Epigram of the Week

Blessed are they who were not satisfied to let well enough alone. All the progress the world has made, we owe to them.

Leopold Carriere Elected Mayor of Lachute

Keen Civic Interest in Contests for Mayoralty and Three Council Seats

Léopold Carrière polled a majority of 117 votes over Dr. Roger Dumais, his only opponent, in the mayoralty race last Friday. The Mayor-elect was sworn into office, with six aldermen, at last evening's meeting, the regular February session of Council.

Returning Officer Jacques Poitras reported a 68 per cent vote in the election for mayor, a total of 1,422 ballots being cast out of 2,073 eligible voters in the municipality.

Voting in the East and Centre Wards was slightly under the average, there being a heavier vote polled in the West Ward.

East Ward —
Carrière	129
Dumais	89
Rejected	6
Carrière majority		40
Centre Ward —
Carrière	261
Dumais	296

Carrière majority		112
Total majority for Carrière		117

Léopold Carrière, Mayor

The individual contests for aldermen were decided by wide margins, with the exception of West Ward. Seat 2, between retiring Alderman H. Stanley Church and former Alderman Wilfrid Morrissette. The latter won by a slim 32-vote majority.

West Ward, Seat 2 —
Church	300
Morrissette	332
Rejected	9
Morrissette majority		32

Centre Ward, Seat 2, saw retiring Alderman Romain Desjardins re-elected with a 158-vote majority, defeating Georges Pariseau, local butcher - grocer, who was his only opponent.

Centre Ward, Seat 2 —
Desjardins	358
Pariseau	200
Rejected	13
Desjardins majority		158

West Ward, Seat 3 —
Lepage	422
Morrissette	203
Rejected	13
Lepage majority		219

Acclamations were given to Edgar O. Pollock, East Ward, Seat 3; Laurea Laurin, Centre Ward, Seat 3; and Dr. Jean-Paul Dorion, Centre Ward, Seat 1.

In addition to the newly-elected aldermen, the Council includes Ald. Ross R. Muir, East Ward, Seat 1; Ald. Mozart Carrière, East Ward, Seat 2; and Dr. Roger Lavigne, West Ward, Seat 1. Jacques Poitras is the secretary-treasurer.

Winning Candidates in Council Contest

Ald. Wilfrid Morrissette, who edged out retiring Alderman H. Stanley Church in West Ward (Seat 2) by a 32-vote majority. Ald. Morrissette has served several terms on the local Council in past years.

Ald. Romain Desjardins, who on Friday was re-elected to Centre Ward (Seat 2), defeating Georges Pariseau, Main Street provisioner, by a decisive 158-vote majority. Ald. Desjardins has served three years on the local Council.

Ald. Nelson Lepage, who won a landslide victory in the West Ward (Seat 3) municipal contest, defeating Albert Morrissette by a majority of 219 votes. A newcomer to the civic field, Mr. Lepage is an electrician by trade.

Social Sidelight In Battery Affairs

The Lachute Battery took a rest from gun drill last Saturday and made a trip to Montreal, where a party was given at the Regimental Headquarters on Craig Street. Leaving Lachute at 8 o'clock by Provincial Transport bus, the local battery personnel and their ladies enjoyed an evening of dancing at the Sergeant's Mess, finishing the evening with a barbecue dinner put on by Headquarters.

A regimental parade and pay parade will be held in Montreal on Thursday, February 21; also a week-end scheme will be held in Farnham, Que., leaving Lachute on Saturday, February 23, and returning February 24.

The new drill hall on Robert Street is proving valuable in aiding gun drill, and the Gun Numbers Course at present being carried out by WO1 G. Hannah and S/Sgt. A. Salmon, Instructors from "I" Staff Headquarters, Montreal, is progressing satisfactorily, with actual gun drill being practiced and lectures on theory being held at the Lachute Auditorium. This course is held twice weekly, Tuesdays and Thursdays and much interest is shown by the battery personnel in this training.

Wolves Reported in Surrounding Areas

Adelard Gagné, provincial game warden here, reports the carcasses of two young female deer have been discovered in the St. Michel de Wentworth area, evidence pointing to their having been attacked and killed by wolves.

Signs of wolves are again in evidence in the Hill Head and Lakefield sections, as well as Upper Lachute, where one was narrowly missed on a hunt last week.

Prov'l Police Courses

Traffic Officers Lawrence Cruise and Paul-Emile Perrier, working out of the local Provincial Police office, returned Monday from a two-weeks training course at Provincial Police headquarters at Montreal. . . At present, Traffic Officers Gerard Loyer and Roger Massie are on the course.

Quebec Gov't to Aid Hungarian Refugees

Quebec (CP) — The Quebec government proposed Tuesday in a bill unanimously approved the legislature to set up a committee to organize and administer relief for Hungarian refugees. It will start the fund rolling with a $100,000 contribution.

The provincial cabinet is authorized to appoint the committee of two or three members.

Broadly, it will be charged with co-ordination of social, educational and medical services for refugees.

It is authorized to collect money or goods from all municipal corporations and private corporations or companies.

Blitzkrieg Canvass New Note This Year In Red Cross Drive

The 1957 Red Cross campaign for funds in the Lachute area will take the form of "Blitz" on the evening of Tuesday, February 26 — it was announced by the campaign committee early this week. An objective of $3,500 has been set for the area, and to date, all preliminary arrangements in dividing Lachute and Ayersville into 21 sections have been completed.

Captains have been appointed for each of the zones, and they are presently choosing their canvassers in sufficient numbers to cover the area in the allotted time — this being from 6 to 10 p.m., February 26.

The "Blitz" will be started by a general noise-producing campaign, in which it is hoped to include all factory whistles, the fire whistle, all church bells, etc., and following this, canvassers will make their rounds, completing the major portion of the campaign within a few hours.

Contributions may be left with neighbors, or in the event that any are missed the night of the Blitz, an effort will be made to canvass them within the following days. Contributions from the Special Names list will be solicited prior to the "Blitz", which is scheduled to co-incide with the Provincial Campaign, from February 23 to March 9.

Local citizens are requested to have their contributions ready when the canvasser calls — and to give generously, as they have in the past, remembering the good work the Red Cross has done recently within the province as well as elsewhere. The calls for assistance have been increasing yearly; expenses are up; and in order to maintain the good work accomplished in the past, the objective must be met or surpassed.

The various captains for the County will meet at campaign headquarters (Farmers' Supply Co.) tomorrow, Friday, from 8 to 10 p.m. for additional instructions. A special meeting of the "Blitz" captains for Lachute and Ayersville is scheduled for Tuesday, February 19, at 8 p.m., when detailed instructions will be outlined to ensure that all is in readiness.

The final pre-campaign meeting will be the following evening, Wednesday, when all captains will meet to clear up any last-minute details. Light refreshments will be served following this meeting.

The campaign outside the "Blitz" area will be carried on by personal contact, as in past years, during the February 23 - March 9 period, and the appeal for generosity is every bit as important here as during the "Blitz".

The Campaign Committee is as follows: Chairman, Colin C. McOuat; co-chairman, Gorden Tabrett.

Conveners — East End, Mrs. Mac Walker, Mrs. J. A. Gordon; West End, Mrs. Richard Ayers, André Deslauriers.

Campaign Treasurer — C. E. Richardson.

"Health Week" Sets Theme at Service Club Night

Dr. A. Geddes, Authority on Pediatrics, Gives Timely and Absorbing Topic

Another Outstanding Meeting of Lions Club, Ladies and Medical Fraternity as Guests

The Lions Club supper at the Legion Hall on Tuesday was attended by Lions and their ladies, with no fewer than six physicians (either members or guests), and a distinguished medical speaker, to emphasize the observance of National Health Week. The total attendance reached over 100, and with President Jos. Dumais as chairman, the event proved another highlight in this season's program.

Guest speaker was Dr. A. K. Geddes, pediatrician-in-charge at Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, and Associate Professor of Medicine at McGill, who was introduced by his medical colleague, Lion Dr. F. W. FitzGerald — the latter having been instrumental in inviting this noted authority to Lachute.

Speaking on "The changing picture in infant and child care," Dr. Geddes dealt with that subject in terms as untechnical as its title. He cited the medieval attitude to childhood in Britain to show just how far the civilized conception had progressed in a little over 100 years. In the "age of elegance", child labor was paramount to child slavery. Children worked all day, mining coal underground, cleaning chimneys for "chimney sweeps" and other unsavory occupations — so that the London Times, in its New Year's optimism, forecast that 1814 would be a year so prosperous that "there should be work for every child in England."

The speaker opined that, in those grim days, "a woman had to bear a dozen children, to be reasonably sure that four or five would grow to maturity." The life expectancy of our grandparents, at birth, was 35 years. Children born today, however, can anticipate a life span of 60 or 70 years. . . In other words, chances of a child's survival had doubled in less than a century.

(Here Dr. Geddes observed the average was counteracted to some degree by heart ailments and modern "stress" diseases, increasing the number of deaths from age 40 upward. This was attributable to evolution from the agrarian to the urban mode of life.)

Reasons for the tremendously greater chance of survival today, were not difficult to discern. It is unusual for modern babes to die of respiratory diseases, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and summer diarrhoea — which were the prevalent killers a generation back. These have been overcome by immunization; new drugs and antibiotics; improved knowledge of sanitation; pure milk, pure food, pure water; vitamins, insulin, and advances in nutrition. . . To these the speaker added, the improved knowledge of a child's emotional needs — noting in this detail a "reversal of the pendulum" and warmly commending the changing trend, to "bring up children by common sense, rather than the book; by the heart, rather than the head."

Dr. Geddes quoted an analogy to spotlight those who decline to take advantage of medical discoveries, thus denying their children the protection afforded by immunization. In the use of vaccines, he placed special stress on the Salk Vaccine for poliomyelitis; and from his observation in child diseases, he emphatically believed this to be an effective preventive for paralytic polio.

"The fence (of protection) will grow stronger as medicine develops," said Dr. Geddes, "so that our children will be able to enjoy still happier, healthier, longer and more productive lives."

The visitor was cordially thanked by Col. Ernest Emmett, chairman of the Club's health and welfare committee.

Members of the Argenteuil Medical Board were guests of the Lions at this meeting.

Lion Tony Zaplasky entertained with two lively piano selections, which drew warm applause.

Mentioned in the Lions Club future program was the public bingo to take place this Friday (prizes are now on display in the Gatineau Power Co. show window); a car raffle for the coming season; and other events aimed to provide funds for the Community Arena project. Also, a students' public speaking contest is billed for the next regular meeting.

Speaker's Views Of China Enlighten Rotary Meeting

At their regular meeting last Thursday, members of Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club were briefed on details concerning the Club-sponsored trip to Quebec City for 13 local school students. . . This conducted tour of the Provincial Capital gets underway today.

A copy of the championship crest for the Midget Basketball League, sponsored by this Club, was shown to the members.

Hearty applause greeted President Keith Hickson's announcement that A. D. McGibbon & Sons had generously offered their park once again for a Fishing Derby. Plans to stage this seasonal event will get underway immediately.

Tentative date for Fellowship Night was set for February 14. The nomination and election of officers for the coming year will take place the following week.

The Club's "Education Week" program will include the teaching staffs of both Lachute High and Brownsburg High Schools as guests.

The directors reported having studied the motion to change the meeting place of the Club from Brownsburg to Lachute for a one-year period, and postponed their decision pending a reply from Rotary International.

Rotarians Dudley Boal and Gordon Tabrett were appointed auditors.

Rotarian George McGibbon then introduced the guest speaker in the person of Charles N. Abbott, a Montreal-district real estate man and farmer.

Born in Bowdon, Cheshire, Mr. Abbott was educated in the south (to lose his Lancashire accent!) then went to college in Manchester, where he regained it. He joined the Imperial Chemical Industries and was sent to China, where he studied Chinese, Japanese, Russian, French, Balinese and Chi-Chi. Before seeing the collapse of white prestige in 1940, he visited Canada and became interested in the Alberta oil fields, later returning to China, where he escaped from Shanghai just a jump ahead of the Japanese.

Arriving in Canada, he joined C-I-L, but finally achieved true independence by becoming a "money-losing farmer" and a "money-making real estate broker."

Mr. Abbott opened with his first impressions of China, elaborating on a magistrate who had jurisdiction over seven million people, yet was travelling tourist class. He explained that this was necessary as he had to educate his children in England (otherwise in later years they could not join clubs, organizations, etc.) He went on to talk of the poverty in China, where people

Local Girl Is 'Shorthorn Lassie' At Agric'l Show

Miss Joan Oswald, of Ste. Scholastique, former student at Lachute High School, was chosen "Shorthorn Lassie" to represent the Quebec Shorthorn Breeders at the National Salon of Agriculture in the Show Mart, Montreal, from February 8-17. Miss Oswald will commence her role on the opening day and will make several appearances with the champion Shorthorn steer, including two TV appearances. She is a former active member of the Lachute 4-H Club.

The Shorthorn Lassie idea was for the sole purpose of promoting the beef Shorthorn breed at the International Exhibition in Chicago last fall. Lassie Queens from 12 States took part, including a representative from the Province of Ontario. From these "Lassies", the National Queen was chosen and "reigned" over the show. Top-flight publicity followed by a top product are the two main aims of any business. This was proven by the publicity put on by the Shorthorn Lassies at the International, and the fact that a Shorthorn steer won the Supreme Championship over all breeds, and was sold for a record price of $20.50 per pound.

Driver Charged, Failing to Halt For School Bus

Gaetan Lapointe, 26, of Beech Ridge, has been charged under Section 36a of the Quebec Motor Vehicles Act, for failing to stop on approaching a stationary school bus.

The charge was laid in connection with a minor accident January 23 in which a Lachute High School bus serving the St. Andrews East - Lachute Road area, was struck by the Lapointe truck, while schoolchildren were embarking on the bus. The accident occurred on Lachute Road, opposite the Roger farm, and the truck loaded with pulpwood was identified by students in the vehicle. Traffic Officer Albert Legault investigated the incident, Det. Ralph Allen later laying the charge.

Det. Allen cited Section 36a of the Quebec Motor Vehicles Act, as follows:

"When a motor vehicle approaches an autobus which is stationary for the purpose of taking on or discharging one or more passengers, the operator of such vehicle shall not drive beyond, or meet such autobus, nor shall the operator of such autobus start same until all passengers are taken aboard or, as the case may be, those who have alighted have reached the side of the road.

"This provision shall not apply within the limits of a city or town."

Receives Life-Saving Medal

James McMahon, of Lachute, receiving the Canadian Electrical Association's resuscitation medal from Mr. A. C. Abbott, president of the association. Mr. McMahon, an employee of the Gatineau Power Company, was responsible for the successful resuscitation of Jean-Paul Chevrier, in Dorion, Que., on April 23, 1956.

Wilbrod Chevrier, of Dorion, Que., also an employee of Gatineau Power Company, was presented with the association's Certificate of Assistance by Mr. Abbott.

Ayers Caisse Populaire

Next Thursday evening, February 14, the annual general meeting of the Ayers Limited Caisse Populaire will be held in the Immaculée Conception girls' high school.

The agenda will include presentation of the manager's report and reports of the various committees, and election of officers to replace several members whose terms have been completed.

The public are cordially invited.

Plans to Revitalize Argenteuil Fish-Game Protective Association

Preliminary plans for the reorganization of the Argenteuil Fish and Game Association were discussed by a group of local outdoor enthusiasts Monday evening, the date for a general meeting of all interested citizens being set for Thursday, February 21, at 8 p.m. in the Lachute Legion Hall.

The Association was formed some years ago and holds a charter from the Provincial Government, in addition to being connected with the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game which will entitle all members to the privileges of this association. This, in turn, makes any local members eligible for prizes offered by the Federation, or by Molson's Brewery, who yearly sponsor a fishing contest. The local Association at one time had some 500 active members but ceased to function two years ago, due to administrative difficulties.

An appeal is being made to all hunting and fishing enthusiasts of the district to attend the general meeting, at which time a nominating committee will be appointed to draw up a slate of officers. It is anticipated this committee will propose a president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer, along with five directors. Another meeting will then be called, at which the general membership will be requested to add to the slate, so that a directorate of 12 will be available — elections, if necessary, then being held.

Yearly membership fees will for the present remain as they were before the Association ceased to operate, namely $1 per adult and 25 cents for children under 16 years of age, and these membership cards will be available at the February 21 meeting. In addition to general organization and the soliciting of memberships from those in attendance, several guest speakers and films have been lined up for the evening.

One long-term project suggested at Monday's meeting was a restocking program in a section of the West River especially suited to trout, with several lakes also being mentioned as possible sites for the "planting" of fish. It is the aim of the Association not only to stress conservation but to do some constructive work promoting this cause. To do this, the co-operation of all sportsmen is solicited.

Family income in Canada has nearly doubled in the last 10 years while statistics show that the actual cost of living has risen just slightly over 50 per cent.

Meeting Held to Plan Reorganization, Arg. - Two Mountains Liberal Assoc'n

At McArthur's Hall on Tuesday evening, a gathering was held including most of the active Liberal organizers of the Counties of Argenteuil & Two Mountains. Over 50 representatives were present from the four corners of these two counties, including Lachute, St. Hermas, Grenville, St. Placide, Dalesville, Ayersville, Chatham, St. Adolphe, St. Michel, St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac, Calumet, Brownsburg, St. Benoit, Oka and Huberdeau.

Dr. A. Thibeaudeau, of St. Eustache, former president of the Two Mountains Liberal organization, who was to be present, sent word that unexpectedly he was prevented from attending, but voiced his support of the meeting.

Mr. Laurent Chantal, Mayor of Calumet, sent a telegram regretting his absence due to a municipal meeting, but gave his full support to Mr. Philippe Valois.

The meeting was under the joint chairmanship of the Hon. Georges A. Dansereau, and of Mr. Sylvio Lavigne, Mayor of St. Placide, and among those on the platform were Bernard Gosselin, Mrs. G. McGibbon and R. Morrissette, Mayor of Ayersville. In the audience were aldermen and councillors of various municipalities.

Philippe Valois, M.P., was the main speaker, explaining the reasons for the meeting, which he said had sprung from the desire, often expressed, of re-organizing the Liberal Association, or rather, since there had never been an organization as such for Argenteuil and Two Mountains, to form an organization that would include the two counties. He reminded his audience that it has been a standard custom in his county that the member ending his mandate and desiring to continue it, never had to call an official convention, but rather a nominal convention was made — as a rallying point and as the starting of the campaign, more than anything else.

He reported, for instance, that the Hon. Georges Dansereau had to face a convention in 1935, when he was first elected, and then was nominated at each term automatically.

Mr. James McGibbon had to face a convention in 1940, but only called a nominal nomination for the renewal of his mandate in 1945.

Mr. Valois also recalled that he was the only active officer left of the whole Liberal organization — the president, Mr. Black being in ill-health and inactive for many years, and the other secretary not having taken any active part in any election for the last three campaigns. Mr. Valois also added that

The Gordon Report And Agriculture

A special broadcast on February 4, dealing with the Gordon Royal Commission, explained to farmers the Commission's forecast for agriculture for the next 25 years.

In June, 1955 the Canadian government appointed a Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects. The purpose of the Commission was "to make a broad examination of the Canadian economy, to survey the direction in which it seems likely to develop over the next 25 years and to discuss some of the problems which Canada may expect to encounter along the way."

The Commission, under the chairmanship of W. L. Gordon, Toronto accountant and economist, issued a preliminary report in January. The following paragraphs summarize some of the main points of the Commission's report in regard to agriculture.

The directions of change in the next 25 years can be expected to follow the broad trends evident in recent years. Further adjustments to mechanization will occur — land will continue to go out of farming in eastern Canada, and farms become larger in western Canada.

Up to 1965 the increases in output required to meet the rising domestic demand will be small.

In the latter half of the 25 year period, intensification of land use will become increasingly evident. Farmers will move toward more meat production and higher output of poultry and eggs. There will be substantially more hog raising, particularly on the prairies, and more cattle raising in all parts of Canada.

External demands for Canadian farm products are not likely to increase materially. Imports will not be a serious problem for Canadian farmers.

Substantial irrigation projects, while desirable from the standpoint of local areas, could be harmful rather than helpful to farmers in the aggregate.

Speaking generally, any successful plans for raising farm income in Nova Scotia, and probably in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island as well, will have to include provision for a consolidation of farms, where possible, and assistance to those people who may be willing to move to other occupations.

The federal government should assist the governments of the three provinces in providing credit to finance larger holdings, and in giving assistance, financial and otherwise, to people wishing to be re-located and re-established in other industries.

There will be increasing demand for farm credit to finance fatherson transfers and to finance capital expenditures required for efficient production with a changing technology.

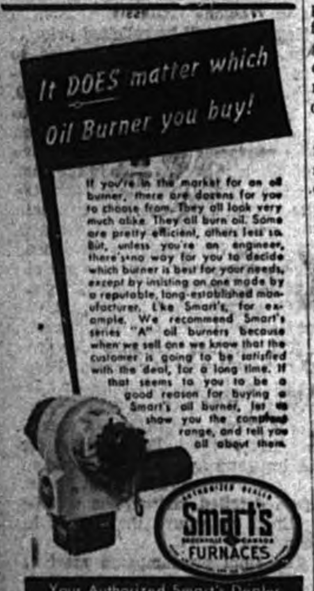

As long as farm incomes are relatively low and irregular, fixed annual payments should be no larger than necessary.

Farm credit agencies could appropriately extend the period of repayment up to 40 years for long-term loans and to 5 or 6 years for intermediate loans.

The further growth of the co-operative movement and of compulsory marketing boards seems to be highly probable.

The object of a price support program for farmers should be roughly the same as that of unemployment assistance to the industrial workers — namely, to mitigate distress due to economic fluctuations.

The determination of support prices on the advice of a full-time board would be preferable to the application of more or less automatic formulae.

DISTRICT NEWS FROM OUR COUNTY CORRESPONDENTS

Avoca

Miss Margaret Bates, of Montreal, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bates. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Farara, of Grenville, were guests at the Bates home on Sunday.

Miss Joan Vaillancourt, of Montreal, spent the week-end at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wright and infant son, of Montreal, visited the latter's parents over the week-end.

Mrs. Wm. MacLeod returned home after spending the past week in Montreal.

The Rev. Wm. Toller, pastor of the Baptist Church, held Sunday service at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith. The young girls sang a number of selections during the service. Next service, on Sunday, February 10, will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Andrews at 3 p.m.

Birthday greetings are extended to the following in February — Mrs. Sandy Bates, Mrs. Jos. Young, Mr. and Mrs. John Dobbie in Harrington; Mrs. Neil McCallum, Elmer McCallum, Mrs. McPhee, Mrs. Wm. H. Kelly, Kathleen and Carolyn Kelly, of Aylmer, Que., Cecil Young, Janice Young, Elmer Kelly, Jackie Kelly and Marie Provencal.

St. Andrews East

Mrs. D. E. Galloway spent a few days last week visiting Mrs. Leo Ryan, in the Town of Mount Royal.

Mr. Leslie Eby, of Ste. Therese, visited Mr. K. de la Ronde on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rayson and little daughter, of Dorion, Que., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sack.

Mrs. Rupert Davidson and son, Donald, of Montreal, spent the week-end with Mr. Percy Hall.

Much sympathy is felt for Miss Ida Hopper in the death of her brother, Clive, who passed away Sunday after a long illness at St. Anne's Military Hospital.

Mr. Keith Pitcairn, of Como, Que., visited friends here on Saturday.

Annual Meeting of United Church

The annual meeting of the United Church was held Friday night, in the newly-decorated basement hall.

An excellent supper, served by the ladies of the church, was followed by the business meeting, with the Rev. J. R. Watson in the chair.

Encouraging reports were presented by the various organizations, and everything points to success in the coming year.

Ogdensburg

Mr. and Mrs. F. Elliott and son, Bruce, of Montreal, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. Lawton.

Mr. Paul Barrett, of Lachine, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. R. Townsend.

Week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Duratny, were Mr. and Mrs. Don Reddy, of Ottawa, and Mr. and Mrs. G. Single, of Lachine.

Miss Joyce Plummer spent the week-end with Miss Julia Kettyle at Upper Lachute.

Farm Forum Opinion

The Farm Forum meeting this week was a discussion on the Gordon Commission and its predictions for Canadian agriculture during the next 25 years. The members were of the opinion that 25 years was much too long a time to attempt a forecast, with world conditions changing at the rate they are today. They thought that a forecast for a shorter period, say 10 years, would have proved more interesting, and would enable the Forum groups to discuss the topic more fully.

The meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Plummer. There were 11 members present.

OBITUARY

Late Thomas A. Sinclair

Rockway Valley — This community was saddened by the sudden death, on Sunday, January 27, of Thomas A. Sinclair, in his 60th year. He had been in poor health for some time, but always hopeful of recovery.

The funeral service was held in St. George's Church, Rockway, conducted by the Rev. C. R. Lang, of Lachute. Mrs. W. L. Morrison played the organ and rendered suitable selections. Pal-bearers were — Jack Smith, James Craig, Leslie Cooke, Douglas McArthur, Thomas C. Sinclair and Thomas Patterson.

The church was filled to its capacity with relatives, friends and neighbors, to pay their gesture of respect to the deceased.

The late Thomas Sinclair was a prominent citizen, highly respected by all who knew him. He held office as secretary of the local Rockway School Board for 18 years, later serving on the Arundel School Board. He was also a leader in the Arundel Orange Lodge.

Left to mourn his loss are two brothers and two sisters — William, of Rockway; Edward, of Lachine; Emma (Mrs. Potter), of Montreal; May (Mrs. Pritchard), of Verdun; and two nephews, Robert and James.

Cushing

Cushing is really being put on the map by North River hockey team and their invited guests from CFCF. Through this medium Cushing has received some notable publicity.

Miss E. M. Graham, of Verdun, spent the week-end at Bayside Farm.

Mr. Lorne Martin and Mr. Joe Dawson, Sr., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Coney at "Stonehaven" last Saturday.

St. Mungo's annual meeting will be held Tuesday evening, February 12, at the manse at 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Elliott and family visited Mrs. H. Wilkins, of St. Jerome, on Sunday.

St. Mungo's W.M.S. will meet at the home of Mrs. L. M. Gaston on Tuesday afternoon, February 12, at the usual hour.

Mrs. F. Wilkins, Mrs. H. Albright, and Mr. E. Dudley, of St. Jerome, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bryerton.

Late Mrs. Robert Stewart

A lifelong resident of Brownsburg, in the person of Mrs. Robert Stewart, passed away at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Leo. Holt, Lachute, on Friday last, February 1. In her 76th year, the former Adeline Martin was predeceased by her husband, and leaves to mourn her loss four sons and four daughters.

The surviving family are Kenneth, Jack and Douglas, all of Brownsburg, George, of Ottawa; Ida (Mrs. Leo. Holt), of Lachute; Lorna (Mrs. R. B. Todd), of St. Lambert; Jessie (Mrs. T. Q. Studholme), and Marion (Mrs. R. T. R. Pugsley), both of Montreal; also a brother, James Martin, of Lachute, and three sisters, Mrs. S. A. Wilson and Mrs. Albinie Brunelle, of Brownsburg, and Mrs. Walter Clausen, of Montreal.

Funeral service was held Sunday at the Maple Avenue Baptist Church, interment taking place in Lachute.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Percy Martin, John Morrow, two nephews of the deceased, Thomas Izzard, R. J. Moncrieff, William Hamilton and William Campbell.

Former Lachute Man Was Widely Related

The Late Jérémie Brunet

Jérémie Brunet, a former Lachute resident of some 35 years, passed away at the home of his son in Pont Viau, January 23, in his 81st year. He was predeceased by his wife, the former Florida Pilon, in 1944, and is mourned by 71 descendents, including four sons, eight daughters, 39 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

He is survived by his daughters, Mesdames Paul Comeau (Amanda), Georges Ledoux (Fidèle), Henri Brosseau (Germaine), all of Montreal; Armand Filion (Gertrude), of St. Hermas; Roma Pilon (Geneviève), Roland Malette (Réella), of Lachute; Georges Filion (Jovite), of St. Eustache, Yolain Lainesse (Marguerite). Another daughter, Mme Fernand Laframboise (Oriza), of Ayersville, predeceased him.

He is also mourned by his sons, Aldège, of Pont Viau, Natréo, of Montréal, Hervé, of Springfield, U.S.A., and Nadeau Brunet, of Montreal.

Protection

...at your fingertips

Safety in the automobile is optional at no extra cost. No mechanical safety device can replace the protection of careful driving.

Last year, traffic accidents claimed the lives of more Canadians than ever before. Someone was injured every 8 minutes. A car was damaged every 48 seconds. Automobile insurance claims rose to more than one hundred million dollars.

One result of this is higher automobile insurance rates — because what is paid out in claims must be brought in by premiums. But even more important is the fact that you hold your life, and the lives of others, in your hands when you get behind the wheel of a car.

Safety pays dividends . . . saves lives, helps to lower your insurance costs. Be Careful.

Sick Absenteeism — An Uncharted Loss

ENORMOUS wastage occurs in Canadian industry as a result of illness, according to a recent survey — and the problem is of timely concern with the observance of National Health Week (February 3-9). Most authorities believe that a good industrial health service should emphasize the control of sickness-absenteeism through proper records. It is believed that accurate methods of recording absence due to sickness will stimulate interest on the part of management in a preventive industrial health program.

In this line of thought, it is interesting to note that a size-up has been instituted on record-keeping among industrial firms in Ontario. How many firms record time lost due to sickness? Are such records adequate? . . .

Prompted by these and other questions, the Health League of Canada undertook to contact, by mail, approximately 1,000 firms of varying sizes in Ontario. Response to this questionnaire mailing was nearly 30%. A report of the findings is now being prepared, but in the meantime, it is somewhat surprising to note that nearly two-thirds of the industrial firms in Ontario do not know the cost of sickness and accidents in their operations.

Getting Wise

SOLICITOR GENERAL Antoine Rivard has stated the Quebec Government would have to intervene if some municipalities continued to "abuse the powers granted them to regulate traffic laws within their territory." Although he did not name any of the "guilty" municipalities, it is understood most of them are in the Montreal area. . . And we in Lachute, driving through several satellite towns en route to Montreal, could venture a guess to fill in one or two of the blanks in Mr. Rivard's accusation!

Mr. Rivard recalled that the government had granted municipalities the right to collect fines from motorists who broke traffic regulations and to keep the entire proceeds. But when the law was changed, it was not with the intention of providing additional sources of revenues to municipalities.

The Solicitor-General said some municipalities had used these powers to harass well-intentioned motorists. Among other things, speed limit signs have been set up in such a way as to make it difficult for a motorist to tell when he entered a 30-mile per hour zone.

Some municipalities have extracted fines sufficient to enable them "to hire police chiefs and set up a force of officers." . . . "If the government continues to receive complaints, legislation will have to be brought down to bring to an end these abuses," is the Solicitor-General's warning.

Job for A Businessman

THE CANADA COUNCIL, with the income from $50-million to spend on encouraging the arts, humanities and social sciences, is due to be appointed very soon; and the Government is expected to name a businessman as its chairman. There will then be an outcry from artistic souls, says The Financial Post, who presumably would prefer a poet, painter or pianist for the job.

Poets, painters and pianists are among the people the Canada Council will be able to help. It will undoubtedly seek and obtain the advice of gifted and representative people in all the arts. But, argues The Post, there is no good reason why its chairman or the members of its governing branch should themselves be persons capable of producing a sonnet, a landscape, or a sonata. On the contrary, there is every reason why the chairman and most of his board should have the quite different talents of a businessman.

They will have an executive job, a job of getting things done, spending money wisely, managing staff, allotting grants fairly to various kinds of effort, and sizing up the responsibility of those who ask for or recommend the Council's support.

THE PAST 25 years has seen great strides in conquering the Canadian winter. The next 25 will probably see even more, observes the Stanstead Journal.

Blueprint for Progress

THE COLOMBO PLAN for aid to underdeveloped nations of Asia, originally scheduled to end in June this year, has been extended to 1961 in view of its demonstrated success and Asia's continuing needs.

Started six years ago as a British Commonwealth undertaking, the contributing nations now total 17, including the United States. Canada, a contributor from the start, last year boosted her allotment to $34,400,000 or $8,000,000 higher than in 1955. Beneficiaries are India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Burma, Malaya, Nepal, Cambodia, Laos, Viet Nam, Thailand, Indonesia and the Philippines.

These countries hold 660,000,000 population, by an estimate of the National Geographic Society — more than 25 per cent of the world's population.

When the Colombo Plan was set up in 1951, the natives of these areas had a per capita income equalling less than $100 a year.. Illiteracy and disease were rampant. Millions were on the edge of starvation.

But their lands have a rich potential of productivity, and therefore the main emphasis of the Colombo Plan has been on increased food production. Big irrigation projects have turned thousands of once-useless acres into useful agricultural land. Introduction of modern farming techniques has stepped up the yields.

India, for instance, has shown a 25-per-cent increase in food production since 1950. This year another 7,000,000 newly-irrigated acres go under cultivation. Pakistan will have another 4,000,000 acres, Thailand more than 2,000,000.

Most public interest in the plan has probably been captured by the big irrigation dams and hydro projects, but it has many facets. Industrial plants, new roads and better railways are among them.

But also as a result of the plan, more than 1,000,000 Vietnamese have learned to read and write. The death rate in Ceylon has been reduced by almost one-fifth.

Long after the ravages of war have disappeared, the results of the Colombo Plan should be monuments to man's imagination.

New One Coming Up — National Electrical Week

THE ELECTRICAL industry, born only 77 years ago when Thomas Edison produced the first practical electric light bulb, has grown by leaps and bounds since then, to become one of the largest and most vital on the continent.

Its progress has been so great that one might think that sooner or later the men who figure out new ways of putting electricity to work would begin to slow down!

However, today's most modern home, despite what its proud owner might think, will tomorrow be far from the last word in electrical living. And, as well, amazing new applications of electricity are being developed in offices and factories to increase efficiency and productivity.

Ideas under study, right now, in the electrical research laboratories, will in all likelihood produce a number of gadgets and accessories which sound almost unbelievable to the average householder today. These appliances of the future will be added to a list of some 70 or more electrical servants available today. To operate them efficiently and safely, home electrical systems will have to be of adequate capacity.

But the sad fact is that the wiring in three out of four houses is outmoded NOW — inadequate to handle even the basic appliances available today. In other words a great number of families — some with relatively new homes — are unable to operate all of the appliances they would like to use. Far worse still is the fact that in many cases overloaded wiring is causing a serious risk of fire.

Helping to solve this problem is one of the aims of Canada's first National Electrical Week, to be observed February 10 to 16 across the country.

IT IS GOING to take a lot of good men and even more public interest, to see municipalities through the next 10 years. Just to sit back and grumble about high taxes won't find the answer to the demands for more public services, more new homes and a host of other growing pains — says the Stanstead Journal.

Liberals Plan Reorganization

the re-organization and any choosing of delegates should be done officially through the active members of the organization, and that it would be most unhealthy if this organization would spring left and right and thus create chaos, confusion and division.

Mr. Valois recalled that he has had the honor of being elected twice by the electors of Argenteuil and Two Mountains, and that as such, he has a mandate not only to represent the constituency in Ottawa but he is, until the term of his mandate, the official Liberal standard-bearer in the constituency and that any Liberal organization that claims to act within the ranks of the party should do so under his guidance and with his knowledge.

Following Mr. Valois' remarks the Hon. Georges Dansereau spoke a few well chosen words, praising Mr. Valois for his sincerity and his loyalty to the cause, and commending the idea of re-organization of the Association.

Mr. Dansereau further remarked that the mandate of Mr. Philippe Valois was not as yet expired, and would remain in force as long as his Parliament was not dissolved, which could be done only by Mr. St Laurent, and that there could not be any question of selecting any other official candidate as long as the mandate of Mr. Valois was continuing.

Mrs. George McGibbon also commended the idea of the re-organization, which she said, should strengthen the rank and file within the constituency. We had presently in Ottawa a government that was the envy not only of Canadians, but of the whole world.

Following these remarks a discussion took place and it was then moved, seconded and adopted that a provisional committee be set up for the preliminary work of re-organization, to set the constitution and by-laws and to report to a general meeting not later than April 15, 1957.

The members of the committee elected were the Hon. Georges Dansereau, Mrs. G. McGibbon, Sylvio Lavigne, Pierre Chéné, Fernand Legault, Q.C., Bernard Gosselin, Clément Legault, Charles Major, Dr. A. Thibeaudeau, Philippe Valois — the secretary being Roger Lagarde; the committees empowered to add such new members as it might see fit to choose through the constituency.

Blind Seek Extra Expense Allowance From Dominion Gov't

Victoria (CP) — The Dominion Government will be asked at this session of Parliament to provide an "expense of living" allowance for nearly 15,000 blind residents of Canada.

The allowance would cover extra expenses incurred by the blind, said Capt. M. C. Robinson, of Vancouver, national director for Western Canada of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

No set sum is being sought because the CNIB feels "the Government should determine what is a fair amount to give," he said.

The allowance now is given to war-blinded veterans but not to civilians. Capt. Robinson said the extra allowances on a veterans' pension amount to about 40 per cent.

"It costs a blind person substantially more to live than the average, just through loss of his sight," Capt. Robinson said.

Capt. Robinson, blinded in World War I, said a brief will be submitted to Ottawa this month.

Out-of-Towner Grateful To Lachute Fire Brigade

c/o Chief Fernand Trépanier.

Through this letter, I would like to thank the members of the Lachute Fire Department for the magnificent work they accomplished during the fire at my property at the corner of Catherine and Mitchell Streets, on the afternoon of January 25.

It gives me great pleasure to state that if it had not been for the prompt attention given, and the work done by the brigade, my property would have been destroyed by fire.

My sincere congratulations for the wonderful work accomplished by the Fire Department.

Sincerely yours,

Former Occupant Voices Variance of Opinion On "Bellevue", Carillon

TO THE EDITOR

January 29, 1957

Editor, Lachute Watchman

Dear Sir:

In reading a recent and very beautifully written book review which appeared in your publication on January 24, 1957, one cannot help but get a feeling of nostalgia for the Carillon of the olden days. However, through an oversight, there is a decided omission of fact from the past to the present in connection with the description of "Bellevue." Your reviewer states:

"Bellevue is now the Noviciat of the Frères de Ste. Croix. The Brothers in making changes and additions have shown a fine tact in preserving the best features of the old building."

May I say that it is doubtful if this building would be standing today had it not been for Mr. F. A. Hungerbuhler, who, as a young man in his early thirties with a love for Canada and its history, bought "Bellevue", which included the Barracks and two cottages. When he bought these buildings they were in such a state of disrepair, especially "Bellevue", that a small fortune was spent in its restoration. The whole interior of this house was "dug" out, the outside stone torn down in part and entirely reinforced and the cottages again made in a livable condition and kept occupied. "Acacia Cottage" near the barns, which he also built, has since burned down, and has been replaced by a cement-block house. There is so little of "Bellevue" remaining, even in so short a time as nine years. This has come about by necessity, I suppose. However, the beautiful little lake has gone, the acacia trees surrounding it, and the terrain altered beyond discription. One can hardly state that "the Brothers have shown fine tact in preserving the best features of the old building." We are indeed grateful for the preservation of historical facts, but let us "give unto Ceasar." . .

Yours very truly,

— S. Hungerbuhler

Echo of Morin Heights Lake-in-Village Project

TO THE EDITOR

Saint Jerome, Que.,
February 4, 1957

Dear Editor:

In reply to "Morin Heights Citizen" last week, I think it only fair to suggest that he or she dig up the Watchman files for 1938 and 1939 when the Municipal Association of Morin Heights attacked the lake-in-the-village as a major project.

Prof. McKergow, the president, and a group of well-wishers, would have put in a lake if it had been at all feasible. Our activities brought out one conclusion, namely, "The Lord helps them who help themselves." I am sure those close to both Federal and Provincial Governments will agree that there are no fairy godparents about, ready to make dreams come true for anyone unwilling to help himself. So until the Chamber of Commerce is something more than a name and its membership more active than at present, an appeal to any government or other authority is futile.

If your correspondent will communicate with me, I shall be happy to recount the history of our attempts to bring Morin Heights its lake. Thank you.

In renewing his subscription, a Watchman reader in Grenville adds the following note:

"I think The Watchman is the most interesting small-town newspaper I have seen yet.

"In regard to item about the recent cold spell, I would like to remark that during the latter part of January or first week in February in 1934 the mercury dipped to 50 below at Grenville, 56 in St. Philippe and 52 in Lachute. Sorry, I haven't the exact date."

WHOOPEE! . . Win A Poultry House, FREE!

HOW: Just fill out an entry blank form which you can get from us. It's that easy — nothing to pay — or buy — just say how many chicks you intend to start this year, and the approximate date you expect to get them.

From all the cards sent in will be drawn a lucky winner—and that winner may just as well be YOU.

WHAT YOU CAN WIN: A 1,000-hen Reynolds aluminum cage laying - house, fully equipped with Pockman laying cages and with 1,000 ready-to-lay pullets!

But you'll never win it unless you fill out and send in an entry card. So hurry, hurry here for your card, fill it in and get started to win. The time is limited, and also the cards, so do it NOW.

To My Fellow Citizens

I offer my sincere thanks to each and every one of you, even to those who voted against me. I warmly congratulate Mr. Mayor-elect.

It is with deep regret that I have to acknoweldge that the Rev. Fathers O'Neill and Dion were speaking the truth in their article published a very few months ago.

I beg pardon of my friends from the West Ward for not having asked them to sign my bulletin. They know very well it is not because I favor any ward in particular. I was always, and will always be, a citizen of Lachute and not a citizen of a particular ward.

Today, with elections over, I have only to wish that the new members elected will fulfil their duties to the maximum with dignity and pride, and that they will exert their effort to benefit Lachute with new industries, better wages, and make this town the best of the Ottawa Valley and the most prosperous.

ELECTRONIC EYE FOR THE BLIND

—Central Press Canadian

This experimental gadget, worn on the tip of the finger, is an electronic eye designed by telephone engineers to aid blind operators of private switchboards. It went on trial this week at the Toronto headquarters of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. At present switchboards are modified for use by blind operators, but if the trial proves successful, operators will be able to use this "phototransistor" device at standard boards.

Calgary Builder Solved Problem Of Extracting Oil

—Central Press Canadian

For over a century, the problem of separating oil from the Athabaska river tar sands puzzled geologists. In 1920, the Alberta government started an investigation into the problem which led to a series of experiments with water as the separation agent. Then came Gordon Coulson, above, a Calgary builder. He first put a sample of the tar sands in his wife's washing machine and the results confirmed his belief that the oil could be separated by a centrifuge. Now a company will use this method to start on the job of extracting what may prove to be 100 to 300 billion barrels of oil from the sand.

Former Resident Of St. Philippe Died In Providence Hosp'l

Late Mrs. James Heatlie

A well known resident of the rural community, Mrs. James Heatlie, passed away January 28 at the Providence Hospital here.

Formerly Harriet McMeekin, she was in her 87th year. She was born in Chatboro and lived her entire life in that district. She was a life member of the Grenville Baptist Mission Circle and active in its work, besides being closely devoted to her home and family. She was popularly known as "Aunt Hattie" to many of the older and younger citizens. She was predeceased by her husband, Mr. James Heatlie.

She is survived by a brother, George, of Kapuskasing; a sister, Mrs. Ralph Horner, of Brownsburg; one son, Alvin, on the home farm; three daughters, Hilda Osterheld, of Rockville Centre, N.Y., Myrtle Wilson, of Brockville, and Marguerite Gally, of Montreal (at present residing in California); also eight grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren.

The funeral service, very largely attended, was held on Wednesday, January 30, and conducted at the home by Rev. K. R. Davis, of Brownsburg, assisted by the Rev. R. Watson, of Cushing. Pallbearers were — Roy Dobbie, Fred Murray, Harold Mason, Raymond Warwick, John W. Heatlie and Kenneth Wilson. Interment was at the Ogdnesburg Cemetery.

Veteran Railroader Dies at Papineauville

Late Harvey Horace Tooke

Mr. Harvey Horace Tooke, a long-time resident of this district, passed peacefully away in his sleep on Thursday morning of last week.

Born at Leeds, Canada West, in 1866, the son of Horace Tooke and Lodema Putman, he was the last surviving member of a large family.

His wife, Catherine L. Howard, predeceased him in 1943.

Two sons, John, of St. Eustache sur-le-Lac, and Arthur, at home, also six grandchildren and five great grandchildren, are left to mourn his loss.

The deceased was a member of St. Stephens Anglican Church at Papineauville and had served as rector's warden for some years. He was also a life member of Browne Lodge, 24, A.F. & A.M., at Farnham, Que., and had received a 50-year jewel in 1945.

The service was conducted by the Rev. M. Beaufoy at the Robert Funeral Home, Montebello. Interment was in Papineauville Cemetery. The pallbearers were — Stanley Baldwin, Francis Tooke, Campbell King, Ken Bradley, Burton Deeks and Ken Brown.

Judgment For $6,241 In Hawkesbury Crash

A judgment of $6,241 and costs has been awarded by Mr. Justice Ferguson to Rodolphe Trudeau, Montreal plasterer, who was injured in a two-car highway accident near Hawkesbury in 1955.

The award was made after an Ontario Supreme Court jury found negligence on the part of both parties in the accident and set Mr. Trudeau's responsibility at 40 per cent. His damages were set at $10,402.

Ernest Sauvé, also of Montreal, driver of the other vehicle in the crash, was found 60 per cent negligent.

The accident occurred at about 10 p.m., June 19, 1955, two miles east of Hawkesbury on Highway 17 when Trudeau's west-bound car was in head-on collision with Sauvé's car.

Allegedly Admit Thefts From District Garages

Three Hull youths were recently arrested in that city, and later admitted several thefts in this locality — reports Det. Ralph Allen, in charge of the local Provincial Police detachment.

The three Hull residents, aged 18 to 20, have made statements admitting thefts from Bourgeons Garage, Simon's Crossing; Roucheon Garage, Cote St. Louis Road, and two other establishments in St. Canut and St. Jerome.

Charges have been laid and the three will be sentenced shortly.

A Tough Post

Ottawa (CP)

Trade Minister Howe has given the Commons a strong hint that the post of federal transport controller, vacated last year by Roy W. Milner in the wake of a running controversy, may be left unfilled. He said the position has become "completely untenable."

Asked to recommend immediate appointment of a new controller, Mr. Howe stated: "Whatever recommendation I may make to my colleagues, I cannot mention the name of any man who would accept that position and go before the (Commons agricultural) committee again."

Federal law provides for a controller with sweeping powers to direct movement of bulk shipments in Canada, particularly prairie grain. The powers have never been used to the full and last year Mr. Milner came under criticism from the Commons agricultural committee for the way in which prairie grain movements had been handled.

Drama for Individualism

Doris Marshall, high school drama teacher, casts "troublesome" students in roles that bring out their better selves. And lo (reports the February Reader's Digest) bullies become enemies of injustice; wall flowers blossom; dunces turn into scholars. "I have the perfect medium," says Mrs. Marshall, "for dealing with the child who's really a brat — the young egotist. If a youngster is accustomed to raising Cain in geometry class, on the stage he finds a chance to show off constructively!"

THE WEEK AT OTTAWA

by the Canadian Press

By Roy LaBerge, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Feb. 3 (CP) — The Board of Transport Commissioners has given the final go-ahead for construction of the 2,200-mile natural gas pipeline from Alberta to eastern Canada.

After a brief hearing the board said it was satisfied with the financing arrangements made by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. for the $370,000,000 project, and gave the company a construction permit with a completion deadline of December 31, 1958.

By that date, the company must complete the pipeline from the Alberta border to such eastern points as Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa.

The hearing lasted only 1¼ hours, and the commissioners took only 20 minutes to make up their minds after it was completed. But they had been considering the subject off and on since mid-1954.

Clarence D. Shepard, new chief commissioner, orally delivered the board's decision.

The day before the decision, Trade Minister Howe announced the government was satisfied with the company's financing plans, approval of which by both government and board were a necessary part of the company's go-ahead.

An agreement was signed January 30 by Trans-Canada and a federal-Ontario government crown company to build the $120,000,000, 675-mile northern Ontario leg of the pipeline. The crown corporation is to lease the northern Ontario part to Trans-Canada with a purchase option.

The agreement sets a nominal date of November 1, 1958, for completion of the 675-mile stretch between the Manitoba - Ontario border and Kapuskasing in Northern Ontario.

The company has publicly announced its securities will go on the public market February 15. Observers regard February 10 as a closer date. The securities are expected to be listed on the New York, Montreal, Toronto and Calgary exchanges.

St. Laurent's Birthday

As Prime Minister St. Laurent reached his 75th birthday February 1, he told a reporter he would quit when he no longer could pull his weight, but he hadn't reached that point yet. He was, in fact, planning to put up a vigorous battle in the next general election campaign, including a cross-country tour.

Once a visiting military dignitary had asked the secret of his health. Mr. St. Laurent said then he thought it was that the people of Canada were praying for him. He said he still felt that way.

"I have the satisfaction of feeling that I am doing my best. I have satisfaction in the feeling that a great many people in Canada recognize that I am doing my best, whether they agree or not with all my views . . . well, if I felt otherwise of the attitude of Canadians towards me, it would probably worry me somewhat and might affect my outlook and possibly my health."

A tumultuous welcome and $10-a-plate roast beef dinner at Quebec Saturday night marked the official birthday celebration as Liberal bigwigs gathered there from all across the country. Some sources close to the Liberal party saw it as more than a social gathering. With a general election expected in June, this may be the last occasion on which Liberal leaders from all over Canada were able to huddle in one spot on political tactics.

Canada's Old Age Security Fund, which pays $40 a month to everyone 70 years of age regardless of need, had a deficit of $6,200,000 at July 1st, 1956.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Baptist Congregation Welcomes New Pastor

Having been without a pastor since July, 1956, when the Rev. D. C. Merrett was called to Strathmore, Que., Lachute Baptist Church welcomed their new pastor, Mr. Kenneth Miller, on January 27 last.

Present for the day was the Rev. E. Sydney Kerr, of Snowdon, Montreal, who led the evening service. He introduced the pastor and his wife to Mr. Walter Wert and Mr. Perley McArthur, who had been called to the platform representing the Deacon's Board and the Board of Trustees, respectively. After a prayer of dedication, led by the Rev. Kerr, Mr. Wert and Mr. McArthur welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Miller on behalf of the congregation.

Mr. Miller, a native of Latrobe, Penn., is a graduate of Nyack Bible College, New York. To further his studies he went to Geneva College, Beaver Falls, N.Y., where he obtained his B.A. He then entered Toronto Baptist Seminary, graduating in 1956 with his B.Th. Former pastorates were in Nova Scotia and Courtland, Ont.

A hearty welcome is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Miller and their two children, Robin and Robert.

Gratifying Reports at Congregational Meeting Of Presbyterian Church

The annual congregational meeting of the Lachute and Brownsburg Presbyterian Churches was held in Lachute on Wednesday evening, January 30, the minister, the Rev. J. Armour, B.A., presiding.

Mr. Armour presented the report of the Kirk Session, which indicated an increase during the year of 30 members, encouraging progress in all the activities of the congregation, and an evident spirit of interest and enthusiasm, particularly in the matter of church attendance.

In presenting the financial statements the secretary, Mr. Raymond Underhill, pointed out that the year had been characterized by a very substantial increase in contributions to the work of the church locally, and that record sums had also been raised for the wider work of the church and for the support of missions.

Other reports were submitted by Mr. Mac Walker and Mr. John Connely, for the Lachute and Brownsburg Sunday Schools; Mrs. G. McGibbon and Mrs. J. Reid, for the Ladies' Aid Societies; Mrs. E. Noble, for the Women's Missionary Society; Mrs. Mac Walker, for the Choir; and Miss Eleanor Hay on behalf of the Young People's Society. The reports were adopted, and the workers of the congregations were thanked for their continuing co-operation and support.

Mr. Underhill was re-appointed secretary-treasurer, to be assisted in this task by Mr. D. MacRae, Jr. Messrs. D. MacRae, J. Simon, K. Ball, A. Cleland, K. Riley and F. Sanford were elected to the Board of Management; Messrs. F. Sanford and B. Kingsbury appointed auditors; and a resolution was passed under which the Presbyterian Record will be put into every home.

After the benediction, coffee was served by the ladies and enjoyed by all present.

Year in Review at Annual Vestry Meeting Of St. Simeon's

The annual vestry meeting of St. Simeon's Anglican Church, Lachute, was held in the church hall on Wednesday, January 30, with the Rev. C. R. Lang presiding and Mrs. W. Y. Shearsmith in the role of secretary.

Full reports of various activities were presented, together with financial statements, showing a successful year with all commitments met and a balance in hand.

Officers elected are as follows: Rector's warden Mr. B. Arran; people's warden Mr. A. G. Leggett.

Select Vestry — Mrs. W. H. Maslin, Miss L. Miller, Messrs. W. H. Maslin, S. Holt, B. Jenkins, D. Brown, Arnold Parker, R. Elliott, E. Rice, G. Silverson.

Auditors — Messrs. B. Jenkins, E. Rice, R. Elliott and Miss L. Miller.

Delegates to Synod — Dr. F. W. FitzGerald, Mr. R. Elliott; substitutes, Messrs. E. Rice and W. H. Maslin.

After adjournment of the meeting, a social hour was spent, the Ladies' Guild serving refreshments.

Ministerial Association Discusses Refugees

The Argenteuil Protestant Ministerial Association met in the Presbyterian Church at Brownsburg last Monday. The president, the Rev. H. G. Baugh, occupied the chair.

A delegation from the Department of Citizenship and Immigration was present to discuss with the ministers the problem of the Hungarian refugees. Among the many matters discussed, may be mentioned the types of immigrant, the placing and welcoming of these newcomers. The members of the Association will be glad to contact any local citizens who can in any way help in placing any of the Hungarians coming to Canada.

The meeting welcomed Mr. K. Miller, who has recently come to the Baptist congregations at Dalesville and Lachute.

The Rev. J. Armour gave an interesting address on the subject of "God and Human Suffering."

PRAYER CHANGES THINGS

Through earnest, sincere, and believing prayer, worry is changed to trust, grief gives way to hope, moral weakness is replaced by spiritual power, hatred is transformed into understanding patience and good will, tensions are relaxed, and the quieting peace of God's love enters the soul.

