Enthusiasm in Legion contest for teen-age queen

With only one week to go before the crowning of the Teen-Age Queen at the Lachute Fair (Friday night, June 13), tickets for this contest are reported to be selling satisfactorily. Interest in running high and on a recent count of votes Miss Shirley Pollock is holding the lead in this Legion teen-age popularity contest.

In an effort to aid in the community activities of youngsters in Lachute and district, Lachute Legion have sponsored a drawing for a Holiday Trip, worth $300, and with the purchase of each ticket the holder is entitled to a vote of their choice for Queen. The contenders for the crown, and also for trophies donated by the Legion and interested businessmen, are Miss Shirley Pollock, Mlle Claire Lepage, Miss Marilyn Underhill and Mlle Louise Lajoie. . . Support of this drawing will indicate public approval of the dances and other organized activities which Lachute is so much in need of.

Town votes $18,000 expenditure for new real estate valuation plan

Chamber of Commerce brief was spur to action on Council's long ambition

Lachute's system of municipal valuation is due for a radical change, subsequent to a decision taken by Council at a special meeting last Saturday and acceptance of one of the bids on this undertaking. The tender of $18,000 by the firm of Bégin, Charland & Valiquette to install a scientifically-based town assessment, was chosen and adopted by the Council.

The Chamber of Commerce, one of the prime agitators for this change (as recommended in its brief to the City Fathers last fall), will thus realize one of its major projects for Civic Improvement. Likewise the Council, with Mayor Carrière now at the helm, has long visualized this step forward, and will realize one of its big ambitions for a valuation roll equitable to all property owners.

Mayor Léopold Carrière stated at the meeting that he and certain members of the Council had visited the firm of Begin, Charland & Valiquette, and had been favorably impressed by the quality of work, the "modus operandi" and the large staff at their disposal. The company has specialized in this type of work for the past 15 years, and has imparted the benefit of its experience to 26 different municipalities.

The procedure practised by this firm, as explained by Ald. Gérard Lefebvre, is scientific and to all purposes proof against error, since it is worked out on the "quantitative" method. This method is superior to the "cubic capacity" principle insofar as it appraises the actual quantity of material embodied in each structure and estimates its cost at current prices within the municipality. It is readily realized that, due to various factors of adjustment, two properties of the same cubic content are not necessarily of the same value.

Germain Filion, financial advisor to the administrative body, felt that the time had come to take this important step. The $18,000 expense, he said, could be financed partly out of operating funds, plus a surplus from last year's business and certain reserves provided for in the current year's budget. The outlay could be replaced over a period from 10 to 20 years, and it would cost the municipality on this basis only about $1,000 a year. For this, the taxpayers would receive a fair and just evaluation on their real estate, and the Town would have a valuation roll with which individual assessments could be figured on a scientific and infallible basis.

Ballet School gives demonstration

There was an over-capacity attendance at the first public demonstration of the Lachute School of Ballet, held at the Auditorium here last Thursday evening. This school, which was started late last September, is composed of 63 girls, in three classes aged approximately 4 to 6 years, 7 to 9, and 10 to 13. The Lachute school is affiliated with the Elizabeth Leese Dance Studio of Westmount, Que.

Introductory remarks were given in French and English by Mrs. E. Gow, the convener, and after "O Canada", the smallest girls, under able guidance of the teacher, Miss Joan Bouchard, went through their routine and ad lib exercises. Two of the most pleasing aspects of this junior pre-ballet class was the good control exercised by the instructor, and the spontaneous expressions in solo numbers.

The second (advanced pre-ballet) class was represented by several girls who went through their rhythm-dances, showing some of the basic steps used in this group. The third class was also represented by some of the girls, who portrayed their ballet stances and exercises.

After the intermission, girls of the second class portrayed "Mistress Mary's Garden". The scene was composed of sleeping flowers who came to life under the tender care of Mistress Mary and her pretty maids. A group of butterflies also flitted through their dance, and the whole performance seemed to appeal to the large audience.

"The Reluctant Pupil", another scene staged by the Class 3 girls, was also well acclaimed. The professor of dancing was holding his class, and one pupil always wanted to do the routine the opposite way, much to the disgust of mother and the professor. The pupil eventually falls asleep and is visited by the fairies, who inspire her to do a perfect dance routine — which was well executed by the performer. This drama in dance form was excellently mimed by all the girls in this sketch.

It was gratifying the see the "behind-the-scenes" picture of what makes a ballet dancer. The director and founder of the Elizabeth Leese Dance Studio, Miss Leese, was present in the audience, and she was introduced by Mrs. Gow. Miss Leese spoke in French and English, explaining that every ballet dancer goes through all the routine exercises seen in this demonstration. She reminded those present that ballet is a strict disciplinary development, which requires much hard work. She also complimented the organizers of the Lachute Ballet School, Mr. J. F. Gorman and Mrs. E. Gow, for their interest in starting this group. (To these names should be added that of Mrs. Philippe Valois, who did so much in organizing the French members of the class.)

Miss Leese then introduced three of her pupils from Montreal, the Misses Ellen Messing and Ellen Hamovitch, both aged 11, who have been studying ballet for a few years, and also Miss Danielle Laforest, 12. The audience was treated to two ballet numbers. The first was a duo by the Misses Messing and Hamovitch; the teamwork in "Country Dance" was most delightful. In the second number, a solo dance, Miss Laforest expressed herself admirably with "Tales from the Vienna Woods" by Strauss. The fine performances of these three girls must have been an inspiration to parents present, to see what can be done with girls of talent.

Expropriation of land for purpose of school extension

The Lachute Protestant School Commission last night announced its intention to institute expropriation of a section of land near the present High School and adjacent to Lachute Curling Club — just several days following an option of the property to the I.G.A. Food Store chain, whose headquarters are located in Ottawa.

It is stated by the Commission chairman, Jas. W. McGibbon, that the negotiating company was informed by the Board of its intention the day prior to the sale of the property. Mr. McGibbon also states that the School Commission's provision for future extension is in accordance with advice from the Department of Education.

The property was formerly owned by J. R. Charron and Mrs. Doris Fraser, and the transaction was made to I.G.A. through Gall & Jones, local Real Estate agents, who report the agreements of sale were signed on Saturday last, for an undisclosed sum.

A special meeting of the School Board was held last week, and it was decided to announce their intention to purchase the two properties, as well as a portion of the Barron property, to be used for future expansion of the school building.

Jas. W. McGibbon, chairman of the Board, stated that due to increasingly crowded facilities in the present building, construction of additional quarters would be necessary in the not too distant future, and that steps had to be taken now to prepare for that contingency. He added that other property in the surroundings had been considered but were ruled out as not being of a large enough area.

140th Anniversary is observed by St. Andrews Presbyterians

The Very Rev. Dr. C. Ritchie Bell was guest preacher for the special services in the Presbyterian Church, St. Andrews East, on June 1, marking the 140th anniversary of the settlement of the first ordained minister in 1818.

The celebrations began with a congregational supper in the church hall on Friday evening, served by the members of the Women's League, of which Mrs. Howard McOuat is president. Connected with this there was the cutting of the "birthday cake" by Mrs. J. L. Fournier, one of the oldest members of the congregation. Greetings from the sister churches were brought by the Rev. C. R. Lang, representing the Anglican Church, the Rev. Ralph Watson, the United Church, and the Rev. James Armour, minister of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Church, Lachute, who also represented the Moderator of the Presbytery of Montreal, the Rev. Percy Ferguson. Following the supper an illustrated lecture, dealing especially with the early history, was given by the minister, the Rev. Dr. W. H. Reid.

At the Sunday morning service Dr. Bell preached on the subject, "Reopening the Wells". He spoke of the wells that Abraham had opened up long ago, on which the lives of the people and flocks depended; and then, referring to our own time, mentioned that the Bible is one of the most important wells which we must keep open, in order that its spiritual nourishment may flow into our lives. The founders of this congregation valued the Scriptures as God's Word to them, and we will do well to follow their example.

A special feature of this service was the dedication by Dr. Bell of a new communion table in memory of the Misses Mary, Elizabeth and Christina Walsh, who had given many years of devoted service to this congregation. A very appropriate solo entitled "My Cathedral" was sung by Mr. Bruce Robertson, a student in the Presbyterian College, Montreal. Miss Gladys Hyde officiated at the organ in the absence of the regular organist, Miss Grace McOuat.

In spite of the rain a large congregation, which filled the church and overflowed into the gallery, gathered for the evening service. The first part of the service was conducted by Dr. Bell and the minister, and then an inspiring service of narrations and sacred solos was given by Mr. Winston Curry of Montreal, similar to his radio broadcasts, "Sweet Hour of Prayer", heard regularly over CBM.

In connection with these anniversary celebrations, appropriate references were made to those who had served this congregation so faithfully in the past; those who erected this building in 1819; and those since then who have contributed so much to make it one of the outstanding country churches, with its beautiful stained glass memorial windows and Casavant organ. For 82 years there were only two ministers, Dr. Archibald Henderson and Dr. Daniel Paterson, whose combined ministry continued down to the year 1900. Other ministers who followed them were the Rev. R. L. Ballantyne, Dr. Herbert C. Ross, Rev. John Burgess, Rev. R. J. Millar, Dr. Ballantyne for a second term, Dr. Wm. MacMillan and Mr. Robt. Bissett, who served down to 1955 when the present minister came.

Local boy wins one of three W.I. 1958 bursaries

Winners of this year's Provincial awards offered by the Quebec Women's Institutes at Macdonald College, have just been announced. These go to students from the rural areas of the province.

The bursary in the Diploma Course in Agriculture goes to Stewart James Robertson, of Lachute. This student led the first year class and is one of the 4-H Club judging champions who has earned a trip to the Royal at Toronto this fall.

Children's field day held by Brownsburg Legion

Brownsburg — To several hundred children from three Brownsburg schools, and a number of adults, the first annual Field Day of Canadian Legion, Branch No. 71, held last Saturday, was an unqualified success. Even the weatherman co-operated by changing the early morning chill overcast from light showers, to a warm sun-dipped afternoon.

Perhaps the most heart-warming event of the whole day — missed by many citizens — occurred at 8.45 in the morning when two columns of some 500 vibrant, eager youngsters, headed by fluttering Legion banners, converged from opposite directions on Greenwood Street filling its width to capacity — and proceeded as one cheering mass to the C-I-L Picnic Ground Sports Centre. The excitement of these children was electrifying — the din of their voices all but silenced the marching airs of the P.A. system.

Timed to meet at the corner of Main and Greenwood the English-speaking children from the Brownsburg High School and the French-speaking boys and girls from Ecole Bouchard and Convent St. Louis de France were led by Comrade Jess W. Humphries, President of Brownsburg Branch No. 71, and Comrade Alfred Lupien, respectively. Colors were carried at the head of one procession by Comrade Irwin Martin and Mrs. Martin, representing the Women's Auxiliary. The second color party included Comrades Don Graham and Harvey Wilson.

Local and Provincial Police escorted the parade to the sports centre where some 15 platoons of 15 to 40 children each were drawn up facing the bleachers for opening ceremonies. Each platoon was headed by a Legionnaire. After the singing of "O Canada" in French and English the color parties were marched off to the Prize Booth by Comrade President Humphries where the flags were deposited for the remainder of the day. Promptly at 9 a.m. the Field Day was declared officially opened by President Humphries with the firing of a starter's pistol. Shortly thereafter the first race for 6 to 7-year-olds was under way.

The field layout was excellent. The Committee had prepared it in such a manner that four to five events were in progress at all times without interference from each other. Numbered signs indicated where the contestants were to report for each event. In addition to the roped-off area used for the 50 and 100-yard dash, there were three Broad jump pits, two High jump pits and two ball throwing courts. The circular track was used for the 220 yard and 1-mile racing events.

Boy Scouts escorted winners to the sound car where their names were recorded by Comrade R. Sugden, announced by Comrade O. T. Carrière and thence to the prize booth. Winners were given a selection of flashlights, snorkel swim sets, baseballs and bats, fishing tackle and miscellaneous other items selected for the various age groups. These prizes were purchased by the Ladies' Auxiliary (Branch 71) with funds raised through a fashion show which they held earlier in the year.

A First-Aid centre under the direction of Tom Dwyer, C-I-L Works Engineering, was established to take care of any injuries sustained. Soft drinks, ice cream and hot dogs were on sale.

The day finished up with a closely fought softball game between boys of the two schools — final score was 8-7 in favor of Brownsburg High School.

In relation, no effort by adults is ever as great as that of a child trying to win a race or a jumping contest. These kids from the shortest dash to the one-mile run gave everything they had in every event. Tumbles were plentiful and as spectacular as any in the Grand National. This is the most rewarding factor for the Legion members who spent so much time and effort to make this event possible. The children were off the street for this day and out of harm's way. They mingled freely and fearlessly and had friendly competitions. Thus they were exposed to the first rudiments of Good Citizenship—thanks to Brownsburg Branch No. 71, Canadian Legion.

Following is a list of committeemen and workers responsible for the success of this event:

Field Day Committee — Noel Racine (chairman), Alfred Lupien, Leon Tessier, W. Mann.

Publicity — O. T. Carrière.

Field Preparation — R. R. Summers.

Races — R. Sugden, W. Tessier, H. Millar.

Rotary hears pep-talk on Service by Lions Club notable, Dr. F. W. FitzGerald

Dr. F. W. FitzGerald, District Governor of Lions International, was guest speaker at the regular dinner meeting of the Rotary Club last week, being fittingly introduced by Stewart Jones, who gave his background and made mention of the many organizations and associations the doctor was connected with.

Dr. FitzGerald, in talking to the Club, made little mention of his term as Lions District Governor — except to point out that it was highly unusual, and an honor to the community, to have both service clubs sponsoring members in that position at the same time.

He went on to speak of the concept of service and the spirit behind it, this being the prime objective of all service clubs. It was only since Christianity that man started to help his fellow man, and the service club movement really developed within the past 55 years.

"Both our organizations have clubs all over the world, except behind the Iron Curtain, and it stands to reason we must have something in common that makes us want to help our fellow man, especially with different races, colors and creeds all working for the same objective."

He quoted a recent statement by Bishop Fulton Scheen, stating that one-third of the world's population go to bed hungry every night, and one-quarter earn less than a dollar a week. "It is our moral duty to aid those less privileged persons, and this is why you Rotarians have given up your time to do what you have for the community.

"For a service club to succeed, you have to see the things you want to do, see the need to be of assistance, and then do something about it. We need vision, but this is not sufficient, as faith is also required. With these two, and courage, your ideals can be put into practice.

"These three ideals are kept and held by all service clubs everywhere and that is the reason for our 'International' flavor. . . I only ask that you, as Rotarians, attempting to better the community, enlarge your courage, strengthen your faith and broaden your vision."

In closing, Dr. FitzGerald stated he had yet to find a service club of any type that had not built a stepping-stone and left its mark in the community.

He was thanked for his "shot in the arm", to all members of all similar organizations, by Rotarian Keith Rutherford.

Lions to present "Le Grand Robert", Legion Branch 70 has bag of attractions, stage all set for a successful Fair

A personable young man is "Le Grand Robert", according to publicity received on the feats and powers of this notable hypnotist, booked by the Lions Club for a grandstand attraction on the opening night, next Thursday, at Lachute Spring Fair. It is expected there will be a sell-out for this feature, for which tickets are now available from Lions members.

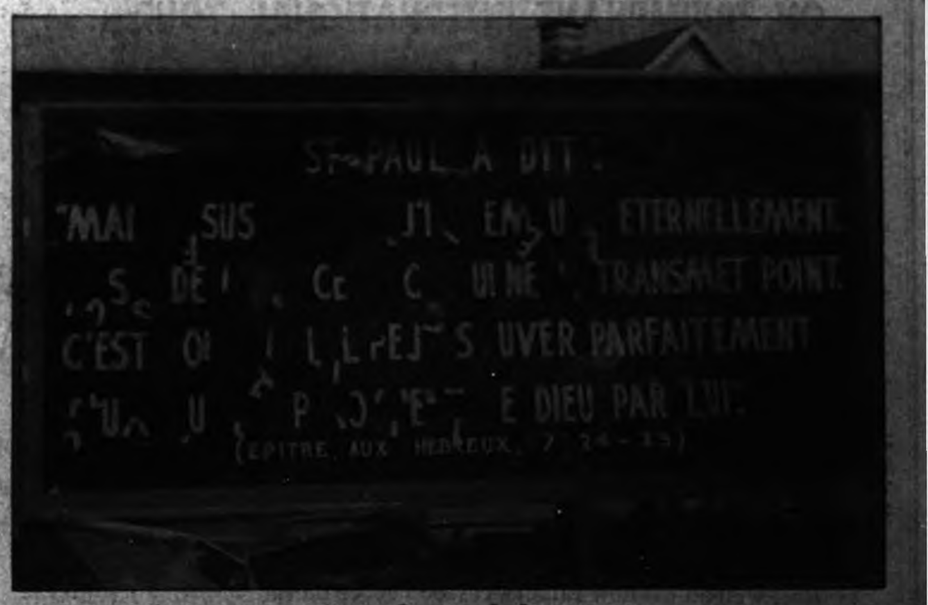

Lions president Ernest Snadden, incidentally, and Donald M. Hay, vice-president of the Agricultural Society, have been heard on the airwaves plugging the Fair and its numerous attractions. Both addressed a large but unseen audience over Radio CFRA last Thursday by courtesy of Farmers' Supply Company, program sponsors. Mr. Snadden also spoke on behalf of the Legion and its two-day concession at the grandstand play-house — with features including the crowning of a Teen-Age Queen, the Square Dance and Horse Pulling contests, not to mention the Shriners' Band from Karnak Temple.

These are but lighter aspects of the Lachute Fair program, but from the business viewpoint Manager Ken Riley gives assurance there will be lots doing in all agricultural and industrial departments. Mr. Riley is really enthusiastic about his entry lists, and foresees some fine exhibiting and keen competition in all species, breeds and classes of livestock. A surprise he pulled from the hat this week was a Dog Show, which is among the items advertised and publicized through these pages.

Altogether, there is a note of renewed optimism as the management prepares for its annual opening, next Thursday. Considerate treatment from the weatherman should now be the only requirement to ensure success.

Act of vandalism

An act of malevolence in the west end is illustrated in the above photograph, depicting the signboard outside the French Baptist Mission on Chatham Street, Ayersville, where the plastic covering was ripped and letters torn from the text. The pastor, the Rev. Jean-Marc Methot, was awakened between midnight and 1 a.m. and appeared in time to see two youths running away from the scene. The municipal police were notified.

LEGION NOTES

Branch 70 (Lachute) Correspondent

Coming up, for special attention, is Fair Week. On behalf of our Comrade President R. O. MacLean and every member of the Branch, we extend to you a hearty invitation to be present on the grandstand next Friday and Saturday evenings, from which the entire proceeds will go to this Branch for its much-needed community service work. Our special thanks to all of those competitors who will be taking part in Legion events, to the prize donors and to the president and directorate of Argenteuil Agriculture Society.

Your support is solicited on behalf of the Legion Holiday Tour raffle. Tickets may be obtained from Legionnaires at the special booth near the main building on the Fair Grounds. We would also draw to your attention the Lachute Lions program to be held on Thursday evening. (Incidentally, Lion President Ernie Shadden is also a member of Branch No. 70.)

We had the pleasure of hearing Tex Coulter speak recently at Lachute High School. Here is a man who apparently has a burning desire to help embryo athletes, regardless of color or creed, on their way to success. His remarks, and those of Dave Campbell who did the introduction, indicated that Tex came over some rather rough hurdles before making a name for himself, and he has a deep sense of gratitude for those who assisted him along the way. His geniality, drawl and witticisms gained for him the undivided attention of his listeners. His knowledge of sports, particularly football, was most interesting.

Tex was accompanied from Montreal by Comrade W. "Billy" Wray (Branch No. 70).

Speaking of sports events, congratulations are due to Comrade President Jesse W. Humphries and members of Brownsburg Legion No. 71 for their efforts on behalf of school-age athletes in Brownsburg. A full-scale Field Day has been arranged, complete with parades, sports events, prizes, etc., to take place at the C-I-L Picnic Grounds on Saturday, May 31. (See this issue for a complete coverage of the event.)

One major piece of business of the Dominion Convention was to delete B.E.S.L. from its name. We will now be known as the Canadian Legion.

The British Empire Service League included veterans' organizations throughout the Commonwealth. The convention also voted overwhelmingly in favor of keeping the word Dominion in all Legion business rather than change to the word National. And so one of the greatest democratic institutions of all times proceeds with its business. We will keep you posted on the outcome of the various sessions as soon as bulletins are made available.

Four top locals billed for prov'l bowling tourney

Hope to qualify for TV "Bowling Hour" player selection

The Bolodrome management has been advised that four Lachute bowling stars are scheduled to play in the big provincial tournament September 13 next, arranged in connection with CBC-TV "Bowling Hour" (Channel 2).

The local players are Howard Ward, Marcel Brunette, Bud Langille and Florian Brunete. A letter from the program producers states the four guests will receive their personal invitations next month.

This tournament is in the nature of an elimination contest. The players will enter 10 games September 13 on 20 different alleys, and the best 36 will be invited to appear on the Sunday "Bowling Hour" next season.

With the assurance they have an opportunity to try for this high distinction, the local boys will be practising once a week, familiarizing themselves with pertinent rules, and generally getting themselves in shape for the big tournament.

Gymnastics events for Dominion titles delayed till Aug.

As so many Lachute residents are interested in the High School gymnastics team which is going to the Dominion championships in Vancouver, a progress report each week will serve to inform those interested on how these boys are doing.

First this week it should be told that the Championship is postponed to August 13-14-15, which means that the boys will have a month and a half more to practise. Unfortunately, the school will close on June 26, and Mr. Petersen, the coach, will go to the Boy Scouts' Camp Tamaracouta for the summer. Arrangements are now being made to have the boys practise at Mr. R. Cairns' property, on the pommel horse and on the parallel bar. Three times a week Mr. Petersen will drive in at night to Lachute and coach the boys at the school.

Last week the team practised for more than 30 hours, and they are showing improvement. Both Reg Stansfield and Ronnie Cairns are doing the double-leg circle on the pommel horse very well. Ronnie and Garry Cruise are also very close to mastering the handstand in the rings. This week Reggie will be working on a new finish on the High Bar; this is a jack-knife with a forward front somersault, not performed by more than two gymnasts in the world, a Swede and a Russian. So it is hoped young Stansfield will master this proficiently, as Mr. Petersen will not allow the boys to enter any event at Vancouver unless their performance is perfect.

Dean of Curling in Quebec City resigns executive post

Quebec (CP) — H. E. (Jim) Weyman, whose name has been synonymous with curling in Quebec City for 20 years, recently announced his resignation as honorary secretary of the Quebec International Bonspiel and the Province of Quebec Curlers Association.

The 73-year-old expert "No Curler" to thousands of the game's devotees, has been a tireless booster for the annual international bonspiel. Before he took it in hand in 1938 it drew about 40 rinks — most of them from the immediate vicinity. Since then it has become widely known and now about 120 rinks from all parts of Canada and the United States enter it.

Mr. Weyman is author of a book on curling — considered an expert work even in Scotland — and creator of a bonspiel draw system used in many tourneys.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons: but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

We're gunning, too!

IN THE MAY issue of an American gun enthusiasts' journal, "The Gun Report", there is a somewhat facetious editorial telling how America won the survival of Britain. Despite the bad taste betrayed by this line of talk, we will dismiss it as one that has been exploited too often, and in a manner too careless of the consequences.

"Who can ever forget the pleas of the English for guns, any kind of guns? The English got their guns, from their best friends, the Americans. . . Britain managed to survive, thanks to American arms . . ." Such references show how this article could trigger a quite heated chronology of World War II and America's entry in it, which could serve no useful purpose at this date.

Ostensibly, this article is aimed against those "clamoring English demonstrators" who demand that American atom bomb bases in England be abandoned and who protest against the establishment of further American missile bases there. Ostensibly, we said. The real gist of the editorial is a crack at England's antiquated firearms laws, which cramps interest in private possession of firearms and curbs the mass merchandising of weapons.

The magazine cites that sad situation when "idiotic firearms laws" made it almost prohibitive for the British to own firearms; hence the desperate appeal to America when England was on the point of invasion. "But let's look at the firearms laws of Britain today," the article continues. "In England it is illegal to buy, sell, lend, borrow, give, receive, or be in possession, without (the numerous restrictions, registrations, etc., are here noted) . . . British police have the right, under the law, to inspect all guns on demand at any time, without warning or prior notification. In a nutshell . . . restrictions have succeeded in discouraging generally the private ownership of firearms."

"The Gun Report" is a magazine to promote interest and exchange views on firearms, so the real purport of its editorial is in no way concealed by the fogging references to World War II and atomic missiles. And it is with the real gist of this editorial that we take issue, in no uncertain terms.

To be brief, we would but compare the two countries today on the statistics of crime — gang crime, juvenile crime, armed hold-ups, armed robbery, murder — all the sorry blight upon society in which firearms are the enabling factor. If liberal firearms laws have given birth to the gruesome highlights of the American news pages (and we challenge any denial that easy ownership of weapons is not to blame — plus the glamor of firearms to youth so dramatized in film and TV fable) — then, thanks, we prefer those antiquated restrictions on the British statutes, and the British ability to enforce them. It should be noted that in Britain even the police are effective without firearms.

Deflating our ego

MODERN MAN is not much more intelligent than his prehistoric ancestors were, says a distinguished professor in a pronouncement likely to deflate all of us who pride ourselves on the progress of civilization.

Professor William F. Albright, professor of Semitic languages at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, said in a speech in Toronto the other day that there has been no change in human aptitudes for centuries. Furthermore, there has been little change in brain power or appreciable difference in intelligence.

We may have harnessed the atom, and entertain hopes of sending projectiles to the moon or the planets, but we don't stack up too well in comparison with our forbears of prehistoric times, Professor Albright says.

Archeological discoveries show that man's inventive genius can be traced back to the dawn of history.

Professor Albright gave some examples to prove his point. He said cave art of a high order dates back about 15,000 years. Houses, cities, villages and fortified towns of advanced culture have been found in the Middle East dating back to probably 7000 B.C.

The professor said languages have been found to increase in complexity the farther back in time they go. He thought language would prove to be at least 50,000 years old and possibly older.

Techniques we regard as modern accomplishments in some cases were developed centuries ago and then lost as ancient civilization crumbled. Many years elapsed before a German chemist solved the mystery of how the ancient Greeks made Attic glaze. No one has yet found out how the Egyptians sawed basalt, without steel saws, or how the Phoenicians smelted copper.

Babylonian priests about 1800 B.C. reckoned the motion of the planet Mercury and determined the rotation time of the moon within four seconds of the figure arrived at by modern technical methods. They devised an instrument similar to the present-day slide rule. Babylonia had state-supported medical schools.

Brass or bronze was used in Roman times or earlier for musical instruments, ornaments and household utensils. Tin in the form of a copper alloy was known as early as 1600 B.C. in Egypt.

All of which suggests that modern man might well spend more time studying the achievements of his ancestors and less time congratulating himself on his current accomplishments.

Economics for consumers

"CANADIANS have got to be made aware of the reasons why, other things being equal, they should always exercise a positive preference for Made-in-Canada products.

"It must be impressed upon them that Canada is now, more than anything else, an industrial nation, the sixth greatest in the world in manufacturing capacity. They must be made to see that their own individual well-being, for the most part, is indivisible from that of manufacturing industry, and that if it is not treated fairly, they will not prosper.

"All this means nothing more than that Canadians buy the products which they themselves make, and which provide employment for Canadian workers.

"In recent years, Canada has been becoming increasingly self-sufficient. A long list of commodities, which only a few years ago were vital needs on our foreign shopping list, is now being supplied from our own resources.

"But the expansion of our own secondary industries has yet to lead to any great reduction in our wants, as distinct from needs, over a wide range of fully finished manufactured goods.

"Our mentality in this respect has not kept pace with our productive capacities. The female shopper particularly is still beguiled by the 'imported' label, still lured by the foreign product which is usually no better than its Canadian counterpart. Retail stores, all too often, go out of their way to promote the import, while leaving Made-in-Canada goods to fend for themselves.

"Our thinking must undergo radical transformation if we are to prove worthy of nationhood. The Canadian housewife, businessman, unionist, and store and company managements — all must come to realize that they have a vested interest in exercising a positive bias on behalf of Made-in-Canada goods."

— Extract from a recent speech by H. V. Lush, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

World Health report

THE BUSINESS of raising children is "the most important business in the world," in the words of Dr. Brock Chisholm, the first director-general in 1948 of the World Health Organization.

In healthy communities — like most of those in North America — 97 of every 100 babies grow up to be adults. But in some countries even today, as many as 30 or more of every 100 born will die before they reach adulthood.

The struggle to survive despite poverty, disease and malnutrition is still the rule for most of the world's children. That is why WHO has recommended that, in the public health services of all countries, there should be a division dealing especially with maternal welfare and child birth.

But this is only one section of the great campaigns that the World Health Organization, an affiliate of the United Nations, is waging in all parts of the world, against all types of sickness and diseases.

The 10th anniversary of WHO now is being marked by a world health assembly at Minneapolis, Minn. To mark the anniversary, Geneva headquarters of WHO has published "Ten Steps Forward", summarizing highlights of each year.

Canada's Dr. Chisholm says in the foreword: "Let us face it, as WHO had to do 10 years ago: no group, no culture, no people, has yet found the perfect way of living, not even of providing medical care."

After the Second World War the concept that health was not just the absence of sickness or infirmity but a positive aim, was a new sort of idea. "That was why we chose the name World Health Organization," he adds.

The present director-general, Dr. M. G. Candau, heads a staff of about 1,000 professionals of 54 nationalities, including field staff. On its formation, WHO had 56 states as members. Now there are 88 countries joined in this co-operative effort to fight disease and bring better health to people all over the world. They contribute to a budget of $13,500,000 for 1958.

"There is no boasting of achievement," says Dr. Candau, "because whatever we may have succeeded in doing is insignificant compared with what remains to be done."

Tells how, why, first telephone service was established here

The following information has been forwarded in a letter from Miss Mary Palliser, of Montreal, a nurse and member of one of Lachute's early families. The story, which will prove interesting to many of our older readers, was prompted by the recent special edition of this newspaper which chronicled the growth and development of the Bell Telephone.

Some pertinent data in connection with the installation of the Bell Telephone in Lachute, 1887.

My father, Joseph Palliser, was a practicing lawyer in Lachute when he read that the Bell Telephone Company was going to run a line from Montreal to Ottawa. He, at once, was seized with the idea that it was an opportunity for Lachute to have the telephone. So he went down to Montreal to see Mr. L. B. MacFarlane, provincial manager of the Bell Telephone Company, with whom he had had a slight acquaintance, to interview him and ask if it would be possible for Lachute to have the telephone. Mr. MacFarlane did not appear to consider the request in a favorable light. But he told my father that if he could obtain twenty-five subscribers, who would take the telephone for five years at twenty-five dollars a year, he would consent to the proposition.

That was all my father needed to "start the ball rolling", and he at once canvassed the town and obtained the twenty-five subscribers.

He was only thirty-eight years old then, and had been in Lachute only five years. But he had courage and initiative, and felt that a town the size of Lachute should have the telephone.

The next thing to do was to find a place to set up the switchboard, so he offered the Bell Telephone Company the use of his office. It was on Main Street next to St. Simeon's Church, and he had had it erected for his own use in his law practice.

In time, the lines were laid down and the switchboard set up. A Miss Rivock, a trained operator, was sent up from Montreal, and she carried on until a local girl, a Miss Kathleen Hilsden, was instructed in switchboard work and took over the job.

My father thought there should be a night operator in case of an emergency call. About that time, young men were coming to Lachute to finish their academic education. A Mr. Heeney from Shawville, and a Mr. Charles Peter MacGregor from Dalesville, were attending the Academy, and my father offered them the use of the office for sleeping if they would accept the responsibility of the switchboard. So they were duly instructed, and installed as night operators while they were in Lachute. In time, these young men became leaders in church work, Mr. Heeney becoming Canon Heeney, with his son, Mr. Arnold Heeney, a former Canadian Ambassador to the U.S. Mr. MacGregor became a well known Baptist preacher in New York, with his uncle, Rev. Mr. Peter MacArthur, also a native of Dalesville and a famous preacher also.

In time, all was under control and in good working order. My father rented his office to the Bell Telephone Company until they could acquire their own office, and he relinquished the agency which he had assumed, when a permanent agent could be obtained. He continued his law practice for another thirty years in Lachute, where he occupied himself in obtaining the town's charter, and also his privately-owned electric light plant, when the town first knew the blessing of electricity, with lighted streets.

"Mass of Contradiction"

— By Lewis Milligan —

The deadlock in the negotiations between the Western Nations and Soviet Russia for a summit conference presents a psychological problem of long standing. The old saying, "Scratch the Russian and you will find a Tartar," has been generally accepted. Sarolea, in a more recent study of the problem, says that if the Russian noble is scratched, there is often revealed "a spirit of evasion, an elusive mass of contradiction."

The Russian nobles have been eliminated, but their communist successors have inherited those characteristics to an even greater degree. The veneer is a little thicker and more attractively grained. The old nobles made no pretence of elevating the proletariat or of revolutionizing the world into a classless Utopia. Peter the Great was the first active reformer; his prevailing ambition was to industrialize the country along the lines of Britain and bring Russia within the orbit of the Western World, which he greatly admired. But beneath it all he was a cruel and crafty despot.

Alexander I carried on the industrialization, but his chief ambition was to extend the territory and power of Russia. He professed a great admiration for Napoleon, although he at first joined the coalition against him. He signed a treaty which brought Russia into alliance with Napoleon. But his admiration for the French Emperor soon waned and he reversed his attitude toward him. Napoleon bitterly accused Alexander of breaking his promised word.

The two emperors were, of course, imperialistic despots and were each grabbing for territory and power and hoped to divide the spoils of conquest. Similarly in recent history Stalin signed a pact with Hitler, but it was only one of convenience on both sides. Stalin was the craftier of the two dictators. He foresaw the final defeat of Germany and an eventual oportunity to overrun Eastern Europe and annex it to his communist empire, which he did in spite of his repeated promises to withdraw after a peace settlement. But Stalin saw to it that there would be no peace settlement in Europe or elsewhere. He joined the United Nations and vetoed every action that would bind him to its charter.

The fact that the Soviet government still occupies those countries in Eastern Europe and refuses to release them is sufficient reason for the Western Nations to distrust any future promises by the present rulers in the Kremlin. Thomas Hobbes, the British philosopher, contended that no man would make a covenant or contract with another without some guarantee that the other man would keep his part of the bargain. Hobbes was dealing chiefly with the "social contract", but he applied his argument also to nations. He pointed out that nations naturally seek their own preservation, but in fear of danger they are distrustful of each other and are driven to seek power and control over others. "All passions," he said, "may be reduced to the desire of power, and a restless desire for power after power leads only to war."

That was written 300 years ago, but the relationships between the nations, so far as securing universal peace is concerned, have changed very little in the meantime. Hobbe's idea of a big Commonwealth to act as an impartial and powerful Third Party to restrain or punish a nation that breaks the covenant of peace has been tried out in the United Nations.

"Covenants, without the Sword, are but Words, and Words are of no strength to secure a man at all," wrote Hobbes. The Sword has today been supplanted by the Hydrogen Bomb, and the common fear of that all-powerful and impartial weapon should be enough to induce the nations to keep contracts and secure world peace.

WORKING WITH CANADIANS IN EVERY WALK OF LIFE SINCE 1817

KNOW YOUR Canada

Prepared by the Research Staff of Encyclopedia Canadiana

When the first recorded Canadian glider flight took place in the Montreal Dominion Park, in 1907, the Chanute-type glider was towed by a boy on horseback. Moreover, like many early gliders in Canada, the pilot, L. J. Lesh, hung suspended by his armpits, his legs serving as undercarriage in landing.

A further development came in 1927 when Fred and Charles Weber of North Battleford, Saskatchewan, built a primary type glider. Here an automobile, replacing the horse, pulled the glider along the prairie highways. In this manner the Webers attained heights of 500 feet and flights of up to 30 minutes.

Today the term "soaring" is gradually replacing the word "gliding", because it more closely describes the present sport. "Gliding" means being towed to a height and gradually losing altitude; "soaring" means not only losing but also gaining altitude by using up-drafts and rising air currents.

Chatham Council contender urges partition of unwieldy Township

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

First of all, I wish to thank all the electors of Chatham for the support they have given to me, chiefly those of the southern part of the Township who gave me their majority—thanks to the kindly help of all my friends who worked for me.

Considering the conclusive result, I would like to point out a problem which exists in our too-vast municipality (covering 144 square miles). It is a fact that the municipality is divided in two areas by the Village of Brownsburg; it means that some of the taxpayers are living nine miles from the municipal office. The main problem proceeding from such a situation is the bad distribution of the councillors, according to both territories.

As a solution, I would propose the division of the Township in two distinct municipalities. St. Philippe would be the municipal office for the southern part, and Dalesville for the other.

A request could be presented to the Municipal Affairs Minister, with the assistance of our deputy, the Hon. Wm. Cottingham. As a matter of fact, this would not be the first authorization of that kind because it has already been granted to the Township of Wentworth, in 1957, and for the same reasons.

This would create two big, prosperous municipalities with an adequate representation and a better distribution of the grants. This would put an end to money disputes.

I will co-operate with every citizen who is interested in seeing such a project realized.

(Signed) D. D. Leroux,
St. Philippe, Que.

Some people take a primitive joy in smashing things.

A supposedly tame city-dweller finds himself in possession of an empty bottle in the woods. Bang! goes the bottle against a tree, and broken glass flies all around.

