Red Cross classes in water safety and life-saving

Brownsburg — Red Cross swimming classes will be conducted at the Brownsburg Rotary Pool every Tuesday and Thursday evening from 5 to 6 o'clock, commencing July 15.

Instruction will be given in water safety and life saving techniques, and those enrolled will be able to undergo examination for Red Cross Medals in the month of August. This is a good opportunity for children to learn to swim safely. Any enquiries regarding the above classes should be made to Mr. Chas. Marston or Mr. Rolf Nelson, both of Brownsburg.

Report satisfying result in Rotary peanut campaign

Results of the Rotary Park peanut drive, as reported by Secretary Wes Freeland, amounted to $1,100 in sales of peanuts and peanut products — a highly creditable achievement, in which the Rotary members and their canvassers played an energetic part.

Illustrating the generous purchases of Rotary clubmen themselves, Charter President Sam Ross, now of Cote des Neiges, set the ball rolling with an encouraging letter, a $10 donation, and an order for $5 in peanuts. Rotarian Leonard Wilson, unable to get out for the sales campaign, bought the most expensive single can of peanuts, for $10.

The key workers responsible for this excellent result were as follows:

Organizing Committee — Wes Freeland, Bert Moore, Bill Poley, Sid Stilwell and Fred Gervais.

Advertising — Bert Moore, Bob Giles, Jr., Berry Bourne, Linton Armstrong, Geo. Desfosses.

Area Planning — Bill Poley, Stewart Jones, Art Lapp, Keith Hickson, Ron Barnett.

Supply — Sid Stilwell, Cliff Armstrong, John Giles.

Finances — Fred Gervais, Kilgour Hardie.

To the canvassers who gave valuable assistance, to the businessmen who gave support in advertising and to the public who responded generously in this effort, the committee extends its warmest appreciation. The proceeds will help considerably in the operation of the community park and swimming pool this season.

Many civic-spirited workers active for Blind Institute

Year's officers all re-elected and directors named at annual meet

The annual meeting of the CNIB Argenteuil Advisory Board was held last week at the Institute's centre on Drew Street.

Present at this meeting were — Mayor Leopold Carrière (chairman), A. C. Zaplaski (field secretary), Keith Hickson, L. J. Carignan, M. R. Wilson, A. Lafrance, J. B. Chalmers (secretary), Miss M. Preece (treasurer), Mrs. T. Dwyer, Mrs. M. R. Wilson, Mrs. L. Dion and Mrs. A. Bigelow.

The chairman stated it had been recommended to him that the Institute consider holding a dance at the Golf Club around the middle of the summer. This proposition was discussed and the chairman was given full support to arrange such a dance on Friday, August 8, or on the best suitable date.

The treasurer read a report for the period March 31 to June 23, showing total expenditures of $238.67 and a balance on hand of $329.90.

Tribute to Auxiliary

Tony Zaplaski, field secretary, said in his report: "We cannot speak too highly about the wonderful work that has been done by the ladies. On numerous occasions, Mrs. Clayton Robinson was very kind by driving the Field Secretary and Home Teacher cases in the district, and taking medical supplies every week to one of our diabetic cases. During the past two months the ladies have raised approximately $300. Their generosity to the Institute is realized in the fact that they have purchased an electric stove, a frigidaire, a couch, and utensils for the kitchen."

Visits and Assistance

The field secretary had made 32 calls during the past two months. The following services have been given: railway and bus passes — 25; medical supplies — 18; and a Braille alarm clock purchased.

Eye Examinations

Since the Eye Clinic commenced to function, the total number of people who have taken advantage of the Clinic was 87. Out of this number, 27 people were unable to pay for their examination, and arrangements were made accordingly.

Publicity

Various pamphlets and booklets were obtained from the National Office of the CNIB, which will stimulate assistance in time of need and want.

Special Donations

"We are very grateful to the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club for the donation of $250 for the purchase of a trial lens set. Also, we are thankful to the Lachute Knights of Columbus for their gift of $28 to buy a new talking book," stated Mr. Zaplaski. "Finally, I am glad to report that three of our sightless ladies are again entering hand-made articles for the Canadian National Exhibition contest in August."

Election of Officers

The next item of business was the election of officers of the Argenteuil Board for the forthcoming year. The present Board was unanimously re-elected, and the following were named directors:

Mrs. J. E. Barker, Mrs. D. MacDonald, Mrs. A. Bigelow, Mrs. L. Dion, Mrs. T. Dwyer, Mrs. Ivy Cruise, Mrs. S. Holt, Mrs. J. Gorman, Miss Louise Miller, Mrs. M. R. Wilson.

Dr. Eric Mongeon, Messrs. T. Popech, Douglas Ogilvie, Myrtle Trickey, S. Milnes, Keith Hickson, R. Cairns, A. Lefebvre, A. Quinn, A. O. Anderson.

Messrs. L. J. Carignan, J. A. Lafrance, J. Gerard Sauvé, Hubert Lemire, Georges Clermont, Ph. Guenette, Maurice Coulombe, Jean Belanger, Horace Lamarche.

A discussion on financial campaigns followed and several suggestions for campaign chairmen in various parts of the County were made.

The Field Secretary reported that the Annual Picnic for blind people and guides would be held on July 9 at the Rotary Park in Brownsburg.

There was a discussion concerning the present CNIB quarters at 145 Drew Street and it was recommended that early in the fall the subject should be taken up thoroughly and plans devised to meet the situation when the present lease expires next May.

Found dead in sugar camp

The body of Mary Beatrice Stone, 53, of Brownsburg Road in Chatham Township, was found in the sugar camp of her uncle, James McAndrew, shortly before 8 p.m. on Friday last — the victim having taken her own life, according to Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen, of the Provincial Police.

Miss Stone was last reported to have been seen alive around 3.30 o'clock Friday afternoon, walking in a field close to where the body was found. A search was started after supper when the victim failed to appear, and she was found by her brother, Wilfred, around 7.45 p.m.

Sgt.-Det. Allen's investigation indicated that she apparently took a 16-gauge shotgun from the McAndrew summer kitchen some time ago, and left it in the sugar camp, using the weapon on Friday to take her own life.

District Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur rendered a verdict of suicide following his inquiry.

Inquest in death of pedestrian

An inquest into the death of Adrien Rochon, 75, of St. Philippe, will be held in the Lachute Town Hall this evening, Wednesday, at 8 o'clock, under District Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur.

The death occurred at the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Montreal, last week, following an accident May 4 in the Village of St. Philippe. The victim was struck by a car while leaving the village church. The funeral was held on Tuesday morning of last week.

Lawn-mower sends youngster to hospital

Eleven-year-old Jacques Myre, of Chatham Street, suffered a broken leg in a freak accident near his home last Saturday evening.

The youngster, son of Mme René Cosgrove, was watching a Millway Street resident, Normand Carrière, who was trimming his lawn with a power mower. It seems that a dog, unversed in safety-consciousness, had left a bone hidden in the grass. The revolving mower-blade hurled the bone at the youthful onlooker, and made an ugly gash in his left leg.

The boy was treated by Dr. Jules Lafleur at the Providence Hospital, then taken by ambulance to the Hotel Dieu at St. Jerome for manipulation of a compound fracture.

Receives wings as jet pilot

Ronald D. Jenkins, brother of Bernard Jenkins of Lachute, was commissioned Flying Officer and received his wings in a ceremony at the RCAF Station, Portage-la-Prairie, Man., on Friday past.

F/O Jenkins served as Aero Engine - Air Frame Mechanic at Greenwood, N.S., airbase from 1954-57. He was later stationed at London, Centralia and Penholdt, Alta., prior to receiving his commission at Portage-la-Prairie, where he underwent his pilot's course on jet-propelled aircraft.

Mr. Jenkins is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jenkins of Baccaro, Shelburne County, N.S.

Boost for Lachute town, industry and golf club

The editor of the Yarmouth Light, Mr. Cecil Day, who is also president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, gave Lachute some favorable publicity in his paper, as the result of his recent visit here. The following is from a clipping received by one of our readers from a relative in Nova Scotia:

A Pleasant Trip To See Friends

Recently while the editor and his wife were in Montreal attending the CMA Convention, we took a side trip to Lachute, Quebec, which is some 50 miles out of Montreal. Most people know the town because it is the home of Ayers Blankets and other wonderful products, and of course that plant was included in our tour. But to us it was an opportunity to meet and chat with our good friends the Giles family, who publish two papers, one French and one English, in that most progressive town. Also included was a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Steeves, who were with us on that grand tour of Europe nearly two years ago. The Giles family, father and sons, conduct a modern printing plant which was our first point of duty, but after that we were taken to luncheon at the Lachute Golf and Country Club which is indeed the finest course and golf club we have even seen. If you are ever in this town and you love a game of golf, don't pass it by.

Banter and controversy in Commons on efficiency, morale of Civil Service

By Roy LaBerge, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa (CP) — Complaints of work habits of federal civil servants — hotly denied — were made in the capital last week.

A government supporter, Jack Wratten (PC — Brantford) brought the controversy to a head when he asked for an independent investigation of efficiency in the transport department.

Transport Minister Hees replied he would not object to such an inquiry if the government should decide to order one.

Mr. Wratten said, during study of the department's estimates by the Commons railway committee, he would apologize if the study disproved his charges that a lot of civil servants are not working.

A few hours after Mr. Wratten spoke three men in shirt sleeves were seen swinging golf clubs on the roof of the Hunter building in downtown Ottawa. The building is occupied about 50-50 by staff of the transport and public works departments. Spokesmen for both departments told a reporter — without checking — they were sure their staffs were not involved in the golf-club swinging.

Warm Denial

Previously last week, Mr. Wratten said some civil servants are loafing and "sitting on their fannies." This drew indignant rebuttal from civil service associations.

Fred Whitehouse, president of the 80,000-member Civil Service Association of Canada, said Mr. Wratten's charges "burn me up". It was inevitable that in a body as large as civil service some employees would not measure up.

President Stewart Bates of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation touched off some of the controversy the previous week. He told a senate committee he had been able to cut his staff from 2,300 to 1,800 in two years at a saving of $2,500,000, and still retain top efficiency.

He said he never would have been able to do so had employees of the crown corporation been under jurisdiction of the Civil Service Commission.

N.S. Coal Aid

The federal and Nova Scotia governments have moved in with financial help to ease layoffs affecting 9,500 coal miners.

The assistance for the Dominion Coal Company, decided on a series of cabinet meetings here last Friday, won't stop the 25-day mine shutdowns in Nova Scotia, but is aimed at preventing unemployment after that by helping finance costs of the record coal stockpiles accumulated in the face of declining demand.

One unofficial estimate was that total aid may be in the neighborhood of $500,000, with the federal government supplying about $400,000 and Nova Scotia $100,000.

The scheme parallels assistance given to the Britannia copper mine in British Columbia in an abortive attempt to keep that operation going last winter.

Premier Stanfield of Nova Scotia, returning to Halifax after talks here, said the province is "determined to participate." The aid would give assurance against further layoffs after the 25-day period. Allan C. MacDonald, chairman of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation's management committee, said he is gratified. Dosco, acquired recently by A. V. Roe (Canada) Limited, holds Dominion Coal Company in its huge complex of firms.

The assistance will be in the form of a bookkeeping operation enabling the governments to channel more money for coal subventions. These transport subsidies, designed to make Nova Scotia coal competitive in Ontario and Quebec, have been running about $9,000,000 annually.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the House of Commons that in the discussions, the company undertook "that at the end of the 25-day period already announced, the company will continue its normal operations provided that it is compensated for additional costs to which it will be put to maintain the estimated excess over the normal stockpile." He said the company had forecast a coal surplus by the year's end of 750,000 tons over and above normal carryover.

NORAD Ratified

The senate last week gave final approval to the Canada-United States air defence agreement. It had been previously ratified by the Commons.

Defence Minister Pearkes told the senate's external relations committee the RCAF's nine CF-100 jet squadrons would be committed to NORAD as soon as Parliament ratified the agreement, signed May 12 at Washington.

Mr. Pearkes also made these three points:

1. Defence spending will remain "very high" for several years.
2. If Canada didn't spend money for its share of North American defence, the U.S. would take on the whole job. Canada would become "no more than a servant" of the U.S.
3. Not a week goes by but some unidentified plane flies over Canada. No hostile plane had ever actually been found, however.
4. Only 17 Canadians serve at NORAD headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo. There are "many hundreds" of American personnel there.

NO FOOLING

Chatham, Ont. (CP) — A man pleading guilty to a vagrancy charge here asked for a month in jail so he could have a place to sleep with regular meals. "Nothing doing", said Magistrate F. K. Jasperson. "Get out of here and go to work."

Rotary affairs in review and prospect; Syd Patterson takes office as president

The opening of a new Rotary year saw the Brownsburg - Lachute Club's retiring president, King Amos, hand over the gavel to the in-coming president, Syd Patterson, at last Thursday's meeting, held in the Brownsburg Legion Hall. The new board of directors comprises President Patterson, vice-president Berry Bourne, secretary Bob Wyse, treasurer Don McFaul, with Art Lapp, Phil Grant, Jim Campbell, Ron Barnett and King Amos, directors.

Wes Freeland, chairman of the Peanut Drive, gave an up-to-date report and, following considerable discussion, it was decided to terminate the drive over the Dominion Day week-end. (A final report of the drive appears elsewhere on this page.)

Retiring District Governor Linton W. Armstrong reported on the Annual International Convention held in Dallas, Texas, early in June, pointing out many of the interesting and informative sessions, etc., he and fellow-Rotarian Jack MacKimmie attended on their trip.

In closing his year of office, retiring President Amos gave a quick review of the year's activities and paid tribute to District Governor Linton and his work during his period of office. He spoke at some length on the Rotary Park, pointing out that the Club was known and respected more for the park than any other of its community activities.

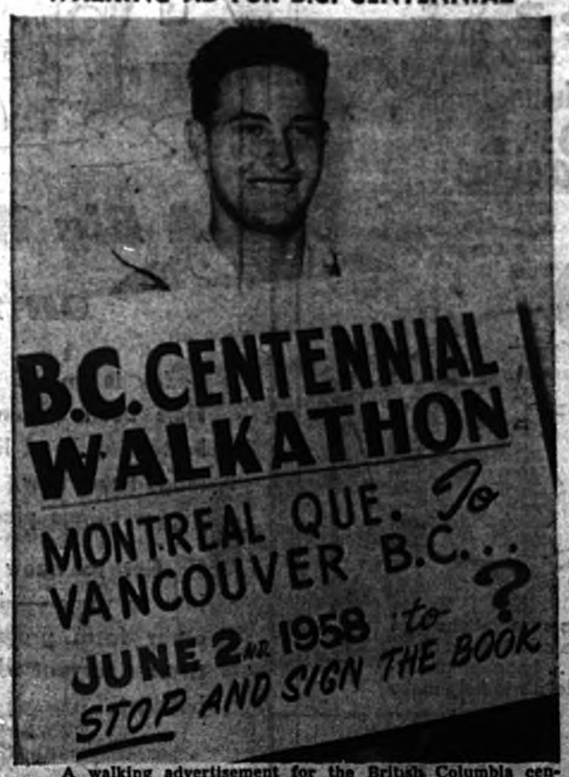

"It is to be hoped that the Park Planning Committee, which is comprised of the past-presidents of the previous five years, will get down to serious business and work out a long-range plan by which we can continue our good work." He then turned the gavel over to the new president, Rotarian Syd Patterson, who thanked the members for the honor bestowed upon him.

"It is easier to look back and criticize than to look forward," he said, adding that he was sure the Club could anticipate an excellent year as "I am sure of your co-operation and you have given me a good board to work with." He closed his remarks by pointing out that "this is a Service Club — Service is our motto, and we serve our community. Let us continue to serve it well."

Appointed to sales in B.C.

J. Dunn, general sales manager of Atlas Asbestos Company Limited, announces the appointment of John E. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Wilson of Lachute, as representative for Ferodo Brake Linings in British Columbia. John Wilson, a specialist in the sales and service of industrial and automotive friction materials, has represented Ferodo in Eastern Canada for many years.

WALKING AD FOR B.C. CENTENNIAL

A walking advertisement for the British Columbia centennial is Pat Sullivan, age 17. He left Montreal on June 2 to hoof it to his home in Vancouver, equipped with this billboard, 40 pairs of socks, nine pairs of shoes, numerous bottles of liniment, a gun and a sleeping bag. If he completes the 4,300-mile walkathon, he will receive a $400 reward from the B.C. Centennial committee. He expects to reach B.C. by mid-October, aygraging 30 miles a day.

Local merchants join retail chain

Ted Vachon, president of the Merchants' Association here, announces the affiliation of this group with the "Best Value Supermarket", a chain embracing 60-odd retailers in this district. Of these 60, about 10 are in business in the immediate communities of Lachute, Brownsburg, St. Philippe, St. Andrews East and Grenville. The affiliation with this chain will commence officially next Wednesday, July 9.

Head-office of the Best Value Supermarket is in Ottawa, and its membership, extending over a national scale, includes a total of 700 retailers. Two businessmen in the local Merchants' Association are on the advisory committee of Best Value Supermarket.

Lachute High School '58 graduate winner of industrial scholarship

Jean Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Taylor, East Ward, and a 1958 graduate of Lachute High School, was announced last week the winner of a $500 scholarship arranged by the Chemical Institute of Canada, Hawkesbury Section.

Miss Jean Taylor

The scholarship was awarded through competitive examinations in Chemistry, entered by 27 candidates from Argenteuil and Prescott Counties. The examinations were held May 21 in the Hawkesbury High School and Lachute High School simultaneously, the result being announced last Thursday. The entrants were Grade 11 pupils from Quebec and Grade 12 pupils from Ontario schools in the two counties.

This "Prescott-Argenteuil Industrial Scholarship" is a regional award made possible by the joint collaboration of four district companies, namely, Canadian Refractories Ltd., Kilmar; Canadian Safety Fuse Ltd., Brownsburg; Industrial Cellulose Research Ltd., Hawkesbury; and Norda Limited, Vankleek Hill.

The scholarship is administered by the Hawkesbury Section of the Chemical Institute, and is available to students entering any university for the course in Science.

Friends extend congratulations to Miss Taylor on her success.

Resolution on preserving place-names, at Women's Inst. provincial convention

History is often preserved in the place names of a country. Names of early explorers and pioneers are perpetuated in this way, and not only does it keep their deeds and sacrifices in mind but it does add richness and variety to the countryside, and to the interest of those who may be touring the province.

The Quebec Women's Institutes has seen, with mounting concern, the growing tendency to change some of these names of historical significance, often without the residents of the district or community being given an opportunity to register a protest, if such should seem to be the need.

This concern has now culminated in a resolution unanimously endorsed at the annual provincial convention held last week at Macdonald College. Instances were cited in the discussion where this had been the case, no advance knowledge of a proposed change. Nearly 300 country women, from all parts of the older settled sections of Quebec, registered their protest by a petition to the Attorney-General, that the Municipal Code and the Cities and Towns Act be amended so that no change can be made in the name of a locality or district without due notice to its residents, and that a full and proper inquiry be made in each instance by the Private Bills Commission, which would give such residents an opportunity to register a protest, if any.

1958-59 Bookings selected for Community Concerts

Membership enrolment exceeded expectations

A final check on campaign results by the Community Concerts executive revealed a successful outcome this year, as the directors met last week at the office of the president, Notary Simon Valois. In actual numbers, the subscribers are in excess of the previous year's roll by a small margin — the financial resources and budget for next season's programs being approximately the same.

Main purpose of this meeting was to confer with the Columbia Artists district representative, Mr. J. Bernache, of Ottawa, and to select artists for the coming season's recitals. The choice of the directorate, within the available budget, was tailored to the tastes of the greatest proportion of members, the selection and approximate dates being as follows:

October 28, 1958 — Nieuw Amsterdam Trio; piano, violin and cello instrumentalists.

In March, 1959 — George Feyer, brilliant pianist from France, with selections both classical and popular.

In May, 1959 — Frances Archer and Beverly Gile — folk singers, with international ballads and songs in native languages, to their own guitar accompaniment.

Specific dates for these concerts will be announced later from headquarters.

It was pointed out that the Ste. Anne de Bellevue Community Concerts have engaged Lois Marshall for January or February next, and on the mutual exchange arrangement among memberships, subscribers here will be privileged to hear the popular Canadian soprano at Ste. Anne's on this occasion.

On motion of Mrs. W. M. Cottingham, it was decided by the directors that members of the CNIB White Cane Club, and their escorts, be invited to attend any of the Lachute recitals as guests of the Association.

Canadian soccer moving into big-time outlook

By Gerald Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A flood of new players from overseas and five new clubs have transformed Canada's National Soccer League into a big-time affair with visions of even more expansion in the future.

Previously a 10-team, all-Toronto setup, the league now also sports three Montreal teams and two in Hamilton.

Attendance last year was 250,000 and league officials predict 350,000 or 400,000 this season in the 210-game schedule. The intercity rivalry and the large number of top-notch players imported from Britain and Europe recently may turn the trick.

For example, Polish White Eagles — a Toronto club which despite its name is studded with British players under a Polish executive — this season have added Ian McKenzie from Arbroath in Scotland, Eddie Grant, who played for Sheffield United, and Len Wilkins, ex-Southampton player.

New Look

Toronto's Ulster United, the oldest soccer team in Canada, is sporting a new look, too. Organized 46 years ago, the Red Handers have acquired Jimmy Feeney, a former Irish international, as playing coach. He performed with Linfield of the Irish League and Swansea Town before coming to Canada a few months ago.

Other newcomers with Ulster include Gord Cameron and Bill Fraser, both from St. Johnstone of the Scottish League, and Jimmy Neill, who played with Distillery in the Irish Senior League.

Most of the other clubs have similar highly-rated additions.

The league's search for talent has been noted in Britain. The London Daily Mirror recently said many of England's soccer professionals playing in the Third Division may wind up in Canada.

The Mirror said "Canada hopes to reap a harvest of surplus soccer players this season when the English League reorganizes itself into four divisions."

The newspaper added that Canadian teams are offering housing accommodation and a return ticket if the players don't make good. That isn't quite the case, National League teams say.

The clubs usually provide the player's fare to Canada and see that he gets a job. That — for the record — is all but it's been reported that most or all of the players receive a fee for each game played.

The National League, an amateur outfit, had its beginning in Toronto in the early 1920's and enjoyed fluctuating periods of prosperity and famine until it was reorganized as a five-team group in 1949.

Since then it has gradually expanded and improved in quality with the influx of overseas players.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Just take a few, simple pre-trip precautions, and you'll find your summer vacation driving can be a "breeze," I believe it's just as important for motorists to have their cars tuned up before taking a trip as it is for orchestras to "tune up" before a concert.

Therefore, before you start your summer driving, take the car to your service station for a thorough service job. Proper lubrication is essential if you want to have your car in tip-top shape, according to Shell Oil engineers. By lubrication, I don't mean just a "grease job" and a change of oil. Be sure the station you pick has up-to-date information on the changing lubrication needs of new and older car models, as well as service charts.

Your battery is the heart of your car, so have it thoroughly tested before a trip. Have the entire ignition and fuel systems gone over. Have your steering mechanism checked for "play", or "shimmy." If you have to press down more than two inches on your brake pedal before the brakes take effect, they probably need servicing. Have your tires checked for wear and proper pressure. Make sure your headlights, tail-lights and windshield wipers are in good working order. Remember to check spare tire and car tools before leaving.

Lindsay bullfights raise controversy

Lindsay, Ont. (CP) — With bullfights planned for the start of August, Lindsay residents should be ready for anything now. The latest proposal is to import kangaroos and aborigines and stage an old-fashioned Australian rodeo some time next summer.

The Chamber of Commerce reports it's been receiving dozens of letters of support for its plan to stage bloodless bullfights August 2 and 4. People are asking for tickets for the fights, which made some local ministers and politicians see red when they were proposed.

As letters of support for the fights piled higher than letters of protest, Paragon Theatres of Winnipeg wrote to say they are interested in staging the bullfights elsewhere in Canada. They asked where they can find the necessary matadors and bulls.

And, they wrote: "We should mention that we are presently negotiating for a genuine Australian rodeo, complete with kangaroos and aborigines. It's quite possible that we would work with you on this. If not this year, perhaps next."

Professional figure skater Ellen Burka, of Toronto, an afficionado who saw her first bullfight in Spain, said in her letter, "If people are against bull-fighting they should not eat meat at all. There is no more suffering involved for the bull than for the cattle that are shipped and killed in abattoirs."

The Local Farm Scene

Sheep raising — Canadian practices considered to be 'in the pioneer stage'

"Where are your sheep?" . . The question was asked by puzzled British livestock farmers after completing a tour through Ontario and Quebec.

They expected to see open farm land carrying numerous herds and flocks, and were amazed at what they considered a lost opportunity to make farming pay high dividends.

In a later discussion at Ottawa with J. W. Graham, livestock specialist, Canada Department of Agriculture, the men were not convinced that Canadian farmers are making the most of their opportunities.

With British sheep men, cross-breeding is the main interest in commercial production. Of several popular crosses, from the outstanding one is the Scotch Half-bred ewe, the Border Leicester ram and Cheviot ewe. This cross is now the basis of most commercial flocks throughout the British Isles. Not only in Britain, but in Australia and New Zealand and throughout Europe this breed has proved to be the most popular improver yet developed.

Lambing percentages of 150 to 200 percent are commonplace to British commercial sheepmen, with many now aiming at higher levels. Attention is now being given three-lamb crops in two years by natural selection and use of breeds lambing out of the usual season, or by the use of hormones.

Improved methods of rotational grazing now under trial appear to offer a method of complete freedom from internal parasites, while the flock size is normally in the hundreds — 300 to 400 head being common.

Market objective is a carcass of 40 pounds in 20 weeks or less, and this has been attained by many producers.

Production and progeny testing are used to sort out the high performers. These are practical measures within the means of any operator.

Said Mr. Graham: "Against this background of intensive intelligent and remunerative sheep operation in matters of breed use, good husbandry and pasture management, Canadian practices may be considered still in the pioneer stage.

"Our small flocks on only one in every 20 farms, either pure bred or grade, fall short of their possibilities."

He predicted that flocks of not less than 100 head of planned cross-bred stock, used complementary to cattle on fertilized and rotated pastures, could rejuvenate the farming industry in less than half a decade.

With quadrupled revenues from the flock, he pointed out, the usual excuses of high fencing costs, dog losses and so forth, would soon fade into insignificance. Britain has these problems, too, but her national flock is increasing and her husbandry practices are becoming more intensive.

"We have all the main British breeds needed to develop highly productive cross-bred flocks," Mr. Graham said. "What we need is the realization that we are in farming to make the highest possible return per acre, and that sheep can be fitted into almost any farming practice.

"In the era ahead, with mechanization and larger farm units inevitable, the need for maximum acre return is imperative. The practical way to ensure this is by including a commercial sheep flock in livestock operation."

Canada on way to eradicating bovine tuberculosis

Tuberculosis in Canadian cattle has been reduced to less than two-tenths of one percent, and will eventually be stamped out, Dr. A. E. Lewis, associate chief veterinarian, Canada Department of Agriculture, told a Michigan State University conference on tuberculosis eradication recently.

First tuberculin tests were carried out in Canada about 1900 and incidence of the disease was recorded as high as 20 percent in some areas. It has dropped to a low of 0.14 — the percentage of reactors uncovered during the last fiscal year.

"Although we encounter many problems," he said, "we are convinced that we will eventually eradicate the disease."

Dr. Lewis traced the history of Canada's fight against bovine tuberculosis to the first eradication plan, adopted in 1913 and known as the Supervised Herd Plan. Under it, owners could have an annual herd test without charge. Reactors were removed from the herd without compensation.

The Restricted Area Plan started in 1923 and all Canada came under it in 1952, at which time the supervised herd plan was discontinued.

In restricted areas, testing of all cattle is mandatory and reactors must be slaughtered immediately. When cattle with the disease are removed from a herd, the owner must clean and disinfect his premises. Then he receives compensation from the Federal government.

This Restricted Area plan provides for the controlled movement of cattle into an area, preventing the introduction of infected animals, Dr. Lewis explained.

The only other policy followed on a national level involves the Accredited Herd Plan. Strictly voluntary, it is open only to owners with a minimum of 10 pure bred cattle of one breed. Its standards are high "since the plan is intended only for bona fide breeders."

When reactors are found, owner sales and purchases over the past two years are studied. All herds from which reactor animals originate and all animals sold are submitted to a special re-test. Reactors are immediately ordered slaughtered.

Dr. Lewis said that in dealing with the export of cattle to the United States every precaution is taken to ensure that only animals free from tuberculosis are shipped.

Veal production

Ottawa — Tests to determine the effect on veal production of crossing beef bulls with dairy cows are currently underway at the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa. Shorthorn, Holstein, and Shorthorn x Holstein bull calves are being compared.

To date, Holsteins have been the heaviest at birth and the first to market. Crossbreds have been intermediate between Shorthorns and Holsteins.

Calves are purchased prior to five days of age from district farmers, pail-fed whole milk at approximately fifteen percent of body weight and are offered a limited amount of calf starter ration.

All calves are fed to 210 pounds, slaughtered, and government grades obtained on the carcasses. Complete carcass and cut-out data are secured on all calves as they are marketed through a local retail outlet.

Purina-fed Calves Top Lachute Fair

I have not enquired as to the exact number of wins Purina-fed calves made for the Calf Club boys and girls, but I do know that MOST of the top winners were Purina-fed.

Of course, I am not saying they topped their classes only through being Purina-fed, because you also have to consider that the type of animal has much to do with the prize-win. And the boy or girl who feeds and shows them is also a very important factor in the win; but nevertheless, the Purina Calf Feeding Plan did help get the top prizes, and those who plan to show calves next year had better use the Purina Plan if they wish to see the top of their classes.

