High Percentage of 81.5 County Electors Exercised Franchise -- Figures Reveal

Official recount of votes cast in the June 20 provincial elections for Argenteuil County was completed last week in the office of Notary Jacques Beaudoin, official returning officer for this County. Representatives of both election candidates, the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, U.N., and Bernard Gosselin, Liberal, were in attendance.

A total of 13,363 persons exercised their voting franchise out of a possible 15,245 eligible, for a high percentage of 81.53.

The Hon. W. M. Cottingham recorded 7,153 votes, Mr. Gosselin 5,726 and there were 242 ballots rejected — the official majority for Mr. Cottingham therefore being 1,427. These figures are practically the same as those published the day following the election, when the results from the various polls were compiled at the Returning Officer's bureau. Figures at that time gave the Hon. Cottingham 7,166 votes and Mr. Gosselin 5,720, thus giving the Hon. Cottingham a majority of 1,446.

This majority of 1,427 for Mr. Cottingham is the second most impressive in his political career. In 1948, he defeated the Hon. Georges E. Dansereau by a majority of 433 votes; in 1952 he defeated Bernard Gosselin by a large majority of 4,352 votes — this majority being cut considerably to 1,427 votes in the recent campaign.

Child Hit by Car On Riverfront Road

Violet Villeneuve, 3½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Villeneuve, of Cushing, was rushed to the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury, on Sunday afternoon after being struck by a car in front of her home on Route 29. Contrary to beliefs following the accident, she was not seriously injured.

The mishap occurred around 3 p.m., when the child apparently ran from the house to a car parked across the highway. She darted across the road into the path of a sports car driven by Gilles Delorme, 21, of Montreal, who stopped within feet of striking the child.

Wins Calf Drawing By Holstein Club

George McRae, R.R. 1, Lachute, was the lucky holder of a ticket drawn by Miss Lynn Hume at a Holstein Club dance held last Friday, winning a Holstein heifer calf. The drawing, on which numerous tickets had been sold, was held at Hume's Silver Leaf Hall, R.R. 7, where a large attendance was in evidence at the dance.

Potential water power of the world is four times the total of all the power from other sources, including coal and water, used in the world today. Only about 13 per cent of the total water power has been developed.

St. Andrews Scene of Marine Activity

A representative turnout of the Montreal Power Boat Squadron members was seen at St. Andrews East over the holiday week-end, the visitors being guests of the St. Andrews East Yacht Club. Main festivity of the event was a dinner-dance held at the St. Andrews Country Club on Sunday evening at which there was a large attendance of local and visiting boating enthusiasts.

Impressive Celebrations at Arundel Mark Community's 100th Anniversary

Flowers, Decorations, Array of Antiques -- Colorful Scene Greets Old-Home Visitors

(Our District Correspondent)

Arundel — Despite unfavorable weather, the little community of Arundel celebrated its 100th anniversary in a fitting and successful manner.

Flower boxes lined the main highway, poles were decorated with flags and bunting, and various decorations adorned the homes and stores. Antiques were unearthed and displayed in all the store windows, attracting public attention, while in the school yard there was the old surrey, an ancient horse treadmill, old buggies, and the old burlow in which, in the bygone days, a warm brick kept your feet comfy and you snuggled down in a warm buffalo robe. A maypole also added to the old-time atmosphere.

Mr. Percy Staniforth also had an interesting showing of antiques outside his home, and this, coupled with the store window's display of hoarded, prized possessions, drew the interest of all attending the celebration. Many were the memories conjured up at the sight of these old relics.

On Friday afternoon a reception was held at the Arundel Golf Club in honor of the old-timers. This feature drew an attendance of about 170, who renewed old friendships and reminisced about old times. Tea was served by the members of the Grace Church Women's Auxiliary. On Friday evening the community was honored by attendance of the band of the Royal 22nd Regiment, who gave freely of their music between showers. After the band concert, the crowd gathered at the school auditorium where a dance was held. Billie Bushell's orchestra was in attendance and kept the dance floor active with his lively and pleasing music. The supper was served by the Guild of the United Church.

The Saturday afternoon Field Day had to be cancelled on account of rain. In the evening over 500 persons attended the reunion supper in the auditorium, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with green plastic streamers festooning the entire ceiling, held together with bunches of multi-colored balloons. Instead of the usual ceiling lights, floodlights were placed at strategic points, which shed a soft glow over the entire hall. The stage was decorated in a similar manner, making a pleasing background for the red uniforms of the bandsmen and the gay national Polish costumes of the dancers.

After the supper, Dr. R. B. Henry, acting as chairman, introduced the speakers for the evening, namely, the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P., of Lachute; Mayor G. Laurier, of Huberdeau; Philippe Valois, M.P., of Lachute. Guests at the head-table included the Hon. Mr. Cottingham, Mayor Laurier of Huberdeau, Mayor and Mrs. Bedford of Barkmere, Mayor and Mrs. Breckenridge of Weir, Mayor and Mrs. A. Morrison of Arundel, Acting-Mayor and Mrs. H. Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Hall-Cox, and Mrs. Baugh of Morin Heights. After the speeches were concluded the band played a short program which was interspersed with dances by a group of Polish dancers; this was sincerely appreciated by the audience. A display of fireworks brought the evening to a close.

The supper was served by the members of the Arundel Women's Institute.

On Sunday morning, owing to the more promising look of the weather, a quick change was made and the service which was to have been held indoors was held in the grounds of the United Church. A heavy shower, however, forced the gathering to retire to the church, where community singing of old hymns brought the service to an end. During the service Mr. George Little presided at the organ, assisted by Mrs. Leslie Cooke. The choir rendered the anthem, "Send Out Thy Light" (Gounod) and a short address was given by Canon C. W. P. Baugh. Prayers were led by Mr. Bussell, of Grace Anglican Church, who also introduced the visitors on the platform, namely, the Rev. Selwin Graham; Canon Baugh; Mr. Reed, of Lakeview and Lost River; and Mr. Stern, acting minister of Arundel. Sunday afternoon was left free for the visitors to contact old friends and relatives, thus bringing to a close this celebration, marking 100 years of tranquil accord and companionship in Arundel.

This commentary would be remiss without extending sincere congratulations to the hard-working committees who planned and labored to make the occasion the great success it turned out to be, in spite of weather handicaps. And judging from the various comments overheard by this correspondent, all who visited here will echo these sentiments . . . So into the past fades the first century of this little village. May the future hold for its residents the peace and tranquility they have hitherto enjoyed. In the words of Tiny Tim, "God bless us every one."

Census-Takers Near Completion Of Local Survey

Census-takers in the electoral district of Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes will next week complete their task of counting the district population and gathering the required data about farms for the 1956 census — states Census Commissioner Notary Richard Valois.

They have met a generally friendly reception from the people visited and a ready response to the questions they have had to ask. The commissioner wishes to express his warm appreciation for this co-operation, which has lightened and made the work of the enumerators pleasant.

Every effort has been made to ensure a complete count in this census district, states Mr. Valois, but it is possible that some persons have been missed. He asks everyone who thinks he or she has not been counted, to get in touch with his office at Lachute, by telephone (No. 902) or by mail, or preferably — if convenient — to call there personally. Alternatively, they may report by letter to the Census Division, Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Ottawa, to which many of the census returns for the district have now been forwarded.

Concert Dates And Programs Announced

"Les Basses Harmonistes", European instrumental group which was tentatively selected for the Community Concerts schedule next season, will be unavailable for appearance in Lachute — it was learned from a spokesman of the executive here. In fact, this popular ensemble is being retained in Paris on contract, and will be unable to tour the American continent as anticipated.

On the recent visit of a Columbia Artists representative to discuss the program schedule, the local executive selected another highly popular troupe, the Angelaires (five versatile and accomplished harpists) to replace their earlier selection.

Dates and programs for next season's Community Concert series have been arranged as follows:

Thursday, October 11 —
Robert Rudie, violinist.

Tuesday, November 20 —
The Angelaires, harpists.

Wednesday, February 20 —
Christianna Cordillo, soprano.

120th Anniversary Celebrated at St. Mungo, Cushing

Cushing — Last week-end at St. Mungo's Church in Cushing, anniversary services were held to commemorate the 120th year of the erection of the church in 1836, and to recall the history of the congregation for a still longer period.

On the Saturday afternoon there was a memorial service in the newly-decorated church. The minister, the Rev. J. Ralph Watson, conducted the service and introduced a number of guests. The Rev. Norman A. McMurray, D.D., president of the Montreal and Ottawa Conference (minister of Wesley Church, Montreal) brought the greetings of the Conference. The Rev. P. R. Stote, of the Anglican Parish, of Grenville; the Rev. G. W. Bruce, of the United Church in Brownsburg; and the Rev. W. B. Rosborough of Lachute, were present and addressed the congregation. The Rev. Wilson Bridge of Lachute United Church, unable to be present, sent his regrets and asked that his greetings be expressed to the church.

Three persons long associated with the congregation then recalled the church as they remembered it in former days. Mrs. William Usher, of Cushing, in her remarks went from pew to pew naming those who occupied them, and recalling incidents that stood out in her mind in connection with a few of them. Mr. Arthur Weir, of Ottawa, and Mr. Lemuel Cushing, of Montreal, also spoke of their memories of former days.

Following the service a supper was held at the residence of Mrs. W. Y. King in Cushing. A three-tier anniversary cake, suitably decorated for the occasion, was cut by Mrs. King, who has been a member of the church since 1888.

On Sunday morning St. Mungo's was filled to overflowing. Many friends and former members were present, and the sister congregations in St. Andrews East, Grenville and Calumet withdrew their services to allow their people to attend. The Rev. Charles Donald, D.D., minister of Southminster Church, Ottawa (and a former president of the Montreal and Ottawa Conference) was guest speaker. He based his theme "A man . . . and God", on the 36th Chapter of Isaiah. The whole service of worship was an inspiration and a challenge to all who attended.

MR. LACROSSE DIES

Lacrosse lost its greatest supporter with the death the other day in Cornwall, Ont., of Joe Lally. He was "Mr. Lacrosse" in Canada and he devoted 57 of his 87 years to the game.

Joe was a player, referee and organizer, but it was as a referee that he gained lasting fame and respect. He was the only man to referee five Minto Cup junior lacrosse championships and he founded the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association in 1925.

Lally wanted to see lacrosse played as an organized sport in Canadian schools in an effort to revive the game.

Two years ago, however, he said Canadian boys today were "too lazy" to play lacrosse as it was played in years gone by.

DEATH IN HEAD-ON CRASH, ROUTE 8 NEAR ST. PHILIPPE

25-YEAR-OLD BUSINESSMAN, OF VICTORIAVILLE, VICTIM OF COLLISION WEDNESDAY EVENING

Paul Alain, 25-year-old director of the Victoriaville Lumber and Furniture Company, died while en route to hospital shortly after seven o'clock last evening, following a head-on crash two miles west of St. Philippe. He was alone in his car at the time of the accident, which took place on a straight stretch of Route 8.

Eyewitnesses to the accident report that a 1951-model car, driven by Gerald Pilon, 32, of St. Philippe, attempted to pass a ½-ton truck owned and driven by James Chambers, also of St. Philippe. Mr. Chambers informed the investigating Traffic Officer, Howard Jones, that he was travelling about 30 miles an hour when he heard a bang and felt the jar of his truck being hit. The two vehicles were headed in the same direction, towards Grenville.

According to evidence received, Pilon came into contact with the left rear fender of the truck in his attempt to pass. The head-on crash then occurred immediately after Pilon had swerved past the Chambers truck.

Alain, the victim, was headed towards Lachute and apparently saw the Pilon car attempting to pass the truck; tire marks on the pavement showed that Alain had applied his brakes 80 feet from the scene of the impact. The 1955-model car from Victoriaville, Que., was approximately four feet from the edge of the pavement when the brakes were first applied, but apparently was entirely off the paved highway at the time of the impact, which demolished both vehicles. The cars came to a rest about 10 feet apart, both headed towards a ditch and field on the south side of the highway.

The two cars involved in the crash were occupied only by their drivers both of whom were rushed to hospital in Lachute by ambulance Alain succumbed before arrival as the result of a serious neck injury and profuse bleeding.

Pilon was treated at the Providence Hospital here by Drs. J. Lafleur and R. Lavigne, who reported his most serious injury was an extensive cut under the right arm in addition to numerous minor cuts, bruises and severe shock.

Dr. Jules Lafleur, district coroner, has the case in hand but no date has been set for an inquest into the fatality. Paul Alain, the victim, is believed to be survived by a wife and a young daughter.

Hoodlums Damage Rotary Properties At Community Park

Last week's regular meeting of the Rotary Club was the final session in the Club year for the present directorate, and was the occasion for Past-President Syd Stilwell to turn the chairmanship of the meeting over to the new president, Keith Hickson. Rotarian Stilwell thanked all members for their splendid co-operation during his year and particularly the chairmen of the various committees. Rotarian Fred Royal presented the outgoing president with his past-president's pin, and congratulated him on a very successful year.

Arnold Stiffel, manager of the local branch of Household Finance Corporation, was inducted by Rotarian Keith Rutherford as a new member.

It was reported at this meeting that a number of hoodlums were making a practice of smashing the buildings and other property at the Club's public park and swimming pool. This project has proved to be one of the most successful ever undertaken by any organization in this community, and all members of the Club have worked strenuously for years to improve the property and the facilities so that everyone, and particularly the young people of the district, may have a suitable place to play. As the facilities provided here are free to all, it was generally agreed that anyone who would deliberately damage and attempt to destroy this property certainly qualifies for the lowest type of human being. Some discussion took place with regard to enlisting the support of the public in an attempt to put a stop to these outrages.

Polio at Record Low

Canada's polio inoculation program has been estimated to have reached only about half the children originally intended, but so far the number of polio cases reported this year is at a record low.

The pre-holiday inoculation program ended with 2,300,000 doses of Salk vaccine shipped to the provinces from Toronto's Connaught laboratories, only current producer in the country.

About double that amount was needed to give the first two shots to the 2,000,000 children the provinces planned to inoculate before the school term ended and to provide third shots for the 880,000 inoculated last year.

(Lower picture) A checking-staff of 13 employees were rushed off their feet last Thursday, minutes after the A & P Supermarket opened its doors at 440 Main Street. This department of the modern store comprises five check-out cashiers, as well as an express cashier, all of which are in operation during rush periods.

Arrests, Sentences In Traffic Cases

Philippe Boyer, 45, of Lachute appeared before Judge Omer Coté in St. Jerome Court last Friday, and on pleading guilty to a charge of driving with his faculties impaired, was sentenced to a fine of $50 plus costs, his driver's license also being suspended for a six-month period.

Georges E. Brisebois, 47, of Lachute Mills, was released on property bail of $250 following his appearance in St. Jerome Court on a charge of driving while his ability was impaired. Brisebois appeared Saturday and his trial was postponed until Tuesday, July 10. The accused was arrested and charged following a recent accident on Hamford Street, Ayersville, when some $400 damage was caused to the car of Napoleon Belanger.

Hit and Run Case

Gerard Martineau, 18, of Lachute, was questioned following a hit-and-run accident on Bethany Street over the holiday week-end. Damage of approximately $250 resulted from the accident.

Roger Poupard, of Montreal, informed Provincial Police Officers that he was struck by a car which failed to stop. Det. Ralph Allen and Traffic Officer Albert Legault discovered, following investigation, that the driver of the offending car was 18-year-old Gerard Martineau. He was questioned by the officers and later released.

No arrest has as yet been made.

Large Attendance at Macdonald For 42nd Annual Convention Of Quebec Women's Institutes

"Today it is impossible for any citizen to isolate himself from other citizens in his own country or any other country," said Mrs. G. E. LeBaron in her presidential address at the opening session of the annual provincial convention of the Quebec Women's Institutes, held last week at Macdonald College. Speaking on the theme of the convention, "Raising Our Sights", Mrs. LeBaron remarked that Institute members through their affiliation in the Associated Country Women of the World are aware of the problems of country women in other lands and stated that "Today's uneasy world needs all the clear thinking, love and co-operation we can give, and a realization that even the humblest among us has a responsibility in working out its salvation."

This thought was further emphasized by Mrs. A. M. Berry, president, Associated Country Women of the World, Mrs. Berry, who was a guest at the convention, spoke the following evening. She told of experiences encountered in her travels and pointed out the fact that, in the words of the "Hymn of All Nations" used in ACWW gatherings, "other skies are just as blue as mine," that country women everywhere have the same problems and it is through organizations such as ours that all can be brought to a closer understanding and mutually helped. Through the international spirit which is engendered we are all finding our lives fuller and richer through these friendly relations, the interchange of ideas and information.

Gatineau Lights

Lights Out?

What should you do? Follow these steps each time:

1. Find out if your neighbors' lights are out too. If they are not, it is quite likely that the trouble is in your own wiring.

2. Pull the main switch and examine the fuses. If a fuse is burned look for the cause. It may be caused by too many appliances on the same circuits or by defective appliances or cords. It may be due to a short circuit in the wiring. Be sure to find the cause, as a burned fuse indicates trouble somewhere.

3. If there is lightning or heavy winds in the district, and your neighbors' lights are out, it is probably due to trouble on the power company lines.

Wait for a few minutes to see if the power is restored. If not, call the local office of the power company and report the trouble.

4. If it is a clear day, the power company may be working on the lines; a car may have struck a pole, or someone may have felled a tree over the lines. Wait a reasonable time to see if service is restored. If it is not, please report your trouble to the local office of the power company.

By reporting directly to the power company you are taking the most effective method of correcting the trouble.

Garbage Disposal Method Effectively Demonstrated

The Drott Bulliciam method of sanitary fill shown in this operation, has for the past week been demonstrated effectively at the Lachute garbage dump. The machine, seen pressing the cans and refuse prior to covering it with several inches of earth, is on loan to the corporation by Chas. Cusson Ltd., Montreal. The town's unsanitary, odorous and smoking dump will be entirely covered at no cost to the corporation.

The Economy of Using the Best

The economy of using the best possible materials is made apparent in the upkeep problem. A house or business building may be "thrown together" with cheap material, and it may "look all right", but after it has stood the shock of weather, the real test comes.

It is false economy to use poor materials — and we so advise everyone who buys from us. Our success is due to honesty in materials and prices.

One of the many thousands of rats is circled amongst refuse and scattered garbage at the top of the gully, where until several weeks ago, burning was a daily necessity. ## Matter of Policy

A PROMINENT Temperance League worker hereabouts was questioned at a district meeting as to whether his home newspaper "carried liquor advertising". . . His home newspaper (The Watchman), having decisive ideas on this subject, was, to say the least, nonplussed to learn that our temperance friend "could not remember" or "had never noticed".

We draw the attention of church and temperance people who may not have noticed, that this newspaper has sacrificed thousands of dollars over the years through its policy of rejecting space-orders for liquor and beer advertising. It affords little encouragement to the publishers, while denying themselves this revenue on sound principle, that there are fellow travellers on the road of progress who assume that everyone else is out of step. . . We warrant that, if we accepted this advertising, the same apathetic readers would soon notice it and raise a loud furore!

The Watchman's policy in this matter — lest any should be inquisitive—is that the best interests of humanity are not served by the promotion of drinking habits. We have therefore consistently refused all advertising of the "direct sales" type — to the tune, as mentioned, of thousands of dollars.

True, in past years The Watchman has carried brewery advertising of an "institutional" nature, as distinct from the sales approach. Such space has featured conservation and sports topics, invariably on a constructive theme — the only "advertising", as such, being the company name as sponsors. This type of publicity has been accepted on the same principle as we approve the gifts of brewery interests to good, wholesome causes; the end and purpose, we contend, are more important than the philanthropic source. There are churchmen who stoutly oppose this argument; but from the lay viewpoint, we can see no logic in their protest.

Finding New Riches

EVERY YEAR about this time teams of government geologists move through remote, undeveloped areas of the country, mapping, surveying and probing the earth for valuable minerals.

By canoe, dog team, pack horse and now by helicopter, they make their way into rugged regions that otherwise would not be surveyed for years and perhaps not at all.

The work of these men and the geological students who go with them when school's out in summer is one of the key factors in Canada's unfolding story of development. Their reports are made available to the public. In many cases their findings have resulted in private enterprise moving in to develop a promising area.

It was a young geological student working on a northern New Brunswick survey who some years ago made the initial discovery of the lead, zinc and copper resources that are now described as one of the largest deposits in the world. They are being rapidly developed and hold promise of a mighty new mining industry.

But for the zeal of that young geological student, these deposits might still by lying unknown.

The field exploratory work has been going on in Canada for more than 100 years. Years ago the government sent out only one or two men. Now the geological surveys branch of the department of mines and technical surveys sends out teams of geologists, involving hundreds of men, armed with the latest in scientific instruments to shorten the time it takes to survey a given area.

This year 73 parties are going out. They will be probing into almost every part of the country from British Columbia to the Maritimes.

Two helicopters and other aircraft will be used to move and supply 15 geologists and 18 student assistants for geological mapping in a 25,000-square-mile area of the Cassiar mountains and the Stikine Plateau in northern B.C. They expect to be able, through use of the planes and modern methods, to map in one season an area that would have previously required 30 survey parties.

Other projects this year include coastal reconnaissance in the remote isolation of Ellesmere and northwest Baffin Island in the Arctic, geochemical exploration and aero-magnetic mapping of southwestern Nova Scotia, studies in radioactive mineral areas of the Northwest Territories and mapping and examination of structure of possible new oil, gas and coal areas in B.C., Alberta and Ontario.

Who knows what new riches the geologists may have discovered by the time they come out of the bush and tundra in the Fall?

Stratford — A Stimulant

NOBODY ever accused Canadians of lacking talent and self-confidence in research, business or politics. But we are said to be deficient in culture. Visitors pity our dull lives. J. B. Priestley notes that we are "struggling for self-expression" and the implication of such comment often seems to be that "the struggle naught availeth."

The cure for these doldrums is to go to Stratford — says J. B. McGeachy in The Financial Post. Here in three seasons a company of actors and actresses, substantially the same company from year to year, has created something that can be mentioned in the same breath as the festivals at Edinburgh, Salzburg and Stratford, England. This entertainment, moreover, is a Canadian job of work, though people not born in Canada have also had a hand in it.

The Perennial Toll

MEN, WOMEN and children lose their lives through drowning every year, to the overall total of more than a thousand in Canada. . . Many of these deaths could have been prevented through the proper knowledge and application of artificial respiration, in addition to observing the usual swimming safety rules.

Although a victim may have been under water for as long as half an hour, and show none of the usual signs of life — no heart beat, no breathing, no eye reflex — a chance still remains that life may be restored. A cardinal rule in applying artificial respiration is that these revival efforts should not be ceased for at least four hours — preferably until the victim breathes again, or rigor mortis sets in. Only too frequently artificial respiration is stopped after a short time, when a longer time may have meant another life saved.

Sometimes a victim may really die from suffocation, rather than by actual drowning. Research has revealed that a spasm of the larynx prevents either water or air from entering the lungs, and the result, although there is no water in the lungs, is death just the same. Be certain that air passages are clear, before applying artificial respiration; pulling the tongue out and keeping it out may help. A doctor can listen for the audible passage of air in and out of the lungs, with his stethescope.

In case of drowning, artificial respiration must be applied right away — don't wait for the doctor to come — send for him, but start revival attempts without a minute's delay, or precious time may be lost. There must not be any halt in applying artificial respiration; the rhythmic pressure and release must be carried on without interruption, even in an ambulance or conveyance on the way to hospital.

Assist Canadian Sport

A LONG-RANGE Olympic promotion and publicity campaign with a five-point objective, is getting under way.

Behind the program is a 15-man committee with members who serve voluntarily as citizens and do not represent any club, sport, or organization.

The campaign is primarily designed:

— To help raise the standard of amateur sports and coaching, with a view to providing better Olympic teams in the future;

— To provide funds for transportation and administration of each Olympic Games and the intervening years;

— To work on all activities and fund-raising schemes in conjunction with the Canadian Olympic Association, and refer all technicalities on sports to Sports College;

— To assist and promote all projects concerning Olympics and Canadian amateur sports development.

Opening gun is Olympic Week, September 8 to September 15. Toronto has declared it, and backed up the committee's plan with a sign in front of the City Hall.

Sports-minded Canadians have long deplored the predicament of athletes without backing to carry the challenge of their country to farther fields — of second-rate contenders sent to represent this Dominion, through lack of organization and finance to co-ordinate the best available. There is a ray of hope, therefore, in this serious effort to get behind amateur sport in a fitting way.

Nobody's Friend

THE CUTWORM probably ranks among this country's most hated insects.

The cutworm gets in everyone's hair — the commercial grower's as well as the home gardener's. And because he eats almost anything he can touch, he ranks among the most destructive of insects. He attacks almost every vegetable, flower, tobacco, cereal and fruit crop — doing the most damage to young, tender transplants or seedlings.

The cutworm does his dirty work in many ways: by cutting off the plants at the soil surface or just above or below it; by climbing the stems of herbaceous plants and eating buds, leaves and fruit; by feeding from the top of the plant and eating down; and by attacking the underground stem and roots.

Cutworms are usually spring or summer invaders. Most kinds are nocturnal feeders and will be found during the day curled up in the soil (typical position when disturbed) near their host, the plant. They are fleshy caterpillars, soft bodied, dull white, green, brown, black or grey, and from one to two inches long when mature.

The adults are the commonly-known moths or "millers" that fly around the lights at night on warm evenings in the spring and summer. They vary in color through many shades of brown, yellow and grey. The adults lay eggs in spring, summer or early fall. The eggs hatch in spring or summer and the larvae, or cutworms, start feeding. (Consequently cutworm damage can be expected throughout almost the entire growing season.) In late June or July, the larvae change to inactive pupae. About 2 to 4 weeks later the moths emerge and lay eggs. There is usually only one generation per year in Canada.

The control of cutworms is relatively simple, and since they are present every year in some numbers it is advisable to treat every year. There are two treatment methods: soil application of insecticides, and baiting or dusting.

On With The Dance

It was the middle of May when Gerry Beasley first made the suggestion.

"We must go to Digby one of these fine days," he declared, out of a clear blue sky.

"One of what fine days are you referring to?" I enquired, "I have yet to see one around this neck of the woods!"

"Oh, you know well enough what I mean," he barked. "As soon as the weather warms up and the exams are over and the pressure of the closing is off. We'll wait till The Pines opens up!"

"And what is or are, as the case may be, The Pines?"

"The Digby Pines? You mean to say that you've never heard of the Digby Pines? Why, I thought everyone knew that place. It's the big hotel over there. But it's only open in the summer."

While I pigeon-holed this information in my mind, for future reference, Gerry scanned the calendar and the duty roster.

"A day when we're both off duty," he mused, "now let's see! How about Wednesday, June 20th?"

"O.K. by me . . . if it's a fine day!"

"Naturally! Then it's a date? Good!"

Needless to say, the 20th dawned grey, cold and cheerless. Instead of venturing forth to Digby, we hugged the crackling fire in the living room fireplace.

"We're both off duty again on Saturday," Gerry stated. "Let's go then, providing it's a fine day."

"Agreed."

When Saturday rolled around, bright and cheery, we made our way to Saint John and got aboard the S.S. Princess Helene. The weather was ideal and the Bay like polished glass so that the journey across was delightful. We taxied to The Pines, had a wonderful lunch and put in a couple of hours lazing in the sun. Then we strolled back to the docks, taking time out to give Digby the once-over before boarding the ferry for the trip home.

"Now, wasn't that worth it?" Gerry asked, as we set foot in Saint John once more.

"Yes," I agreed, "it certainly was. Quite uneventful but highly delightful."

"Funny you should say that," Gerry said. "I mean about the trip being uneventful. You know, I've never yet made that trip when something didn't go wrong. But perhaps my luck is changing after all these years. I hope so anyway!"

"What's happened before?" I was more than curious.

"Oh, nothing very serious. Very rough crossings, breakdown of the boat somewhere along the line, cloudbursts and me with no raincoat, mix ups in timetables that left me stranded over there for a day. Just little things like that. But not today."

We changed the subject at that point and headed up the steep slope of King Street to the bus terminal. As we reached our bus, Gerry gave a cry and dashed off down the hill again.

"Now what?" I called after him.

"I forgot to do an errand for the nurse. You stay on the bus and don't worry if I'm not back before it leaves. I'll catch the next one out."

I was going to suggest I do the errand with him but he was gone before I could voice the idea.

He wasn't on board when the bus pulled out and I made the trip home by myself. On arrival, I changed into some old clothes and went over to O'Brien's to watch television. Following that, I went to bed.

Sunday morning, as I was en route to the dining hall, I spotted Gerry coming up the hill from the main road.

"Constitutional be hanged," he shouted back. "I'm just getting home!"

Apparently the luck of Gerry Beasley is not improving. After returning to the terminal with his errand completed, he flopped on the bus, sat down and, according to custom, dropped off to sleep.

"They didn't wake me till we got to the end of the line," he puffed.

"And where were you?"

"At the Kennebec Dance Hall, of all places. I got on a chartered bus for that destination, by mistake. Didn't get back to Saint John till four o'clock this morning. I'm just about dead."

To make matters worse, he left the nurse's parcel in the dance hall and she was incommunicado till she got it. T'was a very hush-hush mission Gerry undertook on her behalf. He was bringing her dentures back after a minor repair job.

Too bad, really, he was planning on sleeping most of Sunday. But, then, too, Mrs. Green was planning on eating!

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

We thought we had heard the last of "Canada Ernie" Schallenbaum, whose quaint proposal to annex Canada to the United States raised snickers from coast to coast in 1954.

But Ernie, who must be armor-plated against ridicule, is cavorting across the front pages once again, with a mesche for a 63-state "Union of North America" to include the U.S.A., Hawaii, Alaska and Canada.

He was pictured holding a "Union" flag. This consisted of the stars and stripes grafted with a strange vegetable which resembled a scrub oak leaf gnawed by tent caterpillars.

Ernie came all the way from San Francisco to urge that we pin Canada to the United States in the same way that his piece of deformed foliage (supposedly a maple leaf) is tacked on "Old Glory".

He arrived in Victoria recently to begin spreading his curious gospel across the nation.

If Ernie's campaign is merely a gimmick for drawing attention to himself, he has succeeded. But he might have achieved the same result with less ill will by leading a pet skunk from Victoria to St. John's, or crossing Bering Strait on a raft.

If on the other hand he is serious about it, he would be well advised to spend his effort to make Alaska and Hawaii members of the union before he plants his hybrid flag on Canadian soil.

The United States owns the two territories, but nasty log-rolling politics in Congress have barred them from statehood, and kept Alaskans and Hawaiians in the positions of second-class citizens.

Hawaiian statehood, which would add a large bloc of colored voters to the union, is a nightmare to some Americans. Partly because of this fact, proponents of Alaskan statehood won't help Hawaii get in; and partisans of Hawaiian statehood therefore won't support Alaska's claims.

American political parties are riddled with factions and pressure groups. They run their national conventions, and their affairs in general, with all the dignity of feeding-time at the zoo.

The executive and law-making branches of the United States government are forever at odds, and the left hand seldom knows what the right hand is doing.

Few Canadians want any share in these messy politics and inter-racial squabbles. We find it wearisome enough to watch Uncle Sam's circus across the border. Suggestions that we should actually join it are greeted here with pained amusement.

* * *

Canada is a free, strong and independent nation with a prospect of enormous wealth and growth, enjoying responsible government and partnership in the British Commonwealth.

Ernie invites us to sink our identity in the amorphous mass of the United States and become an outlying province.

He would have us trade our birthright for a small share in a country of waning resources and colossal debt, governed by an ancient and unwieldy system and subject to waves of hysteria.

* * *

The last time such an idea was advanced, some wise man put forward the counter-proposal that Canada might agree to admit the United States as a territory on the same basis as the Yukon, if the Americans would clean up their government first.

WOULD LOSE A LOT OF TALENT

The rumpus in Parliament over the propriety of a member taking sides in a matter in which he might be interested financially, reveals a situation that could lead to serious consequences, says The Financial Post.

