg, the Rev. Léo Clément officiating.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Mildred St. Jean, while Mr. Sterling Hodge acted as best man for Mr. Robinson.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown with bouffant skirt formed of layers of Chantilly lace over nylon net, the fitted lace jacket with long sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a headdress fashioned of the same lace as the gown. The bride's only ornament was a pair of pearl earrings, the gift of the groom. She carried a cascade bouquet of dark red Sweetheart roses.

The maid of honor was in a pale blue waltz-length strapless gown, fashioned in layers of nylon net over taffeta, with matching jacket and head bandeau. She carried a cascade bouquet of pale pink Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. St. Jean, the bride's mother, wore a printed navy blue sheer, dress, with navy and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Robinson, the bridgroom's mother, wore a navy blue dress fashioned on princess lines with white accessories and a corsage of white pom-poms.

A reception was held at the Legion Hall where baskets of gladioli were used to decorate. The bride's table, centred with the wedding cake, was arranged with candles and gladioli.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Robinson left by motor for Northern Ontario, the bride travelling in a suit of dusty pink rayon linen, with pink and white accessories and a corsage of pink roses pinned to her purse. On their return they will reside in Brownsburg.

Out-of-town guests were the Misses Beatrice, Clare and Mildred St. Jean, sisters of the bride, Miss Alice Toule, Messrs. Ronny Doran, Frank Riley and Fred Neinstedt, all of Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dallaire, of Eastview, Ont.; Mrs. J. J. EMPTY PEWS

Many ministers are plagued with the problem of absenteeism during the summer, when, to a greater or lesser extent, many members of their congregations prefer to do their worshipping — if that's the word for it — in the great outdoors.

HEATED DISCUSSION

Considering that we all drink pasteurized milk and buy processed and chemically-treated food every day, it seems an unnecessary waste of energy to get so heated up about flouridation.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Montreal B.Y.P.U. Members Visit Bell Falls

On July 23 a chartered bus carried representatives from the B.Y.P.U. of nearly every Montreal church to Bell Falls. The young people, 47 in all, spent a happy day lunching, swimming and hiking, finishing off with a fireside service on one of the beaches. The singing was led by Mr. Peter Foster and the address was given by Pastor Wm. Toller of Rivington and Avoca. The bus then departed for Montreal, leaving six of the visitors behind to take charge of Sunday services. These were a men's quartet, Messrs. Foster, Furguson, Scott and Hammond; Mrs. Hammond, organist; and Al Ingram, who preached.

The Avoca and Rivington Baptist Churches appreciated the services these young people rendered, and will be glad to welcome them back at a future date.

Cool Breeze from Sunnyacres, Philosophy in Mid-Summer

"SUNNYACRES SKETCHES"
By Margaret Cook

Noon of a hot Sunday. The thermometer outside registers a coy 80, nothing to what it can do—although, weather reports to the contrary, it has never this summer gone beyond the 90 mark, and the nights are cool. Anything is bearable, if one can sleep. After the winter we endured, and the summer we are currently perspiring through, we can understand the popular foreign estimate of the Canadian character as — "quiet, dogged, patient, tough". Something snide is generally added about our lack of humor. A little humor might make our climate more bearable to the individual.

Speaking of humor, how is this? Talking at the dinner table lately, inquiry was made of Allan as to the sex of his cat. "Is it male or female?" asked the head of the house. "It's an Angora", shouted its owner wrathfully. A burst of laughter from our usually sedate table started the other diners. We explained to Allan the meaning of sex — well, partially, that is, and he laughed at his ignorance, a feat that older people sometimes find difficult.

Life in the country pursues its familiar round of jelly and jam making. The raspberries were plentiful if one knows where to look — an area recently cut-over being the likeliest. This year the top berries, due to the heat, were small and dry, but underneath hung the luscious red ones. It is a joy to crawl under a high cane, look upward and see the sun shining through the crimson of the fruit. The scent of hot sun on raspberries is summer; strawberries are beautiful, but they are at the end of spring, we are excited about them because they are our first fruit. But raspberries are different, they are full summer, speaking of heat, dust, dew, coolness, scratches, children — all the things that make summer so memorable in Canada. Picking just before dusk this week, we scared up a whole family of partridges. They knew enough to feed on the under fruit, too. They flew off in a series of indignant whirrs when convinced we were staying. We like to pick at that hour, the sky benevolent above us, the earth warm beneath us. Our neighbor tells us that is the sure way to meet a bear, so refuses to pick blueberries on the hills or in the valleys. In the 30 years we have known this country, we have heard many bear stories but have yet to see a bear. They do prowl about, for we have seen their droppings on the way to the well; but we feel that if Mr. Bear saw us first, he would avoid us. The human race is not popular in the animal kingdom.

We have had our first forest fire — started, we are told, by the exhaust from the power saw cutting the trees. The way timber is cut in this country, and the slash left to lie where it falls, it is a wonder we do not have disastrous fires. Just one incautious cigarette could send us all scurrying to the nearest lake; it is a good thing that lakes are dotted here and there all through this district. We have always favored crawling into a well near the house that obligingly goes dry in mid-summer, but have lately learned that that way lies suffocation; something about exhaustion of oxygen by the fire. We recently had a city visitor, a quiet, meticulous soul, who wanted to know if the cutters piled up the slash and fired it in mid-winter, as he had read was ordered in some provinces. It sounds a good idea, but strictly for laughs around here. Perhaps if all owners who sell cutting rights, would refuse to do business until the buyer promised to dispose of the slash in the above manner (or an equally good one), matters would improve. Governmental and permanent forestry education would be best of all, followed, of course, by appropriate laws.

Speaking of governments, we see that Lachute has again been honored, by the appointment of one of its sons as Director of Protestant Education. It is a good appointment, a logical one, for who can know the province and its needs better than the man who has for so many years travelled its length and breadth? Degrees and theory are good and admirable, but there is nothing like a little practical knowledge as well, to get results. The word "results" calls to mind another honor that has come to Lachute and Lakefield; we refer to the excellent standing taken by one of our local students in the recent High School Leaving examinations. Our heartiest congratulations. As an ex-teacher (not so "ex", come to think of it) we know what a pleasure it is to teach such a pupil. . . .

So far we got yesterday, when the heat became too much, so we all abandoned work, no matter how trivial, and took our suppers to the Look-Out above Christieville, stopping on our way for a cooling swim. Never had the water felt so good; every pore and cell came to life as we slipped through the cool element. Fire, earth, water, and the greatest of these is water—at least this year it is, with everyone looking fearfully at the dwindling supply. How thrilling it is in a ramble through the woods to come upon a spring, to see the whirling sand sprites at the bottom of the hollow, to taste the limpid coolness. In spite of the drought, there are such delights in these hills, the blessed water welling up from unknown depths. Doubtless, our friends the foxes and rabbits and other small creatures know these places and frequent them.

As this and adjoining farms are left uncultivated, the land rapidly goes back to forest. Where only a few years ago our neighbor was cutting hay, now we have a growing acre of pines; behind the garage, where cows used to pasture, a sugar-bush is half grown; and, as the trees come back so do the wild animals and the water. Foxes are very numerous this year, and rabbits, of course. When the moon is bright, as now, all the little creatures come out to forage and frolic. Nightly, we are awakened by stealthy footsteps about the house. We used to get up and watch, but now, more aware of country ways, we turn over, murmuring, "Good hunting, Mr. Fox". Sometimes, the silence is rent with the raucous cries of a cat, trying to entice Peter out to play or make love. Peter's responses are entirely unorthodox. Either he shows pained surprise, or else he rushes from window to window cursing nastily. Sometimes, the two exchange cusses through the screen. It would be interesting to know what the wilder animals think of this performance.

We seem to have left the Look-Out some paragraphs back. We commend it to anyone in search of cool, quiet and beauty. The old Laurentians stretch, fold upon fold, as far as the eye can see; the radar station, omen of war, merely looks like a monastery from that distance; Morin Heights, nestling in the valley, like one of those toy villages one buys for the children to assemble. Best of all, is to lie flat and look up and up to the blue arch of the sky. To look long enough is to forget the heat, rumors of war, the wear and tear of family life, the manuscript that came back, the naughtiness of children, the pettiness of adults. Lying there yesterday, we realized the sense of the words, "Be still and know that I am God". . But you must be still, first. It is cooler that way, too.

Bible Briefs

By A.A.M.

The Bible is rich in stories, and the purpose of this series is to encourage readers to look up for themselves the Bible versions of these incidents. If there are children in the family it is suggested that the story, and the Bible verses on which it is based, be read aloud.

What was the name of the tax collector who was sitting at his office when Jesus passed by one day and said to him, "Follow me?" He left everything, arose and followed the Master.

This new disciple made a large feast in his home to mark this great occasion. Among his guests were many men who had also collected taxes, and other acquaintances.

The Pharisees and Scribes were always on the look out for something to criticise and they murmured against Jesus, the Guest of Honour. They asked him, "Why do you eat and drink with tax collectors and sinners?"

To this question Jesus replied, "Those who are well have no need of a doctor, but those who are sick do need one. I have not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance."

But his critics continued by observing, "The disciples of John fast often and offer prayers. So do the pupils of the Pharisees. But your followers eat and drink."

Then Jesus answered them with a question, "Can you make wedding guests fast while the bridegroom is with them? The days will come, when the bridegroom is taken away from them, and then they will fast." Jesus also commented on patching a garment and putting wine into wineskins.

He reminded them that no one patches an old garment with a new piece of material. This would not look well. Neither do men pour new wine into old bottles. If they did this the bottles would be likely to burst. But new wine must be put into new bottles then they both are preserved.

Find this man's name and read this story in Luke Chapter 5, verses 27 to 38.

Hawkesbury Bride Was Former Lachute Girl

Massey - Brown

The marriage of Audrey Olive, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Brown, to Mr. Kenneth Albert Massey, son of Mrs. Albert Massey and the late Mr. Massey, all of Hawkesbury, took place on Saturday, July 16, at 2.30 p.m. in Hawkesbury United Church.

The Rev. B. T. Holden officiated, and Mrs. Russell Owens played the wedding music. Mrs. Roy Frost sang "Because" as the bride's mother entered the church, and "The Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register. Yellow baskets of gladioli and phlox decorated the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a floor-length gown of French Chantilly lace, fashioned with a full skirt. The fitted bodice was designed with a decollete neckline, edged with nylon tulle, and long sleeves extending to points over the hands. Her elbow-length veil of French tulle illusion was held by a demi-calotte of embroidered lace and pearls over satin. She carried a crescent bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis.

Mrs. John Massey, sister-in-law of the groom, as matron of honor, wore a strapless gown with matching stole and gloves, of embroidered net over taffeta in periwinkle blue, with a hooped skirt and star-shaped headdress. She carried a crescent bouquet of yellow gladioli and blue cornflowers.

Misses Heather Bowers and Linda Brown, both cousins of the bride, were flower girls. They were dressed alike in floor-length gowns of shrimp-colored nylon net, propped up by taffeta hooped skirts and matching ruffled headdresses. They wore white nylon gloves, and carried crescent bouquets of yellow gladioli and blue cornflowers.

Mr. John Massey acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Edwin Kelly and Mr. Homer Gauley, both cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Brown, the bride's mother, wore a gown of navy blue sheer with a pink hat and accessories, and a corsage bouquet of pink roses.

Following a reception at Long Sault Hotel, Grenville, Que., the couple left for a motor trip to points in United States and Niagara Falls. For travelling the bride wore a Rappi original frock of silk organza in a fragile print in watery hues, sashed with velvet. She wore white accessories, and an orchid corsage.

The couple will make their home in Hawkesbury.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Massey, Mr. Joseph Botick, Waterford; Miss Linda Massey, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bowers, Mr. Donald Bowers, Miss Heatley Bowers, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Frost, Misses Heather and Madeleine Frost, Marmora, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Drew, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Green, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. George West and Joanne, of Kingston, Ont.

Other guests were present from Kilmar, Pointe au Chene, Calumet, Grenville, Lachute, Brownsburg, Cushing, Vankleek Hill and Harrington.

Sports -- Juvenile Activities -- School

One morning last week-end, sitting on the lawn with a cup of coffee and trying to make up my mind which of several chores would be the least irksome to tackle first, I had a distinct feeling there was "fall" in the air. Summer only half way through and although the day promised to be another scorcher, I couldn't help but notice the leaves wafting down from the elm under which I was sitting. Maybe this particular tree had been hit with a blight, but the illusion of "fall" remained, heightened by the light carpeting of sear and yellow leaves over most of the grass.

Wishful Thinking

Anyhow the thought of "frost on the pumpkin" is a cooling one and as far as I'm concerned I'll sit in the shade and doze over the gun catalogues before I go fishing in this kind of weather. Matter of fact three times this past month we've ditched plans for week-ending in the Thousand Islands, at Lake Massiwipi and up in the Rideau Lake district. Confined our fishing to very early morning sorties over to the St. Lawrence at Coteau du Lac. There we have been able to tease the odd bass into taking a Heddon Tiny Tad, with split shot added so that it would fish real deep. This is one of our favorite bass lures, first recommended to us by that ace fisherman and purveyor of fishing tackle Bill Gulline. Colors that have paid off for us have been the orange body, perch scale and dark green frog and just about in that order. Don't overlook the black body, which sometimes on cloudy, dull days, very early in the morning and just as the light begins to fade before nightfall, produces when the others won't.

First Come — First Served

The truth of this adage came pleasantly home to Hoagey Hoglund, who when not piloting for T.C.A., is usually fishing or thinking about fishing, and I on one of those early morning junkets. We'd rendezvoused sleepily at the Montreal end of the Soulanges Canal at 4.15 a.m. As we parked the cars at Coteau du Lac and turned off our headlights, it was just beginning to get light. It was while we were getting our gear together that Hoagey tripped over the package, lying in the grass by the side of the road. Said package gave forth a musical tinkling sound. Our only half-opened eyes popped the rest of the way open right smartly when we opened it and viewed the contents — four, tall, ice-cold, green bottles. We looked around like a couple of small boys caught in an apple orchard. Not a sign of life anywhere, except for two cows in a nearby field.

Fishing Contest or Treasure Hunt?

That morning the sun came up like a blood red orange. Long before six-thirty whe. the fish had stopped biting, we were mopping the perspiration from our brows. Just the same we had a couple of bass apiece to take home for breakfast. Of course before we packed up we sampled the refreshment found earlier, toasted our unknown benefactor and wondered whether Molson's sales promotion department were making a practice of stashing these packages around to stimulate interest in the all-season fishing contest they are sponsoring in Quebec.

Now's the Time

It all began a long time back. Dog and man were meant to be companions and in the early days of that asssociation, round about 5,000 years ago and right up until this day, that companionship has been a matter of mutual interdependence Man gives the dog a home and in turn the dog helps man add to the family larder. And that in a nutshell is reason enough for a guy to take a dog hunting. Take a dog hunting and you'll put more game in the bag, but far more rewarding are the extra dividends you'll reap in terms of putting more interest into your hunting. Even on the off days and we've all got to take our share of these, you'll thrill over and over again just to the spectacle of a good field dog at work, whether he or she is a pointer, setter, spaniel or hound dog. And when the birds are flying, the work of a willing dog in retrieving those that fall to your gun and in tracking down the cripples aids the game conservation picture generally. Between now and the opening of the hunting seasons in Quebec and Ontario I'll be glad to help or advise anyone interested in getting a gun dog. Right now, know of top-rated hunting stock available in the following breeds: Labrador, Springer and Beagle.

Pitches No-Hitter Game For Colford Lodge

Last Sunday Colford's Lodge defeated St. Jerome 14-0. Larocque won his eighth game, striking out 18 men. Only two St. Jerome batters reached first base — one on an error and one on a walk. Jacques Leveillé blasted a home-run for the winners with two on base. Billy Cribb and André Pilon also were big hitters for Colford's.

Next Sunday Colford's Lodge plays host to Molson's of Lachute; game time 2 p.m.

Rigaud Park Program

Another card of pacers and trotters will be presented at the Rigaud Race track this Sunday, when several new horses will be included in the day's events, commencing at 2 p.m.

Entries to date in the "free-for-all" include Professor Mac, Quick Silver L, Senator Bars, Peter Star, Johnny M, while the other three classes will feature Happy Volo, Jane Proximity, Lady Van B, Diabolo, Rene Hanover, Jackie Gratten Patch, Peter Bennett, and others; most of these horses are well known to local enthusiasts.

The management is anticipating a record attendance. Planned for the future is an elimination series to determine the best horse in the region.

As attendance rewards there will be, as usual, four bingo games.

New Film Released, Shows Otter Lake Music Centre

A recent National Film Board release contains a section filmed at the Otter Lake Music Centre at Huberdeau. It shows the various activities at the Centre, the beautiful setting in which students enjoy their music-making holiday, and records some of the music played by amateurs and professionals. An all-round impression of life at the Centre is given; shots are taken of students playing chamber music, learning the recorder, singing, learning theory, practising their instruments, and swimming and boating in a lovely and relaxed setting. This "Eyewitness No. 73" film will be booked soon at the Capitol Theatre, Montreal, and at other theatres showing Columbia pictures.

Many enquiries concerning the Centre have been received from all over Canada and the United States, and students from all parts of the continent have booked for one or both weeks August 15 - 28, during which the Centre is open. In its past two seasons the Centre has been filled to capacity, and this year's bookings show that those interested in music have an increasing interest in and desire to share in its work. A generous scholarship offered by Willis and Co. of Montreal, was won by Miss Clare Diamend of Montreal. Miss Diamend is a piano student at the Vincent d'Indy School of Music in Montreal.

However, "many who come to the Centre will not be music students, but amateur music lovers in all walks of life", say George and Carl Little, the founders and directors of the Centre. . . . For information and bookings write to Box 195, Montreal 8, Que.

A Sea Adventure by Nicholas Monsarrat

"The Ship That Died of Shame", by Nicholas Monsarrat, author of The Cruel Sea has been adapted for radio by Captain Kenneth Langmaid and a transcription of the BBC production will be heard from 9 to 10 p.m. on Tuesday evening (August 9) on CBC Trans-Canada.

The ship of the story was one of the gallant band of motor gunboats that operated during the last war, crashing across from Britain to the French, Dutch or Germain coasts, shooting up everything it encountered and then heading for home to beat the dawn by a few anxious minutes.

The captain of M.G.B. No. 1087, Bill Randall (played by Norman Wooland), though a gallant fighter, finds himself unemployed six years after demobilization when he meets his former first lieutenant (played by Trevor Howard) and reluctantly agrees to join him in a smuggling venture. Randall's decision is greatly influenced by the knowledge that their old M.G.B. can be acquired; and he becomes deeply incriminated before he realizes tha their activities have been unscrupulously extended. But the ship apparently has her own inexorable way of dealing with the shameful uses to which she is put.

The two-day event is held in Shelburne, Ont., each year, this year on August 5 and 6. It is sponsored by the local Rotary Club, with proceeds going to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children and local welfare work.

Topping the CBC billing at Shelburne will be Peggy Brooks, popular radio and TV singer. Master of ceremonies for broadcast of the contest finals Saturday night will be Don Fairbairn, editor of CBC's "Neighborly News", back for his fourth contest.

Highlighting the contest with a personal appearance will be "The Commodores, a singing foursome well known to CBC listeners.

The contest takes on an international flavor with entries from the U.S., including Wayne "Sleepy" Marlin of Louiseville, Kentucky, last year's winner.

Contest official expect nearly 100 entrants, which is more than last year. Attendance, which hit about 7,000 for the two days last year and records, is expected to exceed that mark.

The finals broadcast will be heard on the Dominion network from 9:30 to 10 EDT, on Saturday.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

There's no reason for temperature and terrain to trouble you on your next summer trip. When summertime's main car ailments . . . blowouts, stalling and overheating . . . occur, just apply a little roadside "first-aid".

It's always wise to keep your tires properly inflated. It's also a good way to minimize blowouts. Have them checked regularly for damage or unusual wear. Rotate them regularly, but don't try to squeeze extra mileage out of tires that need replacing. In case of a blowout, stay calm, keep a firm hand on the wheel, maintain a safe course and bring your car to a stop.

On very hot days, a vapour lock may occur and cause your engine to stall. If this happens, keep "cool", and remember that vapour lock is only temporary. Get off the road, lift the hood to aid the circulation of air, put a damp cloth over the fuel pump, if one is available, and wait for a few minutes.

There are several ways to prevent overheating. First, make sure your radiator is clean inside and out and your fan belt is in good condition and tight enough to drive the water pump.

In traffic, it may be advisable to drive in the lower gears. Keep your engine turning over in traffic instead of shutting off the motor. If your radiator boils over, loosen the cap to release steam and pressure. Then remove the cap and add water slowly.

Most of your hot weather driving difficulties can be solved if you stay "cool" and collected.

BLUEBIRD MAY SEEK NEW RECORD IN U.S.

London — Donald Campbell, who recently regained the world's water speed record on Ullswater with 202.32 m.p.h., will take his "Bluebird" to Lake Mead, Las Vegas, U.S.A., if arrangements can be made. The Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce has suggested that he make his headquarters there for an attempt on his own record on Lake Mead.

The heat wave in Toronto sent Peggy Brooks, popular vocalist, and Cy Mack, veteran emcee, to the relative coolness of the outdoors to go over the script for their program, "Two for a Quarter." They found temperature slightly cooler on a bench in Queen's Park in the shadows of the Parliament Buildings. Their show, a new light and listenable musical program, can be heard each weekday morning on CBC Trans-Canada radio network.

'34 Jalopy from Rigaud In Stock Car Races

In the Stock Car races at the International Race Track at Fort Covington, N.Y., only one Canadian driver, René Bolleau of Rigaud, Que., was entered in the heats. This car, a 1934 Ford, was souped up sufficiently that it took second place in the consolation race, being only edged out by a half-length by J. Santann of Fort Covington. . . One can never tell what these jalopies have under their hoods; the Bolleau car, which was sponsored by the Garage Aubrey Seguin of Rigaud, had a 1955 General Motors V-8 engine installed and gave every indication that it will be a real money-getter when the driver gains confidence.

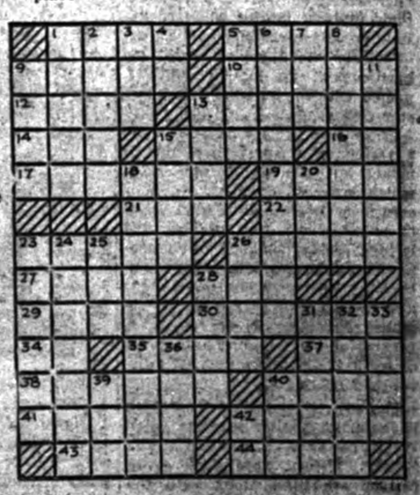

This year's races started out by being listed as wide open, but it has been found that this system proves a handicap to any new drivers trying to make a start at the pastime. Now under the new rules there are to be Class A and B races so any inexperienced drivers will be matched against those of the same calibre.

Salad Week

This is National Salad Week — campaign to encourage Canadians to eat more fruits and vegetables; and the ideal way to eat them at this time of the year is in cool crisp salads. From provincial home economists in all parts of Canada, the Consumer Section at Ottawa has received salad recipes typical of each province. Everyone, no matter where they live, will enjoy these tempting salads for weeks to come.

Newfoundland fresh salmon is plentiful and especially good in the summer so their salad meal features a delicate and flavored tailpiece of salmon. The fish is cooked in boiling water, then chilled and served on a platter with lemon and parsley. To accompany the salmon a large lime-flavored jellied carrot and apple ring is unmoulded on a bed of shredded cabbage. Potato salad fills the centre of the jelly ring and wedges of hard cooked egg add contrast to the color scheme.

Prince Edward Islanders' preference for good food is evident in their unusual lobster salad recipe. It is an attractive blend of flavors — lobster, apple, celery, carrot and hard cooked eggs together and garnished with lemon wheels and lobster claws.

From Nova Scotia gardens come a variety of crisp fresh greens to make a delicious tossed salad which may be served with hot or cold meat or fish. Shredded green or red cabbage, torn or shredded lettuce, finely chopped green pepper and celery, radish and cucumber slices, carrot sticks, onion rings and tomato wedges are tossed together with French dressing. A garnish of curly endive and sprigs of fresh green watercress adds flavor and color.

The province of New Brunswick is featuring poultry in their Salad Week recipe — Jellied Chicken Salad. Celery, apple and green pepper are used along with the chicken and a little paprinka and chives add zest.

Canadian Salads from Coast to Coast

Each of these salads is typical of a Canadian province: 1. Ontario. 2. Newfoundland. 3. Nova Scotia. 4. Saskatchewan. 5. New Brunswick. 6. British Columbia. 7. Prince Edward Island. 8. Manitoba. 9. Quebec. 10. Alberta. Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture.

From provincial home economists in all parts of Canada the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture has received recipes for salads typical of their particular province. Everyone, no matter where they live, will enjoy these tempting salads now during Salad Week and for weeks to come.

1. Ontario — A delightful summer platter of Ontario grown vegetables and cottage cheese. The beautiful wooden platter, salad servers and the pottery are all Ontario handicrafts. 2. Newfoundland — Boiled fresh salmon accompanied by jellied carrot and apple ring filled with potato salad. And in keeping with the salad what could be more fitting than the fish net cloth and the dory. 3. Nova Scotia greens combined to make this colorful tossed salad suitable for serving with hot or cold meat or fish. 4. Saskatchewan — Individual main course salad plate of whole tomato stuffed with potato salad, devilled eggs and green onions. 5. New Brunswick — Jellied chicken salad served on a bed of lettuce and garnished with thin radish slices and mint leaves. The hand-loomed place mat was fashioned in New Brunswick.

6. British Columbia — An attractive array of fresh fruits, cottage cheese and jellied fruit salad in an interesting flavor and color combination. 7. Prince Edward Island pottery and the hand-woven place mat set off this unusual tossed salad made from lobster, apple, celery, carrot and hard cooked eggs. 8. Manitoba — Tossed salad greens and cottage cheese served with a tasty dressing to which curry powder and celery seed are added. 9. Quebec — A hearty Chicken Salad garnished with parsley, radishes and quarters of hard cooked eggs. 10. Alberta — An attractive arrangement of salad makings from which everyone can build their own salad.

More Fruit Desserts

Cherry Whip

1 Cup sour cherry pulp (about 2 cups pitted cherries), 2 egg whites, pinch of salt, 1/3 cup sugar.

Wash, stem and pit cherries. Force through a sieve or crush to a fine pulp. Drain. Beat egg whites with salt until stiff and gradually add the sugar. Add cherry pulp to the egg mixture and mix thoroughly with rotary beater. Pile lightly into a serving dish or into individual dishes. Chill thoroughly and serve, garnished with fresh cherries. Yield: six servings.

Note: A custard sauce may be made with the two egg yolks and poured cold on the cherry whip just before serving.

Blueberry Mallow

2 Cups blueberries, 1 cup water, dash of salt, 1 teaspoon vinegar or lemon juice, 20 marshmallows, 1 cup whipping cream.

Crush blueberries, add water and salt and cook, covered, until tender, about 6 to 8 minutes. Remove from heat, add vinegar or lemon juice and marshmallows, cut in quarters. Stir and blend until marshmallows are melted. Cool and let stand until partially set then fold in whipped cream. Pour into one large or six individual moulds that have been rinsed in cold water and chill until firm. If desired, ¼ cup chopped, toasted almonds may be added to the mixture. Yield: six servings.

Strawberry Cream-Cheese Pie

1 Quart box strawberries, 4-6 tablespoons sugar, 8 ounces cream cheese (1 - 4 ounce packages), 3 tablespoons cream, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, 1 9-inch baked pastry shell.

Wash, drain, hull, and slice strawberries. Stir in the 4 to 6 tablespoons sugar and beat with a rotary beater until smooth and fluffy. Then stir in the grated orange rind. Spread about ¼ of the cheese mixture in the bottom of the pastry shell and cover with a layer of strawberries. Place the remaining cheese mixture in the centre, and the rest of the berries around it. Yield: six to eight servings.

Egg Notions

It is really surprising how fresh air and the novelty of new surroundings can perk up faded appetites. So for out-of-doors eating this summer the home economists of the Consumer Section urge plenty of filling, substantial foods without too many heavy ones. An old favorite in this line is the hard-cooked egg. Other foods seem to come and go in picnic popularity but eggs remain high on the list for indoor as well as outdoor eating. Eggs can be used as tempting fillings for sandwiches, to add extra food value to light salads or they can be served plain or devilled with a light vegetable dish.

In any case eggs are always hard cooked for picnics, but it is most important that they are not hard boiled. All too often eggs are "hard-boiled" rather than "hard-cooked". Eggs should never be boiled because if they are they become hard and rubbery.

The eggs should be cooked slowly for about 30 minutes in water which is just below the boiling point. Then they will be well cooked with the whites and yolks both firm and tender. Of course no one wants to eat hard cooked eggs which have a dark ring around the yolk, so they should be plunged into cold water immediately after they are done. This quick cooling will not only help to avoid the dark ring around the yolk but also will prevent overcooking.

Salads are naturally associated with summer and hard-cooked eggs are naturally associated with salads. The white and the gold of the hard cooked egg are always striking when combined with salad greens. Egg slices or wedges are excellent in a mixed salad bowl and diced hard cooked eggs should not be overlooked when making ham, chicken or fish salads.

Egg salads take on new and glamorous names depending upon how the eggs are added to them. When the yolks are sieved and sprinkled over the top of the salad it is referred to as "Salade A la Mimosa" and when the egg whites are cut to form petals and are placed around the edge of the salad it is simply called "Marguerite".

A tempting water lily salad can be made by cutting the whites of several hard cooked eggs into six petals each, removing the yolks and mashing them with mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing then adding finely chopped celery and a little chopped onion, salt and pepper. This mixture is put in the centre of a bed of shredded lettuce and the strips of egg white are arranged around the yolk centre to resemble petals of a water lily.

Devilled eggs have a special appeal for summer. They are always popular on salad plates or served as part of a buffet meal. To prepare eggs this tasty way simply cut them in half, either lengthwise or crosswise, it really makes no difference, and gently separate the yolks from the whites. Then mash the yolks and add some mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing, salt and pepper and a little very finely chopped onion, chives or parsley. Chopped pickle, curry powder or even a little prepared mustrad will also add zest to the filling. Now refill the whites with the soft egg yolk mixture and garnish with parsley or a slice of stuffed olive. Devilled eggs look particularly decorative, too, if the filling is put through a pastry tube.

Both as a sandwich filling and as a salad ingredient hard cooked eggs have always been popular. Perhaps this is due to the fact that they blend exceptionally well with so many other foods and seasonings. By starting with a basic mixture of chopped hard cooked eggs, salad dressing, salt and pepper a great variety of sandwich fillings as well as salad mixtures can be made. For example, one particularly good sandwich spread has a little chili sauce or spicy meat sauce added to the egg mixture. For both delicious sandwich fillings and tempting salad combinations any of the following may be added to the basic hard cooked chopped eggs —

(1) Chopped corn beef and onions.

(2) Chopped celery, pickle, onion, olive or nuts.

(3) Crisp chipped bacon or devilled ham with chives.

(4) Sardines, with chopped pimiento or green pepper.

To make sweet milk into sour, if your recipe calls for this, mix a tablespoon of vinegar to one cup of sweet milk.

Turkey Salad

Eye catching and appetite appealing is this turkey salad garnished with jellied cranberry and orange mould on crisp lettuce cups.

Combine 2 cups cubed cooked turkey, with ½ cup sliced celery, ½ cup toasted almonds and salad dressing or mayonnaise to moisten. Chill before serving.

To make jellied cranberry mould soak 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatine in ¼ cup cold water 2 minutes. Melt over hot water and and stir into 2 cups canned cranberry sauce. Cut 1 orange in quarters, remove seeds and put rind and pulp through food chopper. Add to cranberry mixture, pour into 6 individual moulds rinsed in cold water. Chill until set.

Woollen and Worsted Imports from Britain

Toronto — Imports of woollen and worsted cloth into Canada from Great Britain during May 1955 reached the highest total in 16 months.

Shipments of wool cloth into this country totalled 1,671,000 yards during May, latest month for which figures are available. This was an increase of 1,026,000 yards over the previous month and the largest volume reached since January of 1954 when 1,812,000 yards were received.

QWI Officers Visit Branches Down East

Mrs. G. E. LeBaron, of North Hatley, president of Quebec Women's Institutes, is visiting Institutes in Bonaventure and Gaspé Counties. Meetings of other county units are attended at the time of the annuals in May, but those "down on the coast" are difficult to fit in at that time of the year.

Mrs. LeBaron intended to be absent a week stopping at Matapedia, New Richmond and Marcil in Bonaventure, and attending the annual county picnic in Gaspé, July 23.

Miss Janet McOuat, of Lachute, QWI Handicraft Technician, is also in that part of the province. She is conducting craft classes in several branches and will be there for over a month.

Fashions

Corduroy takes over in every phase of fashion, for every activity from lounging at home to walking in the rain. Come fall when we move indoors, here's the sort of interior decoration that will make its appeal. The lounge coat, so smartly tailored, is of rouge red corduroy. There is a notched collar above a three-button closing, the buttons a pretty pearlized composition in a matching tone. The U-shaped pockets are notched at the top and there are deep slits at the sides. The taffeta lining is in matching red so that things are bright at every turn.

Clothes for Dolly

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

Do you remeber making a dress for your favorite dolly when you were a little girl? What fun it was! How proud you were when you dressed your dolly and showed her to your friends! No store-bought outfit can ever quite compare with the one a small girl has made for herself, with just a little help from Mother!

Don't wait for your daughter to receive instruction in sewing in a senior grade of public school, or in dressmaking at Collegiate and Vocational School, but let her make a start at home while she is in the junior public school grades. When she says eagerly "Let me make dolly a dress!", supply material, show her how to cut out a simple pattern, and give her sufficient help to make a good job.

Are you a perfectionist? So often a grown-up dampens a youngster's enthusiasm by insisting on adult standards. She can learn a lot in making this first garment. Encourage as well as teach her. Give her just enough assistance so that she will not leave the dress unfinished.

Mother and daughter dresses continue to be fashionable, and a little girl will be very proud of making a dress for dolly of the same material that mother is making a dress for her. Pre-school boys these days play with dolls too, and a sailor doll may make his sailor suit outfit more popular with him! When he is of school age he will likely scorn sewing as "sissy", but it will be an advantage to him if he learns how to sew on his own buttons, not to mention mend his socks.

A sewing box is an excellent gift to stimulate a sewing hobby. These may be purchased in a wide variety of shapes and sizes in a store, but they can also be made at home. Parents of one little girl took a six quart fruit basket. Father reserved on half of it for a spool holder. He cut a block of wood, the right size to fit inside, nailed long nails with very small heads at equal intervals around it and attached a handle. Then he painted it with red enamel. Mother covered the basket with gay patterned glazed chintz. At her end of the basket she sewed pockets for shears, for a case of needles, for common and for safety pins. She added a pincushion, an emery bag for sharpening needles, a thimble, a tape measure, a ruler and a piece of chalk. Daughter was delighted with her present — and even more thrilled when Mother took time each Saturday to help her learn to sew.

The remnant table in a dry goods or department store often has wonderful inexpensive "finds" of material for a doll's dress. But don't neglect your own remnant bag! — Maybe an aunt or grandmother will have a number of cloth scraps which they would be happy to contribute to a doll's wardrobe. Bits of ribbon, of lace, of elastic, scraps of elastic or ends of wool, buttons and small zippers and hooks and eyes or dome fasteners in time to find a use.

Show your child how to cut out a pattern from paper before touching the cloth. Impress on your small pupil that a pattern which is a little too large can be easily made smaller. But if it is too tight to begin with, better start again. Allow for slight shrinkage on woollen material.

Learning one thing at a time will give a sense of achievement. If you do not know the different stitches, — basting, cross and chain stitch, buy a book on sewing with diagrams and simple instructions, such as "A Picture Sewing Book" for 8-12 year old children (published by Paxton-Slade).

Why not help your girl with an outfit for her dolly? Start with a dress, and then make underwear and night clothes. A little coat and bonnet, stockings and tiny shoes can be fashioned with care. Before you know it, sewing for dolly may be so popular with your daughter that her chums may catch her enthusiasm. You may have a whole group of youthful Doll Dressmakers gathering at your home on Saturdays! If this happens suggest to the other mothers that they take their turn as Sewing Teacher!

GETTING THE MOST FOR YOUR MONEY

Electricity is wasted, possibly unconsciously, because it is so convenient and cheap!

Our customers can effect considerable savings for themselves if the following simple practices are adopted:

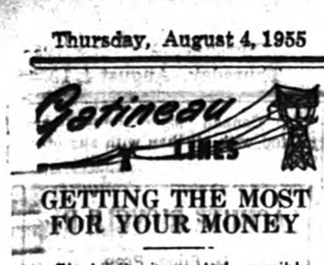

Turn off the lights in unoccupied rooms; operate the radio only when listening to a programme; and see that the surface elements on the kitchen range are turned off or to Low or Medium when the contents of the kettle or pots have been brought to a boil.

Another opportunity to save on electricity bills is gained when water tanks are insulated. Such a cover for your water tank can be easily installed by you, and will result in the water retaining its heat much longer. If your water tank is warm enough to feel its heat, then electricity is being wasted!

The Company's interest in these steps to save electricity arises from the fact that wastage adds to an ever increasing load on its equipment, and uses water which could otherwise be stored for the time when stream flows are low.

Do not waste your Most Valuable Servant!

Martin of Rimouski, Que., serving with the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade Group in Germany, has padre's hour with some of the children of the soldiers serving with the Brigade. The current topic of his teaching seems to be that of the workings of an army jeep. ALONG THE OTTAWA RIVER AND LAURENTIAN FOOTHILLS

By Ethel P. Kettyle

PART III

A Glimpse at the Past

The Museum of the Argenteuil County Historical Society is situated in beautiful surroundings on the north bank of the Ottawa River, 50 miles from Motreal by car and about 70 miles from the City of Ottawa.

Upon entering its doors, all lovers of antiquity may take a journey into the "long past".

In the first room on the ground floor, may be found many articles connected with the days of long ago and the aboriginal inhabitants. Here are many arrow-heads, tools, and models of Indian art, pottery and handicraft.

In another room (which was originally the Commandant's office) can be seen furniture and dishes, etc., of the English pioneer settlers of about 1800, and the oil paintings on the walls are original old masters.

In the hall are many paintings and pictures of local historical interest.

Most interesting of all is the original kitchen of the Barracks, with its huge open fireplace and crane, and the built-in oven in the wall, which is characteristic of that period. This room is fitted up with authentic homemade furniture of French habitant construction, also many unique kitchen utensils and other articles used in cooking.

From this room, a door opens on to the balcony and affords a charming view of the Museum grounds, and the scenery surrounding it. To the east, the view is down the Ottawa River. To the south one sees the shores of Ontario, and to the west is the village of Carillon, and the dam and canal.

No less interesting is the representation of a pioneer bedroom, with an antique four-poster bed and ancient quilt, its cradle, washstand, toilet articles, home-made rugs and pictures, candle-sticks and other articles.

Another room is maintained as a memorial to Sir John J. C. Abbott, a native of these parts and the first Canadian-born Premier of Canada. This room is furnished in Mid-Victorian style, of about 1875.

The Museum also boasts a library on the upper floor, and near the library, is a room containing military exhibits, uniforms and equipment of the Argenteuil Rangers, as well as many photographs.

A room of great interest to the ladies is one in which many costumes of the last century are displayed.

Another room contains a great variety of clocks, and still another, a variety of birds and their nests. The fossil fish of the Ottawa Valley are also represented.

Interesting to all travellers is the exhibit of transportation facilities formerly used in the Ottawa Valley. Many models and photographs of the steam-boats and early locomotives are here on display.

A spooky chamber, but one of great interest, is the Guard Room in the basement of the Barracks. Here are the original cells as used for military offenders. In the Guard Room is also a profusion of old implements formerly used in farming, lumbering and hunting.

Recently, a group of 45 teachers came from Montreal districts to spend some time in this famous old Barracks Museum and view the ancient relics. During week-ends especially, tourists and many local people may be found browsing through its rooms.

* * *

After having visited this historic old village of Carillon, it would be worth one's while to travel on to St. Andrews East, La Baie, and another quaint settlement (only 20 miles east of Carillon) with its famous old Monastery bearing the Indian name "Oka".

All around the world "Oka" is known as the name of a famous cheese, made in this very place, but in Canada, and especially in the Province of Quebec, the word brings to mind the Trappist Monks residing here.