Now, boys and girls, you did a splendid job of raising these calves so far. Now keep up the good work! Your calf has the urge to grow while it is young, so keep it growing. Don't let your calf rough it this summer and expect it to win next year on its reputation! That doesn't often work.

Those who do care and feed their calves, will be the winners next spring.

Feed them DRY & FRESHENING CHOW every day, all summer, three pounds a day; and in addition to winning the top prizes, you will have a heifer ready to milk heavily from 3-6 months younger, or you get 3-6 months longer milking life! That is where the profit comes in.

Your orders will have our prompt attention. Our prices are right, and we deliver.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons: but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all. — Edmund Burke

Brownsburg Road—Providence Avenue

IT IS PERHAPS a coincidence that the Quebec Women's Institutes, at their provincial convention last week, passed a resolution on a present point of controversy in this particular community. We mean their objection to the manipulation of place-names bearing historical significance — "often without the residents of the district being given an opportunity to register a protest."

Nearly 300 country women, from all parts of the older settled sections of Quebec, framed a petition to the Attorney General, that the Municipal Code and the Cities and Towns Act be amended so that no change can be made in the name of a locality or district without due notice to its residents, and that a full and proper inquiry be made in each instance by the Private Bills Commission, which would give such residents an opportunity to register a protest, if any.

We have seen these changes adopted in too many instances — fewer in this County than elsewhere, no doubt — to the indignation of those sentimentally attached to the district and its origins. Now another such instance has arisen, in the pending change of "Brownsburg Road" to the name "Providence Avenue", adopted but not yet applied by Ayersville Village within its limits. A councillor has threatened to resign over this issue, if the move is not rescinded.

We make no venture to interfere in the affairs of Ayersville Municipality. That any organization should influence the councillors to change a historic name within its boundaries, would appear to be the business of the municipality concerned. However, insofar as this is a provincial highway whose name serves a practical purpose of directing provincial traffic; and viewing the fact that Brownsburg is not merely a spot on the map, but a community named after the pioneer of industry and settlement there — we regard it as a breach of faith to change even a portion of this highway to any other name, without public approval from all segments of the community concerned.

We respectfully suggest that Ayersville Council think carefully before regulating matters which, both in sentiment and utility, extend beyond the limits of their local interest.

A Canadian dictionary

A DISTINCTIVELY Canadian dictionary is being compiled of words used in this country, borrowed from Britain, United States and elsewhere, their meanings and pronunciations. Some of the words will not be found in either the Oxford English Dictionary or any of the U.S. dictionaries commonly referred to in this country.

For example, the word "chesterfield" still to be found in Oxford, is out of fashion in the United Kingdom. Americans think the word is a brand-name for cigarettes and only in areas where there is a history of Canadian immigration will newspapers be found with advertisements that refer to "chesterfields" and not "sofas". The new dictionary also will make known that the word "beef", as used in referring to a complaint, is a Canadianism that originated in the beef country of southern Alberta. It also will list such distinctive Canadian terms as "Bennett buggy" and "separate schools".

Centre of activity for the new dictionary is the University of Alberta. Dr. M. H. Scargill, professor of English at the university, is the head of a committee which is working on the project, expected to be self-supporting after a year.

Enough words have been collected already to fill a 400-page dictionary of 25,000 words used by Canadians. But the scholars face months of research into a language that is affected by English as used in both Britain and the United States, as well as the occasional French-Canadian, Indian and European immigrant word.

A special appeal will go out this fall to citizens, high shool teachers and their students to be on the look-out for distinctive Canadian words. What is particularly sought is the considerable number of regional variations in speech — such as "slough" (pronounced "sloo" on the Prairies and usually "slau" in Eastern Canada). They also want to know what areas of the country refer to "a-quarter-to-eight" and "a-quarter-of-eight."

Some of the words already planned for the dictionary are "cariole" (a horse driven sleigh, of French-Canadian origin), "slake" (a cross between a speckled trout and a lake trout) and "mukluk" (a winter boot, originated by the Canadian Eskimo).

The planned dictionary will prove invaluable to the many New Canadians who have come to this country since the end of the Second World War, and is part of the growing awareness of Canada's stature as a nation.

Apathy makes juvenile adults

THERE'S A PARAGRAPH in one of Roy L. Smith's syndicated "Sunday School Lessons" which could be applicable in certain juvenile problems we are aware of in this town — "juvenile" problems, in Mr. Smith's conception, being only a modernized alibi for adult problems.

"A self-centred father, who resented any interference that questioned him when he did as he pleased, was accustomed to boast at his dinner table about how he had 'fixed' traffic tickets; used his 'influence down at the city hall' to evade the just penalties for his violation. And then, one day, when his teen-age son became involved in a sorry affair he wailed to high heaven, saying, 'What ever happened to the kid! I have given him every opportunity! And now he turns out like this'!"

And then there are some mighty sensible thoughts by Fred A. Hawden — the following paragraphs, for instance:

"I can remember when we had no 'juvenile delinquency' as we know it now. All self-respecting parents held themselves responsible for their own children. They taught them to respect themselves, and the rights of others. Also to do something useful. That I think is the key to the whole matter.

"There is nothing more deflating to the ego, and depressing to the spirit as futility, and nothing more inspiring to the spirit, and supporting to the ego than knowledge of accomplishment.

"What teen-agers need is not more entertainment and coddling, but an opportunity to learn to be men and women now while we can help them. If we will not let them try to be men and women in the right way, they will try in the wrong way, and then we call them 'Juvenile Delinquents'.

"Entertainment is O.K. in its place, but its place is as diversion, not as an occupation for either young or old.

"A good occupation must be something with a challenge. It must require exertion of the mind and body and inspire pride of accomplishment. That is what makes the young grow, and keeps the old alive. You don't see Scouts or 4-H Clubbers in juvenile courts. They have an occupation."

Maybe we need a new perspective toward the juvenile problem. Maybe it should centre on parents, who are too indifferent or too busy to accept the responsibility of living exemplary lives themselves, and of teaching their children to do likewise.

Viewpoints and perspectives

WE READ THAT the states of New York and California have passed laws forbidding motorists to hang teddy bears, baby shoes, oversized cotton dice and other such vision-obscuring junk from their rear-view mirrors or elsewhere on their windshields. Also, these two states and several others prohibit sticking travel stickers on either front or rear windows of a car.

We're in favor of such laws. The psychiatrists say the business of hanging toys on the windshield denotes a hangover of infantilism. We don't know about that; but such stuff should not clutter up the vision on an automobile when it's difficult enough at best to see all that a driver should see to prevent accidents.

What good is the $120 clear-vision windshield if the driver can't see through the clutter of a lot of toys hung in front of his face?

— Enid (Oklahoma) News

TIRED AND late for supper the other day, we drove 13 miles out of our way to reach our favorite restaurant in this area. We could have gone straight home, of course, but we felt the cook in the family also deserved a break and a change of scene. . . Imagine our dismay when we found the place closed, in accordance with a new schedule of hours posted in the window.

Staffs, cooks, waiters deserve time off. But we think a little judicious newspaper advertising in this case would have saved inconvenience and improved the prestige of this particular establishment. . . Try it, Mr. Businessman.

THERE IS ROOM for every Canadian university graduate to participate in a very direct and material way in building up Canada. Once we lose our young people to greener fields, it will be a long time before we can persuade them to return to us.

Slow Down and Live!

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

Recession or shake-down?

To the man out of work, we are having a recession. To the ordinary man, what is happening is a shake-down brought on by union demands.

Union leaders deliberately preach nonsense. They say that they ask bigger wages to increase purchasing power. They know higher wages mean higher prices — putting more men out of work, because consumers refuse to buy.

There is plenty of purchasing power in Canada. People are holding their money in the bank in protest against high prices. Those high prices are the result of high wages for poor or slow work.

I watched a basement excavation recently. Two men did the excavation, because it was a small job, an addition to a home. These men worked slowly. They loafed, to put it bluntly. They put the cost of that job up beyond reason. Fellows like that make the rest of us hesitate to buy a house or enlarge our old one. We know the price is bound to be high if men loaf on the job.

When prices of cars, homes and clothing get too high, people postpone their purchases. They drive the car another year; they put off enlarging the home; they wear that suit of clothes another season. When sales fall off, unemployment results. Those who have union jobs make very good money; but this doesn't help the man laid off.

I've been saying for the past five years that the unions, if they persist in boosting wages without working harder, would bring on a recession. That time has come. At least 80% of the blame for the present situation can be placed on the shoulders of union leaders in the United States. And when they have a recession down there, we suffer too.

Fortunately, rank and file workers in Canada see the truth. No longer do they believe everything union leaders say. Soon union members will demand more voice in what leaders do. Soon there will be secret balloting in unions. Soon Canadian workers will insist that Canadian union fees stay here in Canada, and that union decisions be made here. The union movement is due for a shake-down, and the leaders have brought it upon themselves.

Naturally, this does not apply to all unions. Some have shown good sense. As a result, their members are still at work, making reasonably good pay, because the prices of the products they turn out are competitive and consumers still buy them. If the automotive workers and a few others had used similar good sense and restraint, we might never have needed this shake-down.

Who were the baronets of Nova Scotia?

In 1621 James I granted to Sir William Alexander, a Scotsman, a strip of land in America known as Acadie, but which he called New Scotland. For two years Sir William devoted his time and money in an effort to start a stream of Scottish emigrants to the New World, but at the end of this time he found that he had lost £6000 in the venture.

It then occurred to Alexander that the expenses of his project might be supplied by "Baronets of Nova Scotia." Accordingly, in 1624, it was announced that New Scotland was to be divided into Baronies, each of which was to be three miles along the coast, ten miles deep, and to contain ten parishes. In return for a barony and the title of "Sir" the applicant was required to send to the colony six men, fully armed and equipped for two years and to pay 1000 Scottish marks to Sir William Alexander. The prospective baronets were to be chosen from Scots of gentle blood, of good reputation, and with a yearly income of not less than £1000.

More than 100 baronets were given patents, but the number never reached the 150 maximum. In the first year (1625), 20 baronets were recorded, but in the next few years the number of those applying for titles and those already listed as baronets steadily decreased until after the war with France only three baronets were recorded.

There were complaints from the older nobility in Scotland that the Nova Scotian baronets received precedence, and interfered with their ancient privileges. Then too, many of those who desired the honour did not wish to leave home, and they refused to pay Sir William's debts.

With Sir William Alexander's death in 1638 the importance of the knights baronets as a colonizing order ceased. Under the later Stuarts the number of baronets did increase, but Charles II gave them no land grants.

Upon the union of England and Sctland, and subsequently, Ireland, they became barons of Great Britain, but kept their distinctive badges until 1929.

All Aboard

with G. E. MORTIMORE

The juke-box people haven't had a dime of my money for 18 months. They manage to stay in business without my patronage. But I suspect that many other people, too, have lost their enthusiasm for coin-in-the-slot music.

I never was a big buyer for canned melodies. Once in a while, if a spendthrift mood came over me in a restaurant, I would summon up two or three tunes from the machine to go with dinner.

Now I don't even feel a mild temptation to buy a song. I don't think it's because I'm too old. The last time I checked, I still had all my senses and most of my teeth.

It's just because there's nothing on the juke-box program that I want. When somebody else pays, I don't mind listening. Now and then I will even tap my toes while the box sends out one of those numbers that all sound the same:

"A-rah-de-yah, a-rah-de-yah, a doomp boomp boomp boomp."

To me the majority of juke box tunes are mildly pleasant. They have a beat. But I don't like them enough that I will pay a dime to let them loose from the glass cage.

I'm told that the teen-age crowd has captured the record industry. Teen-agers buy most of the records. Therefore disc jockeys plug the tunes that will appeal to that group. And the same tunes dominate radio and juke box.

The canned music people and the radio broadcasters are said to be shrewd businessmen. I'm told that they know what they're doing, when they make their wild bid for the kid's pocket money.

But are they really so smart? With the possible exception of music and milk shakes, the bulk of goods are sold to grown-ups.

Setting aside 30 percent of broadcast music, 75 percent of the juke box program, for the high school set — that might be good business.

But handing over the whole market to one group makes no sense at all. I don't think the music vendors have figured it carefully. The notion of selling their product to the young has caught their eye, and they are following it in a flock.

I suspect that the music men, reputed to be so tough and tricky, are nothing but a bunch of sheep in wolves' clothing.

Complaint from St. Andrews on speeding autos

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

WAKE UP, CITIZENS OF ST. ANDREWS EAST!

When are we going to stop these jackasses speeding through our streets? It is incredible to think that this has been going on for years and nothing has been done about it. At least, so it appears.

There are still people in the world who do not own cars, and would enjoy a peaceful walk or a bicycle ride, if it were not for these abominable idiots who endanger our lives.

Let's do something about it before one of our loved ones is killed.

DEATHS

HOWELL — On June 24, 1958, after a long illness, in his 66th year at the Moncton General Hospital, N.B., Norman J. Howell, beloved husband of Ellice Palliser of Shediac, N.B., formerly of Lachute, Que.

St. Andrews man had retired from Northern Electric

Late Gordon A. Steeves

Funeral services were held last Wednesday for Gordon A. Steeves, former employment superintendent of Northern Electric Co. Ltd.

Born in Dover, N.B., Mr. Steeves was educated in Moncton. In his early life he was employed by the Moncton Transcript and various construction companies in eastern Quebec.

Mr. Steeves joined Northern Electric in 1911. He served overseas in the First World War, returning to Canada in 1919, becoming assistant supervisor in the company's employment department.

In 1921 he was appointed supervisor of the employment department, in 1930 secretary of the employees' benefit fund committee and in 1937 employment superintendent, holding this position until 1943. He continued as secretary of the benefit fund until his retirement in 1953.

Mr. Steeves was a life member of the Northern Electric Council of the Telephone Pioneers of America and Northern Electric Branch No. 37 of the Canadian Legion.

He had been living in St. Andrews East since his retirement.

A funeral service was held in Montreal; and burial took place at St. Andrews East.

Mr. Steeves is survived by his wife, the former Grace Sittlington.

Late A. Fassio was last member of show family

Former friends regret to note the death of Mr. Edward Adrien Fassio, which occurred last Wednesday, June 25, at the Notre Dame Hospital in Montreal.

"Addy", as he was known to his acquaintances, was associated with his brother, the late Angelo Fassio, in the theatre business here. He spent many years as a movie projectionist and engaged in film bookings. He was, in fact, associated with show business since his birth, being the last member of the Fassio family team which appeared on Old World vaudeville stages and on this continent.

Mr. Fassio died at the age of 59, leaving his wife (the former Blanche Lemay of Lachute) and his son, Edward. He is survived also by his sister-in-law, Mrs. A. Fassio, in Montreal, and a niece, (Berthe) Mrs. E. Cyr, of Montreal.

The funeral was held last Friday, with burial in the Montreal Memorial Park.

Wedding ceremony in United Church at Namur, Que.

Hills - Meyer

The marriage of Lona Evelyn, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Meyer, of Brookdale, Que., to Mr. Earl Knott Hills, of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hills, took place Saturday afternoon, June 21, at 2.30 p.m. in Namur United Church. The Rev. Donald Sterling officiated, assisted by the Rev. Herve Fines.

Miss Elaine Favier played the wedding music and Mr. Ben Fairbank sang "I'll Walk Beside You", during the signing of the register.

White peonies, mauve lilacs and sprays of spirea were used to decorate the church.

The bride, given away by her father, was in a white gown, having a fitted bodice of lace over satin, with cap sleeves and bouffant skirt of tulle, over satin, with a large bow at the back. She wore matching tulle mittens, and her short veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet of hand-crocheted flowers. She carried a bouquet of deep pink roses and stephanotis.

Miss Barbara Allan, as maid of honor, wore a frock of pale blue taffeta with deeper blue sash, matching mittens, and a bandeau of tiny bows, carrying a colonial bouquet of pink carnations.

Miss Joan Paisler, as bridesmaid, wore a frock of blue taffeta with pale blue sash, matching mittens, and bandeau of tiny bows; she carried a colonial bouquet.

Miss Christine Harvey, niece of the groom, was flower girl, wearing a light blue taffeta frock with deeper blue sash, matching mittens, and a bandeau of tiny bows, carrying a small basket of mixed flowers.

Mr. Earl Elder acted as best man for Mr. Hills. The ushers were Mr. Lloyd Meyer and Mr. Gene Monogram.

Mrs. Meyer, mother of the bride, wore a frock of printed blue satin with white and vanilla accessories, with a corsage of deep pink rosebuds. Mrs. Hills, mother of the groom, was in a two-piece ensemble of printed blue silk with white accessories, and wore a corsage of pink rosebuds.

A buffet supper for over 200 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Hills left on a motor trip to the U.S.A., the bride wearing a frock of pale blue plaid nylon, a white hat and navy blue accessories. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Hills will reside in St. Lambert.

Attends Baptist Youth conference

A young Brownsburg man, Wayne Petley, was one of those privileged to hear Prime Minister John Diefenbaker at the Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto on Monday, and to attend a banquet tendered to delegates at the fifth Baptist Youth World Conference. Petley was among 500 of the 16,000 delegates in attendance who were guests at this banquet. He is representing the Brownsburg Maple Avenue B.Y.P.U.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said, in the course of his speech, that a world police force was a necessary part of a four-point peace program to which Canada subscribes. The other three points were continuing negotiations for peace, a moral offensive and the removal of economic differences, he said.

"This is a formula for peace to which Canada adheres," he added. "While falling far short of Christian perfection, it is founded on the recognition of basic Christian principles — the practice of the golden rule, the responsibility of each nation — according to its talents of men and resources — to use these talents for the good of all mankind."

Arrives from France to Enter Business Here

Capt. Lucien A. Dumais, who has been absent from Canada since 1940, returned last week from France to enter business with his brother, Louis, at Hill Head (Au Vieux Domaine), where he will direct the Lachute Sand, Stone and Gravel enterprise on that property.

Back in the war years Lucien Dumais, already in the Army, "went over" with the Fusiliers Mont Royal as a sergeant, saw service in the North Africa campaign, and the Dieppe landing, and also in the British Intelligence Service. He was commissioned Captain and received the M.M. and M.C. for war services.

Questioned why he stayed so long, the visitor laughingly states they "forgot to tell him it was over". However, he has since revisited Canada, and now is back from France with his French wife and Paris-born daughter, and looking forward to re-establishing himself in this country.

Dedication of Bibles at Presbyterian Church in St. Andrews East

Last Sunday morning at the Presbyterian Church, St. Andrews East, there was a special ceremony for the dedication of Bibles for the use of the congregation. These copies of the Authorized Version were donated by Mr. Fraser Robertson in memory of his father, the late James Robertson, who had served as an elder in the Presbyterian Church in Canada for 41 years in Sherbrooke and Montreal. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson have shown a keen interest in the work of the church, Mr. Robertson being an elder in the Ephraim Scott Memorial Church, Montreal; and their son, Bruce, has completed the first year of his theological training in the Presbyterian College, Montreal.

In the service of dedication the minister, the Rev. W. Harold Reid, referred to the 119th Psalm, which states, "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path", and emphasized the need of Bible reading and study because the Scriptures are the only source of our knowledge of the will of God and the way of salvation as offered to us through the Lord Jesus Christ.

Dr. Reid, in accepting this generous gift on behalf of the congregation, said that the Bibles would be placed in the pews for use the first time at the Communion service to be held the following Sunday.

Efficient telephone needs $16-million revenue increase

Ottawa — An application seeking approval to increase telephone rates was filed last week with the Board of Transport Commissioners by Bell Telephone Company of Canada.

The proposed increases for residence telephone rates range from 10 to 45 cents per month, and for business service from 15 cents to $1.65 per month. Increases in some long distance charges are also requested. The proposed revisions in rates would affect the users of the company's telephone services throughout Ontario and Quebec. The hearing of the company's application will open in Ottawa on September 16.

In a letter to Bell Telephone shareholders, mailed under signature of Thomas W. Eadie, the company's president, it is stated that a gross increase in operating revenues of $16 million is being sought. In explaining why the company is again applying for revised rates, the letter says: "This company has an obligation to serve the public. To do so, we must retain the confidence of investors through a sound approach to financial as well as other management problems. Early rate relief is essential if we are to preserve this confidence, and to operate the develop our services in a way that will satisfy the needs of our customers.

"To achieve the level of earnings of $2.43 per share, which had been approved by the Board of Transport Commissioners, an increase in net income of some $8 million is required. Because of the effect of taxes, this necessitates a gross increase in operating revenues of $16-million."

The proposed increases in long distance rates — within Ontario and Quebec only — are largely in person-to-person calling.

Bell Telephone's present general level of rates became effective on March 1, 1952.

The company's application states that, under its present rate structure, net income for 1958 is estimated at $1.98 a share. The proposed revisions would increase net income to the level approved by the Board, which in its judgment of January 10, 1958, noted that the company maintained an average earning of $2.42 a share during the six-year period, 1952 through 1957.

Wage rates have been increased on the average by 3½ percent effective at the beginning of June. The application provides for revenues to cover this increased expense. In addition, the company is still faced with the increased costs that led it to apply for higher rates last August.

The summer job

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

A summer job often gives an older boy or girl not only money, but the chance to learn more about the choices of life work that lie ahead of them.

The decision about a vocation is one of the most important a young person makes. Often it is hard to persuade a teen-age boy to stay on at school and study for his metriculation, after tasting the satisfaction of money of his own earned on a summer job. Young people long to be independent, financially and otherwise, and one of the greatest services parents can perform for their children is to make staying on at school at attractive as possible. In later life a man or woman often bitterly regrets not being able to qualify for a particular job because of lack of education.

Some families are so hard pressed for money that the children must add to the income as soon as they are able, but nowadays the family allowance plan makes it possible for many children to remain at school until they are sixteen.

Scholarships and bursaries bring further study within the reach of many talented scholars and one of the resolutions of the National Conference on Education which met in Ottawa early this year dealt with an adequate student aid program from provincial and federal governments and industrial, business and other institutions.

A librarian at a public library will often recommend helpful reading on different vocations. Books on biography give interesting glimpses of people at work. "Famous Women" by Byrne Hope Saunders, published recently by Clarke Irwin, is an outstanding book of this type which would be a fine addition to a family library.

Parents need to be quietly helpful, understanding and yet not too dominant, as they watch their children choose their careers. Parents should guide, rather than arbitrarily select a vocation, for the world is full of men and women whose careers were chosen for them by parents, and who were miserable all their working days.

Even if older folk are disappointed by a young person's selection, they should comfort themselves with the thought they tried their best to guide their children aright. Many young persons are not sure what they want to do, and this period of indecision is hard on all concerned. Nevertheless, there should be no haste, and it may well be that the youngster would be well advised to try several jobs before making a final choice.

The first full-time job is of great importance to your son or daughter. The success of this work experience may color an adolescent's attitude to earning a living throughout the rest of his life.

On the day a boy or girl sets out to apply for a job, a mother should make certain the youth presents a good appearance. Clean, neat and suitable clothes make a favorable impression on the business executive. A pleasant manner and a quiet, self-confidence make a good impression, too. If the first job suits the requirements of the son or daughter, parents should do everything possible to encourage the youngster to apply himself and prepare for advancement.

There is a certain amount of drudgery to every job, and since tomorrow's promotion is built on today's honest labor, the young employee should adapt himself to his work, determined to do the drudgery with the same thoroughness that he would give to a well-liked piece of work. In time, the drudgery will quietly fade to the background and the youngster then will attack these unattractive pieces of work as just something that is a part of the day's work.

After the youngster has settled down to his job parents can make an important contribution by making his home life as pleasant as possible, by showing an interest in the many facets of his work, by encouraging him to put everything he has into the job, so that when the time for promotion draws near he will be ready for a better job.

When this achievement has been reached, the youngster will have his foot on the bottom ladder of success, and parents will rejoice that they had a hand in preparing him.

Pineapple on the square

At the time of the year when we're reminded of the tropics, it might be a good idea to bring a touch of the tropics to the menu as well. We can think of no better way of doing this than by serving this delectable yeast-raised pastry that's made with pineapple, along with tall glasses of iced tea or coffee or a fruit-ade. These delectable pineapple squares have a delicate yeast-raised crust on top and bottom, and boast a luscious pineapple-flavored custard-y filling. They're delicious served warm as dessert or delightful chilled and cut into fingers for a party. There are two factors which offset the cost of the ingredients: the large yield and the good eating qualities of the finished product.

Pineapple Squares

(Yield — one large shallow cake)

Filling — ½ cup granulated sugar, 3 tablespoons corn starch, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 egg yolk, ½ cup water, 1 can (20 ounces) crushed pineapple.

Crust — ½ cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon granulated sugar, 1 envelope active dry yeast, 2½ cups once-sifted all-purpose flour, 1 cup butter or margarine, 4 egg yolks.

For the filling, combine the ½ cup sugar, corn starch and salt in a saucepan; mix in the one egg yolk, then gradually blend in the ½ cup of water and pineapple. Cook, stirring constantly, until filling is thick and comes to the boil. Set pan in ice water to chill.

For the crust, measure lukewarm water into bowl; stir in the 1 teaspoon sugar. Sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well.

Meantime, sift all-purpose flour into a large mixing bowl; cut in butter or margarine until mixture looks like coarse crumbs. Beat the 4 egg yolks until thick and light; stir into dissolved yeast. Make a well in dry ingredients; add liquids and combine thoroughly — dough will be soft and moist. Divide dough into 2 portions, one a little larger than the other. Turn out larger portion on floured board or canvas and roll out to a rectangle 11 x 16 inches. Fit sheet of dough into a greased jelly roll pan (10½ x 15½ inches), bringing it up and just over pan edges. Spread chilled filling over dough. Roll out remaining dough into a rectangle 10 x 15 inches and place over filling; seal edges with a fork. Cut decorative slits in top. Cover with a tea towl and let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 45 minutes. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375°F.) until dough is cooked and golden — about 45 minutes. While still warm, frost top with the following Confectioners' Sugar Glaze.

Confectioners' Sugar Glaze

1 Cup sifted icing sugar, ¼ teaspoon vanilla, milk.

Combine icing sugar, vanilla and sufficient milk to make a thin icing.

Apricot supply more plentiful

Each year more and more Canadians are getting to know and enjoy the distinctive flavor of golden ripe apricots. Because there have been such great strides in packing and shipping methods used for this delicate British Columbia fruit, fresh apricots are now available for a few weeks each season not only in Western Canada but in most eastern cities, as well. Another reason for the wider distribution of apricots is the increase in production which has risen in a short ten-year period, from 116,000 bushels in 1947 to the best crop on record, 361,000 bushels in 1957.

The attractive color and slightly bland flavor of apricots makes them perfect for combining with other fruits in salad plates and fruit cocktails. They are every bit as good on their own, too, simply sliced and served with cream, or stewed in a sugar syrup, or used in shortcakes, pies or tarts, fruit whip and upside-down cake.

Because apricots are such a popular fruit, you'll want to have some on hand during the winter. For easy-to-follow instructions on the canning and freezing of apricots and for making apricot jam, write to the Information Service, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and ask for the free bulletins "Freezing Foods", "Home Canning" and "Jams, Jellies and Pickles". All of the procedures and recipes in these bulletins have been tested and approved in the Consumer Section kitchens.

Last year during the apricot season, the home economists in Canada's kitchen made up several batches of apricot conserve from different recipes. In a taste panel held there recently, the judges unanimously chose the conserve made from this recipe. Why don't you try it? Canadian apricots will be in season during July and part of August.

3 Medium oranges, 1 cup water, 1 6-ounce bottle maraschino cherries, 8 cups unpeeled apricots cut into small pieces, 8 cups sugar, ½ cup blanched almonds cut into pieces (optional).

Slice oranges very thinly, then cut slices into quarters. Place in kettle, add water, cover and simmer until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain cherries, reserving juice. To the cooked oranges add apricots, sugar and juice from cherries, then cook, uncovered, until thickened, about 30 minutes. Add cherries, cut in quarters, and almonds and cook 5 minutes longer. Pour into hot sterilized jars. Cool slightly and seal with paraffin.

QWI resolution on food product

A resolution dealt with at the recent annual convention of the Quebec Women's Institutes was on vitaminized apple juice. In view of the fact that the production of apple juice is a native industry, that nearly all the pack is now vitaminized (94% at the end of 1957), and that by government regulation it contains the required amount of vitamin "C" (equivalent to that of citrus fruit juices), members of the Q.W.I. ask that the Canadian Council on Nutrition endorse the use of vitaminized apple juice, and would like to have it included in Canada's Food Rules.

Earlier in the spring a survey had been conducted by the convener of Agriculture, Mrs. G. A. David, Cowansville. Reporting on this at the convention, Mrs. David stated that members recommend a 10 ounce size can of vitaminized apple juice in addition to the regular family size. It was felt this would be popular with smaller families or elderly people living alone, as well as the business girl.

Other suggestions made were that it might make the product more attractive to consumers if the apple juice were bottled like soft drinks, or have a more attractive label on the can clearly marked "Vitamin C". Parents should be aware of its nutritive value and make it available to their children in place of soft drinks.

Mrs. David concluded her report by saying, "Let us be more enthusiastic in boosting our own Canadian product instead of buying imported ones."

Teatime Topics

Written Specially for The Lachute Watchman

By Edna Usher

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Plenty is heard about the "good club man", the hearty fellow who does good in his community. Now the "club girl" is on the scene, with a different approach.

"The Club Girl in Today's World" was among topics at a conference of about 200 members of the 4-H Home-making clubs at Guelph, Ont., recently. The girls, mostly between 16 and 21, were chosen to attend for their outstanding work with 4-H clubs in their own areas.

They saw demonstrations of flower arrangement, cooking and other homecraft topics, and will pass on the information to their home clubs.