Nurse Completes Training Course

Miss Florence Copeland, who last week completed her three-year training at the Royal Victoria Hospital School for Nurses. A graduate of Lachute High School, Miss Copeland is the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Copeland. Graduation exercises will be held in April.

Speaker's Views On China

pick up match sticks, so that, when they have enough, they will be able to light a little fire to warm their hands; and the filth of their cities, including Shanghai with its more than five million population. The Chinese believe their country is the "middle kingdom" and their history is well recorded, even from the days of Confucius, 500 B.C.

He gave several illustrations of the Chinese sign language, pointing out its limitations; until recently it had only one sign for chemicals. Religion of any sort is not too evident, the strength of family worship and the worship of ancestors taking its place. China is free of the problems of India's caste system, and this, he stated, is one of the reasons for her progress.

One of their main troubles lies in the over-production of the human species, as, at the present time, they cannot possibly support the number of humans they are producing.

He went into the background of the struggle between Chiang Kai Chek, whom he had met on many occasions, and the Communists, mentioning Chinese lack of will to fight and the reasons behind it. At one time, a business man might be called into the army as an officer; but he could have himself replaced merely by sending a slave and giving him a few dollars to go. This meant little opposition to the Japanese; the Westerners later stood back, said "we've won the war" and let the Communists overrun the country. He added that the figure might run as high as 20 million people being shot at this time. . . .

Mr. Abbott then gave his impressions on coming to Canada from China — notably the waste that is in evidence here, instanced in "millionaires out west burning off gas from their oil wells" as there are no pipelines. "We are all guilty of waste, in some form of other," asserted the speaker.

In closing, he added he was pleased to see the influx of immigrants. "If they are to be worthy of this country, they must do as good a job, if not better, than the 400 million Chinese and countless Indians who would just love to have the opportunity of coming to Canada," he added.

Mr. Abbott was thanked for his interesting and informative talk by Syd Patterson.

A. C. Cooper tells of revolution brought by frozen foods

"Frozen foods are revolutionizing daily living," says A. C. Cooper, Manager of the Frozen Foods Warehouse of Dominion Stores Limited. "They not only save the housewife's time and cut down waste in preparing meals; they also make available all year many tempting fruits and choice meats — and a far wider variety of vegetables and seafood."

As a family man, Mr. Cooper has also benefited by the progress made in another field . . . life insurance.

Today, providing continuing income for your family is only one of the functions of life insurance. The increased flexibility of life insurance plans enables you to provide funds for emergencies, your children's education, safeguarding your home, protecting your business . . . and a retirement income for yourself.

Your life underwriter is better trained than ever to help you shape these flexible insurance plans to meet your family's needs.

In these and other ways, the life insurance companies keep in the vanguard of progress.

A total of over five billion dollars has been invested by the Life Insurance Companies in Canada, on behalf of their policyholders, in homes, roads, utilities, industrial plants and other productive enterprises.

Sawchuck Still Favorite

Most hockey men expect Terry Sawchuk will return to the Boston Bruins after giving his nerves a well-earned rest.

There seems no doubt that the star goalie's nerves were shot when he quit Boston in mid-January. But many who didn't know the trouble viewed Terry's abrupt departure with distaste. This feeling seems to have changed since the facts became known.

Sawchuk, 27-year-old Winnipeg native, could hardly be labelled a quitter. The three-time winner of the Vezina trophy many times proved his courage under fire through six National Hockey League campaigns.

B'burg Entrenched In Third Place

Final Play-off Positions In Schedule Wind-up This Week-end

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg played each of its opponent clubs once in the past week, and sandwiched a comfortable win between two uncomfortable losses. They started the round-robin with a 7-1 drubbing at the hands of Hawkesbury's high-flying Richports. Things brightened up when they took the young Alexandria entry 6-1; but Ste. Anne, with a 6-3 beating entrenched the Bombers in third place.

The locals were short-handed in all of these games, André Ouellette was the most-missed absentee. It is expected, when the team gets back to full strength, that the early-season success will return.

Jacques Racine scored Brownsburg's only goal in the Hawkesbury game, with the only assist going to Honoré Norbonne. Lesage 2, Ray Larocque 2, Bellisle, Provost and Rioux struck the blows for Hawkesbury.

In the Alexandria game, everybody got into the act. Marc Campeau got back into the scoring column for the first time since his lay-off. He scored from Laporte and Charlebois in the first period.

In the second period it was Charlebois from Laporte, Norbonne from Racine and Leveillé, and Laporte from Hebert, making it four for Brownsburg while the Labreque brothers were scoring Alexandria's only goal.

Racine from Leveillé, and then Paul Hebert from Campeau and Germain Hebert, rounded out the scoring at 6-1.

In the Ste. Anne's game, Frank Pearce scored two goals and two assists. André Legault had two assists. André Legault, and Fritz Gauthier was credited with three assists. Morin and Lalonde scored the other two Ste. Anne's goals. For Brownsburg, Jacques Racine scored one and assisted two. Marc Campeau scored two goals, Yves Laporte with two, and Jacques Leveillé, picked up the other assists.

The league race winds up this week-end — Brownsburg plays away, at Alexandria tonight, and at home on Sunday to the same team. Although the Bombers cannot win the league, play-off positions which are of such vital importance, will be decided by the wind-up games.

Baseball Pilots

SPORTS CAMERA

By Milt MacPhail,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Paraphrasing the well-known words of Gilbert and Sullivan — "a baseball manager's lot is not a happy one." Mainly because these fellows seem hard-pressed to hold a job with one club for long.

Casey Stengel, fast-talking strategist of the New York Yankees, stands all alone among current major league managers in point of continuous service with one team. "Ole Case" took over the Yankees in 1949 and undoubtedly can stay with the Bombers as long as he wants. In his eight seasons with the Yanks, Stengel has master-minded them to seven American League pennants and six world series championships.

Four American League managers have been with their clubs just two seasons each on their current tour of duty. They are Mike Higgins of Boston Red Sox, Lou Boudreau of the Kansas City Athletics, Paul Richards of Baltimore Orioles and Charley Dressen of the Washington Senators.

Three American League teams will start the 1957 season with new field bosses. Al Lopez has switched from the Cleveland Indians to replace Marty Marion with the Chicago White Sox; Jack Tighe was named manager of Detroit Tigers succeeding Bucky Harris; and Kerby Farrell replaced Lopez at Cleveland.

National League Pilots—

Walt Alston of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Birdie Tebbetts of the Cincinnati Redlegs stand as long-termers in the National League. Each will be starting his fourth season, and from their recent showings figure to be around a while longer.

Mayo Smith has led Philadelphia Phillies through two campaigns. Fred Hutchinson of the St. Louis Cardinals, Bill Rigney of the New York Giants and Bobby Bragan of the Pittsburgh Pirates all were signed before the start of the 1956 season while Fred Haney took over the Milwaukee Braves midway in the 1956 pennant race.

The National League will see one new face among the managing ranks in 1957. He is Bob Scheffing, who replaced Stan Hack as pilot of the Chicago Cubs.

Scheffing has joined an exclusive club limited to just 16 members. But the membership fluctuates greatly, and often with very little notice.

Morin Heights Skiers In Various Events

Morin Heights — No major skiing events were staged at Morin Heights over the week-end, but members of the "Vikings of Morin Heights" visited other slopes in the Laurentians and elsewhere, and brought recognition for this municipality.

Corinne Watchorn, who is now skiing for Mont Tremblant, came fourth with a time of 2.49.4 at Mont Tremblant.

At Three Rivers, in the St. Maurice Zone, two of the Vikings excelled by winning the Zone Championship for Class "B" Cross-Country — Johannes Sauger made the second best time of the day, and Gunnar Wahlberg the third best time of the day.

At Ste. Marguerite, placing second in Class "C" Slalom out of a group of 60, the Vikings' only entry came with a time of 56.1 — this event being held on the Cochand slopes.

Watch for February 9 at Morin Heights, when the Vikings hold their sleigh drive, bean supper and films.

Many skiiers from the surrounding area visited the Basler "J" Bar Hill; also the Alpino T-Bar was in great demand.

Full Program Of Ladies' Curling

The Lachute lady curlers were represented at the Seigniory Club in the Sewell Trophy games by Mrs. Leonard Ayers, Mrs. L. Carrière, Mrs. Jas. MacKimmie and Mrs. J. K. Campbell (skip) — who report excellent games, while losing out in the finals of the Second Consolation Trophy.

The rinks of Mrs. E. K. Wilson, Mrs. George MceGibbon and Mrs. George Mitchell vied for the highest number of points in order to win the President's Trophy, and last Friday's game proved Mrs. F. Jeffery, Mrs. S. Milnes, Mrs. R. Cairns and Mrs. G. Mitchell (skip) the champions. At the close of the game, the president, Miss M. Scott, entertained at a tea in honor of the winning team.

Mrs. Doug MacKimmie, Mrs. R. Cairns, Mrs. F. Stein and Mrs. G. Muir (skip), are presently in Ottawa participating in the Wood Trophy Bonspiel.

A new feature this year is a provincial playdown — the winner then entering the Dominion competition. On Monday morning, Mrs. Fisher, the only Montreal entry, played-off against this Centre's team, Mrs. W. Freeland, Mrs. E. Pollock, Miss F. Carrière and Mrs. R. Fraser (skip). The Montreal team skipped by Mrs. Fraser proved to be the winner. A return match will be played in Montreal tomorrow, Friday, and the winner of the two-out-of-three series will then continue on to Quebec City, to play off for a provincial winner.

The Vice-President's Trophy Bonspiel is now in full swing, with a good entry in the competition.

The monthly meeting was held in the clubroom on Monday. March 12 was set as Visitor's Day, when eight outside rinks will be invited. Gala Day was set for February 19.

Tea was served, under the convenership of Mrs. E. K. Wilson and Mrs. John MacKimmie. Mrs. J. K. Campbell and Mrs. F. Brennian presided at the table.

On Tuesday of this week, Mrs. D. Hay, Mrs. John MacKimmie, Mrs. A. Scott and Mrs. F. Brennian (skip) visited Vankleek Hill to an Invitation Bonspiel; and today, Mrs. Mac Walker, Mrs. John MacKimmie, Mrs. C. E. Richardson and Mrs. W. M. Cottingham will visit the new rink at Rosemere.

Junior Hockey Team in Series With Hawkesbury

The Lachute Juniors will play the third game of their present series this evening, Thursday, at the Brownsburg Arena, at 8.15 o'clock. The locals, now coached by former local hockey star Conrad Gagné, are presently tied one game apiece with the Hawkesbury Juniors, this being a best-3-out-of-5 series, and are soliciting the support of a good attendance.

Two other series in the race for the Argenteuil Hockey League semi-finals are currently being played betwen St. Andrews East and E.M.B.A., another Hawkesbury team, and between L'Orignal and Calumet. The fourth game in this series will be held Sunday afternoon in Hawkesbury.

Ice Carnival

The pupils of Grade X sponsored an ice carnival last Friday evening in aid of the "Lampada" funds.

In spite of cold, wintry weather, many turned out in gay costumes. The King and Queen of the carnival were, respectively, Darrell Bates, dressed as a panda bear and Ann Gorman, representing Mickey Mouse.

There were two Midget races, in which Jennifer Hooker and Herbie Underhill excelled. Then came the Juniors, where Judy Higginson and Del MacTavish captured the title, while Marilyn Underhill and Wayne Laurin won the Intermediate races. Joyce Davis placed first in the Senior girls' competition and Arthur Gauley led the Senior boys' event.

To top the outdoor activities, there was an exhibition of broomball, the men teachers versus the boys of Grade X. The score was 3-1 in favor of the teachers.

After leaving the rink, everyone adjourned to the auditorium, when prizes for the various events were distributed by Mr. R. Bailey, after which dancing was enjoyed. Master of ceremonies was Walter Nymark. Everyone reported an enjoyable time.

Hockey

The Lachute Senior boys played host to a visiting team from Hudson last Saturday morning.

The play got off to a fast start, the puck being shot into Hudson teritory, where two penalties were dealt to Lachute players. While short-handed, the locals were kept busy on defence but the opposition failed to tally, and the first period was scoreless.

Jack Lavis, on an assist from Mervin O'Brien, opened the second period with a goal for Lachute, to be followed shortly by a tally for Hudson. Play became defensive, with close checking. Finally Bob Campbell scored, unassisted, thus pulling the LHS team ahead 2-1 at the end of the second period.

Early in the third, Hudson evened the scoring race 2-2. Excitement ran high as Jack Lavis, with his second goal of the game made it 3-2 for Lachute. Hudson, however, came back shortly with another goal to tie the score once more, 3-3. The teams were evenly matched, and it was anybody's game until the last three minutes of play. Both teams played hard for the winning goal and Hudson finally scored. However, Lachute did not lose hope and in the last minute of play they withdrew their goaler, Carl Rodger, hoping to even the score. But this was to no avail, and the visitors won by a close margin, 4-3.

The three stars of the game for Lachute were, respectively, Brent Laurin, Jack Lavis and Bob Campbell.

Exhibition Bowling This Saturday

An exhibition bowling match will be held this Saturday, February 9, at 3 p.m. in the Bolodrome, Lachute, when a Montreal Construction bowling team will meet a local team comprising Yvon Dupuis, Jim Duncan, Bud Langille, Laurent Brasseur and Howard Ward. The locals are sponsored by Campeau Hotel, and will be sporting the Lachute "Dow" All-Star colors.

Round-Robin Diversion For Un. Church Bowlers

With two-thirds of the regular schedule concluded, the Lachute United Church Bowling League takes a week off, and enjoys the diverting pastime of a social evening and round-robin contests next Monday evening. Each team will play four times, featuring novelty ends and surprise counting. Even the loser may win the prize!

The line-ups of the first games are as follows, and it is necessary that all contests start on time, especially the 7 o'clock games:

7 p.m. —
St. Georges vs. All Stars
St. David's vs. Thistles.
S.S. Teachers vs. Teenagers.
7.20 p.m. —
East Settlement vs. St. Andrews.
W.M.S. Blues vs. W.M.S. Reds.
Maple Leafs vs. St. Pats.

All games are limited to 15-minutes for the three-ends, and skips will be supplied with the line-ups for the following games of the evening. After the play, refreshments will be served and prizes presented.

Junior Curlers

Arvida High School Saturday won the Quebec schoolboy curling championships by defeating Trois-Rivières High School 10-8 for its sixth consecutive victory.

The Lake St. John district rink will represent the province in the Canadian School Championship in Winnipeg, February 18.

SMOOTH ICE MAKES DEER HELPLESS MEN SAVE HIM FROM TIMBER WOLVES

This deer, stranded on the ice of Lake Penage, near Sudbury, Ont., was understandably reluctant to make friends with the men who came to help him off the ice. Chased by wolves, he ran out on to the ice and couldn't stand up as his sharp hooves just skidded on the smooth surface. When the men approached, he made frantic efforts to become mobile but got nowhere.

With a rope around his neck, the deer is hauled across the ice, still struggling and unable to stand upright.

—Central Press Canadian Photos

When he reached shore and was on firm footing, it didn't take the deer long to vamoose. He was seen by the men from the window of a hunting lodge and a snowmobile sped to the rescue ahead of the wolves.

ARTS, BOOKS, SHOWS AND ENTERTAINMENT

Youthful Soprano, Christina Cardillo, For Community Concert Here Feb. 20

Christina Cardillo, whom the eminent conductor Charles Munch characterizes as "a young soprano endowed with a beautiful voice, intelligent musicianship and personal charm," will sing here February 20 at the High School — in the season's concluding program for Community Concerts.

The beautiful clarity and expressive sweetness of Christina Cardillo's voice has captured the hearts of America and Europe in the amazingly few years since she made her professional debut with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Possessing an extraordinary voice that won the 1954 and 1955 Metropolitan Auditions of the Air, and special Metropolitan Opera grooming at the associated Katherine Turney Long School, she can already boast a career that would seem to bely her youth. Top conductors and critics of Boston and New York, and in Italy, have enthusiastically endorsed her.

Pert, dark Christina Cardillo, from earliest remembrances, recognizes music to be an integral part of her life. She was born in Massachusetts. Her mother, Anna Cardillo, is a mezzo-soprano; she never had an opportunity to study voice, but used to sing while her husband accompanied her on the clarinet. Christina's father was the first teacher of her brother, Pat, who is now clarinetist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Pat Cardillo has always been Christina's biggest booster.

"If I hadn't gone into music" she says, "I would have chosen the field of social work for my vocation. I enjoy people, especially children, and love making them happy."

In her chosen field she accomplishes the very same aim, for through her fine artistry, she gives pleasure through the universal language of song.

Community Concerts At Hawkesbury

For the interest of Lachute Community Concerts members — to whom the hospitality of the Hawkesbury group is extended (and vice versa) on an exchange basis each season — the two remaining programs at Hawkesbury this winter will be as follows:

March 25 — Marina Svetlova, ballet.

April 29 — Beaux Arts Trio.

New American Opera Based on Balzac Story

A short story of the French master, Honoré de Balzac, has inspired the American composer Stanley Hollingsworth to write his first opera, which is to receive its premiere on television next week. The title is "La Grande Breteche" and the work will be seen on CBC-TV on Saturday afternoon, February 16 from 4 - 5 p.m. The opera was commissioned by NBC and the libretto is by the composer in collaboration with Harry Duncan.

It is the story of a married countess's unhappy love for a Spanish nobleman. Her husband overhears her bidding farewell to her lover, whom she hides in a closet. The husband asks her on her honor if someone is hiding. She swears her denial on a cross and he orders the closet door sealed off by a mason. After her husband has left she tries to remove the bricks, but he returns and discovers her scheme.

Hollingsworth studied at the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia under Gian Carlo Menotti, who recommended him to NBC. Hollingsworth taught at the Institute for a time. More recently he has been in Italy as the recipient of a Prix de Rome.

Dance Interpretations Of Two Famous Dramas

An interesting comparision of the emotional impact of the drama and the dance can be made next Wednesday at 10 p.m. by "CBC Folio" viewers. Members of two famous dance groups will give their interpretations of two famous dramas, and the program will be introduced by an authority on the subject.

The first part of the program will consist of a version of the Romeo and Juliet story danced by Emily Frankel and Mark Ryder of the Dance Drama Company of New York. It is a modern "pas de deux" with music by Tchaikovsky and choreography by the dancers.

In an effort to free themselves from the rigid rules of classical ballet many modern dance groups have acquired their own limiting rules. The young New York group to which Ryder and Miss Frankel belong has been attempting to free itself even from the rules of the moderns, and to use every form which is available to a dancer.

The second part will be an interpretation of Eugene O'Neill's powerful drama "The Emperor Jones", by Jose Limon, Lucas Hoving and Limon's company of male dancers. The score for this dance, half-an-hour long, is an original one written specially for it by the Brazilian composer, Heitor Villa-Lobos. Most of the scenes relate to the terrifying fantasies which arise in the upstart Negro emperor's mind as his power collapses and he turns into a frightened animal fleeing for his life and his sanity through the jungle.

Sammy Sales turns up in a variety of roles. He's an actor and comedian on stage, television and radio, a gag writer, and frequently sits in as a guest on panel shows. Canadians have seen him on such CBC-TV shows as Barris Beat, Cross-Canada Hit Parade, TV Theatre, On Camera and others.

Endorses Chairman Gordon On the Ills of Conformity

While our page 3 cartoonist (a Maritimer) has been having fun at the expense of the Gordon Report — Mr. Gordon has enlisted at least one cordial supporter among The Watchman's select readership.

It happened that, after the preliminary release of the Report, Walter Gordon, chairman of the Commission on this formidable survey, gave a public address in Toronto. In the course of his remarks he deplored the conformist trend among Canadians, which (he said) "becomes accentuated with the passing of time, as our revenues and our leisure increase."

It is interesting to note that one of our French-Canadian dailies capitalized on this sentiment to condemn a "Federal centralization policy which tends to lump citizens together in a prefabricated, uniform statuary" . . . so that "many visitors from abroad are inclined to disparage Canadians as dull, unimaginative and capricious."

Be that as it may. Our more immediate interest is Mr. Gordon's supporter in our ranks. Drawn to our attention are certain views expressed by Mr. A. S. Cockill, one of the newer residents of this community. In an address, delivered just a year ago at the 58th annual dinner of the St. James Literary Society in Montreal, Mr. Cockhill voiced some solid sentiments, from which we extract the following:

"Toast to Literature and the Arts"

— By A. S. Cockhill —

Recently, there appeared a cartoon which depicted a typical family seated before the television set. All members of the family watched the program intently, or rather except Johnny. He read a book. In the caption, his worried mother is saying, "There must be something wrong with him." She was right. There was something wrong with Johnny. He was committing the unpardonable sin of non-conformity. He was, unconsciosuly, defying the new idolatry. Conformity! That stifler of individualism, of creative effort, of freedom of expression — what is probably the major external stress of our time.

Let me give you a couple of examples:

Some time ago the President of Princeton University appeared before a senatorial committee to testify against a bill. Three days earlier, one of his professors had given evidence in support of the measure. This seeming violation of discipline and good order baffled one senator, who sharply questioned the President as to how it could come about that a professor was permitted to disagree with the President of his university and keep his job. Dr. Dodds, sensing that an explanation of academic freedom would only deepen the senator's convicition that he was a pretty poor example of a college president, laughed it off and suggested that his colleague had suffered momentary mental aberration.

Again, the alumni magazine of a large university took notice of the undergraduate apathy toward political and social questions. One of the causes, according to the writer, was pressure to conform, exerted by the great industrial organizations. He cited the personnel pamphlet of one of the largest corporations on the continent. The pamphlet advised students how they should behave in college if they wished to be employed on graduation. "Personal views", the student reads, "can cause a lot of trouble. The 'isms are out. Business, being what it is, naturally looks with disfavor on the wild-eyed radical or even a moderate pink." With one hand the student is offered bread — whilst the other hand gags him. Such attempts to mummify opinion are probably engendered by fear. In these anxious days, we strive feverishly for security and strongly resist any change or deviation which might disturb the status quo. Convictions and prejudices are regarded as something unlovely. It seems to me that no technique ever invented to undermine civilization could be more subtle than that which seeks to convince us that every preference is a prejudice and that all prejudices are wrong.

This is a critical stage in the world's history. We should beware of drifting into a condition pictured by W. B. Yeats in the lines:

"The best lack of conviction, while the worst
Are full of passionate intensity."

Convictions must not be stifled They must be so strongly held as not to leave "all passionate intensity" to those who are quite ready to let loose what the poet calls "the blood-dimmed tide."

August 31, 1932, is a date I well remember. On that sunny, summer day I stood with others on the shore of a lake in the Eastern Townships. Slowly, the light began to fade. Then, from the north-west, beyond the distant hills, the dark shadow of the total eclipse of the sun advanced rapidly across the water and engulfed us. The birds ceased their song, and an eerie stillness descended upon the earth. . . . Today, another and more sinister shadow seeks to engulf us — a shadow that is the abnegation of all individual freedom — the shadow of totalitarianism.

At a literary gathering in London, one of Russia's most popular writers, Fadeyov, stated recently that all subjective writing was bad, because it stressed the writer's own feelings. "It was," said Fadeyov, "egotistical and therefore worthless." Just as simply as that, he discarded the larger part of the world's great literature. That idealogical or any other considerations be allowed to stifle the individualism of writers and artists, who, by their very nature, are nonconformists, is manifestly absurd.

The artist walks where the breath of the spirit takes him. He cannot be told his direction.

From our writers we expect many things. Through their creations, we seek to enter into the lives of men, past and present, in foreign lands and at home; to know the best that has been thought and said throughout the ages. We expect, moreover, to have pointed out good and evil, in order that man can exercise his faculty to choose the one and reject the other. We expect to be reminded of what man can and must do to keep his heritage and survive.

Only in an atmosphere of complete freedom — freedom to be different, to have and to state convictions, and even to show some prejudice — can writers perform their appointed tasks.

I am not quite so sure about artists, at least those who communicate to us through the visual arts. These tantalizing individuals, whose restlessness and diversity cause so much controversy today, are the ultra-modern painters and sculptors. So many of their works portray driving inner impulses and cryptic utterances. So much so, that there is a danger lest they fail in their function of communicating their ideas, and arouse only psychic responses in certain sensitively aware minds. But, nevertheless, I firmly believe that, like the patient on the psychiatrist's couch, they must be allowed to talk themselves out.

Tradition in this field, as in any other, is built upon successful experiment. The best of today's experiments will survive and become the tradition of tomorrow.

Literature and the arts are gateways through which we reach an understanding of the complexities of personal relations — one of the vital issues of human existence — and speculate on the meaning and value of life. Not to enter, is to remain forever a child.

"Witness, how far were you from the defendant when he fired the first shot at the victim?"

"Five feet."

"How far were you when he fired the second shot?"

"Two blocks."

Old Testament Tales

Puppeteers John and Linda Keogh rehearse for the series of religious stories being shown on the CBC-TV network each week entitled "Old Testament Tales." Marionettes play the parts of Biblical characters such as David, Goliath, Jonathan, Samuel, and Noah. The stories, taken from the Bible, are dramatized for children by Clare Slater; Basil Coleman produces the series.

"SHAGGY DOG STORIES"

Under this classification are stories of animals who talk and act like human beings. For instance:

A country pigeon once flew in to Montreal, just for something to do. He saw a flock of his fellows on Dominion Square, and recognized one of them as an old friend. They stopped to exchange greetings.

"I haven't been well lately," complained the city pigeon. "Too much competition and not enough to eat. Too many cars and hardly any horses. No oats lying around, and too many pigeons to eat them."

"You ought to come out to my place," said the country pigeon. "I live just near the Blue Bonnets Race Track. Oats all over the place. Come out and have lunch with me tomorrow and if you like it I can find you a place to stay. I'll look out for you at noon tomorrow." At noon the following day the country pigeon was at the track looking for his friend, but the latter was nowhere to be seen. An hour passed, then two and three, but there was no sign of the city pigeon. But just before sunset he arrived.

"For goodness sake, what happened to you?" asked the country pigeon. "You were supposed to meet me here at noon, and now it must be after seven!"

"Yes, I know," said his city friend. "But it was such a swell day, I thought I'd walk!"

Then there's the one about the usher in the darkened movie theatre who turned on his flashlight while walking up the aisle and the light revealed a full-grown bear sitting next to the aisle. He leaned over and spoke to the man next to the bear and asked if he knew anything about how the bear got in.

"Yes," the man admitted. "He is the most intelligent bear in the world. I'm his owner and trainer."

"But what's the idea of bringing him into the theatre?" asked the usher.

"Well", said the owner. "He'd read the book, and I thought he'd like to see the film." . . .

Oh yes! I was going to tell you about the two colored men down in Louisiana — or did I say Florida — but there's not enough room on this sheet and I'm clean out. I'll get a new pad while I'm out mailing this, and let you have it next week. It's awful funny.

Be seein' ya!

Television Spurs New Trend in Reading

The spreading influence of television is having one remarkable effect on the people of Scotland writes Gordon Irving in his Scottish Newsletter to the Montreal Star. People are turning to books with documentary and informational interest, he affirms.

Television programs about distant places, unusual interest-spots and hitherto untapped subjects are causing the change.

Library authorities report that the top demand is no longer the fiction yarn or the adventure thriller. Information programs are prompting readers to follow up new interests on their library shelves.

Librarians' View

The television habit has caught on so much that families who used to relax with ever-popular detective, western or romance now spend part of that recreational time looking at programs. Librarians are not alarmed at the new trend. Television and reading have much to offer each other, they feel.

Television, much criticized though it is, may yet turn out to have boundless influence for good.

Women's Interests -- The Homemaker's Section

Teatime Topics

By Carolyn Willett,
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Written Specially for
The Lachute Watchman

What can a housewife buy for a nickel, or less?

Well, say home economists in the federal agriculture department's consumer section at Ottawa, this time of year eggs cost less than a nickel.

Supplies of top-quality eggs are plentiful now across Canada and a dozen of the best costs around 50 cents at this season.

In the consumer's section — known as Canada's Kitchen — experts are urging housewives to take advantage of the low egg prices for these reasons:

1—They can now cook egg-loaded treats that might be too expensive when egg prices rise later on;

2—They can buy eggs economically for freezing, either in the ice-cube compartment of a refrigerator or in a home freezer.

Healthy Meal

Fresh or frozen, eggs are loaded with protein value. They make a healthy meal, whether they're cooked for main courses or for cakes and desserts.

First step in freezing eggs is to use fresh eggs of the best quality. Then freeze them whole, or freeze the yolks and whites separately.

Here are the Consumer Section's suggestions for preparing eggs for freezing:

To one cup of whole eggs — a cup takes about six eggs — add half a tablespoon of sugar or half a teaspoon of salt. Break all yolks, mix thoroughly with a fork, but do not beat.

No preparation is necessary to freeze separated egg whites. Just stick them in the freezer.

For egg yolks, to one-quarter of a cup of yolks (about four yolks) add one teaspoon of sugar or one-quarter of a teaspoon of salt. Break all yolks and mix thoroughly with a fork.

Girl Guides Active

If parents have noticed their Girl Guide or Brownie daughters being especially helpful lately, it could be because the youngsters are paying tribute to their organization's founder in their own way.

Fifty years ago Lord Baden-Powell started the world-wide Scout and Guide movement.

To commemorate the founder's birth — February 22, 1857 — 140,000 Girl Guides and Brownies across Canada have promised to pay a three-fold tribute.

First of all, they've been asked to learn more about the life and work of Lord Baden-Powell.

They've also pledged to make a personal effort toward making their homes happier and better places to live, and to try to make someone outside their homes happier.

Pointers on Beef, Cuts and Quality

Marketing Service
Consumer Section,
Canada Dept. of Agriculture

"What's the difference between the various kinds of steak and how should each be cooked?"

Following are questions people have been asking about beef, with answers from the food experts of Consumer Section at Ottawa. . .

Question: What is the significance of the government stamps seen on beef?

Answer: The round purple stamp with a pattern of a crown in the centre and the words "Canada Approved" is the health inspection stamp. It means that the animal from which the meat came has been health inspected before and after slaughter and approved for human consumption by an inspector of the Canada Department of Agriculture. The inspector, a qualified veterinarian, examines the animal before slaughter and all parts of the carcass including the internal organs and glands, after slaughter. In addition the meat is re-inspected during storage and when it leaves the plant.

Most of the beef which has been health inspected and stamped "Canada Approved" is also graded and stamped by federal graders with the grade mark — A, B, C or D. A ribbon-like mark running the full length of the side indicates the grade. A section of the mark should appear on each retail cut so that the grade can be recognized. A red ribbon-mark indicates Grade A (Choice) beef, the highest quality. A blue ribbon-mark indicates Grade B (Good) beef which has less fat and a slightly lower proportion of meat to bone than Grade A. A brown ribbon-mark indicates Grade C (Commercial) beef next in quality to Grade B or Grade D (Utility) beef. Grade C (Commercial) is not marked except in Vancouver, British Columbia and Grade D (Utility) is usually sold as processed meat.

Question: What are some of the characteristics of the top grades of beef?

Answer: The meat is firm, velvety and fine-grained with streaks of fat through it. It is a uniform, rich red color but may vary from light red to dark red. Dark meat may indicate that it has been hung for some time and will probably be more tender than that which is light in color. The outside fat is white or creamy-white and firm. The bones of young animals are red and porous; in older animals they are greyish white and harder.

Besides knowing the craracteristics of good quality beef, it is important to know from what part of the animal the cut comes. Tenderest cuts are from the centre section along the back bone; the farther the cuts are from this section, the coarser and less tender the meat becomes.

Question: What's the difference between the various kinds of steak and how should each be cooked?

Answer: Flank Steak is from the flank of the animal. It is a flat, lean piece of meat with coarse fibres running lengthwise. As it is not a tender cut of meat, it should be cooked by a moist heat method such as braising. The meat should be scored or pounded before cooking to break down the long fibres. Braised stuffed flank steak served with gravy is a popular dish in many Canadian homes.

Round Steak is cut from the hip section next to the rump. It is an oval-shaped lean piece of meat containing a small round bone. Round steak may be divided into top and bottom round. Top round contains one muscle and is tender enough (in Grade A and B) to be panfried or broiled. Most round steak, however, is braised and used in such dishes as "Swiss Steak."

Cubé or Minute Steaks are thin, boneless slices of lean meat from moderately tender and less tender cuts of beef. The coarse fibers are broken down through pounding and scoring or cubing by a machine. They are usually panfried.

Sirloin Steak is cut from the sirloin section of the loin which is between the porterhouse and the round. This is the largest of the tender steaks. The amount and shape of the bone and proportion of tenderloin in sirloin steaks, depends on their position in the cut. Those next to the porterhouse have more tenderloin than those next to the round. Sirloin steaks should be panfried or broiled.

Porterhouse Steak or T-Bone Steak is from the loin section. It contains a T-shaped bone and most of the tenderloin. Sometimes the tenderloin is removed and sold separately as "fillet mignon." Both portherhouse and tenderloin are tender cuts best cooked by panfrying or broiling.

Wing or Club Steak comes from the front part of the loin section next to the rib section. It is one of the smaller steaks, triangular in shape and contains rib bone. Wing steak should be panfried or broiled.

STIR UP "NEW SOUPS FROM TWO SOUPS"

By Anne Marshall

Step into your kitchen, Milady, and stir up some "New Soups from Two Soups"! It is wonderful to discover how many extra special soups you can concoct this way . . . by simply combining a can of one kind with another. You may already be a soup mixer. And once you begin making combinations, you find a treasury of new soups to brighten meals for your family. Busy homemakers enjoy serving such sturdy quick dishes.

"Happy couples" among the soups are standbys like tomato with onion; cream of chicken with cream of celery; vegetable soup with chicken noodle.

Soups with the same basic flavour, such as the four beef kinds, will combine into a variety of lip-smacking new delicacies.

Try—Beef Soup with Beef Noodle
Vegetable Beef Soup with Beef Noodle
Beef Soup with Onion

You can even mix three soups for a "Three" star success.—Try some of these and you'll be plotting many other happy matches as you look over the dozens of kinds in a can.

BEEF NOODLE—DANDY SOUP

1 can (1¼ cups) condensed beef soup
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed beef noodle soup
1½ soup cans water

BEEFY—ONION NOODLE SOUP

1 can (1¼ cups) condensed beef soup
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed beef noodle soup
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed onion soup
2 cans water

CREAMY SAUCE TOPS TURKEY SANDWICH

Top turkey or chicken sandwiches with a deluxe creamy sauce for can't-be-beat flavour. Use condensed cream of chicken soup (or mushroom soup) for the sauce. Just blend ½ cup milk with 1 can (1¼ cups) soup. To serve, place slices of turkey or chicken on hot buttered toast. Spoon a generous amount of hot sauce over each. Pass cranberry relish, celery and olives to complete the repast. Remember hot coffee too.

TOP CHOPS WITH V-8 SAUCE

Cold weather is pork chop time. To set the chops up as real company fare, pour on about 1 cup of V-8 juice as the meat cooks. Use this amount for 4-6 chops. Let them simmer about 45 minutes or until tender, depending on the thickness of meat. Check the frying pan now and then to see if more liquid is needed. Vegetable juices put "new charm" into pork chops—a savoury meal with fluffy mashed potatoes and broccoli in lemon sauce.

CHICKEN BREASTS AU GRATIN

The French may be famous for their sauces, but this dish will win bravos for elegance with a minute's effort. Place 1 pound chicken breasts in single layer in buttered shallow baking dish (about 10" x 6" x 2"). Pour 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed cream of chicken soup over chicken. Bake one hour 350°F. Last 10 minutes of cooking time sprinkle ½ cup (2 ounces) shredded mild process cheese over chicken—makes 3-4 servings.

Q.W.I. Board Meeting In Mont'l This Week-End

The provincial board of the Quebec Women's Institutes is meeting this week, February 8-9, at the YWCA, Montreal. The provincial president, Mrs. C. D Harvey, of Stanbridge, will open the meeting Friday afternoon and welcome representatives of the Montreal Council of Women. It has become an annual event to set aside one period of this meeting for a discussion of projects of concern to both groups, with policies formulated for carrying them out. Mrs. H. F. Reusing, Council President, and Mrs. R. Ellard, of Ottawa, QWI 1st vice-president, will be co-chairmen for this session.

Among the topics to be discussed are Installment Payment of Fines, Welfare and Intergration of New Canadians, Employment of Older Women, Highway Safety and Sexual Psychopaths.

The QWI meeting will carry through to Saturday afternoon. It is anticipated nearly all board members will be present, representing all parts of the province.

Mrs. A. Cameron, of Sawyerville, Junior supervisor, is calling a meeting of Junior counsellors for today (Thursday) at the same place. Mrs. Harvey is arriving in town in time to attend this earlier gathering.

Hearts o' Gold For St. Valentine's

Everyone's sure to be intrigued when you serve these golden brown hearts garnished with a maraschino cherry. There's a good reason too, for these Golden Hearts are party fare that's taste-teasingly out of the ordinary. Actually the principal ingredient is bread but the character of the baked "Hearts" more closely resembles cake. There'll be fun and games for everyone who attempts to guess the ingredients of this tempting, mouth-watering delicacy. It's a really festive offering made from such simple ingredients as slices of fresh bread, raspberry jam, sweetened condensed milk, shredded coconut and the occasional maraschino cherry. With this recipe you're never at a loss for an easy-to-prepare snack. For a sentimental touch at showers for the bride-to-be, weddings or St. Valentine's Day parties, the bread can be cut with a heart-shaped cookie cutter. On other occasions throughout the year, the bread can be cut into fingers, circles or squares — or it can be cut Shamrock - shape for a St. Patrick's Day celebration.

Golden Hearts

(Yield — 2 dozen little cakes)

16 Slices fresh bread (cut ¼-inch thick), 1 can (1½ cups) sweetened condensed milk, thick raspberry jam, 3 cups cut-up shredded coconut, 12 well-drained red maraschino cherries (halved).

Grease a cookie sheet. Preheat oven to 400°F. (hot). Using a 2-inch heart-shaped cookie cutter, cut 48 heart shapes from bread slices. Spread half the hearts with thick raspberry jam and top with remaining bread shapes to make sandwiches. Frost all over with sweetened condensed milk and coat with cut-up shredded coconut. Arrange, well apart, on prepared cookie sheet. Top each heart with a cherry half. Bake in preheated oven until coconut is golden — 10 to 12 minutes. Cool on cookie racks.

Fashions

The sweater has undergone a complete transformation which makes it a more useful, desirable and versatile garment than ever. Here is a lemon yellow sweater that is cut like a shirt. It can be worn out or tucked in, as shown. It is side-buttoned and has ribbed collar and cuffs. It is nice with a lavender and yellow tweed skirt that is topped by a belt of dark purple suede with buckle in back.

You can't go ALL-OUT
IF you feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 53

Fellow Citizens

It is with just pride and satisfaction that I issue this first message to you in the role of Mayor of Lachute.

In a recent statement, I said both frankly and sincerely, that "to be Mayor of Lachute would be a great honor and carry considerable prestige." . . . Those are my same sentiments today, but supplemented by the most earnest desire to serve you well, and to prove myself worthy of the confidence you have shown in me.

The office of Mayor reflects not only honor, but, more important, it entails many different responsibilities. With the invaluable aid of the Councillors, with constructive suggestions from my fellow citizens, and with unswerving faith in Divine Providence, my duties as Mayor will be lightened — and, at the same time, they will be more effective for the general well-being and progress of our town.

To all those who supported me in the election campaign, I express sincere thanks. I pledge again my sincere devotion to the best interests of all.

— Léopold Carrière
Mayor of Lachute.

FOR PARENTS ONLY...
A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Convalescing Child

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

"The best part of being sick is that Mummy took time to read aloud to me . . . stories and poems. I liked A Child's Garden of Verses because there was a little boy in it who had to stay in bed for a while, too," Tommy told his chum when he got well again.

Robert Louis Stevenson writes of "the pleasant land of Counterpane" and it is a mother who makes the difference between convalescence being a happy or a boring time. It is hard for her. Extra demands are made on her time, energy and patience. But a parent and child are often drawn closer to each other during sickness.

A sick child needs more attention than a healthy one, but parents must not allow him to become a small dictator. If he is an only child, or if his illness has been very serious and they have been very anxious about him, this can easily happen. Nor should the parent, in his zeal to get the child better, assume the dictator's role.

In the first place it is well for a mother to realize that her own attitude is of tremendous importance. A mother just has to keep her courage up and look on the bright side at a time of family upheaval. Junior is sick but he will get better. His recovery will be a lot more pleasant and quicker, too, if he does not suspect that mother is worrying about him.

Fatigue, with the extra work of a patient in the house, is sometimes so great that a mother finds it very hard not to be irritable, and depressed. For that reason, she should cut out any unessentials in her day, and plan to get in a little more rest.

The doctor's orders should be followed implicitly. A mother should make sure she understands his instructions and then follow them to the letter. Friends and neighbors — and relatives too — may think they have much wiser ways to treating this particular illness. A parent may have to listen politely to their ideas, but hold fast to the resolution that the doctor is the person who is in full command of a child's recovery.

Map out your child's day so that there is a routine which is followed with time to wash, breakfast, tidying up the patient's room, free time for Junior to amuse himself, a fruit drink, more free time, dinner with a rest after his meal and definite things to do during the remainder of the day. If Junior can write, he may enjoy working out with Mother his own schedule, and tacking his own copy up on the wall. A day broken into different hours of purposeful activity does not seem to stretch out endlessly.

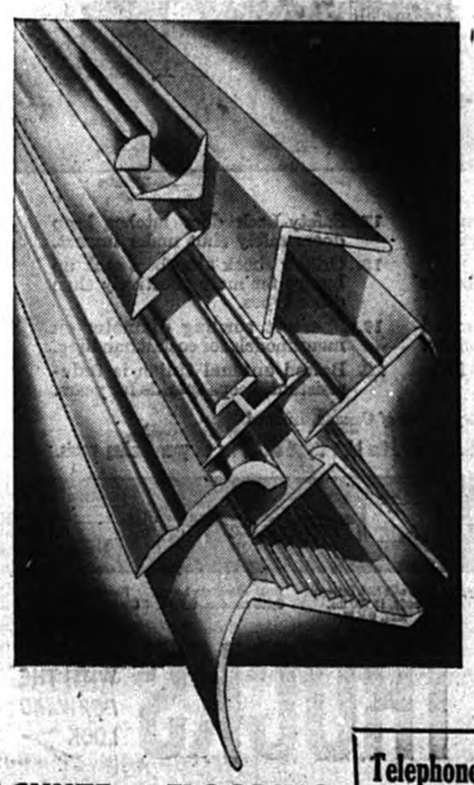

A patient, even a young one, should learn to spend part of his time happily by himself. A mother must be careful that her child's eyes are not strained by reading or handiwork during a convalescent stretch, or TV if the family owns a set. Listening to the radio, singing favorite songs, making up and telling a story are all activities which are "easy on the eyes."

Children love handicraft and a small patient needs crayons if he likes to color, blunt scissors for cutting out pictures or designs, and other play material. Simple weaving, sewing or knitting are other possible occupations. If there is a portable phonograph in the house, a child can have many happy hours playing it himself. A big calendar on the wall, with each day stroked off at night time, makes a child feel that his time for being in bed is passing.

If you have a sick child on-the-way-to-good-health again in your home, try to give him happy memories of this time!

Women's Institute

The monthly meeting of Arundel Women's Institute will take place on Wednesday evening, February 13, in the school. As this is an important meeting, all members are urged to make a special effort to attend.

The program will take the form of a Valentine party, in charge of Mrs. Roy Staniforth and Mrs. J. Macauley. Members are asked to bring a parcel, which will be auctioned off, the proceeds to be given to the Federated Institutes' Office Fund.

Members are requested to extend a cordial invitation to all husbands to attend the social hour at nine o'clock, to enjoy a pleasant time and refreshments. Please make this a real success!

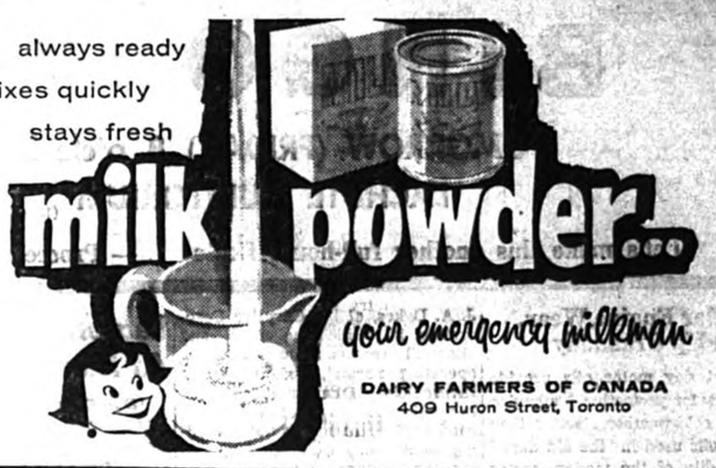

Will W.I. members please note that the course in the making of stuffed animals and jewelry starts Monday afternoon, February 11, in Maplewood Inn, and will continue through afternoons and evenings until Friday. There will be a nominal fee charged to non-members. Miss B. Altimas, of Macdonald College, will be the technician, and will be a guest at the Wednesday meeting. Please do not forget to bring (or send if unable to attend) a parcel to be auctioned off on this evening, as the object of the meeting is very important. Mrs. E. A. Bulley will act as auctioneer.

Meteor's thrifty Six saves dollars . . . makes sense!

NIAGARA 300 FOUR-DOOR SEDAN

Fuel economy is just one of the many reasons why more and more Canadians with a thrifty nature are climbing aboard the "Meteor Six bandwagon." First cost is substantially lower. Operating costs are slim. And Meteor's Six is so well-engineered, so beautifully designed, that a serviceman rarely sees it—except at auto shows! Add to these facts the high 144 hp. rating and short-stroke low friction design, and you see why Meteor's Six is Canada's most modern, cost-savingest engine. It's available in all Magnificent Meteor Niagara models. Climb aboard—it makes good sense.

Save Car Engine Wear, Warm Up Gradually

Present day motor oils provide much greater protection for engine parts in cold-weather starting than did the oils used in "the old days." The fluidity of the modern motor oil allows it to circulate freely at extremely low temperatures.

However, in spite of this technical improvement in the oil, there still exists a considerable need for care in starting a cold engine. Under no conditions should a cold engine be idled at high speeds, or driven, while cold, at speeds exceeding 30 m.p.h.

Proper procedure, according to J. A. Dykes, of the Chrysler Corporation, is to start the engine and allow oil pressure to build up to its operating normal, before moving the vehicle. If an immediate start is required, it is suggested that the car be driven at speeds not exceeding 30 m.p.h. until normal operating temperature is attained. The best possible solution is, of course, to allow the engine to run at a fast idle until it has reached the required heat.

Since the interior of the car will also be warming up at the same time, the comfort of the driver will be at a maximum, and wear and tear on the engine will be at minimum. Longer engine life will be the result.

Legion Installation At Morin Heights

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — Installation of the newly-elected officers of Branch 171, Canadian Legion, took place at the New Alpino Lodge, on January 30. Comrade President F. C. Cameron proposed a toast to the Queen, after which a buffet supper was served, about 200 guests being present. The main guests were Comrade Wing Commander J. D. Mitchner, D.F.C. and bar; C.D., Mrs. Mitchener; Comrade Mayor C. D. Campbell and Mrs. Campbell. Group Captain McNair, D.S.O., D.F.C., 2 bars, C.D. and Mrs. McNair, were also invited but could not be present; they tendered their regrets.

The installing officer was past-District Deputy Comrade Tom O'Neil, who had just returned home from hospital, and he with Mrs. O'Neil and their daughter, Miss Peggy O'Neil, were also guests for the branch. Representatives from the Legion Branch at Lachute were also present, including Comrade 1st Vice-president Dick McLean and Mrs. McLean, Comrade and Mrs. Jack MacKimmie.

Comrade Cameron, retiring-president of Branch 171, in his remarks, paid special tribute to the following for their work during the past year: Comrade Kneeland and his committee, for the increase in membership from 65 to 98 — ably assisted by Comrade H. Elias, who was also given credit for his splendid work regarding welfare and the Poppy Fund. Comrade M. M. Simms, who has found it necessary to hand in his resignation as secretary of the branch, was thanked for his efforts during his term of office.

The late Comrade Jim Gilbert, who was 1st vice-president of Provincial Command, was remembered during the two-minute silence, and tribute was paid to him for his interest in this branch.

Comrade Past-District Commander T. O'Neil then proceeded with the installation and Comrade J. W. Green acted as presenting officer. Comrade Allen Vaillancourt was installed as Sergeant-at-Arms, Comrade J. W. Green as Secretary-treasurer; the Rev. Robert Blair as Chaplain by proxy — Sqn. Leader D. Murphy acting as proxy. The executive committee are — Comrades Edwin Holgate, trustee representative; Paul Baumel, Edward Greer, Wesley Morrow. First vice-president, Eric James; 2nd vice-president, E. W. Kneeland; and finally, president re-elected, Comrade F. C. Cameron.

With the closing of this ceremony Comrade Vic Morrow, chairman of the entertainment committee, took over and a pleasant evening was enjoyed through the efforts of this committee.

Power of Unionism

By Lewis Milligan

"Union is Strength" was the fighting slogan of first trade unions, and it served its purpose at that time when labor was exploited and ill-paid by hard masters. Local strikes were frequent because they were the only means of obtaining union recognition from employers who refused to discuss grievances with their workers.

The united strength secured that recognition and eventually collective bargaining. The latter was advocated as a means of avoiding strikes and it was accepted by both parties. They sat round a table to thrash out their differences and strikes were sometimes averted by compromise. When that failed, as it did in many instances, the unsettled items in the dispute were to be decided by a board of arbitration.

To the general public, at least, all this semed fair and above board. But as the unions gathered strength by bigness, the uniting labor leaders ultimately realized that Union Is Power, and collective bargaining compromise and arbitration have gone by the board.

"O, it is excellent to have a giant's strength; but it is tyrannous to use it like a giant." The right to strike is every man's right to quit his job if he doesn't like it, but when that right is organized on a mass scale it becomes a conspiracy against the industrial life and welfare of a community and the country at large.

The right to work is an equally important human privilege, but that is cancelled out when a giant union issues an order to its members to quit working. To insure that the order is carried out, the idled workers are regimented into pickets who virtually take possession of a plant. They barricade the entire premises and assume the right and the power to prevent the entrance or exit of any vehicle or even the managers of the industry. That is not only a violation of the law of the land, but it is also a violation of the moral law of human society, entailing the deliberate improverishment of a community. If a government were to assume such dictatorial power, the people would justly rise in revolt.

It is no longer a question of the right to strike, but a question whether labor leaders should be permitted to use the power they have acquired over the lives of the workers and the management of industries. Strikes, as they have developed, are a denial of democratic freedom. They create an interlude of anarchy.

Labor unionism, whether or not its leaders are communists, if carried to its logical extreme by strikes, would in the end lead to the "rule of the proletariat." Fortunately we in Canada have a form of settled government, which no sectional unionism can overthrow. But we must see to it that the foundation is not undermined.

Trans-Canada Pipeline Creeps Forward in Sub-Zero Weather

Survey engineers worked from a drag-line bucket in taking final soundings through the ice for the ditch in the bed of the Assiniboine river during the crossing by the Trans-Canada Pipe Lines' 34-inch natural gas line from Alberta to Eastern Canada. The temperature was about 10 degrees below zero. In the background is the dredge used to suck out silt from the ditch.

—Central Press Canadian Photos

Away she goes! Two hundred and seventy-five tons of 34-inch pipe, coating and concrete river weights are shown here sliding into the Assiniboine river near Portage la Prairie, Manitoba. The pull was made by five tractors, with an assist at the river's edge from a drag-line and derrick. With the river section in place, couplings can be made on either side and the pipeline continues on to the next obstacle.

Scout Group Committee Views Local Progress and Leadership, Announces Financial Campaign

The Lachute Boy Scouts' Group Committee held its monthly meeting last Wednesday in the office of Dr. W. M. Hooper.

Cubmaster W. Brown reported 45 boys in the 1st Lachute Pack, which is now being conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Brown. The Committee suggested that they obtain two additional assistants and that consideration be given to forming an additional Pack in the future.

Scoutmaster R. R. Pearson reported on activities in the 1st Lachute Troop. He suggested that he take his Patrol Leaders to the Provincial Patrol Leaders' Banquet in Montreal shortly. In addition, Mr. Pearson recruited the services of five Group Committee members to assist with the training of his newly-appointed Patrol Leaders.

Scouts and Cubs will join with the Guides in a church service to be held at the Margaret Rodger Memorial Church on Sunday morning, February 24, to honor the memory of Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the Scout movement.

Gordon Higginson, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Lachute, accepted chairmanship of the Boy Scout financial campaign, to be held during "Scouting Week", February 18 to 24. Volunteers will be required to assist with the collections and the Committee hopes that the citizens of Lachute will offer their usual generous support to this campaign. Chairman Alex Vessie stated that the objective will be the same as last year, $1,000.

Assistant Scoutmaster Tom Smith reported favorably on the Toy Repair Shop. Mr. Brown was thanked for the use of his basement as quarters for this workshop.

Members in attendance included Alex Vessie (chairman), Dr. W. M. Hooper, Geo. Y. Deacon, Dr. J. MacKimmie, C. L. Duncan, B. A. Jenkins, Gordon Higginson, Stewart Jones, S.M. R. R. Pearson, A.S.M. Tom Smith and C.M. W. Brown.

Public Invited February 19 to Witness Lions Club Public Speaking Contest

Anxious to share a diversion which would otherwise be confined to the enjoyment of its membership — the Lions Club invites the general public to witness the public speaking contest, to be held following the next regular meeting of this club (Tuesday, February 19, in the Legion Hall).

Taking part in this contest will be eight local school pupils, in two sections, French and English. Two boys and two girls will represent Lachute High School; two boys will speak in French from l'Ecole Supérieure, and two girls from the St. Alexandre Convent. Subjects will be of their own choosing and speeches limited to five minutes. The merits of these young orators will be appraised by a panel of judges. Prizes will be awarded and the winners will have an opportunity to compete for district and provincial honors.

Following the regular supper and business meeting of the Lions Club, this feature will commence at approximately 8.30 p.m. Friends and parents of the contestants, and all interested, are invited to be on hand at 8.30 for this interesting feature.