A Trappist Monastery

Originally, a little party of the Trappists came to Canada in 1881, from the Abbey of Bellefontaine. They were welcomed by the Gentlemen of Surplices in Montreal, who gave them some land at Oka, where they set up a monastery. Here they lived in austerity. The robed men dwelt in silence and no woman was allowed to enter their domain.

We of the outside world are told that they have slept in a common dormitory, eaten together, studied together, prayed and meditated, and labored in the barns, dairies and fields in silence, only speaking when absolutely necessary. We are informed that usually these Monks spend eight hours a day in perpetual prayer — yet their research and educational methods, have made them famous. Not long ago they were "televised", which was most interesting.

Recently Oka has become more famous than ever, for not long ago, it was reported that uranium had been discovered beneath its soil, and drillers are now busy in a continued search for metals. It is said that Oka may be the present-day site of the largest columbium deposits in North America.

Hives of Industry

But now — let us proceed to Lachute, site of the Ayers woollen industry, which has also been widely televised, on the Billy O'Connor Show by Don Cameron. Lachute is also the home of the J. C. Wilson Paper Mills, lumber industries and dairy manufactures, and a now-famous golf course.

Only four miles from Lachute, directly back in the Laurentian foothills, is the busy town of Brownsburg, noted for its large Canadian Industries Limited and the Canadian Safety Fuse plant.

Market Gardening

Retracing our journey on the highway through Lachute, we pass the Village of St. Hermas, surrounded by sleek cattle browsing in the fields.

On to St. Eustache, with its brightly painted houses, stores and various places of business. Farther on are vast fields of flowers and vegetables, and in springtime, one may see many in glass hot-houses, where flowers and vegetables grow more rapidly, to be later transplanted to fields and gardens, and finally trucked into the nearby city of Montreal.

* * *

All along the highway are roads leading off into the Laurentian resorts where, in wintertime, people come from all over Canada, the United States and other parts of the world, to enjoy marvellous skiing on the hills of Quebec.

In summertime these mountains, leading to the northern pleasure resorts, are green and verdant; but in autumn when the leaves are turning, nowhere can more colorful scenery be found. In winter there is color too — with painted houses against the snow, to make this place look like a fairyland.

Soon one arrives at Cartierville, with its Training School for air pilots; the ground and sky are bright with winged planes, and one realizes the wonders of modern travel.

Hub of Life, Culture And Progress

Soon one nears the busy metropolis, and by now the Ottawa River has emptied into the mighty St. Lawrence River. Great is this river, flowing around the harbour city and greater still will it be, when the St. Lawrence Seaway is completed.

It is difficult to believe, that this wealthy industrial city of Montreal has actually sprung up from a little Mission Village . . . Champlain tried to cope with the turbulence around Montreal as early as 1611, and while-mystical vision has been credited with the conception and birth of Ville Marie de Montréal. It was Champlain who thought out a settlement for the Island, 30 years before the Mission was founded. How much we owe the old explorers, we perhaps do not realize.

And now—from the very heart of Montreal, the way leads from Phillips Square down famous old Beaver Hall Hill to Victoria Square.

Nowhere is there a more cosmopolitan city, with its Canadian aristocrats, its Chinese, its Negroes, English-Canadians, French-Canadians, Jews and many other nationalities; its shoppers' paradise along St. Catherine Street; its factories and wholesale houses along lower McGill, St. Paul, and down as far as Wellington Street.

In this great city is color, laughter, wealth, poverty, sorrow, crime and death. But whatever the problem, there are places in this huge metropolis of human beings, where one may find an outlet for all emotions and needs; there are some of the best schools and colleges in Canada, libraries, churches, museums, theatres, night clubs. Restaurants and stores to cater to all classes. There are sight-seeing buses, and nags hitched to old-fashioned calèches which may be rented by the hour.

So we come to the end of our journey, feeling that nowhere in Canada could we have delved to the roots of our country and rubbed shoulders with the explorers and pioneers to whom we owe so much, in this great land of ours.

In 1929 fully-manufactured goods accounted for 42.7 per cent of Canada's exports, as compared to 38.9 per cent in 1953.

Special Exchange Serves Scouts' World Jamboree

A Bell Telephone exchange has been established near serve the mile-square tent camp which will house the eighth World Scout Jamboree this summer.

Appropriately named "Jamboree, Ontario," the exchange, which has required weeks of planning, engineering and construction, will exist only for the 10 days — August 18 to 28 — that the Scouts will be in camp. It will then be dismantled.

About 10,000 Boy Scouts and their leaders from about 50 countries are expected for the Jamboree. To accommodate them, a temporary town will be set up on the camp site, an army training centre along the Niagara River.

The temporary Bell exchange will be listed at every long distance centre on the continent. To reach the camp by telephone, a caller need only call long distance and ask for "Jamboree, Ontario."

The call will be received at the telephone exchange, located in the Niagara-on-the-Lake Recreational Centre building, and the individual Scout will be contacted through one of the 10 sub-camps and informed there is a call at the exchange for him.

A microwave radio relay circuit will also be set up by the Bell to enable television broadcasters to transmit television programs from the camp. These facilities will consist of a temporary tower from which the broadcasts will be beamed to the Company's microwave radio relay tower at Fonthill from where the broadcasts will be carried on the regular Buffalo-Toronto circuit.

200 Phones Served

Telephone equipment will include a three-position switchboard equipped to handle up to 200 individual telephones and 39 trunk lines. There will be 20 public telephones and individual telephones at Scout headquarters, sub-camp headquarters, and the various service offices such as those for the hospital, canteen, chaplains, police, transport and travel agencies. Operators at the long distance switchboard in St. Catharines will handle out-of-town calls.

The Company is also providing radio circuits for broadcasts from the camp, teletype facilities, and mobile telephone units to be stationed at the beach on nearby Lake Ontario while Scouts are swimming.

The Bell Telephone Company's representative at the Jamboree will be J. S. Cruden, of Toronto, a Bell employee with a long association with Scouting.

Although Scouts will come from about 50 countries and will speak about a score of languages, half will be residents of North America and most will be English-speaking. There will be 3,500 Canadians, 1,500 from the United States, and 1,000 from the United Kingdom. Official languages will be English and French.

SHARON MORRIS, Niagara-on-the-Lake Operator, shows 11-year-old Scout Kent Boucock around the Bell Telephone office set up for the Boy Scouts' World Jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake in August.

Another Marilyn Bell and a Swimmer, Too

Another Marilyn Bell who is making a name for herself in the swimming world is this 12-year-old Ottawa girl. Ottawa's Marilyn has swimming trophies, her most recent for a six-mile swim in Golden Lake. She hopes to swim Lake Ontario soon.

SOLUTION TO CROSSWORD PUZZLE (Page 7)

What We Owe To Inventors

By Lewis Milligan

"Thanks to Inventors" is the title of a new book by Prof. A. M. Low, published by the Butterworth Press, London, England. I have just come across it in our local Public Library and found it one of the most fascinating and up-to-date informative books I have read in a long time. If I could afford it I would present a copy to every home, urban and rural, in Canada, and I could guarantee that it would be read by every member of the family. The brief introduction is in itself a masterpiece of condensation and leads on a narrative of human progress that is more exciting than any detective story or romantic novel.

The story is not only of the past, it deals with and describes the results of invention in the living present; in the home, in the office, the factory and every department of human activity — from when you wake up in the morning till you go to bed at night. The inventor has transformed domestic life, as indicated by such chapter headings as — "In the Bathroom," "When we Dress," "In the Kitchen," "In the Living Room," "Hearing and Seeing the Radio," "Visiting the Doctor," etc.

In the chapter dealing with "When we Dress," the author takes us back to the time when thousands of men and women earned less than a bare living by "sweated labor" stitching long days and often into the night, as was pathetically told in Hood's famous poem, "The Song of the Shirt." It might be thought they would have welcomed any invention to eliminate that drudgery. But those sweated and poorly paid workers smashed the first sewing-machines fearing they would be put out of employment. The unfortunate inventor saved one machine, took it to his home town and exhibited it as a curiosity.

In case we should flatter ourselves that our attitude towards labor-saving inventions is more enlightened today, Prof. Low says, "We should remember that certain unloading machines which could relieve much hard labor in portering have stood idle because the dockers refused to make use of them. Fear of unemployment has caused some workers to allow the use of labor-saving machines only on condition that those whose labor is saved should also be paid." That same fear is behind the demand for the Guaranteed Annual Wage, with payment for not working.

"If everybody adopted the same attitude there would be little work to do at all, because there would be no goods to unload," says Prof. Low. He declares that "the idea that labor-saving inventions cause unemployment is a fallacy that has lingered from the eighteenth century when machines first became important." In practice the machine has created more employment. A good example is the sewing-machine, which can sew as much in one hour as ten women could by hand. Yet today there are probably twenty times as many women using sewing-machines in factories as were formerly employed as seamstresses at home. A further example is the concrete-mixer, the invention of which has created vastly more employment and better buildings and highways, not to mention the enormous growth of the automobile industry which would have been impossible without our paved roads.

The last chapter of this enthralling book is entitled "Making Life Easier", and it not only refers to the countless inventions that have relieved labor and enhanced the life of today, but forecasts the "fantasy of the future." We are told that "invention has no conclusion." The marvels of electronics and atomic fission have yet to be fully revealed. Prof. Low concludes: "Only a few years ago we had no television, steam engines, motor cars or aircraft, and it is logical to ask what will take their places in the book of the future when our descendants look back and say, 'Only in 1955 they had no . . . . . .' What will be on that list?"

In Canada more houses are heated with oil than with any other fuel.

No-Parking Modified in Cases Of Chatham St. Stores; Drafting By-Law "No Shorts in Public"

Town Business Proceeds as Usual At Regular Monthly Council Session

In items of civic business at the regular Council session last Wednesday, Ald. Réal Morrissette reported that By-Law 182 to prohibit the wearing of shorts in public within the town limits, had not yet been completed. The matter was tabled.

Two accounts, from former auditor Paul E. Bonnier and the Gatineau Power Company, which had been held over from the previous meeting, were approved for payment — the power bill being reduced by a credit which had since been awarded. The Bonnier account was for $1,260.25 — $800 of which had already been approved although it was not paid.

Discussion followed on the recently erected No Parking signs on Chatham Street, as a result of which Ald. Romain Desjardins moved, seconded by Ald. Morrissette, that such signs erected in front of businesses be replaced by 30-minute parking signs.

On a motion by Ald. Wilbrod Cousineau, seconded by Ald. Desjardins, the mayor and secretary-treasurer were authorized to sign a deed with Lachute Lumber & Millwork Ltd. for land for the prolongation of St. Jacques Street, for the sum of one dollar and other considerations.

The subject of painting all fire hydrants was brought up by Ald. Morrissette, and tabled until the next meeting.

Town foreman Jos. Senecal was authorized to start the regular fall chimney sweeping on Monday.

Building permits were issued to Lachute Lumber & Millwork, Ltd., for a house on Cottingham Blvd., and to Noe Patry, for a house on Charles Street, under the supervision of the Roads Committee.

On a motion by Ald. A Stanley Church, seconded by Ald. Réal Morrissette, it was unanimously decided that all legal advice to the Mayor, secretary, any alderman or other civic official tendered by the town's legal advisor, be obtained in writing.

Three tenders were received for painting of windows and doors in the new civic building and the adjoining Auditorium — the lowest offer being accepted . . . Tenders were from Denis Monette, for $450; Willie Gougeon for $390; and Philippe Malette for $550. All these tenders were for two coats of exterior paint, the paint included in the price.

A letter was received from the Ayersville Council asking the Lachute Council to meet with them Monday evening, August 8, to discuss the water and sewer situation on Hamford Street. It was decided that the local Council would meet in caucus prior to the Monday evening conclave.

A petition from the ratepayers on St. Jacques Street requesting a sidewalk, was turned over to the Roads Committee.

A request from the Richelieu Club to use loudspeakers to announce wrestling at the Exhibition Grounds on August 22, was duly granted.

The Blood Donor Committee of the Local Red Cross organization were granted permission to hold their clinic in the Civic Auditorium on Monday and Tuesday, September 6 and 7.

The need for a third attendant in the municipal office was once again brought to the attention of the Council, and secretary-treasurer Claude Daoust reported that several applicants had proved unsatisfactory. It was decided that the official should report on the present applicant at the next meeting.

Accounts totalling $15,452.40 were approved for payment, after all said accounts had been signed by the committee chairmen concerned.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned at 10 p.m.

H. St. Onge, J.P. On Traffic Cases, Condemns Noise

J. Henri St. Onge, Justice of the Peace, has communicated to The Watchman strong views concerning unnecessary noise made by taxi-drivers and motorists, who possibly without realizing it are guilty of disturbing the peace.

"Certain taxi-drivers and other motorists think nothing of blowing their horns to let passengers or fares know that they have arrived — unconscious of the fact that they are disturbing neighbors", Mr. St. Onge stated.

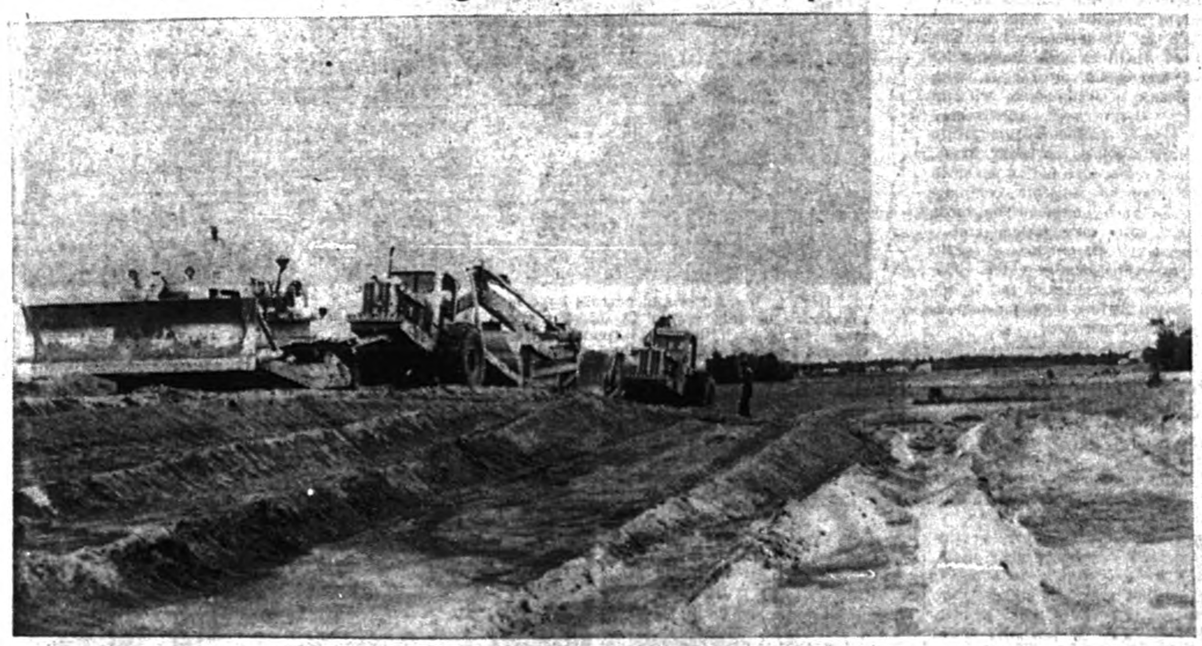

To these offenders who think that they are "the only ones in town", he wishes to point out that a by-law exists prohibiting unnecessary noise 24 hours a day. "Night workers expect peace and quiet during the day, the same as day workers do during the night. It would be just as easy, and a lot more appreciated, if taxi-drivers would go to the door instead of sounding their horn upon their arrival."

This request from the local J.P. follows a public notice issued several weeks ago concerning By-law 178, which covers this complaint of unnecessary noise. He also pointed out that this included the sounding of horns in wedding or stag party processions.

In closing, he also mentioned that numerous local motorists were not paying attention to stop-signs, and are driving through intersections too fast; the law states that the maximum speed is 8 m.p.h. for intersections.

Mr. St. Onge states that, in future, the law will be enforced to the limit in such cases as he is called upon to deal with.

Project Underway Beyond Town Limits, Levelling Farmland for Airstrip

Work started last week on an airstrip in Ayersville on land purchased by Ayers Realty Co. from Mrs. Rupert Bradford, Geo. McOuat and D. G. Simon. Present plans call for levelling 4,000 feet of runway for a width of approximately 300 feet. Direction of the strip will be the same as predominant winds, which are east-west. Preliminary surveys had been made by Labrecque, Labrecque & Gagnon, consulting engineers, and actual levelling is being carried out by Marchessault & Fils Ltée, Montreal, who have brought along three "tournapulls", a D-8 tractor and a grader to do the job. The work should be completed in six weeks.

Council Session Is Open Arena for Pent-Up Emotion on Flag Incident

The flag issue — believed to have subsided since the recent incident which rocked this municipality — was revived at last Wednesday's Council meeting when a group of citizens, backed by the six French-speaking councillors, insisted that the letter demanding the resignation of Mayor Dr. F. W. FitzGerald be read and included in the minutes. Mayor FitzGerald, however, handled the request in such a way as to obtain some 15 signatures on the letter, and then forced a Council vote on the reading of the signed letter. The vote found Aldermen Morrissette, Desjardins, Laurin, Church, Charlebois and Cousineau in favor of reading the letter and Ald. Pollock against. (Aldermen Muir and MacRae were absent from the assembly.) Approximately 30 citizens were present at the meeting.

Ald. Wilbrod Cousineau complained initially, that the minutes of the last meeting did not contain a motion he had made concerning local business. The motion arose following the report from Asst. Secretary Treasurer Jacques Poitras that the receipt machine had failed to function properly, and that he could not account for some money he had received on a certain day. It was explained that the motion had been omitted from the minutes as all the money had been later accounted for.

Raymond Beaulieu then asked why the request he had made that Mayor FitzGerald bring textbook rules on protocol had also not been included in the minutes. The Mayor then gave instructions to insert both matters into the minutes. The Mayor explained that the town's legal advisor, Fernand Legault, was away on vacation and that the protocol texts had not been given to him.

Mr. Beaulieu then provided the answers, producing copies of correspondence with officials of the Federal government in Ottawa. He had asked E. D. McGrear, chief of protocol of the Department of External Affairs, to tell him if the flag protocol applied to buildings on all government levels, private homes, and parks.

The answer from Howard Measures of the Secretary of State Department explained that Federal Orders-in-Council on flag protocol applied only to Federally-owned buildings and in the armed forces. The Orders-in-Council did not apply to county parks, provincial or municipal buildings, Mr. Measures added.

L. G. Bertrand, local pharmacist, then produced correspondence between himself and the Office of

Lachute and Ayersville Hold Joint Meeting of Councillors To Discuss Sewer Deficiencies

Increased Capacities and Extensions Found Necessary in Lachute Mills and Ayersville

Mayor Dr. F. W. FitzGerald and members of the Lachute Council held a joint meeting at the regular session of the Ayersville Council Monday evening. Aldermen Alcidas Laurin, of Lachute, and Douglas Bradford, of Ayersville, were absent from the assembly.

Ayersville had invited the Lachute Council to discuss the sewer situation in Lachute Mills and Ayersville where, according to reports, the 18-inch line is not sufficient to meet the needs of the combined population. There are also reports of sewer-water backing-up into the cellars of a few of the Ayersville houses.

According to Paul Laliberté, engineer, who prepared the plans, a good proportion of the sewers in Lachute Mills were installed by Ayers Limited and are of 18-inch diameter. While at the time this was adequate, more recent development has increased the area served by these sewers to include 54 acres in Lachute Mills and 163 acres in Ayersville.

"We desire to reconstruct these sewers with larger pipes, and we anticipate the co-operation of Lachute, as a proportion of Lachute citizens depend on these sewers", stated Mayor Gaetan Paquette of Ayersville.

Mr. Laliberté suggested that that pipes 30 inches in diameter be installed jointly by the two municipalities. The sewer would empty into the river and commence on Ayers Street (where the swimming pool is situated) 173 feet from the corner of Hamford Street. This is a distance of roughly 2,000 feet.

According to approximate estimates, the cost of the addition will be around $19,000; this includes pipes, labor, excavation and filling. As far as tenders are concerned, and the manner of constructing the sewer, the Ayersville Council reserves the privilege, as, according to Mayor Paquette, "this work will be done in our municipality and it is proper that we have the supervising."

According to the Ayersville authorities, the only sewer on Hamford Street is an 18-inch pipe within the limits of Lachute. They state that, for the best service, it will be necessary for Lachute to enlarge this pipe. This enlargement should commence in front of La Ruche and continue approximately 800 feet to Ayers Street, where it will turn and continue 173 feet down this street to meet the Ayersville pipe. It is in this 27-inch pipe, 750 feet in length, and the 30-inch pipe, 1,200 feet in length, that the two municipalities will share the cost of construction, Lachute paying approximately one-third. In the event that the Hamford Street sewer is enlarged, this cost would be entirely the responsibility of the Lachute taxpayers.

Mayor Paquette of Ayersville suggested that the Lachute Corporation defray the expenses on a proportional basis as to the area covered (approximately one-third).

In reply, Mayor FitzGerald stated that the Lachute Council was holding a special meeting Thursday evening (tonight), and that the matter would be studied at that time.

Over 1,800 Attended Ayers Employees' Outing

Last Saturday was that big occasion in the year's calendar for Lachute's west-end millworkers — the annual Ayers Picnic. The event, held at Belmont Park on the entry to Montreal Island, was attended by Ayers employees and their families to a total of approximately 1,850.

A special 10-coach train was loaded at the mill yards with 1,200 passengers, while 650 more persons travelled to Belmont Park by car. As guests of their employers, a thoroughly enjoyable day was had by young and old alike.

The special train left here at 1.15 p.m. and returned at 10 p.m.

Memories of Old Brownsburg Revived With 70th Anniversary of the First Manufacture at Ammunition Plant

A Scene of Contrasts in August 1885

Contributed by Sydney A. Seary

August 25, 1955, will mark the 70th anniversary of the occasion when the factory whistle signalled the first working day for the manufacture of ammunition in Brownsburg. . . .

The whistle had blown before, but for construction workers only. This also marked the opening of the first ammunition factory in Canada, which came about mainly because the Canadian Government granted "Gatling Gun" Howard spencial tax concessions on ammunition and machinery if he could start an ammunition factory in Canada. This was in the form of a reward for Capt. Howard's assistance in the Riel Rebellion. The Company he represented bought out Dan Smith's black powder plant and started the manufacture of ammunition at that site in Brownsburg — the enterprise subsequently becoming Canadian Industries Limited. . . Brownsburg citizens should commemorate this very important day.

Let us look back and see just what those times were like. . .

The five-ton steam boiler for the powerhouse was brought up from the canal near Greece's Point on a sleigh early in 1885, after it was found impossible to transport it by wagon in 1884. With the fall of snow it took Pete Cameron's three teams of canal tow-horses, with five men, a total of three days to move this boiler the 16 miles to Brownsburg. Eleven hours were spent hauling it through the "Muddy Branch" and hill at Staynerville. (Boyd's Express please note!)

At this time, 70 years ago, Brownsburg boasted a settlement of about 22 dwellings, from Dalesville to Lacasse's corner and from Mount Maple to the East River (the present site of Brownsburg Lumber Co.) These included —

At the corner of Maple and Main, the general store owned by Mr. Paul (now Brownsburg Pharmacy).

On the other corner, at the site of the Social Club, a house probably owned by Mr. Green, and another house at the site of Mrs. William Stewart's.

A house at the site of Joe Brownrigg and a blacksmith shop a little farther up the road, owned by Mr. William McAllister, grandfather of Arthur.

Across the street was a non-denominational church, the land having been donated by the MacGibbons.

At about the site of David's "5-and-10" stood a log cabin, and a little farther down, another small building, also a cheese factory nearby. These were most likely the property of Willie David McOuat.

Down at their present sites, the homes of Mr. Hardie, Mr. Flood, Mr. Morrison and the Morrison Woollen Mill, also a house at the site of Mr. Jim Roberts'.

Down Maple Avenue the MacDonald Farm house, now MacVicar's.

Mr. J. B. Chalmers residence was the home of Duncan MacGibbon. His brother, Alex, owned a house close to George Lacasse's.

St. Joseph Street boasted two log houses, one at the site of Lucien Davis, the other close to the river across the road, the property of the MacGibbon Estate.

Armament Plant Among New Industrial Projects

By Alex Dimeo

Quebec (CP) — Plans are under way for the establishment of three new industries in Quebec Province, one of them a $3,000,000 armament plant — it was learned last week.

The armament plant project was disclosed when a Superior Court justice rejected an injunction requested by the Atlantic Marine Salvage Corporation to retain a lease on land where the Federal Government plans to build the plant.

Part of the factory, a $40,000 building for the manufacture of cartridge cases, is expected to be completed by October.

Later, Premier Duplessis announced that a representative of a Vancouver firm discussed the possibility with him of establishing a plant here for the production of ammonia.

He said another industry, which would require preliminary investment of $40,000,000 and eventual expenditure of $100,000,000, is also being considered. Its nature was not disclosed.

Mr. Duplessis emphasized that both these projects are tentative.

Kiddies in Rowboat Drifting Down River

Two local children were saved from possible disaster by Police Chief Ducharme and Fire Chief Deacon Tuesday morning, when the two officials directed the children to safety from midstream in the North River.

Chief Ducharme was summoned to the scene near Harriett Street by a local resident, and prior to leaving the police station, informed Fire Chief Deacon of the trouble. According to reports, the two unidentified children, seven and nine years old, were in trouble in a rowboat on the North River.

The officials succeeded in calming the children considerably, and managed to direct them to shore, where they hurried off to their homes. (While the Lions Club rescue boat was not used, it was held in readiness in case of need.)

13-Year-Old Boy Is Highway Victim

Leo Lallemand, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Emile Lallemand of Petit Brulé, near Ste. Scholastique, was fatally injured when struck by a car near his home on Saturday night. He died in Hotel Dieu at St. Jerome on Sunday morning.

The car involved in the accident was driven by Guy Charleau, 22, of St. Eustache.

The youth was the eldest of a family of 11 children.

Traffic Cases And Disturbances Brought to Court

Angus Birse, 25, of Montreal, was sentenced to a $5 fine plus costs, which included $36.75 damage which he inflicted Saturday evening in the restaurant owned by Gaetan Laforest, Main Street. The call was answered by Asst. Chief W. Lepine, who placed the accused under arrest. He appeared before J. Henri St. Onge, J.P., that evening.

Appearing before the local Justice of the Peace Wednesday morning were Wilfrid Dubé, of Fassett, and a Morin Heights youth. Dubé pleaded not guilty to a charge of speeding and will appear next Wednesday, when the arresting officers will be present to testify. The Morin Heights youth was fined $50 plus costs ($26.50) when he pleaded guilty of driving while his ability was impaired. The charges were laid several weeks ago following an accident in which considerable damage resulted. The driver of the other car was an RCMP constable from Hamilton. The charge was laid under the Provincial Motor Vehicle Act.

Maurice Brouillette, 34, formerly of Val D'Or, appeared at an adjourned session of Police Court yesterday and pleaded guilty to charges of operating a restaurant without a business permit, contrary to By-Law 172, and of disturbing the peace in a local hotel. He was sentenced to a fine of $40 plus costs or a month in St. Jerome jail for the latter charge, and ordered to obtain his business permit immediately.

Sunday Storm Played Havoc With Service Lines

The Sunday storm was a welcome relief to local residents, but a headache for Bell Telephone Company employees of this district, who have since been working on a 24-hour basis to repair disrupted lines and phones.

The most serious trouble arose in Dunany, where lightning struck a cable, interrupting phone service throughout the area when the cable melted. Construction and line crews were also busy in the vicinity of White's Beach during Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, when a few phones were still reported as "out-of-order". Many crews were working day and night.

Other minor trouble occurred in Dalesville, but this was quickly cleared Sunday evening.

The Gatineau Power Company reports only minor troubles, with several transformers blown-out and one line downed by a falling tree in the Mille Isles district.

HUSBANDS DESERTED

Guelph, Ont., (CP) — Farmers' wives, members of the Women's Institutes across Ontario, deserted their husbands recently to spend a week here relaxing at the Ontario Agricultural College. They could take courses in poetry, singing, art, botany and literature or just be lazy.

Heat Disperses B'burg Council In Mid-Agenda

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — The most important item on the agenda last week was "adjourn the meeting", as the councillors labored to get through a very full slate of business in tropical heat! When after two hours the meeting was only half concluded, the Mayor called for an adjournment till next Monday.

Most important and impressive of the affairs was the vigorous action being taken on the sewerage problems around town. Gaston Legault has completed the first plan for Park, and there seems little doubt that the "down-the-hill" project will be completed before the snow comes.

An agreement has been reached for the municipality to rent or purchase the septic tank in MacVicar's field, and with the plans due to be completed shortly, only the red tape stands in the way.

Nat Cohen of the Crown Theatre wrote to Council explaining the faltering state of the motion picture industry, and asking that the assessment be reduced for the theatre. The councillors sympathized with him, but pointed out that the assessment was not on the business but on the building, which has not deteriorated.

A deputation of taxpayers from the Maple Avenue 'wartime' houses asked Council to install a sidewalk down Maple Avenue. There certainly was no argument about the need for one, and the Mayor promised that the matter would be looked into immediately. He urged the people involved to come back to the next meeting if they didn't get satisfaction.

An order was placed for some new fire hose and sewer rod. On the question of a second fire truck, brought up at a previous meeting, the Mayor promised to propose to the Chatham Council that they buy a second tank, to ensure the speed the Brownsburg fire brigade will fight their first.

DON'T USE IMPROPER FUSES

Faulty wiring is given as the cause of a surprisingly large number of fires. In many cases it might better be "improper fuses".

The use of metal inserts or oversize fuses is dangerous.

In case of excess current or short circuit the wires will overheat and might cause a fire.

Fuses are safety devices. If fuses blow frequently, you are either overloading the system or something is wrong with the wiring or devices on that circuit.

Call a competent electrician in case of trouble.

Growing Pullets For Egg Production

Several methods of growing pullets have proved satisfactory. Such details as sufficient space in pens and range shelters and plenty of hopper space are, perhaps, more important than the actual method of rearing, providing the birds are reasonably well fed. Pullets are being grown entirely indoors with satisfactory results. The use of shelters on grass range, however, is more popular than confinement rearing with pullets hatched in the spring.

Experimental work indicates that it is not necessary, and may even be harmful, to force the growth and development of pullets with very high protein feeds. On the other hand, severe restriction of feed may be equally harmful. If some feed restriction is practised it is necessary to dispense the feed in measured amounts in troughs or on the ground, since restriction on the basis of length of feeding time is relatively ineffective in retarding feed consumption.

A satisfactory method of rearing pullets with a minimum of labour, is followed at the Canada Department of Agriculture Experimental Station at Fredericton, N.B. The method involves full feeding of mash and grain on ranges, with free access to oyster shell, grit and water. Large, well constructed feed hoppers which require little attention, are used on range. Mash, oats and wheat are fed in separate hoppers or in separate compartments of each hopper. The birds balance their own ration, and a much larger proportion of grain than mash is usually eaten. The pullets are housed and fed a laying ration before egg production exceeds five per cent.

Crop Situation for This Area of Province

The Quebec Department of Agriculture's latest crop report shows the following survey as at July 30, for the Montreal area including this county and district:

Prolonged dry weather in this region will affect grain yields, which are expected to be about 70 per cent of normal. Pastures are bare and as a result dairy production is at least 10 per cent lower than at this time last year. A number of farmers are feeding hay to their milk cows. Vegetables in general are small because of lack of rain and yields will be lower. There will be a large production of timothy seed.

Haying operations (states the report) were carried out under excellent conditions and apart from a few rare exceptions most of the crop is in. As stated in our last report, the crop is a little above normal and the hay of good quality. The prolonged drought, which has prevailed throughout the Province, and the heat have affected yields of early truck crops and made the grains ripen too fast, reducing prospects of quality and size of harvest. Grain cutting is under way in the central and western parts.

Though insects are plentiful this year, they are not as numerous as might be expected on account of the extremely dry weather. The heat may have prevented their propagation as fast as usual. Colorado potato beetles, cabbage worms, onion moths and aphids are seen in great numbers. Aphids have infested grain fields and their presence is reported even in the Metapedia Valley.

The weeds which recur most frequently in reports are steeple bush, winter cress, daisies, couch-grass, hawkweed, mustard, lamb's quarters, sow thistles, chicory and common ragweed.

Cotton Grown In Montreal Area

Montreal (CP) — Cotton, a warm climate crop, can be grown in Canada, says Leslie Green of Montreal. To prove his point he has successfully grown his own crops in his house and garden.

Mr. Green, who spent his youth in the southern United States, believes he is the only man to grow cotton with success north of the Carolines, but he is convinced that British Columbia could support a cotton-growing industry.

He believes cotton grown in Canada would have a tougher fiber than the southern variety, and could compete with the famous Egyptian cotton. His experimental crops have produced extremely tough fibres, caused he says, by cold nights in April and May. He is encouraged by the interest the Botanical Gardens have shown in his experiment, and plans bigger crops next year.

FIRES RAGE UNCONTROLLED THROUGH CANADA'S FORESTS

High temperatures and no rain have made a nightmare of this season to forest rangers in many parts of Canada, particularly Northern Ontario where a dozen fires are raging at once. This is an air view of Bradley lake, north of Kapuskasing, where over 10,000 acres of timber were burned.

Providing contact between base camp and firefighting crews, Roy Shannon, Toronto, operates a walkie-talkie in the Bradley lake area. This year will be remembered as one of the worst in the history of forest fires in Ontario and Quebec.

An RCAF helicopter makes a landing in a clearing to bring supplies to men fighting the Bradley lake fire. Even with such modern equipment firefighters have a hopeless task on their hands trying to control the fires in forests made dry as kindling wood by two months of drought.

OBITUARY

Late Henry Burns Was Harrington Councillor For Four Decades

The death of Henry Burns, a well known resident of Weir, Que., occurred suddenly on July 27, at his son's residence in Montreal.

The late Mr. Burns, in his 76th year, was the beloved husband of Jane Wilson, who survives him together with three sons, Douglas, Ernest and Richard, one brother, Arthur, and four sisters, Mrs. Geo. Tomalty of Staynerville, Que., Mrs. Chas. Watson, of Lachute, and the Misses Kate and Maggie Burns, of Weir; also four grandchildren and three step-grandchildren.

He was a church warden at St. John the Divine Anglican Church in the Glen of Harrington, and a councillor for Harrington for some 40 years.

The funeral was conducted by the Rev. Cecil Royle, of Hudson Heights. Pall-bearers were six nephews, James and Charles Tomalty, Donald and Harvey Wilson, Charles Davis and Garnet Woods.

The many floral tributes, and the number of relatives and friends in attendance at the funeral, showed the deep respect in which he was held.

Recent Activities In 4-H Club

Judging Team Comes 3rd In Macdonald Event

The Lachute 4-H Calf Club have had several activities on their program during the past two weeks . .

On Tuesday evening, July 26, the club elimination was held at the barn of Paul St. Jacques, where a class of Holstein cows were judged. Donald Robertson was present, and scored each boy and girl for reasons they gave on how they placed the class of cows. The team chosen to go to the Montreal District Elimination at Macdonald College on August 2 were Donald McOuat, Donald Parker and Ross Rodger.

On Thursday, July 28, this team held a practice judging of cows at the barn of Arnold Parker, and the other members played soft-ball.

Monday evening August 1 a business meeting was held at Erskine Rodger's, where the team judged a class of Ayrshire cows and gave their reasons for placing; the other members played soft-ball until dark, then a business meeting was held with the president, Donald Parker, in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Donald McOuat, and approved. It was decided to hold the club Achievement Day on Saturday, August 27, at the Lachute Fair Grounds. The judge will be William Hodge, Town of Mount Royal, former owner of Raymondale Farm. The club leader, Ross Oswald, announced that Mrs. Alex Bothwell was donating two trophies for this occasion — the "Alex Bothwell Memorial Trophies" for Junior Showmanship and Senior Showmanship. The members were then given the necessary information on their bus trip to Macdonald, and the meeting was then adjourned.

On Tuesday morning, August 2, the members left for Macdonald College and arrived at 9.30. Eileen Elder replaced Ross Rodger, who was unable to be present with the judging team. After judging three classes of dairy cattle, the party had their lunch on the college campus. At 1 p.m. the judging team gave their oral reasons for placing the classes they judged in the morning, and the other members played soft-ball. At 4 p.m. the results of the judging were given. The Lachute team of Donald McQuat, Donald Parker and Eileen Elder, placed third with seven teams competing. Howick placed first and Ormstown second. Everyone left for home after a most enjoyable day — Ross Oswald, the club leader, stating he was very well pleased with the results of the Lachute team, as the three leading groups were very close in points.

POLAR DEBUT

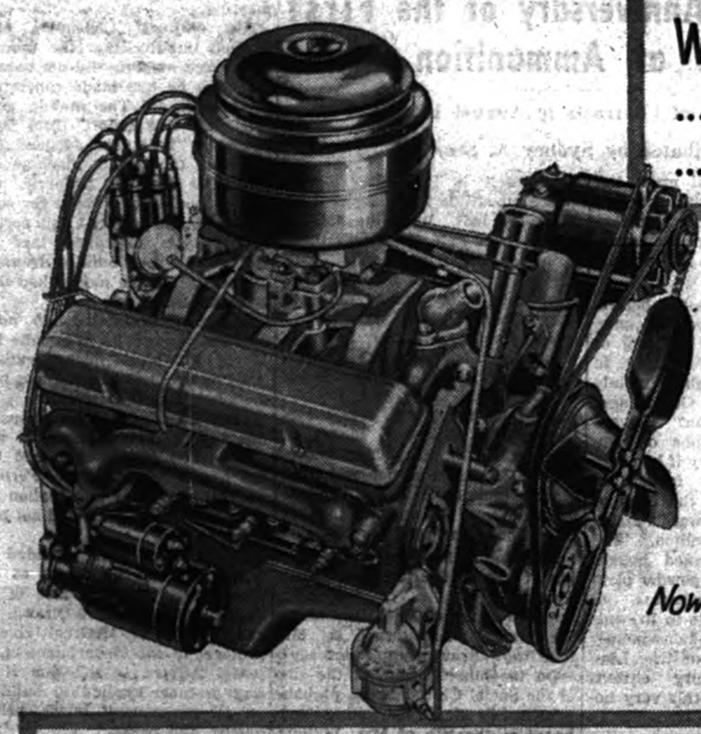

First naval vessel to circle North America is HMCS Labrador, which recently made its way through polar seas from Atlantic to Pacific. We're proud that the three specially built landing craft she carried to ferry men and supplies to Arctic shore bases were made of welded aluminum —and that they did the job.

Aluminum is active in the patrol and defence of our coasts, skies and northern wastes. So it is good to know that Canada is the world's second largest aluminum supplier with five producing plants in Quebec and British Columbia.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

Modern Pioneering

THE LATTER years of the 18th Century: "Roads there were none. The North River afforded communication between Lachute and St. Andrews, yet the rapids and other obstructions rendered frequent portages necessary. . . To reach St. Eustache, which, besides St. Andrews, was the only site of a mill or store, the early residents of La Chute travelled to St. Benoit, thence to Belle Rivière and from that place to St. Eustache . . . until a man named Uriah McNeal lost his cow, and by accident the neighbors found a shorter route . . . "

From "Thomas' History of Argenteuil" we might extract, in our haste, some more suitable passage to emphasize the point. But today, near the site of our earliest settler's encampment on the banks of the North River, they're carving an airport out of the rolling pastures and bush!

We've come a long way since the early pioneers — not in peace of mind, in courage or endurance — but in that attribute called Progress, which may honorably compare with their more hardy qualities: the initiative to apply our knowledge, equipment and resources in order to live better —— to love, to work, and to produce for human betterment.

Howbeit, we'd like to hear those old pioneers discussing the modes, methods and customs of their descendants; to see their reaction and record their thoughts as they survey this modern scene, where once they burned potash, raised their humble produce, and carried grain over sinuous miles to be ground at the mill.

Seeds of Tolerance

THEY'RE ON their way. Some of the 10,000 Scouts and leaders from more than 60 countries expected for the 8th World Jamboree have already arrived in Canada, others are on their way, while still others have yet to leave home. They're coming by ship and plane, by bus and train.

