Ottawa Valley Development Board Organized Among River Communities

Meeting Sponsored by St. Andrews Ch. of Commerce, to Co-ordinate Promotion of Waterway Interests

Formation of the Ottawa Valley Development Board, which was carried out Saturday at the St. Andrews East Golf and Country Club, united some 50 delegates from Ottawa Valley communities in a common purpose — the exploitation of the Ottawa River's vast and untapped economic potential. Sponsored by the St. Andrews East Chamber of Commerce, the conference scrutinized reports on waterway problems, revenue traffic, industrial build-up, and costs of the projects.

"For a mere $30-million the whole Ottawa River Valley can buy an entirely new economic era," the conference was told by Tupper Porter, technical adviser to the St. Andrews East Chamber of Commerce. The survey made for the Georgian Bay Canal scheme was still highly valid in many respects, Mr. Porter added, although the results of that survey were printed nearly 60 years ago.

"Oddly enough, the earth-moving costs we are considering today — in the section from Montreal to Ottawa — would be much the same as they were 60 years ago. In those days it was all pick-and-shovel, while today we have monster machines."

Paul Labrèche, president of the St. Andrews East Chamber of Commerce, declared that current development of the St. Lawrence Seaway would automatically solve some tremendous problems. "The surface of water in Montreal Harbour is 21½ feet above sea-level," said Mr. Labrèche. "There is a rise through the Lachine rapids of 45 feet to Lake St. Louis. Development of power reserves in the vicinity of Victoria Bridge will provide a water-head of 50 feet. . . This will raise the level of Lake St. Louis by five feet, and create a huge lake between Victoria Bridge and Ste. Anne de Bellevue. This will remove the rapids at Ile Perrot and give us slack water and more depth for easy navigation from the St. Lawrence to Carillon.

"The Long Sault rapids rise approximately 56 feet between Carillon and Grenville; but here again we have a power project with a water-head high enough to level off this 61-foot slope, and to create a vast lake with slack water . . . and excellent sites for piers, docks and storage facilities."

Key issue in any plans for the Ottawa River, said Mr. Labrèche, was the provision at Carillon of adequate water depth in the proposed new locks. Present blueprints, he said, call for a depth of only nine feet, whereas the Ottawa Valley Development Board suggests a minimum depth of 22-feet.

Antoine Paré of St. Andrews East, who presided, emphasized the strategic values of a second major waterway in times of war or conflict. "Not only that," said Mr. Paré, "but we can provide good transportation for a vast and wealthy hinterland . . . attract new industries . . . and promote a new age of prosperity." As a long-range plan, Mr. Paré suggested, the Ottawa River development should bear in mind an ultimate link with Georgian Bay, on the one hand, and with the Richelieu River system, on the other. Shippers of newsprint, ores and other bulk freight have expressed keen interest in the Ottawa Valley projects.

Foremost problem, the conference agreed, was provision for adequate locks at Carillon. The only major work needed to provide 120 miles of fine natural waterways, Mr. Labrèche remarked, is on the locks at Carillon; there would be a certain amount of dredging needed but the $30-million figure quoted by Mr. Porter was insignificant when compared to the $50-million allotted for improvements to Montreal Harbour alone.

Jacques Ayotte, Mayor of Rockland, Ont., proposed an alliance with the Eastern Ontario Development Association, to co-ordinate the promotion work now being done for Ontario's "Golden Triangle" with the work of the Ottawa Valley Development Association. Mr Ayotte undertook to arrange a meeting between officers of the two groups.

Full support to the new Board was pledged by the Province of Quebec Chamber of Commerce through its director-general, Maurice Robidas of Montreal. Mr. Robidas agreed to serve as temporary chairman of the action committee.

J. S. Giroux, of Hull, Que., secretary of the co-ordinating committee of the Western Quebec Chambers of Commerce, proposed an advertising campaign for the Ottawa Valley, with a central office to gather and correlate information for potential industries.

Hunter's Dog Finds Remains of Man Missing Since '55

The remains of Robert Carlton, 45, a former resident of Longueuil, were discovered Saturday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock by Benoit Poirier, 40, of Lachute, on the farm property of Arthur F. Hanley, in the Parish of St. Jerusalem.

Mr. Poirier was exercising his hunting dog, when the latter led him to the human skeleton in the sugar bush. An empty bottle of sleeping pills was found in a pocket among remnants of clothing.

The deceased, a long-time employee of the North British and Mercantile Insurance Company in Montreal, was reported missing in the Lachute area September 24, 1955, and fruitless attempts were made to trace him. It is believed the man had been the victim of a nervous breakdown prior to his disappearance.

Surviving the late Robert Carlton are two brothers, Herbert, of Lachute; Gene, of Toronto; and two sisters, Mrs. Tom Dent, of Longueuil, and Muriel, of Toronto.

Plans for Richelieu Club Annual Charity Affair – Field Day August 10

Horse races, a super-bingo, a visit from Maurice "Rocket" Richard, and the drawing of an automatic washing and drying machine, are the main features planned for the annual field day of the local Richelieu Club, which will take place on the Exhibition Grounds on August 10.

The harness races, which have been highly successful in previous years, are again featuring some of the best horses and drivers of the district — according to Roger Martel, president of the local Club.

In order to hold the spectators' interest between races and events, the Club is presenting a number of variety acts, including a power-saw contest, wrestling, and a bicycle race.

Jean Paul Roy and Ivanhoe Chevrier, joint presidents of the charity campaign, state that more than $500 will be offered in prizes for the bingo, including a coffee table, a telephone table and chair, a mobile bridge table, a travelling desk, lounging chairs, an automatic toaster, a portable mixmaster, and a record cabinet.

Maurice Richard, Canadiens hockey star, will be present on this occasion, through co-operation of the local Dow Brewery agent, René Laurin. He will probably be the one to draw the winning ticket for the automatic washing and drying machine, generously donated by Roger Lamarche, Main Street furniture dealer.

Tickets for the draw are now being sold; those who purchase a complete book will be admitted free of charge — the cover of the book being an admission ticket acceptable at the gate.

Assault Charge And Robberies At Brownsburg

Thefts of $25 and $55 were reported by two Brownsburg establishments, the Crown Theatre and Hebert Restaurant, respectively which were broken into Sunday night. Entry was made by a small window in the theatre, and by a back door in Hebert's Restaurant. Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allan, of Lachute, investigated.

Charge Laid

Gabriel Letecher, 31, formerly of Belgium, was arrested Monday by Sgt.-Det. Allan and charged with beating his employer, Rosaire De Repentigny, proprietor of a Brownsburg bakery. The incident occurred on Saturday following an argument about wages.

Enthusiasm at Harrington As 4,000 Enjoy Field Day At C.I.P. Co. Forest Farm

Woods Equipment Seen In Action Entertainment With A TV Maestro

Old-time country fiddling took the spotlight Saturday as a record-breaking crowd of 4,000 persons turned out for the annual Forestry Field Day sponsored by Canadian International Paper Company at the Harrington Forest Farm. The first fiddlers' contest to be included in the annual event held for wood suppliers and their families brought Gordie Tapp, star of the TV "Country Hoedown", to Harrington as the contest judge.

Playing his familiar role as "Cousin Clem", Tapp acted as master of ceremonies and treated the crowd to some choice comedy, besides handling the judging duties. Winner of the $25 first prize among the 14 competing fiddlers was 17-year-old Victor Staniforth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Staniforth, Arundel, Que.

Displays of logging equipment, a power-saw contest, and a home-cooked bean feast in which close to 400 pounds of beans were consumed, were other major items in the day's proceedings. The equipment on display included both four-wheel drive and track tractors, various types of pulpwood loaders, power saws of all makes, and pumps and other firefighting gear.

Among the displays seen at Harrington for the first time were two mechanical wood-splitters, which are designed to split firewood without recourse to anything as old-fashioned as an axe.

Michel Baril, of St. Michel de Wentworth, Que., won the power-saw contest and the $30 first prize when he made his three cuts through a 12-inch spruce log in 17.9 seconds. Second place was taken by André Ruel, of Quebec City, with Emile Valiquette, of Montreal, finishing third.

Mrs. Edward Trineer, of Calumet, Que., was the second-place winner in the fiddling contest. Jean-Paul Lefebvre, of Ste. Marthe, who demonstrated his skill on a home-made fiddle, was awarded a consolation prize.

Another new contest added this year was a leaf identification contest, in which the entrants were asked to correctly name 20 leaves of local hardwoods and softwoods displayed on a panel. Winners were — Gerald V. Vowles, of Brownsburg; A. P. Courtice, of Kemptville, Ont.; Gordon Spence, of Hawkesbury; Stanislas Paquette, of Lachute; Madeleine LeBel, of Hawkesbury; and Mme Henri Dupont, of Curran, Ont.

All 20 species of trees to figure in the contest — from hardwoods like maple, birch and beech to softwoods like hemlock, tamarack and pine — are utilized in the Hawkesbury mill of Canadian International Paper Company, along with the old stand-bys, spruce and balsam.

This year's guest artist, "Cousin Clem", proved particularly popular with the youngsters who attended the Field Day. An hour after he had announced the winner of the fiddling contest and left the platform, "Cousin Clem" was still busy signing autographs.

Woodlot Owners May Win Awards

A second series of tree farm awards to be given by the Canadian International Paper Company to woodlot farmers for the best managed wood lots, situated in Quebec within a 50-mile radius of Grenville, was announced by Resident Manager M. R. "Manny" Wilson at the Company's field day at Harrington last Saturday.

The awards will be given in the summer of 1960. They carry prizes of $200 for the first-place winner, $100 for second place, and a $50 third prize, Mr. Wilson said. Similar awards were made at last year's annual C.I.P. event.

Old Problems, New Variations On Agenda at B'burg Council

Brownsburg — At the July meeting of Brownsburg Council, the topics discussed were many and varied.

A complaint was received about Mr. St. Jean's "chip" wagon, which stands usually at the corner of Bank Street. The matter will be considered, but the feeling has been that the owner has paid his taxes and that Council must allow him to carry on his business. He may, however, be asked to "move around" more.

A question was raised as to the high tax on swimming pools. Council is holding the line this year as last, at $25 for pools of 500-999 gallons, $50 for 1,000 to 2,000 gallons, and $100 for capacities over 2,000 gallons.

Mr. "Mickey" Cowley asked Council to make an effort to control speeding in town especially on Maple Avenue. He pointed out that, on the few occasions speedsters are arrested in Brownsburg, it is usually on the Lachute Road at a time when a few miles over the limit could be tolerated. On the narrow streets perhaps one or two tickets a week would show motorists that we have a speed-cop. The Council assured Mr. Cowley that the policeman would be instructed to be more vigilant, and that extra speed limit signs will be installed soon. It was suggested, during the discussion, that a sign indicating the road to Ottawa should be erected at the corner of Main and Maple Avenue.

Regarding the vacancy for an assessor, Secretary-Treasurer Vincent Charbonneau reported that, of the men he had been instructed to contact, Mr. Aldège Carrière had indicated his willingness to accept. Coun. Réal Ouellette moved that Mr. Carrière be appointed to replace the retiring Mr. Albini Brunelle; Coun. René Lafleur seconded the motion.

On the correspondence side, the councillors asked the mayor to fight two of the public assistance claims. . . A tender from P & B Hall Co. to dig the waterworks project on Woodbine, specified $560 plus $7 per cubic yard of ledge rock. . . The new streetlight at Mr. Ken Murdoch's house has at last been installed. . . A bounty has been set for foxes, of 50 cents per pair of ears. . . A letter from Mr. Robert Matte, tailor, complained about the deplorable state of sidewalks. Councillors Ouellette and Therrien were instructed to investigate the renewing of all defective sidewalks.

Police Chief W. Lepine reported that the siren at 9 p.m. will be sounded only on Saturdays, until the re-opening of the schools. He showed a certificate received from the Safety League of Quebec marking a year of no road deaths in this municipality.

Five parking tickets at $2 each and nine parking warnings were given during the month. One speeder was fined $25 and three accidents having a total damage of $400 were reported. License fees were received — $18 for dogs and $21.25 for bicycles.

A cheque for $459 for the upkeep of winter roads was received by Council from the Provincial Government.

Back on the sidewalk issue, the roads committee was instructed to proceed with the plan to have sidewalks built alongside the properties of Messrs. Percy McAdam and Russell Graham. The sidewalk at Main and Convent Streets, which was broken to alter the corner, will be rebuilt.

It was resolved to study the system of handling entertainment tax, and one proposal is that secretary-treasurer Charbonneau, rather than Police Chief Lepine, should be responsible for all entertainment taxes. It was stated 640 people were taxed at the recent "Rigolade" show, while rumors have it that 2,300 attended.

C-I-L notified the Council that they would like to build sidewalks on Greenwood Avenue at their own expense. It was resolved to accept the offer if the sidewalks are built under the supervision of the councillors.

1st Avenue N.E. will be named alternately Fletcher Avenue.

Police Chief Lepine will be charged with the responsibility of collecting all dog and bicycle taxes.

Of Public Interest

The next regular meeting of the Lachute Protestant School Board is being held on the Lachute High School on Tuesday, August 6, at eight o'clock p.m.

St. Jerome Doctors Amputate Leg Of Town Employee

Yvon Larocque, 22-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Simard Larocque who was seriously injured last week when involved in a truck accident, was reported to be in "favorable condition" following an operation Tuesday morning in which his right leg was amputated at the knee. The decision to amputate was made Monday by doctors at the Hotel Dieu Hospital, St. Jerome, where Larocque was taken following the accident on Saturday evening, July 20.

An employee of the Lachute Town Corporation, Larocque was driving the town's 1957 truck when he lost control on a curve a short distance from Lachute on Route 8. With Larocque at the time of the mishap were Jean Guy Prevost, 19, and Paul Trudel, 15, both of Lachute, who were treated for minor injuries at the Providence Hospital here and later released.

Larocque was automatically relieved of his duties for an indefinite period following the mishap in which the truck was damaged to the extent of $1,800.

It has apparently been the practice for the past seven years to leave the corporation vehicle at the home of Simard Larocque, assistant foreman and the youth's father, so that it would be readily available in the event of an emergency. Mr. Larocque was out of town at the time the vehicle was "taken without permission."

Boyd's Express Ltd. Extends Service With Addition of Laurentian Area

Garth S. Boyd, Vice-President of the company.

Changes Announced in Coverage and Personnel

Purchase of the A. J. Todd Express Company, serving the St. Jerome area, by Boyd's Lachute Express was announced last week by Nat W. Boyd, president of the local concern — who at the same time made known several changes in the executive officers of the company, his elder son, Garth S. Boyd, being named vice-president.

Clayton Robinson, who has been connected with the firm for five years, was appointed General Manager and Superintendent of Maintenance, and Romain Savage, Traffic Manager. Miss E. M. Joly remains as Office Manager of the head office here in Lachute, and Howard Ward is Chief Despatcher.

The newly appointed vice-president joined the company on a full time basis in March of last year. He attended Lachute High School, transferring to Bishop's University School, and later attended the Hoscote Tutorial College in Montreal. He then took a business and office management course at Sir George Williams College, Montreal, at the same time working part-time in the Montreal office. Prior to this, he was employed as both a helper and driver during school vacations.

Mr. Boyd, commenting on the recent purchase and extension of service, stated that the daily runs between Montreal, St. Jerome and intermediate points had already commenced, Kenzie Cowan having been appointed Branch Manager of the newly-opened office, which in addition to St. Jerome, covers all intermediate points as far north as Ste. Agathe.

Trucking runs to the new district are out of both Lachute and Montreal, the largest contract obtained with the recent purchase being that of the St. Jerome plant of Dominion Rubber Company.

Working out of all offices the local firm now employs over 10 personnel and has 104 pieces of equipment. Other employees in the Lachute head office are Gerard Laurier, night despatcher; Roy Croucher, bookkeeper, and Mrs Donald Hume, assisting Mr. Croucher. Miss Françoise Valois is assistant to Miss Joly.

Roger Guimond is branch manager of the Montreal office, Bill McDonald and Bob Robinson also being employed there, the latter for the summer months only. Miss McLaurin is the branch manager of the Masson office.

Hunt-Dog Fanciers' New Organization To Hold Trials

The "Lower Ottawa Valley Fox Hunting Association", affiliated with the All-Canadian Association was formed recently with a membership of 40.

The executive committee includes President, J. Antonio Scarborough Lachute; 1st vice-president, Dave Rodgers, Rivière Rouge; 2nd vice-president, Réal Gauthier, Carillon; and secretary, H. Filion; St. Hermas.

Directors are — Paul Doig, P Fournier, of Rivière Rouge; Ervin Clark, D. Boa, and S. Thorburn, of Lachute; A. Castonguay and T. Roy of Carillon; H. Lalande, of St. Hermas; Mr. Wilson, of Cushing; H. Lalonde, of Greece's Point; P. Aubé of St. Eustache; A. Baldwin, of Buckingham; Otta Knectel, of Montreal; R. Prairie, of Montreal North; A. Ladouceur, of St. Andrews East; and N. Lemay, of St. Philippe.

Dog races will be held at Côte de Sable, in Cushing, on September 15, several participants from the U.S. are expected as well as from various parts of the province. Any dog owners interested in these trials are asked to communicate with Antonio Scarborough, president, or with the secretary, H. Filion, St. Hermas. It is reported that 100 entries are ensured.

Six of the dogs, winners of the local trials, will be eligible to enter the all-Canadian races at Howick, a four-day affair.

Gilbert E. Ayers Gets Hole-In-One Showing Son How

Gilbert E. Ayers, local industrialist and president of the Lachute Golf and Country Club, sank a 130-yard shot on the 13th hole of the local course Tuesday evening, immediately after having informed his son Ernest that "this is the best manner to shoot this hole."

Making up the threesome for the game was Oswald Carrière, Lachute businessman, who also witnessed the rare event. Mr. Ayers used a Number 8 iron in making the shot.

4-H Judging Team Places First in Montreal District

The Lachute 4-H Calf Club Judging Team won first place last week at Macdonald College, where the judging contest was held for the Montreal district. The team of Donald McOuat and Stewart Robertson will compete for the provincial honors at Sherbrooke, the last week of August. The winners at Sherbrooke have a trip to the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto during the month of October as guests of the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs.

Donald McOuat had the highest number of points, with 415 out of a possible 450. Stewart Robertson and Donald Parker tied with 401 points. Since only two judges could compete at Sherbrooke, an additional contest was held for the two boys, and Stewart Robertson won over Donald Parker by two points.

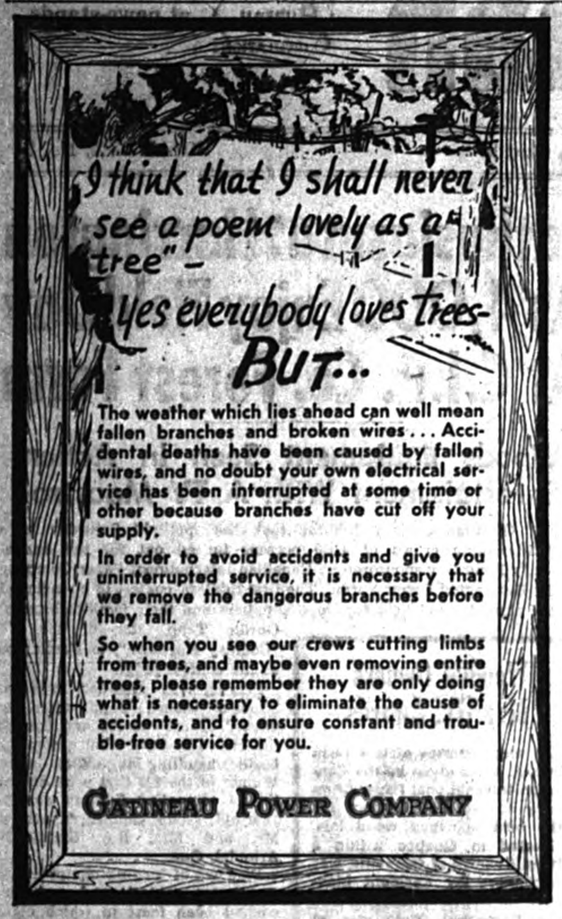

The Lachute team came first, with 818 points out of a possible 900. Howick came second with 750 points, and Brome third with 719. Six clubs took part in the competition.

The Lachute 4-H Club travelled to Macdonald by bus with 30 members aboard. They lost in the softball game to Howick, but returned home happy after their pleasant trip. Ross Oswald, the club leader, was very gratified with the success of the judging team, and wishes to thank all who assisted in training the contestants.

Ayers Limited Contributes $50,000 to St. Jerome Diocesan Fund

A $50,000 cheque was presented to Lucien G. Rolland, general chairman of the St. Jerome Diocesan Fund, by Gilbert Ayers, president of Ayers Limited, at a recent meeting of the campaign management committee. This Committee comprises a number of prominent citizens who have undertaken the task of raising $750,000 to assist His Excellency, Bishop Emilien Frenette, in building up this young diocese. Above, left to right are: Pierre Archambault of Ste. Scholastique; Camille De Martigny of St. Jerome; J.-L. Blanchard, of Ste. Therese; Philippe Valois, M.P. for Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes; Albert Duval, prefect of Terrebonne County (municipal committee); Raymond Raymond, M.P., of St. Jerome; Hon. Georges-E. Dansereau of Grenville; Roger Regimbal of Lachute, personnel director of Ayers Ltd.; Lucien G. Rolland of St. Jerome (general campaign chairman); Albert Gingras, prefect, County of Deux - Montagnes (municipal committee); Gilbert Ayers of Lachute; Simon Latour of St. Jerome; Bertrand Langlois of Terrebonne; Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Provincial Minister of Mines; Alfred Cherrier, Mayor of St. Jerome (municipal committee); Marc Fortin of St. Jerome, chairman of publicity; and F. A. Lorrain of St. Jerome.

The weather which lies ahead can well mean fallen branches and broken wires . . . Accidental deaths have been caused by fallen wires, and no doubt your own electrical service has been interrupted at some time or other because branches have cut off your supply.

In order to avoid accidents and give you uninterrupted service, it is necessary that we remove the dangerous branches before they fall.

So when you see our crews cutting limbs from trees, and maybe even removing entire trees, please remember they are only doing what is necessary to eliminate the cause of accidents, and to ensure constant and trouble-free service for you.

Highland Games Aug. 3, "Colorful Day in Old Glengarry"

The Glengarry Highland Games, held annually on Civic Holiday week-end, at Maxville, in Glengarry County, is marking its 10th anniversary on Saturday, August 3. And all indications point to as colorful a show as have been the series of successes recorded since 1948.

(A CP despatch from Maxville, dated July 29, states that Prime Minister John Diefenbaker will honor the occasion by officially opening the event on Saturday.)

When the massed pipe bands play to open and close the event, it is expected more than ten of the finest bands in Eastern Canada and the United States will be combining their talents for this colorful spectacle and spine-tingling sound. Competing in the pipe band contests this year with such top aggregations as the Toronto Scottish, the 48th Highlanders, the Air Force bands, will be more than one newcomer to the Games. The Worcester Kiltie Band of Massachusetts is coming this year, as are the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa, the 59th A.A. of Renfrew and others.

More than 100 dancers from Cape Breton to Calgary were in competition last year and the entries indicate a larger registration of Highland dancers for this year's event. Individual piping contests, tossing the caber, track and field events are other activities that round out a full afternoon of fine entertainment.

A new grandstand seating 2,600 has been erected on Maxville's fair grounds this year and seating is assured for the thousands who annually make Maxville their mecca for this most colorful day in old Glengarry.

Further information may be secured by contacting John Jamieson, secretary, Maxville, Ont.

MORE TOURISTS

Many more tourists are likely to visit Canada this summer, reports The Financial Post. Maybe it's due to the $250,000 boost in tourist advertising in the U.S. by the Federal Government. Enquiries at the Canadian Government Travel Bureau from would-be tourists are nearly a third up on last year's 5,000 a day.

Quebec Land Surveyor and Forest Engineer

J.-Arthur Lafrance, B.A., Q.L.S., F.E., C.C., wishes to bring to the attention of the population of Argenteuil and surroundings that he has been at the public service since April 1. Mr. Lafrance completed his classic studies at the Lévis College, where he obtained his Bachelor's Degree in 1945, then went to Laval University, Quebec City, where he graduated as Land Surveyor in 1948, Forest Engineer in 1949, and Licensed Culler the same year. Immediately after leaving University Mr. Lafrance joined the Canadian International Paper Co., and was stationed in the Maniwaki Woods Division; a year and a half later he was transferred to the Grenville Woods Division of the same Company, where he has been busy in the fields of Forest Engineering and Land Surveying until last April, when he decided to open a private office.

Mr. Lafrance is a member of the Corporation of Quebec Land Surveyors, the Corporation of Forest Engineers of the Province of Quebec, and the Quebec Licensed Cullers' Association. . , All communications should be directed to 13 Chapel Street, Grenville, P.O. Ottawa Valley Developm't Board and a committee to seek out new industries for the region.

"This project should have been built 50 years ago," remarked Mr. Robidas. "Traffic and industry have all been dragged southward into Southern Ontario. You can't develop an area without adequate communications; and the Ottawa River is a natural and logical waterway."

John Brady, president of the Masson Chamber of Commerce, suggested an industrial, economic and social survey of the area.

Henri de Puyjalon, of Ottawa, representing the Gatineau Power Co., declared: "Any project that brings prosperity to the country we serve is interesting to us. Without making any definite commitments now—we may be able to help you."

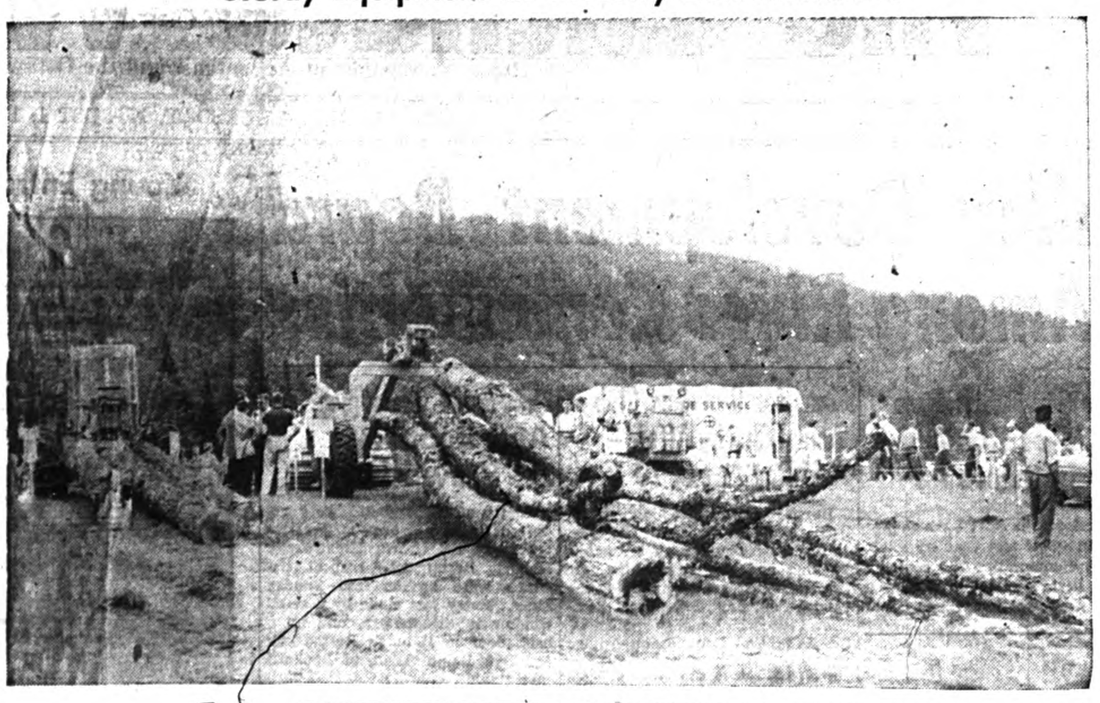

A doubtful note was sounded by Capt. J. D. Weir of Cushing, a river-captain who has spent 66 years on the Ottawa. "For 22 feet of water you'd need vast reservoirs," said Capt. Weir. "You'd be safer looking for 14 feet." Capt. Weir predicted, however, that in 25 years all bulk transportation would be by water.

The Ottawa Valley Development Board appointed a temporary action committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. Robidas, and agreed to seek a federal charter.

Committee members included: F. W. F. Whitehead, St. Andrews East secretary; Tupper Porter, treasurer; Dr. J. Matte, president of the Western Quebec Chambers of Commerce; Jerome Francoeur and Maurice L'Ecuyer, Fort Coulonge; Arthur Lachene, Chute à Blondeau; Jacques Ayotte, Rockland, Ont.; J. S. Giroux, Hull; John Brady, Masson; A. Boyer, Vankleek Hill, Ont.; A. Labrosse, Montebello; Stanley W. Rodger, Antoine Paré and Paul Labrèche, all of St. Andrews East; and Fritz Von Allmen, Carillon.

Other delegates included: René Labrosse, Clarence, Ont.; Nelson Charlebois, Cumberland; Jacques Charbonneau, L'Orignal; James Ward, Fort Coulonge; J. L. Raymond, Cyril Menard and A. M. Menard, all of Rockland, Ont.; Dr. Marcel Menard, Montebello; R. Quesnel, of Ayers Limited; E. Lefebvre, St. Eugene; E. Viau, L. Charlebois, J. Rozon and H. Labrèche, all of St. Andrews East.

Sturdy Equipment at Forestry Demonstration

Among the equipment on display at the Canadian International Paper Company Field Day at Harrington Forest Farm last Saturday were two tractors (seen above) — one a caterpillar and one a four-wheel drive — shown here outfitted with logging sulkies for skidding.

SKUNKS GAIN FAVOR

Ottawa (CP) — Skunks are beginning to acquire new popularity around Ottawa — as pets.

One Ottawa veterinarian said that in a two-week period he prepared 15 of the animals, at the request of owners to make them suitable companions.

"It's a novelty," he said. "People have discovered what lovable pets they can be and are starting to keep them."

"RICHELIEU WEEK" by Mayoral Proclamation

WHEREAS 1957 marks the fifth anniversary of the formation of the Lachute Richelieu Club;

WHEREAS the members of this service group devote themselves voluntarily to the welfare of underprivileged children of this town;

AND WHEREAS, within the period of five years, the Lachute Richelieu Club has exercised its charities to the extent of approximately $12,500;

IT GIVES ME PLEASURE, as the Mayor of this municipality, to proclaim the week from August 4 to August 10, 1957, as "Richelieu Week".

IN CONSEQUENCE of which, I invite my fellow citizens to extend co-operation to this club by doing their utmost to support its work, and particularly by attending, in largest possible numbers, the annual charity event to be presented in the form of Harness Racing at the Exhibition Grounds on August 10 next.

Reckless Boating

AT A PUBLIC function in a summer colony hereabouts, warning was given last week against the practice of juvenile outboard enthusiasts "acting smart" in the vicinity of bathing groups, canoeists and less-experienced boaters.

It happened that this warning followed an actual incident in which a teen-ager, speeding a motorboat around a crowded lake area, piled his craft on the top of a slower boat containing three children. Fortunately there were no disastrous results; but the danger is here evident in actual proof, and should be heeded seriously by parents of teen-agers who think it is clever to circle canoeists and swimmers so that they are swamped or upset by the wash of their fast motorboats.

The excuse in this case was that the offender, with the bow of his boat riding sky-high, could not see the children or the craft ahead of him. — Which is no excuse whatever for reckless boating.

Summer Adventuring

A DOZEN university students are spending the summer doing voluntary work among the Eskimos at Frobisher Bay in the eastern Arctic. Male students are busy at construction work, painting houses and unloading ships. Girls are cooking and doing clerical work.

The desire of these members of the Student Christian Movement to get to know the Eskimos better by working among them is an indication that the spirit of adventure is still alive in Canada.

They are not the only civilization-dwellers spending all or part of the summer in remote parts of Canada. To mention a few:

The Mines and Technical Surveys Department is sending out 76 survey parties, mainly to Arctic regions, to do the field work from which will come 200 new topographical maps, air-navigation maps and charts of coastal and inland waters.

Army engineers, who spend nine months of the year in centrally-heated homes while they work at army headquarters in Ottawa, are surveying wilderness areas in every province and the Territories. They are assisted by vacationing university students and travel by canoe, horse, Shanks' mare or helicopter.

Doctors and X-ray technicians, working from the government supply ship, C. D. Howe, are visiting 30 remote Eskimo settlements in the eastern Arctic as far north as Ellesmere Island, administering chest X-rays, inoculations and physical and dental examinations.

Settling for somewhat smaller doses of the outdoor life, thousands of holidayers — including families with small children — are leaving the city for the vast areas of provincial and national parks.

Add to these the city-raised workers now busy on the DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar line and manning the Mid-Canada line and remote weather stations and it becomes evident the call of the wilderness still beckons to Canadians.

Employment Outlook

CANADA'S LABOR force, swollen by new immigrants, is being closely watched by federal labor experts. The government is giving added impetus to its program to promote wintertime construction.

"I am not inclined to be pessimistic at the moment," Labor Minister Starr stated on this outlook. The minister has written to provincial labor ministers asking their co-operation in federal schemes to encourage public and private enterprise to do as much work as possible during the winter months.

For the last couple of years the government has encouraged employers to carry out winter construction programs. Curtailment of construction during the winter is a major cause of seasonal unemployment. The program will be given added impetus this year.

Available jobs have not kept up with the growth of the country's labor force, which now totals about 6,000,000 — an increase of some 400,000 in the last three years.

A Bureau of Statistics survey showed 5,834,000 persons with jobs on June 22, and 162,000 without jobs and looking for work. The National Employment Service reported 270,800 job applications on file June 20. However, this figure includes some persons who are working but want to change, and others who have found jobs but not notified NES.

The peak number of NES job applications last winter was 600,000. Officials said "strong" elements that may help improve the employment picture are that private and public investment is as strong as last year and consumer demand has hit record levels. A "weak" factor was some easing off in residential constructon, forestry and some branches of manufacturing.

Labor experts said, however, it is "anybody's guess" how high unemployment might go when the slack winter months come around. They could give no forecast, but conceded last winter's peak of 343,000 jobless in March could be exceeded.

Slow Down and Live!

HIGH SPEED and tired drivers are blamed for most summer highway accidents. Learning to slow down and take it easy is the beginning of wisdom at the wheel, says the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, which suggests the following code for safe driving:

1. Slow down at the first glimpse of children playing in the street.
2. Slow down at intersections, traffic circles, and railway and cattle crossings.
3. Slow down before entering city and town limits and any other crowded area.
4. Slow down for coffee breaks every 100 miles.
5. Slow down after dark and under bad weather or road conditions.
6. Slow down to give the other fellow a chance, even if he is only a pedestrian.
7. Slow down for greater comfort and less strain. You'll enjoy your trip more, and you'll survive it!

The Married Live Longer

MARRIED PEOPLE live longer — and it isn't as the comics claim, that it just SEEMS longer.

Lower mortality experience is found among married people than among persons who remain single, or among those whose marriage has been broken by death or divorce. . . Metropolitan Life Insurance has come up with a report to this effect.

The married have an advantage as to mortality at every period of life, particularly prior to age 45, according to the report. Among males at ages 20-24, for example, the death rate for the married is only half that for the single, and an even smaller fraction as the rate for the widowed or divorced.

The difference is not so marked for the females, and it is only recently that married women have had a lower mortality than the unmarried at every age. As late as 1940 the death rate at ages 20-24 was slightly higher for the married. The greater improvement in mortality for young wives than for single girls has been due, in large measure, to gains which have been made in reducing the hazards of pregnancy and childbirth.

Among men, several causes of death show markedly higher mortality among the unmarried than the married. The tuberculosis death rate is four times as high. The death rate from influenza and pneumonia is 2½ times as high among widowers, and the single and divorced are at an even greater disadvantage.

"Accidents also take a relatively higher toll among unmarried men. At ages 20-44 the motor vehicle accident death rate is four times as high for widowers and divorced men as for the married. Frequency of suicide, likewise, is higher — at these same ages, five times as high among divorced men, and six times as high among widowers," the report concluded.

CANADA is a pleasant place in which to vacation. Its own citizens have hundreds and thousands of square miles yet to visit. But don't make the trip a tragic one. Slow down and live — re-emphasizes the Medford (Sask.) Journal.

POLITICS on the local level never cease to be a source of amazement to us. Local farmers report this year's hay crop is less than 50% of last year's yield. The hay, however, is generally of good quality.

A daily passenger service by airplane, between Montreal and Ottawa, was inaugurated last week. One or more planes, depending on the amount of traffic, will leave St. Hubert daily at 9 a.m. arriving at Ottawa at 10 a.m., and returning to Montreal again in the evening. It is considered likely that many persons attending the Imperial Conference at Ottawa will make use of this service.

Within the last week or so a great new advance has been made in intra-Imperial communication, with the inauguration of direct telephone service between Canada and the British Isles through all-British circuits. One can now telephone from Canada direct to England, Scotland, Northern Ireland, and the Isle of Man without the detour through United States points which has hitherto been used.

Setting out from Philadelphia on foot to visit his grandmother, Mrs. Wm. Banford, David McLaughlin, intrepid Boy Scout, 15, visualized many footsore miles before he reached his destination across the border to Lachute. But a letter nailed at that time, announcing his proposed visit, reached Lachute just two hours before the lad himself! The reason for his speedy and economical completion of a long hike was the offer of transportation by two hospitable motorists.

Constable Gagné was summoned at an early hour this morning when an attempt was made to enter the "Bazaar St. Jerome" store on Main Street. Mr. and Mrs. Assad, who occupy the tenement above the store, heard an automobile stop nearby, at around 3 a.m. Shortly afterward, someone was heard stealthily pushing on the door of the Bazaar beneath their dwelling. Mr. Assad immediately notified the police, but the marauders, seeing they had been observed from upstairs, withdrew from the scene, and left no trace of their identity.

Who invented basketball?

A Canadian is credited with inventing the game of basketball which is played by an estimated 20,000,000 persons in more than 60 countries. It was invented in 1891 by Dr. James H. Naismith, a native of Almonte, Ont., and a graduate of McGill University who, as physical director of the International YMCA Training School in Springfield, Mass., had been asked to devise a competitive game that would hold the enthusiasm of students whose interest in gymnasium exercise was waning.

What was the "ghost" of Brighton?

A man's image in a ball of fire was the ghost that residents of the Village of Brighton, Ont., swore they saw some 50 years ago. They claimed it was the ghost of a Mr. Nix haunting a Mr. Proctor. Proctor had refused to allow the family to bury Nix, selling the body to get payment on a loan Nix could not repay.

ALL ABOARD
With G. E. Mortimore

An enterprising band of thievish crows makes its headquarters at a western beach resort.

My friend Don goes out to the resort sometimes to visit his father-in-law, who lives there. "I used to wonder why my father-in-law was always throwing stones at those crows," said Don.

"The other day I watched crows at work on raspberry canes. One crow would light on the top of the cane and bend it over. As soon as it was horizontal, the other crows would swarm all over it and strip the fruit.

"Then they would move on to the next cane, and as far as I could see, another crow would take a turn at bending the cane over, and the first crow would have his share of the berries. Of course, every cane that got the treatment was broken."

"Did you just stand by and watch the crows wreaking this havoc on your father-in-law's garden?" I asked.

"It was such a smart trick that I could scarcely believe it," said Don, and there was grudging admiration in his tone.

"Another thing," he added. "If people leave their lunch for a few minutes, the crows will have it. They'll take sandwiches out of bags and shake them loose from the wax paper.

"You can see them flying back and forth down the gully like a regular transport line, each crow going away with a whole sandwich.

"And then the people come back and find their lunch box empty, and they stare angrily at their neighbors on the beach, suspecting them of taking the food . . ."

Then Don started talking about using a gun to discourage those crows, but I left him at that point. It seemed to me that any man should be able to match wits with a crow — rascally bird versus wicked and unscrupulous mammal — without falling back on artificial aids.

My feeling about the crow is akin to the feeling I have at cowboy movies, where I cherish a secret hope that the bad guy will knock the wooden-headed hero into a cactus bush and ride into the sunset with the girl.

The crows are among the bad guys of nature from our point of view, but they do have a certain rakish charm. I like to see them win sometimes. However, I am not unlucky enough to be a farmer, or a small bird. If I were either one, my opinion would be much different.

How Many 'Mortgage Lifters' Have You?

Many have growled about the low prices for pork during the past year or so, and many breeders have gone out of pigs altogether. . . They figured there wasn't any money in them, and very probably there wasn't, the way they handled and fed them. But the fellow who stayed with pigs and has them to sell today, will be able to take a good chunk out of his mortgage. Pork is now selling around $37 - $38 in Montreal.

In any of these situations, things do get out of balance now and again. . . But supply and demand surely straighten them out if you will allow time. So with pigs; as with any other of our farm lines, it pays to either stay in or stay out. "Jumping certainly never made much money for anybody."

But, the feeder who follows the PURINA HOG FEEDING PLAN will surely make MORE MONEY than those who follow any other feed company's plan, because Purina has the Research facilities to find out which combination of feed ingredients will make the most money for you. And you get this combination in the bag of Pig Chows, Also, these chows are MICRO-MIXED, so every mouthful is the same as the next.

PURINA says you can PRODUCE a pound of pork for less than 10 CENTS A POUND. NOW WHO IS BEATING THAT?

Won't you see us for your pig feeding requirements right away. The longer you wait, the more money you will lose; so won't you do it now? Write phone or call; we deliver.

Late Resident Was Old Seafarer

Alexander S. Robertson

A small circle of friends her will regret the death of Mr. Ale S. Robertson, who passed awa suddenly Monday morning at th home of Mrs. Wilbur Walker, Mai Street. The late Mr. Robertson ha lived in retirement for the past fev years since moving from Montreal and was known to a number of res idents here and at Lake Louis where he formerly owned a sum mer cottage. He was 90 years o age.

Raised in Prince Edward Islanc Alexander S. Robertson was a sea farer versed in the ways of ship and ocean travel. He served man years as a marine engineer at sea then as a stationary engineer fo Montreal Light, Heat & Power from which company he was pen sioned while still in the prime o health. In the years of his retire ment he built a residence at Lak Louisa. He was re-married, to Mis Gertrude Titman, of Lachute, wh predeceased him. They reside previously at Tetreaultville, wher Mr. Robertson was a long-establish ed citizen and enthusiastic churc worker. He was fond of music an the simpler joys of life, and wa respected by many friends aroun his former home.

The late Mr. Robertson is sur vived by his daughter, Mrs. T. Gardner (Thelma), in Tetreault ville, and two grandchildren.

Funeral rites were held Wednes day at the William Wray Chapel University Street, and at the Mount Royal Cemetery where he was laid to rest. A number of relatives and friends attended from Lachute.

IN MEMORIAM

BURNS — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Henry Burns, who passed away July 27, 1955. — Sadly missed by his wife, Jennie; sons, Douglas, Ernest, Richard; daughters-in-law, Jean, Pearl; and grandchildren.

"We do not need a special day
To bring you to our minds,
The days we do not think of you
Are very hard to find.
God gave us strength to fight,
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it means to lose you
No one will ever know."

WHITE — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. E. White, who passed away Aug. 2, 1955. — Ever remembered by the family.

"Our Mother who gave us the best of her life,
Who cherished our secrets, our sorrows, our strife,
Who taught us to love, who taught us to pray —
Dear Mother in Heaven, God bless you today.
Your life was unselfish, for others you lived,
Not for what you received
But for what you could give."

ZIMMER — In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away July 30, 1955; also our father, who passed away July 6, 1931; and brother Ernest, who passed away July 11, 1931. — Always remembered by Ivaleen and Alfreda.

ZIMMER — In loving memory of Mrs. E. J. Zimmer, who passed away July 30, 1955. — Ever remembered by Lois, Harold and family.

To Restrict Immigrants

Ottawa (CP) — Restrictions have been placed on immigration into Canada for the remainder of 1957.

A major policy announcement by the Progressive Conservative government set July 31 as the deadline for arrival of immigrants coming for open placement on the labor market — those with no prearranged work contracts. Starting August 1, only close relatives of immigrants who came earlier will be admitted.

W.I. Annual Bazaar Held at Kerr's Farm

Lakefield — The annual bazaar and food sale of Lakefield Women's Institute was held at Kerr's Farm on Saturday, July 27, and proved a gratifying success. The bazaar was opened at 3 p.m. by Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh, and a crowd of willing buyers soon had all tables cleared; conveners of all tables were kept busy. The sum of $151 was realized.

The president, Mrs. W. Sherritt, extends thanks to Kerr's Farm and those of the staff who helped arrange tables, etc., also the members who donated so generously, and others who helped in any way to make this event a success.

Thousands of visitors from all parts of the world attended celebrations at the feast of Ste. Anne, held at the Basilica at Ste. Anne de Beaupré.

The feast, highlight of the devotional year at Ste. Anne de Beaupré, was opened by Most Rev. Maurice Roy, Archbishop of Quebec. Celebrations included two torchlight parades and hundreds of private and conducted acts of worship.

Synthetic Blanket In Production At Ayers Mills

The introduction of an "Orlon acrylic fibre blanket," the first Canadian-produced blanket of its kind has been announced by Ayers Limited of Lachute. This marks the latest development in bedding; the first article to break with tradition was the nylon tricot sheet.

In the fall of last year the U.S. Dupont Company approached the local woollen mills with this proposal and tests began soon afterward, the initial trial being in December. Promotion of this type of blanket began in May through the Canadian chain of Eaton's Stores in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. However, they are gradually being made available to all stores, and will be on sale in larger quantities this fall. The retail price is approximately $19.95.

Outstanding qualities of this 100% orlon blanket are its softness yet ruggedness, its lightness yet warmth, and its complete resistance to moths and other insect pests. Tone variation is effected in the brilliancy of such shades as primrose yellow, peony pink, carnation flame, delphinium blue, orchid green, and blossom white. A built-in dyeing quality is featured in the product.

The blanket is being introduced in one size only, a 72 x 84-inch double-bed size, although other sizes are expected to follow. Contents of the blanket are the orlon fibre (purchased from American companies), and a nylon binding and thread, both Canadian products. The weight is approximately 3½ pounds. Ayers Limited handles the production from the fibre up.

The nylon binding is expected to last the lifetime of the blanket. The material will not shrink. Its tested shrinkage being estimated at less than one percent.

Home laundering presents no problem, the instructions being as follows: A good detergent must be used in warm water (100°F.) the blanket being rinsed also in warm water until entirely clean; when using an automatic washer, it can be washed for three to five minutes, then spun dry for two to three minutes; when using an automatic dryer, it must not be tumbled more than 20 minutes; the blanket must be straightened and smoothed while damp and then hung evenly over the clothesline; when hand washing, the blanket must be swished up and down gently through suds; the blanket must absolutely not be twisted or wrung, the water just being squeezed out gently. This tip may be given for the benefit of the home maker: Brush your blanket with a soft-bristled brush, thus enhancing its natural beauty. The blankets may also be dry-cleaned commercially.

Distribution of the Orlon blankets is being handled by Ayers' own salesmen; however, promotion and advertising have been undertaken thus far by the Dupont Company.

It is reported the reaction has been favorable, although a more accurate appraisal of the public response will be ascertained within a year.

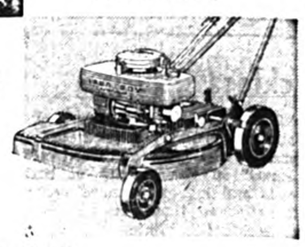

Do all the good you can and make no fuss about it.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward James Wood, shown following their recent marriage in the Lachute United Church. The bride is the former E. Myrtle Gaston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gaston, of Cushing, while the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Wood, of Ville LaSalle. — Photo, Gaetan Fauteux

Wood - Gaston, Recent Ceremony At United Church

Wood - Gaston

The marriage of Elizabeth Myrtle Gaston, twin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gaston, of Cushing, to Mr. Edward James Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Wood, of Ville LaSalle, took place recently at Lachute United Church, the Rev. Wilson Bridge officiating at the double-ring ceremony. Mr. Wayne Riddell played the wedding music and Mrs. Arnold Parker, sang during the signing of the register. The altar was decorated with pink and white gladioli and white candles.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of point d'esprit and re-embroidered lace over tulle and satin. The gown was fashioned with a fitted bodice, scalloped sabrina neckline, and brief sleeves; the bouffant skirt fell from an elongated scalloped waistline with a large bustle bow at the back. Her elbow length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a draped nylon pill-box trimmed with iridescent flowers. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

Mrs. Donald Clarke, as matron of honor for her sister, wore a ballerina-length frock of white nylon organdy over taffeta, with embroidered sprays of blush pink forget-me-nots. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Mrs. Delmer Hammond and Miss Pat McOuat, as attendants, wore similar frocks with embroidered sprays of blue forget-me-nots and carried bouquets of blue and white carnations.

The gowns were fashioned with fitted bodices and full skirts caught at the waist with taffeta cummerbunds forming bustle bows at the back. They wore large white picture hats of Swiss nylon.

Mr. Grant Morrison acted as best man. LAC. Don Clarke and Mr George Ostapuik were ushers.

The mother of the bride wore a powder blue lace frock over taffeta, with white accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations. The mother of the groom wore a dusty rose lace dress over taffeta, with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

After the reception, held in the United Church hall, Mr. and Mrs Wood left for Atlantic City, the bride travelling in a shell pink cotton satin ensemble trimmed with white lace. She wore a white lace hat, white accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations. Upon their return they will reside in Hawkesbury.

C.N.I.B. Agitating For More Effective Sight Clinics

Main topic at the July meeting of the Argenteuil Advisory Board of the CNIB was the situation on provincial eye clinics — a matter causing some concern, it is reported.

The C.N.I.B. and the Quebec Government operate these clinics jointly, the former doing the groundwork and arranging with provincial authorities for the clinics. It also pays 50 cents per examination, while the government pays the salaries and expenses of the ophthalmologists. Three ophthalmologists are now employed, and are required to cover the outlying districts, concentrating on the more accessible areas during the winter and early spring.

In Lachute and district there are approximately 285 people who require to be examined. This total reaches at least 330 when the more distant areas of the County are taken into consideration.

It was finally decided that the matter should be brought before the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, local deputy in the Quebec Legislature, to see if arrangements for a Clinic might be made more certain and more extensive. It was also suggested that a letter be sent to the president of the Quebec Ophthalmologist Association, requesting the services of a junior ophthalmologist on a part-time basis — perhaps one day a week or a certain number of days per month. The local quarters of the C.N.I.B. and the secretarial service would be available for such a service.

The Field Secretary of the organization, who is now working on a full-time schedule, reports the following visits and assistance extended:

36 Visits have been made to the Argenteuil blind, every blind person being duly accounted for in the County; clothing has been distributed to the needy blind; railway and bus passes have been supplied; and arrangements have been made for eye examinations; 21 people have had their eyes examined, a number of these being provided with glasses. Five blind persons attended the "Rigolade" with their guides. . . Another note of interest is the fact that three of the local club's blind persons have entered articles in a Canadian National Exhibition competition.

Tony Zaplaski, president of the Argenteuil White Cane Club, stated his intention to organize financial campaigns in Arundel, Montcalm, Brownsburg, St. Andrews East, Grenville, and Wentworth. The Arundel campaign is due to start on August 19. The Lachute Federation of Charities has been asked for $2300 on behalf of the 21 local blind persons; two others, practically blind, are also aided through the C.N.I.B.

Layman In Pulpit

For the first time in the history of the Roman Catholic Diocese of St. Jerome, laymen spoke from the pulpit. This unusual event took place in 15 churches in the Laurentian area of the diocese. Prominent speakers were thus enabled to demonstrate their keen interest in Bishop Frenette's appeal for $750,000. Shown above is the former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, the Right Honorable Thibaudeau Rinfret, who addressed an overflowing audience at mass in the Church of Ste. Adele en Haut.

March of Dimes — 21 Polio Cases Assisted Here

The Laurentian District No. 12 is included among the areas aided by the Canadian Legion Québec Provincial Command, which sponsors the Quebec Chapter of the Canadian Foundation for Poliomyelitis. This Foundation consists of 10 Chapters corresponding with the 10 Canadian provinces. In all provinces the Canadian Legion assists the March of Dimes in its fund-raising effort.

It has been noted that the number of poliomyelitis cases has increased, last year's survey showing 1,436, with an increase of 52 cases reported this year. The Laurentian District reports 21 patients assisted. Thus the sphere of the Chapter's work has grown. Every polio patient can call on the local chapter for help, their only qualifications being their need for funds or services. It is also specified that a form must be completed by a doctor, as well as a private one to be completed by the patient or parent declaring his financial circumstances.

The Quebec Chapter funds are administered by a constituted Board of Trustees. All funds are intended for polio victims, although no case is turned away without every effort being made to direct the applicant to a source of aid.