The 4-H clubs (it stands for head, heart, hand and health) are study and work clubs open to members between 12 and 26, and operate chiefly in rural areas.

The good club girl, say booklets issued by the home economics service of the Ontario agriculture department, knows how to dress well; she entertains, stands on guard (by taking an interest in family and community health) and likes gardens.

New Cookbook

In New Brunswick, the home economics association has published a book that may turn out a best seller. It's a cookbook of New Brunswick recipes — some of them unique in their use of the province's native wild greens.

There are recipes for dandelion and mustard greens, for instance, and fiddle heads, samphire and goose tongue greens.

Fiddle heads are the young curled fronds of the ostrich fern that grows along brooks and streams. Samphire greens grow in clusters on salt marshes, where goose tongue greens also grow.

A blueberry pancake recipe made with buttermilk and served with New Brunswick maple syrup looks particularly appetizing.

Proceeds from sale of cookbooks will establish a scholarship fund for high school students interested in home economics as a career.

Cooking Beans

The summer crop of beans is just about at its best at this time of year. Fresh-picked beans do not need much preparation for cooking — just wash them and snap off the ends. They can be used whole, cut into one-inch chunks or cut diagonally into longer pieces.

Beans should be cooked either by boiling or pressure cooking.

To boil six cups of beans, place them in a saucepan, sprinkle with a teaspoon of salt, add a cup of boiling water, cover tightly and boil gently for 10 minutes. Then add two tablespoons of butter and cook uncovered until beans are tender (four to six minutes).

To pressure-cook the same amount of beans, pour half a cup of water into a three-and-a-half quart pressure saucepan; place beans on rack in pan and sprinkle with one teaspoon of salt. Cook at 15 pounds pressure for one-and-a-half to two minutes. Reduce pressure immediately by holding saucepan under a stream of cold water. Remove pressure immediately by holding saucepan under a stream of cold water. Remove beans and add two tablespoons of butter.

Malice Aforethought

An insurance agent, writing a policy for a cowpuncher, asked if he had ever had any accidents.

"No," said the cowboy, then added, trying to be helpful, "a bronc kicked in a couple of my ribs and a rattlesnake bit me a couple of years ago."

"Well!" said the agent. "Don't you call those accidents?"

"No," replied the knight of the branding iron, "they done it a-purpose."

12 District retail stores link with national chain

Mayor gives civic send-off with reception Monday at Town Hall

A mayoral reception was held Monday morning at the town hall, to give official blessing to the merchants of this district who have become members of the Best-Valu Supermarkets chain. Mayor Léopold Carrière extended civic greeting and invited the guests to sign the golden book.

Mayor Carrière congratulated the businessmen in grouping themselves with this grocery chain as a buyers' co-operative. In this step, he said, they would not only be promoting their own interests but would be bringing benefit of lower prices to the consumer. He assured them all possible collaboration on the part of the municipal council.

Speaking for the group, Theodore (Ted) Vachon thanked the authorities for their welcome and their encouragement to progressive business methods. "This reception", he said, addressing the mayor, "demonstrates your interest in local affairs and the welfare of our townspeople."

Accompanying the district merchants were Paul Gosselin, supervisor for the Best-Valu Supermarkets, and Ruben Palef, coproprietor of Ottawa Fruit Supply Ltd. — both from Ottawa.

Announcement of the affiliation of Associated Merchants with the Best-Valu chain was made last week by Mr. Vachon. This cooperative embraces 60 merchants in the area, of whom about a dozen are operating in this immediate district, including Lachute, Brownsburg, St. Philippe, St. Andrews and Grenville. Total membership of the chain across Canada includes nearly 700 retailers. The operation of the local stores under this co-operative plan commences officially today (Wednesday).

Suspected case in diminishing rabies epidemic

The first case of near-positive rabies in some time was reported Monday by Steve Blair, of the Blair Bros.' Baycroft Farm, St. Andrews East, who turned-over the carcass of a fox he had killed to Federal veterinarian P. G. Chabot. The latter sent the animal's brain to the federal laboratories for positive identification of the disease.

The animal was shot Sunday morning when Steve entered the cow stable accompanied by their pure-bred Collie which, immediately on entering the stable, commenced barking and engaged in battle with the fox. The intruder was at that time near the calf-pen.

Mr. Blair ran for the house and, returning with a .22 calibre rifle, fired three shots into the head of the fox. At this time the fox was standing several feet from the dog, the two animals "spitting" and menacing each other. While some fur is missing from the Collie's neck, there is no indication he was bitten by the fox, and the owners are awaiting the laboratory report on the suspected fox.

Rigaud senator's national flag found premature

Ottawa — The law clerk of the Senate of Canada has under study the problem of whether or not a senator has the right to fly a flag from the window of his office.

The senator in question, Hon. Vincent Dupuis, a Liberal appointed for the Rigaud district of Quebec in 1945, hung his own version of the Canadian flag out of his third-floor front office window before leaving for dinner on Dominion Day last week.

There, reminiscent of the cartoon caption "They're all out of step except me," it flew among the Canadian red ensigns and Union Jacks which had been put out for the celebrations.

The thousands gathered on Parliament Hill to listen to a band concert had scant opportunity, however, to gaze upon the senator's flag with the green Maple Leaf in the upper left corner and the eleven stripes in red, white and blue to represent the 10 provinces and the territories.

On the request of an RCMP sergeant, the chief of the Senate protective staff had the flag removed. When the senator strolled out after dinner to admire his ensign, it was gone.

The Senate had hardly opened its evening sitting before Senator Dupuis was up on his feet to demand the reason why. Senate Speaker Mark Derouin suggested it might be necessary to find out if the territorial rights of Rigaud (if it has any) extend to the senator's office in the centre block.

Contest Monday in Grenville Prot. school municipality

A contest for commissioner's seat on the board of Grenville Protestant School Muncipality comes up next Monday, July 14 — following the nomination, July 7, of two candidates, M. R. Robinson and Richard Young. The vacancy occurs with the expiry of Mr. Robinson's term as commissioner, and this is the first time in several years that there has been a school board contest in this municipality.

M. R. Robinson, of Calumet, is a provincial government inspector, while Richard Young is a foreman with Canadian Refractories Ltd.

Voting will be held at the Town Hall in Calumet, commencing at 8 a.m.; Harold G. Brannan has been appointed officer of the election, all Protestant property-holders in the school municipality being eligible to vote.

(It may be noted in the Election Act, that Section 145, pertaining to school board elections, states as follows: "If, at any time after voting has commenced, one hour elapses without any votes having been polled, the presiding officer shall close the election.")

FIREMEN RAZE CNR HOUSES IN TESTS

Montreal — Firemen from many parts of the Montreal area took part in tests and demonstrations of new fire fighting techniques, during which seven houses, owned by Canadian National Railways, were burned down.

The houses, in Montreal West, had to be removed to make way for an extension of CNR trackage, so instead of having them demolished, the railway turned the houses over to a committee formed by the Quebec Province Fire Commissioner to study the application of new fire fighting methods.

PAINT THEIR WAY THROUGH COLLEGE

Here's how a couple of ambitious students are earning money this "job-scarce" summer to put them through another year at the University of Saskatchewan, reports The Financial Post. . .

Stan Lerner, second-year law, and Bud McLean, third-year engineering, are offering to paint house numbers on curbs.

The students say the 3½-inch numerals in black enamel paint should last five years. Cost to homeowner, one dollar.

Note to other students: There's a $3 million market potential in this gimmick across Canada!

Annual meeting of Woods Developm't Association

Montreal — The farm woodlot has in the past been "a relatively neglected segment of our economy," Vernon E. Johnson, president of the Morgan Arboretum and Woodland Development Association, declared at the annual meeting of the Association, held July 7 at the Arboretum chalet.

Mr. Johnson, president of Canadian International Paper Company, pointed to the fact that a properly managed woodlot can provide a steady cash income for its owner, and predicted that in future years " a far greater percentage" of the raw material consumed by the wood-using industries would come from the private woodlot.

Mr. Johnson described the Arboretum as "a great outdoor laboratory, where modern techniques of woodlot management can be demonstrated at first hand to the students of Macdohald College who will go on in later years — as practical woodlot farmers — to put them into effect."

Mr. Johnson said the most important development of the past year was the action of McGill University in establishing the department of woodlot management as a permanent part of its Faculty of Agriculture.

Dr. William H. Brittain, curator of the Arboretum, presented his annual report and described the lessons for Canada in the development of a vast forest industry in the Southern United States, which he observed at first hand during a recent month-long inspection trip covering eight states.

An intensive educational campaign has been conducted in the South to encourage better woodlot management among private landowners, resulting in the rapid spread of the tree-farming movement. Dr. Brittain called for the stepping up of similar educational efforts in Canada.

A. R. C. Jones, lecturer in woodlot management, described the increasing amount of extension work carried on by his department, and the growing number of requests for information and assistance.

The Association is supported both by pulp and paper companies with operations in Quebec, and by private individuals interested in woodland conservation. There are 160 members of the Association.

Police attention to traffic offences and juveniles in theatres and grills

Chief Fernand Trépanier, presenting his monthly report on the town department, informed the Council that special surveillance of movie theatres had been continued through June, and that a report is being forwarded to the provincial department on three infractions, all by the same establishment.

Regarding the exclusion of underage customers from public dance halls and grills, there was a notable improvement in co-operation from the proprietors, and the Chief believed the law was now being observed.

The Chief reported that in the second week of June an innovation was introduced in local traffic patrol. A plain-clothes officer is now posted at spots concerning which there had been frequent complaints (notably on disregard of stop-signs and pedestrian rights), and as a result to date, 90 drivers or owners will have to pay the prescribed fines.

Flood damage claim hangs fire in Ayersville Council

No development in street-naming impasse with Councillor D. Simon

Routine matters occupied the Ayersville councillors at their regular monthly meeting, with two members absent (Messrs. Wilfrid Durocher and Douglas Simon) and Mayor Maurice Champagne in the chair.

Accounts totalling $650.18 were approved for payment. Grocery retail permits were granted to Louis Demers and Gérard Proulx. A streetlight installation was approved for Bradford Avenue.

Councillor Maurice Dumas, recently elected to replace Councillor Aurélien Foucault, was named to the Health and Public Assistance committee, also chairman of the Public Works committee.

A letter was read from a Bradford Avenue resident, Mme Bernadette Ranger, who for several years has claimed damages to her property through overflowing of a drain. In January 1952, it was claimed, her basement was seriously flooded and the masonry cracked. However, last fall several councillors visited her premises and concluded that the foundation was insecure due to too-shallow footing, and that the damage was due to frost rather than flooding.

The claim in this case amounts to over $2,000. Mayor Champagne felt that the municipality should accept a certain responsibility but should treat the matter on its merits, it should be determined to what extent the corporation was responsible. He suggested that Zenephon Plouffe, special inspector of watercourses, be asked to attend a council meeting and give his expert advice.

Successful show under auspices of Art Association

St. Andrews East — Over two hundred people took advantage of the opportunity to view a group of pictures by amateur artists which were on exhibition for one week, June 28 to July 5, in the Municipal Hall, St. Andrews East.

Twenty-three of the paintings were the work of Mr. Don Titman of Lachute, the remaining 20 being from the brushes of Mr. Armand Boudreau of Montreal and Mr. Fraser Robertson of St. Andrews East. The pictures were colorful, and showed a pleasing variety of subject and treatment. The exhibition attracted much interest, as was evidenced by the pleasure and appreciation expressed by the large number who attended.

The event was held under auspices of the Argenteuil Art Association.

Amendment on leashing of dogs; 'Welcome' sign, warning attached

The recreation committee (Les Loisirs) of St. Julien Parish — operating a playground at the St. Julien school — received a grant of $200 from the municipal exchequer, on recommendation of Ald. Wilfrid Morrissette, seconded by Ald. Nelson Lepage. The grant was approved unanimously at the July session of Council, all members being present with the exception of Ald. Gérard Lefebvre. Mayor Léopold Carrière presided.

A petition signed by nine of the dozen proprietors on Fern Street, requesting water and sewer service, was presented by Gordon Cruise. Mayor Carrière gave the estimated cost as $4,800 for installation over a stretch of 585 feet. The property-holders agreeing to pay cash for their portion of the expense, the committee was authorized to proceed with this work without delay. Aldermen Morrissette and Pollock sponsored the motion.

The Quebec Society for Infirm Children was authorized to hold a canvass in town.

Ald. Mozart Carrière, speaking for Police Chief F. Trépanier, made a request that Council should draw attention of the proper authorities to the heroism displayed by rescuers of young Robert Belanger from the North River, and suggested some recognition he accorded.

The roads department was authorized to spend $1,500 for asphalt to surface St. Jacques Street and part of Sydney, besides other odd stretches if the supply is sufficient.

Accounts for the month totalled $20,421.49; these were duly approved.

Two Welcome signs are to be erected on Route 8 at the east and west approaches to Lachute. The signboards, costing $55.10 each, will be inscribed, "Welcome to Lachute — Speed Supervised".

Following a notice of motion given by him at the preceding meeting, Ald. Mozart Carrière moved an amendment to By-law 117, to require the leashing or control of dogs within the town limits from April 15 to October 15.

Building permit was granted to Gilles Fournier, for a house on Cruise Boulevard, and Ald. Edgar Pollock was named pro-mayor for the ensuing three months. In conclusion, it was requested by Ald. Nelson Lepage that the police authorities insist on the enforcement of By-law 197 which prohibits the wearing of "Bermuda shorts" on the thoroughfares or in public places.

Nomination for council vacancy in East Ward

Ald. Ross Muir, whose resignation leaves vacancy in Council

Mayor Léopold Carrière informed Town Council, at its regular July sitting, that nominations for the East Ward vacancy left by the resignation of Alderman Ross Muir would be held next Monday, July 14. If an election contest becomes necessary, this will be set for the following Monday, July 21.

When Ald. Muir tendered his resignation at a previous meeting, Council declined to accept it. On Mr. Muir's insistence, however, it was moved last Wednesday by Ald. W. Morrissette, seconded by Ald. E. O. Pollock, that the resignation be accepted. Ald. Muir was re-elected by acclamation last February, for a two-year term, as representative for Seat 2 of the East Ward.

The Mayor regretted to inform the Council that, despite a personal interview with Mr. Muir, the latter had remained definite in his decision.

Contest for seat on Lachute Cath. school commission

New boundaries to West Ward, scene of commissioner contest

Property-owners in West Ward will be called upon to vote next Monday in an election for a Catholic School Commission vacancy.

Nominations were held Monday. Albert Legault, retiring commissioner was returned by acclamation; but Dr. Roger Lavigne, terminating his mandate in seat No. 5 met opposition on his re-nomination — the second candidate being Edouard Vivarais, Roads Department truck operator.

Procedure of voting is somewhat different from previous years; those eligible to vote this time are only the proprietors of West Ward and of that part of St. Jerusalem Parish adjacent to West Ward. Previously the school municipality has been divided into wards of the same boundaries as the Council representation. In the last term these have been represented by Albert Legault and Dr. Lavigne (west), Gerard Lefebvre and Gaetan Leclair (centre), and Fernand Legault, Q.C. (east). The latter has served as chairman.

Voting will be held from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. (Advanced Time) at l'Ecole Supérieure. The School Commission secretary, Réal Urbain, is presiding officer.

Midnight hold-up and robbery at Cottingham farm residence

Hooded bandit trio stage coup in quiet Hill Head countryside

Provincial Police are still on the look-out for three armed and hooded bandits who, early last Thursday morning, broke into the residence of the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Hill Head, and, holding Mrs. Cottingham and his son Howard at point for close to an hour, made good their escape with an envelope containing approximately $240 and two diamond rings belonging to Mrs. Cottingham. . . The Hon. Mr. Cottingham was absent from home at the time.

Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen, of the Provincial Police reports the incident occurred at approximately 12.30 a.m. Thursday, when both occupants of the house were asleep. Mrs. Cottingham was awakened by breaking glass and as she was getting up to investigate, three men whose heads were covered with white hoods and at least two of them openly carrying revolvers, burst into her bedroom.

One of the men left immediately for the bedroom occupied by her son, Howard, and waking him, demanded to know exactly where the money was hidden. Getting no immediate response from either, they searched the upstairs rooms, after which they were informed a small safe was located in the basement.

One of the bandits left for the cellar and carried the safe to Mrs. Cottingham's room, where she was forced to open it. The thieves rifled the safe, taking an envelope containing some $240, and two diamond rings, leaving other jewellery. Before leaving the house 55 minutes after the break-in, the trio ripped out all telephones in the house and tied the hands and feet of both Mrs. Cottingham and Howard, leaving them on the beds. The latter managed to get loose and, untying his mother, summoned Provincial Police from the home of Elvine Prophet, a neighbor.

Investigation, which is continuing showed that the bandits' car left the Cottingham farm, headed towards Lachute, turned left at the sawmill and took the dirt road to Gordonville, and from there across the St. Jerome highway through Ste. Scholastique.

Patrols at all bridges leading onto the Island of Montreal were notified, but this measure brought no immediate results.

Shipping interests find Seaway tolls too high

Ottawa (CP) — Officially recommended tolls for the St. Lawrence Seaway were announced in the Commons recently. They are designed to pay off in 50 years the $471,000,000 cost of building the waterway.

The rate suggestions, tabled by Transport Minister Hees, came from the toll committees of the Canadian Seaway Authority and the United States Seaway Development Corporation.

Lionel Chevrier, Liberal Commons member for Mont Laurier and a former president of the Authority, told the Commons the recommendations seem attractive.

But in Toronto, a spokesman for the Dominion Marine Association expressed Association opposition because they are too high. The Association represents 90 percent of Canadian ship owners.

The recommendations include a lower rate for domestic than for foreign package freight. Package freights between Canadian points and between U.S. points would get the same rate as bulk cargo. This is less than half the rate for general cargo.

The Canadian committee said the cut is needed to enable water-borne package freight to compete with rail and truck carriers operating on parallel routes.

Accident verdict in St. Philippe pedestrian fatality

A jury empanelled by District Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur deliberated at Lachute Town Hall last Wednesday on the traffic death of Adrien Rochon, 73, of St. Philippe, and relieved of all blame the driver involved in this incident, Léo Dubois, 50, of Ste. Therese. . . It is recalled, at 8.15 on the evening of May 4, the elderly villager was struck while crossing the road at St. Philippe d'Argenteuil, where he was returning home from church. The victim, taken to the Hotel Dieu in Montreal, died of his injuries on June 21.

The driver, Mr. Dubois, stated the pedestrian had deceived him when he hesitated in crossing the road and had turned back midway. The witness stated he was driving between 30 and 35 miles an hour, that the victim had been thrown onto the hood of his car, then fell to the pavement. The driver stated he had operated a car for 32 years without accident.

Other witnesses heard were Mme Jean Lafleur, Laurent Ouellette, Bernard Ouellette, Ernest Lacasse, Joseph Prévost, Mme Léo Dubois (wife of the driver) and Traffic Officer Laurence Cruise.

An autopsy had shown that the elderly victim died of bronchial pneumonia following fractures, cuts and contusions.

Members of the jury were Messrs. Albini Carrière, Georges Legault, J.-L. Blais, C.-E. Dorris and Théodore Gagné. On the evidence indicating Léo Dubois was not to blame, they gave their verdict of accidental death without retiring from the room.

Drastic reduction in militia, by amalgamation and disbanding

By Roy LaBerge, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, July 7 (CP) — Defence Minister Pearkes last week hinted a drastic reduction in the 41,000-member strength of the militia.

In a July 3 appearance before the Commons estimates committee, he said some units will have to be amalgamated. And he indicated some others, in remote localities, would be disbanded.

He said the militia's primary function in event of major war would be civil defence duties to try to maintain Canada's existence through "appalling" nuclear attack.

There was practically no possibility a big militia again would be raised, equipped and trained and sent overseas in event of major war, which would probably begin with "intense nuclear activity".

The role of the militia is still under study, he said. But it would be organized into some 42 mobile columns for reconnaissance, relief and rescue.

Militia organization would be based on proximity of various units to main target areas in Canada and the ability of various localities to support them. He said it was known some localities had not been able to maintain militia units allocated to them.

Boat Safety

The transport department has printed about 200,000 copies of a booklet called "Safety Afloat". It is a comprehensive outline of regulations governing operation of small boats in Canada. Copies are going to boat manufacturers, merchants and liveries, to yacht clubs and to individuals on request.

John Hamilton, the department's small boats officer, said he was not certain whether there would be a revision of recommendations governing boat overloads as a result of the June 7 drowning of five RCMP officers whose boat was swamped in Lake Simcoe, north of Toronto.

The jury had said a plaque placed on the boat by the manufacturers stating the transport department recommended load limit was confusing. The RCMP evidently interpreted the recommended weight maximum as not to include the outboard motor and accessory equipment.

This was the main reason for the boat's being "somewhat over the presumed limit of 927 pounds," Justice Minister Fulton told the Commons last week. The government since has clarified the matter by stating the recommended limit includes motor, passengers and all equipment.

Rainless Crops

The federal treasury faced the prospect of supplying record sums for drought relief as the Prairie grain crop dried up in continuous rainless weather.

Trade Minister Churchill described the situation as a "disaster". He told the Commons July 3 a "great loss" had already been suffered in crop damage. As time went on, the chances of recovery were less and less.

Officials estimated that well over $40,000,000 would be needed for assistance under the Prairie Farm Assistance act—unless a protracted rainfall came. The bill, they said, might possibly hit $50,000,000.

The record was set in 1954 when $33,000,000 was paid out because crops were hit by rust. Last year's bill was $17,750,000.

The major crisis is in animal feed. The bureau of statistics last week said the hay crop would be poor. In many areas there already was a critical shortage shown in the bureau's report of a further deterioration in the Saskatchewan - Manitoba situation.

Agriculture Minister Harkness told the Commons on Friday he had scheduled a meeting for this week with Manitoba and Saskatchewan ministers to discuss the problem. "We will then be able to consider steps to deal with what might be a very, very serious situation unless rain falls in that area within the next two weeks," he said.

School of Ballet has small surplus

The School of Ballet, through the office of the secretary-treasurer, Mr. Ernest Gow, announces that a balance of $133.98 was realized after all money for the recent demonstration was received. The financial status of this organization is summarized as follows:

Receipts
Fees received	$1,587.20
Demonstration	129.77
Sundries	60.85
	$1,777.82
Disbursements
Tuition	$1,306.50
Meals	100.00
Halls	145.00
Operational	92.34
Balance	133.98
	$1,777.82

Appreciation is again expressed by the executive, to the public for their fine support of the ballet demonstration; the balance of proceeds will be used for equipment for the pupils.

Last season's members of the Ballet School should communicate with Mr. Gow whether they intend enroling for next year's school, as a waiting list is now evident.

Have You A Question

on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you:

Q. My claim was disqualified recently but I was informed that I could appeal to a board of referees. Who appoints the members of these boards?

A. Members of boards of referees are appointed by the Commission after consultation with organizations representing insured persons (usually trade unions) and organizations representing employer groups. Chairmen of boards of referees are appointed by the Governor in Council. Boards of referees are impartial bodies, chairmen and members not being employees of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Q. Why is it that a claimant who finished a benefit period with some entitlement still remaining may find himself in a position where he cannot collect the balance of his entitlement?

A. The Act allows a claimant a period of one year to draw the benefit to which he is entitled at the time of his application. In most cases a claimant who does not draw all this benefit in that time is able to immediately requalify.

AIDED BY SCOUT BROTHERHOOD FUND

A grant of $250 from the Canadian Scout Brotherhood Fund has been made to the 4th Hamilton (Ont.) Boy Scout Troop, to help them replace camping gear lost in a flash fire last April. With permission, the Hamilton Scouts were using the Lions' Club Camp at Ancaster, Ont., when a gust of wind carried an ember from a cooking fire into some dry grass. The Scouts concentrated their efforts in saving the Lions Club property, which was undamaged except for a section of burnt grass land. Fire Department authorities termed the fire purely "accidental" and commended the Scouts for their action in dealing with it.

Orchard grass productive grazing for mid-summer

Ottawa — There has been a long standing need for a grass species that will provide productive mid-summer grazing. Orchard grass, which is becoming increasingly popular in the pasture meadows of southwestern Ontario, seems to fill this need in part.

Orchard grass has a deep, extensive, fibrous root system which gives it an advantage over many shallow-rooted pasture grasses. Plants recover rapidly after grazing or cutting and respond rapidly to top-dressing with nitrogenous fertilizers. Its greatest advantage, however, lies in its drought resistance where the plants continue growth when many other grasses cease to produce.

Although orchard grass is palatable when in a leafy stage, the maturing stems become woody and unpalatable. Therefore, careful pasture management must provide for maintaining the grass in a leafy condition. This condition may be maintained by careful grazing and/or mowing back the fields when many uneaten stems are observed in the pasture.

Orchard grass is sensitive to flooding for prolonged periods and should always be located on areas where there is good surface drainage to provide for rapid spring runoff. Perhaps the greatest enemy to maintaining good stands of orchard grass is severe ice-sheet conditions that occur in some winters. All varieties of orchard grass so far produced will die under these conditions.

Whenever severe winter conditions have caused damage to orchard grass stands, the Canadian-bred varieties have been greatly superior to foreign-bred varieties in their resistance to winterkilling. Seed production of Canadian-bred orchard grass varieties has been greatly limited. However, seed of Hercules, a hardy Canadian-bred variety, is at present being multiplied and should be available in the near future.

A killer of potato beetles

Insecticides and other insect control measures devised by man are not the only barriers injurious insects are forced to contend with in their struggles for survival. Certain predators and parasites unwittingly assist in the destruction of many pests and in some instances are of extreme value to the country. Wherever possible these natural enemies are nurtured and it is this aspect of control that J. S. Kelleher of the Brandon Laboratory Service, Canada Department of Agriculture, is now studying in connection with the Colorado Potato Beetles or potato bug, as it is often called.

A certain parasitic insect destroys a percentage of the potato beetle population each year. But very little is known as to what insecticides designed for the control of the potato bettles, will do to this parasite. Studies of this nature are of extreme value to Canadian entomologists, and of particular interest to European entomologists as they are considering the possibility of using this parasite in the control of the Colorado Potato Beetle in Europe.

In areas where the potato beetle has not built up a resistance to DDT, this chemical applied as a spray or dust will control this pest. Where resistance is evident, a spray containing toxaphene, diedrin, heptachlor or aldrin will give satisfactory control. Needless to say, parasitic control of the Colorado Potato Beetle or any other insect would have many advantages over chemical control.

Virus disease of strawberry plants

Green Petal, a virus disease of strawberries previously reported in Canada from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, has been found in the variety Regina on experimental plots of strawberries at Saanichton, B.C. This disease is potentially of great importance to strawberry growers as indicated by its marked dwarfing effect on the variety Regina. Studies are now underway by Science Service, Canada Department of Agriculture, to determine the effect of the virus on British Sovereign, the leading commercial variety of British Columbia.

The disease Green Petal was discovered in the Climax strawberry variety in Great Britain in 1951. Reports indicate that it can be highly injurious, often killing the infected plants. The conspicuous symptoms of this virus disease are the enlargement of the sepals and pale green color of the somewhat dwarfed petals.

How many gallons to the mile?

On these hot days when the sun beats down and the dog crawls into the creek, what are your cows doing — lying under a tree turning their feed into milk, or galloping around the pasture and pushing through the brush along the fences?

Cows can't sweat. When it is hot they lie down in the shade and pant. Any cow that has to run in fly time, is losing you money in lost milk and lost weight.

Flies are more than just a nuisance to you and a worry to your cattle. They crawl over all sorts of filth, and carry it to the milk utensils, water pail and feed troughs — not only plain dirt, but the bacteria that flourish in dirt. They also carry tape worm to your poultry.

So in addition to costing you money in lost milk, and lost weight, they can cost you money in rejected milk, unthrifty calves and pigs and pullets, and in wasted feed. Also they are a serious menace to the health of your family, as well as the health of your stock.

With Purina Fly Control so efficient, there's no need to take chances. Ask us about the Purina line-up of fly-killers — and if you want to see a real demonstration of fly killing, sprinkle some PURINA FLY BAIT on a sunny windowsill!

EDITORIAL NOTES...

Highway work appreciated

A DISTINCT improvement is noted in the provincial highway markings around Lachute this past week. New signboards clearly indicate the numbers of the routes emanating from this hub, and the towns they lead to, with distances noted.

Many times we have seen tourists hesitating at busy intersections perusing the highway signs and wondering which way to turn — some of these visitors unconsciously holding up traffic, and others blatantly informed of the fact by horn-blowing motorists (with short memory of the times they have found themselves in the same predicament).

Any effort to clarify directions, and to inform strangers as legibly and as speedily as possible, will repay the Province of Quebec in the good will and appreciation of all who travel her highways.

We have had no opportunity to check the many battered and rusty indicators, at curves and side-roads on the lesser routes. We trust, as the season's work proceeds, that these are not being overlooked. We direct the attention of our roads supervisors to such eyesores for earliest replacement.

Another improvement to be mentioned this week is the re-surfacing on damaged sections of the Lachute - St. Andrews road. This is a much-used thoroughfare, and one which deserved earlier attention on the program of repairs. Nevertheless, the fact that it is now efficiently repaired, is noted with due appreciation. This route should be on the list for future widening and straightening on an extensive scale.

Other side of the 'recession'

THE BUSINESS recession of the past year is the third such temporary interruption of the great post-war economic boom.

Such interruptions are unpleasant and disconcerting while they last. It requires a certain frankness, therefore, to admit that they are not without some value.

If you doubt this, consider for a moment some of the incidental effects of a slowing down in the tempo of economic activity.

It reminds many people that thrift is still a virtue; that, whatever the difficulties, it is still prudent in good times to save or invest at least a tenth part of annual income against the possibility of days less fair.