This man's nearest approach to adventure has been to jump a traffic light by two seconds. Now, as he sees the wreckage he has made, a faint look of glee twists his face.

It is a milder version of the grin that was displayed by a jungle-dwelling ancestor of 1,000,000 years ago when he fractured a friend's skull with a rock, for fun.

Much the same spirit drives a sleek house-cat to kill a bird even though he has plenty to eat. It is part of his nature to chase and destroy. No amount of soft living can soothe this urge away.

Canada geese make their nests on an island of the lake where I live. This year some boys got to the island with boats, robbed the nests and used the eggs as missiles to pelt girls.

Just on the verge of hatching, the baby geese were smashed to pulp. A pair of adults continues to hang around the lake, but there will be no animated blobs of fluff following them, this year.

The boys smashed the eggs just as naturally as a cat kills a bird, because it is part of their nature to destroy. Destruction seems to be one of the basic forces of the world.

The bottle-smasher does not stop to think of the persons who may fall and cut arteries on the bits of glass, or the forest fires that may start from the sun shining through the glass. The boys don't consider the small lives they are snuffing out.

Their blood tells them to destroy something, and they act blindly on the impulse.

But humans have learned that it pays to resist primitive urges at times. We don't always surrender to those urges, any more than we surrender to such forces of nature as floods and epidemics of disease.

The bottle-smasher might be turned from his anti-social ways by six months in jail, or a term of forced labor cleaning up broken glass.

The egg-throwing boys might benefit from a couple of weeks' compulsory work on a game farm or in a fish hatchery, during which time they could learn respect for other kinds of life that share the earth with them.

King Reid Carnival three-day stand at Lachute Spring Fair next week

King Reid, world's greatest showman, will make Lachute Spring Fair part of a triumphant international tour when his carnival opens at the Fair Grounds next Thursday, June 12, and plays through Saturday evening, June 14.

A spangleland of rides and shows will be erected from seven vast convoys that will begin to arrive next Sunday.

Now heralded as the "World's Mightiest Midway", King Reid promises this season's shows and rides will eclipse his former endeavors. Seventeen major and miniature rides, and ten featured attractions, have been designed to fit the tastes of the entire family from tykes to tycoons.

Major rides include a Merry-Go-Round, two giant Ferris Wheels, a Tilt-A-Whirl, Chair Plane, Comet Ridee-O, Spinar-oo, the latest zaniest ride now being featured at the Brussels Fair, Fly-O-Plane, and an 80-foot thriller, 50-ton Scooter with sixteen Bumper Cars. The small fry can go by land, sea or air via the Turnpike, a 600-foot Junior Tarnway, Wild West Ponies, Ferris Wheels, Plane or Speed Boats.

A highlight on the "World's Mightiest Midway" is the Gold Medal Circus Sideshow, produced by Bill Chalkias. Here the performance is continuous, with many different acts which include Jack Connors, the Fat Boy; also a mortal slowly turning to stone; a Rubber Man, whose skin stretches three feet; the Ossified Man, a lightning cartoonist, who draws pictures upside down or any other way; Kelly, the sword swallower, who downs neon tubes; the Dog Child with the features of an English bulldog; Jack Waldron, the midget fire eater; the Oriental Torture Chamber; Voltina, the Electric Girl with 2,000 volts going through her body; Prof. Lo-Jo-Ko with a dancing and singing marionette revue, and Feliz, the Pueblo lightning sculptor.

Another bright spot is the "Club 17" presented by Lawrence Williams, discoverer of the "Ink Spots". This is a minstrel Rock 'n Roll revue featuring colored night-club performers direct from Las Vegas, New Mexico.

Irene Burton's Wild Animal Menagerie and Exotic Aviary is an exhibit of 72 ferocious beasts from the four corners of the earth. In it are big bats from Carlsbad Caverns, New Mexico, a rare Guinea Baboon imported from the Ganges River in India; a wild Arctic Wolf from the North Pole; a Platinum Fox from Prince Edward Island; a titanic King Vulture from the Andes Mountains in South America; a spotted leopard from Kenya; Peter the rosy-pink Pelican from India with an 11-foot wing-spread and the largest of its kind in captivity; a South American Kinkajou, and many other rare animals and birds.

Other features on the midway are Torchy Lee and Lila; the Hollywood Monkey Circus; the Fun House; the Snake Show, a reptilian exhibit; the Bug House, a 1001-mirror maze in which a man was lost for three weeks until finally discovered by his draft board!

The celebrated international King Reid Shows plays all the largest States Fairs in the Northeast and is the midway attraction for Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania State Fairs, where it shows simultaneously with such featured artists as Bob Hope, Pat Boone and Roy Rogers.

It has been featured in Life Magazine and on the cover of the "Saturday Evening Post", and is the first carnival ever to appear on TV, when it was sponsored by the Ford Motor Company.

African Chief is midway attraction program was a solo dance by the teacher, Miss Joan Bouchard, who gracefully interpreted "A Waltz" by Strauss.

Miss Juliette Fischer, principal of the Westmount studio, was also present.

Pianist for the evening was Mr. Peter Basch, of Washington, D.C., who has been taking post-graduate studies in Montreal.

After the close of the performance, little Madeleine Valois, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philippe Valois, presented Miss Bouchard with an Ayers blanket, and Miss Sandra Kerr made the presentation to Mr. Basch of a car rug, in appreciation of their patient work with the ballet classes throughout the season. Miss Marylin McOuat also presented a bouquet of flowers to Mrs. E. Gow, the convener, who had worked so hard in the interest of the local group.

Scholarship Awarded

It was announced by Miss Leese following the demonstration, that she had awarded a scholarship to Miss Nancy Humphries, as the pupil showing promise in the local classes. This scholarship will consist of a year's weekly tuition at the Elizabeth Leese Ballet Studio in Westmount.

Lachute School of Ballet Operational Method

Due to several misinformed ideas, the executive of the local school feel that a clarifying statement is necessary, along with the correct facts.

The girls pay a fee of $25 a year for 32 lessons, which is obviously less than one dollar per one-hour lesson. This same course in Montreal would cost considerably more. The cost of teacher per class is $10, with $3 as the pianist's fee (transportation included); meals are extra, the total being roughly $42 per week. The School then has to pay for hall and operating expenses. The proceeds from the demonstration stay in Lachute and are to be used for bar equipment for the students, and perhaps in a few years hence, for scholarships.

The treasurer, Mr. E. Gow, will present a statement in due course.

Acknowledgments

The executive, through the means of the press, would like to publicly thank the Council of the Knights of Columbus for their encouragement in renting their hall for a very low fee, and to Mr. Jacques Poitras, who on several occasions has shown a most co-operative spirit. The demonstration was so well attended, that appreciation is also expressed to the public at large; without their help, the school would have ended with a small deficit. To the fine team-work of the French and English workers of the group, a word of thanks is duly expressed.

Affairs of Blind at convention held in Drummondville

The eighth annual convention of the Canadian Council of the Blind Quebec Division, was held in Drummondville, Que., May 23-3. There were delegates from six clubs — St. Lawrence Club of the Blind (Montreal), Argenteuil White Cane Club (Lachute), Oasis Club (Sherbrooke), Emard Club (Valleyfield), White Cane Club (Drummondville) and the Blind Merchants' Association of this province. There were observers from a few other clubs.

The evening prior to the convention, the Drummondville group was presented with a certificate of affiliation by the national president Mrs. Sadie B. Bending, of London Ont., since the club joined the Council just recently. The whole convention was organized and run by the blind themselves.

The convention was determined that the White Cane Act should be legalized within the next year; the Act states that no person but the blind should carry a white cane, and Quebec is the only province still without this legislation.

At work a serious problem faces the blind. Industries have taken on a good many blind workers, around 80 in Montreal, and so have the X-ray departments in hospitals, where the blind develop films. But with the introduction of Automation, the blind have started to leave their jobs in industries, and are about to do so in hospitals, since machines have been installed to develop films. The delegates expressed their wish that the Occupational Department should strive even harder to find new types of employment to absorb those unwanted in industries and hospitals.

At the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, in Montreal, a Braille press is being used to aid the blind to transcribe their music into Braille; but the delegates wish this press to assist the blind everywhere in preparing Braille material — for students taking courses, club organizers preparing pamphlets, etc.

As there are no "talking-books" in French (discs to be played on gramophone), the delegates would like to see books done on tape-recordings which can be simplified and made cheaper, and build a library of them.

In a recent essay contest on the subject, "What the Canadian Council of the Blind Means to Me", Miss Irene Brault won the first prize of $25, given at the Convention.

Elected delegates will go to the National Convention of the C.C.B., which will be in Kitchener, Ont., August 18-21.

Three representatives from Argenteuil attended this Provincial Convention — Miss Doris Austin, Mr. Jolicoeur and Mr. Ladouceur.

Couple 'at home' on 25th wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Croucher were at home to their friends last Tuesday on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Their residence on Bedard Blvd. was the scene of a gathering in the early afternoon when several presentations were made, including a plaque on which were mounted 25 bright silver dollars forming the figures "25". These were from members of the Women's Auxiliary and friends in the United Church. There was also a cash gift from fellow workers of Mr. Croucher at Boyd's Lachute Express, and two dozen carnations from the company management. Immediate friends and neighbors presented the couple with a silver cream and sugar set, while former friends in the Granby United Church and W.A. sent gifts of money. Many cards and greetings were received from acquaintances in England, in Granby and around Lachute.

Numerous friends called to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Croucher during the afternoon and evening.

Cemetery board for Mille Isles

Morin Heights — At a recent meeting held in the Comunity Hall at Mille Isles, a board of directors was elected to administer the Mille Isles Protestant Cemetery, a combination of the Anglican and Presbyterian cemeteries.

After several years of careful planning by representative leaders of the two churches, and with the able direction of Col. Garnet M. Strong and the Hon. William Cottingham, a charter was obtained from the Legislature amalgamating these very old cemeteries.

The first president of the board elected was the Rev. Horace G. Baugh, and the other four directors are Messrs. Donald MacLeod, Norman Kilpatrick, Gilbert Ryan and Victor Ward.

A most generous endowment was set up to facilitate the work of the board, by Col. G. M. Strong.

Mortgage cleared on Morin parish house

Morin Heights — Another step in the $100,000 extension program of the Anglican Church in the Parish of Morin Heights, Mille Isles and St. Sauveur, was noted this week with the raising of funds to wipe out the Parish House mortgage.

In this program the new church was built at St. Sauveur, and at Mille Isles, with an extension going on the Morin Heights church. At present the church hall is under construction at St. Sauveur, and the church is being greatly enlarged.

In Morin, plans are being completed for a 14-foot addition to the church, with a complete new tower of modernistic effect. A church hall will also be built in Morin in the very near future.

The Parish House, one of the finest rectories in the Diocese of Montreal, was bought and paid for on an equal basis by the three congregations.

Auxiliary is host to veterans from military hospital

It was a happy occasion Monday evening when a busload of World War I veterans were entertained here by the Women's Auxiliary of Legion Branch '70.

Bingo was the main pastime of the evening, prizes being given for each game. This was followed by a singsong, with everyone joining heartily in the old war songs. Refreshments were served, and Capt. Arthur Rayment expressed appreciation on behalf of the Vets, all from Ste. Anne's Military Hospital.

The Auxiliary is to be congratulated on this kindly and helpful gesture.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES

— Eccl. 12 : 9

"The most worthwhile work is preaching the message of God's Kingdom in all the earth for a witness." — Matt. 24 : 14

Witnesses of the Most High God, Jehovah, are closely united together as a family and as an organization, unique and distinct from the ungodly and indifferent world in which they dwell. Being "congregated" by Christ, they are drawn together by love for God and his King, Christ Jesus. They have one aim and purpose, to serve the true God, Jehovah, and to engage in worthwhile works. These worthwhile works honor God and advance the interests of his glorious kingdom. They include the proclamation of the good news of the Kingdom.

Throughout June Jehovah's Witnesses will take worthwhile knowledge to the people in the form of two bound Bible-study aid books and two booklets on a contribution of $1. All persons who desire to engage in worthwhile works are invited to contact the local Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses — or write The Watchtower, General Delivery, Lachute P.O., Que., or 150 Bridgeland Ave., Toronto 19, Ont.

For Parents Only...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

When children tattle

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

What should a parent do when a child plays the role of tattler? Mothers of small youngsters are often perplexed by this problem. Older children scorn the role of the tale-bearer. With indignation they say: "Teacher won't let us tattle on each other, and you shouldn't listen to Junior."

Mother wonders if this is the right thing to do. This seems outwardly like a problem for which an easy solution should be available, but many mothers and fathers admit they are puzzled on how to deal with this segment of human behavior.

They are not sure whether they should refuse to listen to the tale-bearer at all, and scold him for approaching them, as well. Or, should they hear the report to the end? Perhaps a brother or a sister has been guilty of some more or less serious mischief which should be corrected at once. Maybe a small boy has been bullied by a larger, stronger child and "telling" seems to be the only way to seek protection.

Naturally, a parent is curious as to whether or not the story is true. Every person colors his recitation of an event to some extent by his own reaction to it. Instead of being true or false, it probably is somewhere in between. By a few skillful questions, by checking on the answers, and by taking time to hear "the other person's version" of the incident, a parent can usually ascertain if the story is correct.

Parents must guard against jumping to conclusions, because there is no truer proverb than that there are always two sides to every question. An "informer" must learn that he is responsible for his own actions, not those of his brother, sister, or a neighbor's child.

If one child is maliciously lying about another child, he should learn that this is not done. To a small child regard for the truth may not sound very important, or be very clear. Nevertheless, he must not fabricate damaging stories out of whole cloth, or very little cloth.

Whether at a family council, or in a private talk, Mother and Dad usually manage to convey to the tattling child that everyone should work toward the goal of happy living together. Constant tale-bearing makes no contribution to happiness, but if a wrong must be reported, parents and the children concerned can try to discover how it happened, and what can be done to prevent the repetition of it, or some other bad form of behavior.

Parents must encourage their children to face up to their own small troubles themselves. They must learn sometimes to lose out, and lose gracefully, in minor disturbances. At the same time, if a child is deeply perplexed or terribly upset, he should always feel free to go to his mother or dad and talk things over. A lot of first steps in juvenile delinquency would never be taken if the adolescent would trust his parents sufficiently to confide in them.

Sometimes, tale-bearing is a form of self-defence. But it is a wise parent who helps a child to resist the urge to tattle. That well known cry: "I'll tell my Mother on you!" is the age-old cry of a little child who cannot quite cope with happenings in his own small world. Our children all want to grow up too quickly, so, let parents do all they can to discourage tale-bearing. We don't want any one taunting our offspring with the old rhyme:

"Tattle-tale tit!
Your tongue shall split,
And all the dogs in our town
Shall have a bit of it!"

Wife Preservers

For a good salad, the lettuce must be dry. Wash it beforehand, placing it in a towel-lined dish rack. Then pat it dry with the towel and keep it chilled until use.

Rhubarb is tops and flavorful

Young rhubarb, rose-tinted, juicy and tender, never seems to lose its appeal. That's why we're sure you will want to add these Consumer Section recipes to your rhubarb file. You'll find the jelly particularly good to serve as part of a fruit salad luncheon plate. The pie is delicious — like all rhubarb pies — but it's easier to make than most because you can bake the crust ahead of time and fill it when you need it.

Rhubarb Salad Mould

5 Cups red rhubarb (cut in ½" pieces), ½ cup water, ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatine, ½ cup cold water.

Measure rhubarb, water and sugar into saucepan, cover, bring slowly to a boil, then boil gently until rhubarb is very tender — 10 to 15 minutes. Meanwhile soak gelatine in the ½ cup cold water. Force rhubarb through a coarse sieve and stir well. Measure out 1½ cups of this juice, add soaked gelatine to it and stir, reheating if necessary to dissolve gelatine.

Pour into individual moulds and chill until firm. Serve on lettuce as a side salad or on a fruit plate. Makes 1½ cups — enough for 4 to 5 servings.

Glazed Rhubarb Pie

1½ Cups sugar, few grains salt, ½ cup water, 6 cups rhubarb (cut in 1-inch pieces), 2 tablespoons cornstarch, red food coloring, 9" baked pie shell.

Combine sugar, salt and water in large saucepan and bring to a boil. Add rhubarb, cover closely and simmer until tender, stirring occasionally but taking care not to break pieces. Pour into a sieve or colander and drain well, reserving syrup. Arrange rhubarb in the baked pie shell. Measure cornstarch into a saucepan and blend in 1½ cups of the reserved syrup, adding water if necessary to make 1½ cups. Return to heat and stir constantly until glaze thickens and becomes clear. Add coloring. Spoon glaze over rhubarb. Chill. Garnish with whipped cream, if desired. 6 servings.

WAX YOUR PAINTINGS

Cherished oil paintings in your home can be protected from soot and dust by a simple precautionary measure. A thin application of paste wax over the painted surface will keep an oil painting bright and easy to dust without damage to the art work. And while you're at it, don't forget to give the picture frame a waxing. It will take on new life, too.

Veal best buy, month of June

Reports from the Marketing Service of the Canada Department of Agriculture indicate that veal is the best buy in meats for June. If you are not accustomed to cooking this delicately flavored meat, specific instructions may be found in the Consumer Section book, "Meat, How to Buy — How to Cook", available at 50 cents a copy from the Queen's Printer, Ottawa.

Among the many suggestions and recipes for using various cuts of veal included in the Meat book, are Veal Birds, Veal Paprika, Braised Veal and Jellied Veal and Pork Loaf ideal for summer salad plates. Since veal has very little fat it is sometimes combined with fatter meats as in these two recipes for meat loaf.

Veal, Beef and Pork Loaf

½ Pound minced veal, ½ pound minced pork, 1 pound minced beef, 1 cup soft, stale bread crumbs, ½ to 1 cup tomato juice, 2 eggs (beaten), seasonings (salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce, chopped onion, parsley, celery and sage or thyme).

Mix together thoroughly. Fill loaf pan (9" x 5" x 3") and bake 1½ to 1¾ hours in moderate oven, 350°F. Cut into 16 to 20 slices and serve hot or cold.

A suitable salad to serve with Veal, Beef and Pork Loaf is a side salad of lettuce wedge with radishes and green onions and Thousand Island or spicy French dressing.

Veal and Pork Loaf

¾ Pound veal, 1½ pounds pork, 1 cup soft, stale bread crumbs, ½ cup milk, 2 eggs (beaten), seasonings (salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce, chopped onion, parsley, celery and sage or thyme).

Mix together thoroughly. Fill loaf pan (9" x 5" x 3") and bake 1½ to 1¾ hours in moderate oven, 350°F. Cut into 16 to 20 slices and serve hot or cold.

A suitable salad to serve with Veal and Pork Loaf is a shredded cabbage, diced apple and whole raisins, tossed with cooked salad dressing, and garnished with a sprinkling of celery seed.

It's vacation time for shutter-bugs!

"Tips on Touring"
By Carol Lane

There's something about the sun that brings out the camera in us. The vacationing shutterbug finds it one of the most satisfying ways of recording family fun — provided, of course, the pictures "come out."

Too often, some of us claim too much sun ruined our pictures. Tain't so! There's no brighter sun on a bright beach, for instance, than in our back yard — but there are more light-colored reflecting surfaces that bounce all the light right at us. The same holds true with white or light-colored buildings, deserts, expanses of water.

When you are faced with such surfaces, adjust your camera as you would for a bright subject in a bright sun, cut your aperture opening by an additional half or full stop and your snapshots will be right on the nose.

Color film can double the fun of photography. In many hands, however, red is often the predominant color in the print. Color shots taken in the early morning or late afternoon are apt to be excessively red. With the noon sun directly overhead, on the other hand, black shadows are cast under the eyebrows, noses and chins of our human subjects. For best results in color, use your camera between 9 and 11 in the morning and from 1.30 to 4 in the afternoon.

Incidentally, whenever you take your camera into the wilds, protect it from dust and dew with a carrying case. Slung over your shoulder, it will be out of your way, yet handy when you need it.

With a camera, today's pleasures can be captured and enjoyed tomorrow — and always!

Toronto (CP) — Reports that some babies in Toronto and Winnipeg have been found suffering scurvy has set the Canadian Mothercraft Society saying: "I told you so."

Inadequate intake of vitamin C is blamed for scurvy. The vitamin comes in orange juice and tomato juice, and breast-fed babies do not get scurvy.

Miss Barbara Walker, Toronto district supervisor for the Mothercraft Society, commented: "Some doctors now are considering if synthetic forms of vitamin C are assimilable, and whether orange and tomato preparations are satisfactory.

Natural Care

"For years, the Mothercraft Society has advocated natural childbirth and natural child care — and this means breast-feeding and giving real orange or tomato juice to babies. None of our babies ever got scurvy," she said.

The Mothercraft Society in Canada was formed in 1931, and is part of an organization which covers the Commonwealth. It has branches in Ottawa and Toronto, and from them seeks to educate the public in care of babies.

It runs advice clinics in both cities, where qualified nurses give advice to mothers on the care of babies and toddlers.

Pre-natal clinics also are held, where among other things physical exercises are taught to make childbirth easier.

The Society's small hospital in Toronto takes mothers after they have had their babies in other hospitals, encourages them to breast-feed their infants, and teaches them how to look after the child.

Trains Youngsters

Babies with diet problems or irregular habits also are taken and children sometimes are put there temporarily by the children's aid societies.

The society runs a "school for nannies" in conjunction with the hospital, training girls known as "well-baby nurses" in proper child care.

These girls work at the hospital for a year, then work in homes, taking care of children or teaching mothers how to look after their infants.

Changing Habits

Western food is adversely affecting the health of African natives, says Mrs. C. Austen Chawner, who has been a missionary for 38 years in Mozambique, South Africa.

She told a Pentecostal Assembly meeting at Vancouver recently that "the Africans want tea and sugar and even store bread if they are close to towns. That is bad for their health. Their own native foods are better."

Know what these are?

Blasting Caps used to detonate explosives in blasting sewers, roads, dams or for building excavations can seriously injure children who might mistake them for firecrackers or empty rifle cartidges. Here are examples of different types of blasting caps: 1. An aluminum blasting cap with safety fuse attached; 2. An aluminum blasting cap without safety fuse; 3. An electric blasting cap. All are dangerous in the wrong hands and children finding a stray one should notify parents, police or other authority.

Our Princess Margaret

— By Janet P. Graham —

Our charming and vivacious Princess Margaret belongs to a family who may date their coming to Scotland back to the time of William of Orange, according to Scottish history, when one Norman Leonne arrived with him, to take up residence.

His son Roger arrived in Scotland in company with King Edgar and obtained the lands of Glen Lyon in the eleventh century. In 1372, Sir John Lyon received the lands of Glamis, in the ancient royal burgh of Kingthorne, from King Robert II, because of their having been presented to his daughter Janet, whom Sir John Lyon married.

Patrick Lyon was created Lord Glamis before 1450 and, as the first Lord Glamis, attempted to rebuild the house, which had been Shakespeare's castle many years before, and whose earliest stonework dates back to the fifteenth century.

This Lord Glamis, unfortunately did not live to see his home completed, for he died in 1459, leaving his widow to complete the task. This she did and so lavishly that, what was destined to be the birthplace of our lovely Princess Margaret, was considered habitable enough to house a king — for when the Lyons family had their lands forfeited to the Crown, King James IV and Mary of Lorraine took possession, and actually set up court there from 1538 until 1542. Ancient Scottish records show that the king even went so far as to melt down their family silver for the mint.

Queen Mary also made a sally against the Gordons of Huntly from Glamis Castle, and it was not until the end of the century that the Lyons family were re-installed.

Perhaps King James felt that in a way he had some right to his stay in Glamis Castle, as a historical fact in Scottish history makes this claim, that as a descendant of Sir John Lyon of the noble family of Strathmore and Kingthorne makes the Queen Mother, a descendant of the Royal House of Stuart.

The Lyons took an active part in the affairs of state, and in 1606 Patrick Lyon was created ninth Lord Lyon, also Earl of Kingthorne, and Lord Lyon and Glamis. The title of Earl of Strathmore was conferred upon the second Earl of Kingthorne in 1677, but he retired from public life at the time of the revolution and contented himself with the improvement of his home and estates.

The name "Bowes" came into the picture when John, seventh Earl, married what was considered one of the richest women in Europe. She was Mary Bowes, only child of George Bowes of Stratheam Castle and Gibside, Durham, with Earl John taking on the name of Bowes, hence the Bowes-Lyons. His son John, eighth earl, was created Baron Bowes in the peerage of the United Kingdom in 1815.

The present holder of the title is Claude George, fourteenth Earl of Strathmore and Kingthorne, and father of our beloved Queen Mother.

It is doubtful if the present Glamis Castle that saw the birth of our Princess Margaret would have been the splendid building of the present day if 17-year-old Earl of Kingthorne (who inherited the estate after Cromwell's tenure of power had reduced it to the stage where "every available piece of land was mortgaged or pledged in some form to numerous creditors") had not taken it in hand.

The young Earl devoted his lifetime to its restoration in every way, and much of the fine carvings and paintings inside this castle where our Queen Elizabeth has a special sitting room, is the work of two Dutchmen whom he hired to do the re-decorating.

It has been said that "When a tradition is held for centuries, it is safe to assume that there is something in that tradition", also that "Scotland has mair to boast about than cauld kail and pirriatch" and, apart from Bobby Burns, they have the ancient castles, some of which are still tenanted and renovated, and others just bleak reminders of their former greatness. Built because, as Jan Waters writing in a Scottish magazine once said, "Scotland's history has been so stormy and of such bloody unfolding that it is not surprising that, when our worthy ancestors were presented with gifts of land from the king, they at once set about raising for themselves impregnable fortresses upon those lands, and the country side today is dotted over with their ancient keeps and towers."

Glamis is one of the latter castles, and much loved by all Scottish people, but not more loved by any than by our Princess Margaret, who with her older sister, now Queen Elizabeth II, were never happier than when they knew the visit to Deeside was planned. Deeside, where they and their mother could just slip over the hillside and visit the grandparents for a few days before being joined by their Royal father, who came to collect his family and take them to Balmoral for the summer entertainments and duties.

Another reason for their fondness for the Deeside visit was the march of the clansmen, which up until 1937 was a part of the Braemar Highland Society annual gathering, first constituted by their Royal great-grandmother, Queen Victoria, in 1859 where its members turned out in full force each in their special tartan. So different from when it had its real beginnings and its members were almost solely of the common people; carpenters and joiners dressed simply in their white linen aprons, worn over their everyday vests and trousers. One of Queen Victoria's admonitions to them was, "Remember that you are all Queen Victoria's men."

We can imagine that the young princesses would love to watch the march of the clans on this particular day and would have, no doubt, a few quiet little giggles as they watched what the late Harry Lauder classed "the wiggle, wiggle, waggles o' the kilts."

Another of the loves of our princess, whose name Margaret, means "a pearl", is her love of dogs which is also a characteristic of the Royal family. Perhaps a trait that has come down to them from the Royal great-grandmother again, Queen Victoria was a dog lover, but not so fond of the cairn type, as the late King George and his family.

One particular cairn named "Bobs", who followed the late King George almost everywhere that dogs were allowed, got special attention from the little princesses, who one day were seemingly lost. Anxious servants searched for them in every possible place and heaved sighs of relief when they were eventually found in a storeroom of the castle, with Bobs. They were trying to teach him to jump over boxes, as they had seen trained dogs in a pantomime doing. Anxious to please his little mistresses, poor Bobs was making clumsy but valiant attempts to do as they wished.

The Royal Family have proved that in their love for dogs they heartily agree with the sentiment of one writer, who says of dogs: "They never make it their business to inquire whether you are in the right or in the wrong, never care whether you are rich or poor, silly or wise, they just feel that you are their pal, and that is enough for them."

When very young, Princess Margaret was a lovable, doll-like child, a baby everyone loved at sight, and as she grew older it was not long before she was exhibiting a keen interest in her garments, an interest which she continues to the present day.

As a child Princess Margaret was fun-loving and especially quick of wit. Some one asked her once which of the kings of England was her favorite king and her quick reply was, "King Charles, because he was not my grandfather."

One other amusing remark was made when, informed that the young prince born to her sister, Princess Elizabeth, was to be named Charles, "Oh!" Princess Margaret laughingly cried, "That means that I shall be 'Charlie's Aunt'."

It happened that Princess Margaret was in Sheffield on an official mission when Prince Charles was born, and when on the stage of a pageant that Sheffield was producing, she said, "I shall never forget the good news of my sister's baby. I shall never forget the way you have shared my happiness today."

There have been many reports of Princess Margaret's conquests but those of us who know of her disturbed moments when she was making up her mind whether to marry, or not to marry, Group Captain Peter Townsend, can realize that the eyes of her soul were not always looking out of sunny windows — and hope that the day will come soon when we will see this beloved little princess happily married, even though we are a bit disappointed at the failure of the old prophesy, "that any girl born at Glamis knows her husband by her twentieth birthday."

Who knows? Perhaps her coming to Canada for British Columbia's Centennial may change things regarding her future.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane

Women's Travel Authority

For the woman with a "green thumb", summer is the ideal time to see Canada by car. From early spring until the end of summer, the multitude of flower festivals, shows and garden tours turn our cities and countryside into a veritable haven for the amateur horticulturist.

At this time of the year, many a woman who takes pride in her own back yard likes to get out in the car to search for new kinds of wild flowers. A woman I know used to visit many flower shows and come home full of ideas for her own garden. Then she hit upon the best idea of all. She turned her car into a "hothouse-on-wheels", and now safely brings home bulbs and small plants from the nation's finest growing grounds for transplanting in her own garden.

This friend used to fear travelling long distances with plants rattling around in the back seat or trunk of her car, but her ingenious "hothouse-on-wheels" makes safe travelling possible. It consists of a dozen or so clear plastic bags from the grocery store, a flat cardboard box and a handful of rubber bands. When she purchases a plant along the way, she knocks it gently out of the brick pot and saves the dirt. She puts the plant, soil and all, into a plastic bag with the roots at the bottom of the bag. She adds a little water and seals the bag with a rubber band. Then she lines up the bags, root-side down, in the cardboard box which she places on the floor of the back seat. The plastic bags hold the moisture. There is no pottery to break and no dirt to spill. Her method is quick, clean and foolproof — and it leaves her free from worry about her plants until she gets home.

Just the other day, my friend told me that she's off on her annual flower tour. If you have a "green thumb", why not take a tip from her (and from me!) and try "gardening-on-the-go"?

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you:

Q. I lost my job and am receiving benefit. May I paint my own house without having my benefit reduced or stopped? I am willing to accept employment.

A. More complete information would be needed as to your availability to enable a decision to be made. For example, it would be important to know how extensive the painting job was, whether it was the inside or the outside of the house or both, etc.

* * *

Q. I usually work as a logger but during January and February each year, when there is no work in the woods, I sometimes go commercial fishing for a week or two, on a share basis, with my brother who owns a boat. Can I still draw unemployment insurance benefit while I am fishing?

* * *

A. During the seasonal benefit period you are considered to be unemployed and available for work while engaged in commercial fishing. However, the amount of benefit which you are entitled will depend upon the amount of money you earn each week as a fisherman.

* * *

Q. I am working under a foreman who is very unfair. The other day I lost my temper and quit. Can I draw benefits?

A. If you can prove to the satisfaction of the insurance officer that you had just cause for quitting your job, you can draw benefits. If it is considered that you did not have just cause, you may be disqualified for a period of up to six weeks.

* * *

Q. Because I left my job to get married, I was unable to draw my unemployment insurance. Is it true that a married woman is not entitled to benefit until two years after her wedding?

A. If a married woman has left her job voluntarily without just cause, she may be disqualified for a period of up to six weeks. The special regulations that applied to women who became claimants in the first two years after marriage were revoked effective November 17, 1957.

Help available for snore sufferers

"Snoring is a widespread complaint that afflicts only those who are not the patients, and only because they are so unfortunate as to have good hearing," according to a report from the American Medical Association.

Dr. Fabricant, author of the report, said that snoring is generated while breathing in or out during sleep, by several structures in the nose and throat. The sounds are vibrations in the soft palate and other structures of the throat in response to inflowing and outflowing air. Vibration occurs when the soft tissues of the mouth and throat come close to the lining of the throat.

"In short, snoring can be compared to the noise made when a breeze causes a flag to flutter," Dr. Fabricant said.

Some of the ways in which it can be lessened and even cured are removal of tonsils and adenoids, especially in children who snore, surgical correction of deformities which block the nose; treatment of allergy or infection which blocks the nose and removal of polyps, benign jelly-like masses hanging in the back of the nose.

Many snorers do so only when lying on their backs. Such sleepers should be made to change the position of the head to prevent the tongue from falling back. One way of doing this is to make it uncomfortable for him to lie on his back — usually by sleeping with a small pillow under the nape of the neck.

It is possible "to draw two sound conclusions about snoring," the doctor stated. . . "The first is that snoring is repressible, even curable, when a definite cause-and-effect relationship is discovered. Something can be done about it. . . .

"The other conclusion is that the agonized listener, helplessly adrift on a sea of snores, can always wear earplugs when everything else fails!"

Sub-grade potatoes as livestock feed

Small and off-grade potatoes unsuitable for domestic use can be disposed of profitably through livestock feeding.

Dr. F. Whiting of the Lethbridge Experimental Farm reports 500 pounds of potatoes were equal to 100 pounds of grain in feeding value for milking cows and fattening lambs, when fed with alfalfa-hay and grain. However, he says, for good results, potatoes should be fed to livestock with care; they have their limitations as a livestock feed.

Potatoes are about 80 percent water and therefore are somewhat similar to silage. They are lower in protein, essential minerals and vitamins than most of the commonly used feeds. For these reasons potatoes should be fed in conjunction with high quality feeds such as legume hay and cereal grains, or a protein - mineral supplement should be added to the ration. Potatoes should be included in the ration gradually as they are sometimes unpalatable to stock at first.

Potatoes are usually fed raw to cattle and sheep, but should be cooked for pigs. Sprouts should be knocked off them before feeding. Sunburned, frozen, or decayed potatoes should not be fed to any class of stock as they sometimes are poisonous. Large potatoes should be sliced or pulverized before feeding to avoid danger of choking.

Fattening cattle or milking cows should not be fed over 30 pounds of potatoes daily, while fattening lambs and breeding ewes should not be fed over 3 pounds per head daily. Pigs may be fed up to 6 pounds per head daily depending upon the size of the pig. If more than these quantities are fed to swine, scouring may result. Unless a large amount of potatoes are available, they will be more value as a feed if approximately half the above-mentioned amounts are fed. Potatoes should be fed to dairy cows immediately after milking, to avoid off-flavors in the milk.

THE FAIR

By Norman Thorburn

Ménissippe he'll be there
And his friend, Donat St. Pierre,
Jimmy Brown and Jack McGowan,
All the fine folks 'round the town,
They'll be there, at the Fair.
Oh! there's nothing quite so cute,
Around the town of old Lachute,
As the Fair. — Will you be there?
Lovely girls with flaxen curls,
Riding horses 'round the courses,
Jumping hurdles, what a thrill,
Sometimes causing quite a spill.
With riding suit and fancy boot,
Dashing female on a steed
That was the finest of its breed;
You had skill and you had nerve,
You had poise and you had verve,
You thrilled the men, Oh tell us when You'll come again, Equestrienne.
Yes, we like the horsey gals,
And they make the best of pals,
They'll be there, at the Fair,
Again this year, don't you fear.
All the breeds of cattle
That this Fair is noted for,
Everything in finest fettle,
Everyone will try to score.
The finest horses in the land,
Some that bear the Arnold brand,
There's girls that dance,
And games of chance
Toot your flute, toot your flute,
Let's all get out and root
For the sake of old Lachute,
And its Fair — yes, we'll be there.

Clydesdale stallion of champion calibre purchased here

A. T. Cleland, well known breeder of Clydesdale horses, has recently purchased an outstanding stallion. This stallion, Riverview Pioneer's Laddie 30297, was bred by Fred W. Dunn, of Alexander, Man. He is three years old and has twice been Grand Champion Clydesdale Stallion at the Royal Agricultural Fair in Toronto.

From a family of winners, his Sire, Scotland's Pioneer (Imported), was also Grand Champion at the Royal. A full brother of this horse, Riverview Pioneer Sandy, was Reserve Junior and Reserve and Grand Champion. His half-sister was second in the Best Canadian Mare (three years and over class). Two other half-sisters placed first and second respectively in the Canadian Bred Female class of three years and under.

Prior to being purchased by Mr. Cleland, this horse was owned by Robert Wilson & Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Temperature is important factor in egg quality

F. G. Proudfoot of the Kentville, N.S., Experimental Farm, Canada Department of Agriculture, says it is important to maintain the proper storage or holding temperature for eggs, not only at the grading and wholesale levels but also at the farm, retail and consumer level. A temperature of 50 degrees F. will keep eggs in good condition during normal marketing functions.

At the Kentville Farm, decline in egg quality was measured at storage temperatures of 30 degrees F. and 70 degrees F.; the former representing the temperature at which eggs are normally stored for extended periods of time and the latter was assumed to be representative of the normal holding temperature at the retail level. Egg quality deteriorated more during one week at 70 degrees than during eight weeks at 30 degrees.

After storage for one week at 70 degrees F., the proportion of Grade B eggs had definitely increased and after two weeks internal quality had deteriorated to B Grade or lower. At the end of eight weeks in storage at 30 degrees F., egg quality was still at the A grade level.

Research at the Kentville Experimental Farm in the general field of quality in egg production, shows that a marked difference exists in the quality of eggs produced by different commercial stocks of poultry. Although most commercial stocks are reasonably good, a difference is shown in egg size, albumen height, shell strength and the amount of blood spots and meat spots. Environment, of course, is also important and certain diseases and dietary factors have a very definite effect on egg quality traits and may even change the shell color.