Nuptial Vows At Dalesville Baptist Church

McCordic - Townsend

The marriage of Mary Caroline Townsend, daughter of Mrs. R. B. Townsend and the late Mr. Townsend, to Mr. William Charles McCordic, son of Mrs. A. McCordic and the late Mr. McCordic, of Sarnia, Ont., took place at the Dalesville Baptist Church, the Rev. K. Miller officiating. Mr. Neville Brown played the wedding music, Mrs. C. Lester sang "The Lord's My Sheperd", and the Wedding Prayer during the signing of the register. The church was decorated with delphiniums, hydrangeas and roses.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, wore a floor-length gown of chiffon over taffeta, with fitted bodice and full skirt. Her finger-tip veil was held with a tiara of seed pearls; she carried a white Bible adorned with small roses and streamers.

Miss Wilda Townsend, as matron of honor for her sister, and Miss Gwen Townsend, sister of the bride, as attendant, wore floor-length gowns of pink and blue tulle over taffeta with headdresses to match, and carried white and yellow poms.

Mr. Robert Woodward, of Timmins, Ont., was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Lawrence Plummer and Mr. Kenneth Tomalty.

Mrs. Townsend, mother of the bride, wore a mauve sheath dress with hat to match, and a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. McCordic, mother of the groom, wore a gown of aqua printed silk, with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The reception was held in the church hall. Later Mr. and Mrs. McCordic left for their wedding trip to Port Frank, the bride wearing a printed dress with jacket and corsage of yellow roses.

Among the out-of-town guests were Miss G. Hartley, of Hawkesbury; Mrs. G. Fraser, of Vankleek Hill; Mr. and Mrs. W. Pearson, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lester, Mr. and Mrs. T. Gordon, Mrs. Borthwick and Mr. L. C. Thomas, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. E. McCordic, Mr. and Mrs. R. Thomas, and Mr. Rhineheart Regal, of Toronto; Mrs. M. and E. Haliday, of Sarnia; Miss Agnes Wallace, of Halifax; and Mr. J. Woodward, of Timmins.

Seeney of St. Andrews Runner-Up in Pro Meet

Jules Huot of Laval-sur-le-Lac won the O'Keefe open pro tourney at Rawdon last week-end with a score of 69, taking the O'Keefe trophy and first prize of $300. Gerry Proulx of Bonnybrook, and Jim Seeney of St. Andrews, drew for second place with a closely contested 71, and Jack Kay of Mount Bruno came third with 72.

Outlook for N.H.L. Detroit Red Wings

SPORTS CAMERA
By Milt MacPhail,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

After 13 years with Detroit Red Wings, Ted Lindsay might be expected to feel a touch of sadness at leaving the scene of his greatest hockey triumphs.

But there was no fond farewell last week when Terrible Ted was traded to Chicago Black Hawks, along with goalie Glenn Hall, in exchange for four players and a bundle of cash.

Lindsay was bitter. The star left-winger claimed he was railroaded out of Detroit by club manager Jack Adams because of Adams' "personal resentment against me."

Adams denied this, defending the trade as a move to improve the Detroit team generally. This isn't the first time Adams has traded away a veteran to get younger players. Sid Abel, who originally centred, Detroit's "Production Line" with Lindsay and Gordie Howe, was dealt off to Chicago a few years ago.

Parting of Ways

Lindsay may have inflated the issue when he accused Adams of 'criticizing me off the club." On the other hand, Adams certainly rode herd on Ted the last couple of seasons.

As Lindsay said, "things were piling up." Adams charged Ted with lack of hustle. That one really must have hurt Lindsay, the highest-scoring left winger in NHL history and undoubtedly one of the fiercest competitors in the game today. Another blow to Ted's pride came last season when he was stripped of the team captaincy.

It's no secret that Adams runs the Red Wings with a tight rein. Lindsay's loyalty on the ice could not be questioned. He was long the "take-charge guy" on the team. But when he helped to form the NHL Players Association last season, according to some observers, it caused Aadms to decide Lindsay must go.

The Red Wings may have a big job in filling Lindsay's skates. But the Black Hawks, the league's weak entry, need an ice leader with a scoring punch, and Lindsay could be just the man. The 31-year-old native of Renfrew, Ont., says "I still have two or three good seasons left."

SEASONAL SPORTS AND JUVENILE ACTIVITIES

Annual Regatta Interesting Event At Lake Louisa

Lake Louisa Regatta, a gala event each season at this increasingly popular resort, proved a successful event last week-end — being well supported by the summer residents both in attendance and in competition.

Aquatic contests were staged Saturday off the terraced waterfront of the Lake Louisa Country Club. Junior swimming and boating events filled the morning program while senior contestants, teen-agers and adults vied for honors in the afternoon.

Meals were served by the ladies of the club, in the clubhouse overlooking the lake, where perennial friendships were renewed among lake dwellers from this vicinity, from Montreal and other parts.

Trophies and prizes were presented at a gathering in the new clubhouse Saturday evening, with Dr. A. R. Coté, of Brownsburg, president of the club, presiding. Donors or their representatives came forward to present the awards. Mrs. A. Caron, instructor and mentor of the young swimming enthusiasts, presented prizes to the toddlers, and was, in turn, honored with a presentation in appreciation of her interest and patience with the youngsters. At the clubhouse wharf all day, and at this evening function, the work of the regatta committee was fully evident, and this committee — Messrs. J. C. Ashfield, G. Gatehouse and E. Hawkes — received warm commendation from the chairman in his remarks. Thanks were expressed also to the ladies who had provided refreshments.

Notable among the young athletes who excelled in the day's events were the four aggregate point-winners, as follows:

Junior Boys — Jackie Davis.
Junior Girls — Karen Weibush.
Senior Boys — Roy Nelson.
Senior Girls — Heidi Weibush.

Dr. A. R. Coté spoke a timely word on Water Safety, emphasizing the need for care and common sense in the use of motorboats around frequented bathing and boating spots, near private and public wharves, and particularly near canoes. . . In the interests of public safety, this warning deserves attention in every populated resort.

Motorboat races were held Sunday afternoon over specially marked courses, in full view of spectators on the club grounds. There was keen interest and enthusiasm as the weather favored the occasion just until completion of the program. Winner of the most exciting event, for the fastest boat on the lake, was Alan Saxby in a speedboat powered with a Mercury Quicksilver 7.5 h.p. Don Barbour took second place. Interest was added to this event by George Deacon's fast-clip hydroplane, which gave one lap of the course in the form of a handicap.

To complete the social attractions of the week-end, a successful dance was held under auspices of the club, for members, guests and friends. Over 100 persons enjoyed this affair, held in the new Totem Lodge Saturday night.

Brownsburg Tigers Beat Fassett 10-1

Brownsburg Tigers continued to master Fassett as Georges Raymond allowed just one run on two hits, in winning 10-1 through five and a half innings. Georges struck out eight in the five official innings and two more in the sixth, which was rained out after Fassett's half. He took the side in order in four innings, and only a spell of wildness in the third lost him his shut-out.

Brownsburg's bats went on a rampage. In the fourth inning, they sacrificed their time up by swinging on every pitch so that they could give Fassett a fifth inning and get the game into the book. This was the only inning in which they didn't score.

Germain Gagné crossed up manager Jimmy Murdoch by swinging on bunt signals, but he had a great day nevertheless. He smacked a double and a home-run to boost his batting average over the .500 mark. Buddy Racine marked his return to action by belting a triple, first time up.

Manager Murdoch still stacks up as the clutch hitter, as his two singles drove home three runs. Billy Cribb twice singled home two runs. Georges Raymond also singled twice, and from his hitting and fielding, he can justify his place even without pitching.

The Tigers will play two games this week-end. On Sunday they will meet Buckingham here, then one night next week they will play under the lights at Ville St. Laurent against that Montreal Senior team. The boys feel confident about Sunday's game, which starts at 2.30 p.m. The night game they do not really expect to win, for the city league is a strong one; however, they're determined "to give them a run for their money."

CBC To Broadcast Boy Scout Jamboree

Boy Scouting has been part of the national scene for half a century now; this year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the Boy Scout Movement and the centenary of its founder, Lord Baden-Powell. Thus the yearly Boy Scout Jamboree, held this August at Sutton Coldfield in England, will be an especially significant event. A record airlift has brought 1,364 Canadian boys to the gathering of more than 35,000 Scouts from some 80 countries at the Jubilee Jamboree. Some features of the opening ceremonies will be broadcast on "Party Line" August 10, 4.30-5 p.m. on Trans-Canada, including colorful bugle-band displays, massed choruses and a religious service; and there will be short interviews with Scout leaders and members of the Canadian delegation.

Scott's "Redgauntlet" Serialized on CBC

There are three new BBC series currently on the Dominion network: "Redgauntlet", at 7 p.m. Sundays for 13 weeks; "Simon and Laura", at 10.30 p.m. Wednesdays for 10 weeks; and "Yours Sincerely", at 8 p.m. Saturdays for 13 weeks.

"Redgauntlet", one of the greatest of Sir Walter Scott's Waverley novels, was adapted for broadcasting by John Keir Cross, and produced in the BBC's Scottish studios by James Crampsey. In a foreword Cross describes the romance as "strange with a quality unique in Scott's writing — 'a splendor of passion, with a sense of great forces overarching the action,' reaching a peak in the tremendous final scene, which I believe to be the finest thing Scott ever wrote."

Cross says further: "It contains, among other curiously personal things, a portrait of his father (in the elder Fairford), a glance-back at a young and unresolved love-affair (an association of the name Greenmantle), and the most personal character of all, Hugh Redgauntlet, with a flavor almost Byronic (the book was written the year Byron died, and Scott admired Byron greatly)." Cross has simplified the early plot and tied a few ends in his radio version, but all the great characters remain: Wandering Willie, Joshua Geddes, Poor Peter Peedles, Nanty Ewart, and the tragic Wanderer himself, Prince Charles Edward, looking back over 20 years to the great days of the Rising of '45.

Conducted Tours Of Art Museum

Montrealers are being urged, in a new radio series on CBM Thursdays, at 6.15, to visit their art museum more often. Their guide is John Steegman, director of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, who, though noting that good crowds turn out for special exhibitions, would like to see greater interest shown in the permanent collection. In his talks he will point out what to look for especially among the rare and beautiful objects on display, and will discuss some of the ideals and appeal of old and modern art. Steegman has written several books on art, and was one of Europe's recognized authorities before his Montreal appointment in 1952.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Think you're a good driver, lady? Just test yourself by asking your severest critics — your family and best friends — what makes them nervous about your driving. Maybe you can all learn something from such an experiment.

Maybe your husband gets nervous when you take your eyes off the road to see what's in the shop windows. Perhaps you never realized you do this. But he's right — it's a dangerous habit, and enough to make anyone nervous.

Maybe — in response to your question — your daughter will tell you she's nervous when you pull out to pass the car ahead because you sometimes forget to check the rear view mirror. That's a dangerous habit to be corrected. You should always make sure there's no car passing you — or about to — before you start to pass the car ahead.

Perhaps Junior will tell you he's nervous because you drive too slowly, while others say you drive too fast. Here's a good chance to check yourself. As you drive along, note the speed limit signs, then glance at your speedometer. Whoever is right, this is a good opportunity to explain to the children why it's just as dangerous to drive too slowly on a super highway as it is to drive too fast on other roads. And you'll be getting a good education yourself in judging speeds.

There are probably some other things you do while driving that make your passengers nervous. Just ask them. Then (if you find they're right) profit by what they tell you.

JOLSON NOTES

By Irvin R. Warwick

Jolsong of the month: "For Me and My Gal"

". . . They're congregatin'
For me and my gal,
The parson's waitin'
For me and my gal . . ."

I have selected this song for special mention as a salute to the many happy couples who have chosen this season to "tie the knot", including, if I may be permitted a personal reference, one in our own family! As Jolsonair Dave Wigransky has written: "Some people might claim — with good reason — that this is not a Jolson song. Al and this number started in show biz — independent of each other — and stayed around for so many years they finally got together — in "Jolson Sings Again" . . . The reason it's on my list of favorites is because I heard him sing it on an All-Star radio broadcast in 1943 — the year Judy Garland revived the tune in the film of the same title — and it was the first time I heard the Jolson voice . . . I was a Jolson fan from that moment on."

It is interesting to note that one of the "gals" whom Al presumably hoped to marry has since become one of our best-known (and best-liked) actresses. Georgie Jessel tells the story, in his book "This Way Miss":

"The word 'failure' in connection with anything he had to do with was something he never uttered. At a horse race, in the stock market, at the ball game, you would always hear Jolson had a winner — even if you knew he hadn't. . . During the intervals when he was a bachelor, we used to drive to Atlantic City for week-ends. One night we were the judges at a Charleston Contest, and awarded prizes to two young ladies who were the winners — Miss Ruby Stevens and Miss Mae Clarke. Al was quite taken by Miss Stevens. She was young, she could dance, she was pretty, and notwithstanding that she later changed her name to Barbara Stanwyck, she had more authority and carriage than the average Charleston dancer by far.

"We rode in wheel chairs along the boardwalk at night. I, as per custom, started reciting the Indian Love Lyrics to Miss Clarke, but Al's way with Miss Stevens was particularly his own and went something like this: "Honey, it's a funny thing, your name being Stevens. That's the name of the president of one of my banks that I got six million dollars in." . . And perhaps later Miss Stevens might say, "I just got a letter from my aunt in Washington. Do you mind if I read it?" And Jolson would say, "Go ahead — I just got ten thousand shares of American Tel and Tel."

. . . These sidelights are true to the breezy personality we remember in our beloved Jolson.

Education Beats Compulsion

Manitobans are justly proud of the improved drinking habits of their citizens lately. Over the last Christmas and New Year holidays, the policemen in the province found practically nothing to do. Men who were driving had the good sense not to drink. Moderation seemed to be the rule both in small towns and big cities. What caused this improvement?

There seems to be only one valid answer. Some months ago the government set up a committee on alcohol education, to pave the way for more liberal liquor legislation. The idea was that persuasion is better than compulsion, and that the right to drink should be the free choice of adults; but that abuse of the drinking privilege ought to be treated as a serious offence against society.

The notion won approval from both wets and drys, and the committee went to work by publishing educational material in the weekly and daily press and over the radio. The advertisements, with the possible exception of the first one, have been beyond reproach. They are persuasive arguments appealing to all men with common sense. The results have been amazing.

Stress has been placed on the serving of food where drinks are served; on good taste among hosts, in not pressing liquor upon those who have no desire for it; on legislation which places drinking on a civilized basis rather than a crude, bottle-under-the-table orgy.

What the effects of this new approach will be on the confirmed soak is not known. But nothing much in the way of compulsion helped him, either. Men who want to drink have always been able to find liquor, or poison with a liquor label on it.

The effects of the new approach on young people can already be noted by any man with a family. Young folk are learning that liquor is not something to be avoided simply "because father says so," but because there are important personal problems involved which require maturity of judgment. The problem is to be brought out in the open, where it can be dealt with by education, rather than festering in bootleg joints or parked cars. They are learning that it is not necessarily smart to drink, and that indeed it is disastrous to drink to excess.

It must be a matter of great satisfaction to the many Manitoba drys who decided, somewhat reluctantly, to support the more liberal view, to see the progress made so far. These are the men and women who deserve most of the credit, for without their support the new approach could never have been tried.

CUT BIG JOBS DOWN TO SIZE...offer more advances than other heavy haulers

Here are the heftiest work-mates that ever shouldered a king-size cargo! Dodge truck heavyweights pack up to 232 horsepower . . . bring you increased G.V.W.'s and G.C.W.'s that add up to a whale of a payload story!
From the road up, Dodge heavy haulers are built to earn their keep, increase profits every mile you go!
Take this brawny D700 model (23,000 lbs. max. G.V.W.), for instance. It's the most powerful truck in its class (216 h.p.!). And it gives you such long-life features as sodium-filled exhaust valves and free-turning exhaust valve rotators. Like all Dodge V-8's, it features dome-shaped combustion chambers for full power from regular gas, less carbon build-up.
Dodge heavy haulers are easiest to handle, too . . . turn and manoeuvre in less space than other makes! And Dodge gives you an exclusive full-opening alligator hood . . . the roomiest cab . . . the biggest one-piece wrap-around windshield!
There's a Dodge Power Giant for your job. Let us give you the facts on these great trucks today!

Written Specially for
The Lachute Watchman
By Mary Burke,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A globe-trotting Canadian priest is preparing young people in 20 countries for marriage through a unique correspondence course.

Director of the Catholic Centre of the University of Ottawa, Rev. André Guay has had a world-circling tour on which he gave 103 lectures, visited marriage-course centres and helped to organize new ones.

The marriage course is a "pay-as-you-go" proposition that is put out like a newspaper.

Father Guay said the aim of the 15-lesson course is "encouraging young people to discuss problems together — a habit they will bring into marriage."

The course, open to persons of all faiths, lasts about six months. Tests are written on each lesson and mailed to course centres for marking.

Lesson titles include love and happiness, courtship and engagements, civil laws concerning marriage, and anatomy and physiology.

In Canada alone, Father Guay said more than 130,000 couples have already taken the lessons.

"The experience as the youngest of a family of 15 taught me what family life means," said Father Guay. "A family cannot be happy unless the parents are happy and adjusted to each other through knowledge and faith."

Gifted Children.

A gifted child is not only one with a high IQ but one with a questioning nature who is dissatisfied with things and looks for something better.

Dr. Paul Brandwein of New York City told the Manitoba Education Association that a bright child with a high IQ is nothing but a "mental athlete."

The gifted child persists in the search for knowledge — he accepts failure rather than conformity, Dr. Brandwein explained.

"Parents can make or break a gifted child before and during his school years," he said.

Many parents are guilty of trying to turn their child into a "normal boy." By pushing him into the world they force him to withdraw more, even to the point of rejecting his own ability.

Dr. Brandwein stressed that when a gifted child reaches school age, responsibility lies also with teachers who must help him to understand his position in the world.

"The gifted child must learn to tolerate fools gladly," he said, "but he must never be taught the easy road of conformity."

Cooling Drink

For something different and fun to make, try "Creamed Cinnamon Coffee." A quickie to mix, it's a cooling concoction.

The recipe requires four cups strong, hot coffee, three cinnamon sticks, sugar and ¼ cup of heavy cream. Pour hot coffee over cinnamon sticks and let stand for about an hour. Remove cinnamon sticks and sweeten coffee to taste. Add heavy cream and chill. Pour over cracked ice in tall glasses and use cinnamon stick as stirrer. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Food Care in Hot Weather

Although most foods will generally be alright if the rules of cleanliness are observed, extra precautions should be taken in preparing and keeping them during warm, humid weather. The danger of food poisoning is always present. All fruits and vegetables should be thoroughly washed before eating, say the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture. Cooked foods should be refrigerated and leftovers should be used as soon as possible.

Harmful germs or bacteria grow and multiply rapidly at room temperature or in summer heat. They thrive especially on foods such as custards, chicken salad, potato salad, poultry dressing, creamed chicken and other mixtures containing milk, broth, gravy or meat. Therefore it is important to prepare these foods carefully and keep them cold until they are to be eaten.

GALA PICNIC DINNER

Whole Tomatoes
Cucumber and Celery Sticks
Baked-Fried Chicken
Bread and Butter
Meat Ball Sandwiches
Soft Spiced Molasses Cookies
Assorted Fruits
Hot or Iced Coffee or Tea
Milk

Baked-Fried Chicken: Wash and section 2 (2½ lb.) frying chickens (calls for minimum frying fat).

Combine ¾ c pancake mix, ¾ tsp. crumbled whole rosemary leaves, 2 tsp. salt and ½ tsp. ground black pepper in a large paper bag. Add the chicken pieces. Shake until well coated.

Melt ½ c. shortening in a 9"x13"x2" pan in a preheated hot oven, 400 deg. F. Arrange the chicken in the pan, skin-side down. Bake 30 min.

Turn; bake 30-40 min. longer or until golden brown and fork-tender. Cool and refrigerate before packing for a picnic. Serves 6-8.

Soft Spiced Molasses Cookies: In a mixing bowl, combine 1 c melted shortening, ½ c. sugar and 1 c. molasses. Beat in 1 egg

Sift together 3½ c all-purpose flour, 1½ tsp. baking soda, 1 tsp salt, 1 tsp. ground cinnamon, 1 tsp. ground nutmeg and 1 tsp ground clove. Add alternately with ½ c. sour milk to the first mixture. Stir in ¾ c. raisins.

Drop from a teaspoon onto oiled baking sheets, leaving 1-in. space between. Dot a raisin or nutmeat in the centre of each.

FEWER BERRIES

Chicoutimi, Que. (CP) — A total of 4,875,993 pounds of blueberries was harvested in Quebec in 1956, cold weather being blamed for the drop from 17,642,462 pounds in 1955. The 1956 crop, however, averaged 22 cents a pound, double the previous year.

Helpful Hints for Home Freezer Owners

A home freezer filled with frozen foods can mean more convenience in meal preparation; nutritious, attractive and varied meals all year round; and a greater saving of time, effort and money. However, this does not happen automatically when you become the proud owner of a home freezer . . .no, indeed, it requires thoughtful planning, selective buying and good management on the part of the homemaker to attain these benefits.

During the summer months, many families buy a home freezer in order to put away some of the abundant fresh fruits and vegetables for wintertime eating. For those new freezer owners the following hints on home freezer management from the Consumer Section Canada Department of Agriculture may prove helpful. The home economists tell us that to get the best use out of a home freezer it is important to:

Follow the directions of the manufacturers about the care of the freezer, setting the controls if this is necessary, and where to place the food to be frozen.

Freeze not more than 25 to 30 pounds of fresh food at one time, as a larger amount will raise the temperature in the freezer and lengthen the freezing time. Food should be thoroughly frozen within 24 hours. If it is found necessary to freeze more than 25 to 30 pounds within 24 hours, have the freezing done in a locker plant. If this is not possible, keep the extra amount in the refrigerator until it can be put into the freezer.

Have a system for budgeting freezer space so that a variety of frozen foods can be stored. Choose foods because the family likes them not simply because they are plentiful or cheap. Avoid filling too great a portion of the space with the first products of the season.

Have an orderly arrangement of foods in the freezer, storing frozen fruits and vegetables in one part meat in another, baked foods in another, etc. A freezer is which the foods are systematically arranged will generally hold many more packages than one that is poorly organized.

Label all packages with the name of the food, the date frozen and any other details that will be helpful when the food is to be thawed or cooked. To aid in finding foods stored in the freezer, use labels or strings of different colors on the different kinds of meat, etc., and store small parcels together in stockinette or large plastic bags.

Keep an up-to-date inventory or stock sheet of the contents of the freezer, making sure to record foods as they are put in and taken out.

Keep the freezer full: empty space is wasteful.

Use, not save, the food in the freezer — the more rapid the turnover of food the greater the economy.

Defrost regularly and keep the freezer clean so that undesirable "cold storage" odors will not develop.

Plan ahead, using imagination and ingenuity, watching for new ideas and developments and remembering that almost anything commercially frozen can be frozen in a home freezer.

Observe the seven steps to success in freezing foods:

Seven Steps to Success in Freezing Foods

1. Select only fresh foods of high quality — the condition of a food before freezing largely determines its quality when served.
2. Prepare foods quickly and carefully. Follow reliable instructions as outlined for cleaning, cutting, blanching and packing.
3. Package in odorless, tasteless, moisture - vapor - resistant freezer containers or wrappings to prevent the food from drying out and to protect it from absorbing flavors.
4. Freeze foods at 0°F. or below as soon as possible after packaging. If a delay is unavoidable place each package in the refrigerator as soon as it has been sealed.
5. Store frozen foods at 0°F. or below with as little variation in temperature as possible.
6. Thaw frozen foods properly and use soon after thawing.
7. Cook frozen foods carefully according to directions. Cook thawed meat and poultry in the same way as fresh. Do not overcook frozen vegetables.

Vine-Ripened Tomatoes

This is the time tomato fans have been waiting for — time to enjoy the luscious, full flavor of vine-ripened tomatoes. Served cold or hot, plain or dressed up with other foods, tomatoes are ready to add color and eating pleasure to summertime meals.

Tomatoes are ideal for all sorts of salads — stuffed with meat, egg, fish, cheese or vegetable fillings, sliced or jellied and served on greens, or diced and added to mixed vegetable salad. They are good when cooked, too, in almost any way — broiled, fried, baked, stewed or combined with other foods in casseroles. And in sandwiches tomatoes are always popular — especially if a little chopped mint has been sprinkled over the slices.

Broiled tomatoes are quick to prepare and are wonderful to serve as part of a broiler meal. The meal might include steak or hamburg patties along with onion rings and browned slices of cooked potato . . . all cooked in the broiler. The home economists of the Consumer Section suggest that, for a change, tomato halves be sprinkled generously with grated cheese, seasoned with a little basil, then broiled.

Tomatoes will look and taste better and will retain more of their Vitamin C if they are cut just before serving or cooking.

If you like your tomatoes peeled, you'll find these ways easy:

(1) Dip the tomato into hot water for 1 or 2 minutes and then into cold water, OR

(2) Run the tip of a fork into the tomato and rotate it over the flame of your gas stove, until the skin wrinkles slightly, OR

(3) Stroke the skin of the tomato with the back of a knife until it's loosened.

Fashions

The black silk-crepe dress is having a fine time since its revival, appearing at parties everywhere. This one isn't entirely in the black crepe category since it goes in for a big helping of printed silk. It's used at the left shoulder and continues down through two buttoned tabs to form a loose swinging panel on the skirt. The dress is self-belted with a contour belt. It has short sleeves and a square neckline. This is the dress one reaches for when in doubt about what to wear for a smart but informal evening.

A Grilling Topic

Barbecues and other forms of al fresco eating are most popular as summer draws to a close and everyone is anxious to enjoy the cooling breezes of a late summer's evening. Here's a new suggestion that fits delightfully into the outdoor eating scheme. It's a variation of the favorite "burger" in which flavorful canned salmon is the feature. Salmonburgers are one tasty supper suggestion that you can produce unexpectedly, for salmon is usually on the emergency shelf. The salmon is tastefully blended with bread crumbs and seasonings into patties that can be made ahead of time. Tomato slices, sweet onions and bacon strips give the "Dagwood" touch and sandwich spread is a piquant finish to these hearty supper treats. Of course, Salmonburgers can also be made indoors. Just sauté the patties lightly in a heavy, greased skillet until golden brown on each side.

Salmonburgers

1 Cup canned salmon (1 can approx. 7-oz.), 1 cup soft enriched bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 2 teaspoons minced onion, 3 tablespoons finely chopped dill pickle, 1 egg (well beaten), 8 slices tomato, 8 thin slices Spanish onion, 8 strips cooked bacon, 8 burger buns, sandwich spread.

Flake salmon. Blend in crumbs, salt, pepper, onion and pickle. Add egg and mix well. Form into eight patties. Place in waxed paper in refrigerator until cooking time. Place on outdoor grill, brush with salad oil. Grill until lightly browned on one side, turn, brush with oil again and grill until lightly browned. Place each pattie in a burger bun, that has been spread with Sandwich Spread, top with a tomato slice, onion slice and strip of bacon. Serve at once. Makes 8 salmonburgers.

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Swimming Rules

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

There are few parents who do not fear their child being drowned. His safety in the water is of first importance. Over and over again during the vacation period they read of accidents. Perhaps they recall the quaint warning of J. M. Synge, the Irish writer, in "The Aran Islands": "A man who is not afraid of the sea will soon be drownded. He will be going out on a day he shouldn't. But we do be afraid of the sea, and we do only be drownded now and again."

* * *

If your child swims at a public swimming pool or a community beach where there are life guards he likely is given a set of swimming rules. The importance of taking sensible precautions is impressed upon him. He knows that if he is disobedient he will not be allowed to continue his swim.

If he is a camper, the swimming counsellor and the director make it very clear that when it comes to water safety no nonsense will be tolerated. The confidence of parents is based on the good reputation of those in charge of swimming. The least carelessness may result in a drowning.

What happens to a little child's ideas of the way to act in the water when on a family outing or at a summer cottage? Mother and Dad do not want to frighten him, so that he will be scared to learn to be at home in the water. They realize that too much fear is a real handicap in mastering the art of keeping afloat and learning to swim. But at the same time they do not want their son or daughter to be exposed to unnecessary risks.

Father and mother should discuss and agree on the most important water safety rules and gradually teach them to their youngsters. If there are school age children in the family these should be considered in a family council. It is a good plan to write them out and post them up in a prominent place.

Some of the regulations which have proved their value are:

DON'T go swimming until one and a half to two hours after meals.

DON'T swim if fatigued.

If the water is below 60 degrees F., enter gradually.

Never go swimming alone; always have a companion or "buddy".

Swim if possible where a life guard is on duty, and the bathing area is known to be safe.

Obey warning signs. If a sign says "Danger" it means just that!

Stay out of pools, rivers, or other bodies of water which are known to be unsanitary, so as to avoid possible eye, ear, or nose infection.

Don't dive into unfamiliar water. You do not know the depth or whether there are sharp rocks, glass, or jagged edges hidden on the bottom.

When swimming a distance, always be accompanied by a row boat — and climb into it if you are exhausted.

When beginning to swim, wade out to the deeper water and swim in to shore. In a race always swim to shore or parallel to the water's edge and not far from land.

Don't do silly stunts in the water. Don't attempt a swim or a dive beyond your skill or strength on someone's foolish "dare".

Don't do a lot of yelling or pretend you are in danger. Remember the boy and the "Wolf! Wolf!" story.

Never force beginners into deep water.

Stay out of a canoe until you can swim. Act in a sensible way in a boat, not rocking it or changing seats, etc. If you are tipped out of a boat, don't swim for the shore; cling to the boat and call for help.

If you fall into the water and must swim, remove your shoes and outer clothing before attempting to do so.

If someone near you needs assistance in the water, don't jump in and attempt a rescue unless you are a good swimmer and know how to go about saving a life. Call for help while looking for an inner tube, a rope, a plank, or some other buoyant article for the person to grasp.

A drowning person should be approached from the rear. Take hold firmly. If the person struggles, use a cross-chest carry; if he cooperates quietly, alternate this with the head carry. Do not attempt to swim to shore except as a last resort. Keep the victim afloat until help arrives.

If you don't know how to carry out artificial respiration, learn it. With knowledge and practice you may be able to save someone's life some day. In the meantime learn to swim well, and stick to sensible safety rules; thus you will not jeopardize your own life!

Mechanical 'Secretary' Answers Phone in Home

The newest gimmick installed in a Toronto home is a mechanical "secretary" which will answer the telephone and take down messages from the caller when Mrs. Meyer Brenner, seen above, is absent. The electronic device, made of tubes, relays and wires is encased in a compact console about the size of a table radio. When the telephone rings the automation on duty, answers, delivering a pre-recorded message up to 28 seconds long inviting the caller to leave a message. All messages are recorded on a revolving drum and can be erased after the play-back.

"Sunnyacres Sketches"

By Margaret Cook

Here we are in mid-vacation, so that urban life has become remote and unimportant in our minds. . . Before we left the city house, I was vaguely disturbed. Will it survive intact? Will thieves, taking advantage of that desolate air that empty houses always contrive to wear, make off with the sewing-machine, the TV, the stenographic set of desk and chair? Most of all, will someone recognize the value of my beloved Beleek set? After a week or two at Sunnyacres, the worry about everything except the Beleek fades. I reflect that I purely hate the sewing-machine, and have little affection for the TV. As for the other things, they are just that — things, and will be around long after I am gone, so why fuss about them? There is a poem on that theme, the poignant durability of mere things as opposed to the fragility of a beloved's life. The necessary book is not here, so I cannot quote it. (Praise be!" murmurs a reader.)

* * *

Here we are not concerned with things, but people and animals. Of the latter, there is an abundance this summer. At almost any time of the day, Chatterer, the red squirrel, can be seen running up or down a tree trunk, or sitting on a branch scolding Peter, the cat. Mostly they are too nimble for our pussy, but occasionally, one is just too confident, and Peter arrives at the door dragging a limp form behind him. We tell him he is a clever and a mighty hunter, and really, his provocation is extreme.

Two nights ago, after all were in bed but the writer, a sound as of slithering on metal was heard, followed by a splash, and thereafter as of one having a bath. Investigation revealed a squirrel swimming vigorously around the perimeter of the water butt. As the water was about three inches below the top, master squirrel could not get a toe-hold, and would have been doomed to a watery death, had not the head of the house scooped him out on a fire shovel. When we left him, he was lying exhausted beside the tank. No doubt he rushed home as soon as he was able, to tell his family all about his terrible experience.

Every night some animal makes the rounds of the little grove in which stands the tent. Daughter Betty deduces from its silhouette on the side of the tent, that it is a raccoon. It pats a half-bushel measure which serves some inscrutable purpose of the tenters, making a drum-like tattoo. The porcupine ambles about in the early dusk; if we meet, we each grunt "Excuse me", and go in opposite directions. The wood-cock is back after an absence of several seasons, and his tremulo call can be heard during the night. But the whippoorwill is unaccountably silent. We miss it. Time was when one could set a watch for nine o'clock by his cry. We occasionally get a whiff of skunk, but the happy family that used to live companionably under the porch has deserted us. Foxes bark and owls hoot, and, queerly for this neighborhood, dogs bark. Two years ago, we knew of only one dog within the radius of a mile, now we know of fourteeen. Six of the fourteen are at a summer cottage, and are miniature collies. I believe the correct name is Shetland Collies. Not a lover of dogs, we are forced to admit that these little creatures are dainty, quiet, obedient and altogether charming. If anyone desires such a pet, we believe that some are for sale. . . So, although the countryside, as a whole, bears its usual quiet, smiling appearance, it is teeming with life.

We made the proviso, because, civilization in the shape of electricity and telephone is coming down our little road. First, the engineers came through in May and made agreements with the proprietors concerned. Then in June came the tree-cutters, so that now a straight swath is cut from the turn on Route 30 for the present distance of a mile. While this was going on, the trucks arrived with the poles. They arrived, but did not depart for some time. For the little road was not built for large trucks and giant trailers, so simply collapsed under them! Going out for milk one evening, we found the road blocked by a loaded truck, so we turned and decided to go the long way round, a matter of six miles, only to find a second truck stuck, a few rods from our gate in the other direction. On that side, we picked up a forlorn figure that turned out to be the weary form of a neighbor who had left the city at four o'clock. It was then seven-thirty. So we took her home, and forgot about the milk. The trucker confided to us that it would cost him $100 to get his machines out, and that, so far as he was concerned, he was finished. So the woodcutters have had to drag each log behind their smaller truck. We are always perversely amused when the "true North strong and free" thus asserts itself against the "city slickers."

In that connection, we are always being annoyed by city guests who are surprised by the fact that Lachute has, for instance, its own milk-processing plant, its own newspapers, more than one church. This is particularly irksome when the guests come from a suburb scarcely larger, and certainly no more progressive than Lachute. We feel ourselves bristling like a true native. Anyway, whence this insular idea that all good things originate in or around a city?

We took the last brace of guests to see the museum at Carillon, and they had to admit that it was both comprehensive and interesting. The County of Argenteuil is fortunate in having citizens who are aware of the desirablity of preserving the records of other days, other ways. I was glad to see that some one had rearranged the exhibit of dresses so that one could see and examine them to some purpose. One of our guests, being a medical doctor, was particularly interested in the Abbott Room. She had known Dr. Maude Abbott, when she was an interne and Dr. Abbott a consultant of the Montreal General Hospital. She told us the story of the young interne detailed to meet Dr. Abbott at the door of the hospital prior to some function in her honor. When he protested that he was not the one for the job, because he did not know her, he was told to pick out a stoutish woman, clad as would be a self-respecting char going out for a day's pleasure. So he did, and correctly. I remember Dr. Abbott, but only as a plumpish woman as a bridge party.

Before time and paper run out, we should like to express our felicitations to the group of students who produced the current issue of Lampada. Most of these school magazines are dreadful affairs, the Literature section being either piffling or repulsive. Such is not the case in the 1957 Lampada. We read with pleasure of the early days of Lachute and of St. Andrews East; the plea for Racial Tolerance was well done, and the short articles on the Country Store and Our Queen were excellent for their grade. The pictures throughout the magazine are fully recognizable, something that can be rarely said of so many; indeed, the whole format is of a high order due to the efforts of the staff at "The Watchman". Truly an issue of which to be proud. To us, the greatest pleasure is that of identifying family names from the youthful faces portrayed. Here is a McOuat face, there a Boyd. The Campbell face is readily identifiable, as is the Dobbie identity. There seems to be a sprinkling of lean, dark McDonalds right through the school. An entertaining game, almost as good as jig-saw puzzles! . .

There was more, but it will have to wait.

Holger-Nielson Resuscitation Method for Drowning Victims – Four Explanatory Pictures

The Back Pressure - Arm Lift resuscitation method, as recommended by St. John Ambulance Association and now widely adopted, is pictorially demonstrated in the following photographs. There are four simple movements of the cycle, illustrated here with the hope that it will inspire more people to join the number who are prepared for a drowning emergency. Two hours of training is all that is necessary to become familiar with the proper steps.

The pictures are reproduced from an article in the current issue of Bluebell, by courtesy of the Bell Telephone Company.

1. Although the cycle can be started with the push or the pull, in these pictures the operator of the Back Pressure-Arm Lift method of artificial respiration starts with the push, causing the victim to exhale. The operator puts her hands on the victim's back, just below the shoulder blades.

2. She exerts pressure vertically downward.

3. She then relaxes the pressure and slides her hands downward under the arms and just above the elbows.

4. Then she shifts the arms upward at the same time she rocks backward, drawing the arms toward her until she meets resistance. Then she replaces the arms of the victim on the floor, moves her hands to the back of the victim, and resumes the position shown in the first picture. This cycle, like all others, is repeated 12 times a minute.

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Q. If a person is receiving Workmen's Compensation benefits for four or five weeks, does he have the right to UIC benefits?

A. The receipt of Workmen's Compensation gives rise to two questions. The first is whether the person is capable of work as required under the Act, and the second is whether the money received as Workmen's Compensation must be taken into account as earnings in determining the amount of benefit payable. The answer to these questions depends on the particular circumstances existing in each case. It is therefore important that a claimant should advise the local office whenever he is in receipt of Workmen's Compensation so that the facts may be submitted to the insurance officer for a decision.

Q. A young girl has been working for several years and paying unemployment insurance, but has never received benefit because she has worked continuously. This young girl has now decided to take a child nursing course which will last for 18 months. During this time she will receive about $23 a month. In view of her small income, is she entitled to claim unemployment insurance benefit?

A. No. To be eligible for benefit a claimant must, among other things, be capable of and available for work. That is, she must be ready, able and willing to immediately accept suitable employment. During her course, this girl could not fulfill this requirement.

TEEN-AGER PLANS GROUP NEWSPAPER

Whitby, Ont. (CP) — A non-profit newspaper written by, for and about teen-agers is the aim of 18-year-old Marshall Wick of nearby Brooklin.

As editor and publisher of The Teens' Review, Marshall, who is deaf, hopes to present a newspaper which not only interests teen-agers but also presents them to adults as not necessarily "saints or sinners."

Death Calls Former Mayor of Hawkesbury, Native of St. Hermas

Hawkesbury — Omer Laurin, former mayor of Hawkesbury, died July 15 following a brief illness. He was 68 years old.

A well-known businessman, he was born at St. Hermas, a son of the late Octave Laurin and his wife, Olivine St. Jacques.

He was in business at Hawkesbury from 1918 to 1941. He was president of the Separate School Board from 1917 to 1920, a town councillor from 1920 to 1927, and was mayor from 1927 to 1933.

He was warden of the United Counties of Prescott and Russell in 1940, and reeve of Hawkesbury from 1939 to 1949. He was president of the Hawkesbury Realty and Development Company, a member of the Richelieu Club, Knights of Columbus and president of the Social Centre.

The funeral was held from the parish church at Hawkesbury, with interment in the parish cemetery.

Oldtimer in B.C. Once Movie Actor

Qualicum Beach, B.C. (CP) — Seventy - five - year - old Guiseppe Roat, who looks like Buffalo Bill, is probably British Columbia's oldest movie actor.

With long white locks and a forked beard, he is a showman who delights in showing visitors through his museum of Natural Art a mile from this Vancouver Island town.

The two-storey slabwood building which he built unaided holds a collection of antique firearms, fossils, clocks, kettles, swords, old coins and stamps.

He says he ran away from his home in the Italian Tyrol 63 years ago to become a South American gaucho and later a California gold miner.

One afternoon in 1906 in San Francisco the floor of his second-storey room heaved and he was thrown into the street. This was his introduction to the famous earthquake.

A depression came next year and he took a job in a truck garden, after which he got four months work at $5 a day as an extra in Hal Roach one-reelers, filmed outdoors at Culver City. He came here in 1919.

Freak Windstorm Cuts Swath of Destruction

A windstorm of hurricane force swept a swath of havoc southeastward from the hills last Saturday between 5 and 6 o'clock, seeming to reach its peak in the Ottawa Valley. Reports of damage are widespread — from trees felled and boats capsized in the northern lakes, to a crop of material damage in St. Andrews and communities of the Ottawa riverfront.

Gatineau Power and Bell Telephone crews were despatched to restore service in numerous parts where falling trees and branches had cut the circuits.

From St. Andrews and Carillon come news reports and pictures of the damage — two accompanying scenes illustrating the destruction in old St. Andrews Cemetery and on Carillon's main thoroughfare. In Carillon also, a large tree was uprooted in the Catholic presbytery property. The St. Andrews Golf Club terrain was also severely hit — these areas being notable for their fine old elms and pines, which are the pride of many property owners.

In Carillon there was considerable damage caused to the roof of the local hotel, while one of the Schaffer camps, below the old convent between St. Andrews and Carillon, sustained damage to the structure and contents. This cottage, on the Ottawa River, is occupied by Roger Legault, of Lachute. The tract lies in direct line from the cemetery down to the river.

Storm-Tossed on the Ottawa

A local power-boat enthusiast, Bertrand L'Heureux, was returning home from a vacation cruise, when the gale struck at a point opposite Rockland on the Ottawa River. Spray from the river obstructed his vision, and his sturdy craft was tossed in the wind, challenging his ability as a skipper to keep it from drifting into danger. Mr. L'Heureux reports that, lower down the river, flotsam and debris blocked the sluices of the Carillon-Grenville canals, and hampered the workers in passing vessels through for transit.

Big Loss at Ball Park

Two light-standards in the Ayers baseball park were blown down, and damage to the electric system, equipment and poles reached a high figure approximating $6,000.

Severe Damage In Cushing Area

(Our district correspondent)

Cushing — A social being held in Elliott's Hall late Saturday afternoon was carried on by candle light and a gas lantern, when a windstorm of tornado velocity levelled trees and tore down telephone and electric power lines.

In this community, Bayside Farm seemed to take an extra share of the beating, the grain fields being flattened as if by a steam-roller, and many trees blown down in close proximity to the house, as well as in the pastures and fields. Some sturdy old oaks, that thus far have stood the test of time for many years, were uprooted. The Roads Department is to be congratulated on the quick action taken to clear the roads of trees and debris, also the Gatineau Power men, who worked all night and until noon to restore electric power. The Bell Telephone had its share of work in restoring circuits, also the Canal laborers, to rescue their wire from the shattered branches.

Wind Wreaks Damage in Riverfront Area

Havoc In Historic Cemetery

In the St. Andrews Cemetery, known to residents of the older generation as "The Pines", this was the scene of destruction left in the wake of Saturday's gale. Trees were blown down and a few gravestones dislodged in the historic plot, which bears some of the oldest names among this county's pioneers.

Big Elm Uprooted at Carillon

High winds uprooted this monster elm, tearing up the sidewalk on Carillon's main thoroughfare. The property is that of Réal Gauthier, almost opposite the ferry landing. The roof of the house was damaged.

New Branch Bank of Montreal For Ayersville

The Bank of Montreal has announced the opening of a new full-time office to serve citizens and business men of Ayersville, at 172 Hamford Street. The office is expected to be in operation this fall, but no definite opening date has yet been stated.

Establishment of the office follows many requests from citizens of Ayersville for B of M facilities.

The office will be operated under the direction of Donald M. Hay, manager of the Lachute branch, and Georges Sevigny, accountant at the same office. The officer in charge has not yet been named.

The building, owned by Claude Tessier, will be completely renovated to provide about 1,000 square feet of banking space. The premises will be equipped with a glass front, oak woodwork, fluorescent lighting and a floor of vinyl tile and linoleum.

The decision to open the Ayersville office is in line with the B of M's policy of providing banking services wherever needed. This forward-looking spirit stems from the earliest traditions of the parent bank, founded in 1817.

Business Girl On Trip to Rome

Miss Ghislaine Patry, Lachute Mills resident, who will be one of 13 representatives from the St. Jerome Diocese to attend a rally in Rome. The group are leaving from Dorval next Wednesday to form part of the 30,000 gathering (Jeunesse Ouvriere Catholique Féminine) from 90 different countries.

Miss Patry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Patry, serves as bookkeeper at the Lamarche Furniture Store, and is well known to the local public frequenting the Main Street shopping section. She is a key-member in the local J.O.C.F. organization.

RCMP Interrogate Boat Owners

Officers of the RCMP St. Jerome detachment have been busy in this area to enforce the ruling on power-boat registration and equipment which although in effect many years, has not been strictly enforced until this season.

Many boat owners have been stopped and questioned on the populated lakes of Terrebonne Jurisdiction — including Lac l'Achigan Macdonald, Louisa and other resorts.

The law requires that boats fitted with motors of 10 h.p. or more must be duly licensed. Change of ownership requires new licensing. Registration numbers, at least 3 inches high, must be displayed on the craft; commercial or passenger boats for hire must meet special requirements in this respect.

Lifesaving equipment required on registered pleasure craft not exceeding 26 feet includes one life jacket or lifesaving cushion for each person, and in addition, one lifebuoy if the vessel is over 20 feet. Reliable lifesaving equipment bears the stamp of the government Dejartment of Transport; and adequate fire-fighting equipment is also required.

Licenses are obtainable, free of charge, at all Customs Offices in Canada.

Initial Hopes Exceeded in First Year of Art Assocn.

Objectives and Achievements Reviewed As Organization Passes Milestone

A successful year's operation — the first lap in its promising existence — was reviewed by the Argenteuil Art Association last Saturday at St. Andrews. The gathering was small but representative; many members were absent on vacations or otherwise engaged.

A record of the organizational meeting, held one year ago at the home of Miss Paige Pinneo, Carillon, was read from the minutes by Mr. Fraser Robertson, assistant secretary. In these first deliberations, the aims of the Association had been outlined.

Mr. Allan G. Talbot, president took occasion in his address to measure the aims in terms of fulfillment. The progress of the Association, on this basis, had proved most gratifying, and the president acknowledged the work of the executive which had achieved such good results. Four successful exhibits had been held — the two annual shows by Association members, and two by professional contributors, Miss Janine Leroux and Mrs. Vivian Walker.

The financial report prepared by the secretary, Miss L. Harrison, was presented and also found satisfactory.

Mrs. Garnet Pride, organizer of the outdoor sketching group this season, gave a report on this activity and announced plans were progressing for indoor instruction by qualified teachers, to be available to members this coming winter.

Most of the officers and executive were re-elected with exception of the secretary — Miss L. Harrison having declined re-nomination, after her year of loyal service in this office. Appointments for the year are as follows:

President, A. G. Talbot.

Vice-president, Mrs. G. Pride.

Secretary, Robin Smith (assistant, Miss Harrison).

District advisory committee — Lachute, Don Titman; Morin Hts., Mrs. J. W. Green; Brownsburg, Mrs. F. S. Kettyle; St. Andrews, Miss A. L. Wales; Carillon, Mrs. Vivian Walker.

Two committees were formed in connection with next year's exhibitions. In charge of Selection are three professional artists, Miss Paige Pinneo, Mrs. V. Walker, Miss Janine Leroux; while the Locations committee includes Mr. F. O. Peterson, Major S. Forbes, Mr. Fraser Robertson, Mrs. Owens and Miss Shirley Woodward.

A cordial vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Antoine Paré, for his hospitality in regard to the yacht club premises which have been made available to the Association for its meetings and exhibitions this year. The club chalet was also the site of this second annual meeting, and those attending took opportunity to view once again the paintings of Mrs. Vivian Walker, before the closing of her exhibition.

The year's executive will concern itself with drawing up a constitution, since the Association is now on a sound basis and proving its merits.

Ayersv'l Property Value Shows $129,805 Increase

The revised valuation roll was read and discussed at the Ayersville Council this week, and unanimously adopted on motion of Councillor Edgar Cyr, seconded by Councillor Rosaire Quenneville. Two protests, voiced by James M. Clark and Guillaume Chartrand, were rejected.

The valuation has increased by $129,805, while non-taxable valuation amounts to $547,610, making a total of $4,185,360; the previous roll showed a total of $3,637,750.

Accounts for the month, reaching the sum of $893.23, were passed for payment, on motion of Councillors Cyr and Simon. Also the water bill received from the Lachute Town Council was reduced from $511.44 to $375.08, as the tariff of 11 cents per thousand gallons has been adopted in place of the former 15 cent fee.

Building permits were granted to Leonidas Gagné, for a private garage, and to Louis Larocque, Tessier Street, for construction of a child's playhouse.

A letter from Philippe Roy offering the municipality possession of a street which he had opened up, off the Brownsburg Road, was read to the councillors; it was decided to communicate with Allan Hay, proprietor of the land.

Concerning the construction of drainage on Gauthier Street, it was decided to circulate a petition, and if the matter received approval from the majority of citizens, authorization would be obtained to borrow the necessary money.

Réal Morrissette, Mayor, presided. Councillors Aurelien Foucault and Alfred Campeau were absent from this meeting.

'Spiritual Warmth' In Negro Flock, Says Rev. W. Bridge

The Rev. Wilson Bridge, of Lachute, now in Charlotte, N.C., is impressed with the sincerity of the Negro congregation to whom he is acting pastor for the month of August. An Associated Press despatch brings word of the Rev. Mr. Bridge in his new and strange surroundings. . .

"They put their life and heart into their religion," said Mr. Bridge, who preached his first sermon Sunday in a 30-day exchange of pulpits with the pastor of a Negro Methodist church.

Before he began his sermon at Little Rock Zion Church, the Rev. Bridge told the congregation:

"I am told you enjoy your religion. If you want to give vent to your feeling, you go to it."

And as he preached, the congregation came in on several occasions with a deep-throated "Amen" and "Yes, Brother."

"I'm just trying to be a goodwill ambassador, seeking to foster a little goodwill between races. I am doing it in the faith that some good eventually may come of it," he said in a press interview.

For his first preaching, his text was Acts 4:22 — "For the man was above 40 years old on whom this miracle of healing was showed." He said 40 is often considered too old for work and too old for improvement, but that through Christ it is never too late for man to change, to bring a new life.

Young Montrealer Dies In Crash Near St. Canut

On Route 41 between St. Canut and St. Jerome, a young Montrealer lost his life early Sunday morning when his automobile, out of control, hurtled off the highway. The victim was Joseph Pellerin, 29, of St. Denis Street, Montreal.

Accompanying Pellerin in the car was Jean-Paul Roy, of Brompton, Richmond County, who suffered injuries and was taken to the Hotel Dieu at St. Jerome.

Police investigating the fatality stated that the victim, driving a 1953 Mercury car, lost control while he was rounding a curve on the highway.

"Sobriety Seminar" At Rigaud College

A three-day seminar on sobriety, at which all facets of alcoholism are to be analyzed, will be staged at Bourget College, Rigaud, starting August 21.

The seminar is being sponsored by the local Lacordaire Association. Anybody may attend these sessions, but most of the participants will come from Valleyfield, Alexandria, St. Jerome and St. Johns. Organizers of the event are arranging to have competent speakers deal with various aspects of alcoholism including emotional, environmental and heredity factors.

The program also provides for social visits in the neighborhood. These include a reception at the Rigaud town hall, a tour of an industrial plant, a trip to the mountain and torchlight processions.

DESTROYING PEACHES

Sacramento — California cling peach processors are destroying about 37,800 tons of fruit this year instead of canning it and depressing the market, says the state agriculture department.

Yachtsman Pinned For Radio Interview

Bertrand L'Heureux and family, who arrived home from a vacation cruise to Kingston, report an enjoyable trip, although they ran into rough weather at Rockfand last Saturday during the high winds which swept the Ottawa Valley.

Mr. L'Heureux mentions that while working on his craft at a dockside in Kingston, he was approached by a roving reporter and asked if he would answer a few questions for the benefit of local radio listeners. The conversation was broadcast "live" over the Kingston station and Mr. L'Heureux, a community-conscious citizen, took the opportunity to plug the merits of Lachute and Argenteuil County.

Public Appeal for Diocesan Fund And Hospital

Laymen to Address Church Congregations

On behalf of the Diocesan Fund subscription campaign, with an objective of $750,000, and the construction of a new Lachute hospital, various meetings have been held recently in all parishes of Region 4, and in the offices of Gilbert Ayers. The area concerned in this Region includes Greater Lachute, Brownsburg, St. Michel, St Philippe, St. Andrews and Carillon.

