CPR Plans April 28 Diesel Service "Dayliners" to Replace Local Trains

The Canadian Pacific Railway will commence operating "Dayliner" diesel Budd cars on the Montreal - Ottawa North Shore line (through Lachute), on April 28, F. A. Pouliot, C.P.R. General Superintendent for this area announced at a meeting of the local Richelieu Club last Thursday evening.

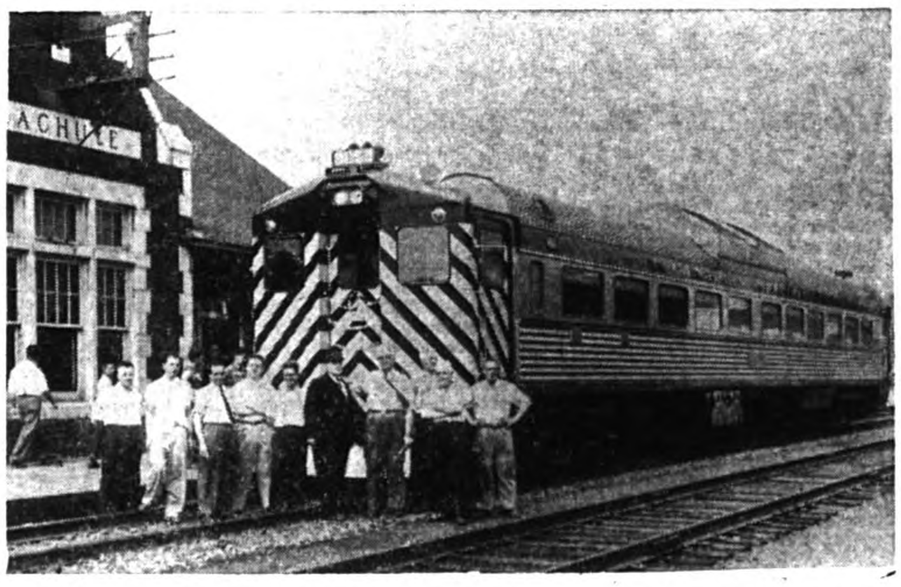

Mr. Pouliot was the guest speaker at last week's meeting and addressed the Club on general railway operation. When later questioned on his statement relative to the local line, he confirmed the statement adding that at the present time, the service would replace the present trains and would not be a commuter service. It is expected that the regular train will run Sunday evenings as well as on the various holidays.

The new service is expected to speed-up travelling time between this locality and Montreal or Ottawa, as it has been learned that the railway has cancelled all local contracts for the carrying of mail and express. This will mean a minimum passenger stop at the various stations. The present trains are allowed only several minutes at the Lachute station, but at present, take up to 20-odd minutes by the time all express and mail has been unloaded.

The Budd car is all-metal, has a seating capacity for 70 passengers and is equipped with a reverse diesel drive. The various test runs to Lachute have cut the running time to a minimum, this being 52 minutes from Montreal's Park Avenue Station to Lachute.

The unit has a rapid pick-up, being capable of reaching a speed of 70 m.p.h. within a mile of a dead stop; maximum speed is 90 m.p.h.

These units have been operating between Montreal and Mont Laurier and various other points in the province for some time and the company has been contemplating placing them on the local run for some time.

General Business at Ayersville Council

General business was discussed at the regular meeting of the Ayersville Municipal Council, presided over by Mayor Réal Morrissette, a full Council being in attendance.

Jean Bourduas presented the Council with a bill amounting to some $30 for damage to his car, which he claimed was due to poorly maintained municipal roads. The request was tabled, to be turned over to the insurance company concerned.

Accounts for the month, totalling $646.62, were approved for payment. Considerable discussion surrounded an account of $395 from Dominion Prime Wood Products, for work completed in 1954-55. This account was held for payment until further particulars were obtained.

It was proposed by Councillor Rosaire Quenneville, seconded by Councillor Aurelien Foucault, that a $50 deposit be made, in order to obtain the government grader when needed.

A grocery-restaurant license was granted Cecil Woolok, Tessier Street, and a letter from Georges Clement, complaining of water in his cellar, was tabled.

Secretary-treasurer Conrad Legault presented the monthly financial statement which indicated that while receipts totalled $1,304.10, disbursements were $1,690.21.

Legal advisor Roger Legarde was authorized to claim on behalf of the municipality, the sum of $130.52 from Municipal Service Reg., this being for a quantity of pipe missing on an order.

The meeting was adjourned to March 18.

House-To-House Postal Delivery Planned for Lachute This Summer

Local M.P. Makes Joint Announcement For Lachute and St. Eustache Districts

The population of Lachute, Lachute Mills and Ayersville is expected to have door-to-door mail delivery about the middle of July, Philippe Valois, M.P., for Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes announced Tuesday. He added that the question had been decided in principle for some time, although no statement has as yet been made in the House of Commons.

Philippe Valois, M.P., Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes

Mr. Valois was questioned on the local delivery possibilities following a speech he made in the House last Thursday, when he congratulated Postmaster General Hugues Lapointe on the general efficiency of the Postal Department in general.

"Providing for a letter carrier service in the Greater Lachute area is much more complex than it first appears," Mr. Valois stated. "It will be necessary to centralize all the carriers, with sub-post offices located throughout the area. This will allow the general public greater facilities in the postal domaine (purchase of stamps, postal notes, etc.)".

The department is presently studying the possibilities of truck transportation of the mail, as on April 28, all local contracts with the CPR have been cancelled due to diesel "Dayliner" cars replacing the present trains. It is anticipated that by the use of trucks, the mail will arrive in Lachute earlier, making the local delivery sooner than at present.

"The general public of the area will definitely be informed of any positive plans well in advance, Mr. Valois added in closing, "as we will need the co-operation of all concerned to put the new service into effect."

In his House of Commons address last Thursday, Mr. Valois discussed the possibilities of door-to-door mail delivery in St. Eustache and St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac, stating "On looking up the statistics, I see that the 1951 census gives a population of 21,048 for the constituency of Two Mountains; in 1956, the figures were 26,595 an increase of 5,547 or of more than 25 percent."

He then pointed out that of this increase, 95 percent had taken place in the two above-mentioned communities, which have become, in effect, suburbs of Montreal.

"Mail delivery service there has already proven inadequate and I feel that, even if some improvements were considered, to take care of the situation they would soon prove definitely inadequate, because of the rate of increase of the population. It is for that reason that in that area where we have approximately 3,000 householders, I believe that the department would be justified in providing for a letter carrier service.

"If a new post office building was constructed, that solution would be but a temporary one. I feel that the department would be justified in insuring letter carrier service, and it is because of that fact that I commend this request to the attention of the Postmaster General."

Fish Derby Certain Plans Underway By Local Rotarians

A committee to organize the Rotary Club Fish Derby in the A. D. McGibbon and Sons Park, north of Lake Louisa was set up at last Thursday's meeting of Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club at which president Keith Hickson was in the chair.

Named to the committee by the executive of the Club were Rotarians Norm Somers, George McGibbon and Stuart Jones and plans are to be released shortly. The executive also decided that an additional Club director was necessary and this situation will be remedied at the coming election of officers.

Letters of thanks were received from various individual students of Lachute High School who were guests of the Club at a recent tour of the provincial capital.

A letter of thanks was received from the CNIB White Cane Club, in recognition of a donation and discussion then turned to a joint meeting with the Hawkesbury Club during the month of June, when the clubs will be joint hosts to a high school choir from Troy, N.Y.

Guest speaker Lucien Moise, of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada was introduced by Rotarian Don Jamison. The text of Mr. Moise's address on Long Distance Dialing will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Drop Investigation Of Recent Shooting

Gerard Durand, 26, of Victoriaville, Que., who suffered shotgun wounds under mysterious circumstances on the highway near Hawkesbury recently, has been discharged from hospital.

Ontario Provincial Police Cpl. Ernest Renaud, told that Durand steadfastly claimed he had no recollection of the shooting. The man was found seated in his car near Chute-a-Blondeau. He had suffered slight wounds in the upper left part of the chest.

Taken to the Smith Clinic, Durand appeared to be in a shock for some hours following the shooting. When he was able to talk to police he said he had no idea how he was shot.

A 12-gauge shotgun, believed to have been the weapon which caused the injury to Durand, was found on a side road about 50 yards from where a passerby, Jacques Wilson, of Chute-a-Blondeau, noticed the wounded man sitting in his car.

OPP Cpl. Renaud said that no charges had been laid against anyone, and that the investigation had been dropped.

Legion Branch 70 Curlers Defeated In Finals Ste. Anne de Bellevue Players Winnipeg Bound

Provincial play-offs in what has now become a Dominion-wide Veterans' Curling Competition, were held at the Lachute Curling Rink on Friday and Saturday of last week — with Churchill Branch No. 91, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, winning over Argenteuil Branch (Lachute) No. 70 with a 11-7 score.

The Veterans' Curling Competition originated four years ago by O. F. Thompson, Provincial Legion Sports Chairman, who had difficulty in getting even a few rinks sufficiently interested to make a start. Once going, however, the idea quickly took hold and this year, in Quebec Province alone, there were upwards of 50 rinks in competition.

War Veterans from Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Drummondville, Huntingdon, Victoriaville, St. Lambert, Shawinigan Falls and Lachute, were competitors, with Lacolle, unable to be present and defaulting to Ste. Anne's. Results were as follows:

Lacolle defaulted to Ste. Anne de Bellevue.
Drummondville defeated Huntingdon	8-6.
Lachute defeated Victoriaville	11-4.
Shawinigan Falls defeated St. Lambert	12-4.
SEMI-FINALS
Ste. Anne's defeated Drummondville	13-4.
Lachute defeated Shawinigan Falls	13-8.
FINALS
Ste. Anne's defeated Lachute	11-7

In the semi-finals both winners in the ten-end game had a score of 13, which intimated that it would be a tough battle for the play-off and so it was, with one and two points gained at the close of each end.

The teams were well matched and gave a splendid exhibition of fine curling, especially the winners who, we were informed, had been playing together as a team for some time, and had recently won nine games in succession for their Club. Skip was Clayton Smith, assisted by Art Hincks, Ken Rowe and Dr. Taylor Adams.

The Lachute four comprised Roy Fraser, skip, Geo. Calder, Fred Stein and Dick MacLean.

A banquet, at the Legion Hall, provided by the Ladies' Auxiliary, gave opportunity for the presentation of the main trophy, which the first year was won by Ste. Anne's and last year by Lachute.

The winners were also recipients of a trophy from Gooderham & Worts, with individual silver jugs, presented by Mr. J. Martin, the Quebec Manager of that concern, and individual wallets, the gift of the local Legion branch.

Comrade Eddie Jones acted as chairman and was thanked for the arrangements which had made the event such a fine success.

In turn appreciation was expressed to Mr. Don Hay, president of Lachute Curling Club, for his co-operation.

Mayor Léopold Carrière welcomed the gathering and congratulated the winners, who will soon be on their way to Winnipeg to compete in the Dominion Championships.

Comrade Foulkes, Hon. Secretary of Provincial Command, spoke briefly on the work entailed in the organization of this 'Spiel and thanked all concerned. He was introduced by Comrade President Bob St. Laurent.

Silver sugar and tea sets, also jiggers were presented to the local branch as runners-up.

Lucky prize winners in the raising of funds to defray the winning teams expenses, were Mrs.' Doug Ogilvie, who received a cheque of $500, and R. A. Giles, one of $150, 1st and 2nd prizes respectively in the raffle.

From present indications this 'Spiel will grow in popularity and will no doubt be on a par with the present "Briar", which affords keen competition and a great deal of pleasure.

It is hoped that Lachute may again be chosen for the play-off games.

Farm Forum Members Discuss Co-Operatives

On Monday evening, February 25, 30-odd Argenteuil Farm Forum members met in the Lachute High School Science Lecture room and following the radio broadcast on Co-operatives, was a discussion on the subject.

It was thought that since there are often several small co-operative organizations in most communities they should all unite if possible into one large co-operative, so they could operate more efficiently with less cost.

The members also felt that co-operatives were not supported by the farmers the way they should. There was some discussion on other minor subjects, followed by color slides shown by Stuart Armstrong and home movies in color by Ross Oswald, who also chaired the meeting.

Pot-luck lunch was then served in the cafeteria and everyone left for home after an enjoyable evening.

Suspect Captured After St. Placide Bank Robbery

André Belanger, 26, of St. Eustache, was detained by Provincial Police Monday, two hours after a $1,000 armed robbery of the Banque Provinciale du Canada sub-branch at St. Placide.

The robbery occurred at 10.15 a.m. when a man carrying a gun walked up to Mrs. Armand Dubreuil, the acting branch manager, who was alone, and ordered her to hand over the money in the cash drawer.

Mrs. Dubreuil complied and the man fled in an auto which was parked at the front door. But the license number was noted and the car was spotted at St. Eustache two hours later.

A Provincial Police highway officer and two members of the St. Eustache police force took the driver into custody. He was taken later to headquarters in Montreal for questioning.

CBC Radio Features Local 4-H Leader

The CBC Junior Farm Club recently paid special tribute to Ross Oswald, local Junior Farm Leader, for the community work he has done during the past years and a brief story of his home farm was also heard.

Deputy Governor Visits Lions Club; Plan Events

The Lachute Lions Club had the pleasure of being host to their Deputy District Governor, Tris Coffin, of Montreal, at their semi-monthly meeting held Tuesday evening. Mr. Coffin was accompanied by 28 members from the clubs on the Island of Montreal.

President L. J. Dumais announced that the club intended staging a gigantic evening show on the style of the French T.V. give-away program "La Rigolade". Arrangements for sufficient space to accommodate the attendance to such a spectacle are presently being made.

It was announced that Lion Col. E. Emmett would act as chairman of the car raffle committee and that the car will as in past years, be drawn at the Lachute Spring Fair in early June.

Deputy District Governor Coffin addressed the meeting and explained the administrative organization of the Lions Clubs, both on a National and Regional basis. By quoting some interesting statistics, he showed the encouraging enthusiasm of the World's largest service organization. The Deputy Governor particularly referred to the Lachute Lions Club's accomplishments and praised both the past and the present executive for its success.

Lion Phil Tremblay introduced the guest and Lion E. M. Jones expressed the thanks of the club.

Local Horses Start Training Review Last Year's Results

Spring must be close at hand, for the trotters and pacers can be seen in training around Lachute and the MacTavish barn is now empty with nine head going to London, Ont. recently, with Stanley Lewis and Duncan MacTavish at the helm. The hobbyists of Lachute and Brownsburg did quite well locally, but unfortunately for the man who works during the day and races at night we are not well situated to race where the money is to be made.

Mr. King (2.11 3/5) won one heat and $646 for Leon St. Jacques before being sold to parties down Sherbrooke way, while Joe Forbes B (2.16), the St. Jacques trotter, was the top local money winner with four heats and $1,200 in limited racing.

Lady Van B (2.12) won one heat and $940 for Ernie Kennedy, Senator Bars (2.10) winning one and $400; all their racing was done in Montreal. Kennedy has a very promising full sister to Bars, Tibby Volo Bars; this filly, broken-in last year, was really pacing it off. There is also a yearling by Princelike that looks pretty good, however, she received a nasty leg cut and it is hoped that it will heal nicely. Miss Senator Volo will not be foaling this year and unfortunately, Princess Vanette lost twin foals.

Ethel Bars raced only locally and she won 12 heats and $315 for the Joly Brothers.

Monte Cristo won six heats and $300 for owner Wilf Arcand and Bill Hewitt, Jr., the driver.

Danny Forbes had a bad year for Pauline St. Jacques; he wouldn't settle in his hopples and so was taken out of training early.

Lizabeth Peters, the Hewitt's mare, suffered an ankle injury and was taken out of training to have it doctored, and both Lizabeth and Danny are coming along nicely in spring training.

Gilbert Forbes, owned by Punch Joly, and Effective Peters, owned by Bill and Dot Hewitt, both took easy training last year with Effective being switched to pacing.

Jim MacKimmie sold Callie G. Lee (2.08 2/5) last fall, she finished out the year with three wins and $1,530.

Bill Hewitt, Sr. was jogging a couple of colts for Del MacTavish last fall and sold Miss K Lee to Clarence Brazeau, of Grenville, who owned and raced Happy Lee. He sold Happy and bought Gordie Forbes from the Joly Brothers. Miss K Lee has since changed hands again as has Gordie Forbes, who is now with Bill Hewitt, Sr., while the Brazeau's have bought Bucknell (2.12 2/5), a ten year old horse by Brookdale (1.59 3/4), he is a 20 class pacer, unraced during the past two years due to the age of his owner.

The Victor Gauley's, of Grenville, just recently purchased Prince Chilcoot; this horse has done some racing at Connaught, but comes to Grenville in rather poor shape. He is being built up and it is hoped will be ready to race at the Fair.

Wilmer Stephens, of Vankleek Hill, did most of his racing in Montreal. Eden of Ohio (2.10 1/5), who started late in the summer won three heats and $635, while Ima Fingo (2.09 2/5) won five heats and $2,900.

The Cameron's trotter Happyland (2.09 3/5) also from the Hill, won five heats and $1,215.

Worthy Walton, well known to local race fans and owned by Jimmy Connors, won six heats and $500. This old horse made his mark of 2.11 1/5 when he was 14; because of his age rising 18, he was able to race only at the fairs and Rigaud, and so did real well.

Speaking of old horses — many will remember Brown Derby (2.07 1/2), once owned by C. Moseley, this old horse, also 18, is still doing a little racing at the fairs in the Eastern Townships.

Jack Goodwill (2.11 3/5), who made Ethel Bars and Monte Cristo step it out when they met, won six heats and $429 for A. Chevrier, of Rigaud.

Jean Proximity, the locally raised mare sold awhile back by the Joly's, raced mostly at Three Rivers this year where she won two heats and earned $835.

H. Renaud is driving Joe Hazleton more for pleasure than to race; a full sister of this horse, Therese Priceton, owned by R. Grandmaison, of St. Eustache, has a mark of 2.12 3/5 and won three heats and $2,343.

In the more professional line we have the MacTavish Stable. Racing in Montreal Fingo's Bertha (2.12) won three heats and $1,900, while Bold Knight (2.05 3/5) won four heats and $2,400. Down in the States, horses driven by Heather MacTavish, won two heats and $8,200. Silver Jerry (2.05 2/5) won $1,500 and Grateful Billy (2.06 3/5) won three heats and a total of $3,300.

A horse called Rochester is at Harrington, Delaware, training with Paul Vineyard, while Lucille Royal is at home along with a yearling by Buster Song. Black Ash has gone to London as has Adios Abbe.

Five other horses trained and raced by the MacTavish stable are in London after wintering locally, these being Jean the 1st, Chet Hanover, King Carroll, Worthy Scone and Saratoga Hanover. Del also has several horses of Alex Parsons, of London, and is expecting some American horses this spring, while John Campbell is in Florida with a couple of colts. The horses will be starting at Richelieu in early May.

The Hewitt's will be bringing Shirley Peters home in March to foal some time in April. She has been in Ottawa for almost two years. Last year she had a good looking colt, Lucky Day Peters, which was sold to J. C. Simmons; fingers are crossed for a filly this year.

Local Clergyman Voices Support Of C. of C.

Rev. C. R. Lang, L.Th., R.D.

In response to a request by an interested party, I have been asked to write briefly upon the desirability of re-organizing the Lachute Chamber of Commerce.

My association with this organization goes back a number of years, when the Chamber of Commerce was an active organization. The officers and members were keenly interested in promoting the town's welfare, particularly in attracting new industries.

We are all aware of the constant necessity for our young people to leave Lachute to seek work elsewhere. No town can grow and prosper under such conditions. The progressive towns and cities which attract industry attract the youth also and benefit thereby.

Formerly, the Lachute Chamber of Commerce visited progressively-minded towns to learn from them, and invited their Chambers of Commerce to visit Lachute. In this way they endeavored to build up our Town and district's prestige.

Speakers were invited to address the members on topics relative to the town's progress and the Chamber was genuinely concerned. My regret is that the considerable efforts and fruits of the Chamber's work were somewhat frustrated.

The fact that this organization brought together our two great races in a combined effort to attract new industries, to publicize the attractiveness of our district and to endeavor to help the town and community attain a brighter future, surely merits the interest and support of all the people in the community for its immediate re-organization.

Approve University Status for Carleton

Carleton College is now a university, president Claude T. Bissell announced last week.

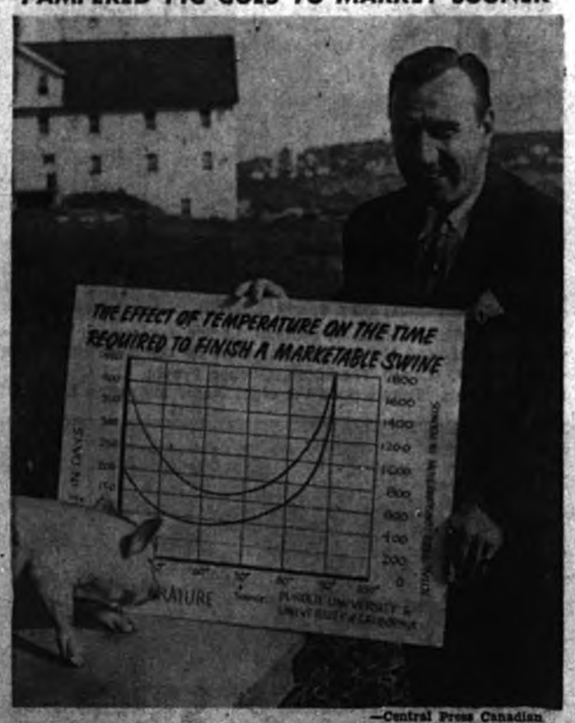

Speaking to the Carleton College Building and Development Campaign dinner, he said that final reading had been given a bill in the Ontario legislature officially authorizing the name "Carleton University".

"The bill now awaits the formality of royal approval", he said, "but for the remainder of this dinner at least, I think I will jump the gun and call it 'Carleton University'."

Dr. Bissell said the institution had actually reached university status in 1952, but the name had not been changed. Another bill would make McMaster University at Hamilton a non-denominational institute and incorporate the present divinity school as an affiliated school.

McMaster University and its associated Hamilton College would be united and removed from control of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec.

PAMPERED PIG GOES TO MARKET SOONER

—Central Press Canadian

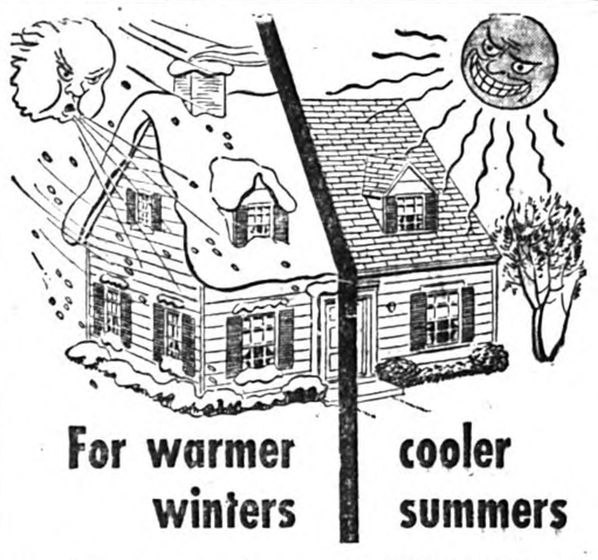

This little piggy could go to market much quicker than his predecessors, thanks to air-conditioning. William G. Hillen shows the interested little porker a chart revealing the effects of temperature on the time and cost to raise a pig for market. According to research by the Universities of Purdue and California, pigs raised in 65-degree surroundings require less time and feed to reach marketable weight. So now it appears air-conditioned hog houses may soon be a standard item for breeders who previously have been hard hit by summertime drops in hog production.

Local "Splashing-Points"

THE RECENT Spring-like weather once again left pedestrians at the mercy of motorists but this is just to be considered a reminder of what is to come within a few weeks.

Among the many such spots on Lachute's streets is one in particular, that being located near the Memorial Park. A large section of Main Street adjacent to the sidewalk is, and has been for years, extremely low and a gathering place for melting snow, etc. This location is just across the street from the North River and it surely would not take a great deal of money to run a drain across the street and into the river.

There are numerous improvements needed in this area, but none so simple to remedy as this, one of the worst "splashing-points" for pedestrians in the Lachute district.

Criminal Parole

A THUG KILLED by a policeman's bullets in Montreal last week in a gun-battle in which another constable also was slain, was free on parole from Stony Mountain penitentiary.

This criminal had come first to the attention of Montreal police in 1939 when he was taken into custody for carrying concealed weapons. In 1945 he was sentenced to four years in prison for armed robbery, but the conviction was reversed upon appeal. The same year, he paid two fines for carrying offensive weapons.

In 1956 this man escaped from custody in Montreal when he was being held on bank robbery and other charges. He was recaptured, convicted, and sentenced to 15 years in penitentiary. Released on parole a few weeks ago, having served over ten years of his sentence, it appears he returned promptly to his criminal pursuits.

It is to be hoped that Parliament will want to know from the Minister of Justice why this man was set free on parole and just exactly what induced justice officers to believe he had reformed.

The institution of parole is an excellent device for aiding the criminal who has seen the error of his ways and for assisting him in re-establishing himself in society. In this case, it back-fired and an officer of the law has been slain. This killing was needless as such a criminal with a record similar to his should be kept behind bars and not released on parole where he can continue his lawless habits.

Life-Saving Vaccine

NO REASONABLE person can fail to be convinced of the efficacy of the new Salk vaccine in preventing poliomyelitis by the figures given to the House of Commons by Mr. Paul Martin, Minister of National Health.

Statements such as these, on the authority of the Minister, are incontrovertible:

"During 1956 paralytic poliomyelitis occurred in only 10 children (in Canada) who had received vaccine.

"No child who had received all three doses of vaccine developed paralytic poliomyelitis, nor were there any polio deaths among vaccinated children."

The situation is bound to grow progressively better as Salk-protected children increase in numbers, and swift progress in that direction is being made. By the end of next month, said Mr. Martin, 2,800,000 children will have received at least one dose of the vaccine and "a very substantial proportion" will have had two or more.

Medical science has few achievements more to its credit than the conquest of polio — a disease which caused untold suffering and many deaths. Polio moves now into the class that contains smallpox, typhoid fever and diphtheria — diseases that can be prevented.

Directional Lights

LONG-OVERDUE acceptance as legal, of directional lights on cars puts an end to an unnecessary situation. These valuable additions to the safety factors of motor vehicles have greatly increased in numbers yearly with new machines, until now they are almost, if not altogether, standard equipment. In spite of this the Quebec law kept on insisting on manual signals as being the only lawful way for one driver to indicate his movements, and as very many drivers neglected to give such signals, especially in winter, an unnecessary element of danger remained and grew greater. There is much less excuse for failure to indicate turns with the directional light.

One detail remains. Lacking a rear light distinguishable as indicating a stop (in addition to the usual red brake signal) the law still requires the making of a manual signal when the vehicle is coming to a halt. Buses carry a light marked stop. Something of the sort is required for the automobile to indicate a full stop, not a slowing of speed only. The majority of drivers with directional and braking-light equipment may be tempted to rely on these as giving all the indication necessary and forget that a hand signal is still required.

Ontario Tax Increase

ONTARIO has raised its gasoline tax by two cents to bring it to 13 cents a gallon. Provincial Treasurer Porter does not suggest that Quebec's rate of taxation had anything to do with Ontario's tax increase, but the two-cent rise does bring Ontario's rate to the Quebec level. Since 1950 the Quebec gasoline tax has been 13 cents a gallon.

Ontario motorists still have an advantage over their opposite numbers in Quebec. They will pay as much for gasoline but they pay much less than the Quebec motorist for car and drivers' licenses.

Local Chamber of Commerce Needed; Must Be Revived and Supported By Citizens

As an ex-President of the Lachute Chamber of Commerce, I cannot remain indifferent to the commendable efforts which are presently being put forward to revive the interest in the local Chamber of Commerce.

Since the question: "Can the Chamber of Commerce be Revived" was made public, I am convinced that many of our fellow-citizens who are gifted with a civic pride have also asked themselves the same question. Once this first step was taken they went a little farther to attempt to find a practical solution.

As has been said, Lachute with its present development and its future possibilities cannot be without an organization such as a Chamber of Commerce.

No one can deny the absolute necessity of a municipal council, school commission, or service clubs and in my opinion the Chamber of Commerce is also as important as these organizations for a town like Lachute.

The municipal council as well as the school commission is a legislative body. What other organization could better play the part of an advisory and public relation body than a Chamber of Commerce.

It is its responsibility to draft plans, stimulate ideas in the public's mind, discuss these plans and ideas and have them developed and put into practice when perfected. That is what a Chamber of Commerce is and it is its most important reason for existence. Evidently, it must also have a personal interest in its members, help them in specific ways as much as possible, but that is secondary.

A citizen who joins the Chamber of Commerce in the hope of receiving penny-for-penny returns for his fees, makes a serious error and does not understand the object of a Chamber of Commerce. Definitely, if a Chamber of Commerce fulfills its objective the results are generally felt by each citizen directly or indirectly.

It is perhaps the indirect effect on each individual's level that we have difficulty in appraising. The intangible benefits are not easy for each of us to individually appreciate.

It is not because of these hidden benefits that we should pretend that they do not exist. Has not a united effort more value and effect than that of an individual one. There again, there must be absolute "esprit de corps", essential to any organization.

If we entrust a Chamber of Commerce to a small group of people we cannot expect these to always maintain their enthusiasm at a maximum, as it requires a great amount of courage, determination and civic interest to carry the load of a Chamber of Commerce.

On a strictly local basis, a municipality cannot be without the services of a Chamber of Commerce and the town of Lachute is not excepted as a general rule. If we consider it on a regional basis, or even provincial, what advantages can a Chamber of Commerce bring to a municipality. The publicity that a town can realize through a Chamber of Commerce is immense. When a town or city is represented at a Convention by members and officials of its Chamber of Commerce, it is the name of the town or city which is in evidence and is remembered. We easily forget the individuals, their names, but, it is difficult to forget the town which they represented.

In the Laurentian district, the Town of Lachute has acquired a reputation and prestige which must be maintained and no organization is better prepared to do this than a Chamber of Commerce. Moreover, we of Lachute have a part to play both in the regional and provincial plan because of the ethnical character which is particular to us. We have advantages which afford us an opportunity to exercise a favorable influence on our fellow Canadians. We cannot shirk this duty which in serving others, gives us a distinct satisfaction. The part we must play is through the Chamber of Commerce and this we will act perfectly.

To the two questions "Can the Chamber of Comerce be Revived"? and "Must be revived" my answer is: "It Must be Revived" because our town of Lachute cannot realize its proper objective without it. It can be revived because I am convinced that there are enough true citizens to revive it. By true citizens, I mean men who are prepared to give of their time, and even some of their money to work for the common good and who expect nothing else but the satisfaction of having done their duty. There still are some such people and that is the reason why the Chamber of Commerce will be revived.

"Pardon My Blooper"

Yesterday, just for a change, I went slumming with my hi-fi set. Instead of the usual concerto, etude, or symphony, I listened to a series of recordings sent me recently by a friend. They are a riotous selection of misfires over radio and television networks. They are not, I might add, for those of refined taste.

As I listened, I began thinking of what I might set down on paper for this week. Not unnaturally, I hit upon the idea of retelling and retelling some of the misfires that I have seen appear, during my lifetime, in the pages of our daily and weekly press. I hope you will enjoy them as much as I have done.

One of our eastern Canadian papers — noted for its utter sobriety — had a nasty habit not long ago, of reversing the captions under photographs. Some of the results were mildly humorous; others, almost disastrous. In the latter category, I think the following takes the lead.

On the Saturday pictorial page some years ago, there appeared two pictures. The first showed a gentleman of foreign extraction standing atop the gangway leading into the cabin of an airliner. With him on the platform, stood a small boy, evidently his son. The caption however, left some doubt in the readers' minds.

"SON BORN TO DAISY": it began. "There was great rejoicing at the London Zoo last week when Daisy, well-known hippopotamus gave birth to her first son. Here Daisy proudly displays her hefty off-spring to the admiring crowds. Keepers report both mother and son are doing well."

After digesting this startling announcement, I went scurrying through the rest of the picture page to see what had happened to the man and his son. Under another shot displaying a hippo and young, I learned the sad truth.

"AMBASSADOR ARRIVES WITH SON: His Excellency, V. K. Rao, ambassador to Canada for India — (fill in any name and country you like; I've forgotten who he was or where he came from) — arrived this morning at Ottawa's Rockcliffe airport. The ambassador, shown here with his young son, will take up residence immediately in the capital city and will present his credentials to the government at ten o'clock tomorrow morning."

Well, there's the story. I only regret that I cannot tell you what happened in Ottawa when the Canadian government discovered that the paper had pulled the blooper. I can say, however, that the matter must have been straightened out to everyone's satisfaction. The presses are still rolling in the paper's pressroom, some twenty years after the event.

* * *

The second story deals with an old boner which many of you probably know. But it is the best example I know of chronic foot-in-mouth disease in journalism. Where it first appeared is a moot point, but I pass it along anyway for what it is worth.

"We regret that a notice published in this paper last week inadvertently stated that Charlie Jones is a defective with the police force. What the notice should have said was, of course, that Mr. Jones is a detective with the police farce."

And, since there's space for just one more, let's see what can happen when the typesetter confuses recipes and beauty aids.

"QUESTION: I am a woman of forty-three and I am becoming prematurely wrinkled in the face. What do you recommend to combat these wrinkles?

ANSWER: Grease your pan well with a mixture of lard and bacon fat. Then place in an oven which has been preheated to 400 degrees and leave it there for ten minutes. Remove, and cover with an inch and a half of batter, then replace in oven and bake for fifteen minutes."

Cure wrinkles? Cure anything — permanently!

VACANT FARMLAND

Rather than concentrate on new industry for this area, civic officials might find richer rewards in an all-out drive to populate the thousands of acres of vacant farmland.

The Speaker's Eye

By Lewis Milligan

In the House of Commons at Ottawa the other day Mr. Speaker Beaudoin is reported to have "finally cut down J. C. Van Horne after that outspoken New Brunswick Conservative had attempted to renew his attack on Labor Minister Gregg, V.C." The Speaker told the Commons that he would simply ignore Mr. Van Horne in future. He reminded members that without the Speaker's nod no M.P. can ask a question or speak in the House. He must first catch the Speaker's eye.

This incident reminded me of an evening I spent some years ago with John Pearson, the architect of the then new Parliament Buildings at Ottawa. He was describing some of the sculptural features in the corridors of the building, one of which was a grotesque of Mr. Speaker Rhodes, and another of the Duke of Devonshire who was Governor General at that time. Mr. Rhodes was depicted with one eye shut tight. "I got the idea," said Mr. Pearson, "from a comedian who used to sing comic songs around Devonshire when I was a boy. One of his songs was about a member of parliament who had never made his maiden speech because he 'never caught the Speaker's eye.' Every time the comedian repeated this refrain he winked at the audience."

The groteseque of the Duke of Devonshire was not very flattering in its caricature of the Duke's melancholy countenance. The Duke had heard of this travesty of his features, and one day when Mr. Pearson was showing him around the interior of the building, accompanied in the rear by two young English aides, His Grace kept on insisting, "Where is this grotesque of me, Pearson?" Finally arriving at the spot, the Duke took one glance at his portrait, grunted and passed on. The two aides, curious to know what had attracted the Duke's attention, stopped to examine the exhibit and broke into ill-suppressed amusement, at which the Duke glanced backward. The aides immediately straightened up and loitered discreetly well into the rear.

That incident, however, did not affect Mr. Pearson's intimate friendship with the Duke for they were both Devonshire boys, although there was a great class distinction between them. They had each acquired a confirmed taste for Devonshire cream and particularly for the strong cider of that country, and under its influence they used to exchange reminiscences of their boyhood. During one of the exchanges Mr. Pearson turned to the Duke and said, "Your Grace, do you know that you owe me half-a-crown?" "I owe you half-a-crown, what do you mean, Pearson?" said the Duke. Mr. Pearson went on to tell the following story of his youth.

"One Bank Holiday my mother gave me a half-a-crown and told me to go to the fair and enjoy myself. Instead of going to the fair I decided to go fishing — tickling trout on your estate. I had caught three good-sized fish, one of which I tied suspended inside the leg of my pants which were an old pair of my father's cut down. I was about to hide the other two fish in the other leg when a gamekeeper suddenly appeared and arrested me for poaching. He picked up the two exposed fish and led me off by the ear toward the police station. I pleaded with him to let me go this time and I would never do it again. He ignored my appeal and said I must go to jail. At which I broke into tears and begged for mercy. I told him I had half-a-crown in my pocket and if he would let me go he could have it. After a long walk over the fields the keeper stopped by a stile and said, 'See, young fellow, you say you've got half-a-crown, well, I'll accept that as a fine for poaching.' I handed over the money and he warned me what would happen the 'next time', emphasizing it with a kick in the pants."