Grows fodder without soil

Sarnia, Ont. (CP) — Food grown without soil for millions of people has been a dream of science fiction writers for years.

Scientists now call the system hydroponics. Gordon McGillivray, a local farmer, used it last winter to feed his 11 cows.

Using oats as seed, he obtained a nine-inch growth in six days in his 10-by-12 foot "grass incubator". Water with soluble chemical plant food added fed the plants, and the cows ate the roots as well as the stem.

The incubator is artificially lighted and can produce feed for 20 Holsteins or 30 Jerseys. Each cow got up to 40 pounds of feed a day, equivalent to the normal silage ration.

CONSERVATION SCHOOL

Government not liable for Thurso cattle deaths

The Dominion Government has no responsibility for paying compensation for deaths of cattle in the Thurso area which were vaccinated with anti-rabies vaccine intended for dogs — Agricultural Minister Harkness said last Wednesday.

Replying to a Commons question by Hazen Argue, CCF House Leader, he also said he is considering increased rates of compensation for animal deaths under existing Dominion legislation.

Such compensation normally covers farm animals ordered slaughtered because of disease.

How Do You Get Bargains?

We are always looking for bargains, and everybody is offering bargains. From Cars to Soap, they are all trying to convince you that they are giving you something for nothing!

I believe it was a famous circus owner who said, "It cost a lot to paint the elephants white, but it paid off." He also said that "you can fool all the people part of the time, some of the people all the time, but you can't fool all the people all of the time."

Beware of bargains that seem to be for Nothing. In this day of high prices, few can afford to give something for nothing, and those who can aren't doing it, either.

We are continually being told of getting cheaper feed, and our competitors are offering feed which they say is "just as good as Purina but cheaper." That may be true as far as the price tag per bag goes, but remember they have to buy their ingredients on the same markets as Purina, and their dollars are not any more valuable than Purina's. So if they would give you the same ingredients in the same amounts and quantity, they couldn't make the price tag any more attractive than Purina.

But remember, they may be able to fool you, but they cannot fool your animals or poultry! While the livestock can't do any figuring, they just give you back what you put in the feed; and beyond that what they can't use goes into the manure pile, and if they have to put most of your feed there, that is not their worry!

PURINA RESEARCH has produced Chows that have more in them that the animals can use, and less to go onto the manure pile. . . Won't you swing to Purina today? We offer you bargains, but not give-aways!

Hospital construction only 2 months away

Architect's plans accepted, $600,000 grant approved

Construction of the long-awaited Lachute Regional Hospital is expected to get underway in approximately two months — it was announced this morning by Gilbert E. Ayers, Hospital president, following a meeting of the board of directors. The meeting was called following announcement by Premier Maurice Duplessis, that an Order-in-Council authorizing the $600,000 grant had been approved.

Grattan Thompson, architect engaged for the project, has completed the plan and design for the building, which has been accepted by the local board and is presently in the hands of the Federal and Provincial Departments of Health. It is anticipated that the specifications for the building will be complete in a week or so, and that tenders will then be called for the construction. (A reproduction of the architect's drawing will appear in next week's issue.)

"The Board will go out of its way to see that as much work as possible is done by local business concerns," stated Roger Regimbal, one of the directors, adding that the financial campaign among the English portion of the population would be co-ordinated with the turning of the first sod, in about two months time.

The hospital, which will house approximately 58 beds, will cost an estimated $900,000 for construction alone, and will be operated by the Sisters of Providence, who will have adequate living accommodation in the new construction.

It was mentioned that the Federal Government grant of $2,000 per hospital bed is included in the grant announced by Premier Duplessis — who on May 21 informed the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Minister of Mines, of the approval of the request. (The text of this letter appears on page 2 of this issue.)

Mr. Regimbal pointed out that the grant of $600,000 will be allotted over a three-year period and that, to date, the local campaign had netted close to $75,000 in the bank. "Upwards of 95 per cent of the pledges are being honored," he added, and we have hopes of collecting an additional $50,000 in cash and new pledges from the English portion of the population.

The approved plans call for a one-storey modern building, with two wings at the present time, one maternity and one medical-surgical. The plan is designed so as to facilitate additions at a later date and still maintain a highly efficient and modern-appearing structure.

The board of the Lachute Regional Hospital is comprised of — Gilbert E. Ayers, president; Léopold Carrière, vice-president; Donald M. Hay, treasurer; Simon Valois, secretary; Herbert Graves, Roger Regimbal and Armand Desrosiers.

Recognition to Red Cross worker

The Ladies' Branch of the Lachute Red Cross at their June meeting paid tribute to one of their members, in the person of Mrs. E. R. Morrin, who was presented with the "Badge of Service" for meritorious voluntary work over a long period of time. Shown making the presentation is Mrs. F. C. Morrison (left), chairman of the Work Committee, while Mrs. J. E. Leonard (right), Branch president, looks on.

Canada has six provincial universities, 16 private universities and about 170 colleges that give degree credit courses.

Lachute from aloft

Yet another innovation has been announced with tomorrow's opening of the Lachute Spring Fair, this being the procuring of a helicopter, which will be at the disposal of all Fair visitors for a nominal sum.

Short tours of Lachute and surroundings will be offered and, according to comment to date, will add something that has been wanted for some time, enabling local citizens to see their home-town from the air.

Drowning averted, child owes life to quick action

Quick action on the part of Lewis McMahon, an employee of Don Boa's Service Station, last Thursday, saved the life of seven-year-old Robert Belanger — the boy apparently having been knocked unconscious in a fall into the North River, in the vicinity of the service station.

The incident occurred shortly after four p.m. when the victim, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Belanger, Mountain View, was walking along the river bank, accompanied by Bill Poley, Jr. Stepping on a rock which gave away underneath him, the lad tumbled down the bank into the river, injuring his back.

His young companion ran for help. In the meantime, however, Jean Claude Cyr, age nine, also of Mountain View, was crossing Barron's Bridge and saw the incident. He immediately headed for the nearby garage and summoned aid there, all employees leaving the building to give assistance.

When the youth was recovered by McMahon, who jumped into the water, only his hands were visible above the surface. He was assisted in his heroic deed by Albert Meyer, Wayne Neill, René Desjardins and Don Boa, all of whom aided in bringing the injured boy up the steep embankment.

Police Chief Fernand Trépanier later investigated, and stated that an official report was being submitted to the Lachute Town Council with the recommendation that public recognition be paid to Lewis McMahon and others concerned in the rescue.

Sees co-operation lacking in teens and dance hall problem

Mayor says complaints more numerous; Police Chief finds the public apathetic

At the last regular meeting of Lachute Town Council, Mayor Léopold Carrière presided. Absent from the meeting were Aldermen Ross Muir and Lauréat Laurin.

A grant of $20 in the form of use of the Auditorium was given to the J.O.C. of Lachute, for the presentation of a film of the young Catholic workers who went to Rome last summer — to be presented on Sunday, June 15, with free admission.

A letter from the Sacred Heart League of St. Julien Parish, requesting a grant towards the purchase of equipment for a playground, was laid on the table for further study.

A request by Mr. G. Cruise, on the price of a 686 foot sewer on Fern Street was referred to the engineer. The council agreed to loan 100 chairs to the Agricultural Society during the Exhibition.

Councillor Mozart Carrière gave notice of motion that at the next regular meeting he would move or cause to be moved certain amendments to By-law 118 concerning stray dogs.

Permits for construction were granted to Messrs. Jean Presseault, for a house on Main Street East, M. M. McCaskill for a house in the McGibbon development, and Jean-Guy Lepage, for a house on Ray Street.

The Chief of Police was ordered to define by yellow paint the non-parking distance from the corners of Foundry and Bethany Streets; at Muir's Service Station from the corner of Main and Bethany Streets; and at Desrosiers Garage from the corners of Brownsburg Road and Chatham Streets.

The works department was authorized to proceed with the construction of 600 feet of sidewalks in each of the three sections of town.

Accounts were presented for the month amounting to $12,440.50 and passed on motion of Ald. Morrissette, seconded by Ald. Lepage. It was decided to purchase 6 inch and 14 inch valves with the necessary pipes as required.

A letter of resignation was received from Ald. Ross Muir, and read to the meeting. The Mayor expressed surprise at this move, stating that it could not be accepted without some explanation nor would they wish to lose the services of such an experienced councillor.

Lack of Co-operation

"The public should co-operate more fully with the police department when they know that teenagers are being allowed in our grills and taverns. People do not hesitate to call us if a cat is up a tree or to remove a dead dog or animal from the street but on the question of teenagers there is little if any co-operation. The Mayor and councillors should not be pestered with questions. The town has its police department to handle such situations."

Such was the reply given to Mayor Carrière by Police Chief Trépanier, following his statement that complaints of teenagers in dance halls were more numerous than ever.

"I cannot understand," the chief said, "where these complaints come from. I, along with my men, visit regularly these dance halls carrying liquor permits, and I receive a regular report which I have no reason to doubt."

On one occasion, two under-age girls hid in the toilet while the police were inspecting the premises, but the proprietor refused to devulge their names. This the chief stated could not be called "co-operation."

Mr. Trépanier said that he would do his utmost to prevent the admittance of teenagers to hotels, and would appreciate the help of all concerned.

Edward M. Jones is honored by Legion at public function

Receives Meritorious Service Medal, highest award to veteran and citizen

A well known and deserving citizen was honored by the Canadian Legion at the memorial hall here Saturday night in the presence of a large gathering of veterans, wives and fellow townspeople — Edward M. Jones being presented with the Meritorious Service Medal, highest recognition of the Legion, and the accompanying citation paying tribute to his record.

Comrade Bernard Jenkins was master of ceremonies, and the ceremonies attending this recognition were fittingly impressive. Mr. Jenkins read telegrams and messages from several citizens unable to attend, and presented those seated with him at the head-table — Mr. and Mrs. Jones; the Branch 70 president, R. O. (Dick) MacLean and Mrs. MacLean; and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Giles — the former being a previous recipient of this high honor from the local branch.

The Meritorious Service Award, as explained by the chairman, had been recommended by Lachute Branch 70 on these two occasions, and it was a notable distinction to the Branch that both had been approved by the Provincial Commander, the Dominion Command, and found worthy of the honor. The requirements, said Comrade Jenkins, might be crystallized in a paragraph of the membership Induction pledge, namely, that the veteran, who served his Country under arms, shall serve with equal loyalty and endeavor in civilian life.

The presentation to Edward M. Jones was then made by President Dick MacLean, whose oration also paid fitting tribute to the guest of honor as a veteran of the Canadian forces in World War I; a founder of the Legion branch, consistently active in its functions ever since; and a citizen and businessman whose energy, time and financial resources had contributed in many spheres, charities and civic movements.

Seats among the spectators were reserved for members of Edward's family, his brothers, sisters and relatives. Mayor Léopold Carrière, Mrs. Carrière and civic and Legion notables were present, including Comrade E. Kneeland, of Morin Heights, president of District Command. The Hon. W. M. Cottingham was represented by his brother-in-law, Chas. L. Duncan, who was also one of the Branch 70 charter members.

Comrade Jones made a fitting reply to the honors and plaudits accorded to him; his remarks were in a reminiscent vein which revived memories among his older listeners. A beautiful bouquet of flowers was presented to Mrs. Jones by Comrade Tom Smith, vice-president.

Present on this occasion was Comrade Ossie Thompson, sport activities chairman for Provincial Command, who was called upon to make two presentations — the provincial cribbage championship trophy to Comrades Don Cockburn and Fred Pring, and the Branch 70 cribbage trophy to Comrade Pierre (Pop) Lecorre.

A pleasant social evening followed these proceedings, with music for dancing provided by Ernie Lefebvre's orchestra.

The commitee and organizers deserve generous credit for arranging this function so successfully.

Rotary topic deals with psychology of sightless people

At a meeting of the Rotary Club on June 5, President King Amos presented a cheque for $250 to Mayor Léopold Carrière, chairman of the County Advisory Board for CNIB to purchase an optithalmic kit for eye examinations.

Rotarian John Chalmers introduced speaker Lloyd McClintock, who is Field Service Supervisor for CNIB in the Province of Quebec. Mr. McClintock, blind since youth, took his degree in Law at McGill University, practised for a time, then joined the CNIB. He is an active Rotarian in the Montreal Club, and next month will have seven years of 100% attendance as a Rotarian.

The speaker said, in part: "In our lives, when we suffer a handicap such as blindness, we are barred from certain phases of daily living and must therefore channel our efforts in limited fields, to be useful and earn a living. This is where CNIB comes in to help one, where to proceed and what to do. Everything is geared to seeing — shaving, driving, working and the whole way of living.

"In blindness one feels that life is void, and one begins thinking in negative terms, rather than in terms of what can still be done. CNIB tries to think in terms of what the sufferer can do to be useful. Then he is on the road to rehabilitation. Much work is undone by friends and families of the blind persons. In the world of the blind there are two types — the conformist, and the non-conformist, who has ideas of how blind persons should act. If he refuses to accept society's pattern, he is a rebel. A person who fights uniformity is an average, normal blind person, not one who conforms to pre-conceived patterns. He is constantly made aware he is different by misplaced kindness, which creates an inferiority complex. Over-helpful people often put a blind person off balance. CNIB tries to teach the public to give assistance by simply offering help, a bit of understanding, allowing them to be helped gracefully but not conspicuously. The public often speaks loudly, as though all blind persons were deaf. The public fears blindness and does not thus react normally — views blindness with awe, and doesn't give the blind credit for those attributes they do have, such as musical ability. Or they may over-rate the accomplishment of the blind, e.g., having been taught to compensate loss of vision with other senses of hearing, touch and smell. This creates a bad effect and might tend to form a superiority complex.

"CNIB convinces patients, relatives and friends to regard the blind as normal individuals who contribute something to their communities; handicapped, yes, but not different from the average man — people to be helped to be normal individuals and to build up confidence."

Receiving medal and award

The June meeting of the local Red Cross was held in the United Church hall, with Mrs. J. E. Leonard presiding.

Mrs. Fraser Morrison reported her committee had packed and shipped three large cartons, and that she had received a letter from Red Cross headquarters telling how much the work and donations were appreciated, especially baby bootees. During the summer, some of the ladies in their spare time could donate bootees; these are always in great demand.

Mrs. Leonard called upon Mrs. Morrison to present Mrs. E. R. Morrin with the "Badge of Service" This award is for meritorious voluntary work of the Society. Mrs. Morrison spoke highly of the loyalty and years of faithful service given by Mrs. Morrin to the Red Cross.

Following the presentation, tea was served. The next meeting will be in September.

Canadian authors visit the Carillon Museum

Several members of the Canadian Authors Association from all over the Dominion visited the Museum at Carillon last Saturday by invitation of the executive of the Historical Society of Argenteuil. This was a post-convention historical tour, which included a short visit to St. Eustache Church where the bullet holes are still to be seen in the walls since the Rebellion of St. Eustache — going on from there to Oka with its Trappist monastery. Time did not permit a visit to the monastery itself, but a brief visit was made to the Oka Church, with Mrs. Andrew McKeller as guide and commentator, pointing out all the places of interest along the route.

A number of the executive of the Historical Society headed by Mrs. George McGibbon, president, welcomed the group of authors at the Museum entrance. The welcoming directors with Mrs. McGibbon were Mme W. Papineau, Mrs. A. W. Pentland, Mrs. A. O. Ponder, Mrs. J. C. McIndoe, Miss B. Robertson and Mr. Mac Walker. Others in attendance were Mr. J. S. Giles, a former president, and Mrs. A. G. Talbot, representing her husband who could not be present, also Mr. Lund, who is himself the author of several interesting books.

A dainty buffet lunch was enjoyed by the visiting authors, who expressed their appreciation of this hospitality, as well as of the beauty of the surroundings and the many exhibits, with regrets that they had not more time to visit, having to continue on in the tour up through

School Board land expropriation extends to Lions Club projected arena property

In a surprise development last week which places priority on a portion of land west of Harriet Street for future expansion of Lachute High School — specifically, two lots which had been acquired by the I.G.A. Food Stores for a grocery centre, also a slice of the Barron property—it became apparent to the Lions Club directorate that this latter property includes their site purchased from the Barron Estate for a projected community arena.

The matter was a foremost topic at the regular club meeting last week, when it was spontaneously agreed that some alternative site must be procured and other plans developed. It was felt this might afford a basis for enlisting other elements and organizations in the project. The venture has proved a challenging one to this club, with its limited resources. The necessary land was acquired, and an ice-making machine purchased. But although the public has responded loyally to the Lions' various fund-raising efforts, their exchequer is still far from adequate to launch a construction program.

It was therefore agreed, in view of last week's developments, that the arena idea should be promoted from an angle of wider community participation, and on terms to enable possible aid from government departments.

The public will be duly informed when a new site is selected and plans formulated.

Educators and notables at Harrington school opening

Harrington — The official opening of the new Protestant Consolidated School at Harrington East, Que., will be remembered as one of the events of great importance in the progress of this community.

About 200 citizens of the locality and members of neighboring school boards gathered in the school auditorium to hear speaches and greetings by many local notables and educators, chief of whom were — Mrs. Donald McCabe, the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Mr. J. O. Latour, Mr. James McGibbon, Mr. Henry Salmi and five members of the local clergy.

Mrs. Donald McCabe, Assistant Supervisor of English, Department of Education, brought greetings from the Department and emphasized the pride of community which could only be experienced with a well-organized and well-supported school.

Mr. J. O. Latour, M.P., thanked the gathering for their support in the last election. He spoke of the urgent need of better-educated and trained citizens to carry Canada ahead in her present growth and development.

Mr. James McGibbon congratulated the local School Board on the fine new building and stressed the great amount of work that is required of any School Board that undertakes to build or enlarge a school.

The Hon. W. M. Cottingham emphasized the good will of the Department towards the building of a new school in this locality, also the generosity of the Provincial Government towards the Protestant minority group. He hoped that this was only a start of improvements to the educational facilities of this community.

Mr. Henry Salmi, school principal, thanked the guests for supporting this occasion.

The Junior Bagpipe Band of Harrington, under the able leadership of Gilbert Young, played several selections during the program. Refreshments were served in conclusion.

Provincial police and offices in new quarters

The new offices of the local detachment of Provincial Police are now open in the former H. M. Lavigne store, at the corner of Princess and Millway Streets. At present, the office is occupied from 9 a.m. until 1 a.m., the telephone number being LO 2-2233.

Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen reports that, in addition to the general business office, the quarters house private offices for himself, an assistant; the Traffic Department sergeant; Quebec Liquor Police; and an office for the traffic patrolmen where reports and files are recorded.

In addition to this, the new facilities include a police cell and lavatory facilities, including a shower.

Five occupants are casualties in head-on collision

A head-on collision between two passenger cars on the St. Jerome highway a few miles east of Lachute, set sirens wailing Sunday morning around 10 a.m., and sent five persons to hospital — three to Lachute and two to Hawkesbury.

Injured were James Huggins, 50, and his wife, and Miss Violet Langdon, 30 — Montrealers who were coming westward to Lachute. Also, in an eastbound car from Chute-à-Blondeau, Mr. and Mrs. Procule Belanger. The two cars — a Lincoln '55 and an Oldsmobile '54, respectively — collided head-on at a curve near Bourbonniere's Camps, both vehicles being shattered probably beyond repair.

Mr. Belanger, whose age was recorded as 87, and his wife were taken by Menard ambulance to a Hawkesbury hospital.

The Montreal party had meanwhile been transported to the Providence Hospital here and received medical treatment from Dr. R. Lavigne. Most seriously injured was Mrs. Huggins, who was later transferred to the Royal Victoria Hospital with a possible skull fracture, also a severe injury to the right foot. Miss Langdon received severe shock and cuts about the face.

Cst. Paul Perrier, of the local traffic patrol, investigated the accident, with Cst. Laurence Cruise assisting.

LEGION NOTES

— by —

Branch 70 (Lachute) Correspondent

The entertainment presentations at Lachute Spring Fair on Friday and Saturday evenings of this week were undertaken by the Canadian Legion Branch 70 purely as a service to the community. The directors of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society came up with a new twist which they felt might give the Fair a shot in the arm. It is not a financially practical proposition today for County Fairs to compete in the entertainment field with television and other popular outlets. However, we think, like the directors, that when local people provide their own entertainment, then there should be more local interest in it. After all is said and done, the success or failure of a County Fair is dependent to a very large extent on the support of the local citizenry.

The Canadian Legion is basically a service organization. The membership induction ritual reads in part: "You are now a member of an organization which is unique in that it is based upon a common service and a common sacrifice. It has to offer comradeship only and asks of its members — service, not for self, but for those of our comrades or their dependents who are in need or distress. It requires you to remember that as you have served your country under arms, so you should serve in civilian life, ever zealous in any work which will make our Country and our Commonwealth more truly representative of the ideals for which our Comrades laid down their lives."

It is a well known fact that other local organizations, for one reason or another, did not warm up to the idea too much. In fact, the Legion commenced with tentative arrangements for one evening only and developments later led to plans for two evenings. We were particularly pleased when the Lachute Lions decided to take on the Thursday evening activities. This is only as it should be. For years now local service clubs, including the Legion, have depended upon the County Fair as a source of proceeds from sales of raffle tickets, etc.

Many thanks to the Fair Directors for the opportunity to assist them, and for the generous financial possibilities they have afforded the Branch. May the Lachute Spring Fair long remain a successful volunteer institution!

* * *

While we are on the subject of Community Service, we cannot help but mention two organizations who are doing a wonderful job. Some people will no doubt say "it's their business" but where does one draw the line between business and service? As far as this Legion Branch is concerned, Giles Publishing House, Lachute; and Frank Ryan's Broadcasting Station CFRA, Ottawa, have long since crossed that line. We must also remember Farmers' Supply Co., who have contributed much of their broadcast time over CFRA for our cause. All of these people are uniquely qualified, as long-standing Ottawa Valley institutions, to be of great assistance with any local Community Service venture. They have a personal knowledge of and interest in the welfare of the folk of the "Valley". They are a part of this wonderful area of Canada — their roots go deeper than the dollars and cents of business — to these and other local friends we acknowledge a deep sense of gratitude, and hope they continue their policy to be of Community Service.

* * *

Plans for the Legion activities at the Fair are complete — we are now dependent upon the weather man and the generosity of you, the visitors to the Fair. Comrade Doug Ogilvie has advised that he expects about 15 entries in the Horsedrawing contest on Saturday evening, several of these coming from the northern States. Comrade Tom Smith has advised that votes polled to date for each of the four Queens have been quite well divided, and close competitition at the last minute is expected in this department. All members and individuals selling tickets are asked to make a last-minute check to make sure that all stubs are in. All those favoring a certain Queen are asked to make their purchases as quickly as possible. Remember, the drawing takes place on Friday night.

All Legion members are asked to report to the Fair Grounds for their various duties, wearing berets, and if possible, blazers or other distinguishing marks of identification.

Today is June 6 — long remembered in the annals of history as one of the momentous days of our times. From the Allied landings on the beaches of France, to VE Day. Should ever thought be given to changing Remembrance Day from November 11 — and Heaven forbid — June 6 is surely our second choice.

See you next week!

Air Force Day, Lac St. Denis to welcome public

Air Force Day is held each year at Royal Canadian Air Force Stations across Canada for the express purpose of giving the Canadian people the opportunity to visit Air Force establishments and to see, at first hand, how servicemen and women live, the work they do, and the equipment in use.

On June 14, RCAF Station Lac St. Denis, near Morin Heights, will be open to the public between the hours 1 to 4 p.m. It is regretted that Security Regulations prevent the admission of visitors to operations buildings, but the public will see the various buildings and equipment in use on the domestic site. Weather permitting, a number of jet aircraft which are taking part in the RCAF St. Hubert jet trophy race, will fly over Lac St. Denis at one-minute intervals and at low altitudes, prior to 2 p.m.

On arrival visitors will be given a map of the station showing the location of displays, lost and found, first aid, and comfort stations, etc.

The Commanding Officer extends a cordial invitation to all who may wish to attend Air Force Day at RCAF Station Lac St. Denis.

Hon. W. Cottingham received Premier's assurance on Lachute Hospital grant

Followirg is the text of a letter received recently by the Hon. W. M. Cottingham from the Prime Minister of the Province of Quebec, on the subject of the proposed Lachute Hospital.

Quebec, May 21, 1958

The Hon. W. M. Cottingham,
Minister of Mines,
Parliament Buildings,
Quebec, Que.

My dear Colleague:

It was a great pleasure for me to again study with you the project of a new hospital at Lachute. The vast amount of information that you gave me was of very great help to me, which I believe, will facilitate the settlement of this most important problem to you and your electors.

Like yourself, I realize the importance of the Town of Lachute and of the County of Argenteuil. You have persuaded me, and it is also the conviction of our colleague, the Honorable Minister of Health, Dr. J. H. A. Paquette, that the construction of a new hospital at Lachute is imperative.

This is why I am pleased to tell you that in the very near future an order-in-council will be presented so as to grant a special subsidy of a few hundred thousand dollars — no doubt as high as the large amount you mentioned — namely $600 000, in order to facilitate and assure the establishment and the construction of this new hospital.

I hope that this news will be as pleasant for you to receive as it is for myself to make you aware of it.

Kindly accept for yourself and your wife, the expression of my cordial good wishes.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) M. L. DUPLESSIS,
Prime Minister

Since receiving this letter the Hon. Mr. Cottingham has been advised by the Prime Minister that the Order-in-Council has been passed for the amount of $600,000.

Beagle fanciers take awards at Hemmingford trials

The Lachute Beagle Club was well represented by two of its members at the Canadian Kennel Club licensed Beagle Trial held recently at Hemmingford, Que. There were hounds from Quebec, Ontario and three of the States, and some of the entries were already American champions. The competition was keen.

"Grand Bois Deakon", owned by Duncan Galloway, placed first in a class of twenty-five 15" dogs.

"Plum Hollow Lady", owned by Dr. George Coombes, of Lachute R.R. 1, placed third in a class of twenty-four All-Age 13" bitches. "Lady", at only eight months of age, is probably the youngest hound to ever place in any licensed Canadian Hare trial.

Mel Fletcher and George McGibbon, local beaglers from away back, did not have any entries, as all their bitches are due to whelp litters sired by outstanding hounds. They are trying to satisfy the demand for good puppies for this fast-growing sport.

The aims of the Lachute Beagle Club are — "Better Beagles; conservation of our natural resources; respect for the property of others, and good sportsmanship." All local beaglers are invited to run their hounds any week-end, at the excellent running grounds graciously offered by several local farmers. Contact secretary Gerald Chapman or president George McGibbon.

Rigaud Park hoping for the best!

The organizers at Rigaud Park have been sadly disappointed over weather conditions these last three weeks. The last two Sundays, June 1 and June 8, as advertised in newspapers and circulars, were supposed to have been the official opening of the harness racing season. Improvements have been made on the track for the greater enjoyment of the public; but alas, Dame Nature intervened and obliged the directors to cancel arrangements. . . They hope the public, however, will exercise patience and understanding.

Weather permitting on Sunday, June 15, the management will present as its opening program quite a few new horses, along with the usual favorites. The events will start at 2 p.m.

Lachute Spring Fair!

LACHUTE SPRING FAIR is a tradition in this County — an institution established now for 132 years. In our "Over the Years" column this week appears an extract for The Watchman in 1883 describing a "turbulent meeting" in St. Andrews to choose a site for the permanent buildings of the Agricultural Society. History indicates that the Society was then well over half a century on the record books; through the years its competitions and horse shows had been staged in various places — St. Andrews, Carillon and St. Philippe. In the annals of the Society's early days there are names synonymous with the roots of agriculture, business and industry in this countryside, such as — Brown, McMartin, Jones, McNaughton, Cook, McEwen, Lane, Richards, Murray, Black, Ayers and Hamelin. The minutes and reports of this organization would indeed make interesting reading.

Lachute Fair has had no small part in fostering this County's reputation for quality livestock. It has encouraged competitive breeding which has produced prize winners in the Nation's biggest shows and has publicized the Lachute district as an example of progressive farming.

The Agricultural Society directorate has enlisted the most illustrious figures in the farming community hereabouts, and to these, their committees and the energetic Fair managers over the years, the County owes a debt of acknowledgment for the continuance of this annual exhibition. It has weathered financial difficulties and public apathy, but it has come through with flying colors, with a slim exchequer, and always with credit to Argenteuil. Within our memory, only on one occasion was the annual Fair suspended, during World War II when, through priority considerations, government assistance was not forthcoming.

Service organizations are taking a part this year in one of the important aspects of this Fair, namely, the grand-stand entertainment. Everything on the three-day program has been arranged to provide the utmost in public interest, and in the agricultural aspects of this exhibition, the competition will be keener than ever.

The elements, as always, remain problematical. But optimism in all other aspects keeps us hopeful for the weatherman's consideration. The public, we feel sure, will join with enthusiasm to support those responsible for this big annual undertaking. Their endeavors are wholly in the community's interest.

National Water Safety Week —

Drowning plays no favorites!

CANADA HAS BEEN blessed with hundreds of beautiful lakes, rivers and streams. They are ours to enjoy in so many ways. Unfortunately, their appeal for healthful, happy recreation is always marred by Canada's annual drowning toll.

Next week has been named "National Water Safety Week" and it is the hope of the Canadian Red Cross Society that this promotion will save lives this summer.

The need for education in water safety is apparent at every turn. Our headlines usually give the grim details. There is always the thought that the majority of these deaths could have been avoided if a few simple rules had been learned and practised.

Death by drowning plays no favorites. Men, women and children of all ages are its victims. Expert swimmers are no exception and are as likely to become a drowning statistic as are those making their first venture in the water.

The Red Cross rules of water safety are simple. They are merely the practical application of common sense. Parents are requested to become familiar with these simple rules and to give guidance and example to their children. Boating enthusiasts should realize their responsibility for others seeking recreation in the water and have consideration for their passengers.

This year everyone can have a happier vacation and a more healthful summer if we learn and observe the Red Cross rules of water safety. Our drowning record is not a proud one. A mutual effort will save lives this summer.

Summer miracle

SPRINGTIME'S balmy air, lengthening days, bird songs and the rich smell of the warming earth bring joy to people the world over. It is the season of growth when trees, plants and flowers make their annual response to nature's bidding.

In the reproductive process nature employs a tiny agent which is vital to plant survival. Floating unseen in the air are numberless jewel-like particles. Should they cease to exist, many races of flowering plants would disappear.

The particles are pollen, certain types of which bring weeks of late-summer misery to hay fever sufferers. But in their fertilizing job they ensure new plant generations.

Some flowers, containing both male and female organs, are self-fertilizing. Others, characterized by sticky pollen grains, rely on cross-pollination, enticing bees and insects by their color, perfume, or honey content.

Less conspicuous plants look to the wind as a pollinating agent, but to be successful a grain of pollen must land on a flower stigma of its own species. To guarantee fertilization of enough eggs to maintain the species, the air is filled with vast amounts of pollen.

The National Geographic Society says it is estimated that 25,000 grains of corn pollen are produced for each one that fulfills its function. One ragweed plant can fill the air with an estimated 8,000,000,000 pollen grains in a single morning. A dozen in the nostrils are enough to cause discomfort.

There are many offenders, but the rose and goldenrod — often thought to bear irritating pollen — are not among them. Their large sticky pollen grains are not easily airborne and insects effect their pollination.

Nature's extravagant but effective method of plant fertilization has been going on unchanged for millions of years as archaeological evidence of pollen deposited in prehistoric times proves.

Analyses of pollen from the peat bogs of Britain, Scandinavia, the Alps and other parts of central Europe reveal the history of forest and vegetation in the prehistoric years since the last ice age. So accurate is the process of pollen analysis that the layers of peat bogs can be divided into intervals of a century. In Britain, it has been used with striking results in the Cambridge fens.

Hold-the-line policy

"YOU CAN'T have it both ways," is the reported reply of Prime Minister Diefenbaker to a union delegation that called at his office to ask for reduced taxation on the one hand and, on the other, higher family allowances and higher old age pensions payable at age 65 rather than at age 70 as at present.

Also unverified, but presumably accurate, is the report that a delegation of civil servants that called on the Prime Minister to ask for higher civil service salaries — estimated to involve an added cost of $50-million a year — was told that the request would be studied but that there definitely would not be a pay hike at this time.

Although neither of these meetings was open to the press, the reports of the Prime Minister's "hold-the-line" response is presumed accurate because it would be consistent with his public statements. At Winnipeg recently Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the annual meeting of the Trades and Labour Congress: "I say this to you as I will say it to business, when I speak within the next few weeks to business, and to Canadians as a whole, that this is no time for drastic or over-demanding action by any of the economic sectors of our country."

Higher taxes must result from higher welfare spending. Higher prices must result from a higher level of wages and salaries. Neither of these factors would possibly bring higher employment. That the Prime Minister by word and deed is backing a "hold-the-line" policy is the course of wisdom — and, for an elected official, the course of courage.

Viewpoints and perspectives

IF YOU ARE planning a long motor trip, remember that after a three-hour stint of driving without stopping, one has gone a long way, and the driver of the vehicle should get a good two hours' rest before continuing the voyage. Fatigue is often the cause of accidents, recalls the Provincial Highway Safety Committee (Prudentia). After a good meal, remember to take a short walk before starting to drive. Do not risk the chance of falling asleep at the wheel. The heat, the sun, and a slow digestion contributes to cause sleepiness.

Who was president of the "Republic of Portage la Prairie"?

Thomas Spence, a Scotsman from Edinburgh, was a colorful and turbulent character in the early years of Manitoba. He first came to Canada with a party of engineers to fortify Point Levis. In 1866 he went to Red River, hoping to bring about the Union of the Hudson's Bay Company territories with Canada. An enthusiastic promoter of the Northwest, Spence, on behalf of the local Indians, invited, without success, the Prince of Wales, to visit the region in 1867. The invitation — in Spence's hand — was written in Cree on birch bark.

His connections with Portage la Prairie began in 1867 as the owner of a retail store. This settlement, being outside the District of Assiniboia, was at that time governed by an unofficial council of settlers. Spence reorganised this to form the government of New Caledonia, soon more appropriately renamed Manitobah. This new body was derisively called "the Republic" by the Red River "Nor'Wester". Spence, now elected president, informed the Colonial Office of the existence of the new government and began levying its taxes and defining its boundaries — from Lake Manitoba south to the American border, and from the limits of Assiniboia to the 100th meridian. Trouble soon broke out. The Hudson's Bay Company refused to pay taxes on its store at Portage. A shoemaker, arrested for libel after declaring that the taxes only bought liquor for Spence and the Council, evoked so much public sympathy that the government of Manitobah collapsed.

1870 found Spence editor of the "New Nation", the organ of Riel's provisional government. Later he served as clerk for the council of the new province of Manitoba, was a census commissioner in the Northwest, a substancial landowner in Winnipeg, where a street bears his name, an immigration agent and an assistant registrar in a land office in Edmonton. Up to his death in 1900 Spence's greatest interest remained the development of the Canadian West.

What Canadian discovery enabled the polio Salk vaccine to be developed?

The Connaught Laboratories in Toronto have succeeded in developing a synthetic serum, free from bacterial and other impurities, in which cells can be kept alive indefinitely. In these cells the viruses are cultivated, which are later killed for the preparation of the vaccine. It was this serum discovery that led to the success of Dr. Jonas Salk in the tissue culture of polio virus.

Viruses, we are told, are astonishingly small; a one-inch circle could contain as many as 10,000,000,000,000,000. Size then is the central problem in dealing with viruses and the only known protection is the bloodstream's antibodies which destroy viruses upon contact. It is vaccination that stimulates the growth of these antibodies.

How warm is an Igloo?

Among coastal Eskimo an igloo is heated by a seal oil lamp, over which the cooking is also done. Although the snow hut is a relatively comfortable dwelling, even in midwinter, temperatures inside usually remain well below the freezing point. An Eskimo, while on travel, can build an igloo in about an hour. More permanent igloos are quite large and may be connected to other igloos by tunnels. Often a piece of freshwater ice in the wall serves as a window.

What is a Sourdough?

This is a term widely used in Canada to mean a person with long experience in the North. The word comes from the old prospectors' custom of carrying dough from camp to camp, for use as leaven in making bread. The term was popularized in the poems of Robert W. Service, "Songs of a Sourdough", (1907), and since 1930 an annual International Yukon Sourdough Reunion has been held on the West coast. A similar annual local event is held in Vancouver by the Vancouver Yukoners' Association.

KING FOR A DAY!

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

Living it up!

I've been trapped by my subconscious. Quite a trick for a fellow who hardly knows what "subconscious" means. It happened this way.

I came home tired and weary from a day at the typewriter, to find my young daughter gay and bright-eyed, dressed in finest party clothes. "What's up?" I asked.

"Another party", she said. "I'm living it up these days, eh Dad?"

For some reason those gay words, "living it up," stuck with me like burrs to sheep. To my own horror, a couple of nights later, I heard myself say to my wife, "Honey, let's go out somewhere tonight. Let's live it up a little — we're getting stodgy."

My wife gave me a long, puzzled stare. "For the first time in weeks you get your head out from behind that newspaper, and then you suggest that I'm getting stodgy. What's happened to you?"

"Darned if I know," I said. "Suddenly I feel we ought to live it up. We're both getting stodgy."

"What do you suggest? Rhumba lessons? Or tango?"

"I'm too old to tango. But maybe I could rh . . . "

She shook her head. "You could take the kids to the Shriner circus for a starter. I'll tell them to be ready for tomorrow night."