Gratifying interest has been noted on the part of members of the executive and committees, who have accepted the responsibility of pressing this appeal to the generosity of all citizens. Notable among these workers are Horace Lamarche and Gerard Lefebvre, who plan to speak at Sunday services in St. Michel, Laurel and Lake Louisa, while Roger Regimbal will speak at four services in St. Andrews East.

Gilbert Ayers believes that, with the example of so many in this district actively aiding the cause, there is no doubt that citizens of the vicinities mentioned will show equal generosity in contributing to the success of the campaign. Mr. Ayers stated that an important part of this campaign is the effort to provide finances for the construction of a new hospital, as urgent need in this community, and half of the amount subscribed to the campaign in Region 4 will be earmarked for this purpose.

Honorary Presidents are — Mayor Léopold Carrière, of Lachute, Mayor Réal Morrissette, of Ayersville, Mayor E. J. Bourbonniere, of St. Jerusalem, Mayor T. P. Hall, of Brownsburg, Mayor Clarence Neill, of Wentworth, Mayor Léopold Charlebois, of St. Andrews, Mayor F. W. Allmen, of Carillon, and Mayor Noel Lemay, of Chatham.

Wentworth Appeal Launched on Behalf Of Blind Institute

The financial chairman for Wentworth, Mayor Clarence Neill, announces the opening of the second financial campaign on behalf of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, which will be held in that Township from August 12 to 26.

In order to make sure that you are contributing to the organization that is established in Argenteuil the CNIB wishes to draw your attention to the following fact: All canvassers are voluntary workers. They do not receive one cent of the money collected for expenses. If they use a car, the expense is borne by them. And in addition, the canvasser is one of your local residents — one whom you know by name. If you have any doubt about him, ask for his official receipt book, and make sure that the book has the imprint of the "Canadian National Institute for the Blind," and the name of your chairman on the cover of the book.

The following will be campaign canvassers in the various localities: Mr. R. Bell for St. Michel; Mr. Y. Charland for Montfort and Laurel; Mr. B. R. Hunter for Dunany and Louisa. For further particulars, contact the chairman, or Mr. Gerard Sauvé, municipal secretary.

Be generous in your donation, as the CNIB is proud of the work achieved in the County of Argenteuil during the past year. Today there is a full-time field secretary in Lachute. Last year nearly 600 people had their sight examined, and out of that number 26 had to undergo surgery; every operation was a success. Your dollars will be a tremendous help to those who are unable to work due to poor vision. You will have the satisfaction and the happiness of knowing that some person has had his vision improved by your donation.

BIG FAMILY

Jack Archer Gets Honorary Membership in CPGA

Jack Archer, former pro at Lachute Golf Club, has been named honorary member of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association. The honor was conferred for his tireless efforts in the promotion of professional golf in Ontario and Quebec. Jack Archer was instrumental in the organization of the Dow Trophy competitions in both provinces as well as the Inter-provincial team matches and increased interest in the Millar Trophy matches which will be held this year at Toronto Islington, August 15, 16 and 17.

50th Wedding Anniversary

County friends extend congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Bulley, of Arundel, who celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Monday, August 5. Mr. and Mrs. Bulley were married by the Rev. Herbert Symonds in Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, on August 5, 1907. Mrs. Bulley is a valued correspondent to this newspaper for Arundel district.

The couple were "at home" to their friends and were visited by many well-wishers.

Exodus to Belmont Park For Ayers Company Picnic

It was "Ayers Day" at Belmont Park last Saturday, as a large segment of the Lachute population invaded the Montreal amusement park for the fifth annual trip of this kind for Ayers Limited employees and their families.

A private 10-coach train lined up in the mill yards shortly after 12 noon, and at 1.15 p.m. started winding its way towards Montreal, 1,200 passengers beaming the holiday spirit. At Bordeaux Station, a motorcade of 20 M.T.C. buses and a special motorcycle escort conveyed them to Belmont Park. At eight o'clock, the whole procedure was reversed and all were back in Lachute at approximately 10 p.m.

An additional group of 700 made the trip by car and joined forces in the rides, tents, eats and general gaiety at Belmont.

During the supper hour, when family lunches were eaten in picnic style, special draws were made and winners were as follows: An electric stove was won by J. P. Latreille, and an electric iron was won by Raymond Dallaire.

All were thankful, as the day ended, that this mass excursion was carried out without a single casualty.

VOTING CARDS

Quebec City officials are studying a plan to have identification cards issued to all voting residents. The suggestion was made by Alderman Arthur Juneau, who said identification cards would cut down the amount of illegal substitution voting in municipal elections. Next civic election in the Ancient Capital will be in November, 1959.

Rotary Park Scene of Annual Picnic for Blind

The Brownsburg Rotary picnic was the scene of a fun-filled day of races, swimming and games, for a number of blind people from Lachute, Brownsburg, St. Andrews and surrounding districts.

Volunteer drivers from the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club and the Lachute Lions Club transported the picknickers to the grounds. The outing was sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

The local branch of the C.N.I.B. wishes to thank the following people for their contributions to the success of this picnic: Lachute Creamery, Lowe Bros. Dairy, J. P. MacKimmie & Sons, Chevrier Lachute Ltée, R. A. Beamish Stores, Ted Vachon, Romeo Roussel, Lucien Savard, Len Dion, E. Quinn, Mrs. Ivy Cruise, Angus Taylor and Dr. Eric Mongeon.

Prizes were distributed to all the blind people present.

U.S. Planes Check-In at Local Customs Port

The Ayers Limited landing strip is fulfilling its role as an "international airport", as illustrated by these two planes which landed here last Saturday from different points across the U.S. border. The aircraft and occupants were checked through by an officer of the local Customs staff.

To the left is a Lockheed Lodestar owned by the Cluett & Peabody Company, clothing manufacturers of White Plains, N.Y., while the aircraft at the right, a DC-3, came from Jacksonville, Fla. — owned by the Gibbs Corporation. The former plane had two crewmen and six passengers, and the latter, three crewmen and seven passengers. The occupants were guests at the Seigniory Club — the two aircraft being routed from Ottawa to Lachute, to take them homeward via Burlington.

Lachute Resident Suffers Bereavement

The Late Russell Johnstone

The death of Mr. Russell Johnstone, formerly of Guysborough County, N.S., occurred recently at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. Carrière, Lachute; he was in his 74th year. His health had apparently been good before he underwent an operation in April.

The late Mr. Johnstone worked for 30 years in the Nova Scotia mines before he moved to Timmins, Ont., where he was employed in the gold mines for a number of years. He had been a resident of Lachute for two years prior to his death.

The deceased was married to Cora Dakin, of Nova Scotia, who predeceased him 26 years previously, to the day. Surviving him are three daughters — Mrs. Daniel Walker (Rita), of Thomasburg, Ont.; Mrs. Earl MacKay (Laura), of Rednersville, Ont.; and Mrs. Henry Carrière (Hilda), of Lachute; also three sisters and one brother, in Nova Scotia, 11 grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren.

The body was taken to Toronto Thursday night for burial in Parklawn Cemetery.

Lady Was 37 Years Employee of C.P.R.

Late Miss Lucy M. Morrison

The death of Miss Isabella Lucy Maude Morrison occurred in Montreal on Monday, August 5, following a few months' illness. She was the daughter of the late Thomas Barron Morrison and Janet Doig.

Born at Beech Ridge in 1898, she attended Lachute High School and Teachers' Summer School training classes. After teaching for two years, she enrolled at Bugbee Business College at Stanstead, Que., and upon completion of a secretarial course joined the staff of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which position she held for 37 years until her death.

Surviving are two brothers, Royden, of Upper Lachute, and Nelson, of Dunany, and two sisters, Mrs. Ethel Garland, of London, Ont., and Mrs. Erma Martin, of Brownsburg. Another sister, Olive, predeceased her 29 years ago.

The funeral was held yesterday in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, with burial in Lachute Cemetery. Pall-bearers were — Messrs. Arnold Scott, Ross Muir, Albert Leishman, Russell Silverson, and two nephews, David Morrison and Vernon Martin.

Lifelong Arundel Citizen, World War I Veteran, Was Son of Pioneers

Late James Currie Thomson

Arundel — The death of James Currie Thomson, second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Thomson, early pioneers of this community, occurred at the Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital on July 27.

Mr. Thomson was a veteran of the First World War. He had spent his entire lifetime in the Arundel district, and will be sadly missed by his many friends.

The funeral was held from Collins Funeral Home on Wednesday, July 31, to Grace Church, Arundel. The Rev. Mr. Bussell conducted the service, and Mrs. Wm. L. Morrison was organist.

Pall-bearers were — Messrs. Ben Dubeau, Charles and Fred Davis, Sam MacArthur, Coral Swail and Eddie Graham.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. John Price, of Youngstown, Alta., Mrs. Arthur Hughes, of Langley, B.C., J. Arthur Thomson, of Arundel, and Edgar, of Clova, Que.

Adventure in Understanding

THE EXCHANGE of pastorates between the Rev. Wilson Bridge, of Lachute United Church, and the Rev. Dr. Raphael Michael, colored preacher from Little Rock Zion Church, North Carolina, has received publicity in news and pictures far beyond this community. Last week-end Lachute was visited by representatives of two prominent magazines, which apparently rate the incident of international news importance.

We have received no direct word from the local minister since his arrival in the South. But in Lachute last Sunday, the visiting clergyman received a very impressive welcome, judging by the large congregation which turned out to hear him speak. The Rev. Dr. Michael brought warm greetings from his southern flock, and proved himself a most sincere and convincing speaker.

We hand it to the Rev. Mr. Bridge, who with venturesome spirit, personal courage, and the full approval of his church board, initiated this exchange. If one can give credence to the fact that human associations are the most effective instrument for inter-racial understanding — and the international conferences of our day give eloquent illustration of this — then this exchange of pulpits can achieve good results. It may achieve still unmeasured good, by inspiring further exchanges between religious leaders in the future.

We welcome the southern pastor; we wish good fortune to our local minister during his month's sojourn; and we commend them both on this interesting experiment.

Neighbors Won't Tell

AN ORGANIZATION has been formed in Ste. Adele to "keep the Laurentians beautiful". The so-called Laurentian Planning Commission includes 60 representatives of the communities affected, and was formed in view of new road construction beginning in the Laurentian area.

This move reminds us of a long-felt need in Argenteuil County — a "Vigilant" committee, or some such instrument, to bring attention to the blots and hazards that mar our highways.

By the term "Vigilants", we do not imply a masked delegation with a lynching rope. We visualize rather a small group of serious-minded citizens equipped with an eye for beauty, safety and public welfare, whose chief weapons may be one or two impressive officers and some equally convincing stationery. Their manner of approach would be, not with hammer and sickle, but with a kindly word (written or verbal) to roadside proprietors or local authorities, suggesting that such-and-such improvements would be in the general interests. The suggestion could possibly include the offer of some manual assistance, where necessary.

In this matter of scenic eyesores, we really believe that most offenders are good fellows at heart, but unaware, through everyday proximity, that their premises are unsightly to tourists and passers-by. Even the neighbors have grown unconscious, through familiarity, or are reluctant to drop a hint.

To illustrate, we might mention one or two cases from observation just this past week. . . Partly dismantled cars on the roadside, at one of those unsightly "salvage centres". A discarded stove and refrigerator lying in a field, in full view of hundreds of commutors, mostly city folk. A railway-crossing sign at Staynerville obscured by overhanging branches (a hazard of long standing). And that damaged, weather-worn Welcome sign at the approach to Lachute on Route 41 (we mentioned this in an editorial last year). These are but a few examples. Every observant reader knows many more.

Yes, we think there is room here for a Vigilant committee, to stimulate self-respect and "keep our county beautiful."

The Necessary Core

THE PROVINCIAL Director of Agricultural Education, Jean-Charles Magnan, said last Tuesday the moral and economic strength of Quebec's rural life should not be sacrificed to the development of rich natural resources and the march of material progress.

The Provincial Government official, inaugurating a three-day meeting of farm Domestic Science schools' teaching staffs, said experience and common sense indicate that we need a core of farm producers to ensure prosperity and to prevent "social catastrophe".

Back To Nature

CANADA has perhaps the greatest variety of outdoor vacation possibilities of any country in the world, and this is best illustrated by the Dominion's national parks.

Two million visitors a year take advantage of the multitude of activities afforded by the parks, ranging from just viewing beautiful country to bathing, boating, climbing, hiking, trail riding and motoring, plus such sports as fishing, golf, tennis and lawn bowling.

From British Columbia to the Atlantic Coast, the chain of natural playgrounds offers majestic mountains, flower-bedecked valleys, sparkling lakes, foaming streams and picturesque stretches of sea shore.

Hundreds of miles of roads and hiking trails criss-cross the parks, which range from 4,200 square miles at Jasper, Alta., to 2.5 acres at Fort Chambly, Que.

Mountain lovers can wonder at the great peaks of the Selkirks and Rocky Mountains, with their perpetual snow and ice-caps. Eastward on the Prairies are parks dotted with scores of lakes linked by many streams and bordered by soft sand beaches — a paradise for the canoeist and fisherman.

Eastern Canada has lakeshore and island park reserves famous as recreation and camping areas. Along the coasts of the St. Lawrence Gulf, the Bay of Fundy and the Atlantic Ocean seashore areas have been set aside as national parks.

All the national parks are wildlife sanctuaries, and in them many birds and animals have lost their fear of man.

In Elk Island Park in Alberta herds of buffalo, once facing extinction, now roam peacefully.

Population Peak

CANADA'S population is virtually certain to reach 17,000,000 next year. The Bureau of Statistics estimated Canadians numbered 16,589,000 on June 1, compared with the census count of 16,081,000 a year earlier.

Immigration accounted for about half the 12-month gain of 508,000 persons, as arrivals entered at the fastest rate since 1913 when 400,000 newcomers came to Canada.

The population figures issued last week by the Bureau show that future population growth and government immigration policy are closely linked.

Immigration has moved so fast this year the Progressive Conservative administration — in a bid to avert possible heavy wintertime unemployment — has moved to restrict in mid-summer the inflow of unsponsored immigrants without firm job prospects. In recent years such curbs have not been imposed until early fall.

However, the average 1951-56 population gain has been 414,000 a year, and even if the population rise drops back to that scale, the 17,000,000 level should be reached around next June 1.

Wild Women

THE CUSTOM, started some years ago, of listing each year's Atlantic hurricanes by girls' names in alphabetical order, is convenient for meteorologists and newspapers, but has its inconveniences for young parents looking for suitable names for female offspring — says The Printed Word, crystallizing a quip heard often at the expense of the fairer sex. One can imagine that Audrey, after this year, will be regarded as a name of ill omen in the southern States. Hazel, a few years ago, established a reputation for wildness from the Gulf of Mexico to well into Canada.

Parents, for the time being at least, are fairly safe in choosing names for their daughters from the second half of the alphabet. As a rule, the annual hurricane season is ended before Monica, Nora and Olive get a chance at the headlines.

Feminists have already protested about the naming system, contending that men should be given a share of the odium attaching to tropical storms — says The Printed Word. Their complaint is understandable, but poetically they are wrong. Andrew, Bill, Charles and Donald are not names that suggest the wildness of elemental forces. They are names to be borne by tycoons rather than by typhoons. Anabella, Barbara, Coralie and Daisy are names that may suggest feminine virtues, yet when given to hurricanes they are a reminder that feminine virtues are never to be taken for granted.

'JACK' OF ALL TRADES

THANK-YOU, LACHUTE!

90% Of Premises Now Have Mail Slots or Letter Boxes

A Senior Postal Officer was in town and we are pleased to report the average of 90% of door slots or boxes is now reached.

May I thank everybody in Lachute, St. Jerusalem and Ayersville for this fine co-operation. A special and hearty thanks to the editors of The Lachute Watchman and l'Argenteuil newspapers.

Soon you will see letter-carriers on the streets to verify your house address. If you have not given us your name and address, please do so as soon as possible.

Advise your relatives, friends, and all your correspondents of your house number and the name of your street. Please do not give your postal box number; we will close these all very soon, and give you a refund for your keys and the balance of your rent.

Please do not delay in this matter. We have special cards for you to notify your correspondents of your complete address; if you wish to use them, call at the post-office wicket.

Your postal box number therefore does not exist any more — only your house number and the name of your street.

— The Postmaster

75 YEARS AGO

August 11, 1882 —

The St. Andrews people, we notice, are patronizing the railroad quite liberally of late.

Some folks were sorry that there was no ice-cream saloon in this village during the late hot spell.

Another Canadian North West Company has been formed in London (England) with a capital of $500,000. Lord Erskine is chairman of the Board of Directors.

We hear that a pathmaster has notified one of our prominent villagers to repair his sidewalk immediately or put up with consequence of a prosecution.

Chinese agents are buying up Crown lands in British Columbia for the purpose of settling large numbers of families for agriculture.

Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell, of Dalesville, have returned home from a pleasant trip to the Coast

Quite a number of our townsmen are camping out on Jones' Island this week.

River Rouge — George Roger met with a serious accident last week when his horses took fright as he was hitching them to a hay tedder.

Miss Clementine Beaulne has opened a lending library at her residence on Bethany Street.

E. J. Hailes, recently of Devonshire, England, has been appointed organist of St. Simeon's Church.

Messrs. O. B. Lafleur Company — to whose credit stands the Court House, Convent, the Academy, Rodrigue Hotel, and other structures in town — have been awarded the government contract for erection of the new Post Office.

Carillon — A number of our young folks enjoyed themselves immensely at a hay-cart drive given last Friday by J. Bradley.

The Misses M. Whelehan, B. Dunn and Frances Saltmarsh, and Mr. F. Hart, were recent guests at "Evergreen Cottage."

For the dedication ceremonies of the new addition to Lachute Academy, to take place on September 2, invitations have been mailed out to all former students. It may be that some former pupils are too far away to avail themselves of the pleasure of this re-union; and if so, they might kindly take the time to drop a line in recognition of former days.

A painful accident occurred Tuesday evening to Percy Murdoch, of Mabel, who was pierced in the side by a hay-fork and, although escaping serious internal injury, suffered a deep wound which required 13 stitches.

What Is Frontier College?

Frontier College is an organization that serves the educational needs of men who live in isolated camps where there are few educational opportunities. It is staffed by young men from universities who go out to the camps for a summer or longer as laborer-teachers. They earn their living on the job during the day and in the evening organize classes, lend books and advise correspondence students. This is strenuous, exacting work, but through it hundreds of men have received their only chance of education. Classrooms in tents, shanties or railway cars are found in all provinces, with a large proportion of them in Northern Ontario. The college was founded in 1900 and incorporated in 1919.

Who was the first Fuller brush man?

The Fuller Brush Company was established in 1906 by Alfred Carl Fuller, who was born at Welsford, N.S. He began in the United States by making brushes at night and selling them by day. For about 50 years he was head of the firm, which at mid-century had 2,700 employees.

What was Markland?

Markland is mentioned in Icelandic literature of the eleventh century as one of the three regions that Scandinavian wanderers visited on the east coast of North America. The other two were Helluland and Vinland. Markland apparently was between the other two, perhaps on the coast of Labrador. A settlement in Newfoundland also bears the name.

Who was Jack Miner?

Jack Miner, who died at Kingsville, Ont., in 1944, was internationally famed as an author and lecturer. A leading advocate of bird conservation, he started his world-famous bird sanctuary at Kingsville in 1904. Here migratory birds were banded and studied and great advances were made in conservation. He organized the Jack Miner Migratory Bird Foundation to continue his work.

The earliest attempt at a canal in North America was at Lachine, Que., early in the 18th century.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

It's a funny world, in the movies and television shows.

For instance: In real life, what would you do if an outlaw band with pistols drawn came galloping down the hill toward you? Of if you were hotly pursued by a pack of wolves, or a Thing from Outer Space?

You would get on your bicycle and pedal over the horizon; or climb aboard your horse, boat, airplane or any means of transportation that was handy, and leave.

But in the movies, nobody does anything so abrupt. The people have to stop and argue out their emotional problems before they start.

The partners have to decide whether or not one has double-crossed the other. The man and the girl must find out whether they are in love. They don't merely argue about it; they also stare at one another for several minutes on end.

Meanwhile, the posse or the enemy armored brigade or the formation of plague-carrying rats is thundering toward them, drawing so close that the people in the audience have to shout: "Quit the talk, you fools, and RUN."

The people in the movies may be brave, but they are too slow-witted to survive in the real world.

Of course they don't have to be exceedingly bright, because in the movies, the machinery nearly always works first crack. Television sets light up with a clear, perfect picture as soon as they are snapped on; long-distance phone calls across the world are put through in seconds; six-shooters rattle off 12 rounds without a misfire.

Even in the desert or at the top of the Andes, people in movies seem able to summon a taxi within two minutes, merely by snapping together the thumb and finger.

Despite these powers, the people in movies are unfit to cope with practical affairs. They are so wasteful that in real life they would go bankrupt within a week.

They are forever taking one puff from a cigarette, stubbing it out, and tearing away to answer an urgent summons. In any adventure story worth its saltpetre, a leading actor runs through eight or 10 packages of cigarettes a day.

Time and again, some minor crisis impels movie folk to rise from a table loaded with untouched food and walk away, sometimes without paying the bill.

Adults rush away from bars without finishing their drinks. Nervous and prodigal teen-agers leave behind full glasses of chocolate soda and hurry away to wrestle with some problem.

They are not the kind of teen-agers you meet in real life. The average healthy lass or youth, no matter how troubled in mind, would finish the chocolate soda before he went anywhere.

Quick Canadian Quiz

1. Born in Cobourg, Ontario, she was a great stage comedienne. Later she won an Academy Award playing with Greta Garbo in the famous film Anne Christie. Her real name was Leila Koerber. What was her stage name?

LOSSES in Milk Production.

If the losses are equal to the answers I received, then I'll say "Hurray!" The losses are much lower than I thought. . . "BUT ARE THEY SO LOW?" I still doubt it.

Those people who have made a study of these losses and who should know, say that retained afterbirth, slow or difficult calving, and other calving troubles, will take off about 1,000 lbs. milk during the following lactation. With milk at 40 cents a gallon, that means a loss of $40 for each case you have in your herd.

Mastitis, permanently lost quarters, and garget, can cost you another 800 lbs. milk, or $32 for each case.

Abortion, sterility and low producers may cost as much as 2,000 lbs. milk, or $80 for each case.

Lost time — nobody gets paid for that — and veterinary fees will probably amount to $5 per cow in the herd.

Breeding losses — if your cow fails to catch until 6 months after freshening — will (depending on the season) cost probably $25 a month, or $75 for each case.

Now, say you only have one case of each of the five categories I mention in your herd during a year — it will cost you in the neighborhood of $230, or if you sell milk for $2 per cwt., you lose $115.

Now, of course, you don't pay this out in hard cash, because you never received it. But with proper feeding — and by proper feeding I mean the PURINA DAIRY PLAN — you can largely eliminate these losses. If a cow does not get the necessary amount of vitamins, proteins, carbohydrates, etc., in her feed to build herself, her calf, and give maximum milk, she robs herself and leaves the way open for these losses. . . Remember the Purina Plan does not COST, it PAYS.

Won't you have us bring you a supply soon, we deliver.

Last Tribute at Weir For Late F. R. Williams, Westmount Dep. Inspector

Late Frederick Roy Williams

Weir, Que. — The sudden death of Deputy Inspector Frederick Roy Williams, of Montreal, which occurred at his summer home here Friday, August 2, came as a severe shock to everyone.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams, of Weir, Roy, who was in his 51st year, had been employed in the City of Westmount police force for the past 25 years, and had risen to the rank of Deputy Inspector.

Prior to the funeral service his body rested at the home of his brother, Mr. W. H. Williams. The funeral took place here Monday afternoon from the Church of the Redeemer, which was filled to capacity with sorrowing friends and relatives. Service was conducted by the Rev. Francis K. Bussell, of Arundel, assisted by Canon J. B. Owen, of Grande Prairie, Alta., and a guard of honor was formed by R. Edmonstone (Deputy Chief), O. Arsenault (Captain), A. Lawson (Lieuteant), S. Ashford (Sgt.), Lieut. J. Rowe and Constables J. Fraser, S. Taylor, J. Taylor, and A. Whiteway. Others representing the force were R. A. Byford (Chief, retired), T. Carneth (secretary), Sgt. W. Smith, W. Cameron (administrator) and Constable J. Scheffer.

Masonic rites were held Sunday evening by the members of the Laurentian Lodge of Arundel, of which he was a member. Interment was in the cemetery at Arundel.

Left to mourn his passing besides his wife, the former Janet T. Simpson, are his son, Bruce, and daughter, Linda Ann, also seven sisters—Lucile (Mrs. A. H. Moore), of New Liskeard, May (Mrs. E. J. Craig), of Weir, Clara (Mrs. Roy Staniforth), of Arundel, Violet (Mrs. Jos. Gelinas), Vera (Mrs. Geo. Clifton), Amy (Mrs. John MacLean), and Inez (Mrs. Stanley Craig), all of Montreal, and three brothers, Henry, Alex and Douglas, all of Weir.

The pall-bearers were six nephews — E. W. S. Brown, R. J. Moore, D. F. Simpson, W. J. MacLean, G. K. Clifton and R. A. Williams.

Births, Marriages, Deaths, etc.

ENGAGEMENTS

ANDREWS-HODGE — Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hodge announce the engagement of their daughter, Isabel Margaret, to Mr. Ralph Hartland Stanley Andrews, of Ottawa, son of Mrs. Ethel Andrews and the late Mr. Ralph Gilbert Andrews. The marriage will take place on Saturday, September 7, in St. Simeon's Anglican Church.

MULLIN-THOMPSON — The engagement is announced of Frances Alice Catherine, daughter of the late Albt. Thompson and Mrs. May Thompson, to Melvin Ross, son of Mr. Ralph Mullin and the late Mrs. Mullin, of Maberly, Ont. The marriage will take place on September 7 at the Lachute United Church.

DEATHS

JOHNSTONE — On July 31, 1957, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. Carrière, Lachute — Russell Johnstone, in his 74th year.

MORRISON — At the Julius Richardson Convalescent Hospital in Montreal, on Aug. 5, 1957, Isabella (Lucy) Maude, age 58 years, beloved sister of Royden and Nelson, of Lachute, Mrs. Ethel Garland, of London, Ont., and Mrs. Erma Martin, of Brownsburg.

THOMSON — At the Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital on July 27, 1957, James Currie Thomson, aged 63, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Thomson. Funeral held from D. A. Collins Funeral Home to Grace Church, Arundel, July 31. Interment at Arundel Cemetery.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

JOHNSTONE — The family of the late Russell Johnstone wish to express their appreciation to neighbors and friends for kindnesses extended and floral tributes received.

SMITH — The family of the late Robert Knox Smith wish to express sincere appreciation for kindnessess extended, and for floral tributes sent, in their recent bereavement.

IN MEMORIAM

HADLEY — In loving memory of a dear wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs. John Hadley, who passed away Aug. 12, 1956. — Ever remembered by the family.

"She was a mother so very rare,
Content in her home and always there,
She guided our path, she helped us along —
If we follow her footsteps we shall never go wrong.
We always knew we loved you,
But what we didn't know,
Was how very much we'd miss you
When it came your time to go."

LUXURIOUS TRACK

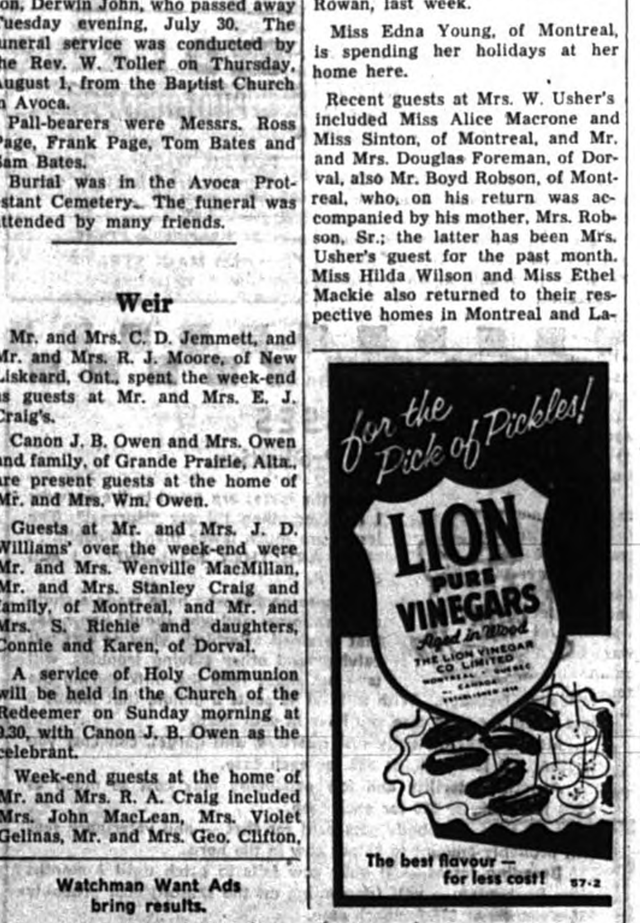

There was a time when big league baseball in the U.S. used to look at horse racing as something for the pool room set in New York and Chicago, and for lovers of the Thoroughbred horses in states like Kentucky and Maryland.

Not any more. The turf has become a formidable foe at the gate.

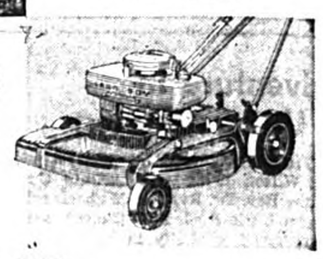

In fact, the New York Morning Telegraph, an authoritative racing publication, gets up an annual set of figures to prove that racing is the number one sport at the box office.

Horace Stoneham, owner of the New York Giants, admitted recently that racing — both Thoroughbred and harness — has been a big factor in his decision to move the Giants elsewhere.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Minister Attended Witnesses' Convention

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stainton returned from a three-day convention of Jehovah's Witnesses held in Montreal over the week-end.

Mr. Stainton, who is presiding minister of the local Congregation, said: "This training program was a real help to us."

"On Friday we observed a model ministry school conducted on the stage of the Victoria Hall, Westmount. These schools are designed to help each minister to become more efficient in the various features of the preaching work. More than 16,000 of these schools are now operated by the Witnesses throughout the world."

"We particularly enjoyed seeing the Watch Tower film," Mr. Stainton continued. "This film vividly portrays the world-wide work of Jehovah's Witnesses. Scenes were shown from the conventions throughout North America, Europe and Africa having a total attendance of 400,000 people."

"Of course, the highlight of the convention was the public talk, 'Removing the Barriers Dividing Mankind,' by Mr. Laurier Saumur, our district supervisor. He told us that unless the barriers to world unity are removed, the human family must perish. God's Kingdom, not the U.N.O., is man's hope for peace. The key to world unity is found in the Bible, at Matthew 22: 37-39, 'Love God with all your heart . . . and love your neighbor as yourself'."

Twenty new ministers were baptized on Saturday Mr. Stainton reported. "There is a real great thirst for spiritual knowledge in this province, and Jehovah's Witnesses are determined to satisfy this need," he concluded.

Grenville Girl Honored On Approaching Marriage

(Our District Correspondent)

Grenville — Among those who entertained in honor of Miss May Matthew, bride-elect of Mr. Leslie Higginson, of Hawkesbury, whose marriage takes place on August 17, were —

ABUNDANT LIFE
BY ORAL ROBERTS

THERE IS HEALING FOR THE INCURABLE

"There is no such thing as an incurable disease—and no one need die in pain . . . There is no such thing as an 'easy' or 'difficult' case of healing in Christ's name."

These are the words of an eminent physician, Dr. Christopher Woodward, who is combining spiritual healing with his practice of medicine and producing spectacular results.

My own work as a minister of the gospel, and as one who prays for the healing of the sick has brought me to the very same conclusion: No disease is hopeless—none is incurable.

Mrs. D. H., from Denver, Colorado, related this story a few days ago before our television cameras. She was holding in her hand at that time, two X-rays made of her 11-year-old son who had been pronounced incurable with a strange bone disease.

"My son began having aches and pains in his back and hips about two years ago.

"A few days later he could not get out of bed. On July 2, the physician made an X-ray.

"My doctor looked at the X-ray. He showed us where the bone in the socket of the hip had begun to deteriorate. Then sadly shaking his head he said, 'I'm very sorry to tell you before he is in his late teens he will be a hopeless cripple. The bone is wasting away, there is no cure for this disease.'

"What shock and emotion tore through me! Then—I saw much pity mirrored in the physician for my child. Suddenly I felt a strange power rise up in me, and I said within myself, 'No! No, my son. You will never be a cripple! I won't let you. As long as there is a living God you will never be a cripple.'

"Strange as it may seem, immediately all my fear and distress left me. I felt tremendously strong.

"Daily I asked God to help. During those days, faith rose higher and higher in my heart.

"One day I felt that I should have my son X-rayed again although, only four months had passed since the first X-ray. The doctor said, 'It is a little too soon to be able to tell much, but I will check for you.'

"First he tested him by stretching his legs and giving him various exercises. Each time he asked if it hurt. The boy answered, 'No'. The doctor muttered, 'There is something strange here. Let's see what the X-ray says.'

"As soon as the X-ray film was dried, it was flashed upon a large screen. 'Why,' the doctor exclaimed, 'the cavity has disappeared. New bone has grown in its place!'

"'Yes,' I answered, 'something has happened,' and I pointed toward the screen. 'Doctor, the Lord has healed my child.'

"That was two years ago. My son is going to school and has not had one moment's trouble since that time. I am very thankful."

I saw this boy a few days ago. He is perfectly healthy and walks normally. I remind you again—there is nothing incurable with the Lord.

OF MANY THINGS

By Ambrose Hills

Good Medicine

I was at a convention — a fish out of water — and tired from travelling. On top of that I had a virus accompanied by dizzy spells. Then it all cleared up in an instant, because a gruff old chap sitting beside me administered two quick shots of medicine. Potent medicine, too, which ought to be used oftener, so I'm passing along the prescription.

"You're Ambrose Hills, aren't you?" he said, nudging me so hard I felt another dizzy spell coming on. I nodded, and he gave me the first injection, "I like your stuff. Not fancy, but straight from the shoulder. You write well!"

From this man — an established writer of real merit — this was a morale-booster I badly needed at the time. I stuttered my thanks, and then we listened to the speakers on the panel which had just begun. It was a panel on the subject of writing, and the men were all experts.

When it was over and a recess announced, the old fellow plucked my sleeve. "Will you have a coffee with me? I've been wanting to meet you."

Well, enemies, friends and relatives, my virus, my dizzy spells and my fatigue were gone. I was chipper through the whole convention, and I'm still feeling the glow.

I know he laid it on. I think he may have noticed that I was looking poorly and he went out of his way to give me the treatment. But it would have been easy for him to have muttered a few kind words and stopped there. Instead, there was that invitation to coffee. There was his interest in getting acquainted. And now, home from the convention, there is a note from him, saying how pleased he was that we'd met.

I suppose, at this very moment, famous scientists are struggling hard to come up with new wonder drugs or tranquillizers and I wish them well . . . but at the same time, I'd like to warn them they've a rival. There's that gruff old Canadian writer who sat beside me dispensing wonder drugs far more beneficial than any they'll find in a test tube!

And take note of this. He hasn't put a patent on the medicine, either. You and I are free to dispense it whenever we see a suffering soul who needs a shot or two.

Sustaining Prosperity

By Lewis Milligan

"Can Prosperity Be Sustained?" is the title of a recent book by Neil H. Jacoby, an American economist and a member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, in which capacity he has helped to formulate policies that would promote the stability of the national economy. Mr. Jacoby's book is not as enthralling as a romantic novel, but its style is intimate and direct. At the outset the author goes to the heart of his subject: "Can the United States have a lasting prosperity? Few Americans have definite opinions of this subject. Some, deeply impressed by the memory of the massive unemployment of the 1930's which disappeared only with the coming of war and national defence programs, believe that our present good times will end when the economy has 'caught up' with deferred demands and when peace comes to the world."

Mr. Jacoby's answer to his question is summed up in the last sentence of his book: "Prosperity can be sustained in the United States without serious lapses, so long as government manages the fiscal affairs wisely and the American people continue to build a high-incentive economy." The author deals with the problem from various points of view; from those of government, the individual, management, labor, banker and investor. He insists that the role of government is of vital importance in "regulating the supply of money."

"Money and credit," he says, "are truly the lifeblood of our economy. Nearly everyone works for money or pays with money for the things he buys." From this simple platitude the reader is made to realize how much his share of the currency depends upon a "high-incentive economy, wherein government actively supports the expansion of private enterprise, and the regulation of money supply."

The problem of stabilizing the economy is a complex one, because so many factors are involved in the fluctuations of a free economy. Inflation is the chief bugbear of the economist, and it is a very real deterrent to stability. It is not the amount of money in circulation that makes for prosperity, but rather its value as a medium of purchase and exchange. That value is determined by price levels. Mr. Jacoby points out that with even a slow rise in the price level, "more and more people will discover that they are losing real purchasing power by holding insurance policies, bank deposits, savings bonds, and other dollar assets. What began as a 'creeping' inflation will become a running, then a galloping inflation."

In his conclusion, Mr. Jacoby says: "The basic requisite for sustained prosperity is policies to create a high-incentive economy in the fields of personal security, public assets, money regulation, taxation, business investment, competition, and foreign economic relations. The requisite policies call only for moderate reforms of present laws, institutions and practices — not radical innovations."

Mr. Jacoby's repeated emphasis on "high incentive" is important to his whole thesis. It means that incentive is the mainspring of individual and corporate progress and is essential to sustaining prosperity in a free society. Where there is no freedom, as in communist Russia, there is no place for private interest or enterprise. Compulsion is the only driving power in Soviet industry, and the individual is dehumanized into a robot. Incentive is a voluntary impulse to thought and action, and without that creative impulse neither prosperity nor human progress can be sustained.

OUT ON A LIMB

By Stumpy McCulloch

"The best way to save face," said Cy to ol' George, "is to stop shooting it off."

Ol' George turns to me, kind'a tired-like. "It's not the ups and downs o' life that bother me, Stumpy," he sighs, "it's the jerks."

If you have a highway running by your woodlot, you may occasionally have injury to your trees from accidents, out-of-control trucks or autos. It's sure important to know how to give your trees "first aid."

First off, you should paint the scar with an antiseptic wound dressing. Next, shade the wound to keep the sun from drying out the damaged tissue.

Last, build a ring of burlap about the wounded area, allowing several inches of air space between tree and burlap. Never wrap tightly, as you would a human wound.

* * *

You know a tree is a living plant, like a stalk of corn, subject to natural laws of life. Some kinds of trees, such as aspen, seldom live more than 80 years, others may live several hundred to a thousand years. So long as a tree lives it grows, but as a tree gets older it becomes increasingly susceptible to disease, insects, and wind throw. Therefore, it is good economy and good forestry to harvest mature trees and start a new crop before deterioration begins.

* * *

Government foresters estimate that lumber from home grown trees costs farmers only a third of that bought commercially.

* * *

Some of you may be wondering how much it costs to have your own trees custom sawed in the neighborhood when you need lumber for that big project. Mostly it costs about $18 per thousand board feet.

Exhibition Football Is "Full Dress" Preview

SPORTS CAMERA

By Jim Bastable,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The exhibition football game has become almost as important as the league engagement itself. It means money in the till; possibly the future of a player.

In these days of skyrocketing payrolls, nobody knows better than the professional clubs what a few good exhibition games will do to the bank book.

And no one is more aware than the player of what could happen if he doesn't show well. Some so-called stars may find themselves with a one-way ticket home. Some unknowns suddenly become outstanding men.

And, when a coach has around 50 or 60 players trying for positions, he must cut his squad before regular play starts. The exhibition game is his key to the cutting problem.

Things are no different this year as both the eastern Big Four and the Western Interprovincial Football Unions prepare for their regular schedules and the tough battle leading to the Grey Cup classic.

Several clubs are playing as many as three exhibitions. The fans love them, flocking to stadiums at the rate of about 15,000 a game.

Brawling Tactics

And don't think the boys don't play it rough. Some red-blooded athletes got mad at each other at Toronto last week and nearly turned their engagement into a Pier-Six brawl.

Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four and Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Conference were in the battle. Riders won 30-9, but that was incidental. After it was over, it was difficult to reconstruct the good clean fun that had started the game.

The fighting broke out in the fourth quarter after, the Riders said, Argo players consistently piled on their opponents. Argonaut tackle Dick Fouts tangled with Ron Atchison of Saskatchewan along the line. Fouts pursued Atchison as the latter headed for the bench.

Fouts was knocked down by somebody — Argonauts say it was a Rider on the bench. As he lay on the ground an unidentified player — Argos say they got his license number but aren't talking — allegedly kicked him in the groin.

Feelings ran high. At one point the officials advised coaches to call the game. The coaches refused, each vociferously deploring the rough stuff. Fighting erupted again.

Three players were ejected from the game. During the evening, Argonauts lost a guard for the season with a severed Achilles tendon; another player with a broken leg. Others had an assortment of sprains and bruises.

There are some who figure the game was just another example of football — a violent, bodily contact game; a test of a player's skill, whether he plays it the straight, hard, clean way, or, with fists, knees, elbows and equipment.

But as one sportswriter commented: "Football is supposed to have become adult. It should operate as if it had."

Ayers Tennis Club Takes Honors Against Rigaud; Clinic Announced Tonight

The Ayers Tennis Club last week captured the honors with a score of 3-2 over Rigaud, the most formidable club in the Quebec-Ontario League. A number of spectators supported their respective teams, and there was some enthusiastic applause.

The most exciting match was played by Fleurette Plouffe, of Ayers, against Gilberte Lalonde, of Rigaud. After an exchange of hard and tricky shots which held the spectators in suspense for two and a half hours, Fleurette Plouffe finally triumphed with scores of 4-6, 6-3 and 6-3.

The Belisle - Campeau duo proved to be invincible, winning easily over Mr. Cholette and A. Villeneuve.

Jacques Bourgoing, Ayers, defeated Jacques Déom, 6-1, 6-0.

Richard Campeau and Bernard C. Belisle, Ayers, defeated M. Cholette and A. Villeneuve, Rigaud, 6-1, 6-1.

Antonine Lafleur and Mrs. J. Déom, Rigaud, defeated Elaine MacDonald and Lise Urbain, Ayers, 6-1, 8-6.

Denise Quesnel and Marc Chevrier, Rigaud, defeated Ginette Tessier and Eugene Payette, Ayers, 6-0, 4-6, 6-4.

This victory has given the Ayers Club first position in the league standing.

Tennis Clinic Tonight

At eight o'clock this evening at the Ayers recreation centre, a tennis clinic will be conducted by Lucien Laverdure, of Montreal. This professional, "Mr. Tennis" of the Province of Quebec, shows his keen interest in amateur players by organizing lessons and participating in exhibition matches. He is now in Lachute to teach all interested. Exhibition matches by two of the most skilled Junior players in the province will also be staged before the local enthusiasts of this sport.

All tennis players are invited to be on hand, and to bring their racquets. This clinic is graciously sponsored by the Provincial Tennis Association.

This Saturday, the Ayers Club will be hosts to visitors from Sorel. The public are cordially invited to watch these games.

Roger Regimbal and Hubert Lemyre, of Ayers Limited, are happy to advise that a clubhouse is to be erected specially for use of the tennis players. Members will enjoy the facilities of two dressing rooms with showers and washrooms, a reception room and restaurant.

Cornwall Beats Ayers In Croquet Tournament

A croquet delegation from Cornwall played here last Monday, defeating the Ayers teams by three games to two. The visitors were captained by Onesime Desrosiers, while Raymond Bourgon led the Ayers players. A lucky door prize was won by Donat Joly.

1st Round

2nd Round

Achille Lebrun and Conrad Lebrun, Cornwall, defeated Antonio Proulx and Denis Lauzon, Ayers.

3rd Round

4th Round

5th Round

Raoul Fournier and Joseph Contant, Cornwall, defeated Albert Choquette and Gaetan Letendre, Ayers.

'Burg Tigers Place Third In League Standing

Brownsburg Tigers finish the league in third place, as Fassett once again proved to be "cousins". The 'Burg built up a fat 10-3 lead, then got a scare as the Fassett team staged a rally in the ninth. The final outcome was 10-7.

Georges Raymond pitched the minimum five innings to pick up the win, yielding three runs on three hits to that point. He struck out five and walked four. Ronald Cousineau gave up four runs on seven hits, walked none and struck out one in relief.

Buddy Racine and Jacques Legault led the hit parade for Brownsburg — each hit a double and two singles. Yves Raymond and Jacques Racine both singled twice, and singles by Germain Gagné and brother Léo filled out the 12-hit attack.

Donat Boucher singled three times in four trips to lead Fassett's attack. Joanis and Joubert each had two singles. Boucher pitched eight innings before being relieved by Lefaivre, who took the side in order.

On Sunday Buckingham winds up the schedule here.

L. Louisa Masquerade For Young Folk

A masquerade for tots and teens at Lake Louisa Country Club last Friday evening inspired the inventive genius of fond parents, and results were really unusual in the many original costumes produced from makeshift materials.

Prizes were awarded to the following:

Girls' Best Costume — Linda McLaren and Michele Desjardins (Old Couple).

Boys' Best Costume — Michel Langlois (Sheik).

Boys' Most Original — Gary Benson (Grocery Order).

Small Fry, Girls' — Diane Roberts (Angel).

Funniest Costume — Bobby Larsen (Question Mark).

Judges were Mr. and Mrs. H. Lortie and Mr. Fred Royal. Master of ceremonies for this happy occasion was Mr. Stewart Benson, with Dr. A. Gordon and Mr. Sam Rose, of the entertainment committee. The evening's program included movies for the youngsters.

Richelieu Club Racing, Field Day This Saturday

Horse races, a super-bingo, a visit from Maurice "Rocket" Richard, and the drawing of an automatic washing and drying machine, are the main features planned for the annual field day of the local Richelieu Club, which will take place on the Exhibition Grounds this Saturday.

The harness races, which have been highly successful in previous years, are again featuring some of the best horses and drivers of the district — according to Roger Martel, chairman of this program.

In order to hold the spectators' interest between races and events, the Club is holding a super-bingo. Jean Paul Roy and Ivanhoe Chevrier, joint presidents of the charity campaign, state that more than $500 will be offered in prizes for the bingo, including a coffee table, a telephone table and chair, a mobile bridge table, a travelling desk, lounging chairs, an automatic toaster, a portable mixmaster, and a record cabinet.

Maurice Richard, Canadiens hockey star, will be present on this occasion, through co-operation of the local Dow Brewery agent, René Laurin. He will probably be the one to draw the winning ticket for the automatic washing and drying machine, generously donated by Roger Lamarche, Main Street furniture dealer.

Tickets for the draw are now being sold; those who purchase a complete book will be admitted free of charge — the cover of the book being an admission ticket acceptable at the gate.

TV Preview Shows Favorite Features Billed For Fall

Warpaint and war canoes, tugboats and tales of the sea are just a sampling of the varied film fare CBC television plans to place before Canadian viewers this fall.

In a glimpse at things to come, the CBC gives a preview of the coming season's schedule. Full details are awaiting clearance from the final planning stage.

New to the network will be "Last of the Mohicans" and "Tugboat Annie," both adventure dramas. The James Fenimore Cooper saga of a vanishing Indian tribe is calculated to attract both junior and senior Redman fans. It is scheduled for Friday's 8-8.30 p.m. spot on the connected network, commencing September 27.

"Tugboat Annie", now being shot in Toronto and Vancouver, is a serial version of the famous Saturday Evening Post stories by Norman Reilly Raine. The half-hour serial is scheduled for Monday's 9.30-10 p.m. spot, starting October 7.

The Hollywood version of these tales starred Wallace Beery and Canada's Marie Dresler. In this version by Normandie Productions Company Ltd. — also part-producers of "Mohicans" — Walter Sande plays the captain of the tugboat Salamander. Sande may be remembered for his portrayal of the inspector in Dragnet. Annie herself is played by Minerva Urecal. Five Canadian players take principal roles and seven other Canadians play smaller parts.

In "Mohicans" more than 100 Canadian actors and actresses take part. The series, which stars Hollywood actors Lon Chaney and John Hart, was filmed in Pickering, Ont. The serial's staff of cameramen and technicians was also mostly made up of Canadians.

The stories of John Nesbitt will be seen regularly on CBC television Sundays 9-9.30 p.m.

CBC Folio moves from its Wednesday spot of last season to Thursdays at 10 p.m. Cross-Canada Hit Parade also has been moved from its old time. It will be telecast this fall on Saturdays at 10.30 p.m.

Explorations will be a half-hour presentation and in a new spot — Sundays, at 10.30 p.m.

Concert Hour will be a twice-monthly program alternating with Press Conference and Winnipeg and Vancouver programs.

Programs continuing through from the Summer include Holiday Ranch, Country Hoedown, Climax, This Week, Gillette Fights, Disney Land, Kraft Theatre, This Is The Life, Meet McGraw, Ed Sullivan Show, I Love Lucy and On Camera.

Favorites of last season definitely returning this fall are scheduled as follows:

Sundays: Junior Magazine, 2-2.30 p.m.; Citizen's Forum, 3-3.30 p.m.; You Are There, 4-4.30 p.m.; Perspective, 5.15-6 p.m.; Father Knows Best, 6.30-7 p.m.; December Bride, 7-7.30 p.m.

Mondays: Studio One, 10-11 p.m.

Fridays: Plouffe Family, 8.30-9 p.m.

Saturdays: Perry Como, 8-9 p.m.; WHL Hockey, 9-10.30 p.m.; Juliette, 1.10-11.30 p.m.

With news of other favorites of last season to be announced, CBC Folio is again expecting a bumper season.

Trust men and they will be true to you; treat them greatly and they will show themselves to be great.

Lee Moore, TV Western Star Here With Show Troupe Aug. 17

Lee Moore and Juanita

Lee Moore, "the coffee-drinkin' nitehawk" of WWVA Wheeling, W. Va., is coming this way, with a big country and western show on August 17 at the Town Hall in Lachute.

Lee started in show business at an early age by winning several contests with his banjo and Hawaiian guitar. Born in Ohio, Lee first worked with several hillbilly bands and later decided to try radio as a single. Off to a good start he received more fan mail than the regulars on the stations. Today at Station WWVA, Wheeling, Lee receives many letters and cards. Almost every night the telephone is kept busy by people calling from Canada and the northeastern United States to request a song for a friend or neighbor. Lee has been with WWVA for seven years as the all-night disc jockey. Often Juanita will visit Lee at the station and they do a program together.

Juanita, a Kentucky girl, started pickin' and singin' at the age of 11 with a family group, her father and brothers, known as "The Picklesimer Family Band". The band toured Kentucky playing the theatres and radio stations. After Juanita's brothers married she went to WCMI, Ky. The first band that she worked for at Ashland was none other than Lee Moore. Faith took a hand and in 1938 Lee and Juanita were married. In 1940 a son, Roger Iee, was born to the Moores. Roger Lee now travels with the group when he is out of school. Roger has a good voice and adds a lot to the show.

Lee and Juanita write many of the songs that are used on their program. They record for the Cross-Country people in the states and on Apex Records in Canada.

Appearing with Lee Moore and Juanita are the Country Nitehawks, five talented musicians.

Tips on Touring

"The Best Things In Life Are Free" is a lot more than a pleasant song as far as the motorist is concerned. Some of the best things in his life are services he gets free whenever he stops for gasoline or oil.

Never say NO when the man at the service station offers to check the oil and air. Free services like that protect your safety and prolong the life of your car.

A check of the radiator will show if the system is clean (especially important in hot weather) and if there's enough water to keep the engine cool.

A check of oil in the crankcase shows if there's enough oil to give the engine all the lubrication it needs. This can be done only by means of the dipstick under the hood. (The gauge on your instrument panel records pressure only — and that depends on your having enough oil in the crankcase.).

Remember, the average service station sells only about one gallon of oil for every 50 gallons of gasoline — so that oil check means as much to your driving safety as to the station's business.

Take advantage of frequent battery checks in summer. Hot weather makes the water evaporate faster. Watch tires closely in hot weather, too. It's better to have the pressure a little on the low side as you begin a long drive on a hot day.

And don't forget to say YES to every offer you get to have these things checked. The checks are free — and they are among the best things in your life on the road.

Students on Rhodes Tour Arrive Next Week

Montreal — When the Cunard Liner Carinthia arrives here August 21 she will be carrying 40 British students comprising the W. H. Rhodes Canada Educational Trusts Tour on their ninth annual visit to Canada arranged under an educational trust founded in 1938 by W. H. Rhodes, a Yorkshire industrialist.