The panel of judges will include — Lions Léopold Carrière, Horace Lamarche, Fernand Legault, Dr. F. W. FitzGerald, Don Titman and Lorne Duncan.

Ayrshire Club Annual Meeting

The Laurentian Ayrshire Breeder's Club held its annual meeting in the Lachute High School last Thursday, with approximately 80 in attendance.

The same board of directors was re-elected for another year, namely, Kenneth Kettyle, J. H. McConnell, Forbes McOuat, Robert McOuat, Keith Pollock, Douglas Smith, Douglas Rodger, Kenneth Hanly, pres., John Heattlie, Jr., vice-pres., and Allan Hammond, sec.-treas.

Mr. Raymond Lanctot, secretary-fieldman for the Quebec Ayrshire Society, Mr. J. Douglas MacKechnie, secretary-manager of the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association, and a delegation from the Vankleek Hill Ayrshire Club were in attendance.

The guest speaker for the evening was Dr. P. O. Ripley, chief of the Field Husbandry Division at the Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Dr. Ripley showed a series of interesting pictures and slides which he photographed while on a soils tour last summer overseas. The collection included pictures taken in England, Scotland, France, Germany and Switzerland.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served.

Hunters Busy, Marauders Bagged In Upper Lachute

Ten men and six hounds blocked off a large-sized section of the Upper Lachute region on Sunday, arriving home with a day's kill of a 36-pound male wolf and two foxes.

The hunt started from the Clark Bros'. farm where the wolf was chased west to Dave Black's montée and finally around to John Robinson's farm, where Irvin Clark got a clean shot with a 12-gauge shotgun, downing the animal on the run.

Irvin Clark also accounted for one fox, Lloyd Hume shooting the other. One fox was black and grey in color, the other being the usual red.

The previous Sunday, Toby, the Clark's hound, chased a wolf a distance of about 20 miles, according to reports of district farmers, who took shots at the running marauder. Signs indicate there are more wolves in the district.

Police - Fire Report

Police and Fire Chief Fernand Trépanier presented his report for the month of January, at the regular Council meeting presided over by Mayor Léopold Carrière. The report indicated that a total of 201 service calls had been answered during the month.

Automobile accidents investigated numbered 25; arrests were nil; 14 persons were held for their protection; one person was detained for another police force; and cases before the court were nil.

Traffic infraction tickets issued totalled 19, no Social Service investigations were made, and the mileage of auto patrol for the month was 2,920.

Two Fire Brigade practices were held and three service calls responded to. Chief Trépanier brought to the attention of Council the inefficiency of the present alarm system, pointing out it could not be heard by a number of the volunteer firemen. The Fire Committee was authorized to make whatever changes it deemed necessary, without fail, in order to put the alarm in proper condition.

Gratifying Report On Cancer Society Year's Activities

A favorable report of the Ladies' Branch, Argenteuil County Cancer Society, was presented for the past year, at the regular meeting held Tuesday afternoon.

In the period from March to December last year, 34 patients were served by the Lachute ladies, who made a total of 51,439 dressings for cancer patients. The Dressings Committee has been meeting frequently during this period, and thanks were extended to these ladies for their support, a special vote of thanks going to a group of Brownsburg helpers who recently became affiliated with the Lachute group.

It was pointed out that the local ladies' group was making cancer dressings for seven counties, namely, Montcalm, Joliette, l'Assomption, Terrebonne, Argenteuil, Deux Montagnes and Labelle.

The Welfare Committee visited a number of cancer patients and 22 Christmas gifts were distributed. Thanks were expressed to the ladies who during the year have assisted with the "gift cupboard", and an appeal was issued for continued support. Ladies wishing to aid in knitting work may contact Mrs. Doris Rapson, telephone 1051-M.

Members of the Dressings Committee attended a panel discussion in Montreal, where it was emphasized that the three main purposes of the Canadian Cancer Society were Research (with money provided by the Society, the Federal and Provincial governments); Education and Welfare. A list of the most-asked question was prepared and answered by the panelists, all specialists in their various fields.

Laurentian District Shorthorn Breeders Organize Club

The inaugural meeting of the newly formed Laurentian Shorthorn Club was held last Friday, the opening day of the agricultural exhibition at the Show Mart in Montreal.

This club was formed for the purpose of enabling Shorthorn breeders north of the St. Lawrence River to promote their breed to greater advantage.

Realizing that many dairy farmers are finding labor costs squeezing their profits, it is felt that by using a good beef bull with their present dairy cows, and with new developments in loose housing and self-feeding of hay and silage, many farmers could devote half an hour a day to their farms during the winter, their two weeks holidays in the summer, hold down a well paying town or city position, and still keep their farms highly productive. This program would also benefit strictly dairy farmers, as it would ease the surplus milk problem.

Two of the immediate projects planned by the new club are a field day and an annual sale of choice Shorthorn cattle.

Four Argenteuil County residents were named to executive offices or as directors: Dr. George Coombes, George McGibbon, Mrs. T. Stuart, Mr. Harvey Vokey. New members will be most welcome.

'Blitz' Campaign Strategy Planned For Red Cross

Plans are progressing for the 1957 Red Cross Campaign for funds, which this year will take the form of a "Blitz" on the evening of Tuesday, February 26, in Greater Lachute. An objective of $3,500 has been set for this area, and the campaign will continue outside Lachute from February 23 to March 9.

Date for the final pre-campaign meeting has been changed from next Wednesday, February 20, to the following night, Thursday, due to the Community Concert announced for that evening. This meeting of all organizers and captains will be held at Farmers' Supply Co., the campaign headquarters, and light refreshments will be served.

A few changes in group captains will be announced next week, prior to the campaign. Captains were appointed for each of the zones, and they are presently choosing their canvassers in sufficient numbers to cover the area in the allotted time — this being from 6 to 10 p.m., February 26.

The "Blitz" will be started by a general noise-producing campaign, in which it is hoped to include all factory whistles, the fire whistle, all church bells, etc., and following this, canvassers will make their rounds, completing the major portion of the campaign within a few hours.

Local citizens are requested to have their contributions ready when the canvasser calls — and to give generously, as they have in the past, remembering the good work the Red Cross has done recently within the province as well as elsewhere. The calls for assistance have been increasing yearly; expenses are up; and in order to maintain the good work accomplished in the past, the objective must be met or surpassed.

Que. Budget Speech Criticizes Federal Financial Policy

By Guy Rondeau,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec (CP) — Finance Minister Gagnon last Thursday forecast record revenues and expenditures for Quebec in the fiscal year starting April 1.

Shortly before Mr. Gagnon started his 18,000-word budget speech in the Legislative Assembly, members got copies of government legislation increasing to nine from seven percent the tax on corporation profits and extending the tax to banks, insurance companies, railroads, tramways and trust companies. The corporations would be able to deduct the full amount of the provincial tax from their federal tax payments.

Mr. Gagnon announced the federal government will pay Quebec, without any obligations on the province's part, an estimated $35,000,000 under its equalization payment scheme.

Federal equalization payments and increase in the tax on corporation profits will boost Quebec Government revenue to $473,321,750 during the 1957-58 fiscal year. He estimated expenditures at $471,467,860, leaving a surplus of $1,853,890.

The equalization payments and the corporation tax increase together will drop $50,000,000 in provincial coffers and account for the sharpest single revenue rise in one year ever recorded in Quebec.

Provincial tax on personal income remains unchanged.

For the year ending March 31, revenues were estimated at $432,806,000 and expenditures, both ordinary and capital, at $448,116,000 leaving an over-all deficit of $15 310,000. At April 1, 1956, the province's net debt amounted to $265,000 compared with $308,000,000 in 1945. The government will spend $106,000,000 on education in the coming year, including $13,000,000 in grants for provincial universities.

In one of the most strongly-worded budget speeches in 12 years, Mr. Gagnon said the Federal Government eased its pressure on provincial taxation to plunge into the provincial field of education. He said the federal government's decision to increase grants to universities to $16,000,000 from $8,000,000 was the first move in the new direction. He drew a parallel pointing to the additional grants to universities on one hand and the Bank of Canada restriction on the other hand, which he said paralizes school construction in the province.

Mr. Gagnon said the Bank of Canada should distinguish between private enterprise loans and loans made by school and municipal corporations and charitable institutions. He added the bank should consult the provinces and work out a special policy insofar as the Province, Municipal and School administrations and charitable institutions are concerned.

Mr. Gagnon forecast a continuing increase in provincial revenue because of the economic expansion of the province.

Ayersville Council Petitioned to Curb Obscene Literature

A delegation from the Sacred Heart League of Immaculate Conception parish petitioned the Ayersville Council at its recent meeting to take some action to curb immoral books and magazines displayed for sale in local stores. Spokesman for the delegation was Germain Poulin.

Charles Emile Gauthier, Chatham Street storekeeper, suggested that the petition be taken to distributors of books and magazines, since, if this literature was banned and the ban enforced only in Ayersville, they could be purchased in Lachute. He added that the dealers receive many publications and it is almost impossible in every case to distinguish between "good" and "bad".

Following continued suggestions and discussion, the Council decided to table this question for further study.

Freight-Passenger CPR Collision At Montebello

A nine-car freight crashed into the rear of a Montreal - Ottawa CPR passenger train at Montebello last Thursday evening, injuring nine persons, none of them seriously. The conductors of both trains are well known in this area, namely, Edward MacLeod and Wm. "Bill" Hicks, both of Montreal district.

The nine injured passengers and train crewmen were treated at the scene for bruises and slight shock. None was detained in hospital.

Part of the rear car was knocked from the tracks when the freight engine struck at nearly 25 m.p.h. The pasenger train, running "slightly behind" schedule, was pulling out of the station.

The passengers were jolted from their seats when the extra freight, on which Mr. Hicks was the conductor, rammed the rear of the four-car passenger train.

North Shore line traffic was not delayed for too lengthy a time, two derricks from Montreal and Ottawa being despatched to clear the line. Passengers were taken to Ottawa by taxi.

Mr. MacLeod, who is widely related herabouts, received only slight bruises, while Mr. Hicks was reported to be suffering from shock and injuries of a more serious nature.

Customs Case Dismissed Involving Local Company And Its Representative

News has been received that the indictment returned in 1951 against Mr. Philippe G. Roy in the United States District Court, for alleged Customs infractions concerning Mr. Roy and the Dominion Shuttle Co. Ltd., was completely dismissed last week (February 4) by the Hon. Frank A. Picard, District Judge.

New Mayor Gives Generous Recognition To Work of Predecessors In Term of Office

"Before getting down to new business, I would like, in the name of the population of the Town of Lachute, to thank retiring Mayor Dr. Walter FitzGerald and the aldermen who served under him, who administered our town so well during the last mandate. These men gave the best of themselves, in addition to their time, in the administration of the financial report that is being presented here this evening, I feel I must say their administration was accomplished in the best interests of the taxpayers."

With the foregoing words, the newly-elected mayor, Léopold Carrière, opened the first regular meeting of his term, following the swearing-in formalities in which he himself, and Aldermen Dr. Jean-Paul Dorion, Lauréa Laurin, Nelson Lepage, Wilfrid Morrissette, Edgar Pollock and Romain Desjardins were invested with civic office by Secretary-treasurer Jacques Poitras.

Mayor Carrière then congratulated and welcomed the newly-elected members to Council. "I hope your term will be pleasant and your good judgment will be of assistance in the administration of the town's business," he said.

"I thank the citizens of Lachute, who for the third time have elected me their first magistrate, and I assure them I will do my best to make good the confidence they have placed in me. I accept the honor with pleasure, just as I am willing to accept, and face with honor, its requirements. We have, at the present time, an administration that is costing the taxpayers in the vicinity of $200,000 yearly, and I am pleased to see that the population has chosen good men to do the work required of them.

"I have no intention of presenting my program, but I would like to 'level-up' the valuation in this town so that it will be on a fairer basis. We all want to see progress, but we also must have at heart the interest of the taxpayers."

Following this opening statement, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, after which Jacques Poitras, as returning officer, read the report of the February 1 elections (as reported last week).

Joseph Bellefeuille, garbage collector, approached the Council table requesting a raise in remuneration. This was temporarily refused; as Mayor Carrière pointed out, the necessary committees had not as yet been formed. Mr. Bellefeuille was assurred that the request would be looked into by the new committee, and that a decision would be made prior to the next meeting.

On a motion by Ald. Wilfrid Morrissette, seconded by Ald. Romain Desjardins, Ald. Ross R. Muir was appointed pro-mayor for the ensuing three months.

The formation of committees was then discussed and Mayor Carrière presented his recommendations, which were accepted unanimously. He made some mention of the same three men being on both the Finance and Police - Fire Committees, adding that the reason for this was the latter committee takes a goodly portion of the budget and the three men "work well together."

Committees for the year 1957 are as follows (the chairman being the first-named in each instance):

Finance: Romain Desjardins, Mozart Carrière and Ross Muir.
Roads: Wilfrid Morrissette, Edgar Pollock and Lauréa Laurin.
Water: Ross Muir, Wilfrid Morrissette and Dr. Roger Lavigne.
Police and Fire: Mozart Carrière, Ross Muir and Romain Desjardins.
Social Service: Dr. Roger Lavigne, Mozart Carrière and Dr. Jean-Paul Dorion.
Lights: Edgar Pollock, Nelson Lepage and Lauréa Laurin.
Auditorium: Lauréa Laurin, Edgar Pollock, Wilfrid Morrissette.
Health and Hygiene: Nelson Lepage, Dr. Roger Lavigne and Dr. Jean-Paul Dorion.
Reception: Dr. Jean-Paul Dorion, Romain Desjardins and Nelson Lepage.

Mayor Carrière was authorized to proclaim this week "National Electrical Week" in Lachute, adding, "There is sound basis behind this week, and I think it important that local citizens read and study the information made available to them for their own benefit."

The auditors' report from the firm of Thomas C. Corry was dealt with, Council going into some detail on the various departments. Mayor Carrière once again expressed his pleasure at the work accomplished by the previous Council, and in particular by the work of the secretary-treasurer and his staff.

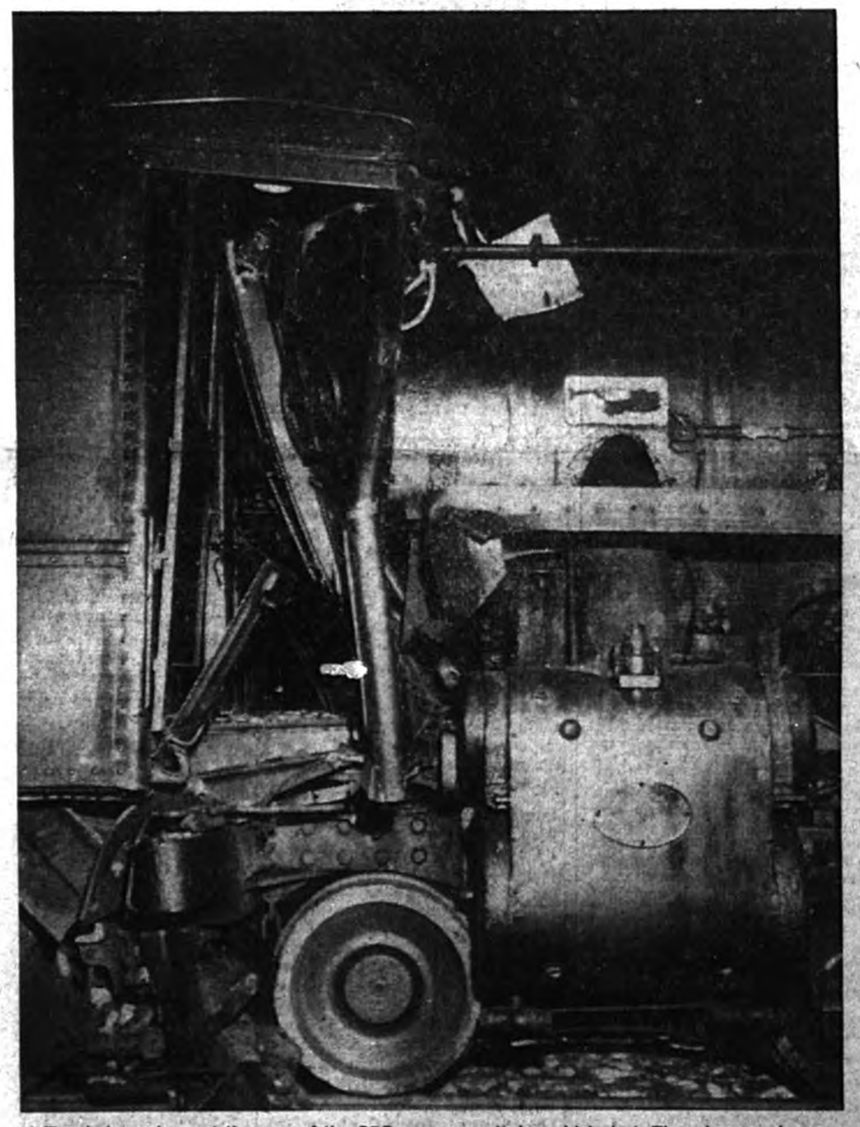

The auditors' report was accepted as read, Council adding that the firm of Thomas C. Corry be re-engaged at the same fee ($800) for the year 1957, if that agreement was suitable to the auditors.

Accounts totalling $13,042.69 were approved for payment. Mayor Carrière was authorized to sign cheques and other legal documents with the secretary-treasurer. Pro-mayor Ross Muir was also authorized to sign all necessary papers in the absence of the mayor.

It was decided to purchase a "Salamander" machine from the firm of R. McArthur & Son, this machine being a heating unit that can be used for melting lead for the joining of pipes or for the thawing of fire hydrants.

Authorization was given the Catholic Women's League to hold a parade on March 16, the day prior to St. Patrick's Day. The meeting was then adjourned.

4-H Calf Club Reorganized and Projects Outlined

The Lachute 4-H Calf Club was reorganized for another year, at a meeting held Thursday evening, February 7, in the Science lecture room of the Lachute High School.

Donald Parker was again elected president. Ross Rodger was elected vice-president, replacing Eileen Elder, and Stewart Robertson remains as secretary-treasurer since his appointment last December replacing Donald McOuat. Ross Oswald was again chosen as Club Leader.

Rules and regulations were read concerning 4-H Club work and changes in the prize list for Junior Day at Lachute Spring Fair, when an inter-club competition is held.

The members decided that their project for the year would be that boys and girls under 15 years of age would keep a complete record, in a book supplied, of the growth and cost of raising their junior calf, born this winter, until it has reached two years of age.

For the boys and girls over 15, Jean Pintal, local Agronome, has prepared a series of questions on dairy farming in general, the questions requiring considerable thought and study to answer. All questions will be kept strictly confidential by Mr. Pintal.

The members who showed their calves at the club Achievement Day last September, received their prize money.

The meeting was adjourned, and the members were then guests of the Laurentian Ayrshire Breeders' Club, who were also meeting in the High School the same evening. . . . . The Lachute 4-H Calf Club appreciates the hospitality extended by the Laurentian Ayrshire Breeders.

Local Beef Steer Grand Champion

At the National Salon of Agriculture last week 14 head of beef cattle were sold at auction — the top price of $3,536 or $4 per pound being paid for the 884-pound Grand Champion steer of the show, an Aberdeen-Angus bred by L. T. Porter, of St. Andrews East.

This price of $4 a pound is considered in many circles as the top price ever paid in Canada at a sale of steers. This was the first such auction sale of beef cattle ever held in the Montreal area.

Canadian Sales up 40% in Record Year for Sun Life

New insurance during 1956 largest amount ever sold by a Canadian company in any year; policy dividends again increased; $7 billion insurance in force.

New life insurance sold by the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada in 1956 amounted to $854 million, an increase of $93 million over the previous year and once again the greatest amount of life insurance ever sold by any Canadian company in one year. In Canada, a 40% increase was reported. Sun Life's 86th Annual Report to Policyholders, just released, also discloses that life insurance in force has now passed the $7 billion mark, an all-time record. The Company is again adopting new and increased dividend scales which will further reduce the cost of insurance to policyholders. As a result of these increased scales, Sun Life will pay out $31 million in dividends to policyholders during 1957, or $2,700,000 more than in the previous year, and more than twice the amount paid out only nine years ago. During 1956, the Company paid a total of $137 million in benefits to policyholders, largest amount ever distributed by the Sun Life in any year. Living policyholders and annuitants received $94 million of this amount. Benefit payments since 1871, when the first Sun Life policy was issued, have now exceeded $3,140 million.

George W. Bourke, Sun Life President, in reviewing Company results for the 12-month period, stated that full advantage had been taken of favorable conditions for a record sale of life insurance by the Sun Life. By mobilizing the savings of millions of policyholders, life insurance is playing a vital part in providing the funds needed for the tremendous capital expansion that is taking place today.

GROUP BUSINESS NOW OVER $2½-BILLION

Included in new business during the year was $259-million of group insurance, or 30% of the total, bringing group insurance in force to more than $2½-billion. Sun Life's worldwise total of insurance in force now has reached $7,030,030,000, an all-time high. Annuities payable currently and in future under group pension plans and individual contracts totalled $162-million per annum at the end of 1956. Life insurance and annuities combined, are the equivalent of $9,175,000,000 of life insurance. The division of this figure among the major territories in which the Company operates is: Canada, 49%; United States, 36%; Great Britain and other Commonwealth countries, 13%; elsewhere, 2%.

$89 MILLION IN NEW MORTGAGE LOANS

An increase in assets of $60-million took place in 1956, and Sun Life assets now stand at slightly over $2-billion. "During the year 1956, even though tighter credit conditions existed in Canada and the United States, the Sun Life advanced $89-million in new mortgage loans throughout the two countries," Mr. Bourke said. "Our mortgage loan account now stands at $460-million."

Sun Life's Report revealed that the success of the year's investment operations was reflected in the gross interest rate earned on the Company's assets, which increased from 4.17% in 1955 to 4.32% in 1956.

CONTINUED GROWTH

Mr. Bourke concluded by saying that with the prospect of continued expansion, the volume of new life insurance will continue to grow. "In the highly competitive atmosphere in which we operate," he declared, "the Sun Life will continue to be responsive to public needs and anxious at all times to improve the service we have to offer.

A copy of Sun Life's complete 1956 Annual Report, including the President's review of the year, is being sent to each policyholder. Further details may be obtained from Guy or J. R. Paiement, Local Representatives.

DISTRICT NEWS FROM OUR COUNTY CORRESPONDENTS

Morin Heights

Mrs. Mary Campbell spent last week in Montreal visiting with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Stinson, Town of Mount Royal.

Mr. and Mrs. K. Seale, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fraser, were in Montreal recently visiting friends.

Mrs. Peter Whalley spent last Monday in Montreal visiting friends.

Mrs. Bruneau, of Montreal, was the week-end guest of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Simms.

Mrs. William Doherty spent a few days in Montreal last week, visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McCambley and daughter, Darlene, were week-end guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex McCambley.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Seale were in Montreal recently visiting friends. While there Mr. Seale attended the Montreal High School old-boys' reunion. The banquet supper was held in the Montreal High School and guest speaker for the occasion was the Rev. Norman Rawson, of St. James United Church. The renewing of acquaintanceship among old friends and class-mates proved to be an enjoyable experience for all.

School Hockey Games

On Friday last the senior school hockey team went to Arundel — the latter team winning the laurels 7-5. On Saturday the Junior team went to Shawbridge, where the Boys' Farm juniors won 4-3. Following this game the Morin boys were entertained to supper at the farm. All report a good time.

Church Ladies' Gathering

The Women's Association of United Church, and the ladies of Trinity Church Guild, both held their February meetings on Tuesday last. Following short business sessions the ladies of the W.A. joined the members of the Guild for afternoon tea. An hour of fellowship was enjoyed, and a vote of appreciation was extended to the Guild membership for their hospitality.

Golden Wedding Celebration

On Thursday last at the New Alpino Lodge, over 200 friends and relatives gathered to extend best wishes and congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kirkpatrick, of Mille Isles, on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. The head table was centered with a wedding cake and a guest book, which was signed by all present. During the evening dancing was enjoyed, and Mr. Paul Baumel, on behalf of the many friends, presented the happy couple with a purse, accompanied by warm congratulations in the name of all present — also read a telegram of congratulations and best wishes from Mr. Philippe Valois, M.P. All members of the family were present for this occasion. The evening concluded with the serving of refreshments.

The community would also like to take this opportunity to extend their congratulations, and wishes for many more years of happiness, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kirkpatrick

Interesting Event by Women's Institute

On Tuesday last the Women's Institute held their February meeting in the cafeteria of the school. Highlight of the meeting was a handicraft exhibit by the school girls. There were nearly 60 entries, and competition was keen. There was a large attendance of members, friends and young competitors. The judges were Mrs. M. Wilson, county president, and Mrs. J. Douglas, of Lachute. After the judging, prizes were awarded to the following:

Age Group 6 — 1st prize Linda Lithgow; 2nd, Patsy Carnegie; 3rd, Ronda Boyd.

Age Group 7-9 — 1st, Britt Kvendbo; 2nd, Penny Cameron; 3rd, Pat Shinnie.

Age Group 10-12 — 1st, Heather Campbell; 2nd, Cherry Brook Smith; 3rd, Ruth Ward.

Age Group 13 and Over — 1st, Heather McCullough; 2nd, Pat Breakspear; 3rd, Shirley Elliott.

There were also consolation prizes for all the children with an entry.

Following the presenting of prizes by Mrs. Wilson, little Miss Linda Lithgow presented Mrs. Wilson with a small token in appreciation of her kindness. Mrs. Wilson explained to the children the methods of judging, and congratulated them on their work.

Mrs. C. D. Campbell, president of the Morin Heights branch, expressed thanks to Mrs. Wilson on behalf of the W.I. Thanks were also extended to Mrs. Legallee, Mrs. C. D. Campbell, Mrs. Sutcliffe and Mrs. R. Blair, for the attractive decorations in the cafeteria, for which they were responsible.

Delicious refreshments were then served by the hostesses, concluding an enjoyable evening.

Montreal Young People At Skiers' Service

Thirty-three members of various Presbyterian Young People's Societies in Montreal spent the week-end at Campbell's Farm, and enjoyed two days of outdoor sports, with a sleigh drive, movies and conferences. On Sunday morning the entire group travelled to the Church of Saint Francis in St. Sauveur to join in the 9.30 Skiers' Service. They led the singing and rendered the anthem, "Fairest Lord Jesus", with one of their members, Mr. Carl Elder, as organist. . . The service will be re-broadcast over CJAD at 11 a.m. this Sunday.

Regular Radio Service

On Sunday morning from 8.45 to 9 o'clock, Radio Station CKJL in St. Jerome carried a new program, directed by the Rev. Horace G. Baugh, who calls it his "Program of Saint Francis." This program each week will feature church news items of the Laurentians, a sermon and hymns.

Installation at Trinity Church

At Trinity Anglican Church on Sunday morning the rector installed the officers of the church for 1957. The wardens, vestrymen, lay delegates to Synod, and treasurer, were pledged to fulfill their duties of office. The rector reminded them how others had kept the church strong in Morin Heights for nearly one hundred years.

Cushing

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Elliott and children returned Saturday night after attending the Ice Follies in Montreal.

Mr. John Tomalty, of Red Deer Alta., was the guest of Mr. and Mrs I. H. Fuller on Wednesday, also visiting at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bryerton and Mr. Wm Bryerton at Carillon.

Mr. Lorne Martin, also Mr. Joe Dawson, of St. Laurent, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Coney on Saturday.

Offers Children For Sale at $500 To Leave Canada

—Central Press Canadian

In Canada eight years, Czech immigrant Otto Cizek is offering his six children for sale at $500 to finance a return trip to Germany. A house-painter, he says he can get no work and that his children are starving. Last year he lived in a tent near Dundas, Ont., now has a flat which, he says, has no heat. He believes he will be better treated in Germany than here.

Solicit Public Interest In B'burg Red Cross

Brownsburg — An invitation is extended to the public by the president, Mr. Dubois, to attend the Red Cross meetings, held the third Monday of each month at 7.30 p.m. in the Brownsburg Social and Athletic Club.

All ladies of Brownsburg are also invited to visit the sewing room in the Social Club on Friday afternoon to see the work done by the Red Cross volunteers. They have done a magnificent job each successive year under the leadership of Mrs. Fred Barker, but there is still a need for more helpers.

Following is a report showing 4,835 articles completed and shipped to headquarters in Montreal during the year 1956:

Sewing — 206 baby nightgowns 55 skirts, 77 baby vests, 25 blouses 100 pairs pyjamas, 321 towels, 78 pairs overalls, 1,121 diapers, 283 blankets, 121 girls' nightgowns, 61 pairs knickers, 20 pairs underpants, 2 uniforms, 1,973 swabs.

Knitting — 321 pairs socks, 18 children's sweaters, 51 baby sweaters, 1 bonnet, and 1 pair mitts.

Congratulations are extended to Mrs. Barker and her volunteers who have worked so diligently to accomplish this fine work.

Re-elected Director

Mr. H. H. McOuat, of St. Andrews East, was re-elected a director of the Montreal Milk Producers Co-operative Agricultural Association, at the annual meeting of that organization last week.

Liberal Meeting Reported In Arundel - Huberdeau

Liberal supporters of Arundel and Huberdeau met Tuesday to choose delegates for the forthcoming general elections.

Josephat Prevost, Zephir Prevost.
Substitutes — Gaston Provost, Omer Perreault, Jr.

Alfred Touges, Lucien Fortier.
Substitutes — Edouard Provost, Dumais Gougeon.

Delegates for Arundel: Sid Swail, Jr., Jack Smith.
Substitutes — Harold Gordon, George Cooke.

Ayersville Council, Committees Named For Year's Affairs

Ayersville Municipal Council met for the first time during the term of Mayor Réal Morrissette. A full council was in attendance — Councillor Douglas Simon being named pro-mayor for a three month period.

It was proposed by Councillor Simon, seconded by Councillor Maurice Champagne and unanimously adopted, that a loan of $46,000 be made from the Quebec Credit Corporation, the reimbursement to be over a period of 15 years at 5½ percent interest. (Permission for this loan has been granted by the provincial authorities.)

Engineer Paul Laliberté then presented a "cost report" of sidewalk construction since 1955, pointing out that the referendum passed in 1955 allowed an expenditure of $42,000 for sidewalks which, when completed, was $3,000 lower than this amount. During this time, sidewalks were constructed at a cost of slightly under $1.52 per lineal foot and the following year, 1956, the cost was 10 cents lower. This represents 26,436 lineal feet of newly-constructed sidewalks, and 656 feet of repairs, at a total cost of $1.45 per lineal foot.

It was then proposed, seconded and passed, that taxpayers be billed at the rate of $1.50 per foot, those having already paid a tentative lesser amount paying the difference.

Accounts for the month totalling $1,024.64 were passed for payment and it was unanimously approved that accounts relative to each committee be initiated by the chairman prior to the meeting, as well as by the finance chairman. (It is notable that, for the first time in several years, these accounts were discussed in public, so that those in attendance knew what they were paying for.)

It was moved by Councillor Simon, seconded by Councillor Champagne, that the Public Assistance account totalling $5,219.94 be accepted, this being for the period of October 1954 to March 1956.

After other minor business, the meeting was adjourned to next Monday, February 18, at 8 p.m.

Following is the list of committees of the Ayersville Council (the chairman being first-named in each case):

Public Assistance, Health and Hygiene — Maurice Champagne and Aurelien Foucault.

Streets and Sidewalks — Rosaire Quenneville and Alfred Campeau.

Police and Fire — Alfred Campeau and Edgar Cyr.

Industrial and Urbanism — Edgar Cyr and Rosaire Quenneville.

Water, Sewers and Employees — Aurelien Foucault and Douglas Simon.

Finance and Reception — Douglas Simon and Maurice Champagne.

Happy Birthday, Leduc!

TEN YEARS AGO THIS WEEK AN IMPERIAL DRILLING CREW DISCOVERED OIL NEAR LEDUC, ALBERTA. THAT DISCOVERY HAS AFFECTED THE LIFE OF ALMOST EVERY CANADIAN

SINCE LEDUC

In 1946, Canada's own oil fields met only nine percent of her demand. Today, they produce about 70 percent of a demand which has increased by three times.

In 1946, Canada's proven oil reserves were 72 million barrels. Today, there are almost three billion barrels, a 40-fold increase.

In 1946, there were just 435 miles of oil pipe line in all Canada. Today, there are more than 5,000 miles.

In 1946, there were half a million oil-heated homes in Canada. Today, there are more than a million and a half, 40 percent of all the homes in Canada.

The crew at Imperial Leduc No. 1 that winter's day knew that very few wells drilled in unproven territory find oil in commercial quantities. This could be just another well in a long series of failures . . . 133 of them at a cost of $23,000,000 . . . which Imperial had drilled in western Canada.

When Imperial Leduc No. 1 "came in" on February 13, 1947, the elated crew knew they had made an important discovery. What they couldn't know was just how important their discovery was, for Imperial Leduc No. 1 encouraged not only Imperial but hundreds of other companies to look for . . . and to find . . . more oil in Canada.

What were the results?

- A fast-growing oil producing industry, employing thousands.
- New refineries, and expansion of old ones.
- Birth of dozens of new industries.
- Large savings of foreign exchange that would have been spent on oil imports.
- A surer supply of oil for Canada.

Nor has this development reached its peak. Though about four billion dollars have already been invested in finding and developing Canadian oil, experts predict another 20 billion will be spent during the next 25 years, bringing us still more industries, more jobs, and, of course, more oil.

Leduc's birthday was a happy day for us all!

"SLOW DOWN — No Hospital Accommodation Here", was the message posted at the entrance of a village near a sharp "S" curve. . .

Signs and signals are to be found everywhere to guide and protect motorists from any unsafe situation that may result in an accident. Every driver should know the meaning of those signs of various shapes and colors, and look upon them as silent policemen on the highway.

However, these signs are often taken too lightly. The man behind the steering wheel, observing no immediate danger at an intersection, road crossing, railway crossing, or school area, often jumps to the conclusion that he can save a few seconds by ignoring them. And sometimes he does not live to benefit from that gain, since statistics show that such "minor" indiscretions are responsible for at least eight out of ten fatal accidents.

Poor driving habits, driving while faculties are impaired, or at a speed too fast for prevailing conditions, are responsible for the rising traffic accident toll, the overcrowding of hospitals, and incalculable economic losses.

Northern Problems

SCIENTISTS studying the effects of low temperatures on men and materials are playing a vital role in the economic development and defence of Canada's north country.

Much of this research is centred in Ottawa in three divisions of the National Research Council — mechanical engineering, biology and building research.

The work of the divisions ranges from development of civilian and military equipment able to operate in Arctic and sub-Arctic regions, to the design of buildings and clothing required by men to exist in relative comfort in extremely low temperatures.

Much useful work in northern problems has been done by NRC scientists in the last few years. However, the problems are many and formidable and won't be solved without a concentrated effort by government and private interests.

Scientists urge the extension of low-temperature research by NRC and privately-owned research institutions. Unless this is done, they say, northern development will lag due to the inability of man and machines to cope with the cold.

One of the federal government's main concerns is northern defence. However, the development of materials and equipment for this purpose often has a civilian application.

The defence department recently asked NRC to develop an oil which could be used to lubricate machinery at temperatures as low as 65 below zero. The oil was required for radar equipment but now is being used for many other military and civilian purposes.

Most of the NRC experiments on equipment and material are being conducted in two laboratories in which the temperature can be dropped to 70 below zero. For theoretical research, the council has a machine in which the temperature of liquified helium can be dropped to 456 below zero, about four degrees short of absolute zero.

One of the biggest headaches in northern development is transportation. Aircraft must be used but the difficulty of building airfields and keeping them clear in winter is next to impossible on a large scale. NRC has launched a research program on the possible design of a multi-engined transport aircraft able to take off the land vertically.

Council scientists think such a plane may be a reality within 10 years. Its development would eliminate the necessity for long runways for transport aircraft and permit regular air cargo and passenger transport service on a year-round basis.

A Thought for Unity

FEBRUARY 17-24 will be observed as "Brotherhood Week" in Canada, sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, under the slogan "Unity Without Uniformity."

Canadians are fortunate. They have no history of suppression to live down. We are a new people, a new stock grown from the seeds and roots of many races and creeds. We are selecting the best from all the cultures brought to our shores and blending them into a useful, peaceful and comfortable way of life.

This process will continue to enrich all of us if we continue to regard all Canadians as brothers under the law which governs us. That is Brotherhood — for peace and freedom.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, in a message supporting this movement, says: "It is my hope that the course of events in the last few months will bring home to us all the true need which exists for everyone to put into practice in the year ahead the principles represented by Brotherhood Week, so that we may, with God's help, achieve a closer understanding amongst all peoples of the world."

Unshuddering Outlook

MANY CANADIANS pretend to believe, like the late Alexander Woollcott, that anything pleasant is almost certain to be either illegal, immoral or fattening. On that premise, conditions that give us two-thirds again as much income for one-third less work, as predicted by the Gordon Commission Report, are bound to have serious hidden drawbacks.

Most given to this line of reasoning are — we ourselves, no doubt! We of the generation who have worked for what we got. We who, having achieved only mediocre prosperity, now "view with alarm" (like Social Security) the luck of the rising generation, who are getting things too soft at the expense of our hard labors. Meanwhile our particular problem will be to eke out a slim livelihood, at Prosperity cost of living, on the revenues of pre-Prosperity investments.

Justified or not, that is the senile psychology of which most middle-agers are guilty. Our pioneer grandfathers, and our thrifty parents, felt the same way about us. It is an unlovely streak in human nature, akin to the fabled sentiment of sour grapes.

Viewing the forecast of future prosperity, The Financial Post gives no countenance to repercussions or strings attached. "We refuse to shudder," says The Post. "We remain convinced that genuine prosperity is in itself a Good Thing, that the more people who have it the better; that social, political, moral and emotional problems are less rather than more acute in times of genuine prosperity; and that an economy with a high living standard is likely to be less dull than a depressed society. . .

"There's plenty of incentive to mediocrity in a poverty-stricken society, and there's not much genuine freedom. Healthy individualism is an expression of self-confidence, and there's nothing that builds self-confidence like knowing that the rent is paid."

"PARKING METERS to our mind are nonsense for small towns. They are unnecessary, troublesome and annoying. They make the visitors mad, and do little to relieve parking problems that a realistic attitude by merchants would not obviate," says the Napanee (Ont.) Post-Express, on a proposal which has several times been seriously studied by our Council as a remedy for traffic ills in Lachute.

ONE OF THE weakest points in our educational system is the number of youngsters who leave school before completing that part of their education. Far from adapting a policy of turning them out, there should be a campaign to keep them in — urges the Red Deer (Alta.) Advocate.

Can the Chamber of Commerce Be Revived ?

You are the one who is interested in it, because it is interested in you.

The problem which follows, definitely has a solution. It is much like a battery which has become run down. Who will test the battery, charge it and set the motor in operation? It is possible that its vitals need strengthening, as a motor needs new parts, before satisfactory results can be obtained.

There is no doubt that the Chamber of Commerce of Lachute is presently suffering from some malady. Its machinery, without a doubt is badly in need of repairs. You must act as the mechanic, to repair it and set it in motion once again. If, therefore, there are engineers, electricians and other mechanics who can help you, these are all that are needed. Together you will be able to rebuild, repair, go ahead and prosper. Otherwise, all efforts to this day have been in vain.

Just imagine, if ex-Mayor Dr. Lafleur, because of seemingly unsurmountable difficulties, had abandoned the idea of building a new Town Hall to replace the old Victoria Hall; if the local Masonic Lodge had not decided to undertake the construction of their new Temple; and if the local branch of the Legion had not followed the logical course of progress — none of these today could consider their achievements with pride.

Lachute, and other towns of the province, will grow and become creditable cities. Our town has changed greatly in the past 10 or 15 years. No one can deny that the change has been for the better. If progress has been realized thus far, is it not to your own advantage to speed up this progress? We have been slow, and this is all the more reason to prove ourselves. Men have in the past worked hard to achieve the present results, because they were convinced of the future in store for Lachute. Past presidents, from Bertrand L'Heureux to Paul Laliberté inclusive have held the post, an office which at times was somewhat ungratifying, but each studied the means of being the most useful, and many succeeded in their projects.

Allow me to especially recall the term in which Horace Lamarche presided, and in which he proved that a Chamber of Commerce can be active and productive in Lachute. This is not the time to discuss whether or not a few of the past leaders were fit for the task. . . But, what were YOU doing? Where were you, and why were you so disinterested? Were you not in a position to help solve the situation? You are therefore not in a position to find fault; but you are, however, expected to prove your willingness if you are given the oportunity.

You may consider that it was bound to happen that way; in fact, all organizations attain a peak, and at other times are subject to failures. The worst that can happen, though, is to admit defeat and REMAIN STATIC.

Among the evident signs of progress in Lachute, allow me to mention the new Airport, an undertaking which could lead to great economic expansion; the Golf Club, which is being developed rapidly; a Motel, which will serve visitors well; a Sports Arena being planned by the Lions Club, which will deserve our unspared efforts. Our town will soon have door-to-door mail delivery, and other improvements will come, such as modernized street-lighting, an up-to-date map of our limits, a well-illustrated publication on Lachute for distribution to employers seeking to establish themselves in the province; legible, standard nameplates to identify our streets, and other innumerable necessities.

You have all at one time or another respected your Chamber of Commerce, and you will again respect it, if you support this abondoned task. There is much ability among us, whether you are a past member or a newly arrived citizen.

What was true 10 years ago is also true today. Let us unite ourselves, in accordance with the town's slogan. We should give immediate assistance to the newly-elected Mayor.

Who will be the leader? . . Who will vonunteer or offer suggestions through the pages of The Watchman? . . . Don't delay. Send in your opinion and show that you are willing to help the progress of your Town to greater heights.

"Fouler Modern English !"

Have you had a peek at your young hopeful's English grammar lately? If not, let me prepare you for a nasty shock.

In all probability, he or she is being led by the nose through a time known as "USING OUR LANGUAGE", graded according to the child's ability. No less than five provinces have now taken this series under their respective wings, and rumor hath it that a perfectly good text will be ditched next year to make way for a tenth book in the U.O.L. series.

Come with me now as we tread its gaudy pages. The subject: STEPS IN WRITING THE NARRATIVE PARAGRAPH. The book: Volume Eight — for the grade of the same name.

"One," it states, "choose the topic."

Having chosen the topic, you will be amazed to find that you shouldn't give the thing a title until the very end. The title should be brief and to the point, giving the gist of the story but not betraying the point. "Avoid one word titles." Write it last of all!

Thank heaven for those writers who know something about the craft and have had the intestinal fortitude to fly in the face of the educationalists to produce such epics as "GIANT", "MACBETH", "HAMLET", "SHE", etc.

"Next," the book informs us, "write the topic sentence." This, it appears, is the "satement or suggestion of the topic of the single incident, personal experience to be developed; gets the story moving; creates desire to read on." Then, as an example, we are given the following:

"Last Saturday during a ramble through Burton's woods, my brother Fred and I had an unpleasant experience!"

Inspired writing, isn't it? Tells the whole thing in a few words and turns you away from reading any further. But let's press on!

"We started to explore the north end where the bush grows thickest. Unexpectedly, we came upon a clearing in which stood a dilapidated, weather-beaten house, which we had not seen before. The windows were all broken, and the front door hung on one hinge. Cautiously we entered the old building to be met by musty odours and strange, creaking noises. I was so interested in my surroundings that I came to with a start when I heard footsteps pounding away outside. Rushing to the nearest window, I was startled to see Fred running madly away, with a frightened look on his face . . ."

Permit me to break in here. The picture attached to the sale suggests that the author managed to see the look on Fred's face by regarding Fred's west end from an east-end position. Neat trick, if you can work it!

". . . What had he seen or heard? With chattering teeth I hurried to the door and out into the welcome summer sunshine. As I hurried home, I made up my mind that deserted houses had better remain deserted."

For that, the author of the paragraph is, apparently, given full marks by the writers of the text. You see, although it lacks essential punctuation and ends up by leaving us in the dark as to a possible cause for the scare, it pleases the text book compilers exceedingly because it is written in the first person.

Oh yes, they advocate first person stuff, too. 'When I went to school, I got my ears boxed severely if I dared to write autobiographies because, I was told, they are deadly dull fare. That's why I write them constantly now, I suppose. But times change and so do text books.

What most concerns me now is: Where can I find a good English grammar? With this series practically in universal use — at least in this country — I can't locate one for love nor money. Not one fit to use in grade eight, at any rate!

Corrects Impressions on "Bellevue" Preservation

TO THE EDITOR

St. Andrews East, Que.
February 10, 1957

Editor, The Watchman,
Lachute, Que.

Dear Sir:

On reading Mrs. Hungerbuhler's excellent letter in your issue of February 7th, I am disturbed to find that my frequent and long absences from this region have resulted in gaps in my knowledge which I should have been at pains to fill by further inquiry. One passage in my article "E. W. Thomson and the Lower Ottawa Valley" should have been revised to read as follows:

In making their changes and addition, the Brothers have shown wisdom in retaining a part of the ancient building.

We should all be grateful for a final memory of "Bellevue" in the beautiful restoration designed and executed by Mr. F. A. Hungerbuhler, owner of the property from 1935 to 1949. (It should be mentioned incidentally that Mr. Hungerbuhler was the donor to the Historical Society of Argenteuil County, of the building which has become the Carillon Museum.)

My thanks for your courtesy in inserting this revised statement.

Yours very truly,

— Julia Grace Wales

BULKY LAS and PROTENA DAIRY FEED

The corn crop last year was very disappointing, to most people and many silos are getting near the finish line.

This is a condition where BULKY LAS can be used to excellent advantage, either to spin out the silage or replace it when the silo is empty.

100 Pounds Bulky Las is equal in food value to 500 pounds Silage. Bulky Las has molasses to make the cows love it; and any feed they love, they will do much better on it. Bulky Las is high in digestible nutrients, which adds to its feeding value; is high in lime and phosphorus, which are the main minerals a cow needs; has plenty of variety; is very bulky, is laxative and has a very high conditioning value. It does not have to be soaked.

When you run into Mastitis, or your cows go off feed, change over to Bulky Las. It is a big help. Cows will eat it when they refuse all other feeds.

If you still have lots of grain, use Bulky Las and your own grain, half and half, on your growing calves, dry cows and heifers. It will do a wonderful job.

If your grain is running low, try our PROTENA DAIRY FEED. It is a 16% protein feed that is quite bulky, of excellent texture and is giving wonderful results. Feed it as it comes in the bag, no mixing or fuss and best of all, both these feeds are surprisingly low in price for so high a quality feed! The bags have a good re-sale value; you don't have the trouble of burning them.

Won't you order a supply today. We deliver, and our service is second to none!

ALL ABOARD
With G. E. Mortimore

Churlish comments are voiced now and then about Hungarian refugees in this country.

"Foreigners throwing Canadians out of jobs . . . " "Why didn't they stay and keep fighting . . . ?" "Millions for Hungarians but starvation pay for old-age pensioners."

Such bilious and unworthy remarks are heard in buses and taverns. They even find their way into print. Perhaps they do not deserve a reply. But it goes against the grain to let them pass without challenge.

The Hungarian people fought a tough and lonely battle for freedom. They require no advocates in this rich, calm land, which has been free from direct foreign attack for more than 100 years.

It is not our right to question the motives of the brave men and women who fought in hte streets of Budapest. Their actions speak for them. The Hungarians are no living saints, but only human creatures who suffered wounds and death in a blind revolt against tyranny. Our ancestors fought the same war, in several ways and in several places. We should remember it. It is in the history books.

Some Hungarians remained in their tragic homeland. Others left, perhaps intending to renew the fight another day; perhaps merely heartsick, wanting to escape into the daylight.

Sanctuary for political refugees is an old British tradition, which Canada inherits. Waves of refugees during the centuries have enriched the cultures of Britain, Canada and the United States.

As their predecessors did, the Hungarians bring new skills and a passion for liberty.

Economists tell us that Canada needs more people to reach full development. In the long, run, they say, the presence of more people will create more jobs. We would be wise to recruit a high proportion of new citizens from the countries that speak our languages, English and French, and can thus be most readily assimilated. But there is room for people from many nations.

Above all, there is room for those who have returned from the front line of their battle for freedom. Our welcome to such people should not be smudged by selfishness or pettiness of mind.

Watchman Report On St. Andrews Meeting Subject of Criticism

TO THE EDITOR

Willow Brook Farm
St. Andrews East, Que.

Editor, Lachute Watchman,

Dear Sir:

I would like to take exception if I may to your reporting on page 7 in your February 7th issue regarding the St. Andrews District Liberal Supporters choosing delegates for the "forthcoming general election."

The implication in your first paragraph in context with the names of all those persons you name as present, is that they were each and all Liberal Party supporters. Speaking for myself, and I was named, this is not correct and I object to being so categoried.

I was invited to what I understood was a public meeting, it was held at the St. Andrews East Town Hall, the door was open to all and I attended; my object being to hear what the prospective candidate had to say for himself. I think your reporter could have ascertained that there were others who attended for the same reason.

As a matter of fact I am one of the John Q Public who is far from satisfied just now with the doings of either of our political parties, the thing we prefer to do during the next few weeks before elections (if there is a general election) is to see, read, listen and then cast our vote to the best of our judgment. Until then pray do not name me.

I appreciate that mistakes can be made in reporting and that in this case no great harm is done. I enjoy reading your paper, it is most newsworthy and objectively reported and I wish to take this opportunity to enclose my cheque for one year's subscription.

Yours truly,

— Kenneth Stevenson

IN SNOW AND COLD, TRANS-CANADA HIGHWAY PUSHES ON

—Central Press Canadian

Along the north shore of Lake Superior, work on the Trans-Canada highway continues in sub-zero temperatures and many communities now isolated will be linked into the highway system by next autumn. Steam shovels, huge graders, snowblowers, trucks and dynamite are the tools of the trade of the road makers. Opening of the road will be a boon to tourists, fishermen, hunters and bushworkers who now have to depend on rail or air travel.

SHE'S PERSISTENT BUT NOT FRUITFUL

—Central Press Canadian

Tweetie, the pet budgie of Diane Papsin of Toronto, has laid 60 eggs during the past year and as many as four a week. But it's a frustrating experience for Tweetie who tries to incubate the eggs but becomes impatient in three or four days and pecks the eggs to pieces. The eggs, unfertilized, would not produce new budgies anyway, but Tweetie keeps on trying.

No Fires Reported — Traffic Variations, Other Business at Brownsburg Council

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — At the February meeting of Brownsburg municipal council, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, then the chiefs of the police and fire departments made their monthly reports.

Fire Chief Arthur Robbins was gratified to report that, in the worst fire month, there were no fires in Brownsburg. He hastened to caution villagers, however, that in exceptionally cold weather it was better to wear extra sweaters than to overtax the capacity of their heating systems. Chief Robbins thanked the Council for repairing the truck siren and asked that the telephone number painted on the truck be changed to 4242 — the new number exclusive to the fire department.

Police Chief Lepine made his usual report about tax returns and petty offences. He suggested that he be authorized to move the Stop sign at the corner of Bank Street at Park, to the corner of Park at Bank, so that the south-north traffic would have right of way over the west-north traffic. Council was in agreement, and this change will be made in the near future.

Councillor Ernest Lavoie proposed that the traffic lights may be used to more advantage if the police department could, at its own discretion, change to the flickering yellow on days when the traction was bad. This proposal was adopted, as was his other recommendation — that the collection of dog and bicycle taxes be left exclusively to the police department.

Secretary-treasurer Vincent Charbonneau presented each of the councillors with a copy of his budget proposals. A total expenditure of close to $45,000 is anticipated, and Mr. Charbonneau proposes a rate of $1.30 per $100, which is a hike of 5 cents over the previous year. The assessment is up to $2,874,275, so that this source will afford $37,365. The business tax will be $3,850. The council will adopt or amend the budget.

Mr. Jay Murdoch, of Lachute, was present and offered to demonstrate his John Deere tractor which would compete with those previously quoted on. Mayor Lepine pointed out that there was no allowance in the budget for a tractor, and that the purchase would be contingent on the sale of the snow-blower. He suggested that Mr. Murdoch leave his tender in writing with the secretary-treasurer.

Mopping up the correspondence, the councillors authorized the payment of $42 to Mr. Primeau of Café Marquise for re-paving his sidewalk. They also declared the week of February 10-16 Electricity Week in honor of Thomas Edison. A request for a donation by the Quebec Carnival Committee was turned down.

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, who recently sold out their Brownsburg property to Mr. Lafleur, now wish to sell the 60 feet on the east verge of Maple Avenue at the Wartime Houses to the municipality for $1. Mayor Lepine suggests that some 20 feet of this be handed over to the adjacent property owners. The councillors seemed to feel that it would be better to retain the status quo after buying the property.

The meeting ended with another no-decision confab on Head Tax.

To Increase Indemnity Of Quebec Legislators

Quebec (CP) —

A bill to increase the indemnity of members of the two-house Legislature to $7,000 from $6,000 for each session was given first reading Tuesday in the Legislative Assembly.

There are 93 seats in the Assembly and 24 in the Council, where appointments are for life.

Regular Meeting Of Rotary Club

Lapel buttons for 100 percent attendance were recently presented to Rotarians Sid Stillwell (five years), Wes Freeland and Larry Presseault (four years) and Fred David (three years) — all members of the Brownsburg - Lachute Rotary Club.

Rotarian Jack MacKimmie reported on a recent visit which he and Rotarian Linton W. Armstrong, District Governor-elect, made to the Potsdam club, being accompanied by their wives. Several ideas for the local club were brought home by the visitors.

Nomination of officers takes place this evening, and next Thursday, February 21, will be Fellowship Night, when all local members will gather at the home of Jean Belanger for a social evening.

Dudley Boal, chairman of the Program Committee, was in charge of last Thursday's entertainment, a film entitled "Chain Reaction", which featured accidents-in-the-making and a refresher on highway manners.

BIG MACHINE

Atikokan, Ont. (CP) — Canada's first tire retreader which can handle tires weighing 1,000 pounds now is in operation here. It works on tires used on scrapping machines operated by Steep Rock Iron Mines, each tire being seven feet, three inches high. The retreader cost $5,000.

