L.H.S. Gymnast Takes Honors In Eastern Can. Championships

At the Eastern Canadian Gymnastic Championships held at Noranda, on June 1, Reggie Stansfield, of Lachute, won four gold medals and two silver medals. He won the Free Calisthenics, the Long Horse and the Parallel Bar, placed second in High Bar and Still Rings, and won the all-round championship with 141.8 points. Second all-round was Ivan Cellar, a former Olympic Gymnast from Germany, now of Toronto, who got 141.3 points.

Gold Medalist Reggie Stansfield

It was a close contest and coach Arne Petersen reports that only Reggie's determinaton to win made the difference, as he apparently felt he had not done too well at the International Meet in Lachute, the only time people of Lachute have had an opportunity to see him, and the only time he has lost this year.

He set out at Noranda to prove the Lachute Meet was only a bad day for him, as here at least two of the gymnasts were better than Nino Marion, who won at Lachute. As a matter of fact, Reggie's performance was so amazing that the Gymnastic President of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union indicated he would ask the C.A.A.U. to give Reggie the former Governor General Viscount Alexander's Trophy, for Canada's most outstanding junior amateur athlete.

The local athlete was invited to do a demonstration at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto on September 6, however, before this, there are the Dominion Championships in Toronto, September 1, where there are compulsory routines and Reggie, who is at his best in these, should have a chance to win. At present, there seem to be too many "ifs" before he will be able to go, such as enough funds, practising during the summer, etc., and these things must be straightened out before June 22 when school closes.

For the first time, Lachute was represented by more than one gymnast. Ronnie Cairns and Gary Cruise, both of Lachute High School, participated in the Novice Division and did very well especially considering it was their first meet, and at an Eastern Canadian Championship. Ronnie Cairns placed sixth all-round and Gary Cruise placed twelfth. The winner of the Novice Division was Ronnie Orlick, of Noranda. Ronnie Orlick last year in the Provincial Championships came second in the Junior Division to Reggie in the Long Horse. The local boys, as a matter of fact, won over all others of their own age, there were 21 novice competitors and eight of these were 20 years of age or older.

The trip to Noranda was gruesome, starting at 6 a.m. and as a result of a boiling radiator that had to be changed, the boys did not reach Noranda before 12.30 at night. The temperature stayed around 80 - 85 degrees so the boys were tired, but not too tired to do the "best gymnastics they have ever done," commented Coach Petersen.

Annual Tourney Of Bank of N.S. Held Saturday

Local Branch Employee Among Prize Winners

Fair weather and a large turn-out of executives and employees of the Bank of Nova Scotia made their 8th annual Golf Tournament a real success last Saturday, but on account of the large attendance, entries had to be cut to 60.

At the close of the day an excellent dinner was served by the Club with C. D. R. Travers, of Montreal, presiding.

G. C. Hitchman, assistant General Manager, of Toronto, Mr. Ormiston, the new supervisor, and Mr. Bond, supervisor of staff, all spoke briefly on the success of the Bank of Nova Scotia and referred to the pleasant time enjoyed on this occasion.

Reference was also made to the fine new building which is to be erected on the present site on Main Street, to better serve the bank's growing clientele.

The only local prize winner was Jim Begbie, assistant accountant at the Lachute Branch.

Lachute High School "Lampada" Published

One of the major extracurricular interests of the graduating class of Lachute High School, is the publication of their annual school magazine, "The Lampada". This work is a very large undertaking, necessitating co-operation of scores of students and teacher-guidance. There is much planning to be done, articles to write, pictures to take, and advertising to be solicited. In all, it is a work of practical public relations value, and the students derive much good experience with this venture.

The editor for the 1957 edition is Miss Heather MacTavish, and her assistants are Miss Ruth Silverson and Bryan Noble. Class, individual and sporting-event pictures play a great part in the general interest of the magazine, and other literary works and humorous items help with the all-round appeal.

The students are appreciative to the many advertisers who help this venture financially, and they also hope that parents and friends will purchase a copy of The Lampada, as a further gesture of support. The publication is expected to be on sale this coming week-end.

Blind Club Honors Tony Zaplaski, Now Pres. of Argenteuil White Cane Club

"It is a great honor to present you with this gift in the name of the St. Lawrence Club of the Blind, and we hope that it will give you a lot of pleasure and make you remember your many friends in this club." With these words little Jennie Lynn Ponech, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ponech, of Lachute, presented Tony Zaplaski, now president of the Argenteuil White Cane Club and former president of the St. Lawrence Club, Montreal, with a braille typewriter, one of the finest of its kind. The presentation took place Friday evening in the Lachute Legion Hall, at which approximately 200 blind delegates from a number of the Quebec Blind Clubs were present.

Mr. Zaplaski expressed that he was deeply touched with their coming to honor him and thanked everyone who had prepared the surprise. He also expressed his gratitude to Howard Ward, former president of the Lachute Branch of the Canadian Legion, without whose help the White Cane Club would never have been organized, and to Mr. McClintock who challenged him to form a club — as Mr. Zaplaski stated, he was the "why behind the horse."

Among speakers were Miss Austen, a member of the Argenteuil White Cane Club, who praised Tony Zaplaski for the extensive work he has done; and Mrs. Amy Ponech, president of the Women's Auxiliary who was largely responsible for the surprise party. She stated that she was proud of the Auxiliary's work and all members had been greatly encouraged by Tony's advice and kind help. Mrs. Ponech thanked the volunteer drivers who had transported members of the club to the monthly meetings, then outlined last year's program which included a picnic, Turkey Dinner, a number of Whists, and visits to shut-in blind people. She ended with an appeal to any lady who would be interested in the W.A., adding they would be welcomed with open arms.

Master of Ceremonies for the occasion was Marcel Lequin, president of the St. Lawrence Club, which is the largest club for the blind in Canada.

In an interview with Miss Lucy Senkeivitz, vice-president of the Canadian Council of the Blind, she outlined programs and principles held by the C.C.B. and the C.N.I.B. She stated that recreation for the members of Blind Organizations is important and in the past year has included about ten bus rides (for example to St. Marguerite in the Laurentians and to New York State), the finest plays and musical evenings in Montreal (Mountain Playhouse, the McGill Red and White Revue and the Opera), and a number of dances. Blind people's reading material includes the Readers Digest, the Blind Courier, various Braille magazines, and monthly and weekly newspapers.

Miss Senkeivitz reported that at last week's Blind Convention in this County problems involving the blind of Quebec were discussed. The main ones are as follows: Firstly a White Cane Act exists in every Canadian province except Quebec; the Act states that no person, with more than 10% sight, is permitted to carry a white cane, and if he does he can be fined $25. The Quebec Associations are attempting to have this enacted.

Secondly the Blind Allowance states that a blind man in a family may receive the monthly pension; the clubs feel that a blind wife should be entitled to the same amount.

As for work for the blind, she pointed out these handicapped persons are employed in industries, in canteens and cafeterias and as salesmen — some are part-time employees. However much blindness results from sickness and old age, leaving such persons completely dependent.

Dancing continued all evening and refreshments were served to climax a very happy event.

Lachute High School Spring Concert Has Many Highlights and Versatility In Evening of Variety Entertainment

There is always interest and amusement when parents can sit through an evening of entertainment and watch their children partake in such a concert as was producted in the Lachute High School auditorium last Friday evening. There was versatility, new talent discovered, good stage setting and a variety of contrasts, really something new in Lachute school productions.

The music teacher, Miss Nadia Neznick, who was responsible for the concert, greeted those present and introduced the items on the program. The Glee Club sang two modern songs for the opening, which were followed by a pianoforte solo by Miss Carol Martin, who played "Falling Waters", and displayed a technique that has great promise for the future of this young pianist. A musical trio, composed of piano duetists Maureen McRae and Karen Copeland, along with Jimmy Beauchamp on the banjo, rendered "Chimes of Spring", followed by Malcolm Witham on the piano as he played "The Band Played On". A junior pianist from Grade I, Ann Gorman played Weber's "Invitation to the Dance", which was followed by the last number of the first part of the concert, the elementary choir singing "Christopher Robin is Saying His Prayers", with Peter Rodger taking the part of Robin. This performance was one of the hits of the evening, as the stage setting was beautifully arranged, and Robin was the sweetest little character imaginable, surrounded by his many angels.

In the second section of the program, the juniors again scored a hit, as 100 pupils of Grades I and II joined forces in a rhythm band, playing "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers".

The conductor was Heather Royal, who whirled her baton in a steady rhythm as she kept her choristers and band to a steady tempo, and her pianist was Ann Gorman; both seemed to enjoy the whole performance. These two little artists acknowledged the applause of the audience.

This was followed by three pianoforte renditions, as Gloria Welden played "Big Rock Candy Mountain", Linda Douglas playing "I Dream of Jeannie" and Heather Royal playing "Skater's Waltz", all giving very creditable performances. The Junior Choir sang two western songs, entitled "I'm an Old Cow Hand" and "The Happy Wanderer", the second intermission followed.

The Grade I Ballet was something to remember as eight little darlings in their ballet dresses went through an interesting routine to the accompaniment of Tchaikowski's "Walse of the Flowers" sung by the Junior Choir. The little ballerinas were Ann Gorman, Joan Hardie, Judith Gow, Linda MacDonald, Lee Patterson, Grace Watchorn, Susan Barlow and Dianne Cleland, and the audience was delighted with the results obtained by the patient coaching of Miss Neznick.

Another piano solo by Robin Fraser, who played "Cowboy Dream", was followed by a vocal solo by Miss Dianne Carlton, who sweetly sang "I pass by Your Window", Miss Carol Martin accompanied at the piano. A musical quartet composed of Grace Donaldson, Jimmy Beauchamp, Ralph and Robert Bedard, playing the piano, guitar, banjo and mandolin, rendered "Waves of the Danube", and a pleasing performance at the piano by Miss Grace Donaldson, who played "Fairy Wedding Waltz", led up to the finale by the Glee Club and Junior Choir, who sang "Schubert's "Ave Maria" and Brahms "Lullaby", first in German and then in English. The Lachute High School Song composed by Miss Neznick, and sung by the combined chorus brought the concert to a close. Little Ann Gorman presented a bouquet of flowers to Miss Neznick on behalf of the school children.

Judging by the reaction and comments of the parents present, the whole evening was indeed a success, and compliments were voiced by the audience as they left the hall, expressing appreciation of Miss Neznick for her fine and painstaking work in preparation of such a versatile and artistic performance.

The only criticism heard, was the long waits between the various acts, and this was due to an inadequate number of stage hands and props personnel.

B'burg Home and School Final Session Re-Elects Fred Gervais 1957-58 Pres.

Reports of Year's Activities Given By Various Committee Members

By John J. Molloy

A good attendance marked the end of another successful season for Brownsburg Home and School Association. Alfred Gervais, the retiring president, opened the meeting and called on Mrs. Bernice Tomalty to read her treasurer's report for the year. Mrs. Tomalty revealed that more than $200 had passed through her hands and that starting with a $5.76 balance from last year, the association had built up quite a reserve. This reserve was depleted at the time of the book fair as the association bought a good number of books for the library, and the year-end surplus was $28.41. It was moved unanimously that Al Talbot be asked to audit the books.

Mr. Gervais reported on the annual Home and School Conference which he and his wife attended as Brownsburg's only delegates, no one else accepting the invitation. He said that the convention was an education in itself and recommended that in future at least three should attend.

He pointed out that "all the other delegates he met seemed to have the same problems. Attendance is a big one, in one locale with a membership of 400, attendances of 15 were not uncommon." Mr. Gervais said he had been pleased to tell them about Brownsburg's attendance records this year and last. School education was discussed as was the idea of scholarships for social workers.

A forum for "H & S" executives was next on Mr. Gervais' schedule. This took the form of a buzz session where they sub-divided into small groups each one discussing one problem and then the chairman of each small group summarizing the findings of his group. One finding was that too many executives lose sight of the importance of the membership, other than its dollar value. The group definitely frowned on money raising except as a means to a particular end. It was definitely agreed that Home and School associations should mind their own business and not try to do the school boards' work. A suggestion that the Provincial Association should equip itself to do printing for the association was discussed at length and it seems likely to be acted on.

Mr. Gervais added he was surprised that, unlike our local organization, teachers throughout the Province were quite disinterested in the association. On the subject of teachers, a helpful suggestion was that starting salaries and scholarships should be set to attract recruits to the profession.

Mr. Gervais informed the group it made him proud that Mrs. McCabe, president of the Teachers' Association who is from this district was at the head banquet table. The Lachine Glee Club entertained with a selection of choral arrangements.

Mrs. Gervais reported on a discussion on audio-visual aids. A representative of CBC pointed out that TV can be a good influence on our children if the parents guide their tastes and interpretations. A parents' education workshop Mrs. Gervais attended was very interesting, but applicable more to city groups.

Mr. Gervais reported on the Book Fair which was a resounding success. Altogether 115 individual books were bought for a total of $262.88. The School Board donated $40 worth of books to the library, the Rotary Club's contribution was to the value of $25. Maitland Bros. contributed books to a total of $15.25, Brownsburg Legion for $15 and the association itself for $60.98. Altogether the library received 72 books directly and the Women's Institute bought six of the 115 sold. It is expected that eventually the library will benefit to the extent of at least 150 of the 187 books. This should keep the children's interest in home reading at a high level.

Mr. Gervais thanked vice-president Mrs. Camus for her groups' great job of organizing the fair. He added that having the first one under its belt, the association would find future fairs much more easily organized. The one just before Christmas may be a bigger success.

King Amos, principal of Brownsburg High School gave a short but

Reportedly Enjoy Teenage Dance

The first teenage dance ended at 11.30 Friday night in the Lachute Legion Hall, a huge success with approximately 200 present throughout the evening.

Music was provided by records given by members of the Legion, Mrs. Hildred Simpson, and by Lydia Ayers, the latter who sent to her home during the evening for additional records. This Saturday night the young people will dance to music played by four teenagers.

A meeting will be held tonight at 8 p.m., in the Legion Hall, the purpose for this gathering being the formation of committees and the election of an executive. In this way the teenagers will be able to run the dances themselves, with a little added assistance from Legion members.

Gratitude is expressed to the Ladies Auxiliary, who provided delicious refreshments at the first dance of the series.

Returning Officer Lists 29,425 Names On Voters Lists

Notary Richard Valois, the local Returning Officer for the June 10 Federal Election, reports that the preliminary voters' lists contain 29,425 names; however he states that approximately 25 names will probably be added after revisions have been completed.

This is slight increase over the 27,933 citizens who were permitted to use their franchise in the 1953 election in the Argenteuil and Two Mountains Counties. From this number, about 18,800 of the electors used their right to vote, giving a majority of 7,675 to Philippe Valois over Linton Armstrong, the Conservative candidate.

In Monday's elections there will be 145 electoral districts and 150 polls; two of these double polls will be situated in Argenteuil County and three will be located in Two Mountains.

At this moment, four candidates are running for the seat; namely, Notary J. Octave Latour, Progressive Conservative; Mrs. Ethel Margaret McGibbon, Liberal; Antoine Paré, Advocate, Liberal; and Philippe Valois, Advocate, official Liberal.

Voting booths will be open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday; and The Lachute Watchman will publish a detailed report indicating votes obtained by each candidate in next week's edition.

Lions Club Victors Of Public Speaking Address Richelieu

Victors of the Lions Club Public Speaking Contest recently gave a resumé of their trip to Gravenhurst to the members of the Lachute Richelieu Club. They were Beverley MacDonald, a Grade XI student of Lachute High School who was classed third in the English girls section, and Viviane Renaud, a student of the Ste. Anastasie School, who placed first in the French section. Absent was Pierre Dumais, a student in l'école Superieure, Lachute, who placed second in the French boys' section.

Dr. Roger Dumais, local dentist who accompanied the young people to Gravenhurst stated, "They not only represented the Lachute Lions Club, but all citizens of the town of Lachute. If I can now make a vow, next year our two clubs will amalgamate so that we can present a greater number of contestants in the Lions Contest."

Invited to speak first, Miss MacDonald repeated her text of "Racial Intolerance", while Miss Renaud gave her speech on "Music and Young People." The two young people were warmly applauded.

L. Jos. Dumais, president of the local Lions Club, then thanked the girls, and paid tribute to them and their teachers, who had discovered their talents. Tokens of appreciation were given to Miss MacDonald and Miss Renaud.

Jean-Paul Roy, president of the joint Charity Campaign, asked members to procure tickets for the horse races, which will take place in the Fair Grounds, Saturday, August 10. This year among prizes offered, is an automatic washer and dryer and those who buy a complete book of tickets will gain free admission on entering if they present the booklet cover.

Ayersville Council Holds Special Meeting

The Municipal Council of Ayersville held a special adjourned meeting on Tuesday of last week, presided over by Mayor Réal Morrissette; Councillor Douglas Simon was absent.

Councillor Campeau gave notice that at the next meeting the regulation of business taxes be amended. David Lascelle requested that the evaluation of his stable on Bradford Avenue be lowered. As a revision of the evaluation matter will be made in June and July, his case will then be brought before the attention of the appraisers. Permission was granted to Roland Chartrand, who is actually constructing his own house on Hamford Street, to connect his main sewer pipe to that of Ayersville.

Councillor Maurice Champagne suggested a motion to the effect that at the next meeting a ruling will be introduced imposing a special annual tax to all the tax-payers living on Hamford Street, whose sewer pipes are attached to the main pipe in Ayersville. It was also proposed and seconded that a special committee comprising of Mayor Morrissett and Councillors Simon, Foucault and Campeau be formed to study this proposal of a new regulation.

Councillor Campeau proposed, and Councillor Foucault seconded, that the pipe and aqueduct be lengthened 75 feet in westerly direction along Ayers Street, the mortar pipe having a 15-inch diameter, the sewer pipe an 8-inch diameter.

Construction permits were granted to Marcel Constantin, for a house on Ayers Street; to Hermas Leroux, for a private garage on Malette Street; and to Walter Hermann, for an addition to his home on Brownsburg Road; the motion was made by Councillor Foucault and seconded by Councillor Quenneville.

Councillor Quenneville moved, seconded by Councillor Campeau, that tenders be called for the position of Chief of Police and Foreman of Municipal Works. This matter will be studied at the June 3 meeting.

Under a motion of Councillor Cyr, seconded by Councillor Champagne, a bill for $800 for winter repair of roads payable to Gabriel Decarie, of St. Andrews, was accepted for payment.

It was proposed by Councillor Foucault and seconded by Councillor Quenneville that a request of $1.60 per linear foot be made for 800 feet of wooden forms used in the construction of sidewalks.

C-I-L to Release Film On Northern Goose Hunting

"Riders of The North Wind" — a 20-minute color film on goose hunting in northern Canada, has been added to the C-I-L film library and will be available for distribution this fall. The film depicts the strange force that beguiles men away from the comforts of civilization to isolated parts of Canada like James Bay.

To see this film is to feel the call of the north, the thrills of the hunt and the symphony of sound that is the gathering of the geese for the long trek south.

Inquiries concerning this film should be addressed to the Motion Picture Section, Canadian Industries Limited, P.O. Box 10, Montreal, Quebec.

Home and School Holds Final Meeting Re-Elects Fred Gervais President enlightening talk on sight reading and how it works. He explained that the old-established A.B.C. system of reading was not discarded but blended into the technique.

By the modern system, children are encouraged to discuss freely, aspects of the story picked up from the pictures only, for example: by encouraging the children to make full statements and to make judgments, the teacher has a chance to expand their vocalularies and stimulate their imaginations.

Mr. Amos said the system could be broken up into four steps: (1) Preparing for reading; (2) Reading, silent and oral; (3) Relating the lesson practically; and (4) Correlated actions.

In the higher grades, less time is spent in preparation, but in the younger grades, the children like new books, and like to study the pictures, so in preparation the teacher can lead a lively discussion on the pictures, the characters depicted and even such things as the list of contents. When they reach step 2, reading — they discuss the suitability of the title and the teacher may perhaps give a preview. For these reasons the children are not allowed to take their readers home. The children would burn out their interest at home and the whole effect would be spoiled.

New word pictures are important and the teachers prepare exercises to familiarize the children with new words. The children are encouraged to guess the plot in advance. The words learned are then applied in written directions. Dramatization of the stories with the children playing the characters involved heightens the interest.

Mr. Amos wound up by saying that a good reader is always well entertained and eventually well educated. Parents should do everything in their power to encourage their children to read.

The attendance pennant was won by Grade IB, but because they held it twice, the runner-up, Grade X will hold the pennant.

Mr. Gervais closed the session by saying how proud he was to have been president to such a splendid association and co-operative executive. He picked, as the high spots of the year, the Book Fair, Dr. McCabe's talk on Fluoridation and Miss McOuat's talk on diet and nutrition.

Dave Atkins, chairman of a nominating committee read the slate of officers for 1957-58 as selected by his committee. He asked for other nominations. Mayor Tommy Hall moved that the slate be accepted by acclamation. This was unanimously adopted and next year's executive is as follows:

President, A. "Fred" Gervais; vice-president, Mervin Cowley; recording secretary, Mrs. C. Low; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. Hazel; treasurer, George Donaldson; publicity, Miss D. Lowrey; program planning; Phil Grant; social convener, Mrs. D. Dixon; membership, Harry White, Mrs. W. Hamilton; advisory, King Amos, Miss H. Hanson.

Mr. Gervais thanked the members for their confidence in him and appealed for continued support along the lines of the last two years.

To The electors of Argenteuil - Two Mountains

On Monday, June 10, you are going to the Polls to choose your representative at Ottawa for the next term. This decision is yours and, by all means, exercise your right of franchise.

If you do me the honor of electing me as your representative, I promise you that I will dedicate myself to your service in every way and especially to the development and expansion of our county at large.

We stand on the threshold of breathtaking developments which require close co-operation between the Provincial and Federal Governments. With my experience in organization, which I acquired in the Armed Forces and as a corporation lawyer, I feel that I am admirably suited to help plan and carry out this vast development that awaits us.

On my trips around this large riding during the last month, the problems that have been brought to my attention are innumerable. If I am elected, I will consider it my privilege to do everything in my power towards remedying them.

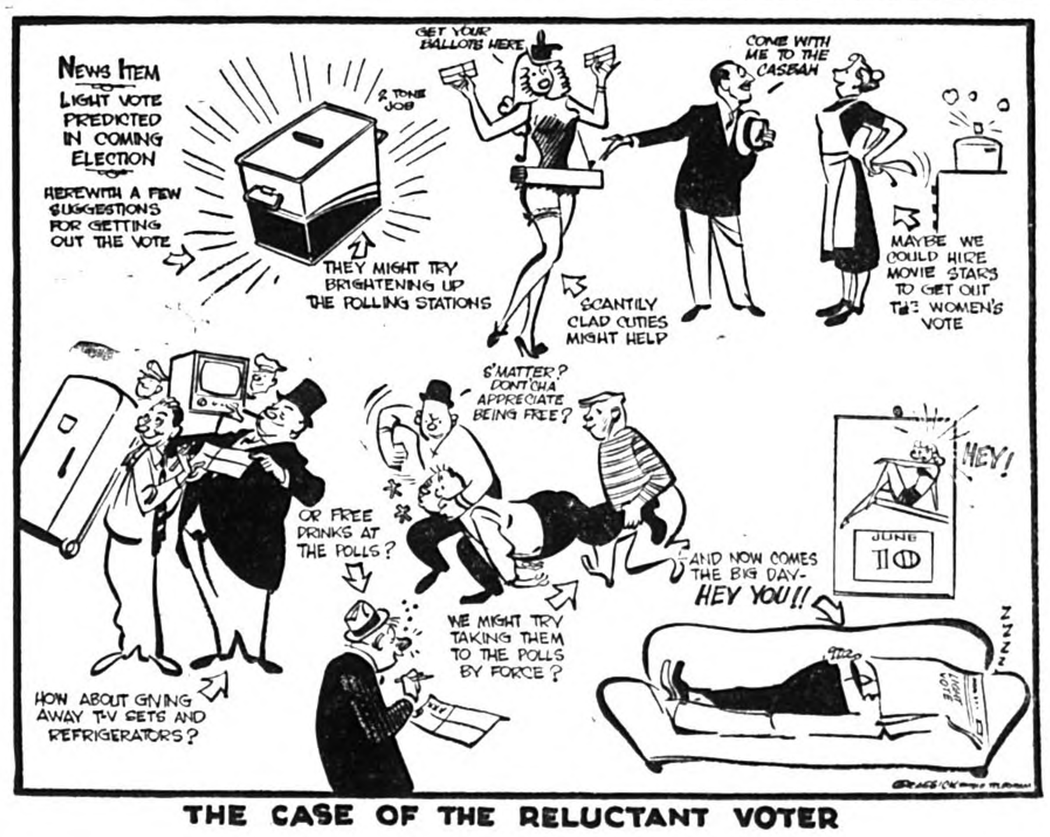

Strategically located between Montreal, the largest metropolis in Canada, and Ottawa, the capital of our Dominion, the voice of Argenteuil and Two Mountains should be heard many times in the debates in the House of Commons. I, personally, will take full advantage of my rights as a member to remedy this situation.

With humility and yet at the same time with confidence in you, the electors, I await your decision, realizing full well the responsibilities that will be mine when elected.

Yours sincerely

Now Speaks the Voter

THE MOMENT of decision fast approaches.

Although the typical Canadian is not an ardent partisan of any one party, he who truly loves the land of his birth or adoption and who cherishes its traditional liberties will not need to be persuaded to vote on June 10th.

He will know that the casting of his ballot has a significance far beyond the preference he is expressing for one candidate over another. As he votes behind that curtain which is the guarantee of his inviolate privacy, he will know that he is of that half of the world's population which enjoys real political liberty: the right to choose.

He is a free man in a land where democracy is neither a hollow sham nor a bitter mockery. Together with some millions of other Canadians he will on this day elect a new Parliament, and in doing so demonstrate his power to both make and break governments.

Terrorism and intimidation will play no part in influencing his decision, which will reflect only his convictions. The politicians have had their say: now speaks the voter.

At this moment he is a king, his mother, wife or daughter, a queen.

None will feel this more than the many thousands of Europeans who have become Canadian citizens in recent years, and who are now eligible to cast their first federal vote. Some of them know what it is like to have had this freedom to choose only to lose it. They may be expected to savour the exhilaration of its recovery by voting in heavy numbers.

In so doing they will be proving their worth to this young country in yet another way. "New" Canadians, comparatively speaking, they may be: but by the very act of voting they show themselves better citizens than the native born man or woman who fails to go to the polls.

The Unknown Land

WITH WINTER BEHIND us and vacations just a little way ahead, those of us who haven't as yet made any firm plans about where we're going might consider one country often overlooked: Canada.

How many of us can say that we have visited even five of the ten provinces? How many of us, for that matter, can claim first-hand knowledge of two others besides our own? And yet we are among the most travelled people in the world!

We go in search of other lands when we do not really know our own. It's understandable, perhaps, and maybe we ought not to be too critical.

But let's not forget that these next four or five months will see our own Canada at its best. From the Atlantic to the Pacific there is a wealth of glorious scenery and wild life to be observed.

Visitors from near and far will come and acclaim the rich variety of natural splendour to be found here. They will envy us our magnificent National Parks and superb lakes. Here, they will say, there is space, tranquility and unlimited beauty.

And booming cities alive with interest, as well as thriving towns and peaceful villages.

Why, then, should not we, too, discover the unknown land that is Canada?

History Is Important

YEAR BY YEAR more communities and organizations in Canada achieve the century mark. British Columbia is currently preparing for its centennial in 1958. On such occasions, the past is suddenly made more vivid. Much research goes into the reconstruction of past days. Parades revive incidents, exhibits display historic items, and much of the information collected is incorporated in book form.

An undertaking of a different kind is the removal of much of the village of Iroquois, Ont., to make way for the St. Lawrence Seaway, and its re-construction on a fresh site. This is only one among many property transfers including monuments, cemeteries and stone farm houses, that will preserve the work of the pioneers of this historically noteworthy area along the great Canadian waterway.

These are big ventures, firing the imagination of many; progress is reported in the news, and colorful celebrations climax completion.

The history of any community is important. Today builds on yesterday and the preservation of concrete pieces of the past develops a sense of history, background and continuity for institutions and communities.

Canadians should be kept aware of the effort and achievements that have built our nation. It is expecially important for new Canadians, most of whom have come from much older countries than ours, to feel and learn that Canada has traditions and history of its own.

The Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada has marked more than 500 sites across the Dominion, but these are only a few, relatively speaking, of those worthy of preservation in 10 provinces that stretch from one ocean to another.

Local organization can foster civic pride and stimulate tourists interest by marking and refurbishing their oldest buildings, opening and furnishing local museums and preserving personal and municipal records.

Canada looks forward to a long history, and now is the time to preserve and record its beginnings.

Water Safety Week

THIS YEAR for the first time, a National Water Safety Week will be observed throughout Canada during the week of June 16 to June 22. With your support and co-operation it is the hope of the Canadian Red Cross Society that this project will help decrease Canada's dreadful drowning toll. Here are a few facts to ensure safe swimming that if followed, will keep you out of the death statistics:

DON'T swim alone.

DON'T swim at unsupervised swimming places.

DON'T dive into unknown water. Rocks and branches may be hidden.

DON'T swim after eating. Wait at least 2 hours.

DON'T swim when overheated. Cool off gradually first.

DON'T swim when overtired.

DON'T swim too far from shore. Swim parallel to the shore.

DON'T swim until you become exhausted, particularly if the water be cold.

DON'T swim after dark unless thoroughly familiar with the swimming area, know it is safe, and are accompanied by a "buddy". Stay close to shore.

DON'T panic if you should get into difficulties. You must think clearly if you are to do the right thing.

DON'T "duck" or push bathers into water. Playfulness may cost a life.

Population Moving

REAL ESTATE authorities report that population is beginning to flow back towards the centre of Toronto. The same trend has been noted for some time in the larger cities in the United States and no doubt it is also apparent or soon will be in other Canadian centres.

There are probably several very good reasons for the new trend, comments The Financial Post.

A lot of people, old and young, have discovered that there are disadvantages as well as advantages in living in the suburbs. It doesn't necessarily mean getting away from traffic congestion and there is a long drive or ride to work or to a concert in the evening or when seeing guests off at the station. Some may even find it too quiet and not every one is a born gardener or bird watcher. And children, usually the main reason for moving to the outskirts, will grow up and leave a couple of middle aged parents rattling around in a house and lot far too big for them.

Mayor Appeals to A&P Authorities Re Bowling Lease

The following is a copy of a letter sent by Mayor Léopold Carrière to G. N. Prevost, General Superintendent of the Eastern Division of the A & P Stores, regarding the cancellation of a lease to the Brunette Brothers, who for the past two years have operated the Lachute Bolodrome.

Office of the Mayor,
Lachute, Que. May 24, 1957

G. N. Prevost,
General Superintendant,
The Great A & P Store,
Toronto, Ont.

Dear Sir:

I have been informed that your Company has refused a renewal of rental to the Brunette Brothers, who operate a bowling alley in your Lachute building.

As Mayor of this town, I would like to point out to you, Sir, that this will create an embarrassing situation in our town, this bowling alley being the only amusement centre we have for our laborers and our youth during the winter months.

The Brunette Brothers, who enjoy a good reputation in this town, have operated this bowling alley for only two years, and thus are not in a financial position to construct a new building. Furthermore it is almost impossible to move such equipment even if there was a place available.

Consequently, it means that the proprietors will be put out of business, and the Town of Lachute will be deprived of the only amusement centre it has had during the winter season.

It is not my intention to try and dictate to your company, but I honestly feel that it is my duty to bring these facts to your attention. A change in the company's decision would be very much appreciated by the citizens of this town.

Yours very truly,

— Leopold Carrière,
Mayor of Lachute

Where was Canada's first Red Cross Flown?

Two strips of red factory cotton stitched on a white square flew over a horse-drawn ambulance during the Northwest Rebellion in 1885. The flag, now in the John Ross Robertson Collection of the Toronto Public Library, was prepared by Surgeon-Major G. S. Ryerson. He later became a major-general and also served as chairman of the first Red Cross organization in Canada.

What is the Allan Cup?

Since 1910, the Allan Cup has been emblematic of supremacy among Canadian amateur hockey teams. It was presented by Sir Hugh Montagu Allan, a Montreal ship owner and financier. Originally named Hugh Andrew, he assumed the name Montagu in place of Andrew to prevent confusion with his cousin. Also a noted sportsman, he was president of the Montreal Jockey Club and his horses won the Queen's Plate, the Montreal Hunt Club, and many other trophies. He was Honorary Colonel of the Black Watch in Canada, and was knighted in 1904. He died in 1951.