It leads management to intensify its efforts to achieve greater efficiency of operation; to crack down on waste and extravagance, and cut out unjustifiable "frills" which swell expenses — and therefore costs.

It compels increased resourcefulness, diligence, imagination and determination on the part of all who compete for the consumer's favor, employers, merchants and salesmen included.

It causes many of us to value our jobs more highly; with the result that we come to care rather more about doing better that which we are paid to do. (The catchphrase "I couldn't care less!" is noticeably less prevalent than it was; so is the attitude of mind which it betokened.)

It brings home to at least some unionists the fundamental truth that their welfare and that of their families is much less dependent on the union than on the ability of the company to sell its products.

These occasional recessions, then, result in a certain re-evaluation and correction of perspective on the part of most of us which, to put it mildly, is not wholly bad.

Epic of the North

WHILE FEDERAL wildlife officials, aided by northern outdoorsmen, are conducting an intensive survey in an effort to stop the rapid decline of Canada's caribou population, the northern affairs department is experimenting near Ottawa with Tibetan yak.

The shaggy animals of the Tibetan plateau may yet be introduced in Arctic regions to provide meat, milk and clothing for the Eskimo.

The wild yak stands nearly six feet at the shoulder and thrives at altitudes some four miles above sea level. But few of them remain, and the type seen in Europe, India and less frequently in North America is the result of crossing with Mongolian cattle.

These supermarkets-on-the-hoof can be used as beasts of burden, able to carry heavy loads 20 miles a day. Tibetans eat yak meat, dried or roasted, and make butter of the animal's milk. A type of wool is made from its hair.

The Ottawa experiment recalls an epic of the north nearly 30 years ago — the great reindeer trek — that brought heartbreaks and brief fame to a little Laplander, but failed to meet the aims of its federal sponsors through lack of Eskimo co-operation.

For five years, Andrew Bahr fought Arctic blizzards, wolves, flies and other hazards in bringing a herd of reindeer 1,800 miles from Alaska to the Mackenzie River delta. The drive, an 18-month project, started late in 1929. It ended in March, 1935. Bahr started with some 2,000 animals and guided a total of 2,300 into Canada, but few of them were survivors of the original herd.

The objective was to make reindeer herdsmen of the Eskimos, providing a stable occupation instead of the precarious livelihood obtained from trapping. Provision of additional meat supplies was another important factor.

But the Eskimo proved an indifferent herdsman and the vision of great reindeer herds roaming the north faded.

The animals would thrive in the north, but today the government maintains the reindeer population at from 4,000 to 5,000. In the Aklavik area there is a main herd and four or five smaller ones looked after by Eskimos.

This slogan makes sense

THERE IS A growing demand over a wide area of business, and from many sections of the Canadian public, for an intensified program which will make the nation as a whole Buy Canadian conscious.

Canadians cannot afford to place excessive reliance on imported goods and services at the expense of the home market. But that is exactly what we have been doing on an increasing scale in recent years. It is a trend which must be reversed if we are not to suffer unemployment on a greater scale than anything we have yet experienced.

Canada, though only twenty-fifth among the nations of the world in population, is in seventh place as a manufacturing power, ranks fourth among the world's traders and enjoys growing respect and influence in international councils. Canadians are proud of this record.

But something more than pride is needed. That something, is to establish in the minds of individual Canadians in all walks of life the direct connection between buying Canadian and their own jobs.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association has called on its members to help in the following way:

1. Set an example in their own purchases, personal and corporate.

2. Buy Canadian materials, components, equipment, and supplies for their own manufacturing operations.

3. Include the Buy Canadian symbol in all types of advertising: newspapers, magazines, business papers, television, posters, point of purchase displays and all possible stationery and literature. Feature the symbol in displays at fairs and exhibitions.

4. Mark their products — and prominently — "Made in Canada", etc. . .

Right here in Lachute, we feel it is the storekeepers themselves who can achieve most good, by the influence of verbal and visual persuasion. In a community which harps on the "Shop at Home" theme, it is but one step to the broader viewpoint and a consistent urge to "Buy Canadian".

France and Algeria

— By Lewis Milligan —

The situation in Algeria today is similar to that which preceded the withdrawal of France from Syria. That Country was occupied by France after the First World War under a mandate agreed to by the allies in order to protect the Christian minority from the oppression of the Mohammedans who formed two-thirds of the population. But the French government never gained full control of Syria and the country was for the the most part perpetually under martial law. That was a costly business and France finally yielded to the demand of the rebels for independence.

But Algeria has been a French possession for over a hundred years, having been annexed in 1830 after several naval attacks on Algiers by other foreign powers, including one by an American fleet. Under French rule Algeria has been developed industrially with modern railways and highways. Barren deserts have been irrigated and the City of Algiers has become one of the busiest seaports in the Mediterranean. This development has been due to the migration of French People who settled in the country, and Algeria has always been regarded as politically part of France.

The uprising in Algeria started after the last world war. The rebels were encouraged by the withdrawal of France from Syria, plus the British evacuation of Egypt and the movement for the establishment of an Arab empire in the Middle East under the leadership of Nasser, backed by Soviet Russia. All this, in addition to the weakness of France following the last war, emboldened the rebels in their demand for independence.

Moreover, France is not only financially weak, the French people are politically divided against themselves. That seems to be an historical weakness. Julius Caesar found ancient Gaul divided into three parts. The trouble in modern Gaul is that it has been divided into too many political parties, and the only hope for France today is the reduction of those parties to at least three. Two parties would be far better, and one, for the time being, seems to be the best solution of the national crisis.

General de Gaulle is supported by a good majority in the National Assembly and he has the enthusiastic loyalty of the people at large. He was the only man of leadership stature outside of the political arena who could unite the contending parties for the salvation of France from the national disaster of civil war. He has a great opportunity to settle the Algerian problem by a measure of independence. The chief danger in that respect is the creation of another and more troublesome Nasser satellite on the western Mediterraneau. But the first and more important task of de Gaulle is to reform the political constitution of France and establish the government on a firm foundation.

St. Andrews reader commends Art Association exhibition

TO THE EDITOR

Argenteuil Art Association Show in Council Chambers

Editor, The Watchman:

During the past week, we in this district have been treated to the second Art Exhibition this summer, featuring paintings by three of the male members, Armand Boudreau of Montreal, D. Titman of Lachute, and our own Fraser Robertson. The first exhibition, which limited entries to two from each member, failed to convey to the ordinary person the range, activity and quality of these members.

As the first show of this kind attempted, it offers a challenge to have a future show from a group of lady members on a later occasion.

Our townsfolk found it very convenient to walk to this year's location and take along their summer guests to see the new item of interest in St. Andrews — a well displayed, well lighted exhibition in our attractive Council Hall. That many came from a distance was evidenced by the Visitors' Register, which numbered over two hundred when we signed it.

A couple of local businessmen commented on the number of cars parked in the vicinity of the Council Chambers recently, and the number of strangers who had patronized their establishments for meals, gasoline, etc. Possibly our councillors should consider this as an item worthy of encouragement.

It is believed that we are to be favored with a third exhibition over the July month end, to which we will look forward with keen anticipation.

How many particles make up a pound of flour?

It is estimated that 42,000,000,000,000 particles make up one pound of flour, once the kernels have been ground into the product we know for baking. This fineness is essential to light, palatable, easily digested, white bread, because 98 percent of Canadian consumers prefer white bread.

In modern milling processes the outer bran and the tiny, oily wheat germ are removed from the wheat berries, because bran lowers the baking quality of the dough, and the germ tends to become rancid and to spoil the flour. The remaining part of the kernel is then ground into the fine flour that finds its way to the stores and bakeries.

Today, approximately 95 percent of the 4,500,000 loaves of bread eaten each day by Canadians, are made in modern bakeries.

It is estimated that over 33,000 men and women earn their daily living in Canada's more than 2,500 bakery establishments. For many years, bread-making, which was almost entirely a domestic art, gradually passed from the domestic circle to the local baker. Now, with the development of power and transportation, the local baker is giving way to the industrial baking concerns. At the present time, about 95 out of every 100 housewives buy bread made in bakeries.

Where did the term "Red Skin" originate?

The Beothuk Indian inhabitants of Newfoundland, now extinct, probably came into contact with the Vikings, but Cabot was the first known European to meet them. He left a brief description of their appearance and way of life, including their intensive use of ochre for painting the body. From his partially understood descriptions, it was widely assumed in England that the natives were red, hence the origin of the term "Redskins" or "Red Indians". Thus arose one of the common misapprehensions concerning the natives of the New World.

There was constant hostility between the white man and the Beothuk, and Micmac Indians were brought from Nova Scotia in the 18th century to assist in the slaughter of the tribe.

William Epps Cormack, the first white man to cross Newfoundland, formed in 1827 the Beothuk Institute with the object of locating and civilizing the tribe. However, after an extensive search, none were found. Nancy Shanawdithit, the last known member of the tribe lived in his house for a few months before her death in 1829.

It is probable that the total population of the Beothuk was less than 1,000.

Where does the Geiger Counter help the agriculturist?

At the Petawawa Experimental Station, white-pine weevels that have been subjected to radio activity and then released, are traced by the clicking of the Geiger Counter, and their progress and behaviour patterns studied. By these findings it is possible for the agriculturalists to study the weevel and its habits, and thus devise better methods of control.

The dispute on egg marketing

When producer-controlled compulsory marketing schemes are in dispute, emotions get involved. Any one who dares to point out the logical outcome of such plans is labelled as a tool of the packing houses or a friend of the middleman. Farm leaders who espouse the plan seem to detest all logic but their own. They shout, "If you are not a farmer, keep your nose out of this!"

I think they become bitter because in this fight they are wrong. My father used to say, "Whenever you're hurt — you're wrong! If you are on sound ground, you can argue without losing your temper. When, away back somewhere in your mind you have a nagging thought that the other fellow is right, you start to think with your emotions."

Producer-controlled compulsory egg marketing will, in my opinion prove a 6-month benefit for the person with a small flock — and then a big bust. The big producer will make a killing out of it for maybe two years, at the most, and then he'll be in trouble. And the producer-marketing board will be in trouble to the point where it will have to yell to the government for help — and when it gets that help it will become a government-controlled compulsory egg marketing plan, and everyone will be the loser.

The farmer with a small flock will benefit very briefly, because the board will no doubt pay him enough to leave a good profit above his cost of production. The board, of course, will have to pay the big producer at the same rate per dozen.

A rate that means a moderate profit to the small producer means something close to profiteering to the big and efficient one. Naturally, he'll expand to get all the bonanza he can get. The Board will get so many eggs shipped at them they'll be hard-pressed for storage space. Surplus eggs will pile up everywhere, and consumers will get wary indeed about freshness and quality.

For perhaps a year, the big producer will make a killing. Then, when the Board is up to its ears in eggs and down to its shoe-strings for money, there'll be talk of regulating production — but farmers just won't tolerate it. The plan will fold (unless it becomes a government - controlled plan, to give it a few more years of life), and producers will see prices drop so low it'll break all but the biggest and most efficient.

If this scheme is so good, why don't the big producers get together and back a voluntary marketing scheme? Why must such a good thing be compulsory? Why force the marginal producer into a scheme that seems almost certain to break him in the long run?

Bill is a writer who tries out his stories on anybody he can get in a corner.

It's the end of a party when Bill comes in the room with the fat briefcase which he seems to carry everywhere.

People run for the exits. Sometimes a few people stay where they are — near-sighted folk who don't identify Bill until he is upon them, or strangers in town.

Bill opens his briefcase, extracts a sheaf of manuscripts and hands one to each person.

"Read that," he commands.

And for the next 10 or 15 minutes there is silence in the room as Bill's victims drag their way through 3,000 words apiece of muddy prose.

He must be a prolific writer. Even if — by a stroke of luck — he manages to impound 15 or 20 people in a room, he seems to have enough manuscripts for everybody.

Then he hovers around each of them in turn, saying nothing but trying to read their thoughts from scowls, coughs and frowns.

As he scans all the faces, he looks more and more crestfallen, because he fancies that he is picking up signals of scorn and condemnation.

But he doesn't give up hope. He leans toward people, as though trying to influence their judgment with body English.

At last the critics reach the end of his works, and begin delivering their judgments. "Hmmm," says one man as he hands back the manuscripts, trying to convey the idea of depth and mystery in one syllable without telling any lies.

"Yeah, unique," says another. But there is one man who wants to make sure he is never subjected to this ordeal again.

"Do you really want my candid opinion?" he demands.

"Oh yes, that's why I gave it to you," says Bill, who is so touchy about his stories that he goes into a sulk at any sign of hostile criticism. "Don't be afraid of hurting my feelings," he adds.

"All right, then," says the brutal reader. "I think they're gosh awful."

And so they are. But this man won't ever be asked to read them again. Only polite and tactful people are burdened with the task.

Late Canon Dawson was related here

Cushing West — The sudden passing of the Rev. Canon E. E Dawson came as a severe shock to his relatives and friends in this district.

Canon Dawson, in his 80th year, the eldest son of the late Edward Dawson and his wife the late Elizabeth Canning, was born in Stonefield, County of Argenteuil, Que. He was educated at Stonefield, at Lachute Academy and at the Montreal Diocesan Theological College. He served as an Anglican clergyman in several parishes, including Kildare, Quyon and Franklin Centre, and was rector at Lacolle for the past 42 years. In 1956 he was made an Honorary Canon of Christ Church Cathedral in commemoration of his 50th anniversary in the priesthood, and a reception was held in Lacolle in honor of the occasion with several ministers in the Montreal Diocese present, also parishioners, friends and relatives from near and far.

Canon Dawson was married to Clara Lee Lunan, who predeceased him in 1934. He is survived by his second wife, the former Jessie M. Smith; two sons, Leslie, of St. Lambert, and William, of Lacolle; one daughter, Eileen (Mrs. G. C. Thompson), of St. Laurent; five grandsons and one granddaughter; also two sisters, Miss Pearl Dawson, Stonefield, Mrs. C. F. Watson (Ruby), Cushing, and four brothers, Arthur, of Rawdon, Clarence, of Rednersville, Ray, at Stonefield, and Harris, of Hamilton. One brother, Lennis, predeceased him in 1949.

The funeral service, very largely attended, was held Monday, June 23 in St. Saviour's Anglican Church, Lacolle, with interment at the local cemetery. A profusion of flowers testified to the esteem in which he was held.

Canon Dawson was chairman of the Lacolle School Board for 17 years. He was prominent in Masonic circles, and was also honorary president of the Lacolle Curling Club.

Morin Hts. Anglicans buy adjoining property

Morin Heights — At the Trinity Anglican Church on Sunday morning the rector announced the purchase by the church of the property adjoining Trinity Cemetery; this is to be used especially for the Sunday School, which now numbers over 50 children.

This property, quite well-known throughout the community, was used for many years by the Hornerite Church, and some of the older families in the district received their religious training within its walls. Within recent years very few services have been held. The transaction, made through the Standard Church of America, is for the sum of $3,000.

The Anglican Church is also planning to build a large recreation hall within the near future.

Witnesses attend opening of new hall at St. Jerome

Several car-loads totalling 21 persons from the Lachute congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses attended dedication services for the new Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses at St. Jerome last weekend. The program began on Saturday, July 5, at 9 a.m. at which time house-to-house ministry was conducted from the new Kingdom Hall. This was followed by a series of Bible discourses, Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. The dedication discourse was given at 7.30 p.m. on Saturday by Mr. Laurier Saumur, district supervisor for Jehovah's Witnesses in Eastern Canada. He addressed the audience in French, as most of the 96 persons in attendance were French-speaking people from the Lachute and St. Jerome areas.

Witnesses from Lachute who attended the event report the new Kingdom Hall at St. Jerome is an attractive building situated at 724 Avenue Latour; it seats about 150 persons, and is a credit to those who had part in its construction. The labor was voluntary, making it possible to build at a very low cost. The building, they stated, is also a credit to the surrounding community and will be the centre of activities for Jehovah's Witnesses in the St. Jerome district.

The Bible today — the world's best seller

"The Bible — the world's best seller, but the most unread book in the world", is the manner in which some people speak of the Bible. The world situation appears to disprove such a statement.

The Rev. Dr. W. J. Platt of the British and Foreign Bible Society in London writes, "Some of the overseas calls for Scriptures are most moving. Israel needs 25% more Bibles than the previous forecast. We recently supplied over 100,000 Bibles for the Yoruba people in Nigeria, and already we shall need to print again during 1958. France, too, calls for more supplies than we had estimated. In Brazil, the circulation last year was over 1½ million Scriptures and over 7½ million during the last three years."

A translator, near Lake Chad in the very heart of Africa, wrote to the Bible Society for Scriptures. When informed that he must wait, he replied: "Our present supply of Sango Scriptures is exhausted. We have opportunities now, such as we have never had and perhaps will never have again." Then, a few weeks ago, a telephone call was put through from Poland to say: "Warsaw stocks are exhausted. Please speed up the work". 1½ million Scriptures have been circulated in Poland in recent years.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES

PEACE . . . TRANQUILITY
SECURITY . . . UNITY
— mark the world to come!

A new world that is dominated by a righteous government has been purposed by Almighty God. It will transform this earth into one big beautiful garden. Its inhabitants will live in peace, exercising love for one another.

You can live in that world when it is established by obeying and serving the Maker of it today, but this requires an accurate knowledge of His Word. Two Bible-study aids that will help you get this knowledge are "Let God Be True" and "New Heavens and a New Earth". They will tell you about God's new world and the Scriptural prophecies that foretell and describe it. They will explain in detail what God requires of you. Each book contains well over 300 pages and makes more than 800 references to Bible texts. These two books may be had for a small contribution of $1. Read them carefully and learn how you can live in God's new world.

Pretty wedding with R.C.M.P. scarlet in Church of the Ascension, Montreal

The marriage of Margaret Ann Acres, triplet daughter of Alderman and Mrs. S. Alex Acres of Outremont, Que., to Cst. Gerald Thomas Jamison, R.C.M.P., of Bathurst, N.B., younger son of Mrs. Philippe Roy and the late I. W. Jamison, of Lachute, took place on Saturday afternoon, June 28, in the Church of the Ascension, Park Avenue, Montreal, the Rev. Gordon R. Addie, rector, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Stanley Andrews, rector of St. Matthew's Church, Hampstead, Que. Mr. Arthur Hopkins played the wedding music and Mr. Stanley Waters was soloist. Standards of white gladioli and pink peonies arranged with greenery were used to decorate.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was in a floor-length gown of white chantilly lace over satin appliquéd in cloverleaf design, the bodice having tiny buttons fastening the back, with sleeves ending in points over her hands, and a full skirt. Her finger-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a lace cap embroidered with seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis.

Mrs. John D. Giles, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, and Miss Marjory Acres, sister of the bride, and Mrs. E. S. Neff, of Barrie, Ont., as attendants, were in sheath gowns of silk organza with bouffant skirts of crystal charm — Mrs. Giles wearing blush rose, Miss Acres honey gold, and Mrs. Neff creme de menthe. They wore hats and shoes to match their gowns, and carried bouquets of multi-colored sweet peas.

Cpl. Richard Muir, R.C.M.P., of Ottawa, acted as best man and the ushers were Cst. Don Wilson, R.C.M.P., Cst. E. A. Woods, R.C.M.P., of Ottawa, and Cst. Yvon Vanasse, R.C.M.P., of Bathurst, N.B.

Mrs. Acres, the bride's mother, was in a gown of Parma violet nylon over taffeta, with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Roy, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue printed sheath dress with three-quarter length matching coat, with a white picture hat and black accessories, and a corsage of white carnations.

The reception was held in the Blue Room of the Ritz Carlton Hotel, where palms and white gladioli and pink peonies were used to decorate.

Later Cst. and Mrs. Jamison left by motor for a trip through the New England States. For travelling the bride wore a linen ensemble of Brioque blue and white with white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations. They will reside in Bathurst, N.B.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Want to beat the heat during your summer motoring excursions? Here are some practical tips on making hot weather driving a real cool affair:

Be on the road as early as possible. The dawn is the most beautiful part of the day — and the coolest. And there's the least traffic then. An early start will give you time for a rest after lunch during the midday heat. If you're near a lake or stream, how about a dip before eating?

Dress right. Lightweight, wrinkle-resistant, washable fabrics are best. For the girls, full skirts, sleeveless blouses. Add a flower or scarf and you're set for restaurant dining. A veil will keep your hair air conditioned, yet neat. Keep the youngsters in shorts or lightweight coveralls.

If driving gets hot, rub your wrists with ice. No ice? At a rest stop, run cold water over your wrists, splash some on your face. Have a cooling stick cologne handy, too.

Wicker back-rests allow air to circulate behind the driver or passenger, make the whole body feel cooler.

Still hot? How about a car air conditioner?

And whatever the temperature, keep cool yourself by refusing to get hot and bothered by annoying road incidents. You're supposed to be having fun, remember?

Skinny men, women gain 5, 10, 15 lbs.

What a thrill! Bony limbs fill out; ugly hollows fill up; neck no longer scrawny; body loses haggard, sickly "bean-pole" look. Thousands of girls, women, men, who never could gain before, are now proud of shapely, healthy-looking bodies. They thank Ostrex Tonic Tablets. Help build up body skinny because of appetite impaired by lack of iron. Improved nourishment helps put flesh on bare bones. Don't fear getting too fat. Stop taking when you've gained the 5, 10, 15 or 20 lbs. you need for normal weight. Then avoid overeating of starches, sugar and fattening foods. 6-day "get-acquainted" size costs little—or buy economy size and save 50%. Try famous Ostrex Tonic Tablets for new vigor and added pounds, this very day. At all druggists.

Let's avoid drownings!

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

We Canadians cannot be proud of our drowning record, which is 6.5 per 100,000 of population. This is substantially higher than either Great Britain or the United States During the last ten years we have had more than 1,000 drownings annually. In 1955 there was a record high of nearly 1,300 lives lost, while in 1956 the drowning figure was 1,056. July is the peak month for water accidents and more than half the drownings are compressed into three months — June, July and August.

There is a wide variation in our provincial drowning rates. The areas bordering the oceans have the greatest loss. Our smallest province, P.E.I., with its island coast line, has the highest rate, 13.1, followed by Newfoundland, our other coast province, with 11.3. British Columbia has the third highest with 10.7. Two of the prairie provinces have the lowest rates, Saskatchewan with 4.7 and Alberta with 4.8.

What are the circumstances of most of the drownings? Small boat accidents claim the largest percentage (31 percent) of victims. Only 2 percent of those drowned in this way were pre-school children, but 50 percent were in the 20 to 50 age group. Contrast this with the second greatest cause, which involves falls into lakes and rivers, which accounts for one quarter of the drownings. In this class 45 percent are children under five years. Forty-seven percent of drownings of youths from 15 to 18 take place while they are swimming or diving. Disregarding rules in this type of activity is responsible for 20 percent out of total loss of life in the water.

Eight percent of our drownings are as a result of falling into wells, ditches and excavations. Ice accidents account for six percent, and it is the school-age child which is particularly susceptible to this hazard. There are few drownings at home and non-boating occupational accidents, and other water transport fatalities account for the balance.

Men and boys are much more apt to be drowned than women and girls. Possibly the reason for this is that men are more daring and are on the water for longer hours. In 1956 88 percent of drownings were male, and of this total 44 percent were under 20 years and 33 percent were between 20 and 40 years. It is significant to know that more school-age children, from 5 to 24 years, lose their lives from accidents than from all diseases combined in one total. Motor vehicle accidents, which in 1955 claimed the lives of 3,559 persons, rank as the leading cause of death to these boys and girls and youths, followed by drownings in second place.

Not all the accidents are to non-swimmers. Quite a number of fatalities are reported of swimmers who have gotten into difficulty. No parent can read an account of a drowning without feeling sorry for the bereaved family, without thinking "This might have happened to my youngster."

A good way to encourage a sensible attitude to swimming precautions is to ask yourself and encourage your son or daughter who is old enough to read the newspapers, to ask: "Why did this drowning happen? How could it have been avoided?"

You will discover that there are a number of conditions which increase swimming hazards. It is not difficult to draw up a list of your own family swimming rules. If your child has attended a camp he will know what regulations were enforced by the Swimming Counsellors. Discuss the minimum rules for water safety in a family council and make it very clear that they must be followed. Disobedience might cost the life of a son or daughter.

In a recent publication on accidental drowning from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics is included a list of water safety rules urged by health authorities. Here they are:

If your boat capsizes, stay with it.

Never stand or change positions in boats.

Do not overload boats.

Be wary of river currents.

Do not swim from boats in deep water.

Never swim alone.

Wait an hour after meals before swimming.

Avoid swimming if tired or overheated.

Swim close to shore.

If muscle cramps occur, leave water at once.

Select a safe swimming place, preferably supervised by lifeguards.

Know how to rescue a person from drowning, and learn how to apply artificial respiration.

Make the most of green and wax beans

(Consumer Section)

July is the time to really enjoy the summer crop of green and wax beans. Because they're so tender and crisp and practically stringless, you'll want to serve them often. Use cold, cooked beans in salads, too, and include them with other vegetables on a relish tray now and then.

The Consumer Section home economists recommend that you buy 1½ pounds of green or wax beans for each 6 servings. This allows about 1 cup of beans per serving.

Freshly picked beans require very little preparation for cooking . . . simply wash them and snap off the ends. You can leave the beans whole, cut them straight across into 1" pieces or diagonally into long pieces, or "French" cut the beans lengthwise into thin slices using a vegetable peeler

Cook the beans either by boiling or pressure cooking. To boil 6 cups beans, place them in a saucepan, sprinkle with 1 teaspoon salt, and add 1 cup boiling water. Cover tightly and boil gently for 10 minutes. Then add 2 tablespoons butter and cook uncovered until beans are tender, about 4 to 6 minutes.

To pressure cook 6 cups beans, pour ½ cup water into 2½ quart pressure saucepan; place beans on rack in pan and sprinkle with 1 teaspoon salt. Cook at 15 pounds pressure for 1½ to 2 minutes. Reduce pressure immediately by holding saucepan under a stream of cold water. Remove beans and add 2 tablespoons butter.

Good Seasonings with Beans

Seasonings may be added to the beans before cooking or later with the butter. To season 6 cups of beans the first way, add one of the following at the same time as the cooking water:

¾ Cup finely chopped celery, ½ to ¾ teaspoon rosemary, 2 to 3 teaspoons chopped onion or chives, 2 to 3 bay leaves (remove before serving), 2 to 3 slivers garlic (remove before serving).

To season along with the butter, add ½ to ¾ teaspoon garlic salt, tarragon, basil or savoury.

Restaurant food lacks imagination

Canadian food lacks imagination and fails to reflect the personality of our nation, an amateur chef and authority on Canadiana recently told the Canadian Restaurant Association.

The critic was Thor C. Hansen, who has "eaten out" in all parts of Canada in his many years as a public relations lecturer for B-A on Canadian arts and crafts.

Speaking at luncheons, banquets and dinners, he said he usually encountered a menu of tomato juice, roast beef, green peas and a scoop of mashed potatoes.

"I have nothing against roast beef. As a matter of fact it is one of my favorite dishes when I am at home. But when I am dining out I want something different," he said.

If a person is really hungry, practically any food tastes good, he said. But in overfed countries like Canada and the U.S. a healthy appetite cannot always be counted upon to supply the pleasure of the meal.

"We must depend upon the twin arts of cooking and decoration," he said.

Mr. Hansen felt that Canada was missing a good tourist opportunity by not paterning dishes after the colorful geographic and historical features of certain areas, for example: Radisson meat pie, Capilano salmon, Port Royal baked beans, Griffon grilled trout and Kelsey cutlets.

"But whatever we do," Mr. Hansen concluded, "whatever we develop in the line of food and decor, let us try to make it so different from what you find south of the border that people will say 'That's Canadian'!"

Conference dates set by Associated Country Women

Mrs. H. Ellard, 1st vice-president of the Quebec Women's Institutes, will be the official delegate when the Associated Country Women of the World meets next summer in Scotland. Mrs. Ellard is a member of the Aylmer East W.I.

Dates for the conference have now been announced. These are August 3-15, 1959, in Edinburgh. Recommendations and resolutions must be in the ACWW office, London, by the first of September, and all entries in the international essay competition must reach the QWI office not later than January 15, 1959.

Details as to accredited visitors to the conference, and fees, will be discussed at an ACWW executive committee meeting being held this month at the head office, London. All constituent societies will be notified promptly when decisions are reached.

A Canadian tour is planned to take in the Conference and see something of the British Isles. Provincial Institutes are already being asked how many members will wish to join the group going from this country.

Johannesburg M.D. makes discovery on baby deaths

A Johannesburg paediatrician has found the cause of a heart disease that proves fatal in one of every two new-born baby patients.

The child specialist solved a mystery that had long baffled doctors: why healthy babies should suddenly develop a disease of the heart muscle known as myocarditis — and as suddenly die. But when he first put forward his theory — in 1956 after four years' study — he was laughed at by some medical men.

The dramatic story of the doctor's discovery and of research work by which other South Africans have now convinced the world he is right, is told in "Medical Proceedings", the South African journal for doctors.

According to the journal the doctor suggested that the disease might be caused by a virus known as Coxsackie. In adults this virus causes Bornholm disease, otherwise known as "devil's grip". Some virologists scoffed at the suggestion, but they have now been obliged to abandon their disbelief in the light of new evidence.

It has been proved beyond reasonable doubt that the Coxsackie virus does cause myocarditis in the new-born. It is believed that only babies exposed to infection a few days after birth — up to eight days — develop the disease.

Until this was demonstrated, hospitals and maternity homes throughout the world were blissfully unaware that visitors, nurses and mothers with Bornholm disease might infect babies with the virus so deadly for the new-born.

Because of the new knowledge, isolation of mother and child would be considered most desirable during the first few weeks of a baby's life.