Ranging in age from 17 to 19, the students will visit Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls, North Bay, Sudbury and Temagami. Their tour will be highlighted by visits to many civic, educational and industrial centres. The students, from secondary schools in the cities of Birmingham, Bradford, Glasgow and London, will return to England in the new Cunarder Sylvania which sails from Montreal September 6.

PAMPERED EAGLE BACK TO NATURE

Victoria (CP) — Joe, the well-treated young bald eagle pet of the crew of the hydrographic vessel William J. Stewart, will have to be returned to its island home on the vessel's next trip, game commission officials have ruled.

Picked up in the Queen Charlotte Islands, the eagle was given the run of the ship, living high on herring, beef and potatoes. The officials pointed out there is a $300 fine for persons who kill, injure or even possess an eagle, which the crew did not know about.

Exclusive-design DODGE V-8 Power Giants
CUT BIG JOBS DOWN TO SIZE...offer more advances than other heavy haulers

Here are the heftiest work-mates that ever shouldered a king-size cargo! Dodge truck heavyweights pack up to 232 horsepower . . . bring you increased G.V.W.'s and G.C.W.'s that add up to a whale of a payload story!

From the road up, Dodge heavy haulers are built to earn their keep, increase profits every mile you go!

Take this brawny D700 model (23,000 lbs. max. G.V.W.), for instance. It's the most powerful truck in its class (216 h.p.!). And it gives you such long-life features as sodium-filled exhaust valves and free-turning exhaust valve rotators. Like all Dodge V-8's, it features dome-shaped combustion chambers for full power from regular gas, less carbon build-up.

Dodge heavy haulers are easiest to handle, too . . . turn and manoeuvre in less space than other makes! And Dodge gives you an exclusive full-opening alligator hood . . . the roomiest cab . . . the biggest one-piece wrap-around windshield!

There's a Dodge Power Giant for your job. Let us give you the facts on these great trucks today!

Ontario's 4-H homemaking club program was praised at its 'achievement day' program held at Woodstock, Ont.

A home economist and teacher from West Africa, Sophia C. Boafa, director of education for women and girls in Ghana, said she was most impressed by the confidence girls gained through 4-H work here. Since mothers attend the course she noticed it gave a young girl a wonderful feeling to know her mother is interested in what she's learning.

She told the group that her work in Ghana is mainly with unschooled girls. An important part of the course is teaching them to read and write. Women take the courses not for the skills learned (as opposed to the 4-H program in Canada) but to learn to plan and save time in running their household. The nutritional angle is stressed, she said.

Few Amenities

"Rural women cook over open fires. We don't have the modern household aids that you do. It takes the Ghana woman a long time to do all the cooking, washing and sewing for a family. All clothes, except the man's, are made at home," she said.

The international visitor was dressed in an orange, black and white costume — typical of her country. Called a "ntama" it had a simple top, short sleeves, no collar, and a draped but slim skirt reaching the ankles.

Miss Boafa, on a five-month tour of the United States and Canada, is observing teaching methods in home economics.

Christian Effort

Ten Vancouver business girls are devoting their vacation periods to taking the Bible to children in remote areas of B.C. They will teach Christianity at Indian reservations, in logging camps and such.

The Christian Youth Caravans established by the United Church in Eastern Canada in 1949 were adopted in British Columbia in 1952. "Last year," said director Daisy Tollefson, "it cost the organization $600 for travel expenses for eight of us, but we received some donations from outside the church."

Dessert Treats

To add variety to your winter desserts, why not freeze peaches this year? An effective means to counteract discoloring is to use ascorbic acid — 200 milligrams dissolved in each cup of syrup.

When freezing, choose firm ripe peaches, blanch in boiling water one-half to one minute, then dip in cold water. Remove skins and pits, and slice fruit directly into syrup in containers. Cold, moderately thin, syrup is made by adding a cup of sugar to one-half cup of water.

Blueberry Johnny Cake

When you start with a good recipe for Johnny Cake and add a generous quantity of blueberries, the result is an extra-ordinarily delicious quick bread that will add sparkle to even the most humdrum menu. The addition of blueberries to that timeless favorite — Johnny Cake — gives a delectable treat that's bright in color and lively in flavor. It's especially good served warm with butter or margarine and corn syrup. It's a treat that's sure to be appreciated at a leisurely Sunday brunch or a tempting mealtime variation for lunch or dinner.

Recipe — Yield, 9 squares.

½ Cup fresh blueberries, ½ cup once-sifted all-purpose flour, or ½ cup once-sifted pastry flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon, ½ cup fine granulated sugar, 1¼ cups yellow cornmeal, 1 egg, ½ cup milk, ¼ cup shortening (melted).

Grease an 8-inch square cake pan and line in the bottom with greased waxed paper. Preheat oven to 400°F. (hot). Pick over, wash and thoroughly drain blueberries. Sift the all-purpose or pastry flour, baking powder, salt, cinnamon and sugar together into a bowl; mix in yellow cornmeal.

Beat egg well; mix in milk, melted shortening and the prepared blueberries. Make a well in dry ingredients; add liquids all at once and combine just until dry ingredients are moistened. Turn into prepared pan and spread evenly. Bake in preheated oven, about 25 minutes. Stand pan on cake rack for 5 or 10 minutes, then turn out cake; peel off paper. Serve warm with butter or margarine and maybe a little corn syrup.

Ham-Stuffed French Loaf

Summertime — "when the livin' is easy" — is a time for preparing dishes that can be transported to the backyard as easily as to the dining room table. This Ham-Stuffed French Loaf served with heated chili sauce and a crisp green salad provides a delicious luncheon or supper menu that lends itself to both indoor and backyard eating. The flavorful, moist filling and the crisp, crunchy bread crust are an interesting texture contrast. It's an easy way to simplify warm weather entertaining.

Recipe — Yield, 6 to 8 servings.

1½ Cups minced ham or canned luncheon meat, 1 small loaf French bread, 1 small onion, 2 tablespoons heated butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, salt to taste, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate (optional), ½ teaspoon thyme, ½ teaspoon sage, few grains cayenne, ½ cup milk, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard.

Preheat oven to 350°F. (moderate). Prepare minced ham or luncheon meat (about ½ pound ham or one 12-ounce can of luncheon meat will be required). Cut off one end of loaf, scoop out the inside with a long kitchen fork and tear into crumbs; add to minced meat.

Chop onion finely and fry slowly in heated butter or margarine; add to meat and sprinkle with green pepper, chopped parsley, salt, pepper, monosodium glutamate, if being used, thyme, sage, cayenne, milk and prepared mustard. Mix lightly, but thoroughly, using a fork. Fill scooped-out loaf with this mixture and replace the cut-off end; secure with small skewers. Wrap loaf in foil and bake in preheated oven until heated through — about 30 minutes. Remove foil and slice loaf for serving. Pass heated chili sauce.

Fashions

It's a nice idea when a coat good on its own is offered with a matching skirt to form a good looking costume. This coat and skirt should be ever so useful come autumn. The fabric is a bright red Shetland wool and the coat is the new seven-eighths length, double breasted way down below the hips. A black raccoon collar and brass buttons make it a worthwhile selection for the college or career girl.

Wife Preservers

A shelf attached to the sunny side of the garage is convenient for setting out house plants during the summer months. The elevation keeps them safe from animals and mischievous hands.

Planning Meals for One

Nutrition investigators find that many people living alone won't take the trouble to prepare adequate meals for themselves. The effort required to cook meat and vegetables for one seems to be "just too much fuss." There is one way to overcome part of the difficulty; plan the cooking to cover menus for several days, says Dorothy Batcheller, Home Economist for the Poultry Products Institute, then adequate meals for good health can be achieved.

One suggestion Miss Batcheller has for "plan ahead menus" is based on using a small chicken. She points out that a "live-aloner" can speed up cooking and have more variety if a small pressure cooker is available since cooking time is reduced considerably.

How to Use a Chicken In Menus for One

Simmer a 2½ to 3 pound chicken in seasoned water until fork-tender, about 1½ hours, or pressure-cook at 15 pounds pressure for about 20 minutes according to manufacturer's directions. A small fowl may be used, but double the simmering time or cook for about 30 minutes in pressure cooker.

The first night serve one leg and thigh with tea biscuit and broth thickened to make gravy. Cook potatoes, carrots and onions in the broth during the last portion of cooking the chicken. Add the onion first, about 30 minutes before chicken is done, then add 3 to 4 peeled potatoes and 2 carrots to cook the last 20 minutes. Refrigerate two potatoes to serve the next day.

Chill the unused chicken and broth by setting pan in cold water and then, when cool, refrigerate. Here is the plan for using the remaining chicken. Remove the breast meat in as large pieces as possible, remove thighs and drumsticks. Wrap white and dark meat separately in waxed paper, foil or pliofilm. Remove rest of meat from carcass, neck and wings. Chop and use in jellied chicken, sandwich filling, salad, or à la King.

To make jellied chicken, add up to 1 cup of chopped chicken or combination of chicken, diced celery, green peas, etc., to 1 cup of either broth or water and a chicken bouillon cube in which has been dissolved 2 teaspoons of unflavored gelatin soaked in two tablespoons of cold water. Pour into mould and chill until set.

The chicken breast may be served cold with potato salad made from the potatoes cooked with the chicken. The leg may be served for another meal fried. Dip leg and thigh in egg and bread crumbs or seasoned flour and fry until golden brown and hot in shallow fat and serve with a crisp tossed salad and rolls. If preferred, the leg may be broiled. Marinate for an hour or longer in French dressing or Barbecue Sauce and then broil until crisp and brown. Another main dish could be Chicken a la King, or chicken hash or chicken pot pie with toasted rounds of bread or pastry circles for a crust.

One major cooking operation where the chicken is concerned will yield meat enough for 3 to 4 appetizing main courses.

Plans Underway for Q.W.I. Golden Jubilee

The year 1961 will mark the Golden Jubilee of the Quebec Women's Institutes. A pageant at that year's convention has been suggested as an appropriate way in which to commemorate this 50th anniversary.

Already plans are under way and a committee appointed to make a start on this ambitious undertaking, which must be "impressive, dignified, worthy of the occasion," to quote from the terms of reference.

Mrs. H. Palmer, of Hemmingford, and Mrs. Geo. Parsons, of Bury, are co-chairmen of this committee. Other members are Mrs. G. E. Dow, Port Daniel West; Mrs. W. C. Smallman, Dundee (both former provincial presidents); Mrs. J. B. Moore, Cowansville, and Mrs. W. J. Fuller, Ottawa.

In the past ten years about 300,000 persons have emigrated from Canada to the United States.

R.C.M.P. – Symbol of Canada

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

"The only thing in which Canadians have any real faith is the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. They are a very modest people," said Miss Betty Oliphant, mistress of the National Ballet, in a speech at Windsor.

Canadians have a right to believe in their Mounties. Their past history and their performance in the present make them one of the most honored of police forces in all the world. Their scarlet tunic is almost as symbolic of Canada as the maple leaf or the beaver.

The Mounties and our nation have grown up together. Just six years after Confederation, the Canadian Parliament established this force because there was a real need. A Dominion Government officer who had been appointed to investigate the North West Territories reported that the whole area "was without law, order, or security for life or property." The inhabitants of this part of Canada were a few hunters dependent on buffalo for food and clothing, around thirty thousand Indians, and a small number of traders, fortune hunters, and settlers on farms.

In many districts, pioneer Canadians were uncertain of their safety from the red man, and from lawless white wanderers. One Indian village of one hundred and seventy men, women, and children had been wiped out by a ruthless band of white men. The task of the Mounties was to establish law and order, collect custom dues, pacify the Indians, and suppress the liquor traffic among them. To an amazing degree, in a few decades, in a rough new country, they created in the minds of men a respect for the law.

This is never an easy task in any civilization, but it is particularly difficult in a new country. It has been said of the Mounties that they established themselves in a country of wild men, white and red, a land of great distances and difficulties. They patrolled a pathless empire cut by torrential unbridged rivers, among Indians whose chiefs had won their place by war and theft and white men who hated law and encouraged the Indians to violence by their own conduct.

The history of this Force has been written for adults and for juveniles in several excellent books, and it is a story with which all Canadians should be familiar. The story of the early days in the West shows the men in scarlet tunics performing varied duties. In winter, many a Mountie rescued travellers in terrible blizzards, where they would have frozen to death. Victims threatened by prairie fires were often saved. Mail was carried by the Mounties to many a lonely farm and mining community. Sometimes a Mountie doubled for a doctor, and again he helped the work of the "sky pilot" in arranging for weddings and funerals.

Visitors to the Federal Parliament buildings always admire the Mounties' scarlet tunic and beautiful horses. They were a wonderful symbol of Canada in the Coronation parade. Commissioner S. T. Wood, who retired from the force six years ago, knew the value of the traditional uniform and of a mounted constable. On one occasion he said, "If you take the Red Coat away from this force, you will kill it." He also stated: "There's nothing like a horse for finding out the weak points in a man! Besides, the horse is essential in certain types of country and for handling crowds."

STOP COOKING!
Serve Soups, Salads, Sandwiches

Skip right out of the kitchen, Ma'm, when the summer sun gets warm. Just stop cooking. And turn over your job to Soups, Salads, and Sandwiches.

Living is easy with a kitchen well stocked for this kind of eating. Here's the way to equip your kitchen for meals that give you an all-summer vacation:

Soup: Have a shelf filled with cans of your favourites: Tomato, Asparagus, Cream of Chicken, Chicken with Rice, Chicken Gumbo, Vegetable, Clam Chowder, Beef.

Sandwiches: Loaf of white bread and one other for variety (whole wheat, rye, or raisin). Peanut butter, cheese, cans of meat, tuna and salmon.

Salads: Cans of fruit (peaches, apricots, pineapple) and meat, tuna and salmon. Refrigerator staples of eggs, lettuce, cottage cheese.

Mix and match with this tempting trio. And you can dine pleasantly, coolly on meals such as these.

PATIO PARTY

SURPRISE DAD WITH DINNER

Father is "King of the Mansion" any day, so fix him a royal feature. Beef burgers that are jumbo-size will guarantee that the meal is a sure-fire success. Crown the burgers with rich beef gravy—Dad's choice anytime. You can use a can of the good gravy that's already to heat and serve. Dish up each plate with a sizzling burger, a scoop of golden corn, and parsley-buttered new potatoes. Fill individual wooden bowls with tossed salad. Pass the rich brown gravy for pour-on with burgers and potatoes. Later carry in the dessert—ice cream and luscious chocolate cake for the man of the house. If you use white frosting, you can spell out "DAD" with chocolate chips (and draw a heart around it.)

We knew
BUT...

... this year's Pontiac has even us running out of praise for the good looks that have put it at the top as Canada's most wanted car. Could be good styling always comes out on top.

Remember when all the male fashion magazines were full of pink shirts? Store windows blushed pink on every side and, for a little while at least, shirt dealers were very happy. Then the clearance sales began and dealers tried everything they could to dispose of the pink shirts that people weren't buying any more. One more fancy fad had come and gone.

We think there's a moral in this that applies to the car business, too. And when we take a look at Pontiac's sales record this year, we're sure of it. Canadians everywhere appreciate Pontiac's quiet, graceful beauty ... the absence of flash and gaudiness. They recognize and appreciate the sort of workmanship in every detail that only General Motors can put into a car. They like the friendly treatment and the efficient service they find whenever they deal with a Pontiac dealer.

But see for yourself as you drive. Just count the Pontiacs ... and you'll agree the rising tide of Pontiac popularity is turning into a veritable torrent.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Simpson and daughter, Cathy, of Ingersol, Ont., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Morrison. The Rev. Mr. Simpson was guest speaker at Maple Avenue Baptist Church on Sunday last.

The Horsepower Race

Only by building expensive new equipment have gasoline manufacturers been able to keep apace with the development of high-horsepower automobile engines. The tower at the left is part of a "powerformer", the newest in refining equipment. It is designed to meet motorists' demands for better fuels for high compression engines, and produces the necessary high octane gasoline although it does not increase production. The unit shown above is at Imperial's Sarnia refinery, and the company is installing them from coast to coast. The Imperial Oil Review warns in its August issue that higher prices for premium gasolines are likely to result if the horsepower race continues.

Mabel

Miss Dawna Swail, of Lachute, spent a few days with Miss Jean Clark recently.

New B of M Branch In Line With Policy

The inauguration of a new Bank of Montreal branch in Ayersville shortly, is in line with the earliest traditions of the parent bank, which was founded in 1817. . . Within two weeks of its establishment, Canada's "first bank" opened an agency in Quebec City, thus introducing this country's branch-banking system. This organization has long proven a mainstay in the nation's economic stability.

Today, the bank that began as a modest office with seven employees in Montreal, has a staff of more than 12,000 in over 700 offices from coast to coast, including more than 130 in the Province of Quebec.

It also has offices in London, England; Paris, France; New York and San Francisco, as well as a special representative in Chicago.

The number of Canadians now using the Bank of Montreal is well over 2,000,000.

THE TRAGEDY – "GOD'S WILL"

By Ethel Kettyle

This is a story of over one hundred years ago, in which many of the names have been changed from the true originals, and a touch of fictitious romance woven in.

It was the year of 1860 and a woman with a proud and graceful carriage stood in the doorway of a log cabin surrounded by bush. There was a small clearing where fields would gradually be fenced in; and behind the clearing, were towering ranges of the Laurentian Mountains.

Elizabeth felt new life seep into her tired body, as the soft breeze blew a strand of hair back from her fair brow; and her blue eyes, for the time, seemed to have lost some of their sadness.

The grass around the cabin was lush and green, and here and there, in the new land, stumps of trees could be seen, around which berry bushes were shooting up new stalks. Canada was a land of plenty, although it was a cruel land to conquer.

Even though Elizabeth was tired and worn with hard work and much childbearing, she stood straight and tall with her head held high, as was the bearing of the Cattanachs. Her father, Daniel Cattanach, had been a proud and honest man, and that very pride and independence, had inspired him to leave Scotland and come to Canada to seek a home of his own.

Large tracts of land in the wilderness were being given away by the government, and although the way ahead seemed hard, his indomitable spirit never weakened.

Elizabeth had at first rebelled at leaving her comfortable home in Scotland, for they were gentlefolk, but when she knew that young Angus MacDonald was coming out with his family, she felt that she could bear the inconveniences, just to be near him. If thousands of miles of water lay between her and Angus, she thought that she might lose him forever.

After their arrival in Canada, she and Angus decided to be married and face life together, and it had not been easy. The journey through the wilderness at first, made life almost miserable. There were no conveniences, and she could not at times help but feel a loneliness for the old home, even though she loved her husband with the loyalty of a Scot.

Finally they settled in the Province of Quebec, about ten miles from the Ottawa River, which at that time was almost the only means of navigation.

At first, there had been the felling of the trees and the clearing of the land; then the building of the cabin. The process of agricultural evolution had indeed been gradual, and in Canada, sheep raising had been necessary, and the preparation of the wool involved a great deal of time. Even for those who did not keep sheep, the wool had to be obtained from those who did. It had to be carded, colored and spun, before being made into clothing.

The log cabin had finally been built, with the help of neighbors. Chairs and tables had been roughly made, and then the beds, which actually were bunks, were built into the walls.

The cooking utensils were clumsy, and the long-handled frying-pan was much in use, but Elizabeth had gradually accustomed herself to it all, and in the year of 1832 a young son, whom they named Thomas, had been born.

Finally as young Thomas was placed in her arms, and Angus, her husband, pale but triumphant, bent over her, her joy in her first-born was realized.

Two years later John was born, and after that, in another three years, had come David and then Catherine. She had loved them all, but the "angel of death" seemed ever to be hovering near.

Elizabeth now drew a chair to the door and sat down listlessly, and again her proud mouth drooped in sadness.

For a long time she had not allowed her mind to go back to the death of her children, but today, with the sun shining and the spring flowers in bloom, she wished that they were still with her. Catherine had been delicate and had lived less than two years. John had died when only four years old, and Thomas at thirteen.

The death of their first son, Thomas, had been a blow to both Elizabeth and Angus, from which they had never fully recovered.

Less than two years after the death of little Catherine, another baby girl had been born, whom they also called Catherine, after the baby who had lived such a short while, and now — Catherine the second, was almost eighteen, and the delight of her parents' hearts.

About four years after the birth of Catherine, another girl had come to bless the home, and she had been named Mary Jean, and later she was somehow always called Jeanie. Then had come Archibald and Emily, who was now only two years old.

As Elizabeth sat and brooded, she could, in her mind's eye, still see each small coffin, made of rough boards, being drawn away to the little church among the pines, with the lonely cemetery beside it. Each time, her heart had silently bled, and Angus, too, had been torn with grief, and then when the first grief was over, Elizabeth had accepted it as God's will, and had uncomplainingly borne another child. And now in the year of 1860 with what was left of her family growing up, she prayed that "the angel of death" would no more visit the log cabin near the mountains.

Each morning, as Angus read from the Bible, she opened her father's Gaelic Bible and followed where he read.

One day as Catherine had roguishly looked up at her father, from the bear-skin rug upon which she was lying near the hearth, he said fondly — "Lizbeth, Catherine looks just like a small kitten. Her blue eyes are always twinkling and full of mischief." From that day on, her father called her "Kitty" while others spoke of her as Cathy — and Cathy thrived and grew. How different she was from the other puny babies, and for years she was the petted darling of the household, till Mary Jean needed more attention and care.

One by one the children had passed on, till soon only Cathy, Jeanie, Archibald and Emily were left, and as the years went by Cathy and Jeanie grew closer and closer to each other. Wherever one was seen, the other was also.

Over and over in her mind, Elizabeth mulled the past happenings, until she almost forgot where she was. Then came the sound of happy laughter, and she knew that Cathy and Jeanie were coming, and her slow smile momentarily erased the sadness from her face, which once had been so beautiful.

Now she smiled secretly to herself, as Jeanie was a tease. She heard —

"Oh, yes, Cathy, I know why you are so anxious to get the mail."

"Oh, hush, Jeanie. You are always imagining things."

"Then why are you blushing, Cathy?"

"I'm not blushing. There you go again — thinking I'm blushing."

"Oh, yes, you are."

Around the corner of the cabin came Cathy and Jeanie, and all thought of the rough little coffins left Elizabeth's mind, as she gazed at her two bonnie lassies.

Cathy was bright and beautiful, with sea-blue eyes, sooty lashes, an almost tip-tilted nose and piquant face; and Jeanie was almost a replica of her sister, except for her lighter hair and a few freckles, and she was less beautiful, for Cathy's wealth of curling hair gave her a regal appearance.

Now as they chatted and laughed, and Jeanie teased Cathy constantly, Elizabeth came to the rescue.

"Jeanie, ye mustna tease Cathy sae much."

"But, mammy, Cathy is dying for a letter from Roderick."

"Jeanie, me lassie, hist ye now. It's Cathy's ane business."

"Aye, mammy, now you're talking like a Scot.'

"Sure an' a Scot I'll aye be at heart — but I'll learn to talk as they do in Canada."

Often when Elizabeth grew excited, she lapsed into her Scottish dialect, but ordinarily she tried to speak as a Canadian, for now she knew that for all time, Canada would be her home.

Still chatting and laughing, the girls showed their birch-bark baskets, which they had filled with spring flowers, to their mother.

"Mammy, aren't they the most beautiful flowers?" asked Cathy.

"That they are, Lassie. It's a bonny land that we live in. Instead of the hills o'heather like we had in Scotland, it's the hills of flowers and berries we be havin' here. But I hope ye didna go too close to the gully to get them. A wicked gulch it is."

"Oh, mammy, the nicest flowers grow in the gully."

"Yes, lassie, but there's a wee crack in the earth. I fear it. There the bear and her cubs go too, when the berries come."

Jeanie shrugged her young shoulders and Cathy brushed the conversation aside.

"But what's all the talk aboot a letter," asked Elizabeth.

Cathy blushed and said nothing, but Jeanie said —

"Oh, mammy, you know that young Roderick took a great shine to Cathy at the dance after the barn-raising bee. He danced nearly every dance that they fiddled with her. Then he had to go up over the river with his father to live. And don't you know that Cathy likes him too?"

"Oh, do be quiet, Jeanie," said Cathy.

"Well, lassies, young Roderick is a fine young man, but ye know that your pappy nae likes the dancin' and fiddlin."

Elizabeth then looked serious, for she realized that her girls were now growing up, and would one day, no doubt, want husbands of their own. Now Jeanie was fifteen and Cathy nearly eighteen, and nowhere could sweeter lassies be found. Only occasionally did they meet other young people, except at a "bee" or a "sugaring-off" in the spring of the year; but she had noticed that young Roderick McDenald, although a very distant cousin, had been very attentive to Cathy, and she was not adverse to his attentions.

Whatever would she do without her lassies if they married and left her? The girls now churned the cream into yellow globs of butter; ground the coffee beans; and made the bread. They picked the berries which she made into jam and of late, they had been clever with the needle, and made the plaids into dresses for themselves. For webs of plaids were stored away in the cabin, that Granpappy Catannach had brought from Montreal, when he had taken the barrels of pork down the river on the barges, sold it and also traded some of it for webs of materials, while the rougher materials were spun at home. Cathy and Jeanie did look pretty when dressed in their Scotch paids.

Had Elizabeth been stronger, perhaps the other bairns would have lived to help with the work too, but she had come from a fairly wealthy home in Scotland, where they usually had servants to do most of the work.

Tomorrow Angus would do some more work on the out-buildings again, and all of the crop would be put in, and if the good Lord provided good weather, it would not be so long, till the sickle, scythe and the flail and winnow would be used, and the harvest garnered in.

The entire family usually helped with all of the work, but on many days it was necessary to have the vieux, French Bateese also, who would work all day for a ration of salt pork. Oh, Canada was a good land, and there was beauty as well as plenty. The winters were long and cruel, but when the snow melted in the spring, and the brown earth finally put on her coat of green; Angus and the family often took a day off and went fishing in the brooks. Elizabeth never went, but always had the long-handled frying-pan heated with globs of butter to fry the fish upon their return.

As Cathy and Jeanie sat near to their mother, Angus came in from the field and said "I'm thinkin' we're in for a spell of rainy weather. The swallows have been flying close to the water in the creek and dark clouds are gathering. Do you see them?"

"Oh, yes — I see them, pappy." exclaimed Jeanie.

"I want to get all my buildings finished, and I've been thinkin' if I could get word to young Roderick, he might come for a spell. He's a handy lad with the hammer."

Cathy blushed crimson as a joyous thrill ran through her, and Jeanie remarked, mischief shining in her eyes, "Cathy, do you remember young Rod? He was a bonny lad — and liked the dancing."

That night Cathy and Jeanie lay in the bunk while the rain came down in torrents, but Cathy heeded it not, for her thoughts were all o Roderick. "Oh, if Pappy could only get word to him — and he'd come. What a happy summer it would be!"

On the morrow, the rain still lashed down, but there was much to be done in the cabin. Although Cathy and Jeanie had been fortunate in getting some education, when the travelling school teachers had come for short terms, their education could not be compared with their mother's, formerly received in Scotland. Each time that they saw her beautiful writing, they exclaimed over it, and wondered why she had not become a school teacher.

"Mammy, with your education — why did you come to live in the wilderness?"

"Ach, lassies, what is education compared to livin' with the man you love?"

Then the girls would question Elizabeth about what it had been like when she first came to Canada. And she, who had been a gentlewoman, would shudder, as her thoughts would go back to the first months of life in the new land.

"Well, lassies, it was a toilsome journey. We had to walk through bush and swamps and sometimes pappy carried me. Father Daniel had to first build rafts in order to cross some of the streams and rivers, and we had to carry some of the smaller household articles with us."

"Oh, dear — oh dear", exclaimed Cathy.

Elizabeth continued, "Coming up from Montreal many used a bateau. Many of the Cattanachs settled on the Ontario side of the Ottawa, but we came to the Province of Quebec, and here we were obliged to cut down trees, and till the land, then build our cabin, under many difficulties.

"Oh, mammy, it must have been hard."

"Indeed and it was that. One year the crops failed and even the fish in the streams refused to bite, it seemed. But ye know, lassies, a Scot never gives up."

"Were you lonesome here, mammy?"

"Aye, yes, many's the time I was, but with the "bees" for building, I sometimes met other women like myself, and always I was busy."

The day passed rapidly, even though it continued to rain, and soon Cathy lighted the candles, and she and Jeanie, in order to while away the dreary evening, made candy, from some of the winter's supply — and then again as they lay in their bunk, Cathy's mind went to young Roderick, and she prayed silently that he would come for the summer's work, if only her father could get word to him. In her mind, she even planned the spinning of some materials that they would color for dresses for the late summer and autumn. She liked the plaids, but other colors seemed new and entrancing.

Next morning, which was a Sunday, the sun shone brightly, and the whole world seemed to have been washed clean; and after the girls had tidied the cabin and washed the dishes, the entire family went outside.

The Laurentians were a riot of color — pinks, red, yellows and greens; as the buds on the various trees were bursting open after the rain, and not far away the spring flowers grew in a profusion of varieties. Oh, Canada was a wonderful land! And Elizabeth determined in her heart, that no more would she grieve over the small rough coffins. Now she would live for her family and husband. Death was a thing of the past. She would especially live for her girls, and she smiled as she looked at their bright faces.

At that moment the girls rushed hand in hand, toward the gully where the brightest flowers grew; but the rains had made a deeper gulch — and then Elizabeth saw the narrow crack in the earth widen.

"Come back, lassies." she cried. "Cathy, Jeanie, came back, I say!"

But too late. Like the roar of angry thunder, the earth gave way — and Cathy and Jeanie disappeared among the rushing trees and sand.

"Oh, dear God, save them." wailed Elizabeth, as she rushed forward, forgetful of her own safety.

At first, Angus stood as though petrified, then he rushed toward Elizabeth, and grasped her in his strong arms, and tried to hold her fast, but she struggled in a mad frenzy, until her arms were sore and discolored, but Angus held her fast, and through time was able to stop her struggling.

The following day, the neighbors came from far and near, as word went around, and as they searched, they finally found Cathy, with one slim ankle sticking out of the sand, and then Jeanie, buried beneath a fallen tree.

For a long time Elizabeth had no wish to live, and then again, she took up the work of caring for her loved ones remaining, and decided that it had been "God's will."

Council Discusses Roads Dept. Policies On Use, Maintenance of Town Vehicles

Off-Duty Tab on Corporation Trucks Sequel to Recent Employee Accident

Members of the Lachute Town Council, at a regular meeting last Wednesday, unanimously decided that all equipment owned by the Town Corporation, including machinery and trucks, be kept in the Municipal Garage at all times when not in use, with the understanding that the employees of the Roads Department would be authorized to use the equipment with permission of the Town Foreman on special cases or calls. Furthermore, it was decided that all the employees of this department be paid Saturday noon, until further notice.

The motion, by Ald. Wilfrid Morrissette, chairman of the Roads Committee, seconded by Ald. Romain Desjardins, followed a recent accident in which Yvon Larocque, 22, an employee of the department, was seriously injured. The resolution followed considerable discussion on aspects of past policy in this department. . . Ald. Dr. Roger Lavigne was absent from the meeting, presided over by Mayor Léopold Carrière.

Permission was granted to the Parish of St. Jerusalem, as requested, to make two additional connections on the 8-inch water main — valves to be installed inside the Lachute Town limits.

Secretary-Treasurer J. Poitras was instructed to advise the Bell Telephone Company by letter, that the Corporation would immediately proceed with work on the sidewalk on Water Street, the cost of which is to be charged to the above company, following their laying of underground cables.

Ackknowledgment was sent of a letter from the Municipality of Ayersville, in which a joint meeting of the two Councils to discuss questions regarding both municipalities, had been requested.

The merits of the Corporation maintaining its own vehicles with its own garage equipment were then discussed — Alderman Edgar Pollock and Ross Muir abstaining from the vote, which gave the Roads Committee permission to purchase sufficient equipment and tools for the Municipal Garage, at the best price received. It was then moved by Ald. Muir, seconded by Ald. Pollock and unanimously resolved, that the Roads Committee be authorized to have the F.W.D. truck engine repaired at the price of $750, as per a quotation received from United Auto Parts.

Discussion turned to the sewer-overflowing problem confronting residents on a portion of Meikle Street, and it was moved by Ald. Romain Desjardins, seconded by Ald. Edgar Pollock, that approximately 300 feet of a 15-inch transit sewer pipe be installed.

A building permit was granted to Noe Patry, Jr., for a house on Charles Street, to be constructed under supervision of the Roads Committee.

Ald. Ross R. Muir was appointed pro-mayor for the ensuing three months, and accounts totalling $10,204.29 were approved for payment.

The auditor's statement covering operations for the first six months of the year, was duly accepted; the statement was presented by the firm of Corry & Moore. Following the authorization of payment to J. J. Rondeau, of $800, on presentation of the cadastral plan for the East Ward and part of the West Ward, the meeting was then adjourned.

Rev. W. Bridge Gives Impressions From N. Carolina

Following are extracts from a letter penned by the Rev. Wilson Bridge to Mr. R. A. Giles of The Lachute Watchman, reporting impressions from North Carolina, where he and his family are basking in the warmth of southern hospitality but apparently enduring some discomforts from the climate.

The Lachute congregation under Mr. Bridge's charge will be interested to know that the first sermon topic planned on his return to the local pulpit will be a "Carolina Commentary". . . Mr. Bridge's letter states, in part:

"You will be interested to know that we had a good journey, with first-rate sleeping and eating accommodation. In this warm climate — perhaps 'hot' is the better word — air conditioning in the stores and restaurants is a blessing; wish we had it in the home. Still, we have the next best thing to it in the form of a giant fan, and it helps a great deal.

"So far we have not encountered any opposition or criticism in any shape or form, and these people are making us feel at home. They are kindness itself, and on Sunday afternoon of this week are putting on a reception in our honor in the Charlotte Y.W.C.A. to which white and colored ministers have been invited.

"We had a full church last Sunday morning and it was a most unusual sight to see a sea of black faces, and the people waving white fans to beat the heat. The temperature was just on the hundred mark when we came outside and my gown and trousers were literally wringing wet. Still, I thoroughly enjoyed the service, especially the music and the singing.

"Like the Michaels we have had many interviews; in fact, reporters and photographers were with us from Friday morning until late Sunday afternoon. Between now and the last Monday in August, when we leave for home, we plan to make trips to several well-known beauty spots, so will have lots to tell you on our return.

"The weather has been somewhat cool during the past three days, but today the mercury is climbing up to the nineties again, with a promise of another record high for the week-end."

New Typesetting Unit Installed

Two new pieces of equipment, in line with modern printing practices, were installed this week at the Giles Publishing plant, to be used in the production of this newspaper and its French-language contemporary, "L'Argenteuil". . . . Above, the general manager, R. A. Giles, and his son Bob, Jr., assistant editor, inspect the new Ludlow typesetting machine, which will in future produce headlines and advertising display lines, eliminating much of the handset type presently in use.

Boy Drowned at Laurentian Camp

Jean Boutillier, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Boutillier, 3560 Prud'homme Avenue, Montreal, was accidentally drowned Saturday evening at Camp Louis, near St. Adolphe d'Howard.

According to Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen, who investigated the death along with the District Coroner, Dr. Jules Lafleur, the boy was last seen around 9 p.m. Saturday, at which time a movie program was being shown at the camp. It was noted however, the youngster did not join the group watching the movies, but was seen by friends playing near the lake.

Roll-call was taken following the movies, and it was not until then the young Boutillier was found missing. An immediate search was organized and continued until around 5 a.m. Sunday. At that time, further enquiries among the boy's friends revealed that he had been seen throwing stones into the water.

The searchers immediately went to the spot and discovered the victim in six feet of water; the body was recovered by George Saunders a director of the camp, which is operated by the Montreal Boys' Association.

Dr. Lafleur opened the inquest and declared death due to accidental drowning; the youth had apparently slipped on a sloping rock.

Correction, School Results

The Watchman is advised by the High School authorities that an error occurred in the local results, released from the Quebec Department and published in this newspaper. . . David Bates, Grade XI pupil, was credited with a Class III standing, whereas his marks rated a higher rank in Class II.

Richelieu Event Draws Crowd 'Rocket' Richard Thrills Fans

Signing the Golden Book at City Hall, this picture shows Maurice "Rocket" Richard, of NHL hockey fame, who was star guest at the Richelieu Club annual charity gala at the Fair Grounds last Saturday. Looking on with approval are the Mayor, Léopold Carrière; Jacques Poitras, municipal secretary-treasurer; J.-René Laurin, Dow Breweries distributor, who was instigator of the hockey idol's visit here; Bernard Gosselin, president of the Richelieu Club; Alderman Romain Desjardins; Guy Bélanger and Marcel Décary, Richelieu Club members.

The fifth annual field day on behalf of the Richelieu Club charity funds attracted a large attendance at the Exhibition Grounds last Saturday. Fine weather prevailed, and the grandstand was packed for the various attractions.

Before commencement of the horse racing, Bernard Gosselin as president of the club extended a welcome to all, and roted the presence of several distinguished supporters including the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Minister of Mines; Philippe Valois, M.P.; Mayor Léopold Carrière and Mrs. Carrière; Mr. and Mrs. René Laurin; Maurice Richard, of Canadiens hockey fame, and Mrs. Richard; W. Erskine Rodger, president of the Agricultural Society; the Revs. Dalma Brisebois and Louis Roux, of the Immaculate Conception, Ayersville.

The races brought together numerous keen owners and drivers, and the program measured up to the best expectations. The pari-mutuel drew speculations totalling $1,378, and worthwhile purses were won by the contestants in each event.

At the bingo, the crowd gave a mighty ovation to the star guest, Maurice "Rocket" Richard, who amiably consented to m.c. the games. The Rocket was besieged by admirers seeking his autograph. He distributed several hundred photographs, and althogether it was a great occasion for Rocket fans.

The hockey idol also came forward to draw the winning ticket for an Inglis Royal washer-drier, the lucky ticket-holder being Gaston Charron, an employee of Ayers Limited.

At the close of this exciting day, Maurice Richard and several of the Richelieu Club members were guests of the municipal authorities at the town hall, where Richard signed the Golden Book, the civic compendium of notable visitors.

Down To Business On Road Work, Dalesville-Louisa

The Roads Department has started on the improvement of a much-used stretch of gravel between Dalesville and Louisa. Machinery owned by A. D. McGibbon & Sons, and by Sylvio Deslauriers, of St. Michel, has made good progress in the past two or three weeks, widening the road and straightening some of the numerous curves which present a hazard to motorists and truckers. The highway is used by hundreds of summer residents at Lake Louisa, as well as farmers of the district and for the transportation of logs from the bush country surrounding this area.

Donald G. MacRae of Lachute, who is familiar with this road and with the needs of the community, is overseeing the job. It is understood that, through efforts of the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, a sum of over $20,000 has been allotted by the Roads Department for the work this year, and that preliminary widening and levelling will be continued towards Louisa just as far as this budget permits.

It is also understood that this is one of various pre-surfacing jobs in the county which — if the program proceeds as planned — will be in readiness for asphalting at the same time, when the necessary plant and equipment can be brought in to complete the several stretches expeditiously.

Fire Crew Saves Riverside Dwelling

Fire damage to a home owned by Paul Lortie, R.R. 3, Lachute, was kept to a minimum early Sunday morning by prompt action of Police-Fire Chief Fernand Trépanier and a small crew of men.

The call was received around 4.30 a.m. According to Chief Trépanier, flames ignited the wall of the summer camp near the chimney, and the booster hose of the auxiliary fire truck was put to use to extinguish the fire.

The house was occupied by Mr. Lortie's family of eight. The dwelling is situated across the North River, between Copeland's and White's bridges.

Addition to County Traffic Police

Ronald Massie, 35, of Brownsburg, who was recently engaged as a Traffic Officer for the County of Argenteuil, bringing the total traffic patrol staff to six men, under Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen.

Spectacular Blaze Levels Brownsb'g Garage and Home

A garage owned by Kenneth Watchorn on Route 31, between Brownsburg and Dalesville, went up in smoke last Thursday night. The loss of several thousand dollars included the building and equipment, two cars, and an adjacent residence occupied by the owner and his family. Another dwelling nearby, occupied by Robt. Bates and family, was scorched by the intense heat, and a shed was burned to the ground.

It is understood that the owner's brother-in-law, Bill Logan, was working with a welding torch in the repair pit beneath a car, when the oil-saturated woodwork caught fire. Flames quickly spread through the entire frame garage, consuming two automobiles and all contents of the establishment. Meanwhile, Logan suffered burns about the arm and leg before he could escape from the pit. He was taken to the Providence Hospital, where he was treated by Dr. John MacKimmie and later released.

It is reported by Chief Arthur Robbins of Brownsburg that his department received a call at 11.30 Thursday night. The firemen, arriving at the scene, applied water from their truck when a creek at the rear of the burning property was found inadequate. With their 300-gallon tank soon exhausted, the crew returned three times to Brownsburg to replenish their supply, at a hydrant at the corner of Mountain Street. Efforts of the fire crew averted possible loss of the Bates dwelling.

The Watchorns were able to save most of the furniture and personal effects before their home was consumed in this spectacular night-time blaze. The family took refuge in the home of Mr. Logan, nearby, but have since moved to the home of the owner's brother, L. Watchorn, in Lachute.

Mill Machinist Enters Well Earned Retirement

Employees of J. C. Wilson Ltd. gathered together recently after the day's shift to honor one of their fellows, Gilbert Demerse, on his retirement after 41 years and 3 months with the firm.

On May 31, 1916, Mr. Demerse entered the employ of J. C. Wilson Company and learned the machinist trade. Over the period of years he worked up to the position of master mechanic, and supervised in that capacity the various machine-repair jobs and maintenance in the mill.

Omer Pilon, president of the employees' Union, presented Mr. Demerse with a gold wrist watch on behalf of his fellow workers, also a desk lighter from the female members of the staff.

On behalf of the company, Mr. Robt. Cairns, general manager, expressed the thanks of the management for the faithful services rendered by Mr. Demerse during the past 41 years.

Offer on New Garbage Truck Poses Question of Finances At Brownsb'g Council Meeting

Brownsburg — The August Council meeting was fairly well attended, and in the "answer-the-public" session, a salesman offered a four-months-old garbage truck for half-price at $6,500. The truck automatically crushes, presses and dumps. The councillors promised to discuss the matter and perhaps examine the truck. Later in the meeting the matter was discussed and the councillors felt that to pay for itself the truck would have to save $25 a week. They felt that it could pay its way, but that the budget would not allow for the added expenditure. The fact that most of the garbage work involved the merchants, who paid no extra charge, brought up the possibility of charging the merchants. It was suggested that if these were levied $5 a month, it might be feasible to buy the garbage truck. The possibility of trading off the snow-blower in the deal is most attractive to the councillors.

Mr. Therriault asked if some arrangement could be made to prevent "all-day" parking in the business area. The councillors agreed that it would probably be advantageous to install "two-hour parking" signs in the business section.

Several citizens asked for paving on Bank Street and the councillors decided to pave 300 feet of 22 foot road on the hill between Bank Street, 1st Avenue N.W., and 2nd Avenue N.W. (This has now been completed and the sidewalks have been patched with asphalt.)

Fire Chief Arthur Robbins reported two fires for the month, one at Mrs. F. Guenette's and the other at Mr. D. Joly's property. There was no damage at these fires.

Chief Robbins asked for a suit of cover-alls for a new recruit to the department. He asked, too, that when the water is to be shut off anywhere in town, the foreman will put a notice to that effect on the station-house door. The Chief was assured of action on both these requests.

Police Chief Willie Lepine reported one $3 fine for "jumping" the lights, and five warnings for parking. He collected $28 in bicycle tax, $10 in dog tax, and answered 11 calls. Later in the evening the councillors, in answer to complaints, asked Chief Lepine to be more vigilant in the midnight-to three a.m. period on Friday and Saturday nights.

A motion by Councillors S. Harris and R. Ouellette agreed to pay $1,339 for materials for the extension of waterworks and sewerage on 3rd Avenue N.E. The work on this project is now well underway.

Secretary-Treasurer Charbonneau told the councillors that Mr. Réal Demers was offering several hundred cement blocks at 15 cents each. Councillors Therrien and E. Ouellette moved that the municipality should purchase these.

Mr. Roméo Robillard asked the Council to reconsider his evaluation. He complained that, after spending about $200 on his property, his evaluation jumped by $800. He cited several instances of "valuable" properties which were rated only slightly higher than his. The councillors felt, though, that they must depend on their hired assessors, and a motion by Councillors Harris and Therrien to accept the evaluation "as is" was resolved unanimously.

Copies of the proposed building by-law were distributed among the councillors, and a meeting was called for August 12 to discuss this matter. (No definite action was taken at the later meeting, but a further adjournment left the decision till August 19.)

Reference to a 1953 motion ended the speculation about whether the chip-wagon owner had the right to park on Bank Street. The wagon must not park on town thoroughfares.

Death Removes Familiar Figure In Retail Business

The death of Arthur Salvas, former proprietor of Beaton's Pharmacy removes a citizen well known to local shoppers and in popular favor for his quiet sincerity and dependability. He was a familiar figure for many years, before the Main Street drugstore latterly took on a more commodious and modern form.

After studying at the Nicolet Seminary, Arthur Salvas qualified as a pharmacist at the University of Montreal. He practiced the profession in Montreal, then for 1 years in Lachute, during his proprietorship of the Main Street drug store.

Mr. Salvas passed away at his home on Fraser Street last Saturday. He succumbed to a lengthy illness, at the age of 71. He counted many friends in this community who enquired constantly for his health, since his retirement from business.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning, from Ste. Anastasie Parish Church to the Lachute Catholic Cemetery. There was a large attendance, and many flowers in tribute to his memory.

The late Mr. Salvas is survived by his devoted wife, the former Marie-Madeleine (Maud) Queyrence, to whom the community extends its sympathy.

2 Sudden Deaths; Week's Docket of 4 Coroner's Cases

A 72-year-old golf enthusiast played his last shot on the 16th fairway, on Wednesday of last week, when the heat of the day and over-exertion took their toll upon his strength. Hector Munroe Cameron, a Montrealer who came with his friend, H. Hanson, for a day's golf at Lachute, collapsed and succumbed to a heart seizure. The fatality occurred around 3 p.m.

Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur was summoned and pronounced the death due to natural causes. The body was taken to Montreal for funeral rites at the D. A. Collins Chapel, followed by interment last Friday, at Winchester, where the late Mr. Cameron had earlier resided.

* * *

The death of Michael Wallace, an Outremont resident in his 60's, occurred at a camp on the St. Jerome highway in Upper Lachute last Sunday. According to the coroner the victim dropped dead after eating his supper. Death was due to natural causes.

Mr. Wallace was visiting here with his wife and members of his family. He leaves three sons and two daughters to mourn his sudden passing, besides his wife, the former Victoria Cuningham.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning from St. Michael's, Outremont, to Cote des Neiges Cemetery.

The two sudden deaths in Lachute district — with the drowning of a young camper at St. Adolphe, and an accidental death in the C.I.P. yards at Calumet — add up to four cases investigated by the district coroner in the past week.

Old Landmark Felled In Centre Brownsburg

Opposite the Crown Theatre at Brownsburg, an old landmark bowed Saturday to the depredations of Time. An immense elm tree was cut down, limb by limb to the trunk and butt, in the interests of public safety as its condition was reckoned a hazard.

Quite a crowd, estimated at 200 people, gathered to witness this not unusual procedure. Among the kibitzers were a few old-timers who doubtless associated the incident with earlier days. One, for instance remarked that he remembered this tree when it was scarcely out of its teens, and small by comparison with its present size. It was estimated the elm was around 100 years old. It was further estimated that it would produce about 10 cords of fuel wood.

Swimming Tests By Red Cross At Ayers Pool

Red Cross swimming examiners will be welcomed at the Ayers Recreation Centre next week, when authorized representatives will be on hand to put some of the more competent local swimmers through their paces.

For the past three weeks a number of young enthusiasts have been training under guidance of Andre Turcotte, with the co-operation of Chas. Henri Coté and Marcel Brunette, officials at the Ayers pool. The routine includes about 10 exacting exercises in the different strokes of swimming, in endurance diving, and water safety procedures.

The examinations will class the young swimmers in three groups — junior, intermediate and senior — and all entrants who satisfactorily pass the tests will receive a medallion attesting to their merit; the medallions are designed to be worn on bathing suits or trunks.

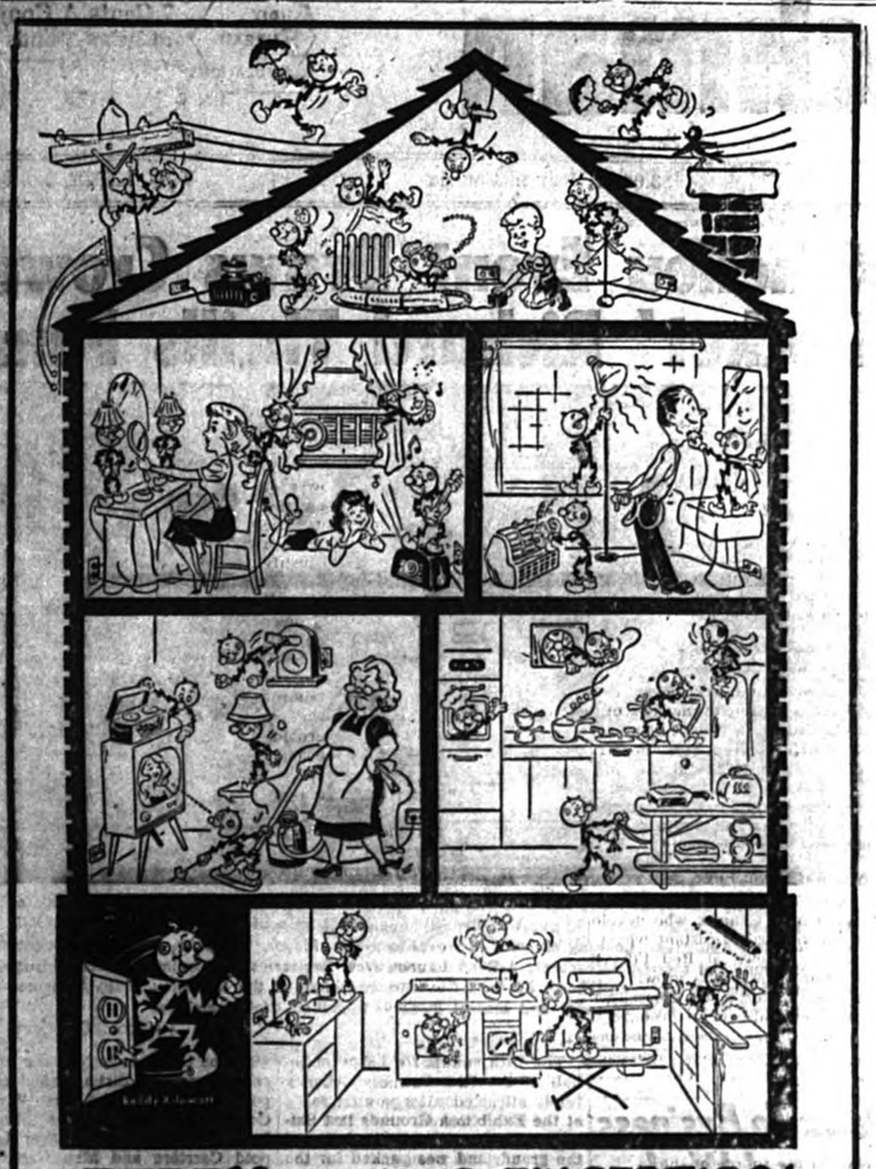

Boys and girls wishing to qualify may enquire at the Recreation Centre for necessary information. Visitors will be welcome to witness these tests.

Visiting Southerners Happy Here -- But Not Too Warm

Relaxing in their temporary home at the United Church manse, the Rev. Dr. Raphael Michael, his wife and two daughters, were snapped in this informal group by Syd Drew, Watchman photographer. The photo presents a happy pose, but in fact, the living room is none too comfortable for these southern folk — as emphasized by the hot tea and sweaters. The family, from Charlotte, North Carolina, are accustomed to a much warmer climate than the temperatures prevailing in Quebec this week.

The Rev. Dr. Michael is exchanging pulpits with the local pastor, the Rev. Wilson Bridge, for the month of August. Mr. Bridge, meanwhile, is enjoying the experience but sends word of the extreme heat encountered by himself and family in their strange surroundings.

REDDY AT YOUR FINGERTIPS!

I'll work for you the whole day through,
Toast your toast; cook, roast or stew,
Wash your clothes; and press them too.
I'll beat, I'll clean; make ice for you.
I'll help in factories, stores and schools
And help the youngsters learn the rules.
For farmers I've got lots of tricks,
Like milking cows or hatching chicks.
And, Boss, I bet you're glad to know
I work long hours for wages low.
So call me early; call me late
In my REDDY BOX home I'll always wait.