"A Craze Called Elvis"

About this time last year, a young fellow asked me what I thought made Elvis Presley tick.

"Why is it that everyone goes crazy over him?" he asked.

"Everyone?"

"Well, teenagers, I mean. Most of them, that is. He can't sing and he can't dance. He looks as though he's all hopped up, and he wears sissy clothes and sideburns. Yet, the kids all think he's just the cat's meow, especially the girls!"

I fear I couldn't give him a very satisfactory answer. I was even at a loss to explain why the bobby-sox set had swooned over Frank Sinatra; why I had driven the family crazy with "Boo-boo-boo" Bing Crosby's records; why my sisters had fallen for Rudy Vallee, or why my revered mother, in her turn, had joined the throngs that worshipped the feet of Valentino.

"All I can say is that Valentino could act, while Vallee, Crosby and Sinatra made a pleasant sound in singing. But Elvis leaves me cold and I don't have the slightest idea why anyone bothers to look or listen to his act."

When next I meet the young fellow who posed this stickler, I shall be fully prepared to supply him with an answer. Out of the States, recently, there came my way a small magazine called "Films In Review". In it, I found an article, by one Henry Hart, in which the film "Love Me Tender", is reviewed.

Hart points out that his remarks are directed against the publicly-performing Presley, not the private individual. Indeed, he expresses the sincere hope that Presley, in private life, is far removed from the person he represents before the footlights. Listen to Hart now as he analyzes the phenomenon known as Elvis "The Pelvis" Presley.

"The publicly performing Presley consists of two parts: (1) a young man of hulk and probably flabby muscle, with a degenerate face, who sings emasculated innuendoes in a southern drawl as he strums a guitar; and (2) a lewd dancer. . .

"The face . . . is not merely devoid of character, it has an overly insolent cast. The weak mouth seems to sneer, even in repose, and the large, heavily-lidded eyes, seem open only to be on the look-out for opportunities for self-indulgence. The long hair is one of today's badges of the psychologically feminized male. The lazy voice-tone and articulation, drifting gradually into indistinct enunciation, tell us Presley is removing himself willingly from reality, and pleasurably succumbing into the apathetic phases of dementia praecox."

As the Presley's movements, I censor Hart's remarks rather than commit them to the public prints. Suffice it to say, Hart feels as most others do that they are as lewd as he can possibly make them for the sole purpose, apparently, of abnormally stimulating his young audiences.

"How a society as dynamic as our own," Hart continues, "throws up such a monstrosity is beyond the scope of this review, as are the reasons why . . . contemporary American teenagers of both sexes react to what Presley does, instead of away from it."

Not much of an explanation you maintain? Maybe not. Still, Hart's review suggests that the Presley we see in public is just as much of a menace to the teenager as crime comics, horror books, and the ten cent pocket picture pamphlets — if not moreso. And the sad feature of it all is that parents don't forbid Presley records, nor do they shut off the radio and TV sets when the Tennessee trucker comes on. They seem quite prepared to have him invade their living room whenever a producer sees fit to feature him on a program.

There is one bright spot in the dark cloud, however. I have it on good authority that Presley isn't mentioned in Boston or New York these days. It seems calypso has stolen all the thunder, there-about.

Let's hope it spreads this way, and fast!

Election Promises Of Road Paving Again Remembered

Lachute, Que.,
June 1, 1957

The Editor,
The Lachute Watchman,
Lachute, Que.

Dear Sir,

Among the many election promises heard last year, was one made by both the Hon. W. M. Cottingham and several of his workers and organizers that immediately following the Provincial Election, the road to Lake Louisa would be straightened and paved.

More than a year has elapsed and the pre-election paving pickets have long since disappeared, the road is in a terrible state and far from being what last summer's election promises said it would be.

The summer traffic has started and within several weeks, the loose stone and hole-filled will once again be crowded. Then it will be too late and will have to be put off for another year or possibly another election promise that just might come true in the dim distant future.

It is time something was done and there is only one man who can see that immediate action is taken. The Provincial Government makes enough money on car licenses and road tax on all gasoline sold to do a good job where it is needed and this is one place where the need is great.

Sincerely,

— A County Resident,
Taxpayer and Voter

OF MANY THINGS

Election Voting

The enumerators were at our house the other day and the voters in our family now know where to vote. The next question: Who to vote for?

Millions of Canadians will be asking themselves that question during the next few days. Here is how we propose to go about answering it at our place. We decided, in family canflab last night, that we'd take the following steps:

(a) Know the Candidates: We're starting at once to find out what parties and what candidates are going to fight for election in our constituency. We'll try to find out how well they handle their own affairs, and how well they've conducted the affairs they have been charged with by others.

(b) Quiz the Candidates: Each candidate in our constituency is going to get an invitation to spend an hour or so in our living room trying to tell us why we should vote for him or her. And we'll have a list of questions to ask: How do you stand on the Canada Council getting $100,000,000 for culture? Do you believe the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation should be given $470,000,000 in the next six years, presumably also for culture? Do you believe in compulsory farm marketing boards having taxing power over the individual farmer? Will you reduce taxes, or will you support every expensive project that you think will win some votes?

(c) A Written Commitment: The candidate who can be assured of our vote will be the candidate who will give us a written commitment that he or she will stand up and vote and speak against any further welfare schemes until the welfare money now being paid out is worth what is was worth when the payments began. Until the old age pension will buy at least as much as it did the year it was started, this country just can't afford economically or morally to spend money for less worthy projects.

In short, we are going to make absolutely certain that as far as the candidates in our riding are concerned, they'll know at least one family has no use for any politician who will spend the people's money to buy the people's votes.

KITE FLIERS

Stephenville, Nfld. (CP) — The Annual "international kite flying championships" here June 16 are divided into three classes — under 10 years, from 10 to 16, and from 16 to 85 years.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Just as surely as water runs downhill, people at house-parties move into the kitchen, leaving all the other rooms empty. Hosts are aware of this social law, but helpless to do anything about it.

Sometimes a host can halt the flow with such temporary dams as record-players, television sets and arguments in doorways, but these tricks are bound to fail in the end.

Especially determined hosts have been known to make a stand with arms akimbo in the passage from the living-room, only to find that all the guests have ebbed away into the night, cut a new channel through the garden and trickled into the kitchen through the back door.

The guests at house-parties are all afraid of one another. Each guest regards himself, or herself, as a simple, worthy soul who has become trapped in a crowd of snobs and sharpers. He must escape.

So he makes his way to the kitchen. This is the one room in the house that has no nonsense about it. The kitchen serves basic needs. No matter how refined and automatic it may be, it still conjures up memories of Mother's pie and the cookie jar.

The kitchen is the place for a plain person to take refuge from all those phonies in the living-room.

Another good thing about the kitchen is that the liquor is in there, and there is a smell of spaghetti cooking. An ordinary man can feel comfortable in the kitchen.

Quite soon, the kitchen is jammed from wall to wall with plain, ordinary men and shy, retiring women, all of them talking as fast as they can and some of the bolder spirits, perhaps, already bursting into song.

Then someone finds that the living-room is empty, and goes there in search of solitude, closely followed by a stampeding mob of gentle introverts. And so the party continues, with all those simple souls moving from living-room to kitchen and back in a desperate effort to escape each other, until the neighbors phone to complain about the noise.

B'burg Graduation Ceremonies Held Basketball Teams Also Honored

The banquet, which commenced at 6.30 p.m. was held in honor of the graduates and members of the Boys' Midget and Girl's Junior Basketball teams. A toast to the Queen was proposed by Maura Trayers, a member of the Graduating Class.

The Women's Institute served a delicious supper, after which Philip Grant made a presentation of trophies to the team captains, Noel Villard and Ruth Dixon. He also cited Linda Murdoch for her successful year as manager of the basketball teams.

After this presentation, the guests dispersed to the gymnasium where the graduation exercises and dance took place.

The members of the Graduating Class of 1957 were Marlene Hebert Lynda Silverson, Grace Tomalty and Maura Trayers.

The exercises started at 8 p.m with the singing of "O Canada." The chairman for the occasion was J. R. Golphin.

The graduates were introduced by Everett Clausen of Grade X. He related the activities of the graduates during their High School education.

The next item on the program was an outline of the extra-curricular activities of this year made by Linda Murdoch of Grade X. Two Birks' Medals were presented by the school principal, G. K. Amos. Lachute Scouts First Hobby Show Complete Success

Last Thursday, May 30, the 1st Lachute Troop held its first Hobby Show. By all standards, the show was a complete success, with many visitors coming to view the hobbies on display, and ask the exhibitors questions about their particular interests.

Over thirty hobbies were shown, and prizes were awarded as follows:

Section I (Ages 12 and 13):

1st prize, Peter Riddell (coins); 2nd, Grand McGibbon (models); 3rd, George Armstrong (model electric train and Meccano articles).

Section II (Ages 14 and up):

1st, Bryan Noble (handicrafts); 2nd, Stephen Pride (rock and mineral collection); 3rd, Ian Duncan (handicrafts).

The judge for the show was Chas. Duncan, former Scoutmaster of the group, who with the Scouters, had some difficulty in choosing the leading exhibits. Awards were based on originality, neatness of presentation and the educational value of the exhibit to the hobbyist.

The Scouters were very gratified to note the qualities of the hobbies shown, and highlights were the many handicrafts, woodworking, and in particular Stephen Prides' Rock Collection. They wish to thank all the hobbyists, visitors and all those who made the event a success. Proceeds from the sale of tickets was sent to the Provincial Headquarters to be added to the fund for an X-Ray machine for the Montreal Children's Hospital. An amount of $25 was forwarded to the fund early this week. Scoutmaster R. R. Pearson has expressed the wish that the Hobby Show will become an annual affair.

A Vote for Mr. Latour is a vote for Mr. Diefenbaker

A Vote for Independent Liberals is a vote against the Right Hon. Louis St. Laurent.

The Hon. Senator Thomas Vien says:
"It is by voting for the official candidates of Mr. St. Laurent that you will give him a sufficient majority to stay in power."
"My Friends! I am making this appeal! To the polls on the 10th of June and vote for the OFFICIAL CANDIDATES OF THE LIBERAL party."
(Extract of a speech made in French on C.B.C May 28, 1957).

The Right Hon. Louis St. Laurent says:
Vote for the official candidates of the liberal party.
(Meeting at Three-Rivers May 29, 1957)

Do not fall for the scheme of the opposition by dividing the liberal votes.

Vote for the only Official candidate endorsed by the Right Hon. Louis St. Laurent.

TO VOTE is a duty, to vote Liberal is in your interest.

WHY, were the Independant Candidates, calling themselves Liberal, not present at the St. Laurent rally in Montreal, on the 3rd of June?

Because they were not invited, being neither accepted nor recognized by Louis St. Laurent.

Philippe Valois was on the platform, at the side of the Prime Minister, as one of his team and there again, was declared publicly, the OFFICIAL CANDIDATE.

This proves that there is but one OFFICIAL ST. LAURENT CANDIDATE,

PHILIPPE VALOIS

Official liberal committee for Argenteuil - Two-Mountains.

Fish Derby Attendance Reported Down Last Year's Winners Again Place First

Stan Baily, of Cartierville and Allen Goodman, of Ville St. Laurent, won top awards in the 2nd Annual Brownsburg - Lachute Rotary Fish Derby held in the A. D. McGibbon & Sons woodland park north of Lake Louisa last Saturday. Junior prize honors went to Brian White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry White, of Brownsburg, and five tagged fish were reported caught out of the 25 planted in the lakes.

The Derby Committee reports attendance was down considerably from last year despite the excellent weather. Paid admission totalled 477 adults and children arriving in 194 cars and 329 fish were reported caught. However, no search was made of any of the cars and reports indicate that a considerable number of fish were not reported by the "sportsmen".

Fishermen from near and far started the line-up at the gate into the park area shortly after 11 p.m. Friday and by midnight, more than a dozen cars were in evidence awaiting the opening. A similar report followed last year's Derby when 961 persons in 390-odd cars paid admission and reported the total catch in the vicinity of 400 fish.

Top prize for grey trout went to Stan Baily who hauled in a 3 pound 12 ounce grey out of Pine Lake. Baily's fish measured 21¼-inches in length, just one-half inch longer than the one caught by Brian White, also in Pine Lake, which weighed 2 pounds 10½ ounces. The largest red reported was caught in Round Lake by Allen Goodman and weighed-in at 1 pound 11 ounces. Both Baily and White were winners in last year's Derby.

The gate opened at 5.30 a.m., 30 minutes ahead of schedule, due to the line-up of cars which reached close to half a mile. Everything was reported in order by the Game Wardens and Provincial Police on duty in the area.

While no large catches were reported, the real fishermen expressed the opinion that they had enjoyed the outing although some expressed displeasure in not being able to fill the boat with fish.

Colfords Defeat 'Hill Team Meet "B'burg Girls" Sunday And CFCF "No Stars" Soon

Last Sunday Colford's Lodge had to battle to the final inning to gain a win over Vankleek Hill. The Ontario boys scored five big runs in the first inning, one in the second and two in the fifth. Colford's did not score until the third inning when they broke in with four runs. They were held scoreless until the last inning when Mel Stewart and Guy Larocque scored.

Eddie Moore then hit a single to score Wilson Black from third and Robert Paquette punched out a double to score Moore with the winning run. This was the third straight win for Jean Guy Larocque.

M. Hall pitched a fine game for the loosers, but errors cost them the game.

Next Sunday Colford's play host to a "Girls Team" from Brownsburg. This should be an interesting contest.

June 23, the CFCF "No Stars" will be guests at Colford's. Among the players will be Gord Sinclair, Russ Taylor and many other radio personalities.

Buckingham Defeats B'burg 7-6 In Close Contest; Teams Meet Again Sunday

Brownsburg Tigers for the first time this season, played the kind of baseball that won them the championship last year. Even so, they had a couple of fielding lapses which caused three unearned runs and allowed Buckingham to win 7-6.

Buckingham showed a lot of power as they pounded out five extra base hits to Tigers three and they outhit the visitors twelve to seven. Claude Gaudet had three singles and Landry had a double and two singles. Pilotte was the big hitter with a triple and a home run over the right field fence. Lawless hit a two-run homer in the second inning.

Ronnie Cousineau was in and out of trouble all day and even had a brief wild spasm. He hit two batters in a row in the fourth inning, his first such fling in two seasons, and both scored. Then he walked two in a row in the fifth to double his total for the season. Ronnie redeemed himself at bat with a long two-run double with the bases loaded in the eighth. A little more daring base-running would have tied the score at that stage.

Yves Raymond is again on an early season hitting spree. He tripled and singled twice to raise his batting average to .545. André Ouellette homered over the long left field fence with Jacques Hebert aboard in the 3rd inning to put Tigers in the lead for half an inning. Fern Lepine and Jimmy Murdoch each singled, Jimmy's being a grass-sizzler down the left field line.

Bordeleau struck out eight and walked five in picking up the win for Buckingham.

The same teams go at it again this Sunday in Brownsburg and it shapes up like a real hitters' battle with the re-vitalized Tigers back on the victory trail. The game starts at 2.30.

Vote for honesty and Prosperity
Vote for
Ethel M. McGibbon

Fellow voters, examine my record of voluntary work for my constituency as Vice-President of Liberal Association; as speaker for the Liberal Party; for work in the Consumer Branch of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board; in the Women's Institute and Red Cross Work and as President of the Argenteuil Historical Society, as well as many other organizations.

Now examine the records of the other candidates and I think you will find that they have done little or nothing, without remuneration, for their Community. You usually find that those who will do nothing for free, will do little more if paid.

Fellow voters, on June 10, remember it is a privilege to vote. I, your candidate, have the determination to fight and uphold our democratic way of life and once again may I remind you that I am paying all my expenses which will not exceed $500.

Compare this with what is being spent to promote the other candidates.
My campaign closes on Saturday night as I do not approve of Sunday Campaigning.

Fellow voters I leave it with you.

ARTS, BOOKS, SHOWS AND ENTERTAINMENT

Johnny Wayne Fills Every Spare Minute

The hobbiest guy in show business, Johnny Wayne, though he fishes and shoots, hangs nothing but Canadian paintings.

"You can pick up masterpieces of art for a pittance in this country" Johnny claims and he should know, he's been collecting Canadian paintings for 10 years.

He collects stamps and coins with his three young sons. The oldest lad is also interested in dad's basement darkroom.

Johnny sails and golfs and loves to fish. A strong swimmer, he plans to skin dive this summer.

However, his favorite summertime hobby is bass fishing. Whatever the season he reads. He reads for fun and to help him with his writing chores.

With Frank Shuster he writes the Wayne and Shuster TV show and a new column appearing in Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto papers. He writes popular songs, such as "The Cricket Song" with musician Bobby Gimby.

Johnny says his great love of books was fostered at the University of Toronto where he majored in English literature.

He likes to read before going to bed and always has four or five books on various subjects lying around. He reads them concurrently picking up whichever subject suits his mood.

Queen's Plate to be on Radio and TV Network Saturday, June 8

June 8 will mark the 98th running of Canada's greatest racing classic, Queen's Plate at Toronto, and the 20th annual radio coverage by the CBC of the summer racing event. . . It will also mark CBC-TV's third successive year at the post when the top horses in the land line up at New Woodbine at approximately 5.00 p.m., EDT.

This year, television viewers from Quebec City to Regina will see the colorful Plate "live", while radio listeners from coast to coast will be able to follow the action via the Trans-Canada network. In the two previous telecasts, both Toronto and Hamilton were blocked out.

Calling the race for both television and radio will be Del Mott, while Byng Whitteker will provide the color commentary for radio. On hand too for the television audience will be Steve Douglas, while June Dennis will discuss the women's angle for radio listeners.

Alan Gilroy and George Retzlaff will produce the radio and TV accounts, respectively.

The history of North America's oldest continuously run racing feature is studded with all the romance of horse racing. The first recorded winner was a horse called Don Juan in 1860, but the records of the Royal household show that the race was inaugurated in 1859. The race was originally run for a purse of 50 guineas donated by Queen Victoria. Nowadays, however, the financial value of the 50 guineas has been greatly overshadowed by the added money of the Ontario Jockey Club, plus the subscriptions, and the Plate can mean to the winning owner, a purse well in excess of $25,000.

This will be the second running of the race from New Woodbine near Malton, Ont. The track, which is considered to be the most modern racing plant in the world, saw Bill Beasley's "Canadian Champ" emerge the winner from a select field last season. Among this year's favorites in the 98th renewal are such colts as Ali's Pride, Lad Ator, Chopadette, Lyford Cay, and Flying Atom.

The distances of the Plate have changed several times since the first running and this year it is changed again, going out to the middle distance of a mile and a quarter.

Camera on the Ocean Floor Starts Next Week on TV

Camera on the Ocean Floor is the title of the first episode in a new film series called Kingdom of the Sea which starts Friday, June 14, at 6 p.m. on station CBLT. It is the first underwater series to be filmed for television and it offers some rare glimpses across one of the last unexplored frontiers — the ocean depths with their strange denizens and eerie landscapes. The narrator is Colonel John D. Craig, an adventurer whose exploits range from the salvage operations of the Lusitania to photographing the Bikini atom bomb tests. Appearing in the films is Zale Parry, described as a world champion skin diver, who has been practising underwater swimming since she was 13. The opening episode shows coral gardens, kelp forests and various strange forms of sea life; camera men explore a wreck in the South Seas and a sunken plane, while a shark and a moray eel swim by menacingly.

"Double Verdict" Drama To Appear on Perspective

What does a man do when his dream-world is swept out from under him, leaving him to face reality? What happens to a man whose personality is balanced on a razor's edge? In a drama called Double Verdict, by Charles E. Israel, Perspective on June 9th will tell the story of Andy Potter, a successful lawyer, and his inability to face mediocrity. Andy got along with his wife and his many friends. There was no apparent reason why he would wish to commit suicide. He had everything a man needs to enjoy life fully. On the outside, he was a modest and unassuming man, but internally he was driven by a consuming urge to conquer and to distinguish himself. One by one the symptoms of schizophrenia are brought out.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Did you ever stop to think that the family car — that trusty means of transportation — can also help in building good family relations? A friend of mine recently told me of his experience in this respect.

A busy man, he realized one day that his ten year old son no longer came to him for counsel or to seek his companionship. He set out to find a common interest, and discovered that his boy, like many youngsters, loved automobiles and could identify any make of car. One Sunday, he suggested a drive with his son.

On the road, he explained to the boy the meaning of such road markings as double white, single and dotted lines. At one point, he asked his advice on whether or not to pass the car ahead. This led to a discussion of passing on hills and curves. Soon the boy's interest carried the conversation to car mechanics, and then on to other subjects. The boy discovered his father was easy to talk to and that he understood the problems of growing up. Their Sunday drive together became a ritual and served to cement a firm relationship between father and son.

The same can hold true for mother and daughter. By taking Susie with her on afternoon drives when she can demonstrate visually the importance of safe driving, Mom will instill in her daughter the need for safety on the highway. Then, too, she can stress the factor of cleanliness by keeping the car neat.

If your family relations need strengthening, why not use the versatile family car as these folks have done?

The weather and the calendar show it's time to clean and store winter blankets.

The Canadian Association of Consumers offers some helpful tips for blanket care — and blankets do require special attention at this time of year.

The answer to the moth hazard is thorough cleaning. This usually entails careful washing, and the CAC suggest that you wash one blanket at a time, using lukewarm water with a neutral soap or mild detergent.

Soak the blanket five to 15 minutes, depending on how dirty it is, and don't use any mechanical action in the washing machine.

The blankets should be rinsed three times in warm water, shaken and pulled into shape and then hung straight on the line and turned over about halfway through the drying period.

Finish the job by pressing the ribbon binding and giving the blanket a good shaking or brushing to revive the wool nap.

Top Nursing Honor

One more Canadian nurse has joined the distinguished ranks of women holding nursing's highest international award — the Florence Nightingale Medal.

Helen McArthur of Toronto, director of the Canadian Red Cross Society's national services, is the eighth nurse to receive the medal. The award was presented by Florence Emory, Toronto nurse and Red Cross adviser who also is a medal winner.

Established in 1912, the medal is presented for outstanding contributions to the development and prestige of the nursing profession.

It bears the likeness of Florence Nightingale, famed English nurse and pioneer in hospital reform who died in 1910. Her nursing services to British soldiers during the Crimean War earned her the title "Lady of the Lamp."

And her ideas about nursing education, administration and services are still "lights" and guide post for nursing in many countries.

Happy Couples

This may be a new twist on subtle marriage councelling — eight couples who have celebrated golden wedding anniversaries took part in inaugural ceremonies for a Toronto low-cost housing project designed for young married couples.

Together the couples, all from Ontario, symbolized 440 years of married life. And they let other guests in on their formula for marital bliss.

Ceramics Artist

Mrs. Olea Davis, of Vancouver, who has been interested in pottery since childhood, has won wide recognition for her work in ceramics. Some of her fine craftsmanship was displayed at a recent Canadian ceremics exhibit at Toronto.

Her earliest memories are of the birds, animals and flowers she fashioned from natural potter's clay in her home town of Haileybury, Ont.

Your family will like the sharp flavor of tender, young spinach in everyday salads. Wash small leaves thoroughly, chop or tear in small pieces and use alone or in combination with other greens. The dark green leaves also make an attractive base for other salads such as deviled eggs with crisp celery and carrot sticks, or cottage cheese with cucumber slices and tomato wedges.

HOSTESS RELAXES AT SOUP-SANDWICH BUFFET

Enjoy yourself, Mrs. Hostess, by making your spring parties the easiest kind possible.

You might do it this way. Set up a buffet with a colorful array of tempters —savory hot soup and assorted sandwich makings. Fill your biggest pitcher with iced tea; polka dotted with golden circles of lemon or fresh green lime. For a sweet, arrange dainty slices of marble cake or coconut cookies on your best glass platter.

Heap a tray with sandwich makings; then let guests make their own. The breads could include pumpernickel, rye and raisin. For fillings, have Swiss cheese, smoked cheese, ham or bologna, ketchup and mustard. Remember the lettuce, radishes and onions for nibbling.

When you choose the soup, remember the special appeal of the chicken kinds. Their delicate flavors seem to entice appetites even more than usual in warm weather. Besides, you can offer some of the doubly appealing, double-feature soups to win honors as a hostess of distinction. For instance, try:

CHICKEN NOODLE GUMBO

1 can (1¼ cups) condensed chicken gumbo soup
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed chicken noodle soup
1 soup-can water

Mix soups and water. Heat well. Ladle into 3 or 4 bowls. Prepare enough soup to have plenty for your guests.

CREAMY CHICKEN GUMBO

1 can (1¼ cups) condensed cream of chicken soup
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed chicken gumbo soup
1 soup-can water

Blend soups; first put cream of chicken in saucepan; then gradually stir in gumbo and water. Heat well. Makes 3 or 4 servings. Prepare enough soup to offer seconds.

CHILL SPICED TOMATO SOUP

Chilled tomato soup, spiced with allspice and cloves, starts a meal in a most refreshing way on a warm day. To prepare it, mix a can of condensed tomato soup with 1 can of water plus a dash each of allspice and ground cloves. Heat well, simmering a few minutes to blend flavors. Chill. To serve, pour tomato soup into chilled bowls. Garnish with sour cream or salted whipped cream. Makes 4 portions.

It requires an investment of about $10,000 in plant and equipment to create one new job in manufacturing in Canada. In heavy industry, such as steel, cost is about $15,000 per new job.

Summer Wardrobes Rush Gives Moths Free Hand

Warm weather has prompted a rush for summer wardrobes. We tend to move winter cast-offs to the back of the clothes closet and forget about them. But there is no tastier hot-weather dish for a moth than carelessly stored woollens!

Cleanliness is the best insurance against moths. Have you noticed that moth larvae always seem to attack first on a spot where there's a good stain? All clothing to be stored should be washed or dry-cleaned.

Dry cleaning is quick and effective these days. The modern cleaning agent perchlorethylene, or "Perluxe", makes possible one-day service because it is non-inflammable and can be used on a cleaner's premises. It also means odorless cleaning since little of the solvent remains in the garments. And quite apart from the moth menace, cleaning actually prolongs the life of garments, by removing dust and dirt particles which rub between fibres and weaken them.

Some dry cleaners are helping with the storage problem by returning cleaned clothes in polythene bags. By sealing the bottom of the bag with a medium-hot iron, you have an excellent protection against dust and moths. And in the fall, when winter clothes are returned to active service, they can easily be identified through the transparent plastic covering.

Small Per-centage of Milk Consumed in Canada is Safe and Pasturized

Many Canadians labour under the delusion that all milk in Canada is safe and pasteurized. The Health League of Canada warns that this is not so. Only about a third of all milk drunk in this country is pasteurized. Families going to the country for their holidays should be made aware of the fact that much milk in the country is not pasteurized, and potential killers and cripplers lurk in every glassful of raw milk. In some localities, the sale of raw or unpasteurized milk is legal, and just because milk is in a milk bottle does not mean that it is pasteurized.

Unpasteurized milk can carry the germs of bone tuberculosis, typhoid and undulant fever, bovine tuberculosis, diphtheria, and scarlet fever. By drinking raw milk, you run the risk of contacting any of these diseases.

If you discover that your milk is not pasteurized, the Health League of Canada advises that it is not difficult to pasteurize it yourself. Here are the directions:

Use a double boiler that will hold about twice the amount of milk you wish to pasteurize. Put enough cold water in the bottom pot to touch the top one. Pour the cold raw milk into the top one and cover it. Bring the water in the bottom pot to a boil and keep it boiling for eight minutes, then cool the milk as rapidly as possible. Bottle milk and place it in cold storage (45 degree Farenheit), remembering never to put the pasteurized, heated milk into unsterilized containers, or the value of the whole operation will be lost.

When a double boiler is used for home pasteurization, there is no change in the flavor of the milk — one of the objections sometimes heard concerning do-it-yourself pasteurizing.

Facts, Figures and Fun Course Held by Q.W.I.

"What you are doing here, and will be doing when you go home, is adult education," said Prof. H. R. C. Avison, Director, Adult Education Service, Macdonald College, speaking at the closing session of the course, "Facts, Fingers, Fun", sponsored by the Quebec Women's Institutes at the College the last week of May.

He went on to define adult education as "imaginative training for citizenship," taking in the whole realm of life as it relates to our community, province, country and the world. Prof. Avison stated the Women's Institute is a group of women devoted to the help of all and said, "such courses as this develop your skills, knowledge and confidence, and fits you to take part more effectively in your own organization at all levels." He concluded by wishing the members, "Good success and deep satisfaction in the work as you go back to your groups."

Skills taught at the course were program planning, recreation, group singing, metal tooling and the use of group discussion techniques. These were assessed at the closing session of the course and suggested programs for future courses drawn up in "buzz" groups, furnishing valuable reference for next year's plans.

Mrs. A. Cameron, instructor for the week's classes in Program Planning and Group Discussion methods, and Miss F. E. Campbell, Recreation, conducted this period. Instructors for other classes were Mrs. Wheeler Adams, Singing, and Miss Bridget Altimas, metal tooling.

"A Camper's Fire"

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Your own property is concerned when your neighbor's house is on fire," Horace told the Romans centuries ago. We Canadians should be concerned how often our forests are on fire through the carelessness of some one with his campfire. Our total forested area, 42 percent of our land area, forms one of our most valuable national assets. In Canada there are 150 tree species and our productive woods are comprised of 63 percent soft wood, 25 percent mixed wood and 12 percent hardwood.

School children are warned about the waste of forest fires. The movies and the press frequently stress it. But why is it that in a recent year Canada's total damage from forest fires and fire fighting costs, was over six million dollars? Many fires were started by carelessness with camp fires.

The most effective way to teach boys and girls the right way to build and put out a camper's fire is to have them do it under competent adult supervision. Youth groups often give this instruction. But who is better equipped to help a child "learn by doing" than a parent? Here is one vital piece of training which fathers might well take over!

"A Camper's Fire" is a good topic for a family discussion, before setting out on a camping trip. In many areas a permit to build a fire must be obtained. The comments of the official responsible for this are often enlightening. They impress on a boy or girl that although cooking over a campfire is fun, and the warmth and light in the evening are enjoyable, yet fire can change from being a wonderful friend into a terrible foe.

A metal container for matches is essential, and a small piece of sandpaper can be glued inside the cover for striking ordinary matches. "Safety" matches in a booklet are also popular. But whatever kind is used, a camper must be sure that the match is completely out before throwing it away. It is a good idea to toss it into the fire. Take the extra precaution of breaking the match stick in two.

A campfire should be built whenever possible on sand or bare rock. It is very dangerous to kindle it on the forest's dead evergreen needles or leaf mould bed. When it must be built in the woods, the camper must prepare a suitable area by scraping away the needles, dead leaves and branches, right down to the under-lying soil. The site of the fire should be beside a lake or stream.

A fire must never by built under a tree, near shrubs or against a fallen log. Overhanging branches may easily catch fire. There is always danger of the camper having a much larger blaze than he can control. It is only a greenhorn who kindles a bonfire!

Before striking a match, do collect all the necessary wood, build the fire on the site keeping the extra wood supply a short distance away. A platform of small hardwood sticks as a fire base is worth laying for a lasting fire. When lighting, cup the hands around the match and ignite the tinder on the windward side so that the breeze will work with and not against the flames.

Dry leaves, pine needles or grass or weeds, make excellent tinder. Damp wood produces a smudge which mosquitoes detest but is no good for cooking. Small sticks of soft wood, frayed with a knife, catch easily. The pointed teepee shape is popular because it allows a draft to circulate. Often a log cabin of hardwood sticks is constructed around the teepee.

Take time to do a thorough job in putting out your fire. Scatter the embers with a green stick, turning them over in the process. Soak the area thoroughly with water, and add an extra pail for good measure. Poke the site again, just to make sure no live spark is lurking which might kindle another fire. If sand is nearby, pour some sand on the site. Don't take any foolish chances with your campfire!

For a buffet party, pack potato salad mixture into a ring mould, chill, then unmould onto a chop plate or platter. Fill the centre with colorful relishes — crisp radish roses, gherkins, olives, etc., and surround the ring with alternate slices of tomatoes and cucumbers. Garnish with sprigs of watercress or parsley.

Good news this week about more fire protection for national forests in the U.S. Eight Navy Avenger torpedo bombers (TBM-3's) have been transferred from the Navy to the Forest Service.