Women have been making headlines recently with a demand for a spinster tax.

Many municipalities now have the right to pass a by-law permitting them to levy a tax on men between 21 and 60 who do not pay a certain amount of taxes in other ways.

Now the local council at Preston, Ont., wants power to levy a similar tax on women. And the council at Burlington, Ont., has repealed the bachelor tax by-law because, it is reported, it felt it discriminated against single men.

A spokesman for the Business and Professional Women's Club at Toronto said women should get equal pay for equal work before they are taxed arbitrarily for remaining unmarried.

Fruit Salads

This is the time of year when fresh fruits and vegetables are in good supply.

Among them are apricots, heading towards a peak of popularity as improved distribution and packing methods make the British Columbia product available all over Canada. Apricot production in B.C. has tripled in the last 10 years.

A popular preserve is apricot conserve. Take three medium oranges, one cup water, one six-ounce bottle of maraschino cherries, eight cups unpeeled apricots cut into small pieces, eight cups sugar, a half-cup blanched almonds cut in pieces.

Slice oranges thinly, then cut slices into quarters. Place in kettle, add water, cover and simmer until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain cherries, reserving juice. To the cooked oranges add apricots, sugar and juice from the cherries, then cook uncovered until thickened, about 30 minutes. Add cherries cut in quarters and almonds and cook five minutes longer. Pour into hot sterilized jars, cool slightly and seal with paraffin. Makes about nine cups.

Summer fruits can be used with all kinds of salad. One appetizing salad is melon chunks in lettuce cup, with a French or Roquefort dressing.

Garnish a plate of meat, poultry or fish with small salad portions. With chicken or ham, try sprays of watercress and apricot halves filled with dabs of seasoned cream cheese.

For a salad that is a meal in itself, serve cottage cheese, melon wedges, plum halfs, cherries, apple wedges, berries and fresh or canned peaches and pears. Garnish with mint leaves and serve very cold with whipped cream dressing.

Keeping Tidy

Sewing experts have hit on an idea which may persuade a youngster to tuck away her dirty clothes without too much telling.

It is a laundry bag that looks like a party dress. Select a fabric that is bright and washable, cut out two dress-shaped pieces with short sleeves and round neckline, stitch them into a bag, slit and hem a front opening. Attach a tiny stand-up collar with necktie at the neckline.

Fashions

Adding a note of vibrant color to the season is the hat, bag or shoe of floral print, an ideal and easy addition to a simple, solid-colored costume. Shown is a short coat of flowered linen. Cut on a modified trapeze line, it has slightly belled, slit sides. With it is a matching, cut-away, bow-front cloche, draped to the back. The floral printed linen is also used for the opera pump, which has draping over the vamp.

Wife Preservers

The more water cut roses can get, the longer they last. They can absorb the greatest amount when the stems are cut very short and the flowers floated in a shallow bowl.

Commendable undertaking in west-end summer playground

A long-felt need is being realized this summer in St. Julien Parish, where a supervised playground has been set up for children not eligible or priviliged to frequent the Ayers Recreation Centre. While not complete in all details, the playground is a commendable start, and with its swings and see-saws, and a baseball backstop, the site should provide amusements to keep a considerable number of children off the streets.

This effort is specially commendable when it is realized the organizers started from scratch insofar as funds were concerned. They appealed to the generosity of certain citizens, they held a drawing which realized $375, and solicited $100 in contributions from various parish organizations. To this nucleus Lachute Municipality added a grant of $200 and the provincial government equalled that amount. The Catholic School Commission, besides offering the use of the St. Julien school grounds, also contributed generously towards the equipment. So the fund gained impetus, until a total of $1,000 was available.

The playground is open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. under supervision of a monitress, Miss Marquise Désormeaux. This young lady was elected "mayoress" and Marcel Robertson "mayor" of the juveniles frequenting the recreation spot, which is for the enjoyment of all children in Greater Lachute.

The committee to whom credit is due for this venture, includes — Réal Lepage, chairman; Arthur Bélanger, vice-chairman; Sylvio Cadieux, secretary; Maurice Sarrazin, treasurer; Hubert Lemire, advisor.

Tradesman hurt as truck crashes into bridge

Doug Kettyle, Lachute plumbing contractor, was treated for a broken left shoulder and arm following an accident in which his recent-model station wagon swerved out of control on Main Street, crashing into the ironwork at the end of Barron's Bridge. He was accompanied by Martial Malette, also of Lachute.

The accident occurred around 11.30 Friday evening when the vehicule was headed down Main Street. Hitting the left side of the bridge, it swung completely around, the left-hand side of the vehicle then striking the opposite side of the bridge.

The accident was investigated by Sgt. Marcel Therrien and Cst. Jeannot Laurin, who took the injured man to the Providence Hospital in the police car. He was later transferred to the Hotel Dieu at St. Jerome.

Fills vacancy in Town Council

Stanley Holt, manufacturer, was the sole nominee for councillor to fill the east ward vacancy left by the resignation of Alderman Ross Muir. Nominations were filed last Monday. Mr. Holt will occupy seat No. 1, east ward, until expiry of the present term in February 1959.

Stanley Holt is no newcomer to the civic board, having served acceptably in the office of alderman for about 12 years in previous councils.

Found dead

Walter Ferguson, 50, a resident of Laurel, was found dead in his automobile near his home on Saturday, July 5 — death being due to natural causes, it is reported by Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen.

Young townsman drowned on visit to Verendrye Park

Georges Coulombe, 18-year-old office employee at Lachute Creamery Ltd., lost his life by drowning last Sunday at Lac des Loups, in La Verendrye Park.

The young man, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Coulombe, Lachute, had been visiting his brother André employed at O'Connell Lodge, and was due to return home the next day. The drowning occurred around 7 p.m., and the body was recovered immediately. Artificial respiration and oxygen were administered for over two hours, but the victim succumbed in an ambulance en route to the Mont Laurier hospital.

The remains were brought to the Menard Funeral Home, Lachute, and the funeral was held Wednesday morning at St. Julien Parish Church.

Georges Coulombe was the son of Maurice Coulombe, who is on the staff of Lachute Lumber & Millwork Limited. He is mourned by his father and mother, three brothers and two sisters. . . Sympathy is extended to the family in their bereavement.

6-Year-old boy drowning victim at Mille Isles

Tony Krushelnyski, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Krushelnyski, of Madeline Street, Pointe St. Charles, was drowned in Black Lake, in the Township of Mille Isles, while playing with several other youngsters. The body was recovered immediately, but despite aid summoned from Boy Scout Camp Tamaracouta, a short distance away, the youth was pronounced dead.

The incident occurred around 5 p.m. when the boy was playing in the water with eight other children. He apparently climbed onto a log and pushed himself out into the water; then slipped off the log, he sank in water about 15 feet deep.

The boy was at the lake with his parents, who were working on a new summer camp at the time. Assistance from the Boy Scout camp was imediately forthcoming, a crew of leaders worked on the victim with artificial respiration for some time, but to no avail.

District Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur declared the death accidental, due to drowning; no formal inquest was held.

Cars in mishaps — burned, crashed

A 1949 model sedan was destroyed by fire around 4.30 a.m. Sunday in an incident near St. Hermas, on Route 8. The car was owned and driven by Rolland Gauthier, of St. Jerome, and apparently took fire while in motion. The case was investigated by Traffic Officer Lawrence Cruise.

• • •

A 1957 sedan was reported a total loss around 1.30 a.m. Saturday, following an accident at the "Bull's Tongue", Route 41 east of Lachute, when the vehicle owned and driven by William Lonsdale, of Rocky Hill, Connecticut, swerved out of control, ending up in the ditch.

Traffic Officer Lawrence Cruise, who investigated, reports no serious injuries although the occupants were shaken up considerably.

• • •

Traffic Sergeant Roger Massie reports seven automobile accidents in the County during the week-end, four of them occurring within a one-hour period Saturday afternoon.

All accidents in the area involved material damage only, no serious injuries resulting.

Deranged gunman menaced homes at Mille Isles

A strange gunman menacing householders with a revolver struck fear in the countryside around Mille Isles last week, before the man was taken in charge after a 16-hour manhunt by police.

Maurice Tassé, a farmer near St. Jerome, resisted the man when he menaced his wife in their home, and was shot in the neck before the intruder fled in an automobile. Tassé was taken to hospital at St. Jerome. The car was later found abandoned in a ditch, and the police posse eventually trapped the man in a wooded area at Val Morin.

The incident, reported in the press, made no reference to the man's visits in Mille Isles, where he allegedly stole the automobile. According to information available from the district, he called at Willis Black's restaurant on the Mille Isles - St. Jerome Road. After this he entered the Pollock residence nearby in the owners' absence. The couple, returning home, found him inside, where he branded a revolver and made away with their car which was outside with the ignition key in the lock. He had previously visited the Alton Riddell home asking for food; Mrs. Riddell, alone with three children, had refused him admittance.

It is reported here that the man, about 30 years of age, had previously been under treatment in a mental institution, and that police had been informed he had left his home in a nearby village armed with a revolver.

Lachute-Ayersville dispute on water rate taken before Public Utilities Commission

Case heard, judgment pending

On Tuesday of last week representatives of the two municipalities of Lachute and Ayersville were on hand for presentation of the water-rate disagreement before the Quebec Public Utilities Commission. The case, concerning rates charged to Ayersville for water supplied by Lachute, was heard in Room 215 of the new Court House. The litigation was instigated by Lachute Town authorities, to levy 24½ cents per thousand gallons — this rate being rejected by the Ayersville Corporation.

The present rate is 11 cents per thousand gallons, on an average yearly consumption of 40-million gallons by Ayersville from the Lachute water system. This volume of consumption is ascertained by a master meter installed at the corner of Millway and Hamford Streets; readings are taken at monthly intervals, jointly by officers of the two municipalities, Joseph Senecal for Lachute and Adrien Cyr for Ayersville.

Ayersville Council took exception to the increase in rates considered by Lachute Town Council to be justified, reasonable and comparable.

Representing Lachute Town at the hearing last Tuesday were — Mayor Léopold Carrière, Jacques Poitras, secretary; Paul Laliberté, consulting engineer; Germain Filion, financial advisor; Fernand Legault, Q.C., legal advisor; A. R. Moore, accountant, of the firm of Corry & Moore, C.A.; and J. Leclerc, civil engineer.

Representing the Municipality of Ayersville were — Mayor Maurice Champagne; Councillors Maurice Dumas and Rosaire Quenneville; Conrad Legault, secretary; Bernard Mambessault, of St. Jerome, legal advisor; Laurent Girouard, civil engineer, of the firm of Lalonde, Girouard & Letendre.

All arguments in the case were heard, and the matter was taken under advisement, with judgment to be rendered at an undetermined date.

Hit and run — with hesitation

Vernon Purcell, 50, of Brownsburg, received minor injuries late Sunday evening when struck by a car on the "La Branche" montee, near Staynerville.

The accident occurred around 11, p.m. when the man was walking along the side of the road. He was struck from behind by a car, which stopped immediately following the mishap. The driver got out of the car, and seeing the injured man getting to his feet, sped away.

Mr. Purcell was treated for a broken right arm and other injuries. Anyone having any information concerning the incident is requested to contact Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen at the local Provincial Police office.

Cleric ordained, celebrates first mass at Grenville

The Rev. Joseph J. McCart

June 15 was a memorable date for the Rev. Joseph J. McCart, o.m.i., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McCart, of Grenville, who was ordained to the priesthood in St. Joseph's Church, Ottawa. He celebrated his first solemn High Mass in Our Lady of Seven Sorrows parish church at Grenville, on Sunday, June 22, assisted by the Rev. Father Maillé, p.p. (Assistant priest was Deacon the Rev. Father Francis Kavanagh, o.m.i., and Sub-Deacon the Rev. F. J. FitzGerald, o.m.i. The sermon was given by the Rev. C. Lavigne, o.m.i.)

Following the High Mass a banquet was given in St. Martin's School, and a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McCart.

The Rev. Joseph J. McCart was born August 27, 1931, at Calumet Island, Pontiac County, receiving his early education with the Daughters of Wisdom at Grenville, and finishing his classical studies in Ottawa University. His preparation for the priesthood was at the Holy Rosary Scholasticate in Ottawa.

After a month of holidays, Father McCart will return to the Oblate Seminary for one more year of studies.

Public interest is keen in 3 school board contests

For a Catholic School Commission vacancy in Lachute, Dr. Roger Lavigne was re-elected in west ward with a decisive majority over his opponent, Edouard Vivarais. The result was 237 to 58 votes — with 297 voters out of 398 eligible having cast their ballots. Dr. Lavigne's mandate is for a three-year term.

The board now comprises Fernand Legault, Q.C., Dr. R. Lavigne, Gaetan Leclair, Albert Legault and Gérard Lefebvre, with Réal Urbain as secretary.

At Grenville

A closely fought election took place on Monday when M. Ralph Robinson of Calumet was elected to the Grenville Protestant Board of School Trustees for a two-year term.

Mr. Robinson, government inspector, of Calumet, who has been a trustee for many years, and Richard Young, foreman, of Grenville, were the two candidates. The votes polled were — Robinson 93, Young 86.

Harold G. Brannan, president of the election, reported an exceptionally heavy vote — over 65% of the total eligible — indicating a re-awakened interest in school affairs.

Miss Dora Trineer acted as poll clerk.

At St. Andrews East

Leighton W. York who has served on the St. Andrews Protestant School Board for the past eight years or so, was re-elected for a three-year term, defeating L. Tupper Porter in an enthusiastic contest last Monday. The votes polled were 80 for Mr. York and 40 for Mr. Porter.

A total of 126 votes were cast, out of 160-odd eligible to vote — but it is believed almost every proprietor resident in the community on election day turned out, the public interest being remarkably keen. (Later information reveals there were only five property-holders present at the time who did not appear.)

Mrs. J. P. G. Mellers was clerk of the poll, and the town secretary, Mr. R. Viau, was chairman of the election.

The St. Andrews School Board comprises — Howard McOuat, chairman; J. Lawson Taylor, Henri Labreche, Maj-Gen. F. R. Phelan and L. W. York.

Girl killed by truck at B'burg, inquest is set

Six-year-old Joanne Tilsley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tilsley, of Brownsburg, died in an ambulance last Thursday while en route from the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury, to the Montreal Children's Hospital. The little girl was rushed to Hawkesbury following an accident near her home in Brownsburg, when she was struck by a truck owned by B. & P. Hall Bros., and driven by Jean-Jacques Monette, 30, of Brownsburg.

The accident occurred around 10 a.m. at the corner of St. Joseph Street and Maple Avenue South, when the victim was seeing a friend off on the bus. She apparently ran from behind the bus into the path of the oncoming truck. First aid treatment was given in Brownsburg, and the victim rushed to Hawkesbury.

An inquest will be held in the Lachute Town Hall this evening.

Annual picnic held by CNIB for sightless people

On Wednesday of last week the third annual CNIB picnic was held at the Rotary Brownsburg Park. This year sightless people from four counties gathered, and took part in various sports events. The Women's Auxiliary to the CNIB were in charge of all activities.

The Lions Club of Lachute and Ste. Rose, and the Lachute-Brownsburg Rotary, provided transportation or all their escorts; and several firms and businessmen contributed notably towards the success of the picnic — including Lowe's Dairy, Lachute Creamery, Courtien Bakery, J. P. MacKimmie & Sons, G. Desjardins, Chevrier-Lachute, Ted Vachon, R. Roussel, Beamish, Len Dion and R. A. Giles.

The following were winners in the sports section: Tommy Fillingham, Billy Mathews, Kathy McClintock, Donald Duncan, Jackie Ponech, Jimmy Oglivie, Michel Allard, Linda Mathews, Gwen Mathews, Peter Malone, Peter Paquette, Mr. Grant Staniforth, Mr. Gaston Lacasse, Mr. N. Monette and Mr. Placide Jolicoeur.

To dedicate new church hall at St. Mungo, Cushing, July 23

Cushing — On Wednesday evening, July 23, a service will be held for the dedication of the new church hall at St. Mungo's. The hall was planned and designed so as to blend harmoniously with the architectural lines of the old church, which was erected in 1836.

Dedication

Present with the minister, the Rev. J. Ralph Watson, will be the Rev. Eric Errey of Queen Mary Road United Church, Montreal, and chairman of the Presbytery, who will dedicate the hall. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. John Patterson, D.D., of St. Andrews Church, Lachine, Que.

After the dedication service the ladies of the congregation will serve tea. The building committee will be present to show friends through the new hall. The sesion at St. Mungo's extends a warm invitation to all interested friends throughout the County to attend these ceremonies.

Building Plans

In 1956 the "Old Stone School" in Cushing was given to St. Mungo's congregation by the late Mrs. Florence Duncan (née Foreman). In 1957 the congregation appointed a committee to investigate the possibilities of building a much-needed church hall. The committee was asked to assess the relative merits of renovating the "Old Stone School" or building a completely new hall.

The committee presented its findings to the congregation and a plan was approved to erect a hall to be located at the church. This plan was greatly aided by a generous donation from Mrs. Archie Graham, of Cushing, in memory of her late husband, who was for many years an elder in St. Mungo's.

The sale of the old school, Mrs. Graham's donation, together with an extremely successful financial drive, an interest-free loan from the Montreal Presbytery, and the co-operation of the committees and groups of the church, combined to erect a very fine church hall.

The Hall

The building is constructed of cement block with a stucco-finished exterior, to blend with the stonework of the church. The interior will be finished in plywood and Ten-Test, with fluorescent lighting in the main hall. The overall measurements are 28' x 55'.

Apart from the main hall there will be a modern kitchen (completely equipped with stoves, refrigerator, etc.); a robing room, washrooms, and a room (26' x 15') overlooking the main hall. There will be a communicating door between the church and hall. The cost of the project, including furnishings, will be approximately $14,500.

The general contractor was L. St. Jacques Ltée, of Lachute. The members of the building committee were — Leonard Wilson, chairman; James Coney, secretary; Vincent Elliott, treasurer; Mrs. D. Swail, Mrs. Wm. Usher, Mrs. M. R. Wilson, Messrs. Keith Canning, Allan Graham, John Owens, and Rev. J. Ralph Watson, ex-officio.

No urgent issues, routine business at B'burg Council

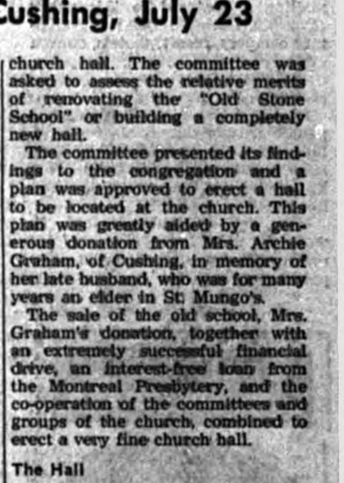

Brownsburg — The July 7 meeting of the Brownsburg Council was typical of many warm evening sessions, with few spectators and a relatively light agenda, which was handled in short order.

The tender submitted by René Laurin for the removal of five trees on Maple Avenue was discarded, since Mr. Laurin did not have the required insurance. The Mayor and a special committee were authorized to invistigate other possibilities, and to select the man to whom the contract would be given.

Council approved payment of monthly vouchers amounting to $1,892.70 in addition to an extra $766.01 as the town's share of social welfare costs in aiding destitute Brownsburg residents.

Fire Chief A. Robbins reported that, for the first time in many months, Brownsburg had been free of fires (an encouraging sign for all townspeople). Chief Robbins stated also that, since the curfew would not be sounded during the summer months, the siren would be overhauled to ensure continued trouble-free operation.

Police Chief Willie Lepine reported three fines were levied for stop-sign infractions, and three for parking infractions, also six parking notices were handed out. A total of three speeding tickets were issued (an increase of 200% over last month). . . It might be noted here that the Lachute Police Department assessed a total of 95 fines for traffic offences during the last month.

Historical Society members and friends enjoy garden party held in Carillon

The annual garden party of the Historical Society of Argenteuil County was held at the Carillon Museum last Saturday, with a good number of members and friends attending.

Under clearing skies the party was held on the gallery of the Museum. The vice-president, Mrs. N. Holland, spoke briefly, welcoming the members and their friends. A very successful auction sale provided the entertainment, with Mrs. B. Clark as auctioneer.

A lovely Ayers blanket, donated by Mr. C. Tremblay, was won by Mrs. S. G. Patterson, and a door prize donated by Mrs. H. Owen was won by Mrs. N. D. Somers.

Delicious refreshments were served by the ladies of St. Mungo's (Cushing) W.A.

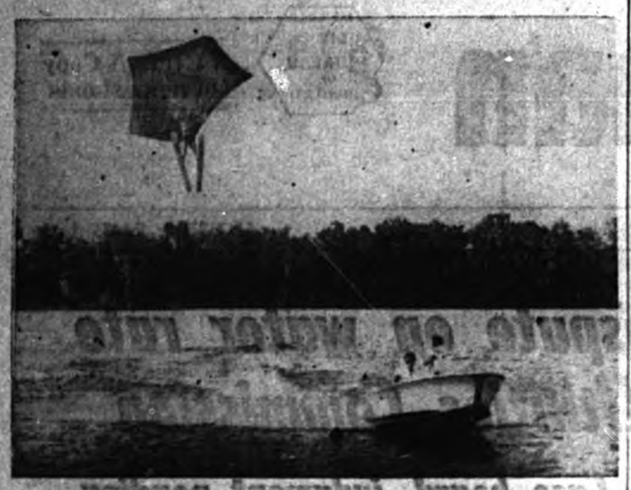

The Historical Society wish to express their sincere thanks to all who helped to make this event a success.

First professional exhibition of Art Association in 1958 season

Works of Helmut Gransow, of Morin Heights, will be featured in the next exhibition planned by the Argenteuil Art Association — continuing a season which has been both interesting and successful to date.

Mr. Gransow came to Canada in 1949. He received his training in Berlin and Karlsruhe, Germany, and since his arrival in Canada has shown widely in Montreal, Toronto, London, and other centres, both in solo exhibitions (at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, the Royal Ontario Museum and the London Art Gallery), and as a participating exhibitor. He has received much favorable comment for his work in graphic art and he excels in block prints and monotypes, as well as in landscapes in oils. Critics have noted with favor the wide variety in his work: to quote, "One is reminded a little of Goya — here, of Gauguin — this one a primitive — that one oriental."

The coming exhibition is highly recommended to the A.A.A. membership and to the public at large. It will be shown at the Town Hall at St. Andrews East, August 2-10, inclusive. Hours will be from 2 to 4 daily, with the exception of Saturdays and Sundays (August 2-3 and 9-10) when the hall will be open from 2 to 9 p.m.

The revue, which stars Marc Cloutier and 12 other water skiing experts, will be offered admission free to the public through the courtesy of Dow Brewery and its local distributor, J. René Laurin, Lachute.

Holger-Nielson Resuscitation Method

1. Although the cycle can be started with the push or the pull, in these pictures the operator of the Back Pressure-Arm Lift method of artificial respiration starts with the push, causing the victim to exhale. The operator puts her hands on the victim's back, just below the shoulder blades.

2. (Right) She exerts pressure vertically downward.

3. She then relaxes the pressure and slides her hands downward under the arms and just above the elbows.

4. Then she shifts the arms upward at the same time she rocks backward, drawing the arms toward her until she meets resistance. Then she replaces the arms of the victim on the floor, moves her hands to the back of the victim, and resumes the position shown in the first picture. This cycle, like all others, is repeated 12 times a minute.

Life saving pamphlets free for the asking

Illustrated instructions on the Holger-Nielson method for revival of drowning victims, may be had from The Lachute Watchman, by mailing a postcard to this paper (Box 828, Lachute, Que.) For summer campers, resorts, hotels, church or service club swimming pools, these instructions may be had by the dozen or hundred.

During the summer, hundreds of people are the victims of drowning. Some of these fatalities might have been averted, if someone with a knowledge of resuscitation had been readily available.

You are cordially invited to write the publishers for these folders, which are offered gratis as a public service.

By WEIGHT — THE SAME; BY RESULTS — BUY PURINA

You can't tell how far a frog can jump just by looking at it. In fact, you could weigh it too, but still you couldn't tell. The only way to find out which frog will jump farthest is to watch them and measure.

In a way, feed is like frogs. Performance is the important thing!

This is why we urge you to try Purina Chows this year. Seeing is believing; and giving Purina a fair try will let you see the way Purina can produce the goods.

When you buy feed, you are really buying so many eggs, or so much milk, or so many pounds of meat . . . and the only way to judge whether you are getting your money's worth is by the results.

When you buy feed, buy RESULTS — buy PURINA!

Check Your Feed Costs

"Penny wise — pound foolish" is an old and very true saying. Ever think how it fits right in with your feed buying? There are feeds that are a few pennies cheaper by the bag than Purina, but when it comes to the pounds made from those feeds — that's where Purina clearly shows its real value.

Check your costs. The price of the feed against the eggs, or the milk, or the gains made. That will show you which is the best value.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons: but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all. — Edmund Burke

Teen-age dilemma

A LETTER from a teen-ager on this page, being unsigned, should strictly-speaking be withheld from publication. However, we make an exception in this case since it is realized this is a representative viewpoint among young residents.

We would point out to the writer, however, that the situation is far from being one-sided. While seeming to protest that the regulation of grills is out of hand, this young spokesman in the same sentence proclaims that his young friends are practising deception and are among the worst offenders.

A more regrettable instance of such lack of co-operation occurred in the dances operated by the Legion, at considerable effort and sacrifice, wholly for the recreation of teen-agers. In this case the committee seriously contemplated folding up — because some of their young patrons were first patronizing the grills and arriving at the dances the worse for liquor. This sincere effort on the part of the Legion deserves, we believe, a demonstration of sincere and practical co-operation.

We, too, would like to see more amusement in town for teen-agers, including orderly restaurants with a spot for dancing. But the number of teen-agers who abuse their privileges and show an appalling lack of appreciation, makes the campaign that much more difficult.

We would add our emphatic view, that the City Fathers deserve no recrimination for endeavoring to keep local youth from the influence of the grills.

Farm Safety Week, July 20 - 26

Prevent farm accidents!

THOUGHTLESSNESS is the greatest contributing factor to the some 500 farm accident fatalities occurring throughout Canada each year. More and more, the Canadian people are becoming aware of the ever-mounting number of fatalities on the farm. The numerous intensified safety campaigns continually being waged against motor vehicle accidents have so saturated everyone that the time-worn phrase, "Better safe than sorry", has lost much of its punch. It is, however, most gratifying to realize that both town and country people all over Canada and the United States are actively concerned with farm safety.

The Province of Saskatchewan's Department of Public Health has concerned itself with this rural condition since 1952. The Province of Ontario's Department of Agriculture is now developing a Farm Safety Council within its own activities. Saskatchewan, from its experience, headlines "Tractors, Not Farm Beasts, Now Cruel Rural Risk."

Farm Safety Week — July 20 to 26 — has been instituted on a national basis by the Canadian Federation of Farm Equipment Dealers, assisted by its Provincial Association affiliates. These dates are also the corresponding dates for the National Farm Safety Week proclaimed by President Eisenhower for the United States, making this an international cause. Primarily, the motivating power behind this movement was the Farm Equipment Institute based in Chicago, an organization embracing the manufacturers of farm equipment. Farm Safety has spread to become one of the chief concerns of numerous associations, organizations and government bodies.

Tragedy, through accidental deaths, and hospitalization caused by accidents, brings sorrow and suffering to such a vast number of Canadians, annually, that any effort at reduction would be welcome. This age of mechanization, when applied to agriculture, has been a great blessing to farm people, for it has reduced the working time, the arduous labor and the almost unsurmountable tasks, to bring about increased production so badly needed. Continually we are being informed that Canada's farm population is dwindling. Let us never hesitate to exert every effort to protect those who do choose the production of food as their lifetime vocation.

Designers, engineers, manufacturers and distributors of farm equipment use the utmost ingenuity to build and produce machinery that is the ultimate in safety. Because of their close proximity to the actual happenings, they are much more conscious of the need for an educational program. Available information reveals that the majority of farm accidents are the results of improper use or thoughtless employment of machinery. National Farm safety Week is therefore designed to alert the greatest number of people to the need for an educational policy to increase the efficiency and decrease the fatality involved.

Power from atoms

MANY CANADIANS today have the mistaken idea that Canada is lagging behind other countries — especially Britain — in the development of atomic power plants.

Britain has a type of atomic power plant in operation at present, generating electricity to feed British industry. But this does not mean that Canadian progress in harnessing the atom is behind the strides made in Britain.

The atomic plants in Britain are part and parcel of the huge British military atomic program. In effect, the electricity produced is a by-product of plants designed to produce plutonium for use in atomic bombs.

Because of military necessity, the cost of the British plants is secondary. The price of the electricity produced is abnormally high compared with even the highest costs of electric production in Canada.

Canada could duplicate the British effort if it wanted to produce atomic weapons. However, the Canadian program is devoted only to peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Duplicating the British or American military programs would also cost a great deal of money. Canada simply could not afford to embark on such a venture and doesn't want to anyway.

Canada is trying to build an atomic power station which will produce economic electricity and nothing else. This station must be able to generate power at a cost of from five to six mills a kilowatt hour. Unless it can do that it will be cheaper in areas without hydro-electric sources to build electric stations powered by coal or gas.

There's every indication that Canada will achieve her goal of cheap atomic power in as little as 10 years.

Britain in producing power by atomic means at a high mill cost is not committing an economic folly for two reasons. One is that Britain now must import coal for her thermal stations, making power more costly than in Canada. The second is that Britain's hydro resources are nearly depleted and electricity must be produced at any cost.

But the situation is different in Canada. Atomic electricity must be produced cheaply in order to compete with coal and gas.