From this cosmopolitan gathering we may expect immeasurable things. Not tangible pacts, pledges or agreements, which at best are fragile instruments, easily broken. But a deeper friendliness and understanding, bred of a mutual interest, planted in the fertile soil of Youth. From this world assembly we may expect the roots of harmony to sprout and spread, in subsequent years, in far-flung lands. . . Such harmony as might readily be implanted in the younger citizens of this very community, but which generally speaking, is NOT. Many lost opportunities we witness in the attitudes of today, are lost for generations to come.

The World Scout Jamboree is a stirring of peace-promotion on a large scale. Much could be achieved by copying it in the smaller spheres of youthful activity.

Anthony Ewing, of Montreal, sums up the opinion of scores of essays submitted in a Bank of Nova Scotia contest on this theme: "Let us hope that some day the spirit of brotherhood among Scouts will pervade all mankind."

Version of 'Lighted School'

YOUNG people in rural villages and country towns for years have been drawn to the big cities in Canada as in older lands. Britain has found one answer to this in "village colleges".

Such schools were devised by Henry Morris, chief education officer for Cambridgeshire until his retirement, who preaches that adult education and recreation are as necessary as food and air, and so are the active practice and enjoyment of the arts.

In Cambridgeshire about 30 years ago most villages had a single school holding children of all ages up to 14. For older groups the scene was even bleaker. For all things they wanted to do, whether serious or gay, the village school building was pretty hopeless. And village halls were few, and mostly poor affairs.

So they started grouping villages for a larger school which served as a secondary school in the daytime and a community centre at night. They have found that some 70 per cent of the children, after they grew past school age and started to work, would return to these buildings in the evenings for adult classes, lectures or shows, concerts and social gatherings.

Since the end of the Second World War new emphasis has been given to establishment of such centres in Britain. The village and the small country town again are becoming self-sufficient social units.

Although these village colleges in new rural housing estates and the planned "New Towns" cost huge sums, they are a worthwhile investment. They foster vitality — the activity of body and mind, of emotion and feeling, both personally and in groups — that is the essence of adult education.

A community with these things enjoys the deepest satisfactions.

The varied activities afforded by such centres, says Mr. Morris, provide an antidote to one of the greatest dangers of modern life — "the pursuit of all kinds of passive mass-amusements which kill time rather than recreate".

Just Fishing !

BEING indifferent fishermen, unversed in tackles and the wiles and ways of the finny world, we had adopted without dispute the theory that fish were easily frightened. Along a quiet, sunlit creek, we assumed it was the proper thing to do, to approach stealthily towards some promising pool, letting our intrusion cast no shadow, nor our summer garb reflect unusual light.

Maybe that was Old Wives' stuff, and had no root in fact. Maybe they have learned more about piscatorial habits and, since our youthful fishing days, have changed their manner of approach. . . Shades of old Isaak Walton! How he would shudder at the latest development in underwater invasion!

Our columnist Joe Foster tells about it in a back-page article this week. And a Montreal Saturday edition told the story pictorially — swimmers with snorkels, goggles, frog's feet and home-made spears, showing the spoils of their submarine strategies. Fat bass fall prey to these sly human tactics (for which Quebec, it seems, provides no preventive legislation), and orthodox fishermen, with the shades of old Isaak, squirm again at the threat to sporting conventions.

But what about those old theories that fish were scared away by boats, human intruders and large-scale blots upon their landscape? This new method of attack would seem a direct contradiction. Maybe modern science and dime-store gadgets are busy again debunking the old-timers.

THE MOTORIST'S PRAYER

Grant me a steady hand and a watchful eye,
That no man will be hurt when I pass by;
Thou gavest life, and I pray no act of mine
May take away or mar that gift of Thine.
Shelter those, dear Lord, who bear me company
From the evils of fire and all calamity,
Teach me to use my car for other's need,
Nor miss through love of speed
The beauties of Thy world; that thus I may
With joy and courtesy go on my way.

CHEERILY and ungrudgingly the small town invests about half its total tax revenue in educational services. . . providing students with the implements by which they may play the role of good citizens. . . Panpsychic Theory, the Original American Religion

By Norman Thorburn

Of late I have heard many theologians, over the air and in the press, denounce this age for being an irreverent epoch in man's history.

They say people are making idols of the modern machines science has produced. This is an inquisitive age and all inquisitive ages have been irreverent ones.

This is no doubt true in part, but I believe man is still as God-fearing as ever. Children today do not go to school hungry as they did in the evil thirties. Droves of hungry, embittered men do not ride on railway cars as they did then. I have not seen a genuine tramp for years. Surely there must be some good in this era.

If this is not so, then we have sunk lower than the paganism of the Indians whose civilization the white man's superseded. The Indians of North America believed firmly in God, the Gitche Manitou.

Jean de Brébeuf was so impressed with this belief that he composed a carol to the Gitche Manitou, the Great Spirit of Nature. The stern-willed martyr Jean de Brébeuf was related to the Arundel family of England, being descended from the same Norman ancestor.

The Indian believed there was a manitou in every rock and tree, in every stream and mountain, in fact throughout all Nature. But all these psychical manifestations in Nature were but a reflection of the Gitche Manitou, God himself. To this very day many Indians still worship the Gitche Manitou as did their ancestors, especially the Onondagas of New York State, and even among the Mohawks of Caughnawaga a small band of Nature-worshippers exists.

This belief of the Indians — so similar to that of William Wordsworth, the Nature poet, who said 'our home is in God' — is called Panpsychism, and has been upheld by many modern philosophers.

William James, who has been called the greatest American thinker, said there is a reservoir of spirituality, a continuism of cosmic consciousness throughout the universe. Fechter believed that every atom had a dim awareness of its own existence.

A few years prior to World War II, a great boat was bearing Dr. Albert Einstein to America. As it neared the shores of that great land a group of New York's Jewry gathered in solemn conclave. The rabbinical hierarchy of New York debated. Should they welcome Einstein? At last, the chief rabbi spoke, "Does Dr. Einstein believe in God?" A message was sent to his ship. Einstein replied that he believed in God as did Baruch de Spinoza, the Amsterdam Jew of the 17th Century.

Spinoza believed that God alone existed. Man, having no permanency, could not be said to exist in God. There were two attributes of God, thought and extension, or mind and matter-energy. Thus, as a necessary corollary of this, we must believe that there is spirituality in matter, exactly as the savage Iroquois and Hurons intuitively believed.

As a youth, I was intensely interested to see two young doctors apply an electric current to the nerves of a dead frog's legs. The legs kicked spasmodically as if the frog was still alive. The same force supplied by the electric impulses from the frog's brain, kicked those legs while the frog was still alive. Even the brain of man has been compared to a complex wet-celled battery.

Many biologists today believe that life is a property of matter. If this is so, then spirituality is also a property of matter, as life contains spirituality.

Man is trying to create life in the test-tube, and just a few months ago two Chicago scientists — by passing an electric current through a mixture containing methane and ammonia gas, which existed in the earth's atmosphere millions of years ago — when life originated — succeeded in producing amino acid, a protein substance, synthetically for the first time.

Now protein is the very dress of life, if not life itself, so this is a startling advance in man's science. It proves beyond all doubt that life and electricity are intimately connected, that spirituality and material energy are intimately related. The sum total of spirituality in the universe must be God, and as Spinoza said, there are two attributes of God — thought and extension, or mind and material energy.

But the savage Iroquois knew this centuries ago, intuitively . . . The Indians did not quarrel over religion.

GUARANTEED ANNUAL WAGE

The guaranteed annual wage further widens the disparity in security in our economic system between those employed in the manufacturing industries and those engaged in the primary industries. No one has yet found a way to give a guaranteed annual wage to farmers, fishermen, trappers and the like without depriving them of their attractive freedom and putting them on the payroll.

Prizes! Prizes! Prizes! . . .

You can win a nice prize — with no difficulty, besides having a bit of fun.

HOW? Just figure out the answer to the problem below, and send or bring it to me not later than August 25.

To the prize you win will be added other premiums (as below), if you enclose with your answer a sales-slip of ours dated after July 31, 1955.

WHO CAN ENTER? Boys, girls, husbands (the Boss), wives (Top Boss), or anyone interested in dairy cattle.

In case of duplicate answers the earliest postmark will get the preference. Also, if the prize does not suit, we endeavor to exchange for one of equal value that is more suitable to you.

THE PRIZES		If a sales-slip of ours in enclosed:
1st, 2nd, 3rd	$10.00	$20.00
4th and 5th	60 lb. milk scale	A Milk Scale and Purina Apron or Jacknife
6th to 15th	A Purina Jack-knife	A Jacknife and Weighing Tape
16th to 40th	A Purina Apron	An Apron and a Checkerboard Pencil

THE PROBLEM

A salesman sold a dairyman on the 30-day Bulky Las feeding test. The dairyman had 25 cows milking, and that day they gave 710 lbs. milk. The salesman also taped the cows for body weight — the cows averaged, being in their fifth month of lactation.

After 30 days on Bulky Las the cows and milk were weighed again. This time the milk weighed 718 lbs. and the cows gained an average of 38.3 lbs. in body weight.

The dairyman received $4 per hundred for his milk, and could get 10c a pound live weight for his cows at a local packing plant.

Not exactly pleased, the dairyman said, "How am I going to pay for that $100 worth of Bulky Las with only 8 lbs. of milk?"

DID THIS DAIRYMAN ACTUALLY LOSE OR GAIN, AND HOW MUCH?

Your answer must not just say he lost or made. We want to know how much he lost or gained, and how you arrived at your solution.

• • •

Come on and try, as often as you like (only one prize per entrant). The prizes will be given even if answers are not all correct. Boys and girls, get your dad or mom to help you get some pin money or at least get you pencils for school. And remember, the early bird gets the worm. So get your answer on the way PROMPTLY.

The answer will be given in the August 25 issue of the Watchman. Look for it.

NOTE: The Bulky Las fed in this example, was given in addition to what the farmer was already using, and at the rate of approximately 3 lbs. per day per cow, and this is the only cost to be reckoned in his loss or profit on the deal.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Sir Beverley Baxter wants to have the statue of the Duke of Cambridge taken away from Whitehall in London and replaced by a statue of Alcock and Brown, the first men to fly the Atlantic.

He suggested it once before, but Britain's House of Commons gave the idea a cold reception.

He feels that London has too many statues of soldiers — particularly soldiers on horseback — and too few statues of scientists and humanitarians.

Not everyone shares his enthusiasm for graven images of past heroes, whose granite features frozen in attitudes of suffering and thought may serve only as a public convenience for pigeons.

However, if we must have statues, there is no reason why they should be confined to military men.

Canadians don't care much for statues. We have a few, but there is nothing in this country to match the serried ranks that appear in the Old World.

Some time ago a public-spirited man offered to ship an unwanted statue of Queen Victoria from Dublin, Ireland to the Canadian city which was named for the great Queen: Victoria, British Columbia.

The proposal was greeted by an outburst of indifference in the B.C. capital, and it was quietly shelved. As far as I know, the statue is still mouldering in a Dublin basement.

But Victoria already has one statue of that queen. It would be straining loyalty to display the late beloved sovereign in duplicate.

Canada is a nation that honors the Common Man and looks askance at exalted rank. For this reason, statutes of ordinary people might have more appeal.

We might have a statue of a man shaking his fist at a bus which he has just failed to catch — one of the great emotional scenes of our time. A sculptor might immortalize in stone the figure of a stranded motorist changing a tire, or a bootlegger delivering a bottle.

But perhaps sculpture is an old-fashioned art, since it lacks movement. Statues might have more charm if they were made to walk around in robot style, and speak by a built-in phonograph.

Imagine the surprise and pleasure of an American lady tourist if she turned to see Sir John A. Macdonald or Louis Riel doffing his hat and asking for a match.

THE CARTERS ARE LUCKIER THAN THEY KNOW!

Like all families, the Carters have plans and dreams for the future. But, unlike the families of just a generation ago, they have a better chance of making those dreams come true.

Why? One important reason is because life insurance is much more flexible today. During the past 25 years, many new policies have been created. The modern "family income" policy, for instance, provides maximum coverage while children are young, and reduces in amount as they become self-supporting. Other policies have been developed to cover mortgages, and to provide retirement income to fit in with the government old age security benefits.

This wider choice reflects just one of the ways in which life insurance companies and their representatives have adapted their services to the changing needs of Canadians in all walks of life! L-455D

Employm't Report; Harvesters Go On West Excursions

As is usual at this time of the year, the number of job seekers is at its minimum. G. A. Downing, manager of the National Employment Service in Lachute, reports that only 188 persons, in all Argenteuil County, are presently claiming Unemployment Insurance benefits. This figure compares favorably with that of a year ago, when 238 people were then receiving payments.

Claimants in the immediately surrounding district of Lachute, Brownsburg, Lachute Mills and Ayersville number only 102; this is considered as negligible, since there is always a certain percentage of the working poplation in the process of changing jobs, awaiting a recall by their former employer, or simply difficult to place in employment.

There are some 100 other persons seeking employment who are not claiming unemployment insurance. These people have either exhausted all their benefits or are saving them for the more critical winter months, or again, probably hope to regain employment in the very near future. Some also are already employed, but are attempting to find more suitable or more remunerative employment.

Mr. Downing advises that the National Employment Service ot Lachute is again sending experienced agricultural workers to the Prairie Provinces, to help in the harvesting of the grain crop. They are presently engaged in recruiting workers; the first group left for Winnipeg yesterday, and the second group this morning. Others will be organized as men become available during the next few weeks. Many farm workers who have completed their harvest in this locality, may wish to venture on this excursion; they may obtain more information by contacting the National Employment Office in Lachute.

Mr. Downing notes a lack of interest in the training program whereby presons, unemployed, may attend a course in practically any trade, at a school approved by the Unemployment Insurance Commission, and still receive their unemployment insurance benefits whilst training to become tradesmen. There exists a scarcity of qualified construction tradesmen, automobile mechanics, machinists and of many other trades. The Commission, in collaboration with the Canadian Vocational Training Plan, could succeed in satisfying the needs of more employers if the unemployed took this means of qualifying themselves for better positions, whilst drawing their weekly payments.

Travel Theme At Rotary Meet

NO WATER SHORTAGE REPORTED AT ROTARY COMMUNITY POOL

Rotarian Norm Somers was the speaker at last week's Rotary meeting, giving some highlights of his recent business trip to England, Scotland, Germany, France, Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

The speaker had made previous trips to the Old Country, but these, he stated, had always taken place during the winter, with the result he had found Scotland a rather forbidding country. This trip, however, had been made in the summer, and the Land of the Heather was most beautiful. He was able to find time to make a brief visit to the famed Isle of Arran, which is privately owned and where no modernization is permitted. Oxen are still used, and the hay and grain are cut with scythes.

One's first impression of Norway is that it looks exactly like Eastern Canada, heavily wooded with the same kinds of trees, and many lakes and streams. The people are wonderfully hospitable but very formal. Meals are important events which take at least two hours. Wines are served at each course. One particular meal lasted four hours, with two servings of each course.

Much of the travelling done in Norway is by boat. Business men commute by boat in the famous fjords. There are parking places at the piers, much the same as our automobile parking lots.

The speaker had an opportunity to inspect one of the ancient Viking ships. These were first discovered about 1850 as burial mounds of the kings of olden times. They are about 150 feet long and wonderfully well constructed.

Norm Somers was introduced by King Amos and thanked by Tom Hall.

It was reported at the meeting that there was now an ample supply of water at the swimming pool. An auxiliary engine had been installed at the Brownsburg Lumber Co. plant, so that, for the balance of the summer at least, no more water will be used for power purposes. The Club is deeply grateful to Leopold Carriere and other directors of this company for their co-operation in this respect. The community park and swimming pool has been in great demand this year, and the fact that there will now be plenty of water will be greatly appreciated, especially by the scores of children who make constant use of these facilities.

Triple Baptism At Summer Cottage

In the summer community of Lake Louisa, an interesting ceremony took place on Monday when Peter William Cobon, David Henry Cobon and Linda Louise Cobon, children of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Cobon, Toronto, were baptized by the Rev. Wilson Bridge, minister of the Lachute United Church. The ceremony took place at the home of Mr. Wm. J. Deacon.

The children, Peter William and David Henry, (twins), were born September 3, 1950, and Linda Louise on July 23, 1954.

Following the ceremony, Mrs. Cobon (the former Louise Deacon) served a delicious supper to mark the occasion. Out-of-town guests, besides her father Mr. Deacon, were Mrs. Hester Hunt, the Rev. and Mrs. Wilson Bridge and their son, Alexander.

Memories of Old Brownsburg

Mr. MacAllister owned a house close to Charlie Neveu's behind the Convent, and Mr. Hutchin, a stone house at the Quarry (Mount Maple).

The Company owned a boarding house near the present site, where the staff and technicians (mostly Americans) lived.

Electric lights were installed in the factory in 1889. (Imagine an explosives plant having used oil for lighting!)

The telephone came in 1890 — not in general use, of course.

One well and a few springs served the community.

Church was well attended three times each Sunday. This was the social event of the week, and served the community well.

In contrast to the fabulous standard of living today let us look at wages in those good old days: 4 and 5 cents an hour for girls and women; 5 cents an hour for boys; 6 and 7 cents an hour for men. Some skilled mechanics from the U.S.A. were paid up to 17 cents an hour! Hours were 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. for a 10-hour day.

Board for a month was $8 or $10 for girls and women and $12 for men.

It is difficult to visualize the Brownsburg of that time — with no electricity, no phones, no cars, no running water, no sewerage, no streets, no oil furnaces, no doctor, no dentist, one store, no deliveries — hardly even a neighbor. Do we have it tough now, when we are not allowed to water our lawns — this driest summer on record?

It is pleasantly surprising to find three of the employees from 1888 still alive: Mrs. Ben Reynolds (the former Mary Jane Graves, sister of Henry) now 87 and living in Worcester, Mass.; also Mr. Robert Moore, in Alberta, and Mr. William Mott, in Saskatchewan.

(My grateful thanks to Mr. Henry Graves for the information set down here. Henry's brother was born on August 25, 1885, which was recorded in the family bible along with the information stating that on this day the factory whistle blew for the first day of ammunition manufacturing. . . . "The Explosives Industry in North America" also served as a reference.)

In 1867 some of the names that were considered for the new Dominion of Canada were Laurentia, New Britain, Cabotia, Columbia Brittanica, Boretta, Mesopelagia and Ursalia.

MIST ON THE RIVER

By Ethel Kettyle

Mist covers the river,
Like a gossamer shroud,
And the pale moon shines down
From behind a dark cloud.

The boats are moored safely
Along the damp shore
Where all is so silent,
Not the sound of an oar.

The leaves drenched with dampness
Softly hang from the trees,
While ghostlike and eerie
Comes the sound of a breeze.

Lights shine in the distance,
All reflected close by,
And a night-hawk swoops down
From high up in the sky.

Across the grey waters
Tolls a bell far away,
The sound of the curfew,
At the close of the day.

Bible Briefs

By A.A.M.

The Bible is rich in stories, and the purpose of this series is to encourage readers to look up for themselves the Bible versions of these incidents. If there are children in the family it is suggested that the story, and the Bible verses on which it is based, be read aloud.

What was the name of the prophet of Israel who had a wonderful vision of God in the year that King Uzziah died?

He saw the Lord, sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled the temple. Above Him stood the seraphim, each with six wings. Two wings covered his face, two covered his feet and with two he flew. One called to the other, "Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of hosts; the whole earth is full of his glory".

When he spoke the foundations shook and the house was filled with smoke. Then the prophet cried out, "Woe is me! For I am lost; for I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips; my eyes have seen the King, the Lord of hosts!"

In response to this confession, one of the seraphims flew to him. In his hand was a burning coal which he had taken from the altar. He put it on the prophet's mouth, saying "Behold, this has touched your lips; your guilt is taken away, and your sin forgiven."

Then the prophet heard the voice of the Lord saying, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?"

The prophet immediately volunteered, "Here I am! Send me!" The Lord answered, "Go and say to this people the message which I will give to you."

The Future World Kingdom

Tune
"When the mists have rolled away."
(8 & 8)

When our Lord descends in splendour
To ascend His earthly throne,
And all nations come to render,
Rights which are all His alone,
Then the world will glow with gladness,
In its first Edenic way,
When the source of human sadness,
Has been severed from his prey.

Chorus:-
Christ alone, will then be known,
As the Monarch on Earth's throne,
Over all is His dominion,
And He reigns from shore to shore,
Where none question His opinion,
And where strife is known no more.

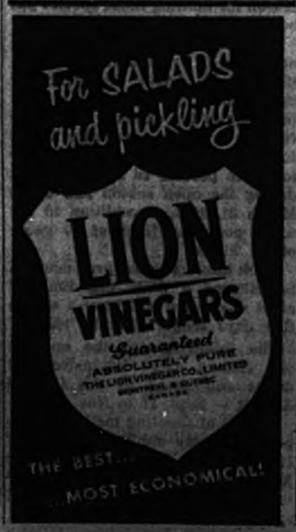

Peace shall then come to all people,
In that grand Millennial day,
Bells will ring in every steeple,
Calling citizens to pray,
And acknowledge their allegiance,
Unto Him who gave His life,
That because of His obedience,
They are freed from earthly strife.

Hills and mountains will be gaily clad,
With lovely fragrant trees,
The fields will wave their golden plumes,
When trembling in the breeze,
Enchanting glens and valleys,
Will God's wondrous skill display,
When our Saviour in His Palace,
In this world has come to stay.

Lovely flowers in gilded gardens,
Will refresh the atmosphere,
Rivers keeping in their channels,
Flow with music sweet and clear,
And the little lamb with lion,
Will together romp and play,
When Messiah reigns in Zion,
In the long Millennial day.

Then prosperity and righteousness,
Shall in the world increase,
And abolished will be all distress,
When reigns the Prince of Peace,
For in all His Kingdom will be done,
His Heavenly Father's will,
The King of earth shall humbly own,
That Christ is Conqueror still.

Outdoor Roundup
with Joe Foster

This past week-end we visited with some friends who have a cottage on one of the many popular resort lakes scattered throughout the Laurentians. This lake was developed as a family summer resort quite a number of years ago, so that today there is scarcely room for another cottager. Nine miles long, a winding shore line and dotted with islands, it still provides ample water space for the enjoyment of fishing, sailing, water skiing and power boating. Ah, power boating. A lazy fellow I — why exert yourself, when with one or two pulls on the starter of an outboard, you can speed from cottage to supply store for extra groceries, or troll for deep-feeding lunkers of the finny tribe.

Where Are Their Manners?

Today there is hardly any body of water, large or small, whose surface isn't being constantly churned to a froth by an ever-increasing throng of irresponsible and speed-crazy characters, whose thoughtlessness and carelessness menaces the safety and peaceful enjoyment of these same waters by the more sober-minded vacationist. Reg Fife, writing in a recent issue of "Rod & Gun", hit the nail on the head when he said: "The water, traditionally, is a place where men show the utmost politeness to each other. Seldom do you pass another boat and not acknowledge or give a greeting. Everyone on the water is your friend — neither he nor you knows which of you is going to need help and when. But this new crop of boating enthusiasts haven't had their boats long enough to realize the significance or the responsibility attached to that friendliness on the water."

A Tightening-Up

With the mounting trend towards speed on the water, we can look for a tightening of the regulations of the Canada Shipping Act, which governs the operation of small boats powered by outboards of more than 10 horsepower. In the past the enforcement of these regulations has been left pretty well up to local authorities. Generally speaking, this has resulted in little if any enforcement, and it now looks as though the federal authorities will have to step into the picture.

Mounties Active

Around where we live there is already evidence that something is being done, and the Mounties have been quite active on the waters of Lake St. Louis and the Ottawa River, Lake of Two Mountains area. Patrols are checking boat owners and advising them in no uncertain terms that the regulations must be complied with, which means that all boats powered with 10 horsepower or more must be properly licensed under the Canada Shipping Act. Boat operators are also being cautioned that they are required to carry adequate life-saving equipment. I am sure that every good sportsman will welcome this tightening up, and co-operate willingly. Just how and when the federal people can get around to checking the smaller resort lakes throughout Ontario and Quebec, I wouldn't know. I would think, though, that through a combination of local authority and the provincial fish and game departments, something might and should be done.

On Making Duck Decoys

The greater part of the army of men who go duck shooting may not know it, but the designing, carving and painting of duck decoys has come to quite a hobby. The author of one of the latest books on the subject, Eugene V. Connett, is not only a well-known sportsman, but he and a fellow called Joel Barber have always been considered authorities on the art of making duck decoys. There have been many articles written on the subject, but this is the first book to be published giving scaled patterns, color designs for painting, and all other information needed to turn out some 32 different duck species. You will also find ample instructions for rigging them, so that they will rest naturally on the water. You do not make duck decoys to save money, because you can buy them more cheaply than you can make them. It is a most interesting hobby with a surprising number of devotees. The author is a charming gentleman, a sportsman of the old school, and a noted editor. You will enjoy his many references to the history of duck decoys. It is published by the D. Van Nostrand Co. Inc., of New York.

Duck Season Extended Earlier Opening Date

Quebec bird hunters will be shooting earlier this year. Canadian Wildlife Service of the Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources announced migratory bird hunting regulations for the 1955 season which indicate in all Quebec hunting districts the season on ducks, geese, rails, coots and gallinules will open earlier than last year. What's more, the season for hunting these species has been lengthened by five days.

The extended season has brought no change in bag and possesion limits, though. Again this year the greater snow goose, which has been fattening at the expense of Quebec farmers will be a favorite target for sportsmen. Hunters will be allowed to possess 10 of these birds during the open season and up to March 31, 1956, in addition to the usual possesion limit of 10 geese of all kinds.

Duck hunters in the province will be allowed a daily bag limit of eight ducks and will have a season five days longer than in 1954.

The following are the opening and closing dates (inclusive) for ducks and geese in the Central district — Sept. 17 to Nov. 25.

Details of shooting methods, weapons, etc., are similar to those of 1954 and will be published in the Migratory Regulations and on posters before the beginning of the open season.

HAS HAD ENOUGH OF LAKE ONTARIO

—Central Press Canadian

Shirley Campbell, the girl from Fergus, Ont., who came within two miles of swimming Lake Ontario, is ready to try the Strait of Juan de Fuca, on the west coast. Well rested after her 38-mile attempt that came so close to victory, she is ready for another swim—but preferably not Lake Ontario again.

Hockey Stability

SPORTS CAMERA

By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Here's a bit of advice for young hockey fans: Don't let the old-timers fool you with their contention that players in recent years aren't the hardy, durable types they produced "in the good old days".

Sure, there are lots of players who make the higher professional leagues for only one season — or even only part of a season — and then are discarded because of their lack of ability. But is was the same in the old days. And it will be the same in the future.

But the record of the most consecutive seasons in the National Hockey League is held by a "modern day" player — Aubrey (Dit) Clapper, who lasted for 20 years. Clapper, who now operates a sporting goods store in Peterborough, Ont., joined Boston Bruins in the 1927-28 season as a high scoring forward and wound up as a capable defenceman — still with the same club — after the 1946-47 campaign.

And the record for professional hockey's most durable performer undoubtedly goes to Erhardt (Ott) Heller, an iron-man product of Kitchener, Ont., whose travels were spread over 26 years with six teams.

A bruising six-foot, 195-pound defenceman, Ott broke into the pro game with Springfield of the old Canadian-American Hockey League in 1929 and less than two years later was with New York Rangers of the NHL. He was the main cog in their rearguard set-up for 15 years — a club record — before shifting to St. Paul of the now-defunct United States Hockey League.

His next step was New Haven of the American Hockey League and then Indianapolis in the same loop where he was playing-coach. Three years ago he joined the AHL's Cleveland Barons as assistant to coach Bun Cook and kept his record intact by playing five games in 1953 and one game the last two seasons.

Ott was back in the news again recently when it was announced he will coach Chatham Maroons of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A series. Heller celebrated his 45th birthday last June but don't bet that he won't see action in a few games to prolong his streak.

Baseball Bonus Bust

The extent to which major league baseball teams are going to obtain promising — but untested — young players was illustrated early this month by Baltimore Orioles of the American Leageu.

The Orioles announced they were throug with John Swango, an 18-year-old pitcher who was promised $36,000. The bonus youngster from Oklahoma never pitched a ball in major league competition but he has a guaranteed income of $12,000 for the next three years — that's how the bonus was to be paid.

The Orioles signed Swango — through with John Swango, an 18-from one of their scouts who was awed by his fast ball. However, he couldn't master the curve ball, attempts to develop a slider pitch gave him arm trouble and his fast one was wild.

So Baltimore apparently is out $36,000. They can get out of paying some of it in the unlikely event that some other major league team is willing to take a chance on him.

Germans call Canadian troops "rowdies". Which is an improvement over what they called us during the reconquest of Europe.

Lady Golfers Enjoying Active Season

The Bronze Division of the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union will hold a field day at the Lachute Golf and Country Club on Friday, August 12, with clubs from the Montreal area participating. Nine Lachute lady golfers will be competing.

The Hawkesbury Golf Club entertained eight ladies from Lachute on August 4. Among the prize-winners were Mrs. Doris Fraser, Mrs. Jean MacKimmie, Miss Edith McOuat and Mrs. E. Raymond.

Fourteen girls have reduced their handicaps over the past few weeks. Mrs. Joyce Stephens is down to 15 from 18; Mrs. Denise Tattersfield has cut six strokes off her handicap, from 32 to 26; and Mary Ruth MacKimmie is using every playing hour of her holidays to improve her game.

With 16 qualifying Wednesday for the Ayers Cup Club Championship matches, the girls will start the first round this week.

On Tuesday, August 16, the Lachute ladies have been invited to play golf and lunch at the Dunany Club.

Archer Entered For Labatt Pro Tournament

Canadian pros are going to take a bigger slice of Canada's biggest golf purse, in the Labatt Open this year. That is the opinion of C.P.G.A. officials, who see the inducement of big prizes beginning to show results.

With the Labatt Open and its $26,800 purse just a fortnight away, to date about 40 of Canada's best golfers are filed for the tournament including Lachute's Jack Archer. About twice that number of American pros — including the winners of virtually every big tournament this year — are entered.

Staff Tournament Held at Golf Club

The Lachute Golf and Country Club staff tournament was won by Alcide Sauvé on the 18th hole, when he sank a 25-foot put to better Howard Morrison's score by one.

The finals were held Monday for this tournament, which has been in progress during the past two weeks.

Colford Softballers Blank Molson's 5-0

Last Sunday Jean Guy Larocque pitched a one-hitter against Molson's of Lachute. This was also Larocque's second straight shut-out. Vern Poirier and Pat Patterson each picked up three hits for the winners. Paul Paquette was the losing pitcher, lasting only three innings. Champagne took over from there and allowed only one run, this being in the sixth inning.

Next Sunday Colford's Lodge plays a double-header — first game at 2 p.m. against Shamrocks, of Montreal, and second at 6 p.m. against Molson's, of Lachute.

The wife was an inveterate back-seat driver. One day the car stalled on some railroad tracks. "Go ahead! Go ahead!" she shouted. "Get this car off the tracks!"

This was the straw that broke the camel's back.

Reviewing Performance Of B'burg Baseballers At End of Schedule

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg—Last week Brownsburg toppled the league-leading Montebello team, in the season's last league game. In so doing, they squared off their record at five games won and five lost. This is a creditable performance when you consider that, since the first-game shellacking, all the wins were convincing and the losses all by only one run.

Yves Raymond has emerged as the over-all batting star, with an average better than 500. He climaxed the season in the last game four-for-four when he tripled, homered, and singled twice after walking in the first inning. Yves scored the winning run when Keith Hazel singled him home after his eighth inning triple.

Keith Hazel, who has been a stalwart at third base, is proving himself at bat now, being particularly useful to the manager by sacrificing and mastering the complicated hit-and-run and run-and-hit plays.

Ouellette, the Racine boys, Steele and Gratton were expected to be good, and they haven't disappointed. Gilles Diotte, who is a bit weaker at bat, is playing excellent first base, making the long stretch in all directions and invariably coming up with the ball.

On the mound we managed the season with just two hurlers. Ronald Cousineau has been the more effective, pitching three masterful games. Karl Gagné has been as good as Cousineau, but not as consistent. However, between them they represent quite a pitching staff.

Behind the plate Charley Mosely has played quite a few excellent games. At bat Charley's average is nothing startling, but he has delivered a few good, timely hits to spark rallies. Manager Jimmy Murdoch and Yves Raymond too have caught several good games.

Couchiching Conference Gets Under Way

When Geneva Park at Lake Couchiching in Ontario was named, the Swiss city was in everyone's mind — a focal point for the hopes of mankind. For a long time the name appeared outmoded, but each year Geneva Park was the scene of a new meeting of students of international affairs.

The 24th such conference will be held August 13-20. The theme is: "The dangers we face — and what we can do about them". Prominent citizens and visitors from other countries will engage in a week-long series of lectures and discussions, aimed at promoting a deeper understanding of world affairs. And for the fourth consecutive year the CBC will co-operate with the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs by broadcasting part of each evening session on the Trans-Canada network.

The first broadcast session will be on the implications of the atomic age — 8-9 p.m. on Saturday, August 13. The main speaker will be E. W. R. Steacie, president of the National Research Council. There will be comment by Brigadier-General T. R. Phillips, who corresponds from Washington for the St. Louis Post Dispatch, and the chairman will be Neil M. Morrison, director of audience research for the CBC and for many years a familiar voice on "Citizens' Forum."

Next week, from Sunday to Friday inclusive, there will be further broadcasts starting at 8 p.m. each evetning. The topics are: "Co-existence — why and how?"; "Is the free world shrinking?" "Military power: insurance for peace?"; "Nationalism and colonialism"; "Trade and prosperity: what are the prospects for Canada and the free world?"; and "The atomic age and the minds of men".

Winners of Boy Scout Essay Contest for Trip to Jamboree

Twin 15-year-olds, Peter and Paul Empsall of Montreal, were among 50 Boy Scout essay winners in a nation-wide contest sponsored by the Bank of Nova Scotia. They will get free trips to the Jamboree.

The names of the Quebec Boy Scouts who have won all-expense paid trips to the Eighth World Jamboree, at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., August 18-28, were announced recently by G. Robley Mackay, Provincial Commissioner, Boy Scouts Association.

These Quebec Scouts are among 50 winners from across Canada in an essay contest sponsored by the Bank of Nova Scotia in co-operation with the Boy Scouts Association. The bank will pay transportation and all expenses of ten days at the Jamboree for these Scout winners.

Selected on the basis of the best essays submitted on "What It Means To Be A Boy Scout", the winners in Quebec Province were:

For English essays — Peter and Paul Empsall, 15, Montreal; Morley Bruce Cockerline, 16, Bedford, Que.; Anthony Ewing, 15, Montreal.

Quebec winners for French essays were — Claude Guerin, 15, Lauzon, Que.; Vincent Talbot, 16, Quebec City; Pierre Laroche, 16, Three Rivers; Guy Perreault, 16, Joliette.

"We conducted this essay contest because we realized how much attendance at the Jamboree could mean to a Canadian Boy Scout," said a bank spokesman. "The essays themselves certainly warranted the project".

Their enthusiasm for the Scout movement and their pride that Canada is host this year to the world-wide Jamboree are evidenced by these Boy Scout essayists. Anthony Ewing of Montreal summed up an opinion expressed in scores of the essay entries. He said: "Let us hope that some day the spirit of brotherhood among Scouts will pervade all mankind."

For Different Vacation — Go Camping!

Looking for a different way to spend your holiday week-ends or vacation? Carol Lane, women's travel authority, suggests you go camping. Millions of people have done it in the past 10 years and found it fun.

Miss Lane points out that camping is inexpensive. You can even rent equipment. It is stimulating and relaxing and despite popular misconception, it isn't necessary to really "rough it" on a camping trip. Government parks and forests offer many home-like comforts — ready-made fireplaces, tables, benches, tent sites, plumbing facilities, safe water supplies and deliveries of wood.

To make camp life even more simple and comfortable, it is suggested you take along such useful extras as nested pots and pans for cooking, a flashlight, a first-aid kit in case of emergencies, a roll of aluminum foil for wrapping food and cooking it over hot coals, as well as a shovel and a hatchet for a hundred and one outdoor uses.

Well-Won Retirement, Former Local Girl 35 Years With G.M.

The General Motors employees' bulletin records the recent retirement of Miss K. Frances McGibbon after 35 years in the Engineering Department of that Company, having joined the Detroit office in the Patent Section January 13, 1919.

Miss McGibbon—born in Brownsburg, a great-granddaughter of Major George Brown, founder of that village — is a graduate of Lachute Academy, and also attended business college before embarking on her business career. She is a sister of S. Wyman McGibbon, Lachute.

She has been a popular member of the Patent Office staff, and at one of several parties given in her honor, she was presented with a TV set.

One of Frances' favorite pastimes is writing poetry, and her fellow employees, who have delighted in her poetic talent, also presented her with a copyrighted volume of her poems. Among this collection, which comes to our hand, we select with interest a tribute to her departed boss and friend, Lloyd Blackmore, a Canadian who was for many years chief of the GM Corporation's Patent Section . . .

Lloyd Blackmore

From the land to the north he came down here
To make his home and carve his career;
Always said he was lucky, — would be to the end.
How quiet the passing of our best friend!

He would rather be home in the familiar scene
Than travel afar, where others have been;
How strange he should live his very last day
In an alien clime so far away!

A bit impatient with rule and letter,—
He wanted to change things and make them better;
Had an eye for color and an ear for tone.
What varied themes were his alone?

The many who knew him never forgot,
Some in high places, some poor in lot;
The barber is saddened, the waitress weeping,
The wealthy friend a mass is keeping.

The long week is ending, arrangements are made;
The Dean will take charge, the words will be said.
All is now hushed and we whisper here;
But he liked folks to speak plain and clear.

The firm clasp of his hand, the hearty laughter;
What really goes on in the great Hereafter?
A pal of the old days went just before;
Are they now swapping stories as of yore?

After calling unsuccessfully for the tenth day in a row at the Brown residence, the bill collector became exasperated. "Look here," he snapped to the undisturbed Brown, "I'm tired of coming back here day after day to get you to pay up this delinquent account. Now, I insist you set a definite date."

"That's fine," answered Brown agreeably, "suppose you call on Tuesdays?"

Prom Concert

On CBC radio and television from Toronto's Varsity Arena every Thursday night comes the Promenade Concert. Heinz Unger, one of the guest conductors for this summer entertainment, receives the applause of the audience while the TV cameras catch the action for viewers at home. The concerts will continue through Sept. 15, and are heard on the Trans-Canada network.

The appearance of the Presbyterian Church has been greatly enhanced by the new granolithic walk which has just been completed and presented by Mr. J. W. Cottingham.

Last Thursday, an Italian engaged in the Quarries at Brownsburg was crushed behind a huge piece of granite weighing between four and five tons. Medical aid was at once secured, but Drs. Menzies and Christie found that the poor fellow was too weak to be operated on, and a few hours after he died in great agony.

Last Friday morning around 8.30, Geo. Y. Deacon saw a body floating in the waters of the North River near Fish's Bridge and, securing a boat, he brought it to shore. There was no clue to identity, and following a coroner's inquest and investigation, a verdict was rendered that "there was no evidence of accidental death or drowning by suicide". Information has later come to light that the unfortunate fellow was a Mr. Malette of St. Andrews East.

The official majority for Sir George Perley in the recent Federal elections has been announced by Notary Gaëtan Valois as being 769.

Warm Weather Meal Suggestions

Summer is the time when the family is apt to be what the French call "grincheux", meaning not in very good humor. But no wonder, for the hot weather dulls appetites and nothing seems to taste quite right. This makes summer an extra busy time for mother, because it is up to her to provide the appetite-provoking dishes to tempt the family.

Actually summer's food treasures are far from limited and many can even be classed as party fare. Tiny chicks hatched in the spring have a special plumpness about them now that makes them a real treat. An abundance of garden fresh vegetables are flooding both grocery stores and vegetable markets now. So this is the time to satisfy those longings for fresh green peas, golden butter beans, snowy white cauliflower, brussel sprouts, broccoli and all the other fresh vegetables now plentiful. Fresh fruit is flavorful and juicy at this time of year. Melons are at their best along with apricots, blackberries, cherries, blueberries, plums and many other fruits.

Although crisp cold foods are often more tempting when the thermometer climbs it is a good idea to serve several hot foods each day. Few people want hot heavy meals in warm weather but neither do they want completely cold ones. The home economists of the Consumer Section feel that a hot dish with each meal is not only better for everyone but that it is also more satisfying. For some reason a completely cold dinner often proves disappointing, as if there was something missing.