All but one plane will be used for fire fighting in the West, particularly out California way, where recent tests showed that showering of water or chemicals from "air tankers" helps bring forest fires under control.

The eighth plane will be used for research in forest insect spraying.

May seem kind'a strange but the best place to begin operations when planning a woodlot is in the air. Yessir, I said the air. It's the only way to see a woodlot in its entirety and all at one time.

'Course if you don't happen to own a helicopter best thing is an aerial map. You can buy an aerial survey map of your territory from the government.

Ask for the 40" by 40" photographic enlargement. That's big enough for you to see roads, buildings, fences and water features. Best thing to do is make a tracing of your property and use streams, roads and interior fences as boundaries for working units.

Splitting up your woodlot like that is useful 'cause of differences in soil and plant life that require different forestry methods.

TO FIGHT CUSTODY CASE IN SUPREME COURT

Determined to keep two-year-old Ricky, the son they adopted when he was six days old, Mr. and Mrs. Ray McNeilly of Toronto will take the case to the Supreme Court of Canada. The couple were stunned by the unanimous decision of the Ontario Court of Appeal that ruled that Ricky be returned to his mother, Helan Agar, a Canadian citizen now living in Minneapolis. Miss Agar, an unmarried mother renounced her claim to Ricky when he was a few days old and handed him over to the Victor home in Toronto, operated by the United Church of Canada. She now wants the child but the McNeillys claim she is "flamboyant and unstable" and not fit to care for the boy. The McNeillys are shown with Ricky and their natural son, John, five.

Convention of C.N.I.B. Representatives Appeals for "White Cane" Legislation

Legislation that would allow only persons with less than 10 percent normal vision to carry white canes in Quebec is being sought by the Quebec division of the Canadian Council of the Blind.

The proposed law would be similar to the White Cane Act as it is known in other provinces.

The council, meeting in its seventh annual convention in Brownsburg during the week-end, formed a committee to study the problem in co-operation with the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Various council members, all of them blind, stressed that "mis-use of the white cane could become a serious problem."

The convention also resolved to demand a "cost of blind allowance" on grounds that working blind persons automatically had higher expenses than persons with normal vision.

Another resolution proposed that provision of the Income Tax Act that allows the blind worker to deduct $500 to cover expenses should be extended to cover the blind housewife.

The convention noted an increased confidence in Quebec in the ability of blind children to compete with sighted persons. Credit was given to the Nabareth Institute, and a school for French-language blind children which has added a new wing and increased its music and library facilities.

Speakers noted that blind children of 14 and 11 years of age in Seven Islands had entered high school there and won higher averages than the majority of normal children.

The convention elected Marcel Lequin as chairman, and Lucy Senkevitz as vice-president, Miss D. Dufresne and E. Proulx, of Sherbrooke, A. Marion and J. Tremblay, of Montreal, and Monique Lefebvre, of Valleyfield, were named directors.

How to Live Through the Summer Advice Offered by Health League of Canada

When the warm rays of the summer finally break up the chill clouds of winter, we all heave a sigh of relief and dash out into the sunshine. A welcome escape from chills, colds, bronchitis, and all the ailments that come with winter weather, is at hand.

Unfortunately, in a lot of cases it's a matter of jumping from the frying pan into the fire. People who have been cooped up all winter staring out of their windows at snow banks or the television set and who have become flabby through lack of exercise, let out a whoop of joy at the first rays of sunshine, and blithely hack at the garden, or decide to put up a new garage or shingle the roof themselves. The sale of liniment soars, and the wail of ambulance sirens sounds from various parts of the city as people topple from roofs and ladders, or cut off fingers and toes with saws or little hatchets.

As spring progresses into the fullness of summer, rambles through the flowering woods bring back their toll of men, women, and children made miserable through poison ivy. As the ice recedes, and the ponds, lakes, and rivers are once again navigable and swimmable, tragedy occurs from Halifax to Vancouver. Little boys in particular, lead drowning statistics every year. They pole wobbly rafts out into the centre of ponds, and sink, or get into abandoned trunks on rivers, and sink from sight, out of reach of help; or they just go swimming, and don't come back. Tots wander down to the edges of the water and fall in. Adults aren't much brighter, and drown themselves by getting into the middle of a lake in a canoe, and standing up to change places, without being able to swim. They will dive into shallow water without first testing the depth, and break their necks, or get entangled in weeds or fishing nets on the bottom. They will swim straight for the setting sun, and not have enough strength to return to shore, or they will leap into icy water just after a meal on a blistering day, get cramps and drown.

Other families will head for country regions, drink some of that delicious country milk, neglecting to enquire as to whether or not it has been pasteurized, forgetting that that same country milk, if unpasturized, may carry the germs of bone tuberculosis, dysentry, undulant and typhoid fever.

Summer is full of those delightful potential death traps called the "long week-end". People anxious to get to their cottages quickly in order to get the most out of their holiday speed along the highways at a rate that they would never dream of going normally, take unnecessary risks, and go too fast on unfamiliar roads and shortcuts. Morning newspapers following every long week-end have to devote entire columns to list the dead and maimed, as if there were semi-weekly wars all through the summer

The Health League of Canada knowing that illness, crippling and death that come with summer can be avoided, issues its annual summer reminder to all Canadians.

First on the list of How to Live Through the Summer is the advice to take things easy at the start. Don't rush into the garden and try to do everything at once. Rome wasn't built in a day, and building a garage or making a rockery in a day may end by keeping you flat on your back for the rest of the summer. Do a bit at a time until your muscles get accustomed to the exercise, and employ safety rules when climbing ladders, using power saws or other building tools.

Car Authority Offers Advice on Keeping Car Protected Year-Round

Windsor, Ont. May 31 — What do you keep in your garage? Do you use it as a storehouse in which you keep everything from the lawn mower to that horrible picture of Aunt Sadie?

A leading Canadian automobile service authority points out that the garage was built to house your car and, for the sake of the car, should be used for that purpose.

"Tests have shown," states J. A. Dykes, director of service for Chrysler of Canada, "that being left outdoors in all weather conditions seriously shortens the life span of the finish on your car.

"Indeed," he continues, "tests conducted by leading paint manufacturers show that the most harmful weather condition to automobile finish is the heavy dew that falls on a car during the night."

Dykes points out that there are a few simple "Do's" and "Don'ts" in the care of auto finish that will greatly increase the life span of that finish.

Do not wash a car while it is standing in the hot sun, or immediately after it has been moved out of the sun.

Do not use extremely hot water.

Do not use harsh detergents or cleaning materials on the finish. This includes many of the household detergents commonly used for this purpose.

Do not use detergents or waxes of any kind on the finish of a new car until the paint has had an opportunity to "cure". This takes approximately three months.

Do wash your car in the shade drying it thoroughly before exposing it to the sun.

Do wash frequently, more often in the winter than in summer, using plenty of water so as to avoid all possible abrasive action on the paint.

Do use a soft sponge and gentle pressure to remove the dirt. If, over a period of time, the finish seems to lack lustre, clean it thoroughly with a mild auto detergent.

Dykes suggested that a process known as porcenalizing will bring out the true beauty of the finish. In this process, no covering wax is applied to the finish, but rather a special water-thin liquid is used which seals the pores of the paint and provides an icy-smooth finish not unlike porcelain. Upkeep of this specially treated finish is reduced to a minimum. In many instances the car may be washed clean merely by spraying it with water.

Dykes also suggested that chrome surfaces should be kept clean, and during the winter months, should be protected by a special chrome wax.

VALOIS RE-ELECTED; GOVERNMENT DECIMATED

Beliveau Opens 132nd Exhibition Exhibits Promise Competitive Classes

The 132nd annual Lachute Spring Fair was officially opened last night at 7.45 p.m., when Montreal Canadiens hockey star Jean Beliveau cut the ribbon before a grandstand of interested spectators. Other notables on hand to attend the opening, were the Hon. Wm. Cottingham; Philippe Valois, M.P., both of whom addressed the gathering; Léopold Carrière, Mayor of Lachute, and M.C., President Erskine W. Rodgers, Manager Ken Riley and other directors, and local Molson's agent Leonard Bedard, through whom the officiating dignitary was obtained.

Immediately preceding the ceremonies a fine display was put on by the Lachute Battery, No. 131, 37th Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, and a volley was fired when the Fair was declared opened. A car parade took place in the afternoon, while various horse classes were judged at this time.

As usual there will be harness racing on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday afternoons, with three races being run each day.

Kings Shows will take over the Midway this year, which in the next couple of days will provide fun for the youngsters and many of the older patrons. Music for the Grandstand audience is being supplied by Roland Roy at the Hammond Organ.

Mornings and afternoons will be filled with judging of sheep, swine, poultry, handicraft, cattle and heavy horses, while the evenings will primarily interest lovers of light horse competition. This year's judge for the Horse Show is Dr. W. F. Watson. Saturday morning is an important time for the young people, as the 4-H Calf Club judging takes place at 10 a.m.

Similar to other years the Argenteuil Anti-Tuberculosis League has their free X-Ray clinic equipment on hand in the main building; it will be in operation from 1 to 11 p.m. daily except on Saturday when it will close up at 5 p.m.

The Lachute Lions Club is again sponsoring a car raffle, and the Knights of Columbus are holding a boat raffle, both drawings will take place Saturday afternoon. The refreshments stand is being occupied by the Farm Forum group.

The Women's Institute is displaying a creditable exhibit in the upper floor of the Main Building, which opened to the public late yesterday afternoon. Among items judged in the various classes are aprons (Fancy, Kitchen, and Mother and Daughter), men's socks, mitts, pillow-cases, dish towels, scarves and quilts.

General Council Business Discussed Promote Police Constable to Sergeant And Hire Special for Summer Months

The request for the construction of a sewer, 456 feet in length, presented by Gordon P. Cruise, and the question of a construction permit to Bill White, both were brought before the attention of the Municipal Council, when the monthly meeting was held last Wednesday evening, presided over by Mayor Léopold Carrière; aldermen Ross Muir and Dr. Roger Lavigne were absent.

Marcel Therrien, who last Wednesday was promoted to Sergeant on the Lachute Police Force.

Gordon Cruise, in asking for the construction of a 456 foot sewer, introduced a plan to the councillors which took in a part of Fern Street and Cruise Blvd., to the St. Jerusalem limits. Taking this question into consideration the Mayor declared that the municipality actually had not the necessary finances to undertake this work which would necessitate a loan; the matter was tabled.

The question of the construction of a house by Bill White, presented by the chairman of the Roads Committee was also raised; the Mayor stated that the establishment of a zoning regulation is urgently needed in this town. The house will be constructed on Francis Street, while Mr. White must cede to the town a land lease of four feet for a sidewalk.

Police Committee chairman Mozart Carrière suggested that the municipality employ a special constable in the person of Gilles Poirier for the summer months, to receive a salary of $25 per week. He plans to work Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights to the end of the first week in September. In moving this proposition, which was seconded by Ald. Lepage, Ald. Carrière stated that the budget permits the hiring of a man on partial time.

The Mayor discussed a letter received from Hon. Cottingham concerning a cheque for the amount of $1,232.14 from the Dept. of Public Works representing a grant of 50% for the services of the local Fire Department.

It was proposed that a letter of thanks be sent to Mr. Cottingham and also to the Hon. Romeo Lorrain, Minister of Public Works for the Province of Quebec.

It was moved that W. L. Dawson, president, Lucien Lacoste, and Gaetan Blais, be appointed evaluators for the role of revision of evaluation; these men have already accepted the municipal offer at a salary of $1.75 per hour.

A re-adjustment of municipal employees salaries, which has taken place will cost the town approximately $300 more per month. Constable Marcel Therrien was promoted to the rank of Sergeant, with an increase of salary. A construction permit was granted to Alcide Paul for a house on West Main Street.

Monthly accounts reaching the sum of $12,351.75 were accepted for payment under a motion by Ald. Desjardins, and seconded by Ald. Dr. J. R. Dorion.

Latour Makes Close Bid As Liberal Vote Split

Philippe Valois, who Monday was re-elected to the House of Commons.

John Diefenbaker, P.C., leader, who is expected to head the government.

Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, whose Liberal party lost considerable ground in the elections.

Philippe Valois, Liberal M.P. for Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes, was on Monday elected to the House of Commons for his third successive term, compiling a much reduced majority of 1,173 as compared to his 7,521 vote majority polled over Linton Armstrong in the 1953 Federal contest. Runner-up in the local contest was J. Octave Latour, the Progressive Conservative candidate, with the two Liberal candidates, Antoine Paré and Mrs. Ethel M. McGibbon, both losing their $200 deposits.

Slightly in excess of 83 percent of the eligible voters in the constituency exercised their franchise and poll trouble was reported at being at a minimum although several serious complaints were heard. It was reported that one Argenteuil poll had a ballot facsimille marked for one of the candidates placed in the polling booth and a Deputy Returning Officer in the St. Eustache area reportedly sold a book of 25 ballots. Various reports of telegraphing were also recorded with Returning Officer Valois.

Preliminary statistics compiled with the co-operation of District Returning Officer Notary Richard Valois give the following results for each of the two counties in the local constituency.

MAJORITY VALOIS — 1,173

First results of the local contest were phoned into Returning Officer Valois within ten minutes of the 7 p.m. Monday closing of the polls and at first indicated a lead for Mr. Latour, the P.C. candidate. By 7.30, however, the sitting member slowly edged into the lead and from 7.50, held a slim but comfortable majority which built up as the returns came in. Due to a misunderstanding on the part of some of the Deputy Returning Officers, final figures were not received until late Tuesday night.

Representatives of the various candidates were on hand at the Returning Officers' headquarters and the election was unofficially conceded shortly before 9 p.m. Mr. Latour, however, refused to give up hope until all but the final poll report has been received.

Press coverage for the local papers as well as the Canadian Press and British United Press news agencies, who had local representatives on the scene, was considerably improved over the 1953 system due to Returning Officer Valois' efficient system and staff.

A girl and adding machine was set aside for the compiling of each candidate's votes and total returns to date were made available at a moments notice.

The election scene across the country did not finish in the same manner as the local constituency, however, with latest figures showing the Progressive Conservatives having the majority of seats for any single party, although they did not rack up enough wins to give them a working majority in parliament. Nine members of Prime Minister St. Laurent's cabinet were defeated in their own ridings, although Mr. St. Laurent, as the majority of Province of Quebec Liberal candidates, had comfortable majorities.

The present question is who will be the next Prime Minister of Canada, as according to tradition, Prime Minister St. Laurent does not have to resign even though the Liberals do not have the majority of seats. Conferences are underway at the present and it is expected Governor General Vincent Massey will be called upon to choose P.C. Leader John Diefenbaker to form a government.

Council Forms Special Safety Comm. Mayor Declares Safety Week Effective In Lachute District Asks For Support

The provincial campaign for Road Safety, which will be held throughout the Province of Quebec from June 14-23, was echoed at the last town meeting when Mayor Léopold Carrière reported that a Safety Committe composed of the Mayor, Chief of Police, Aldermen Carrière, Desjardins, and Muir, has been formed.

The Mayor's proclamation is as follows:

WHEREAS safety on Public Roads poses a problem which is of great importance to authorities and to members of the community at this time;

WHEREAS the loss of life during the first holiday week-ends of the summer season have increased in an alarming manner;

WHEREAS the statistics prove clearly that accidents on the roads are, for the most part, caused by human failures: unobservance of signs and regulations, doubly dangerous by the lack of precaution and impatience (curbs, ditches, etc.);

WHEREAS a number of road tragedies can be reduced considerably by adopting this motto devised by the Provincial Security Road Committee: "If you want to live, slow up";

WHEREAS the success of this crusade against accidents depends on the public support which is the principal beneficiary;

CONSEQUENTLY, as Mayor of Lachute, I proclaim that Safety Week of June 14-23 be enforced, and I appeal to all citizens, pedestrians and drivers, to remain constantly on the alert, and to aid the Provincial Security Roads Committee and their local counterpart in their efforts to terminate tragic accidents.

Home and School Association Planned for Lachute District

For several months, individuals in Lachute and vicinity have been quietly planning the formation of a Home and School Association for the Lachute region. The value of such an organization has been fully realized in communities from coast to coast in Canada, and in many Quebec localities, notably the neighboring community of Brownsburg.

A step nearer the formation will be a meeting of all interested persons in Lachute High School, on Thursday evening, June 27, at 8 p.m. The president of the Quebec Provincial Home and School Association, Mrs. C. E. Wollgar, who was elected in May, will be the guest speaker, and her knowledge and experience will be of inestimable value to local planners of this organization.

A cordial invitation is extended to any interested person to attend this meeting, especially parents, teachers, or retired teachers.

A.A.A. Exhibit By Janine Leroux Opens Sunday

Another attraction for local art lovers is announced for the coming two weeks with an exhibition of works by Janine Leroux, to be opened Sunday from 5 to 7 p.m. and remain on view (Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays, 3 to 5 p.m.) until June 30.

This exhibition is the second of the season sponsored by the Argenteuil Art Association, to be held in the yacht club quarters of St. Andrews Country Club — an ideal spot as to premises and surroundings, with the countryside now at its best.

With examples of engraving, sculpture and oil painting, Miss Leroux will exhibit other techniques of her craft. She will personally welcome all guests to the "vernissage" this Sunday evening.

Janine Leroux, it is recalled, found her avocation during a siege of illness some years ago at her home in St. Philippe. With help from the Lions Club and the Knights of Columbus to bolster her meagre finances, and with an overwhelming desire to succeed, she pursued a lengthy course at l'Ecole des Beaux Arts in Montreal. On her graduation, recognizing a debt to her community, she chose to return to Lachute, where she has since conducted juvenile and adult classes. Part of her time she teaches art to school classes in Montreal, and last year conducted a summer course at Sudbury, to which she is returning later this month.

In addition to several exhibitions in Lachute, Miss Leroux has already held two successful exhibits in Montreal this season — at the Gesu Hall and at Ars Classica, 1454 Sherbrooke Street West. Her enthusiasm is infectious, and apart from the interest of her coming exhibition, art students and A.A.A. members will gain much from the influence of her personality. The general public are cordially invited to visit this show.

(Contributors to the Spring Exhibition whose works have not been called for at the clubhouse by this date, may reclaim their pictures at the residence of Mr. Percy Hall, near the Anglican Church in St. Andrews East.)

Dr. FitzGerald Appointed Lions District Governor

Dr. F. Walter FitzGerald

The appointment of Dr. F. W. FitzGerald as Lions District Governor for District A-8 was confirmed at the District Convention held recently in Peterborough, Ont.

Dr. FitzGerald has been an active worker in the local Lions Club for many years. He is a past-president, director, and chairman of the Easter Seals campaign since its sponsorship by the Lions Club in Lachute.

In public affairs he has also played an active part, having served as Mayor of Lachute for the past two-year term; chairman of the Protestant School Board for six years; vice-chairman of the Central School Board; chairman of Red Cross Blood Donor committee, and other past offices.

In the professional field, Dr. FitzGerald has served for 10 years on the national council of the Canadian Medical Association, and is president-elect of that Association — an honor of high national distinction.

Lions Club Events Car Drawing and 'Rigolade' Program

At the regular Lions Club meeting on Tuesday, a fine report on the District Convention at Peterborough was given by Keith Clark, secretary. The local club was represented by President Jos. Dumais and Secretary Clark as delegates to this convention.

A highlight of the report was the official confirmation of Lion Dr. F. W. FitzGerald's appointment as District Governor for the ensuing year. Dr. FitzGerald, a past-president and valued member of the Lachute club, received warm acclaim on the honor accorded to him.

It was a fitting gesture that the District Governor-elect was called upon to present 100 percent attendance buttons. No fewer than 36 members were in line for this recognition.

Col. Ernest Emmett, committeeman on the annual car raffle, gave his report and urged all members to speed the sale of tickets as the drawing approaches this Saturday.

A big fund-raising feature of the near future is "La Rigolade" program, billed for the Brownsburg Arena on June 27. With the collaboration of the Lions Club and the company's district agent, Leonard Bedard, Molson's TV showman Denis Drouin, is staging this spectacular contest here, with prizes for patrons and contestants totalling $4,000 in value. The Lions Club announces three attractive door prizes, namely, a refrigerator, an electric range and a television set. Many merchants and business firms are co-operating. Others who may wish to contribute prizes are asked to contact President Jos. Dumais or Committeman Gérard Lefebvre. It is expected the seating of the Arena will be a sell-out, and it is recommended that the public procure their tickets early.

Lion Phil Tremblay gave a report on the recent "Survivor's Night", enjoyed by the clubmen and their lady guests.

There was a good attendance at this meeting, despite warm weather. The assembly was held as usual at the Legion Hall under presidency of Jos. Dumais — whose favored theme, the future community arena, gave impetus to the more practical considerations of the club.

Mrs. Charles Bedard, Licence Registrar for this district, reports that the Provincial Drivers Test will be in Lachute on Friday, June 28, in the vicinity of the Town Hall, when the tests commence at 9 o'clock. Aspiring drivers will be required to take a three part test which consists of a written paper, a physical testing reflexes, eyes, and nerves, and the actual driving test. A person's own or family car may definitely be used.

Ch. of Commerce Plans Meeting Next Tuesday

The Directors of the Chamber of Commerce have scheduled a general meeting of the members and general public.

This meeting will be in the form of a buffet supper to be held at the Legion Hall this coming Tuesday, June 18 at 6.30 p.m.

The municipal council has been invited to attend to hear a talk on the subject of our waterworks system as it exists.

Regular business will also be discussed and transacted.

Teen-Agers Committee Cancel Dance this Friday

At last Thursday night's meeting of the teen-agers at the Legion Hall, the following executive was chosen: Marc Belanger, as president; Marge Walker, as vice-president; Eileen Dwyer, as treasurer; and Janet Marshall, as secretary.

The representative committee of young people then decided that jeans and boots will not be accepted as suitable wearing apparel for any of the functions and agreed that boys and girls 13 years of age will be permitted to attend the Friday night dances.

At the meeting an entertainment committee was formed, while monitors were appointed to supervise the dances. It was also decided that tomorrow night's dance be cancelled due to examinations and the Lachute Spring Fair.

Police Chief Presents Report of Activities

The monthly report of the Lachute Police Department, given at the June meeting of the Municipal Council, indicates that during the month of May, 119 service calls were answered, 13 accidents were investigated, six Social Service enquiries were made, and 29 persons were detained for protection. Three persons were arrested, six traffic cases were brought before the court, and 28 traffic tickets were issued.

The six cases before the court for speeding infractions indicates that the Police Department has intensified its campaign against speeding and other infractions of By-Law 182 of this town. Three other more serious cases have been turned over to the provincial authorities for prosecution under the Criminal Code.

The Police Department has also begun a safety and educational campaign for cyclists, by distributing pamphlets and instructing on the maintenance, operation, and equipment of bicycles.

Prov'l Police Investigate Series of Accidents

Three juveniles were detained by local Provincial Police early Monday morning after one of the youths lost control of a stolen station wagon he was driving at the four corners, about four miles south of Lachute on the Montreal Highway. Traffic Officer Legault investigated.

Three hit and run accidents occurred over the week-end involving the following persons: Earl Cook, of Lachute, was hit at Dalesville at 10 p.m. Saturday, causing approximately $100 damage to the left front fender; Alphonse Lamontagne of Hawkesbury was struck by a car at 1 a.m. on Sunday with $150 damage resulting, also to the left front fender; and Fernand Roger, of Montreal, was hit on Friday on Route 41 causing $150 damage.

The objective of the campaign is $750,000 which is to be used to build and repair five different projects of the Bishop.

The quantity of stuffing to prepare for a whole fish depends somewhat on the shape of the fish and whether or not the backbone has been removed. A general rule of thumb is to allow 1 cup of stuffing for each pound of fish.

Navy Petty Officer From Lachute Goes Sailing With Crew

P/O Bruce I. Hewitt

Modern ships haven't dimmed the sailor's love of sailing, and recently seven crew members from HMCS Micmac (destroyer escort) set out to prove it.

The Micmac was at anchor in Great Courtland Bay, near the southern tip of Tobago, British West Indies, during a spring training cruise, when several petty officers in the ship hatched a plan to sail by 27-foot whaler to the next stop — Grenada — 76 miles distant.

The crew consisted of Lieutenant Trevor S. Hayward, of Halifax; Commissioned Gunner Norman B. Pakenham, of Alberni, B.C., and Halifax; Midshipman Patrick D. Crofton, of Ganges, Salt Spring Island, B.C.; and Petty Officers Bruce I. Hewitt, of Lachute, Frederick G. McBride, of Digby, N.S.; Ronald W. Moll, of Toronto and Leonard Rinder, of Toronto.

With Lt. Hayward navigating, they slipped from the Micmac at about noon and shaped course for St. Georges, Grenada.

Favored by the North East Trade winds, constant at that time of year, they faced into an eight-foot swell and choppy seas at an estimated speed of six knots. By late in the afternoon they were still on the starboard tack and were settling down for a damp night in the cramped boat.

Sunset and dark came rapidly at 6.45 p.m. Suddenly at 7.30 p.m. a light was sighted and the loneliness of the night was somewhat dispelled. However, it turned out to be a light from a fairly large ship which soon hauled away to port and disappeared over the horizon. Sleep was almost impossible because of the several gallons of water sloshing over floor boards of the boat.

At 11.40 p.m .a steady white light was sighted, then another and then a group of them. This was Grenada's south-west tip apd the 76 miles had been covered in exactly 12 hours. Setting a course parallel to the shoreline, they ran along the coast until first light, since they deemed it unwise to enter St. Georges in darkness.

During the night, time dragged slowly and frequent rain squalls drenched them to the skin and blotted out the shore lights.

It was with some relief that the men secured alongside the harbour seawall in the early morning and walked in the morning sun to dry out their clothing. Then, after a walk around town and a cup of coffee, they again manned their whaler and set sail to meet the Micmacs as she steamed to anchor off St. Georges at 9.30 a.m.

Greeted by cries of "Well done", they discovered they had taken much less time crossing tfrom Tobago to Grenada than the civilian sailing craft that regularly ply the route.

Among the outstanding R.O.P. records made in May by Quebec Ayrshire cows was that of Willowhaugh Willa, a "Good Plus" cow, who produced 10,920 pounds of milk, 481 pounds of fat, testing 4.40%. This leading senior four-year-old producer is owned by J. H. Black, of Lachute, a long-time breeder of Ayrshires and an Honorary Life Member of the Ayrshire Breeders' Association of Canada.

Bomb Lachute for Water Safety Week

Lachute, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Ste. Agathe and St. Jerome will be among areas "bombed" with thousands of bilingual leaflets containing the do's and don'ts of water safety this Saturday; prior to the opening of the Red Cross National Water Safety Week, June 16-22.

Hockey star, Jean Beliveau, will be at Cartierville airport to wish godspeed to pilot George Murphy, who will be flying an aircraft donated by Laurentide Aviation Limited, for the occasion.

In each centre scheduled for the "bombing" the chief of police has granted (with few exceptions) permission for the dropping of the pamphlets.

In case of bad weather the four-passenger plane will take off on Sunday.

C-I-L Employees Offered New Group Insurance Plan Becomes Effective July 1

Montreal — More than 7,000 employees of Canadian Industries Limited across Canada will be offered a new group life insurance plan, according to a company announcement recently. In addition, the C-I-L non-contributory pension plan will be altered so that the minimum pension paid to employees with 20 or more years of service will be raised to $100 per month.

The new group insurance plan will go into effect on July 1 of this year providing it is accepted by 75 percent of the company's employees. Individual canvass at C-I-L plants, sales offices and warehouses from coast to coast will begin immediately and will be completed before the end of May.

Designed to C-I-L specifications, the new insurance plan will provide employees who have three or more months of service with an opportunity to purchase insurance equal to twice their annual salary or wages at low group rates without a medical examination. Premiums will be payable on a monthly wage deduction basis.

The increase in the minimum pension paid to 20-year employees under the pension plan will also go into effect on July 1. For employees retiring with the required pensionable service of 15 years, but with less than 20 years, the minimum retirement pension will be increased to $5 per month for each year of service.

In addition to the proposed new insurance plan, an existing non-contributory life insurance plan, designed to meet immediate expenses resulting from an employee's death, will also remain in effect.

Route 8 Car Crash Injures 5 Persons

A two car collision occurred last Saturday at 8.30 a.m. on Route 8, a short distance from Calumet, when Philip Bates, 32, of Kilmar, crashed into a car driven by Mrs. Cecile Raymond, 37, of Lachute; reason for the accident was given as a blowout of the left front tire of the Bates' car.

All passengers were victims of various injuries, including the two drivers; Mrs. P. Bates, 30; and Mr. and Mrs. Emile Bergeron, of Papineauville. They were taken to the Smith Clinic in Hawkesbury for treatment and later released.

There was considerable damage to the cars; Det. Paul Perry investigated.

Worse Than Dieppe

BETWEEN 3,000 AND 4,000 Canadians will be killed on the nation's highways this year — a greater number than were slain in that bloody rehearsal for invasion at Dieppe just 15 years ago.

Dieppe was war. As such, it can be explained in terms of sheer military necessity, particularly in the light of the lessons learned from it. But there is nothing necessary or unavoidable about these 1957 highway fatalities, and for that reason they are the more terrible.

A recent newspaper correspondent suggested that alarm on this score is perhaps overdone. There were, he pointed out, road accidents even in the days when a man's fastest means of transportation was his horse, and he went on to cite several personages who died as a result of falling from, or being thrown by, their trusty steed.

What he appeared to overlook, however, was that the big differences between the oldtime horseman and the modern motorists in the matter of liability to accidents are not merely ones of speed and greater traffic, but also of power to kill or maim quite innocent people.

The horseman of yesteryear was invariably the only victim of the accident in which he was involved. This is far from being true today when the weight of responsibility upon the motorist for the safety of others as well as himself is so much greater.

It is no answer, either, to say that there will be accidents as long as human beings are imperfect. The situation is getting far too serious to be so casually dismissed. Most tragic aspect of the whole business is that more than 90 percent of all road accidents involve drivers who are quite unimpaired and therefore presumably capable of sane judgment.

No doubt we can improve the regulations governing the use of our highways, just as we can improve the highways themselves to make them better able to cope with increasing traffic. More stringent enforcement of the law and heavier penalties for serious violations may be a further aid in reducing this dreadful toll.

But human agency — the man behind the wheel — will still be the decisive factor. He alone determines whether or not his automobile is to be transformed into a harbinger of death, a doom-laden chariot on four wheels, a lethal juggernaut carrying all before it.

A Law on Trial

THE LORD'S DAY ACT, no less than Toronto newspapers, other communication services, and employees of each, will be on trial in the prosecutions launched by The Hon. Kelsô Roberts, Ontario's Attorney-General.

It is axiomatic in politico-legal circles that the surest way to have a bad or unpopular law repealed is to enforce it. If the Lord's Day Act is found in the test to be too restrictive, this could be the end of it in its present form.

Bumper Year

THERE'S NOT MUCH DOUBT that 1957 is going to be the biggest immigration year in over 40 years.

1913 holds the record with over 400,000 new arrivals. We aren't going to do that well this year but we certainly seem certain of hitting upwards of a quarter-of-a-million — at least 50,000 more than in the post-war "peak" year of 1951.

This is good, good news, and together with natural increase could take our total population beyond the 17-million mark by the end of the year. If this keeps up, the Gordon Commission forecast of 26½-million Canadians by 1980 is going to seem small beer indeed!

Of course, absorbing 250,000 newcomers in a single year isn't going to be all smooth sailing. But we can absorb them; we do need them — just as we needed and have absorbed the more than one-and-a-quarter million who have settled in Canada in the last 10 years. And mark this, 99 percent of those who came have stayed — even if, to begin with, it wasn't always easy for them.

Will anyone say they have not contributed substantially to Canada's rising living standards?

That every New Canadian has to be found a job is a fallacy, one which accounts for much of that resentment to which a tiny minority of native-born Canadians sometimes give expression. Of course, it isn't so.

Not much more than half of all post-war immigrants have actually been seeking employment. The others are their dependents. For every new worker, therefore, the country has gained an additional consumer.

All of these New Canadians have bought — and continue to buy — all manner of things from houses and automobiles, to furniture and appliances. Not to mention the day-to-day necessities of life, and the savings they have invested.

The third or fourth generation Canadian who short-sightedly resents the immigrant should think of what this has meant in terms of his country's prosperity and expansion!

Cows Are Big Business

CANADA'S DAIRY industry plans to thump its own drum with an intensive, nation-wide sales drive and campaign emphasizing the size and economic importance of the industry.