Viewpoints and perspectives

IT'S A BUG'S WORLD. — Somebody once figured out that there are as many insects in one square mile of land as there are people in the whole world.

This works out to about 50 million insects to every human being, so people can consider themselves lucky that most insects are rather small. Small or not, though, they have, collectively, giant-sized appetites. Insects destroy one-third of all the food man grows, and this figure would be much higher were it not for agricultural chemicals. Adequate chemical control of these food destroyers has enabled man to grow not only more food but better quality food, and continued research in agricultural chemicals will increase food production while decreasing destruction.

What is the "Frontier College"?

While Canada has become a highly industrialized nation, there are still thousands of miles of frontier, where settlements are scattered and most of the population live in some form of camp. Road and railway workers have their remote camps, and mining, bush and logging camps are far from civilization. In these remote communities there is a considerable lack of educational opportunities. To serve the men in these camps there was founded, in 1900, Frontier College. This became incorporated in 1919, and today its work is still very important. Much of the credit for the success of the college must go to two men of courage and competence, Dr. E. W. Bradwin, and before him, Principal A. Fitzpatrick. Each year recruits are selected from Canadian and American universities to go out to the camps as labourer-teachers. They spend the summer or longer earning their living by working on the job by day and organizing classes, et cetera, in the evening. A large proportion of the "Colleges" are to be found in Ontario, but they are scattered throughout all provinces in tents, shanties or railway cars, giving hundreds of men their only chance at education.

Where were the First Official Dog Obedience Trials in Canada held?

Obedience trials were begun in Canada in 1932, and have since become as popular here as in the United States. The first of such trials of an official nature was held in Vancouver at the Canadian Pacific Exhibition Dog Show in 1940. As the name implies, obedience trials are for determining the degree of obedience the entered dogs exhibit. The trained dogs are judged on their response to given commands forming specified tests, and titles may be earned. The first dog of any breed to win all obedience trial degrees in both Canada and the United States was a Canadian-bred Welsh Corgi (Pembroke) Champion Windrush Redwing, International C.D., C.D.X., U.D., owned by Mrs. M. K. Page of York Mills, Ontario.

Advertising

The other day a merchant in a small town told his editor that he had decided to stop his advertising and save money.

The editor had an answer for him, a darn good answer.

"Okay," said the editor. "And while you are at it, why not stop your watch and save time?"

The merchant, fortunately, got the point. He is advertising more heavily than ever, which means he is doing what is necessary to make money, rather than lose money. You don't save any money by stopping advertising any more than you save time by stopping your watch.

Of course, if you have a poor watch, you ought to change it. And if your advertising is not paying off, you ought to make it better. Too many merchants get less results than they should from their advertising because they give it so little of their attention.

Advertising ought to be prayed over. I've known merchants, with very little education, who could prepare an advertisement as well as or better than some of the experts on Madison Avenue. They do a lot of thinking about their customers, and what the customers would be looking for at each season.

When an advertisement appears, it is always wise to clip it and show it in the window of the store, together with some of the items it talks about. This combination of advertisement and display has been making money for the big stores for the last twenty years. Why some of the smaller merchants neglect it, I cannot understand. Some retailers are merchants of apathy — not of products!

Retailers in small towns miss too many opportunities. Do you know, for example, that nowadays the trend is for farm families to own a boat and outboard motor? They load them on truck or trailer and hit for the nearest lake to bathe and swim after a day in the fields. That's a trend in the States and it will come to Canada. Why let these farmers go to the city for such requirements? Many a local hardware could make good money selling boats and motors in Canada this summer, to farmers, if they'd stock up and advertise. Farmers, too, are going in for waterworks. Show them how, advertise pumps and motors, and tell them how little it costs — and you'll be pleasantly surprised.

I picked up a fine weekly paper just recently, published in a good district in Southwestern Manitoba. Everything is good about it except the shortage of advertising, and the poor quality of the advertising. I wish I could get the merchants of that town together in one place and I'm sure I could prove to them that they've a gold mine among them and they're not sinking the shaft. They've got a fine newspaper and they don't know it. Or else they are just not interested in making money.

Deplores lack of social facilities for young people

Lachute, Que.
July 10, 1958

Dear Sir:

I am a teen-ager, and like most others residing in Lachute I am thoroughly disgusted with the town and the officials.

Now what is there for one of us to do in this "Ghost Town"? There is no place for us to get together and enjoy ourselves (e.g., a restaurant with dancing and a little noise allowed). Instead, the boys play pool or stand on the corners, while the girls walk the streets in slacks. (Skin-tight slacks instead of Bermuda shorts which are much more fashionable and respectable, and, because of an old-fashioned by-law, are prohibited.)

While reading the July 9 issue of "The Watchman" one would be led to think the hotel situation was under control. Why, I have many friends who have no fear whatsoever to enter the grills. It seems, since they say they are twenty and look like they are old enough to shave, they are allowed to enter with no questions asked. If they are questioned, only their name is taken, and nothing ever seems to become of it.

So with this evidence I would say Lachute is a good breeding place for delinquent juveniles. It's surprising it's as low as it is. It would be well for some citizens to read this letter.

— A Hopeful Teenager

Note: See comment on this letter in editorial column.

— Editor

People who marry for money, or zealously cultivate the friendship of their bosses, are often subject to undeserved "hatred, contempt and ridicule."

Resentment against such people is often based on the idea that they are phonies, pretending to show a regard which they really do not feel.

In fact, however, they are often in earnest. The girl isn't merely feigning love for the rich man. Surrounded by comforts, and the promise of further comforts, she feels a sense of well-being that helps love to flourish. It is the genuine article.

Very likely, she loves the man and his wealth too. If it hadn't been for the money, she would not have noticed him at all. There is no use blaming her for being that kind of person, any more than you blame a television set for not bringing in radio signals.

The person who cultivates the friendship of his boss by way of the golf course or the bridge table should not be condemned too hastily.

Often as not, his behavior has little to do with a calculated policy of self-advancement. It just comes naturally. The person feels truly that he belongs with the upper echelons of the company or government department where he works, and he is at ease there.

Sometimes, indeed, his former boss may fall from favor, or be transferred to another department where he can't do the employee any good. Soon those friendly rounds of golf or bridge games begin to taper off and after a while they cease.

Later the employee finds a new golfing and bridge opponent, his new boss. It is idle to condemn him for such a change of loyalty. He may not even be aware what he has done.

On the other hand, there are persons who do such things on purpose. Some people marry for money or cultivate the friendship of bosses, as part of a carefully devised plan. But I think such persons are comparatively few.

There are also persons who overcompensate: Girls who carefully avoid rich bachelors, and employees who will do anything rather than speak a civil word to their bosses.

The ideal is to treat everyone with warmth and courtesy, whether they are executives, heiresses or tramps. But I don't know how many people reach the ideal, or try for it, in this selfish world.

Married recently at St. Andrews

Naismith - Woodward

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Christ Church, St. Andrews East, on June 28 at 3 p.m. by the Rev. C. R. Lang, when Shirley Elaine, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Woodward, was united in marriage to Mr. Ian J. D. Naismith, son of Dr. J. J. D. Naismith and Mrs. D. M. Naismith, of England.

During the signing of the register the choir sang, with Mr. W. Payne of Lachute at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white lace and net over satin. Her veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet of pearls, and she carried a bouquet of red and white roses.

Miss Betty Baxter, of Oshawa, Ont., as maid of honor, wore a gown of cornflower blue nylon with matching picture hat and shoes. The bride's mother wore a dress of slate blue lace over satin with white accessories, with a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. Kenneth McOuat, of St. Andrews East, acted as best man.

A reception was later held at the home of the bride's parents, after which the bridal couple left for their honeymoon, the bride travelling in a beige linen suit with matching hat and gloves and a corsage of yellow roses.

They will reside in St. Andrews East.

Ontario wedding of interest here

Everett - Scott

On Saturday, June 28, at four o'clock, a very pretty wedding was solemnized at the First Baptist Church in Georgetown, when Dorothy Ruth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Scott, of 63 Guelph Street, became the bride of Arthur Bartlett Everett, of Georgetown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Everett of Plaster Rock, N.B.

The church was decorated with white gladioli and roses. The Rev. L. K. Chubb, of Brampton, performed the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. W. Townsend played the wedding music, and Mrs. D. Hancock, of Glen Williams, was soloist, singing the wedding prayer before the ceremony, and a marriage hymn during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of white silk organza over net and taffeta, with appliquéd Guipure lace on the portrait neckline and skirt. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion fell from a tiara of pearls and sequins, and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Donald Agnew, matron of honor, and Miss Barbara Bowman, bridesmaid, were both gowned alike in cotillion blue silk organza over net and taffeta, fashioned with draped necklines and bouffant skirts. Their bouquets were of pink carnations.

Mr. Clifford Everett, of Georgetown, was best man for his brother, and Messrs. Gerald Scott, of Toronto, brother of the bride, and Leslie Dickenson, of Georgetown, were the ushers.

The wedding reception was held in the Sunday School room. Mrs. Scott, mother of the bride, received for her daughter in a gown of Rose de Paris organza over taffeta, with flower hat to match, white accessories and a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Everett, the groom's mother, assisted, dressed in a navy and white ensemble, with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

For their honeymoon in the Eastern States, the bride travelled in a Champagne silk shantung dress with matching feather hat, vanilla bag, shoes and shortie coat, and her corsage was of apricot-colored rose buds. On their return they will make their home in Georgetown.

Mrs. David Tomalty, of Brownsburg, Que., grandmother of the bride, was an honored guest — other guests being from Plaster Rock, N.B., Montreal, Lachute, Que., Winnipeg and points in Ontario.

Appreciation to campaign helpers

The following letter is addressed by the Rotary Club committee to all helpers in the recent Peanut Drive for funds to maintain the community park.

Brownsburg, Que.

Dear Friend:

We wish to thank YOU for your assistance in our recent "Peanut Drive" to raise funds for our youth and welfare work particularly the Park and Playgrounds.

I am sure that you and the other volunteer workers can take pleasure in knowing that you are helping to build the park and a better community.

The money raised is used at the park for competent supervision for the children; maintenance materials such as lumber, paint and sand and gravel for the beach or roadway; and development.

In addition, much back-breaking work is given by Rotarians and supporters. For example, last Wednesday evening a group installed posts for a new fence to protect the children from the traffic in the park.

Thanks for your help.

— W. W. Freeland,
(For the Committee)

Rooms sought by Jehovah's Witnesses in New York environs

New York — One of the greatest room hunts in the history of New York is now in full swing.

Some 10,000 Jehovah's Witnesses are currently engaged in a house-to-house canvass of Manhattan, Brooklyn, the Bronx and Queens. They are seeking living quarters for an estimated 125,000 Witnesses who will converge on New York to attend a week-long world assembly of the movement beginning July 27.

The Witnesses will take over both the Yankee Stadium and the Polo Grounds for their sessions.

Teams of house hunters have been fanning out over the city since April 26. So far, they have signed up about 95,000 rooms with 30,000 to go by deadline on July 26.

John O. Groh, convention manager, noted that Witnesses will be arriving from more than 100 countries during the next fortnight. Three ships have been chartered to bring them to the U.S. as well as 65 special airplane flights.

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training

"I can't sleep!"

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"It's hard enough to get children off to bed at night any time in the year — but Daylight Saving Time and long summer evenings make a mother's job ten times more difficult!" Mrs. Brown complained to her neighbor, who quite agreed with her.

"Our Billy buys the most awful crime comics — and then trades them among his friends. They certainly make poor bedtime reading!" Mrs. Smith admitted with a sigh. "Enough sleep is important for growing children — but I get all worn out worrying about it!"

These two mothers voice the opinions of a lot of parents. There are so many attractions (and distractions) to keep boys and girls in a wide-awake frame of mind long after they should be asleep at night. Children do vary in the amount of rest they need. But the watchful mother can quickly see by her child's appearance or by his fretful, fatigued actions that he is not getting enough rest.

A going-to-bed ritual is helpful for the small child. Exciting play after supper must be avoided. If he is playing quietly, mother should warn him when his bedtime hour is approaching. Likely he will need a little encouragement to put his toys away — but he can shed his clothes with real speed! After he has gone to the toilet, washed and brushed his teeth, he expects a little "tucking in time" with mother.

This is a wonderful opportunity to encourage a child's interest in books. Picture books for tiny tots, and picture story books for pre-school children are a great source of quiet pleasure. Most children hate to see the end of their day — but they are less reluctant to go to bed if it is associated with the fun of exploring in the land of books.

Sometimes there are specific causes why a child is having a hard time going to sleep. He may be too excited from listening to a suspense radio story or seeing an unsuitable movie or TV program for a child, or reading an undesirable comic book. Perhaps he has not had enough exercise in the fresh air — or he may have had too much physical exercise and be too tired!

Active growing children often have tremendous appetites and pangs of hunger may keep them from slumber. A light snack at night may be necessary. Parents, if they can discover why their child can't get to sleep, can re-adjust his day to overcome, as far as possible, this obstacle.

A child who is under too much parental pressure to excel in school studies or sports may be wakeful. He is apprehensive that he may not come up to his family's expectations for him. Mothers and fathers must learn to accept their children as they are, if their youngsters are to have a relaxed, happy attitude at bed time.

If a parent is the worrying type this is very contagious, and a young worrier may be kept awake by anxious thoughts. Almost every child, at some stage in his life, will give her child the chance to talk about his fears, and will take time to re-assure him, this may be the very "medicine for sleep" he needs.

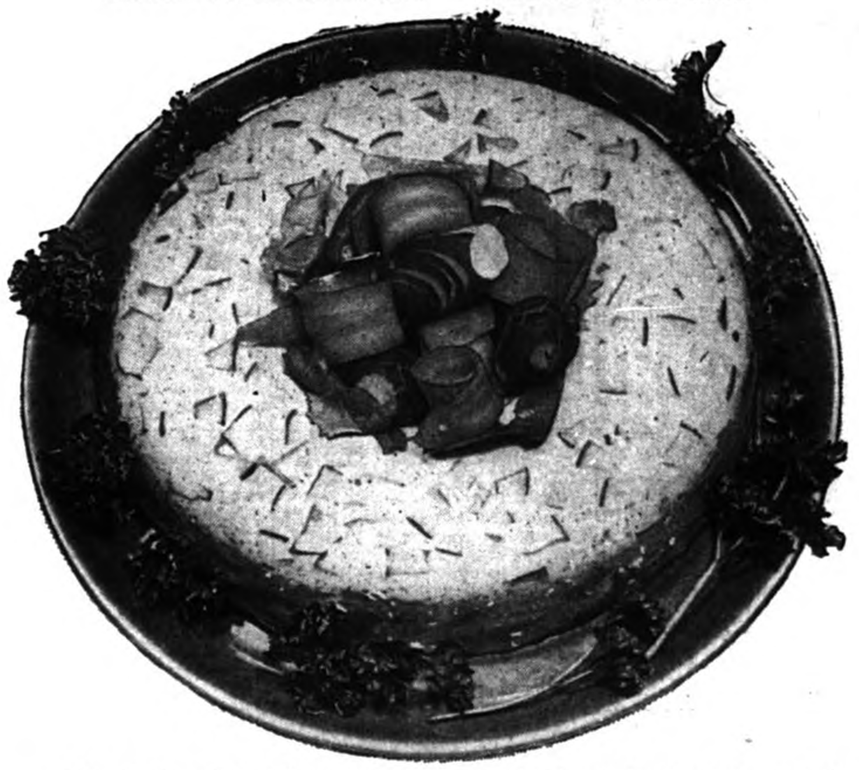

Last, but not least, a child's prayers are a help to the quiet mind and peaceful heart which invites slumber. Parents fail their children if they do not give them religious training. Every child should feel he can talk to his Loving Heavenly Father in his own words at any time as well as say a simple Bedtime Prayer.

Dr. Alan Dafoe, famous doctor of the Quints, once said, "I wish every child could kneel and say his prayers, even at three. Whatever one's religion, and whether one has strong convictions or none at all, it is only fair to give little children guide posts to go by. They need them. Send them to Sunday School, read Bible stories to them, and teach them their prayers."

WOMEN

An old Arabian saying has it that "God created the Universe and Mankind but the Devil, jealous of such beauty, created style and fashion to trouble woman."

Salad Week Preview – Cucumber Mousse

Make-ahead, moulded salads are perfect for both family meals and party buffets. This one is distinguished by a subtle blending of crisp cucumber with whipped cream and seasonings — a refreshing combination that's sure to be popular during Salad Week, July 31 to August 9. (Consumer Section, Marketing Service, Canada Department of Agriculture.)

Here's a good patio party supper!
Cucumber Mousse garnished with Cress
Sliced Luncheon Meat
Devilled Eggs Potato Chips
Garlic French Bread
Blueberries and Cream

1 Package gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1½ teaspoons finely chopped onion, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 1 cup whipping cream, ½ cup peeled, seeds, chopped cucumber, ¼ cup unpeeled, seeded, chopped cucumber.

Soak gelatine in cold water and vinegar for 5 minutes, then dissolve over hot water. Add onion, salt and paprika, stir well, then cool until mixture is the consistency of heavy syrup. Whip cream until stiff, gradually beat in gelatine mixture, then fold in cucumber. Turn into a large mould or into individual moulds and chill until set, about 1½ hours. Makes about 3 cups. (This salad may be made ahead of time and stored frozen at 0°F. up to 1 month.)

Q.W.I. viewpoint on broadcasting

Mrs. H. Ellard, 1st vice-president of the Quebec Women's Institutes, is representing that organization when a delegation meets the Prime Minister in Ottawa this week. This will consist of representatives from groups pressing for implementation of the Fowler Commission recommendations on conferring of regulatory powers upon a public authority such as the Board of Broadcasting Governors, as outlined by that Commission.

The QWI upholds the principle of a single broadcasting board of leading representative Canadians who will be responsible to Parliament and free from political interference, and supports the recommendation of the Fowler Commission that there be no change in the principle of the present national system.

Amateur decorators have the chance of a lifetime at the summer cottage. They can experiment in colors and styles to their heart's content. The polite pastel shades of town can become hill-billy rusts and reds.

Rougher building materials in summer homes may require special surface preparation before painting, and in decorating unfinished wooden walls, knotholes should be sealed with shellac to prevent bleeding through the paint. Rough surfaces should be sanded down — the more sanding the smoother the finished coat will appear.

Special "sealer" undercoatings of paint are needed for a cottage finished with composition wallboard, which is porous.

Lasting Floors

Floors take a beating from wet and sandy feet, and usually need painting each season. In touching up an already-painted floor, all traces of wax must be removed or the paint won't dry. And there's no need to wax a painted floor — it is easier to clean if it is simply enamelled.

For cottage exteriors, each type of building material requires its own treatment. When the siding is of asbestos or cement shingles, the experts advise an acrylic masonry paint.

Always watch the weather before starting painting. Clear, dry days when the temperature is above 50 degrees is ideal. When painting exteriors, direct sunshine may blister the paint, so stay on the shady side of the house when you are painting. Paint dries more slowly in wet weather. But cottagers usually save interior painting for rainy days.

Serene Workers

Serenity is the most valuable quality for office girls on a hot day, says the chief medical officer of an industrial firm.

"Don't get steamed up" says the medico, "just keep your work orderly, so that you don't waste time looking for a lost letter."

He adds these hints: Full skirts are cooler than straight ones when sitting at a typewriter; don't wear tiresome heavy jewelry; wear comfy shoes, have frequent baths, and don't eat heavily.

Bean Feasts

There is nothing quite like a bean feast, and quick-to-prepare dishes can be made with beans. Latest recipe is a western beef and bean casserole.

Ingredients: two tablespoons butter or shortening, one pound minced beef, one package onion soup, half-cup water, one cup ketchup or chili sauce, two tablespoons prepared mustard, two teaspoons cider vinegar, two 15-ounce cans of pork and beans, bacon slices.

Brown the minced beef in hot butter or fat. Stir in remaining ingredients. Pour into individual casseroles, or a medium casserole. Top with bacon slices. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 to 30 minutes, until heated through. Crisp bacon slices under broiler.

Modified chemise takes shape as autumn fashions previewed

Canadian fall fashions will offer women a wide choice, according to a preview survey made by the Canadian Fabrics Foundation. Despite the controversy which has raged around the chemise and trapeze silhouettes, Canadian makers have created many versions undeniably flattering to all types of figures.

The preview survey was conducted when Canadian makers first unveiled their fall creations in Toronto and Montreal to retail stores' buyers from across the country. These showings reconfirm that Canada's clothing manufacturers are expert at producing the latest fashions in a manner most suitable for our climate and way of life, and at modest prices.

Fabrics

Canadian fabrics are as important in the fashion story for fall as the silhouettes. Most are muted in pattern and texture and soft in color and feel. They are rich-looking, but without fancy trim or bold texture that might distract from the clear-cut lines of the new silhouettes.

"Wool-like" is a term which best describes most of the new Canadian synthetic suitings. Patterns are neat, even tiny; tweeds and boucles are subdued, and surfaces are brushed to give a soft woolly look and feel. Wool coatings often have pile or fleecy surfaces. The newest show curly and shaggy texture.

These trends are also evident in Canadian dress fabrics according to the survey report. Pliable crepe and tissue failles, soft wool jerseys and flannels predominate. The crisp taffetas and failles appear mainly in flounces or trims on the new trapeze styles.

Silhouettes

The chemise of last season was as straight as possible. The new versions retain the unfitted waist but feature emphasis at either the bosom or low, near the hemline. The bosom emphasis is also strong in trapeze fashions and is being called "Empire" or the "Madame Recamier" look.

In most cases it is created with a high-placed belt, tie or band. On the other hand, the long torso styles frequently break into a flounce near the hem giving the "flapper" look.

These features are true of coats and suits as well as dresses. Suits vary between the short-jacketed type with straight or trapeze skirt and the very long-jacketed type known as the "stroller".

Recent wedding at Arundel, Que.

Champagne - Dubeau

The marriage of Eleanor Margaret Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dubeau, of Arundel, Que., to Mr. Lloyd George Champagne, son of Mrs. Felix Champagne and the late Mr. Champagne, of Arundel, Que., took place recently in Arundel Grace Church, which was decorated with lupins and poppies.

The Rev. Francis K. Bussell performed the ceremony and Mrs. William Morrison played the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white Madeira lace over tulle and poult-de-soie fashioned with a fitted bodice, a scalloped neckline edged with seed pearls, and full-length sleeves terminating in points over the hands. The billowing skirt fell in a chapel train and was decorated with seed pearls and crystal sequins. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a Princess Grace seed-pearl minature crown and she carried a cascade spray of stephanotis centred by two orchids.

The Misses Shirley Dubeau Joyce Aspin and Kay Williams served as her maid of honor and attendants, and wore lovely ballerina-length crystalette gowns of shrimp, pale lime and periwinkle blue; they carried cascade bouquets of alternating white and gown-matching carnations. The flower girl was Gail Williams, who was gowned in golden yellow Chantilly lace over tulle with a matching tiara, and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow and white carnations.

Mr. Michael Flanagan was best man. Percy Dubeau, brother of the bride and Mr. Nicholas Scollard served as ushers.

The mother of the bride wore a Ceeil Chapman original of navy blue linen and white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother wore a Dior gown of white and rose-petal pink Italian silk, a Baku hat trimmed with tiny pink Demure roses, and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the reception, which was held at the Arundel auditorium, the couple left for a motor trip, the bride travelling in a royal blue tailored suit and powder blue accessories, with a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. They will reside in Montreal.

CAUTIOUS SWAN

St. Thomas, Ont. (CP) — When six baby swans were added to the population of Pinafore Park the proud parents stoutly warded off Bambi, the park deer. The curious deer had to wade through the water to escape the powerful bills and flailing wings.

Morin Heights

Mr. and Mrs. P. Krusto, of Montreal, visited friends and relatives here over the week-end.

Simulator Tests Pilot's Reactions to Crises

A flight simulator, which enables Canadian Pacific Airlines to test a pilot's reactions to almost every conceivable emergency, while he is still on the ground, is examined by Herbert Hoilick-Kenyon, director of CPA's training department, and Capt. James McGuire. The simulator, involving three-quarters of a million dollars' worth of delicate instruments, enables pilots to "fly" under all conditions while sitting in CPA's Vancouver hangar. An instructor at a "panic" instrument panel can test the pilot in any emergency he wants during the "flight."

Royal Train in readiness for Princess Margaret's eastward tour

Montreal — When Princess Margaret travels from Vancouver to Banff and Calgary during her Canadian tour, the Canadian Pacific will provide the first Royal Train ever assembled with a scenic dome car.

The stainless steel, glass-roofed car, part of the equipment used in Canadian Pacific's streamliner "The Canadian", will enable Her Royal Highness to enjoy the spectacular scenery of the Canadian Rockies through which she will travel in daylight on July 26.

Seven cars have been chosen for the Royal Train, including the business cars "Strathcona" and "Mount Stephen", which have been assigned for the personal use of Her Royal Highness and have been refitted for the occasion.

The other cars are all stainless steel, of the type used in "The Canadian", and include a baggage-dormitory car at the head end, the dining car "Princess", a "Manor" class sleeper, a "Chateau" class sleeper, the "Skyline" dome coach, all assembled in that order, behind the two diesel "A" units which will power the train.

The "Mount Stephen" is assembled ahead of the "Strathcona" at the rear of the train.

The business car "Strathcona" is adapted for the comfort of travelling royalty. It contains a spacious bedroom and a dressing room for Princess Margaret's personal use, as well as an observation room at the rear. A shower bath is fitted into the car.

The business car "Mount Stephen" is fitted for office use and as a personal dining room for Her Royal Highness. The "Mount Stephen" is named after the C.P.R.'s first president and the "Strathcona" bears the name of Lord Strathcona, an original director of the company who drove the last spike at Craigellachie on November 7, 1885.

The stainless steel cars in the Royal Train are decorated in a Canadian motif, with Canadian scenes, birds, flowers and historic emblems brightening the walls. Arborite, carved linoleum, cut glass and murals give them a bright and attractive appearance.

The skyline scenic dome coach is decorated with an animated tourist map of Canada, while carved linoleum panels depict the history of Canadian transportation and one of the provincial legislatures.

The Royal Train, after leaving Vancouver early on July 26, will travel up the Fraser River gorge in darkness. Its first stop will be for 20 minutes at Kamloops, a ranch-land centre north of the apple-producing Okanagan Valley and south of the romantic Cariboo gold trail.

At Salmon Arm, the next stop is scheduled for five minutes, with a 15-minute stop planned at Revelstoke, in the heart of the mountains.

Three hours later, the train will make a 10-minute stop at Golden, in the valley of the Columbia River, near the five-mile-long Connaught Tunnel.

Field, at the base of tall mountains, is the next scheduled stop, where the train will take a 10-minute breather. Just after leaving Field, the train will pass through the Spiral Tunnels, engineering marvels which enabled Canadian Pacific to reduce its grade by having its line spiral up through coils dug through two monutains.

The first stage of the train trips ends in the mountain wonderland of Banff. The remainder of this Royal Train's trip, will be on July 29, the train leaving Banff that evening and arriving in Calgary the following morning.

Urges tax consideration for home improvers

Granby, Que. — Stressing the activity in home improvement resulting from the recent Operation Home Improvement Campaign launched in this district, Alex Babin, president of the Quebec Retail Lumber Dealers Association, supported a recent statement made by Mayor Jean Louis Cardin of Farnham, asking that taxes on renovated properties remain unchanged.

Mayor Cardin suggested a revision of the Towns and Cities Act which would protect property owners from increased tax assessment because of alterations made to their properties. Mayor Cardin pointed out that under the present law, properties were subject to periodic revision of assessment, which condition might discourage proprietors from carrying out much needed repairs and improvement through fear of having to pay higher taxes.

Mr. Babin said he was in accord with Mayor Cardin and hoped that his suggestion would be acted upon by the powers-that-be.

Mr. Babin said that the recent Operation Home Improvement Campaign in his district had led to much activity, not only in the lumber industry, but in all allied trades, and he was confident that this would continue in other parts of the province.

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you:

Q. Recently, while drawing unemployment insurance benefit, I worked for a week building stock-room shelves for a store-keeper. I owed him a $45 bill and he agreed to mark this paid in return for my work. I did not report this to the local office as a friend told me the work did not count as I had not actually received any money. I have been told by the local office that I should not have received benefit for that week and I now have to pay back the $30. I do not think this is fair as I didn't realize that I had to report this work.

A. Although you may have acted in good faith, you received benefit to which you were not entitled and the money must be repaid to the unemployment insurance fund. It is not good policy to act upon information given by unauthorized persons. When a person is in receipt of benefit, any work, other than routine household chores, must be reported to the local office where it will be determined whether or not it affects the payment of benefit.

Q. I am receiving regular unemployment insurance benefit at the present time but my benefit will be exhausted in July. I have been told that if I am still unemployed, I will be able to draw seasonal benefit from December 1, 1958 to June 28, 1959. Is this correct?

A. No. Seasonal benefit is payable in the period from the beginning of the week in which December 1 falls to the week in which the following May 15 falls, both inclusive. You would qualify for benefit in this period but the maximum time for which you could be paid will depend on the length of time you were paid under your previous claim (that ended in July). Seasonal benefit will be paid this year to June 28; but that date applies to this year only.

Q. Can one draw insurance benefits as well as old age pension paid to persons of 70?

A. Yes. The fact that a person may be drawing a pension of any kind has no bearing on his entitlement to unemployment insurance benefit. He must be ready, able and willing to work, however.

Q. Will you please explain to me the difference between ordinary benefits and seasonal benefits?

A. Ordinary benefit is payable to the person who meets the full contribution requirements for qualification and is payable at any time of the year. Seasonal benefit, on the other hand, is payable, during the period from December 1 to mid-May only, to those persons who are unable to meet the contribution qualifying requirements for ordinary benefit but who have at least 15 contribution weeks since the end of the previous March or have had an ordinary claim end since the preceding May 15.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Touring Canada on a "sea shell safari" is a delightful way to "dig up" vacation fun.