"So, your grace," concluded Mr. Pearson, "I have always felt I got a raw deal and that you or your estate owe me that half-crown."

"Humph," said the Duke, "but what about the other trout, Pearson?"

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Professional men — lawyers, doctors, architects and the like — are generally thought to browse in lush financial pastures. I have never seen one of them playing the violin for pennies, or selling balloons on the street.

So I was surprised when a friend told me a small true yarn of distress in the upper brackets.

"I saw a doctor of my acquaintance posting a sheaf of bills a foot thick," he said. "I summoned courage to ask him what they represented.

"He looked at me quizzically for a moment. 'Those are $4,000 worth of bills,' he said, 'and I'll guarantee that only a fraction of them will be paid.'

"About a month later I ran into this doctor, whom I know quite well. "How did you make out with those bills?' I asked.

" 'Only $84 of them have been paid," he said. 'And many of the bills outstanding are owed by wealthy people. . . If I were to write any of them a tactful reminder, they would snap back a hot answer, full of outraged dignity — but no cheque.'

"You would be surprised how many doctors are making only a fairly modest income," said my friend.

I suggested that if this was the case, some doctors had been boasting falsely to the income tax department about their earnings, because official figures showed the average doctor sitting pretty high on the economic pyramid.

He said he couldn't answer for the average doctor, but he knew several doctors who were having a struggle.

"First of all there is roughly eight years' training, in which time a doctor can earn nothing. And then he has to buy instruments, pay office rent and pay a salary to an office helper. Likely as not he has to lay out $350 a month before he makes a penny."

"I can hardly choke back the tears," I said, "Well, I know comparatively few doctors, but I know a lot of patients, and I'm sure the doctors have a real grievance.

"I know several people who stow doctors' bills in the bottom drawer and forget them. I could tell you of two or three who are quite indignant when they receive a doctor's bill. In fact, getting a doctor's bill seems to irk them so much that they go and buy a hand-made overcoat, or make the down payment on a TV set, to soothe their injured feelings."

We stood in silent contemplation of the physician's hard lot.

Over the Years with THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO
Friday, March 3, 1882 —

It will be seen in today's issue of The Watchman, that application is to be made to the Quebec Legislature for a charter to build a railroad branch to the Q.M.O. & O. Railway to go through the Township of Wentworth. This is a good move; if this railway goes through and at St. Andrews too, this coming summer, it will make times lively in Argenteuil.

Mr. F. C. Ireland having leased his sawmill, now advertises the factory part to let. A good opening for anyone wanting to start light manufacturing work.

A gathering of the Grenville and Chatham people took peaceable possession of the house of Rev. R. W. McKechnie, at Grenville in a surprise party on the evening of Thursday last. Mr. and Mrs. McKechnie were presented with, in a neat address by Mr. Gowanloch, many useful articles, including a purse of $40. Alex Pridham, Esq., added much enjoyment for those present by exhibiting some excellent lantern slides.

Lachute Saw Mill has been leased by Messrs. W. J. Simpson and Thos. Jefferson, who intend to carry on an extensive lumber business.

This is just the weather and the time for sugar making, and what a glorious time for the young men and the young ladies. The sport is delightful, camping in the woods, boiling sap and making love.

Quebecers are indignant at the purchase of the western section of the Q.M.O. & O. Railway by the Canadian Pacific, this being looked upon as a direct blow at the trade and commerce of Quebec.

A shock or an earthquake was felt at Murray Bay last week, which lasted three or four seconds. No damage was done.

A complete division has occurred in the Methodist ranks of Lachute. Rev. Mr. Walton announced in Olivet Hall last Sunday that the Primitive Methodists would occupy that hall in future, while he would hold services every Sunday evening in Victoria Hall.

Lachute grist mill has been leased from James Fish, Esq., and satisfaction is guaranteed to all customers by the new proprietor, P. Campbell.

50 YEARS AGO
Friday, March 8, 1907 —

As you begin to enumerate the things you require for your new homestead, remember we carry a stock of hand saws and augers. We are hardware fitters to all Westbound travellers, whether you are seeing Alberta's sunny slopes, N.W. Territory prairies, or New Ontario's haunted wilds — T. McOuat & Son.

Mr. G. H. Perley, M.P., spent Sunday last in town.

Last Thursday saw about the largest crowd that has been gathered in the Presbyterian Church since its erection. It was the occasion of the Annual Tea-Meeting and the proceeds amounted to $250.

A meeting of the Parish Council of St. Jerusalem was held on the 4th instant, Mayor Jas. Earle, Esq., and Councillors, W. Morrison, J. Smith, D. Stalker, Robt. Cleland, and D. Black, and the secretary, G. J. Walker.

Mr. Perley, M.P., came before Council to explain what he had done towards getting the Railway Crossing on Public Road opposite late George Patterson lot improved. Councillors Stalker, Morrison and Black were appointed to see and have the repairs done to the bridge as soon as possible.

Mr. Roy Fraser, of Hawkesbury, is spending a short visit in town with his parents.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

APMA Petition Officials Cease Sunday a.m. Events

The Argenteuil Protestant Ministerial Association met in regular session, Monday, in the Maple Avenue Baptist Church, Brownsburg.

The Rev. H. G. Baugh, president, was regretably absent on account of ill health and past president Rev. J. R. Watson presided.

The following Resolution was adopted and is to be sent to the Rink Committee in Brownsburg:
WHEREAS it has been brought to the attention of the Argenteuil Protestant Ministerial Association that occasional sporting events, with paid admission and appeal to the general public, have been presented in the Brownsburg Community Rink on some Sunday mornings; it is our considered opinion that since the above conflicts with the regular hour of worship in most churches, the practice is to the spiritual detriment of our community and WHEREAS the Arena is operated for community benefit: We urge that the Rink Committee consider the cessation of such procedure in future.

The Rev. J. R. Watson reported at some length on his recent inspection of the Old People's Home, St. Philippe.

Plans were discussed concerning the annual meeting with the Eastern Ontario Ministerial Association.

Mr. R. Ungar gave an interesting address on the important work of the Christian Minister; his chief task is to present the Way of Life. Nothing should detract from this vital work which is concerned with the child not only in the Sunday or Church School but the child's whole life. This requires the adult, trained to bring the child in touch with God. The Minister's task is finally to prepare the child and adult for the glorious life beyond the grave.

Things 'n Stuff

— By — Walter Henry Jackson

Apart from their humorous value are tongue-twisters of any use? "Yes," say teachers of Public Speaking." They bring certain muscles into use and give a speaker more control over his enunciation and diction. So try to say these as fast as possible without mistakes.

"A big, thick sleve filled with little prickly thistle sticks."

"He wore a short-sleeved sport shirt, soft soled shoes and typical tropical trousers."

"A rugged rubber baby-buggy bumper."

"A cup o' coffee in a coffee colored, copper covered, proper copper coffee cup."

"She stood at the door of Mrs. Smith's Fish Sauce Shop, welcoming him in."

"A hole in a roll o' linoleum."

"Doctor Bruce, of Duluth, pulled Luther Booth's loose tooth."

And here's one I used to use as a recitation:

"Esau Wood sawed wood. Esau Wood would saw wood. In other words, all the wood that Esau saw to saw, Esau sought to saw. Now, Esau Wood sawed wood with a wood-saw, but one day Wood's wood-saw would saw no wood, and therefore the wood that Wood sawed was not the wood that Wood would have sawed if Wood's saw would have sawed wood. So Esau sought a saw that would saw wood, and one day Esau saw a saw that would saw wood like no other wood-saw would saw wood. So Esau bought the saw that he sought when he saw that it would saw wood.

Now, Esau Wood had a friend named Esau Buck. Esau Buck sawed wood with a bucksaw, and when Esau Wood saw Esau Buck saw wood with a bucksaw, Esau Wood said to Esau Buck: "I bet I can saw more wood with a wood-saw than you can saw with a buck-saw. And Esau Buck said to Esau Wood: "No. I can saw more wood with a bucksaw than you can saw with a wood-saw. So Esau Buck and Esau Wood took the bucksaw and the sawbuck down by the see-saw and began to saw. But the bucksaw bucked, and bucked Esau Buck over the sawbuck and onto the see-saw, and that was the last we saw of Esau Buck."

Be Sawin' (I mean Seein') Ya!

Basketball

An RCAF basketball team from Morin Heights played the LHS Seniors last Friday night in the local gym.

The visitors opened the scoring in the first quarter by using their famous "twist" which was quite noticeable throughout the game. However, Lachute shot ahead to gain the lead 13-6. Play continued with baskets fairly well distributed and the RCAF gradually pulling in front 20-17.

The teams semed evenly matched, play was fast and interesting as the two squads battled to gain the winning score. When referee Malcolm Cairns blew the final whistle, RCAF had won by a slight margin, 54-52.

Wayne Bradford and Arthur Gauley were the high scorers 18 and 17 points, respectively, while Reg Stansfield, Tim Sorley and Ian Duncan won the "Three Star" awards.

The first of the provincial playoffs was staged in Lachute, Saturday morning, when the Grenville Senior girls competed with the LHS Seniors in a decisive battle for the finals.

Play was slow during the first quarter, but Lachute was ahead 8-2. Both teams guarded closely in the second and third stanzas, and consequently baskets were fewer, however LHS continued to hold the lead and at no time did Grenville outplay them. The final count showed 40-22 for Lachute.

The "Three Star" selection went to Betty Underhill, Joyce Davis and Margaret Boa, while the top scorers were Betty Underhill 20, and Shirley Pollock 10.

* * *

The Senior boys visited Rosemount Saturday night where they played an exhibition game and were defeated 62-48. Arthur Gauley, Del MacTavish and Ken Underhill were credited with the "Three Stars."

Hockey

The Lachute Junior hockey team played host to the Hudson High Juniors last Saturday in the Brownsburg Arena.

The first period saw the visiting team score two quick goals while Lachute failed to click. This 2-0 score remained unchanged until the third period when Brian Noble, from Lachute, slammed in a goal on a beautiful pass from Del MacTavish, to make it 2-1. With only a minute left to go, Lachute pulled out their goaler, hoping with the man advantage that they might score and thus tie the game.

This back-fired, however, and a Hudson player got a break-away and scored in the empty net. Thus the game ended 3-1 for Hudson.

Lachute's team feel that with more moral support from their fellow students that they might have carried off the game, so try to turn out and support the local boys next time.

Coming Event

The second of the provincial play-offs will be staged in the LHS gym, this Friday (tomorrow) evening, at 8 o'clock, when the Senior girls will meet Hull.

Hawkesb'y Sweeps Intermediate Series Enters ODHA Finals

Hawkesbury Richports swept its best-of-five intermediate hockey series with Buckingham last Thursday evening, weathering a third-period Buckingham rally to win 6-3. The winners now advance in ODHA play-offs.

Hawkesbury took a 2-0 lead in the first period, led 4-0 going into the third. But Buckingham rallied to score the first two goals of the third but could not follow up the advantage.

Officials called 18 penalties.

Hawkesbury - B'burg Final Series Tied Meet Locally Sunday For Fourth Game

By John J. Molloy

Exciting hockey which has been absent from the recent series against Alexandria and Ste. Anne de Bellevue, returned with a bang when Brownsburg and Hawkesbury crossed sticks on Sunday. The do or die seven-game series was tied at one game apiece Tuesday evening. The third game takes place tonight, Thursday, in Vankleek Hill, then the series returns to Brownsburg Sunday afternoon.

In the series opener, Hawkesbury drew first blood when Belleisle from Provost made it 1-0. The Bombers were soon in the picture as first Jacques Racine from Norbonne and Ouellette then Norbonne from Racine and Biron gave them the initiative.

In the second period, Brownsburg extended their lead to 3-1 when Campeau scored from Charlebois and McAdam. This prosperity was shortlived however, as Hawkesbury turned on the heat. Marcel Legris was the big gun as he scored from Villeneuve then again from Limoges, while combining with Lesage for Limoge's goal.

The third period started at 4-3 in Hawkesbury's favor, but now it was Brownsburg's turn to do the roasting. Their relentless pressure paid off when Jacques Leveillé from Charlebois and Giroux tied up the game half-way through the period. In the mad scramble for the winner it was Brownsburg's Giroux from Charlebois and Campeau who emerged triumphant. The final score was 5-4.

Tuesday's game was another see-saw battle which saw Brownsburg's first period dominance go for nought. In the second and third periods, the Hawkesbury forwards rained thirty shots on Buddy Racine, who did a remarkable job even while allowing five goals.

Again the big line for Hawkesbury was the killer. Legris had two goals and an assist, Limoges one and two and Lesage had four assists. Marcel Larocque with two and Potvin and Hector Legris scored the other goals in this 7-5 slugfest.

For Brownsburg Marc Campeau scored once with two assists and "Togo" Larocque had one of each. The other goals went to Norbonne, Biron and Hebert with Ouellette, McAdam and Leveillé getting the other assists. Buddy Racine, despite a couple of lapses, emerged as star man for the Bombers.

Lady Curlers Have Active Week's Events

The finals for the 3rd and skips, and leads and seconds Bonspiel were played last Thursday, Feb. 28. Mrs. E. H. Wilson, skip, Mrs. Jas. Barbour, Mrs. F. Stein and Mrs. R. Cairns were the winners of the 3rds and skips, and Mrs. E. Pollock, skip, Mrs. L. Armstrong, Mrs. F. Royal and Mrs. D. McFaul were winners of the leads and seconds.

Tea was served after the games.

Mrs. R. Fraser, skip, Mrs. R. Muir, Mrs. A. M. Vessie and Mrs. M. Gordon are presently in Ottawa taking part in the Victory Bonspiel.

The monthly meeting was held on Monday, March 4, in the clubroom, March 26 was set for the closing supper and distribution of prizes.

The ladies have once again taken on the job of catering for the men's Spring Bonspiel, which begins on March 30.

A reminder that Tuesday next, March 12, is Visitor's Day and Tea Day combined.

Church Carpet Bowling Sees Close Season-End

With only two more weeks left in the regular schedule, the 12 teams of the Lachute United Church Bowling League will soon be hitting the play-off road.

The W.M.S. team of Mrs. H. Riddell only needs one more win to claim the leadership prizes. Three teams are in a tie for second place, and could win the league prize, but this is improbable.

The scores this week were:

Teenagers 10	Maple Leafs 6
East Settlement 11	W.M.S. Reds 5
W.M.S. Blues 10	All Stars 4
St. Pats 10	Thistles 6

Golf Course Architect Has Varied Career Designer of Local and Far-Away Courses

Just returned from giving the finishing touches to the new Caymanas golf course in Jamaica, British West Indies, Golf Course Architect Howard Watson stepped out of his tropicals and into his padded windbreaker and sheepskin lined boots and went out to see how work was progressing on Lachute's new eighteen hole course. Prior to leaving for the South, he had prepared the plans for the new layout and clearing has been underway all winter.

The white, white world of the local countryside is in contrast to the lush green growth and vivid flowering shrubs of the Caribbean, but the medium of forests, grass, lakes and sand are the same and the aim of adventurous golf amidst natural beauty is foremost in the architect's mind as he designs his courses for golfing pleasure in many parts of the world.

Howard Watson, B.S.A., who today is one of the top men in his highly specialized profession, is a quiet, modest man who loves his work. He started gaining experience in Golf Course design and construction even before he graduated from the Ontario Agricultural College, at Guelph, where he took intensive courses in engineering, arts, landscape architecture and scientific agricultural methods.

His first job in 1929 was with the late Stanley Thompson, one of the leading course designers in North America, who was then building the Royal York, in Toronto, and from there to the Seigniory Club. From then on, except for a few years in mining engineering in Noranda during the thirties and six years overseas service with the No. 1 Tunnelling Company during World War II, Major Watson was associated with Stanley Thompson building and assisting in the design of hundreds of courses across the country. In 1950 he left Stanley Thompson and Associates and opened his own office in Lachute under the name of Canadian Golf Landscaping Limited, of which he is president.

To his headquarters in Lachute and office in Toronto come demands for his service from all over Canada, the United States, South America and the West Indies. One year when activities were even more widely separated than usual, he travelled 80,000 miles by car, plane and train and walked an estimated 2,000 miles planning and supervising the construction of courses, as well as playing them. In the past few years, he has designed and constructed courses in Joliette, Sorel, Chicoutimi, Ste. Therese, Lachute and Seven Islands, Quebec; Deep River, Toronto and Caledon, Ontario — four in South America and one in Jamaica, besides being retained by many leading clubs in Montreal and Toronto for re-designing and supervision of maintenance.

On the executive of the American Society of Golf Course Architects, Howard Watson, in common with other members, is concerned with the purpose and aims of the organization which is "to extend the traditionally high standards of golf for sportsmanship and fair play to the professional practice of golf course architecture; to improve the scientific and practical efficiency of the profession . . ."

"Explorations" Documents Mining and Its Hazards

For centuries man has reached into the earth for the hard, carbonaceous rock we call coal. The mining of it has been his livelihood, and the burning of it his source of heat. Coal heats homes and fires the furnaces of industry, but mining it means combatting possible falls of rock and coal, and exposure to inflammable and noxious gases and dust. The principal Canadian coalfields are in the Maritimes, Alberta and Saskatchewan. The coal varies from the bituminous and softer lignites of the west to the harder type found in Nova Scotia.

Explorations, on March 12 at 10.00 p.m. on the central television network, will present an analysis of the industry and an account of the mine disaster last fall at Springhill, Nova Scotia. The one-hour program, produced by Pat Watson, will include a film and studio discussion.

The main part of the program is devoted to a film at Springhill. It shows rescue operations at the mine, contains interviews with rescued miners and their relatives, and deals with the effect of the disaster on the community. The narrator is J. Frank Willis. The film includes sequences of news film taken by camera men at the scene of the disaster.

"Perspective" Finds Canada Well Endowed With Ghosts

Shades of Bridey Murphy! Or can you have shades of a shade? In any case, viewers of the Perspective film, The Ghost That Talked, on March 10, are liable to turn various shades of white. The drama-documentary, written by Bill Weintraub, concerns a ghost that took up residence in a lonely farmhouse in Pontiac County of Quebec, not too far from this locality.

Ghosts are usually associated with old ruins, decrepit castles and lonely moors; thus it may be something of a shock to learn that Canada, which has no abundance of appropriate architecture, at least has had a fair share of ghosts. As CBC supervisor of school broadcasts R. S. Lambert (a student of the supernatural) points out, Canada's lonely and remote places seem to be as highly favored by poltergeists as the facilities of the old world.

Perspective dramatizes an old story of spiritistic intervention with the benefit of an investigation by Percy Woodcock, a Canadian artist. He wrote down the mysterious events which took place at the farm-house in the autumn of 1889 and now his report is brought eerily to life.

Happy Gang Visits Veterans

Private Leo Lacombe from St. Paul, Alberta, gets some pointers on the trumpet from the master himself, Bobby Gimby. Eddie Allen and W. E. McCormack, a World War I veteran from Winnipeg, look on. "The Happy Gang" spent the evening of February 4 living it up with patients at Sunnybrook Military Hospital in Toronto, one of many such jaunts they make during the year besides doing their regular radio show on the CBC Trans-Canada network.

Otter Lake Music Centre Launches Fifth Season

Otter Lake Music Centre will launch its fifth season of holiday music-making on June 30, at Round Lake Inn, Weir, ideally situated in the Laurentians, and but a short drive from this locality.

New features at the Centre this summer will be courses in school music and folk dancing, which should be of particular interest to teachers and leaders of young people's groups. The staff will include George and Carl Little, founders of the Centre, Mario and Ellyn Duschenes, experts on recorders, Otto Joachim, violist, Jean Simons, lieder singer, Jean Papineau-Couture, Montreal composer, Dilys Cameron, specialist in school music and Mr. and Mrs. H. Hollander, who will conduct the folk dancing. In addition to the staff, the Montreal String Quartet, violinist Arthur Garami and pianists John Newmark and Charles Reiner, will be artists in residence.

As in previous years, there are courses for both professional and amateur musicians, the latter including many who have had little or no active musical experience. To these, participation proves to be an exhilarating adventure, and courses are provided to meet their capabilities in choral singing, sight reading, elementary theory and recorder playing. For the skilled amateur and professional, advanced courses are offered in chamber music, recorder playing, lieder singing, madrigals, choral conducting and composition.

Since the opening of the Centre in 1953, the number of those wishing to attend the Centre has increased yearly, with the result that the 1957 season has been planned to last three weeks, from June 30 to July 21. This expansion in the time is in accordance with the policy of the founders, who are unwilling by further increase in numbers at any one time to endanger the spirit of friendly informality which is such an important attribute of the Centre's activities.

The Centre is bilingual, and French and English conversation groups will be organized. There is no age limit for members — indeed the only pre-requisite is a sincere love of music. Family groups in particular will find the atmosphere congenial and relaxing. Activities in 1957 will follow the pattern of previous years. Mornings will be devoted to instruction, and afternoons will be free for recreation, including tennis, boating, swimming, etc. During the evenings there will be performances of music by members, resident artists and invited guests.

CBC Features "Hemo The Magnificent" Story on Human Circulatory System

Outstanding men of science in the specific field of blood and circulation serve as special advisors to "Hemo The Magnificent," the second program in the Trans-Canada Telephone System's Science Series. The series is designed to promote a greater interest in an understanding of the role of science in modern life.

"Hemo" will be shown on the CBC television network next Wednesday, March 13, at 10.00 p.m. EST.

Frank Capra, who produced the first film in this series, "Our Mr. Sun," will also produce "Hemo." It will star Richard Carlson, as the fiction writer, with Dr. Frank Baxter repeating his role as "Dr. Research." However, Hemo, the cartoon personification of the blood, is the principal character on the magic screen. He is accompanied by six little animal friends.

The one-hour film explains such interesting facts as the anatomy of the circulation system, the work of the human heart, the role of the barostat in regulating blood pressure, the evolution of blood from the sea water of pre-historic times, the role of the "Gatekeeper" muscle, and the nourishment of body cells by the blood in the capillaries.

To insure authenticity of fact, a special scientific advisory board is supervising the entire series. Its members were chosen not only for their standing in the fields of science, but also for their interest in the popular presentation of scientific information.

The story begins when "Hemo" reluctantly decides to listen to the story of blood as unfolded by Carlson and Baxter. Animation demonstrates the function of the heart, lungs, kidneys and other organs involved in the circulatory system.

One of the organs which "Hemo" will tell about is the barostat, the safety gauge of the brain, which is located in the neck. This keeps us from "blowing our tops." The barostat will be shown as a little man in an animated cartoon.

As its name indicates, the barostat does for pressure what a thermostat does for temperature. When the pressure of the blood going to the brain gets too high, the barostat cuts it down. When the pressure falls too low, the barostat builds it up again. Both actions are done by changing the heart rate and by changing the amounts of blood that leave the large arteries into the capillaries.

Even heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson will be interested in one segment of "Hemo The Magnificent," for one of the things the program demonstrates is what happens to a fighter's blood and circulation when he's smashed on the jaw.

Ancient ideas about the blood, such as men using it for fertilizer for vegetables, will be shown. In ancient days medicine men believed it had magic powers and cooked up weird concotions with it to cure the sick.

The "sea water" theory of the composition of the blood is discussed. According to this theory, life is presumed to have started about two million years ago as a single-celled organism living in the tropical seas. This cell got its food and oxygen directly from the sea. The program traces the development of the cell into brain, bone and muscle, and the development of the two-celled animal and its own circulation system.

In another part the circulation system is shown and likened to the traffic control system in a large city. Like the road net of a city, the body's circulatory system has its thruways, avenues, side streets and back alleys, literally hundreds of miles of arteries and veins. "Hemo" explains just how all this is controlled.

The blood's "grocery-garbage" function is shown and compared to a gigantic system of one-way conveyor belts in the centre of a large city, carrying groceries to the home and then carrying garbage from the home to the incinerator. This method is said to be simple compared to the circulatory system of the blood in serving the human body.

"Hemo The Magnificent" closes with the hope that science will continue to solve the mysteries of the blood and its circulation, and that one day we shall know what causes such things as anemia and hardening of the arteries.

Guelph, Ont. (CP) — A ton of manure will increase crop values by $5, estimates Prof. Norman Thomas of the Ontario Agricultural College soils department. Hence the 17,000,000 tons of manure produced in Ontario yearly is worth some $85,000,000, he says.

Women's Interests -- The Homemaker's Section

Teatime Topics

By Carolyn Willett,
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Written Specially for
The Lachute Watchman

Comparatively few women feel they have a flair for speech-making, or believe they have sufficient nerve to engage in rigorous political campaigning.

Many women shy away from politics. Yet the same women may sound out problems, make clear-cut comparisons and criticisms and even offer solutions over an afternoon cup of tea.

Women who have taken the stride into public life — and happily survived — have expressed some thought-provoking ideas about women's retiring attitude when it comes to standing up and speaking out publicly for things they want or believe in.

For instance, women who use the term "dirty politics" as an excuse to air their views in a dining room rather than on a platform infuriate Lisa Sergio.

Challenge to Women

Miss Sergio, a dynamic Italian-born American who is a news analyst, lecturer and editor, says any housewife who has a dirty, rat-infested closet goes right in and cleans it out. She maintains that the same attitude should apply to women's entry into public life.

In other words if you believe politics — on any level — isn't just what it should be, perhaps you should do something constructive about it.

In the view of Mrs. Mary Saran, of London, North American women don't participate in party work and councils, as much as European women do.

Mrs. Saran, secretary of the International Council of Social Democratic Women, recently visited Canada and the United States and found women playing an important part in politics. But unlike European women, not as many women were getting to high posts within political parties.

And women in politics, says Mrs. Saran, are good influences.

But knowledge is the key to a place for women at the policy-making tables of civic and higher governments, says the president of the British Columbia Council of Women.

Mrs. G. W. Kissick, of Vancouver, finds that the council, organized from local to national and international levels, sends women digging for information and thus gaining knowledge.

Ask for lemon with your tea when you visit Mrs. John Warren, and you might get a slice of freshly-picked fruit. The Paradise Valley, Alta., housewife bought a lemon plant in Toronto six years ago and since then has collected two or three home-grown lemons yearly.

Bells Restored

Which recalls the old nursery rhyme — "Oranges and lemons, say the bells of St. Clements."

Recently Londoner's hearts warmed as the bells of St. Clement Danes, the church of London's flower girls and soon to become the church of the Royal Air Force, rang out the old nursery tune. The bells had been silent 16 years, since a Nazi air raid gutted the church in 1941.

Appliance-Like Finish For Kitchen Walls

Are you suffering from mid-winter doldrums? A freshly painted kitchen might give you a new lease on life and that extra push to take you into the crocus and daffodil season.

Choosing a color for your kitchen isn't any problem with a rainbow of colors at your fingertips. But knowing the right type of paint is more difficult.

Perhaps you have been marvelling at your kitchen appliances and how easily they are kept clean. It doesn't seem to matter if it's grease splashed from the frying pan or baking fumes from the oven, one wipe with a damp cloth and they've all disappeared.

And it's a good thing that they do clean so easily for you wouldn't buy a new stove each time it gets a smudge on it. But neither would you re-paint walls and cupboards soiled by steam, grease and food acids that are part of every kitchen. Choosing a paint that will stand up to these conditions is therefore very important.

Enamel is the best type of paint to use in the kitchen where much washing is imperative. And now an enamel is available which gives an appliance-like finish. It's called "appliance-like" because it has the same clean-in-a-moment properties as your kitchen appliances. Enamel has a hard, tile-like, smooth surface that repels dust and dirt and the inevitable cooking stains wipe off the walls as easily as from the refrigerator.

Many housewives, are getting away from the "antiseptic" white look, once thought to be the only thing for a kitchen, and are choosing pastel shades instead. Greens, blues, pinks and yellows are becoming favorites and enamel keeps the color as bright as the day it was painted.

But if you still prefer a white kitchen you don't have to content yourself with the fact that in time it will turn a yellowish color. For now a super-white enamel ensures that the white will stay white no matter how much grease and fumes it is subjected to.

Of course, every kitchen needs a periodic cleaning and whether your kitchen has a new face or must be content with the old one, an occasional cleaning with mild detergent and water is a must.

Increase Awards At Macdonald

The Quebec Women's Institutes has reached the amount of its three awards at Macdonald College. These are given annually and the value of each is now $100, this to become effective in time for the current scholastic year, 1956-57.

Two of the awards are memorial scholarships in the School of Household Science, the Frederica Campbell MacFarlane and the Mrs. Alfred Watt, the third is a bursary in the first year of the Diploma Course in Agriculture.

All go to students from rural areas of Quebec. There is no change in the regulations governing the selection of candidates, and the notice of the increased amount will appear in the next issue of the Macdonald College prospectus.

Various Grade Fruits Plainly Identified For Different Uses

The top grade for processed fruits and vegetables is Canada Fancy. When this grade mark appears on a can or package it means that the product inside is as nearly perfect as possible. Canada Fancy canned fruits or vegetables would be bought for special purposes where uniformity of size and color is important. (Example: sliced peaches to be used in a cart wheel design on a fruit salad plate).

The second highest grade of processed fruits and vegetables is Canada Choice. Foods of this grade have good flavor and tenderness, but their color and size are not as uniform as Canada Fancy. Canada Choice canned fruits and vegetables would therefore be bought for use where these factors are not so important. (Example: sliced peaches to be served to the family for dessert).

There is another grade of canned fruits and vegetables, Canada Standard. Canned foods bearing this grade mark have been prepared from good quality products but the appearance is not as good as in the two higher grades. Canada Standard canned fruits and vegetables would be bought for use where appearance is not important and where the higher grade would be an extravagance. (Example: sliced peaches to be used in desserts like Bavarian cream and sherbet.)

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Parent's Night

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Teachers are all so busy! Although I'd like to meet Bob's and Ben's teachers, I really hate to bother them". "But most teachers are glad to talk with parents. That's why the Home and School arranged a Parent's Night next Friday. There'll be a brief program — but most of the time will be free for informal chats. Be sure you don't miss it!

• • •

An annual occasion when parents and teachers meet at the school is being observed in more and more communities. In some schools parents are invited to go directly to the child's classroom any time between 7.30 p.m. and 9 p.m. There they glance over their child's workbooks. They know his standing and the teacher's comment on his last report. Hung on the walls are samples of writing, of art work, conservation posters and perhaps collections of pressed leaves. When their turn comes they can have a chat with the man or woman who instructs their Johnny or Mary.

Later there is usually a brief program and refreshments in the largest room in the school. Often the school choir sings a number and if they are fortunate enough to have a band or an orchestra, they perform too. If the school has a gym a demonstration of tumbling, folk dancing, or a drill is frequently given or two teams play volley ball or some other game.

The plan of the evening is flexible. Other schools have found it worked better to have a short program starting at 8 o'clock, and they devote the last half of the evening to teacher-parent visits either in the classroom or during the refreshment period.

There is less likelihood of parents and teachers knowing each other unless a special occasion is set aside for this in Canada where our rural and small village population is decreasing and quite a number of our towns and cities are growing in numbers. When a child must move from one school to another, co-operation in the trying period of adjustment to strange conditions, a new teacher and different grade standards is particularly valuable.

This parents-visiting-the-school plan can be adapted for use in a school whatever its size. The one room country school and the large city school can both benefit from it. It is useful for parents of elementary pupils, and helpful in secondary schools where the scholars are teenagers.

In one Canadian city over one thousand parents made good use of a Parent's Night, which followed one week after the mid-term reports had been given out. In addition to the visit with this child's teacher, the parents saw a typing class in action and the general plan of the school building. The reporter (in the Brampton Conservator) commented: "All the rooms were open, and each teacher was present in his home room. In some cases, just the introduction and friendly chat had the value of cementing relations that will later prove valuable to the students."

This is certainly the most important feature of the Parent's Night at the school. During this short period when the teachers and the parent come face to face, Mother or Dad likely realize in a new way that there is someone who is their child's friend, a person who really wants to help their youngster learn.

As adults they are partners in one of the greatest of tasks, that of training the younger generations. Any special problem confronting the boy or girl can be mentioned, and if it is serious, often a teacher can make a practical suggestion. Either parent or teacher may gain fresh insight into the reasons underlying this difficulty by discussing it with another interested person.

Is there a Parent's Night at your child's school? Perhaps this is not the name of the occasion on which fathers and mothers are invited to visit the school and meet the teachers, individually. The name does not matter, but the underlying idea of a special occasion when those responsible for a child in the home and at school come together, is a very sound one.

If you have not had a Parent's Night at your child's school, what better way could you mark Education Week? In a sense every Home and School meeting is a "Parent's Night". Plan to attend the next one at your child's school!

Protection ...at your fingertips

The fireman's hat is a symbol of protection.
So is your fire insurance policy.

When fire strikes, alert firemen are soon on their way, accepting risks themselves to protect your life and property. And when fire strikes, fire insurance steps in to offset disastrous financial loss.

Every week, some 1,400 fires break out across Canada. Companies writing fire insurance pay out more than one hundred million dollars annually in claims. And yet virtually all the fires which take the lives of more than 500 Canadians each year are preventable.

Fire insurance safeguards your property. But only you can guarantee against loss of life.

Safety pays dividends... saves lives, helps to lower your insurance costs. Be Careful.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Recently, I came face-to-face with a driving hazard I had never before recognized — the emotional hangover.

My friend, a physician, and I were delayed at a green light by an elderly pedestrian crossing in front. Suddenly the car behind began a furious honking. My friend insisted upon stepping back to talk to the irate driver.

He found that the driver had just faced a severe emotional crisis at home which had left him boiling with pent-up fury. So, the doctor tried to make him realize that this rage might be used unconsciously against innocent victims, and persuaded him not to drive until his emotions were in control.

Extreme nervous strain frequently find outlet in excessive speeding, since the same tension that causes a person to clench his jaw can be relayed to his foot on the accelerator. And common danger signals on the highway may escape the notice of one in mental conflict. His reaction — time is slowed. Often his vision is not as acute. He's forgetful and careless in his driving. (A woman I know once drove three towns past her destination while she tried to answer a recent argument in her mind.)

Churned up emotions cause what my doctor friend described as "highway hysteria". This does not mix with safe driving.

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE

A Step Forward

Cortisone made a spectacular entrance on the medical scene seven years ago. Long-suffering victims of rheumatoid arthritis reported the hormone banished crippling pain almost overnight.

But initial enthusiasm was soon dampened when medical specialists warned that "severe and even fatal peptic ulcers" may follow sudden withdrawal of the drug after a patient has taken a lot of it. With growing frequency, less serious side effects were also reported — upset stomach, aggravation of existing ulcers, and disturbing changes of mood.

Such reports sent laboratory researchers hunting for drugs that could be taken in smaller doses, thus lessening the chances of serious side reactions. Discovery of hydrocortisone, a close chemical relative of cortisone, gave doctors a drug that quickly eased agonizing soreness without severe side effects when injected directly into the inflamed joint. When taken by mouth, however, hydrocortisone presented some problems.

A more promising advance has been made with development of the new "super hormones" such as prednisolone, a compound effective when taken by mouth in doses four to five times smaller than the earlier drugs.

Researchers have recently gone one step further, combining prednisolone with an anti-anxiety drug in a preparation called Ataraxoid. By staving off the fears and anxieties commonly associated with arthritis, the new combination apparently reduces the patient's need for larger doses of the hormone.

Dr. Peter J. Warter of Trenton, N. J. has reported to a Boston medical clinic that the new drug enabled many patients to cut in half their daily dose of prednisolone and thus reduce side effects. He noted a "striking" improvement in patients' attitudes toward their disease, their family, and their social affairs.

Pass The Butter, Please

In Manitoba, the battle between butter manufacturers and margarine makers is on again, but with a difference.

Manitoba does not ban margarine, but it still forbids manufacturers to color it. This, of course, annoys thousands of housewives, particularly those with large families operating on a tight budget. Voting power of these housewives has not been impressive enough to sway rural members of the legislature, who felt they could hold the farm vote by plumping for the restriction and kidding the women out of their demands. They think the women will probably tire of the controversy and give up. The picture, however, has changed somewhat, lately.

Around Carman, Morden, and Altona, and in other areas of the province, farmers have found it good business to go in for edible oil crops, like soybeans, rapeseed and sunflower, because these are cash crops not too difficult to grow and market.

Margarine manufacturing could provide a practically unlimited market for such crops, if the farmers in the province grew enough to offer a sure and competitively-priced supply.

Another factor which might win support for colored margarine this time is the present political situation. Premier Campbell, in the speech from the throne, gave rural voters plenty of reasons to support him. Some observers feel he must now find a bone of some sort to toss to urban voters to keep them from lining up en masse against him. Relief from the muss, fuss and cuss of coloring margarine at home might be the answer. At any rate it is considered significant that an urban M.L.A., Jack St. John, is carrying the fight for color. He's extremely popular in Winnipeg and also holds the respect of the farm members who know he'll fight fair but hard to make his point.

St. John is aiming his ammunition at rural members. His timing is good, because farmers in general have so much to gain from legislative action more vital than the margarine restriction, which is far less important than it used to be. Indeed, some observers are of the opinion that the big dairy outfits rather than the farmers have initiated the fight against color. St. John claims that although he announced his intention to introduce the reform many weeks ago, he has not had a single protest from rank-and-file farmers — only from officials of the Dairy Association. He thinks many individual farmers actually hope he succeeds, because they feel the ban puts the farm groups in a bad light.