Canadian dairymen have something to be proud of. They are part of a $1,000,000,000 industry in a nation of increasing population and rising income levels. And in foodstuffs, Canada supplies most of its own needs.

Canadians are the fifth largest consumers of dairy products in the world. The National Dairy Council estimates that last year each Canadian ate about 20 pounds of butter, drank 322 pints of milk and cream and consumed 6.4 pounds of cheese and 16.5 pints of ice cream.

Nearly half of the 15,000,000,000 pounds of milk farmers sold last year went to make butter. Dairymen expect butter will have added sales appeal now that the health department has tagged butter as an excellent source of Vitamin A.

During the last five years, dairymen have found that stepped-up sales promotion has paid off in sales increases for every major dairy product.

And dairymen realize the business boom didn't come — and might not increase in size — without public prodding.

That's why the dairy council estimates processors and distributors will spend more than $5,000,000 this year in various types of advertising and sales promotion activities.

Butter and milk, cheese and ice cream, things that every Canadian consumes, are big business. Official statistics show for instance that total milk production in 1954 was valued at $498,000,000, against $410,000,000 in 1950.

In addition, the creamery output, factory cheese production, concentrated milk products and ice cream all depend on the dairy industry. As a sample of the diversified output, concentrated milk production alone yields evaporated milk, condensed milk, whole-milk powder and other whole-milk products. And by-products of concentrated milk include condensed skim milk, skim milk powder, condensed buttermilk, buttermilk powder and casein.

Fate of Citizens

FATE IN STORE for citizens who allow government to assume too many of their responsibilities and, consequently, to undertake to plan their affairs, is told in incident reported from Felixstowe, England.

A Felixstowe resident, Mr. E. V. Raphael, wanted to paint his newly-built house green. Paint job was half-finished when he was told by Felixstowe planning committee of a by-law that required all newly-built houses to be painted cream. To comply with the by-law, Mr. Raphael must cover up all green paint with cream paint. Having done so, he will have complied with the by-law, and will then be free, if he wishes, to start all over again and paint his house green.

Something Lagneappe

A BABY has been known to laugh, even in these times, for no apparent reason. A dog will sometimes waggle his tail harder, with more evidence of joy than the circumstances warrant. There are recorded instances of three-year-old children having climbed on adult laps and distributed free hugs and kisses.

These wonderful occurences are relics of the ancient tradition of giving something for the lagniappe. The baker's dozen is a casualty in this age of negotiated inflation. If anybody is asked to walk the second mile he wants time and a half for it. Only dogs and very young humans remain happily old-fashioned.

Lachute C. of C. Civic Improvement Committee Presents Recommendations to Executive Board

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Committee for Civic Improvement for the Lachute Chamber of Commerce, comprising Donat Saulnier, Pharmacist; Gaetan Leclair, merchant; André Lefebvre, of J. W. Lefebvre Ltd.; and Phil Tremblay, of Dansereau Stores, recently presented a report to the Chamber executive committee, which was accepted and endorsed by all present. The report consists of numerous suggestions with the intention of enlightening the population on certain questions that, if resolved, will be to the advantage of citizens in Greater Lachute.

Here then is a translation of the text of the report:

We would first warn against a retrogressive attitude that exists in certain quarters — we would add however, that this psychology has not been in evidence in our municipal council; to the contrary. But there does exist a backward line of thought which contends that a municipality can only improve its services to the extent it can immediately pay for, by raising its revenues. Yet this is quite contrary to business principles; today it is recognized practice for any progressive concern to improve its standards by means of long-term borrowing — by loans which, generally speaking, are easily repaid through increased sales and greater profits. From all appearances, the same principle should apply to any forward-looking municipality.

So, do we wish to endow greater Lachute with new industries — to boost the prosperity of our people and thereby increase their earning power? . . . If so, let us step out and offer our present industries, and prospective new ones ,all the services which other progressive centres have to offer. The future belongs to those with courage and initiative!

Your committee believes it is urgent that serious consideration be given to these few suggestions, submitted to the Chamber of Commerce directorate. . . Please be assured, at this point, that any constructive criticism on our ideas will be welcomed and appreciated. The members of this committee lay no claim to supernatural genius; they have outlined these views in all sincerity, and with such insight and experience as they possess.

Furthermore, if certain inaccuracies appear in this report, or if any should suffer personal offence from our remarks — we humbly apologize,, and beg that our views be considered in the same spirit as they are given, namely, with the prime desire that all citizens of Lachute may enjoy the privileges of pleasant, righteous and prosperous living.

I — TRADE AND COMMERCE

In order that outside capital should not step in and grab the cream of our business, it is imperative that our merchants, business men, manufacturers and citizens do everything possible to give Greater Lachute these amenities to be found in every large and modern centre:

Adequate and satisfactory civic services; the aspect of a modern shopping centre; easy access for the motoring public; well lighted streets; convenient parking areas; modernization of fronts, facades, and interiors of certain stores — and, needless to say, good courteous service both to tourists and resident customers.

As regards store modernization, it may interest you that one firm situated in what we call our Main Business Section, thanks to the modernization of its establishment netted a 30 percent increase in business within the first few weeks of opening its new premises. This striking increase is attributable to the fact that shoppers are showing preference more and more for clean, attractive stores staffed by alert and courteous personnel.

The merchants and manufacturers, our "big" taxpayers, are also privileged to seek direct co-operation of their municipal councillors to attain these ends. And logically, such co-operation must work two ways — inasmuch as the mayor and council, who give voluntary effort to the town welfare and administration (Heaven knows, it is sometimes a thankless job) must receive from the Chamber of Commerce and the citizenry the same support which we expect from them. In short, the population must display a greater interest in public affairs.

Let us consider for a moment the case of certain towns where outside capital (exemplified in the so-called Shopping Centre) has grasped the major portion of business. This has developed, needless to say, at the expense of the local retailers, who have persevered and achieved through tireless efforts, a legitimate standing in the business of their community. It will be most regrettable if these home-town pioneers suffer a drastic loss of business and are threatened with possible bankruptcy. Yet this condition exists in many centres — through lack of foresight, gentlemen, on the part of business men and the City Fathers.

Let us beware this does not happen in Lachute, where we have our own Shopping Centre, operated by our own merchants. All we need now is — modernization.

In the light of these facts, and viewing the urgent indications of this trend, here are our recommendations:

TRAFFIC

(a) Main Street

Without a doubt our traffic and parking system calls for improvement. The centre of Main Street along its entire length should be limited to 90-minute parking during business hours. Parking parallel to sidewalks should be restricted to a uniform 30-minute limit from Bethany Street to Barron's Bridge. This requires not only the erection of signs, but, more important, police enforcement of the regulations.

(b) Berry Street

A sign to prohibit parking on the south side of Berry Street would facilitate traffic movements and prevent accidents. Also, left turns from this same street at the corner of Barron should be prohibited.

Nor should parking be tolerated within 25 feet of any intersection.

(c) Millway at Main and Princess Streets

Position of the traffic lights at these two intersections should be changed so that they are visible at all times, especially when they are in the line of direct sunlight.

It is also urged that these two lights be synchronized so as to prevent further "bottleneck" in heavy periods.

A traffic light is needed also at the Bethany and Main intersection with a special arrow for motorists approaching from St. Jerome and intending to turn left. This suggestion might be studied by the police department.

(d) Chatham Street

A no-parking regulation should apply on the south side of this thoroughfare.

(e) Autobus Service

It is recommended that local bus stops be designated at street intersections, where no parking is permitted whatever; or at vacant lots, so that storekeepers situated at the present bus stops will be relieved of this inconvenience.

Moreover, bus drivers should be forbidden to halt at their designated stops longer than is necessary to take on or discharge their passengers.

(f) Speed

A change is needed in speed regulations so that a uniform limit prevails — say 30 m.p.h., instead of 20 on some streets and 30 on others. All traffic laws should be enforced. Motorists violating these rules should be subject to rigorous application of the law, and the fine provided in each case should be levied without fail. . . Let's be drastic with the speed maniacs.

It would be wise, incidentally, to educate certain drivers, young and old, to cede the right of way to emergency services such as fire, police, and ambulance, also to physicians when answering accident calls.

Emphasize to young motorists, particularly, that pedestrians also have a right of way at street intersections. We need more courtesy and civic spirit.

ROADS AND PUBLIC WORKS

(a) Main Street

New paving of this street, in its entirety, is an urgent need. Cost of repair would, we believe, be the responsibility of the Provincial Government, since the street is part of the Montreal - Hull national highway.

(b) Street Paving

We believe it would be opportune to undertake the paving of residential streets.

(c) Street Cleaning

The town should procure a spray-truck to keep our streets clean in summer. Wind and rain, after all, cannot do this job effectively.

(d) Sidewalks

More efficient machinery should be employed to remove snow from the sidewalks in winter. Moreover, the sand used on slippery surfaces should be selected to ensure minimum content of soil, which is destructive when tracked into carpets and linoleums.

EDUCATION

(a) Technical School

Right-thinking citizens will support our school commissioners and authorities in their efforts to have a Technical School established in Lachute. By this means we could provide skilled labor for our industries. Also, a means of future livelihood, at little cost, for the youngsters of our less fortunate families.

(b) Recreation and Playgrounds

Give our children, both the youngsters and adolescents, a safe and wholesome outlet for recreation. Lachute has a deplorable lack of social organizations for this purpose. In conjunction with the schools and churches, our Chamber of Commerce must arouse public opinion on this subject. Let us remember that idleness breeds many vices. A good citizen is a valuable asset to the community. . . In this matter we owe recognition to the Lions Club for their fine initiative in promoting a community arena project.

(c) Exodus from School

Organize a group of adult "brigadiers" or patrols ,to assist school pupils in crossing busy streets on their exit from classes.

(d) Movies

Request those concerned, to rigidly respect the law forbidding the admission of children under 16 to cinemas.

(e) Curfew

Since this law is on the statutes, our police department should see that it is observed.

(f) National Highway

Signs should be strategically placed in the surrounding districts to direct motorists towards Lachute. For example, at the Grenville - Hawkesbury bridge, on the outskirts of St. Jerome, etc. The Tourist Bureau might be approached on this suggestion.

Incidentally, the paving of certain highways might induce neighboring residents to purchase their supplies in Lachute, instead of going to St. Jerome.

LARGE-SCALE IMPROVEMENTS

(a) Financing

Your committee expresses its conclusion that the Corporation of the Town of Lachute could, and should, borrow money on long-term repayment — since the capital projects which we suggest hereunder would obviously require considerable expenditure:

(b) Waterworks

In collaboration with our town administration, the Chamber of Commerce could study possibilities of modernizing the waterworks system and installing a filtration plant. No one enjoys taking a bath in water that is discolored and, at certain seasons, almost muddy in color. Elementary hygiene calls for pure, clean water. And if our yellowish water supply, through ample dosage of chlorine, may be safe from bacteria — it is still nevertheless unpleasant to use. Addition of a filtration unit, plus more adequate mains, is most urgent if we hope to attract new industries. As we know, some industries employ chemical processes which require strictly pure water.

The town of Ste. Therese, as an example, has realized all these needs and now has some sizeable manufactures within its limits.

It would be unfair at this point to overlook some of the constructive steps latterly taken by our Council. For instance, we now have new and effective sewer-cleaning machinery. And we have garbage disposal to conform with the most up-to-date health standards; even in Montreal there are still garbage units which do not fill these requirements.

(c) Valuation Roll

We are well aware that a new property evaluation roll should be adopted, since our municipal administration can only operate insofar as it has sufficient revenues for current needs. To ensure a satisfactory establishment of this roll, our evaluators require to be (1) experts in this particular job; (2) outsiders, that is, non-residents; (3) persons recognized for their impartiality. The cost of such a survey would be repaid by the end of the first fiscal year — that is, if we are to believe the finance authorities of the City of Montreal — through added taxes resulting from a more equitable assessment based on true value.

(d) Lighting

Revamping of our street-lighting would certainly be no unneeded luxury. We suggest that Main Street calls for the first steps in improvement, to create an impression more fitting to a Modern Shopping Centre.

We understand that the Northern Electric Company is prepared to draw up plans for a new, ultra-modern lighting system, without cost. Gatineau Power Company could also be approached on this subject.

(e) Expropriation

We recommend the homologation of Main Street from Bellingham Street to Barron's Bridge, in order to avoid expropriation costs which later might be excessive, and also, of course, to preserve the width and uncongested aspect of this thoroughfare.

Consideration should also be given to the widening of Main Street east of Bethany to the town limits.

OTHER RECOMMENDATIONS

(a) Request the C.P.R. authorities to landscape or lay a grass-strip from Bethany along the freight yard property — as was done some years ago, to good effect.

(b) The Chamber of Commerce should delegate a few members to attend regular Council meetings, thus to support the aldermen in their exacting and sometimes unappreciated job.

(c) In view of the house-to-house mail delivery assured by our postal authorities in the near future, the public must be informed of their requirements, that they must install suitable mail boxes — without which, the couriers will be authorized to withhold delivery of mail.

(d) It would be desirable also that the town procure number plates for each property. These plates could be of baked enamel with white figures on blue background. Mr. André Lefebvre, our close collaborator, has undertaken to ask quotations from various companies for 1500 of these plates; this information will be transmitted to Town Council when required.

(e) For practical purposes, the numbering of street properties in Lachute should be undertaken in conjunction with Ayersville. In this way we would avoid having the same number twice on the same street, as presently exists in certain cases.

(f) Street names should be indicated by easily visable, uniform plates. These should be erected on posts, not attached to homes or fences where they are liable to be removed or painted over. These plates should be lettered in black on a white background.

(g) "Welcome to Lachute" signboard. — In the interests of civic prestige this sign should be repainted. We suggest that the expense be borne by one of our service clubs, such as the Chamber of Commerce, Knights of Columbus, Lions or Richelieu.

(h) St. Jerusalem. — Annexation of the Parish to Lachute has been under frequent discussion. It would be advantageous to have an authority in such matters summarize the advantages and disadvantages of this move, for study by our Chamber.

(i) The Chamber of Commerce could offer its services to the Town Council, in the sounding of public opinion before embarking on any large-scale project.

We present, herewith, our brief on recommendations for Civic Improvements — as drawn up by this committee duly assembled for such purpose. It is understood these views and suggestions should be ratified within the Chamber of Commerce before being submitted to other groups or bodies concerned.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

When this man opened the door of his brand-new car to get out, a strange thing happened. The motor started by itself.

Scratching his head, he closed the door. The engine stopped. He turned the key, and a few moments later the radio started playing. He pressed the starter, and the dome light went on.

The car-owner began to think he had wandered into a Mack Sennett or Danny Kaye comedy.

He tested the other controls of his haunted car. Everything worked backwards. When he fiddled with the electric cigarette lighter, the headlights went on. When he turned on the light switch, the horn blew.

Our man sat back and took a deep breath. "Maybe I just don't live right," he said.

There he was, stranded in a gleaming new, fully automatic 1957 car which seemed to be possessed by gremlins. What next?

He didn't want to open the door again, because the door was apparently hooked to the starter. And the starter had taken enough beating already.

So he opened the window, climbed out and walked away, looking at the car over his shoulder as if he expected it to follow him.

Needing time to think this thing through, he did some shopping, returned and climbed back in the window.

He tried the controls again. Same result. So he started the engine by switching on the dome light, and drove to the garage which had sold him the car.

The people at the garage didn't believe him at first. (Neither did I, until I did some checking). But the man gave proof by running through the whole set of mixed signals.

A mechanic opened up the electrical system, and found the trouble. Another garage hand, fixing a minor defect in the dome light, had crossed some wires.

The car has now rocovered from its nervous breakdown, and it runs perfectly. But the owner says that his faith in the machine age has been gravely shaken.

Teatime Topics

Written Specially for The Lachute Watchman

By Mary Burke, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Want to be beautiful? Here are some tried rules for achieving that morning glory look:

Drink five tall glasses of water a day, starting off with a glass of hot water into which the juice of half a lemon is squeezed.

A daily walk; a three-mile hike is recommended on occasion.

Watch your diet — eat meals with high protein content; include fruits and vegetables.

Adequate sleep.

Exercise — one indoor exercise before bedtime would be to lie on your bed with hips and legs higher than your head for 15 minutes.

Also, shun alcohol.

Cotton Fashion

Featuring the latest in make-it-yourself designs, Helen Landon, a willowy blonde from Tennessee who bears the title "Maid of Cotton", was in Montreal to model an eye-catching wardrobe.

In an all-cotton fashion show, Helen showed the latest designs stitched up in the newest cotton fabrics.

Her five outfits ranged from a coat to separate blouse and skirt combinations now proving so popular. In separates, she chose a gray print for a sleeveless blouse and matching bouffant skirt.

For afternoon wear Helen appeared in voile — a cotton sheer in mauve. For the street, it was a boxey suit.

At 20, Helen is on leave of absence from the University of Tennessee, where she is a junior. Since she was chosen "Maid of Cotton" last year she has been touring the United States and Canada. In July, she visits Europe. I'm having the time of my life, even if it means hard work," she says.

Constant Shortage

Girls wanting to get married should become airline stewardesses, E. R. Pellant, personnel supervisor of Canadian Pacific Airlines, said at Vancouver.

CPA employs 90 stewardesses on overseas and domestic flights, "but we lose about 40 girls a year, mostly to handsome bachelors," he says. "You place a girl specially picked for attractiveness and personality in a position where she is constantly meeting eligible males, and the result is matrimony.

"This is why the CPA and many other airlines . . . always have a definite shortage of stewardesses."

Quick Meal

Here's a menu for the busy housewife that's quick to assemble for spur-of-the-moment picnic.

For a substantial main course serve a baked bean and nut salad with hard-cooked eggs or meat.

Bring along apple juice, radishes, green onions, pickles and greens. Top the meal off with fresh strawberries dipped in sugar and cookies.

Home economists say the chilled apple juice keeps the other food in the picnic basket cool and fresh. Greens will stay crisp in plastic bags. The salad and washed strawberries can also be packed in plastic containers.

Local W. Institute Hold June Meeting Member Gives Talk

The regular monthly meeting of the Lachute Branch of the Women's Institute held in the Legion Hall was well attended.

Convener of Education, Mrs. A. W. Ponder, took as her topic "Romance in the Grenadines", giving a very interesting account of her recent tour to the Windward Islands. Her visit included Grenada, St. Vincent, The Grenadines and her stay at Bequia at a hotel on the bay, with accommodation of only 12 people, lacking television or radio, and where sheep, goats, donkies and chickens are allowed to graze on the lawn.

Mrs. Ponder spoke of the simple life of the inhabitants of this small island, whose livelihood depends on fishing and the building of boats the most primitive methods still being used.

A picturesque account was given on fishing and the great excitement shown by the natives when a whale appeared in the bay and when a fisherman 95 years old attempted to catch the whale.

Mrs. Ponder also told of the colorful carnival held on Shrove Tuesday, it's costumes and dances.

Mrs. J. A. Gordon moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Ponder.

Members are reminded that the next meeting will be in September, also that the library will be open on two days — July 18 and August 15 from 3 to 4 p.m.

Distinguished Fan Tan Dinner Rolls Remain In Style; Simple Recipe

In the fashion world the folding fan has come and gone since it was invented in Japan around 670 A.D. But in the food world it's a different story . . . only one fan has distinguished itself and it has never gone out of fashion since. It is the Fan Tan, that elegant version of a dinner roll that is made in such a way that it is possible to peel off buttery layers of fluffy, downy roll, one by one. The instructions for making this recipe for Fan Tans are so easy to follow that even the cook who has never before baked with yeast will have no difficulty making this delightful version of the dinner roll. It's such an easy way to give an elegant touch to party menus. These delicious dinner rolls with the thin, tender, crisp crust and the moist, fluffy texture are a delightful accompaniment to a luncheon salad or for that matter to the eggs that are served at breakfast. Like most rolls they're at their best served warm or re-heated.

FAN TANS

Yield — 2 dozen rolls

1 Cup milk, ¼ cup granulated sugar, 2½ teaspoons salt, 4½ tablespoons shortening, ½ cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon granulated sugar, 1 envelope active dry yeast, 4 cups (about) once-sifted all-purpose flour, ¼ cup butter or margarine, melted.

Scald milk; stir in the ¼ cup sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm. Meantime, measure lukewarm water into a large mixing bowl; stir in the 1 teaspoon sugar. Sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture and 2 cups of the flour; beat until smooth.

Stir in sufficient additional flour to make a soft dough — about 2 cups more. Turn out on floured board or canvas and knead until smooth. Place in greased bowl; grease top. Cover. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 1 hour.

Punch down dough. Turn out on lightly-floured board or canvas and knead until smooth. Divide dough into 3 equal portions and shape each portion into a smooth ball. Cover with a tea towel and let rest 15 minutes. Roll out one ball of dough into a 9 x 12-inch rectangle and brush with ½ of the melted butter or margarine. Cut dough lengthwise into 6 strips 1½ inches wide. Pile strips one on top of the other. Cut into eight 1½-inch lengths. Place each pile of dough in a greased muffin pan, a cut side up. Repeat with remaining 2 balls of dough. Grease tops. Cover and let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 45 minutes.

Bake in a hot oven (400°F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane

Women's Travel Authority

Much of your success as a driver depends on your attitudes. Emotional instability or maladjustment of any kind can seriously affect your driving ability, according to studies by Drs. Leon Brody and Herbert J. Stack of the Center for Safety Education, New York University.

For more than 20 years, psychologists have been studying the driver's habits — what causes him to court accidents, pay heavy fines, disregard simple courtesy for a fellow driver. They have come to the conclusion that the difference between a good and bad driver is not necessarily knowledge or skill but psychological traits called attitudes.

Attitudes have to do with the application of knowledge and skill. For example, how many times have you seen an impatient driver try to pass another on a curve? He probably knows very well why such an action is dangerous or unlawful. Yet, his attitude at the time makes him risk his life, violate the law.

Poor attitudes are manifested in many ways. Scientific studies show that drivers with bad records are apt to be aggressive or intolerant of others. They tend to resent authority and are inclined to have an exaggerated opinion of their importance and abilities. Many times they act impetuously and lack responsibility. Such attitudes are known to be caused by some basic fault in the individual's personality or by maladjustment as a result of unhappiness at the home, at work or in his relations with other people.

On the other hand, good attitudes on the road are generally shown by persons who are more than just safe drivers. Studies show that they are probably both good workers and citizens. Such good attitudes, however, may temporarily disappear. A so-called model driver may suddenly become preoccupied with a personal problem and forget his usual road habits. The studies also show that if a driver with good attitudes is subjected to continuing mental or emotional strain, he is apt to become a chronic violator.

C.N.I.B. Advisory Board Holds Regular Meeting Plan Montreal Eye Clinic

A meeting of the Argenteuil Advisory Board of the C.N.I.B. was held at the district office in Lachute on May 14 and was chaired by president of the Argenteuil White Cane Club, Tony Zaplaski.

Important matters arising included a discussion of the Provincial Eye Clinic, which had been promised for Lachute this spring and which has now been postponed until August at the earliest, even though there are now 200 cases awaiting examination, of which 18 are critical.

It was pointed out that the need for eye clinics in this province are great, especially in remote areas, as yet only two travelling units exist.

It was proposed at the meeting that arrangements be made to take the 18 urgent cases to Montreal for examination; Mr. Zaplaski will arrange appointments for examination, transportation, and assistance for glasses if required, if voluntary transportation cannot be obtained, a bus will be chartered. A total expense not exceeding $15. is expected.

Information was presented on the operation and status of the Eye Bank; it was stressed that not only the cornea but other sections of the eye are valuable for surgical purposes; 75% of the cornea transplant operations are now successful.

The Field Secretary Report included the following statement:

"Since the last meeting the progress of the district has not been as great as in the past. This is due to the general work which takes place annually at this time at the head office. However, the program for the oncoming months will be greater, as a full time schedule is being organized." The report included the following: Morin Heights and Huberdeau's campaigns have been postponed; one successful operation was performed at the Maisonneuve Hospital in Montreal; the Provincial Convention of the CCB was held in Brownsburg from May 24 to 26; and 18 cases have been contacted in this county by the Field Secretary, thus receiving assistance.

The meeting was then adjourned and a tentative date of July 9 was set for the next meeting of the Advisory Board.

For good-tasting salads use tart dressings with bland foods, mild dressings with full-flavored foods and make salad dressings at home for individuality that contributes much to salad making. With the three basic ones, French dressing, mayonnaise and cooked salad dressing in the refrigerator, you can make any salad a success. For dressing recipes with variations write to the information Service, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa and ask for the folder "SALADS".

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Nursery Schools

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

What about Nursery Schools? Every little while they make the headlines when people who know about a good Nursery School denounce it as a "parking place" for children of "lazy" mothers — mothers who might even go to a movie free from their parental cares! They close their minds to the very real values of a good Nursery School run on educational lines.

But in spite of their detractors, nursery schools are proving to be no "frill" but of definite worth in our modern world. They meet a recognized need in the social development of small children who should have the chance to work and play with others their age. They provide a variety of experience under training leadership which it is extremely difficult for the average mother to give. In a home where a mother must be employed, a Nursery School is of great service to a pre-school child.

A visitor to a Nursery School may observe children doing simple hand work, playing in a happy, co-operative way, singing, listening to a story, or acting in a play. The children are learning the "give and take" with others which is the basis of friendship and which is harder to master at an older age.

The goal of a nursery school is not "intellectual" learning in terms of preparing a child for the skills and accumulation of facts in the public school curriculum. The teachers are not trying to train a child so that he is prepared for reading or writing or numbers — because the child is not "ready" for this.

In the nursery school routine many a child is introduced to impersonal discipline, which he follows, partly because it is what the other children are doing. He takes his first steps in self-discipline in a group his own age — and the acceptance of responsibility for his own actions. The lack of these very qualities of character ten years later in many adolescents explains much of the underlying reason for the magnitude of the present juvenile delinquency problem.

There was not the same necessity for nursery schools for children of one or two generations ago who grew up in friendly, small town communities where large families were the rule rather than the exception. How lonely an only child or a child with no brother or sister near his own age can be today! No matter how loving a parent may be, no matter how much time a devoted mother may give to her child, it is not the same as playmates his own age. Little children crave the companionship a nursery school provides. It meets a positive need in the lives of most youngsters in our modern world. In his own age group he learns both self-reliance and consideration for others, as well as control of anger and facing fear.

The number of women who were needed in industry in war time forced the governments in many countries to study the pioneer nursery schools and the educational principles which should govern the grouping of small children together for day time care. One of the most important things which happened in connection with Day Centres for Working Mothers was the work in parent education.

Specialists in this field are agreed that any good nursery school is concerned with the enrichment of family life as well as the healthy development of the child. The nursery school never is and never intends to be a substitute for a mother's care or a father's direction to his child's growth; but a good nursery school can help parents who are eager for assistance in the most important work in all the world — the training of little children so that they will grow toward happy, healthy, useful maturity.

Odds 'n Ends

A recent arrival at the spool counter is sewing thread of "Terylene". It is exceedingly strong, does not shrink, and at the same time has the advantage of stretching very little. (If a thread stretches like elastic as it passes through the needle, it springs back to its original length as soon as tension is released, making an ugly puckered seam.) When sewing with "Terylene" thread, use the same sewing machine tension as used for cotton.

Before even taking the lid off a paint can, read the directions on the label carefully. Follow instructions explicitly for best results. Always stir the paint thoroughly and pour it from one can to another several times to mix pigments perfectly. An occasional stir during the painting session maintains its even consistency.

Every Night is Concert Night at Laurentian Otter Lake Music Centre

Every night is concert night at the Laurentian Otter Lake Music Centre, Weir, where a large number of fine artists will perform each evening during this summer's session which will last from June 30 to July 21. Already many music lovers, students and musicians from all over the continent have registered for the three week music making holiday. They will participate in music activities each morning at Round Lake Inn, Weir, where, in the large concert room, recitals will be given each evening by guest and resident artists, as well as by the members themselves.

During the first week, the Montreal String Quartet, one of Canada's finest chamber groups, will be in residence, and each evening there will be concerts by the group or by its members: Hyman Bress and Mildred Goodman, violinists; Otto Joachim, violist; and Walter Joachim, 'cellist. John Newmark, the well-known concert and radio artist, will also perform, as well as Jan Simons, the young Canadian baritone whose recitals in England, Germany and Holland have met with great success in the past season.

Artists in the second week will include Arthur Garami, violinist; Charles Reiner, pianist; Dorothy Begin, 'cellist, who has just been awarded the Premier Prix of the Quebec Provincial Conservatory; William Stevens, pianist; and Mario Duschenes, flutist and recorder player, who is Canada's leading authority and teacher of the recorder, and who is just now making recordings of fine works for this instrument in Paris with Jean-Pierre Rampal, the noted French flutist.

Guest artists in the third week will include Jacques Labrecque, noted folk lore singer, Robert Fleming, pianist and composer, who is Director of Music for the National Film Board, the Lapenson Quartet, the Morton-Masters piano duettists and the CBC's Petit Ensemble Vocal with Josephe Colle, soprano, Marcelle Dumotet, contralto, Paul-Emile Smith, tenor, Claude Letourneau, bass, and George Little.

In all, a series of eighteen concerts will be offered to members of the Centre who will be participating in a wide range of musical activities including choral music, chamber music, recorder playing, lieder and madrigal singing, composition, choral conducting, school music and folk dancing. In addition, there will be classes in French and English conversation.

The new policy of resident artists has been introduced this summer by Carl Little, Director of the Otter Lake Music Festivals, in order that the members of the Centre may become acquainted with the finest music in live performances, and may learn more of music through personal contact and discussions with the musicians themselves.

Information concerning the Centre may be obtained from the Secretariat, at Box 195, Outremont, Que.

Examinations

Sal, our teenage daughter, looked out at the sunshine and sighed, "Gee, I'll be glad when examinations are over and I can be out all the time."

Her Pop, who had vague memories of making similar complaints in the long ago, responded, "Honey, examinations are never over."

I tried, then, to get across to her and to Bill the challenging fact we must all learn.

Life conducts examinations every minute of our lives, and marks our papers with impersonal justice.

When young, we drift through life, unaware of the constant exams and the handing out of marks. But we are being marked, then, as always, with ruthless justice. In later years, child-like still, we sometimes try to forget that we are daily writing our own examination papers. We try, foolishly, to put the blame for results on some unknown "they" or far-off "it" when a low mark comes our way. But deep in our hearts, we all know whether we did our studying the solid, steady way or tried merely to "cram", in the odd moment, or to trust to luck for the answers.

Being afraid to recognize that life is a daily examination is foolish. The fear does us no good, merely makes us poor performers. There is more joy in recognizing that life is a challenging test, and doing our best to get high marks.

And high marks are not, after all, too difficult to win. It takes very little more energy to win than it does to think up alibis for failure.

I'm not sure I put the lesson across. Perhaps it is too much to expect teenagers to understand, when so many of us adults failed to do so.

We've tried to turn over to governments a vast number of matters which should be our own responsibility. We've often traded some of our freedom for what we thought would be more security against the challenge of life. We've asked governments to legislate our morality, develop our culture (as if anyone can do our reading for us!), and spend our money.

But life, like a firm schoolmaster, will not let us escape in that way. We are marked, in the end, for our own individual performance, for our own mistakes and our own decisions.

But it can be fun, this challenge. When life writes OK on your examination paper, there's no feeling of joy to match your satisfaction. And since we're all being marked, whether we like it or not, why not roll up our sleeves and try for honors?

Crew Demolishes Baseball Stadium

Amateur baseball players regard this photo with sadness, for it seems to indicate the end of this sport in Lachute. Those who hoped to see this sport reborn, resign themselves to the inevitable. Here nothing will remain of what was once the stadium, and only the hillock and the beaten track of the diamond will indicate that Lachute once participated in the Laurentian Baseball League, winning the cup in 1954.

It reminds us of the glorious days and enthusiastic hours!

It reminds us also of the grim days and the sombre hours!

It reminds us of the excited and sympathetic crowds, then also the indifferent and disinterested crowds.

It had also the spark which faithfully lived in the midst of adversity, then the supporters who slowly abandoned it during the moments when it needed encouragement the most!

Today scarcely anyone remembers that it exists.

Tomorrow it will be completely forgotten by and ignored by the younger generation.

Readers will without a doubt easily realize that the Baseball Park is being discussed, which was the principal town attraction for four years and which now is falling under the hammer and axe of demolishers.