In this modern age there are few mature citizens who do not have some financial interest in several enterprises, and if we want to split hairs and include insurance and bond holdings, they will have interests in a great many. Under the circumstances almost any vote in Parliament is likely to have some bearing on their private affairs.

If such people are not going to be allowed to vote in Parliament then there would be little use in electing them and the field would be left open to a sort of professional MP, a man or woman with absolutely no commercial tie with the everyday world. Is this the type we want to have exclusively in Parliament? Not likely.

The more MPs with good sound practical experience we have, the better. It is difficult enough to get suitable candidates now without warning those from the business world that they must cut their ties or stay strictly away.

A good idea doesn't care where it is born. It is just as happy and useful coming from under a worker's hat as from under a crown.

Control Through Sanitation

Hand-milk all infected or suspected cows! Hand-milking enables one to note quickly any changes that occur in the texture or structure of the udder. . . Always milk infected cows last. Milkers should wash their hands thoroughly in a Chlorena Solution (two measuring-spoons to two and a half gallons of water) before milking each cow. Milkers who have colds should gargle their throats with Chlorina Solution before milking, and should be careful to sneeze or cough into a clean handkerchief while in the stable.

Wash all udders in the herd with a Chlorena Solution just before milking and dry with a clean towel. An excellent practice with all cows, but certainly one to be rigidly followed in case of infected cows, is to fill a dipper with Chlorena Solution and hold the dipper under each teat for a moment after the cow has been milked. Do not wipe the solution off, but let it dry. This will kill off bacteria that still remain, and prevent their entering the udder. Clip flanks and tails and udder periodically, whenever needed.

SANITATION IN THE STABLE. — Remove all straw from stalls and disinfect entire milking stable at least once a week with a solution of Purina Disinfectant, 1 oz. to 1 gal. water, to keep down the spread of germs. Feed Purina Dairy Chows for bigger milk cheques and more profits!

OBITUARY

Local War Veteran Laid to Rest

The Late Norman Lavis

Death came peacefully on Sunday afternoon to Norman Lavis, after an illness of four years borne with patience and cheerfulness.

A son of Mr. A. J. Lavis and the late Mrs. Lavis, Norman was born in Port Talbot, South Wales, in 1915, coming to Canada with his parents at the age of 14.

During World War II Norman served with the Air Force, and in civilian life had been active in Scouting and in Legion work. He was a member of St. Simeon's Anglican Church, Lachute.

Mr. Lavis was employed as an accountant by C-I-L at Brownsburg for 19 years, and by Pollock & Graves Motors, Lachute, for a period of four years.

He was married in 1938 to Miss Margaret Hume, of Hill Head, who has devotedly cared for him during his long illness. With her to mourn a loving husband and father are Teresa, Jack, Jimmy and Janet, together with numerous relatives and friends.

Service was held Tuesday afternoon in the Anglican Church, conducted by the Rev. C. R. Lang, rector. There was a profusion of beautiful flowers in sympathy and esteem.

Pall-bearers were Legion Comrades H. Ward, L. Kerr, B. Jenkins, R. MacLean, J. Pillage and R. A. Giles, with a large attendance of veterans who at the grave each deposited their poppy "in remembrance."

Late George W. Peet Was Secretary Almost 30 Years Lakef'd School and Council

Although he had been in failing health for the past four years, the passing of the late George Wilbert Peet, which took place at his home in Lakefield on June 29, came as a shock to the whole community, where he was known and loved by young and old.

Born at Lakefield on February 2, 1887, a son of the late John Peet and his wife Elizabeth Evans, he was one of a family of seven, four of whom died in childhood. Mrs. Syd Swails (Ena), sister, predeceased him two years ago, and Mrs. Claude Richards (Muriel), of Montreal, is the only surviving member of the family.

He is survived by his loving wife, Susan Arnold, to whom he was married on June 11, 1919, and also by one nephew, Kenwyn Richards, and two nieces, Mrs. Charlie Tomalty, of Brownsburg and Mrs. Louis Canton, of Montreal.

He was a faithful attender of the Anglican Church for many years, and for almost 30 years held the office of secretary-treasurer of the schools and council of the Municipality of Gore. He was a member of Argenteuil Masonic Lodge, No. 67.

A Masonic service was held at his late residence on Saturday evening, June 30, and funeral service was held on Sunday afternoon at Holy Trinity Church, Lakefield, conducted by the Rev. Canon C. W. P. Baugh. The large attendance and many floral tributes paid silent testimony to the great regard in which the deceased was held.

Honorary pall-bearers were the mayor, Mr. Herbert MacDonald, and Councillors Wilbert Sherritt, Herbert Kyle, Leonard Gain, Hadden McDonald and Lloyd Kerr. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Russell, and Lloyd Thompson, Ronald Dawson, Bill Fairley, Percy Rogers and Charlie Andrews.

Interment was in the cemetery adjoining the church.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Recital Presented By Local Organist

There was a good attendance at the organ recital in Lachute United Church last Wednesday, presented by Mr. Wayne K. Riddell, organist of that church and student at McGill Conservatory of Music. The minister of the church, the Rev. Wilson Bridge, extended a welcome to the audience, and expressed appreciation to Mr. Riddell for his fine work at the console of the Casavant organ.

The program was interesting and varied, with many familiar themes running through the repertoire of old masters and moderns.

THE QUIET HOUR

To live our best, we must daily shut out the world and tarry alone with God. His presence will transform the commonest life — beautify, enrich, exalt, empower it; qualify it for usefulness in this world of need. Bible study, reading good literature, silent meditations, personal devotions — oh, how every Christian needs to pause in this age of rush, confusion, and change, pause to walk and talk with God — alone!

Bible Briefs

Who Was This?

By A.A.M.

The Bible is rich in stories, and the purpose of this series is to encourage readers to look up for themselves the Bible versions of these incidents. If there are children in the family it is suggested that the story, and the Bible verses on which it is based, be read aloud.

What was the name of the prophet of Israel who foretold the complete destruction of Babylon and the deliverance of his own people? He predicted that a nation would rise up in the North and lay desolate the land. Then would the children of Israel and of Judah come together, and seek Jehovah, their God. They would turn their faces towards Zion saying, "Come, let us join in an everlasting covenant with Jehovah which shall not be forgotten."

A sword would come upon their oppressors who had kept them in captivity, and refused to let them go. But Jehovah would plead their cause and disquiet the inhabitants of Babylon and give rest to the earth. The Redeemer of Israel was strong. The warriors of Babylon would be dismayed. They and their horses would be killed and their treasure robbed. A drought would fall on the land because the people worshipped idols. Wild beasts and wolves would dwell in the ruins of the city which had been destroyed by fire. Even the ostriches would settle in Babylon, and no man would dwell there.

Find this prophet's name and read his words in Jeremiah, Chapter 51, Verses 1 to 5; 32 to 40.

JUVENILES COVER DISTRICT DOINGS IN OWN NEWSPAPER

Montreal (CP) — Editor of Montreal's smallest weekly newspaper, the Clark Street Sun, is Sydney Stavitskey, 15, who for two years has been turning out a regular Saturday edition of neighborhood news.

Sydney wants to be a reporter. Getting out the Sun each week, he says, is giving him experience in every department, because he is also publisher, printer, reporter, advertising manager and paper boy.

Although circulation only reaches five copies — an original and four carbons — readership is a high as 40.

The paper is given away but advertisements are charged at five cents each and two cents for announcements.

Sydney got the idea of starting a paper when there was a fire in the district.

"I bought a five-cent pad and wrote it up. Some friends copied it and we put out 12 sheets that day. We made 38 cents with that first edition," says Sydney proudly.

From its one-page beginning the paper has grown to 10 pages, with up to 20 pages before holidays. It is not published during school examinations or holidays.

Assistant editors are Edward Greenberg and Harvey Steinberg, both aged 13. Sydney's 10-year-old brother, Teddy, draws the original comic section.

Brownsburg Wins 6-3 Against Thurso

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg Tigers spotted Thurso three runs in the first inning, and took eight innings to catch up, before winning 6-3. It was the sixth straight win for Ronald Cousineau, who came on in relief of Karl Gagné with two out and one on in the first inning. The score was 3-0 then, and "Zag" shut out the opposition the rest of the way on six hits.

Boucher, the Thurso pitcher, turned in a fine job, giving up one single to Buddy Racine in the second inning, which resulted in a run, then two singles in the fifth for a second run. He was extremely unlucky in the eighth, when with a 3-2 lead he allowed two hits, and on three routine outs the fielders unsuccessfully tried for the force plays. Brownsburg picked up four runs in this inning, to settle the issue. Doubles by Billy Cribb and Gilles Diotte were the only extra base for Brownsburg. Jimmy Murdoch, Jacques Racine and Mike Gratton all singled once, and Ronald Cousineau singled twice, to drive in a run each time.

Ronald must get the nod as our best clutch hitter, for with only six hits he has batted in nine runs — high for the club. Few pitchers help their own cause to the extent of more than one run per game.

Mike Gratton played a fine game at second base, capped by a nice double play; but Jacques Racine, who was poor in the early stages, must get the laurels for a soccer-style save on the last out.

Brownsburg still leads the league, but with the home schedule complete and just two away games left, it's going to be tough going to stave off the challenges of Buckingham and Montebello. The Brownsburg club have the league authority to institute a pennant for winning the league. They are purchasing a pennant marked "Dollard League Champions 1956" and this is the trophy we hope to fly atop our new scoreboard by play-off time.

By Milt MacPhail,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The bout in Toronto July 25 between world light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore and James J. Parker, of Barrie, Ont., is being billed as for the world heavyweight title vacated by Rocky Marciano.

This probably is causing a lot of eyebrow-raising in world boxing centres, notably the United States.

In order to have the fight certified for the heavyweight title, it would be necessary to get the approval of the National Boxing Association in the United States, the New York State commission, the European groups and various other ruling bodies in the world. This isn't likely to occur.

Top Contender

It's true that Moore is the number one contender for the heavyweight crown. Parker's case is different. The Barrie belter is the leading contender for the vacant Canadian heavyweight title and he also claims the British Empire heavy crown. But Parker is not listed among the world's top 10 heavyweights by either Ring Magazine or the NBA.

Some boxing observers believe the bout will serve as just a workout for Moore for his scheduled title match with Floyd Patterson, the number two contender, in New York this September.

At any rate, Archie has been guaranteed $40,000 and he will be a heavy favorite. If Parker should win, it would bring more confusion to the confused heavyweight division.

NEW HOCKEY PROSPECT

Frank Dalton, 14-year-old Ontario youngster, is called "the hottest hockey prospect in years" by Bob Davidson, chief scout of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the NHL. The boy lives at Grand Bend, Ont., a small Lake Huron community 40 miles northeast of Sarnia.

Two years ago, playing in the national peewee tournament at Goderich, Ont., he scored 17 goals in one game. "That takes talent in any league," says Davidson. Last year, Dalton paced the Grand Bend Bantam Association and scored 250 goals in the process.

Maple Leafs would be happy to see young Mr. Dalton score 50 goals a season for them in five or six years time.

12 Lachute Wolf Cubs At Camp Macaulay

Although it was a dull, rainy day, the lads arrived at camp last Saturday in high spirits and were soon given beds, blankets and instructions on camp routine.

The camp consists of wooden huts with double and single beds, a large recreation hall and mess hall, with a smaller hall which is used to take the surplus from the recreation hall when it rains heavily.

The grounds at this camp are very pretty, and along the river front is a very good place for swimming. As this observer was leaving the Cub Pack, they were lining up for supper and it was good to see the excitement on most faces as they approached the mess hall — this year being the first experience of camp life for most of the local Cubs.

Everything was well organized and a few enquiries brought forth the following facts. . . The leaders rise at 7 a.m. and the Cubs a half-hour later. A special routine is planned for each day, ending at nine p.m. Among the chores required of the Cubs is making beds, hanging their clothes and personal maintenance. There will be swimming every day, hiking, games and regular Cub sport. A maximum of ten cents a day is allowed to each Cub for the tuck-shop, which is opened at a specified time each day. There are two leaders for each hut, and a regular full-time cook in charge of the mess hall.

Cubmaster Bill Brown reported that he was well pleased with the boys at camp, and that he had been complimented on their good deportment.

The boys were transported from Lachute by Kenneth Fraser, James Menzie, James Pillage and the Rev. Cyrus Lang.

Too Many Deer In Ontario?

There is a strong hint that public parks will be opened to deer hunters in the current bulletin of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, reports The Financial Post. It points out that in Algonquin Park the deer are threatening the supply of birch trees for lumbering.

Deer are not grass eaters, like ordinary cattle. They love to brownse on trees and especially on the yellow birch, which is the main supply of a fairly substantial lumber industry in and around the big provincial park in central Ontario.

Tree planters and farmers in Ontario and elsewhere will agree with the provincial authorities about the destructiveness of deer, especially where the latter have sharply increased in numbers in recent years. They may also agree with the arguments that in some areas deer have multiplied faster than their natural food supply.

It is extremely doubtful however (declares The Post) whether the Canadian public would stand for such a drastic solution of hunting without very considerable and careful preparation. By most visitors to Algonquin and other parks the deer are regarded with very special affection. It will take a lot of argument to convince them, just as it does to convince the soft-hearted gardener, that a little thinning out may be in order.

HOUSES ON THE MOVE

By Ethel Kettyle

PART II

As well as the moving of houses, Iroquois has also approved a new CNR station, with the site 750 feet east of Carman Road. It will be in sharp contrast to the architectural style of building in use along this main line in 1868.

Like other stations to be built at Long Sault, Wales, Morrisburg and Cornwall, it is a low, spreading structure, carried out in decorative brick with stone trim, and modern in every respect.

Along the Seaway there is much building of dams, etc. One of the structures is a "control dam", 2,540 feet long and 67 feet high, which will be built 25 miles upstream from the Long Sault Dam, in the vicinity of Iroquois Point on the Canadian side, and to Rockway Point on the United States side. Its main function will be to permit regulation of outflow of water from Lake Ontario.

About 3¼ miles of dikes will also be built on the Canadian shore, in the area extending north and west of the power houses. We are told that the dikes will be flat on top, with sloping sides; and they will require as much as 4,900,000 cubic yards of stone.

Back in the village of Iroquois, many trailers of various colors may be seen, parked alongside each other. These, for the time being, are the homes of those working on the moving project. Verily, the place is a hive of activity; and in years to come, many may be the tales told to the future generations, of how a whole town was moved.

The "mover" anticipates going next to Williamsburg, to uproot at least a part of the town there.

After visiting this busy place, it was relaxing to call at the home and studio of an artist and his wife, who formerly had lived in U.S.A.

It was an ideal place in which to portray the beauties of nature on canvas.

Situated in rather an isolated spot at the summit of a small hill, and partially hedged-in by cedar trees, the old stone building, with clambering vines, seemed to stand the "king of all it surveyed." Colorful flowers grew nearby, and close to the house was a more modern swimming pool. Inside was the huge studio, with an open fireplace and a large bookcase reaching almost to the high ceiling — filled with books and more books. On the walls, and around the floor, were pictures of every color, size and technique.

The artist told us that he did much driving, for he had "art classes" in various places, which kept him busy the greater part of the time. The fact makes one realize that, here in Canada, the wonder of "art" is appealing to more and more people as time goes on. Color is now playing a more important role. Our clothing, our homes, and even our motor cars, are more colorful than ever before... And we can well imagine that many of the old houses which have been moved will soon bear a brighter coat of paint — and why not? For scientists, and psychologists, now tell us that color is a tonic, and for that reason, it is very important to our well-being.

But — to moralize on all these observations — how can one feel bored, with the modern concepts and developments in this busy world of ours?

Parliament Library Reopens for Business

It was re-opened by Governor-General Massey following a $2,400,000 renovation job to eliminate the scars left on its 80-year-old gothic frame in 1952 by a fire that damaged thousands of the 500,000 volumes.

The library, one of the original parliament buildings to survive the great fire of 1916 that destroyed the centre block, now has fluorescent lighting, air conditioning and an automatic fire alarm.

The inlaid floor of oak, cheery and walnut is brighter from refurbishing and doesn't creak anymore. The Ontario pine panelling around the circular walls remains unchanged.

Mr. Massey, in a brief ceremony leading up to the opening, said the library is not what modern architects would build. It was not streamlined or functional and had no new look, but it did have a "very good old look."

Aluminum helped today's high-speed, high-compression car engine get that way. Aluminum pistons brought not only toughness but lightness to this up-and-down job. Less weight meant less inertia and so made possible higher engine revolutions. It brought heat conductivity, too —so your engine doesn't overheat when you drive fast and far.

It started in the twenties—and today every car produced in North America is equipped with aluminum pistons. And much of the aluminum comes from Canadian smelters. To match the needs of the automotive, aircraft, construction and many other industries for large quantities of aluminum, Alcan is again stepping up its already enormous smelting capacity.

Reminiscences on Trans-Canada Matinee

The leading Canadian editor and writer Mary-Etta Macpherson steps into the past next week to take "Trans-Canada Matinee" listeners back to the early days of the century when "best" clothes were for Sundays and baking a cake meant more than opening a paper box. "Woman of the Century" is the title of this series in which Miss Macpherson will recall chronologically the different phases through which women's customs have passed in the last 50 years. The title of her first talk, on Friday, July 13, is "A Family Transplanted to the City."

Another "Matinee" highlight next week will be recorded conversation between Percy Tallman, who recently toured the arctic, and Mrs. Douglas Wilkinson whose husband is a Government official at Frobisher Bay in the far north. Housekeeping in the arctic and homemaking as the Eskimo sees it will be discussed. In "Houses with Voices" on Thursday, Shirley Brett will visit the house where Sir Wilfrid Laurier was born.

Teatime Topics

Written Specially for The Lachute Watchman

By Oli Daum, Canadian Press Staff Writer

It makes no difference how adored a week-end guest may be. If she arrives with a stack of luggage she becomes a problem in any but the most lavish household set-up.

The same goes for travelling. An infinite number of bags means many headaches. Learn to streamline your wardrobe from clothes to cosmetics.

Beauty experts say there's no need to tote along jars and jars of beauty preparations. Some can be used effectively for two or three purposes.

A light but rich and extra penetrating cream, for instance, has its primary function as a night softener. But it can be used also on eyelids and around the eyes for day-long protection against hot sun and give you a dewy-fresh look to match your pretty cottons.

Instead of an ordinary hand lotion get one that has healing properties as well, for sunburned or wind-chapped skin. Along with your lipstick, tuck in a bottle of foundation lotion. From the time you get up until you go to bed lotion is necessary protection for your skin.

It serves as a base and can be used alone as a mat finish for your skin. Use it as a sun-screen lotion before exposure or as a soothing lubricating sunburn relief.

If you let your beauty preparations double their usefulness you'll travel light, light-hearted and lovely.

Turn Table

This whole fight for equal rights may backfire yet.

Jacob Solinger, a New York fashion expert, told a Montreal group that men would live longer if they changed their clothes as often as women do.

He said men die younger than women because they let modern-day tensions get the best of them. Women got rid of tensions by changing clothes several times a day or by buying a crazy new hat.

He suggested men do the same.

If men started buying suits and hats they may discover what it is that really gives the women their pick-me-up. It isn't the new hat or dress alone, but also the thought that someone else is going to pick up the tab for it.

Well, after a few expensive suits and hats, men may see the light. They might just dump the bill in your lap and before you can muster up a protest they may remind you of "equal rights!"

BATHING SUIT TIME MEANS FUN FOR ALL (and calorie counting for some)

— By Anne Marshall —

With soup as the crux of the meal, there's no problem. A typical menu may include vegetable beef soup and a cottage cheese salad (adding pineapple and mayonnaise to Junior's).

To go with the soup and salad have peanut butter and bacon sandwiches for the athlete . . . saltines for the "slimmer". For dessert, serve diet-pack apricots to the calorie-counters, and chocolate cake to the others.

MENUS

| LOW CALORIE FOR MOM (approximately 650 calories) | HIGH CALORIE FOR JUNIOR (approximately 1300 calories) |
|---|---|
| Vegetable Beef Soup | Vegetable Beef Soup |
| Saltines (3 to 5) | Peanut Butter and Bacon Sandwich |
| Diet-pack Apricots | Chocolate Cake |
| Skim Milk | Whole Milk |

Today with the many kinds of condensed soups available, and numerous sandwiches and salads to choose from, the job of fitting menus to family needs is an easier one . . . tastewise, weightwise, and nutritionwise.

What Is A Sardine?

It may surprise you to know that a sardine is not the name of a species of fish, but can be any tiny fish with rich flesh and weak bones suitable for canning. In all probability, tiny fish of this type were first caught off the Mediterranean Island of Sardinia, hence the name. In this country young herring are canned as sardines. In California, France and Portgual young pilchards are used in the pack. Norwegian sardines may be small herring called "sild" or they may be bristling, a similar but distinct variety of fish.

Most of our Canadian sardines come from the province of New Brunswick. You will see them in the stores chiefly in flat 3¼-ounce cans. If you stop to examine the labels you will see that sardines are available in both the natural and smoked states. Also you will notice that they come packed in piquant sauces as well as several different vegetable oils.

Sardines make delicious appetizers, hot snacks and main dishes. This time of year they are especially nice in a lush green salad such as the following which originated in the test kitchen of Canada's Department of Fisheries.

Surprise Salad Bowl

2 Cups torn lettuce (about ½ small head of lettuce), 2 cups torn spinach, 1 (3¼ oz.) can Canadian sardines, ½ cup diced Cheddar cheese, 1 hard cooked egg, 2 tablespoons French dressing.

Select fresh, tender young greens. Wash and pat dry. Tear into good-sized pieces and measure in a wide-mouthed measuring cup of 2 or 4 cup capacity. Drain the sardines and break or cut into thirds. Chop the hard cooked egg into wedge-shaped pieces. Have all the salad ingredients well chilled. Just before serving time, combine them in a salad bowl, moisten with French dressing and toss lightly. Makes 4 servings.

Canadian Eskimos, who numbered less than 10,000 at the time of the 1951 census, live in small groups and have no chiefs, soldiers, police or servants.

Canned Apple Products

by the Consumer Section, Canada Dept. of Agriculture Marketing Service

1. For apples deluxe serve canned apple slices or applesauce with spiced and sweetened whipped cream. For nutty apples, heat canned apple slices, sprinkle with salted peanuts and serve hot, with cream.

2. To make apple crisp with a different flavor, mix up a batch of graham wafer pie crust, sprinkle it over canned apple slices or apple sauce in a baking dish, and bake like ordinary apple crisp.

3. On a cool evening serve cheese and crackers accompanied by hot apple juice with a cinnamon stick stirrer in each mug.

4. Canned apple sauce, juice and other apple products are handy to have on hand when you need a quick dessert, a cool, refreshing beverage, an on-the-moment's-notice snack, or a fill-in for a busy day meal. Serve them cold or hot, plain or dressed-up, in any course, at any meal — they're delicious, nutritious and easy on the budget.

5. For a refreshing summer punch for the whole family, chill, then mix together one 20-ounce can of apple juice, one 32-ounce bottle grape juice and a small bottle of gingerale. Serve with ice if desired.

6. Canned apple sauce, with milk or cream is a popular flavor combination. For a change add nuts, spices, raisins or other fruits.

Let's Eat

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"Is penny-pinching really a lost art, Madame?" inquired the Chef. "Does the public still watch pennies?"

"Many people do," I answered. "They are the ones who have learned that it literally is smart to be thrifty; that when the unnecessary expenditure of pennies is watched, dollars are saved. This in turn makes other expenditures possible, such as purchasing household equipment, better clothing, even vacations.

Amusing Experience

"I recently had an amusing experience because of a penny.

"One evening I went for a long walk. On the way back, I stopped for dinner at a smart, new cafeteria. My check came to $1.49. But, to my embarrassment, I had just $1.48 in my pocketbook!

"Don't worry," said the smiling waitress, diving into her apron pocket and bringing up a handful of change. "Here's the penny you need and do take your bus fare home if you need it."

I did need the penny—but not bus fare, as I was out for a walk. But I certainly benefitted from this good lesson in human kindness, as well as in the worth of a penny—especially when you're a penny short.

Tomorrow's Dinner

Chilled Vegetable Juice
Macaroni with Cheese
Pan-Fried Sausage Cakes
Carrots with Green Onions
Spanish Apricot Cream
Hot or Iced Coffee or Tea or Milk
All Measurements Are level
Recipes Proportioned to Serve 4 to 6

Pan-Fried Sausage Cakes: Shape 1½ lbs. pork sausage meat into patties about 1" thick. Dust with a mixture of ½ c. fine-minced parsley, 1 tsp. powdered marjoram, ⅛ tsp. nutmeg and 1 tbsp. cornmeal or flour. Pan-fry slowly about 15 min. Turn once.

To serve, arrange around the macaroni and cheese.

If the macaroni is baked in a go-to-table casserole, set it on a platter or small tray and surround it with the sausage cakes, tomato wedges and sprigs of cress or fresh parsley.

Spanish Apricot Cream: In a double-boiler top, combine the contents 1 (12 oz.) can apricot nectar, 2 tbsp. lemon juice and ½ c. water. Add 1 envelope unflavored gelatin, ½ c. sugar and ⅛ tsp. salt. Heat and stir until the gelatin melts.

Next, separate 2 eggs. Beat the yolks until creamy. Slowly stir in ½ c. of the hot mixture. Return to the double boiler. Cook-stir until the mixture coats the spoon.

Then beat the egg whites stiff, fold in the apricot mixture.

Rinse 6 good-sized individual moulds with cold water and dust with granulated sugar.

Spoon in the gelatin. Chill 4 hrs., or until firm. Unmould and serve with whipped cream or any whipped topping. Or garnish with halved, sugared, fresh apricots and commercial sour cream.

Suggestion of the Chef

Scallions give a lift to many food. Try them with 3 c. carrot rounds boiled 10 min. in 1" of salted water. Add ¼ the quantity of scallion bulbs with 1" of the green tops. Boil 5 min. longer. Add 1 tsp. butter.

Barbequed Chicken For Picnic Eating

Here is a tip for campfire enthusiasts. Frozen broiler chicken halves pack and carry well in a picnic hamper. Well wrapped in waxed paper and then in newspaper it will take probably three to four hours for the chicken to thaw. If not completely thawed when it is time to start cooking them they may be wiped with a clean paper towel or napkin and barbecued over the hot embers of the campfire just the same. A little extra time, however, will have to be allowed for cooking. The chicken may be dipped in spicy barbecue sauce before cooking and basted with the sauce during cooking if desired. Chicken is done when the leg twists out of its thigh joint easily. Halves weighing about 1½ lbs. each take from 1 to 1½ hours to cook.

Oriental Touch to Traditional Chicken

Even the traditional sometimes benefits from a new touch. Using cinnamon flavored rice stuffing with roast chicken could go in this category. The cinnamon flavoring is faint but adds a subtle taste which complements that of the poultry.

Allow approximately ¾ of a cup of stuffing per pound of eviscerated (drawn) poultry. Be sure the rice is fluffy and not over-cooked. It may be cooked the day before it is to be used.

Cinnamon Rice Stuffing

6 Cups cooked rice, ½ to ¾ cup melted butter, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, salt and pepper to taste.

Combine cooled rice, butter and seasonings. Mix well to distribute cinnamon. Stuff body and neck cavity, having bird well filled without packing to allow room for expansion. Yields 6 cups stuffing, enough for 4½ to 5 pound bird. Place stuffed bird on rack or crossed skewers in shallow baking pan. Brush with melted fat, cover with fat moistened cheesecloth. Roast at 325°F. until leg muscle is soft when pressed between the fingers or thigh joint separates easily. Add ½ teaspoon of cinnamon to pan at the end of first hour of cooking, mix with dripping and baste chicken occasionally.

Wife Preservers

When you go to buy a kitchen range, washing machine or other important household article, ask the price. When told inquire if that is the cash price or the term price. Also ask what the down payments will be, and what terms or cash discount the article allows.

Wanting To Work

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Wanting to work is so rare a merit that it should be encouraged," Abraham Lincoln once remarked. A modern father, annoyed at his son's unwillingness to labor along with his eagerness to give his opinion on every subject that came up, asked the boy: "What have you done on this subject to entitle you to an opinion? How much experience have you had in this affair, so that you can have a reliable opinion about it?"

Perhaps this very father discouraged his son when he was a little fellow and he wanted to help his Dad with some small carpentry job around the house. Most small children are eager to help grown-ups with work which fascinates them. "Can I help?" is a request often on their lips. If his offer of assistance is refused or postponed, he is not apt to repeat it. Children don't like being rebuffed any more than adults appreciate a "brush-off!"

It does take time and patience to direct a little boy or girl to carry out some job. Dad can bring in the wood and light the stove faster, all by himself, than if he waits for Junior to collect his pile of sticks. Mother can mix muffins much more quickly if she does not stop to delegate the beating of the egg or the greasing of the tins to Mary — but how much Junior and Mary will miss, not only in training to be contributing members of a home, but in the sense of companionship and in the pride of achievement which a father-and-son or a mother-and-daughter completed job brings with it!

When a child wants to help if at all possible put the youngster to work then and there. See that daughter is properly clothed for the job. Have her don an apron for baking. Make sure that your child has the right work tools, such as a mixing bowl and beater to beat an egg. Then work alongside the child at your part of the job.

If you must give more instructions or criticize the way the child is working, do it in a kindly way. A task may be a little too difficult for a child. If he is taking too long to do it, help him finish it. Don't take over the job and do it yourself!

The next time your child is helping, delegate more responsibility and cut down on directions. If your child is old enough and keen about that particular task, work toward the time when your son or daughter can complete the task all by himself or herself. Show how to avoid making the same mistake twice. Be generous in your praise of a job well done.

Sometimes in a home where there are older boys and girls at school, they have become more and more pre-occupied with their school work, their friends and their own interests and activities. They rarely ask "Can I help?"

Frequently, mother in a mistaken idea that she is being "good to the children," asks little or nothing from them in assistance in the work of the home. She may not realize it, but a house where mother does the children's beds, tidies up and picks up after them, is an excellent training ground for a selfish husband or a helpless wife in a few years time.

In the fair division of the work of the home, father, because he is away so much and can look on things with a more impartial view, should give some direction. Everyone, even a small child, should have some work to do. A Family Council when father reviews all the work mother does each week is a good idea. In some homes each child is allowed to choose at the end of the week some job he likes to do which he will carry out the next week. The tasks that no one is likely to pick, such as washing the dishes, are written out on slips and rotated so that each one has a turn. Contributing to a home as well as receiving from it, is all part of belonging to a worthwhile family!

Quebec Women's Institutes 42nd Annual Convention

and the helpful services which members of our organizations are always so ready to give. "It is important to have this mutual understanding," Mrs. Berry went on to say, "we must grow in it if we are to help others in the world."

Mr. Nik Cavell, Administrator for the Colombo Plan in Canada, who was the other speaker, reflected the same thought. For us, where the problem is to maintain a free world, it is obvious that we dare not let these peoples down who want to be a part of our world and who want to raise their standards of living by working with us in a free democratic world. Mr. Cavell pointed out that it is what we do today about this problem which will determine the future of our own world, and went on to show what we are trying to do to bring into being a new world which would be strong enough to resist the totalitarian doctrine. The work of the specialized agencies of the United Nations was touched upon briefly and his own work in connection with the Colombo Plan. In conclusion Mr. Cavell said, "What is needed today is a better intellectual grasp of the problems confronting our work, the courage to find solutions, and then to carry them out. Only in that way can we hope to establish a free and happier world."

Resolutions were brought in on the last day of the convention. One asks that a stamp bearing the picture of Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless be issued next year in recognition of the 60th anniversary of the founding of the W.I. All provinces are taking this concerted action, to go through the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada.

Another resolution asked the Information and Tourist Bureau to erect suitable markers at all historic beauty spots, names of lakes, mountains, etc. Institutes in the respective communities would give assistance with such a project. Help for Retarded Children and Pasteurization Legislation continue to be major undertakings.