GATINEAU POWER COMPANY

W. Morrissette, 75, Victim Of Fatal Accident At C.I.P. Mill, Calumet

A 75-year-old St. Philippe resident, William Morrissette, was accidentally killed last Thursday when he was run over by a truck. The victim — father of Mayor Réal Morrissette of Ayersville — was employed at the Canadian International Paper Company's mill at Calumet; he was working in the yard when a company truck backed over him. The man was taken to the Smith Clinic at Hawkesbury, where he died two hours after admittance.

The late Mr. Morrissette was predeceased by his wife, the former Florence Gibb. He is mourned by a family of seven sons and three daughters — Réal, of Ayersville; Yvon, of Calumet; Claude, of St. Philippe; Bernard, of Calumet; Benoit, of Lachute; Paul, of Masson; and Eloi Morrissette, of Grenville; Mrs. Albert Nadon (Florence), of Brownsburg; Mrs. Edouard Beavan (Dora), of Lachute; and Mrs. Grand'Maison (Yvette), of St. Placide. He is survived also by a brother, Albert Morrissette, of St. Philippe, and two sisters, Mrs. Victor Robidoux, of Montreal, and Mrs. Zotique Danis, of Rockland, Ont.

The funeral was held last Monday, from the Menard Funeral Parlors, Lachute, to the St. Philippe parish church.

Substantial Gift to Diocesan Fund

A prominent philanthropist and businessman associated with this area, Hyman Grover, president of Regent Knitting Mills Ltd., is seen presenting his company's cheque for $10,000 to His Excellency Mgr. Emilien Frenette, Bishop of St. Jerome, and Lucien G. Rolland, general chairman of the St. Jerome Diocesan Fund.

OUT ON A LIMB

A recent trip down Texas reminded me of the fact that selling pines for poles is a lot more profitable than selling them for sawtimber.

I visited a farm in Panola County, owned by a couple of brothers. They were snaking out an 87-foot, four-inch pole.

"We have just sold 23 of these poles that measure around 80 feet, for an average of $58 each," they told me. The trees were about 45 to 50 years old.

The men estimated that the 87-footer had about 300 board-feet worth about $15 if sold for sawtimber.

'Course, pines finally get too tall for poles. They must be straight and tall but beyond a certain length and diameter at butt and top, they get back into the sawtimber class.

Crooked trees are taken out for pulpwood, the men explained, adding that they thinned the lot in 1953 and expect to thin it again this year.

A tree likes to live in its own homegrounds. What I mean is, it won't grow well if you try to grow it in soil and water which is real different from its normal home.

Lots of folk were disappointed with the red pine in Connecticut, for instance. Red pine is a northern tree. Further south it suffers from disease and lots of insect damage.

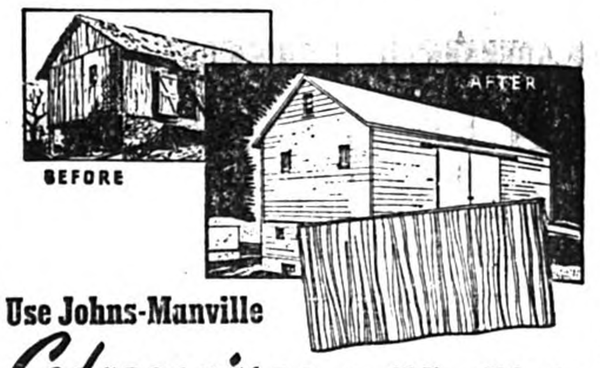

The altitude, climate, soil conditions, amount of light, all make a mighty big difference. If you're planning on a species that doesn't like your land, don't give up. There are lots of other species that will do well. Best thing to do is ask the Forest Service.

Forum Council Discusses Business And 4-H Affairs

A meeting of the Argenteuil Farm Forum Council was held recently in the County Agronome's office. The meeting was chaired by the president, Ross Oswald, with Miss Margaret Brass in the role of secretary-treasurer.

The president stated that he hoped to attend the Ontario-Quebec Regional Workshop at Pine Lodge, Bristol, Que., on September 15-20, and hoped to get one or two more to accompany him from this area.

It was moved that the membership fees for the Farm Forum members for the coming season be the same as previous years, that is, $1.50 per family, with the $3.50 balance being paid by the Council. A discussion was held on the possibility of obtaining a stable at the Exhibition Grounds near the show ring in which the 4-H Clubs have their calves, or to find a site where one could be built. The president said he would look into the matter and see what could be done.

The Farm Forum Council was asked to consider preparing about 300 dinners for the 4-H Club members on Saturday of the Lachute Spring Fair. Further discussion will be held at the next meeting.

The Lachute 4-H Achievement Day and School Fair will be held Saturday, September 7, at the Fair Grounds.

OF MANY THINGS

By Ambrose Hills

"I Haven't Time"

An acquaintance of mine is an avowed socialist, a doctrine which, as preached politically, has always struck me as immoral, so I was glad to have a go at him in an argument this morning.

On discovering that I write for a living, he said, rather smugly, "I've often intended to write — have quite a flair for it."

"Why don't you?" I asked.

"I've no time," he sighed. "No time at all."

I had just finished reading an article by Margaret Blair Johnstone in Guideposts magazine, in which there was a striking quotation from the famous Leonardo da Vinci, who accomplished so much. Leonardo da Vinci said, "Time stays long enough for those who use it."

Isn't it true that Time is a commodity available to each and every human soul in the same quantity? We are all born with that same inheritance — 24 hours each day. No more, no less. For some, it never stays long enough. Others — like da Vinci, or Churchill, or Eisenhower or Diefenbaker — make full use of it and succeed.

Socialists hate such an analogy. It is too apt for their liking. It is a truth we are all familiar with — for we all know some fellow who makes an hour pay off while another fritters it away. Fortunately, however, no law on earth can make us share the hours according to our need — or a Lazy Bones I know would have 36 hours for his day while busy folk like you and I would be cut to 12.

My avowed socialist friend is a simple fellow. He thinks he embraced socialism because of charity. I tell him that there is not a thing in the world to stop him practising socialism now — all he needs to do is share what he has with others. But this does not appeal to him. He apparently wishes, through a process of law, to have the sharing out done only by those who are two or three thousand dollars a year more productive than he is. I suppose what he really wants is to force others to practice socialism while he reaps the benefits but does none of the contributing. Also, he expects that when socialism becomes the vogue, he will be among the rulers.

In all this he sees nothing immoral — because he does not wish to see.

A Long-Needed Improvement

LONG-AWAITED road work is in progress on the Dalesville - Louisa stretch — a tortuous gravel link between a paved highway and one of the most populated lake resorts of this countryside. Local residents, and hundreds of Montrealers who make their summer home at Lake Louisa, have never grown accustomed to the shock of striking this rock-bound, washboard surface, after travelling miles on smooth, paved highway. The toll in broken springs, shattered mufflers and blown-out tires — besides the less spectacular wear and tear on shackles, bolts and bushings — must have reached immeasurable proportions. Added to this has been the nervous strain on hundreds of commuters; this, of course, is not measurable in material terms.

These evils are by no means past; but there is relief in sight at last! For shovels and bulldozers are engaged in straightening the curves and widening the more hazardous spots, in preparation for a solid gravel surface and ultimate paving with asphalt.

Users of this highway are gladly enduring the usual obstructions entailed in roadwork, happily anticipating a paved surface in the not-too-distant future. They are grateful, one and all, for the belated consideration of the Quebec Roads Department — and to the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, on whose recommendation this job is now undertaken. . . Those more magnanimously inclined, will even cede acknowledgment to the Municipality of Wentworth and to the government road men, who at least have done their best to scrape the surface periodically, and smooth the humps, to make the best of a bad job.

Bouquets for Brickbats

THE KICKS have been more frequent than the compliments, when it comes to our public services and utilities. We are too ready — individuals, firms and corporations alike — to complain when things go wrong with our transportation and communication facilities. We only grudgingly concede, that utilities may be guided by motives similar to our own and other businesses — a reputation for Service, which pays off in customers and sales.

Yet, utilities are business enterprises working on the self-same basis. The take-it-or-leave-it attitude is no more feasible and practical in this competitive age. And the human element in our public utilities is equally human. . . It is gratifying to them, for instance, to receive such letters as the one appearing on this page, from the mayor of a neighboring municipality to the local power company. It gives us pleasure also to publish this appreciative note. We would like to see more frequent expressions of satisfaction when good service merits acknowledgment.

Super Highways and Safety

SOME OF THE very safety features that have been built into super-highways are partly to blame for Canada's increasing number of traffic fatalities.

"Highway hypnosis," brought on by the monotony of driving over mile after mile of near-perfect highway, is often the cause of serious accidents. . . So says an article in the August issue of the Imperial Oil Review.

While built-in safety features, such as limited access, have reduced the actual number of accidents, those that do occur on super-highways are usually worse than on conventional roads.

Furthermore, super-highway accidents often have chain reactions. A single smash-up between two cars can cause four or five additional cars to pile up in rear-end collisions. What happens, apparently, is that the super-highway driver allows himself to be lulled into an exaggerated sense of security to the point where he can't handle his car when an emergency does arise.

The article here quoted suggests a number of ways a driver can head off highway hypnosis. The motorist should avoid driving when sleepy, wear loose, comfortable clothing and pause occasionally for a hot drink.

He should vary his speed periodically and keep lively music on the radio. Running the windshield wipers briefly helps relieve the monotony. So does intermittently changing the headlight beam.

The safe driver makes regular checks. Aware that speeds can creep up unnoticed, he checks the speedometer needle at least once a minute. Every few seconds he glances at the rear-view mirror particularly on curves and when passing. He keeps an eye on the gas gauge; running out of gasoline on a super-highway can be serious.

"Tail-gating" is a common cause of accidents. The wise driver stays a reasonable distance behind the driver in front — at least one car-length for every 10 miles per hour of speed.

The article concludes that super-highways should eventually bring safer driving, but motorists must learn to follow a new set of driving rules.

Marathon Swimmers

SOME PEOPLE label marathon swimming as a crazy stunt. Others say it is a challenge and a great sport. But however you regard it, the marathon swim season is on again.

Thirty swimmers entered a 15-mile event in Owen Sound bay to mark the Ontario city's centennial. Eleven finished.

Another group tackled the Strait of Juan de Fuca separating Victoria and Port Angeles, Wash. All were defeated by its cold waters and treacherous current. . . The news this week tells of Quebec's Jacques Amyot having failed in his attempt on this 18-mile stretch.

Robert Cossette, 27, of Chicoutimi, Que., attempted to swim Lake Ontario from Niagara-on-the-Lake to Toronto, a straight-line distance of 32 miles. He was four miles from the finish when exhaustion forced handlers to take him from the water. Mrs. Rosita Tanner, a 44-year-old grandmother from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., attempted the same swim a few weeks earlier and had to quit about halfway over.

Only three persons have made the Lake Ontario crossing: Marilyn Bell of Toronto, the first to accomplish the feat in 1954; Brenda Fisher of Grimsby, England, and John Jaremey of Toronto, who both made it in 1956.

What impulse drives a person to tackle these long and arduous swims? Perhaps the reason is somewhat similar to that which impels mountain climbers. When the British climber George Mallory was asked why he wanted to climb Mount Everest, he replied: "Because it's there."

To some persons the urge to achieve somethings that has not been done before, or done only on rare occasions, is irresistible. Some are impelled by hope of financial reward, or prestige.

Swimmers now have conquered famous channels and straits all over the world. Florence Chadwick of the United States, one of the greatest of present-day swimmers, says she now plans to try to swim across the Irish Sea.

Whatever prompts it, the lure of long-distance swimming will doubtless remain as long as summer seasons roll around and there is a challenging stretch of water.

Nothing New

A CIRCUMSTANCE reported in far-off Malaya has failed to arouse the excitement one might expect. And for a good reason: here in the Western Hemisphere we have much the same sort of thing — crazy though it may seem.

Moslem officals closed the Salehiah Girls Institute at Ipoh, Malaya, because of a malady which made the girls scream, laugh, jump and dance madly. The headmistress of the religious boarding school said 104 girls were stricken. The "illness" made its first appearance two months ago when some of the students began dancing and laughing wildly in class. The school was closed and four witch doctors called to drive the "evil spirits" away.

— Here they call it Rock 'n Roll. You'll find the symptoms in classic realism on any modern dance floor!

IT SEEMS that when we get behind the wheel we forget many things we do as a matter of course at other times. The man who politely stands aside for a lady to enter a room ahead of him will, behind the wheel, race the same woman for first place at an intersection and cuss like a trooper if she beats him! The most charitable thing we can say about discourtesy in traffic is that it is the product of a fast moving civilization that places too much emphasis on winning and not enough on how the victory is won.

Our whole social life is in essence but a long, slow striving for the victory of justice over force.

Gatineau Power Crews Commended on Quick Repair of Storm Damage

Mr. J. R. Carreau,
Manager, Gatineau Power Co.,
Lachute, Que.

Dear Sir:

It is my pleasant task to convey to your Gatineau Power staff the thanks of our citizenry and to commend them on their excellent repair work on our power lines, during the week-end of August 3 when a storm caused considerable damage and interrupted the electric service.

Considering the extent of damage to your lines and poles, it was evident that your repair crews did their utmost to restore the service without delay.

With appreciation to all concerned.

Yours very truly,
— F. W. Allmen,
Mayor of Carillon

our High School athletes owes his life today to the presence of mind of his friends, with whom he was swimming last Sunday at Lakefield. Howard Jones, a fair swimmer, has been dogged by ill-luck in that pastime, but his close scrape Sunday morning was, we believe, quite the narrowest escape from drowning, in his experiences of being rescued four different times from the water.

Lachute is to be favored next Sunday with services of three outstanding artists in a sacred program to be given after the regular evening service of the United Church. This recital will commence at 8.30 p.m. and the artists will include the famous baritone, Tomasini — locally known as Anlon Young; Dr. A. McKay, renowned organist of St. Paul's Cathedral, Detroit; and Mrs. Thom, soprano soloist of St. Andrews United Church, Westmount.

KNOW YOUR Canada

Prepared by the Research Staff of ENCYCLOPEDIA CANADIANA

For whom were the Plains of Abraham named?

The Plains of Abraham, situated just outside the old city of Quebec, formed part of the battleground on which Wolfe's British soldiers defeated Montcalm's army and brought about the conquest of Canada. They were so named because they were owned by Abraham Martin, a pioneer settler in New France who was nicknamed "L'Ecossais" because he had been born in Scotland. Martin was for many years a member of the fur-trading company of One Hundred Associates and was one of the few French settlers to remain in Quebec after its temporary surrender to the English in 1628.

What was the mystery of the Mary Celeste?

One of the unsolved mysteries of the sea is the fate of the crew of the Mary Celeste, a Nova Scotian vessel, which left New York for Genoa in November 1872, and was found the following December totally abandoned and derelict, although in seaworthy condition. No trace of her crew ever was found.

Who was David Fife?

David Fife was a farmer of Otonabee, Upper Canada, who developed the first rust-resistant wheat in Canada. Known at Red Fife, the new wheat was widely grown on the prairies. Later, it was crossed with Hard Red Calcutta to produce the famous Marquis variety. The original kernels were in a shipment of spring wheat that Fife received from Europe in 1842. The Fife homestead is at present owned by a grandson.

What is the source of the Groundhog Day myth?

The groundhog, or woodchuck, hibernates fairly early, often in mid-September, and many of the little animals awaken temporarily during a winter mild spell. This has resulted in the myth that the groundhog comes out on February 2nd and, if he sees his shadow, goes back to sleep for six more weeks of winter; if the day is too dull to cast a shadow, he stays out and spring begins immediately.

ALL ABOARD
With G. E. Mortimore

Newcomers to India, Ceylon and such hot countries are puzzled when they see a man lift a chair and bang it vigorously on the floor.

Then the man goes into a grotesque dance. He stamps and lunges as though possessed by evil spirits; and sits down at last, gingerly.

There is a good reason for this ritual. Each time the chair is banged on the floor, a shower of bugs is dislodged, and the man tries to crush them with his feet. The yield of bugs diminishes with each blow, until it is too small to justify any further effort.

There is no hope of banishing all the bugs. A resident of the tropics becomes resigned to sharing his seat and his bed with several dozen little companions. By knocking the furniture on the floor, he simply reduces the crowding somewhat, so that his flesh and blood can provide a more ample banquet for the small, determined guests that remain.

Tropical movie-goers often go armed with newspapers, which they place on the seats as a temporary barrier to the armies of bugs for a little while. They probably stop just long enough to read the headlines before advancing to the attack.

In the tropics, bugs can be found in the most respectable places. In cooler latitudes, however, they are looked upon (to express it tactfully) as a sign of poor housekeeping.

Theatres of small prestige are called "flea-pits." The bug population is a reliable gauge of prosperity in show business. High bug content means low box office.

I was shocked, therefore, when two truthful women reported to me that they had been gnawed by bugs in one of the "better-class" theatres (not in this town).

The women had lumps on their calves and arms to prove it, and when I hinted at the possibility that they had carried the bugs in with them, they registered annoyance.

I used to smile at those stories about the way television was hurting motion pictures, but now I'm beginning to wonder. If bugs appear in first-rate movie houses, the rot may spread further than we think.

On the other hand, the bugs may have simply dropped in to watch the show.

Quick Canadian Quiz

1. Who originated Canada's game of hockey?
2. In Canada what persons are disqualified by law from seeking election to the House of Commons?
3. Of the 3,410,160 Canadians who paid income tax in 1954, what percentage were in the $15,000-a-year and over income group?
4. What species of fish, a major catch on both Canada's Atlantic and Pacific coasts, is the fish most widely used in the world as human food?
5. One out of four working Canadians is now employed in manufacturing. What proportion of the natonal income is directly provided by this industry?

• • •

ANSWERS: 5. One dollar out of three of the national income. 3. Less than one per cent. 1. Students at McGill University; the first rules were written in 1878 in Montreal. 4. The herring. 2. Persons convicted of corrupt electoral practices, government contractors, members of provincial legislatures and certain public officers.

(Material prepared by the editors of Quick Canadian Facts, the pocket annual of facts about Canada.)

The primary industries — agriculture, forestry, fisheries, trapping, mining and electric power — now employ only about 20 percent of all working Canadians.

Have You a FLY, RAT, or MOUSE Problem?

You probably will say "who hasn't!" Yes, these warm days are surely bringing them out.

PURINA FLY BAIT is doing a wonderful job on the sucking flies, and will do the same for you, if you will give it a chance. Purina Fly Bait is granular in shape, and is not easily blown away; is red in color, which attracts the flies; comes in a light can with removable cover, which conserves its strength; contains twice as much Malathion as many competitive preparations, has an extra half pound for a lower price than many others.

But while it is both cheaper and better than many, IT WON'T RUN AFTER THE FLIES. You must put it where the flies congregate, on floors, window sills, where milk is spilt, etc., and where the sunlight shines for at least part of the day. Also remember it is only part Malathion and the flies will not die if they have to suck up the carrier of the Malathion. Change it once in a while, to be sure.

For the biting flies, use PURINA DAIRY SPRAY. It is the old reliable spray for using with a sprayer. It both kills and repels and does a real good job; but remember, it kills when the fly gets enough spray to knock it down and hold it there till it dies. If not, the spray evaporates and your fly comes back to life.

For Rats and Mice, we have PURINA RAT CONTROL; it comes in two forms, cereal base and water soluble. The cereal base is fed dry, and the water soluble is for the "boozers". Both are sure-kill for both animals.

All are available here. Get a supply when you are getting your PURINA CHOWS. We deliver.

IN MEMORIAM

ASSALY — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away Aug. 17, 1956. — Ever remembered by his wife and loving children.

"There is a corner in our hearts
That is set aside for you;
As long as life and memory lasts,
We'll always remember you."

DANDY — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Allen, who passed away Aug. 20, 1956. — Eunice, and son, Billy.

"Lonesome here without you, dear,
We miss you more each day,
Somehow life is not the same
Since you were called away.
Our hearts still ache with sadness,
Our eyes shed many a tear;
God alone knows how we miss you, dear,
As it comes to the end of a year.
Beautiful memories are all we have left
Of one we loved and will never forget."

KENNEDY — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, J. L. Kennedy, who left us Aug. 16, 1953. — Remembered by his wife and family.

"This day we do remember."

LOUDIN — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Bob, accidentally killed Aug. 17, 1946. — Ever remembered and sadly missed by mother and sisters, Kay, Margaret, and Eleanor.

"There is a corner in our hearts
That is set aside for you,
As long as life and memories last
We will remember you.
Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
But love's remembrance outlasts all,
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance,
dear Bob, of you."

MONCRIEFF — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Geo. Moncrieff, who left us Aug. 19, 1946. — Ever remembered by the family.

Miss Frances Bennett, R.N., and Miss Ida Norris, R.N., of Montreal, were week-end guests at Mr. and Mrs. C. Bennett's.

The colichan, a small smelt-like fish taken in British Columbia rivers in the spring, is rich in nutritious oil and in former days Indians pulled a wick through its body and burned it like a candle.

Old Friends Foregather At Historical Society Annual Garden Party

The annual garden party of the Historical Society of Argenteuil County, was held last Saturday on the grounds of the Carillon Museum.

The weather was perfect, and many were heard to remark on the beautiful setting. The fresh green of the lawn against the blue of the Ottawa River, with the "Old Barracks" in the background, made one reflect on the days of Dollard Des Ormeaux, and contrast the scene with that of the present — with pleasure boats speeding by and "Le Passeur", the local ferry, shuttling its load of cars and passengers across this highway of the past.

The president, Mrs. George McGibbon, welcomed the guests and thanked all who had helped make the party a success. She then called on the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, who expressed his pleasure at being present.

Soft music played from the balcony added to the enchantment of the afternoon, while delightful refreshments were served by the ladies of Frontier Women's Institute.

Mrs. J. R. McOuat held the lucky ticket on a beautiful Ayers "Coral Flame" blanket.

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

Toil and Taxes

I've been reading the story of an American woman's heroism, and it had to do with toil, taxes and trouble.

Trouble began when this woman, because she feared that rising income taxes were gradually destroying the freedom of the American people, decided to do something about it. She ran into plenty of trouble, but she started something.

She showed how far the imposition of income tax, together with the law that compels employers to collect the taxes of their employees, had robbed individuals large and small of freedoms they once held sacred. She illustrated how the government, seizing this power in time of war, failed to relinquish it when peace came.

Her book, "Toil, Taxes & Trouble", is the story of her battle to get the validity of the withholding tax tested before the courts, and of the government's crude and vicious efforts to force her to knuckle down, even though her taxes were paid and all the taxes of her employees had been paid.

This woman lost money, suffered a great deal of anxiety and trouble, because she had the courage of her convictions. Though she defeated the tax collectors in some court battles, and made them return moneys they had seized, in the long run she was virtually helpless before the crushing powers of the tax collectors.

It may be true that in Canada our tax collectors are less ruthless and intrusive. It may be true that the kind of bribery and corruption that took place in the Bureau of Internal Revenue in the U.S.A. could not be found here. Just the same, our tax collectors do have the powers to invade the privacy of every citizen, and Canadian employers also are forced to deduct taxes from their employees and thus become unwilling tax collectors without pay.

Every point made in "Toil, Taxes & Trouble" applies in Canada, with the exception of the ruthlessness of the tax collectors. It is to be hoped that our new government, at the earliest possible date, cuts taxes right across the board. Once government revenue is brought down a little, government economy can be expected. But as long as the money rolls in, it will be spent — and none too wisely.

If I could afford it, I would send a copy of Miss Kellems' book to every member of the new Cabinet. There might have been a day when the philosophy of "tax and spend . . . spend and tax" could keep a government in power. I think that day is over. The people want a new deal.

Assignments for St. Andrews Plant

An order has been received by Long Sault Woodcraft Ltd., of St. Andrews East, for a 55-foot diameter Radome of their own design. Development of this design has been carried out by the company during the past two years at their own expense, with technical assistance from the National Research Council. The picture shows a scale model dome that was constructed as part of the development program and which, like its full size counterpart, is constructed entirely of glass fibre reinforced plastic. The order for the first complete dome was received from the United States Airforce. The dome will be constructed at the company's plant at St. Andrews East before shipping.

Rotary Has Plans For Air Show

Preliminary plans for an Air Show sponsored by Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club were discussed at their regular weekly dinner meeting, in the Brownsburg Legion Hall last Thursday evening under the chairmanship of President King Amos. An early date in September was mentioned, but this has not been confirmed as yet.

Heading the committee of three is Rotarian Jack MacKimmie, assisted by Rotarians Larry Presseault and George McGibbon.

District Governor Linton W. Armstrong reported on his visits to 17 clubs in the district — "Every one of which sends greetings," he added. He then presented President Amos with good-will pennants from the Watertown, Kingston, Maniwaki and Theresa Clubs.

Rotarian Jack MacKimmie then showed films of his trip to Florida last winter, at which time he was accompanied by the then District Governor-elect, Linton Armstrong, also Charles McFaul and Keith Wilson.

USEFUL WORK

Vancouver (CP) — Marking its 50th anniversary, Vancouver YMCA's summer camp has taught the basic laws of the woods to more than 21,000 boys up to 17. The camp is on Howe Sound.

Nova Scotia Gains Scot Psychologist

Halifax (CP) — A kilted man from Scotland is the first full-time psychologist with the Nova Scotia education department.

Robert Kennedy McKnight, air veteran of the Second World War, says that although he and his wife have so far seen only Halifax and Dartmouth he "thoroughly enjoys being Canadianized."

A gold-medalist, honor student, teacher, and, holder of several degrees, Mr. McKnight will assist in education of handicapped children psychological interviews with individual cases, child guidance and duties in allied fields. Harold M. Nasson, chief inspector of schools for Nova Scotia, says the Scot will play a major role in determining how to deal with retarded children.

Between his graduation from Glasgow provincial training centre for teachers in 1948 and accepting the post with the Nova Scotia government, Mr. McKnight has held various teaching jobs.

Jehovah's Witnesses

THIS GOOD NEWS OF THE KINGDOM

You may remember Jesus said it would be preached, but do you know why and what is to follow? Jesus said it is "for the purpose of a witness to all the nations, and then the accomplished end will come." Does that mean God's final war ends life on earth?

AFTER ARMAGEDDON — GOD'S NEW WORLD

And THAT is the "good news" that is being preached! The end of all wickedness, poverty and distress — yes, the end of all pain, crying and death! That is God's hope for mankind in our generation.

GOD'S WAY IS LOVE

SEASONAL SPORTS AND JUVENILE ACTIVITIES

New Brother Combination In Cardinal Ranks

SPORTS CAMERA
By Ron Andrews,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Two youngsters, one just a few months out of high school, are bringing back fond memories to St. Louis Cardinal baseball fans.

Older patrons of Busch Stadium recall watching the Dean brothers, Dizzy and Paul, pitch the Cards to a pennant in 1934. Those same fans are now wondering how long it will be before the McDaniel brothers duplicate the feat of Dizzy and Paul.

Cardinal rooters are confident that Lindy and Von McDaniel can lead their favorite team to the National League flag; it's just a matter of time.

When the season opened, St. Louis had a 21-year-old rookie pitcher in its lineup. Manager Fred Hutchinson didn't hope for too much from Lindy McDaniel, just a respectable record and the lad's best efforts.

But Lindy was a pleasant surprise. He recorded six wins in his first nine starts, of which seven were complete games. Then in June, with a little publicity pressure from Lindy, the Cards called up Von McDaniel from a high-school farm system.

Dramatic Start

Von, an 18-year-old boy who was working on a farm to help pay his way through high school only a month earlier, made an auspicious debut in the big league.

Manager Hutchinson started the rangy righthander against Brooklyn Dodgers June 21. The rookie chalked up a two-hit, 2-0 shutout. In the sixth inning he was in trouble when Dodgers loaded the bases with none out but Van started a double play and then picked up a ground ball and threw to first for the third out.

By the end of July, the McDaniel brothers had won a total of 15 games while losing eight. Lindy, with a month's head start over Von, had a 9-5 won-lost record while Von had six wins and only two defeats.

Dizzy Dean, who won 30 games while his brother was taking another 19 decisions in 1934, has been keeping a close eye on the McDaniels.

"You fellas are goin' a long way because you ain't afraid to get the dawgonned ball over the plate," Dizzy drawled.

After watching Von make his major-league debut, Dizzy was Von's foremost booster.

"Shucks, I was more scared when I was your age than you are," Diz laughed. "And, podnuh, you showed me somethin' that first game, hitting those corners and gittin' that breaking stuff over when you were behind on the count."

Speaking to both brothers, the older Dean said:

"Keep it up, fellas, and some day you'll win 49 games like me 'n' Paul done."

The McDaniel brothers have been one of the big reasons why St. Louis is battling for the pennant in the National League. Cards haven't won a pennant since 1946 and haven't been in the race since 1949, dropping as low as fourth and seventh in 1954 and 1955. They finished a distant fourth last season.

But now the St. Louis Cardinal fans are convinced that the club has come up with a good pennant chance, because they've come up with another brother combination, just as they hit the jackpot in 1934 with the Deans.

Baseball Title Play-offs Start This Week-End

The Brownsburg Tigers played their best game of the season on Sunday when they trounced the league-leading Buckingham 9-3, behind the 6-hit pitching of Georges Raymond.

Georges pitched an excellent game, striking out eleven while walking only one. Only one of the Buckingham runs was earned. G. Bordeleau managed the only long hit off Raymond, when he tripled in the second inning. A beautiful squeeze-bunt by Landry allowed Bordeleau to open the scoring.

Brownsburg struck for seven runs on six hits in the fourth inning. In this inning Billy Cribb hit a two-run double, Yves Raymond a triple to bat in his tenth run, and Jacques Legault singled twice. Then Jacques Legault had a double in the second. Yves Raymond doubled in the fifth, and Billy Cribb doubled in the eighth. Jacques Racine had two singles and Buddy Racine, Jimmy Murdoch, Germain Gagné and Gilles Diotte each singled once.

In the field, the Tigers displayed their top form. They had two errors on hard-hit balls and turned in three double-plays. Buddy and Jacques Racine starred in two of these double-plays, while Germain Gagné and Gilles Diotte combined well on the third. Gilles was in on all three.

The play-offs start this week-end for the cup which the Tigers won the last two years. Buckingham and Hawkesbury wound up the season tied for the championship. The third-place Tigers will play the champions away this Sunday, in a best-of-three semi-final. The champion will be decided this week.

Ayers Captures Fifth Consecutive Tennis Victory

Ayers Tennis Club scored its seventh consecutive victory recently, to the tune of 4-1 against Vaudreuil, of the Quebec-Ontario League. Ginette Tessier and Serge Joly, of the Ayers representation, proved an outstanding team in their round with Louise Besner and J. P. Ranger, of Vaudreuil, whom they defeated 0-6, 7-5 and 6-4.

Complete results were as follows:

Fleurette Plouffe, Ayers, defeating Jacqueline Larivee, Vaudreuil, 6-0, 6-0.

Jacques Bourgoing, Ayers, defeated F. Villeneuve, Vaudreuil, 6-0, 6-0.

Richard Campeau and Réjean Roquebrune, Ayers, defeated E. Béliveau and L. Reid, Vaudreuil, 6-0, 6-2.

Madeleine and Murielle Lafond, Vaudreuil, defeated Anita and Jeannine Bédard, Ayers, 6-2, 6-2.

Ginette Tessier and Serge Joly, Ayers, defeated Louise Besner and Jean-Pierre Ranger, Vaudreuil, 0-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Announcement on Re-opening of Bolodrome

The following communication is addressed to bowling enthusiasts in the Lachute district under signature of Marcel Brunette of the Bolodrome management:

"We take pleasure in announcing that the Bolodrome will re-open shortly for the 1957-58 season. . .

"The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, owners of the property, re-considered their decision against renewing our lease, with the happy result that we will be privileged to resume our activities in the second storey of the A & P Store. To those who interceded on our behalf, we express our warm appreciation; among these, we may mention —

"Mayor Léopold Carrière; the Hon. W. M. Cottingham; Gerard Lefebvre; the Chamber of Commerce; Knights of Columbus; the Canadian Legion; the Lions Club; Ayers Limited (through their personnel manager, Roger Regimbal).

"We trust that this news, now generally known among our citizens, will be welcomed to all bowlers and supporters of the pastime. We would now remind the team captains that it is time to reorganize for the season's activities."

(Signed) Marcel Brunette

Colford Lodge Blanks K. of C. and Dom. Textile

Jean-Guy Loracque pitched 14 scoreless innings last Sunday to defeat the Knights of Columbus of St. Jerome 6-0, and Dominion Textiles of Montreal 9-0. Larocque struck out 31 batters to post his 15th and 16th victory of the season without a loss.

Jacques Leveillé and Mel Stewart produced the power for the winners — Jacques blasting his fourth home run and Mel swatting a pair of triples.

Allan Mair and Vern Poirier played an outstanding game defensively. Only two of the visitors reached third base as Colford's defence was unbeatable. Time and again the boys came up with some terrific plays.

Next Sunday Colford's play host to Dow of St. Jerome; game time, 2 p.m.

ARTS, BOOKS, SHOWS AND ENTERTAINMENT

Radio Story of A Modern Barabbas

CBC's one-hour Sunday night drama series, "Summer Stage" (heard at 8.00 p.m.) is moving to Montreal for four shows under the direction of well-known radio drama producer Rupert Caplan.

"Summer Stage" for August 18 will offer a play called "I Am Barabbas," a modern parallel to the New Testament story of the murderer who was given life and freedom while Christ died on the cross. It was originally written for the BBC, by English writer Elizabeth Dawson.

The Barabbas of our times carries the same terrible burden of hatred towards the world, embittered as he is by the harshness and brutality which have been his lot in life. A sombre, powerfully-built sailor, George Comas is condemned to death for cold-blooded murder, but manages to escape prison disguised as a priest, during the confusion of an earthquake. But fate plays him a strange trick: just as Christ died a violent death by crucifixion, so the brutal sailor is forced to play the role of saviour when the panic-stricken people of the devastated town mistake him for a real priest and beg his help.

"I Am Barabbas" will be followed on August 25 by "Waltzing Matilda", a comedy by Hugh Kemp of Toronto about the headmistress of a boarding school, and the Montreal writer Mac Shoub has done a "comedy-drama" for September 1.

MARKET FOR PAINTERS

A new market for the artist may well be opening in the giant supermarkets, says The Financial Post. Dominion Store chain is now offering as premiums original, oak-framed oil paintings priced at $5.95. But they are only available to those stitute for the Blind.

With Larry Henderson Among the Arabs

"Footloose" for August 18 at 4.00 p.m. goes with Larry Henderson to the Middle East for a general survey of Western technology's effect on the Arab world, on the religious social and political life of the Bedouin. Mr. Henderson's tour was tightly organized around the three large centres of Arab population: Syria, Jordan and what was once Arab Palestine, now Israel.

The problem of the refugee Arabs has been plaguing both the Israeli and Jordanian governments, as well as the U.N., ever since the end of the British Mandate in 1948; part of this program will be a visit to a refugee settlement in Kalandia on the Israeli-Jordanian border, where Arabs are being trained in modern industrial skills, so that they can be absorbed into the metropolitan industrial concentrations of the Middle East.

Meanwhile, the traditional life of the desert nomads still goes on, as Mr. Henderson discovered in a visit to a Bedouin tent village. Dances and chants which date back to the Prophet and beyond made up part of a tribal ceremony captured on tape for this program. The religion of Islam is still very strong in these areas where the older way of life predominates, but Mr. Henderson finds that Islam's militant, conversion-bent aspect provides a very convenient bridge between religion and nationalism; young Arabs everywhere, exposed to Western ideas and ambitions, are acquiring a taste for militarism and politics. However, the still-characteristic sound of the Middle East, the mullah's call to prayer, makes an aural counterpart to the striking sight of mosques and minarets.

Mr. Henderson spent considerable time in the divided city of Jerusalem, recording the colorful background noises of an ancient souk (market-place), built eight centuries ago by the Crusaders, a living legacy of the middle ages still very much in use.

The total area to be flooded on the Canadian side of the St. Lawrence River as a result of the St. Lawrence Seaway has been estimated at 20,000 acres.

FILM FAVORITE DEAD

They buried Oliver Hardy at Beverly Hills, Calif., last week, but Stan Laurel, his sidekick in more than 200 movies, wasn't allowed to attend. Laurel, 67, was forbidden by his doctor to attend the rites. He suffered a stroke two years ago.

Hardy, 65, the rotund half of the Laurel and Hardy comedy team, had never fully recovered from a stroke he suffered nearly a year ago. Many of filmland's old-timers turned out for the funeral, including Andy Clyde and Clyde Cook.

Lord Alexander Returns, Former Governor General To Open Ottawa Exhibn.

Ottawa — On Friday evening, August 23, at 7.45 o'clock, the Central Canada Exhibition will formally be declared open by Field Marshal Lord Alexander of Tunis, who was Governor-General of Canada from 1946 to 1952. He will be accompanied by Lady Alexander.

In his book "Great Morning" published in 1947, Osbert Setwell, the well-known English author, stated: "Lord Alexander is the greatest soldier Britain has produced since the Duke of Wellington." It is almost universally conceded that Alexander is one of the most notable and able soldiers of his generation. He was the strategist who developed the North African and Italian campaigns in World War II, and led the armies of several nationalities, including two Canadian divisions, to brilliantly executed victories.

In North Africa in 1943 he was deputy Commander-in-Chief under General Dwight Eisenhower, now President of the United States, and was in command of all the Allied Forces that defeated the famous German General, Erwin Rommel, and also the Axis Armies from Egypt to Cape Bon Peninsula. At the completion of the long and notably tough campaign Alexander sent the brief telegram to Prime Minister Winston Churchill which is now regarded as a classic. It read: "Sir: The orders you gave have been fulfilled. I now await your further instructions."

From Africa he went to Italy as Supreme Commander of the Allied Forces. The result of his strategy was the eventual surrender of the Italian Army and Navy and the defeat and complete capitulation of the German Armies.

Though Alexander, from the time he joined the Irish Guards as a Second Lieutenant at the age of 20, has been actively involved in several wars in different parts of the world, in addition to the first and second World Wars, his qualities as a great gentleman, his natural charm, consideration for others and his inherent graciousness have not been affected. Sir Arthur Bryant, in his recently published, now much discussed book, "The Turn of the Tide", states that "Eisenhower and Alexander are men with a general gift for accommodating and reconciling divergent views."

It may be taken as a foregone conclusion that when Lord Alexander and his gracious lady return to Ottawa to open the Central Canada Exhibition, a warm welcome will be extended to them.

SYLVANIA TO CRUISE TROPICAL WATERS

Montreal — Cunard Line's new 22,000-ton vessel Sylvania will make a 15-day Christmas and New Year's cruise to the West Indies and South America with rates starting at $375 — according to a company announcement. The voyage will start from New York December 21.

Newest liner cruising to the Caribbean, the Sylvania will call at Port-au-Prince, capital of Haiti; Curacao, the bargain hunter's paradise; Cristobal, eastern terminus of the Panama Canal; Havana, city of fiestas and casino night life; and Nassau in the Bahamas. Sylvania passengers will celebrate New Year's Eve in Havana.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Are you looking for a fool-proof recipe for vacation fun — one that's been properly tested and seasoned to taste? Here are two basic ingredients for any happy vacation by car.

First is the proper attitude towards your once-a-year family trip. Make up your mind in advance to leave your troubles at home, broaden your outlook and have a good, relaxing time. The second ingredient is the dash of spice — a change of scene. Get away from it all this summer. Go some place new and different instead of heading for that one and only spot you've visited for the past six years.

Once you've decided on your basic ingredients, you'll want to add some other components to season your vacation dish. Your trip will be much more carefree if you're sure your car is in tip-top condition. Automotive experts advise you to have your car properly serviced before you start. Pack lightly. Take half as many clothes as you think you'll need. Then you'll have twice as much space for travel mementos picked up en route. Take at least one pair of well-broken-in walking shoes to insure your comfort.

For your digestion's sake, eat lightly and as regularly as you would at home. You might try my own eating-on-the-road formula — a light breakfast and a picnic lunch followed by a large meal after you've stopped for the night. I've found this formula to be a real budget-booster on any car trip.

As for sightseeing, intersperse it with rest and relaxation. Six hours of continuous sightseeing is enough for anyone but a youth. Besides, if you try to see too much too fast, you'll muddle your vacation memories.

If you wear glasses, you may want to take your lens prescription along in case of loss or breakage.

If you follow this travel-tested recipe, you'll end up with a tasty vacation you can savour for many years to come.

RADIO TRANSMITTER PILL

A pill to swallow before long may contain a radio-transmitter and a batch of instruments beneath the sugar coating, states The Financial Post. Such a pill has been developed by scientists in Sweden. It transmits data on the temperature and pressure inside the patient's stomach.

Financial Appeal For CNIB in Arundel District

At a recent meeting, Dr. W. L. Morrison, Mayor of Arundel Municipality, was named chairman for the financial campaign to be held August 19 to September 1, on behalf of the Canadian National In-Zoo as a tourist attraction, if neg-

The need of having perfect vision and having one's eyes examined regularly by an opthalmologist, cannot be over-stressed. At times sufferers do not know where to turn for guidance. The Institute is always willing to help, and the cost of consulting is nil. . . In the district of Arundel, anyone in need of advice may contact Mr. Percy Staniforth and ask him to have the field secretary call. In Lachute, readers are also at liberty to call at the local office, 494 Sydney Street.

The following warning should be noted again: Be sure that the canvasser in this campaign is a resident of Arundel, as this man has volunteered to collect your donation without any charge for his labors, and the money he receives will be turned over in full to Dr. Morrison. If the collector is not known to you, demand to see his receipt book, which should have the name of the Institute in full and be signed by the financial chairman.

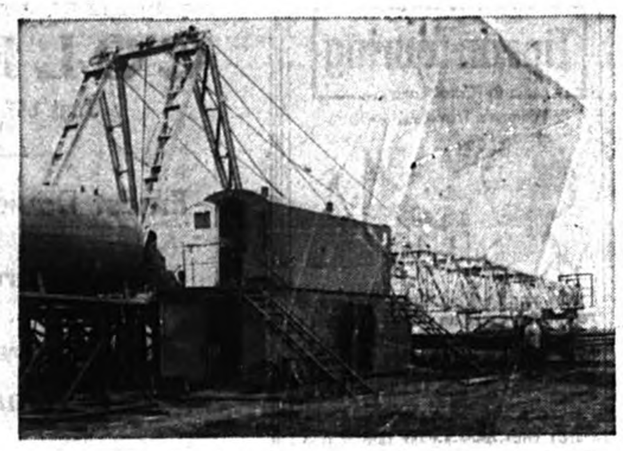

You are requested to give generously to this organization which is working in the County of Argenteuil. Your dollar may help to save the sight of a glaucoma victim, or restore the sight of one undergoing a corneal transplant.

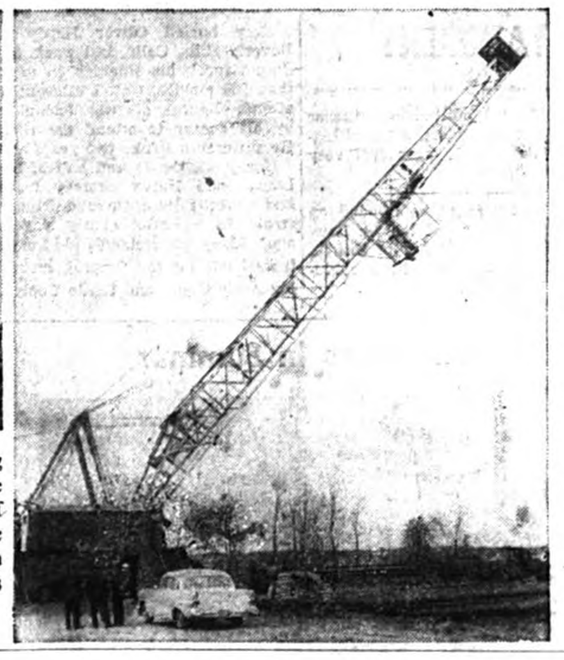

The canvassers are as follows: Village, Mr. Percy Staniforth; R.R. 1; Mr. F. Scott and Mr. Harold McMahon; R.R. 2, Mr. Frank Craig; R.R. 3, Mr. Earl Gray.

SPECIAL ATTRACTION

Granby, Que. (CP) — A transport museum may be added to Granby's Zoo as tourist attraction, if negotiations with the Canadian Railroad Historical Association reach fruition. It would contain relics or models of early rail, road, sea and land transport.

Search for Oil in Nicolet County

The search for oil in the St. Lawrence Lowlands of Quebec is being aided by the arrival of a giant rotary drilling rig. These pictures were taken before and during the hoisting of the big rig on the farm of Armand Gauthier, of St. Grégoire, Nicolet County. Towering more than 100 feet in the air, the rig will deepen wells which were begun by a smaller cable tool rig. The work is being carried on by Lowlands Exploration Co.,

Sparkling Attractions Booked for Ottawa "Ex"

Over half a million persons are expected to attend the exciting, colorful Ottawa Exhibition to be held for eight days this year, August 23 to 31, and featuring some of the most attractive entertainment ever seen in Eastern Ontario.

Such outstanding attractions as the United States Air Force Band, Juliette, beautiful, blonde Canadian television star, and Leo Carillo, of movie and TV renown, will be among the many features.

Where else but at the Ottawa fair could one gain a new home, completely furnished, with car-port, a 1957 Pontiac convertible, boat and motor and many other awards? . . In addition every night of the Exhibition, a new car will be given away. On opening night, Friday, August 23, the car will be nothing less than a spanking new 1957 Cadillac.

The 1957 Exhibition will be opened Friday evening by Lord Alexander, former Governor General of Canada. On the program for Friday evening, will be thrilling stock car events. (Attractions during the entire eight days are advertised elsewhere in this issue.)

Exhibition authorities have arranged special parking areas for the convenience of patrons. One is situated at the Carlingwood Shopping Centre on Carling Avenue and the other at the Billings Bridge Shopping Centre. These arrangements were made necessary due to the expansion of the Exhibition which has resulted in the elimination of public parking on the grounds.

Ottawa Exhibition President Wilbert Hamilton says the 1957 "Ex." is the finest ever put together by the CCEA.

Many Canadians are suffering from malnutrition as a result of ignorance and indifference, although they have plenty of food, says Dr. E. W. McHenry, professor of nutrition at the University of Toronto.

"The majority of Canadians eat too much meat and too little milk cheese, fruits and vegetables," he said.

Dr. McHenry told members of the Agricultural Institute of Canada at their annual convention at Vancouver that if people followed Canada's Food Rules, the official government dietary guide, there would be no malnutrition among children no obesity among adults and a considerably reduced family food budget.

Surveys showed that youngsters received only half a pint of milk or less a day instead of a full pint. Many children received no vegetables except potatoes, he said.

As a nutritional food he said margarine is as good as butter, because its Vitamin A content is constant.

"Many Canadians are either bored or repelled by discussions on healthful eating. Widespread elementary knowledge of nutrition would make such things impossible," Dr. McHenry said.

Attractive Skin

"A woman without perfume is like a beautiful face without a smile — nothing," says beauty expert Theresa Germann.

Canadian women like to save perfume and just use it for special occasions when they should use it every day, she said. "And wear enough — as too little perfume is just wasted," she said.

The newest trend in makeup is pale lipstick and rather dramatic eye makeup.

Miss Germann recommends creams containing Vitamin A and D. These, she says, will nourish the tissue under the facial skin and keep the blood circulating to hold off sags and wrinkles.

Any treatment that makes the skin warm and pink is effective in warding off blemishes, she said, and "keep it clean" is still the watchword of beauty.

Still Striving

Life can be as adventuresome at 91 as it it as 21, said Miss Jeanne Strong of Toronto. At age 91 she has started taking music lessons.

Music has always been her hobby. She has taken singing lessons since she was a little girl. Adhering to her father's advice that a talent is something to be taken care of and improved for the benefit of others, Miss Strong said "I'm still striving."

Fashions

Big bold plaids have their say in the new suit and coat department. Gray plaid wool is used for a handsome fall coat with back interest. This is achieved by means of the V-shaped yoke which is part of a bias inverted pleat. Black velvet is used for the collar facing and there are vertical slit pockets in front and two diagonal tabs below the V yoke for additional accents. A good, useful daytime, country or travel coat.

All the beautiful sentiments in the world weigh less than a single lovely action.

Middle-East Cuisine

King Saud of Arabia has just ordered a dinner service from London. The largest items are eight soup tureens to hold 50 pints each, which somehow recalls these lines from the poem about Noah: "He ate his egg with a ladle, in an egg-cup big as a pail; and the soup he took was elephant soup and the fish he took was a whale."

But these soup tureens will be nothing special by Middle East standards. If they are the heftiest bits of china his Arabian Majesty show, his chefs will never be able to serve a delicacy described by Glubb Pasha (otherwise Lt.-Gen. J. B. Glubb) in his book about the Arab Legion — reports The Financial Post.

During his long career in the Middle East, cut short when the King of Jordan unceremoniously sacked him last year, Glubb Pasha was often a dinner guest of Arab potentates. At one of these feasts the main course was a whole roasted camel, served in kneeling position; the camel stuffed with six sheep; each sheep stuffed with six chickens; each chicken stuffed with six hardboiled eggs. Garnish with rice and a sauce of raisins and wine. Serve piping hot.

Glubb Pasha doesn't say what size of dish was needed to underpin the camel; but it must have been a lot bigger than a finicky little 50-pint soup tureen. Either King Saud is a piker or Middle Eastern hospitality is deteriorating.

Home Applesauce

Here is a new recipe for "Home Canning" for applesauce.

Select firm, tart apples; wash, quarter, core and remove any bruised or decayed parts. Drop into 3 per cent brine; drain. Cook in small amount of water until soft. Press through sieve or colander to remove skins.

Add 2 teaspoons sucaryl solution (or 16 tablets) to each cup of sauce. Bring to boil. Pack boiling hot into clean, hot jars, process 25 minutes and remember to leave ½ inch head space when packing fruit. For home freezing simply pack into container, seal, cool and freeze.

All measurements are level; recipes proportioned to serve 4 to 6

Tarama Hors d'Oeuvre Dip: In a blender, assemble and buzz until smooth 2 tbsp. olive oil, 1 slice crumbled enriched bread, 2 tbsp. water, 1 tsp minced onion, ½ tbsp. lemon juice, 4 oz. red Tarama caviar, ¼ tsp. salt and ⅛ tsp. pepper.

Oven-heat Italian bread for dunking.

Greek Salad Special: In a salad bowl, measure 3 tbsp. olive oil, 2 tbsp. corn oil, 2 tbsp. lemon juice. Add 1 tsp salt, ⅛ tsp. coarse-ground black pepper and ¼ tsp. oregano

Heap in 2 qts. coarse-shredded soft lettuce, 2 diced stemmed tomatoes, 1 thin-sliced peeled small cucumber, 1 chopped peeled red onion, 1 fine-shredded seeded green pepper and ¾ c. thin-sliced celery.

Toss until the dressing is absorbed. Serve at once.

A TIP FROM THE CHEF

Literally translated the word "hors d'oeuvre" means "outside the works." On the menu, "hors d'oeuvre" usually means hot or cold appetizers served before the soup or main course of the meal.

Jams and Jellies Now Headliners In Culinary News

Peaches, plums, grapes and apples will be plentiful for a few weeks to come, so why not plan to make delicious spreads for next winter's use. Each bottle and box of commercial fruit pectin carries easy-to-follow recipes with full directions for making jam and jelly from these popular fruits.

Here are three tested recipes to try this season, and to file for future use. . .

PEACH APPLE JAM

Yield: about 11 medium glasses, or 5½ lbs. jam.)

5 Cups prepared fruit (about 1½ lbs. ripe apples and 2½ lbs. ripe peaches), 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, ¼ cup lemon juice (2 or 3 lemons), 6½ cups (2½ lbs.) sugar, 1 box powdered fruit pectin.

First, prepare the fruit. Then peel and core about 1½ lbs. fully ripe tart apples. Chop fine. Peel and pit about 2½ lbs. fully ripe peaches. Chop fine. Combine fruits and measure 5 cups into a very large saucepan. Grate the rind from 1 medium-sized lemon, measure 1 teaspoon, and add to fruit. Squeeze the juice from 2 or 3 lemons. Measure ¼ cup into saucepan with fruit.

Then make the jam. Measure sugar and set aside. Add powdered fruit pectin to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover jam at once with ⅛ inch hot paraffin.

GRAPE JELLY

(Yield: about 10 medium glasses, 5 lbs. of jelly.)

4 Cups juice (about 3 lbs. ripe grapes), 7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar, ½ bottle liquid fruit pectin.

First, prepare the juice. Stem about 3 pounds fully ripe grapes and crush thoroughly. Add ¼ cup water; bring to a boil and simmer, covered, 10 minutes. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan. (Concord grapes give best color and flavor. If wild grapes, Malagas, or other tight-skinned grapes are used, use 3½ cups grape juice and add ¼ cup lemon juice.)