"Well," I said, "I . . . "

"On Thursday there's a Parent Teacher's meeting — it would do you good to take part, and — "

"I had a picture show in mind," I said, "for a starter . . . "

"Fine — we'll go to a show Saturday night, and to one of the nice new restaurants afterwards. And on Monday — "

This sort of thing went on for two whole weeks. I suppose I am less stodgy, but I'm also very tired. At long last I am back of my newspaper again, with my slippers on and my pipe burning gently. I've figured out what happened. Those "living it up" words got hooked up in my subconscious with notions of youth and bright eyes and gaiety. That's what happened. I was trapped.

Thinking back on it, I believe a touch of "living it up" would be good for us all. Not because circuses are bigger or picture shows more thrilling, but because after a couple of weeks of traipsing around the old easy chair looks even better than it did before. Like the fellow who kept hitting himself on the head with a hammer, because it felt so good when he quit.

It feels real good to be back to normal. Only trouble is that every evening, after I've settled in, my wife peeks over the newspaper and sarcastically inquires, "Anybody feeling too stodgy this evening?"

Can any of you fellows supply me with a real cutting answer?

All Aboard

with G. E. MORTIMORE

Cities are quieter than they used to be. But the country is noisier.

Many towns have converted from street cars to quiet buses. City councils in small and middle-sized places have passed anti-noise by-laws that muffle the newsboy, the midnight horn-tooter and the morning milk-bottle-clanker.

The hush of the city is broken only by the faint rustle of bills and tax notices falling into letter boxes.

Some veteran city-dwellers feel uncomfortable in the silence. They miss the old shake, rattle and roll so much that they can't sleep.

There is an easy solution to their problem. They should move to the country, where they can be lulled to rest by the roar of power saws, hot-rods and outboard motors, in addition to the old clamor of roosters, wild-geese, donkeys and cows. All the country animals are making more noise now, because the machinery has put them in a bad temper.

Scientific studies have shown that although people can keep working in noise, their efficiency goes down. Subconsciously, they are fighting the noise. It puts them on guard.

People in quiet places may be less alert, but they are more relaxed and efficient.

Now that noise is moving out of town, the city-dwellers may become the rubes, and rural folk the frazzled, ill-tempered neurotics.

The old joke about Los Angeles and its city limits extending from California to Alaska is coming true. All North America is turning into one large, clamorous city, with urban zones of quiet where the population is thickest.

Prosperity and the gasoline engine have done it. People who — 30 years ago—couldn't have afforded a bicycle, can now get a car or motor boat for a few dollars down. More power to them, I suppose.

But since the continent is turning into one large city, we might be wise to govern it by the same kind of rules that have made life tolerable in the old-type cities.

On the small lake where I live, it was once possible to enjoy lunch on a table in the front yard, swim in calm water or fish quietly.

Now the peace is shattered by an endless, headache-making uproar as power-boat maniacs and water skiers whirl around in circles. Recently one of them swamped a row-boat. Last year another one struck a child in the water.

Power-boat people have the right to enjoy themselves, if the rest of us are willing to concede them that right.

But lake-dwellers and wild birds and animals should have some rights too. They were there first.

Perhaps the solution would be to set up quiet zones and noisy zones. Power boatmen could run in the noisy zones. I understand there are some lakes within the Aretic Circle that are well suited to the purpose. The Eskimos won't like it, but somebody has to make a sacrifice.

Death of old and well-known citizen, Philisa Chabot

Death came rather suddenly early Sunday morning to Mr. Philisa Chabot, octogenarian of Lachute, who passed away in his 84th year. He was born in 1874 at St. Constant, Que., and came to Lachute in the pioneer days of 50 years ago. Prior to coming to Lachute, Mr. Chabot had many vivid and interesting recollections of the horse and carriage days when as a barber he owned and operated his shop on St. Catherine Street, Montreal, and had such renowned customers as Sir Montague Allen, Lord Shaughnessy, Lord Atholstan and Sir Herbert Holt.

He was married to the former Maximilia Labelle, who predeceased him four years ago.

In his early Lachute days he was associated with the Ayers Power Company, and was an active member of Ste. Anastasie Church, in which he served in various offices. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus and one of the early members of the Lachute Curling Club, in which he was an enthusiastic participant. For many years he was deeply interested in political affairs, particularly in this County.

Mr. Chabot was the last surviving member of a large family which included nine boys and several girls. As recently as two years ago, at the age of 82, he travelled alone to Marquette, Mich., to attend the funeral of his brother. He leaves two brothers-in-law, Mr. Clement Tremblay and Mr. Joseph Roy. Mrs. Clement Tremblay is the late Mrs. Chabot's sister and the sole surviving member of that family.

He is also survived by many nephews and nieces, one of whom, Miss Mariette Guilbault, R.N., made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Chabot since early childhood, and latterly cared for her aunt and uncle during their declining years.

The funeral service was held this morning (Wednesday) from Ste. Anastasie Church.

He was predeceased in 1942 by a son, Howard, who enlisted with the 6th Hussars and was serving overseas with the Canadian Armoured Corps.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES

YOUR PLACE IN GOD'S KINGDOM

Do you repeat the Lord's Prayer? Did you realize in doing so that you can expect a complete change in man's affairs? That God's kingdom will bring an end to all forms of violence, crime and corrupt government and restore righteous rule over all people? Jesus taught us to pray: "Let your will come to pass, as in heaven, also upon earth." Such blessings would insure a new and better world. But our part in it will depend upon the course of action we take as individuals. You can secure your place in that perfect arrangement of God by learning from God's Word what he expects you to do. Can you afford to overlook such a responsibility? Your family will benefit too by your interest in their welfare. To help you in your study, send for the two books "NEW HEAVENS AND A NEW EARTH" and "THIS MEANS EVERLASTING LIFE". Both books are hard bound and contain a total of over 700 pages. Both have complete subject and scripture indexes and questions at the bottom of the pages to make family study simple. Send a contribution of only $1 for both books and receive free two inspiring booklets on Bible subjects.

A "pot luck supper" was given jointly by the W.A., the W.A. "B Group", and the W.M.S., on June 4, at which Mrs. Porritt, president of the Montreal Presbytery, was the guest speaker. All ladies of the congregation were contacted and invited.

Mrs. G. Bruce and Mrs. H. Smith visited the Carillon Museum on June 7, taking their Explorers' Group to see the many ancient relics.

The Hi-C, with Miss Linda Graham as president and Mr. Duncan as leader, recently had a "weiner roast" and "treasure hunt", and have closed for the summer months.

At a recent morning service, an anthem was rendered by the choir, in which Mr. King Amos took the obligato part. This anthem was especially appreciated for its harmony, and it is hoped that it may be repeated at some future early date.

Wishes for a speedy recovery are extended to Mrs. Wm. Hamilton, who is at present a patient in the Royal Victoria Hospital. We also wish good health to all other patients who have been on the sick list.

The annual Sunday School picnic took place June 9. This event is always looked forward to by the children.

The regular inspirational morning service was enhanced June 8 by a solo by Mrs. M. Penman, of Montreal.

Named treasurer of United Church Conference

Rev. J. Ralph Watson
minister for Cushing and St. Andrews East, who was elected treasurer of the Montreal and Ottawa Conference of the United Church of Canada, in sessions last week at Calvary United Church, Westmount.

Rev. Wilson Bridge
minister of Lachute United, who was appointed a Commisisoner of the General Council of the Montreal and Ottawa Conference.

County couple wed recently in United Church

Fuller - Berry

The marriage of Miss Elaine Berry to Mr. Donald Fuller took place recently at Lachute United Church, the Rev. Wilson Bridge officiating. Mr. Hopkins played the wedding music and Mrs. Leonard Armstrong sang during the signing of the register. Spring flowers decorated the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white organza fashioned on Princess lines, with soft, very full folds in the back of the skirt extending into a chapel train. The bodice featured a Sabrina neckline of Alencon lace and long sleeves of organza ending in points over her hands. Her fingertip face veil of tulle elusion was held in place by a head dress of Alencon lace dotted with pearls and sequins and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Jean Unsworth, as maid of honor, Mrs. Arnold Berry and Miss Patricia Menard, as bridesmaids, wore similar street-length gowns of water-green organza with portrait necklines, short sleeves and very full skirts. They carried cascade bouquets of roses and mums and wore large white picture hats.

Mr. Arthur Bryerton was best man for his nephew and the ushers were Mr. Clifton Berry and Mr. Eric Berry.

Mrs. Berry, the bride's mother, chose a grey crepe dress fashioned with an Italian lace neckline and three-quarter length sleeves, a fur cape, toning accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Fuller, mother of the groom, wore a rose lace dress with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

The reception was held at the Legion Hall at Lachute.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuller left for a motor trip through the New England States, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, the bride travelling in a blue silk dress, and beige accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The couple will reside in Cushing.

Textiles topic at Lachute W.I.

Lachute Branch of the Women's Institute met in the Legion Hall on June 2 with a good attendance, Mrs. J. A. Gordon presiding.

It was advised that Miss Anna Christie, B.Sc. (H.Ec.), newest member of the Q.W.I. staff, has been appointed Home Economics director at Macdonald College. Outlines for programs, projects and courses are available on application.

Mrs. G. McOuat, finance convener, reported on the recent rummage and auction sale, which proved very successful.

Interesting reports of the 38th annual County convention were given by Mrs. A. G. Leggett and Mrs. G. Paul. The main objective of this Branch is to help towards financing the erection of a Home for the Aged. By tape recording Mrs. G. McGibbon presented a conversation between Mrs. N. E. Smillie and herself, giving questions and answers concerning an Old People's Home sponsored by the W.I. in New Brunswick. It was thought that this record may serve some purpose in the future.

The convener of Education, Mrs. A. O. Ponder, gave a descriptive account of the Canadian Textile Conference held recently in Montreal. She spoke briefly of the history of textiles, weaving being considered one of the oldest industries, and the change which had taken place from the use of cotton, silk, linen and wool to the many new synthetic materials. Mrs. Ponder urged the consumer, especially women, to support Canadian industries, and to see that the articles bought bear the label "Made in Canada". A variety of goods were on display showing different fabrics and new and old methods of weaving.

Mrs. A. Taylor thanked Mrs. Ponder for her interesting talk, after which tea was served.

The Library committee wish to remind members that the library will be open July 17 and August 14 from 3 to 4 p.m.

Disregard of traffic laws aired again at Brownsburg

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — Mr. Ernest Legault, the newly-elected member of Brownsburg's governing body, was initiated into the problems of civic government in a four-hour session of the town council on June 2.

Among citizens present with requests for Council action were Messrs. Tony and Lucien Malacket, who asked that a 60-minute parking regulation be instituted on Bank Street. Council promised to study the request, with the intention of investigating the application of this same law to the Main Street business section.

Mr. E. Poirrier asked that the town provide water and sewerage facilities on Hillcrest Avenue. Since this area is one of those which will not be too difficult to service, it will be included among a number of locations under consideration for improvement. A motion was passed to have Mr. G. Legault prepare plans and to estimate the cost of such an installation.

Mr. Gerald Jolicoeur returned again to complain of the lack of respect that motorists appear to have for traffic laws in Brownsburg. He stated that he believed that for a two-week period after the complaint at the last meeting, conditions had improved. They had deteriorated very rapidly again, however, and were no better than they ever were. Another local resident claimed that conditions had not changed in the least on Maple Avenue. Police Chief Willy Lepine said that he had been down Maple Avenue a number of times and had not seen any speeding cars. It was suggested at this point that perhaps more time spent at the proper periods might provide a few such cases. Once again, as at the last meeting, Council indicated that something would be done. Police Chief Lepine's report stated that he had issued two tickets for stop-sign infractions and one speeding ticket during the month.

Fire Chief A. Robbins' report covered two fires, one of which had occurred in the C-I-L plant and the other in the bush near Hugh Morrison's home. . .

Chief Robbins deviated from his usual subject in suggesting that, when a municipal election attracts fewer than 50% of the eligible voters as in the one just past, the procedure for publicizing the election should be changed. This would require some arrangement for church announcements and handbills. Election day is fixed by Civil Code, and this day is not particularly suited to the publication day of the local newspapers. Next year should see some revisions in the procedure.

A number of residents on Maple Avenue South complained about the condition of the road leading from Maple Avenue to Canadian Safety Fuse Co. It appears that cars travelling over the road cause a heavy dust which is most annoying to those people living in the area. Council indicated that they would ask the C.S.F. to aid in this matter.

Payment of monthly vouchers was approved for a total of $1,669.60, in addition to a further $1,147.25 approved for payment to County Council.

Tenders for the removal of five trees on Maple Avenue North were opened and discussed with the intention being to award the contract to René Laurin of Lachute for the sum of $295, provided Mr. Laurin had sufficient insurance to cover any eventuality.

Police Chief Lepine's request for an additional $520 per year car allowance was turned down after Council had discussed the request at great length, even to the point of raising the possibility of purchasing a town car. Chief Lepine was awarded the yearly difference between the cost of regular car insurance and the cost of that required for police officers. This amounted to $12.

The meeting was adjourned until Monday, June 16, at which time the Council members will hold a special meeting to discuss the proposed building code.

Nature Lore

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Summer is a comin' in!" so goes the old song — and the holiday season is a wonderful time to encourage a child's interest in nature lore. What mother has not listened to questions like these:

"See the big white clouds like giant cream puffs. What kind are they?" . . . "Listen to that bird whistling two long notes and then several short notes. Do you know his name?"

The important thing in a Nature Lore hobby of any kind is for a parent to stop and share a young child's enthusiasm in the discovery of a flower, a butterfly, a frog, or whatever arouses his interest, at the time he comes running to tell of his new "find".

A boy or girl who is "put off" with no response on a parent's part, or with a promise of help at some future time, is disappointed and discouraged. To a child, there is no time like the present! Ignorance need be no hinderance. Parent and child can seek the information they wish together in a good guide or reliable handbook.

There are many different types of Nature Lore projects but the following are popular with boys and girls because they are linked with a child's love of activity. Most of them are carried out in the open air, but some of them, such as drawing an animated map, can be fitted into the bed-time hour or into a long rainy day.

A tadpole aquarium is an excellent venture. Use a large glass bowl, a big glass fruit jar, or even a wash tub, and build up a miniature aquarium with sand, stones and green water plants. Collect some frog eggs and catch a few tiny tadpoles. Put them into their new home, change the water once a week, feed the tadpoles (but don't stuff them). They like oatmeal or cornflakes — and just watch their legs grow and their tails disappear!

Make an animated calendar for either July or August. Get a large sheet of white cardboard. Rule it off like a page of a calendar, placing the name of the month, and the names of the days on the top and small figures of the numbers of the days in the upper right hand corner of each square.

Have someone in the family assigned for each day in turn, who will fill in the square for that day with a small drawing, colored with crayon, or some fascinating Nature Lore discovery which has just been made — a magnificent clump of ostrich fern beside the trail, a pitcher plant near a swamp, a loon's nest on an island. Have the animated Calendar placed back on the wall with its new drawing at bed time each night (with a little praise for the picture drawn by that day's artist!).

Make a special study of the types of clouds and of the weather. Practice forecasting the weather and work out the meaning of such weather signs as a ring around the moon, the sun "drawing water", a mackerel sky, or the wind shifting to the East.

"My heart leaps up when I behold a rainbow in the sky." Who has not echoed Wordworth's lines? A rainbow is something not to miss! Next time the sun comes out, when it has been raining, turn your back to the sun and look for a rainbow. See if you can distinguish all seven of its colors. Explain to a child how the sun's rays falling on the drops of rain are bent and reflected different degrees and thus produce a rainbow.

An interest in Nature Lore can begin very early and last all through life. Share this happy leisure time activity with your child!

A favorite for Father's Day

Consumer Section,
Canada Dept. of Agriculture
Marketing Service

It's Dad's turn to be in the spotlight, for June 15 is Father's Day! As far as he is concerned, the rest of the family usually comes first, but here's a good chance to show him how much he counts.

Father will thoroughly enjoy being the centre of attraction for a day, especially if all members of the family join in the plot. The children can surprise him by helping to clean up the yard, mow the lawn or wash the car and, of course, Mother will want to add to the pleasures of the day by serving some of Dad's favorite foods for dinner.

Because plump, clean Grade A fowl is one of the better buys in the meat line these days, the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture suggest a chicken dish be featured on Father's Day. These year-old birds have fine chicken flavour and plenty of meat without much fat; in fact, the only point against them is their age, which makes them a little less tender than younger chickens. Long slow cooking in moist heat overcomes this disadvantage and, at the same time, brings out their full flavor.

The fowl for Father's Day can be stuffed, steamed for 2½ to 3½ hours to tenderize it either on top of the stove or in a covered roaster in a 325°F. oven, then browned for 40 to 60 minutes in the oven. Or it can be simmered with seasonings in water for about 2½ hours and the meat removed and used in a casserole dish or salad. Or (and probably Dad's choice) it can be transformed into real old-fashioned Chicken with Dumplings and Vegetables.

Chicken with Dumplings and Vegetables

Cut a 4 to 5-pound eviscerated fowl in serving-size pieces, wash carefully, cover with water and add salt, pepper, chopped onion, celery and carrot for seasoning. Cover and simmer about 2½ hours, until tender.

During the last hour of cooking add raw vegetables — small onions, pieces of carrot and turnip, halves of potatoes.

About 15 to 20 minutes before serving time, thicken stock with a thin paste made from flour and cold water, the same as for stew. Add a few canned or frozen peas or green beans for color, if desired. Then drop dumpling dough on top of vegetables and chicken. Cover tightly and cook 15 to 20 minutes. Do not lift cover while dumplings are cooking. Serve at once.

Dumplings

1½ Cups all-purpose flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup milk.

Sift dry ingredients and add milk to make a very soft dough. Makes 9 dumplings.

Suitable Salad

Lettuce pieces, green pepper slivers, sliced celery, diced cucumber and tomato wedges, lightly tossed with garlic-tinged French dressing and served in individual salad bowls.

Women can increase safety on the highways by getting tough with men, according to a pretty promoter of good driving.

Mrs. Ethel McLellan, director of the newly-formed women's activities bureau of the Ontario highway safety branch, says women should refuse to ride with a careless driver.

"The alternative of driving without a lady passenger is a pretty grim prospect for most men," Mrs. McLellan said.

She believes most male drivers will take care — and a woman passenger — rather than drive alone carelessly.

Girls in Ghana

Prince Patriak Djan of Ghana, a zoology student at the University of Toronto, has some reservations about Canadian girls.

"In Ghana, the girls consider a man's pocketbook," he said. "They will take you out and pay your way if you are short of money. In this respect they are not self-centred like Canadian girls."

But, he added, Canadian girls are sweet, diplomatic, spirited and self-sufficient — "even if they don't care for you particularly."

Barbecue Sauce

Barbecue-time is here again, and as many hamburg gobblers must watch their weight, a barbecue sauce with few calories is a useful thing to know about.

Here is a recipe using a sugar-substitute instead of real sugar, and containing only 344 calories for two cups, instead of 496 if made with sugar.

Ingredients: ¼ cup chopped onion, 1 cup catsup, ½ cup water, ¼ cup lemon juice, 3 tablespoons Worcester sauce, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1½ teaspoons prepared mustard, sweetening, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper and cayenne.

Combine all ingredients in a small saucepan and simmer for 20 minutes. Use to baste hamburgers or steaks during broiling.

Fluffy Meringue

Ever made a fluffy white meringue and watched it sink with a certainty only matched by your own scuttled feelings?

To avoid this kind of deflation, make sure the egg whites are beaten until rounded peaks form, then add sugar gradually, beating until the meringue is stiff and glossy. It should be baked in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until delicately browned, which takes about 15 minutes.

Kissing: A popular practice in which a change of lipstick now and then is relished by the best of men.

Stain removal for nylon fabrics

Spots and spills are inevitable, but most of the stains they leave behind may be lifted easily from a nylon fabric.

Secret of stain removal is quick action, of course. Spots that are fresh disappear more readily than those that have become set. And knowing what caused them is helpful in applying the correct treatment.

Experiments on removing various stains from nylon clothing at time intervals of fresh, 16 hours, and six days, show that the most common stains which occur may be lifted easily from a nylon fabric by rubbing them vigorously with warm water and soap, or with warm water alone.

Stains that may be washed out with warm water and soap include fruit juices, tea, coffee, catsup, chocolate, powder and lipstick, as well as shoe polish, fountain pen and duplicator inks, rust and grass stains.

For complete removal, blood or chocolate milk stains require washing in warm water only.

A grease stain may be lifted while fresh with warm water and soap, but if it has been allowed to set for some time, the stained fabric should be placed on a blotter and treated with trichlorethylene. A fresh iodine stain will respond to a weak solution of javel. A ball-point ink stain will disappear if treated with a cleaner called "Varsol".

Fresh mustard stains will wash away with warm water and soap, but if they are allowed to stay in the fabric for some time, they cannot be removed completely.

Stains from ordinary house paints may be lifted while fresh with turpentine or a cleaning solvent. Alkyd or resin-based paint stains may be removed with a lacquer thinner rather than with turpentine.

Washing nylon fabrics calls for warm rather than hot water. Temperature should be no more than the hand can bear.

Wife Preservers

To prevent corrosion, paint the insides of salt-shaker tops with nail polish. When dry, open the holes from the inside with a large needle.

Fashions

A smart addition to your resort wardrobe is the shirttail dress. This version is of cotton surah, washable, not easily crushed, and a good traveller. Vari-colored stripes on a white ground make it easy to accessorize. Cut on classically simple lines, the bloused back can be worn with the shirttail tucked inside the skirt, or just loose.

Japanese couple have happy home

Calgary (CP) — It took the Second World War to bring a young Japanese couple together.

Tak Saruvatari, born in nearby Raymond, 26 years ago, has never lived outside Alberta. His wife, Sakayuki, was evacuated from Victoria, her birthplace, to Taber, Alta., during the war.

"My brothers were taken to Kapuskasing in Northern Ontario," she says. "They wrote back and said be sure and don't go to the beet fields. However, censorship delayed the letter so long that we were already hoing them before it arrived."

She met Tak at Taber and they were married some years after the war. An electrician, Tak saved enough money to make a recent purchase of a five-room bungalow.

They say they have had no trouble with racial discrimination. It occurred only once when they were house-hunting, but Tak, the only Japanese among 70 employees of his firm, gets along well.

"In fact," he said, "it's often an advantage. The boss has had phone calls asking the 'Japanese electrician' be sent out because he did a good job last time."

Mrs. Saruvatari finds it a small world. Her sister Irene went on a hitch-hiking tour through Europe recently with three friends. At one point they were given a lift by an English-speaking German. He asked where they were from.

"I come from a small Alberta town named Taber, but you probably never heard of that," Irene replied.

"I certainly have," said the German. "I was a prisoner of war there."

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

The landscape is "pretty as a picture" in the summer. Since your car will be part of that landscape, you'll want it to suit the scenery.

Wrong cleaning techniques can ruin your car's finish, say Shell Oil's automotive experts. Many brand-new cars, for instance, should be cleaned with cold water during the first two or three months in order to give their paint time to harden thoroughly. Regular washing and polishing is in order after this period.

On recent model cars particularly, the chrome trim is unusually sensitive. Consult a service man for the proper type of chrome cleaning compound for your car.

Salt air is notorious for its adverse effect on the car's finish. And road dust is another gremlin. A good wax polish, however, gives all the protection your car's body will need. A hard paste wax, although it requires plenty of elbow grease to apply, leaves a protective film that lasts from three to six months. The non-wax polishes go on in a jiffy but most do not last as long.

Vacuuming or brushing the car's upholstery is usually enough to bring back the sparkle to the interior. If stains mar the cushions, consult your car owner's manual for the best methods of removing them.

A shining car has the same effect as a new dress or suit. You'll want to get out and 'show' it off. Any excuse is a good excuse for driving off to enjoy the good old summer time!

"A mari usque ad mare"

The CBC television network which, beginning July 1, will link Canada from Sydney, N.S., to Victoria, B.C., will give a new significance to the motto "A mari usque ad mare" ("From Sea to Sea"). The CBC started television operations in September, 1952. Network service was begun May 14, 1953, when Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal were linked. On July 1, more than 40 stations will be joined together for live telecasting through the microwave facilities of the Trans-Canada Telephone System and the national telegraph companies.

3,000 New Testaments to Indian graduates

"Three thousand copies of the New Testament were presented by the Bible Society to the graduating students at the convocation of the Andhra University, India, this year. Perhaps this is the first time in India that such a large-scale distribution of Scriptures has ever been made on a single occasion. Several Canadian missionaries were present at the convocation, and were thrilled to witness this great distribution of the Word of God.

"The wonderful thing about it all", writes Rev. John Hart, "is that when asked if presentation might be made to the Christian graduates the university authority asked, 'Why not all the graduates?'. So to all the three thousand graduates this year, a copy of the New Testament was given."

This popular film features such top-rating pros as the Huot brothers, Stan Leonard, Al Balding, Archer, Gray and others, with commentary by Jules Huot and Michel Normandin and humorous sidelights by Gilles Pellerin, radio and TV artist.

A decision of the directors to provide 12 student tickets for the next Community Concerts season, was endorsed by the meeting.

Canadian authors at Carillon Museum

Cushing and across the Perley bridge, and from there to Como to the summer home of Dr. and Mrs. P. Nobbs, and Mrs. Andrew McKeller (best known to us by the name of Pheobe Erskine McKeller, who has so often entertained with historical sketches at the Museum). There the group would be served afternoon tea by Mrs. McKeller and Mrs. P. A. Thompson, who has offered a prize of $10 to any of the authors on this tour, for an essay giving an account of it — with Mrs. McKeller as judge. Mrs. McKeller, in announcing this contest, said she would not give points entirely for the literary merits of the essay, but rather to those who seemed to "get the most out of the tour."

Among those noted with the visiting authors were — Miss P. Blakley, president of the Nova Scotia Branch of the Association, also a resident of Halifax where she holds a high position in the Provincial Archives. Miss Winnie Horne, also of Halifax but at present employed in Ottawa's Civic Department, and who is the proud possessor of several beautiful paintings presented her by the C.P.R. because of her descriptive poems regarding the spots which the paintings depict. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Lewis, of Toronto (Mr. Lewis is editor of the Copp Clark Publishing Co.). Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hayes, of Montreal Branch (the former is a brilliant writer of stories for juveniles, and has been twice a winner of the Governor-General's award in that class of writing). Mrs. Grace, of Sudbury, Ont. (Mrs. Grace is of the Public Library there, and made the comment that it was because of knowing of this tour to Carillon that tempted her to attend the convention). Miss Alice Lighthall, a former president of the Antiquarian Society and of the Handicraft Guild of Montreal, and a one-time lecturer at one of the Historical Society's annual meetings on the subject of antiques. Miss Lighthall had with her a friend just out from Poland six months, Miss Theodora Herapath, late of Hove, Sussex, England (at present residing in Toronto) and her brother, Mr. John Herapath, of the St. Lawrence Seaway. Miss Helen Howse, former secretary of Montreal Branch and editor of the monthly news letter. Mrs. Alex Keller, president of Montreal Branch. Margaret Furness McLeod; Amy Bissett, England; Miss Leduc and Miss Bennett, of the Poetry Group; Miss Malca Freidman; Mrs. Olive Carroll; Mrs. Dora Hislop and Mr. Hislop; Mr. H. Mainer; Mrs. Elsie Cockfield; Miss Eleanor Williams Moore; Kathryn Munroe, of Toronto; Mrs. Grace Campbell and the Rev. Dr. Campbell; Miss Stien, and a number of others whose names are not remembered. Mrs. A. Graham, of Cushing, was present in a dual role — as Canadian author, arriving with the group from Montreal, and also as one of the hostesses.

BROWNSBURG ROAD — LACHUTE

Awarded $100 for suffering in fatal accident

An extra $100 for death bed suffering was awarded by Justice Harry Batshaw last week to the parents of a 24-year-old Ste. Scholastique man.

It was added to a $2,000 damage award made to Aurèle de la Sablonnière and his wife for the death of their son Adrien, who was killed while towing a stalled automobile in Montreal in January 1957.

The father had taken the action against Karam Co. Ltd. and its driver, whose truck hit the stalled vehicle, which crushed Adrien de la Sablonnière against his father's truck while he was removing a tow rope.

Adrien died in hospital the following day. His father testified he died in great agony.

The judge awarded the $2,000 largely for the loss of future support from the victim, but added the $100 for the death bed suffering.

In doing so, Mr. Justice Batshaw said he was following a principle established in 1953, and again in 1956, by judgments of the Quebec Court of Appeal.

These judgments had recognized the heirs' claims for indemnity for "the suffering and shortening of life of the victim." This view had been taken despite the previous doctrine that such rights were "too personal to be transmitted to the heirs."

Brownsburg W.I. June meeting and visit to Capital

The Brownsburg Women's Institute meeting was held Thursday, June 5, under the convenership of Mrs. J. Donaldson and Mrs. C. Stephens. It was announced that two delegates from Brownsburg would attend the provincial convention at Macdonald College at the end of June. At the conclusion of the brief business session, members were addressed by the County president, Mrs. George McGibbon. Mrs. McGibbon brought greetings and good wishes to the branch, and spoke briefly about the County convention and the proposed home for elderly people which the W.I. of Argenteuil plan to build in this County. A recorded conversation was then played to the members, in which Mrs. McGibbon and Mrs. N. E. Smillie discussed the latter's recent visit to the only other Old People's Home operated by the W.I., in Woodstock, N.B.

Mrs. Stephens introduced the speaker, Dr. Drummond Smith, of the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury. Undaunted by the gratifyingly large audience, Dr. Smith spoke on "The best years of a woman's life". The subject proved very interesting, and Dr. Smith held the attention of his audience throughout. The meeting concluded with the singing of the anthem and refreshments.

Have You A Question

on

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you:

Q. I have been paying unemployment insurance contributions since I started to work in June, 1957. How long could I draw benefit if I now became unemployed and could not find other work?

A. One week's benefit is payable for every two weeks' contributions made in the last 104 weeks prior to claim, with a maximum of 36 weeks' benefit. If, for example, you have worked in every week of the last 50 weeks prior to your claim and earned at least $9 in each, you would be entitled to 25 weeks' benefit.

Q. Would you please give me a list of the persons I can claim as dependents so I can get a higher rate of benefit.

A. The dependency rate of benefit is payable to a claimant who has one or more dependents. The number is immaterial. A person with a dependent is (1) a man whose wife is being maintained wholly or mainly by him; (2) a married woman who has a husband dependent on her; (3) a person who maintains wholly or mainly one or more children under the age of 16 years; or (4) a person who maintains a self-contained domestic establishment and supports therein, wholly or mainly, a person connected with him by blood relationship, marriage or adoption.

Cadillac

He's In for a Wonderful Surprise!

He's walking in on a wonderful surprise!

For in just a few minutes, he will be listening to a combination of facts that may well mean his waiting has come to an end.

He will learn, for instance, what a modest investment it requires to take possession of a new Cadillac today.

Then, he will discover how eminently practical a Cadillac is to own and to operate—and how unusually free it is from the needs of service.

And, finally, he will find his Cadillac dealer wonderfully accommodating both in trading in his present car—and in obtaining prompt delivery.

And how doubly fortunate it is that all of these practical advantages of Cadillac ownership should be so pronounced at a time when all the personal rewards of Cadillac ownership are so great.

For this latest "car of cars" is so wonderful from every standpoint, that it has deepened the loyalty of even the most experienced Cadillac owners.

We suggest you visit your Cadillac dealer soon.

Weed control in pastures

Clipping pastures and the use of fertilizers are essential to good pasture management. Clipping is primarily done to develop a uniform pasture stand but will also control most annual weeds and if done at the proper time will prevent weeds from going to seed. Unfortunately some of the worst pasture weeds such as Canada thistle, sow thistle, milkweed and buttercup are perennials with well developed root systems and cannot be controlled so simply. Here, according to Dr. J. R. Hay of the Central Experimental Farm, the use of selective herbicides should be considered in conjunction with other appropriate pasture management practices.

The most widely recommended chemical treatment for broadleaf weed control in pastures, is an ester formulation of 2,4-D at about one pound per acre. Herbicide applications made in June and early September have generally proved the most satisfactory. Complete control is rarely achieved with one application so follow-up treatments are required. These will take care of new seedlings which germinate after the herbicide is applied.

Where buttercup is the predominant weed, MCP is recommended in preference to 2,4-D. Woody plants can be controlled with 2,4-D or a "brush killer mixture" of 2,4,5-T plus 2,4-D. Milkweed is very resistant to 2,4-D but good control of this weed has ben obtained with amino triazole. This material should only be used on small patches as it will cause damage to desirable species as well as the milkweed.

Although recent tests near Ottawa showed that herbicide will control most of the weeds in pastures, they will not increase the yield of forage produced if the fertility of the land is low. On the other hand, when fertilizers alone are applied to rundown pastures, yields are increased but most weeds also benefit. Therefore the best treatment is that which involves the addition of fertilizers along with the herbicide. This will mean increased yields and good weed control.

By most recent count there are only 26 whooping cranes surviving in their wild state. Their summer nesting ground is Wood Buffalo National Park, which straddles the Northwest Territories - Alberta border.

Insects introduced to control weeds

The use of imported insects for weed control, a relatively new technique, is showing considerable promise in Canada. Work on this aspect of weed control is, however, only in its early stages, so much more intensive study will be required before it can be considered practical. Nevertheless, according to Dr. J. M. Smith of the Science Service at Belleville, Ont., some success has definitely been obtained against common St. Johns-wort, toadflax, sagebrush and common burdock.

This form of biological control offers many advantages over other measures, particularly with plants resistant to herbicides, or weeds in inaccessible, low value range land. There is a risk of imported insects changing their food preferences, but as yet no record exists of any insect imported for the control of weeds, damaging any crops. Because of this possibility though, insects imported must be carefully investigated both before and after importation.

First attempts to employ insects for weed control in this country were carried out in British Columbia, against the common St. John-wort, a problem weed in the southern part of that province and north-western States. Between 1951 and 1954 approximately 100,000 adult beetles taken from the United States were released in seven localities in British Columbia. The seven colonies have survived three to six winters in British Columbia, but only one colony has achieved worthwhile control of St. John-wort. Approximately one quarters of a dense, five acre infestation has been cleared of the weed. Thousands of bettles have been collected in this colony for distribution in other weed infestations in British Columbia.

A more recent project has been the investigation of toadflax. This plant appears to be kept under satisfactory control by natural agents in all parts of the world except the Prairie Provinces of Canada. In 1957, 4,000 adults of a certain weevil were collected in the vicinity of Belleville and transported to Saskatchewan and the Peace River District. Although one generation has developed in each of these areas, the ability of the weevils to survive the low winter temperatures will not be known until this year.

Thousands of acres of sagebrush have been cleared by a leaf-eating beetle in the vicinity of Kamloops, B.C.

The present insignificant status of some of our weeds may be attributed to insect enemies that check their increase. Common burdock for example, though always a nuisance, could conceivably be a serious problem were it not for the fact that most of its seeds are destroyed by a small white caterpillar.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Protein Is Important

The very word protein means "of first importance" in the nutrition of man or beast. The nerves, muscles, even the heart muscles, and the bones are largely made of protein. In livestock, the hide, hair, hoof and horns are of protein origin.

Animals denied sufficient protein of the right kind in their ration suffer unthriftiness or nutritional failure.

Dr. Bohstedt

Ruminants like cattle and sheep have the happy faculty of being able to make good protein out of poor or lopsided protein. By virtue of their rumen or paunch organisms they can convert poor protein or even non-protein nitrogen, just so there is enough in the ration for their needs. The farmer, then, does not have to worry whether cattle, sheep, goats or other ruminants have the proper amounts of all 24 amino acids, or even the ten so-called essential amino acids, that make up good protein.

The ruminants utilize so-called non-protein nitrogen including urea and ammonium bicarbonate. They can, by means of their paunch organisms, build these into good protein consisting of all the various amino acids which are then digested and assimilated just as if excellent protein had been fed in the first place.

The non-ruminants are not able to "build" their own good protein from poor protein. These animals, pigs, poultry, or for that matter the very young dairy calves — the "critical" animals on the farm—must have high-quality protein for best results. They cannot convert corn protein, for instance, into the equivalent of meat or milk protein in the feed consumed as ruminants can.

This is not to say that corn protein cannot be utilized by them. It can, but it must be properly supplemented or "completed" by suitable protein concentrates such as soybean oil meal and, preferably, with some dairy or meat packing plant by-products in addition.

Some of the good quality proteins or protein concentrates are: dried or fluid skimmilk or whey, meat scraps, fish meal, blood flour and tankage.

Considering the standard for protein quality, that is the presence of all necessary amino acids in proper amounts and proportions, we will list the different categories of quality from best to poorest:

Second, oil meals, primarily soybean oil meal.
Third, pasture and leafy green hay or silage.
Fourth, and last, grains or cereals and their mill feed by-products.

There is no hard and fast division among the four classes and a certain amount of overlapping may be taken for granted.

The stockman must remember that the single stomached animals must have a suitable mixture of these proteins including those listed at or near the top in quality.

Question: Is hay that is five or more years old as good for feeding as hay that has been put up in the past year or two?

Answer: If it has been kept in dry condition the older hay may still have considerable feed value. However, it is apt to be quite brittle and more likely to injure the gums of animals consuming it. Many farmers feel that adding 10 to 20 pounds of salt per ton of hay as the hay is being put into storage prevents excessive brittleness and makes for greater palatability, especially for long storage. As for the nutritional value of five year old hay, there has been only a little experimental work on this subject. However, from limited data it may be said that the carotene or pro-vitamin-A is practically all gone, and with it a number of other fat and water-soluble vitamins.

CANADIAN CHICKS ON WAY TO EUROPE

There's a long journey ahead for 15,000 of these leghorn chicks. They're on their way to European countries, with some of them having Romania as their destination. It will be the first shipment of its kind to an Iron Curtain country. The chicks were hatched by Don Shaver of Galt, Ont., and are being examined by Margaret Young of Brampton.