The report of the Nominating Committee was also brought in on the last day. The results of the election are as follows: President, Mrs. G. D. Harvey, Stanbridge East; 1st vice-president, Mrs. H. Ellard, Ottawa; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. J. Ossington, Granby; treasurer, Mrs. Gordon E. Cooke, Arundel; recording secretary, Mrs. A. E. Abercrombie, Lennoxville. Conveners of standing committees: Agriculture, Mrs. Gordon Brown, Cowansville; Education, Miss C. I. Mackenzie, Stanstead; Home Economics, Mrs. George Parsons, Bury; Citizenship, Mrs. E. B. Watson, Breckenridge; Welfare & Health, Mrs. Wm. Coupland, Sherbrooke; Publicity, Mrs. H. F. Taylor, Beebe.

This 42nd convention was one of the largest ever recorded. Around 150 delegates registered for the opening day. This number was swelled to 250 on Thursday by car and bus loads of members coming in from such distant points as Valcartier and Richmond, as well as those nearer the College.

Transportation for Morin Heights and the surrounding district has now been satisfactorily arranged, so that announcement can be given of services to be rendered to the public. Ever since the Provincial Transport have been granted the franchise to operate here in Morin Heights, they have made arrangements with the Black and White Taxi of Morin Heights to operate an auxiliary bus service for outlying districts, connecting with their own service either at Morin Heights or St. Jerome. The services to be given are as follows: From Morin Heights through 16 Island Lake to Laurel. From Laurel through Montfort back to Morin. From Morin through Mille Isles and Rivière Gagnon to St. Jerome and back. Time-tables are now being prepared and will shortly be distributed. On Sunday last the service of Morin Heights United Church was conducted by Mr. K. G. Blatherwick, layman of Montreal, in the absence of the minister, the Rev. Mr. Blair. The visiting preacher took for his topic "Important Decisions", and the choir rendered the anthem "Land of Our Birth". Next Sunday, July 8, the service will be conducted by Mr. Robert Spiers, of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Cowan and children, of Montreal, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Fayet.

(C-I-L Release)

Barnyard manure liquified can make a farm almost self-sufficient. It can help grow crops, heat the farm buildings and provide fuel for the tractor.

This is the claim of Fritz Allmen who is probably one of Canada's foremost farmer authorities on manure. In a recent demonstration attended by leading Canadian agricultural scientists, he showed what has already been done to his own 480-acre farm near the Quebec village of Carillon (Des Ormeaux Farm), and revealed his future plans for the barnyard by-product.

Mr. Allmen, who emigrated from Switzerland many years ago, has 80 head of Holsteins. His manure liquifying equipment consists of a 3,000-gallon concrete tank beneath the barn floor, two upright concrete 35,000-gallon storage tanks, which he calls "silos", behind the barn, and a 30-horsepower gasoline motor which operates a speed pump.

Liquid and solid manure mixed up with cut straw bedding is shoveled daily into the receiving tank through manholes located in the middle of each concrete gutter. Gutters are sprinkled with superphosphate at the rate of one and a half pounds of superphosphate per cow per day. This absorbs ammonia, hastens the bacterial action during the decomposition process, increases the nutritive value of the manure and helps reduce manure odor.

Through rapid circulation in the first tank, the manure is liquified through bacterial action then pumped into the silos, where is it allowed to "cure" for several days. When the curing process is complete, the liquid manure is pumped into the 1,000-gallon tank of a tractor-drawn sprayer. It requires only a minute and a half to fill the tank. The manure is sprayed on the fields in an even swath 12 feet wide on one side of the tractor. It takes only 10 minutes to apply 1,000 gallons. Application rate is about five tons per acre.

During winter, Mr. Allmen sprays the manure right on the snow, his tractor being equipped with special caterpillar treads.

"This operation really reduces labor costs," Mr. Allmen said. "Where once it required 30 hours of manure handling per cow per year, it now takes me only five to six hours to handle the same amount."

But the greatest dividend in using liquified manure, Mr. Allmen found, was the saving of the large amounts of plant nutrients which are lost through regular handling methods: up to 50 per cent in his estimate, the total value of which, he says is $170,000,000 a year in all of Canada. His method has resulted in a 25 per cent yield increase in forage and other crops.

Very soon this enterprising Quebec farmer proposes to collect the methane gas which is given off during decomposition of the organic matter in manure. He claims this will cook his meals, heat his home all year round, and provide fuel for his tractor. For the latter, the methane gas is compressed to six atmosphere in propane gas-type cylinders and fed into the carburetor through a special attachment. Manure from his 80 head of cattle can generate more methane gas that he would normally need. The extra profits from increased yields and the saving in labor, heating and tractor fuel costs, will pay back the investment on his installation in five years, he claims.

Shredder-Type Forage Harvesters

Shredder harvesters were developed from corn stalk pulverizers by incorporating a blower to deliver the chopped material directly into a wagon. According to A. L. Magee of the Field Husbandry Division at Ottawa, these machines are simple in design, they are relatively inexpensive and provide an economical method of harvesting grass and other field crops.

Conventional forage harvesters cut the crop with a sickle-bar, elevate it into a chopper and then blow it into a wagon. In contrast to this, most of the shredder harvesters use rather a blunt cutting member instead of sharp knives. When these cutters are rotated in the crop at high speed the material is either cut or torn away and most of the shredding occurs at this time. However, baffles or other devices may be used to cause further shredding before the crop is delivered to the wagon.

Stones and rocks are a greater hazard to shredder harvesters than to conventional machines because the shredding mechanism is operating close to the ground and may hit the stone or rock at high speed. Shredding knives may be seriously damaged in this way which other cutting devices may show only slight damage. Of course, stones will damage most conventional harvesters if they reach the cutting wheel.

When stones are present, a relatively high cut should be used with shredder harvesters and this may result in a rough looking field when compared with a mowed field. But is is not objectionable, particularly if the field is to be pastured. If a shredder harvester is adjusted to cut close to the ground it may strike the surface and pick up trash or dirt. At present a few shredder units on the market do not have sufficient adjustment in the delivery spout to conveniently build a uniform load on a wagon. This can be easily noted when examining the machine.

Shredded material is usually two to six inches long and a forage blower can be more easily plugged with this material. However, most blowers will handle crops with careful operation.

Shredder harvesters are practical for harvesting grass for silage to be stored in a horizontal silo and for daily mechanical grazing for cattle. This is especially true when fields are relatively flat and free of stones.

EFFICIENT FARMING

The prosperous farmers today, and there are still many of them, are the ones who have diversified their cash crops or raised a superior product which would command a premium price.

Garden-Graph

Mulching helps to conserve the moisture in the soil by retarding evaporation. Mulches also help to keep the soil in a cool, loose and friable condition.

A dry earth or dust mulch can be used to prevent the escape of moisture, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Such a dust mulch is one of the objectives of cultivating the soil, in addition to keeping down weeds.

A dust mulch can be created by loosening a thin layer of soil, only an inch or so deep. Loosening the surface of the soil also allows the air to penetrate it more easily, and aeration is important for the good growth of plants.

With certain vegetables, such as potatoes, tomatoes, peas, beans, early cabbage, melons, sweet potatoes, a straw mulch can be used after the plants have made good starting growth. Such a mulch, as shown in the Garden-Graph, also conserves moisture and keeps down weeds.

Straw mulch when used with strawberries keeps the fruit off the ground and prevents it from being splashed with soil during heavy rains.

The most effective way to apply a mulch is first to scratch up the earth so it is loose around each plant or in other words form a dust mulch. Then place the mulching material around each plant or along the row.

Proves Profitable To Control Weeds

The expense involved in spraying grass meadows intended for seed production with herbicides such as 2,4-D and MCP is often more than compensated for by increased revenues derived from fields so treated. Seed stocks badly polluted with various weed seeds and seeds of other crop species will incur heavy dockage on cleaning. Frequently such stocks will have to be recleaned causing an additional expense. It has been demonstrated many times, says R. M. MacVicar, Forage Crops Division, Ottawa, that it is generally less expensive to remove the weed seeds in the field than it is to remove the weeds from the threshed seed.

It is fortunate that most of the grass species have a high tolerance to herbicides such as 2,4-D. Thus it is possible to use up to 10 to 12 ounces of acid equivalent per acre without injury to the seed crop. Herbicides carefully applied at such rates will destroy many weeds and will prevent others from bearing seed. In addition they will successfully retard the growth of such species as alsike, red clover and black medick so that they will not adulterate the crop.

In some cases limited hand roguing will be economically justified, particularly in pedigree seed crops. For example, a pedigree timothy seed field containing a few scattered plants of ox-eye daisy will justify the expenditure of the time needed to remove such plants by hand. When ox-eye daisy has to be removed from timothy by machine a separate cleaning operation is necessary. This results in an additional cleaning fee and greater seed dockage.

GM of Canada Sales Increasing, Wecker Reports
Oshawa.—Automobile sales in Canada are continuing at their predicted rate, and General Motors of Canada is still working overtime to produce sufficient cars to meet current demand, W. A. Wecker, president of GM, said yesterday.
"Retail sales of automobiles in Canada during 1956 to the beginning of May were more than 8 per cent higher ...during the same ... in 1955," Mr. Wec...
"As for GM, we have been working overtime ever since we reached full production and will be working overtime for some weeks to come to fill present orders.
"The Canadian ... for passenger cars seems at this time to be a little stronger than in the United States," Mr. Wecker said. "However, we base GM production in Canada on the outlook for the Canadian economy as a whole. Our economy is strong today and should continue strengthening under present conditions."

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. Upon making his first claim an insured person has proven that he is a person with a dependent If this person is once more unemployed can he add another dependent?

A. A claimant entitled to the dependency rate receives benefit at the same rate regardless whether the number of dependents is one or more.

Q. Is the Unemployment Insurance Commission supposed to offer me employment outside this locality? I have always worked here.

A. It would depend on whether such offer was suitable considering your circumstances. If you were a single adult it might be reasonable to expect you to take an offer in another locality, assuming there was no immediate likelihood of again getting employment in your own locality. It might not be suitable if you had domestic responsibilities or were a young person still living at home. All the circumstances would have to be taken into account.

Radioactive Fall-out

(Eighteenth in series of 24 articles)

It would be a waste of time to head for the hills if a nuclear war ever came to Canada — unless the hills had been prepared ahead of time. Nor would it be any wiser to lie down in resignation to die in pieces. Fall-out might get you wherever you were.

The facts about nuclear weapons, particularly the hydrogen bomb, are cold, hard and frightening. But they are real, and civil defence officials have spoken and written of them in detail and with the view that: "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." Turning away from the facts will not change them.

Now, what are the facts about fall-out? What is fall-out?

Explosion of all nuclear weapons, including the H-bomb, has four characteristics: blast; heat flash; immediate radiation; residual radiation. Fall-out carries the residual radiation.

The blast results from an instantaneous release of immense energy by fission and fusion of atoms. It produces an extremely high temperature within a few millionths of a second in the form of a ball of fire. Its light has been estimated to be about 100 times that of the sun.

Where the fireball touches the ground the surface becomes highly radioactive for a considerable time and almost everything, including great chunks of earth, is pulverized. The fireball may be three miles across. It sucks up the pulverized material possibly 70,000 feet in the air. It is this pulverized, radioactive material which may be carried by the winds over areas 150 miles long and 20 miles wide, or bigger, and then settle to the earth, contaminating all it touches. This is called fall-out.

Humans and animals subjected to fall-out radiation may receive fatal doses or enough to cause severe illness. Safety lies only in shelter. So the hills won't save anyone without adequate shelter and without it, death might come slowly and painfully.

The federal and provincial civil defence organizations have a plan to take care of both these problems. But it can be used to protect every community in the country from possible nuclear disaster only if every community in the country — and its inhabitants — are willing to study it and put it into practice.

But fearsome as this may sound, there are bright spots. Radioactivity of fall-out decays very rapidly and, generally speaking, 48 hours after it has fallen, the danger is largely disappeared. Those in proper shelters would be able to come out unharmed.

Shelter from fall-out is very simple to prepare. The basement of a house will provide about 90 per cent immunity. This may not be enough in some heavily contaminated areas, but additional immunity can be obtained by sand-bagging the basement windows and the floor above. For protection from radiation depends on the thickness of what is between a person and the radioactive material, not the shelter's strength.

An outdoor trench with a three-foot covering of earth would give excellent immunity, civil defence officials say. In rural areas something in the form of an old-fashioned root cellar would be a ready-made fall-out shelter.

Since no one could predict ahead of time where the fall-out from a blast would settle to earth, a means of warning residents in an endangered area quickly after the bomb went off must be set up. And once the residents have been warned and have taken shelter, a means of determining when it is safe to come out again also must be set up.

WITH THE
AUTHORS IN NOVA SCOTIA
By JANET POLLOCK GRAHAM

The event began with a bit of disappointment after leaving the Princess Helene, on which we had crossed the Bay of Fundy from the train at Saint John, New Brunswick, to find that, the day being Sunday, the usual train to Halifax was not running. This meant going by bus, after a three-hour wait in the bus station.

The scenic drive was beautiful, but meant that we did not arrive at Sherreff Hall until after ten o'clock at night. This caused a bit of uneasiness due to fear that, being a University Home for students of Dalhousie instead of a hotel, the doors might not be open; but we need not have worried, as the doors were not only open but a group of Halifax authors as well as authors from other parts of the Dominion were waiting to greet us, and the wonderful welcome made up for the lengthy trip to the 35th Annual Convention of the Canadian Authors Association.

The morning welcome came from Dr. A. Kerr, President of Dalhousie University, and from Dr. C. B. Fergusson, President of Nova Scotia Branch. Mrs. Olive Knox, a celebrated writer of children's stories, from Winnipeg, replied to the welcome.

After lunch the authors were entertained by courtesy of the Royal Canadian Navy on a cruise around Halifax Harbour in HMCS Granby, which was most enjoyable in spite of the rather showery weather.

The evening session was totally Nova Scotian, the three speakers being — Mrs. Evelyn Richardson, of Bon Portage, "The Lighthouse Island Lady" whose interesting book "We Keep a Light" won for her, the year of its publication, the Governor General's medal, and a few years later her book "Desired Haven" won her the Ryerson Press prize of one thousand dollars. Mrs. Richardson gave a most interesting talk on "The Romance of the Sea", telling thrilling tales of many captains, their wives, and the men who served under them. Blair Fraser, a well known journalist and winner of several of the prizes given (now yearly) by the Western Universities, told of the ease one could have in getting into difficulties in writing for the press, and his own personal trial regarding a story submitted to the press which raised a controversy and a demand for the original source of the tale — which one lawyer told him he did not have to divulge. This authority in law proved to have the wrong idea, and he found that he did have to divulge the source of his information or pay the penalty. We gathered from this, that lawyers did not all have the same ideas.

T. H. Raddall, a writer of many historical novels, talked to us of "The Historical versus Imaginative Novel".

Tuesday morning found us listening with great interest to H. Gordon Green, Fiction editor of the Family Herald, on "The Short Story." One of his claims was that the short story was fast being made to resemble "The Article" and vice versa; also that we must get out and meet humanity, understand our characters and love them if we are going to make a success of and write things that people want. Even an editor does not know in advance what he wants, but when he sees it, he knows.

He thought there was more chance now to write something striking and powerful, also that the quotation, "Man owes something to man and seems to be born with a debt that he can never repay," was correct.

Will R. Bird, famous teller of Nova Scotian tales of the past, spoke of "The Romance of Nova Scotia", holding his audience to the end in great enjoyment, especially in recounting "First Things in Nova Scotia" — one of these being "The First Divorce"...

This couple when building their home had not been able to get a proper iron latch for the door. One night some years after the building of it, a huge bear bounced against the door. The frail pine inner-latch gave way and permitted him to enter.

Some sort of a ladder was inside reaching upwards; the excited husband dashed up it, drawing it after him so that the bear could not follow, and called back to his wife, "Cover your head with the quilt, Maggie, and maybe the bear won't find you."

The bear ambled about, smashing whatever he felt needed breaking, and filling his hungry stomach with the food he found, then went on his way.

Maggie greeted her loving spouse with stony silence and next morning walked six miles and applied for a divorce.

Another of Mr. Bird's remarks was that Nova Scotia had something that no other province had, and that was "Romance". We sort of wondered if all the other provinces were devoid of that. We rather fancied that our own old Quebec had some. One of his pet romances was the tale of Evangeline, which had brought more tourists to Nova Scotia than any other thing. We rather wondered how the public would react to that tale being proven just a figment of Longfellow's brain, as some folk are trying to claim. However, the church where the Acadians were gathered before their expulsion, still stands, and the well, etc. — at least the claim is made that those objects figured greatly in that historical time. Mr. Bird said something which all who have Scottish blood in their veins will agree with, namely, that people from Scotland have been the backbone of Nova Scotia, and he stressed the value of keeping old documents safely for the information of future generations.

Dr. Fergusson, in his follow-up remarks, claimed that in the very first tartan woven, an apple should have been embodied in it, and when some one asked why that should be so, he replied, "The apple was the emblem of the very first romance in all the world."

Mr. S. Trueman, winner of the Stephen Leacock medal for the humorous book "Cousin Elva", after many comments which called for laughter said that "Young, aspiring authors should be able to call upon the Canadian Authors Association for aid and advice."

Graham Allan in his talk on "Techniques and Opportunities" said that "Editors were put into the world to reduce writers to a state of poverty," also that "Writers were put into the world to drive editors to drink," that "No editor bought material blindfold," also that in order to make a living by writing, a writer should have some other form of employment. Articles do not always appear as they are when they enter the editor's office, he added.

In speaking of the dearth of good material he claimed that many writers no longer wrote for TV, but spent their time watching TV!

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE

Summer Sore Throat

A sore throat in the summer time is your body's warning signal that you might be coming down with a serious illness.

A sore throat at any time can warn of an impending cold, or a more serious respiratory tract infection such as influenza or pneumonia. However, these illnesses usually strike during the cold, wet months of winter and rarely occur during the summer.

A summer sore throat may be the first sign of measles, diphtheria or poliomyelitis. If it is coupled with fever, you should call your physician immediately, for prompt medical diagnosis and treatment can stop a potentially serious illness from getting too deeply rooted.

However, most summer sore throats are merely symptoms of the common cold. Although antibiotics are of great value in controlling serious respiratory infections, they are largely ineffective against the common cold.

In fact, scientists have yet to discover any completely effective agents for the common cold— summer or winter variety. Although unable to prevent or cure them, physicians can help to remove much of the sting from common cold symptoms.

We can do little to prevent summer sore throats, but with proper care, we can prevent more serious illness from developing after the first warning signs.

Grace Street Residents Petition for Zoning, But Permit Granted for Funeral Establishment

A petition was presented at the regular meeting of Lachute Town Council, signed by 19 citizens of the Grace Street area, requesting that the Council zone the area as for residential purposes only. This petition was tabled for further study by the Zoning Committee, following a motion by Ald. Dr. Roger Lavigne, seconded by Ald. Mozart Carrière. . . . Ald. Desjardins chaired the meeting by unanimous vote, due to the absence of Mayor Dr. F. Walter FitzGerald and Pro-Mayor Judes E. Charlebois. Ald. H. S. Church was also absent.

It was pointed out to spokesmen for the petitioners present, that it would be impossible to take action on this matter until such time as a by-law governing on Zoning has been prepared and passed, and that nothing could be done to prevent commercial establishments from erecting buildings in this area. . . At the special meeting held Monday morning, Roland Menard was granted permission to erect a funeral parlor on a vacant lot situated on Grace Street just west of Barron Ave. (between the Albright and McGibbon properties) — construction to be under supervision of the Roads Committee. It was pointed out that as Mr. Menard did not have his building plans immediately available and that, if upon the presentation of such plans, the Roads Committee found they did not conform to law, a special meeting would be called to discuss the matter.

The petition, presented to Council, reads as follows:

"We, the undersigned, residing on Grace Stret, recognizing the need for Zoning Regulations in the Town of Lachute, do hereby petition the Council to effect a by-law prohibiting the erection or operation of commercial establishments, with the exception of the resident offices of Medical or Legal practitioners, on that part of Grace Street that lies east of Mary Street; said by-law not to effect those commercial establishments erected and in operation on this date.

"This petition is considered necessary —

"1. To proect the valuation of our properties.

"2. To minimize the danger of increased traffic to the students of the two schools situated on Grace Street.

"3. To maintain, for the betterment of Lachute, a strictly residential street."

The petitioners were thanked for their interest in this matter, after which it was tabled for further study.

It was decided that a new power lawn-mower be purchased for the Corporation, at the lowest possible price — Ald. Desjardins dissenting from the vote.

Ald. Romain Desjardins renewed his notice of motion that, at the next regular meeting he would present for adoption a by-law governing the municipal dump.

Building permits were granted to Raymond Carignan, for a house on St. Julien Street; Adelard Tremblay, for a house on Evelina Street; Gerald Walker, for a house on Grace Street; and to A. D. McGibbon & Sons for the erection of two houses in their Riverview subdivision, all under the supervision of the Roads Committee.

Ald. Dr. Roger Lavigne stated that he was not in favor of the present manner in which building permits were granted, pointing out that all someone had to do was "draw four lines on a sheet of paper, have the Council look at it, and we approve it. . . We need something to govern the type of plans that are to be accepted," he contended.

Accounts payable for the month of June, totalling $10,877.34, were approved, after which the meeting was adjourned until Monday morning of this week for discussion of the Brownsburg Road sewer line.

Traffic Sentences In Local and St. Jerome Courts

Lucien Girard, of Gatineau Point, Bernard Barnes, of Hawkesbury, and Ruben Golden, of Lachute, were sentenced to fines of $10 plus costs, the latter being cancelled in the case against Girard, when all three pleaded guilty of speeding on Lachute's Main Street.

The three were arrested at various times during the past week by Lachute Town Police, along with Emilien Sourdit, of Papineauville, who failed to appear before Justice of the Peace Georges Brunelle on Tuesday evening, and thus forfeited his bail of $18.

* * *

Gerard Martineau, 18, of Lachute, was arrested Tuesday morning by Traffic Officer Gerard Loyer and charged with hit-and-run in connection with an accident in which he was involved on Bethany Road on the July 1 holiday week-end.

On a charge laid by Det. Ralph Allen, he appeared before Judge Omer Coté in St. Jerome Court Tuesday morning and pleaded guilty. The youth was sentenced to a fine of $50 plus costs, his driver's permit being suspended for a six-month period.

Total damage to the car owned and driven by Roger Poupard, of Montreal, was set at $605, while the car Martineau was driving was damaged to the extent of $250, all of which Martineau is obliged to pay, in addition to his fine. Martineau was questioned following the accident and released until his arrest on Tuesday.

* * *

Georges E. Brisebois, 47, of Lachute, was fined $50 plus costs or 30 days in St. Jerome jail, his driver's license being suspended for a six-month period, on pleading guilty to a charge of driving while his ability was impaired.

Brisebois was arrested last week and released on property bail of $250 following an accident on Hamford Street, Ayersville, when some $400 damage was caused to the car of Napoléon Belanger.

Judge Coté informed all present that he would issue no further three-month suspensions of license on charges of hit-and-run and impaired driving, and made good his promise by imposing six-month suspensions.

Routine Affairs At Ayersville Council Meeting

The regular meeting of Ayersville Council, which was scheduled for Tuesday of last week, was postponed until last Saturday due to the lack of a quorum. The Saturday meeting was subsequently adjourned until Monday evening after several hours of deliberation — and then was once again adjourned until last evening (Wednesday), when the problem of the Police Department was discussed.

Mayor Gaetan Paquette presided over the Saturday session, with Councillors Simon and Campeau absent, also on Monday evening, when all councillors were present.

It was moved and approved that the necessary pipes be installed at the rear of the property of Mrs. Josephine Bertrand, for a length of 150 feet to the Lachute Town limits.

It was decided that cement necessary for the construction of the sidewalks be purchased from Lachute Lumber & Millwork Ltd. at a cost of 95 cents a bag. Other tenders received were from Arc Supply, Lachute, and Ladouceur & Freres, St. Andrews East. Construction of sidewalks is to commence immediately. Tenders were also studied for the transportation of stone for sidewalks, and it was decided to pay $1.50 a yard to truckers, delivered as required.

Six building permits were issued for houses and extensions to same — after which the meeting was adjourned until Monday evening.

At the opening of the adjourned meeting, discussion took place relative to an account received from Deacon Motor Sales; this firm originally estimated repairs to the municipal truck at $770.59, and the account received was $863.26. Mayor Paquette stated that the firm had exceeded the figure of their estimate without the authorization of the Council — the discussion being mainly between the Mayor and Councillor Campeau. It was finally decide dto pay the account in full, bringing the total accounts approved for payment to $1,368.81.

Councillor Seguin was authorized to contact Irenée Cayer, proprietor of the car-wrecker and automobile "graveyard" west of Bradford Boulevard, requesting him to change his location or construct an enclosure.

Addressing Mr. Lévis as constable, Mayor Paquette asked him why the Provincial Police had been summoned to Ayersville to handle accidents. He also requested the officer not to smoke while directing traffic. Cst. Lévis replied that the Provincial authorities had been summoned by unknown citizens and not by himself.

Mayor Paquette asked why the municipality had not been decorated for Lachute Spring Fair, St. Jean-Baptiste Day and Dominion Day. Councillor Champagne, in charge of this particular committee,

CNIB Canvass In Wentworth T'wp; Clinic in Morin

The C.N.I.B. is pleased to announce the decision made by the councillors of Wentworth at their last meeting, July 3, to organize a financial campaign on behalf of the Institute between the approximate dates of August 15 and 31.

The chairman chosen for the campaign is Mayor Clarence Neill, and the captains for the district are: Mr. B. R. Hunter for Dunany - Louisa; Mr. R. Bell for St. Michel; and Mr. U. Charland for Montfort - Laurel.

A. C. Zaplanski, field secretary for the Institute, announces that an eye clinic will be organized in Morin Heights, in the very near future. Any living in the areas of Montfort and Laurel, requiring eye examinations, should give their names to Mr. U. Charland at Laurel, or write direct to the C.N.I.B., Box 807, Lachute, Que. The clinic will be under supervision of a competent eye doctor, and this service is intended to be of help to the communities in preventing blindness. Any person or persons having difficulty with their vision, should avail themselves of this program. For full particulars, contact either Mr. U. Charland or the Institute.

During the drive, readers are asked to keep in mind that eyesight is more precious than the money they are donating. In order to insure better eye care for both school children and adults, give generously to the Wentworth campaign and assist the Institute to increase its services in the County of Argenteuil.

Special Council Meeting Settles Water and Sewer In New Subdivision Area

Lachute Town Council approved plans for the water and sewer installations to serve lots on the Brownsburg Road and the A. D. McGibbon & Sons' "Riverview" subdivision, at an adjourned meeting held Monday morning. On a motion by Ald. Dr. Roger Lavigne, seconded by Ald. Ross Muir, the Council requested that the Provincial Health Department approve plans prepared by Engineer Paul Laliberté for these installations, and issue an order to cover execution of the work of the undertaking.

This decision concluded more than a month of discussions, at special meetings and at the regular monthly meeting last Wednesday. On the recommendation of officials of the Department of Health, it was decided to plan the project so as to have the main trunk sewer on the Brownsburg Road — the sewer to empty into the North River at the old CNR right-of-way.

This will mean the installation of a 21-inch pipe on Brownsburg Road, from the junction of the thoroughfare (Riverview Blvd.) into the subdivision, as far as the CNR right-of-way. Sewage from the Mountain View area is now deposited in the river at this point, and the present pipe would be replaced by the larger 21-inch pipe. The sewer presently connecting Mountain View with this outlet will be increased in size to 12 inches, in an effort to ease the present overloaded drainage in that area.

Approximate costs of the project were presented to Council by Mr. Laliberté as follows, the entire cost of the waterworks to be borne by the Corporation.

Waterworks, McGibbon Riverview subdivision — $15,934.90.

Waterworks, Brownsburg Road — $6,108.

These figures include all pipe, materials and labor required to finish the project.

A breakdown of the total area that in future can be served by this sewer, also presented by Mr. Laliberté, is as follows: McGibbon Subdivision, 33.4 acres, 109 lots; Alan Hay, northeast of Brownsburg Road, 22.7 acres, 70 lots; Alan Hay, southwest side of Brownsburg Road, 55.5 acres, 200 lots; (both these sections are in Ayersville); Gordon Hay, 28.3 acres, 100 lots; Mountain View and other areas of the Brownsburg Road, 31 acres, 60 lots.

The proposition of this total area for the McGibbon subdivision comes to approximately 20 per cent, and following considerable discussion on apportionment of costs for the sewer project, it was moved by Ald. Edgar O. Pollock, seconded by Ald. J. H. Mallette, that "A. D. McGibbon & Sons be informed that, according to preliminary estimates submitted by Engineer Paul Laliberté, the whole subject to verification, their share of the charge to be levied for the payment of the collector (trunk) sewer line on Brownsburg Road would be in the neighborhood of 20 per cent of said total cost ($13,864.90) — the whole however being subject to revision."

The meeting was chaired by Pro-Mayor Judes E. Charlebois in the absence of Mayor Dr. F. Walter FitzGerald. At his request, Pro-Mayor Charlebois was replaced by Ald. Romain Desjardins part way through the meeting. The session was adjourned to the call of the chair.

Full Session of Civic Affairs At Brownsburg Regular Council

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — At the local Council session Mr. Roland Hebert was the first taxpayer to be heard after the usual opening business. He requested permission to fill his swimming pool regularly from the town water supply — about 1,800 gallons a week. He realized there would have to be a special tax. Council felt that this was much too big a drain on the town reservoir.

Mr. Thomas Hall, representing the Rotary Club, asked the town to police their picnic grounds and swimming pool. He said they had had some trouble with hooligans, particularly after dark. After a brief discussion Mayor Lepine summed up the councillors' viewpoints by asking that the Rotary Club write a letter to Council authorizing them to police the pool, and also to erect a notice showing the closing times and ordering the park to be vacated by 9 o'clock. He instructed the policeman to patrol the park a couple of times during the day on Saturday and Sunday and at nights after nine o'clock.

Fire Chief Arthur Robbins reported on the only two fires of the month. Both had occurred on the same day — Sunday, June 24 — one at 4.05 a.m. and the other at 2 p.m. Both occurred at the same place — the Flamingo Grill. Mr. Robbins said that, since the fire was under investigation, he could not say too much about it. He was sure, however, that they were two separate fires. The first one started in the southeast corner, in the paint shop, and a thorough inspection after the fire showed that all was clear. The afternoon fire, which attracted quite a crowd, lasted three hours; this started in the north-west corner, where wines and several cans of liquid wax were stored. He estimated the damage at $3,000.

Chief Robbins asked the council to pay Donald Graham and Bob Cresswell, who acted as traffic officers, and John Duncan, Jean Louis Binette, Francois Massie and Russell Warwick, who helped at the fire. He said that he was very grateful for their help, and felt they should be paid. The Council agreed.

When Police Chief W. Lepine delivered his report there were several remarks about the fact that only 12 traffic tickets were given during the month. A discussion arose about the number of speeders who breeze through town every day. Some councillors felt that the policeman should not risk an accident by chasing speeders. They felt that some mechanical check should be purchased. Others on the Council felt that the town must not be too vigilant, that "we don't want to chase people away." Consequently, no action was taken. (This correspondent feels, though, that we do want to chase speeders away — and the farther the better.)

In routine matters, a motion was passed to transfer $2,000 from the General Account to the Waterworks Account. Another motion was passed authorizing stucco dressing for the front of the municipal building. Mr. Desforges, undertaker, had his business tax reduced from $50 to $20.

A question was raised as to whether the same tax for sewerage as for water and sewerage was completely logical. It was pointed out that, when the waterworks came in, this practice was instituted to force people with wells to take the town water. It seems too bad that while the Council gives water away free to people who don't want it, one man who is willing to pay for it has to keep his pool empty.

Traffic Changes Reviewed in Police Report

Reporting on the activities of the Police Department for the month of June, at the regular Council meeting last Wednesday, Police Chief Fernand Trépanier stated that the centre parking changes on Main Street between Water and Harriett Streets had been completed, facilitating the movement of vehicles in this section.

Chief Trépanier pointed out that, at the last regular meeting, it was agreed that centre parking be limited to 60 minutes during business hours and that no limit would be enforced on Sundays and holidays. This, he added, was suggested with a view to regulating the parking area along the whole of Main Street.

