Highlight in Civic Affairs, Dinner and Presentation On Fire Chief's Retirement

Tribute to Chief Geo. Y. Deacon, Mrs. Deacon And to Two "Charter" Members of Brigade

A testimonial dinner and presentation, held in honor of retiring Fire Chief George Y. Deacon, was attended by nearly 100 persons Tuesday evening at the Lachute Town Hall and Auditorium. Sponsored by the Lachute Town Council, the representative gathering was presided over by Mayor F. W. FitzGerald.

Towards the close of the ceremonies, which commenced at 6.30 p.m., Mrs. FitzGerald presented Mrs. Deacon with a beautiful bouquet of roses, while the retiring Fire Chief received from the Mayor, on behalf of Lachute Town, the gift of a handsome leather-covered easy chair.

In opening the ceremonies, Mayor FitzGerald stressed the Council's aim to have this testimonial gathering as a representative cross-section of the population. "It is seldom that we have such a civic reception, and it is my pleasure to preside over this gathering in honor of Mr. Deacon, one of our highly-respected citizens, who in 1918 organized the local fire brigade. For two years, the brigade operated on a truly voluntary basis, afterwhich it then became connected with the corporation.

"We realize that 38 years is a long time, and all the citizens appreciate the efficiency of the brigade during this period. Lachute enjoys one of the lowest fire insurance rates in the Province of Quebec. . . Of the original crew of firefighters, only Wm. J. Deacon and Walker McArthur remain on the present brigade, along with the retiring chief, who altogether have saved Lachute thousands of dollars in insurance and fire loss.

"It is for this reason that the Council thought it fitting to show their appreciation for the work they have done, and we invited all present members of the fire brigade, members of the clergy, the heads of social and fraternal organizations, all ex-mayors, and the mayors of our adjoining municipalities, St. Jerusalem and Ayersville, along with the Federal and Provincial deputies and their wives."

Mayor FitzGerald here introduced Mr. Clement Tremblay, O.B.E., who addressed the gathering on behalf of the former mayors in attendance.

As the representative voice of this highly-deserved eulogy to a mutual friend, George Y. Deacon, Mr. Tremblay stated that he "highly prized the privilege of being the nominee for this very pleasant duty," although feeling a certain sense of inadequacy to express the real depth of his sentiment. He referred to the public tribute as "a Canadian citation for meritorious service to George Y. Deacon, in recognition of outstanding community and civic achievements of a nature to foster the advancement of Canadianism and citizenship responsibility."

In closing, Mr. Tremblay paid tribute to Mrs. Deacon, who he said, "has also played an outstanding part as the wife, the great builder, and upholder of her husband's aspirations and achievements."

Mrs. W. M. Cottingham expressed regrets at the absence of her husband (the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P. for Argenteuil), adding that in the 38 years that the honored guest had headed the local fire brigade, he had "done a grand job — and I certainly feel that the time has come when he should be able to retire."

Jas. W. McGibbon, representing Philippe Valois, M.P., joined in paying tribute to Mr. Deacon. "Over the years, there has ben a lot that has escaped our minds and I want to say that we have the right to appreciate what George Y. Deacon has done for this town. It has been taken for granted, and fighting fires has always been 'not our job, but Deacon's job'."

Mayor FitzGerald spoke highly of Mrs. Deacon and other members of the Deacon family. Mrs. FitzGerald then presented Mrs. Deacon with a bouquet of roses and the recipient, in replying, thanked the Mayor and Aldermen on behalf of herself and the wives of the firemen, many of whom were present.

Mayor FitzGerald then presented the honored guest with a framed testimonial and a comfortable reclining chair as a "tangible sign of appreciation for service rendered over the years."

Messrs. Wm. J. Deacon and Walker McArthur, the two other charter members of the brigade, still active, were then presented with tokens of appreciation.

In addressing the gathering, Mr. Deacon stated that he had been somewhat misled — having been requested to attend a council meeting this evening. He added, "This is the first Council meeting such as this that I have had the pleasure of attending. . . I hope that we can continue to help the cause, and I might add that I am thrilled to see so many people here to show appreciation of what the boys who have supported and helped me in so many ways, have been able to accomplish."

The meeting, which was opened with the singing of "O Canada", closed with "God Save the Queen."

Relaxing After Long Service

At ease following 38 years' service as Fire Chief of this community, George Y. Deacon tried-out his "token of appreciation" following the civic dinner and reception held in his honor Tuesday evening. Shoppers Injured By Runaway Car

Succession of Mishaps On Town Thoroughfares Last Week-End

Two district ladies were treated by Dr. F. W. FitzGerald at the Lachute Providence Hospital late Friday afternoon, for injuries received when they were pinned between the building of Pariseau Butcher Shop and a runaway car on Lachute's Main Street.

Injured were Mrs. Mary Walker, 38, of Lakefield, and Mrs. Mary Evans, 46, of Clyde Street, Lachute, who were walking along the north side of Main Street when a car owned by Leon St. Jacques, of Lachute, and in charge of his wife, started rolling across the street in a northerly direction and jumped the 9-inch curb, pinning the two pedestrians against the building.

The injured ladies were taken to the Providence Hospital by police car, and received medical treatment for lacerations and severe bruises.

Mrs. Gaetan Hoff, of Ayersville, suffered severe head and back injuries Saturday when the car in which she was driving was involved in a head-on crash on Chatham Street, near the St. Jacques Ltée establishment.

The accident occurred at 1.25 p.m. when a pick-up truck of recent model, owned and driven by Lucien Larose, 31, of Ayersville, collided head-on with a 1952-model sedan owned and driven by Jean Gilles Hoff, of St. Michel de Wentworth.

Treated for minor injuries by Dr. Roger Lavigne following the crash were Gaetan Hoff and Jean Gilles Hoff, driver of the car, and Lucien Larose; the three-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Gaetan Hoff was thrown clear through the broken windshield. Mrs. Hoff was treated on the scene by Dr. Lavigne and rushed to the Hotel Dieu at St. Jerome, she was released Tuesday.

A 1956 panel truck and a 1941 sedan were demolished at the Barron Avenue - Foundry Street intersection Saturday noon, the occupants of both vehicles receiving only minor injuries.

The passenger car, owned and driven by Gerald Berniquez, of Chute-à-Blondeau, Ont., was headed east on Foundry Street and, failing to see the stop-sign, the driver crashed into the truck, driven by Jean-Louis Seguin, of Brownsburg. Following the impact, the Berniquez car veered into a pole.

The Seguin car was turned completely around following the crash and pushed some 40 feet — both vehicles being wrecked.

SPEAKER ATTACKS QUEBEC MARGARINE BAN

Quebec (CP) — Both the Federal and Provincial governments were brought under fire Wednesday during the annual meeting of the National Dairy Council. Mrs. H. E. Vautelet of Montreal, past-president of the Canadian Association of Consumers attacked Quebec's anti-margarine laws and the federal price-support policy.

It would be far more intelligent if the federal government subsidized milk for school children and elderly folks then to subsidize foreign markets by providing them with surplus butter at half price.

She also suggested the dairy industry develop a low-calory butter — half butter and half evaporated milk or thin cream — to compete against low-cost spreads. Varying shades of yellow should be used for butter and margarine.

Her most scathing attack was against Quebec's margarine ban.

Youth Killed as Auto Crashes Into Unlighted Buggy

André Beausejour, 16-year-old son of Anthine Beausejour and the late Mrs. Beausejour, was instantly killed late Sunday afternoon on Route 8 a few miles west of St. Philippe d'Argenteuil, near Gauley's restaurant.

The young victim and his eight-year-old niece, Jeannette Pilon, of St. Philippe, were on their way to Gauley's restaurant to purchase some oil for a lamp, when they were offered a ride in buggy by Mrs. Armand Menard, also of the St. Philippe district. Mrs. Menard was accompanied by her two sons, Gerard, 12, and Gilles, 10.

Headed west on the highway, the buggy was not equipped with lights of any type according to police information, and the vehicle was crashed into by a car driven by Dale G. Brown, of Massena, N.Y., proceeding in the same direction.

Jeannette Pilon was rushed to the Montreal Neurological Hospital with severe head injuries, while the body of the young victim was brought to the morgue in Lachute.

Investigating the accident were Det. Ralph Allen and Traffic Officers Albert Legault and Lawrence Cruise. The latter two had parked the police car on the side of the road, with its flasher operating. A short time later, a car driven by Jacques Tremblay, of Notre Dame de la Paix, Papineau County, crashed into the police car, causing an estimated $400 damage. No charge has been laid in either accident to date.

An inquest into the death of young Beausejour has been called for Monday, November 12, at the local Court House.

M.P. in Collision on Ottawa Intersection

Philippe Valois, Liberal M.P. for Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes, was shaken up but not injured Tuesday when his car overturned on a downtown Ottawa street, following a collison with another vehicle.

Police in the Capital said that Mr. Valois was "lucky to escape with his life." His recent-model car overturned after it was struck by an auto driven by Dr. Pearl Drieman, of Stewart Street, Ottawa.

A passer-by pulled the victim from his car as gasoline spilled onto the street, constituting a fire hazard. Police and firemen were called to the scene.

In Ottawa on business, it was at the corner of Nelson and Stewart Streets that Mr. Valois' car was struck and overturned on the sidewalk. Taken into an adjoining building, the deputy was treated for shock and a minor cut on his left hand.

His car being severely damaged, Mr. Valois returned home by train Tuesday evening several hours after the mishap.

Federation's Last Appeal To Meet $18,400 Objective

With its second annual campaign for funds officially closed, the Lachute Federation of Charities is approximately $4,000 short of its $18,400 objective.

The officers of the Federation are lodging a final appeal to all citizens in an effort to meet the objective — the minimum figure which will permit all member organizations to operate on a full scale for the coming year.

(Phone for Fire Calls Tentatively No. 1001)

Plans for re-organization of the Lachute Fire Department were completed at a special session of Town Council last Wednesday evening, at which Fernand Trépanier was named both Police and Fire Chief of the Town of Lachute. . . Aldermen Ross Muir, J. H. Mallette and Romain Desjardins were absent from the meeting.

Reports for Committee

Ald. H. S. Church, chairman of the Police and Fire Committee, as well as the special body formed to re-organize the department, reported that the committee had held several meetings and decided to carry on with as few changes as possible. He pointed out that six of the regular volunteers would remain on the brigade on a part-time basis only, and would only leave their work when notified they were needed. Other matters proposed by the Special Committee were that the fire alarm siren be moved to the present Municipal Garage, that a compressor be purchased and that conditions requested by the volunteer fire brigade relative to proposed salaries and insurance, be approved.

Police Chief Fernand Trépanier was recommended for the job of Fire Chief, replacing Geo. Y. Deacon, who started the fire brigade 38 years ago and has been at the helm ever since. Ald. Church stated that the Special Committee approved the engaging of additional police officers and recommended that one such man be employed. Ald. Church then discussed the various means by which the volunteer members of the brigade could be assured their regular earnings in the event they were injured.

Previous to recommending the approval of these items by Council, Mayor Dr. F. Walter FitzGerald called upon retiring Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon to address the councillors and make any suggestions he thought might aid them in the change-over.

Speaks from Experience

Chief Deacon stated that he wished to terminate his duties on Wednesday, October 31, and he felt, that, during his many years of service, he and the men who had assisted him had done a satisfactory job. "I hope the Corporation will maintain a Fire Department at least as efficient as it has been in the past." It was unfortunate for the Corporation that, in replacing himself, they also had to replace his wife, his office help and a staff of some 14 employees — he added. "In the past, we have maintained 24-hour service and, to our knowledge, have never missed a call. The Corporation has left all other details of management to me; I have been fortunate enough to obtain volunteers interested in fire prevention and protection, and in this manner we have been fortunate enough to save the Town thousands of dollars in both losses and premiums. . .

"I definitely feel that considerable more equipment is needed," Mr. Deacon emphasized; "and I am sure that the 'chief' will need more help than one man, as he will find as much, if not more, responsibility in the Fire Department as in the Police Department. His greatest difficulty will be in answering the calls, and the most important thing is to answer these calls promptly." Chief Deacon mentioned some of the minor equipment that was needed in addition to hose and a new pumper-vehicle; he added that he was "still interested in fire prevention and protection," but was excusably tired of answering fire calls."

Six Youths Get Reformatory Terms For Entering, Theft

Recent Police Round-up; One Member of Gang Given Prison Sentence

Seven youths of this district charged with breaking and entering with theft, appeared in St. Jerome court before Judge Omer Côté Friday morning and, with the exception of the eldest, a 19-year-old Lachute boy, were sentenced to two years at the Laval Training Centre, St. Vincent de Paul Federal Penitentiary.

The eldest of the seven was sentenced to 15 days in prison as he had no previous record and was only charged in connection with one theft. The other six boys, two of whom are St. Andrews East residents, are all around 16 years of age.

The round-up of the gang started early last week, when a couple of the boys were picked up by two members of the Lachute Police. Questioning by the officers and by Det. Ralph Allen, of the Provincial Police, led to the arrest and conviction of all seven.

Contrary to the beliefs of some local residents, charges were laid by the Quebec Provincial Police acting under the Criminal Code (Federal Law), and not by the Lachute Police Force or the persons victimized in these robberies.

Also sentenced to a two-year period at Laval Training School was a 15-year-old youth from the St. Jerome district, who in the company of a 12-year-old friend stole a car near Huberdeau; these boys were picked-up in Lachute early in September of this year. Released in the custody of his parents over a month ago, the youth appeared before Judge Côté on Friday; the Judge was informed by the youth's mother that his behavior had in no way improved, so the delayed sentence was put into effect.

It is believed that several members of the local "gang" are still at large, and it is anticipated further arrests will follow in the near future.

Local Battery 131 Wins in Farnham Field Exercise

Lachute Battery, No. 131, 37th Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, won first prize at a Field Exercise, firing from a camouflaged, sandbagged gun emplacement at Farnham, Que.

The local battery left Lachute Saturday afternoon and on arriving at Farnham went right into training by placing their guns in position for firing on Sunday. Digging gun pits for the 25-pounders and reinforcing it with sandbags, complete with camouflaging, was all part of the rigorous training laid on for the unit. The Sunday firing was covered by the National Film Board, who recorded the firing and sound during the exercise.

The Lachute unit took first prize in a competition against Montreal batteries of the 37th and 34th Field Regiments. The gun crew winning the competition for Lachute were under No. 1 Gun Sgt. E. Greary who is attached to the Lachute Battery for gun-drill, Sgt. Bob St. Laurent, Bdr. Howard Ward, Sgt. Jim Pillage, Gnr. John Curtis, Bdr. Maurice Jolly and Bdr. Cyril Ward.

Two members of Lachute Battery have been selected by Major H. Stutt, O.C. of Lachute Battery, for Officer Training at the Canadian Grenadier Guards Regiment Armoury in Montreal. Gnr. H. Dowd, of Canadian Safety Fuse in Brownsburg, and Gnr. C. Laliberté, of the Bank of Nova Scotia in Lachute, who now hold the rank of Officer Cadets. They remain attached to the local battery.

The unit will parade next Sunday, November 4, to attend Armistice services in St. Andrews East. The entire parade will be under the command of Major H. Stutt, O.C. of the local battery.

The money you donate to the Legion's poppy campaign brings the necessities of life to thousands of Canadian veterans and dependents. But it cannot heal the bodies broken in the service of their country. We can do so little for these men who did so much for us. However, we can express our gratitude by giving generously to the Canadian Legion Poppy Fund.

New Members Welcomed to Ayers 25-Year Club

Lachute Golf and Country Club was the setting for a colorful social function last Sunday night, as the Ayers Limited 25-Year Club gathered for the induction of eight new members, which brings the total living membership to 118.

The president of the Company, Mr. Gilbert E. Ayers, in his welcoming address stressed the security and the mutual trust which should be the result of a quarter century association.

There were 180 guests participating in the banquet, and entertainment was provided throughout the proceedings. Those who joined the Club and received watches and lapel buttons were the following:

Miss Annie Carrière, Miss Marguerite Grondin, Messrs. Bernard Allard, Henri Campeau, Albert Deslauriers, Euclide Gravel, Antonio Labonté and Jean-Paul Labonté.

The 25-Year Club convenes every two years; and as the meeting opened, one minute of silence was observed in memory of members who had passed away since the last meeting.

An enthusiastic ovation was given to the new members as each one was called forward for his presentation.

Lachute Legion Poppy Week in Town and District

Lachute Branch, 70, the Canadian Legion announces that the week commencing Friday, November 2, and concluding Sunday, November 11, is being proclaimed by Mayor Dr. F. W. FitzGerald as Poppy Week in Lachute.

Each year without ceremony, fanfare or obligation to the veteran and his family who may be in need or distress, the local Legion continues to aid those veterans who, through no fault of their own, find that they need help. Most of this help comes from the local Poppy Fund, which is raised each year by the sale of poppies in Lachute and district. As Lachute is the county centre, the local Legion branch has always aided veterans outside Lachute, and as in past years, will continue to sell poppies in nearby towns of the district.

Poppy Week gives a chance to the public to aid in the good cause, and with their help the Legion can continue to assist in welfare work. This year the Lachute Legion is soliciting your support in its sale of poppies through Lachute and district. In charge of the various districts are the following representatives: Mrs. W. Graham, Arundel and district; Miss Barbara Stewart, Grenville district; Miss Dorothy Hammond, Lakefield and Mille Isles; Mrs. K. Madden, Kilmar; Mrs. H. Simpson, Mr. D. Bryson, Mr. J. Coney and Mr. H. V. Elliott, St. Andrews East, Carillon, Grece's Point and Cushing.

When you are approached in this canvass, please remember that the money is spent for the care of needy veterans and their families. So give generously, and wear a poppy during Poppy Week.

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — The 1956-57 season of the Home and School Association picked up exactly where the 1955-56 season left off — with a large attendance.

Mr. Alfred Gervais, starting his second term as president, voiced his thanks for the confidence of his electors and his pleasure at such a splendid attendance. Mr. Gervais announced that C-I-L transfers had robbed the Association of both its secretaries — Mr. Eric Lang and Mrs. Gordon Towell. He hoped that their replacements — Mr. Wm. Hamilton and Mrs. Frank McCaffrey — would meet with the meeting's approval.

Mr. Gervais announced the schedule for the season. There will be five more meetings, viz., on November 17, January 16, February 20, March 20 and May 15.

The president said that this year the executive was opening with no apprehension. Last year the membership was up from about 50 to over 100 members, and the old embarrassment of having a dozen listen to a much-travelled guest speaker, seemed to be a thing of the past.

He reiterated the aims of Home and School:

Not to raise children easier, but better.

Not to make money, but to make lives.

Not to criticize, but to raise home standards.

Not to operate the school, but to co-operate with school authorities.

Not to find fault, but to find facts.

Mr. Gervais outlined a few of the things Home and School did in Brownsburg last year: the parties they organized for the teen-agers; the conducted tour through C.I.P.'s research laboratory for Grade XI; the books purchased for the library, amounting to about $200-worth.

He outlined a plan to boost the library's volume and scope, by means of a "book fair" this season. An organization would make a large number of books available at moderate cost. The parents would be able to buy the books for their own children, who after reading them might donate them to the library.

The bank balance was read — $5.76.

The president then called on Vice-President Mrs. Leslie Camus to introduce the guest speaker, Mr. Douglas Walkington, president of the Quebec Federation of Home and School Associations.

Mr. Walkington said that it was an enjoyable and interesting job to be connected with Home and School. He told of the little village of Perron, Que., which had a one-room schoolhouse, no teacher, but a Home and School Association.

He said that the age of interpreting education as the three R's has gone out, and now a broader view of education is taken. It means a broader curriculum, a bit of child psychology, and the co-operation of parents, teachers, and the likes of Home and School, to educate the children today.

The Home and School movement has grown to 300,000 members in Canada and is now a considerable force of public opinion. The movement is not political, being interested only in children and youth, and their development and betterment.

To some it would seem that there was no need for a national association, but surprisingly, it has been a good means of interchanging ideas, and in problems confronting the country as a whole it has taken a great interest. The national association was instrumental in getting government action on objectionable comics. Such important matters as the teacher shortage and water pollution were under study by national association committees. The national association's "Handbook 1956" is accepted as the Bible of Home and School.

On the provincial level, Quebec is quite differently set up for education from the other provinces. There are two systems — the Catholic and the Protestant — and as yet only the Protestant system permits Home and School.

Mr. Walkinton then went on to explain the workings of the provincial federation or Quebec Federation of Home and School Associations. They publish a program-planning manual as an aid to local groups. They have recently made available to constituent groups a three-point insurance plan to cover children at school, at sports, etc., employees of Home and School, and public liability at meetings.

The Federation has committees studying school finance problems, the teacher shortage and similar matters.

On the subject of the teacher shortage, Mr. Walkinton stressed that for the good of future generations it was the duty of parents to encourage and never to dissuade their children from being interested in the teaching profession.

The Quebec Federation's magazine is a worthwhile piece of reading and the weekly radio program, aired Saturdays on CFCF, was always worth tuning in. This broadcast is the only English one carried by the French-language station in Jonquière. It is also carried in Sherbrooke. The annual Spring Conference is a good clearing-house for ideas, and the workshops and discussions usually stimulate thinking among the delegates.

Mr. Walkington then pointed out that the real work was done at the local level. He dropped a few hints stressing the meaning of Home and School — that both sides of the title are equally important. He suggested that the members really get to know each other and foster that atmosphere of co-operation which would help them to develop skills.

Mr. Walkington advised the meeting to have discussion on such subjects as "Reading Material for Youngsters", "Parent Education", "Allowances", "Dating", "Going Steady", "Hours", "Skiing Week-Ends." He suggested that when children or local newspaper critics seem to say that the schools are "going to the dogs", to have a discussion on curriculum, before jumping to conclusions.

Such subjects as "Retarded Children", "Special Consideration for High I.Q.'s", and "Safety", could be the basis for interesting group study. The members must bear in mind that in Home and School only groups of children were to be considered, not individuals.

Local groups should not devote a lot of energy raising money. Money-making schemes are permissible, but only to help achieve some money-consuming aims. Home and School is not a social club, and social events should not be scheduled. Even lectures are out of place unless they deal with children or education. . . So spoke the Quebec Federation president.

One big responsibility that lies with parents is to spread the desire for better education, so that people would realize that school taxes, providing they are well spent, are investments in the future. No one should grumble about high school taxes; the only cause for complaint might be insufficient returns.

In summing up, Mr. Walkington quoted a few figures, saying that while 2,860,000 children attended Canadian schools last year, in 1965 over four million would enroll. This means 38,000 extra classrooms and a like number of teachers, so that the tax burden has to grow but has to be borne willingly. A good education system is our only guarantee of future prosperity.

Cottingham Speaks At District Chapter Of Engineering Inst.

The Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Quebec Minister of Mines, was guest speaker at the opening session of the recently-formed Ottawa Valley Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada, held last Thursday evening at the Bridge Inn, Hawkesbury.

In attendance at the meeting were about 30 members of the Institute from Brownsburg, Lachute and Hawkesbury. Shelly Donvito, P. Eng., of C-I-L, Brownsburg, as chairman of the assembly, introduced the Hon. Mr. Cottingham, who on conclusion of his address was thanked by Gerard Lefebvre P. Eng., of Ayers Limited, Lachute.

Mr. Cottingham addressed the club on various aspects of engineering, and how they were tied in with one another and with different phases of industry. Following are extracts from Mr. Cottingham's address:

Today, the professional engineer plays a vital role in our society. His profession has become as diversified as the very civilization in which we are living. As a matter of fact, the varieties of engineers are almost countless nowadays; they seem to be ever increasing with the development of our times. Engineers, it is true, will always have as their main objective to control the forces and the resources of nature for the benefit of mankind or to apply arts and sciences with a view of making natural resources useful to society. But, engineering, which may be regarded as a science and an art, implies the application of almost all sciences and tries to fill the practical needs of the civilized world. The result is that engineering, which depends on

N.D.G. Youth Known Here, Victim of Fatal Accident

William "Bill" Connelly, 18-year-old resident of N.D.G., who is well known among many of Lachute's younger residents, died at 11 a.m. Saturday in the Sacred Heart Hospital from injuries received nine hours earlier, when the car in which he was a passenger left the road and rolled over four times.

The accident occurred early Saturday morning at the intersection of Route 8 and the Cote St. Louis montée. Witnesses report the driver of the car, 19-year-old Richard Dauteuil, at the last minute decided to take the alternate highway and crashed into a pile of stones in a field. The recent-model car was demolished; three other occupants escaped serious injury. Dauteuil's condition was reported as "fair" following the mishap.

Hunting Can Be Safe

SHOOT FIRST and ask questions later! . . . This adage may have had its place in bygone days when the safety of the community depended on immediate and effective action against prowlers. IT HAS NO APPLICATION TODAY, and especially not by hunters.

Hunting is one of Canada's largest participant outdoor sports. Hundreds of thousands of men and women enjoy healthful recreation from the days afield on the annual hunt. For some of them this pastime will be spoiled by the irresponsible gun-toter who will do such things as fire "sound shots".

"Sound shots" are those fired at sounds made by some unidentified person or animal moving in the woods. It seems incredible that anyone would be so careless or show such absolute disregard for human life as to shoot at something he cannot even see, let alone recognize. Yet it happens every fall, and sometimes with fatal results.

It has been said that you cannot legislate brains into anyone. But sportsmen can, by example and a word of caution to their fellow hunters, eliminate the few who would give this great sport an undeservedly bad name.

True sportsmen respect the right of others to enjoy their sport in safety. They respect the rights of the property owner, his fences, his buildings, his livestock and crops. They obey the game laws and, most important, they practice these "Ten Commandments of Safety":

Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun.

Carry only empty guns, taken down or with the action open, into your automobile, camp and home.

Always be sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstructions.

Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle.

Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger.

Never point a gun at anything you don't want to shoot.

Never leave your gun unattended and loaded.

Never climb a tree or cross a fence with a loaded gun.

The Poppy Fund

SOON WE WILL be asked to do two little things. We shall be asked to buy and pin on our coats a Poppy, the symbol of sacrifice. The Poppy Fund campaign gets under way next Monday in the various communties of this county.

What memories and thoughts does the Poppy of Flanders recall to our minds? . . .

We think perhaps of that gentle Canadian doctor who went to war — worked for the sick and wounded — walked with compassion amidst filth and suffering — and never lost his faith, although he did not return to the land he loved. He caught a vision of beauty, of flowers growing in the mud of a foreign field, and from that vision, with a touch of genius he interpreted the mood for all time. That man was John McCrae, author of "In Flanders Fields" . . .

We think of all the men whom that day honors — the men who fought and died, the men who fought and lived, in order that captives might be freed and the world know the joy of peace and strength and purpose, for the sake of all the children of men. That's what these men believed in.

We in our day cannot put the final value upon what other men have done. But we believe the years will prove that these men whom we honor are in the great succession of martyrs who died for their faith and ours. Certainly, by agonies heroically endured, they did more than any others to build this nation.

If our country, like other countries, did not quickly become a land fit for heroes to live in, it was not the fault of the heroes. If greed and hate continued to flourish, if eyes grew dim or would not see, if hands grew weak and hearts grew hard — it is because we were not worthy of the dead whom we salute, of the crippled men who survive, and the veterans who ask us now, to help them to help their comrades. They never doubted the cause for which they fought.

Therefore, when you pin a Poppy on your coat or when you place a wreath at the cenotaph, think of the men whom these things commemorate. Think of the magnitude of their deeds and, as you look around this community, think of those who were left behind.

The Canadian Legion is dedicated to helping these people. It does so through the Poppy Fund, which we are called upon to support at this season of each year.

CANADA is a land rich in natural resources, something which most of us take for granted. Few of us are conscious of our exceptional good fortune in living in an age in which our known minerals, metals, oils and gas are more valuable than ever before — says the Drumheller (Alta.) Mail.

Exemplary Courtesy

AN INTERESTING aspect of the job of being Canada's Prime Minister is the inconspicuous way in which its holder can often move about the country.

In the United States the President can hardly sneeze without the public hearing of it. But in Canada, the Prime Minister can come and go almost unnoticed at times.

And while this might seem a not overly attractive aspect of this country's highest government post, considering the importance of publicity to politicians, it should not be underestimated. It means that even the Prime Minister can enjoy some of the privacy only the average voter enjoys in some other countries.

An example of this anonymity of Canadian Prime Ministers at times was the return of Prime Minister St. Laurent to the Capital recently from a speaking engagement in Sherbrooke, Que.

He was travelling in the drab green, old but well-outfitted private railway car he uses. It was attached to the end of a regular passenger train.

When the train stopped, the Prime Minister, carrying a couple of brief-cases, stepped off and was greeted, not by a crowd, but by three officials from his office, and a couple of reporters. He shook hands with the officials and the reporters, then began the long walk along the station platform.

Other passengers were getting off the forward coaches and hurrying toward the waiting room. The Prime Minister strode among them unnoticed. He caught up to three young girls and politely stepped around them. If they realized he was the Prime Minister, they gave no sign.

One or two persons gave the little group a cursory glance, then went about their business. The prime minister of Canada was just another man with a grey tweed suit with a brief-case under his arm.

It left a reporter wondering: are Canadians that disinterested in their politicians? Have they acquired such a confident independence that prominent public figures don't fascinate them any more than Canadians fascinate themselves?

Or did some of these other passengers really recognize their Prime Minister but were just too polite to intrude on the personal privacy every Canadian — even the Prime Minister — has the right to enjoy?

Importance of Good Books

THE IMPORTANCE of reading good books cannot be stressed too strongly. Books provide the best part of our education. They add richness to life. They provide much of our entertainment. Think of the impact made by just one book, "Uncle Tom's Cabin", on the slavery issue.

Perhaps we take books too much for granted. Picture a world without books. Before long we should be ignorant primitives.

Today as never before books are essential to us: for the pre-school child the exquisite picture books are a joy and a delight; for school-children books provide information and recreation, and they do the same for adults. Books can help us all to do our jobs better, widen our horizons, provide us with the knowledge we need to make up our minds on vital questions to be effective citizens. They help us whether we are housewives, farmers, clergymen, mechanics, writers, lawyers, artists, doctors, teachers, businessmen.

We need books in our homes. Let us buy all the books we can. But most of us cannot afford to buy all the books we need. So we depend on libraries. The library is the heart of the university. The library should be the centre of the school. Public libraries are the intelligence centres of our communities.

"WE WANT to retain in Canada our own citizens, to provide them with employment at fair wages, to build up a diversified nation, to develop our raw materials and our natural resources, through the efforts of Canadians, and to secure the rewards of industrial enterprise for Canadians.

"Canada is one of the few countries in the world possessing vast natural resources in a largely undeveloped state, and consequently the eyes of the world are turning enviously to us. If we do not take the proper precautions we shall lose the added value which would be created by completing manufacturing processes in this country." . .

These words were spoken by the late Mr. W. J. Bulman, then president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, at the 48th annual meeting held in Toronto, June 10, 1919.

Today, 37 years later, Mr. Bulman's son is president of the Association . . . and the words are equally applicable.

Laval Students Demand Increased Financial Aid

"WEEK IN QUEBEC"
By Gerry La Fontaine

Quebec (CP) — Approximately 1,000 Laval University students staged a mass demonstration Tuesday to back demands for increased financial aid for education from the provincial government. Their immediate gain was nothing but a day away from classes.

The students, along with delegations from some other Quebec province universities, marched through the tortuous streets of Quebec City, shouting and waving placards and banners.

Twice they assembled in front of the provincial legislature buildings chanting "On veut Duplessis" (We want Duplessis), but the premier declined to see a student committee.

The students assembled in front of the legislature in the morning, then threaded their way through the streets of the city, obstructing traffic, but otherwise doing no damage.

A few tossed coins at the estimated 100 provincial police on duty but the officers did not take action to halt the demonstration.

One student was arrested on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct early in the evening as a small group of demonstrators tied up traffic at an uptown intersection. He suffered a slight injury to the nose when police hauled him into a radio car. He was released on $15 bail and failed to appear in court the following day. His bail was declared forfeited.

Specifically the students rallied at the legislature in support of a resolution of the student association which demanded increased provincial aid to universities.

The resolution had no direct connection with federal grants to universities which Quebec institutions have turned down for five years and which Mr. Duplessis opposes on the grounds they constitute a violation of exclusive provincial rights in matters of education.

Following the demonstration, the delegation from six Quebec province universities met at the headquarters of the general association of Laval students in the old Latin Quarter to debate the issue.

At his weekly press conference Friday, Premier Duplessis did not answer directly a question asking him what he would do if Quebec province universities accept federal aid over the objections of the provincial government.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, in a statement, has invited Quebec universities to accept federal grants despite Mr. Duplessis' objections.

Mr. Duplessis said he considered the Quebec government is doing its duty in opposing the grants and added he expects "everyone else will do his duty."

Asked specifically if Provincial aid would be withdrawn from an institution deciding to accept federal grants, he said he is not the leader of the Quebec government to "solve hypothetical questions, but to solve administrative problems."

"If the problem arises, we will study it and find a solution."

Lines for disagreement over the federal grants were drawn up last week. Mr. Duplessis announced his opposition to a plan outlined by Prime Minister St. Laurent to double federal grants to $16,000,000 from $8,000,000 and to have them distributed by the national conference of Canadian universities.

RESOURCEFUL FIREFIGHTERS

When an alert patrol of Goderich Boy Scouts discovered a bush fire in Algonquin Park, while hiking recently, they took off their trousers and tied the legs to make containers for carrying water from Kerney Lake to the fire.

Under Scoutmaster Glen Lodge the Troop had been camping at Kearney Lake. Officials of the Ontario Lands and Forests Department said the Scouts' quick action had prevented serious trouble from developing in the huge, densely wooded park. The fire was believed to have been caused by a careless camper who neglected to put out his campfire properly the previous day.

OF MANY THINGS

By Ambrose Hills

Hold Opinions !

Do you find yourself sometimes nodding in agreement to forcefully expressed opinions even though you really don't agree with them at all?

Do you tell yourself that you only agree to avoid a messy argument?

This has happened to me once or twice, and I've always been sorry for it afterwards. Now, if some earnest soul preaches a doctrine I can't hold with, I either keep silent or put up an argument. I refuse to agree just to humor a man or keep the peace.

I feel better when I adopt this attitude. I maintain my self respect. And strangely enough, it has often happened that a firm friendship has been reached through argument or discussion.

I can remember one man who came storming to see me, waving an OF MANY THINGS column under my nose, and telling me how wrong I was. We had quite a set-to. Today, we are good friends. He knows that there are certain points where we hold diametrically opposite views; that there are other points where we are in accord. Perhaps each of us changed our views somewhat or were put straight to some degree. But there was no pussy-footing or hedging.

Friendship is a poor thing indeed if it involves any loss of personal integrity.

Often used to listen, as a youngster, to my father and his closest friend argue political matters. Sometimes the air would be blue. But their friendship was real enough to encompass the idea that each held honest opinions and had a right to support them. That's true friendship and it should never be weakened by any compromising of opinion.

This does not mean stubborn adherence to falsehood. Never be afraid to admit a mistake in fact, or in theory, if convinced that you have been wrong. That would be a compromise, too, of your own personal integrity.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

When you commit a social blunder, there is usually a kind soul in the room who comforts you by recalling the time he did something far worse.

If you knock over a cup, it puts him in mind of the day he smashed a Ming vase. If you burn a hole in a chair, he tells you how he fell asleep smoking a cigar on a friend's chesterfield, and burned the house down.

Some hosts are so tolerant and self-deprecating that one feels they would pardon any faux pas, and cite faults of their own to overshadow it.

Should a man of this sort find a guest rifling the family jewel box, he might say: "Oh, don't worry. I used to be a kleptomaniac myself, and Uncle Fred served three years for embezzlement."

Such reassurance may not ring true if carried too far. But a man feels better when he learns that there are other people clumsier or they generously tell him, offering duller-witted than himself — as their own dignity as a sacrifice.

The other day I dropped a bowl of peanuts in a friend's house. As I was picking them up and replacing them, meanwhile apologizing for my butter-fingers, a gentleman told me a comforting yarn.

"I was away from home," he said, "and my six children thought they would get a meal. They made a large bowl of thick vegetable soup. On the way to the table one of the boys dropped the soup. It sloshed all over the floor. The children were horrified. They had been taught not to waste anything. But the stuff had to be cleared up.

"Then one of them had an idea: persuade the chickens to eat the soup. At least it wouldn't be wasted, if that could be done. The children laid a trail of wheat from the chicken yard, all through the house to the spot where the soup was. All the children hid behind chairs and sofas, and sure enough, the hens came pecking along the trail. Pretty soon they reached the soup and began gobbling it up.

"The children were so pleased that they came out for a closer look. Whoosh! The hens took fright. They began squawking and flying in all directions. When the last chicken had found its way outside, the house was a shambles of feathers, soup and overturned chairs. I didn't find out until a year afterwards, because the kids cleaned up the mess by themselves. They were good youngsters," my friend said.

By this time I had finished picking up the peanuts, and sat back in the chair, munching some.

"I'll bet that taught them to be more careful," I said smugly.

NURSING CHOW
And How to WIN a Purina Weighing Tape and Knife

25 Pounds of Purina NURSING CHOW will replace 25 gallons of milk, and at the present price of Nursing Chow, is still cheaper than milk at 24 cents a gallon (surplus milk at $2.00 a can is 25 cents a gallon) — because calves raised on this chow and CALF STARTENA averaged 20 pounds heavier than those raised on milk and Calf Startena.

Holstein calves raised on Nursing Chow and Calf Startena averaged 326 pounds at 4 months of age, and Holstein heifers averaged 320 pounds at the same age. Guernsey calves averaged 251 pounds at 4 months. Ayrshire calves will be in between, say 275 pounds at 4 months.

Now, IF YOU CAN BEAT THIS IN COST AND WEIGHT on your pet calf feeding program I will give you a Purina Weigh Tape, and the first three to report will each get a dandy Purina Jacknife!

Start your calves on Purina Nursing Chow at 3 days and feed 25 pounds to each calf. Start them on Calf Startena on the 4th day. You have to teach them to eat as well as to drink, so have patience, and don't give them more than recommended amounts of Nursing Chow. Or if you are still not convinced and want to feed milk, LIMIT the milk. Not over a gallon a day at any time — and your calf will want to eat.

We have more trouble with dairymen feeding too much milk than with any other factor, and after all, the milk is the expensive part.

Third is feeding hay too young, another expense.

Fourth is complaining that it is too dear, when they have done everything possible to make it dear! Remember, you won't have as fat a calf as fed on milk, and you shouldn't want this fat; but you will have a bigger and growthier calf at less cost. Let us supply you. We deliver!

Early District Citizen Dies in Manitoba

The Late William Moore

An early resident of this community, Mr. William Moore, passed away at his home in Morris, Manitoba, on October 27.

The deceased gentleman, who was 84 years of age, was born at Hill Head, the youngest son of the late Jas. Moore, Sr., and his wife, Ann James Armstrong.

Mr. Moore was educated locally, later taking his B.A. degree at McGill University. He taught school for several years in the Eastern Townships before going west, where he followed the same vocation in McGregor and Brandon. After a lengthy term of teaching, a successful law practice was established, with an extensive notarial business. Mr. Moore enjoyed the blessing of a large circle of friends and will be greatly missed, particularly in his home community.

As a member of King Solomon Lodge, No. 8, of Morris, Mr. Moore was honored recently on completing 50 years of continuous membership in the Masonic Order, receiving a 50-year jewel. He was also honored by being appointed District Deputy Grand Master.

Mr. Moore was the last of a family of six — four boys and two girls. Mrs. Moore remains, with many relatives and friends, to mourn his passing.

75 YEARS AGO

October 28, 1881 —

Yesterday, being Thanksgiving Day, was pretty generally observed. Services were held in the several churches in the village, and were well attended, we trust, with devout and thankful worshippers for the blessing of a bountiful harvest.

Rev. H. J. Evans and the churchwardens of St. Simeon's Church Lachute, desire on behalf of the Mission to accord their grateful thanks for the many generous donations to the building fund of the church, also for numerous articles of church furniture.

The Lachute Fair is being held on the usual grounds today.

Everybody thought the St. Andrews Railroad would branch off from Lachute Station, until the last 10 days, the engineer and surveyors have decided that it would be more beneficial to the Company to join the main line at Lachute Mills.

50 YEARS AGO

November 2, 1906 —

Mr. Joseph Chapman, of Lakefield, while gathering his cows one evening in the early part of the week, had the pleasure of bagging a deer which was quietly grazing with the cattle.

At an adjourned meeting of the Lachute Town Council, it was decided that a steel bridge be built across the West River in place of the old one, with abutments either in wood, concrete or stone, according to plans and specifications now before the Council, and that the secretary be requested to write the Dominion Bridge Company to ascertain the cost of a 90-foot steel bridge with a 16-foot roadway, and an 80-foot bridge with a 16-foot roadway.

October 30, 1931 —

On Wednesday last, a big "bruin" paid a visit to the apiary of Arthur Holt, Carillon, doing considerable damage. The following evening, he again returned, upsetting several more beehives, but before doing further damage, was shot by Camille Roy, who lay in wait for his return. Being severely wounded, he did not go far and was found the following morning.

St. Philippe — Three buildings, comprising a butcher shop, restaurant and two dwellings, were destroyed by fire early Sunday morning with total damage estimated in excess of $22,000, this being partially covered by insurance. Lachute volunteer firemen, headed by Chief Deacon, were on the scene for several hours.

Another great link was joined to the historic choice of Argenteuil County with the ceremonious opening of the new bridge spanning the Ottawa River from Grenville to Hawkesbury. "Perley Bridge", so named after our esteemed Federal Member, Sir George Perley, was officially opened Sunday.

MOUNTIE IS HONORED FOR HOLD-UP BATTLE

Vancouver (CP) — RCMP Corporal Bud Johnstone, shot eight times in a furious gun battle with bank robbers, has been presented with a silver cigarette case bearing a button that probably saved his life by stopping a bullet. It was given him by the Canadian Bankers Association in recognition of his fight, in which he killed one bandit and wounded another. A third man was later captured.

Cpl. Johnstone was presented with a $2,500 cheque for his efforts in foiling the robbery. However, RCMP rules did not allow him to keep the money, which was handed over to the RCMP benefit trust fund. The Bankers Association, however, gave him an electric washer and drier and a refrigerator.

BIG EXPANSION

Port Moody, B.C. (CP) — The first stage of a $35,000,000 residential development which will eventually see 1,500 homes in a 450-acre community here was approved by council. The development should be finished in three years.

Women Advised Maintain Sense Of Humor

Noted Dietician and Demonstrator Speaks To W. Inst. Ladies

Approximately 150 Women's Institute members and guests from Lachute, Brownsburg, St. Andrews and Cushing gathered at the Legion Hall last Thursday afternoon to hear Madame Jehane Benoit's lecture entitled "Cooking on the Run".

The president, Mrs. Geo. McGibbon, introduced the speaker, who is well known as a dietician, journalist, radio speaker and television demonstrator.

Commencing her talk, Madame Benoit advised all housewives to maintain a sense of humor and always wear a smile in the kitchen — otherwise cooking could be a boring and monotonous occupation. A canoe can look like a battleship, she said, if one uses a little imagination and "dressing up." Importance of the use of prepared frozen and packaged foods was stressed, but these, like the canoe, need dressing up by the addition of spices, seasoning and decoration. Do not always bother what the cookbook says — just use your own imagination and be a fantastic cook, Madame Benoit advised.

Recipes for quick meals were given, and instructions for preparation, which proved both helpful and entertaining.

Two door prizes given by the Salada Tea Company, and four by Lachute Branch of the W.I., were won by Mrs. W. Scott, Mrs. G. MacKenzie, Mrs. E. Hibbard, Mrs. Gaston, Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. L. Robinson.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Special Activity at Brownsburg United Ch.

Brownsburg — The Official Board of Brownsburg United Church decided on September 6 to conduct an organized and intensive campaign this fall, to encompass every member and adherent of the congregation. Mr. S. E. Rose accepted the post of general chairman, and Rev. G. W. Bruce that of co-chairman. The campaign is to be conducted under the guidance, and with the recommendation of, the United Church in Canada. The purpose is to increase the spiritual and momentary resources of the local congregation.

A congregational dinner under the auspices of the Senior Women's Organization will be held on Friday, November 9, at 6.30 p.m. at the Legion Hall, to which all members and adherents are cordially invited. The plan culminates by a meeting of a member of the church with each family in the privacy of their own home.

Annual Church Dinner at St. Francis, St. Sauveur

Morin Heights — The Church of St. Francis held its fifth anniversary congregational dinner on Friday evening, with several hundred attending. Chairman was the Rev. H. G. Baugh, and guest speaker was Mr. Maxwell Ford, B.A., B.C.L., who spoke on the topic "For They Had a Mind to Build." He congratulated the parishioners for their magnificent achievements during the past five years, and by use of various references showed how people had been able to accomplish great tasks through will-power.

Other speakers included the Rev. Canon C. W. P. Baugh, Lakefield; Ven. Archdeacon F. Morris, Montreal; Dr. Victor Jekyll, Mayor Bastien of St. Sauveur, Mr. John H. Molson, Mr. William Bell.

The dinner was held under auspices of the Women's Association of St. Francis Church.

Missionary Couple Coming To Margaret Rodger Presbyterian Church

Two special visitors from the Nigeria mission field, Sir Francis and Lady Ibiam, now in Canada, are to visit Lachute on Wednesday, November 14. They will be at the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, where Sir Francis will deliver an address. This talented gentleman is one of the outstanding citizens of Nigeria. He has served on the Legislative and Executive Councils, and is a Privy Councillor and much-trusted advisor of the government.

This will be a rare opportunity for local people to hear of the challenge of mission work in Nigeria and to learn about that crucial area in the African community where the Church is committed to proclaim the good news of Jesus Christ.

Honors for Centenarian, Engineer on Local Canals

L'Ecole Polytechnique in Montreal last Monday held an informal reception on the occasion of the 100th birthday of Louis Stanislas Pariseau, Canada's oldest graduate engineer, a first-year student when the school opened in 1873 and a member of the first graduating class four years later.

Mr. Pariseau celebrated his 100th anniversary a week ago, having been born in St. Martin on October 22, 1856, 11 years before Confederation. In 1879, he started work with the Federal department of railroads and canals that eventually was to lead him to the post of superintendent of canals in Quebec.

Prior to his retirement from the federal department in 1930 after 51 years service, he was associated with work on the Grenville and Carillon canals, the locks at Grenville and the bridges over both canals, among many other projects.

Mr. Pariseau shows remarkable vitality for his age and still enjoys hunting and fishing.

Volleyball

Friday afternoon both the Senior boys and girls' volleyball squads motored to Ste. Agathe. The L.H.S. teams were looking forward to this visit, since their oponents have won the O.V.S.A.A. Championship for the last four years. This season the L.H.S. players have not lost a game yet, and Friday night was no exception, the boys winning with scores of 3-15, 15-13, 15-9, while the girls did equally well — 15-6, 15-9, 6-11.

The fact that the home teams won both games over the champions of the last four years, is a credit to Lachute High School.

Soccer

The second game of the week-end was played Saturday morning, when Lachute met the visiting Junior soccer team from Hudson. This was an exciting encounter and was anybody's game until the last quarter, when the score was tied, 2-2. Finally the winning tally was won by Ken Underhill who, along with Dougie MacKenzie, had already scored 1 point. Thus the game ended with Lachute ahead, 3-2.

Basketball

Shortly after noon on Saturday, the Senior boys and girls left for Buckingham to play basketball. The girls made the first appearance on the floor and their game was refereed by Claire Jenkins. At the end of the first quarter, Lachute was leading 7-5. In the next phase, the local girls displayed their famous "weave" which accounted for several rapid plays. Both teams played a defensive game in the third quarter and Lachute kept the lead 23-12. In the last period the home team edged out any chance of Buckingham winning, and the game ended with a 35-18 margin for L.H.S.

The Three Star Selection was awarded to Betty Underhill, Heather Jones and Joyce Davis, respectively.

The boys then met the Buckingham Seniors in a fast exhibition game. The home team got away to a good start, sinking 5 baskets, and 1 foul shot in the first quarter. The end of the next quarter saw the opponents still lagging, 21-6. So throughout the entire game Lachute was well in the lead, and when the final whistle blew the score board showed 51-17 in favor of the local squad.

Scorers for Lachute were Arthur Gauley 29, Wayne Bradford 13, Glenn Swail 4, Reg Stansfield and Ian Duncan (each 2), while Bruce Cairns sank a foul. The first star went to Arthur Gauley, second Reg Stansfield, and third Wayne Bradford.

Social

The first dance of the season was held in the school gym on Friday evening. Sponsored by the Students' Council this Hallowe'en party proved a success. Shirley Pollock acted as MC for the occasion, while Miss F. McLaughlan, Mr. L. Rossaera and Mr. R. Bailly were chaperons.

Prize winners for costumes were Lona Welden, dressed as a ghost, and Patsy Lees, representing a rooster. A jitter-bug contest was won by Miss F. McLaughlan and Peter Riddell. Proceeds of the evening amounted to $36.45.

Coming Events

The Senior boys' and Junior girls' basketball teams from Ste. Agathe are expected to be in Lachute Saturday afternoon. Come and cheer for the home teams!

United Church Bowling Activities Resumed

The first games of the 1956-57 season in the United Church Bowling League were played on Monday evening. All 12 teams are now completed, and a good competitive season appears in store. The scores for Monday were:

TURNED THEIR BACKS ON ROCK 'N' ROLL

—Central Press Canadian

Three of the five-member, one-family symphony orchestra of South Porcupine, Ont., are Paul, Joe and Sandy McNab, who have turned their backs on rock 'n' roll music for the pleasures of Bach, Beethoven and Mozart. Their father had tried to stimulate interest in the town for a civic symphony orchestra but he found response cool everywhere but at home. The symphony players may never rate Carnegie Hall, but they're still having a lot of fun and don't even mention Elvis Presley.

Skin-Diving Is Airmen's Pastime

Two Vancouver Island airmen are practicing a relatively new outdoor sport that is probably unique in the Air Force.

Skin-diving is a popular pastime in British Columbia and after hearing so much of the new world of underwater mysteries Leading Aircraftsman Cyril Price, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Price, Cordova Bay, Victoria, and Kenneth R. Robinson, 21, son of Mrs. L. Holdcroft, 979 Lodge Avenue, Victoria, decided they would investigate.

Investing about $250 each in "frogman" suits and oxygen equipment, and armed with all the information they could find on the new sport, the two youthful airmen launched themselves into the cold waters of the Strait of Georgia.

Keeping Canada's front line fighter interceptor CF-100 jet aircraft at the RCAF's base at Comox in the air is their prime job, and skin-diving their favorite hobby.

Although amateurs, both LAC Price and Robinson soon developed the knack of using their new equipment.

"It was a bit scary at first," explained LAC Robinson, "but a little practice soon took care of that."

He was enthusiastic about their underwater experiences and said there was a lot more fish around the coast than many disappointed anglers realized.

"Spear fishing for cod and exploring reefs around the Comox airbase is a great way to spend your spare time," declared LAC Price.

News of the two airmen's skin-diving hobby soon became known to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who have requested their assistance on several occasions.

The type of work was not always enjoyable, but the two airmen have always been available when called on by the RCMP.

Locating lost equipment for the police, as an example, can usually only be done by a skin-diver, the two airmen explained.

"He can move about quickly under water without disturbing the mud," LAC Price said, " a man in a conventional-type diving suit can't do the same job."

Significance of Player Numbers

SPORTS CAMERA
By Don Andrews,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In 1911, six years before the National Hockey League was organized, Lester and Frank Patrick introduced a new gimmick to the sport for the benefit of fans and officials. That was the number on the player's sweater — an idea pick-up by other sports — and today many numbers are steeped in tradition.

In baseball, for instance, Babe Ruth wore number 3. When his playing days were over that treasured number was laid to rest by the New York Yankee management. Many sports have famous numbers, but since they were first worn in hockey it seems proper that this sport should have the fondest memories.

Number 7 is sacred to the Montreal Canadiens. It belonged to Howie Morenz, the "Stratford Streak" whose death in 1937 stunned the hockey world. Some 15,000 fans attended the funeral service in the Montreal Forum and another 30,000 stood outside the darkened building. As the coffin was lowered in the cemetery a floral figure 7 was placed on top. It has never since been worn by a member of the NHL Canadiens or the Junior Canadiens.

Numbers 5 and 6 are two that Toronto Maple Leafs now never wear. Number 5 belonged to Bill Barilko, "lost on a plane flight over Northern Ontario the summer after his goal won the Stanley Cup for the Leafs in 1951. Number 6 was for Ace Bailey, who was forced to quit playing after suffering a near-fatal head injury in a collision with Eddie Shore in 1933.

Fast-Moving Numbers

A famous number still to be seen on the ice lanes is 9, worn by two of the greatest rightwingers in hockey history. It idenfies both Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Canadiens and Gordie Howe of Detroit.

The Rocket first wore number 15 when playing amateur hockey and stayed with it when he started in the NHL. But he had a run of bad luck. In his 15th game, playing against Boston Bruins on December 27, 1942, young Maurice scored one goal and two assists, then in the third period was knocked offstride and crashed into the boards, suffering a broken right ankle.

The next season he was back at training camp eager to overcome the jinx. Coach Dick Irvin decided to use him on a line with Toe Blake and Elmer Lach. Equally important was the fact his wife had just presented him with a daughter. His fellow-players asked what he would call her.

"Huguette," said Maurice, "She weighs nine pounds."

One of the others suggested Richard switch his number to 9, which he did.

The change seems to have worked. Since then Richard has gone on to become the highest goal-scorer in NHL history.

Gordie Howe, promising to become the second highest scorer in hockey history, made a simpler selection. He had idolized Richard when he was a youngster, so naturally when Howe made the Red Wing line-up he adopted the same number worn by the Rocket.

There have been several instances of famous numbers being donated to another player on the retirement of a star in one sport or another. But individual teams in many sports have treasured numbers laid away in perpetuity.

And of course, number 13 is rarely seen. It has never happened in major league hockey and only once or twice in baseball.

Controversial Boxing Figure

By Milt MacPhail,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Former world welterweight boxing champion Johnny Saxton has figured in his share of controversies — both in the ring and out.

Johnny had some scrapes with the law in New York but has survived without too much trouble. In 1954, he was brought into court on a gun-carrying charge, but the case was thrown out for lack of evidence. The same year he had difficulty with traffic tickets but received a suspended sentence. Earlier this year, he was involved in a dispute with two other men and assault charges were lodged — but later dropped.

In the ring, Saxton decisioned Johnny Bratton in a Philadelphia fight in 1954 and Bratton was disciplined by the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission for a "poor performance."

Saxton lost the welterweight crown to Carmen Basilio last month in a rematch. In their first meeting, Johnny had beaten Basilio in Chicago to take the title, in one of the most disputed decisions in recent years.

Two years ago Saxton was embroiled in a king-sized rhubarb in a title fight with Kid Gavilan. Their bout was postponed twice, once when Gavilan injured his hand and another time when The Kid had the mumps. They finally fought in Philadelphia October 20, 1954.

After a fifth round that produced next to nothing in the way of action, Pennsylvania State Athletic Commissioner Frank Weiner told referee Pete Panteleo to warn the boys to start fighting.

The warning brought a little action in the next few rounds but by the 10th Saxton and Gavilan were back to their dull tactics and the crowd was jeering loudly.

This spurred Gavilan into action. The champion from Cuba opened up and his flurries in the final three rounds seemed to wrap things up for him.

He was mistaken. The decision went to Saxton. Gavilan was outspokenly surprised at the verdict, as were many, many more.

But in the light of Saxton's knack for controversy, that fight seemed to be a natural thing.

TV Trial Scene, "Posterity versus Joseph Howe"

"Ladies and gentlemen, you have been summoned this evening as a jury. Before you will appear one to whom death denies the rest and oblivion which it grants to common man. This man lived and wished to live amid the heat and glow attending the forging of our nation. He made history; he is therefore answerable to history. You who come after him are his judges, as later generations will judge of you. Let Joseph Howe be summoned before the bar of history."

So begins the "trial" of Joseph Howe, man and politician. The scene is a courtroom in the minds of men; the witnesses are the men who lived and strove with Howe; the jury is posterity.