No matter how very hot the day turns out to be it is mother's responsibility to serve tempting foods for the family without wondering what to cook at the last minute and without cooking herself in the process. From experience she knows that well planned meals and grocery lists will make frequent summer shopping trips for fresh fruits and vegetables less of a chore. She will also find it easier on torrid days to choose simple, easy to prepare dishes that are made ready early in the day while the kitchen is still cool. Whether it be a tasty casserole dish or some freshly baked cherry tarts they can be stored in the refrigerator until nearly serving time.

A top favorite in summer, particularly with the younger ones in the family, is a juicy chickenburger tucked in between the split halves of a golden toasted bun. Chicken patties served this way are perfect team mates for crisp green cabbage slaw blended with a thick sour cream dressing. For dessert what could be better than a bowl of fresh fruit with cream and a piece of feathery light sponge cake? Those people lucky enough to have a freezer can make sponge and angel cakes on a cooler day and freeze them for use when it is too hot to bake.

Chicken à la King in crisp toast cups is always a welcome lunch or supper for both mother and family. With the toast cups prepared ahead of time it is quick and easy to make. For dessert fruit pie or shortcake is sure to please.

When hot weather dispels all zeal for cooking then it is time to make use of summer's tender fresh vegetables and ripe colorful fruits. What better way to do this than to serve cool, crisp tempting salad plates which add a magic touch that makes any meal delicious and a treat to eat. Sprigs of deep green watercress, red tomato wedges and slices of cucumber which are often used as garnishes at other times of the year can be enjoyed now in larger quantities. For example, whole vine-ripened stuffed tomatoes or cucumber boats are delicious served on a bed of watercress.

This is the time to make use of a variety of cold cuts and a supply of canned cold meats, fish or chicken will often come in handy when a hurry up lunch or supper has to be prepared. Any of them make a delicious plate served with a medley of sparkling garden fresh greens, tomatoes and cucumbers, lightly tossed with a tangy piquant dressing. Cold sliced chicken, ham or salami combine well with potato salad, green onions and red radishes.

A simple buffet supper of easily prepared help-yourself foods is another answer to the summer meal problem. Cold meats, cheese slices, stuffed eggs and a large variety of other salad makings can be featured with different kinds of buttered breads or warm rolls and a bowl of fresh fruit to complete the meal.

A Bouquet On Your Plate

What is prettier to look at or nicer to eat than an attractive plate of well-cooked and perfectly seasoned summer vegetables! They are so fresh and plentiful right now that everyone can serve and enjoy a couple of vegetable plate dinners each week. Vegetables alone, however, do not give perfect balance to a meal, say the home economists of the Department of Agriculture. Some protein food should always be included and this might be cheese sauce, grated cheese, a little cold or hot meat, fish or eggs.

It is important to remember that the vegetables should be cooked until just tender and the seasonings chosen to accentuate the natural flavor of the vegetables. Garnishes should be used sparingly and only those which enhance the beauty of the plate, both in appearance and flavor, should be selected. Each of these vegetable plates and platters has been designed by the Consumer Section to give an attractive medley of colors, textures and flavors.

Large floweret of cauliflower completely covered with cheese cheese sauce, a generous portion of green beans, a medium serving of buttered beets and three or four small parsley potatoes.

A quarter of head of broccoli, two or three little white onions, a serving of beets cut in strips and marinated with French dressing, a serving of fried potatoes and a cob of corn.

Five or six Brussels sprouts, a serving of Harvard beets, a little bunch of shallots, sautéed mushrooms and creamed potatoes.

Hot potato salad, slices of parsnip seasoned with a pinch of nutmeg, buttered green beans surrounding a stuffed tomato.

A serving of green peas with savory butter, a serving of glazed carrot sticks, five or six flowerets of cauliflower with "maitre d'hôtel" butter (butter with chopped parsley and a little vinegar or lemon juice added), a serving of oyster plant (salsify) sprinkled with grated cheese, a peeled tomato cut into thick slices and stewed for two or three minutes.

A sweet red pepper stuffed with corn, a serving of braised celery, a serving of leeks, English style (boiled leeks with butter), and green beans cut French style.

Whole cauliflower covered with cream sauce surrounded by peas in mashed potato cups and carrot fingers in between. Or cauliflower with Hollandaise sauce surrounded by alternate mounds of corn kernels, whole green beans, whole small beets, peas, carrot fingers and Brussels sprouts. Or cauliflower with egg sauce surrounded by minted green peas and, on the outside, a ring of boiled or Harvard beets.

Mound of mashed potatoes or yellow turnips in centre and around it, tomatoes filled with peas and corn. A border of parsley for garnish.

Spinach ring filled with small buttered potatoes and flanked by whole carrots and yellow beans arranged alternately. Accents of parsley and pimiento for color contrast.

Canadian vegetable hash is made from several vegetables. First there is an onion to assure good flavor, potatoes to give body to the mixture, then celery, carrots, sweet pepper, all cut only large enough that they can be cooked quickly and not so small that they will lose their identity in the cooking. A little liquid may be required. It is traditional to serve the hash sprinkled with hard-cooked eggs which have been put through a sieve and surrounded by little cheese croutons cut in triangles.

CHICKEN CORN PIE LEADS FOOD-FASHION PARADE

Anne Marshall

A new recipe like a new hat "sets a woman up", especially when it proves a hit with the whole family. A dish to prove the point is Chicken Corn Pie.

Now's a good time to use golden kernels fresh from the cob, but canned corn is fine year 'round. Tender chunks of chicken, left from Sunday dinner or poured from a can add flavor. And a luscious sauce, smooth and "chicken-wonderful", comes ready-prepared in a can of condensed cream of chicken soup. Make pastry from your favorite recipe, or speed up the job with a prepared mix. Then the pie bakes for an hour while you attend to other tasks.

Pass spicy bread and butter pickles and tiny white onions with the chicken corn pie. A tossed vegetable salad of lettuce, carrot rounds, radish chips, and tomato chunks adds its flair to the dinner.

Complete the parade with homemade ice cream. Make it with fresh cherries or peaches, and pass chocolate chip cookies to munch with it. When the family gets a taste of this scrumptious meal, they'll declare it's a style to adopt.

CHICKEN CORN PIE

1 small onion, chopped
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed cream of chicken soup
1 cup diced cooked chicken
1 cup cooked whole kernel corn
1 package (9-ounces) pie crust mix or enough pastry for a 2-crust pie.

Cook onion in butter; blend with soup, chicken and corn. Roll half of pastry dough on floured board and line a 9-inch pie pan; pour in chicken filling. Roll remaining pastry into circle; place on top of filling; pinch edges together and make several slits in top to allow steam to escape. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) about 1 hour. 4 generous servings.

A Refreshing Effect

There's nothing quite like a frosty glass of iced tea or coffee for a mid-afternoon snack. And old-fashioned oatmeal cookies are the perfect accompaniment for that refreshing drink. Oatmeal Cookies made by the refrigerator method are a simple way to solve the problem of summer refreshments, and they're wonderful to have on hand when company arrives unexpectedly. These slightly crisp cookies can be kept for weeks in an air-tight container. They're ideal as a dessert with fresh fruit, for in-between snacks, after school or just before bed-time.

Oatmeal Refrigerator Cookies

1 Cup butter or margarine, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup brown sugar (firmly packed), 2 eggs (well beaten), 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 cups quick-cooking rolled oats.

Use two ungreased 17 x 11 inch-baking sheets. Cream butter or margarine until fluffy. Gradually blend in granulated sugar and brown sugar, and cream together thoroughly, until fluffy and well blended. Blend in beaten eggs and vanilla. Sift together all-purpose flour, baking powder and salt. Blend into creamed mixture. Add rolled oats and blend thoroughly. Shape into three rolls about 1½ - 2 inches in diameter. Wrap in wax paper and chill in the refrigerator several hours or overnight. Preheat oven to 400 deg. F. With a sharp knife, cut rolls into slices ¼ - ⅓ inch thick and place on ungreased baking sheets. Bake in preheated oven 8 to 10 minutes. Makes 60 to 70 cookies.

BRIDE'S FIRST NEED IS GOOD COOK BOOK

Ottawa (CP) — Young brides facing the kitchen stove for the first time needn't get panicky, says the agriculture department's consumer section.

"Very few women are born good cooks but anyone can become one," the section says in its weekly bulletin.

The first step is to collect good recipes. A good cook book is essential, but no doubt the bride will want to include some hand-me-downs from mother in her collection.

Then she must keep in mind that cooking for two persons only, represents some special problems. Most recipes are written to serve four or six, so she has to cut them in half or by third to avoid large quantities of left-overs.

She should provide herself with a good set of measuring spoons and a measuring cup, and stock her gitchen with a good supply of staples, dairy products, meats, fish, fruits and vegetables.

Shopping is another hurdle which can be solved by careful planning. "To be a thrifty shopper in today's serve yourself food stores, it is important to decide what is to be bought and to prepare a list before starting out to shop."

Buy foods in quantity if there is storage space for them and shop around various stores for the best quality and best prices, the section adds.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Clothes, it has been said, make the man. Clothes also can make or break the car trip for your children this summer.

The cardinal principle in picking your child's travel wardrobe is to remember his comfort. If his clothes are comfortable and cool, he won't wiggle and squirm so much or interfere with your driving. To select the right wardrobe for your boy or girl, for either a long or short trip, look for labels like "crease-resistant", "spot-resistant", "washable" and "needs no ironing". These terms are found in the "miracle fabrics", as well as in acetate, cotton and specially-treated rayon.

For boys, select slacks of Orlon, Dacron, nylon or viscose blends in either light-weight gabardine or flannel. If you don't plan to stop at "dress-up" restaurants, denim slacks and matching jackets will fill the travel bill perfectly. For girls, slacks of the same fabrics make a comfortable travel costume, too. If your daughter prefers to be more feminine and bouffant, dress her in the wide, easy-to-move-around-in skirts of denim, Orlon and Acrilan. For tops that will really be "tops" with the youngsters, get cotton knit "T-shirts" and knit blouses. If daughter needs to look dressy at the end of the trip, take along a frilly nylon dress for her.

Your infant will be a tiny beau brummel if you let him travel in flannel or jersey kimonas. And don't forget to take plenty of disposable diapers — the handiest items yet invented for infant travel wear.

The right clothes for your children will serve to "dress-up" the whole family's automobile trip.

"The time is not far distant when we shall have our food concentrated in tiny round tablets", a scientist declares. This spells the end of the square meal!

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Treating Temper Tantrums

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

When a temper tantrum occurs, in spite of a parent's effort to avoid one, what is the best thing to do? Johnny is having a marvellous time playing in the sand pile. Dad picks him up to take him in the house for supper. Johnny howls, yells and tries to kick his father. Or it may be Betty's mother has refused to buy her small daughter a chocolate bar when they are shopping together for groceries. Immediately Betty tries her favorite trick of "going limp", lies on the floor, screaming for her candy!

There is no one way to treat all temper tantrums any more than there is any one kind of a child. The method which is effective with Johnny might not work well with Betty.

But it is important that parents try to understand the reason or reasons for this angry demonstration. They should also accept the fact that the great majority of tiny tots go through this resistance to authority and display of temper stage. This is a bit of a comfort to the fond parent who views with horror the "little monster" he has produced!

Sometimes a temper tantrum can be avoided at the last moment by diverting a child's attention. Perhaps Johnny's absorption in playing in the sandpile could be lessened by father telling him that mother has prepared one of his favorite dishes for supper. Betty's mother might let her wheel the grocery wagon to get her daughter's mind off the chocolate bar.

Shouting at or threatening a tempestuous child are both useless. There is no value in meeting anger with anger. If a parent starts to "explode" as well as the child, what is the youngster learning about self control?

Difficult as it may be, mothers and fathers must try to be calm and casual about their child's behaviour. If he is putting on a temper tantrum to gain attention, often it is a good plan to isolate him in his room, or just walk away and leave him. A child doesn't get much "kick" out of showing anger if there is no audience!

It is a misguided business trying to reason with an angry person of any age. Powerful rage blots out the desire to think. After the storm is over, mother or father may find it helpful to quietly comment on the situation.

But they should not reproach their child or make him feel guilty about his violent feelings. Better get them out of his system and help him to learn how to handle his emotions. Too much repression, too great demands on a youngster, produce a sullen individual.

A child should not get the idea that he can use a temper tandrum as a Big Stick to get his own way! Neither should he conclude that when he has been angry, his parents hate him for being naughty. The angry child is usually an anxious child. He needs to be reassured of his mother's and father's affection. More love, not less, is good medicine for the "tempery" boy or girl!

Snorkels, Underwater Gear Seen Possible Threat To Legitimate Fishing

"OUTDOOR ROUNDUP"
With Joe Foster *

Until the other day I hadn't paid too much attention to the fast growing sport of underwater spear fishing. The "other day" was one of these cauldrons compounded of well over 90 degrees fahrenheit humidity. The kind of a day when you count the hours till night falls and then night brings practically no relief. The asphalt turns soft in city streets and the heat shimmers over every smooth surface. Our hounds industriously dig great holes under the kennels, into which they crawl to find some coolness next to the earth; cattle seek whatever shade exists and switch languidly with lazy tails at bothersome flies; human beings like you and me somehow or other go through the motion of working and living.

In Every Drugstore And "5 and 10"

This particular day I tottered over from the office to the nearest drugstore to stock up on salt tablets. (Incidentally, I find two or three a day of these an excellent cushion against excessively hot weather.) Whilst there making my purchase and enjoying the air conditioning, which our offices don't have, I got to talking with the proprietor about the "snorkels" they had on display and selling for around a couple of bucks. He told me they were going like hot-cakes and that if I crossed the street to the 5 and 10 I'd find them there too. The significance of his remark about the growing market for underwater swimming didn't really sink home till the following day, when I was driving out of town on business and had along with me a young fellow who week-ends at Sargeant's Bay on Lake Memphramagog. This lad, a keen angler and hunter, intrigued me for over an hour with the account of his underwater spear fishing exploits of this summer, using one of these inexpensive drugstore "snorkels" and a home-made spear.

What Is The Law?

After listening to this enthusiast tell of the bass, pike and various fish he had speared this season to date, I got to wondering about the legality of the whole business.

Quebec Regulations Indefinite

The only reference in the summary of fishing laws and regulations for 1955 as issued by the Department of Game and Fisheries for the Province of Quebec that would cover the situation, is Restriction No. 4, on page one of the summary, which reads: "It is unlawful for any person to fish by means other than rod and line held in the hand; not more than three hooks must be attached to said line; use of nets, seines, night lines and other gear prohibited, without special permit." Entirely apart from the underwater spear fishing, round about where we live, almost any early springtime evening will see the shores of the Lake of Two Mountains and the Ottawa River dotted with the lanterns and fires of the spear fishermen, and I have yet to hear of any interference on the part of the authorities.

Ontario Cracks Down

Ontario, on the other hand, noting the increased sale of underwater swimming apparatus, goggles, "lungs", "snorkels", oxygen tanks, etc., have through the Department of Lands and Forests issued a warning that is timely. They say (and I quote): "If you go in for the underwater sport, you can look at all the fish in sight — but leave them alone." Spearing fish in Ontario is illegal except for a short period in the spring and in specifically designated areas. Inspector J. S. Ellis, of the Lake Simcoe District, goes further and points out that "possession of a spear within 50 feet of the water at any time is a violation of the regulations".

Will It Come to This?

Quit frequently I think it will be a little while yet before unrestricted underwater spear fishing seriously threatens our sport fish populations. Here, though, is another and far more disturbing thought: Imagine yourself happily and successfully still-fishing for bass; you know the spot; maybe you've been there an hour or so, they're just starting to take, when up to your anchorage speeds a powerful outboard, crewed by a couple of rugged teen-age Tarzan types. They drop anchor and one dons a "snorkel", grasps his spear or spear gun and slips quietly over the side, and by the bubbles you know darn well he's down there where the bass are schooling nicely around your offering of minnows, crawfish, or what-have-you. Up he comes again with a nice three-pounder firmly impaled on the barbe of his spear. In the next 15 minutes he takes his limit of the best fish, and they leave you rocking in the wake of their high-powered departure.

Council Session Is Open Arena

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent over the protocol, and answered by the Prime Minister's personal secretary, Pierre Asselin.

Mr. Asselin said that Canada in actuality had no distinctive flag, but that Orders-in-Council which he forwarded with the letter and dating back to 1945 gave the Red Ensign priority on Federal buildings, and the armed forces.

This, Mr. Bertrand noted, showed there was no protocol applying to flags flown in parks or non-federal buildings.

Difference of Opinion — Personal Or Community Matter

J. A. Labonté, another citizen, then asked the Mayor if it was true he had written a letter to Lucien Savard asking him to make a retraction for having read the message from the citizens committee.

"Any dealings between myself and Mr. Savard are purely personal, and were not made in my capacity of mayor," Dr. FitzGerald replied, "and I refuse to answer."

Mr. Labonté insisted that Mr. Savard acted for the citizens in a public way concerning an action committed by the Mayor in his post as chief magistrate, and that a "letter of threats to Mr. Savard is a threat to the taxpayers."

"This is a personal matter. Do you also want to know my income tax returns? I refuse to discuss it", the Mayor retorted.

"Are you man enough to say yes or no?" Georges Beaulieu, an ex-councillor, demanded. He left his seat to go to the front of the hall. "That letter from the citizens' committee was addressed to you as Mayor. You should have answered it in that capacity," he contended.

"We want that letter read," chorused a group of spectators.

"Will anyone sign this letter, since it is illegal in its present form?" the Mayor asked.

Fifteen men, led by Georges Beaulieu, Mr. Bertrand, Mr. Labonté, Lucien Lacoste, Adrien Roy and Henri St. Onge, J.P., promptly trooped to the council desk and signed their names to the declaration.

"So now what do you want to do?" Mayor FitzGerald asked.

"We want it read," chanted the citizens.

"Now Council admits that I am chairman of this meeting, and can refuse to hear requests from the floor if I want to, unless I am overruled by Council following a motion," the Mayor advised.

Councillor Réal Morrissette moved that the declaration be read; he was seconded by councillor Stanley Church, and the vote was taken to have the letter read.

Dr. Roger Lavigne entered the hall later during the meeting and requested that he be allowed to sign the letter of protest concerning Dr. FitzGerald. The request was granted.

Going on to other business, the flag issue was again mentioned as Secretary Claude Daoust read a copy of a letter sent to H. P. Lecorre by the executive of the Canadian Legion Branch 70. A copy was also sent to other interested parties, including the Council. Following is the text of this communication:

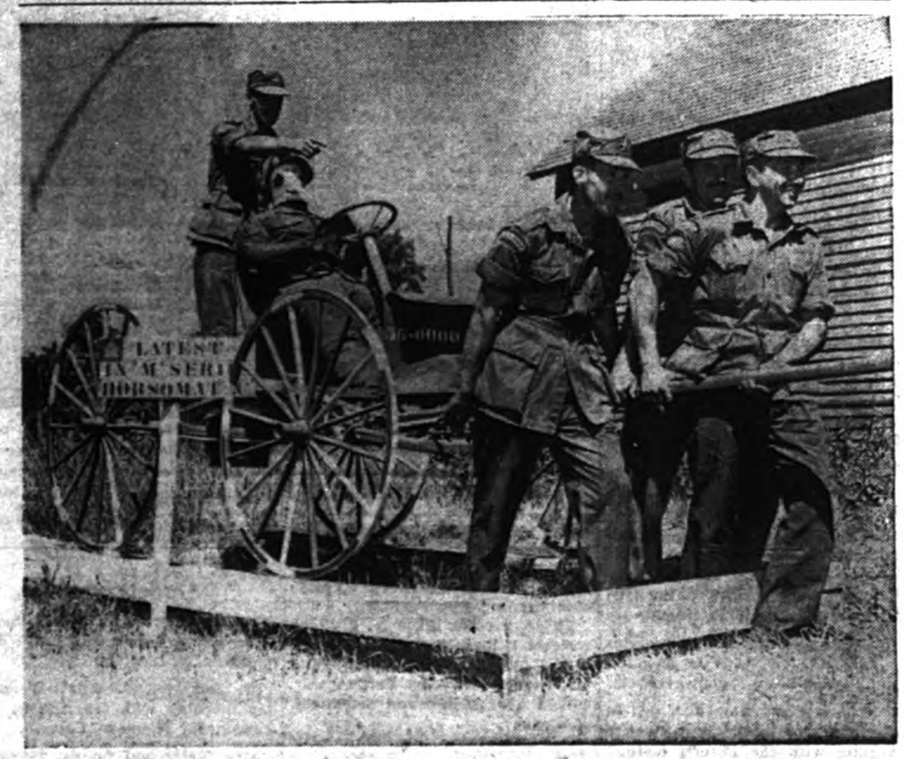

H. P. Lecorre, July 12, 1955
Lachute, Que.

At an executive meeting of the Argenteuil Branch No. 70 of the Canadian Legion held last evening, it was unanimously agreed that the Legion go on record as definitely being opposed to any views you may have on the recent flag issue in Lachute and that any action you may have taken or will take in the future on this issue does not and will not have the support in any way, shape or form, of the Argenteuil Branch of the Canadian Legion.

We ask you to refrain from using the name of the Legion in any of your endeavors without the official sanction of the Executive Committee.

BUILDING WITH SEAWEED

London — Seaweed, sunflower seeds, and fruit juices are used to prepare the foundations of houses in a new method invented and patented in the United Kingdom by Mr. H. J. Brooke-Bradley. He claims that these ingredients make earth as hard as concrete and cost much less. Organic matter is killed and, after mixing, the soil is rolled and surfaced with macadam. The method will be used for 38 new houses in Stourport, Worcestershire.

TRAGIC TOLL, 4 DEAD, 19 INJURED, TRAFFIC COLLISIONS ON ROUTE 8

Wet, Slippery Surfaces Contribute to Peak Week-end of Highway Horror

Four persons met instant death and 19 were treated in district hospitals, in three major accidents which occurred on Route 8 over the week-end. Estimated damage was in excess of $12,000 according to local Provincial Police, who report 10 vehicles were involved.

Five-Car Pile-Up Claims Two Lives

A five-car collision around six o'clock Sunday evening took two lives and hospitalized eight persons, while the Saturday evening crash claimed one life and sent six to hospital. The accidents were within a distance of 500 yards from each other, approximately a mile west of St. Philippe.

Killed in Sunday's grim mishap, which occurred near Gauley's at Chatboro, were Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Beaudoin, both in their early 60's, of Ste. Rose de Lima, near Gatineau. According to Traffic Officer Howard Jones, Beaudoin pulled out to pass an unknown car; both were headed towards Ottawa. In his attempt to pass, the driver met a string of four oncoming cars, headed towards Lachute. He managed to miss the first car, owned and driven by Jean Guy Pepin, 33, of Montreal, but crashed head-on into the second car owned and driven by Alderic Leblanc, 59, of Pont Viau. This impact hurled the death-car back into Pepin's automobile, and then a fourth car, owned and driven by Raymond Vogin, 23, also of Montreal, ended the chain of impacts. The driver of the fifth car, Raymond Larocque, of Hawkesbury, took the ditch rather than strike the pile-up of cars, and crashed into a pole.

Officer Jones reported that the road was wet and slippery following heavy rains.

Injured in the accident were Aimé Beaudoin, 18, son of the two victims who died with skull fractures, and Miss Pauline Groulx, 18, of Gatineau. The two young passengers were sleeping at the time, and did not know what had happened; both were treated at the Providence Hospital. The Beaudoin car was a total wreck.

Alderic Leblanc, colliding head-on with the Beaudoin car, suffered cuts about the face and injuries to the chest. According to latest reports, he will lose his right eye. His wife the only other passenger in the car, was treated at the Providence Hospital for severe cuts, a fractured arm and shoulder, and a double fracture of the right leg. This car was also a total wreck.

Mrs. Jean Guy Pepin, 30, and her young son, were treated for shock.

Raymond Vogin, 23, of Montreal, was treated for injuries to both knees and his forehead, while a passenger, Richard Durocher, 17, of Montreal, had lacerations to the right eye and cheek. He is expected to lose the sight of his eye. The '47 model car was demolished.

No injuries were reported by the passengers in the Rubenstein car, driven by Larocque.

The casualties were transported to hospitals in Lachute and Hawkesbury by the MacKimmie, Menard and Desforges ambulances, and all injured brought to the Providence Hospital were treated by Drs. John MacKimmie and F. Walter FitzGerald. Dr. Gerald Bowes, of Grenville, pronounced the victims dead.

An inquest will be opened shortly but will be held over until the recovery of all injured witnesses.

Traffic Officer Jones was assisted by a detective from the Montreal bureau — Det. Allen, of Lachute, being in charge in Montreal over the week-end.

Two Cars and Truck In Fatal Collision Saturday

Joseph Brisbois, 77, of Magog, was instantly killed Saturday evening when the car in which he was driving was involved in a three-vehicle crash. Three other occupants of the car were seriously injured.

The accident occurred shortly after 7 p.m. a mile west of St. Philippe when a car driven by André C. Laporte, 20, of Rosemount, swerved out of control on a curve and crashed into a 1-ton truck driven by Marcel Laviolette, 25, of St. Eustache. The truck, which was loaded with apples, rolled over in the ditch and the Laporte car spun around into the path of a new Chevrolet convertible, owned and driven by George Crowe, 30, of Mimico, Ont. Mrs. Crowe was treated on the scene and taken to the Smith Clinic at Hawkesbury, where two facial cuts required 50 stitches. Mr. Crowe and their son, Brian, 11, received minor injuries.

Two Grim Accidents on St. Philippe-Grenville Stretch Casualties 3 Dead, 14 Injured

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Beaudoin, of Ste. Rose de Lima, were instantly killed when their car (right) crashed head-on into the centre car. The car on the left was the fourth one to pile up in this five-car collision. The accident, which occurred a short distance past St. Philippe Sunday evening, sent eight persons to hospital, three of them critically injured.

Joseph Brisebois, 77, was instantly killed Saturday evening when his car (left) swerved out of control and plowed into a '55 model convertible, shown at the right of this picture. Six persons were treated in hospital as a result of this accident, which happened on a curve in the highway.

Boy Drowned at Lac Commandant

First drowning fatality on record at the French Catholic Boy Scout Camp at Lac Commandant (Lake Papineau) occurred Friday afternoon, when a 13-year-old lad, Jean Jacques Landry, of Hawkesbury, drowned while swimming with fellow campers. The body was recovered immediately after he was found missing, and more than three hours of artificial respiration failed to bring the youth around.

Young Landry went in swimming with 15 other Scouts before dinner Friday; he was wearing underwater goggles at the time. It appears the boy was not missed for some time, until fellow swimmers noticed his body on the bottom. There were two lifeguards in the immediate area — Father Lavigne, the troop chaplain, who was in a boat, and Germain Groleau, 18 of Hawkesbury, on shore. The body was recovered from about four feet of water by Assistant Scoutmaster Gabriel Cuellier, 20, of Hawkesbury.

The camp officials commenced to work on the victim and notified Dr. Fisher, of Kilmar, who arrived shortly after. Det. Ralph Allen of Lachute was informed of the accident after 3 p.m. and left immediately with the Lions Club inhalator, which was of no avail due to the length of time which had elapsed.

In attendance at the camp were the 1st Boy Scout Troop, Hawkesbury, and the 17th Ottawa Troop; Jacques Seguin is Scoutmaster of the Hawkesbury unit.

Dr. Fisher pronounced the youth's death was due to a heart attack, as there was no water in his lungs.

Blind Institute Fund Campaign In Early October

A meeting of the Argenteuil Advisory Board of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind was held recently with Dr. Eric Mongeon as chairman and A. O. Anderson acting secretary in the absence of J. B. Chalmers.

Tony Zaplaski, field man for the Institute, mentioned that the plaque to be placed on the talking book machine supplied by the Lions Club, has been forwarded to Mr. Chalmers.

Miss L. Miller as treasurer had nothing specific to report, but brought up a small matter of expenses in connection with a case under assistance. Other cases and means of assistance were also discussed.

Mr. Zaplaski stated that, beginning in September, he would be in Lachute for one full day every two weeks. Dr. Eric Mongeon, chairman of the Argenteuil section, offered accommodation at his office. This offer was gratefully accepted. Mr. Zaplaski stated that during the time he plans to spend here he will be available to callers and will give advice to all who may have problems concerning eyesight.

It was decided that the next meeting should be held on September 7, and that the main item would be organization for the Financial Campaign in early October. The meeting set the campaign objective at $3,000.

Liberal Leader Lapalme On Speaking Tour

By Alan Bruce

Quebec (CP) — Quebec Liberal Leader Georges Lapalme last week began a nine-day speaking tour of communities on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River as a prelude to a general provincial election, expected next summer.

At Rivière du Loup, the liberal leader said the Union Nationale government is allowing Quebec iron to be shipped to the United States at a royalty of only one cent a ton. He criticized the administration for letting the province's natural resources go to foreign smelters, when Quebec could be deriving the profit if a smelting industry was established.

Speaking at Matane, the liberal leader said Quebec's high taxes are scaring new industries away from the province and preparing a future of unemployment for Quebec workers. Mr. Lapalme said local and foreign industries are being chased to Ontario by the taxes.

Mr. Lapalme also said during his tour that Quebec is far behind the other provinces in giving financial assistance to needy mothers, despite the fact that it is one of the richest provinces in Canada.

Council Business; Resumed Session In Brownsburg

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — The balance of this month's Council business was discussed at the adjourned session held on Monday.

Most important item, of course, was the progress made on the sewerage problem. Mayor Dorius Lepine reported he had come to an agreement with Messrs. MacVicar to rent the septic tank in their field for $300 a year. Mr. Gaston Legault will check the levels of the tank and the water systems this week, and the Mayor and Secretary will arrange the above purchase and the transaction, giving the town possession of Mr. Vowles' present sewerage system.

In a discussion on the price of pumping water to the reservoir, $339 for 226 hours this summer, the Mayor pointed out that Brownsburg cannot possibly use 700,000 gallons of water a day — more than 700 gallons of water per house — unless there are a big number of leaks. Mayor Lepine also pointed out that it would be ironical if we were paying C-I-L to pump water that they were using. This, of course, was just a thought, but at any rate it would be interesting to find out how much water C-I-L does use. The secretary will enquire about renting a meter.

The secretary arranged a meeting with Gatineau Power Company for this week, to sign the contract; men would accordingly be working on the new lights in the next few weeks.

On the subject of sidewalks it was decided to invite tenders so to that some "concrete" action can be taken at the next meeting.

Damage to Que. Roads; Protest Voiced Against Misleading Signs

Quebec (CP) — Premier Duplessis met a delegation from the Quebec Chamber of Commerce during the week and appealed for a campaign against abuses of the province's roads.

The Premier said between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 damage is done to provincial highways every winter and called on truck and bus drivers to "do their share" in reducing the toll.

The Chamber of Commerce delegation met the Premier to ask for action against motel and tourist-guide operators who have posted misleading signs on the outskirts of the city. Solicitor-general Rivard said an investigation already has been made, and warnings have been issued to the offenders.

Two Brownsburg Boys to Jamboree; Laur. District Sponsors English Scout

Approximately 10,000 Boy Scouts who have First Class standing (or higher) are gathered at Niagara-on-the-Lake for the First World Jamboree ever held in America. A pre-Jamboree training camp was held at Camp Tamaracouta (Mille Isles), where Scouts of the Province of Quebec assembled for preparation before leaving for the Jamboree.

The Laurentian District has about 11 Boy Scouts attending the Jamboree, from the following places: Laval West 4, St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac 2, Rosemere 2, Brownsburg 2, Ste. Therese 1. First Class Scouts Ronnie Potter and Allen Johnston of Brownsburg are attending the Jamboree.

Under the "Break the Dollar Barrier" Fund, which reached unexpected heights, Laurentian District sponsored one boy, Queen's Scout Allan Bennet of Cundy Cross, Barnsley, England. This lad had the misfortune to break a wrist at a training camp but this would not prevent him attending the Jamboree. The $50 subscribed per boy covers the camp fee and provides $20 spending money. This enabled some 800 or 900 Boy Scouts from non-dollar countries to attend the Jamboree, who would otherwise have had to stay home.

These boys are from various parts of the world, speak many different languages and may wear different uniforms, but all are brothers in the Boy Scout movement.

Ferocious-Looking Bug Is "Praying Mantha"

Sidney Brown, west-end trucker, brought to The Watchman on Tuesday a formidable-looking insect nearly three inches in length resembling a large grasshopper. Two or three of these specimens have lately been reported, with photographs, in the Montreal press. The creature (doubtless on account of the posture of its front legs, when quiescent, in an attitude of prayer), is known as the Praying Mantha. It is peculiar to tropical climes; it preys upon flies and other insects, and is reputedly as ferocious as it looks.

St. John Ambulance Man Demonstrates Neilson Method Artificial Respiration

Tom Dwyer, an engineer employed by C-I-L, and St. John Ambulance instructor for that company, demonstrated various forms of artificial respiration, at the regular weekly meeting of Rotary Club last Thursday evening. He explained that the Neilson method was now used almost exclusively and that it had replaced the old Schaeffer method. Medical men maintain that this new method enables more air to enter the lungs, and is more effective in cases of shock and partial paralysis.

In applying this new method, the instructor takes a position on his knees immediately in front of the patient, who is lying face downwards with the side of his face on his hands. The operator then places his hands on the patient's back at a point just below an imaginary line between the armpits. Pressure is applied by leaning forward. In straightening, the instructor slides his hands along the underside of the patient's forearms and lifts the elbows slightly. It is of the utmost importance that the rhythm be maintained at all times, at a rate of about 12 times a minute.

Everyone should have some knowledge of artificial respiration. Even if one is not too familiar with the correct procedure, an attempt should be made just as soon as the patient is taken out of the water, and maintained for at least four hours, particularly if it is not known how long the victim has been in the water. It is exceedingly difficult to tell whether the patient is dead or not. There have been instances where even doctors have pronounced drowning patients dead, and the victims have been revived by prolonged artificial respiration.

Mr. Dwyer lives on Bethany Road, in the Parish of St. Jehusalem and is a member on the Council for that municipality. He was born in Halifax and is a graduate civil engineer of the Nova Scotia Technology College. He was introduced by Linton Armstrong and thanked by Keith Hickson.

Enthusiasm Evident in Friday Fashion Show

Sale of tickets for the Fashion Show, which is to be held at the Lachute Golf and Country Club on August 19 at 9 p.m. by the Henry Morgan Company Limited, has exceeded expectations, and due to the limited space available no tickets will be sold at the door.

The Fashion Show, under the patronage of the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, is being held in aid of the Ladies' Branch of the Argenteuil County Cancer Society. Mrs. L. Ayers, president of the Branch, announced the purpose of this show is to provide funds which will be used to equip the new workroom in Lachute with supplies to assist in the fight against Cancer in this county.

Mills-Ayersv'l Sewer Problem Superseded by Pressing Need For Available Town Funds

Payroll Peremptorily Cut to Ease Salaries; Engineer to Submit Inter-Town Sewer Plan

A special meeting of Town Council was held last Thursday evening, when study was given to the present low finances of the Corporation, and the Ayersville-Lachute sewer situation discussed at a joint meeting of the councils last week. Aldermen Wilbrod Cousineau and Réal Morrissette were absent from the meeting, chaired by Mayor Dr. F. Walter FitzGerald.

Town Finances

The financial statement was a matter for lengthy consideration and debate — Mayor FitzGerald informing the Council that the Corporation had in the vicinity of $10,000 in accounts payable, but actually little or nothing in the bank. "The most urgent need is to find enough money to meet salaries for the next few weeks", he stated.

Mayor FitzGerald took advantage of the presence of Fernand Legault, the town's legal advisor, to inquire if it would be possible to obtain a temporary loan. Mr. Legault explained that such a loan could be obtained without a sanction of the ratepayers or the Lieutenant-Governor in Council on the condition that the period of the loan did not exceed the end of the financial year.

"This is to say," added Mr. Legault, "that you will have to find some means of reimbursement by the end of this December."

The Mayor and Council then attempted to find some other solution to the problem. Besides the temporary loan, the two following suggestions were made: reduce the number of employees and the hours of work; immediately cease all work on sidewalks, etc. The various budgets were studied in an attempt to find some source of ready cash if it was needed.

Following considerable study, it was unanimously decided to request Town Foreman Jos. Senecal to lay-off all employees who were not classed as regular help, leaving him with nine men.

"There were 27 persons on the payroll last week, this including the police force and office staff."

Sewerage Problem

At the commencement of discussion on the sewer situation in Lachute Mills and Ayersville, Mayor FitzGerald suggested the matter be initially dealt with behind closed doors, the meeting was accordingly adjourned for 30 minutes — the Mayor and Council retiring, accompanied by Fernand Legault, legal advisor, and Seraphin Ouimet, engineer.

With the re-opening of the meeting, Ald. D. G. MacRae proposed that authorization be given Mr. Ouimet to prepare a preliminary plan governing the drainage of surface water in the Lachute Mills - Ayersville section. Mr. Ouimet suggested that the drain be built from Hamelin Street to the river, a distance of approximately 350 feet. The plan is to be in the hands of the Council prior to the September meeting, and if it is accepted, Mr. Ouimet is to be appointed engineer in charge of the work to be completed.

Police Overtime

Ald. Ross R. Muir, chairman of the police committee, pointed out to the Mayor and Council that a considerable sum of money had been paid to the members of the police force and the night watchman for overtime.

The books were brought out and it was discovered that more than $500 in overtime had been paid to the members of this department during the past seven months. The general discussion centred around the hours of work of the chief and his men, their salaries and overtime.

In an attempt to clarify the situation as promptly as possible, it was decided that Alderman Muir and Desjardins meet with Chief Ducharme and discuss the matter.

Prior to adjournment, the Catholic School Commission was authorized to move the house formerly owned by George P. Calder to the corner lot, on the same grounds, at Grace Street and Barron Ave.

To Ask Gov't For New Highway M'tl-Grenville

Representatives of some 25 leading municipalities in the counties of Hull, Gatineau, Papineau and Argenteuil were present at a recent meeting called by the citizens of Lac Simon, Papineau County, where those present unanimously decided to request the Provincial Government to re-construct Route 8 from Cartierville to Grenville.

A resolution was drawn up giving several reasons for this request — the principal reasons being that more than 40 municipalities benefit by the highway; that persons travelling from Ottawa to Montreal, presently choose the Ontario highway; and that considerable more money would be left in the province with a more modern and adequate traffic route.

The resolution closed with the request that the members of all counties concerned study the matter with Premier Duplessis and the Ministers of both Roads and Public Works.

TV AND RADIO INTERFERENCE

As the season moves ahead into Fall and Winter, the TV and Radio networks will be providing new and additional programmes.

Much of the TV and Radio interference in a community is unnecessary and can be eliminated with reasonable care.

The Telecommunication Division, Department of Transport, appeals to all public-spirited citizens to:

1. Have suppressors installed in all fluorescent light fixtures, preferably at time of purchase. Fluorescent desk and bed lamps are particularly noisy.

2. Turn on your warming pad occasionally for a half hour or so when your radio is on. If it makes long buzzing noises in the radio, the thermostat inside the pad is defective and should be repaired at once. A defective thermostat can cause a fire!

3. Have your dealer or radio serviceman install a suppressor on any electrical appliance which causes interference in your radio or television sets. It probably interferes with your neighbor's reception too!

For your greater enjoyment — and that of your neighbor, this is an opportune time to check your installations for interference!

Mechanical Gadgets To Scare Birds

Blackbirds and grackles look upon a corn field as a particularly tasty morsel and in very short order can damage over 90 per cent of the ears and may remove as much as a quarter of the crop. And they are very hard to scare away, as tests at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, have shown.

A carbide exploder was tested which consisted of a gas generating unit that combines calcium carbide and water to produce acetylene gas, after the style of the headlights once used on automobiles and bicycles. The gas is mixed with air and creates an explosive mixture in an explosion chamber. In turn a pilot light ignites the gas and causes a report similar to that of a shotgun. The explosions may occur as frequently as twice a minute under ideal conditions.

Two exploders were used in the Farm Tests in a two-acre block of ear corn and reduced the damage from 20 per cent to six per cent. However, it cost approximately 75 cents per day to operate the units value of the crop saved did not equal the cost of operating the exploders.