"The following problems exist insofar as this change is concerned," he stated.

"1. The purchase of adequate signs to publicize these restrictions.

"2. Proper installation of the signs in the centre parking area.

"3. The enforcement of this change, which will necessitate daily supervision by a Police Officer.

"In regard to this last clause, permit me to say that the Police personnel would not be able to enforce this regulation without lessening its present efficiency."

A brief report of activities for the month included: 113 general police calls answered; 23 automobile accidents, in which four persons were injured and material damage amounted to $2,500; four persons were arrested; three persons being detained for the Provincial Police; six persons appeared in court; six persons detained for their protection; one animal was destroyed; 31 traffic tickets issued; and three enquiries carried out for the Social Service.

A total of 1,325 miles were logged on the patrol car during the month, bringing the total to 24,350 miles.

Accident Toll — One Dead

Paul Alain, 25-year-old Victoriaville Lumber and Furniture Company director, died while en route to hospital Wednesday evening of last week following a head-on crash on Route 8, two miles west of St. Philippe. He was alone in the death car (above) which was hit head-on by an auto driven by Gerald Pilon, 32, of St. Philippe. No date has been set for the inquest.

Garden Party for Graduate

In honor of Miss Evelyne Ayers on her graduation, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Ayers, entertained recently at a garden party at their home in Lachute Mills. The residence was beautifully decorated with spring flowers, and a buffet luncheon was served in the grounds. About 100 guests, from Lachute and elsewhere, attended.

During the reception Miss Ayers sang several vocal selections, including the song "Thank God for A Garden". Miss Juliette Rodrigue and Miss Marielle Fournier were the piano accompanists.

Acclamations and Contests — Morin And St. Jerusalem

Nominations for the office of councillors in the Parish of St. Jerusalem were held yesterday, the three vacancies being filled by acclamation — reports the secretary-treasurer, Harold E. Carson.

Retiring Councillors were Ernest McOuat, Seat 2, who was replaced by E. W. Smith; Felix Touchette, Seat 3; and Thos. Dwyer, Seat 4 — the latter two being re-elected for another term.

* * *

Elections for three seats will be held in Morin Heights next Monday, according to a report received from the secretary-treasurer of that municipality, J. W. Green.

Contesting Seat 1 are Ernest Charbonneau, trucker, and Victor Lefebvre, commercial traveller. Seat 3 has three contestants, viz., Ghislain DeBassecourt, foreman, Edward Greer, baker; and Archie Hamilton, carpenter; while Seat 5 is being contested for by Paul Baumel, contractor, and Mrs. Laura Nesbitt, housewife.

Redmond Roche, 49-year-old lawyer defeated by a Liberal candidate after serving two terms as Union Nationale member of the Quebec legislature for Chambly riding, has been appointed Judge of the Montreal Court of the Sessions of the Peace. Robert Theberge defeated Mr. Roche in the June 20 Provincial election. Premier Duplessis, who made the appointment known Friday, also announced that Etienne Blanchard, of Chandler, has been appointed district magistrate.

Lawless Driving Presents Problem, Ayersville Council

As a result of several accidents, prevalent speeding and disregard of the traffic laws in Ayersville, citizens of the municipality have taken steps to force the hand of the Council, in an effort to protect their children and enforce traffic regulations. Members of the Council generally share the views of the local public, and at their meeting Monday night, they decided to hold a special session to study the matter. (This was scheduled for last evening, Wednesday.)

It appears that an acute police problem has existed since the departure of Ernest Carrière, who acted as police constable and municipal foreman, and who was replaced in this capacity by Philias Lévis. The Council members, as well as the citizens, agree that Mr. Levis is not personally responsible for the situation as it is impossible for him to be in two places at the same time, or to patrol the streets without a vehicle.

The problem now confronting the municipality and its law enforcement dpeartment, appears to be a major one for this village, which has developed rapidly and whose population includes a large number of children. These need protection and guidance, while the citizens also seek the asurance that their children will not be exposed to danger and possible death by carefree youths, drunken drivers, persons driving without licenses, and others using the thoroughfares as a race-track.

This appears to be the situation acknowledged by the councillors and the general source of complaint from the citizenry. A certain relaxation in law observance has been noticed since the departure of Mr. Carrière and today the municipality is in a position of having to organize its police department on a sound basis, to the confidence of both children and parents, and to ensure respect of municipal laws.

The mayor and councillors are conscious of their responsibility and now appear to be intent on solving this problem.

Voting Monday, Three Catholic School Boards

Elector-proprietors of Lachute, Ayersville and Brownsburg will go to the polls next Monday, July 16, to elect commissioners to the Catholic School Commissions in these respective municipalities.

Gerard Lefebvre, engineer employed at Ayers Limited, who has held a seat on the Lachute Commission for the past two years, is the only retiring member of this commission. He is being opposed by Albert Morrissette, building contractor.

In Ayersville, there are two outgoing commissioners, Philippe Joly and Georges Rochon. The former is running for re-election; also contesting the vacancies are Raymond Champagne and Roland Grenier.

Brownsburg also has three candidates contesting two seats, vacated by Real Ouellete and Donat Lajeunese, both of whom are running for re-election, along with Alfred Lupien, the new candidate.

The polls will be open Monday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. to proprietors on the tax-roll whose school taxes are paid up. There is but one poll in each schol municipality—namely at l'ecole Supérieure in Lachute; at l'ecole Leo Clement in Ayersville, and l'ecole St. Louis de France in Brownsburg.

Team Selected For 4-H Provincial Judging Contest

The Lachute 4-H Calf Club held a judging competition at the barn of Stuart Armstrong, Lachute Road, last Thursday evening. Winners of the competition were Donald Parker, Donald McOuat and Eileen Elder, who will represent the club at the Montreal District elimination field day, to be held at Macdonald College on Tuesday, July 31. Judging teams from Lachute, Arundel, Howick, Ormstown, Huntingdon and Cowansville 4-H clubs will be competing, and the winning team will take part in the Provincial Judging Contest during the Sherbrooke Fair.

The rest of the club plan to take part in an inter-club softball game which will take place at the same time. The Lachute club plan to travel by bus.

Other business discussed was that Saturday, September 8, be set as the date for the Achievement Day and School Fair to be held at the Lachute Spring Fair Grounds. Two judges were chosen this year to judge the club members' calves on Achievement Day; they are Oakley McRae, for the Holsteins, and Bob Ness, for the Ayrshires and Guernseys. Both come from Howick.

Harold Wilson presented cheques to the members who showed Holstein calves at the Lachute Spring Fair on Junior Day. The judging team is to have one of several practises at the barn of Erskine Rodger next Tuesday, June 10, in the evening. The other members plan to form a softball team.

Mr. Armstrong was thanked on behalf of the club for his hospitality, and the meeting was then adjourned.

Getting the Most For Your Money

Electricity is wasted, possibly unconsciously, because it is so convenient and cheap!

Turn off the lights in unoccupied rooms; operate the radio only when listening to a program; and see that the surface elements on the kitchen range are turned off or to Low or Medium when the contents of the kettle or pots have been brought to a boil.

Another opportunity to save on electricity bills is gained when water tanks are insulated. Such a cover for your water tank can be easily installed by you, and will result in the water retaining its heat much longer. If your water tank is warm enough to feel its heat, then electricity is being wasted!

The Company's interest in these steps to save electricity arises from the fact that wastage adds to an ever increasing load on its equipment, and uses water which could otherwise be stored for the time when stream flows are low.

Growth Factors In Chick Rations

Broilers spend their entire lives indoors. This makes is very important that they be fed the right amounts of the right foods. They have no opportunity as farm flocks do, of supplementing what they are given with what they can find. The greatest economy of cost is attained when the chicks make the greatest gain for the lowest food cost. Proteins, certain vitamins and the right minerals all in the right proportions in the food are known to be necessary. In fact several of the 16 known vitamins have been discovered because their presence in such items as fish meal, fish solubles, milk, whey and distillers' solubles have caused better growth when these items were included in chick rations. It is interesting that there are still other growth producing factors which we cannot identify in fermentation products. When three per cent distillers' solubles are included in chick rations growth is improved. When the solubles are burned to ash and the ashes only included the chicks grow better than without this ash, but not as well as with the complete distillers' solubles. The growth factor cannot be a vitamin or the heat of burning would destroy it. Is it a mineral? Some seventeen minerals that it might be have been added separately without any growth response. It may be a combination of minerals. When we know what the exact factor is, better and possibly cheaper chick rations can be designed

Check Effectiveness Of Budworm Spraying

Aerial surveys and ground checking extending to the whole Gaspé Peninsula are now under way to evaluate the results of the large-scale spraying operation against the spruce budworm which was completed recently — it is announced by the Hon. J. S. Bourque, Minister of Lands and Forests and Hydraulic Resources. The surveys will also seek to establish the spread of the epidemic of the insect which attacks both balsam fir and spruce.

In 10 days, Mr. Bourque reports, 38 aircraft, operating from three bush airstrips, sprayed 200,000 gallons of insecticide over 400,000 acres — 600 square miles — of woodlands, including a number of farm woodlots. The sprayed areas are situated in the counties of Rimouski, Matapedia, Matane and Gaspé-North. The current operation is the third one in the province.

Mr. Bourque states that it appears that the sprayers are gaining against the insect. While the epidemic is continuing, results are most encouraging and a high proportion of the sprayed trees have grown gren again. On the other hand, in a control area which was not sprayed, at the request of entomologists, tree mortality is very high.

Grass Control In Apple Orchards

Apple growers know from experience with mice and winter injury that grass should not be allowed to grow unhindered around the base of apple trees. Many growers hoe or chop grass away in the fall, creating low areas around the trees. These low spots hold water and rapidly fill with suckers which require constant attention. The growing interest in the sod-mulch management system is aggravating the problem still further since grasses thrive in most mulch materials. A search for some practical chemical method of grass control in apple orchards has been underway for some years by research workers at Experimental Farms at Harrow, Ont., Kentville, N.S., and Saanichton, B.C.

Among the chemicals tested, Cyanamid, water soluble Cyanamid, and more recently delapon, should be mentioned. Dalapon shows excellent promise as a grass suppressant when applied shortly after grass growth begins in late spring. Such commonly used grasses as orchard grass, the fescues, Kentucky blue grass, and twitch or couch grass were completely suppressed for the entire season when dalapon was applied at 10 pounds per acre (1.5 oz. per tree). Dalapon did not appear to affect the apple trees and caused very little change in the growth of broad-leaved plants such as dock, dandelion, alfalfa and ladino clover.

For the control of grasses in the vicinity of the trunk dilute five pounds of dalapon in 100 gallons of water and apply ½-gallon of the solution by means of a watering can or low pressure sprayer. Where it is desired to control all grass growth in the mulch area beneath the tree no more than two gallons of the prepared solution should be applied to the tree area. The tank and all equipment should be washed thoroughly after the chemical has been applied.

Science Tackling Big Soil Problem

Vegreville, Alta. (CP) — Researchers are seeking ways to improve 10,000,000 acres of potentially fertile soil in Alberta.

The topsoil in the area is not lacking in fertility but is cut off by a hard subsoil layer that inhibits root growth and prevents moisture penetration. In many cases the layer approaches the surface so closely as to make crop production impracticable.

"Solonetz" is the term used by the soil specialists for this type of structure which runs in a belt through eastern central Alberta.

The strip, 250 miles long and an average of 35 miles wide, extends from Bruderheim, 30 miles northeast of Edmonton, to the Suffield area, 25 miles northeast of Medicine Hat.

Soil researchers at Vegreville, under supervision of the Lacombe Experimental Farm, are testing ways that might mean economical handling of this type of soil.

"The problem", said agronomist Henry Friesen, supervising the work, "is to break up the hardpan and keep it from reforming. It is lack of tilth that creates the difficulty."

Deep tillage, soil amendments, fertilizer treatments and cropping methods will be the main branches of endeavor.

The tillage experiments are designed to break up the hardpan layer. Purpose of the soil amendments is to prevent reformation of the tight hardpan layer once it has been broken. Time and frequency of application will be the chief end of the fertilizer studies while aeration and penetration are important objectives in the cropping trials.

Not one but several practices in combination may be the eventual solution.

Bleached Bones Pose New Problem for Historians

—Central Press Canadian

A resident of Tobermory, Ont., Orrie Vail shows a piece of wreckage believed by him to be part of famous explorer's ship, to grandsons Paul and Peter Howell. The bleached bones of five men and a boy, which match the description of some of the crew of La Salle's lost ship, the Griffon, are also on view at the home of the retired fisherman who discovered bones and wreckage of ship 44 years ago, but kept it a secret. The Griffon was last seen Sept. 18, 1679, as she sailed into Lake Erie. Its disappearance has baffled historians for many years. Mr. Vail is now attempting to establish that the bones are as old as the recorded date the French barque was last seen to substantiate his claims.

THE WEEK AT OTTAWA

by the Canadian Press

Ottawa, July 9 (CP) — An almost-forgotten tale of 20th century Arctic exploration was told in the Commons last week.

H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) related how Canada in 1904 claimed possession of Ellesmere and Southhampton Islands in the Arctic.

His tale was based on information supplied by Dr. L. S. Borden of Victoria, B.C., last known survivor of the first Canadian Arctic expedition in 1903-04.

Dr. Borden was the botanist and medical officer of the government expedition aboard the Neptune, pride of the Newfoundland sealing fleet, under Commander A. P. Low.

Mr. Herridge said the story of the "forgotten expedition" is proof that the Canadian Arctic belongs to Canada. He expressed concern "about the maintenance of Canadian sovereignty and the apparent control of certain United States army personnel concerning Canadian rights in the Arctic."

Mr. Herridge said that apart from one or two brief mentions, the first Canadian Arctic exploration was not reported in reference books and articles about the Canadian Arctic. Even the federal government had no records of the expedition, except for sketchy notebooks kept by Low and a copy of his book now kept in the Parliamentary Library.

He said Dr. Borden, a native of New Brunswick who practised medicine in Vernon, B.C., for many years before moving to Victoria, brought him up to date after the MP showed an interest last session about what areas the Canadian government claims in the Arctic.

Canada claims sovereignty rights over the region on the basis of first discovery by British and Canadian expeditions and the sector principle. This principle — accepted by Russia, Finland, Norway and Denmark — holds that a country possesses all the Arctic area north of its shores and is bounded by the projection of its own eastern and western boundaries to the North Pole.

TRANSPORT HEAD RESIGNING

Roy W. Milner, Federal Transport Controller for the last five years, announced during a stormy meeting of the Commons Agriculture Committee that he will resign at the end of 1956 and become new head of the Board of Grain Commissioners.

He will succeed D. G. McKenzie, 69, who plans to retire in December. Mr. Milner, 64-year-old native of Brampton, Ont., and former president of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, is already a member of the grain board, which regulates standards on grain and storage.

Mr. Milner was accused by some CCF members of giving favored consideration to millers in his transport job and of not giving "a hoot" about producers. He denied the charges and also disputed the contention that discrimination was responsible for failure of south and southwestern Saskatchewan to get enough boxcars to move grain. Mr. Milner laid some of the blame on the CPR which, he said, did not co-operate until he appealed directly to the railway's president, N. R. Crump.

NATIONAL FUEL POLICY

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION BLASTED

Charges were made in the Commons last week that the federal Civil Service Commission offers such low salaries no self-respecting job seeker would accept them.

Criticism came from Erhard Regier (CCF—Burnaby-Coquitlam), Wilfrid Dufresne (PC—Quebec W.) and C. W. Carter (L—Burin-Burgeo) as the Commons studied spending estimates of State Secretary Pinard's department.

Mr. Regier said it once was considered an honor to be a civil servant but was no longer because no self-respecting person would take a government job at some of the salaries offered.

For example, the government sought an economist for the Agriculture Department at $3,300 a year. Surely, he said, any economist willing to work for that kind of money is either completely self-effacing or a "worthless fellow who has been thrown in the discard heap by all the other possible employers."

Planning and Zoning

CIVIC GROWTH in the past few years has painfully precipitated the need for town planning, and particularly for zoning regulations in Lachute. The sooner this town adopts some scheme of progress, and the enabling legislation to put it into effect, the better for posterity and the easier for future administration.

Without searching far, three instances are evident to impress this need. . .

On the borders of Lachute's once-choicest residential site, Mountain View, an industry has sprung up which adds nothing to the pleasurable surroundings. A little foresight might have precluded this possibility and restricted the adjacent land to residential use. Strangely enough, there was a provision in the planning of this site, to impose restrictions within its own boundaries. We recall sitting in on a meeting with a town planning expert years ago when this matter was discussed. But someone slipped up, and even in this detail of elementary safeguard, no by-law was framed or adopted; no action was taken.

The recent altercation on Main Street frontages and the power of the Council's building committee to regulate same, is another finger pointing to the need of a plan. If we understand correctly, there is a legal contention that the town has no power to prescribe frontage distances unless there is some definite street-widening project in view. This sounds illogical, and armed with a blueprint of its future Main Street (regardless of when), we should be reasonably sure there are provisions to hold builders to that plan.

Third instance, of course, is the current protest of Grace Street property-holders, who take unkindly to the prospect of a funeral establishment operating in their precincts. Their attitude is understandable. On the other hand, the promoter's idea that Grace Street would be happily suited to the nature of his business, are equally pardonable. But the point here — as in the preceding cases and others — is that there should be no doubt as to the uses which may be applied to land; the statutes should be definite and the city fathers' authority unquestionable. No property-holder should have misgivings as to intrusions which might devaluate his property or threaten his contented living.

Old Age Pensions

BRITISH old age pensions follow the pensioner to the ends of the earth and the end of his days. If he migrates at age 65 to Tasmania, Peru or the Yukon, the cheques continue to flow and don't stop until the death certificate is issued.

An acquaintance of ours moved away last month — but only to the next province for a three weeks' vacation, to visit members of her family. Her pension cheque was forwarded to her temporary address, but unclaimed and consequently returned. By application of the Canadian regulations, her cheque would have been returned to headquarters within a prescribed time, and the possibility she would have been disowned from the pension roll was disturbing, to say the least. The incident might have hastened a heart attack. It didn't — but more pointedly, it illustrates a contrast in the way governments behave.

On this subject, by coincidence, The Financial Post argued recently that Canadian old age pensions should be payable in the same way as the British, because they too are now based on the principle of contribution.

Most old age pensioners, one may hope, will choose to spend their evening years and their $40 a month in this country. But those who want to move back to Tobermory, Omaha or even Warsaw, for health, family or sentimental reasons, shouldn't lose on that account. They have paid their subscription.

Boating Safety

CANADA is a land of many waters, and it is not surprising that the historic sport of boating should be gaining in popularity.

In Nova Scotia, boat-builders have organized a co-operative agency to sell their products to a growing market. On the west coast people tired of crowded highways are taking more and more to the water.

One of the great pleasures in life is to rush through the water in a powered craft, or skip along silently in a sailboat heeling nicely in a stiff breeze, or perhaps glide silently in a canoe on some secluded waterway.

But there is always danger for novices, and those too careless to observe a few simple rules of boating safety. The toll in boating accidents each year is heavy, and in a good many cases unnecessary.

A few simple precautions, and a good sprinkling of common sense, would go far to reduce this loss.

First, of course, you should know your craft and how to handle it before setting out. If you don't know how, take along someone who does, or don't go. But even before you set out, make sure your boat is safe and carries the proper gear — spare gasoline, paddles, rope, compass, matches, food — in short, the items that would get you out of any emergency that might crop up.

The first step in boating safety is not to overload. Carry enough life-saving devices for all passengers.

Once on your way, observe the rules of the highway. Basically, the rule is to keep to the right. But there are others, and you should know them.

Courtesy is necessary just as on the road. A good many pilots of larger powered craft have an irritating habit of cutting across the bow of smaller craft — an annoying thing, at least, and often dangerous.

According to the Outboard Boating Club of America the most common causes of accidents, and the things to watch for, are these:

1. Too many people in the boat; 2. Failure to keep a sharp lookout; and 3. Speeding at the wrong time and place.

In short, it boils down to the use of common sense and courtesy.

Up and Up

A COMPARISON between the years 1950 and 1955 provides us with a good indication of the spectacular rate at which the Canadian economy is expanding in these, the Fabulous Fifties (so termed by "Industry", leaflet of the Canadian Manufacturers Association). The market value of goods and services produced by Canadians in 1955 — the Gross National Product as the economists are pleased to call it — was nearly 50 per cent greater than it was five years earlier. In other words, a larger working population, more investment capital, more factories and improved overall efficiency all combined to produce nearly half as much material wealth again as in 1950.

True, prices have risen over the same period but, even allowing for this, the performance remains a most impressive one. And, of course, viewing the economy as a whole, there is hardly anything which isn't way, way up above the 1950 level.

Our actual population, for example, is up 15 per cent, the number of people working by nearly seven per cent. The personal income of Canadians, like the Gross National Product, is up 50 per cent. Wages in manufacturing have risen some 37 per cent, more than double the hoist in the Consumer Price Index.

But dwarfing everything else is the staggering increase in both personal taxes paid and government spending. Here, the rise between 1950 and 1955 is not a mere 25 per cent, 50 per cent or even 75 per cent. Nothing so modest. The government in 1955 took and spent nearly 100 per cent more of the Canadian taxpayers' money than it did in 1950!

Reflect on that for a moment if you will.

Locked and Barred

Quite unexpectedly last night, I ran into a couple of old college chums. They were in town on a shopping spree prior to plunging into the wilderness to undertake a research project with forest bugs. Consequently, we foregathered in a convenient restaurant and, over a cup or two of coffee, swapped yarns of cap and gown.

Among the assemblage with Bill Robertson, now insect expert for a nationally-famous paper company, but in college days, organist for our daily chapel services.

"We played some heartless pranks on Old Fanny at Beta U." said Johnston, recalling our revered principal. "But he was a darned good sport. Usually let us off when we really deserved severe chastisement."

"Occasionally left himself wide open for pranks, as I remember," Bill chimed in. "Will you ever forget that famous night in chapel?"

Most of us found it quite easy to forget since all but Bill had been away at the time with the debating team. So Bill recounted the story for us, as he had seen it at first hand.

In days of old at Beta U, it was laid down that all students must attend chapel at least once per Sunday and five other times per week. To enforce this rule, the authorities posted the worthy Porter at the side door and charged him with the responsibility of checking the names of those attending against the college roll. At the same time, however, they left the other two doors to the chapel wide open. Thus, many were checked but few attended since they remained only long enough to walk the length of the chapel to the nearest exit. When the services got under way, the congregations consisted mainly of the padre and divinity student on duty, Bill at the organ, and one or two divines whose consciences would not permit them to sign for religion and then not take it.

Old Fanny was quick to notice the discrepancy between those attending and those checking in. And he was just as quick to order the locking of all but the side door where Dibley stood with the roster. Overnight, attendance soared under the new policy that those who signed to pray must stay to pray.

On the Monday following the crackdown, Old Fanny himself was duty padre in the chapel. When service was over, the principal — preceded by the divine who read the lesson — paraded to the only unlocked exit, the side door leading to the dining hall. To their dismay, however, priest and server discovered that some uncouth wag had drawn the heavy fire door across the swing door after chapel had gone in. It was, therefore, impossible to get out by that way.

"We'll leave by the chancel door," Old Fanny announced, doing a smart about-face and heading for the east end. But there, naturally, he found the door shut tight against him.

"The main door!" the principal cried, leading his acolyte to the other end of the chapel. But the main door proved just as immoveable.

A trifle flustered by this unexpected turn of events, Old Fanny strode to his stall and sat down.

"Mr. Robertson," he thundered at Bill, who was going through his postlude for the second time. "Please do stop playing. I'm trying to think and it's most distracting!"

Bill ceased abruptly and the assemblage sat in utter silence. Finally, the principal spoke again.

"I think we had better sing some hymns. Perhaps we'll be heard outside and someone will let us out!"

And for the next hour and a half, the unwilling congregation sang hymn after hymn, double forte, hoping against hope that rescue would shortly come.

It was Old Fanny's absence from the weekly faculty meeting that instituted the search, in the end. And just as their shattered throats were giving up for good, the chapelites were released from their imprisonment.

Old Fanny could hardly be expected to take this lying down. On the following day, therefore, he called a meeting of all residents in the common room. To ensure that all were present, he himself called the roll and checked the names. Then, he delivered one of the severest tongue-lashings ever heard at Beta U. This done, the principal stomped furiously to the door, intent upon returning to his study.

He waited almost an hour to accomplish that feat, however. While he was haranguing the residents, some dastardly day student barred the door of the common room. They finally took it off its hinges and let Old Fanny out.

Over the Years with THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

July 8, 1881 —

One farmer, who sowed 160 bushels of grain, says that owing to the continuous dry weather he thinks he will not have his seed!

We learn that the Lachute Municipal Council has several new actions taken against it for bad roads.

A steam-boat is talked of for the North River at Lachute. We wonder that some of our hotelkeepers do not get one.

Avoca — Fires among the mountains have been raging during the past week, looking beautiful by night, but causing anxiety to the local residents. Mr. Jos. Bates had a fine field of fall wheat destroyed, and only by exercising the greatest exertion, succeeded in saving a new barn, not many weeks up. The McLeans, on the other side of the Rouge, had all their furniture out of the house, expecting to see the fire consume their dwelling. Other parties have had grain and meadows scorched savagely.

• • •

50 YEARS AGO

July 13, 1906 —

The many friends of Mr. A. D. Kennedy will learn with much regret that his Western trip of last year has fully convinced him of the fact that Port Arthur offers him greater business advantages than his present location, and that he expects to leave this locality about August.

• • •

25 YEARS AGO

July 10, 1931 —

Last Monday evening, a painful accident occurred to Robert Elliott, who had come over to his new meat shop in the East Ward to help, and while hanging up a quarter of beef, the hook swung back and struck him in the eye. Dr. J. H. Mason had him rushed to hospital in Montreal, where it is hoped that treatment will succeed in saving the sight.

It is expected that the new bridge between Hawkesbury and Grenville will be completed and open for traffic by the end of September.

With G. E. Mortimore

She was a study in graceful slow motion; a long-legged girl with pink fresh cheeks and a faint air of embarrassment.

She wandered to a window that led to the kitchen, and addressed an invisible cook. "Two burgers," she said.

And then she drifted toward another customer of the restaurant, hovered in front of him, and very, very slowly moved aside to pour a cup of coffee.

A voice from the kitchen said: "Two burgers ready," the girl didn't seem to hear.

She was drifting from one customer to another, making out bills. She mused a long time over each bill, as though she might be writing a sonnet to a ham sandwich.

Every now and then she paused and gave her hair a short beauty treatment, smoothing it into place.

Meanwhile the other waitress bustled about like a clockwork mouse.

But our waitress mooned along in slow motion, still inscribing those bills, each one of them certainly a work of art.

Sometimes she stood for ten seconds fondling a cup of coffee, submerged in goodness knows what dreams of romance. Was she in love with a movie star?

Hungry for hamburgers and impatient to get back to the office, the two of us watched her with fascination.

At last she floated to the kitchen entrance and wafted herself to our table with part of the order, which she placed in front of the wrong person.

Then she made her leisurely way back, returned with the other half of the order, and went in search of the drinks.

Ten minutes later she brought one of the drinks, by which time we had finished our cold hamburgers and were chaffing to go.

The last we saw of her, she was hovering beside the cash register with an absent stare aimed clear through the west wall of the cafe and 1,000 miles or so beyond.

Some day she will make a devoted wife and mother, an ornament to any man's house. But I'll bet her husband will come home every night to find that she has burned the dinner or forgotten to put it on the stove. She is just pretty enough that a man wouldn't care about that, for the first ten years or so.

BULKY LAS
An All-Purpose Feed

The grass is still fairly good, and the cows are still milking on it. But remember, the only reason there aren't more farmers in the poor-house, is that the grass season is not long enough! If they aren't fed some dry feed to supplement the grass, they will be taking off any flesh you put on them last winter — a very expensive way to make milk.

Green grass is 85% water; it is stimulating to the cow. But your cows cannot crop off enough grass to get the 15-20 pounds of dry matter each cow requires daily to keep up her body and make the milk. She is stimulated to do with green grass.

Sometimes it is hard to get cows to eat enough grain at this time of the year but COWS WILL EAT BULKY LAS when they won't eat any other kind of feed.

Bulky Las is not a stimulating feed but a flesh-builder; it will help keep the flesh on the cow and let the grass put the milk in the pail.

Feed BULKY LAS now to your cows, and add it to your grass silage for a preservative and a flesh-holder.

Get a supply of BULKY LAS today and start saving two ways. We deliver.

Many Friends Mourn Death of Mrs. Geo. F. Calder

The funeral of the late Mrs. George F. Calder, who died at her summer home at 16 Island Lake on Wednesday, July 4, was held on Saturday in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church. The Rev. James Armour, assisted by Dr. Harold Reid, conducted the service, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Frank Millar, Roy Fraser, Ross Muir, Albert Nichol, Frank Earle and Edgar Pollock.

Mrs. Calder, the former Amy McOuat, daughter of the late Wm. McOuat and his wife Margaret Macfarlane, was born at Hill Foot in 1900. Having attended Walker's Schoolhouse and Lachute Academy, she went to Montreal, where she took a business course and then worked as secretary for Lever Brothers for three years. Then she entered the Western Division of the Montreal General Hospital as a student nurse. After graduation in 1926 she served on the staff of the Western Hospital until she married George F. Calder of Lachute in 1932.

Active in all phases of community life and first to help in any emergency, Mrs. Calder will be sadly missed. She was an ardent church worker, being past president of both the Ladies' Aid and the Women's Missionary Society. She gave freely of her time and talents to the Red Cross Society and the Cancer Society, and she was a past president of the Lachute Ladies' Curling Club.

She is survived by her husband and two daughters, Marjorie and Georgia, and a brother, Cameron McOuat, of Rochester, N.Y.

"Leaflets Three — Let It Be !"

If a plant has three leaves on each stem — don't go near it, is the advice of the Health League of Canada, as the best way to avoid poison ivy this summer.

This plant looks innocent and attractive, with its glossy dark green leaves, and white berries. Poison ivy grows in almost any soil, and may be found anywhere, particularly on the edges of country roads, close under hedges, in full sunlight, or in shade.

The rash caused by contact with any part of the plant, or even from tiny flecks of oily sap, carried in the smoke from piles of burning poison ivy, can be very serious, causing scarring and hospitalization.

When picking raspberries or wildflowers this summer, be on guard, warns the Health League. If you find that you have been exposed, follow these rules at once:

1. Wash the exposed parts of the body at once with laundry soap and warm water. Rinse several times. Do not scrub.
2. Apply rubbing alcohol liberally to exposed area.
3. Take a complete shower, or tub bath.
4. Dress in clean fresh clothing, and see that clothing which may have been contaminated is cleaned — either by laundering or with a cleaning solvent.
5. If, despite all precautions, a rash appears, consult your doctor at once.

GIFT TO ZOO

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Church Service Held by Bible School Pupils At Shawbridge United

A special service was held at Shawbridge United Church last Sunday by pupils of the Vacation Bible School under the leadership of Miss Ruby Leishman. These children are all under the age of 15 and had only four half-days to learn their parts. Some of the parents attended and must have been impressed by the decorum and reverence shown by their children.

Those taking part were Freddy Moore as announcer of hymns, etc.; Sandra Ancock who read the 121st Psalm and Teddie Fisher the 46th, from which Miss Leishman gave an inspiring message on Refuge; Evelyn Godin and Phyllis Elder, who sang a duet. The offering was taken by Ronnie Selby and T. Fisher, who were also the ushers. R. Moore, R. Selby and Edgar Elliott sang, accompanied by Vivian Strong at the organ; the latter, who is a pupil at Lachute High School, did very well on this instrument, to which she is quite unaccustomed. Other hymns were sung by the class assisted by the choir.

Bible Briefs

Who Was This?

By A.A.M.

The Bible is rich in stories, and the purpose of this series is to encourage readers to look up for themselves the Bible versions of these incidents. If there are children in the family it is suggested that the story, and the Bible verses on which it is based, be read aloud.