"The Case of Posterity versus Joseph Howe," a dramatic argument written by Joseph Schull, will be presented on "Folio" program Wednesday, November 7 (10-11 p.m.) on the CBC-TV network. It will be produced by Robert Allen, and a symbolic courtroom setting has been designed by Nikolai Soloviov.

Radio listeners will remember Schull's two-part study of Howe's long career which was broadcast on CBC Wednesday Night last spring. This "Folio" program (which is not a play) will not cover the same territory but will, in a sense, carry on where the radio script left off: the events of Howe's political career will be examined by a variety of his contemporaries, who will also discuss his qualities as a man and the forces which propelled him.

Among the witnesses are Judge Thomas Chandler Haliburton, author of "Sam Slick the Clockmaker", the early parts of which were published in Howe's newspaper; and S. G. W. Archibald, the former attorney-general of Nova Scotia, who acted as prosecutor when Howe was tried for seditious libel in 1835. From this trial, which was prompted by Howe's publication in his newspaper of an attack on the magistrates of Halifax, stemmed Howe's leadership of the people of Nova Scotia; and it eventually led to the collapse of colonialism and the rise of responsible government in Canada.

Also present are Sir Charles Tupper, prime minister of Nova Scotia, who led the province into Confederation over Howe's bitter opposition; William Annand, who wanted Howe to lead the Nova Scotian extremists in a rebellion for independence from Canada; Sir John A. Macdonald; Sir Brenton Haliburton, the judge at Howe's trial; John Roach, one of the Halifax magistrates attacked by Howe; and Sir Colin Campbell, governor of Nova Scotia in the period following the trial.

In the "trial" by posterity Howe is accused of selfishly opposing Confederation. The central charge against him is stated thus: "that Howe, entrusted with the confidence of many of his fellow-citizens, did by wilful and self-interested obstruction of the union of the British colonies of North America damage and impair the fabric of the nation; that he did betray the trust reposed in him, misuse his hour of life and forfeit the esteem of men." In his reply Howe (enacted by John Drainie) maintains the involvement of principle rather than self-interest; but his life ended bitterly for him, with the acceptance of a post in the federal government.

Sir Joshua Reynolds, England's great 18th century portrait painter, the Reader's Digest reports, turned out 3,000 canvases and painted 677 portraits within five years. Deafness which forced him to use an ear trumpet did not prevent his success.

Let us be clear about the role of the classics: they are worth studying as examples of HOW to think, not of WHAT to think.

MONTREAL ARTIST TO PAINT QUEEN

—Central Press Canadian

Commissioned by the Canadian government to paint portraits of Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, Montreal artist Lilias Newton will present herself at Buckingham palace on Feb. 5, 1957. It is the first time the government has ever commissioned a native artist to do a royal portrait.

MULTIPLY OLD MASTERS

Art sophisticates may shudder, says The Financial Post, but thousands of others who appreciate great works of art yet can't afford to own them, will be able to buy absolutely authentic-looking canvas reproductions of the world's art treasures. A process developed in the U.K. makes possible extremely quick reproduction. Each painting is done by hand by an academy-trained artist, using a pattented color process which traces the brush strokes. First reproductions will be shown shortly in Montreal and Toronto.

An excerpt from the diary of John McCrae, the soft-spoken surgeon from Guelph, Ontario, who wrote "In Flanders Fields", has been dramatized for radio and will be heard on Trans-Canada radio network November 8, 6.35-7.00 p.m.

"Theatre du Nouveau Monde" Sponsors Contest For Canadian Playrights

Conscious of the aims it set for itself when it was founded five years ago, and in order to encourage Canadian playwrights and to promote creation of a Canadian Drama Repertory, the "Theatre du Nouveau Monde" is sponsoring this year a contest for theatrical works. Seven judges, whose identity will be revealed after the winner is chosen, will compose the Board of Selection. These persons are not connected in any way with the "Theatre du Nouveau Monde", and have no ties with it of any nature. They are representatives from the Critics' Club, the Society of Canadian Writers, the Society of Dramatic Authors, the French-Canadian Academy, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the Quebec Conservatory of Music and Dramatic Art, and the Faculty of Letters of the University of Montreal. The winning play will be staged by the "Theatre du Nouveau Monde" in Quebec City on May 4 next, and in Montreal on May 7. The Montreal performance continuing to May 25 inclusive. Simultaneously, the play will be published by the Cercle du Livre de France. The authors' rights on the performances in Quebec and Montreal and on the book will amount to a minimum of $700. This amount could be increased considerably if the play is a success. If, after having been produced on the stage, the play is adapted for television, the author will also receive all rights. The only conditions existing to take part in this contest are included in the following by-laws:

The author must be a Canadian citizen, and his entry must conform with regulations of the contest.

Are Canadians 'Enjoying' Prosperity?

"What are the results of increasing prosperity in Canada? Under present conditions, can we provide effectively for the future merely by making provisions for business expansion or for the retirement of employees?"

In an effort to find the answers to these and other important questions, a sociological survey is currently putting six Ontario communities under the searching microscope of social science. "Man and Industry" is the title of the project, being carried out by the University of Toronto's School of Social Work.

Teams of social workers are being sent into such areas as the St. Lawrence Seaway, Iroquois Falls, Blind River, Malton, Scarborough and the Regents Park redevelopment area in Toronto. Their purpose is to find out what effect industrial development has had on groups of Canadians.

Tonight (Thursday) the CBC will attempt to report and assess the project in a special program titled "Man and Industry". Narrator Gordon Cullingham will sit in on the initial briefing of the six groups of social workers and visit one of the selected towns. He will record discussions, statements and interviews with researchers.

The broadcast is available to all stations on the CBS Dominion network and will begin at 9 p.m. EST.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

"Jack Frost" will soon be here for his annual winter stay. He's an influential fellow. We change our wardrobe when he arrives, warm-up the house and, if we're smart, get our car ready for his visit, too.

While many of us take vitamins for extra protection against the cold, we should remember that many car ailments during this time can be avoided by proper servicing. Here are a few tips on car care and operating techniques.

Your car suffers more from Wintertime driving than it does during the warm days of summer. Snow is more destructive to a car kept out-of-doors than any summer rain. More frequent car washings are necessary in the Winter to prevent rusting and corroding of parts as the snow splashes up underneath your car. You'll find that if you "open" your small ventilating windows in the front of the car to allow a small stream of air in, your windshield won't tend to steam-up on cold days.

Tires don't necessarily need more air in them, but thin smooth treads are treacherous on ice. In heavy snow belt sections of the country, special tires with Winter tread designs are available. They can save you trouble as well as preserve your regular tires. As for the radiator, you'll find the safest and easiest way to keep it in good health is to be sure it has an adequate supply of anti-freeze. Keep a "weather-eye" on the oil — it will need frequent changes during the winter. Make sure the battery is fully charged at all times. Have the brakes checked periodically, as they take a pretty fair beating in winter.

Too much trouble to check all this? Not at all. Automotive experts suggest you prepare your car for winter — by having your car's oil, tires, battery, radiator, brakes and windshield wiper checked. Then, when Jack Frost touches the winter scene, driving will be an even greater pleasure.

SPONSOR JAMBOREE FILM

When Scouts of the world meet in England next August for the Jubilee Jamboree, to celebrate the Golden Jubilee of Scouting and the 100th Anniversary of the birth of Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the Scout Movement, a film record will be made of the event. This has been made possible by Messrs. Brooke Bond and Company Ltd., a British tea firm, which has consented to sponsor the film.

In this age of science people aren't to be taken in by old wives' remedies or cure-all concoctions based on nothing more than superstition.

Take cosmetics, for instance. Some may be sceptical when reading the claims on a label of a cold cream jar or toothpaste tube. But the fact is, beauty care today is on a scientific basis.

Once a laboratory develops a promising formula living models try to prove its worth and medical records are kept. Then it goes to the government which insists it meet certain standards before set to rest on a drugstore shelf.

A far cry from the methods they resorted to in the days of Marie Antoinette! A popular concoction then called for the pulverized wings and claws of a pigeon mixed well with lily petals and fresh eggs, ground mother-of-pearl and camphor distilled with musk.

It isn't said — and perhaps just as well — what the mixture was supposed to do for a woman.

Nor did women always have the government supporting their quest for glamor. Indeed, in 18th-century England a touch of rouge could have meant a jail term.

A statute passed by parliament read in part: "All women of whatsoever rank or degree that shall seduce or betray into matrimony any of His Majesty's subjects by scents, paints, cosmetic washes, artificial teeth, false hair, iron stays, hoops, high-heeled shoes and bolstered hips, shall incur the penalty of the law in force against witchcraft and like demeanors upon conviction shall stand null and void."

Party Palate

After a bridge party — the season's here again — the master minds deserve something good to eat, something special to talk about. Try this:

½ Cup shortening, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar, 1 egg unbeaten, 1 cup dates pitted and cut in half, ½ cup coarsely chopped nuts, 1 cup warm water, 1½ cups sifted, all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking soda, ½ cup graham flour.

Place shortening, salt, brown sugar and eggs in a medium mixing bowl. Beat until blending. Combine dates, nuts and water in a small bowl. Blend together flour, baking soda and graham flour. Add to first mixture, then add date mixture. Beat until flour is blended.

Pour into greased 9 by 5 by 3-inch loaf pan. Bake in 350-degree oven for an hour. Remove from pan and cool before cutting.

Timely Tips

Here is a time-saving tip for the lunch-maker of the family. Set aside a "lunch drawer" in your kitchen, preferably near the bread box and keep it supplied with all the extras needed to prepare school lunches — waxed paper, paper napkins, plastic containers and polythene bags. With everything so handy the daily chore becomes easy.

For this fall's bride who is busy planning a color scheme for her new home, here is a helpful hint: choose the drapery material first. Then you can take your cue from the colors in the fabric when painting walls and selecting furnishings.

FIX WARMING LUNCHES FOR FALL DAYS

By Anne Marshall

Brisk and breezy fall days turn thoughts about food towards satisfying hot specialties like steaming soup. Just what your youngsters appreciate for lunch.

After all the morning activity, the school-agers are plenty hungry. Oh boy, it's good to sit down to a big bowl of vegetable soup and a sharp cheese sandwich. They may need seconds on both soup and sandwich to fill all the hollows; but they're well filled with nourishing food after this kind of meal. And the warmth of soup seems to give a lift to the spirits.

Luckily good hot soups of many kinds are at your command. Just reach to the shelf for any of the "21 kinds" of condensed soup. And you can mix one flavour with another too. Try tomato with beef noodle soup. Or cream of chicken with asparagus soup.

Fun too is the way you can garnish a bowl of hot soup so it really catches the eye. How about fluffy white popcorn or a toast animal (cut with cookie cutter) atop tomato soup. Or make a funny face with a cracker to float on soup: spread cracker with cheese (use olive bits or nuts for eyes, ears and nose). These are fun for parties as well as everyday meals.

SOUP 'N SANDWICH LUNCHES
(Eat at home or tote to School)

BEANS TEAM WITH DEVILLED EGGS

Hot, hearty beans and pork go deliciously with devilled eggs for warm weather feasts. Have them at your next porch supper or beach picnic. Tote the beans in a covered casserole. For the devilled eggs, give an extra zip of flavour by mixing devilled ham with the usual egg yolk filling. Count on generous helpings of beans and at least 2 eggs per person.

GRAVY GLORIFIES SANDWICH

When there's roast meat left from dinner, fix double deck sandwiches for the next meal. Glorify sandwiches with hot gravy (using 1 can of beef gravy). For each sandwich, place slice of meat between 2 slices toast and top with more meat. Pour on the hot brown gravy. Each can contains 1¼ cups beef gravy, enough for 3 or 4 sandwiches. Garnish sandwich plates with cold crisp celery, carrot sticks, and pickles. Man, that's a meal!

TRY ASPARAGUS—CELERY SOUP

Wonderful to serve icy cold is this soup combination: Condensed cream of asparagus with cream of celery soup. Blend together 1 can of each of the soups; stir in 1 soup can each of milk and water. Then for extra flavour, add 2 tablespoons minced parsley or ¼ cup grated carrot. Chill 4 hours. Serve in cold bowls. 4 servings.

Home-Baked Bread

Since the days of the early settlers most Canadians have looked upon bread as a family standby. A generation or so ago, baking day was commonly regarded by the entire family as the most wonderful day of the week. The delicious fragrance of yeast permeated the whole house — and everyone hovered in the kitchen waiting for the first loaves to be baked and cooled so they could be sliced.

Here's a recipe for the modern homemaker who longs to recapture the wonderful aroma and flavor of home-baked bread. The recipe yields four loaves and can be made with either potato water or plain water. At snack-time and at meal-time you'll be glad you made the effort.

Home-Baked Bread

1 Cup lukewarm water, 2 teaspoons granulated sugar, 2 envelopes active dry yeast, 3 cups lukewarm water or 3 cups lukewarm potato water, 2 tablespoons shortening, 12 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1½ tablespoons salt, 5 tablespoons powdered skim milk.

In 1 cup of lukewarm water thoroughly dissolve 2 teaspoons granulated sugar. Sprinkle yeast on top of water. Let stand 10 minutes. Then stir well. Stir together lukewarm water or potato water and shortening. Add well-stirred yeast and mix well. Add 6 cups of the flour, a cup at a time, beating well after each addition. Blend in salt, powdered skim milk and remaining flour. When dough is stiff enough to be easily handled turn onto well-floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 5 minutes. Place in greased bowl. Cover with clean towel and let rise in warm place free from draft for 2 hours or until doubled in bulk.

Punch down dough and pull sides into center. Turn onto floured board and knead about 3 minutes. Divide dough into four equal portions and knead each into a ball. Cover with a clean towel and let stand 10 minutes. Meanwhile grease four 9½ x 5½ x 2½-inch loaf pans. Shape each ball of dough into a loaf. Place dough in greased pans. Cover with a clean towel and let rise in a warm place free from draft 1½ hours or until doubled in bulk. Preheat oven to 400 deg. F. (hot). When dough has doubled, bake in preheated oven. After 15 minutes reduce heat to 375 deg. F. (moderately hot), and bake another 45 minutes. Makes 4 loaves.

In 1955 Canadians spent $3,530 million in grocery and other food stores, compared to $1,878 million in 1951.

Flavorful Fowl Is Bargain Right Now

One of the best buys at your meat counter these days is plump, meaty fowl. These birds are not like the old fashioned stewing hens that used to be sold. Most of them are simply mature chickens that are not producing enough eggs to pay their food bills and so they're fattened up and sold as fowl. They're sold by grade in most cities and you'll find that most of them wear a red Grade A tag. These are high quality fowl, well shaped with a good proportion of meat to bone and not too much fat.

Fowl can be just as tender and delicious as chicken if you treat it right and that means cooking it slowly in moist heat. Long, slow cooking with plenty of moisture helps to break down the connective tissue is these older birds and so is the secret for bringing their full flavor and tenderness. You can stew or fricassee fowl with equal success or you can stuff the bird, tenderize it in steam and then brown it in the oven.

Use Fowl in Stew or Fricassee

Stewed chicken (or fowl), in some form or another, is a familiar dish all over the world. Canadians are particularly fond of Chicken with Dumplings and here is how it's made in Canada's Kitchen:

Cut fowl in serving size pieces, wash carefully, cover with water in stewing kettle and add salt, pepper, chopped onion, celery and carrot for seasoning. Cover and simmer, just under boiling point, until tender. It will take from 2 to 3 hours. Thicken the stock with flour mixed with a little water, as you do with stew. Then drop dumpling mixture by spoonfuls on top of the fowl pieces. Cover the kettle tightly and cook 15 minutes without removing lid. Vegetables may be added during the last hour of cooking to make a complete meal.

Chicken Fricassee is really a type of stew. To make it dip the fowl pieces in milk, coat with seasoned flour and brown in hot fat. Then proceed as for stewed chicken. If you prefer to bake the fricassee make a gravy or sauce and pour it over the browned pieces of fowl in a casserole. Cover and bake in a 325°F. oven until tender (2 to 3 hours).

Chicken Pie

1 Fowl (4 to 5 pounds), 3 tablespoons fat, ½ pound mushrooms (sliced), 6 cups water, 1 carrot (sliced), 1 onion, 2 stalks celery, 2 tablespons chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon salt, 6 to 8 small cooked onions, 2 medium cooked potatoes (cut in 1-inch cubes), 1½ cups diced cooked carrots (or carrots and peas), 6 cups medium cream sauce seasoned to taste (made with stock or part stock and part milk), biscuit dough or pastry.

Cut fowl into pieces and fry in hot fat until well browned, about 10 minutes. Remove from pan. Fry mushrooms in fat left in pan until lightly browned, 2 to 3 minutes.

Place browned fowl in a kettle, add water, carrot, onion, celery, parsley and salt. Cover and simmer until fowl is tender, 2 to 3 hours. Allow fowl to cool in stock. Take from stock and remove meat from bones, cutting the meat in fairly large pieces. Strain stock for use in the sauce or in soup.

Combine meat with the cooked mushrooms, onions, potatoes and carrots. Place in a greased 12-cup casserole. Add cream sauce. Top with biscuit dough or pastry and bake in a hot oven, 425°F., until crust is done, about 40 minutes. Yield: 5 to 6 servings.

Note: If preferred, the fowl may be simmered without first browning.

TRAVELS BY AIR

Lorrie Ann Hallman, three, of Arlington, Va., permits her pet kitten, Sooty, to have another look at the monarch butterfly Sooty caught in the Hallman yard. A band on the butterfly's wing revealed it had flown all the way from Toronto, where it had been banded by lepidopterists. In her research work, Sooty almost swallowed evidence of her find by eating most of the butterfly's top left wing.

Women's Institutes and World Affiliations

The Associated Country Women of the World continues to grow. The Women's Institute in Malaya, which is only a few years old, has now joined, and another new member is the Institute more recently formed in India, the Bharatiya Grameen Mahila Sangh. The Zanzibar Women's Association is a corresponding member, the first step on the way to becoming a full-fledged constituent society.

The report from the London office of the ACWW goes on to say close contact is being maintained with a newly formed rural women's organization in Italy and another in the Philippines. Inquiries have come in from Japan and Thailand and Lady Coomaraswamy, an ACWW vice-president, will be visiting the latter place before the ACWW Conference in her own country of Ceylon.

This report also mentions another film strip is now ready. This last one, "The Homes We Live In", was shown for the first time at the close of the annual meeting of the ACWW Executive Committee. It is expected it will be ready soon for distribution to the constituent societies.

Sudden Outbursts

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

"How I wish I knew what caused these sudden outbursts so I could do the right thing about them," a young mother sighed.

"Teddy is so small to have such terrible tantrums! Mother says I had a quick temper when I was young and that I grew out of it, and so will he. I wish I could be sure of that. Yesterday when Aunt Sara was visiting us he climbed onto her kneee like a little cherub. But later he flew into a passionate rage. His aunt said no one would know it was the same child. She insisted that I punish him by spanking. That only made him worse."

Adults usually find in the daily vexations and frustrations of life that it is hard enough to be emotionally stable. Parents, remembering their own difficulties, should have more patience with their children's temper. A serene spirit, an intelligent approach, trying to discover causes, rather than an emotional approach of meeting anger with anger, is of utmost importance in dealing with children.

A child should never become the centre of attraction through temper tantrums. How much harm has been done to children by parents discussing their faults in front of them! If a child creates a great flurry of excitement by a temper tantrum he is likely to enjoy it!

A child should always feel that no matter how naughty he is, mother still loves him and believes that he can learn to overcome his fault, whether it be temper tantrums or any other undesirable behavior. The more responsibility a child has for his own good actions the more he will grow. The inner control of a person taking responsibility for his own life is one of the goals of education.

It is part of a child's heritage to be helped to grow out of temper tantrums, for they spoil his play time and as one famous educator has pointed out, "Play is a child's work." It is also his birthright to have space and toys for carefree play outdoors and in the house with a playmate or playmates his own age without too obvious adult supervision. An interest in pets and animals and enjoyment of handwork, music, reading and pictures, belong to childhood. A child likes to be useful, and simple tasks which he can perform have a place in his schedule.

An energetic child who has an insufficient number of happy, useful outlets for activity, is a good subject for temper tantrums. Proper tools for a child's work, playthings and toys for outdoor and indoor play are no extravagance, but necessary for a child's growth. It is reassuring for parents of children under four to know that anger and fear causing an emotional explosion are almost universal. This is a phase which should be a passing one.

After making sure that a child is not sick nor too hungry, nor fatigued, one of the best ways to banish temper tantrums is to approach them indirectly by filling a child's day with constructive, satisfying activities. Busy, happy, healthy children are not apt to have this behavior problem fixed in the daily pattern of their lives.

Discipline of anger and dispelling fear must come from within and not from outside restraints.

When a child is grown up he may forget his fits of temper, but he will always remember that his mother was never too busy to be a homemaker as well.

Fashions

Leather is lovely, leather is lasting and it has been given high fashion treatment to make it even more glamorous. Creamy beige pearlized kidskin takes a new line to smartness, and the result is a coat that is equally at home for festive events after dark as it is with casual clothes for sports or country wear. The high-waisted back belt ties in a bow knot in back and there is low-placed seaming to mark the beginning of the flared line which widens out from the form-hugging section at the underarm.

BOY GROWS PEANUTS AT HOME FOR HOBBY

Moose Jaw, Sask. (CP) — Peanuts — 12 roots of them — have been grown by seven-year-old Monsey Capeling in his home's garden. Each root has about 12 peanuts on it, but young gardener Monsey isn't sure if they will mature. "I'm hoping so," he says.

"Dad sent east for the seeds and I planted them as soon as they arrived," he says. "They grow just like potatoes."

Are working — day and night,
Scattering shimmering leaves of gold,
In extravagant delight.

Garden-Graph

Only the best bulbs should be used for forcing indoors. Catalogs specify selected "A No. 1" bulbs for this purpose.

Here are the steps to success in planting the bulbs:

Line the bottom of the flower pot with small stones or broken pieces of flower pots and a layer of moss or leafmold to provide proper drainage.

Next add good garden soil in which a little bonemeal has been added. Do not use manure or any quick acting fertilizer.

Do not press the bulbs down hard for that packs the soil beneath and makes it hard for the roots to penetrate the soil.

As soon as the bulbs are potted they should be given a thorough soaking and stored in a dark, cool place. The bulbs should not be set on a cement floor. Cover a cement floor with wood, paper or burlap bags before setting the pots on it.

The ideal method of handling potted bulbs is to place them outdoors in a trench or cold frame. Bury the pots in a bed of cinders or ashes to keep out earth worms. An inverted pot placed over the bulbs, as shown in the Garden-Graph, protects the young shoots. Cover the pots with leaves or straw.

Bulbs require at least six weeks in the dark and cold to develop ample root growth before being brought indoors. Ten weeks is better. When a pot becomes filled with roots take the bulbs indoors to begin top growth. Keep the pots in moderate light and a cool room.

Details Settled On Fire Dept. Change-Over

New Chief Appointed

Following this report, Ald. H. S. Church moved that Fernand Trépanier be appointed Chief of the Lachute Police and Fire Departments, at a salary of $85 a week, effective November 1, 1956. The motion, seconded by Ald. E. O. Pollock, passed unanimously, as did one effecting a raise of $10 a week to Assistant Chief Oscar Sabourin and increases of $5 a week to Constables Marcel Therrien and Jeannot Laurin.

To Engage Two Additional Employees

Ald. Church then stated that he felt the need for at least two more men to act as policemen-firemen, and moved that two men be hired, at a salary not to exceed $55 a week — being seconded by Ald. Pollock. Ald. Mozart Carriere said he was under the impression that Chief Trépanier had stated he was ready to take over the Fire Department with one additional man. The Chief replied that he had stated he would make a try, but was not in favor of attempting, as he felt that three men was the minimum requirement. Chief Trépanier added that at present, he was alone in the daytime in order to ensure enough men for the night shift. He outlined for Council his time schedule, and that of his men, indicating what would happen in the event of a fire and an emergency police call at the same time. "I took chances, for short intervals, in leaving the Police Station unmanned, and I have received justified complaints. But this cannot be done in the case of a fire."

Ald. Carriere replied that he would like to try one man and see the results, to which Ald. Church stated that the Corporation could be sued if they were not properly equipped, and it was the Council's duty to protect the Town.

At this point Ald. Dr. Roger Lavigne arrived at the meeting.

Ald. Carriere moved in amendment, seconded by Ald. Judes E. Charlebois, that one man be hired for the present time and that, if more are required, they be engaged at such time as they were needed. The vote on the amendment saw Ald. Carriere and Charlebois in favor, Aldermen Pollock, Church, Laurin and Dr. Lavigne against. The vote on the main motion gave a reverse result — the main motion thus passing on a 4-2 count.

Transfer Fire Headquarters

It was then decided that the necessary equipment for the fire alarm be purchased, and that the siren be moved to the Municipal Garage prior to November 1. The Roads Department headed by Chairman Edgar O. Pollock, was given the responsibility of re-modeling the Municipal Garage according to plans presented, the work to be completed by November 25. Geo. Y. Deacon was given notice that the fire department apparatus would be moved out of the garage rented from him at the end of November.

It was then moved by Ald. H. S. Church, seconded by Ald. Judes E. Charlebois, that the volunteer fire men be paid on the basis of $3 per practice, $3 for the first hour or part thereof at a fire, and $2 per hour or part thereof after that time, with a flat rate of $5 per hour for out-of-town fires.

Sufficient monies were voted to the necessary committees to equip the two new policemen ($700) and for alterations to the Municipal Garage - Fire Station ($5,000), both motions which passed unanimously.

Arrangements for a civic reception and dinner for retiring Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon were then discussed, a committee being appointed in the persons of Mayor Dr. F. Walter FitzGerald and Ald. M. Carriere, and the necessary expenditure approved.

Lachute to Pay Share of St. Jerusalem Water-Sewer

Turning to other business, discussion was centred on a contract presented to Town Council by the Parish of St. Jerusalem relative to Lachute paying its share of the sewer and waterworks project on Henry Street, the dividing line between the two municipalities. The matter had been thoroughly discussed several months ago and it was decided "The Lachute Town Corporation accept the agreement with the Parish of St. Jerusalem concerning the extension of the St. Jerusalem waterworks and sewer system in the Town of Lachute, with the exception that the share of Lachute as specified after Paragraph "B" shall not be more than 50 per cent of the cost and not exceed $5,000."

It was pointed out prior to the approval of the motion, that the Parish of St. Jerusalem had been ordered to complete the work by the Provincial Government and that Lachute was not obliged in any way to pay for the work under conditions of the contract signed between the Parish Council and H. J. O'Connell. It was decided to offer this payment as the work is to be of some benefit to Lachute, however.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

Cottingham Speaks At Engineering Inst.

science, has been radically transformed. The mining engineer, and the engineer specializing in concrete, cannot ignore geology. The metallurgist and the public health engineer must be familiar with an important segment of chemistry. The mechanical engineer, besides knowing mechanics and structure, must have a good knowledge of electrical engineering. Science and mathematics still form the very basis of engineering studies, regardless of the specialty the engineer has to adopt in our so-called division of labor society: building, production or processing of raw materials, power generation, manufacture, transport and communications.

A few months ago, the University of Toronto lost two of its most brilliant engineering professors who went to the United States to work for the General Electric Company. But I am wondering whether huge industries, by trying to withdraw university professors from their jobs, haven't got a short-sighted view of things. It is a great loss for any university to let its best professors go, it is a great loss for the training of competent engineers and, in the long run, for the industries themselves; firms may achieve tremendous progress thanks to the extraordinary competence of scientists, but that is done at the expense of a whole generation of engineers.

Do you realize that within 30 years, in 1980, the world's population will be double what it was in 1900? In other words, engineering will become an increasingly powerful factor in the social evolution of our civilization; to this ever growing population, food, heat, power, raw materials and manufactured goods will have to be delivered; novel means of production, processing and transport will have to be devised. Engineering is consequently expected to play a predominant role in the shape of things to come.

One cannot overestimate the impact of engineering on population, on its size, transportation, and activity in general; numerous means of transport, for instance, allow today millions of people to admire the natural wonders and the great works of art of the world. The communication of truth, knowledge and faith owes a good deal to engineering; churches, schools, radio and TV are teaching millions of human beings today; the purification of water through engineering devices has contributed to improve the general standard of living and to wipe out typhoid fever in most countries. The contribution of engineering is to be seen nowadays in the administration of social justice and public security, thus helping to preserve and to prolong human life. It is due to both a loftier conception of human personality and the native wit of engineers if engineering has made such gigantic strides in so many fields of man's activity.

We must look ahead, go forward and remember that our mission in life is to make our small world better and greater than the one we discovered and shortly after the golden age of our studies.

Business Discussed at Regular Meeting Ayersville Mayor Tenders Resignation

MAYOR GAETAN PAQUETTE THANKS COUNCIL; RESIGNATION ACCEPTED BY UNANIMOUS VOTE

A full attendance was in evidence at the regular monthly meeting of the Ayersville Municipal Council held Monday evening under the chairmanship of Mayor Gaetan Paquette.

Mayor Paquette informed the Council that this winter would see a total of 25,000 feet of sidewalk to be cleared, pointing out that the municipality was not equipped to undertake this work. It was decided to call for tenders from several firms for the special construction of a sidewalk blower adaptable to the Council's present tractor. The secretary was also instructed to contact Decary Auto, in St. Andrews East, to ask for a quotation on snow removal in the section west of the urban centre (Sandy Hill), the new Dam Road, and the Bradford Montee from Ayers Street South to the Municipal line.

A request on the part of several taxpayers relative to the paving of 260 feet of Gilbert Street was discussed and those concerned were asked to wait until spring, due to the fact that the work would cost in the vicinity of $1,000. It was decided to extend the gravel surface on Champlain and St. Jean Streets and a letter was drafted to be sent to the Tower Company, requesting that they remove the overhanging branches on trees on St. Jean Street.

Accounts totalling $11,256.51 were approved for payment and a letter from legal advisor Roger Legard, concerning the removal of certain Gatineau Power poles was read and discussed.

It was decided to request the Ayersville Catholic School Commission for permission to install the curfew siren above the Clement School after which the meeting was adjourned until a special session held last evening.

Gaetan Paquette, Mayor of the Municipality of Ayersville since the month of May, 1954, last evening tendered his resignation at a Special Meeting held in the Clement School, Ayersville, making the second mayor to leave his post prior to the expiration of his term since the founding of the municipality.

Elected councillor in the January, 1954 municipal elections, he left this position in the month of May of the same year to replace Gilbert Ayers as mayor. He was elected mayor of the municipality in January, 1955, by a 35 majority over his only opponent, Maurice Champagne, Sr., who presently holds a seat as councillor.

In addressing the full Council, as well as numerous citizens, Mayor

Paquette thanked all for the confidence they had placed in him, adding that he was tendering his resignation for personal reasons.

"I don't think I have abused that confidence as I have always tried to administrate the municipality to the best of my ability. During my administration, we have managed to reduce taxes and we have enjoyed a boom in this, the municipality that I have tried to develop as much as possible. I hope that in the future, the good relationship will remain with the Council as it is difficult to accomplish constructive work when there is disagreement."

It was then moved by Ald. Maurice Champagne, seconded by Ald. Alfred Campeau, and unanimously adopted, that the resignation of Mayor Paquette be accepted, afterwhich pro-mayor Aurelien Foucault took the chair.

Local Exhibitors Ship Cattle to Toronto "Royal"

Several carloads of local livestock left the Lachute C.P.R. station for the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, Toronto, Monday morning, where they will be judged early next week.

Heading the list of local breeders was W. Erskine Rodger, of East Settlement who has entered 15 head in the Ayrshire Class, along with Jack Black, also of East Settlement and J. P. Bradley, of Lachute Road. The Black entry is "Darland Ever Ready Challenge", a two-year-old bull who took his own class and went on to win the Senior and Grand Champion Classes at the Eastern States Exposition, Springfield, Mass., this September. A 1955 Royal Winter Fair winner, the Black Ayrshire bull was also proclaimed champion at several local fairs.

Included in the local shipment was a yearling dairy shorthorn bull, owned by M. & D. Smith, and entries of L. T. Porter, St. Andrews East and Dr. G. R. McCall's North River Farm, Lachute.

The judge at this year's Ayrshire show which gets underway Monday and Tuesday of next week is J. C. Watt, of nearby Lancaster, a prominent breeder and livestock judge.

POLICE AND FIRE Emergency Numbers

Laurentian Dist. Boy Scout Split Approved by Council

At a meeting of the Boy Scouts Association, Quebec Provincial Council, held in Quebec City, 20 October, approval was given to the division of the Laurentian District into two new districts.

The announcement of the appointment of Mr. Linton W. Armstrong of Lachute as Assistant Provincial Commissioner, was also made.

The last meeting of the Laurentian District Council was held in Lachute High School, October 30. Another meeting was scheduled for November 20 in Lachute, for the purpose of organizing a District Council to serve the most local of the new districts which includes the following points: Lachute, Brownsburg, Morin Heights, Lac St. Denis, Ste. Agathe and St. Sauveur.

Burg To Remain Village Local Agreement Stays

General Business Discussed as Various Reports Presented

(Our District Correspondent)

The first question after the routine opening was whether the Brownsburg United Church manse could connect with the new sewage system. The answer was that they would pay for the part from the water-lines to the edge of the property.

Mr. Ouellette from the Social Service, St. Jerome diocese, asked the council to accept for welfare benefit two Brownsburg families. It was resolved to accept them for two months.

Police Chief Lepine made his report for October. Interesting in the tax returns was the fact that the Community Rink admissions have exceeded 1,000. The Chief answered 12 calls, there were two accidents totalling $250 damage and five traffic tickets were imposed. It was proposed to install "No Parking" signs outside McFaul's Store if the property-line will allow. Mayor Lepine complimented the Police Chief for his all-night vigil on Hallowe'en which resulted in no incidents in Brownsburg.

Fire Chief Arthur Robbins was pleased to report no fires. He reported on the activities during "Fire Prevention Week". Posters were displayed all over town, 2,500 pamphlets were distributed and Mr. Robbins delivered 26 talks on fire prevention. Evacuation drills at the schools were also encouraging.

Mr. Robbins referred to an agreement between Brownsburg and Lachute whereby either could call on the other for help in an emergency at no charge. Mr. Robbins opined that the retirement of Mr. Deacon, of Lachute, and the new set-up in Lachute has possibly weakened Lachute's fire-fighting potential. He suggested that it might be undesirable to continue the agreement. The council decided to take no action.

Secretary-Treasurer Charbonneau read from among other correspondence, a letter from the insurance company with whom the town's employee's are insured, refusing to pay insurance for Mr. Alcide Neveu. The councillors feel that if this claim is not paid, the insurance next time will be given to a competitive company.

The councillors decided that since the dog tax and business tax returns were low, the police chief should be urged to collect them.

The secretary had been asked to obtain information about the cost of fluoridation equipment. He had received a quotation of $7,000 for installation. The councillors decided that this matter should be shelved, probably for several years.

Mr. Robbins asked if any action had been taken about elevation to a town. The Mayor remarked that he thought we would retain the status quo in case we might offend the two industrial concerns and scare off any others. He was given quite an argument by one or two of the observers, but the councillors did not participate. The Mayor said he would allow three minutes for discussion on the matter and at the end of that time the discussion stopped.

It was decided to study how to correct the "BROWNSBURG WELCOME YOU" sign at the approaches to the town.

A stormy session developed over the secretary's request to have Saturday free. Eventually the differences of opinion were resolved and the secretary will now work Wednesday afternoons instead of Saturday mornings.

RIPE STRAWBERRIES PICKED IN NOVEMBER

Mrs. Gordon Todd, of Brownsburg, on Tuesday reported she had picked a cup of ripe strawberries while visiting her son Russell and family, in St. Lambert.

One-Year Franchise To Firm Promoting Natural Gas Line

The "Société Gasifère Enrg. de Hull" were granted an option for a franchise to institute a network for the distribution of natural gas in Lachute, at a special session of the Town Council held recently.

The option for franchise, the whole under provisions of the Lachute Town by-laws, is valid for a period of one year. The motion, sponsored by Ald. Mozart Carriere, seconded by Ald. Alcidas Laurin, and unanmiously passed, reads: "The Lachute Town Council engages itself for a period of one year not to negotiate with any other firm, on any project regarding the said gas distribution in the Town of Lachute in order to give the "Société Gasifère de Hull" time to submit a project agreeable to both parties, for which a contract may be entered upon."

The two representatives of the firm in attendance at the meeting pointed out that the Canada Pipeline Act does not allow for any such project in the Province of Quebec, and that the franchise is only tentative and proposed, to be followed up in the event that the Quebec Government grants the said company a permit to carry out such work in this area.

The company plans to continue the natural gas pipeline from Ottawa along the North Shore as far as Lachute, where its main use will be in industries for heating and power. Possibility of the natural gas being practical for personal consumption was indicated, but it was not stated that it would be made available to home consumers in the event that the line did eventually go through.

It is expected that something definite may develop before the year-long franchise expires.

Local "Champs" to Royal

"Woodlea Lady Lane", who took first prize in the two-year-old class at this year's Lachute Spring Fair, on Monday left for higher competition at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto. Shown bedding-down a car-load of local livestock entered at the "Royal" are owner W. Erskine Rodger and Jack Black, both of East Settlement.

Sorrow and Happiness at Springhill; Egypt Is Focal Point in Middle-East

By Harry Eccles,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The death toll was 37 in the mine disaster at Springhill, N.S. Eighty-eight others, for whom hope had almost been abandoned, survived the explosion in the No. 4 Cumberland colliery.

The 88th man emerged from the mine Monday morning. The Dominion Coal Company announced there were no more survivors. At that time there were 24 bodies in the mine. The other dead were five other miners, six surface workers and two draegermen who succumbed while engaged in rescue work.

A new list issued Monday, four days after the mine had been swept by blast, fire and gas, indicated that 112 had been trapped as the disaster blocked passages and sent poisonous fumes through the workings.

The last of the survivors, the 88th man, was carried through to the dawn sunshine Monday as 200 or more relatives still maintained their vigil.

Most of those reaching the surface walked out without assistance. Charlie Burton, 42, first of the buried men to reach daylight, said the men in his section began walking and crawling to the surface Thursday night. On Saturday, they met rescue crews on the way down.

"I knew we had to get out or die," said Burton. "There was no fire where we were — just smoke. But last night (Friday) we lost our air. We punched little holes in the compressed air pipes, plugged our noses, and sucked air."

Draegerman, Robert Ashton, in the rescue crew that found the first survivors, said "we met all the men about the same time. They appeared exhausted, and talked little on the way out. If they had tried to walk out Friday night they never would have made it." On Friday, fire in part of the escape route drove even rescue crews from the pit because of danger of a second explosion.

Dangerous Crawl

The first survivors were part of a group working on the 5,700 and 6,100-foot levels of the mine, one of Canada's deepest coal mines.

These had crawled up the mine slope to the 3,400-foot level, where rescue workers had rigged an emergency hoist to permit deeper exploration.

Some survivors were suffering severely from exhaustion and shock. Doctors were sent down to treat them before an attempt was made to bring them above ground.

One disappointment had followed another from the time the explosion shattered the mine workings at 5 p.m. Thursday. First, poisonous gas spread through the seams from the initial explosion — still unofficially explained — then a sealed shaft was discovered. Then more gas and a new sealing job.

Among the emergency equipment gathered at the minehead such as blood plasma and food, a grim note was added by a line of hearses.

The help the town got from outside agencies, groups and individuals, was beyond description. Within hours of the dull rumble of the explosion that shook the countryside, everything needed was available.

ACTION IN EGYPT

French and British forces seized effective control of the Suez Canal yesterday and declared a ceasefire.

Just before the deadline they announced the capture of Ismailia, midway control point on the 103-mile canal. (The time was 2 a.m. in Egypt, midnight in London, 7 p.m. EST Tuesday).

Egypt announced it would accept the UN request for a ceasefire if all foreign troops withdraw from Egyptian soil and if other conditions are met.

The capture of Ismailia gave British and French forces the northern half of the waterway after two days of battle.

Port Said, the northern terminal was overrun yesterday.

The French said the ceasefire was possible because the British and French have achieved their main objective of restoring the canal to international control.

The next step is to turn control of the waterway over to a UN police force now being organized.

Cairo radio interrupted a program to read the UN announcement that Britain and France agreed to a ceasefire.

Lachute Police 6-Man Force

The Lachute Police Department was last evening officially increased to a six-man force at the regular monthly meeting of the Lachute Town Council.

On a recommendation by Committee H. Stanley Church and Police and Fire Chief Fernand Trépanier, Ernest Carrière, 33, of Lachute and Raymond Labelle, 27, of St. Jerome were hired as policemen - firemen, both at a salary of $55 per week.

Mr. Carrière is married and has five children. He recently resigned his duties in Ayersville following two years service to that municipality as police chief. He served four years with the Canadian Army during World War II.

Mr. Labelle, who is recently married, has had 1½ years experience as a "Special Constable" with the St. Jerome City Police.

The two men are presently on duty.

Progress Report On Proposed Arena Ball League Teams to Attend Meeting

Plans Finalized for Tomorrow's Bingo and Ladies' Night

The members of the Lachute Lions Club have invited the players of the championship and the runner-up teams of the Little Major Baseball League, which is sponsored by the Club, and was last season supervised by Lion Dr. Eric Mongeon. The members of these two teams will be present at the next meeting to receive their trophy and crests in recognition of their proficiency. It is expected that many members will be accompanied by invited friends to hear talks by guest speakers.

Sports personalities expected to be present include "Butch" Bouchard, retired captain of the Montreal Canadiens, René Lemire and Marcel Dufresne, of the Montreal Royals, and the Hon. Jean Barrette, M.P.P., who has been nicknamed "Minister of Sports". Program chairman Lion Leonard Bedard promises an inspiring evening to the youngsters and an interesting one to the members and guests.

The Lions were reminded that a novel Ladies' Night is to be held next Tuesday, November 13, and as is usual, a capacity attendance is being provided for. The special committee headed by Lion Gabriel Valois reported that arrangements are complete.

Lion President L. J. Dumais advises that the proposed construction of an arena has by no means died down. The enthusiasm is growing and the committee charged with investigating its feasability is busy negotiating and trying to find the most suitable location.

The guest speaker of the evening was E. V. Stevens, retired representative of C-I-L in Japan. Mr. Stevens has travelled extensively and claims the natural beauty of our surrounding countryside and way of life prompted him to settle in our area for his retired life.

Mr. Stevens spoke on the Japanese people's simple and unadulterated way of life. He stated that there are few if any natural resources and that their main product is human beings. Their whole life is centered on each other. He went on to say that their houses are utterly modest and must be so because of the frequent earthquakes and forced evacuation. The speaker said that these people dislike owning possessions and no competition exists with their neighbors as to who has the nicest house, garden, etc. Mr. Stevens stated that Japanese life is a family affair and that while they are able to work, they enjoy working for their family and when they become older, the younger ones take care of them; thus social security measures are unnecessary. Their whole system of life is based on respect and obedience.

Mr. Stevens was introduced by Lion Dr. Roger Dumais and thanked by Lion Bert Rigg.

The regular semi-monthly supper meeting was held Tuesday evening and the notable increase in activity is reflected in the increased attendance.

Montreal Waiter Denies Assault on Local Taxidriver

Various Descriptions of Scuffle

Montreal Judge Redmond Roche last Thursday postponed judgment to November 20, in the case of a weightlifting headwaiter of the Monte Carlo Cafe, Montreal, charged with assaulting taxi-driver Gerard Pilon, 29, of Marelan.

Jean Louis Auger, 21, of Montreal, was also charged with common assault on Claude Legault, 25, of Montreal and a friend of the local taxi driver, while he worked in the Montreal club. He is now practising to join Canada's Olympic Weightlifting Team.

Judge Roche, Crown Prosecutor Maurice Fauteux, Q.C., and defence lawyer Cyril Gagnon agreed that despite a dozen witnesses, the case really rested on the difference between evidence given by the 320-pound, six-foot-two Auger and that of an American sailor.

Auger testified that he lifted taxi driver Gerard Pilon, 29, of St. Philippe d'Argenteuil by the armpits and was helping him to the washroom to wipe away blood that covered his face as result of a scuffle with Claude Legault, 25, of 1816 Tupper Street.

Near a flight of stairs, Auger said, he felt Pilon was trying to hit him below the belt and "I just dropped him and left him there. There was a bang right after that but I didn't worry because I hear a lot of bangs there." He also denied that he struck Legault.

The incident occurred around 2.30 a.m. September 28, at the Monte Carlo Cafe, 42 Notre Dame Street West.

The sailor, Eugene Oakey, 32, of Groton, Conn., testified he saw Legault and Pilon arguing earlier and that Pilon knocked Legault to the floor, but all were sitting quietly when Auger came at him from the rear.

"He gave him a half-nelson, lifted him bodily from his chair, waltzed him 25 feet across the floor, and heaved him down the steps as you would a sack of grain," said Mr. Oakey.

Other witnesses insisted it was a full-nelson Auger had given Pilon, but Pilon himself wasn't sure. He said he felt himself being lifted "and suddenly dropped through the air."

A doctor testified Pilon suffered a fractured nose, many other facial wounds, stayed 11 days in hospital, and would need plastic surgery to restore his features.

St. Andrews East Pays Tribute To War Dead

Laying of wreaths at the St. Andrews East war memorial plaque was carried out with dignity on Sunday afternoon — a large number of Lachute Branch No. 70 Legion members attending, with Lachute Battery No. 131 of the 37th Field Regiment, R.S.A., and the Highland Cadets marching in the parade as a unit. The parade was marshalled by Major H. Stutt, C.D., Officer Commanding the Lachute Battery, R.C.A.

M.C.s for the occasion were Major F. W. F. Whitehead and Mr. Paul Labreche. Among those who addressed the gathering was Mayor L. Charlebois, of St. Andrews East, the Rev. Father H. Rivest, Hon. Capt. Harvey Campbell, and Gordon Tabrett, of Lachute Branch of the Canadian Legion.

"Last Post" and "Reveille" were sounded while all stood reverently at attention. Wreaths from various organizations were placed at the memorial plaque. The National Anthem brought the service to a close.

The service was capably organized by Mrs. Jas. Simpson.

Brownsburg Resident Injured in Mishap

Gaetan Brisson, 41, of Brownsburg, was treated in St. Jerome hospital Sunday afternoon for head injuries received when the recent model car he was driving missed the intersection of Routes 8 and 8A, a short distance from Grenville.

Mr. Brisson, who was accompanied by his wife, was headed towards Hawkesbury and apparently failed to make a sharp enough turn to the left, driving into the field and ditch between the V'd highways. His wife was not seriously injured, and was treated at the scene of the crash.

Traffic Officers Albert Legault and Lawrence Cruise investigated the accident in which the recent model car was demolished.

Communists Rule Hungry As Rebellion Crushed

Hungry Again Communist

Soviet armed forces have regained control of most of Hungary. Anti-Soviet fighters, ranks thinned by the lightning attacks of Russian tanks and infantry, seemed to have switched this week to partisan warfare from organized battle lines.

The Russians had unleashed a massive assault on Sunday to crush the independence movement. The Budapest radio, again firmly in Russian hands, broadcast a demand that remaining insurgents surrender their arms. A new government loyal to Moscow was set up by Russian troops with Janos Kadar as premier, replacing Omre Nagy, the Titoist Communist.

CANADIAN PLOWMEN ABROAD

by R. BEILHARTZ, Manager
1956 CANADIAN PLOWING TEAM

R. Beilhartz

Russell Beilhartz, of Bruce Station, Ont., a past president of the Ontario Plowmen's Association and manager of the Canadian plowing team at the recent fourth annual World Plowing Match at Shillingford, near Oxford, England, has sent home on-the-spot reports of his trip with team members Robert Timbers of Stouffville, Ont., and Edwin Demman of Portage la Prairie, Man. Here is the first of the reports.

London, England — We never dreamed that crossing the Atlantic could be so enjoyable and so brief as it was by air. In fact, by the time we had tucked away our second meal, Montreal was so far behind us that the plane was circling this city to come in for a landing . . . 10½ hours to span an ocean!

But before I got any further I feel I should go back to the beginning and explain what this is all about. We are members of the Canadian team that will compete at the fourth annual World Plowing Match at Shillingford, near Oxford, England, as guests of Imperial Oil By we, I mean Robert (Bob) Timbers, of Stouffville, Ont., who won the 1955 Canadian plowing championship at the International Plowing Match at Blytheswood, near Leamington, Ont.; Edwin (Mickey) Demman, of Portage La Prairie, Man., who placed third but qualified for the trip because under championship rules no two contestants from any one province can make up the team, Jerry Ferguson, of Croton, Ont., was the runner-up to Bob Timbers.

There you have the two Canadian contenders. Then there is myself, Russell Beilhartz, of Bruce Station, Ont. While I'm not a competing plowman, I've been close to the plow nearly all of my working life and at one time was president of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, the organization that sponsors the big International matches. I was appointed manager of the team and one of the conditions of my appointment was that I act as a sort of historian. Accompanying us on the trip is my good wife.

For three of us, Mickey, my wife and myself, this is the first overseas trip. For Bob Timbers, it is his third. In 1953 he was runner-up to Jim Eccles, of Brampton, at the first world match held at Cobourg, Ont., and the following year travelled to the Republic of Ireland for the world match there. In 1949 he toured the United Kingdom as a result of winning the Esso Trans-Atlantic class the year previous. Bob, you may agree, has become a Trans-Atlantic commuter.

For weeks we had been preparing for this trip. There was much correspondence. There were conferences with Imperial and with our good friend Floyd Lashley, who is secretary of both the Ontario Plowmen's Association and the Canadian Council of Plowing Associations. Finally, with all the details worked out, we were ready to leave the farm at Bruce Station, which is near Sault Ste. Marie, on Saturday, September 29. We wanted to be in Toronto for Sunday when Mickey would arrive from the West and Bob would be on hand for the Monday send-off breakfast.

Well, you might have known it. After feverishly rushing around at the farm to be at the station on time we made it, but only to learn that the train was running two hours late! However, we used those two hours to good purpose, for many friends were on hand to see us off and we were able to greet them all without the usual mad rush.

There was also lots of help in getting our luggage aboard the train, including three big white Stetson hats that were donated to members of the team. I was wearing my "ten gallon" headgear when I held the coach door open for a woman passenger, she smiled and remarked: "Real Western courtesy" Little did she know that she was mistaking an Ontario farmer for a Western rancher, but far be it from me to change a lady's mind.

Sunday we spent quietly in Toronto. We attended church and generally rested up for what might lie ahead.

If Sunday was a quiet day then Monday was just the opposite. Imperial had arranged a send-off breakfast in a private dining room of the hotel. It was attended by Ontario's new minister of agriculture, Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, our old friend Jack Carroll, former assistant deputy minister of agriculture and first president of the World Plowing Organization, the United Kingdom Trade Commissioner in Toronto, representatives of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, the government, and many other organizations. Charles Robinson, an Imperial Oil marketing executive, was chairman. The various speakers wished us well and brought home to us the great honor that is ours, of representing Canada at the "Plowmen's Olympics" as the world match is sometimes called.

During the breakfast I received two silk Canadian flags, to fly at the match and a block of polished Laurentian marble with the name Canada engraved on it. It was to be placed in a cairn at the site of the match. The cairn is surmounted by a three foot replica of the "Golden Plough", the Esso trophy for world supremacy in plowing. Each of the 14 competing countries has contributed a block of native stone for the monument, which is called a "peace cairn" because on the tablet is the inscription, "Let Peace Cultivate the Fields". Two cairns have already been erected, one at Cobourgh and the other at Upsala, Sweden, where last year's world match took place. We had been told that the Duke of Gloucester, uncle of Queen Elizabeth, would unveil this year's cairn.

After the breakfast the news reporters and photographers had a go at us and before we knew it we were out of the hotel and into cars that whisked us out to Malton airport where other good friends were waiting to see us off. These included Bob's wife and two children, Mr. and Mrs. James Eccles, (Jim, who comes from Brampton, Ont., was the first world champion plowman), Ivan McLaughlin, of Stouffville (Bob's neighbor and one of last year's world contestants) and Mrs. McLaughlin.

But it wasn't long before we had to climb aboard a TCA Viscount for Dorval, Que. At Dorval we changed to a B.O.A.C. Stratacruiser Speedbird. Here again the Stetson hats attracted attention and we were fortunate in having in Mickey Demman at least one real Westerner in the group!

The sky was slightly overcast when we took off from Dorval and headed eastward to the Atlantic. We flew for a time at 19,000 feet and then rose to 21,000 feet at a speed of 300 miles an hour. It was a wonderful experience for all of us and especially Mickey, for the journey from Portage La Prairie to Toronto was his first train trip. Thrilled as he was with the train, Mickey said he enjoyed flying even more so.

About 5.30 p.m. we were served supper and what a meal. All agreed none could be better, even if we were eating high above the clouds. Shortly after they "bedded us down" for the night by reclining the seats. It was probably a good idea as we were not able to move around anyway.

By one a.m. the sun was coming up. The "early" sunrise was due to the time difference, for London was still on daylight saving time making a six hour difference between Montreal and London times. Shortly after one a.m. Canadian time we were having breakfast and it compared equally with the supper. Then we were told we were approaching London, our destination. It had been a lovely crossing, not a quiver or a bump.

We put down at London airport at 8 a.m. London time and 2 a.m. Eastern Canadian Standard Time. The two United States plowmen were there, having arrived earlier. We were told that the plows for the boys had arrived by boat from Canada and were on their way to Shillingford.

While we waited around the airport planes landed every little while and then another group of plowmen would be added to the party. By 3 p.m. the party had grown quite large. We were then told that the countries not then present would come in late that night or early the next day so there was no need to wait.

While having lunch at the airport along with the two United States contestants the head waiter asked us, "Who will win the world title?" The answer he got came from Eugene Holmes of Waldorf, Minnesota. "The four at this table will be tops", he said, and then after a pause added, "We hope!"

Longer Nights Ahead!

Days are getting shorter – but not for farmers who hire me to look after their LIGHTING. Don't let nature cut down your productive time or your right to pleasant, brighter evenings.

Yep! Modern farmers not only have me working from sunup to sundown, but for hours after nature fails to provide GOOD LIGHT in their homes and farm buildings.

You can cut down one of the causes of costly accidents and also save your eyesight. Sure, you work outdoors and sunlight's good for your eyes – but don't spoil it with dim, inadequate lighting.

In Remembrance

They have no pact to sign — our peaceful dead;
Pacts are for trembling hands and heads grown gray.
Ten million graves record what youth has said,
And cannot now unsay.

THERE IS another line near the end of Noyes' poem that is morbid and embittered. It is not unlike John McCrae's "If ye break faith with us who die, we shall not sleep in Flanders fields." It asks the same question of generation after generation: Have you kept faith with the men who gave their lives to keep men free?

The time has come to ask it again and to give the answer that has been given now for thirty-eight years since Remembrance Day was instituted: We do not know. We humbly try. We try, and hope that we are keeping faith; but we do not know that we can succeed, that the pacts we sign will endure and keep another generation of young men from the battlefields and the war graves.

It is thus in the mood of hope and dedication that we approach Remembrance Day again — hope that at some time mankind will turn away from hatred; re-dedication to the ideal that took us into two wars that were not of our making.

That ideal was freedom. Freedom for mankind to live and love and have their being in peace and security. Freedom from tyranny, from the wiles of men who would subdue us to an unworthy purpose.

No soldier going into battle had these idealistic phrases on his lips or in his mind. The men whose memory we keep green before the cenotaph today did not go into action shouting slogans. Idealism gives place to the immediacies of battle. But at some time in their service they will have asked themselves the question: Why are we here? and found the answer in one word, Freedom.

It is the word that should be on our lips as we stand bowed before the cenotaph today. It is the sign manual of the pact to which we have put our hands and from which there is no retreat.

Sport Is Sick

SPORT IS SICK with the treatment it receives from those who have fastened on to it like leeches. Fastened on to it for their own personal profit. Purveyors of the built-up commentary, the cagey column, the phony publicity. The huckster hangers-on who purchase publicity by peddling the physical exploits of others.