Besides, as long as butter is well made, farmers are pretty sure most of us, colored margarine or color-it-yourself-variety, will continue to say "Pass the butter, please!" It's an old Canadian custom!

Personal income taxes account for less than one-quarter of the federal government's total tax revenues.

Local Long Distance Dialing Soon

FROM THE EAST TO THE WEST in 15 seconds — that is what is in store for telephone users through the introduction on the whole continent of an exceptional advance called "direct distance dialing". Lucien Moise, of The Bell Telephone Company of Canada, explained the many features of the new system in a talk he delivered at last week's meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club.

Bell Telephone Exchange to Feature Direct Distance Dialing For Area

In just a few years from now, telephone users in this locality will be dialing their own long distance calls to points far and near in Canada and the United States just as easily as they can dial local calls.

Speaking to the members of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club at the meeting held last Thursday, Lucien Moise, of The Bell Telephone Company of Canada, predicted that by 1960 such cities as Montreal, Toronto, New York and several other centres on the North American continent will be only seconds away by telephone.

Telephone users will simply lift the receiver, dial a three-digit destination code and the required number. Within fifteen seconds, the distant telephone will be ringing. Mechanization of long distance telephone communication will even go one step further; in due course, details of every call will be recorded by an electronic machine which will take down the calling number, the time each conversation lasts, and will then print the customer's bill — all automatically.

To illustrate the reasons and the needs for these developments, Mr. Moise drew a parallel between long distance telephone communications and motor traffic in cities and on highways. "Looking at cars crawling along the highway bumper to bumper, being held up by lights at almost every intersection in cities and towns, it seems that the faster cars can go, the slower the traffic moves. What really matters is not the miles per hour the car can reach, but the time it takes to accomplish the whole journey," the speaker stressed.

"Time and traffic are major considerations in the telephone business too. Thanks to electricity, telephone conversations travel at about the speed of light — 186,000 miles per second. But in order to provide efficient service, each call has to go through the switching process without being bogged down by a 'traffic jam'. And as slowdowns caused by greater road traffic seem to be getting worse all the time, the connection of telephone calls is actually being speeded up while traffic increases."

Using a display panel, the speaker demonstrated how the switching of long distance calls has been speeded up over the years; a call from Montreal to Toronto which took 14 minutes to connect in 1920, only took three minutes in 1930. It only takes one minute nowadays and a call will reach its destination in 15 seconds or less in a few years.

Intricate machinery, more and more of it electronic, receives the calls, finds the right route for each one of them and speeds them on their way. And this is not done for the sake of speed alone. So many people are using long distance service nowadays that only automatic switching will enable the company to handle the calls properly.

"Direct Distance Dialing is an important part of our overall plan to give our customers the kind of service they want, and to hold costs down," Mr. Moise said. "As a result of DDD, one of these days the whole of this continent will seem like a single vast telephone exchange. Your telephone neighbors will be living not just on the other side of the city, but all over the country and the continent."

Sculptress Sees Energy In Canada

Montreal (CP) — An American sculptress who spent seven years in Britain and then emigrated to Canada to share its growth so far hasn't been disappointed.

"Here you can feel a surge and an energy you don't find in Europe," says Sarah Jackson after less than four months in Montreal. "You can see the future growing in front of your eyes."

Her personal future in the art world seems to be growing, too. Already she has exhibited 20 paintings and two sculptures, done in Canada. Montreal architects have approached her about sculpture for commercial buildings.

In Britain, she taught at the University of London and lectured at the Tate Gallery, where emphasis is on modern art.

In her sculpture, she builds a plaster shape and then carves it down to produce strangely abstract forms which she calls "contemporary."

TRAIN ESKIMOS

Local Merchants Present Petition Aimed At Early Saturday Closing

A representative delegation of Lachute merchants and storekeepers presented a petition requesting Council to enforce the Saturday evening closing of commercial establishments at last Wednesday's regular monthly meeting of the Lachute Town Council. The petition, which was read in French and English, by Henctor Monti, was signed by 52 merchants, representing 72 per cent of all local commercial establishments.

The closing hour of 7 p.m. was suggested for all commercial businesses with the exception of drug stores, restaurants, hotels, and other establishments considered as public utilities. It was requested that the by-law, if Council saw fit to pass one, not be enforced during the month of December.

Several interested members of the delegation voiced their opinion on the subject, including Guy Lafortune, Fernando Carrière, Romeo Roussel, Guy Belanger, Frank Bedard and Hector Monti, each adding their various suggestions. None of the delegation objected in principal to the proposal.

Mayor Léopold Carrière was the only member of Council who took any active part in the discussion and stated that before any by-law could be drawn up and presented, legal advice would have to be obtained. He assured those in attendance that that would be done and the petition studied by Council prior to the next regular meeting.

While the big majority of 72 per cent of all merchants contacted were in favor of the early Saturday closing, nine voiced their disapproval for a percentage of 13 per cent and another 11 stated they were "indifferent" and would abide by the majority ruling in the event it became law.

Social Service Report For Month of February Lachute Percentage Low

In presenting a report to the Lachute Town Council of the activities of the Social Service committee, of which he is chairman, Ald. Dr. Roger Lavigne stated that during the month of February, 33 people were helped by the municipality to the extent of $877.60, this figures out to an average of $26.60 per family. This amount comprised public assistance, board and lodging, etc., but does not include hospitalization.

One hundred dollars was also paid out in direct help, but of this amount, one half was paid by the diocesian Social Service organization.

This brought about a long discussion and numerous questions from members of the Council.

The chairman declared that the Council had made great strides in the general administration of this department by obtaining a complete list of persons being helped, adding that enquiry into each case would be undertaken.

With various reports of payments from 20 municipalities in the province of Quebec, it was pointed out that the per capita amount paid for Lachute was $1.18, being the lowest of Chicoutimi, Drummondville, Hull, Ville Jacques-Cartier, Joliette, Mont Laurier, Montreal, Nicolet, Quebec, Rimouski, Rouyn, Ste. Agathe des Monts, St. Hyacinthe, St. Johns, St. Jerome, Ste. Thérèse, Sherbrooke, Three Rivers and Valleyfield.

As a comparison, in 1955 the City of Hull paid $3.54 per capita for social assistance; Joliette $3.80; Ste. Agathe $2.02; St. Jerome $2.04 and Ste. Thérèse $2.36.

In 1953 social service cost the Town of Lachute $1.31 per capita; $1.41 in 1954 and $1.18 in 1955.

Mayor Carrière congratulated the members of this committee, councillors Dr. Roger Lavigne, Mozart Carrière and Dr. Jean Paul Dorion and urged them to continue with their good work.

"We are administrators of the public treasury," said the Mayor "and as such have a right to know how our money is being spent."

Council Accepts Garbage Contract Authorizes Fire Equipment Purchase

Committee to Meet Ayersville Relative to Fire Protection

The sum of $2,464.28 was authorized to be spent for the purchase of fire hose and other necessary equipment at the regular monthly meeting of the Lachute Town Council held Wednesday evening of last week. A full council was in attendance at the session, chaired by Mayor Léopold Carrière.

The motion by Ald. Mozart Carrière, chairman of the Police-Fire Committee, was seconded by Ald. Romain Desjardins, also a member of the committee concerned, and passed unanimously. The purchase includes 1,000 feet of 2½-inch fire hose at $1.67 per foot, 300 feet of 1½-inch fire hose at $1.09 per foot, all "Underwriter Approved" and including couplings, four pair of regulation boots and two air pressure fire extinguishers. The tenders submitted by Geo. Y. Deacon was accepted, Council having three other tenders from Montreal firms.

Mayor Carrière, Ald. Romain Desjardins and Secretary-treasurer Jacques Poitras were appointed to meet with the Ayersville Municipal Council to discuss and come to a tentative agreement on the subject of fire protection as it concerns the adjacent municipality.

At present Ayersville pays the Lachute Council by the hour only when the fire brigade is engaged in that municipality and last year's Council saw fit to notify the adjacent municipality that there would be an increase in the rates, with possible payment on a pro-rata basis.

A proposed contract in the form of a signed letter was received from Joseph Bellefeuille, offering his services as garbage collector for the sum of $160 per week. Following considerable discussion, Ald. Wilfrid Morrissette moved, being seconded by Ald. Nelson Lepage, that Council call for tenders for the collection of garbage and maintenance of the municipal dump. It was moved in amendment by Ald. Dr. Lavigne, seconded by Ald. Dr. Jean-Paul Dorion that the contract be granted to Mr. Bellefeuille for a one-year period. The vote was taken on the main motion, only the proposer and seconder being in favor while the vote on the amendment found Alderman Pollock, Muir, Carrière, Lavigne, Laurin and Dorion in favor of granting the contract to the present garbage collector, Ald. Romain Desjardins was absent at the time of the vote.

It was decided to take out a new policy to cover all men working for the town on garbage collections, the present protection being far from adequate according to Mayor Carrière, who pointed out only Mr. Bellefeuille was covered. This is costing approximately twice as much as the new policy which includes all employees of Mr. Bellefeuille.

Ald. Ross R. Muir gave notice of motion that at the next session of Council, he would present for adoption a by-law to zone the McGibbon "Riverview" subdivision, making it a residential section.

Accounts totalling $12,166.02 were presented for payment, having been studied in caucus, and a building permit for the construction of a residence on Grace Street was granted to Conrad Ladouceur.

A request in writing from the local committee of the Canadian Red Cross was referred to the Secretary-treasurer, Jacques Poitras who reported that last year, Council donated the sum of $25. It was moved by Ald. Dr. Roger Lavigne, seconded by Ald. Edgar Pollock, that the same sum be donated towards this year's campaign.

Ald. Morrissette moved, being seconded by Ald. Laurés Laurin, that a deposit of $100 be made to the Provincial Department of Roads to insure the use of the grader on local streets. While on this question, Mayor Carrière remarked that Council was conscious of the deplorable state of certain local streets and asked that the population be patient and careful as it was impossible to remedy the situation satisfactorily until weather conditions permit.

Mayor Carrière informed Council that the Corporation had received a cheque for $400 from the Federal Government, this being four months rental for the basement of the Auditorium which has been taken over by the Lachute Battery of the 37th Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery.

CNIB Auspices Opens Eye Bank Donors Needed

The Ophthalmological Society of Montreal, at its meeting held December 13, 1956, formed a special Medical Committee to organize an Eye Bank in collaboration and under the auspices of The Canadian National Institute for the Blind. These organizations are pleased to announce that such an Eye Bank has now been organized and is ready to function.

The purpose of this Eye Bank is to provide the material necessary for corneal transplant, thus permitting those who have lost their sight to regain it through a corneal graft.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind will do the secretarial work, provide the transportation, distribute the eyes and accept any donation to this effect. Statements and files will be controlled at the CNIB Service Centre, 1425 Crescent Street. The names of those wishing to donate their eyes will be recorded and a complete list will be kept of the persons who may benefit from a corneal transplant.

The hospitals interested in corneal transplants will hold the eyes and doctors connected with these hospitals will do the enucleation.

The public can co-operate in willing their eyes to the Eye Bank. What is more gratifying for a person to know that his eyes, after his death, will serve to restore the vision of a blind person.

In order that vision can be restored, those wishing to donate their eyes to the Eye Bank after their death should communicate with the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. Box 807, Lachute or telephone 476, as well as with their own doctor and preferably their closest relatives in order that their last wish may be fulfilled.

English Professor Speaker At Rotary Club

Professor C. Wayne Hall, Supervisor of English at Macdonald College, was the guest speaker at last Thursday's dinner-meeting of the Brownsburg - Lachute Rotary Club, choosing as his subject, "Education — Everybody's Business." Teachers from Lachute and Brownsburg High Schools were guests of the Rotarians for the "Education Week" meeting which President Keith Hickson chaired.

Rotarians Fred Royal and King Amos, respective principals of Lachute and Brownsburg High Schools, introduced the various members of their staffs, all of whom were welcomed by President Hickson, who then called on Mr. Royal to introduce the speaker.

Professor Hall opened his address by pointing out that his topic explained itself, adding the purpose of "Education Week" is to bring people together. "Education is the biggest industry in Canada and 'employs' the largest number of people, counting teachers and pupils. Like most businessses, it is based on its products and their variety of worth. It is up to all citizens to see that the monies gathered for educational purposes are used in the proper manner.

"Pupils, parents and teachers each have their own opinion of education, but the latter's opinion must be shared by all others in a community if any good is to come of it. Today, young people face one of the most difficult times when they go into the world, and they have to operate on two standards. There is an inner struggle in themselves, trying to adjust to the outside world following their education and one of the main reasons for this week is to get together and try and iron this out, striking a happy medium.

"The best type of education is "custom built" in which the teacher interprets the texts and builds courses thus providing opportunity for experiment and growth. If education is 'text dominated', it cannot meet the needs of the children who as individuals, have different needs.

"Why teach history," Professor Hall pointed out, "without going into the local aspect which in many cases is extremely interesting," adding the same goes for many subjects. Education must fit the community needs and resources.

"Education is growth, not just skills, but skills put into practice. Reading is a skill but has to have interest, habit and thought to do good. Education is not just information labelled, preserved in a vacuum or cellophane, wrapped for sales appeal, but information which is used and weighed.

In closing, Professor Hall pointed out that the educated man was recognized by his understanding, not his knowledge; by his adaptability, not a single skill; and by his contribution, not what he has but what he gives.

Liberal Candidate Addresses Mayors Of Two Mountains

Antoine Paré, lawyer, of St. Andrews East, and a candidate for the Liberal nomination in Argenteuil - Two Mountains, addressed the 19 mayors of the County of Two Mountains at a luncheon held at Longtin's Hotel, St. Scholastique on Wednesday, March 13.

In the course of his address, Mr. Paré predicted that the joint counties would be greatly affected in the coming years by the unprecedented expansion of Greater Montreal towards the North West and he advised the mayors to plan for the future accordingly.

He also expressed the view that the possibilities of navigation on the Lake of Two Mountains and the Ottawa River had not been fully exploited, a fact he intended to raise in Ottawa in the event he was chosen as the Federal Member. Mr. Paré was introduced by Mr. Joheph Mathys, Mayor of St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac and presented individually to all the mayors by the Prefect of the County.

Saturday Blaze Destroys Saw-Mill Total Damage Estimated at $10,000

An early Saturday morning fire gutted a Whissletown saw-mill, causing damage estimated in the vicinity of $10,000. The property was owned by Maximien Dinel and approximately one-quarter of the loss was covered by insurance.

The fire was first discovered in the early morning and a bucket-brigade of employees appeared to have extinguished the flames. A short time later, however, the saw-mill and sheds behind the actual manufacturing concern burst into flames and the Lachute fire department was called.

The auxiliary truck and a crew of volunteers headed by Police-Fire Chief Fernand Trépanier were on the scene at 8.15, 18 minutes after being notified. A line of hose was laid to a nearby lake, the truck having to be driven onto the ice in order to pump sufficient water to douse the flame-filled saw-mill and adjoining sheds.

The efforts of the local fire crew were successful in saving the main building, where sashes and doors are manufactured, along with the shed where finished products are stored.

The main line of hose from the lake to the fire was 750 feet in length and towards the end of the blaze, two 1½-inch couplings and hose were attached to the main hose in order to give the smouldering saw-dust a thorough dousing.

The major equipment loss was a diesel engine used to power the mill, the value estimated at some $6,000. A considerable amount of freshly cut lumber was saved by employees and neighbors prior to the arrival of the local fire crew.

Three Youths Steal Cars Police Maintain Search In Surrounding District

A series of thefts and attempted thefts starting in St. Jerome Sunday evening kept local Provincial Police officers working around the clock in an effort to round up three unidentified youths, reported Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen, who headed the local search.

A 1951 sedan, owned by Arnold Belac, of Rivière Gagnon, Terrebonne County, was reported stolen in St. Jerome late Sunday and believed headed towards this locality. On the look-out the local Provincial Police were then notified of a missing car owned by Oscar Larente, of St. Andrews East, this being 4 a.m. Monday; this car, later abandoned, was recovered approximately seven hours later, not too far distant from the village.

On the look-out for the trio still believed driving the St. Jerome district car, the officers were notified of the theft of gas from Walter Gauley, St. Philippe and of a Buffalo robe from the car of Réal Dupuis, Grece's Pointe, this all taking place Monday afternoon.

The abandoned St. Jerome sedan was located in the Grece's Point area at 6.30 Monday evening by Traffic Officers Albert Legault and Lawrence Cruise, however three hours previous to this, a 1950 model sedan owned by Ronald Roquebrun, of St. Andrews East, was reported stolen in Lachute.

This car was later reported in St. Canut where the trio of youths again pulled into a service station, ordered the attendant to "fill her up" and then took-off without paying. The car was reported to be heading towards Lachute but is believed to have turned off the highway before reaching this community.

The Provincial Police detachments from Lachute, St. Eustache and St. Jerome patrolled their respective districts throughout Monday night and Tuesday on the look-out for the culprits.

Local Cattle Breeders' Association Visits Artificial Insemination Unit

— By Norman Thorburn —

A visitor to the Lachute Bus Terminal in the early morning of Friday, March 1, would have seen a mass exodus of Argenteuil farmers, 84 in all, bound for the Artificial Insemination Unit, Kemptville Agriculture College, Kemptville, Ont.

The party was headed and well organized by local agronome Jean Pintal and Stuart Armstrong, president of the Argenteuil Branch, Eastern Ontario Cattle Breeders' Association, the aim being to inspect the Kemptville Unit. Two autobuses, and several cars took part in the journey, the first bus in which I was a passenger, leaving Lachute around 9.30 a.m. and reaching the Ontario border at Hawkesbury a short time later.

As we rolled across the flatlands of eastern Ontario the grey-blue welter of the Laurentians that stretches east, west and north as far as the eye can see, and the precipitous escarpment that descends to the banks of the North River and at Grenville to the shores of the mighty Ottawa, slowly faded from our sight.

At tri-lingual Alexandria, where English, French and Gaelic signs greet you, we turned westward, travelling through Chesterville and Winchester, where the dearth of good farmsteads, due, no doubt, to the decline in farm prices, and the high cost of living, was noticed.

Passing through Halleville we came across an old snake fence in a good state of repair. I had seen this old fashioned fence before, and knew we were approaching Kemptville.

Just as we neared Main Street of the town, someone in the bus shouted "Stop, there's a hobo who wants a lift." Sure enough, there was a man with a flowing, luxuriant jet-black beard, hailing our bus.

He was well-dressed and certainly was not a "knight of the road," and somehow I thought I had seen that face before. I admired his fine black beard, which certainly offered no harbor for certain crawling insects, as some suggested.

How strong and masculine a bearded man appears. Certainly among the bearded men of Kemptville, we with our shaven faces, looked weak and effeminate.

The bearded man, after some hesitation on the part of our driver, René Desjardins, was allowed to board our bus, gazed for several seconds at the man standing before me. Then I spoke, "You're Dr. Smilie aren't you."

Sure enough, it was the veterinarian-in-charge of the Kemptville, unit. He later showed us the restaurant where we were to eat.

As some of our members spoke no English, and as most of the waitresses spoke only English, the bilingual members of our entourage had to act as interpreters.

We noticed several other bearded men in the town. Certainly there was no rabbinical convention in this place. Had the men of Kemptville joined the 'House of David' or some other sect, that proclaims the sanctity of man's facial adornment. These thoughts kept racing through our minds.

After dinner, we drove to the cow barns of the Kemptville Agricultural College, where we were greeted by the principal, Prof. Barr, who was sporting a scanty greying beard. The older men's beards lacked the lustre of those of the younger gentry.

Prof. Barr, pointed out the Beatty comfort stalls for cows in the barn. These stalls are five feet in width. A huge fan on the western wall of the building circulated the air in the barn and kept the stable cool and certainly preserved the wood.

We examined the splendid animals there, almost all the progeny of bulls, from the Kemptville A-1 unit.

Then we went to the unit itself. We examined the Ayrshire, Holstein, Jersey, Polled Herefords, and the lately acquired Guernsey bulls.

Many of these bulls have won championships at the "Royal", Chicago and Waterloo, U.S.A. A recent Russian agricultural delegation proclaimed that Kemptville had the finest A-1 unit, they had seen in their tour of North America.

Dr. Smilie addressed the gathering, informing us there were 85 bearded men in Kemptville. The reason: they were celebrating the Centenary of the Town's founding in 1857.

On the joyous first day of July, which will climax the celebrations, the man with the finest beard will be given a prize and will be worth seeing. I suppose the ladies will wear hoop skirts to add a touch of color.

We witnessed the method employed in collecting semen, examined a small specimen on a heated slide, with a microscope, and saw millions of heat-activated sperm each having life and the power to propagate new life, also possessing the sex-determining factor. The female ovum being neuter in this respect.

The yolk of hen's eggs is used to feed the sperm. The yolk itself is dissolved in sodium citrate. We examined the frozen semen, some from bulls now dead. The bulls are dead, but their powers of procreation are still extant! A strange scientific world we are living in, isn't it? The semen is stored in dry ice, at 100° below zero.

Each cow produces 18 ova a year. The possibility of transplanting ova from high producing cows has long been contemplated and recently several calves were born to cows that had no blood relationship to the calves they had begotten.

I asked Prof. Barr, if he thought this method of procreation would come into general practise. He shook his head, and said, "The technical difficulties are too great."

Shortly after 5 p.m. we started for home via Ottawa, where we stopped for a lunch. We arrived at Lachute around 9 p.m.

The local branch of the A-1 unit was organized at St. Andrews East, about 3½ years ago. We had difficulty enrolling the requisite 25 members to enable us to start operations in this community. Today we have over 100 members. Much credit for this is due to the conscientious labors of our local veterinarian, Dr. McMahon. Today, his worthy assistant Mr. L. Kettyle handles the bulk of this work.

Feeding Swine Fire Damaged Wheat

Fire-damaged wheat is not particularly appetizing to pigs, although it does retain a certain nutritional value. F. Whiting and L. M. Bezeau, of the Canada Department of Agriculture, report that protein utilization in severely damaged wheat, although less than in normal wheat, is almost equal to that in wheat only slightly damaged by fire. However, the digestible energy content of wheat severely damaged is considerably less than normal wheat and wheat slightly damaged. The over-all value of burnt grain as a feed will depend on the amount of fire damage and the amount of foreign material such as wood, glass, and nails present in the grain.

In 1953 a quantity of wheat was obtained from a grain storage elevator that burnt at Picture Butte, Alberta. This grain was put through a fanning mill to remove nails, glass, pieces of charred wood, fine charcoal dust and weed seeds. These materials amounted to 14 per cent of the total weight. The most severely damaged wheat was then separated from wheat only slightly damaged, by repeating the fanning mill operation with controlled wind and the use of various sieves. By chemical analysis and feeding trials the general value of this material was ascertained.

Rations consisting of burnt grain were so unpalatable to swine that a preliminary feeding period was necessary to accustom the pigs to the feed. Indications are that approximately ten days are required for this purpose.

Each year fire destroys a number of grain storage elevators across Canada rendering thousands of bushels of grain unfit for milling and processing purposes. Its use as a feed for livestock was one possibility but its comparative value with non-damaged grain had to be taken into account before a satisfactory assessment could be made.

Glass To Stay In Greenhouses, etc.

During the past two years, many enquiries have been made at the Canada Department of Agriculture Summerland Experimental Farm, B.C., regarding the use of plastic materials instead of glass in greenhouses and coldframes. The reasons for this interest in glass substitutes appear to be threefold; first, lighter and thus cheaper frame construction can be used to support the material; second, glass substitutes, though they vary in price (and quality), are cheaper to buy than glass; and third, these plastic materials are easy to install.

Tests conducted at Summerland are still continuing, according to L. G. Denby, vegetable crops specialist. But results to date indicate conclusively that materials such as vinyl plastic, and polyethylene sheeting, though very cheap, cannot be relied upon to last for more than one season. These materials perish very rapidly in the intense sunlight and high temperatures to which they are subjected in the Okanagan. They appear to be practical only where it is feasible to replace the materials, as an indoor winter-time job, before the advent of the second spring season.

Cloth-reinforced and wire reinforced glass substitutes, such as have been available on the market for many years, though more expensive, appear to offer much greater durability, while remaining light in weight and fairly easy to install.

Congratulations To Council

MEMBERS OF THE Lachute Town Council have at last seen the light and are to be wholeheartedly congratulated for last week's purchase of much needed fire fighting equipment.

The battle to obtain the equipment was started several years ago by retired Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon, who devoted 38 years to serving the citizens of this area. His efforts received promises which were not kept.

The Lachute Watchman then got into the fight editorially, and tried several means of pushing the Council into the purchase of the fire hose. It was pointed out that one of the trucks was empty of hose for up to a week following a fire of any consequence; several examples of when the volunteers had run short of hose were brought to their attention and other matters were discussed, including that of adequate insurance for the volunteers.

The change-over came last November and with it the promise of increased insurance coverage and other benefits in the event of injury. To date, nothing has been done to increase the insurance policy covering the fire-fighters, although the volunteers have been assured they are covered as to their recent request. Appreciation was also shown in the fact that the tender was granted to Geo. Y. Deacon, without whose efforts Lachute would not be benefitting from the fire insurance rates it now enjoys.

Better than half the battle has been won and Council apparently realizes the lack of equipment cannot continue forever without disastrous results. Sufficient hose has been purchased to insure that following a fire, both vehicles will be ready for another fire. It is to hoped that the remaining necessary equipment will be obtained with as little delay as possible, as nothing has been requested that is not vital.

The Canadian Press

CANADA'S DAILY NEWSPAPERS are observing this year the 40th anniversary of the founding of The Canadian Press, the co-operative agency through which they receive their news from Canada, the United States and abroad.

CP, a non-profit-making organization, is the newsgathering and distributing agency of the daily papers. Some of the news it gathers itself, some of it comes from the outside by exchange arrangements, but most of the news it draws directly from the newspapers.

A network of leased telegraph wires links the papers from coast to coast. Within minutes, the story of a major happening in Newfoundland can be transmitted to papers in Victoria or Nanaimo on Vancouver Island.

In addition to news, CP distributes pictures, by mail and wirephoto. It operates a service in French for Canada's French-language dailies. It provides the news used by more than 160 radio and television stations in their broadcasts.

CP is particularly proud of its fast and accurate service on federal elections — a service expected to be tested again this spring or summer. Because it was claimed CP election reports from the East influenced late voting in the far West, a federal law in 1938 prohibited publication of election results before the close of local polls.

CP is a Canadian service and to shift and interpret the world picture for Canadian readers it maintains staff men in London, New York, at the United Nations and in Washington. A CP man is with the Canadians in the UN Middle East Force. CP will have staff men in Bermuda when Prime Minister St. Laurent meets Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan March 25.

Weekly newspapers, although not members of the Canadian Press, benefit from its nation-wide service.

Many weekly newspapers, including The Lachute Watchman, subscribe to a specially-prepared CP service of news and mats. This service, in addition to news and feature items of special interest to the weekly papers, includes a roundup of the highlights of Canadian and world news, a political roundup from Ottawa and sport and women's-interest columns.

The weekly papers, too, have contributed to the strength of CP, not only in supplying news, but in the fact that many of the 98 daily papers that make up CP's membership originally were weekly publications. Ten per cent of the present membership, in fact, consists of papers that were in the weekly field at the end of the Second World War.

Welcome Spring

SPRING WILL COME, sooner or later. The American writer Henry Van Dyke, born in 1852, noted that the first day of spring is one thing, and the first spring day is another.

If you figure it's been a long winter, the fact is that spring this year begins when the sun enters Aries at 4.17 p.m., eastern standard time, on March 20.

The weather won't change at that minute, of course, and some parts of this broad country may be chilled in a wintry atmosphere while others are enjoying the new warmth.

But nothing is more sure than the change of seasons, and the birds are well aware of this, even if they don't read the weather forecasts.

The different flocks and species, following a schedule they have observed for centuries, have been preparing for the annual northward migration in places far to the south — in the open spaces of South America, and forests of Central America, the islands of the Caribbean and the warm-winter areas of the southern United States.

One of the first migrants to reach its summer breeding areas is the robin. Sure, a few robins spend the winter in Canada, and so do some other birds, but these are the exceptions. A well-trained robin will go south for the winter and return north when the temperature reaches a steady 35 degrees or better.

It's not the temperature, however, that spurs the robins' return. The National Geographic Society says the robins time their arrival with the return of the earthworms. All winter the worms have hidden below the frost line, and as the ground thaws, they come to the surface. The robins are there to meet them.

Other bird species time their migration to fit the growth of new vegetation. Nature's timetable has the trees bursting into bud and leaves beginning to grow, insects are hatched to eat the leaves and birds fly up to eat the insects.

Spectacular spring migrations — thousands of birds in a single flock — are haphazard occurrences, due to the changeable spring weather. They seize the chance of a bright warm day in the midst of cool or stormy periods.

But they all know where they're going, and they know the winter's over.

March 4, 1957

Mr. Gabriel Valois,
Lachute, Que.

Dear Mr. Valois,

I acknoweldge receipt of your letter of February 25.

From my observation, a Chamber of Commerce is most essential, especially in a district such as Lachute.

Unfortunately I have not the time to take an active part but I am of the opinion that those who have the time at their disposal should do everything they possibly can to encourage this movement for the establishment of new industries and the welfare of all concerned.

Please accept my best wishes in this venture.

Minister of Mines

The Weeklies Say

STOP FOR BUSES

There are still a large number of persons who are passing school buses when they are stopped for loading or unloading their passengers. The law requires that motorists stop their cars in either direction on approaching a school bus that has stopped on the highway.

PARENTS' SHARE

Every parent should realize that the beginning of school for a child is the beginning of a period in which teacher and parents are partners in shaping the all-round development of the child. Education must be co-operative endeavor between the home and school.

VITAL PROFESSION

It may be a credit to our system that we can choose freely careers which we will pursue, but if we are to survive and progress we must make the career of teaching as attractive as any other — and perhaps even more so.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A man has a comfortable feeling of martyrdom when he returns from work to do some writing or figuring at home. As a minor domestic hero, he can order the children brusquely to bed, and grumble when they fail to go.

At any mention of chores, such as woodchopping or leaky-tap fixing, he is entitled to assume a look of pained regret. A breadwinner getting ready to start on revenue-producing work must not be troubled with humdrum, pottering tasks.

After dinner, when Mummy has pried the children loose from Daddy's knee and wrestled them into bed at last, the breadwinner notices a great fatigue creeping over him.

He has had a tough day. And now, he says wearily, he is compelled to start work again when he should be relaxing, to earn groceries for those troublesome and ungrateful children and a regiment of hungry creditors.

However, he takes some comfort from reflecting what a noble figure he is.

"The children have been in bed for three-quarters of an hour now, and you haven't started work yet," his wife says.

"I'm just going to take it easy and read for a few minutes first," he answers.

Thirty minutes elapse. "Sit down and listen to this play on the radio, so you can rest before you work," says his wife, taking pity on him. That was what he had been hoping for.

But when the play is finished, he finds himself nearly asleep. He shuffles over to the typewriter.

Then he notices through blurred eyes that the keys are jammed together. There is a piece of paper in the machine, stamped with a meaningless string of letters and figures. Children have been at the typewriter again. The ribbon mechanism has seized up. It's a job for a mechanic.

"No work tonight," he says. "The typewriter's broken." Suddenly he feels energy surging through him. He turns the radio up; dances his wife around the chesterfield; pours a drink for both of them.

"I thought you were tired," his wife says.

"Funny, I don't feel tired any more," the man observes. "That rest must have done me good." He settles down to read. Two hours later he goes to bed, still feeling wide awake.

What brought on the fatigue, he realizes, was the thought of all that work.

Insurance Federation Recommends Rules For Pedestrians

Each week in Canada 15 pedestrians are killed and as many as 150 injured when struck by automobiles. Although the fault often lies with the motorist, pedestrians must also observe sound safety precautions.

The All Canada Insurance Federation, which represents more than 200 Canadian fire, automobile and casualty insurance companies, recommends these rules for pedestrians.

1—When walking on highways or streets without sidewalks, keep to the left, facing traffic.

2—When walking at night on dark streets or highways carry a light or wear light colored clothes. Even carrying a handkerchief helps motorists to see you.

3—Do not wear hoods or high collars which obscure vision.

4—Obey traffic lights. They are meant for pedestrians as well as motorists.

5—Don't run across streets. If you should trip you may not be able to get up again in safety.

6—Cross streets only at intersections. Don't jaywalk.

7—Go to the sidewalk when leaving buses or streetcars. Don't cross in front of or behind the vehicle.

8—Consider the motorist's problems. It takes him much longer to stop than it does you.

9—Teach children proper safety rules and set a good example yourself.

Bring radiant new beauty to kitchens, bathrooms, indoor and outdoor furniture. Your choice of sunny pastels, rich deep colors, that stay colorful. CILUX is easy to use, easy to clean, quick-drying, long-lasting. Come in and see these smart new CILUX Colors.

Deadpan Art and Poetry

By Lewis Milligan

Canadians are becoming culture-conscious — not that they are becoming conscious of their culture, but rather that they have become conscious that they haven't any culture, or not enough of it. They are fully conscious and proud of their agriculture, including the vast forest regions, although they can hardly claim any merit for that possession, having inherited it full-blown from the native Indians. In most other forms of material culture, however, Canadians can justly claim to be in the van of mechanical, industrial and commercial progress.

But Canadians, at least some groups of them, have awakened to the fact or supposition that Canada is sadly lacking in artistic and literary culture. For instance, we are told that we are even behind the Russians in one respect, in that we have no National Ballet Theatre, indeed, no indigenous ballet at all. This at first rather surprised me and I began to wonder what became of the bevies of girls who curvetted in tights at the old Star Theatre in Toronto. But the patrons in those days were not cultured, they didn't know it was ballet and had a rather rude name for the performance. They called it a "Leg Show."

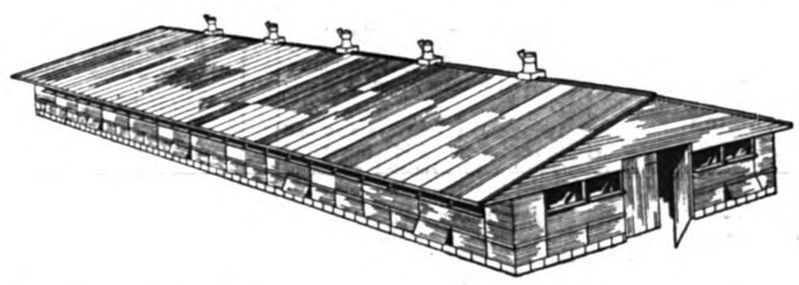

Moreover, Canadians are accused of being behind the times and lacking in aesthetic culture because they have no National Opera House and are deficient in their appreciation and financial support of classical and modern drama. To remedy these and other cultural deficiencies it is proposed that the government appoint a Council empowered and financed to promote Canadian arts and letters. Again I am reminded of the many grand and light operas, and the fine performances of classical and modern plays produced here in Toronto in the old days, which were popularly patronized. Even today there is no lack of such entertainment without bureaucratic direction or subsidy. But times have changed and governments are taking over more and more of the private responsibilities of the people.

We are still far behind Russia in the nationalization of culture, but we are gradually getting there. Already the lack of individuality and creative imagination in modern art, particularly in the deadpan architecture of our big cities, with its emphasis on utility, is preparing the way for the soulless socialist state. The stark angular style of the new office and apartment buildings has even been adopted in the erection of some new churches in Toronto. One would never mistake them for places of worship.

Admittedly I am behind the times and a back number in my taste for other things than architecture. I don't like modern painting and poetry, because they are neither art nor poetry. If I am wrong, then I was cruelly misled at school and in my later studies of art and literature. I am a wretched example of a wasted youth, the victim of archaic teachers and literary standards which I revered and burned the midnight oil to study and emulate. Homer, Shakespeare and all the succeeding stars in the literary firmament have been blotted out by the modern poets — at best they are regarded as curious museum pieces. Samuel Johnson described the poets of his day as a "nest of singing birds." The poets of today would be best described as a rookery of cawing crows. They certainly can't sing. They are cawing to one another in a language that only crows can understand. They have drowned out the liquid melody of the thrush singing to his mate in the garden.

Melody is essential to all true art. In poetry, as in music and painting, melody is inspired by emotion and creative imagination, "thoughts that voluntary move harmonious numbers." All else is without form and void. Some years ago I asked Bliss Carman, what he thought of the "free verse" writers who were having a field day at that time. "They tell me," he replied, "they are merely giving free expression to their thoughts and emotions. I might express myself completely in a yawn, but you could hardly call it poetry." Yawning is catching, and the poets are all bored stiff.

Hawkesbury Students Awarded Prizes In Essay Contest

Hawkesbury, Ont. — An essay entitled "Hawkesbury Mill, a pioneer", which the judges said combined a lively literary style with technical excellence, won first prize of $50 for Andrée Montpetit. Senior students of the Hawkesbury District High School took part in the annual essay contest sponsored by Industrial Cellulose Research Limited and the Canadian International Paper Company mill, of Hawkesbury.