Then make the jelly. Add sugar to juice in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. At once stir in liquid fruit pectin. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim off foam with metal spoon, and pour quickly into glasses. Cover jelly at once with ⅛ inch hot paraffin.

PLUM PRESERVES

Yield: about 12 medium glasses, 6 lbs. of preserves.)

6 Cups sliced fruit (about 2½ lbs. ripe plums), 1 cup water, 6 cups (2 lbs. 10 oz.) sugar, ¼ cup lemon juice (2 lemons), ½ bottle liquid fruit pectin.

Pit plums and slice thin. Measure 6 cups into a very large saucepan. Add water and sugar. Place over high heat and bring to a boil, stirring carefully. Remove from heat. Let stand at room temperature 4 to 6 hours.

Squeeze juice from 2 medium-sized lemons. Measure ¼ cup into saucepan with fruit. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 2 minutes, stirring carefully. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid fruit pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 8 to 10 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover preserves at once with ⅛ inch hot paraffin.

Family Motor Trip

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

"A wise traveller never despises his own country," wrote Goldoni and in Lady Eaton's fascinating autobiography, "Memory's Hall", she mentions twice her desire that her children should see Canada. A train trip is a delight to a child and a plane flight is a never-to-be-forgotten experience. But the great majority of families travel as inexpensively as they can by car.

Holidays spent happily unify the family. New experiences are exhilarating and travel is one door to education. A good journey is one which every member of the family recalls with pleasure. Why not enjoy a trip for this summer or autumn!

Write at once to the Tourist Information Bureaus in the areas you hope to visit. Be sure to include time spent in some of our beautiful National or Provincial parks. Children love maps and they will appreciate having a part in vacation preparations. Give one child the job of keeping track of the mileage each day, another might write down money spent on gas and oil. Participation is the basis of enthusiastic co-operation.

Parents travelling with little folk have found it very worthwhile to write ahead and make overnight reservations at recommended hotels, resorts or cabins. If this is not possible, observe the rule of stopping well before darkness falls to find suitable accommodation. There is nothing more upsetting than an unsuccessful search for a place to sleep with cross, over-tired children constantly wailing, "When are we going to get there?"

Fatigue quickly produces irritability in both adults and children. Arrange a rest period after the noon meal for all the family, every day. If baby is small, he can sleep in his basket, or the seat of the car can be used as a bed, with safeguards to prevent him falling. A rug and pillow spread under a shady tree encourages relaxation. It is worthwhile to turn off the main highway and travel down a quiet country road in search of solitude.

It is grand for mother not to have to prepare meals and wash dishes. In order to cut on costs the family may want to "eat out" only one of the three meals. If at all possible have the dinner meal at a good restaurant or hotel. An early start can be made if breakfast is eaten at the place where the family has stayed overnight.

Travelling with a small baby is easier in some ways than travelling with an active youngster who is "into everything". The little baby stays in one place — but the diaper problem is not an easy one to solve. An extra supply must to taken along and mother must have the opportunity every other day to wash out the diapers and get them dry. Some families make a twenty-four hour stop in a city with a Daily Diaper Laundry Service, in order to avail themselves of this help.

Clothes for travelling for children should be comfortable, durable and washable. Seersucker or jersey sun suits need no ironing, and corduroy overalls for cooler days are an excellent choice for the same reason. Tuck the dirty clothes directly into the laundry bag. Do as little washing on the trip as possible. A jar of water and a wash cloth and towel to wipe small sticky fingers is worthwhile. Bibs and paper handkerchiefs are good ideas too.

Small children get tired travelling in a car and mother and dad must be willing to stop fairly often. Take son or daughter for a walk to stretch little legs. Fill the thermos bottle with cold, tested drinking water in the morning and keep a supply of paper cups.

The driver's attention should not be distracted by anyone in the car. Mother will have to keep the children amused from time to time. Repeating a nursery rhyme, singing songs, reciting short poems all can be lots of fun. A picture book with large colored illustrations is a good thing to have handy. Dressing a doll is a good diversion for a small girl.

Even little children can enter into the good times of simple games such as seeing who can see a barn or a red cow or a sheep out the car window, or "I spy" using colors instead of first letters. If mother and dad can stand the noise, a mouth organ can amuse a child for a long time.

Family motoring is a real adventure. May you have a safe and happy trip this vacation!

W.I. Junior Supervisor

Mrs. B. A. Turner, of Lennoxville, has been appointed Junior Supervisor for the Quebec Women's Institutes. This has just been announced by the Q.W.I. Executive.

Mrs. Turner is a member of the Milby Women's Institute and immediate past president of Sherbrooke County W.I. As a member of the provincial board, during that tenure of office, she was largely instrumental in forming the Sherbrooke Branch of the Association for the Help of Retarded Children and has also given efficient service on various other Q.W.I. projects. She is now Convener of Agriculture for her county.

As a farmer's wife, Mrs. Turner is conversant with rural problems, is a successful teacher and keenly interested in young people. The executive is pleased that it can so acceptably fill this position, which was left vacant by the resignation of Mrs. A. Cameron, Longueuil, formerly of Sawyerville.

INSPIRATION FOR NEW HAT AT CNE

Even your wife's zaniest chapeau will look tame beside the weird and wonderful headgear to be displayed in the Women's building at this year's Canadian National Exhibition. A fearsome sample is this Indian headdress worn by the Tsimshian Indians of Nass River, B.C. It is made of sea lions' whiskers, wood and stones.

Canada's Cree Indians wear this fetching headdress made from Moose hairs. Visitors to the CNE will see this and dozens of other strange headpieces collected from all over the world.

It takes only four minutes to refuel a CNR diesel locomotive with 1,200 gallons of oil.

ABUNDANT LIFE

BY ORAL ROBERTS

IT'S WONDERFUL TO BE HAPPY

There is a "drive-in" eating place in one of the southern states that is very popular. One big reason for its popularity is one of the curb boys who works there. People drive out of their way to come by to have a sandwich there, and he is always their favorite curb boy.

His employer said that he could not do without this Negro man. There is something about his attitude that is contagious. When he turns to walk toward you you feel better. He always has something happy to say and his smile and face are radiant. His love of life is so infectious that you can't help but get it into your own system because his entire life is colored with joy. Johnny has learned the secret of happiness and because of that, he makes other people happy. You have met people like him . . . they reach out with warmth and interest to someone else.

The "what am I getting out of this deal" philosophy will never work. The "me first" attitude only makes you sour—and others sour on you. "I am always right" won't work. It is much like the mother who was watching the parade. Her son got mixed up with his marching, and she turned to a neighbor and said, "Look! Everybody else is out of step but little Tommy."

Recently one of my friends was out driving. As he passed a truck he was forced to squeeze over against the truck because another car came out quickly from one of the side avenues. It irritated the driver of the truck so, that at his first opportunity, he rushed around my friend and forced him over towards the side of the road.

Up ahead was a traffic light and my friend stopped just behind the truck. He got out, walked up to the driver of the truck and what do you suppose he said?

. . . . "I am sorry, friend, for dashing over against you back there when that car came out from the side avenue. I want to apologize."

The truck driver answered quickly, "That's o. k. buddy. I acted like a heel."

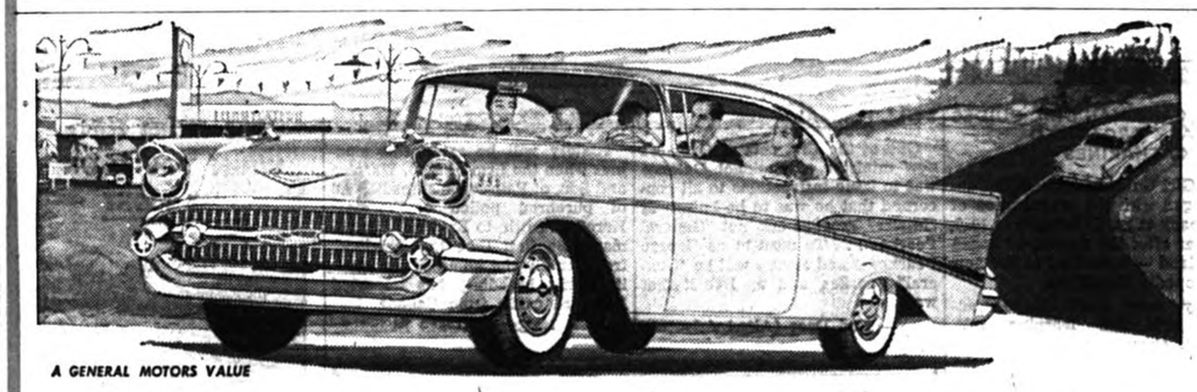

Horns behind them began to blow because traffic piled up, but they took time to shake hands!

You can get along with other people. It is a must for everyone. It is important in your family and it is important in your relationship with others.

First, you must believe that others want to be friendly to you. And you must decide for yourself that others deserve your own good will. Then give it to them—and you will never lack for friends.

You want to be happy and so do I. In fact life is too short for anyone to cultivate unhappiness. But you will never be happy until you have learned to love your neighbor as yourself—meaning that you should treat your neighbor in the same way that you want him to treat you. This rule is without exception.

Therefore, put a song in your heart . . . a real tune in your whistle. Be friendly . . . be happy! God's for us and everything just has to come out "all right!"

NOTICE of Modification to the decree relating to the barber and hairdresser trades in the Counties of Argenteuil, Deux - Montagnes, Terrebonne and Laval.

(Extract from the Quebec Official Gazette, August 3rd, 1957.)

The Honourable Antonio Barrette, Minister of Labour, hereby gives notice, pursuant to the provisions of the Collective Agreement Act (R.S.Q. 1941, Chapter 163 and amendments), that the contracting parties to the collective labour agreement relating to the Barber and Hairdresser Trades in the Counties of Argenteuil, Deux-Montagnes, Terrebonne and Laval, rendered obligatory by the decree number 140 of February 27th, 1952, and amendments, have petitioned him to extend the territorial jurisdiction of the said decree to the County of Labelle through the following amendments:

1. Section II will be replaced by the following:

"II. Territorial jurisdiction: The Territorial jurisdiction of the present decree comprises the electoral districts of Argenteuil, Papineau, Deux-Montagnes, Terrebonne, Jesus Island and the following towns and municipalities of the electoral district of Labelle: Mont-Laurier, Lac-des-Ecorces, Labelle, L'Annonciation and Val-Barrette and the territory comprised in a radius of three (3) miles from their limits.

For the purposes of enforcement, this jurisdiction is divided into two (2) zones as follows:

Zone I: The cities and towns of the entire territorial jurisdiction with a radius of three (3) miles from their limits, including the municipalities of Brownsburg, Saint Jovite and Sainte Adèle.

Zone II: The entire territorial jurisdiction with the exception of the territory comprised in Zone I."

The publication of the present notice does not render obligatory the provisions contained therein. Such provisions, with or without amendments can only be rendered obligatory by an Order-in-Council which comes into force on the date of its publication in the Quebec Official Gazette.

During the thirty days following the date of publication of this notice in the Quebec Official Gazette, the Honourable Minister of Labour will consider the objections which the interested parties may wish to set forth.

— GERARD TREMBLAY,
Deputy-Minister of Labour.

Department of Labour,
Quebec, August 3, 1957.

NEW MEMBER OF MACHINISTS' UNION

Cinda, a German shepherd dog, is now a unionized "assistant mechanic" with a union card to prove it. She is the seeing eye dog of Paul Leduc, a blind mechanic who specializes in stripping aircraft engine fuel pumps at a Montreal factory. Since Cinda is certainly an assistant to a mechanic, union members of Lodge 423, International Association of Machinists saw no reason why she should not have a card.

The New Feudalism

By Lewis Milligan

Russia was the last European country to emerge from feudalism, and the first to return to feudalism under another name — communism. When Marx and Engels issued their Communist Manifesto they concluded: "Workers of the world, unite! You have nothing to lose but your chains." But the workers of Russia did not lose their chains. They merely lost one group of taskmasters for much larger and more ruthless and efficient groups who shackled them body, mind and soul to a system of State slavery from which there was no escape except through a firing squad. They exchanged a meek and humanitarian Tzar and an indolent artistocracy for an inhuman dictatorship and slave-driving bureaucracy. In fact, the workers lost everything but their chains.

The trade unions of Soviet Russia are State agencies that must mobilize the masses for "supreme devotion to the Party." They solved the problem of unemployment by robbing the workers of their freedom and forcibly transferred them as and when required by the great five-year plans. In free enterprise countries workers are protected from private exploitation by legislation, whereas no law governs the exploitation of the individual by the State in Soviet countries. It was against this tyrannic slavery that Poland and Hungary rose in revolt.

A Russian-born writer George C. Guins, in a recent book entitled "Communism on the Decline," paints a gloomy picture of life in many parts of the Soviet Union. He says there are groans about combines in agricultural areas which only work about fifteen acres a day, about settlements in "virgin lands" where one has to travel 500 miles for pencils, a toothbrush or newspaper. Complaints from cities like Sverdlovsk which have no razor blades, buttons or school pens (in 1954); from Stalingrad in the same year, where there are "no hayforks, no ropes, no kerosene, salt or tobacco," and about cities which returned 4,000 pairs of defective shoes to the makers. He tells of farming districts where nepotism prevails among the managers, which means that there are often fifty officials to 300 farm workers. Complete tractor repairs are done by the State, partial ones by Motor Traction Stations, and mostly those stations seem to let the tractors become decrepit, so that the State may collect them.

Fishermen on the rivers and lakes are said to be angry because pollution kills their fish and dams prevent the fish moving. Whenever anything goes wrong, "out come the accusations of sabotage, and deportations are just around the corner." Mr. Guins claims that there are now 500 ministries in the whole Soviet Union; that in 1924 there were ten in the capital, in 1936-'18, and at Stalin's death there were 48. Malenkov cut them down to 26 and claimed to have saved the country six million roubles a year, but almost immediately they sprang up again. Khrushchev, in April 1954, "threatened to pull up bureaucracy by the roots," but did not, or could not.

Khrushchev no doubt found that he could not pull up bureaucracy by the roots without uprooting Communism itself, for the bureaucrats and the Party leaders are the aristocracy of the Soviet system. They are as indispensable as the Grand Dukes, the landlords and family-appointed governors that formed the upper classes of the former feudal system. Communism is the new feudalism.

FIRST CANADIAN GIRL GUIDES COMPANY ORGANIZED IN ST. CATHARINES

The Girl Guide movement in Canada began with the organization of a company at St. Catharines in 1910, one year after the movement began in England — according to the new Encyclopedia Canadiana.

Today, more than 100,000 Canadian girls are learning self-reliance, observation and thoughtfulness for others through the movement.

Its major aim is to offer a program of training in citizenship. Girls are encouraged to accept responsibility, and to learn for themselves many useful crafts and services.

The Brownie branch of Guiding admits girls of eight to 11 years, the Guide branch is for girls from 11 to 16 and the Ranger branch, for odler girls, provides a means of training Leaders.

Outdoor meetings, camping, hiking, woodcraft and nature lore offer healthy adventure and improve physical fitness. The Girl Guide pledges herself to do her duty to God and the reigning monarch, to help other people at all times and to obey the Guide law.

STILL FORMAL

One of the first acts of Canada's new minister of National Defence was to issue instructions to all concerned that he was to be known as "Mister" Pearkes and not "General Pearkes". . . To most of us George Pearkes is and always will be "General" Pearkes, and we like it that way.

Negro Minister Frank and Friendly -- Gives Views on Integration Problems

Happy Fruition Of An Experiment Fraught With Possible Setbacks

"Although I have been a licensed minister for 29 years and an ordained preacher for 25 years, and during that time have had the opportunity of serving in communities in Indiana, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and North Carolina — I can safely say that I have not gone into any church where I have been made more welcome than in my present exchange visit in Lachute."

Rev. Raphael Michael, D.D., speaker at the Rotary Club.

With these words, the Rev. Dr. Raphael Michael, a native of North Carolina and pastor of the Little Rock A.M.E. Zion Church (African Methodist Episcopal), Charlotte, N.C., addressed the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club at their regular dinner meeting, in the Brownsburg Legion Hall last Thursday evening.

"I am sincere when I say it is a pleasure to be here and I honestly feel the pleasure is mine, not yours, as has been stated here on several occasions."

The Rev. Michael explained the circumstances of his coming to Lachute in an exchange of pulpits with the Rev. Wilson Bridge, minister of Lachute United. He explained that the latter minister had read literature on the Hood Theological Seminary, and conceived the idea to visit the area. A letter to the Rev. A. A. Perry, outlining the exchange plan, was forwarded t the Rev. Michael, and the plan was put into effect through correspondence.

"I assure you we got the better of the deal, as in the evenings we either turn on the furnace or put a fire in the grate, while the Bridges are suffering it out in 85 to 90-degree temperatures!"

"There is only one experience I have not thoroughly enjoyed since my arrival in Lachute," he said, "and that was a portion of a trip to the Laurentians when I went up one of the ski lifts. I prayed going up and told the Lord, if He just brought be down safe, I would never bother about it again!" When asked how he would like to come down the hill on skiis, he jokingly replied, "I'll never know any more about that than I know now."

The Rev. Michael then gave the gathering some background on his religious denomination, pointing out that the membership was close to one million strong throughout the world. Ministers are appointed tc their charges for a period of one year, and may be re-appointed for as many years as they succeed. "Personally, I think it is a good policy, as a man can be moved by his own wish or that of the congregation. In my parish in Charlotte, we are supposed to have a total membership of 1,500. However, I have only been able to find 1,200 of these. The United Church in Lachute compares favorably in every way with the church I call my own pastorate."

The speaker continued with some interesting facts on the City of Charlotte, stating that, of the 200,000-odd population, 25,000 were Negro. "We have fine inter-racial relationships in Charlotte, and many of my best friends are members of your racial group."

One of the main portions of his address was on the treatment of the Negro in the South; he mentioned that, in a recent interview, the reporter had voiced his disappointment in the minister's statement that he had not experienced or run into some of the dire conditions o the South.

In conversation following the address, the Rev. Mr. Michael gave an example in complete contrast to what the reporter in question was expecting. "Just last year, three ministers were returning home from

Latvian Group Held Dedication in Rouge Settlement

A tract of 200 acres bordering the Rouge River, on its west bank two miles above the Avoca bridge, is being developed as a summer settlement by a group of Latvian citizens from Montreal.

These settlers, all members of the St. Paul's Latvian Congregation in the metropolis, favored the particular countryside as one resembling their homeland. Local residents are impressed by their true Canadianism and sincerity. Most of them emigrated to this country in 1949 and they now speak good English One of their number is a university professor, several have sons and daughters attending McGill, and others occupy responsible positions.

On this Rouge River tract, formerly owned by Jos. Provencal is a large building which the newcomers are re-finishing to serve as a community centre. It was at this site that a dedication service and flag raising ceremony was held last Sunday. Two girls appeared on the scene in native costume. The Rev. J. Hefers, of St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran Latvian Church officated, and Mr. Mazutis, spokesman of the group, gave an inspiring address; in conclusion of his remarks he said:

" . . . The feeling of our 'second homeland' we can experience here. We believe that the freedom that we know here in Canada will one day be known the whole world over. If we are ever called upon to defend this freedom, then the most active fighters will be our children, for having lived here a number of years now, we have learned to appreciate the value of freedom."

Luncheon was served, and the good will of the surrounding community was evident in the fraternizing of local friends attending this event. The municipality was represented by its secretary-treasurer, Mr. H. G. Brannan, in the absence of Mayor G. Beauchamp.

Negotiations for the property and supervision of the building have been handled by Mr. Alfons Ozers, of Grenville, well known in the district as a forestry engineer and consultant.

Driver Fined $100, Failing To Stop For School Bus

Numerous Traffic, Theft And Entering Charges Heard at St. Jerome

Joseph Pilon, of La Conception, Que., appeared last Friday in St. Jerome court and pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to stop for a stationary school bus taking on passengers. He was sentenced to a fine of $100 plus costs.

The incident occurred in front of the Pring Garage, at the junction of Routes 41 and 30, on May 22 last. At the time of the mishap, the bus driven by Fred Pring, district driver for the Lachute Protestant School Board, had just pulled to a halt to take on several school children.

Pilon, driving a truck, did not damage the bus too extensively when the vehicles collided, and no injuries were sustained by the occupants of the bus.

Paul Emile Allard, 25, of Carillon, was sentenced Friday to time spent in jail, in connection with a breaking and entering charge laid by Det.-Sgt. Ralph Allen late in June.

Allard, who has been held at St. Jerome since that time, was accused of having broken into the residence of Fred FitzGerald, at Carillon, and stealing articles valued at $18. He pleaded guilty.

* * *

Jean-Guy Durocher, 23, and Philippe Renaud, 25, both of Stonefield were sentenced Friday to time spent in jail, when they pleaded guilty to stealing a corn blower from the farm of Gilbert E. Arnold. Their time in jail amounted to two days.

* * *

Doria Dupont, 35, of Ripon, appeared Friday on a hit-and-run charge, following an accident on Route 8 near St. Philippe; the case was postponed until September 13. The charge was laid following an accident July 28 in which the car of Marcel Poissant, of Montreal, was damaged to the extent of about $500.

* * *

Det.-Sgt. Allen reports that he recently recovered about $250 worth of equipment stolen from Victor Courte's Garage, Weir, early this month, and is now awaiting orders on this case from the office of the Attorney General.

Rotary Club Plans Air Show Event

Rotarian Jack MacKimmie, in charge of the proposed Air Show scheduled for next month by the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club reports plans well under way, with the promise of co-operation from various sources.

To date, Canadair Limited has offered the use of several aircraft the RCAF has promised "to do something" in aiding the show and Maurice Dupras, of St. Jerome, has kindly offered the services of his Cessna 180, the latest plane to call the Lachute Airport its home.

Rotarian MacKimmie adds that several local flying enthusiasts have also offered their services, also that Fred Gorman, who runs a similar show for the Perth Rotary Club will address the local Club at their regular meeting next Thursday August 29. In the meantime, all flying clubs within a radius of 100 miles will be contacted.

Ground Observer Corps, Change of Procedure For Local Members

The ground Observer Corps (RCAF) regional supervisor, Bernard Jenkins, wishes to advise all local members that, due to changes effected in this organization in the Province of Quebec, the Filter Centre located in St. Jerome has now ceased to operate.

However, the Ground Observer Corps in this area will continue as before, with this difference only: Instead of reporting to St. Jerome, the Posts will report to Three Rivers, Que.

Effective immediately, the Observers in this region will route their Aircraft Flash Calls in this manner: "Aircraft Flash — ESTELLE, Three Rivers".

Ch. of Commerce Member Campaign, Labor Day Week

The executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce were luncheon guests of Gilbert E. Ayers last Tuesday at the Golf Club, where they held a directors' meeting to discuss the Chamber's business.

A report was received from the Membership Committee chairman, to the effect that plans were laid for a recruiting campaign to be held during Labor Day week. It is realized that many prospective members are still out of town on holiday and that much difficulty would have been encountered by having held such a campaign during the summer months. With the return to school, persons interested in the Chamber's activities will be more easily contacted and the recruiting should prove more successful.

A step realized at this meeting was the establishment of a Civic Affairs Committee. In recommending the formation of this committee, President Miville Trickey outlined its important task, and stressed the fact that more taxpayers should attend the meetings of the Town Council.

Bertrand L'Heureux was unanimously accepted by the meeting to act as chairman of this newly formed committee. Mr. L'Heureux is well versed in Council matters, and will report to the Chamber his committee's recommendations on matters discussed at Council meetings.

The directors were advised of the forthcoming convention of the Province of Quebec Chamber of Commerce, to be held at Chicoutimi, September 19-22. Delegated to represent the local Chamber are Presidents M. Trickey and B. L'Heureux.

Accounts were approved for payment.

Personal income taxes represent about 15 per cent of the total of all taxes paid by Canadians annually.

Flower Show Successful Event At St. Simeon's

St. Simeon's Church Choir made a great success of their third annual Flower Show last Saturday. The effective arrangements and lovely colors of the gladioli and other flowers (arranged under the guidance of Mr. T. Iddon) were unusually pleasing.

Mr. Sherman of Hawkesbury and Mr. A. Ogilvie of Lachute made a very acceptable team of judges, and Mrs. Gow was happy to receive the prize for the best arrangement, as well as the trophy for the highest number of points. Mrs. B. Hewitt's living-room arrangement (a particularly beautiful fungus decorated with snapdragons and pansies) attracted a great deal of attention, and also won a prize. Other prizes were won by Mrs. L. Wilson, of Brownsburg, Mrs. A. Parker, Mrs. G. Leggett, Mrs. T. Milnes. Miss Christobel Wade and Miss Vickie Milnes won in the children's classes.

The prizes were presented by the president, Mr. C. Lummis, assisted by Mr. H. Maslin. Out-of-town guests included (besides Mr. Sherman) the Rev. Winter and Mrs. Winter and friends from Hawkesbury, Mrs. R. Michael and daughters, from North Carolina, and the Rev. M. A. Stephens and family from Kitchener, Ont.

St. Andrews Lady Hale and Hearty Enjoys 100th Birthday Celebration

Mrs. Lucien Larocque, 100 Years of age.

Mrs. Lucien Larocque, a resident of St. Andrews Village, celebrated her 100th birthday on Sunday, August 18, carrying her longevity with the ease and composure of a matron in her fifties.

This venerable lady, of slight frame but still vivacious in manner and conversation, proved a surprise to the editor of our French contemporary, L'Argenteuil, who went to interview her, and to the photographer who took pictures on this notable anniversary. For Mrs. Larocque filled the part of an amiable housewife, with an easy hospitality bred of long habit.

Mrs. Larocque, the former Marie-Clephyre Daoust, was born in St. Hermas, August 18, 1857, and was married at the early age of 15, living practically all her life in St. Andrews. Her husband, the late Lucien Larocque, was a carpenter by trade. He worked 12 years in the canal workshops at Carillon. Mr. Larocque predeceased his wife 27 years ago. They had a family of 4 children, of whom only three sons survive — Georges and Theodore, in Montreal, and Jean, at St. Andrews. All three followed their father's trade as carpenters. Mrs. Georges Larocque is presently living with her mother-in-law at the old home on St. Gilles Street.

The late Felix Daoust, of Lachute, who died some years ago at the age of 89, was Mrs. Larocque's brother. Her descendants include eight grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

The anniversary occasion was happily celebrated last Sunday by a reunion of family, relatives and friends.

Charity Function at Golf Club Aids Regional Hospital Fund

$8,000 Net Proceeds From Event Gives Impetus to Growing Project

An event which created much interest locally and in the vicinity, was held last Saturday evening at the Lachute Golf and Country Club. This was the charity dinner and dance organized by the Golf Club for members and friends, and the enthusiastic response indicated that this could become an annual event.

The number of guests was limited to 100 couples, each couple donating $100 to the Lachute Regional Hospital, and the entire proceeds, except for prizes, were turned over to the Hospital Fund. Dinner, refreshments, entertainment and service were provided free of charge by the Lachute Golf Club.

An elimination draw among the guests, for $1,500 or a 1957 Vauxhall (supplied by Desrosiers Automobiles) was finally won by Mrs. Donald M. Hay, who immediately offered an additional $200 to the Hospital Fund. Miss Simonne Gelinas, of Montreal, won the $250 second prize money. Other winners were Mrs. Claude Chevrier, of Montreal, $100; Mrs. Frank Dougherty, of St. Michel, $100; and Mrs. Roger Dumoulin, of l'Assomption, $50. These three winners also remitted their prizes to the Hospital Fund.

Convener of this function was Mr. Gilbert E. Ayers, president of the Lachute Golf Club, who welcomed the guests and offered thanks for their support on behalf of the local hospital. Dr. Roger Lavigne, president of the Lachute Medical Council, extended thanks to the Club on behalf of the local medical profession.

In this manner, over $8,000 was raised exclusively for the Hospital Fund, which will also benefit on a 50-50 basis from the St. Jerome Diocesan Fund campaign currently being held in this region.

Bond Issue for Grenville Prot. School Extension

Published in the Quebec Official Gazette of August 10 is a resolution passed by the Grenville Protestant School Commissioners on May 13 last, providing for a bond issue of $210,000 to finance the building of an extension to the Grenville Intermediate School. Tenders for this issue will be received by R. C. Whinfield, secretary-treasurer, until 8 p.m. August 28, at which time they will be opened and considered at a meeting of the school commissioners in Grenville.

The bonds will be dated July 2, 1957, and redeemable serially from July 2, 1958, to July 2, 1977, inclusive, with interest at a rate not less than 4½% nor more than 5½% per annum payable semi-annually on January 2 and July 2 of each year. The rate of interest may be the same for the whole issue or it may vary according to maturities.

For the purpose of awarding the issue, computation of interest will be made as at September 2, 1957.

Inquest on Death Of C.I.P. Employee At Calumet Yard

Inquest was held at the Court House here Tuesday evening in the death of William Morrissette, 75-year-old C.I.P. employee, who was fatally crushed by a truck in the company's Calumet mill yard on August 8. The coroner, Dr. Jules Lafleur, presided, and the jurors returned a verdict of accidental death.

The late Mr. Morrissette, of St. Philippe, had been identified by his son, Mayor Réal Morrissette, of Ayersville — besides whom, five other witnesses gave their testimony: Lucien Lalonde, 26, of Calumet, driver of the truck involved in the mishap; Richard Roy, another truck driver operating in the yard at the time; John D. McGibbon, assistant manager; F. H Knights, office manager; and Lorenzo Villeneuve, foreman — C.I.P. employees.

Lalonde stated that, in backing his truck to the chip-loading site, he had looked to the rear and seen nothing in his path. He then heard an unusual noise and stopped, to find the victim stretched out under the vehicle. He attributed the noise to a shovel which William Morrissette was carrying, in his job of cleaning tracks used by small carrier-cars. . . Lalonde and the other driver, Richard Roy, both agreed that the boxes of their trucks were large, blocking the drivers' view to the immediate rear of their vehicles.

Mr. McGibbon, Mr. Knights and Mr. Villeneuve testified that Morrissette, an old and dependable employee of Canadian International Paper, had been in a stooping position at the time of the accident, and doubtless for that reason had not seen the truck backing up.

The jury, in returning their verdict, recommended that the company be requested to place rearview mirrors on each side of the trucks, to permit safer operation by their drivers.

St. Jerome Hospital Nursing School Project Listed in Diocesan Appeal

"I thank our Bishop," says Dr. Rosaire Lapointe, Medical Director of St. Jerome Hospital, "for having included our nurses' school in the Diocesan Fund. This project is close to his heart, because it will benefit the entire population."

"The Hotel Dieu of St. Jerome", continues Dr. Lapointe, "is without doubt an institution which fulfills all its duties to the people of the region, regardless of creed or race. Since its inception in 1950, there has been a continuing increase in the demands for its services. In 1956, the Hospital received more than 7,300 patients and had 1,500 births. Certainly, this is proof of its value and accomplishments. Naturally, such an institution cannot be completed in a day; since its opening we have never ceased to increase and improve our services."

Necessity for School

"Unlike most hospitals," adds Dr. Lapointe, "we do not have a nurses' school. Thus, we have been compelled to recruit 30 graduate nurses and 120 nurses' aids from various other training centres. At comparatively high salaries, the nurses' aids render services which could be done equally as well by student nurses at lower cost. The students, in turn, would gain considerable and valuable experience."

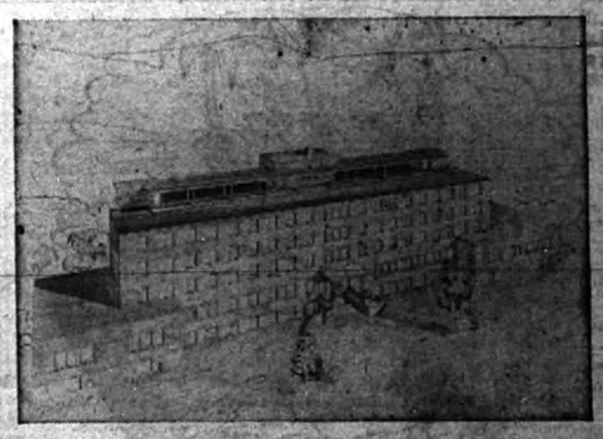

The Proposed School

"Limited capital did not permit realization of this project at the outset," says Dr. Lapointe, "but, today, the urgent need for the school becomes more and more apparent, regardless of the Hospital's present debt of approximately $1,250,000. Between $500,000 and $600,000 is required for the school, but when one studies the advantages, there can be no doubt of its necessity. The building will house 100 students and will include bedrooms, reception and rest rooms, laboratories, a library, a chapel and an auditorium to seat 300."

Advantages

"This project has full public support and approval. By reducing the number of nurses' aids, the hospital will benefit by a larger trained staff and improved services at costs which, even now, are lower than those of similar hospitals elsewhere. It is expected that 30 to 35 nurses will graduate annually and become immediately available for service at the hospital, in the home and for public and industrial hygiene. Under present conditions, many young girls from the Diocese go outside the region to follow their studies and then remain there. Many other girls who might have become nurses never do so, because their parents object to their being far from home. Thus, the construction of a school will permit a greater number of girls to become nurses and remain in the Diocese. At the same time, they will prepare themselves to become better wives and mothers," concludes Dr. Lapointe.

Dr. Lapointe has also accepted the chairmanship of the committee instituted to solicit members of the medical profession.

Local Community Concert Members To Enjoy Three Seasonal Recitals

In consultation recently with Mr. J. Bernache of Ottawa, the Eastern Canada representative of Columbia Artists Corporation — the three recitals for Community Concerts in the 1957-58 season were settled by the local directorate. The programs offer exceptionally good variety, and should meet with general approval of the subscribers. The selection is as follows:

In November, 1957 — Carollers Trio (soprano, tenor and baritone vocalists).

In February, 1958 — Theodore Lettvin, pianist (who won an important contest in Belgium last year, open to different nationalities).

In April, 1958 — Beaux Arts Trio (piano, violin and cello).

A key worker in the local Association, Miss Juliette Rodrigue, expressed her satisfaction with the outcome of the campaign last May, in which the membership enrolment exceeded last year's total.

Miss Rodrigue had a word to say also about the selection of programs. At the Tanglewood festival which she attended recently in Massachusetts, she was thrilled with the performance of Menahem Pressler, who is pianist of the Beaux Arts Trio. She considers this recital will be the hit of the season's programs in Lachute. Immediately after their performance here (Saturday, April 12), the trio will be engaged to perform at the Ritz Carlton for the "Pro Musica" of Montreal, one of the most popular musical societies of the metropolis.

Miss Rodrigue was also enthusiastic in discussing the other two engagements, which she considers of high quality and popular appeal.

Bell Telephone Makes Application To Increase Rates

Ottawa — An application seeking approval to increase telephone rates was filed last week with the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada by Bell Telephone Company of Canada.

The proposed revisions in rates would affect the users of the company's phone services throughout Ontario and Quebec. The company requests the board to make the new rates effective not later than January 1, 1958.

Increases in operating costs resulting in inadequate earnings were given as the reasons for the application. The company states that, to cover its expenses and earnings requirements, its operating revenues must be increased by $24,000,000 for 1958.

The proposed rates for local service include increases in all groups into which the exchanges are classified.

Examples of the present monthly rates in this district's exchanges for two-party residence and one-party business telephones, with proposed rates, are shown in the following table.

	2-Party Residence Present	2-Party Residence Proposed	1-Party Business Present	1-Party Business Proposed
Brownsburg, Hawkesbury, Lachute, St. Eustache	2.95	3.20	6.50	7.40
Ste. Scholastique, Maniwaki, Prescott, Vaudreuil, etc.	2.85	3.05	5.85	6.55
Rigaud, Mattawa, etc.	2.75	2.90	5.30	5.80
St. Andrews East, Morin Heights, Oka, Cobocook, Deseronto, etc.	2.65	2.90	4.80	5.80

The proposed increases in long distance rates — within Ontario and Quebec only — are less for station-to-station calls than for person-to-person calls. Adjustments are proposed in initial period rates which would result in maximum increases of five cents for station-to-station calls and of 25 cents for person-to-person calls, between points up to 200 miles apart. For longer distances, the increases are somewhat higher in some cases.

Bell Telephone's present general level of rates became effective on March 1, 1952.

At Shorthorn Field Day Held in Arundel, Hon. W. M. Cottingham Proves Enthusiast

Arundel Canvass For CNIB Dated To Open Aug. 26

Dr. W. L. Morrison, chairman for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind campaign, has advised that the canvass has been postponed to August 26. Solicitors for the various areas are as follows: Village, Mr. Percy Staniforth; R.R. 1, Mr. F. Scott and Mr. Harold McMahon; R.R. 2, Mr. Frank Craig; R.R. 3, Mr. Earl Gray.

The citizens of Arundel are requested to be generous in their donations, as the Institute is the only organization giving service to the local blind, and also having a local representative who checks all new cases reported.

Eyesight is God's most precious gift to mankind; it is up to you to safeguard it by paying regular visits to an opthalmologist. If you truly cannot afford the fees of an oculist, contact your local representative in Arundel — Mr. Percy Staniforth (tel. 41) and he will arrange with the Lachute office for an eye examination.

A warning to the donors, is that contributions should be given only to the canvassers named above. The receipts will bear the name of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, and not some other organization collecting money in the name of the blind, which however is giving no benefits or services in this area.

Recent Weddings Of Interest to Morin Community

Seale - Moore

The marriage of Patricia Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Moore, of the Town of Mount Royal, to Mr. Gordon William (Teddy) Seale, son of Mrs. Wm. John Seale and the late Wm. John Seale, took place quietly in Montreal on August 16. The bride was attended by Mrs. Gladys Jamieson, of Morin Heights, sister of the groom. Mr. John King of Beaconsfield acted as best man for Mr. Seale.

Dey - Lee

The marriage of Elsie Anna May, daughter of the late Harry Lee and of Mrs. Lee, Montreal, to Mr. Elwood Alfred Dey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Dey, of Gypsumville, Man., took place Saturday afternoon at four o'clock in Wesley United Church, the Rev. N. A. McMurray, D.D., officiating. Mr. Earl Pennington played the wedding music, and Mrs. W. J. Shields sang during the signing of the register. Multi-colored gladioli arranged with greenery were used to decorate the altar.

The bride, given away by her brother, Mr. Harvey Lee, wore a gown of pale blue lace over taffeta, fashioned on Princess lines, having a fitted bodice with a round neckline, and a bouffant skirt. She wore a small blue feather hat and carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations.

Mrs. F. T. Shonkwiler, of Pittsburg, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, and Miss Heather Lee, niece of the bride, as junior bridesmaid, were in frocks of mauve pink lace over taffeta, having fitted bodices and bouffant skirts. They wore matching feather bandeaus, and carried Colonial bouquets of mauve asters.

Mr. Howard White acted as best man for Mr. Dey, and the ushers were Mr. Ronald Lee, brother of the bride, and Mr. Geddis Lee, cousin of the bride.

Following the reception in the church hall, Mr. and Mrs. Dey left for God's Lake, Northern Manitoba, where they will take up residence — the bride travelling in a frock of black and pink cotton tweed, and wearing white accessories.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

We Stand for Judgment

READERS have been treated many times to the merits of advertising in their home newspaper. Doubtless these paragraphs of wisdom (coming from US, the publishers) have been dismissed with generous discount, as the tooting of a horn. Now, however, to serious business men we offer an appraisal from their own side of the fence — an advertiser's viewpoint as presented by a business authority and mouthpiece, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce:

In buying advertising, it must be remembered that there are several yardsticks against which to measure the unknown. One is circulation. The advertiser naturally wants to put his message before as many prospects as he can. But circulation is only circulation when it gets around. Today many thousands of dollars of merchants' hard-earned advertising funds are tied up in bundles of maps, programs and other printed matter — gathering dust in stockrooms and under counters. All because they didn't circulate.

Many national advertisers today insist on buying only paid circulation. In other words, copies of the publication must be sold to its readers. It is their opinion that what a person pays for he reads. This applies to national magazines, daily and weekly newspapers and other periodicals. Regardless of paid or free circulation, demand reliable proof of guaranteed circulation.

Another factor to be considered when buying advertising is reader interest. Does the publication carry an almost equal proportion of editorial matter and advertising? Or is it mainly page after page of solid listings with little reading matter to carry the reader's attention through to the back cover? Is the editorial matter especially written for the publication?

Still another question: Who sponsors this publication? Is it printed by a legitimate and well-known publishing house? Is it a reputable organization raising funds for a specific purpose?

1. Is this a fast-signing deal, or are you being allowed time to investigate?

2. Are the publishers members of a trade organization, such as the Periodical Press Association, Business Newspapers Association and the like? (Don't be afraid to ask for proof of membership).

3. Can their circulation claims be checked through their ABC (Audit Bureau of Circulation) statement or their publisher's sworn statement? Or must you just take their word for it?

4. Are their readers the type of prospects you want to do business with?

. . . The Watchman is open to fair and critical judgment on these questions.

Combatting A Disease

AS THE SUMMER progresses one notices the ever-increasing number of naked elms along the edges of our roads, rivers and fields. These are the trees which have fallen prey to the Dutch Elm Disease — says our friend Manny Wilson, in his current issue of C.I.P. "Woods Notes".

As one would suspect from the name, this disease was introduced to Canada from Holland, and it has taken a heavy toll of both the white and slippery elms. Considerable hue and cry has been raised over losses of the beautiful white elms in many towns and cities. But the losses of this species in forest and field are to be equally deplored, as elm makes a great contribution to our wood-using industries in the form of sawlogs, veneer logs and pulpwood.

The agent which causes the trouble in this instance is a fungus, which on gaining entrance to the sapwood proceeds to multiply and produce poisons, eventually clogging the water conducting tissues. The first outward symptom of Dutch Elm Disease is a rapid wilting of the leaves and twigs and within one or two years, the disease has run its course and the tree is dead.

What can be done to prevent the spread of this disease? Unfortunately, too little (says Mr. Wilson), but it is known that the rapid spread of the disease is largely due to the activity of bark beetles which carry the spores from tree to tree. Bark beetles, in turn, thrive on recently dead and dying wod, and this fact furnishes us with a partial solution to the problem. By harvesting immediately any elm which shows symptoms of Dutch Elm Disease, we can eliminate the breeding places of these insects and thus slow down the spread of the disease. Once the infected tree is felled the logs should be barked, and both bark and brush burnt. The pulpwood may be left unbarked providing it is transported to the mill without delay. There, the scalers should be informed that it is diseased wood and they will make certain that it is fed directly into the mill and not stockpiled. . . By harvesting these diseased elms the appearance of the countryside will be improved, the spread of the Dutch Elm Disease will be retarded.

Sneeze in the Breeze

WITH SUMMER still in swing, luring the traveller, fisherman and camper, there's one group (around this office and elsewhere) that in the later days of the season appears much less enthusiastic about the great outdoors. Their banner the paper handkerchief, their password the sneeze, they are the hay fever sufferers! . .

Butt of many a wisecrack, they wish summer away, longing for fall frosts when the last bit of pollen will disappear. If the disease itself were more dramatic, or its effect evident at other times of the year, non-sufferers might take the affliction more seriously. But the reddened nose and swollen eyes give everyone, damp and dispirited victims included, the impression of tiresomeness.

Nature has played one of its less pleasant practical jokes. Ragweed, chief offender as a dispenser of irritating pollen, bears so inconspicuous a flower that bees and insects usually attracted by color do not visit the plant. Instead, wind is the pollinating agent, and the air is burdened with pollen.

But where nature presents a problem, science can sometimes furnish the answer. Medicine has come up with serums and antihistamine drugs and thus kept many a pollen-sensitive person from suffering. But the best aid of all seems to be a mechanical one — air-conditioning.

At least, it is the best remedy if one has to stay at home and cannot take advantage of that age-old prescription, "a change of air". For there are many pleasant places on earth where there is no hay fever. An ocean voyage, a tour of the Swiss Alps, would ensure a pleasant August and September for the thousands who now sniffle their way through these lovely months.

For many, alas, that is not practical. One can only hope that science and mechanics, with their seemingly endless resources, will come up with a small portable, lightweight air-conditioner that the females can pass off as a devastating new hat, and the men can use as a brief case.

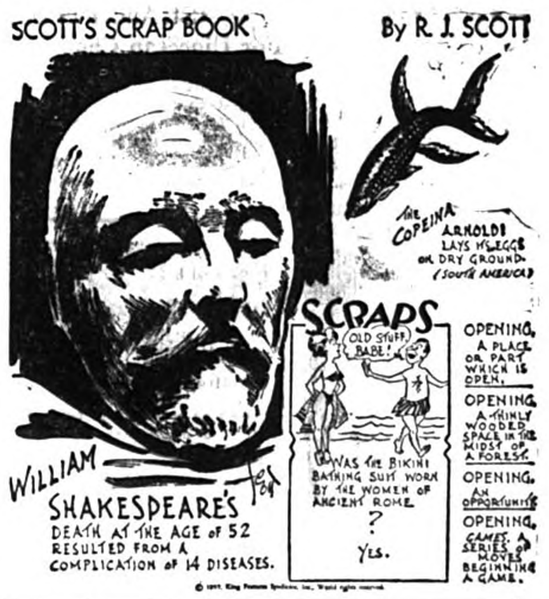

Reciprocity

A MONTREAL mother, very much in need of a quart of milk, paid 80 cents for it at a motel near Plattsburgh. . . So reported a Filler for Fitz recently in The Gazette, replying to American tourists who complain of being victims of overcharging. Conclusion of the columnist is that "the traffic is not all one way."

May we add the experience of a young lady who dropped in on us from Vancouver via New York about the same time. Landing by plane at one of the Manhattan airports she found the shuttle bus was on strike, and it cost her just $9 to reach the city by taxi.

Let's Be Realistic

IT IS TIME to realize that, before we can improve our national traffic safety record, a change must come in the hearts of drivers. The same sins that keep one from being a good Christian — the same faults that make one less desirable as a citizen or neighbor — mark a driver as less likely to win safety awards. Selfishness, arrogance, dishonesty, disregard for the rights of others, anger, jealousy, intemperance, lawlessness, intolance — these are the marks of a poor driver, a poor citizen, and a poor husband or father.

Mail Delivered 'As Addressed'

"All mail matter will be delivered in accordance with the address appearing on it." . . .

This is a regulation issued by the Post Office Department to all cities granted with Letter Carrier service.

May we insist upon the fact that you must immediately advise ALL YOUR CORRESPONDENTS, without exception, of your full address, giving your civic number and the name of your street.

If you follow our advice and suggestions, your mail will suffer no delay, and you will benefit fully from the postal service you are entitled to.

Please advise your correspondents NOT to put your postal box number. Under the new arrangement, a box number would only confuse the mail sorters. As their work will be difficult enough in the beginning, we must do our best to ease their work by furnishing a full and complete address on all mail. . . By helping them, you help yourself!

Residents have shown good will and co-operation, which we appreciate deeply. We are now asking you to continue the good work.

We have cards at the Post Office for your conveniece. Call for them at the wicket — use them. They will be provided to you with pleasure.

Love and Romance — the Difference

"I'm not going to have you prowling around with boys at all hours," said the voice, high and a little desperate. It came floating through the night air to the screened-in porch of our summer cottage. Like the old nosey snooper I am, I listened.

A young voice, filled with the stern impatience of youth, replied, "Oh, Mom . . . you make it sound so awful."

"I don't mean to," the mother answered, almost contritely. "But you're just thirteen. And it's already midnight — you should have started a campfire sooner . . . "

"Oh, Mom . . . if I can't go, Sue Martin will be there — and Johnny . . . "

It was quiet for a few seconds. Then the young girl said, "Mom — you're always prating about how wonderful love is — and now you make me stay home, while Sue and Johnny — "

The rest of the sentence was too inarticulate to record. Then Mom, at last, said, "All right, honey, just this once — but after this — "

Because I too have teenagers to worry about, I felt sorry for our neighbor Mom. I know how hopeless it is to get teenagers to understand the vast difference between love and romance.

Romance was the word this girl should have used. Campfires and weiner roasts and midnight swims at summer lakes — this is the stuff of romance; love is something much bigger. While no one ought to belittle romance, it should be kept in its place.

Love, on the other hand, is something else again. It is big enough to take in romance with much to spare — such as concern for the worry caused Mother when late hours are kept, concern for one's self as a person, and yes, big enough even to spare some sympathy for Sue Martin in spite of her designs on your Johnny. How, though, do you give teenage youngsters even a smidgeon of an idea of the bigness and importance of love?

I don't know. I've pondered the question often. I can come up with only one answer.

Try to see to it that your children attend with you the church of your faith, as often as possible and then some. For love is a religious idea, not a boy-meets-girl affair. Our slick paper magazines and some of our newspapers have, perhaps innocently, confused this fact. A religious training alone seems able to clear up such confusion.

What is the world's largest annual exhibition?

The Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto holds this distinction. Land, buildings and equipment, occupying 350 acres, are valued at $50,000,000. It has its own railroad depot, bus and street car terminals, bank, post office, police and fire stations, hospital and telephone exchange. It has the largest exhibition building in the world with a floor area of 25½ acres. The average yearly attendance is about 3,000,000. It began in 1846 at the Toronto Exhibition, and was incorporated in 1878 under its present name.

Where and what is Earnscliffe?

This historic old house in Ottawa was the residence of Sir John A. Macdonald and is now occupied by the United Kingdom High Commissioner to Canada. A large limestone house in the Scottish style situated on the Ottawa River near the junction of the Rideau River, it was built in 1855.

What is Canada's national emblem?

Two emblems have gained national recognition in Canada — the beaver and the maple leaf. The beaver has been a notable feature of Canada's history and development from earliest times; the pursuit of its skin was largely responsible for first opening up the country. It dates as an emblem at least from the early 17th century, when it appeared on a coat of arms granted by Charles I to Sir William Alexander, who held Nova Scotia as a royal grant and later extended his interest to other parts of what is now Canada. The beaver has appeared on Canadian memorial medals, coins and postage stamps. The maple leaf has become the chief element in the new design of the Canadian coat of arms and was the badge of the Canadian expeditionary force in World War I. It was used as early as 1805 as the particular emblem of the French Canadians, and was so described in the Quebec Gazette of that year, while the thistle was mentioned as the emblem of the Scottish Canadians. Its use broadened and a literary annual of 1847 referred to the maple leaf as the chosen emblem of Canada.

Over the Years

THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

August 25, 1882 —

Lachute Council has drafted a letter to the C.P.R. protesting against the proposed removal of the station to west of the North River, suggesting that if removal were necessary on account of the steep grade, it would be to better convenience of the municipality to move it east instead of west.

Quoit-playing is a popular pastime in Lachute now.

Farmers are so bounteously supplied with hay and grain that in some cases they have not sufficient barn room for half their crop.

Mr. Thos. McOuat had his foot severely burned with a quantity of molten iron.

The pipes of Lachute Aqueduct Company have been laid across the bed of North River at Barron's Bridge.

50 YEARS AGO

August 30, 1907 —

The Board of Trade meeting in Raitt's Hall, with Mr. W. Howard in the chair and Mr. P. A. Lafleur secretary, discussed the matter of Dominion Express Company charging a higher rate of express to Lachute than to St. Philippe.

Hon. W. A. Weir has secured a Provincial Government grant of $400 for the Agricultural Society's exhibition.

Stonefield — Mr. J. F. Owens will trot his "Second Thought" at Calumet in a race against the horse of Mr. Labrosse, Vankleek Hill.

H. Murphy, C.N.R. agent at Lachute, advertises Home Seekers' Excursions to the Lake St. John region, $4.55 second class to Roberval.

Mr. and Mrs. (Dr.) Stackhouse have returned home, after spending the summer at 16 Island Lake.

25 YEARS AGO

August 25, 1932 —

The School Board and staff of Lachute Academy will soon be "At Home" to all old scholars, as well as new ones. The purpose of this gala gathering is the dedicating of the new wing, which has just been added at a cost of nearly $50,000 to accommodate the extra number of scholars that will be brought in by the consolidation of the surrounding schools.

Miss Wilma Joss was recently the victim of drowning at Clear Lake, Dunany, where she and her family were as usual spending the summer months at their cottage.

The local fire brigade was called out at 12.45 Monday night to a fire at the residence of R. Belanger. The outbreak occurred in the woodshed adjoining the dwelling, and thanks to prompt action, little damage resulted.

The C.P.R. local trains have been on slow orders the early part of the week, due to damage to the track between Ste. Therese and Calumet. It is said a large quantity of new rails have to be laid along this section.

Lacrosse, which at one time was a very popular game in this town, has been revived, and Mr. Lemuel Barron has undertaken the work of coaching the players. A game is scheduled for Labor Day at 3 o'clock with the Oka Indian team, who will visit Lachute on that day.

The "Dollar Day" C.P.R. excursion to Montreal was well patronized last Sunday. The first special from Hull passed through with a thousand-odd passengers aboard, while the second special, from Calumet, east, proved equally popular. About 100 trippers from Lachute took advantage of the cheap rate.