So sport is sick. Sick because it has become an end in itself and not a means to an end — which ought to be — entertainment and pleasure for those who participate and those who look on. Instead it has become a business of words and dollars instead of action and deeds. And because it knows itself to be talked about by the self-styled experts it languishes and grows sicker day by day.

Let sport be itself. A contest of skill and endurance and condition with the rules defined and agreed to by each side not only in name but in principle for the necessary continuance of the game itself. Where it is no disgrace to lose provided the defeat is honorable and where sportsmanship is regarded not as a sign of weakness but of strength. Strength of character which is essential to any human undertaking as guts and gumption.

Let sport have a transfusion of good red human blood — courage and audacity and the will to win worthily. Today it is too fevered, too expert, too sagacious. It harbors too many statistics and percentages which prove nothing and which are mostly forgotten as soon as compiled.

Let sport get up of its bed of bonused ease and start walking again under its own power. To be lulled in false security is no way of recuperation. Sport as a means to health must be healthy itself.

When sport is sick none are happy.
When sport is healthy all is well.

The Big Sleep

WAR OR PEACE, prosperity or depression, mean nothing to birds and beasts. They follow the age-old cycle of the seasons.

When town-dwellers are putting on storm windows, and snow fencing is being stacked along rural highways ready to be put into place, migratory birds are on their way south and bears and many other species are getting ready for the long winter sleep.

During hibernation, death from starvation and the wasting away of tissues is prevented by absorption of fat which the animal has accumulated in the weeks before his retirement. Those which do not relax into virtual unconsciousness have stored supplies of food. The Arctic fox for instance hoards dead hares, ermines or lemmings.

The woodchuck makes a storage locker of its body, but it also stows away a stock of green fodder in case it wakes up hungry before spring. For month after month, it lies in a trance-like sleep.

Bears and ground squirrels, badgers and hedgehogs, turtles and frogs are others that find cosy refuges for the winter.

They're not all true hibernators. Bears sleep in a normal state. With many other species, they have a built-in thermostat which will wake them up if there is any danger of freezing to death. But true hibernators, a small group of northern mammals, undergo radical physical changes. A hibernating hedgehog survived a test in which it was kept under water for 22 minutes. Woodchucks and bats, in laboratory tests, have survived four hours in carbon monoxide gas.

The hibernators exist in a state of suspended animation because their hearts drop to the lowest possible beat and keep going at a minimum body heat that no other animal could stand for long.

And even a bird will hibernate once in a while. The National Geographic Society reports the case of a whippoorwill found ensconced in a rock cleft in California in 1946; the sleeping bird was watched through four winters.

But whether they fly south or dig in for the winter, the birds and beasts are safe against the cold.

They've been doing it for centuries, and man, with all his scientific advances, is still seeking more clues as to how they do it. It's a fascinating subject for the scientist, as well as the layman.

Man can talk about pulse rate and body heat and slower circulation, but these things don't bother the animals. The big sleep comes naturally.

Sorry, The Line Is Busy!

THE DIAL TELEPHONE system is a modern miracle of communication, but it has bogged down miserably on party lines, even more so than in the good old days when the local operator could cut in in the case of an emergency, reports the Stanstead Journal. This apparently is because too many women are using their telephone to make social calls with complete selfish disregard for anyone else who might wish to place a call.

To get a busy signal on a rural line continuously for one hour or more is not an unusual experience. Many times it is quicker to jump in the car and go to see a person than it is to reach him by phone. Business must be held up and even emergency calls must wait while far less important conversations drag on.

The answer seems to be fewer parties on rural lines, or persons with consideration enough to realize that others might wish to place calls. The answer given by these persons is, of course, "We pay for the telephone, why shouldn't we use it?"

Sometimes we long for the good old days when the local operator could cut in and ask for the line if the need was urgent and the conversation in progress was of no importance.

Dial phone service will soon be put into the Lachute district. Perhaps local residents would benefit more from this modern method of communication if they put into practice general basic telephone manners.

Is Growth Immoral?

By Joseph Lister Rutledge

There is no evidence that Mr. David Lewis, in mouthing a well-used CCF slogan, did not wholly believe his own words when he announced: "The profit-motivated system is basically immoral." But even repetition cannot transmute nonsense into great truth, and it is the utterest nonsense to argue that growth can be immoral. And essentially growth is profit.

One wonders how Mr. Lewis, who propagates if he did not originate the empty phrase he uttered, could have overlooked that 25th chapter of St. Matthew when a vastly more authoritative voice than his said to one who had wrapped the resources committed to him in a napkin and hidden them in the earth, so that they would be there upon his Master's return. "Thou wicked and slothful servant." But to the servant who returned not only the five talents that had been entrusted to him, but the five more that these had earned, the words were: "Well done, good and faithful servant."

But still, curiously blinded persons do go about challenging God and Nature, and contending that growth is immoral and that only what is unused and unproductive can be moral and right.

POPULAR PASTIME

The fact that square dancing is fun has been proved in Westlock and district by all who have taken part in it. It is the type of fun that requires both headwork and footwork not to mention a little gymnastics. This of course is all part of the fun.

CURING THE BLUES

Sometimes a fella gets "down" on himself, his town, his city, every thing in general. A good recipe fo dispelling this feeling is to pack up the car, take man and the kids and head for "greener pastures" on a temporary basis at least.

POLITICAL EYEGLASSES

Box car distribution (to move wheat stocks) will continue to be come a matter of complaint in the future. This will be particularly so now that wheat has become involved in politics. The lenses o political eyeglasses are sometimes quite distorting.

Despite improvements which have been made in providing beautiful finishes for our automobiles, the best way to put a lasting finish to a car is to race a train to a level crossing.

— Humboldt (Sask.) Journal

FILLED WITH IDEAS

If the organization meeting of the Rural Community Night School is any indication of its success, it should be excellent. There was a better response than we had ever dreamed of and everyone present seemed filled with ideas, not just so they would be counted present.

THEY CHOSE FREEDOM

Is the immigration department at Ottawa doing everything possible to stimulate the flow of new settlers to Canada? One opportunity for increasing the inflow of settlers which the immigration authorities at Ottawa should explore is the steadily increasing flow of refugees into West Germany from Iron Curtain countries. To be a refugee from communism takes courage and initiative.

OF MANY THINGS

By Ambrose Hills

Suicide Note

You may have read the item in the newspapers. The woman had written a note, asking forgiveness, then explaining: "I am useless to myself and everyone else!"

The report continued: "Friends and neighbors of the dead woman reported that she had been suffering spells of melancholy. She was a fine woman, very much respected in the neighborhood. . . "

And yet, she thought herself useless!

How many men and women make that terrible mistake? Perhaps it lies back of many tragedies. Too bad they had not read what Robert Louis Stevenson wrote.

"So long as we love, we serve," wrote the famous novelist. "So long as we are loved by others I would almost say we are indispensable; and no man is useless while he has a friend."

The tragedy of our generation is that we are transferring the emotions of love and friendship from our hands into the hands of institutions or governments. We are trying to legislate virtues, rather than live them.

Not long ago a friend of mine lost his leg in an automobile accident. He told me that no less than eight persons had asked first of all: "Were you insured, John?"

When he told them that he was, they breathed sighs of relief, and one even said: "You're lucky. . . You'll get a pension!"

How materialistic we've become! Can insurance repay the loss of a leg? Can unemployment insurance replace the satisfaction of honest work? Can a cheque from any source replace neighborliness, or man-to-man charity?

J. William Lloyd said: "There is but one virtue: to help human beings to free and beautiful life; but one sin: to do them indifferent or cruel hurt; the love of humanity is the whole of morality. This is Goodness; this is Humanism; this is the Social Conscience."

Aren't we in danger of forgetting that these personal virtues cannot safely be turned over to politicians? Too many who prate about Social Conscience make it a matter of laws, of impersonal and far-off administration. Personal love and personal responsibility seem forgotten.

When this kind of "social conscience" predominates, when charity and love become matters of bookkeeping and law-making, the lonely will grow in numbers and the last despairing notes they write will have tragic truth in them!

For only 20 cents a word, they jump into the domestic arena and referee the duel of the sexes.

Carrying a string of academic degrees as long as a rolling-pin to give their clinches an air of authority, they tell us that "marriage is a business of give and take," and "each partner gets out of marriage exactly what he puts in."

A little girl aged six, who goes by the nickname of "Kelly" wrote an essay in praise of her dog. Her mother sent it to me. . .

"Duffy is a good dog. he can beat cars, duffy runs throo the field. He scrachis on the door. Sometimes he goes owtuf his howos. His howus is little. He has a big yard. He scrachis on the dor if it rains. duffy is brown. duffy is cyut. the other dogs oru not as cyut as duffy. I wish he was not wet. wen he is not wet he can come in. He can do tricks like sitting down and giving you his pa. you well like him if you see him."

Kelly's offering lacks a certain professional polish but it gives me as clear a picture of a dog as I have seen. It reminds me of a book I started to write somewhere around age eight. My spelling was more conventional than Kelly's, but my style was similar. (Some people contend that it has changed very little, even today).

My book, as I remember it, was a tale of military life in which the principal characters were men called General Nuisance, Corporal Punishment and a Private someone whose name escapes me. The rank and file of this fictitious army were equipped with a weapon called the Martini - Mophandle. For some reason I wrote only half the book, and then I mislaid the manuscript. Now I supose I shall never finish it.

Over the Years with THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

November 11, 1881 —

On Monday last, a man named Cyr, in the employ of Wm. Staniforth, Arundel, was crossing the Rouge River on a float early in the morning with two other men and a horse, when well out in the stream the float began to sink. In order to lighten it, they put the horse in the water and becoming excited, threw the oars away. In the excitement, Cyr jumped after the horse and caught the blanket only; the horse swam to shore but the unfortunate man drowned.

We understand that 25 immigrants, recently arrived in this locality, found ready employment at the Grece's Point works at $1.25 per day.

It is expected that the dam at Carillon will be completed within several days and with the enlarged locks, vessels drawing ten feet of water will be able to pass through.

Last week, the Rev. Mr. Rochon met with an accident which nearly proved fatal at the Calumet station. The night being very dark, and unable to see where he was going, he fell over the edge of a wharf about 15 feet high into deep water. Fortunately for him, some men were near who promptly succeeded in rescuing him.

In the morning he was discovered by his owner who took him home and at last accounts, the four-footed patient was recovering from his uncomfortable experience.

Lakefield — On November 1, the school board of Gore opened a fine new school. Mr. G. H. Perley, M.P., was present The proceedings were closed by refreshments supplied by the resident ladies, the proceeds of $10.50 were devoted to paint the new school and still further beautify the snug and commodious building.

An open switch resulted in the derailment of the engine of a freight train that was running on the Wilson siding Tuesday morning. Fortunately the train was running slow at the time and stopped a few feet clear of the river embankment. The wrecking train was soon on hand and the main line cleared with little delay.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Autumn Thank-Offering At Lachute United Church, Interesting Speakers

The autumn thank-offering meeting of Lachute United Church Women's Missionary Society was held last Wednesday afternoon, with a large gathering of W.M.S. members and friends from Lachute and surrounding communities in attendance. Mrs. J. R. McOuat presided and conducted the worship service.

Mrs. Lovell Baker, president of the Montreal Presbyterial, was present and addressed the gathering on some of her impressions of the General Council recently held in Windsor. Mrs. Baker spoke briefly on the report of the committee that had been appointed to study Women's Work in the Church, and stressed the spirit of unity that prevailed through the sessions. She also mentioned the inspiration gained from the devotionals which set the tone for all the meetings, and said that it is a real privilege to be in any kind of church work.

Miss Ada Sandell, missionary nurse on furlough from Korea, was also present at this meeting and gave an interesting report of her work on Koje Island and in South Korea, since the Korean war. North Korea has coal, electric power and manufacturing, while the south has no power and almost no fuel but it has good rice-growing soil. They need each other, and the feeling of many is that if it were not for the Communist outsiders in the north, the Koreans could settle their own problems. Miss Sandell spoke of the need for clothing, especially asking that we in Canada send wool, knitting needles, pieces of cloth, tailors' samples, etc., that the Koreans might be able to make clothing for themselves and thus keep their self-respect. Miss Sandell said that the women of Canada can help their Korean sisters by sincere and earnest prayer, and closed her talk by repeating the Lord's Prayer in the Korean language.

The speakers were thanked by Mrs. F. S. McGibbon, who very ably expressed the appreciation of the audience for the interesting and inspirational messages.

At the close of the meeting all retired to the church hall to enjoy tea prepared by the W.M.S. social committee, under the convenership of Mrs. Pollock and Mrs. Riddell.

A.P.M.A. Arranges Week of Prayer

The Argenteuil Protestant Ministerial Association met on Monday, at the United Church, Cushing. The President, Rev. H. G. Baugh was in the chair.

Final arrangements were made for the Universal Week of Prayer to be observed from January 7 to 11 inclusive, at Brownsburg and Lachute. It is suggested that the various congregations try to keep these dates clear of other commitments.

The Rev. G. H. King, Secretary of The Mission to Lepers addressed the gathering and stressed that the Mission serves all churches; seeks to help spiritually and medically, victims of the dread disease of leprosy, also the salvaging of children of leprous parents.

The Rev. K. R. Davis took the devotional period, speaking on the subject of the Appeal of the Cults," among many people. Members of the groups are essentially heathen; it is estimated that there are over seventeen million in the U.S.A. The speaker pointed out the causes of the cults due largely to the weaknesses of Christian church members. We are to preach Jesus Christ from the pulpit and by our lives.

Basketball

After school on Friday, the Senior Girls' basketball team left for Granby travelling in cars with their coach, Mr. R. Bailly, also Mr. L. Rossaert and Mr. D. Craig. Two lady teachers, Miss F. McLaughlan and Miss I. McOuat also accompanied the team.

On their arrival, they were cordially welcomed by the Granby girls and were invited to different homes to spend the night. The following morning a basketball game was played in the High School, where at half time Lachute found themselves leading 29-15. In the last half, Granby failed to increase their score while L.H.S. ploughed ahead to make the final, 44-15.

In this exhibition game, Betty Underhill is credited with 19 points, Joyce Davis 9, Shirley Pollock 8, Marjorie Hay and Pat Stansfield each 4. The Three Star selection goes to Betty Underhill, Shirley Pollock and Joyce Davis.

In the afternoon, the members of the Granby team entertained their visitors by showing them through the famous Granby Zoo, after which the Lachute girls left for home and each reported having spent a very enjoyable week-end.

Friday night, the Junior girls and boys visited Brownsburg. They played exhibition games and were defeated in both encounters.

Beverley Rice was top scorer for the girls with 8 points, followed by Marilyn Underhill 7, while Carol Parker sank a foul. The final tally was 47-16 in favor of Brownsburg.

The boys' game was also a one-sided engagement with Brownsburg downing Lachute 57-17. Ronnie Cairns accounted for 6 points, while Del MacTavish had 4, Wayne Laurin 3, Reggie Beers and Robert Silverson 2 each.

The Senior boys' game against Hawkesbury Tuesday afternoon was more encouraging for Lachute, when the local squad took the lead in the first quarter 12-8, and at no time did their opponents overpower them. Defensive play and careful guarding were featured by both teams, and Lachute chalked up the tally 57-42.

Top scorers were Wayne Bradford 20, Arthur Gauley 12, David Bates 10, and Reg Stansfield 4, Malcolm Cairns refereed.

Volleyball

Hawkesbury Senior boys' volleyball squad visited Lachute High School gym on Tuesday afternoon; both teams seemed evenly matched and the first game showed rapid play on each side, the locals winning 15-12.

The second encounter was somewhat slower although Arthur Gauley swiftly added 8 points consecutively bringing the score to 12-2. The final count showed L.H.S. ahead 15-6. This game was refereed by Mr. A. Petersen.

Soccer

Last Saturday, the L.H.S. soccer team went to Hudson to play a very important game. At half time, Hudson was leading 1-0, then Lachute put on pressure and tallied twice, both goals having been scored by Ken Underhill. The home team were very happy when the final whistle blew and the score board showed 2-1 in their favor.

In order to win the O.V.S.A.A. Championship, we now have only to tie or beat Macdonald in the last game this Saturday in Lachute. It is hoped that all parents, friends, and pupils in the school will be at the game Saturday morning at 10.30 to support the home team.

Western Hockey Clubs Have Monogram Pucks

SPORTS CAMERA
By Lorne Bruce
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Western Canada's football clubs do not have the problem of losing balls to the fans, as the eastern clubs do, but western pro hockey teams seldom get back a puck that goes over the boards.

The eight-team Western Hockey League came up with something new this season. Each club will have pucks with their monogram on one side and the league title on the other.

The monograms are stamped in orange on the black rubber pucks. The monograms, each about the size of a silver dollar, will be the same for each club as the crests on their sweaters.

The crest for Winnipeg is an Indian chief and skate, for Brandon a crown, for Edmonton an airplane, for Calgary a bucking horse, for Victoria a cougar, for New Westminster a royal crown, for Vancouver a "Paul Bunyan" Canuck and for Seattle a United States shield.

The lucky fan who catches a puck now will have a real souvenir.

The solid rubber puck used in hockey is one inch thick, three inches in diameter and weighs six ounces. The size has not been changed since organized hockey was first played and it's one piece of equipment that has never been altered in some way.

Pucks now are generally frozen before a game and sometimes there is a suspicion by an opponent that the home club gives the referee unfrozen pucks, that bounce more noticeably, to protect a lead or to assist its low-scoring type of play.

The new WHL monogrammed pucks cost $23.35 a gross.

F. N. Miller, assistant general manager of the Edmonton Exhibition Associaton which sponsors the Edmonton entry in the WHL, said Flyers use from 4½ to six gross a season. Fans usually go home with an average of four from each of Flyers' 35 home games.

The others get chipped and are discarded, usually to be used by minor teams such as midgets and juveniles.

A furore was created in Edmonton by the "ultimatum" Leo Leclerc, manager of Edmonton's junior hockey Oil Kings, issued to 17-year-old Mike Lashuk — that he would have to give up football if he wanted to play hockey.

Lashuk, star halfback of the Alberta junior football champions, Edmonton Huskies, was given 24 hours to choose, after Huskies had won the provincial title and were waiting further playoffs. Leclerc told a service club the ultimatum was a "publicity gag" that grew into an embarrassing incident. In the end, Lashuk came out in favor of hockey and Leclerc said Lashuk would finish the football season with Huskies.

Bill Troupe of Fort Erie, Ont., left $150 worth of fishing tackle behind when he stopped to fix a flat tire on his way home from a fishing trip.

A friend of his advertised the loss in a Toronto newspaper. Later, the friend called to say that a sportsman saw the add and reported he had found the tackle. He has shipped it to Fort Erie.

Trumpeter Swans Travel In Style To English Spot

Grande Prairie, Alta. (CP) — Two gangling young trumpeter swans are going to London to see the Queen.

Their manners are still a little provincial, since they were brought up in Alberta's Peace River country, but they will learn some etiquette during the trans-Atlantic crossing.

The birds are travelling in style, first class in their private crates aboard commercial airliners, with their own bathing facilities and as many snacks as they desire.

In England the pair of female cygnets will join an exclusive Canadian colony, at present numbering four trumpeter swans, cruising on the water of the Royal Wildfowl Reserve at Slimbridge, Gloucestershire.

The two are part of the 1,500 trumpeter swans estimated alive in the world today.

Going away, one wore a speckled white vest with a grey feathered coat, while the other wore solid grey. Both will soon appear in dazzling white with black legs, beaks and eyes and a wingspread of about seven feet.

They are second in size among Canadian birds only to the rare whooping crane, and may weigh as much as 35 pounds full grown.

It was not too easy to recruit the latest members of the royal household. Although unable to fly, they were capable of great speed on the water, and wildlife officer Ron Mackay of Vancouver and another man had to chase them by canoe as they fled with big webbed feet churning.

Once installed in their new home, the birds' wings will be temporarily clipped. Trumpeter swans are easily domesticated, however, and the newcomers to the Seven reserve will soon be allowed complete freedom of their plush surroundings.

All of Canada's swans have been protected since the 1920s and game officials say the trumpeters and whistling swans are on the increase. Whistling swans number in the thousands.

LONGEST WINNING STREAK

The longest consecutive winning streak in the National Hockey League is 14 games. It was set by Boston Bruins during the 1929-30 season.

Ladies Curling Now Underway

The opening meeting of the Lachute Ladies' Curling Club was held at the rink on Tuesday with the president Miss Margaret Scott occupying the chair.

Appreciation was expressed regarding the improvements and changes to the Club House, especially the new lockers which have been added to the Ladies' Section.

Curling will get under way on Monday next, November 12, opening with the Club Trophy Competition.

A buffet supper will be held on Wednesday, November 21, commencing at 6 o'clock.

Visitors' day and the opening tea will take place on Thursday, November 29.

On the Match Committee, Mrs. L. Armstrong and Miss Mary Miller will replace Mrs. Doug. Hay and Mrs. D. MacTavish.

On the Board, Mrs. A. G. Giles will act as treasurer in place of Mrs. P. Roy.

On the Reception Committee, Mrs. A. M. Vessie will replace the late Mrs. Geo. Calder.

SUKARNO ENJOYS WESTERN HABIT

—Central Press Canadian

President Sukarno of Indonesia has been introduced to an established western custom—that of having a cake with candles on a birthday. While having dinner aboard the special train en route to Ottawa from Chalk River, he was pleasantly surprised when the steward brought to his table a birthday cake with five candles to mark his 55th birthday. Canadian officials had learned of the event through members of his suite and decided to celebrate it in the traditional western world fashion. So with the help of his 12-year-old son, Mohammad Guntur, the president blew out the candles on his cake.

Focal Point in Middle-East

chief of the UN truce supervisory team, was named commander of the new international force with power to recruit a limited number of officers from countries other than Britain, France, Russia, the U.S. and China — the five permanent representatives to the security council.

The vote was 57 to 0, with 19 abstentions, as the general assembly approved the first UN command since the Korean war. The approved resolution was sponsored by Canada, Columbia and Norway as a follow-up to one presented by Canada and approved on Saturday.

Britain and France have said their "police action" in Egypt will go on, but Britain offered, on certain conditions, to halt hostilities when a UN force is ready to take over.

When the Anglo-French forces were poised last week-end for a ground occupation of the Suez Canal zone, Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden told a special Saturday sitting of the British Commons that until a UN force is formed, both Israel and Egypt must agree to accept immediately limited detachments of Anglo-French troops to be stationed between them.

Sir Anthony spoke in the face of Labor opposition demands that he accept immediately the UN resolution which called for an immediate ceasefire. Hugh Gaitskell, the Labor leader, said "it is no part of the business of the government to lay down conditions."

Disrupted Alliances

The international lineup has been thoroughly shaken up by the events in the Middle East and Europe.

The Middle East blowup began October 28 when Israel ordered general mobilization and despite a warning from President Eisenhower against any "forceful initiative" invaded Egypt the following day, thrusting towards the Suez Canal.

Britain and France dispatched an ultimatum to Egypt and Israel, demanding a ceasefire and withdrawal of both sides to a distance 10 miles from the Suez Canal. Then in the UN security council Britain for the first time used the veto, for so long a specialty of the Russians. France also vetoed the U.S. and Soviet resolutions for an immediate ceasefire between Israel and Egypt.

The Anglo-French ultimatum expired, and RAF and French aircraft began an offensive against Egyptian airfields and military installations. The British cruiser Newfoundland sank an Egyptian frigate.

The UN general assembly was called into special session and early Friday voted 64 to 5 for a ceasefire. Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson abstained the vote, but put forward the only concrete proposal for a solution. He suggested a UN police force to take over.

Production of chewing tobacco in Canada in 1955 amounted to 1.3 million pounds, less than half the 1945 output.

COUNTRY HOEDOWN STAR'S PASTIMES

When the Hames Sisters, pretty singing trio on "Country Hoedown", were asked about their hobbies, 20-year-old Marj said, "Well, I love to cook." Sister Norma who is 22, said "And I like to do the housework." Little sister, 18-year-old Jean piped up, "Me, I like to eat!" Sounds like a good combination.

When he's not singing on "Country Hoedown", or walking the new baby, Tommy Common likes to do carpentry work. He's studying at the school in his area and hopes to be able to make all kinds of things for his new home. And, "Country Hoedown" notwithstanding, the Commons' new home is not ranch style.

Aluminum helped today's high-speed, high-compression car engine get that way. Aluminum pistons brought not only toughness but lightness to this up-and-down job. Less weight meant less inertia and so made possible higher engine revolutions. It brought heat conductivity, too—so your engine doesn't overheat when you drive fast and far.

It started in the twenties—and today every car produced in North America is equipped with aluminum pistons. And much of the aluminum comes from Canadian smelters. To match the needs of the automotive, aircraft, construction and many other industries for large quantities of aluminum, Alcan is again stepping up its already enormous smelting capacity.

"Angelaires" Harp Quintet to Perform At Community Concert November 20

For sheer delight and equisite pleasure, one of the most unusual attractions now appearing on the American concert stage is a harp quintet. The five lovely young ladies, who call themselves "The Angelaires," were tremendously successful during their tours of the past four seasons. By popular demand they have been booked, during the 1956-57 season, from California through the U.S. to Canada. They will be heard at Lachute High School on Tuesday, November 20, in the second Community Concert of the current season.

The Angelaires will present a comprehensive program designed to please concert-goers of the most varied musical tastes. Music from nearly every period and of every style will be included — from Bach who will be represented by a charming and gay "Suite" originally conceived for harpsichord, through favorite pieces by Debussy, Spanish dances by Granados and Lecuona, and several compositions for the harp by Salzedo, to special arrangements of contemporary music by George Gershwin, Richard Rodgers, Vincent Youmans, and Harold Arlen.

The Angelaires were organized six years ago by producer Howard Lanin and since then have won widespread recognition in the music world in many recitals, appearances in a variety of concerts, and on television where they have been featured on such programs as Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town". The Angelaires have also appeared in shows and concerts with such important starts as James Melton, Kate Smith, Herb Shriner, Victor Borge, Conrad Thibault, Andre Kostelanetz, Vivian Della Chiesa, Paul Lavalle and Frank Sinatra.

"The Angelaires" Harp Quintet has been proclaimed "a triumph — as beautiful to watch as to hear." An unusual pleasure is anticipated by music lovers planning to attend this second performance in the current Community Concerts season, Tuesday, November 20, at Lachute High School.

Tips on Touring

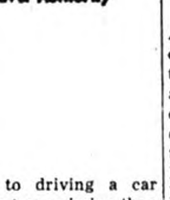

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

There's more to driving a car with an automatic transmission than merely moving the selector lever or push button and starting off Here are some tips you may find useful.

1. Be sure the selector lever is at "Neutral".
2. Keep your foot on the brake pedal when moving the lever to any driving position or while the car is standing still. This will avoid "creeping" or jumping.
3. Use hand or foot brake to keep the car from rolling when stopped on an upgrade. Don't hold the car by feeding gas.
4. Never shift to "Neutral" when driving downhill. Coasting is dangerous.
5. If your car has a "Park" position, be certain you are completely stopped before shifting into it.
6. Shift into "LOW" when going down long, steep grades so the engine will help brake the car.
7. When you leave the car, be sure the ignition is turned off, the parking brake applied, and the selector lever at "Neutral", "Park", or "Reverse", depending on the make of the car.
8. If the car has to be towed, exercise caution as damage to the transmission can occur. See your Owner's Manual.
9. It is important to have the right fluid level in the transmission at all times and, of course, the fluid should be drained and refilled at regular intervals. Let your service station dealer check and service as required.

Boy Scouts In Canada

REPORT ON "GOOD TURN"

Canada's 212,000 Boy Scouts this month wind up their 1956 Conservation Good Turn. Packs, Troops and Crews which achieved certain standards can apply to Provincial H.Q. for a Conservation Award Streamer for their unit flags. Conservation will be the theme of Scouting throughout the world in 1957, the Golden Jubilee year of the Scout Movement.

First to present a Conservation report to Scout Headquarters was the 1st Beverley Hills, Ontario, Troop. Scoutmaster D. G. Anthony reported that his Scouts planted 3,000 trees, improved five acres of wood lot and 200 feet of a fishing stream, cleared up picnic sites, conducted demonstrations on gun, boating and fishing safety and attended several lectures on soil and forest conservation.

A REWARDING TRIP

Five Toronto Boy Scouts recently enjoyed a four-day trip into timber country as guests of the Canadian Forestry Association and the Abitibi Power and Paper Company. They qualified by earning Scouting's four new Conservation Proficiency Badges.

Their trip included an overnight stop at Iroquois Falls, a two-day bush trip to see lumber camps and bush operations, then back to Iroquois for a tour of the Abitibi mill. Motion pictures on conservation, story telling and fraternization rounded out an adventurous holiday for the Scouts.

Controlling Traffic By Television

The experiment took place in August, in the historic cathedral city of Durham, for years, traffic there has been a problem, particularly on week-ends. Long lines of cars pass through the heart of the city from opposite ends — from the 11th century Framwellgate Bridge and the 12th century Elvet Bridge, both spanning the River Weir. It had always been impossible to judge, from the traffic control booth in the market place, just how long a line of vehicles was waiting at either bridge — both far out of sight of the control booth.

Two television cameras (made by a British firm who claim they are the smallest TV cameras in the world) were brought into play for the experiment. One looked down to the Framwellgate bridge from a hotel window and the other was placed on a lamp standard, looking toward Elvet Bridge. With a five-inch screen before him, the traffic control officer was able to see vehicles approaching the bridges and thus regulate the flow through the city streets.

Favorably impressed with the experiment, Durham City authorities are now considering the permanent installation of a television control system.

Teatime Topics

By Oli Daum,
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Written Specially for
The Lachute Watchman

This is the season for backyard bonfires and logs crackling in the livingroom fireplace — usually a comfortable lull between a busy summer and a long, hard winter.

But it can be a time of anxiety if parents don't properly protect their children who seem to be irrestibly drawn to flames. To ward off tragedies an adult should be present where there's fire.

Some youngsters, however, seem to have a knack for getting into mischief when the back is turned. So for double protection their clothing can be made fire-resistant by dipping it into a solution of nine ounces of borax and four ounces of boric acid to a gallon of water.

This solution, tested on doll's clothing, can be used on any fabric which can be put safely into water, but it must be applied after each washing to be effective.

To test the solution lighted matches were held to two dresses — one of which was dipped in the solution — for three minutes. The treated dress was only slightly charred, while the untreated dress burst into flames immediately.

The solution deposits a film on the fabric so mothers may hesitate to use it on their children's Sunday best. But it's better to be safe than sorry.

It is an idea too to treat drapes, curtains and slipcovers, making the home as fire-proof as possible.

Uneasy Observer

Mrs. Sarah McNeil of Orillia, Ont., looks upon progress with a disapproving eye. Now 92, the white-haired woman says progress is killing people.

"I don't know what the world will come to at this speed," she said. "Since radio and television there is so much talk about accidents, riots, strikes and murders that the old days were sheer paradise."

Labor-saving devices are convenient, she conceded, but hard work never harmed anyone.

Nevertheless, many housewives are probably looking forward to the day when ironing and dishwashing are nothing but unpleasant memories in every household, when electronic devices suck up dust before it lands on the furniture, when meals can be prepared just by adding water to dehydrated foods.

And, says the Midwest Research Institute in Kansas City, some of these conveniences are not far away. Scientists say that new detergents, fabrics and washing machines will team up to keep wrinkling at a minimum for most clothes, including suits.

Coming also are disposable bed linens, shirts, and cooking utensils to be tossed away after use. To prepare a meal all you'll do is add water removed in processing dehydrated foods.

To today's housewife, not that far removed from the coal-oil, flat-iron era, that sounds like sheer paradise.

Let's Eat

BY
IDA BAILEY ALLEN

It is always interesting to notice the food people order in a restaurant. Often I can prophesy what will be on the plate by merely looking at the person.

A fatty is almost certain to order fried food, potatoes or spaghetti and salad with mayonnaise at a single meal. She will eat too much bread, top the meal off with a sundae and, finally, as a sop to her conscience, virtuously drop a sugar-substitute tablet into her coffee!

Non-Fattening Meal

A thin person, needing to build up, usually orders meat and vegetables, passes up bread and butter, eats fruit for dessert and avoids milk.

Of these two dietary extremes, the latter is the more healthful.

Children will beg for sweet foods. But on our visits to various restaurants we found some intelligent mothers tactfully substituting a milk drink, which combines all the food elements needed for a meal except bulk. Others overcame this problem by pouring part of the milk drink over a bowl of cornflakes or ordering a peanut butter sandwich for the youngsters to eat along with it.

Egg-Nog Milk Shake: In a blender, combine 6 oz. chilled milk, 1 raw egg, 1½ oz. fresh fruit syrup or syrup drained from frozen or canned fruit and 1 scoop ice cream. Blend 2 min.

Serve very hot, each on a toasted bun. Garnish of lettuce, pickles and water cress. Serves 6.

WAIT FOR SPRING

For A Change, Serve Lamb

Consumer Section,
Canada Dept. of Agriculture
Marketing Service

Buying

Although it is available throughout the year, Canadian lamb is most plentiful from September to December. Most lamb is from animals up to the age of approximately 14 months. Mutton comes from animals older than this, and "spring lamb" is from very young animals (3 to 5 months). There is very little fresh mutton sold in the stores, as most of it is used in soups and processed meats.

Good quality lamb is firm, fine grained, smooth and velvety with fat that is firm, smooth, soft, creamy white or slightly pink in color. The bones of young lamb are small and porous with a reddish tinge and can be easily cut or sawed. As the animal matures, the bones become larger, harder and whiter and cannot be easily cut.

On both lamb and mutton there is a thin, paper-like covering called "fell". It is generally removed from lamb chops but it is not necessary to remove it from roasts. The "fell" on mutton is less tender than on lamb and should be removed from all cuts.

Cooking

With lamb, as with veal, the meat comes from young animals so is very tender. This means that most of the cuts of lamb may be cooked by dry heat, that is, roasted, panfried or broiled. For roasting lamb, the Consumer Section recommends a moderately slow oven, 325°F., allowing 25 to 30 minutes per pound cooking time for a whole leg roast and 35 to 40 minutes per pound for a rolled shoulder. Smaller roasts of lamb, up to about 4 pounds, should be cooked for 45 to 55 minutes per pound.

Lamb chops are good panfried, broiled or baked in a 325°F. oven. Half-inch chops take 6 to 8 minutes to panfry or bake and a little longer to broil. One-inch chops take approximately twice as long to cook.

Many delicious dishes may be made from other cuts of lamb. The meat from flank, shank and neck is good for stew, curry or barbecued lamb, or it may be minced and used in patties, meat pies and casseroles.

If you would like recipes for Barbecued Lamb, Mint Sauce and a Mint Glaze that's nice on lamb roasts, write to the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

IDEAS FOR SERVING LAMB

Barbecued Lamb

3 Pounds lamb, bone-in (shank, breast, neck slices, flank) or 2 pounds boneless flank; ½ cup water, 1½ cups sliced onion, 1½ cups sliced carrots; 3 cups barbecue sauce (see below), or 3 cups tomato juice, or 1 to 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce.

Trim meat and cut in serving-size pieces. Brown well on all sides, about 10 minutes. Pour off fat. Add water, onions and carrots. Cover closely and cook slowly on top of stove or in a moderately slow oven (325°F.) 30 minutes. Pour off fat and liquid. Add barbecue sauce or tomato juice and Worcestershire sauce. Cover and continue cooking 1 to 1½ hours. Uncover for last 30 minutes of cooking. 6 servings.

To Pressure Cook: Brown lamb well as above. Pour off fat. Add only ½ cup water and cook 8 minutes in pressure saucepan at 15 pounds pressure. Allow pressure saucepan to cool slowly. Pour off fat and liquid. Sprinkle meat with 2 to 3 tablespoons flour and brown again slightly. Add only 1½ cups Barbecue Sauce or tomato juice and Worcestershire sauce, onions and carrots. Cook 3 minutes longer at 15 pounds pressure. Cool slowly.

Barbecue Sauce

2 Tablespoons brown sugar, 1½ teaspoons dry mustard, ½ to ¾ teaspoon chili powder, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1½ tablespoons spicy meat sauce, 3 tablespoons vinegar, ½ cup finely chopped onion, 3 cups canned, sieved tomatoes (1 28-oz. can), or 3 cups tomato juice.

Mix brown sugar and seasonings. Add remaining ingredients and mix. Simmer 10 minutes. Makes 3½ cups. Use with lamb, minced meat, patties, spareribs, etc. Note: May be simmered until thick, about 30 minutes and served with cooked meat.

Mint Sauce

Mix ½ cup vinegar, ½ cup hot water and 2 tablespoons sugar. Bring to boil and pour over ½ cup finely chopped mint leaves. Let stand 30 minutes to develop full flavor of mint.

Mint Glaze

Add ½ teaspoons dry mustard and 2 tablespoons vinegar to ½ cup mint jelly. Spread over meat last half hour of roasting, basting several times. (Makes enough for 5 to 6 pound roast).

Seasonings for Lamb

For special flavor sprinkle over or rub into the cut surface of roasts before cooking any of the following seasonings: thyme, mint, marjoram, rosemary, basil, ginger, curry powder, chili powder, dry mustard. Make several slits in top of roast before cooking and insert slivers of garlic, mint leaves or sprigs or parsley. Add chopped mint, celery or parsley to stuffing for boneless roasts.

HISTORIC AUTO

Kitchener, Ont. (CP) — The Leroy, first production car to be made in Canada, was without a home here recently.

Presented by its owner, Norman C. Schneider, to the Waterloo County Historical Society, the vehicle was too big to enter the local library basement, headquarters for the society.

Built in 1899 by three Kitchener men, the Leroy will be among exhibits when the society opens a museum at nearby Doon, next summer.

Remembrance Day Thoughts

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

"This is a snapshot of my boy in uniform, taken on his eighteenth birthday when he enlisted. His RCAF plane was shot down and he lost his life just a year later," a father said as he showed me the picture from his wallet. What a merry twinkle this Canadian lad had in his eyes . . . and how wistful was the look on the father's face! He needed no Remembrance Day to recall his son!

On November 11, the memory of millions of young men who died in two World Wars is honored. But parents, especially parents of sons, know full well that honoring the memory of the men who made the supreme sacrifice is but an empty thing, unless we do all in our power to prevent a Third World War. Leading men and women in all walks of life, are facing the sober fact that if as nations we refuse to "hang together", we assuredly will hang individually (and collectively) in a horrible all-embracing disaster.

One of the ways to avert this tragedy is to work faithfully and intelligently to give to our boys and girls a world outlook and an understanding of and appreciation of all the peoples of the earth. Hostility between nations and narrow, blind patriotism of individuals are based in part on race prejudice. The strange thing is that this race prejudice is not an inherited characteristic but an acquired attitude.

Teachers in nursery schools for small children in large cosmopolitan areas have observed that preschool youngsters display no antagonism or superiority to other children whose skin is of a different color. Of course they notice that there are various kinds of children in their group, but the white child or the yellow or the colored child naturally treats other children as his equals.

What a pity that a child overhears grownups talking about "Niggers", "Chinks", "Dagoes" and other disparaging nicknames for people of other races! It is not very long before a child catches a sense of superiority and begins to look down on other children who are not of his race. A dangerous harvest is reaped from the smouldering resentment and hatred which is thus sown in the hearts of people who have been treated as "inferior".

Parents should teach their children that the many races on the earth add greatly to the variety and culture of the world and that each nationality has a special contribution all its own to make to the world community. Christian parents are often reminded that the foundation for world peace lies not just in lip service, but in carrying out into everyday situations Christ's teaching that there is one God, the Father of Mankind, and that all men are brothers and precious to the Great Creator.

Youth organizations such as Scouts and Guides, church groups for boys and girls such as Mission Bands, all encourage a view of the horizons beyond one's own country and genuine friendliness.

It was my privilege to observe at the Eighth World Scout Jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake boys of many races and tongues representing the six million Scouts scattered over the face of the globe. The spirit of good-will and brotherhood there was something I will never forget.

An interest in the United Nations should be encouraged by mothers and fathers and not just left to teachers. Ask at the public library for books on the UN and on stories of children of other countries. If there is no local United Nations branch in your community write to the national office of the UN Association in Canada, 310 McLeod Street, Ottawa, for free information.

The kind of world which will be built, and it may even be the actual survival of civilization, depends to a very great extent on the attitude of boys and girls to other races and other nations. As parents, what are you doing about your son's and your daughter's appreciation of people of other nations and about the growth of their loyalty as a world citizen?

The Japanese are so appreciative of moonlight, according to the November Reader's Digest, that many of their homes are built with a special "moon-viewing window." The first snow is the subject of many Japanese poems and paintings.

Remember, for all your festive baking and right through the year, "It's Always Better with Butter".

FREE! Marie Fraser's "Merry Christmas" recipes for cookies and candy. Also her new Butter Booklet.

1. Mix 2½ c. rolled oats, 1½ c. sifted all-purpose flour, ¾ c. brown sugar, 1 tsp. soda and ¼ tsp. salt. Cut in ¾ c. butter with pastry blender or knives, till mixture is crumbly.

2. Press half this mixture in the bottom of a well buttered 8" sq. cake tin; spread with 2 c. whole cranberry sauce and sprinkle with 1 tsp. grated orange rind and ½ c. shredded coconut.

3. Top with remaining oatmeal mixture. Bake 350°F. for 40-45 min. Cut into squares, serve warm or cold. Make "candles" by topping with ice cream rolls; use almonds for "flames".

Falsehood of Extremes

By Lewis Milligan

Nature not only abhors a vacuum and hastens to fill it, but she also abhors anything that tends to upset the equilibium of things. When one thing goes to the extreme, an opposite extreme is created to preserve the balance. This law also operates in human nature, in domestic, religious, social, national and international relationships. Its purpose is to keep those ships on an even keel, to save them from capsizing. But human beings are liable to panic, and many a ship has been sunk in sight of the harbour by the passengers rushing to one side in their eagerness to get ashore so that all have been lost in consequence.

Tennyson, in his poem on Freedom, warns against "The falsehood of extremes," but he did not deny that there was some truth in them. He lived in a time when freedom "broadens slowly down from precedent to precendent," and the falsehoods were in both extremes — extreme radicalism on the one hand, and die-hard Toryism on the other. Yet the two-party system kept the ship of state on an even keel, and England was "a land of settled government" in which the extremes met, argued and compromised in parliament for the common good. In all crises and times of national peril Britain has been saved by party coalition and balanced statesmanship. Chatham and Churchill were men born out of due time; by their intense and broad patriotism they rallied the whole people to united service for national salvation.

But no sooner was the victory won in the last war than the political coalition was dissolved. One extreme, taking advantage of the war-worn and poverty-stricken state of the people, promised them a quick recovery and utopian peace and plenty under Socialism. In the circumstances, it was little wonder that a large majority of the people grasped at the offer. With such a haven of prosperity in sight they swung to the extreme left and, after seven years of Socialism, the ship was listing so badly they had to swing partially over to the right to save it from capsizing. The British ship of state is now on an even keel, although wobbling occasionally with an unbalanced economy due to extreme demands by leftist labor unions.

There are very few real die-hard Tories in Britain today, and the extreme socialists have been jolted out of their dream of economic security from the cradle to the grave by starving the goose that lays the golden eggs. That goose is free enterprise and it has been revived; but the eggs are being scrambled or sterilized by the excessive demands of labor unions and the high taxation needed for the welfare state. The bubble of inflation has been blown up to the bursting point and the Chancellor of the Exchequer has warned that another general demand for higher wages, with consequent rise in prices, might cause the whole economic structure to collapse.

The falsehood and folly of extremes is illustrated at the present time in the racial clashes in the Southern States. There is some truth on both sides, but the problem cannot be resolved by extreme measures. Since the abolition of slavery, the white and colored people have got along fairly well together by mutual segregation in residential and educational affairs. The two races work amicably together in business and industry, and any attempt to force an ethnic coalescence would be disastrous for both.

With these examples of the falsehood and the folly of extremes at hand, Canadians of all racial, religious and political designations should beware of fanaticism. There can be no settled government with a multiple of political parties; France is sufficient proof of that. Tennyson condensed democratic society into a line when he wrote, "Where faction seldom gathers head," and he added:

"Should banded unions persecute
Opinion, and induce a time
When single thought is civil crime,
And individual freedom mute."

From 1931 to 1951 life expectancy in Canada increased from 60 to 66 years for males, from 62 to 70 years for females.

GIRL PLEADS FOR DOG, JUDGE PAYS HER FINE

When Irene found she had only 75 cents and the fine was $1, Magistrate McKeown, who imposed the fine, said. "Never mind; I'll pay it."

Irene Pysanczn went to court, was fined, but came away saying the judge was a very kind man. The reason is: he paid her fine. She appeared in Toronto magistrates' court to save the life of her dog, Zena, a German shepherd, who had bitten a man and a boy. The judge threw out the case presented by the man, but imposed the $1 fine in the case of the boy. If Irene had not pleaded for her dog, it might have been destroyed, but as it was, the man who appeared against the dog drove her and the dog home.

Wider Teaching Seen Answer To Delinquency

Montreal (CP) — A group of Montreal teachers and welfare workers believe juvenile delinquents can be rehabilitated through extra teaching and social welfare training.

This belief has led to formation of a unique training course, from which the first 19 students recently graduated. Having completed two years study at the University of Montreal, the graduates now start the job of teaching youthful delinquents and emotionally-disturbed children in Quebec institutions to lead lives as normal and as well-adjusted as possible.

The university course, along with an affiliated training program at the Montreal Centre d'Orientation, is sponsored by the Montreal Richelieu Clubs, a service organization. The idea grew from an address about 2½ years ago to a club meeting by Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger.

He warned members that juvenile delinquency — often stemming from intense unhappiness — was becoming a menace to society. The clubs banded together and, with capital of about $50,000, formed the Richelieu Foundation to sponsor the courses.

Garden-Graph

To keep house plants healthy, some of them must be treated like children. They must be washed "behind the ears," they must be given enough water to drink, but not too much. The ill-health of many house plants can be traced to over-watering, as well as to lack of water.

Plants with large leaves, such as rubber plants and palms, should be wiped off with a sponge and clear water, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. This "washing behind the ears" will remove dust on the leaves which otherwise will prevent the plant from breathing properly.

The amount of water required by plants indoors during winter months is influenced largely by the humidity and the heat of the house. Remember, too, that growing plants, like ferns and begonias, will require more moisture than semi-dormant ones, like geraniums, crassulas or cacti.

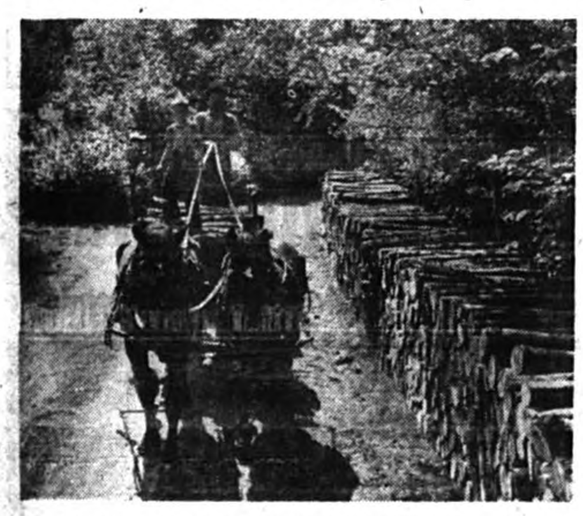

If house plants are placed in the sun they will require more water than if in the shade. However, plants in glazed pots need less water than those in porous clay pots, because the latter evaporate much moisture.

There is a way to tell when potted plants need water. Pick up a pot and rap it with the knuckles. If the resulting sound is dull, the plant has sufficient water, if the pot rings, the plant is dry.

Many house plants become ill from "wet feet," because drainage has been neglected. Never let plants stand more than an hour or so in a water-filled saucer.

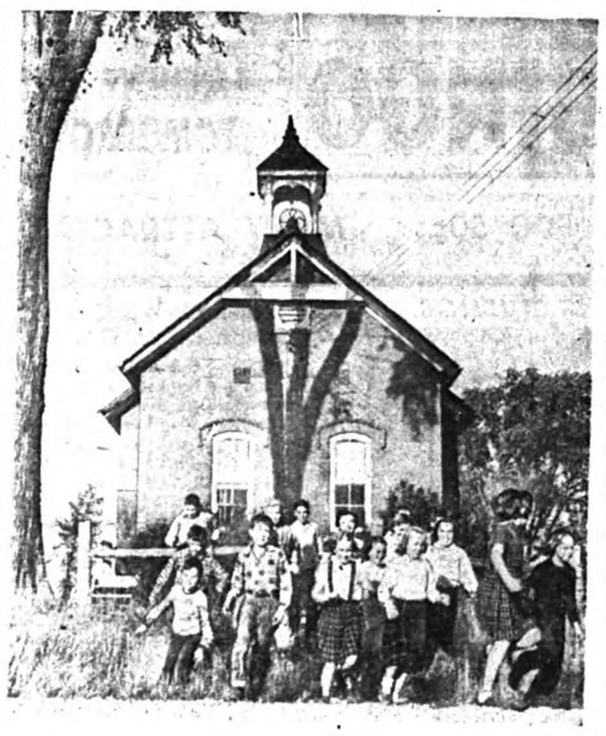

A simple method of assuring good drainage is to place flower pots in containers filled with pebbles as shown in the Garden-Graph.

Wood Still Primary Crop

Wood is a primary crop of the Quebec farm, where farmland and the forest still adjoin, points out the Quebec Forest Industries Association in a booklet entitled "The Quebec Forest." More and more farmers are showing interest in the Certified Tree Farm movement and it is forecast that, with good management, farm woodlots could supply 25% or more of the requirements of the wood used by Quebec's most valuable industry. The Association points out that the provincial government leases to industry on a long-term basis less than a third of its forests, representing 90% of the accessible timberlands in Quebec.

Country School Sets Fine Record

—Central Press Canadian

The little red schoolhouse hasn't earned the approbation of modern psychologists, but here is one that they might say is an exception. It's in Esquesing township near Milton, Ont., and it cost $1,419 to build in 1891. It has one teacher and 26 pupils, and these will find it hard to live up to the record of their predecessors. Scores of professional men and women obtained their first lessons in the school where one classroom holds students of several grades.

Seasonal Farm Topics

High Quality of Eggs

A variety of factors influence egg quality and many of these can be controlled by the producer. Strains of birds differ in their ability to produce eggs with good albumen, freedom from blood spots and good shells, says J. H. Strain, of the Experimental Farm, Canada Department of Agriculture, Morden, Manitoba, so a strain of birds not capable of producing eggs of the desired quality should be replaced by a better strain.

Good poultry management must be emphasized because good management in egg quality. Only healthy pullets in good condition should be housed and confined throughout the laying period. Confinement assists in disease control and thus has an influence on egg quality.

Egg storage temperature must be checked closely as high temperatures reduce egg shell quality and change thick albumen to thin watery albumen. If eggs are gathered three to four times daily and laying hens are properly ventilated, this danger can be partially reduced. Eggs should be cooled as quickly as possible and this cooling process should be thorough before eggs are placed in cool cases. Storage temperature should be from 50 to 60 degrees F., and humidity 70 to 75 degrees. Eggs take on "off flavors readily so should not be stored in the vicinity of products with strong odors such as onions. Marketing eggs several times a week helps maintain high quality. An ample supply of calcium must be made available for layers as egg shell is about 95 per cent calcium carbonate.

Poultry — Confinement Versus Range Rearing

Confinement and range rearing studies on egg producing fowl at the Kentville, N.S. Experimental Farm, Canada Department of Agriculture, indicate slightly higher egg production from certain high producing white leghorn strains on range rearing, as compared with those reared in confinement. However, F. G. Proudfoot of the Kentville Farm, says there was a relatively small difference in production regardless of the method of rearing. It appeared that some strains may be better adapted to confinement rearing than others and both methods have certain advantages and disadvantages.

Prior to the introduction of confinement rearing, large seasonal variation in egg production resulted in relatively high summer and fall egg prices. Commercial poultrymen realized that if they were to have large numbers of eggs at the time when prices were high, some of their pullet replacement chicks must be reared during fall and winter months. It was impossible to rear birds on the range during this period so confinement rearing resulted.

Some farmers have changed over to a confinement rearing program because of losses on the range due to predators such as foxes and racoons. There is some indication that the supposed saving in feed cost resulting from range rearing has been grossly exaggerated. Undoubtedly some reduction in mash intake occurs but this savings is partially cancelled out by losses sustained from wind and rain. If a restricted feeding program were followed, it is possible that a greater feed economy could be realized but such a feeding program has some hazards so it is doubtful whether such a program will be commercially sound in the future.

Cannibalism, seldom serious during the rearing period on range can be a problem in confinement rearing, but this condition can be controlled quite efficiently by debeaking or the use of spectrons.

Have you heard about the three deaf fellers who was ridin' the train to London?

"What station is this?" asked the first.

"Wembley," said the guard.

"Heavens," said the second feller, thought it was Thursday."

"So am I," said the third. "Let's have a drink!"

Up until a few years ago, the Zuni Indians of New Mexico managed to eke out a slender living by selling jewelry to tourists, and by farming their desert land. But they barely earned enough to live on. Then somebody had a great idea: How about sending some of these strong, able fellers to forestry school — to learn the techniques of scientific firefighting!

They did — and today the Zunis are called the world's greatest firefighters. Whenever a big fire breaks out in the West, chances are good that somebody'll put in a long distance phone call to Zuni, New Mexico — and as many as a hundred Zuni firefighters will take off by plane to take part in the fight. Because of their strength and endurance, the Zunis have solved a big problem for the Forest Service. And because it provides them with additional income, the work has helped the Zunis, too. Recently these brave people who have saved so many acres of Western forests were honored during McCulloch Motors' tenth anniversary celebration.

I jest saw some interesting figures. Out of America's 460,000 acres of commercial forest land, about 30 per cent is owned by farmers, 19 per cent by Federal government, 8 per cent by the lumber industry, and the rest by state and local governments, the pulp and paper industry, and other people. This shows, I reckon, the importance of tree farmers in the growth of America's lumber!

Tree Farm Movement In Glengarry County

If the interest displayed at a recent meeting at Alexandria, Ont., is any indication, the Glengarry Tree Farm Committee should become a fact within a month—writes Manny Wilson of C.I.P. Grenville Woods Division. Representatives of industry and government, local businessmen and farmers turned out for the evening meeting at the Department of Agriculture headquarters to explore with Mr. Lloyd Van Camp, of the Canadian Forestry Association, the reasoning behind the Canadian Tree Farm Movement and to decide if such an organization would be of help in coping with Glengarry's forestry problems. General consensus of opinion was that the Tree Farm Movement would greatly encourage woodlot management practices, and before the evening was over a steering committee had been nominated and plans were laid for a general meeting in November with the Glengarry Farm Forums.

This linking of the Tree Farm Movement with the Farm Forums was pioneered by the Hudson Farm Forum when in 1955 they agreed to sponsor the movement in their counties of Vaudreuil and Soulanges in Quebec. The experience has been a happy and productive one, with 17 Tree Farms certified todate, and similar encouraging results can be expected if the Glengarry Farm Forums shoulder the task in their county.