Second prize of $25 went to Roger Mayotte and third prize of $10 to Anne MacLean.

The awards were presented last Monday by Sigmund Wang, Industrial Cellulose Research President and by G. H. Spence, Canadian International Paper Mill manager, during ceremonies held at the High School.

Forty-four essays were submitted in the contest which is open to pupils in Grade XII and XIII and follows a series of lectures given to the students by representatives of the sponsoring concerns. Visits to the laboratories and the mill are also part of the course.

The lecture course and essay contest were inaugurated in 1953 with the objectives of increasing knowledge among High School graduates on Hawkesbury's most important industry.

Jehovah Witnesses' Circuit Representative Here Next Week

The semi-annual visit of Marcel Tilteau, circuit representative of the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society, will take place in the Lachute area from Tuesday, March 19 to 24. Special meetings will be held at the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses at 572 Main Street, on Tuesday, at 7.30 p.m.; Saturday, 8.00 p.m.; and on Sunday afternoon at 3; the subject of the latter meeting being the public address: "Are We Masters of Our Own Future?" Other announcements of meetings in both English and French will be made by Mr. Filteau upon his arrival in Lachute.

Alex J. Stainton, the presiding minister of the Lachute Congregation added in regards to the coming visit of Mr. Filteau and his wife, that they have recently had the benefit of a two week refresher course at the Canadian Branch Headquarters, Toronto. This was held under the new zone arrangement adopted by the Watch Tower Society during the past year, where by the 78 branches throughout the world and the 848 full-time missionaries serving in the 162 lands now being served will receive the benefit of more frequent visits of travelling representatives of the Watch Tower Society from Brooklyn, New York.

Widow's Home Stands in Way of Progress

—Central Press Canadian

Standing in the way of progress doesn't seem to matter to 70-year-old Mrs. Isabel Massie of Toronto, whose home has proven to be a stumbling block in the path of industry. For five years, Imperial Oil, one of the world's largest corporations has been trying to persuade the elderly widow to sell her house—which is shadowed by the pride of the company's new 19-storey building—for a parking lot. The offers climbed every year, finally to $100,000 for house and land. Unimpressed with such wealth which lured her neighbors away, Mrs. Massie admits to being an inconvenience, but she credits the fact to her liking for the street. "It's so nice and quiet," she added.

Over the Years with THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

March 10, 1882 —

Shantymen and teams are returning in large numbers from the south side of the Ottawa. Several hundred horses are said to have died from "pink eye" during the past month.

John Hay, Esq., President of the Agricultural Society of this County, shipped on Monday last at Lachute, two thoroughbred Ayrshire cattle and a Grade cow, to Mr. Wm. Hay, of Beaver Creek, Manitoba, formerly of Lachute. Argenteuil is one of the finest counties in the province for raising stock.

It is announced that a company has been started to build a railway from Ottawa to Montreal by way of Hawkesbury. It will be worked on a charter of the Ottawa River Navigation Company, whose line at Carillon will be utilized as part of the road.

50 YEARS AGO

March 15, 1907 —

The Lachute Hockey Club has arranged another Grand Concert in the Victoria Hall, Friday, 22nd.

Mr. Geo. Hay has sold his stallion Gallant McIlroy to Mr. E. Belisle, of St. Eustache.

Pine Hill —Mr. Nap. Carrière's sawmill has been out of running order during the past few days.

Quite a lot of migration is on just now. From this county alone were shipped to the West last week some seven cars containing 77 horses and the effects of Messrs. D. and T. Foreman, Thos. Armstrong, Ralph McOuat, R. Mason, J. Westgate, also 17 horses of Mr. Geo. Hay.

Cushing — Mr. Walford has purchased a cottage at the lower end of Grece's Point on the Main Road which will be occupied by his family as a summer residence.

25 YEARS AGO

March 11, 1932 —

Searching around for new revenues the government is expected to announce at once a decision to increase the radio license fee from one dollar to two dollars per year. At the close of the fiscal year there will be upwards of 700,000 licenses issued.

Easter Sunday is on March 27 this year, which is the earliest Easter since 1921, when it fell on the same date. Easter was on March 23rd in 1913, and in the normal course this will not occur again for one hundred years, nor will Easter be so early as this year until 1940.

Wood for sale — $3.00 per cord for 18" wood and $4.00 per cord for 24" wood. Big cord. Apply Town Office.

St. Andrews East — Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Howard McOuat of River Rouge on the lucky arrival of a leap-year baby, but we are very sorry that the precious lassie will have to wait four years for her first birthday cake.

Grenville — Mr. Dupuis' residence and meat shop with contents were entirely destroyed by fire on Tuesday night of this week.

Most of us spend many minutes of every day just remembering. Mostly remembering to put out the milk bottles, to kep dentist appointments or to buy something for a friend's birthday — the chores that have to be done.

Other recollections go a lot deeper — Margaret McGregor, for instance, remembers many things as she makes a regular pilgrimage along the halls of the nurses' residence at Toronto Western Hospital, to place flowers beneath a plaque commemorating Nurse Edith Cavell.

Edith Cavell was a British nurse who helped Allied soldiers to escape from Belgium during the First World War. She was caught and shot by the Germans in 1915. Miss McGregor, then a teen-age British army nurse, stood outside the Brussels jail and heard the shooting.

Now 59 and working in a Toronto nursing home, Miss McGregor never has to be reminded of the devoted life of Nurse Cavell. Out of her memories come the offering of flowers.

Lace in Fashion

Lace might be remembered as a heritage of grandmother's day retained as part of a traditional bridal outfit.

But lace was a fashion of aristocratic ladies — and gentlemen — in the 15th and 16th centuries. And fashion-wise women today will recognize that lace is back with a bang.

For stylish dresses there's cotton lace in floral patterns and many colors, and exquisite French lace over taffeta or other light weight materials for cocktail dresses.

Dress designers have conjured a way to promote daintiness and put lace on just about everything, using lace for collars, dress panels or inserts and as trim and frills for shirt-waist blouses and dresses.

Once Was Enough

When it comes to memories, Mrs. Edith Ronne will probably be a long time forgetting her trip to the Antartic.

The 37-year-old Washington, D.C., housewife is one of two women who have set foot on the southern continent.

The wife of veteran explorer Captain Finn Ronne, she declares the Antarctic is a man's world. Her husband is returning for his fourth visit.

As for Mrs. Ronne's Antarctic visit, she says: "I wouldn't have missed it for a million dollars, and I wouldn't go back for two million."

Real Reminders

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Sawyer, at Lacombe, Alta., had intended to keep their 66th wedding anniversary quiet. But family members and friends made it a week-long observance. Mrs. Sawyer, 88, and his wife, 84, came to Lacombe in 1907 from Iowa.

If the kitchen garbage container presents a cleaning problem, a foil pie plate placed at the bottom of the container may save the day. It will catch anything seeping through the garbage bag and can be removed and washed for further use.

W.I. Executative Meets In Montreal

The Executive of the Quebec Women's Institutes is meeting this week in Montreal. The president Mrs. G. D. Harvey, Stanbridge East will preside and the agenda will include action on recommendations made at the recent Board meeting and plans for the coming season.

The schedule for County Annual meetings will be one item. These are held in the spring and each year are visited by various members of the executive. This necessitates much planning but it is felt by both the executive and the members in the various counties that it affords an important contact with the governing body and individual branches.

Prelliminary plans for the annual leadership course the end of May at Macdonald College will also be discussed and the provincial convention, a month later at the same place.

New Variation For Easter Bread Hot Cross Loaf

There's an old Welsh prayer that goes: "From the ghoulies and the ghosties, and the long-legged beasties, and things that go BOOP in the night — Oh, Lord, deliver us!" Here's a recipe for an Easter bread that's marked with a cross to help ward off evil, evil spirits and to ensure good health — in the great and ancient tradition of the Hot Cross Bun. History tells us the original Hot Cross Buns made by the ancient Greeks, Egyptians and Romans were marked with crosses which they thought had powers to ensure good baking and to prevent illness.

This recipe is a new variation of the perenially favorite Hot Cross Bun. The loaves are not "one a penny, two a penny," as the old jingle says, but they're one of the most delicious and least expensive of the traditional yeast-raised Easter breads. Touched with spice and jewelled with raisins the loaves retain their soft moist character for an unusually long time due to the addition of mashed potatoes to the dough.

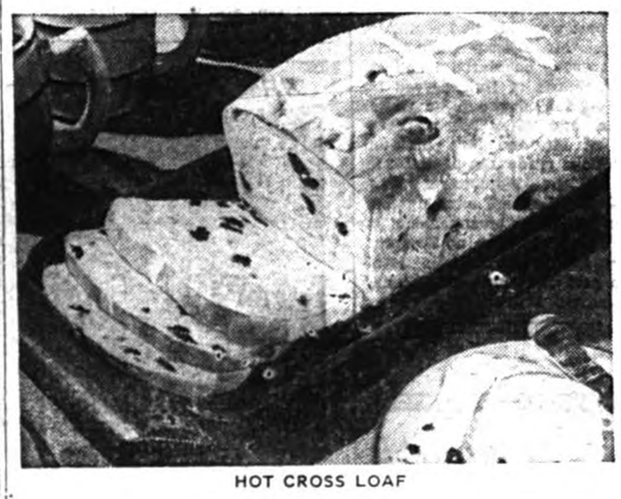

Hot Cross Loaf

1 Cup leftover mashed potatoes, ¾ cup milk, ¾ cup granulated sugar, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¾ cup soft butter or margarine, ½ cup lukewarm water, 2 teaspoons granulated sugar, 2 envelopes active dry yeast, 3 well-beaten eggs, 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon ground mace, 7 cups (about) once-sifted all-purpose flour, 1 cup seedless raisins, 1 slightly-beaten egg yolk, 2 tablespoons water, ¾ cup sifted icing sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla, egg white. Yield — 3 loaves.

Grease 3 loaf pans (8½ x 4½ inches, top inside measure). Rice potatoes or press them through a coarse sieve. Scald milk; stir in the ¾ cup granulated sugar, salt, butter or margarine and the prepared potatoes. Cool to lukewarm. Meantime, measure lukewarm water into a 4-quart bowl; stir in the 2 teaspoons granulated sugar. Sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well. Add potato mixture and well-beaten eggs. Mix cinnamon and mace into 3 cups of the flour and stir into yeast mixture; beat until smooth. Mix in raisins. Stir in additional flour (about 4 cups) to make a rather stiff dough. Turn out onto floured board or canvas and knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl; grease top. Cover. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 1½ hours.

Punch down dough and turn out on lightly-floured board or canvas. Divide dough into 3 equal portions. Cover with a tea towel and let rest 10 minutes. Shape each portion of dough into a loaf and place in prepared pans. Brush tops with a mixture of slightly-beaten egg yolk and water. Cover and let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 40 minutes. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375°F.) 35 to 40 minutes.

Measure icing sugar into a bowl; blend in vanilla and sufficient egg white to moisten. Drop icing from the tip of a spoon to make crosses on top of loaves.

Lenten Dishes That Please Throughout The Year

This recipe for Tuna Fish Loaf is one answer to the problem of how to keep meals interesting during the weeks of Lent — and the months that follow. It's an inexpensive luncheon or supper dish that offers plenty of eating pleasure whether served with parsley or hard-cooked egg cream sauce. Or if you prefer, it may be served with chili sauce. This recipe makes a shallow loaf that is easily unmolded and easily sliced. Flaked tuna fish and soft bread crumbs with subtle seasoning is a tasty combination that doesn't even threaten to unbalance the food budget.

Tuna Fish Loaf

2 Cans (approx. 6 ounces each) flaked tuna fish, 2½ cups coarse soft bread crumbs, ¾ cup diced celery, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, few grains grated nutmeg, 1 cup finely-chopped onion, 2 slightly-beaten eggs, 6 tablespoons mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons milk.

Grease a loaf pan (8½ x 4½ inches, top inside measure). Preheat oven to 350°F (moderate). Turn tuna fish into a bowl; add bread crumbs, celery, salt, pepper, nutmeg and onion. Add slightly-beaten eggs and mix lightly but thoroughly. Combine mayonnaise and milk; add to tuna fish mixture and combine well. Turn into prepared loaf pan. Bake, uncovered, in preheated oven about 45 minutes. Let stand in its pan in a warm place 10 minutes, then turn out and serve with parsley or hard-cooked-egg cream sauce.

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Safety on The Ice

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

"I don't want any child of mine to have a chilling plunge into a hole in the ice! I had that experience once as a youngster — and it was no fun! I was going down a long, steep hill on a sleigh. To my surprise it went much further than I expected and ended up on the thin ice of a stream. With a crash sleigh and I went into the water — and it was mostly good luck that I wasn't drowned," my husband said one day to our children.

* * *

It is surprising the number of persons who fall through a hole in the ice. Skating and hockey are both so popular that a knowledge of what to do in an emergency, if the ice should give way is important for young Canadians. At the first of the winter and as spring approaches, going on the ice is often hazardous. Every now and then an ice accident is reported on the radio and in the press. Sometimes a life or lives are lost, because sensible rules for ice safety have been ignored.

When a boy or girl asks, "Can I go skating?" be sure your child has a companion. "Skating all alone is just as foolish as taking a solitary swim!"

Dr. W. Wallace McKay, of the Department of National Health and Welfare, has pointed out, ice is unsafe for an individual unless it is at least two inches thick. If it bends or cracks under the weight of a skater it is risky. A child might trip and the impact of his weight sends him through the surface. Unless the ice is very thick, the weight of a group of skaters should not be concentrated in one spot.

If a person does fall through the ice, a pole, ladder, plank or rope is good rescue equipment. Some skaters carry a long pole with them when skating. If they should fall into a hole, this pole might save their lives.

In quenching a forest fire a human chain passing buckets of water is often formed. This same principle is a sound one in effecting an ice rescue, only the links of the chain lie flat on the ice, one person holding on to the ankle or skate of the person in front. When the victim struggling in the icy water, is grasped, all the members of the human chain work together to pull him out.

If by any chance a person falls into the warter, he should stretch his arms out over the ice and yell "Help! Help!" Panic must be avoided!

With luck, even without assistance, some individuals may be able to squirm forward flat on their stomachs. With their arms outstretched, they get their hips partly out. Then they flip sideways, and rapidly race away from the hole.

Falling through the ice is such a dangerous and chilling experience, it is not apt to happen twice to the same person. Caution and ice skating on rivers or lakes go together. Emerson's remark might be taken literally, "In skating over thin ice, our safety is our speed."

Sports -- Juvenile Activities -- School

Lachute High School Sports and Activities

By Bev. Sanford

Two very important games were played over the week-end. The first was staged Friday evening when two Senior girl's basketball squads met—Lachute versus Hull. This game was played in the LHS gym, and was the second of the Provincial play-offs to decide who would be the winner to compete for the Visser Trophy in Lennoxville, sometime in April.

This was one of the closest and most exciting encounters of the season. Play got off to a fast start with Hull sinking 2 foul shots. At the beginning, the home team seemed a little slower than the opposition and consequently at the end of the first quarter the visitors led, 6-2. Again in the next quarter, Hull maintained the upper hand and play continued rapid but as both defences were strong, the tally did not rise beyond 10-5.

The second half saw fouls dealt out to both teams and Lachute managed to better the score somewhat by bringing it to 13-10, but still in favor of Hull. However, at this point, two Hull players were fouled off and Lachute took advantage of the situation and tied it 15-15.

The last quarter was the most thrilling of all and excitement filled the air as the lead kept changing. It was anybody's game as the teams battled for first place. The scoreboard showed 20-20, then rose to 24-20 for Lachute. The visitors sank a basket followed by a foul shot to make it 24-33. Then Hull pulled in front 25-24. Once more Lachute took the lead 26-25 and then in the dying minutes, Hull sank a foul shot, to even the score and end the game 26-26.

Heather Jones, Betty Underhill and Jean Taylor were awarded the Three Star Selection.

The fact that the game ended in such an indecisive way, means that one more contest will have to be played to decide the winner. The girls are planning to visit Hull this Friday evening. We all wish them the best of luck and hope that the odds are in their favor.

Local Team Loses In Hockey Finals

Saturday morning the Senior Hockey Team and their coach, Mr. Arne Petersen, along with a number of supporters, travelled to Granby to play the crucial game versus Quebec High School, to decide the winner of the Provincial Championship. It has been seven years since LHS has had a team strong enough to enter this final play-down.

From the drop of the puck, play got off to a fast start and it was soon noticeable that our team was going to have stiff opposition. During three minutes of the first period, Quebec High marked up 3 goals against Lachute. Nearing the end of the first period, Jacques Labrèche shot from Quebec's blue line scoring Lachute's first goal. Although LHS were not in the lead they semed to have the edge over their opponents. Spectators from Granby as well as from Montreal agreed on this fact. It was apparent that Quebec's three goals were "fluke" shots that somehow managed to pass the watchful eye of our net-minder.

The second period saw fast play and was extremely exciting. Quebec added another point but was soon followed by a goal by Tim Sorley for Lachute, which made the count 4-2. Play continued at a fast pace with Quebec marking up their fifth goal. This was followed by a fine effort on the part of Bob Campbell, scoring Lachute's third counter. The period was featured by very close checking and individual rushes with both goalers making some remarkable saves. Quebec ahead 5-3.

In the final period, Bob Campbell scored his second goal of the game and put Lachute into the fight once more. Mervin O'Brien was right on his heels and scored Lachute's fifth goal to tie the score 5 all. During the last minutes of the third period, the cheering indicated that the suspense was becoming unbearable. All the players realized that the next tally would likely end it all and each player played his very best. With only twelve seconds to go, Quebec got possesion of the rubber and made no mistake, scoring their sixth and deciding goal. Thus the game ended Quebec 6, Lachute 5.

The Three Stars of the game were Bob Campbell, Mervin O'Brien and Brent Laurin.

Coming Events

A Drama Festival featuring three one-act plays will be held in the High School auditorium on Friday evening, April 5.

Lachute, Grenville and Brownsburg will be entered in the competition. Further details later.

Hawkesbury Leads Final Series 3-2 Meet Locally Sunday For Fifth Game

By John J. Molloy

The initiative in the final series changed hands over the week-end. On Thursday Brownsburg took a 2-1 lead by virtue of their 3-0 victory, but Hawkesbury took Sunday's encounter 8-5 and with a 6-3 win Tuesday, took a firm hold on the Cup. Its do-or-die for the Bombers at Brownsburg Arena this Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

In the third game of the series Brownsburg again pushed into a one game lead as Buddy Racine turned in a masterful shutout. In any shut-out performance, of course, the goaler is a star, but in this game Buddy was the big difference. Certainly some of the Brownsburg forwards had a good night, notably Jacques Racine, but they were well-matched by Hawkesbury's forwards.

The fifth game of the finals, planned for this evening, will be held Sunday afternoon due to Hawkesbury's participation in the Citizen Shield play-downs.

In the first period Jacques Leveillé scored a fine team goal with the team-work being attributed to Red Charlebois and Germain Hebert. This goal stood as the big marker till three minutes of the last period, during which time Hawkesbury tried desperately, again and again to wipe it out. Buddy Racine had a little bit of luck with one or two shots and this seemed to inspire him to a brilliant performance.

The early stages of the third period knocked the feet from the Hawkesbury team. While they were bombarding Buddy Racine, Marc Campeau, then Jacques Racine slipped out to score two more for Brownsburg. Assists on these went to Larocque, Ouellette and Germain Hebert.

The fourth game of the series was played in Brownsburg and was witnessed by a thousand stronglunged enthusiasts.

The Bombers took the lead within a minute when Jacques Racine and Honoré Norbonne combined on André Ouellette's goal. The play was fairly even throughout the first period, but Hawkesbury's rapid-fire shooting from anywhere paid off with a 4-3 lead at the end of the period.

In the second period, Brownsburg equalized and held quite an edge in play, but again it was Hawkesbury's continual sniping that did the damage. Two goals in the latter part of the period put them in front to stay. In the final frame the visitors were more or less masters of the situation. They scored two more goals and although Brownsburg got a good one in the dying stages, it was an unimportant goal.

One feature of this game was the high cost of penalties. Four goals were scored on short handed squads.

For Brownsburg Jacques Racine had two goals and an assist and line-mate André Ouellette had one and two. The other goals were scored by MacAdam and Biron. The other assists went to G. Hebert (2), Norbonne (2), Laporte, Leveillé and Giroux.

For Hawkesbury Marcel Legris scored four goals. L'Imoges one goal and two assists and Lesage four assists. On the other line, the Larocque brothers and Provost scored one goal and one assist each. Hec Legris had the only other assist.

• • •

In the fifth game Hawkesbury ran away with the first period although Buddy Racine held them to only two goals. Brownsburg stormed back in the second and may have been a little unfortunate still to trail 4-3 at the end of that one. However, Hawkesbury dominated the play again in the last period to win 6-3.

The Legris, L'Imoges, Lesage line tallied all six Hawkesbury goals. Legris had three goals and two assists, L'Imoges two goals and three assists and Lesage three assists. Defenceman Rioux had a goal and an assist.

For the losers, Marc Campeau had two goals and an assist. Yves Laporte had three assists and Jacques Racine one. Paul Emile Hebert banged in the other goal.

Brownsburg now have their backs to the wall, but the feeling with the team is that they can square matters at home, and with their full team can trim Hawkesbury in Vankleek Hill.

Lachute Branch, Bank of Montreal Celebrates 40th. Anniversary Friday

On March 22, 1917, Vernon Barry opened a banking office on Lachute's Main Street, in a tiny section of the structure now housing J. W. Lefebvre Limited. The sign over the door read "Molson's Bank," long since a part of the Bank of Montreal, which tomorrow marks the 40th anniversary of that opening.

Only a year after its establishment, the Molson's office proved to be inadequate to meet the needs of the ever-increasing number of customers, so a move was made to the old Desjardins block on Main Street. There, the bank remained until 1930, when the present, attractive, brick structure was erected.

For the same reasons that compelled the original office to be moved in 1918, the present office was remodeled and enlarged in 1952, so that today, it offers Lachute and surrounding district residents fast and efficient service, with 140 years of banking experience to back up every transaction.

Early Managers

Mr. Barry, the first manager, remained in Lachute for a year, and was succeeded by W. A. Houston, who was active in community affairs during his six-year stay in Lachute. An ardent sportsman, he was a charter member of the Lachute Curling Club and devoted a great deal of his leisure time to the development of other sports organizations in the community. Another of his interests was the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, which was also the principal interest of Mr. Houston's successor, Basil Stead. In 1930, when Mr. Stead was transferred to Sydney, N.S., C. H. V. Hamilton took charge of the branch, remaining for two years.

The longest tenure of managership was that of Thomas K. Haller, who served as treasurer of the Curling Club, the Lions Club and the Golf Club during his 13-year stay in Lachute. His successor, Eric A. Hibbard, was in charge for the next four years, until 1949, when ill-health forced him to retire in favor of the present manager, Donald Hay.

Mr. Hay was born and educated in Lachute, and began his banking career here in 1924. Although he was just a youngster at the time, Mr. Hay can recall when the original branch opened and trace its successive moves to its present quarters. He gained his early experience at a number of branches in Quebec Province, and, was manager of the B of M's Grand Falls office, in New Brunswick, prior to returning to Lachute.

Like his predecessors, Mr. Hay is active in numerous community affairs. He is president of the Curling Club, vice-president of Argenteuil Agricultural Society and treasurer of the Lachute Lions Club and the local unit of the Salvation Army.

Pioneer Banking

The forward-looking spirit of the local B of M stems from the earliest traditions of the parent bank, which was founded in 1817. Within a fortnight of its establishment, Canada's first bank introduced the branch-banking system. This flexible and trustworthy type of organization has long since proven a mainstay of the nation's relative stability in economic affairs. In its first year, the bank also issued Canada's earliest native currency and became the colonial government's domestic banker.

In the opening up of the West, Bank of Montreal branches pioneered in many frontier settlements. The bank also played an important part in financing Canada's first transcontinental railway.

Today there are more than 700 B of M offices strategically located in every section of this country, with 133 of them in the Province of Quebec. This network, combined with the bank's long-established business connections around the world, enables the Lachute branch to offer its customers a complete banking service for both their personal and business needs. Mr. Hay, the manager, can call immediately on B of M head office departments for any specialized information that is required.

The second Bank of Montreal office in Lachute, in the Desjardins block on Main Street, which the B of M occupied from 1918 to 1931. Tomorrow marks the 40th anniversary of the opening of the organization's first office in this community.

Local Rotary Club Hears Lachute Notary; Annual Dance Planned

The annual Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club dance will be held Friday, May 3, at the Lachute Golf and Country Club, it was announced at last Thursday's regular dinner-meeting at which Notary Simon Valois was the guest speaker. President Keith Hickson was in the chair.

James K. Campbell was inducted as a member of Rotary International by District Governor-elect Linton W. Armstrong, and following the dinner, Rotarian Stuart Jones introduced Mr. Valois, whose family, he pointed out, is this year celebrating the 75th anniversary of notarial service in this district. Notary Everest Valois opened an office in Ste. Scholastique in 1882, at the same time serving this district and eight years later, came to Lachute. He was replaced by his son Gaetan in 1915 and since the latter's death in 1952 Notaries Simon and Richard Valois have been carrying on the business.

Mr. Valois addressed the club on Marriage Contracts, going into details of the two different types of contracts, namely "common" or "separate" as to property, pointing out that each has its good points in different situations.

Continuing, Mr. Valois drew a comparison and discussed the various types of wills and their restrictions, pointing out the results of the estate in the event a person died without a will. In closing, he gave some information on bankruptcy and the various laws governing it. He was thanked by Rotarian Don Wilson.

This evening's meeting will see a continuation of their discussion of meeting in Lachute for the coming year as well as the election of officers.

April 29 Cancer Campaign Planned Need Canvassers To Aid Committee

The first organizational meeting in connection with the annual financial campaign of the local branch of the Canadian Cancer Society was held in the Lachute Auditorium on Monday evening of this week. Dr. Jacques Castagner, President of the Argenteuil County Section presided together with Linton Armstrong, Chairman of the financial campaign. A large representative gathering of local residents was present and a good start was made with regard to the preliminaries of the campaign.

It was the unanimous opinion that best results could be achieved by an intensive campaign of short duration similar to the one just completed so successfully for the Red Cross. In view of this, April 29 has been set aside as "C-Day," (Cancer Day) and plans are now being made with a view to having all canvassing done on that day and evening throughout the entire County. With regard to the Town of Lachute, this work will be done in the evening and the full co-operation of all residents is solicited in order to make this venture an unprecedented success.

Headquarters for this campaign will be located in the Lachute Town Hall. The campaign treasurer is Mr. Gordon Higginson, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia. Many of the workers who did so well in the Red Cross campaign have volunteered to help in this one also.

One of the major problems facing the committee is the organization of the rural areas of the county. It is felt that there are hundreds of people in these sections who would be ready and willing to do their share in the fight against this dreaded disease, cancer, if only they had an opportunity to do so. This affliction is no respector of class, color or creed, and is a problem to be faced by the entire community. In view of this an earnest appeal is hereby being made through the press for volunteer workers in the rural areas.

Each worker is expected to make ten calls for subscriptions. A perfectly organized campaign would result in a call being made on every resident of the county. Obviously, perfection is most difficult to achieve in any venture and this is no exception when it is realized the number of workers needed for a complete county campaign. Here is your opportunity to take part in the all-out fight against cancer. Call Linton Armstrong, telephone 71, Lachute, and offer your services now. If you belong to another organization, try to persuade your fellow members to volunteer as a group and take over a certain section of your immediate community. In any event call now and volunteer.

DR. JACQUES CASTAGNER, president of the Argenteuil Branch, Canadian Cancer Society, shown presenting campaign chairman Linton W. Armstrong with a cheque from the ladies of the local Dressing Centre. C-Day will be April 29 when the entire Argenteuil County will be canvassed.

Fish and Game Assocn. Elects Officers Speakers Address Large Membership

The slate of officers selected by a recently appointed nominating committee was unanimously approved Monday evening at a meeting of the members of the Argenteuil Fish and Game Protective Association. Nominated for president was J. Sydney Drew, of Lachute, with Robert Sugden, of Brownsburg, the vice-president. Keith Graham, of Brownsburg and G. A. Sevigney, of Lachute, are secretary and treasurer respectively, all being elected for a one-year term of office. The meeting was presided over by J. Dorius Lepine, Mayor of Brownsburg, and interesting films on "Bird Dogs", ducks and geese, fishing and the general outdoors were screened.

Four directors selected by the nominating committee were elected for a two-year term, these being Adrien Lacasse, of Brownsburg, and Ronald Hebert, Hubert Lemire and Bob Giles, Jr., all of Lachute. The eight names selected by the nominating committee were, on a suggestion from chairman Lepine, "proposed unanimously."

The four directors selected by the general membership for a one-year term were Don Todd, of Brownsburg; Leonard Bedard, of Lachute; Mansel R. "Manny" Wilson, of Cushing, and Jean Jacques Dupré, of Lachute.

Richmond Peltier, director of Molson's Fishing Club was the first speaker and suggested every member should try and sign up one new member, pointing out that at present, there were 75,000 persons belonging to various associations in this province.

He pointed out that his organization was aiding in conservation by offering the following services: (1) Encouraging people to join clubs and tournaments; (2) Distributing literature, posters, etc.; (3) The free use of films from their film library which is improving yearly; (4) The issuing of fishing information which starts this summer on a small scale until it is completely organized and (5) By the stocking of rivers and lakes with Wall-eye Pike or as they are more commonly known, Doré. These fish are purchased from the Provincial Government and transported free of charge by Molson's Brewery in co-operation with the local agent.

Mr. Peltier then screened a film on bass fishing, featuring hockey star Jean Beliveau and himself, the occasion being the former's first fishing trip.

Benoit Bertrand, a past president of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations and a Knight of Conservation, opened his address by stating that he was surprised at the number of people that do not know what conservation means. "It is our work and duty as members to observe the laws and set an example for these unfortunate people," he added, pointing out that there are some nine thousand square miles of territory in this province and to employ enough game wardens to enforce the law throughout that area would cost a small fortune.

Mr. Bertrand has been honored for his work in conservation by being appointed a Knight of Conservation, an order of the Provincial Government restricted to 40 members.

Sterling Pollock explained services offered by the Federation, of which he is a director and answered several questions from the audience. He made mention of Manny Wilson as being one of the top conservation and fishing experts in the province and later, Mr. Wilson informed the gathering of a meeting with Provincial and Federal Fish and Game Officials, pointing out that last spring the Provincial Government "planted" some 20,000 Brown Trout in the Rouge River and years ago, some in the North River. It was here a six-pounder was caught near St. Jerome last year.

In speaking for the newly-elected directors, President Syd Drew stated 'we have been given a job to do and we are going to do our best to fulfill our obligations. He thanked the various speakers and Mr. Lepine, as did treasurer G. A. Sevigney, who also said a few words.

Argenteuil Sanitary Unit Receives New Supply Of Salk "Polio" Vaccine

The population of Lachute and Argenteuil County will note with pleasure that the Sanitary Unit has received a new supply of Salk vaccine. This shipment, sent by the Minister of Health, is from the Connaught Laboratories, University of Toronto.

Vaccination against poliomyelitis, started here, as in the rest of the province, in May, 1955, but on account of the scarcity of the vaccine, less than 1,500 children have benefitted to date.

The last epidemic of polio in our county was in 1953 when five persons were seized with paralysis. Since 1955 only one case has been known and that was an adult not vaccinated.

The arrival of this new quantity of vaccine will permit the innoculation of another group of children, aged from 3 months to 10 years inclusive. In Argenteuil County it is hoped that 1,000 children will receive their first injection between now and Easter.

Vaccination of babies and children of pre-school age will be given at regular clinics; scholars will be vaccinated at school, if parents sign the cards to be given students.

Children who have already had the Salk vaccine do not have to report again. Three injections, however, are necessary, with a one month interval between the first and second. The 3rd injection is given from 7 to 18 months after this.

C.P. Express To Improve Service

Due to a misunderstanding relative to a recent article which appeared in this paper concerning the April 28 "Dayliner" Budd Car service, the Canadian Pacific Express Company has pointed out that "express service will be provided Lachute the same as previously enjoyed."

Tentative plans for the "in" shipments will definitely mean an improvement in service and the company assures all local customers that there will be no delay in "out-going" shipments.

Terrebonne MP Not To Run

Lionel Bertrand, 51, who last week announced that he will not seek re-election as Liberal member for the riding of Terrebonne in the Dominion general election anticipated this summer.

Mr. Bertrand, first elected in 1940, made his decision known at a constituency Liberal Association meeting in St. Jerome. A meeting to choose a new candidate will be held April 7 at St. Jerome.

No reason was disclosed for Mr. Bertrand's decision.

He resigned from his seat in 1944 to contest a provincial riding. Defeated, he was re-elected to the House of Commons again in 1945, where he has sat since.

Mr. Bertrand is secretary-treasurer of the Association of French Language Weekly Newspapers of Canada.

He appeared before Judge Omer Cote in St. Jerome court. The charge was laid by Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen.

4-H Calf Club Hold Meeting Need Members

Members of the Lachute 4-H Calf Club held a meeting last Tuesday, March 12 in the Lachute High School. The meeting, with 24 members present, was chaired by president Donald Parker. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary-treasurer, Stewart Robertson and approved as read.

The main business discussed was that the club would have club stationery printed with the 4-H club crest and name. Ross Oswald, the Club Leader, congratulated the members on the work in making their recent dance successful.

He also announced that membership in the calf club closes April 1, and that all farm boys and girls between 10-20 years of age inclusive, wishing to join and not having done so either write or phone the secretary-treasurer, Stewart Robertson, R.R. 3, Lachute, telephone 1298-W-3 before that date.

Movies on "Farm Tractor Safety" and a trip through Jasper National Park were shown and the meeting was then adjourned.

Three Youths Steal Cars; Arrested by Ontario Police Sentenced to Jail Terms

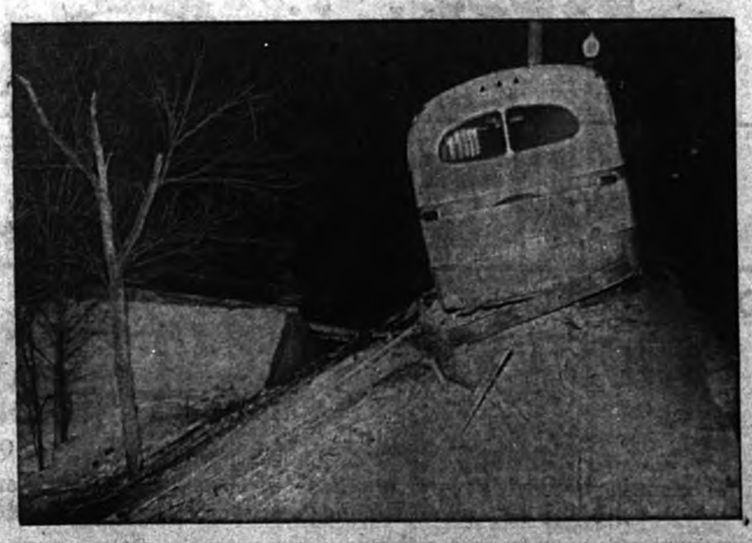

A 16-year-old Brownsburg boy working in St. Jerome and two youths from the latter town were arrested by Ontario Provincial Police on Wednesday of last week in connection with a series of robberies in this and other areas. Appearing before Judge Omer Coté in St. Jerome court last Friday, the youths were sentenced to two years each to be served at the Laval Training Centre, St. Vincent de Paul Penitentary.

Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen took custody of the trio, taking them to St. Jerome, where a total of 15 charges were laid. When arrested near Lancaster, the three were attempting to start a recent model car reported stolen from l'Abord-à-Plouffe. The car owned by Ronald Rockburn, of St. Andrews East, and stolen from Lachute on Monday of last week was recovered near Rigaud.

The three had apparently gone to sleep in the car leaving the headlights on, and when awakening found the battery to be dead. A passing motorist reported the situation to Ontario Police officers on patrol and the arrest resulted.

The series of thefts and attempted thefts in this area early last week kept local Provincial Police officers on patrol constantly. Several of the cars stolen locally were recovered but the culprits made good their escape from this district. Among those victimized in this locality were Oscar Larente, of St. Andrews East, whose car was stolen; Walter Gauley, St. Philippe, who unknowingly filled one of the stolen cars up with gas, only to have it pull out of the service station without the operator paying; Réal Dupuis, of Grece's Point, who had a Buffalo Robe stolen from his car; the Rockbrun car stolen from Lachute and a gas theft similar to the St. Philippe one near St. Canut.

Westward Bound Bus Goes In Easterly Direction

Provincial Transport bus driver Roger Laframboise, of Ayersville, had a narrow escape on Wednesday evening of last week when the bus he was driving slid out of control down French Hill, Brownsburg. The vehicle was empty of passengers at the time of the accident, which occurred on icy road conditions.