What was the name of the King of Judah who started to reign when he was sixteen, and ruled for fifty-two years in Jerusalem but when he became a leper, his son replaced him on the throne?

His reign began well and as long as he sought the Lord he prospered. The Lord helped him in his combat against many enemies — the Philistines, the Arabs and the Moumites. He forced the Ammonites to pay tribute and his fame spread over to Egypt.

He was clever and built many towers, both in Jerusalem and in the wilderness. His armies were well-equipped and well-trained.

But when he was strong, he grew proud, to his destruction. He forced his way into the temple, and went to burn incense, at the altar of the Lord, a duty performed only by the priests.

A courageous priest, Asariah, followed the king with eighty other priests. In the temple Asariah rebuked his ruler and ordered him, "Go out of the Sanctuary, for you have done wrong." The king was holding the censer with smoldering incense in his hand and he was exceedingly angry. The priests looked at the king and behold, he was leprous on his forehead. Then they thrust him out of the temple quickly and he hastened to depart.

Find this King's name and read this story in II Chronicles, Chapter 26, Verses 1-21.

A New Theory Of Longevity

It is a great many years since Sir William Osler coined the phrase "a man is as old as his arteries." The implication was that chronological age and arterial age are not the same thing. Whatever may be a man's years he is young if his arteries are young. The question to answer is "What ages man's arteries?" The answer is important because if his arteries are still young, man may in terms of years live to be as old as Methuselah.

According to the Saint John Telegraph-Journal, Dr. Hardin Jones of the University of California states that middle aged people today are about four years younger physically and have anywhere from five to twenty more years of productive early middle life than those of half a century ago. This, says Dr. Jones, may warrant some thinking about raising the retirement age for individuals whose minds and bodies are younger than their actual age would indicate.

Woven into his findings is a new theory of the cause of aging that it is the result of impairment of metabolism by the usual diseases and the cumulative effect of countless little ailments that chip away at the body's defenses in the course of a lifetime.

In Finland, for example, with a high childhood disease rate went the shortest average life span — fifty-four years — in Europe. It might be supopsed that in Finland fewer people would live long enough to develop and die of cancer. Yet Finland had a cancer death rate more than twice as high as Norway and Sweden, whose populations have a life expectancy of sixty-eight years.

This contradicts experience in other countries where longer life seems to result in more deaths from cancer. Nevertheless, Dr. Jones' reasoning in general seems to be sound.

The statement by Dr. Hardin Jones as quoted above, reminds one of an assertion made by Dr. Alexis Carrell of the Rockefeller Institute, in connection with his famous experiment, in which a chicken heart in sterile Sellers solution, was kept beating for twenty-five years, a length of time many times longer than the life span of chickens. Dr. Carrell concluded from this experiment that if the human cell could be kept free from infection, man might well be immortal.

In the life time of most people living today, many of the great disease scourges of humanity have been conquered. Tuberculosis, syphilis, typhoid and diphtheria are examples of diseases which have almost disappeared in many parts of the world. Others such as malaria and yellow fever may easily follow soon. Infantile mortality resulting largely from infection, is controllable.

Is it unlikely that victory over disease in the younger years of life may well make the human body stronger and more able to resist the ravages of time. The lesson is that every success in every field of preventive medicine adds to the possibility of longer, fuller, more efficient life and a more efficient society. Surely it is the duty of every citizen to contribute by word and deed to the success of a campaign for health which to succeed should be continuous and universal.

— Dr. Gordon Bates

IN MEMORIAM — for a loving Grandad, who passed away July 7, 1955. — With fond memory, Clara Rainey.

"You cannot say, you must not say,
That he is dead, he is just away!
With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand,
He wandered into an unknown land
And left us dreaming how very fair,
It needs must be, since he lingers there;
So think of him faring on, as dear
In the love of there as the love of here,
Think of him still as the same, and say
'He is not dead, he is just away'."

TRAIL RIDERS HOLIDAY IN ROCKIES: The majestic beauty of snow-capped mountain peaks . . . the exhilaration of camping in the Canadian Rockies . . . the panorama of azure blue lakes and the alpine scenery — all this awaits the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies. This summer, the organization's mountain holiday includes a five-day ride, from July 13 to July 17, and a six-day ride from July 20 to July 25. Opportunities for photography, fishing, trail riding and nature study are plentiful during the day's excursions. In the evenings, singsongs and other campfire entertainment are restful and relaxing preludes to a night's sleep under the stars. In the upper left photo is a Trail Rider base camp, set at the foot of a towering mountain. Upper right shows a Trail Rider admiring the wonderful alpine scenery of the Rockies. Saddling up in the crisp, cool morning air in preparation for the ride is a pleasant beginning to a wonderful holiday. (C.P.R. photo)

An Old Vietnamese Boatman

This old Vietnamese boatman is one of the crew of a sampan used to transport the members of a UN Economic Survey Mission across the Bay of Cam-Ranh. The Mission, which arrived recently in Saigon, is scheduled to spend three months in Vietnam advising the Government on how to achieve increased production, full employment and the economic independence of the country. The leader of the 13-man team is Carter Goodrich, Professor of Economics at Columbia University, New York. Six of the experts accompanying him were sent by the United Nations, four by the Food and Agriculture Organization and two by the International Labor Organization.

Ayersville Council

stated he was not aware the town possessed any decorations for this purpose.

It was decided that a ten-day Beautification Campaign be held from August 3 to 13, with a parade through the streets on the opening evening.

It was decided that claims against the municipality for water damage to the properties of Norman McRae and Joseph Quenneville be rejected, the houses in question being lower than the road.

Mayor Paquette then suggested a joint meeting with the Lachute Council, on a date suitable to both bodies, to discuss the common sewer on Hamford Street, and also a proposal to form a "metropolitan commission", which might circumvent any ultimate annexation of Ayersville with Lachute and would deal co-operatively with problems concerning Lachute, Ayresville and St. Jerusalem.

Following the discussion of several other items, the meeting was adjourned.

References: In London, Norman White, 29, was sentenced to eight months in prison after police told in city court how he had taken five jobs in three weeks, got himself fired from each within two hours and collected a week's pay by phoning his new employer: "Get rid of that man White; he's a homicidal maniac."

Brownsb'g Council

On the correspondence, the councillors were deeply chagrined at again having to pay $100 as part of a nine-year-old pledge of $1,000 to the University of Montreal.

A letter from Mr. Nat Cohen asking for a reduction of evaluation on his theatre was debated. The decision was quite unanimous. The evaluation is on the building, not the business, and a lack of business doesn't affect it.

A letter was received from the Sicard Company from whom the corporation purchased the snowblower. They recommended several small repairs which, with four days' pay and board, amout to $212. The Council felt that probably no one could make a good job of repairing the snowblower but that company, experts on civic equipment, and Brownsburg should accept their recommendations. (This may very well be true, but it seems that after only 100 hours no repairs should be necessary. If they are, it means that Brownsburg pays $2.12 per hour for the use of a snowblower which cost $15,000. Surely the town should get 400-500 hours between routine check-ups, at $200 a time.)

'Mounties' Ready To Ride Again

The cover of the July issue of the RCMP Quarterly shows the "Tack Room" of the RCMP barracks in Regina. In the walls are the pegs, for the orderly rows of saddles and bridles to be used when the musical ride begins once more, towards the end of this summer. Rich brown leather and glistening brass emphasize the spotless white headropes and the immaculate regimental saddle cloths, or "shabracks".

It's good to know that the musical ride of the RCMP will be renewed. Towards the end of 1953 the announcement was made in Parliament that the ride was to be discontinued. It was explained that first class riders were hard to find, and the training and engagements of the musical ride interfered with regular police duties.

But the ride is not just a show, an entertainment, hardly compatible with the serious reputation of the force. It is quite true that the widened scope and variety of the RCMP's services have made horseback riding something that the average Mountie may rarely need. But there are a number of very practical reasons why riding ("equitation", as it is called) is valuable.

It is part of the physical training program of the force. The old-timers of the RCMP say no other test is as good in detecting courage, or the lack of it, in a recruit. Finally, equitation does much to develop that "esprit de corps" which is so much a part of the RCMP tradition.

Further still, it might be said that the musical ride is not only important to the force itself; it is important to Canada. In the musical ride, Canadian tradition is brilliantly visible.

As a national symbol, the musical ride could not be indefinitely discontinued. At the fair in Belleville, Ontario, from August 13-16, it will appear again. It will be the first time after some two and a half years. But the interval has only deepened appreciation of this disciplined tribute to those qualities of strength, intelligence, perseverance and integrity that carried the law into the wilderness, to make Canada's frontier a line of peace.

Big Family Reunion

Quebec (CP) — One of Canada's most prolific families, the Trudels, gathered in the hillside town of Boischatel near Quebec City July 1 to mark the 300th anniversary of the first Trudel marriage in America. Descendants now number more than 15,000.

Some 5,000 of them collected near a monument erected in 1910 on the land of Jean Trudel who laid the roots of the Trudel family tree here. They romped and ate at a gigantic picnic preceded by a high mass and closed by a pageant picturing highlights of the family history.

The group has its own family publication and it has published a 1,064-page book about the family history.

Now the Trudels want to erect a museum near the monument to place on display historic family mementoes.

IRON-CURTAIN CRASHER

We confess a sneaking respect for one resourceful gentleman who fooled the Commies—albeit by morally dubious means. Seems he would load his hollow aluminum artificial leg with candy, coffee and nylons in West Berlin, then whisk over the border into East Berlin in his motorized wheel chair. He made a neat profit — until the border gendarmes ultimately caught up with him.

More and more businesses — from artificial limbs to shipbuilding — similarly find aluminum a valuable aid to sales and profits. Further major expansion of Alcan's smelters in both Quebec and B.C. is aimed to satisfy the continued increasing demand for the light metal.

For Channel Swim

Jacques Amyot, hefty, blue-eyed veteran of long-distance events in the Quebec area, is scheduled to make the try during the third week of July.

Amyot, an industrial draughtsman in private life, had been training in the cold waters of Lake St. Joseph, north of Quebec and in the St. Lawrence river for the past few weeks.

His trip is financed by Quebec businessmen impressed by his long-distance swims here. The most gruelling of his accomplishments was a 48-mile swim around the Island of Orleans in September last year. With Amyot are his brother Philippe, his trainer Joseph Lachance and another swimmer, Raymond Roy.

PENNANT CHASERS

Baseball legend says the teams leading the major league pennant races after July 4 games are favorites to cop the flags. That may be okay for the American league this year — the Yankees were nicely ahead — but it's hard figuring in the National League.

While the Yanks had a 3½-game lead on July 5, a mere 11 percentage points separated the top three teams in the National. Milwaukee and Cincinnatti were even on games, and the world champion Brooklyn Dodgers were only a half-game behind.

Signs were that Wally Alston's crew has a hard drive ahead in its efforts to retain the National League pennant against competition being offered by the Braves and the Redlegs.

In Ureble, N.Y., a man who lost a bet when he failed to lift a 250-pound weight by his teeth, also lost four front teeth.

Stock Car Racing As A Professional Sport

SPORTS CAMERA
By Ron Andrews,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's newest professional sport — stock car racing — can be as lucrative as any other paying athletic endeavor or can be torn into a heartbreaking experience without a moment's warning.

A slip of the steering wheel or a bump by another car can dash the hopes of the best drivers. On the other hand, a series of wins in the big races can land the car jockeys and their sponsors considerable cash.

Stock car racing got its start in Canada in 1947 — an import sport from the United States. The first race was held on a half-mile track just north of Toronto and about half-a-dozen drivers showed up with battered jalopies for the thrill show.

Within two years, tracks began to spring up throughout Ontario and soon there were racing strips across the country. Today there are about 100 ovals, ranging in size from a quarter-mile to a mile. Each track gets between 40 and 60 cars a meet, and racing dates are held on an average of once a week. Some tracks are able to operate twice a week, depending on the population.

Steady Customers

The largest crowd-drawing track in Canada is at the Canadian National Exhibition grandstand in Toronto. Racing there now is in its fifth season and in each of the first four years, more than 200,000 fans paid their way into the track. An average crowd for a meet is 7,500 persons.

Other tracks average between 1,500 and 5,500 fans. The season begins in April in most areas and ends sometime in October. Each track selects a champion of the year, decided by a point system. Drivers are given points according to their placing in the features. At the end of the season the driver with the most points is declared the champion and receives a cash award, sometimes totalling more than $1,500.

The better cars are valued at $2,500 by their drivers and about $2,000 of that amount is wrapped up in the motor.

Most drivers are directly sponsored by different firms, usually connected with the automobile business, or have a working agreement with a company. Prize money is split between the sponsor and driver. The sponsor carries the financial burden of keeping the car in top running order, hoping that nothing happens to it.

Drivers from the northern United States are frequent visitors to the Canadian tracks and often motor from their own hometown to the track and back again one or two nights a week.

Larocque for Colford's Pitches Perfect Game

Last Sunday, Jean-Guy Larocque pitched a no-hit, no-run ball game for Colford's Lodge against the I.O.U. boys of Montreal. Larocque struck-out 14 and did not walk a single man in this exciting game.

Wilson Black banged out a double in the fourth inning, bringing Larocque home with what proved to be the winning run. Errors on the part of the I.O.U. team enabled Colford's to rack-up two more runs in the fifth to end the scoring. Marcel Chartrand and Vern Poirier played a fine defensive game to assist Larocque with his no-hitter.

Next Sunday, Colford's play host to Laval West, who boast of not having lost a game yet this season. This should turn out to be another thriller, as Colford's are going to be a tough team to defeat.

The Ayers blanket drawing in aid of the local team was held last Sunday and won by Miss Helen Hooper, of Montreal.

Leonard Has Views On British Open

Royal Quebec Golf Club, Boischatel, Que., July 10 (CP) — Stan Leonard today described the British Open as "cold blooded" and said he got a bigger kick out of playing in a caddie tournament years ago in Vancouver than he did from playing in the famed British event.

"The caddie tournament was better run," said the well-known golfer, now playing out of Lachute.

Leonard and Al Balding of Toronto ditched plans for playing in the French Open and passed up their commitment to play on a Commonwealth team against the U.S. Ryder Cup team.

Leonard arrived in Montreal by air last Saturday and Balding the following day. Balding went to his home in Toronto but both will be in the $26,800-Labatt Open Tournament starting Thursday.

Leonard said in an interview he didn't want to be too critical but he felt so many things could have been done to provide better accommodations and facilitate things.

"The British Open is run by the Royal and Ancient and their ideas are antiquated," said Leonard. "They seem to think that what was good enough years ago is good enough today.

"Things have been running the same, I suppose, for 100 years, without any change in ideas. In Canada and the U.S. you will find there are often new committees looking after things for players, spectators, newspaper men and all and that conditions in the same tournament are improved from year to year."

The first golf club in North America was the Royal Montreal, founded in 1873.

Stratford, Ontario, At Festival, Time

The change that comes over Stratford, Ontario, each summer, transforms the sleepy city of 20,000 into a bustling centre of Shakespearean enterprise where all, from the butcher to the bottle-washer, become in a sense patrons of the theatre. When it rains it Stratford, everyone gets wet — both literally and financially.

To find out at first hand what the Shakespearean Festival does to and for the City of Stratford, the CBC asked J. Frank Willis to go and talk to the people who live there. The result, in a program produced by Norman Hollingshead, is "The Festival City," a one-hour documentary to be heard Monday, July 16th, at 9.00 p.m. on the Trans-Canada network.

"What are your views of the festival and how does it affect you?" This is the sort of question Willis asked as he felt for the pulse of the city; he interviewed a taxi-driver, bank president, alderman, chief constable, parks commissioner and a restaurateur. At a plant outside the city he learned about the swords that are forged there for the Shakespearean produetions. He talked also with a painter, a former house painter who has turned his talents to artistic work for the festival.

These are the people who have seen a million-dollar industry based on show business grow up in their city, who welcome 150,000 visitors each summer and who this year will have at their front door a film festival, classical and jazz music concerts and an art exhibition, besides the stage productions.

"The Festival City" includes a visit to the Festival Concert Hall in Stratford while the Elizabethan Singers are rehearsing there.

Mavor Moore, Toronto actor and writer, introduces "The Festival City" with a short appreciation of Stratford from the standpoint of the visitor. He knows the city and its people and in the festival's second season he acted with the Stratford Company.

Along Indian Trails

What was life like in Canada in the days when Indians roamed the countryside and the canoe was the latest mode of travel? Mrs. Martha Kidd got a fairly good idea of what it must have been like recently when she followed a trail of the fur-traders by canoe with her husband, Kenneth E. Kidd, curator of the Royal Ontario Museum. In a series of three talks on Trans-Canada Matinee (starting this Tuesday afternoon) she will tell about their journey from Fort William to Fort Frances on the Rainy River. By canoe and on foot, Mr. and Mrs. Kidd travelled for more than three weeks, searching for remains of early Indian occupation and other historic relics. She will tell about shooting the rapids on the Bad River, about finding prehistoric rock paintings near Lac la Croix, about travelling through the rugged barrier of lakes, streams, rocks and forests which even today is much the way it has always been, quite untouched by civilization.

Calgary Stampede On CBC Radio

Radio features next week include a microphone visit to the 44th annual Calgary Stampede — on "Canadian Scene" July 15 on Trans-Canada. Stampedes and rodeos are staged in numerous cities and towns all over Canada and the U.S. but the Calgary event is said to be the greatest outdoor show of its kind. Don MacDonald of CBC Winnipeg is there this year to bring back recorded descriptions of such events as the chuckwagon races, the bronk-riding and calf-roping contests and other range-land tests of skill. There is also purebred livestock and the ceremonial dances of the Stony, Sarcee and Blackfoot Indians, which he will describe with the aid of recorded sounds.

Artificial Respiration

A demonstration of artificial respiration techniques and a camera-tour of Alberta with John Fisher will be the main features of the final "Vic Obeck Show" of the season on Wednesday, July 18, at 8 p.m. A good part of the program will be taken up with a review of previous instruction in water safety and a demonstration of the Holger-Neilsen method of artificial respiration, considered an improvement on the older and more familiar Schaefer method. Under the Holger-Neilsen system, the person giving aid kneels at the victim's head, instead of straddling his legs, and combines pressure on the back with manipulation of the arms.

Correction

In the article "Houses On The Move", July 5, the writer, Ethel Kettyle, makes the correction: "The mover anticipates going next to Morrisburg (instead of Williamsburg, as written) to uproot at least a part of the town." . . . The writer regrets this error.

Two CNR Stations Open for Summer

Fun in the Sun . . .

EVERY section of Canada has its summer specialty. In Jasper National Park there are mile-high lakes for ardent anglers. Quebec's Gaspe coast attracts the artist and photographer. Along Maritime shorelines lasses and lobsters are only two of the attractions.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Maintaining the appearance of your car may actually save your life.

There's a national "Get the Dents Out of Your Fenders" committee who recently consulted psychologists and driving authorities on how much pride in your car's appearance influences your driving habits. Their virtually unanimous answer is, "Plenty!"

The pschologists say that disorder and dirt create a sense of chaos which carries over, with unfortunate effect, on one's driving habits. Anyone who is proud of what he owns, instinctively wants to protect it. But if the car is rusty and unrepaired, you'll take more chances because you have "less of a car" to protect.

One venerable police magistrate said that in his years of experience, the motorists usually hauled into the court are those who drive poorly maintained, banged-up vehicles.

The only group that gains from neglected cars is the repair men who end up collecting from three to five times as much money.

In Sherwood Forest

Robin Hood and his merry band, by means of disguise and ruse, effect the rescue of David and allow his brother Guy, who had run away from his job as a book-copyist to gain his freedom in next week's television episode of "Adventures of Robin Hood" (CBMT, July 16). Young viewers will follow Robin Hood and his rogues of the forest in a variety of adventures this summer. To be seen in future weeks are such programs as "The Sheriff's Boots", "Children of Greenwood", "The Vandals and Secret Mission". These programs are being relayed approximately two weeks later on CBOT, Ottawa, and four weeks later on CBHT, Halifax.

Written Specially for The Lachute Watchman

By Oli Daum, Canadian Press Staff Writer

To prospective brides and grooms anticipating a long life of wedded bliss the thought of drawing up a will might be revolting.

But a professor of law at the University of Toronto says this arrangement for the future would be not mercenary but a sign of affection.

Professor Clyde Auld recommends it to ensure that when either of the couple dies his or her bequests are divided as they would have wished. If there is no will, the law handles any assets left behind. He points out that what the law decides may not be what the owner had had in mind.

This seems sound advice for young couples with earthly possessions enough to merit making a will. The professor says engaged couples should list all their possessions and make wills which would become effective the day they marry. In other words where there's a will to provide there's a way.

Quote Statistics

If statistics never lie a British Columbia woman has uncovered the answer for women wishing to justify working outside the home.

Miss E. S. Morley, employment co-ordinator of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, says business would be seriously crippled if women were removed from the field.

They hold 25 per cent of jobs in British Columbia and their basic reason for working is not for a pastime but because of a real necessity to earn a living.

Women hold 96 per cent of stenographical positions and 60 per cent of bank clerking jobs. They also are leading hospital workers, retail store clerks, waitresses, dry-cleaners and factory workers.

Their average age is 37 and one-third are married. There is a demand for women workers betwen 20 and 44 years with specialized skills.

Seafood Salads Have Hot Weather Appeal

Delightful little salads to serve family or guests on a hot day are Harlequin Seafood Moulds. These gay, individual, moulded salads are a two-tone combination of red and white. Their base is a tart, invigorating tomato aspic with crunchy bits of celery added for texture contrast. Their top is a snow-white, velvety smooth mousse which encases chunks of crab or lobster meat. Serve them as the main course dish of luncheon or supper. The home economists of Canada's Department of Fisheries, who supplied the recipe, suggest that they be served with Thousand Island dressing.

Harlequin Seafood Moulds

1 (5 to 6½ oz.) can crab (or lobster), 1 tablespoon gelatin, ¼ cup cold milk, ¼ cup hot milk, 1½ teaspoons grated onion, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup thick cream (whipped); 1 tablespoon gelatin, 1½ cups cold tomato juice, ½ cup hot tomato juice, ½ teaspon salt, ½ cup chopped celery, 2 teaspoons vinegar.

Drain the crab or lobster and break into bite-sized chunks, removing any bits of cartilage lodged in the meat. Soften 1 tablespoon of gelatin in cold milk, then dissolve in hot milk. Beat until foamy. Add the crab or lobster meat, grated onion and salt and mix thoroughly. Fold in the whipped cream. Pour into individual moulds, filling them two-thirds full or use a 6-cup mould. Chill.

While the mousse layer is chilling, prepare the aspic. Soften 1 tablespoon of gelatine in ½ cup of cold tomato juice. Dissolve in ½ cup hot tomato juice. Add the remaining juice and ½ teaspoon of salt and chill. When the aspic begins to set, stir in the chopped celery and vinegar, mixing well. Spoon over the firm mousse and continue to chill until the moulds are firmly set throughout. Makes 6 servings.

Thousand Island Dressing:

To 1 cup of mayonnaise add 2 tablespons chili sauce, 1 tablespoon chopped sweet pickle and 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper. Mix well.

Canned Peaches

Here are suggestions from the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, for using Canned Peaches:

1. Hot broiled, baked or fried peach halves make superb garnishes and accompaniments for all sorts of meat dishes, chicken, turkey, fish, eggs, salads and sandwiches. Before baking or broiling, fill the cavities of the peach halves with jelly or relish, then dot with butter. Those filled with sharp relishes like chutney, chili sauce, catsup or French dressing are especially good with steaks, roasts, salmon or tuna loaf, or croquettes.

2. Combine canned sliced peaches and fresh strawberries to make a refreshing summer dessert.

3. For a dessert salad, chill canned peach halves well. Drain and fill centres with cubed, lime-flavored gelatine. Garnish with fresh strawberries and serve with your best whipped cream dressing. Save syrup from canned peaches to use for gelatine desserts, fruit punch, frozen desserts, and for basting ham or cottage roll.

Modern Teen-Agers: A Witness for Defence

By G. E. Mortimore, "All Aboard" Columnist

He found adolescents to be spoiled, selfish and opinionated, and he urged stronger measures to control them.

His article was not a cool analysis of teen-age behaviour, but a harangue such as an able prosecuting lawyer might aim at a jury.

Mr. Tumpane carefully and deliberately lost his temper, and then stood back waiting for an opponent who would take up the challenge and get mad at him. Battles of words are healthy exercise, good for the circulation.

I feel too tired to get in such a fight, just now. I've been sick. My wife is calling me. I don't want to get my new suit torn. Chiefly, I'm a coward.

All the same, I can't go along with everything Mr. Tumpane says.

He addressed a journalism class and found the students, one and all to be insolent brats.

"These young whippersnappers," Mr. Tumpane said, "were not interested in learning about my work as a columnist on a newspaper. They didn't attempt to find out from me some of the professional problems a columnist encounters. They were not eager to know how a colmunist gathers his material. . . They were interested (only) in attacking my point of view."

Toronto journalism students must be a special breed. Several hundred miles from Toronto, I had the honor to address a group of students who listened courteously while I imparted my meagre store of knowledge. Afterwards they asked a number of questions that were both intelligent and tactful.

Where did Tumpane speak — at at a reform school?

He blames teen-agers for committing crimes, staging school strikes, enjoying strange music and giving adults too much lip. By implication he attaches these faults to all teen-agers and blends their thousands of faces into a composite portrait.

He denounces the "bleeding hearts" who (he says) try to excuse young boors and criminals, rather than punishing them.

He generalizes from too few particulars. The number of criminal teen-agers is small. Elders have wagged their heads over the musical taste of youth ever since the first Neolothic cat beat a hollow log in early rock-and-roll tempo.

Maybe today's youngsters are too lippy. But who made them what they are? Adults did. Human behaviour is caused, whether we like it or not.

Mr. Tumpane may be right about the need for more discipline. He may be right in criticizing the "Professional Teenager" who thinks that his young opinions are of vital importance.

However, like everyone who zealously pleads a case, he goes too far and does injustice to the innocent. We can impose discipline and look for the causes of wrong behavior, both at the same time. One does not exclude the other. We can let youngsters express their views, but we need not accept those views as wisdom.

HOMEMAKER?

Without a doubt the most inappropriate name saddled on our married women folk is the meaningless word "housewife". There is no knowing where the term came from, but in all likelihood it is an importation, and a poor importation at that.

— Pembroke (Ont.) Observer

Fashions

Bell Shape

NO MORE SLIPPING IN BATH

A device to help the infirm and those incapacitated from any physical cause to get in and out of a bath unaided and safely, stands a good chance of appealing to a much wider market than that for which it was designed. A "bath-elevator" is a seat with backrest placed in the water and raised by water pressure. Bather sits on seat, lifts legs into water, pushes lever, and is lowered. Reverse movement of lever returns seat to original position. —Marketing

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Can Your Child Swim?

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

Can your child swim? This is a skill which every Canadian boy and girl should acquire. This water sport is a great source of enjoyment. It is healthy exercise. Children who cannot swim should not go sailing or canoeing, and this is fun which it is hard for them to miss.

Every year in Canada hundreds of Canadians lose their lives in drowning accidents. It has been claimed that only one Canadian in 10 can swim. In this land of lakes and rivers and swimming pools in all our main centres of population, a far larger proportion of Canadians should be swimmers.

Most youngsters are eager to learn to swim. If there is an instruction class in swimming in your community under good auspices, such as the Red Cross or the YMCA, or YWCA, or a service club, do take advantage of this opportunity. Se that your child's attendance at swimming classes is punctual and regular. Show an interest in his progress and express your appreciation to the instructor.

Camp is a wonderful place for children to learn to swim, to make progress in swimming strokes, and to master the latest life-saving techniques. Hundreds of children on this continent learn to be at home in the water during their stay at camp.

Sometimes parents must take on the responsibility of teaching their own children to swim because instruction is not available in a class in their area and they have not been able to send their son or daughter to camp.

If mother or dad, or both parents, can swim, and love the water, their children can quickly learn to swim, if only they will take time to teach them. Plan for a number of "swim trips" on father's half-day or during the week-end. Families who go to summer cottages usually have a definite time for swimming in the late morning or in mid-afternoon each day. Children playing on a beach or in the water must always be watched. The faster they learn to swim well, the less is the danger from drowning.

Praise and encouragement must be expressed by any swimming teacher. Never frighten a child or shame him in your eagerness to have him learn to swim. Fear of the water and timidity will only retard his progress.

He needs to master how to breathe properly in the water. This can be practised by a child holding his breath and putting his face under water in a basin or tub. He can also learn to open his eyes under water.

Teach him to "be a jelly fish" — take a deep breath and clasp both ankles with both hands in the water. To his surprise he will discover as he floats to the surface that his body is buoyant. Once he has gained self-confidence in his ability to stay up, teach him other methods of floating. The old-fashioned "dog-paddle" is still a favorite with beginners. Before long he can acquire other strokes.

The swimming periods should never be so long that a child becomes sick and tired of the whole thing. He must want intensely to learn to swim himself if he is to make a good swimmer. On cool days, avoid your child getting a chill. Swim instruction should be brief except in hot weather. Learning to swim requires persistence and practice, but it should be a happy time for pupil and teacher. He will be so proud when he can swim and this ability will add greatly to the peace of mind of both parents, in vacation time.

We saw a frozen food advertisement the other day which read: "Best meals you ever thaw."

Radioactivity — Problem of Modern War

(Nineteenth in series of 24 articles)

Radioactive particles falling out of the sky in the wake of the nuclear explosion would threaten life in several terrifying ways, but the knowledge to cope with this threat exists.

If left in the open, civil defence officials say, livestock would be contaminated, then milk probably made unfit to drink and meat unfit to eat. Certain forms of radiation, if washed into the ground by rain or melting snow, would render crops unfit for consumption. It could contaminate water supplies.

Livestock and poultry, just as humans, can be protected simply by keeping them in the barn during the estimated 48-hour period when radiation is most dangerous, before it decays and loses its potency. This means provision would have to be made for someone to stay in the barn and feed and water the stock during the entire danger period. A safe place similar to a basement radiation shelter should be built in the barn for this reason.

But what about field crops, farm implements, buildings? They cannot take shelter.

Fortunately, radioactive contamination can be lessened in a number of ways. One of the best is to flush down buildings with water from a hose or a pump. But care must be taken to see that water carried off does not contaminate wells, streams or other sources of drinking water.

On grease-coated machinery, water won't do. Civil defence officials say these implements can be cleaned only with steam. If means for this are not available, there is nothing to do but wait for the radioactivity to decay by itself.

A vacuum cleaner can be used to pick up dry radioactive dust, but the dust in the bag must be destroyed by burying it in the ground.

Contaminated clothing should also be disposed of by burying. In some cases it may be made safe by washing, but civil defence officials advise against using a washing machine.

A bulldozer can be used to clean the surface of the ground and push contaminated materials aside where they can be covered with fresh earth. This method could be used on crops contaminated beyond safe use.

Persons working in an area of contamination, particularly if it is dusty, should wear some protection for the eyes, nose and mouth. Tight-fitting goggles and a respirator — or even a wet cloth covering the nostrils — will help. Cotton coveralls, cotton or canvas bootees taped around the trouser leg, gloves and a tight-fitting head covering like a surgeon's cap are useful. Afterwards, this clothing should be destroyed.

Personal decontamination is simply a matter of washing. This means scrubbing the whole body with soap and water. If the hair is oily, it may require several washings.

The greatest danger from radiation comes from external exposure, from radioactive particles or dust settling on the body or clothes. Enough of these can destroy any living tissue, particularly in the blood-forming system.

A lesser amount can cause skin burns and other damage to uncovered parts of the body. Clothing, therefore, can provide some measure of protection.

Although a person can become seriously — or even fatally — ill from breathing radioactive dust or eating or drinking contaminated food or water, civil defence authorities say this danger is far less than from direct exposure.

Radiation is not new. Living things have always been exposed to it from natural sources. Cosmic rays from the skies constantly bombard us. There is a small amount of radiation from the luminous dial of a wristwatch, from an X-ray picture being taken.