New officers for Quebec Farm Forum

One of this community's progressive young farmers, Ross Oswald, of Ste. Scholastique, was elected president of Quebec Farm Radio Forum (succeeding Mrs. Carl Anderson, of Huntingdon), at the annual meeting of the Farm Forums held May 31 at Macdonald College. Keith Greig, Ormstown, was re-elected president of the Quebec Farmers' Association. Mr. Don Hastings, Sutton, was elected vice-president of Quebec Farm Radio Forum and Col. Wells Bishop, Sawyerville, of the Quebec Farmers' Association.

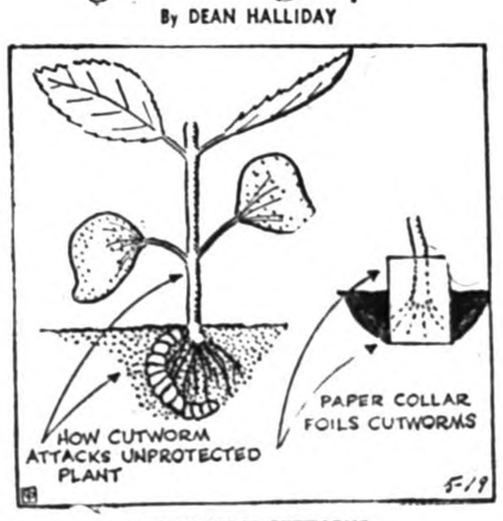

Directors for Quebec Farm Radio Forum are Lawson Corrigan, Shawville, Mrs. A. McDermid, Thurso, Mrs. McKay, Dalhousie Station, Don Hastings, Sutton, and Gordon McElrea, Sherbrooke. For the Farmers' Association they are Walter Kilgour, Shawville, Ross Oswald, Ste. Scholastique, Otto Mallon, Poltimore, Cyril Dahms, Huntingdon, Neil Creller, Bedford, and Wells Bishop, Sawyerville.

Dr. H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, Ottawa, addressed the meeting. He said he was particularly happy that both organizations had based their activities on a solid educational program such as National Farm Radio Forum. He also urged farmers to support their organizations with both time and money. He pointed out that the freight rate subsidy on western feed grains saves Quebec farmers more than $6.50 per ton and that this was just one of many benefits gained by organized agriculture.

During the past year the organizations reported a slight increase in membership. Prospects are for an even larger increase this year.

CONTROLLING CUTWORMS

Cutworms are among the first pests to appear in the vegetable garden. They are the larva stage of night flying moths. There are many different species.

As shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, cutworms eat the succulent stems of young beans, cabbage, tomatoes, peppers—almost anything.

Cutworms winter over as partly grown larvae in cells in the soil or under garden trash. They eat only at night and spend the day coiled up in a ball just under the surface of the ground.

One method of protecting young plants against cutworms is to place stiff paper or cardboard collars about their stems when setting them out, as shown in the Garden Graph.

Cut strips of heavy wrapping paper or light cardboard four to five inches wide. The cardboard inserts from laundered shirts are practical for this purpose. Wrap a strip around each young plant and fasten with paper clips or pins. Set so that several inches of the collar are in the ground and several above the soil surface. Cutworms will not tunnel under or climb over this protective collar.

When plants are grown in paper bands or paper pots they can be set out without removing this protective collar. Merely cut off the bottom of the paper cup and plant in the ground, letting the container stick up out of the soil an inch or so.

Finds turnips a valuable crop

Prince Albert, Sask. (CP) Frank Moore has a good word about turnips.

Mr. Moore, who describes himself as something of a turnip fan, recently loaded 15 tons of the solid vegetables aboard a freight car.

"Turnips have it all over potatoes," he told a reporter. They are sown June 15-30 and must be thinned about the middle of July. After a cultivator loosens up the soil, they are jerked from the ground by workers who lop off their tops and toss them into a truck.

"They are easy to harvest," he said. Mr. Moore, president of the Prince Albert horticultural society, has been trying to convince district farmers they should form a turnip co-operative.

"They're missing a good bet in not growing more turnips," he said, pointing out that 14 to 16 tons of turnips can be harvested from an acre. An acre of turnips usually nets a farmer $700.

Truck-trains move cattle in Australia

Australia has developed a new style of truck-trains for moving cattle, according to a report in the World Farm News, Washington. These new vehicles are 145 feet in length, have 42 tires and carry 86 head of full-grown cattle per load. Each truck-train unit consists of a truck or tractor towing two 40-foot trailers. Each tractor has four sets of dual driving wheels.

Two truck-trains are now in operation transporting feeder and slaughter cattle about 400 miles from Helen Springs in the Northern Territory of Australia to Mount Isa in Queensland. The trip takes about 25 hours by truck-train instead of five or six weeks by cattle trail.

Chick Time Again!

Chick time is like Christmas — it's here before you realize it; and with the cold weather we have been having, we don't think of chicks.

But today, with electricity on practically all farms, chicken raising is not a problem any more. You can just hang a heat lamp over them and you are set. One lamp for each 100 chicks is about right, unless in winter or early spring, when you may need more. Down in the States, for advertising purposes they put a covering on the snow on the street, hang lamps over the chicks, and raise them right there.

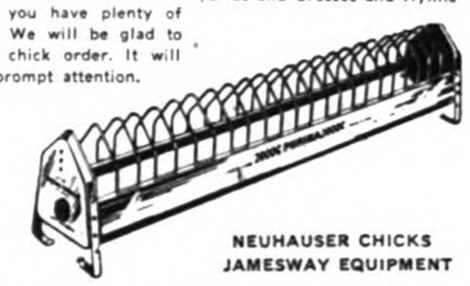

Another thing, chicks raised in very warm weather never do as well as those raised in cool weather. For proof, your old hen may hatch a brood out below the barn in late fall, but the chicks don't die.

With many getting chicks early in the winter and others having chicks at different times of the year, the high egg prices of late have been in early summer. So the earlier your chicks are, the better chance for you to make profits.

When ordering chicks always order more than you expect to keep, as there may be losses and you can cull more heavily to get higher egg production.

We are still agents for NEUHAUSER CHICKS, and their chicks are Second to None. Their service cannot be beaten, and they're the finest people to do business with that you can find anywhere.

They have 20 breeds of chicks, Hybrids and Crosses and Hyline chicks, so you have plenty of choice. . . We will be glad to have your chick order. It will have our prompt attention.

Lachute Fair '58 was notable success; interest outweighed weather handicap

Good management, community and Service Club participation big factors

An upturn in the fortunes of Lachute Spring Fair was very evident last week-end, as the gates closed early Sunday morning and the directors took stock of the general outcome. There were record-breaking figures in several departments, and over-all gate receipts had shown a 20 percent increase over last year — this in spite of a low ebb of optimism when persistent rain curtailed all outdoor activities on Friday and the attendance was discouragingly low.

There seems little doubt that the Lions Club and Legion participation proved a shot-in-the-arm as attendance attractions. The Legion's horse-pulling contest Saturday night proved a bell-ringer for both agricultural and spectator interest, and aroused unbelievable enthusiasm.

The entries in light and heavy horses were higher than in recent years, according to Manager Ken Riley. The cattle exhibits were listed in approximately the same number, but two Holstein consignments did not show up. In poultry, the entries were probably the most numerous on record, with birds of exceptionally good quality.

The Federal Minister of Agriculture, the Hon. Douglas Harkness, faithfully filled his appointment with the Legion organizers, and spent Saturday afternoon at the grounds. He was on hand to present several of the important trophies, and was called upon to speak a few words to the grandstand gathering, via the public address system from the judging stand.

Hon. W. M. Cottingham Addressed Grandstand Crowd

Entertainment proceedings before the grandstand were inaugurated Thursday evening at Lions Club Night — the Fair opening unofficially on this occasion, but with official benediction, when the Hon. W. M. Cottingham and the Agricultural Society president, W. Erskine Rodger, were called upon to welcome the public.

Master of ceremonies was Lion Roger Regimbal, and the notables were seated in spectator boxes immediately before the stage. The Hon. Minister of Mines and Mr. Rodger spoke as veteran directors, exhibitors and patrons of the Fair, in the interests of the County's agricultural prowess and this exhibition as the showplace of its fine performance.

The preliminaries were brief. Lion President Ernest Snadden also welcomed the large crowd and thanked them for their support. The evening's program was a remarkable exhibition of hypnotism by a native Quebecer, "Le Grand Robert", who has won acclaim internationally as an exponent of this mystic art. His procedure was well planned as a humorous and entertaining show, which however lacked no conviction as to his sincerity.

Legion-Sponsored Events

The Legion's program for Friday was completely rained out, with the exception of a heroic performance by those intrepid zanies, the Shriners' Oriental Band. A military band which arrived in the afternoon from Ottawa was prevented from giving a performance, and the Teen-Age Queen contest also had to be postponed.

This latter event was staged Saturday, however. Popular Miss Shirley Pollock received the highest votes, and was duly crowned, robed and showered with awards, including the Legion trophy, and flowers. The Queen later was escorted through the streets of town in a motorcade with sirens heralding her coronation. Winner of the drawing for a $300 holiday trip in connection with this contest was Mme Galipeau, of Main Street, with the second prize of $100 going to Ulysse Nadon, also of Main Street.

Watchman Staffer Wins Lions Club Car

Late Saturday afternoon the Lions Club drawing for a 1958 Vauxhall car attracted considerable attention. Introduced by Mayor Léopold Carrière, Notary J. O. Latour, M.P., dipped into the drum for the winning ticket. After the drawing, Lions President Ernest Snadden thanked the public and all who had in any way contributed to this fund-raising venture.

Lucky winner of the prize was a Lachute business girl, Miss Therese Filion, who has been a valued member of the Giles Publishing staff for several years. When called on the telephone by a fellow staffer who sold her the ticket, Miss Filion thought this was just another joke, and was very skeptical until the car was driven to her door.

Around the same time of day the winner of another valuable prize, a boat and outboard motor, was decided in the neighboring booth operated by the Knights of Columbus. This was won by a ticket-purchaser right on the Fair grounds, Benoit Cadieux, of Alfred, Ont.

Saturday Night Program

People flocked into the grounds to witness the Saturday night Square Dance and Horse Pulling contests, two Legion-sponsored events before the grandstand.

Winners of the square dancing were a junior aggregation from Huntingdon, the only out-of-town contenders. Second and third were two local teams headed by Ken Wilson and Gerald Tomalty, respectively.

The horse-pulling event was contested by 35 teams from Quebec, Ontario, New York and New Hampshire. Winner of the heavyweight class was Melvin Willspeak, of Bennington, N.Y. (16 entries). The same exhibitor won the lightweight class, numbering 19 entries.

Industrial Exhibits

There was the usual variety of equipment and feed displays outdoors, which drew a continued coming-and-going of spectators from the farming fraternity.

Highlight of showmanship in the Main Building was an attractive layout by the Quebec Department of Mines, through arrangement of the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Minister. Photographic panels and maps, with samples of ores mined in this province, were attractively displayed.

On the upper floor, the Women's Institutes cooking, handicrafts and floral exhibits, the Cercle des Fermières (Brownsburg) woollen and needlecraft, and the High School industrial arts display, included some fine examples of workmanship and provided ample interest for the many hundreds who visited this building.

According to impressions with the police and management, the King Reid Shows upheld a reputation for clean dealing in the midway, for there was not a single complaint reported at the office.

Col. E. Emmett's Frontiersmen provided efficient policing and traffic regulation throughout the Fair.

The harness racing program was cancelled when Friday's downpour soaked the track.

The helicopter did fair business on Thursday, little on Friday and considerable on Saturday, carrying passengers at $5 a trip on five-minute bird's-eye tours over the town. This "barnstorming" idea was an interesting sideline to the attractions this year.

Convictions on numerous charges before the court

A 16-year-old Montreal youth was sentenced to two years in St. Vincent de Paul on Friday last, in connection with a charge of breaking and entering with theft at a summer residence at Huberdeau.

The youth appeared before Judge C. L. DeMartigny in St. Jerome court, as did the following persons:

Paul Beausejour, 24, of Lachute, charged with driving without a permit and while under the influence of alcohol. Pleading guilty, the accused was sentenced to a fine of $75 plus costs or six months in jail, and was forbidden to drive a motor vehicle for a six-month period.

Gilles Ouimet, 30, of Ste. Scholastique, charged with driving "under the influence" in Lachute on June 6. Pleading guilty, he was sentenced to a fine of $75 plus costs or one month in jail, his driver's permit being suspended for a three-month period.

Gaetan Girard, 36, of Montreal, charged with hit-and-run and driving while under the influence of alcohol, following an accident with Fernand Larocque, in Lachute June 6, pleaded guilty and was fined a total of $125 plus costs, and had his driver's permit suspended for three months.

Roland Laurin, 23, of Lachute Mills, charged with the theft of hubcaps from motor vehicles, pleaded guilty and was condemned to time spent in jail, a fine of $10, and the costs of the case; he placed a personal bail to keep the peace for a one-year period.

Citizen's father had early acquaintance with R.L. Stevenson

The Late George Clarke

Sympathy is extended to a Lachute townsman, Mr. Keith W. Clarke, in the death of his father, George B. Clarke, which occurred suddenly in St. Lambert last Thursday. The funeral was held on Monday.

The late Mr. Clarke, 68, was former general secretary of the Montreal Family Welfare Association.

He was born in Samoa in the South Seas, the son of a missionary. At the age of five he returned with his father to England. He emigrated to Canada in 1910, resided in Winnipeg until moving to Montreal in 1924. He was interested in social work and was instrumental in the organization of the Canadian Association of Social Workers, of which he was the first president.

His earliest recollections included a close acquaintance with the neighboring family of Robert Louis Stevenson, their neighbors in Apia, Samoa. He had original writings and photographs treasuring this connection. At one time, Mr. Clarke gave an illustrated talk on this subject before the Lions Club in Lachute. He was probably the only link in Canada with the great litterateur, poet and novelist.

Survivors include his wife, his son Keith, of Lachute; and two daughters, Joan (Mrs. H. B. Denis) and Betty (Mrs. E. S. Newman), of Hastings, England.

Rotary plans "Operation Peanut" for Community Park maintenance

"Operation Peanut", with an objective of $1,650, gets underway this week-end, Friday and Saturday, in the form of general street sales [illegible] the door-to-door canvass will be held Monday to Wednesday of next week, June 23-25.

The drive is being sponsored by the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club in order to raise funds to maintain and improve the Rotary Community Park, located near the Brownsburg limits.

Committee Chairman Wes Freeland reports various committees have everything well in hand, and it is hoped to have all areas canvassed early in the week, the towns of Lachute and Brownsburg having been divided into areas.

Headquarters are being set up in the Brownsburg Social Club gymnasium, and numerous store displays have been arranged in an effort to boost sales.

"Peanut men" costumes are to be supplied by Planter's as an aid to the campaign, which will feature a 15 ounce can of peanuts, $1; two 15 ounce jars of peanut butter, $1; and a three-can nut package, selling for $1.50. The local organization has purchased the merchandise from the company concerned, and makes a small margin of profit on each sale made.

Rotary members are on the look-out for volunteer canvassers, and any persons so interested are requested to contact a member of the organization.

Musical program and art show at Kilmar, Que.

(Specially contributed)

Last Saturday evening the Ladies' Glee Club of Kilmar presented a delightful musical program, combined with an art exhibition by students of Marie Bray.

Under the leadership of Elinor Rigby, "Les Gals" of Kilmar (Dorothy Hart, Thelma Fox, Edith Bradley, Joy White, Marie Bray, Helen Bigelow, Jessie Welden, Audrey Campbell and Del Smith) presented a program which would delight any audience. The musical selections were of a type most often heard as encores in professional programs — selections with which the audience is so familiar it is almost tempted to join in the rendering of old favorites, such as "Strawberry Fair", "Skye Boat Song", "Smilin' Thru", "Sweet and Low" and "Love's Old Sweet Song". Dorothy Hart excelled in solo selections, "The Holy City" and "Carmen", and Marie Bray in "Where'er You Walk" and "Softly Awakes". A beautiful trio led by Helen Bigelow displayed both their lovely voices and gowns, as they sang "Alice Blue Gown".

A piano solo by the accompanist, and a piano duet, varied the program. Each item was within the high ability of the performers, and the musical knowledge of the listeners.

It was the kind of a program that one would select from among the favorites of an old-time record collection for pure enjoyment.

Midway in the program an intermission was provided to permit the audience to move about the hall and view the paintings, all done during the past season under Marie Bray's leadership. Marie Bray, a member of the Argenteuil Art Association, gave a clear demonstration of one of the Association objectives, namely, to reveal to people the pleasure that awaits them in the creation of amateur paintings. This exhibition of close to 50 pieces was a convincing demonstration of the ability which lies dormant until leadership is provided to reveal it.

The whole evening was a revelation of the talents, musical and artistic, which can be revealed in a semi-detached mining community such as Kilmar, where life is what you make it. . . Congratulations!

P. Valois resumes legal practice

Mr. Philippe Valois, who was elected by Argenteuil-Deux montagnes constituency for three successive terms in the House of Commons, and who withdrew from the political arena last March, is resuming his law practice and opening an office in the Saulnier Building, Suite 7, above Beston's Pharmacy.

Philippe Valois was admitted to the bar in 1929, after completing his studies at the University of Montreal. For three years he was associated with Lucien Dugas in practice at Joliette, then established his own practice here in 1932, continuing until 1949 when he entered active politics. From 1949 until 1958 his legal ties were largely relinquished, to give precedence to his parliamentary duties.

Investigate theft at Golf Club

The Lachute Golf and Country Club was again the scene of a break-in during Monday night, when thieves left the building with a quantity of clothing, a golf bag and a sum of money, believed to be about $75 in silver.

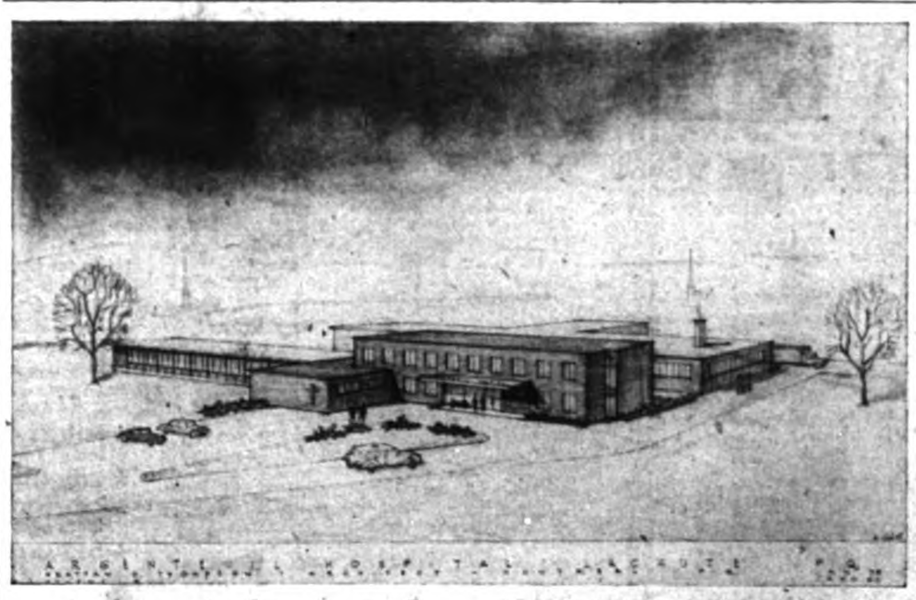

The theft, which occurred in the pro shop, is under investigation by Det.-Sgt. Ralph Allen.

Blood tests for Brucellosis in neighboring county

Dr. J. H. Theoret, Federal veterinary officer, informed local authorities on Tuesday that Brucellosis tests were being conducted in the County of Deux Montagnes, and that, effective from that date, all cattle moved into that area must be accompanied by a health certificate showing negative blood tests for the disease.

Dr. Theoret suggests that the new law would be of concern to farmers and breeders in Argenteuil County who sell or exhibit cattle in the neighboring county, pointing out that any person who violates a provision of the Animal Contageous Disease Act is liable to a penalty of from $50 to $500.

Plans for similar tests in Argenteuil are in the offing. However, no definite date has been set, Deux Montagnes being only the second county in the province to be so protected. Brome County in the Eastern Townships has just been completed last week.

Architect's drawing of proposed Regional Hospital

The main entrance and administrative offices may be seen at the front, the nursing sisters' residence being in the second storey. The wing at the left is for maternity cases, a similar medico-surgical wing being situated behind it.

Personnel manager joins staff at Employment office

A post which was vacant for some time at the employment office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission at Lachute, was recently filled by the appointment of Laurent Savage.

Local employers will no doubt benefit from the experience of Mr. Savage as an employment specialist. The incumbent was until recently personnel manager for Laurentian Textile Co. at St. Jerome and responsible for recruiting and selecting the manpower necessary for the proper functioning of production. Having served in this capacity for 13 years, he is now in a position to serve those who need assistance in recruiting employees for their establishment.

Persons seeking work will also profit by the wealth of knowledge Mr. Savage possesses in matters other than recruiting and selecting, such as employee welfare, counselling and vocational training.

Jean-Paul Roy heads Federation of Charities

A meeting of the Lachute Federation of Charities was held recently to lay plans for the coming campaign and also to elect officers for the present year. Date for the fund campaign has been tentatively set for the third week of October (12th to 18th).

The following officers were elected:

President, Jean-Paul Roy; vice-president, of Ste. Anastasie Parish, J. H. St. Onge; vice-president, St. Julien Parish, Bernard Gosselin; vice-president, Immaculate Conception, Ayersville, Maurice Dumas; secretary, Notary Richard Valois; treasurer, Raymond Beaulieu; budget chairman, Roméo Legault; publicity chairman, F. Berthiaume; directors, L. J. Dumais, J. G. Joannette and G. Poulain.

Council affairs at Ayersville

Mayor Maurice Champagne presided at the last meeting of Ayersville Council, Alderman M. Dumais being the only absentee. Accounts amounting to $2,518.96 were passed for payment.

A grant of $250 was made to the Agricultural Society to aid with the Spring Fair. It was decided that a light be installed on Chatham Street in front of the Gauthier Restaurant. Permit to operate a grocery store was granted to Mrs. Roger Lascelles at 139 Ayers Street. Permission was also given Adrien Houle to operate a potato-chip stand on Hamford, facing Millway Street.

Building permits were granted to J. B. Lemay, of St. Philippe, for erection of a house on Dupré Street; Emile Racine, for construction of a private garage on Bradford Avenue; and Arthur Villemaire, for repairs to his house on Lavigueur Street.

Alderman D. G. Simon was nominated pro-mayor for the next three months.

Messrs. C. E. Gauthier, H. Leroux and E. Lajoie were appointed as valuators, the latter to act as secretary.

Father and son face 10 charges

Maurice and Claude Dupuis, a father-and-son duo 48 and 22 years of age respectively, appeared in St. Jerome court on Tuesday of last week in connection with 10 charges of breaking and entering with theft at Barron Lake (Long Lake), during the month of April.

The accused, both of Montreal, were arrested by Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen following extensive investigations, and after their preliminary inquiry, were sent to trial before the Assizes. They were also charged in connection with six cases of a similar nature at Lake Duffy, Montcalm County.

Students pass at Macdonald

Results in the Agriculture course (for the degree of Bachelor of Science, Agr.) at Macdonald College indicate that three students from this area have successfully passed the year's examinations. The three are as follows:

M. Ozers, Grenville (1st Year).

E. G. Beauchamp, St. Philippe (2nd Year).

D. J. Foreman, Calumet (2nd Year).

A mis-impression

A Watchman report of Council proceedings mentioned that a grant of $250 was voted to the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, with Ald. Dr. J. P. Dorion dissenting.

This item was a literal translation of Council minutes as recorded in French. Dr. Dorion, Veterinary Surgeon, has been an energetic worker for the Society and he dissented only because he advocated a higher grant of $300 towards the Spring Fair.

Stan Church named Grand Knight of K. of C. Council

Stanley Church, ex-alderman and well-known business man, was elected Grand Knight of the local K. of C. Council (No. 2752) in the annual business meeting and election of officers last week. Mr. Church, who has served in this honored role for the past few months was elected to continue the office, by a majority in contest with another nominee, Charles-Emile Doris.

Other appointments were as follows: Deputy Grand Knight, Adhémar Cuerrier; chancellor, Theodore Malette; m.c., Fernand Trépanier; representative, J. Henri St. Onge; recording secretary, Roland Raymond; secretary-treasurer, Yves Lamarche; financial secretary, Marcel Belanger.

Trustees — Jacques Poitras, Gaetan Malacket, Albert Malaket.

Int. guards, J.-P. Lacombe, Ovila Brunet. Ext. guard, Rosaire Pagé.

LEGION NOTES

— by —

Branch 70 (Lachute) Correspondent

The month of June will certainly go down in history as one of the busiest around Branch 70! The highlight of course, was the presentation of a Canadian Legion Meritorious Service Medal to Com. Eddie Jones by members of this Branch, in acknowledgment of the service he has rendered over the years.

A Charter Member of Branch 70, Ed responded in a reminiscent vein, after the highest Legion honor was bestowed upon him by Com. President R. O. MacLean. He referred to the work of the Legionnaires with the Teen-Agers of today, recalling many happy incidents of his younger days. He related how the local Teeners of that era often promoted their own entertainment; however, we gathered from his remarks that, except for environment little else differs between the youngsters of the two periods. Com. Tom Smith presented Mrs. Jones with a lovely bouquet of flowers. Many relatives and family friends attended the recognition ceremony, in addition to a host of business friends, town dignitaries and Legionnaires.

Com. Ozzie Thompson, Sports chairman, Provincial Command, took advantage of this auspicious occasion to present the Provincial Cribbage Champions, Coms. Fred Pring and Don Cockburn, with a beautiful trophy. This provincial trophy may be claimed by the Branch if won for three consecutive years. Winners of Branch 70 Dart and Cribbage tournaments, Com. P. Lecorre and Don Cockburn, respectively, were also presented with suitable trophies. Those present leter enjoyed an evening of dancing.

THIRTEEN — the magic (?) number — has certainly been an important one in Com. Ed Jones' life. During the course of his remarks at the recent recognition ceremony held in his honor, Ed recalled many incidents in his lifetime involving this number — almost too frequently to be a coincidence. Those present were amused when Com. B. Jenkins, m.c. for the occasion, later read a letter of congratulations signed by — yes "13" of Ed's very close friends, who were unable to be present due to a previous engagement in Montreal. Still later in the evening when the m.c. requested all World War I vets to join with Ed for a group picture — you guessed it again! — "13" only World War I vets in the hall!

We were sorry to hear that Com. Dick Hampton has suffered a fractured ankle. The Sick and Relief Committee has reported that he is coming along well.

* * *

Two young townsmen became members of this Branch at the monthly meeting held June 11. Com Gaetan Laforest was inducted and Com. G. Berniquer re-instated.

* * *

The Executive meeting was replaced by an "away-from-home", when the Fair program was reviewed with the directors of the Argenteuil Agriculture Association.

"Summer suns are glowing over land and sea"—The opening words of this old hymn perhaps best voiced the prayer on the lips of all on the Thursday of Lachute Fair week. . . The rest is history now!

Two months of planning washed down the drain with the torrential downpour of Friday afternoon and evening! It was with heavy hearts indeed that the 50-piece Army Ordinance Brass Band and the Shriners' Oriental Band had to be returned to Montreal. The Shriners, intent upon doing their bit, did put on an impromptu act before a meagre but amused crowd in the Main Building around 9 p.m. Friday. Even greater disappointment was the cancellation of the very elaborate plans for the Teen-Agers on Friday evening.

The optimistic outlook and gigantic effort of the Fair directors, did make possible a semblance of the planned presentation before a chilled group of spectators on Saturday afternoon. The Branch are indebted to the Agricultural Society president, Erskine W. Rodger, and secretary-manager, Ken Riley, and their associates, for making this portion of the day available to the Branch, including proceeds from the grandstand.

A near-continuous commentary on the weather situation at the Fair by radio station CFRA, Ottawa, and enthusiastic interviews at noon hour by Frank Ryan of the Farmers' Supply program, no doubt accounted largely for the record turnout to witness the Saturday evening show, which included the Legion sponsored horse - drawing and square-dancing contests.

There is now no doubt in the mind of anyone that the crowd can be drawn to the other side of the grounds. By 9 p.m. Saturday, the grandstand was packed, as has seldom been seen in recent years.

We cannot possibly find space in this column to single out everyone whose assistance should be acknowledged, but to the kiddies who sold tickets on the draw door-to-door in town — to those who took part in the various events, and to those who patronized the grandstand for the Legion events — a sincere thanks to all! Your presence there has confirmed, without doubt, the convictions of the Fair directors, that the Lachute Spring Fair will remain a successful venture if enough local people are given a part in its programming. It has been a pleasure for Branch 70 to participate in a community project of this magnitude.

Light Horse Show outstanding in Lachute Fair livestock features

The light horse show at Lachute Fair was the largest and best in quality seen for many years. Local, district and distant exhibitors (too numerous to mention) provided enthusiastic competition in all breeds and classes, and the events were watched by an admiring crowd of spectators.

Leading exhibitors gave a good representation from Lachute and Brownsburg, with competition from points near and far, including — Brampton, Sterling, Temagami, and Renfrew, Ont., Sherbrooke, Que., etc., etc.

In the heavy horse breeds the following are cited as examples of the successes achieved by local fanciers:

HORSES

Clydesdales —
Junior Champion Stallion, Kenneth Kettyle.
Reserve Gr. Champion Stallion, A. T. Cleland & Son.
Senior Champion, Reserve Champion, Grand Champion and Reserve Champion Mares were all taken by these same local breeders, A. T. Cleland & Son — also the Best Clydesdale Mare of any age.
John Heatlie & Son won Mare and Mare-and-Foal classes in this breed.

Percherons —
Gilbert Arnold, of Grenville took the Grand Champion and Reserve Grand Champion Mares and most other awards in this breed, including the Quebec Percheron Breeders Association trophy.

Belgians —
Senior Champion Stallion, Gilbert Arnold.

Standard Bred —

Hackney —
Grand Champion Stallion, A. J. Billingham.
Grand Champion Mare, Frank Ryan.

Hunters —
Lightweight Hunter, Dr. G. R. McCall.
Heavyweight, Green, Ladies' Hunter and Working Hunter, all won by L. T. Porter, St. Andrews East.

Holsteins —
Reserve Junior Champion Bull, John W. Hadley.
New local exhibitors in this breed were Constantin Stuckl, John Hadley and Blair Brothers.
John Meyer was high up among the winners in several classes, while John W. Hadley won the Cottingham trophy for Senior Get of Sire.

Dr. G. R. McCall took several top awards in a two-herd contest in Jerseys, while Remi St. Jacques and J. P. St. Jacques won ribbons in the Guernsey exhibits.

Aberdeen Angus —

Harness racing at Rigaud track

Last Sunday afternoon the weather was good enough to permit the official opening of harness racing at Rigaud Park. Regardless of the strong wind, a large crowd enjoyed their afternoon on the grounds.

In the four classes presented, the following horses took first place: Midnight Star (owner, Jacques Cousineau, Ville St. Laurent), Homestretch Gallon (Albert Diotte, St. Eustache), Stewart Majesty and Ben Majesty (Jimmy Connors, Cornwall). Special mention went to Midnight Star for winning the fastest race of the day.

Another good program will be presented at Rigaud Park next Sunday at 2 p.m. Horses from Ville St. Laurent, Montreal, Valleyfield, Ottawa and Cornwall, with many more, will contest for the honors in four classes.

A special contest will be announced soon, of interest to all farm-horse owners.

Lachute Spring Fair 1958

WE CANNOT VOUCH for the King Reid Shows as being the "Cleanest Midway in the World" but one thing is certain, it is definitely the cleanest show seen at the Lachute Spring Fair in recent years. It will take a few more such shows to make the local population realize that not every midway show is out to take them for every cent possible.

All in all, the local exhibition was of a better calibre in many ways, no one exhibitor cleaning up several classes as in the past history of the Fair. And if the cold, rainy weather cut attendance on Friday, it most certainly proved several points Saturday, these being that the Fair Grounds need the proposed arena and that more than one judging class can be run in front of the grandstand at one time, thus creating considerably more interest.

There have been rumors that a bad year would mark the last of the Lachute Spring Fairs, but this is far from the truth, as the total operating deficit over the years is still under the $5,000 mark. With several more shows on a par with this year's, and this is only possible with such aid as was given by the Legion Branch 70 and the Lachute Lions Club, the debt will be cleaned up, the Fair put on a paying basis again, and the directorate in a position to make much-needed improvements.

We take considerably more pleasure in congratulating all concerned for this year's improvements than we did for condemning last year's show. It most certainly proved that the Fair is not on its way out, and if the Board of Directors can get together with the Lions Club on their Arena project, yet another anchor for continued success will be in evidence.

To the energetic manager, Ken Riley, and his assistants — to the directorate, the service clubs, the Farm Forums and all organizations and individuals who co-operated — a tribute of public recognition is well deserved.

Keeping up with the Joneses

ARISING out of a Commons debate recently on interest rates charged by finance companies, Hansard records some pointed and painful logic which touches the owner of every pocketbook.

Commons members showed sympathy about the debts of individual Canadians, while one Senator said that, from the point of view of the federal budget, Canada is failing to live within her means.

It was Liberal Senator A. B. Baird, of Newfoundland, who stated incidentally that he was shocked to learn the government is "deliberately" proposing to budget for a deficit. Putting off paying debts was a sure way to "future grief", he said.

The contentious bill, sponsored by CCF House leader Hazen Argue, proposed a 12 percent interest ceiling on all loans not specifically controlled by present laws, but the bill was adjourned indefinitely. Mr. Argue, member for Assiniboia, attacked what he called fabulously-high interest rates where an annual rate of 20 percent a year was "quite common." Some retail store rates ran as high as 54 percent, he said.

Gordon Chown (PC—Winnipeg South) saw in the bill an attempt to destroy a "healthy enterprise" filling a Canadian need. He doubted that interest rates were generally too high.

The day previously, in the Senate, Senator Baird said Canadians are losing their ancestral trait of living within their means. He warned they are trying to keep up with the Joneses, and said the federal government, too, has embarked on a program of deficit budgeting alien to the Canadian way. He also suggested labor should hold the line on wage demands.

His views contrasted sharply with the Liberal party's federal election campaign promise to institute a $400,000,000 tax-cut program. The Senator said the only way to cut taxes was to reduce the cost of government. But there was no sign the government was sincerely trying to do that.

Avert tragedy by preparedness

LAST YEAR more than 1,000 people drowned in Canada. That is not a very proud record for any nation. Those men, women and children lost their lives simply because they neglected to observe elementary rules of water safety.

Every year we are reminded of those rules, and at first glance they seem so obvious and self-evident that we wonder why they are reiterated so often. That is the thought until we look at the record and compare a few statistics.

Most of those tragedies happened because people didn't think or never realized they were in danger. They were foolhardy and ignored one or more of the simple precepts of safety in, on or near the water.

This year the Canadian Red Cross Society is asking us to draw the attention of readers to National Water Safety Week, June 15-21. This we are happy to do, and it is hoped that our warning may awaken some thought and save lives in this community.

It will take more than a Water Safety Week to cut down our annual drowning toll, but a mutual effort may produce results. Every citizen has a responsibility in this problem of swimming and boating accidents. We have a responsibility for our children, the passengers in our boats and those who use our lakes, rivers and streams for healthful, happy recreation.

Everyone should become acquainted with the rules of water safety. The time to do it is now!

Specifically Speaking

To re-acquaint ourselves with the specific dangers, let us ask ourselves a few questions. .

Where should we swim? — The only place is a safe place, recommended by someone who knows it. The best place is one under observation by a life guard.

When should we swim? — Never swim alone. The best time for swimming is late morning and afternoon. Because of the process of digestion, it is advisable to keep out of the water for at least two hours after eating a full meal.

Exhaustion should be guarded against at all cost. Too much physical exercise before entering the water, over-exertion while in the water, and extremely cold water, all cause exhaustion. Under these conditions it is impossible to remain afloat for very long.

To be able to size up the situation and help anyone else who is in trouble is the duty of every citizen. To help a troubled swimmer and not endanger our own lives is something we all should be able to do.

Never come into contact with the victim; that is the golden rule of rescue work. Use a reaching aid or boat. Almost anything can be used as a reaching aid, a towel, portion of clothing, or an outstretched arm or leg. These are always sufficient to bring him in. If the victim is too far out, push a free floating support such as a plank, oar, branch or paddle to him, but don't come into contact yourself.

There is a very good rule to memorize and follow for helping a person in distress, set forth by the Canadian Red Cross: Row, throw, tow, then if you have to, go. . . Think it over, it makes very good sense.

Free Country

"IT'S A free country!" we are apt to say — or hear said — on occasion, without usually giving much thought to the profundity of this particular observation.

Free it certainly is. We have our problems, but (though there is ever need for vigilance) we can rejoice that Canadians have as much individual freedom as any people in the world today; and a good deal more than most.

We are free, among other things, to worship and vote as we please; to express our own opinions, however eccentric, and to read and/or hear those of others; to move from one place to another without hindrance; to change our jobs at will; to go into business for ourselves; to leave the country and return to it as and how we choose. And, let it never be forgotten, we are free from wrongful arrest or detention without charge or trial.

These are the basic freedoms, and there are millions of men and women who do not have them even in this twentieth century. They were won for us by other men in other centuries and at great personal sacrifice.

Nothing is asked of us, save that we prize them and guard them jealously, for they can be lost more easily than they were gained.

Viewpoints and perspectives

THE SUMMER prospects for job-hunting high school students are "very lean", says a National Employment Service officer — as reported by The Financial Post.