In 1939 tax payments per family in Canada averaged out to less than $300 a year. The current figure is about $2,000.

Don't Let Them Slow Down

There is a good crop of grain this fall, and so far it has been well saved. The temptation of going to the grain bin for your growing pullets' ration is very tempting.

REMEMBER, you have very little control of the age at which your pullets start to lay, that is mostly controlled by heredity. But you do have control of the SIZE OF THE PULLET when she does start to lay, and if she is well grown and large when she starts, you will be getting a lot fewer small eggs — and that difference alone will more than pay for the better feed you use.

Going to the grain bin is just like grabbing the nickels and letting the quarters roll past.

Again, the grain is still immature until it is stored for a while and has had time to dry out; and heat is dangerous to feed, and may cause heavy losses.

Also, while some grain is useful, it lacks variety of proteins, is heavy in fibre and lacks variety, and it is much more useful as a fattening feed than for a growing ration. Feed it to the roosters, and feed the pullets PURINA.

By following the Purina Startena, Growena and Laying Plan, you will have bigger and better pullets when they are ready for the nests, and for less cost than any other feed. Of course, if you haven't been on this plan you cannot go back and start over again, but by switching today you start correcting the loss by your previous feed, and you build better pullets from now on.

Won't you let us deliver your order today! You'll be glad you did, when laying time arrives.

The dread Asiatic 'flu is the best-publicized epidemic since the Black Death. It hasn't even reached here, but it is effectively jostling sex, larceny, murder and other vital topics for space on page 1.

When someone in Canada actually catches the dread Asiatic 'flu, the newspapers will probably issue special souvenir editions to promote the disease.

I don't know which press agent is handling the Asiatic 'flu campaign, but whoever he is, the Liberals had better hire him for the next election.

Building the popularity of the Liberal party would be a hard job, but a man who can win friends for the Asiatic 'flu bug might just manage it.

No use complaining that the dread Asiatic 'flu sneaked up on us. Scarcely a day passes without a warning that some ship is bound for a Canadian port loaded with germs from hatch to bilge, or a flight of infected albatrosses or a school of sick whales steadily moving toward us; or a delegation on its way from Singapore to present a silken swab of 'flu germs to the mayor.

Without exception, to my knowledge, every single bulletin about the dread Asiatic 'flu has turned out to be a false alarm.

Only Stomach-Ache

There seemed some hope for a time that the cruiser HMCS Ontario was bringing home a shipment of Asiatic 'flu, but after a few days, crestfallen naval information officers had to announce that there was nothing wrong with the boys but stomach-ache, foot-rot and other minor ills that sailors pick up in tropical seaports.

The U.S. Navy, the U.S. Air Force and missionaries returning on furlough were reported at various times to be carrying 'flu bacteria among their souvenirs. But they all let us down, too. Yellow fever, smallpox, hives, prickly heat, yes. Asiatic 'flu, no.

So we are still waiting. Meanwhile the news services are sending out descriptions of Asiatic 'flu, so that we will recognize it when it does get here, and give it the honorable welcome that a visiting VID (Very Important Disease) deserves.

It is hard to identify. For one thing, it feels exactly like the commonplace native 'flu that grows right here. You get a chill; then a temperature of 102 or so; sore throat, cough and headache; maybe, sore muscles. You'll feel bad for four or five days. The 'flu isn't often fatal. Go to bed and stay there for a while.

In fact, the doctors say, Asiatic 'flu is no more severe than ordinary 'flu. The symptoms are the same. The only way you can tell you have had the dread Asiatic 'flu is to get a laboratory test.

Come to think, if Asiatic 'flu is the same as North American 'flu, what's the advantage of having it? I think I'll stay with the home-made product.

Lachute Lady Died Suddenly

Late Mrs. Thos. Milnes

The death of Mrs. Thos. Milnes, a well known townslady and East Ward resident, occurred suddenly this week. Her demise, in the early hours of Wednesday morning, followed a seizure last Sunday. She had been taken to the Ross Memorial Hospital in Montreal.

Mrs. Milnes (the former Martha Ann Wolstenholme) came with her husband and family from Bury, Lancashire, in 1925. She was a faithful worker in the St. Simeon's Anglican Church, a past-president of the Guild of that church, also a member of Lachute Women's Institute. She was favorably known in many circles of town activity.

The late Mrs. Milnes was in her 66th year and had enjoyed comparatively good health. She is mourned by her devoted husband, a son and a daughter — Mr. Sam Milnes and Mrs. I. W. Jones (Joyce), also two granddaughters and a grandson, all of Lachute. She is survived also by her sister, Mrs. Thos. Iddon, of Lachute, and a sister in Bury, England, Mrs. Wm. Atkinson.

Sincere sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved family and relatives.

Funeral service will be held Friday at 2.30 p.m. in St. Simeon's Church, with interment in Lachute Cemetery. The remains are resting at the MacKimmie Funeral Home.

Births, Marriages, Deaths, etc.

Births, Marriages, Deaths, and In Memoriam, etc., $1.00; 5 cents per type line extra for verses, with In Memoriam (estimate 8 words per type line).

BIRTHS

BEERS — To Mr. and Mrs. Bain Beers (née Marilyn Mitchell) at the Grace Hospital, Ottawa, on Aug. 20, a son, Michael Donald, 7 pounds 7½ ounces.

BLAIR — To Gordon and Audrey (McOuat) on Aug. 8, 1957, a seven-pound daughter, Laurie Jill, at the General Hospital, Edmonton, Alta.

DEWAR — Hartland and Carmen (née Faubert) are happy to annouce the birth of their daughter on Aug. 15, 1957, at the Providence Hospital, Lachute; both well.

READE — Shirley and Jack Reade of Collins Bay, Ont. (formerly o Brownsburg and Lachute) announce the arrival of their adopted son, Robert Linscott Reade, age 4 weeks.

DEATH

STEWART — In hospital, Ottawa on Monday, Aug. 19, 1957, John R Stewart, of 127 Hinton Avenue, Ottawa, beloved husband of Hazel Leishman, in his 61th year. Service held in Hulse & Playfair Chapel 315 McLeod Street, Ottawa, yesterday at 2 p.m.; interment at Dunning Cemetery, East Templeton, Que.

Appeal Court Ruling Upholds Jehovah Sect

Quebec (CP) — The Quebec Court of Appeals has ruled that members of the Jehovah's Witnesses religious sect can attend Roman Catholic schools in the province without taking religious instruction and participating in religious exercises.

Six of seven judges hearing the appeal of Cajetan Chabot against the Roman Catholic School Commission of Lamorandiere Township near Amos in Northwestern Quebec, upheld the appeal. The decision reversed a ruling by Superior Court in 1955.

Mr. Chabot asked for a court order to have his two children reinstated at the school after they were expelled for refusal to take part in religious exercises.

The Superior Court held the children must take the religious instruction which is on the curriculum of all Catholic schools in the province. The Witnesses objected the ruling was an infringement on the religious freedom of the sect.

The Appeal Court ordered the commission to reinstate the children and exempt them from the religious classes.

In the township where the children live there is only one school. It is run by the Catholic board. The Witnesses held this board was responsible for the children's education.

The case was the first in the province to be heard by seven Appeal Court judges, a majority of the whole court.

Farewell Party

A pleasant event occurred last Thursday when a number of Arundel residents honored Mr. and Mrs. W. Davidson with a surprise farewell party. About 60 persons took part in the occasion. During the evening, Mr. J. Macaulay presented Mr. and Mrs. Davidson with a going-away present, in the form of a sum of money. Mr. Davidson thanked the donors on behalf of himself and his wife, and the evening closed with the serving of refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Davidson wish to take this opportunity to thank their many friends for the wonderful surprise they enjoyed. They will be leaving Arundel at the end of the August, and will take up residence at St. Anne's, where Mr. Davidson will be teaching. All good wishes go with them on their new venture; they will be greatly missed in Arundel.

Women's Institute

The monthly meeting of the Arundel Women's Institute Branch was held last Wednesday evening, with Mrs. Sosnkowski presiding. After the business session, the program was in charge of Mrs. R. Moss, publicity convener, and took the form of two films kindly loaned by the C.N. Railways, presenting a train trip from Prince Edward Island across the prairies to Vancouver, showing points of interest in the principal cities en route. At Vancouver the itinerary continued aboard ship up the inland passage to Skagway. The films were all colored, adding much to their scenic beauty, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all. At the conclusion, Mrs. Bulley thanked Mr. A. Graham for kindly operating the projector. Quite a few guests shared the enjoyment of these travel pictures.

Services in Grace Church on Sunday, August 25, at 11 o'clock, will be conducted by Canon John Owen, of Grande Prairie, Alta.

$1,000 From St. Andrews In Preliminary Canvass For Diocesan Campaign

St. Andrews East — Last Sunday marked the opening of the campaign for the St. Jerome Diocesan Fund among summer residents of the Parish of St. Andrews. A sum of more than $1,000 has been generously subscribed to date, and a large number of summer residents remain to be called upon in the next few days.

The co-chairman of the campaign, Mr. Gilbert E. Ayers, and the chairman for St. Andrews, Mr. Georges Duhamel, wish to thank all donors for their splendid response to the appeal; acknowledgment is also given to the canvassers for their wholehearted collaboration.

The official opening of the campaign in the Parish of St. Andrews is set for September 26 next. Knowing the generosity of the local residents, success is not only anticipated but assured. The objective for the Diocese will be reached, and this region will also get its hospital!

Valley Couple Wed at Grenv'l

Higginson - Matthew

The marriage of Miss Gladys May Matthew, of Grenville, and Mr. Leslie Pattee Higginson, B.S.A., of Hawkesbury, was solemnized in St. Matthew's Church, Grenville, on August 17.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Ross Matthew, of Grenville, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pattee Higginson, of Hawkesbury.

The Rev. P. R. Stote performed the ceremony, in a setting of white and pastel gladioli. The soloist was Mr. Garth Dawson, of Montreal and the organist was Mrs. Russell Owens.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Melvin Matthew, the bride chose a floor-length, belling Enfanta skirted gown of white Duchess lace over white stain. The fitted bodice had a portrait neckline and short sleeves, with matching lace mittens. Her headdress was an elbow-length veil of tulle illusion held in place by a lace crescent cap. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Helen Whytock, of Montreal, who wore a cocktail-length gown of pale blue silk organza over taffeta with an inset of Chantilly lace. Her headpiece and mittens were of matching organza; her shoes were pale blue. The bridesmaid's nosegay was of white and pink carnations.

The two little flower girls, Dawna Matthew, niece of the bride, and Connie Higginson, niece of the groom, had identical dresses of pink nylon with pearl-studded smocking; pink nylon headdresses and gloves. Their nosegays were of white and pink carnations.

The best man was Mr. Glen Wagner, of Port Elgin, Ont., and the ushers were Mr. Ronald Matthew, brother of the bride, and Mr. Lawrence Higginson, brother of the groom.

Following a reception at the Legion Hall in Lachute, the happy couple left on a trip to Western Ontario. For travelling, the bride wore a white and green sheath dress of figured polished cotton, with a full-length green linen duster, black patent leather accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations.

They will take up residence in Hawkesbury, where the groom is on the staff of the Hawkesbury District High School

25th Wedding Anniversary

Last Saturday evening about 50 friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Dwyer gathered at the Legion Hall for a surprise party on the occasion of their 25th anniversary. Mr. Keith Hickson was master of ceremonies and Mr. Thos. Hall, of Brownsburg, made the presentation of a cheque, for a kitchen set. The gathering enjoyed dancing games, and refreshments were served.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. R. C. Black and family of Montreal, and Mr. and Mrs. Welden McCabe, of La Tuque, Que.

a conference in New York, and while driving through the State of Maryland, where I have heard stories of anti-Negro feeling, we spotted an ice cream stand, off to the side of the highway. The three of us were dressed in sports shirts and while I waited in the car, the other two 'members of the cloth went to the stand. . .

"They were eventually served, and while paying their sixty cents, the 'white' behind the counter asked why they were were wearing crosses. When informed that they were ministers, the clerk told them that there was 'no charge for members of the cloth or state policemen'."

In mentioning the "Alabama Situation" and the "Montgomery Boycott", the Rev. Michael explained by saying, "A few of the majority of the population became tired and disgusted with the transportation system. The straw that broke the camel's back, however, was that whites would enter the front of the bus and Negros would enter, pay their fare at the front of the bus and then walk to the rear; in the meantime, in many cases, the bus would pull away, leaving the passenger standing on the sidewalk.

"The law says you sit from the front to the back — and I sit from the back to the front. I must give way and move back to the last seat, and eventually stand, if the situation arises. All the people asked for was similar conditions as are found in any civilized country — that is, first come, first served."

The Clinton (Tennessee) School Affair arose from "forces from without," according to the pastor. "All that was being asked was that Negro children be allowed to attend school and the best school available. In many cases, Negro children had to by-pass several first-class white schools in order to attend a third or fourth-class Negro school.

"In Charlotte, the next school term will see the first integrated schools; and we do not expect anything to happen. At the end of the last term, 35 Negro girls and boys made application to transfer to what have in the past been all-white schools, and to date, five of the applications have been accepted. These children will, if left alone, attend school in as much peace and harmony as they did last year.

"The Negro in Charlotte has been blessed, as far as schools are concerned, as the teachers must have their Master's degree, or be working towards it, before they can teach in High School. It has been said that there is no other place where you will find so many people with their Doctorate, and the reason for this is, simply, that there is no other place that will accept them."

In speaking of the Bridge family living in an all-Negro community, the visitor said, "I expected no repercussions on their coming into the community. There are some people who will stay away rather than meet them; there are others who will question their servants in an effort to find out what the Canadian is preaching about. But I am sure he is the master of the situation, and will do credit to himself and the community from which he comes, as well as the one in which he is now living."

"I do not feel my responsibility is as great as his, as I am not being scrutinized in the same manner; and I am sure my family feels the same way about it. It is our first visit to Canada and I realize we are the only members of our racial group in this community. It does not offend us in the least to see children pull back on Mummy's hand to tarry and look us over!"

When questioned on the Bridge family being accepted by the white residents of Charlote, the Rev. Michael stated he was afraid time might not permit the Rev. Bridge to meet as many whites as will want to meet him. "I know he will meet many of my friends, and I have been informed that whites have been in the congregation to hear him preach. The ones who want to hear him will go — and the others won't bother him."

The Rev. Mr. Michael, who was introduced by Rotarian Wes Freeland and thanked by Rotarian Berry Bourne, was presented with a book on the ideals of Rotary. The meeting was opened with the singing of "O Canada", and closed with "The Queen."

Business Girl Is Recent Bride

Robidoux - Edwards

At the St. Julien Parish Church last Saturday, marriage vows were pledged by Miss Georgette Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edwards, of Lachute Mills, and Mr. Charles Robidoux, son of Mr. and Mrs. Céade Robidoux, of l'Annonciation, Que. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Raymond Fortier, of Vankleek Hill, Ont.

The bride wore a gown of snow-white Chantilly lace embroidered in nylon, with a veil of the same material held by a tiara of rhinestones, and carried a bouquet of pink roses and lace.

The bride was accompanied by her father and attended by two fellow-members of the Enfants de Marie assembly.

During the nuptial mass, Miss Claudette Danis sang sacred selections to the organ accompaniment of Mr. J. P. Roy.

Jehovah's Witnesses Missionaries Deported

Ten American missionaries were deported to Puerto Rico from the Dominican Republic on August 3 — according to A. J. Stainton, minister of the Lachute congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses. Fare was paid by the Dominican government and the missionaries were escorted under arrest to the plane.

The action is a climax to the total ban proscribing the work of Bible education conducted by the Witnesses in the Dominican Republic since 1945.

An ultimatum to the Christian Missionaries to renounce all association with the organization and cease communication with their Brooklyn, N.Y., office or leave the country, was made last month by Major General Arturo Espaillat, Minister of Security, whom the U.S. government has sought to question in the disappearance of Dr. Jesus de Galindez. Some of the missionaries have been in the country for 11 years.

According to official news sources, the Dominican Republic ban on activities of Jehovah's Witnesses was legalized by President Hector Trujillo on July 25 and the law carries heavy penalties. It was announced that over $1 million had been appropriated by the Dominican government to enforce the ban.

Mr. Stainton said a full-scale campaign to restrict the religious freedom of the witnesses has been underway since July 1. Kingdom Hall meeting places had been ordered closed and about 250 Jehovah's Witnesses were brought in for questioning. The Witnesses have been subjected to beatings and violence by police and prison guards in an effort to make them renounce all association with the movement. About 50 are now in prison, some with a sentence of two years.

Anglican Chaplain Goes to Halifax

Chaplain (P) Hugh A. Mortimer of Montreal, who has served since June, 1955, at HMCS Gloucester naval radio station near Ottawa will take up another appointment this September in Halifax.

The Rev. Hugh Mortimer, a minister of the Anglican Church, known in these parts, was at St. Stephen's Church in Buckingham, Que., before joining the Navy five years ago. Since then he has served in the Korean war theatre and at HMCS Shearwater, RCN air station near Dartmouth, N.S.

Foreknowledge Saved Noah

MANY PEOPLE of Noah's day knew God existed. Why did they perish? Because their knowledge was insufficent. Noah knew God, too, but he knew him well enough to heed his counsel. That's why he was prepared when the great Deluge came.

HOW WELL do you know God? Do you know his personal name? Do you know what his purpose with this world is? Or what the world's "time of the end" is? Do you know God's requirements for surviving this world's end? Right knowledge can lead to your salvation. . . Obtain "This Means Everlasting Life" with a free booklet by sending 50 cents — 150 Bridgeland Avenue, Toronto 10, Ont.

QUESTION: Do you know God's personal name? Find it in your own Bible, at Psalms 83:18, also at Exodus 6, verse 3.

Annual Church Service

At 2.30 p.m. Aug. 25, the annual church service will be held in the Little Kirk at Grand Fresniere. — A collection for the upkeep of the Church and Cemetery will be taken. The service will be conducted by the Rev. Malcolm Campbell, D.D., of the First Presbyterian Church, Montreal. Everybody welcome. -1p

Why is the telephone still working, Mummy?

It's most unusual when a storm affects your telephone. It's reassuring to know that it has a habit of staying on the job.

The reason is that your telephone operates from banks of giant batteries in the telephone exchange. Should power go off for any reason, these are charged by a Diesel motor standing by for just such an emergency.

So the uninterrupted service you enjoy is no accident. It takes forethought, equipment—and money. All are necessary if you are to have the best possible telephone service 24 hours a day.

Mr. Austin Manning, B.S.A., of Toronto, and Mrs. Manning, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Higginson while they attended the Matthew-Higginson wedding last Saturday.

Mrs. Douglas Scharf and children, of Eastview, are spending this week with the former's mother, Mrs. G. C. Conway. Mr. Scharf was here for the week-end.

Chaplain H. A. Mortimer, of Ottawa, spent the week-end with his parents. Chaplain Mortimer and family are leaving Ottawa shortly to take up residence in Halifax.

Mrs. Bessie Canning accompanied her sister, Mrs. Ralph Allingsham to Montreal on Sunday for the day.

Mrs. Catherine Millar, of Vankleek Hill, is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Monerieff.

Mrs. Cook, of Guelph, Ont., came to Hawkesbury to be present at the Mathew - Higginson wedding on Saturday.

Mr. Eric Lloyd, of Ville St. Michel, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cogdell, of Montreal, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Dewar.

Mr. Billy Clark, of Ottawa, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Clark.

Mr. B. J. Flaherty, B.S.A., of Richmond Hill, and Mrs. Flaherty attended the Matthew-Higginson wedding here on Saturday.

Morin Heights

The Morin Heights Women's Institute held a home-cooking sale on Saturday on the lawn of the United Church. The proceeds were proof of the success of the event, over $50 being realized.

Friends of Mr. J. Lussier were sorry to learn that he was a patient in the St. Jerome Hospital, having fallen and broken his elbow. All take this opportunity to wish him a speedy recovery.

Old Resident Passes

The people of this community were sorry to learn of the passing of one of its oldest residents last week, in the person of Mr. Ferdinand Belisle. Mr. Belisle had been in failing health for some time, and passed away at his home on August 12. Sympathy is extended to his family in their loss.

Picnic Held

Morin Heights United Church held its annual Sunday School picnic at Elder's Farm on Wednesday of last week. There was a good attendance, and the usual races were enjoyed by the children, and prizes awarded. Despite the dull day, all reported a most enjoyable time.

Mr. and Mrs. Colin Cameron and family have been spending a few days in Cookshire recently, visiting with Mrs. I. Cork.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Fayet and daughter, Carol, of Montreal, were recent guests of the former's mother, Mrs. E. C. Fayet.

Birthday Party

On Friday evening a number of friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mrs. Keith Seale, to extend to her birthday wishes. The group presented her with a telephone table and chair. The surprised hostess thanked the gathering for her lovely gift and the accompanying good wishes. Delicious refreshments were served and an evening of fellowship was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Seale, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Seale, were Sunday guests of Mrs. A. Murdoch in Brownsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Crawford and family, of Montreal, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. K. Seale.

Mr. Roy Williams, who has been attending Toronto University, visited friends here recently.

Mrs. O. Aldom, of Montreal, is spending a few weeks at her cottage at Lake Echo.

Mr. C. D. McGrail, of Montreal visited at Watchorn's Farm recently.

Church Event

Keep the 1st of September, at 8 p.m., an open date and plan to attend the Hymn-Sing in the Morin Heights United Church. The service will be conducted by the Young Adult Group, and there will be special music and singing.

Christening Ceremonies at Mille Isles, New Glasgow

At Christ Church, on Sunday August 11, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Carruthers received the names Gail Josephine in a christening ceremony by the Rev. Horace G. Baugh. Later in the afternoon at St. John's Chapel in New Glasgow, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Trent received the names Shelley Elizabeth Greig.

Avoca

Mr. and Mrs. Donna Currie and family are spending their holidays with the latter's parents.

Mr. Maarten den Admirant, of Kapuskasing, Ont., spent the week-end with his family, at the home of Mr. Elmer Kelly.

Mr. Percy Kelly, of Gagetown, N.B., visited his parents last week.

Mr. Claude Andrews, of Baie Comeau, spent last week at his home here.

Miss Margaret Bates, of Montreal, visited her parents last week-end.

A number from here attended a reception following the McMichael-Flood wedding, which was solemnized Saturday afternoon in the Grenville United Church.

The Rev. Mr. Swackhammer, of Temple Baptist Church, Toronto, will preach here in the Avoca Baptist Church August 25 at 3 p.m.

Miss Susan Young, of Washington, is the guest of her mother, Mrs. E. C. Young.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tomachevsky on Sunday were Mrs. S. Truhine, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Truhine, Mrs. Winnick and son, Donald, Mr. and Mrs. G. Tardiff and family, all of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Mahon and son, of Vankleek Hill, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Arthurs and family, of Avoca.

We are sorry to report the death of Mr. Walter Wilson, of Kingston, Ont., brother of Mrs. S. E. Smith and Mr. Geo. Wilson, of Montebello. Sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

Mr. and Mrs. Elden Bates and family, of Eganville, Ont., were guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elden Bates, over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Copeland, of Fergus, Ont., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith.

At St. Mary's Church, Avoca, service will be held next Sunday August 25, at 7 p.m. Holy Communion and sermon, with the Rev. Mark Beaufoy, rector.

'Guilty Party' Mystery Quiz

The listener is invited to help solve a crime in each program of the BBC series "Guilty Party" which is currently being broadcast at 10 p.m. on Monday on the Dominion network. Actors perform a short play "from the case-book of private investigator Joe McCready," written by Edward J. Mason, in which clues and red herrings are intermixed; then a panel of experts cross-examines the actors (who remain in character), who must all except the guilty party, tell the truth. The panel consists of John Arlott, broadcaster, author, poet and former police sergeant; ex-Detective Superintendent Fabian formerly of Scotland Yard; and F R. Buckley, author, explorer, broadcaster and former war correspondent.

Last Sob for Soap Operas

No more morning tears, Mother. It looks as though CBC radio soap operas have sobbed their last.

Instead, listeners will get cheerful music and enlightening news-type programs.

Proctor & Gamble has decided to end sponsorship of its four remaining Trans-Canada network daytime serials, One Man's Family, Whispering Streets, When a Girl Marries and Search for Tomorrow.

Ma Perkins has gone already, after about 20 years of family joys and woes.

"Interest in this type of serial has been dropping off for a considerable time," commented a CBC programming official.

He could give no news of any other soap operas to take over from the P & G quintet, or of any other sponsors wanting to revive them.

Another soap opera queen also falls. Laura Limited is coming to an end this summer, and Lever Bros. has no plans for a soap opera replacement.

"We will continue with our two radio serials in Quebec. Otherwise we have no more commitments," a Lever Bros. spokesman said.

Vocalist Anne Gable is the newest addition to CBC television's popular western music show "Holiday Ranch" which features Cliff McKay.

Perform 'Facade' In Ballet Setting

A work of poetry and music which caused a storm in London when first performed in 1923 will be presented on "Pacific 13" next Wednesday at 10.30 p.m. on CBC-TV. The work is "Façade", poems by Edith Sitwell and music by William Walton, and it will be performed with a background of ballet in the Vancouver studios.

"Edith Sitwell and William Walton, now respected and revered leaders and spokesmen for poetry and music, were in 1923 two rather brash and disrespectful people who spent an evening thumbing their noses at many of the then-fashionable things in music and poetry," says the producer of the new TV version, Philip Keatley.

Dorothy Davies and Peter Haworth will read the poems and the orchestra will be conducted by John Avison. The dancers will be Norman Maen, Diana Bourne and Gail Donaldson, with choreography by Beth Lockhart. The choreography will not be that of the ballet version of "Façade", which some viewers may have seen.

What annoyed the audience most at the first performance was that they couldn't hear all the words of the poems. In fact, the authors didn't expect them to. The words are simply patterns of sound which take their place as part of the instrumentation, mainly for rhythm and percussion effects.

In the years that have passed since the premiere, Keatley concludes, "many of the things that were objects of the author's scorn have disappeared or been accepted as relics of a past era. This makes 'Façade', a less controversial work today without detracting from its primary purpose, which is entertainment."

The Matthew, the small sailing ship in which John Cabot made his voyage of discovery to Canada, carried a crew of only eighteen.

Women's Interests -- The Homemaker's Section

Teatime Topics

Written Specially for The Lachute Watchman
By Mary Burke,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The kitchen of the future promises housewives a dinner cooked to perfection in a matter of minutes.

For instance, a roast beef dinner with all the trimmings, complete with vegetables and pie, can be whipped up in 50 minutes. Baked potatoes take only four minutes. . . Eggs cook in 20 seconds.

Geraldine Mann of Montreal home economist for a manufacturer of electric, gas and electronic ranges, has been demonstrating some engineering models.

"At times I've made as many as 64 cakes in a day," she said. "I've found white cakes one of the best tests and often bake as many as eight in a large test oven to see how they brown. They must brown evenly from top to bottom and side to side."

Cake — Three Minutes

A white layer cake bakes in three minutes in an electronic range, instead of the usual 25 minutes.

These ranges will cook with microwaves which stir up the molecules in the food to produce heat. The air in the range and the range itself remain at room temperature.

Miss Mann forecast that such a range would be within reach of the average household budget in a few years. Experimental models now are worth about $1,795.

"Cooking in seconds will free the homemaker from tiresome kitchen chores and give her more time to be with her family," she said. But the kitchen is where the housewife is more creative and no woman wants to be completely free of the kitchen."

Likes Travel

A 97-year-old Winnipeg woman, Mrs. Mary Ann Deverall, says the secret of longevity is activity and travel.

She likes to travel by air. "You meet so many people," she says, "and the airline stewardess looks after you."

A spry great-grandmother, Mrs. Deverall's family is spread from Trail, B.C., to Montreal. All returned home for a family reunion on her 84th birthday.

While visiting her children's families, Mrs. Deverall does her share of dishwashing, ironing and floor-polishing.

"I don't feel old yet," she said. "I never like to go to bed especially if there's company. I might miss something."

Cooking Vegetables

Vegetables are more colorful and retain more of their valuable vitamins and minerals when they're properly cooked.

The rules are simple — cook vegetables quickly in as little cooking water as possible, add butter or your favorite sauce and rush to the table.

For flavor cook several vegetables together — diced carrots, peas onions and celery. Combine vegetables with other food in stews boiled dinners, soups and casseroles or add vegetables to creamed fish, meat dishes or scrambled eggs.

A good idea is to use more raw vegetables in salads, such as raw mushrooms, cauliflower, then slices of raw beets, broccoli buds.

Meringues made with the proportion of 1 egg white, 2 level tablespoons of granulated sugar and ½ teaspoon baking powder have a finer texture, larger volume and taste wonderful.

Q.W.I. President Returns From Ceylon Conference

Mrs. G. D. Harvey, of Quebec Women's Institutes, arrived home from a globe-encircling tour made entirely by air.

Mrs. Harvey, who has been attending the 8th International Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World in Ceylon, says the trip was wonderful but strenuous. It will take time to sort out all the impressions, not only of the conference itself but the sights at all the many stops along the way.

A full schedule of meetings and entertainments kept everyone busy at the Conference, which was held in Colombo. Mrs. Harvey stated the Institute is doing wonderful work in Ceylon, and spoke of the training centres many of which were equipped through the UNESCO Gift Coupon Scheme, sponsored by the ACWW. Canadian Institutes shared in this project.

A "summing up" meeting was held when the Canadian delegates reached London. This was conducted by their leader, Mrs. J. W. Adams, president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, at the home of Mrs. Graham Spry, the FWIC representative on the ACWW Executive Committee.

Brownies Can Be Even Better!

Better than "the kind Mother used to make," and prettier, too . . these Brownie Alexanders add a creamy cheese filling to the rich chocolate squares. You'll find this heightens the eye appeal as well as the lusciousness of a brownie. Brownie Alexanders are real lip-smackers.

Another tip to the hostess concerns iced coffee, which is an appropriate drink to serve with Brownie Alexanders. Try using simple home-made sugar syrup as the coffee sweetener. It permeates the coffee without a lot of spoon-stirring. Adds to the good flavor, too.

Freshly-baked Alexanders are sure to please the epicure as well as the just plain hungry. Make plenty; they'll be no leftovers.

Brownie Alexanders

Chocolate Mixture — ¾ cup shortening, 3 squares (3 oz.) unsweetened chocolate, 3 eggs, 1½ cups sugar, 1½ cups sifted cake flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons vanilla.

Melt shortening and chocolate together over hot water. Beat eggs; add sugar gradually white beating. Stir chocolate mixture into egg mixture; beat hard one minute. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt; add with vanilla to chocolate-egg mixture.

Cheese Mixture — ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 cup dry Cottage chese, 1 egg (beaten), 2 tablespoons milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon salt.

Cream sugar and butter; blend in cornstarch. Add remaining ingredients; mix well.

To Combine. — Spread half of chocolate mixture in bottom of rectangular pan, 13x8x2 inches. Pour cheese mixture over chocolate layer. Spread remaining chocolate mixture over cheese (the two mixtures will "marble" slightly and this can be accentuated with a spoon, if desired). Bake in moderate oven, 350°F., 40 to 45 minutes; cool. Cut in squares or bars.

GOVERNMENT-HELD BUTTER TO BE SOLD

Ottawa, Aug. 14—The Hon. D. S Harkness, Minister of Agriculture, announced today that it is the intention of the Agricultural Prices Support Board to offer Board stocks of butter at 63 cents per pound. This selling price represents the cost of these stocks to the Board, including the estimated average carrying charges to the time of sale.

Full details of selling and distribution methods will be made public at a later date when the butter is needed in the market to supplement current production.

ISOTOPES HELP STUDY OF BODY

Montreal (CP) — Researchers at McGill University's anatomy department are using radio-active tracers to study how the body replaces its wornout cells.

Billions of dead cells are cast off by one's body each day; millions are ejected when one coughs.

More Recipes for Jams and Jellies

SPICED PEACH AND PLUM JELLY

Yield — about 9 medium glasses (4½ lbs. jelly).

4 Cups juice (about 2½ lbs. ripe peaches and 1½ lbs. ripe plums), 1 teaspoon cloves, 5 cups (2½ lbs. sugar, 1 box powdered fruit pectin.

First, prepare the juice. Crush thoroughly about 2½ pounds fully ripe peaches and 1½ pounds fully ripe plums. (Do not peel or pit. Add 1 cup water; bring to a boil and simmer, covered, 10 minutes. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Measure 4 cups juice into a very large saucepan. Add cloves.

Then make the jelly. Measure sugar and set aside. Add powdered fruit pectin to juice in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim off foam with metal spoon, and pour quickly into glasses. Cover jelly at once with ⅛ inch hot paraffin.

MARASCHINO CHERRY, PEACH AND PINEAPPLE CONSERVE

½ Cup chopped maraschino cherries, 2½ cups prepared peaches (about 2½ lbs ripe peaches), 1 cup canned crushed pineapple, ¼ cup lemon juice (2 lemons), 1½ cups chopped nut meats, 7½ cups (3½ lbs.) sugar, 1 bottle liquid fruit pectin.

First, prepare the fruit. Chop fine about ½ cup marashino cherries. Measure ½ cup into a very large saucepan. Peel and pit about 2½ pounds soft ripe peaches. Chop very fine and grind. Measure 2½ cups into saucepan with cherries. Add pineapple. Squeeze the juice from 2 medium-sized lemons. Measure ¼ cup into saucepan with fruit.

Then make the conserve. Add nut meats and sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid fruit pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover conserve at once with ⅛ inch hot paraffin.

GRAPE JELLY AND BUTTER

Yield — about 11 medium glasses (5½ lbs.) jelly and 11 medium glasses (5½ lbs.) butter.

Requires — about 6 lbs. ripe Concord grapes, 5½ lbs. sugar, and 2 boxes (2¼ oz. each) powdered fruit pectin.

First, prepare the fruit. Stem about 6 pounds fully ripe Concord grapes and crush thoroughly. Add 2 cups water; bring to a boil and simmer, covered, 5 minutes. Place in a large sieve lined with a double thickness of cheesecloth. Drain and measure 5 cups juice into a very large saucepan. Use juice for making jelly; use fruit remaining in sieve for making butter.

Grape Jelly

Second, make the jelly. Measure sugar and set aside. Add powdered fruit pectin to juice in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim off foam with metal spoon, and pour quickly into glasses. Cover jelly at once with ⅛ inch hot paraffin.

Grape Butter

Then make the butter. Measure sugar and set aside. Put fruit pulp through sieve. Measure 5½ cups pulp into a very large saucepan. Add powdered fruit pectin and mix well. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim off foam with metal spoon, and ladle quickly into glasses. Cover butter at once with ⅛ inch hot paraffin.

To estimate the amount of stuffing that's needed for poultry or game, allow 1 cup of stuffing for each pound of cleaned ready-to-cook bird.

Wife Preservers

When a child's shoes become thoroughly soaked, don't hasten the drying. Stuff the shoes with paper or put shoe trees in them; rub them with saddle soap, and let them dry away from heat.

Fashions

Ever so versatile is this little jacket for it may be seen at the beach on cooler days or evenings, on a boat or in the car. A navy band is set in at the shoulder and at the patch pockets of the jacket which is of white cotton. It has a zipper front closing and knit inset. The hood comes from the pull-over blouson worn beneath and it can be dropped to form a cowl collar in back. Navy blue is used for the slim rib-knit slacks. All are interchangeable, but they go so well together that they should never have to live apart!

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Do you know what to do to keep your car from boiling over if you get stuck in a traffic jam? Here are some tips:

Every couple of minutes, race the engine moderately for about thrity seconds. Do not let the motor idle indefinitely at its lowest speed. Do not turn off the ignition even if the delay seems interminable. By racing your engine, you speed up the fan and increase the water circulation in the cooling system and radiator.

If you have automatic transmission, put it in neutral when you've stopped. Do not leave it in "drive" position.

Before a long drive in hot weather, have your service station dealer check to be sure the radiator is clean and that the fan belt is tight — doesn't slip.

Open the hood and wait for the temperature to go down. Then, using a rag or handkerchief, carefully take off the radiator cap. If you have a pressure cap, remove it at arm's length, with head averted.

Add warm or moderately cool water — not cold water. If you are forced to use very cold water, do not add it until the gauge shows the temperature is all the way down to normal.

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Outdoor Playtime

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

Play outdoors in the fresh air and the sunshine is absolutely necessary for a healthy child. There is much good play equipment such as swings, slides and jungle gyms which may be purchased. But in this "Do-It-Yourself" age parents should canvass the possibility of providing outdoor play equipment with a small investment plus patience and skill. Part of the charm in many a sand box in the backyard lies in Junior watching while father joins the four sides together, builds some low seats, and if necessary constructs supports and a top for shade.

Fresh clean sand is needed each season in most sand boxes, and often the rope on a swing should be renewed. A home-made jungle gym should include bars to climb, a slide at one end and a ladder at the other. A teeter-totter can also be provided at little cost. An old wooden ironing board firmly fastened to a wooden box can give a tiny child practice walking up and down on a slanting surface and jumping off the box without hurting himself.

Stilts made with staves and tin cans are again becoming popular. Wooden boxes can be put to all kinds of uses. Butter boxes form marvellous giant building blocks. Orange crates can store small toys and can serve as a counter for playing store, and as a doll's house. A large clean barrel, open at both ends, is great fun to climb through like a tunnel, or Junior can also balance himself on it and carefully make it roll.

If there is a lumber yard anywhere near, do take a large carton and purchase small wooden scrap pieces at a small cost. These can be converted into a marvellous set of blocks. Paint them if you like. If there is an amateur carpenter in the home, purchase lengths of two inch by two inch, and saw these lengths into two sets of blocks of similar size.

A child loves a tiny house of his or her own. What fond memories we have of a "lilac house" and a box which once moved a piano, which was converted into a club room! A tepee can be made with poles, tied at one end and the other ends spread in a circle, and covered with rugs or sacking. One father made his children a house with a simple framework covered with awning material. A permanent playhouse with a door and tiny windows delights the royal children even as their mother and their Aunt Margaret once played in it. Even a card table, with a large factory cotton sheet draped over it, with a door which lifts up and cellophane covered windows, can be a source of great fun for months.

The very hot days bring not only demand for cool drinks and ice cream, but an insistent plea from children that they may be allowed to play with water. Mud pies are a mussy business in a mother's eyes, but these mud "creations" are peculiarly appealing to pre-school children. Small boys revel in a little square of ground where they can make lakes, rivers, dams, and all sorts of other landscape features needing many trips to the water tap. A cleaner "playing-with-water" game is that of sailing small boats such as a half shell of an empty walnut with a tooth pick mast and paper sail in a large sub-

Could it be that aerating shallow lakes during the winter makes for bigger and better fish come spring? Certainly it is argued that increasing the oxygen content of such lakes does away with winter-kill. That argument is held particularly by the White Rock Fish Club at Kilmar, who have voted funds to expand their inexpensive winter aeration system, continuing a two-year experiment which they feel has done away with winter-kill — the death of fish due to lack of oxygen.

The spring of 1955 was a bad one for the club. A great many of their prized trout died, and lack of sufficient oxygen was said to have been a contributing factor.

Scientists argue about the effectiveness of this experiment. But, club members feel the fact that there were no winter-killed fish to be found last spring or the spring before, and the fact that bigger and better fish are being caught each year, indicates that they are improving the winter living conditions of the fish.

The principle of their ice-clearing operation at Kilmar is a simple one. It was first introduced into Canada by Atlas Copco Canada Limited to keep water in harbours, docks, channels and log ponds free of ice. The Kilmar club saw it as a means of adding life-giving oxygen to their lake.

Basically, a compressor forces air through a perforated polythene pipe which lies near the bottom of the lake. Relatively "warm" water is brought to the surface by the bubbles, and this results in a patch of open water on which the wind can act. The oxygen content of the lake in the immediate area s increased by wind-action and also by the addition of the air pumped through the polythene pipe. The big question still unanswered is whether or not the oxygen is being carried to other parts of the lake.

Club members Charlie Brown and Jack Scott at Kilmar, who played a large part in the installation of the system, claim the fish that survived the 1955 winter-kill have grown large and healthy. The lake was stocked three years ago with rainbows from Gus Morris's hatchery at Dalesville, and speckled trout from the provincial hatchery at St. Faustin.

Apart from being non-corrosive, one advantage of using polythene pipe is that it floats and can easily be anchored just above the silt bottom. The club does this by running lines from bar-iron weights. Materials for the system, including the compressor, came to less than $700 and the club estimates their electricity bill for the compressor at about $5 a month.

Lake Sir John Boys Place First in League

Lake Sir John ball team, after playing a brilliant season and keeping constantly in first place during the summer's games, recently placed first in the league championship by trouncing Dalesville Daredevils with a score of 24-15.

The boys played a terrific game and were leading 19-0 at the end of the fifth inning. The most outstanding players were Jackie Lawrence, Jimmy Adams, Bobbie Newsome, Roy Naef, Ronnie Newsome, Réal Cayer, Bobby Dynes and Jimmy Alderson. The pitcher, Gilles Bernard, was also in top form.

The game, umpired by Mr. Roy LaCelle, proved exciting, and the cheering, led by Diane Newsome, helped the boys along to their victory.

Two other teams, from Lakefield and North River, are competing in this four-team league, and on Labor Day a final game will be played to decide the winners of the Grand Championship cup, presented each year by Mr. J. Thompson.

Colford Lodge Winning Streak Runs to 19

Last Thursday Colford's Lodge ball squad defeated North River "A's" on their home diamond 9-1. Errors played a big part in this game, or the score would have been a lot more even. After the first three innings the score was tied one-all; then Colford's drove across three runs in the fourth and fifth innings, which ended the scoring. The game was called at the end of the sixth on account of darkness.

"Iron Man" Jean-Guy Larocque won another double-header last Sunday, defeating Dow Intermediates, of the Snowdon Intermediate League 12-3. Larocque struck out 18, and was in complete charge all the way. Fernand Larocque blasted a home-run and Jacques Leveillé a triple, to lead Colford's at the bat.

Vankleek Hill almost upset Colford's in the second game, but the Lodge team outlasted them 9-8. Colford's had to come from behind by three runs twice to gain the victory. Vern Poirier won the game with a double, to score two runs in the last inning. Mel Stewart hit a four-bagger in the first inning with the bases empty. Eddie Moore started at the plate for the winners, picking up seven hits for eight times at bat in the two games. This game was one of the worst exhibitions of ball Colford's have played this season. They dropped easy flies, booted ground balls, and threw the ball wild on the bases. Only their power at the bat saved the game. Jean-Guy Larocque was the winning pitcher and Rodger Matt the loser.

Next Sunday Colford's will play host to Aviation Electric of Montreal; game time, 2 p.m.

Art Association President Reports Exploratory Tour

To Four Current Exhibitions Gleaning Ideas and Practices To Promote County Art Centre

Contributed by A. G. Talbot, Brownsburg

This past week-end a trip was made to the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, to the Cowansville Art Association, to the Granby Association and to the St. Helen's Island Art Exhibition — with the purpose of observing the practices and ideas of others, as to the place that the Argenteuil Art Association should be filling in our community. . .

Starting Saturday morning, our first stop was the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts where the Niarchos collection of paintings, formerly owned by Edward Robinson, was on view. This collection, which will next be exhibited in Ottawa, has been described in the press in detail by competent reviewers. Everyone has his "likes"; our favorite was the small Renoir "Girl in Pink Dress". Many were attractive, some not, some even repulsive. On getting into conversation with another fan, he turned out to be a professional commercial artist, and a hobby painter in his spare time. We pointed out three paintings that to us had particular appeal but we did not know why. He devoted considerable time in explaining to us the particular virtues of these separate paintings, that is, he explained the reasons these particular paintings had "likeableness".

Having lunch at the nearby Horse's Head Inn, we overheard four girls from Chicago talking of the next part of their trip to Quebec City. As they were departing we told them of the Art Gallery just across the street, of this outstanding exhibition that was open to the public. They were pleased to hear of it and their memories of Montreal will be brighter for having enjoyed a visit to the Art Gallery. . .

That is an example of Art in a community. (Over 100,000 have attended this exhibition.)

Via Victoria Bridge to Cowansville — an attractive town of 5,500 people. Attractive streets, trees and homes, on both sides of the Yamaska River. Its industries include the Bruck Mills Ltd., Villas Furniture Co., a leather company and several smaller firms. There is a golf course five minutes from the centre of town. Churches of all denominations; a large home, of the early Nesbitt family, built in 1881, now being remodelled to become an Elderly People's Home, an experiment in Social Welfare where the tenants can pay part of the cost — not a 100% charity institution. The Nesbitt family held the early water power and timber rights on this section of the Yamaska River.

With the hour approaching, we drove to the Bruck Club House on the Main Street. An old residence with high, semi-circular topped windows, high ceilings and augmented lighting, it is an ideal situation for an exhibition by one of the members of our Argenteuil Art Association — Mrs. Vivian Walker, together with an exhibition by Mrs. Dorothy McLarren. Mrs. Walker exhibited some of those canvases seen in her St. Andrews exhibition, with many additions. It was remarked how the improved lighting brought out the attractive colors, which had previously not been fully appreciated. Mrs. Walker had 36 paintings, and Mrs. McLarren 28 — a beautiful exhibition attractively hung. We gleaned information on better, simpler methods of hanging paintings for our future exhibitions.

These paintings are hung on the first and second floors of the attractive building. The third floor, also with excellent lighting, is used as a common studio available at all times, where painting equipment and easels can be left between sessions.

On the bulletin board was an offer for a 10-lesson course of instruction by a professional artist, at fees of $12.50. Twenty signatures were on the notice. Provision for development of a hobby by members, $250 income for an artist. — Another effect of an Art Association in a community.

This organization was started only a year ago under the leadership of Mrs. L. S. Lee, with the co-operation of Mme Picard of the Granby Art Association and of John Steegman of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts. The president is now Mrs. W. D. Smith.

July 6 — Opening ceremony by Dr. Wilder Penfield, attendance over 300. — Katheleen Norris, A.R.C.A., Beatrice Hampson, Nora Collyer, Ethel Seath, Ann Savage, Mabel Lockerby.

July 20 — Independent Art Club of Montreal.

Aug. 10 — Oils, watercolors, sculpture by Andrey Zadoroznz.

Aug. 24 — Mrs. Vivian Walker and Mrs. Dorothy McLarren.

Sept. 15 — Mrs. Jean Gauthier.

Sept. 30 — Exhibition of loan contributions from members.

(This item is an idea for the Argenteuil Art Association, to exhibit the favorite "I like" paintings of locals, who do not claim to be collectors.)

We decided to stay overnight in Cowansville, and in the evening drove to nearby Dunham to see the Ladies' College there, and to Knowlton to visit friends. After breakfast we inspected the Nesbitt home rehabilitation and then drove to Granby.

Here is another feature of an Art Association in a community: Between a gas tank operator and the hotel, over $15.00 was left on our visit to Cowansville. . . We also met a resident of Cowansville at Mrs. Walker's exhibition who had driven to one of our exhibitions this year and quite probably had spent a corresponding amount in Argenteuil County — but it is doubtful if any local service station operator, publican or restaurant keeper attributed any of their increased income to the Argenteuil Art Association!

Arriving in Granby, we enquired as to the location of the exhibition and whether it was open on Sunday. The young lady clerk in the drugstore voluntarily made three

English Publishers Impressed by Lachute Golf Club

A group of master printers and publishers, presently visiting this country from England, were in Lachute last Monday to gather a quick impression of a well-equipped rural publishing house.

On the tour of inspection as guests of Mr. R. A. Giles, their visit to The Watchman was followed by a drive around the industrial section of town and an introduction to Lachute Golf Club, which drew their special admiration. Members of the party claimed they had greens comparable, or better, on English golf courses, but nothing to exceed the conveniences and appointments of the chalet here in Lachute.

The small contingent visiting Lachute comprised only a portion of the organized party, all members of the British Newspaper Society, who will make a cross-country tour and join with the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association convening in Banff, Alta., next month. The members entertained by The Watchman included — Mr. Fred Johnston, of Falkirk, Scotland; Mr. Truman H. Wiltshire, of London; Mr. Kenneth Brown, of London; and Mr. Donald Comer, of Felixstowe, Suffolk — accompanied by Mr. Ken Campbell, publisher of the Northern Beacon, Ste. Therese.

Prior to visiting Lachute they inspected the plant of the Notre Dame de Grace Monitor in suburban Montreal.

Blind Folk Win Awards at C.N.E.

Canadian National Institute for the Blind is proud to report that three members of the Argenteuil White Cane Club have been successful with their entries in the competition staged annually at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

Miss Doris Austin, of Lachute, won first prize with her leather wallet; Mrs. Roger Ladouceur, of Lachute, received third prize for her entry of a child's dress; and Mrs. Fred Jordan, of Brownsburg, receive third prize in the knitting group.

This is the first time that any of the local blind have won prizes at the C.N.E. There is a general agreement that there will be more local entries in next year's competition, and that the third prize winners will be aiming for the top honors.

Ballet Classes to Start September

A reception committee consisting of Mrs. R. Valois, Mrs. J. Thorpe, Mrs. L. Duncan and Mrs. E. Gow, met Miss T. Fischel, a representative of the Elizabeth Leese Ballet School, here in Lachute last Monday evening. Miss Fischel has just returned from teaching at the National Ballet Summer School, in Toronto.

Arrangements have been made to divide the pupils into three classes according to age, with not more than 20 children in each. The course will consist of 32 lessons, starting in September and running until May, with a short recess for Christmas and Easter. Full details have not been finally arranged, but it is hoped to have these classes on Thursdays. At the moment it would appear that the fees will be $25 for the season.

Further details will be announced in the near future, and enquiries may be made through the above committee.

Landmark Gone From Lachute's Industrial Skyline

One of the not-too-numerous smoke stacks on Lachute's skyline disappeared within the past month, and with it, an old established mill enterprise which bears a long and colorful record of proprietorships. The site of the Dawson Sawmill, on the river's edge between Clyde and Hope Streets, is now literally as clean as a whistle. Owned by Mr. Lorne Dawson for the past 12 years, the building was latterly torn down and sold by auction, and the mill machinery was purchased by the Green Lane Lumber Company, of Hawkesbury. It is understood the land also is offered for sale.

Mr. Dawson has retired from the lumber business, and has no plans for further business activities.

The story of this mill, from its construction in 1900, records transfers and re-transfers forgotten by many of our old-timers. It has been operated consistently as a sawmill, but during one of its proprietorships at least (when owned by the late J. D. Campbell) it served a dual role as a saw and grist mill.

Records in the County Registry Office show that Lot No. 781 was sold by the Town in March 1900 to Hugh Gall — the mill probably being built by Mr. Gall in that year. Subsequent purchases and transfers of the property read as follows:

1905—sold to James D. Campbell
1907—sold to W. J. Boyd
1908—sold to W. J. Graham
1910—sold to J. D. Campbell
1910—sold to Robert MacEntyre
1912—sold to J. D. Lemay
1912—sold to O. B. Lafleur
1915—sold to J. D. Campbell
1919—sold to Henry Riley
1927—sold to John Campbell
1939—sold to Donat Pharand
1945—sold to W. L. Dawson.

Provincial, Lachute and Grenville Police In Effective Collaboration, Arrest Made

Watchman Staffer Enlisted on Manhunt

— By Bob Giles, Jr. —

Close co-operation between Lachute, Grenville and Provincial Police, along with citizens and hotel-keepers, resulted in the arrest Tuesday evening of Paul Emile Allard, 25, of Carillon, prime suspect in a robbery early Tuesday morning at the Yvon Cadieux jewelry store, Main Street, where $1,709 worth of watches and other merchandise was stolen, the show window smashed with an unidentified object.

The robbery occurred at approximately 12.25 Tuesday morning and I was first asked to join in the search by Lieut. Oscar Sabourin, who had seen a man answering the description of Allard in the immediate vicinity of the burgularized establishment. A constant patrol of two cars was kept up in the immediate area for approximately 30 minutes, after which time I joined Chief Fernand Trépanier in the chase, being offically deputized.

The patrol area spread out, taking in all highways leading from the town and a search of the various hotels in the immediate area was made — this resulting in as close a combing as possible of the grounds between Main and Berry Streets. The search uncovered the exact route of the culprit's escape on foot, and Lieut. Sabourin recovered one of the stolen watches among the sheds in the rear of the store buildings.

Cars, railway box-cars, empty coal cars and coal sheds were searched, also the complete station area. Witnesses were questioned and the exact mode of operation used in the robbery discovered. Another intensified search of the freight shed area resulted in a report from a citizen that a man answering the description of the sought robber was seen there, and it was close to 4 a.m. by the time we returned to the Police Station and then home to bed — Lieut. Sabourin, who was on night duty, keeping up an all-night look-out for the suspect. He was accompanied in the initial search by another citizen, Gaetan Malacket.

Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen was informed of the robbery and all other information pertaining to the case, and in the early morning, he sent officers to Allard's residence at Carillon, where information was received that he had left the village some hours earlier. Montreal and other Provincial Police detachments were asked to be on the look-out for the suspect and a warrant was sworn out for his arrest.

The actual chase died down, until shortly after 10 p.m. Tuesday when a local citizen reported seeing the suspect in a Foundry Street hotel. We again headed for the area and a thorough search of Campeau's, St. Onge's, and the Windsor, resulted in additional information but no suspect. Other Lachute hotels were double-checked and, eventually, a taxi driver reported having taken the wanted man and a Montreal taxi-driver to Grenville — where we headed immediately with Provincial Traffic Officer Lawrence Cruise.

The hotel in Whisseltown was checked and the suspect found to have left "less than half an hour previous"; he was believed to be headed for Grenville. Chief Trépanier then radioed the local Police office asking them to contact Grenville Chief Laurent Davidson, and requesting that he meet us in front of the Grenville post-office. Both officers in our car were armed, expecting trouble.

We arrived in Grenville and searched the area including both hotels, only to find that the suspect had left a few minutes before our arrival and was, according to one person, "well on his way to being drunk." The search continued, and it was close to midnight, just 23 hours after the robbery, that Lieut. Sabourin telephoned Chief Trépanier to inform him that the man had been picked-up by himself and Cst. Raymond Labelle, near the C.P.R. station. He was boarding the Montreal taxi which he arrived in a few short hours previously, in the hopes of returning to Montreal.

When arrested, Allard was in possession of a watch and ring, identical in make to those reported stolen from Mr. Cadieux. Altogether, 17 men's watches, five women's watches, a man's ring and three ladies' lighters were stolen, having a total retail value of $1,709, and the two articles recovered have since been positively identified by the jewelry store proprietor.

The local suspect was accompanied by André Gagné, a Montreal taxi driver, who was detained for questioning and later Wednesday morning, released following a statement made to Police.

The suspect was questioned by Police Chief Trépanier and Sgt.-Det. Allen, arraigned in St. Jerome court and taken to jail in Montreal, where he is being held without bail on a charge of breaking and entering with theft. The accused was sentenced two weeks ago to time spent in jail in connection with a breaking and entering charge in the St. Andrews East area, laid by Sgt.-Det. Allen.

Mr. Cadieux' jewelry store was victimized in the same way December 15 last, when the show window was smashed and merchandise valued at $2,750 stolen — the miscreants apparently having made their escape in the same manner.

Near-Drowning In Carillon Canal

A Carillon boy, Gilles Castonguay, is credited with saving the life of a 11-year-old youngster, Claude Campeau, who stumbled and fell into the canal just above Lock No. 1 at Carillon, one day last week.

The Campeau boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodolph Campeau, was playing with two young companions. When he fell into the canal, the two boys hailed Castonguay, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Castonguay, who live near the river. Without hesitation young Gilles jumped in and clutched the boy by the arm as he was sinking for the third time. He managed to drag him to the edge, and with the assistance of his playmates he was hauled up the canal bank.

The boy's rescue from drowning is credited to prompt and courageous action on the part of Gilles Castonguay.

Salvation Army Red Shield Appeal

The annual Red Shield appeal of the Salvation Army is drawn to the attention of the local public, and it is the hope of Mr. Geo. Y. Deacon, district chairman, that the response will be as generous or even greater than in previous years. A sum approximating $1,000 is remitted each year from the Lachute area on completion of the canvass, to promote the Salvation Army's charitable work.

There is no personal approach in this campaign. Several hundred letters are circulated among regular and prospective donors. Any who have been inadvertently missed, but would like to contribute to this cause, may hand their gifts to the treasurer of the district committee, Mr. Donald M. Hay, at the Bank of Montreal, Lachute.

The committee responsible for this local effort includes — Geo. Y. Deacon, chairman; Donald M. Hay, treasurer; Mayor Léopold Carriere, Dr. Jules Lafleur, Dr. F. W. FitzGerald.

Local Police Clamp Down on Traffic Convictions Before Justice of Peace

A total of 29 cases were handled by Georges Brunelle, J.P., in Lachute Police Court on Tuesday evening, with fines totalling $310 plus costs.

Albert Normand, 37, of Sydney Street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace, an infraction of By-law 172, and trial was set for September 10 by the local Justice of the Peace.

Jean Lalande, of Lachute, pleaded guilty to a similar charge, and sentence will be handed down at the September court session.

Earl Wilson, of Lachute, pleaded guilty to a similar charge and was sentenced to a fine of $10 plus costs.

In commenting on the long list of traffic infractions, Police Chief F. Trépanier stated that the campaign against speeding is still on, and it is his intention to reduce the rate of violations just as fast as is humanly possible.

Pleading guilty to charges of speeding were Gerald Lapierre, 18, and Jocelyn Monette, 18, both of Lachute Mills, and Jean-Guy Presseault, 18, of St. Jerusalem, Jean-Denis Laurin, of Lachute, also Solomon Parisien, of Brownsburg, all of whom were sentenced to fines of $10 plus costs; and George Crooks, of Dunany, who was sentenced to a fine of $20 plus costs, this being his second offence.

Pleas of guilty by written admission of guilt were received from Roland Dumoulin, of St. Philippe, and André Riché, of St. Michel, both of whom paid $20 plus costs; Gaston Lepine and Henri Gauthier, both of Montreal, who paid $15 plus costs; and the following, who each paid $10 plus costs, the amount of the fine depending on the speed in each case: Murray Farnham, St. Catharines, Ont.; Barry Lusk, Luskville, Que.; Charles Grosse, Montreal; Paul A. Caron, Laval des Rapides; John Legault, Montreal; Frank Maidens, Lachute; Jos. Tessier, Brownsburg; Arnold Laubich, Bronx, N.Y.; Fabien Belisle, St. Jerome; Jean Paul St. Denis, Hull; Normand Chicoine, Montreal; Gerald Lacroix, Montreal; Georges Laporte, Outremont; Robert Manion, Montreal; Floyd Page, Calumet; and Ronald Hebert, Montreal.

Court was adjourned until September 10.

Charge Pending Against 3 Accused

Early last week, thieves broke into the Century Inn, Grenville, and made a haul of some 20 cases of beer. On Tuesday, the following night, a break-in was reported in a Plantagenet restaurant, and a short time later three Vankleek Hill residents were apprehended by Ontario Provincial Police, after becoming involved in an accident on Ontario Highway 17.

The O.P.P. officers contacted Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen here, reporting that some of the Quebec beer had been recovered, and on Monday of this week the three pleaded guilty to charges by the O.P.P.

Sentence is to be handed down September 4, after which the trio, Aurel and Florian Baron, both 22, and Campbell Ouon, 31, will answer charges in St. Jerome in connection with the Grenville theft.

Swim Tests by Red Cross Examiner

Red Cross water safety tests were staged at the Ayers swimming pool on Monday, when the official instructor and examiner, Jean-Marc Beauchesne, put the different categories and age groups through their swimming paces.

All the Junior candidates passed their prescribed tests. The successful entrants numbered 16 in this class.

In the Intermediate category there were also 16 entrants — 13 of whom passed the tests and three failed.

In the Senior and most difficult examinations, there were three successful and one unsuccessful.

A considerable crowd of children and interested adults were on hand to witness the proceedings. The Ayers Recreation Centre president, Arthur Labonté, was present with the regular supervisors who have been on duty at the pool this season. The visit of the Red Cross examiner was instigated by the efforts of Hubert Lemire, of Ayers Limited personnel department. Course of instruction was planned by the lifeguard, André Turcotte, and carried out with the collaboration of C. H. Coté and Marcel Brunette, officials at the Centre.

Area Provides Varied Grist For Court Docket

Germain Leduc, 24, of Montreal, pleaded guilty Tuesday to two charges of breaking and entering with theft, before Judge Omer Coté in St. Jerome court, and was sentenced to two years on each of the two charges, the sentences to be served concurrently.

Sgt.-Det. Allen laid the charges in connection with thefts at the Crown Theatre and Hebert Restaurants, both in Brownsburg, following robberies on the premises of both establishments late in July.

The detective reports the investigation is continuing, as others are believed involved.

• • •

Aurel Latour, 33, of Hawkesbury, was held for mental examination by Judge Coté, when he appeared Tuesday charged with indecent exposure. Trial was set for September 10.

• • •

Denis Major, 25, of Lachute, was released on bail of $100 and had his trial date set for September 10, when he appeared Tuesday on a charge of failing to provide.

• • •

Hearing in the case of a local youth was also postponed to September 10. According to Detective Allen, the accused was arrested by Lieut. Sabourin, of the Town Police, and turned over to Provincial authorities. The youth has been charged with driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol, also driving without a license, and speeding.

Local Blood Clinic For Sept. 12-13

Advance notice is given that the Red Cross blood donor clinic will be held at Lachute Auditorium on September 12-13 next. Particulars will be published next week. Meanwhile the committee is working on plans for a smooth-running and effective organization.

6 Letter Carriers Appointed

The appointment of six mail carriers is a step towards early application of the new door-to-door delivery in Greater Lachute. The appointees are — Gerard Lauzon, Wilson Black, Hubert Legault, Yvon Lemay, Gerald Dunne and Lionel Belanger.

The appointment of these new postal employees was announced last week by Postmaster F. Guitard, at the central office here. The selection was made following competitive examination at the local office.

Qualified in Red Cross Swimming Tests

When electric service is interrupted few people bother to turn the electricity off heavy appliances such as ranges, water heaters, other heating devices and motors. When service can be restored, an exceptionally heavy load is put on the system, which sometimes causes the circuit breakers to open again. Our problem is to reduce the load to the point where equipment does not have to pick up the whole load at one time.

You can help us and also help yourself.

When service is interrupted please turn off your appliances. Leave at least one light on so you will know when service is restored. As soon as the light comes on again, you can turn your appliances on again without any further delay. It only requires a few seconds of light load to enable the power houses to get back to normal.

Bank of Nova Scotia 125th Birthday Recalls History of Canadian Growth

A century and a quarter ago in Halifax, on August 29, 1832, The Bank of Nova Scotia first opened its doors to provide banking services. From that first branch on Granville Street the institution has grown until today there are 520 branches across Canada and abroad to serve the banking public.

There was a spirit of vigorous enterprise in Nova Scotia as the BNS began business. The swell of immigration had just about reached its crest. Between 1817 and 1837 the population of the Maritimes more than doubled. The fish trade with the West Indies flourished; lumber and shipbuilding industries were growing; and the now-famous coal mining industry was in its infancy. In shipping circles the idea of regular steam-packet service across the ocean was being considered, and a few years later Samuel Cunard, Halifax merchant and ship-owner, founded his company, firmly establishing ocean steam navigation.

It became apparent in this atmosphere of growth that improved banking facilities were needed. The existing bank, The Halifax Banking Company, was a private company. But on December 31, 1831, a meeting which presaged The Bank of Nova Scotia was held at the Merchants Exchange Coffee House; and at this meeting, reported in the columns of "The Novascotian" of January 4, 1832, it was decided to introduce a bill to incorporate the Bank, in the Legislature. William Lawson, who became the Bank's first president, was a member for Halifax in the Legislative Assembly, as were two other of the first 12 directors. Other sponsors included well-known tradesmen, lawyers, and merchants of the town.

The privately-owned Halifax Banking Company had powerful representation in the Upper House of the Nova Scotia legislature. It was only after much bitter debate that The Bank of Nova Scotia's Charter, incorporating the first public bank in the province, received Royal assent on March 30 1832. Authorized capital was to be £100,000, of which £50,000 had to be paid up before business could commence.

For the first 50 to 60 years, The Bank of Nova Scotia remained primarily a Maritime bank. The first branches were established between 1837 and 1839 at Windsor, Pictou, Annapolis, Liverpool, and Yarmouth.

Foreign business, so important in the Nova Scotian economy, was taken care of in the early 1830's by agencies at Boston, Saint John, and Portland, Maine, as well as in New York, and by banking connections established with Quebec and Montreal, and in London, England.

In 1876 The Bank of Nova Scotia appointed Thomas Fyshe, a Scotsman, as Cashier. Under his vigorous leadership, the Bank grew rapidly. During the 20 years of his stewardship the number of BNS branches grew from 9 to 32, the Bank purchased the Union Bank of Prince Edward Island, and opened a branch in Montreal.

Moreover, operations had been extended to the Caribbean, with the opening of a branch in Kingston, Jamaica, in 1889, and to Newfoundland where two offices were opened in 1894. It is not inappropriate that the BNS should have been the first Canadian bank to establish itself in these areas, traditionally so closely connected with Nova Scotian trade.

An episode of these years was the opening of a branch in Winnipeg, a few months before the crash in 1882 which ended the three-year real estate boom in that city. This venture led to the opening of a profitable branch in the grain centre of Minneapolis, which was later transferred to Chicago. The Winnipeg branch was reopened in 1899, and in 1900 the general office of the Bank was moved from Halifax to Toronto. A branch had been opened in Toronto three years earlier, and there was already a growing network of Ontario offices.

As the tide of population flowed westward, the Bank's branches followed, and before the beginning of World War I the Bank which started in Halifax had become a nation-wide institution.

The year 1913 saw the merging of the two oldest Maritime banks when the Bank of New Brunswick, established in 1820 under the very first charter passed in all of what is now Canada, was amalgamated with the BNS. In the following year the Metropolitan Bank, with Head Office in Toronto, was absorbed in the BNS. And, shortly after the war ended, a further amalgamation was carried through — with the old-established Bank of Ottawa, which had many branches in the Ottawa Valley and was strongly represented in Western Canada.

By 1920 paid-up capital and reserve, at $27,700,000 had increased eight-fold since 1900. . . With its present assets at well over a billion dollars, and its 520 branches ranging from Fogo and Twillingate westward to Victoria; from Dawson Creek southward to Trinidad, and including London and New York — The Bank of Nova Scotia will continue to play an ever-growing role in Canada's economy.

St. Andrews Campaign Draws Continued Support

St. Andrews East — Last Sunday, the campaign for the St. Jerome Diocesan Fund was continued among the summer residents of St. Andrews East. Once again the donations were more than generous. The Rev. Father Desorcy made a special appeal in the chapel of the L.O.C. (located in La Bale), re-emphasizing Mr. Roger Régimbal's remarks of two weeks ago when the latter gave a talk in the same chapel. Responding to Father Desorcy's appeal the tourists donated a sum of $250. Besides that amount, another sum of nearly $500 was given by summer residents, representing a total of $1,800 given to date by the summer visitors of St. Andrews.

St. Andrews East

Mrs. L. H. Bezanson and Mrs. Wallace Burry, of Montreal, visited Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Calder last week, and were their guests at 16 Island Lake for the week-end.

Mrs. Albert Dorion, accompanied by Mrs. Eric Stephens and two children, of Lachute, is spending a holiday at Ocean Park, Me.

Miss M. E. Rodger was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Rodger for the week-end.

Mrs. Wm. Neeland, of Thornhill, Ont., is visiting her cousin, Mrs. Jas. Simpson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Littlejohn returned home on Friday from Blind River, Ont., where they visited their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Littejohn. Their niece, Miss Florence Milne, is spending this week with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex McPhee returned home Tuesday from a trip on which they visited friends at Burlington, Vt., and friends at various places in the Eastern Townships. They were accompanied by Mrs. W. Green, of Montreal, who visited them for a few days.

Mrs. Paul Winters and son, Richard, are spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Eaton. Mr. Winters was with them for the week-end.

Mrs. D. Van Wely spent a few days at North Hatley with Mr. and Mrs. Ted Eberts. She spent the week-end with Miss Kally Scott in Montreal.

Terry - Foley

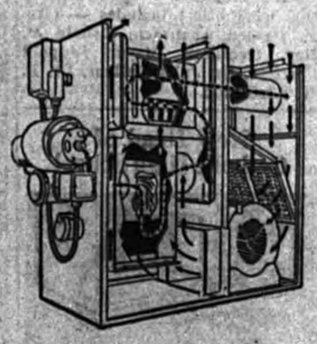

At 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, August 24, a very quiet wedding was solemnized at Fairmount - St. Giles United Church, Montreal, when Miss Monica Gray Foley, formerly of St. Andrews East, became the wife of Mr. Lee Roland Terry, of Montreal, the Rev. R. C. Belbin, B.A., B.D., officiating.

Following the ceremony the bride and groom, accompanied by Mrs. Neville, the bride's mother, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Terry, the Misses Carol and Sandra Terry, Miss Dorothy Ronald and Mr. Robert Driscoll, drove to the home of the Misses Wales in St. Andrews East, where a buffet luncheon was served. Miss Mary Lamb and Miss Margaret Taylor were also guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry left later for Burlington, New York and Philadelphia. On their return they will reside in Montreal.

Business and Humanity

IN THIS ISSUE appears a somewhat unusual message, in the form of a paid advertisement from the president of Lachute's leading industry. Under different circumstances the spirit of such a message might be misinterpreted, but knowing the source and modesty of its origin, there is none among our readers who will misconstrue it as a gesture of boastfulness.

We believe this reference by Gilbert E. Ayers to the philanthropies of his firm will come as a revelation to many who peruse it. Businesses in Lachute and elsewhere have sometimes considered themselves, perhaps with reason, as suckers for every collection, campaign and appeal, deserving and otherwise, which turned to them as a sure fountain of support. Reading the list of charities aided by Ayers Limited in the past five years, one is impressed, however, that without exception they appear worthwhile and deserving causes.

In suggesting that this record is pardonable reason for community pride, Mr. Ayers shows an attitude which lays no claim to personal applause. Ayers Limited is a name big enough, reputed enough, to symbolize the community in which it thrives. If Ayers, by consistent deafness to charity appeals, had built an ungenerous reputation — it goes without saying, that reputation would reflect unfavorably upon this town.

Lachute may be justly grateful for the policy of Ayers Limited, and of other local industries willing to share their good fortune with the needy. We can be not only grateful, but, as Mr. Ayers suggests, we can experience a certain community pride as participants in this good work.

Old Stuff

FALLING HEIR to one of those incandescent oil lanterns which have been an adjunct of farm and camp life through the years, we were mildly surprised when Junior enquired what "that thing" might be. . . Fifty years hence, if electrification proceeds at the same pace, it may have considerable value as an antique. It does become painfully apparent that things which were in daily use when you and I were youngsters, are now obsolete and objects of curiosity.

The thought occurs, that many of us today are guilty of ignoring the ingenuity of our forebears. We have made little effort to preserve the evidence of their industry and way of life — the trinkets, devices, tools and utensils — and thereby the Juniors who will some day be deep-rooted, nation-conscious Canadians, have been deprived of a wealth of potential interest.

The thought serves also to stress our debt to a few in Argenteuil County, the founders of our Historical Society, who have left us a priceless legacy from the past. They, and the donor of our Museum building, have laid a lasting basis for the preservation of our records and mementos. Insofar as this county is concerned, there can be no excuse for present neglect in this matter of conserving local history.

One of our contemporaries, The Stanstead Journal, has a comment not impertinent to this theme inspired by an incandescent oil lamp: "Having seen the many objects of local historical interest exhibited at the opening of the Stanstead Museum, we wonder what became of all the household items of a century or more ago. No doubt many relics of the past are tucked away in attics and sheds, most of them not recognized for what they are."

The Carillon Museum is a repository not for useless junk cleared from our attics, but for antiques eloquent of the past, recognizable as links with pioneer and earlier living. And with the annual meeting of the Historical Society on the program for this fall season, it may be well to adjust our attitude, and to dwell with some reverence on the aims and endeavors of its first organizers.

Rifles and Juveniles

WHETHER we approve or not, most Juniors want a gun! Having survived the cap pistol and beebee gun era, outdoor boys will come into contact with the real thing, as the hunting season approaches and Nimrods step abroad with rifles in their hands and optimism in their hearts.

Shooting is now one of Canada's largest participation sports, and over a million men and women take to the woods or shooting range every year.

It seems to be an instinct for boys to want to shoot. The problem for parents is to know when a boy is ready for a gun — when he can recognize the importance of using it properly.

According to shooting experts, a boy's maturity is the only criterion for determining if he is ready to have a gun. He may be as young as eight or as old as eighteen. Perhaps if he can be trusted with a shopping list and a ten-dollar bill, or can be left alone in the house for a number of hours, then he may be ready to handle a gun — under supervision. For he must be taught the right way. The majority of accidents can be attributed to lack of proper instruction.

Quite apart from hunting and marksmanship, handling a gun develops important skills in a boy. For whether he is duck hunting or target shooting, a good shot must have co-ordination of mind and body as well as poise, self confidence and steady nerves under pressure. For many handicapped children it is a chance to show these skills which may never have been developed in any other way.

Frank McCormick, director of the Canadian Civilian Association of Marksmen, observes: "Once a boy has the simple rules of safe shooting ingrained in him at the start, he'll usually observe them through his entire life."

Fair Means For Fowl

DUCKS AND OTHER waterfowl will still have a sporting chance when the hunting season rolls around again in Canada.

The Federal Government has outlawed the use of electronic calling devices which now apparently are in wide use in the United States, and which are described as devastatingly effective in luring hundreds of birds to the hunter's guns.

The electronic devices — actually high-fidelity recordings of various waterfowl calls that can be heard over considerable distances — first came to Canadian attention at the recent Federal-Provincial Wildlife Conference in Ottawa. And it was an American who did it. A demonstration of one of the devices by Robert H. Johnson of Washington so shocked the delegates that they promptly endorsed a resolution that they be banned in Canada.

The government acted by inserting an outlawing clause in the federal migratory birds regulations. It has teeth, too — a fine of $10 to $300 or six months in jail, or both, for anyone caught using the callers.

Federal and provincial wildlife authorities are happy over the development. They say that though the callers had not come into use in Canada, it is known that at least one U.S. manufacturer wanted to put them on the Canadian market. The banning has nipped a potential bird slaughter in the bud.

And so Canadian hunters when they go out this fall will just have to continue using the natural attributes of a good sportsman — patience and a good shooting eye — instead of falsely luring hundreds of birds within easy shooting range.

There is another electronic device being marketed for fishermen in the United States. Lowered into the water, it attracts fish by electric impulses and sound vibration. Although this isn't as devastating a contraption — since the fish still have to bite the fisherman's hook — Canadian wildlife people are keeping an eye on it.

It hasn't shown up in Canada yet, so far as is known. Federal officials say that if and when it does, it probably could be ruled illegal under provincial regulations which now prohibit use of lights and other artificial means to attract fish.

Communication from Local Postmaster —

Your Letter Carriers Appointed

It is our pleasure to announce that, following a competitive examination at the Post Office, Gerard Lauzon, Wilson Black, Hubert Legault, Yvon Lemay, Gerald Dunne and Lionel Belanger were appointed Letter Carriers.

Soon these employees, in Postal Department uniform, will deliver your mail at your door.

The Letter Carrier is a familiar person in the daily life of any town. His mail bag on his shoulder, he renders a priceless service to the community, maintaining between the Post Office, the private home and the business firm, a steady flow of communications that would not exist were it still necessary to call at the Post Office for our mail.

THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

September 1, 1882 —

Carillon — At 2 o'clock Sunday morning the American boat "John Thorpe" laden with lumber broke loose from a tow boat at the head of the new canal, and was carried over the dam.

The new brick dwelling recently put up by Mr. Robt. Dobbie in Lachute is a credit to the place, and is considered the best brick work in the county.

Mr. Hamilton is pushing forward the work on his bobbin factory, which should be running in about two weeks.

Pleasant and successful meetings were held by Primitive Methodists on the old camp ground last week.

We regret to chronicle the death of Mrs. Samuel S. Hills, one of the oldest and most respected residents of Lachute.

Mr. Thos. Morin of this parish threshed out 22 stocks of oats on Tuesday, receiving 42 bushels of grain weighing over 40 pounds to the bushel.

Some Lachute merchants want business divided up, so they will not each be required to keep dry goods, groceries, hardware, boots and shoes, crockery, etc.

50 YEARS AGO

September 6, 1907 —

At the Academy re-opening, held in the Town Hall, Mr. H. M. Gall, chairman of the board, presided, and on the platform with him were Mr. Geo. H. Perley, M.P., the Rev. E. Thomas, Mr. M. J. Strong (Warden of the County) and Principal C. McBurney.

At a meeting of the Milk Shippers Association in Montreal, Mr. Malcolm Smith was appointed president, and Mr. Geo. Walker a director of the Association.

A thrill of horror passed throughout the Dominion as news spread on Thursday of the collapse of the southern span Quebec bridge in course of construction, with loss of about 80 lives and damage amounting to several millions.

St. Philippe — Mrs. Archie Graham entertained a number of her friends to a "rag bee" this week.

25 YEARS AGO

September 1, 1932 —

Upwards of 300 members of the congregation from St. Simeon's, Lachute, and St. George's, Brownsburg, gathered in the Auditorium on Friday evening last to bid farewell to their rector, the Rev. J. A. Lackey, on the eve of his retirement from the active ministry. The recipient of this signal honor has 40 years of unbroken service in the Anglican communion to his credit, 20 of which have been devoted to the people of Lachute parish.

Following an item which appeared in these columns recently, relative to grain which had grown to 65 inches height in Ontario, an Argenteuil farmer hastens to assure us that our own County is not to be outdone in the matter of grain production. . . Mr. Dougal McTavish, Jr., of Harrington East, stated in Lachute last Saturday that he had oats on his farm growing to a height of 67 inches clearing the roots. The crop is well headed, and was grown from Mr. McTavish's own last year's seed.

The eclipse of the sun was clearly visible in Lachute recently during its first and latter quarter, but the full phase of this phenomenon was obscured by heavy clouds. A minute or two of uncanny darkness, however, marked the time of the total eclipse. It is believed to have been seen to advantage in the higher altitudes of the county, where visibility was considered better.

Your Dog – Your Best Friend!

Your dog sticks to you in wealth or poverty and desrves much better care than many dogs are given. Also, if a bit of time were spent training him while he is young, you would have a still better dog. You wouldn't have the trouble and expense of getting a new dog so often.

Now that you have a dog, why not feed him PURINA DOG CHOW. It comes in two forms, Checkers and Kibbled Meal. The Checkers are fed as is, dry, with water handy for him to drink. One pound of Dog Chow equals three pounds of meat; it is therefore much drier than meat. The Kibbled Meal is to be fed about the same texture as hamburger; it can be dampened with soup, gravy, milk or warm water, and you may also mix in your table leftovers.

BUT WHY FEED A DOG RATION? . . In the first place, it is far less trouble to prepare a commercial ration for your dog than it is to gather together the various ingredients you would need to satisfy his diet. And in addition, many tend to feed the dog according to what he likes, rather than what is best for the dog.

For more than half a century Purina has manufactured high-quality feeds. The facilities and "know how" of the world's largest feed producer are used to develop Purina Dog Chow, and the thousands of satisfied dog owners throughout this continent are proof that it is meeting the demands of their dogs.

Dog Chow comes in 5, 25 and 50 pound bags and is economical to use. Won't you take home a bag with you today? You can get it handy at —

Ways To Be Free

I like the story of the Irishman, shipwrecked off a foreign coast. When he struggled to shore his first question was, "Who's the government here?"

On being told, he stuck out his chin and said, "Well, I'm agin it!"

We must have a government and we must have law and order. But governments are composed of men and women (too few women) no better than you or I. They are not saints, they are not Solomons. They can make very grave mistakes. They need watching.

Governments are dangerous when we let them grab too much power. They can use this power to get re-elected, and that is a rather strong temptation often yielded to.

I often wish governments would get back to governing, and get out of all the other things they've stuck their noses in. I've never known them to succeed in any business, unless they had an iron-clad monopoly — and most of us don't care much for monopolies, government or private. I wish they'd stop trying to care for the social welfare of those of us who are capable of caring for our own — and if they must engage in welfare, let them concentrate on the minority who need help, instead of the majority who have votes.

I know a woman who has been a great believer in the benevolence of our government for years. The other day she had to cash one of the few remaining $1,000 government bonds her husband had left to her. She got quite a shock when she found out that she could only get something like $880 for it. She wishes her husband had put his money in the common stocks of some good private industry. She's not so fond of governments today.

The best government is the least government. I'd like to see taxes cut in half and government enterprises cut in half. I'd like to see governments give up the notion of handling our cultural lives — because I've seldom met a truly cultured politician, though I've met a lot of them.

I venture to say that the first government to give up some of its powers and restore those powers to society would win overwhelming support from a public which has at last discovered that the government really hasn't a single free service to give to anybody — we pay through the nose for all of it. Our eyes have been opened at last!

The recently expanded national capital, Ottawa, now completely surrounds the City of Eastview, which occupies an area of one square mile. The first Eastview settlers arrived in 1824; the community was first called Janesville. It has become an important industrial centre with a number of plants specializing in brick and tile and iron and steel products.

What is a whiskey-jack?

A distinctive Canadian name for the Canada jay is whiskey-jack. Many specific articles that are known over a large area have gradually been prefaced by Canadian place names. Examples are Quebec heater, the Winnipeg couch, the Red River cart, and the York boat. The word "Mountie", for a member of the RCMP, is also distinctively Canadian.

Who is the Earl of Egmont?

A log homestead at Priddis, Alberta, was the birthplace, in 1914, of Sir Frederick George Moore Perceval, 11th Earl and 15th Baronet of Egmont. In 1929, his father and family went to England to claim the earldom on the death of the ninth Earl, a distant relative. They lived at Avon castle, the family seat in Ringwood, Hampshire, England, where their incongruous frontier ways excited some ridicule. When the father was killed in a motor accident in 1932, Sir Frederick returned to Alberta, bought a 900-acre farm just south of Calgary and engaged in mixed farming, later specializing in the growing of seed grain. In 1939, having succeeded in establishing his claim to the earldom, he sold his English estates.

What noted actress was born in Hamilton?

Among the most successful actresses about the turn of the century was Julia Arthur, who was born Ida Lewis at Hamilton, Ont., in 1869. She made her professional debut at 14 and toured the U.S. playing Shakespearian heroines. She was a success in New York and following a London triumph in 1895 she accompanied Sir Henry Irving and Ellen Terry on their American tour. The most brilliant success of her career was in Bernard Shaw's Saint Joan, in which she toured Canada coast to coast in 1924. She was an emotional actress of outstanding ability.

CN-CP TO HANDLE CARRIER TRAILERS

Montreal — Canada's two major railways — already engaged in hauling railway-owned trailers in piggy-back service between Montreal and Toronto — announced arrangements for hauling the trailers of licensed, "for hire" motor carriers on flat cars between Montreal and Toronto, commencing about the first of September.

"Piggy back" is the movement of highway semi-trailer equipment on railway flat cars and combines the advantages of the flexibility of the truck in terminal operations and the efficient mass-movement of goods by rail.

Q.W.I. Plans for October National Convention

The Quebec Women's Institutes executive is meeting this week in Montreal. The president, Mrs. G. D Harvey, of Stanbridge East, is presiding.

Mrs. Harvey has just returned from the International Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World, in Ceylon, and her impressions of that event will be a highlight of the meeting.

Plans for the coming National Convention in Ottawa, October 28-31, will also be discussed. The Q.W.I. will be sending its full complement of 10 voting delegates to this first convention and many members are planning to attend as visitors.

Institutes in Canada were organized nationally in 1919 but the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, the name adopted, has only had Biennial Board Meetings since that time. This first convention will commemorate the 60th anniversary of the founding of the world's first Women's Institute, at Stoney Creek, Ont., in 1897. Plans are under way to still further mark the date by the setting up of a national office in Ottawa.

Art President Reports Tour

phone calls to find out. The first man we asked on the street gave specific directions to the exact location. As we were early, we were invited in to the home of Dr. Henri Picard and Mme Picard. She was the promoter and dynamo, seven years ago, in establishing the Granby Art Association. For several years they exhibited in the lobbies and hallways of the Hotel de Ville. When Granby acquired a new post-office building, the City purchased the old post-office across the street from the Hotel de Ville, and gave the use of most of the main floor to the Granby Art Association. Two bronze plates grace the entrance:

Art Building — Maison des Arts

Mme Picard could be an inspiration to anyone interested in the formation of local Art Associations. Although Mme Dubicki became president in 1956, Mme Picard is still the enthusiast. Granby is fortunate in having as its Mayor Mr. Boivin; interested in civic promotion, he is perhaps most famous for his organization of the Granby Zoological Gardens. He could see in Mme Picard's efforts the creation of a civic benefit, could see the efforts the organization was willing to assume, and realized the expense they would have in bringing exhibits to Granby from Montreal, Ottawa and other locations. Consequently he told his Council that the Association should not only have free use of the site for exhibition purposes, but should receive an annual grant of $400.

The Governor-General, the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, accepted the Honorary Presidency of their organization.

The present exhibition is a travelling exhibit from the Independent Artists Association of Montreal. The Lord Mayor of London, G. Cullem Welch, not only performed the opening ceremony on August 21, but he presented them with a pastel portrait of Churchill by the English artist, A. E. Cooper. It is a rare exhibit which will be a centrepiece for all future exhibitions.

Included in the exhibition were paintings by:

Thurston Topham, A.R.C.A., Betty Galbraith Cornell, Constance J. Haines, D. Harris McLarren, Irene Shaver.

A. Sherriff Scott, R.C.A., L.A. Adrien Hebert, R.C.A., Bea Alan, Kenneth Kslondon, Marie Adelle Tuthill, Marian H. Scott, Geraldine S. Ban, Lois E. Coates, Charles Kelsey.

Harold Charles Boyes, Louis Duval, Rita Mount, A.R.C.A., John Humphries, L.A., Elaine J. Denman, E. Arthur Goodwin.

Percy M. May, James Damiani, Charlotte Viner, Agnes C. Knox, Camille Parks, Stanley B. Wilson, Janet Cliff.

To meet their particular situation they have 8 ft. x 4 ft. panels of paperboard on 2-inch square lumber stands, which are moveable. This could be adopted as a solution to our local problem of circulating exhibitions throughout Argenteuil County.

We returned from Granby via the Jacques Cartier bridge, turning off on St. Helen's Island for the first time. We enjoyed an excellent dinner on the open terrace of their beautiful main hall. We then circled the hall to view the paintings on exhibition, and were disgusted to think these were being shown to visitors as Canadian Art. A group of Americans were present making comments, and I felt ashamed that I could not offer some defence for the offences that were on exhibition!

Nevertheless, this was an enjoyable trip — its purposes accomplished, in the conviction that the Argenteuil Art Association has a justifiable place in our community life and that efforts are necessary to procure permanent headquarters for our exhibitions.

"Make Sure of All Things"

This is a compilation of scriptures from the Holy Bible under seventy main headings, to enable the searcher for truth to ascertain the fundamental doctrines and be assured thereof.

"Make sure of all things; hold fast to what is right." — 1 Thessalonians 5:21. . . Why take chances with your everlasting life? It can be lost through ignorance, endangered by negligence, or won by "making sure of all things." How?

The world is full of confused ideas and shifting patterns, of differing religions and contradictory beliefs. WHO IS RIGHT? . . . Go to the highest authority. Go to God's Word, the Bible. Scriptures, without added comment, are assembled on seventy themes in the book "Make Sure of All Things".

Obtain it. Study it. Mature with it. It is only 75c. — Write 150 Bridgeland Ave., Toronto 10, Ont.

Autumn Hovers O'er the Hills Lithuania Takes Root in Morin And Squirrels Prove Intriguing

"SUNNYACRES SKETCHES"
By Margaret Cook

The Canadian summer is really only an interlude between snow piled high and the glory of the tinted leaves. Now you have it, now you don't. As I write, I suspect we are about to have it not! . . . The sun is a pale orb momentarily glimpsed behind flat but determined clouds. The man of the house says he never thought he would live to be tired of the sunshine, but that he is this time, after a solid month of it. We know so accurately, because July 21, the last day it rained with any earnestness, we had guests who came back from a walk quite drenched. They stood just inside the door, dripping plaintively, and inquiring anxiously if the turkey were done. Since then, hardly a drop . . . but by the time this sees print, we shall probably be rained out.

It will be a pity, for the countryside is beautiful as it is. Goldenrod is everywhere, and its sister, the goldenglow, grows with abandon, even in deserted gardens. Bottle Gentian lies in thick blue clusters in the fields. The haws show scarlet on the trees; even the maples are beginning to turn color, surely earlier than usual. When we look up to rest our eyes from watching the near-rapid and earnest pecking of four fingers (I have graduated from the two-finger class), we see the goldenglow trying to peek in the window. Just beyond, some handsome tiger lilies are flaunting, then, in the far centre, the old crabtree proudly displays its pink fruit. On the other side, I have only to lean back a bit to rejoice in the mass of phlox that are currently in their heyday. We have six varieties at Sunnyacres. They make a lovely picture framed by any window, and their scent of muted cloves is wafted toward the house hour by hour.

Because we know that all this will presently vanish, we cherish the hours. The days are quieter as well as shorter now. Many of the cottagers have departed, and the workmen that have been around all summer, have gone on to conquer other hillsides. The tall poles lift themselves against the blue sky. Their wires run straight and shining, carrying power through these ancient hills. Much as we hate the thought of our ivory tower being disturbed, we have to admit that we shall be glad to bring up the electric kettle. Even the old wood range is to be discarded. We are loath to see it go, for we have cooked on it for fourteen years, and it was in use before that for a dozen summers; but on a hot day, baking in it is a trial. On the other hand, in this section, a wood fire is always good in the mornings, so that the solution seems to be a combined wood and electric range. But all this shall wait for the Spring.

Meanwhile, we do all the things we should have done earlier in the season. We visit neglected friends. One of these lives near Morin Heights. (Query: Why Morin Heights? The village is on a plain, encircled by mountains). Anyway, besides the pleasure of renewing our friendship with the lady of the house and her two daughters, we had the unexpected one of meeting a grey squirrel, which took a violent liking to the head of our house. Did he but show himself in the yard, the little animal would climb up his trousers in a flash, peek in the pockets to see if nuts were concealed there, perch on his shoulder, try to remove the glasses from his nose, and lay his cheek affectionately against the great big beautiful man's cheek. It was a touching sight, slightly touched with the ridiculous. Master Squirrel had been picked up this spring on the sidewalk in the city, obviously orphaned by some tragedy. The finder took him home and brought him to adolescence on a doll's nursing-bottle. He now laps his milk from an egg-cup. Otherwise, his diet is as other squirrels'. For his convenience, a large leather bag, filled with assorted nuts, hangs from a tree near the house. We did not know before that squirrels are so like kittens in their reactions. The playing of this grey bit of quicksilver was as that of a kitten, the same rolling over, the chasing of sticks pulled by an obliging hand, the catching of naughty shadows that danced before him, the same leaping into the air, and the effortless landing. He was a beautiful sight, but a nuisance, we were told, as he had begun to gnaw furniture before he was brought up to the mountains. The owners had hoped that he would so adjust to the country that he could be left behind to fend for himself. But he has grown much too sophisticated for such uncouth ways. . . Anybody hanker for a grey squirrel? If so, get in touch with Margaret Cook.

At this same place, a mystery that has been worrying us was cleared up. A small, not too attractive lake near our friend's house has this year suddenly been named, shores cleaned, and some ugly trees removed. The sign says, "Dainava, Private". After some thought, we had decided that Dainava was one of those compound names thought up to flatter people. In this case, perhaps, the lake belonged to David, Ina and Eva. Don't snort. "Enlaugra", a tiny staion in the Eastern Townships, is named for the three daughters of one of the officials of the railway. I have forgotten about En, but the rest is Laura and Grace. . . But I could not have been more wrong. The lake is named for a place in Lithuania, the lake having been bought by three families from that country. With typical initiative, the lake is being improved and lots sold on its shores. It sounds incredible, and perhaps we heard it wrongly, but it sounded like one hundred lots. It is such people that make good citizens. They are grateful to Canada, and they add to, rather than subtract from, our resources.

Going back to squirrels (very poor composing, we should have put this in up above) — our Peter caught a flying squirrel. We are not sure when or where he finally caught up with it, but the evidence points to mid-evening on the kitchen roof. When we returned from a little jaunt at midnight, Peter, the cat, was sitting in a bedroom window, his head thrust through the netting, as if to take the air. We reproved him, shut the window and retired for the night. But Peter was restless; from time to time he visited the man of the house and tried to interest him in playing games under the bed. Naturally, he was rebuffed. At six a.m., however, the human gave in to the feline, and obligingly got down on the floor and looked under the bed. To his dismay, a flying-squirrel was breathing out its last on the floor. When such things happen, we suffer a sharp feeling of revulsion against Peter. Later our common-sense, so-called, points out that undoubtedly Peter had great provocation and he was exteremely clever to snare his prey. The flying-squirrel, by the way, does not fly, it merely planes with the wind; a flap of skin attached to legs, arms and sides assists in this manoeuvre. Stretched out in death, the whole animal is almost rectangular. Its color is a pure grey rather than the mixture of grey and brown of the common squirrel.

Fascinating as this is (to me, I mean), I must leave to try to make a pizza. We are all enamored of pizzas, but mixes are rare, so I am about to try to duplicate the mix on my own. If it is a success, I'll tell the feminine readers how to make it, in my article at the end of September.

The wandering waistline featured on suits and dresses allows women to look slimmer. Manufacturers favored gathered backs, often caught low to slung belts. Coats were softly draped cocoon or almond shaped, accentuating an easy, comfortable look.

An off-white beaver — called oyster white — was shown in a tailored full-length style with a notched collar and side slits. In sporty coats a white lapin took the limelight. It featured a collar hood and frog closings. A black South West African lamb "windbreaker" created a bloused effect, having a wide belted back.

Hats were feathery, fluttery and a few were "mad". One was a horn-of-plenty shape in sky blue seamed gold felt. Another was a Robinson Crusoe model done in leaf green velvet edged with a striped banding.

A pixy cap (maize and avocado green) was trimmed with a spray of acorns. A striped black velvet mushroom was topped with a garden of white silk flowers.

Home Crafts

More than 170 girls from the 4-H Homemaking clubs of Central and Northern Ontario headed for the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto to take part in a program of judging, demonstrations and exhibits along the lines of homemaking projects carried on in their local clubs.

Sixteen countries are represented besides the northern districts of Thunder Bay, Algoma, Sudbury Temiskaming, Manitoulin, Cochrane, Nipissing and Parry Sound.

The program is related to the 4-H Club's interest in foods, clothing house furnishings, hospitality and home defence.

The girls will judge menus of vegetables besides planning menus identifying meat cuts and telling how to cook them. In the clothing section they will judge slips and materials for dresses, skirts and sleeping garments besides giving a demonstration of darning, patching slip-stitching and shell hemming.

In the home furnishing section they will plan accessories for a bedroom and a clothes closet. Hospitality club members will judge flowers and plan a party around a given theme.

Miss Lulu Row of the Junior Home Economics Extension service of the Ontario Department of Agriculture is in charge of the program.

Salmon Sandwich Loaf, To Entertain

Pretty enough for a party, this gay salad sandwich loaf is one of the easiest refreshments you can serve. One loaf yields 10 or 12 generous slices; one slice equals several tea sandwiches. The home economists of the Consumer Section say that the loaf should chill for several hours before slicing so you can put it together in the morning, all ready for serving.

The salad sandwich loaf in the picture is garnished with tomato rose, cress and chopped parsley and some of the cream cheese frosting has been forced through a cake decorator to make a rippled edging around the top of the loaf.

Omelettes are lighter, more delicate, and soufflés stay up better when ½ teaspoon baking powder is added for each egg.

Why don't you make a salad sandwich loaf next time you entertain? It's one of the easiest refreshments you can serve, because all the work is done ahead of time. . . This is what you'll need:

One 1½-pound loaf of bread, preferably day-old and chilled for easy slicing. White bread, brown bread or alternate slices of each may be used.

About one-half cup each of four different fillings such as chicken salad, cheese filling, ham salad and egg salad.

Three 4-ounce packages of cream cheese softened to spreading consistency with salad dressing or light cream.

Garnishes — such as tomato or radish roses, pickle strips, pimiento strips, whole or sliced olives, parsley, cress, green pepper rings.

Trim crust off bread then place loaf on its side and slice lengthwise into five even slices, about ½-inch thick. Spread first and fifth slices with softened butter on one side only and other three slices on both sides.

Spread buttered side of first slice with chicken salad. Top with second slice and spread with cheese filling. Add third slice and spread with ham salad, then fourth slice and egg salad and finally the fifth slice with buttered side down. Remove any filling which oozes out.

Frost tops and sides of sandwich loaf with cream cheese frosting. Chill thoroughly — at least 3 hours. Garnish before serving. To serve, cut in 10 to 12 slices about 1-inch thick, and serve on individual plates along with salad forks.

* * *

Individual Salad Sandwich Loaves

Round: Cut 5 rounds of bread from slices of bread, using a cookie cutter. Finish as above.

Oblong: Use 5 regular slices of bread, remove all crusts and fill same as sandwich loaf. Cut in half before frosting.

Fillings and Frostings for Salad Sandwich Loaf

You can use one filling throughout a salad sandwich loaf but for a variety of color and flavor try this combination of fillings. Mix ingredients in each recipe thoroughly until easy to spread.

Chicken Salad — 1 cup minced cooked chicken, 2 tablespoons chopped olives or green pepper, 3 tablespoons salad dressing, salt and pepper to taste.

Cheese Frosting — 3 4-ounce packages cream cheese, 6 tablespoons salad dressing.

You will have a little of each of the sandwich fillings left over for lunch box sandwiches, but the Cheese Frosting recipe makes just enough for one sandwich loaf.

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

Play Indoors

(Copyright) — By NANCY CLEAVER —

Plan for play! There is no more important task for parents to tackle together than making provision for a small son's or daughter's activity during his waking hours.

"Play is a child's work" — this is an old saying and a very true one. A child's play is not unimportant or a waste of time. Only the sick child — sick in body or heart or mind — has no desire for fun and activity. All parents want their children to be well and happy. But not all mothers and fathers give as careful attention to their child's play material as they should.

The tools for a child's work — his play things — need not entail a large expenditure of money. Many kinds of play material can be found or partly made at home. Thus their cost is greatly reduced. Here are some constructive suggestions, some of which should be useful in any home in which there are tiny tots.

The cupboard for pots and pans is a creeping child's paradise! All those wonderful shiny articles that are such interesting shapes! Sometimes when mother is icing a cake she even lets Junior "lick off" the egg beater!

An excellent rattle can be made by putting two or three small metal objects into a honey pail and sealing it. A drum with a cord to go around the neck and clothes peg drum sticks can be made in a similar way.

Nests of tin cans can be made from cans of different sizes, from baby's soup can to the largest size of fruit juice or tomato can on the grocery shelf; providing the can opener does a perfect job (not leaving any rough edge). A little child will have a good time just handling these cans, making a castle and fitting them inside each other.

Doll furniture can be made from light-weight wood or from heavy cardboard. A fruit basket can be converted into an attractive cradle with the handle moved toward one end. A little girl loves a basket bassinette with rockers or a wooden box dolly bed with spool legs. A circular baby cereal box can be cut out for a small doll's cradle.

Puzzles are fun and can be made by pasting a brighly coloured picture onto heavy cardboard or thin board. Use a coping saw or a sharp knife or scissors for cutting cardboard into large irregular pieces in different interesting shapes. Keep each puzzle in a box of its own. If there is any danger of the pieces of two puzzles getting mixed up when two children are playing with them, use crayons and color the backs of the pieces with a distinctive contrasting shade.

Another thing which can be used in a child's play are milk bottle tops. These form wheels when fastened with a paper fastener with a head and two prongs. Spools should be saved not only for legs for doll furniture but to thread together for a "Spool Man." Paper plates can be converted into circular wall pictures. Homemade sewing cards can be made by a clever mother. Macaroni can be broken into short lengths, tinted with vegetable dye. Be sure a child uses a blunt needle to string these into a necklace or bracelet.

A small child needs supervision and occasional help when playing. Before handing a child even a blunt needle, or any other special piece of equipment, show him how to use it and warn him to be careful.

Have a cupboard to store play material neatly. Help the child, if necessary, get it out. Do not interrupt his play to give him directions unless it is absolutely imperative. Be on hand to give a little encouragement and assistance in putting his play things away and cleaning up any clutter. Insist that the play material from one activity be all put in its place before some new interest is begun. "One thing at a time" is a good rule, for even a small child to learn!

Some cocktails make you see double and feel single.

New Eyesight Specialist

A newcomer to the local professions, Dr. André H. Benoit, Optometrist, announces the opening of his office at 542 Main Street, in the Beaton Pharmacy building.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Benoit, of Montreal, André Benoit first attended the Lafontaine School, graduated from the St. Stanislas secondary school, then took a Science course at the University of Montreal. After two years' studies he entered the U. of M. School of Optometry, obtaining his diploma with distinction. Last June he received a doctorate from the University of Philadelphia, and in the practice of his profession he is a member and clinical correspondent of the Optometric Extension program of Duncan, Oklahoma.

Dr. André H. Benoit is a Flying Officer in the R.C.A.F. Reserve.

A Message to Our Friends and Neighbors...

You have probably noticed in recent press releases that our Company has donated $50,000 (or more precisely, $10,000 a year over a five-year period) to the St. Jerome Diocesan Fund, and that half of this amount is being directed towards the construction of the Lachute Regional Hospital. You have probably wondered why we get involved in such enterprises and what the thoughts are behind them.

Permit me to say at the outset that, in our estimation, if and when the cause is good, charity has neither color nor creed and should be dispensed as generously as possible. It has always been our prime concern to avoid selfishness, bigotry and narrow-mindedness in all our undertakings. In this case, for instance, when half the amount subscribed is directed to the organization of a diocese, and the other half earmarked to the construction of a local hospital, we certainly don't think that we have been guilty of exaggeration. As citizens of Lachute, I am quite sure you understand our philosophy of supporting anything that will promote the welfare, the attraction and the moral, social and physical betterment of our community.

It is the same spirit that governs our attitude to several other causes. Without any intention of boasting, we thought you might be interested in knowing part of our contributions to Canadian social and welfare organizations in general, in the last five years alone, so that you, as citizens of Lachute and vicinity, can share in the pride which we ourselves feel in these accomplishments. . .

These are but a small percentage of the long list of contributions which we are called upon to make from year to year, and the list does not include prizes for scholastic, patriotic or athletic achievements, or contributions to various drives through printed ads, circulars and sponsorships.

These are contributions of our Company, but we feel that they are contributions of the people of Lachute as well, and we certainly hope that with God's help and good management we may continue doing the same for many years to come.

Tigers Relinquish Title Tenure After 2 Seasons

On Sunday, Brownsburg Tigers relinquished the cup which they have held for two years. Two consecutive defeats at the hands of a strong Hawkesbury team eliminated them from competition. The scores, 10-6 and 7-3, were a fair reflection of the balance of play, but it is interesting conjecture to wonder how matters would have ended had not Jacques Legault been injured in the first game. Jacques, who led the team in batting average, doubles and slugging, sustained a six-stitch injury chasing a fly when Brownsburg led 3-1. The injury caused three runs to score and Jacques' absence undoubtedly affected the ensuing operations.

In Sunday's game the only teeth in the Tigers' attack were the Racine brothers. Jacques' home run drove in two runs, and Buddy with a double and triple batted in the other. Only Jimmy Murdoch and Billy Cribb managed singles in the five-hit stint.

Defensively, the star was Jacques Racine, with seven flawless assists. The team, though, made six errors and allowed Hawkesbury to run wild on base. Georges Raymond, who pitched the entire game, yielded only five hits, but with five walks thrown in, plus a balk and a wild pitch, he didn't help his cause.

The outlook on the year, however, was not discouraging. Jacques Legault was a refreshing addition to the team. The continuing good play of veterans Buddy Racine, Yves Raymond, Jimmy Murdoch and Ron Cousineau, was encouraging. Jacques Racine had a poor season, but jumped right back to form in the last game. Germain Gagné emerged as a power hitter, Billy Cribb as a clutch-hitter, and Georges Raymond, when he shakes off his occasional wildness, is the best pitcher in the league.

APPRECIATION

Full Week-End On Program For Colford Team

Last Sunday Colford's ball squad took an easy win from the Montrealers in a not-too-exciting game. Mel Stewart and Trevor Holmes smashed a home run each for the winners, and Fern Larocque blasted a triple, his fourth of the year. Mel Stewart took over the pitching for Colford's in the third inning, and pitched fine ball for the remainder of the game. Jean-Guy Larocque started the game, so he gets credit for the win.

Next Sunday Colford's will play a double-header starting at 1 p.m. against Mair's Clutch & Brake. Colford's have defeated this team twice this season, but there is talk that the Mair Bros. are bringing pitcher Ace Holden from Snowdon Fastball League, so this should be quite a test for the Colford boys.

Monday at 2 p.m. Colford's team will play their annual game with the "Waiters". For the last three years the waiters have beaten the Lodge team, so the boys are out for revenge this year. Starting pitchers for the game will be Jean-Guy Larocque for the "waiters" and Mel Stewart for Colford's.