RCMP MUSICAL RIDE TO BE STAGED IN CANADA, U.S.

The famed musical ride of the RCMP will be seen again in Canada and the U.S. The troop is being trained in Ottawa and it will be the first staging of the ride since 1953 when it was seen during the coronation of the Queen. It was discontinued as the force found it interfered with the training of men for police duty.

In the Ottawa RCMP barracks, Constable Gerald Baker of Edmonton and Constable Huntley Wright of Trail, B.C., attend to their equipment after a practice session. None of the ride's men are permanently detailed to the job.

Far-Reaching Changes Forecast in Canada Laws on Capital Punishment

Ottawa (CP) — The government is expected at the next session of Parliament to propose the most far-reaching changes since Confederation in Canadian laws on capital punishment.

The legislation would be based on a report tabled last week in both houses of Parliament. It urged retention of the death sentence for murder but proposed that convicted slayers be put to death by electrocution or the gas chamber instead of by hanging.

It also suggested abolition of the death penalty for persons 18 or under at the time the murder was committed.

Two-Year Study

Due to the lateness of the current session it is unlikely there will be any parlimentary debate this year on the 15,000-word report, prepared after more than two years of study by the special Commons-Senate committee on capital and corporal punishment and lotteries.

The government, however, is expected to write most, if not all, recommendations into legislation next session.

The committee's recommendation that capital punishment be retained was not unanimous. The Canadian Press learned that the committee voted 20 to 8 to retain the death penalty for murder.

And after the committee's report was made public, committee member Harold Winch, CCF Commons representative for Vancouver East, said in an interview that most members of the committee went against their personal beliefs in voting for the death penalty.

Public Opinion Considered

He said members who opposed abolition were convinced that their personal beliefs are not supported by public opinion. They felt they could not move ahead of public opinion. Mr. Winch said he is convinced, however, that the committee's report is not based on evidence it received during the two years it studied capital punishment.

"It is based on what may or may not be a correct conclusion that we should not make recommendations ahead of what the majority considers to be public opinion."

Record and evidence received by the committee showed public opinion supports abolition of the death penalty, he said. An advocate of abolition himself, he said he is happy about two things: The committee recommended abolition of hanging and members "salved their conscience by recommending a review of the death penalty within 10 years."

Members of the committee opposed to capital punishment were unable to submit a minority report later on its studies into corporal punishment and lotteries.

Abolish Punishment

Informed sources said it has agreed that Canada should abolish corporal punishment — whipping and strapping — as part of a prison sentence. The committee has not yet discussed lotteries.

The committee said capital punishment should be retained because it is a deterrent to murder, restrains criminals from using violence and protects police.

In support of electrocution and the gas chamber, the committee said these forms of execution avoid the worst psychological associations connected with hanging and are greater proof against human frailty and error. It had received evidence of "bungled hangings."

One of the main objections to hanging was that so much depends on the personal competence of the hangman. This left a greater margin for error than electrocution or the gas chamber.

A total of 1,380 persons were sentenced to death in Canada for murder from Confederation in 1867 to the end of 1954. Of this number, 682 — 670 men and 12 women — were executed.

CHEMICAL OUTPUT IN 1956 WORTH BILLION

Ottawa (CP) — Canada's chemical's and allied products industries shipped more than $1,000,000,000 worth of products in 1955, the first time the figure was ever topped.

Value of factory shipments increased 12 per cent in 1955 to $1,050,000,000 from $936,000,000 in the preceding year, the bureau of statistics yearly review shows.

Nearly all industries in the chemicals group contributed to the record total with the primary plastics and heavy chemicals industries leading the way with 28.2 and 23.5 per cent increases, respectively.

The rising tempo of economic activity in 1955 was accompanied by a substantial increase in imports and exports of chemicals and allied products.

Imports rose to $260,500,000 from $220,400,000 in 1954 and exports to $210,000,000 from $160,000,000.

DELINQUENTS TOUGHER

St. John's, Nfld. (CP) — Police here say juvenile delinquents between 10 and 12 years old are getting a little tougher to handle. They're not on the increase, a police spokesman says, but their behavior towards the law is getting nastier. He said "the delinquents no longer fear the police. They don't pay any attention to them." They concentrate on damaging parked cars, he says, and "make general niusances of themselves."

TREND IN NEWFOUNDLAND IS TO LARGER CENTRES

Bonavista, Nfld. (CP) — The tiny nearby villages of Safe Harbor and North West Arm are expected to be abandoned by the end of the summer as the few remaining residents prepare to move to larger communities.

Pinchard's Island and Cape Island were deserted in 1954 when their populations moved to Newtown.

The Safe Harbor families plan to move to Hare Bay and the one remaining family in North West Arm will move to Valleyfield.

Centralization has become a trend along the northeast coast as people move to larger places where better schools and public services are available.

War on Weeds Along Railroad Tracks

Chemical warfare on weeds and brush has been declared by Canadian railways. Here we see a special spray train of Chipman Chemicals Limited applying a chemical weedkiller on a stretch of CPR road bed. Brush flanking rights of way is killed with another chemical — a mixture of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T — from powerful, long-range nozzles mounted on top the spray car. Some 12,000 miles of weed-infested track from Newfoundland to British Columbia will be sprayed by 11 "Chipman specials" this summer and more than 1,000,000 gallons of chemical solutions will be used. The spraying replaces the ancient time-consuming and expensive scythe-and-hoe method of weed control.

Pope Reads as His Rest Cure

—Central Press Canadian

Here is a new picture of Pope Pius XII, who, told by his physicians to rest as much as possible, spends considerable time in his vatican library reading religious books sent him from all parts of the world.

OF MANY THINGS

By Ambrose Hills

Be Not Deceived

Bill, Sal and I went on a tour of local beaches over the week-end, the other members of the family having elected to stay home in the backyard and keep cool. We had a spanking new station wagon, with powerglide transmission, and Pop was bursting to try it on the open road.

Pop was feeling pretty proud, tootling along in a string of other shiny, new cars, with proud-as-Punch pops driving them. Pretty prosperous countryside, Manitoba is, on a week-end, with fine-looking cars and substantial farms.

So Pop was in an expansive mood. Then we passed a highway sign and he heard his son, Bill, read it aloud. It had been placed there by some religious group, and it read: "BE NOT DECEIVED . . . GOD IS NOT MOCKED!"

Sal asked: "What does it mean, Dad . . . God is not mocked?"

"Don't be a dunce," Bill told her. "It means He isn't fooled. He knows what goes on."

"What if He does?" Sal asked. "And I'm not a dunce!" She grinned at me. "Am I a dunce, Dad?"

Just then a bush rabbit broke out from a clump of wolf willow, and their attention was diverted. So I never did have to get around to explaining the sign or its meaning.

But all day, and ever since, I've been wondering just what a really smart father would have been able to do with the opportunity. I was still able to enjoy the station wagon — probably more than before. It was still fun to play on the sand at Gull Lake, and get beaten in a race by both Bill and Sal in the water. And to drive on up to Grand Beach for hot dogs and soft drinks, and swim at still another Manitoba lake on the way home that evening.

I was no longer deceived. I didn't own the sand or the lakes or even the station wagon . . . didn't even know how the power transmission worked! All those things — the fun and the joy of a wonderful Western week-end were mine only in trust. The laughter and good humor of my youngsters, the rest of the family running to meet us when we got home that night, the whole assorted splendor of having a home and raising a family in a land where even a dummox like me can some day own his own car with some of the trimmings. Thank God for it! But be not deceived! He is not mocked!

He knows that all the things we really cherish come to us only in trust for HIM! He still rules the world! We should be reminded of it more often.

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE

The Giant Foe

One of the most striking achievements of modern medicine has been its success in routing tuberculosis.

This story is well-documented with statistics. In the United States alone, for example, the disease has plummeted from a first-ranking cause of death to tenth place, leaving hospital after hospital emptied of its victims.

Most TB specialists credit this drop primarily to the new anti-tuberculosis drugs developed towards the end of World War II, for the period in which these drugs have been available has encompassed the most rapid decline in tuberculosis mortality the world has ever seen.

The drug streptomycin marks the starting point of this chemical attack on the disease. Recently, the first human patient treated with the drug was re-visited, and a "before and after" report was made in the American Review of Tuberculosis and Pulmonary Disease.

The patient, a 21-year-old girl suffering from advanced tuberculosis, was given streptomycin in 1944. Now married, she is "the mother of three robust children who were born in 1950, 1952 and 1954 respectively," the report states.

This happy ending of an apparently hopeless case has been duplicated thousands of times since the TB wonder drugs were first developed.

Sunburn Rated As Seasonal Menace

Toronto — "A severe sunburn may be just as serious as a fairly serious burn by oil or fire," stated Dr. Gordon Bates, General Director of the Health League of Canada.

Sunburn is cited as being the greatest single cause of disability in industry during the summer months.

A severe burn should be avoided at all costs, said Dr. Bates. An even tan looks becoming, and may be beneficial, but this should be obtained gradually in order to reap the full benefits of the action of the sun's rays.

The actinic rays of the sun are those which produce the rickets-preventing vitamin D, when they act upon the waxy substance called cholesterol, which is always present in the skin.

An even tan may be obtained easily and comfortably by exposure to strong sunlight in graduating doses. Exposure the first day should be limited to a few minutes, and that time doubled the next day, and so on, until a protective tan is arrived at. Be particularly careful when sunning yourself near water, for the added reflection from the surface of the water results in an intensified glare.

These basic rules may only be broken if one of the proven preparations for preventing sunburn is used. Even these preparations should not be relied upon completely, to the extent of lying in the sun for a whole day, for instance, for the first time. The sun can be friend or foe in the summertime — it all depends upon moderation and in being sensible.

URANIUM EXPLORATION LESSENING

Ottawa (CP) —

Canadians are losing interest in exploring for uranium.

William J. Bennett, President of the Crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited, told the Commons Research Committee that interest has fallen off considerably in the last year.

He also told the Committee that danger of radioactive contamination will block an early use of atomic reactors to propel commercial ships, aircraft and land vehicles.

Mr. Bennett said there are two main reasons for the decrease in the hunt for the atomic metal:

1. The government's decision not to accept deliveries of uranium from mines with special price contracts beyond March 31, 1962.

2. Evidence that the civilian demand for uranium is unlikely to be of great magnitude up to 1963 and possibly 1970.

"Long Live The Horse!"

(Contributed)

Now that our Exhibition is over and the young folks have all the wonderful memories of the fine horses and ponies in their minds, the next best thing to riding or driving horses and ponies is reading about them. Just watching horses is a mixed pleasure, because nostalgia or envy may dim the enjoyment, but in books we can resume our companionship with the horse undisturbed by the regret that today, alas, he is no longer the partner of many people's daily round. He exists now, in this country at least, almost solely for our pleasure, and therefore, if one wants to get that rich variety of the world of horses, one must read about them.

We meet the horse in poems, novels, biographies, diaries and letters of every age and all nations, and we discover that for centuries the horse has played a vital part in the life of man. Our agriculture, our transport and our wars have all depended on his willing service. We find kings writing of his valour in battle, travellers of his endurance on the road, and yeoman of his strength in the plough. Dutiful wives report distressing news of the stable to absent husband; fathers dictate to their sons on equitation; generals laud their cavalry; coachmen deplore their teams; and even politicians are interested about their hunters.

We are now living in the atomic age when logically speaking, the "genus equins" should be obsolete. Nevertheless, each month brings forth its spate of books and magazines on equine subjects. The popularity of horse events with public and press is outstanding, and never have the joys of riding been more in demand by youth. The horse still holds a proud and active place in the modern world. This anthology, showing him in his many roles through the ages against a background of history, travel, sport and everyday life, may explain why, for some of us, he is part of our very being and why, for others more mechanically minded, he still has the power to rouse admiration and enthusiasm; and though it is over half a century since Florence Nightingale wrote the words "Long Live the Horse", we may understand why they are echoed even today by people all over the world. The heritage of thousands of years is not easily destroyed.

So all young horse lovers remember, there is plenty of good reading available!

Wal-Ken Farms, Lachute.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT

It is true of every community — there are a few who have the interest of the community at heart, and strive to make it a better place in which to live. Organizations are formed for this purpose, but even in those organizations the great bulk of the work is left to a few willing horses who give their time "to put things over."

AUTHORS IN NOVA SCOTIA

By JANET POLLOCK GRAHAM

The well known Barnards (Leslie and his wife Margaret) who frequently collaborate in story writing, gave a talk on that subject, and by way of illustration explained how their latest story in Canadian Home Journal came to be written. They were spending their last day at a Nova Scotian beach and began thinking how it would feel to be young lovers spending their last day there; they jotted down scraps of conversation which the young people could have uttered. They took home their notes and filled in the open spaces, as it were, compared notes, and with some corrections sent it on to The Journal. And the day before Christmas they had the Journal wire them one thousand dollars for this, shall we say "child of their beach leave-taking thoughts." The Barnards are very partial to Nova Scotia, although Mrs. Barnard was a native of the Ontario Lakes district — a lake which is so encroaching on the mainland now, that Mr. Barnard has been heard to say that "the apple tree which his wife sat under with nobody else but me" is now under ten feet of water. . . In concluding their talk Mr. Barnard said, "Nova Scotia has done much for us."

Among the pithy sayings of Ralph Allan was this gem: "Say what you have to say and say it well; but first make sure that it is worth saying."

Mr. Neil Bennett, in speaking of the misquoting of writings, said he was once quoted as saying that the Maoris of New Zealand spoke Gaelic, when all he had said was 100 years ago they knew of it because of a Scotsman by the name of Macdonald, who emigrated to Australia to live.

Dr. Fergusson claimed Nova Scotia as being the cornerstone of Canada — the cradle of the British Government overseas — the home of the first printing press in Canada; also the first newspaper in Canada was issued in this corner of the New World. He termed authors as "a Royal priesthood of letters."

As well as having an intellectual feast, we were treated to feasts for the body. Among the entertainments given the authors was a luncheon at the Lord Nelson Hotel, tendered by the Imperial Oil, when young Max Ferguson, whom we hear as "Rawhide" over the radio, amused us by recounting some of his impersonations of celebrated persons which he had given over the radio from time to time, leading listeners believe that they were listening to the actual persons themselves. One of his own personal experiences at the beginning of his program as "Rawhide" rather embarrassed him. A dear, elderly lady wrote him that she loved his programs so much that she felt that he was just the right person for her to spend the twilight years of her life with, and begged the privilege to do just that — in other words become Mrs. Rawhide. What a surprise was in store for her when, reading his reply, she was informed at that time he was only 22 years old.

The Nova Scotia Poetry Centre entertained at tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hart, at Hubbards, on the return trip from Peggy's Cove, to which we had been conveyed in private cars. "The Hub", a small country theatre, placed their theatre at our disposal so that we might listen to an instructive talk by Mr. Leo Cox, editor of The Potery Magazine.

On Wednesday we spent almost the entire day motoring in private cars, first to Uniacke House in the Annapolis Valley, which as well as being the abode of some of the surviving members of the Uniacke family, is partly a lovely old museum-piece, with even a barrel churn in the basement. Then to luncheon at Acadia University in the Students' Union Building, where amid many speeches, the presentation of the Western University Medals, the Ryerson Press Fiction Award, and Beta Sigma Phi Prize, were made by Dr. Watson Kirkconnell, president of the University.

This was followed by a drive to the "Land of Evangeline", visiting the beach before driving back to Windsor and the home of the late Judge Haliburton, the author of Sam Slick, and viewing the old furniture which it once possessed; gathered from many corners. We were here treated to tea by the young members of the I.O.D.E., who served us so graciously.

During the evening session, Lionel Shapiro, winner of the fiction prize for the book "The Sixth of June", told us what writers needed, and Madame de Gouvermont of Montreal also told of her experiences on television.

We also had an interesting visit to the Citadel Hill Museum, when we drove over the rather narrow roads in a bus at the town's expense and had such a wonderful view of the harbour, and the new harbour bridge which has been rebuilt for the third time, in spite of the ancient Indian warning that "it too will go, and many with it." Tea later by a personal-card invitation from Government House, the abode of Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Alistair Fraser, and the final dinner at the Nova Scotian Hotel tendered by the Province of Nova Scotia, with presentations by the Hon. Alistair Fraser of the remaining prizes, which were Governor-General's Awards, supposedly presented by him, but the honor given to the Lieutenant-Governor instead, who had a desire for the task.

The toast to Nova Scotia was given by J. G. Higgins, Q.C., from Newfoundland, who kept his audience filled with laughter by recounting the many adverse accidents he had experienced in going about from place to place. So many that he began to wonder if the Good Lord was taking out the punishment on him for the people of Newfoundland joining up with the Dominion of Canada! His speech, and the equally clever reply from the Hon. R. M. Fielding, Minister of Education for Nova Scotia, made a very full after-dinner program and everyone departed for their various quarters feeling that "it had been good to be there."

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. Who is the final authority as to the suitability of employment offered to a claimant for unemployment insurance benefits?

A. The final authority is the Umpire. In the first instance the decision is made by the insurance officer who adjudicates the claim. The claimant may appeal to a board of referees, and a further appeal, in certain circumstances, may be made to the Umpire. He is a judge appointed under the Act to hear such appeals, and his decision is final.

Q. When a man hires a carpenter to do work around his own home, how does he go about getting contributions for him?

A. If the carpenter is working on his own account such work is not insurable. Even if he is working as an employee of the householder, such work is not insurable unless it lasts for more than six days in a period of thirty consecutive days. If it does exceed six days the householder, if he is not registered as an employer, may obtain unemployment insurance stamps by giving the postmaster a written statement showing the insurance number of the employed person. Stamps should then be placed in the employee's insurance book for each week in which work was done including the week (or weeks) in which the first six days of work were done.

Later in the evening, however, young Champagne pointed out the spot where he thought his cousin had disappeared. It was in this immediate vicinity that the body was recovered when dragging operations were resumed Tuesday morning.

Loan By-law Referendum to Finance Sewers, Water and Landfill Machine

$215,899 for Quebec Experimental Farms

Ottawa — The Federal Government is spending $215,899 for equipment and construction this year on six of its experimental agricultural stations in Quebec.

Improvements to experimental agricultural stations across Canada total $2,122,000.

Expenditures in Quebec are as follows: Lennoxville, $77,794; Ste. Anne de la Pocatiere, $68,775; L'Assomption, $40,020; Ste. Clothilde, $15,930; Caplan, $4,690; Normandin, $8,690.

A special meeting of Lachute Town Council was held Monday evening for the purpose of discussing the waterworks and sewer projects on the McGibbon subdivision, and other municipal works; also machinery and the municipal dump project; and the Corporation's finances relative to these two projects.

Pro-mayor Judes E. Charlebois was replaced by Ald. Romain Desjardins in the absence of Mayor Dr. F. Walter FitzGerald. Ald. Dr. Roger Lavigne was also absent from the meeting.

Gerald White, representing the firm of Chas. Cusson Ltd., Montreal, presented information to the Council on the demonstration of the Sanitary Landfill operation which has been in progress at the garbage dump at no cost or obligation to the town.

All councillors present voiced their approval of this operation, which, it was felt, will solve for the immediate future the contentious problem of the dump. It was pointed out, however, that a loan by-law would have to be approved before the purchase of such a machine could be made.

It was moved by Ald. Alcidas Laurin, seconded by Ald. H. S. Church, that the Council is presently in favor of the purchase of the Drott Bulliclam machine used for sanitary landfill operations, at a price of $12,000 plus tax, but that a loan by-law now being prepared must be approved before any fixed transaction be made. The motion passed on a unanimous vote.

Ald. Mozart Carrière gave notice of motion that, at the next regular meeting, he will present for adoption a by-law, numbered 202, concerning:

1. Waterworks, sewers and roadwork, renovations at the municipal dump, and the purchase of machinery;
2. A loan by bonds not exceeding $100,000, for a period not to exceed 20 years, to pay for the works and purchases outlined in paragraph one, and which will be given in detail in the by-law;
3. To levy sufficient taxes to cover capital and interests of said loan, taxes to be levied on all immovable real estate situated in the town.

The meeting was then adjourned.

Change of Scene — Now Sanitary Landfill

This picture, of no outstanding scenic beauty, shows the result of the Drott Bulliclam method of sanitary fill, which for the past several weeks has been converting Lachute's smoking, rat-infested dump into the orderly scene which is now in evidence. A gully, formerly located in the foreground above, has now been drained, filled with refuse pushed down from the side, and covered with earth. The machine, on loan to the corporation by Chas. Cusson Limited, Montreal, can be seen in operation in the centre of the picture.

Dr. Wm. McClure, Native of Lachute, Noted Centenarian Medical Missionary, Ends Useful and Distinguished Span

Dr. William McClure, Presbyterian medical missionary in China for more than half a century, died at his home in Toronto Monday at the age of 100.

Distinguished for his pioneer medical work in Honan province, northern China, Dr. McClure was one of Canada's best-known missionaries. His son, Dr. R. B. McClure, also made important contributions to medicine in China before the Communists took control. He is now a missionary in India.

The elder Dr. McClure was born here in Lachute on April 9, 1856. He entered McGill University in 1875 and graduated in arts in 1879 and in medicine in 1884. He was superintendent of the Montreal General Hospital for three years before embarking for China.

In 1888, the Presbyterian Church in Canada began missionary work in North China and Dr. McClure was chosen as a member of a small pioneer group sent out that year. The area allotted to the mission was the northern portion of Honan where the group met much initial opposition.

After study of the language for several months in Shantung, Dr. McClure established a small dispensary and began training Chinese assistants. He fled to Honan when the Boxer Rebellion began in 1900.

Returning to Honan after the rebellion, Dr. McClure was in charge of the Mission Hospital at Weihwei for about 15 years.

In 1916, the Canadian Presbyterian Mission entered into co-operative work with other groups in Shantung Christian University in Tsinan, Capital of Shantung Province. Dr. McClure was invited to become professor of medicine, where he served for more than 20 years. Although he retired from administrative responsibilities much earlier, Dr. McClure still taught morning classes at the university until he was 80.

As his fame spread in China, Dr. McClure's birthdays became traditional fetes. After a particularly tumultuous occasion on his 75th birthday, Dr. McClure arranged to avoid the celebrations the next year — and in the years thereafter — by taking a holiday from the university during his birthday week.

Last April 8 his son flew to Toronto from India for a celebration of the father's 100th birthday.

Dr. McClure's American wife died in 1926. They had two children, Dr. R. B. McClure and Mrs. Leslie Kilborn, who also became a medical missionary in China.

Dr. McClure was the first medical doctor to receive an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from McGill University, which was bestowed in 1936 at a special convocation.

He retired to his Toronto home in 1938 and at the time of his death, was the oldest living graduate of McGill University.

The hunters who made the haul and captured the five whelps are (left to right) Guy Lemay, René Charron, Carmel Charron and Ronald Guay — each seen holding one of the pups, which, by appearance, have a strong suspicion of canine blood in their veins. The 48-pound female and 18-pound male, both of which were shot, have been identified as wolves by Game Warden Fernando Lamarche. The whelps, judged to be about a month old, were discovered in their den.

Another Costly Fire At Hawkesbury

Loss amounting to $20,000 was caused by a fire which recently destroyed the home and business establishment of Armand Rochon, 109 Main Street West, Hawkesbury.

Voluntary firemen led by Chief Albert Cyr fought for two hours to put out the blaze. At one time it was thought that the flames would spread to adjoining buildings and the Bank of Nova Scotia building.

Mr. Rochon, a well-known Hawkesbury merchant, operated a furniture and electrical appliance store. The fire seems to have broken out on the second storey of the building which was used for storing furniture. Exact cause of the fire was unknown. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

Kamloops, B.C. (CP) — Firemen didn't have far to go to put out a fire here. They were backing their trucks into the fire hall when they saw flames shooting from the gas tank.

Business Session Held by Argent'l Forums Council

The Argenteuil Farm Forum Council held a meeting in the County Agronome's office last Monday, July 9 at 8.30 p.m. last week. The meeting was conducted by the president, Ross Oswald, with Margaret Brass in the role of secretary-treasurer. Other members present were Mr. and Mrs. A. Dixon, Messrs. Ernest McOuat, Erskine Rodger, Kenneth Sly and Stuart Armstrong.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted. A report on the executive meeting of the Quebec Farm Radio Forum held at Macdonald College on June 29, was read by Ross Oswald. It was moved that an advertisement for the Macdonald College Farm Day, being held on August 2-3, be published in The Lachute Watchman two weeks ahead of the event. It was also decided that a donation of $75 be sent to Mrs. George McGibbon for the support of the School Fair work; that all copies of minutes of the local meetings be sent to Provincial Office; and that the membership fee be $1.50 per member-family again this year, and the balance of the $5 fee per member be paid by the council to the Provincial Office for the 1956-57 season.

$300 Tree Farm Awards, Power Saw Competition, Equipment Displays Sponsored by C.I.P. Company

Saturday, July 28, at 1.30 p.m. the Harrington Forest Farm of Canadian International Paper Company will again be the scene of a wood suppliers' field day. This event has been extremely well received in the past, and indications are that attendance records at "The Farm" are about to be shattered by this year's turnout.

The program will feature displays and demonstrations of equipment, a power saw competition, Tree Farm awards and a tasty, home-cooked, camp style bean feast.

Wood Suppliers

Invitations have been extended by M. R. "Manny" Wilson, Resident Manager, Grenville Woods Division, to over thirteen hundred wood suppliers. These are the men who furnish the raw material for the Company's Hawkesbury Mill — raw material which ends up as rayon, cellophane, cellulose sponges, tire cord and a myriad of other products.

All of this group of wood suppliers are involved in the production of pulpwood, either as woodlot owners, truckers or woodcutters and as such all have a vital interest in woodlot management techniques and equipment which have an application in their work.

Tree Farm Award

One of the major items of importance on July 28 will be the award of cash prizes totalling three hundred dollars ($300.00) to the three Tree Farmers following the best management practices in their woodlots. This money has been put up by Canadian International Paper Company to stimulate and sustain interest in the Tree Farm Movement and to offer encouragement and public recognition to those Tree Farmers who are doing their utmost to get the maximum production, both in quality and quantity, from their woodlots.

It is interesting to note that in the short space of three years since the first Tree Farm in Canada was dedicated by the Argenteuil Agricultural Society at the Lachute Fair Grounds in May, 1953, that under the continued guidance and interest of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club forty-nine properties, involving fifteen thousand acres, have been certified as Tree Farms in Argenteuil County alone.

Hull Residents Hurt in Mishap

Four Hull residents were treated for injuries received when the driver of their car lost control on a hill on the new highway between Weir and 16 Island Lake. The driver, Aurelien Regimbald, was held for treatment in the Hotel Dieu hospital at St. Jerome, while the other three were released.

According to the investigating traffic officers, Gerard Loyer and Paul Perrier, the accident occurred early Sunday evening when the car took the side of the road, hit a large stone and skidded some 120 feet before coming to a halt.

The injured, Roger Berchlan, Pierre Morris, Claude Frechette and the driver, were all treated by Dr. Leon Dugal prior to their removal to hospital.

Voting in Morin, Acclamations in Wentworth Twp.

A close and heavy vote was recorded in the Morin Heights election Monday, which saw two new councillors elected to office.

Ernest Charbonneau was returned to office in Seat 1, with 191 votes, a majority of 41 over Victor Lefebvre. In Seat 3, Ghislain De-Bassecourt defeated retiring Councillor Edward Greer by a majority of 55, polling 195 ballots as compared to 140 for the defeated candidate.

In Seat 5, Mrs. Laura Nesbitt polled a slight majority of 15 over former Councillor Paul Baumel, 179 to 164. A total of 58 ballots were rejected — according to report received from J. W. Green, secretary-treasurer of the municipality.

The Wentworth municipal secretary-treasurer, Gerard Sauvé, reports that three acclamations decided the possible Council changes in that municipality.

Herbert Graves was re-elected by acclamation for his second term, as was Ulric Charland, of Laurel. Tom Hunter, of Montfort, replaced C. Paradis as councillor.

Gatineau LINES

Half-Way in 1956

There has been wide-spread activity during the first six months of this year toward still further improvement in electric service and extension of it to those who up to now have not had the benefit of its convenience and comfort.

Some of the larger work undertaken includes the erection of new sub-stations, notably at Wyman, Farm Point, Gamelin Blvd., Hull, Pointe-au-Chene, Carillon, and increase in capacities of others at Aylmer, Deschenes, Montebello, Lois Street, Hull, St. Andre and Portage.

New lines are being erected in all divisions of the distribution system, and voltage capacities of existing lines are being increased.

Few of these improvements will be apparent to the public at large, but all work undertaken this year will have a definite bearing in bringing improved service to existing customers and meeting the demands of new customers in rural areas.

Marriage Vows At Morin Hts.

Hurtubise - Lamb

The marriage of Miss Isabel Lamb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter K. Lamb, of Outremont and Morin Heights, to Mr. Lionel Paul Hurtubise, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hurtubise, of Morin Heights, formerly of the Town of Mount Royal, took place on Saturday, July 14, in the Morin Heights Roman Catholic Church. The Rev. Father Forest, of Montreal, officiated. Mrs. George Watchorn played the wedding music. Miss P. Hurtubise and Mr. J. Corbeil were the soloists. Pale pink and white peonies were used as decorations in the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white embroidered crystalette over taffeta, fashioned with a scoop neckline embroidered with mother-of-pearl sequins and pearls, with a full skirt, and sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet of mother-of-pearl sequins and pearls and she carried a bouquet of orchids and feathered carnations.

Miss Margaret Lamb, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Pauline Hurtubise, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Betty Nangreaves, were bridesmaids. They wore crystalette ballerina-length gowns fashioned on Princess lines with tulle mittens, and mohair and tulle picture hats to match — the maid of honor being in coral and the bridesmaids in turquoise blue. They carried semi-cascade bouquets of white carnations.

Mr. Paul Hurtubise acted as best man for his son, and the ushers were Mr. Pierre Asselin, Mr. Ivan Ryan and Mr. Keith Lebrun, all of Montreal.

The Economy of Using the Best

The economy of using the best possible materials is made apparent in the upkeep problem. A house or business building may be "thrown together" with cheap material, and it may "look all right", but after it has stood the shock of weather, the real test comes.

It is false economy to use poor materials — and we so advise everyone who buys from us. Our success is due to honesty in materials and prices.

Water Safety

A DROWNING occurred in the North River at Lachute this week. There will be drowning fatalities every week, everywhere, so long as humans satisfy their natural instinct to swim, to fish and otherwise enjoy themselves in Canada's God-given waters.

But we do not accept despairingly the idea that disaster is inevitable. There are signs on every hand that Water Safety education is gaining ground. It is gratifying, for instance, that today so many youngsters can swim — how great an increase over the previous generation, we have no means of telling, but the increase is apparent.

There is room for less bravado and greater caution in motor boats; but even in this sport, propaganda is making itself felt and there is a steadily growing consciousness for safety and courtesy to others.

A hopeful outlook is prompted by our personal observations at the lakeshores: boys and girls allowed in boats, both with adults and unaccompanied, appear to be wearing lifejackets as a general practice. The fact has been forcibly evident over the past two seasons, and we believe it indicates a general trend, a changing attitude.

We all can foster this advance in sanity — by imposing discipline in our own family spheres; by expressing our views; by influencing those who unconsciously or knowingly court disaster; and by educating the young-fry in the ways of safety.

Beauty and Brains

THE ERA of the dumb blonde appears to be dying, if it's not already dead.

Dumb blonde, of course, doesn't refer only to girls with fair hair. It is meant to cover a whole class of young ladies who in the past gained reputations for being physically attractive but none too bright mentally.

Well, they've had it. And evidence of the changing fashion may be found in the modern-day beauty contest.

It wasn't too long ago that the contestants in such pageants paraded past the judges in bathing suits, smiled brightly and were rated for beauty alone.

Times have changed. Beauty contests have become business-like affairs in which a girl has to have more than a pretty face and classic dimensions to get her shapely leg in the door.

She has to have talent. She must display confidence and be personable and poised.