Any shell collector worth his seaweed knows that shells differ not only from Atlantic to Pacific, but along the same coast. Collectors find the most specimens at low tide and full moon or after a storm.

The secret of collecting shells is to find those with two matching sides, whether separated or joined. The best method is to dredge in shallow water with a sieve and "pan" for shells. You can also comb the beach picking up loose specimens. As soon as you collect a specimen, make an on-the-spot identification as to its class and other pertinent data. A book on shells, illustrated with colored plates, is an invaluable aid in classification.

Next, clean your shells promptly to avoid decomposition of animal parts. Start by boiling them to remove fleshy parts. Boil smooth, highly polished ones only two minutes, others as long as 20 minutes. Remove remaining fleshy parts by delicate pulling and twisting. Finally, do surface cleaning with a stiff brush or a weak solution of muriatic acid.

When you have collected enough specimens for mounting, use a small brush, dipped into egg white or light oil, to cover each shell and make it glossy. Then take a piece of cotton backing and arrange the shells artistically. Place all in a picture frame, covered with glass. The result will be a delightful and decorative vacation memento.

Garden-Graph

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Among the pedigreed Swiss giant pansies is a new pink one which has been named Raspberry Rose. Pink is a rare color in pansies. The dark velvety centre blotches of this new introduction are surrounded with pink tones edged by a lighter tone. Shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph is a blossom of this newcomer which can be grown to exceed six inches in diameter.

The petals of these Swiss giants are overlapping and of heavy substance. The plants are sturdy and compact growing. They bloom early in the spring and, if faded flowers are kept picked off, can be kept blooming all summer.

Most home gardeners buy their pansy plants in flats for setting out purposes. The seeds, however, may be planted indoors in January and February for plants that will be set outside in early spring for late spring and summer flowers. Pansy seeds may also be planted where they are to bloom in April and May for plants that will give their best flowers during summer and fall months.

In most climates, pansies may be had in flower during the entire flowering season, from that of the earliest bulbs in spring until after frost in the fall.

Only a little attention is required to prolong the blooming season of pansies. After the first blooming period the plants have a tendency to become leggy and lazy about blooming. By cutting them back in July, as shown in the Garden-Graph, a second season of bloom is encouraged for fall.

The way of all Dictators

— By Lewis Milligan —

"Former Soviet premier Nikolai Bulganin has been assigned to the regional economic council in Stravropol in the north Caucasus, it was reported today." So runs a UP news dispatch from Moscow. The item further states that "this would indicate that the white-haired Bulganin has been considerably downgraded." When he lost his job as premier in March last, Bulganin was assigned to the presidency of the State Bank, a relatively high post, but it was reliably reported that he did not assume the position.

When Bulganin was appointed to the premiership on the deposing of Malenkov, he was an unknown, and during his brief term of office he was a nonentity. He was quite obviously premier in name only. He followed Nikita Khrushchev around like a humble and admiring valet, nodding approval of his master's wisecracks and trying hard not to look bored with the whole performance.

Personally, I rather liked the look of Bulganin. He was so urbane and self-depreciating and one would never mistake him for a dictator. That was probably the idea in his appointment, to personalize the announced conversion from Stalinism. But the show was too tame and no one outside the iron curtain was deceived by the new look. Khrushchev from the start made no pretence at being the second fiddle. He despised Bulganin as much as he hated Stalin, but that hatred was kindled by jealousy. He lost no time in building himself up as the big boss and assuming the absolute dictatorship where Stalin left off.

The only difference between Stalin and Khrushchev is that the latter is more genial and talkative. But his assumption of the role of a hail-fellow to be well-met at a summit conference was too obviously a ruse to allay the distrust of the western nations in a man who was an intimate associate of Stalin in all his skullduggery. In the recent murder of Nagy and other Hungarian patriots Khrushchev has shown his blood-stained hand, which he is still offering as a token of peaceful co-existence to the Free World. It is little wonder that Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower are now more reluctant than ever to shake that red hand.

With the disappearance of Bulganin yet another ex-leader is added to the list of Soviet has-beens. Khrushchev may have little to fear that Bulganin will turn on him, but such outstanding Stalinites as Molotov, Malenkov and Company are not likely to take their enforced exile lying or sitting down for ever. One slip might easily unseat the over-confident Khrushchev and the wolves would be upon him.

WHERE WAS FORT WHOOP-UP?

Fort Whoop-up was located on the Oldman River, eight miles above the present City of Lethbridge, Alberta, established by two traders, Healey and Hamilton.

Whiskey was traded to the Indians for buffalo, wolf and other hides, the goods passing in both directions without regard to the international border. When the Northwest Mounted Police arrived in 1874 to establish a post in Southern Alberta, they found Fort Whoop-up practically abandoned, and it eventually fell into decay.

Medical research aims at a longer, happier life for you and your children

Thanks to untiring research, many dangerous diseases are under control today. A number of other "killers", however, are still unsolved problems.

In the over-all research effort being made to solve them, the medical schools of Canadian universities are playing an important part.

To help strengthen and develop their research programs, the Life Insurance Companies in Canada are providing research Fellowships to these universities, every year.

Fellowships are awarded to graduates who have been appointed to teaching or research staffs of Canadian medical schools. During the past nine years 107 Fellowships of this nature, amounting to half a million dollars have been granted.

The idea of the Lachute Auto Club came into being last April when five of the inaugural members got together to discuss the forming of such a club. This number soon increased to nine after a few other interested persons were approached. These nine members met weekly for a period of 15 weeks, during which time it was decided they would each subscribe for a share in the club to get things financially on the road.

By the time July 15 rolled around, the Constitution and By-laws had been written and all that remained was to have the club officially registered and begin accepting new members.

The purpose of the club is to help promote courtesy and safe driving on the roads. For the members themselves, it is hoped the organization will provide a friendly medium for drivers, young or old, to get together, to take part in various auto activities, or to discuss driving and automobiles.

In the near future the Lachute Auto Club will be affiliated with some of the National auto associations, which will doubtless open the way to activities and benefits of which the Lachute Auto Club will take advantage.

The Chief of Police, Fernand Trépanier, has wholeheartedly given his support and assistance, and it is hoped the rest of the community will encourage the success and efforts of this club.

Jury exonerates truck driver in child's death

A jury empanelled by Dr. Jules Lafleur, district coroner, returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of six-year-old Joanne Tilsley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tilsley, of Brownsburg, who died after being hit by a truck in that village July 10. The inquest was held last Wednesday at Lachute Town Hall.

Chief witness was Jean-Jacques Monette of Brownsburg, driver of the truck belonging to B. & P. Hall Bros. His evidence showed that, while he was proceeding on St. Joseph Street in the direction of St. Philippe, the child appeared suddenly from the left in the path of the vehicle. He halted immediately after hitting the girl and ran to assist, finding the victim lying under the truck with her left leg caught under the rear twin-wheels; the heavy truck was loaded with gravel. Monette stated he had not seen the youngster, who darted across the road after seeing a friend away on an autobus. He also claimed he had driven trucks for 11 years without an accident.

Other witnesses heard were Henri Labelle, driver of the bus, and Traffic Sgt. Roger Massey, who investigated.

The child, taken immediately to the Smith Clinic, died in an ambulance while being transferred from Hawkesbury to the Children's Memorial Hospital in Montreal. Causes of death were a fracture of the skull, external hemorrhage and partial severing of the left leg at the thigh.

At the inquest, the coroner and Provincial Police thanked the municipal authorities for permitting the use of the Lachute Auditorium for this and other inquests.

Traffic and theft cases heard in St. Jerome court

Det.-Sgt. Ralph Allen reports a heavy day in St. Jerome court on Tuesday last, when the following were sentenced before Judge Omer Coté: Dawson Young, 27, of Grenville; Arthur Askham, 25, of Lachute; and Patrick Kennedy, 34, of Chute à Blondeau, all receiving fines of $75 plus costs, and a three-month suspension of their operator's permit, on charges of driving under the influence of alcohol.

Henri Rochefort, 21, and Gerald Rochefort, 19, both of Montreal, who were arrested for a series of thefts in the St. Sauveur, Morin Heights and Montfort areas, appeared on six charges of breaking and entering with theft; they were sentenced to three years on each charge, the terms to run concurrently.

Armand Richer, 32, of Chatboro, was sentenced to a fine of $75 plus costs and a three month suspension of his driver's permit, when convicted of a hit-and-run charge in connection with a June 17 accident. Richer was charged with failing to stop following an accident on Route 8, near Chatboro, when the car of Romeo Chartrand, of Lachute, was damaged to the extent of $180.

Nelson Gagné, 42, of Lachute, was sentenced to time spent in jail (a total of 24 days) on a charge of theft of a car radio in Lachute.

Jean Paul Durocher, 18, and Gaetan Lamoureux, 22, appeared on a charge of car theft in Lachute on June 19, both pleading guilty. The case was postponed for sentence until August 19.

A 13-year-old Carillon youth, charged with 12 cases of breaking and entering with theft, pleaded guilty and was returned to the custody of his parents, on probation until September 9. The thefts took place early this spring along the Ottawa River, in the Carillon and St. Placide area.

Rotary project at Community Park

"Operation Fence Building" was the objective of last week's regular meeting of the Brownsburg - Lachute Rotary Club, when close to 100 percent of the Club's membership turned out at the Community Park on a fence-building, land-levelling scheme. Here the fence is seen in its preliminary stages, with evidence of a chain saw busily at work (indicated by the smoke-cloud). The park is open to all comers free of charge, and is situated near the eastern limits of Brownsburg Village.

Many hands speed work of fencing at Rotary Park

Business was cut to a minimum at last Thursday's meeting of the Brownsburg - Lachute Rotary Club, the members turning out to the Community Park immediately following supper on a fence-building scheme. (See picture on this page.)

Special appreciation in the effort goes to Rotarian George McGibbon, and the lumber firm of A. D. McGibbon & Son Ltd., who supplied material for the fence; to Rotarian Bill Poley and the Bell Telephone Company, who supplied poles, etc.; to Rotarian Georges Defosses and Pioneer Chain Saws Inc.; also to Rotarian Gordon Tabrett, proprietor of Can Saw Sales Reg., who supplied chain saws for the project. In addition to this, all members turned out with saws, hammers, etc., for their "night out" at the park.

It was announced at the meeting that a loan of $100 would be made to a local youth as assistance in allowing him to attend university next year, the loan re-payable two years after graduation.

The meeting this week (Thursday, July 24) will be a repeat effort of last week, members having supper at Brownsburg Legion Hall and returning to the park, where it is hoped all of this year's major projects will be completed.

Boy injured — ran in path of automobile

Alain Desjardins, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henri Georges Desjardins, 241 Wilson Stret, was treated at the Providence Hospital by Dr. Marc Papineau Saturday afternoon, after being struck by a car at the corner of Princess and Hammond Streets. The injuries were not of a grave nature, and the youth was later released.

According to Police Chief Fernand Trépanier, who investigated, the boy was standing on the corner in the vicinity of three parked cars, when he suddenly ran out onto Princess Street into the path of a car driven by Yvan G. Desaprais, 50, of Marelan. The car struck the young victim and he rolled underneath, being dragged a short distance.

As the child was bleeding profusely, the Police Chief made no attempt to transfer him to hospital in the police car, but summoned an ambulance, fearing internal injuries.

The boy was treated for facial and body lacerations and severe bruises, but was later released. Partially deaf, he had been due to enter the St. Justine's Hospital, Montreal, for treatment the following day.

Shooting mishap at Brownsburg

Mrs. Louis Demers, 28, of Ayersville, was taken to St. Jerome hospital early Sunday morning following a shooting accident on the Quarry Road, Brownsburg.

Det.-Sgt. Ralph Allen reports that an investigation was carried out following the incident, and a report submitted to the office of the Attorney-General for further instructions.

The woman was wounded in the right thigh and hand by a .22 calibre bullet fired from an automatic rifle.

Catholic pupils thrifty depositors at Caisse Populaire

In November 1956, by arrangement with the Lachute Caisse Populaire, the Catholic School Commission authorized the establishment of a school savings bank, to receive deposits from the pupils on Monday of each week. The experiment was so successful that it was continued the following year, so that by the end of 1957-58 school term the pupils in Grades 3 to 10 at l'Ecole Supérieure had accumulated a tidy sum of $4,199.38.

In this venture, the bookkeeping is in charge of Grade 6 under Mr. Chas.-E. Dorris, who is the teacher responsible to the bank for deposits of the children's savings.

In 1957-58 there were 222 depositors, or about half of the pupils. In that year they saved $2,235.49, or about $10.06 per pupil.

The Caisse Populaire manager, Raymond Beaulieu, notes that there are a number of withdrawals around school-closing time, probably to provide for vacation purchases. After the vacations, however, the deposits come in regularly; provision is also made for vacation-time deposits to be made direct to the Caisse Populaire.

The bank and its president, Robt. Marcil, give encouragement to the thrifty young patrons by holding a drawing, with cash prizes, at the end of the school year and at Christmas time.

The St. Alexandre School has similar facilities for banking at the Lachute Caisse Populaire, while the pupils of St. Julien School in the west-end do business with the Ayers Ltd. Caisse Populaire.

Enlarge post-office at Ste. Agathe; contract given

Ottawa — The Federal Department of Public Works has awarded a contract in the amount of $91,500 to Conrad Forget Inc., of St. Jovite, for the construction of an addition and alterations to the Federal building in Ste. Agathe des Monts. Specified completion date for the project is May 1959.

The new addition, to be built at the rear of the existing building, will be a one-storey structure with full basement, of cement block and brick construction, measuring approximately 28 by 56 feet, giving approximately 50 per cent more working area to the main floor.

The basement will provide storage space needed by the Department of Public Works and the Post Office Department.

Swallowed hook, line (no sinker)

A fish caught by Mr. Thomas Ayers at Fraser Lake recently, merits distinction for its voracious appetite — the above tackle, including two hooks encircled by a considerable length of line, having been found in its stomach. The Grey Trout weighed 1¼ pounds. The hardware from its stomach was handed to Game Warden Fernando Lamarche, to be sent to Dr. Gustave Prevost, fish biologist.

Thursday is picnic day at the Ayers Recreation Centre, when members enjoy a picnic lunch on the lawn, play games and compete in amateur entertainment. Besides this, once a month open-air mass is celebrated at 11.30 a.m. — the above picture having being taken last week on this occasion, when a group of children from Ste. Scholastique, under the Rev. Ferdinand Coursol, joined the youngsters from Lachute and Ayersville. The Rev. Louis Roux, curate of Ayersville and chaplain of the Centre, celebrated mass. — Photo, Syd Drew

Ottawa problems in Middle East, and in Northwest

By Don Peacock, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, July 21 (CP) — Canada watched with uneasy acquiescence last week while American and British troops landed in Lebanon and Jordan. Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the Canadian government was ready to give "every encouragement and assistance to the United Nations" in efforts to form an emergency police force to take over in the area.

The idea of a UN police force to bring about a withdrawal of British and American troops in the Middle East won support in the Commons from all parties.

Mr. Diefenbaker's statement was made after Liberal Leader Pearson asked whether the government would give "strong support" to the emergency force idea.

CCF Ask Action

CCF House leader Hazen Argue, though regretting the British decision to land troops in Jordan, also called for UN action. This, he said, "all members of this House" support.

Mr. Deifenbaker and Mr. Argue both described the British intervention in Jordan as "interim" action. The prime minister spoke shortly after External Affairs Minister Smith flew to Washington where British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and U.S. State Secretary Dulles conferred on the situation.

Mr. Diefenbaker warned that forming an emergency force will be no "simple" matter because of the big-power veto in the UN security council and the resultant need for two-thirds majority approval in the general assembly.

But it was thought here that Canada would be virtually certain to contribute if another UN emergency force is set up. For some time a standby role for such events has been assigned to the 2nd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, based at London, Ont., and now training at Camp Petawawa.

Beer a Problem

While Parliament was preoccupied with the new Middle East dangers, the Northwest Territories Council at its annual Ottawa meeting turned its attention to beer parlors, co-operatives and other northern problems.

Spokesman promotes theme of Ottawa R. development

The objectives of the Ottawa Valley Development Association have been given a considerable impetus in addresses given recently by the president, Paul Labreche, of St. Andrews East, before groups concerned in development of the waterways in this section.

The first talk given by this energetic promoter was at Wakefield, Que., before a conference of Western Quebec Chambers of Commerce. This was followed by a visit, early this month, to speak before the Chamber of Commerce at Buckingham.

Mr. Labreche was accompanied in the first instance by F. W. Whitehead and Claude Giroux, secretary and director, respectively, of the St. Andrews Chamber of Commerce. On the vist to Buckingham he was similarly accompanied, by Maurice Jutras and Stanley Rodger, treasurer and president, respectively, of the St. Andrews group.

It is expected by Mr. Labreche that arrangements can be made to visit other Valley centries to promote the ideas of the Association.

4-H Club selects judging team to enter eliminations

The official judging team was selected at a meeting of the Lachute 4-H Calf Club to represent the club at the Montreal District Elimination Field Day. Which will be held at Macdonald College this Friday, July 25. The winning team will go to Sherbrooke to compete in the Provincial Competition on August 25.

The meeting was held last Thursday at the farm of Erskine and Forbes McOuat, Brownsburg. A demonstration on how to judge dairy cattle was given by Donald Robertson, Federal Livestock Fieldman. A class of Ayrshire cows in milk was judged, and Donald Parker, Davis MacVicar and Ronald Bain were selected as the official team.

The club plans to travel by bus to Macdonald College to take part in the Inter-Club Softball game which will be held the same time as the judging competition.

The club leader thanked Erskine and Forbes McOuat for providing the use of their barn, and also Donald Robertson for his valuable assistance at the meeting.

W.I. branches hear convention reports from delegates

All Institute branches reporting this month, heard from their delegates who had attended the Provincial Convention at Macdonald College. These reports proved highly interesting to the members who were unable to attend.

Brownsburg will be catering for a wedding and holding a Handicraft Fair in September.

Frontier members intend to hold a picnic next month instead of the regular meeting. Their roll-call was a limerick. A demonstration of the Eva Bishop method of putting in a side zipper was also given; this was learned at the Leadership Training Course at Macdonald.

Lakefield plans to hold a military whist in August, along with a draw-ing for a quilt. Moving pictures were shown.

Upper Lachute - East End had as their roll-call, "Hints on successful growing and ripening of tomatoes". The members planned a food sale for the later part of July, and to cater to a wedding at the end of August.

Coroner's case, another drowning at St. Adolphe

Robert Boucher, 26, of Montreal, was drowned at St. Adolphe d'Howard on Tuesday evening of last week, despite efforts of a Ste. Agathe doctor and a fellow frogman to revive the victim.

The Montrealer was working in the municipality and went swimming at approximately 6 p.m.; he commenced yelling almost immediately and, of three persons on the beach, none was sufficiently strong a swimmer to attempt a rescue. They obtained help immediately, however, and a fourth person swam out to the area where Boucher disappeared, but failed to sight the victim.

The town authorities at Ste. Agathe were notified immediately and two amateur frogmen, Dr. Marion Silver and Leon Blowl, sped to the scene with oxygen and other resuscitation equipment. They failed to recover the body until approximately 8 p.m., however — the equipment proving useless by this time.

District Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur declared the death as accidental, due to drowning, no inquest being held.

From Main Duck Island — sidelights on wild life, social life and Lake history

Outdoor exile strings another line on fish, fowl and human creatures

Main Duck Island,
South Bay, Ont.

Dear "Ed":

June 10 — With the exception of a few days the weather has been very cool and stormy. Sure has been lots of wind and considerable rain. When you don't even see any of the lake boats out, you know it's rough. We have managed to get in swimming a few times though, and as my wife says, we are very patriotic — come out of the water Red, White and very Blue. I'm saving some of the ice we scraped off us, for one of those long cool ones we dream about.

The commercial fishermen are starting to come out every three or four days now, to net Carp. Some of the catches are terrific. One boat we saw hauled in over 5,000 pounds of them in two drags. You see, the fish are spawning right now and they come in over the reefs to lay their eggs. It's hard to believe, but the water on some of the shallower spots is just like froth. Some of the fish are like young whales. 30 pounds is just fair. I'm still trying to catch one on a fly rod, but so far have had no luck getting a big one. It might be a lot of fun getting one on!

Another thing, with the fishermen coming in close I can go out and have them bring in an order of groceries from town. We make up a list of our needs (plenty), the men leave it in a grocer's, who in turn fills in the order and they pick it up next day. It costs $5 more for this, plus the trip charges, $20 each way; so you get everything in the one trip or do without. . . . Pretty expensive, but we are over a barrel and they know it.

As I told you in my last letter the owner of this Island (John Foster Dulles) was going to be with us for a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Dulles were on the Island about four days. They may not be back until next fall for the duck shooting. He is quite a fisherman. I hope to see how good a duck man he is when he comes back.

Now I'm going to tell you of a feed we had. Edith and self were out fishing and caught about 50 perch; we filleted them all for this feed. What we figured we couldn't eat, went into the gas 'frig (yep, we have one of them). They were dipped in egg-white then rolled in corn-meal. Boy were they good. When we finished eating I felt like a poisoned pup. But it was worth it. . . Trout, Phooey. (Boy, can I just hear some of the ardent fishermen around Lachute if I were to tell them that!) Incidentally, Goldie, one of the dogs, is just crazy about them, I'm wondering if she hasn't got some cat in her make-up.

While I'm on with the dogs, here's what happened the other day. . . Some of the ducks around have nested in the swamps, naturally the dogs have to go into them for their beauty treatment. They spotted a brood of young, and went over to investigate all the fuss. Boy, were they a couple of surprised dogs! I guess they thought all hell had broken loose when the Old Hen took out after them. It really was funny to see, that is, as far as the dogs were concerned. Did they get out of there in a hurry! The Old Lady was really hot under her feathers; and you never saw two more stupid-looking dogs in all your life.

It's really worth your life to go walking around just now with all the birds nesting; you get dive-bombed from every direction. It seems to me the very worst ones for this are the Swallows. The way they can part your hair is honestly some show. Nature sure is a wonderful thing. I've been all over the Island seeing if any of the Pheasants have nested this spring. I'm afraid they were transplanted too late for them to nest, as I haven't been able to find very many nests. They are going to be very lucky to hang on the Island. The Hawks are really back in a big way. There are seven nests of them that I have been able to spot so far, and orders are "no killing"; so that is going to take care of any Pheasants that may nest. There are also a lot of young deer on the place, some of them are going to have to be taken off or shot. If not, they are going to starve themselves. After all there is only so much feed on the place. . . It's going to be interesting to see what happens.

June 20 — Instalment writing, they call this. A lot of activity around the lake these days. With the Bass season being opened in Ontario on the 28th of this month, nearly all the fishermen around are looking over their favorite spots. Some of the power cruisers are in from the States. Wow, I couldn't even pay the gas for them. We had one stop in on the Island the night before last, with engine trouble. Only a 35-footer. It stayed overnight, the people on it didn't suffer any hardship. Four bunks on the thing, plus kitchen, etc. It's a terrible thing only to be able to afford a thing like this; must be a great hardship. At least I can afford a rowboat.

We had a survey crew out the last few days. They were supposed to stay four days but they got their work done in two and a half days, and they seemed happy to have it done. Not that it's so lonely for them, as they are more than used to that, but the mosquitoes are starting to arrive. One of the poor guys was susceptible to their bites and took a beating; 612 went on by the spoonful, but it didn't seem to do much good. As he said, they just like him; they sure did.

Some of the facts on the Island, and they are varied: It was originally held for the Alfenwick Tribe by the Crown (in trust). As far back as 1856, Main Duck Island was inhabited by fishermen - farmers and boat builders. There were 12 boats that used to fish this area, and a good day's haul was four tons of Lake Trout (or in Quebec, Grays). I wonder what would happen today if they came in with that kind of catch. Right now very few Lakers are taken, at least not enough for a man to go out just for them. The Island was at one time owned by King Cole. He had a passion for protecting game of all kinds; there were Buffalo, Mink, Raccoons, Deer, Muskrat; at times they took and sold pelts of these animals to the extent of 2,000 a year. There is a large boulder on the Island with the date 1779 carved into it. It seems some Frenchmen were wrecked on the place, carved the date, etc. They were never rescued, so that they all perished from starvation. There was also a French ship loaded with pay for the French Forces in Upper Canada; it went aground in a storm. Naturally the gold on the ship was never recovered, even though in later years even electrical devices were used. In the days of prohibition in the States, the Island was used by the rum runners to store the booze before going over into the States (wish I could find some of it!) One of the stories is that one of these gents was washed onto a reef and had to throw over some 50 cases of liquor. It seems that this also has been looked for, often, but never been recovered. . . With John Foster Dulles now owning the Island there is no more of that. Visitors are not welcome on the place when Mr. and Mrs. Dulles are in residence. Other times it doesn't matter, as nobody comes out. It's just a little too far for the average small boat. Some of them do come out, but they sure take a big chance. Storms can get up so fast on this lake, it doesn't pay to take chances.

July 2 — Well, the Bass season is open; boy, what a madhouse! Honestly the number of American boats fishing along the reefs is something to see. I can count 27 power cruisers within a mile of the Island. I can't say if they are fishing or drinking. Maybe if there's a northwest wind blowing tomorrow, we'll find out just about how many cases of booze were consumed! The bottles will drift into shore. But they all seem to be having a good time. I haven't seen the RCMP out yet, but it's a sure bet they will be out before long, checking on the fishing licenses. They are very strict about that in Ontario.

I'm giving you some looks at the holiday in the States. It rained all day and was very foggy; but the fishermen were still out in force. I saw some of the catches that were taken, and they were not too bad. Nothing extra, but everyone seemed to be pleased. One of the boys had caught a nice Musky. He had more offers to buy it than an auctioneer. No dice.

I told you in the earlier part of this letter of how we were getting our groceries. I guess everyone learns the hard way. We were looking forward to some nice steaks. I haven't had one of them for a long time. Boy, I'll bet this butcher can get more steaks off one cow than any group of butchers in Lachute. Never again! We'll go in to town after this. I honestly think the steaks we got would have made tough stewing meat; I guess the cow died of old age, it sure tasted like it. But we can't have everything.

Well, thats about all for this time.

Football frolics under way for '58

By Milt MacPhail,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Familiar sights and sounds can be seen and heard these hot summer days. The smack of boot against leather, bodies crashing head on, a ball arching through the air, men in long-peaked caps shouting and blowing whistles.

Canada's 1958 football frolics are under way with the nine major professional teams hard at training on another exciting excursion that ends with the Grey Cup classic in Vancouver November 29.

As usual, there are plenty of newcomers and a hardy band of veterans sweating it out for jobs with Big Four and Western Conference clubs.

Coaches and managers have been busy scouting new talent, at home and below the border, since last year's Grey Cup game. Two of the busiest teams are Montreal Alouettes and Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Need Transfusion

The Alouettes, a pretty well stand-pat club that lost in three successive Grey Cups and had only a so-so season in 1957, reached the obvious conclusion they needed a major player transfusion. Saskatchewan is rebuilding under new coach George Terlep who replaced Frank Filchock. Filchock took over as head coach of Sarnia in the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Each of the nine pro clubs started training with an average of 60 players in camp. As the days go by, most of these won't measure up for one reason or another. In fact, a few Canadian rookies, N.S. imports and even some seasoned players have been cut or left camp voluntarily after deciding the job competition was too stiff. Injuries take their toll too.

Coaching staffs have to work fast — and they hope accurately — to separate the men from the boys. Exhibition games are only a few days away. After these games the coaches must have a pretty solid idea which players will start the season. It'll be interesting to see who's left a month from now.

Blueprint for Canadian education

PRIME MINISTER Diefenbaker and his cabinet have been handed food for thought and action in the brief recently submitted by the Canadian Conference on Education.

Containing eleven resolutions dealing with federal aid to education, the brief is an outcome of the Canadian Conference on Education attended by 850 delegates in Ottawa last February. The largest and most representative gathering of laymen and educators ever held in Canada, the conference showed surprising unity in the resolutions it passed.

In effect the eleven resolutions dealing with federal aid provide a blueprint for Canadian education backed by a considerable body of public opinion. To avoid clashing with jealously-guarded provincial rights in education, the brief stresses "co-operation" between provincial and federal governments, and points out that the federal government is already in the educational field with university grants, the Canada Council, post-graduate scholarships, and sharing arrangements with the provinces in vocational training.

As the brief points out, these measures all are good, but inadequate. Something more must be done to wipe out the great inequalities in education opportunity across the nation. The initiative for setting up a nation-wide and united attack on education problems must come from the federal government, according to the brief.

Canadians have already shown considerable ingenuity in tackling national problems which are technically provincial matters. They have come up with devices such as the dominion-provincial tax agreements, hospital grants and medical care. With these measures already working, there is no reason why the same kind of co-operation cannot be applied to overcoming educational problems on a national scale.

As the Canadian Conference on Education suggests, this is a field where the federal government can show "courageous leadership" to help provide better educational opportunities for all young Canadians, no matter where they live, from coast to coast.

Making friends

THREE HUNDRED boys and girls from 18 towns and cities in Quebec and Ontario are taking a summer course in friendship.

Officially they are taking part in what is known as Intercommunity Visits. This is a joint project of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews and Visites Interprovincials, designed to foster closer relationship among English-speaking boys and girls in Ontario and Quebec's French-speaking youngsters.

Exchange visits between members of Ontario and Quebec families are not new, but with the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews joining the program this year they have been developed to an extent never undertaken in the past.

During the first two weeks of July, 150 Ontario high school students, ranging in age from 14 to 18, spent two weeks living with French-speaking families in nine Quebec cities.