It was also found that while excellent protection was obtained for a couple of weeks or so, the birds soon become accustomed to the noise and were then more difficult to scare. The occasional use of a shot gun to supplement the exploders might increase the effectiveness of the units as bird scarers.

The conclusion reached is that while carbide exploders afford some protection they are not a complete answer to the problem of scaring birds.

Bulbs for Canada To Be Inspected In Holland

Plans are under way to provide inspection in Holland of the many consignments of bulbs which are imported into Canada each year from that country. The plan has been arranged between the Canada Department of Agriculture, the Netherlands Inspection Service, and the Netherlands Bulb Exporters' Association.

Under the arrangement, it is expected that the normal re-inspection service in Canada will be largeeliminated and delays at port of importation, as well as inspection on the premises of importers after delivery will be avoided.

Three members of the Department of Agriculture Plant Protection Division are now in The Netherlands to establish this preshipment inspection. W. A. Fowler, Associate Chief of the Division, will organize the service, and H. G. Carmondy, formerly of the Toronto inspection office and now on the Ottawa staff, will remain in Europe along with R. P. Messum of the Vancouver office, until the heavy bulb importing season is over. This should last about three months.

HOURS OF TRACTOR USE

Records on tractor use, secured on Federal Department of Agriculture Illustration Stations throughout Canada, show that on the average Illustration Station, farm owners used their tractors for 494 hours in 1954. Average use was 489 hours in Western Canada and 503 hours per tractor in Eastern Canada. In Western Canada there was an average of 1-7 tractors per Station farm compared with 1-3 tractors in Eastern Canada.

Soviet Agriculturists Arrive Montreal Aug. 25

Ottawa — A group of 12 agriculturists from the Soviet Union who have been touring the United States, will arrive in Canada at Dorval Airport on August 25. An official welcome is being arranged and a press conference will be held immediaately upon arrival.

The visiting Russians will spend the nights of August 25 and 26 in Montreal and while in Quebec will visit Granby, Frelighsburg, and Macdonald College. On arrival in Ottawa on August 27 they will be the luncheon guests of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture at the farm home of the CFA president, Dr. H. H. Hannam. A tour of Eastern and Western Canada has been arranged by the Canada Department of Agriculture.

The visiting party includes government agriculture officials, agronomists, research scientists, technicians and a farm newspaper editor.

Plow Coulters

Today, there are several types of coulters on the market, and the choice may be as important as change of plow or adjustment, says J. G. Kemp, agricultural engineer, Ottawa Experimental Farm.

Although the knife edge has been replaced by the rolling coulter, the former is still a handy piece of equipment in stoney land or for heavy roots, but surface trash limits the extent of its use. A knife edge will allow a plow to penetrate where other coulters will hold it out.

Today, most tractor plows are equipped with rolling coulters because of superior trash handling ability. The larger the diameter of the coulter, the greater the amount of trash it will mount and cut.

A clean job of ploughing can be done if a pointer is used, but a pointer may be a source of trouble in heavy trash. One combination offered, has a rolling disc jointer to meet this problem. However, the jointer itself is not self-cleaning in sticky soil.

Three coulters, the notched, wavy edge and concave disc have been designed in an attempt to give positive turning and cutting action. They all work very well in heavy trash and are also adaptable to soils of low resistance where a standard straight disc tends to drag. The notched and wavy edge are difficult to sharpen and have a shorter life than the standard coulter. The coverage of a concave disc is not as complete as other coulters with jointers.

As an added note, ploughing of corn stalks can be made much easier by travelling in the same direction as the corn picker.

PIG TESTING STATIONS FOR BRITAIN

By next summer Britain plans to have five pig testing stations in operation, three in England, one each in Wales and Scotland. The Canadian Commercial Secretary for Agriculture in London reports each station will accommodate 400 pigs, and among them test 300 boars a year. The U.K. Government will advance an estimated $1,242,000 to build the stations and this will be paid back by deducting one penny per 20 pounds in the government's collective guarantee payment to pig producers. Operation of the stations will be under a Board of Governors made up of representatives of the producers, breeders, bacon curers, the pork trade and the government.

Tragic Toll in Traffic Collisions

Brisbois was killed, Mrs. Albert Laporte, 37, was critically injured and was still unconscious Monday evening. Her husband, 44, was taken to hospital with internal injuries and a broken spine. A daughter, Reta, 20, also received medical aid. All three, treated by Dr. FitzGerald, were from Ville Jacques Cartier. Mr. and Mrs. Laporte were transferred to hospital in Montreal.

The truck driver was not injured.

Traffic Officer Jones investigated, assisted by a detective from Montreal.

Fatality at Pte.-au-Chene

The fourth death occurred near Pte.-au-Chene early Saturday afternoon when Roland Chollet, 18, of Alexandria, Ont., lost control of his car on a curve and struck an auto driven by Jean Guy Lachance, 23, of Shawinigan Falls.

Raymond Chenier, 34, of Alexandria, a passenger in the Chollet car, was killed in the crash. Injured and treated in hospital were Mr. and Mrs. Jean Paul Desoniers, the former with a skull fracture, Jean Guy Lachance, with a skull fracture, and Miss Monique Lachance, 19, with fracture of the right leg and severe cuts. Chollet was unhurt.

Traffic Officers Albert Legault and Gerard Loyer investigated.

While at the scene, Traffic Officer Loyer was directing traffic and at one time slowed down two cars, headed towards Lachute. The first one stopped and the second, driven by René Portugain, 32, of Montreal, spun on the highway, turning end for end into the ditch. Of the four occupants in the car, none was injured. The car, which landed on its wheels, was damaged to the extent of $800.

Montrealers Hurt In Calumet Crash

Several thousand dollars damage resulted from a car accident last Wednesday evening in Calumet, and two Montreal citizens were treated for injuries in Hawkesbury hospitals. The accident occurred around 7.15 p.m. in front of the Ted Williamson residence on Route 8.

J. Aldege Lafleur, 55, of Montreal, was driving along the highway in a westerly direction. He saw two cars parked on the side of the road, according to investigating Officer Howard Jones, and when passing another auto, noticed a car headed towards him. He applied the brakes and skidded, colliding with a car owned and driven by Charles E. Mongrain, 32, also of Montreal. Lafleur escaped injury, and Mr. and Mrs. Mongrain were treated by Dr. Arcade Perrier.

Truck Parked Without Lights Caused Mishap

On Friday, around 9 p.m., Traffic Officer H. Jones, received a complaint concerning a pulp truck parked on Route 8 near Chatboro. The truck was reported to be on the highway and without lights. Officer Jones states that he left immediately for the scene, arriving there at 9.20, about five minutes after Jack A. Davis, of the Town of Mount Royal and Lake Louisa, crashed into the side of the parked truck.

Driver of the truck was Jacques Raby, 21, of Buckingham, who reported having two blow-outs to his rear tires late Friday afternoon. Raby told police that he left his truck and headed for Lachute to wait for a friend to give him some assistance; he had pulled his truck over to the side of the road, but some 59 inches remained on the pavement.

The accident occurred when Davis was meeting a transport semi-trailer and failed to see the parked truck until he was immediately on top of it. He attempted to cut between the truck and the trailer, and hit the side of the former vehicle.

Betty Gordon, 13, and the driver's son, Jackie Davis, 8, received minor cuts and bruises. Mr. Davis and other passengers were unhurt. Damage was estimate at $1,000.

A charge of leaving his truck on the pavement without proper lights was laid by Traffic Officer Jones; no date has been set for the trial.

Old-Vintage Car Hits Big Trailer

Gilles Filion, 24, of Hull, was treated in the Providence Hospital following an accident early Wednesday morning a short distance past the Golf Club. He was later transferred to the Hotel Dieu at St. Jerome.

According to Officer Howard Jones, who investigated, Filion was headed towards Montreal in his '39 model car when he crashed into an Overnight Express semi-trailer proceeding towards Lachute. The transport driver, Aurel Gerard, 27, also of Hull, reports that he pulled well over to the side of the road when he saw the car headed towards him.

After the crash, Filion's car proceeded a distance of 155 feet on its frame, the front wheels having been knocked off, while the transport continued 500 feet, the driver being unable to stop as his driveshaft was ripped out.

Several charges will be laid against Filion on his release from hospital. The car was a total loss while damage estimated at $800 was caused to the semi-trailer.

The accident occurred at 1.25 a.m. Wednesday.

The Economy of Using the Best

The economy of using the best possible materials is made apparent in the upkeep problem. A house or business building may be "thrown together" with cheap material, and it may "look all right", but after it has stood the shock of weather, the real test comes.

It is false economy to use poor materials — and we so advise everyone who buys from us. Our success is due to honesty in materials and prices.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

10,000 Strong

10,000 BOY SCOUTS of many races, colors and creeds and every one of them wearing the coveted "First Class" badge that signifies near-perfection in Scouting, have converged this week upon the World Jamboree site at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ontario, to encamp on a tented square-mile of rolling parkland near historic Fort George.

This is the Eighth World Boy Scout Jamboree — "the Jamboree of New Horizons" — the first fully international jamboree ever to be held in the Western Hemisphere.

Since it was founded by Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell nearly a half-century ago, the Boy Scout movement has grown steadily. Today there are 160,000 Scouts in Canada and some 6,000,000 throughout the world. There will be 4,100 Canadian Scouts at the '55 Jamboree, from all 10 provinces as well as from our far-northern territories.

Since only a small percentage of the world's Boy Scouts will be privileged to attend the Jamboree, and since interest in the event is keen both in Canada and abroad, the CBC has planned as complete radio coverage as possible of camp activities.

Gem for Posterity

ONE OF the fruits of Alberta's 50th anniversary this year is the "Alberta Golden Jubilee Anthology," a stimulating combination of fact and fiction by home-brew authors. — We see here a volume which should survive among the classics of literature-strictly-Canadian. Not among the purists and stylists of the language, perhaps, but among authors like our own beloved historians, the late Cyrus Thomas and the late Benjamin Wales, who have left their gems of local tradition which grow increasingly in value.

Blended into 471 pages, illustrated by photographs, maps and drawings, this newest anthology (McClelland and Stewart) is the work of nearly 100 writers. It is a compact history sprinkled with poetry and short stories which gets away from the dullness sometimes associated with historical works.

The basic idea of the anthology was to produce a collection of the best unpublished work of Alberta authors to commemorate the jubilee.

Working under the direction of editor-in-chief Dr. W. G. Hardy, head of the department of classics at the University of Alberta and former president of the Canadian Authors Association, the editorial board selected its material from more than 1,000 manuscripts.

The Anthology is divided into six sections, whose principal aim is to present chronologically the story of the province — its historical background and pioneer beginnings, its development, achievements and potentialities and, above all, something of the spirit of the people.

Confidence in Eisenhower

PRESIDENT Eisenhower's in his heaven, and all's right with the Western world.

That version of the poet's song might serve as an apt comment on contemporary affairs, at least as far as Britain and Western Europe are concerned.

General Ike, as Europeans knew him, is again the man with the halo on his head. As a result, Western Europe has greater confidence in the capacity of United States leadership than at any time in the last few years.

Recent domestic developments in the U.S., coupled with what is deemed to be Eisenhower's resounding success at the Geneva conference, lead European observers to two main conclusions:

1. Eisenhower has finally found himself, and can probably remain president as long as he likes.

2. Therefore, American policies will gradually develop a new serenity from which the free world will benefit.

Until recently most Western Europeans had been somewhat disappointed in President Eisenhower. But the critics are changing their tune. Newspaper commentators in Britain and Western Europe seem to feel that Ike has finally decided to assert himself. The decline of McCarthyism and the president's forceful manner at Geneva are cited as indications.

The result is expected to be a new moderation in U.S. leadership, a development devoutly wished for by the Old World, long fearful that an impatient United States might unleash a world war.

The Manchester Guardian, an independent Liberal newspaper, says in a Washington dispatch the essential fact of American politics is that what it calls the "Centre" now has become the important force in Washington. It says Eisenhower owes his position as a national leader mainly to his almost instinctive ability "to identify himself with these moderate views and to become their supreme spokesman."

Estimating Costs of National Health Service

CANADIANS spend about $750 million a year on health services. About half of that amount is being spent now by public authorities, dominion, provincial and municipal. The other half, or about $375 million is being spent by private individuals.

"The Rural Scene" has a caustic word about "those who are more concerned about getting a national health system established, than about making an accurate estimate of its cost." They argue that the total cost, over and above what the governments are spending now, would be only about $375 million — the amount that is now being spent by private individuals.

This is no way to figure the cost of a national health plan (replies "The Rural Scene"), as everyone knows who takes the trouble to compare the actual costs of the provincial plans in effect in Saskatchewan and British Columbia, with the estimated cost of those plans when they were being promised by the politicians.

The experience of those two provinces is, that as soon as arrangements are made to have the government pay the bills, the demand for health services increases by leaps and bounds. It is safe to bet that within five years of the establishment of a national health plan for Canada the cost to the taxpayers would be at least three times as much as the present estimate. That is to say, it would be up in the billions of dollars.

If the people of Canada are capable of learning from their own experience, they should know by this time how little credence should be placed in the estimates made by politicians of the cost to the taxpayers of any plans by which such politicians hope to gain their votes.

Research Unlimited

ALTHOUGH agriculture is among the world's oldest industries, there is still the widest sort of opportunity for the research scientist.

On this continent alone, crops are menaced by no less than 30,000 known diseases. Every time we bring one of these under control, we raise useful production without adding one square inch to the land under cultivation — says the Financial Post.

Meat output in North America, it is conservatively estimated, is cut 10% annually by livestock diseases and parasites.

Mice, rats and insects destroy enough grain in the United States to feed 10 million hogs each year or the equivalent of two billion pounds of pork. And mice, rats and insects, unfortunately, do not confine their depredations to the U.S. side of the border. They are just as destructive in Canada.

One fourth of all the fruits and vegetables grown in Canada and the United States spoil before they reach our dining room tables.

WHEN we invite our business men to advertise, we impose no restriction except their reasonable integrity, and co-operation in the matter of deadlines. . . .

Consider then the obstructions in the way of film distributors seeking to advertise their wares in Mexico City. Here's the unhappy set-up:

Virtually the only media of advertising are the three newspapers — same circulations, same rates, and with a "working agreement" that means one doesn't accept an ad unless all three get it.

Ads must go through two agencies only, and the agencies' chiefs are also heads of Mexico's leading movie circuits.

Yes, the advertising's tough!

CITY OF BEAUTY

KILLING THE GOOSE

Are some of our resort owners taking advantage of tourists? And by so doing aren't they killing the goose that lays the golden egg? Can they ever hope to continue in business by short-changing their guests in the matter of quantity and quality of seasonable food?

POSITIVE APPROACH

In our desire to point out the flaws of the tourist business, and in the hope of rectifying them, newspaper men have been making a great to-do about what the tourists don't like and failing to concentrate on what they like. We should never become so educated to pointing up the flaws that we forget to brag about one of the grandest places in the world to spend a holiday.

TOO BUSY TO WORRY

New citizens, in the majority, are far too busy and anxious to work a full day to be concerned about unemployment and because of this the Canadian employer is turning to them for his labor. Possibly the Canadian-born worker will soon see the advantage of giving a little more rather than a little less for a day's pay and the bogey of unemployment will disappear in an improved economy.

OF MANY THINGS

By Ambrose Hills

Government Printing

It is positively amazing to watch the way this country is being propagandized by government. First radio, then TV became government instruments to "educate" the people, Soon scores of newsmen started to receive large fees from government coffers. Magazine editors and writers were also enlisted to comment "impartially" on national affairs — under the auspices of a government agency. And now the Federal Government has gone into print in a big and costly way.

Over in Hull, handy to the politicians, the government bought property for their new National Printing Bureau. They paid $564,991 for the property and another $150,000 to landscape it. The new building has cost another $13,035,009 on top of that, and they still have to buy printing equipment. What do you think us taxpayers will get out of all this? Let me tell you. . .

In bolder type on fancier paper we'll get such pamphlets as: "The Germination of Cottonseed", "The Pointed Skins", "The Lump Fish", "The diatoms of Canada", "Discipline", "How can I correct my child's habits?" "Sports and Athletics in other Countries", and thousands more. The Canadian Government Publications Catalogue, back in 1953, was a thick volume of 578 pages. When the big new plant gets going only the good Lord knows how thick it will become. And how many new magazines does the new government plan to put on the newsstands?

Printing equipment today is so costly that weekly newspapers are having trouble showing a profit. Yet the Federal Government sees fit, at such a time, to construct the biggest and fanciest printing shop in the nation. About 95% of the pamphlets it will print might well be allowed to go out-of-print. The balance could be printed by private printers at a fraction of the cost. Readers would never guess that they came from print shops not graced with $150,000 landscaping!

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Every so often we hear strange noises in the night — wailing, followed by thumps and scratches.

Ghosts? In a way I wish they were supernatural. Then I wouldn't have to do anything, except dive under the blankets. But these noises call for action.

"Get up," says my wife's voice in the darkness. "The cat has a mouse again."

"Let the cat and the mouse fight it out, and may the best animal win," I reply. In fact, I feel sorry for the mouse. But surely it is too late to intervene.

"Please do something," my wife says. "The cat is under the bed now. He'll be up here."

The cat always brings us its catch, expecting praise but only getting abuse.

I crank myself upright, and go in weary pursuit. The mouse, which is still very much alive, gets away. There ensues a three-cornered chase. John Peel never saw anything like it. He was lucky.

Eventually I manage to shove the cat outside and slam the bedroom door.

"There," I gasp. "You can rest easy now. The mouse is safe."

"Get that thing out of here, get it out."

"I thought it was the safety of the mouse you were worried about. Did you want me to protect the cat from the mouse — was that it?"

"Stop being silly, and please catch the mouse. You know I can't stand them."

At last I corner the mouse. "There's the little fella who caused all the panic," I observe, holding it in the palm of my hand, a bright-eyed trembling shred of fur.

"Poor little thing," my wife says. "Ugh."

While the cat glares at me through the window, I release the mouse in the bushes of the yard, and it scuttles away. I plod back to bed, marvelling at the ways of cats, mice and women.

In case of duplicate answers the earliest postmark will get the preference. Also, if the prize does not suit, we endeavor to exchange for one of equal value that is more suitable to you.

THE PRIZES		If a sales-slip of ours in enclosed:
1st, 2nd, 3rd	$10.00	$20.00
4th and 5th	60 lb. milk scale	A Milk Scale and Purina Apron or Jacknife

16th to 40th	A Purina Apron	An Apron and a Checkerboard Pencil

THE PROBLEM

A salesman sold a dairyman on the 30-day Bulky Las feeding test. The dairyman had 25 cows milking, and that day they gave 710 lbs. milk. The salesman also taped the cows for body weight — the cows averaged, being in their fifth month of lactation.

After 30 days on Bulky Las the cows and milk were weighed again. This time the milk weighed 718 lbs. and the cows gained an average of 38.3 lbs. in body weight.

The dairyman received $4 per hundred for his milk, and could get 10c a pound live weight for his cows at a local packing plant.

Not exactly pleased, the dairyman said, "How am I going to pay for that $100 worth of Bulky Las with only 8 lbs. of milk?"

DID THIS DAIRYMAN ACTUALLY LOSE OR GAIN, AND HOW MUCH?

Your answer must not just say he lost or made. We want to know how much he lost or gained, and how you arrived at your solution.

• • •

Come on and try, as often as you like (only one prize per entrant). The prizes will be given even if answers are not all correct. Boys and girls, get your dad or mom to help you get some pin money or at least get you pencils for school. And remember, the early bird gets the worm. So get your answer on the way PROMPTLY.

The answer will be given in the August 25 issue of the Watchman. Look for it.

NOTE: The Bulky Las fed to this example, was given in addition to what the farmer was already using, and at the rate of approximately 2 lbs. per day per cow, and this is the only cost to be reckoned in his loss or profit on the deal.

Mrs. Telesphore Dallaire, one of Lachute's oldest residents, passed away Monday following a short illness. She was in her 93rd year, the widow of one of Lachute's prominent businessmen, who conducted a general store at the site of the present Deacon showrooms, many years ago.

Funeral services were held this morning, Thursday, in the Ste. Anastasie Parish Church.

She leaves to mourn her loss four sons and two daughters—Ednas, of Montreal; Leonidas, of Lachute; Rev. Adonias Dallaire, of St. Hippolyte; and Russell, of Rochester, N.Y.; daughters, Miss Louise Dallaire, who resided with her mother at the corner of Mary and Main Streets, and Mrs. Henri Chamaillard (Mari-Ange), also of Lachute. Also surviving are 13 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren, as well as a sister, Mrs. Felix Juteau, of Ste. Agathe.

Last Tribute Paid to Grenville District Resident

The Late Gordon Matthew

Death came as a shock to the many friends and relatives of the late Gordon Matthew early Tuesday morning, July 26, after a three weeks' illness with heart trouble. He passed away at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Matthew, in his 69th year.

Mr. Matthew was employed by the Canadian Refractories until his retirement. He was the son of the late Rowland and Agnes Matthew. His wife, Frances Hume, predeceased him in 1920, and he leaves to mourn his passing one son, Gordon, of Montreal, and four brothers, Ross, of Grenville, Edmund, of Kilmar, Rowland, of Valois, and Dwight, of N.D.G.; also two sisters, Mrs. Robert Whytock (Laura), of N.D.G., and Mrs. Charles Snell (Jessie), of Huntsville.

The funeral took place Thursday, July 28, from his late residence to Grenville United Church, thence to the family plot in St. Matthew's Cemetery. Rites were conducted by the Rev. G. Case, who during the service read a very fitting poem. He was assisted by the Rev. P. R. Stote, who also conducted the committal service.

The pall-bearers were members of the Orange Order, Lodge 58, in which Mr. Matthew was a member: Messrs. Alvin Heatlie, Earl MacIntyre, Gordon Morrow, Gerald Beauchamp, Peter Cameron and Henry Trineer.

A profusion of beautiful flowers betokened the sympathy of many relatives and friends.

They are filled with remembrance,
dear Bob, of you."

Born in Upper Lachute on November 1, 1860, the deceased was a son of the late John Miller and his wife Anne Vart, and was the last member of a family of 11 children.

The late Tom Miller went to the Western States at the age of 19. There he worked in lumber camps and mines, finally taking up cattle ranching in partnership with his brother, David, at Birch Creek, Idaho. NO PATCHES

Grande Prairie, Alta. (CP)—Ralph Sauve and Harvey Merrifield built a platform on a tractor-tire tube and set out down the Wapiti and Smoky rivers. Safe and satisfied, they landed 40 miles away 13½ hours later. They were worried about one thing; driftwood. They didn't carry any patching equipment.

Old-Time Memories And A Strange Coincidence

This little item of news may be of interest to those "young lads" of many years ago. A goodly number of them are scattered across our vast country and across the friendly border to the south of us. It matters little where they be, they all have a keen interest in those "back home".

So many of our young folk of 50 years ago — or more, or less — cherish a warm spot in their hearts for the memories wrapped around the hearthstone of the old Whelehan Homestead at Cushing. This old stone house was recently sold to a Miss Lambart, who had as a visitor one evening last week a Mr. George Bryerton of Sacramento, California. He was at his brother's and sister's at Carillon for a month's stay and said he just could not return without one more visit to what used to be "Aunt Maggie's and Uncle Eddie's."

Upon being introduced to Miss Lambart, she remarked she had often wondered what George Bryerton might be like, as his name was carved in one of the flat stones beside the front door, along with the date of the carving. Shortly before his visit was terminated, Miss Lambart realized that there must be a close connection between the time of the carving and his present visit; so they went outside, and saw that it had been done exactly 55 years ago to the day — August 8, 1900.

As this is being written George is zooming his way homewards in a jet plane — quite well able to adapt himself to this modern method of travel, and betimes dwelling in memories of events long past.

Over the Years with THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

August 18, 1880 —

Crops generally, except wheat, look very well — the hay crop, which has been all harvested, being exceptionally fine.

Two carloads of wheat have been brought from Toronto to Lachute Mills during this month; they were here made into flour, which is highly spoken of.

• • •

50 YEARS AGO

August 18, 1905 —

McFaul Bros. closed their sawmill on Wednesday after a most successful season.

A violent storm accompanied by severe thunder and lightning passed over here Saturday afternoon and did much damage. The outbuildings and barns of Albert Gordon, East Settlement, were entirely destroyed, together with a quantity of grain. Ralph Barclay, of St. Andrews East, suffered the loss of a horse, and a large pine tree in front of the home of Capt. John Earle was struck and slivered into matchwood Numerous other farm animals throughout the district were killed by lightning.

August 15, 1930 —

The passage west to Ottawa of the R-100 was witnessed by numbers from surrounding districts who assembled on the Front Road Sunday evening about the time the huge airship was scheduled to pass, and although her route was several miles to the southward, a fairly good view was had as she sailed majestically on her way.

The new innovation created by numbering the houses in our town is a move in the right direction, and a progressive measure that will be duly appreciated. Credit is largely due to the insistent demands of Ald. H. M. Lavigne.

Who Was This?

By A.A.M.

The Bible is rich in stories, and the purpose of this series is to encourage readers to look up for themselves the Bible versions of these incidents. If there are children in the family it is suggested that the story, and the Bible verses on which it is based, be read aloud.

What was the name of the Israelite whose eleven brothers feared him, because he was a powerful Prime Minister in Egypt, and they thought he might get even with them for the injustice they had done to him as a youth? Their father had just died, and the brothers said one to another, "It may be that our brother will hate us and pay us back for all the evil which we did to him."

They sent a messenger to this Israelite, saying, "Before he died our father commanded, 'Say to your brother, Forgive the transgressions of your brothers and their sin, because they did evil to you.' Now, we pray you, forgive our transgressions."

This Israelite wept when his brothers spoke thus to him. They came in and fell down before him, in Eastern style, bowing low, and saying, "Behold we are your servants."

Then this brother replied, "Fear not, for am I in the place of God? As for you, you meant evil against me; but God meant it for good, to bring about that many people should be kept alive, as they are to-day." In these words he referred to his own wise planning under God's direction. He had grain stored in Egypt in the years of plentiful harvest, which could be used in the years of famine.

Then he repeated, "So do not fear; I will provide for you and for your little ones." Thus he reassured and comforted his brobrothers.

He lived to be a hundred and ten years old and saw his children and his children's children and the third generation grow up around him. When he died his body was embalmed. His parting message to his brothers was,

"I am about to die, but God will visit you and bring you out of this land to the land which he swore to Abraham, to Isaac and to Jacob."

Find this man's name and read this story in Chapter 50 of Genesis. Verses 15 to 26.

High Water Temperature, Low Oxygen, Kill Many Fish in Ottawa River

Mattawa, Ont. — (CP) Ontario Lands and Forests officials said that the high temperature of the Ottawa River had killed thousands of fish near here.

Ken Irizawa, of Pembroke, and R. H. Millest, biologist from Toronto, said the water temperature caused a lack of oxygen resulting in death of the fish.

It was first thought the low level of the Ottawa River was the cause of the death of the fish, but officials ruled this out.

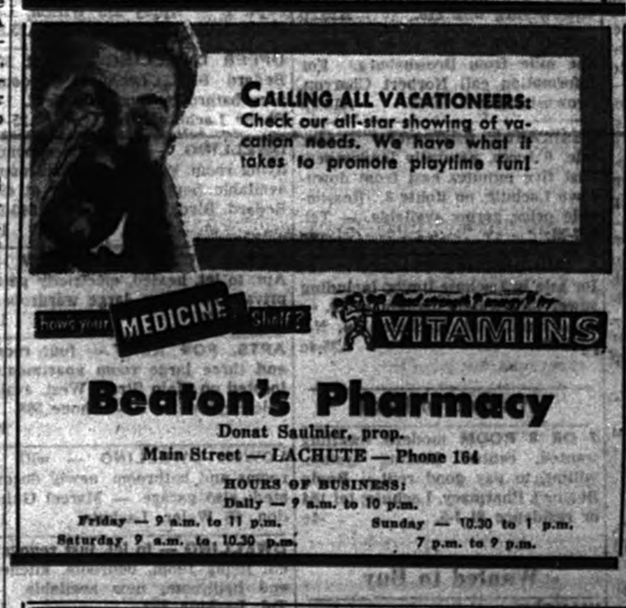

Mattawa is about 200 miles northwest of Ottawa.

Water in the river has been as high as 77 degrees and now averages in the neighborhood of 70 degrees in an 80-foot depth.

ALTERNATIVE VOTE

The alternative voting system isn't nearly as confusing as some make it out to be. We think it is as fair and democratic as any system that could be used.

— Kamloops (B.C.) Sentinel

Back in the nineties a patent was issued for an irrigating device consisting of a balloon, perforated water pipes ... and an active farmer to haul the whole contraption along by its guy ropes.

Today, of course, irrigation is a lot easier proposition. Aluminum irrigation tubing, for instance, can be laid, lifted, moved about with the greatest ease. With it one man can water more land than an army of balloon operators. Shows how lightweight, low-cost aluminum (Canada is the world's most efficient producer of the metal) makes a simple job out of a tough one.

Next to the mingled smells of coffee brewing and bacon sizzling in the pan, I don't know of a more pleasant way to be wakened of a summer's morn, than by the sound of "plopping" fish. Away with the strident notes of the alarm clock that reminds us all most a.m.'s that life is real and life is earnest. Give me instead the "plop" of a rising trout or of some granddaddy bass taking his morning nourishment. This time it was the steady rising of several wider-awake-than-I smallmouths that ushered in the new day and caused me to roll over in my sleeping bag, the better to get a look at the water and what was going on out there.

Gull's Breakfast

With our hunters lean-to pitched on "Reciprocity", one of the Thousand Islands, and the river flowing past at a good eight miles an hour just a few feet from where we lay, I had every opportunity to keep an eye on the feeding bass as I boiled up a before-breakfast kettle of tea. At that hour with no breeze to ruffle the river's smooth slick it was easy to spot the sudden ripples, like heavy rain falling, as a school of fear-propelled minnows surfaced in their endeavor to dodge the attacking bass. What really intrigued me though, were the tactics of the herring gulls, of which there were half a dozen wheeling overhead. Just as soon as a bass rose to slash at the fleeing minnows, one of these gulls would drop unerringly out of the sky to alight on the exact spot where the bass had broken water, and feed avidly on the still skurrying minnows.

And That's Not All

Later on the same morning, and after a leisurely breakfast, Harry and I went out on the river hoping to pick up a couple of dinner fish for the noonday meal. Harry worked his spinning rod whilst I manned the oars to the skiff. In an hour or so we raised and released fish on about every third cast, but all undersized. Harry had just taken a five-inch bass off the hook and tossed it back, when a gull dropped down and seized the fish as soon as it hit the water. On flying off with this prize, two other gulls appeared seemingly out of nowhere and gave chase. In the ensuing feathered acrobatics, the first gull dropped the bass from way on up and it floated down as if in slow motion. Before it reached the water one of the interloping gulls, with unbelievable skill, sailed down in a sideways dive to catch the fish in mid-air and thereupon made off triumphantly with the trophy. This prompts me to observe that the angler catches memorable glimpses of nature even when he is not catching fish.

Propane Stoves and Lanterns

On this trip we field-tested a propane stove and lantern.

Light of the lantern and heat for the stove is supplied by interchangeable, easily installed and disposable-when-empty cylinders of instantly-lighting propane fuel. With the lantern all you have to do is turn on the gas, light up, and night is turned into day. The lantern burns with a clear white light that is adjustable from a bright beam to a soft glow. The stove, light and portable, has a single wind-shielded burner that cooks just like your propane-fueled kitchen stove. No smoking and no blackened pans. No fluid fuel to haul; no pumping, priming, filling or spilling. In the tent, in the camp, duck-blind or boat, or anywhere you want, light or heat for cooking out-of-doors, this is the answer to the outdoorman's prayer for equipment that is the last word in safety and convenience.

That Versatile Foil

We increased the efficiency of our lantern by installing a reflector of aluminum foil, which gave us twice as much light on the side where we wanted it most. Directs the heat too, and not a bad idea to have up your sleeve as the cool fall nights approach. Just take a piece of foil and shape it to fit close to the inside one-half of the lantern's globe. The bottom of the globe holds the foil in place and the top of the foil can curve over, the globe and is held in place by the frame. This stunt works equally well with the gas lanterns. If and when the foil gets sooty, chuck it away and replace with a new piece.

Amateur Athletes Lose Star Track Runner

By Milt MacPhail,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

One of Canada's best athletes will be missing from the Canadian contingent for the Melbourne Olympic Games next year.

Star miler Rich Ferguson's retirement the other day leaves a big hole in Canada's track team, one that might not be filled for some years. The Toronto runner, selected as Canada's top male athlete of 1954, is leaving the cinder track for marriage and a business career.

In announcing his forthcoming marriage to Vancouver swim star Kay McNamee, herself a former Olympic competitor, Ferguson made it plain he won't be in Melbourne.

"As far as anything big is concerned, I'm through," he said. "I'm not in training. I haven't the time."

Thus apparently ends the athletic career of a young man who perhaps brought Canada more track fame than anyone since Percy Williams.

Famous Race

A remarkable third-place finish to Roger Bannister and John Landy in the British Empire Games last summer was the high point of Ferguson's carreer. His time of 4:04.6 was a Canadian native record. And Canada will miss the long-legged kid who twice was named the country's outstanding male athlete before he gained notice in the United States while running for Iowa University.

Lloyd Percival, Ferguson's coach for several years, says: "There isn't a miler in Canada like him and I can't see anybody for some years."

According to Percival, Canada's two top milers are Selwyn Jones and John Moule, both of Hamilton. Jones, now attending Michigan State, has run the mile in 4:13 while Moule, a student at Michigan University, has been clocked in 4:09.

Both times are far off Ferguson's sparkling performance at Vancouver.

Mature Swimmer

Around Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., many people think a 40-year-old Swiss woman has a good chance to win the Lake Ontario swim this fall. Miss Rosets Tanner, now living at the Sault, completed a 14-mile swim across the rugged North Channel and back again.

Her coach, Gus Kalkun, talks of her strength and stamina. "Although she does not have youth on her side she has endurance, determination and a will to win which are the most essential in long-distance swimming," he said.

Miss Tanner made the swim at Sault Ste. Marie without any preparatory training and was scarcely stiff after it.

Brownsburg vs. Lefaivre in Semi-Finals

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — Again this week, Brownsburg's ball team fell foul of Lady Luck, when she inflicted her fifth one-run reversal of the season on them. It was a climactic finish, as Mike Gratton in the top of the ninth hammered a long double to deep centre, roared on past second to stretch it to a triple, and on an overthrow at third came home with the tying run.

In the bottom of the ninth the blow fell! With two on and two out, Kingsbury, Lefaivre's fielding star, smacked a hard-hit ball down the third base line. In most leagues it was a sure hit, but Keith Hazel charged the ball with splendid anticipation but couldn't come up with the ball. It was too bad on Keith for he charged a sacrifice bunt in the fifth and turned it into a double play. He picked off an attempted steal in the sixth and had he been less alert on the fatal play, it might well have gone as a hit instead of an error.

It was a bad day for our star infields; Ouellette and Jacques Racine, who have been mainstays in most of the games, were patchy in the field and hitless at bat.

Brent Steele, Mike Gratton, Yves Raymond and pitcher Ronald Cousineau picked up two hits apiece as Brownsburg outhit Lefaivre 10 to 9.

The second in the best-of-three semi-final series is to be played here this Sunday. If the number who travelled to Lefaivre is any criterion, there should be a big crowd watching Brownsburg battle to square the series!

Newest toast of the fistic world is light-heavyweight Floyd Patterson, a youngster who belts his opponents out with lightning speed.

Now only 20, the Bronx negro is being boosted by his handlers and some ring observers as the next Joe Louis. They might be right. Like Louis, Patterson has knockout power in either fist, and he seems much faster than the old Brown Bomber was in his prime.

Patterson first gained notice in the last Olympics when he won the light-heavyweight title for the United States. During the tournament, he won one fight when his opponent became frightened at the last minute and refused to go in the ring.

Patterson has had 10 fights as a professional, winning nine, five of them by knockouts, and losing only a disputed decision to former light-heavy champ Joey Maxim.

Gus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, has big things in mind for his fighter. He'd like Patterson to fight Archie Moore for the light-heavyweight championship if Moore loses in his bid to capture Rocky Marciano's heavyweight crown in September.

Aftetr that, D'Amato says he's going after Marciano.

Wrestling Monday At Exhibition Grounds

Claude Des Harnais, who graduated from the wrestling game as a career casualty with an artificial leg, is here to promote a mat program at the Exhibition Grounds on Monday, August 22. His card includes an ambitious cast, starring in the final bout none other than Yvon Robert, versus Al Mills — with that idle of the ice-fields, the tempestuous Rocket Richard, as referee. As attraction for the kids there will be a drawing, with hockey sticks bearing the Rocket's autograph as prizes . . . . Three other bouts, one featuring Goliath the Giant, are included on this program. (See announcement on this page.)

Lachute Lady Driver in Rigaud Harness Entry

For the first time, a woman driver will be competing on the Rigaud race-track this Sunday, when Mrs. Leon St. Jacques, of Lachute, drives her horse Danny Forbes in the opening race for three-year-olds.

2nd Race — Guy Grattan, Billy K. Guy, Linda B, Smoky Todd, Jack Goodwill, Lady Chips, Traxi Todd, Steward Imperial.

Mayor of New York To Ottawa Exhibition

On International Day, Tuesday, August 23, the guest of honor at the Central Exhibition, Ottawa, will be the Hon. Robert F. Wagner, Mayor of New York City. He is the youngest man ever to hold the position of Chief Executive of the World's largest city and one of the youngest mayors in the United States, being only 45. He was born in New York City, April 20, 1910 and has held important public offices since he was 27 years of age.

During World War II Mayor Wagner served with distinction in the United States Air Force overseas and when discharged at the end of the War had attained the rank of a Lieutenant Colonel.

In 1946, Mr. Wagner was appointed Tax Commissioner of New York City and on the following December was named Commissioner of Housing and Buildings, a position he filled with notable ability for three years. In 1950 he was elected President of the Borough of Manhattan. While holding that position he set up 12 Community planning divisions to operate in every section of Manhattan with a view of trying to solve the many difficult problems related to housing and community improvement. Under his visionary direction the work attained a high measure of accomplishment.

In 1953 he won the three cornered contest for Mayor of New York Since then he has appointed a City Administrator, whose duties are to modernize the direction and management of the various civic departments This new policy in the civic government of New York has brought about a more efficient and economical administration. He has also introduced a system that has eliminated many of the former elements of political favoritism in the appointment of officials to the most important public offices.

New Book of Facts About Canada

All the coal mines in Nova Scotia were once given as a gift to the brother of George IV — a royal spendthrift who in two years lost the mines to his creditors.

In the last 50 years the average Canadian farm has increased in size from 124 to 279 acres, and in value of land, buildings, machinery and livestock from $3,500 to $15,000. In just the past 15 years the number of Canadians employed on farms has decreased from 1,100,000 to about 800,000 — while in the same period the number of Canadians employed in manufacturing has increased from 650,000 to more than 1,300,000.

Such are some of the items of information contained in the 11th annual edition of Quick Canadian Facts, the pocket annual of facts about Canada released this week by the publishers.

Among the thousands of other facts about Canada noted in the new book are:

Only two countries in the world, the United States and Soviet Russia, have more miles of railway track than has Canada; Canadian railways operate 4,818 locomotives, 6,456 passenger cars and 187,980 freight cars;

Since 1939 the average weekly wage in Canadian manufacturing plants has increased from $20.14 to $58.36;

The White House in Washington gained its name through a series of events that started with the burning of Toronto by American forces in the War of 1812; in retaliation British forces captured the U.S. capital and burned public buildings, including the president's residence, which, scarred by flames, was painted over with white paint and has been known as the White House ever since.

The new edition of Quick Canadian Facts, which carries up-to-date information on all significant aspects of Canadian life, is released this week to newsstands and book stores.

Honor Distinguished Sons Of Shediac District

The editor of the first Acadian newspaper is one of the distinguished sons of Shediac district, New Brunswick, whose works were jointly commemorated when a cut-stone monument was unveiled in a small park in the centre of Shediac on August 13. The memorial was recommended by the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada and erectetd by the Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources. It carries two bronze tablets, with one inscription in French the other in English.

The monument honors four men of letters who were all born in or near Shediac. Ferdinand Robidoux, 1849-1921, who for 50 years edited the first Acadian newspaper "Le Moniteur Acadien", is one of the men whose name appears on the tablets. The others are Pascal Poirier, 1852-1933, historian and first Acadian senator; John Clarence Webster, 1863-1950, historian, professor and eminent surgeon; and Placide Gaudet, 1850-1930, historian and genealogist.