Laframboise was headed up the hill and had stopped near the top to let off three passengers. When starting, the vehicle commenced sliding backwards, turned around half way down the hill, and some 200 feet further, came to a stop at the edge of the bridge narrowly missing two poles.

Seed Potatoes Popular

Canada has been supplying fairly large quantities of certified seed potatoes to Jamaica for the past 20 years. In 1955-56 almost 40,000 bushels were supplied mostly of the Segago variety. The Jamaican supplies certified seed to their growers at a nominal price and in order to prevent such subsidized potatoes from being used as table stock, all seed potatoes must be suitably marked. The marking is done by applying a blue vegetable due to the tubers when they are being packed. All shipments to Jamaica are packed in crates containing 110 pounds. Formerly barrels containing 165 pounds were used.

As an indication of the high quality of Canadian seed in use in Jamaica, Foreign Trade, a publication of the Department of Trade and Commerce reported in the December 8, 1956 issue that the Sebago seed gave an average yield of at least 9 to 1. Prior to the introduction of Canadian Segabo seed the yield varied around 6 to 1.

Replacing Milk For Dairy Calves

Healthy holstein heifer calves can be weaned from milk at four weeks of age and raised successfully on a calf starter composed of materials other than animal proteins, according to F. Whiting and R. D. Clark of the Lethbridge, Alta., Experimental Farm, Canada Department of Agriculture. Although protein of animal origin is not essential in calf starter, hay quality is important. The addition of aureomycin to the calf starter had no effect on body weights in these studies at Lethbridge.

In general, calves raised on milk substitutes were rougher in appearance from four to seven weeks of age, and growth rate was somewhat slower during the first month than calves raised on whole milk. No differences were evident by four to six months of age.

Previous studies on the use of antibiotics indicate a more beneficial effect where calf scours or other infectious diseases are prevalent. As calf scours had not been a problem in the Lethbridge herd, this may explain the lack of response to aureomycin.

On dairy farms where all fluid milk is marketed, skim milk normally is not available for raising heifer calves for herd replacements. Under this system the use of whole milk or whole skim milk for calves is costly. In view of this, efforts have been made during the past number of years to formulate milk substitutes and calf meals that would replace most of the milk normally used for raising calves.

Department of Health Approves New Chemical

Approval by the Department of National Health and Welfare for the use of Maleic Hydrazide on potatoes and edible onions has been announced by the Canadian manufacturer of this agricultural chemical.

Maleic Hydrazide is an entirely new weapon in the Canadian farmer's armoury. Other chemicals combat insect pests, weeds, or fungus infections; Maleic Hydrazide is the first product to combat time. When sprayed according to the manufacturer's directions, approximately two weeks prior to harvesting, the chemical increases the storage life of the crop by from two to six months. This will enable the grower to market his crop in a more orderly manner and thus avoid depressed prices at harvest time, while the widespread use of Maleic hydrazide should also protect the consumer from off-season high prices.

Not only will potatoes and onions resist sprouting and shrivelling for prolonged periods of storage when treated with maleic hydrazide, but potatoes destined for potato chips will retain the low sugar level of fresh potatoes and so make a lighter, more attractive chip.

Maleic hydrazide can be applied to potatoes at a cost of eight to ten cents per bushel, and to onions for less than five cents per hundredweight. Tests in Canada and the United States have shown no adverse effects from the use of maleic hydrazide; the only effect of the chemical is to preserve the flavor, appearance, and market acceptability of potatoes and onions.

Burg Fire Department Report Presented Question Speed Following $4,000 Fire

By John J. Molloy

Brownsburg Fire Chief Arthur Robbins reported two fires during the month, one at the home of J. L. Gagné on February 22 and the other on March 3 at R. Demers' residence. The latter was the result of a bad chimney which the proprietor promised to repair in the spring, there was no damage. The fire at the Gagné residence caused damage to the extent of $4,000. Chief Robbins reported that an unusual amount of feathers in the house caused most of the smoke damage. Two firemen were injured in the fire — H. Elliott was overcome by smoke and had to be removed to hospital, and A. Charron cut his wrist when he broke a window.

Mayor Lepine congratulated the fire department on the excellent job they did at this fire, but asked if perhaps a better system could be employed in getting the crew on the job sooner. It seems that sixteen minutes elapsed between the call and the arrival of the fire brigade. Chief Robbins maintained that the round-up drill they use is for the most part the most effective, but agreed that the secretary-treasurer or police chief should blow the siren if they are there before the members of the fire department. It was pointed out the delay was partially caused because the caller called the Town Hall instead of 4242.

The report was made at the March session of the Brownsburg Municipal Council which opened with the reading of the minutes. Councillor Pariseau moved their adoption, Councillor Harris seconded and the motion was carried.

Police Chief Lepine delivered his monthly report, indicating four auto accidents with damage amounting to $1500 occurred in Brownsburg in February. The tax returns from the movie theatres showed the decline in attendance to be continuing.

Secretary-treasurer Charbonneau reported that it would be a tight budget this year. He pointed out that in previous years, it has been possible to borrow from waterworks at year's end. Now, however, as a result of last year's expenditure, the waterworks account is down. He read the due bills. Councillor Lavoie moved that they be paid. The motion was seconded by Councillor Lafleur and carried.

The councillors were then asked to adopt the new tax rate of $1.30, which is a 5 cent increase. Councillor Ouellette moved its acceptance, Councillor Pariseau seconded and the motion was passed unanimously. A motion for By-law 97 was made by Councillor Pariseau and seconded by Councillor Lavoie. This law authorizes the secretary to turn over for collection to the town's attorney all overdue tax accounts, and was carried. Mr. Charbonneau said that if he could collect all the outstanding accounts before the deadline of March 9, the coffers would be in a healthier state to pay the municipal workers. Some $2,000 was due.

Councillor Bill Ouellette moved that the same three evaluators — Messrs. J. S. Thompson, J. Lacasse and A. Brunelle be again appointed this year. Councillor Harris seconded and the motion was carried.

Another discussion on whether or not the municipality should contribute to charitable campaigns was resolved when Councillor Harris proposed that the practice be discontinued. Councillor Rhéal Ouellette seconded this motion and it was adopted with one dissension — Councillor Bill Ouellette. The feeling was that we give through door-to-door canvas, through service clubs, etc., and that through the council the donations are not voluntary.

"Regarding the purchase of a truck, it was decided to accept Mr. Lacasse's bid on a Chevrolet at $4,370 "to boot" with the old truck. Councillor Harris asked why the other dealers hadn't been asked to bid, and was told by the Mayor that last year's bids had shown all prices to be more or less the same. The councillors said that they wanted this make of vehicle, and only Mr. Lacasse could bid on this type.

The Mayor announced that the plans for naming the streets were going ahead and that the signs would probably be ready in a month. Mr. Donaldson has agreed to paint the 5" x 22" signs for $1 each. The boards will cost 40 cents each, so that the total cost for 50 signs will be $70. An example will be 2 AVE. N.W. which is now Mountain Street.

The old "Head tax" issue reared its ugly head again and it seems that it will be a year in the making. The present council seems more or less settled on the matter now through and unless a new influence is felt after May, the tax will be in effect in 1958.

Ontario Ayrshire Group Visits Local Farms

A recent neighborly visit of approximately 30 members of the Vankleek Hill Ayrshire Club, to several Ayrshire farms in the Laurentian Ayrshire Breeder's Club area was on the whole a most successful event. The Vankleek Hill Ayrshire Club was headed by President Russell McIlwain, secretary Ray Newton, and Lawrence Farmer, Agricultural Representative for Ontario's Prescott County.

The first stop of the visiting club was at the farm of Erskine McOuat of Brownsburg, where they were joined by president Ken Hanley and the directors of the local club. From here they visited the farms of Messrs. W. D. Pollock, A. F. Hanley, Ernest McOuat, Allan Walker and Ben Hammond. From here they journeyed to the Legion Hall, where the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion Branch No. 70 provided one of their usual excellent meals. Following dinner the group visited the farms of Messrs. Stewart Armstrong, Edward Wigney, Douglas Rodger, J. P. Bradley & Son, Howard McOuat, Erskine Rodger and finally the farm of Freddie J. Wilson, formerly of the late Clarence Miller.

The thanks of the visitors was expressed by president Russell McIlwain, with an appropriate reply by the local president, Ken Hanly.

The president and directors of the Laurentian Ayrshire Breeder's Club would like to take this opportunity to express their sincere thanks to all these farmers who so kindly opened their farms and contributed each in their own way to make this venture such a success.

Your family doctor is going to school again!

Hundreds of busy family doctors are now committing themselves to many hours of extra study each year so that their skills and knowledge will keep pace with the latest developments in modern medicine.

Already, over 1400 family doctors throughout the country have pledged themselves to such studies by joining the College of General Practice of Canada.

This College, which can do so much for the health of all Canadians, was founded two years ago by the Canadian Medical Association — and is being aided in its work by substantial grants from the life insurance companies in Canada.

Family doctors treat four out of five patients themselves. But they must also know when a specialist is needed and how best to work with him for the greatest benefit to the patient. In all these activities, they welcome the guidance of the College.

By aiding in this progressive development, the life insurance companies in Canada are actively helping to create a healthier life for all Canadians.

Also Good Loosers

FOR THE FIRST TIME in five years, the Lachute High School Senior Girl's Basketball team will not be competing in Provincial Championships at Lennoxville. The decision was made Friday evening when the local team was defeated 46-31 by Hull High School.

The decision was no doubt a hard one to swallow for all concerned as the L.H.S. girls had high hopes of once again bringing home the MacLeod trophy. The local champions of last year have during this past season had numerous opportunities at being good winners and few at being good loosers, but Friday's game put them in the latter category.

Coach Bob Bailly, on checking past statistics, came up with the fact that during the 1952-57 period, the LHS girl's team has had 91 wins, 12 losses and two ties, one of the latter being with Hull High School two weeks ago which forced the final and fatal game of last Friday.

Basketball has made considerable progress at the local school under such coaches as Bob Bailly and Arne Petersen, and this year due to graduation, the girl's team will have to be rebuilt from start to finish.

It is too bad the local girls are not in this year's finals, but parents and citizens have every right to be just as proud of the good loosers who admittedly were defeated by an inspired and superior team, as they had last year when the L.H.S. girl's were Provincial Champions.

What's In A Name

WE WONDER HOW LONG people will continue to confuse the terms 'health' and 'sickness'. A labor leader states that we need health insurance in this country. He really means sickness insurance. The Department of Health is said by a minister to spend sixty or seventy million dollars annually on health. Most of these millions are not spent on health but on sickness, and to be logical, a minister might well be called a minister of sickness rather than a minister of health.

To achieve health is comparatively cheap. To care for illness, much of which might be prevented is very expensive. Because of widespread illness and premature death, we pay in terms not only of hospital beds and unnecessary funerals, but also in the poverty which results, and in the social unrest which in many countries spells communism.

But most people are so occupied with their own personal affairs that they will not take the time to think these problems out. During the last ten years Canada has added to her hospital bed capacity no less than 70,000 new hospital beds. Few people even know it, and very few will take the trouble to wonder why we need to add in this brief period more beds than we had altogether thirty years ago, although in the same period our population has not increased proportionately.

Most of us still know little about the possibilities of preventing disease and prolonging life. Too frequently the individual takes no interest in prevention until someone in his immediate family dies of some disease which previously he only read about casually in the newspaper. Then he suddenly makes up his mind to devote some of his time and his money to the prevention of that particular disease — to the exclusion of all others. But what's the use? It is too large a subject for one brief editorial. Some day, someone will write a book about it in the hope that someone will read it.

Oh, Those Stamps

WE LEAVE IT TO the Postmaster-General and the CCF member for Kootenay West to decide whether the drawings of the new Canadian sports series of stamps are accurate or not. Is the swimming girl correctly demonstrating the crawl? We don't know. Is the skier displaying faultless form on the slope? We don't know. Is the fisherman casting and the canoeist paddling in the style laid down by the masters of those ancient skills? We don't know.

All we do know is that these stamps are ugly and unimaginative and do not credit to the efforts to improve Canadian design. They remind us of that wild life series of a year or two back. That great, ugly mountain sheep (or whatever it was) with its vast horns was enough to give a child nightmares.

When are we going to produce a really beautiful stamp — one with some sense of artistry and design behind it? Again, we don't know.

The Vanishing Streetcar

THE DAYS OF THE streetcar are numbered. Allan Lamport, chairman of the Toronto Transit Commission, says they no longer are being manufactured in North America. When those now operating wear out, they will vanish from the scene like the buffalo from the plains.

The news will bring a pang of regret to those to whom the streetcar represented an era in transportation. And to many it will bring nostalgic memories of the transit systems of half-forgotten days.

Those middle age or older can remember the wooden cars which used to lumber along main city thoroughfares. Some were four-wheelers and venturesome small boys liked to jump up and down on the rear platform to make the cars rock. In summer time there were open-air cars, with crosswise seats and a foot board the length of the car along which the conductor edged to collect fares.

Then there were the lines that linked cities with surrounding communities. They were once as familiar a part of the scene as horse-drawn delivery wagons. Highways then bore little resemblance to the smooth-paved arteries of today and there was little competition from bus and automobile. The streetcar and its cousin, the inter-urban trolley, were in their element.

The streetcar, of course, changed with the times. Wooden cars gave way to steel vehicles. Slow-moving old-timers were retired in favor of fast-moving streamlined cars that raced automobiles on the getaway. But in spite of these adaptations, the streetcar is going out of favor.

One of these days a generation will grow up in North America that has never seen a streetcar. Everyone will ride to and from work in buses, subways or driving their automobiles.

The streetcar, once the standard method of public conveyance, now is not sufficiently flexible for use on today's busy streets.

"The Time Has Come !"

Pity the plight of the poor old huckster!

Has it ever occurred to you that every specialist — bar the advertising and public relations man — has been taken care of academically, in one way or another. So far, nobody has recognized the adman's contribution to society and hailed his worth throughout the land.

The student of arts, at the end of his course, can proclaim to all interested parties that he is either a bachelor or a master in his field. The doctor of medicine, philosophy or law is similarly blessed. The accountant of worth lists himself as a chartered member of his craft; and the secretary can become a fellow of his institute. Soldiers, sailors, and airmen of distinction can tag themselves with sundry initials. And even the so-called lowly tradesman carries papers to show that he is either an apprentice, a journeyman or a master of his trade. But what can the huckster do?

The adman is sadly off when stacked against the specialist in any other sphere of activity. About the best he can do is to stick out his chest and state that he is an account executive with the firm of Keen and Deadly, or that he writes copy for Jolly and Bright. No initials behind his name indicates that he has attained a standard of excellence in his profession. Yet, the adman and the public relations officer are just as important to the economic and social life of their country as any man of science or of letters. Personally, I think the time has come to give these men the honor due them.

Someone will undoubtedly remark that there are degrees of attainment for these people in academic circles. True enough, there are. But they are not degrees in advertising and public relations specifically. They are only arts or journalism degrees; they are not degrees that stamp a man for what he really is. There is absolutely no standard of higher education set apart and dedicated to the huckster. What, therefore, should be done?

If I had a cool million or two to throw around, I would set about the task of starting a Canadian College of Advertisers. But, since I am unable to finance it, I suggest that the advertising agencies and the advertisers pool their resources and get such a home of learning started. They should solicit the services of top men in the field to provide the necessary instruction. Then they should secure a charter which would give them authority to grant degrees. And, finally, they should set about the happy task of teaching the rising generation how to be good copywriters, account executives and public relations officers. They could call their degrees whatever they liked; associate, fellow, bachelor or master, it matters little. But it would give every huckster from here to eternity a tremendous lift to know that he could carry with him the private stamp of a worthwhile profession.

It might also be in order to suggest that some provision be made to honor top men in the field, as other professions do, by awarding some special degree, honoris causa. I know a lot of men in the advertising world who would give their eye teeth to call themselves doctors of advertising or public relations. And why not? They're just as smart as some doctors of medicine I know!

And what purpose would all this serve? Well, for one thing, advertisers would be able to educate their likely prospects in an approved school and not, as is so often the case, on the job. Agencies would know a man's worth by the degree he carried and would be anxious to have graduates in the field on their payrolls. Standards of advertising would improve, too. But most important of all, some of the old fuddy-duddies who clutter up head offices would then be able to take a course or two at the college and learn that advertising does pay off. Thus educated they could increase the advertising budgets instead of hamstringing their companies by ill-conceived economies in this department.

Last, but not least, a properly educated huckster might devise better commercials for radio. And goodness only knows, we certainly need something better in that field!

RELICS OF PAST

Port Colborne, Ont. (CP) — Blake Moscrip found two relics of past generations while crossing the Humberstone township dump — a rusted animal trap with six prongs used to stab the victim, and a hand-made wooden spike for tapping the sap of maple trees.

Out of the Woods

During an absence of four weeks in hospital, Mr. Don Titman, editor of this paper for the past several years, has been deeply touched by kind messages received from many friends, organizations and Watchman contributors.

Through a long, humdrum routine, devoting his best to a sometimes thankless job of public service — he reports he "has experienced an immense lift" from these testimonies of friendship gathered on the way.

Don is now out of the woods and expects to return home soon. He takes this opportunity to thank all concerned.

Lachute Mayor Supports C. of C.

March 18, 1957

Mr. Gabriel Valois,
Lachute, Que.

Dear Sir,

In answer to your recent request asking me to express my views regarding the re-organization of the Lachute Chamber of Commerce, allow me to compliment you in your efforts to launch this campaign.

As Mayor of Lachute and as an industrialist, I will give you briefly my thoughts on the matter.

I have read, with keen interest, in both L'Argenteuil and The Watchman, the views of prominent citizens who are desirous of seeing the Chamber of Commerce again functioning as it did in the past. Like them I am confident that our town must surely profit from the activities and benefits which are connected with such an organization and supported by a group of businessmen and citizens interested in the progress of our municipality.

The administrators of a town cannot function properly without individual help and assistance, no matter how clever or willing they may be in the discharge of their public duty. This cooperation, necessitating some personal sacrifices to a greater end, could surely be manifest in a Chamber of Commerce comprising men imbued with a civic spirit and ready to work for the good of the town and its citizens.

I pay hommage to those who have served in the past and are presently doing their duty and it is my humble opinion that the Chamber of Commerce can and should be re-organized for the benefit of our town and all concerned.

Respectfully yours,
— Léopold Carrière,
Mayor of Lachute

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Some people think witchcraft is out of style, but they are wrong.

It is true that we see comparatively few aged crones dancing around cauldrons and mixing goulash from such unsanitary materials as "eye of newt and toe of frog." The health authorities wouldn't allow it.

To my knowledge it has been quite a while since any Canadian sprouted wings at midnight and flapped off to collect blood. We leave that to the Red Cross. Being a vampire is too melodramatic and European. What percentage is there in it, anyway? Dull work, and no night bonus.

Just because the practise of sticking pins in rag dolls has lost its appeal, however, there is no reason to suppose that black magic is on the wane.

Magic has moved with the times, that's all. Nowadays it is done by words. Canada swarms with witches and warlocks who know how to paralyze the brain with a slogan.

Anyone can do it, in fact. After only one or two lessons, a beginner is able to send a subject into a trance-like state merely by intoning the words "Marilyn Monroe," "Elvis Presley" or "Free Enterprise."

This last is the most powerful voodoo of them all, although in my case "Marilyn Monroe' has it beaten by a slight edge.

I assume that "Free Enterprise" is a black-magic phrase, because that is the only way I can explain the strange power it has to freeze thought in otherwise rational persons, and bring a glassy look to the eye.

By making a few mystical passes over the nation, and grunting "Free Enterprise," Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe has apparently been able to persuade millions of Canadians that it was healthy and normal to hand a group of financiers $80,000,000 of our income-tax money to build a pipeline and enrich themselves.

If the pipeline is the profitable thing it seems to be, why shouldn't the people of Canada own it? Because that would be dirty socialism, says a voice from the back of the hall. It is the voice of someone who has been bewitched by a slogan.

Does anyone call the highways minister a socialist because he is in favor of publicly-owned roads? Should we throw the post office open to free enterprise? "Deal with Squander Brothers City Hall Company, for the lowest taxes in town." Is that what we want?

Some things are natural monopolies, and the public treasury should draw the profit from them. Abracadoodle! When you awake, you will remember nothing of this conversation.

EASY PRECAUTION

Calgary (CP) — Operators of the Stampede Hotel here ask that a person presenting a cheque for cashing put his or her thumb print on it. It may be purely psychological, "but we have never had a single forged cheque in the 11-month period," said the hotel manager.

Overload

By Joseph Lister Rutledge

Most of us understand that overloading a machine invites trouble. We recognize that overloading an electric circuit may result in disaster. It is the simple common sense expressed in our proverb about the last straw breaking the camel's back.

In practice we are generally wise enough not to overload our cars or our electric circuits. We are sensitive to the point of absurdity about overloading human agencies. We see a 44-hour week as destructive to men who once managed a 60-hour week without notable suffering. But when we come to our economic system we seem to assume that an overload is beyond the bounds of possibility.

This is an era of hopeful demanding. We want more homes, more schools and hospitals, more factories, more and better cars, more and better TV equipment and programs, more labor saving devices for the home, more welfare assistance for everyone. We are not prepared to wait for these gains, to earn more, or to save for the rainy day. We expect to pay something in the long run, but we would rather pay a little more than wait.

We want to earn more wages, because these things we want are up in price. They are up in price because we must have more before we have really earned it by a little more production or a little patient waiting while we save enough to pay our way. If these advantages are not immediately ours we argue that someone has it in for us. They show it by raising interest rates and restricting credits. We won't recognize that our problem does not result from these restrictions, but because we won't create savings as fast as we expect to borrow. We want more wages, but not more production. We want more luxuries but we don't want to wait to earn them.

We haven't been doing badly. Our gross national product is up and average weekly earnings have reached a new high. Hardly anyone is without a car or a TV set or any one of the hundred or more things once thought of as luxuries. We must have all these things now and pay for them out of the higher wages we are sure we will get.

PREPARE FOR CLOSED ROADS

April first to May first is the usual date for the roads to be closed to heavy loads. You may not be worried about it, but we dealers do have worries.

When we are cut down to half-loads or less, it means we have to make twice as many trips to take care of the same amount of feed. Deliveries are affected the same way.

Of course we might bribe our way through with heavier loads, but when you have to pay out all the extra you can save by heavier loads you are no further ahead and you are helping keep up a vicious habit or disease. In the meantime we are caught in the squeeze.

Now if you will put in an extra supply between now and April first, you can help us a lot. We will be looking for a lot of co-operation from our customers during the next two weeks. Thank you.

If you are running short of grain try our Protina Dairy Feed. It is very attractively priced and a real good feed.

25 YEARS AGO

March 18, 1932 —

At the meeting of the County Council held last week, Mr. C. Staniforth of Arundel was appointed Warden of the County of Argenteuil.

Sheep killing dogs may be killed by farmers whose flocks are worried by these animals, it was ruled by Magistrate Metayer in Murray Bay when he dismissed an action brought in for $50 for the death of a dog.

Match committee of curlers in the stew — a weakness for oysters was the downfall of the Match Committee when eight stalwart veterans of the Roarin' Game went down unglorious in defeat. With an oyster supper in view the committee, all top-notchers on the ice ranged themselves into two rinks and challenged all comers — the losers afterwards to provide the spread. The challenging rinks comprised:

Messrs. W. J. Deacon, H. M. Gall, F. A. Brennian, J. A. McGibbon, skip.

Messrs. R. Hamilton, G. Valois, Roy Fraser, J. W. Gall, skip.

The challenge was promptly accepted and Messrs. R. Richardson, R. Todd, Dr. J. M. Drew and Geo. Fraser set out to beat the first-named rink of all-too-confident challengers, winning by 8-5.

Meanwhile on the opposite ice the second team was undergoing a change of countenance and looked rather dejected as they figured out the price of oysters. Here Messrs. Geo. Muir, S. Campbell, John MacKimmie and J. R. Charron were victorious in a score of 21 to 3.

There remains no question as to the appeal of oysters to the masculine palate, neither is there any doubt as to who most enjoyed the supper following these games.

March 22, 1907 —

On Monday last in the township of Wentworth there was celebrated a double golden wedding around which were gathered events of a most rare and interesting nature. Fifty years previous to that day three marriages were solemnized in the little Anglican Church at Lakefield, by the Rev. Mr. Griffin. The names of the contracting parties were Wm. Morrison and Elizabeth Parker, James Morrison and Jane Parker, and John Rodger and Mary Rodger, of Lakefield, all of whom are still living within the same parish. The two Morrison's were brothers and the two Parkers sisters.

One brother, James was known as "Bear Morrison", to distinguish him from others of the same name. He had standing to his credit the death of 51 bears killed by him within five miles of his home. The last to fall by his hand was one which he killed in the spring of 1906 which weighed 400 pounds.

75 YEARS AGO

March 17, 1882 —

We are happy to hear that the recent snowfalls were very heavy in the Upper Ottawa districts, and lumbermen must have been much benefitted. Several large firms were about closing up for want of snow.

Mr. P. Monette, station-master of the Q.M.O. R.R. at Lachute, has been appointed agent for the Great Western Railway running to California, Montana, Colorado, and all points West.

Today being St. Patrick's Day will be celebrated by Irishmen with great eclat the world over; but specially in the Emerald Isle, where it is feared it will be made the occasion for popular demonstrations against the Imperial Government by the Land Leaguers.

Four tramps came on the cars to Lachute Monday evening, from the West. They had to stay, as the conductor thought their room was preferable to their company. They drowned their sorrows in a bottle of rye.

We understand that as early as December last, Mr. J. Ward, of Montreal, suggested to a friend in Argenteuil the desirability of some legislation to regulate factory labor and protect women and children employed in factories. The Hon. Mr. Abbott was communicated with, and he expressed his readiness to frame such a bill; we are now waiting to see this government measure introduced in the Commons.

Wedding of Local Interest Held In Montreal Church

Welden - Geerdink

The marriage of Susane Beradina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Geerdink, of Ste. Therese, Que., to James Howard Welden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Welden, 1048 Old Orchard Avenue, Montreal, took place Saturday morning, March 2 in St. Columba's Anglican Church, Montreal.

The Rev. Father Petersen performed the wedding ceremony. Baskets of pink gladioli with greenery and candles in candelabra were used to decorate.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore an ankle-length gown with a full skirt of poult de soie with scalloped over-skirt of white silk velvet, fashioned with a fitted bodice of white embroidered velvet with full length sleeves. Her short veil of tulle illusion, worn over the face, was held in place by a crown of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of white baby carnations and orchids.

Mrs. D. O. Thomas, as matron of honor, wore a turquoise blue silk net over a taffeta gown, with full skirt and matching bolero. Her head dress was composed of a band of pink roses and matching tulle. She carried a bouquet of darker pink Sweetheart roses.

Mr. James Welden, Jr., cousin of the groom, acted as best man, and the ushers were Gail Raddley and Donald Fisher, both cousins of the groom.

Mrs. Geerdink, the bride's mother, was attired in a tissue faille black gown, also wearing a short Persian lamb jacket, with white accessories and a carnation corsage.

Mrs. Welden, mother of the groom, was in a navy silk faille suit with pink feather hat and matching gloves and a corsage bouquet of pink carnations.

After the ceremony the guests proceeded to Ste. Therese by car to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geerdink.

The bride and groom, with the best man and matron of honor, called at the Ross Memorial Hospital to pay a surprise visit to the groom's uncle, James Welden, Sr., who is presently convalescing at the above hospital. After a short visit, they joined the rest of the wedding party at the bride's home in Ste. Therese, where a reception was held.

Out-of-town guests from Hemmingford, Lachute, Ottawa, Oxford Mills, Montreal and Holland attended the wedding. Later in the afternoon, the bridal couple left by car for Rutland, Greenfield, Mass., New York City, Newark, New Jersey and Virginia. On their return they will take up residence in Montreal.

Cancer "Dressing" Workers Recognized By Quebec Director of Welfare Service

"The unselfish work volunteers are doing in this community to help fight the spread of cancer and relieve the suffering of those who have the dread disease, is well known at headquarters in Montreal," Mrs. Paul Fontaine, Director of Welfare Service for the Canadian Cancer Society, Quebec Division told members of the Dressing Centre of the Lachute Branch at a meeting in the Town Hall, March 13.

Mrs. W. M. Cottingham, president, welcomed members and called on Mrs. Leonard Ayers, Chairman of Welfare for Quebec Division of Canadian Cancer Society, to introduce Mrs. Fontaine.

Mrs. Fontaine said that within the next month an appeal for $400,000 will be launched in Quebec Province to help finance a threefold program of Research, Education and Welfare of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Money is needed for research and everyone can help contribute towards that, but time is needed for education and welfare and that is where volunteers play an important part. Here as elsewhere they are working tirelessly making dressings for cancer patients, and providing comforts. Education is vital for though Cancer is one of the great killers of mankind, yet many deaths from cancer could be prevented by early treatment. For, of all the major causes of death in America, Cancer is one of the most curable — provided that treatment begins soon enough. Through educational talks by doctors, firms and literature, volunteers in this branch of the program are striving to make the public aware of suspicious symptoms.

Mrs. Howard Watson moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Fontaine for her interesting and informative talk.

An educational film from the Canadian Cancer Society was shown by Mrs. Gilbert Ayers.

Things 'n Stuff

— By — Walter Henry Jackson

IT'S A SMALL WORLD

My last fling in professional show-business was in 1948, when I toured the county fairs of the Eastern Townships with a grand-stand show booked by Garden Bros. Circus of Toronto. The acts consisted of a slack-wire artist, two musical comedians, two comedy acrobats, an illusionist, a horizontal bar act and a dog trainer with three very smart fox terriers, and myself doing a contortion and balancing act.

The dog act's owner was a French Canadian who went under the name of Mason. He and I shared a dressing room at one fair and one day between shows he began telling me about some of his early experiences. He had been an acrobat in his younger days and later had a horse act with his daughter.

"I remember one trick I used to do," he said. "Nobody in the world ever did that trick. Just me. I had a table with two upright stands made of iron pipe. At the top of each pipe was a small tripod with a disc on each point for my thumb and two fingers of each hand. From a standing position on the table I would place my fingers on the discs and go up slowly into a three-finger handstand." So I decided to deflate his ego. I had seen the stunt performed many years ago, and told him so.

"I can even tell you the performer's name, the date and the theatre where he performed," I said. "It was in 1924 at the St. Denis Theatre, Montreal. The performer's name was Paul Mallette."

"Paul Mallette!" he shouted. "That's ME!" And to prove it he pulled out from under a bench a kit-bag of the first Great War with his name and regiment on it.

Be seein' ya!

Often Decorated 'Espionage Agent' Addresses Lions

Pierre Meunier, a retired Major in the Canadian Army, was the guest speaker at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Lachute Lions Club, addressing the gathering on "Counter Espionage". A varied war career to his credit, he was awarded the Medall de la Resistance by the French Government and the M.I.D. medal by Lord Louis Mountbatten, under whom he served in Malaya as general staff officer.

Now general sales manager for Gouger Saw Chain Company, the speaker traced the beginning of his training in England, where he was taught the art of parachuting into an enemy occupied country. He described how he was dropped in the Bordeaux area, how he dressed exactly as a native, even the fragments of tobacco in his pockets were the local brand. He was taught the names of all mayors in this area, also the names of Gestapo chiefs. His map was the size of a postage stamp — easily swallowed when he had memorized everything.

The speaker described the brutalities of the enemy when they were on the lookout for espionage agents. When D-Day approached, information was given by radio in code messages. The code for D-Day was — "Venus will throw an arrow and floods will start." He estimated that five divisions were saved by information gathered by allied agents when the landing took place.

After France, Mr. Meunier was parachuted into the jungles and swamps of Burma, and played a large part in information before allied offensives in these areas.

He spoke of the torture of leaches, climate and difficult terrain to move in. Also the difficulty of language and appearance; only an Asian could look like an Asian, whereas in France, he did look like a Frenchman.

The speaker was introduced by Lion Miville Trickey and thanked by Lion Roger Gravel.

C.N.I.B. Advisory Board Hold Meeting Requests Return of Provincial Eye Clinic

A meeting of the Argenteuil Advisory Board of the CNIB was held at the district office, 494 Sydney Street on Tuesday, March 12 at 8.00 p.m.

In the absence of President Dr. Eric Mongeon, vice-chairman W. G. Richardson occupied the chair. On motion of Tom Ponech, seconded by Doug Ogilvie, minutes of the January meeting were approved.

It was reported that a Provincial Eye Clinic had been held in Brownsburg early in March and that there remained about another 16 people on the Brownsburg list waiting for examination. In Lachute there are over 200 listed as waiting for the next eye clinic. Because of the large number of people waiting, some of whom it is thought may actually be blind cases, others with active eye disease and also a number of school children, a strong desire was expressed by several directors to have the Eye Clinics resumed in Lachute as soon as possible. Accordingly, on motion of Mrs. J. E. Barker seconded by Mrs. S. Holt and unanimously approved, it was resolved that the local Field Secretary, Mr. A. Zaplaski, convey to Mr. Philip Lainess of the Quebec Department of Health, the Advisory Board's strongest representations to have the Government Eye Clinic return to Lachute at an early date and complete the examination of all those now on the waiting list.

It is hoped that this work may be finished and a report available before the next regular meeting.

Field Secretary's Report

Since the last meeting, the CNIB of the Laurentian district, gratefully acknowledges with thanks the following items for the Lachute Office; a new spaceheater and an electric kettle, which were donated by the Women's Auxiliary to the CNIB for Argenteuil. Cups and glasses were also donated by a friend. Several Units of the Women's Institute from the Argenteuil district have donated chairs. The Lachute Curling Club contributed six chairs. A number of clothing articles have been received to be distributed to the needy cases.

Argenteuil White Cane Club

The members of the "Argenteuil White Cane Club" met on January 16 and on February 20, at the Lachute Legion Hall.

Prevention

Four people were examined in Montreal; out of this number, three required glasses. An eye clinic was held at the Canadian Legion Hall in Brownsburg, March 7 and 8, Dr. Noiseux, ophthalmologist, examined 54 people.

Mr. Zaplaski reported that an "eye bank" had recently been established in Montreal, the purpose of which is to provide the material necessary for corneal transplant, thus permitting those who have lost their sight to regain it through a corneal graft.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind will do the secretarial work, provide the transportation, distribute the eyes and accept any donation to this effect. Statements and files will be controlled at the CNIB Service Centre, Montreal. The names of those wishing to donate their eyes will be recorded and a complete list will be kept of the persons who may benefit from a corneal transplant.

The hospitals that are interested in corneal transplants will do the enucleation.

Mr. Zaplaski also exhibited books of forms which he had, to be used by anyone who wishes to will his or her eyes to the "eye bank". Complete details concerning the service were not available at the time of the meeting; however, the Field Secretary stated that he would obtain further answers and that in the meantime anyone interested could call or write to him at the CNIB office, 494 Sydney Street, Lachute.

The date of the next meeting was set for May 14.

Bombers Tie Series With Overtime Goal Final Game in Brownsburg This Sunday

By John J. Molloy

The exciting Brownsburg - Hawkesbury cup series will go right down to the wire. André Ouellette was the star of the sixth game, as his overtime goal broke a 4-4 deadlock to tie the series. The last game of the series takes place on Sunday at Brownsburg Arena.

André seems to have scored more overtime goals in the last few seasons than any player in the league, and must certainly rate as the Star of this game. The real heroes, though were Jacques and Buddy Racine. They kept Brownsburg alive when they might otherwise have been ploughed under. Jacques scored two with two assists in a display of sheer speed that time and again let him pierce the Hawkesbury defence. Buddy's goaling must have broken the hearts of the visiting fans, as he batted or gloved 38 of the Richports' scoring drives.

The crowd of 1,137 were kept on their feet throughout as Brownsburg's 4-1 lead was whittled down to nothing and the final 20 minutes was worthy of Alfred Hitchcock.

Lesage scored two goals and one assist for Hawkesbury. Limoges and Provost scored the other goals. André Ouellette had two assists and his winning goal and Honoré Norbonne had one goal and two assists. Brownsburg's other goal was scored by Campeau from Hebert and Laporte.

Basketball

Last Friday evening the Senior boys and girls basketball teams accompanied by Principal F. H. J. Royal, their coaches Mr. A. Petersen and Mr. R. Bailly, along with another bus filled with ardent supporters, visited Hull and Aylmer.

The Senior girls played Hull to decide the winner of this zone and also to determine which team would go to Lennoxville for the final playoffs.

Hull started off with a 4-0 lead. Lachute followed closely and by using their famous technique — the "weave" soon tied the score. However, Hull took over once more to end the first quarter 9-6. In the next stanza, Lachute had difficulty in gaining possession of the ball, and when they finally did, being over-anxious to score, they shot too far out from the basket and consequently missed many of their shots. The score at half-time was 23-8.

The third quarter saw the local girls pick up somewhat and play became more exciting as they brought the tally to 28-18, but as play continued each side advanced to end the third quarter 35-20, still in favor of the opposition.