These stringent requirements seem to be breeding a more competent type of contestant. In the larger contests attractive prizes are offered such as a scholarship or a wardrobe, plus cash and the further opportunity to earn money by endorsing commercial products.

The new attitude seems to be reflected in a more serious approach to beauty contests. For instance, at the recent Miss Canada pageant in Hamilton, a rousing argument blew up after one girl told a reporter she didn't think much of the intelligence of Canadian girls. She was from Europe.

To the casual reader, the incident might appear more humorous than serious, but those involved managed to get pretty angry.

Another indication of the evolution of the dumb blonde comes from New York where two of the most celebrated representatives of the sect have built new reputations.

One is Marilyn Monroe. She married one of Broadway's most intelligent playwrights, Arthur Miller, and is to play opposite one of the world's finest actors, Sir Lawrence Olivier.

Columnists, impressed by her ability to get publicity, have taken to calling her pointedly: "That smart blonde."

SINCE bottles of one sort or another seem to be the inevitable accompaniment of motorists, there should be some special container as part of standard car equipment to take care of this accumulating debris — says the High River (Alta.) Times.

THERE SEEMS to be at present a growing trend among Canadians to follow the regrettable American custom of holding business meetings and conventions on Sundays. Apparently businessmen in the two countries deem their pursuit of material wealth more important than providing nurture for their spirits — observes the Altona (Man.) Red River Valley Echo.

Farming in the Future

IF ALL the experiments now being conducted by agricultural scientists in Canada and the U.S. proved successful, what would farming of tomorrow be like? Some scientists have come up with the following answers:

First, the farmer would know far more about his land and its capacity to produce than he knows today. Crop and livestock producers will be able to control both yields and quality in a way now known only in the laboratory.

The future farmer would be able to judge each improved practice in terms of what it would pay him at the end of the year. He would know the difference in returns from one variety over another, or one level of fertilization over another.

All farming operations, from seed-bed preparation through harvest, will be done by machines. But there would probably be less machinery in the fields than today. Seed germination will be vastly improved, so that growers could plant with assurance that there will be no need to re-plant.

New chemicals with high selectivity will have been developed for pest control. Plants will be tailored to fit advanced farm practices. For example, newly-designed corn plants with short stalks and uniform ears at uniform height, would be easier to harvest and would produce more.

More will be known about how plants grow, the role of light, and the influence of high and low temperatures on their growth. Plants may then be bred to take full advantage of natural soils and climate. The farmer will accurately measure the fertilizer and water needs for his crops. This will enable him to predict yields with much greater accuracy; thus he could adjust the rate of application to a cost that would be profitable under existing farm prices.

Powerful new tools for changing plant characteristics — the production of mutations — have been found. The most recent experiments involve nuclear irradiation. A more efficient use of rainfall will be made. Foreseen are new chemicals which would enable a farmer to spray his fields and seal in the moisture.

There are many other new developments on the books for the farm of tomorrow. Meanwhile, our farmers have many proven scientific methods to adopt and put in practice today.

Urbanization and Farm Markets

UP TO ONLY a few years ago, Canada had to have a big export of beef cattle in order to keep the domestic market healthy. Now we are producing more beef than ever before, but we are eating all of its ourselves — comments The Financial Post. Cattle are coming on the Canadian markets at the rate of around 33,000 a week and Canadians are consuming them all. Before the war, whenever the weekly run approached the 20,000 mark, or less than two-thirds of today, prices began to sag.

There are two reasons why we are eating more beef — more prosperity and more people.

With moderate prices people are eating beef freely and regularly, not just occasionally. But more important is the fact that we have more people, almost 16 millions compared with less than 12 millions pre-war. That increase has largely been in urban population, in food consumers not food producers.

It is that growth in population, that growth in the domestic market, that is solving many of our former marketing problems. And population growth will continue to solve these problems provided we are sensible and let prices and production follow their natural courses.

Aside from wheat, in which Canada is a major world producer, practically everything the farmer will be growing 25 years from now will be absorbed by the domestic market.

OVER THE YEARS the Soviet parliament has been little more than a rubber-stamp body. The only time there was any debate was on the budget. Last week, however, its members spoke up for the first time on actual legislation, offering amendments to an old-age pension bill, some of which were adopted. Western observers saw the apparent new freedom to criticize as the first stage of a program of widening parliamentary rights in line with Soviet "democratization" program following the renunciation of Stalin.

"A la carte !"

As we set about devouring some very soggy cereal — (in this weather even the Rice Crispies only go Ugh, Splutter, Slush) — Miss M. brought us up to date on her latest brainwave.

"Since we seem to be stuck with rain as a steady diet," she began, "indoor games are the order of the day. Luckily, we are well supplied and can add to the fun if we have to! But what the girls like most of all are penny fairs, tombolas, bazaars and the like. Well, today might be ideal for a bazaar. If the rain holds off, we can run the thing outside and if it looks threatening, we can always move into the recreation hall."

"Since it's doubtful whether we'll have swimming, owing to the cold, I propose that we start the bazaar immediately after rest hour. Each counsellor will run a booth of some sort and we'll give the kiddies numbered tickets to spend at the booths. It will be very much like a tombola."

Miss M. went into a huddle with the program director at this point, so the boating director and the nurse took advantage of the lull in conversation to point out that all this sounded like trouble.

"Do you remember the tombola they had last year? I vowed then I'd never attend another and if this is going to be anything like last year's fracas, then I'm going home."

"How?" said boating.

"We could have a Backwards Day!"

"Oh no! Not that! Anything but that!"

"All right," said the nurse, "we'll wait and see what happens. But I warn you, look out for some sort of mix-up. It's never failed yet, and I don't see why this show should be any exception to the rule."

The bazaar opened at three o'clock under threatening skies. As the weather had been sunny when lunch finished, Miss M. decreed it should be held outdoors. The kids had worked quite hard and things looked quite attractive. The country store was particularly effective as the counsellor in charge had been able to secure, with Miss M's assistance, most of the canned goods from the kitchen, for use as decoration. They weren't selling anything bar the usual tuck shop items, of course, but the canned goods made a nice display.

The boating director and I were just entering the fortune teller's tent when the skies opened. If we'd been hit with a couple of buckets of water we couldn't have become wetter. And by the time we reached the recreation hall, only a few steps away, we were soaked to the skin. Needless to say, the booths broke up in wild disorder and both shoppers and operators fled for cover leaving their saleable articles to the mercies of the storm.

By the time supper rolled around, Miss M. was a beaten woman. She looked haggard and drawn and lacked the sparkling enthusiasm with which she had graced the breakfast table.

"I haven't the foggiest idea what you're getting for supper," she moaned, as the kids finished singing Grace. "Unfortunately, the rain washed every last label off the tinned goods and we have no idea what product is inside what tin. I can only suggest that you open up the tins on the table and we'll make the best of what we find inside."

It was a cold and cheerless supper we ate this evening. I fared reasonably well on cold green pea soup and a tin of apple sauce. But I did feel sorry for the boating director. He got a tin of replenisher for the fire extinguisher, thinking it was corned beef. For dessert, he uncovered a tin of fish-flavored cat food.

Swimming and boating are two summer activities enjoyed by young and old alike. The Canadian Red Cross earnestly requests that you respect the water. Obey the safety rules.

With G. E. Mortimore

Yachts and warships that break into the news are always described as "sleek". A committee goes through the entries in a yacht race with care, and all the tousled and knobbly yachts are weeded out. People who live far from the lake or sea may not believe this, but I can assure them it is true.

I mentioned to a friend, that reporters covering a recent yacht race had kept up the standards very well." Not a shaggy yacht in the bunch," I commented proudly. "Its getting monotonous though," said my friend. "I look forward to a race in the future which will be won by the gangling yacht 'Long Tall Sally' closely followed by the humpbacked yacht 'Flying Cliche' and the squat yacht "Shallott'. But he was only dreaming. It will never happen.

"Women really are poor drivers," declares Richard Elfbein in the magazine "Car Life." Men have more accidents — but they do 83 per cent of the driving. Women drivers often stay home when they are tired or ill, or when the weather isn't right. A university of Pennsylvania survey showed that a group of male taxi drivers averaged one mishap every 4,000 miles, and a group of women taxi drivers, one every 1,300 miles. Men have more strength, faster reactions, better eyesight, glare resistance, hearing and distance judgment — all proved by test. Now I'll duck for cover.

Three men are crossing the Atlantic on the raft "L'Egare". Somebody said that if they make it, they will be the first to cross by raft. Not so. The raft "Nonpareil", 21 feet long with a beam of 12½ feet, crossed from New York to Southamptoh under sail in 1868. Skipper John Miles and crewmen George Miller and Jerry Mallene left New York June 4, arrived in Southampton July 25.

Stranger still, two men rowed across the Atlantic in an 18-foot rowboat. George Harvo, 33, and Frank Samuelson, 26, left New York in the "Richard K. Fox" June 6, 1897; arrived St. Mary's, Scilly Isles, August 1, after covering 3,075 miles in 55 days. They went on to Le Havre, where they arrived on August 7.

Marilyn Bell grossed roughly $67,000 in cash and goods during the 12 months after she swam Lake Ontario at the age of 16. This fact emerges in an article by Marilyn as told to Frank Rasky, in "Liberty". She also swam the English Channel, and this year she will try the Strait of Juan de Fuca between Victoria, B.C. and Port Angeles, Washington.

Her father, Sydney Thomas Bell, a buyer for a chain store, is president of Marilyn Bell Ltd. But Marilyn the firm's chief asset, can't hold any office in it. She's now 18, too young by Ontario law. Her manager, J. M. "Mike" Pretty, has turned down requests to endorse brassieres, jig-saw puzzles and beer. But Marilyn has lent her name in support of paplum, corn syrup, bathing suits, watches, breakfast cereal and baby food, and approved Marilyn Bell dolls and calendars.

"Good," she told him. "It was home-canned cougar meat." My friend gulped. His throat-muscles twitched once or twice, and held firm. But he didn't ask for a second helping.

The cougar, if anyone doesn't know, is a very large wild cat which will not purr when you stroke it.

An old gentleman once told me that he had tried cougar meat, and found it tasted like young pork. "It's very nourishing," he said. Not for me, thanks.

OF MANY THINGS

By Ambrose Hills

Let Go A Little

I feel sorry for the man who didn't enjoy a bit of fun yesterday. Every day ought to bring at least a few minutes of real fun to every human being.

Even in the realistic business world, fun pays off. Business conversations spiced with a quip or two, linger longer in the memory than those which are deadly serious from beginning to end. One leading business man I have the pleasure of knowing always tries to inaugurate a business conversation with a few pleasantries. It's fun to deal with him.

I also like the pixie quality of some humor. For example, the fun a U.S. taxpayer had with the department of internal revenue recently. The business man had a $200 refund due him, but when the time came to file his 1955 return, the refund had not arrived. With develish good humor, he simply listed the $200 as a bad debt. Back came a cheque for the $200 in a hurry, with a pleasant letter of apology from the head of the department.

Politicians often suffer from a serious lack of humor. If they had more of a sense of fun in them, they'd see the ridiculous position they are in at election time, when they promise to spend more and tax less. Quebec's present premier, of course, is an exception; he has a sense of humor, and that may account for his ability to get re-elected. In the midst of the recent election campaign, he told a political rally: "Any money the government spends comes from the taxes you pay. Don't let any one tell you differently."

A sense of good fun enables a man to avoid looking the fool. The fellow who slips on a banana peel, but laughs just as heartily as do the onlookers, retains, somehow, his sense of dignity.

LUMBER AND BUILDERS' SUPPLIES, PLUMBING SUPPLIES & HARDWARE.

If you are average, you will produce about 8 pigs per litter and wean 6 pigs. You will feed them for 6½ months before they reach market weight, and will use the equivalent of 1,050 pounds feed to produce a 200 pound pig, live weight. You will market them in the fall and make a small profit. . . not enough to be interesting.

If you are below average, you will buy your pigs at 3 to 4 weeks of age, feed them till 7 months of age, and either eat them or sell them. They will take the equivalent of 1,200 pounds of feed, and if you did keep track of the cost they would hardly pay for the feed. . . But since most feeders don't keep any records of costs or profits, and only keep one or two pigs, they never see any profits anyway.

Now, if you are ABOVE AVERAGE in the pig game, you will raise your own hogs and replacements and keep your own boar. You will strive to raise better and get better breeding stock. You will feed your young pigs from the time the sow is bred, right through until they go to market. You will worm them at 10-12 weeks of age, provide plenty of feeder and water space, and will keep your pigs and surroundings as sanitary as possible. . .

Moreover, you will feed your brood sows, boar and market hogs by the PURINA PLAN and in this way you will farrow 9½ pigs per litter, will market them at 5½ months on 600 pounds of Purina Chow, and you will control your breeding so that your pigs will hit market in February and August.

Now, if you will keep track of your cost, you will find there is profit in pigs. After all it is profit we are all after. — Which class are you in?

See us about the Purina Hog Plan and commence making profits today. We deliver.

LAKE SWIM

Directors of the Canadian National Exhibition, afraid there would be a repetition of the rash of wildcat attempts to swim the lake as occurred last year, decided to have nothing to do with the offer of a brewery to sponsor the event.

However, the brewery announced it would go ahead with plans to hold the swim and said there would be $27,000 in prizes offered to successful competititors. About 30 swimmers so far have indicated they are interested in competing.

At Lachute Baptist Church, at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, Miss Roslyn Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Brown, Lachute, was united in marriage to Mr. John Blute, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Blute, Bromley, Kent, England. The church was decorated with gladioli.

The Rev. D. C. Merrett officiated and, during the signing of the register, Mrs. Merrett sang "O Perfect Love" to the organ accompaniment of Mr. Wayne Riddell.

The bride wore a gown of organza nylon in figured motif. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a band of gold-edged nylon leaves and she carried a cascade bouquet of roses and carnations.

Mrs. Alton Boyd, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of pale blue nylon. Her veil was of tulle illusion and she carried a bouquet of carnations and roses.

Mr. Percy Titley and Mr. Neville Brown were ushers.

After the ceremony, a buffet supper was served at the home of the bride's parents. The newlywed couple then left for Niagara by automobile, to proceed thence for a trip through the States. ## Wed Saturday in Presbyt'n Church

Gordon - MacRae

The marriage of Flora Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. MacRae, of Lachute, to Mr. Stuart Archibald Gordon, son of the late J. Archibald Gordon and of Mrs. Gordon, of Lachute, took place on Saturday afternoon in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, the Rev. J. Armour officiating. Mrs. W. M. Cottingham played the wedding music and Mrs. R. Blakely sang during the signing of the register. Standards of white gladioli, snapdragons and pompoms were used as decorations in the church.

The bride, given away by her father, was in a gown of silk organza and Chantilly lace, fashioned with a fitted bodice having a scalloped neckline and sleeves ending in points over her hands, and a very full skirt with panels of lace. Her short veil of tulle illusion was held by a matching lace cap and she carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli and stephanotis.

Miss Florence Copeland, as maid-of-honor, and Miss Willa Murdoch and Miss Lyla Brooks, as bridesmaids, were in bouffant frocks of white Swiss eyelet organdy over ice blue taffeta. They wore bandeaux of white flowers and carried cascade bouquets of pale blue daisies.

Mr. Ian Gordon acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Donald MacRae, Jr., Mr. James Campbell, Mr. Grant Riddell, and F/O John Watson.

Mrs. MacRae, the bride's mother, was in a gown of dusty rose lace. She wore a navy blue hat and accessories and a corsage bouquet of white carnations.

The reception was held in the church hall, where summer flowers were used as decorations.

Brownsburg Squad One Step Closer To Championship

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg Karl Gagné pitched an eight-hit shut-out to lead the Brownsburg Tigers one step closer to the Dollard League championship. The Brownsburg team had trouble with Montebello pitcher Chalifour, managing only six hits as he struck out eleven, but they pounced on every opportunity and emerged easy victors — 4-0. It was a fine pitching performance on both sides, but considering the Brownsburg team was not at full strength, Karl Gagné's effort was probably more meritorious.

In his shut-out Karl walked nobody, struck out five, and gave up eight singles. His clutch-pitching was fine, as several times Montebello had threats going and he closed the door. Karl's record now is two wins and one loss.

At bat, Yves Raymond returned to form with two clean singles. Edgar Joly, Jimmy Murdoch, Mike Gratton and brother, René, each singled in Brownsburg's six-hit attack.

The win leaves Brownsburg in first place, still one game ahead of Buckingham with only one league game left. Brownsburg's last game is at Thurso on Sunday, and a win will clinch the pennant for the Tigers. Should they lose, however, and Buckingham should beat Montebello at home — then, depending on the scores, Buckingham could win the flag.

The Tigers have a dance planned for Friday, July 27, at the Café Marquise, at which they intend to have the pennant presented to the league winners. Should Buckingham win, they of course will be invited to the dance.

Events Played by Lady Golfers

Reports from Mrs. R. Stephens, the enthusiastic captain of the Ladies' Golf Committee, show more lady golfers participating in the tournaments this summer than ever before.

Mrs. D. Heggie won the President's Prize last week. Mrs. G. McKeagan, of Montreal, tied the match on the 18th hole and Mrs. Heggie won the play-off.

The C Class afternoon matches are popular with the girls who are busy with their families during the morning. The July 4 C Class tournament was won by Mrs. D. Hay.

Medal Round for A and B Class played the week of July 7, was won by Miss Rita Gilbert (A Class) and Mrs. F. Stein (B Class).

Mrs. Gilbert Ayers won the three sealed holes, the week of July 4.

Five Lachute lady golfers — Mrs. G. Ayers, Mrs. Norma Rogers, Mrs. R. Fraser, Miss C. MacKenzie, Mrs. James Knox — played in the C.L.G.U. Field Day at LaSalle, in Montreal last week.

Handicaps have been reduced by the following players: Mrs. D. Hay, Mrs. D. Heggie, Mrs. C. Roy, Mrs. M. Summers, Mrs. M. Kennedy, Miss Mary Ruth MacKimmie, Miss Mary Anne Rusk.

Thursday the Ladies' Committee of the Club are holding an Invitation Tournament, and four golfers from each of the following clubs will be competing: Beaconsfield, Elmridge, Hillsdale, Islesmere, Joliette, Laval, Marlborough, Rosemere, Seigniory Club, Summerlea and Whitlock; 18 holes starting at 9.30 a.m., and buffet served from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., followed by presentation of prizes.

SPORTS CAMERA

By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The guessing game over the prospects of Detroit Tigers of the American League didn't concern the baseball club's pennant chances this season but who would be the new owners of the franchise next October.

Trustees handling the affairs of the estate of Walter O. Briggs, Detroit automotive magnate and late owner of the Tigers, ruled that operating a ball club is not a satisfactory investment for the Briggs trust fund. Instead of uncertain yearly returns from the Tigers organization, they wanted hard cash in a lump sum.

So the team, Briggs Stadium — one of the best ball parks in the business — franchise and minor league holdings were put on the auction block. The package offer attracted eight bids — including one from a group headed by Toronto millionaire-sportsman Jack Kent Cooke.

No Move From Detroit

There was a number of conditions in the sale and bidding. One was that the club was not to be moved outside Detroit. Another was that the highest bids would not necessarily be accepted (leaving the trustees the choice of picking a bidder acceptable to other teams in the league and to baseball commissioner Ford Frick.)

The top bid of $5,250,000 was submitted by a group headed by Bill Veeck, formerly connected with the old St. Louis Browns (now Baltimore Orioles) and Cleveland Indians and now head of Miami Marlins, a new team this year in the International League. Reports had it that some other American League club owners would object to Veeck taking over the Tigers.

In his days of trying to pep up the box office appeal of the lacklustre Browns, Veeck pulled a number of unorthodox stunts — one included sending a midget up to bat as a pinch-hitter — and some of the other club magnates have a dim view of him.

The second highest bid, by the unofficial reports, was $5,180,000 from Cooke's group.

Canadian Sale Doubted

Cooke owns a Toronto radio station and for the last five years has profitably operated Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League. He was not dismayed by conjecture that the United States national game would not welcome a buyer from outside the U.S.

"I don't see why my bid should be jeopardized by the fact that I am a Canadian," Cooke said. "After all, we have four citizens of the U.S. in our group." He was referring to two Cleveland sportsmen, one from Buffalo, N.Y., and Rudie Schaffer, an American who is general manager of Toronto's International League entry.

Leonard Top Canadian And High Contender in Labatt Open Tournament

Bill Casper, 25-year-old Chula Vista (California) pro, toured the Royal Quebec Golf Club in one under par 71 Sunday, finished with a total of 274 to become the fourth winner of the Labatt Open, Canada's biggest golf event. It was his first PGA tournament victory and he pocketed $5,000 while carrying away the Labatt Open Trophy.

Two strokes behind was the veteran and natty Jimmy Demaret who collected $2,780 and a stroke beyond that was Al Besselink, of Grossinger's (N.Y.) who got $2,100 for his splendid play. Ted Kroll, from Fort Lauderdale, Florida, and Dow Finsterwald, of Bedford Heights, Ohio, finished in a tie at 279 strokes and each got $1,400.

Top Canadian Stan Leonard, of Lachute, who last year took Gene Littler to a playoff in the Labatt Open, finished even with Tommy Bolt, Bo Wininger and Bob Rosburg. Each received $910, and Leonard also got $375 for finishing on top of the Canadian players.

Doug Sanders, who the previous week had won the Canadian Open, went two over par on the final round to win the amateur trophy in this fourth Labatt Open, with 284 which was 16 places down the list.

Colford's Score 25-2 For One-Sided Triumph

Last Sunday, Colford's big-hitters took advantage of poor pitching by the Montreal I.O.U. boys, to post their second straight win after losing two in a row. Final score in the one-sided victory was 25-2.

Arthur Deneault hit a four-bagger with two on, and Paul Paquette hit four for five, for the winners. Jean Guy Larocque struck out 12 batters to gain his seventh win of the season, in this not-too-exciting game.

Next Sunday, Colford's take on Iron Ore Co., also of Montreal, while on the 29th of this month, the locals play host to the powerful team from Laval West.

Stan Leonard Quoted, English Newspaper Accords With Views

London (CP) — A British newspaper sides with Canadian golfer Stan Leonard, of Lachute, in his complaints about inadequate facilities at the Canada Cup and British Open championships in Britain.

The Evening Standard, citing a despatch from Canada which quotes Leonard as saying British golf authorities have some "antiquated" ideas, acknowledges that the Hoylake area near Liverpool, where the British Open was played, is "totally outdated" for a major tournament.

"Competitors could not get a hot meal on the course," says the newspaper. "There were two refreshment tents available, organized by private caterers, one offering a cold lunch with little choice, the other run on the cafeteria system.

"And some competitors, like Leonard . . . were forced to live in Liverpool, some 12 miles away. Leonard, having been told he was booked into Liverpool's No. 1 hotel, found on arrival there were no reservations."

Stratford Music Festival On Trans-Canada CBC

By far the most important CBC radio service for music lovers this summer are the 15 concerts CBC Trans Canada is broadcasting direct from the Stratford Music Festival. A great part of the music being offered at the festival will in this way become available to people throughout the country — from the gala opening performance of Benjamin Britten's opera "The Rape of Lucretia" on July 7 to the final concert on August 11.

The roster of artists contributing their great talent to this year's Stratford Music Festival includes the distinguished conductor Heinz Unger, pianists Claudio Arrau and Glenn Gould, Contralto Maureen Forrester, Sopranos Inge Borkh and Jennie Tourel, and many other fine musicians.

Perhaps for the first time at any serious music festival, jazz will have an important place at Stratford this summer. The jazz broadcasts will be on Wednesday evenings starting July 13 with a program featuring Wilbur de Paris and his New, New Orleans Orchestra, pianist Willie (The Lion) Smith and blues singer Jimmy Rushing. Duke Ellington, Cal Jackson, Phil Nimmons, Dave Brubeck and Norm Symonds are among the names coming up in this series.

The concerts, which started July 7, will be heard each Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evening — except Monday, July 16, when there was a special documentary feature called "The Festival City." The hour-long Monday night concerts will be heard at 9.00 p.m. EDT. The Wednesday concerts, also an hour long, will start at 8.30 p.m. EDT. The Saturday concerts will begin at 8.30 p.m. EDT. The latter series and broadcasts will each last 90 minutes.

MASSED BANDS

Sturgis, Sask. (CP) — One hundred and fifteen musicians were massed here when the first band in Saskatchewan to be organized on a school-unit basis gathered for a concert. The massed group was composed of several individual bands.

A speaker at a convention predicted that the car of the future would be made to last 15 to 25 years. But there's no guarantee its driver will do the same.

Little Canada In Radio Topic

The day-by-day living of 12,000 Canadian soldiers and their dependents, of the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade stationed in Westphalia, Germany, will be the subject of "Canadian Scene" on CBC Trans-Canada this Sunday afternoon, July 22nd. The sub-title of the program is "Kleine Kanada" (Little Canada) and it was prepared by Bill Herbert of the CBC during a recent visit to Europe.

The emphasis will be on the human side of life with the Canadians in Germany and not much time will be spent on the training of the various units which form Canada's contribution to the defence of Europe.

In sequences Herbert recorded the talks with the wives of officers and men about their homes in permanent married quarters and in German homes, and with teen-agers about their problems. He goes shopping with a typical army wife in a Maple Leaf Store and compares prices with those at home. He visits the schools, talks with the soldiers at work and play, goes with one of them on a visit to Hamelin town and recalls the story of "The Pied Piper." He also visits the army radio station and listens to its public-service features and news broadcasts.

Included also are interviews with Brigadier Roger Rowley and members of his staff about the job of the Brigade and the relationship between Canadians and Germans in Westphalia. Listeners will hear the sound of Canada Day celebrations at the giant stadium in Dortmund where 15,000 Germans joined almost that many Canadians for a typical Canadian summer fair.

Among the children, Herbert picked up the story of a five-year-old youngster who plays with a German boy, each speaking his own language, and an unusual account of French-speaking and English-speaking Canadian children who overcame the language barrier in a game of cowboys and Indians by speaking German to one another.

Attractions Booked For Ottawa Exhibition

The Central Canada Exhibition has arranged for the appearance at the Ottawa Fair, August 18-25, of an outstanding array of Canadian and American TV entertainment plus many other variety acts.

The Canadian stars will include Joan Fairfax, Denny Vaughn and Joyce Hahn. From across the border will come the Mills Brothers, the Mariners, and Lassie, the wonder dog of television fame.

Acrobatic and aerial acts, comedians and the colorful Grandstand Follies will also be a part of the show, also Sharkey the Seal and the daredevil Kochman "Hell Drivers".

Each day during Exhibition Week, a spanking new 1956 automobile will be given away. Anyone purchasing an entry ticket to the grounds will be eligible for one of these automobile awards.

A key attraction will be the Dream Home exhibit, a $25,000 fully furnished bungalow, of which some fortunate exhibition patron will become the proud owner.

For the livestock and other departments, the CCEA has $55,000 in prize money. There will be an excellent Horse Show each evening (August 25 excepted). A Championship Dog Show will take place at the Coliseum all day Saturday, August 25.

The midway will be back again this year with new entertainment and many of the reliable attractions that have proven so popular in the past.

Other closing dates are: July 27, cattle, sheep, swine, poultry, handicraft and Hobby Show; August 6, Junior Agriculture, agriculture and horticulture products, honey and other food products, Highland Dancing; August 8, Dog Show.

FIRE FORGOTTEN

Trois-Rivières, Que. (CP) — The anniversary of the "big fire" now passes almost unnoticed here. It was on a June day in 1908 that a match dropped accidentally set off the worst fire in the town's history, destroying 800 buildings.

Boy Scouts In Canada

VISITING N.W.T. SCOUTS

C. S. Matkin of Magrath, Alberta, Assistant Provincial Commissioner for the Alberta Boy Scout Council, is this month making his fourth annual visit, by air, to the Scouts of the Northwest Territories, including those at Tuktoyuktuk, the most northerly Scout Group in Canada.

FOR BABY-SITTERS

When volunteer firemen of Richmond, B.C. printed at their own expense, 10,000 copies of their now famous "Baby Sitters' Manual," distribution of the manuals was undertaken by the Boy Scouts.

SCOUT FOREST

At Marathon, Ont., a Scout Forest which has been in operation for the past seven years, was recently dedicated. Under the direction of the Manitoba and Northwest Ontario Scout Council, and sponsored by the Marathon Pulp and Paper Mills which provides instructors and helps finance the project, Scouts plant on an average of 10,000 trees a year there. The first trees, of 70,000 planted to date, now range in height from seven to ten feet.

INVEST BLIND BOYS

Five boys, members of Canada's first patrol of Blind Scouts, were invested as Tenderfoot Scouts recently at the Montreal Association for the Blind, by Scoutmaster Gilbert Williams who is also blind. . . As members of the Woodpigeon Patrol they have developed a morse-code whistling system which may well surpass conventional flag signalling methods used by sighted Scouts, their Scoutmaster states.

HELP WHEN NEEDED

Farmers in Essex County, Ont., were grateful to 60 Scouts and four leaders who devoted a full day to clearing fields of lumber and debris, following the recent tornado. Scouts cleared up eight farms so that the fields could be worked. Farmers supplied trucks, tractors and wagons. Each Scout was credited with eight hours work on his conservation project.

HONORED BY CHIEF

Gallantry awards to four Wolf Cubs and ten Boy Scouts, and service awards to 28 adults, were announced on Dominion Day by the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, CH, Chief Scout for Canada.

To Sir Ian Bolton, Bt., of West Plean, Stirling, Scotland, was awarded the Silver Fox, which is the Canadian Scouting award "To non-residents of Canada for services of exceptional character to Scouting."

SERVICES APPRECIATED

To honor the Venerable Archdeacon Guy B. Gordon, for his devotion to the Boy Scout Movement, and for his war services, a three-panel window is being planned by the Parish of Christ Church, Niagara. Among the figures to be depicted, looking upward at the Crucifixion, will be a Boy Scout, a Wolf Cub and a Soldier. Dr. Gordon recently celebrated his 80th birthday.

CANOE ADVENTURE CAMP

For older Scouts and Rovers, the Edmonton, Alberta, Scout Council is this summer conducting a Canoe Adventure Camp in two phases. First is a period of training in canoeing and other outdoor activities, featuring "Safety Through Skill". Second is the actual adventure trip which will include some mountain climbing and ranching activities.

CRUISE FOR 52 SCOUTS

Sponsored by the Southwestern New Brunswick Boy Scout Council, the annual cruise for Scouts training for their Coast Watchman and Pilot Proficiency Badges was recently enjoyed by some 52 Scouts. Starting from Black's Harbour they visited a number of Bay of Fundy ports on the MV Connors II, under command of Captain Denton, who was their chief instructor. They camped ashore each night and their evening camp fires were a highlight of the cruise.

London, Ont. (CP) — Firemen answered a call to put out a fire in a smoking TV set. When they arrived, the woman of the house had the set on the lawn and was spraying it with a hose. It was a complete wreck.

Teatime Topics

By Oli Daum, Canadian Press Staff Writer

If things run in threes, perhaps there will be a comeback to two recent reports of groups asserting that a university education is of no value to a woman.

It was a suspicion often voiced by some non-university goers. But graduates were inclined to brush it off with "sour grapes". Then the University Women's Club at Calgary let their cohorts down.

They voted after debate that a university education merely freed a woman from the illusion that she'd missed something, and that it was an expensive way to find it out.

Later, the International Federation of Business and Profesional Women, at its triennial in Montreal, said that many women go to university not for an education but to get a man.

It appeared that the Calgary group had its tongue in cheek. In other words, the graduates didn't really mean it — they were just having some fun. The side with the smoothest talkers just happened to win.

But even so, it ruffled some feathers. At the University Women's council meeting in Kingston, Ont., some delegates talking amongst themselves thought the Calgary group had shown poor taste.

They strongly supported Calgary's losing debaters who said university equips a woman to do a better job; that the earning power of non-graduates ceased to rise at 35 but that graduates' earning power still increased when they were 50, and that to educate women meant to educate families since the wife sets the cultural level in the home.

The women at Kingston, representatives of their clubs across Canada, were just giving their feelings an unofficial airing. But judging from the intensity of their reaction it wouldn't be surprising if some individual made an official statement now that the group from Montreal has spoken.