Indeed, l'Association de la Jeunesse Sportive de Lachute (The Young Sportsmen Association), of which J. René Laurin is president, had sold it to Philippe Masson, who has resold it to Gaston Ledoux with the order to destroy it.

The wood has been bought by Denis St. Jacques, who plans to use it in the construction of a camp at St. Placide, while the remaining bits will be used in various ways.

Constructed in 1950 for the Lachute Tigers team, the Baseball Park remembers the glorious years of 1953-54 when the local club captured the Ubald Rose Trophy of the Laurentian League under Captain Gerry Cotnoir. In 1952 an electric light system permitted night games.

Readers who have followed the Tigers games and events remember without a doubt these players who performed on the local club, which include Luciano, Stan Breard, Bud Kimball, Eddie Yeager, Jacques Plante, Len Hooker, Paules, Fred Hourbeau, Walter Hardy, Roche, Hadlock, Halpin, Claude Groulx, Pete Taillefer, Haig, Ricciani, Bougie, Gohier, Dube, Ballou, Jenkins, Stobbs, Robitaille, Pearson, Barnes, Ouelette, Lesage, Trudel, the unforgettable Gerry Cotnoir, the "Fast Ball Bosser".

All these athletes contributed to the eventful moments in the local sport but gate receipts did not meet costs; then the team withdrew and the League, presided over by Dr. Alfred Cherrier, of St. Jerome, disintegrated.

Certain members of L'Association de la Jeunesse Sportive were devoted to the club's organization, investing a considerable amount of money.

Baseball being a sport subject to weather changes, help leaving the stands, and the players demanding respectable salaries — all this contributed to the withdrawal of the Tigers.

These words are written simply to mark the definite and irrevocable end of this sport.

Perhaps these gentlemen of the Association provided entertainment to the town's citizens for four years and strongly contributed to making the name of Lachute stand out in the sports world.

To those who have followed the activities and work of these men we thank you in the name of sports.

The era of baseball has left Lachute, but has left numerous wonderful memories.

Fire Leaves Three Families Homeless Would-be Rescuer Saved by Ladder

An early Wednesday morning fire gutted a large two-storey wooden frame building owned by Lucien Lacoste, of Lachute Mills, and occupied by three families, forcing several of the residents onto the street clad only in their night attire. The building, located at 190 Main Street, was valued in the vicinity of $6,000, is considered a loss and is partly covered by insurance.

The fire alarm was sounded at 6.55 a.m. Wednesday and moments later, the downstairs section of the building was a mass of flames, these quickly spreading throughout the greater part of the structure.

Forced out onto the street were the families of Mr. and Mrs. Romuald Durocher, living upstairs; Mr. and Mrs. Jean Guy Durocher and Mme Lucia Houle, both living downstairs. A fourth apartment was unoccupied at the time of the fire.

Romuald Durocher reportedly left the building five minutes prior to the out-break, leaving two children asleep, and reports he saw no sign of fire.

A Mr. Perriard scurried down a ladder set up by members of the fire department when he became trapped in the upstairs of the building. It is believed he entered the building to awaken the sleeping residents.

The fire is believed to have started in the downstairs vacant apartment, the cause having been declared faulty wiring. While a portion of the building is covered by insurance, only Romuald Durocher was covered for contents, the majority of which were destroyed in the blaze.

The fire, which spread throughout the building necessitating a portion of the roof being cut out, was fought by a large crew of the Lachute Fire Brigade headed by Chief Fernand Trépanier and ex-Chief Geo. Y. Deacon. The fire was brought under control about 20 minutes after the arrival of the crew and extinguished a short time later.

Mr. Lacoste reports that while his plans for the building are indefinite, he does not plan to repair the present damage.

Grenville Schools Obtain Prov'l Aid For Construction

The Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Minister of Mines, last week informed the Grenville Protestant School Board that a generous grant has been offered for the construction of a new school adjacent to the High School. Charles Boucher, secretary-treasurer of the Catholic School Board of Grenville, reports he recently received a letter also stating that a generous grant has been allowed for the construction of a new school of seven classrooms.

These subsidies have been granted by the Hon. Yves Prevost, Q.C., Secretary of the Province, on the recommendation of the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Member for Argenteuil.

Sketching Group

The Lachute - Brownsburg - St. Andrews sketching group of the Argenteuil Art Association will meet next week-end at the Carillon Museum grounds — either Saturday or Sunday, or both, as convenient to the individual members.

Over a dozen enthusiasts of this group spent a pleasant outing last Saturday at the St. Andrews Country Club.

Young Lady Artist Proves Specialist In Engraving

A display of 37 paintings and engravings by a well-known local artist, Janine Leroux, drew a disappointing attendance at its opening session last Sunday — but as the exhibition remains open until June 30 at the St. Andrews Country Club, it is anticipated many more art-lovers of the district will take occasion to view these works.

The pictures, displayed in the yacht club chalet at St. Andrews, form an art-appreciation feature under sponsorship of the Argenteuil Art Association. Miss Leroux reveals herself as a specialist in engraving; she is, in fact, one of the few women engravers among Canada's professional artists, and she displays as much facility in this medium as in the more conventional brush techniques.

Miss Leroux, who held two exhibitions in Montreal during the past winter season, received very favorable comment from the critics. It is most evident that her inborn talent has been developed by long study, practice and perseverance. Such determination to succeed deserves recognition from her fellow residents, and there is no doubt that public interest will well repay the effort exerted by this young artist in exhibiting her creations.

The yacht club chalet at St. Andrews will be open Saturdays, Sundays and Wednesdays from 2 to 5 p.m., and district art-lovers are cordially invited to attend.

Quebec H & S Pres. To Address Meeting Of Local Citizens

Mrs. C. E. Woolgar, of Rosemere, president of the Quebec Federation of Home & School Association, who will address the preparatory meeting of the proposed Home & School Association in the Lachute district on Thursday, June 27, 1957, at 8 p.m., in the Lachute High School.

Mrs. Woolgar has just returned from Vancouver where she represented Quebec at the National Convention of Home & School Associations. She strongly emphasizes the need for a better understanding between parents, teachers and pupils and stresses that this is one of the chief goals to be attained in a Home & School Association.

An invitation is extended to all parents, teachers and any persons who are interested in the formation of a local Home & School Association to attend the preparatory meeting next Thursday.

Letter Service Details Finalized Officials Clarify Delivery Areas

Residents Fined for Traffic Violations

Eight local residents last Tuesday appeared before Justice of the Peace Georges Brunelle and were sentenced to fines of $20 plus costs for various traffic violations, the majority being speeding within the limits of the Town of Lachute.

Charged by the local Police Department and convicted by Justice of the Peace Brunelle were Garry Beaven, William Stansfield, Richard Rocquebrune, Garnet Wood, Richard Bradford and George Crooks, all of Lachute and Gaetan Leveille and Gerald A. MacDonald, both of Brownsburg.

Several of those convicted were given time-payment terms, in default of which they will be sentenced to 15 days in St. Jerome jail.

Recent Inquest Results in Accidental Death Verdict

An inquest was held last Thursday concerning the death of Florence Pharand, 30, of Lachute, who died recently as a result of multiple injuries received in the May 5 head-on collision on Route 29 between St. Andrews East and St. Placide. Her death was declared accidental by a coroner's jury at the inquest held under District Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur.

Local Fishing Enthusiast Lands Large Grey Trout In Lake Louisa Outing

"Big Dan" Simmons, well-known local fisherman, on Wednesday evening of last week hooked and landed one of the largest "greys" reported having come out of Lake Louisa in many years.

Dan reports he was fishing in deep water when he caught what turned out to be a 31-in., ten pound 13½ ounce Grey or Lake trout. It took the local fisherman close to half an hour to boat the fish.

Contrary to the opinions of several local residents, Dan reported the fish was delicious.

Men Co-operate in Police Work; Result In Convictions

Co-operation of two Montfort citizens, Ronald Gariepy, 26, and Bernard Demerse, 42, aided local Traffic Officer Paul Perrier, in arresting three Montreal youths, who were last week charged with break-in and theft of three summer camps in Montfort.

In the process of stealing $75 worth of articles from the camps, one owned by R. Norris, of Montreal, while the other two were owned by the Lisbourg School, the vandals threw a considerable amount of furniture into the lake.

The youths pleaded guilty in court last Thursday and were sentenced to two years in St. Vincent de Paul Training School.

Applications for Letter Carriers Needed Before Tomorrow

As was first announced in our edition of March 7, the Post Office Department has decided to grant Letter Carrier Delivery Service to Lachute and surroundings, making this area the first to benefit from such a service in the federal electoral riding of Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes. It has been pointed out by local officials that numerous points must be considered before establishing a service of this kind and it is only after a careful study that the Post Office Department has favorably considered Letter Carrier Delivery Service for Lachute. In fact, according to basic requirements, a minimum of 2,500 doors must be served, and the Post Office concerned must have a minimum revenue of $50,000.

Although the area served by the Lachute Post Office did not quite meet with these requirements, the Department has considered that important housing developments in the neighborhood, which do not form part of the municipal boundaries, are nevertheless geographically speaking in the setting of day to day activities and that Letter Carrier Delivery Service could no longer be deferred for Lachute and the surrounding areas.

The Delivery Area

The Letter Carrier Delivery area will be: (1) all the territory within the limits of the Town of Lachute, that is to say, the area now served through the Lachute and Lachute Mills Post Offices. (2) The area comprised in the municipality of Ayersville. (3) The municipal boundaries of St. Jerusalem and Bethany Street, up to the golf course, Catherine and Mitchell Street, West of Bethany Street and Stuart Street, East of Bethany Street and as far as Fraser Street.

Persons residing in the above areas, but whose residences are situated at a distance from the regular housing developments, (40 yards and over) and who would be in doubt as to whether or not they are entitled to this new service, should call at the Lachute Post Office in order to get information as to the service they will receive following the establishment of door to door delivery by letter carriers.

Co-operation of the Public

Post Office regulations specify that Letter Carrier delivery service cannot be operated before at least 90% of homes are equipped with suitable letter slots or letter boxes.

Therefore, each person should make it his duty to see that a suitable slot is made in the front door or that a regular letter box is put up near his door.

It has been pointed out that local merchants have on hand not only metal letter boxes, but also regular letter slots with spring covers to place over the slot cut in the front door. As we indicated hereabove, this work should be done immediately, in order not to delay the establishment of door to door delivery of the mail.

Letter Carrier Staff

The Civil Service Commission of Canada who has jurisdiction in nominations of this nature, has already announced a competition to fill the Letter Carrier positions and notices have been put up at the Post Office. The applications according to the notice from the Commission must be posted not later than June 21.

After the closing of the competition, the Examiners will establish an eligible list of candidates to fill the present positions and future vacancies, taking into consideration the education of each applicant, his fitness, last record of work, reputation and honesty.

Persons who would be interested in this competition should fill in an application in compliance with the notice from the Commission. It should be said here that according to the law, the order of merit is subject to Veterans' Preference.

Inauguration of the Service

Although it is rather early to forecast the inauguration date of the new service, it has been brought to our attention that there will be a short official inaugural ceremony, which will be organized at a later date.

He received this appointment at the annual four day convention. Mr. McArthur has been a member of the Association for the 15 years of its existence and is one of the four members who has not missed a convention.

He has formerly been a member of the executive of the National Association and also has been a director of the Quebec Branch. Mr. McArthur returned to Lachute to join his father in the plumbing business in 1914, after spending some time at the Mount Royal Business College (now Sir George Williams College). He is a graduate of Lachute High School and Petit Seminaire in St. Therese.

Criminal Negligence Charge

George Richer, 40, of Montreal, was recently arrested and charged with criminal negligence when he allegedly rammed a car owned by Donat Quesnel, of Hawkesbury, causing $150 damage. According to police, he left the scene of the accident. The accident occurred on June 2 on Lachute's Main Street.

Car Transport in Accident With Passenger Car

An accident occurred last Saturday morning at 10 o'clock on Route 41 near the Bourbonnière camps, when a car driven by Paul Sedan, 52, of Verdun, crashed into the rear of an Oshawa-Charlton 5-ton transport vehicle, driven by William Dawnes, 39, of Coteau Landing. Other occupants of the car were Mrs. P. Sedan and her mother, Mrs. Mitchell, 73, also of Verdun.

Considerable damage resulted $600 to the car and $1200 to the trailer truck which was carrying three new-model cars. At the time of the crash, the back wheels were torn off the truck.

Traffic Officer Lawrence Cruise investigated.

Dog Show Draws Much Attention As Cattle and Other Fair Exhibits Vary

Attendance Reported Down; Increase in X-Rays Given

A good horse and livestock show was reported by spectators and exhibition officials at this year's Lachute Spring Fair, although threatening weather resulted in a marked decrease in attendance. Saturday brought out the greatest number of people with the innovation of a Dog Show acting as a drawing card — it created new interest and produced many favorable comments. Many breeds of dogs paraded before a well-filled grandstand for approximately two hours in the afternoon, including Cocker Spaniels, Golden Retrievers, Beagles, Fox Hounds, Collies, Kerry Blue Terriers, a Pomeranium, a Sporting Poodle, an Afghan Hound, and a number of mongrels. Local exhibitors in this show were Gerald Vary, of Brownsburg, C. H. Fortier, Mrs. Leonard Ayers, Jan MacKimmie, Paul Fournier, Antonio Scarborough, Marilyn McOuat, with her Boxer, Mrs. A. S. Cohill, George Leroux, and the Rev. Horace Baugh, of Morin Heights. An Afghan Hound, owned by Miss Elsus, of Montreal, won the Best Dog in the Show award. The judge was Napoleon Philion, of St. André d'Andréon.

Another Saturday attraction was the Square Dance Competition — two junior teams from Huntingdon danced against each other while the senior teams from Huntingdon and Brownsburg competed. The Brownsburg Smoothies, led by Kenneth Wilson, won the finals and were presented with a case of Fina Motor Oil, donated by Jim Duncan.

Law and order was provided by Col. E. Emmett's Frontiersmen (12 in number), and also by local and Provincial police.

Officials of the Provincial Health Unit which took free X-rays in the Main Building the four days of the Fair reported 858 persons had examinations — this is an increase of seven over last year's results.

The bleachers near the cattle barns were filled with interested spectators on Saturday morning for the Junior Judging and Calf Club classes, in which the young members of the 4-H Club showed their prize animals. Kiwanis prizes were presented to the youngsters who obtained the over-all highest percentages in the judging classes.

A special feature this year was the exhibition of three Brahmin cattle imported from California by Joseph Elie, of Montreal.

The Lachute Fire Department was called out for burning wires in the main building Thursday noon — however no damage resulted and the crew was not delayed.

An excellent display of student and women's handicrafts and cooking was on exhibit in the Main Building as well as Metal and Wood Handicraft shown by the boys of Lachute, Grenville and Brownsburg High Schools.

In the livestock section, although entries were down in Ayrshires, they showed a definite increase in the Holstein, Sheep, and Poultry classes.

The winner of the 1957 Plymouth car raffled by the Lachute Lions Club was Gaetan Filion of Hawkesbury. The winning ticket was drawn on Saturday afternoon. Another lucky winner at the Fair was André Angrignon, of St. Eustache, who held a ticket on the boat and motor being raffled by the local branch of the Knights of Columbus. Réal Lepine was presented with $200 for selling the winning ticket.

Lachute Battery In Action

Lachute Battery, No. 131, 37th Canadian Field Regiment, RCA, with Lieut. K. Dalrymple, training officer in charge of two guns and crews, fired a salute at the Lachute Fair Official Opening on Wednesday evening, when Canadiens hockey star Jean Beliveau cut the ribbon and declared the exhibition officially opened.

This was preceded by a gun demonstration, showing how a 25-pound gun is brought into action and put into firing position; the firing of these guns and demonstration, aided by signallers and other sections of the local battery, was carried out by local personnel, who during the winter undertook an extensive gun course which was given to train personnel for firing and maintenance of these guns. There are two 25-pounder guns and a tractor permanently held by the Lachute Battery, along with signal equipment and necessary components.

Among the officers from Montreal who visited Lachute to view 131 Battery in action was Lt.-Col. B. D. Baily, C.D., Officer Commanding Militia Artillery, Quebec Command, accompanied by his wife; Lt.-Col. D. B. Gibson, C.D., Commanding Officer of 37th Field Regiment, with his wife; 2 i/c Major J. H. Gordon, C.D.; and Major H. Stutt, C.D., Officer Commanding 131 Battery, all of whom expressed satisfaction on the good turnout of the local battery and firing of the salute.

'Rigolade' A Must For Fun-Lovers, At 'Burg Arena

Next Thursday will be a gala evening at the Brownsburg Arena, where Molson's will stage their popular TV "La Rigolade", with its ingenious and fun-provoking contests. This 2½-hour program is under Lions Club sponsorship, and proceeds will augment the community arena fund.

Lachute and local participants will be presented in this feature, which has already scored a hit in a score of towns outside the metropolis.

Denis Drouin is the well-known m.c. of this unique program, through which Molson's provide a pack of fun both for competitors and spectators, while financially assisting the sponsoring organization — in this case, Lachute Lions Club.

It is recommended that patrons procure their tickets early, as a large attendance is anticipated. Prizes to competitors and other lucky winners will total $4,000 — including a refrigerator, a range, and a TV set as door prizes offered by the Lions Club. Many stores and business firms have donated attractive prizes; others who may care to boost the effort in this way may kindly communicate with President Jos. Dumais or Committeeman Gérard Lefebvre.

Local Employment Figures Compare With Last Year

Latest information available denotes the fact that the employment situation compares favorably with the same date last year.

G. A. Downing, Manager of the Lachute office of the National Employment service advises us that men looking for work numbered 213 at the end of last week and that 119 women were also registered for employment. This office points out that it presently has openings for 50 persons of various skills and occupations.

With the end of the school term at hand many youngsters will terminate their studies and make themselves available on the labor market. Some will be seeking work only for the duration of the summer vacations and others will have decided not to return to their studies.

A recent survey conducted by the National Employment Service, on a nation wide scale, shows in a definite way that chances for employment are affected by lack of sufficient schooling.

The survey brought out the fact that a small percentage of those unemployed had higher education. Lack of education is closely associated to unemployment.

Youngsters contemplating entering the labor market would do wisely to consult a qualified employment counsellor to assist them choose the field in which they will have the most chances of succeeding. Too many persons realize late in life that their qualities were much more suitable to another career than the one in which they had devoted time and study for as much as half a lifetime. Our younger population is well equipped to obtain invaluable information regarding chances of employment and success in various types of careers.

The I.Q. and aptitude tests are generally reliable and one would be very unwise to act contrary to its recommendations except under very exceptional circumstances. These tests provide information conclusive to determining the field of work a person is most suited for. Authorities on the subject continue repeating to those embarking in careers that just because a young man's father was a successful lawyer does not mean that the son will be as successful. The same applies to doctors, engineers, salesmen, etc.

It is unfortunate that these same mistakes are being repeated every year. It has been admitted that some persons chose their profession merely by examining a list of professions and selecting one in which there was most demand on the part of industry. Maybe these people were successful in their work but they surely would have been wiser to obtain advice from an Employment Adviser who would have directed him toward the field in which, he was bound to succeed considering his aptitudes.

Advice for Planting Grass Results from Experiments From Agriculture Dept.

Native trees in the prairie region of Western Canada usually grow in "tight" clumps where undergrowth is sparse and contains little or no grass. Experience has also shown that if grass becomes established among windbreak trees, their growth is usually and quickly adversely affected. Every effort should, therefore, be made to prevent grass gaining a foothold among these trees, states John Walker, Canada Department of Agriculture, Forest Nursery Station, Indian Head, Saskatchewan.

Planters are also advised against sowing grass near or among their windbreak trees, otherwise, valuable, and often scarce, moisture, required for best growth of trees, will be intercepted and utilized by the grass roots before it reaches the tree roots. This also means that trees are deprived of nutrients which must first be dissolved in water before being absorbed by their roots.

Many planters, no doubt, consider planting grass as a means of preventing undesirable growth of weeds, of eliminating cultivation, or, perhaps, of obtaining a uniform soil cover.

The ideal pattern of maintenance and care of windbreak trees is to establish a natural forest floor among the trees, completely shaded by overhanging branches, and to provide needed moisture and plant food by keeping cultivated strips beyond and alongside the area covered by overhanging branches. A windbreak containing a few closely-planted trees and rows is visualized here.

Where the windbreak consists of widely-spaced, more or less individual rows of trees, the trees can be kept in vigorous growth, only by maintaining cultivated strips on each side of every row. Where low-cost facilities for irrigating the trees are available, the effect of grass will be less severe.

If there is serious erosion among trees on account of steep surface grade a grass cover may be necessary. Under such circumstances the importance of tree growth becomes secondary.

C-I-L Honors Employee in 50th Anniversary With Brownsburg Concern

Brownsburg — On Wednesday, June 5, a dinner was held in honor of Frank Hazel, gauge room standard specialist, to mark his completion of 50 years of service with C-I-L, as is reported in the current issue of "Contact", the company employees magazine.

The dinner was attended by 55 friends and fellow employees including two pensioners who reached the half century mark with the company — Bill Birch and Leonard Wilson. A review of Frank's service was made by L. C. Thompson, works manager, and a chime mantle clock from his fellow employees was presented to him.

Coming from England, Frank began work at Brownsburg in 1907 when he was 11 years old. His first job was wad greasing in the shot shell department.

In 1919, Frank became associated with the work which has occupied his interest ever since. This has been in the field of tool and gauge inspection. In 1931, Frank was appointed tool inspector and in 1950 he received his present title.

The fine tolerances involved in the manufacture of ammunition depend on the extensive use of gauges. Their reliability has been a main concern of Frank and the work he has carried on over the past half-century has helped to maintain the high quality of ammunition produced at the works.

Clean Up the Midway

A SOUR NOTE lingers with many Lachute Fair-goers who had anticipated a brief break from routine, but who received only a sorry jolt. Their recollection is one of being disgustingly gypped on the midway. It's the same story every time — not one but dozens, being bled by suave operators of those games of chance, who continue, year after year, in town after town, under the eyes of the police and (in the event of an argument, it would almost appear) condoned by them.

The element of "chance" is so slim as to be nil. The practiced manipulations of the operators are unnoticed by their victims, swept away by an equally practiced flow of oratory. One customer reports that in the twinkling of an eye he was mulcted of $50 in this manner. He remonstrated with the operators of the booth, with the midway manager, the Fair manager, and the police; and for warning other would-be customers, he himself incurred the threat of arrest. He was finally advised to "settle" for the lessee's "offer" and hold his peace, under the imminence of bodily harm from which, apparently, the police could assure him no safeguard.

Most people have to learn once. It is all right to argue that no mature adult should fall for this type of gyp-joint. But that argument does not hold good for our less-sophisticated youth, to whom the lure of easy wins and the line of "con man" are a completely new experience. These, at least, deserve protection from their own folly. Detectives are assigned to patrol the exhibitions and prevent such unpleasantness as was witnessed here last week. They are fully aware of what goes on; they know how it's done in these games of chance. Yet the scandal continues — in town after town, year after year, across the country. It is a farce to send police officers to maintain the peace, while the same authorities countenance all sorts of rackets contrary to the law.

Worst aspect of the case here mentioned is the fact that our complainant blames the management of the local Fair, and vows that he and his family will "never go to Lachute Fair again." This may not be logical — but if the impression is more widespread than among the few actual victims, then it is time the Fair management did something about it, in their own interests. And on the basis of hard-earned cash mulcted from the people of an industrious community, it certainly IS high time the management took notice.

If enough newspapers raise a protest — if enough exhibition towns get their back up — and if enough Fair directorates put teeth in their concessions to reject this type of amusement — then even the midway proprietors might get wise and confine their shows to more wholesome rides and attractions. . . The law authorities could save us that trouble (in Quebec it's the "provincials"), but failing their concern with the matter, we still have it in our power to rid ourselves of these parasites on human gullibility.

Happy Holidays

CANADA'S COUNTRYSIDE again beckons tired city dwellers. Thousands are busily scanning newspaper summer resort ads and thousands more are preparing to move to lakeside cottages for relaxation and enjoyment.

It's true that, by and large, the city guy gets a big kick out of life in the hustle and bustle of the crowded city, but springtime rarely fails to bring the urge to get away from it all.

He has forgotten the hazards that threaten summertime recreation in a rural setting. There is the lumpy cot that makes for anything but refreshing sleep, the pesky skeeters and black flies, a little three-leaf plant called poison ivy, and few have escaped the sunburn nightmare.

Every cottager tries to forget the little women's plaint that a kitchen sink looks the same wherever it may be. He makes a silent vow that week-end excursions to his restful half-acre by hordes of holiday-happy relatives will not be permitted. He thinks he dreamed about the bridge pest and the angler who was sure the big 'uns would only bite at sun-up.

To be sure, you can be certain of a good night's rest by taking a hammock along, there are pest repellents aplenty and you can always avoid the poison ivy — or so any outdoorsman will tell you. Sunburn? Well, the farmer about three rods down the road wears a straw hat — but not to keep the rain off.

A good supply of tranquillizing drugs may keep you and your family on an even keel when those week-end guests cut up. Other drugs, deftly administered, may keep the ardent fisherman abed until a reasonable hour. Just flunk a few bids and the bridge enthusiast won't bother you again.

Yes, the city man will heed the call of the wide open spaces. And it's just as sure that after a spell with the cows and the fish and the trees he'll long for the bright lights and the racket that makes the city what it is.

Water Safety Week

THIS IS NATIONAL Water Safety Week. It is a period planned by the Canadian Red Cross Society to bring to our attention the value of swimming and other summer sports and a word of warning of the many dangers that lurk in, near or on the water.

It is a week devoted to an ideal and a hope that sound advice and guidance will control and curtail Canada's dreadful drowning toll.

During our summer months this newspaper and those throughout Canada will carry headlines about the loss of life by drowning. The record is always a sorrowful one. The headlines represent a needless loss of life. They are the headlines we dislike printing because they are the background for obituaries of friends, neighbors and their families.

The tragedy of these accidents is never forgotten easily. Summer months are months of pleasure and a drowning casts a shadow that lingers for years.

In most cases, drownings are not mere accidents. They are the result of venturesome escapades coupled with an ignorance of water safety. Canada is blessed with thousands of lakes, rivers and streams. They are a setting of nature for enjoyment by Canadians of all ages, a mecca for pleasure during a delightful season.

This summer, we must be concerned about the rules of water safety. Basically, they are simple and practical. A knowledge of these rules and an understanding of their application will mean a happier and healthier summer for you and your family.

The outdoors is yours to enjoy. Enjoy living and swim safely.

Not So Funny

THE BIRD-BRAIN set is at it again. We mean those maladjusted crack-pots who love nothing so much as to indulge their perverted sense of humor at public expense every now and then.

They think it screamingly funny to send hastily-manned fire engines racing off to a non-existent fire. They split their sides laughing at the thought of police ambulances tearing along the highway to the scene of a fictitious accident. Real hilarious!

Right now, though, they are having themselves a whale of a time with a third variation on the hoax theme: Time Bomb Scares. Just as easy to carry out as the other ruses, these can usually be relied upon to produce even bigger dividends in protracted anxiety and disruption than the supposed fire or fake accident.

All you do is telephone the management of a factory, office building, movie theatre or what-have-you, and in tones of solemnity and urgency appropriate to the occasion "warn" of a time bomb concealed somewhere on the premises which will explode in an hour or two.

Your unfortunate victim will suspect a hoax, of course, but not daring to ignore the call "just in case" will summon the police, while you chortle at the thought of what's come. Get it?

The building will first be evacuated, then subjected to an intensive — but fruitless — search while you sit back somewhere and revel in the consternation and disruption which you've caused. Real witty, yes?

But does it never occur to them that their actions may well have more serious consequences one of these days?

Do they never pause to ask themselves whose will be the guilt if lives are lost in a real fire or genuine accident while the fire brigade or police are on some wild goose chase? Or if someone succumbs to a heart attack brought about by acute distress consequent upon a time bomb scare?

Too late then to mutter excuses about it only being "a joke" born of high spirits.

No, this is one kind of individual initiative we can do without. And the good citizen is he who aids in bringing to book those whose lives are so drab and otherwise lacking in excitement that they must have recourse to it.

MIDWAY TRAGEDY AT OUR LOCAL FAIR

"HEY RUBE! Get this local sucker out of here, he's cleaned!"

• Geoff's Journal •

"Further To My Letter . . ."

When last I wrote — back in the days when the tin gods of Liberalism were still enjoying their hour of glory — I presented you with a little article on Elvis Presley. If you'll bear with me a moment or two longer, I'll add to the story by relating the repercussions that article had hereabouts.

Tony Rice, the Westerner who teaches Current Events hereabouts quite extensively during this waning school year. Naturally, therefore, when his gaze fell upon Hart's analysis, he decided to mimeograph it and distribute same among his pupils. In fact, he went even farther than that and made a copy available to every Presley fan on the campus who could understand what Hart was saying.

"I wonder what the headmaster will have to say about this," Easton remarked as he watched Tony grind out the material. "He's quite a fan of Elvis' you know!"

"You're kidding!" Tony exploded. "Far from it. I'm deadly serious. I'll bet you hear more about this than you expect to."

"We'll see. We'll see!"

And we did. In jig time, too. The ink was hardly dry on the last copy when Tony broadcast the literature far and wide among the student body and ended up by leaving one in each of the staff mail boxes. "By my watch, it only took five minutes for the head to collect, read and detonate, and send for Tony Rice.

"Mr. Rice,' he began, "do you know anything about this article on Elvis Presley that's going around?'

"Yes, sir, I do. I made it available to my Current Events class."

"Your C.E. class only? I understand that nearly every boy in the school has one, as well as the staff."

"Anyone that wanted a copy got one," Tony said.

"But it's a terrible article. I've never read anything so disgusting in all my days. Certainly, it's not fit reading for boys in their teens."

Tony smiled at this announcement and proceeded to set the head on the right track regarding teen-age reading matter.

"I feel it's better that they should read Hart's analysis than some of the pronographic stuff I've removed from their young clutches this year, sir. I've kept most of them. May I get them for you?"

"No. That's beside the point."

The headmaster picked up his copy of article and then returned to Tony.

"You say," he continued, "that you made Elvis Presley the subject of some of your Current Events classes? Why, may I ask, did you allow your students to abandon their studies of Russia and the like? That's what they should have been dealing with; not rock and roll artists."

"I dealt with Presley, sir, because he is one of the greatest social problems alive today. And, as we all know, every boy in this school — bar a few with some shreds of decency left — is completely under the spell of Presley. I felt that they deserved to know the truth about their idol."

The head threw the offensive article on his desk and fixed Rice with a beady eye.

"Well," he concluded, "all I can say is that if you are so desperately concerned with the morals of this school, perhaps you will be kind enough to discuss them with me before you do anything on your own."

As Tony related the events that transpired in the head's office, it was plain to see that the head was upset about the affair.

"All shook up" shall we say?

Who was known as the "grasshopper" governor?

Alexander McDonell gained the nickname of the "grasshopper" governor because during his regime as governor of Assiniboia, 1818 to 1822, the colony was plagued with swarms of grasshoppers. He had been sheriff of the Red River Colony from 1815 to 1816, before assuming governorship of the colony. He was appointed governor upon becoming Lord Selkirk's agent.

Who was the Apostle to the Micmacs?

Pierre Maillard came to Ile Royale — now Cape Breton — in 1735. For more than 25 years he ministered to the Indians in the northern part of Nova Scotia and in Prince Edward Island. He was deported after the fall of Louisbourg in 1745, but returned in 1746 to Acadia, where he was active in the events preceding the Expulsion of Acadia's French population.

Who founded the famous Montreal Repertory Theatre?

The Montreal Repertory Theatre was made one of the most important and successful amateur theatrical groups in Canada by the distinguished amateur actress and producer, Marguerite Martha Allan. Her memory is honored by means of the Martha Allan Trophy, which is awarded for the best visual presentation at the annual Western Quebec Regional Drama Festival. She scored as both actress and producer and one of her plays, "All of a Summer's Day", won the Sir Barry Jackson trophy in the Dominion Drama Festival. In 1935 she received the Canadian Drama Award for "outstanding service in the development of Canadian theatre". She was born at Montreal in 1895 and died at Victoria in 1942.

Where did ice hockey start?

Canada gave birth to its most popular sport on Christmas Day in 1855, when members of the Royal Canadian Rifles stationed at Kingston, Ontario, cleared snow from the harbour, tied skates onto their boots, borrowed field-hockey sticks and an old lacrosse ball, and played the world's first game of ice hockey.