Alderman Thanks Electors Solicits Ratepayers' Interest

I wish to thank the electors of Centre Ward for their help and support in the last election, and for the large majority they gave me in that contest.

This testimony of esteem is an encouragement for me to continue my efforts, to serve again for the interests of this town.

During my campaign, I noticed that many of our citizens were not fully informed on the business of the town. It would be in the general interest that the ratepayers attend the Council meetings in larger numbers. I would be happy to meet the electors, and to give them all the necessary information.

Once again, Thank You.

— Romain Desjardins,
Alderman for the Centre Ward of the Town of Lachute.

The meteoric rise of one Elvis Presley to the top of the popularity poll with the younger set has brought forth showers of ridicule and abuse from those of more serious generations. Members of the older sets are actually in no position to scoff, for did they not have their Valentino, Gable, Taylor et al?

Gilbert Stuart, North America's greatest portrait painter of his generation, produced more than 1,000 pictures, regarded today in England, Ireland and the United States as treasures. They are valuable historically as well as artistically, reports Reader's Digest, because they are such remarkably accurate resemblances.

To U.K. This Summer With RCMP Musical Ride

RCMP Constable Tom Jamison this week-end reports to Rockcliffe, where he will commence training for the RCMP Musical Ride tour of the United Kingdom.

Cst. Jamison was a member of the famed ride last year and toured many sections of Canada and the United States. This year's tour commences late in April and the group are expected to return in late August. First appearance will likely be in London, England, on May 5.

The son of Mrs. Philippe Roy and the late I. W. Jamison, Tom Jamison joined the force in June, 1953. Following his basic training in Regina, Sask., was transferred to Ottawa, where he was posted until December, 1955, then being transferred to the Maritimes. He started training for the Ride at Rockcliffe last spring, and following completion of the tour in late fall, returned to Moncton, N.B. From this station he reports to Rockcliffe for a refresher course, prior to the U.K. tour.

Interesting Topic Heard By Lachute W.I. Ladies

The monthly meeting of the Lachute Women's Institute was held in the Legion Hall, with a good attendance of members and visitors. Mrs. George McGibbon occupied the chair.

The program was under the convenership of Mrs. J. A. Gordon, vice-president, who introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Arthur Hanly.

Mrs. Hanly gave an illustrated talk on the life of the Queen Mother Elizabeth, describing her childhood, her courtship and marriage to Prince "Albert" and later, her life as Duchess of York and Queen of the British Empire.

The lantern slides shown by Mrs. Hanley, of Glamis Castle, the Forfarshire seat of the Earl of Strathmore and home of Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, added to the interest of this lecture. Mrs. F. W. FitzGerald moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

Members were reminded to support the handicraft exhibit at the Lachute Spring Fair, requesting that at least 10 articles be entered from Lachute Branch.

Tea was served after adjournment of the meeting.

High School Reporter Recounts Visit Of Lachute-Brownsb'g Group to Quebec

By Bev. Sanford

Last Thursday morning, ten Grade XI students from Lachute High School and three from Brownsburg left for Quebec City, accompanied by their chaperons, Mrs. J. Wilson, Mr. Syd Patterson and Mr. King Amos, principal of Brownsburg High School.

We left Lachute by station-wagon and arrived at Park Avenue Station to board the 10.45 a.m. train for Quebec. We had lunch on the train and at 2.15 p.m. reached our destination and were immediately taken to our overnight accomodations. From here we left to visit the Parliament Buildings and were privileged to attend the afternoon Session which we viewed from seats in the balcony.

At the opening of the meeting each member is sworn in before the Clerk of the Assembly and takes his seat to the right of the Speaker if he belongs to the party, or to the left if he is a member of the Opposition, or an Independent Member. There are 92 Members in the Legislative Assembly, each representing one Constituency. At the beginning Mr. Duplessis introduced the Speaker, Mr. Gagnon, while Mr. Tellier, the Orator, to whom all the remarks are addressed, led the discussion. The Premier spoke entirely in French and discussed the financial status of the Province. After the speeches, to signify their disapproval, the Liberal members pounded on the desks with their fists. Here, the Union Nationale members could be distinguished as they did not show like signs. Young boys, clad in dark suits and bow ties, delivered paper and other written material to the Members in Session. Some of the members seemed very inattentive except during the pounding of fists at which time they welcomed this occasion to furtively turn the pages of their newspapers. Protocol is also very strict in the Green Room. No one may walk to or leave his desk without silent consent of the Speaker being given by a deep bow.

Within these walls, there are many symbols which have deep significance to Quebecers, and recall the first period of history of this Province. For instance, the centre ceiling of the room has been turned into a painting representing the past of Canada — the arrival of Jacques Cartier in 1534, the foundation of Quebec by Champlain in 1608, the attack on Canada by Phipps, the Battle of the Plains of Abraham in 1759, also the first Government men in the British Regime, the Fathers of Confederation and Great Premiers of Quebec.

The room is a dignified setting for a sitting of Parliament and painted in shades of green, white and gold. The green of the carpets and the walls, according to some historians, recalls the realization of the hopes of many to administer their own public affairs and the color green because it represents the youth of growing people, as the green fields forecast rich crops to the owners of the land.

Following this interesting and educational tour, we then adjourned to the Executive Council. This Council is the last in the Dominion of Canada, as elsewhere it has been abolished. There are twenty-four Councillors in this Upper House. This room is decorated in Red to recall the colors of the Courts of France and England and the authority of the Church.

After visiting this Chamber, we were then taken into the Library, which contains books and magazines dated as far back as the first century. Next we were shown the Lieut. Governor's office, which, as we were told, contains several pieces of very ancient and valuable furniture. Along the halls of the building are paintings of former Members of Parliament and other officials. We were then conducted through a tunnel to the Laboratories where experiments are carried out on newly-found minerals. The ores are broken down and the machines determine the valuable components of such. We were shown such valuable instruments as a Leitz microscope, a Spectograph, Radio-active machines, a Geiger counter, balances, and finally taken into a Chemistry Lab.

After a short rest period, we entered the Parliamentary dining-room where we were accompanied by the Honorable W. M. Cottingham, Directors of the Board of Protestant Education, other officials and members of the Press from Quebec and Montreal. Here we were served a sumptuous dinner.

Later, the group viewed different figures of the Ice Carnival. That night the boys were accommodated at "The Top of the Hill," while the girls in the party stayed at the "Chateau Rouge."

The following morning, after breakfast, a special autobus picked us up and began our tour of the City and suburbs. We viewed the armoury with the Reserve Units, the HMS Iberville and Montcalm, composed of Navy units, Grande Allée, St. Louis Gate, St. Louis Street, the oldest residential section of the City, the Ursuline Convent, founded in 1639 by Madame de la Peltri, the oldest house dating to 1674, the well known hotel Chateau Frontenac and the Dufferin Terrace, the first Anglican Church in Canada, Laval University, the Island of Orleans, Hotel Dieu Hospital, Sur-le-Cap, the narrowest street, six feet at one point, the Oldest church, Notre Dame des Victoires, 1688. Many more places of interest were visited including Montmorency Falls, the Plains of Abraham, the City reservoir with a capacity of 33,000,000 gallons, and finally the sunken Gardens containing a monument of Joan of Arc brought by a U.S. millionairess from France in 1941.

We were then taken to the residence of Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Minister of Mines, where we were served a delicious luncheon and we were each presented with a collection of mineral samples found in the province, also booklets explaining minerology.

This concluded our visit and we then boarded the CPR train for Montreal, making connections at Park Avenue Station for Lachute, all arriving home after a most enjoyable and educational tour.

Our sincere appreciation is extended to the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club, who sponsored this trip, also to the Hon. W. M. Cottingham for his wholehearted collaboration, and to our three chaperons, Mrs. Janet Wilson, Mr. Syd Patterson and Mr. King Amos, who helped to make our trip so pleasant.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

New Elders Ordained At Lachute United

At the morning service in Lachute United Church last Sunday, in the presence of a large congregation, the following church members were ordained as members of the Session, and inducted into office: Robert A. Giles, Cliff Cunningham, Leslie Kerr, Gordon Dobbie and Lorne Duncan.

The charge to the elders and congregation was delivered by the minister, the Rev. Wilson Bridge, and was followed by the reception of the elders, who individually affirmed their Christian belief in Jesus Christ as their Saviour and Lord — after which the congregation stood for the prayer of ordination. The impressive service concluded with the singing of the hymn, "Spirit of God, descend upon my heart," followed by the Benediction.

Thanks to Supporters Of CNIB Card Party

On behalf of the Women's Auxiliary to the CNIB, we take this opportunity to thank all who attended our card party Monday evening, making it such a success. Special appreciation is expressed to Mr. T. Iddon, who also in the usual genial manner, welcomed the players; and to Mr. A. Zaplashi, who joined in the game and with his presence added inspiration and interest to the evening.

Prizes were presented by Mrs. W. G. Richardson, and the winners were:

First — Mr. N. MacGeorge (captain), Mrs. N. MacGeorge, Mr. G. Hay, Mrs. G. Hay.

Second — Mrs. F. McGill (captain), Mrs. R. Langille, Mrs. Joanna Gordon, Mrs. A. Kirby.

Novelty prize — Mrs. G. Noble.

As Ways and Means convener, I wish to thank all members who helped to make this first undertaking a success. It is regretted that the president, Mrs. T. Ponech, was unable to attend due to illness, and wishes are extended for her speedy recovery.

Refreshments were served by auxiliary members.

— Mrs. Merlyn Evans

Old Timers' Scramble

Sam Milnes, of Ayers Ltd. "Kid Line", taking an unexpected but well-earned rest in last Saturday's "Has-Beens" game. The local team was organized when Ayers were challenged by Atlas Asbestos, of Montreal, and came out on top of a 3-2 score.

On the Ayers line-up were many names associated with local hockey a few years back. The team comprised "Bidoux" Patry, Jim Clarke, Edris Jones, Frank Maidens, Don Heggie, Jos. Gagné, Leonard Gagné, Roger Gravel, Armand Brisson, John Dixon, Ray Underhill, Sam Milnes, and the star of the game, Goaler Roger Regimbal. Among the qualifications for the team, was a requirement that all players must be over 35 years of age.

Prospects Brighter As Bombers Near Playoffs

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg Bombers by winning two of their last three games, now stand a fair chance of making the all-important jump from third to second place in the league standings. Hawkesbury has already won the title, and Alexandria is assured of occupying the cellar. These teams will meet in the play-offs, with Hawkesbury in the driver's seat, starting at home.

The other series concerns Brownsburg and Ste. Anne de Bellevue, but the driver here will be the second-place team. Brownsburg is in that spot at the moment, but Ste. Anne de Bellevue has one extra game to play. The outcome will be decided tonight and the play-offs will start on Sunday. The Bombers hope they will start here.

Back at full strength, the locals showed up best in their losing game as they had Hawkesbury down 2-0 through the last period. They cracked up for four minutes and in that time Hawkesbury scored three times, to win 3-2. Jacques Racine scored both the Brownsburg goals, and André Ouellette the only assist.

In the two games against Alexandria, the Bombers played as if the outcome was not in doubt, and consequently they won in dull fashion, 4-2 and 6-2. Over the slump Jacques Racine, who is flying high again, scored two goals and two assists. André Ouellette and Honoré Norbonne bettered that with two goals and three assists each. Yves Laporte with two, and Red Charlebois and Maurice Giroux, scored the other Brownsburg goals.

Broadcast From Quebec Winter Carnival

The only talking snowman in the world is a big attraction at Quebec City's winter carnival which opened January 13 and continues until March 5. The festival, will be the subject of "Canadian Scene" on February 17 at 4 p.m. on Trans-Canada Radio. The carnival queen will have been crowned the previous day and the broadcast is expected to include a description of the coronation ceremony. A stunt event which will be described is an ice-canoe race from Quebec across the river to Levis and back, with five-man canoes battling four-feet-thick ice-floes moving oceanwards at 15 miles per hour.

Ottawa Valley School Basketball Title Tournament

LACHUTE HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS ACTIVITIES

By Bev. Sanford

Last Saturday the O.V.S.A.A. Tournament was held in Lachute, and included John Rennie High, Hull, Hudson and St. Eustache schools.

The Senior girls played the first of the L.H.S. games, against Hull. The first quarter was fast and rough, with an unusual number of fouls. Lachute racked up 15 points to Hull's 4, made only by foul shots. During the brief intermission, the visitors' cheerleaders put on a short exhibition. In the second stanza Hull finally succeeded in scoring but the local girls were ahead 27-11.

In the last half, play was somewhat slower; excitement rose as Hull endeavored to tie the score, but the game ended with Lachute well in the lead, 41-28.

The three-star selection went to Shirley Pollock, Jean Taylor and Betty Underhill.

The next encounter was the Lachute Senior boys versus Hudson. Play got off to a fast start, with plenty of action, Lachute leading 11-7 at the close of the first period. The Hudson cheerleaders were very busy during intermission, and their efforts were not in vain, as the visitors pulled ahead to make it 19-16 in their favor at half-time.

During the next quarter, play was rapid and exciting, as Lachute once more took over the lead 21-20, but not for long, as the score was tied again 24-24. Then Hudson edged out a one-point margin to end the third quarter 28-27.

In the last quarter, the teams were neck-and-neck, with the local boys leading at one time. Then Hudson put on pressure, to win by a close margin 34-29. Thus, the Lachute Senior boys were eliminated from the O.V.S.A.A. Championship. This was a disappointing defeat, as they had worked hard and played well.

In the evening, the Senior girls played again, this time against Hudson. There was close play, with very little scoring in the first part of the game, and Lachute led 4-2. During the next quarter, the teams proved more evenly matched as the score was tied many times. Finally Hudson pulled ahead 11-8 to end half-time.

Excitement ran high as the play progressed, with loud cheers from the spectators as each team took over the lead. The score see-sawed until a 17-17 tally closed the third quarter. . . Lachute once more moved into first place, 19-17. Play continued, with Hudson finally on top 22-21. At 14 seconds to go, when the suspense was at its highest, Lachute unfortunately missed a foul shot — thus Hudson won the game by a one-point margin.

As in the case of the boys, this too was a hard battle to lose, as it was anybody's game until the very last second. The three stars of the game were Jean Taylor, Betty Underhill and Joyce Davis.

The O.V.S.A.A. Championship for the girls was won by Hull High School on a total of points played in the three games.

Curling Events At Home Club And Elsewhere

Laurier Carrière skipped his rink to victory for the President's Prize in the finals at the Curling Club last Friday night, with Ross MacAdam, Bill White and Jack McIndoe, against Linton Armstrong, who had Edgar Pollock playing third, Sylvestre Hall and A. S. Cockhill. This was a keenly fought series all the way through and created considerable interest among the members.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ogilvie, and Mr. and Mrs. W. K. McArthur, were successful in winning their first two games in the mixed bonspiel at Lacolle, and returned last Saturday for the finals. They lost their first game to a rink from Lachine, but won the second against Outrement, in the semi-finals for the Consolation. They lost their final game to a rink from Aubry.

The high-plus in last Saturday's mixed curling was won by a rink skipped by Roy Fraser, with Mrs. Jean Stein, Ian Gordon and Miss Ann David.

The Legion bonspiel is now under way, with four rinks entered from Lachute. These will play down to a winner this week. The provincial playdowns are to be held in Lachute this year, early in March.

Play has now begun at the rink for the Vice-President's Prize. As there is the usual large number of entries, the finals will not be held until Thursday or Friday of next week.

Montreal Entries in Light Car Trials Passed Through Lachute

Toronto, Feb. 10 (CP) — Fourteen cars, including two from Montreal, survived the pounding of rough roads and fierce winter weather to finish with perfect scores in the Canadian Winter Rally, but a protest over an obscure eastern Ontario check-point clouded the final results.

The Canadian Automobile Sport Committee, called into an emergency huddle at the British Empire Motor Club's rally headquarters here, adjourned without a decision and announced it will hand down a verdict later this week.

The 14 perfect finishers — all share first place pending the CASC ruling — completed all sectional runs on the 1,300 miles of Ontario and Quebec roads within set time schedules and passed through every allotted check point.

A total of 157 cars, 34 from Montreal and the rest from Toronto, started Friday night and followed the same route through Eastern Ontario, Montreal and the Laurentians, through Ottawa, Kingston, Haliburton and the Georgian Bay country, and Toronto. Montreal entries left from and returned to Montreal, passing through Lachute on the first leg of the journey.

Thirty-six cars beset by road mishaps or mechanical troubles ranging from burned wheel bearings to smashed radiators, dropped out at various stages.

Two were involved in collisions but only one driver received minor hospital treatment.

The rally was sanctioned for the first time this year by the Federation Internationale Automobile, the world governing body of motor sport, and counts for the International Touring Championship.

FORMER SERGEANT ASSUMES COMMAND

St. Catharines, Ont. (CP) — Lt.-Col. William H. Rudge, who followed his father into the ranks of the 44th Field Regiment, St. Catharines artillery militia unit, has been appointed the unit's commander.

Lt.-Col. Rudge and his father both went to war as sergeants in the 10th Field Battery, predecessor of the present unit. His father joined the battery in 1912 and went overseas in 1914. A veteran of the 1915 Battle of St. Julien, the elder Rudge was married overseas and the son was born in England in 1917. He joined the battery in 1931 and went overseas as a sergeant in 1939.

Colford Softballers Try Luck at Hockey

Next Sunday Colford Lodge ball squad put on skates to try their luck at hockey. Colford will play host to a company team (Mair's Break & Clutch, Montreal) at the Brownsburg Arena, at 10 a.m. Sunday.

Colford's defeated this Montreal team badly last summer at softball, now they are going to try it at hockey. Colford's will have all their ball squad and a couple of extras to make up the team. . . No admission will be charged for this exhibition game.

Teen-Agers Win Church Novelty Bowling Contest

A pleasant social evening was enjoyed Monday by members of the Lachute United Church Bowling League, making a break in their regular schedule. Each team played four times during the evening with novelty ends, and a secret envelope with a plus or minus score affecting the grand total of the teams.

After all games were played and the grand total counted, it was found that three teams had identical scores of 26 — the Teen-agers East Settlement and the Maple Leafs. Additional secret envelopes were passed to these teams, and the Teen-agers were declared winners. A tie also resulted for the "booby" prize, with Mrs. Bridge's St. Andrew's, and Wm. Wilson's St George's teams, and again the envelopes declared the Wilson team winners of a "White Swan" special award. An unusual score was witnessed with one end of the Teen-agers and St. George's, when the former team scored a 9-ender with only eight balls. Due to penalty rules of the skip failing to stop a "gonged" ball, the total score gave the Teen-agers a 9 count.

Due to the absence of Miss Margaret Gordon, the president, Mrs. Milton McFaul, the vice-president, handled the pleasantries of the evening — presenting the prizes and thanking the refreshment and games conveners for their contribution to this very fine evening.

Next week, the teams enter the last phase of their regular season, with five weeks to go. The games, on Monday, February 18, are as follows:

W.M.S. Reds vs. W.M.S. Blues.
St. Georges vs. St. Andrews.
Teen-agers vs. S.S. Teachers.

8 p.m. —
Thistles vs. All-Stars.
Maple Leafs vs. St. David's.
St. Pats vs. East Settlement.

Ladies' Curling

Two Lachute rinks are presently in Cornwall, taking part in the Cornwall ladies' three-day bonspiel. The rinks participating are:

Mrs. Hungerbuhler, Miss M. Scott, Mrs. E. K. Wilson, Mrs. C. E. Richardson (skip).

Mrs. A. Rice, Mrs. D. Heggie, Mrs. J. Barbour and Mrs. Geo. McGibbon (skip).

Today (Thursday) Mrs. K. Rutherford, Mrs. E. Rodger, Mrs. R. Muir and Mrs. L. W. York (skip) are visiting Hawkesbury in their friendly Invitation Bonspiel.

The Vice-President's Bonspiel is still going on, having reached the semi-final stages.

Brownsburg High School

By Glenrose Hazel

On Saturday the Brownsburg School hockey team played their second game against Macdonald High School. The game ended with a tie, 4-4, after 10 minutes of overtime.

In the first period goals were scored by Melvyn Stewart (2), Leslie Murdoch (1) and two assists by Kenny MacGibbon.

In the second period there were no goals scored, but one penalty was meted out.

In the third period a goal was scored by Alex MacGibbon, on an assist by Melvyn Stewart, and again one penalty was issued.

Anglican Bowlers Hold Round-Robin Tournament

The St. Simeon's Bowling League had an interval in their regular league schedule, to hold a round-robin tournament. The winners and runners-up were:

Victorias (skip, Geo. Leggett, Sr.) — total of 24 points.

Gladiators (skip, Mrs. W. Shearsmith) — total of 21 points.

Other scores were:
Stars (skip, G. Silverson) 15 points.
Happy Gang (skip, Mrs. A. Elliott) 13 points.
Swallows (skip, W. Shearsmith) 13 points.
Comets (skip, Mrs. C. R. Lang) 13 points.
Jets (skip, Elizabeth Strong) 12 points.

The regular league schedule will be resumed on Monday next, February 18.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

A very dignified lady brought a defective toaster to a local hardware store. After examination, the repairman told her, "You have a short circuit here ma'am."

"Then lengthen it for me, please," the lady said crisply.

At the conclusion of a nature lesson the teacher said, "Now don't you think it's wonderful how the little chicks get out of their egg shells?" Whereupon a little girl piped up with, "What beats me, teacher, is how they get in."

ARTS, BOOKS, SHOWS AND ENTERTAINMENT

Drama In Poetry for CBC 'Wednesday Night'

A Christopher Fry play to be heard on CBC Wednesday Night next week (8-10 p.m.) completes the three-part series planned by Andrew Allan to show the changing styles of play-writing in the last 70 years. "The First-born", one of Fry's earlier plays (1946), follows the presentation in November of Tennyson's "Becket", and of Galsworthy's "The Silver Box", last month.

In a BBC broadcast in 1950 Fry tried to explain the immense drama of mere existence, of trying to clear away the seeling film of familiarity and look with fresh, amazed eyes at "the mysteries and commonplaces of existence as if we had turned a corner and run into them for the first time. . . What we call reality is a false god, the dull eye of custom. . . Life itself is the real and most miraculous miracle of all."

Fry found expression of this miracle in poetic terms — free, but in intricate verse forms. In the pursuit of surface reality. Fry felt that ordinary stage dialogue had reached the limit of imitation, neglecting the overtones of the miraculous.

Fry, then, represents the new "Poets' theatre" which has been growing since the war. As Allan points out, Fry was much influenced by W. H. Auden and, of course, by T. S. Eliot, who along with Fry have used a new approach to the theatre which has found acceptance by the public, from charwoman to the peerage, from young to old — which is, after al, the theatre's reason for being.

"The Firstborn" is set in Egypt at the time of the plagues and it centres around Moses' efforts to persuade Pharaoh that he should let the Israelites leave Egypt. The play was first produced at the 1948 Edinburgh Festival, and later revised by Fry. Andrew Allan has prepared the adaptation for radio, and the music will be written and conducted by Morris Surdin.

Television Feature Tells How Newsprint Is Made

The fiction of a current hit tune, about a "money tree" that provides everything the townsfolk want, comes close to fact in Dalhousie, New Brunswick, a thriving community which has derived nearly all it has from the fir and spruce that forest the region. The story of the Dalhousie area's pulp and paper industry will be told on "Here and There" on CBC-TV — February 10 on station CBHT, and February 17 on the Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto stations.

Woods and water are the elements that have shaped Dalhousie's destiny for many years. The forest has been the source, the energy and the fuel; the seaward flow of the Restigouche and Matapedia rivers and their tributaries, the arteries transforming raw potential into weekly pay cheques.

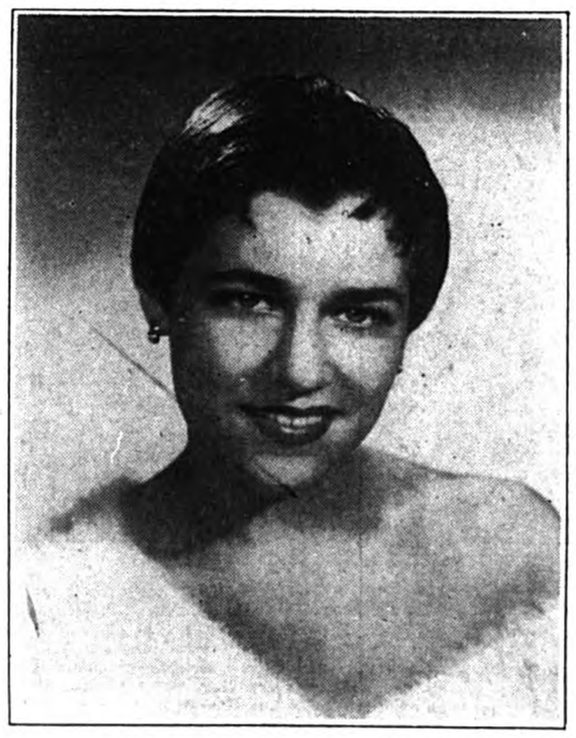

Dalhousie is a mill town in every sense of the word. The sprawling International Paper Company plant dominates the landscape, providing employment for over 1,400 of the town's 5,500 residents and for several thousands more in the outlying lumber settlements. The plant was opened in 1930 and now has a maximum daily output of 850 tons of newsprint. "Here and There" offers a pictorial record of the men and machines producing this paper.

The town itself is crowded against the bank of the Restigouche where the tidal currents of the Baie des Chaleurs ebb and flow. To the Micmac Indians who first peopled it, the region was known as Siskadomec, while the first white settlers, mainly Scottish, called it the St. Andrews of the North. In 1826, at which time the town was best known as a fishing and shipbuilding centre, it was named after the Earl of Dalhousie, Governor-in-Chief of Upper and Lower Canada.

In the 19th and early 20th centuries fishing, shipbuilding and lumbering, in turn, kept Dalhousie busy. In the 20's lumbering was on the wane and fishing much less profitable than it once had been. Then, in 1928, came the news that the town had been chosen as an ideal site for a newsprint mill, and soon Dalhousie was flowering as it had never done before.

CBC men went from Halifax to visit the lumbermen in the woods and photograph them carrying out the first phase of the newsprint operation. Then they followed the process through the plant, from the arrival of the logs at the woodyard to the lowering of the finished product into the hold of an ocean freighter.

Soprano Soloist in Many Operas, At Community Concert Next Week

Christina Cardillo, a youthful star of operatic stage, radio and television, will be heard next Wednesday, February 20, at Lachute High School, in the last highlight of the Community Concerts' schedule here this season. . . . Due to unforeseen circumstances, commencement of the program will be delayed until 8.45 p.m.

The beautiful clarity of Christina Cardillo's lyric soprano has captured the hearts of America and Europe in the amazingly few years since she made her professional debut, with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Possessing an extraordinary voice that won the 1954 and '55 Metropolitan Auditions of the Air, she can already boast a career that would seem to bely her youth. Top conductors and critics of Boston and New York, and in Italy, have enthusiastically endorsed her.

A graduate of the New England Conservatory, she won a scholarship for study in Milan with Carmen Mellis, the teacher of Renata Tebaldi. When she returned to the States she was under the tutelage of Tibor Kosma, of the Metropolitan's musical staff. Even during her student days in Italy she was showered with radio and concert offers, but turned them down to devote full time to her studies.

Before leaving the U.S., however, she had already been soloist with the Boston Symphony in Beethoven's "Missa Solemnis." When she returned, little time elapsed before she began to appear as soloist under such auspices as New York's Dessoff Choirs, at Colorado's Central City Opera, with the Boston Symphony, at the Berkshire Festival, with the Boston Pops and at Manhattan's Greenwich Opera. She has sung many roles, both in opera and oratorio.

First Cunard Arrival Montreal Port April 13

Montreal — When the new luxury liner Sylvania makes her maiden voyage to Montreal in June, Cunard will have four recently-built 22,000-ton vessels maintaining regular passenger sailings via the St. Lawrence to the United Kingdom and France.

Last year the Cunard Line carried a total of 275,000 passengers across the Atlantic — an increase of 16,500 over the company's 1955 carryings, and Cunard expects 1957 to mark a new record in ship travel to Europe.

The four Cunarders on the Canadian service will make 42 sailings from Montreal this season. The first to call at Montreal will be the Carinthia, scheduled to arrive here April 13. She will sail for Liverpool April 17. The new Sylvania sails from Liverpool on her maiden voyage June 5, and leaves Montreal on her maiden eastbound crossing June 14.

Women's Interests -- The Homemaker's Section

Teatime Topics

By Carolyn Willett,
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Written Specially for
The Lachute Watchman

Canadian women have made a flying start on 1957 achievements with announcements from Ottawa appointing two women to top posts at home and abroad.

Winnipeg-born Ruth Addison, executive assistant to D. A. Golden, deputy minister of defence production, became the first woman on the three-member Civil Service Commission.

Women's groups for years have urged the prime minister to appoint a woman to this commission, which has jurisdiction over some 145,000 classified civil servants.

The second major appointment was that of Mrs. D. B. Sinclair as the first woman deputy director of the United Nations Children's Fund. Mrs. Sinclair, a native of Toronto, has long been active in welfare and the UN fund work, and is on loan to the UN from her post as executive assistant to the deputy minister of welfare.

At the UN in New York she will deal with Children's Fund programs, a globe-embracing task aimed at bringing new health and opportunity to the world's children.

Also hard at work at UN is Mrs. Ann Shipley, Liberal member of parliament for Timiskaming, one of three women in the Commons.

This Ontario housewife and mother of three is working on a UN committee which is trying to reach world agreement on protection of mothers and children.

Increasing Prominence

There seems to be increasing recognition of the fact that among Canadian women are those with abilities, qualifications and contributions to make, both nationally and internationally.

It is, however, but a glance backward to 1917, when Canadian women were first allowed to vote in federal elections. Quebec women didn't win a provincial vote until 1940.

There now are five women senators. The first, Liberal Cairine Wilson of Ottawa, was named to the upper house in 1930.

Senator Wilson's way to the red-carpeted chamber was paved by five crusading Alberta women who led a movement in the late 1920s to have the word "person", as it applied to senate appointments, include women.

Their case came before the Privy Council which ruled that women are indeed "persons". And that small legal definition has perhaps been one of the greatest boons to the status of Canadian women.

Electricity -- A Glimpse In the Home of Tomorrow

Here are only a few of the ideas the men in electrical research laboratories are working on. . .

The house of tomorrow will, in all likelihood, be lighted by electro-luminescent panels covering walls and ceilings; it will be possible to decorate with light by controlling the intensity and color of the light these panels transmit.

Housewives can expect to have in the kitchen a small appliance which will provide a constant supply of boiling water for use in making tea, instant coffee, consommé or preparing pre-cooked foods.

Electric blankets will provide not only warmth in winter but pleasant cooling in summer. Or perhaps a blanket won't be necessary at all. Instead there may be available a heat-producing radiant canopy which will be pulled out over the bed from a compartment in the wall.

The bulky television set may give way to a thin picture-frame TV screen hanging on the wall, making use of the light amplification principle and controlled from a small box at your elbow. The picture, of course, will be in color, and the set of the future may have its own tape recorder on which to record and play back TV shows or to show tapes of favorite movies, operas or dramatic shows that will be bought at the corner record shop.

Appliance dealers, sometime in the future, may be featuring ultrasonic washers which will make today's modern push-button machine as outmoded as the washboard. These washers of the future will remove dirt from clothing without use of agitation or tumbling and soaps and detergents.

Some engineers think it may even be possible to do away with the housewife's dust cloth and use instead an electro-static wand which, when waved over dusty floors or furniture would attract the dust to it.

Work is going ahead on an electronic refrigerator which has no compressor and no motor and requires no maintenance. This would, in turn, make possible an electronic air conditioner which could be installed as a wall or ceiling panel to absorb heat and remove it from the room.

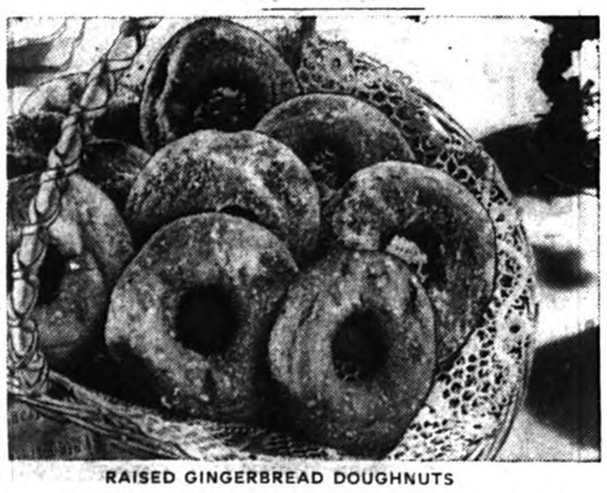

CHANCES ARE THREE TO ONE SHE WILL LIVE

—Central Press Canadian

Patricia MacKenzie of Rouge Hills, Ont., age five, has the date, July 11, set for an operation on her heart by surgeons of the Mayo clinic in Minnesota. Need for the operation became apparent when she was to have her tonsils removed and tests of her heart showed it had a hole in it. An operation at the Toronto General hospital proved unsuccessful and now—if the trip can be financed—she will be taken to Minnesota. She is given a three-to-one chance of surviving the operation, is not expected to reach the age of ten if the defect is not corrected.

DUTCH TREAT

RAISED GINGERBREAD DOUGHNUTS

In most countries certain food customs traditionally are associated with special occasions. For example in Canada we associate ham with Easter, turkey with Christmas and Thanksgiving, and so on. In Holland the Dutch associate doughnuts with Shrove Tuesday. But in Holland doughnuts are known as 'fastnachts', and Shrove Tuesday is called 'Fastnacht Day', for that's the day on which fat, puffy fastnachts traditionally are served for breakfast. According to legend the fastnacht tradition began so that good Dutch cooks could use up all the fat in the house before the six long, fatless weeks of Lent.

The Dutch custom of serving doughnuts at this time of year is one worth copying by any homemaker who is looking for ways to brighten winter menus. Mildly-spiced yeast-raised doughnuts with a delicate molasses flavor are a meal-time and lunch-box treat that's sure to be appreciated. These Gingerbread Doughnuts will be welcomed as an after-school snack and at snack-time any hour of the day.

Raised Gingerbread Doughnuts

(Yield—about 2 dozen doughnuts)

½ Cup milk, ¼ cup granulated sugar, ¼ cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon granulated sugar, 1 envelope active dry yeast, 4½ cups once-sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon ground ginger, 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon, ½ teaspoon grated nutmeg, ¼ teapsoon ground allspice, ¼ cup shortening, 2 tablespoons molasses, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 well-beaten eggs, 1½ cups sifted icing sugar, ½ cup boiling water, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Scald milk; stir in the ¼ cup granulated sugar. Cool to lukewarm. Meantime, measure lukewarm water into a large bowl; stir in the 1 teaspoon granulated sugar. Sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well. Measure all-purpose flour, ginger, cinnamon, nutmeg and allspices into a sifter. Stir lukewarm milk mixture into dissolved yeast. Stir in about half of flour-spice mixture; beat until smooth. Cover. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about ½ hour.

Meantime, cream shortening; gradually blend in molasses. Stir in salt and well-beaten eggs, (mixture will appear curdled); stir this mixture into risen batter. Beat until smooth. Stir in remaining flour mixture. Grease top of dough. Cover and let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 1 hour. Turn out dough onto lightly-floured board or canvas and shape into a smooth ball. Roll out dough to ½-inch thickness and cut with a floured doughnut cutter. Place cut doughnuts on lightly-floured cookie sheets. Grease tops. Cover with a tea towel. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft until doubled in bulk — about 45 minutes. Place risen doughnuts, a few at a time, into fat which has been heated to 375°F (a cube of day-old bread should brown nicely in 50 seconds). Cook 2 to 3 minutes, turning once. Dip warm doughnuts in a glaze made by combining the icing sugar, boiling water and vanilla. Cool on cake racks. Good served either cold or re-heated.

Safety Awards To Encourage 'Protective Instinct'

A new program designed to foster, recognize and reward achievements by women in the field of traffic safety, has been announced by the Canadian Highway Safety Conference in Ottawa.

The program provides for the award of Canada Savings Bonds totalling $1,750 to the three women's organizations judged to have developed and directed the most efficient traffic safety programs during the previous year. In addition, top winners will receive bronze statuettes designed to symbolize "woman's protective instinct." The judges to be selected by the Conference will be composed of prominent Canadian women.

"These awards," said the Hon. Antoine Rivard, chairman of the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, "will be administered by the Conference through a grant of the Shell Oil Company of Canada Limited, and will be officially known as the Carol Lane Awards." (Miss Lane is women's travel director for Shell, whose columns appear in this paper, and is well known as one of Canada's foremost experts on car travel).

The Awards will be presented each year at the annual spring meeting of the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, with a representative of each of the winning organizations attending as a guest of Shell.

"The first Awards will be presented at the Conference's 1958 spring meeting," said Mr. Rivard. "Since they will be based upon safety projects that have reached maturity during 1957, women's organizations such as service clubs, church societies and similar volunteer groups are being asked to immediately contact the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, 272 Somerset Street West, Ottawa, for explanatory brochures and entry forms."

Mr. Rivard emphasized that the safety projects could be at the national, provincial or community level. "The judges," he added, 'will not be influenced so much by the size of the project as by the results."

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

"Can't get away for long." "Busy at home." "Have to work." "Can't afford it." . . . Do these plaintive comments sound familiar? Perhaps they're some of the things you've said about your failure to make more automobile trips last year.

Lack of time and expense are the answers given most frequently by women motorists asked why they don't take more car trips. This was determined in a recent survey of distaff travelers conducted by an oil company. Forty-five per cent of the women surveyed complained of lack of time; another 17 per cent, of costs.

If you've been trying to console yourself with these excuses, I'd like to help you "get away from it all" more frequently by proving that you do have the time and that you can motor for a minimum of expense. The shortened work week, which gives most of us two-day week-ends, leaves plenty of time for short trips. Try using a few of those 50 extra Saturdays and 50 Sundays to take "Tourettes." These are 2-day, planned vacations within a 200-mile radius of your home town. To plan your own "Tourette", find your hometown on a road map. Then, using the mileage scale, measure off a piece of string representing 200 miles. Tack one end of the string to your home town, and, with a pencil on the other end, swing a circle on the map. Inside this circle is your "Tourette" exploration area for a week-end of fun.

About expenses. Remember, that car travel is the least expensive of all travel. You'll find that a couple of picnics along the way increase enjoyment and decrease cost. The most effective way to save money on any trip, from a "Tourette" to a longer vacation, is to budget wisely.

Now — A Contest For Mature Beauties

By Caroyln Willett

Here's something that just had to happen: a group of women in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., have organized a "mature beauty" contest to choose a dowager queen.

Contestants must be at least 35, or "more mature", married or single and "not frightened by public attention or adulation."

Merchants have offered prizes including vitamin pills, a two-way stretch girdle and a mudpack.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on 'nerves'—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. St. Valentine's Plans

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Roses are red, Violets are blue, Honey is sweet and so are you."

Everyone knows this old rhyme and there are few better ones to print or write on a Valentine. But how about trying to make up an original short rhyme or poem? Mother, or grandmother would get a big thrill out of a verse a child wrote all himself, even if it were "doggerel."

Making Valentines is great fun and everyone likes to receive pretty cards from their friends. Suggest to your children that the members of one's own family, even if some of them are "grown-up," enjoy getting Valentines too! Why not make a Valentine place card for each person in the home and put them on the table at supper time on February 14?

If there are young brothers or sisters in your home, do let them share in Valentine making! They may be too small to cut out a well-shaped heart from red cardboard. But they can find scissors and paste and look for pretty colored pictures in magazines or seed catalogues.

An old sample wall paper book is another wonderful place to search for attractive Valentine decorations. If you ask the merchant who has sold wall paper or paint to you to keep an out-of-date sample book, he will likely be glad to oblige you. With a little direction from you, a younger child can put paste on the back of a cut-out picture and choose where it is to be placed on the heart.

Small brothers or sisters will love to have a share in making Valentines. Mother will help them work together happily. If she has any paper doilies, perhaps she could suggest a paper lace edging for the nicest Valentines. They can be pasted on the back of the red cardboard with small plaits, making a filly edge.

The children might decorate ordinary paper serviettes with some red hearts which they drew and colored with their crayons or cut out from red paper and pasted on them. Mother might have a good idea about a pretty table centre piece, possibly using a little man and woman salt and pepper shakers as the two central figures. One family made a charming decoration for the table out of plasticene figures using four contrasting colors. Likely Mother will have a good idea about the first course, but perhaps either she or Big Sister could make heart-shaped cookies. Red gelatine jelly is an attractive dessert. A school age child can make it himself because the directions are so easy to follow.

This Fourteenth of February, half way through the long winter months, can be a very jolly time for everyone, if each member in the home co-operates in making Valentine Greetings and in preparations for a Valentine Home Party! These "Special Occasions" in family life provide a feeling of belonging. They are also very nice to remember when little folk are grown and away from home!

STURDY PATIENT

Medicine Hat, Alta. (CP) — Mrs. W. Campeau, 80, of nearby Redcliff, has had five surgical operations but has never been in hospital. She developed blood poisoning after stepping on a needle, and five times doctors had to operate until she lost the leg. Mrs. Campeau had all these operations at home.

Her first stop —the bank

When Mrs. Wilson planned to go shopping, her husband Tom said: "Meet you at the bank." It was a natural thing to say, for going to the bank is just a part of everyday life.

In the bank, Mrs. Wilson noticed Miss Ellis the schoolteacher . . . Mr. Cooper the storekeeper . . . and her neighbour's son Bobby, adding to his savings account.

When Tom arrived, he grinned: "Seems like everybody goes to the bank." It's true. Canadians find the chartered banks such a safe and handy place to keep money that practically everybody has a bank account. There are now more than 10 million deposit accounts in the chartered banks—more accounts than there are adults in the country.

New Heights Attained By Sun Life of Canada

Montreal, Feb. 12 — The Sun Life of Canada sold $854-million of life insurance last year — largest amount in the Company's history and the largest amount ever sold by any Canadian company in a single year. George W. Bourke, Sun Life president, announced the new record to holders of the Company's two million policies and Group certificates, and stated that total life insurance in force has now passed $7-billion, also an all-time high for a Canadian company. The new business during 1956 was an increase of almost $100-million over the figure reported by the Company for 1955, which at that time also was a new Canadian record.

Mr. Bourke, in presenting Sun Life's 86th annual report, announced another increase in the scale of policyholders' dividends, further reducing the cost of life insurance. During 1957, a record $31-million will be paid in dividends to participating policy-holders.

Included in the new insurance sold by the Company last year was $259-million of Group insurance, representing 30% of total sales. Group insurance now in force with the Sun Life, mostly in Canada and the United States, exceeds $2½-billion. Ordinary life insurance sold during the year was up 15%. In the Canadian division alone, sales of ordinary and Group insurance combined showed an increase of almost 40%. Sun Life now maintains 55 branches and group offices in the 10 provinces.

Attainment of $2-billion in assets prompted Mr. Bourke to remark that while a period of 72 years has been required for the Company to reach its first billion dollars of assets, the second billion mark had been passed after only a further 14 years.

Last year the Sun Life placed $89-million in new mortgage loans, in spite of tighter credit conditions. The Company now has $460-million invested in home and other mortgages. Bond holdings of all types now total more than $1,200-million.

The Company's Surplus, which operates as a safety margin to ensure that the responsibility of the Company to its policyholders will be fully carried out, now amounts to $141-million.

Loking to the future, Mr. Bourke told policy-holders that business activity today is at an all-time high, with capital expenditure likely to continue at a high level. Capital expansion, of course, must be matched by a corresponding level of saving, if a balanced economic growth is to be maintained. The life insurance business can and will play an important part in achieving this worthwhile objective.

Perfect Conditions For Ski Contests At Morin Heights

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — Fortune favored Morin Heights during the week-end, for on Saturday, just before the ski competitions commenced, a two-inch snowfall gave a new surface to the hills. Competitors from Lac Beauport, Ottawa, Montreal and Three Rivers arrived for the two main events of the day. The Quebec Division of the Junior Cross-Country Championships and the Quebec Division Junior Jumping Championships were held before a large number of spectators, who came to cheer on their favorites. In the Cross-Country Junior Championships, Quebec Division, the son of a well known Cross-Country skiier captured the first honors, in the person of Tony Blair (Ottawa Ski Club) with a time of 25.29. The remainder of the times recorded were as follows:

26	Ulf Kvenbo, Vikings	48	44	90.9
27	Tim Murphy, Vikings	39	42	76.5

Following the events, a bean supper was served to the contestants, who were welcomed to the municipality by Mayor Chas. D. Campbell. The president of the Vikings of Morin Heights, Per Gurholt, also addressed the gathering and the blessing was asked by the Rev. Father Lajeunesse. After refreshments, ski films were shown by the local ski instructor, Bunny Basler. Three sleigh-loads of the Juniors made a tour of the village and thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

In all, the officials are to be congratulated for this enjoyable meet.

Events for the coming week-end include the Senior Cross-Country Zone Championships, to be held this Saturday, February 16, on the Clover Leaf Trail, a stretch of 12 kilometers; and on Sunday, February 17, at 2 p.m., the Senior Jumping Championships, on the Basler hill.

A travelling salesman was registering at a small hotel when a bedbug crawled slowly across the page of register. "Well," said the salesman, "I've been bitten by all sorts of bugs in all sorts of hotels, but this is the first time that they've ever come down to see what room I'm registering in."

Things 'n Stuff

This Is It !

Something has always turned up to keep me from telling the story of the two colored men who met on the street somewhere in Tennessee — or did I say Mississippi? — and one said to the other: "Where yo' all been lately? I heered yo' was travellin' with a carnival."

"Sho 'was." said the other, "But I quit."

"How come yo' quit?"

"Well, Ah was workin' for a man who had two concessions on the carnival. All ah had to do was to bend an' stick ma head thro' a hole in the canvas and let the cash customers throw baseballs at my head."

"Don't blame you for quittin'. Dem baseballs must have hurt plenty!"

"Oh, ah didn't mind the baseballs. But the other concession this man had was right behind the one where ah was workin', an' his wife was in charge of it. And she had a lot of cash customers all lined up, shootin' at the seat of mah pants with a bow an' arrow!"

Yes, I've known quite a few colored folks during my years in show business, and found them for the most part quite amusing and easy to get along with. I have appeared on the same program with colored college graduates, and with some very clever performers with hardly any education. One in particular was a tap-dancer; he was an easy mark for some of the white performers, who were always trying to play pranks and practical jokes on him. But on this occasion he did not fall for the trick, having seen it done before. Later he said to me:

"Ah knew that trick. But if I wouldn't have knew, I'd have did it!"

Be seein' ya!

Plans Finalized, Teams Ready For Red Cross 'Blitz' Campaign

Local Objective of $3,500 Set, District Campaign Continues to March 9

Greater Lachute Canvass Tuesday

The Greater Lachute district will be "Blitzed" next Tuesday evening when local Red Cross canvassers get the local campaign underway. An objective of $3,500 has been set for this area and several preliminary enthusiastic meetings have been held by the committee in charge and the canvassers. The campaign will get underway shortly after six o'clock and is expected to be over several hours later.

Lachute, Ayersville and the urban section of St. Jerusalem have been divided into some 20 sections, captains have been appointed and these in turn have organized canvassers in sufficient numbers to cover the area in the allotted time — this being from 6 to 10 p.m.

The "Blitz" will be started by a general noise-producing campaign, in which it is hoped to include all factory whistles, the fire whistle, all church bells, etc., and following this, canvassers will make their rounds, completing the major portion of the campaign within a few hours.

Contributions may be left with neighbors, or in the event that any are missed the night of the Blitz, an effort will be made to canvass them within the following days. Contributions from the Special Names list will be solicited prior to the "Blitz", which is scheduled to coincide with the Provincial Campain, from February 23 to March 9.

Local citizens are requested to have their contributions ready when the canvasser calls — and to give generously, as they have in the past, remembering the good work the Red Cross has done recently within the province as well as elsewhere. The calls for assistance have been increasing yearly; expenses are up; and in order to maintain the good work accomplished in the past, the objective must be met or surpassed.

The campaign outside the "Blitz" area will be carried on by personal contact, as in past years, during the February 23 - March 9 period, and the appeal for generosity is every bit as important there as it is locally during the "Blitz".

The "Symbol of Unselfish Service", the Red Cross, is proudly held by the local Red Cross financial campaign convener and organizer, Mrs. Mac Walker, who emphasizes by means of the calendar, that next Tuesday, February 26, is "Blitz" night in Greater Lachute. The campaign objective here has been set at $3,500 — this including a district canvass which will be held from February 23 to March 9.

Ottawan Charged With Issuing False Cheque

Richard Gagnon, 30, of Ottawa, appeared in St. Jerome court last Friday on a charge of passing a false cheque. He was sentenced to six days in jail.

Gagnon was arrested by Det. Ralph Allen in connection with the purchase of a fur coat from the Royal Store, Main Street, owned and operated by Morris Rosenthal. The purchase, which amounted to $210, was made during the Christmas season.

Plane Wing-Tip Found Near Road

Ken Riley, local insurance agent, reports awakening last Friday morning to find an aircraft wing tip on his front lawn, a short distance east of Lachute on Route 8.

The wing measures approximately seven feet in width and is some 30 feet long, weighing approximately 300 pounds. Jack Thorpe, local pilot for Ayers Ltd., examined the wing and reports he thinks it is from an American DC-4 transport.

There is evidence of the wing tip having been severed from the remainder of the wing, and it was apparently part of a truck-load, it having fallen close to the highway.

Driver Sentenced Failing to Halt For School Bus

Gaetan Lapointe, 36, of Beech Ridge, pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to stop while approaching a stationary school bus in St. Jerome court last Friday and was sentenced to a fine of $50 plus costs.

The charge was laid in connection with a minor accident January 23 in which a Lachute High School bus serving the St. Andrews East - Lachute Road area, was struck by the Lapointe truck, while schoolchildren were embarking on the bus. The accident occurred on Lachute Road, opposite the Roger farm, and the truck loaded with pulpwood was identified by students in the vehicle. Traffic Officer Albert Legault investigated the incident, Det. Ralph Allen later laying the charge.

Fishermen-Sportsmen Plan To Re-vitalize Ass'n Tonight

Guest Speaker, Films of Interest At Lachute Legion Hall Meeting

The first general meeting relative to the reorganization of the Fish and Game Protective Association of Argenteuil will get underway at eight o'clock this evening, in the Lachute Legion Hall, Foundry Street, under the chairmanship of Mayor Léopold Carrière. A self-appointed committee of interested outdoor enthusiasts has started the preliminary work and to date has held several meetings.

Les Morrow, a former C-I-L employee known in these parts will be the guest speaker at the opening meeting this evening. Mr. Morrow is favorably remembered as an outdoor enthusiast and for some years wrote a column along these lines in a Montreal daily.

The Association was formed some years ago and holds a charter from the Provincial Government in addition to being connected with the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Association; this will entitle local members to all the privileges of this Association.

The local group of sportsmen at one time had a membership of some 500, but ceased to function several years ago due to administration difficulties. Yearly membership fees for the present will remain at $1 per adults and 25 cents for children under 16 years of age and the sale of memberships will get underway at this evening's meeting.

In addition to general organizational plans and the soliciting of memberships from those in attendance, a nominating committee will be appointed to draw up a slate of officers. It is anticipated this committee will propose a president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer and five directors, after which another meeting will be called at which the general membership will be requested to add to this slate so that a directorate of 12 will be available — elections for the various positions, if necessary, then being held.

An appeal is being made to all hunting and fishing enthusiasts of the district to attend this evening's meeting for which several guest speakers and films have been obtained.

Several long-term projects have been suggested, including a restocking program in a section of the West River especially suited to trout, with several lakes also being mentioned as possible sites for the "planting" of fish. It is the aim of the Association not only to stress conservation but to do some constructive work promoting this cause. To do this, the co-operation of all sportsmen is solicited.

Two Employees Suffer Injuries In C-I-L Explosion

Two employees of the C-I-L Ammunition Works at Brownsburg suffered injuries when a single electric detonator exploded in one of the detonator assembly lines last Thursday afternoon.

The injured employees, Miss J. Bertrand and Mrs. J. Mallette, were treated by Dr. Jacques Castagner at the Works hospital and Miss Bertrand was subsequently admitted to the Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal. Injuries were not of a serious nature and it is expected that Miss Bertrand will return to her home within the next few days.

B'burg Residents Escape Injury In Car Mishap

Three Brownsburg residents escaped serious injury last Friday morning when their car over-turned on Brownsburg Road, within the Lachute limits. The car, a 1955 model coach, was demolished.

Owned and driven by Jean Claude Neveu, 28, the car was headed towards Lachute when it apparently went out of control on the icy pavement. Entering the ditch, it rolled several times, coming to a halt some 300 feet from where it first went out of control, a short distance past Doug Hay's Service Station.

Neveu was accompanied by Hector and Claude Demerse, both of Brownsburg, all of whom received superficial injuries of a not too serious nature. The trio were taken to the Providence Hospital where they were treated by Dr. Jacques Castagner, of Brownsburg, and later released.

The accident, which was investigated by Cst. Marcel Therrien, occurred around 4.30 a.m., last Friday.

Lions Public Speaking Contest Proves a Worth-While Project

The Lachute Lions Club held its regular semi-monthly meeting Tuesday evening, and as has been evident at each meeting since the current year a very high percentage of the members were present.

The meeting featured a public speaking contest under the chairmanship of Lion Gerard Lefebvre. This was organized to afford an opportunity for each local school to be represented in a district contest to be held in Montreal. Successful candidates will then compete on a National scale.

Guests of honor included Mr. F. H. J. Royal, Principal, Lachute High School, Miss Elizabeth Stanton, English specialist and Rev. Bro. Jasmin, representing the Director of L'Ecole Supérieure.

Entries who had competed in preliminary contests and had been selected as the representative contestants for the various schools were as follows; the winners of each of the sections appearing first:

Lachute High School — Girls
Beverley McDonald — Grade 11. Subject, "Racial Intolerance".
Jean Taylor — Grade 10. Subject, "A Visit to St. Andrews".

Lachute High School — Boys

It was evident that each candidate had spent many hours in doing research and preparing their text and rehearsing for the feat.

The result was that all who contributed their efforts had the feeling that it was well worth while and that the public who attended were well entertained and interested in the ambition and initiative of the young orators.