The fourth and final period showed that Hull was definitely the superior team. They maintained the lead which they had taken earlier in the game and the final count was 46-31 in their favor. They will now compete at Lennoxville for the MacLeod Trophy, which the LHS girls were fortunate to win last year.

The Three Star selection was awarded to Betty Underhill, Heather Jones and Jean Taylor respectively.

The boy's game was the first of a 2-game total point series. Aylmer won 55-41, thus having a 14 point lead. The second and last game of this series will be played Friday evening at 8 — in the High School gym, when Aylmer will visit Lachute.

The winner of this series will go to Lenoxville to participate in the Provincial tournament.

Hockey

Last Wednesday, March 13, the Senior boys played the first of a two-game total point series for the O.V.S.A.A. Championship against Hudson High at Rigaud. Lachute won 5-3.

Our boys started off at a slow pace in the first period and were out-scored 1-0. In the second period, Hudson, on a screen shot; scored again to make it 2-0. Near the midway mark, Bob Campbell opened Lachute's scoring, unassisted, and so the second period ended 2-1 for Hudson.

In the final period, Lachute came up with 4 goals to Hudson's 1. Mervin O'Brien on a pass from Jacques Labreche tied it 2-2. Then Jackie Lavis put Lachute ahead when he tallied on a pass from Tim Sorley. Soon after Hudson tied it again on a long shot, however, David Bates got possession of the puck and banged in a rebound off Ken Underhil's stick to put LHS in the lead 4-3. A few minutes later, Bob Campbell scored the final goal on passes from Ian Duncan and Jacques Labreche. So the game ended Lachute 5 Hudson 3.

The first star went to Bob Campbel, second to Mervin O'Brien and third to David Bates.

The final game between Hudson and Lachute was played Saturday in the Brownsburg Arena. The Lachute Senior boys were the proud winners of the O.V.S.A.A. Championship.

In the first period, play was fast and defensive with both teams anxious to open the scoring. A penalty was dealt to Hudson and taking advantage of the opportunity, David Bates came up with the first goal of the game. Shortly after Ken Underhill scored on a pass from Tim Sorley, while Mervin O'Brien, on a pass from Jack Lavis, ended the first period 3-0 for Lachute.

In the second period, David Bates, assisted by Tim Sorley, scored his second goal. Finally the visitors broke the jinx to tally their first and only marker of the game.

Lachute continued to hold the upperhand in the third period and Jack Lavis banged in their fifth and final goal. A penalty was called against Lachute and Hudson tried their best to beat the L.H.S. goaler, but to no avail. So the final score read Lachute 5, and Hudson 1.

This meant that the Lachute Senior hockey team are the proud owners of the O.V.S.A.A. Championship. Congratulations to all the players and to our coach, Mr. A. Petersen.

Coming Events

A Drama Festival featuring three one-act plays, will be held in the High School Auditorium, Friday evening, April 5.

Pre-Season Fishing at Montreal Sportsman's Show

A giveaway program with a "catch" to it will provide a bit of early season fishing for local Izaak Walton's and anyone else who may be in Montreal during the Montreal Sportsman's Show, from March 29 to April 7.

The "catch" is the one you guessed already. You have to land a fish.

Show officials say they will have 5,000 perch and other game fish available for stocking a 24 foot fishing pond. Besides the right to carry away fresh-caught dinners, successful anglers will be able to tote home money prizes, providing they hook fish that have been tagged as lucky ones.

The fishing-pond will be a continuous feature of the ten day show.

Citizens' Forum To Discuss Problem Vital To Education

Citizen's Forum on Sunday will originate in Winnipeg, where a problem vital to teachers, parents and especially certain children will be discussed before the television cameras. The children in point are those who are either very bright or very slow to learn, and the problem is whether they should be segregated in school.

There has been growing concern as to whether our mass education system provides sufficient challenge and opportunity for the gifted child, and also enough special attention for those who are slow. A variety of answers have been proposed and tried: "enrichment acceleration" (enabling the brighter pupil to be given a broader curriculum and to move through his work at a faster pace), segregation, and retaining the status quo in the classroom.

Discussing the relative merits of segration will be Sybil Shack, a public school principal in Winnipeg; Mrs. Ruth McLintock, a mother and former teacher; R. J. Johns, a Winnipeg school trustee; and Dr. C. E. Phillips, professor of education at the Ontario College of Education in Toronto. The chairman will be Kenneth McNaught, professor of history at United College, Winnipeg.

The recorded radio program on Thursday will bring an additional 15 minutes of discussion during which the audience will fire questions at the panel members.

Drama on Adolescence On Sunday's "Perspective"

Joe and Roxy, the second of three dramas on adolescence written especially for Perspective, will be presented on the central television network on March 24. Against a background of teen-agers in love, Gordon Burwash has written a story that shows how the inadequate home life of Joe, a boy of 15, and Roxy, a 16-year-old girl, fails them. The film touches on many of the problems that face today's teenager — the problems of "going steady", of planning for a secure future in an insecure environment, of seeing education as something other than a means to an end, of learning how to live in today's world.

Farm Forum Ends Year With Season Review

The final Farm Forum program of the season will be broadcast on March 25th. R. S. James, assistant supervisor of the farms and fisheries department of the CBC, has prepared a drama-documentary review of the season's broadcasts. It will include dramatic sketches and excerpts from previous programs. The purpose is to show the CBC's role in the Farm Forum joint project of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, the Canadian Association for Adult Education and the CBC — now in its 17th season.

Mother had bought father a new tie. "I wonder what would go best with it?" she said coyly.

Father eyed the violent colored horror and replied: "A beard!"

Speechmaker

One of the oldest CBC School Broadcasts, "Adventures In Speech," now features one of radio's youngest personalities. It's seven-year-old Mary Henderson, Winnipeg public school pupil, who reads the exercises in this speech training program aimed at primary grades.

Portraits of Canadians From Atlantic to Pacific On CBC's "Explorations"

Explorations on March 26 at 10.00 p.m. on the central TV network will present an hour-long camera portrait of the Canadian people in towns and villages from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

It is an ambitious and searching look at the people who make up the face of our nation, called Canadian Profile. The film was produced for the National Film Board by Tom Daly and directed by Allen Wargon; the music is by Louis Applebaum, with sound by Ken Healy-Ray and camera work by John Spotton. (It will be shown again on CBC-TV July 1 to mark the national holiday.)

Thousands of Canadian people appear in the film, supplemented by only one professional actor. The people are what they portray and the events seen are happenings from their lives and experiences.

This quality of recognisable authenticity was sought wherever the camera was set up, so that the film reflects the reality of life as well as the romance, as it unrolls a view of Canadian society.

In Newfoundland where Canadian Profile begins, director Wargon drew a picture of men and the sea which seems fixed and unchangeable as the sea itself. On leaving the fishing boats and entering a new processing plant, the camera finds evidence of change in the interest shown by young workers in the swift efficiency of the cleaning and packing machines.

As the camera ranges westward, this consciousness of people, whose feeling for tradition is strong, being moved by the insistent demands of a machine age, gives dramatic tension to the story. There is consciousness of tradition in the scene of a Cape Breton family leaving the doomed mines to find a new life and a new livelihood elsewhere. The life around us changes rapidly, the film seems to say, but men change slowly and even then not without pain.

In Quebec the scene is gay — a village wedding celebration before a white frame church. A newly married couple, after the feasting and dancing, stiffly say goodbye and turn toward the city. Like many scenes, this is a symbol of our times. For the young, new things beckon, the village is soon forgotten and life goes on. In many provinces there is the same feeling of the country losing its people to the city, and then in turn the men of the city forsaking it for the far frontiers of mine and forest.

Throughout the film are the faces of people, the transient expressions that tell most of the story; hundreds of faces, varied in shape and color, but common in the expression of hope, uncertainty, resignation or courage as each feels the impact of new and untried experiences in a country that changes as it grows.

Canadian Profile is a nation-wide family album in which many television viewers will see themselves or their neighbors. As the camera turns the pages, they will see how the family has grown and changed; but they will see, too, that the Canadian family, despite its diverse origins, is now developing common characteristics.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Recently the Canadian Highway Safety Conference announced a new program designed to foster, recognize and reward achievements by women in the field of traffic safety.

The program provides for the award of Government of Canada Savings Bonds totalling $1,750 to the three women's organizations judged to have developed and directed the most efficient traffic safety programs during the previous year. In addition, top winners will receive bronze statuettes designed to symbolize "women's protective instinct". The Board of Judges to be selected by the Conference will be composed by prominent Canadian women.

The Awards will be administered by the Canadian Highway Safety Conference through a grant of the Shell Oil Company of Canada and I have been honored by having them named after me as they will be officially known as the Carol Lane Awards.

I believe that women have become one of the most powerful forces for educating the public in traffic safety practices. Accident rates have been substantially reduced in many communities where women have organized traffic safety projects. Women who plan and carry out projects for the Awards will find the effort tremendously interesting and rewarding because it represents so important a share in the nation-wide effort to make our streets and highways safer.

The Awards will be presented each year at the annual spring meeting of the Canadian Highway Safety Conference with a representative of each of the winning organizations attending as a guest of Shell.

The first Awards will be presented at the Conference's 1958 spring meeting. Since they will be based upon safety projects that have reached maturity during 1957, women's organizations such as service clubs, church societies and similar volunteer groups are being asked to immediately contact the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, 272 Somerset Street West, Ottawa, for explanatory brochures and entry forms.

I would like to emphasize that a safety project undertaken by a women's group doesn't have to be a cast undertaking to be a winner. The Board of Judges will be impressed more by results than by size.

THE HANGING GARDENS OF BABYLON and the Tower of Babel, part of the 3rd Cinerama presentation "Seven Wonders of the World." The gardens were built by Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon from 605 to 526 B.C., and the greatest builder the world has ever known. The new technicolor production, which will be for the entire family, starts its run at Montreal's Imperial Theatre early next month.

Community Concert In Hawkesbury Monday Evening

Beauty, grace, talent and intelligence — these describe Marina Svetlova, Prima Ballerina, who will appear at the Hawkesbury District High School Auditorium next Monday, March 25 with her touring concert group composed of Jack Beaber, leading male dancer, Elba Ocampo, exotic Spanish dancer, with pianist Theodor Haig, as assistant artist. Wherever this lovely dance star performs, her appearances are greeted with eager enthusiasm. And she has performed around the world. Members of the Lachute Community Concert Association are cordially invited to this program.

Born in Paris, Svetlova began dancing at the age of eight and studied with such famous teachers as Preobrajinska, Trefilova and Gzovsky. Her inherent spirit of the dance was immeditely recognized, and she was known as the "baby ballerina". Serge Lifar, ballet master of the Grand Opera of Paris, said of her: "All her movements are inspired and her lines enticingly fluid." For three consecutive years Marina Svetlova won the International Championship of the Dance, an achievement never before — or since — equalled, much less surpassed.

Signing with the original Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, the young artist toured extensively with that famed troupe in Australia, the United States, Canada, Mexico and Cuba.

Would you like to fly under the Brooklyn Bridge? Go to Rio for a colorful carnival? How would you like to visit Japan and look at the prettiest chorus line in the East from a front-row seat at the Takarazuka Theatre?

And if you enjoy antiquity, would you mind watching beautiful Cambodian dancers perform among the historic ruins of the Temple of Angkor Wat? Of course not.

But you might think twice about taking a ride on a runaway train in the Himalaya Mountains. And nobody, but nobody, would like to fly right above an active volcano.

If you're the stay at home type, Lowell Thomas has done it all for you. Thomas has made a two hundred thousand mile round-the-world trip, and returned with the third Cinerama adventure, "Seven Wonders of the World."

Thomas' purpose for making this trip was to bring up to date that old list of the seven ancient wonders. Many other lists have been made, but never before have so many of the wonders of our world been brought back home in such realistic detail.

"Seven Wonders of the World" is the result of an idea that Thomas has been nursing for the past forty years. In fact, he talked about it with that mysterious character, Lawrence of Arabia, during the First World War. Realizing that the world is changing very fast, Thomas started planning the film with Robert Flaherty, known for his wonderful documentaries. However, Flaherty died before "Seven Wonders of the World" got out of the preliminary stages of planning.

"Seven Wonders of the World," started in 1953, was two years in the making. Thomas, as producer, supervised the activities of the five directors, work which necessitated his traveling back and forth over the entire globe. Thomas could not cover everywhere at once, but at the end of his trip even this veteran world traveler was amazed at the places Cinerama covered.

The first known author of a seven Wonders of the World list was a Greek philosopher, Philo de Byzantium. Only one of the seven wonders he chose still stands today: the Pyramid of Cheops. The others were the Hanging Gardens of Babylon, the statue of Zeus at Olympia, the Temple of Diana at Ephesus, the Mausoleum at Halicarnassus, the Colossus of Rhodes and the Pharos' lighthouse at Alexandria.

In the picture herewith are shown the Hanging Gardens of Babylon and the Tower of Babel. The gardens were built by Nebuchadnezzor, King of Babylon from 605 to 526 B.C., the greatest builder the world has ever known.

He is credited with rebuilding scores of ancient temples, surrounding many cities with walls, lining the shores of the rivers with embankments and spanning the rivers of his country with bridges. To please his foreign-born wife, Amuhia of Semiramis, who came from a mountainous country, he constructed the famous hanging gardens.

According to legend, there were five terraces, each 50 feet above the other, covered by a layer of mould so deep that fruit-bearing trees could grow. Intricate and concealed mechanisms were used to pump water from the Euphrates to supply the fountains and irrigate the soil. One thousand men worked daily to maintain this earthly paradise.

These large gardens, located on the flat plain of the Euphrates, created a great deal of admiration among the ancient travelers. His palace at Babylon was one of the world's largest and the walls with which he protected his home and city were also one of the wonders of the world.

Teatime Topics

In terms of longevity, March might be termed an excellent birthday month.

Although there's a danger in leaping to conclusions, particularly on life spans, the early days of March proved rather amazing. Four Canadians who celebrated more than a century of living all were women who have outlived their husbands.

At Shawville, Que., Mrs. Mary Riley celebrated her 107th birthday with a houseful of well-wishers, several birthday cakes and stacks of greeting cards.

Believed Quebec's oldest resident, Mrs. Riley was born in a log cabin near Shawville, 17 years before Confederation.

Health Just Fine

As for Mrs. Riley's health, "she's fine, just fine," said Gertrude Riley, her 70-year-old daughter, who says she doesn't think she'll ever be able to boast so many birthdays.

Mrs. Riley maintains that keeping out of hospitals — and jails — and rarely taking medicine has contributed to her long life.

In Montreal, Mrs. Leon Lauzon celebrated her 100th birthday in an old folks' home where she has lived for the last 13 years.

Nuns at the Roman Catholic home arranged special events for her party, including a dinner.

Mrs. Lauzon is deaf and has been virtually blind for the last five years. She says the secret of a long life is work, "because work never killed anybody."

Mark Centenaries

Everybody in the small southern Manitoba town of Carberry helped celebrate the 100th birthdays of two of their pioneer residents in the same week.

Mrs. Ursula Boles and Mrs. Ellen Dempsey made the long trek from their native Ontario to the Carberry district by covered wagons, oxen, and flat-bottomed boats.

The two women settled within 10 miles of each other and have memories of pioneer hospitality in their first sod shack homes.

Not Harmful

Housewives worried about getting "dishpan hands" from using synthetic detergents can relax.

The Canadian Association of Consumers, after a look into the washing reports that, generally speaking, detergents are not harmful to the skin.

Some individuals might find they have sensitive skin which some detergents irritate. But for most housewives, using a little extra hand lotion usually solves the problem.

Springcleaning Tips For Housewives

For housewives who are always on the lookout for tips that make their housecleaning easier, here are three shortcuts and ideas.

How do you feel about cleaning Venetian blinds? Here is some help. Venetian blinds may be left on the windows for cleaning. Start at the top and wash each slat separately with hot sudsy water. But for a thorough job, remove the blind from the window. Turn the slats up vertically and stretch the blind full length on a flat surface covered with heavy plain paper. Using a strong brush, work from top to bottom scrubbing the tapes well. Rinse with a cellulose sponge wrung out in clear water. Turn the blind over and wash the other side. Rinse both sides again and dry with a soft cloth. Rehang the blind while the tapes are wet to discourage shrinking. An application of self-polishing wax to slats will make dusting easier.

And here is an idea to help you clean wood floors.

Badly soiled floors should be cleaned with a non-inflammable liquid floor cleaner. Remove stubborn spots with a dry soap-treated pad or fine steel wool. Black marks with warm water. When dry, on floors caused by moving heavy furniture can be prevented. Cut small circles of neutral-colored felt (old hats are wonderful) and place them under chair and table legs. And linoleum? Avoid washing linoleum floors with strong soaps or detergents. Alkaline substances will attack the oil in linoleum and in time it will become dry and crumbly. Use mild soap sparingly apply two thin coats of petroleum-base wax, either liquid or paste. Let wax dry between coats and polish. Note: If liquid wax smells like paste wax, it has a petroleum base. Wipe with a damp mop or buff after daily or weekly traffic.

Let's Eat

BY

IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"The homemakers of Wenatchee are not only good cooks but they are interested in learning more about food and nutrition," observed Miss Mae Hughes, home service director of the Public Utility Co. of Wenatchee, Wash. We were attending a reception which was given so that I could meet these homemakers.

Large Auditorium

"These three rooms, when thrown open together, form a large auditorium. They are used not only for cooking demonstrations and contests but for youth group and community affairs."

During the reception there was a brief question and answer period. Several women had dietary problems. Others asked for suggestions in teaching proper nutrition to young people. Many were concerned about the family breakfast.

Don't Get Up

"We can't get the children up in time," they said. "Everybody straggles in. The family doesn't eat breakfast together any more so we all seem to get off to a poor start. Yet teachers tell us that children who eat breakfast have more pep and get along faster than those who don't.

"How can this problem be solved?"

Several practical suggestions were offered. No evening snacks. Less evening TV. Send them to bed earlier.

Several women brought pet recipes to share with us.

Tomorrow's Dinner

All measurements are level; recipes proportioned to serve four to six.

Meal-in-Itself Casserole: In two tbsp. fat, brown one sliced peeled onion and one lb. raw chopped beef. Stir occasionally with a fork.

Add ½ a (No. 2½) can tomatoes. Simmer 20 min.

Meantime, cook eight oz. spaghetti according to package directions. Drain; combine with the meat.

Add one tsp. salt, ¼ tsp pepper, ½ tsp. monosodium glutamate and ½ c. fine-grated sharp American cheese mixed with ½ a fine-minced green pepper and one tbsp. table mustard.

Transfer to an oiled low two-qt. baking dish. Bake one hour in a moderate oven 350 deg. F. Cover the first 30 min.

Grated Apple Pie Wenatchee: Line a nine-inch pie plate with pie pastry rolled a scant ¼-inch thick. Pour in grated apple filling. Bake 35 min. in a hot oven, 425 deg. F. Serve warm or cold.

Grated Apple Filling: Wash, peel and grate seven medium-size tart apples.

Add ⅔ c. not lumpy brown sugar, ¼ tsp. each ground cinnamon and nutmeg and 1 c. dairy sour cream.

Trick of the Chef

Add ½ a grated unpeeled apple for refreshing flavor when making meat casseroles.

Cleaning Drains The Easy Way

Have you ever been called a soap-maker? Probably not, but if you have ever used a drain cleaner to fix a plugged pipe, then you can rightfully claim this title.

The truth of the matter is that every time you put this cleaner, which is mainly caustic soda, down the drain and it mixes with the grease that is causing the blockage, you are making soap. Sounds like a primitive method and that is exactly what it is. For it is this same combination of lard and caustic soda obtained from wood-ash, that our forefathers used in the pioneer days to make their soap — although they didn't use the drain pipes for a mixing bowl!

The main cause for plugged drains is grease that has formed a coating on the pipes. Insoluble in water, grease tends to cling to pipes rather than flow down the drain. It also becomes a catch for other waste particles which eventually results in a complete blockage of the drain.

When caustic soda is applied, it dissolves the grease, the chemical action forming a soapy solution which can be washed away along with other particles plugging the drain.

Chemists advise caution when using this type of drain cleanser, for caustic soda can severely burn the skin. If some does splash on you it should be washed off immediately. It is better to be safe than sorry and rubber gloves are the best precaution against such a mishap.

Although using a drain cleaner need not become a regular habit, it should be used as soon as the drain begins to slow up. It is easier to stop trouble when it starts rather than wait until it is necessary to call a plumber.

But for those suburbanites who have septic tanks, the use of these chemical cleaners should be limited to a minimum since the action of caustic soda tends to slow up the decomposition process in the tank if they are used too frequently.

Although you will never make your fortune from this soap-making pastime, it is rather interesting to know what goes on down the hidden channels of the drain!

Odds and Ends

The scramble for galoshes has harassed many a hostess. But here is one who solved the problem. As each guest arrives he or she is handed a polythene bag. The galoshes are put in the bag which keeps them intact and avoids the search through a pile of dirty rubbers when the party is over. The polythene bags can be washed and used again and there are no dirty floors to be polished.

When walls are being washed before a painting session, make sure they are thoroughly rinsed. Any cleanser left on the area to be painted slows up the drying process of the paint.

Most people are familiar with ammonia as a cleaner — not something to be taken internally. But here is a cookie recipe from l'Ecole des Sciences Menageres of Montreal that contains ammonia and is guaranteed not to dissolve the intestines:

2 or 3 eggs (depending on size) ½ cup of butter and ½ cup of shortening, 1 cup of milk, 2 cups of sugar, 2 tablespoons of ammonium carbonate (available in drug stores on in country grocery stores) pinch of salt, flour.

Beat the eggs with the sugar, add melted butter and shortening. Dissolve ammonia in the milk. Alternate milk and flour until it is a good consistency. Roll on floured board until dough is firm. Roll thin, cut in desired shape and cook in a 400 degree oven. Cookies should be almost white and if stored in a tin box, will keep for months.

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

When A Child Cheats

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

Parents don't want their children to cheat at school. Whatever may be their own practices in "fooling" the customs, or a store, or turning a sharp corner when it comes to money, they hope that their children will act "on the square". It seems too bad that some fathers and mothers refuse to see that the best way to teach honesty is by their own example — not just one occasion, but throughout the years, a child is quietly observing whether or not mother or dad have a code of right and wrong which they stick to!

Mothers and fathers naturally desire to be proud of their child's school report. They could do more than they do, in many cases to help their child in his studies. Not that they can do his studying for him — that is his job.

The last thing they want to produce is a "little leaner". A girl who looks to mother for a nod before giving an answer, or a boy who waits till Dad can help him with a difficult arithmetic question, without even tackling it himself, are not being genuinely helped. They are being hindered in learning to stand on their own feet about their school work by their mis-guided parents.

But when a child is in the lower grades in public school and begins to have homework, a parent can see that there is a definite place with good lighting where the student can work. Proper lighting is very important, to avoid eye strain, a comfortable chair and a steady table, and the minimum of interruptions are essential too.

In some homes, children declare that they can study 'fine" with a radio going full blast. But how can a child concentrate easily and keep his mind on his work with music, conversation and announcements all competing for his attention?

A boy or girl often needs a little encouragement in planning a schedule for home work. Here again there should be a fixed time every school night for studies. Shortly after supper, at seven or seven-thirty, according to the age of the student, has been found satisfactory in most homes. The study period should be long enough to complete the necessary assignments without feeling hurried and with a short break every half hour.

Youngsters need to be free between four o'clock and supper to see their chums, to follow their own special interests and play. They like a little time right after their meal and at bed time to relax and read or do some handcraft or whatever appeals to them. But if Studying Time is fixed by the clock — this saves mother from nagging at them that they "should begin soon!"

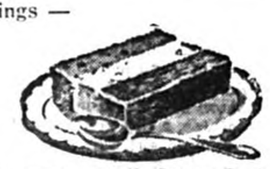

Faithful, efficient studying usually prepares a child well enough that when tests or exams confront him, he won't be in a panic. If he keeps up with his work from day to day, he should have confidence in his ability to pass.

Here again the parents' interest in their child's progress will be of assistance. They should accept him as he is, and not expect a brilliant record if his ability is only fair. Possibly he has a mechanical bent, or a flair in some other line in which he will be successful in earning his living, even if he is not among the honor students.

Almost every child is bound to have a little fling at cheating "the same as the rest of the kids." A mother does well not to be terribly shocked if she discovers that her dear little Johny is in hot water over copying answers from the boy in front of him. But she should make it quite clear that cheating is something which is stupid and foolish as well as a disgrace. Without preaching at him, a parent can gradually get it across to her child that it is vastly more important to do the right thing, and rely on his own work at school, than it is to make higher marks, based partly on another scholar's knowledge. Character is shown by what a boy or girl does in writing exams or anything else when no one is looking.

Creative Satisfaction in Cooking

CURRIED FISH FILLETS

There's a great deal of creative satisfaction in cooking, when you have the time to devote to it. Yet, there are many inspiring dishes, appetizers through main dishes to desserts, that don't strain the budget or require the cook's attention for hours at a time. Fish fillets for example meet the consideration of flavor and eye-appeal and are quick and easy to prepare. And when you make a little extra effort to set them off with enticing but simple sauces they win plaudits all around. Curried fish fillets are adapted from an Eastern recipe in which the mild, flaky fish is piquantly accented by an off-beat sauce that takes its flavor cue from curry powder. Devotees of this tropical seasoning may like a little more curry powder in their sauce. Chopped apple and rye wine lift the sauce from the commonplace. A word to the wise — when the sauce is cooked, the alcohol evaporates, leaving only the subtle tang of the wine.

Curried Fish Fillets

½ Cup chopped onion, ½ cup chopped apple, ½ cup chopped green pepper, 5 tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon curry powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 chicken bouillon cube, 1½ cups boiling water, ¼ cup dry white wine or 4 tablespoons lemon juice and 4 tablespoons water, 1 to 1½ pounds fresh or frozen fish fillets, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Sauté first three ingredients, in five tablespoons butter or margarine until tender. Blend in flour and seasonings. Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water, blend into seasoned vegetable and flour mixture. Cook, stirring, until thickened and smooth. Simmer about ten minutes. Blend in wine or lemon juice-water mixture. Simmer another five minutes. Meanwhile, in heavy skillet, sauté fillets in two tablespoons butter or margarine, about four minutes on each side, just until they will flake easily with a fork. (Frozen fillets should not be thawed. They will require a few minutes longer than fresh fillets.) Remove fish to platter; pour hot sauce on top. Makes 4 or 5 servings. Serve with rice, and if desired, chutney and toasted almonds.

Fast Heat for Deep Sea Treat

Broiling is an excellent method for fish steaks, for the fast heat yields flaky, moist fish, delicate to savor. It's a boon too when dinner preparation time is at a minimum. In many homes during Lent fish will be an even more frequent dinner choice. Right now frozen halibut steaks are plentiful and the price is right. Broiled halibut steaks accompanied by a celery sauce brightly flecked with pimento make a menu feature that's sure to be pleasing to palates as well as the pocketbook. When choosing halibut steaks, try and purchase ones about one inch thick. The broiling period must be watched closely with thinner steaks, or the fish may dry out.

Halibut Steaks with Celery-Pimento Sauce

½ Cup chopped celery, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1½ tablespoons flour, ¾ cup milk, water in which celery was cooked, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon thyme, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ½ cup chopped pimento, 4 frozen halibut steaks, approximately 1" thick. Additional melted butter or margarine.

Boil celery in small amount of water until tender. Melt two tablespoons butter or margarine, blend in flour. Slowly add milk and ½ cup of water in which celery was cooked; add seasonings and cook stirring constantly until mixture is thickened and smooth. Add celery and pimento; simmer until vegetables are heated through. Preheat broiler. Place unthawed halibut steaks on broiler pan and brush with melted butter or margarine; sprinkle with salt, pepper and onion or garlic salt if desired. Broil ten minutes. Brush other side and repeat seasonings. Broil another ten minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Makes 4 servings. (Note: Fresh halibut steaks will require only a total of ten minutes broiling time per inch thickness of fish.)

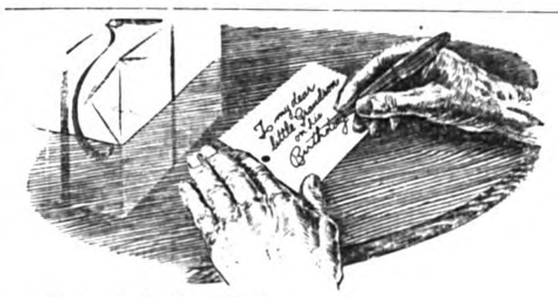

All creamery butter sold in Canada is graded. The grade mark must be shown on the main panel of the wrapper and carton in which the butter is sold. Highest quality butter is Canada First Grade. It has excellent flavor and uniform color and is well made and smooth, with a waxy texture.

"Lachute's population was only about 3,000 when the local office of the Bank of Montreal opened for business. That was during the Great War. But look at Lachute today... it's at least three times the size it was — it's a fine-looking place, and the future looks good, too.

"But I'm straying. I was talking about the Bank of Montreal in this community. Well, now, that banking office — a branch of Molson's Bank, which later became a part of the B of M — began here... let's see — thanks, that's right — in 1917... March, I believe it was.

"Started off in a little shop that now houses J. W. Lefebvre Limited. About a year later, the bank moved to the old Desjardin block on Main Street, and remained there 'til the early 30's, when the present fine-looking premises on Main Street were erected. A few years ago, the office was remodelled and enlarged to meet the growing needs of its customers.

"Man, do you know that makes 40 years that the people of Lachute have been dealing with the old bank... it's a long time and we've seen a lot of progress and shared in it, too, through working together."

Yes, here and throughout the length and breadth of our nation, the Bank of Montreal has grown with the community, sharing in its growing pains as well as in its achievements.

And, in hamlets and villages, towns and cities, the B of M is still pioneering with the men and women who are building the Canada of tomorrow.

"Gus" Morris Fish Hatchery Thriving Recent Expansion Now In Evidence

— By Bob Giles Jr. —

News of various sportsmen's shows is in the air. The 1957 summary of the Quebec Fishing Laws has been released and trout fishermen throughout this area are preparing their equipment for the coming season, but Gus Morris of Dalesville has been "fishing" for several months.

An RCAF veteran who spent four years of World War II in a Japanese P.O.W. camp, Gus, is the owner of a "trout farm" or hatchery a short distance past Dalesville on Route 31, and by the time the regular fishing season opens next month, his fishing season will be five months old.

Gus enlisted in the RCAF in 1940, thus bringing his McGill University Commerce Course to a sudden end. Five years later, he decided he would like a job that was just a little out of the ordinary and, as he had always been interested in fishing and in an outdoor life in general, went to work in a trout hatchery across the border. The idea of operating a similar enterprise in Canada appealed to him, and in 1952 he obtained leave of absence, loaded his car with supplies, and started to look the country over, making his native Montreal his headquarters.

Task Not Easy

The ideal or even a satisfactory location was far from easy to find as financial circumstances prevented him from buying anything elaborate. On top of this, the property had to have a year round adequate supply of the right quality and temperature of water and just to make it a little harder, had to be near his potential markets to facilitate the delivery of young fish.

Two months of driving, looking at possible sites, asking questions and then driving a little farther had made him ready to pack up and head back to his old job when news of the property north of Lachute reached him.

Here, among the muck, mud, water and swamp, he found an ideal location for a fish hatchery. The water from seven springs on the property was perfect for hatching fish eggs and every bit as good for feeding the ponds where the young fish live and grow. There was a steady stream of water from the springs the year round, and, what is more, it was just a few degrees from the required 44 degrees F. Gus saw the possibilities for his hatchery if it could be located here and he immediately purchased the property.

Starts Construction Work

The purchase took place in September 1952, and as summer was gone and cold weather fast approaching, time was more valuable than anything. The trout were due to spawn within a month, and if the eggs were to be hatched that winter to prevent the loss of a full year's operations, lots of work had to be accomplished.

Local contractors went to work and within a few weeks rocks were blasted, a road was built and the hatchery building was erected. Troughs and flumes were constructed and set into place and the hatchery was ready for operation three days before the eggs arrived. The flumes were all connected to the largest of the seven springs, which has supplied all the water necessary to date.

The inside hatchery work was finished for the first year, but outside, the ponds had to be dug, screens and wooden sides inserted in the connecting streams and a certain amount of landscaping was necessary to make the place presentable.

To date, Gus has nine of these ponds, each capable of holding up to some 80,000 newly hatched fish.

Fish in Big Quantities

A quarter of a million rainbow and red trout eggs constituted his first shipment and were packed in boxes similar to those in which chicken eggs come. The eggs, which have all been tested for fertility, are very delicate until they are over a month old when they can be easily handled; they hatch about two months after spawning has taken place.

Gus also purchased several thousand fingerlings to start the first year of his new venture.

The eggs were placed in wire bottom trays which in turn went into the troughs in the hatchery building. The tiny fish falls through the mesh into the troughs, each of which holds up to 10,000 of these newly hatched fish. Forty gallons of spring water a minute flows through these troughs all the time they are occupied by the small fish, which are kept there until water conditions and temperature in the outside pools are just right.

Fish on Strict Diet

For approximately the first month, the fish feed on tiny yolk sac, previously a part of the egg. When this sac is dissolved they are fed a diet of ground liver which is gradually changed as the fish mature until they are on their adult diet. Different hatcheries use their own formulae for feeding, none having been manufactured commercially.

The outdoor pools, in which the fish mature, have natural bottoms and sides as the clay soil found on the hatchery grounds is said to be better for the fish than wood or cement. The fish live in the lake-like conditions in these pools which are not cleaned, this work being left to the bacteria which do the job much better than man could hope to do it. The water in the ponds finally enters a creek and into the West River. The spring water flows all year and, as it does not freeze, the fish grow the year round instead of remaining dormant as they would do if they were in still water.

Fish For Sportsmen

The public waters of Quebec are stocked by Government hatcheries which do not supply private lakes or organizations interested in re-stocking specific areas of water. This is where the private hatcheries like the one at Dalesville do their business.

The size of the fish used in stocking or re-stocking a body of water depends on the mineral content in the water as well as other climatic conditions. Taking most things into consideration, including price and the ability to survive, a five to six inch fish is generally ideal.

More than half the fish orders are trucked direct to the required spot, the remainder going to Lake Louisa where they are transferred to a plane and flown direct to the body of water concerned. This latter method of transfer is only used when the lake in question is some distance away or inaccessible by truck and all the fish are delivered in the spring or fall, as a sudden change in water temperature would be fatal.

The truck used for transporting fish is a specially designed tank model that can carry five hundred pounds of fish or approximately 50,000 fingerlings in one load. The walls of the tanker consist of two thicknesses of insulated aluminum. Two pumps constantly draw water from the bottom of the tank and spray it back from the top, in this way replacing the oxygen that has been used by the fish. At the same time this keeps the water circulating at the 38°F. to which it was cooled before the fish were transferred.

There are people who have prejudices against hatchery-raised fish, the majority of which are uncalled for. Disease in a hatchery would be a terrible thing as it would spread rapidly in the closely crowded quarters, but every possible sanitary precaution is taken and in many cases, hatchery-bred fish are more healthy than natural grown ones.

It is true that the colors of hatchery-grown fish are not as vivid as those which have grown up in a lake. This is soon remedied when the fish are taken off their meat diet and released when all the in-born color and other natural traits come out.

Pods Need Watching

Someone has to be constantly on the watch to protect the fish from their natural enemies. Kingfishers, herons, lake-gulls and other birds appreciate not having to fly around to look for their dinner and take advantage of the supply of easily caught food that jumps right at them. A two-inch trout can leap to a distance of 18 inches out of the water.

Bird lovers try to prevent any drastic action on the part of Gus, but his investment has to be protected from the birds as well as from other animals. Mink and racoons are the main hatchery fishermen although an occasional cat is seen in the vicinity. Anglers and fishermen are the only ones that don't have to be watched too closely as fish, fed on meat and liver, taste terrible until some two months after they are in their natural habitant.

Nature can be dangerous also, as in the Spring of 1953, the West River overflowed and the outdoor fish-filled pools were covered with thick muddy water. The waters receded and Gus' mind was set at rest as the fish were still there, and not as he had visualized, anywhere from the hatchery to parts of the St. Lawrence River.

Still Enjoys Fishing

Gus, who has wandered through many countries during his short lifetime, still does a considerable amount of fishing and says he enjoys it more than he did before making fish his living. Green fields don't look greener than the ones around home as the majority of his bird hunting and fishing is done in the immediate vicinity of the hatchery.

He states that the results are just as good here as anywhere else, it's just knowing where to go and then going at the proper time.

Business has tripled since the hatchery was established, there being just under one half million eggs in the hatchery-building at present. The last shipment for the year arrived only last week and brought to four the various types of trout being hatched locally.

Gus is presently experimenting with Brown Trout and Atlantic Salmon, although the majority of fish are "Reds and Rainbows", which are sold to clubs and organizations outside a 100-mile radius of this locality.

There is always a lot of work to accomplish around the hatchery, but no one has as yet found Gus too busy to show interested visitors around.