What noted champion of women's rights became the first woman member of the CBC Board of Governors?

Nellie McClung, also noted as a writer and temperance leader, was a CBC governor from 1936 to 1942. Born in 1873 at Chatsworth, Ontario, she died at Victoria in 1951. Her vigorous and witty campaigns for social reform and women's rights kept her in demand as a lecturer in the U.S. as well as Canada. She was one of the few women speakers who could fill Massey Hall in Toronto. She was a member of the Alberta legislature from 1921 to 1926. Her name appears on a plaque at the entrance to the senate chamber in Ottawa, with those of four other fighters for woman suffrage who succeeded in opening the doors of the Senate to women.

ALL ABOARD

Expert election forecasts, reprinted by request:

Time magazine: "The likely Liberal prospect: a drop to somewhere between 143 and 150. The Tories . . . might win as many as 89, seem more likely to get between 70 and 77. . . The Social Crediters may well add four or five seats. Any CCF changes will be down."

Paul W. Fox in Canadian Commentator: "The betting on Parliament Hill is that no party will gain or lose more than 12 seats. . . This estimate seems about right. The mood of the country does not indicate that there is any overwhelming sentiment for change."

Saturday Night magazine (forecast wisely hedged by "ifs" and "buts") Liberals 155, Conservatives 72, CCF 17, others 21.

Public opinion poll: Liberals 48 per cent of the vote. Conservatives 34. The Liberals will win at a Gallup.

That must have been the Cuban election they were talking about.

In Latin America countries, it's much easier to be a political expert than it is here. All you do is count your cartridges, add the total to the number of pesos in the treasury, and there is the result of the election, to a fraction of a voter.

In Russia, the forecasting trade is a cinch, because all the elections come out (roughly) Communists 100 per cent, others 0.

But in Canada, Great Britain and other such untidy countries, expert-ing is a headachy business. We voters are to blame. With Time magazine to inform us of the result in advance, we need never go to the polls at all. Are we grateful for this labor-saving device? No.

Stubbornly, we trudge down to the polls and mark our X's by hand. What a backward group we are.

At the regular meeting in May, a Life Membership was presented to Mrs. Zimmer in recognition of her many years of cheerful, willing service in many branches of W.M.S. work. The presentation was made by Mrs. F. S. McGibbon.

Chapters of the study book were reviewed at the May and June meetings by Mrs. Merlyn Evans and Mrs. Wilson Bridge. 25 YEARS AGO

June 21, 1932 —

The first C-I-L Boy Scout Group Church Service, scheduled for June 12, will be one of the outstanding Brownsburg events of the year. Headed by the Vickers Scout Band of Montreal, the parade will start from the Brownsburg Social Club at 2.30 p.m. The Lachute and St. Andrews Scouts have promised to participate, and accompanied by the Brownies and Girl Guides, the parade should be quite imposing. The Field Secretary for the Province of Quebec has intimated that he will be present.

The Frontier Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Jas. Murdoch on Monday night last and enjoyed a splendid address on "Education and Better Schools", by Clifton Hall, principal of Lachute Academy, and the ladies present went back fully convinced that Lachute is most fortunate in having Mr. Hall directing the education of its children.

Main Street ceases to hold a monopoly as Lachute's shopping centre. Merchants are establishing themselves on the less popular thoroughfares, and appear to be doing good business. More notably on Foundry Street several new merchants have located of late; and inasmuch as many are using these columns as an advertising medium, they appear to have "started right."

The only doubtful factor in the coming annual event of Lachute's Spring Fair is the weather. Our Fair directors this year have made every provision, planned every attraction, and eliminated all removeable hitches in the program, so that the Exhibition next week (15 to 18), may be gratifying to spectators, and exhibitors and a credit to its producers the Argenteuil Agricultural Society.

Colfords Defeats Hurlers Meet CFCF "No Stars" Sun.

Fernand Larocque came out of a batting slump and smashed out two triples and got two walks to help Colford's defeat St. Marcel, of St. Jerome. Other big hitters were Church Mosely and Brent Steele, while teammate Mel Stewart played a terrific game in the field. Colford's scored six runs in the fourth inning as St. Marcel's defence seemed to collapse. Jean Guy Larocque, a slow starter, was in trouble the first two innings, but came on strong to win his fifth straight game of the season.

Next Sunday, Colford's play host to CFCF "No Stars". Their line-up will be as follows: Gord Sinclair, Russ Taylor, Bill Pring, Vaughan McVey, Harry Mall, Walter McGregor, Barney Greeley, Dave Grief, John Walsh, Alex Stanton, Walter Machny and Joe Emery.

This promises to be a real thriller and a big chance for Colford's to show their stuff. Game time 2 p.m.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Good grooming while on the road is a must for all women motorists. You'll look better and feel better, and that'll make you a safe driver.

It's easy to be well groomed, no matter how far you get from home. In my coast-to-coast touring as Women's Travel Director of Shell Oil Company of Canada, Limited, I've picked up lots of good-grooming travel tips. Here are some you may find useful:

For a quick travel facial when soap and water isn't available, use astringent pads. They're cooling and revitalizing and will remove old tired make-up in a jiffy.

Hand lotion pillows, encased in individual envelopes, can be carried in your purse. They provide just the right amount of lotion for a quick application after washing. And they eliminate the necessity of carrying a bottle of lotion.

Carry some soap sheets in your handbag. They'll be welcome should you find a restroom that's run out of soap.

For nightly laundering of lingerie and hosiery, pack soap pellets or concentrated detergents in capsule form. They take up hardly any space and come in handy many times.

After you've combed or brushed your hair, keep it in place with hair sprays or lacquer pads. The latter are disposable when exhausted.

Stick colognes can serve as excellent pick-me-ups. For best revitalizing results, rub the cologne on the back of the neck and the temples.

During summer car trips, keep make-up as light as possible. If you can get away with it, don't use a make-up base.

Further Works Give Information On Personality of E. W. Thomson

Book Review by Julia Grace Wales

Edited with notes, a Bibliography, and other material on Thompson and Lampman, by Arthur S. Bourinot. Published by the Editor at 158 Carlton Road, Rockcliffe Park, Ottawa. 49 pages.

This, a companion volume to Archibald Lampman's Letters to Edward William Thomson (edited by Arthur S. Bourinot, 1957), recently reviewed in these columns. The present book puts on record a vivid portrait of the personality of Edward William Thomson; and those of us who remember him and indeed all Canadian readers are greatly indebted to the editor for making it accessible.

The letters give us directly a picture of Thomson's life between the years 1891 and 1897. 1891 marks the beginning of his work for the Youth's Companion. He writes that he is likely to stay longer than the six months he had proposed for a "trial trip". At Christmas time he is in Toronto and glad to see old familiar faces but glad also to be returning to Boston. "My wife is to break up house here in about a month from now. She will probably visit Ottawa before joining me in Boston but my son will come sooner." Despite his liking for Boston Thomson suffers at times from a "sense of exile". He writes on May 24, 1892, "I feel the strangeness of this land today more than ever before." Vigorous as he seemed, Thomson's health was not perfect. In June, 1892, he is suffering from rheumatism in his right arm. The next year his salary (we learn incidentally) has been raised $500.

In April, 1893, Thomson writes Lampman with characteristic hospitality, "Your having had the 'grip' again makes it advisable that you should have a holiday. Couldn't you just pack up wife and baby and all come together for a visit to us?" In March, 1895, Mrs. Thomson has been ill but is now much improved. Thomson is about to publish a volume of short stories (Old Man Savarin, the volume containing stories about Point Fortune and Rigaud). In this letter he says, "Bernie insists that he will go back to Canada when he takes his degree." Mr. Bourinot notes that "Bernie" is the late Bernard St. Denis Thomson, the Thomsons' only child, "a graduate of Harvard, in Law, and for many years on the editorial staff of the New York Times."

Thomson's warm human interests are evident throughout the letters. They abound in references to his wife and son and cordial messages to the Lampman family. He shows concern for the welfare of individual friends, among them his friend and Lampman's, J. E. Chamberlin, whose excellent review of Lampman in the column entitled "The Listener" in the Boston Evening Transcript Mr. Bourinot reprints in the Appendix. In May, 1893, Thomson writes characteristically, "Of Natalie (the Lampmans' little girl) I heartily approve. . . Be sassy, Natalie, that's the way to get along after all. I like to hear of her taking possession of her small neighbor's playthings. As for buttering her father and mother, of course they like it. My wife, Bernie, (and) Chamberlin . . . send kindest regards. Chamberlin seems in much better spirits."

Thomson had a vivid sense of the personalities of those with whom he had to do, and no small gift of characterization and portraiture. Duncan Campbell Scott is "a more rugged looking man than I had expected to see — a dignified and yet easy natural manner. A sincere eye and face."

One of the most valuable aspects of the Letters is that they reveal Thomson the literary critic. In June, 1893, he discusses Wetherell's collection of Canadian poetry and finds Lampman's poems "incomparably" the best, though he is careful to be fair to other poets represented.

Thomson never hesitates to give adverse criticism when it is needed. In November, 1893, he writes of some new poems which Lampman has just sent him, "As an editor I say 'boil 'em down'. And as a sincere friend of yours and admirer of your genius I'd say 'keep them back awhile' . . . I wish I had time to go over them carefully, verse by verse, and note the details that cause my general impression" — a method that testifies to his objectivity and thoroughness as a critic.

In 1897, near the end of the correspondence, Thomson lays down an interesting principle of the due relation of verse and prose in a poet's writing: " . . . it is a fact that if you wrote prose regularly, you'd write a good deal more poetry and not be using the verse medium to discharge your mind." Perhaps had Lampman lived longer (he died in 1899 at the age of thirty-eight), he might have proved this a useful suggestion.

Mr. Bourinot's work as editor is, as always, thorough, scholarly, and illuminating. The appendix adds varied and interesting new material on both Thomson and Lampman: for example, Lampman's review of Thomson's Old Man Savarin in The Week, August 19, 1895, and Thomson's tribute to Lampman's memory in the Boston Evening Transcript, of March 14, 1914.

The two series are a contrast of temperaments, Thomson writing with humour, dash, critical vigor, Lampman with sensitivity, seriousness, poetic and philosophical insight. When the two books have been separately enjoyed, much is gained by re-reading them in relation to each other, and here, as elsewhere, Mr. Bourinot's notes are an invaluable guide.

"You say the telephone is an extra partner?"

Yes! — the telephone IS a partner in that card party . . . a helpful "partner" which brought everyone together! Without telephones, arranging such simple social gatherings would take endless time and effort.

As Canadians, most of us tend to take such long-accepted uses of the telephone pretty much for granted. Yet, when you consider the countless ways in which the telephone makes YOUR daily life more pleasant, you may well agree that this extra "partner" gives far more in terms of convenience and security than the little it costs.

Written Specially for
The Lachute Watchman
By Carolyn Willett,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Times were when a man in a house earned a delegate's badge and then took off for a convention.

Of course, mother sometimes tagged along for a shopping spree. But more often she stayed behind to keep the home fires burning.

Well, it doesn't take much casting about these days to catch evidence that times have changed. Mother now is apt to hang up her apron and tear off to women's conventions in any part of Canada — or in any part of the world for that matter.

This season, for instance, convention chairmen from Vancouver to Rome are banging gavels as women representing many professions, interests and organizations settle down to serious business.

Busy Meetings

In Vancouver, the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire already has held its four-day annual meeting — the 57th get-together of the patriotic women's organization.

The Young Women's Christian Association of Canada also met in Vancouver with 400 delegates from Canada and overseas countries. It was the YWCA's 20th quadrennial meeting.

Canada's National Council of Women was host for the International Council of Women holding a 10-day meeting in Montreal. And in Rome, more than 225 delegates of the Canadian Nurses' Association to the congress of the International Council of Women are relaxing after a six-day convention.

Meantime, 19 Canadian women — delegates to an Associated Country Women of the World meeting in Colombo, Ceylon — now are preparing for conference sessions in Colombo, July 3-13. Most of the delegates, who represent Canada's Women's Institutes, flew to Colombo from Vancouver June 16.

This is a busy year for WI members. The country women's organization — the Canadian "mother" of the International ACWW — plans to hold its first national convention in Ottawa this fall.

Many Topics

What do they talk about, these busy women following heavy agendas, often speaking and listening in different languages ?

Well, the list of convention subjects is wide and varied. Generally, the convention topics hinge on education, immigration and programs to help newcomers feel at home in a new country; culture and social-economic problems of concern to all persons in many countries.

But most of all, delegates venture into new ideas, exchanged on conference floors and over tea cups, with a fundamental aim to make this a better and more equitable world for everyone.

Girl Musican

Virginia Belfer of Galt, Ont., sat down at a piano before a special gathering of music-minded listeners and played through selections by Bach, Beethoven and other masters. Her recital included a composition she wrote herself. Listeners were impressed, Virginia is nine years old.

Wife Preservers

Broiled grapefruit makes a tasty appetizer or dessert. Cut grapefruit in halves, remove seeds and centers. Sprinkle lightly with brown sugar and broil slowly for about 15 to 20 minutes, topping each half with a little maraschino cherry juice or sherry flavoring.

Sulphuric acid, a deadly corrosive chemical, is a vital ingredient to our modern way of life. For instance, it is the basic ingredient in the manufacture of chemical fertilizers. It is used in refining oil and making paint, and even the milk we drink has been tested with sulphuric acid to determine its butterfat content.

TOMORROW'S DINNER

Platter of Radish-Scallion-Romaine
Chicken Fricassee
Spoon Corn Bread
Carrot Braised with Green Beans
Orange-Gel Whip
Shredded Orange Sauce
Hot or Iced Coffee or Tea

All measurements are level; recipes proportioned to serve 4 to 6

Spoon Corn Bread: To 1 c. enriched cornmeal, add 1½ tsp. salt and 1 tbsp. melted butter or margarine. Beat 1 egg and 1 egg white light. Add with 2 c. buttermilk combined with 1 tsp. baking soda.

Transfer to an oiled shallow qt.-baking dish. Bake 30 min. in a moderate oven, 350 deg. F., or until golden on top and a knife inserted in the center comes out clean.

Orange-Gel Whip: Add 1 envelope unflavored gelatin to ½ c. cold water. Stand 5 min.

Dissolve over hot water. Stir in 1 c. sugar and ⅛ tsp. salt.

Next, measure 1¼ c. orange juice and 1 tsp. lemon juice into a deep qt.-bowl. Over the top spoon ¼ c. non-fat dry milk solids. Beat rapidly with a hand or electric beater until thick and fluffy. Beat in the gelatin mixture.

Rinse 6 good-sized individual moulds with cold water and dust with granulated sugar. Spoon in the orange whip. Refrigerate 4 hrs., or until firm.

Unmould. Spoon over slightly sweetened shredded fresh oranges.

Chicken Fricassee From the Chef

For a quickie, use 2 (No. 2) cans chicken pie filling. Before heating add ¼ tsp. marjoram and 1 tsp. onion flakes blended with ¼ c. chicken broth or undiluted evaporated milk. Slow-beat until boiling.

Let your imagination be your guide in salad making. Experiment with combinations of colors, flavors, textures and seasonings. Add seasonings with a light hand — especially garlic, cheese, herbs, parsley and onion — for a hint of flavor is enough.

Canadian Parks

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

When you plan your vacation this summer, why not include a visit to one of our Canadian National or Provincial parks? These areas have been set aside for our enjoyment and benefit and for visitors from other lands. They total almost 71,500 square miles, and offer a wide variety in beautiful scenery.

Recently the record for the number of visitors to our National Parks reached an all time "high" — with over two million visitors. Four-fifths of this total were native Canadians, and many of the group were family units.

Mothers and fathers with children mostly took advantage of the equipped camp grounds, trailer parks or modest bungalow cabins. There are luxurious hotels in some of our parks like Jasper Park Lodge. But a few days at one of our National Parks are not just within the reach of the wealthy. The parks provide a wonderful holiday setting for a great many people who must budget carefully.

Eighty percent of the visitors to our parks are Canadians.

Canada's system of National Parks began away back sixty-seven years ago when the area around the hot mineral springs at Banff in the Rocky Mountains was set apart for the use of the public. In 1951, Fundy, the twenty-eighth link in the chain of parks across the Dominion was opened on the East Coast. Fundy is in the rugged forest region halfway between Moncton and St. John.

Detailed information about any one park or about all of them can be obtained by writing to the Provincial governments and to National Parks Branch, which is supervised by the Department of National Resources, Ottawa. Anyone who looks over this literature will be impressed. What a wonderful system of National Parks we have stretching right across our thousand miles! Most of the parks can easily be reached by road or rail, and there is plane service to some of them.

There are two outstanding wild animal parks — Elk Island in Alberta and Wood Buffalo in the same province and the N.W.T.; Banff is our oldest scenic park but Jasper with its 4,200 square miles is our largest. Our three smallest national parks are Georgian Bay Islands, Ont., Prince Edward Island, P.E.I., and Point Pelee, Ont. This last park we visited last vacation and greatly appreciated our glimpses of that refuge for wild birds, founded by the famous pioneer in conservation, Jack Miner. Other scenic national parks are Fundy, N.B., Cape Breton Highlands, N.S., St. Lawrence Islands, Ont., Riding Mountain, Man., Prince Albert, Sask., Waterton Lakes, Alta., and in B.C., Kootenay, Glacier, Yoho, Mount Revelstoke. There are almost a dozen historic spots set aside as parks by the federal government and many more by provincial governments. (Above information from handbook "Canada 1956.")

These parks do preserve the primitive beauty of mountain slopes, the countryside, island areas, river valleys, countryside and sea coast for this and future generations. The national historic park sites are windows through which visitors can catch a glimpse of days gone by. They are of special use to boys and girls studying history — just as wild life and bird sanctuaries are a stimulus to observations of natural scientific phenomena both by students and just ordinary folk. The protection of animals and birds given in these special areas is of great value, too.

Likely you will enjoy yourself so much that you will want to travel farther afield another summer to a different park. The more interprovincial vacationing we can do as individuals and as families, the greater will be our appreciation and understanding of other parts of our Dominion. Travel, in the right spirit, within a vast country like ours, the third largest country in land area in the world, can be a wonderfully unifying force. So best of luck to you with your Park Adventures !

Fashions

Softly feminine, cool, comfortable and pretty, that's the story of this frock. The fabric is batiste in a floral print of yellows, greens and white. The bodice is pin-tucked and is further embellished by rows of white Val lace centred with little bows. The skirt is gently gathered with just enough fullness to make it fall into graceful folds.

A MESSAGE OF THANKS

TO all those voters who supported me in the campaign just ended,

TO all my friends and organisers who worked tirelessly and without remuneration for so long,

TO the electors of my home Parish of St. Andrews who gave me such a wonderful vote of confidence,

TO the victor I offer my sincere congratulations and to my fellow candidates my thanks for the sportsmanlike campaign waged by all.

I EXTEND MY MOST SINCERE AND HEARTFELT THANKS

While the results were not all that we would have hoped, they indicate a revival of interest in democratic principles within the Liberal party of this county, and we intend to carry on the fight for these principles until victory is assured.

I remain,
Yours very truly
— Antoine Paré

New Mayor Takes Over At B'burg Council

By John J. Molloy

The new Mayor, Tommy Hall, presided over his first council meeting on June 3. The first item of business after the opening of the meeting, was the deletion of Mr. Hall's tender from the minutes of the previous meeting. Mr. Hall had been awarded the contract for Woodbine Avenue sewage project. Gaston Legault was the first member of the public to be heard. He asked that he be levied a flat rate of $12 per tenant for his self-installed water system.

Mrs. Earl Smillie, of the Women's Institute, congratulated the mayor and new councillors and reminded them that the Women's Institute has always had the good of the citizens at heart. She introduced Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Mason Crosby to present W.I. resolutions.

Mrs. Crosby read a resolution endorsing a recent Rotary Club request for fluoridation of the village's water supply.

Mrs. Leonard read a resolution asking that the council give serious consideration to the idea of creating a playground for the pre-school children in a central location.

Mayor Hall thanked these ladies for their interest and suggestions, and assured them that these resolutions would be given fullest consideration.

Wilfrid Charron asked for permission to operate a taxi concession. His request for a two-car licence at $15 was granted by unanimous assent.

Several citizens asked if nothing could be done about the road surface on Bank Street, and the bridge at the foot of the "French Hill". One spectator pointed out, that we were promised a year ago that Bank Street would be paved. Mr. Lepine, former mayor of the town, pointed out that, that promise was a relay of a promise from Mr. Cottingham made before the provincial election last year. The bridge is strictly a provincial government matter and the municipality has no control on this affair. Mr. Lepine could only conclude that Mr. Cottingham's defeat in the 'burg was being appropriately acknowledged.

Councillor Bill Ouellette said he was pushing the bridge problem as much as he could and he hoped to receive quotations from Robert & Quenneville for asphalt on the other problem. On this "streets" problem, it was brought up, that the surface of Park Avenue is in very bad shape and should be graded.

Mrs. Nadon, restaurant owner, was present to ask for a permit to have dancing in her restaurant. Following a petition presented at a May meeting from presidents of local organizations, Mrs. Nadon was ordered by the Police Chief to disallow dancing in her restaurant. The reason then was that she had no permit for dancing. A permit costs $1. Mr. Charbonneau read the four-year-old by-law concerning dancing. The matter raised some caustic comments both at and around the table. Dorius Lepine pointed out that although, there was definitely some action to be taken on this issue, it would be a mistake to drive the young people out of town or into the grills to dance. They do want to dance. Mrs. Nadon was told that the matter would be settled in eight days.

Mr. Binette, a local contractor, asked the council to create a building by-law. He, among others, is worried about the fact that anyone can build a "tar-paper shack" beside an expensive and well-cared-for house.

A question was raised about the advisability of installing a bigger water-line on Bank Street. It is felt that the increased revenue from the larger service would cover a loan.

Interesting among the bills was one for $319 for repairs to the town tractor.

Fire Chief Arthur Robbins, reported the omission of one April fire on the property of Lionel Demers, on April 21, from 4.30 to 5.30 p.m. For this fire — in Chatham County — a bill for $40 will be sent to Chatham.

On May 8, we had a serious fire at the dump which threatened to get out of hand. There was, at one time, an 800-feet fire front. For this fire, Mr. Robbins recommended that the volunteers be paid for 2½ hours. R. Ouellette, P. Bourgeois, J. Duncan, R. St. Jean, G. Chabot, W. Cribb, R. Cousineau, M. Lepine, R. Sugden and J. Charron.

Mr. Robbins asked the citizens to be careful with water in the forthcoming warm spell. He wound up by stressing to the council the fact, that we have had three serious fires at the dump this spring and that something must be done.

Mayor Hall selected his committees for this year. Councillors Harris and Real Ouellette will look after water and sewage. Councillors Lafleur and Raymond will supervise and be responsible for the police and fire departments and social welfare. Councillors Therrien and Bill Ouellette will handle streets and lighting. Councillor Harris will be pro-mayor for six months. This was moved by councillors Therrien & Lafleur and unanimously accepted.

A welfare matter was tabled by the secretary-treasurer concerning Mrs. Leroux's hospital bills, which are something in excess of $1,800. The social welfare department proposal for Brownsburg to accept responsibility for $1,100 of these bills was discussed. The municipality share would be 15%. Councillors Ouellette and Raymond moved that this bill be accepted and the motion was made unanimous.

A motion was passed authorizing the new mayor, T. P. Hall and secretary-treasurer Vincent Charbonneau to sign cheques.

Police Chief Lepine reported 12 telephone calls, four car accidents, four arrests, each fined $10 with $30 costs. He collected $24 in dog tax and $45 on bicycle tax. $9 was collected for traffic violation. The chief asked that the councillors back him in the matter of fines for overdue bicycle taxes. He has made out nine tickets, none of which have been paid. Councillor Ouellette promised to "square a ticket" issued to a little girl, who had just received a new bicycle, feeling that this was a special case. The others felt this promise applied to them too. The councillors decided they could not take care of special cases and that the tickets must stick.

The Chief was told to enforce no parking at churches between 8 a.m. and noon on Sundays. This motion, which was unanimous, was proposed by councillors Lafleur and Raymond.

It was decided to allow the rink to utilize the municipality's tractor to fill in around the rink walls. A question was raised about a practice of refunding the rink's entertainment tax. This practice was unexplainably stopped last year. Mr. Charbonneau explained that the tax refund received from Quebec barely pays for the tax tickets and the practise had been to donate $100 as approximate compensation. Our recent by-law forbids such a donation. It was decided to ask again for tenders for water works on Woodbine Avenue.

Councillor Real Ouellette, pointing out that close to fifty spectators were present, suggested that we build a town hall above the garage and municipal offices. Secretary-treasurer Charbonneau read a letter from the Legion offering the Legion Hall as a meeting hall. No decision was made until July 2, but it is fairly certain that in the near future, the Legion Hall will be the venue for meetings.

The meeting was adjourned till Tuesday, June 11.

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you:

Q. My husband is getting dependency rate for one of our children. Can I claim for the other child?

A. It is a husband's responsibility to maintain his children and only in exceptional circumstances and after it has been clearly established that the wife wholly or mainly maintains the other child would dependency rate be granted.

Q. Is an unemployed girl drawing benefit entitled to keep on if she decides to undertake a study course? Her family is not in a position to meet the cost of the course and she will have to work in order to pay for it.

A. If the study course will occupy the girl full time, so that in consequence she will not be available for work while taking it, she will be unable to qualify for benefit during that period. The only exception is where the girl, while unemployed, is taking a course of instruction or training which the Commission has directed her to attend. In this latter case she would be still eligible for benefit if she continued to meet the other requirements for the receipt of benefit.

Sleeping Bags Essential For Camping Now Designed For Every-day Service

Sleeping bags, essential on a camping trip but useless for most of the year, are now being designed for every-day service in the home.

A Canadian manufacturer is now making bags in gay colors to be opened out and used as bed comforters when not in out-of-doors use. You can take your pick of aqua blue with a pink lining, mint green with maize lining or gold beige with flaming scarlet. Both outer shell and lining are of nylon taffeta. A zipper down the side and across the bottom quickly converts the sleeping bag into an attractice bed covering.

The filling in the bag is new, also. Instead of the usual cotton, wool or down, the manufacturer has used fluffy white "Terylene" fibre-fill, now being made in Canada. It makes possible an extremely light and warm bag because the insulation value of the man-made fibre is comparable to the more expensive grades of down. Since it is moth, vermin and mildew proof, it poses no storage problems. If it should become damp, it dries more quickly than the usual fillings.

As extra comforters for the cottage or the home in winter, dual purpose sleeping bags are expected to be a popular success. It may be hard to convince dad that an aqua blue bag with a pink lining belongs in his camping equipment, but the women members of the expedition will have no such reservations!

Members Hear Medical Hygienist At Chamber of Commerce 1st Meeting

Gives "Doubtful Quality" Report Concerning Lachute's Water Supply

The first general meeting of the Lachute Chamber of Commerce since its recent reorganization was held Tuesday evening last week in the Legion Hall, with some 50 citizens taking an active part in the discussion, illustrating an interest in the movement and showing their desire to work for the good of the community. The meeting was presided over by Miville Trickey.

Dr. Lorenzo Turcotte, medical hygienist at the County Health Unit, spoke on the water and aqueduct system in the Lachute area, explaining the matter of the source of supply and contamination.

The water contamination, he pointed out, can result from many sources and when the water is not chlorinated, the risk is great, as diarrhoea and other sicknesses can occur. Our water contains chlorine, this disinfectant thus destroying many germs; the water contains a bit of gravel and other components, also a grate which retains a large amount of the coarse gravel before its entry into the pipes. The actual system in Lachute is one of chlorinated water, but there is also in existence in other centres, an aqueduct system of filtrated water which is better than our own, but there are also others worse than ours. It is a question of adding a sufficient quantity of chlorine in the water to destroy the germs.

Then Dr. Turcotte was asked if the gravel in our water is injurious to the health. He denied this, saying that in this condition there is enough chlorine to destroy any harmful germs. Each day of the week, except Sunday, four samples of water are sent to the laboratories of the Minister of Health for analysis. The following reports reveal the results of these analyses: 1953—bad; 1954—water of doubtful quality; 1955—doubtful quality; 1956—again doubtful quality, but close to very bad; 1957—to this time the results have been good, but it is necessary not to forget that water is less susceptible to infectious germs when Lake Sir John, the source of our supply, is ice-covered in the winter. That, declared Dr. Turcotte in ending, is the actual condition of our municipal water supply.

Then several members questioned Dr. Turcotte, among them Dr. Roger Dumais, dentist, who asked him how many cases of typhoid have occurred in this district during the last few years. Dr. Turcotte reported that he had treated a few isolated cases, but never an epidemic of cases, which is not expected. Then Ald. Dr. Roger Lavigne stated that our water is dirty but not bad. We do not lose any more children in Lachute than in any other section of the province. Moreover, it is not necessary to panic, he said. He suggested that the duct system be re-constructed for the usage of filtration and pumping — in this way the town would be able to use a water supply from the North River.

Dr. Marc Papineau then declared that one cannot discuss the Lachute water supply in the face of all the sickness. He said that the report from the Minister of Health is an eye-opener. Typhoid can also be caused by milk, butter and other foods in a person's diet. Without causing a panic, it is necessary not to neglect this problem. Engineer Paul Laliberté mentioned the number of industries which do not use the Lachute water, because of the insufficient pressure. As for himself, he set the approximate cost at $100,000 to regulate this problem and around $350,000 for the construction of a filtration unit. Walker McArthur spoke also on the problem of water pressure and gave several concrete examples of how the pressure and volume of water is distributed.

Georges Beaulieu declared that this problem had been considerably neglected in our town. Dr. Eric Mongeon, dentist, reported that he has studied the local aqueduct system and if the Minister of Health has found a certain quantity of germs in our water this must be caused by lack of chlorination equipment. According to Dr. Mongeon the equipment receiving the water is too large for the one which furnishes the chlorine.

At the end of the discussion, Fernand Legault, Q.C., suggested the question be referred to the committee formed to investigate such matters. The majority of members present agreed that the water system should be explored.

Head table guests were Gabriel Downing, Paul Laliberté, Lorne Duncan, Alderman Dr. Roger Lavigne, representing the Mayor of Lachute, Donat Saulnier, Dr. Marc Papineau, and Alderman Desjardins.

Invited to speak a few words Alderman Lavigne announced that the municipal authorities were pleased to say that such an organization as the Chamber of Commerce is concerned with the problems and progress of the town. Often, he said, the Council members are misguided and the people who come to the meeting act as critics." He established a parallel between the Catholic School Commission and the Municipal Council and asked why the first was never criticized when the second was.

The directors then presented reports of their activities. They were given as follows: Gaetan Leclair, a report of the Committee members; Donat Saulnier, civic improvement; Romain Savage, insurance; Gabriel Valois, publicity; Gabriel Downing, secretary's report; Edward Leblanc, financial report. A vote of thanks was expressed to Gabriel Valois for the editing of the recently issued bulletin.

Ch. of Commerce And Drugstore in Joint Propaganda

Something unusual meets the eye of Main Street shoppers this week, in a display at Beaton's Pharmacy, which packs a civic punch.

The theme is the postal innovation which comes into operation here next month, and the idea is to make residents conscious of their part, namely, to have letter boxes installed at their premises ready for door-to-door delivery. Without this provision, occupants will miss out on the benefits of a substantial improvement procured for this town through the efforts of Philippe Valois, M.P.

The display at Beaton's is a really attractive example of window dressing. It is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, in which Pharmacist Donat Saulnier (proprietor of Beaton's) is chairman of the Civic Improvements committee.

Pay Phone Call Rates Increased

The standard rate of 10 cents for each local call from public and semi-public telephones will become effective in Lachute, Brownsburg, St. Andrews East, and Ste. Scholastique next Saturday, June 29, according to R. R. Pearson, Bell Telephone manager for this region.

Approval in principle of the 10-cent rate for local calls from all of Bell's public and semi-public telephones was given in November, 1951 by the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada. However, because of equipment shortages at that time, the Bell asked for the higher rate to be applied immediately only in the larger centres.

With equipment to modify the public telephones in the smaller centres now installed, the company has decided to complete the application of the standard rate throughout its territory.

Richelieu Club Plans Annual Event

The members of the Lachute Richelieu Club plan to hold their fifth annual charity campaign August 10 on the Fair Grounds, joint organizers of the affair being Jean Paul Roy and Yvonhoe Chevrier. In addition to the horse racing there will be bingo, for which prizes of a value not less than $50 will be offered. There will be on exhibit in the showcases of the former H. M. Lavigne Store, 15, Princess Street, Lachute Mills.