As one Kingston delegate said: "It might persuade some parents not to send their daughter to university and that would be a calamity."

Do's and Don'ts

Forty-two Canadian debutantes, usually possessed with all the grace and poise in the world, were breathless last week as they prepared to meet the Queen.

At tea with Mrs. Norman Robertson, wife of Canada's high commissioner in London, they learned the rights and wrongs about curtsying to Queen Elizabeth.

They were told to relax and not be stiff. They were cautioned not to stoop too low for they might wobble, panic and fall — the ultimate disgrace.

Ann Crump, of Hampstead, Que., said she felt terribly scared and "very wobbly around the knees." Deborah Troop of Toronto hoped there would be some music because she was sure her knees would knock.

Iced Coffee – A Summertime Cooler

Do you have a formula for cooling down on the hottest days? Almost everyone does, and the prescriptions vary from a hammock under a tree to a dip in the briny. Not everyone has a garden, a hammock and a tree, or a patch of the deep blue sea within reach, though, and the most popular formula is probably a seat on the porch and a long, cool drink. One beverage choice is iced coffee, as pleasant and cooling a summer drink as you could wish to find.

At its best, iced coffee should be of the same strength as hot coffee. When it is weaker, the reason is usually that you have forgotten to make allowances for the dilution caused by the melting ice-cubes. Check your iced coffee-brewing methods against these instructions, and choose whichever of the three is most convenient. ("Regular-strength coffee" is two level measuring tablespoons of coffee to each three-quarters of a measuring cup of fresh cold water.)

Pre-Cooled Method

Make regular-strength coffee. Cool in a non-metallic container for not more than three hours, or cover tightly and chill in refrigerator.

Quick Double-Strength Method

Make coffee double-strength by using half the amount of water to the usual amount of coffee. Pour over ice-cubes in tall glasses.

Quick Method With Coffee Ice-Cubes

Brew extra coffee at breakfast time, and pour in freezer-tray to make coffee ice-cubes. When frozen, you can make iced coffee at any time by pouring regular-strength fresh hot coffee over the cubes.

If you need to make a cool drink in a great hurry, you'll find that instant coffee, made by following instructions on the jar, offers an acceptable fourth alternative. Remember here, also, to make allowances for melting ice. In each case, serve the coffee in tall glasses, with a simple sugar-syrup for easy sweetening, and cream to taste.

Freshly Cooked Fish Ideal for Salads

During the summer, waterfronts teem with activity as commercial fishermen land their catches. Generally-speaking, peak catches are taken during the spring and summer months, so fish (both fresh and frozen) are in especially good supply just now. A timely food fact, and one sometimes overlooked, is that cooked fish offers a fascinating range of salad possibilities. Mild of flavor and delicate of texture, it combines pleasingly with crisp, colorful fruits and vegetables and supplies body building protein lacking in garden produce. The home economists of Canada's Department of Fisheries have recently been doing some experimental work on the preparation of fresh and frozen fish for salads and offer the following advice:

— Cook it just until the flesh will separate in flakes on testing with a fork and the juices are milky colored.

Tangy Fish Tossup

2 Cups flaked, cooked fish (1 pound when purchasing), 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt, lettuce (approx. 2 cups torn), ½ cup chopped green pepper, ½ cup grated, nippy Cheddar cheese, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, ½ cup sliced, stuffed olives, ½ cup French dressing.

Sprinkle the flaked fish with lemon juice and salt. Tear the lettuce leaves into fork-size pieces and place in salad bowl. Add the chopped green pepper, grated cheese, chopped onion, sliced olives and fish. Add the French dressing, toss ingredients together lightly and serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

POISON SEED

Victoria (CP) — Several cases of poisoning of children from chewing seed from the laburnum tree have been cured so far this season by prompt use of the stomach pump. Children are attracted to the toxic seed due to its resemblance to garden peas.

Result of W.I. Study On Sex Perverts

"It is generally accepted that there is little chance of a sex offender being rehabilitated in an ordinary prison." This statement is made in the report of a special committee set up by the Quebec Women's Institutes, at the request of its members, to study the problem of Sex Deviates and Perverts. Mrs. C. A. Robinson, Welfare and Health Convener, Montcalm County W.I. is chairman, and she is assisted by the Provincial Convener of that Department, Mrs. Wm. Coupland, Sherbrooke. They have made an exhaustive study of this complex problem and have now presented their findings.

Several Attorney-Generals were asked what legislation was in effect in their respective provinces, a study made of the Parents' Action League in Toronto, and discussions held with Dr. A. MacLeod, Mental Hygiene Institute, Montreal and Mr. P. Plante, Director of the Montreal Police Department.

In presenting her report, Mrs. Robinson says, in as far as she can determine, there are not special trials with experts on psychiatry sitting in and no particular segregation from other inmates when serving time in institutions of penal reform.

The report recommends that parent education be undertaken to increase the knowledge regarding sex deviates, that the Q.W.I. use all its strength to promote Parent Action Leagues (similar to Toronto), and that representation be made to governments at all levels with respect to enlightened legislation, custody control and treatment.

Lady Doctor Admits Hers Is a Busy Life

—Central Press Canadian

Taking over a medical practice from her father, Dr. Sally Sarles has a big area to cover from her Wellington, Ont., office. She started in practice last year, three years after her father died and so far she has delivered 50 children and travelled 20,000 miles answering her patients' calls. She has found little prejudice against her as a woman doctor, but finds she has no time for recreation or social life. Her patients range from new-born children to a centenarian.

Gum camphor, laid among books on the shelves, or any haunts of mice, will keep them away.

Wear Sunglasses For Summer Driving

(Tips On Touring)
By Carol Lane

If you've been out in the sun most of the day without sunglasses, the night will actually seem darker to you. In fact, your peripheral vision (essential in sighting the side-edges of the road) can become totally ineffective.

Fortunately, even inexpensive sunglasses can be effective for normal eyes. If your driver's license requires you to wear glasses, however, your sunglasses must also be filled by prescription. On the other hand, the law allows you to use the non-prescription hook-on type of sunglasses over your regular lenses.

Ophthamology scientists point out that people who expose themselves to prolonged and excessive sunlight, as on beaches for instance, might choose the darker-toned sunglasses for extra protection to the retina.

Oddly enough, women who feel dowdy in ordinary glasses find they appear most chic in sunglasses styled for glamour. Besides exotic and colorful frames, there are styles with gay butterflies, bows, flowers and other amusing what-nots sprouting from the rims.

By darkening summer days with sunglasses, the motorist will brighten night-time driving vision.

Cool As A Breeze

Cool as a breeze for warm summer afternoons and evenings is this flowered print dress in crisp shades of blue. The dress, featuring the cowl neckline and low waistline so popular with the young set, is made of 100 per cent wrinkle-resistant fibre now being produced in Canada. An ideal companion for a garden party is the ever-popular pinwheel hat, this time repeating the floral design of the dress.

Shortie Pyjamas

Sweet and saucy shortie pyjamas in a new synthetic tricot have lace and sheer nylon pleating trim. The beautifully creamy, shadow-proof fabric has all the carefree qualities and cool comfort.

W.I.'s Urge Marking Of Historic Spots

Scenic spots along our highways, and those of historic interest, should be marked. This was affirmed by the Quebec Women's Institutes, at the recent provincial convention, held at Macdonald College.

Quebec Province abounds in such places, but visitors, and even those who live here, seldom have any idea of the name, significance, or story that may be attached to what lies beyond the next curve in the road. Such markers create a favorable impression on the tourist and add to his appreciation of the country through which he is travelling. Many other parts of Canada have them. Quebec is second to none in what it can offer in the way of beauty and history, and such points should be so indicated.

The Department of Roads and the Tourist Bureau have now been asked to consider this project. Institutes, wherever they are found in this province, are pledging their support and co-operation. Local history can thus be provided, adding color and flavor to drier statistics.

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

Let's Go Hiking

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Afoot and light-hearted I take to the open road,
Healthy, free, the world before me,

With vigor and enthusiasm, Walt Whitman praises the joys of hiking in his "Song of the Open Road." In this age when so many people own cars, many adults rarely go for a walk. Not long ago a father asked at the Friday night supper: "It's over a year since this family went for a good hike: How about a good walk Saturday afternoon?" His proposal was eagerly endorsed by all. Plans were made for a walk and picnic supper. It was such a happy occasion that this family determined to go hiking more often. "If we don't use our legs, we'll lose the strength we should have in them!" the son of the family pointed out.

How long is it since your family have gone for a hike? Hiking is one of the least expensive and most enjoyable of hobbies. It is not seasonal — a good walk may be a pleasure any month in the year. The rising cost of living need not affect the fun of adventure out of doors. The parents who enjoy hiking themselves and who take their children with them as soon as they are old enough to be pushed in a go-cart and later to walk on their short legs have a lot more fun than their stay-at-home neighbors.

It is important to be suitably dressed for a walk. A happy hiker can forget about his clothes because they are comfortable and just the right light weight. Foot comfort is absolutely imperative. On a long hike, take a change of stockings or socks along for each member of the family. When you are sorting the children's socks, check to make sure they are long enough. Too short footwear—either socks or shoes can cause such discomfort that they ruin the enjoyment of walking. Poorly fitting shoes, either too big, too narrow, or too short, soon produce red marks and blisters — and what limping youngsters can be expected to be enthusiastic about hiking?

Children love the excitement of seeing a complete change of scenery. For that reason, some families with a motor car go out into the country turn down a side-road and park a mile or so off the highway. Then from this central point the family start out on a walk in a district which they have never explored.

Other parents use the bus or the train and ride a short distance. Then they have a walk from the terminal or station and give themselves sufficient leeway to get back in plenty of time for their return trip. Teen-agers enjoy taking their bicycles, or using a bus or train and hiking home. Some families with older children use bicycle hiking too.

There are many outdoor hobbies which fit in with hiking, such as photography, bird study, collecting leaves, stones, etc. Action shots taken on a walk of Junior climbing a rail fence, or Mother and daughter looking at a waterfall, or Dad balancing to get a rock specimen are much more attractive than the ordinary picture of people standing still in a straight line staring at the camera. Snapshots of scenery, of an elm against a sky with great white clouds, of the birches reflected in the water of a bay, or a clump of daisies by the roadside provide a record of a hike.

A variety of interests, family fun in the out of doors provide the kind of training and zest for living in public school years which make any problem of juvenile delinquency highly improbable during the "terrible teens!" Make no mistake, time spent on family hikes is never wasted. It is sound insurance against aimless idleness tomorrow. Hiking yields the best possible returns in health and companionship and wareness of the out-of-doors today!

Cadillac

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

His Last Switch in Motor Cars!

We have no way of knowing, of course, how many different makes of motor cars this gentleman has owned through the years. But we'd wager that he has changed his preference a great many times in his years on the highway.

And we're also willing to bet that he has now made his last switch in motor cars!

For this time it's a Cadillac! And it is historically true that once a motorist makes the move for the "car of cars," he is usually a Cadillac owner for life.

What are the reasons for this great devotion and loyalty? Well, let us count them off.

First of all, there are the things which everyone recognizes in Cadillac. There is its great beauty . . . its matchless luxury . . . and the unquestioned respect which the car commands the world over.

Then there are those qualities with which anyone who has ever driven a Cadillac is familiar. There is its marvellous comfort and ease of handling . . . its magnificent power and performance . . . its wonderful balance and agility . . . and its extraordinary quietness of operation.

And, finally, there are those things which only Cadillac owners themselves can fully appreciate. There is the car's remarkable economy of operation and upkeep—its incredible longevity—its wonderful resale value—and the great pride and happiness that it bestows upon the man at the wheel.

* * *

If this little check list of Cadillac virtues coincides with what you've been looking for in a motor car, you ought to come in and see us very soon.

You'll find, by the way, that we have recently made two additions to this list of things you get when you make your decision for Cadillac.

We're talking about prompt delivery and a generous trade-in allowance!

Better come in while the circumstances are so favourable—and make your last switch in motor cars!

We'll be delighted to see you at any time.

Shelters and Civil Defence

(Twentieth in series of 24 articles)

A few strategically placed sandbags and some stout timbers, materials often used in air raid shelters during the Second World War, would be less than useless against a hydrogen bomb blast, but they might save you from death or serious injury in the radioactive aftermath of the blast.

Shelter — any kind is better than none — still affords protection from all effects of an H-bomb explosion: blast, heat, initial radiation and residual radiation. But shelters have changed since the comparatively puny bombs were falling in the last war.

Civil defence officials say no shelter would save persons near the centre of an H-bomb explosion, but chances for survival would be good if adequate shelter were taken quickly outside the zone of complete destruction.

Since Canada's civil defence plan is based on mass evacuation of the areas likely to be hit by an H-Bomb the fall-out shelter has taken on special significance. But for those who couldn't get far enough away in time, a basement shelter of reinforced concrete likely would provide the best protection from blast and heat.

Civil defence officials who have seen United States nuclear tests estimate that if an H-Bomb of five megatons — the equivalent of five million tons of TNT — were exploded, there would be complete destruction within a radius of about three miles but beyond that, adequate shelter would save those in fringe areas where damage would be terrific but not 100 per cent.

F. F. Worthington, Federal Civil Defence Co-ordinator, who witnessed a recent Nevada test, said basement shelters in houses in the B zone — from three to six miles from the centre of the blast — remained intact although some of the houses collapsed around them. These were a built-in concrete box-shelter, a lean-to against a basement wall and a portable tubular steel box covered with corrugated iron.

The blast protection from fall-out — the radioactive dust that settles over large areas following an H-Bomb blast — is an outdoor underground shelter covered with at least three feet of earth. A root-cellar would be a natural one.

The earth will provide a shield against radiation and civil defence authorities estimate that such a shelter would cut the radiation intensity to only about 1 5000th of the rate above ground.

Next best would be a basement shelter. Here again, concrete is perhaps the best material. For blast it must be reinforced, but not for radioactivity, and the thickness required can be reduced by putting high density materials into it.

For those with no prepared shelter, the basement is the best place in the house to go. Radiation there would be about one-tenth what it was outside. In a house that has no basement, closing the windows and doors and remaining on the first floor of an ordinary frame house would cut radiation by half. In a brick or stone house radiation intensity would be less.

A shelter should be stocked with a seven-day food and water supply, blankets, first-aid kit, flashlight with extra batteries and a battery-powered radio.

The middle of a large barn would be a good place to go in a fall-out area if there were no other one. Added protection could be achieved there by stacking bales of hay or straw around you.

A person caught in open country in a fall-out area could reduce the danger by remaining in his car with the windows closed or taking cover in a thick growth of trees. If there were time and a person had anything to dig with, a fox hole with some kind of cover would help.

The important thing, civil defence officials say, is to get under something — anything that will keep the fall-out off you.

Rough Road to the Highlands, But Destination Is Worth It!

"SUNNYACRES SKETCHES"
By Margaret Cook

Greetings from Sunnyacres! We salute you as from a beleaguered citadel. Once in, we are safe, for no one except a devoted friend would willingly tackle the road that leads from Route 30 to Route 11. The writer, who is the champion of poor roads for purely aesthetic and personal reasons, has to admit that this road, or, at least the last two miles, is the bad road to end all bad roads. The feelings of the casual driver are perhaps best summed up in the words of a weary and angered man, presumably of Italian extraction, who drove into our yard last week and inquired the nearest way to a macadam road. Asked where he wished to go, he replied "I do not care, so long as it is a hard top. I HATE dis road!" Taking him at his word, we directed him to Morin Heights.

The devoted friend did turn up at Sunnyacres, and all the way from Scotland. She was more philosophical. As she pointed out, the roads in the Highlands are usually hilly and tortuous, but as she also pointed out, even in the fastness of northern Scotland, the roads are "hard top." Ours are squashy top, on a bottom of the oldest and hardest rocks in the world. Where the road is built up, there is just width for a modest car, so that turning out is an impossibility. This is the improved part; on the unimproved part, local drivers pass easily, city drivers with fear and curses. I bet if our local road-makers entered a contest for making bad roads, they would win handily.

Speaking of roads, a bouquet to whomever is responsible for the lovely, black, solid surface on about half the mileage between Hill Head and Lake Hughes. Only those of us who have for years negotiated the twists and turns of this road and the hazards of the hills at Lake Sir John and Long Lake, can appreciate the feeling of delight and awe which we experienced on our first drive to Lachute. If this is the work of our local member, he has our vote, enthusiastically. One of the awesome things about the transformation is that most of the work was done AFTER the election.

Anyway, consider yourself here — and just look at the roses and delphinium, also the green peas. Did you know that the blossom of a pea is pushed off by the pod? I did not. Green peas and I have seldom met except at the table so I had never before noticed this phenomenon. Often a pod over an inch long will still carry at its forward end, the ghost of the flower. Amazing, too, is the rate of growth. On a sunny day, the pod doubles its length, and along the curved edge, a series of tiny bumps speak of delicious meals to come. I like green peas served in hot cream; thus were they served in the Townships years ago, and probably still are. The chives, too, are handsome, with their purplish, feathery blossoms sticking up all over the plant, like pins in a cushion. Somehow the chives were planted next the pinks, so that we have a mass of fluffy purple alongside a pillow of feathery pink. Very picturesque. The zinnias and calendulas are late this year, merely in bud, and the cosmos away behind; they look at present like miniature palm trees. The yellow loosestrife is gay, and the Sweet William colorful and velvety.

A pair of phoebes has nested over the porch door, so we cannot use it. So far as we can gather by careful but aloof inspection, no one is actually living in the nest, but numerous phoebes visit it at all hours of the day. We have discovered that the phoebe has two distinct calls. The plaintive "Phoebe, phoebe" is seldom heard, although at dawn one may sometimes hear the small, squeaky voice calling hopelessly for Phoebe. But during the day, as they busily hunt tiny winged delicacies such as mosquitoes and black flies, they call enthusiastically, "Sweetie, Sweetie, SWEEETIE!" on a rising scale. They like to perch on the lilac bush near the porch, and watch us at our supper. Another favorite perch is the water-butt, and if it is full, as this year it nearly always is, at each jerk of the tail, said tail is well wetted. This jerking is a mark of the phoebe, distinguishing it from the wood peewee, which it closely resembles. It also closely resembles a friend of ours, who has just that same nervous twitch. Like all bank managers, he was with us only a short time, but long enough to allow us to appreciate his goodness and efficiency, in spite of the twitch.

A family of rabbits is growing up in the shed, and are supposedly sharing their quarters with the porcupine, who has been with us lo, these many years. Going out to get a jar one evening, I surprised master porcupine under the car. He was very much embarrassed, and although I pointedly refrained from going near the car, he scrambled away with awkward haste, his progress marked by the falling of wood. This awkwardness is a characteristic of our porcupine and probably of all others. If he tries to withdraw quietly, he invariably lets loose an avalanche of wood, or falls into a hole; climbing a tree, he is apt to choose an unworthy branch, and clutch frantically as he slips. There is always one at every party. I do not mean a porcupine, but a well-meaning but awkward person.

Inside Sunnyacres, Peter, the cat and Amos and Andy, the turtles, are enjoying the change from city living. The turtles have a magnificent outdoor aquarium, made from a sand-box. This features a swimming-pool at one end and a sandy beach at the other. There are rocks on the beach where a turtle may sun himself, and occasionally, a mosquito loses its way or is thrown in, and then, who so happy as Amos? Andy refuses anything except the very best beef. Did you know that turtles can make a tiny squeak? It is so small a cry, that at first one tends to believe that he has imagined it, but no, they can and do squeak, also, they yawn. When Peter pats one, it draws in both head and tail, and Peter is baffled. After a sniff or two, he walks away, looking bored. Such silly creatures, he seems to say. No fur, no feathers.

Peter leaves us about eight in the morning and is no more seen till late afternoon. Then if one takes a walk, it is his delight to bounce out of the bracken and bunt one's legs. The proper response is to scream loudly. After this, he lies down and says he cannot walk any farther, so someone has to carry his plump fifteen pounds into the house, when he expects to be fed much and well. A few hours of being one of the family, and then he coils up for the night, and is customarily not heard again till the morning.

So, we resume the old, familiar round of life at Sunnyacres, except that this year so far, there has been little sun, mostly rain, wind, hail, rain, wind in weary repetition, until one wonders if perhaps life in the suburbs might not be preferable. Then we sit by the big fireplace and watch the flames leap high, and we sleep on the frigid porch and do not wake till morn. We think of the Seaway project and its boom, boom, three times a day, and the sound of the cement mixer and the jet plane at night, and we think maybe we'll stay a bit after all.

OUT ON A LIMB

By Stumpy McCulloch

"Where's that mule I told you to take out and have shod?" Ol' Gulliver asked his hired hand the other day.

"Shod?" the young feller asked. "I thought you said shot—I've just been buryin' her!"

• • •

Out West nowadays, they're brandin' logs like cattle! Yep, that's right. The logs that float into the Strait of Georgia carry the brand of their owner, so's they won't get lost or stolen. It used to be that lots of logs floated into the Sound and out to sea. And since some logs were worth as much as $500 apiece, many were lost to tree pirates! So the laws were changed—in British Columbia, Oregon and Washington—and today every log has to be branded, and nobody has the right to remove or alter that brand. I reckon the day of the log rustler, as well as the cattle rustler, is gone forever!

• • •

• • •

I figure it pays a feller to decide where his woods road should go before he starts cuttin.' Usually it ought to run near the thickest timber and where a truck can go with the least expense. It's also a good idea to reserve some stands of trees in dry, well-drained areas for winter and bad-weather cutting and hauling.

• • •

In the woods, a feller ought to be as careful as he can. F'r instance, when he's bucking—that's when you cut a tree into logs or sections—he ought to work uphill from his previously bucked logs. And he ought to give plenty of warning to other fellers in the area of any log that may have a tendency to roll after it's been bucked!

• • •

As for his power saw, he ought to fill the gas tank only when he's standing on bare ground. And he ought to shut off the motor when he's carryin' it from one place to another, and also when the tree starts to fall. These are good safety rules to follow, I've found!

• • •

"Well, how is it?" the plumber asked, when he arrived late.

"Not bad," the husband said. "While we was waitin' for you, I taught my wife how to swim!"

See you soon!

75 YEARS AGO

July 22, 1881 —

More building going on at the paper mill.

A correspondent asks us if there is no law to prevent and punish those who, evening after evening, expose their persons in a nude state at Fish's Bridge, one of the most public thoroughfares in the Village of Lachute.

On Tuesday morning Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pollock, of Hill Head, drove past our office in a buggy down to the Lachute Mills, where Mr. Pollock got out of his buggy, leaving his wife sitting in it. The horse became frightened at something and started to run, throwing Mrs. Pollock out, but fortunately doing her little damage. The horse was later secured.

There is considerable difference of opinion regarding the building of a new Methodist Church at Lachute, there being already a good substantial brick church and a good large hall, in both of which service is held every Sunday. A few worthy members are not satisfied with localities of either of these places of worship, and are about to be building one for themselves. It has been suggested that they build it upon large wheels, then they can move it about just as they please.

The late rains and favorable growing weather have caused the crops and fields in most parts of this section to put on again the green and pleasant appearance they presented previous to the drought.

On Saturday morning during the storm, Mr. Henry Drysdale was driving his cows into the stable to be milked when a flash of lightning struck seven of them and killed them instantly.

• • •

July 20, 1906 —

On Wednesday Mr. F. Belanger, accompanied by his son, noticed the excitement of his mare in a neighboring field and upon investigation found that two large dogs, one of which was a hound, had attacked a young colt. The poor animal died shortly after, and now Mr. Belanger is out on the trail.

What might have been a very serious accident occurred at the home of Mrs. David Black, East Settlement, on Saturday morning last when Mrs. Black, while lighting the kitchen range in the early morning, was badly burned about the face and arms, the result of some powder having fallen unnoticed from a bag onto some folded paper with which the fire was kindled. The burns were superficial and will, it is hoped, be alright in a few days.

• • •

July 17, 1931 —

It is with considerable pride and satisfaction that The Watchman is able to chronicle the appointment of our old townsboy, Elmer S. Giles, to the honored position of Inspector of High Schools and special officer of the Provincial Department of Education.

On Saturday last, members of the Orange Lodges throughout the County held their 101st anniversary of the Order in Watchorn's Grove, Louisa. Invitations were sent to other lodges, and there was a fine response.

The Dickens you say...

Maybe Charles Dickens was gazing into a crystal — or aluminum — ball when he made this prediction a century ago about a strange new metal called aluminum. He wrote:

"What do you think of metal as white as silver, as unalterable as gold, as easily melted as copper, as tough as iron? . . . In proportion as the cheap production of aluminum becomes more and more an established fact, the more we shall find it entering into household uses — for travelling purposes, for instance, for which its lightness is no small merit."

Very good, Charles — especially that bit about cheap production. That day has arrived, as Alcan's vast production and world sales prove.

Her first stop —the bank

When Mrs. Wilson planned to go shopping, her husband Tom said: "Meet you at the bank." It was a natural thing to say, for going to the bank is just a part of everyday life.

In the bank, Mrs. Wilson noticed Miss Ellis the schoolteacher . . . Mr. Cooper the storekeeper . . . and her neighbour's son Bobby, adding to his savings account.

When Tom arrived, he grinned: "Seems like everybody goes to the bank." It's true. Canadians find the chartered banks such a safe and handy place to keep money that practically everybody has a bank account. There are now more than 10 million deposit accounts in the chartered banks—more accounts than there are adults in the country.

IT'S TOUGH TO BE A VANCOUVER FIREMAN

Vancouver (CP) — It takes four years and a list of 20 personal rules to become a Vancouver fireman. But officials say when he is finished, he's the best there is.

The cardinal rule is the protection of lives and property. He must be strong physically and mentally. He must under no circumstances become nervous and he must abide by the regulations or pay the penalties.

One of the most important rules of all is that he must have no domestic troubles. Officials believe that a fireman cannot do his best if he is worried about his home life.

Have You A Question

on

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. I understand $4,800 is the ceiling for contribution purposes for salaried employees. If paid by the hour, however, a person can earn far more than this and still be insurable. Why is this?

A. There are two reasons. First, employees paid at hourly rates are more subject to intermittent unemployment than salaried employees, even when the hourly rates are quite high. Generally speaking, employees on salary have employment of a more continuous and regular nature and are not subject to intermittent unemployment because of bad weather, shortage of materials, etc. Hence employees on fixed salaries exceeding $4,800 a year are considered to have little need of insurance against unemployment. Second, the earnings of hourly employees vary greatly because of overtime, broken time and other employment conditions. It is therefore more difficult to pre-determine what total annual earnings will be. A tradesman in the building and construction industries, for example, may have abnormally high earnings one year and low earnings the next due to broken time. To prevent this continually moving in and out of the insured classes and to give protection to this type of worker he is insured regardless of the amount of his earnings.

Q. Can a school bus driver draw unemployment insurance during the summer if there is no other work available for him? His wife and children cultivate their property at which he helps in his spare time. They have a horse, a few cows, some hens and pigs. Would this disqualify him from receipt of unemployment insurance benefit during the summer?

A. It is assumed that he looks to employment for wages as his main means of livelihood and that his spare time activity on the property could ordinarily be carried on in addition to and outside of the ordinary working hours of his usual employment, so that it would not prevent him from accepting full-time employment in a particular week. On this basis, he would not be disqualified from receipt of benefit while unemployed during the summer, but the amount of his income from his spare time activities would be taken into account in determining how much benefit he was entitled to.

Backwoodsman Is Unorthodox Healer

Ex-mountie, engineer, former pro hockey player and lumberman, Roy Tyler is Ontario's most spectacular manipulative healer. Hundreds of persons have visited his shack near Owen Sound, where they may be greeted with a curse, tossed bodily from his property or insulted in various forms. But of the hundreds who have come to him, dozens claim he has performed miracles in curing rheumatism, sprains and other ailments. His methods are not orthodox but they often produce results. He is credited with correcting the deformation of a child when he tossed him into the air and gave a sharp twist when he caught him. A well-aimed kick at a cripple corrected a spinal ailment of a dozen years. And in one treatment he is said to have cured a boy of what was diagnosed as asthma.

Hawkesbury Accused Removes Leg – So Court Adjourns to Cell

Montreal — A Criminal Court judge was forced to go into a police cell with a courtroom entourage last week for the arraignment of a 60-year-old retired Hawkesbury businessman, Lucien Senecal, on a charge of obtaining a $20,000 yacht by false pretences.

Judge Willie Proulx, after hearing evidence in the cell, committed Senecal for preliminary hearing July 18 and granted bail of $1,800.

Police claim that several days later the $5,000 cheque bounced and Piché went looking for his boat. It was gone and so was the new skipper.

Finally, the owner hired a plane to scour St. Lawrence River ports and the boat was located at Cardinal, Ont.

When the clerk of the court called the case, Lt. Babe Tapin said Senecal refused to appear.

"Why don't you bring him up?" asked Judge Proulx.

"The accused has an aluminum leg and he has taken it off."

"We'll try," replied the officer.

"Well, if the mountain won't come to Mohammed, Mohammed will go to the mountain," said Judge Proulx.

The Judge, accompanied by the court clerk and several police officers, went down to the cells in the basement of the New Court House, for the arraignment.

In all, 68 Tree Farms competed for this award and for over two weeks a committee of judges composed of Mr. A. R. C. Jones, Professor of Woodlot Management, Macdonald College; Mr. Jean Pintal, Agronomist, Department of Agriculture, Lachute and Doug Morrison, Extension Forester, C.I.P. Company, Grenville, has been busily engaged inspecting woodlots and interviewing owners in an effort to determine three winners. Their task is no easy one as the work of all sixty-eight of these Tree Farmers is worthy of reward and recognition.

Equipment Displays and Demonstrations

Approximately 30 companies have been invited to send their representatives to this field day to display and demonstrate their equipment — equipment ranging from bucksaws and axes on through power saws to log-loaders and tractors.

One item which should be of particular interest and which could well revolutionize trucking methods is a truck especially adapted to load, haul and dump pulpwood in pallets, thus completely eliminating loading and dumping by hand.

Other items include a Four Wheel Drive Diesel-engined truck, not unlike a jeep, which can be used for a seemingly unlimited number of jobs around the farm; snowmobile-like tractors suitable for hauling either logs or pulpwood will also be on hand, and many other items which will reveal the latest trends in harvesting and handling techniques.

Power Saw Competition

It is but a short three or four years since bucksaw and crosscut competitions were the fashion, and while these tools are still used to good purpose in many districts as far as competitions are concerned they have had to give way to their roaring, more spectacular, powerful offspring — the powersaw. Saturday, July 28, will see many skilled exponents of the art of powersaw handling competing for the three cash awards of $30, $20 and $10.

The competition will be run under the direction of Art Lafrance and is open to all wood suppliers or their employees; it will start at 1.30 p.m. and continue throughout the afternoon till 4 p.m. when the five best times will resaw for the three prizes. Its a toss-up just who enjoys this event the most, the competitors or the spectators — in any case, witnessing a team of man and powersaw slices through a 12" spruce four times in 30 seconds is as good an exhibition of strength, timing and co-ordination as can be seen on any athletic field.

Camp-Style Feast

The program for the afternoon will conclude with a camp-style, home-cooked bean feast in the preparation of which the cooks at the Harrington Forest Farm are without peer.

Rain or Shine

Due to the advance preparations which must be made and which cannot be cancelled at the last minute, this field day will take place rain or shine. Wood suppliers planning to attend are urged not to let inclement weather deter them, but simply to dress accordingly and come ahead.

Ample car parking facilities will be provided and the route to "The Farm" will be well marked.

The staff at The Harrington Forest Farm are prepared to play host to at least two thousand people, and Manny Wilson expects July 28 to surpass all attendance records at "The Farm" to date.

Dr. Mackinnon Phillips, Ontario minister of health, sends patients to Roy Tyler without hesitation. "He's a master masseur," says Dr. Phillips, "and he probably gets good results most of the time."

—Central Press Canadian Photos

Operator of a garage in Owen Sound, Al Graham feared he was going deaf until he was treated by Tyler. Now, he says, his hearing is as good as ever.