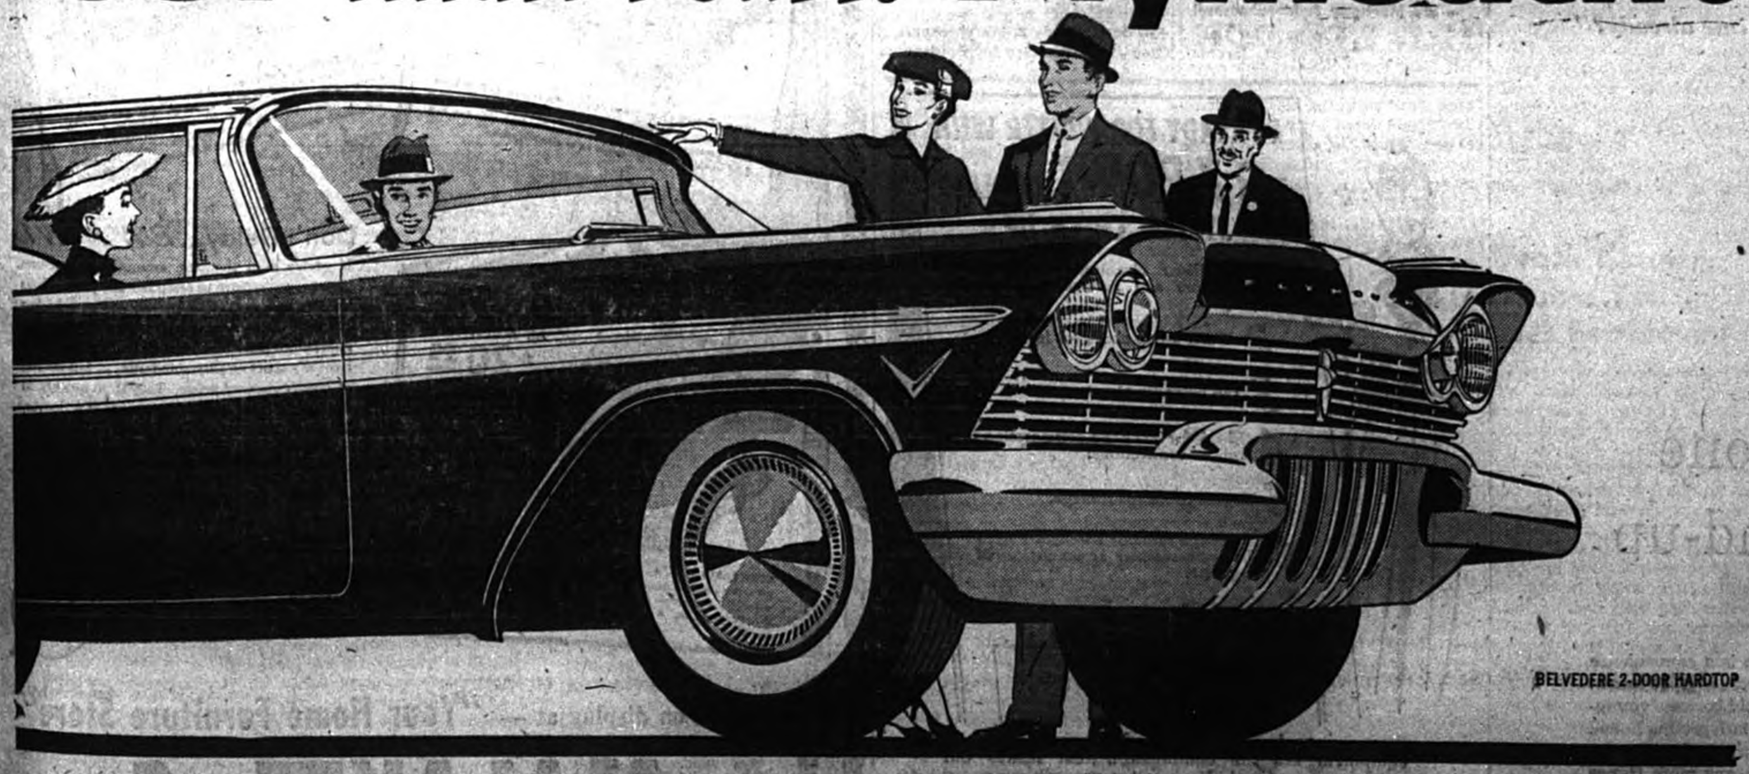

HARRINGTON FOREST FARM

Why have wholesale gasoline prices increased only one-third as much as wholesale prices in general since 1935-1939?

Raw material and other costs have gone 'way up. Why not gasoline?

Gasoline prices have stayed down because a lot of companies are in the oil business—producing, refining and selling, more and more efficiently.

Old Locomotive Now Up For Sale

Ottawa (CP) — The E. B. Eddy Lumber Company has a railway locomotive for sale, but not to the junk man.

Purchasing agent Gordon Glass says he recently refused an Ottawa salvage firm's offer to buy the 30-year-old engine. He says he will sell it only to someone who promises to use it as a locomotive.

The engine manufactured by Montreal Locomotive Works in 1920 was used at lumber yards in Ottawa's west end for years until after the Second World War, when it was moved to the company yards in Hull, Que. It was first offered for sale a year ago, then put back to work when no taker appeared.

Mr. Glass, whose sales slogan is "you can buy a locomotive for the price of a good used car," said a Toronto contractor once showed some interest but did not purchase.

Recalls Old Days In Postal Service

Winnipeg (CP) — "That was an odd one," Dick Barr, recalling the first warehouse the Post Office department constructed here.

"When they built it, they installed the vaults first then shipped the rest of the warehouse in sections from Ottawa and assembled it over the vaults."

Mr. Barr retired this year after 50 years with the post office and its customs branch. He started work at 15 in "that strange warehouse" and in 1931 was transferred to the customs branch.

During his 35 years in the postal customs he estimated he handled 35,000,000 parcels, which included everything from bird's nest mailed from China to leopard and lion skins from Africa.

He says some parcels did not have to be opened to discover their contents. "Parcels from Italy often announced their arrival. Italians are famous for sending 'high' cheese to relatives in Canada," said Mr. Barr.

He says it's impossible to examine every parcel, and usually an average of one-in-twenty are opened.

Fellow employees presented him with a velvet case, lined with newly-minted silver dollars — one for every year of service.

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. I am told by friends that if I have paid unemployment insurance contributions for two years, I must file a claim for benefit before the two years are over or these contributions become void. Is this correct? They say that if I do not make a claim in the two-year period I will have to start again at the beginning to make contributions and that the ones already made will not be counted.

A. The information you have received is not altogether correct. To qualify for benefit you must have at least 30 weekly contributions in the previous two years, and of these at least eight must have been made within the last year. However, if you have been sick or have been working in non-insurable employment or in business on your own account, these periods may be extended to a maximum of four years so as to help you qualify on the basis of contributions before the period of illness, non-insurable employment or self-employment.

Q. I am going to be laid off at the end of this month after having worked fifteen years for the same firm, which has been sold. My employer promises me three months wages when he lays me off because of the good work I did for him. Can I start drawing unemployment insurance benefits as soon as I am laid off?

A. Yes.

PREMIER DUPLESSIS AVOIDS DEMONSTRATING STUDENTS

Students fired toy cannon, shouted and tossed tomatoes, eggs and oranges at the Quebec legislative buildings in a demonstration of displeasure over Premier Duplessis' stand on the federal aid to universities. Police were lined around the buildings and had tear gas in readiness but the 1,000 assembled students did not attempt to rush the buildings. NOVA SCOTIA P.C. VICTORY

Twenty-three years of Liberal rule in the province has been ended in Nova Scotia. In the year's sixth provincial election, the Progressive Conservatives led by Robert L. Stanfield defeated the Liberal government of Premier Henry Hicks. In the new legislature, the standing is PC 23, Liberal 19, CCF 1, a total of 43. The old house of 37 members had PC 12, Liberal 23 and CCF 2.

Four Liberal cabinet ministers were among defeated candidates — Agriculture Minister Chisholm, Highways Minister MacKenzie, Trade Minister Dauphinee and Attorney-General Patterson. Blacksmith Working Though Horses Gone

Mildmay, Ont. (CP)—Jake Becker, 93, and Joe Kunkel, 88, have different recipes for longevity.

If you want to live to a ripe old age, says Jake, "mind your own affairs and don't have much to do with the girls."

(He and Joe are both married.)

Says Joe: "Like your work, do lots of it and it'll agree with you."

Joe is perhaps the oldest practising blacksmith on the continent. However, since there are no horses to shoe or wagons to be built here, he has turned to repairing mower knives, logging chains and farm machinery parts.

Jake is a retired farmer who lives near this town, 37 miles south of Owen Sound. He was one of Joe's first customers and they've known one another for more than 50 years.

15 Cents a Day

In those early days, Joe thought nothing of shoeing horses from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Then he might shoe a few more by lantern light.

They say few today realize there was a time when 15 cents for a hard day's work was fair pay.

"When we young bucks had 20 cents in our pocket," said Joe, "we'd rattle it to let the girls know. People were pretty happy with a little money. Now they're unhappy with a lot."

Times have changed since Joe charged 10 cents for setting a shoe and 25 cents for putting a new one on.

"If there were any horses around here today I'd have to charge $1 a shoe, if I could find enough material around the place to fill the order."

New Radar Beacon Helps in Search On Land or Water

Edmonton (CP) — A device known as SARAH is coming to join the RCAF 105th rescue and communications centre at Namao air station here and SARAH is a welcome adition. It means search and rescue and homing.

It's a type of radar beacon designed to speed up searches for downed flyers. The tiny unit, four inches long and several inches wide, sends out an automatic beacon signal. The battery-operated radio is strapped to the victim of a forced-landing or crash.

Its signals are picked up on a radar screen in the search craft. Unerring and foolproof, the device will operate in water, or in temperatures as low as 90 below zero.

Leads to spot

Search aircraft flying at 10,000 feet can scan an area 50 miles on each side of the plane's course for the beacon signal.

Persons lost in the northern wilds or downed at sea need only pull a string to start the transmitter operating. The batteries will transmit steadily for five days.

A small aerial, 20 inches long, pops out when the string is pulled. A microphone is attached for communication with the search aircraft when they are sighted over the downed plane or life raft.

The unit, which costs about $160, will be installed in all RCAF search and rescue craft in the next three months. Bush pilots, civilian transport planes in northern flying and company planes are also expected to instal the units.

Motorist Exonerated in Fatal Crash With Unlighted Buggy

A coroner's jury on Monday evening returned a verdict of accidental death in connection with an accident October 28 on Route 8, a few miles west of St. Philippe, which claimed the life of André Beausejour, 16. The verdict was accompanied by a recommendation to the Attorney General's Department, suggesting a change in the Quebec Motor Vehicles Act.

Henri Lapointe, a 49-year-old mechanic from this district, appeared as first witness and stated he was driving towards Lachute when he noticed the horse-drawn vehicle headed towards him approximately 100 yards away. He added that he saw the buggy being hit from behind; he passed the scene of the accident, where he then stopped. Returning on foot, he noticed the victim lying on the pavement. He added that Mrs. Armand Menard, driver of the buggy, and her two sons were nearby, but he failed to see young Jeannette Pilon, another passenger. Although he had heard the screech of brakes before the impact, Mr. Lapointe stated he had no idea how fast the car in question was travelling.

Mrs. Menard, 37, a Grenville housewife, stated she left the home of Gerald Pilon with her two children around 5 p.m. "Mrs. Pilon asked me if Jeannette Pilon and André Beausejour could have a ride as far as Gauley's restaurant, and they climbed into the back section of the buggy. There was no light or signal on the buggy, and it was the first time I had had the vehicle on the highway at that time of day. It did not occur to me that it was dangerous." Further testimony revealed that she was looking ahead and did not see the car which struck her vehicle.

"The horse was on the pavement at the time of the impact, as were the left wheels, the two right wheels being on the gravel, and there were no lights on the buggy. I cannot remember if the car driver gave any signal or indication that he wanted to pass."

Dale G. Brown, 20-year-old service station attendant from Massena, N.Y., the driver of the car involved in the fatal accident, testified as follows: "I was travelling in my mother's car from Lachute towards Hawkesbury and Massena, accompanied by four friends. We left around 5.15 p.m. and were travelling betwen 40 and 45 miles an hour; there were numerous cars travelling in both directions. It was just my second trip on that highway. Just before the accident I met three oncoming cars, all with their headlights on. I passed the first car and, just as I was passing the second, I hit the buggy, which I did not see until I was almost on top of it.

Police Report For October

Police and Fire Chief Fernan Trépanier presented his monthly report to Council at the regular session held last Wednesday evening indicating that the Police Department had answered a total of 22 calls during the month of October

A total of 25 automobile accidents were reported, nine persons being injured in these mishaps. Five arrests were made and eight persons detained for their protection, with nine cases taken before the court Social Service investigations numbered nine, and 36 traffic infractions tickets were issued. Patrol miles totalled 1,983 during the month.

Chief Trépanier made several recommendations to Council (all of which are covered in this week's Council news).

Enthusiasm Keynote of Newly-Formed Argenteuil Art Assn.; Meeting Looks Ahead to 'Second Annual Exhibition'

From a nucleus of 23 members at its inaugural meeting last August, the Argenteuil Art Association has spontaneously increased its enrolment to 53 to date. At the second meeting of this group, held Saturday afternoon in the home of Mrs. W. H. Owen at St. Andrews East, there were approximately 30 present to further the business of the organization and to enjoy the gracious hospitality of their hostess.

With Mr. A. G. Talbot in the chair and Miss L. Harrison as secretary, activity reports were heard from the regional representatives — the most creditable instance being that of Morin Heights (as reported by Mrs. Wm. Nesbitt). In that community A.A.A. members are participating in an earnest course of practical Art tutored and encouraged by Mr. E. Holgate and having generous use of accommodation at the school every Saturday morning. In St. Andrews East and Carillon, Miss Paige Pinneo reported a number of new "converts" now developing and expressing their talent in Art — with no activity of an organized nature, however.

There was considerable discussion on a venue for the next A.A.A. - sponsored exhibition, and on the possibility of acquiring permanent headquarters with display space. Out of this debate two resolutions were brought forward and approved, viz:

(1) To approach the Argenteuil Historical Society suggesting a possibility that the A.A.A. might have use of the third storey of the Museum, for exhibition purposes pending the acquisition of a permanent site.

(2) To appoint a committee to investigate ways and means of acquiring a permanent home for the Association, and to report all possible information on ownership or occupancy of any such site.

Mrs. E. Pride, of St. Andrews, was elected vice-president, to assist or replace the president, Mr. Talbot, should need arise.

Mrs. W. H. Owen served tea to her guests, and a pleasant aspect of this occasion was the social intermingling of residents with a common interest. All enjoyed the surroundings of the stately hillside home overlooking the North River, and its rare furnishings and showpieces from different lands and periods. Especially interesting to the visitors was a collection of paintings including examples from several Canadian masters.

A warm vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Owen for her hospitality.

This meeting generally reflected keen satisfaction on the progress of the Argenteuil Art Association to date, and confidence in its development as a worthwhile instrument of community culture.

Fire Dept. Climax Safely Navigated, Council Returns to Routine Affairs

Business of a general nature was discussed at the regular November meeting of Town Council, held in the Council Chamber last Wednesday evening under the presidency of Mayor Dr. F. W. FitzGerald. Ald. Alcidas Laurin was absent from the meeting, at which two additional police-firemen were added to the staff of the Police Department, bringing the total to six men including Chief Trépanier.

Two New Police and Fire Employees

A direct telephone line for police and fire calls was approved, the number to be 1801. An additional line with automatic switch-over ensures an answer at all times. It was decided that Police and Fire Chief Trépanier's recommendations for two new men be accepted, namely, Ernest Carrière, 33, of Lachute, and Raymond Labelle, 27, of St. Jerome. Mr. Carrière is married, has five children, and two years' experience as chief in the neighboring municipality of Ayersville. He served four years in the Canadian Army during World War II, the majority of which was overseas. Mr. Labelle, who is also married, has had 1½ years' experience as a special constable with the St. Jerome City police, and applied for this job with excellent recommendations. Salary for each of the men was set at $55 per week, effective November 1, the date of their unofficial hiring on the local staff.

It was decided that Section 25 of By-law 182, relative to the removal of snow from town strets, and the parking thereon, be put into effect immediately — there being no parking allowed after midnight, under this provision.

A total of $250 was voted to purchase the necessary fire uniforms for the police department members, including helmets and fire-coats.

Two New Traffic Regulations

Two of three recommendations made by Chief Trépanier in his monthly report were approved, namely "no left turn onto Barron Avenue from Berry Street for vehicles travelling in a westerly direction," and a "speed limit of 20 m.p.h. on Bethany Street from Muir's corner to the town limits."

Town foreman Jos. Senecal was given authority to discharge any of his men, with just cause, without recourse to Council. The motion, by Ald. E. O. Pollock, was seconded by Ald. Mozart Carrière; Ald. Dr. Roger Lavigne moved in amendment that the Roads Committe be consulted before any dismissal, but the amendment was not seconded. The vote was taken with Ald. Dr. Lavigne opposed.

Mr. Senecal and his assistant, Simard Larocque, were voted $1 a day additional wages for snow removal work, effective the day the plow goes into operation until December 31, at which time a general increase in wages will be discussed.

Ald. Romain Desjardins renewed his notice of motion, that at the next regular session of Council he would present for adoption a by-law governing the operation of the municipal dump.

Sewer-Cleaning Machines

Tenders for a sewer-cleaning machine were opened and read with Francis Hankin, of Montreal, quoting a price of $5,840, and Daymond Co. Ltd., Chatham, Ont., quoting a price of $4,888.84.

Ald. Mozart Carrière stated that he could see little or no difference in the two machines from their descriptions, and it was felt that either one was capable of doing the work required. It was decided that an invitation be extended to both companies to demonstrate their respective equipment in Lachute as soon as possible.

Ald. Ross Muir reported work was entirely satisfactory as far as water installation in the McGibbon "Riverview" Subdivision was concerned, Ald. Pollock also voicing his approval of the sewer work. It was pointed out that the water pressure was on for a considerable distance up the pipe.

Inter-Municipal Costs

Mayor Dr. FitzGerald reported that the Parish of St. Jerusalem had refused Council's offer of $5,000 to assist in water and sewer installation on Henry Street, and made a counter-offer of a similar nature.

Engineer Paul Laliberté, on behalf of the Parish, suggested "that the Lachute Council wait until the present work is completed on Henry and Isabella Streets, and then we will be able to give you an exact figure on the cost to us. It will then be easier for the two bodies to agree upon a suitable payment." This suggestion was followed by considerable discussion, and it was approved on a motion made by Ald. Ross Muir, seconded by Ald. Dr. Roger Lavigne, that the matter be tabled for further study pending receipt of definite figures on adjoining projects.

Building permits were granted to the Bell Telephone Company for an extension to their present building on Water Street; Donald Boa for a service station on Brownsburg Road at the intersection of Highway 8; Claude Charlebois, for a wood-working factory on Henry Street; and Phil Roy, for a private garage on Cottingham Blvd. It was speculated by several of the councillors that the Bell Telephone building extension was in preparation for dial phones in Lachute and area, but no official statement

Atmosphere was the keynote of this gay affair, when — in the vein of a successful forerunner last year (Klondyke Night) — the patrons stepped back into the carefree past and came dressed as juveniles. Typical of the theme were ladies in pigtails and short tunics, and gentlemen in schoolboy attire. Sparking the jollity of the occasion was the club president, Jos. Dumais, in full Canadiens regalia carrying a hockey stick and size 3-junior skates — which earned him the name "Arena Joe", appropriate to the community project which he is fathering with such commendable zeal. Another erstwhile dignitary of Lionism, ex-District Deputy Horace Lamarche, portrayed the adolescent female, with studied contours.

This School Time on Parade was highlighted by a skit enacted by 12 Lions and ladies, the title of which was "Young and Candid". The classroom parody included in its cast several learned-looking professors, a dominating school commissioner, and pupils bright in all but academics. Yukon Eric also appeared, out of character, and a "live model."

Gentlemen — Jean Dauphinais, Horace Lamarche, Roger Gravel.

Couple — Dr. and Mrs. Eric Mongeon.

Other prizes, all kindly donated by friends and supporters, were awarded during the evening. Refreshments were served in conclusion; and this purely social digression from the club routine of service and citizen-fellowship afforded rare pleasure to the many members and guests.

Ayersville Finances Show Deficit

At the Ayersville council session last Wednesday Conrad H. Legault, secretary-treasurer, presented a financial report for the municipality up to November 6. The acceptance of this report was followed by Mayor Gaetan Paquette formally tendering his resignation.

Monies received by the municipality from January 1, 1956, to date totalled $40,501.08, with the secretary anticipating receipt of an additional $22,403.93 prior to the end of the year, making a grand total of $62,905.01.

Expenditures to date in the General Account are $20,457.97 and a total of $14,507.52 has been spent on waterworks and sewer improvements. Accounts to be paid between now and the end of the year are estimated at $35,400.68, making a grand total of $70,366.17 — for an overall deficit estimated at $7,461.16.

The budget of $44,979.67 prepared for 1956 did not include arrears of taxes (in the vicinity of $10,000) or a $5,000 grant received from the Provincial Government. The total deficit on the budget is expected to be $25,386.50, less taxes in arrears, and the grant leaves a total deficit of $7,461.16.

A letter was read from the secretary-treasurer requesting that someone be hired to assist him in his duties, due to the fact that he is secretary both of the municipality and of the school commission, and finds these combined duties too heavy a load. It was decided to hold the matter over for study along with the members of the Catholic School Commission.

Ayersville Appoints New Mayor

Councillors of the Village of Ayersville, lacking a first magistrate since the resignation of Mayor Gaetan Paquette last week, selected a new mayor in the person of former councillor Albert Seguin, at a special meeting held in the Clement School on Tuesday.

The nomination of Mr. Seguin to the position was proposed by Councillor Maurice Champagne, seconded by Councillor Alfred Campeau, and unanimously adopted. Prior to being declared eligible for the position, Mr. Seguin had to resign as councillor, after which he took his position and was sworn in by Secretary-Treasurer Conrad H. Legault.

Mr. Seguin has been a councillor since the incorporation of the Village of Ayersville in 1952. Filling the vacancy of the mayor, he will complete the term of ex-Mayor Gaetan Paquette, which expires in January, 1957.

This evening, Thursday, another special meeting will be held in order to appoint a councillor to fill the seat vacated by Mr. Seguin.

International Stress Keynotes This Year's Armistice Day Rites

Large Attendance, Inspiring Address At Vets' Annual Armistice Dinner

The annual Remembrance Day dinner of Legion Branch 70 was well attended on Saturday evening, when over 100 members enjoyed an appetizing meal served by the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary.

Comrade Bernard Jenkins was m.c., and head-table guests included Mayor Dr. F. W. FitzGerald and the speaker of the evening, the Rev. J. Armour, of the Margaret Rodger Presbyterian Church.

A pleasing feature of the occasion was the presence of a number of lady comrades who were connected with different branches of the services, and it is hoped by the organizers that this innovation may continue so that there will be a larger representation next year.

The guest speaker, the Rev. Mr. Armour, who was introduced by Comrade Mac Walker, gave a stirring address which was well received and greatly appreciated. Speaking of the significance of the occasion, Rev. Mr. Armour said in part that it was:

1—A Time of Remembrance. — It was part of our common human weakness that memory tended to grow dim. Brave men and their valiant deeds, however, should never be forgotten. It was fitting that year after year we should meet to refresh our minds and to resolve to perpetuate their memory as long as we live.

2—A Time of Regret. — War might be thought by some to have its glory, but it had also its grim tale, of hearts broken for loved ones who went forth never to return. We should remember tenderly, in our prayers and in our hearts, those for whom this time brings a renewal of sorrow.

3—A Time of Reverent Rejoicing. — That we had been spared so much of the suffering and brutality to which others are being subjected at this very hour.

4—And A Time of Resolve. — We could be sure that hatred and tyranny and selfish ambition would not have the last word, but by God's grace, truth and honor and goodness would not perish from the earth.

In a reference to the larger fraternity of which this gathering was only a part, Mr. Armour referred to Northern Ireland from which he has recently come. He emphasized that it was Southern Ireland (the Republic of Ireland as they now call themselves) which remained neutral in World War II. Northern Ireland's soldiers fought with distinction, side by side with their comrades in the Allied cause and the small country played a part out of all proportion to its size in guarding the northern approaches to Great Britain and in winning the Battle of the Atlantic.

Concluding, the speaker said "Let me reiterate something you have heard so often, but it is forever true. You can only truly honor the memory of the fallen by living worthy of the sacrifices they have made. The world today needs true men, alive across the whole area of their personalities, body, mind and spirit. And all four professions of reverence and devotion will be so much empty show unless in life, in character and in example you are promoting the faith, the love, the truth and the respect for individual liberty for which your comrades fought and for which so many of them died."

The speaker was cordially thanked by Comrade G. Tabrett for this timely message.

Appreciation was also expressed to the Ladies' Auxiliary for their co-operation, and the singing of the National Anthem brought to a close another auspicious Remembrance Day gathering.

Cenotaph Speakers Cognizant of World Threat As Veterans and Populace Join in Remembrance

A large gathering attended the annual Remembrance Day rites in the Memorial Park — varying little in procedure from previous years except in minor improvements of organization, and in the fact that November 11 this year occurred on a Sunday, necessitating a few changes to concur with morning church services. The observance was efficiently organized by Legion Branch 70, Lachute, and the outcome was a credit to the committee's foresight and planning.

Robt. St. Laurent marshalled the parade and commanded the proceedings. After the traditional laying of wreaths to the accompaniment of suitable band music, brief speeches were given at the Cenotaph by Mayor Dr. F. W. FitzGerald, Philippe Valois, M.P., and the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P.

Mayor Addresses Gathering

"These present days are fraught with many dangers, and the spectre of war is close enough for us to realize a little of its possible horrors," said Mayor Dr. FitzGerald, after preliminary remarks in the French language. On the theme and ideal of Remembrance, he continued: "How thankful we should be to those brave men and women who gave their lives or were maimed and crippled that you and I might enjoy, even to now, the blessings of peace. . .

"In many parts of the world today the light of freedom burns only dimly. . . But if you and I, who enjoy the blessing of still living in a land where freedom exists and the reality of war is distant, will work and pray to be worthy of that freedom, as did our fellows who gave their all to preserve it for us, we need have little fear for the future.

"We offer our sympathy to the bereaved and ask a merciful and peaceful God to give to our beloved dead, in this cause, that peace which He alone can give — and to us who remain, strength and courage to follow their example."

Philippe Valois, M.P. —

A word from the Member of Parliament from Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes, who is on the legal advisory committee of the United Nations Organization — a body now straining its utmost endeavor to restore and preserve peace — seemed particularly fitting on this occasion. . . "We hope the population will sympathize with those whose efforts are directed to the aid of the oppressed patriots in Hungary," he said in effect, with reference to this recent scene of hostilities.

Hon. W. M. Cottingham —

Mr. Cottingham also made reference, in his brief address, to the plight of those in Hungary dominated by the Communist regime. "When we realize what is going on in that country, deprived of their freedom and oppressed by tyranny, we feel supremely grateful for the liberty which we enjoy in this country — and to those who sacrificed so much that we might benefit. In their name and in their reverence, I hope we shall continue to cherish the ideals they set before us," said the Hon. Mr. Cottingham.

The Artillery Band played "Last Post" and "Reveille", the traditional two minutes' silence was observed, and the gun crews fired two salvos in salute — adding a fitting note to the conclusion of these ceremonies.

J. Eric Stephens Was Postmaster, Ex-Serviceman

Following a comparatively short illness, Mr. James Eric Stephens passed away at his home on Sydney Street early Wednesday morning.

The deceased was born in Fassett, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Stephens. The family later took up residence in Lachute. Eric was a veteran of World War II, having served with the Black Watch Regiment.

For several years he was in charge of the Lachute Mills post office, but was transferred to the central Lachute office, where until his illness he held the position of postmaster.

In 1950 Mr. Stephens married Miss Elsie Dorion, of St. Andrews East, who with two children, Holly and Gregg, is left to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father. He is also survived by a sister, Frances, of Montreal, and two brothers, Richard and Owen, both of Lachute.

A private service will be held on Friday at his late residence, conducted by the Rev. J. R. Watson, with interment at St. Andrews East. Messrs. R. Elliott, D. Rogers, H. Deacon, R. Muir, K. McOuat and Mac Walker will act as pall-bearers.

Death Claims Double Toll in East Settlement

Friends and acquaintances regret the tragic incident of a double bereavement which struck the Lanctot family, east of Lachute on the Montreal highway, last Friday — when Mr. Marcel Lanctot, 51, and his mother, Mrs. Joseph Arthur Lanctot, 80, died within a few minutes of each other.

It is understood that Mr. Lanctot, who had been in poor health for a number of years, was aiding his aged mother, who had suffered a seizure, and with the exertion Mr. Lanctot himself was stricken with a fatal heart attack.

They are survived by the wife (the former Anna Garretsee); son, Marcel; sister (Lucille) Mrs. R. Davidson; and Maurice, a brother of the late Mr. Lanctot.

The double funeral was held Tuesday in Outremont, with burial at Cote des Neiges.

Driver Blameless In Child's Death, Ontario Accident

A coroner's jury ruled last week that a North Grower, Ontario, boy was responsible for his own death when he stepped into the front fender of a car driven by Aimé Trudel, 52, of Lachute Mills, early in October.

Evidence showed Allan David Pratt, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pratt, died instantly of brain and multiple injuries when he stepped off the shoulder of Highway 16 while walking with his older sister, a short distance from his parents' home.

Mr. Trudel testified that he noticed nothing unusual about the conduct of the children whom he saw on the shoulder of the road. "I went to pass them when the little boy ran into the side of my car," he said.

The inquest was conducted before Coroner Dr. R. A. Dowd, of Osgoode. North Gower is located between Ottawa and Kemptville, on Highway 16.

Half a million new dwelling units have been built in Canada in the last five years.

Occupants Escape As Car Burns After Collision

Several passengers in a car owned and driven by Alfred Guitard, 44, of Gatineau Point, escaped serious injury Sunday afternoon when the car skidded out of control on the Pte.-au-Chene bridge over the Rouge River, bursting into flames after hitting another car.

Guitard reported that he was headed home and as his car entered the bridge traffic lane it went into a skid, striking a car driven by Gerald Boudreau, 26, of Hudson. The Guitard car burst into flames, but all occupants managed to escape. Two children of the driver, 11-year-old Pierre and four-year-old Suzanne, were treated for shock in a Hawkesbury hospital.

While investigating this mishap, Traffic Officer Roger Massie reports that a car driven by J. Boulay was halted waiting for the fire to die down, when it was hit by a car driven by Georges Dubé, who was headed towards Lachute. A large buck deer was on the top of the Dubé car, and although it fell off the vehicle, the carcass did not topple into the river.

COSTLY BLAST

Hudson Bay, Sask. (CP) — A truck developed a flat tire while moving a house from Rosthern to Hudson Bay. When the tire was being removed, it exploded and set fire to the house and truck trailer, destroying both.

New Fire Crew Responds, Procedure Uneventful

The first fire call under the newly re-organized department suffered a slight but not-too-serious delay Sunday morning, the original call being directed to the Deacon establishment instead of the Police Department (number 1801).

The fire was at the residence of Willie Massie, 90 Chatham Street, Ayersville, and required the laying of several hundred feet of hose, a Siamese coupling and 11-inch hose also being put into use.

The building was of wood construction, insulated with shavings and sawdust, and the blaze required considerable effort to extinguish. The majority of the furniture and contents were removed, but the contents remaining suffered smoke and water damage.

The fire occurred around 10 a.m. Sunday, at the commencement of the Armistice Day ceremonies, and was of two hours duration.

Good Progress in Argenteuil County In CNIB Review

Canadian National Institute for the Blind revenues for this area have totalled $372.40, according to a report read by the treasurer, Miss Lulu Miller, at a meeting of the Argenteuil Advisory Board on Tuesday, November 6.

Receipts from campaigns in the County accounted for a large portion of the funds, as follows: Mille Isles, $25; Gore $10; Wentworth $141; Montcalm $47.50; Arundel $138.90; with $9.50 in the form of donations from individuals, addressed to the treasurer.

It was reported by A. "Tony" Zaplaski, field secretary, that through the efforts of the local Social Service office, the Village Corporation of St. Andrews East has been persuaded to accept responsibility for payment of a bill for water supply of a blind person.

Provisional assistance for November and December was granted in another local case and it was decided the situation would be investigated further. Similar assistance was extended to three other cases, from December of this year until May, 1957.

General discussion turned to another young sufferer, doubly handicapped, who is attending a School for Crippled Children in Montreal and learning Braille — being driven back and forth each day by a local citizen. In this case the necessary assistance was also extended, another citizen-donor also contributing generously.

The meeting discussed a Christmas party to be held at the Lachute Legion Hall on Tuesday, December 11, at which the blind of Argenteuil would be guests.

Since May 22, 85 calls which included blind registered cases and prevention cases.

During the past five months, arrangements and eye examinations were completed for eleven people.

Morin Heights eye clinic held September 14-15; 95 names had been received from the following areas: Morin Heights, Sixteen Island Lake, St. Adolphe de Howard, Arundel and Huberdeau.

Preparations are underway to hold the second eye clinic in Lachute in the near future. Up to date this office has received 68 cases to be examined.

Social Service. — The Lachute office has given out the following items: 10 Medical prescriptions, 6 white canes and 2 pairs of shoes for children. In addition 4 radios had been repaired. One person has been provided with a talking book.

There are 46 registered cases of blind in the County of Argenteuil. During the term, the report of 2 deaths were noted, one in Huberdeau and one in Lachute.

The home-teacher is making weekly calls to two persons. In addition, one registered case is being taught in Montreal.

Campaigns.—The following areas have completed financial campaigns: Wentworth and Arundel. Those that are nearing completion are as follows: Lachute and Montcalm. The regular campaigns will be organized in the following areas in the near future: Brownsburg, St. Andrews East, Morin Heights, Grenville and Chatham.

The chairman, Dr. Eric Mongeon, remarked that in the years since the Argenteuil Board had been set up, good progress had been made and he anticipated that work in the Counties of Terrebonne and Deux Montagnes would get under way before long.

The following were unanimously elected to office:

Chairman, Dr. Eric Mongeon; 1st vice-chairman, W. G. Richardson; 2nd vice-chairman, M. R. Wilson; treasurer, Miss Louise Miller; secretary, J. B. Chalmers.

Directors — A. O. Anderson, Mrs. J. E. Barker, R. Cairns, Mrs. Ivy Cruise, Mrs. L. Dion, Mrs. T. Dwyer, Mrs. J. Gorman, Mrs. B. Gosselin, Keith Hickson, Mrs. S. Holt.

Council Returns To Routine Affairs

has yet been made by that Company.

It was decided to sell the plate glass windows in the Municipal Garage, now being converted to a Fire Station, to Donald Boa, who had made the best offer for them, namely, $75 delivered.

The sum of $375 was voted to the Roads Department for the purchase of salt and sand needed to commence the winter de-icing — this being approximately one third of the estimated amount needed.

Permission was granted the Canadian Shade and Tree Company to dump cuttings and branches in the local municipal dump, for the sum of $1.50 a load.

A letter from the C.P.R. wanting to renew the water agreement for its water tank for another five years, on the same conditions, was tabled for study by the Water Committee.

Ald. Aleidas Laurin was named pro-mayor for the ensuing three months.

Engineer Paul Laliberté was then engaged to supervise work in the McGibbon Subdivision area on behalf of the town, his remuneration to be 2½ per cent of the Thos. Hall contract; and that, before final payment was made, a location plan of everything concerned in the project would be turned over to the secretary.

Case of Boundary-Line Property Valuation

Turning to valuation it was decided that:

"Whereas following a survey executed by Begin, Charland & Valiquette, of Montreal, it appears:

"1—That part of Lot 698-4, owned by Mrs. Hazel Cottingham, is located partly in Lachute and partly in the Parish of St. Jerusalem;

"2—That approximately 75 per cent of the brick house on said lot is within the limits of Lachute;

"3—And that such house and lot have been omitted from the valuation roll;

"It is moved by Ald. Ross Muir, seconded by Ald. Judes E. Charlebois, and unanimously adopted, that this Council take the proper measures to rectify immediately such omission, as per request of Mrs. Cottingham; that the valuators be instructed to proceed with the valuation of such property as to the part located within the Town of Lachute, and that the secretary be instructed to follow all formalities provided for such a case."

Accounts totalling $61,933.70 were approved for payment, and there being no further business, the meeting was adjourned to the call of the chair.

Two Convictions On Driving Charges

Lucien Larose, 31, of Aversville, was sentenced Friday to a fine of $100 plus costs, and his driver's license was suspended for six months, when found guilty of driving while his ability was impaired.

Larose, who appeared before Judge Omer Cote in St. Jerome Court, was placed under arrest last Wednesday, and later charged on results of a "blood-test" taken after the accident, October 27 on Chatham Street, near the St. Jacques Ltée establishment.

Mrs. Gaetan Hoff, also of Ayersville, was severely injured in the car-truck collision, several other passengers in the Hoff car having been treated at the scene.

Jacques Tremblay, of Notre Dame de la Paix, was sentenced to a fine of $50 plus costs, his driver's license being also suspended for a three-month period, when found guilty on a dangerous driving charge.

The charge against Tremblay was laid following an accident in which the accused crashed into a Provincial Police vehicle, parked on the side of the road with its flasher in operation while the officers were investigating another accident. An estimated $400 damage to the police vehicle resulted. Charges were laid by Det. Ralph Allen.

Exonerated in Fatal Crash

"Before the impact, I applied the brakes, and following the crash I continued on past the buggy and onto the shoulder of the road. One of my friends called the police, and I saw the victim lying about the middle of the road. There were three people in the ditch, but I did not see the little girl."

Traffic Officer Albert Legault reported that there was a 22-foot pavement width at the scene of the crash, the road was clear, there was no fog, and there is an eight-foot shoulder along the road at that particular spot. Brake marks were in evidence a distance of 66 feet before the crash, and the driver was in perfect condition. Traffic Officer Legault then read a section of the Quebec Motor Vehicles Act indicating that a car in perfect condition takes 84 feet to stop at 40 m.p.h.

Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur informed the jury that they could "return no other verdict than accidental death", and suggested a recommendation might be directed to the Attorney General's Department, suggesting a change to the Quebec Motor Vehicles Act, as the act covers bicycles, etc., under cars, but makes no stipulation that animal-drawn vehicles are required to have lights."

The verdict of accidental death and the suggested recommendation were returned in a matter of minutes — Brown being exonerated of any blame relative to the accident.

The horse had to be destroyed following the accident.

Bared Heads And Bronchitis

THIS MAY sound like rank sacrilege to many readers — but we think it is high time someone agitated to hold Remembrance Day in a more kindly season of the year — say in late September, when the leaves are falling but the air is mellow; when children are back at school and adults settled in the fall routine.

Perennially we have returned home from those Cenotaph observances, cold to the marrow, in company with others likewise "chilled to the bone"; yet never have we heard any serious recommendation that our reverence to the war heroes be expressed on any other day!

Our thoughts at the Cenotaph are admittedly distracted by our concern for elderly gentlemen with heads uncovered to the wind; for little children ill shod for mud and puddles underfoot; for bandsmen whose lips and fingers are rigid in the frosty air; and for those grizzled, older veterans to whom such weather must revive a memory of Flanders winters too realistic for comfort!

Remembrance Day, of course, is the anniversary of the World War I armistice in 1918. That was 38 long years ago. Through major and minor conflicts, through world-encircling pacts and shattered international agreements, Remembrance has survived — and will survive, so long as freedom-loving patriots live to "carry the torch". The observance is established; the theme is spontaneous. . .

But let us be sensible about this thing. The actual date of our annual demonstration is insignificant. The Armistice of another, more ghastly war has since been signed, and on a different date. It is the heroes of Democracy — the heroes of ALL modern conflicts for freedom — whom we honor on Remembrance Day. Those first and foremost from our own community, of course; but in general, all who on land and sea and in the air have sacrificed their blood for OUR way of life.

Let us also candidly admit, that those of us whose hearts are seared with a memory of that "eleventh hour, eleventh day and eleventh month" — those to whom World War I was a nightmare of realism — are now distinctly in the minority. We who recall that day are old enough, and should be wise enough, to realize that November 11th means not a thing to the great mass of fellow-Canadians who were unborn, or mentally unstatured, in that distant past. And if, as we profess, it is in Young Canada that we seek to perpetuate respect and reverence — let us grasp the fact, indeed, that to Young Canada November 11th, 1918, is a mere date in the history book!

It is far from our intention to offend, by the suggestion of a change, those most deeply touched by this particular date. But there exists an unorganized sentiment against exposing the health of the public to the unfriendly elements of this season. And although the idea will doubtless continue unheeded, we believe that in Canada, at least, it is important enough to merit an exchange of public opinion.

Recipe for Revival

FROM ONE of the more helpful journals of our craft, we cull this story concerning the Ladner (B.C.) Optimist:

Recently Editor Edgar Dunning, in reporting an important new subdivision project for his town, wrote that the land had been originally owned by "the late Bertrand Galloway." Reminiscent of Mark Twain whose demise was "greatly overexaggerated," Mr. Galloway promptly wrote to The Optimist to provide living proof that he was very much alive indeed. Then he suggested that he was partly to blame. Quoth he:

> "I have come to the conclusion that you must look over your list of subscribers and anyone whose name is not thereon is listed as dead. I think you are quite right in doing this, as those who do not subscribe to their local newspaper cannot be treated as live citizens."

Enclosed was a cheque for a year's subscription to restore Mr. Galloway to the category of "live citizens."

Guides to Youthful Reading

TRADE-SPONSORED, but a good idea nevertheless — "Young Canada's Book Week" (November 15-22) gives food for thought in the interests of our children. . .

Advising on the type of reading material for young-folk, Miss Catherine Mackenzie, convener of Education for Quebec Women's Institutes, points out that " in these stirring days, it is the path that leads up to today, that interests our young people." The big indusries — paper, oil, iron, steel, coal, ships, canals and waterways. All these are exciting and interesting.

Miss Mackenzie calls attention to the adventure stories, cowboys, Indians, historical, and asks, "Have you seen that Radisson has come back into history?" "There is no one more accurate about the Northland than our own Stefansson," she continues — urging that history and geography be made to come alive in children's minds. Children's detective stories are also mentioned, "These will keep them quiet for an hour or so; boys and girls both read them."

Those old volumes "which we read in our childhood with tears in our eyes", are not warmly recommended for modern youngsters; nor should we consider "that a child is reading Shakespeare who looks at the pictures of Romeo and Juliet in the comics".

Mrs. J. W. Adams, president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, has also called the attention of every Institute member to this week. "By supplying the right type of book it will do more for good reading than resolutions attacking crime comics," she states.

For Christmas Trade

ONE SURE WAY to attract shoppers from surrounding communities is to dress up the town for Christmas. A colorful shopping area, plus well-lighted homes on the outskirts, will draw trade from miles around. And the cost is remarkably low.

Some communities string red and green lights across their commercial streets. Others (similar to the Chamber of Commerce effort here in past years) sponsor a competition for effective home decoration.

These decorations should be up early in December, however, to start Yuletide shopping early.

Of Human Benefit

INSULIN, penicillin, Salk vaccine, cortisone, sulfa drugs — those are the magical words that in the past 10 years have marked a dramatic evolution for Canada's drug manufacturing industry.

And although this evolution has not been as noisily obvious as the arrival of the jet age, television and the automotive age, it has at least equalled all three in its contribution to human welfare.

One reason that this transformation in the drug industry has gone virtually unnoticed is that most of its benefits are essentially negative in their impact. Pneumonia 15 years ago, was a dreaded killer. Penicillin was discovered and now pneumonia is regarded as little worse than a bad cold. Mastoid operations, once commonplace, have become so rare that surgeons have difficulty finding enough cases to teach young doctors how to operate. This is because drugs have been discovered which attack mastoid infection with pinpoint accuracy.

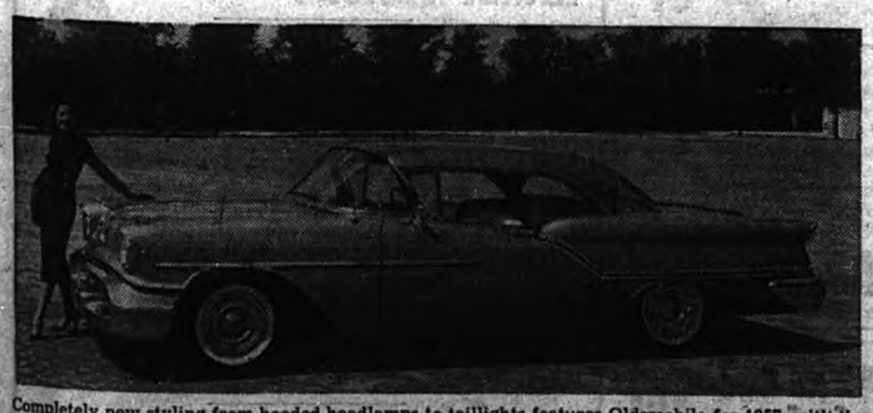

Canada's drug industry is still quite young, hardly 100 years old, but the dynamic nature of recent discoveries in the field of medicine have caused this comparatively young industry to work rapidly to keep ahead of medical requirements.

Although the customer only encounters the drug manufacturing industry when he visits the drug store with his prescription, this industry is playing an ever increasing role in our modern life.

EVERY YEAR we find more decorations, chrome trims and fins big enough for a jet aircraft. Presumably the designers go in for these things because the public wants them. Apart from the urge to keep up with the Joneses, it's hard to see why cars should be so fancy.

— Kentville (N.S.) Advertiser

Completely new styling from hooded headlamps to taillights features Oldsmobile for 1957, with the most sweeping model change in 20 years, as presented in this Super "88" Holiday coupe. "Sky-line" beading down the roof extends into the rear deck and sets off the twin-strutted rear windows with three separate glass areas. Distinguishing the new front end are the new "hi-lo" bumper, twin front fender rocket emblems and parking lights adapted from the experimental Golden Rocket. Inside there is a new strut-mounted instrument panel and a wide variety of new upholstery fabrics and colors. Mechanically, there is a new 277 h.p. "Rocket" engine, improved front and rear suspension, 14-inch wheels and a more efficient dual-range heater.

Highest earners in Canada in 1953 were medical doctors and surgeons, with an average income for the year of $11,253.

It is estimated that in the current year the value of foreign goods sold in Canada will exceed the value of Canadian exports by $1,000,000,000.

Westward Ho !

Flying? Why, yes! Flying is a wonderful way to travel, especially if you have to cover long distances in a limited period of time. Train travel? Certainly, particularly if you have time to spare and comfort is the prime consideration. Bus journeys? Nothing like them, if you happen to be well upholstered and want to travel economically. But for sheer delight and travelling fun, give me a trip by car.

The person who entrusts his life to some manner of public conveyance, be it bus or train or plane, does nothing more than accomplish what he sets out to do. He gets on board at point A and gets out at point B, and he pays for the privilege of so doing. He has no immediate interest in the trip because he knows that, barring some unforeseen eventuality, the carter will see to it that he arrives safe and sound at his predetermined destination. It's as simple as all that.

Car travel, however, is different. It's excitingly different whenever a group of people gets together to make any sort of a long trip. Even a jaunt of 25 miles or so takes on all the aspects of a desert safari. And longer excursions involve as many persons and organizations as a major military manoeuvre.

Last week-end I undertook to drive to Montreal from St. John. The occasion marked the long half-term week-end awarded to the school each autumn. Baker, one of the masters, was driving up and taking a few of the lads with him. He was looking for another adult to go along with him in the hope that said person would undertake to do some of the driving.

"I'd love to go," I told him when he first broached the subject. "I expect I can find somebody who will take my duty day. When do we leave, what time do we arrive in Montreal, and when do we return?"

"Good; no doubt you can; Thursday at 6.45 p.m.; Friday at about 10.30 a.m.; and next Monday at 6.15 a.m. on the button. Your queries answered in one neat little parcel."

All things being in order, we loaded our young charges into the car and raced down the school hill on the Thursday evening, right on schedule. All through the long night we drove, headed for Montreal and home. And somewhat bedraggled and bleary of eye, we rolled into the metropolis one half hour ahead of our estimated time. Each then went his own way armed with instructions to get some sleep and be on deck for the trip home on Monday morning.

As we bowled along on our homeward journey, we suddenly noticed on the map that we could save close to 100 miles by taking a route different to the one we had travelled on the way up. According to the chart, all we had to do was head through Sherbrooke and Lennoxville, go to Cookshire and then turn right on a gravel road that would lead to the border station at a place called Woburn. But we later discovered that there were two right turns at Cookshire leading into gravel roads, and, needless to say, we made the discovery after we had gone 65 miles out of the way.

The cartographer also forgot to inform us that certain changes had been made in the road numbering system south of the border. We intended to take a road known as the Airline, route number nine, which connects the City of Bangor, Me., with Calais, Me., our local border crossing. We should have gone east out of Bangor. We should have but we didn't. For some reason yet to be explained, we hurtled westward along route 202 — also tagged with a large 9 — and ended up in Augusta, Me., some 150 miles farther west than we wanted to be.

When we planned on taking the shortcut through Cookshire, we estimated that we would save about 100 miles and two hours travelling time. In the end, we added seven hours to our time and somewhere in the neighborhood of 260 extra miles.

Yes, indeed, car travel is bags of fun and so economical. Its only drawback is, perhaps, that it leaves you utterly pooped and you only require about two weeks in which to recover.

With G. E. Mortimore

Some friends of mine leased a furnished house for a year while the owners travelled to Britain. The day they moved in, a foul odor surged at them.

Next day it was stronger. Drains? A body in the wall? My friends traced the smell to the kitchen and then homed on it, using their noses as direction-finders, until they stood in front of a cupboard.

As though afraid that the landlord had left some dill-scente reptile to guard the house, they opened the door most gingerly.

Nothing jumped out. The cupboard contained a stone crock, and in the crock was a noble Stilton cheese. My friends thought they saw movement. Was the Stilton preparing to climb out of the crock and follow its masters overseas?

Man and wife exchanged looks of mingled fear and disgust.

"It's either the cheese or us," the man said. "There isn't room in the house for both."

He wrestled the cheese from its lair, imprisoned it in a cardboard box and carried it away (on a whim) to the roof, where he abandoned it.

Six weeks of rain and sunshine have passed since then. The weather-beaten cheese is still on the roof. My friend is afraid to look at it. I think his conscience troubles him. By the standards of men who love chese, my friend has committeed a monstrous crime.

However, he makes light of his offence. He argues that the cheese was alive when he kidnapped it, and undoubtedly is very much alive now.

"I know the thing has moved down the slope of the roof, box and all," he says. "So I suppose it can look after itself."

I suggested to him that since the owners had rented the house furnished, they probably looked upon the cheese as an article of furniture, or perhaps as a household pet. They would expect to find it there when they came back.

"Oh, I'll keep it for them," he said. "But it will stay outdoors in its kennel."

Serve him right if that cheese jumps on him from the raintrough some dark evening and bites him severely about the face and neck.

SUGAR FARMERS HAVE GOOD YEAR

—Central Press Canadian

Most of Canada's farmers are complaining of lower-than-average yields this year but not the sugar-beet growers. They have an above-average tonnage and have grown some of the largest beets on record as shown by the monsters held by Florine Kozina. One of these, when reduced to sugar, would fill a 10-pound package. It's a $20,000,000 industry producing not only sugar, but animal fodder, fertilizer and pharmaceuticals in Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec.

Ontario Wedding Of Interest Here

Scott - McDonald

Norfolk United Church, Guelph, Ont., was the scene of a pretty wedding on October 13 when Miss Dorothy Violet, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex McDonald, of Crewson's Corners, and F. A. Keith Blair Scott, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Scott, of Georgetown, were united in marriage.

The Rev. Garfield Henry Rees performed the double-ring ceremony, the church being decorated with autumn bronze and yellow mums, banked with green ferns. Mrs. Tobey played the wedding music and Mr. C. McArthur was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a white silk organza gown in three-quarter length, with fitted gathered bodice and rounded neckline. The matching jacket had lily-point sleeves. Her fingertip veil, sprinkled with rhinestones, was held in place with a matching tiara, and her bouquet was a cascade of red roses.

Mrs. Harvey Barker was matron of honor, wearing a three-quarter length gown of autumn green antique taffeta fashioned with full skirt and fitted bodice, with matching hat and gloves, and carrying a cascade bouquet of yellow mums.

Miss Dorothy Ruth Scott, sister of the groom was bridesmaid, wearing a three-quarter length gown of bronze crystal charm, with hat and gloves to match, and carried a cascade of green mums.

Mr. Gerald Scott was best man for his brother, and the ushers were Messrs. Earl Walters,, of Georgetown, and Douglas McDonald, brother of the bride, of Guelph.

The wedding reception was held in the Latin Quarter of the "Green Rooster", Guelph, where the bride's mother received for her in a peacock-blue wool sheer gown with beige accessories, wearing a corsage of yellow carnations. She was assisted by the groom's mother, gowned in pink and amethyst satin brocade, with matching hat and gloves, wearing a corsage of red roses.

On their return they will reside at 553 Sherbrooke Street, Winnipeg, where Mr. Scott is stationed with the RCAF.

An honored guest at the wedding was Mrs. David Tomalty, of Brownsburg, grandmother of the groom. Guests were also present from Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Lachute, Brownsburg, Stratford, Brampton, Acton, Georgetown and Guelph.

Perhaps never before has there been such a shortage of all kinds of labor, or never before has there been such a demand for all kinds of labor. This is not only true on this continent, but all over the world.

A very interesting talk was given on growing violets for one's own pleasure as well as for exhibition, by Mrs. Robert Gibson, of Ottawa.

It is hoped that all interested in this new venture will plan to attend the meetings, so that more groups may be formed and ideas may be shared. IRON CURTAIN CRASHER

We confess a sneaking respect for one resourceful gentleman who fooled the Commies—albeit by morally dubious means. Seems he would load his hollow aluminum artificial leg with candy, coffee and nylons in West Berlin, then whisk over the border into East Berlin in his motorized wheel chair. He made a neat profit — until the border gendarmes ultimately caught up with him.

More and more businesses—from artificial limbs to shipbuilding — similarly find aluminum a valuable aid to sales and profits. Further major expansion of Alcan's smelters in both Quebec and B.C. is aimed to satisfy the continued increasing demand for the light metal.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Remembrance Sunday At Lachute United

Despite the change in the time of the morning service last Sunday, a crowded congregation was present at Lachute United Church to pay tribute to the valor and sacrifice of the men who gave their lives in two world wars.

The senior choir, under direction of Mr. Wayne Riddell, choir director and organist, rendered the anthems, "Bless the Lord, O My Soul," and "For All the Saints." Capt. Gordon Tabrett, who was present with a contingent of the Cadet Corps, and color party, read the Scripture lesson.

In the course of his sermon on the theme "Lest We Forget", the Rev. Wilson Bridge, minister of the church, said they were gathered to pay tribute to the dead of two World Wars, and also to remind themselves of the need for constant readiness to defend the cause of human freedom, which was again threatened in these days.

He went on to say that Prof. Albert Einstein, shortly before his death, had said that the year 1957 would be the year of crisis, for it would be the year when Russia would first have a "military edge." . . . In view of the happenings in Egypt and Hungary, those words were worth thinking about.

All the pomp and circumstance with which Remembrance Day was celebrated was of itself in vain. The men who had given their lives in two World Wars had died in the cause of freedom. It was the task of men and women today "so to live and so to labor that that freedom would be maintained."

Launch Brownsburg United Church Campaign, "Every Member Visit"

The Sunday service in Brownsburg United Church November 18, at 11 a.m., will be one of dedication by the entire congregation to the task of the "Every Member Visit" campaign, which is now underway in this church. A "commissioning service" will also be held for the visitors, who will make a private call in the homes of many of the members of the congregation the same afternoon. No financial commitments will be sought at the services. . . A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend.

A very successful dinner was held last Friday evening as part of this campaign. The Senior Woman's Association catered for this dinner.

Curling Season Opens With Zip

The 1956-57 curling season is now in full swing at the local rink. Play in the Match Committee bonspiel began last week and will continue through to this week-end. The next event will be the playdown in the MacKimmie Memorial Mixed bonspiel.

The first of the season's Saturday curling events took place last week, with a good crowd in attendance. Two teams tied with the same high-plus and played two ends to break the tie. The winners were Miss Teddy Berube, Dr. J. C. MacKimmie, Fred Stein and Simon Wilson (skip). The runners-up were Mrs. A. B. Ogilvie, Mrs. Janet Wilson, Owsald Carrière and Keith Rutherford (skip). Excellent music was furnished for a short social evening by a three-piece orchestra from Hawkesbury and Vankleek Hill, under direction of L. Caron. It is reported that plans are being made to have this trio on hand each Saturday night for the remainder of the season, beginning November 24. Arrangements are being made to have other musicians for Saturday night of this week. Royal Carrière, chairman of the committee in charge of these affairs, has been active in formulating plans for the season and all indications point to a most successful year.