The end of March will see fish in all stages of growth; eggs, the fish feeding from their individual yolk sacs, and freely swiming fish, along with a few larger ones kept from last year's supply.

The weeks are few and far between that do not see visitors from near and far. The hatchery, however, is not a picnic ground, and although interested outdoor enthusiasts and others are welcome, it is not appreciated when they litter the property and fish-pools with refuse or park for the afternoon, blocking all roads.

It's a short drive from Lachute and one of extreme interest to people of all ages, so make it a point to "drop in" and have a look at some of the red and rainbow trout that you may be lucky enough to catch when you visit certain fishing spots in years to come. It's a visit you won't forget.

HATCHERY PROPRIETOR "GUS" MORRIS at work with the egg trays in the local hatchery building. "Gus" is this year hatching-out close to one-half million trout of various breeds. The hatchery was started on a "shoe-string" in 1952.

Rotary Club Election of Officers; Discussion on Meeting in Lachute

A committee of Rotarians — Sonny Ogilvie, Jack MacKimmie, Larry Presseault and Andy Hardy, were appointed to investigate potential meeting places in Lachute, reporting to the general membership at this evening's meeting. A prolonged discussion on the pros and cons of moving from Brownsburg to Lachute took up the main part of the meeting, the election of officers also being held.

King Amos, Ron Barnett and Bernard Taillefer were unanimously elected president, secretary and treasurer respectively, there being no further names submitted at the close of nominations, February 14.

There was a threeway contest for the vice-presidency, Syd Patterson coming out on top over Dudley Boal and R. O. "Dick" MacLean. The names of Gordon Tabrett, Berry Bourne, George McGibbon, Dick MacLean and Dudley Boal were then up for election as directors, Rotarians Bourne, McGibbon and Boal being elected on the first count, a tie resulting between Rotarians Tabrett and MacLean. The second vote went in favor of Gordon Tabrett.

Rotarian Norm Somers clarified his motion on the moving to Lachute for a one-year period, adding two stipulations, namely a decent place to meet and hold meetings be located, and that this location be as good or better in the way of all-round conveniences as the present meeting place.

Mr. Somers stated he suggested the change to coincide with the name of the Club, which in turn was changed with the increase of Lachute members. "My feeling is we try it for a year, if we like it, okay, if not, discuss the matter again. If I was voting for a preference, I would vote to stay in Brownsburg, but the Club was organized for the betterment of the community as a whole and if the future growth of the Club depends on this move, I'm for it."

Rotarian Sid Stillwell brought out a point that although the Club might strengthen itself in membership, it might lose contact with the two communities, to which Rotarian Jack MacKimmie replied that the only way to find out if the Club will benefit, is to try it.

Rotarian Wes Freeland expressed his favor in moving to Lachute "when Lachute has progressed enough to have another Service Club."

It was then the suggestion to form an investigating committee was made, and following suggestions to bring the matter to an immediate vote, Rotarian Somers withdrew his motion until the next meeting, at which time a report on prospective meeting places in Lachute will be given.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

Local Couple Injured In Ottawa Accident

Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Lemay were treated in the Ottawa Civic Hospital, for minor injuries received when the car in which they were driving was involved in a head-on crash. The local couple, among eight injured, were released after being X-rayed.

Mr. and Mrs. Lemay were passengers in the car of Mr. and Mrs. Calille Leroux, of Wrightville. Leroux told police he could see the other vehicle coming "apparently out-of-control," adding the cars were almost side-by-side when the crash occurred. The driver of the other car received emergency treatment but is not "out of danger."

Financial Report Accepted By Ayersville Council

A meeting of the Ayersville Council was held on Monday evening under chairmanship of Mayor Réal Morrisette, for the discussion of municipal finances.

The financial report presented by auditor Roland Morin was unanimously accepted following minor changes as pointed out by the secretary-treasurer. Cost of the statement was $350.

The question arose as to the retaining of an accountant for the year 1957 and it was proposed by Councillor Quenneville, seconded by Councillor Foucault, that tenders be called for, Councillor Simon registered disapproval of this action maintaining that the services of Mr. Morin were satisfactory and that the books of the municipality were well kept.

Tenders are to be in the hands of the secretary-treasurer by 5 p.m. on Monday, April 1.

Councillor Simon proposed, seconded by Councillor Champagne that permission be requested of the Municipal Commission of Quebec to renew, if necessary, for a further period of 3 months, the temporary loan of $15,000 which falls due March 31.

Only Councillor Alfred Campeau was absent. The next meeting will be held on April 1, at 8 p.m. in the Clément School Hall.

We Need Your Help . . .

On Monday afternoon of this week, local citizens witnessed the rescue of a collie dog from the North River, near Barron's Bridge, an item worthy of an on the spot picture. We heard about it late Monday evening. Not having sufficient staff to be everywhere, all the time, we have to depend on you, our readers, on news items and tips.

Your co-operation in calling 1470 when you have visitors, or when you come across something you think worthy of a story or picture, will enable us to give you a more interesting paper. In cases that warrant, sources of news are kept in confidence. Here's hoping we hear from you when it happens, not several days later when we overhear, "I wonder why that wasn't in The Watchman". Possibly all the leads won't materialize, but without your assistance, still fewer will become news.

Fires Quickly Extinguished By Local Volunteers

A Tuesday morning fire in the home of Mrs. R. Laroceque, 100 Hamford Street, Ayersville, was quickly extinguished by Lachute volunteer firemen headed by Police-Fire Chief Fernand Trépanier.

The flames were just getting a hold in the tinder-dry cedar shingles covering the roof and were rapidly quelled.

The first grass fire of the season occurred Saturday afternoon on Lachute Road, and this too received quick attention, doing no damage.

County Council Holds Quarterly Session General Business Discussed, Bills Paid Approve Re-surfacing of Court House

The regular quarterly meeting of the Municipal County Council of Argenteuil was held in the Court House, Lachute, Wednesday, March 13, under the presidency of Gilbert E. Arnold, Warden and Mayor of the Township of Grenville and Augmentation.

Those in attendance included Village Mayors L. Chantal, of Calumet; J. D. Lepine, of Brownsburg; S. Cavanagh, of Grenville; Réal Morrissette, of Ayersville; Parish Mayors J. E. Bourbonnière, of St. Jerusalem; L. Charlebois, of St. Andrews and Township Mayors C. Neill, of Wentworth; Charles Campbell, of Morin; F. Watson, of Chatham; H. McDonald, of Gore; A. Dawson, of Mille Isles and Dr. Wm. R. Morrison, of Arundel, along with secretary-treasurer E. M. Jones, of Lachute.

The minutes of the revising committee and previous meeting were accepted as read and business commenced with a letter from A. Castonguay, of Carillon, who requested information relative to the charging for the use of the winter road over the Ottawa River at Carillon. Up until last year, passage over the river was free, a sum of $40 being paid by the County Council in the spring. A charge was levied on all vehicles using the road this past winter.

Following considerable discussion, it was resolved that the letter be tabled until the June meeting when a request to the Mayor of Carillon would be made to be present for the discussion.

Colin MacKay, of Ottawa Building Cleaners Co. Ltd., Alexandria, Ont., appeared before the Council submitting a tender on sand blasting, cleaning and resurfacing the Court House building. He sited several examples of local buildings recently completed and had previously demonstrated the results on the rear of the local Court House.

Following further questions and discussion, it was felt that in the event the brick was cleaned, resurfaced and preserved, the woodwork would also have to be attended to and it was resolved that the decision be left to the Building Committee, comprising of Councillors Watson, Lepine and Bourbonnière, who were requested to meet following the regular session and make their decision.

The decision of the committee concerned was unanimous in that fact that the job be given to the tendering company according to the $1,440 tender received by secretary-treasurer Jones; the work is to be approved by the committee before payment is made. The secretary-treasurer was then authorized to call for tenders to scrape the woodwork on the outside of the building, and give it two paintings.

It was unanimously decided that in future, the Revising Committee meet a week before the December meeting in order to give them sufficient time to do justice to their duties.

A donation of $150 was made to the Red Cross Society and $50 to the Easter Seal Campaign and accounts totalling $2,204.40 were approved for payment.

The secretary was instructed to write the Hon. W. M. Cottingham as well as the Department of Drainage, requesting they push the work asked by Council on getting the work completed on the St. Andrews and St. Placide watercourse. There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

Fire Destroys Butter Factory In Arundel

Our District Correspondent

Arundel — Two fires occurred in this vicinity during the past week, levelling the Arundel Butter Factory and a barn and shed belonging to Gaston Richie, of Barkmere. All animals and live stock were saved, although the buildings were a total loss.

The butter factory blaze was discovered by neighbors who turned in the alarm, immediately summoning people to the scene to render what aid they could.

The fire pump from Huberdeau along with a crew combined efforts with the Arundel brigade, and the efforts of all present confined the fire to the factory itself. Firefighters were aided in gaining control of the flames due to the lack of a strong wind, but despite their efforts, the building burned to the ground.

The loss was partially covered by insurance and plans for the future have not as yet been decided. The loss is deemed a sad blow to the community and hopes are that it will be reconstructed.

St. Andrews Chamber of Commerce Promotes Ottawa River Seaway Link

A campaign to have the Ottawa river dredged for navigation purposes to connect Hull and Ottawa with the St. Lawrence seaway and led by the St. Andrews East Chamber of Commerce is gaining momentum in the province. The local organization has studied the plans, made recommendations, and has started seeking support for the project.

According to Paul Labreche, president of the St. Andrews East chamber, the river would have to be deepened at only two spots. One stretch from Lake St. Louis to Lake of Two Mountains via the Ile Perrot route. The second starts west of Angers, Que., and reaches to the approaches to Hull.

A third obstruction has always been the Long Sault rapids at Carillon, but these are to disappear shortly, when the new Hydro-Quebec power project gets under way at Carillon.

30 Feet Deep

The rest of the river is 30 feet and deeper, and could easily accommodate lakeboats and freighters, Mr. Labreche says.

Recently the St. Andrews East Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution asking for study of the project, and copies were widely circulated.

The Hull Chamber of Commerce then adopted a resolution asking the provincial parent body to study this plan.

Labreche said he sent copies of the resolution to Quebec cabinet ministers and received varying attitudes, but at least two ministers "sounded" quite interested, although they did not believe the project fell under the jurisdiction of the province.

Mr. Labreche says the Federal Government seems to favor such a project, and would help, providing Quebec obtained more industries in the Ottawa Valley to warrant the freight.

Industries Exist

The president notes there are several industries along the river, at present, especially mining and pulp and paper. A few more have indicated interest in the Valley, and Northern Quebec and Ontario would be interested because of being able to reach terminal points much closer than Montreal. Consequently grain elevators, and storage sheds could be a normal outgrowth of an Ottawa Seaway, he states.

He pointed out the river was used centuries ago by fur traders as the shortest route to the interior, and steamboats travelled it as early as 1824.

Elect John Duncan Social Club Pres. For Second Term

Brownsburg — John Duncan was re-elected President of the Brownsburg Social & Athletic Club for a second term at the annual general meeting of the association held in Brownsburg on March 22. The financial report showed that the Club was now in a healthy financial position, with a balance on hand of $1,411.83 as of December 31, 1956. This will enable the incoming committee to improve the facilities and make the Club building more attractive. In addition, extending support to recreational activities will be considered. The Club gained approximately fifty new members during the year.

The first meeting of the new board will be held at the Social Club on Monday, April 1.

Former Residents Enjoy The Lachute Watchman

It is gratifying to hear from former Lachute and district residents who have taken up residence elsewhere, that they look forward each week to receiving the Watchman and two such notes have reached us recently.

One comes from Mr. W. R. McAdam, formerly of Chatham and now living in Toronto, who has been a subscriber for 67 years. Referring to the below zero cold spell we had this winter, Mr. McAdam remembers it at 68° below while he was on his run as an engineer in Northern Ontario.

Doug Todd, who now resides in Orillia, is our second scribe, who eagerly looks forward to getting the "Old Home Town Paper." His boast is that he has enjoyed it "ever since he was able to read."

Both these gentlemen send greetings to their many friends.

Whenever you see this sign — on the fence, around an electric station, on a transmission tower or on a power pole .... near an electric installation of any sort ... KEEP CLEAR. The sign, like the supporting tower, or the steel fence itself, is for your protection. Respect it. Watch out also for electrical hazards which are not always so clearly marked. A fallen wire, carries no warning sign. If you discover a wire hanging from a pole, tree or building, call the Company, report it's location—and stay away! If your car contacts an electric wire, for example, stay inside until the wire is removed.

Frank Ryan's Kilreen Farm Sold Recently

What is believed to have been one of the biggest real estate deals ever transacted on the outskirts of Ottawa was revealed on Tuesday of last week with the announcement that Campeau Construction Co. Ltd. would start on a $60,000,000 industrial and housing development.

Highlight of the announcement was the deal between Campeau Construction and Frank Ryan, which saw the popular Kilreen farm land sold for an estimated $500,000 plus another $100,000 for the buildings at the Ryan farm. Mr. Campeau refused to disclose the prices involved in acquiring the property but it is estimated that the whole deal, which also involved the purchase of other properties, would cost the company some $850,000.

Frank Ryan, owner of Radio Station CFRA, bought the Kilreen farm property in 1946 for a reported $20,000. Kilreen Farm is one of the oldest properties in the Ottawa district and it consists of 185 acres of choice rolling land. Mr. Ryan's prize stock are expected to be sold by auction at the farm next month. The Ryan home will be preserved.

The new development will be the most lavish in Ottawa and will resemble Toronto's "Golden Mile" and the Cote de Liesse approach to Montreal.

12,000 Quebec Farmers Leave Land Now In Line With Canadian Average

By Professor W. E. Haviland, Economics Department, Macdonald College

The latest Census shows 11,719 fewer farms in Quebec in 1956 than in 1951. By now the decline must exceed 12,000 farms.

The number of farms in Quebec is now about 122,000 which is about 9% fewer than in 1951. This speed of decline in the number of farms was only exceeded in the Atlantic provinces. The decline in Quebec took place in all but three counties.

Accompanying the decline in number of Quebec farms was a 5% reduction in total farmland (from 16.8 million acres in 1951 to 15.9 million acres in 1956). The net result of the two changes was an increase in the average size of farms from 125 to 130 acres.

These changes bring Quebec's agricultural development into line with that of Canada as a whole. For decades in Canada, the number of farms has been declining and the average size of farms has been increasing. Prior to 1951, however, Quebec did not share in these general trends. This was because (1) the province subsidized the "colonizing" of small farms in frontier areas, (2) Quebec farms had not yet felt the full force of mechanization, (3) the impact of industrialization had not yet been sufficiently strong and pervasive.

In the last few years, however, Quebec agriculture has turned the corner. The exodus from farming has been rapid since 1951 due to a slump in agriculture while the rest of the economy was booming. Quebec is becoming an industrial province. From now on we can expect still fewer and bigger farms, more mechanization, and higher farm incomes.

The economic changes highlighted here are spectacular enough, but there are also far-reaching social and political effects. The closely-knit rural communities are being thinned out and opened up to all kinds of disturbing influences. The horizons of the farm family are being rapidly extended by influences such as TV. The economic welfare of agriculture requires fewer farms, but the political influence of agriculture depends on maintaining a large number of farmers. The declining farm population means, therefore, that the political power of the farm vote will weaken.

OF MANY THINGS

By Ambrose Hills

THE CROW

In mid-March, visiting a little hospital in a southern Manitoba town, I overheard a snatch of conversation which still stays in my mind. A son was visiting his aged mother, who had been bed-ridden for months. At times the old lady was inclined to be a bit irascible, and her frequent demands on the nurse's time sorely tested the patience of the staff.

Her son was bachelor farmer who, in a shy sort of way, told his mother of how much he missed her cooking, and how busy he was with the chores, cooking, and all. Those observations did little to cheer the aged mother. Then, after a few minutes of silence, he observed, "Mom, the crows are back! They've been seen down in Pembina Valley!"

"Oh," she exclaimed, "isn't that just wonderful!" And there was an almost reverent tone in the voice which a short time ago had poured out high-pitched invective at a nurse.

Odd that a bird such as the crow which, by no stretch of the imagination could be called beautiful, gets a welcome back which might be envied by the Bird of Paradise. Personally, I'll never cease to thrill at the sound of the first raucous 'caw! caw! of spring.

And the longer, the harder the winter has been, the greater the welcome extended to the crow. Strange that we all welcome back the crow with so much fervor; but, before the summer is over, his presence, like that of a guest who stays too long, is resented. Some places even pay bounty for the same crow, dead, which in spring had lifted our spirits. What irony!

But the migratory old crow brings its black and unmistakable evidence to winter-weary westerners that spring really is here, that robins will be coming soon, too, and that sky-blue anemones will be bursting forth in sunny fields.

The little old lady in the hospital had seen over eighty summers; but still, deep in the eventide shadows of her life, a resurgence of feeling swept over her at the news the crows had returned. "Isn't that just wonderful?"

She was so right! It is wonderful! It always is!

MORE N.S. MILK

Halifax (CP) — Nova Scotia farmers produced 345,800,000 pounds of milk in the first nine months of 1956 — a 5,000,000 pounds increase over the same period in 1955. Production of creamery butter to December 1956, however, was down 3 percent to 5,318,000 pounds. Ice cream production also dropped three percent to 1,266,000 gallons because of a cool summer.

Sugaring -- A Profitable Pastime Providing ....

By Manny Wilson, C.I.P. Wood Notes

Many farmers are busily engaged in the task of tapping their maple sugar bush, and already speculation is rife as to what is in store — a "good" run, a "poor" run? Although many an all-night watch is involved and profits are uncertain, most farmers look forward to sugaring as a pleasant departure from the usual routine of farm tasks. That profits are good in the overall picture is borne out by the fact that 1951 yielded $7,000,000 in sugar maple products in the Province of Quebec alone.

Yet, despite the attractiveness of sugaring from the change of routine and profit angles, more and more farmers are dropping the practice, and while the high cost of labor and equipment are partly to blame, the real villain of the piece seems to be that "runs just aren't what they used to be."

An inspection of the type of sugar bush which gives rise to such a remark usually reveals that there is good grounds for the runs not being "what they used to be." Many farmers believe in keeping their sugar bush 'clean" and by clean they mean completely devoid of young growth. To arrive at this "clean" condition they rely on cows, and pasture the sugar bush from spring till fall. The net result is that eventually the sugar bush arrives at a condition where all the maples are overmature, diseased, defective — and there are no younger trees coming along to replace them. It is at this point that the decision to "cut her off" is frequently taken.

The wonder is that such a sugar bush should run at all — in cases such as this, tapping might be likened to taking a mobile blood clinic to an old folks rest home in the vain hope of a yield when all the fluids are urgently needed to keep life itself alive. Anyone relying on their sugar bush for a cash crop would do well to remember that cows in the sugar bush (1) prevent the growth of young maples, (2) favor the invasion of undesirable species such as beech, ironwood, hemlock, as these species do not tempt their palate, (3) scar the roots and trunks of the trees, opening the way for insects and disease, (4) compact the soil, thus encouraging rapid moisture run off. For more sap, and more milk, keep "Bossy" out of the sugar bush — indeed, out of the woodlot altogether.

Welcome For Monk Earns Big Reward

Ironsides, Que. (CP) — On a hot summer day in 1955 a monk, hiking through the colorful Gatineau Hills near Wilson's Corners, Que., 20 miles north of Ottawa, stopped at a shack in the bush to ask for a drink of water.

Because of the hospitality they offered, Raoul Lepage, his wife and seven children — the oldest 10 — have moved from the rundown shack and now live in a new three-bedroom bungalow in this village near Hull, Que.

When invited in to rest and drink, the Capuchin monk, Brother Paul saw the Lepage children in tattered clothing, and cracks in the crowded shack's walls. The father could get only seasonal employment in Gatineau Park.

Brother Paul returned to Ottawa to tell fellow members of his Roman Catholic order of the family's plight. The help of the Hull Knights of Columbus was sought and members of that men's service organization answered with food and clothing and eventually with property, furnishings and materials for a house.

The monks started putting the bungalow together a month ago and now the Lepage family has moved in.

Fire Alarm or Diesel

THE INCREASED AND CONTINUED use of diesel locomotives on the local CPR North Shore line is having the effect of rendering ineffective Lachute's fire alarm. At all hours of the day and night, these horn-blowing locomotives pass through this community and both day and night, volunteer firemen call the Police Station to see if it is the fire alarm.

As it would be rather difficult to have the railway change the tone of horns on all diesel locomotives, the only remaining solution is for the local Council to obtain some other means of summoning volunteer firemen. A few more months of hearing a horn of a similar tone to that of the fire alarm and those who are needed may have become accustomed to sleeping through it. This has been proven with the cry "wolf". Let us hope it does not happen before a new system is seriously considered.

Lachute's Main Street

LACHUTE'S MAIN STREET is once again filled with pot-holes and as in past years, the Provincial Department of Roads has frequently been seen filling the damaged areas.

The identical situation has arisen in past years, in fact so frequently that in a number of places, the pavement is now considerably higher than the sidewalk. This cannot continue and frequent patching will only raise it higher. It is about time the authorities concerned ripped-up Main Street from the Post Office to Barron's Bridge, and re-surfaced the section so that it would do justice to its width.

There's no time like the present, as it is now that it is badly needed.

Sportsman's Show

THE 13TH ANNUAL MONTREAL Sportsman's Show will be held in the Show Mart from March 29 to April 7. The show will have the largest display of outdoors sports equipment ever to appear under one roof in the province. There will be extensive exhibits of live wild animals and game fish. The attending public will see costumed Indians performing their age-old rites; piano playing chimpanzees, tight-rope walking bears; fancy diving and swimming. A huge plastic fish pond will give anxious anglers an opportunity to try their skill prior to the opening of the trout season.

In fact, the program suggests that anyone who attends the Montreal Sportsman's Show will have a whale of a good time for the few cents they pay for admission. But the interesting fact about the show is that the profits from the sale of exhibit space and admissions are used towards the conservation of the province's fish and game resources.

The two co-sponsoring bodies — The Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Association and Montreal Anglers and Hunters Inc. — depend largely on the proceeds from the Montreal Sportsman's Show to pay for their continuous conservation programs. It requires considerable money to fight against lake and stream pollution; to poison public lakes and restock them with game fish; to establish and maintain game sanctuaries; to make game surveys; to prepare and distribute educational material on conservation to its own members, school children, and the general public.

Driving Safely

NO CHAIN HAS EVER PROVED stronger than its weakest link. This is obvious when we look at the interminable chain of motor traffic. One single faulty manoeuvre, one split second of inattention of one motorist, may halt traffic and endanger human lives.

The Provincial Department of Transport and Communications stresses the importance of observing all traffic regulations and the 'Moral Code', which implies full responsibility on the part of the man behind the wheel of one of today's high powered autos. "Defensive Driving" pays off — it is in fact the only technique for survival. Its chief elements are: (1) Know what to do when an emergency arises; (2) Be physically, mentally and emotionally able to act promptly; (3) Have your car in safe mechanical condition so it can respond to your demands.

In an emergency it is immaterial whether you have the right of way, whether the other driver or the pedestrian is wrong, or weather conditions are bad. The one thing that matters is to avoid a collision. When you notice near the curb, a car with the wheels turned out, or smoke coming from the exhaust, a change in light or a man behind the wheel, these are indications that the car may move at any moment and become an obstacle, although the driver did not signal his intention. The defensive driver will not be taken unawares.

For Safety in Hunting

THE ONTARIO FEDERATION of Anglers and Hunters has recommended to the Ontario legislature that the law should require hunters in that province to take safety tests before they are given licenses. This would consist of instruction in the safe handling of firearms, and the federation and other conservation bodies would undertake to provide these lessons in safety in an effort to deal with what was called, and rightly, an alarming increase in accidents caused by the misuse of guns.

Every hunting season is marred by an appaling list of bush tragedies and it seems clear that something must be done to prevent this senseless slaughter of hunters by other hunters — and of fatalities arising from the man's own carelessness.

It should help if the applicant for a license to hunt were to be told by a practical man how to carry his weapon safely, told not to shoot unless he is positive his target is legal game and not a human being, is reminded forcibly that caution in the bush is just as necessary as caution at the wheel of an automobile.

Also useful in teaching care with firearms would be a requirement in the law that every fatality arising out of firearms must be the subject of an open enquiry by a coroner. It is the usual and distressing practice of the authorities to dismiss such a tragedy as "accidental" and sympathy is bestowed rather on the person who fired the shot at a man he mistook for a deer than on his victim.

How about Quebec Province and the remainder of Canada falling in line and putting this suggestion into effect. We have numerous hunting accidents and fatalities in these parts the same as they have elsewhere.

The Courteous Tourist

IT IS POSSIBLE today to travel from London to Paris to Vienna to Rome and back again to London and have a wonderful time without having to speak anything but English. That is possible if the traveller books first-class, stays at the best hotels, eats in the inter-national restaurants and is content to speak only with Europeans who understand English. Such a trip would be expensive. It could also produce a distorted impression of the European and how he lives.

On the other hand, it now is possible to travel the same route for very little money by booking third-class or less and by staying and eating at modest places where frequently English is not spoken. Travelling "on the cheap' in Europe can be very rewarding, as thousands of Canadians are finding out for themselves each year, but it does require an honest attempt at hurdling the language barrier.

What then is the Canadian to do who is planning just such a trip this summer and wants to see and learn something about the rich and old continental civilizations, where many people speak only French or German or Italian?

Advice from those who return is varied. But here are some tried tips which may help:

Make an attempt to learn a few words at least of your host country's language. There are many travel guides available on this and wide selection of pocket dictionaries which give French, German and Italian words for common English speech. The continental will appreciate any attempt at speaking his language, no matter how faltering you are.

If you have to speak English along the way, speak slowly and distinctly so that Europeans who know only a few words of English may get what you mean with the least effort.

And above all do not shout. It does not help at all to holler in English to a stranger who does not know the meaning of the words you use. Frequently your impatience leads him to conclude you are arrogant.

"Battle of the Bells"

"There seems to be some confusion regarding bells," the headmaster began at the last masters' meeting.

"That, sir, is the understatement of the year!" replied Melanson. "I have never seen anything quite so chaotic in all my life."

"I've been here just over a year," added Easton, "and I'm still not sure what this bell ringing is all about."

"But you must be sure," the head countered. "It's perfectly simply really."

"Is it?" sighed Easton. "It may well be, sir, for the man who has been told how to fight the battle of the bells. But, so far, nobody has taken the trouble to explain it to me!"

"Do you mean to tell me," the head returned, "that you have been here for a period of fifteen months and still don't know what the bells are for? Why, it's preposterous. Why didn't you ask?"

"Oh, I tried to once. I was told I'd catch on 'in due course'."

The headmaster put aside his agenda and looked around at the assembled masters.

"Well, I think now that this matter has been brought to light, we may as well take a few minutes to discuss it. Agreed?"

We all nodded our assent.

"To begin with, the rising bell is sounded at seven. This is rung by the cook in the kitchen and . . . "

"Hold on a minute," Johnson cut in. "The seven o'clock bell is not the rising bell."

"It isn't? Then why on earth is it rung?"

"That bell used to be rung in years gone by to assemble the boys for early morning detention. Now that the new detention scheme is in effect, the bell doesn't serve any purpose whatever. The boys are wakened at 7.30 by someone running through the houses yelling that it's time to get up!"

"Nothing like having a bell ringing when it doesn't have to, I say," Melanson said drearily, looking very much as though he had just swallowed a lemon.

"Well, by all means let's have it cut out," the head commented. "Mrs. Howe can just as easily ring it at 7.30 instead of seven."

O'Brien sat up at this point and removed his large pipe from his teeth.

"No, wait a minute! I suggest that she continue to ring it on the hour. Maybe it doesn't get them up but it does indicate when the boy on duty should get up to shut all the windows in the rooms."

"Right," the head beamed. "Then that's settled. First bell goes at seven to signify all windows should be shut."

Bell by bell, the assembled masters worked their way through the regular days and special occasions like Wednsdays and Saturdays when the school enjoys half holidays, and ended up with the bell-ringing session as it applies to Sundays and full holidays.

"Now are there any questions regarding bells?" said the chief when the routine had been explained.

"Yes," said Easton. "I would like to know why a bell rings at 6.50 p.m. each night, as well as at 6.55 and 7.00 p.m."

"Oh, yes," replied the head. "That's something I meant to bring up. I instituted that because I felt it was needed. The 6.50 bell rings to get them over to the schoolhouse for study. When the 6.55 rings, they should be in the study and when the 7.00 p.m. bell sounds, they are to start working. All clear?"

"As mud," mumbled Melanson.

"Right! Now, if you will excuse me, I have a board meeting. Thank you all for coming."

So saying, the head gathered his papers under his arm and left. I rose to go and Fowler caught me by the sleeve.

"Come on over to my room he said and have a drink. You can help me ring the bell, too."

"Whatever for?"

"Oh, just to let the kids know that study has been going for one hour and thirteen minutes!"

Former President Urges Support to Chamber of Com.

I have noticed a considerable effort on the part of a few people in the last month or so, to revise the Chamber of Commerce. They are to be congratulated, but it is also noted that their work is partially wasted because of the lack of understanding on the part of some of the public.

The citizens of Lachute have always looked upon the Chamber of Commerce as being an "Industrial Commission." Many say that the Chamber did not achieve anything that it is useless and that it only served the publicity of a few individuals. These statements are utterly false and we must correct this public misconception.

The Chamber of Commerce is an association of a representative part of the population and aims at promoting 1—trade; 2—industry; 3—tourist trade; 4—social and material welfare of the population of the Town of Lachute and that within a radius of two miles of its limits.

We must admit that these aims are great and that much can be accomplished in each of its fields of activity in the district. It is nevertheless imperative that a fair part of the population concern itself with the concerted effort; it is regrettable, however, to listen to people who would rather criticize the work being done than lend a hand to correct the situation and guide it in the right direction. It is my frank opinion that we here have more need of a Chamber of Commerce than any other place in the province. It is a known fact that the district is divided into distinct entities; even if this organization would but instill a certain measure of unity among these groups a far reaching step would have been taken.

Our aim is to acquire the services of those who are best equipped to achieve an end and these are necessary. We have the nicest lakes, and the most picturesque mountains, our golf club has international repute, our Main Street is a well-balanced shopping centre, and our industries are prosperous. Yet, we are lacking something.

We have not had co-operation of all those who actively supported the Chamber. I can assure you that the chairmen of the Industrial Promotion Committees, over a period of several years, had hundreds of interviews. The work of Messrs. Charron, Lowe, Lefebvre and Walker was limited only by the lack of funds and time at their disposal. They gave everything personally without having the moral and financial support which they should have had.

What should be our opinion of the Chamber of Commerce's promotion of local trade? Some years ago a commercial publicity campaign was organized, namely a "bonus stamp" sales gimmick, this was not approved by some of our business men. The project was abandoned because of lack of co-operation and collaboration. Today, many of our store-keepers give away "stamps" or "coupons" and the profit is directed outside our district.

We must conclude that Lachute has often lacked the spirit of co-operation and collaboration and we must acquire this spirit before finding ourselves in a town full of credit-laden old age pensioners.

Support your Chamber of Commerce together. You will no doubt at times differ in opinion with its plans, but on the other hand, it must be remembered that it is a democratic body and with your influence it will have a chance to grow into an organization sharing your ideals.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

One of the modern educational toys is a dummy steering wheel that allows the small son to "drive" the car alongside Daddy. As well as being a toy, it is also a kind of safety device.

My own son, a year old this month, has waged a long campaign to wrest the real wheel from my hands. He nearly succeeded once or twice. Had I believed in letting a child have his way at all costs to keep his little personality clear of frustrations, the child and both parents would be lying in a heap of crumpled metal at the bottom of a cliff.

To give the child's dawning mechanical ability something to work on, I borrowed one of these dummy steering wheels and fixed it in the car. But the child was a better mechanic than I thought. He found out right away how to take the dummy steering wheel to pieces. Then he lost interest in it and reached for the real steering wheel again.

Perhaps I should keep the dummy wheel until the boy is older, or else give it away to a child who is more easily fooled by imitations.

I feel anxious about the effects of the dummy wheel on a lad who does use it.

If the boy is an apt pupil, he will soon learn to copy Daddy's actions, as well as the words that Daddy says when a car passes him on a curve.

But attitudes developed in childhood often continue into adult life. The play driver will grow up to drive a real car, and inside him he will have the subconscious feeling that he need not worry how he drives, because someone else is really at the controls.

Already many drivers act as though someone else was at the wheel. With children growing up under the influence of the dummy wheel, such drivers may increase in numbers.

On the other hand, grown people might demand to have a wheel in their hands even when they were riding as passengers. Driving-school cars already have dual control. Later we may see triple-control and quadruple-control cars, and finally, a steering wheel for every passenger, so that the majority or the man with the strongest shoulder muscles would decide which way the car was going to turn.

And that brings up the true story of the Hollywood character who had a device built into his car enabling h'm to steer with his knees. He made the steering readily detachable. When people nagged him about his driving, he simply pulled the wheel out by the roots and handed it to the offender, saying "Here, you take the wheel."

Calf Time Again . . .

On many farms cows are freshening and calves have to be looked after. With the rush of extra work the calves many times do not get all the attention they need.

At this age a calf has a great urge to grow and it is also the time when good care and good feed can make the difference between a scrub or a good calf. It will repay you many times over the cost and trouble if you will look after it and feed it so there will be no slackening up in growth. Once a calf gets a setback it takes a long time and lots of feed to bring it back even part way.

Unless you are selling your milk for a very low price it will pay you to start your calves on Nursing Chow. One 25-pound bag is all that is needed for one calf and it is better than milk, has more growth material in it.

Start both Nursing Chow and Calf Startena at 4 days of age. REMEMBER NEITHER REPLACES THE OTHER — FEED BOTH. You have to teach your calves to drink and you have to teach them to eat also. Continue the Nursing Chow for 1 month and the Calf Startena till 4 months of age. No hay till 2 months, no pasture till 4 months old.

At 4 months of age you will be able to see your future cow in miniature. It will not be fat, you can't have both growth and fat and you should want growth. You will have size and capacity, which is what everyone should want and you will have from 50 to 100 pounds larger calf. Best of all you can have it for less cost and less work than any other method. Try it won't you! We deliver.

C.W.L. Hold Successful Parade, Large Attendance at Military Whist

Irish eyes were smiling on Saturday, March 16, in Lachute, where in the evening the Lachute Subdivision of the Catholic Women's League held their annual St. Patrick's Day card party. The auditorium walls were bedecked with shamrocks as sixty tables of guests indulged in the games of their choice, with prizes for every table.

Boys of the St. Patrick's College Bugle Band of Ottawa, resplendent in their green and gold uniforms were on hand at the hall and assisted the ladies in the distributing of refreshments. The Rev. Father Clark, Director of the band, and the Rev. Father Mailleux, of St Anastasie Parish, were on hand and read the dispensation of the Bishop of St. Jerome, in English and French respectively.

In her words of welcome at the outset of the evening, Mrs. T. Dwyer, president, of the C.W.L. thanked the people of Lachute for their moral support and generosity and expressed special thanks to those who very kindly donated door prizes for the occasion.

Following the distribution of door prizes, tickets were drawn for an Ayers blanket, donated by Ayers Limited, and an electric clock, donated by Mrs. Richard Ayers. The blanket was won by Mr. C. Robinson, and the clock by Mrs. C. Cunningham.

During the serving of refreshments, the guests were entertained by Mr. Fern Poulin, who accompanied by Miss Elaine McDonald, sang a group of Irish melodies; Mr. Albine Carrière, of Brownsburg, who danced to Peggy O'Neil and other Irish music provided by Mr. Edgar Jackson on the violin; Mr. Dennis McArthur, who rendered some popular songs and accompanied himself on the guitar.

Mayor Léopold Carrière spoke briefly, and commended the C.W.L. for their efforts in Lachute, and those responsible for the parade in the afternoon. He offered a word of welcome to the boys in the band and their directors on behalf of the town.

Mr. Keith Hickson, Master of Ceremonies for the evening, expressed the thanks of the ladies of the C.W.L. to all present for their attendance, and to all those who had contributed to making the evening a success.

Convener for the evening was Mrs. Clayton Robinson, and the refreshments were under the direction of Mrs. O. Stephens.

In the afternoon, the annual St. Patrick's Day Parade was held and proved a great success. The local Artillery Unit, 131 Battery, 37 Field Regiment, the Highland Cadets and the local Boy Scout Troop marched to the music of the colorful St. Patrick's College Bugle Band, who played an assortment of Irish and military music. The riding horses of Ernie and Phillip Ayers and their friends, decorated in green for the occasion, proved a great attraction to young and old alike. The party in the official cars included Mayor Léopold Carrière, Aldermen M. Carrière, N. Lepage and Romeo Desjardins, along with Fathers Conway and Clark, of St. Patrick's College, and Father Perron, of St. Anastasie parish.

Committee in charge of arrangements for the parade was made up of Clifford Lowe, Keith Hickson, Emmett Lowe, and Gabriel Downing.