Acadian Celebrations In Month of August

The 200th anniversary of the expulsion of the Acadians is being observed in the Maritime provinces during the month of August. The focal point of the observation is not so much in the expulsion itself, but rather in the contribution Acadians made previous to the event and on returning to various parts of the Maritimes after their expulsion.

In the "Canadian Scene" radio broadcast this Sunday, Ken Homer, CBC outside broadcasts producer, has prepared an account of the celebrations — bringing out stories of family groups whose ancestors returned to take up new lives after being transplanted by the British. The broadcast will also contain a word-and-sound picture of the highlights of the celebrations and demonstrations of folk music being presented during the month.

Acadian history in the Maritimes dates back to the early 1600's when Sieur de Monts was given authority by King Henry IV of France to settle that part of the new world between the 40th and 46th north latitude known as l'Acadie or Acadia. Several families settled in the area and after a time were joined by others. Although life was difficult the broad acres of fertile farmland provided a good harvest and by 1755 there were 3,000 new inhabitants settled in the land between Port Royal and the Isthmus of Chignecto.

Most of the Acadians were farmers, although there were some fishermen, tradesmen, and "coureurs de bois" among them. As many of the early settlers came from areas in France bordering the English Channel and the Bay of Biscay they followed old customs of their ancestors in making their homes in river valleys along the shores of the Bay of Fundy. The first settlers lived in huts but later frame houses were built and although life was very primitive it had its rewards.

The fertile farmland produced good crops of hay and grain and flocks and herds of domesticated animals were introduced. Orchards and gardens were planted on the uplands and the lowlands produced some 20 bushels of grain to the acre. Various conflicts between England and France and the independent pioneer nature of the Acadians, expressed in their refusal to take the oath of allegiance to an English king, finally led to expulsion of a large portion of the French-speaking population settled along the Bay of Fundy. Taken with their possessions and families by ship and on foot, they were scattered among the English colonies to the south. Here the exiles found life uncongenial and most of them wandered away. Many went westward to the Mississippi valley and settled in what is now the state of Louisiana. Others crossed the Atlantic to England and France and a good number found their way back to the land of their birth.

Since their return, several Acadians have figured prominently in Canadian affairs, especially since the founding of what is now St. Joseph's University near Moncton. The university is close to 100 years old and has devoted much of its time to offering educational facilities to descendants of the Acadians who once populated a good portion of the area which is now the Maritime provinces.

About the only thing some men do religiously every Sunday is play golf.

N.S. TOWN CELEBRATES 350th ANNIVERSARY

Called the place where Canada was born, Annapolis Royal, N.S., celebrated its 350-anniversary with renactment of famous battle at Fort Anne. All three services took part in the revival of the attack on the fortress. Here Bill Reedyk of Lethbridge, Alta; Dari Charlton of Calgary and Bob La Chapelle of North Bay, Ont., forsake their seamen's uniforms for those of the British Grenadiers of 1605.

Pretty Princess at the celebration was Maxine Henshaw of Deepbrook, N.S. Handsome floats in a gala parade recalled in detail the early years of Annapolis which was founded by Sieur Des Monts, Samuel de Champlain in 1605.

Color TV Sets Ready by Autumn

Television manufacturers are keeping pace with the CBC's sometimes contradictory decisions on color TV.

Four large makers said they would definitely start making color sets, following the CBC's announcement recently that it planned experimental color programs over Toronto, Ottawa, and Montreal stations next fall — writes June Becker in "Marketing".

Here are expected costs: Lowest price quoted by any Canadian manufacturer for a color set here (Toronto) was just under $1,000 and it's likely that most will sell between $1,200 and $1,400 apiece, depending on screen width.

"We expect about 3,000 color sets to be sold here by the end of the year," said I. M. Leslie, chairman of the Radio-Electronics Television Manufacturers' Association's color tv committee and vice-president of Crosley TV.

"At least half a dozen top makers expected to go into color production. But it probably won't reach a peak until about 1958."

CANADIAN BANDS FOR EDINBURGH FESTIVAL

London — Pipes and drums of the 1st and 2nd Battalions of the Black Watch of Canada will take part in both the Highland Games and Edinburgh Festival, opening August 21. Commonwealth bands in addition to those from Canada will attend from Pakistan and India. There will also be representative pipers from Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. The two Canadian bands will participate in the military tattoo staged by searchlight every evening on the esplanade of historic Edinburgh Castle. This is one of the most stirring events of the Festival.

Old Carver Records Nootka Indian Lore

Vancouver (CP) — A man who has been carving for 60 years is still whittling totem poles depicting the legends of the once-powerful Nootka tribe.

Jimmy John, who calls himself historical recorder and speaker for the Nootkas, says each totem carries a tale of intrigue, happiness or fear and he wields his razor-sharp knife with the concentration of the skilled craftsman.

"This is the only school I know," said the 72-year-old artist as he tapped his chisel against the head of a Thunderbird he was carving. He has been carving totems and masks and engraving on metals since he was 12.

The passenger pigeon, once widely used as a table fowl in Canada east of the Rockies, has been extinct since 1914.

Tomatoes—Fruit Or Vegetable?

One point of controversy concerning tomatoes is the question, "Is the tomato a fruit or a vegetable?" Reports have it that about forty years ago the argument got so involved the case was taken to court. The lawyers ruled that the tomato was a vegetable but scientists claim it as a fruit. Nutritionists and home economists have settled the argument for homemakers by saying the tomato may be used as fruit or vegetable and served in nearly every course of breakfast, dinner and supper.

This is the season for Canadian field tomatoes and naturally they are much in evidence in the shops and on the markets — red, ripe and ready for the table. Before the season is over many will find their way into the canning or pickling kettyle as well as being served cold in salads and sandwiches and hot on vegetable plates and in casseroles. When buying tomatoes, choose well-formed ones which are firm, plump, smooth and free from blemishes. They should have a good red colour, and be just ripe rather than under or over-ripe.

If, by chance, a few tomatoes which are a little irregular in shape turn up in a basket, use them for stewing or in casserole dishes or if there are any which are a little on the green side ripen them at room temperature. The kitchen cupboard is an ideal spot for this. The refrigerator is the best place for storing ripe tomatoes and of course they should be thoroughly washed and dried before putting them in it.

Vine-ripened tomatoes taste their very best when eaten as soon after picking as possible. For this reason the home economists of the Consumer Section, Ottawa, suggest not to buy too many tomatoes at one time but to buy them often.

Tomatoes are really good mixers and the number of delicious food combinations that can be made Served hot, they can be, broiled, fried, baked, stewed or cooked in a casserole, to mention just a few ways of cooking them.

Broiled ripe tomatoes are popular with many families. They are delicious when cut in half, sprinkled generously with grated cheese, seasoned with basil and then broiled. Another cheese and tomato combination is a grilled cheese and tomato sandwich.

Baked stuffed tomatoes make very good eating too. Tempting fillings can be made with creamed meats, poultry or vegetables. A mixture of corn kernels, chopped green pepper and ham cubes or chipped bacon is another tasty filling. A topping of buttered bread crumbs with a little grated cheese makes a lovely colour contrast with the bright red of the tomato.

Green tomatoes do not get as much publicity as red ones, but they also can add interesting variety to many meals. They are really good served fried with bacon seasoned with salt and pepper and some like to sprinkle a little brown sugar over them. Green tomatoes aer even more apt to wind up in the pickling kettle than red ones and what could be better to tempt winter appetites than a green tomato to relish or chow chow.

To peel or not to peel tomatoes is often the question. The skin can be taken off them if the ripe tomatoes are dipped in boiling water for a fraction of a minute and then plunged into cold water right away. On the other hand, why not eat the skin? For what is better as a snack or as part of a work-day lunch than a ripe, red tomato which is easy to handle in the fingers with the skin serving as a jacket!

When adding tomato pieces to salads the Consumer Section says to add them just at the last minute because they tend to thin the dressing. The home economists also suggest cutting tomatoes lengthwise, from the stem and down, rather than crosswise for salads and sandwiches because much less juice is lost this way.

Ripe, chilled tomatoes lend themselves to all sorts of possibilities. They can be stuffed with meat, eggs, cheese or vegetable fillings; added to jellied salads; sliced or quartered, served on salad plates, or diced and lightly mixed with salad greens. They are good too, used in hors d'oeuvres or on relish tray and the popularity of tomatoes in sandwiches should not be overlooked. Sprinkling a little finely chipped mint over the tomato slices gives the sandwiches quite an unusual flavour.

Party Fare

Refreshing glasses of lemonade and tall sparkling glasses of iced tea or coffee are something to look forward to on warm afternoons and evenings. Here's a delicious snack-time favorite that's easy to make for a few people or a crowd. The simple ingredients are bread slices, sweetened condensed milk, shredded coconut and walnuts. These Coconut Squares can be served warm or cold — they're a sweet treat to go along with the frosty glasses that are so popular in hot weather.

Coconut Bread Squares

6 Slices of enriched white bread (cut 1¼" thick), ½ cup sweetened condensed milk, 1½ cups shredded coconut, ½ cup walnuts (finely chopped).

Grease a 17 x 11 inch-baking sheet. Preheat oven to 350 deg. F. Remove crusts from bread slices and cut each slice into four equal squares. Roll each square in sweetened condensed milk and then in coconut. Place squares on greased baking sheet. Sprinkle top surface with finely chopped walnuts. Bake in preheated oven for 20 minutes. Serve warm, or cool as "cake". Makes 24 squares.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Packing for the trip is a calm, simple process that doesn't take you more than an hour IF — and this is a large if — you plan ahead. A week or so before you set out, make a "be sure to take" list based on your vacation goal and your plans for pleasure. This list serves as a beforehand shopping guide and as a memory jogger when you actually begin to pack.

Experienced travellers resist the temptation to take along everything in site. Questioned in a survey, 700 women tourists agreed that two pieces of luggage were ample for trips averaging 3,000 miles. The favorite combination is one large wardrobe suitcase and one overnight case or sturdy cardboard box.

Choose crush resistant clothes which can be used for a variety of occasions. The subject of travel clothes, of course, is tremendous, and I plan to write about it soon but in the meantime I'd like to hear about the kind of styles you've found to be practical.

The idea in packing is to keep everything just as clean and unwrinkled as if it had just come from your closet. It's easy: Put shoes in special bags so they won't get your other clothes dirty. If you don't have shoe bags, try using your husband's old socks.

"Luggage Leaves" which you can make yourself of plastic or pellon are another great help in avoiding wrinkles — especially these "new look" days. They serve to separate into layers the various types of garments in your suitcase. The result is an efficient filing system right in your own travel bag. Some people like to leave dresses on hangers and pack them right in the bags as they are sent from the dry cleaner.

Sweaters are useful and easy to pack. You'll find they'll get less wrinkled if they're rolled instead of folded.

Then spillables and breakables among your drugs and cosmetics can cause real damage if they are not put in Pliofilm bags or other leak-proof containers. Incidentally, you'll find it convenient to place toilet articles in a plastic kit to avoid scrambling through your whole suitcase when you're looking for toothpaste, nail polish or powder.

Coats, raincoats and suit jackets stay immaculate if you hang them in the back of the car. Picnic equipment can easily be kept on the rear floor and the glove compartment holds flashlight, whisk broom, facial tissues, road maps and other "in demand" odds and ends.

Don't underestimate the importance of planned packing. I've always found that a little organizing ahead of time lets you start out without that "I'm sure I forgot something feeling.

Let's Eat

IDA BAILEY ALLEN

Madame, when you first suggested we serve bunwiches for dinner on a warm day it seemed to me altogether too casual or 'off-hand'," remarked the Chef. "But now that we have invented so many substantial bunwiches and sandwiches here in the test-kitchen, my mind has changed."

Provides Proteins

"A generous filling can provide most of the protein needed for a summer dinner, Chef," I told him.

"The bunwiches or bread provide carbohydrates, proteins, vitamins and minerals and the butter or margarine provides the fat. Add a tossed salad slaw or tomato platter, bowls of a hot or cold milk soup, perhaps a lattice top fruit pie and a beverage and every nutritional need is met."

"Another good point about such a dinner, Madame," he said, "is that it can be prepared in advance. The soup can be made and the pie baked in the morning, while other kitchen work is being done. Our new bologna-cheese bunwiches can be made up, wrapped in aluminum foil and refrigerated until time to quick-bake or broil.

Garden Vegetable Cream Soup: Coarse-grind 2 peeled, small white turnips, 2 peeled carrots, 3 long stalks celery, 1 slice onion and 1 cup fresh or frozen green peas. Place in a saucepan; add 2 cups boiling water and 2 tbsp. butter or margarine. Cover and steam-cook about 20 minutes.

Add 1 qt. whole milk. Cook and stir until almost boiling. Season with ½ tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. monosodium glutamate and ⅛ tsp. pepper.

If desired, thicken the soup by adding 2 tbsp. flour, stirred smooth in 2 tbsp. milk and simmering 3 minutes. Garnish of minced parsley.

Bologna - Cheese Bunwiches: Chop enough bologna (skin removed) to make 2 cups. Add ½ lb. chopped sharp American cheese, ¾ cup chili sauce, ¼ cup mayonnaise, ½ cup minced celery, 2 tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. monosodium glutamate and ½ tsp. pepper.

Split 12 burger buns crosswise leaving a "hinge." Fill with the bologna-cheese mixture.

Wrap each in aluminum foil. Refrigerate until cooking time. Then bake on a barbecue grill or in the oven until very hot. Serve in the foil.

HAMILTON HOUSEWIVES PREFER HOME GOODS

A survey conducted by third-year students of the Provincial Institute of Textiles showed that of a representative group of Hamilton, Ontario, housewives, 74.5% prefer to buy Canadian-made products, 5.4% prefer imports and 20.1% are indifferent.

Those consumers stating a preference for Canadian-made products gave us their reasons: (a) to keep Canadians employed; (b) Canadian goods are superior; (c) as good as imports; (d) prefer Canadian styles; (e) patronize union-made labels.

Complete answers were obtained from 318 housewives in eight districts of the city.

Fashions

The jumper is still very much a part of the fashion picture but has somehow moved out of the casual or general wear class into a more exotic realm, as witness this pretty example. It is of black jersey and is lined in taffeta to give it a crisp, important air. There are gathers in front of the skirt, and the back is gored. Double belt with two brass buckles in back, one above the other. With the jumper is a soft shirt blouse of matte jersey, a scroll print in gray on white.

Labor Day Ensemble

With Labor Day the summer's final holiday, Joan Fairfax, CBC's comely TV singer, has given the day some special attention with her delightful workingman's ensemble. Joan will be enjoying the long Labor Day week-end with millions of other Canadians, but she will be back in the CBC-TV studios Wednesday night to star on the "On Stage" show with Denny Vaughan.

The Bible Says :

"This message of God's Kingdom shall be preached in all the world, and then shall the end come, not the end of this beautiful earth, but the end of Satan's rule." . . .

This is the good news or gospel. Read about the good work being done by Jehovah's Witnesses in Formosa. (An extract from The Watch Tower, Aug. 15, 1955.)

Congratulations, Formosa !

Victory has been won on Formosa! It is a victory for cherished freedoms that all enlightened men hold dear. It is a victory for the Chinese government now on Formosa, demonstrating an appreciation of the ideals that sustain free men today. It shows that the government is not only ready to make professions of freedom and equal rights for all, but it is also ready to back words by action.

On March 23, 1955, the governor of the province of Taiwan (Formosa) approved registration of the International Bible Students Association in Taiwan, and this registration went into effect when the district court in Taipei, after making its investigation, gave final approval on April 25.

Thus an 18-year fight for recognition and religious freedom by the faithful witnesses of Jehovah on Taiwan has at last borne fruit. It is a praiseworthy result, in that it shows that unrelenting determination, patience and integrity on the part of God's servants bring their reward. It is praiseworthy on the part of the Formosan government, in that it shows the government has been willing to discard former prejudices and reverse the mistakes made by predecessors in government.

It is eighteen long years now since the first native Taiwanese, accepted the Bible teachings from Jehovah's witnesses. From the very beginning theirs has been a fight for the truth. The first Taiwanese minister of Jehovah's witnesses was imprisoned by the Japanese just three weeks after being baptized, and his record shows that during the next ten years he spent the greater part of his time behind prison walls and in torture chambers.

But he kept fighting for the truth, and others joined him in the fight. It was harder than ordinary fighting, for they had no carnal weapons for protection against their Japanese persecutors. But being fortified by the Word of God and having the shield of faith and other divinely provided equipment, they fought on. They received no 'Watchtower' magazines from the outside world to help. They had no association with others of their faith. All the association any of them had in those first ten years was one week by the one original Taiwanese minister with the Japanese minister who first brought him the Bible truth. This Japanese minister was later shot by the Japanese dictators because he dared to be an active Christian.

Then the Japanese rulers left and the Chinese government came. Jehovah's witnesses of Taiwan, 300 strong, rejoiced. At last, will it be religious freedom? But their hopes were short lived. Local Chinese police took up the false records left by the Japanese dictators and apparently believed them, and the oppression continued. Eight applications for the recognition of the Christian organization of Jehovah's witnesses dragged through government departments; eight times these were turned down.

However, changes were taking place on Taiwan. The Nationalist government, linked now so closely with the democracies of the West, was imbibing Western ideas. President Chiang himself admitted he had made mistakes on the mainland and that an honest endeavor would be made to correct these. Steps were taken to establish enlightened government in Taiwan. Cruelties and injustices, common to many Oriental countries, were gradually eliminated. And at last there came a reconsideration of the case of Jehovah's witnesses, with finally, at the ninth attempt, the registration of their organization in Taiwan.

Jehovah's faithful witnesses of Taiwan have been busy for eighteen years fighting for this recognition. And they are busy now. Doing what? Building the twenty-eight Kingdom Halls that are necessary in order to hold meetings legally under the wartime conditions in Taiwan. It is expected that by the time you read these words those Kingdom Halls will be completed and the 1,782 active ministers of Jehovah's witnesses in Taiwan, together with many others of good will, will be meeting together for worship of Jehovah God. Further, they will continue to proclaim by their law-abiding course of action that the government has not misplaced confidence in granting them full freedom of worship.

That an enlightened Formosa has shown kindness to Jehovah's Witnesses is to her credit and a source of great joy to Jehovah's Witnesses. Congratulations, Formosa!

"YOUNGER" SISTER IS 100 YEARS OLD

Toronto (CP) — Mrs. Jane Tutty is a younger sister — she's only 100.

Her sister, Mrs. Sarah Johnston celebrated 102 years June 15.

Grandma Tutty had the sort of pioneer life people read about. She came over from England 70 years ago in a sailing ship and was "so sick on the three-week crossing I didn't care if I lived or died."

She settled down in the backwoods area in what is now the outskirts of Toronto, married three times and lost her sight at 80 years.

She became wife of a tailor and then wife of a railroad man after her first husband died leaving her with two small daughters. She celebrated her birthday surrounded by 11 granchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

From 1945 to 1953 the consumption of milk in Canada declined from 1.02 pints per person per day to .86 pints.

The marriage of Miss Joyce Maxwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Maxwell, of Mille Isles, and Donald Philip Thomson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Thomson, of St. Lambert, took place recently in Christ Church, Mille Isles, the Rev. H. G. Baugh officiating. Summer flowers decorated the church for the ceremony, at which the organist was Mrs. Allan Buxton.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a long gown of white lace and nylon tulle over taffeta. The lace bolero was fashioned with long sleeves ending in points over the hands. The full tulle skirt was appliquéd with lace flowers embroidered with sequins. The matching lace headdress was trimmed with seed pearls and sequins, and held her elbow-length veil of tulle illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink carnations.

The maid of honor, Miss Mary Neate, wore a long gown of blue crystalette with bolero and full skirt. She wore a matching headpiece and carried a colonial bouquet of medium pink carnations.

The flower girl, Patricia Thomson, wore a long gown of pink embroidered nylon over taffeta with matching headpiece, and carried a colonial bouquet of deep pink carnations.

William Thomson was best man, and ushers were Donald Maxwell and George Thomson.

Mrs. Maxwell, the bride's mother, wore a navy blue nylon dress with navy hat and accessories. Her corsage was of deep pink roses. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Thomson, wore a dress of medium blue lace and crepe, with white hat and accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where summer flowers were used to decorate. Mr. and Mrs. Thomson later left by motor for Cape Cod. The bride wore a brown suit with matching picture hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

A Minister's Farewell To Avoca

(Tune: Swanee River)

Avoca lies
Surrounded by its tree-clad splendour,
An earthly Paradise.
Fertile fields and sparkling, flowing river,
And water falls,
Arouse the grateful instincts ever
As nature's beauty calls.

Chorus:
In Avoca's fragrant beauty
I would love to stay,
But now the urgent voice of duty
Calls me to go away.

A fitting place for meditation,
In thee I found
Great peace in solemn contemplation,
Of lovely scenes around,
Stately and picturesque, tall giants,
Great giants wave,
As to the winds they show defiance,
When over hills they rave.

Mid lovely lakes and glades and valleys,
By faith I see
God's wonderful terrestrial palace,
Fashioned for you and me.
The song-bird sings its own sweet lyric,
From dawn of day,
All Nature sings melodious music,
Calling each one to pray.

The scenes by which I am surrounded,
Now shall be mine,
Where grace and peace and rest abounded,
They in my heart will shine.
When faced by this great world's commotion,
I can find rest,
In memories of sweet devotion,
When I was truly blest.

About Avoca's unique features,
I would love to sing,
Pleasure to all its human creatures,
I want to bring.
Their Heavenly Father now has placed them
Where they may be,
Some foreviews of the scenes of Heaven,
When given eternally.

Scout Uniforms

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

"How alike! . . . and yet how different!" Canadians living near Niagara-on-the-Lake will exclaim as they watch ten thousand Scouts from fifty countries march past. The World Scout Jamboree late in August will be pictured in the press, in the movies and on TV, and thousands of other people will have a similar reaction. Boys are boys the world over . . . but a boy in a Scout uniform is something "Special!"

Robert Baden-Powell, the founder of Boy Scouts, realized the importance of a uniform. Back in 1907 when he had his very first experimental camp on Brownsea Island, Poole Harbour, Dorset, British lads wore rather drab, uncomfortable clothes. Many of them suffered bfrom a still Eton collar worn outside a belted Norfolk jacket, knickerbockers strapped below the knees, long stockings and boots for hiking.

"B.P.," as he became known, must have amazed the parents of the boys at his first camp when he suggested the lads arrive in flannel shorts. Each boy was given a patrol shoulder knot of coloured wool and a brass fleur-de-lys badge. Thus the forerunner of the Scout Camp gatherings was filled with boys who were not only from all walks of life, but they were also somewhat similarly dressed.

The cowboy-type Scout hat and staff had been useful to "B.P." in the South African campaign in 1895. The earliest Scouts of over forty years ago had four basic articles of dress: a wide-brimmed hat with dented crown, a coloured neckerchief knotted at the throat, a long coloured Patrol shoulder knot and a staff. "B.P." became one of the great public figures in Britain and his comment on uniforms was well known: "Smartness in uniforms and correctness in detail . . . means an immense deal to the reputation of the movement among outsiders."

With the passing of the years, the shirt and scarf, and to a lesser extent, shorts have been adopted by Scouts all over the world.

The Scout headdress varies according to climatic demands and national tradition. The Lebanese Scouts wear the Bedouin head piece—a flowing white cloth which hangs around his shoulders, and around his head are plaited rings. Jamaica Scouts wear straw hats shaped in the traditional style and tartan scarfs. Armenian Scouts have a dark blue uniform and a tall dark brown hat, of astrakhan material. This is a rough cloth with a curled pile which also is used in Pakistan in a Scout headdress fashioned like a Jinnah hat. The many Scouts in equatorial Africa wear a light khaki drill beret perched at a jaunty anagle. A basque beret is worn on the heads of French Scouts. Zanzibar Scouts appear with a tasselled fez and so do a number of other Moslem Scouts. Khaki turbans belong to Sudan Scouts and in India the Scout turban conforms to the style of various sects.

Knee length seal skin boots have proven practical for Greenland's Scouts and so has their hood which hangs from their shoulders. This can be quickly pulled over their heads in cold stormy weather.

English Scouts wear khaki shirts, and Scouts in Scotland wear a tartan kilt. Sporrans are also worn with khaki shirts by Scouts north of the Tweed. The Republic of Ireland Scouts sport either shorts or an emerald green tartan with shirt to match. The Fiji Island Scout calls his close-fitting, light-coloured shirt with its saw-toothed hem a "Lava Lava." He seldom wears a hat and is either barefoot or wears sandals.

The Canadian Scout uniform, in June 1955, was worn by one hundred and seventy-five thousand, two hundred and eighty-six Scouts in our Dominion, and by two hundred Canadian boys whose fathers serve in the Infantry Brigade in West Germany and by members of the Scout Troop whose families are with the Canadian Air Force in Europe. In our country with its vast distances, there are almost five hundred "Lone" Canadian Scouts, living too far from a centre of population to attend a meeting each week. All these boys are brother Scouts in a world-wide fellowship of six million Scouts. One and a half million of these are in the Commonwealth countries.

A Canadian Scout wears black or brown shoes, navy stockings with green tops, green garter tabs, dark blue shorts about one and a half inches above the knee, a Scout belt, a dark green shirt with the sleeves rolled under or cut short. On the right sleeve are worn the Troop or Pack Shoulder Badge, and the proficiency badges. A Scout hat and a group neckerchief caught with a small leather circle are also part of the standard outfit. Sheaf knives cannot be worn by Scouts under First Grade.

But more important even than the Scout Uniform is the Spirit of Scouting. Boys from rich and from poor families are fired by Scout ideals. Thanks to alert Mothers' Scout Auxiliaries, who often run a Uniform Exchange as a service venture, there are very few boys who cannot be smartly and correctly dressed in Scout togs.

But even in areas where it is difficult for boys to sport a complete uniform, Scouting is growing. It appeals to the best in boys and meets their needs. It increases in numbers as able men volunteer to give leadership to Cub packs and Scout Troops. What about the boys in your community? Don't you think they deserve the best? See to it that they have the right to wear the most widely recognized Youth uniform this side of the Iron Curtain.

Scientific Research At Central Farm Pays Big Dividends

Ottawa (CP) — This is the time of year when visitors to Canada's Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa ask: "Is this a farm or a park?"

The farm, 1,200 well-manicured acres of land, all within the Capital's city limits, is probably the best-kept farm in Canada. You can find there almost everything that growns in Canadian soil.

It's the showplace that costs about $2,500,000 a year to operate but where experiments yield millions of dollars to the country's farmers in better farming methods.

A frisky young lamb or calf might amuse the children, but actually the animals are being watched by scientists for wool or meat yield.

The Central Experimental Farm is the headquarters for a system unlike any other in North America.

It includes 32 other experimental farms across Canada, two forest nursery stations, 32 experimental sub-stations and some 200 illustration stations. The latter are private farms where new agricultural methods filter down to the grassroots — the farmers for whom the work is done.

Some of the fruits and vegetables grown on the farm are sold to wholesalers at the going market price. Livestock not suitable for breeding purposes is sent to the packinghouses. The grain produced on the farm is fed to the livestock, including more than 25 horses, 300 head of cattle, 650 sheep, 450 pigs, and 5,000 poultry.

Each year, farm workers plant between 10,000 and 12,000 tulip bulbs in the farm's ornamental gardens and 50,000 more along the city's Island Park drive which cuts across the farm and one of the most select residential districts in the capital.

Farm officials say the most popular souvenir objects are the tags on shrubs and trees. Some of the shrubs are 75 years old — older than the farm itself. They were transplanted there in the early years of the farm.

NO HEAT WAVE HERE — While large portions of Canada have been sizzling in summer heat waves, officers and men in the Royal Canadian Navy's Arctic patrol vessel, HMCS Labrador, are having no trouble to keep cool. This dramatic picture, taken from one of the ship's helicopters, shows her nudging her way through heavy ice packs in the Canadian Arctic. August Meetings Of W.I. Branches

At Arundel Women's Institute, 21 members and four guests answered the roll-call by stating the price of an article produced on the farm. Final arrangements wer made for the annual School Fair to be held on September 9. Mrs. T. Stuart, one of the members, showed colored slides of her recent trip in Scotland.

Frontier branch had a Citizenship meeting with an interesting account of a camping trip given by Mrs. Stephens. The trip, via Ontario, included a visit to the Ford Museum at Detroit, Thomas Edison's and John Burroughs' homes, and to Jack Miner's bird sanctuary. . . . A visit to the Marelan plant of Canadian Refractories has been arranged for members of this branch.

At Jerusalem - Bethany, Mrs. E. Rogers spoke on Mental Health. Arrangements were made for a card party to be held on September 14; at this party a drawing for a food hamper donated by the members will take place. . . . . This branch has donated $15 to the Lachute School Fair, to be held August 27.

A wedding gift was given to a member's daughter.

Pioneer W.I. members heard a talk on Retarded Children, given by Mrs. Doris Campbell. Proceeds from a recent food sale amounted to $30.30.

Upper Lachute - East End ladies held a picnic for members and friends, instead of the regular meeting. Prizes were awarded to the children in games and contests. . . . . This branch is catering for the School Fair and Calf Club Show.

Bird Lover's Hobby Fills Empty Hours

Burgessville, Ont.(CP) — Even the pheasants from Russia are hard to get along with.

That's the word from Harry Penny, a retired farmer, who owns one of the finest aviaries in Ontario, 50 miles southwest of Hamilton.

Mr. Penny started his hobby to fill the empty days after a severe tractor accident in 1940 barred him from heavy work.

It was a renewal of a long-dormant boyhood love.

His colorful collection includes 12 breeds of pheasant — including the sulky Russian — 14 types of pigeon, and ducks and geese without number.

It cost $2,500 to assemble the collection but no fee is charged the five or six parties which daily drift in from as far afield as Sudbury and Detroit to see it.

The birds are tagged with pieces of automobile licence plates — a former hobby of Mr. Penny was repairing cars — and valuable white king swallows nest among the cylinder heads and tattered upholstery of a junked jalopy.

A lordly Chinese peacock struts the yard, opening and shutting a dazzling seven-foot tail. He's the pick of the bunch and knows it.

A home-grown specimen, the Canadian pheasant, is technicolor with claws. The most expensive are blue-eared Machurian pheasants at $125 a pair.

Hope to Find Oil In Newfoundland

St. John's Nfld. (CP) — Government geologists are tramping the west coast of Newfoundland in a determined search for oil the presence of which has long been suspected in the industrial belt now known chiefly for its lumber.

Promotetrs are hopefully eyeing the Parson's Pond region near Corner Brook as the best prospect for an oil strike.

Tractor operator Pat Seward reported recently the discovery if an oil seepage pool on the property of his employer. Samples of the stuff are under examination by government technicians here.

Government geological teams, meanwhile, are fanning out over the coastal strip between Corner Brook and Port aux Basques to map likely oil-bearing strata.

An independent company is prospecting once again in the Parson's Bend district where previous explorations ended unsuccessfully.

Prisoners of Nazis To Be Recompensed

Vancouver (CP) — Twenty-five Vancouver Jewish residents are to be compensated by the West German government for years of cruel treatment at the hands of Hitler's Nazis.

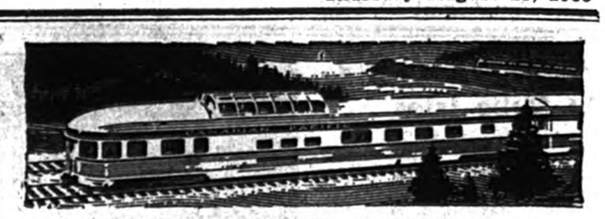

They plan to file claims amounting to 150 marks ($35) for every month spent in concentration camps. The payments were authorized by the German government in legislation passed in 1953.

One of the largest cheques will go to Sam Mandelbaum, 38-year-old tailor. German police entered his home in Poland one night in 1941 and seized him. For more than four years he was "treated worse than a dog," he says. On May 4, 1945, he made a successful dash through a forest to the safety of American lines.

During his stay in camp Mandelbaum cleaned streets, built roads, made airplane parts and was fed "the worst possible food."

His worst ordeal was as a member of a crew assigned to pick up dead fellow prisoners and place them in piles beside the incinerators.

THE CARTERS ARE LUCKIER THAN THEY KNOW!

Like all families, the Carters have plans and dreams for the future. But, unlike the families of just a generation ago, they have a better chance of making those dreams come true.

Why? One important reason is because life insurance is much more flexible today. During the past 25 years, many new policies have been created. The modern "family income" policy, for instance, provides maximum coverage while children are young, and reduces in amount as they become self-supporting. Other policies have been developed to cover mortgages, and to provide retirement income to fit in with the government old age security benefits.

This wider choice reflects just one of the ways in which life insurance companies and their representatives have adapted their services to the changing needs of Canadians in all walks of life!"

Exciting Fall Fashions Shown In Colorful Event at Golf Club

Proceeds Devoted to Equipment of New Cancer Society Workroom

An exciting collection of Fall Fashions was presented in one of the first shows of the season, last Friday evening at the Lachute Golf and Country Club.

The event, under the patronage of the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Minister of Mines, was organized to raise funds to equip a workroom in Lachute from which will go supplies to Cancer patients in the County of Argenteuil, and in the welcoming speech, Mrs. Leonard Ayers, president of the Ladies' Branch of the local Society, expressed appreciation to all who had assisted so generously.

Over 500 members and their friends streamed in from Montreal, Laurentian lakes summer homes, and the communities around Lachute; the colorful Golf and Country Club was filled to capacity. Mrs. Eve Trill, well-known Montreal fashion commentator, directed the show in the large upstairs ballroom, where a special fashion ramp was set up. Leaving there, the models walked down the short flight of stairs to the elevated platforms in the dining room, where the commentary was given in French by Mrs. R. Regimbal, then on through into the air-conditioned Catalogne Room, where Miss Jane Morrison of Henry Morgan & Company Limited described the glamorous gowns.

Four local ladies, Mrs. Warren Soper, Mrs. Ernst Mueller, Miss Monique Fournier and Mrs. G. Tabrett augmented the professional models.

There was a beautiful collection of smart coats, with Joy leading the parade in a brown fleece coat, a Swiss import of soft-as-fur fabric with a rataher large, intricately tucked collar — casual enough for country or trim enough for city streets.

Mrs. Tabrett modelled a rich green suede coat for casual wear, lined with very soft beige processed mouton.

Outstanding among the suits was a brown tunic-style worn by Mardi; a Canadian adaption of Balenciaga's tunic mode it is made of polished brown wool — the lines long and slender — a three-piece ensemble including a gray satin blouse.

Luxurious fur coats caught the imagination, despite the heat of the August evening. Pure enchantment describes the White Beaver worn by Noella, a very extreme coat — the sleeves short but wide and the armhole and the coat itself wide — almost like the shape of a bat when the model held out her arms. The collar was loose; this can be worn over the head or back where the collar should be.

A high-style Blue Beaver jacket, modelled by June, was a favorite

Provinces' Birth Recalled in Song

Edmonton (CP) — Two years ago a weekly newspaper editor in Humboldt, Sask., asked a local woman to compose a song for Saskatchewan's Golden Jubilee.

The result is the "Old Red River Cart," being played and sung widely across the western prairies in the golden jubilee year of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The composer, Mrs. Frank Bower, recalled during a recent visit to Edmonton that she is having her first four songs published this summer. Of "Old Red River Cart", she said:

"I read up on the old days and learned that the wheels were attached directly to the wagon. You can imagine what 100 of these carts would be like crossing the prairie."

"Old Red River Cart" is sung against a clip-clap wagon-wheel musical background. Here are the lyrics:

I dream I hear the creaking
Of the old Red River cart,
You told me that you loved me,
We would never part.

The western prairie sunset
And the eastern morning's glow,
Were bright and lovely on that day,
Many years ago.

Riding on the Prairie trails,
Guided by the moon,
Wagon wheels turned round and round,
Making a noisy tune.

The memories of the old days
Are locked close in my heart,
As I dream I hear the creaking
Of the old Red River cart.

Motorboats Over 10 h.p. Subject to Licensing and Required Equipment

Dept. of Transport Regulations Apply on Lakes, Rivers; Licenses Available Free at Customs Offices

Motorboat enthusiasts owning boats and motors in excess of 10 h.p. have been under the watchful eye of the RCMP officers in this district, according to local Customs officials. To date, St. Placide, Carillon and St. Andrews East have been, or are in process of being checked, and it is expected that lakes in the district will be next on the list.

The following provisions in the Licensing Regulations concerning small vessels, issued by the Ministry of Transport, are being enforced in an effort to reduce water hazards and save lives:

Licenses are required for vessels exempt from registry and propelled by inboard or outboard motors of 10 h.p. or more.

Licenses are not required for canoes, rowboats, sailboats or vessels exempt from registry propelled by inboard or outboard motors under 10 h.p.

Licensed vessels are required to be marked on bows and stern with the Customs port number and license number.

Owners shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding $100 for failure to license and mark vessels as required.

Licenses are obtainable FREE OF CHARGE from any Customs office on completion of a sworn statement giving details of boat and engine and owner's name and address. All licenses become a matter of record and in some cases, this has resulted in owners being able to recover vessels which had broken away from their moorings during storms. This record has also proved valuable in locating the owners of vessels which were operated in a dangerous or reckless manner and, in one case reported to a fish and game association, it enabled game wardens to locate the owner of a boat used in illegal duck hunting.

Another important feature of this law protects rowboat and canoe fishermen and other light craft users whose lighter craft is sometimes endangered by the reckless operation of high-powered boats. The law reads:

"No person shall drive or operate a motor vessel on any waters forming part of the minor waters of Canada recklessly or in a manner or at a speed which is dangerous to navigation or to life or limb. Every person who contravenes the provisions of this regulation shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars".

Any person contravening the above regulations should be reported to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, or if a report is made to a fish and game warden or the local Customs office, it will be passed along to the authorities.

The law requires that motorboats shall be equipped with certain lifesaving equipment, fire extinguishing equipment, navigation lights and means for making sound signals.

Lachute Federation of Charities Sets Public Appeal for Oct. 9-18

An executive meeting of the Lachute Federation of Charities was held at the Golf Club Tuesday evening, under chairmanship of the president, Dr. Marc Papineau.

One of the main points of discussion was the fund campaign — dates of which were finally set for October 9 - 18. This campaign for local charity enterprises, the first held in Lachute, will be officially opened Sunday evening, October 9, with religious and civic ceremonies.

Following this decision on the date, the president voiced a request to local organizations and associations to withhold other financial campaigns during these dates.

The campaign will group numerous local bodies in their appeal for funds, necessitating only one public appeal a year for all groups affiliated with the Federation.

Present at the meeting were the president, Dr. Marc Papineau; Gerard Lefebvre, campaign chairman; Roger Lagarde, Richard Valois, Thomas Ayers, Robert Marcil, Raymond Beaulieu and Fernand Berthiaume.

Mme Alfred Deslauriers Enjoys Good Health And Cheerful Spirits

Mme Alfred Deslauriers of Lachute Mills, now in her 96th year, has no "secret" for longevity. With a refreshing sense of humour, she really "didn't expect to live so long", and she wishes she were young again — say 70.

Our colleague and editor of l'Argenteuil "phoned the house" where she lives with her daughter, Mme F. Desjardins, Wilson St. — but was surprised when the old lady herself answered the phone and readily consented to see the young editor.

Born at St. Henri de Mascouche in 1860, Mme Deslauriers (the former Celina Gagnon) has lived in Montreal, Hull, Ste. Monique, St. Hermas and (for the past half-century) Lachute.

Predeceased by her first husband, Evariste Desrosiers of Ste. Monique, after seven years she remarried, to the late Alfred Deslauriers, an employee of Ayers Limited and old resident of this community. Of the two unions, five children were born, of whom only two survive — Mme Desjardins, Lachute Mills, with whom Mme Deslauriers has resided for the past 20 years, and Lionel Desrosiers, also of Lachute. (The late Ernest Deslauriers, founder of the successful insurance business now Deslauriers & Marcil Inc., and the late Mme Antoine Desforges, were also children of this venerable old lady.)

Another Local Contingent of Harvesters

G. A. Downing (right) National Employment manager here, gives final instruction to a group of district men prior to their departure for the Western Provinces on the harvest excursion. Above was the fourth group, comprising altogether some 47 men who are now either located or on their way west to assist with the harvest.