On Wednesday evening, November 21, a dinner meeting will take place at the rink, open to all members and their wives and all lady members. A full attendance is expected, as this is one of the gala events of the season.

An exceptionally large number of bonspiels are being planned by member clubs throughout the district for this month. The one at the Caledonia Curling Club in Montreal is now under way, and at least two rinks from Lachute are participating. Others are to be held at Hawkesbury, Pointe Claire, Lacolle, Granby, Cumberland, Hudson, Howick, Chantecler and Cornwall.

Canadian Army Fosters Boxing Stars

Army boxing, which had by far its most successful year in 1956, should be in for an even bigger season in 1957.

Interest in the sport has been stirred by the record achieved by Sgt. Leslie Mason, 2nd Battalion, Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment) of Canada, of Stellarton, N.S., who won his class at the Olympic trials and earned the right to represent Canada in Australia. He is the first Army boxer ever to win such an honor.

In 1957, as in 1956, competition will be confined to two classes — novice and open. The novice class will consist of soldiers who have never competed in civilian or Army boxing tournaments while the open class will be for more experienced fighters. Both classes will be open to all ranks.

Commencing early next year, Army units will hold elimination tourneys with winners advancing to camp, area and command championships. Command champions in both classes will meet at Kingston, Ont., April 10, 11 and 12 in the Army finals. Preliminary bouts in the Kingston tourney will be staged at the Prince of Wales Armouries with the finals scheduled for the Memorial Arena on the last night.

Lachute High School Sports and Social News

By Bev. Sanford

Basketball

Saturday was rather a bleak day for Lachute High School — including both the weather and the sports results.

The Senior and Junior boys, together with the Junior girls' basketball squads, left Saturday morning for St. Eustache.

In the opening game, the Junior boys were overpowered, 68-16 by the St. Eustache team. At the close of the first quarter, Lachute was trailing 8-22. During the second half, their hosts advanced another 14 points, while L.H.S. gained only 4, and so throughout the entire game St. Eustache had the lead.

The local stars were Del MacTavish, first, credited also with 10 points; Wayne Laurin, second, with 2 points; while Jack Lavis was third, also with 2.

In the second engagement, the Senior boys, although they too lost, proved themselves a better match for their opponents. Even though they were lagging at the end of the first quarter, yet they pulled ahead and the half-time whistle showed Lachute leading by 1 point, 25-24. However, as the game progressed the St. Eustache team came out on top, 48-41.

The Three-Star honors were won respectively by Wayne Bradford, who sank 15 points, Arthur Gauley, 14, and Bruce Cairns, 2.

The Junior girls' exhibition game was a decided victory for St. Eustache, as they piled up a 35-7 lead over our local girls. Marilyn Underhill was the lone point-getter for L.H.S., with 7 tallies, and also receiving credit as the first star of the game, while Joan Girling won the second and Bonnie MacTavish third.

The two top-scorers for the opposing team were Sandra Stephens, 15, and Beverley Chapman, 14.

Soccer

Having played basketball in St. Eustache Saturday morning, the Junior boys returned home in time to play their final and crucial soccer game against Macdonald High School in the afternoon. Their coach, Mr. A. Petersen, refereed the game.

In the first half, the visitors had a break-away, scoring 1 point, and then another! In the last half they managed to chalk up another 2 goals, which made the final score 4-0 in favor of Macdonald High School. This eliminated Lachute from the O.V.S.A.A. Championship — at the same time, of course, making M.H.S. the champions.

Events

Last Friday afternoon the Household Science class of Grade XI, accompanied by their teacher, Mrs. D. Clarke, visited the local plant of Ayers Limited. They were shown through the various departments and all reported that it was both interesting and instructive.

Hopes Fade For Representation in Olympic Hockey

By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

After five months and a lack of interest, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has given up on its plan to send an all-star team to represent this country in the world hockey championships in Moscow this winter.

If a team makes the trip then it will be either the Vernon (B.C.) Canadians, last season's Allan Cup champions, or a nomad group of youngsters who go under the name of the Ottawa Junior Canadiens.

Fears Confirmed

Since this commentary on a contentious subject, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association announced (last night) its decision that Canada would send no team to seek the World Hockey Championship laurels in Moscow this winter.

After Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen lost out to the Russian team in Olympic championships last winter, the CAHA decided the most feasible way of regaining the hockey crown was through a team of stars assembled from across the country.

But early this month in Toronto a meeting of CAHA officials recommended to five members of its executive and the nine branch presidents that the all-star idea be scrapped "in view of the great delay and the lack of interest in our own organization among the public."

The officials added that attempts to raise funds for the projected all-star outfit should be continued, to help the eventual Canadian representative at Moscow.

They said the Ottawa juniors and the Venrnon senior club should meet in a playoff series to decide who will make the trip.

The Ottawa team is a farm club of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League. Last year the Junior Canadiens played in a Quebec junior loop but are operating in Ottawa now under a unique set-up.

They play a number of games in the Senior A Eastern Division of the Ontario Hockey Association — where they hadn't been defeated in early play — and also play part-time in the professional Quebec Hockey League.

In addition they are lined up for numerous exhibition games and only recently were edged 5-4 by the powerful Detroit Red Wings of the NHL.

George Dudley, of Midland, Ont., CAHA secretary-manager, said both Ottawa and Vernon may enter "strengthened" teams in their playoff joust. "We will leave it to each club to decide what strengthening it needs. If they are interested in making the trip I imagine they will start looking for the very best players."

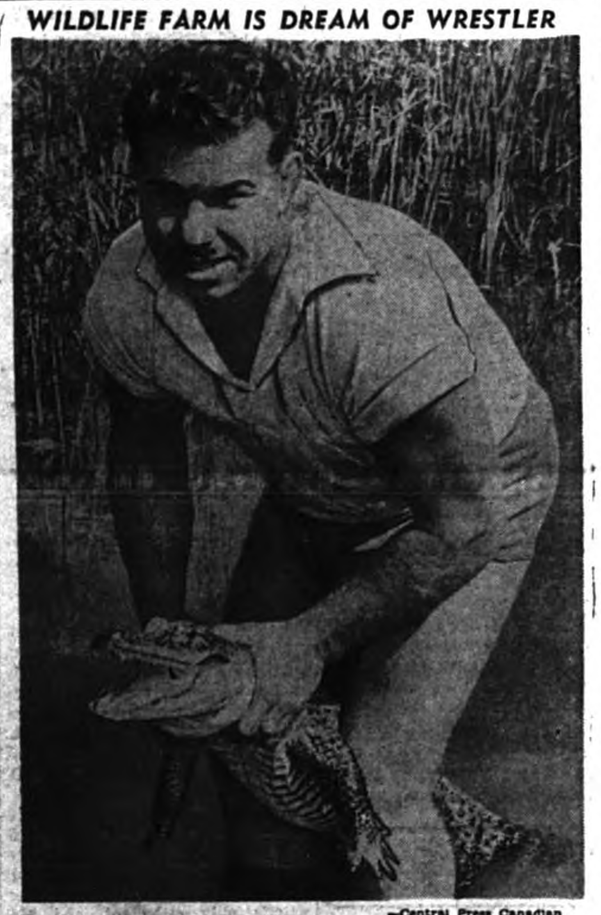

Dudley said the CAHA will bear no cost of sending one of the teams to Moscow, but the fund-raising will start when one or both clubs accept the invitation for a playoff.

If both Ottawa and Vernon decline the offer, Canada will not be represented at the championships, Dudley added.

Indications are that both teams are favorable to the idea but there has been no definite acceptance yet.

Frank Selke, Montreal Canadiens managing director, said a few weeks ago he would permit the juniors to represent Canada' if that's what Canada and the CAHA wants."

WILDLIFE FARM IS DREAM OF WRESTLER

—Central Press Canadian

After 10 years of wrestling both humans and alligators, Tuffy Truesdell began this summer to "wrestle" with a five-year plan to transform his 200-acre farm, 10 miles east of Sarnia, Ont., into a wildlife sanctuary and began with a foundation stock of more than 200 alligators of every size and every age, ranging from one year to 125. Truesdell's interest in alligators began when he was stationed in Louisiana with the U.S. 11th Armored division in which he served as division athletic director. Every off-duty hour he spent hunting and trapping 'gators to augment his army pay. His knowledge of the reptiles stood him in good stead, when in 1946, after a three-year reign as world's middleweight professional wrestling champion, he decided it was about time both he and the fight game found a new gimmick. He went to the Louisiana swamplands, captured the biggest, meanest alligator he could find and returned to Canada with an act that set the grunt and groan world on its ear.

Massey Weighs Beauties Of Canadian Communities

Ottawa (CP) — Governor-General Massey, admitting his "very deep interest" in the subject, weighed the beauty of Canadian communities at the recent annual conference of the Community Planning Association of Canada and found them in considerable want.

"We need not remind ourselves of the varied beauties of our country," he said. "But I think we would all agree that we have not fully responded to the challenge offered by nature.

"Perhaps, indeed, we hardly saw that she was challenging us. We have many cities in noble settings. I cannot say we have too many noble streets and squares. We have many peaceful, prosperous towns, set in a natural harmony of field and sky, but the town has frequently been given no logical shape and is really a scene of man-made confusion."

He advocated more parks and squares, greater preservation of trees and the natural beauty of areas in which communities are located. A zoo, he added, "should be within the capacity of any city of a reasonable size."

How could these things be afforded? "If we could induce a mood in which the citizen of a modest surplus would ask 'what could I give my town?' it would become easier to ask the municipality to play its part."

"It is of the utmost importance," he added, "that with shorter hours of labor for all, the atmosphere of the town should be stimulating and satisfying."

TV's 'Explorations' Host

Mavor Moore, the well known actor, writer, critic, executive and producer, is the host on the new CBC television show called "Explorations". This show is CBC-TV's boldest venture to date in the documentary field and will deal with a great variety of subjects — from history to mental hygiene.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Everyone hopes he can avoid an accident, but not all are that fortunate. If you become involved, you'll find these tips worth remembering.

REMAIN at the scene of the accident. It's illegal — and immoral — to leave.

RENDER assistance or obtain medical help if needed. Be very careful with injured people; confine your aid to keeping them warm and controlling bleeding, unless you have completed a standard first-aid course.

GATHER the facts. Ask the other driver involved in the accident for his name, address, license number, registration, car make and insurance company. Get the names and addresses of all occupants of the other car. Make a diagram of the accident showing car positions and directions cars were travelling.

CALL the police. In all but very minor accidents, call the city police or highway patrol. The officer will take charge and fill out an accident report. It's a good idea not to discuss the accident with anyone but the police and your insurance company.

ASK for witnesses. Take down the names and addresses of any bystanders who may have seen the accident happen.

REPORT any accident you're involved in to your insurance company as soon as possible. Make a report regardless of the seriousness of the accident.

ALWAYS have your license, insurance card, and car registration with you whenever you drive your car. A pad and pencil in the glove compartment will prove handy for any information you may have to take down.

"Don't you know you can't sell life insurance without a license?"
"I knew I wasn't selling any, but I didn't known why."

Newest Buick Yet

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE
Buick Roadmaster 4-door Riviera

You know all that talk you've been hearing about the 1957 new car models being really new?

Well, in the case of the 1957 Buicks it's true—gospel true.

And we bring them to you now with a soaring enthusiasm we can hardly contain—the newest new Buicks ever built.

All New—and Then Some!

We mean new from the ground up, and from gleaming grille to sassy taillights.

We mean new lowness, new styling, new bodies, new windshields, new controls, new safety-padded instrument panels, new safety steering wheels, new seating, new fabrics, new colors.

We mean new front end, new rear end, new frame, new braking, new steering, new handling, new riding, new roadability—a whole new chassis of greater solidity and safety.

We mean V8 engines new from the crankshaft up—engines that poise on new nodal-point mountings for peak freedom from vibration—that "feed" through a rust-free fuel system—that breathe freer and deeper to deliver an all-time high in horsepower and compression from their 364-cubic-inch displacement.

And we mean, most of all, an advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflow—so instant in the starting range—so utterly smooth and so totally full-range in "Drive"—that your need for "Low" is practically eliminated.*

So come take in these low-silhouette, these boldly beautiful, these instantly obedient Buicks for 1957. Come learn about the host of wonders to be had here—including a true work-wagon with the racy and airy grace of a pillarless 4-Door hardtop Riviera—the most beautiful Estate Wagon you ever beheld.

Then you'll see why you can't blame us for being so fired up about it all—and how catching this excitement can be.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

With the youngsters safely tucked away in classrooms for another school year, now might be the time to survey the accumulated chaos of the summer and get down to a few much-needed household repairs.

Inspired by the children's shiny new textbooks one quick job might be to brighten up the faces of well-worn books with a plastic coating which not only adds sparkle but protects the covers from further wear and tear. The plastic is usually available in spray containers at a hardware store.

First, touch up worn corners with the children's wax crayons. Spray the book with a thin layer of the waterproof plastic and hang the book up to dry on a clothes line. The coating will make it a simple matter to clean off sticky finger marks, too.

When the children see the fruits of your endeavor they may be inspired to take steps to keep their books looking like new. A good type of cover for them to make is one of polythene, a durable plastic that's easy to work with.

Place the open book on the plastic, cutting the material about two inches larger than the book on all sides. Make two cuts in plastic, top and bottom, parallel to the narrow back of the book and turn in the edges all the way around. Slip the narrow flap between the binding and the spine of the book.

Seal the turned-in edges permanently by placing a piece of paper over the plastic and press for a few seconds with an iron set on low heat.

Easy to Please

It takes little to please some people, bless them. Take Mrs. Victor Kinsman, Dominion president of the United Church Woman's Association.

A mother of three boys and a girl, she says she's never happier than when she's got 25 shirts to iron — her usual weekly quota — dishes to wash or a house to clean.

It's been said before that the best things in life are free but just the same she must have shocked many women with this message on a recent coast-to-coast tour. But, explained Mrs. Kinsman, if you keep your life simple, happiness will be a familiar companion.

Called on frequently to address women's organizations, Mrs. Kinsman has a tip for other speakers: never go on a tour without an extra pair of eyeglasses and another set of teeth.

If you've got them when you need them difficulties will never get beyond the simple stage.

It Floored Him

The problem of another speaker in Brentwood, England, wasn't so easily solved. Confronted by 750 members of the Women's Institute, Health Officer Dr. W. R. Warren said he felt "quite unnerved facing so many women." Then he fainted.

Revived in an ante-room he chose to cancel his talk. The meeting was adjourned.

To Serve Milk

Milk should be served near the end of meals so as not to reduce the appetite for other needed foods, say the nutritionists. Between-meal milk should be taken at least 1½ hours before the next meal. The nutritive value of milk is not altered by cooking; milk may be used in soups, sauces and desserts.

Buying apples? Watch their color! Apples that are well colored for the variety usually have the best flavor. For example a lovely dark red McIntosh will probably taste better than a light colored one.

Egg thrift starts with selection; and here is how you can tell when medium or small eggs are a better buy than large eggs. Take the price of Grade A Large and subtract ¼ of the price. If Mediums are selling for less than this, then they are a better buy. Take the price of Grade A Large and subtract ¼ of the price. If Smalls are selling for less than this, then they are a better buy. Don't miss a bargain!

IDA BAILEY ALLEN

From the test-kitchen came snatches of song and an unusual noise. When I peeked in, there was the Chef, with a striped kitchen towel tied on for a sash, singing the dance music from Carmen. He was stomping his feet and snapping his fingers in flamenco style.

"What started this, Chef?" I asked.

"It was the magnificent spectacle of Spanish dancing I saw last night, Madame. The flamenco is the most beautiful dance of old Spain.

"In its honor I have created a dish that I prophecy will be a favorite here in North America and also of matadors, pleadors and toreadors. To give it gay color, flavor and verve, I have used plenty of paprika. It puts the spirit of the flamenco dance right into the food."

Chicken Flamenco: In a stout paper bag, combine ¾ c. enriched flour, 1½ tsp. paprika, 1 tsp. salt and ¼ tsp. pepper. Add 1 (2½ lb.) cut-up frying chicken. Shake to coat with the flour mixture.

Heat ½ c. fat in a 7x11-in. baking pan. Layer in the chicken. Brush with fat. Bake 50 min. in a moderate oven, 375 deg. F. or until tender and brown. Turn once.

Remove from the pan. Keep hot. Serves 4 to 6.

Paprika Sour Cream Gravy: Spoon 3 tbsp. of the chicken drippings into a saucepan. Blend in 1½ tbsp. enriched flour, 1½ tsp. paprika and ¼ tsp. salt.

DINNER FROM SPAIN

Green Peas, Scallion and Lettuce Bowl
Gaspacho Crusty Bread
Chicken Flamenco
Paprika Sour Cream Gravy
Saffron Rice Green Beans
Lemon and Raspberry Sherbet
Coffee

Green Peas, Scallion and Lettuce Bowl: Combine 3 c. shredded lettuce, ¾ c. cooked or frozen canned green peas and 1 minced scallion. Toss with 3 tbsp. not-sweet French dressing. Serves 6.

The Chef's Saffron Rice: Add 1 tsp. saffron to 1 tbsp. cold water. Heat 1 tbsp. olive oil in a 2-qt. saucepan. Add 1 c. uncooked rice. Stir 30 sec. over a low heat.

Add the saffron and 3 c. chicken bullion or 3 c. water and 2 chicken bouillon cubes. Boil 25 min. or until liquid is absorbed and rice flaky. Serves 6.

Make and Freeze Good Things For Christmas

Consumer Section,
Marketing Service

If you have just bought a new home freezer, did you know that you may prepare a good part of your Christmas dinner now and pack it away until the big day? Not only that, but you can avoid a last-minute baking rush by making cookies, tarts, pies and rolls and freezing them, and it won't be long until you can do the same with most of the fancy sandwiches and hors d'oeuvres you'll want for holiday parties. Isn't it a change from the old days when the lady of the house was so busy cooking at Christmas time that she hardly had time to relax and join in the fun.

If you haven't planned your Christmas menu yet, these suggestions from the Consumer Section may start you working at it. To begin the meal how about a frosty fruit cup served with cheese sticks, or perhaps your family would prefer soup with crisp croutons. These foods may be made and frozen now, all ready except for thawing or heating.

It is possible to roast a stuffed turkey, then remove the stuffing and freeze it and the meat separately — but you will be much happier with the results if the turkey is freshly cooked on Christmas day. If you like, you may get the bread crumbs all ready for the stuffing and freeze them in a large plastic bag. No doubt you have some garden-fresh frozen peas or green beans in your freezer or locker. You can serve these along with freshly cooked potatoes and turnips or whatever vegetables are traditionally served for Christmas dinner in your home.

No turkey dinner is really complete without cranberry sauce or cranberry relish and since both of these freeze very well, you can make enough now to see you through the holiday season.

Homemade rolls are a welcome treat anytime and for Christmas fancy shaped ones would be most attractive. You can make an assortment such as cloverleaf, Parker-house, fan or braided rolls. Your family won't know them from freshly baked rolls when they're popped from freezer to oven and heated at Christmas dinnertime.

All of the favorite Christmas desserts — plum pudding with hard or brown sugar sauce, mince pie or tarts and, of course, ice cream — can be stored in the freezer. The same is true of fruit cake in which freezing seems to mellow the flavor.

With all these Christmas foods plus cookies, sandwiches, nuts and candies ready in your freezer or locker, you should have plenty of free time to enjoy yourself on Christmas Day this year.

Rural Women Deplore TV Sex and Drinking

Toronto (CP) — Rural women of Ontario have voiced their opinion of Canadian television in a report released today which calls for less drinking, smoking and sexy caressing on the TV screen.

They would like, instead, to see more historical drama using Canadian players and more special feature programs on traditional celebration days, such as Dominion Day, St. Patrick's and St. Andrew's Days.

Mrs. George Wilson, of St. Mary's representative to the Provincial Radio Council from the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario, presented the report today to the annual board meeting of the FWIO.

"Because of the ever-increasing influence on our daily lives, it is our responsibility to advise radio and television stations on the type of programs we need," she said. "They welcome it."

The evaluation survey sent out last Spring, was answered by about one-quarter of the 1,450 Ontario branches. The questionnaire covered all types of programs, including those of special interest to children and women.

Recommendations made in the survey are to be sent to the Fowler Royal Commission on Broadcasting, the CBC and to the Provincial Radio Council.

Among the recommendations were: A call for more travelogues as aids to social studies to create better international understanding; more book reviews and serials for shut-ins; biographies of famous women and hobby and handicraft demonstrations.

Advertisements should be "short and accurate," the report said, and "advertisements are preferable to license fees."

Lamb Stew and Dumplings

Buy some lamb! It is plentiful and reasonably priced now. Your favorite lamb stew and one of these recipes for dumplings from Canada's Kitchen would tempt the dullest appetite:

Dumplings

1½ Cups all-purpose flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup milk.

Sift dry ingredients and add milk to make a very soft dough. Drop by tablespoons on top of hot stew. Cover tightly and cook 18 to 20 minutes. Do not lift cover while dumplings are cooking. Serve at once. Makes 9 dumplings.

Parsley Dumplings

Add ¼ cup finely chopped parsley and 1½ tablesponos finely chopped chives or green onions to sifted dry ingredients.

Onion Dumplings

Add 2 tablespons grated onion and 2 teaspons very finely chopped green pepper to sifted dry ingredients.

Tomato Dumplings

Use 1 cup tomato juice in place of milk in dumpling recipe. Sprinkle dumplings with paprika before covering.

She — "I wonder if you'll love me when my hair has turned to gray."

He — "Why not? I've loved you every time you've changed color so far."

The interesting fabric alliance of velvet and lace and the striking but seldom used color scheme of dark brown and white, meet in a delightful party dress for the younger girl. Two rows of white Venise lace fall from shoulder to hem and outline the sides of the square neckline. The lace continues down the back. The dress closes with a back zipper and is taffeta lined to hold its bouffant shape.

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Children Are So Different

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

Children are so different!" a mother complained.

"I never know what to expect."

If parents would accept at the time of a baby's birth the fact that all children differ, how much happier life would be! How much unnecessary sorrow arises from parents, especially mothers, wanting their child to be taller, or heavier, or brighter, or more friendly to others, than he is naturally? There is no one pattern for all children.

In every home with several children, parents often notice how different they are. It is important to remember that youngsters have "feelings" which can be hurt. They are sensitive when they hear disparaging remarks about themselves, such as, "Tom is not nearly so clever at school as John," or "Jean is such a careless, untidy child — quite different from Mary who is neat as a pin about her clothes and play things," or "Billy is just naturally at home with strangers. He'll make up with anyone. But Helen is painfully shy. She runs and hides when I have visitors."

Put yourself in Tom's or Jean's or Helen's place — how would you like to know your mother held such a poor opinion of you?

Another mistake busy parents sometimes make is in failing to look for some one thing each child does well. He needs sufficient encouragement and praise so that he feels he is a success. Every person craves, not only the good opinion of others, but he also needs to think well of himself. "I'm not much good at anything," a teenage girl remarked to a friend. That girl's mother should have helped her to find out what she was good at, so that she wouldn't have had such a poor estimation of her own ability.

In some homes a child may be good at something and be praised for his skill, and because praise is pleasant he wants that job always to be reserved for him. But unless there is a system of taking turns in work as well as in other things, the other children in the family get no practice at this particular thing. Dorothy may be a marvel at making pie but her younger sister Linda needs to try her hand at this too!

Boys and girls are made on a different plan. Serious harm to a child's normal sex development in later years may often be traced to a mother's disappointment in the arrival of a son when she wanted a daughter (or visa versa) resulting in her treating her boy like a girl, overdressing him, keeping his hair long and "protecting" him from "those rough little boys in the neighborhood." A girl who is over-encouraged to be a "tom-boy" may also discover it hard in adolescence to find her place easily with other girls in the collegiate "gang."

The differences in children of about the same age can easily be observed at a birthday party. Of a dozen children eight years old, some will be tall, others short; some fair, others dark. But the contrast in their social aptitude is also noticeable. Some children will be friendly and enter the group eagerly, with the expectation of having a good time. Others will be shy, retiring, uncertain whether or not this is going to be "fun".

When active or mental games are played the varying proficiency is again apparent. One child is quick of mind, with excellent muscle co-ordination; another is rather slow at a guessing game and a bit awkward in a motion demanding skill. In the physical, emotional and mental growth, the children will vary in their development.

Parents must think not only of the immediate present but of the future when they accept their children as they are and show them that they love them and are proud of the ways in which they excell.

Interesting Diversion at Frontier W.I., Cushing

An interesting W.I. meeting was held by Frontier Branch on Tuesday night, when a debate was held on the topic, "Resolved that rural life is more beneficial to residents than urban life," with Mrs. Basil Clark and Mrs. I. H. Fuller for the affirmative and Mrs. M. Crosby and Mrs. T. Zimmer, of Brownsburg, for the negative.

The judges, Mrs. G. McGibbon and Mrs. Tomalty, felt that the negative debaters had a very slight edge over the affirmative, both of whom presented well recognized facts.

It was rather comforting, however, to hear the Urban supporters describing the trials and hardships of farming, something which they usually vigorously deny, even though they did wander from the beaten path in attacking farm life — as the category "Rural" included every Tom, Dick and Harry living in the country regardless of whether they were butcher, baker or candlestick-maker, or just some of the poor Urbanites who have flocked to the country for quiet, clean living away from the noise and danger of the city.

The debate was lively, full of laughs, and made a program of real fun for the evening. Poppies were sold for the veterans' fund, and a pleasant social time was enjoyed.

Firemen's Annual Banquet

Each year the volunteer firemen hold their annual banquet, which this year took place at the Alpino House, with more than 150 guests in attendance.

A buffet supper was enjoyed by all present. The opening address was given by Fire Chief H. Gillingham, who welcomed the gathering. The entertainment was provided by "Larry and his Chateauguay Band" for dancing and vocal items. Contributing also to the enjoyment were Mrs. Joyce Murphy and Miss Beverley Bell. Mr. Colin Cameron was also present in his grass skirt. Messrs. Chas. Baumel and Allan Vaillancourt formed the entertainment committee. The decorations were in charge of Peter Whalley, and the electric lighting was by Paul Poirier. Mrs. C. C. Moore nearly won the prize of the evening, a $64,000 cheque; but the correct answer was not forthcoming and so a small token prize was substituted. Mayor Chas. D. Campbell, together with the Police and Fire Commissioner, C. E. Seale, presented to Chief Gillingham his instructor's certificate for the St. John's Ambulance, and also First Aid certificates to most of the firemen who had taken their course.

Later Fire Chief Gillingham thanked those present for their attendance, and hoped that a pleasant evening had been spent.

by R. BEILHARTZ, Manager
1956

R. Beilhartz

Oxford, England — Here we are in the ancient City of Oxford, one of the world's famous seats of learning. There are college buildings and students everywhere. However, we did not come here to get a university degree but to do our best to win the Esso Golden Plough, the trophy that symbolizes world supremacy in plowing, at the World Plowing Match at nearby Shillingford. By we, I mean Robert Timbers, of Stouffville, Ont., last year's Canadian champion and his team mate Edwin Denman, of Portage la Prairie, Man.

All the teams from the 13 competing countries are staying at the Randolph Hotel here. We held a meeting the first day so that contestants and team managers, like myself, could get acquainted. We found all managers speak English and quite a few of the plowmen speak or understand English. As you can imagine we didn't have any difficulty in introducing ourselves, although one of the English speaking contestants remarked that "some of the boys from the foreign countries are easier to understand than the Englishmen."

After the meeting we left by motor coach for Windsor to visit Queen Elizabeth's farm, a drive of about an hour and a half. As we drove there were times when I would just lean back and listen to the different national groups conversing in their native tongues and wonder if the Tower of Babel sounded anything like it. But it was all so friendly and animated that it really was a pleasure listening.

At the royal farm we were met by the manager and manageress who welcomed us warmly. We learned that few visitors to England have the opportunity of entering the gates, let alone touring the Queen's farm.

To describe the farm and all we saw would be difficult, but the thing that struck us was the orderly arrangement of everything. Whenever there was grass it was well clipped and even the trees and shrubs seemed to have been manicured.

All of the 600-acre farm is under cultivation except for parks, a golf course and roads. The main road is called the Princess Elizabeth road and it runs perfectly straight right across the farm. It is lined on both sides by large trees, growing close together. On one side of the farm is the Thames River.

All the farm buildings are over 100 years old but in a good state of repair. The house in which Queen Victoria lived the first years of her reign is now used as a dairy. It is not a modern dairy such as we have in Canada. The pans for skimming off the cream are still there but have lately been replaced by a small electric separator. Bottles are washed and filled by hand. Butter is still made by the old method and hand printed. The milk, butter, eggs and meat produced on the farm are for the use of the royal family and staff at Windsor Castle. Two truckloads of milk go to the castle daily, we were informed.

There are two herds of cattle on the farm, an Ayrshire herd consisting of a fine lot of large cows in wonderful condition, 95 head all told, and a Jersey herd of 45 cows, 49 young stock and two bulls. There are also pigs, large white, numbering 30 breding sows and gelds and two boars, 155 Border Leicester cheviot ewes and 250 lambs born this year. There is a poultry flock of 2,500. We also saw Prince Philip's riding horses.

After viewing the stock, fields, storage barns, machinery and grain driers we stopped for refreshments. Farm workers dressed in work clothes served us sandwiches and things to whet the palate.

If time permitted I could write a book about what we saw and were told about the royal farm. However, I should mention that as we drove by beautiful Windsor Castle we were asked not to take any photographs from close range, but I'm sure I heard a couple of cameras snap. I might have done the same if it weren't for the fact that I was sitting alongside the manageress.

After spending all afternoon touring the royal farm we said farewell to our guides and headed back to Oxford. After dinner we met Frank Ellis of the Esso Petroleum Company, who are the hosts for the world plowing match, and discussed match arrangement. While it was time for Bob Timbers and Mickey Demman to get in some practice plowing, we were still waiting for the plows to arrive.

The next morning we drove out to Shillingford, the site of the world match. On arrival Bob and Mickey lost no time getting their tractors in shape. These were brand new tractors and minus oil, water and gasoline. While the boys worked we received cheering news. The plows were on their way from Coventry and would arrive that afternoon at the practice field.

The practice field was about a mile or so from the match headquarters and we drove over in a jeep. The driver seemed to get lost at times and blamed it on the tall hedges that surround the fields and lanes. They are everywhere and I have a suspicion that these hedges were put up to stop the cows from making eyes at the bulls in the next farm, for you certainly couldn't see over them.

These hedges nearly caused an international incident, much to the amusement of everybody but those concerned. It all happened when one of the English contestants, who could speak no French, offered to drive the wife of one of the French contestants, who could speak no English, to the practice field. The hedges just served to confuse him and after he darted up and down one lane after another only to retrace his steps, the young Frenchwoman became alarmed. She was about to jump out of the car when someone who spoke French and English arrived on the scene and explained everything, and so saved the day for both of them!

Before we left the field to return to Oxford the plows were on hand and so the day was saved for another couple. The boys lost no time unpacking the plows but you should have seen the grease that covered them. Where the company found so much grease to smear over the plows I'll never know, but there must have been a year's supply.

The regular monthly meeting of Lachute Women's Institute was held in the Legion Hall, with a good attendance.

Two suggestions to raise funds, proposed by Mrs. G. Leggett, were referred to the finance committee for consideration.

The president, Mrs. Geo. McGibbon, brought to attention the recent Civic Reception given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. G. Y. Deacon, and it was agreed that a vote of appreciation to Mrs. Deacon be recorded, for having played such an important part towards her husband's work as the Fire Chief.

Mrs. F. W. FitzGerald reported briefly on the semi-annual convention and that Lachute Branch had voted in favor of the levy of 25 cents per member, proceeds towards the handicrafts exhibition, and urged members to support this effort.

Mrs. W. Y. Shearsmith, publicity convener, introduced as guest speaker, the Rev. James Armour, B.A., who recently came from Kilbride, County Antrim, Northern Ireland, and is now minister of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church in Lachute.

The Rev. Mr. Armour spoke on Ireland — an island about 300 miles in length by about 150 — appearing smaller in fact by the division made between the six northern counties loyal to the Crown, and the 26 of the south, known as the Irish Republic, which is more than a geographical border.

The religious faith celebrations, he said, are held on March 17 by the Catholics, and on July 12 by the Protestants, on both sides of the border — the former predominating in the south and the latter in the north.

Much has been said concerning the neutrality of the Southern Irish during the last war, but "let us not forget the great loyalty of the Northern people and the tremendous part they played in the Battle of the Atlantic and with other armed forces." Belfast suffered from bombing as much as any city of Great Britain. It must also be remembered, said the speaker, that a good number from the South joined with the armed forces.

Economically, Ireland faces great difficulties due to its lack of natural resources and labor problems. Main industries are shipbuilding and linen manufacturing — agriculture claiming the greater part.

The Rev. Mr. Armour spoke briefly on educational facilities, social and national health services. He mentioned the comparative differences between the Irish and the Canadian way of life, especially our "super markets", with the abundance of food and speed of traveling.

Ireland's policy of living with the past and old traditions, has barred progress to some extent, the speaker said, and its peculiar way of giving impression by colored picture postcards does not give a true picture of the beauty of that country, with its coastline, lakes and countryside — and the speaker cordially recommended Ireland for a holiday trip.

Mrs. G. Dobbie thanked the Rev. J. Armour for his interesting talk and expressed good wishes to him and his family now residing in Lachute.

What Price Blindness

Contributed by the CNIB

Loss of sight is a great tragedy and the sufferer must of course pay the price. The price, however, is always too high — too high because of what the blind person must endure as a result of his affliction.

Right from the very beginning he is made to feel different from the people around him. Even his own immediate family regard him as someone incapable of doing the simplest things for himself. Out of a genuine desire to be helpful, they generally "overdo it," and instead of doing good, they then do great harm by encouraging an attitude of depedence in the mind of the blind person. Very often they talk at him instead of to him; they extend pity rather than understanding; and in countless other ways they constantly remind the person of his blindness.

An approach to the problem of blindness from this direction is entirely wrong. A person who loses his sight does not undergo a transformation at the time of blindness. He is still the same man, with all the hopes, ambitions, and desires, that he had at the time of his loss. To be paradoxical, he is the same sighted man without his sight.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind and other organizations for and of the blind, are constantly waging war against this attitude. Many blind men and women have proven to the world at large that blindness is perhaps more of an inconvenience than a handicap. Despite their lack of sight they have gone ahead and carved a name for themselves in the world of business, in the world of art, and in many other spheres of endeavour.

What these blind men and women have accomplished, others can also do if given the opportunity. You who see should not adopt the attitude that because such-and-such a person is blind he in incapable of performing tasks for which sight is not absolutely necessary.

You always tend to put yourself in the place of the blind men, and argue that, if you were blind, you could not do such-and-such a thing. Perhaps you couldn't, until you were trained. Sound training, coupled with dogged determination, can overcome many obstacles. Determined blind people know that the difficult takes a long time, and the impossible a little longer.

Culture — Via Comics

London — The Shakespeare Memorial Library, in Birmingham, England, now has the largest collection in the world of "comic book" versions of the bard's plays. One of the most prized in the collection is the cartoon "MacBeth" — the gift of New Yorker Arthur Heine. When enough of these "comics" have been found to make it worthwhile, they will be bound in volumes and placed on the shelves alongside the library's first folios of Shakespeare and some of the early quartos.

The Birmingham Library authorities are pursuing this novel project in the belief that even "comics" must be given a proper place if everything relating to Shakespeare is to be gathered into one collection.

"Settling Jim's estate taught me a lesson"

"I soon realized that my own pressing business responsibilities and lack of experience with estate management would be a serious handicap to Jim's beneficiaries. So, I appointed Crown Trust as my agent".

"I retained my executorship, of course, but they relieved me of all the work and worry. Every detail received their personal, prompt attention, while regular reports and financial statements kept me fully informed".

"The friendly, efficient way that Crown Trust handled Jim's estate convinced me that my family should have the same sort of security always. Yesterday, I made sure that they would. I named Crown Trust as one of the executors in my will".

New Research Centre at Imperial Oil, Sarnia

At the end of the two-day meeting Dr. E. W. R. Steacie, president of the National Research Council, Ottawa, officially opened expanded research facilities and a new million-dollar engineering building for the company.

Ottawa (CP) — The immigration department is sending officers into the United States to revitalize U.S. emigration to Canada. The flow appears to be decreasing from the 10,000 Americans who moved here last year.

The survey may result in posting of immigration recruiting officers at Canada's eight consular offices in the U.S. The move is part of a general effort to step up immigration. Canadian officials have visited Europe to study possibilities of finding more immigrants there, and Canada also plans to get French immigrants from troubled North Africa.

During the first eight months of 1956 a total of 98,761 immigrants landed in Canada, compared with 79,249 in the same period last year. Individuals with some training in a trade or profession made up about half the total, excluding dependents.

B.C. BLUEBERRIES BECOME LARGE CROP

New Westminster, B.C. (CP) — British Columbia's blueberry industry which started on nearby Lulu Island in 1923, doubled its production in the last three years to reach a crop value of $300,000 last season.

Growers plan to double it again in the next five years. They are counting on a rich market developed in Los Angeles, where processors purchased 160 tons this fall.

While the first blueberry tree plantings were made on Lulu Island in 1923, the big expansion did not begin until after the Second World War when large-scale plantings were made on reclaimed land.

Longer, lower and more graceful looking, the 1957 Pontiac is described as the "surprise package" of the automotive year. Offered in six series, with a wide range of six and eight-cylinder power teams, including a 283 h.p. engine with fuel injection, Pontiac for 1957 has a new long-low hood styling with a broad integrated front bumper and grille. A brand new range of brilliant interiors is also available. Up front, Pontiac's steering wheel and instrument panel are freshly restyled. Agriculture Treated Like "Arthritic Old Man"

Toronto — Agriculture is being treated like an arthritic old man by ts grown-up children — labor, industry, white-collar workers and professional people — an official of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture said last week.

Huntly McKay, of Toronto, director of information for the federation, told the OFA's annual meeting, the "children have shipped the old man off to a home for the aged" while they continue to live off his estate.

He said reaction of outside groups to the problems and programs of agriculture during the last year have shown an "amazingly cold indifference." Any interest shown by outsiders was generally selfish.

He called upon the OFA, as agriculture's lawyer, to restore the industry's rights and to point out to other groups their duties towards agriculture.

MONSTER STEER SELLS FEEDS

A monster bovine, nine feet tall, eighteen feet long, and eight feet wide, houses a travelling exhibit for a line of cattle feeds. Exhibit is strictly educational. Doors open in the shoulders and visitors enter to see how beef is made, milk is manufactured, and an embryo calf developed. It breathes and moos. — Marketing

Test Case on Farm Marketing

Ottawa (CP) — Hearings will be reopened November 19 by the Supreme Court of Canada into a test case which will decide the validity of Ontario's widespread system of compulsory progams for marketing farm products.

The court asked that arguments be presented then on one aspect of the complex legal problem of whether provincial marketing boards have power to levy charges on the farmer-members.

The case, referred to the court by the federal government last winter, involves 14 marketing plans in Ontario set up to stabilize the selling of 21 farm products, including hogs, peaches and a number of vegetables. The decision would have a bearing on widespread marketing plans in other provinces.

The main issue, which was argued in three days of court hearings last April, is whether charges collected by the marketing boards are service fees or indirect taxes which affect consumer prices. The federal government has the sole right to levy indirect taxes.

DEVELOPMENT OF ARTILLERY AND GUNNERY IN WARFARE

HISTORICAL NOTES ON THE ROYAL REGIMENT OF ARTILLERY

Lachute's battery of field artillery, the 131st Battery, a unit of the 37th Field Regiment, R.C.A., commemorated its anniversary this month. Training takes place each Thursday in Lachute, supplemented by week-end schemes and exercises, with actual firing practice during the summer camping period. This article will serve to familiarize the public with the history of Artillery.

Special to The Lachute Watchman

ARTICLE I

Ever since gunpowder came into use in the fourteenth century, artillerymen have been associated with the discharge of missiles from various types of cannon.

The early cannon were clumsy weapons, difficult to move about, but at the time of the Battle of Blenheim, 1704, light guns existed which could be moved about during a battle, and artillery had come to be looked on as an essential part of every army. Up to that time artillery "trains" had been formed when required for war, and disbanded when the war was over, but on May 26th, 1716, two companies of artillery, which had been originally raised in 1705, were established for permanent service by Royal Warrant of H.M. King George I. This was the birth of the Royal Regiment of Artillery.

Its first Colonel was Albert Borgard, the most renowned gunner in Europe. He served as Colonel from 1722 (the year in which King George I bestowed on the Regiment the title "Royal") until he died in 1751, still in harness at the age of 92.

The original companies had five officers, nine N.C.O.'s, 30 gunners and 50 matrosses (the matross being a sort of assistant gunner); uniforms were of blue cloth, with red facings and cuffs. Waistcoat and breeches were scarlet for officers and blue for other ranks, and white stockings or spaterdashes were worn. Drivers had not yet become a part of the Regiment, but civilian carters were hired with the horses required to move the guns in the field.

The guns in use at this time were smooth-bore muzzleloaders of cast iron, the normal field gun being a 6-pounder, howitzers and mortars were employed as well. The latter fired shell, but the guns fired only cast-iron round shot up to a maximum range of 2,000 yards. Cartridges were made up in action by "fireworkers" who filled serge bags with gunpowder.

In 1720 the first reorganization of the Regiment took place, involving a small change in nomenclature of officers' ranks and laying down the strength of a company.

By 1743 the Regiment had grown to eight companies and in October, 1755, had reached 16.

Companies were named after their commanders and manned fixed armament or field batteries according to the orders. Some of the small guns were permanently attached to infantry units for a campaign or an action, and were called "battalion guns." It is believed that that privilege granted to the artillery in 1756 of taking the "right of all foot on all parades" was based on the position of the "battalion guns" in action.

In the same year the country became involved in a world war, in which the Royal Artillery laid the foundation of its reputation, which has never since been allowed to wane. In August, 1757, the Regiment was divided into two battalions

In many parts of Europe, in the Mediterranean, in North America, and in the East and West Indies, the artilleryman and his weapons appeared on every battlefield and earned as high a reputation as any for courage and devotion to duty, added to an ever-increasing skill in the handling of his weapons. To rapidity of fire he added mobility of his "pieces" — the Battle of Minden, 1759, first brought the latter quality in prominence. Captains Phillips and Macbean trained their hired drivers and horses to change position during a battle with such speed that a retiring enemy was thrown into complete disorder.

Minorca, Louisburg, Quebec, Guadeloupe, Cuba, Manila, are a few of the widespread glories of the Regiment, and a few years later the siege of Gibraltar saw the Regiment's fame and reputation firmly established.

For nearly four years the Rock was blockaded, and for eighteen months it suffered perpetual bombardment by combined French and Spanish land and sea forces, and the five companies of artillery who were present had to man 450 guns and mortars with little rest or protection from fire and with short rations. But they performed their duties magnificently and were the mainstay of the defence, and after the final assault had been beaten off and the siege ended in our favor, the Royal Artillery personnel received a special message of thanks from King George III.

The year 1793 is famous for the birth of the Royal Horse Artillery. The idea of having guns capable of being moved at a gallop to operate with Calvary originated in India. At first the men who manned them were Cavalrymen, but in 1793 they were handed over to the Royal Artillery and "A" Battery, Royal Horse Artillery, was formed. The origin of the expression "Troop" for a Horse Artillery battery undoubtedly came from the days when galloper guns formed part of a cavalry Regiment. Other troops were quickly formed and took part in the Peninsular War, while eight were present at Waterloo. The "troops" had their own drivers as part of their permanent establishment.

ALBERTA LOVES ICE CREAM

Calgary (CP) — The Alberta Dairy Association says Albertans consumed more ice cream in 1955 than citizens of any other provinces. The per capita figure in Alberta was 20.64 pints. British Columbia was second with 20.40 pints. The Canadian average was 16.7 pints.

A total of 407,000,000 ice cream cones were produced in Canada during the year, about 25 for everyone. Altogether 50 flavors were listed, but vanilla accounted for more than half the total sales.

Townsman Opens New Commercial Art Service

Paul Lecorre, a young commercial artist and graduate of l'Ecole des Beaux Arts, Montreal, has returned to his home town following a lengthy course of studies, and on December 1 will open a studio at 231 Main Street under the name of "l'Atelier" (The Workshop). His business will specialize in commercial publicity, signs, showcards, etc.

This young craftsman hopes eventually to develop his establishment into an art centre displaying paintings, sculpture, ceramics and other examples of handicraft, such as tooled leather and weaving.

Friends wish him success, and anticipate the support of local businessmen to justify his initiative in offering this new service.

When a man forgets himself, he usually does something that everyone else remembers.

BELIVEAU HEAVIEST PLAYER

Jean Beliveau, Montreal Canadiens' All-Star center, is the biggest player in the National Hockey League. "Le Gros Bill" as he was nicknamed by French - Canadian sportswriters stands 6 feet, 3 inches tall and weighs 205 pounds. He is both the tallest player in the League and the heaviest.

When completed the St. Lawrence Seaway will be the longest inland waterway ever created for ocean-going vessels, according to Reader's Digest. Its 744 miles from the mouth of the St. Lawrence to the Great Lakes compares with 103 miles for the Suez Canal and approximately 50 miles for the Panama Canal.

Young-Fry Meet Celebrities As Guests at Lions' Supper

Club Plays Host to Past Season's Little Major League Baseballers

A number of sports notables were guests at the Lions Club meeting Tuesday evening in the Legion Hall — a special occasion feting the winning team and runners-up in the club-sponsored Little Major League baseball this past season.

The two teams, Yanks and Dodgers, respectively, were present at the supper with their coaches, Richard Bradford and Hector Lepage; and the former as winners received crests presented by no less a sporting celebrity than Butch Bouchard, retired Canadiens hockey captain and present director of the Montreal Royals baseball club. The championship shield, presented by the Hon. Jean Barrette, was received by young Jean Mainville, captain of the team.

Pièce de résistance from sporting viewpoints was a talk by René Lemyre, guest speaker, famed among baseball fans as a veteran organizer and now general manager of the Montreal Royals. Other celebrities at the head-table included the Hon. Mr. Barrette, member of the Legislative Council at Quebec, who is less officially dubbed "Minister of Sports"; and Marcel Dufresne, past-secretary of the Montreal Royals and a public relations representative of Molson's.

Also honored for distinction in other lines of activity were — Lucien Maisonneuve, winner of the Argenteuil Plowing Match and the Lions Club trophy; and International Counsellor Jack Giles. The former received the plowing trophy from the hands of Lion Ernest Emmett, whose congratulations were re-affirmed in the French language by Lion Gilbert E. Ayers. Chosen to pay tribute to the loyal services of Jack Giles, both to his club and to Lionism at large, was an ex-president and charter member, Phil Roy, who also tendered a token of appreciation to Mr. Giles from his fellow clubmen.

Mr. René Lemyre, introduced by past-president Roger Regimbal, gave an interesting review of the development of baseball. Compared with hockey, which became recognized in the year 1813, baseball was an ancient game dating back to the cave men. It could be traced in classical history as a semi-religious demonstration, until it assumed something of its present form as an organized sport in 1839. The speaker had many interesting and humorous references on the evolution of this now highly-popular sport.

Mr. Lemyre was cordially thanked by Dr. Eric Mongeon, mentor of the Little Major League baseballers. General appreciation was expressed also to Lion Leonard Bedard, through whose efforts so many sports notables were present on this appropriate occasion honoring the young-fry of the midget league.

President Jos. Dumais, at the helm of this enthusiastic meeting, reported good progress on the part of the Arena committee — a group investigating all possibilities for the best Arena site.

Lion Gordon Higginson reported excellent results of the recent public bingo — with Lion Armand Desrosiers campaigning for ticket sales for the next event of this kind, December 14.

Lion Gabriel Valois, chairman of the recent Ladies' Night program, reported favorably on that event and was congratulated on its success.

Attendance of members and guests at this meeting numbered around 75, all agreeing unanimously on the success of the evening.

Young Harpists Delight Audience at Community Concert

One of the largest audiences in the recent seasons of Community Concerts was on hand Tuesday evening in the High School auditorium, and thoroughly enjoyed a program by the Angelaires, a group of young harpists tutored by a master of that instrument, Carlos Salzedo. Members of this charming and talented group were Carol Baum, Kathleen Haden, Lizbeth Wilfley, Joan Harrison and Ruth Wickersham, and apart from the magic of their performance, one of their major feats was to demonstrate the versatility of the harp as a concert-piece adaptable to both classic and modern themes, and to all the moods and sentiments of musical expression.

During the evening one member of the group gave a brief discourse on the harp the composition of its 47 strings, functions of its pedals, and the manner in which it is played.

The troupe, spotlighted on the stage with their immense golden harps, made an impressive spectacle viewed from the darkened auditorium.

Outstanding among the various selections played by these artists were a series in Spanish styles, including vivacious dance music; the Sixth French Suite of Bach, representing five dances of the period; two Debussy preludes, "Danseuses de Delphes" and "Voiles"; also a selection of English and American folk songs — whose airs, more generally familiar to the audience, proved among the most popular on the program.

A concluding series presented a striking contrast in rhythm and movement, being popular airs from recent and contemporary American musicals.

The program, was well balanced to please all tastes, and the recital by these talented young ladies well merited the approval generally expressed among their audience.

Two Honor Students In Engineering at McGill

A Scott Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Taylor, Lachute, and Ronald F. Neill, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Neill, Dunany, were among the 83 of a total of 1,325 students in the upper four years of Engineering at McGill University to have been selected for placement on the "Dean's List." This is is recognition of outstanding scholastic work during the previous season.

The two local students, both graduates of Lachute High School, are in second year Engineering; 53 of the list of honor students are Canadian born, nine from the British Commonwealth and the remainder from 13 different countries. . . Congratulations are extended to the two young students from this locality.

Ayersville Councillor Named for Vacancy

Ayersville municipal council is back to full strength with the appointment of Ovila Payer as councillor for Seat 4, replacing Albert Seguin, who was named mayor following the resignation of Gaetan Paquette.

Mr. Payer, 45, is a restaurant owner, and a resident of Ayersville for the past five years, having lived in the Lachute district for some 25 years.

His nomination was unanimously passed, and the appointee being present at the meeting, he was sworn into office by the secretary-treasurer, Conrad Legault.

The meeting was under the presidency of Mayor Albert Seguin — councillor Aurelien Foucault being absent.

Rifle Accidentally Discharged In Automobile

Denis Leclair, 29-year-old St. Philippe resident and father of two young children, succumbed last Thursday morning to a wound he received while hunting in that district the previous Saturday, November 10.

According to information received by Det. Ralph Allen, who was not notified of the accident until three days later, Leclair was hunting with Hervé Hutt, and Donat Labelle, both of St. Philippe, and Gerald Gerard, of Lachute Mills.

Hutt apparently spotted a deer and fired several shots. He stated he then attempted to fire another shot but his rifle misfired, there being only the click of the hammer hitting the shell case and no explosion. Thinking his gun to be empty and having no more ammunition, Hutt and the victim headed for home to replenish their supply. Hutt apparently placed his 30.30 calibre rifle leaning on the front seat, with the butt on the floor of the car. Labelle and Gerard decided to remain at the scene and Hutt left his car, with Leclair sitting in the front seat, to point out several deer runs to the two remaining hunters. The three men were approximately 100 feet from the car when they heard the bang of the discharging rifle; running back to the scene, they saw Leclair staggering from the car.

In the car with Leclair was a young Beagle pup, and Leclair, who was shot in the right front shoulder and chest, repeating the word "chien" — which in English can be translated to mean either "dog" or the "trigger" of a firearm.

The bullet passed through the victim, penetrating through the upholstery of the car and then through the roof. The man was immediately transported to the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury, where he was placed in an oxygen tent, his lung having been perforated by the bullet.

District coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur, who was unofficially informed of the accident on Monday, reported to Det. Allen and the latter carried out the investigation. Following the death last Thursday morning, an inquest was called for Thursday, November 29, at 8 p.m. in the Court House, Lachute.

Kilmar Resident Shot in Mistake For Deer

George Downing, 45-year-old diamond drill contractor who resided at Kilmar, was fatally shot by a member of his own hunting party at 11.50 a.m. Sunday, at Roche Blanche, Lac des Ours, some 30 miles north of Duhamel in Papineau County.

Sgt. Maurice Rheault of the Provincial Police, Hull detachment, reports that Rodney Rogers, a 15-year-old guide from Duhamel, had shot a deer minutes before the accident. On trying to reach the place where the animal had dropped, he saw what he thought was another deer, and shot at it with his 30.30 rifle.

The shot however, hit the victim, who was apparently also headed towards the dead deer. He was wearing a brown windbreaker and had on a red cap. The accident occurred a short distance from a road and the hunters were emerging from the bush when the fatality took place.

Inquiry by Dr. Lucien Bourgeault, coroner for Papineau County, revealed that the victim had been shot through the thorax and death had been almost instantaneous. The body was removed to the Deforges Funeral Parlors at Grenville.

A funeral service, conducted by the Rev. Wilson Bridge, was held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his late residence, with burial at Shaw's Cemetery, Harrington. The late George Downing is survived by his wife and several children.

Just returned from a business trip to Toronto, the victim was hunting with Dr. Max Curtis, Montreal; James Chapman, CIP Superintendent at Hawkesbury, and his son Ralph; Gaston Rogers, a guide from Duhamel, and his son Rodney, who fired the fatal shot.

Arraigned on Charge of Theft from Parish Coffers

Jean-Paul D'Aoust, a 35-year-year-old former Montreal fireman, appeared in Criminal Court at St. Jerome Tuesday to face six charges of theft from parish offices in widely scattered Quebec communities of this area, including the Immaculate Conception Parish at Ayersville.

Det. Ralph Allen, who investigated the local theft and laid a charge in connection with this incident, reported that the other alleged offences were thefts carried out in a similar manner.

Around 10 a.m. on Thursday, September 20, D'Aoust allegedly went to the presbytery at the Immaculate Conception Church, asking to see the priest, who at that time was conducting a funeral service along with the vicar. He then asked permission and facilities to write a letter, and was led by the housekeeper to the priest's office, where he was left awaiting the priest's arrival.

During this period he apparently searched the office and discovered some $500 in a steel cabinet behind the desk, the money being yearly dues collected from the parishioners, awaiting deposit in the bank. He then left the office with the money, and drove by taxi to St Eustache, where, according to the local detective, he boarded a bus for Montreal.

The accused, who was arraigned at St. Jerome on Tuesday, pleaded "not guilty" and trial was set for Friday, November 30, with bail granted on two personal bonds of $3,000 each.

The average haul, in these incidents, according to the police amounted to some $500, and investigators said the grand total could be in excess of $9,000. Additional charges will be laid in connection with cases in other sections of the province.

Little Boy Robbed

Richard Rochon, a 19-year-old Grenville youth, was arrested Tuesday evening for the theft of about $25 in cash from seven-year-old Jean Lalonde, son of Mr. and Mrs Philippe Lalonde, also of Grenville.

The charge was laid by Det. Ralph Allen, who reports that the Lalonde child was sent to a store with a Family Allowance cheque for $27, with which he made a purchase for his mother, and was returning home with the parcel and change when the money was taken from him.

Rochon was taken to St. Jerome by local officers and charged with theft. He will appear before Judge Omer Côté tomorrow.

To Save Lives

Ontario's new highway signs, it is reported, may become standard throughout North America. Whether these, or those of some other province or state are chosen (remarks The Financial Post), the important thing is to get absolute uniformity not only on highways but on city streets as well.

No one knows how many people have been killed and how many fenders bashed because a motorist failed to understand a warning sign or perhaps missed it entirely because it was not where he would expect to see it. In most cases the car driver has but a few seconds to grasp the meaning of what the highway sign is trying to tell him. There's a far better chance that he will grasp it and heed it if it means the same in every province and every state and is in the same location.

Final Figures Show Federation Short of Target

The most recent figures released by officials of the Lachute Federated Charities show a total of $17,067 collected — this being $1,333 short of the $18,400 objective set for the second annual campaign.

Any further contributions may be made by mailing one's donation to Box 639, Lachute.