The most proficient contestants were chosen by a panel of judges who made their decision on the basis of the ability of each speaker according to a number of factors.

All competitors were rewarded with a token gift from the Lions Club which were presented by the President, Mr. L. J. Dumais. The winners are now eligible for the next level of competition which will be held in Montreal at a later date.

Lion Ernest Snadden, chairman of the last Bingo presented his report and the president congratulated him on the success of the event. Lions René Laurin and Jean Dauphinais were entrusted the co-chairmanship of the coming "Bingo Nite" to be held on March 8.

A donation towards the Arena project from the Jerusalem - Bethany Women's Institute was acknowledged with thanks. The sum of money contributed voluntarily specifically for the Arena project is deeply appreciated by the Lions even though the Club is not as yet soliciting funds for the realization of this project.

The club unhesitatingly approved to continue defraying the cost of transportation of the children attending the School for Retarded Children.

The auditor's report for the Corporation of the Town of Lachute, as prepared by Thomas C. Corry; Chartered Accountants, was accepted as read at a recent meeting of the Lachute Town Council, presided over by Mayor Léopold Carrière.

The Budgetary Estimated Revenue for the year was $156,057.87 while the actual revenue was $8,542.04 in excess of this amount, or $164,599.91. Expenditures for the year totalled $168,167.58, or $12,692.08 over and above the budgeted $155,475.50. Council had budget for a $582.37 surplus but actually had a current operating deficit of $3,567.67.

Adjustments for 1955, when the deficit was $18,375.53, including loan By-law 199 and other monies collected, leaves the 1956 budget with an accumulated deficit of $1,881.81.

Debentures payable from 1957 to 1966 total $310,600, and the corporations investment in fixed assets at the end of the year was $921,703.98.

A break-down of expenditures for the year indicates that the Welfare, Administration, Real Estate, Garbage Disposal, Street Lighting, Police and Fire Departments and Municipal Garbage budgets were all broken, the Funded debt service, Waterworks and Chlorination and Streets and Sewers departments spending less than their budgetary estimates.

Five Montreal Juveniles On Spree in Summer Camps

Five Montreal youths were taken into custody recently by Det. Ralph Allen, following a report of some 14 summer camps on Lake St. Francis Xavier, in the Newaygo - Montfort district, having been broken into.

Det. Allen, who was accompanied by Traffic Officer Paul Perrier, reports that a total of approximately $250 in stolen foodstuffs and clothing was recovered.

The five, three boys and two girls ranging in age from 14 to 15, apparently left Montreal on the Sunday, and were arrested following reports the next Wednesday. The five were living in a camp of a friend of one of the youths, having broken into the building to take possession. They then entered the remaining camps for food, clothing and firewood; most of the haul was recovered.

Two of the boys were sent to the Shawbridge Farm and Training School for an indefinite period, the two girls being referred to the Social Service. The fifth youth appeared in a Montreal Sessions Court last Friday and was sentenced to two years in St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary.

Court Slashes Award to Boy

L'Orignal, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Court of Appeal has reduced to $26,000 from $40,000, an Ontario Supreme Court award to a boy who suffered brain injuries when he fell from a schoolyard swing in this village several miles west of Hawkesbury.

It also allowed an appeal against the award by the L'Orignal Separate Catholic School Board.

Mr. Justice Wilfred D. Roach, in a written judgment Saturday, reduced the damages awarded Francois Roger LaMarche by Mr. Justice J. M. King, of the Supreme Court. The court also cut a $6,098 out-of-pocket expense award to the boy's father, Arthur Wilfred LaMarche, to $4,065.

The boy was injured in 1953 when he hit his head on a metal pipe support after the swing toppled over. Mr. Justice Roach said both the school board and the boy were negligent, but the board's negligence was greater in that it did not anchor the swing properly.

Retarded Children Receive Support

Col. Ernest Emmett, president of the local Society for Retarded Children, was the recipient of a cheque the proceeds of a recent L.O.B.A. Military Whist. Left to right are Mrs. H. Stanley Holt, treasurer; Mrs. George Ball, Past Provincial Grand Mistress; Mrs. Orrin Gordon, Worthy Mistress; Col. Emmett accepting the donation on behalf of the Society, and Thomas Iddon, popular M.C., who presided at the card playing.

Political Viewers Eye Pension Raise; Seaway Costs Up

By Roy LaBerge,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa (CP) — It appeared in the capital last week that the Liberals' general election campaign would follow presentation to Parliament of a budget that would feature increased social security benefits, including higher old age pensions.

No major cuts in personal or corporation income taxes were planned, but some reductions in excise taxes were expected on a wide range of products.

Also anticipated were relaxations in federal credit curbs which, in turn, might influence a return to lower interest rates.

Liberal members were reported to have been tipped on some aspects of budget planning they would be satisfied with what the government did in the budget.

Later, it was learned the cabinet agreed to the principle of a boost in old age pensions and officials were considering whether the increase should be $5 or $10 a month.

Possible Changes

It was understood there would also be increases in pensions to the disabled and the blind, and in veterans pensions and allowances.

However, there was still some doubt whether family allowances would be increased. Annual spending on family allowances now is $400,000,000 a year, with payments going to about 2,300,000 families and covering 5,500,000 children.

About 890,000 Canadians now receive a $40-a-month pension payment from the federal government. It goes to all persons 70 years old and over — about 800,000 — without a means test. A pension also goes to 90,000 needy persons in the 65-69 age group. The cost of this latter payment is shared by the federal and provincial governments.

The Canadian Legion has asked the government to raise the ceiling on veterans allowances, from $70 to $100 a month for a single person and from $120 to $166 for married persons. It has also asked for an increase of 33⅓ per cent in pensions for disabled veterans and widows of war dead.

LAND HEARINGS

The Senate's special committee on land use was told at its first public hearing that Canada is cultivating the cream of her soil but still has 45,000,000 acres in reserve.

Dr. Alfred Leahey of the agriculture department's field husbandry division added, however, that only about 5½ or 6 per cent of the country's total land area is suitable for agriculture.

He said total land under cultivation is approximately 90,000,000 acres, including some in pasture. The 45,000,000 acres in untouched land that could be put to agricultural use were mainly in northern

Caisse Populaire Increases Interest To 3¼ Per Cent

Romeo Legault, president of the Caisse Populaire of Lachute, Raymond Beaulieu, secretary-manager, and members of the directorate, are pleased to announce to their patrons and to the general public that effective March 1, an interest rate of 3¼% will be paid on all deposits.

Founded in 1947 the Caisse Populaire has continued to progress in all departments of its activities. Assets have now reached $640,148.74, an increase of $50,000 over the previous year's figure.

The annual report also mentioned that a bonus of 4 percent had been awarded on all savings accounts and that there had been an increase of 273 shareholders during the year; also 77 loans had been made on acknowledgment of debts and 24 loans on mortgages, totaling $161,200.

In its fine new building situated on Main Street, Miss Fernande Marchand and Raymond Beaulieu are on hand to render advice and service to customers.

To become a member of the Caisse Populaire, all that is required is to purchase a $5 share.

Nominations Held March Election For Rotary Club

Directors for the Brownsburg - Lachute Rotary Club, 1957-58, were approved at the meeting last Thursday, under chairmanship of President Keith Hickson. Immediate past-president Sidney Stilwell conducted the nominations, and two additional names were proposed for a vice-presidential office.

The Nomination Committee, comprising the five immediate past-presidents, presented the following slate of officers to take over July 1: King Amos, president; Sydney Patterson, vice-president; Ron Barnett, secretary; Bernard Taillefer, treasurer; the directors to include Keith Hickson, immediate past-president, Barry Bourne, George McGibbon and Gordon Tabrett.

Dudley Boal and Dick MacLean were also nominated for a vice-presidency. Elections will be held March 21 for the position of vice-president, the two losing candidates automatically being up for election as directors.

Letters of appreciation were received from Linda Silverson and Beverley Sanford, on behalf of students from Brownsburg and Lachute High School who last week visited the provincial capital as guests of the Club. Principal King Amos of Brownsburg reported on the trip, and joined President Hickson in congratulating Syd Patterson and his committee on their excellent organizational job in regard to this tour.

A letter of thanks was read from Tony Zaplaski, fieldman of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, for a $25 donation to the White Cane Club.

Mention was made of the Charter Night of the West Ottawa Club, being held Monday evening — President Keith Hickson and District Governor-elect Linton Armstrong being among the delegation from this club. A cash donation was voted from the local club.

Fellowship Night is on the program for this evening, at the home of Jean Belanger, Mountain View.

Farm Topics

Allow Farm Loans For Station Wagons

Sewing machines, electric ironers and station wagons have been added to the items on which farmers can get Dominion-guaranteed loans at a fixed interest rate of five percent.

These items were included in new regulations under the Farm Improvement Loans Act published in the current issue of the Canada Gazette.

Officials said the additions were made to keep the legislation in tune with the times. Station wagons were being used to an increasing extent by farmers, especially in the operations of a poultry business where crates of eggs are delivered regularly to city clients.

As for the addition of sewing machines and ironers, this was in line with policy to keep farm homes as modern as possible.

Under other changes, the Government reduced the term of loans for farm trucks to 2½ years from three. This apparently resulted from some feeling that a three-year loan for a truck was hazardous financially and should be reduced.

About a quarter of a million beaver pelts are taken by wild life trappers in Canada annually.

Federal Program to Eradicate Brucellosis

Rt. Hon. James G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, has announced that a program of area testing and eradication of Brucellosis disease of cattle will be entered into his Department.

Brucellosis, or Bang's Disease, is a bacterial infection causing abortions and breeding difficulties in cattle. Losses from it are estimated to cost Canadian cattlemen nine million dollars annually. Brucellosis infection in cattle is responsible for undulant fever in humans, both being caused by the same organism.

Procedure will follow the pattern which has been applied successfully in the virtual eradication of tuberculosis from Canadian cattle. An area will be accepted under the program on the recommendation of a provincial department of agriculture. All susceptible cattle in the area will be tested and infected animals will be disposed of, with compensation paid to the owners.

A joint federal-provincial policy of calf vaccination against brucellosis has been in effect since 1950. This, along with several provincial control programs, is considered to have reduced the incidence of the disease to the point where a national program of testing and eradication is now feasible.

In addition to reducing losses from the disease, the move will strengthen the position of Canadian cattle exporters in foreign markets which increasingly are requiring freedom from brucellosis in cattle imports.

Operating procedures are now being drafted and the program will be in effect this year.

Light vs Heavy Birds

Changes in poultry farming in Canada are bringing a reduction in the number of small farm flocks and the appearance of large commercial flocks. This is accompanied by decreasing profit margins making the poultryman ever more conscious of production costs. These changes have brought about a re-appraisal by egg producers of breeds and crosses, says T. M. MacIntyre, Senior Poultryman, Experimental Farm, Nappan, N.S.

The heavy, dual-purpose breeds and crosses which have been popular among poultrymen for many years now appear to be losing favor to light breeds and crosses. There are two reasons for this: (1) The price of fowl has been low in recent years, thus reducing the meat value of the carcass; (2) Light birds require less feed for maintenance and hence, when compared on the basis of equal egg production, produce eggs more economically than heavy birds. A four pound bird producing 200 eggs per year consumes about 78 pounds of feed, while a six pound bird laying at the same rate consumes about 98 pounds of feed. On this basis the light bird produces one dozen eggs on 4.7 pounds of feed, while the heavy bird requires 5.9 pounds of feed for one dozen eggs. This represents a saving of about one dollar per bird per year for the light birds.

Since many heavy breeds are popular, have good growth, livability, and production records, there is a natural reluctance on the part of producers to switch to other breeds. But low fowl prices have decreased the income from this source, emphasizing the necessity for economical egg production. Present trends indicate that profit from the laying flock must come largely from egg production and poultrymen are looking to the light breeds and crosses with their lower maintenance requirements for more economical egg production.

Oilseed Harvest from Sunflowers Now Valuable

Ottawa (CP) — The sunflower, an ungainly plant that adds a touch of orange beauty to the fields, is proving itself a crop handy enough to prosper in the Canadian climate.

Prairie farmers this year grew some 25,000 acres of the oilseed plant and will reap an estimated $525,000 from the crop. But whether its acreage will increase depends largely on the attitude of farmers.

"There is little doubt that sunflower varieties will emerge from breeding programs which will produce economic yields over all but the most northerly areas of the Prairie provinces," says a current report of the agriculture department.

The bureau of statistics estimates that total sunflower production this year was 17,500,000 pounds, worth about three cents a pound. The yield per acre this year averaged 750 pounds compared to 800 last year on the 18,000 acres sown.

Useful Plant

The long-stemmed plant with the large circular head was first produced in Western Canada in 1943 as a wartime emergency. From the seeds that grow in the centre of its head come vegetable oil used in margarine and dressings. The residue can be fed to livestock.

In that first year about 5,000 acres were grown in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Later, production shifted almost entirely to the Red River Valley of Southern Manitoba, but lately has been spreading westward again. Sunflowers, once grown in considerable acreage for livestock feed in Eastern Canada, now have largely disappeared there.

The plant is harvested with grain combines. The seeds are separated from the shells with blasts of air, after going through rollers which crush them.

"The sunflower crop," says the department, "has a number of features which make it attractive to the western Canadian farmer. This crop can be planted on land which normally would be replaced by summer fallow, thus extending crop rotations.

"Sunflowers also have an ability to resist frost and drought and to compete with annual weeds. They also aid in reducing hazards of a one-crop economy."

But sunflower growing has its disadvantages, too. "It is a late-maturing crop. Advance being the only variety which will mature safely out of the Red River Valley, and it is susceptible to rust. However, progress is being made to overcome these objections by breeding."

Population of Alaska is about five times as great as the combined populations of Canada's Yukon and Northwest Territories.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Poor drivers remind me of a clever — and pointed — article in a recent isue of Public Safety Magazine. It compared poor drivers to animals, and described the seven main types. How many have you met?

The chimpanzee hangs on to the car roof with his left hand while he drives with his right. He's a sure bet for all kinds of monkey business in traffic.

The jack rabbit driver zigs and zags through the traffic.

The ostrich driver thinks that if he ducks his head behind the wheel and pays attention to nothing, nothing can harm him.

The road-hog is a familiar species and needs no description. He's the most prevalent and unpopular inhabitant of the highway zoo.

The elephant plants himself in the middle of the lane, drives too slowly and can't be budged. He causes a lot of jack rabbits to zig and zag around him, regardless of the risk.

The peacock driver preens and struts as he motors — thinks he's the pride of the road, and drives accordingly.

The jackass is last on the black list. He's as versatile as he is common: He can be a show-off who risks his own neck (and everybody else's) by speeding and weaving, or he may turn up as the blockhead who just doesn't understand that modern driving requires a little thought, good coordination — and courtesy.

Consideration for the other fellow is not common among animals in the zoo — but it's the key to the kind of safe, pleasant driving that intelligent motorists prefer.

Earliest industry to flourish in the territory that is now Saskatchewan was the slaughtering of buffalo for meat and hides.

Forestry Experts Taught in Ontario

Dorset, Ont. (CP) — Ontario's forest ranger school, a unique "university of the bush," has opened for the 1957 term with another 60 students enrolled.

The school, started in 1943 on the shore of St. Nora Lake near this town 100 miles north of Toronto, has given more than 600 men training in all angles of life and work in the woods.

Its six buildings include a large classroom building and a dormitory complete with lounge, showers and washrooms.

Students must be over 19 with a Grade X education. They include personel of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, workers in the province's forest industries, and forestry students at the University of Toronto.

Wide Instruction

Surrounding the school is the university's 18,000-acre private forest.

Courses include English composition, mathematics, forest protection, fire fighting, timber cruising, surveying, drafting, compass instruction, safety work, identification of soils, aquatic plants, amphibians, reptiles, birds and mammals, water pollution, and study of environmental factors such as climate, vegetation, geology and physiography.

Even research is carried on at the school.

Among the graduates is Paul Johnson, a young cook who developed at the school a method of precooking and freezing complete meals for forest fire fighters.

He went on to supervise the dropping of meals and even cook stoves to fire fighters from department of lands and forests aircraft.

4-H Conference And Annual Meeting

The twenty-sixth Conference and Annual Meeting of the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs will be held in the Fort Cumberland Hotel, Amherst, Nova Scotia, March 4-6, 1957. Supervisors of 4-H work in all provinces, Council directors and others will be attending.

This will be the Council's first meeting in the Maritime provinces. Special speakers will be Mr. W. R. Shaw, Charlottetown, former Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Prince Edward Island and Mrs. John McLean, farm housewife from Eureka, Nova Scotia. Mrs. McLean is a native of England and in 1951 her husband was awarded a Nuffield scholarship for a six month study of agricultural methods in Great Britain.

The programs being arranged for Monday and Tuesday are open to all delegates, guests and visitors. More than eighty are expected to attend.

Always On The Job

IN TIME OF war or major peace-time disaster, the work of the Red Cross becomes spectacular. We then hear a good deal about it, and properly so, for its contributions in two world conflicts, the Korean war and, most recently, its activities with the Hungarian refugees have been outstanding.

But it is well to remember that the Canadian Red Cross Society is constantly on the job in this country and province also.

"The Red Cross reported . . . 23 families are homeless . . . emergency headquarters have been set up for registration and relief measures . . . the fire is still out of control."

When a day long blaze razed 15 buildings in sub-zero weather at Valleyfield, last December, phrases like these were frequently heard in news reports of the disaster.

Wherever and whenever disaster strikes, with its tale of human suffering, "the Red Cross reports . . . " is a reminder to the world that something is being done to aid the victims.

Quebec was fortunate last year in being spared many large-scale disasters, yet the Red Cross Disaster Preparedness and Relief service was active on 435 occasions, bringing assistance to 3,000 people whose homes and possessions were destroyed by fire. Total cost of the relief was close to $50,000.

Major fires often occur in sub-zero weather, and last year was no exception. Besides the Valleyfield fire, two other major disasters were caused by blazes in bitterly cold temperatures.

Seven buildings at Ste. Angele-de-Laval, a village on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River opposite Three Rivers, were destroyed in a blaze that brought immediate Red Cross aid to 40 members of 12 families who were driven from their homes.

Within 24 hours of the Ste. Angele-de-Laval disaster, another major fire destroyed a block of stores and homes in Drummondville. Again the Red Cross was quickly on the scene supplying the victims with food, clothing and shelter.

Red Cross aid provided by the Disaster Preparedness and Relief Service and distributed by Red Cross branches nearest to the scenes of disaster provided 12,305 articles of clothing for fire victims in the Province of Quebec during 1956. Food and emergency meals were supplied to more than 2,400 people.

The campaign for funds in the Greater Lachute area is taking the form of a "Blitz" next Tuesday, February 26, and the generous support of all local citizens is solicited and necessary. The county campaign commences tomorrow, February 23 and continues to March 9.

The help of all is needed to assure the local objective of $3,500 will be reached. It will be your donation that will help make this appeal a success.

Do It Now

THAT THE national campaign against seasonal unemployment is as much a fight against an attitude of mind as anything else has been proved conclusively in the last couple of years. Our climate has conditioned us to thinking of the first three months of the year as a time to sit tight, and it is this which has seriously aggravated the winter employment situation.

Because there are some projects which can't be started until better weather we have tended to put off doing anything at all. As a result we have had the absurb situation in many communities of an acute shortage of some jobs at one time of the year, and an acute shortage of labor of any kind at another.

J. C. Whitelaw, Q.C., General Manager of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in a recorded broadcast made recently for the Department of Labour and heard over many of the nation's radio stations, developed this point —

"Recent experience," said Mr. Whitelaw, "has shown that it is quite possible to do many of the jobs which we have in the past left until the spring and later. In other words, the problem is not the creation of new jobs but the spreading of the existing work load more evenly over the year as a whole.

"All that is necessary to accomplish this is a little intelligent planning and forethought at the community level. Nothing more. No employer can keep people on his payroll if there is no work for them to do. Whether or not there is work depends on everyone in the community — the home owner, the tradesman, the manufacturer, the commercial institution, the various levels of government — and the worker in a steady job."

Mr. Whitelaw continued: "The facts are that there are many jobs which can be done more easily, more cheaply and more conveniently for all concerned in the first months of the year than later on when the emphasis is on big projects which are helped by long hours of daylight and better weather. Added pressures from householders and others during these later months only served to force up prices by producing shortages of both labor and materials.

"It is folly to so plan things that we get this kind of result in certain months of the year, and hardship for an unnecessarily large number of Canadians and their dependants in others. And since any measure of unemployment is, like the common cold, highly contagious, the wider consequences to the community of workers without jobs — and, therefore, without earnings to buy all they normally do — must also not be forgotten.

"It is for these reasons among others that the Canadian Manufacturers' Association with its 6,500 members from one ocean to the other, strongly supports the campaign against seasonal unemployment, even though manufacturing, Canada's largest single industry, is ordinarily not seriously affected by it.

"We are all," he concluded, "our brother's keeper, and the job of each and everyone of us, whatever it is, only as secure as the general level of prosperity in our community. So I would urge you, whatever the project you have in mind, be it large or small, don't put it off — do it now."

Municipal Dump

THE PURCHASE of the $12,500 sanitary landfill machine last July ended our dump troubles — or at least we so thought until a visit to the local municipal dump late last week when a rude awakening met us.

The site of the municipal dump at that time, was a disgrace. Granted, it is an improvement over this time last year, but only because, this past summer, all the garbage was covered. Friday morning, garbage was scattered over the majority of the dump area, and birds were busily picking over whatever they could find of interest. Upon our approach, they scattered, spreading the germs that should be covered daily.

Last Thursday evening, a roaring fire was blazing away in one section of the dump, although Council recently forbade the burning of refuse at any time. For the past several weeks, the gate has been left unlocked, leaving unauthorized citizens free to dump whatever they want wherever they want — this all contrary to Council rulings.

The first meeting of the new Council was held early this month, and the first man from the audience to ask for something was none other than the garbage collector, who requested a raise. At present, he is receiving $140 a week to collect the municipality's garbage and maintain the dump. Last summer, Council requested that he purchase a tarpaulin to cover the rear of his truck, while loading. This apparently has not been done; and the agreement to maintain the dump, a man being there daily, has not been kept.

In the event that an increase is granted, the committee concerned should see to it that the taxpayers are getting what they are paying for. The $12,500 machine was purchased for year-round work, not to remain in a garage for the majority of the winter. Let's see it put to its proper and intended use, so that the taxpayers derive some benefit.

Winter Blues Identified

"THE WINTER BLUES" is not the latest song on the hit parade. No sir, these blues have been around a long time and it took a professor of psychology at the University of Manitoba to make a stab at their identification. He says they may be the "vestigial remains of a hibernation instinct."

When we told the little woman that the paint job scheduled for the week-end would have to be put off until the spring because we needed to catch up on our sleep she nearly blew a gasket.

Explaining the tie-up with the evolutionary theory proved difficult. She had a vague idea that evolution had something to do with monkeys and we had some trouble too with only a high-school working knowledge of the subject.

So we held forth on the trials of hibernating animals, on low temperatures and the accumulation of body fats, just to show that we need more sleep in winter to counteract lowered physical resources in cold weather. In short, we put the blame for that early-morning tired feeling on antecedents of a lower order 'way back when'.

Of course, we didn't get in too deep. We couldn't explain, for instance, how protein and vitamin-satiated warm-blooded humans might claim relationship, no matter how remote, with a hibernating frog, able to survive, they say, even though ice particles form in its blood.

We just left it up to the professor who says intense cold saps a man's strength and induces a depressive feeling.

His advice: "When you get home at night, take it easy. Don't worry if you haven't any energy. Pick up a good book. Take stock of past activities and ponder the future."

The professor started something. Our dissertation went from hibernation to refrigeration to automation as we envisioned winter sleeps in increasing duration.

The little women's comment: "Nuts!"

Sees Ottawa River 'Extended Coastline' For Quebec, with St. Lawrence Seaway

Presenting A Viewpoint from St. Andrews East Chamber of Commerce

The Ottawa River, a tremendous tributary to the St. Lawrence Seaway, could well serve to lengther Quebec's coastline and add further incentive towards her development.

This waterway, being the shorter route to the west, was, in the early days, the highway that became so important in a system of travel which crossed the Continent and played a great part in laying the foundations of the Dominion of Canada. The explorers and fur traders made their way inland on it, finding new routes into the interior. Steamboats travelled it, as early as 1824.

This great stream flows past farmland and woodland and some important industrial towns. Three great Canadian industries, pulp and paper, mining, and the tourist trade; the first two mentioned are well established on its banks, and the latter has proved to be a very good holiday trade which is growing from year to year. Several hydro-electric power plants are installed on the River and one more is to be built at the Long Sault, Carillon. Two railways operate on the Quebec side, the CPR between Ottawa-Hull and Montreal, and the CNR between Hawkesbury-Grenville and Montreal. The latter has a spur line which almost reaches the water's edge at St. Andrews, where the channel is thirty feet deep. From Ottawa and Hull to Lake St. Louis and the Seaway, the main stream is joined by many rivers. The most important are the Rideau, the Gatineau and the Lièvre, which were travelled by steamboat. The channel between Ottawa - Hull and Montreal is all deep except for three sections. One of these sections will automatically become deep with the building of the hydro plant at Carillon. Dredging would be required on the other two sections. With these few improvements, lake and ocean vessels could travel up at far as Hull and Ottawa from the Seaway and add to the wealth and progress of Quebec and Canada as a whole, with more coastline.

THE POTENTIAL TIDE

A Case of Shingles

I learned something vitally important last week. I discovered that it's extremely bad policy to say anything to a person of humorous bent during a religious service.

It all began last Wednesday when our organist, "Moose", elected to lead us through the toils of a hymn that is set to the tune of "Danny Boy". It is a long hymn and, when properly sung, proceeds at a pretty fair clip, so that it doesn't drag. But under the ill-tutored hands of Moose, it wends its way along with all the grace of a snail tryin not to be in a hurry to get to his destination.

Fortunately for us, the Padre announced at the beginning of the hymn that we would sing only three of its four verses. We loped through the first three lines at a reasonable pace but slowed down considerably at the end of the verse. The second dragged unmercifully, and the third was funereal in the extreme. As we reached the third line of the last verse, I leaned over to the master on my left.

"Ye gods," I muttered, "you'd think that they would have brought the corpse in by now!"

That was too much for Bill. Throwing back his massive head, he let out a resounding guffaw which, it goes without saying, set me laughing at well. And so we continued until we were finally released from the confines of the chapel.

I suppose it's purely psychological but it certainly holds true that the feeblest wit given in solemn surroundings seems ten times funnier than it really is. Which remainds me of another tale.

During a service conducted by my father, a small child in the back of the church spent the entire morning making an infernal racket. By the time sermon came along, he was at the peak of his performance. For some five minutes, priest and child divided the attention of the congregation while the distracted mother tried desperately to silence the young contender. Finally, her patience exhausted, the mother rose from her seat and marched out of the church dragging the yelping child behind her.

The little church had just been reshingled and there was a bountiful supply of paddles within easy reach of the building. Their possibilities were not lost on the mother and she soon took full advantage of the situation. As the sermon continued, parishioners within the church could hear the muffled beats of a well-aimed shingle without. Then shrill cries of agony filled the quiet air.

"Make a row whack in church will you? whack I'll teach you to make whack a nuisance of yourself whack and a fool out of me. whack. Take that whack and that whack young man! And I don't whack want any more nonsense whack out of you this morning!"

The crying continued, louder than ever.

"Now you just stop that racket this instant," the mother continued. "You and I are going back in there, and I don't want to hear one more peep out of you until the service is over. Do you understand?"

The child evidently understood perfectly for he ceased his bellowing immediately and was soon led, crestfallen but reformed, to the seat he had so abruptly vacated a few minutes earlier.

But the contest had clearly been won by the child. My father had too active a sense of humor and it was far beyond his ability to finish the solemn discourse in the face of so much comedy. Wheeling about in the pulpit, he brought his sermon to a premature end and closed the service with equal speed.

Nothing to laugh at, you say? Then you try to keep a puritanical air about you under similar circumstances!

NOT SPORTSMEN

The drop in the deer population in northern New Brunswick can be blamed on jacklighters who are selling the kill commercially. Up until late years there were comparatively few deer killed by lights in the Restigouche area. The government should take action immediately to clamp down on jacklighting and create a new game preserve area.

OF MANY THINGS

By Ambrose Hills

Pep Talk

I can still remember the first rosy morning I followed my father down to his blacksmith shop to begin the day. It was July, and even with the sunrise the threat of intense heat could be felt. Inside the shop, it was full of sharp, dark shadow. Near the forge were piles of plow shares, disc blades, harrow teeth, two or three welding jobs, and along one wall some dozen wheels to be set.

My father took off his suit jacket, strapped on a leather apron. Then he stood back of the forge for about two minutes, silent his hands clasped together.

"What are you doing, Dad?" I asked.

He smiled, perhaps a little grimly, for there was a heavy work load and the promise of a hot, uncomfortable day. "This," said my father, "is what Bennett called the 'tense bracing of the will before anything worth doing can be done'."

Of course, I didn't begin to understand; but on many another morning I was up with the sun to trot after my Dad, and I watched that quiet moment of ceremony before the day's work was begun. A real day's work, with nearly every cent pounded out of hot metal. There aren't many men left today who can weld two pieces of metal together, simply by heating them to the proper white heat and pounding them hard with a sledge hammer. It took some sort of bracing of the will to begin such a day on a hot July morning!

This bracing of the will I began to understand. Later, in my high school reading, I came upon the complete Arnold Bennett quotation, and I clipped it out and kept it for many years. I thought of it often when I went harvesting in the summer holidays, and faced a full day of stooking or field pitching.

Arnold Bennett said, "I think it rather fine, this necessity for the tense bracing of the will before anything worth doing can be done. I rather like it myself. I feel it is to be the chief thing that differentiates me from the cat by the fire."

How many men, today, know anything about that tensing of the will? Perhaps there are a few, but I know many young fellows who certainly haven't tried it. If their job is tough, they quit and look for another. This is an age of softies, the chief aim being shorter hours and higher pay, plenty of coffee breaks, and a slow-down if the boss complains.

Maybe I'm old-fashioned, but I think this generation has lost a great deal in its search for security and ease. There's an exhilarating thrill in a bracing of the will to face a hard, gruelling work day, whether with the hands or with the brain. Try it some morning and see!

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Letters from people on holiday in the tropics are now spreading discontent among stay-at-home Canadians.

The brightly-colored stamps and the postcards showing tourists garlanded with flowers or quaffing coconut milk are a source of envy for those of us who must go about muffled to the ears.

A lot of humbug is talked about the pleasure of seeing all the seasons through. A man isn't really living, the Pollyannas declare, unless he runs through the whole cycle from spring hives to sunburn to frostbilte.

The Pollyannas are not fooling anyone. It may be character-building to stay home in the winter, but it's more fun beneath the palms with an iced lemonade.

For those of us (including me) who can't afford winter holidays in the sun, there is a left-handed consolation; people in the tropics do get tired of the heat, and they refresh themselves by taking cool weather holidays.

In India, Ceylon and such places, the custom is to spend a holiday in the hills, if you can afford it. After months in the aching heat, such little things as sleeping under a blanket, sitting by a fire and feeling a touch of morning frost are keen pleasures. The Government of India used to move from Delhi in the plains to Simla in the hills for the hot season.

In Canada we may yet see the day when a cabinet meeting convenes in Hawaii or Jamaica.

People in the colder parts of Canada are also inclined to envy those who live in the mild places. Denizens of the bland Pacific Coast envy prairie and eastern people their clear skating weather.

When a cold snap does hit the Pacific Coast (as it did recently) and stays long enough to freeze the larger lakes, many people are seized by a kind of winter madness. Outdoor skating weather is a rare and fugitive thing. The inhabitants, including some who can scarcely totter or skate, rush to take advantage of it.

Lakes near town swarm with men, women, children and dogs, mad youths crossing the ice on motorcycles, fathers pulling their infant sons in sleighs — all of them racing around at mad speed, as though they had only one day to live, and had to pack all possible enjoyment into the time.

Sees Canada 'Primitive' In Terms of Culture

The sad truth is that Canadian culture in any form is still a tender plant and needs all the nourishment it can get — declares The Financial Post.

We are still, as a people, afflicted with the sod-house, log-cabin, unpainted-shack mentality that says hardy pioneers have no time for such frills as the arts and letters. A community that stays forever in that state of mind is a barbarous community. The absence of art and scholarship is the definition of barbarism.

The Canada Council's job will be to encourage the production, and enjoyment of good music and theatre, good painting and architecture, good books on scholarly themes. But it would be a foolish and disastrous mistake to suppose that the Council can, or is intended to, do this job of national importance all by itself.

Generous patronage of the arts by individuals is just as necessary as ever. Municipal support is still necessary too, and indeed, should be greatly increased. Appointment of the Canada Council in no way relieves local governments of their duty.

CHICK TIME IS NOW

If you haven't already ordered your chicks it is high time to be getting busy about it. Because every day you put off doing it the later you will be in getting them and they will commence to lay just that many more days nearer to the low egg price time of the year.

Remember many are getting their chicks earlier as the egg prices are higher earlier in the year. Waiting until later invites low egg prices and disappointing profits. BETTER DO IT NOW. We are ready to take your order for any amount of chicks you may want and also ready to have your entry card signed for the Purina Sweepstakes. Remember you can win an Aluminium poultry house, 1,000 laying cages and 1,000 pullets ready to lay to put into it without spending one cent.

When ordering chicks it is well to order quite a few more than you expect to house because there are usually some losses and by heavier cutting you can keep your rate of lay much higher and keep your house fuller of hens, all of which means more eggs and more profits.

Also by ordering some extra cockerels and opening one or two a week you can spot disease or trouble long before it shows up in the flock. They don't cost much and may save you many dollars.

Of course you wish to make some profits with the chicks you order. Well just give us your order for Chick Startena, chick waterers, feeders, etc. When ordering your chicks we can supply all your chick needs. Won't you do this ordering now? We deliver.

IN MEMORIAM

CAMPBELL — In loving memory of a dear daughter and sister, Mary Ella who passed away Feb. 26, 1955. — Mother and Dad, sisters and brothers.

"It's not the words, they are but few,
It's the golden memory we keep of you,
Each leaf and flower, may wither,
And evening sun may set,
But the ones who loved you dearly
Are the ones who will not forget."

CAMPBELL — In loving memory of dear Ella, who passed away Feb. 26, 1955.—Ever remembered, Annie.

"I mention your name,
And think of you often,
God bless you dear Ella,
You are never forgotten."

CAMPBELL — In loving memory of a dear sister, Ella, who passed away Feb. 26, 1955. — Freda and Leslie.

"Two years have passed since that sad day
The one we loved was called away.
God took her home, it was His will,
Within our hearts she liveth still."

CAMPBELL — In loving memory of a dear sister, Ella, who passed away Feb. 26, 1955. — Margaret and Ronnie.

"No one heard the footsteps,
Of the Angels drawing near,
Who took from us to Heaven,
The one we loved so dear.

CAMPBELL — In loving memory of a dear sister and aunt, Mary Ella, who passed away Feb. 26, 1955. — Always remembered by Walter, Nellie and Janey.

"Loved are the memories, silently kept,
We smile with the world, but never forget."

CAMPBELL — In loving memory of our dear sister, Ella, who passed away Feb. 26, 1955. — Janet and Harvey.

"Deep in the heart lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest,
In memory's frame we shall keep it,
Because she was one of the best."

DEVINE — In loving memory of Mrs. James Devine, who passed away Feb. 22, 1953. — Ever remembered by her husband, family and grandchildren.

"A page in our book of memory,
Is gently turned today."

DEWAR — In loving memory of a dear son, Malcolm, who was accidentally killed Feb. 24, 1956. — Sadly missed by his mother and family.

"Loving and kind in all his ways,
Sincere and true in his heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind."

DEWAR — In loving memory of a dear brother and brother-in-law, Malcolm Dewar, who passed away Feb. 24, 1956. — Ever remembered by Myrtle and Stuart.

LOWE — In loving memory of dear Mina, Mrs. Frank Lowe, who passed away Feb. 16, 1956. Ever remembered by Josey, Mary and family, and grandchildren.

"Deep in our hearts you will always stay,
Loved and remembered every day."

SEARY — In loving memory of a wife and mother, Mrs. Charlotte Seary, who died Feb. 21, 1945. — Always remembered by husband, daughters Margaret, Maud, Winnifred and Elizabeth.

"In memory of one with whom our paths had to part,
Who yet is never far from us,
but always close in heart,
Whose cherished memory lives on to comfort us today,
And keep that dear one in our thoughts
each step along the way.

TASSE — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, who passed away Feb. 25, 1951. — Always remembered by her daughter Margaret, son-in-law, Israel and grandchildren.

"In memory of one with whom our paths have had to part,
Who yet is never far from us
but always close in heart,
Whose cherished memory lives on to comfort us today,
And keep that dear one in our thoughts, each step along the way."

TASSE — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, who passed away Feb. 25, 1951. — Always remembered by her husband and daughters, Catherine and Ruby.

"Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear,
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach,
Sweet to remember she who was here,
Who, gone away, is just as dear."

Former C-I-L Employee Succumbs To Illness

Late Alex Walker

The funeral service of the late Alexander Walker, of Montreal, was held at Brownsburg United Church on Sunday afternoon, February 17, with the Rev. Garfield Bruce conducting the service.

Mr. Walker, who was in his 42nd year, was the son of Mr. and Mrs George Walker, of Aberdeen, Scotland. He came to Canada in 1948 and was employed by Canadian Industries as Stationary Engineer for two years.

In 1950 he went to Montreal where he worked for the Ogilvie Flour Mills Company. In 1951 he was married to Dolly Steere, of Brownsburg, and they then took up residence in Montreal West. While there, they were connected with Rosedale United Church.

He was of a cheerful and friendly disposition and made many friends. During his illness over a lengthy period of time he still remained cheerful and uncomplaining, but succumbed after one and a half years. Surviving are his wife, Dolly; a baby son, Ian; also his father and mother; and a brother and sister.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Jack Morgan, Bruce Goldie and Louis Lavoie, of Montreal, and Messrs. Alex McCulloch, Ernie Morrow and Wyman Hazel, of Brownsburg.

Interment was in the Brownsburg section of Lachute cemetery.

Lifelong District Resident Passes In Lachute

Late Frederick Gain

Mr. Frederick Gain, a lifelong resident of this district, passed away at his residence at Lachute, on Saturday, February 9, in his 78th year.

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Gain, he was born in Mille Isles, on May 24, 1879. At an early age he moved with his parents to live at Clear Lake, Dunany, and farmed in that community until the last few years when he and his family spent the winter months in Lachute.

Mr. Gain served as a councillor in the municipality of Gore for a number of years. He was also an honorary member of the Loyal Orange Lodge which held a memorial service in the MacKimmie Funeral Home, on Monday evening, February 11, at which a large number attended.

Mr. Gain leaves to mourn his loss his wife, the former Maria Lister, one son, Leonard, of Dunany, and two daughters, Florence and Violet (Mrs. Henderson Townsend) also one grandson, Brent Townsend, all of Lachute, a sister, Mrs. Curtis Porter, and a brother, Mr. John Gain, both of Montreal.

The funeral was held from the Chapel of the J. P. MacKimmie Funeral Home on Tuesday, February 12, service being conducted by the Rev. Canon C. W. P. Baugh assisted by his son, the Rev. Horace G. Baugh. Interment was in the Lachute Protestant Cemetery.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Henry Lister, Leslie Kerr, Mervin Gain, William Gain, Melvin Boyd and Howard Ward.

Former District Resident Passes in Saskatoon

The Late Edward Bennett

A former resident of Lachute and Dalesville, Edward (Ned) Bennett passed away following a short illness in a Saskatoon hospital recently. He was in his 89th year.

The late Mr. Bennett married Miss Hannah Cruise in September, 1894. In the early part of 1900, they went to Wadena, Sask., and later to Elfos, Sask., where they resided until his last illness.

He leaves to mourn his loss his loving wife, also three daughters and three sons, and two brothers, James and William.

A daughter and two sons predeceased him.

L.O.B.A. Card Party Nets $50 Aid for Retarded Children

On Wednesday of last week, the L.O.B.A. Ladies held their usual monthly card party. The proceeds amounted to $50, which was donated to the Association of Retarded Children. The attendance was excellent and the following were the prize winners:

First — Mrs. A. Scott (capt.) Miss J. Rodrigue, Mrs. D. McOuat Mrs. S. McAdam.

Mrs. A. Starnes (capt.), Mrs. J. Giroux, Mrs. W. Canning, Mrs. L. Gaston.

Novelty prize, kindly donated by Lacasse Automobile Ltd., was won by Mr. H. Cowan.

A 2nd Novelty prize was won by Mrs. P. Gordon.

A drawing also took place which was won by Mrs. E. Martin, the prize being generously donated by the T. Eaton Co.

Refreshments were served and a pleasant evening was spent by all.

It is always the fresh egg that gets slapped in the pan.

MODERN POLITICS

It might be well to consider the apathy of the modern voter as being due to the manner in which politics are being played today. For example each major party seeks to offer equally inducement of various sort in return for voting support. The old-time well-marked differences in policies have been shaded off to avoid the possibility of losing votes.

Mr. Hockey

When hockey fans get together, the name of Foster Hewitt just naturally crops up. Hewitt is heard each Saturday night by millions of Canadians over CBC radio and television from Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto, giving play-by-play accounts of National Hockey League games. He has been doing the hockey broadcasts since the Gardens opened in 1931 and is as well-known as any of the hockey greats. He holds a world's record for length of service in broadcasting, starting in 1923 at the age of 18, and shortly afterwards made the first broadcast of a hockey game in Canada.

"Home on the Tundra", Features Former Citizen

Residents of Lachute will be interested to know that Mrs. Russell Beckett (formerly Eva Bradford), will be renewing acquaintances in Lachute in the near future. A sister of Messrs. Douglas and Bruce Bradford, of North River, Eva and her husband, Russell, live for about nine months of the year in Churchill, Manitoba. Then they migrate to a different climate, this year to the warmth and sunshine of the Gulf of Mexico.

During the years in Churchill Mrs. Beckett has made great strides in an interesting hobby — the study of the plant life that abounds in the Arctic on the tundra.

This past year she has made two collections of plants for American Museums, one big assortment of newly introduced plants for the Department of Agriculture in Ottawa, and, on request, a large collection of species of willows for the British Museum in London, England.

Mrs. Beckett has also done a set of color slides of tundra vegetation in Autumn colors for the University of Kansas, and a set of 32 black and white pictures for the CNR. Besides these she has made a lovely new lecture-set of pictures which she has shown in the south and which we in Lachute will also be privileged to see, entitled "Home on the Tundra."

Details of the illustrated talk which Mrs. Beckett will be giving in Lachute in the near future may be found elsewhere in this paper.

Brownsburg United Church Has Active Month

Preparations are now in full progress for the "Church Supper" to be held on the evenings of February 28 and March 1, under the auspices of the Senior W.A.

On February 4, the Hi-C Group met in the church hall. The topic for the meeting being "Needs, Characteristics and Interests of Young People." The discussion was led by Mrs. F. S. Kettyle and Current Events were read from the "Group Scrapbook" by Brenda McGibbon.

On February 12, the Board of Stewards met for election of new officers. The result being as follows: chairman, Mr. S. E. Rose; secretary, Mr. R. Barnett; treasurer, Mr. Wm. Hamilton; chief steward, Mr. Thomas Goldthorp; publicity committee, Mr. R. J. Bishop; finance committee, Mr. Dave Atkins; house committee, Mr. Wyman Hazel and Mr. R. B. Johnston (joint chairmen).

On Sunday morning, February 17, the baptism of Robert Scott Johnston, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Johnston, of Montreal, took place, the Rev. G. Bruce officiating.

On Sunday afternoon, the funeral of the late Alexander Walker (husband of the former Dolly Steere) was held at the church. Deepest sympathy is extended to Mrs. Walker and all relatives.

On Monday, February 18, the Hi-C group met for their last meeting of the month. Mr. Duncan leading in a discussion on "Revelation".

Scout and Guide Groups To Attend Church Service For Scouting Anniversary

The Church Parade of the Boy Scout and Girl Guides Associations is an annual event and this Sunday the Lachute groups of Scouts, Guides, Cubs and Brownies parade to the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church.

The Scout and Guide movements in Brownsburg will attend the afternoon service at St. George's Anglican Church, while the junior members of the Associations, the Wolf Cubs and Brownies will be in attendance at the Maple Avenue Baptist Church for the morning worship.

This year, 1957, marks the 100th Anniversary of the birth of Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the movements, and also the 50th anniversary of the first Boy Scout Camp in history, and as such the birthday of the Boy Scout Movement.

Every Scout Group in Canada is joining in the celebrations of which this service is a part, and the Girl Guide Associations are joining with them to show their pride in the attainment by their kindred organization of these important milestones in its history.

It is hoped there will be a large attendance at these services to encourage our youth in this splendid movement.

ENDURING BENEFIT

Men and women who were fighting in Hungary a few weeks ago now are our guests in Red Deer. It will be our duty and our privilege to give them every possible assistance in fitting themselves to their new lives, and it is certain that their coming to our country and our district will be of enduring benefit to us all.

Over the Years with THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

February 17, 1882 —

Servant girls are in great demand in Lachute.

The mills of Fish & Ireland have been put in such a state of proficiency as to be second to none in the Dominion for the work turned out. They are now manufacturing an article of grout flour a long way ahead of anything manufactured in Canada and have made several shipments to the United States.

Wednesday morning we observed a couple of crows passing over the village in a south-easterly direction.

Tuesday was a severe and stormy day and towards evening became intensely cold, the thermometer indicating 15° below zero.

A very cool robbery was perpetrated at the bankrupt sale on Tuesday. A man walked in, deliberately sat down and took off his moccassins and two pairs of socks, and helped himself to a pair of boots which he put on, leaving in their place the discarded articles.

50 YEARS AGO

February 15, 1907 —

Carillon — Bringing in the ice now seems to be the occupation and our good men are now hustling with it in spite of all Jack Frost's efforts to prevent them.

Beech Ridge — Threshing and sawing are about over and the farmers are taking it easy so as to be able to commence the spring work afresh.

Dunany — Roads in this vicinity have never been better and local residents are taking advantage of this to get products to market.

The Bank of Ottawa will shortly open a sub-agency to its Lachute Branch in St. Andrews.

25 YEARS AGO

February 19, 1932 —

A few venturesome motorists enjoyed a novel experience last Sunday, driving to Lake Louisa. More remarkable perhaps than actually reaching the lakeshore by road at this season of the year, was the fact that a good thickness of clear ice enabled them to drive over the lake from one end to the other. Among the party were certain ones who frequent the lake in summer months but had never previously crossed the lake in any conveyance other than a boat. For them, this experience, and a view of their respective camps in the scenic surroundings of winter, provided an unusual thrill.

Shriners Hold Successful Dance

The Legion Hall was the scene on Friday last of a pleasant social evening sponsored by the Shriners and organized by local members of that fraternity.

A four-piece orchestra supplied excellent music to the large gathering, all of whom seemed to enjoy themselves to the full.

The proceeds were largely turned over to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children, a place where there is no barrier as to race or creed, but where the main object is to help unfortunate youngsters to get well.

Annual Meeting of United Church W.M.S. Montreal Presbytery

Next Wednesday afternoon, February 27, in Wesley Church, the Annual Meetings of the Montreal Presbyterial of the Woman's Missionary Society will open at 2.30 p.m.

Outstanding speaker of the afternoon is the Rt. Rev. James S. Thomson, D.D., Moderator of the United Church of Canada. Soloist will be Mrs. W. T. Shields.

Reports of departments will be given at this session. Tea will be served.

The Wednesday evening session is especially for young people. The main attraction will be a panel discussion chaired by Rev. E. Clifford Knowles, D.D., with four McGill students participating, the theme "Students Face the World Mission."

Thursday morning sessions will be devoted to business and in the afternoon Miss Sara Harrison will give the address, following which the installation of officers will take place.

Everybody welcome at all sessions.

THE WEEK IN OTTAWA

Manitoba, Alberta, northern British Columbia and the southern part of the Yukon Territories.

The committee's study, which is expected to take two or more years and which may involve some committee travel, was initiated by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The Prime Minister has said he is concerned about uses to which Canadian land is being put, particularly the problem of farmers trying to make a living from submarginal land.

CANADA COUNCIL

Most members of the Commons thumped their desks as the bill to set up a Canada Council — a 21-member body with $100,000,000 to spend on promotion of the arts and on aid to universities — was given final reading.

There was a Social Credit attempt to amend the legislation, sponsored by Prime Minister St. Laurent, which they have opposed from the start, and a few minor stabs at it by the Progressive Conservatives. But it went through virtually unscathed, and now goes to the Senate for final approval.

After it becomes law, Prime Minister St. Laurent is expected to name the personnel of the council which will be headed by a salaried, full-time chairman and vice-chairman. It will have $50,000,000 to spend over a 10-year period on capital grants to universities and another $50,000,000 to invest, using the income to promote the arts and humanities through scholarships and awards.

CHANGE DIVORCE RULES

The Senate last week approved broad changes in the rules governing Parliamentary divorces. Close to 400 such divorces now go through every year.

Probably the most important change concerns naming of co-respondents — the third party in an adultery charge. After September 1, co-respondents must be named where possible and they will be given a chance to defend themselves if they desire. At present, they need not be named.

The rule changes have been occupying the Upper Chamber for about a month. The amendments — the first in almost 50 years — were approved February 14 — St. Valentine's Day.

They were proposed by Senator Arthur Roebuck (L—, Ontario) chairman of the Senate's divorce committee which considers divorce petitions from Quebec and Newfoundland. All other provinces have their own divorce courts.

Another change will require petitioners to submit a brief statement of the facts on which they rely. This would speed taking of evidence in the cases. Divorce cases now occupy the committee three and four days a week during off-sitting hours of the Senate.

SEAWAY COSTS MOUNT

More money than the present outside limit of $300,000,000 may be needed to finance Canada's share of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Latest announced cost estimate for Canada's navigation facilities is $285,000,000, but officials said last week their private calculations indicate it will jump by $145,000,000 before the huge job is completed for the opening of the 1959 shipping season on the river and the Great Lakes.

When the $300,000,000 limit was set about four years ago, it appeared to give a wide safety margin. Cost of the federal government's share of the hydro-seaway job then was estimated at only $20,000,000. But a combination of factors — chiefly a big jump in general constructions costs — have steadily jacked up that figure.

Things 'n Stuff
— By —
WALTER HENRY JACKSON

HOW STUPID CAN THEY GET?

Some weeks ago I met a friend who is an auto salesman. "Have you seen the new 1957 cars?" he asked, mentioning the make he was selling. "They're on view now. Be sure to come in and see them, and I can give you a wonderful deal on a trade-in. We need 200 used cars and we have less than 50. Now the new cars are fourteen inches longer and — "

"That's all, Brother!" I interrupted. "Just let me know when they're 30 inches shorter, and maybe we'll do business."

Did you ever hear of an architect in New York designing a building one storey high and extending along Broadway or Wall Street for a quarter-mile on each side of the front door? Of course not! The only room for a building in a city is down and up. Yet the auto-body designers are 30 years behind the times. Back in the 1920's there was only room for a building in any city plenty of room for today's cars. You could park all day on Victoria Square in 1928, or a few years earlier, park on St. Catherine Street for three hours and go to a show. But today, when cars should be the length of the 1920 cars, they are increasing the length each year!

Now, I feel sure that if a group of average car owners were asked to design the ideal car, here is what it would be like. The trunk would be much smaller, and the ornamental grille in front of the radiator entirely missing. This would reduce the over-all length by at least 30 inches. To compensate for the reduction in trunk space, a sturdy carrier on top would be an integral part of the car, bolted or welded to the frame—not an unsightly attachment of suction cups. This carrier would serve a double purpose — to carry articles that could not possibly go into a trunk, such as skis or a canoe. Then it would be an added safety feature to prevent the car from turning right over if it goes in the ditch. The squareness of the carrier would stop it. These changes would in no way interfere with the roominess of the passenger capacity.

As a car owner, all I want or expect of a car is reliable and fairly economicial transportation, and I think that is what the vast majority of owners want. If it's an ornament he's after, let him buy an oil painting and hang it in his living room. In the meantime I'll stick to my present 1953 model and will rue the day when its usefulness is over and I have to trade it in for one of the multicolored, perambulating juke boxes that they make today.

I suggest that car owners should get together and let the auto industry know what THEY want, and not have to accept what the so-called designers wish to foist upon them.

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Smith, of Lachute, announce the engagement of their only daughter, Janet Edith, to Mr. Irving Cleland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cleland, of St. Hermas, Que. The marriage will take place Saturday, April 20, at the Lachute United Church.

Pretty Wedding at Morin Heights United

Perrin - Stein

A very lovely wedding was solemnized in Morin Heights United Church, on Thursday last, February 14 at 6.30 p.m. when Marcia Constance Stein became the bride of Cpl. William Perrin, Lac St. Denis RCAF Station. Miss Margaret O'Neill attended the bride and Cpl. E. M. Knock acted as best man for the groom.

Out of town guests were Mrs. C. R. Wiseman, of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stein, of Danville, Virginia.

F/L the Rev. Robert Blair, Chaplain of Lac St. Denis RCAF Station officiated. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Lac St. Denis RCAF Station; later Cpl. and Mrs. W. Perrin left for a wedding trip to New York.

Upon their return they will reside in Morin Heights.

Pretty Wedding of Local Interest in St. Eustache Church

Tooke - MacHaffie

The marriage of Miss Ruth MacHaffie and Mr. Robert James Tooke took place recently at the community. United Church, St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac, the Rev. Stan Kennedy officiating.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Douglas MacHaffie, of Verdun, and the late Mr. MacHaffie, of Scotstown, Scotland, while the groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tooke.

Daffodils and other spring flowers decorated the church. The organist was Mrs. G. Thomas, and Mrs. Myra Arnst sang the Lord's Prayer and Ave Maria, during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her brother David, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace and satin fashioned on Princess lines with high neck, sleeves in points over the hands, and hooped skirt. A tiara of pearls held her finger tip length veil in place, and she carried a bouquet of small red and white carnations, in the form of a cross.