It means that students may be back to cutting the neighbor's lawn, washing cars, baby sitting to earn pocket money. Or that Dad will foot more of the bills for Junior's summer fun.

Today's job prospects are unlike most of the past 10 years, when eager students didn't have too much trouble finding work. Now they're competing with recession — swelled unemployed ranks, and determined university students and grads.

YOUR CHILD'S future depends a lot on the education he receives. The better the education the more he will get out of life and the more he will be able to contribute to the happiness of those around him.

What was the "Underground Railroad"?

Before the American civil war, negro slaves escaped to the Northern States, and especially Canada, by means of the "Underground Railroad". Slaves making their way to the north were quietly passed on from "station to station", those who received them were known as "station agents" while those who aided in forwarding them were known as "conductors". The fugitives themselves were "freight" and described in code. The aid was illegal and the many Quakers and other humanitarian friends, who operated the railroad, ran the risk of arrest and prosecution.

Estimates of the number of fugitives coming to Canada range from 25,000 to 40,000. In the late 1840's the Rev. William King, an Irish clergyman, who had married the daughter of a Louisiana planter and became the unwilling owner of 15 slaves, came to Buxton in Kent County, where land was granted by the government and divided into 50 acre plots for his new settlement. Today the Buxton settlement is the most distinctively Negro community in Canada. A bronze tablet at Windsor, Ontario, erected by the Canadian Government, commemorates the operations of the "Underground Railroad."

When did dollars become shillings?

When Charles Douglas Smith was Lieutenant-Governor of the Prince Edward Island colony in 1812-24 he sought to relieve the shortage of currency by punching the centre out of Spanish or Mexican dollars, the centre passing for a shilling while the rest of the coin was to retain its original value. Such methods, along with his high-handed and arbitrary rule soon brought a petition for his recall and he was replaced.

What is Goby?

A Goby is a small marine fish, of no commercial value, other than as a food for larger species. They inhabit muddy or sandy areas in coastal waters, where they lie either with upraised heads, supported by their pelvic fins, which form a "sucker", or almost completely buried, with only their eyes showing. Five species are found off the B.C. Pacific coast, but they are usually found south of Canadian waters in the Atlantic.

Where was the first telephone exchange in Canada?

It was at Hamilton, Ontario, in 1878, that the first Canadian telephone exchange was opened. Here H. C. Baker and K. J. Dunstan did pioneer work in developing the exchange system, in arousing the interest of subscribers and in studying ways of extending the clearness and distance of messages. The first long distance line for commercial purposes was laid from their office to Dundas. It consisted of two single grounded wires strung on poles along the local railroad and was used largely for despatching trains. There was confusion in conversation on the two lines. Eventually the ground wire was abandoned and the metallic circuit used instead to overcome this difficulty.

Wealth and the Welfare State

— By Lewis Milligan —

"The Future of the Welfare State" is the title of a symposium of lectures published by the Conservative Political Centre in London. The lectures deal chiefly with the economic problems relating to the maintenance of the Welfare State, and these can be briefly summed up in the preface by Peter Goldman as follows:

"It has lately become a cliche of Right-wing rhetoric to proclaim the need for an Opportunity State to match and sustain the Welfare State. Neither of these terms is defined with any precision. But we may take it that, if the Welfare States is a mechanism for distributing golden eggs, an Opportunity State denotes the conditions under which the goose will most readily lay them. These conditions do not exist in Britain today."

It would seem that the British Conservative Party, for the most part, has taken the Welfare State for granted, and one of the lecturers, George Schwartz, claims that it is an evolution of Capitalism, and that its future depends upon the maintenance of the Capitalist system. Mr. Schwartz is deputy city editor of the London Sunday Times, and with a newspaperman's economy of space he goes directly to the point. "Can we", he asks, "be quite frank about the connotation of the word 'welfare' today? Can we clear our minds of cant on this particular subject and admit that as far as practical politics are concerned, 'welfare' has only one significance, and that is 'material welfare'?" He recalls how earlier socialists denounced the capitalist system as a "grossly materialistic manifestation of human activity." Under the new Socialist Order the idolatry of wealth and the worship of greater production would no longer be allowed.

"What is the situation today? When the prospect of doubling the standard of living in the next twenty-five years was held out, did anybody raise a cry of protest and say, 'This is not the way to the Good Life'? The only protest I heard was made by people who said twenty-five years was too long to wait."

Mr. Schwartz wants to know where in the world today the capitalist processes are being repudiated. "Mr. Krushchev was boasting only the other day that they were going to 'lick the Americans' on food producton. Has India gone back to the message and spirit of Gandhi? On the contrary, India has a Plan to raise its standard of living, and is determined to drive it through, despite the jam into which it has got itself. The whole world is obsessed with materialistic aims."

If a prophet were to rise in Britain to turn the people away from all that, and tell them to "go out into the wilderness and live on locusts and wild honey," Mr. Schwartz does not believe an election could be won on that platform. "And if some of the miners suddenly caught the light and drifted out of the mines to go and meditate in the wilderness, I am afraid we should have to send Nye Bevan chasing after them to explain that their nobility of soul was appreciated, but if they would just go back for a few more years we would be greatly obliged."

Tracing the origin of the idea that life could get better and better, Mr. Schwartz attributes it to the Industrial Revolution in Britain with the great beneficial effects of mechanical invention. "How the railway, the steamship, the use of mechanical force in manufacture opened up the world, got rid of local famines, brought decent clothing within the reach of ordinary people." That was not a Socialist movement; it was the achievement of Capitalism.

Mr. Schwartz points out that the idea of social services is not new; it goes back to the Elizabethan Poor Law. "It has always been a statutory duty to care for the poor. But the amount of help you can give depends upon the wealth of the time. It is no particular tribute to us that we can do more for the unfortunate than our fathers could do: Production must precede distribution."

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

Dear Uncle Sam

You are a good neighbor. We like you. Howls of anguish heard from this direction haven't really been directed at you; they've been aimed at our own politicians who, instead of dealing manfully with you, as good neighbors should, have been pussyfooting, or worse.

Take our Trans-Canada pipeline for example. One of your enterprisers invested heavily in it. Good for him. But the average Canadian was annoyed when Trans-Canada supported by our tax money, made a deal to sell gas cheap to an American company which happend to be friends of that same enterpriser. We didn't so much blame him for trying to make a deal of that kind; but we certainly did blame our government for appearing to help him to do it. Indeed, that was one main reason why we booted that government out and put in a new one.

We get annoyed, too, when your labor leaders, with unmitigated gall, take pot shots at our judiciary and attempt to tell us how to run our railroads. That doesn't mean we're sore at the USA. Presumably you are about as fed up with some of your labor leaders as we are, and you understand why we want none of their tactics here. Our own labor leaders can manage on their own.

We do register neighborly indignation about your wheat disposal program, and as your best customer we feel we have a right to do so. We appreciated the frank way your Mr. Benson deals with such complaints from us, but unless you stop raiding our established markets with give-away deals, we'll complain and we'll act. You don't want a milksop for a neighbor, do you?

We note that you protect your home industries and their domestic markets. We're not sore at you for that; but we have been annoyed at our own past government for not following a similar realistic practice for Canadian markets.

So, Uncle Sam, talk that might have sounded anti-American is not meant that way. It's just that your neighbor has grown up. In the long run you'll be better off with a neighbor big and strong like you. Meanwhile, don't let our growing pains alarm you. We're your best friends.

"Professional associations" which have the power to control jobs and business licenses, seem to be growing stronger and more numerous.

They are, in fact, government-sponsored closed shops.

All kinds of new people have either gained "professional status" or are lobbying for it in the capitals of Canada's provinces: naturopaths, osteopaths, practical nurses . . . a whole alphabet of new professions.

Real estate salesmen want the right to regulate their occupation and require new candidates for a selling job to have degrees and diplomas.

No doubt they can make a good case. Keep out the riff-raff, they will say. Guarantee the public a minimum standard of integrity.

They are absolutely right — unless, of course, the honorable men who are now the leaders of the profession should get elbowed aside, and the riff-raff should take control of the real estate licensing board.

Naturally such a thing could never happen — or could it?

I have nothing against the real estate boys, most of whom are alert, intelligent and public-spirited, I am sure. It's the trend that I don't like.

Real estate salesmen — sorry, "realtors", — aren't the only ones who are trying to pin a high-priced exclusive label on their jobs, and make their own rules that are binding on everyone. Insurance consultants (formerly "salesmen") morticians (formerly "undertakers") and scalp engineers (formerly "barbers") are up to the same game.

When the newspaper columnists' association is formed, the qualifications will be clear-cut: 25 years of university, or a fee of $90,000. One or the other, not both. We are easy to get along with. The rule won't apply to those of us who are practising already. We'll be collecting the money.

The time-honored closed shops that doctors, lawyers, dentists, pharmacists and other old-style professional men operate are still in business, and stronger than ever.

They claim that they are given their powers for the general good. It takes an expert to judge another expert, they say. But too often, it seems to the layman, they use their authority as a device to keep down competition, increase profits and shield inefficient comrades.

Proof? Nobody can get it. Professional bodies control the evidence.

Not all "professional associations" have the right to hand out licenses and exclude anyone they don't like, but a great many do have such powers. Is this a sound principle?

How much authority to issue licenses — and, virtually, to make laws — should we hand over to groups of private citizens?

Early Lachute Family Notable for Longevity

Mr. D. J. Christie, of Edmonton, and Mr. Wm. Elston, of St. Mary's, Ont., were visitors in town this week, also attending the Lachute Fair. Mr. Christie, with his wife, flew from Edmonton to St. Mary's, and the latter is presently visiting with relatives in Windsor. It is 50 years since Mr. Christie left for the West, but he has periodically returned here, his last trip being in 1954.

Something of note in connection with this original local family is the fact that there are four who have celebrated their golden wedding anniversaries, and all couples are still alive. They are — Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Christie, of Edmonton, married for 52 years; Mr. and Mrs. Jos. B. Christie, of Wetaskiwin, 52 years; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Christie, of New York, 54 years; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Christie, of Kelowna, B.C., 56 years.

There are very few (if any) such cases, known, and the hearty congratulations of all former acquaintances are extended to these four couples.

The Rev. T. A. Grenier celebrated Mass at 9 a.m. for the delegates, who later were guests of the Subdivision at breakfast.

In the business session, the president, Mrs. A. Relecom, reported a successful year in all aspects of C.W.L. work and the Rev. Father Grenier spoke on the theme of this year's convention, "Catholic Ideals in Minds United." Annual reports were given by Mrs. M. McGowan, president of St. Frances Cabrini Subdivision, Rosemere; Mrs. C. Robinson, president of Ste. Anastasie Subdivision, Lachute; Mrs. J. T. Leblanc, president of Holy Family Subdivision, St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac; and Mrs. J. J. Molloy, of St. Louis de France Subdivision. All officers were re-elected for a second term.

Luncheon was served in Bouchard School. Mrs. J. J. Molloy presided in the absence of Miss Muriel Jackson, local president. Guests included the Most Rev. W. J. Smith, Bishop of Pembroke, National Director of the C.W.L.; the Most Rev. Emilien Frenette, Bishop of St. Jerome; Rev. Canon V. Bouchard and Rev. Fathers T. A. Grenier, G. Hurtubise, H. J. Conway, O. Sullivan and L. Clement.

In his address, Bishop Smith told his audience that "The role of Catholic women today is every bit as great as that of the early Christian women. The centre of patriotism and religion is in the home."

"The role of the C.W.L. is to make woman always more conscious of her rights, duties and power to help mould public opinion through her daily contacts, and to influence legislation and administration by the proper use of her prerogatives as a citizen." The danger of this age is the weariness and slackness that affect good people; the do-nothing attitude of the good permits the triumph of evil. . . Mrs. R. Summers expressed appreciation to His Excellency.

Announcement was made of a closed retreat for C.W.L. members of St. Jerome Diocese to be held July 18-19-20th at Maison d'Esterel, Ste. Marguerite du Lac Masson.

Opening of New "Dairy Queen"

Group photographed at the new "Dairy Queen" on the Brownsburg Road, a popular spot last Sunday on the occasion of its official opening. The ubiquitous Chief Magistrate, Mayor Léopold Carrière, graciously lent his patronage to this new enterprise, to cut the ribbon and declare the establishment "in business".

In order, left to right — Dick Gledhill, friend and consultant of the proprietor; Jacques Ouellette, son-in-law of Mayor Carrière; R. A. Giles of The Watchman; Ald. Wilfrid Morrissette; Mme Ouellette (the former Dianne Carrière); Ald. Laureat Laurin, building contractor; Police Chief F. Trépanier; Mayor Carrière upfront, cutting the ribbon; Jacques Poitras, town secretary; D. M. Hay, manager, Bank of Montreal; Albert Mady, proprietor; and (extreme right) Roger Nault, Dairy Queen divisional official.

Trade and tariffs discussed between Prime Ministers

Ottawa (CP) — Tariffs, trade and foreign affairs were dominating topics during two days of meetings in the capital between Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Prime Minister Macmillan of Great Britain. Indications of a broad approach to the free world's economic topics emerged from their talks.

Mr. Macmillan addressed both houses of Parliament, and later met all members of the cabinet. It was also understood he informed Mr. Diefenbaker on his talks at Washington just previously. In the U.S., he stressed the idea of "economic interdependence" among the world's free nations as an answer to Russia's economic offensive.

Concerning relations with Russia, the world of ideas 'should be our chosen battleground", he said in his speech to Parliament. "I do not believe we need fear the future if we hold firm to our own ideas. In time even monolithic dictatorships crumble or change."

The best way to counteract communism was to increase the free world's trade and wealth. The free nations, working together to increase trade, offered the only hope for a future with a better material and spiritual life.

Britain's proposal last fall for a Canada-U.K. free trade plan still stands, he said at a press conference. An Anglo-Canadian free trade area might be just an ideal, "but it's on the table if anyone wants to pick it up, in whole or in part."

But he declined to say whether this subject was discussed here during the meetings with Mr. Diefenbaker and the cabinet.

A House or A Home

By Ethel Kettyle

It wasn't a modern house,
And the walls were cracked and thin;
Paint was peeling off the roof,
That was made of strips of tin.

The chimney often had smoked,
And the paper on the wall
Was faded much in places,
And there wasn't any hall.

It hadn't the polished floors
We see in the homes today;
But a path was worn to the door,
Where many had found a way.

There they had found a refuge
From worry and want and fear;
The door was always open
To give them a word of cheer.

Cups of tea at a table,
Geraniums on a sill;
A welcome for a stranger
And a hand of right goodwill.

A house may have halls of marble,
Modern, beautifully tall,
But if the door is not kept open,
It isn't a home at all.

Redistribution of constituencies

Ottawa (CP) — Can Commons members do a fair job of revamping the boundaries of their own constituencies? Members themselves disagreed on the question during debate on a bill sponsored by Douglas Fisher (CCF—Port Arthur).

The boundaries must be changed periodically to keep up with population changes. Mr. Fisher would turn the job of redistribution, carried out after each decennial census, to an independent commission. It now is handled by a 50-member Commons committee.

His bill did not come to a vote because the debate continued until adjournment time last Thursday night. It was to come up for renewed debate later in the session.

Mr. Fisher said his bill would remove "the petty, back-biting, impulsive grasp for power" now possible with the job in the hands of a Commons committee. Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) said "you can't be honest on that kind of committee . . . because personal interest, political interest and party all come into play."

Our Provincial Flower Emblems

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

If you would like to conduct a little questionnaire on your own stop the next half dozen of your acquaintances and ask them to name the floral emblems of the ten provinces. If they admit this question stumps them, ask them to name their own provincial floral emblem Few are able to do this.

Each province chose a different floral emblem. The 1957 Almanac and Directory gives this list: Alberta — Wild Rose; British Columbia — Dogwood; Manitoba — Prairie Crocus; New Brunswick — Violet; Newfoundland — Pitcher Plant; Nova Scotia — Trailing Arbutus; Ontario — White Trillium, Prince Edward Island — Lady's Slipper; Quebec — Wild Blue Iris, Saskatchewan — Red Prairie Lily.

An interesting project for a school-age child would be to draw an outline map of our Dominion and then, with the help of a flower guide, draw and then color the emblem for each province in the centre of each provincial area. A colored or green maple leaf might be used to decorate two corners of the page, with perhaps a beaver in the other two. Here you have a geography and nature lesson combined that cannot but intrigue the child.

The youngster who has a talent for sketching may want to attempt some wild flower studies in a scrap book. Snapshots are not easy to take in the woods. But a clump of wild flowers, or even a single plant, presents a real challenge to a photo enthusiast.

Boys and girls like to make a log of their expeditions. On an outdoor hike it is fun to keep a record of the wild flowers, the birds and the trees, or any other nature lore observations. Eyes which are eager to see make all kinds of observations.

Is there any more joyous experience for a boy or girl than walking over hill and dale in the sunshine in the springtime? The little breeze carries wonderful scents of the good earth, and of growing things. The birds are calling to each other in the trees, and the ground is soft and springy underfoot. There is a tang in the air and the sky is deep blue. The clouds are moving swiftly with strange forms and shades blending into their whiteness.

If the hiker is not too near a town or city, the woods are likely gay with wild flowers. Fortunate the child whose parent teaches him at an early age to enjoy the wild flower friends without picking them. It is tragic that some of our loveliest wild flowers, such as the trailing arbutus, the white trillium and the lady's slipper, are becoming rare in some areas. They have vanished completely from other areas because they have been thoughtlessly and ruthlessly picked.

What determines what kind of wild flower will grow in any area? The prairie, the woods, swamp, cliffs and dunes, each has its own special plants. Many of the delicate woodland flowers become very rare in sections where the trees have been cut down because they grow best in partially shaded habitat. Scientists tell us that it is the amount of moisture and the type of soil which, to a great degree, decide which flowers will grow.

In the pine woods the soil is quite acid from decaying needles and special varieties of wild flowers such as Trillium and Dutchman's Britches grow readily in this soil. Thus, it is difficult to transplant these flowers successfully into ordinary garden earth. Some naturalists suggest that it is best not to disturb the wild flowers by attempting to move them.

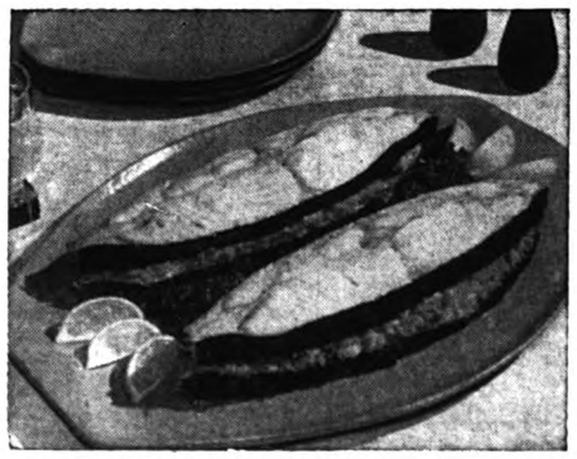

Getting acquainted with wild flower friends is a fascinating hobby, so, consult your public librarian about books of this type. Take time to examine the exquisite colored pictures in the Macmillan Wild Flower Book. There are a number of good, inexpensive wild flower guides in color and one of these should be in every home. The Canadian Nature Magazine has published a most attractive booklet on wild flowers. In it are 15 reproductions in full color by Barrie Rennie, which are suitable for framing.

Edna St. Vincent Millay wrote some lines in her poem, "Afternoon On A Hill," which are good ones to read aloud to your children. Perhaps you can persuade them to memorize them:

"I will be the gladdest thing under the sun
I will touch a hundred flowers and pick not one!"

Halibut double-deckers

These tender baked halibut steaks, sandwiching a crumbly Buttery Tomato-Bread Stuffing, are especially flavorful. Ideal to serve to good friends who come to dinner!

Fresh halibut is now appearing on the market in good supply. The main fishing period covers a period of 8 to 10 weeks and although much of the catch is frozen for year around use, a percentage is marketed fresh. So now is the time to have a halibut feast.

Steaks or slices are the most common retail form in which halibut is marketed. It is also available by the piece and sometimes as fillets. The home economists of Canada's Department of Fisheries tell us that halibut may be prepared by any of the basic cooking methods such as steaming, frying, broiling and baking. Because halibut grow to such large size, a whole fish is seldom stuffed and baked. Baked stuffed halibut steaks, however, are a popular dinner dish. To prepare them, just follow these easy, kitchen-tested directions.

Halibut Double-Deckers

2 Halibut steaks (about 1 pound each and ½ to ¾ inches thick), salt, ¼ cup butter, ¼ cup chopped onion, ¼ cup diced celery, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon thyme or sage or tarragon, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, 1 small tomato (chopped), melted butter.

Sprinkle steaks on both sides with salt. Heat ¼ cup of butter and cook celery and onion in it until tender but not brown. Remove pan from heat and add seasonings, bread crumbs, and chopped tomato; mix thoroughly. Place one steak in a well greased baking dish. Heap the stuffing mixture on it then cover with the other steak. Brush the top steak with melted butter. Measure the total thickness of the steaks and stuffing. Place in a hot oven at 450°F. and bake allowing about 10 minutes cooking time for each inch of total thickness. The fish is cooked when the flesh will separate into flakes and is a milky white color throughout. Makes 4 servings.

Cooked halibut offers a wide range of "postscript" possibilities. Like other cooked foods it is very perishable. Store it in a covered container in the refrigerator and use it within a day or so after cooking. It can be used in casserole dishes, creamed mixtures and salads. It is especially good as a filling for grilled luncheon sandwiches.

Pan-Grilled Halibut Sandwiches

1 Cup cooked halibut, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, 6 slices bread, softened butter.

Flake halibut and sprinkle with salt and lemon juice. Add mayonnaise, Worcestershire sauce, and chopped onion; mix thoroughly. Butter 6 slices of bread on one side. Place 3 of the slices, butter side down, on a piece of waxed paper. Spread with the filling and top with remaining slices placed butter side up. Brown sandwiches on both sides in a moderately hot frying pan. No additional fat is needed in the pan. Serve piping hot. Makes 3 sandwiches.

Q.W.I. meeting at Macdonald College

Mr. E. L. R. Williamson, of Ottawa, will be speaking at the Board of the Quebec Women's Institutes, when it meets Tuesday, June 24, at Macdonald College. He will discuss the findings of the Fowler Commission on Broadcasting, as it pertains to the development of a genuinely Canadian aspect in Broadcasting. The Q.W.I. had submitted a brief to this Commission at the time of the public hearings in Montreal.

Items connected with the next Triennial Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World, will also occupy the attention of the Q.W.I. Board. This Conference will be held in Scotland next year and resolutions and nominations must be in the London office in the early fall.

Final details of the Q.W.I. Provincial Convention will be settled. This opens at the College the following day and 150 registrations have already been received.

Measuring cups and spoons made to standards set by the government will soon be on the market, says the Canadian Association of Consumers. It marks a milestone for the association, which has been working on this field of standardization since 1951.

Tests showed that one measuring cup might hold up to 50 cubic centimetres more than another, the association says — and this is an article most people regarded as already standardized.

With the Canadian Home Economics Association and the Canadian Dietetic Association, the CAC asked the government to set up regulations, and these were approved last year.

Must Keep Watch

But the appearance of standardized measures in shops is not the end of the road for the Consumers Association.

"The fact the standards are there does not mean anybody has to follow them," the group reports. But it recommends buyers to see that new measuring cups are marked "Canada Standard" or "C.S.", the mark permitted when measures are regulation size.

The specifications for measuring cups define a standard cup as containing eight Imperial fluid ounces or 227.3 milliliters, plus or minus a three percent tolerance.

Similar regulations apply to multi-cups and fractions of cups and spoon measures.

A quality requirement to standard cups and spoons is that they should be strong enough to withstand ordinary usage and continue to be accurate measures.

Still in Style

News from the fashion front shows that chemise and trapeze lines will still be the style for the fall.

Buyers for retail stores all over Ontario recently attended a display in Toronto to inspect fashion goods produced by Canadian manufacturers.

They saw dresses with waistbands gathered under the bustline, dresses that ballooned out at the back or flounced at the hem, and children's garments which are variations of a smock.

Colors, buyers were told by fashion writers, will be rich, but not bright, greens, reds, and spicy browns.

Materials will have a shaggy or a knobbly look, and mohair type cloth is the stuff fall fashions will be made of.

Sweaters have also taken on chemise lines. Separate skirts are either narrow with hemline detail or trapeze style. Big news in sportswear is jumpers — trapeze and chemise — with low or high-waisted look.

And skirts are shorter, just covering the knees.

Sister Catherine of St. Justine's Hospital in Montreal called local sources for rare antidote required by doctor —then called Poison Control Centre of New York for emergency shipment.

Hasty phone call held New York-Montreal flight piloted by Captain Paul Abel. Stewardess Patricia Repoli received vial of rare anti-poison from New York Health Department worker.

Doctor at Montreal's St. Justine's Hospital helped save Ron Tisdale's life with Megimide — powerful new anti-poison which was finally located in New York.

Louise Laroeque, Long Distance operator in Montreal handled crucial call to New York—one of countless telephone people who work behind the scenes in emergencies day and night.

To save his life...

A boy's life hung in the balance—four-year-old Ron Tisdale of Montreal. Ron had swallowed a quantity of sleeping pills. Now he was in a coma. His breathing had stopped.

At St. Justine's Hospital, Ron was put into a resuscitator. His stomach was pumped out. He was given every anti-poison available. Still alive, he remained in a deep coma. It was feared that at any moment his life might flicker out.

At the Hospital, the doctor remembered reading about a powerful new anti-poison—Megimide. But where could it be obtained? Sister Catherine of St. Justine's, after trying several local calls, finally telephoned the Poison Control Centre of New York City. Did they have any? Yes—one half ounce, recently received from Britain.

At that very moment, an Eastern Air Lines plane was ready for its 11:45 takeoff for Montreal from New York. Another phone call, and considerate airline officials agreed to hold it; its passengers voted unanimously to wait. A car raced to the field, and a Health Department worker handed the precious vial to the stewardess. In a short while, a waiting car rushed the Megimide to St. Justine's and little Ron Tisdale was soon out of danger.

The world-renowned New York Times chose to tell in detail on its editorial pages this dramatic story. For what a story of human helpfulness this is—of people using telephones, airplanes and automobiles—placing before all else their determination to help save that most precious thing . . . a human life.

We also like to think that this incident demonstrates how people turn to their telephone in times of urgent need. Fast and dependable, it stands ready to serve you too—at any hour of the day or night.

The choir rendered the anthem, "Fountain of Good". During the service the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Eiermann was christened, receiving the names Eva Maria, the baptismal ceremony being performed by Rev. C. G. Westhaver.

Feed value factor in grass silage

Feeding value is equally as important as tonnage per acre in determining the stage at which grasses and legumes should be harvested for silage. M. F. Clarke of the Agassiz, B.C., Experimental Farm, says that in general, mixtures in which red clover predominates should be harvested for silage as soon as bloom becomes evident throughout the field. Waiting until blooming is complete will increase tonnage slightly but at the expense of palatability and nutritive quality.

If the legume content of a field is low then the stage to cut will be determined by the grasses. The ideal stage is at time of heading, to obtain good quality with satisfactory yield. Delaying harvest until bloom will sacrifice quality, although palatability will remain fair. Cutting grass when seed is formed will lower both nutrtive value and palatability considerably.

Storage procedure is another important aspect of forage management. Immature grasses and legumes, while high in quality, present a storage problem because of their very high moisture content. This is particularly true when tower silos are used. Wilting in the swath to a moisture content of 65-75 percent before storing is quite effective. However, when storing by the "direct cut" method, consideration might be given to the use of a conditioner.

Various conditioners have been tried at the Experimental Farm Agassiz, over the past three seasons. Excellent results have been obtained from the use of dried pulp added at the rate of 70-100 pounds per ton of fresh cut forage. Initial cash outlay for beet pulp is quite high but this is offset in part by the fact that 70-75 percent of the beet pulp is recovered when the silage is fed.

Sodium bisulphite added at the rate of 8 pounds per ton to early cut legume silage will ensure a pleasant smelling silage. Cost of this material at the recommended rate is in the neighborhood of one dollar per ton. This chemical does not in any way increase feeding value and manufacturer's directions for its application should be followed closely.

Silage conditioners are not required when using horizontal or bunker type silos. In such silos high moisture content of forage serves as an aid to rapid air exclusion.

Bison cross-breeding for Western beef

EXPERIMENTAL WORK IN ALBERTA

At the Range Experimental Farm at Manyberries, Alta., feedlot finishing experiments were carried out to find out how Cattalo calves (Bison crossed with domestic beef breeds) would compare with Bison calves and Hereford calves. It was reported that the Cattalo calves made significantly greater gains than the Bison, but lower gains than the Hereford calves. There was a significant increase in dressing percentage and a reduction in carcass grade as the proportion of Bison breeding increased. The Cattalo calves had a higher proportion of carcass weight in the hindquarters than bison and a lower proportion than Herefords.

The development of the "Cattalo" is the result of attempts by research men of the Canada Department of Agriculture to breed a range beef animal for Western and North Western Canada. It was hoped that this cross would combine the hardy characteristics of the Bison and the superior meat qualities of the domestic breeds.

Living Costs down, ever so little!

Ottawa (CP) — Canada's consumer price index declined in April one-tenth of a point to 125.1 from 125.2. It was the first downward move this year.

The decline in the yardstick of living costs, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, was due mainly to lower food prices and decreases in prices of domestic coal and fuel oil.

The index rose to a record 125.2 at the beginning of April. The last previous decrease was in December when it dropped to 123.1 from 123.3 in November.

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you:

Q. I left my employment in August, 1957, to get married, and after I applied for unemployment insurance benefit I was disqualified under the Married Women's Regulations until August, 1959. I now wish to go back to work but I have not been able to find a job. Am I entitled to benefit?

A. The Married Women's Regulation was revoked effective November 17, 1957, and no longer applies. You should register for employment at the nearest local office of the National Employment Service and apply for benefit. If no employment is available and you are able to fulfill the normal requirements of the Act, you will be entitled to benefit as from the Sunday of the week in which you make application.

Q. I started to pay unemployment insurance ten weeks ago but I actually have 20 stamps. I worked for a construction company during the day and drove a taxi a few evenings every week, so I got two stamps every week. I've been laid off due to bad weather and I want to know if I have enough stamps to draw benefit.

A. Where there is more than one contribution in the same calendar week, that week can only be considered as being one contribution week for the purpose of qualifying for benefit. Although you have 20 contributions in a 10-week period, this is only considered to be 10 contributions weeks, which is not sufficient to allow you to qualify for benefit. The value of all the stamps, however, is always taken into account in computing the rate of benefit. Therefore, the second contribution paid in the same week may later be to your advantage.

Q. Is an unemployed girl drawing benefit entitled to keep on if she decides to undertake a study course? Her family is not in a position to meet the cost of the course and she will have to work in order to pay for it.

A. If the study course will occupy the girl full time, so that in consequence she will not be available for work while taking it, she will be unable to qualify for benefit during that period. The only exception is where the girl, while unemployed, is taking a course of instruction or training which the Commission has directed her to attend. In this latter case she would be still eligible for benefit if she continued to meet the other requirements for the receipt of benefit.

Dalapon gives good control of couch grass

The introduction of herbicides such as dalapon has opened the door to the control of one of the most persistent grassy weeds, couch grass. The Experimental Farm at Beaverlodge, Alberta, has reported a control of from 90 to 95 percent by combining dalapon and tillage, and the trials indicated that eradication may be possible. Workers achieved control by applying 10 pounds of dalapon per acre in the spring where the couch grass was six to eight inches high. Three weeks later, the infestation was thoroughly tilled with the one-way, overlapping half, so that double tilling occurred. Dalapon at five pounds per acre was applied again when re-growth was four inches high. This was followed, just before freeze-up, by tilling again on the half lap.

Garden-Graph

By DEAN HALLIDAY

"GLADS" FOR SHOW PURPOSES

When gladioli grow in a windy location or are grown for flower-show purposes, they need to be staked.

The stakes should be planted when the corms are set out, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. This permits the stake to be placed close enough to the corm so the flower can later be tied to the stake without bending the stalk. The result of placing the stake too far from the plant is shown in the Garden-Graph.

When gladioli are grown in long rows in the cutting garden, they should be supported by cords stretched between stakes which are set at intervals along the rows.

Stakes are not needed, however, if the corms are planted deeply enough and the stalks "hilled up" like corn or potatoes.

When and how you cut blooms is important. Gladiolis buds will open after the flower stalk has been cut equally well as if they had been left on the plant.

Cut the flower stalks when the second flower on the spike begins to open. The remaining buds will open, one by one, indoors.

Correct cutting of the flowers is also important. Cut the stalks just below the bloom and do not remove any of the foliage. The food for the corm is manufactured by the leaves.

If the flowers are allowed to wither on the stalk outdoors, remove the flower spike before it goes to seed, since the seeds use up much energy which should go to the corms.

GRASS-FED COWS ARE STILL HUNGRY

MICRO-MIXED PURINA CHOWS

Grass is a wonderful feed for Dairy Cows. Cows love it, and eat all they can hold. But a cow full of grass is still hungry! Grass is up to 85% water. It lacks energy and other nutrients milking cows must have, if they are to keep on producing and stay in condition.

That's why a cow full of grass . . . and little else . . . produces milk "off her back" . . . often goes down in condition . . . and then WAY DOWN in production, right at the time when milk prices start their seasonal climb and dairymen start building "base" quotas in major milk sheds.

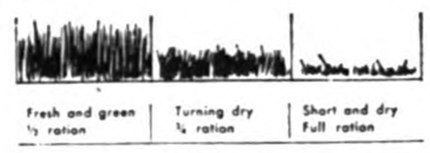

In a test Purina made with two lots of Guernsey cows, as equally divided as to ability as possible, the lot fed on pasture was found to gain in weight an average of 82 lbs. and gave 471 lbs. more milk than those NOT FED. The lot not fed, lost an average of 35 lbs. each.

When fed a good Cow Chow mixture after stabling, those not fed on pasture used a good deal of it to rebuild body. Those fed on pasture averaged 1,279 lbs. more milk IN THE STABLE (to Feb. 28). So summer feeding has a winter sequel. . .

If you let your cow down in the summer, she will let you down in the winter. So don't get caught.

I hear lots of complaints on surplus milk, but remember, you just can't put in the plug and hold back the milk until you do want it. If you slack off on the feed, your cow will continue to milk, but too much of it will be made "off her back", and you lose.

Come in and we will do our best to help you to arrange a feed. We deliver.

Recreation Centre opens for season

The Ayers swimming pool officially opened to the public last Saturday. Tennis has been in swing for the past two weeks; and altogether, the Recreation Centre is set for another busy season. Lifeguards, supervisors and a full staff are on hand. It is reported the pool has attracted a good number of youthful enthusiasts, and there is already an appreciable list of subscribers for season tickets. Above is a picture of this popular spot, taken at the peak of last season.

Councillor dissents on changing name of Brownsburg Road in Ayersville

At Ayersville Council, it was indicated by Councillor Douglas Simon that he would resign if the municipal body did not retract its decision, passed at a special meeting June 19, to re-name (as "Providence Boulevard") that portion of Brownsburg Road situated in the Ayersville limits.

The move was initiated by a letter from the St. Jean Baptiste Society requesting the Council to change the name, and suggesting "Providence Boulevard" in view of the hospital to be erected on this road and directed by the Sisters of Providence.

The Council favored the suggestion and adopted a motion to this effect, sponsored by Councillor Maurice Dumas and seconded by Councillor Rosaire Quenneville. All voted in favor, with the exception of Councillor Simon. (One member, Wilfrid Durocher, was absent.)

Mr. Simon stated he could see no point or improvement in effecting this change, and that he would hand in his resignation if the proposal was not rescinded. The councillor thereupon withdrew from the meeting.

Victim succumbs to accident injuries

Adrien Rochon, 75-year-old resident of St. Philippe, died last week in the Hotel Dieu, Montreal, following injuries sustained in an accident some time ago, when he was struck by a car while returning home from church. The mishap occurred in St. Philippe Village on May 4 last. The funeral was held Tuesday morning at St. Philippe.

Lions Club releases arena site in School Board expropriation

At the closing meeting of the current season, replete with business to be discussed, Lachute Lions Club dealt with the "crisis" in their Arena plans caused by expropriation of their land on the Barron property for a future school building extension. This development proved no actual crisis, however; even though they had acquired the site at an advantageous price, it was voted to release the Barron Estate from the engagement of sale, thus enabling the School Commission to negotiate directly with the vendors. There was no thought of abandoning the Arena project, as it was confident another suitable site could be procured.

President Ernest Snadden chaired the meeting, in which Col. Ernest Emmett reported $800 net profit on the car raffle, and Ernest Mueller reported $200 proceeds from the grandstand performance — this dual venture at Lachute Fair having proved a worthwhile experiment. Notes and views were exchanged for guidance in such future undertakings, with a pep-talk from Secretary Keith Clarke on the individual obligation of all members to actively participate.

Dr. Eric Mongeon regretted the Little League Baseball would be suspended this summer, since insufficient clubmen were available to supervise this activity. It was hoped the League could be revived next year.

An encouraging note, from community standpoints, came from Lion Donald M. Hay speaking as vice-president of the Agricultural Society. He voiced the appreciation of the Society directors, for the constructive part played by the Lions and the Legion in this year's Exhibition. This innovation had proved of mutual benefit, and offered promising possibilities for future years. It had proved that evening crowds could be attracted to the "other side of the Fair Grounds".

The president also felt happy about this outcome and remarked the club had received generous co-operation from Lachute Fair in all details. The club's participation had been a rewarding experience all round.

To Lion Tony Zaplasky's plea for help in transporting blind people to the annual CNIB picnic, there was a pledge of co-operation from numerous car-owners at the meeting.