Battery Follows Training Program

Lachute Battery, No. 131, 37th Canadian Field Regiment, RCA, in following the training program laid on by Major H. Stutt, C.D., have been fortunate in being able to use the garage of J. P. MacKimmie & Sons Reg'd on Thursday nights when training in gunnery is carried out under Gun Sergeants E. Gearey and Edgar Hooker. The former is attached from 37th Field Regiment for training on Thursday nights.

Plans are underway for gunnery and driving tests which will qualify Lachute Battery for trades pay and established numbers or positions on the 25-pounders.

This month the battery have taken part in St. Andrews East Armistice parade, the Armistice services in Lachute and training every Thursday with guns in Lachute. An all-day scheme in Montreal will be held in December, with muster and pay parade in Montreal on December 13th.

Child Ran Into Path of Taxi

Sylvian Filion, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Filion, 614 Robert Street, narrowly escaped fatal injury late Tuesday afternoon, when struck by a local taxi driven by Leo Paul Girard.

The accident occurred when the lad ran from behind a Montreal-bound car on Bethany Street into the path of the north-bound taxi. The main force of the impact was centred on and about the child's face. He was thrown approximately ten feet onto the pavement.

The victim was treated by Dr. Jules Lafleur for a broken arm, severe facial and head lacerations and the loss of all his upper front teeth; he was later transferred to the Providence Hospital by police car.

Police Chief Fernand Trépanier and Lieut. Oscar Sabourin, who investigated, report that the skid marks of the taxi measured but 22 feet, indicating that the driver was proceeding at a reasonable speed.

School Children's Poster Contest Stimulated Keen Interest and Creative Ability at Brownsburg

Exhibits Displayed in Connection With Legion-Sponsored Poppy Campaign

Brownsburg — Pupils in the higher grades in the three schools in Brownsburg entered into a contest sponsored by the Brownsburg Legion Branch for Remembrance Day. Posters were made by some 70 children and submitted to the Knights of Columbus and the Odd Fellows for judging. The efforts of the children were remarkable, and selecting the winners proved to be a difficult task.

The best posters were on display in the window of Pariseau & Sons Store in Brownsburg, and as the other entries were also well executed, they were placed on display in the window of Lefebvre Store in Brownsburg.

This contest proved such a success that the Brownsburg Legion has hopes of making it an annual affair for the school children in the three schools every Remembrance Day.

Mr. Nat Cohen, of Hawkesbury, issued theatre passes to the children who entered the contest, and also for the Boy Scouts who helped with the canvassing during November 3.

The Brownsburg Legion takes this opportunity to thank the teachers in the schools for their support in making the contest a success; to the Knights of Columbus and the Odd Fellows for their difficult task in judging; to Mr. Pariseau and Mr. Lefebvre, for the use of their store windows; to Mr. Nat Cohen for the passes he donated — and especially to the children for their interest in the contest.

Winners were as follows:

Session Opens at Quebec; Income Tax for Debate, School and Farm Grants

By Gerald Lafontaine

Quebec (CP) — Higher education grants and the possibility of new tax revenues highlighted the speech from the throne, which inaugurated the first session of the province's 25th Legislature.

Co-inciding with the start of the session was the government's announcement that Premier Duplessis will introduce a bill to prolong for five years the life of the provincial tax on personal income, imposed in 1954 and expiring January 1, 1957.

The speech from the throne, read by Lieutenant-Governor Gaspard Fauteux, hinted that increasing expenditures call for more adequate use of tax sources, and it was rumoured immediately in legislature circles that Mr. Duplessis might propose an increase in the provincial income tax.

However, a government spokesman denied any increase is contemplated in the tax, whose rate is roughly 15 per cent of the federal tax on personal income. Quebec taxpayers are allowed to deduct 10 per cent of the amount they pay in federal tax and apply the amount towards provincial tax payments.

Legislature circles speculate there is a possibility Quebec will increase its tax on corporation profits. The provincial government now has a seven percent tax on corporation profits.

Under the terms of a new federal-provincial taxation agreement taking effect next year, provincial governments which do not suspend direct taxation in return for federal subsidies could collect up to nine percent on corporation profits. The nine percent would be deductible from federal taxes.

The announcement of increased grants to education came in the midst of a broadening controversy over federal aid to universities and over the size and form of provincial grants to education.

The brief allusion to the grants in the throne speech did not indicate what type of action the Quebec government plans to take.

One piece of legislation scheduled to come before the legislature would authorize the government to take over the debts of deficit-ridden school boards.

But no specific legislation has been announced in connection with grants to universities.

Some quarters believe the government may set up a permanent committee in aid to universities, which would determine the needs of the universities and report them to the Minister of Finance.

During the session, the Legislature will be asked by the government to vote increased sums for needy mothers' allowances, which now range from $35 to $60 monthly; additional sums for farm loans, rural electrification, land drainage and colonization. The government also will introduce bills dealing with the development of natural resources, with taxation powers of municipalities and with increased health services.

Field Secretary Outlines Functions Of Blind Inst.

Interviewed on Work In Argenteuil County

"I understand, Mr. Zaplaski, that the Canadian National Institute for the Blind is not a relief agency in the sense of extending financial assistance to needy cases, as is a family welfare agency, for example."

This question was put before Mr. A. C. Zaplaski, the Field Secretary for the Argenteuil District of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, during an interview which took place in the Institute offices, 494 Sydney Street, Lachute, during the course of the present week. Mr. Zaplaski's reply outlined the policy of the Institute very simply. He stated that the Institute did extend financial relief to certain needy cases, but always with the understanding that such direct financial assistance was given purely to meet emergency conditions, and was continued until the responsibility had been established on a welfare agency.

"Our responsibility," said the Field Secretary, "is with the blind member of the family. When the blind person happens to be the breadwinner of the family, the Institute is very often obliged to extend financial help until arrangements can be made for the municipality or a welfare agency to take over the case. The blind person, if he is destitute, can apply for the Blind Person's Allowance, and if there are children in the family, application can be made for the Needy Mother's Allowance. Frequently a family can be given minimum financial security with the Blindness Allowance, the Needy Mother's Allowance, the Family Allowance. This of course is not an ideal setup, but it does provide some definite monthly revenue, which very often can be added to by occasional work."

Mr. Zaplaski went on to explain that while the Institute policy was to extend financial assistance only under certain conditions, it did nevertheless push aside policy restrictions under certain circumstances.

"For example," stated the Field Secretary, "with elderly people and those suffering from some chronic illness, the Institute makes funds available to purchase medicines, or to help meet the extraordinary expenses caused by the necessity of engaging assistance to care for bedridden cases. In Argenteuil County," went on Mr. Zaplaski, "we actually have three cases who receive ten dollars monthly to supplement their incomes, and for several others we periodically give assistance for the purchase of clothing, fuels, and other similar essential items. Financial assistance of this nature is never extended without thorough investigation, and only then with the full approval of our Board of Directors."

The Field Secretary readily agreed that the incomes of the vast majority of blind persons were insufficient to maintain an adequate standard of living. If more funds were available, more direct assistance could be extended; but this was really not the answer to the problem. What was really needed was more employment opportunities for those capable of working, and for those incapable of accepting employment, some other form of security, such as higher state allowances, more residences for the older blind, and more nursing homes for the chronically ill.

"It is our hope," concluded Mr. Zaplaski, "that some day in this province we shall have residences for the blind, as they have in the other provinces of Canada. We really need them here, because the conditions under which many of our blind people live are deplorable, and most of the existing homes for the aged and chronically ill are reluctant to admit blind people."

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Q. My neighbor and I were both laid off from the same job at the same time. He collects his unemployment insurance on Tuesday but I do not get mine until Thursday. Why do I have to wait these two extra days?

A. Claimants are directed to report at the local office to prove unemployment and to receive their benefit on different days of the week in order to spread over the week the job of taking and paying claims. There would be delay and confusion for all claimants if the local office attempted to pay them all on the same day. You, of course, are not denied any benefit that you are entitled to because of this extra two-day wait.

Q. During the eight years that I was employed in a manufacturing industry, I was insured under the Unemployment Insurance Act. A few months after I was married I became pregnant and had to quit my job. This was 4½ years ago. Would you be kind enough to tell me how I could get something because after all I paid enough to be able to receive a little.

A. To establish a benefit period during which benefit may be paid, a claimant must have had at least 30 weekly contributions during the two years immediately preceding the week in which a claim is filed. Owing to certain conditions these two years may be extended over a period of a further two years, making a maximum of four years during which 30 weekly contributions must have been made. Since no contributions have been made by you in respect of insurable employment for over four years, you would be unable to establish a benefit period.

"Everything To Build Anything"

Frank Thorogood builds for the future

In 43 years, foreman carpenter Frank Thorogood has seen many improvements in building methods.

"Power tools, pre-fabricated sections and the use of new structural materials make all the difference," says Mr. Thorogood. "Developments like these have simplified our work — and make for stronger, more fire-resistant buildings."

In building for the future, Mr. Thorogood has enjoyed still another advantage — through the wider range of financial protection he can give his family because of modern developments in life insurance.

Life insurance gives today's families many new benefits. It not only affords them financial protection that is more flexible, but can also provide money for the children's education, for safeguarding the home mortgage, for arranging retirement income and for other purposes.

In these and other ways, the life insurance companies have progressed with the times . . . meeting the needs of people in all walks of life.

Life insurance companies are a major source of mortgage funds for Canadian families — last year they invested four hundred and sixty-five million dollars in this way.

IROQUOIS RE-INTERR ANCESTORS' BONES

—Central Press Canadian

Bones of their ancestors were unearthed from an early Iroquois burial ground by present-day Indians who gathered the remains and interred them in a common burial plot at Tabor's Hill, Scarboro, Ont. The re-burial was done to the accompaniment of prayers chanted in the Iroquois dialects by Onondagas, Cayugas, Mohawks, Oneidas, Tuscaroras and Senecas who gathered from Ontario, Quebec and New York state for the ceremony. The bones were uncovered when a bulldozer was clearing land for a building site, and it is believed they are the rmains of a group that fell in battle three centuries ago.

It DOES matter which Oil Burner you buy!

If you're in the market for an oil burner, there are dozens for you to choose from. They all look very much alike. They all burn oil. Some are pretty efficient, others less so. But, unless you're an engineer, there's no way for you to decide which burner is best for your needs, except by insisting on one made by a reputable, long-established manufacturer. Like Smart's, for example. We recommend Smart's series "A" oil burners because when we sell one we know that the customer is going to be satisfied with the deal, for a long time. If that seems to you to be a good reason for buying a Smart's oil burner, let us show you the complete range, and tell you all about them.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU of CIRCULATIONS

Public Interest Involved

THE INCREASING traffic of diesels through Lachute is illustration of the more general adoption of these locomotives by our railways — and a reminder, also, of the conflict on this and similar economy measures in which sound principle appears threatened by unionized labor sentiment.

If firemen were removed from freight and yard diesels, and wage rates of helpers on passenger diesels adjusted, total wage costs to the C.P.R. when diselization of its system is complete would be reduced by about $11 millions a year — according to the Company's argument as evidence was summarized on this case before a Federal Conciliation Board in Ottawa last week.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen is vigorously opposing the Company's proposal to eliminate firemen from diesel service — while also demanding a wage increase of 25 per cent and other benefits.

I. D. Sinclair, C.P.R. General Solicitor, told the Board that "the Canadian Pacific . . . obligated by its charter to operate efficiently . . . is most mindful of its duty to the shippers who must pay the cost of transportation. It is the duty of Canadian Pacific in rendering transportation service to Canada to eliminate unnecessary cost." The Canadian Pacific management, he said, has found that it does not need firemen on freight and yard diesels, where they represent only "an unnecessary cost," and the Company's position is that, generally speaking, employment of firemen on diesels should be restricted to passenger train service and that they should be classified as semi-killed workers and paid as such rather than as skilled specialists.

Dealing with the Brotherhood's claim that firemen are needed on diesel locomotives for safety reasons, Mr. Sinclair pointed out that clear and forthright evidence given before the Board by railway men knowledgeable in all aspects of train operation, men who have had practical experience as members of engine crew, as trainmen, as yardmen, in desptaching, and in mechanical and electrical diesel maintenance, showed conclusively that firemen on diesels in yards and on road freight were not necessary.

The freight-paying public — including you and you, and every consumer of transported goods — will watch the outcome of this argument with a very personal interest.

A Little Wider

THE GOVERNMENT has made its annual decision about immigration for the coming year. This time no figure has been set, but the aim in 1957 is to get as many immigrants as possible within present policy rules.

Loans will still be available to pay the passage of an immigrant, his wife and children; and until the newcomer becomes eligible for family allowances, he will get $60 a year for each child under 16.

The present guess — according to The Financial Post, speculating on this policy — is that we should be able to get well over 150,000 settlers in 1957, compared with an estimated 142,000 this year.

Interest in emigration, which had been at a low ebb in both Britain and Europe, now seems to be looking up. It is an ironic dividend which Canada gets from the new disturbances in the international situation.

And Now's the Time To Use 'em

AN ITEM of convenience and decoration now taken for granted by modern men and women, was considered a badge of rank and class by Europeans of the 14th, 15th and 16th centuries. The simple handkerchief — says the current issue of "Textiles" — was in those days considered as indispensable to the lady of fashion as her jewels.

These extravagant "mouchoirs", decorated with deep borders of finest lace, were carried strictly for "show". Personal hygiene was not an important part of the lives of Renaissance ladies, and their methods of laundering were too drastic for even some of the sturdier fabrics, not to mention laces.

The first handkerchief was probably the Roman "sudarium", which was used to wipe the perspiration from Roman faces and to hold in front of the mouth to prevent the spread of infection.

These hygienic and thoughtful uses were discarded in the dark and dirty middle ages when the kerchief was used only as an extravagant accessory to rank and fashion.

At first, white — or as close to white as could be attained in those days — was the standard color for handkerchiefs. The practice of snuff-taking enhanced the popularity of colored hankerchiefs, since the snuff stains were camouflaged by the colors.

Today, with approximately 3,000 synthetic dyestuffs available and speedy and economical printing methods, modern men and women have an infinite variety of dyed and color-printed handkerchiefs to choose from.

Erstwhile Frontier

DURING MOST of the first 50 years of this century the Canadian prairie was the Canadian frontier. In that time it produced the country's major staple, it housed its immigrants and it settled the veterans of three wars.

In the cities of Eastern Canada there was the admonition, "Go west, young man." Most who went had the opportunity to prosper. That some eventually did not prosper is hardly to their discredit or to the shame of the rich prairie land which they planted with wheat. There were pests and blights Canada had never seen before; there was a world of depression and a falling away of wheat demand; there were the dust-blown years of drought.

In 1901 there were about 13,500 farms in Saskatchewan, the flattest of the three prairie provinces and the only one to survive most of the half century mainly on the wheat economy. Sixty per cent of these farms were smaller than 200 acres. Most were homesteads. In 1916 the province recorded 104,000 farms; in 1926 a total of 117,000 and in 1936, 142,000 — the highest number recorded in a census year.

In that third of a century, the western prairies had built for Canada an envied export trade in bread wheat.

As technique improved and mechanization increased prairie farmers bought out some of their neighbors. In 1936 a third of all Saskatchewan farms still were only 200 acres or less. By 1951 only 18 per cent were that small. At the other end of the scale, in 1951 more than 30 per cent of all farms were larger than 640 acres or a square mile each. The total then stood at 112,000.

Today, prairie wheatfields no longer lure the eastern smallholder who wants to go west; they are no longer a suitable settling ground for immigrants with little capital or veterans seeking low-cost rehabilitation. Prairie wheat farming now is big business. In Saskatchewan alone in 1951, 60 per cent of all farms were capitalized at between $10,000 and $50,000 each. Some topped $75,900.

In short, the Canadian prairie is no longer a frontier. It is a highly mechanized, modernized sector of the country. Very little of it is remote, even less is barren and hardly any virgin land remains.

Management Material

THERE ARE, in Canada, about 493,400 managerial jobs where a man or woman can reach a salary bracket around $20,000 a year.

That salary bracket may look attractive to young folk reading this column. How do you reach it?

Just recently, the Rev. Emile Bouvier, speaking at the annual conference of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Association, discussed the "ideal class of managers which are needed and for whom there is always a premium." The requirements for such management might surprise you.

The speaker said: "It is amazing how schools and institutes of business administration are doing their utmost to equip our managers with intellectual, technical and economic education and yet industry is facing such a shortage of men. It is always easy to find dummies in window displays of our department stores, but it is practically impossible to find real men with character and integrity."

He went on to say: "A man who is a square shooter, who puts principles above expediency, common good above self-interest, who will root every action and decision in the bedrock of principles, who will be fair, charitable, truthful, prudent, strong and well-balanced — this is, perhaps the most difficult living equipment to find in modern industry."

Young folk who hope to reach the top brackets of management, might be wise, indeed, to accept the warning that cleverness and ambition are not enough. Even more vital and necessary is the quality of integrity.

Today, with so many scientific developments afoot, it is easy enough to find equipment and methods for production. It is less easy to find men of integrity and principle. The speaker said: "Let the students know and realize that after graduating in training administration, they are worth nothing unless they go through the experiences of the plant, get along well with labor and show their performance, not through words, promises or contracts, but through results, behavior and integrity."

Want to be a high-bracket manager? Then look to more than book-learning — look to your character! That is the commodity that has become so scarce, yet is so much in demand.

ONE REASON that makes winter so objectionable to many people is that they spend all fall worrying about it. To follow the advice of one person who has overcome this objection and now enjoys all seasons, is very simple and effective. This person simply dresses warm when it is cold, and cool when it is warm. — Rainy River (Ont.) Record.

Civil Defence Scientists

Ottawa (CP) —

High-level civil defence scientists from Canada, the United Kingdom and the United States met in the capital last week to compare notes on defence against radioactive fallout in event of nuclear bomb attack.

One of their aims was to evolve a simple yardstick from which the average citizen can judge the extent of protection afforded by whatever shelter is available. Different types of houses and different materials give different degrees of protection. This meeting was trying to establish how much protection each type of readily available shelter — for example a brick house or a frame house — could be expected to provide.

Radioactivity of fallout fades quickly. CD officials consider 48 hours the average time it would take for radiation intensity to fade to a safe level. But it might be safe for a family taking shelter in the basement of a two-storey brick house to go to the kitchen, say, within a shorter time, because a brick house provides better shelter than a wood house, and a two-storey house better protection than a bungalow. How much shorter, is one of the practical answers the conference might come up with.

Canada's CD policy is based on evacuation of all likely target areas before bombs fall. The fallout problems would arise after the evacuation and the bombing.

The 'Bon Mot'

Since time immemorial, swearing by children has plagued the parents of every land. Each fond father and doting mother vainly proclaims that his or her offspring is the acme of innocence when it comes to linguistics. And great is the fall of such when they rudely discover that their little loved one has a better knowledge of four-letter Anglo-Saxon expletives than of more formal English usages.

What does one do about the problem in a boarding school? The same as the parent does in the home. That is to say, the same as any wise parent who believes in tried methods of correction instead of overlooking the matter in the hope it will go away. The authorities make the use of foul language quite unpopular by awarding sundry punishments to the offender. In fact, it's such a dismal business to be caught using offensive language that one rarely hears anything untoward nowadays.

As I racked up the score one day last week against a very careless delinquent, my mind travelled back a few years to a camping trip I went on in the wilds of Ontario. The United Chuch student minister had organized a camping spree for some of the young bloods of his congregation and felt that some assistance in looking after the little group wouldn't be amiss. So, gathering a few odds and ends together, I subjected myself to the ordeal of camping out with the young fry of the locality.

Basically, they were good little lads, all of them, but they knew more than their prayers about off-color language. They lived in a poor community where the greatest claim to fame was measured by one's ability to out-cuss his next-door neighbor in a fair fight. Their parents all swore like troopers and they, quite naturally, followed suit. As might be expected, too, the prowess of these young bloods caused the student minister — and myself, for that matter — to blanch on more than one occasion.

In particular, I recall the afternoon when one of our little friends had the misfortune to miss a nail he was driving into a tree and smash his thumb instead. The flow of cursing that followed this accident visibly shook the embryo parson and brought me to the seene on the double.

"Don't ever let me hear you say a thing like that again!" Harrison roared, shaking the youngster as hard as he could.

"Well," the kid called out, whenever the rapid back-and-forth movement allowed, "I'd like to hear what you'd say if your thumb got clobbered by a lousy big hammer!"

"There are lots of things you can say. You can count up to ten and then roar out something quite unoffensive. You certainly don't have to drag up all the filth you've ever come across. Now, just calm down and let's have no more outbursts like that!"

When the incident was over, we all went back to our tasks. The pint-sized execrator nursed a few tears and his thumb while his companions discussed his verbal capacities in low tones about the campsite. In due course, the linguist returned to his pursuits of hammer and nail. And the parson and I kept a wary eye upon him to see what he would do if, by some mischance, he attacked his thumb for the second time. We did not have long to wait!

As the hammer struck home, luckily selecting a different digit for the second attack, there was a bellow of rage. Dropping the offending tool and grabbing his finger, "Bingo" danced around in agony. He did not suffer so much, however, that his sight was impaired, and he quickly spotted Harrison and myself watching his every move.

Hopping about from one foot to the other, while alternately grabbing and waving his injured paw, he prepared to let fly with his invective. Fixing us with his watery eyes, "Bingo" let it roll!

"Holy old, silver-haired, sizzling Aunt Tillie! !"

Then he smiled . . . and his halo shone like burnished gold.

ANCIENT PASTIME

Comes the first light, and he (the hunter) is in a world of his own. With armadas of ducks swinging in over the fields, silhouetted against a rosy dawn, the hunter is well rewarded for his short-sleep nights and physical discomforts. Whether he is "on" or goes home for breakfast with little or no game, he is generally a happy individual.

Conditioning Cows

What can 100 pounds of extra cow condition mean to you?

Repeated tests at the Purina Research Farm have shown that 100 pounds of extra body condition will produce up to 2,000 pounds of extra milk in the following lactation. How profitable is this? . . . Well, 10 pounds of DRY & FRESHENING per day for 60 days before calving will cost you $27.00; 2,000 pounds of milk then will cost you $1.35 per cwt. Can you beat it?

Also cows conditioned on Purina Dry & Freshening have reserve strength and condition to carry them through the ordeal of calving. This helps them calve easily and clean quickly.

BODY CONDITION is the key to MILK PRODUCTION. By and large, if cows are fed and managed to keep their body condition high, they will milk very close to peak of their inherited capacity for extended periods.

Every cow has a natural decline in milk flow after her first four or five months flush. The big difference is how fast she declines after these first few months. It is partly a matter of breeding, but it is largely dependent upon how well condition is maintained.

Is your feeding program getting the most of the bred-in milk from your cows?

Try conditioning a few cows on Purina Dry & Freshening Chow and see the results for yourself. Seeing is believing.

The combined efforts of Messrs. McOuat, founder; Raitt, tinsmiths; LeBeuf, bricklayers; and Chapman & Co., carpenters, have succeeded in placing an excellent hot-air furnace in St. Simeon's Church.

On Wednesday last, some miscreant entered the shop of James McCree, at the West End, and decamped carrying off some of the stock of confectionery, coolly locking the door and leaving the key on the outside. We are glad to report, however, that the loss was not heavy.

ALL ABOARD
With G. E. Mortimore

Men often accuse women of being fuzzy-headed, lacking concentration and vague about world affairs. If some women have these faults, there's a reason. Children make them what they are.

Anyway, that's my guess after I have been shut in a house with small children for a few hours. I don't know how women keep their sanity, let alone think long thoughts.

In the presence of small children it is difficult to read, think or listen to anything for more than two minutes on end. Any attempt at sustained effort is cut short by a loud scream for first aid from a child that has banged its nose; or a demand for intervention in a quarrel or a small fist pounding your leg, clutching some sharp-edged and dirt-encrusted treasure that has been dug up in the yard.

The mother of small children lives in a surrealist world where fragments of thoughts, facts and sense - impressions are littered around everywhere, shorn of any connected meaning. No wonder she develops a "grasshopper mind."

It is nearly impossible for any women to absorb a political speech when her attention is shattered by a small head butting her in the stomach, the liquid smash of a glass of milk on the floor, or the howl of a tot falling down the steps.

In self-defence she acquires the habit of tuning out all noises except actual distress calls, treating them as so much static. This explains the absent air that a woman often has, and her way of saying "Yes dear" and "No dear" in a lively and interested fashion, without actually taking in a word that is said.

Such habits persist long after the children have left home. The lady pays little heed to the grave news from Budapest or Cairo. It registers at the back of her mind with a faint "ping" as just another quarrel between grown-up children somewhere in the world.

But of course I don't mean you, Madam. I know what a keen student of affairs you are.

DRIVING TESTS

There should be periodic driving tests for everyone who is at any time at the wheel of a car. New cars are of such speed and power that it is not enough for drivers to have the quick reflexes they had 20 years ago. They have to be better than they were when they first started to drive.

SAW PARENTS DIE, BOY BEFRIENDED BY BEAVERS

—Central Press Canadian Photos

Beavers, usually considered shy and unfriendly, "adopted" a 12-year-old boy for a night, keeping him warm. The boy, Rheal Guindon, had seen his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Guindon of Opasatika, Ont., drown on a fishing trip. The boy set out for Kapuskasing, Ont., and, cold and tired, lay down on the ground. Before long he felt a furry animal alongside of him and in the morning he woke up to find three beavers helping to keep him warm.

After sleeping with the beavers, Rheal Guindon, his feet cut and bleeding, walked to Kapuskasing to report the deaths of his parents. He said the beavers were friendly and playful.

HISTORIC HOUSE BECOMES MUSEUM

Oakville, Ont. (CP) — The 127-year-old Merrick Thomas house has been opened for display by the Oakville Historical Society Museum.

One of the oldest landmarks in the Oakville area, the house was built by Mr. Thomas in 1829 on a 200-acre farm originally surveyed as a Crown reserve to be leased for support of education in Upper Canada.

Mr. Thomas purchased the property 10 years after he leased it, and built the house from 12-inch-square timbers of white pine and sheating cut in one of Canada's first sawmills.

The style of the house follows that of the Empire Loyalists' dwellings. Hardware and fittings used are typical of the period.

Mr. Thomas' widow left the house to a son, Murray, at her death. When he died in 1931 it was inherited by a niece, Mrs. Morse Ives of Fairhope, Alabama. She sold it to the Department of National Defence in 1951.

The Oakville Historical Society bought it for $1 in 1955 and now has finished the job of restoring it to its original condition.

We think that words dropped here and there
Are lost and scattered on the air;
But they travel farther than we know,
And it is well to consider what we sow.

Lachute United Church Celebrating 135 Years Of Christian Witness

Sunday, November 25, will be the occasion of the church anniversary at Lachute United. By invitation of the session the preacher will be the minister, the Rev. Wilson Bridge, who is now in the fourth year of his ministry in Lachute.

The services will take the form of thanksgiving to God for 135 years of Christian witness in Lachute and district.

Members of the Lachute United Church Junior Choir, under the direction of Wayne Riddell, founder of this group, will lead the singing at the evening service. In face of strong competition, this choir was awarded the Karn Shield at the Musical Festival in Montreal this year. Friends of churches not having an evening service are invited to the service in Lachute United Church, at 7 p.m.

Missionary Caravans Illustrated Topic at G'vl

Miss Eva Hasell and Miss Sayle, of the Canadian Sunday School "caravan mission", will speak and show colored pictures of the work of the caravans in the Yukon, Alaska and Northern B.C. — at a meeting in the mission room of the rectory at Grenville — 8.15 p.m. Monday, November 26. All welcome.

Stirring Assembly Opens Bryan Green Mission

One of the most colorful and inspiring events in the history of Protestantism in Montreal took place Sunday evening, November 18, when 145 church congregations and choirs attended a Service of Witness in the Montreal Forum. Groups were organized in Lachute and district to attend this auspicious function — numbering in the hundreds.

This service marked the opening in Montreal of a two-week united evangelistic mission led by Canon Bryan Green, Rector of Birmingham, England, and one of the world's great evangelists. With Canon Green as co-missioner are Rev. Harold E. Frankham, Rector of Middleton, Manchester, and Rev. Burt R. Poole, of Immanuel Baptist Church, Wilmington, Delaware, as assistant missioner.

Canon Green presents the age-old truth of Christianity in a new way yet, without offering fancy doctrines or sensational ideas of theology. He is not an emotional evangelist and resorts to no theatrical tricks. He believes that salvation is personal, that people must "do their own business with God."

The massed church choirs sang the stirring Allelula Chorus and led in the singing of a number of the old familiar hymns. The choirs were under the direction of Gifford Mitchell, director of the well-known Elgar Choir.

Notable Missionary Speaker From Nigeria Heard At Presbyterian Church

Has the black man a message for us? Has the time come when Africa is sending out missionaries to bring the gospel to us? These questions might have crossed one's mind had one walked into the Margaret Rodger Presbyterian Church on Wednesday evening of last week when Sir Francis Ibium, of Nigeria, was addressing the capacity-filled church.

Sir Francis, a graduate of the University of Edinburgh explained the Nigerian educational system and told of his and Lady Ibium's work in the hospital in Ubiru Mission Field. He also told of the work of the Anglican, Baptist, Lutheran and Church of Scotland Missionaries. "At one time," he said, "the black man showed great respect to all white men, but that was no longer the case for not all the white men who had come to his country were good men. It was true, the white man had brought the Bible, but the white man had taken their land and exploited it at the black man's expense." There are now sections belonging to many European countries. It seems," he went on to say, that the white man is determined that the black men should forever be hewers of wood and drawers of water. Today to demand respect from the black man the white man must first prove himself to be a Christian.

Since coming to Canada, Sir Francis stated that a question frequently asked him was — are there any Communists in your country? He stated that if anyone on the staff of school or hospital was known to have Communist leanings, he would be immediately asked to resign. He went on to say that had they a Communist Party in the Nigeria the world would soon know about it, yet Great Britain allows a Communist Party to organize and publish a daily newspaper "The Daily Work."

Sir Francis said that in the so called Christian countries the black man is given the feeling that there is no place for him. He is not wanted in most white men's homes, in places of amusement or in his schools. Sir Francis openly professed his faith in Christ and stated that as a Christian he could not help but feel the inhumanities of our world.

Has the black man a message for us? Is not his message the same as that of Paul in Galatians 3, verse 28, when he said, "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female, for ye are all in Christ Jesus."

THE WEEK AT OTTAWA

by the Canadian Press

By Roy LaBerge,

Ottawa, Nov. 19 (CP) — A new head will be appointed shortly for the Board of Transport Commissioners, a top federal agency controlling Canada's vast railway and pipeline enterprises.

Mr. Justice J. D. Kearney, chief commissioner, is expected to leave the job to take up less strenuous duties as a judge of the exchequer court of Canada at Ottawa. The 52-year-old chief commissioner who suffered a mild heart attack last summer is a member of the exchequer court by terms of his appointment, but has not yet sat on the bench of that court.

Exchequer judges get $16,000 a year, and the government adds $1,000 to this for the chief commissioner's post.

Mr. Justice Kearney became chief commissioner in 1951, moving from the post of ambassador to Argentina at a time when the board was engaged in major freight rate cases and moving into the realm of oil and gas pipelines.

Before that, he had been high commissioner to Ireland and India, and Canada's minister to Norway and Denmark. In his law practice in Montreal he was a partner of the late Hon. J. L. Ralston, former defence minister.

EUROPEAN TRADE PLAN

Prime Minister St. Laurent has issued a statement on a scheme envisaged by Britain and Western European nations of exchanging tariff cuts, to create for themselves a free-flowing mass market.

Mr. St. Laurent suggested that while planning reductions for their own mutual benefit they might also reduce barriers on goods from Canada and other countries.

Britain last month asked Commonwealth countries for their comment on the proposal which would link the United Kingdom and six other countries in a revolutionary free trade area where tariffs are reduced gradually on a pre-arranged basis.

The Canadian view, conveyed to the U.K. after thorough study, is along the lines of the prime minister's statement.

He said the plan, if successful, could increase the economic strength and solidarity of free Europe, and to this extent Canada would welcome it. But it would have its most beneficial effects if it were linked with an expansion of European trade with other countries.

But he warned that "a partial development that resulted only in the creation of a new system of intra-European tariff preferences would interfere with trade between Europe and other countries, including Canada, without achieving the positive results which are expected from a full implementing of the plan.

"Similarly, it would be a matter of concern to us if the pursuit of this European objective, worthy as it is, were to result in an increase in tariffs against non-European countries or in less effort or willingness to reduce the other barriers to the development of competitive, multilateral trade, which is the over-riding objective of the Canadian government and of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade."

AID TO UNIVERSITIES

Heads of two big Quebec universities told a national meeting of university leaders that they are personally in favor of federal financial aid to universities.

But the educationists — Msgr. Irenee Lussier, rector of the University of Montreal, and Cyril James, principal of McGill University — emphasized they were not speaking for their universities. Decisions on whether to accept federal money must be made by the university governing bodies.

Prime Minister St. Laurent told the three-day meeting of plans to double federal university grants to $16,000,000 a year and so set up a program of capital expansion aid which would provide $50,000,000 in 10 years through Canada Council, which would be set up by Parliament.

Principal James said he knows of no barriers to accepting the help. But Msgr. Lussier mentioned two conditions: the money would have to be used only for expansion of building and equipment, and it should never be "a pretext for intruding upon our educational system."

Premier Duplessis has criticized federal grants as an invasion of provincial constitutional rights. Quebec universities collected grants in the first year after they were started in 1951.

The National Conference of Canadian Universities — which held the Ottawa meeting — agreed to handle distribution of the federal grants.

Grey Cup Classic, European Style

From Coast to Coast in Canada all eyes will be focused on Toronto's Varsity Stadium for the East-West battle for the Grey Cup on November 24.

However, airmen of Canada's NATO Divison in France are looking towards the Metz Thunderbird Stadium where their own Grey Cup — European style — will be played.

Although the European game is on a smaller scale than its Canadian counterpart, none of the grandeur that becomes such a classic is lost. Chuckwagons and convertibles start the day's festivities by leading a parade of fans from the Division Headquarters to the stadium. Riding in the lead convertible, "Miss Grey Cup", selected by a panel of experts, reigns over proceedings on Grey Cup Day.

While Miss Grey Cup is not scheduled to kick off, she will hold the ball for Air Vice Marshal H. B. Godwin, Commander of the Air Division.

Majorettes, brass bands, cheer leaders, and eager fans, will be backing their teams in the traditional manner. Straw skimmers will be worn by the Easterners, while the ten gallon cowboy hat will be the emblem of the West. Hotdogs, cokes, and stampeding children will add to the carnival spirt.

Competition to play on the East-West teams has been keen. To qualify for tryout each player was required to establish his place of birth.

Rules for the European classic have been reversed to avoid injury. It will be played to Canadian rules, except that a tag will constitute a tackle. This means the player must lift one of two 24" colored flags from the hips of an opposing player to qualify as a tackle.

Appropriately named, Flying Officer Don West, of Vancouver, is play-coach for the Western team, while Lieut. Jack Harrison of Ottawa will lead the East in their bid for the cup.

FIREWOOD AND FOOD

First delivery has been made on an order for 2,000 tons of firewood for use of the Scouts, Scouters and Rovers attending the Jubilee Jamboree-Indaba-Moot at Sutton Coldfield, Warwickshire, England, next August. Canada is planning to fly a contingent of 1,424 to the International gathering marking the 50th anniversary of Scouting and the 100th birthday of the Founder, "B.-P."

Here are a few of the food items on the shopping list of "J-I-M" next year: 540,000 pints of milk, 274,000 large loaves of bread, 423,000 bread rolls, 16 tons of butter, 7,000 tins of chicken, 31 tons of sausages, 14 tons of coffee, 228 tons of fresh vegetables and 15 hundredweight of prunes! ! !

It is estimated that immigration to Canada will total 135,000 in the current year, 60,000 lower than in the post-war peak year of 1951.

The Dickens you say...

Maybe Charles Dickens was gazing into a crystal — or aluminum — ball when he made this prediction a century ago about a strange new metal called aluminum. He wrote:

"What do you think of metal as white as silver, as unalterable as gold, as easily melted as copper, as tough as iron? . . . In proportion as the cheap production of aluminum becomes more and more an established fact, the more we shall find it entering into household uses — for travelling purposes, for instance, for which its lightness is no small merit."

Very good, Charles — especially that bit about cheap production. That day has arrived, as Alcan's vast production and world sales prove.

"Lachute High" Wins Ottawa Valley Schools' Volleyball Championship

By Bev. Sanford

The Lachute girls and boys really "came back" this week after the poor showing of November 17, and excelled in volleyball.

The two senior squads wearing the Lachute colors — left early Saturday morning to attend the volleyball tournament held at Pointe Claire, where eight different schools were competing for the O.V.S.A.A. championship. These included Hawkesbury, Hudson, Ste. Agathe, Brownsburg, Macdonald, two teams from John Rennie, and Lachute.

The teams left Lachute with one purpose in mind — to bring home those trophies — and that is exactly what they did! The girls played eight games and won seven, losing only one to Ste. Agathe, while the boys played seven games, winning six and losing only one, to the John Rennie High. The final game was played against Hawkesbury, where the girls won 11-6, and the boys 18-8.

The volleyball coach, Mr. A. Petersen, stated that every player on both teams played so well and so wholeheartedly that it was difficult to choose the stars of the games. However, special mention was made of Wayne Bradford, Reggie Stansfield and Arthur Gauley for the boys, while the outstanding players on the girls' team were Shirley Pollock, Heather Jones and Betty Underhill.

The girls' team included — Heather Jones, Pat Stansfield, Grace Sorley, Janet Marshall, Marjorie Hay, Shirley Pollock, Betty Underhill, Jean Taylor and Joyce Davis.

Congratulations and thanks are extended to Mr. A. Petersen, coach, who spent so much time and effort in training these teams in preparation for this final tournament.

Last Wednesday after school the Junior girls' and boys' volleyball teams visited Brownsburg.

In the first game, the L.H.S. girls tallied 15-9, and in the second they won by an even greater margin, 15-6. Having won the first two games in succession, a third encounter was not necessary.

The boys' contest was somewhat keener, Brownsburg winning the first game, 15-9. However, Lachute retaliated by taking the next two, 15-4 and 15-3, and so the Lachute girls and boys were both the victors of the day.

Students' Council Conference

Two representatives from the local Students' Council, Bobby Campbell, president, and Lois Silverson, secretary, were delegated to represent Lachute High School at the 13th Annual Students' Council Conference held at Huntingdon last week-end.

Friday evening a dinner and dance were held in the High School gym, and all reported an enjoyable time.

Saturday morning, discussion groups were formed when different topics were dealt with, including school spirit, co-operation of the students, and the Students' Councils' methods of helping the school. This was later followed by a banquet, which brought the conference to a close.

Coming Events

On Saturday, November 24, the Junior Girls, Junior Boys and Senior Boys are meeting three teams from Brownsburg. The games will commence at 9 a.m. in the Lachute High School gym. An admission will be charged.

ALL BUT THREE FROM QUEBEC

All but three players on the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens were born right in the Province of Quebec, which makes the Canadiens the most home-grown club in the circuit. The three who hail from outside Quebec are Tommy Johnson from Winnipeg, Man., and two Saskatchewan natives, Bert Olmstead from Sceptre and Bob Turner from Regina.

TO CONDUCT REFEREES' SCHOOLS IN WEST

Carl Voss, referee-in-chief of the National Hockey League, leaves this month for Western Canada, where he will conduct refereeing schools. Working closely with the affiliated bodies of the Canadian Hockey Association, Voss will head master 10 of these schools in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Curlers At Home And Visiting

The finals of the first curling bonspiel of the season were played last Friday evening. This was the Match Committee Bonspiel and the rink skipped by Roy Fraser with Royal Carrière (third), Don McFaul (second) and Roger Williams (lead) won over the rink skipped by Romeo Charron with Jack MacKimmie, Jimmy Campbell and Raymond Underhill.

The MacKimmie Memorial Mixed Bonspiel is now under full swing, with four games being played each evening. The playdown will be between those teams with the highest-plus.

A good crowd was in attendance Saturday evening for the usual mixed curling and social evening. The winner in these games is determined by the team winning the highest-plus during the day's curling and this time it was a rink skipped by Albert Ogilvie with Mrs. Ogilvie, Dick Richardson, and Mrs. Richardson.

A number of local rinks have entered outside bonspiels. At least eight are playing at Hawkesbury, which began this week. One rink is entered in the mixed at Hudson, four at Pointe Claire, two at Maxwell, one at Howick and one at Lacolle.

Heavyweight Title In the Balance

By Milt MacPhail,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The big boxing question of 1956 soon will be answered. The question: "Who will succeed retired Rocky Marciano as world heavyweight champion?"

Ring fans will receive the answer when ancient Archie Moore, the light - heavyweight, and ambitious young Floyd Patterson face each other in Chicago Stadium November 30.

Unusual interest has developed in this fight, not only because a world title is the prize, but also because of the principals involved.

Moore has been called a freak of modern sports. The crafty veteran from San Diego California, is at least 40 years old and was boxing before Patterson was born. Yet, here he is fighting again for the heavyweight championship. Many boxing men, including Marciano who beat him, think Moore will win it.

Two factors — experience and superb condition — have made Moore last so long. Archie demonstrated both when he battered Jas. J. Parker, Canada's leading heavyweight, into helplessness in their so-called world title fight in Toronto. Moore did it without working up a sweat.

Patterson promises to be tougher. Only 21, the New Yorker is compared to Joe Louis when the Brown Bomber was blasting his way to the top. That praise may be premature. But Patterson is one of the quickest and dealiest punchers in heavyweight ranks, and an extremely hard target to hit.

Week's Events in Ladies' Curling

Mrs. Ogilvie's rink won this event.

Last Monday the finals were played for the Club Trophy between: Mrs. Jas. A. MacKimmie (skip), Miss Margaret Scott, Mrs. E. Rodger, Mrs. F. Royal, and Mrs. J. K. Campbell (skip), Mrs. R. Muir, Mrs. L. Armstrong, Mrs. L. Carriere.

Winners were Mrs. J. K. Campbell's rink.

POOR SPORTSMEN

We hold little sympathy for the hunter caught shining for deer at night. These shiners must be classed as poor sportsmen because in this day and age it certainly isn't because the cupboard is bare that prompts them to be second-class Canadians.

CURRENT SHOWS, ENTERTAINMENT, TRAVEL

Plans for 5th Annual Salon of Agriculture

Plans for the 5th National Salon of Agriculture, to be held in Montreal on February 8-17 next, are now well advanced, and several innovations are in prospect for this unique agricultural exhibition.

Site of the show will be the Show Mart as usual, and already practically all the booth space has been spoken for, with major exhibits from Ontario, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, the Province of Quebec and the United States.

Carrying out its constant aim of bringing urban and rural peoples together, and particularly of acquainting city folk with the latest advances in agriculture, several new events have been planned. The importance of the dairy industry will be stressed by the choosing of a Dairy Queen, in which handsome country girls will show their prowess at milking cows.

As an opening event there will be an exhibit of choice beef steers of the three chief beef breeds, and these will be auctioned immediately following the opening of the Salon. Another innovation will be a baby chick contest, to be staged by the numerous co-operative hatcheries in the province.

Square dance contests, which were so popular last year, will be expanded in the 1957 event. Organized by Farm Housewives' groups in six districts throughout the province, dance teams will compete for prize money amounting to more than $650.

Continuing its constant theme of agricultural education, the Salon's farm knowledge contests will again be staged, with extensive prizes for winning contestants. Another innovation will be a contest to find the "Quebec Farm Family of the Year." Sponsored by the St. Jean Baptiste Society, the family will be crowned during the 5th National Salon of Agriculture at Montreal next February.

A Disneyland Repeat, "Treasure Island"

Walt Disney's full-length "live action picturization" of "Treasure Island", the Robert Louis Stevenson adventure story, will be seen again on "Disneyland" on CBC-TV November 28 and December 5. The two-hour production, in two parts was first presented on "Disneyland" two years ago. It features Bobby Driscoll and Robert Newton.

Stevenson wrote his great sea tale of pirates and buried treasure, and the hunt and battle for it, expressly for his 13-year-old stepson, Lloyd Osborne. But he admitted that his adult friends were just as excited about the story as the boy.

Disney presents "Treasure Island" in a manner true to the original — as an exciting melodrama with pirate crew and loyal ship's company of the square-rigger Hispaniola battling for the golden boubloons and for their lives.

The film was made entirely in England. Ship-board scenes were filmed at the wharves of Bristol and Falmouth and off the cliffs of Devon. The stockade sequence of fighting for the treasure was photographed along the Colne River in Denham; this river was also damned and made into a tropical lagoon with windswept palms for scenes on the Hispaniola after Long John Silver and his men took over control of the ship.

Children's Village Described on Radio

A unique children's home is the subject of "This Week" on November 24 (11.15 p.m. Trans-Canada). This is the Protestant Children's Village in Ottawa, an amalgamation of two homes that serves to forge good citizenship and useful lives in a group of a dozen children whose ages range from six and 12. Douglas Finlay, a man with wide experience in social work, is director of the village. He and the social workers on his staff give a great deal of individual attention to the children, most of whom were delinquents before coming to the village, which is financed by provincial grants, private donations, endowment and red-feather agencies. In addition to this important child work, Finlay is director of the citizens' committee on children in Ottawa and of the Massachusetts Boys' Town.

Gilmour and His Albums

Clyde Gilmour, nationally syndicated movie and record reviewer, has one of the largest private record collections in the country. The collection, made up of the finest etchings of both classical and popular works, is open to the public for an hour every Friday night when the CBC Trans-Canada network presents "Gilmour's Albums."

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

The wrong kind of "cold starting" will wear out your engine faster than a climb up Pike's Peak. Therefore it's important for you to know how to get your horsepower 'on the hook' properly in freezing weather.

Don't pump the gas pedal before starting the engine. It's not only futile, but may be actually harmful.

Just depress your accelerator to the floorboard once, immediately after using your starting mechanism. If the engine doesn't start, stop at once and wait a few seconds. Repeat the procedure until the car does start.

The best insurance for prompt cold weather starting is to keep your battery and spark plugs in top condition. A quick examination of these items by your service station operator can forewarn you of any apparent weakness.

All runners — human, equine and canine — warm up before a race. Your mechanical runner — your car — should be allowed to warm up too. Idle the motor for three or four minutes before putting it in gear, and you'll help increase your motor's life by that many years!

A MAGICIAN WHO FOOLS MAGICIANS

—Central Press Canadian

This is one of magician Gogia Pasha's least gruesome tricks. Instead of pulling rabbits out of a hat, he pulls a goldfish bowl out of a fez. On other occasion he places a girl on the sharp points of three swords, cuts out hypnotized individuals' tongues, or puts a white chicken's head on a black chicken's neck. He showed his tricks to the convention of magicians in Toronto—but even to them he is a magician. They can't explain how he does it. Gogia is a Sikh from Kashmir.

Bilingual Coverage On Grey Cup Telecast

For the first time in Grey Cup annals, the great Canadian football classic will be televised simultaneously over both the English and French networks of the CBC on November 24.

The live telecast will start at 12.30 p.m., Saturday, November 24 over CBMT and CBFT, Montreal; CFCM-TV, Quebec, and CHLT-TV Sherbrooke. A 14-man talent crew has been retained to work on the telecast. Tom Foley, well-known for his radio and TV commentary of the Montreal Royal baseball games, will handle the play-by-play assignment, assisted by Terry Kielty as color-man with Harry Dunlap as statistician, A. Morrison and J Wilkinson as spotters. Gord Sinclair, popular radio commentator will describe the pre-game activities filmed in Toronto the previous night. Larry O'Brien will interview prominent football personalities.

In addition to these and the French-language commentators, 27 television technicians under the direction of producer Wilf Hayden of Toronto and Roland Giguère of Montreal, will help to make this first bilingual Grey Cup telecast a milestone in television entertainment.

Molson's Brewery will sponsor the French and English telecasts in Quebec, but due to brewery advertising restrictions in other provinces, Molson's sold the rights to General Motors of Canada for other parts of the country.

AIR MAPPING CREW PREPARE FOR RETURN TO ANTARCTIC

—Central Press Canadian

Preparing for six-month stay in the Antarctic, the crew of a Photographic Survey Corporation plane examine a flag from Port Stanley, Ont., which they will set up on Port Stanley in the Falkland Islands. The crew are taking over where the group left off last year on the job of mapping 65,000 square miles of Falkland islands for the British government. They fly Canso Amphibians, World War II aircraft converted for aerial photography by the Toronto survey company. Crew members shown here are, left to right, Colin Grant, Oshawa, Ont., co-pilot; John Symington, Elstree, Eng., navigator; Bob Pettus, St. Catharines, Ont., pilot; Matthew Milburn, London, Eng., radio operator; Paul Neilsen, Oshawa, engineer. The Duke of Edinburgh is expected to visit their base camp some time in 1957.

Trees Travel South For Christmas

Canadian shippers of Christmas trees have a good market in the Southern U.S., despite the fact that the people down there rarely see snow. The Canadian trees sell well if shippers cater to the dealers' insistence upon uniform grades and sizes, states A. A. Caron, Canadian Consul and Trade Commissioner in New Orleans in an article written for "Foreign Trade."

Most trees are handled by produce wholesalers who order directly from Canadian shippers or through brokers located near the Canada - United States border. Canadian shippers should not forget, however, that a sizeable number of trees are bought directly.

Service clubs in several southern cities and civic governments in some cases buy directly from Canada. For example Canal Street, the main thoroughfare of New Orleans, was decorated last year with Canadian Christmas trees bought by the City Administration.

During the holiday season each household boasts at least one Christmas tree and often two or more, and trees decorate public places, hotels stores and clubs.

Some B.C. shippers are having remarkable success in Oklahoma and Texas (which prefers western-grown firs from three to six feet high) because they sell under a brand name and select well for uniform quality. Main market for our exporters, however, is the Southeast, which prefers Canadian fir trees five to six feet high. Many brokers mention, unfortunately, that they would buy more Canadian trees if our shippers would grade bundles uniformly (3-5 feet, 4-6 feet, 5-7 feet, 6-8 feet, etc.) Thousands of trees are shipped each year to the Southern States which cannot be sold.

Dame Fashion has finally taken the snowsuit into her orbit. No longer is there any necessity for Junior to resemble a roly-poly snowman every time he braves the icy blasts.

This winter he or little sister can strut forth in Italian stripes, two or three-tone combinations or suits trimmed with fur or embroidery, say the fashion experts. Many suits are tailored with all the fine points of downhill ski slacks and duffle jackets.

Standard designs in red, blue and green will still be available but styling is becoming more adult and colors more subtle. In pram suits mint green and delicate prints have been added to the pinks, blues and yellows.

The carriage trade seems to have lost its monopoly on pastels and white. Older kiddies will be usurping them this year, particularly as backgrounds for tasteful patterns.

Soft shades are practical in washable snowsuits, especially those made of such fibres as nylon. All-nylon suits with quilted or brushed fleece linings of the same fibre reduce the drying time to a few hours, eliminating the necessity for a second suit.

Washable suits should always be laundered by hand. In a machine there is the danger that water may puff out a garment with so much force that it bursts the seams. In any event, when in doubt follow the manufacturer's instructions on the tag.

When selecting a suit the shopper shouldn't be deceived by the lighter weight suits. Many are certainly as warm as the bulkier designs and are less cumbersome. They are usually water-resistant and sometimes water-proofed with neoprene, a man-made rubber, which also serves to block the wind.

She Can't Say Yes

Brown-eyed Madelon Wilkes, a travelling Australian, has had more marriage proposals in a year than some girls get in a lifetime. But she's not impressed.

Visiting Canada during a year-long world tour, the 21-year-old former travel agency employee described some of her courtships in Europe.

A German, she said, proposed to her amidst a setting of champagne and roses. An Italian popped the question after courting her with candy. Although Frenchmen have a reputation as great lovers, Madelon said she found them "awful and rude."

Considering that she'd known each man no more than two weeks she couldn't take too much notice, she said. Besides, she'd prefer to marry a diplomat so that she could keep travelling.

Fill Her Up

A Toronto woman who had just learned to drive a car invited four neighbors to go shopping with her one day. They arrived at a shopping centre without mishap but as the woman parked the car she noticed that the gasoline gauge registered empty.

She eased the car over to a garage where an attendant tried to fill it up but the tank was already full.

"Lady, when you turn the key it makes a difference," he said with a knowing look.

"Darling, do you think you can manage to live on an allowance of $25 a week?"

"Precious, get the license. I'll try it for a week."

Let's Eat

BY

IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"When a man is asked what he likes best for dinner, he usually says 'Steak'!" I remarked.

"But comparatively few homemakers serve it often because it doesn't measure up to the excellent steaks that are prepared in restaurants."

Lightly Marbled

"First of all, madame," observed the Chef, "the steak should be of good quality beef, lightly marbled with fat.

"A porterhouse or sirloin cut should be satisfactory.

"Brush it all over with salad oil, laced with the husband's favorite meat sauce, or a little garlic or onion. Cover and refrigerate from an hour up to two days.

"If you like, season with salt and pepper before cooking. However, salt tends to prevent the steak from browning properly.

"Have the broiler really hot, from 550 to 600 degrees, before putting in the steak. Do not let the flame touch it or the meat will be burned. Turn it over several times, then the steak will not curl.

"To keep the meat juices from running out use tongs. Do not jab with a fork! Keep the broiler door open when a rare or medium-rare steak is desired.

"Do not use a thick steak if it is to be cooked well-done, as the meat will be dry."

"I think many persons add too many condiments and seasonings to steaks," I said. "A dusting of coarse black pepper, salt, and lemon wedges to squeeze over the meat are all that's needed.

"I'm also convinced that many homemakers would buy steak more often if first-quality steaks were not so expensive.

"However, if they'll buy a good meat tenderizer, use it according to instructions on the jar on less expensive round, chuck, rib or flank steak, then cook as you just suggested, it will be tender and delicious. Then steak dinners can be enjoyed at home without busting the budget."

'Boundless Opportunities' For Young Women

Opportunities for young women are boundless in the field of home economics — according to Miss Helen McKercher, Director Home Economics Service of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. "There are so many fields open to the graduate in home economics," Miss McKercher told the girl delegates to the 25th annual National 4-H Club Week in Toronto last week, "that no young women should lack for an interesting future. Whether you want to be a dietitian, a research worker or a teacher . . . whether you feel that press, radio or television offers you a future or whether you want to be a homemaker, a course in home economics is a sound basis. The demand for qualified graduates far exceeds the supply at the present time and as our country grows so will that demand."

Miss McKercher hoped that the groundwork laid in 4-H Club activities would inspire many young Canadian girls to follow the field of home economics. The opportunities for success for the individual were limitless and the training gained would benefit not only the individual but the nation.

BEETS ON ICE HELP STORAGE

Tisdale, Ont. (CP) — A market gardener in this Northern Ontario community has solved his storage problems with 35 blocks of ice that came from California.

It's ordinary ice, and there's plenty of ice in this region, but the blocks that came with a shipment of celery from California struck the eye of Karl Doran and gave him an idea. He was finding the mild autumn a bono for getting the plowing done, but a nuisance because it threatened the crops in storage.

He put the ice in his beet house, which came down to a reasonable 40 degree. "From now on I'll cut my own ice after trying that experiment," he says.

Beef is the only meat which may be purchased by grade — the grade is indicated by a ribbon-like band which runs down the side of each cut. (Red for Grade A or Choice, Blue for Grade B or Good).

Large Family is "an Education" to Its Parents

—Central Press Canadian

Raising one of the largest families in Northern Ontario is an "education in itself," says Ameda Lanthier, a pulp and paper mill worker in Espanola. And one of his big worries is the cost of that education. Mr. Lanthier, the father of 16 children, who are seen above with their parents, figures that it costs about $1.75 a day to keep one child at school and right now six of them are attending classes. The Lanthiers, who share a five-room house situated on 285 acres of land, are philosophical people. When referring to their marriage and large family, which is the result of it, they say "not only does the link of marriage strengthen with more new-born lives, but each child is one more reason why the parents must lead honest, Christian lives."

One day I complained to my husband, "We're so busy, I never have time to do any of the things that I want to do."