Miss Marie MacHaffie was her sister's maid of honor and wore a bolero gown of powder blue nylon over taffeta, with heart shaped headdress to match and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. Jerry Nelmes was best man for the groom and the ushers were Mr. Ronald Gleeson, and Mr. Ken Brown.

Following a reception at the Cedarview Country Club, the bridal couple left by plane for a wedding trip to Miami, the bride travelling in a bluish green flecked wool suit, muskrat jacket, turquoise straw hat, and brown accessories.

On their return they will reside in St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac.

ROLLINS HAS IDEA

Al Rollins, Chicago's very capable goalkeeper, was interviewed recently by Bob Hesketh of the Toronto Telegram. It was pointed out to Rollins that he would probably stop close to 2,500 shots by the end of the season, and that this would give him a good bargaining point in next season's contract negotiations.

"I think," he said, "that I will ask for a cent a shot and double for shutouts."

He obviously wants to buy into the club.

B'burg Leads 2-0 In Semi-Final Series Third Games Takes Place Locally Tonight

St. Anne's Players Injured In Car Accident

Brownsburg, with another victory over Alexandria, wound up the league schedule in second place. It was another dull game with barely 50 spectators on hand at the Alexandria arena to see the Bombers take a 7-4 matter-of-fact decision.

Marc Campeau with two goals and three assists was the big Bomber. Yves Laporte scored twice and assisted once. Paul Emil Hebert also scored two goals. Jacques Racine scored the other goal and André Ouellette and Jules Biron picked up the other assists. It was an uninspired performance by both teams and although Brownsburg showed some fancy plays only Paul Emil Hebert and André Ouellette had any dash.

On Sunday Brownsburg opened the play-off series at home against a much depleted Ste. Anne de Bellevue squad. Five of the team were cut up in a car smash en route to the game and the team was forced to play with only ten men.

Coach Jimmy Murdoch tried out a new line — Germain Hebert, Red Charlebois and Jacques Leveillé. It paid off in very short order with three goals in the first fifteen minutes. Hebert scored two and assisted once, Red had one and one and Leveillé came up with two assists.

The first period ended 4-1 with Honoré Norbonne scoring the other Brownsburg goal and Frank Pearce from Fritz Gauthier, scoring the lone tally for the visitors.

Only one goal was scored in the middle frame, as Frank Pearce again was the man to beat Buddy Racine, the assist this time going to Legault. Apart from Pearce, Buddy proved too much for the other visitors.

In the third period Brownsburg took complete command and scored five goals against the tiring overworked visitors. Of these Marc Campeau scored two goals and one assist, Yves Laporte scored one goal and two assists and Paul Emil Hebert had one of each. So this new line had its share of success too. The other goal was scored by the regular first line — Jacques Racine from Honoré Norbonne.

On Tuesday night Brownsburg extended the odds in their favor by winning 7-3 in Rigaud. They now return tonight for the third game in this semi-final series with a fairly comfortable cushion of 2 wins to 0 losses.

Lachute High School Sports and Activities

By Bev. Sanford

Saturday was a red letter day for the Lachute High School students. They played two games of hockey, two games of basketball and one curling match, winning all five encounters.

The Senior boys' hockey game against Macdonald was the opener of the day. Here Lachute showed they were much the stronger team.

At first, both sides failed to make their passes click until Ian Duncan, on a rebound, scored in the last few minutes of the first period. In the next stanza, the puck hovered around the opposition's net until Ken Underhill flipped in another for the home team, to be soon followed by yet another by Bob Campbell. Macdonald then got possession of the puck and tried hard to break the jinx, but was unable to pass the Lachute defense. Instead, Tim Sorley got by the Macdonald goaler to make it 4-0 for LHS at the end of the second period.

In the last period, Ken Underhill picked up his second goal and so the final count was 5-0 for the home team. Carl Rodger, the Lachute goaler, played an excellent game and had his first shut-out of the season.

The three stars of the game were respectively, Carl Rodger, Ian Duncan and Ken Underhill. This game was refereed by Richard Bradford.

The Junior boys played the second game on ice while the Seniors were competing indoors in basketball. In the hockey game, the visitors, Macdonald High School, took the first period 1-0, but in the second stanza Del MacTavish tied the score. Glen Swail tallied in the third period to be followed by a second goal by Del MacTavish, to make the final count 3-1 for Lachute.

The Senior boys' basketball game got off to a fast start, Macdonald scoring 4 points on foul shots, while Lachute sank 3 baskets. The visitors pulled ahead, however, to end the first quarter 10-6 in their favor.

In the second quarter, play was rapid and colorful with Lachute reversing the tables by gaining the lead, 17-14, and retaining it through the remainder of the game when the score board showed 49-29 for the local boys.

The three star selection was awarded to Ian Duncan, David Bates and Reg Stansfield.

The Senior girls' game versus the Chambly County High School was the most exciting encounter of all. In the first quarter the LHS girls failed to complete their passes and consequently Chambly led 6-2. In the next phase there was more action and although the visitors possessed no style or system, yet they still remained in the lead, 14-11. This continued in the third quarter but from then on the Lachute girls seemed determined to win.

When the opening whistle blew for the last quarter, the score showed Chambly ahead 22-17. Then the visitors added another basket, followed by a foul shot, and a basket for Lachute. That made it 24-20 for CCHS. Suspense was at its highest and amid loud cheers, Betty Underhill scored on 2 baskets and 1 foul shot to put Lachute in the lead by 1 point, 25-24. Shirley Pollock sank another basket to increase Lachute's tally 27-24. With only seconds to go, Chambly added 2 more points to make it 27-26. The referee then called time and LHS chalked up one more victory of the day.

The fifth contest of the day took place in the curling rink. A local team consisting of Bobby Armstrong (skip), Hugh Dobbie, Henry Todd and Earl McCaskill, played a visiting team from Macdonald. The game was close, ending in a 7-6 win for the local boys.

The Student's Council is sponsoring a Sadie Hawkin's Dance, to be held this Friday evening, February 22, in the School Auditorium. Come and support a worthy cause! Admission will be charged.

New Penalty Rule Applied 155 Times In N.H.L. Play

The National Hockey League's new penalty rule whereby serving a minor penalty a penalized player returns to the ice immediately the opposition scores a goal has been applied a total of 155 times in the first 140 games of the 1956-57 season.

Montreal Canadiens have enjoyed the greatest success in scoring goals while holding a manpower advantage over the opposition. After 140 games or at the two-thirds mark of the current campaign the Canadiens scored 39 goals with their opponents shorthanded.

Detroit Red Wings are the second best opportunists among the six NHL teams. The Wings scored 30 goals with the opposition shy on manpower, Toronto Maple Leafs follow close on the heels of the Red Wings in this department. The Leafs scored 28 times while their opponents had a player in the penalty box.

New York Rangers scored 24 times with an edge in player strength. Boston Bruins scored 18 times and the sixth-place Chicago Black Hawks notched 16 of their counters with the opposition shorthanded.

Toronto has been victimized more than any other club when it comes to being scored against while playing shorthanded. The Leafs had 32 goals scored against them while playing this way. This is more than any other club. Boston Bruins were the second biggest losers when playing with a player in the penalty box. The Bruins had 29 goals scored against them while shorthanded.

New York and Chicago had almost identical records in goals scored against them while playing with a manpower deficiency. Chicago allowed 27 goals to be scored this way while the Rangers had 26 tabulated against their forces.

Montreal boasts the best record in both scoring goals while the opposition is shorthanded and in allowing goals while shorthanded themselves. The Canadiens gave up only 20 goals while their opponents had a manpower advantage. Detroit Red Wings also had a good defensive record playing shorthanded. The Wings allowed 21 goals to be scored against them.

Gatineau Musher Wins Dog Derby

Lachute Derby Winner Continues Good Work

Three Rivers (CP)—Ernest Brunet of Gatineau Point, Sunday, won the first annual $800 dog derby with a combined time of three hours, 15 minutes and 56 seconds in the two-heat, 50-mile event contested by nine other provincial teams.

Brunet won both heats. The first was run off Saturday. He was also the winner of the local derby held in Lachute last month.

Brownsburg High School

By Glenrose Hazel

On Saturday, February 16, the Brownsburg boys High School team played hockey against Hudson High. The game was played in the Brownsburg Arena. The score was 7-6 for Hudson.

In the first period goals scored for Brownsburg were by Donald Campbell, assisted by Alex MacGibbon, and the second goal was by Donald Campbell, assisted by Alex MacGibbon. The third goal was scored by Alex MacGibbon, assisted by Donald Campbell.

In the second period the goal was scored by Alex MacGibbon.

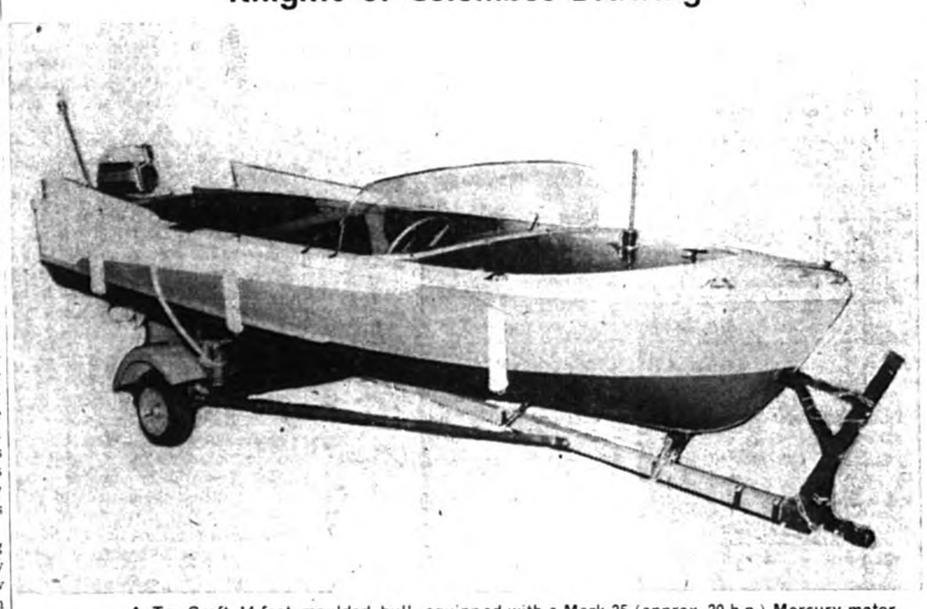

In the last period the last two goals were scored by Alex MacGibbon. Both teams are looking forward to playing again soon.

The southern prairies hold the record for the highest temperature ever recorded in Canada, 113 degrees.

Provincial Legion Curling Play-Offs Scheduled for Lachute Rink Next Week

Considerable interest is being shown locally in the Veteran's curling games leading up to the district finals, which will be played in Lachute on the week-end of March 1st.

There are eight districts represented, including Shawinigan Falls, St. Annes, St. Lambert, Drummondville, Lacolle, Huntingdon, Stanstead or Victoriaville and Lachute.

Locally, a week ago, R. P. Fraser, defeated J. B. Browne, of Montebello, while C. E. Richardson was victor over Jack MacKimmie.

Last evening, Wednesday, C. E. Richardson won again, against Syd Drew, and will next play the winner of the R. Fraser vs. Jack Campbell, of Montebello game, for final honors.

On March 1 the finals will start at the local rink with winners from the eight districts competing for the provincial honors.

Winners of this event will then travel to Winnipeg to participate in the Dominion Championships taking place on March 12.

To climax the event a banquet is being held at the Legion Hall here on Saturday night, March 2, at 7 o'clock.

These games should prove most interesting and it is hoped that there will be a good turn-out of local enthusiasts for the finals here on Friday and Saturday, March 1 and 2.

Church Bowling League Leadership Race Close

The league leadership of the United Church Bowling Association enters into the near-play-off stage with the two W.M.S. teams battling for the honors. A few weeks ago, the foursome of Miss Grace Rosser had a commanding lead, but recently, the team of Mrs. H. Riddell has been steadily gaining, and is now within one point.

The scores for the games of last Monday are as follows:

This Saturday will be a special in the form of a "Hard Time Dance" at which all must wear appropriate clothes or run the chance of a fine. A bean and weiner supper will be served, and there will be fun for all.

Ladies' Play

On Friday, February 15 the final games for the vice-president's prize were played off between Mrs. D. McGibbon (skip), Mrs. R. Muir, Mrs. A. G. Giles and Mrs. Forbes, and Mrs. J. K. Campbell (skip), Mrs. D. MacKimmie, Mrs. M. Walker and Mrs. L. Duncan.

It was a hard fought game all the way through, being tied coming into the last end. However, Mrs. McGibbon's rink proved to be the champions by a close margin of one point.

After the game the vice-president, Mrs. F. Stein, Jr., entertained at a tea in honor of the winning team.

Gala day and other ladies events have been temporarily postponed during repairs to the ice freezing unit.

'The Secret Agent' CBC Wednesday Night Features Suspense Drama

Joseph Conrad's story called The Secret Agent turns up again, this time on CBC Wednesday Night, February 27, from 8.00 - 10.00 p.m. The powerful tale of suspense and intrigue was presented on television (CBC Folio) a few weeks ago; and an earlier Wednesday Night production, three years ago, aroused a big response.

The same people who were responsible for the earlier radio production will be preparing this week's: J. Frank Willis, producer; music written by Philip Nimmons and conducted by Samuel Hersenhoren; and the adaptation of the novel by Joseph Schull.

By the early 1920's Conrad, whose first novel was written in 1895, was acknowledged as one of the leading literary figures of his time, but there was a lull in public interest after his death in 1924 which was not revived until the change in outlook caused by the Second Great War re-established the value of his philosophy of life and his prose style. When The Secret Agent appeared in 1907 it was attacked by some critics, who did not see its political significance, for its 'sordid surroundings and moral squalor". Besides being a tale of anarchy in the London underworld at the turn of the century, The Secret Agent is the personal tragedy of Winnie Verloc (whose husband is the "agent") and her idiot brother Stevie, to whom she is devoted — all touched by Conrad's peculiar brand of irony.

To introduce the play (at 7.40) there will be a talk on Conrad and his novels, in particular The Secret Agent, by Henry Kreisel, a novelist himself (The Rich Man) and a member of the English department at the University of Alberta. Born and raised in Vienna, Kreisel came to Canada in 1939 when in his teens. All his writing has been done in English, his second tongue; and, perhaps because of this, he has made a special study of Conrad, a Pole who became one of the greatest masters of the English language.

When Crossing Border, Must Prove Car Insured

Canadian motorists will have to be ready to show proof that their car is insured as they cross into New York State, starting from now on.

The New York State law now requires all motorists to carry minimum liability insurance of $10,000 and $20,000 for bodily injury or death, and for $5,000 for property damage.

Officals say that this will apply to Canadian motorists passing through the State. The amount of insurance required is regarded as a "sensible" policy by insurance men.

'Cross Section' Analyses The Gordon Report

The first in a series of four weekly broadcasts on the report of the Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects will be presented on Cross Section this Thursday night on the Dominion network.

The Commission was appointed by the Government nearly two years ago to inquire into Canada's economic potentialities. In January of this year, it presented to Parliament its preliminary report — known as the Gordon Report, after the Commission's chairman, Walter Gordon.

The programs, to be produced in Toronto by Gordon Cullingham, will present by means of actuality recordings, discussions and narration many of the situations the Commission encountered in its investigation. University of Toronto economist E. N. Wolfe has provided special technical advice for the series.

The first broadcast will consider the forecasts and recommendations of the report and will include a dramatic reconstruction of a scene at the hearings. The second program on March 7 will deal with the problems peculiar to the Atlantic provinces, which received considerable attention from the commissioners and were the subject of some of the most controversial recommendations. On March 14, the third program will deal with the general question of tariffs, resources development and export. The series will end on March 21 when the subjects of manpower and immigration will be examined.

In 1956 the value of Canada's mineral production exceeded $2-billion for the first time. In 1946 the value was just over $500-million.

The World's Telephones

Leading city in the world for telephones is New York City, with 3,927,421 in service on January 1, 1956. Second-ranking city is Greater London, with 2,020,000 telephones in service.

In Canada, Montreal leads with 522,295 telephones, followed by Toronto with 449,534.

The information contained in "The World's Telephones", compiled by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, requires about a year to tabulate from the reports of more than 250 governments and telephone companies throughout the world.

A Changing World

By G. Roy Fenwick, Mus.Doc., Director of Music, Ontario Dept. of Education

Among the many changes in the world today which are affecting our way of life, there are three which must be giving concern to all educators. These are the increase in leisure time, the tendency towards being spectators rather than participants, and the deterioration of public taste, especially in the Arts.

Sir Richard Livingstone, the great English educationist, wrote: "Fifty years ago leisure was no concern of any but the well-to-do, who mostly wasted it. Today its use is becoming a problem." Certainly, the majority of our young people enjoy more leisure than formerly, and never has there been a time when so many forms of entertainment have been so easily available. Television, radio and movies, are among the modern inventions which may be either a blessing or a curse, depending upon their use. One of the dangers is that these, along with other forms of professional entertainment may develop a generation of spectators rather than active participants. In the case of music, the greatly increased demand has resulted in a flood of sound which embraces music of all kinds. Much of this is of the finest quality, but much more is merely entertainment of passing interest, and never intended to be taken seriously. Unfortunately, a great many people seem to be taking it seriously.

What can we as music educators do to combat these dangers. Certainly not by slackening our efforts to discover and encourage students with exceptional talent, because they are the ones to fill the gaps in the ranks of the professionals and keep standards of performance high. But we must get more and more people actively making music, both vocal and instrumental. A truly musical country is one in which everyone finds in music a means of self-expression. We must also help our young people to listen intelligently and to discriminate between music which has lasting value and that which is only for the moment. Given a fair chance, young people will usually choose the better kind, but we must help them. The worthwhile things in life must be worked for.

Inflation Is Deflation

By Lewis-Milligan

Every schoolboy knows the meaning of the words inflation and deflation. He likes to inflate things, such as a tire or a toy balloon, and too often takes a mischievous delight in deflating them. He knows also that there are two ways of deflating a balloon, one is to prick it with a pin and the other to blow it up until it bursts. But if he values his balloon he will do neither of those destructive things, and if someone else did it he would set up a howl!

Which things are an allegory of what is happening to our industrial and national economy.

Schoolboys, of course, know nothing about economics, and most of their elders have but a vague idea of the meaning of that term. As a boy, whenever I heard of a person being referred to as 'economical" I assumed that he or she was a penny-pincher and the next thing to a miser. Later, after cursory study of the subject, I concluded that economics was an abstract science which could only be fully grasped by professors of political economy.

The very word "inflation", simple as its meaning is in common use, when it comes to be applied to industry and commerce, the average person dismisses the subject as beyond him, or regards it as just another bugbear of the capitalists and politicians. And yet the inflation of currency is no more mysterious than that of a toy balloon and it is just as liable to end in deflation. As a matter of plain fact, inflation of currency actually deflates it in value. While inflation increases the volume of currency, at the same time or subsequently it decreases the purchasing power of currency.

If, for instance, inflation is started by excessive union demands for higher wages, the union workers are immediately better off financially, but with the subsequent rise in cost and prices, the fixed wages and salaries of all other workers are deflated in value. The obvious remedy for that unfair situation is to raise all wages in proportion. But that would call for still further inflation to meet the consequent increased costs and prices of all kinds of products and services.

The idea that merely by increasing the wages of everybody you can increase purchasing power is a mirage which disappears as you approach it. The delusion is in confusing "money" with wealth. If wealth consisted merely of dollars, then all Canadians today would be wealthy compared with their forebears of fifty years ago. At that time and even later a working man could raise a family on ten or fifteen dollars a week. Eighteen dollars was a good wage for a first-class reporter on the Toronto Globe in 1914, and editors were well-to-do at thirty dollars. The average weekly wage across the Dominion today is about sixty dollars. Skilled workers can earn as much as eighty to a hundred dollars and more.

Standards of living have advanced in the meantime in accordance with the expansion of industries and services, which constitute the real wealth of the country. With that expansion wages were bound to rise proportionately, but that is not real inflation. Inflation begins when labor and other costs get out of balance with the production of goods and services. When that occurs prices must rise and the value of the dollar is reduced accordingly. When prices rise to a point where those who have got no increase in their incomes must reduce their purchasing, sales will decline and unemployment will ensue.

CBC's Wrestling Team

In this corner is one of the best wrestling teams in the business — the team of Dave Price (left) and Pat Flanagan. One or the other of them is at the ring every week, microphone in hand, to bring CBC-TV audiences an astute up-to-the-second account of wrestling from Maple Leaf Gardens.

Scouting Anniversary

This is a banner year for the Scout movement throughout the world. Not only is it the 50th anniversary of the Boy Scouts, but February 22 marks the centenary of the birth of Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell, the founder of the movement.

In honor of the occasion, Canadian Scene this Sunday afternoon presents live from the Winnipeg Arena a description by Ron Hunka of a rally and pageant illustrating the history, aims and methods behind scouting. Included will be a specially-recorded message from Lady Baden-Powell, the massed reaffirmation of the Scout and Guide Promise by present and former members, and a recording of Lord Baden-Powell's voice made on his 80th birthday when he addressed the scouts of the world.

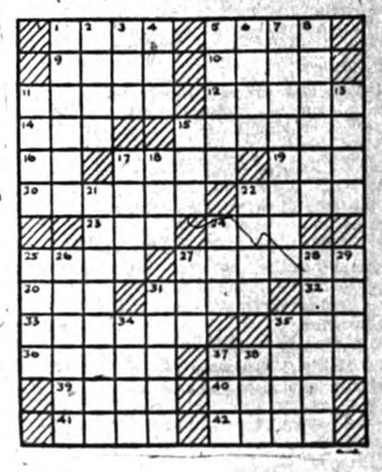

(The February 23 edition of This Week will also present excerpts from messages by Lord Baden-Powell to scouts, parents and scout leaders, as well as a message by either Lord Rowallen or Lady Baden-Powell.)

Four Hands — One Keyboard On CBC

Guy Bourassa and Pierre Beaudet are masters of the difficult art of playing duets on a single keyboard. It's an art that is a rarity among professional musicians in Quebec or anywhere else. The two demonstrate their talented teamwork every Friday at 7.30 p.m. on CBC Trans-Canada.

Bourassa and Beaudet took their training separately until they met 10 years ago at the Fontainbleau Conservatory in France and began practicing together. Eight years ago they returned to Canada and quickly established themselves as outstanding soloists and accompanists, and as a top piano team. Bourassa now lives in Quebec City, where he was born, and teaches at the Conservatorium there, making frequent trips to Montreal for his radio and TV appearances. Beaudet, born in Thetford Mines, has taken part in many variety shows and other CBC music programs.

Teatime Topics

By Carolyn Willett,
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Written Specially for
The Lachute Watchman

The modern housewife looks upon household gadgets as indispensables. But no one cheers louder about a handy device than the handicapped.

For example, the woman who can use only one hand or arm probably places very high value on a one-hand eggbeater, or a mixing bowl with a tilted bottom so that only one hand is needed for mixing while the tilt holds the bowl in place.

It's difficult for persons with no physical handicap to really know the problems entailed in running a home and family from a wheelchair, for instance.

A Buffalo, N.Y., home economist, Mrs. Molly D. Thomson, recently told a group of Canadian and American fellow workers that 3,000,000 physically-handicapped or disabled housewives do maintain homes and families.

Careful Studies

Mrs. Thomson works for an industrial association which maintains a home workshop to help disabled women solve their problems.

The program ranges from instructions about cooking from a wheelchair to handling the family laundry while one is balanced on crutches, or re-arranging a kitchen to simplify work and conserve energy.

Canada, too, has stepped up its programs to help disabled housewives.

For example, a department for disabled housewives was recently established by Vancouver's western Society for Rehabilitation. Through Saskatchewan's physical restoration division, similar programs now are under way at Regina and Saskatoon.

As for the handy gadgets, they're often developed by occupational therapists, or by handicapped persons themselves to help overcome the problems of particular disabilities.

Electronic Washer

Speaking of inventions, there's talk about removing the whirl of water and swish of soap suds from the weekly wash.

An electronics executive recently predicted the possibility of electronic washing machines in which the water or solvent will seem to stand still. Clothes would be scrubbed, gently but firmly, by high frequency shock waves and the laundry would be done in five or six minutes.

Keeps Up-to-Date

The "good old days" have nothing on the modern way of life, says Rose Clark, who celebrated her 102nd birthday February 13. Miss Clark, resident of the House of Providence in Toronto, gives this explanation for her long life:

"I don't fill my head with nonsense and never bother with other people's business."

Her advice to older people is to keep pace with life. She tries to do this — one of her favorite pastimes is listening to the radio.

More than 90 per cent of British Columbia's vast soft fruit growing industry is concentrated in the Okanagan Valley.

Canning Potatoes

Considerable interest in the canning of small potatoes, otherwise not readily marketable, has been developed among food processors in the irrigation district of southern Alberta. Some years ago the Cornwall Canning Company started canning such potatoes, and this year an experimental pack is being run by the Broder Canning Company, with a possible annual production of 30,000 cases in prospect.

If you are a do-it-yourself fan and have bits and pieces of wood lying around, put these scraps to good use. By giving them a coat of paint, using a variety of colors, you can present your child with toys that will delight him for hours. He can let his imagination run wild and build all sorts of strange shapes with these "new" blocks.

Let's Eat

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"We chop nutmeats and sprinkle them over a salad, cake or sundae," remarked the chef. "We stir them into the batter for muffins or cookies; toast and serve them on vegetables or chow mein; brown them in butter to use in Sauce Meuniere for broiled fish.

"We take nutmeats from a bag or can, or even from the shells, but never do we stop to think where they are grown.

From Everywhere

"From the jungles of Brazil come theg reat big Brazil nuts From the southern U.S. come the pecans. And during a tour of the Pacific states we saw groves of fliberts in Oregon and tasted the delicious walnuts and almonds in the huge groves of California."

"And almost never, chef," I added, "when we use nutmeats in a food, do we count their high nutritive values. Nuts are a good source of fat and contain considerable vegetable protein of high biological value. This is activated to full protein efficiency when combined or served with meat, milk, cheese or animal protein.

Grapefruit Salad
New England Baked Beans
Brown Bread
Panned Canadian Bacon
Escaloped Tomatoes
Baked Honey Nut Drop Cakes or Apple-Pear Sauce
Coffee Tea Milk

All measurements are level; recipes proportioned to serve 4 to 6.

Panned Canadian bacon: To pan-fry, use slices cut ¼" thick. Allow 2 or 3 slices for each serving. Start to pan-fry in a cold skillet and gradually heat. Turn once. Cook only until beginning to brown, not until crisp.

Honey nutd rop cakes: Cream ½ c. butter or margarine. Blend in ½ c. sugar, the fine-grated peel 1 lemon and 3 tbsp. fresh lemon juice.

Separate 2eggs. Blend in the yolks.

Sift together 3¼ c. already-sifted enriched flour, ¼ tsp salt and 1 tsp. baking soda. Add ¾ c. chopped filbert, pecan, almond or walnut meats.

Stir alternately with 1 c. liquid honey intothe first mixture.

Beat the egg whites and fold in.

Oil a large cookie sheet or inverted roasting pan. Drop on the dough by teaspoonfuls. Top each with additional chopped nutmeats. Bake 12 to 15 min. in a moderate oven, 375 deg. F. Makes about 60.

Baked apple-pear sauce: In a 3 pt. buttered or margarined casserole, combine 6 tart cooking apples and 4 winter pears, any variety—cored, peeled and cut in eighths.

Add 1 c. light brown sugar, ½ c. water or cider and ½ tsp. grated nutmeg or theg rated rind ¼ lemon. Cover. Bake 3 hrs. in a slow-oven, 325 deg. F., or until the sauce is red.

Serve warm, plain or topped with half-scoops of ice cream; or chill and top with sweetened whipped cream.

Nicolet County Woman Chosen Dairy Queen

Local Contestant Places Third In Preliminary Contest

Amid great excitment Mme Irenee Wibault, of St. Gregoire in Nicolet County, became the first Dairy Queen of Quebec, after winning the final milking contest at the National Salon of Agriculture in the Show Mart last Friday evening. Mrs. Wibault was judged the best of four finalists, each of whom had won on four previous nights. She represented the Holstein Club of Nicolet.

The other winners were Miss Rhoda Simon, representing the Montreal - Vaudreuil Holstein Club; Miss Aimee Parent of Notre-Dame de Rimouski, representing the Holstein Club of the Lower St. Lawrence; and Miss Marie Verville, of Arthabaska, representing the Bois Franc Club.

Mrs. Wibault won, in addition to $200 a beautiful mink stole, electric household equipment, a ton of feed and bags of fertilizer. All the girls were showered with roses, perfume and other awards.

Miss Ruth Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Clark, of Upper Lachute, placed third in the Monday evening competition won by Miss Simon. She was the recipient of a $30 cash award and other prizes.

Change of Date for A.C.W.W. Conference

New dates for the 8th Triennial Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World are July 3-13 of this year. This has been announced by the London office.

Scheduled to take place in Ceylon, December 1956, the critical Middle East situation at that time made this postponement necessary. The place of meeting is still to be Ceylon and the ACWW Executive Committee is asking that whenever possible the same delegates will go from the various constituent societies, thus reducing the amount of adjustment needed with earlier arrangements.

Mrs. G. D. Harvey, Stanbridge East, President of the Quebec Women's Institutes, will continue to represent that organization at the Conference. She will travel with the Canadian delegation, headed by the National President, Mrs. J. W Adams, Ethelton, Sask., the group leaving by air from Vancouver the middle of June.

Baby Bonus Makes Investment for Kiddies

We thought we had heard everything about investment clubs, but here's a new one — says The Financial Post: A group of suburban housewives have formed an investment club to put their family allowance cheques to work for their children's future.

"We're not using the milk money," one of the mothers said rather defensively. "The milkman and the grocer and the pediatrician and the music teacher are all paid and there's plenty of insurance — including an educational endowment policy — for each child. That's one of our entrance requirements. The club got started when we found that most of us were solemnly stowing away the family allowance cheques in separate bank accounts and leaving the money to sit there. Since most of the children won't be touching the money for at least 15 years, we wondered if we shouldn't look for a little growth for their assets."

A FAVORITE RECIPE, DESSERT OMELETTE

3 Tablespoons flour, 3 tablespoons sugar, 3 egg yolks, 3 egg whites, pinch of salt.

Mix flour and sugar together, add to beaten egg yolks. Add salt to egg whites, beat until stiff but not dry. Fold yolk mixture into whites. Cook like an ordinary omelette until set. Fold and serve at once plain, sprinkled with powdered sugar or spread with jelly. Yields four servings.

Mocha Refrigerator Cake

Do you like to make your Sunday-dinner dessert on Saturday? Mocha Refrigerator Cake is at its delicious best when it is made a day in advance, yet it can be put together in a few minutes. Blending the flavors of coffee and chocolate, it is toothsome enough for company — or for a pampered family!

For the perfect ending for a perfect meal, serve it with lots of steaming, fragrant coffee.

Mocha Refrigerator Cake

2 Packaged sponge cake layers, 1 cup strong coffee, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped, 1 package chocolate pudding mix, 1 cup evaporated milk, walnut meats.

Split sponge layers through, making 4 thin layers. Prepare pudding mix, using coffee and evaporated milk, combined, as the liquid. Press one of the cake layers into a medium - sized mixing bowl. Add ⅓ of the pudding, another cake layer and so on, ending with the fourth cake layer. Chill several hours or overnight. Unmold on serving plate. Swirl whipped cream generously on top and sides. Garnish with whole walnut meats. Yield: 8 servings.

According to scientists, the chemical value of a man is a little more than a dollar. On the other hand the chemical value of woman depends on how much she spends on cosmetics.

New Coated Fabrics Designed for Furniture

Television-plus-children means that living room furniture today receives as much rough wear as Wild Bill Hickock's saddle does. When the six-shooters are cracking and the dust is flying, a young cowboy can hardly be expected to remember the upholstery!

With this problem in mind, furniture designers and fabric makers collaborated to find the solution. At the Canadian Furniture Mart, held recently in Toronto, the use of plastic coated fabrics as furniture coverings gave every indication of a strong trend for the coming year.

Long a favorite in kitchens because of its toughness and easy washability, coated fabric has recently been given a new look and feel to make it ideal for living room, playroom and den furniture. For instance, "Fabrilite", one of the first materials to adapt itself to living room use, now comes in nubby, tweed-like finishes as well as in the more usual smooth textures. Colors have been chosen to conform with the current trends in rug and drapery hues.

To stand up to long sessions before the TV set, the new fabric was designed by C-I-L chemists to withstand scuffing and countless soap-and-water washings without losing its lustre.

Years of research and testing went into this battle of living room furniture versus horse operas. But perseverence appears to have won. The chemical industry has produced an attractive fabric which should outlast the indestructable heroes of the TV screen.

ADD NEW LANGUAGES TO TRAIN'S NOTICE

Moncton, N.B. (CP) — It's a risky business to halt 1,500 tons of rolling steel by pulling a cord, as any seasoned train traveller knows.

Signs all over any passenger train warn of the consequence of pulling an emergency brake cord without a sufficient reason. But the signs are usually printed in French and English. How are the immigrants from other European countries supposed to know the potentialities behind the innocent-looking cord?

The answer is simple: signs saying "touch me not" in seven languages have been put under the cords. The additions are in Danish, Dutch, German, Italian and Greek, so people recognizing these words can have no excuse when a glowering conductor with a badly-jolted nervous system asks why they did it.

County W.I. Reports Active Month Branches Support CNIB Appeal

Arundel Branch of the W.I. entertained the Executive with a Valentine Party. The husbands were invited and after an evening of enjoyable games, refreshments were served.

Eleven members and two guests attended the spring class of Stuffed Toys and Jewellery making, given by Miss Altimas.

A Blind Auction was held, the proceeds of which will be donated to the Federated Institute Fund.

Brownsburg Branch heard an address by Rev. Armour, of Lachute. Plans were made for a Nutrition Course in March and a pot luck supper at the annual meeting.

Twelve uniforms have been completed for school children in the Far East.

Five dollars was sent to CARE for Hungarian Relief work and cookies to Veterans at St. Anne de Bellevue hospital.

St. Jerusalem - Bethany Branch read items on food prices and discussed Fair work. Films were shown. Flowers were sent to two sick friends. Five dollars was donated to the Lampada of LHS and fifty dollars towards the building fund of a skating rink in Lachute.

Lachute Branch — Mrs. Arthur Hanly gave a talk and showed pictures concerning the life of Queen Mother Elizabeth.

Morin Heights Branch enjoyed an address given by the County President, Mrs. M. Wilson, who came to judge and give prizes at the School Children's Handicraft Exhibit. The evening ended with a party on a Valentine theme. A Jewellery Course is to be held March 25-29.

Mille Isles Branch had a paper on Citizenship and answered an appeal for chairs for the CNIB with a donation of five dollars; $10 was also donated for school prizes.

Pioneer Branch is buying a chair for CNIB. Six uniforms were made for school children of the Far East. Some members expressed hopes to attend the Salon of Agriculture at the Show Mart.

Two interesting articles were read. One was entitled "Country Women of Canada", the other "It Can Happen in Your Home."

Upper Lachute - East End Branch read the program for the coming year and appointed a nominating committee.

A button hole contest was held and a quilt has been started.

A donation of $5 was made to Lachute High School Lampada and $10 to the CNIB to help buy chairs.

Door prizes were won by the following: Mr. and Mrs. Basil Kerr, Mrs. C. Rivest, Miss Joan Williams, Roy Staniforth, James Bates.

Mr. Jean Noel Courte was the lucky winner of the electric clock, which was drawn for.

The evening was brought to a close with a hockey game played between the Old Timers vs. Juniors, which afforded everyone a good laugh and ended in a decisive victory for the Juniors.

The Weir Athletic Club would like to take this opportunity of thanking all those who in any way contributed towards the success of this event.

Reject Certification of Hawkesb'y Textile Union

Toronto (CP) — The Ontario Labor Relations Board has dismissed on a split vote the certification application of a textile union but the dissenting minority said there weren't sufficient grounds for action one way or the other.

The application was filed by the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO—CCL) which sought to represent 89 employees of St. Lawrence Textile Ltd. at Hawkesbury, Ont.

The dismissal was based on a majority contention that counting the certification votes would be a waste of time, since only 37 of the 89 workers obtained ballots.

"It is clear that even if all 37 persons voted in favor of the applicant (and of this we have no knowledge), less than 50 per cent of those eligible to vote would have cast their ballots in favor of the applicant union," the majority ruled.

The dissenters pointed to the law which says that a successful application must have a majority of those eligible to vote and not merely a majority of those who do vote.

"This being the case," the minority report said, "it is our opinion that if a majority of those eligible to vote do not do so, the vote has failed in its purpose irrespective of the reason which induced the majority not to cast their ballots."

It said the board minority felt the outcome of the voting would have prompted it to return "no finding" — neither approval or dismissal.

As a concluding observation, the minority said: "The case, however, does point up in very clear fashion the objection of trade unions to the present legislative requirements that a union obtain an over-all majority of those eligible to vote in order to be certified."

Morin Resident, Church Worker, Succumbs to Illness

Late Mrs. Jack McConnell

Mrs. Jack McConnell who has resided in this community for over forty years passed peacefully away at her home here on February 15th, 1957, in her 67th year. She was the former Hattie L. McBride.

Mrs. McConnell had been in poor health for over fifteen years. Prior to her illness she was an active member of the Women's Association and a charter member of the Women's Institute. The W.I. formed a guard of honor in tribute to the deceased at the funeral service which was largely attended.

The service was held February 17th at 4 p.m. from the Morin Heights United Church and was conducted by the Rev. Robert Blair, B.A., B.D. He took for his text "Comfort" and the church soloist Mrs. M. M. Simms sang "The Old Rugged Cross" a favorite hymn of the deceased.

Mrs. McConnell leaves to mourn her loss, her husband John A. and four daughters (Margaret) Mrs. Vic LeBlanc, (Jean) Mrs. Eddie Tousignant, (Mary) Mrs. George Kennedy, all of Montreal, and Miss Theresa McConnell of Morin Heights, also seven grandchildren.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Gerald McConnell, Sr., Gerald McConnell, Jr., Douglas Wilmut, Lawrence Wilmut, Ross McConnell, and Melvin Dey. Many beautiful flowers bore tribute of the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Interment was in Morin Heights Cemetery.

Large Attendance at Arundel W.I. Meeting

The Arundel Women's Institute held its monthly meeting on Wednesday evening, the president, Mrs. Sosnkowski presiding. After the routine business, the meeting was adjourned and the program took the form of a Valentine party tendered to the executive by the members, under convenership of Mrs. Roy Staniforth and Mrs. J. Macauley.

An auction was held of various donations sent in by the members and created a lot of amusement. There was a good representation of the husbands of the members who were special guests, as were the members of the Arundel Council who attended after their monthly meeting.

The committee is to be congratulated on its original and beautiful table decorations which were in keeping with the Valentine season.

Jumping-Cross Country Divisional Championships Hampered by Weather

Skiier Injured In Cross Country Event

Last Saturday and Sunday were eventful days at Morin Heights, when the Vikings Ski Club of Morin, was entrusted with the arrangements for the Divisional Championships, in the 15 kilometer Cross Country Races, and the Divisional Championship Jumping Competitions.

These arrangements were under the supervision of Per Gerholt, president of the Vikings of Morin and his officials amongst whom were noticed B. Kvembo, as one of the judges. Measuring at the Jumps were Wm. Stock and Herman Kongholm, and at the prize giving, Per Gerhalt handed to the lucky winners their trophies.

The wind did not favor the jumpers, as it came in gusts which retarded the length of the jumps, and continued snow cut down the visability. During the Cross Country, Herman Kongholm, of the Vikings, suffered an injury, and shock, and was taken to the home of Mr. J. C. Kenkle at Lake Echo, where he received first aid. He was then taken to Dr. Basil Robertson for a check-up. In spite of the difficulties encountered, an enjoyable two days of skiing was had by those participating and the results are given below:

Welcome, Hungarians!

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

Welcome Hungarians! Thrice welcome to Canada! We have been reading for weeks about your courageous fight against the Communists for your freedom, and we have been thrilled about the stories of your heroism. One of our writers, A. Baer, once said that a newspaper is a circulating library with high blood pressure. What you and your countrymen have endured is enough to raise the blood pressure of editors, reporters and readers!

Music has been called the universal language, and we have heard some of the haunting folk tunes of the Magyar gypsies. We know that music has had an honored place in your culture. But we believe that courage makes as wide an appeal to men and women all over the world as music. Countless Hungarians have lost their lives in a fight against desperate odds: "How sleep the brave, who sink to rest. By all their country's wishes blest!

You will never forget your comrades who were killed or captured or your relatives and friends whom you have left behind. Scenes of your childhood spent in the beautiful City of Budapest, in a town or village or farm in the lovely plains of the blue Danube will often come to your mind. You have left a proud country of great natural charm; you belong to a people with a fine record.

We know that your King Stephen converted the Magyars of your area to Christianity a thousand years ago. We have read of the raids which your people suffered from the Mongols in the Thirteenth Century and the Turks in the Fourteenth Century. Down through the years you have struggled for your independence.

Everyone knows your love for freedom. The trial and imprisonment of Cardinal Mindszenty "for treacherous co-operation with the West" eight years ago shocked the free world. Britain and the U.S. protested against the Soviet methods used in the Court. Democratic nations everywhere, along with Canada say, "Welcome!" as their doors swing open to you.

In recent years the peak Hungarian immigration was in 1951 when over 4,400 of your countrymen came to Canada. The greatly increased number is shown by these approximate figures: by the end of February it is expected that there will be 12,000 refugees here. In March and April from temporary housing in the Netherlands, France and Britain will come another ten thousand. In all this haste and with the language difficulty, it is not surprising that some Hungarians have been homesick but an early January press (CP) dispatch reports none have gone back.

We hope not only that you will want to stay in Canada but that you will grow to love our country. This is a vast and magnificent land, a wonderful place in which to raise a family and carve out a new life. We all want to help you and we trust that you will look on us as friendly folk. . . Not so long ago, we or our parents, or our grandparents were "strangers in a strange land." Canada and Canadians have been good to us and to our ancestors.

We have had an Hungarian woman as a guest at our family dinner table. She could speak English, was very musical and had a good job as a scientist. One of our children asked her about her family. She was silent for a moment and then she told us about her brother, her only brother, and their plans to escape together. She got across the border; he was caught. She has had no word of him.

We thought of this girl last night when we were in the Immigration Hall. We had been making arrangements for our church to "adopt" an Hungarian family, find living accommodation, furnish a home, help the man in his search for work. The boys and girls looked very much like children born here, healthy, good-looking, mischievous . . . a baby asleep in a tiny crib flung his tiny fist above his head just the way our boy used to do as he slumbered. . . But we could see the look of strain and terrible fatigue on the faces of the adults. . Then on the way out we passed a little group of Hungarians greeting a newcomer. We did not know what they were saying to each other, but suddenly they were silent. The girl started to weep . . quietly and hopelessly.

We wanted to comfort her in her sorrow . . . but we were strangers and we cannot talk your language. However, we hope by practical helpfulness and by warm friendliness, to lessen the burden of sadness in many of their hearts. We agree with Cornelia Otis Skinner that tears are sometimes a means of release from the exigencies "of a world grown too terrible for tears." May your life in Canada, in some measure, compensate for the experiences you have been through. May you find freedom and friendship and all that makes sacrifice and effort worthwhile in this your new homeland. Welcome Hungarians!

DISHWASHERS DELIGHT

This will bring a glint to the eye of the cook who hates dishwashing: A new brand of corn bread mix is being packaged in a polythene bag into which you break an egg and pour some milk. Then you squeeze the air from the upper part of the bag and knead your plastic pouch of batter. Empty it into the aluminum foil baking dish included with the mix and pop it into the oven.

Canada May Be First To License Power Boats

Richard Jackson
in The Ottawa Journal

The licensing of power boats in the interests of peace and quiet — and safety — on the lakes and rivers is being considered by the Transport Department.

Proposing this regulation, the Transport Department sent out hundreds of questionnaires to yacht clubs, the Canadian Power Boat Squadron, the manufacturers and individual owners of boats, vacation resorts and waterfront property owners asking their views on licensing.

The replies, the Department reported today, now have been received, and will be studied and catalogued before any licensing recommendation is drafted.

Must Know Rules

If regulation is imposed it would mean that power boat operators would be required to have a good working knowledge of the rules of the waterborne road to qualify for licenses.

To rid the lakes and rivers of "hot-rod boatmen", the permits would be subject to suspension or cancellation for dangerous operation.

As outboard motor power ratings have risen in recent years, complaints against aquatic cut-ups have increased.

On the once-tranquil lakes and rivers of Eastern Canada, the cry of the loon has been silenced by the snarl of increasing hordes of high-powered outboards.

Canoeists too have had their troubles . . . for while the daringly adventurous paddlers once shot the rapids for their thrills . . . all they have to do now is to poke prow in once-peaceful lake to be swamped in the wash of power boats.

Resort and cottage owners have been increasingly indignant about the noise and nuisance of the outboards, and demanding regulation and control.

Educational Campaign

The power boatmen, worried by the Transport Department's threat of licensing, have asked that they be allowed to try an educational campaign.

Entering this plea for inland sailors at large has been the Canadian Power Boat Squadron, a nation-wide organization with a large and active membership in Ottawa and Eastern Ontario. The squadron has argued that its members, all with training in seamanship, could lead the drive for water sanity and safety.

The Transport Department may give them a chance to tighten up discipline in the operation of the "inland fleet" — the final decision will rest largely on the tabulation of reaction to the licensing questionnaire — but officials are frankly skeptical of the prospects of success of any educational campaign.

"They do produce results, I guess," was the way one senior official put it; "but they're slow and limited in scope. Look at the highway accident toll, and campaigns are forever being launched in the name of safety."

If regulations are imposed, Canada would be the first country in the world to license power boats, although the problem has become acute too in the United States and Washington has been considering similar safety measures.

On a trip to London last summer, Ol' Hannibal visited the battered battleship Victory, which was Lord Nelson's flagship in many famous battles. An English sailor escorted Hannibal aboard, and, as they approached a raised brass tablet on deck, the feller removed his cap.

"'Ere, sir," he said, "is the spot where Lord Nelson fell."

"Oh, is it?" replied Ol' Hannibal. "Well, that ain't surprising. I nearly tripped on the durned thing myself!"

Young Sam, down the road, asked me the other day how he ought to protect his chain saw during periods when he's not using it. That's a good question, I reckon, for all us tree farmers and woodlot owners to consider. 'Cause proper care will assure better performance from the saw!

Before storing the saw, I always clean the outside of the engine with solvent, removing all dirt and sawdust, especially around the cylinder fins. I check screws for tightness and replace any worn or damaged parts.

Then I drain the fuel tank completely and refill it with an especially light fuel mixture. For this special mixture, I use only half a cup of oil to a gallon of gasoline. This allows plenty of lubrication, but keeps the oil from settling in the carburetor. Then I start and run the engine for 30 seconds to fill the fuel system. This process prevents condensation during storage. When the saw is used again, this special mixture must be removed, and the tank refilled with normal mixture!

Then I remove the spark plug; pour an ounce or so of 30-weight oil into the cylinder; turn over the engine by hand a few times to allow oil to coat the cylinder wall; and replace spark plug. Then I clean bar and chain, and lubricate with oil. If the sprocket, bar groove or guide rail is worn, the saw should be taken to a dealer's for repair.

Lastly, I open the breaker box; remove dirt and moisture; and make sure the cover gasket is in good shape. And I make sure the gear case has plenty of lubricant to protect the gears during storage.

I find a little pre-storage care for my saw makes it last longer and work better!

Got to run along now! See you soon!

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. I am a painter and sometimes I work for myself and at other times for somebody else. Each year I have a number of contributions in my book, but I have been working for myself during the past few months. Now I have no more contracts and no immediate prospect of any work. Can I draw benefits until I locate something?

A. To draw benefit, you must have at least 30 weekly contributions in the 104 weeks prior to your claim and, of these eight contributions must have been earned in the 52 weeks prior to your claim or since the commencement of your last benefit period whichever period is less. If you have been self-employed during any of these qualifying periods, these periods may be extended. If you qualify, you can draw benefit provided that you can prove that you have given up your own business.

Q. Why am I disqualified for not having 10 contribution weeks since marriage when I worked six months after I was married?

A. The regulation says that you must have 10 contribution weeks since your marriage if you were unemployed at the time you were married. On the other hand, if you were in employment at that time and continued to work after you were married, you must have 10 contribution weeks after your first separation from employment following your marriage.

Wandering Pair Seek Far Places

Halifax (CP) — After a 3,500-mile jaunt across Canada and almost 60 days of sleeping wherever they happened to be, two Vancouver university students arrived here still keen for adventure.

Kenneth Barr, 23, and Ronald MacLeod, 20, said they got "fed up" with their jobs in Vancouver and decided to see some of the world. Trouble with their car, which they bought in Toronto, forced them to make a prolonged stopover here before setting out for South America, Europe, the West Indies or any other region accessible by ocean-hiking.

They left Vancouver by bus, stopping occasionally in cities to find temporary employment. In Edmonton, for instance, they took jobs as painters. In other places, including Assiniboine, Sask., and Winnipeg, they found work in construction and odd jobs.

By the time they reached Toronto they were tired of using buses or hitch-hiking, and bought a five-year-old car. From there to Halifax took only a few days.

Both are experienced seamen, having worked on vessels on the Pacific coast. They expected to work their transportation to some foreign port.

Rotary Joins In Celebrating Club's 52nd Anniversary

This locality is linked today with more than 9,200 other cities and towns on the six continents as the Rotary Club of Brownsburg-Lachute commemorates the 52nd anniversary of the founding of Rotary. The birthday of this world-wide fellowship of business and professional executives will be celebrated by the local Rotary Club at its meeting in the Brownsburg Legion Hall this evening.

The first Rotary Club was organized in Chicago on February 23, 1905, by Paul P. Harris, a young lawyer, who suggested the idea to a group of his friends. The name "Rotary" was selected because the first meetings of the Club were held, in rotation, in the offices of its members. The Rotary ideas of fellowship and service to others soon spread from city to city in the United States and Canada and then crossed the oceans to every continent.

"For more than half a century, Rotary has grown in numbers and strength. In the last 12 months, for example, more than 400 new Rotary Clubs have been organized in 50 countries, and six new countries have been added to Rotary's membership roster — Iran, Iraq, Jordan, Netherlands, New Guinea, and Ruanda-Urundi and Swaziland in Africa.

"Today, Rotary is a world-wide organization of more than 439,000 business and professional executives who are members of 9,286 Rotary Clubs on the six continents."

Local Club Is Active

The local club which was organized in 1945, now has 41 members. In commenting on its projects, President Keith Hickson gives special emphasis to the Community Park, which provides a valuable summer recreation and swimming centre.

"The park is being improved yearly, as funds and manpower permit," he said. "This year, a Park Planning Committee was set up within the club, under the chairmanship of Mac E. Walker. It is the objective of this committee to study and make plans for improving the centre over a period of years."

The Rotary Club of Malone, N.Y., sponsors and operates a similar project, which is now in the completed stage, and members of the local committee expect to work in co-operation with this club in an effort to make the park here even more of a success.

Red Cross "Blitz" Canvass Successful Collections Total $3,000 To Date

Brownsburg Campaign Starts Tomorrow District Objective Set at $1,500

The Red Cross "Blitz" Financial Campaign held Tuesday evening was a gratifying success according to co-chairmen Colin C. McOuat and Gordon Tabrett, who yesterday reported the "Blitz" canvassers collected a total of $2,264.44 in the Greater Lachute area. It was pointed out that a small number of persons were absent from their homes at the time of the canvass and this figure is expected to be increased considerably prior to Saturday, March 9, when the campaign officially closes.

The Special Names committee and several outlying communities have to date collected an additional $672, bringing the overall total to close to $3,000; the Special Names committee is far from having contacted all on their list and with the remaining surrounding communities, will have their detailed work finished by the end of the campaign.

The committee was high in its praise of the many canvassers and captains of the 21 various districts who braved the inclement weather to make the campaign a success, making special mention of the citizens who so generously responded to the appeal.

The drive got underway with a general parade and noise-making campaign at six o'clock, the final canvasser returning to the Farmers' Supply headquarters shortly after 11 p.m. Final results for the evening were compiled around 1.30 a.m. Wednesday. Local citizens and business firms generously provided vehicles for the parade.

Mayor Léopold Carrière accompanied by a number of the local councillors were on hand at the opening of the "Blitz" drive and assisted in the parade and with other duties.

Fishing Enthusiast Reels In Seagull

Tampa, Florida — A visitor, by the name of E. Witty Warren, has solved the problem of lack of fish in Boca Ciega Bay. He goes "bird fishing" instead of fish fishing.

It happened entirely by accident. Warren, who is a Canadian, from Verdun, Quebec, winters in Gulfport — and fishes off the dock into Boca Bay. He concurs with most other Gulfport people that dredging is lousing his fishing, however, he never realized before that he could look aloft for sport.

Seagulls, now more numerous than fish at Gulfport, are continually hovering around the docks. They dived at his bait — and he hooked one. Not as you might suppose, with hook in the mouth. Instead his hook caught in a metal band on the bird's leg.

After a high-flying engagement, with the gull making like a kite, until finally being reeled in, it was discovered that the metal band was furnished by U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and bore the number 90517. It will be sent to Washington for identification.

With slightly larger bands placed on the gull's legs, barbs filed off the hooks — and birds as plentiful as they are, why not bird fishing? That could be a test of skill — and the birds would be well fed for their co-operation.

Mr. Warren is a brother of W. H. Warren, of Bell Falls, near Calumet.

1957 Car Licenses Due Tomorrow

Provincial Police today reminded motorists that auto registrations expire today, Thursday, and the 1957 licenses must be bought by March 1.

"There will be no clemency for those who fail to abide by the law," Deputy Director Leo Trottier said. "We will prosecute any motorist who has not got his new registration by next Friday."

Det. Ralph Allen points out that the new registrations are available from Mrs. Chas. Bedard, local license registrar, Main Street, Lachute.

B'burg Home and School Association Hears Timely Address on Fluoridation

Dental diseases, their relationship to general and public health, fluoridation and other means found by research to control tooth decay, were discussed during last Wednesday's meeting of the Brownsburg Home and School Association, where the guest speaker of the subjects concerned was Dr. C. Aberdeen McCabe, D.D.S., L.D.S., F.I.C.D., D.D.P.H., who represents the Dental Hygiene League of the Province of Quebec in Argenteuil County.