The incomparable Canadiens hockey star, Maurice Richard, will patronize the event — this was made possible by the co-operation of J. René Laurin, local Dow representative, to whom the Richelieu Club members wish to express their appreciation.

As an added attraction, a washing and drying machine will be raffled through the courtesy of J. Roger Lamarche, local furniture dealer. Any person who has bought a complete booklet of tickets for this raffle will be admitted to the Fair Grounds event without charge.

Local Youth's Leg Amputated Following Freak Road Accident

Mario Lavoie, six-year-old son of Marcellin Lavoie, 37, of St. Andrews East, was seriously injured last Saturday, near La Baie, St. Andrews East, when he accidentally opened the right hand door of the truck his father was driving and tumbled out onto the road, his left leg being run over by a vehicle. The accident occurred at approximately 7 p.m.

The young boy was rushed to Montreal's St Justine Hospital by Mr. Ladouceur, driver of the St. Andrew's ambulance, and his left leg was amputated early Sunday morning. His condition is reported to be "as good as can be expected."

Traffic Officer Albert Legault investigated. Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allan, who is continuing the inquiry, reports that all facts concerning the tragedy have not yet been clarified. Five passengers of a car directly following the Lavoie truck, who were questioned as witnesses, were unable to supply any positive information as to who ran over the youth. At present the police are trying to locate a third party who was driving near the scene of the accident.

Two Arrested for Breaking and Theft

Paul Emile Allard, 25, of Carillon, was arrested recently by Sgt. Det. Ralph Allan and was charged with breaking and entering with theft. About $18 worth of Fred FitzGerald's belongings were stolen from his home in Carillon.

Also arrested by Det. Allan and charged with breaking and entering with theft of approximately $3,000 worth of dry goods from A. Moussin's warehouse in St. Andrews East was Wm. Harper, 34, of Montreal.

The hearings for both cases will be held tomorrow in St. Jerome.

Opening Home and School Meeting Planned for Lachute This Evening

Prov'l Pres. to Address Gathering

Mrs. C. E. Woolgar, of Rosemere, the first lady president of the Quebec Home and School Association will address the preparatory meeting of the Lachute branch of the Association tonight at 8 o'clock in the Lachute High School.

The value of this organization has been recognized and approved nationally, also notably in the community of Brownsburg which has benefited from it for several years.

All interested persons, especially parents, teachers, or retired teachers are urged to attend the meeting — for several months many of our town citizens have been planning the formation of such an association with the view of its overall benefit in mind.

Mrs. Woolgar is no stranger to most home-and-schoolers for she has been active in this association in British Columbia and has served as chairman of the National Parent-Education Committee as well as having been the Quebec Representative to the National Conference. She has in the past and will at the meeting tonight emphasize the need for a better understanding between parents, teachers, and pupils — one of the main goals to be reached in a Home and School Association.

Weir Resident Is Charged Following Hit and Run Mishap

Val Morrison, 21, of Weir, was arrested by Traffic Officer Paul Perrier on Saturday night at 11.30 o'clock and was charged with hit and run driving. The accident occurred at Sixteen Island Lake when Morrison's car sideswiped a car driven by Marcel Danis, of Montreal, causing an estimated $125 damage.

Two Local Communities Honored by Safety League

Among municipalities honored yesterday by the Quebec Safety League at the 25th annual convention of the Province of Quebec Police and Fire Chiefs Association were Lachute, Ste. Therese, Ste. Agathe des Monts, in Class Four, and Brownsburg in Class Five.

Lachute Police and Fire Chief Fernand Trépanier attended yesterday's session and received Lachute's award.

The convention opened Tuesday with the registration of delegates and was brought to order by the president of the Association, Chief J. J. Belanger, of the C.P.R.

Stress was laid on highway safety although other items of modern police work was discussed. This was evident when the delegates gathered for the presentation of 46 awards by George B. Kenny, president of the Quebec Safety League — they went to representatives of Quebec centres for safety projects, none of the Municipalities honored having had a traffic fatality during the year.

Burg Council Holds Special Session to Discuss Problems

At a special session of Brownsburg Council held on Thursday evening, June 20, the first item discussed was the waterworks project for Maple Avenue South. It was quite definitely settled that the revenue available would not meet the requirements for a loan. The matter has been set aside temporarily. The possibility exists of floating a loan to cover this project together with that on Woodbine and the talked-of increased facilities on Bank Street.

A recent source of Council discussion has been that it would be unwise to have Bank Street paved without first installing adequate water and sewage.

Mrs. Nadon was granted a permit to have dancing in her restaurant providing she complies with the 1953 By-law which among other things, requires that there be no dancing after midnight or on Sundays. The policeman will be instructed to supervise conditions nightly.

A copy of Rosemere's building By-law has been obtained by Councillor Harris and copies will be made for study by the mayor and councillors.

Councillor Bill Ouellette announced that the bridge has been paved.

Secretary-treasurer Vincent Charbonneau reported that Mr. Brunelle retired from the trio of assessors and must be replaced immediately. He also read a letter confirming a July 2 appointment for the mayor and councillors with the Hon. Wm. Cottingham.

No Watchman Week After Next

Notice of annual vacation is directed to the attention of correspondents and advertisers. There will be no edition of this newspaper on July 11, the publishing staff being absent during the week of that date — July 5 - 14 inclusive.

Correspondents will kindly withhold their bulletins for this issue of The Watchman.

Staff vacations at The Watchman also concern customers for commercial printing. Any needs in this line should be ordered ahead, in order to avoid disappointment.

Armed Services Vote Results Increase Phil Valois' Majority

Richard Valois, Returning Officer for the June 10 election, reports that the official majority for Philippe Valois, Liberal candidate re-elected for the third term in the Counties of Argenteuil and Two Mountains, is 1,182. Valois defeated Notary J. Octave Latour, the Progressive Conservative candidate.

This majority accorded Philippe Valois is given after the compiling of the military vote, a total of 138 votes in this constituency. Here then, are the results of the military vote:

J. Octave Latour, Progressive Conservative, 15 votes for a total of 8,902; Ethel M. McGibbon, Liberal candidate, 10 votes for a total of 1,102; Antoine Paré, Liberal candidate, five votes for a total of 3,983; and Philippe Valois, official Liberal, 108 votes for a grand total of 10,184, and a majority of 1,182. Ballots rejected totalled 284.

Mr. Valois' majority was cut considerably from the 7,675 votes he obtained in the 1953 Federal election, against Progressive Conservative candidate, Linton W. Armstrong.

Returning Officer Valois announced that official count of the vote has not been requested.

Among changes of business proprietorship noted within recent days has been the purchase of the Brownsburg Hotel (Flamingo Grill) by a former Lachute businessman R. H. "Bob" Hadley.

Bob reports that on Tuesday of this week, he opened the hotel, which has been closed for the winter months. Up until a short time ago, the new hotel proprietor was the owner of Hadley's Self-Service.

Argenteuil Art Association Announces Exhibition of Oils by Vivian Walker

The series of exhibitions arranged this season by the young and energetic Argenteuil Art Association continues July 6 with an exhibition of oil paintings by Vivian Walker, a professional artist long associated with these parts.

This display is to be opened Saturday afternoon, July 6, by L. T. Porter, a prominent St. Andrews citizen, and under arrangement with the St. Andrews Country Club where it is held, will remain on public view from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sundays, Wednesdays and Saturdays until August 3, inclusive. (Following the opening at 3 p.m. on July 6, tea will be served at a nominal charge by the ladies of the St. Andrews Presbyterian Church.)

Vivian Walker is a specialist in oil painting. After initial studies in drawing at l'Ecole des Beaux Arts in Montreal, she turned seriously to this medium, studying at Sir George Williams College, at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts and also privately under Adam Sherriff Scott and E. Stanley Turnbull of New York, with whom she has latterly studied portraiture.

Mrs. Walker now gives considerable time to the teaching of art. For a number of years she has instructed the painting group of the Notre Dame de Grace Women's Club. She taught last year for the evening class of the Town of Mount Royal Community Club and the afternoon class of the Town of Mount Royal Recreation Club, as well as giving a number of private lessons.

Vivian Walker has exhibited many times at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, also with the Independent Art Society, Montreal, and at a number of "one-man shows" including two at Hawkesbury and one at Albert College, Belleville, Ont. She has also exhibited frequently with small groups of other artists, among other places at the Canadian Handicrafts Guild, Montreal. An energetic producer, she has shown new collections of paintings every year for the past seven summers at the Manoir Richelieu at Murray Bay, including a group of 25 at the present time.

Although born at Hawkesbury (the former Vivian Knox) her ancestors were early settlers of St. Andrews East, River Rouge, Carillon and Lachute since 1797. Her father resided in his younger days at St. Philippe. Residents of the Town of Mount Royal, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Walker also own a beautiful old stone country house at Carillon, which Vivian uses as headquarters for many painting excursions into the surrounding countryside.

Miss Janine Leroux' exhibition of art work is on view at the same premises, the yacht club chalet of St. Andrews Country Club, until June 30 (Saturdays, Sundays and Wednesdays, 2-5 p.m.), and is attracting many interested friends and residents.

Animal Hospital Opened in Lachute By Veterinary Dr. Russel McMahon

Aspects of Work Vary With Animals Including Pulling Porcupine Quills

By BARBARA WILSON

Fractures, vaccinations, or simply a lack of holiday boarding for your pet can be remedied at Dr. Russel McMahon's Animal Hospital, located just within the town limits on Brownsburg Road.

In a recent interview, Dr. McMahon stated that he had always hoped to undertake a venture such as this, but until recently had not been able to purchase buildings suitable to his needs. He is now the owner of stables, which supply considerable space for his patients, both large and small, and which are located at the foot of the local mountain-side. From this barn and his residence nearby, the local vetinarian conducts a practise which stretches throughout the County of Argenteuil and also includes a few clients in the neighboring County of Two Mountains.

Dr. McMahon has now turned what was formerly a dairy into an office, operating room, and a dispensary room — in the last room mentioned he housed sick dogs during the winter because a heating system existed there only. The operating room proves to be a point of interest with its spic and span counters, where the "patient" is placed under anesthetic, the white enamel sink, and the shiny aluminum operating table, considerably smaller than one which would hold a human patient. Cattle and horse stalls, and storage and food rooms fill the remaining space in the stables.

At the present time, Dr. McMahon is boarding a few American cattle, which have been exported from Great Britain, and which are required by law to remain in Canada for a certain period of time. He reports that in time he may board horses, for saddle horses are becoming a popular interest of residents in this area.

The majority of cases treated by the vetinary are cattle — comprising 90% of his patients; however many cats, dogs and horses are brought to Dr. McMahon's offices to have their ailments treated. He brought to attention the case of a dog, operated on for a broken pelvis, who refused to eat and drink from loneliness for his home and master. Owners cannot seem to appreciate when they come to pick up their pet, that in this respect that, when ill, they are as moody and temperamental as humans. Dr. McMahon has also had the painful task of removing porcupine quills (the equivalent to miniature fish hooks) from a dog's mouth. However the common cases are simple fractures and the spaying of female dogs.

Plans for the future include a gradual building up of his hospital, and boarding facilities for horses and dogs. In the latter case, holidaying residents will not have to take the long trek to Montreal in order to find a kennel for their dog or ask a neighbor to feed and keep an eye on their pet for a few weeks. Dr. McMahon has an assistant in the person of Lloyd Kettyle, who aids him during operations and in his general practice.

Dr. McMahon is a 1938 graduate of Lachute High School, who after serving in World War II, attended the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph, receiving a degree in Veterinary Surgery. From that time he has practised in this vicinity and looks forward to a bright future as the owner and practitioner in his Animal Hospital.

Dr. McMahon recently opened an animal hospital within the limits of Lachute, and is shown in his modern operating room. Montreal Youth Drowns Near St. Andrews as Rescue Fails

Oscar Dion, 16, of 8720 Clark Street, Montreal, was the victim of a drowning, which occurred at 2.45 p.m. on Sunday at La Baie near St. Andrews East.

Present at the scene of the tragedy were the boy's father, Oscar Dion, Sr., 45, Pierre Dion, 14, Maurice Morel, 27, and Rosaire Vaillancourt, 22, all of Montreal. The five rented a boat for the purpose of fishing and in anchoring, propped the rear of the boat on a rock and planted an oar on each side of the bow to hold it firmly in place.

In a short time both oars floated away and the victim dove in to retrieve them. When he came to the surface shouting for help, both Morel and Vaillancourt attempted to rescue him and in the process the former had to be hauled out. Artificial respiration was applied by Dr. Marcel Sylvestre, of St. Andrews East, who revived the would-be rescuer.

Oscar Dion's body was discovered at 5.30 p.m. on the same day by Dr. Sylvestre and Francois Lescelles, of Montreal; Dr. Lafleur, County Coroner, declared the death accidental.

The body was then turned over to the family for burial.

Fire Destroys Buildings On Arundel "Tutira Farm"

A disastrous fire wiped out a barn on the estate of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stuart last Tuesday evening. Owing to the prompt efforts of everybody turning out to assist, no livestock was lost.

The absence of a wind was largely responsible for the successful efforts of the workers to keep it confined to the one locality, thus keeping it from spreading to the other barns and cottages although it gave the fighters some very anxious moments.

OUT ON A LIMB

By Stumpy McCulloch

"Time sure have changed," sighed Smiddy.

"Why'd you say that?" asked Ol' Zeke.

"Why, at a little gatherin' last night, the women talked politics while the men got off in a corner and exchanged recipes."

The great varieties of trees on the North American continent astonished our early settlers, it seems. At that time in England they had known only 29 different kinds of trees; in France only 34; in Germany only 60. Even today all of Europe, not counting Russia, has only 85 species of trees.

But on this continent there are more than 1,000. That's because this is a big piece o' land with cold climate in the North and hot in the South, with mountains, valleys, and plains and all kinds of soil.

However, only about 100 species have commercial value; that is, are suitable for manufacturing into lumber, paper and other products. And that, sir, seems like plenty.

* * *

'Case some of you are havin' a battle with insects attacking your trees, here is news that'll sure help. 1956, it seems, was a real milestone in the fight against forest pests.

The Northwest Pest Action Council, a group of people in the forestry business who joined to fight the nasty little critters, reports that most tree-killin' insects were well in check by the end of last year.

Only two insects continued on rampage, says the council: the balsam wood aphid in Washington and Oregon and the spruce budworm in Idaho and Montana.

'Course, there was the usual damage from the animals 'specially overpopulations of bears, porcupines, deer and rabbits. Fact, in some parts "porkies" were reported doing more damage than forest fires.

* * *

Ever wonder just how fast a forest fire travels, well sir, one fire that the authorities kept track of was the great Idaho fire of 1910—It covered a strip 120 miles long by 20-30 miles wide in a period of less than 24 hours—and that's really moving—It pays to take every precaution possible to prevent forest fires from getting started.

Gone Fishin'

WITH THIS EDITION and with Spot's finding of an uninvited fishing companion, we bid farewell to JUNIUS JR., who for the past two years has made numerous contributions to our Editorial page in the form of cartoons.

JUNIUS JR., more commonly known as Lawrence Robinson, History and English Specialist at Lachute High School, or just "Robbie" to his many friends, left yesterday for his native Nova Scotia, where come September, he will resume his teaching duties.

In his cartoons, "Robbie" has characterized many much-needed civic improvements as well as a considerable amount of humour. His knowledge of Canadian and World History is something that will be missed at L.H.S.

Having been associated with "Robbie" in many ways aside from business, we are sorry to see him leave this community and we extend to him, every wish for success in the Maritimes. We hope we will continue to hear from JUNIUS JR. through the occasional cartoon and that when he goes fishin' in the waters of Nova Scotia, of which he has talked so much, he won't run into the trouble that Spot and friend find themselves in.

Need for Fluoridation

IT WOULD SEEM THAT unwittingly the medical and dental professions have provided to the wily, if foolish, anti-fluoridationists a weapon which should not be available to them.

The "antis" have consistently used the argument that fluoridation of communal water supplies is unacceptable even if effective because it concerns only a small part of the population namely, the children. Since all good citizens are supposed to love children, this sounds a bit cold-blooded. But even granting that the real "antis" (the kind who breathe fire and brimstone when we mention fluoridation) are a different breed from the most of us, have they not been given some comfort by those of us who have neglected to emphasize the fact that good teeth in childhood means good teeth in grownups; and that a set of good teeth at fifty, or over, may well mean the difference between health and sickness, and even life and death in middle age.

It is a brief twenty years since joint meetings of medical and dental societies were held to discuss the seriousness of systemic and dangerous diseases which might arise from the existence of what were called dental focal infections; in effect, this meant abscessed teeth. There seemed to be abundant proof that the bacteria in infected teeth might travel through the blood stream and create new infections in other parts of the body, the heart, the gall bladder, in the joints, and even in the brain. It is about twenty years since the famous Dr. Charles Mayo made the statement that every educated man should have his teeth X-rayed every year. The idea being, of course, that infected teeth should be removed.

There is no evidence whatever, that focal infections are not serious. But for some extraordinary reason their significance seems to have been forgotten. Perhaps, because of the excesses of some early exponents of the idea too many healthy teeth and tonsils were sacrificied unnecessarily or, perhaps again, the advent of the so-called miracle drugs such as penicillin made us forget that the best way to avoid the damage of a dental focal infection is to extract the focus — namely the infected tooth.

The point of this editorial is merely to again call attention to the fact that good teeth in childhood means good teeth when one is grown up — infected teeth often means disease and premature death. The answer to the problem is fluoridation of communal water supplies.

Safety Rules

HURRY AND WORRY propel many a motorist into an accident, according to the Province of Quebec Safety League.

In a warning statement issued in advance of the approaching peak of summer highway traffic, Mr. George B. Kenney, president, said that drivers must cultivate alertness to traffic perils if they are to survive.

Referring to a recent study by University of Michigan engineers in which inattention was rated among the causes of accidents, the official cautions motorists against driving if they are emotionally upset. "And while you are driving," he adds, "you should never allow yourself to become fatigued or emotionally disturbed."

To prevent any lack of alertness at the wheel, Mr. Kenney advocates the following "stops" for vacationers and week-end holidayers:

1. STOP as soon as you are distracted by anything that takes your eyes or mind off the highway, such as looking at a map.
2. STOP driving the moment you feel yourself upset or overtired.
3. STOP for a short rest, fresh air and a cup of coffee or another non-alcoholic stimulant.
4. STOP night driving unless it is a must. Call it a night at twilight, the most tiring driving period.

By staying alert and keeping in mind the "Slow Down and Live" admonition of the Canadian Highway Safety Conference and the Provincial Highway Safety Committee, you stand a pretty good chance of coming back from your trip unscathed, he concludes.

Floral Emblems

THE MOUNTAIN AVEN, a creamy-white rock flower which blooms in profusion in the north, has been chosen by the growing Northwest Territories as its official floral emblem.

In doing this the Territories has put itself on a par with Canada's 10 provinces, all of which have official or unofficial floral emblems. One of them, Newfoundland's pitcher plant, was chosen for the then British colony by Queen Victoria. After Newfoundland became a province it was made official by legislative statute in 1954.

Provincial floral emblems, all of them wild flowers, are not used on coats of arms and the like. But Dr. Jacques Rousseau, director of the human history branch of Canada's National Museum and a floral expert, says they are a good thing. They are put to good use in schools to instill pride in their provinces and to teach children love and respect of nature.

Dr. Rousseau was the man who recommended Quebec choose the wild blue flag, one of the iris family, as its official flower about 1950. The flag was accepted for a time, but has since been supplanted by the white garden lily in official recognition.

Ontario chose the white trillium in 1937. After that, says Dr. Rousseau, people began picking trilliums with such abandon that the province was forced to legally protect its flower. As far as he knows the trillium enjoys official protection to this day, though there are no records of anyone ever having been brought into court for picking wild trilliums in the woods.

The floral emblems of the provinces range all the way from the dogwood which has come to be accepted by popular choice in British Columbia to the lady slipper which Prince Edward Island made her official flower. In Albert it's the wild rose, in Manitoba the crocus and in Saskatchewan the west red or prairie lily. New Brunswick has the violet and Nova Scotia the trailing arbutus which it adopted in 1901.

Now the mountain aven, native of the north, joins the Canadian floral bouquet.

Forest Fires Costly

EACH YEAR FOREST and bush fires destroy more than $20,000,000 of Canada's national resources. Across the country 6,000 fires of this type can be expected each year according to the All-Canada Insurance Federation.

Human carelessness causes most forest and bush fires. Unseasonally warm, dry weather this year could cause additional losses. The Federation, which represents more than 200 Canadian fire, automobile and casualty insurance companies, asks each Canadian to take these precautions to help prevent forest fires.

(1) Never throw cigarets or matches from car windows.

(2) Build campfires on rocks or bare earth. Be sure your fire is well away from dry timber.

(3) Drown campfires or smother them with earth before you leave the campsite.

(4) Break matches in half before discarding. This precaution insures that the flame is extinguished.

(5) When hiking, stamp cigarets out on rocks or bare earth; if possible, douse them with water.

(6) If you live in the vicinity of a bush or forest, equip all chimneys on your home or cabin with spark screens.

(7) Broken bottles should be buried. The sun's rays when magnified by glass can start fires.

(8) If you spot a forest fire, however small, report it to police or forest officials immediately.

GONE FISHIN'

"Here Spot! Where'd you get to? Here boy — UH! !"

• Geoff's Journal •

Gone Fishing

Now that school's out, fathers from one end of Canada to the other are taking a terrific interest in matters piscatorial. Granted, there has been a lot of activity fishing-wise ever since the season closed last year. Reels have been hauled out of storage a hundred times for inspection. Rods have been cleaned and polished while bad leaks in the hip waders have been carefully repaired with the tire tube patching kit. One or two hardy souls have spent many a spare winter evening making tried and tested flies, in addition to inventing several not listed in the books. And, to cap it all, there have been one or two furtive efforts since the snow left to catch anything that's biting.

The serious business of fishing has to be deferred until now, unfortunately. A week-end is all very well but it doesn't begin to provide sufficient time for indulgence of the sport. So, many a proud father and many a crusty bachelor has anxiously awaited the arrival of July and holidays in order to really have time for this popular sport.

I regret that my father ever undertook to introduce me to the joys of fishing. Had he let well enough alone and farmed me out to some other luckless parent in the neighborhood, I might now find myself an ardent fisherman. As it was, he himself undertook the task with, as you will soon see, disastrous consequences.

The summer of 1925 was a scorcher and, too, a particularly bad season for midges and blackflies. It was, perhaps, the worst year possible for a father to present his offspring to the world of fishing. Nevertheless, my father believed a child should fish as soon as he could walk and talk, so I had little choice in the matter.

The day selected for our first excursion was, as I now recall it, the worst of the season. The temperature flirted with the high 90's; the humidity ran a close second. My mother refused to let me go at first and then, sad to say, relented, after ensuring that I was garbed in a flimsy T-shirt and a light pair of short pants. The old boy, naturally, was fully equipped and ready to meet all emergencies.

On our arrival at the fishing hole, we parked our ancient T-Model Ford in a handy churchyard and set out for the trout pools. The route lay through a gigantic patch of stinging nettles which made no impressions on the elder's hip waders, but which left me in my short pants far from happy. We had been only five minutes on the trail when I became disgusted with fishing for life.

"If you can't keep up," my father declared, "stay here in this open spot and wait until I get back."

With that terse command, he left me to my own devices. So I sat down on the nearest rock and wept till my sides were sore. Then, having dehydrated myself through crying, I developed a raging thirst. Dad had brought a thermos bottle full of water, on which he had securely tightened the cap. Unable to unscrew the cap, I banged the bottle on the rock, with the inevitable result.

With the return of my hot and thirsty parent, I was treated to a good sound spanking which added nothing to my enjoyment of the day.

Since that time, I've fished a half-dozen times, perhaps. But I'm willing to bet I have more fun and better luck than all my friends who do go after the elusive fish. I don't have to go within miles of a fishing camp and I never get beaten to an unhealthy pulp by the flies. When the temperature soars above 90 and the black flies bite, I go to the nearest pool for a swim.

It beats fishing by miles.

What Canadian wrote, "In Flanders Fields?"

The author of "In Flanders Fields" was a Canadian noted as both a physician and poet. John McRae was born at Guelph, Ontario, in 1872. He reached the rank of Lt.-Colonel in the First World War and died at Boulogne, France, shortly after he had been appointed consulting physician to the First British Army. Appointed Fellow in Pathology at McGill University and pathologist to the Montreal General Hospital in 1900, he became a physician of some note and wrote a number of medical texts. For many years before the war he had contributed to periodicals and in 1915 "In Flanders Fields", probably the most famous poem of the First World War, was published in the British magazine Punch.

Who made the first airplane flight in the British Empire?

John Alexander Douglas McCurdy, pioneer airman, who later served as Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia, made the first airplane flight in the British Empire on February 23, 1909, when he piloted his own plane, the Silver Dart, in a test flight above the ice on the Bras d'Or Lakes at Baddeck, N.S. Since 1907, he had been working in the Aerial Experiment Association, which had been formed at his home town, Baddeck, with Alexander Graham Bell, F. W. Baldwin, Glen Curtis, and Lieutenant Selfridge. He was active in aircraft production for many years and was Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia from 1947 to 1952.

Gentlemen:

We were interested to read in the "Watchman" of your hope of establishing a Technical School in Lachute. Supply of skilled labour is a serious restraint on our future expansion, and we believe that such a school would be the best solution to this problem.

We should be glad to give any assistance to this project that may be within our capacity.

Yours very truly,

NEUHAUSER CHICKS JAMESWAY EQUIPMENT

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

An angry female voice on the telephone said that one of the newspapers had a picture of a girl rider on the "wrong side' of her horse.

"You mean she was inside the horse, looking out?" I asked.

The lady said a few sharp words about my ignorance, and explained further. Custom decrees that you must hold and lead a horse from the left side, she said. You must also mount from the left.

The girl in the picture was holding her horse from the right-hand side. What kind of monkeys were running the newspapers, when they allowed things like that to appear, the lady wanted to know.

I admitted that the newspaper business had suffered a heavy blow to its prestige, but I thought it would survive. This seemed to make the lady even more angry. Her language grew hotter. She obviously blamed me for the whole thing. I told her that quite a number of papers ran pictures without asking my permission. But she wasn't impressed. She hung up in a rage.

I checked with some horsey people, who said the lady was right. However, the picture was nothing to get excited about. The other day a respectable Canadian newspaper ran a charming picture of a girl looking out from under a horse's neck. It did not raise so much as a whinny of disapproval.

Mounting from the right is a breach of custom equal to smoking a cigar with the band still on. Some horses take a serious view of it. The four-legged snobs will try to kick anyone who approaches them from the starboard side.

That's all very well. But I don't blame the girl rider for the faux pas. When a photographer orders you to move in closer to the horse, and "you stand over there, Jack" and "you stand there, Susie", wise people don't argue. An angry photographer is more dangerous than an angry horse.

Later I learned the origin of the custom of mounting from the left. Centuries ago men wore swords at their left side. Consequently they put the left foot in the stirrup and threw the right leg over the saddle.

An oaf who tried to mount from the right would get tangled in his sword. So I was told by a one-time member of a famous cavalry regiment. He proved to be a mine of information. He said that the custom of keeping to the left of the road, which still prevails in Britain, began in the rough days when any man might be an enemy. Therefore a knight kept his right arm towards the oncoming traffic, ready to draw his lance or sword at short notice.

Another thing: beer tankards had glass bottoms so that when a man drained his suds he could see whether some secret enemy (perhaps the fellow who was buying the drinks) was about to plunge a knife into his vitals.

From this habit of constant vigilance (my informant said) came the toast: "Here's looking at you."

TO ALL LIFE INSURANCE POLICYHOLDERS:

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Retirement Savings Plans Eligible for INCOME TAX DEDUCTIONS

The Income Tax Act (Canada) was recently amended to permit individual taxpayers to deduct from their income, within certain limits, premiums paid for retirement savings plans in 1957 and later years.

The savings portion of either a new or an existing life insurance policy may be qualified as a retirement savings plan. Existing life insurance policies therefore need not be surrendered in order to take advantage of this tax relief.

The possible advantages of the deduction should in each case be considered in relation to the restrictions required by law to be included in a savings plan to make it eligible for the deduction, and in relation to the policyholder's own particular tax circumstances.

Policyholders interested in the new deduction should consult their life insurance underwriters or their companies.

Lachute United Church Sunday School Picnic

Excitement ran high as these three contestants made for the finish line in one of the numerous races held at Saturday's Sunday School Picnic, sponsored by the Lachute United Church. — Photo by Syd Drew

The Lachute United Church Sunday School picnic was held Saturday afternoon on Bruce Bradford's lawn at North River.

The large number of children and adults who attended participated enthusiastically in the games (including everything from racing to tug of war). The juniors were reported to be especially keen and much amusement resulted from their efforts.

Some great talent among the ladies is reported — some of the greats in carpentry put on a display of nail hammering.

A lunch with ice cream and soft drinks climaxed a perfect day in a beautiful location.

The Rev. Wilson Bridge presented prizes to the winners, and also expressed his thanks on behalf of the Sunday School to Mrs. Bruce Bradford, thus bringing to a close a successful day.

Over the Years with THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

June 23, 1882 —

Despite the repeated protests of this paper, Lachute sidewalks are as bad as ever they were — holes here, loose planks there, and no sidewalks at all in other places.

James Brodie, a young man of Chatboro, met his death recently in a drowning accident while crossing Pipestone Creek on his way to Qu'Appelle, in the N.W.T.

One engineer and two assistants went back with Mr. Newton to Lake Louisa to locate the fume to be built between that point and this village.

On numerous occasions, the Lachute Watchman has advocated the establishment of a library, and a reading room in Lachute. At the present time there is no place where the young men can meet to spend a quiet and pleasant evening, except in the barroom.

Miscreants broke into the tailoring establishment of John Webster, St. Andrews East, and stole customers' clothing to the value of $60 or $70.

The election for Argenteuil is over and Hon. J. J. C. Abbott was returned without opposition.

25 YEARS AGO

June 16, 1932 —

It is the fond hope that Lachute will be favored with good weather for the Annual Spring Fair, which opened its doors on Wednesday and is now in full swing. Every barn, shed, and stable is filled to capacity, housing the largest entry list of exhibitors that Argenteuil Agricultural Society has ever booked, and the most enthusiastic rivalry prevails in all classes.

Success far beyond expectations attended the efforts of the committee which organized the first parade and open air Church Service of the Brownsburg Boy Scout Group. Public interest in Scout work was proved beyond doubt; considerably over 1000 people congregated on the Brownsburg Recreation Grounds for the service.

Morrison-Clark Wedding Held Recently In Margaret Rodger Memorial Church

The marriage of Gladys Isabel Clark, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Clark, of Lachute, to George Grant Morrison, son of Mrs. A. Broadbelt and the late Thomas Morrison took place Saturday, June 15 in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Jas. Armour officiating at the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. W. M. Cottingham played the wedding music and Mrs. Donald Banks sang during the signing of the register. Standards of white and red gladioli were used as decorations in the church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of organdy tulle and Chantilly lace, fashioned with a fitted bodice and a Queen Ann neckline, appliqued with lace roses and embroidered in tiny seed pearls and irridescent sequins, long sleeves ending in points over her hands and a very full skirt billowing into graduated tiers of lace and tulle. A tiara type head-dress held her shoulder length veil of tulle in place and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white pompoms.

Mrs. Boyd Dorcas was matron of honor for her sister and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Richard Small and Miss Joan McLarnon, who were in frocks of lilac nylon sheer over taffetta fashioned with shirred bodices, off the shoulder necklines and floating panels falling from low V'd back over bouffant skirts with matching headdresses and shoes. They carried bouquets of pink lilac and purple sweetpea and white feverfew.

Miss Nancy Ann King, as flowergirl, wore a bouffant frock of lilac nylon sheer with a peterpan collar, brief puffed sleeves and a draped sash tying into a large bow at the back. She wore a bandeau of white flowers and carried a basket of pink lilac and purple sweetpea and white feverfew.

Boyd Dorcas acted as best man and the ushers were Ronald Clark and Donald Banks. Master Ronald Johnson acted as ringbearer.

Mrs. Clark, mother of the bride wore a Coronette original of pale blue peault de soie and French lace, matching hat and shoes, pink gloves and bag and the corsage consisted of pink carnations.