It was voted to invest in three new club signs, to replace those outworn, on the main approaches to the town.

A highlight of this meeting was the presidential farewell and induction of the incoming president, Phil Tremblay.

Lion Snadden thanked his directors and committee chairmen for their good work in all departments.

The new president was fittingly welcomed by Lion Ian Gordon, who read the charge to the in-coming officers. The new incumbent thanked his fellows for the honor accorded to him, and intimated one of his first aims would be to stimulate the membership with active newcomers in the next term.

Films shown on Education for Childbirth

A gathering of almost 100 persons accepted an invitation by Dr. Marc Papineau and Nurse Lucille Papineau to view a series of four lay-medical films, shown in the basement hall of l'Ecole Supérieure last Sunday evening.

On the subject "Education for Childbirth", these films were purely informative. They were prepared by Medical Films Inc. with collaboration of the Franklin Hospital staff, San Francisco. Aimed to propagate the practice of natural childbirth, they illustrated how prospective mothers can prepare themselves physically and mentally to co-operate with the physican and to give birth, while conscious, with the minimum of stress and pain.

Dr. Papineau, and Miss Lucille Papineau who has taken a special course in methods and procedures, gave a commentary to introduce and explain these films, which were shown by kind co-operation of Mr. Donat Saulnier with his visual and sound equipment.

Home for Aged is discussed in Women's Inst. branches

Arundel W.I. heard a report on the Leadership Course at Macdonald College. Films were shown on health habits, the heart and some of its diseases.

Brownsburg branch chose Dressmaking for the next handicraft course. A talk was given by Dr. Drummond Smith, of the Smith Clinic, on "The best years of a woman's life." A bus trip to Ottawa was held at the annual outing.

Frontier branch had as a roll-call an article for the Fair and "Your worst cooking failure." A jelly and vegetable salad contest was held, and also a discussion on home freezing.

Jerusalem - Bethany branch donated $54 dollars to the School Fair. Arrangements were made to cater for two weddings.

Lachute branch reported that a rummage and auction sale proved very satisfactory. The convener of Education gave an account of the Canadian Textile Conference held in Montreal, together with a display of woven articles.

Lakefield had a visit from the County president. Plans are being made to hold a bazaar some time in July.

Pioneer W.I. had its branch history written by a member. Articles were brought in for the Fair. This group planned to attend the convention at Macdonald College for one day.

Mille Isles delegates gave a full report of County convention.

Upper Lachute - East End was given a talk by Miss Kenny, a Grade I teacher of Lachute High School, on the topic, "How to prepare children for entering school." The roll-call was, "The year you started school, where; and name your first teacher."

Most Institutes reported discussions on the proposed Home for the Aged in this county. Three questions were discussed: 1. Means of raising money for financing the home; 2. A vote was taken on location of the proposed home, whether in town or country; 3. Whether the home should be for women only, or for both men and women. Reports by each Health and Welfare convener are being made to the County president, Mrs. Geo. McGibbon.

Truck plunges onto railroad right-of-way

A big truck loaded with pulpwood, owned by Omer Cléroux, crashed 20 feet down an embankment onto the C.P.R. track at Pointe au Chene, only a short distance from the station, last Friday. The three cords of pulpwood spilled in the wake of the vehicle and across the right-of-way.

Mr. Cléroux, at the wheel, was making a mile-long descent on the road down from the mountain when his brakes suddenly failed. His two helpers in the truck, Emile and Ferdinand Carrière, leaped clear of the runaway vehicle and escaped unhurt. Meanwhile the driver narrowly avoided a Gatineau Power vehicle and remained steering his truck, which gathered a momentum of 45 miles an hour before hurtling across the main highway (Route 8) and crashing the rail into the station yard.

Huberdeau Parish celebrations July 6 for diamond jubilee

Huberdeau Parish will hold special celebrations on Sunday, July 6, marking the 75th anniversary of its founding.

Under the distinguished patronage of Bishop Emilien Frenette of St. Jerome, many notables have been invited to attend the proceedings, including — the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Quebec Minister of Mines; Notary J. O. Latour, M.P.; religious and civic authorities from the surrounding parishes; the Montfort Fathers, successors in the priesthood order which inaugurated the parish; former clerics of the parish, and others representing the oldest families in the community.

The celebations will commence at 10.45 a.m. and continue till 3.30 p.m., with a buffet luncheon at the Huberdeau Orphanage.

One of the most picturesque parishes in this County, Huberdeau is 40 miles north of Lachute. Its population is 1,200. Parish priest is the Rev. J.-Hector Biron, and the mayor is Mr. Gaston Laurier. The village is notable for its Calvary depicting the Crucifixion; its orphanage directed by Brothers of the Misericorde Order, and its Catholic school, founded in 1950, under the Sisters of Ste. Croix.

Meeting held by Dressing Service of Cancer Society

The Dressing Service of the Canadian Cancer Society, Lachute Branch, held a meeting June 10 with Mrs. W. M. Cottingham in the chair.

Regret was expressed that Dr. J. Castagnay, president of the Canadian Cancer Society for this area, was resigning due to the fact he would soon be leaving to take up residence in St. Jerome.

Mrs. E. Leonard reported that 128 volunteers during the past five months have worked 405 hours (or 50½ days) for the Dressing Service. During that time they made 350 17 x 24 bed pads; 2,290 4 x 4 pads; 10,955 6 x 8's and 1,440 8 x 12's.

Mrs. Cottingham praised the unselfish work of the volunteers and thanked all who were responsible for such outstanding results.

Mrs. F. A. Hungerbuhler from St. Andrews East reported that those interested in assisting the work of the Cancer Dressing Service are meeting the first Wednesday of each month at 2.30 in the Fire Station Hall at St. Andrews East. Volunteers are very welcome.

The next meeting of the Dressing Service will be held on September 9.

Fieldmen taking measurements and information for civic evaluation

Field experts from the firm of Bégin, Charland & Valiquette — who were given the contract to establish an equitable assessment of all town properties — have been at work for some time past, and for the most part, appear to be receiving a co-operative reception among property-holders.

In progress at this stage is preliminary work of the actual evaluation. The technicians are occupied in measuring buildings and taking note of construction details and other characteristics. Despite their youthful appearance, these fieldmen have several years of experience to their credit. However, the valuation of immovable properties is not part of their job, for the information assembled by this crew is forwarded to headquarters in Montreal, where the actual valuation figures are calculated. This is the final stage of the process, to be completed in the last three or four weeks before the actual roll is returned by the valuation firm to Lachute Town Corporation.

One or two cases have been reported in which the technicians were refused access to certain properties. This lack of co-operation is to be deplored, as it will achieve no object. The investigators are duly authorized, and engaged by a firm whose services have been legally retained by the municipality. Any disgruntled proprietors would be well advised to assist them in their job, and thus avoid unpleasantness both to the visitors and to the proprietors themselves.

Jr. Red Cross recognition to Beverley Hadley

Montreal, June 16, 1958

Dear Mr. Royal:

We have watched with interest the Junior Red Cross activities carried out in Lachute High School under the able leadership of your Junior Red Cross President, Beverley Hadley. We now wish to honour her worthwhile efforts with the award of a Junior Red Cross Crest which is only available each year to a small number of our high school members. On behalf of Junior Red Cross we would appreciate it if you would present to her the enclosed Crest and both congratulate and thank her for all she has done.

I am sorry that Beverley was unable to attend a Training Centre, but we look forward to having Claire Cruise with us next month at King's College School, Nova Scotia. My thanks to you, Miss Stanton, your staff, Beverley and all members of the Junior Red Cross at Lachute High School for your encouragement of our program, and we hope for your continual assistance during the years to come.

Art lovers view private collection of L. T. Porter

Members of the Argenteuil Art Association, and a few personal friends of the hosts, were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Porter at St. Andrews East last Saturday afternoon. The invitation to visit their home, tastefully appointed and happily situated overlooking the North River, was extended to enable the enthusiasts to view Mr. Porter's fine collection of Canadian art.

It was a revelation, to most of the visitors, to find in this County such a wide representation of works by Canadian masters, from Cornelius Krieghoff down to Riopel. Modern trends were apparent in a few of the contemporaries, but their form was a pleasing exploitation of color. For the most part, this numerous collection presented conventional landscapes and a few life studies and portraits, in techniques characteristic of, and readily identified with, the well-loved Canadian greats. Among them was a representative work from each of the original Group of Seven; also a rich autumn scene by Tom Thompson, whose gifts to posterity are — with the exception of only seven canvases — to be found only in museums and public galleries today.

There were also works by lesser-known painters, including one or two from this neighborhood and a number by Mr. Porter himself, who is quite an ardent hobbyist in oils. There were a few bronzes and sculptures, and one or two paintings of Old World origin, including a beautiful Gaugin landscape which drew perhaps more admiration than any other.

Mr. Porter gave an instructive commentary on these treasured exhibits.

The hospitality of the Porter home was enjoyed by over 100 persons on this visit. Mrs. Porter, assisted by a few ladies of the community, graciously served tea to the gathering.

President Allen G. Talbot, and the Art Association directors, were sincerely grateful for this opportunity extended to the growing membership. The occasion will prove another highlight in the year's program of the Association.

An item of immediate interest in the A.A.A. season is the second of this year's exhibitions, to open Saturday, June 28, in the Municipal Hall at St. Andrews. This is another display of all-member-talent, presenting almost 50 oil paintings by three male associates of the organization — Armand A. Boudreau, of Montreal, J. Fraser Robertson, of Montreal and St. Andrews, and Don Titman, of Lachute. The landscapes in this collection will include a few Ottawa River and Laurentian spots. The exhibition will remain on view for one week (at hours announced in "Coming Events", page 6) and the public are cordially invited.

Lac Vingt Sous experiment, minnow ban in Argenteuil, outcome of lengthy study

Lac Vingt-Sous, a public lake near St. Adolphe, in this County, has been "adopted" by the Montreal Hunters and Anglers and the Municipality of St. Adolphe de Howard. It has been planted with fish from the Laurentian Fish Hatchery at St. Faustin, and a representative of the Quebec Biological Bureau has taken up summer residence there to study the fishing.

Lac Vingt Sous was poisoned on October 6 and 11, 1956. It has since been planted with Speckled Trout, as follows:

Spring, 1957 — 10,000 fry, 5,800 yearlings, 1,058 2-year-olds, and 10,000 fry.

Spring, 1958 — 3,000 yearlings, 100 2-year-olds, 500 2-year-olds, 500 2-year-olds, 6,693 yearlings, and 680 2-year-olds.

As the accompanying map shows, Lac Vingt Sous is readily accessible to anglers. The Municipality of St. Adolphe has supplied four rowboats for the convenience of anglers, and Roméo Pagé, special fishwarden, is in charge of renting them.

Like many another Laurentian lake, Lac Vingt Sous has been stocked more than once. Eleven years ago it was started afresh with 1,000 young trout. These trout did not multiply, however. Anglers took some of them, and the rest were simply unable to compete with the coarse fish which the anglers themselves introduced from their live-bait pails.

Before the 1956 poisoning, the fish population of this lake consisted chiefly of suckers and assorted species. The suckers themselves probably entered the lake as "minnows". As frequently occurs, there were also some big speckled trout in the lake. They had managed to survive in spite of the minnows (competitors for both space and food). But they had also learned to avoid the anglers' lures and were consequently of no fishing value.

This time, however, it is reasonable to hope that the fatal sequel whereby a cleaned and restocked lake quickly becomes re-infested with coarse fish, had been overcome. For this year it is forbidden to use minnows as bait throughout Argenteuil County north of Routes 8 and 41.

Stocking at Lake Louisa

Lake Louisa, popular Argenteuil County resort and fishing spot, has recently been stocked with game fish, including 10,000 fry each of Brown, Rainbow and Lake Trout. Two thousand Salmon yearlings have also been planted this year, and three million Smelt eggs have been deposited in the lake inlet, to produce a population of fodder fish for the predator salmon and trout to feed on.

Rotary's "Peanut Drive" launched Saturday with promising outlook

The Rotary Park "peanut drive", sponsored by the Brownsburg - Lachute Rotary Club, got off to a flying start over the week-end, street sales in both Brownsburg and Lachute being up to expectations.

Chairman Wes Freeland reported the door-to-door response as good, following the first day of the drive on Monday, and campaigners in the two towns completed their districts Tuesday evening. It is expected that a financial report will be available at tomorrow's meeting.

Last week's meeting, held under the chairmanship of President King Amos, saw the presentation of a nine-year perfect attendance pin to District Governor Linton W. Armstrong and a six-year pin to Phil Grant, both of whom were cited as a fine example for all members — and in particular to two newcomers, Cliff Cunningham, of Lachute, and Maurice Grondin, of Brownsburg, who were inducted into the club by Past-President Keith Rutherford.

LEGION NOTES

— by —

Branch 70 (Lachute) Correspondent

In all service club work we should remember that a small show of appreciation often represents a large reward. In this connection we have had so many members voice their approval of this column, that it would appear to be fulfilling the job of keeping members and friends of the Legion informed on our activities. With summer here and many of us enjoying well-deserved vacations, this column will be appearing less frequently. However, we will attempt to report on items of importance. In the meantime, we will take a good look at ways and means of improving it for the fall activities.

Speaking of vacations, all members, their families and others please take note: We want you to be with us next fall. . . Don't be "pig-headed". It is smart to play it safe — in the water or on the highways. The grim reaper catches up with us early enough — let's not dare him into taking a swipe at us with the scythe. Let's wait until he gets us cornered with old age — that's soon enough. Don't forget — a little courtesy and thoughtfulness doesn't cost much, but it goes a long way on the highway or on the water.

All local service clubs could unite their efforts in a year-around safety campaign. What better service, if it results in saving the life of but one neighbor.

All members please note, a general meeting is scheduled for July 16, 8 p.m. at the Legion Hall. There are several important items for discussion, so please make a special effort to attend.

• • •

We are sorry to report that Com. Thos. Stewart was again rushed off to Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital. This is the third time in recent weeks, and it is sincerely hoped he will soon be back to good health. Also on the sick list is Com. President Dick MacLean, who is in the Boss Memorial for a short sojourn. On behalf of all Branch members we wish to express our wishes for a quick recovery.

• • •

Members are invited to show their out-of-town guests through the Memorial Hall during the summer months. Also, any qualified veterans are urged to contact any member of the Branch concerning membership. You will be made welcome!

District Command Meeting in Morin Heights

We sat in on a very successful meeting of District Command which took place under the chairmanship of District Commander E. Kneeland at Branch 171, Morin Heights, last Sunday.

The District was well represented by elected members, delegations from Brownsburg, Lachute, Ste. Agathe and Morin Heights, and guests from other Branches.

Comrade President Paul Baumel, as host to this gathering, opened the meeting in accordance with prescribed ritual, welcomed the delegates, members of the Legion Branches, Auxiliaries and their families, then turned the gavel of office over to Comrade District Commander E. Kneeland.

After minutes of the previous district meeting (held in Brownsburg) were read by Comrade Secretary Henry Elias, Morin Heights, and approved, the main topic of discussion centred around the question of sale of liquor at all Legion Branches. Although Comrade Kneeland clarified the policy of the Provincial Command, it was quite apparent that all units in this district have very definite opinions on the subject. After sentiments were expressed by several members from the floor, a motion was duly adopted authorizing each Branch in the district to send a representative to the next full council meeting of the Provincial Command, in an attempt to satisfy this issue.

Noteworthy among reports submitted by district representatives was that by Comrade H. Steele, Brownsburg, who mentioned two very successful events — a supper-dance and the recent field day. Comrade Steele spoke in glowing terms on the value of the Ladies' Auxiliary to all Legion Branches, pointing out that the field day would not have been possible without their financial assistance.

Comrade Jim Coney, Branch 70, Lachute, reported on the presentation of the Meritorious Service Medal to Comrade Ed Jones; the part taken by the Branch in assisting the Argenteuil Agricultural Society at the Lachute Spring Fair; and the "Silver Dollar Bingo" held recently. District Commander Kneeland congratulated Lachute on the manner in which the presentation was made to Comrade Jones.

Comrade Elias, in submitting his report from Morin Heights Branch 171, covered repairs to their hall and announced a plan to provide a playground centre for children of the municipality. He advised that a grant is forthcoming from the town council and a campaign for this purpose is in the planning stages.

Comrade Marc Stein, Ste. Agathe, Branch 9, submitted a written report on behalf of his Branch.

Other business included assistance to the St. Sauveur Branch and discussion on inclusion in this district of the Shawbridge Branch.

Comrade Deputy Commander T. O'Neill, Ste. Agathe, requested that minutes from full-council and sub-executive meetings of the Provincial Command be circulated to all branches.

Comrade President Baumel closed the meeting, after inviting all present and their families to partake of refreshments provided.

Lachute Branch 70 will be hosts to the delegates and their families at the next district meeting, to be held in the Legion Memorial Hall, Foundry Street, on Sunday, September 14.

The Morin Heights Branch and those responsible for the arrangements are to be complimented on the excellent meal provided, and on the progress made with their hall. Converting an abandoned school into a well-appointed assembly hall has taken a lot of initiative and effort, and the job has been well done!

St. Patrick apostle wields .22 in vain foray to banish snakes

Main Duck Island,
South Bay, Ont.
May 13, 1958

Dear "Ed":

Back again, to tell you more about this haven of wildlife! Since my last letter all that has been going on is Fog, and plenty of it. At times you cannot even see the Deer. They give you a scare, as you walk along not expecting anything, then Boom, right alongside you! Anyone who says he wouldn't get a start, hasn't had a big buck weighing about 200 pounds pass you so close that you can touch him. I honestly mean that.

The ducks have started to thin out a lot. Not nearly as many as there were. For awhile there were about 1,000 Canada geese right around the tip of the Island. Just like a big oil-slick from some passing boat. The only big difference was the noise -- plenty of that, believe me!

I was given the loan of a book on this Island, just the other day by one of the fishermen who has come out a couple of times. Some of the stories on the place are very interesting. At one time it was a farm. They used to keep a lot of pigs to keep the snakes down. The pigs liked the diet of snakes. There are plenty of them on the Island, too. As far as I have been told they are just the ordinary run-of-the-mill snakes, nothing very interesting about them — with exception of the size. I've seen a number of them that would go to five feet; and to me, that is plenty big enough. Maybe we'll try some fried snake one of these days if we run out of food, though that isn't likely. When you have no idea when your next trip in for groceries will be, you take no chances. It's some experience going shopping — not for a couple of this or that, but CASES. Since coming onto the Island, wife and I have been into town once only. Boy, did we mutilate the bank roll! $141 for eats! We are all set for awhile yet, though.

The other night I was up at the lighthouse when I heard an unusual noise. The weather had been very cool, and all these birds were flying around the beams trying to find a warm place. (I think that would be the reason). Anyway, in the morning I picked up 152 dead birds of all kinds — canaries, scarlet tanagers, black-and-whites, every kind you could think of. I went to get Edith to help me get some of the injured ones out of the lake. But unfortunately we only managed to save seven of them. One I had to destroy, as its legs were broken; the others, after being dried off and kept in the house until they got warm, were all able to get back into the air. It sure makes you wonder, when you see things like that. . . These birds we took home with us were nearly all different breeds, and yet when they were put into the box to get warm and fed, they all huddled together as friends. . . Maybe there is a moral there.

As you know, I did a lot of beefing about Lachute and its natural beauties. If the people around Lachute could see the way some of these places play up their attractions. Boy, they sure do it in a big way. For instance, one of the towns advertises the fact it is noted for its bass fishing. Now get this: they are 30 miles from Lake Ontario. The season won't open until July 1, but the hotels have been taking reservations for some time past. From the information I have been given, the American tourists really come over for the Bass; and get this — we have all kinds of Bass around Lachute. As far as the fishermen are concerned they consider them as pests. There is a fortune just waiting to be picked up for this kind of fishing. Distance isn't a big factor, either, as some of these tourists come hundreds of miles. The boats take them out at 30 smackers a day, and have a reservation list a yard long. . . Gravy for Lachute, with the right build-up.

One thing I will say, though. Of all the towns I've seen around this area, I personally wouldn't trade Lachute for any two of them. The folks at home in Lachute can be very proud for having a nice, clean, orderly town.

Still More May 29, 1958

I guess you think there is something screwy going on when I can write letters like this, but it's very easy when you have a couple of weeks to make further observations. I started this a few days ago — to be more explicit, last week. Well anyway.

Last evening (May 28), Edith and myself were taking a walk, no dogs. We spotted four deer all in a bunch, as though they were having a gab-fest. We got within 25 feet of them before they moved off, and then only about another 25 feet away from the spot. Naturally, being curious as to why they were acting like that and not feeding, we went a little closer. . . Big doings! A fawn had just been born, a short time before. It was still wet. We didn't want any harm to come to the little thing, so we beat it right away. We stood and watched the others come right back and group around. It was such a good chance to watch them, that it was over two hours before the little one managed to get up and toddle after its mother — naturally trying to feed all the way; as a matter of fact, by the look of things the mother dragged it most of the way! I don't think we have ever seen anything that will take the place of this. We're nuts, I suppose — but the more we see of the outdoors, the more we like it.

I've told you about the Snakes on the place — that is, everything but the water snakes. There's a whole slew of them down at the southeast end of the Island, in a big cove that is pretty weedy. This afternoon we went down there to see if we could shoot any of them with a .22. Don't wonder why we shoot them. They kill more game fish than even the commercial fishermen. A very good time was had—by us, but not by the snakes. They are very hard to spot in the water, as they just look like a twig or root — that is, until you get within about 10 feet of them, then all that can be seen is a ripple of water. You've got to be very slow and quiet in moving, then their heads can be seen on top of the water.

Anyway, to make a long story short, we got three of them. Not many, considering the number that are around. One of them was about 5 feet long and as thick around as a two-cell flashlight. The head was the size of a Silver Dollar. They certainly are repulsive-looking things — dirty, greyish-black on the back, and a faded cream on the belly. The others were only a couple of feet long but nice and thick; good feeding for them around. I guess we used 30 shots at snakes, and only shot three — but try hitting something moving underwater, and see what it's like. I'm going to put out a line to see if I can get any that way (it will be much cheaper). One thing I'm sure of: no swimming around there! Not that they are poisonous, but I'm not giving them a chance to try out their teeth on me. They will give a nasty bite.

The V.I.P. is due in tomorrow, for a few days' stay. So maybe I'll be able to write a little on the history of this place. Another thing, I have a bunch of new signs to put up. You know, "Very Private". So I guess I'd better get it done, or else.

Well, that's all for this time. Maybe this will get posted soon. (Sounds like a joke, but that's the situation!)

Opening games in county baseball

After a delayed opening of the baseball season due to rainy Sundays, an exciting double-header was played Sunday afternoon between the Dalesville and Lake Dawson teams, at the Lakefield home field. The first game ended in a rather uneven score of 12-6 for Dalesville, with Stanley Alexander the winning pitcher and George Camp pitching for Lakefield. Mel Stewart showed some fine hitting with two home-runs during the fifth inning, thus putting the score far ahead in Dalesville's favor.

The second game was more closely contested, ending in a score of 6-2 for Dalesville. Stan Alexander pitched once again, while Raymond Tremblay took over for Lakefield. The games were umpired behind the plate by Bob Todd.

Gord Fletcher played an excellent two games in the field, catching several flies which seemed altogether out of his reach. The boys of each team played well for the first of the season, and the games were enjoyed by the players and numerous spectators.

The other two teams of the league, North River and Lake Sir John, played at Lake Sir John, and ended with a score of 22-16 for North River after a well-fought battle.

Next Sunday Lake Dawson plays at North River, and Lake Sir John at Dalesville.

Motorbike thrills for Rigaud Park

On Sunday, June 29, at 2 p.m., Rigaud Park will once again be the scene of much excitement. Unfortunately last month, rainy weather forced us to cancel our program, but this Sunday we hope Dame Nature will be more kind. The VMRC sanctioned by CMA will hold its monthly motorcycle races.

Every year the VRMC swells its ranks of "greats" by adding some promising young riders as new members in their club and this year is no exception. On the contrary, along with the all time greats, namely Sam Rella, Buddy Ford from Quebec, Yvon Rocheleau from Montreal, Emond Buddy Kohler from Dundas, Ont., we hope to present some new talent from all across Canada and U.S.A.

As any racing fan will testify, thrills are never lacking for one never knows when a spill will occur. The contestants ride fast and furious, and the competition is very keen.

Several improvements have been made to ensure the greater comfort of our public and better riding conditions for our racers. So come and enjoy yourself with your family at Rigaud Park. Children admitted free accompanied by their parents.

FAVOUR

WHEN the housewife calls at the grocery store and orders a supply of provisions, she is not asking a favour . . . she is buying goods for which she will pay cash . . . purely a matter of business.

So with your bank. It is a business proposition just as much as the grocery store.

The grocer deals in groceries . . . the banker deals in credit. And, as the making of loans is the principal way by which his bank derives its revenue, he is as anxious to sell his credit as the grocer is to sell his groceries. And, like the grocer, the banker naturally wants to know that he is going to be paid for his goods . . . that his loans will be met when they fall due. That, too, is only good business.

When you have occasion to ask for a loan, look at it this way. Come to the Bank, not feeling that you have to ask a favour, but to offer the manager a sound business proposition which will be of profit to you and to his institution.

Our birthday story

AS CANADIANS we've never done too much shouting about our national birthday — July 1. We've allowed our politicians to change its official name from Dominion Day to Canada Day. Most of us hardly consider it a birthday. To the great majority of Canadians our birthday means only another holiday. We plan to spend it at the lake, fishing or gardening.

But slowly Canada Day is becoming more important. Canadians are becoming aware of just what a great nation we have. We have different ideas than our American cousins, and in many respects we're ahead of our mother country.

But the great unifying force in Canada today is not our disagreement with our American neighbors or a common ancestry of a majority of the nation's citizens — rather the great unifying force of this young nation is its expanding interest in developing Canada — one of the largest nations in land area in the world.

People on the Atlantic Coast dream of industrialization, and today something is being done about industrialization for them. In the central provinces a new seaway reaching into the heart of the continent is being constructed. Manitoba is building a northern seaport and rich new mining communities. Saskatchewan's dream of a huge dam and irrigation project is becoming a reality. Oil-rich Alberta is arguing about a northern railroad, while British Columbia in her Centennial Year is discussing huge development projects in her interior.

But the province-by-province growth of this nation is only part of our 91st birthday story. The big future in Canada is her untapped northland. At places such as Baffin Island, Uranium City, Aklavik and Labrador, projects of great importance are being undertaken. Development in our north country is just beginning. We are just at the dawn of far reaching developments.

The immensity of the task of development will be Canada's great unifying force in our generation. We must do it now. If we fail other people will almost certainly do it for us. Canadians of our generation must show the world we are capable of developing this vast land and its opportunities.

Rest well on your holiday. We must all work hard for Canada's future when we return to work. There is a great future for every man and woman who is willing to contribute.

Mayhem justified!

IT'S NOT USUALLY a good idea to get angry when you're driving, but there are times when, if you don't, you get killed, or maybe maimed. The thing is to regulate your explosive moments so they won't turn you into a menace and at the same time weaken your argument against the people you're angry with, or at.

If you can govern your emotions to the point where they will do the most good and the least harm, take a look around you while you're driving. Take a venemous look at that driver who is intent on making you (a) look foolish, (b) a cripple, (c) bankrupt or (d) a corpse. . . So get angry! But not now.

Most of us feel our tempers rising every time we get the car out on the road. The driver ahead is drifting along at 15 m.p.h. where you want to travel 35. Or the little piker pops out of an intersection right in front of you, then keeps you down to 15 or 20 while he convinces his jalopy it should pick up a little more speed.

There's the time you're stopped to yield the right of way and a motorist comes from behind you and bursts right into the traffic coming from your right. Or on the trip to the office in the morning, an insignificant little car is parked and empty where the signs state plainly there's no stopping — keeping you behind it until the other lane lets up enough to get around the parked machine. Or maybe (as happened to us last week) a long, formidable transport is parked in front of your own driveway; the driver's gone to breakfast! . . .

There's no need to go on; you know the incidents well enough. All you have to do is wait until you get home or in the office, then let go with temper enough to turn you into a crusading knight for safety on the highway. Except for the times you're driving, don't cool off. Keep in mind that those other drivers, be they stupid, murderous, carefree or thoughtless, can turn you into a clown, cripple, corpse or an impoverished calamity.

OUR FRIEND on page two, with his 5-foot snakes, has nothing on a correspondent from South Africa, who tells something of native superstitions on that far continent. . .

It seems that for a long time the Bantu natives living on a farm near Estcourt, Natal, withheld from their employer the knowledge that pythons were hidden in bushes on the farm. Then this month, when a 13-foot 7-inch python was shot, they admitted that there were a number of the reptiles there. . . The natives believed that whoever talked about the snakes would surely die, and anyone who killed one would become mentally afflicted.

And here's one from the medical profession, culled from the Johannesburg Sunday Times:

Khotso "the rich medicine man" of Kokstad, is almost a legendary figure in East Griqualand. Everything about this portly middle-aged Basuto reads like a fiction story.

It is told how every year Khotso attends the Cape Province show to see the latest-model American cars. He chooses the most expensive one on display, and pays for it in cash from a roll of banknotes the size of a watermelon.

Khotso has two palatial houses near Kokstad. One, in the Native township, is painted white. White-roofed with glass-enclosed verandah and tall white chimneys, it is surrounded by a white wall and white gates. His other house is a "training centre" for medicine men from tribes throughout the area. As many as 20 natives at a time attend Khotso's courses.

Clean sport

IN THE LIGHT of efforts being made by Canadian soccer authorities to promote the game among schoolboys in this country, a report from England makes interesting reading.

The English Football Association has been inquiring into the switch from soccer to rugger in many big private schools and grammar schools. A committee has found that 23 schools have eliminated soccer from their sports programs in favor of rugger since the end of the Second World War. In the same period 55 schools have put rugger on their programs in addition to soccer.

One of the chief reasons for the change has to do with the standard of behavior on the field in senior professional and amateur soccer matches.

Soccer in Canada has had to deal with disorderly conduct by players and spectators in recent years but measures taken have done a lot to improve matters. Officials are determined that rough play will not be allowed to filter down to the schoolyard.

Now played the world over, soccer ranks with hockey as a sport calculated to build healthy bodies and provide enjoyable recreation. Britain is the home of the game and sports lovers will regret any decline in its popularity because of lack of sportsmanship on the field.

Canadian Amateur Hockey Association officials and fans who saw Russia's team in its Ontario and Quebec exhibition tour last winter, were impressed with the European style of hockey. Over there, they frown on the boarding, high-sticking, charging and so on that has become a familiar pattern in professional hockey.

The CAHA doesn't want this sort of mayhem in the minor groups and delegates of this nation-wide organization are unanimous that youngsters should play the game the European way. In other words, it should be cleaned up before boys become schooled to the slam-bang, clutch-and-hold tactics of the big-timers.

There are more than 100,000 Canadian lads playing minor hockey in winter and thousands more kicking a ball in summer. Effort of coaches and others to promote clean play will pay off in a big way by helping to make the youngsters fit for the biggest game of all — the game of life.

BY-PRODUCT OF TV? — Hamilton's chief librarian says more non-fiction books are being taken out by adults, and less fiction, and attributes this to the influence of television. If it is true that television has the effect of turning people to fact rather than fiction, it may be a healthy sign.

COMPETENCE at the wheel demands more than the mere observance of all the rules of the road from the driver. It necessitates a state of unity between the driver and machine, a sense of responsibility, an awareness of traffic conditions and an ability to visualize what might happen next.

Who was nicknamed "Carbide"?

Thomas Leopold Willson, born in 1860 at Princeton, near Woodstock, Upper Canada, was an inventor of note. Educated at the Hamilton Collegiate Institute, he worked with John Rogers, a local blacksmith, to build one of the first dynamos in Canada, which he used, in 1880, to run the first arc light in Hamilton. He later moved to the U.S., formed the Willson Aluminum Co., in Spray, N.C., and continued the experiments with carbide begun in Canada. In 1892 he invented the first commercial calcium carbide process for the manufacture of acetylene gas, and thereby earned the nickname "Carbide" Willson. He returned to Canada in 1896, and forming the Willson Carbide and Acetylene Works at Merriton, Ontario, he established the first hydro-electric plant in Canada, the largest in North America at the time. He was keenly aware of electric power, and helped preserve for Canada the rights to Niagara Falls power. He was active in many companies, and invented and manufactured marine signals which were widely used. In 1909 the University of Toronto awarded him the first McCharles prize, in recognition of his scientific discoveries. He died, in New York City, on December 20, 1915.

Who purchased the site of Ottawa for £95?

Nicholas Sparks, the founder of Bytown (Ottawa), was born in 1792 in Ireland. With £100 he left his homeland and reached Hull, Que., to work as a farm labourer for Ruggles Wright, the son of the founder of Hull. In 1821, he left Wright's employ and for £95 bought from John Burrows 200 acres of land on the south side of the Ottawa River. This property comprised much of what is now downtown Ottawa. In 1826, Colonel By arrived to make a survey for the proposed Rideau canal and he found some of the Spark's land cleared and some in swamp. Some of the land was expropriated for the canal, but 76 acres were returned when the fortifications were not used. Later By paid Sparks several thousand pounds for only 80 acres of his land, for personal use.

Sparks was a member of the first Municipal Council on the incorporation of Bytown in 1827; in 1854 he became an alderman of the newly incorporated city of Ottawa. Donations of his land provided sites for the Court House, gaol, first fire station, market place and Methodist Church. He gave the land on which Christ Church was erected and himself laid the cornerstone in 1841. Sparks was a man of many interests, a breeder of fine horses, member of the Ottawa Valley Lumber Association and a justice of the peace.

The Challenge of Fear

— By Lewis Milligan —

"Fear has imposed tremendous burdens and sacrifices upon the nations in our own time. It is perhaps the supreme sign of the times in which we live." So said the Rt. Rev. A. D. MacKinnon, the retiring Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada the other day. He was referring chiefly to the fear of another world war with its threat of universal extinction by atomic weapons. But that fear is to be deplored only if it is one-sided. Since the last world war the Soviet government has been piling up nuclear weapons in order to hold their territorial gains in Europe and scare the Western World into submission. In preparing to match the nuclear power of Russia the western nations have transferred their fears to the Russian people, and the rulers of the Kremlin themselves are now scared of their own weapons. They are not contemplating suicide.

Much more immediately important is the fear that the current industrial recession will deteriorate into another depression. If we allow that fear to depress the spirit of enterprise and faith in the future of Canada, a depression will come by default. We can choose between the fear that paralyzes and the fear that energizes and spurs to action.

Well might our forefathers have been afraid when they crossed the seas and found themselves stranded in a wilderness of giant forests swarming with wolves and bears. They had every reason to be fearful of the present and hopeless of the future, but they accepted the challenge of their fears. They went to work. They smote those giants and made log-homes and small farms in the clearings. Year after year they toiled from dawn to dusk with little or no financial reward. There was no featherbedding, and as for social security, there was none but what they obtained by individual hard work and thrift.

That was the spirit with which pioneers dispelled their fears and laid the foundations of this Dominion, and it can be maintained only by following their example. The present fear of a depression is childish and craven. Canada is truly a land flowing with milk and honey. The new immigrants from the Old World are amazed at the signs of prosperity. They see and seize opportunities to which native Canadians are blind. They work hard and save, and many of them set up in business or acquire at least an equity in their own homes within a few years. If they had any fears when they arrived they accepted them as a challenge to their manhood and ingenuity. They were not afraid of hard work.

It was the cultivation of that fear, with the delusive gospel of less and less work, with more and more pay, that led to the present recession. By harder work we can snap right out of it.

You and Me

Is more than just youngsters at Jesus' knee —
It's you and I, with her and him,
Muddling and struggling, to triumph o'er sin.

No matter how skilled your rebellion which balks
At the Voice never silenced. — The Voice still talks
With power, love, and utmost skill,
Drawing you inevitably unto His will.

Crucifying love in their own back yard . . .
Those very things which they prize the most —
Wives, daughters, sons, fathers — and sadly, their Host.

Her and him, and you and me.

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

On Moonlight Bay

Driving home from a country week-end, rather late, I switched on the radio. Some galoot was singing through his nose, so I changed stations, only to bring forth a raucous noise called rock 'n' roll. I leaned forward to switch the darn thing off.

Then, as if the years had suddenly rolled away, sweet music started oozing out. "We were sailing along," sang the voice, "on Moonlight Bay. We could hear the voices singing . . they seemed to say — "

Beside me, my wife began to hum the melody. Soon the youngsters in the back seat joined in. It was a treat.

"When I was a lad," I told the kids, "we used to sing that song around the camp fire at Rock Lake. Sometimes young folk would go out in a boat, and we could hear them singing that song. Sounds swell coming across the water. Odd that it should be back on the hit parade."

I wish I could say that the songs which followed were equally good, and that we enjoyed a sing-song all the way home. Frankly, that was about the only recording worth the wax it was engraved on. It was followed by the Eight-Legged Purple People Eater, You Send Me, and a similar barrage of infantile noise which sent my hand to the switch for silence.

Of course, it is just possible that I'm an old fuddy-duddy, and that twenty years from now folk like me will sigh with delight when Eight-Legged Purple People Eater is played. They'll sigh and say, "Ah, the old songs were the good songs." In a purple people-eater's eye they will!

I asked my teenage daughter what her favorite songs are. She named half a dozen — and virtually all were revivals, songs brought back from the good old days.

Radio disc jockeys, I think, are being led along by their noses these days. Record companies, disc pluggers, and the melody merchandisers have them in their pockets. A disc jockey will play almost anything, if told that it is one of the top ten or the top fifty.