Attendance was favorable at the meeting despite competition from other community events and swelling the ranks were members of the Brownsburg and Lachute municipal councils, invited to hear the address.

The business part of the meeting was wholly taken up by plans for the forthcoming Book Fair. The Fair will take place on Friday evening, April 12 and Saturday afternoon, April 13. Mr. King Amos, the school principal will head a committee of teachers in selecting the books (about 500) to be made available. These books will be set up in grade ranges to help parents find the books most suitable for their children.

Dr. McCabe was introduced by Association president Alfred Gervais and opened his talk with the information that "Dental decay amongst Maysville, Ky., children has been reduced up to 87.4 per cent in the last five years by combining fluoridation with a nutritional and oral cleanliness program." He added that dental decay has four causative factors, namely, bacteria contained in the mouth; sugars and starchy foods we eat; acids formed by the action of these bacteria on the food and last but not least, a weak enamel covering of the teeth.

"If we can totally eliminate any one of these four causative factors" said the speaker, "dental decay should no longer be a problem."

Oral cleanliness does eliminate some of the bacteria, but those remaining soon remultiply. It also eliminates remnants of food and dilutes the acid formed.

Proper nutrition is essential to dental health. "We cannot expect children to form sound and healthy bodies and strong teeth if the materials needed for this purpose are lacking" said the speaker. "Babies' teeth begin to form and calcify about six months before birth and when a child is born though none of them are yet visible in his mouth, almost all twenty crowns of his foundation teeth are partially or fully formed inside his jaw bones". During these prenatal months if the mother lacks any essential food element, including fluorine, so will her baby and his teeth. Too many children are reared on diets which lack body and tooth building foods and contain excessive amounts of refined sugars and starches said Dr. McCabe.

"Even if we eat the proper variety and quantity of food during the period of tooth development," Dr. McCabe said, "if it does not contain the right amount of essential nutritional elements, including fluorine, it will produce a weak enamel covering of the tooth, the most important of the four causative factors of tooth decay, and fluoridation as an improvement of nutrition thus becomes an essential Dental Public Health measure in many regions."

Fluorine as an essential nutritional element exists in milk, various meats, fish, cereal, vegetables, fruits, beverages, etc. The fluorine content of food is frequently insufficient because the fluorine content of food is not only derived from the soil from which it was produced but also from the water used in the preparation of food.

"It has been scientifically proven that when the water supply contains the optimum amount of one part fluorine for every million parts of water, the incidence of dental caries is reduced.

Forty communities in Ontario have one part per million or more of fluorine from natural sources in their water supply, but when this water mixes with that of other rivers to form lake Ontario it becomes diluted and contains only one tenth of the concentration required to prevent tooth decay. On its way to Montreal lake Ontario's water picks up a certain quantity of fluorine from the rocks and soil over which it flows, but an insufficient quality, for Montreal's water has

Former Lachute Resident Leaves "Home" Legacy

It is pleasing to note that among the bequests left by the late Thomas Miller, of Lachute, one was for $3,450 for the Meurling Refuge, Montreal, which takes care of unfortunate men who are down on their luck, giving them lodging and food.

Fish and Game Association Revived Members Name Nominating Committee

The Fish and Game Protective Association of Argenteuil is back in business, following last Thursday's meeting when some 150 persons attended a session in the Lachute Legion Hall, 80 of whom took out memberships in the re-organized association.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor Léopold Carrière, who kindly consented to act as chairman, and who briefly outlined the aims and objects of the association, and explained the purpose of the meeting, which was to revive the former association, inactive for a number of years.

After the presentation of an excellent fishing film, the chairman introduced the guest speaker, Les Morrow, of the Public Relations Department of Molson's Brewery. Mr. Morrow is also a director of the Montreal Anglers Association, which was instrumental in organizing the original Fish and Game Protective Association in Argenteuil.

Mr. Morrow spoke informally on some of the problems of similar organizations, and made a number of valuable suggestions in connection with organization and financing the various activities to be undertaken.

Questions were invited from the audience, and those heard dealt mostly with the problem of posted property. It was pointed out that in a large number of instances the posting of property was brought about by the misbehaviour of a few individuals. Any solution to the problem is largely a matter of education.

Chairman Léopold Carrière then asked for a committee to be nominated to later present a slate of officers and directors for the coming year. The following members were appointed:

Leonard Bedard, Ed Cribb, Donald Todd, Fred Barker and Jacques Dupré.

The committee was asked to present a slate of eight names, to be announced at a general meeting in the near future. An additional four names are to be proposed from the floor at this meeting.

Large Attendance Hears Soprano In Final Concert

Christina Cardillo, lyric soprano, who has become so popular in America and Europe since making her professional debut with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, also captured the hearts of all fortunate enough to attend her recital at the High School on Wednesday in the last performance on the Community Concerts' schedule for this season.

Endowed with a wonderful voice, Miss Cardillo rendered a variety of melodies taken from the repertoires of different composers, including Mozart, Debussy, Delibes, Ghershwin, Lehmann and Rodgers. In her own special way, these selections were presented with ease in both French and English.

Particularly pleasing was an excerpt from Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" — so much so that a repeat was called for.

"Il pleure dans mon coeur", "Green", "Les Filles de Cadix" and "The Jewel Song", a scene from Faust, were all rendered with distinction.

Robert Abramson, the accompanist, following the intermission, played two pieces of his own composition, a tango and a ballet waltz.

Graceful and charming, Miss Cardillo was dressed in an attractive white evening gown, and with her exceptional talent and pleasing manner it is certain that she will go far in the field of music.

At the close of her concert, a number were invited by Dr. and Mrs. M. Papineau to meet the artists personally.

Ayers Employee's Service Recognized

Clement Tremblay, OBE, left, secretary-treasurer and a director of Ayers Limited, Lachute, receiving a scroll recognizing his "faithful and able service" to the Canadian Woollen & Knit Goods Manufacturing Association, of which he is a past president, at a special meeting of the association executive. Presentation was made by George H. Dobbie, president of Newlands & Co. Ltd., Galt, Ont., and president of the CW & KGMA.

Farmers Claimed Accident Prone

Toronto, Feb. 26 (CP) — Farmers are perhaps more accident-prone than urban residents, H. E. Wright, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, said yesterday.

He told the Ontario Plowmen's Association farmers have a great many opportunities to kill or maim themselves.

Mr. Wright said a check in one county showed a total of 180 accidents among farmers in a year. They ranged from minor injuries to fatalities, and involved property losses of about $90,000.

He cited some of the more common causes of farm accidents.

Loose coats were a hazard when worn around power equipment.

Flipping belts free while machinery is in operation is another peril. Driving a tractor near the edge of a stream or ravine was dangerous. Improper hitches caused tractors to tip over backwards.

Fire hazard in farm buildings were also listed.

Local Storage Facilities For Salvation Army Clothing and Furniture

Mr. Geo. Y. Deacon, with new warehouse space available, has offered room for the storage of clothing and furniture which will periodically be shipped to the Salvation Army Headquarters for distribution to needy families.

An appeal is therefore being made to the public for any unwanted articles. These may be left at Geo. Y. Deacon's store, Lachute Mills, or will be called for, if necessary.

Local Industrialist Expresses Views In Chamber of Commerce Revival Plan

Gilbert E. Ayers Clarifies Position With Regard to New Industries

By Gabriel Valois

"I am strongly in favor of the Chamber of Commerce being reorganized here in Lachute, and I am of the same opinion as those who are so convinced. Nothing is stronger nor more useful than an outstanding group of businessmen banded together, actively backing the progress of their locality. That which they achieve is priceless as it is impossible to evaluate the results. It is really priceless because the results are so great," stated Gilbert E. Ayers, Lachute's industrialist and businessman when questioned on his opinion of the revival of activities of the Lachute Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Ayers recollected that this organization was once very enthusiastic and that he had been interested and aware of its activities. Said Mr. Ayers "I was very pleased to welcome its members on two occasions, once when they visited Ayers Limited and the other when they visited Dominion Shuttle Co. Ltd." He also reminisced that the local Chamber of Commerce was instigator in holding an important golf tournament at the Golf Club, an accomplishment which is well remembered.

"I believe that along with these men, who gratuitously give themselves, there should be an extra-special person in the group. I suggest that this person should act as an "Industrial commissioner" who should be called the 'Secretary'. His clearly defined work would be remunerated and we could therefore expect definite results and certain progressive realizations. This man would be part of the executive committee and be its leader. The 'secretary' would himself do his field work and be helped by an assistant secretary. There lies the secret of success. The 'secretary' in an efficient manner conceives, with the executive, an over-all picture of the work to be done, prepares the ground work, explains his plans, gives his ideas and organizes the members to execute the project. In addition he would prepare reports, make corrections as required, etc."

Mr. Ayers compared the role of the suggested 'secretary' to that of the Queen Bee with the exception that this 'Queen' would also take an active part in the affairs, and when questioned as to the executive committee's responsibility to the 'secretary', replied. "Yes, entirely. He would be the heart of the Chamber but the final authority would rest with the president."

"He would be strictly at the service of the community, 365 days per year and it need not be emphasized that he will be well paid."

"I, myself, am opposed to publicity done by means of a mailing list, because this money is more or less wasted," said Mr. Ayers. "I am in a position to know that all heads of industries receive so much such advertising material that they do not even have time to look at it, much less read it, and it is inevitably doomed to the waste basket. I would add, that any material the Chamber would propose distributing, that it be given by the secretary in the course of a personal visit to the person concerned."

When questioned as to "statements of past actions" with regard to his being opposed to the establishment of new industries in this locality, Mr. Ayers replied. "No, this is not true, insofar as I am concerned. I have never prevented anyone from coming to Greater Lachute to establish themselves, whether it be a textile industry or other. Moreover, I fail to see how I could prevent an industrial enterprise, which had decided on Lachute for the scene of its operations, in carrying out its plans. It is strictly their own business. Discourage them? Not in the least, they know the area much better than you think they do. On the contrary, I do believe that Lachute should concentrate its efforts on a well balanced industrial expansion. I assure you that you will find in me a collaborator and not a sabateur."

"Lachute can most assuredly invite important industries which could prosper as well as those which are presently growing, such as The Tower Company, Lachute Lumber, J. C. Wilson, Dominion Prime Wood and Ayers Ltd. All these companies have realized a vast expansion and equals approximately one new industry. Still in the field of progress and expansion, I would mention A. D. McGibbon's new sawmill, the new Giles Publishing plant, the new mill at Marelan which recruits part of its labor in Lachute, as well as the Canadian Safety Fuse at Brownsburg. It is safe to say that all industries here and in the surrounding area, big and small are prosperous and this in itself is an attraction to others of all sizes.

I am really happy for the continued success of the Carrière brothers of Lachute Lumber, the McGibbon brothers, Lucien St. Jacques, the Lamarche brothers of La Cremerie de Lachute, the Lowe brothers of Lowe Bros. Dairy, the L'Heureux brothers, the McOuat brothers of Farmers' Supply, the MacKimmie brothers and the Cheyrier brothers in the bottling business. All these confirm the fact that it is possible to succeed in Lachute. There are also others which are well established. I cannot understand why some say that I wish to control everything. I am not forbidden, as far as I know, to make investments as others do. To invest where I may succeed. There have been at the root of each of my interests, pertinent reasons for investment. The interest I have had in the game of golf for the past 25 years has urged me to develop a golf course in Lachute, which is uncommon and has an enviable reputation all across the country and especially in Eastern Canada. I have consistently interested myself in the footsteps of my father, to make it what it is today and let us hope that my future plans for it will be fully realized.

You are aware of the circumstances under which I acquired Arc Supply Limited, which company is composed of three partners and succeeded to a similar firm. In remaining in operation, this important business has maintained employment for many citizens of Lachute.

"It is still rumored that it was my wish to sabotage local businesses

Hawkesbury Shooting Remains Mystery Shotgun Wounds — No Robbery Evident

Hawkesbury—Mystery surrounds the shotgun wounding of Gerard Durand, 26, of Victoriaville, Que., in his car near here last Thursday night.

The young man was taken to Hawkesbury hospital under sedatives, and unable to give police an account of the incident at the time.

He was apparently driving near Chute-à-Blondeau, nine miles east of Hawkesbury, when shot. His wounds, in the left shoulder, are not considered serious.

Durand was discovered by Jacques Wilson, of Chute-à-Blondeau, who saw the injured man's car parked on the highway. Wilson carried him to his own car and rushed him to the Smith Clinic for emergency treatment. Durand was in a state of shock and unable to tell what had happened.

No gun nor bullets were found in the car, and so far police have found no trace of them.

Provincial Police Cpl. Ernest Renaud later stated no evidence has turned up that Durand was robbed. His wallet, money and papers were on his person, and there were no immediate indications anything was removed from the vehicle.

So far Durand has been able to tell only that he is self-employed as a carpenter, and single. Police hope his condition will improve sufficiently within a few days to explain the shooting.

in introducing a consumers' co-operative. La Ruche de Lachute was not formed with that in mind, far from it. It is well known that it was organized on the basis of petitions on the part of workers living in Lachute and consistent requests finally made it a reality.

"The Ayers family, does not have a reputation of being destructive, for it seems to me, that they have rather been builders and, believe me, they have not finished. I should be better understood by my fellow citizens or at least as much as by perfect strangers. The industries and businesses I head are of no benefit to strangers.

"I certainly feel that many people in Lachute want to progress and I am sure the Chamber of Commerce will help in the progress of Lachute, which will, in the next twenty years, witness marked prosperity due to the efforts of its best citizens. Without intimating prophecy this era of prosperity will be felt in our region and we will all be happy to realize that other advantages were also realized during that time. I cannot but reply favorably and encourage you to go ahead with this awakening program, it is each our duty to get into step with teamwork which always achieves success.

"Everyone in a community is in one way or another dependent on the other. If you believe that the Chamber of Commerce operates for the sole purpose of the store keepers on Main Street, your are mistaken; if you believe that these storekeepers should be part of a determined and serious body you are right. Teamwork will not be realized until manufacturers, storekeepers, businessmen and salaried employees unite to form this association which we all need."

In concluding, Mr. Ayers, added, "You must not expect tangible results at the end of the first year, you might be deceived, but do not lose faith in your work which will ultimately benefit the entire community. There are many factors which I have not, mentioned, but should the opportunity present itself it will be my pleasure to discuss them with you. I wish you good luck in your undertakings."

WALTER HENRY JACKSON

A "New Canadian" with an imperfect knowledge of English had at last saved enough money to buy a used car. It was his first car, so the salesman had to take extra time and trouble to explain its operation. "I have just had our mechanics go over the car, and you may depend on it. The crankcase has been filled with new oil, points, plugs, steering and brakes all checked. But remember, before starting on a trip, always check your oil. It is a good plan to test it every morning before starting a day's drive."

A few days later the customer drove back with the car. "That oil you put in the car was rotten," he told the salesman. "I think you must have had it in stock a long time."

"That's ridiculous!" said the salesman. "There's no such thing as "rotten" oil, and that in the car was quite fresh."

"That's what you say!" said the indignant foreigner. "I know different. You tell me every morning I should taste my oil. Well, I tasted it this morning, and PHOOEY! It tasted awful!"

And while we're on the subject of automotives, there's the tale of the wealthy owner of an English estate, during the Second World War and the subsequent gas rationing. He had the foresight to buy a 60 gallon drum of "petrol" (which is English for gasoline), but later learned that any hording of petrol would be punishable by a heavy fine or imprisonment. So he called in his Irish gardener and explained the situation to him.

"If I were found in possession of this petrol," he said, I might go to jail, and then you'd lose your job. Now here's what I want you to do. Dig up the geranium bed, dig up a deep hole, bury the petrol, refill the hole and replant the geraniums. Start now, but don't move the drum from the shed before dark in case a neighbor might pass by. Re-plant the flowers tomorrow morning. Then, later if the inspectors come to examine the premises, they will find nothing."

The following morning Pat reported to his master. "Well done, Pat," said the owner. "Geraniums all put back, eh? Here's a pound extra for your trouble. And you may take the rest of the day off. Remember, mum's the word. Don't mention this matter to anyone."

"Thankee kindly, Sir," said Pat. "You can depend on me to mention nary a word." As he reached the door he stopped.

"By the way, Sir," he continued. "What do you want me to do with the empty drum?"

Be seein' ya!

Buying some poultry? Then remember an eviscerated bird is one that has been drawn. It is ready to be stuffed after washing. A dressed bird usually has head, feet and viscera intact. Most poultry is now being sold eviscerated, or, in other words, drawn. (Consumer Section, Marketing Service, Canada Department of Agriculture).

From 1931 to 1951 the area of farmed land in Canada increased from 163 million acres to 174 million acres, the number of occupied farms decreased from 728,623 to 623,091, and the total farm population decreased from 3,289,140 to 2,911,996.

New 'Stop' Ruling

Quebec Approval Given Signal Lights Now Legalized With Hand Indications

A government bill legalizing the use of directional signal lights on motor vehicles was approved unanimously last week in the Legislative Council.

An amendment authorizing the use of luminous stop lights was introduced and approved by the Council. Under existing legislation, a motor vehicle operator has to indicate by hand his intention to slow down, or stop.

The new bill sponsored by Transport and Communications Minister Antoine Rivard states that mechanical and luminous signals as well as luminous stop lights must be of a type approved by the Deputy Minister of Transport and Communications.

In a brief interview, Mr. Rivard said that no decision had yet been taken on types of signals which will be approved.

He indicated, however, that most directional signal lights and stop lights on late-model cars would fall within the "approved" category. He said regulations to that effect would be released soon by the Transport and Communications Department.

Under the new legislation, all "old-fashioned" hand signals remain legal.

Another clause in the new bill, stating that parents or tutors must sign for minors who obtain drivers' permits, was amended by the Council. The amendment stipulates that the parent or tutor cannot be held responsible for damages caused by a minor if he has lent his vehicle to a third party.

Heavy Schedule For B'burg Scouts

This past week-end was a big one for Boy Scouts organizations all over the world. It marked the one-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Sir Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the now world-wide movement.

In Brownsburg, as in many other towns, church parades were held on Sunday in his honor. The Roman Catholics attended their own church in uniform under the command of Mr. Leslie Camus. The Protestant Boy Scouts paraded at the Anglican Church and the Baptist Church was the scene of the Wolf Cubs' and Brownies' parade.

On Saturday the Wolf Cubs played hockey against a pack from Montreal West, and defeated the city boys 3-2, thanks mainly to fine goal-tending by Norman Forbes and goal-getting by Pat Donvito and Robin Hazel. Pat scored two goals with one assist, and Robin had one of each. All the boys played well for the city team was strong and everyone had a hand in the victory.

After the game both teams ate a hearty meal at the Legion Hall where Mrs. Atkins' team scored for all concerned. She was assisted by Mrs. Wilburn, Mrs. Gervais, Mrs. Donaldson, Mrs. Devine, Mrs. Beacroft, Mrs. Villard, Mrs. Zimmer and Mrs. Rutherford.

Home and School Hears Address On Fluoridation

only one fifth of the concentration recommended.

Brownsburg, Lachute and many other communities in Argenteuil, Two Mountains and Terrebonne counties are also badly in need of fluoridation said, Dr. McCabe. "Thirty three per cent of two year-old babies have dental caries and over seventy per cent of four-year old children. Fluoridation is a necessity for these defenceless pre-school age children. The seven dentists of Argenteuil County are faced with the problem of filling 28,453 cavities in the mouths of school age children. Over 98% of the people some time or other throughout their life suffer from dental decay."

Fluoridation consists in the addition of a fluorine compound to the water supply. It costs from 6 to 12 cents per person annually or less than the cost of two fillings, about $7.00 for a whole lifetime. Seventy million dollars are spent in Canada annually because of dental caries. We know that fluoridation can reduce the incidence of dental decay by about two thirds. What are the civic authorities waiting for, asked Dr. McCabe. Public opinion?

If the city halls were flooded with demands, the taxpayers and their dependents would soon benefit from the economic and health advantages of fluoridation. "Fluoridation is a safe, effective and urgent public health measure. Ask your dentist about it. Ask your administrators for it" concluded the speaker.

Dr. McCabe was thanked by King Amos, Brownsburg High School principal.

Key Canadian Player Back With Edmonton

By Lorne Bruce
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ted Tully, a Canadian product who was a key factor in Edmonton Eskimos' three straight Grey Cup victories, has been signed for another season — and all his opponents will groan.

Tully, 27-year-old footballer developed in Vancouver, climaxed his seventh season with the Eskimos being named to the Western Interprovincial Football Union's all-star squad in 1956.

It was the second consecutive season he had been chosen an All-Star linebacker, and for the second year in a row he was one of the West's stars in the annual East-West Shrine game.

Despite his proficiency on the field Tully is a relatively unheralded player. But opposing players give him full credit.

John Wozniak, star linebacker for Saskatchewan Roughriders, says for instance. "They talk about Parker and Kwong and those other backfield guys as the reason for Edmonton's success, but the guy who makes the difference is Ted Tully. He's the best linebacker in the Western conference."

Sabourin Captures Buckingham Derby

Buckingham, Feb. 25 (Special) — Raymond Sabourin of Gatineau won the Carling-O'Keefe Trophy in the Buckingham Dog Derby held here over the week-end.

Sabourin travelled the 18-miles cross-country run in one hour, 35 minutes, and 50 seconds. Less than a minute behind him was Fernand Telmosse, also of Gatineau in a time of one hour, 36 minutes and 3 seconds.

Ernest Brunet was third, Andre Charron fourth and Leo Aubie was fifth.

Mayor Arthur Latour, of Buckingham presented prizes following the race.

Sabourin placed third in the Lachute Derby held in January when Brunet came in at the lead.

Education — Everybody's Business

THE 21ST ANNUAL observance of Canadian Education Week this year will be from March 3 to March 9 and, during that period, all ten provinces will focus the spotlight of publicity on our educational system.

As in the past, provincial and local committees, helped generously by newspapers, radio and television stations, community merchants, and many others, will help to interpret the work of the school and its role in the neighborhood and the life and future of the nation.

But this year there will be a difference. There will be far more urgency to these seven days than usual, because more widespread knowledge exists than ever before that education is a race with the unfolding times and that progress, expansion and national greatness have a common foundation — the effectiveness of our schools.

What's more, this is one year when the annual campaign, brought successfully to a boil by enthusiastic participants and 14 national sponsors, including the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, will not be allowed to cool off and be forgotten for another 12 months. This time, we are faced with the inescapable fact that there is a crisis in education and, as a nation, we must gear ourselves to cope with it.

What has turned this problem into a veritable crisis in such a short space of time?

Consider these factors alone: the challenge to our industrial progress presented by the shortage of engineers, scientists and technicians; the waste and neglect of abilities resulting from an incompleted education; the scarcity of qualified teachers, specially at the secondary level; the obvious need for the expansion of university plant and equipment, and the lack of money to attract good men and women to the profession of teaching and keep them in it, as compared with its availability for those who scorn it from the beginning as a low-pay career or desert it after a few years along the way.

Add to these the challenge over the horizon from Russian and Red China, where dictatorship has decreed top priority for belt-line production of new brains to steer their vast industrial potential, and you can realize that the crisis is not just so much small talk.

This crisis, like others that have emerged with mankind's growth, can be solved, but provision of a solution is not something that can be shucked off into the lap of a handful of legislators, teachers and industrialists. It must be faced by all Canadians and it must be faced on a continuing basis.

Education is everybody's business, not only from March 3 to March 9, but for the indefinite future.

Why So Shy?

WHAT LIES BEHIND the marked reluctance of so many of our successful men to express themselves in public?

Can it be that for all their success in industry or commerce they have an inferiority complex when it comes to public speaking? In a word, is it fear which seals their lips, causing many a bright light to be concealed beneath the bushel of self-effacement?

Do they fear that on a public platform facing a sea of expectant faces they will suddenly be rendered inarticulate? But this is a bogey which has been met and conquered by countless men down through the centuries! It can best be overcome by practice which, if it doesn't necessarily make perfect, does at least improve all but the worst of speakers. And anyway, just how many silver-tongued orators can we boast today?

Or is the deterrent to a more adventurous approach the fear that they will open their mouth only to put their foot in it, thus inviting ridicule? Surely not. These days, the man performing this anatomical feat is much more likely to be acclaimed as a wit. There are even people who seem to make a very good living out of being ridiculous — and they are not all professional comedians.

More probable than either of these, perhaps, is concern lest the public utterance prove controversial and land the speaker well and truly in the cart with someone or other. This is the most unworthy excuse of all. Carried to its logical conclusion it would mean the end of all public discussion and debate.

Controversy may be less fashionable than it used to be but it is still, let us fervently hope, eminently respectable for men to differ — even widely — in their opinions. Heaven forbid that we will even prefer the unanimity which characterizes a graveyard!

The representatives of management in particular should take their responsibilities in this regard very seriously. It ought not to be left to a handful of front-rank speakers to carry the ball. We need the competition of ideas and opinions quite as much as the competition of products.

Let them not forget also that misconceptions, distortions and errors of fact will all flourish in the absence of contradiction, with the result that management's cast is lost by default.

Nor will it do to invoke natural modesty in defence of reticence. When the professional organizations, the service clubs and other social groups seek speakers they should encounter eager beavers and not modest violets. Modesty can be overdone. It ceases to be a virtue altogether the instant it is recognized as such.

Artful Birds

THAT WAS disturbing news from Newfoundland the other day about a budgie that has learned to chirp the station breaks at a St. John's radio station.

Budgies are all right in their place, as family pets, but give them an inch and they'll take a mile. If too many of them find out they can do the job of people, there's no knowing what may happen.

The word might even get around to parrots!

Budgies, whose popularity has grown tremendously in recent years — probably because urban growth makes it increasingly difficult to keep cats and dogs — usually take over any household within a few weeks.

We've known housewives who've left dishes unwashed, beds unmade while they sat for hours before a cage talking baby talk to a mite of a bird.

We've heard of other houses where the husband was left standing outside in the cold because the budgie was loose in the living room and might fly out an open door.

One happy home almost broke up last summer because the wife insisted on buying screens for all the windows, to prevent the bird from flying out into the blue.

Children, bless 'em, love budgies, especially when they swoop down over the breakfast table and take a bath in the tads' milk. If they do this often enough, the youngsters don't have to drink the milk.

One budgie of our acquaintance delighted in porridge, until the morning he fell into the plate on which corn syrup instead of sugar had been used for sweetening. He didn't fly again for three days and was almost naked by the time he completed cleaning off the stuck-together feathers.

Guests from non-budgie homes are always favorite targets for these wily birds. Friendships of long standing have been shattered because a budgie settled on a visitor's shoulder and tugged an ear.

So beware, those of you who would give budgies men's jobs. Automation is bad enough without bringing birds into it.

Say, wonder if we can teach Pete to answer the phone!

THEN THE LIGHTS WENT OUT

"Wake up, dear! The power's off and there's no heat!"

"A Brace of Crooks"

Can you bear with two more tales among the clergy? These are high-level stories, inasmuch as the first deals with a bishop, and the second touches upon no less a personage than an Archbishop. Both have much to do with the subject of crooks. And, last but not least, the first came to me many years ago by way of my father; the second reached me only the other day, from someone close to its source.

Long years ago, when my father was a virile cleric, he had in his congregation one Tobias Langtree, Dugubrious as a bloodhound. Tobias played his part in church affairs by acting as people's warden for the parish. As such, he paid great attention to the many duties of his office. And he was always Johnny-on-the-spot whenever something special turned up.

One such occasion was the annual visit of the bishop. It goes without saying that Langtree was chock full of hustle and bustle. His chief concern was the question of robing space for the head of the diocese. Unfortunately, the little church didn't sport a proper vestry; it had only two curtained-off spaces at the rear of the building. On normal occasions, the choir used one and the rector occupied the other. But with the bishop around, what was to be done?

"Don't get excited," my father advised the warden, "everything will be all right. The bishop can use my part of the space, and I'll bunk in with the choir."

Thus reassured, Langtree disappeared to supervise other preparations. Later, however, while the bishop was robing, Tobias suddenly remembered that His Lordship had brought his pastoral staff with him for the service.

"Great day in the morning!" Langtree mumbled. "The crook!"

So saying, he headed for the cubicle and, shoving his head through the curtains, let out a bellow that could be heard from one end of the church to the other.

"Who," he demanded, "is going to carry the holy poker?"

There was a moment of bemused silence broken finally by the bishop's head thrusting through the opposite end of the cubicle.

"Mr. Langtree," the bishop said cheerily, "I wonder if you would carry the holy poker?"

The affair of the archbishop took place at one of Canada's leading Anglican theological colleges. The metropolitan and his wife had been paying a visit to the training centre and the incident in question took place as the episcopal party was on the point of leaving. As the college faculty gathered about to bid the couple farewell, the prelate's wife seated herself in the car. This accomplished, she realized that her husband was not with her.

"Where's the archbishop?" she demanded.

"I don't know," replied the Dean of Divinity. "I thought he was here."

"Well, he isn't. Please go and see if you can find him."

So the dean set out in quest of the archbishop. He was just about to enter the library when he caught sight of the episcopal form disappearing into the bedroom at the other end of the hall.

"Your Grace," the dean called out, "the car is here and is waiting for you at the door."

"All right, I'm coming," His Grace replied from the bedroom. "I'm just looking for my battle-axe!"

"Look no farther, Your Grace," the dean replied, "she's in the car waiting for you."

"She isn't, you know," the old man beamed as he emerged from the bedroom carrying his pastoral staff. "I've got her right here."

Then, as the dean strove to cover his confusion, His Grace added:

"I expect you must mean the other one!"

OF MANY THINGS

By Ambrose Hills

Get Busy!

If you want to be happy, get busy.

I wish that in school, along with reading, writing and arithmetic, they would teach us that a soft life is a poor one, while a busy life is happy. Those who loaf their way through life have very little fun.

Bob Burdette once told his son about this truth. He put is very clearly. He said, "Son, remember you have to work. Whether you handle pick or wheel-barrow or a set of books, digging ditches or editing a newspaper, ringing an auction bell or writing funny things, you must work. So take off your coat and make dust in the world. The busier you are, the less harm you are apt to get into, the sweeter will be your sleep, the brighter your holidays, and the better satisfied the whole world will be with you."

I tried to tell that same story to a young fellow I know. He came to the city from a small town and I recommended him for a job. It is not too good a job, but it is a start. I had remembered, from my boyhood, that small-town youngsters were usually ready to work like beavers to get a start. I thought this lad would be the same. But times have changed.

The boy calls in to see me from time to time. He has many complaints against the company, although he has had one promotion and two small wage increases within six months. However, there is a terrific amount of hard work to be done and many of his fellow-employees are unhappy.

"Do they work you overtime?" I asked, and he said, "Well, not often . . . and they pay for overtime."

"Then what's your beef? What do you care if the work is hard, when you're off at five-thirty anyhow? And you seem to be gaining weight and you're looking well enough. What's really wrong?"

His complaints didn't amount to a row of beans — except that he was expected to work.

I told this boy that in my opinion he could be a star employee in no time by tearing into the work at hand and doing it as fast or faster than it had been done before. He would then have security of employment and first chance at a better job. But I saw no answering light of enthusiasm in his eyes.

I'm fond of this boy, and of his hard-working parents. I don't blame either boy or parents too much. I blame the whole cockeyed atmosphere of "do as little as you can for as much as you can get" that seems to prevail today.

I'd say a good deal more on this subject, but it's 5.30 now and I musn't be a scab and keep on working.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Behind the window of a rickety farm house, a little boy waves to a passing train. The house is away in the bush, snow-covered, gloomy and forlorn, its paint faded to a tired grey. There is only one face at the window, as if the boy lived there by himself.

The hand goes up in a cheerful salute. The train must be a big thing in the boy's world.

There are paths stamped through the snow around the house, wood stacked in a shed, and a faint plume of smoke at the chimney. The house is set a little distance back from the line.

The train moves slowly past that house. Some of the people in the warm, air-conditioned carriage are reading books, or lighting cigarettes, or drowsing in their padded chairs. A few of them stare idly at the frozen landscape, but nobody seems to be paying any attention to the hand still hopefully lifted at the window.

A sleepy watcher in the train comes to life. He had regarded the boy as part of the scenery. Now he suddenly remembers that the boy is a human being offering a minor gesture of friendship. He lifts his hand and waves strenuously in return.

But the car has already glided past the line of direct vision from that window. The boy has stopped waving. He continues to stare at the train.

"I wonder if the engineer waved — or anybody else," the man says to himself.

As the train rolls on, gathering speed through the falling snow on its way to a far-off city, the watcher is haunted by that face at the window. And he thinks about all the people who wave to others, isolated from them, by panes of glass and an expanse of snow, looking to receive a sign of friendly recognition; and those who try to wave back, but postpone the reply until it is too late.

A Lesson to Ponder

The lesson Canadian farmers should learn from the Gordon report is that, in allowing their industry to become dependent on the state, they are putting their money on the wrong horse.

All experience teaches that the influence of any group with the government is limited by the number of votes it can deliver at the polls; and the report forecasts that, by 1980, the farm vote in Canada will be only seven or eight percent of the labor vote.

Carillon,

To the Editor,
Lachute Watchman.

Dear Sir:

Your correspondent to The Watchman of February 7th was evidently misinformed. I note Mrs. Hungerbuhler spoke of Acasia Cottage as having been built by her husband. I came to Carillon sixty-two years ago and Acasia Cottage was not a new building and at that time, was occupied by an engineer named Mr. Gaherty and his family.

The Brothers of the Holy Cross, now owners of Bellevue, have done much to improve the house, building addition; also having beautiful flowers in their gardens. I think everyone in Carillon is glad to think of them as owners who will beautify it, cleaning up the land and bringing it again up to the standard of the past, as mentioned by C. Thomas in his history of Argenteuil.

Thanking you, I remain,

Sincerely,
— Nancy Smart

Chamber of Commerce Is Needed for New Accomplishments

Our friend and fellow-citizen, Gabriel Valois asked the following question, which served at the same time as a very interesting article and appeared in a recent issue of the Watchman, "Can the Chamber of Commerce be Revived"? I reply that for the good and for the progress of our town, the Chamber of Commerce must be revived. Gabriel Valois' action in expressing his thoughts in a manner which is positive and constructive, has caused two main effects: The first effect is that of having the officers, who since its inauguration devoted themselves one after another for the Chamber of Commerce of Lachute, feel they have not done so in vain.

All those devoting themselves to a civic cause whether of the municipal, school, church or commercial field wonder if their efforts are worthwhile and appreciated by those to whom they are directed or should they devote themselves solely to their family and their own personal business. Generally, we fear to express our appreciation to those who give freely of themselves to society although, we are always more or less ready to point out criticisms.

In underlining the important role which the Chamber of Commerce has played, and giving credit to those who have directed its affairs, "Gaby" has answered a question which was in the minds of everyone: "Was this worthwhile?"

The second effect of this article has been to bring out the important efficient points which the Chamber of Commerce could have realized in recent developments and those which will happen in the near future.

The ultra-modern landing strip which Ayers Limited has built.

Our golf course which will soon have 36 holes and which already enjoys international popularity.

The construction of a motel.

The gigantic project of the Lions Club of a recreation centre with an arena.

To this we could add the Notre Dame de Lourdes Grotto which each year attracts greater numbers of pilgrims.

Our annual Spring Fair which will need improvements.

The possibility of extending town limits.

The urgent need of the new hospital.

The improvements to our water works.

The possible construction of a Trades and Arts School.

The continuation and if possible, the completion of Route 31.

The establishment of at least one new industry in our locality.

Our Chamber of Commerce, re-organized and operated with enthusiasm and efficiency would greatly help the accomplishment of the above projects and the continuation of present realizations.

In deploring this static state of our Chamber of Commerce, we do not wish to blame its directors, past or present, for we know that they have not neglected any effort to maintain its full activity. The ones responsible, are each of us who have believed that a Chamber or Commerce could settle our problems instead of looking for an organization that could promote industry, both commercial and civic in our region.

The opportunity that Gaby Valois has given us to indicate the importance of an active Chamber of Commerce in our town and the invitation which the Watchman extends to us to use its pages to express our various viewpoints should bring excellent results. It is hoped that those who interest themselves in this project and see in it a means to obtain the results, will not hesitate to express their opinion at an early date.

The Chamber of Commerce must be revived and without a doubt the apathy which has ruled lately will be replaced by an era of enthusiasm and incentive. It is also hoped that we will find in our city, new men courageous enough to accept responsible positions without having recourse to those who have already done their part.

The past Presidents would, without a doubt, be happy to be part of a re-organization committee provided that the professionals, industrialists and business men show their interest in the management.

If the re-organization of the Chamber of Commerce interests you, take your pencil and paper and do not hesitate to express your opinions and have your suggestions considered.

The needs are numerous and the means are at our disposal. Will we use them?

LAST CALL for the PURINA FARM TOUR

To go you will have to move fast, for the tour leaves Montreal on Saturday morning, March 2nd. If you move fast it will move you faster for you will sleep in Detroit Saturday night and in St. Louis Sunday night.

You'll meet the cream of the country during these two days, and Monday and Tuesday will be packed with the best information available on live stock and poultry, with some fun thrown in for good measure.

Tuesday night you will sleep in Chicago, where you can see the sights and you arrive home Thursday.

What a trip and what a price; only $121.90 to cover all expenses. There will likely be another tour next March, but better be sure and make it this year. We may all be pushing up daisies before the next trip.

Act now and you'll never regret it.

IN MEMORIAM

BARLEY — In loving memory of a dear sister, Laura, who passed away February 26, 1953. — Ever remembered by Jennie and May.

"As we loved you, so we miss you,
In our memory you are dear,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Every day throughout the year."

CLELAND — In loving memory of my dear wife, Tena, who passed away Feb. 29, 1956. — Sadly missed by her husband, Henry.

"God took her home, it was His will,
But in my heart, I love her still.
Her memory is as dear today,
As in the hour she passed away.
I often sit and think of her,
When I am all alone,
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own."

CLELAND — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Henry Cleland, who passed away Feb. 29, 1956. — Sadly missed by Ross and Christie.

"They say time heals all sorrow,
And helps one to forget,
But time so far has only proved
How much we miss you yet.
God gave us strength to fight it,
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it meant to lose you,
No one will ever know."

CLELAND — In loving memory of our dear grandmother, who passed away Feb. 29, 1956. — Sadly missed by her grand-children, Bryant, Mervin, Helen and Linda.

"Father in Heaven, hear our prayer,
Guard our dear grandma, with tender care.
Dear good Shepherd, don't leave her alone,
Love her as we did, when she was at home."

CLELAND — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Henry Cleland, who passed away Feb. 29, 1956. — Always remembered by Dorothy, Arthur and family.

"Deep in our hearts you will always stay,
Loved and remembered every day."

CLELAND — In loving memory of our dear grandmother, who passed away Feb. 29, 1956. — Always remembered by her grandsons, Angus, Ross and John.

"No one heard the footsteps
of the Angels drawing near,
Who took from us to Heaven,
the one we loved so dear."

TOMALTY — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Robert Tomalty, who passed away March 3, 1956. Inserted by Mr. and Mrs. Nelson B. Jones and family.

"There is a place of quiet rest
Near to the heart of God,
A place where sin cannot molest
Near to the heart of God,
There is a place of comfort sweet
Near to the heart of God,
A place where we our Saviour meet
Near to the heart of God."

TOMALTY — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Robert Tomalty, who passed away March 3, 1956. Ever remembered by Alma, George, Robert and Inez.

"God saw you getting weary,
He did what He thought best,
He put His arms around you,
And whispered, "Come and rest."

TOMALTY — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, who passed away March 3, 1956. — Ever remembered by Mina, grandchildren Norma, Alvin and Rose.

"Asleep in God's beautiful garden,
Away from all sorrows and pain
Some day when life's journey is ended
We will be together again."

TOMALTY — In loving memory of a dear mother, who passed away March 3, 1956. — Always remembered by Gertie, Willie and family.

"In that home not made by hands
The Master will prepare
A place for all and when He calls
We'll met our loved one there."

TOMALTY — In loving memory of a dear foster-mother, who passed away March 3, 1956. — Always loved and remembered by Edith.

"A mother who gave me the best of her life
Who cherished my secret, my sorrows,
my strife,
Who taught me to love and taught me to pray
Dear mom, up in heaven, I'll meet you some day."

The Bates' children spent a few days last week with their grandmother, Mrs. George Poulter.

Sympathy is extended to the relatives of Walter MacVicar, of Niagara, who passed away on Monday. Mr. MacVicar was in his 82nd year. Also to the friends and relatives of Mr. Jack MacRae, of Kilmar, who recently passed away at his home, in his 71st year.

Northern Grenville

Mrs. Al Comba, of Lachute, visited her sister, Mrs. C. Cooke recently.

Miss Marjorie Arthurs, of Calumet, spent a couple of days with Miss Valerie Cooke last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thomas were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cooke.

Mr. and Mrs. Polidor Malette, of Lachute, visited their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. A. Dinnelle, over the week-end.

Mrs. Austin Rourke spent Tuesday with Mrs. Ed Matthew.

Miss Eunice McMickle spent the holiday at her home.

Mrs. Farrara has returned to Ottawa after spending a short time with her family.

Mrs. Thos. Trineer, of Niagara Falls, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Trineer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Heatlie, of Ogdensburg, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Bennett on Sunday.

Mr. Walter Murray visited Mr. Dick Hoare on Sunday.

Miss Adeline Bradshaw, of Ottawa, recently visited Mr. and Mrs. L. Champagne, also Mr. and Mrs. Russell Owens.

A number of children from Grenville Consolidated School, also some of the parents, attended the fair at Macdonald College last Tuesday.

The sincere sympathy of friends in this community is extended to the wife, family, relatives and friends of the late Mr. John M. MacRae, who passed away recently, after a lengthy illness.

Lifelong Resident Passes In Harrington

Late John Malcolm MacRae

Mr. John Malcolm MacRae, a lifelong resident of this district, passed away at his residence in Harrington on February 21 in his 71st year.

Born August 14, 1886, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Neil MacRae, also of Harrington.

Mr. MacRae leaves to mourn his loss his wife, the former Edith Young, of Avoca, six sons, Garnet, Douglas and Lyle, of Montreal, Eldred, of Kilmar, Earl, of Marelan, and Harold, of Thurso, also four daughters, Ella (Mrs. John Provencal), Verna (Mrs. John Arthurs), Priscilla (Mrs. Thos. Crooks), all of Harrington and Alma (Mrs. Alex Arthurs) of Bell Falls. As well as forty-one grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral service was held from his late residence on Sunday afternoon, February 24th, being conducted by Mr. Horace Cullwick. Interment was in the Harrington Cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Isaac, Robert and Harry Young, Robert and Arthur MacRae and Garnet MacIntyre.

Lt.-Col. William Hugh Owen CBE, died Thursday at the Veteran's Hospital, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, after a lengthy illness. Funeral service was private.

Born in Holyhead, North Wales he served with the Royal Engineers from 1914-1920. He received the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in 1918.

Lt.-Col. Owen lived in Montreal for many years, moving to St. Andrews East, four years ago. He was a governor of the Montreal General Hospital and the Montreal Children's Hospital, and a member of the Mount Royal Club.

He is survived by his wife, the former Enid Hendrie, of St. Andrews East; and three daughters Mrs. F. O. Frederick (Dilys), of Montreal, Mrs. G. A. Pouport (Daphne), of Ottawa, and Mrs. R. P. Jackson (Damaris), of Victoria B.C.

Elderly Lachute Resident Dies In Huntingdon

Late Mrs. Wm. MacGeorge

The death of Mrs. William MacGeorge, widow of the late William MacGeorge, occurred at the Patterson Nursing Home, Huntingdon, on Sunday, February 24, after a brief illness.

Mrs. MacGeorge, the former Mary Jane Gaudin, was born in Cape Cove, Gaspé. She came to Montreal as a young girl, where she married and in 1925 they moved to Lachute, where she lived until a month ago.

Her husband predeceased her in 1946 and daughter Marjorie in 1951.

Service was held from the MacKimmie Funeral Home on February 26, conducted by the Rev. G. T. Spriggs. Interment at Lachute Cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Gerald Hammond, Howard Dixon, James Girling, Grant Kennedy, Foster Campbell and Merlyn Evans.

WOODSMAN AT 82 DEAN OF GUIDES

Halifax (CP)—When Nova Scotia's hunting guides want to settle an argument on any point they usually go to 82-year-old James Macleod of Molega Lake.

Big Jim, a sturdy man who has hunted the back timber most of his life and attended about 30 fish and game association meets here, is regarded as a guide's guide.

He likes to show a snapshot in which a bear is apparently going to maul him.

"It was this way," laughs Big Jim. "I was taking this sportsman on a deer trip and we found a bear den. I stuck in a stick and gradually the drowsy animal staggered into the open.

"He reared to his hind legs a few feet away and was beginning to get mad. That's when the fellow took the picture. Then he ran.

"I stuck a revolver into the bear's ear and fired. Now the sportsman has a bear rug and I have my son-in-law."

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Brownsburg United Ladies Attend Presbytery Meeting

Four members from each of the senior and junior Brownsburg United Church W.A.'s attended the Woman's Association of the United Church of Canada, Montreal Presbytery Meeting, which was held in Queen Mary Road Church last Friday, February 22.

A "skit" by Beaurepaire United Church W.A. was given, and in the afternoon Mrs. Kinsman, President of the Dominion Council of W.A., gave a most interesting address.

A period of "Questions and Answers" was most beneficial to all.

The motto of the meeting was "It is not what you have that matters — but what you do with what you have."

Ministerial Association Plans Monday Meeting

The Argenteuil Protestant Ministerial Association will meet in the Maple Avenue Baptist Church Brownsburg next Monday, March 4, at 10 a.m.

Rev. R. Unger will give the Devotional address.

Ministers of the County are urged to attend.

Scout and Guide Groups Attend Local Service For Scouting Anniversary

The Lachute Presbyterian Church was filled to capacity on Sunday morning last for the annual Parade and Service of the local Boy Scout and Girl Guide Organizations. About 80 members and leaders of the four groups, Guides, Scouts, Brownies and Cubs assembled in the church hall, and afterwards paraded into the church, bearing their colors, which were received by the Rev. J. Armour, B.A., minister of the church.

This year, 1957, marks the 100th anniversary of the birth of the founder of the movement, Lord Baden-Powell, and the 50th anniversary of the first Boy Scout Camp. During the service Mr. Armour made reference to these events, congratulating the scouts on their attainment of this important landmark, and wishing them success in their future activities.

The praise at the service was led by the Junior and Senior choirs. Mrs. W. Cottingham presided at the organ. The Junior choir rendered an anthem. The Scripture Readings were taken by Miss Barbara Hay and Mr. Gordon Higginson.

The Rev. Mr. Armour gave an address dealing with the "Supreme Need of Youth Today," and the service came to an end with the singing of the National Anthem.

"Home on the Tundra" Features Former Citizen

Those of us who may have believed the Arctic to be a land only of ice and snow, will soon be given an opportunity to see it also as a land of magnificent colors and glorious sunsets.

Mrs. Russell Beckett, now of Churchill, Manitoba, is known by some residents of Lachute as Eva Bradford. She is a former pupil of Lachute High School, a graduate of Macdonald College, and a former school teacher in these parts. In recent years she has made a hobby of the study of plant and bird life of the Arctic Tundra.

Not only is she an expert on making collections of plant life for universities and museums, but her articles on history and tundra vegetation have appeared in both the National and the Canadian Geographic magazines.

Details of the illustrated talk which Eva Beckett will be giving next week, will be found elsewhere in this paper, under the title, 'Home on the Tundra".

Baptist Young People Attend United Service In Morin Heights

At Trinity Anglican Church on Sunday morning a large group of Baptist young people from Montreal participated in the service, with their leaders, including the Rev. Edgar G. Bailey, Minister of Westmount Baptist Church.

The Rector, the Rev. H. G. Baugh, welcomed the group, and wished them every good fortune in their endeavours on behalf of the church. Evangelical hymns with Mr. Carl Elder as organist made for a most inspiring service.

At the Church of Saint Francis in St. Sauveur, many Girl Guides and Scouts attended the Skiers Service on Baden-Powell Sunday. The crowded church gave evidence of the wish of many skiers to join in Sunday worship.

On Tuesday evening the Rev. H. G. Baugh attended the annual banquet held by the Saint James Literary Society at the Queen's Hotel in Montreal, at which the guest speaker was the Honorable Vincent Massey, Governor-General of Canada.

Weekly Skiers Service On St. Jerome Station

Radio Station CKJL is now providing an early Sunday morning program to its listeners from 8.45 to 9 a.m., of a religious nature, directed by the Rev. H. G. Baugh.

This Sunday, the program will begin with an interview between Laurentian skiers, Beverley Bell and Shirley Millard, followed by the religious message. Rev. Mr. Baugh will welcome suggestions as to material to be used in the broadcasts.

Induct Bilingual United Church Minister at Thurso

Thurso, Feb. 18 (Special) — Rev. H. M. Rae, Ottawa Presbytery president, conducted the induction service of Rev. Maurice Nerny held in the United Church here Thursday. Mr. Nerny was inducted as minister of the congregations of Thurso, Gore and Lochaber, the first bilingual pastoral charge of the United Church in this area.

Rev. H. G. Lester, of Shawville, Que., delivered the charge to the minister and congregation in French and English. Former minister and supervising pastor Rev. Carson W. Duquette narrated the steps leading to the call. Rev. Terve Fines, Namur, preached the sermon. Also participating was the Rev. R. A. Gregoire, Buckingham, former minister of St. Marc's United Church, Ottawa.

Following the service refreshments were served by the Women's Association, under Mrs. Herbert Purdy, president.

Community Concert Soloist Entertained

Following the Community Concert given on Wednesday evening last by Miss Christina Cardillo, Dr. and Mrs. Marc Papineau were hosts at a reception in her honor. Also present were her accompanist, Mr. Robert Abramson, Mayor and Mrs. Léopold Carrière, Notary and Mrs. Simon Valois, Notary and Mrs. Richard Valois, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Steeves, Mr. and Mrs. Donat Saulnier, Miss Juliette Rodrigue, Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Bédard, Mr. Fernand Berthiaume, Notary and Mrs. Jacques Beaudoin, Dr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Turcotte, Mrs. T. D. Titman, Mrs. W. M. Cottingham, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hlibchuk, Mrs. Edouard Papineau, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Beaulieu, Miss Luce Papineau and Mrs. Angus Taylor.

Engagement

The engagement is announced of Phyllis MacDougall, R.N., daughter of Mrs. Marian MacDougall, of Lachute, and Mr. Kenneth MacDougall, of Vancouver, B.C., to Kenneth Graydon, B.S.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graydon, of Western Ontario.

Miss MacDougall is a graduate in nursing of Queen Elizabeth Hospital, Montreal; Mr. Graydon is a graduate of Ontario Agriculture College, Guelph, Ont.

The marriage to take place on June 8 at Lachute United Church.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rendell, of Montreal, announce the engagement of their daughter Joyce Elizabeth, to Mr. K. Ian MacDougall, son of Mrs. Marian MacDougall, Lachute, and Mr. Kenneth MacDougall, of Vancouver, B.C.

Over the Years with THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

February 24, 1882 —

A Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children has been formed in Montreal, as a result of the recent exposures in connection with charitable and educational institutions.

The Census ten years ago gave the population of Lachute as 600 souls, now there are 2,013. The County of Argenteuil ten years ago had a population of 12,806, now it has 16,062. These figures show an encouraging increase notwithstanding the croakings of those people who believe the population is leaving us for the United States. Lachute would be called a city if it were the North West, but it will not be a great many years before Lachute will be called a city here. It is now a town of no mean proportions. The population of St. Andrews is set down at 2,387.

Mr. Hickson, who ran the late Argenteuil Advertiser, was here last week, and has gone to start a paper in Manitoba.

A fatal accident occurred on Tuesday on the Grenville Canal works, by which a man named Murphy, of Quebec, lost his life when crushed beneath a falling derrick.

J. Hope's Bread is still leading, as testified by the great demand for his Household Loaf — necessitating the employment of extra hands in the bakery and putting on the road another double horse wagon to supply his increasingly numerous customers in the country around Lachute.

Mr. W. C. Hamelin, son of W. Hamelin, Esq., Reeve of Longueuil, and for several years in the employ of Messrs. Hamelin & Ayers, proprietors of Lachute Woollen factory, left here for Winnipeg with the intention of starting a branch of this enterprising firm in that city.

March 1, 1907 —

Last Friday, between 5 and 6 p.m. the central span of Fish's Bridge collapsed, and Mr. Lamarche, of St. Hermas, who was drawing logs for Hamelin & Ayers, is congratulating himself upon his narrow escape. The bridge has only been opened to the public two or three days, after repairs.

Dr. Legault, Mayor of St. Andrews, and Mr. W. S. Todd, sec.-treas., of the St. Andrews Municipal Council, were in Ste. Scholastique recently on municipal business.

The dressing room of the men engaged in the Detonator Department of the Dominion Cartridge Company, Brownsburg, was totally destroyed by fire last evening.

A successful carnival was held in the L.A.A. Rink on Saturday and much fun was caused over the various "get-ups". The prizes for adults were awarded to Miss Maggie Marshall, who figured as a Girl from the West, and took her part to perfection, and Mr. George Hamilton, who represented a Groom of 1460. There was considerable competition among the juveniles but the prizes were awarded to Bessie Menzies as "Grandma" and to Elmer Giles as a Clown.

Inspector J. W. McOuat made his annual visit to School No. 4, Pine Hill, on Monday.

Louisa — The many friends of Mr. Wm. Creswell are pleased to hear he is recovering from his recent illness, under the skillful treatment of Dr. George Christie.

25 YEARS AGO

February 26, 1932 —

Two well-known personages, Mrs. J. R. McOuat and Mrs. J. D. Boyce, passed away this week.

Several of our townsboys had a narrow escape on Sunday, when an over-loaded car driven by Hector Boyd broke through the ice on the Ottawa river at Rigaud. The party escaped injury, although the shock of being suddenly thrown into ice-cold water doubtless provided enough thrill for the day. The automobile and equipment were left on the scene and the boys repaired to warmer and drier surroundings.

Cushing — The ice harvest is in full swing in this locality and in spite of the mild winter it seems well up to the average as to quality and quantity.