His answer was worth remembering. "I wouldn't worry if I were you. You are so busy doing what you really want to do that you never find time for the things you think you want to do."

CANCER RESEARCH IS LARGE PROJECT AT MONTREAL UNIT

Montreal (CP) — In many ways, development of cancer research in Canada in the last decade is typified by a four-room laboratory near the roof in Montreal's Notre Dame hospital.

Reached by a circular iron staircase, this is the headquarters of the Montreal Cancer Institute. Organized in 1948 with an annual budget of $4,000, the institute now has a staff of 23 and $68,000 to finance research work each year.

The goal of these workers is to find out the difference between normal and tumor cells, "the most fundamental part of cancer research," says Dr. Antonio Cantero, founder and director of the institute.

"I suppose you could say we are taking the cells apart and examining their structure and chemical makeup to try to discover how and when the change from normalcy to malignancy begins.

"It is an established fact that in cancer something happens to a body cell that makes it become malignant. When science understands the chemical changes involved in this process it may be able to do something to block it."

At present, 10 separate projects are being carried on under the direction of nine research scientists.

A group conference, called "The Monday Wash" by the researchers, is held at the start of each week and problems are discussed.

"These regular meetings help us to keep our projects straight and, by talking them over, to clarify our thinking on them," said Dr. Cantero. "It's easy to get lost or sidetracked when doing cancer research and it's even easier to get discouraged."

In addition to these meetings, each researcher submits a progress report on his work to others twice a month. In this way, the scientific bugbear of "going around in circles" is avoided.

'Each worker in making a report looks at his progress and determines his accomplishments, and whether further investigation along these lines is worthwhile," says Dr. Cantero.

Nice go-togethers invariably include the velvet skirt and pretty blouse, the two adding up to a charming informal late afternoon or evening outfit. This black velvet skirt is slim with a kick-pleat in back. The blouse is as practical as it is pretty since the fabric is one of the drip-dry cottons with a silken look and feel. The sleeves are permanently pleated and the cuffs are fastened with crystal buttons. A string tie of black velvet finishes the demure little collar.

Q.W.I. President Now In Scotland

Mrs. G. D. Harvey, of Stanbridge East, president of the Quebec Women's Institutes, is visiting relatives in Stornoway, Scotland. From there she will go on to Surrey to spend a few days with Lady Nuttal, the Q.W.I. representative on the Executive Committee of the Associated Country Women of the World.

News of the postponed ACWW Triennial Conference in Ceylon, to which Mrs. Harvey was a delegate, reached her as the boat docked. She now plans to extend her stay in Scotland beyond the time originally planned, before proceeding to England.

There is to be another emergency meeting of the ACWW Executive Committee early in December to discuss the complex situation resulting from the unavoidable decision about the Conference. Mrs. Harvey will remain until this is over. The world organization is stressing the term, "postponed," and hopes this may prove to be only a temporary measure. Transportation provides the greatest difficulty for an early resumption of plans.

If you want to be sure of the age of a bird — press the breast bone; on young birds it is soft, flexible cartilage; on older birds (a year or more) it has calcified so is harder and not flexible. (Consumer Section, Marketing Service, Canada Department of Agriculture).

Fashions

Party Pretty

A sheath dress that fits the theme of elegance in the new season's party styles, is made of acetate lace. Acetate satin bands trim one side of the slim-fitting skirt and the high-waisted bodice, ending in a pouff bow. This is an all-Canadian fashion.

Everybody Works!

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Everybody works in our house!" Junior said proudly.

It takes time and energy and a great deal of both patience and perseverence to keep a "Work Program" in the home functioning satisfactorily. A bit of humor is a help, too, and appreciation goes a lot further than criticisms.

The old refrain "Everybody works but father" is not true in a happy family. Of course, the person who wrote these words may have thought that father earns the money to support the needs of the family and so he should not have any tasks to do "after hours."

But what man who is proud of his home does not find all kinds of jobs he wants to do around the house and yard? What true husband and father does not want to share in the task of home-making and rearing children?

The father's attitude to labor in the home is very important because it colors the way the children think about work quite as much as their mother's standards. If dad considers certain jobs as "women's work," is it any wonder that junior is most unwilling to do his bed? If dad strews the evening papers on the floor and drops his clothes wherever he takes them off, why marvel that the children's rooms look as if a hurricane has struck them before mother had "tidied up?"

It is interesting to know that in a recent National Conference on Family Life the main speaker stressed as his first point that in a strong family, there is a fair division of labor. This takes for granted that each member will play his part.

This does not mean that mother and father share equally the burden of the household. If father is the only breadwinner, mother has the major responsibility for the work of the home. Nor does it mean that each child each day must do the same jobs — and come up to the same standard of work well done. No, work must be graded according to the child's age and ability.

When a child is small and first begins to want to help mother in little jobs around the home, his offer should, if possible, be accepted. Mother may be occupied with a demanding job, it may be inconvenient for her to stop, and direct a little child's work, but it is important that she should do th youngster's enthusiasm for s in work soon cools if mother not respond.

If the child does not ask to mother can occasionally s some single task such as br in the morning paper or the bottle and see that her you does this work. Parents benefit from Tom Sawyer's washing the fence chapter. ren can get a great kick out of a job which interests them.

As the children in the fami come older, a weekly Cou the best place to divide up work in the home. Each should have certain jobs he do each day — for example, if old enough he must make hi bed. Then there are other tasks which can be optional Bobby sweeps the verandah, will clean the kitchen sink.

Dish washing in many fami a bone of contention. A schedule where each chil enough helps once a day in ing or drying the dishes works best. This is writte and tacked up on the kitchen Each Saturday changes are for next week. Then there any dispute about "who does Away back in 1547 William ten said "Many hands make work." This still holds goo especially in the jobs to be around a home!

Proud Father (to bank man — "I want to see you about ing an account for the new at our house. How shall we guish it from mine?"

Manager — "Suppose we the Fresh Heir Fund?"

After the business portion of the meeting the president called on the first and second vice-presidents to take charge of the program. DEVELOPMENT OF ARTILLERY AND GUNNERY IN WARFARE

HISTORICAL NOTES ON THE ROYAL REGIMENT OF ARTILLERY

Lachute's battery of field artillery, the 131st Battery, a unit of the 37th Field Regiment, R.C.A., commemorated its anniversary this month. Training takes place each Thursday in Lachute, supplemented by week-end schemes and exercises, with actual firing practice during the summer camping period. This article will serve to familiarize the public with the history of Artillery.

Special to The Lachute Watchman

PART II

At the beginning of the Great War there were 25 R.H.A. batteries, which have since been reduced, the letters and records of those reduced being taken over by Field Batteries.

In 1934 the mechanisation of the R.H.A. was begun.

In so short a space it is only possible to mention a few of the exploits of this branch of the Regiment. Among them the following perhaps are the best known:

"A" Battery (The Chestnut Troop) was the first Horse Battery to take part in operations overseas at Egmont-op-Zee and Alkmaar in 1799. It distinguished itself in many actions in the Peninsular War and at Waterloo. As senior Battery this unit has the proud distinction of occupying the right of the line of the British Army.

"G" Battery (Mercer's Troop) greatly distinguished itself at Waterloo. Captain Mercer, who was in command, disobeyed the Duke of Wellington's orders by keeping his men at the guns when charged by French Cavalry. His diary provides an admirable account of the battle.

"I" Battery (Bull's Troop) is famous for the exploit of two guns under Captain Norman Ramsay at Fuentes d'Onoro in 1811, where, during a retirement, they charged through attacking French Cavalry.

"L" (Nery) Battery formed part of the 1st Cavalry Brigade in 1914. It was attacked early on September 1st by an overwhelming force of German Cavalry. The morning was misty. In spite of terrible casualties they were never silenced, but had to be withdrawn to England to reform.

"N" Battery (The Eagle Troop) was the first Troop of Bombay Horse Artillery; was distinguished in the Decean campaign of 1817 and Arabian campaign of 1821. Fought in the first Afghan War and by prodigious efforts arrived in time to take part in the Battle of Hyderadad on March 24th, 1843. For this exploit an Order in Council directed that the Troop should "for ever bear the Eagle upon its appointments." This battery fought in France throughout the Great War. In 1920 it had the great distinction of providing the gun carriage which carried the coffin of the Unknown Warrior to Westminster. The six gun horses had all served in France throughout the War.

"O" Battery (The Rocket Troop) carried on the traditions of the Rocket Brigade which fought against Napoleon at Leipzig in 1813. At Waterloo this unit was equipped with guns and rockets, making use of both with great effect.

In 1794 was raised the "Driver Corps" — a non-artillery corps providing horses and drivers for field batteries when required; an improvement on the original system, but still a far from satisfactory arrangement. A long period of warfare began about this time, which resulted in great improvements in artillery in the field. Flanders, the Mediterranean, Egypt, the West Indies, the Cape, South America, all saw our guns and Gunners in various campaigns and the Regiment had been increased to seven battalions by the Peace of Amiens, 1802. War broke out again in the following year and continued without a break for another twelve years, during which the Regiment played its part nobly, and the greatly enhanced reputation with which it emerged from the war is due to the tremendous efforts of the regimental officers and men who overcame the thousand and one difficulties that arose due to the vileness of the roads, shortage of animals and scarcity of stores and forage. The high state of efficiency that was reached was the admiration of European armies.

During this period the Royal Irish Artillery, which was originated in 1755 from a detachment sent to Dublin from Woolwich, was incorporated in the Regiment and in 1806 the Driver Corps became part of the Regiment, under the title 'Corps of Royal Artillery Drivers," but it was not until July, 1816 after the battle of Waterloo, that this corps was abolished and the men gradually absorbed into the batteries.

In action the high standard the Regiment has set itself was never lowered, just as the greater the hardships of marching or hunger or extreme weather, the better became the discipline of the artillerymen. As great renown was derived from the hardships of the Retreat to Corunna as from the victories of the war — Rolica, Vimiera, Busaco, Talavera, Barossa, Badajoz, Vittoria and many more. Norman Ramsay's exploit at Fuentes d'Onoro shows the spirit of the Artillery at its best; he with two guns was cut off and surrounded by French cavalry. With the gunners riding on each flank he charged at a gallop right through the enemy's line and brought his section safely through!

OUT ON A LIMB

By Stumpy McCulloch

A worm met another worm comin' up from the ground one day. "Gosh, you're beautiful," he declared. "I think I'd like to marry you."

"Don't be a dope," was the reply. "I'm your other end!"

Bucking — that's when you cut a log into sections, you know — can cause a feller a little trouble. 'Specially on steep ground — 'cause you have to be careful not to get the cutter bar and chain caught fast in the kerf. (That's the open space made by a saw as it cuts through a log.) Before you start bucking, it's best to size up the situation.

If he's not careful, a bucker can make himself a trap, by making a cut at the wrong angle! 'Cause — if he cuts at the wrong angle — the logs won't fall apart, and the bar and chain will be caught fast! Generally, if the direction of the angle had been reversed, the lower log would drop away, and the bar and chain would be left free.

Accordin' to Ol' Hannibal, the elephant looked down at a mouse and exclaimed, "you're jest about the puniest, most insignificant object I ever laid eyes on."

Sometimes, while bucking, it's necessary to bore into a log. Other times, boring is the easiest way of doing the preliminary bucking in order to prevent a log from splitting. Sometimes fellers have trouble getting started boring, 'cause the end of the bar won't stay put where you want it. A good way to overcome this is by starting well under the lower quarter of the log, with the tip end of the bar and chain, then saw upward a short distance before the actual boring begins. By giving the bar a slight twist as you press your weight against the machine, boring will proceed without the bar and chain kicking out of the kerf.

If a log's restin' over a rocky ridge where the cut is to be made, boring will probably be necessary. Also, when stumps and other obstructions get in the way. Boring ain't no trouble, really, once you get used to it.

"Do you realize," the city feller asked, "that you're readin' your newspaper upside down?"

"Of course I realize it," snapped Ol' Zeke, "Do you think it's easy?"

SOLUTION TO CROSS-WORD PUZZLE (Page 7)

by R. BEILHARTZ, Manager

R. Beilhartz

Oxford, England — We've been over here more than a week now and the day of the world plowing match is close at hand. Robert Timbers of Stouffville, Ont., the Canadian champion plowman and his team mate Edwin Demman of Portage la Prairie, Man., have now put in many hours of practice plowing.

At this stage I'd like to pay tribute to our boys, for they certainly take this match seriously. If time, effort and concentration count for anything, the Canadians should win the Esso Golden Plough trophy, which is the award for the world champion plowman. Yesterday the boys were so intent on practice plowing that they didn't even stop for lunch. They were having the same trouble as the other plowmen — the earth clinging to the mould board. However, before they knocked off for the day they were in better humour as the furrows began taking on better shape.

When we got back to the hotel we found J. D. Thomas, of Toronto, president of the World Plowing Organization, and Mrs. Thomas had arrived. They came over by boat. "J.D.", as we call him, started kidding me about shaving off the beard I had grown for the centennial celebrations at Sault Ste. Marie. That was some time ago but I must say it was a real black beard and heavy enough to hide behind. J. D. announced to everyone that I would have to grow it again if neither of the boys won the trophy. Not only that, J. D. declared I would have to wear the facial foliage until the world championship returned to Canada. Any comments by my wife will have to come from her personally.

Speaking of adornment, I had to do some shopping for Mickey Demman yesterday. He wanted an English cap because he didn't want to get his white Stetson dirty. I found his head had shrunk one size since he left home, or so I told him, but he didn't bat an eye over the kidding. He probably figured English hat sizes are a little different.

On Sunday the boys from the 13 competing nations did not plow and some visited nearby farmers. My wife and I went to church and the welcome we received was warm and sincere. A lady and a gentleman member of the congregation were at the door to welcome strangers.

In contrast to the Toronto church we visited which was an immense building with a very small congregation, in Oxford it was a small and very old building with a large attendance. Everyone near us had a pleasant greeting and I began to wonder if the average Canadian is far behind the English in politeness for we have found the people here very courteous.

After church we joined those boys who were not being entertained at neighboring farms. It had been arranged for us to go to spend the afternoon at a large farm known as the Hobb's Farm, which is about 30 miles from Oxford.

This farm consists of 680 acres, which is really large for an English farm. They have a herd of 300 milking Shorthorns, a couple of hundred pigs, four thousand hens and a very large flock of Border Leicester Cheviot ewes. The farm is producing a wonderful crop of sugar beet, kale, potatoes, hay and grain. I have never seen such a thick mat of grass and walking in the pasture was like walking on a very thick carpet.

The next day Bob, Mickey and Jim Broker, the New Zealand champion, quietly sneaked away from the large practice field to a small field about three miles away so they could practice by themselves. The plowbottoms cleaned very nicely in the soil at the new site and the boys felt good.

During the day I had an interesting talk with Mr. Benwell of Esso Petroleum in London and learned he has a daughter living at Agincourt, Ont., the wife of Dr. D. C. Hood. Also met and talked with many people who had attended the first world match at Cobourg in 1953. They all seemed to tell the same story of how well they were treated in Canada, what a beautiful country we have, and how well organized is the International Plowing Match.

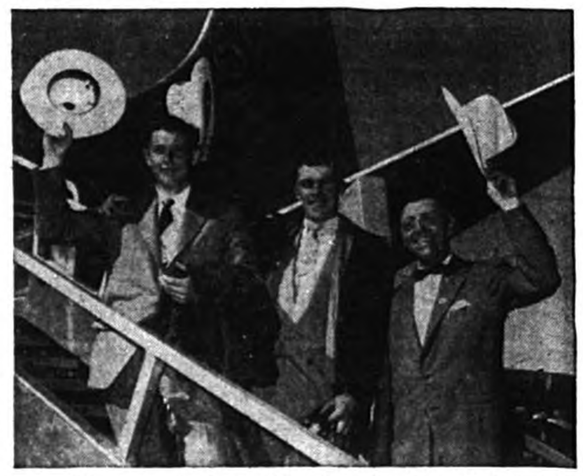

Just by way of contrast I would say that the British seem to take more pride than we in Ontario in their plowing matches. Here everything seems to be in perfect order. All fence posts are cement and wire and rope enclosures are tightened well. Entrances to the demonstration park are nicely levelled and turnstiles are used. Mobile telephone and cable offices have been set up and the public address system extends well out into the fields where the classes will be held.

The machinery rows are laid out differently to ours at the International. Here the headquarters building is in the centre of the park. The tractor enclosure and the press building are close to the headquarters. Also, close by, are two licensed bars offering a variety of beverages from the softest to the hardest and all served by barmaids.

Bob Timbers' father, one of the best plowmen in Canada, was here and I took him over to the practice field where the boys were plowing. I was unable to stay but knew they now had a much better coach with them than I would ever make. When they returned that night they reported they were ready for the big match.

The reason I couldn't stay with the boys was that the World Plowing Organization had arranged for a demonstration of plowing by Bill de Lint of Holland. All the judges, picked from the competing countries, were on hand to watch and an interesting discussion on rules and methods of scoring took place. The result was that I felt that some progress had been made in reaching uniformity in scoring. This is all-important in world plowing matches for each country seems to have its own ideas of how it should be done.

Tomorrow the British National match starts and it looks as though it will be quite an event. The World Plowing Match starts the following day and it hardly seems posible that we have reached that point. The way time flies the big match will be over and the world champion acclaimed before I write the next letter. The results will have been published long before you see my letter, but you may be interested in a first hand account of how the Canadian team fared.

In July, 1956, the average wage in Canadian manufacturing reached a record high of $62.91 per week. This compared with $59.31 a year earlier, and $48.82 five years earlier.

School Finance and Building, B'bg Home-and-School Topic

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — The November session of the Brownsburg Home and School Association opened to a full house of 135, with the committee chairmen's reports. In reading the minutes Mr. William Hamilton, secretary, had noted among other points that the membership was up 50% over the same period last year, and that 85 had attended the inaugural meeting of the year. The treasurer, Mrs. Bernice Tomalty, reported a bank balance of $62.51.

Mr. Alfred Gervais, president, thanked the parents for their splendid turnout. He mentioned that plans were proceeding for the projected Book Fair and that the planning committee expected to arrange it for late January or early February. Mr. Gervais announced that at the next meeting Dr. Mackay would talk on Floridation. He then introduced Mr. John R. (Jack) Golphin, chairman of the School Board.

Mr. Golphin gave a concise report on the financial affairs for 1956-57 as follows:

DISBURSEMENTS

Miscellaneous	500	500
TOTAL	70,585	31,550

Mr. Golphin pointed out that the general tax rate has been raised to 19½ mills but a new government bill which takes care of outstanding debts had allowed the board to halve the special tax to 1½ mills, so that the total levy of 21 mills is unchanged. The fact that the municipal evaluations have been increased by 5 per cent will, of course, mean a 5 per cent increase in the amount due.

Mr. Golphin had a few words to say about the proposed school enlargements, the plans for which are already in Quebec. The school apparently is due for a face-lifting. A one-storey extension will be built in front of the building. This will house four classrooms, and the Science room and cafeteria will be moved to the new basement. The reason for expanding in this direction is that any future expansion would be cheaper in cost.

The meeting disbanded in favor of the "open house" part of the session, during which the parents could view their children's work and chat with the teachers.

Two Farm Organizations View Policy and Structure At Recent Joint Meeting

A joint meeting of the directors of the Quebec Farm Radio Forum and executive of the Quebec Farmers' Association was held recently at Macdonald College — this district being represented by Ross Oswald, president of the Argenteuil Farm Forum Council.

The policy, structure, and means of collaboration between the two farm organizations were thoroughly discussed, and it was decided that these organizations' objectives could be divided into three separate aims:

2—Quebec Farmers' Association to be the voice of English farmers (action or pressure group).

3—Both were concerned with Adult Education-type program (folk schools, short courses, improvement of rural living standards).

It was decided that the Quebec Farmers' Association and Quebec Farm Radio Forum provincial officers would confer together in joint meetings until the Quebec Farmers' Association becomes stronger. It was also decided to work in closer contact with the U.C.C. (French farm organization) and meet together at least once a year.

Over 50 forums are in operation in the province and only a slight drop in membership is expected from last year. Fees are to be paid before December 15, and a member can join either the Quebec Farm Radio Forum or Quebec Farmers' Association, or both organizations, for the same fee of $5 per member. In this county the members pay $1.50 to the county secretary. Miss Margaret Brass, Lachute, the balance of the $5 being paid by the County Council.

Several committees were formed, with Ross Oswald to head a committee for publicity, and a committee was named to prepare a provincial topic for a forum meeting before Christmas.

The meeting was adjourned for lunch as guests of Macdonald College — the members assembling again after lunch. The provincial secretary, Leslie Young, and Ross Oswald, are to spend part of a day at the University of Vermont to get aquainted with their extension program, and part of a day at either the Vermont State or County Farm Bureau Office, to see what projects they were mostly concerned with.

With the next joint meeting date set for January 5 (preferably, or December 15 as an alternate date), the proceedings were adjourned.

Penalties for Motorists Trailing Fire Equipment Or Obstructing Operations of Fire Brigade

The above information is published in response to recent requests, with the recommendation that it be clipped and retained for future reference.

While re-printing these fire signals, The Watchman takes occasion to discourage the general surge of sightseers which accompanies most local fires, by curious citizens who follow in the wake of the fire trucks and manoeuvre their cars in such way as to hamper the laying of hose.

In this connection Lachute By-law 182 makes the following provisions which—according to Police-Fire Chief Fernand Trépanier —will in future be rigidly enforced. The penalty for infraction is a $40 fine plus costs, or one month in prison.

Section 37 —

When an authorized public aid vehicle in service gives by a bell, siren or a whistle, the signal of its approach, the driver of any other vehicles must immediately drive in as close as possible to the curb to his right; parallel to the curb outside any intersection, and must stop and stay stopped until the said vehicle is well passed, unless he has been notified to do otherwise by a police officer.

Section 39 —

It is prohibited to the conductor of any vehicle unless he is in official service, to follow at a distance less than three hundred feet (300) a vehicle of the fire department, answering an alarm or to drive or stop his vehicle in such a way as to obstruct or to incommodate traffic in any way, the traffic of the vehicles of the fire department, or the work of the men of this department.

Section 40 —

Unless authorized by the chief of the Police and Fire department or by his representative, it is forbidden for the driver of any vehicle to run such vehicle over a fire hose that is not protected.

Deal Involves Main St. Property

Through the firm of Gall & Jones, local real estate agents, the Bank of Nova Scotia is negotiating the sale of its present building, and it is expected the transaction will be completed shortly.

The construction of a fine new and modern building for the Bank of Nova Scotia is expected to start early next spring on the western half of their existing site.

The present building will be renovated by the purchasers, and will further add dignity to Lachute's fast-developing and busy Main Street.

B. Gosselin Next President Of Richelieu

Elected as vice-president was Dr. Charles Roy, dentist, while Jean-Guy Joanette, lawyer, is the new secretary, and Jean-Louis Blais the treasurer. Directors are Roger Martel, Fernand Berthiaume, Yvanhoe Chevrier and Dr. Roger Lavigne. The new board will take over at the first meeting in 1957.

At the assembly on Thursday, December 13, the Hon. Louis P. Cecile, Ontario Minister of Health and Welfare, will be guest speaker at the club.

Founded four years ago, the local group now has some 50 members, Mr. Gosselin being the fifth president. His predecessors were Roger Lagarde, Jean-Paul Roy, Dr. Roger Lavigne and Gustave Joannette, who is presently ending his term of office.

ONLY THREE TEAMS TO DATE IN QUEBEC-ONTARIO HOCKEY SET-UP

Hopes for Further Entries Before Schedule — Games to Commence December 9th

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — Despite numerous question marks, the Quebec-Ontario Hockey League will definitely open for business on December 9. On that date Alexandria will visit Brownsburg. These two teams, together with Hawkesbury, are the only teams to enter the league for this season.

President Ronald Hebert has worked hard to make it a four or six-team league, but efforts to induce Buckingham, Thurso and Gatineau to enter have failed. Rigaud and Maxville both signified their interest, but failed to show up at Tuesday's meeting. There is an outside chance that Vankleek Hill may be persuaded. It was decided to draft the league schedule on Tuesday, December 4, by which time it is hoped a three-team league will be avoided.

Brownsburg this year will have several new faces to replace Tomalty, Tremblay, Bouvrette, and a few others. One of the newcomers will be "Red" Charlebois of Hawkesbury, an entry which should heighten hostilities between that city and the 'Burg.

There is no word out of Hawkesbury as yet, other than that they expect a new hometown kid-line and few imports. Alexandria will use the stars of last year's Vankleek Hill team — Sinfield, Webster, Grant, etc. — with a few Valleyfield boys.

That's how it shapes up for 1956-57.

Lions Club Active At Buckingham

One hundred dollars was voted as the Buckingham Lions Club contribution to the Lions International Relief Fund for Hungarian refugees, at a meeting last Monday chaired by the second vice-president, Bob MacArthur (a former Lachute townsman).

A resolution was also passed at the meeting to outfit a needy Buckingham family of five children with school clothing. The Buckingham Santa Claus parade date was set for December 16.

THE WEEK AT OTTAWA

by the Canadian Press

By Roy LaBerge,

Ottawa, Nov. 27 (CP) — The first special session of Parliament since the 1950 railway strike and the Korean War, which opened Monday, was expected to last 10 days. It was called to vote funds for Canadian participation in the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East.

Even as the members assembled it was still not clear whether all the troops committed would ever reach Egypt. The bulk of the contingent, the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, was still in Halifax waiting orders for the aircraft carrier Magnificent to sail.

Some 700 Canadian army and air force personnel, however, were already at Naples or en route there, along with planes of the RCAF transport squadron 435, assigned to help fly the UN police force to Egypt. The government originally had planed to dispatch the batallion immediately aboard the Magnificent, but this plan was changed after Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, UN police force commander, asked that priority be given to provision of an RCAF transport squadron and army administrative troops.

External Affairs Minister Pearson said at New York last week that the sending of the transport squadron would not affect the eventual shipment of the battalion. He said he hoped his statement "will remove the impression that Canada has been turned down by Egypt."

EXTEND FARM SCHEME

Legislation is being drafted to extend Prairie farm rehabilitation benefits to all parts of Canada. It would provide federal help with approved projects for irrigation soil conservation, reclamation of land for farm use and resettling operators of sub-marginal lands.

Informants also said last week that federal officials are considering means of helping sub-marginal operators in the east to get out of agriculture and into more profitable industry.

However, no specific proposals have yet been drawn up on this latter form of help as officials await the report of the Gordon Economic Commission. An interim report is expected by the year-end from the commission which is preparing a quarter-century forecast of Canada's economic future.

Officials estimate that about one-quarter of the 400,000 farms in eastern Canada are sub-marginal, each yielding less than $1,200 worth of products annually for commercial sale. They say every county in eastern Canada — with exception

Auto Plunges Down Embankment

Four district youths, returning from St. Jerome around 11.30 Saturday evening, received minor injuries when their car left the highway, catapulting down the steep embankment and coming to a halt a short distance from the North River near St. Jerome.

Normand Dorion, owner and driver of the car, stated that he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming auto and failed to see the sharp turn immediately ahead of him. His car apparently went straight ahead, down the embankment and ended up close to the river, all occupants being thrown out as the doors flew open.

Dorion rounded up his passengers and called a taxi from St. Jerome, taking Denis Legault, Marcel St. Jacques and Rejean Levesque to the Hotel Dieu Hospital; Dorion himself was not injured. St. Jacques was released the following afternoon, while the remaining two were held for observation.

The 1948-model car was demolished.

Research Manager At Brownsburg C-I-L

Dr. J. M. Humphrys, recently named research manager of the ammunition division of Canadian Industries Limited, will be located at the company's ammunition plant at Brownsburg.

A native of Prince Albert, Sask., he was educated there, at the University of Saskatchewan and Rutgers University in New Jersey, obtaining his Bachelor and Master of Science degrees at Saskatchewan and his Ph.D. in Ceramics at Rutgers.

Dr. Humphrys joined Defence Industries Limited in 1940 as a ballistics engineer in the military explosives department and came to C-I-L at the end of the war in the operating department of the explosives division. In addition to his industrial experience, Dr. Humphrys was for four years professor of Ceramic Engineering at the University of Saskatchewan.

Dial Phone System Due Here Spring '58

Lachute will have dial telephone service in the spring of 1958 — R. R. Pearson, Bell Telephone manager here, announced yesterday.

A major engineering project, the conversion of Lachute's exchange to dial operation will require a many-sided construction program which must be fitted and synchronized to meet the cutover date, so that all local telephones may be switched over to dial operation within a matter of seconds, with virtually no interruption of service.

First step toward eventual changeover of the telephone system here has been the calling of tenders for the construction of a one-storey extension to the rear of the existing telephone exchange building on Water Street. Mr. Pearson said that construction of this extension will start within a few weeks and that it is expected to be completed late next summer. Skilled telephone technicians will then begin the installation of the complex dial switching equipment.

The new extension, which will have a frontage of 72 feet and a depth of 49 feet, will be of reinforced concrete with brick walls and stone trim. Initial capacity of the equipment will be 3,400 terminals, each representing a telephone number. This will allow the company to provide service to all persons who will have requested it and to meet demand for some time afterwards. "If there are any exceptions to this, it will be because of a lack of outside plant facilities, but those orders will be filled shortly after the cutover," the manager added.

With the changeover to dial, subscribers to be served by the Lachute exchange will get new telephone numbers and each telephone instrument will necessarily have to be equipped with a dial.

Introduction of the new service here will also require the overhauling and altering of the entire wire and cable network serving Lachute and the neighboring territory. Mr. Pearson said Bell Telephone construction crews will also be busy putting up telephone poles and installing many thousand feet of underground and aerial cable.

Following the conversion, all long distance, information and other special calls will be handled by operators in St. Jerome. Dislocation of the operating staff will be kept to a minimum, Mr. Pearson stated, by hiring any new operator between now and the conversion on the understanding that the employment may be temporary, by deferring retirements and by inviting operators who are contemplating leaving to stay on until after the cutover.

Elderly Woman Killed by Train At Montfort

A lifelong resident of Montfort Miss Jean Muirhead Reid, 77, was killed instantly Monday evening when she was hit by a CNR passenger train at the Montfort station.

Dr. Basil Robertson, of Morin Heights, was called to the scene and notified Det. Ralph Allen, who went to investigate the case. Det. Allen reports that the victim, a member of a well-known family of that area, was apparently standing on what she thought was the roadway crossing the CNR tracks immediately beside the station platform, whereas she was actually on the side of the track itself.

The railway track was covered with snow, which was still falling, and the highway plow had recently crossed the tracks, making their exact position obscure.

Struck by the buffer-beam on the side of the engine, the lady was thrown onto the platform and, according to Dr. Robertson, she died instantly. The victim is survived by two brothers, Walter, 70, and Archibald, 65, also a sister, Ann Reid, 75, and numerous other relatives.

Judgment Finds Ayersville Mayor Was Unqualified

Subsequent to Mayor Gaetan Paquette's resignation in the Municipality of Ayersville at a special meeting on November 7, judgment has been handed down by the Superior Court declaring Mr. Paquette was not legally qualified to fill this office, to which he was elected in May 1954.

The judgment, dated November 12, 1956, at St. Jerome, is a public document signed by George S. Challies, Judge of the Superior Court, and concludes with the following declaration:

"The Court . . . declares that the Respondent holds and exercises illegally the charge of Mayor of the Village of Ayersville, and excludes and dispossesses the said Respondent, Gaetan Paquette, of the said charge. The whole with costs against the Respondent."

Austin, Man. (CP) — C. A. Sears of Carberry, Man., took just 78 seconds to line up a steam engine and a threshing machine. He led 54 oldtimers who took part in the contest at the Manitoba agricultural museum's harvesters re-union held here.

BACK AGAIN FOR CHRISTMAS ORDERS

—Central Press Canadian

Old St. Nick is here again, taking orders from little boys and girls across Canada to fill their stockings at Christmas time. He'll have a busy time of it this year as there are more stockings to fill than ever before. But he has never failed yet, and once he has heard from every youngster—zip! He'll be off to the North Pole to pick up the toys and be on his way with Donner and Blitzen and all the other reindeer that pull his sleigh.

Highway Crash In Snowstorm East of Lachute

A 7-ton diesel automobile-transport, owned by Desrosiers Cartage and driven by Albert Lavoie, 51, of Ville St. Pierre, played piggy-back with a 1952 sedan on Monday near the four-corners on Route 8, east of Lachute — the car being lost from Lavoie's sight.

The Montreal bound auto-car met head-on with a 1952 sedan, owned by Laurent Delisle and driven by his son Jean Marie, 27, both of Montreal. The Delisle car slid under the higher vehicle, crashing into the front axle, then catching on fire. The burning car was pulled from under the diesel by a passing truck.

The accident occurred around 2.45 p.m. Monday during the heavy snowstorm, and the highway was extremely slippery at the time of the collision.

Delisle, driver of the car, and a passenger, Claude Prefontaine, 22, also of Montreal, were brought to the Providence Hospital, at Lachute, the latter being immediately transferred to St. Jerome by Dr. Roger Lavigne. Prefontaine is believed to have suffered a broken leg and a skull fracture, while the driver, who was treated locally suffered only minor cuts, bruises and shock.

Traffic Officers Albert Legault and Paul Perrier investigated.

Night Parking Prohibited On Town Thoroughfares

With another winter season in the offing, district car owners are once again reminded that parking will be prohibited on the streets of Lachute Town between the hours of midnight and 7 a.m., in order to facilitate snow removal operations.

Cars parked in the snow removal area will be ticketed and towed to a local garage at the owner's expense.

Dim your lights on the highways even if the other driver doesn't. You'll live longer. Safe-Driving Week — December 1 to 7.

Need Improvements In Farm Marketing

Improvement is needed in the marketing of farm products, Farm Forums in all provinces reported almost unanimously after their discussions on November 5.

Investment by farmers in the marketing process would improve the situation, the groups suggested, and they offered several ideas on methods of farmer investment.

In the Maritimes and Quebec the Farm Forums recommended investment in co-operative enterprises. Ontario Forums stressed the possibilities of investing through marketing boards by collecting levies on all farm products at time of sale. The Rockview Forum in Ontario stated: "We could invest in all commodities in much the same manner as the hog producers are doing — that is, by paying a few cents on each animal, bushel, or dozen."

In Manitoba according to the Shadeland Forum, "We should have more farmer-owned processing plants for dairy and poultry products." Forty-one Forums across Canada recommended investment in storage and packing plants.

On the negative side of the question, the Broderick Forum in Saskatchewan said, "Wheat farmers already have a heavy investment. What they need are markets." And in Quebec, from the Kingscroft Forum: "This group feels that farmers cannot afford to invest enough to control the whole processing and marketing of their products. Anything less than the whole would not be effective."

GUN HUNTING TOO EASY SAY BOW-AND-ARROW ENTHUSIASTS

—Central Press Canadian Photos

Hunting can be a safe pastime for the whole family when bows and arrows are the weapons. Would-be Robin Hoods, David 10, Philip, seven, and Ricky, five, join their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Craydon Hay, in search of deer plentiful on Manitoulin Island in Northern Ontario. Swarms of hunters converged on the island for Ontario's first open deer season for archers which was scheduled to last until Nov. 10. Donna McDonald, left, shows the kind of trophy the archers hope to bag. Enthusiasts say catching deer with an arrow is tougher than with a bullet. Animals must be carefully and silently stalked until they are within arrow range —30 to 40 yards.

The Shadow of Death

By Lewis Milligan

Viewing the world from a hospital bed has been my experience for the last six weeks and, although for the most part it was a painful ordeal, it had its advantages in that one could survey the scene from a detached point of view. In the first place, when I found myself being wheeled on a bed into the operating room, fully conscious of the possibility of not emerging from the process alive, I was utterly detached from and unconcerned about the disturbed condition of the world outside. The Suez Canal crisis faded into insignificance, and the prospect of a third world war with its threat of atomic doom did not trouble me in the least. Closing my eyes to the ghostly masked figures around me, I silently recited the passage of the 23rd Psalm, "Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me."

When I emerged from that valley I realized what that Psalmist meant when he called it "the shadow of death." He was not referring so much to death itself but rather to the threat and the fear of death That has a specific application to the world at the present time, when the shadow of a third world war with its foreboding of universal death looms over mankind. Reading the news from day to day in my hospital bed, the shadow seemed to deepen and the world appeared to be moving helplessly into an operating room — the Middle East. The operation has already entailed the loss of blood. Whether it has been successful will depend upon the orderlies and nurses of the United Nations who have now taken over with blood transfusions and sedatives to bring about a peaceful recovery. And all the people will say AMEN.

of southwestern Ontario — contains some sub-marginal land, but that they would not like to pinpoint specific areas. The resultant publicity might affect land values and make it difficult for farmers to dispose of their properties.

Prime Minister St. Laurent emphasized the need for getting some of the eastern sub-marginal operators out of agriculture in a speech to the Catholic Social Life Conference in Toronto November 20. He said he was convinced some of the lands "should go back to forest and water conservation uses and those attempting to live on them resettled in more rewarding surroundings."

It was "deplorable" that backbreaking work should be continued "when it is so obvious that it cannot yield a decent family livelihood to those who engage in that work."

Share With Provinces

Informants said the new rehabilitation legislation was not yet ready for cabinet consideration but might be completed in time for the next regular session of Parliament, expected to open in mid-January.

As drafted, it would commit the federal administration to split with the provinces the cost of approved projects. There remained the question whether cabinet will accept the recommendations.

Opposition parties have for years urged the government to extend federal aid under the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act to other segments of the country. As currently contemplated, there would be a distinction betwen federal aid for the west under the PFRA aid that extended to other regions under the new legislation. But the distinction may be gradually lessened over the years and all federal aid enveloped in one bill.

BRITISH OIL SHORTAGES

Prime Minister St. Laurent is reported to have said that Britain's oil crisis may effect the future flow of goods from the United Kingdom to Canada.

A spokesman for the Canadian Chamber of Commerce says the prime minister told the 19-member chamber delegation that the government had hoped for an increased flow of imports from Britain, but that the increase likely would not be as rapid as expected because of oil shortages in Britain resulting from disruption of Middle East supplies.

The delegation presented the chamber's annual submission to cabinet members at a private meeting November 21. The chamber represents more than 750 boards of trade and chambers of commerce across the country.

The brief criticized federal proposals for a hospital insurance program, claiming it would lead to "compulsory health insurance of a comprehensive nature and to state medicine." It added that "so-called free health services" would bring vastly increased demands for such services.

It said 6,500,000 Canadians already are covered by voluntary hospital insurance plans. Such plans should be helped by employers.

INTERNATIONAL RIVERS

Sharing of benefits from rivers crossing the international boundary will be discussed by Canadian and United States authorities at meetings expected to begin about March 1.

In the talks — which will likely stretch out for many months — the countries will bargain over the vast resources of electricity from streams flowing both ways across the border.

One of the main considerations will be a potential of 25,000,000 horsepower from the Columbia River which rushes down from British Columbia into the United States. B.C. Premier Bennett was in the capital last week discussing Columbia development with Resources Minister Lesage.

Another power plum is the St. John River system which rises deep in the U.S. and spills into the Atlantic from southern New Brunswick. The N.B. government has a major power development in progress on the St. John.

Near Disaster on St. Lawrence River

Quebec (CP) — A near disaster was averted on the St. Lawrence River this week when the crew of the 2,963-ton German freighter Wolfgang Russ ran the vessel aground before she could sink after a mid-channel collison. The ship's forward hold quickly filled with water last Monday after she collided with the Cunard cargo-carrier Asia, 8,273 tons, near the Village of St. Laurent, on the south shore of the Island of Orleans, 10 miles downstream from Quebec.

During the week-end three tugs pulled the Russ from her rocky perch and towed her to drydock in the nearby shipbuilding centre of Lauzon. Salvage crews and the crew of the German carrier worked night and day during the week to remove enough cargo for the grounded ship to be refloated.

The Cunarder's bow punched a gaping hole in the hull of the Wolfgang Russ just forward of her bridge. Her crew, able to use the ship's engines — in an aft compartment sealed off after the crash — ran the ship aground just off the island shore. No injuries were reported aboard either vessel.

Tugs rushed from Quebec harbor and towed the Asia, her bow plates ripped open by the collision, back to Quebec. A pair of tugs stayed to help hold her in position against the fast-moving current and the tides.

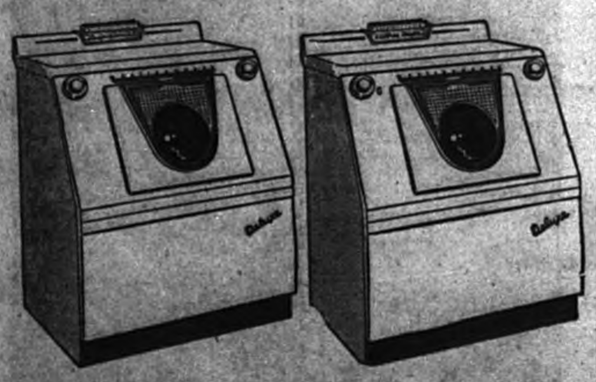

A salvage expert said there was "three weeks' work" to be done before the Russ would be fit for sea again. The Asia, after unloading part of her cargo in Quebec, was also in drydock in Lauzon undergoing repairs to her bow. It was hoped both ships will be repaired in time to clear the yards before the navigation season closes for the winter, in about a month.

Key Yourself to the Consciousness of Safety; National Safe Driving Week – December 1-7

Safety Starts in A State of Mind

SATURDAY will be the opening of Canada's National "Safe-Driving Week" — to which Mayor Dr. F. W. FitzGerald, in co-operation with the Federal and Provincial officials, has requested this newspaper to give special reference.

Canadians, both motorists and pedestrians, are being asked to work individually during this week to eliminate or drastically reduce traffic accidents. The Canadian Highway Safety Conference, sponsor of Safe-Driving Week, has the support and co-operation of Prime Minister St. Laurent, the Premiers of all provinces, and many corporations, industries and associations in this effort to cut highway accidents to the absolute minimum.

"Highway hazards and human nature", says the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, "will always be with us, so complete elimination of traffic accidents will be a little too much to expect. But with every Canadian, acting on his own, working with us, it is possible to slice the number of traffic fatalities in half." If Canadians will avoid accidents for a week, then repeat that pattern in the months to come, "Safe-Driving Week," December 1 to 7, would be a success.

Urging Canadians to take every precaution in driving and walking on highways, Prime Minister St. Laurent said, "The mounting number of injuries to Canadians and the increasing toll of Canadian lives through accidents on the highways and streets, make it essential to enlist the co-operation of every citizen in this country to improve driving safety."

Hon. Antoine Rivard, Minister of Transport and Communication for the Province of Quebec, who is chairman of the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, gives earnest emphasis to the appeal.

The Watchman, gravely conscious of the misdemeanors and indiscretions on our district highways, urges all drivers to accept this observance as a personal plea, and to act as if their life depended on it. . . IT DOES!

Graduates Wanted

AT PRACTICALLY every conference of business and professional people these days, important discussions centre around the shortage of graduates from Canadian universities. Recruiting teams from scores of Canadian firms, even at this early date, are visiting the campuses across the country trying to interest final year students into signing up with their particular companies. Attractive starting salaries and other enticing inducements are being offered.

In 1956 there were 1,700 engineers enrolled at Canadian universities with job opportunities for around 4,000 graduates. A critical situation was prevented, fortunately, by the influx during recent years of approximately 1,000 professional engineers per year by immigration. In pure Science there is a crying need for chemists, physicists and mathematicians.

Graduates in Agriculture are hardly keeping up with increased opportunities. Much expansion has occurred in programs of government departments of agriculture. Industry is making increased use of agricultural graduates. The Agricultural Institute of Canada feels that this situation could lead to a serious staff replacement problem in the future.

The solution to this problem does not lie with any single individual or group. It should be of vital concern to all governments, educational institutions, teachers, vocational guidance counsellors, parents and the students themselves. It is a challenge that should not go unanswered for too long.

Health Insurance

PRIVATE health insurance plans have increased their enrolment by 13 per cent during the past year.

A study carried out jointly by the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association and the All Canada Insurance Federation estimated that last year 6,699,000 Canadians were covered by hospital insurance.

According to the study, 5,872,000 persons had insurance against surgical expenses. In addition, 4,705,000 Canadians had medical insurance.

The study's figures did not cover various provincial government hospitalization plans which now cover about 3,000,000 Canadians.

Ontario led all provinces in respect to proportion of population insured. Last year, 71 per cent of the province's residents were insured against hospital expenses. This represented an increase of more than 16 per cent during the past five years, according to the study.

Manitoba was next with 52 per cent of its residents covered by private hospital insurance.

Let's Remedy This!

THE SITUATION in Lachute's hotels and grills — according to reports — is as bad or worse than in other communities. It is not unusual to enter a local grill and find at least half of the patrons are juveniles, and some of them considerably under age.

Largest part of the blame, of course, is on the parents for not keeping a closer eye on their under-age "grown-ups". Along with the parents, the community must also accept responsibility for not having a proper social club or meeting place for our youth to gather and enjoy themselves.

The presence of juveniles on licensed premises is not a new problem, nor is it particular to any one hotel. In the ultimate, part of the blame rests with our provincial statutes which make it possible for this practice to be tolerated — for there appears to be no obligation upon hotel owners to check on the ages of their more youthful-looking customers.

The Quebec Liquor Police and the local council and police department are also to blame in some measure. It is primarily in the jurisdiction of the Liquor Police to keep tab on this abuse, but there is a local by-law governing the situation, and all Council has to do is demand that the police department enforce it.

In some other sections of the country, also in the United States, printed notices are posted in drinking parlors, advising habitués that they must carry certificates of age and be able to produce them when called upon to do so. This puts the onus squarely on the proprietor to check on his patrons at all times.

There is ground for argument whether these younger citizens should be banned from the grills, until there is some more suitable place for them to dance; but when teen-agers may be seen at these hang-outs in a state of complete drunkenness, the time has surely come for something to be done about it! If the provincial authorities cannot enforce the law, then let us see the local police authorized to do the job with a free hand.

A Business Man Speaks

BUSINESS MEN must learn to trust, respect and co-operate with the press as an initial step in developing good community relations — said Ira G. Needles, president of B. F. Goodrich Canada Limited, addressing the annual meeting of the Stratford Chamber of Commerce last week.

Newspapers, radio and TV are the nerve-centres of community thought and are entitled to the support of business and community leaders, in the opinion of this executive. "The press is determined to present both sides of any situation with complete objectivity in the news columns, but far too often spokesmen retreat behind that deplorable reply of 'no comment'. It seems that many are reluctant to recognize that the reporter is seeking the truth, wants to tell the story to the public, and must depend upon us to help him."

It is refreshing to read, in the remarks of this business man, a conception too often lacking in the business psychology. . . Mr. Needles cautioned against confusing advertising with news. "The sales story belongs in the advertising column, but any news story is treated on the basis of its news value." . . . Public relations (it seems from the newspaper's viewpoint) is too frequently translated into sales propaganda. The editor's waste paper basket overflows with evidence of this misconception. Any P.R. representatives still misguided on this point might profitably learn what makes a newspaper click; free publicity never contributed to the solvency of the press, that's sure.

But, continuing this speaker's remarks to the business fraternity — Mr. Needles, in conclusion, praised the strong personal desire to serve as the vital element to the community. Participation in Chamber of Commerce work and other service functions in a community depended upon a high sense of personal responsibility and faith, he said; and encouraging people to offer their services for political office, and to become active in service projects is an important factor in community success.

PLUG FOR DAIRYMAN. — If the nutrients in milk were to be purchased at the current rates of beef rib roast or pork tenderloin, we are informed that a quart of milk would cost almost 50 cents! Here's how it breaks down: protein — 45.6 cents; fat — 2.4 cents; carbohydrates — 1.4 cents. Total — 49.6 cents. The average price of milk to the consumer across Canada is about 21 cents a quart.

"Merci beaucoup"

For years, my friends the Harrisons have lived in their enchanting home on Highway 7, just outside St. Johns, Que. A letter received yesterday, however, tells me that they are on the move in the very near future. Seems the insurance companies are fed up with paying them damages and they are fearful, too, that one or other of their children may be seriously injured or killed if they remain where they are.

Their trouble? Well, they have the misfortune to ocupy a home that sits smack on a hairpin turn, with the inevitable result that they are called upon once or twice each year to entertain some moronic motorist, cum vehicle, who has missed the turn. It has happened no less than six times in the past four years, luckily without fatal results to either the drivers or the Harrisons. But there is a limit to human endurance. Peter and Betty have now reached that limit.

"It's more than one can stand," Betty opined in the letter. "Granted, we use the dining room more than the living room and these wild drivers always manage to bring their vehicles to a halt after they've burst through the wall into the living room. Still, I'm fed up with worry about the problem, and I'd like to own one living-room set for more than six months just for a change."

The plight of the Harrisons reminds me of a French farm family that fell afoul of the Canadian Tank Corps during the 1939-45 war. I can't remember the family's name now nor can I tell you where their home was located. Suffice it to say they, too, occupied a home right on the edge of a sharp turn in a narrow French road. And, to make matters worse, the turn lay at the bottom of an extremely steep hill.

As the Germans retreated back to the Fatherland, the Allies raced after them. The little road of our story, therefore, became an important artery for the movement of British and Canadian troops. For days on end, trucks, Bren carriers, self-propelled guns, gun tractors and the like roared down the hill without incident. Tanks, also, crunched their way down the hill and navigated the turn without any trouble. And, in due course, the war entirely left the area to embrace new lands and peoples further to the east.

One bright day, however, a regiment of tanks that sat at rest behind the lines was ordered forward. Along the road they clattered and rumbled down the hill. All but one made the turn and it, with tillers bars jammed and brakes gone, careened down the hill, over the ditch at the turn, to ram itself deep in the farmhouse.

When the smoke and rubble cleared away, the tank commander gingerly opened the hatch and poked his head into the light. When the iron monster went out of control, he had mumbled a hurried prayer that all might be well. He didn't really believe his prayer would be heard at such short notice, however, and expected to find that he had killed off all the occupants of the house in his wild flight.

His relief knew no bounds when he discovered that the front of his tank had penetrated about six feet inside the farm kitchen and lay a scant yard from the large table where the family sat at supper. The farmer and his family were a bit dusty; their meagre meal was ruined, but, wonder of wonders, nobody seemed to be hurt.

The major climbed out of his tank while the farmer rose from his chair. Saluting smartly and addresing the family in his best French, the major began to apologize. Holding up his hand for silence, the farmer beamed upon the tank commander.

"Don't apologize, monsieur. Indeed, accept our sincere thanks!"

"Thanks?"

"But yes! Thanks by all means. If that had been a German tank it would have gone right through our home and killed us all. But you are a Canadian. You are a gentleman. You monsieur, you stop in the kitchen. Merci, monsieur! Merci beaucoup!"

HISTORIC FORTRESS BY-PRODUCT OF SUEZ

Halifax (CP) — Early British revenue from the Suez Canal helped to build Fort McNab, a familiar landmark here, in 1888. The fortress on an island at the mouth of Halifax harbor cost an estimated $24,000. It was paid for by profits from Britain's share in the canal.

The island, first called Cornwallis and later McNab's, was first fortified in 1814. Later Fort McNab was built around a cemetery at the top of one of the little island's hills. One historian called it "probably one of the world's best-guarded cemeteries."

The fort, with a commanding view of the harbor approaches, took five years to build. During the two world wars the long-vacated fortress was again put to use, when submarine nets and minefields were laid off the island's shores to protect Halifax harbor.

OF MANY THINGS

By Ambrose Hills

Public Ownership

The term "public ownership" begins to worry me. I agree there are some community activities which are legitimate functions of governments: but I'm afraid that the few legitimate ones are used as an excuse to make "public ownership" a popular term. In reality, it would not take very much more "public ownership" to create a socialist state in Canada.

Socialism, as preached by politicians, I consider to be immoral. Sincere as socialist advocates may be, and as honest and righteous as they no doubt are as individuals, their overall concept seems to involve a sort of legalized thievery.

In England, I see that the Socialist Party now proposes, if it regains power, to expropriate all rent-controlled houses and flats and take them into public ownership. They propose that in most cases local "authorities" will become the largest and in some cases possibly the only landlords. Anyone interested in this socialist proposal may read it in "Houses of the Future," their own pamphlet.

How innocous that phrase "take into public ownership" can be made to appear! Used often enough, it begins to sound respectable. In reality, it means that some six million privately-owned homes will be expropriated. One wonders whether the term "expropriated" will not some day become a euphonism to replace "stolen".

Public ownership began sensibly enough, when it was generally agreed that certain activities such as delivering the mail, could be handled most efficiently by the state. In later years, howere, the idea has been used as a sort of Robin Hood method of stealing from the rich to give to the poor. A more modern concept seems to be that it is a useful thing to steal from everyone and give to everyone — rich or poor.

Perhaps there is some truth in the idea that such activity can make a government popular. If I can secretly pick your pocket, and then openly present you with half the loot (without you realizing where the loot came from in the beginning), you are likely to think me a fine fellow. If I can steal from 35 men and give to 50 men, I can probably be sure of a majority to support me.

Nevertheless, popular as I might become, I would still find it difficult to explain to my children that it is bad to steal from Neighbor Jones, who is a poor man, but quite all right to steal from Neighbor Brown, who has a fortune.

I will, therefore, continue to be suspicious of the term "public ownership," and hope that other Canadians will feel the same way. I'm not fond of landlords, but I'd prefer to deal with a private one who built the home, than with a "public" one who had seized it.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

In the war before last, I am told, they banned music by German composers. They smashed the windows of delicatessen stores, and garrotted the proprietors with strings of their own sausages — then learned too late that the victims were Swiss and not German after all.

I don't think they plumbed the same depths of childish spite on the home front during the 1939-45 affair. I haven't heard of anyone refusing to eat Italian prunes, or uprooting Japanese cherry trees from the garden.

The "cold war" has since produced some unconscious humor that rivals anything from 1914-18. Take, for instance, the case of the subversive trombones.

Down in East Meadow, New York, seven trumpets and trombones were brought up for a loyalty hearing. They were instruments from Communist East Germany, purchased for the school band because the supplier recommended them as "the best-playing low-priced instruments we have."

School authorities demanded that they be replaced by non-Communist horns; then blushed when they learned that the import had been approved by the government.

The last I heard, the school authorities were still pondering whether the young trumpeters of East Meadow should be allowed to blow their blue notes on Red horns.

You might expect defenders of the American way of life to buy those Bolshevik trumpets eagerly, because every horn exported means that much less brass for the buttons of the Red Army, and that much more chance that a Red soldier will have to walk around with his tunic unfastened, and get his Adam's apple frozen.

If only the Russians would beat all their shell cases into trombones, the world would be a happier place. But the export of Red instruments may be a cunning trick to demoralize the householders of East Meadow, who will have to listen to the musicians practising.

Discounting the possible hazards, however, I think we can take the risk of trading freely in musical instruments across the Iron Curtain. It may do more good than harm. Suppose the Communists can make a better trombone and sell it to the West. Maybe we can sell them a better nose-flute, or balalaikas, or glockenspiels. Or if we want to get nasty we can send them a shipment of bagpipes. But we should try peaceful methods first.

Beet Pulp is a good feed, as far as it goes, but BULKY LAS is a much better one. Let us tell you how it is better. . .

Bulky Las contains some Beet Pulp and is nearly as big a bag as Beet Pulp.

Bulky Las has more proteins and more variety in proteins or amino acids, which gives you a more balanced protein content.

Bulky Las is high in minerals. Minerals are a necessity for either growth or milk making. Beet Pulp has next to none.

Bulky Las is a flesh builder and does not have to be soaked.

Cows love Bulky Las and will eat it when they will refuse all other feeds, and for cows off-feed it is a Must.

Bulky Las, like all the rest of our chows, is micro-mixed to ensure every mouthful being the same as the one before or after.

Bulky Las is cooling, and is a big help in Mastitis cases to lower the inflamation.

Why use Beet Pulp when you can get all these advantages for about the same price in Bulky Las? . . . Won't you give us an order and try it out for yourself. Write, phone or ask — we deliver!