Some day, some smart disc jockey is going to sit down and listen to all the new records and play only those he truly likes — not those that he thinks he ought to like because Billboard or Variety or some show magazine tells him so. Then radio will come into its own as an entertainment medium. People driving home at night will want to listen, and will sing along with the radio. Now even teenagers are tired of the trash.

Let's hear a little more from Moonlight Bay.

Right about now, we figger it's the dandelions that will inherit the earth, instead of the meek. There's nothing meek about dandelions — ever notice how they thumb their golden noses at you while you labor and sweat to raise a blade of blue grass?

And so we'll go on our way,
Knowing well, to our sorrow,
The things not done till today
Will not be done tomorrow.

July is the month of ice cream, hot dogs and picnics.

Yeh, mebbe the grass next door does look green, but you can bet it's just as hard to cut!

Science has made it easier for the laundry to wreck your shirt.

In the old days, when clothes were built from simple fabrics like wool and cotton, the washerman had to use his brains and work fairly hard if he was to reduce a garment to shrunken tatters.

Now there are so many new textiles with names like schmolon and oolon, each one demanding special treatment, that a laundry can destroy two-thirds of the stuff merely by throwing it all in one vat of boiling water.

Those lazy old fabrics wouldn't do anything for themselves. They had to be scrubbed and dried. But (correct me if I am wrong) they resist attack.

The mills are turning out wonder synthetics that will do all kinds of new tricks. They will dry themselves and iron themselves while you wait.

Any day now a manufacturer will unveil a suit of overalls that is trained to wash itself and do the kitchen chores.

But the clever new textiles are so sensitive that manufacturers hand out a little manual with each vest or shirt, informing the vest-owner how to keep his garment happy.

The instructions are all different. Various garments are allergic to soap, heat or vodka. Spilling a dry martini on a girl's party gown may leave a wide pink blaze, which on closer examination turns out to be flesh.

Other miracle clothes are just neurotic. If you speak a harsh word to them, they will melt away to the stuff they are made of, wood pulp and oil sludge.

Doing the laundry is too complex a job to be entrusted to the average housewife. It is also too tricky for the average laundryman. A new breed of college-trained super-laundrymen may be required.

AID NEEDED

Direct government assistance to students has been scanty in the past, and many students of high intelligence who should have received higher education have been prevented from doing so by financial circumstances.

Graduations, June exams, and impressions of Lachute Fair

"Sunnyacres Sketches"

By Margaret Cook

Rummaging around in our alleged mind for a suitable opening remark, we stumbled on this little gem — "Lush is the word for June". But the only words that appear to rhyme with June are prune and soon — both uninspiring. Then, there is fume; and that's better. May for housecleaning, and June for fuming, certainly more realistic than the conventional Merry Month of May and the June wedding themes. . .

Everybody I know is fuming over either a wedding or Juneexams. (I write the above abbreviation knowingly, because one always says Juneexams as if they were all one word.) The graduation exercises were bad enough but the exams were worse! As I get older it is borne upon me that I am that awful thing called in modern parlance an "egg head", and that, in my youth I was a "greasy grind". The head of the house also acknowledges his right to these titles, and adds hopefully that there are signs that at long last, the egg head and the greasy grind are about to be once more in favor.

What brought all this on is the casual attitude modern youth takes toward mental effort. Until a week before the Juneexams, that is. Then the effort becomes terrific. In our household, the candidate left at eight in a daze, either because she was still half asleep from the tranquillizer she had taken, or because she had had hardly any sleep. In this state, the simplest question looks like a crafty invention by a gloating inquisitor. At five, she returned, pale of face, with greenish circles about sunken eyes, and reported failure in every question. On the other hand, her local friend and fellow-sufferer at the school, is the optimistic kind, who reports candidly that she thinks she got an honor in English, and did very well in French. As this would be a miracle, to put it bluntly, one tries to put the whole thing out of one's mind till the results are announced. But one thing I have determined, I do no more tutoring in Latin except for a bright and paying pupil. At this point I see Divine wisdom in the actions of birds. When they have taught their offspring to fly, they push them out of the nest.

To return to the "lush" theme — as I write here at Sunnyacres, the world is so green and golden that it looks almost theatrical. The grass is half way up to my knees (no great height after all); the trees are shifting canopies of green; the tamaracks have little waxy scarlet candles on them; buttercups and daisies riot in the grasses; the narcissi are still lifting pure white frills above the surrounding verdure; the pansies tilt demure faces to the sun; the currants are formed; the strawberries hide coyly being just the color of the grass; the marigolds are in bud; the lilacs are still fragrant, though fading, and a few late daffodils droop their heads. Over all this lush and rampant life, the mosquitoes and black flies move ceaselessly, screaming in delight when anybody appears. Peter, the cat, being nearest the earth, suffers the most. Yesterday, after a night's rain, he appeared at the window after his morning prowl, wild-eyed and wet, and begged us to let him in. He curled up on a table, after the necessary grooming, and there he remained until dusk. Even then, he refused to go out. Better, he said, the indignity of an indoor toilet than to offer oneself as a sacrifice to those miniature bombers.

We went to the Fair, and discovered why Johnny was so long at the Fair — doubtless because it rained so much he could not risk the dash to the car. But it was a good Fair, in spite of the weather. We saw all the wild animals and a fair share of the tame ones. We inspected the handicrafts with envy, because we are so unhandy with our hands. We were particularly impressed by the furniture made by local lads. And is there not some magic chemical formula that will keep corsages fresh so that they will not become funereal in a few hours? . . But here we must digress to tell you about the corsages at the graduation. (Digression, how I love thee!)

The games mistress of our daughter's school takes upon herself various duties generally handled by a matron, or form mistress, so, when the matter of corsages came up, she asked the Sixth Form which they preferred, pink carnations or red roses. There seemed some difference of opinion, so she said it should be settled democratically. "All those in favor of pink carnations, raise your hands." About fifteen of the forty hands went up. "Fine", she carolled, "then it's all settled, pink carnations." Having thus demonstrated the efficiency of democracy mixed with a bit of autocracy, she went on to other applications of this principle. This happens to be the kind of doubtful democracy that the writer favors, so we found it funny. In due course, forty sweet young things in white paraded up to receive their certificates, with sixteen pink carnations, pinned to their mostly immature bosoms. No, dear reader, the corsage did not reach the knees. Examination revealed a secret of the florist's trade. There were two carnations and fourteen pinks.

I should perhaps record, in passing, that the only thing I learned at the graduation was that some unknown girl, whose mother sat directly behind me, had worn the same white dress to school functions for six years, because she had unfortunately not grown since she was twelve. The daughter had sworn, the mother reported, that never, never again would she wear a white dress except at her wedding.

To return to the Fair, we saw our good friend Erskine, performing in his dual capacity as head of the Agricultural Society and the owner of some fetching heifers. We saw Melville in the distance, antiseptic in his whites. We talked with the Minister of Mines, (Bill to me); we saw Donald in the distance — one Donald, that is, and the other close up. We did not see the dog-faced girl, or the fat men; after all they are almost commonplace. After a few hours of this, we went to have coffee at Harvey's, and so home to Sunnyacres.

Now, after a week, we are back — and are we ever thankful, as the English say. The city just now is especially hard to take. Things at the Bridge are approaching a crisis. A new span hangs threateningly at one end. In the middle, a spur is being added, the work goes on loudly and ceaselessly. Jets zoom overhead, the neighbor's children and assorted friends scream at each other for twelve hours. . .

We are grateful to the City Fathers for the nine o'clock curfew. We go to bed soon after, to snatch a few hours' sleep before the early morning diesels draw moaningly toward the Seaway.

Fortunately, it has been a cool June, so the doors and windows can be kept closed much of the time, but we all long for the day when we shall settle in at Sunnyacres for two blissful months. Everybody has his own idea of heaven, mine is a mountain retreat, with no harps!

Bible reading aid to deaf and hearing

Recently an adult user of a new hearing aid explained to her consultant that she was making slow progress in educating her hearing and her voice, because she lived alone. He suggested that she try reading aloud to herself one hour a day. She began with the Bible, and read right through it. Words spoken aloud took on fresh significance and time passed more softly. Then some chance visitors used to listen. They found she was such a good reader that she was asked to give readings at her church.

Witnesses from here to attend convention in New York City

Jehovah's Witnesses from the Lachute congregation have plans under way to attend an international convention in New York City this summer.

Mr. Peter A. Rae, presiding minister here, says the convention could well be the largest in the history of Jehovah's Witnesses. It is scheduled for July 27 through August 3, and will be held in the Yankee Stadium and the Polo Grounds simultaneously.

The last international convention, attended by many local Witnesses, was held in 1953 in Yankee Stadium and reached a peak attendance of 165,000 including the overflow audiences. Watchtower officials have arranged this year for the program to be held in both places, with most program features repeated at the Polo grounds immediately following the first presentation in Yankee Stadium.

The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, governing agency for Jehovah's Witnesses, has been making special travel arrangements for foreign delegates. Many missionaries who have served in other lands will also be brought to the United States for the Bible convention. Purpose of the gathering is to provide stimulus for the New World Society of Jehovah's Witnesses in Christian association, Bible instruction and ministerial training — in accordance with provisions made in Bible days.

It is not yet known how many Witnesses from this area will attend, but special travel arrangements are being made by train and some will travel by car. Local meetings are likely to be cancelled altogether during convention time.

Activities among lady golfers

Winners for the Medal Round, May 27, were as follows — A Class, Miss Barbara Brown; B Class, Miss M. A. Rusk (both Montreal weekend players); C Class, Mrs. Mozart Carrière.

Honey Pot tournament, June 3 — A Class, Miss T. Berubé; B Class, Miss M. A. Rusk; C Class, Mrs. D. Heggie.

Eight Lachute lady members were invited to play at Cornwall Golf Club on June 5, and enjoyed golf and luncheon. Mrs. R. Stephens won low gross for Lachute, and Mrs. W. M. Cottingham won low net.

On June 17, Mrs. G. Ayers, Mrs. R. Stephens, Mrs. R. Coté and Mrs. H. Watson attended the Seigniory Invitation Tournament for three days. Eleven teams were entered in the Best-ball Foursome tournament, which was won by Mrs. Graeme Pike and Mrs. G. R. Patterson of Montreal, with 74 for 18 holes. Mrs. R. Coté and Mrs. H. Watson of Lachute were runners-up with 74.

C Class group lessons given by Mr. Louis de Bryne have been very popular, and well attended by the ladies.

Reductions in handicaps since the beginning of the season are reported for Miss Leda Ayers, Miss Barbara Brown, Mrs. R. Raymond, Miss E. Sortome and Miss Rita McGowan.

Mrs. R. Vermandel and Miss M. Griffin, with net 74's, beat Betty Stanhope, whose score, in the National Golf Week-end Tournament with Stan Leonard, was 76 gross. This tournament was played to help promote the Junior Development program throughout Canada.

Aerial combat in Gaspé

A fleet of 26 specially-equipped aircraft, operating from four airfields, are engaged in spraying with insecticide 700,000 acres of fir and spruce forest threatened by a budworm epidemic. This is the fifth annual spraying operation in the threatened area. Shown above at right is the Hon. J. J. Bertrand, recently appointed Minister of Lands and Forests, who recently toured the operation by air. Showing him the controls of his spraying aircraft is F/O Arnold Bradley, of Bagotville, Que., who works at spraying during his annual leave from the RCAF. The minister pledged continued provincial support of the spraying program.

Canada team in British Empire Games next month

By Milt MacPhail,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's team for the British Empire Games at Cardiff, Wales, July 18-26 will be the strongest Canadian athletic aggregation ever to compete overseas.

That's the word from Major Jack Davies of Montreal, president of the British Empire and Commonwealth Games Association of Canada. He is particularly high on track and field chances.

"Canada will not be a trailer at the Games. If our boys continue to improve at their present rate, we'll place some of them in the finals and bring home medals."

Marathon Hope

Davies' confidence was borne out a couple of weeks ago when slender Gord Dickson of Hamilton Olympic Club won the marathon race trial, breaking British Empire Games and Olympic records. The 26-year-old native of Claresholm, Alta., was clocked in two hours, 21 minutes, 50.5 seconds.

Dickson thus covered the marathon distance of 26 miles, 385 yards almost two minutes faster than the Olympic record set by Czechoslovakia's Emil Zatopek in 1952, and nine minutes faster than J. Coleman of South Africa who set the BEG record in 1938.

Terry Tobacco, of Cumberland B.C., rated fifth among the world's quarter-milers, is another good bet.

Major Davies wouldn't be surprised if sprinters Stan Levenson, Dick Harding or Jack Parrington of Toronto came home with a medal.

High jumper Ken Money of Toronto and hop, step and jump specialist Jack Smythe of Winnipeg are two others he is sure will place high. Money was fifth in the 1956 Olympics while Smythe's best distance of 49 feet, 9¾ inches is just two inches short of the Commonwealth record.

Women Stars

Expected to form the core of the women's track and field squad are sprinters Eleanor Haslam of Saskatoon, Diane Matheson of Montreal and Moncton, N.B., bread jump specialist Maureen Rever of Saskatoon and Pat Dobie of Fredericton, N.B., who competes in three events — javelin, discus and shot put.

All of these athletes, however, must win a place on the track and field team which won't be named until after the trials at Saskatoon June 20-21.

Nobody expects Canada's 13-member swimming team, already named, to seriously challenge Australia's host of world record-breakers. But coach Howard Firby of Vancouver is optimistic. For instance, Irene MacDonald of Hamilton is an almost certain winner in the women's diving. She placed third in the 1956 Olympics and recently won the U.S. three-metre championship.

Other possible medalists are Sara Barber of Brantford, Ont., (backstroke and freestyle), Montreal's Cameron Grout (butterfly) and Bill Slater of Vancouver, who placed fifth in the 1,500-metre freestyle at the 1956 Olympics.

"The skies are blue and the trees are green, and I long for a long vacation!" wrote Ted Robinson, the writer, as he complained of his lack of inspiration in his "Typewriter's Song." Boys and girls, as well as adults, "long for a long vacation!" Summer holidays are certainly greeted with joy! The question of leisure time activities of children during the summer months faces parents everywhere.

This does not mean that every minute of a child's day should be planned! During the school year, with lessons such as music after four o'clock, with clubs and athletics, often a child has very little time of his own. He may complain, with good reason, that he hasn't much chance to do what he likes.

This unscheduled time, when he chooses his own activity, is important to the growth of his character. In it he makes choices, he learns to plan and to complete a project. If in his childhood he does not find how to be happy when left to his own resources, how is he going to discover this when he reaches maturity?

Boys and girls need a variety of leisure time interests and vacation time is their golden opportunity to try out different hobbies. They want to do things with their own chums but there should also be a place for satisfying family excursions such as picnics. Handicraft which fascinates a child now may not be a permanent interest. But if it enriches his life at the time it is worthwhile.

Although children want freedom of choice in their vacation fun, parents can help by talking over with them what they want to do. Mother or dad, by providing equipment for some new interest may stimulate a fresh field of endeavor each summer. Perhaps a camera may be the open door to many wonderful hours taking snapshots, learning how to develop, print and enlarge pictures. Very often photography is a lifetime hobby.

The warm weather, the sunshine, are all so precious in Canada that parents want their children to be out-of-doors as much as possible. Swimming, boating, bicycling and hiking are popular. When linked with visits to see the flowers and trees and the wild animals in provincial and national parks, these outings can add greatly to a child's knowledge of the world of nature.

A study of the stars is a wonderful summer activity. A clear night, a simple guide book and a chart of the night sky is all that is needed to make a start. Every boy and girl should know the Big and Little Dipper with the Pole or North Star at the end of the Little Dipper's handle. A line drawn from this star down to the horizon points to the North. The legends of the constellations are full of drama. Books on stars may be found in the Public Library. A small telescope adds greatly to the enjoyment of astronomy.

There are many other ways of having vacation fun — outdoor cooking, gardening, carpentering, reading, adding to a collection of stamps, rocks, etc. During the long winter months spectator activities monopolize many hours. Children and adults are entertained at movies, by radio and TV programs. There is a place for watching and listening, but it should not crowd out fun a child makes for himself. What vacation activities will your child enjoy this year?

Sweet treats with strawberries

The strawberry and the rose — Canada's favorite berry and favorite flower — are members of the same family. For centuries this berry has grown wild in temperate climates and its name comes from the ancient and common practice of putting straw between the plants to keep the berries clean.

Right now strawberries are flooding our markets but the season is short and sweet. In a few weeks you'll be glad to have this delicious flavor stored away in glasses all ready to serve at any time of the year.

Today it's no chore to make delicious jams and jellies. The modern homemaker uses liquid or powdered fruit pectin. These two products eliminate long boiling, testing and guesswork. In addition to assuring success every time, these pectins produce a finished jam or jelly that is as attractive as it is delicious.

All you have to do is to prepare the fruit or juice, add liquid or powdered fruit pectin and a measured amount of sugar, bring the jam or jelly mixture to a full rolling boil and boil hard for just 1 minute.

With this short-boil method, results are sure, there is no loss of the delicate fruit flavor; and you will get up to 50% more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit as you would with the long boil method. Just 15 minutes after the fruit or juice is prepared, the jam or jelly is ready to be put away.

With the old fashioned long-boil method, the jam or jelly mixture had to be boiled until fruit acid, sugar and pectin were in the proper concentration to form a gel; but long boiling causes evaporation of juice thus reducing the yield, caramelization of sugar, resulting in a dark colored product and loss of flavor. Moreover, results are unsure, because it is difficult to know just how long to boil the mixture so that it will gel. There's a kitchen tested recipe for the different fruits with every bottle or package of fruit pectin. And in addition you will find recipes for many delightful combinations in the liquid fruit pecin booklet. Try strawberry and pineapple jam, rhubarb strawberry jam or raspberry and gooseberry jam — each is distinctive and delicious.

With this simple method, you will want to make not only strawberry jam and jelly but sweet spreads from all fruits as they come in season. Your family will enjoy them during the long winter months.

Summer refreshments with Continental touch

An Old-World pair — Viennese Coffee Frost and Viennese Coffee Kuchens. Together, they make perfect hot-weather refreshments.

What gives a hostess a fine reputation? Usually it's a few dishes she makes especially well, or it may be just her flair for hospitality. But, more often, it's the little imaginative touches she gives to favorite stand-bys that make people sing her praises.

Take a sophisticated thirst-quencher like Viennese Coffee Frost, for instance. Underneath the lightsome whipped cream topping, it's simply iced coffee with a bit of spice added for variety. To make it, all you do is brew up 6 cups of your best double-strength coffee. Then, while it's still hot, pour it over 4 crushed cinnamon sticks, 8 cloves and 8 allspice berries. After an hour, strain the beverage and pour over ice in tall glasses. Sweeten to taste with sugar syrup and top with whipped cream. This will fill 4 tall glasses — plus extras all the way around.

With this glamor-cooler, you'll want to serve something not too rich, but interesting in flavor. Coffee Kuchens fill the bill beautifully. Somehow their fragrant, coffee-flavored goodness adds just the right Continental touch.

Coffee Kuchens

3 Cups sifted enriched flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, few grains salt, 2 cups brown sugar (firmly packed), ½ cup shortening, ½ cup butter or margarine, ½ cup strong coffee, ½ cup evaporated milk, ½ teaspoon baking soda, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

Mix flour, baking powder, salt and brown sugar. Cut in shortening and butter or margarine with two knives or pastry blender. Reserve one cup of this mixture for topping. Combine coffee, evaporated milk and baking soda, add to remaining flour mixture and mix well. Add beaten eggs. Spoon into large muffin pans, filling half full. Add cinnamon to topping mixture and sprinkle on top of batter. Bake in moderate oven, 375°F., 25 minutes. Yield, 1 dozen.

Committee at work on Q.W.I. jubilee

"We are asking for suggestions for our Jubilee celebration," said Mrs. H. E. Palmer, Hemmingford, president of the Chateauguay - Huntingdon County Women's Institute, reporting at the annual board meeting of the Quebec Women's Institutes, held at Macdonald College. Mrs. Palmer is co-chairman of a committee set up a year ago to arrange a program for the 1961 convention, when the provincial organization observes its 50th anniversary.

Plans to date, she went on to say, call for a historical exhibit, skits, possibly taking the form of a pageant, and a parade of provincial presidents, emphasizing projects undertaken or completed during their tenure of office.

Mrs. Palmer asked for names of persons who could assist by writing skits, and suggested a class at future Leadership Courses on making posters, stage props and settings, as a practical project that would be of value for this large undertaking.

Mrs. George Parsons, of Bury, is co-chairman with Mrs. Palmer of this "Jubilee Committee". Other members are Mrs. W. C. Smallman, Dundee; Mrs. W. J. Fuller, Ottawa; Mrs. C. E. Dow, Port Daniel; and Mrs. J. B. Moore, Cowansville.

FOR FLOORING

Smooth-surface floorings, such as the vinyl, rubber and asphalt tiles and linoleum, will resist wear much longer and retain their bright new look if given periodic applications of wax. Liquid polishing, paste or self-polishing wax may be used on the vinyls and linoleum floors but only self-polishing wax should be used on asphalt and rubber tiles.

Since it was first introduced at the gaming tables of 19th-century England, the sandwich has been a convenient way of serving anything from a light snack to a substantial main course.

The Earl of Sandwich, who invented the meat-between-bread quick service, wouldn't recognize some of the elaborate preparations which go by that name today. Two-deckers and three-deckers may include the most complicated combinations.

For simple but good and appetizing sandwiches, turkey nut sandwich filling is an idea that is proving popular. Chop cooked turkey meat, moisten to taste with salad dressing or mayonnaise; add a few coarsely chopped cashew nuts or toasted filberts. Season to taste, and spread generously between slices of buttered bread or toast.

Fresh Strawberries

In Ontario, the fruit and vegeables growers' association says abundant supplies of fresh strawberries are expected to last until about mid-July.

When you buy fresh strawberries, the association says, look for a deep solid red color, shiny appearance, well-formed berries with green caps attached, clean berries with no moisture or decay spots.

Use fresh strawberries as you need them, is another line of advice from the growers. Unless you plan to freeze or preserve them immediately, buy just what you need and keep them refrigerated.

Good strawberry preserve should be a bright red, with at least 45 percent berries. The mixture should not be either runny or stiff.

More Readers

Canadians are reading more books than they did a few years ago, reports "Home and Country", a magazine published for the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario.

"This must mean that to some people — and evidently to a growing number of them — a good book has an attraction all its own; more people know the joy of companionship with the best minds of all time," an editorial in the magazine says.

It continues that if a child does not acquire the reading habit early, he may not know how to study for himself in high school.

"It seems clear that an interest in books should begin in the family and before a child learns to read for himself," says the writer.

It advises introducing colored picture books during babyhood, reading aloud to older children, and eventally reading with a child who is just learning.

"In a family of readers, what each one reads is sure to find its way into conversation, and will eventually be read by others," suggests the magazine.

It advises a conference with the local librarian to find the best books to have in the home.

Service and Reception for Newly Ordained Minister

On Tuesday evening, June 17, a service was held in the United Church in honor of the Rev. J. David McCord, a member of the congregation of this church who was recently ordained at the Montreal and Ottawa Conference as a minister of the United Church of Canada.

The service was conducted by the minister, the Rev. C. G. Westhaver, assisted by the Rev. McCord. During the service the Rev. Westhaver expressed the pride of the congregation, having sent forth a young man to the ministry of the Word and Sacrament, and on behalf of the congregation presented the Rev. McCord with a Record Book.

In a few well chosen words, the Rev. McCord thanked the congregation and expressed his gratitude for the prayers and good wishes of his friends in this area during his college years.

During the service the church soloist, Mrs. M. M. Sims, rendered the solo, "All Hail the Power".

Following the service the congregation retired to the church hall for an hour of fellowship, at which time the Rev. McCord showed slides of the British Isles, taken by him while he was abroad studying at Edinburgh, and gave an interesting talk to illustrate them. Refreshments were then served by the members of the Women's Association, and a most enjoyable evening came to a close.

Low-cost housing

Ottawa (CP) — National Housing Act loans are to be made available for financing low-cost homes in rural areas.

Stewart Bates, president of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, told the Senate finance committee the designs for homes would be available in a month or two.

There would be two types, one with a top price of about $8,000 and the other of about $5,000. This would include cost of the land but he noted that land prices in outlying areas are far below city prices.

He said they would be built without expensive frills. There would be softwood floors instead of expensive hardwood and ordinary shelves instead of fancy kitchen cupboards.

Youth Hostelling

With summer vacation just around the corner, a recent publication of the Canadian Youth Hostels Association presents some timely information for young people planning their holidays.

The Association which caters to "youth of all ages" has trips galore to offer young people willing to travel under their own steam — by bicycle, walking, or in some cases canoeing.

From week-end jaunts in the Eastern Townships, to summer long vacations in Europe, C.Y.H. offers wonderful opportunities at rock-bottom cost to the young in heart and adventurous in spirit.

The Association has chains of youth hostels throughout Canada, including several in the Rocky Mountains and many in Quebec's Eastern Townships, to mention but a few.

One trip is a two-week bicycling jaunt through New England, Cape Cod, Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket Island, using affiliated hostels of the A.Y.H., for an approximate cost of $80.

Trains, buses or private cars are used to reduce biking distances and by-pass congested areas, as well as by week-end hiking and outing groups.

Age acceptable in Canada and the U.S.A. is 14 years and up. The average age is 16 to 30.

Trips abroad sponsored by the C.Y.H. can be accomplished for less than one half what it would normally cost the average tourist. A two-month holiday in England, France, Spain, Italy, Austria, Germany and Belgium by train and bicycle, including overnight lodging, food, leadership, incidentals, plus air transportation over and back, costs only $695.

The hostels themselves are sometimes in schools or community centres, but are most often located in connection with farm homes. In the Canadian Rockies, the Government has provided 10 youth hostels through the National Parks in that region.

Wherever they are, they are well supervised and provide separate sleeping quarters and washroom facilities for boys and girls, a common kitchen where hostellers may cook their own meals, and usually a space for recreation. Bunks, mattresses, blankets, cooking utensils and cleaning equipment are provided.

Sponsored trips are under the leadership of carefully selected, capable, experienced adults — the brochure points out. Most of these people are teachers, social workers, recreation leaders or graduate students.

Hostel rates in Canada vary depending on the age of members. Seniors pay 75 cents per night and Juniors (under 21) 50 cents. Hostellers usually buy and prepare their own meals, thus keeping essential expenses as low as $1.50 to $2 a day.

Strictly self-service, Hostelling teaches responsibility, getting along with other people, and generally seems to foster a better knowledge and understanding of the world about us.

This 20-year-old non-profit organization holds a Dominion Charter and is run entirely by the members themselves with the support of private individuals, Y.W.C.A.'s and service groups.

Information on the Canadian Youth Hostels Association may be obtained from the Quebec regional office in Room 344, Central Y.M.C.A., 1441 Drummond Street, Montreal.

Brownsburg man takes bride in Fredericton, N.B.

Prosser - Smith

Wilmot United Church, Fredericton, was the scene of a wedding of interest here, when the Rev. A. H. Moore united in marriage Marjorie Edith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh F. Smith, of Fredericton, and Charles Bryant Prosser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Prosser, of Brownsburg.

The chancel was adorned with large baskets of white mums and pink carnations and ferns. The guest pews were marked with appleboom sprays, tied with white satin bows.

Mr. Thomas Morrison played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length gown of white nylon chiffon, featuring a shirred bodice, with round neckline, an Empire waist trimmed with white velvet bows and a full skirt over a crinoline. Her shoulder-length veil of nylon net fell from a pearl tiara. Her only ornaments were pearl earrings and necklace, and she carried a Colonial nosegay of white button mums and pink Sweetheart roses.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Donald E. Prime, who wore a street-length gown of aqua nylon chiffon. Her white picture hat was encircled with tulle, and her accessories were white. Mrs. Prime carried a Colonial nosegay of yellow and white mums.

Mr. Edward Corbiere was groomsman, and Mr. Donald E. Prime and Mr. David Smith ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Wandlyn Restaurant. The couple then left on a motor trip to northern New Brunswick and Quebec. For travelling, the bride chose a brown chemise dress trimmed with white, and white accessories.

Out of town guests were from Brownsburg and Baie Comeau, Que., New Brunswick and Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Prosser will reside in Baie Comeau.

HALT FOR RAIN

Preeceville, Sask. (CP) — A by-law banning vehicles from municipal roads for 24 hours after each rain, was passed by the council of this rural municipality.

Governors-General attend old church

Ottawa (CP) — A charming and simple little church near Government House in Ottawa's Rockcliffe Park area has served as a place of worship for Canadian governors-general since Confederation.

It is a long, low building, its peaked roof slanting sharply down to low walls of grey quarried sandstone. Its wide face features large dormer-windows of stained glass on either side of the main entrance.

Here — since Viscount Monck, Canada's first governor-general, laid the cornerstone in 1868 — heads of state and sometimes royal guests have worshipped.

St. Bartholomew's Anglican Church has become a tiny Canadian counterpart to Westminster Abbey. All 18 of Canada's governors-general have attended service here.

The three front pews are reserved for members of Government House, and a royal coat-of-arms on the front seat marks the place of the governor-general and his family.

The daughter of Earl Grey is buried in its graveyard. The son of the Earl and Countess of Bessborough was baptized here.

Earle - Gunsburger

A pretty wedding took place at 2 o'clock on June 14, at St. John's Anglican Church in Shrewsbury, Que.

The bride, Sigrid Gunsburger, who came to Canada from Europe two years ago, was given in marriage by William Larson of Montreal. She wore a white lawn afternoon dress and carried a bouquet of lily-of-the-valley.

The groom was Graham Earle, of Montreal and Shrewsbury.

The century-old church was beautifully decorated with a variety of summer flowers. The Rev. C. W. P. Baugh officiated, while Mrs. Baugh was organist.

The guests included friends from New York City, Montreal and Shrewsbury.

A reception was held at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Earle in Shrewsbury.

ONTARIO FARMERS TO TOUR QUEBEC

Montreal — Rural communities in many parts of Quebec will put out the welcome mat next month for a group of Ontario farmers and their wives who are to make a two-week goodwill tour.

Arrangements for the tour, which will include farm visits, social engagements and sight-seeing trips, have been handled by Canadian National Railways' colonization and agriculture department. The sponsors are the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association.

A busy schedule will take the visitors through the Eastern Townships, to Quebec City, on a Saguenay River cruise and across the historic Gaspé Peninsula. Among the Quebec localities in which farms will be visited are West Brome, Howick, Hemmingford, Napierville, Bury and Disraeli.

New appointment, television editor for Farm Forum

As Farm Forum swings into the summer season, with the emphasis on new aids to group discussion, it finds itself with a somewhat altered National Office.

National Secretary Floyd Griesbach, now with the Immigration Department, resigned some months ago after eight years of service to the National Office. His replacement will be selected following a survey of the Canadian Adult Education scene, to assess the present-day needs of the farm people.

Muriel McLeod, from Alberta, who was in charge of the Farm Forum Guide, is now vacationing in the Maritimes. She plans to join MacLaren's Advertising in Toronto, upon her return.

Jean-Ette McInnis, Office Secretary, continues to carry the load of office correspondence and secretarial work.

Meanwhile, with television on the horizon for the first time, the National Office has hired an editor with experience in this field. Rodger Schwass, for three years Associate Farm Director at CKNX Radio-Television in Wingham, has worked with some 200 Farm Forums in that part of Ontario. A Bruce County farmer, his work assisted in the production of the programs for the heaviest Radio-TV Farm Broadcast schedule in Canada. The newly-created position includes the editing of the Farm Forum Guide, and preparation of news releases. Also, the new editor will work closely with the Television Committee and the CBC.

It is hoped that the changes made in the National Office staff will allow for a continuation of the Farm Forum program, while an evaluation of the role of group discussion in solving farm problems is carried out, to provide better and more up-to-date Farm Forum service.

Marked increase in cattle exports

Ottawa — Canada's cattle exports have been setting a rapid pace so far this year, in direct contrast to the same period in 1957, Ralph K. Bennett, head of merchandising section, livestock products division, Marketing Service, Canada Department of Agriculture, indicated recently.

He pointed out exports have been the equivalent of about 8,600 cattle a week, or nearly 20 per cent of marketings.

This total of 190,000 cattle has been made up of the weekly averages of 1,500 slaughter cattle, 5,200 feeders and 1,900 in the form of dressed beef.

This, he said, compared with very little export for the first five months last year.

Exports of slaughter cattle have been fairly steady right through this year, said Mr. Bennett. However, since the middle of April, the movement of feeder cattle south has dropped off sharply. More export demand was reported during the past week.

Award for Forums' radio presentation

"An Unusually Sensitive Treatment of Rural Problems, and a Vital Farm Issue, well presented". . . That was the judgment handed down by a panel of judges at the Annual American Exhibition of Radio and Television Productions, held recently in Ohio.

They presented the First Award to Farm Forum's summer replacement, "Summer Fallow", and set some kind of record by awarding a further honorable mention to the Farm Forum entry itself.

The Farm Forum broadcasts submitted in the International Competition, were "Does She Put the Price Tag On", and "National Farm Policy". Both were CBC productions, under the expert supervision of Frank Nicholson, Farm Radio production supervisor.

They were a part of the regular Farm Forum Broadcast series last winter, which brought into discussion groups some 10,000 farm people. Their suggestions and ideas, submitted through weekly reports, as a pulse of the farmer, assist farm leaders in the formulation of policy.

Tractor chief cause of farm accidents

Statistics in Ontario show that approximately 60 annual farm accident deaths in that province are caused by carelessness in handling farm machinery. Since the tractor is used more than any other machine, its careless and improper use causes more accidents than any other single agent.

Gasoline, pound for pound, has three times the explosive power of dynamite. Accordingly, gasoline must be handled with extreme caution. Since it is highly explosive when mixed with air, avoid splashing it during handling.

Don't smoke near gasoline, and be especially carefuly around gasoline when ventilation is limited. And never refuel a tractor when the engine is running or hot.

Cut hay early

Hay, one of the most important crops in Eastern Canada, is often wasted by being harvested too late.

W. S. Richardson, of the Lennoxville Experimental Farm, says the most ideal haying time for red clover is at the half bloom stage, alfalfa at one tenth bloom and timothy at the first bloom.

As it is almost impossible to harvest all of the hay crop at the best stage of development, Mr. Richardson advises farmers, to start haying early to ensure quality hay for the livestock.

Hay plants in their growth and development pass from a watery substance to a hard fibrous material at maturity. The early growth is high in protein and the mature plant is low in protein. Red clover starts out with approximately 20 per cent protein and when mature has a protein content of less than 10 per cent.

As plants grow they increase in total crop but a considerable part of this later growth is fibre. Therefore the farmer has to consider whether to cut his hay for quality or high yield. These two periods do not coincide so a compromise between the two must be made.

BIG BUSINESS

Foam Lake, Sask. (CP) — 24,000 Turkeys on the Frank Pickering farm here will gobble an estimated 35,000 bushels of feed grain and 10 carloads of pellets before they are marketed.

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you:

Q. I understand that the Umpire is the final authority on all questions concerning claims for unemployment insurance benefit. How is he appointed?

A. The Umpire is appointed by the Governor in Council from amongst the judges of the Exchequer Court of Canada and the superior courts of the provinces of Canada.

* * *

Q. I am a single girl and am now in receipt of unemployment insurance benefit. I will be getting married shortly and wonder if I will still be able to draw benefit if I am unemployed at that time.

A. You will eligible for benefit, following marriage, providing you continue to be available for employment. You should get in touch with your local office as soon as possible after your marriage and arrange to have your name changed on your unemployment insurance records.

Q. Is an unemployed girl drawing benefit entitled to keep on if she decides to undertake a study course? Her family is not in a position to meet the cost of the course and she will have to work in order to pay for it.

A. If the study course will occupy the girl full time, so that in consequence she will not be available for work while taking it, she will be unable to qualify for benefit during that period. The only exception is where the girl, while unemployed, is taking a course of instruction or training which the Commission has directed her to attend. In this latter case she would be still eligible for benefit if she continued to meet the other requirements for the receipt of benefit.

"THEY SNICKERED WHEN MY BOSS FED PURINA . . .

NOW THEY ALL WANT PURINA TOO!"

"I don't mind saying now that the remarks from the other side of the fence were pretty upsetting, at the time.

"You see, my Boss decided to give PURINA CALF STARTENA a try after hearing some pretty good things about it, so he bought a bag for me.

"The trouble was that the fellows next door started making cracks about that bright Checkerboard bag (I can see now that they were simply jealous). 'Huh!' they snickered. 'High-falutin' feed instead of good old oats', . . . 'New-fangled folderol' . . . that was the sort of thing I couldn't help hearing, all the first week.

"The second week I didn't hear so much from the other side of the fence. Perhaps it was because I was getting accustomed to it, or because I was too busy licking up that Startena. As a matter of fact I was too busy lunching to hear the accident. (Not serious at all; the calf next door just knocked down the fence trying to get at my Startena.)

"It was at this point that her boss and my boss got together for a little talk, and got things settled. Now the fellow over the fence got some Calf Startena too, and everybody is happy." . . .

Won't you get some PURINA CALF STARTENA and NURSING CHOW today and make your calves happy too! Your requirements will be carefully attended to; and we deliver.

For instance, Dodge gives you the big pay-off in features. On D100 half-tonners, there's a new easiest-of-all-to-shift 3-speed manual transmission . . . or, if you wish, the modern touch of LoadFlite automatic transmission with convenient push-button controls. These same models also have new self-adjusting rear springs that result in a luxurious passenger-car ride.

Dodge brings you the big pay-off in all-around value, too. Whether you pick a big-muscled V-8 or the newly improved Six, you can be sure that your Dodge truck is engineered throughout to do its duty dependably.

So come see how much more truck your money buys when you make the switch to DODGE!