Mrs. Broadbelt, mother of the groom, wore a gown of dusty rose lace with a matching hat and a corsage bouquet of white carnations.

The reception was held in the Legion Hall in Brownsburg. The tables there being daintily adorned with miniature sprays of yellow pompoms and standards of gladioli were also used for decoration.

Later the bridal couple left by motor for a trip through the New England States and Cape Cod, the bride travelling in a gown of pink nylon eyelet over taffeta, a matching white hat and bag, white shoes and gloves and wearing a corsage of white roses.

On their return the couple will take up residence in Dorval.

16 ABUNDANT LIFE BY ORAL ROBERTS

AN EAGLE SETS HIS WINGS

Two little girls were gathering roses. One of them ran into the house crying, "Mother," she said, every rose I have gathered has stuck me with its thorns." The other laughed gaily and said, "Mother, all my thorns have roses!"

What would you have seen—roses or thorns? Some people are sicker than others because of their melancholy outlook on life. They see the bad side of life because they practice wrong thinking and wrong believing.

It is the people who resist self-pity; who refuse to feel sorry for themselves, who will not allow themselves to cringe and whimper about life's struggle who know what living really is. They are the ones who can stand up and say, "I love God; I have faith in God. I believe God is with me, and if he is with me nothing or anyone can successfully be against me. I will succeed in his name."

I learn a wonderful lesson from the eagle. When a storm strikes an eagle, he sets his wings in such a way that the winds lift him above the storm by their very fury. It is the set of the wings that does it.

"One ship drives East, and one drives West, by the very same wind that blows. 'Tis the set of the sail and not the gale that determines the way the ship goes." Yes, and it is the right use of our faith that determines how the storms that come our way will treat us. We will rise above the storm; its very fury will send us higher and higher towards God—or else it will wreck us for time and eternity. Faith makes the difference.

A young man out of college said to his father, "Dad do you still believe there is a God?" "Yes, son." "Well, if there is a God, where is he?" The father smiled and said, "Son, where is he not?"

God is present everywhere at the same time. He is like the sun when it is shining. You may close your eyes but the sun shines right on—whether you look toward it or not. You do not have to go anywhere to find God for he is here and he is there. I find him here through my faith. You will find him there through your faith.

You can find him today. Let me emphasize that faith in God is the greatest single possession you will ever have in this world. There are people who think if they had lots of money, they would have everything. In my city there is a very rich woman who was afflicted with an incurable disease. One day her doctor came in and said to her, "Well, how are you today?" She said, "About the same, doctor and how are you?" He said, "Lady, there is nothing wrong with me that a million dollars won't cure." She said, "Doctor, I have a million dollars and you can't cure me."

In this world money is necessary and God has promised to supply our needs—all of them—according to his riches by Christ Jesus. But the most important thing in this world and in eternity is to have faith, faith in God.

Colfords Defeat "No Stars" In Sunday Event; Play Aviation Electric Next

Jean Guy Larocque struck out fifteen and pitched a two-hitter at CFCF last Sunday. Larocque also hit two home runs to help win his sixth straight game. Mel Stewart also hit a home run and had two doubles for a perfect day.

CFCF could not seem to get rolling or when they did manage to connect with a hit, Colford's boys came up with some terrific catches.

The No-Stars did not get their lonely run until the final inning and that one was unearned. Fernand Larocque played another fine game for the winners, making some fine catches and smashing out another triple. CFCF showed they were great sports and everyone enjoyed the game.

Next Sunday Colford's will play host to Aviation Electric of Montreal. The last time these two teams met Colford's managed to outlast the Montreal team 3-2, so this should be a real good game this Sunday.

Hawkesbury Defeats Local Bombers; Latter Meet Fassett in Home Game

Southpaw Geo. Raymond fought almost single-handedly in a Sunday afternoon effort to stop the Hawkesbury ball squad; the Brownsburg fielding was sloppy and through the first four innings Raymond had a hand in ten of the put-outs. He struck out six, caught one, threw out one and picked two off bases. George's work went for naught though as his side was trailing 5-1 when a cloudburst ended the game in the top of the sixth.

Don Devaney pitched a strong game for Hawkesbury and helped his own cause with line drives which went for a double and a single. Lavigne doubled and singled, Drouin tripled and singled and Berniquer singled twice. Rounding out Hawkesbury's ten-hit attack were Caron's double and Cyr's single.

For the losers, Yves Raymond doubled and Billy Cribb, Ron Cousineau, and Gilles Diotte singled in Brownsburg's four-hit attack. In the sixth inning which doesn't get into the books, Buddy Racine doubled and Jimmy Murdoch singled.

This week Fassett visits Brownsburg — game time is 2.30.

JOLSON NOTES

By Irvin R. Warwick

It is impossible for us to give a complete appraisal of the results of our Al Jolson tribute project in May because due to unfortunate circumstances, we were unable to check on all radio programs in their entirety. Of the six heard in full, four played Jolson records. On the basis of ten written to, this would be only 40%, equalling the previous lowest mark. However, the actual percentage probably was considerably higher, if the programs heard only in part were co-operative to any extent.

The tributes we heard were given by Current and Choice, Steve's Place, Make Believe Ballroom, and Calling All Cars. Also, whether by accident or design, Gord Sinclair played a Jolson record on May 25, the day before Al's birthday; and on Wednesday evening, May 29, CKAC devoted its 8.15 - 8.30 spot to Al's discs.

* * *

Some items from a recent Jolson Journal: "National Telefilm Associates has announced release of 'Swanee River', a Technicolor production featuring Al Jolson, Don Ameche, and Andrea Leeds made in 1939-1940. Watch your TV charts for listing! . . . New tele-spec coming up is 'Hold Onto Your Hats', which starred Al Jolson on Broadway. Eddie Davis who wrote the original will handle the chores for the TV shot. Jerry Lewis has done it again! Decca is releasing "Let Me Sing and I'm Happy', and 'It All Depends on You', two old Jolson favorites. It seems that Al's style will never die !

* * *

The year-long membership drive of The Al Jolson Memorial Club ends on August 1. The drive has been going well, and it is hoped that the membership roll will show a substantial increase during the remaining four weeks. Anyone wanting information about joining may, without obligation, write to The Al Jolson Memorial Club, Brownsburg, Que.

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE

Going Abroad?

If you're planning to spend your vacation this year in a foreign country – or several of them – the chances are good that you are the envy of your non-traveling friends. And they're right, for going abroad can be a great adventure.

You may also have been the target of dire warnings about the health problems you will encounter. Some of these are nonsense, but it's a good idea to know exactly what health problems you are likely to encounter, and how to deal with them.

One authoritative source is Henry Milo's The Traveler's Health Handbook, an attractive, illustrated 16-page booklet that covers everything from seasickness to shots. Among other things, Milo discusses proper wardrobes, drinking water, altitude, allergies, tired feet, how to cope with hot weather, and insect bites. It is quick and easy reading, and it takes up so little space that you can keep it handy for ready reference no matter where you go.

The booklet can't be bought, but you can have it for the price of a post card. It is distributed as a public service by a large pharmaceutical company. Just write to Dept. C, Chas. Pfizer & Co., Inc., 630 Flushing Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Ayersville Circus Here Thursday in Air Cadets Aid

Nearly twenty years ago the Garden Bros. Circus was originated as an indoor circus and has played many of the large arenas throughout Canada. This year for the first time the circus will appear under the traditional Big Top, carrying with it all the spectacular glory of the "Sawdust & Spangle" world.

Garden Bros. Circus was the second circus formed in Canada, and today is Canada's only circus, now the third largest in the world.

This year the circus will have many new, exciting and colorful attractions, featuring for the first time anywhere the Royal Inca Llamas: this act consists of six white Llamas captured among the rugged and windswept peaks of the Andes Mountains in Peru, then trained and schooled to perform in the circus ring to be presented by the beautiful and charming Fay Snyder. The performance also will include — a herd of elephants . . . dogs and ponies . . . daring and beautiful aerialists . . . clowns . . . acrobats . . . monkeys and chimpanzees . . . and many other thrilling and outstanding performers.

Another big feature this year will be the gigantic and colorful circus street parade complete with the old steam calliope.

Yes siree Circus Day is sure a day to remember on July 4 under auspices of the newly formed RCAF Air Cadets Squadron of Ayersville. It will be held at the Baseball Park in Ayersville.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

What is it about your passengers' behavior that makes you nervous — thus a poorer driver?

Does your husband keep up a running commentary on approaching traffic signals? Such chatter, which shows a lack of faith in the driver's ability, can make anyone nervous. Just tell him how you feel. If he relaxes, you can, too, and everyone can travel more comfortably.

Perhaps Junior has the bad habit of screaming "Look! Look!" and gesturing wildly at practically anything he sees as you're motoring. Naturally, this can distract even the best driver. Explain to him why this behavior is dangerous.

Does Sis clamber from the back seat to the front while you're driving? If she wants to move to the front seat, she should tell you. Then you can pull over to the side of the road, have her get out of the car (always on the right side) and then get in front.

Children should also be taught never to touch the door handles when the car is in motion. They should also be warned not to touch the door-locking mechanism.

Maybe father worries about getting lost, and keeps asking "Are you sure we're going in the right direction?" or "Shouldn't we have turned off three miles back?" Supply him with a well marked road map for himself.

Your passengers may have other habits that make you nervous. A frank discussion can end them, making for greater harmony and safer driving.

Inflationary Still Serious Danger, Bankers Informed

Seigniory Club, Que., June 21 (CP) — President F. W. Nicks of the Canadian Bankers' Association warned that the inflationary danger has not passed with the easing o pressures in the last few months.

"There remain strong upward pressures on costs and prices," he told the Association's annual meeting.

"The capital investment program is still enormous even though it is not increasing as rapidly as it was Its requirements for funds are very heavy and are continuing to exert pressure on the capital market, to accentuate our already big trade deficit and indirectly to sustain a strong demand for bank loans . . .

"While there is certainly a more even balance between expanding and contracting forces in the economic picture, it does not appear that the broad trend has yet turned in a downward direction."

Reviewing credit restrictions, Mr. Nicks said "there is much to suggest that we are in a period when the problems of monetary management are becoming increasingly difficult."

The "bite" of tight money is strengthening and its effects spreading, he said.

This called for alertness on the part of monetary authorities in watching the changing economic currents not only in Canada, but in the United States, so that when the time came to relax tight money, the change would be made promptly.

Turning to the suggestions of Governor James Coyne, of the Bank of Canada in his 1956 annual report, relating to the use of savings deposits, Mr. Nicks said they require serious consideration and the chartered banks are studying them thoroughly and carefully."

Bread With a Chocolate Filling Presents Variety of Uses

Everyone has had chocolate candy, chocolate cake, chocolate pie, chocolate cookies, but possibly not bread with a chocolate filling. In this case the filling of this extraordinary delicious coffee cake is flavored with cocoa. The evaporated milk contributes consistency and character which are important to the flavor and texture of the rich chocolatey filling. A word of caution: do not substitute other liquids for the evaporated milk called for in the chocolate filling. This delightful chocolate treat with the nut-like flavor and texture of bread is just the thing to go along with mid-morning and mid-afternoon glasses of fruit-ade . . . or as a meal-time dessert.

Chocolate Filled Ring

Yield — 2 rings

¼ Cup milk, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1½ teaspoons salt, ½ cup shortening, ½ cup lukewarm water, 2 teaspoons granulated sugar, 2 envelopes active dry yeast, 2 well-beaten eggs, 4 cups (about) once-sifted all-purpose flour, ½ cup sliced maraschino cherries, ½ cup chopped citron, ½ cup cocoa, ½ cup evaporated milk.

Scald milk; stir in ½ cup of the granulated sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm.

Meantime, measure lukewarm water into a large mixing bowl; stir in the 2 teaspoons granulated sugar. Sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture, well-beaten eggs and 2 cups of the flour. Beat until smooth and elastic. Add cherries, citron and sufficient additional flour to make a soft dough — about 2 cups more. Turn out on floured board or canvas and knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl; grease top. Cover and let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 1 hour.

Meantime, combine cocoa and the remaining ½ cup granulated sugar in a saucepan; stir in evaporated milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is smoothly thickened. Cool slightly.

Punch down dough and turn out onto lightly-floured board or canvas. Halve the dough and set one portion aside to shape later. Roll out one portion into an 8x16-inch rectangle. Spread with half the cooled chocolate filling. Starting at a long edge, roll up jelly roll fashion. Pinch along edge to seal firmly. Place on a greased cookie sheet; form into a ring; join and seal ends. Using scissors, slash roll at 1-inch intervals almost through the centre. Twist each section so it will lie partly on its side. Repeat with second portion of dough. Let rise, uncovered, in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 45 minutes. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) about 35 minutes. Frost, while warm, with the following Confectioners' Icing.

Confectioners' Icing

Combine icing sugar, vanilla and sufficient milk to make an icing of spreading consistency.

Written Specially for The Lachute Watchman

By Mary Burke, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian Girl Guides all over the country have been celebrating the centenary of the birth of Lord Baden-Powell.

As a tribute, Guide troops co-operated in presenting a musical pageant in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens that told the history of the Girl Guides in dramatic sequences. It was a colorful performance by massed companies that captured the imagination.

Standing side by side were Canadian girls dressed as African chieftains, white-skirted Austrian tennis players, Oriental women, Haitian women with fruit baskets on their heads, and typical women representatives of Greece, Holland, Panama, Japan, Germany — all countries in the movement.

Mrs. Norman Gianelli, of Toronto, of the Western Hemisphere Committee, represented the world organization.

The pageant also included a representation of the world camp which will be held this summer at Doe Lake, near Huntsville, Ont. The last act showed guides representing 38 countries which will send members to the Canadian World Camp. The event was planned by the Toronto Girl Guides.

Kids Talk Back

The hard-boiled, bellowing, bull-of-the-woods type of boss is as out of date in the modern world as the kerosene lamp, says Jack McQuaig of Toronto.

Conducting a methods clinic of the Board of Trade for 850 Vancouver executives, Mr. McQuaig said this type of boss doesn't stand a chance.

Parents are the cause of the fall of the bull-moose boss because of their modern child-rearing methods, he said.

"In the old days, the 'Old Man' gave the orders and the kids carried them out. Kids today talk back."

"There's a new breed of men and women at work. They won't take orders blindly." The business world requires men and women supervisors who are firm, honest and fair, he said.

Gay Sleeping Bags

With camping trips in the offing, families can look forward to sleeping comfort with new and better sleeping bags. And the beauty of these new bags is that they are designed for every-day use at home.

A variety of gay colors are found and linings feature nylon taffeta. They may also be converted into an attractive bed covering.

In winter, women will find these sleeping bags may be used as extra comforters at home.

No Thawing

A complete line of all-Canadian pre-packaged frozen meats now is being introduced. "There's no thawing," says a home economist. "The meat goes from freezer to frying pan."

This fast-frozen meat is more tender because the ice-crystals tend to break down any tough fibres. The fast-frozen method means less vitamin loss from seepage of juices during cooking. They bear a seal as top-quality fast-frozen meat, a method for which the Canadian Association of Consumers has long been campaigning.

Factory shipments of Canadian-made vehicles jumped more than 27 percent in 1955 over the preceding year. The 1955 shipments totalled 453,623 units.

Canadian Heritage

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

"O Canada where pines and maples grow,
Great prairies spread and lordly rivers flow,
How dear to us thy broad domain,
From East to Western sea;
Thou land of hope for all who toil
Thou True North strong and free."

R. Stanley Weir

July first reminds parents of the Canadian heritage which belongs to them and to their children. In the rush of the seasons when days follow each other so swiftly, it is good to have this holiday half way through the year, when we remember our national birthright.

There are three children in our home and we are eager that each year they should know more about their own land. We want them to appreciate the heritage of Canadian literature and art. Their school teachers and the librarians at the public library are constantly increasing their knowledge of Canadian writers and artists. From time to time we are adding to our family library, books such as John D. Robins' A Pocketful of Canada Hilda M. Riley's The Story of L. M. Montgomery; and Juvenile stories such as Fred Swayze's Tonty of the Iron Hand and C. A. M. Edwards Brook Watson of Beausejour.

Each year we purchase at least one good coloured print of a Canadian painting which we hang on our walls. "Stormy Weather, Georgian Bay" by Varley, from the National Gallery of Canada, was our choice one year and we have grown to love its strength and vigor. A reproduction of Arthur Lismer's Rock, Pine and Sunlight (Toronto Art Gallery) hangs in our hall.

We want our children to realize that our Canadian race is a mosaic of many different peoples, each bringing its own special contribution to our land. We want them to know not only those of British Isles ancestry but Canadians of other origins whom they meet at school. It has been our privilege to have newcomers from different lands as guests in our home and this last year it has been a particularly happy experience to get to know a Hungarian family who have sought refuge here.

Our children are becoming acquainted with the map of Canada and they see where our country lies in relation to other lands — to Great Britain across the Atlantic, to the United States, our neighbour to the South, and to the other parts of the world. There is a large world map on the wall of our den and we are planning to buy a sphere when we can afford it.

But we are eager that our children's knowledge of Canada should not be confined to our immediate locality or to second-hand book or map knowledge. Each holiday-time we go on a trip, when we see some new part of Canada. We have visited our former homes in St. Catherines, Sarnia, North Bay, and Peterborough. We have made trips to Niagara Falls, to Montreal and to Ottawa. The visit to our national capital, to the Parliament Buildings there and the Peace Tower was especially rewarding. Some day we hope to go on a trip to the Maritimes and another year to see the Rockies. A visit to Stratford to see a play of Shakespeare's was a very high occasion which we enjoyed so much that we covet it for other parents, especially those with adolescents in their family.

We want our children to honour the Canadian Ensign and to be proud of the British and Canadian traditions for which it stands. We want them to see that being a Canadian does not interfere with allegiance to the British Commonwealth of loyalty to the cause of the United Nations. We want them to sense how important is freedom in the eyes of Canadians.

We know our children will not forget an Hungarian guest in our home who exclaimed: "We have come so far to live here, where men are unafraid — where they are free!"

BACKACHE May be Warning

Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest or that tired-out and heavy-headed feeling may soon follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. It DOES matter which Oil Burner you buy!

If you're in the market for an oil burner, there are dozens for you to choose from. They all look very much alike. They all burn oil. Some are pretty efficient, others less so. But, unless you're an engineer, there's no way for you to decide which burner is best for your needs, except by insisting on one made by a reputable, long-established manufacturer. Like Smart's, for example. We recommend Smart's series "A" oil burners because when we sell one we know that the customer is going to be satisfied with the deal, for a long time. If that seems to you to be a good reason for buying a Smart's oil burner, let us show you the complete range, and tell you all about them.

AIR AGE REACHES MOOSE FACTORY

The Moose River, Ont., air cadet squadron has a girl drummer, Carol Mawhinney, attached to it but that is not the only way in which the squadron is unique. When a three-man inspection team from the RCAF station at Trenton arrived, they found that most of the Indian members of the squadron had never seen a train but were well acquainted with air travel. They fly from their homes every year to attend school at Moose Factory and all the squadron's equipment is transported by air. Drummer Mawhinney is a stenographer at the Moose Factory Indian hospital. Boys in this photo are James Rickard, Alan Corston, Roy Turner and Wilmer Rodricky.

Return to Lakefield Homestead to Flying Insects Now In Evidence

"Exile From Sunnyacres"

By Margaret Cook

Not really. By the time you read this, we shall be at the old homestead for what the man of the house refers as "the silly season". When we were up at the farm recently, all the countryside was still practically void of inhabitants except the pesky flying insects. June is the heyday of such. Should a person be more or less immune to one species, he is sure to be particularly susceptible to another. Mosquitoes never bite the writer, if there is anyone else around, but black flies find her blood much to their liking. As mosquitoes adore the man of the house, and the minute no-see-ums, or midges, have a mild poisonous effect on the offspring, the whole insect life must rejoice when the Cooks arrive at Sunnyacres. So pestiferous were these little creatures that we decided to come back to suburbia until the pure Laurentian air was less populous.

At least, that was one reason. The other was a wedding. Why June was ever popular for weddings is one of the unsolved mysteries of society. We notice, gratefully, a swing to September as the favored month. Weddings in June can be a real trial by fire. The ushers at this affair mopped their brows between each parade up the aisle, the bridegroom was visibly wilting, while his father was a rich purple. The bride was cool and collected, even with camara lights popping. Somehow we do not like this taking of pictures during the putting on of the ring. No doubt it does make an interesting item for the grandchildren, but for us who are present in the world now, there is a certain aura of theatre, which, we feel, should be lacking in the house of God. Having written that, we remember that some one who should know, has said that all great divines would have made equally great actors, and if so, why not a stage? Come to think of it ,Saint Peter was certainly of the artistic temperament, and Saint Paul had at times theatrical eloquence. We must be wrong; it must be the last trickle of Quaker blood making itself felt. For we had a Quaker grandmother, a dear, quaint little thing, with snapping brown eyes and a soft tongue that delighted with their 'thee's and thou's'.

Because of the Quaker ancestor, we went to see the film "Friendly Persuasion", and found it delightful. Except for some doubtful semi-modern slang on the part of the Father (Gary Cooper) Hollywood had restrained itself remarkably, probably because of the influence of the author, Jessamine West, who had been made consultant. Those of you who read of her adventures in Hollywood never-never land, while making the picture, will be sympathetic and congratulatory when you see the result. Not a great picture, you understand, but a restful oasis in the desert of Hollywood spectacles. We saw, too, recently a British comedy, "The Green Man". If you like crime with humor, you will like this. Alastair Simm does some expert fooling about, all the time making shrewd comments on the British political scene. His theory, in the film, is that political bores should be removed from the scene, violently and permenently. He does it with bombs, mostly.

In Canada, we do it by votes. Such an upset on June 10! Although not a rabid Conservative or, for that matter, not a rabid anything in politics, we were pleased with the result. "Absolute power corrupts absolutely" is a well-known saying amply demonstrated as true by historical events. While the Liberal power was not obsolute, it was rapidly becoming so, and power has a disastrous effect on all but the most noble. Nobody questions the integrity of Mr. St. Laurent, but some of his henchmen were less than noble. Personally, regardless of the result, we were thrilled, as we seldom are politically, by the evidence that Canadians are not the apathetic sheep that they have seemed to be for so long. Democracy has vindicated itself.

Due to the courtesy of the heads of the Lachute Fair, we saw another aspect of democracy this month. These county fairs are intriguing, both for their format and content, history, too, as we believe their origin is quite ancient. It is fun to think that put the people in different costumes, and make the Midway even more flamboyant, one might well be back five hundred years. Of course, in Argenteuil county, one of the best aspects of the fair, for the writer, is the friendships one renews, or rather, refurbishes, for we do not let good friendships lapse. We enjoy walking about on the arm figuratively or literally of a bronzed farmer, who is, at the same time, in our mind, young Jim, or Tom or Harry. We like farmers, anyway. The soil and the weather teach them patience and the animals, humility and nobility. And they all have a sense of humor, or else, how could they be farmers? In England, the farmer is one of the elite ranking close to the statesmen. In Canada, his worth is not so well appreciated, which is foolish, for we should all starve without the farmer. These are general observations; in particular, we did the usual things — we saw meek, sleek cows, magnificent bulls, proud horses, one wall-eyed stallion, and in a less earthy vein, some beautiful handwork. The man of the house saw a lady performing precariously on a bicycle. It gave him a severe headache so we repaired to the home of a kind friend and were comforted with cold lemonade and fresh cake.

So now we return to the last frenzied preparations for the summer — woollens to be washed or sunned, bureau drawers to be tidied, with glad cries of "Oh, there it is! I've been looking for it for months. "Last minute shopping, because the longer one waits the cheaper summer things. And washing of curtains — I think I have a world record, 'a poor thing, but my own', I am almost certainly the only women who has ever washed a bat in a machine, or out of it, for that matter. Putting in my hand, I encountered among the thick suds what felt like a bird, bits of a bird, that is. I withdrew hastily, and counselled myself firmly. It could not be a bird, be your age, use your mind not your emotions; it was bits of dusters formed into a ball, be sensible, don't panic. So I began to drain the tub, and all went fine until the outlet plugged, and then, you guessed it it was stopped by the remains of a bat. The other two members of the household dealt with the departed while Margaret Cook steamed in the garden. As Betty reported, "Its (word of Churchillian use, of four letters) were all over the place." Solution of the puzzle: Probably Peter the cat had killed the interloper in his cellar domain, and had concealed it in a blanket waiting to be washed. Sometimes housekeeping has its moments.

"Work-horse jobs are a cinch for Fargo Trucks"
says Eastern Construction Company, Limited

1. It's the ruggedness Fargo builds into a truck that pays off. Eastern's big-muscled Fargos work day in, day out, hauling masonry to construction jobs like this big $2,000,000 project. It's a punishing schedule that requires reliability.

2. This Fargo "construction job" can meet all the demands placed on it—and then some! Frame has double-width front crossmembers. Springs are of durable chrome-alloy steel.

3. Extra V-8 power, rated from 180 to 232 h.p., makes Fargo trucks the power leaders in their price ranges, from agile Fargo express and panel models to rugged heavy-duty trucks.

4. Safer operation is a cinch, too. Big wrap-around windshield and optional wrap-around rear window, constant-speed electric windshield wipers are just a few of many safeguards.

I.E.L. Pioneer Chain Saws Expansion Meets Increased Business and Sales

Staff Additions Obtained From Faraway Points

Modernized Offices Airconditioned

Pioneer Chain Saws Inc., which up until three years ago was but a small subsidiary of Farmers' Supply Company, has gone ahead with leaps and bounds, now boasting a total employment of 31 persons, 19 of whom are located in the company's newly designed offices in their Foundry Street building. Heading the list of personnel are Lloyd Kerr, former Superintendent of Training for the Quebec North Shore Paper Company, who is now General Manager for the wide-reaching territory covered by the local concern; Mrs. A. K. Eddie, Office Manager, and Gordon Tabrett, Credit Manager and Accountant who has been with the concern for some time and is well known in this area.

Farmers' Supply Company is under the direction of General Manager Georges Desfosses while Office Manager is Miss Laura Davis who has been with the concern for

Lloyd Kerr, General Manager

15 years and during this time, reports having seen a vast number of improvements. The local store is managed by Stuart Thompson and a branch of Farmers' Supply, located in Vankleek Hill, is managed by Frank Williams, formerly of Lachute.

Pioneer Chain Saws' glass-topped offices of the most modern design, present a bright, airy and roomy appearance, the facilities being capable of housing 15 employees without crowding. Sound-proofing material has been installed in the business machine office as well as in the main office, all of which are air conditioned.

Entering the upstairs of the building into a reception room, a display of I.E.L. Pioneer Chain Saws and literature meets the eye. Off the reception room are located the private and general offices and a modern, fully-equipped cafeteria where employees of both companies enjoy coffee breaks and lunches.

In the I.E.L. Pioneer Chain Sow business for some ten years, it was three years ago that Jim and Colin McOuat whipped the chain saw wholesale division into a new company, severing the chain saw business from the local "Farmer's Store."

The "baby" of the family is now grown-up with headquarters in Lachute and branch offices located in Quebec City and Moncton, N.B., both headed by former local residents in the persons of Albert Meuiller, in Quebec, and Herb Graham in Moncton; Garth Berry, another Lachute boy, also working out of Moncton. Stockroom manager for the Lachute territory is Doug Ogilvie.

General Manager Lloyd Kerr, who holds a B.Sc. degree in Forestry Engineering, is married and the father of a two-year-old son. He served in the Royal Canadian Navy and the British Navy during World War II, joining up in 1940 when he was graduated from the University of New Brunswick. He was employed as Superintendent of Training for the Quebec North Shore Paper Co. following the end of the war, and for the past eight years has been working out of Baie Comeau.

During the last two years, he acted as chairman of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association Training Committee for Canada (Woodlands Division) and Chairman of the C.P.P.A.'s special committee on Industrial Relations, centering his efforts on a special study project. He resigned both positions prior to his coming to Lachute in April.

Mrs. A. K. Eddie, who since her recent arrival here has been Office Manager, has been associated with the parent company for some years. She started with I.E.L. in North Bay in 1948 and was made office manager there a year later when the Industrial Engineering Company was still in its infancy. She was transferred to Vancouver last year and following the death of her husband, accepted the position as Office Manager of Pioneer Chain Saws Inc.

Mrs. Eddie served in London with the Canadian Red Cross where she was Matron of the Nursing Sisters' Club from 1943 to the end of hostilities. She was also active in Red Cross work in Niagara Falls where

The McOuat brothers indicate that additional qualified office staff will be required, as business continues to expand and it is apparent by all indications that the steady growth in the past three years has given Lachute a start towards a line of new industries coming into the area.

Among the numerous modern features for the local staff is this modern, well-equipped employee's cafeteria and meeting room.

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you:

Q. I lost my job recently and filed an insurance claim in order to get benefit. If I get married in a month, as I expect to, can I keep on receiving benefit?

A. Presumably this enquiry is from a female worker. Payment of benefit after marriage would depend on the reason for leaving your last employment. Enquiry should be made at your local office giving all of the facts. There are special regulations with respect to the receipt of benefit by married women.

Q. I left my last job and now wish to work only part-time. I am told, however, that I am not available for work. How can that be true when I want part-time work?

A. If you are only available for part-time work your availability may be too limited to meet requirements of the Act unless there are reasonable opportunities of part-time work in your area and there are special circumstances to justify your restricting yourself to part-time work. For example, if a married woman is the breadwinner for her family she may be considered available for employment under such circumstances.

Electronic Secretary Answers Phone Talks, Records Messages in Absence

The fear of missing important telephone calls need no longer keep a person from leaving his home or office unattended.

He can now obtain an "electronic secretary" which will automatically answer his telephone when he is absent.

Two such devices are now made available by the Bell Telephone Company in its Ontario-Quebec territory, according to R. R. Pearson, the company's manager for this region.

One, the automatic telephone answering set, will answer the telephone and give callers a message — recorded before the user leaves his premises.

The second type, the automatic telephone answering and recording set, goes a step further. It will not only answer the call and give the caller a pre-recorded message, but will also invite the caller to leave a message, which will be recorded and ready for the user when he returns.

The pre-recorded message, which starts to "talk" when the number has been dialed, can be up to 28 seconds long. The equipment gives the callers 10 minutes of message time, and each individual message can be up to a half a minute in length.

The recording system is controlled by a series of double "beep" tones which tells the caller when to start recording his message. A second pair of "beep" tones tells him when he is nearing the end of the recording period.

Both the pre-recorded messages and those of callers are recorded on revolving drums. Old messages are automatically erased from these drums as new ones are recorded.

The new automatic recording sets, encased in attractive housings designed to harmonize with most office and residential furnishings, can be used with individual residence or business telephone lines and with private switchboard trunk and extension equipment. Both types require 60 cycle electric current.

Expected to prove particularly valuable to such people as doctors, lawyers, dentists, druggists, architects, insurance agents, brokers, engineers real estate agents and television and radio repairmen, the new types of telephone equipment are especially useful in small offices which lack sufficient personnel to provide fulltime telephone answering service.

It means that the telephone can be left unattended during the day for long periods. It also means that incoming, after-hours and holiday telephone calls can be recorded to be dealt with during subsequent business hours.

NO METERS

Lethbridge, Alta. (CP) — Downtown Lethbridge streets are a motorist's paradise, says Mayor T. H. Haig. He told the Southern Alberta Co-Operative Association Lethbridge is one of the few cities where parking meters don't confront farmers every time they visit — there are none.

OF MANY THINGS

PUBLISHING IS COSTLY

The cost of publishing a newspaper has become alarmingly high. Quite a few conscientious publishers who have tried to give their readers a really good print job have wound up, at year's end, without any profits. Yet, while the newspapers struggle to improve, they face more and more competition from the most surprising quarters.

For example, the various governments which used to farm out large quantities of printing, now handle it themselves. The federal government gives millions of dollars to subsidize radio and television, while at the same time establishing a huge printing plant of their own at Hull, across the river from Ottawa.

Now the government proposes to pay out millions of dollars to a Canadian Arts Council to encourage culture. No doubt the Arts Council, like the CBC, will expect the newspapers to publish pages and pages of free publicity about their activities.

Do none of these culture-loving politicians realize that a weekly newspaper is probably the most important reading matter in a vast number of Canadian homes? — Surely, this is part of our national culture if anything is.

Newspapers certainly don't want subsidies or handouts, but at the same time they cannot help but resent seeing so much of their tax money being spent in direct competition to them.