ALBERTA STATION NERVE CENTRE OF CANADA'S AIR DEFENCE

—Central Press Canadian

Principal station of the RCAF Air Defence command is the $200,000,000 installation at Cold Lake, Alta., and there most of the activity and interest centres around the all-weather aircraft, the CF-100. The station cost $40,000,000 to build and the rest of the value is tied up in the CF-100's and other equipment, including radar devices that can track and record the flight of supersonic missiles. The plane, developed for Canadian defence, is proving its worth as an all-weather fighter and from the testing that is going on at Cold Lake, improvements will be made. At the moment of releasing its rockets, shown here, the CF-100's pilot can hear only a hissing sound, but outside there's a sound like a thunderclap

Montreal (CP) — A motorist was driving across the Jacques Cartier bridge here on a sunny Sunday afternoon when his wife said: "Look at that lovely ship."

He did — and plowed into the rear of the car ahead of him. It took police half-an-hour to straighten out the traffic jam.

Harbor police say accidents and traffic jams are frequent on the two-mile bridge because motorists can't take their eyes off the vessels sailing on the St. Lawrence below. On peak week-ends more than 135,000 vehicles use the bridge, and as many as 400 may be towed off. Flat tires or empty gas tanks are a common cause, but police say the most frequent explanation is that motorists aren't watching traffic.

The National Harbor Board, which owns and operates the bridge, employs a south-shore garage station owner to haul away disabled cars at no cost to drivers.

Every Member Canvass Successfully Concluded At Brownsburg United

Brownsburg — The past two weeks at Brownsburg United Church have been exciting and stirring ones. Through the effort of a great many workers, and with the full support of the congregation, the "Every Member Canvass" has been successfully concluded.

While the final results are not yet known, the campaign has fully reached its financial objective.

Many churches in this area have watched with interest the spiritual and financial approach of this new plan. An increasing number of churches across Canada are attempting similar programs.

A definite proposal of work to be done in Brownsburg United Church will be submitted shortly to the congregation for their approval.

Ministerial Association

The Argenteuil Protestant Ministerial Association will meet in the Lachute United Church hall on December 3 at 10 a.m. The Rev. C. W. Sorley will be the speaker. All ministers are invited to attend.

Lachute United Church Celebrates 135 Years Of Christian Witness

Large congregations gathered in Lachute United Church last Sunday to give thanks for 135 years of Christian witness in Lachute and the surrounding district.

Special features of the services were the hearty singing, and anthems by the Senior and Junior Choirs, under the direction of Wayne Riddell, organist and choir director.

The Senior Choir rendered two anthems at the morning service, "Rejoice in the Lord Always" by Purcell, and "Love of the Father" by Bancroft. The evening service began with the Processional hymn, "Rejoice, the Lord is King", and concluded with "He liveth long who liveth well" as the Recessional. Singing was led by the Junior Choir, winners of the Karn Shield, who also gave most effective renderings of "With a Voice of Singing", and "At the Name of Jesus."

At the morning service, the Rev. Wilson Bridge, minister of the church, spoke on the need for "re-opening the old wells." He went on to say that the Old Testament story of Isaac reopening the wells was a parable of the religious situation in Canada today. Many of the old wells from which our forefathers had drawn life-giving water had become choked and had been abandoned. There was need to re-open the well of Bible Reading, the well of Divine Worship, and the well of the Christian Faith. There were too few people in all the churches who knew what they believed. The time had come when they should be able to give a reason for the faith that was in them. Many of the contemporary ills that afflicted our national life could be traced to the religion of secularism. It was the church, with her Christian teaching and her public worship of God, which kept open the communication lines to God — that was why the church was so important.

Inspiring Messages at Bryan Green Mission

It was estimated that about 30,000 persons had attended the mission services of Canon Bryan Green in Montreal at the end of the first week, November 24, a mission official reported.

The mission opened with a giant Service of Witness in the Montreal Forum on Sunday night, November 18, when some 145 Protestant churches transferred their evening services to the Forum and 15,000 persons packed the building to hear Canon Green's inspiring message.

Every evening since, there have been well-attended nightly services in Christ Church Cathedral and St. James United Church, which are connected by direct wire. Following the service, which ends at about 9.30 p.m., there is a period of instruction and counselling and the missioners have found that these periods have become increasingly popular, with their advice in great demand.

On Sunday, November 25, there were two church services held for the convenience of the public, one at 4 p.m. and the second at 8 p.m. This will also be done on Sunday, December 2. Each service will be preceded by a half hour of hymn singing and a question-and-answer session.

A great deal of interest is being displayed in the two book stalls at the rear of the two churches in which the mission services take place. These stalls contain books of a religious character particularly suitable for young people.

People from sections outside Montreal proper are warmly invited to attend the mission services, and a block of seats is reserved until 7.45 p.m. each evening for organized groups which come from over 25 miles distance.

Canon Green, who is Rector of Birmingham, England, and one of the world's great evangelists, is the main speaker at the services. In a statement this week, he urged all members of the public, and particularly young people, to attend as many mission services as possible. The object of the mission is "to know Christ and make Him known."

Canon Green stressed that there was accommodation for everyone and no one would be turned away.

In addition to the nightly services, Canon Green has visited about 15 high schools and private schools in Montreal. The mission ends on December 4.

More than 60 different metals and minerals are now produced by the Canadian mining industry.

75 YEARS AGO

December 2, 1881 —

At a meeting of the Lachute Caledonia Club, held in Lachute last Tuesday evening, it was decided to hold the annual dinner on St. Andrew's Day.

We are informed by G. J. Walker, Esq., secretary-treasurer of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, that on Tuesday last he received the government grant and is now prepared to pay all premiums awarded by the Society during the present season.

Miss Catherine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McPhail, of this place, while in the act of stooping near a cupboard, received a severe contusion on her head from a falling timber. Miss McPhail is still suffering acutely from the wound.

Mr. Gilman, representing the Liberal party, held his first meeting in Lakefield last Friday and addressed about a dozen electors, some boys and a few ladies. His speech was without force, point or enthusiasm. The meeting was also addressed by Messrs. Ireland and Bampton, whose addresses were enthusiastically received by the audience, most of whom were in favor of Mr. Owens. Mr. Bampton urged the electors to send Mr. Gilman not to the Quebec Legislature, but to a place in the rear of this county known as the Trembling Mountain. . . . Mr. Gilman tried to claim that he was as much a County-man as Mr. Abbott or Mr. Owens. It is well-known that Mr. Abbott was born, educated, lived in and practised law in the County, while the attempt to make out that Mr. Owens is not a County-man is as far-fetched an argument as Mr. Gilman is a far-fetched candidate whose speech betrays him to be a Yankee.

November 30, 1906 —

Mr. Thomas Barron has been confined to the house for the past few days with a badly bruised face, the result of a nasty kick from his horse.

Dr. A. W. Stackhouse was in Ottawa attending the annual meeting of the L.O.H.A., of which he was appointed vice-president.

Calumet — The Perley Mills closed last week and the men are scattering for the lumber camps.

Calumet — John Prophet, who was accidentally shot by his companion George Moore, is on a fair way to recovery; he was shot in the muscle of the leg.

Once again, the good old Canadian winter has dawned upon us, and on Monday, nature again provided the earth with her soft white mantle of snow.

25 YEARS AGO

November 27, 1931 —

Unusual fine weather has been a boon to the coal-bin and will help to shorten our long winter.

An adjourned meeting of the Lachute Town Council was held Tuesday evening last, to hear the report of a referendum taken as to whether ratepayers were in favor of using the sum of $24,000, which the town were authorized to spend on public works to relieve the unemployment situation. . . . The vote was an open one and although the poll stood 128 to 127 for proceeding with the work, the total of valuation was against executing the work at present, and the large number of men assembled in anticipation of getting busy rather than looking for extension of charity, were again subjected to disappointment.

Lively Interchange On Education Grants

THIS WEEK IN QUEBEC
By Tom Mitchell

Quebec (CP) — In the provincial legislature, Premier Duplessis reaffirmed his government's disapproval of federal aid to universities and announced provincial grants to such institutions will be substantially increased.

The Premier also said he is ready to discuss provincial university demands for regular annual grants instead of discretionary grants.

Mr. Duplessis termed Prime Minister St. Laurent's proposal to double the amount of federal aid to universities — to $16,000,000 from $8,000,000 — and to have the National Conference of Canadian Universities distribute the funds, part of a "general offensive" by the federal government on the exclusive tax rights of the provinces in matters of education.

René Hamel, Liberal member for St. Maurice, acting as Opposition leader for Georges Lapalme, convalescing after an operation, said the provincial government should let the universities decide for themselves whether they should accept or reject the grants. Federal aid was accepted in the province during the 1951-52 school term but has been rejected since at the request of the premier.

If the Quebec government was certain the grants would be unconstitutional, he said, it should take the matter before the courts for final ruling.

Richard Hyde, Liberal member for Westmount - St. George, said the discretionary system of handling grants means that public funds are distributed at the "sole pleasure and discretion of the Union Nationale." A system of statutory grants would establish uniform standards, he said.

Isaak Hunter Makes Affectionate Reference To Local Hound-Dog

Izaak Hunter's "With Rod and Gun" column in Tuesday's issue of The Montreal Gazette paid fitting tribute to "Old Mac", a sturdy little beagle hound to whom readers of his column have seen many a reference and who, according to the writer, "was the possessor of the finest hunting voice of any hound I've ever heard."

The beagle's history was given from his days as a pup until he was given to Lucien Van den Abeeles, of Cote de Liese, and much was made of the close companionship between the dog and the well-known columnist. Part of his column reads as follows:

"When I say Mac and I were well met I mean we were both fairly old, both fat and somewhat lacking in staying power. That voice attracted me to the little fat dog. He knew I liked him and often Mac and I have sat with tongues lolling, resting while other hounds sought to start a hare. He knew that he was more apt to get a piece of a sandwich rather than a kick in the pants when he came to me. Once there was a true tongue from the pack, Mac would give me a last look and be off, and presently his masculine bugle notes would be filling the bush. And I faithfully kept his secret. Many a pleasant hunt we had.

So it was a few weeks ago when Lucien took six hounds out to a swamp near St. Philippe. They had been assured that there were hares there and that it wasn't deer country. When they got there they noted that there was another pack of beagles from St. Hermas running. There were a lot of hunters around, some of them with rifles and indeed it loked like deer country as well it might as it is getting near to Montebello.

They were assured by natives that hounds run there regularly, so they released their pack. In mid-afternoon three of their hounds came in, but Mac, Annie and a young female did not put in an appearance.

The hunters went through the usual process of trying to find them and get them in, but to no avail. Finally they extended their search from farm to farm. One man they met said he had met a farmer's son who had declared he was going to shoot any dog he saw. Some shots were heard; no trace of the hounds could be found. Advertisements were placed in Lachute newspapers and several fruitless visits were made to the locality.

Lucien, of course, is left only to believe that all three hounds were shot. And there's nothing to do about it, for the law says any dog running at large in areas frequented by deer may be shot by anyone. It may be legal, but it isn't human. My thought about the guy who killed my old friend would not bear repeating here. Not only the Van Hove family and Lucien Van den Abelle join me in mourning old Mac — he had run for many hunters, none of whom will ever forget him.

Poor Old Mac. I hope there are many swamps full of rabbits and an occasional old fat guy to share a sandwich with him where he's gone.

Hockey Strategist

By Jim Bastable
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Philippe Henri Watson is a hockey man with all sorts of gimmicks. Most deal with figures.

Watson, known around the National Hockey League as fiery Phil, is coach of New York Rangers. Ever since he assumed control of things behind the New York bench last season Phil has produced mathematical solutions to any scoring problem his team might run into.

Many hockey experts scoffed at his production figures handed down to Ranger players last season. He demanded, not asked, 204 goals. He got exactly what he wanted. He said the opposition should not score more than 185 goals against his club. The final figure was 203 — not bad.

Last year the Blueshirts, not used to such edicts but heeding Watson's orders under threat of demotion, ended in third place behind Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings. That was the best the New Yorkers had finished in 14 years.

Watson may have seemed slightly whacky over arithmetic but he got results.

More Figures

At the beginning of the current season Watson came up with more figures to get Rangers among the league leaders.

He reasoned that his offence had improved to such an extent that he wanted 235 goals, or 13 more than Canadiens scored when they ran away with the league laurels last season. Each player was told he was expected to score a certain amount of goals.

Defensively, Watson wanted no more than 185 goals. Things haven't worked out too well so far. Rangers, in fifth place, recently went into a tailspin, losing six straight engagements.

So, Watson — the next best thing to an adding machine — started counting bodychecks thrown by his men. Rangers, he says, play better hockey when they toss some weight around. "My chart shows that we play our best hockey when we hit. Even the players know it now."

Rangers, showing a little more zip and thumping lustily, didn't win the following four games after the six setbacks. But they tied them all.

Phil, 42-year-old native of Montreal who was a centre with Rangers for 12 seasons and with Canadiens for one year, doesn't stop at the science of numbers when he's unhappy with the club's performance. He thinks nothing of publicly blasting his men. Players who don't improve are kicked off the team.

You'd think all this strategy — or psychology — would not sit well with Ranger players. But Watson has a way of commanding respect.

Phil also believes in the old saying that players don't have to like their coach to win games. Sometimes it's better if they don't. Adds Watson: "After all, they're getting paid to do a job."

Brownsburg School In Basketball Games

By Glenrose Hazel

Scorers for the 'Burg were Ruth Dixon 18, Shirley Dixon 11, Helen Mason 8, Judy Donaldson 7, Nancy Freeland 4, Marlene Hebert 2, and Judy Dixon 2.

The second contest was between the Junior boys, with a score of 30-19, again in favor of Brownsburg.

Scorers for Brownsburg were Paul Villard 10, Gary Keatley 8, Everett Clausen 4, Garth Hazel 2, Ken McGibbon 2, and Ken Tomalty 2.

Scorers for Lachute were Del MacTavish 8, Jack Lavis 6, Wayne Laurin 4 and Doug McKenzie 1.

Referees for these games were Keith Hazel and Billy Cribb.

On Saturday, Brownsburg journeyed to St. Eustache, where the score in the Junior girls' game was 28-21 in favor of Brownsburg.

Local scorers were Ruth Dixon 16, Nancy Freeland 5, Shirley Dixon 5 and Helen Mason 2.

Scorers for St. Eustache were S. Stephen 13, A. Johnson 5 and D. May 3.

Basketball

Last Friday evening two basketball squads, Junior girls and boys, visited Brownsburg. Although both L.H.S. teams were defeated, these exhibition games nevertheless served as excellent practice for both groups.

The final score of the girls' engagement was 52-16 with the Three Star selection going to Marilyn Underhill, Lois Silverson and Joan Girling.

The boys' encounter was much faster and more exciting, Brownsburg holding an 8-point lead in the last period to make the final tally 28-20. Jack Lavis was given credit for the first star, while Del MacTavish and Robert Silverson were second and third, respectively.

Saturday morning, Lachute played host to three visiting teams from Grenville — Junior girls, Junior boys and Senior boys.

The first to play were the Senior boys. The locals held the lead throughout the four quarters. At half-time the home team was leading 35-23, and by the final whistle they had chalked up a score of 62-35.

Wayne Bradford was high scorer with 25 points, followed by Arthur Gauley 17, David Bates 12, Ken Underhill 4, while Reg Stansfield and Bruce Cairns each scored 2.

First star of the game went to David Bates, while Wayne Bradford and Arthur Gauley tied for second and Bruce Cairns third.

The second game was between the Junior boys' teams; here L.H.S. won again, 19-11. As in the Senior game, Grenville was unable to take the lead, which Lachute had established by the end of the first quarter, 9-2. Due to close guarding by both sides, the scoring was not high as in some games, but it was a decisive victory for Lachute, 19-11. The Three Stars selected were Del MacTavish, Reggie Beers and Wayne Laurin.

The Junior girls' team from Grenville is composed of both Seniors and Juniors, owing to the fact that they do not have a Senior team. Therefore the Lachute Juniors were playing against strong opposition, and although they lost 29-12, yet they played a good game. Lachute led 6-5 in the first quarter, but Grenville came back with a 15-8 lead at half time. The final tally was 29-12 in favor of the visitors. Carol Parker was selected as first star, Marilyn Underhill second, and Lois Silverson third.

Coming Events

As previously announced, the Students' Council are holding the second dance of the season (including both square and modern) in the school gym this Friday evening, November 30. Music will be provided by the Desjardins Orchestra, with an added attraction. (There is an admission charge for this event.)

FOUR "HAT TRICKS"

Four "hat tricks" had been registered in the N.H.L. in games up to the morning of November 21. Canadiens' Dickie Moore scored three times against Toronto; Real Chevrefils of Boston scored a trio against Rangers; Ted Lindsay scored three against Canadiens; and Jack McIntyre of Chicago scored four against Toronto. Two of the four "Hat Tricks" were turned in against Toronto Maple Leafs.

SOME ATHLETE

Lynn Patrick and Milt Schmidt of the Boston Bruins think that Jack Bionda, their rookie defenseman, will eventually develop into a top defenseman. "He's an athlete," explained Patrick. "He may be awkward-looking but he does his job. My dad, Lester, who used to be a lacrosse official in his youth, claims Bionda is the greatest lacrosse player he has ever seen. He's just one of those fellows who rises to the occasion when a job has to be done."

DISINHERITED, SKUNK FINDS GOOD HOME

—Central Press Canadian

Ontario cities and towns have reported more skunks than usual this summer, and of course wherever there are skunks there is always danger of a special kind. But Russell Hafenbrak, Toronto, has solved the problem of having his skunk and having fun, too. He had Josephine "disinherited"—cut off without a scent—and keeps her in the house with him. Josephine seems to like the domestic life.

Baseball Mentor

As far as is known they've never called the new manager of the Detroit Tigers "Honest John" Tighe.

But they could.

He's the jut-jawed Irishman who once took a lie detector test to prove a point and proved it. It happened in 1953 when Tighe was managing Buffalo Bisons in the International Baseball League and was accused of spitting in an umpire's face.

Tighe said he hadn't. He volunteered to take a lie detector test and proved his innocence.

When Detroit's American League team named Tighe its manager to succeed Bucky Harris the Tigers followed a pattern of recent years . . . to go into a farm system for a relatively unknown man. Actually Tighe was a member of the Detroit coaching staff but he did have a lot of experience managing in the Tiger farm chain.

Tighe is 43 years old. He was a catcher in his playing days but was not good enough to make the major leagues. That surprisingly is in his favor. A lot of great managers were ordinary ball players and conversely a lot of great ball players were ordinary managers.

When the Tiger front office told him the job was his, Tighe was cautioned to keep it to himself until the club made the announcement.

He telephoned his mother in Kearny, N.J., and told her the news but said it was not for release yet and to keep it a secret.

CURRENT SHOWS, ENTERTAINMENT, TRAVEL

Candid Sound-Pictures Of Family Life

The laughter of children, their expressions in song, their basic emotions — these are the recorded results of an adventure with a tape-recorder that Ruth Francis had in her Toronto home. On December 6 and 13 sound-impressions of her own children's life will be heard on "Cross Section", revealing the value of a tape-recorder in an investigation of the family as a unit of society.

The principals in these half-hour broadcasts are the Francis children — Sarah, who is five, and one-year-old Celia. With them, listeners will go through parts of their day from rising to bed-time. During this time the recorder sits unobtrusively nearby, taking in all the sounds.

But it wasn't that way at first, Mrs. Francis says. When they found out what the box did, the children demanded to hear themselves making noises. But soon they were paying no attention to it and the sounds which will be heard are completely natural and uninhibited.

Mrs. Francis recorded four hours of sounds with the girls. The edited results, she says, "show the imagination of a small child and how the imagination works in their songs and stories." She is already well known to many listeners as one of the CBC's "kindergarten ladies."

"Peer Gynt" for CBC Stage Production

When radio-drama producer Esse Ljungh talks about certain types of play particularly suited to radio presentation, the name of Henrik Ibsen springs to mind. Many of the great Norwegian dramatist's works have been produced by Ljungh for the CBC and the epic fantasy "Peer Gynt" is one that attracted much attention when it was originally presented on CBC Wednesday Night eight years ago, adapted by Lister Sinclair and with music based on the themes specially composed for the play by Edavrd Grieg. On "CBC Stage" December 2 and 9 "Peer Gynt" will be heard again, with Douglas Rain in the title role and Ruth Springford as his mother. The first three acts of the play make up the first section of the radio script. The play is characteristic Ibsen — bitingly satirical; the object of his attack is the society of the 19th century Norway with all its "egotism, vacillation and lukewarmness."

Two Famous "Giants" Of Nova Scotia

"Fe-fi-fo-fum!" This bit of doggerel has served to introduce a famous fairyland giant to countless children in many lands. On "Here and There" (December 9 on CBMT) it will introduce two giants who actually existed.

The two, Angus McAskill and Annie Swan, lived the better part of their lives in rural Nova Scotia during the 19th century and were familiar sights to circus-goers on the North American continent. "Here and There" will trace the life and times of the famous pair in a film made out of doors in the region the giants inhabited during much of their lives.

A giant is defined in the dictionary as being a human of great stature and as a person possessing great strength. Angus McAskill without a doubt fitted these definitions admirably. Though he was born in Scotland, he came to Canada at an early age, accompanying his parents who were among thousands of Scots who settled in Cape Breton in the 1820's. His great strength did not become evident until his teens, though his size certainly did. In his early twenties he was approached by a circus agent, and soon joined a travelling troupe as a featured attraction. McAskill attained a height of 7 feet 9 inches, and was capable of feats of brute strength that were almost unbelievable. But the strength that made him a legendary figure was also the cause of his early retirement from the circus. How this came about is related in the film by one of his descendants.

Annie Swan, the other giant whose story will be told on this edition of "Here and There", was born in Nova Scotia in the farming community of New Annan. She weighed 13 pounds at birth and by the time she was six years old was as large at her normal-sized mother. Annie Swan also made show business her life, touring with several circuses. Seven feet 11 inches tall herself, she married another circus giant who topped her by only one inch. After retiring from show business the couple settled in Seville, Ohio, where they built a house large enough to accommodate them. Two children were born to the pair, each weighing over 20 pounds. The children did not live longer than a few hours.

When narrator Ken Homer and producer Bill Harper began research for the program they were faced with an obvious problem. The subjects had been dead for over half a century and there is a noticeable lack of eight-foot actors and actresses in Nova Scotia. They found, however, that although the giants were dead in body their memory lives on in the folklore of the province. Several people in the villages can remember seeing the giants and many more can relate the anecdotes that have made them legendary figures. The recollections of these Nova Scotians, told in the soft accents of the area, will make up much of the program.

God's Etchings and November Hues — Who Says the Season's Colorless?

"Exile from Sunnyacres"

By Margaret Cook

Nowhere, to our knowledge, in the realm of English literature is there an ode, a paragraph or even a line to sing the praises of November. Until recently, we would have agreed that this month is drab, dull and cheerless, but a recent week-end at Sunnyacres moved us, if not to lyric praise, at least to try to set down the impression of delicate, austere beauty that lies in the November scene.

First of all, there is the prevailing color of mauve, or orchid, lilac, lavender, according to your taste. If you in the country do not believe this, go outside at once and look with an unbiased eye about you. The hills are mauve; the leafless trees are purple (a shade of violet); shrubs are brown, shaded purple; and the sky toward dusk, mauve shading into pink. The total effect, I reiterate, is mauve, violet, light purple, orchid, or what-have-you. When the sun hangs golden in a blue sky, all these shades of mauve shift one degree up the color scale, so that the brown is quite lost, but we gain the green of the firs, so the picture is still beautiful.

Against this background, the white birches come into their own. "Come up and see my etchings" has come to have a sinister connotation, but "Come up and see God's etchings" is a different invitation. For that is what a birch tree against a November sky is — an etching. Those of you who are acquainted with the little road that leads to Sunnyacres from Route 30, will remember the three white birches that stand at the turn of the hill above Richards'. At this time of the year, they are "a thing of beauty", as Mr. Keats so aptly expressed it. Their delicate branches are etched against the sky; they look a little like some stringed instrument on which the winds do play. As I walk over the hills, I rejoice to see this picture repeated with variations.

In November, too, the rocks and mosses come to view. So many different mosses; I wish I knew all their names. There is the rather flat, crusted, greeny-grey lichen growing on rocks and trees. This, I believe is not a true moss at all, though commonly classed with such. It is not especially pretty, although the color is subtly appealing. Then there is reindeer-moss, a pale green, which looks like a miniature palm tree; it prefers damp places, and can be eaten by people, if they are desperate for food. The club moss is the one that looks from above like a loosely-put-together wool scatter-rug, but resolves itself, at knee-level, into a collection of little green fuzzy clubs. It is a medium green. But the most spectacular of all is the one which looks and feels like green velvet and spreads itself over the grey Laurentian rocks. They make the perfect foil for each other. When a shaft of hard, November sunlight strikes through the woods onto a rock the size of a quarter-house, and lights up the green tapestry, one can only look and give thanks for the beauty of the world.

Now, too, we are able to see the Canadian Holly. There used to be a large patch of this about Scottlands, but the improved road is taking its toll. Larger, and of different red, are the haws of the hawthorn trees and the hips of the wild roses. I picked a big bunch of the latter, and they are even now in the hall basket, with pine and balsam boughs as a background. Very effective, and the pine scent is readily distinguishable as one enters.

I see I have not mentioned, on the November credit sheet, the silver of jumping water. All the brooks were full in mid-November, rushing and jostling on their way to a lake. The brook at Richards' was especially spectacular, leaping over its rocks, its waters a shiny platinum and silver in the sun.

Adding their bits of color to the November scene are the blue-jays, a pair of which has been frequenting the yard at Sunnyacres all autumn. If we venture out into our own yard, a bluejay squawks his protest from a nearby tree. They especially abhor Peter, the cat — with reason. When we are safely inside, the jays hop about the yard, their blue burning brightly against the dun of the dying grass. The newly upturned earth in the garden greatly intrigues them, full of worms and other delectable jay-food. They undoubtedly think they own Sunnyacres and that we are the interlopers. On our part, we find our new tenants big, bratty and beautiful.

There were chickadees about also in mid-November. Small, quick and inquisitive, they followed the writer down the road, fluttering from branch to branch. So accustomed had we become to phoebes that we absent-mindedly chirped, "Phoebe, phoebe", to the agitated bunch of feathers above us, only to have it reply reproachfully, "Chickadee-dee-dee", on a rising inflection.

We could go on like this for another page, but there is not another page; anyway, we feel that you are either convinced that November is not really drab, or else you are silenced through exhaustion.

Now we take you to a cemetery—yes, to a burying ground. As one who cares not for cemeteries, the writer was prepared to be lukewarm to the tale of the removal of mortal remains from one cemetery to another in Lakefield. But as our informant warmed to his story, we found ourselves hanging on his every word. Know then, that at the turn of the century, Methodism was a living force in Lakefield. There was a Methodist church and its burying-ground. But, through the years, Anglicanism became the predominant religion of the hamlet; the Methodist church disappeared, its worshippers dispersed, or accepted a fate worse than death, and became Anglicans! The cemetery was neglected, until strangers no longer knew there was one; everybody who died had his body consigned to Anglican soil, or it was taken elsewhere. After some years, the few remaining Methodists decided that the thing to do was to move their dead to the precincts of the Anglican property. But a few families abhored this thought, so their little plot fell into disuse and desolation. Now, at last, in the year of our Lord nineteen fifty-six (and, incidentally, of greater tolerance) the move has been made and the bones of the Mehodist dead have joined those of their Anglican neighbors in the beautiful grounds of Holy Trinity Church, Lakefield. Certainly their fate is better than those whose bones were inadvertently turned up by a bulldozer a few years ago on the road around the south of Lake Barron. The solution to the upkeep of these small cemeteries seems to be in endowment. If everybody left a small sum in his will to the local burying-ground, the above interesting but unfortunate occurrence would never be necessary. . .

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Night driving increases in winter. Darkness and drowsiness are friends — but they're not the driver's friends.

Here are some tips to help you avoid fatigue or sleepiness:

(1) Eat lightly if you're planning extended night driving. A heavy dinner and heavy eyelids go together.

(2) Occasional coffee stops are good "picker-uppers."

(3) Keep the car well ventilated. Avoid excessive use of the heater.

(4) Make sure the car seat is adjusted to insure maximum comfort, since poor steering posture can drain your much-needed energy.

(5) A car radio is a big help, but select lively "wake-up" music to keep you on the alert.

If, in spite of all your precautions, the temptation to sleep becomes irresistible, pull off to the side of the road and take Oscar Wilde's advice. He said "The only way to overcome temptation is to give in to it."

Grey Cup Classic "Over There"

In a color-packed game the East beat the West at Metz, France, Saturday, November 17, 6-0 in the European version of Canada's football classic, the Grey Cup game.

A madly-cheering crowd of more than 2,500 Canadian and American servicemen and their families plus bewildered French civilians saw Private Rodger Ganis of Ottawa knock down a West lateral on the last play of the first half and gallop across with the only touchdown of the day.

The game played between Eastern and Western-born personnel of the RCAF's No. 1 Air Division was played at a thrill-a-minute pace throughout. The East, led by Quarter-Back Flight Sergeant Ron Burnside of Toronto, dominated the play and except for penalties and fumbles deep in the Western zone, should have run up a higher score.

An Eastern single point in the second quarter was disallowed on a penalty.

The pre-game and half-time festivities included a colorful parade of cheerleaders, majorettes, the RCAF band from No. 3 Fighter Wing, Zweibrucken, Germany, decorated cars, a Western chuck-wagon complete with cowboys, cowgirls and Indians and an Eastern float.

Team supporters wore ten-gallon hats for the West and straw skimmers for the East. On every outstanding play the sound of noise-makers and firecrackers was deafening. Queen of the Day was LAW Ghislaine (Jackie) Paradis, of St. Augustin, Que., who was voted Miss Grey Cup Europe in a competition with seven other RCAF airwomen candidates.

Air Vice Marshal H. B. Godwin, Air Officer Commanding, Canada's NATO Air Division, kicked off the first ball and after the game presented the Grey Cup (Europe) to Squadron Leader Bill Lee of Hamilton, Ont., captain of the East team.

About Onions

Consumer Section,
Canada Dept. of Agriculture
Marketing Service

Onions are about the last thing you'd expect to find as the subject in a poem, yet an anonymous poet once wrote these lines:

"Let onions dwell within the bowl
And scarce suspected, animate the whole."

Shakespeare, on the other hand, wasn't at all complimentary. He objected to onions because, he said,

"They violate sweet breath." However, a modern rhymester came up with a quick cure, writing:

You needn't eat your onions sparsely."

But that's enough about onions in poetry — let's get down to cooking them! Everyone will agree that while it comes quite naturally to use onions as seasoning in meat dishes, salads and sandwiches, they are sometimes neglected for serving as a vegetable. This seems rather strange because they can be cooked in so many ways — fried, boiled, scalloped, creamed, glazed or stuffed. Onions are also very tasty when combined with other vegetables like tomatoes or green beans and they go well with cream sauce, too. For extra color and flavor you can add grated cheese to the cream sauce or sprinkle the cheese on top at serving time. Baked onions look especially nice when they're served with cheese sauce and garnished with a sprinkling of crisp bacon bits . . . and who doesn't like tender flavorful onions that have been baked to a golden brown around a roast or chicken. . .

There are plenty of onions available this year so now is a good time to try out all sorts of ways of cooking them. If you haven't tried Stuffed Onions before, why not do so today — your family is sure to enjoy them. Here's the way stuffed onions are prepared in Canada's Kitchen in Ottawa:

First, cook the onions, a medium-sized one for each serving, in boiling salted water until they're just tender but not soft. That will take about 20 minutes. Next, drain the water off and remove a portion of the centre from each onion, leaving the outside layers as a shell. Now chop the onion that has been removed from the centre and add it to your stuffing. This might be a savoury bread stuffing, or a mixture of corn and bread crumbs, or perhaps some leftover cooked meat that's been minced or chopped and mixed with bread crumbs and seasonings. Finally, fill the onion shells with stuffing, place them in a shallow baking pan and bake in a moderately hot oven, 375°F., for 30 minutes.

Did you know that onions and eggs are a perfect combination? Try serving a feathery onion omelet or soufflé for supper some night soon. Chop the onions then cook them slowly in a little butter, before adding to your egg mixture.

To make glazed onions, add a little water, salt and pepper to onions in a casserole, cover and bake until tender. Then dot with butter and either honey or brown sugar. Bake uncovered until onions are nicely glazed, basting once or twice.

Let's Eat

BY
IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"Fine flavors, good looks and interesting presentation can make plain foods look and taste glamorous," observed the Chef.

"Par example, regardez these canned stews: beef, lamb, and chicken with rice. They may be bought in 1 lb. or 1½ lb. cans.

"A one-pound can contains 2 eight-ounce servings; a one-and-a-half-pound can contains 3 eight-ounce servings. For a family of 4 to 6, I recommend using 3 one-and-a-half-pound cans for dinner.

For More Flavor

"To make the stew go farther and to give personalized flavor, add vegetables, seasonings or other ingredients."

"The choice of these additions depends on whether a thick soup-like stew or a platter stew is desired, Chef," I said.

Add Broth

"To make a soup-like stew, Madame, I suggest adding a suitable broth, such as canned condensed beef bouillon and a can-measure of water to one Number Two can stew; a can of lamb-barley soup and a can-measure of water to one Number Two can condensed lamb stew; or a can of condensed chicken cream soup and a can-measure of water to one Number Two can chicken with rice."

To "personalize" a stew, try these suggestions:

Chicken or Chicken with Rice: To a (1 lb.) can, add 1 tsp. curry powder dissolved in ½ c. water, 1 chicken bouillon cube, 1 c. canned cut asparagus, ½ c. each sliced celery and canned mushrooms sauteed 5 min. in 2 tbsp. butter.

Tomorrow's Dinner

Chef's Salad Bowl with Cheese
Beef-Vegetable Stew Platter
Cornmeal Dumplings
Green Peas
Blueberry Betty
with Hard Sauce
Coffee Tea Milk

All measurements are level. Recipes proportioned to serve 4 to 6.

Cornmeal Dumplings: Sift together ½ c. enriched cornmeal, ½ c. enriched flour, ¼ tsp. salt and 1½ tsp. baking powder.

Add 2 tbsp. softened shortening, ¼ c. milk and 1 egg. Beat 1 min.

Add 1½ c. coarse enriched crumbs and saute until pale brown. Then add ½ tsp. cinnamon and ½ c. sugar.

TRICK OF THE CHEF

Milk for School Children Advocated by Forums

Almost unanimous support for milk in schools was voiced by 376 Farm Forums after their opening discussions on October 29.

A national program should be developed to supply milk to all Canadian school children, over 90 per cent of the Forums stated. According to the Rosegarland Forum in Alberta, "Milk would be especially helpful to the very young pupils, to the undernourished ones, and the many children that travel long distances in the consolidated school areas."

Suggestions for financing school milk were varied. Over one-quarter of the Forums suggested that it should be financed jointly by federal and provincial governments. Nineteen per cent of the groups stated that parents should pay for it. The Suffield-Belvedere Forum in Quebec said, "We feel that if the children paid a few cents for a bottle of milk it would be more appreciated."

Eighteen per cent of the Forums urged that school boards and governments finance milk in schools on a fifty-fifty basis. Almost the same number suggested that parents and governments share the costs.

A school milk program could be operated in the local community, a majority of the Forums stated, by arranging with the local dairy for milk deliveries, or installing dispensers, coolers, or pasteurizers in the school. Joint planning by community organizations would overcome any problems that arise, the Forums suggested.

The Kamberley Forum in Saskatchewan said, "If each child took a half-pint of milk to the school and the teachers saw they drank it, this would be an adequate program."

How to Cook Venison

Don't spoil the hunter's venison by inexpert cooking — is the advice of those-who-know. They point out that deer meat can be cooked by the same methods used for beef of a similar grade.

"Some prefer to remove the fat from venison before cooking," they say. "Suet, pork fat or bacon may be mixed with ground venison or strips of bacon or salt pork may be placed over the outside of roasts to keep meat from becoming too dry.

"Tender cuts of meat are cooked by dry heat and the less tender portions by moist heat. While young bucks and does furnish the more tender meat, the meat from an aged animal can be made more appetizing and tender if cooked correctly.

"Tomatoes, onions, spices and herbs often are added if the venison flavor is objectionable to anyone. A tablespoon of vinegar may help destroy the 'wild' flavor.

"Tender cuts, such as rib and loin chops, round steak and leg roasts, can be pan or oven-broiled or roasted. The less tender cuts such as neck, shanks, chuck and breast, should be cooked with moist heat or ground for "deerburgers' or meat loaf. They make particularly good mincemeat."

Since Christmas is not too far off, here's a tried recipe for venison mincemeat: Use two pounds of lean venison from the neck, one pound of beef suet, six pounds of apples, two pounds of currants, one pound of sultana raisins, two pounds of raisins, ½ pound citron, six cups brown sugar, two teaspoons nutmeg, one tablespoon allspice, one tablespoon cinnamon, one teaspoon ginger, one tablespoon salt, two oranges, eight cups cider or grape juice.

Bake the venison in the oven for 40 minutes, using moderate heat — about 350 degrees — then cool and chop. Mix with chopped suet, pared, cored and chopped apples, currants, raisins, citron. Add sugar, spices, juice of two oranges, finely chopped rind of one orange and the cider or grape juice. Simmer for 30 minutes.

Pack hot into jars, seal and process — 60 minutes for a pint jar at 15 pounds pressure, or three hours in a boiling water bath. The quantity shown makes enough for ten to 12 nine-inch pies.

For roast venison — the loin or round — the experts suggest that it be sprinkled with salt and pepper over all sides of the meat. Place on a rack in an uncovered shallow pan and put in a pre-heated, slow oven at 300 to 325 degrees. Do not add water and do not cover. (That is most important, they say.) Allow 20 to 25 minutes to the pound.

Credit Prayer With Child's Gift of Sight

—Central Press Canadian

Three and a half years ago, little Dorothy Wright, of Dundas, Ont., could not have seen the teddy bear she is holding here because she was blind. Today she can see it and her recovery from blindness has been credited to the prayers said by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Wright. Doctors have no explanation for what has happened. They say the child was born with vital "discs" at the back of the eyeballs dead. Such cases meant certain, unending, birth-to-death darkness. "It's a mystery, but a miracle," says her mother who three months ago noticed that the youngster appeared to be blinking while playing with a light switch in her home. Since then every day has been an adventure for the child, as she ventures forth into world of color and light.

SWEEPSTAKE WINNER CHARGES LODGER THREW ACID AT HER

—Central Press Canadian

Winner of $140,000 in the Irish Sweepstake last March, Mrs. Helen Orsolets, 43, told an assize court jury in Vancouver that John Babich, 61, threw acid in her face when she refused to give him $35,000 and a house. Babich, who was a lodger in Mrs. Orsolets' house, pleaded not guilty to causing bodily harm with intent to maim. Widowed and divorced twice, Mrs. Orsolets said Babich had been bothering her for money ever since she cashed in on the sweep ticket given to her by Babich.

Hot Milk Sponge Cake

When eggs are a good buy is the time to treat the family to home-made sponge and angel cake. Sponge cake is easy to make, particularly the one given below. It is a comparatively small cake suitable for the small family. It is not only easy to make but takes little longer than to "whip up a prepared cake mix." Most of the mixing can be done with an electric or rotary hand beater and so eliminate tedious stirring. This recipe may be baked in either a small angel food pan or loaf pan.

Mrs. Buchanan's Hot Milk Sponge Cake

2 Large or 3 small eggs, ¾ cup fine granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup sifted pastry flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup hot milk.

Beat eggs at high speed until light and fluffy. Gradually add the sugar and vanilla. Beat thoroughly until very thick and ivory-colored. Blend in the hot milk, stirring as little as possible to mix thoroughly. Fold in the mixed and sifted flour, baking powder and salt, one quarter at a time. Pour into small angel cake pan, or 9 x 4 x 2-inch loaf pan, which has been greased and lined with waxed paper on the bottom only. Cake rises higher if sides of pan are ungreased. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375°F. for 35 to 40 minutes. Cool cake in pan, then remove and peel off waxed paper. Yields 6 to 8 servings.

To serve: use plain, cut in squares, fingers or slices, or ice with butter or fluffy frostings, or serve as shortcake with fruit and whipped cream or ice cream and sauce.

To make teacakes: cut sponge cake in thick fingers or squares. Ice on all sides with fluffy frosting and roll in chopped nuts or cocoanut.

For buffet supper dessert: cut cake into two or three layers and fill with sweetened whipped cream, custard or lemon filling, sprinkle top with sifted icing sugar.

Fashions

Tissue fine wools, delightfully styled, go out to enjoy happy evenings under bright lights. And no wonder when they are like this beauty, light-hearted, attractive, flattering. Black chiffon tops the sheer black wool dress, the chiffon striped in rows of black lace. Lace at the straight neckline and the cap sleeves adds a softening touch. The self belt is set on, the bow decorated with a rhinestone buckle. The slim line is marked by a high waistline.

Assimilation Point

Irene and Jury Gotshalks of Beaconville, Que., former Latvian ballet dancers who spent years in a German concentration camp, say they love Canada. But they resent being called New Canadians.

"We have been here nine years and are happy," says Irene. "But people still treat us as if we were New Canadians. They ask my son where he was born. He says Germany and it immediately sets him apart."

The petite blonde and her husband, who star in a Montreal television show, say they think Canadians could be quicker to accept immigrants who have done their best to adjust to Canadian life.

"My hubsand even did a movie for the Canadian government's National Film Board series to encourage Europeans to move to Canada," she said.

December Log Book

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

Why not begin a Christmas Family Chronicle the first of December? Discuss it in your home and let every member have a part in planning it. The most interesting information for any family is the story of their own life. It is a pity so few households keep a Diary or a Log Book! No two would ever be alike. Here is an inexpensive project any family could enjoy immensely.

For your Log Book, use a loose leaf book, with plain heavy refill paper, and re-enforce the holes for the rings. If there is a budding artist in the family, let him draw some sketches on the margins.

Perhaps Mother could make a brief chronicle of how and where she and Dad have spent their Christmases. Write a brief account of any funny little happenings in the home or special Christmas expedition which you remember.

If you can, get extra prints of snapshots of your children taken in former Decembers. It will be fun to compare them with action shots of them singing carols, or on Christmas Eve with their stockings, or the next morning with their gifts in front of the tree or one of the youngsters in a pageant or play. The part of "the littlest angel" in white with golden cellophane wings and halo deserves a snapshot! If someone gets a new camera for Christmas, let him take a picture of the fairyland outside your house after the next heavy fall of snow.

Perhaps a school age child would like to write the record of the events in your home this December 25th. During the holidays, before New Year's, another youngster might like to use the new crayons or paints he received as a gift to make a colored picture of the Wise Men or the Shepherds.

A very useful page would be a "Family Tree." As you write your Christmas letters and purchase your gifts, make a note in brackets after each individual name, of your progress — as Grandma (a plaid knitting bag); Aunt Helen (a color film for her camera).

Another page for future reference could be the Christmas Card list. Enlist some help from the older school age youngsters in addresing envelopes. Encourage them to write a little message to the elderly friends of the family who are fond of them. It means so much to older people to be remembered by the younger generation.

There might be a page for favorite Christmas cake recipes of Grandma's which she would like to write out in her own handwriting. Perhaps you have a relative who is famous for her shortbread and sends you a box each year. Write and tell her about your book, enclosing a page for her to write out her recipe too.

A copy of the menu for Christmas dinner could be made in Block Printing by your boy or girl who has just learned to write. Ask all the clan who gather around to eat Mother's cooking to autograph this page.

Have one section for the titles of your family's favorite carols — and do add new ones which you have learned this year. If you are fond of reading, perhaps you could ask each member of your home to choose one short quotation of prose or poetry for a Favorite Quote Page, like Tiny Tim's words at the end of Dicken's Christmas Carol, "God Bless Us Every One!" May the events in your family Christmas Log Book be Happy Ones!

If we were in their tights, we know we'd make darn sure that everything holding us up was plenty strong. No doubt that's why they chose aluminum. Plus the fact that this light metal would make much easier work of erecting the contraption. We're pleased that they, like so many other people, found just what they wanted in this light, strong, versatile metal.

CANADIANS COP SIX OF WORLD GRAIN TITLES AT WINTER FAIR

—Central Press Canadian

Judging by the trophies they have in hand, these exhibitors were well rewarded for their entries at Royal Winter Fair, now under way in Toronto. To Mr. and Mrs. E. Pincosy, at left, of Salmon Arm, B.C., went the world potato-raising title, after their netted gem variety won the nod from judges at the fair. Also a world titlist—for the second time—Harry N. Gorsline, at right, of Demorestville, Ont., won first prize for rye with an entry of the Tetra Petkus variety. The presentations, made in the fair's seed grain department, saw winners in attendance from as far away as England and British Columbia. Six of eight world grain titles went to Canadians.

HISTORICAL NOTES ON THE ROYAL REGIMENT OF ARTILLERY

Lachute's battery of field artillery, the 131st Battery, a unit of the 37th Field Regiment, R.C.A., commemorated its anniversary recently. Training takes place each Thursday in Lachute, supplemented by week-end schemes and exercises, with actual firing practice during the summer camping period. This article will serve to familiarize the public with the history of Artillery.

Special to The Lachute Watchman

ARTICLE III

In the battle of Waterloo, June, 1815, eight horse artillery troops and five field batteries were actually engaged, and their stalwart endurance of bombardment and gallant support of our infantry went far to ensure the victory.

The period of 1816-1854 is one of reductions and changes. The division of responsibility down to section and sub-section commanders had proved a great aid to efficiency; it had originated in the Royal Horse Artillery.

Equipment had changed little; field guns were made of bronze, still smooth bore, and round shot, shell and case shot were the usual projectiles. Spherical shrapnel (General Shrapnel's invention) had been found of great value as a man-killing projectile, being first used in the Peninsula.

All ranks at this time wore white breeches and a blue coat, or in the troops, a blue laced packet, something like the 1914 pattern.

In 1833 it was decided that units should no longer wear battle honors but that the regiment as a whole should bear the Royal Arms over a gun with the mottoes: "Ubique" (everywhere), to denote its active service in all parts of the world and "Quo fas et gloria ducunt" (Whither right and glory lead).

The Crimean War (1854) was the next campaign in which artillery was employed on a large scale, the principal feature being the siege operations for the capture of Sebastopol, which went on for nearly a year. Owing to lack of preparation for a winter campaign, the hardships borne by our men in the trenches and siege batteries during a severe Russian winter were greater than the army had ever been called on to endure, but with fortitude and cheerfulness all privations and horros were endured with good discipline. After getting to such a pitch in February, 1855, that the number of sick artillerymen equalled the number of those on parade, our position gradually improved, but whatever the situation, the duties of the bombardment were carried out unfailingly. Field batteries earned distinction at the Battles of Alma and Balaclava and at Inkerman; and at the latter battle the arrival of two 18-pounder guns in position completely changed the fortune of the day by silencing a powerful concentration of Russian field guns.

On the heels of the Crimea came the Indian Mutiny, which occupied a number of R.A. units as well as their comrades of the Bengal, Bombay and Madras artilleries. The performance of the "European" units of the Indian Artillery had always been of the highest standard and at the end of the Mutiny most of these were amalgamated with the Royal Artillery. The suppression of the Mutiny entailed arduous marching and frequent fighting under a tropical sun during many months.

In the reorganization that followed the Mutiny, the modern expressions "brigade" and "battery" came into use.

The next forty years gave artillery units much fighting in various parts of the world and were responsible for great progress in equipment. True to their motto "Ubique", Gunners fought in Abyssinia, Afghanistan and many parts of the Indian Frontier, Burma, East and West Africa, Zululand and Transvaal, Egypt and Sudan — many actions in many lands with a steady increase of reputation. What story in the annals of the British Army is finer than the saving of the guns at Maiwand, when the few survivors of the battery (E/B.R.H.A., now 58th Field Battery) brought four of their guns out of action in a storm of bullets with the enemy actually in the battery? A standard for all time for Gunners to live up to!

The campaigns referred to offered a great variety of conditions and climates, and the South African War (1899) produced yet another variety of warfare.

CANADIAN PLOWMEN ABROAD

by R. BEILHARTZ, Manager

R. Beilhartz

Oxford, England — This in an acount of two great plowing matches — the British National and the World. I can imagine you want to hear right away a description of the Canadian team of Bob Timbers, of Stouffville, Ont., and Mickey Demman, of Portage la Prairie, Man., in action in the world contest, but I feel I should describe the matches in chronological order. The British National was the first.

When we arrived at headquarters about 9 a.m. there was activity everywhere and excitement was in the air. Groups of people from this side and from our side of the Atlantic had already gathered. These included a large delegation from Canada but perhaps the most colorful group of all was the United States delegation. All of them wore large western hats with bands advertising the 1957 World Plowing Match to be held at Ueebles, Ohio. In conversation with one of the women members of this group I asked her if she knew the U.S.A. judge for the World Match, whom I had met the previous day. She laughed and said, "Well I should — he's my husband!"

Well, the British National was a real show. Maybe not as large as our International Plowing Match but it seemed to me to be turned out better. There were flowers and shrubs everywhere and the officials had not spared paint, nor elbow grease for that matter, in making everything spick and span. It was a beautiful sight.

Before the match got underway there was a parade of contestants and the horse plowmen stole the show. There were 14 teams and some of the horses were handsomely decked out; perhaps too much in the way of decorations for plow horses, but they did look splendid. However, the plows were a different matter for some were rather crude-looking and some were ancient.

During the match I noticed that all the high cut work was done with horses pulling old plows with very long mould boards on wheels. There were tall pieces on the boards and so many gadgets that I couldn't figure out what they were used for. Most of the teams walked on the land instead of in the furrows. Also, there were some long, heavy double trees and single trees and about eight feet of chain between the plow and the team. It seemed to me they would be very hard to handle as well as draw. It wasn't long before both the horses (weighing between 1,600 and 1,800 pounds) and the men were in a lather. However, there was some excellent work done.

In the mechanized section there were 132 tractor plows. These included some high-cut, crude-looking ones and there were some of the semi-digger type, such as our boys have been using. Some of the tractor plowmen turned out work that was comparable to the best at our International and I must say the stewards were very strict. No one was allowed to break any of the rules.

So much for the British National. It was the next day that was really exciting for us. It was the opening of the two-day World Plowing Match that would decide this year's winner of the Esso Golden Plough trophy, symbol of world plowing supremacy. For the last two years Hugh Barr, of Northern Ireland has been the winner although the first year it was put up it was won by Jim Eccles, of Brampton, Ont., with our Bob Timbers a close third. That was in 1953 at Cobourg, Ont., where the first World Match was held under the sponsorship of Imperial Oil. Naturally our boys wanted to bring that Golden Plough trophy back to Canada, even in the face of teams from 13 other countries.

The day of the big match we were up at 6 a.m. Bob and Mickey appeared well rested and in good spirits. The fog, or mist as they call it here, was quite dense. On arrival at the match headquarters we found a larger crowd than the day previous had already gathered. They wanted to see the boys from the competing countries as they disembarked from a motor coach that brought them from the hotel. Our boys went immediately to their equipment to make last-minute adjustments and to warm up the tractors.

At 11 o'clock all the contestants had lunch together in a big tent on the grounds. Half an hour later they were lining up their tractors in parade formation. Each tractor bore a card with the name of the competitor's country.

As far as a parade goes the only thing lacking was music. It was headed by an official car followed by two tractor-drawn wagons, the tractors driven by girls. On the first wagon rode the 12 judges and on the second were the stewards and coaches, or team managers. These were followed by the 25 contestants with their tractor-drawn plows. The parade circled the headquarters and then proceeded to the contest field.

On arrival at the field, which was completely fenced in, we were amazed to find that spectators, three deep, had already taken up places around the whole of the field. As is traditional with World Matches, the contest started with the firing of a red rocket.

The first day was stubble plowing and on opening the split all competitors, except six at the high side of the field found the ground to be sticky. They had difficulty keeping mould boards clean. Bob Timbers had to stop every few yards and clean off his mould board, however, he finished well in my score and made the fastest finish in the field. He was a close second to Hugh Barr, of Northern Ireland on total score. But Mickey Demman did not fare quite so well at the start. Because of soil sticking he was a little off but on the whole he was among the top ten. All scores in the stubble contest, with the exception of Hugh and Bob, were very low.

All teams had finished before the rocket was fired to announce the end of the first day. The boys seemed a little tired but the only thing they mentioned was the hope that they would draw better soil the next day for the grassend plowing. Nobody could quarrel with that hope.

B of M Annual Statement Reflects Country's Growth

Montreal, Nov. 26 — Reflection of this country's rapid industrial and commercial growth can be seen in the Bank of Montreal's annual statement, just issued. Indicating substantial increases in loans and personal savings, the report provides graphic evidence of the large part which the bank has played in the expanding economy of the nation during the past 12 months.

The heavy demand for loans has made necessary a substantial reduction in the bank's investment portfolio, which now stands at $916,113,000, compared with $1,214,155,900 in 1955. The B of M's liquid assets, amounting to $1,427,619,000, now represent 54.08 per cent of all liabilities to the public. Total resources at $2,783 million show little change from last year as a result of a major switch in assets.

Commercial and Other Loans Pass Billion Mark

For the first time in the B of M's 139-year history, commercial and other loans have passed the billion-dollar mark to reach $1,179,991,000, a jump of more than $256-million in the past year. Total B of M loans are up $325 million, or 30 per cent, over the previous year-end figure, setting a new record at $1,383,079,000.

The desire of Canadians to own their own homes is reflected under mortgages and hypathecs insured under the National Housing Act, 1954"; these loans were more than doubled in 1956, from $51,959,000 in 1955 to $104,225,000, while call loans rose $22,349,000 to $98,863,000.

B of M deposits, well over half of which represent personal savings, stand at $2,589,000,000, slightly lower than the record $2,591,000,000 in 1955. There was, however, a substantial increase in personal savings deposits — $80,000,000 higher than at the previous year-end. This was offset by a reduction in demand deposits, reflecting a faster turn-over in corporate funds under present conditions.

The B of M statement shows that, after making provision for income taxes of $7,795,000, net profits amounted to $8,976,000, an increase of $934,000.

Taxes Exceed Payments To Shareholders

Dividends to shareholders at $7,200,000, are half-a-million dollars less than the bank's tax bill. Divident payments represent $1.60 a share for the year — 15 cents more than in the year previous.

After dividend payments, profits for the year stand at $1,775,940. To be added to this is the balance of undivided profits from the previous year of $2,134,215, making $3,910,155. With a transfer from tax-paid reserves of $3,000,000, making a total of $6,910,155, the bank added a sum of $6,500,000 to its rest account, or reserve fund, which now stands at $98,500,000.

With paid-up capital of $45,000,000, and undivided profits amounting to $410,155, shareholders' funds now stand at $143,910,155.

Close Watch on Quebec's Woodland Potentialities

Quebec — The Quebec woodlands which already provide the raw material for the province's most valuable industry may produce even more in the future — states the Quebec Forest Industries Association in a booklet entitled "The Quebec Forest", published recently.

According to the Association, the possibility of the woodlands may not yet have been reached, particularly because of the following main factors:

1. Much of the Quebec forest is still vacant. One-third of the Crown forests which constitute nine-tenths of the accessible Quebec woodlands are leased to industry as timber limits. However, the province grants for short periods small areas of vacant lands.

2. Industry harvests in Crown timber limits less wood than authorized by the Government. In 1955, only 88.5% of the authorized quantity was cut.

3. The development of the plastic and composite wood products industries, and modern forest management methods have already raised the productive yield of the forest, and present forestry research is directed towards increasing still further the forest crop.

Industry itself has the greatest stake in preserving the forest harvest, states the Association, to ensure the future of the mills. Industry therefore incurs large expenditures for the conservation and the management of the forest.

The wood harvest in Quebec Crown timber limits is regulated by the Government to the extent that practically no timber is cut on leased lands without the knowledge and specific approval of government foresters.

Industry, it is stated by the Association, must pay all costs connected with the management of public forests, such as roads, dams, stream clearing and other installations, as well as protection against forest fires. However, the province reimburses half of the cost of actual fire-fighting. Stumpage dues and ground rent paid over and above other operating expenses in 1954-55 brought substantial revenues to the province in addition to the usual taxes.