Mr. T. Ranger has been laid up for repairs during the past week as a result of being attacked by a horse which he was feeding one morning recently.

Lakefield — Quite a busy scene is witnessed daily as the teams haul many loads of logs over the lake to the mill. Owing to an accident to the machinery Messrs. Dawson are compelled to cease sawing until the necessary repairs are made.

Mr. Herbert McDonald is busy at his summer cottage at Long Lake and expects to have it ready for occupation next summer. This will make another addition to the rapidly growing summer colony on this beautiful lake.

RELIABLE JALOPY

Woodstock, Ont. (CP) — John Anderson, an RCAF technician stationed on Vancouver Island, used a 25-year-old auto to return to his base after spending leave at his home here. He made the trip in five days.

Pretty Wedding Of Local Interest In Montreal Church

MacKenzie - Moore

The marriage of Marjorie Joyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moore, of Verdun, to Mr. Kenneth Russel MacKenzie, son of Mr. and Mrs. George MacKenzie, of Lachute, took place recently in the Verdun First Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Renton officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of satin with lace and tulle. A crown of pearls held her veil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty red roses.

Mrs. Pearl McLoon, matron of honor for her sister, and Mrs. Eleanor Cobbe, as bridesmaid, wore cocktail length gowns of Caribean blue velveteen, carrying cascade bouquets of pink mums.

Miss Marilyn McLoon, niece of the bride, wore a coral velveteen gown and carried a basket of white mums.

Mr. William MacKenzie, of Lachute, was best man for his brother, and ushers were Clarence Smith and William McLoon.

Following a reception at the LaSalle Golf and Country Club, the bridal couple left by plane for a wedding trip to Cleveland, Ohio, the bride travelling in a green tweed suit under a muskrat jacket with white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations.

On their return they will reside in Cote St. Paul, Montreal.

HUNGARIANS WELCOME

It semed for a time that the extreme shortage of housing in this community would make it impossible to offer shelter and employment here to any of the refugees from Hungary. It is gratifying therefore that openings have been found for a few in woods operations which will give them shelter along with good wages if they can face the climate and the hard work which go with these jobs.

NEED MORE GRADUATES

The solution to this problem (shortage of university graduates) does not lie with any single individual group. It should be of vital concern to all governments, educational institutions, teachers, vocational guidance counsellors, parents and the students themselves.

Bombers Win Semi-Final Series 4-1 Meet Hawkesbury Sunday in Finals

By John J. Molloy

Brownsburg Bombers Tuesday evening defeated Ste. Anne de Bellevue 5-3, coming out on top of a best-of-seven series, four games to one. The Bombers meet Hawkesbury Richports in the finals, the first game getting underway Sunday, March 3, at 2.30 p.m.

The Richports are presently playing Buckingham in a race for the semi-finals of the Citizen Shield, emblem of supremacy in the Ottawa District Hockey Association and are tied one game each. The Bombers were finalists in last year's Citizen Shield race.

Brownsburg lost a knock-down and drag-out fight at Rigaud Sunday night to leave the series hung up at 3 games to 1. The game ended in a 3-3 tie and Ste. Anne de Bellevue scored the only overtime goal.

In the second game of the series which Brownsburg won 7-3, Marc Campeau had two goals and two assists. Line mate Yves Laporte had two goals and one assist, while the third member of that trio Red Charlebois scored one goal and assisted four. André Ouellette and Jacques Racine combined for the other two. André got the goals and Jacques the assists.

Last Thursday, the Bombers won their third play-off game and fifth game in a row by a crazy score of 12-6. Ste. Anne de Bellevue lost goaler Claude Daigneault after only one and a half minutes of the first period. As Brownsburg scored the opening goal, Daigneault collided with Lamarche, his own defenceman and was forced to retire with a "charley-horse". Claude Legault, of Brownsburg, replaced him and although Claude played a good game for the visitors, they themselves seemed to have lost all interest in the game.

By the end of the second period, the score was 10-1 for Brownsburg and apart from a beautiful goal by Jacques Racine it had been a pretty uninteresting mis-match. Jacques' goal made it 4-0 for Brownsburg at eight minutes of the first period. He started the play himself as he raced across the centre-line, slapped a pass to Norbonne who fed to Ouellette, and Racine racing in at top speed had it laid on his stick by André. The shot was equal to the classic play.

The goals were pretty well split up as ten Bombers scored. André Ouelette had a field day with three goals and three assists.

The third period was less of a hockey match than the other two. Brownsburg seemed more interested in avoiding injury than in scoring goals, and Buddy Racine, who has been a stand-out in all recent games was beaten five times by shots which were no better than some of the shots he's been batting out right and left. Ste. Anne's scored the last three goals of the game as Frank Pearce scored two and assisted twice.

Brownsburgers will be looking forward with reasonably high hopes to the final series with Hawkesbury. It seems there's a vital spark in all the Brownsburg - Hawkesbury games that's present all too rarely in the other games this year.

Reg Stansfield Competes In Gymnastic Meet

At the gymnastic meet held in Lachine last Saturday, Reggie entered for the first time as a senior. He did very well considering he was somewhat nervous and also a little tired, having played hockey the same morning.

Reggie won long horse with a count of 9-0 while the second contestant had a mark of 8.9 which shows how keen the competition was. This was also the case in free-hand calisthenics where, with a little more luck, Reggie would have won. He got 9.15 while the first had 9.2 in parallel bars. In high bars, pommel horse and rings Reggie came third, the winner being a 28 year old German, who before coming to Canada a year ago had been on the German National team. To compete against one of the best from Europe was exceptionally good experience for the local star.

Now we are looking forward to the provincial meet to be held April 20, when Reggie should have a very good chance to win every event.

Basketball

The Senior girls' basketball team visited Ste. Anne de Bellevue last Saturday morning where they played the Macdonald College Junior team. The local girls won by a wide margin, 34-9.

The three stars of the game were Margaret Boa, Marjorie Hay and Roslyn Croucher.

Saturday evening, the Senior boy's basketball squad played the Y.M.C.A. team in Montreal, losing by a score of 52-48. David Bates, Tim Sorley and Ken Underhill were credited with the three stars.

The first of the Provincial Senior boy's basketball games was played in Lachute Tuesday afternoon when Grenville was the visiting team. This encounter was most uninteresting as play was very one-sided. Lachute took the lead 2-6 in the first quarter and retained it until the final count showed LHS well ahead, 83-28.

Hockey

The Senior boy's hockey team visited Rigaud last Wednesday to compete against Valleyfield in the semi-finals. Lachute took the honors, winning 8-5.

The three star selection went to Mervin O'Brien, who also scored 3 goals, Bob Campbell, who tallied once, and Jacques Labrèche. Other scorers were Tim Sorley 2, Ken Underhill and Ian Duncan each 1. Referee was Richard Bradford.

Having won this game LHS is now in the finals which will be played in the Granby Arena on Saturday, March 9. Since the other semi-finals have not yet been completed, it is not known against whom they will play, but it will likely be either Stanstead College or Richmond High School.

It is many years since the local team has reached the finals and we all wish them success and the best of luck in the crucial game.

Last Friday, the Seniors played Brownsburg. Play was slow in the opening period. Ken Underhill was the first to score, to be followed half a minute later by Tim Sorley, to make it 2-0 at the end of the first period.

In the second stanza the 'Burg put on pressure and play livened and became rougher as Melvin Stewart and Alex McGibbon both scored for the opposition to tie the game two all. In the final period, both teams worked hard to get the winning goal. Ten penalties were handed out and excitement rose among both players and spectators when David Bates finally got by the Brownsburg goalie to make it 3-2 in favor of Lachute.

Brent Laurin, David Bates and Bob Campbell were the three stars of the game, Richard Bradford refereed.

The Juniors and Seniors played Hudson last Saturday morning, the latter winning 5-4. Mervin O'Brien, Tim Sorley and Brent Laurin were the three stars.

The Juniors were not as successful as they were defeated 2-1 with Lachute's only goal being scored by Wayne Laurin.

Coming Event

It is expected that the Senior boy's basketball squad will play host to a team from the RCAF this Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the school gym.

A highway tax based on weight of a vehicle and the miles it travels has been suggested as a system of increasing revenue to maintain highways.

Win Curling Trophy at Cornwall

Mrs. Elton Rice, Mrs. George McGibbon, skip, Mrs. Jas. Barbour and Mrs. Don Heggie, proud holders of the Kaneb Trophy, which they recently won at the Cornwall Invitation Bonspiel, defeating a rink from Valleyfield.

Local Team Chosen For Legion Finals Commencing Friday

Considerable enthusiasm has been shown in the Legion Curling Bonspiel which on Wednesday climaxed the local fight for honors. With eight teams entered here, it narrowed down to a battle between skips R. Fraser and C. E. Richardson, which was settled last evening — the former victorious with his team W. M. Steeves, R. MacLean and D MacKimmie (sub for D. Hay).

The winner will now take part in the elimination Provincial 'Spiel being held here on Friday and Saturday in which eight Quebec branches will participate. Lacolle meets Ste. Anne de Bellevue; Huntingdon plays Drumondville; Victoriaville engages Lachute and St Lambert vies with Shawinigan Falls.

It is the first year that the Legion has staged a Canadian Championship meet and like the 'Brier' there will be a rink from each of the 10 provinces in the four-day 'spiel National finals at Winnipeg, March 12, 13, 14 and 15.

A large turnout is expected for the play-offs here on Friday at 7.00 and 9.15 p.m., and on Saturday at 10.00 a.m. with the finals at 2.00 p.m. All interested are cordially invited to be present, at the Lachute Curling Rink.

Vice-President's Competition

Tuesday's finals took a sudden reverse halfway through the game when Don Hay's team changed the score against Frank Pring's four to win the game.

Visit Three Rivers

Messrs. J. Pillage, L. Bedard, H. Morrison and S. Drew (skip), had a pleasant outing on Saturday visiting at Three Rivers where they won a game and lost one. The 'Spiel was sponsored by Molson's.

* * *

Mrs. E. Rice, Mrs. D. Heggie, Mrs J. Barbour and Mrs. Geo. McGibbon (skip), took part in the Cornwall Ladies' 2nd Annual Bonspiel recently and were winners of the 2nd Trophy (Kaneb), defeating a Valleyfield rink in the finals. They were also recipients of individual cups.

Gala Day

Monday, February 25 was "Gala Day" for the lady curlers, play starting at 9 o'clock and continuing through 'til 4 p.m. The rink with the highest percent for the day's curling was Miss M. Scott, Mrs. A G. Giles, Mrs. Jack MacKimmie and Mrs. G. G. Mitchell, skip. Novelty and door prizes were also given. The ladies in the kitchen served luncheon to about 90 persons and afternoon tea concluded a very enjoyable day.

Play is continuing this week in the "Thirds and Skips" and "Leads and Seconds" Bonspiel, finals to be played on Thursday.

The monthly meeting will be held on Monday, March 4 with Visitors' Day and Tea taking place on March 12.

W.M.S. Blues Take Over Leadership In Bowling

After several weeks of concentrated effort, the W.M.S. team of Mrs. H. Riddell has taken the lead in the league standing from the other W.M.S. foursome.

The former team defeated Thistles 14 to 4 on Monday, while the St Pat's came through with a win of 11 to 8 against Miss Rosser's team.

Two teams, both from East Settlement were unable to play on Monday due to bad driving conditions, and these teams will play the game later on in the season. The scores were:

S.S. Teachers 10	St. David's 9
St. Pat's 11	W.M.S. Reds 8
Teenagers 20	St. George's 6
All Stars 14	St. Andrew's 3
W.M.S. Blues 14	Thistles 4

Since the end of World War II the Canadian steel industry has expanded more rapidly than the steel industry of any other major nation.

Leonard Third in Texas Tournament

Houston, Tex., Feb. 26 — Arnold Palmer moved on to Baton Rouge, L.A., today after beating par on a tough back nine to win $7,500 top money in the Houston Open golf tournament.

Stan Leonard, of Lachute, and Vancouver, ended in a three-way sixth-place tie with 73-70-69-73—285 for $1,256. Al Balding of Toronto collected $91.25 for his 73-69-74-75—291, while Jack Kay, Montreal Mount Bruno, finished out of the money with 73-71-76-74—294.

Leonard, the leading Canadian in the tournament, was tied for seventh place with Mike Souchak, Grossinger's, N.Y., going into the final round. Leonard, with 73-70-69—212, followed Jimmy Demaret, Arnold Palmer, Doug Ford and Doug Higgins besides Bone and Harris.

A four-over-par 220 was needed for the finals as the field was cut to 63 pros and seven amateurs.

Women's Interest Features On CBC Week's Programs

Trans-Canada Matinee moves to Winnipeg this Monday for a visit of several weeks, and Western producers promise a real prairie flavor on their share of the program. Its TV counterpart, Open House, continues to offer a wide variety of topics specially interesting to busy housewives who are shut in all day.

Winnipeg musicians will take over the musical portion of Matinee. On Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, the guest will be mezzo-soprano Joan Maxwell, who was born in Winnipeg 27 years ago, and graduated from the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto, where she often sang on the radio and television. She will be accompanied by pianist Anna Hovey. Flutist Dirk Keetbaas will play on Tuesdays and Thursdays, accompanied by Edward Lincoln. Keetbaas was born in Holland 36 years ago and came to Canada at the age of seven; formerly first flutist with the Toronto Symphony, he now occupies that post with the Winnipeg Symphony and CBC Winnipeg orchestras.

The spring Cooking School of the Air begins on Monday on Matinee, and the 34th supplementary booklet is available, free of charge, from the CBC, Box 500, Toronto. Eustella Langdon, who claims that, thanks to modern equipment, today's bride can look forward to being a better cook than her grandmother was, begins the nine-part series with tips for making orange marmalade. Matinee's daily news commentator for the next two months will be Anne Francis of Ottawa. On Wednesday conflicting views on the united appeal system of fund-raising will be presented by the Rev. William O. Jenkins, of Toronto, leader of the largest Unitarian congregation in Canada, and Arthur Piggott, chairman of the United Appeal of Toronto.

Open House begins the week with a visit from Mrs. Persis Tozer, a newcomer to Canada who lived for several years in Southern Rhodesia and will recall highlights of her life there; and Ottawa teen-agers will voice their opinions of "rock 'n' roll". Tuesday, Marthe Eggleling, who studied rhythmics in Europe and directs classes in Toronto, will demonstrate the activities in a night-school rhythmics class for housewives and business women.

CBC Will Produce New Hailey Play

Arthur Hailey's latest play, "Course for Collision" will be produced by the CBC but the date of production has not been set.

Sydney Newman, supervising producer of TV drama, in announcing the proposed production said:

"If Hailey's other plays brought viewers to the edge of their seats, they'd better wear safety belts for this one. It's about international politics in 1962 and the action is intensely suspenseful."

Hailey's successes in his brief career as a TV playwright include: "Flight Into Danger"; "Shadow of Suspicion"; and "Time Lock".

The Weather's Effects on Man

The effects of weather on man will be the general theme of the first three broadcasts in the Ask the Weatherman series for March 3 (6.35 p.m. on Trans-Canada) Rube Hornstein of the Halifax weather office will draw attention to a theory that the average outdoor temperature of a region has a direct relationship to the inventive ability of its inhabitants.

The broadcast on the 10th will deal with the effects of wind on the human organism — for example, the carrying of germs from one locality to another. Wind and weather have also affected man's imagination and the March 17 program will review superstitions and legends of the wind in past and present civilizations.

The kite will be discussed in the talk on March 24. Besides being a children's toy, it has been used by primitive races for fishing and for military purposes. For his experiment on atmospheric electricity Benjamin Franklin used a kite, and the same fundamental idea is still used today, by meteorologists. Beneficial to man in certain ways, the wind is also one of his worst enemies. On March 31 Hornstein will discuss soil erosion and its effects.

Clarabell Meets Young Fans

Many thousands of Canada's youngsters see Clarabell the clown every weekday on CBC television. Hundreds are able to see him, and the others on "Howdy Doody" in person, as members of the Peanut Gallery and a few lucky youngsters even get to meet him personally.

It is a pretty one-sided conversation though because Clarabell, as you know, doesn't talk, but manages to make himself understood with the help of a seltzer bottle and a horn.

JOLSON NOTES

By Irwin R. Warwick

It is interesting to compare one's own impression of a motion picture with the previously published opinions of the movie critics. Before seeing "The Best Things In Life Are Free", the writer had read reviews rating it all the way from poor to excellent. Rightly or wrongly, I would place it half way between these extremes.

What most interested me in this musical biography of song-writers Buddy DeSylva, Lew Brown and Ray Henderson, was the impersonation of Al Jolson by Norman Brooks. Mr. Brooks should have been well prepared for his film debut. Possessing a naturally Jolson-like voice (it says here), he has spent much time, both before and during his career, studying the Jolson technique.

His movie singing is very close to Al's, with just enough difference to make the Jolson fan think, "Al would've done it better." Jolie's colorful way of talking has also been captured quite well. There is, at times, a certain stiffness evident in Norman's performance, but all in all his portrayal is much closer to the real Al Jolson than that of Larry Parks in "The Jolson Story" and "Jolson Sings Again." We must remember though, that while 20th Century-Fox and Norman Brooks present an imitation, Columbia and Larry Parks strove for an impression. Each has been successful in their own way.

"Sonny Boy", sung by Brooks in the picture, was written by DeSylva, Brown and Henderson in collaboration with Jolson, and was the trio's biggest hit.

An item from The Jolson Journal: "Warner Bros. recently released the following old Jolson movies for television: The Singing Kid (1936); Wonder Bar (1934); Rhapsody in Blue (1945); there may be more, but these are definite! Watch for 'em!"

Two highly successful revivals in 10 years is the record held by the song "Rock-a-bye Your Baby With a Dixie Melody". The artists responsible are Al Jolson, in 1946-47, and Jerry Lewis, 1956-57. (who said "Mammy Song's" are out of style?). Jerry really lets go on this one, and it is reminiscent of Jolson all the way.

Profits from this record, as well as the others made by Jerry Lewis, are being devoted to the study of muscular dystrophy and the assistance of its victims. Good boy, Jerry!

Al also has a new album out, a 12" L.P. entitled "The Jolson Story — Rock-a-Bye Your Baby", containing the title song and numerous other selections. This album is one of five issued by Decca, all of which will be reviewed in this column next month.

Stratford Festival Granted $250,000

Ottawa (CP) — A federal grant of $250,000 towards construction of a permanent theatre for the Shakespearean Festival at Stratford, Ont., was announced yesterday by Finance Minister Harris.

Mr. Harris read to the Commons a letter he has sent to Wilfred Gregory of the Shakespearean Theatre that the Federal Government will match the total capital grants of the province of Ontario, "namely $250,000."

The minister's announcement was met with loud applause from all sections of the House.

The governors of the Stratford Festival had urgently appealed to the Federal and Ontario Governments for money to head off a financial crisis in construction of the permanent theatre.

Mr. Harris, in his letter to Mr. Gregory, said the Federal Government shares the view that a permanent Shakespearean Theatre at Stratford would be "of lasting benefit to all Canadians."

Construction program of the permanent theatre, begun last fall, is continuing and festival officials hope to open the 1957 season July 1 in the new building. The festival previously was held in a huge tent.

'Father Knows Best' Star Very Much Alive

Lauren Chapin, who plays Kathy Anderson in the "Father Knows Best" series is very much alive, contrary to rumors in Montreal that the 10-year-old star has died.

The CBC Montreal office has received many phone calls from anxious viewers concerned about the child star's alleged death. They have been reassured that Kathy is alive — a fact verified by a telephone call to Hollywood.

"Father Knows Best" is a family situation comedy that is filmed in Hollywood and originates from NBC-TV. Robert Young is the father Jim Anderson, while Kathy has a sister and a brother. All of them are alive.

Rumors that Kathy had died had sprung up earlier in Halifax, but were scotched when it was confirmed that she was alive.

Sir Lancelot

"A Gallant Knight of Old" conquers fresh fields. As far back as 1500 years ago, the fabled exploits of Sir Lancelot were tales for wandering story-tellers and minstrels; today his adventures make a favorite TV series in Britain and the U.S., and now he comes to Canada. The legendary tales of the Round Table have become a new series and will be seen on CBMT, on Saturdays, at 4.00 p.m., beginning on March 2.

Legendary stories of chivalry, beautiful princesses and Ye Gallant Knights of Old have been translated by first-rate script writers into top-line TV in "The Adventures of Sir Lancelot". Skilful direction and editing, fine acting and a careful attention to every historical detail make the program as educational as it is entertaining. With pageantry and battles, jousting and broadsword fights, the new program brings to TV all the action, romance and excitement of King Arthur's Round Table heroes. Bravest, most chivalrous and, happily, most handsome of them all is the valiant Sir Lancelot.

William Russell, a good-loking, 6-foot Englishman, has the title role. As Sir Lancelot, Russ wields his huge sword in the middle of battle, and smiles quietly as he proudly fights all enemies of chivalry and honor.

Stories are set against authentic backgrounds of castles and meadows in the misty, tranquil countryside around England's River Thames.

In the antics of the old court sorcerer and sooth-sayer, Merlin, the methods of the medieval 'magicians' who held so much sway are exposed. Played by 65-year old Cyril Smith, Merlin with his long white hair and beard brings chuckles to every episode as, to the bewilderment of King and Knights and the delight of the viewers he demonstrates his "magic" powers.

In the first episode, Sir Lancelot, in a series of encounters in which he is victorious, frees himself from the oath of fealty made in his youth to King Gwile, enemy of King Arthur, and joins the Knights of the Round Table.

OLDEST VETERAN?

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Millions of travel snapshots are taken each year by vacationers. This comes to an impressive pile of prints and a lot of I-hope-it-comes-outs.

Seriously, taking photos on your vacation trip is a fine idea. Photography is a satisfying and stimulating hobby. Here are some hints to help you catch your vacation fun in pictures you can enjoy long after the trip is over.

Be sure to have your camera carefully checked before starting out. The time it takes for repairs and adjustments is usually out of the question once you're on the road. It's a good idea to have the camera within easy reach — not packed away in a suitcase. You never know what interesting things you'll see while driving and you'll want to be prepared to make the shot quickly. Naturally be sure you always have film in the camera. When you're finished with one roll, load another right away.

Another suggestion: carry a small notebook with you and make notes on the photos you take. Identify people, places and things — and mark the date. Number your rolls (with pencil on the cardboard container): and match these numbers with your notes. Be sure to tell the person who processes your film to keep the negatives with the proper container. When you're pasting the pictures in an album later on, you'll welcome this identifying material and can use it to write captions.

You'll find that taking pictures is easier now than it ever was. Cameras are better, and generally cheaper. Also, film, both color and black-and-white, is faster — enabling you to take photos even if the light conditions are not too good.

This year, take a camera on your motoring vacation. It'll add to the fun, and help you re-live the trip later on.

John Weinzweig's 'Rhapsody for Orchestra'

The first performance of a Rhapsody for Orchestra by Toronto composer John Weinzweig will be given by the CBC Symphony on Monday, March 4, conducted by Victor Feldbrill. Two years ago the same orchestra premiered Weinzweig's Violin Concerto.

The mood of the Rhapsody is described by the composer as " a kind of lyric ecstasy propelled by a waltz-like motion" suggested in the introduction marked declamato, which also presents the basic thematic material. "The strings and woodwinds," he continues, "carry the lyric weight of the work with occasional outbursts from the brass and percussion. Although it rhapsodizes" in its range of turbulence, the work maintains a homogeneous structure."

Weinzweig is professor of composition at the University of Toronto, and president of the Canadian League of Composers. He is now composing Wine of Peace, for soprano and orchestra.

Teatime Topics

Just about everything around us echoes with progress and the determined march of time. The whole process is something like the pedlar who announces himself at the door, wedges a foot across the threshold and invariably gets all the way in.

But sometimes it takes a little longer to sell new wares.

There's Switzerland, for example, where women still can't vote, and where an Alpine village recently shocked the whole country by suggesting that women cast their ballots in a local referendum.

After all, the referendum concerned women. It was to decide whether they would be required to take civil defence training.

The vote suggestion was refused by Swiss federal authorities at Bern, but resulted in a promise that parliament would study the subject of women's suffrage.

But strangely enough, apparently there's a strong minority among Swiss women who don't want to vote at all.

Stout Independent

In Toronto an elderly, determined widow has sparred with progress in another way.

Mrs. Isabel Massie is happy in her three-storey, red-brick family home and garden. So for the last five years she has a firm but pleasant "no" to an oil company wanting to buy her house and land.

Offers reached $100,000, while parking lots appeared on either side of the old house which now stands in the shadow of a 10-storey oil company building.

Neighbors have gone and so has a lot of the street's former peace and quiet. But Mrs. Massie explains she doesn't want to stand in the way of progress. She just likes her home.

Calm Cave Owner

And then there's Mrs. Olive Hodgkinson, who lives in southwest England and perhaps thinks progress didn't come soon enough.

The wife of a country squire, Mrs. Hodgkinson is a modern woman living in a modern house. But one of the features of their estate is a 76-year-old cavern called Wookey Hole Cave and Mrs. H. is getting touchy about being called "The Witch of Wookey."

However, she has devised an answer for questions about how she became a 20th century cave woman.

"I married a man who owned a cave," she says.

Curled Carrots

Have you ever wondered how your hostess got carrot strips to curl and stay curled?

Cooks in "Canada's Kitchen" — the agriculture department's consumer section — say this is the way:

Use a vegetable peeler to shave full-length, paper-thin carrot strips, then wrap the strips around a finger to form tight curls. Fasten the curls with a toothpick and put them in ice water for several hours. Then remove the toothpicks and serve.

Huntingdon W.I. Aids Hungarians Of That District

Huntingdon Women's Institute is helping to teach English and to provide clothing for Hungarians coming to that community. Hemmingford W.I., in the same county, was responsible for collecting clothing and furniture for a Hungarian family settling there.

Wakeham W.I. in Gaspé County devoted one meeting to a discussion on "How can we help Hungarians adjust to our way of life?" and branches in Pontiac County have been giving money donations to an Hungarian Relief Fund.

Only a small percentage of these refugees are settling in rural districts, as figures quoted at the recent meeting of the Q.W.I. Board show, but it is evident from this one month's report that Institute members, as always, are alert to this aspect of their work in Citizenship. As one comment overheard at that meeting puts it, "After all, this is nothing but the traditional country neighborliness."

A youthful figure is something you get when you ask a woman her age.

Wife Preservers

To avoid fires, never smoke when you are sleepy, and especially when you are in bed. Always see that your cigaret is out before you throw it away.

Wives Can Help Husbands Stay Alive

Men are literally killing themselves to produce "a better world" for their wives to live in -- alone. To prove this statement, the March Reader's Digest cites these insurance company statistics:

There are 7,000,000 widows in North America. Seventeen men die in their 40's for every 10 women. Eighteen men die in their 50's for every 10 women.

Women who would prefer to have their husbands rather than the mink stole his overwork earns, can do more than a whole battery of psychiatrists to save their lives.

Help him relax. Make him happy to be a good father and husband. If he seems more happy at work than at home, find out why and try to do something about it. If your husband is growing away from you, broaden your interests and match his strides.

A recent examination of 500 executives revealed more than half suffered diseases of which they were unaware which needed immediate attention. So make medical check-up appointments for him. If he needs more sleep, reduce his social engagements; if he is overweight, plan attractive low calorie meals.

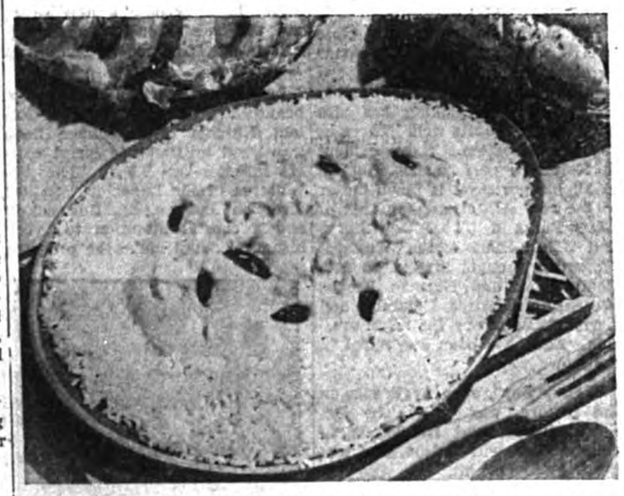

Encourage walking, swimming, gardening, golf in moderation and other forms of light exercise for the sedentary man but don't expect a tired man to shovel snow or do anything that makes him more tired.

Offer him love and the approval and admiration which too few men get on their job.

"There are a hundred different ways a man's wife can contribute to his happiness and well-being if she once starts thinking about it," the Reader's Digest article concludes. "And the fine thing about this is that most of them are also ways of contributing to her own."

FROZEN SOUPS CATCH COMPLIMENTS

By Anne Marshall

Years ago a famous chef once remarked that a woman who couldn't make a good soup shouldn't be allowed to marry. How lucky the 20th century girl is . . . she doesn't even take time to think about soup making! Because she knows if she serves one of the full-flavored frozen soups available at her corner grocery store, she's bound to catch smiles which say "this is so good"!

Today there are all sorts of magic tricks for serving and varying these soups. Take for instance frozen condensed oyster stew . . . serve it plain, add a bit of shredded cheese, or even make a casserole with it. Or combine it with frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup to make a new soup mate. Ideas for frozen condensed pea with ham soup are just as numerous. A reputation for always serving good soups is a challenge to any chef, past or present.

Like to share one of the modern homemakers "inventions" made with frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup . . . then try this recipe for . . .

CREAMED SHRIMP WITH OLIVES

1 can (10-ounces) frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup
½ cup milk
¼ cup sliced ripe olives
3 cups cooked rice

Combine ingredients; heat slowly stirring frequently. Serve over hot rice. Makes 4 servings.

Ways With Broilers

The popular mild-flavored broiler-fryer chickens may be cooked in any of the standard ways used for chicken or fowl. Browning the flour-coated, cut-up chicken pieces is the preliminary step, however, in many modern recipes. Tantalizing flavor additions may be made by seasoning the flour with which the chicken is coated, according to the Poultry Products Institute of Canada. Allow approximately ½ a cup flour, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons paprika and ¼ teaspoon or less of pepper for each two pounds of cut-up chicken and add what additional seasonings are desired to this basic mixture. For example, any one or a combination of the following may be used: 2 teaspoons grated orange rind; ½ to 1 teaspoon oragano; ¼ to ½ teaspoon cinnamon or ginger; ¼ to ½ teaspoon rosemary or thyme. Add the desired seasonings to the basic flour mixture in a paper bag. This quantity is usually sufficient to coat approximately 2 to 2½ pounds of cut-up chicken. Place the chicken pieces, a few at a time, in the paper bag and shake well. The chicken then may be browned on all sides in moderately hot fat and finished, as desired, either cooked in the fat with the lid on the pan until tender, or simmered or baked in tomato juice, sour cream, chicken broth, consomme, water or wine, depending upon herbs or spices used or recipe being followed.

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE

Crossfire

In ten years the U. S. death rate from tuberculosis has tumbled 75 per cent.

Medical authorities attribute this startling drop to powerful new drugs, along with better methods of detecting the disease in early stages, better living and working conditions, and improved surgical techniques.

Tuberculosis is not entirely beaten, but public health authorities now have the disease so well in hand that many once-crowded tuberculosis hospitals have closed down for lack of patients. But the battle has had its setbacks, too.

Patients treated with streptomycin at first showed spectacular improvement. Later, the antibiotic seemed to lose its punch. Patients relapsed. The disease flared up again. Staggered by streptomycin, the TB germ retreated, then developed strong defenses against the drug.

Medical scientists countered with combinations of drugs that caught the TB germs in a deadly crossfire and once again put the disease to rout. Today, almost every active tuberculosis case is treated with such combinations.

Recently, this same mode of attack has been used against other die-hard microbes. In combatting stubborn infections, science now pins much hope on antibiotic combinations such as Sigmamycin, which not only clears up a wide range of common infections, but also strikes germs which have learned to resist even the most powerful of the older drugs.

Colorful Silks Are New Method

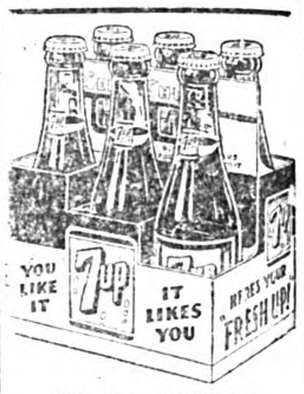

Brandon, Man. (CP) — An exhibition of serigraphy — youngest of the graphic arts — is on loan from the Immaculate Heart College at Los Angeles, Calif., to the Western Canada art circuit.

Shown here, the work consists of 46 original prints by Sister Mary Corita, who has earned an international reputation for the unusual art form which has developed in the United States since the 1930s.

Serigraphy is a process based on the stencil method, improved by using a piece of silk as the foundation for separate stencils. As many as 20 colors or more may be used in making a print, each color requiring a separate stencil.

Sister Mary Corita is a graduate of the University of Southern California and of Immaculate Heart College, where she is associate professor of art.

She has exhibited widely in museums in the United States, including the Metropolitan and the Museum of Modern Art in New York. This exhibition is of a religious nature with impressionistic compositions and a repetition of figures that produces a pattern-like design.

School Standards

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

Have you moved with school age children from one province to another? If you have, there is little doubt that you will heartily endorse the idea that it is high time that we Canadians came to grips with the problem of reaching similar entrance requirements for the different school grades. If your roots are in one place and you expect to live there all your life, perhaps you think this is no concern of yours. But it is, because thousands of children suffer unnecessarily each year as they try to adjust not only to a new teacher, new school companions, but a very different curriculum . . . and all too often to the sense of humiliation which being demoted brings to youth.

One mother of several children who had lived in three different provinces said bitterly, "It doesn't matter how high your child's IQ may be, or how hard he has worked, just let him transfer from a school in one province to one in another province, and he will promptly be moved BACKWARD!"

Our educational set up dates back to the BNA Act, and the population at that time was comparatively stationary. How different is the situation today! Thousands of families must move at short notice long distances as the father's place of work changes. This last week we had as guests in our home an RCAF officer, who moved here recently from our former home town. The mother asked eagerly if her child would find it difficult in a school in another province . . . then she added that her older child, who is now a teacher, had moved to 14 new schools during her schooling . . "and not one of the changes was easy."

Of course it isn't easy for a child to be transplanted! He misses his old home, his chums, the familiar places where he had good times. His Dad is absorbed in a new job and mother is often exhausted with moving and the myriad tasks of unpacking and getting settled. The climax for both parents and children is to discover little similarity in the subjects the child is expected to know. As one little girl who arrived home in tears declared, "Back home we learned about Canada's wild animals, here I'm supposed to know about the rocks . . . and in the other subjects I either don't know what the teacher is talking about or I know all the wrong things."

There is no point in the parents blaming the teacher. She has a curriculum she must cover. In a classroom with too many students (which is the type of situation in all too many schools), a child from another province must be just another headache for the teacher. But if she uses imagination she will remember what it is like to be homesick and treat the new pupil with gentleness.

In a Parent Education Refresher Course, Mrs. Frances Johnson, who has done an amazing job in this field in Ontario, once pointed out that the upheaval of moving is hardest of all on an adolescent. . . Even if he remains in the same school he is going through a trying transitional stage, but to move to a new school is, toput it mildly, likely to be upsetting. It is often hard enough to persuade teen-agers to stay at school, and Canada needs more well educated men and women in many walks of life. But if a youth is promptly demoted when he moves from one province to another, or if his school studies are all in a terrible state of confusion with different textbooks, different choices in the curriculum, is it to be wondered at if he says, "This is too much for me. I'm going to get a job!"

At the Canadian School Trustees Convention held recently in Winnipeg, the new Dean of Education at the University of Manitoba, Dr. M. E. LaZerte, pointed out that a national conference on education would do more than anything else to focus attention on this most vital topic. He considered that other subjects beside finance should be on the agenda of such a gathering. Here's hoping that steps towards common school standards for entrance to the different grades in our provinces be given priority.

Fashions

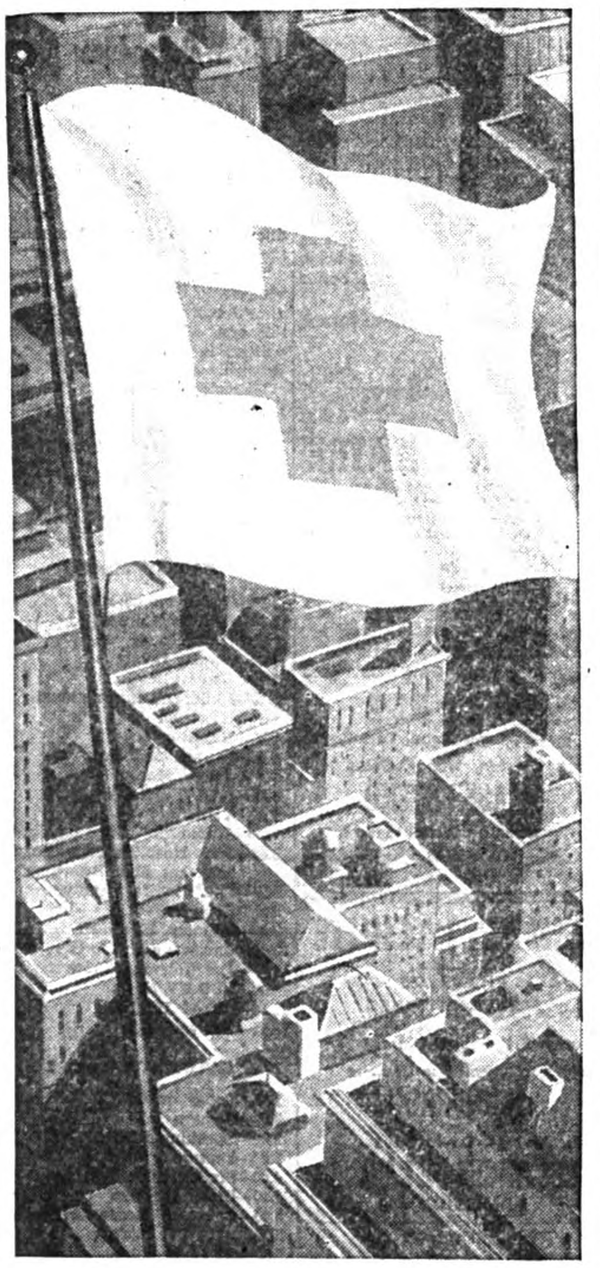

Here is an extremely useful and versatile idea, a jumper of silk shantung. Worn by itself it is a smart, sleeveless basic dress for day or evening and with a change of blouses it can be many things, according to occasion. Shown here in navy, it makes a chic daytime outfit with a blouse of silk surah striped in navy and white.

LONG STORY OF WANDERING ENDS

—Central Press Canadian

Reunion of six-year-old Daniela with her mother, Mrs. Nina Jovanovitch, has ended a four-month separation and a long story of wandering for Mrs. Jovanovitch. Leaving her native Yugoslavia in 1945, she spent two years in Switzerland as a domestic, even though she had two years of medical training. She married a Zurich newspaperman but a year later he was killed in an airplane crash. Then she went to Austria to apply for admission to Canada. After six years she was admitted but unable, because of immigration regulations, to bring Daniela with her. In Canada, however, she found a Canadian family to sponsor the girl and now Mrs. Jovanovitch says her wanderings are over.

Politics and Biblical Film--Pleasing Visit in the Country

"Exile From Sunnyacres"

By Margaret Cook

Don't look now, for the wench is shy, but I think Spring is just around the corner. For evidence, consider the following — the cars go swish, crunch as they pass, the cats are mating, the apple trees' bark is becoming dusty pink instead of pearl grey, while that of the dogs is more raucous, eventide comes in with pastels rather than the hard, brilliant colors of winter, and one gets up in daylight, not dark. But, most conclusive of all, the man of the house is beginning his year's gardening by picking last year's apples. Since we have so many apples at Sunnyacres, quite often the ones in the backyard here get left on the tree.

This brings us to the subject of waste. Foreigners are always appalled by the waste on this continent. A well-known official of the Anglican Church of Canada recently told in a speech of asking a Chinese student in Montreal what feature of Canadian life most intrigued him, and he replied, "The size of the garbage cans". Officialdom was annoyed by what is considered the frivolity of the reply, but when it arrived in the Eastern countries, it saw that the student had spoken in all seriousness. While we Canadians blithely leave apples on trees, throw out the ends of loaves, chuck bones in the garbage, leave much of our food on the plate, whence it goes to the aforesaid can, thousands of people in Eastern lands are short of food, some are even dying of starvation. Note: starvation, not malnutrition, of which plenty of North Americans die daily, for a diet of corn flakes, hot dogs and carbonated drinks is not what the body demands for longevity.

The same speaker told of having several talks with a venerable Indian, who, after he had made up his mind that his visitor was sincere, asked him if it were true that in Canada the domestic beasts were better housed than many of his people. The Canadian, after thought had to admit that was correct. I have told this story to several people, and the reaction is varied. "That's not our fault"; "So what!"; "Why don't we fix up our own people first before worrying about them?" are samples.

These same citizens resent the influx of Hungarians, because of the work situation. Recently we shared a taxi into the city with a neighbor, and the driver was inveighing against the government's immigration policy. To hear him talk one would think he was starving. As he obviously was not, the writer was inclined to let him rave, but our friend was a more belligerent type. Amos will find that hard to believe, but it's a fact. It is also a fact that the lady is of Irish descent.

She began to question our political rival and elicited the following facts — he had been for some years with a large electrical concern, and had quit because he did not like to be bossed; also because he could make more with his taxi. Latterly, he had begun to tire of late hours, uncertain earnings, etc. and had phoned his former boss to see about getting back his job. There was a job, yes, but his particular one was filled by a Hungarian. To him this proved the folly of the government's immigration policy. To my friend, it merely proved that he was not a good employee because he was not steady, and so she told him. In the midst of the ensuing hot exchange of words, we arrived at our destination, and I had to pay the tip, because she thought he didn't deserve one.

Like most of the sentimental Irish and frivolous French, this writer is a realist, and it does not take a brain to see that the mighty nation to the south of us was built up of just such people as the refugees whom we are belately welcoming to our shores. Christianity does pay, because it is sense. The Financial Post recently ran a series of articles on this problem of immigration. It pointed out that the majority of the newcomers were men, young, unmarried ones. Once they are established, they will marry and found homes. And then up will go the sales of refrigerators, stoves, vacuum cleaners, cars, playpens, bicycles and all the other paraphenalia that young Mr. and Mrs. North American consider necessary to housekeeping. Since someone has to make all these articles, employment must also go up. Sounds sensible to me.

Let us leave politics, and have a look at the much discussed "Moses and the Ten Commandments." Several people have asked our impressions, so here they are. "The function of a critic", said a National Film official recently on TV "is to save his readers money". So here's to save you a dollar or two, or woo it out of your pocket, as the reaction may be. It is my opinion that the Moses film is valuable for its historic and geographical clarifications. The acting is only fair, and it suffers from an overdose of Hollywood, that indefinable aura of 'too much' that defies precise definition.

I have never really understood the allusion in the Bible to the making of bricks without straw. Now, it is crystal clear. How the colossal buildings of ancient Egypt were erected without modern machinery also was a puzzle; that, too, was cleared up by the film. The Crossing of the Red Sea is revealed not as a miracle, but as a shrewd manipulation of local geographical facts. These are some of the clarifications to which we referred above. On the debit side was the burning bush, obviously not burning, or even smouldering, and the accompanying voice of God. Those of the audience who live in the country will at once be reminded of the deep booming of the grand-daddy of all bull-frogs. However, it did have an excellent effect on two young female demons who had all through the show made our lives miserable with demands for ice-cream, different seats, drinks, etc. After the burning bush croaked, they were reformed characters. To sum up, for the very young, I believe the film is valuable.

Now let us talk of Sunnyacres which we were fortunate enough to visit on mid-term holiday. We walked down the little road in snow varying from four to twenty-four inches deep. It lay all around us, white, clean, sparkling and soft. When we became tired, we lay down on our backs and the snow made a perfect bed. Lying flat thus, we were able to look directly up into the blue depths above, something we so seldom have time for.

To lie in the grass of summer is not so good, because of the curiosity and hunger of ants, beetles, mosquitoes, and other pests, but nothing disturbed the peace of our snowy couch. A few small clouds drifted aimlessly about and we were able to replay a childhood game, that of recognizing the cloud shapes. As we watched, a perfect St. Bernard dog turned into an elongated Russian greyhound, then faded gradually away like a ghost, a dog ghost, that is. A castle broke up into wooded islands which in turn became pies in the skies. Such foolishness in a mature woman! Perhaps, but harmless, and fun. Try it some time.

At Sunnyacres, all was peace and warmth on the south verandah. A bluejay flew restlessly about the orchard, and a chicadee came within two feet of us, a delightful little creature, soft, pert and inquisitive. We both moaned, as usual, "Why, oh why, do we live in the city!" To which I replied, "Because we cannot afford to live in the country." Much as I love the country, I am afraid that I like even better to eat. So we returned to our good friend's for lunch. We had brought a pizza with us. They are now available in packaged form, and an hour's time produces a very good product. We like ours with cheese. They look so decorative, too.

From politics to films to Sunnyacres and food, and so down to earth because the dinner needs attention, and the space is used up.

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send your question to your district Unemployment Insurance office. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. My wife lost her job some weeks ago and is now drawing $19.00 a week unemployment insurance benefits. I am now out of work but I am told I can only draw $23.00 per week. Last year I drew $30.00 a week. What is the reason for the difference?

A. Your wife is not considered a dependent while she is drawing unemployment insurance in excess of $14.00 a week and, therefore, you are now drawing the single rate which is $23.00.

Q. I have always worked full time but now I am ill. My doctor says I can only work a few hours each day. I don't feel equal to working more than that and the employment office says they haven't any part-time work that I could do. Can I draw benefits until I find something suitable?

A. If you left your last employment because of illness, you cannot draw benefit until you are again capable of and available for work. Whether or not you can draw benefit until some job within your capacity becomes available depends to a great extent on your physical condition and on local employment conditions. You should file a claim with your local Employment Office and give full particulars so that a proper decision can be given.

OUT ON A LIMB

By Stumpy McCulloch

Ol' Sidewinder is always gettin' into trouble! They was conductin' an auction at his place last week, when the auctioneer fell sick and a substitute was brought in. The feller did mighty well, too, till he was asked to auction off a persnickety buck goat. Quickly he phoned the boss. "How do I describe this creature?" he asked. "I never saw the likes of it. It has a gray coat, a mean and nasty look, gray whiskers, and smells to high heaven."

"Holy mackerel," shouted the boss. "Don't auction that. That's Ol' Sidewinder!"

What's the oldest living thing? A while back, I said I thought it was a 4000-year-old bristlecone pine tree out in California. Well, sir, a feller writes that the oldest tree is actually a Macrozamia in Australia, and he says it's 12,000 years old! But of course he can't be sure, because nobody's ever counted its rings! Another feller tells me the record-holder is a gigantic cypress near Oaxaca, Mexico, which has a circumference of 165 feet, a height of 150 feet, and is believed to be 5000 years old! But don't expect me to tell you which tree was planted first, folks, 'cause it happened before my time!

Don't forget about the Soil Bank program! The government pays us an average of $10 an acre a year to turn cropland into tree farms! And timber is a mighty fine crop these days, too, because the price of wood and pulp products is going up and up! For more information about the Soil Bank program, check with your local county agronome or farm agent.

* * *

I find growin' trees is sort of like having money in the bank! As a feller down in North Carolina puts it, "Whenever I need a little cash, I turn to the woods!" From his wood lot, this feller has already sold a great deal of saw timber and pulpwood, has built a barn and a chicken house, and now he's getting ready to build a new home. "And I figure these 64 pines right behind the old house are going to give me a good start," he says.

'Line of Duty' Thrill Story, RCMP True-Life Assignments

By G. E. Mortimore,
"All Aboard" Columnist

Victoria — The head of Royal Canadian Mounted Police in British Columbia was once a prominent bootlegger. But he did it in the line of duty.

Assistant Commissioner Clifford Walter Harvison, who now administers B.C.'s 1,000-man force from an office in the vine-covered headquarters building on Courtney Street, Victoria, remembers with amusement how he served as a bootlegger for the RCMP.

He was a constable in Montreal at the time. Prohibition was the law in the United States. New York racketeers were importing liquor from Canada, sending back stolen silks to be smuggled into Canada as a return cargo.

Smuggled silk could be purchased in Montreal more cheaply than honest silk in New York. Constable Harvison and another man were assigned to clean up the racket. They set up business as bootleggers in New York State, circulating through such towns as Plattsburg and Syracuse.

"In fact," says the assistant commissioner, "we became two of the best-known bootleggers in the area."

United States police were not party to the secret, so if the undercover men had been caught, they would have had some explaining to do. But they avoided arrest, and in six months they gathered information that led to the seizure of $150,000 worth of silks and the end of the racket.

A tight-lipped, whimsical smile lights the assistant commissioner's face as he remembers the funny side of past cases. "Cliff" Harvison is a lean, tall man, six foot four, aged 55, with a deep rumbling voice, a calm disposition and a steel-trap mind.

His cool head made him the choice for a number of important jobs, some involving national security. He and his long-time associate, Supt. J. R. W. "Pete" Bordeleau, now chief of the criminal investigation bureau in B.C. (his second-in-command) helped him play nursemaid to a German spy during the 1939-45 war.

The spy was a German who had lived in Canada for some years. A submarine landed him on the shore of the Bay of Chaleur, in full naval uniform. But he changed to civilian clothes immediately afterwards. A hotel-keeper at New Carlisle, Quebec, became suspicious of him, and called police.

The agent had a radio set and $6,000 in cash. "Cliff" Harvison and "Pete" Bordeleau were sent to interrogate him and bring him back to Montreal.

For some time the man stubbornly refused to talk. Supt. Bordeleau remembers how his chief broke down the spy's reserve. Police officers know that sometimes during interrogation there comes a moment when a man is on the point of confessing, but dares not, because of shame. He needs a "bridge for his conscience" — something to justify him.

The agent's $6,000 included $1,000 in gold pieces and a sum in bills — $20's, $10's and the big old $2 bills, which had been withdrawn from circulation. Cliff Harvison picked up one of the $2 bills and examined it with a critical eye. "Have you any enemies in Germany?" he asked.

The man shook his head. Mr. Harvison talked about something else, then returned to the subject. He held one of the bills to the light. "Just look at that," he said in a tone of disgust, handing it to "Pete" Bordeleau.

"I didn't know what he had in mind," Supt. Bordeleau recalls. "So I just said 'Tch, tch!' Then Mr. Harvison turned to the spy and demanded: 'If you have no bad friends in Germany, how is it that they supplied you with $2,000 in counterfeit bills?'"

That was the bridge for conscience that the spy needed: treachery at home. He began to talk. Police persuaded him to become a double agent, pretending to be a spy but in fact working for the Allies.

They tried to reach his base in Hamburg, using his equipment, but couldn't make radio contact. So they put more power in his set and built a 50-foot radio mast.

The agent, working in co-operation with Harvison and Bordeleau, talked to Hamburg twice a day for a year. The Mounted Police maintained close liaison with Canadian and British intelligence; cautiously fed the Germans harmless information and in return milked them for all the knowledge they dared.

The Germans never suspected that their agent from the submarine had gone over to the Allies. Radio contact with Hamburg yielded valuable information about German espionage methods. But after a year, intelligence authorities decided that the double-agent trick had outlived its usefulness, and closed the station.

One of the greatest difficulties about the operation was keeping it hidden. The agent was staying with a German family who spoke with thick accents. That fact aroused suspicion. It was thought necessary to keep the agent in a German family, so as to free him from tension and preserve his style of wireless sending. A wireless operator's style is as individual as handwriting. Any change would have been noticed in Hamburg.

The agent was under observation day and night by RCMP guards in civilian clothes. The sight of strangers coming and going, and a 50-foot radio mast rising above a house in Mount Royal, started the neighbors whispering. The powerful transmitter interfered with their radios.

To soothe the neighbors, police spread the word that secret radio experiments were under way in that house, in the cause of national defence. The whole truth never leaked out.

Honey is sold in both granulated and liquid form. If the container is labelled "liquid" the honey will remain in liquid form.

"Pasteurized" honey has been treated by the controlled application of heat to a point where all yeasts responsible for fermentation are destroyed. For this reason, it will keep indefinitely.

CANADA CONTINUES CEYLON SURVEY

—Central Press Canadian

R. G. "Nik" Cavell of Ottawa, right, administrator of the Canadian Colombo Plan, recently inspected the integrated resources survey of Ceylon now being done for the Canadian government by The Photographic Survey Corporation of Toronto. He is shown here in Colombo, Ceylon, inspecting an aerial photograph of the island which now has been completely photographed by PSC aircraft. Dr. R. L. Oliver, Toronto, chief geologist of the survey, explains how these aerial photographs will be used to inventory possible mineral wealth of the island. The survey, which will be used for irrigation, hydroelectric and agriculture planning as well as mineral development, is being directed by Canadian experts. It will be completed in 1958.

A CASE FOR SOLOMON

—Central Press Canadian

Mrs. G. C. Sumner of Port Credit, Ont., is being sued, along with her husband, for $1,000 which she never received. Here's how it happened: the Sumners signed an agreement to sell their home; the buyer paid $1,000 to the Ridout Real Estate agency to seal the agreement; conditions of sale of the house could not be met; Ridout went into bankruptcy; the buyer wants his $1,000 back, so he is suing the Sumners. A court decision on this question will affect many others in similar circumstances.

POLIO VACCINE

Vancouver (CP) — There has been no rush to buy Salk anti-polio vaccine here. A spokesman for the B.C. Polio Fund says he believes a reduction to 87 cases in the province last year from 250 in 1955 has left people "too complacent" about polio.

TRAIN CYCLISTS

Vancouver (CP) — A stepped-up educational program for young cyclists in Vancouver is sought by the B.C. Automobile Association. The group's board of directors at its latest meeting also decided to ask for "stricter enforcement" for regulations for cyclists.

BIG SURVEY

Edmonton (CP) — The first soil survey was conducted in 1921. Now, 36 years later, more than 45,000,000 acres have been mapped and described by the soil survey division of the Canada Experimental Farm Service, the Alberta Research Council and the University of Alberta soils department.