District Farm Workers Join Harvest Excursions

Employment Bureau Manager Estimates 25 More Needed to Fill Quota from This District

A total of 47 men have been sent from this district to the prairie provinces to help with the harvesting of the 1955 grain crop.

G. A. Downing, manager of the Lachute office of the National Employment Service, has since received news of several young men who were despatched by his office for this work. The local office arranges for the workers to report to the Winnipeg office, at much reduced fares, and as requests for more harvesters are received the men are despatched to farms or sections as needed.

As a matter of local interest, Gerald Champagne of Arundel, Kenneth Doherty and Clifford Kirkpatrick, of Morin Heights, and Wilfrid Hall, of Calumet, arrived at Moose Jaw; Gerald Proulx and Donald Morrison, of Weir, were assigned to Lacombe; Oron Trineer, of Calumet, went to Camrose; Walter Brown and Allen Trineer, both of Calumet, arrived at Regina.

In previous years, on returning to Lachute, men reported having earned as much as $12 a day on such excursions. Western farmers are eager to hire Quebec workers, appreciating that Quebecers sent west are competent in this line of work.

Mr. Downing estimates that upwards of 25 more men will be needed to fill the quota to be sent west within the next few weeks. Many local farm workers have not completed their own operations, but if they are interested in proceeding to the prairies shortly, they should advise the National Employment Office so that a place may be reserved for them when they become available.

No change in the percentage of unemployed persons has been noted locally, and the situation remains better than normal. It is expected that this will continue for eight to ten weeks yet until construction projects are completed or suspended due to inclement weather.

Port Arthur children will have an honest-to-goodness fire truck to play on. The parks board has accepted an offer from the fire department to park a discarded truck in a playground.

Following Confederation the federal government attempted to build the railway from central Canada to the Pacific as a public work, but constructed only 700 miles of line in eight years.

B.C. Man, Related Here, Wins Cadillac Car

Fords, Chevs and lower-bracket cars are more frequently in the give-aways, but when a man wins a Cadillac, that's s-o-m-e-t-h-i-n-g. The man was Eugene Roy (son of Mr. Joseph Roy, brother of Philippe and Jean-Paul Roy and of Mrs. Owen Richards, Lachute) who won the car on a $50 ticket at New Westminster, B.C.

But that's not the whole story. All the $50 tickets were placed in a hat, and the last one drawn received the prize. When the remaining tickets were reduced to two, M. Steinbach offered to buy one of them for $2,400. Bill Rea, proprietor of a radio station, holding one of two tickets, accepted and sold his chance. Eugene Roy still held his ticket — and his breath! — Steinbach's number was drawn and Roy's stayed in the hat. He acquired a $5,100 automobile — which according to report, he has since turned into cash.

Active Organizer and Young Helpers at Cancer Society Fashion Show

Premier Upholds Quebec Policy On Ungava Ore

Quebec — Quebec's handling o its ore resources in Ungava ha drawn support from all quarter ineluding the Liberal Governmen in Canada, Premier Duplessis sai last week.

He was replying to recent charg es by Quebec Liberal leade Georges Lapalme that the provinc had "committed a crime against th people of Quebec" by selling ore to United States interests at one cent a ton.

"Mr. Lapalme seems to forget we received a mandate from the people in 1948 to 1952 and even the national Liberal Party has supported our development plan," Mr. Duplessis said.

Quotes St. Laurent

He quoted Prime Minister St. Laurent as saying in the Commons in 1951 that Quebec "should be congratulated for concluding agreements that mark the beginning of development of the Ungava region."

Mr. Duplessis said U.S. interests had also constructed a 360-mile railroad from Seven Islands to the heart of Ungava without the province having to guarantee a cent.

He noted the Newfoundland Government recently had to put up a $16,500,000 guarantee for construction by private enterprise of a 45-mile railroad into Labrador.

"At that rate Quebec would have had to guarantee $132,000,000 for construction of the Ungava railroad," the Premier said.

India Has Made Great Contribution To Science, Culture

Speaker at Rotary Club Says Caste System Is Quietly Dying Out

Barat Mithel, a native of Delhi, India, was guest speaker at last week's meeting of the Rotary Club. Mr. Mithel is an engineer at the Industrial Research Laboratories in Hawkesbury. He came to Canada about two years ago, where he completed his education.

The subject of his address was India. Giving a brief history of that country, he lamented the fact that very few people on this continent know anything about India, also that Canada and the United States are little known in his country. One of the main reasons for this, of course, is the great distance which separates the two continents. Another reason, however, is that the study of history by the western world begins with Egypt and deals with all countries west of there. Practically nothing is known of India or other eastern nations, despite the fact that, for the most part, they are much older.

The first recorded history of India begins about 6,000 years B.C. when Aryans from eastern Asia entered the Punjab and found a certain civilization even then. It was these early invaders who developed the caste system, which consists of four main classes. First there are those who teach; then those who fight for their country; then those who engage in trade and commerce; and finally, those who work with their hands. As time went on, certain changes took place in the system, until it became accepted that a person belonged to the caste into which he happened to be born regardless of the profession he might adopt later in life. At the present time, in the villages there is a considerable intermingling of the first three castes, but not of the fourth. In the cities however, the caste system is quietly dying out. Upon meeting a stranger one is no longer asked, "What is your caste?"

Alexander the Great invaded India about 300 B.C. but was repelled by the natives, who were sufficiently well organized to stop the forward march of this great army.

The birth of Buddha took place about 150 B.C. The son of a great king, he decided there was not enough love, mercy and other such virtues in the land, and renounced the throne to become a teacher. His teachings were very similar to those of Christ, and, although over 75 per cent of the people were Hindus, millions became converted to Buddhism and it spread throughout the entire eastern world.

India has made many great contributions to the progress of civilization. The present numerical system now used in Europe originated in India. Not long ago an American doctor found a cure for a certain brain disease which had been used in India during the seventh century. The Hindu Scriptures are the first in recorded history to mention music as a science. The thousands of beautiful cities with their distinctive types of architecture, are ample evidence of the great progress which had been made in that science. Outstanding contributions have also been made in the fields of Astrology and Literature. There are now 25 Universities in India, from which over 8,000 students graduate and emigrate to other countries every year.

Youths Charged With Car Theft And Breaking In

Two 18-year-old youths, one from Brownsburg and the other from Ste. Rose, were arrested by Det. Ralph Allen and Traffic Officer Albert Legault over the week-end and held in St. Jerome jail on charges of car theft and breaking and entering.

The charges arose out of the theft of a car owned by Rosaire Massie, of Brownsburg, between Thursday night and Friday of last week. On the same night a restaurant belonging to Jos. Denault, Lake Carmer, was entered and merchandise between $100 and $150 in value was stolen. Included in the goods were quantities of cigarettes and rum, and a small amount of cash.

The car was recovered Saturday in the bush off the Mount Maple Road, and the Brownsburg suspect was arrested on Sunday. Part of the stolen goods was recovered in Montreal later that day. The Ste. Rose youth was placed under arrest Monday.

The two appeared before a Justice of the Peace in St. Jerome yesterday, and the case was postponed until Friday, when they will answer to the two charges.

Move Landmark To Make Way for Convent Extension

English Catholic Grades Opening September

Local English-speaking Catholics welcome the long-awaited news, that school grades 1, 2 and 3 will be taught here commencing this year. The classes will be held in the St. Alexandre School, Grace Street, with Mrs. Leo Hughes, of Lachute, as teacher.

The Catholic School Commission also officially announced plans for an enlargement to the Grace Street Convent building. The Lachute commission recently purchased the property of George F. Calder and is presently having the residence moved to the Barron Avenue side of the lot, to allow space for an extension. Contractors for removal of the building are Rivest & Fils, of L'Epiphanie, specialists in this type of work. With the re-location of the old Calder residence, the home will be used as quarters for the religious sisters of the Ste. Croix Order, who teach in this school.

Construction of the new wing is expected to commence this fall, and will enlarge the present buildings to a capacity of between 600 to 650 students; the present capacity is 250. The extension will comprise 12 classrooms bringing the total to 20. An adequate increase will be made to the teaching staff, corresponding to the increase in the student body. Effective with the re-opening of school this September, several girls' classes presently being held in the l'Ecole Supérieure building will be transferred to the St. Alexandre school.

Plans for the new extension were presented at a meeting of the Commission last night by Montreal architects Brais & Savard. Tenders will be called for the construction, and it is anticipated that the extension will be complete for the opening of classes in September 1956.

CONQUEST OF APPENDICITIS

The mortality rate from appendicitis has been reduced by more than 92 per cent in 15 years, is the finding of a Canadian survey. In 1939, there were 26 deaths for every 1,000 cases of appendicitis. In 1954, there were only two! The chief threat from appendicitis has been that the appendix would rupture and the infection spread throughout the body before the surgeon could operate. But the Canadian survey shows that since 1939, even ruptured appendixes have become 15 times less fatal. Much of the credit for this goes to surgical advances and antibiotic drugs like streptomycin and penicillin, a potent penicillin combination.

Gatineau LINES

Saving Electricity

Rainfall and hydro-electric power are closely related. Water is stored for use during the months when runoff is normally low.

Electricity wasted requires water from storage. If the water now in storage is depleted through uneconomic use or waste of electricity, it won't be available later when the normal runoff is insufficient to generate all the electricity required for normal use.

You can do something about this:

People go out and leave lights on: radios are allowed to play when there is no one in the room, and electrical appliances are allowed to stand running although they are not being used.

CANADIAN FARMER ACTS AS REFEREE IN SCOTLAND

London — A Canadian farmer was called upon to act as umpire when two judges disagreed over the merits of two Ayrshire cows at the annual Kinrosshire Agricultural Show at Kinross, Scotland, recently. He was A. L. Young, of Brooks, Alberta, who is now on holiday in the U.K. and is spending part of his time visiting various agricultural shows.

Operating Costs on Farm, Garden Tractors

Operating costs on farm garden tractors have been recorded at the Experimental Farm, Smithers, B.C., since 1950, and the results illustrate some points of importance.

Costs of operation are comprised of fixed expenses and variable expenses. The fixed expenses are depreciation, interest and housing, charged annually at 10 per cent, 2½ per cent and ½ per cent, of the original cost of the tractor. Variable expenses are charges for fuel and oil, servicing, repair parts and repair labor. These can be kept to a minimum by providing tractors with regular maintenance as prescribed by the manufacturer. A few minutes' daily attention can avoid many costly repair bills, particularly as the tractor gets older.

However, even a well-cared-for tractor cannot be operated economically unless put to full use on the farm. To illustrate this point, a 3 - 4 plow tractor was used for 973 hours in 1952 at an average cost of 90 cents per hour. In comparison, a 2-plow tractor was operated for only 342 hours in 1953 at a cost of 97 cents per hour. With the limited use obtained from the small tractor, the costs of depreciation, housing and interest were much higher when calculated on an hourly basis than they were in the case of the large tractor.

Similarly, a garden tractor operated for only 72 hours in 1951 cost 98 cents an hour to run. At the other extreme, the same machine did 215 hours of work in 1952 and the cost was only 51 cents an hour.

While tractor usage is limited by the size of the farm, in many cases economic operation can be maintained by doing custom work. In this way, set charges such as depreciation, etc., can be offset to a substantial degree.

NEW INSECTICIDE SAVES PRAIRIE BARLEY CROP

Some 1,000,000 acres of barley have been saved from destruction by the spraying of a new insecticide, malathion, over grain fields on Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan. Most of the insecticide was sprayed, as shown here, by low-flying planes which checked the spread of the aphid plague before it reached disaster proportions. Large quantities of the insecticide, the most effective known in combatting the corn leaf aphid, have been flown to the prairie provinces from the U.S., to be available if hot, dry weather causes a revival of the plague.

New Quebec Secretary For Farm Forums

The Quebec Farm Forum Association has announced the appointment of Leslie G. Young as Quebec Farm Radio Forum Secretary.

Leslie Young was raised on a farm near Compton, Quebec. He is a graduate of the Lennoxville High School and recently completed a Business Administration Course at the Park Business College in Hamilton, Ontario.

While at his home farm, Leslie was an active member of the Lennoxville 4-H Club and the Ives' Hill and Drapers' Corner Farm Forum. As a member of the Forum he attended the Macdonald College Short Course and served on the Farm Credit Study Committee, sponsored by the Quebec Farm Forums. Two years ago he participated in the Tri-County Leadership Forum at Compton.

Besides his experience in Quebec, he was employed on a fruit farm in the Niagara Peninsula for two years, and was recently employed by the Hamilton Health Association where he was in charge of exhibiting their pure-bred Ayrshire dairy herd at local fall fairs and the Royal Winter Fair.

Mr. Young is now attending the School of Community Programs at Camp Laquemac.

On September 1 he will commence his duties as Provincial Secretary of the Quebec Farm Forum Association.

Dept. Engineer Repeats, North River Polluted and Unsafe for Bathing

Ottawa River Considered Safe, However, Between Hull and Montreal

In connection with a feature article on pollution of waterways in the district surrounding Montreal, which appeared in The Montreal Star, Dr. Lafreniere, chief engineer of the Quebec Department of Health, is quoted on the safety or hazard of these waters for bathing. His opinion concerning the North River reiterates a statement previously issued several times by his department, through the Argenteuil Health Unit.

Dr. Lafreniere has designated a number of areas where swimming is "not recommended, particularly for children." He explained that children swimming without supervision may stay in too long and so swallow too much water, which would be risky in such heavily polluted waters as the north shore of Lake St. Louis.

In general, he said, it was not wise to swim in rivers at points a few miles below large towns which discharge untreated sewage into the streams.

Safe For Bathing

However, he said, the Ottawa River from Hull to Montreal is safe for bathing and so is the Mille Isles River north of Isle Jesu throughout its course. He approves of Lake of Two Mountains and of the Back River above Cartierville Bridge but not below. The Richelieu is safe all the way.

Unsafe for Bathing

The North River is not recommended from its source at Ste. Agathe right to where it joins the Ottawa at St. Andrews East. Other disapproved areas: The St. Lawrence north shore from Ste. Anne's through Lake St. Louis past Montreal and all the way to Lake St. Pierre near Sorel; the Yamaska River on the south shore near Sorel throughout its length, and the St. Francis River from Drummondville to the St. Lawrence.

Benefactor Maligned

IN MUTE apology to that freak insect which came to our office last week, the "Praying Mantis", we publish on this page a story extolling his virtues (duly illustrated). We did him the injustice of misspelling his species, also implying that he was as ferocious as his looks — which is true only insofar as his warlike attitude to other crop-destroying bugs is concerned.

Actually he is not so rare, either. An hour or so after the story appeared on last week's front page, we had phone calls to say the Praying Mantis had been seen not infrequently in the district this summer, also in previous years.

Serious Talk on National Health Scheme

THAT long debated social prop — national contributory health insurance — seems to be somewhat closer in prospect. It is possible that, some time hence, the symbols NHL may not apply exclusively to an institution dear to hockey fans! . . . Here is how the situation stands:

Reports current in Ottawa indicate the national health insurance has a 50-50 chance of becoming a reality in two years' time. The Prime Minister himself lent credence to these notions by telling reporters that he had recently discussed the matter with Premier Frost of Ontario. He had asked Mr. Frost for a memorandum on his views. The Ontario premier was the very man who insisted at the April federal-provincial conference that a national health plan be fully investigated and put on the agenda of the October meeting of federal-provincial officials.

The Prime Minister said that he was "very much concerned" about the future development of welfare measures in Canada. But he added significantly — and this has been a federal rub all along — that the cost to the Canadian taxpayer must always be considered.

A national health insurance plan has been a controversial issue in Canada for many years. Federal officials have shied on the grounds that a majority of the provinces did not agree and on the ground that facilities across Canada should be adequate. On the latter point they would often refer to the experience of Britain which found free teeth, wigs and hearing aids just a little too much of a strain on the national economy when she put free health services into effect.

The first major break in the Canadian scene came at the April 26 federal-provincial conference. At that meeting, Premier Frost, supported by a number of western representatives, insisted that a national health plan be given full study.

It would seem, from developments since then, that the federal government, which finally agreed to the study at the time, is becoming more receptive to the idea. Federal officials say there are two main reasons for this. One is that more provinces — particularly those in the west which have their own health plans — are strong for national health insurance. The second is that large-scale defence expenditures which have been biting deeply into the federal budget, may possibly flatten out with the easing of international tension.

However, agreement on the subject would not likely bring a health plan into effect until at least 1957. The outlook is that the federal government would support the plan with financial contributions but it would be administered by the provinces, and many months would be needed to set up the required machinery.

The Big Sneeze

AUGUST and September are the months of the big sneeze — emanating from thousands of Canadians who suffer from hay fever.

The ragweed plant is the culprit responsible for most of the misery. Its tiny pollen grains fill the air of every province except, perhaps, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia, which claim freedom from the weed. In other areas, many municipalities and provincial governments carry out anti-ragweed programs which have resulted in a greatly reduced pollen count. In many communities, chemical weed killer has been found an effective weapon against ragweed. Spraying large fields of the pesky plant has helped to stifle the big sneeze and make the summertime more pleasant for everyone.

Beyond the Machine

MODERN MAN has been so successful in his scientific pursuits that he sometimes forgets there are limits to the powers of his wonderful machines.

He has released the energy of the atom and is finding ways to put it to peaceful use He can talk across the world, send sound and pictures across a continent, and fly faster than sound.

Yet he still is not master of his planet. Several times a year there are reminders that forces more powerful than human devices are abroad in the world.

Hurricanes swirl out of the tropics from time to time and pound the North American east coast, sometimes landing a destructive punch on parts of Canada as Hurricane Hazel and one of her rampaging sisters did last fall. Tornadoes sometimes sweep into Canada from the United States, such as the one which created havoc a few years ago at Sarnia, Ont.

Electrical storms often brew over Canada and cut a destructive swath across the countryside. In winter blizzards can paralyze travel and communications in broad areas, sometimes affecting even major cities. Spring floods like the historic one in Winnipeg carry the threat of death and of heavy property damage. Summer storms and resultant floods, like those inflicted last week upon the eastern States, can still strike terror and claim a toll of tragedy.

In recent weeks a long spell of hot, dry weather caused millions of dollars' damage to crops in Ontario and Quebec, as well as bringing discomfort to residents of both urban and rural districts gripped by the heat wave.

Man's ingenuity may one day bring even the weather under its control. Dr. Edward Teller, famous atomic scientist, says atomic research will possibly enable men to change weather conditions within 10 years — thus raising a new problem of trying to give everyone the kind of weather he wants.

But until that day, mankind glorying in scientific prowess will likely continue to be humbled on occasion by being made to realize that some of his greatest achievements can be dwarfed by the forces of nature.

SEAT-BELT WILL CUT CAR INJURIES

Most injuries in car accidents result from the driver or passengers being hurled from their seats, and cracking a part of the body against the interior of the car. Many of these injuries can be prevented, even if the accidents that cause them can not.

An American doctor suggests a number of measures that could be taken to increase safety: a seat belt which holds the occupant firmly and squarely in the seat; elimination of all sharp edges and protections; plenty of thick padding on the inside of the car; non-rigid dashboards; windshields that pop out in a collision; and shock absorbing bumpers. (ISPS)

The fiercest of all fighters in the world is a tiny animal, the common shrew, says the current Reader's Digest. Weighing only half an ounce, the shrew is so savage that it will attack, kill and devour animals twice its size. It can eat the equivalent of its own weight in about three hours. So rapidly does it burn energy that if deprived of food it will starve to death in less than a day.

"Praying Mantis" Friend to Gardeners

Insect Seen in Increasing Numbers This Summer Is No "Garden Gangster", Says Authority

— By Dean Halliday —

Many gardeners fight garden friends and foes alike. When it comes to insects and associated pests, it is better to learn to distinguish between allies and enemies.

One friend, often mistaken for an enemy, is the praying mantis, shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. It is so formidable looking that many take it for a garden gangster, yet it is one of the gardener's best friends. It feeds on grasshoppers, crickets, butterflies, worms, beetles, leaf hoppers and plant lice.

A real foe of the garden, although not always recognized as such, is the grasshopper, also illustrated. It is a "chewing insect" with strong jaws for biting off pieces of vegetation. It will eat almost any green part of any plant.

Grasshoppers have such voracious appetites that they often strip the leaves from plants, devour fruits and even bite off the tender stems. They continue to feed until frost comes.

Stomach poisons are the control weapons to use against all chewing insects, including grasshoppers. When such poisons are sprayed or dusted on the plants to be protected, they make the leaves unfit for insect food. Insects that eat them are killed. The most common stomach poison is arsenate of lead, available at any garden shop or hardware store.

Deep cultivation, or plowing, helps to destroy the eggs of the grasshopper, which are deposited in the ground in late summer. When the eggs are turned up in cultivated or plowed ground, they are eaten by birds or killed by frost.

OF MANY THINGS

Canadian for Quality

Today I watched an American tourist do some shopping here in Canada. He asked me to take him to one of our better stores. Watching him shop so eagerly was quite an education.

"We have a sale of shirts," the clerk told him proudly — and began to load the counter with some of their specials.

My American friend waved them aside. "Look," he said, "I can get plenty of junk at home. While I'm up here, I want to pick up some good quality stuff."

He did, too. But almost every store first tried to sell him some kind of "bargain" imported from his own country or Japan. Only when they learned that he was after quality did they let him have a chance at our Canadian goods.

Walking up the street to hunt for silverware, we passed many shops with American flags displayed. I said, "Does it please you to see your flag in all these store windows?"

"Heavens, no!" he snorted. "Don't they realize a fellow travels because he wants a change? We like to buy Canadian goods when we get up here. We figure Canadian stuff is often better made. Maybe we're suckers — but we don't think so!" . . .

I don't think so, either.

Surely this country is mature enough now to be over that childish idea that anything from far away has more glamour or more style! We all know Canadian workmanship is honest and good, and that Canadian manufacturers stand behind their products. Yet we go on, year after year, accepting so-called bargains, and getting stung. Other countries would soon stop dumping distress merchandise in our market if we had the sense to stop buying it.

Surely we don't have to have American tourists teach us to "Buy Canadian". Only a mighty important bargain should ever make us do anything else — unless we're in favor of unemployment!

THE ANSWER

May I first apologize for posing such a tricky problem for a start-off. But this same problem is a very real one for us all, and is costing both you and me thousands of dollars yearly.

FIRST, the cows gained an average of 38.3 pounds during the test period. This, multiplied by 25 cows and multiplied by 10c a pound that this farmer could get at the local packing plant, gave him $95.75. Also, had these cows not been fed the Bulky Las, it is reasonable to expect they would have lost flesh; but we'll let that lie, for now.

Now, some of you will argue that he didn't get his money. Well, when you put money in the Bank, you don't have it either; but it is there for your use whenever you want to use it. This flesh was there and he could do three things with it. By stopping feeding, he could milk it off. He could sell his cows, or best of all, he could keep it there to hold up the milk flow during the balance of the lactation. So he certainly HAD it.

NOW WE COME TO THE CATCH: The cows averaged in their fifth month of lactation at the start of this test, and were in their sixth month at the end. Normally, a cow is dropping in milk from the second month after calving. So these cows should have dropped 71 pounds of milk each (according to feeding authorities) during the month. But they didn't drop; so the dairyman had 71 pounds multiplied by 25 cows, or 1,775 pounds of milk to sell at $4.00 per per cwt which he wouldn't have had if he hadn't fed the Bulky Las. It is also reasonable to say that the cows didn't jump up 8 pounds on the last day of production only, and they would probably average an increase of 4 pounds a day, or 120 pounds for the period. . . . . We'll throw that in for good measure.

But 17.75 pounds with the 8 pounds extra he got on the last day, makes 1,783 pounds of milk at $4.00 per cwt., giving the dairyman $71.32. To this we add the value of the extra flesh, $95.75 — which gave him $167.07. Out of this he had to pay $100 for the Bulky Las, leaving him A NET PROFIT OF $67.07. . . Not too bad, eh?

BUT, if the salesman hadn't taped the cows and weighed the milk, this dairyman would have done the same thing as you all will do — swear that the cows didn't GO UP IN MILK, for he would never see an increase of 8 pounds over a 30-day period, nor the increased weight. And of course the drop in milk that he should have had, wouldn't come into the picture at all. The salesman would have lost a customer, and the customer would go out and buy a feed that was just as good but cheaper by the bag. . . .

Feed PURINA for the most profitable results — that is what really counts.

75 YEARS AGO

August 24, 1880 —

A number of men from Montreal and other parts have, during the past few days, arrived in Lachute to work on the various projects now in progress here.

An English cotton manufacturer is negotiating with a party here for a site for an extensive cotton factory, and there are good grounds to expect its location here.

Over 60 men are now at work at the erection of the new paper mill.

* * *

50 YEARS AGO

August 25, 1905 —

The party who borrowed the wheel standing at Mr. Bradford's store door on Monday night is requested to return it or send word as to where it may be found.

Mr. George Hunter, of Lachute Mills, has just completed a centre table, put together by hand in two colors of wood, and containing 7,280 pieces.

The farmers are coming along freely to the new grist and saw mill of Jas. D. Campbell, which he has just completed on Clyde Street. Mr. Campbell has things running in good order, and the upper part of the town are delighted with the lively stir it is creating.

* * *

25 YEARS AGO

August 22, 1930 —

Mr. J. A. Walker recently purchased the farm of Mr. Murray McOuat, Bethany Street.

The appointment of our Federal representative, Sir George Perley, to the position of acting Prime Minister, is an honor which our county may well feel proud of.

TIRED DRIVERS

Probably the greatest cause of death on the highways at this season of the year is fatigue which slows down the driver's reflexes after long periods behind the wheel. Suggestions. . . include keeping the car windows open and breathing deeply; drinking coffee; frequent stops when feeling drowsy and resting when feeling sleepy.

ALL ABOARD
With G. E. Mortimore

The circus is 50 per cent fraud, 50 per cent talent and 100 per cent magic. That makes 200, which is circus figuring. They add up their prices the same way.

The boys at the circus charge 15 cents for a coke and $1.25 for a kewpie doll that costs about a dime wholesale. Unless you watch out, they'll fast-talk you into paying a dollar too much for admission.

Such is the charm of the big show that you hand them a wad of bills and shuffle into the tent like a man under hypnosis. Once inside, you have the time of your life and never grudge a nickel of it.

Circus people live in their own world. Few of them trouble to conceal their contempt for the local people, whom they regard as rubes and hayseeds. The natives respond by looking up to them with bright eyes.

The yokels let themselves be overcharged and insulted, and they love it. They come back next year for more.

The circus appeals to all that is disorderly and romantic in a dull person living all his life in one place. It seems to be a survival from an older, lustier age of wandering minstrels and acrobats.

The circus is a city on wheels that moves around the continent at huge expense with its population of men, women and beasts and tons of machinery, caravans, ropes, sledge-hammers, trombones, spangles and falsies.

It takes root briefly in a town, enchants thousands of people with its blare and glitter, and vanishes again as if it had never existed, leaving only a few shreds of sawdust and paper cups.

In the people of the circus, who mix gaudy showmanship with high skill and courage, part mountebank and part hero, the plain man sees an image of himself as he might have been.

And he wishes good luck to that crowd of tough showmen who can make a child sit still for two hours, clutching a $1.25 doll and gazing in silent wonder.

Blood Clinic At Brownsburg September 15

A Message With A Personal Appeal

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — On September 15, the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic will visit Brownsburg again, and let's hope that this time we don't let ourselves down — don't let the province down.

It's not that people don't want to give blood, but they seem to figure that enough "other people" will give theirs. Surely though, after last year's dismal turnout, most people will realize, either from the viewpoint of civic pride or the urgency of the need, that they themselves are the people who fell down on the job.

You know, it can be a wonderful feeling to realize that your health is your wealth and that you can donate something more valuable than the rich man's cash donation. To a dying child a pint of your blood is worth more than any amount of money.

Canvassers should be going around now, so when one comes to your door give him or her your pledge to donate at a certain time on Clinic Day.

LIGHTEN LOAD

Red Deer, Alta. (CP) — New buildings under construction at the Provincial Training School here for mental defectiveness are expected to lighten the increasingly heavy load on other Alberta mental institutions. They are to be completed by next year and will house 800 to 900 patients.

GETS DIPLOMA AT 46

Winnipeg (CP) — He had to wait for 23 years but Manley Steiman, 46, finally received his bachelor of science degree this spring.

Mr. Steiman completed the project at the University of Manitoba which he had to abandon in 1932. In that year, as a third-year science student with an ambition to become a doctor, Mr. Steiman was forced to quit school to help support his depression-hit family.

He worked as a shoe salesman, grocery clerk and beer waiter. In 1935 he began working for City Hydro and for the last 13 years has been employed as a health inspector.

Last fall Mr. Steiman took leave of absence from his job and re-entered university as a student in fourth-year science.

"It was like starting from scratch, but it's been worth it," he said.

TO COMMAND RCN's FIRST HELICOPTER ANTI-SUB UNIT

—Central Press Canadian

The Royal Canadian Navy has announced that Lt.-Cmdr. (P) George H. Marlow of Saskatoon, Sask., will command the first helicopter anti-submarine unit of the RCN. The unit will be based at HMCS Shearwater, the navy's air station at Dartmouth, N.S., but will operate principally from the aircraft carrier HMCS Magnificent. The 31-year-old lieutenant-commander served with the RCAF between 1942 and 1945, and later in 803 squadron, the first Canadian naval fighter squadron. He was trained as a helicopter pilot in the United States, and was one of the original pilots in the Utility Helicopter squadron at Shearwater.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

The testimony of the official hangman for the province of Quebec (to the Commons committee on capital punishment) was a grisly affair. . . . Is the death sentence a deterrent to murder? We think not. Murder is seldom, if ever, committed by a sane person. There is a momentary madness, for a minute, a day, or a week.

SCOUTS MAKE AN INTERNATIONAL BRIGADE

At Niagara-on-the-Lake, where Boy Scouts from all over the world have convened for a jamboree—which began on Aug. 18—a universal language of signs has been set up to direct boys to wherever they want to go. Cubmaster Enid Bridle of England is on hand to answer the difficult questions.

—Central Press Canadian Photos

Scouts have been arriving by the thousand at the Niagara jamboree site and many of them have toured Canada first, arriving with bundles of pennants and souvenirs. The souvenir shop at Niagara is now a busy spot as scouts from distant lands keep their eyes open for items to send home. Here is assistant troop leader Jan Olaf Tengo, 16, of Hogsby, Sweden, selecting a camp pennant from Charlotte Gamble of Granby, Que.

from HOWL to hum...

The roar of an aircraft engine during ground test can rattle windows and nerves for blocks around. So we're glad to report that aluminum has turned up as a noise-absorbing "honeycomb" in an aircraft company's test-cell. Hundreds of aluminum tubes of differing diameters and lengths, filled with absorbent, sound-baffling material, make up the end walls. And we are told that by the time the giant roar has bounced around in these aluminum mazes it comes out the other end thoroughly "baffled" and weakened to a hum. We expect there are lots of aluminum boosters around that factory!

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Church of England General Synod

The event of prime interest this year for all members of the Church of England in Canada is the 19th Session of General Synod, to be held at the University of Alberta, Edmonton, August 30 to September 9, inclusive.

In this Canada-wide assembly of Archbishops, Bishops, and representative clergy and laity from twenty-eight dioceses, the program and achievements of the Church in the past three years will be reviewed, and plans laid for the next triennium. The total membership of General Synod is approximately 310 persons, divided into two Houses — the Upper (Bishops) and the Lower (clergy and laity in equal numbers).

It is the responsibility of General Synod critically to assess all aspects of the Church's work in its national outreach, and to determine policy for future action. All delegates to the Synod must make adequate preparation for the proper fulfilment of their high duty, both in spiritual discipline, and in the reading and digesting of the reports for presentation to the Synod.

TEST QUESTIONS FOR FAULTY HEARING

Try the following test questions if you feel that your hearing is getting worse, but you are not sure whether it's bad enough to require medical attention.

Do you hear better in noisy places than in quiet ones? Do harsh, loud noises seem painful? Do you seem to hear better with one ear rather than with the other? Do you find that most persons seem to be mumbling when they talk to you? Do you suffer from ringing in the ears? If the answer to more than one of these questions is "yes", the expert who devised these questions advises that it would be wise to see your doctor.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES,
THE NEW WORLD SOCIETY

This is the title of a new book about Jehovah's witnesses. There are already several books about this religious group, but this is the first one that fairly and objectively gives the facts, uncolored, unbiased. It has 172 pages of regular text, plus 57 pages of appendix material. It covers the history, activity and doctrines of Jehovah's witnesses, and is liberally sprinkled with scores of photographs excellently reproduced on heavy coated paper. Published by Vantage Press and written by Marley Cole in newsy reporter style, it is available at $2.95 a copy. Get it at your local bookstore, or send to the Watchtower, 117 Adams Street, Brooklyn 1, N.Y.

Famous Medium Says War Soon

Montreal, (CP) — There's a short but cruel third world war on the way, says the internationally-famous trance-medium Mme. Terfren Laila.

A native of Hungary who now makes her home in India, Mme Laila also predicted a huge uranium find in Canada; a revolution in Argentina that will end with the death of President Peron and the re-entry of India into the new British Empire.

A professor of occult sciences, Mme. Laila has made newspaper headlines on both sides of the Atlantic.

On the front page of a New York newspaper in 1929 people read her prophecy that prohibition would soon end. The same year she predicted the stock market crash.

The Second World War and the downfall of Hitler were foreseen by Mme. Laila, and duly reported by the Paris newspaper "Le Matin" in 1933.

Bible Briefs

By A.A.M.

The Bible is rich in stories, and the purpose of this series is to encourage readers to look up for themselves the Bible versions of these incidents. If there are children in the family it is suggested that the story, and the Bible verses on which it is based, be read aloud.

Who was the Israelite whom God told to go and preach to the wicked city of Nineveh, but instead he went down to the harbor at Joppa and paid his fare to Tarshish, in the opposite direction? Thus he planned to escape from the presence of the Lord.

But God did not forget his disobedient servant. God hurled a great wind upon the sea against his ship so that it was in danger of breaking up. The sailors were all afraid. They threw their cargo into the water to make the ship lighter, and at the same time they prayed to their gods.

But the Israelite was fast asleep in the inner part of the ship. Angrily the Captain roused him, saying, "What do you mean, you sleeper? Arise, call upon your God! Perhaps He will not let us perish."

As the danger continued, all those on board ship gathered together. They felt that some one person must be responsible for the storm. So they cast lots to discover who was the guilty person. The lot fell on the Israelite.

When he was questioned he said, "I am a Hebrew, and I fear the Lord, the God of Heaven who made the sea and the dry land."

As the wind and rain grew still worse, the sailors asked the Israelite, "What shall we do to you, that the sea may quiet down for us?" He answered, "Take me up and throw me into the water, for I know I am the cause of this tempest."

The men did not want to be blamed for his death so they rowed harder than ever. But it was no use. As a last resort, the sailors cast the Israelite into the sea. They prayed, "Lay not on us innocent blood". Then they made vows and offered sacrifice.

But the Lord preserved the life of this Israelite. Read his name in the first chapter of the Book of Jonah.

Rain Is Music to the Ears; Drama Stirs the Silly Night

"SUNNYACRES SKETCHES"
By Margaret Cook

The calendar assures us that the end of the summer is imminent; but the heat of summer has lingered. Day after day, we have seen the thermometer begin its rapid climb into the upper eighties. We have closed the doors and the windows on the sunny side and proceeded with our work, grimly ignoring the humidity — until this week brought respite from the heat. A friend from Ste. Anne's, one of the hotter spots, tells us she has performed her housework with perspiration rolling down her back and dripping off the tip of her nose. (Before some ribald reader writes in, we hasten to assure you that the lady's architecture is perfectly normal.)

Someone wrote, "Guests are pests". It sounds like Ogden Nash. In any case, guests are interesting. Lately, we have had one from England and one from Saskatoon, and both were enthusiastic over the countryside in general and Sunnyacres in particular. The lady from Croydon thought our country lanes (roads to you) were like those in Surrey and Devon. This was a refreshing point of view, since even the local inhabitants think they resemble thoroughfares in quite a different locality! The same person was sure that Sunnyacres house was reminiscent of a Devon farmhouse. The only farmhouse in Devon that I can remember was the Lorna Doone cottage, and there is a resemblance, only Lorna's abode is darker. . . . The lady from Saskatoon had quite a different slant on the roads. After coming down the hill at Lake Sir John, she tearfully asked her son if there were any more hills over lakes; if there were she would shut her eyes, if he told her in time. There was, of course, Long Lake hill. Safely arrived at Sunnyacres, our elderly friend refused to go out in the car until it was necessary to go home. Truth to tell, we doubt she would ever have left, had we urged her to stay. The pioneer aspect of the house fascinated her, since she had been a pioneer in Saskatchewan at the beginning of the century. It is, we gathered, quite a different kind of pioneering; there the houses tend to be sod and corrugated iron, and trees are no problem. This family, coming from Lancashire, made good, and all of the four children hold respected and valued positions in the communities in which they reside. Incidentally, one of the daughters was recently featured in the news as being one of the few female turkey farmers in the country. Readers will perhaps remember the accompanying picture of the two ladies and a white turkey. At the moment, 4,000 turkeys strut around the runs near Huntingdon.

Just how we got to turkeys, we do not remember, but the transition to mice will not be so great. At the moment of writing, a small deer-mouse is languishing in a box upstairs. He is provided with earth in which to burrow, stalks of timothy, small sprigs of blueberry, a narcissus bulb, some rice crispies and other dainties, as well as a private bath. Peter, the Persian cat, brought him in a few days ago, unhurt except for a scratch on the face, and he has been an honored guest ever since. The tail of this little creature is about four times as long as his body, and the tiny feet are pink and hand-like. He progresses, on his frequent outings, by a series of leaps, hence his name. Observation of this bizarre guest has furnished us with some fascinating facts. Mr. Mouse loves his bath, a dish of three-inch diameter and a depth of two inches. He hops happily into the bath, splashes around, then scoops up the water in his paws and vigorously washes his face, not neglecting behind the ears. Then he drinks noisily, holding the liquid in his cupped paws. At night, he burrows into the earth underneath the bath, and coiling his tail around him, slumbers soundly. The box, with Mouse, stays on the sill of Betty's bedroom, so Peter is debarred. We heard him crying pitifully in the night.

Peter is quite content to stay in nights since the episode of the fox and the rabbit, one of those tragedies as old as time, but ever new to the participants and spectators. Shortly after ten on a recent rainy night, when everybody at Sunnyacres was asleep except the writer, the rabbits as usual were playing around the house, uttering their fluttery, gurgly cries. Suddenly, there was a quick patter of feet; and snarls of rage, hunger and plain ferocity arose, punctuated by the baby-like shrieks of the rabbit victim. Betty, under whose window all this broke out, sprang up and tried to focus the flash-light on the scene; she yelled and shouted and was insistent on going out into the downpour on a rescue mission. The master of the house vetoed this, so we turned our energies to calming Peter, who had vaulted to the top of the desk, and was drawn up against the wall, every hair a-quiver, his eyes bulging with horror. We picked him up and felt his heart going at a terrible rate. He, too, had been sleeping at an open window, and doubtless awoke thinking that he was in the jaws of the fox. Now he should know how the rabbit feels. He recently brought in a half-grown rabbit, quite dead. We put this poor little victim out on the lawn, and in the morning, only the fur and entrails remained. A chipmunk, another trophy of Peter's forays, was given artificial respiration by Betty, comforted by a doll's hot-water bottle and tucked into bed in the window, but later succumbed to its injuries. These injuries are generally so superficial that we are inclined to think that the little creatures die of shock. Peter is not interested in his captives as food, it is merely "le sport" which intrigues him.

All these tales of blood and violence will convince the readers that we are close to nature. This kind of thing is a daily occurrence, yet people from the city are always complaining, "Nothing ever happens here."

We took Betty and the neighbor's son to see "Robinson Crusoe" at the theatre in Morin Heights. The play is remarkably well done; the locale, we think, Mexico. Unfortunately, the other film was called "Cult of the Cobra" and had to do with the peculiar antics of a lady who was at times a woman and at other times a cobra. As an example of trick photography, it was outstanding; as entertainment for the young, it was strong stuff. Two little boys could not take it, and departed halfway through. The ones who remained took a keen interest in the proceedings, calling out such advice as "Look behind you" and "It's that DARK woman" for the guidance of the hero. We have always felt that the law forbidding attendance at a movie before the age of 15, was a good one. This kind of thing confirms our opinion. The British custom of marking such pictures A (for adult) seems a sensible compromise between allowing all children and not allowing any.