25 YEARS AGO

March 25, 1932 —

London, March 22 — His Majesty this afternoon granted an audience to Sir George Perley, Minister without portfolio in the Canadian Government and leader of the Canadian delegation to the world disarmament conference at Geneva.

Sir George was a visitor to the House of Commons this afternoon and afterwards was received by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, in the Prime Minister's room.

Brownsburg — Tuesday of this week found us in the worst storm of the season. Snowpiled roads were blocked for cars or horses until snow plows and shovels got busy.

* * *

50 YEARS AGO

March 31, 1907 —

Dunany — The young men of this vicinity have a mania for buying fast horses this spring. Some of the young ladies may expect pleasant drives when the good roads arrive.

There should be a railing put along the river bank this spring, in places that are now dangerous.

Our farmers report a good run of sap this year.

Roads are in poor condition owing to the recent storm.

* * *

75 YEARS AGO

March 24, 1882 —

Cordwood will now likely be cheaper here owing to the advance in freight rates on wood to Montreal.

Striking High — Carpenters both at Winnipeg and at Brandon, it is said, will strike for $7 a day on the 1st of April. A good April 1 hoax!

An advertisement in some of the city papers shows that 3,000 men and 2,000 teams are wanted on the Canada Pacific Railway works in the North West, and $2 per day will be paid to common laborers.

Off to Manitoba — Mr. Henry Bradford and his family left last week for their new home in Brandon, where Mr. Bradford has made a big strike, having been offered $100,000 for his quarter section, which he bought from the syndicate last May, and has turned out to be within the limits of Brandon City.

Wet Eyes — At the station here on Monday morning there were more wet eyes than are usually seen, owing to the large number of young men leaving for the North West, and some for California. Fond parents felt and looked sad as they parted with their boys and wished them God's blessing.

Things 'n Stuff

— By —
Walter Henry Jackson

In a certain Southern State, a colored man was justly tried and convicted of murder. The judge rose before a hushed courtroom to pronounce the sentence: "And on the eleventh of May next, between the hours of sunrise and sunset, you will be led from a cell and put to death in the electric chair according to the laws of this State."

A week or so later the condemned man sent word to his lawyer that he must see him at once. "There's not a thing I can do," said the lawyer. "You had a fair trial. I did my best. The prosecution had three witnesses who saw you commit the murder. The best lawyer in the world could do nothing to get you off."

"Oh, Ah don't expect you to get me off!" explained the negro. "Ah's guilty, Ah had a fair trial, and you done your best. Ah have plenty of time to make my peace with the Almighty and wind up my earthly affairs. All I want you to do is to try and fix it so's Ah won't have to sit in that old 'lectric chair from sunrise to sunset!"

No, I don't create these stories — I just collect them. Unless it's something that happened to me personally. And nothing exciting is happening these days. Guess I'm getting fat and lazy and don't get around enough. Sometimes I find my conversation so uninteresting that I have to stop talking to myself.

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt

"What is your name, sir?" the bank teller asked politely.

"Don't you see my signature?"

"Yes, sir. That's what aroused my curiosity."

Lachute High School Sports and Activities

Basketball

The Province of Quebec was divided into eight zones for the purpose of elimination and this area of the province was classified as zone one. This consists of two sections and the winner of these sections competes for the right to enter the Provincial Tournament to be held in Lennoxville on April 6.

Aylmer High School won their section of the zone and Lachute High School was victorious in the local section. A two-game total-point play-off was played between Aylmer and Lachute to decide the winner of this zone.

The first of the games was played in Aylmer with Aylmer High winning 55-41, thus having a 14-point lead in the series. The second and final game was staged here in Lachute last Friday evening when Lachute Senior's won 60-56. However, since Aylmer already had a 14-point advantage, this meant that they were the winners of zone one, with a final count of 70-60, Lachute being eliminated from the final play-offs.

The stars of the local team were Arthur Gauley, Ken Underhill and Reg Stansfield.

Coming Events

As previously announced, a Drama Festival, featuring three one-act plays will be held in the High School Auditorium, Friday evening, April 5.

Lachute, Grenville and Brownsburg will be entered in the competition, tickets will be on sale.

Interest High In Un. Church Bowling Play-Off Series

The Lachute United Church Bowling League Play-offs got underway Monday evening, and four teams were eliminated. In Series A, the W.M.S. Blues (Mrs. H. Riddell) went out in front 13-5 against the other W.M.S. team of Miss G. Rosser's in a two-game total score contest. The other game in this series was East Settlement 11 (Les Gordon) and St. Pat's (Miss G. Davis) 6. These games will conclude next week.

In the Series B, four teams fell by the wayside, though all games were played with competitive tenseness. The St. George's foursome of Wm. Wilson defeated All Stars (Mrs. M. McFaul) by 12-3, and the new Teenagers team skipped by Miss Heather Jones came through with a win of 13-6 against Hebert Hume's St. David's. The Thistles team of Jack Gorman, came from behind a 6-0 score to win in the last end 8-7 against the S.S. team of Miss M. Gordon. And in the last contest the Maple Leafs of Doug Smith defeated Mrs. Wilson Bridge's St. Andrews 10-8.

In order to conclude the bowling season before Easter, arrangements were made to have the annual turkey banquet on Monday, April 8. This will necessitate completing the next round and the semi-finals next Monday, April 1. Games will have to start very early in order to do this. The line-ups are as follows:

Series A —
6.30 p.m.
W.M.S. Blues vs. W.M.S. Reds
7.15 p.m. —
East Settlement vs. St. Pat's

Series B —
6.30 p.m. —
St. George's vs. Thistles
7.15 p.m. —
Teenagers vs. Maple Leafs

Winners of Series A and B will play in the semi-finals immediately after these games in sudden-death contests. Finals on Monday, April 8.

Hawkesbury Richports Take Portelance Trophy Defeat Brownsburg Bombers 3-2 in Final Game

By John J. Molloy

The hockey season came to an end for Brownsburg on Sunday, as they went down fighting to a more powerful Hawkesbury ensemble. A crowd of 1435, a new record for the Arena, was on hand to see Hawkesbury win 3-2 with a desperate last ditch stand.

Brownsburg lost mainly because of their reluctance to shoot. While the Bombers were looking for that sure-fire opening, the Richports were firing from any angle and any distance. The strategy paid off, for although many of their shots were off the mark, they kept Buddy Racine hopping around. Buddy was right on form and did well to stop twenty-five of twenty-eight shots that were on the target. Charron in the other net handled only fifteen scoring drives.

The first period was well played and the balance of play was even. The Hawkesbury fans roared their approval when Legris, unassisted, put their team in front. It was only a three minute wait for the 'burgers for their turn to howl. Defenceman Hector Legris was penalized for slashing and in twelve seconds Red Charlebois from Paul Emile Hebert and Jules Biron tied it up.

The second period was less than a minute old when L'Imoges from Legris and Rioux put Hawkesbury into a lead which seemed to inspire them to greater effort. Certainly it was in the middle period that Hawkesbury showed their supremacy. At the thirteen minute mark young Joe Larocque scored a classic goal, engineered and executed at top speed. His cohorts on this one were the Legris brothers.

The third period was a better one for Brownsburg as far as balance of play is concerned, but they were forced to play the entire period without the services of Jacques Racine and Jacques Leveillé who were both knocked out of action in the middle period. Jacques Racine who played about ten minutes in the middle of the game against the doctor's advice was forced to retire when he aggravated his shoulder injury.

Brownsburg's superiority in the last period succeeded only in bottling up the Hawkesbury squad. It came as quite a surprise when with just forty-eight seconds to go, Paul Emile Hebert popped one in to bring the locals back with striking distance, MacAdam and Ouellette assisting. Brownsburg threw everything in as they played five, then six forwards, but to no avail. The tremendous din reached a crescendo when as the siren sounded hordes of victorious visitors swarmed onto the ice to embrace their heroes.

Two able referees — Messrs. Pranski and Shore — meted out twelve minor penalties, but there was no bad feeling in the game, or in fact in the series, and the all-round congratulations were sincere.

PRESENTATION OF THE PORTELANCE Trophy to Maurice Rioux, captain of the Hawkesbury Richports, was made by Ferd Portelance, following the final game Sunday in which the Brownsburg Bombers were defeated 3-2. Left to right are Mr. Portelance, Rosaire Gascon, Mayor of Hawkesbury, Maurice Rioux and Ronald Hebert, president of the Ontario-Quebec Hockey League.

Trout Fishing Season Commences April 17 Other Species Later

According to an old custom at the Department of Fish and Game, the trout fishing season will open on the third Wednesday of April, which falls on the 17th this year. This information was taken from the Summary of the Fishing Laws 1957, that the Hon. Camille-E. Pouliot, M.D., minister of Game and Fisheries has just released. This booklet is obtainable from the Department or from local fishing license distributors.

It is to be noted that the fishing permit of $1.10, though valid for the holder's wife and his children under 16 years of age, allows only one daily bag limit. Bag limits for all species are included in the booklet which should be asked for when a permit is bought. Bag limits may change from one region to the other, thus, as an example, the daily bag limit for speckled trout is of 25 fish weighing no more than 15 pounds in all rivers south of the St. Lawrence while in the rivers north of the St. Lawrence, the bag limit is 40 fish weighing no more than 15 pounds.

In the Parks and Reserves, special fishing laws are enforced. Thus, as an example, in the La Verendrye Park and the Chibougamau Reserve, the daily bag limits, for each angler, are as follows: grey trout, 3 or 20 pounds; wall-eye (doré), 5 or 15 pounds; northern pike, 5 or 30 pounds; bass, 3 or 10 pounds; speckled trout, 20 or 5 pounds. When the holder of a permit has spent more than one day fishing, he may bring outside the Park or Reserve the bag limit provided by the Provincial Regulations as stated in the Summary.

As in the past, it is unlawful to use minnows as bait in waters frequented by speckled trout, grey trout and Quebec red trout, unless the minnows were taken in these same waters. The use of lampreys as bait for fishing as well as the transport of same anywhere in the Province is prohibited.

Although trout fishing opens on April 17, fishing seasons for other species have been set at different dates, according to the spawning seasons for each species when the fishes must be protected and it is wise to make sure of these dates before setting off on a fishing trip.

Brownsburg Hockey Player Second Leading Scorer At Clarkson College, N.Y.

Potsdam, N.Y. March 19 — Melvin D. Tomalty, son of Mrs. Bernice A. Tomalty, of Brownsburg, was the second leading scorer on the Clarkson College freshman hockey team this season.

Tomalty, a Dean's List student, scored 24 points on 10 goals and 14 assists in 10 games. The frosh record was three wins and seven losses.

Five New Radio Shows, Nonsense and Adventure For Children of All Ages

For several months the CBC children's department has been busy preparing for spring, which always means the beginning of a new series of programs for youngsters. On Trans-Canada five new weekly shows have just begun or are about to begin, featuring stories of adventure, nonsense, fantasy and history. All are scheduled for weekdays in the 5.30 - 6.00 p.m. period.

Ruff is a dog and Reddy is a little boy in Ruff 'n Reddy in Jarbulingo Land (starting this Monday, 5.30-5.45). They wander into adventures in a nonsense country, invent new and strange languages, meet funny animals and generally get all mixed up in a weird and wonderful world. These programs, originating from Windsor, are for very young listeners.

The Conqueror (Tuesdays, 5.30-6.00 — started March 26) is based on the life of Hernando Cortes, conqueror of Mexico. In the first episode of this serial drama Cortes became entangled in high adventure — with a beautiful girl and with the authorities. He went in and out of prison and became skilled in bribery and blackmail. The author of the scripts is Alan Caillou of Vancouver, who was born in London, and educated there and in Paris. He has written two novels and four plays for the CBC-TV children's series Hidden Pages, including one in which he acted. Before the war he was touring the Middle East with an English theatre company and after the war broke out he was sent back there with the army. The Conqueror is intended for older children and will be produced in the Vancouver studios by Raymond Whitehouse.

The Bronze Boot (starting next Thursday, 5.30-6.00) is another dramatized serial, but for younger children. It concerns the mysterious disappearance of a little bronze boot.

On Thursdays comes another Camp Wilderness series (5.45-6.00), written by Peg and Miller Stewart, of Sturgeon Point, Ont., dealing with all kinds of interesting facts and stories about wild life and the great outdoors.

The blue water of the Caribbean is the locale for a third new drama series, Treasure Hunter (starting next Friday, 5.30-6.00). Ray Darby has taken the writing of Lieutenant Harry Reisberg of the United States Navy and adapted it for these programs about deep-sea diving adventures. The search is for the treasure of Port Royal, a Jamaican city which slid into the sea in 1692.

Cinderella on T.V.

This Sunday, 14 years to the day after Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein's first collaborative effort, Oklahoma!, opened on Broadway, the deans of the American musical world will unveil their first work created expressly for television. Via CBS-TV in the U.S. and CBC-TV in Canada, millions will witness simultaneously the premiere of Cinderella, from 8 - 9.30 p.m., Sunday, March 31.

Television men in New York consider it a sort of coming of age for their medium. For years Rodgers and Hammerstein, the twin kings of Broadway, have been getting the most tempting offers from television. At last they have accepted. "Surely," the TV men are saying, "the arrival of this fabulous partnership in the fold of TV presages a new era in mass entertainment."

How did the two distinguished gentlemen feel about it, with their work almost completed, and the day of the premier fast approaching? More enthusiastic, they said, than they had ever expected. "Of course, we can't tell what the results will be until we see what we've got at the final rehearsals," said Rodgers, "but we are overwhelmed by the craftsmanship and conscientiousness of television's workers."

To which Hammerstein, who wrote the book and lyrics for the 90-minute musical, added in a somewhat surprised tone of voice: "Television is, we discover, an easier medium to work in — and the reason, I think, is the astonishing competence of the individuals who bear the basic responsibilities for getting a show on the air."

JOLSON NOTES

By Irvin R. Warwick

As mentioned last month, Decca recently issued five 12" L.P.'s under the general title of "The Jolson Story". Of greatest interest currently is the second in the series, "Rock-A-Bye Your Baby," in which Al does the title song, and does it better than Jerry Lewis. Also included is a song which deserves to be better known, "Someone Else May Be There While I'm Gone," and such standards as "Swanee", "After You've Gone," and "April Showers."

The writer already owned many of the recordings in the 78 r.p.m. issue, but, apart from owning a complete Jolson record collection, it is indeed a pleasure to listen to Al's voice without the distraction of surface noise which increases over the years, and to hear seven songs without having to change discs.

Following are two reviews of these albums, written by impartial critics:

Billboard (1956) New York — Decca Goes All Out With Al Jolson. Five L.P.'s of Al Jolson material, everything the late singer ever recorded under the Decca banner, have been released by the diskery as part of its fall package.

Following World War II, and about a year prior to the release of "The Jolson Story," the singer was signed by Decca for eight sides. Exploitation value of the pic and its successor "Jolson Sings Again," brought a healthy sale for the sides, which were followed in the later years by more than 60 additional slicings.

Currently released sets each carry about 14 bands.

Album Reviews, Variety (1956) — Highlighting Decca's fall package program are the five L.P.'s that make up "The Jolson Story." It's a solid compilation of Jolsoniana that will stir up memories among the oldsters and show the new disk fans what one of the show biz greats sounded like. Each album is separately labelled and displays the "mammy singer" in different vocal moods. On "You Made Me Love You," he's in the intimate, nostalgic groove; on "Rock-a-Bye Your Baby," he rips through a flock of buoyant, rhythmic items; on "Rainbow 'Round My Shoulder," he works over a series of tunes from the 1920's in a happy and carefree manner; on "You Ain't Heard Nothin' Yet," he varies the mood and style to cover such different musical eras as demonstrated in "I Only Have Eyes For You" (1934) and "God's Country" (1950). In between are such nifties as "Anniversary Song" and "Some Enchanted Evening," the final package in the series, "Memories," puts him in an inspirational setting with such tunes as "Kol Nidre", "Hatikooh" and "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground," among others. In all, a standout series and a fine tribute to Al Jolson.

Singer and Yodelling Star On Holiday Ranch

Cathy Johnson, a five-foot one-inch bundle of song and yodelling will be guest on "Holiday Ranch" Saturday, March 30, at 7.30 p.m. It's her second appearance on the show this year.

The 22-year-old singer is noted for her yodelling and volume of her voice. She used to work at a milling factory in Bedford, Ohio, and continually sang above the roar of the machines.

Working in a milling factory was the least of Cathy's ambitions. She wanted to make singing her career. She has been singing since she was five years old and in her teens was a band vocalist on week-ends.

She returned to Cleveland, where she was born, worked at odd jobs and sought to further her singing career. She successfully auditioned for "Giant Tiger" a television show featuring amateur talent.

As touring vocalist with the Russ Carlisle orchestra she sang throughout the United States and on her return to Cleveland joined Red Ingle's band.

Among her records are: "Are You Satisfied?" and "I've Got Four Big Brothers." Her vocal "brothers," of course, are the Four Lads.

In her spare time she studies tap dancing, ballet and piano.

Tips on Touring

Even if you have "permanent type" anti-freeze in your car it needs draining come spring — and that means NOW. So say automotive experts, adding that "permanent type" anti-freze should be used one winter only because there is no way to prevent its contamination during normal engine operation.

To guard against engine rust and corrosion:

1. Drain anti-freeze each spring, after freezing weather is past.
2. Flush the cooling system thoroughly when the anti-freeze is drained, using a chemical cleaning compound if needed.
3. Install a rust inhibitor and fresh water.
4. Install fresh anti-freeze in the fall.

In climates where anti-freeze is not required, the water and inhibitor should be drained and replaced in the spring and fall. "Inhibitors" are chemical additives put into the cooling system to neutralize any acids which may form there. However, water inhibitors are not necessary for inhibited anti-freeze and should not be added. If the water inhibitor is not compatible with the anti-freeze, it may do more harm than good. Mixing different brands of anti-freeze is not recommended and should be avoided. There is the danger that the inhibitors will react chemically with one another to reduce corrosion protection, form deposits in the system, or promote foaming.

So motorists, this spring be penny and pound-wise. Drain your anti-freeze NOW to avoid engine rust and corrosion next fall.

You might say hamburger has "arrived".

Once rated as the plainest meat — sought by budget buyers and shunned by the T-Bone steak crowd — hamburg has come into its own on just about every homemaker's menu.

Cooks in "Canada's Kitchen" — the consumer section of the federal agriculture department — now find that when a butcher is asked which meat is most popular, the answer is invariably "hamburg, of course."

One reason for minced beef's popularity is the fact it can be used to make a variety of dishes. Nearly every housewife has her own speciality when it comes to preparing hamburg meals.

Popular Recipes

However, asknowledging variety as the spice of cooking, helpful hints for hamburg dishes compiled in Canada's Kitchen include meat ball stew. It's a stew that starts with hamburg and takes less time to cook than ordinary stew.

Hamburg also makes delicious meat sauce or meat balls to serve with Italian-style spaghetti.

Then there's hamburg meat loaf, which can be dressed up by cooking the meat loaf in a ring mould and glazing it with a tomato barbecue sauce.

Chili made with hamburg makes a quick, economical supper dish with four to six servings. The Canada's Kitchen recipe calls for 1½ cups of sliced onion, one pound of hamburg, one teaspoon of salt, half a teaspoon of pepper, one to two teaspoons of chili powder, 1½ cups of tomato juice and one 15-ounce can of kidney beans.

The rest is simple: brown the onions in a small amount of fat and then remove from heat. Brown meat aout 10 minutes, add browned onion and remaining ingredients and then cover and simmer slowly for about 20 minutes until the chili thickens.

Keeps in Style

Spring, with its promise of pussy willows and sap pulsing through maples, also seems to promote a particular kind of spring-splurging — even if all the spending is done over a neighborly cup of coffee.

However, many women seem to get more fashion-conscious around this time of the year, and some support for this feeling comes from Mrs. Augustine Piquette, of Sudbury, Ont.

"A woman might as well be dead as out of fashion," says Mrs. Piquette who keeps up with the latest styles. She's 90.

Views on Shoppers

A woman reporter quizzed sales clerks in Vancouver about clothing for men and who does the shopping for it. "A great many women shop for their husbands," said one clerk and others agreed they are very particular. "But no one is as fussy as a fussy man," said one girl.

Lenten Suggestion By Hotel Chef

The season of Lent means menus of the trains, ships, and hotels of the Canadian railway systems will feature meatless dishes that have been favorites with travellers for many years.

In this old seaport city of Halifax, Chef Edward Gebistorf of the CNR's Nova Scotian Hotel is an acknowledged expert on Maritime dishes, and he recommends his recipe for "Shrimp Wiggle" as a very welcome addition to anyone's Lenten table.

Shrimp Wiggle

2 Cups shrimps (tinned or fresh), 1 cup boiled rice, 2 cups small peas, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ cup tomato sauce, 1 cup cream, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, dash of paprika and salt.

In double boiler cook onions in the butter, adding rice and tomato sauce. Cook until thoroughly hot. Add cream, shrimps, and peas. Season. Serve with crisp crackers or Melba toast. Serves six.

Coffee the Secret of Beef Bretonne's Appeal

Beef is one of the best meats on which to devise flavorful variations. Take round steak, for example. With a little extra time and effort, a few onions, a lot of mushrooms and a bit of snowy sour cream, you achieve Beef Bretonne. But what is it that turns braised beef with onions and mushrooms into Beef Bretonne? The gravy in which it is cooked — a most unusual mixture of coffee and wine!

Most of you are, of course, familiar with the use of wine in meat cookery. You may also be aware of the old chef's secret of using a little strong coffee to give zest to gravy. Well, here the two are combined and the result is really something! Gravy made this way tastes of neither coffee nor wine. It takes on a deep, rich, slightly spicy flavor that defies identification, merely calls forth the flattering question, "What on earth did you do to the gravy to make it taste like this?"

Coffee, in cups this time, goes with the meal to fragrant perfection. You may, of course, follow the main course with a simple dessert if you wish. But Beef Bretonne, just served with coffee and little hot rolls, accompanied by a crisp green salad simply dressed with oil and vinegar, is a full meal in itself. A feast for the eye and easy to serve, it is that rarity — an informal meal that's luscious enough for your most important company.

Beef Bretonne

3 Pounds round steak, about 1 inch thick, seasoned flour, ¼ cup fat or cooking oil, 2 Spanish onions, sliced thin, 2 pounds mushrooms (left whole), dash tabasco, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ cup Burgundy wine, ½ cup strong coffee, ½ cup water, 1 pint dairy sour cream.

Cut beef in 1-inch cubes, dredge with seasoned flour and brown on all sides in fat or oil, with onions and whole mushrooms. Add remaining ingredients except sour cream; cover and simmer 1 hour. Serve in heated chafing dish, garnishing with sour cream and paprika. Serve with rice or noodles. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Handicraft Exhibit at Quebec W.I. Convention

A Handicraft Exhibit will again be a feature of this year's Convention of the Quebec Women's Institutes. This will be held the last week of June, at Macdonald College. Flyers, giving full details of the exhibit, are going to the members this week.

Institutes that have had a course from the QWI Handicraft Technicians during the past year, may enter four articles demonstrating the craft taught. In addition, all branches, whether they have had a course or not, may enter the same number of articles (four) of any other form of handwork; quilting, knitting, sewing, etc. Painting, pottery and wood carving are especially welcome. All articles must have been made since the last convention.

This is not a contest but a "show window" to display the work of W.I. members. It always attracts many visitors and it is hoped this year's display may be enlarged without sacrificing the high standards of previous years. All entries must be in the Q.W.I. office by the middle of June.

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

Use Your Library

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Reading is to the mind, what exercise is to the body," Addison.

Do your children find in books exercise for their minds? Do you appreciate the service of the public library, not only for yourself, but for your children? Public libraries are not just for city and town families — many country people visit the library on their shopping day trips into town or on market day! A borrow book is no substitute for a child owning his own books. But a library serves boys and girls in a very special way.

Even before a child starts to school he may begin his "Library Adventure" by a trip to the library with mother. While she is choosing her books he can look at a picture book. Gradually he gets to know "The Library Lady." She is another friendly adult in his small world — and the more people he knows and likes the easier it is for him to learn to "stand on his own feet" and not lean too much on his parents.

To the school age boy or girl, a trained librarian gives direction in the choice of books. A child discovers new and interesting volumes which are just right for his age and interests. A librarian is a great help in encouraging a real love of reading. What a marvellous thing is this zest for books! A child who tastes the fun of reading at an early age need never know the loneliness, the sense of having nothing to do, the boredom of idleness which a person with no love for books often experiences.

Humor is rare enough and books with a little nonsense in them are "relished by the best of men." Younger boys and girls chuckle over the Adventures of Alice in Wonderland, Winnie the Pooh, and Barbar, the Elephant. Booth Tarkington's tales of Penrod are in a class of their own. Stephen Leacock's "Nonsense Novels" lend themselves to dramatization.

Books of poetry appeal to the imagination and the sense of rhythm. A parent does well occasionally to include such a book as "When We Were Very Young" by A. A. Milne to read aloud to a little child. An older boy or girl will enjoy an enthology such as "Silver Pennies" chosen especially for children who are reading for themselves.

A library is also a source of reference books. A child should receive encouragement at home to discover if the library has information on any special topic which appeals to him. Often this is in the field of leisure-time interests or hobbies. Books on "How to Make" are popular with all ages. There are many such non-fiction books written especially for young readers.

Three other interesting divisions in reading are books about other lands, books of other days and biography. Travel and history are both dealt with in a fascinating way with beautiful illustrations in modern children's volumes. Three Canadian recent juvenile books which deserve special mention are "The Young Surveyor" by Olive Knox, "Perilous Prairie" by Dickson Reynolds, and "The Canadian Twins" by Eva-Lis Wuorio. Booth Tarkington wrote to his mother that he remembered with "infinite gratefulness" her reading aloud to him, and he added, "You made history attractive and human to me in that reading."

But whatever kind of good book a child reads — his life in enriched by the new doors opened to him in the pages of a book. Someone has said "To be young without poetry is to be indoors in Spring," and to go through life without a love for books would be to be poor indeed. Encourage your child in his library adventures! Radio, TV, movies — no other leisure-time activity can take the place of reading in a child's education. Walk through the open door of your Public Library!

Apply "Economy of Waste" Theory To Home Modernization Planning

Colman, the mustard king, was once quoted as saying that he hadn't made his fortune on the mustard people used, but on what they left on their plates. True or not, it illustrates very clearly what economists sometimes call the "economy of waste", meaning that prosperity in business is not always built upon what people consume, but on what they throw away.

And in North America we certainly do keep the wheels of industry humming by buying new clothes, appliances and cars long before the old ones have been completely worn out. The Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating has been studying the application of this theory to the home itself and they have found that, strangely enough, this is the one place where Canadians are slow to put it into practice.

Perhaps the reason for this is that a house is such a permanent thing. Most people, having bought their home, brought up a family there, and made so many friends in the district, are reluctant to give up the old house to move to where a truly modern home can be bought.

Yet this need not mean that the family must continue to make do with outdated (though not worn out) fixtures and amenities. As an instance, the Institute points to the recently developed types of bathroom fixtures, installation of which is quite easy to make in an older house. And a modern bathroom, unit, counter-top type wash-basin with its built-in tub and shower or twin wash-basins, indirect lighting, and single-unit toilet, not only provides the ultimate in convenience and comfort, but does much to enhance both the appearance and value of the house. The fact that the old bathroom fixtures "still have years of service left in them" should not delay the change-over. Let the "economy of waste" come into play and get rid of them.

Another good example usually crops up when plans are being made to redecorate. Color schemes, new furniture, modern lighting arrangements can fall short of producing the desired effect while the original heating units still remain to give an old-fashioned look to the room. They should be discarded in favor of newly-designed slim radiators, convector radiators, baseboard panels and similar sleek and attractive units.

And, while these need not depend on the installation of a new heating plant, yet here, in the basement, is one place where the "economy of waste" can operate to the benefit of the entire household. Because replacement of the old heating plant with a modern one will not only provide more comfortable living conditions in winter, but cut down on both back-breaking work and fuel bills. In addition, it will make possible the change-over of the basement from the dingy, cluttered-up junk store it was, into a bright living area in the form of a rumpus, party or hobby room, that the whole family can enjoy.

In these ways the "economy of waste" actually becomes an "economy of saving" as the home is saved from deterioration and decay and becomes a modern and valuable family asset.

CONSULT PARENTS ON REPORT CARDS

Ottawa (CP) — Parents and teachers at suburban Cardinal Heights public school plan to revolutionize the old-style report card.

A committee was set up for the purpose and a questionaire was sent to parents asking what they wanted to know about their children's school achievements.

Principal K. D. Johnson says the traditional report card, with its stress on academic things, leaves much to be desired.

"We want to discourage marks from becoming an end in themselves," he said.

He questioned the wisdom of comparing one pupil's achievements with those of another. This, in effect, is what the conventional report card does.

"It isn't far to compete future laborers with future atomic scientists," he said. "These people will not be competing later on in life, so we shouldn't make them compete in school."

Will YOU have an independent income?

Now is the time to arrange through a CANADIAN GOVERNMENT ANNUITY for the little it will take to brighten the days when you must stop working. You can purchase an Annuity NOW to come due at age 50, 55, 60 or 65, or other ages.

HERE IS AN EXAMPLE — Suppose you are a man of 28 and want an Annuity of $100 a month, beginning at 65. Your monthly premium would be $16.44.

AT AGE 65 the Government will begin paying you $100 a month as long as you live! If you die within 10 years after age 65, the monthly payments will continue to your heirs for the balance of that 10 years. Thus, you will have paid $7,299.36 for a minimum return of $12,000.00 — which will be even greater if you live past 75!

IF YOU DIE BEFORE 65 the Government will pay your heirs the total sum paid up to the date of your death plus 4% compound interest.

There are several plans to choose from. For detailed information, consult your DISTRICT ANNUITIES REPRESENTATIVE, or mail the coupon below, postage free.

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you:

Q. I have been out of work for some time and drawing unemployment insurance benefits. My neighbor who is ill has offered me $10 a week to do some light work in his cellar. If I take that job can I still draw my benefits?

A. Whether or not you will be able to draw benefit while working for your neighbor will depend on the hours worked, nature of the work, and so on. It is suggested that you consult your local office, giving full particulars. In any event, be sure to report to your local office all work that you do while on benefit, and all earnings.

* * *

Q. For ten years I have been a carpenter and I have my card. Last winter I worked for two months as a lumberjack. If I refuse to perform a similar job this winter will I be refused benefit?

A. If work as a lumberjack is considered by the insurance officer as suitable employment for you, having regard to your physical condition, age, past work history, etc., and you refuse such a job without good cause, you may be disqualified for a period up to six weeks.

* * *

Q. I am a union man and the employees expect to go on strike next week. Can I collect unemployment insurance while I am on strike?

A. No. Unless you can prove that you do not belong to a grade or class of persons involved in the labor dispute and that you are not directly interested in the outcome.

* * *

Q. My salary has just been raised to $5,000 a year. I have been paying unemployment insurance since it started and I would like to continue and have protection. Can I do this?

A. You can continue making contributions by completing the necessary form indicating that you wish to do this. However, your employer in that case can require you to pay both your own and the employer's share. Consult the nearest National Employment Office to obtain the form.

Trials and Tribulations of Poet-Author With Past Associations in this District

"Archibald Lampman's Letters to Edward William Thomson (1890-1898)"

Book Review By Julia Grace Wales

The following review of "The Letters of Archibald Lampman to Edward William Thomson," a book by Arthur S. Bourinot, falls in line with a recent article by Julia Grace Wales published in The Watchman. At that time, Edward William Thomson's connection and association with this region was explained in detail. In his youth Thomson did some work for the government relating to the Carillon - Grenville canal and spent considerable time in the Pointe Fortune area.

This is a significant book. The editing of these letters is a great service to the annals of Canadian literature. Mr. Bourinot, himself poet, critic, and scholar, is eminently fitted for the task. This is evident in his fine dedicatory sonnet, in his Introduction (giving a searching interpretation of the poet's work, and packing into small space a collection of the most telling things that have been said about Lampman), in his illuminating notes and ample bibliography.

"In this writer's opinion," says Mr. Bourinot, "these letters give a picture of the poet such as has never been painted . . . " Indeed, so varied is the impression, that the reader tends to identify himself with the writer of the letters and to feel all the suspense, not only of the long effort of the poet to get his work before the public, but of the profounder struggle of the man to know himself, to estimate his own powers objectively, to decide on the sound practical course, and in brief to adjust himself to life as it was given him.

The struggle to publish is a constant element in the story: the tantalizing delays of publishing houses, the frequent rejections by American magazines, the occasional acceptances by Harper's, Scribner's, the Atlantic Monthly, the Youth's Companion, the triumph of the sale of an essay ("I sold my essay on 'Happiness' to Harpers. The Lord be praised.") Despite the darkness of much of this struggle, he had a fair measure of success. Mr. Mourinot says, "In fact, no Canadian poet living in Canada (I say living in Canada because Roberts, Carman and Stringer all had appreciative American admirers, but all three for a time at least lived in the U.S.A.) before or since (except perhaps Service) has had such an appreciative public in the States."

Meantime the deeper struggle went on. Lampman's Civil Service appointment, which gave him economic independence, allowed him little leisure. From time to time he contemplated a change of work. There was some talk of his obtaining a professorship at Cornell, but the way did not open. Through Thomson's efforts, he was, in fact, offered a readership on the Youth's Companion. This he refused, feeling that his present post offered advantages he dared not forgo. "Here the drudgery I do — and it is I must confess not very heavy — is a thing apart from my literary faculty and does not directly injure it. While I am at my desk the literary side of me is simply in abeyance." Mr. Bourinot comments on the wisdom of this decision. He doubts, too, whether Lampman's health could have stood the strain of a Cornell professorship. Moreover, even in a university he might have suffered frustration in aspects of drudgery in teaching, the demands of committee work, the need to keep up with scholarship in his field. In November 1893 he writes that he has been promoted to the second class. This must have marked an easement of his problem though he still longed for a fuller freedom. He complains that he does not possess his own soul. A timely visit from Thomson does him good as always. It is just at this time that he is finishing the essay on happiness and it may be that its concluding passages reflect a new acceptance.

Vacations and trips helped in this adjustment, especially excursions into the open with D. C. Scott and trips to Boston to visit Thomson. He enjoyed these greatly. As Mr. Bourinot points out, he was by no means a man of gloom. Books were a solace. Lampman was fortunate in having a good foundation in Greek and Latin. He kept up his Greek, reading the dramatists and Homer (Homer is "a good deal easier than Browning"). Mention is made of other reading, Amiel, Balzac, philosophy, Matthew Arnold.

It was his human relationships that gave his life its greatest release. Mr. Bourinot says, "He must have had indeed a most attractive and loveable disposition. . . No other Canadian that I know of was so rich in admirers of every walk of life." Duncan Campbell Scott says of Edward William Thomson that he was "a prince of friends." Not only did he give the poet praise when it was called for and understanding at all times, but he braced him with hard home truths and it is testimony to the essential strength of Lampman's nature that he was able to respond to the challenge.

At first thought Lampman's character may not seem vigorous in contrast to Thomson's robustness, but it had a wiry tenacity. He is singularly free of the self-pity and self-dramatization often found in the artistic temperament. He is without conceit, easily discouraged, yet able to rally to new effort. Mr. Bourinot says, "He was not lazy, as he accuses himself of being, but a diligent craftsman." He took his family responsibilities seriously. As we learn from one of the letters to May (1888) printed in the Appendix, he sent all he could spare to enable his sister, then in Europe, to continue her studies. In 1896 we find him taking care of his father, who was dying of cancer. Throughout the later letters we see a steady gain in realism, in his power to see his life in perspective. He has come to a clear estimate of his work: "I am a minor poet of a superior order." If the end had not been so tragically near, it may be that his life would have had a new tranquility and an even richer fruitfulness. He wrote in the essay on "Happiness," quoted in the introduction, "Nature's method is always that of development. . . It is our business to plant ourselves coolly within the narrow limits of practical life, and let the spirit shine there to its utmost intensity." We are indebted to Mr. Bourinot for reprinting the essay in full — a fitting conclusion to a very human book.

TO THE ELECTORS of Argenteuil-Two Mountains

I consider it my duty to convey to the electors and the population of this riding, the following warning:

Montreal, March 21st, 1957.

Philippe Valois, M.P.,
Deputy Argenteuil - Two Mountains,
Lachute, Que.

I am informed that certain people in the County of Argenteuil - Two Mountains claim to have received from me a letter giving instructions to name delegates in view of a convention and have rumors circulating that they are acting with the approval of the central organization.

All this is false; I want to deny this categorically and to blame those who thus sow seeds of disunion within the ranks of the party. I gave neither order nor instructions to anyone in view of the convention and no one was authorized to use my name or the name of the central organization to this end.

(Signed) Jacques Vadboncoeur
Organizer in Chief, Q.C.

True copy of a translated telegram received this 21st day of March, 1957, by me

The official Liberal and recognized organization of this County, with the approval and knowledge of the Central Liberal Organization is taking all due measures.

— Philippe Valois, M.P.,
Argenteuil - Two Mountains.