We hear a gentle patter on the roof — it is raining! Nobody gripes this summer when it rains. Instead there is a tendency to rush out and absorb it. . . . As this has to go to the mail-box, we'll get our quota on the way down.

Brownsburg Tied 1-1 in Semi-Finals With Lefaivre

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg's ball team came back with a bang Sunday when about 150 fans saw them lash out 21 hits for a 20-5 victory. Only Brent Steele, who has done more than his share at bat all season, failed to get a safety. His day wasn't worthless though, as he made two put-outs, advanced the runner with a sacrifice, and batted in one run.

The big producer was Ives Raymond, whose two homers and two singles brought seven tallies across the plate. Keith Hazel, with three for five; pitcher Karl Gagné, three for four; and André Ouellette, three for five, did their averages most good. Naylor Gratton, with a double and triple; Buddy Racine, with two doubles; and Jacques Racine and Mike Gratton with triples, provided the long blows.

The new infield played very well, with Buddy Racine and Keith Hazel taking the laurels on the strength of beautiful inning-ending double plays.

Lefaivre opened well, when after retiring Brownsburg in order in the first inning they pushed across two runs in their half of the second. Three consecutive triples and a single put Brownsburg in the lead in the second, and a nine-run blitz in the third had Lefaivre on the canvas. Hits in every inning save the first, seemed to warn Lefaivre that last week's loss was just a mis-cue.

Quite a large percentage of Sunday's crowd will no doubt head for the sudden-death tie-breaker at Lefaivre this week. Montebello, who won the first two, await the winners for the final best-of-three series.

All-Star Softball Team Plays N.Y. Club Saturday

Lions Charity Funds to Benefit By Attraction at Ayers Stadium

This Saturday evening Dow's Lachute All-Stars, coached by Jacques Poitras, will meet a softball club from New York City's La Guardia Airport A.M.L. League. The long-awaited game will be held at the Ayersville Stadium, under the lights, and all proceeds will go to the Lachute Lions Club.

A preliminary event will see the Little Major League finals, which get underway at 7 p.m., an hour before the big game. The Little Major League has been promoted by the Lions Club here these past two seasons.

The Saturday event is under the sponsorship of J. René Laurin, Dow Breweries representative.

A final meeting held Monday last, was attended by Frank Ladouceur, L. Gibeault, Gaetan Poulin and P. Larivière (team coaches for the Chevrier Hotel, Campeau Hotel, Dow Breweries and Hebert Hotel respectively), as well as Guy Lafortune, general organizer of the event, Raymond Laurin and Jacques Poitras. The players for the "All-Star team" were chosen by their respective coaches and agreed upon at this meeting.

The "All-Stars" will comprise catchers Guy Brunette and Arthur Denault; 1st basemen Philippe Larivière, Terry Patterson and Wilfrid Joly; 2nd basemen Yvon Jean Louis, Jacques Mallette and Gerard Desforges; 3rd basemen Fernand Larocque, Marcel Ouimet and Marcel Chartrand; short-stops François Poirier and Eddy Leblanc; outfielders Gaston Pagé, Léopold Chartrand, Gaetan Poulin, Rolland Decoste, Royal Levesque and Paul Lachance; pitchers Gaetan Larocque, Réal Martin, Doris Champagne and Baril Larocque. Team coach is Jacques Poitras while François Ladouceur and Roger Decoste were appointed 1st and 3rd base coaches.

Lady Golfers in Active Program

Ladies of the Lachute Golf and Country Club have been following a heavy schedule recently, visiting numerous district clubs for various matches.

On Tuesday of last week, nine of the ladies played nine holes at Dunany, where they also enjoyed lunch. Joyce Stephens took the low gross, while Denise Tattersfield walked off with the low net award.

The Inter-Club Sectional Match held at Wentworth Golf Club on Monday saw the Lachute ladies tied for second place with the Wentworth Club, each team netting 9½ points. Winner of the event was Islesmere, with 10 points, while St. Lambert had 7 points.

The Lachute team included Mrs. Dick Stephens, Miss Mary Ruth MacKimmie, Mrs. Peter Lurie, Miss Bernice Ogilvie, Mrs. A. R. Cote and Mrs. Gilbert Ayers.

A group of ladies visited St. Andrews East club Tuesday and enjoyed lunch and nine holes of golf.

Marthe Lafortune won the Drew Trophy in a closely contested match with Mrs. W. M. Cottingham.

The Club Championship rounds are still being played this week, the finals coming up over the weekend.

Summer's Curfew

The arrival of Labour Day seems to be the signal for the bulk of the vacationists to go home, for many resorts to start closing their doors, for shutting up the summer cottage and taking the boat out of the water. On the other hand, the hunter and angler looks forward to the coming of September and the prospect of shaking off the lethargy of August's sweltering days. He knows, too, that all things being equal, with cooler weather in the offing, the fishing should start picking up. By September the troublesome insects have disappeared and you can fish on streams or lakes without the annoyance of the bothersome mosquito and other winged pests. Fortunately there is usually still enough insect life around to make the trout take artificials freely. Through September and until the legal seasons close, we can expect, if we know where to look for them, good catches of bass, pike, walleyes and musky.

Talking of Musky

The other day I had a letter from Cornwall's ace musky fisherman, Angelo Lebano. For the past couple of weeks Angelo and I have been negotiating a date for a spot of musky fishing on the waters of Lake St. Francis out of his Hamilton Island camp. As it stands now, it looks as though we will be getting together early in September. Angelo and his two boys, Donald and Vincent, vie with one another all through the musky season as to who will take the most fish and who will gaff the biggest. As the score stands now for '55 father is ahead with three fish and one each for Donald and Vince. Last year, as I remember the final tally, the boys edged the old man out, and as Angelo himself says — it could happen again, the season being a long way from over yet.

Nearer to Home

And on the hunting front — Bill Lyster and Grant Campbell are sharpening up with their scatter guns on the crows — Harley Walsh and Andy Johns are building a duck boat and Kent Clegg, his uncle Jack and I, along with a couple of others, have laid out quite a program of shotgun patterning. Included in the range of shells and shot sizes we are going to check will be the new 2¾ Imperial Magnum. These shells in number four shot size for ducks and number two for geese will be available to shooters this fall for the first time. With twenty per cent more shot they deliver quite a punch.

On the Hound Front

Harold Savage has a couple of promising new Beagles, but cursing the hot weather and hoping it will cool off a bit so that he can get out and see what these new dogs will do on the rabbits. Meanwhile he has put in many a perspiring hour completing the construction of one of the finest kennel set-ups I have yet seen. Last Saturday evening the wife and I ignored the oppressive humidity and warnings of a severe electrical storm, when we motored over to Dr. Pierre Bergeron's farm in Ville St. Laurent to attend the first annual bench show for Fox and Beagle hounds sponsored by the Montreal Fox Hunters' Association. In spite of the weather the turnout was amazing and the local police had to be called in to direct traffic and handle the parking problems of the numerous entrants and spectators.

From All Over

Warmly greeted by the "biggest beagler of them all", Alex Learmonth, secretary of the Montreal Fox Hunters' Association, we went on to visit with such old friends in the local hound fraternity as Bill and Jill Merner, Chris Coster, Larry Stark, Fred and Joe Grant, Mervin Winterson and, of course, Henry and Ossie Van den Abele. The fox hound entry was terrific, mostly Triggs and Walkers. Biggest bang of the show for us was a family entry of six in the Fox Hound puppy class. Six pups — six kiddies and each handling one of the pups Five small to smaller boys and a still smaller girl; and who took the ribbon for first place? — why, the little miss, and a popular win too. The overall entry in the all-age Fox Hound Class was biggest that has been booked to date for any Fox Hound show in Canada.

Townships in the Lead

Although we came away without the complete results it would seem that the hound entries from the Eastern Townships Huntingdon area were taking the top honors, which is probably as it should be — fox hunting in the townships being pretty much of a traditional pastime.

The tournament for the Ayers Club champion is well underway; results will be known next week. One of the surprises of the event was when Jean-Guy Joly defeated André Payer, one of the favorites for this title.

Three Triumphs Scored By Colford Softballers

Last Wednesday Colford's softballers defeated Molson's of Lachute 9-8 at the stadium. This was a very close and well-played game. Jean Guy Larocque was the winning pitcher, with Champagne taking the loss. Yvon Jean-Louis hit a home run for the winners.

Sunday afternoon Colford's whitewashed Laval West 15-0. Larocque pitched another one-hitter. He struck out the first 12 Laval men who faced him, and ended up with a total of 16. Billy Cribb, Andy Pilon and Mel Tomalty were the big hitters for the winners — Cribb and Pilon getting five hits each for as many times at bat, while Tomalty hit a grand slam home-run with two on base.

Sunday night Colford's defeated Molson's in another close-fought game. The final score was 4-2 for the home team. Larocque also pitched this game for his 14th win of the season, with only one defeat. René Tessier was the losing pitcher. Colford's picked up their four runs in the first inning, while Molson's got one in the second and one in the fourth.

Next Sunday Colford's Lodge plays host to Val Martin; game time 2 p.m.

Yvon Robert and Rocket Richard On Mat Program

In a star-featuring mat program on the Fair Grounds Monday evening, all the box-office requirements for hero worship, spectator indignation, and vengeance on the villains — were provided for, and by these standards it was a successful show. It also drew a packed grandstand and a crowd conservatively estimated at 2,000.

The main bout starring Yvon Robert (228 lbs.), champion of Montreal and unprescribed territories — with Maurice "Rocket" Richard, of Canadiens hockey fame, as referee — had Al Mills (270 lbs.) as villain of the piece and the butt of public wrath. Even in this main feature the clowning predominated, the crowd liked it, and in the intermissions the kids had a field day collecting autographs. For choking the champ (forbidden in the best mat circles) Mills was disqualified for the first fall, while Robert won the second fall and the match.

There were three preliminary bouts. Giant Goliath (310 lbs.), who appears in more or less authentic biblical regalia, subdued the German Karl Fritz (225) with a bear hug. . . Tiny Mills (270) lost to Tony Lanza (228) by disqualification for alleged maltreatment; and as an opener, blond Leo Numa took a popular decision against Chris Malisovas — all in one-fall encounters.

Promoter of this program was Claude DesHarnais.

Del MacTavish Won Derby Trot at Richelieu With Noted Pacer

Del MacTavish, popular Grand Circuit harness racer from Lachute, drove "Royal Pastime" in both heats to win the $7,500 National Derby Trot at Richelieu Park on Sunday. The seven-year-old gelding, owned by William A. Rorech, of Old Westbury, N.Y., placed second in the first heat and first in the second heat. MacTavish flew to Montreal from Roosevelt for the event.

"Royal Pastime" has a lifetime mark of 2:02.1 and has won over $105,000 in purses. The gelding, one of the world's top trotting performers, chased "Anchora Hanover" all over the track in the first heat, but could not beat that determined little mare; he finished half-a-length behind.

In the second heat, MacTavish and "Royal Pastime" placed first, while "Anchora Hanover" broke stride at the first turn of the heat and finished third.

NEW TROUT HABITS

Vancouver (CP) — The provincial fisheries department hopes to fool 23,000 steelhead trout by spilling them into coastal waters so they will immediately swim out to sea.

Two years later they will return to spawn in the river they think is their birthplace. Trout born in rivers remain in fresh water for a year until ready to swim to sea.

With yearlings planted in rivers, food and space required for the new-born trout is not consumed, yet the supply of fish increases.

"We expect to decrease by 10 per cent the mortality rate of the migrant steelhead by feeding and caring for the fish until they are a year old", said Biologist Bob McMinn.

English Studios Filmed "Robin Hood", New Series For Canadian TV

Toronto — A new kind of television series, "The Adventures of Robin Hood", filmed with authentic historical English background, will be seen on Canadian television starting September 12 in a commercially co-sponsored program in co-operation with the CBC.

The entire series was produced by Sapphire Films at their Nettleford Studios, Hurst Grove, Walton-on-Thames, Surrey, with intricate care being taken to capture the 12th Century atmosphere, architecture and dress of the period. An enormous amount of historical research preceded the actual filming.

Richard Greene, star of Hollywood and English films, will be the central figure in the new show, appearing as "Robin Hood" with support from Alan Wheatley as the villainous "High Sheriff of Nottingham"; Bernadette O'Farrell as "Maid Marion" and Alexander Guage as "Friar Tuck".

Television audiences in Canada will see Robin Hood and His Merry Men using quarter-staff, sword and bow and arrow in authentic scenes filmed in beautiful Sherwood Forest. They will see new techniques in film making — a completely new kind of television show with an appeal to all age groups.

How A Boy's Dream Made Stratford Famous

Canada's Shakespeare Theatre in Stratford, Ont., growing out of the dream of a 15-year-old boy, is now in its third summer of presenting plays to hundreds of thousands of people from all over the world.

The story of how the "Stratford Festival" developed from a boy's dream is told in a current magazine article.

Twenty years ago, when he was 15, Tom Patterson of Stratford, Ont., visualized " Shakespeare theatre here, just like the one in Stratford in the Old Country." He kept the dream to himself until 1951, when he broached the idea to Mayor David Simpson.

Simpson was enthusiastic. The The Stratford Chamber of Commerce formed a committee to "study possibilities." Dr. Tyrone Guthrie, former director of the Old Vic Theatre in London, was imported from Britain to advise the committee. Later Patterson brought over Alec Guinness, famous British actor.

The Stratford Shakespeare Festival of Canada Foundation was set up, with Tom Patterson as director of planning and a goal of $150,000 to be collected.

A concrete amphitheatre, resembling a deep-dish pie with all but one slice removed," was designed. The remaining slice, projecting into the centre of the ampitheatre, became the stage. A tent was erected over the whole.

A local contractor, Oliver J. Gaffney, began excavating in April, 1953. Collections were discouragingly slow — says the article — until Gaffney loosed a tide of confidence by announcing that he would go ahead with the job whether he was paid or not. Soon thereafter two anonymous donations totaling $35,000 were received. Collections from subscribers soon reached $157,000.

The theatre ended its first summer with a deficit, despite good attendance. The 1954 season, drawing 125,000 visitors, wiped out the first year's loss and left a balance of $32,000. Townspeople now talk of a permanent theatre . . . The Shakespeare Festival is a boy's dream come true.

MAKES BIG PARCEL

Edmonton (CP) — The Miss Canada trophy is wonderful to win, but it's difficult to travel with, says Dalyce Smith of Whitehorse, Yukon. The only way she can lug the big cup around is in a paper bag. "It won't fit into a suitcase," she explained here. "It looks a little obvious to carry. So the best way is the brown paper bag."

Nominees For Canadian "Crockett"

It must be a rare parent of small children who hasn't become acquainted recently with Davy Crockett the newest American folk-hero renowned on radio, TV, in the movies, and on T-shirts, imitation coon-skin caps, jeans, plastic flintlock rifles and pistols, and many other articles too numerous to mention. The Davy Crockett boom has flourished in Canada almost as mightily as in the United States, leading to a fear in the minds of some that the 20th century belongs not to Canada, but to Crockett.

To offset this trend, four enquiring Canadians have been casting about in recent weeks for spirited figures who might just possibly have the makings of Canadian Davy Crocketts, if anyone wishes to start a rival boom. They were unsuccessful in locating anyone in the history books who had "kilt a b'ar when he was only three", a stalwart action attributed in song to Davy (note: someone has explained that it was the b'ar who was only three at the time of the incident — not Crockett). But they did manage to come up with some colorful characters who were of considerable note in their respective areas of Canada, and on four nights next week, following the radio news bulletin, they're going to talk about their nominees for the post of C. C. (Canadian Crockett).

One candidate is "The Main John" Glazier, a fabulous figure of the St. John River district in the latter part of the 19th century, a timberman and dynamic businessman of the frontier. His life led to new words for the language: to this day, wherever men cut lumber, the boss is known as "The Main John". We'll hear about him on Monday (August 29) from Albert Tunis of the University of New Brunswick.

Tuesday night, Andre Laurendeau of Montreal, a regular weekend reviewer and associate editor of Le Devoir, talks about Pierre Esprit Radisson, who could be said to have many of the qualifications of a national hero for both French and English-speaking Canadians.

The stalwart figure of "Tiger" Dunlop is proposed, on Thursday night, as the Ontario candidate. He is the choice of writer-commentator Miller Stewart. Dunlop was a medical doctor and a pioneer settler in southwestern Ontario. On Friday, Ralph Hedlin — writer - commentator and associate editor of The Country Guide — talks about Jerry Potts, a half-breed who gained a reputation as a scout, Indian Chief, and also as a horse thief. He led the Blackfoot Confederacy against enemy Indians and later served 25 years with the Royal North Western Mounted Police as a scout, being cited many times for heroism.

Any other nominations?

HOME FOLK OVERLOOK FUNDY NATIONAL PARK

Saint John N.B. (CP) — Tourist officials say New Brunswickers have overlooked one of the province's most scenic vacation spots.

The bureau says that of the thousands of visitors to the Fundy National Park each year, only a small minority are from the province itself.

The vacationland features a 130-foot swimming pool of warmed salt water drawn from the Bay of Funday and a stone's throw away is a nine-hole golf course considered one of the best in eastern Canada.

The recreational facilities of the park cost the federal government about $3,000,000 and took five years to complete. It was officially opened in 1950 by Lieutenant-Governor D. L. MacLaren.

The facilities include 29 French colonial cottages, a community hall, dining room aand an outdoor amphitheatre where movies are screened three times a week. There is also an athletic park with tennis courts and a bowling green, a wild life park and scores of trout streams.

Visit to the Home Of A Noted Artist

By Ethel Kettyle

In a small Ontario town, situated on the Rideau River and not far from the capital city, stands a new, modernly-built stucco house. It is situated on the top of a hill, overlooking the highway; and here resides one of Canada's most outstanding and successful artists, Dr. A. Y. Jackson, CMG., LL.D., whose paintings hang in the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, in Ottawa's National Museum, Toronto's Royal Museum, and among other valued art collections. Not so long ago some of his paintings were reproduced in Maclean's Magazine.

Dr. Jackson has his own particular technique in portraying an object or scene on canvas, and all who are interested in art will readily recognize his style.

While visiting in that district during holidays, we had the opportunity of spending part of a summer's evening in his new home, where we admired many of the pictures in his large studio. Built to conveniently suit his work, the north side of this studio, consisting of many glass windows, gives plenty of light without admitting the full impact of the sun's rays.

Here he graciously chatted, in his modest way, and related much of his past life history. . . He started painting as a commercial artist in Canada, and later went to France. However, it seems that in that country he found people were inclined to "look down their noses" at commercial art. Soon he returned to Canada, and to Montreal, where he realized there was much wealth, but interest was centred around the work of the old masters.

From Montreal he went to Toronto and found things better there.

Having taught for some time, he proceeded to Banff, and there he stayed for six years, working and teaching his beloved art. Since that time he has travelled much, and has been filmed at his work amidst Canadian scenery.

He spoke of going "down east" seeking material for his scenes. There much antiquity could be found, and he appeared to have a particular affinity for old barns. He recalled how there had been a slight resentment on the part of some of the inhabitants in out-of-the-way places — they thought their old barns would be ridiculed when later put on display, and did not realize that he could see great beauty in old buildings.

He also spoke of the rapid movement of modern times, and of modern vehicles and buildings not having the same outstanding appeal to artists.

In his studio are many pictures by other artists, as well as his own. One of his canvases is most interesting — an immense number in oils, for which he sketched his material in the Arctic.

It is a picture of huge rocks and debris, forced up out of the earth, by the intense cold and frost, near Great Bear Lake. The reflected rays of light make this a most colorful and attractive study.

After having chatted in his friendly manner for some time, he gave us his autograph and posed for snapshots — which could be duly appreciated, for Dr. A. Y. Jackson is still apparently a very busy man; he travels each week up to Kingsmere Festival School of Art which, in its experimental stages, is being conducted in the old J. R. Booth summer home, built by Ottawa's millionaire lumber king years ago — a most appropriate setting.

EDINBURGH FILM FESTIVAL

London — A least eight Canadian films will be shown at the 9th International Edinburgh Festival, to be held from August 21 to September 11. British films to be shown at the Festival include the comedy "Doctor At Sea" — sequel to the highly successful "Doctor In The House"', and an example of the excellent series known as "Trans-atlantic Teleview".

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

There's more to mountain driving than racing to the top and coasting down — and, if you expect to cross a high range or two on your vacation trip, you'd do well to keep these pointers in mind:

1. Before starting up, be sure your oil and water are up to top level.
2. Most modern mountain highways are engineered so you can take them in high gear but be sure to shift into second the moment the engine begins to labour.
3. Keep moving at a steady, slow pace to avoid overheating and to give you maximum control for any emergency.
4. Stay strictly on your own lane — remembering that uphill traffic should have undisputed right of way.
5. Travel in second gear on the way down but, if you find yourself using brakes, shift into low.
6. Allow yourself time to stop and enjoy the view. It rests both you and your car.
7. If you are squeamish about heights, keep your eyes on the centre white line.

Remember the warning sometimes posted along hilly highways: "Drive Carefully — You May Meet a Fool".

Tea for Two Or Twenty

For centuries women of the world have been passing their favorite recipes back and forth. This recipe comes from Greece, but once you've tried it, you'll probably want to adopt it as your very own.

It's a wonderful yeast-raised cake that is a delight to serve whether you're preparing tea for two or tea for twenty. The sweet yeast dough is rolled to one-half inch thickness, then spread with a filling made of chopped nuts, raisins, grated chocolate and honey, and handled jelly-roll fashion. This yeast-raised cake can lift a party to the something special class or make a family meal into an occasion.

Putica, or Greek Butter-Cake

½ Cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 envelope active dry yeast, 3-½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 cup granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons soft butter or margarine, ½ cup milk (scalded and cooled to lukewarm), 2 eggs (well-beaten), 2 cups nuts (finely chopped), ½ cup seedless raisins (coarsly chopped), 2 tablespoons grated unsweetened chocolate (1 ounce), 2/3 cup of white honey (granulated).

In ½ cup lukewarm water thoroughly dissolve 1 teaspoon sugar. Sprinkle yeast on top of water. Let stand 10 minutes. Then stir well. Sift together all-purpose flour, granulated sugar and salt. Cut in butter or margarine, with pastry blender or two knives, until mixture is like course meal. Add well-stirred yeast and milk which has been scalded and cooled to lukewarm. Beat by hand until well mixed, about 2 minutes. Blend well-beaten eggs into above mixture. Beat until smooth and well blended. This mixture is not a stiff dough. It is soft like a cake batter. Cover with a clean cloth and let rise in a warm place free from draft for about 3 hours or until doubled in bulk. Mix together finely chopped nuts, coarsely chopped raisins, grated unsweetened chocolate and white honey. Grease 17 x 11-inch baking sheet. Preheat oven to 375 deg. F. When dough is risen, punch down with a wooden spoon and turn out on well-floured board. (The dough will be very soft but will not stick if a sufficient amount of flour is used on board and roller). Flour rolling pin and, pressing lightly, roll dough to ¼ inch thickness. Lightly spread honey filling over dough. Beginning at the wide edge, roll up dough jelly-roll fashion. Pinch outer edge securely. Place on greased baking sheet. Bake immediately at 375 deg. F. for 50 minutes.

Note: This is very rich, hence rising time is 3 hours.

Let's Eat

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"In Italy," the chef was saying, "it is the pizza; in Latin America it is the enchilado; in Switzerland it is the cheese tart. For North America I nominate the ham n'cheese pielet!"

"And what is that, chef?" I asked.

"My latest invention, madame, which I now present for taste-testing."

Savory Pies

He removed from the oven a muffin-panful of the most delectable-smelling little savory pies.

"Make them small, for hot hors d'oeuvres, or in muffin-pan size for brunch, lunch, or to accompany a garden vegetable platter at dinner. They add protein to balance the meal."

Ham n'cheese pielets: Line muffin or tart pans with pie-crust; spoon in ham n'cheese filling; bake 20 minutes in a hot oven, 400 degrees F. Serve hot or cool.

Ham n'cheese filling: Melt ½ tablespoon butter in a small frying pan. Add 1 teaspoon minced onion or chives and saute 30 seconds.

Stir in ½ cup each minced cooked ham and sharp grated cheddar cheese, then ½ cup and 2 tablespoons light cream or homogenized milk and 1 beaten egg. Use as directed.

All measurements are level
Recipes proportioned to serve 4 to 6

Garden vegetable platter: Peel 2 pounds potatoes and boil 20 minutes in salted water to cover. Add 2 pounds fresh peas or 1 (10-oz.) package frozen peas. Boil 10 minutes longer or until the potatoes are tender. Add 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. The liquid should be almost entirely evaporated.

Meantime, remove the skins from 6 medium-sized tomatoes. Place them in a low baking dish or platter that can go-to-table. Dust with salt, pepper and mono-sodium glutamate. Top each tomato with a half slice of bacon. Bake in a hot oven until crisp.

Arrange the potatoes and peas around the edge. Serve very hot.

The Chef's Creamy French Dressing

Use with any green or vegetable salad, or for putting together any salad made with meat, poultry, fish, seafood or eggs.

Measure 2 tablespoons table mustard into a small deep bowl. Add 1 egg. Beat until foamy; beat in 4 tablespoons cider vinegar, ½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate, ½ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Add ¾ cup salad oil (preferably olive), starting with one teaspoon at a time. When beginning to thicken add 1 tablespoon oil at a time. Beat well before using.

Keep cool, but do not put in the coldest part of the refrigerator as it will separate.

THE ROMANS HAD A NAME FOR IT

The word salad is said to come from the Latin word for salt and apparently was derived from the ancient custom of eating raw greens sprinkled with salt. An ancient Roman confronted with one of our present day colorful salad combinations of fruits or vegetables would probably not recognize this modern descendant of his greens and salt or then again he might see some resemblance in the salad suggested below by the Poultry Products Institute.

Popeye's Salad

1 lb. raw spinach, 1 to 2 teaspoons grated onion, 6 hard-cooked eggs, 1/3 cup mayonnaise (approximately), salt and pepper to taste.

Wash and pick over spinach, drain thoroughly or toss in clean towel to dry. Break into bite-sized pieces and mix with onion. Add sliced hard-cooked eggs (reserving enough slices for garnishing). Just before serving, toss lightly with mayonnaise, add salt and pepper to taste and serve with cold sliced chicken or turkey. Yields 5 to 6 servings. (Note: If preferred, French dressing may be used in place of mayonnaise, adding just enough to moisten salad).

The first patent issued in Canada, in 1824, was for a washing machine.

Active at 74, Still Helping Others

Toronto (CP) — Almost any sunny afternoon you might see a little old lady trundling along in downtown Toronto. She might have a doll's bed under her arm, or a scrap book, a bundle of freshly-knit wash cloths, or a jar full of pennies.

She is 74-year-old Victoria Herring, who receives $52 a month from pension and investment, but who spends her walking hours doing what she can for others.

"Better to go around with a face like a teapot than a coffeepot," is the motto she'll give you.

Busy Rounds

Victoria Herring might be going to the Home for Incurable Children to take the "wee dears" a doll. Or she might be on her way to the St. Christopher's house where she acts as hostess for an old people's club. She might be taking the auxiliary there the pot-full of pennies.

"Once they're in the pot I feel I have no right to them," she says. "But you don't miss a few pennies."

Victoria Herring pays $7 a week for her room, a tiny one on the third floor of an old rooming house. She has it filled up with china and wool knick-knacks, which she fears she will have to leave behind when she "growns old" and goes to an old lady's home.

And she's not in the least bit lonely, she'll tell you, as if to say "What a silly question to ask!"

FLATTERS COMPLEXION

Popularity of a new electric light for use in homes and places of social gatherings is growing rapidly. The bulb is pearl pink instead of clear or frosted white glass, giving a decorative light that platters the complexion. — Marketing

Nurses On WHO Fellowship

Among the 46 nurses taking this year's course at the Nurses' Post-graduate School in New Zealand's capital city of Wellington, are girls from countries in the Far and Near East who received fellowships from the World Health Organization of the United Nations. The picture shows five of these fellows in the Graduate School library. They are: Miss Sosamma Avira, of India; Mrs. Lucy Tang, of Taiwan (Formosa); Miss Rachel Werner, of Israel; Miss Lillian D'Souza and Miss Alekutty Phillips both of India.

too, first because of the color — a pale blue; and secondly for it styling — rather long, belted at the bottom and buttoned from top to bottom.

Joyce was slim and trim in a Matari Alaska Seal — this coat shows the tulip line — straight and slim until it breaks above the knee into a flare.

A natural wild-mink coat worn by Leslie, luxuriously glamorous, caught everyone's eye.

Popular as ever, the collection of separates had something for everyone. Mrs. Ernst Mueller was gay in a striped felt skirt and orlon pullover. The circular felt skirt effectively combined the use of olive green, rust, gold, royal blue and black against a background of white, and the scooped-neckline pullover was of olive green trimmed with a contrasting band of white.

Afternoon dresses were chic and becoming. Mrs. Warren Soper looked particularly lovely in a copy of a dress designed by Jacques Fath. Of fine grey wool, the back was fitted and flaring. The front was a waistcoat effect, from under which fell the deeply pleated skirt. A rich effect was achieved by the gray satin detachable collar. Her grey satin beret matched the satin over-collar of the dress.

For college or young-career-girl parties, Miss Monique Fournier modelled a black embroidered velvet dress. The embroidery worked in two shades of pink and the deep square neckline, cap sleeves and pointed hipline were piped in the pale pink.

A black velvet cocktail ensemble modelled by Leslie had a fitted coat with a large puffed up collar which framed the face. The coat was snug at the waist and flared slightly. It was worn over a black velvet sheath dress with wide square neckline and narrow straps. For contrast she wore a white satin beaded beret from New York.

In the party mood, Joyce was breath-taking in an emerald green evening dress from Sweden. In a new color for evening, this beautiful gown was in peau-de-soie; the simple, regal lines, flattering to almost any age and figure. With it was worn a soft, short white fox cape.

A pink fox jacket, rich and soft, over a wide corded evening dress from Fabiani of Italy, was shown by Peggy, the bodice severely simple so as not to detract from the beautiful beadwork on the full skirt.

After the Fashion Show, a draw was held for lucky winners of the door prizes. Mr. H. Crabtree won an Ayers blanket, Mrs. Pat Hetu a Coca-Cola cooler, and Mrs. Enid Dixon a steam iron.

Dorothy Gray perfume favors were distributed to the ladies by Misses Gail Ayers, Leda Ayers and Yolaine Laplante.

Appreciation was expressed by Mrs. Leonard Ayers, the president of the Ladies' Branch of the Argenteuil County Cancer Society, for the use of the Club, which was donated for the evening by the president, Mr. Gilbert Ayers, and the directors; also for the extra work done by Mr. Roger Gravel and his staff to accommodate the capacity crowd; to Henry Morgan Company Limited; to Laplante and Langevin for the donation of 500 handsome invitations and tickets; and to the florists, A. B. Ogilvie & Sons, Mr. L. Hammond, Mr. H. Cordeau and Mr. Thomas Iddon, for the baskets of beautiful gladiolus, which were later sold; also to Ayers Limited, J. C. Wilson and J. P. MacKimmie & Sons for the door prizes, and Dorothy Gray for the perfume favors.

Mrs. Ayers also thanked Mrs. Roger Gravel and her committee, who were in charge of organizing the event; Mrs. Roger Regimbal for translating and giving the French commentary; members of the press for their assistance with publicity; and the four local girls who assisted the professional models.

With all these generous donations, no expenses whatsoever were incurred by the Cancer Society group, and all funds received from the sale of tickets will be used to equip the workroom in Lachute.

Noted Hunt'dn Lady Was Daughter of Robt. Sellar, Pioneer Weekly Journalist

Many here associated with the community of Huntingdon, and many across Canada acquainted with the Sellar family, noted with regret the passing of Mrs. Norman W. Sparrow recently in the Huntingdon County Hospital.

The former Elsie Margaret Sellar died less than two months after the loss of her husband, a former Bank of Montreal manager.

The only daughter of the late Robert Sellar, founder of The Huntingdon Gleaner, she was born and lived all her life in Huntingdon where she contributed notably to the well-being of her community in charity, social and church affairs, and was a life member of the Red Cross. She was a talented pianist.

Sincere sympathy is expressed to the bereaved relatives.

C.W.L. Convention Theme Is "Catholic Woman And Her Home"

Miss Mary Ramsay, Quebec provincial president of the Catholic Women's League of Canada, has announced that Miss Frances Carroll, president of the Montreal Archdiocesan Council, will be hostess to the eighth annual Provincial Convention, to be held on Friday and Saturday, September 16-17.

The convention, whose sessions will take place at the Sheraton Mount Royal Hotel, will commence with a meeting of the provincial executive on Friday evening, September 16.

"The Catholic Woman and Her Home" is to be the theme of this 1955 convention, which will open with Mass at St. Patrick's Church, celebrated by His Excellency Most Rev. Lawrence Whelan, D.D., V.G., Auxiliary Bishop of Montreal and director of the Provincial Council.

Delegates from the diocesan councils of Montreal, Quebec, Sherbrooke, Saint-Jean, Valleyfield, St. Hyacinthe, Mont Laurier, St. Jerome and Nicolet will attend.

Whipped Cream Texture

There's a whipped cream texture to Canada's newest blouse fabric, Arnel, shown here with a thoroughly feminine flair. The embroidered neckline is pertly tied as are the three-quarter length sleeves. Machine washable and quick drying, blouses made from this fabric will appear in your stores for the first time this fall.

CANADIAN TURKEY FOR SUMMER FEASTING

Christmas feasting in July is no longer a myth. Turkey, the king of birds, no longer reigns for just a few short weeks, as in Grandmother's time. Nowadays it heads the menu in the summer as well as in December.

Modern methods of breeding, feeding and processing have all gone to make turkey practically custom-built to suit today's living. The lordly gobbler of mighty proportions still finds his place at the large gathering. Turkey à la king, salad or sandwiches for the wedding; the medium-sized bird of 10 to 16 pounds is at home with the smaller family. In fact, turkey is found this summer everywhere good eating is enjoyed.

Poultry Products Institute points out that turkeys under 7 pounds are delicious halved, quartered or cut up and broiled or fried. Allow 1½ to 2 hours for broiling (basting frequently with melted butter, French dressing or barbecue sause). Frying will take 1½ to 1¾ hours. Coat turkey portions with seasoned flour and paprika before frying.

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Off To School!

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Off to School!" How many mothers of little boys and girls exclaim with a choke in their voices! When Son or Daughter start to school for the first time, parents feel they have lost their "baby". From now on his or her world is enlarged to include "Teacher" and school chums.

Mothers of older boys and girls may say "Off to School!" with a good deal of relief. Vacation time is over, but both parents usually find it good to get back to the regular schedule of the Autumn. This is a special season with its marvellous display of brilliant colors of the falling leaves.

"Off to School!" son or daughter may grumble that holidays are over — but they are looking forward to comparing their summer adventures with their friends! Son likely has not thought about his clothes. Mother may have difficulty in persuading him to shop with her. "I want to wear the same things as the other fellows!" he explains.

Little girls don't wish to be conspicuous either — but usually they enjoy planning their wardrobe with their mothers. It gives a child self-confidence to know that what she is wearing is attractive and becoming. She will be more cooperative about looking after her clothes, keeping them hung up and in repair, if she has been consulted about their choice.

If there are several children, parents often sigh when they realize how many new pairs of shoes must be bought for the new school season. Young feet grow up so quickly and too tight or ill-fitting shoes can harm a child's pliable bones. Of all the articles of clothes needed, none are more important than foot wear.

"Off to School!" Mother is happy to see the tanned skin and boundless energy of her youngsters as they start in on another year of study. She phones the dentist or the doctor for an appointment if it is time for a check-up. She plans for a "Getting up Hour" which will give time enough to get dressed and eat a nourishing breakfast. This first meal of the day is so valuable for growing children!

"Off to School!" parents want their children to be suitably dressed, healthy and ready for their adventure to education. Each small scholar needs to feel that he is loved by his family. No one else fills his own special place! Mother and Dad are eager for him to do his best in his studies and also get along happily with his school mates. They hope he will "like teacher". Do they sometimes wonder if "teacher" will like him?

One of the best ways parents can help their child is by encouraging him to look for the good points in the instructor. A teacher is a partner in the challenging and sometimes perplexing task of helping a boy or girl discover new knowledge and develop in character. Parents frequently forget that a teacher is only human. He or she may make mistakes, just like other people.

Few young men or women choose this profession unless they like children and want to help them. Does your boy or girl know from your comments and from your attitude that you appreciate the magnitude and the difficulties of the teacher's task?

With the first days of September, let's resolve anew to do all we can to make the path of the teacher a bit easier! Let's consult Teacher as a friend when necessary! In our homes, let's show appreciation, not criticism of the person who stands at the front of our child's school room! When opportunity arises, let's praise the teacher who is doing a good job with our child and twenty or thirty other people's children too!

Fashions

Cotton knit does up into a casual sports or general wear outfit, ideal to pack in that back-to-college trunk, good too for travel wear. Charcoal brown popcorn stitch with plain ribbing at the pockets is the story for the boxy jacket and skirt. With these there is a pullover sweater with turtle neck and cap sleeves in white and black for a smart color complement and youthful air.

Dust Control and Road Binding – Combined Operation

Recently at Harrington Forest Farm, Canadian International Paper Company held a road-spraying demonstration with sulphite waste liquor from the Hawkesbury mill. A group of 75 people, including mayors and municipal secretaries from surrounding areas, businessmen and farmers, were present for the demonstration. The photographs above, taken before and after spraying, show clearly how the sulphite liquor eliminates dust on dirt and gravel roads completely. In addition, it serves as an effective road binder, stabilizing the earth and gravel and reducing wear and tear on the roads. As a result the cost of upkeep on roads spread with sulphite would be greatly reduced and the dust nuisance eliminated. About 14,000 gallons of liquor would be required per mile of road to do a satisfactory job. The waste liquor is available free of charge to municipalities at the Hawkesbury mill.

Those Disarming Smiles

By Lewis Milligan

The "at the summit" conference at Geneva has come and gone — some think with the wind. But it was a genial breeze that, for the time being, may temper if not dispel the cold war. Judging by the reports and especially the pictures of the occasion, the conference was a glorified garden party with everybody smiling at everybody else, particularly at the photographers.

Premier Bulganin's smile appeared to be the most genuine of the three Soviet summiteers. He has a fatherly face, unlike that of Stalin which was of the poker variety, and whose smile indicated that he had some trump cards up his sleeve. Khrushchev's smile was that of a glad-hander. He smiled all over his face and half-way down his front, while the facial attempt at geniality by Molotov resulted in a painful smirk.

The boyish smile of President Eisenhower is not assumed; it is the radiation of irrepressible good humor and good will, and it is infectious. The Soviet leaders were infected by it; they did their best to reflect the beaming countenance of the President. They had previously said they were willing to learn anything useful from capitalist countries, and they made good use of the President's smile at Geneva and later at a garden party given to foreign diplomats and pressmen in Moscow.

So far so good, but nothing happened at Geneva to show that the Kremlin had changed its mind in regard to the vital issues of the occupation of Eastern Germany, Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and the Balkans. The cold war began with the refusal of Stalin to fulfill the Yalta agreement to evacuate those countries the Allied Nations had fought to release from the domination of Germany. No amount of smiling can remedy that situation. When the Soviet leaders smilingly talk about "peaceful co-existence" they mean that we should forget all about Yalta and agree to the permanent extension of the Russian Empire over Eastern Europe.

Well they might smile when they are sitting on top of the world, backed by a military force that could sweep over the whole of Europe. The present rulers in Moscow may have no intention of doing that, and are probably quite satisfied with the territory gained by the cold war. The Russian ambassador to Canada put the Soviet idea of co-existence in a nutshell when he said: "You leave us alone and we'll leave you alone." Bulganin said the same thing with a smile — a disarming smile, with a threat behind it.

President Eisenhower's proposal for an aerial inspection of military bases in the United States and Russia, was belittled by Bulganin The Kremlin has probably got all the information it requires about American preparedness for defence, and there must be no lifting of the Iron Curtain. Until that curtain is lifted, at least around the Russian occupied and tyrannized countries of Europe there can be no permanent and safe co-existence with a smiling and bloated Communist Russia. Which reminds one of the limerick:

There was a young lady of Riga
Who went for a ride on a tiger;
They returned from the ride
With the lady inside,
And a smile on the face of the tiger.