They were entertained by city authorities, service clubs and other groups but, more important, they lived as part of the families they were visiting, chummed with boys and girls their own age and talked French.

At the end of the two-week period, the Ontario youngsters returned home, bringing with them for a two-week stay at their homes 150 French-speaking boys and girls. Programs similar to those in Quebec were organized in nine Ontario cities, with this difference — in Ontario the language spoken was English.

Boards of education co-operated in the program and children in the exchange were chosen from many hundreds of applicants. All must have completed at least two years' study of English or French and older students were given priority.

In pairing off the visitors, attempts were made to send boys and girls to homes similar to their own. Lawyer's children, for example, were placed with lawyer's families wherever possible.

Living costs were absorbed by families receiving the students, whose only expenses, outside of pocket money, were greatly-reduced railway fares.

Success of this year's program is likely to result in considerable expansion next year and one organizer said "we hope the time will come when as many as 1,000 students are exchanging visits every summer."

When that day comes another link will have been forged in the chain of greater understanding among Canadians.

An "incomparable bargain"

"NEWSPAPERS are getting to be a luxury," grumbled the visitor to Toronto on discovering that the paper for which he'd paid a nickel when last in the Queen City three years ago, now cost him a dime.

Although the comment was clearly not meant to be taken too seriously, coming as it did from a young man who looked anything but impoverished, it was instructive just the same. How many Canadians, one wonders, would really think their daily or weekly newspaper dear at a dime?

Newspaper people know, of course, that the few cents per copy paid by the consumer doesn't come anywhere near covering the cost of its production. Their mistake lies in assuming that this is far more generally understood than in fact it is.

A great many people do NOT realize that a newspaper is the one thing regularly sold at less than cost as a matter of deliberate policy. They are unaware of the fact that they can buy their newspaper for a dime or less only because of the income it derives from its advertisers; that they are, in effect, subsidized. And that without their advertising revenue, few, if any, newspapers could continue production.

But advertising revenue fluctuates. The volume of advertising depends on many factors, not the least of which is the buoyancy of business locally and nationally. And while a newspaper's advertising revenue can enable it to absorb rising costs over a period of several years, it cannot do so forever.

Publication of a newspaper is as much an economic proposition as any other enterprise requiring investment of money, time and a multitude of skills. And newspaper costs, along with those of every other business, have climbed steadily in recent years. Wages, newsprint, paper — the cost of these and other raw materials and services is vastly greater today than, say, five years ago. But the price per copy has, generally speaking, remained unchanged.

Only in the past few months have newspapers in cities and towns across Canada begun to pass on to the reader a part of this huge increase in operating costs. Thanks to the advertising "cushion", the price increase that would otherwise have been inevitable several years ago is only now taking place.

And even at a dime, the newspaper is an incomparable bargain, an indispensable link with the community and world in which we live. Certainly, few of us would find life quite the same without it.

The hidden costs

HALF A CENTURY ago life was simpler, and so was arithmetic, comments the Financial Post. . .

A carpenter or a bricklayer earned a dollar a day, he took home the whole of that dollar and that was the precise and total cost to anyone employing his services. It's not like that today. The higher costs grow, the more the tendency to bury them.

In one large Canadian company surveyed, the average basic wage for all employees worked out at $1.48 an hour. That was what each took home, less, of course, certain familiar tax and other deductions which various governments insist must be deducted at the source. But to the company this $1.48 per hour was only a portion of the direct cost per employee.

To the basic wage, 10 cents per hour had to be added to cover paid vacations and statutory holidays, nearly 9 cents per hour for the company's share of pension costs, nearly 8 cents for Workmen's Compensation, Unemployment Insurance and Blue Cross, and 11½ cents additional per hour for overtime. In actual practice this company discovered that to the regular wage rate, one third had to be added, or 53 cents per hour, to cover the additional hourly cost of mostly fringe benefits.

Viewpoints and perspectives

PUBLICITY is a valuable commodity for any town and should be calculated in dollars and cents — not as a favor or gift when and if some one or some organization offers it. It should be constant and consistent with the times and its aim in any community should be to improve and expand, rather than to entertain and excite.
— Pincher Creek (Alta.) Echo

IN MOST CASES drownings are not mere accidents. When you learn the facts you are amazed to find that most could have been avoided. They happened because people did not think! They are usually the result of venturesome escapades or an ignorance of the simple rules of water safety.

Which was the first Canadian steamer on the Great Lakes?

The first Canadian steamship on the Great Lakes was a wooden side-wheeler, 170 feet long 32 feet in width, and registered at about 700 tons. She was built at Ernestown (now Bath, Ontario) for a group of Kingston merchants, at a cost of £15,000.

Launched September 7, 1816, and completed in May, 1817, she was named the "Frontenac"; intended for service between Prescott, Kingston, York (Toronto), Burlington, and Niagara, a miscalculation in design forced her to make Kingston her eastern terminal, as her draught was greater than anticipated.

She ran successfully the Kingston-Niagara route until 1927 when she was withdrawn, scrapped and burned. Her engine, built by Boulton and Watt, was later installed in the "Alciope". The "Frontenac" missed by only a few days the distinction of being the first steamer in service on the Great Lakes, for the smaller American steamer "Ontario" was completed in April 1817.

What is the origin of the word "Muskeg"

Muskeg is a word used in Canada for a low, wet area (generally with a considerable depth of organic matter) such as is found at many places in the Canadian Shield. The word is derived from the Chippewa "muskig", meaning a grassy bog. The term used for it in French is "savane". The muskeg proves an obstacle in many engineering projects, and considerable precautions have to be taken in the construction of railways and roads in such bog-like areas of Canada.

Modern Tower of Babel

— By Lewis Milligan —

"The World in Space" is the title of a new book which tells "The Story of the International Geophysical Year," by Alexander Marshack. It is typographically a spacious book with plenty of space between the lines and expansive illustrations. That word, "geophysical", is enough to scare the average reader who is looking for something light to read during the holidays. But the story is illuminated with fiery blaze of the sun, the gentle rays of the moon and the myriad fixed and unfixed stars of the universe.

"It's a little world!" is a common exclamation of surprise; but little do we know how little this world is until we contemplate the vastness of space and realize that ours is an insignificant orb amid the innumerable solar systems of the Milky Way. We really did not need the modern geophysicists to remind us of that fact, for, before Galileo, Job said, "He hangeth the world upon nothing," and the Psalmist considered the starry firmament and said, "What is man that Thou art mindful of him?"

Indeed, it is remarkable how much modern science owes to thinkers down through later times who did not call themselves scientists. Isaac Newton at the end of his life regarded himself as only a boy playing with pebbles on the seashore, "whilst the great ocean of truth lay all undiscovered before me." And yet the latest feat of science was based upon Newton's speculations on what would happen to a cannon ball if it were fired with enough force to leave the earth. At that Newton wrote:

"The greater the velocity by which (a cannon ball) is projected, the further it goes before it falls to earth. . . If we now imagine bodies projected parallel to the horizon at greater and greater heights . . . according to their velocity they will go on revolving through the heavens in those trajectories, just as the planets do."

So that the idea of an artificial satellite is not new. The boasted launching of the Soviet Sputnik was based upon the mathematical formula worked out nearly 300 years ago by an Englishman. (Tell it not in Moscow, whisper it not in the wastes of Siberia.)

Modern science and mechanics owe everything they have accomplished to the preliminary explorers of the universe, and especially to the disclosures of the power of electricity and the secrets of the atom in the nineteenth century. There is plenty of room for further investigation and the application of those powers within this planet and its atmosphere. The moon has been up there a long time and has served us well as the "effulgent lamp of night" and tide-operator, and scientists know what it is composed of. They don't have to go to the moon to prove that it is not made of green cheese.

These geophysisists tell us we can learn more about cosmic rays, the cause of the aurora borealis, and the composition of the ionosphere by rocket evcursions. Yet at the same time they are polluting the upper and lower atmosphere with deadly nuclear fall-out, which may destroy the human race before they can make use of that knowledge.

It is all very interesting from the news point of view, but science is in danger of overreaching itself in its curiosity. Man needs to recall the fate of the Tower of Babel.

Of Many Things

Liquor Store customers

When I moved to Winnipeg three years ago the only suitable office location was across from the Fort Street liquor store, and because I'm a non-drinker I was kidded about this by my more genial friends who take a drink once in a while, some of them twice or thrice in a while.

I've become an experienced liquor-store watcher. When inspiration fails me, I sit and gawk from the window at the store across the way. I've become familiar with certain customer types.

First, the sad, sombre hungover souls who line up regularly before opening time, waiting with nervous gestures to get their wine or straight alcohol in order to settle raw nerves. They make no pretence of being casual; when the door is opened they rush the counter. These are the addicts, and may God help them.

Second, and even more pitiful, comes the fairly well-dressed man, carefully timing himself to arrive a few minutes after opening time, trying not to appear over-eager. When he comes out, however, clutching the brown-paper parcel, his nerves betray him and he walks quickly to some room or lane to take his "treatment." He is most to be pitied, because he still has a distance to fall before he joins the handful of "regulars".

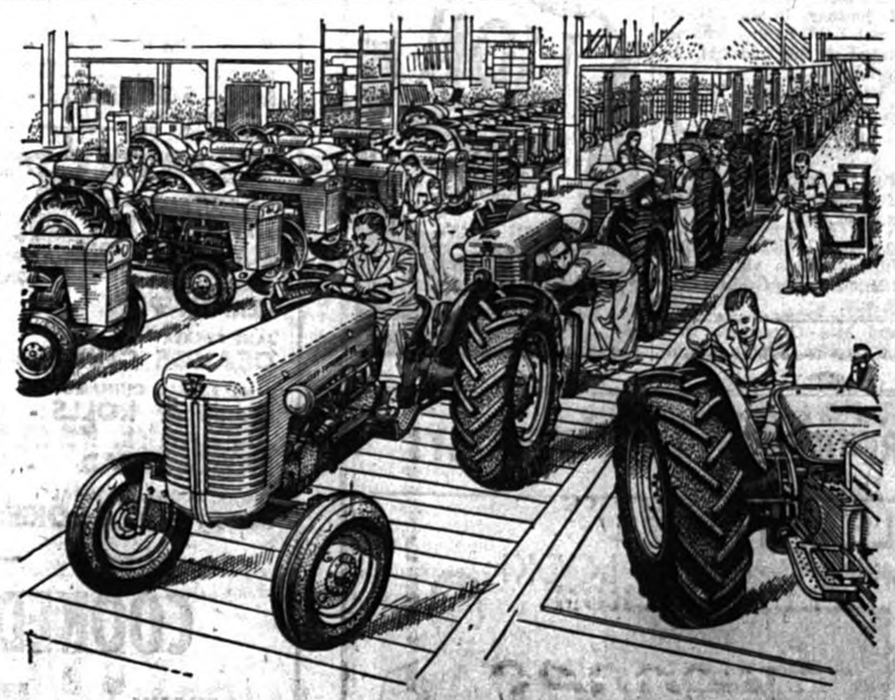

These are the problem drinkers about whom society must be concerned. Manitoba, I am proud to say, is now showing such concern, and the small band of lost souls grows smaller from month to month.

Indeed, Manitoba's program may, if it continues to be as successful as present results indicate, finally reduce the problem drinkers to almost zero by changing the drinking pattern of the province.

I think most Manitobans are proud of the saner patterns of drinking that follows more liberal laws, rigidly enforced.

Already, under the new laws and as a result of the educational program carried on by the Manitoba Committee on Alcohol Education, there is far less home drinking, far fewer office parties and hotel-room entertaining. A commercial traveller tells me that he keeps no liquor in his room now; he prefers to take buyers down to the cocktail lounge or out to a restaurant for a drink.

I hope that the day comes when I can look out my office window and see a sign over the liquor store reading: "Closed for Lack of Customers". Meanwhile, any educational campaign, similar to the one being conducted in the Manitoba weekly papers by the Committee on Alcohol Education, has my ardent support. Education may succeed where compulsion failed. Let us hope so.

In the depression of the 1930's, Joe Brown was the proprietor of one of those cluttered neighborhood stores that stocked everything you could think of.

No matter what strange widget the customer wanted, from kerosene lamp globes to buggy whips, Joe seemed able to reach into the tangle of hardware, food and notions, and find it.

Another likeable quality about Joe was the fact that he was generous with the charge accounts. Many of the customers were going through desperate times. There were no unemployment insurance or family allowance payments to fall back on, then.

For some people, Joe was the neighborhood banker and relief station. Unless he said "All right, I'll put it on the bill," they didn't eat.

Some of the bills amounted to $50 and $100, and some of them a great deal more. They dragged on for months and years. Yet Joe's wholesalers presented a bill each month, and expected to be paid promptly.

When Joe retired, he had several thousand dollars' worth of unpaid debts on his books.

The store that he used to own is larger and brighter, and not so richly stocked with odd things. The aroma of onions, coffee, soap and dust has been replaced by a faint smell of disinfectant and vanilla.

A younger man is behind the counter. He also feels sorry for people and allows them credit — not in such prodigal amounts as old Joe did, but more than he should, by the rules of sound business practise.

And the wholesalers still present their bills punctually, and get paid on the dot.

As for Joe, he lives in a small cabin with no income but his old age pension. The amount he got from the store has now been used up.

Some of the people who still owe him money from the depression days are cruising about in new cars and yachts, wearing costly clothes, buying television sets, automatic washers, deep-freeze cabinets and other aids to gracious living.

Joe himself, a widower living alone, does not even have a small ice box.

Ask him what he thinks of his debtors, and he shrugs with patient, cheerful contempt. He doesn't feel as bitter about the bills as he once did.

Joe, who used to be the amateur banker and relief agent of the neighborhood, is now the silent partner in a number of enterprises. When he sees a debtor glide by in a fat car, or reads about a debtor throwing a big wedding, he gets a wry satisfaction from the knowledge that his money paid for part of it.

He knows that some of the debtors will be sorry, when it is too late. They will pay, in a sense, with their regrets. That is much cheaper than paying now, with dollars. Or is it? For some people, a sore conscience is a real punishment.

The late Mr. Anderson was born in Dundee, Scotland, and came to Canada 55 years ago. He had been employed in the store of Mr. G. I. McFaul for about 50 years.

He was an active member of the United Church, where he was superintendent of the Sunday School and session clerk for many years.

He was a great lover of music, a member of the choir, taking part in special musical presentations in the community, also a member of the Odd Fellows' Laurentian Lodge No. 14.

He leaves to mourn his loss his beloved wife, Jessie McClusky, one son, Gordon, of Brownsburg, and one daughter (Ruth) Mrs. Claude Hebert, of St. Laurent, and six grandchildren; also two sisters in Scotland and two brothers in Canada — Charles in Kamloops, B.C., and Robert, in Toronto.

The funeral service, which was largely attended, was held in the United Church on Sunday, July 13, at 2 p.m. with his pastor, the Rev. Garfield Bruce, officiating. The Rev. K. R. Davis, pastor of the Maple Avenue Baptist Church, read the scripture; hymns sung were, "Pleasant are Thy Courts Above", and "The Lord is My Shepherd" favorite numbers of the deceased.

Interment was in Lachute Cemetery. There were many beautiful floral tributes to the memory of an old and respected citizen.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Fred Jordan, Ernest Zimmer, Howard Elliott, Fred Hosgoode, Chris Devine and Russell Carpenter.

Double program of motorcycle racing

Motorcycle racing, one of the most fascinating and thrilling sports, is gradually gaining support. Across the border, our American neighbors draw crowds well over the 10,000 mark at these events.

In order to have greater variety in their program, the promoters of Rigaud Park are holding a double meet for the week-end of July 26-27. On Saturday, under sponsorship of the Verdun Motorcycle Racing Club, sanctioned by the Canadian Motorcycle Association, the races will be held at Lachute Fair Grounds, at 2 p.m., and on Sunday at 2 p.m. at Rigaud Park. By holding a double meet, professional riders from the United States are willing to come and offer some stiff competition to Canadian riders. These daring racers speed at 70 to 75 miles an hour, slowing down the least possible for curves.

For the greater comfort of the fans and drivers, the promoters will be using new methods to keep dust at a minimum. They hope to see all fans on Saturday, 26th, at Lachute, and on Sunday, 27th, at Rigaud.

Lady had colorful recollections, lived in many places

Late Mrs. Wm. J. McManus

On July 13 at her residence in Lachute, after a short illness, the death occurred of Catherine MacAllister, widow of Wm. J. McManus and daughter of the late Wm. MacAllister, of Brownsburg, Que.

The funeral, conducted by the Rev. G. B. Hicks, of Brownsburg, was held on Tuesday, July 15, at the MacKimmie Funeral Home. Her daughter, (Hazel) Mrs. Del Simhiser, of Chattanooga, Tenn., her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Rupert McManus, and her grandson Wm. McManus, of Montreal, were present. Burial was in Hawthorndale Cemetery in Montreal.

Friends of the late Mrs. McManus will miss her merry wit and amusing tales of the many places where she had lived, for hers was indeed a varied life. After spending her early years in Brownsburg, she lived in Toronto, Montreal, Vancouver and different cities in Washington, Florida and Tennessee.

Besides those mentioned above, she leaves to mourn her passing three sons, Howard, of Miami, Fla., Charles, of Vancouver, and Lindsay, of Pasadena, Cal. One son, Rupert, and a daughter, Eileen, predeceased her.

Morin Heights

Mrs. Edith Davis and daughter, Margaret, of Victoria, B.C., arrived here Saturday for a few weeks' visit with relatives and friends.

Friends of Mrs. E. Kneeland are sorry to learn that she is a patient in the St. Jerome hospital, and take this opportunity to wish her a speedy recovery.

Shower for Bride-Elect

The joint hostesses, Ethel Lacken, Violet Seale, Margaret McCambley, Isabel Watchorn, Dorothy Garayt and Doris Watchorn, had the hall beautifully decorated for the occasion, the table being centred with a two-layer cake and candles. Games were played during the evening, and refreshments were served.

Miss Penny Campbell, of Montreal, is spending a few weeks' vacation with her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bennett spent a few days at their cottage here after returning from Toronto, where they were visiting with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Bennett.

Miss Doreen Seale returned home after spending a few days at Sherbrooke, where she attended a wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tomalty, of Brownsburg, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Cloak.

Faithful Church Worker

Deep regret has been felt at the passing of Mr. Thomas Anderson, who for many years was an ardent worker in the church and Sunday School. He formerly served faithfully as Sunday School superintendent, Sunday School teacher, choir leader, elder, session clerk, and congregational secretary and also took part in other church activities. His faithfulness will long be remembered by those who worked with him for many years in the past.

Lachute Baptist Church terminates successful Vacation School period

A successful two-week Vacation Bible School was conducted by Lachute Baptist Church from Monday, July 7, to Friday, July 18. School sessions were held from 9 to 11.30 each morning, Monday through Friday, in McArthur's Hall — due to construction of a new church hall which is in progress at the Baptist Church.

Three separate departments were provided for children 4 to 12 years of age, while a number of teen-age young people assisted the teachers in the various departments.

Although handicapped by lack of transportation for certain rural areas, the school attracted a total enrolment of 69 and maintained an average attendance of 53 per day. About 100 persons gathered on Sunday evening, July 20, to enjoy the colorful commencement program which was held in the church auditorium.

The Scriptures on television quiz

A housewife and mother from the State of Sao Paulo, Brazil, took part in "The Sky is the Limit", a radio and television quiz show. She was the first contestant in the history of the program to answer questions on the Bible, and she also reached the highest level in the program's history, answering correctly a question worth about $9,000.

In reporting the incident, The Commission magazine said, "People were profoundly impressed with her knowledge of the New Testament and with the simple testimony which she always gave. The televiewers in general were seeing something they had never seen before — a lay woman who reads the Bible regularly and uses it as a guide to her every day living."

The master of ceremonies for the show said that she had made more propaganda for the Bible than she had for the product which sponsors his program.

Lachute couple 50 years married feted by family

A very happy event took place recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Tiers, Pickering, Ont., to celebrate the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Brash, of Lachute, Mrs. Tiers' parents.

With the exception of their eldest son, Robert, who was unable to attend, the rest of the family were present — including, Mrs. Robert Brash, of Richmond Hill, Ont., Mr. and Mrs. Cornwall G. (Bud) Brash, Pointe Claire, Que., Mr. and Mrs. David Brash, of London, Ont., and nine grandchildren.

A buffet luncheon was served, the table being decorated with sweet peas and gold candles, the centrepiece a two-tiered wedding cake, white with gold trimmings, baked by Mrs. Robert Brash. Pink peonies and blue delphinium were used for house decorations.

At tea-time the older granddaughters poured and served, assisted by the little ones; and the three grandsons, on behalf of the family, presented their grandparents with beautiful matched gold wrist watches, accompanied with appropriate verses composed by "Bob" for the occasion. Many lovely gifts, flowers, cards and messages were received from near and far.

In the evening and during the remainder of their stay, friends and neighbors called to offer their congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Brash have now returned to their summer residence at Lake Macdonald.

Six local members to Jehovah's Witnesses international meeting

The Lachute congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will be represented by six local members, as delegates, at the international convention in New York City July 27 to August 3.

Those attending the gathering believe they will benefit greatly not only from the rich spiritual provisions, but also from Christian association with other Witnesses from foreign lands. The convention will further understanding and good-will among the various races and nationalities of Jehovah's Witnesses, and will also demonstrate to the world how the Bible message and Christian living can unite people from all walks of life, regardless of race or other backgrounds that tend to divide the world. Only common interest in the pure worship of the Creator can do this, they contend.

Watchtower officials in New York pointed to the record attendance of 165,000 at the 1953 international convention in New York's Yankee Stadium. At that time several overflow areas provided space for the Witnesses and friends. Yankee Stadium has again been secured, but because of the cramped quarters of the previous assembly, overflow space for this year's assembly will be provided by the use of the Polo Grounds, where the program will also be presented by the same participants following the first presentation in Yankee Stadium.

Most of the delegates from Lachute will be in private homes in New York City and nearby. All hotel accommodations will be filled, according to the rooming committee, and the majority of attenders will be placed in homes following a gigantic house-to-house effort to find available accommodations.

Spiritual theme through Vacation Bible School at People's Church

On Friday evening, July 18, about 130 children and parents gathered on the spacious lawn of the People's Church for the closing program of the Daily Vacation Bible School.

For two weeks this school has been in full swing and the children have been having a wonderful time. They studied the profound truths of the Bible, presented in ways that made it easy to understand. They heard Bible stories; they saw Bible stories by the use of flannelgraph and other visual aids, and then they acted out Bible stories; and even in the handicraft, which proved popular from day to day, the great truths of the spiritual realm were revealed.

Ordinarily these great eternal truths would not be understood by the child, were it not for new, simple and interesting methods of teaching which are now being used in the field of child education.

The theme of the school this year was "Exploring God's Wonders". This was in keeping with the geophysical year and even as the scientists of the world are discovering new secrets in nature, so the children were discovering great secrets of God and the wonderful universe He has created.

Instead of this deep knowledge being a burden to the children, it was a great joy, and the faithful attendance day by day proved that the boys and girls were not bored but delighted with the teaching.

While the school was down just a little in the attendance from last year, yet there were as many children as could adequately be taken care of, with an average attendance of 67 each day, and the highest attendance of 72.

The Nursery was in charge of Mrs. E. Stephens and Mrs. A. Stewart. The Beginners were taken care of by Mrs. E. Kettyle, Mrs. S. Donaldson and Miss Sandra Stansfield; the Primary Department by Miss Audrey Morrison and Mrs. C. Sorley; the Juniors by Mrs. W. Morrison, Mrs. E. Townsend and Miss Julia Kettyle; while the Intermediate Department was in the hands of the pastor, the Rev. C. W. Sorley.

The organizers would like to thank the following for favors shown in the interest of the school — Mr. R. A. Giles of The Lachute Watchman, Mr. Fraser Morrison, McGibbon Lumber Company and J. R. Desjardins (Wishing Well Drinks); also the folks who did such a splendid job transporting the children to and from the school day by day.

The Rev. Canon Cyrus W. P. Baugh, rector of Lakefield, celebrates his 86th birthday this Saturday, July 26. He is also the eldest active clergyman of the Anglican Church in Canada.

His services this coming Sunday are in keeping with his usual summer routine, and illustrate just how much the Rev. Baugh accomplishes in his expansive rural pastorate. He will conduct service at Holy Trinity Church in Lakefield at 10.30 a.m., Dunany at 7 p.m., and Louisa at 8 p.m. To his smallest congregation, Shrewsbury, he travels for 2 p.m. service.

Many friends throughout the county join with his flock and his immediate circle, in congratulating the Rev. Mr. Baugh on this occasion.

Indians in the territories have been legally able to buy beer in beer parlors, although not hard liquor.

But trapper-trader Knute Lang of Aklavik told the council that Indians in the Arctic Mackenzie River delta he represents want to be able to buy a case of beer a week and don't think beer parlors are the best way to make this possible.

Most of the Indians would be too far away from parlors to buy supplies in them. Mr. Lang said his information was that the white population at the new Aklavik townsite, known simply as East Three until the council chooses a new name, will have one or two beer parlors.

This would be of no benefit to Indians in settlements as far away as 300 miles where beer parlors weren't favored.

"I know how they'll get around it," he said, "but it won't be legal. They'll make their own."

New Loan Announced

Early in the week, Finance Minister Fleming, with fanfare from the Prime Minister, announced a record government financing deal that included borrowing $400,000,000 from the chartered banks and the Bank of Canada and a plan to get holders of $6,416,000,000 in wartime Victory bonds to convert them into new issues.

The Victory bonds were soon to be due for government redemption. They pay three percent interest annually. The new conversion issues comprise bonds with terms ranging from 3½ years at three percent annual interest to 25 years at 4½ percent.

By the end of the week, the Bank of Canada announced that $1,085,000,000 worth of the Victory bonds had already been converted into the new ones.

Said Mr. Fleming in the bank's announcement: "These early results indicate the enthusiasm with which the new Canada conversion loan is being received in all parts of the country."

For Parents Only...

Parents and Juvenile Delinquency

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"There is too much tendency to term a juvenile delinquent any youngster who gets into trouble. Formerly a good spanking by the father, discipline by the school teacher or parent, or even a talking to by the policeman on the street sufficed," Mervyn Davis, executive director of the John Howard Society, said recently.

It is heartening to know that although the number of children in trouble with the law is still increasing, the roving bands of juvenile gangs are disappearing from the Canadian scene. The first offender in our larger Canadian cities during last year was on his own, or with one or two companions, in the great majority of cases, and not with a large group.

It is rather staggering to discover that in a recent year in Canada (1956) the number of children found delinquent was 8,238. In the calendar year of 1952, 7,213 children appeared in Canadian courts for delinquent behaviour. Our Canadian increase in population must be remembered when we compare these figures. Many cases are heard informally and the great majority of those which go to court are looked after by a special court for juveniles.

Every good citizen is concerned with this problem. There is no easy solution and no one cause. Residents of this province are given food for thought in this recent C.P. report:

Juvenile crime increased 68 per cent in 1956 "and this was maintained in 1957", said Police Chief Robert Taft. Juvenile court judge Emerson Heaney commented: "It seems to me that since more liberal liquor laws took effect in Manitoba, more kids are getting into trouble because of liquor. I asked one 15-year-old girl why she would want to have anything to do with liquor and she said 'everybody does it'."

Juvenile delinquency has a terrifying sound in parents' ears. When a child gets into serious trouble with the law, his folks are usually alarmed — and quite rightly so. But mothers and fathers can often learn a good deal from understanding judges, social workers and psychiatrists. Wise handling of a "first offender" in the great majority of cases, results in the youngster steering clear of delinquency in the future.

Not long ago Judge Lorem Stewart, in one of our largest city's juvenile courts, made a significant comment. A ten-year-old lad was up in court and pleaded guilty on the charge of breaking into a gas station the previous night. He had been caught and his father said angrily, "The kid's always getting into trouble!"

The judge asked delay of a week to find out more about this youthful offender through the court's clinic. From long experience, Judge Stewart pointed out, "Until we find out why a child did something, we can't be sure he won't do it again." In 1956 there were 926 children who had been found delinquent one or more times in previous years.

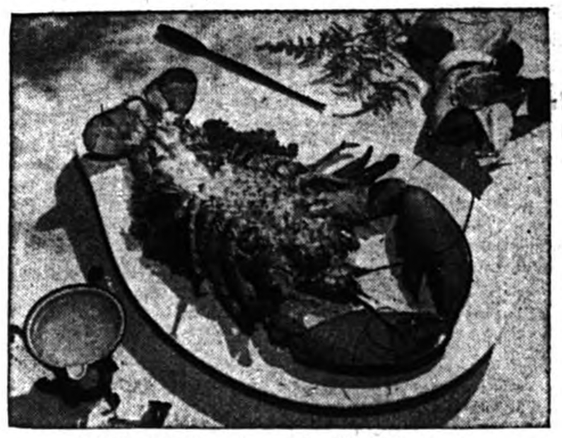

"Why?" is a query often on the lips of children. But parents lead such busy lives that they frequently seem to be almost completely unconcerned with what their offspring is doing. They seldom stop to wonder about his motives. But if they are to be really helpful to a child in trouble, they must try to discover the reason for his difficulties.

Blaming, reproaching or nagging at a youngster are very poor approaches. Certainly he must accept his share of responsibility for what he has done — but why did he do it? As parents, have you not a part in his guilt? In China in the old days, when a youth misbehaved, the elders in the village asked "Who is his father?"

In Montreal, the Inspector of the Juvenile Police Squad believes that reporting to parents their child's anti-social actions gets results. More and more he counts on fathers and mothers to correct their own children and punish them when they first get in trouble with the officers of the law. Chief M. F. E. Anthony of Edmonton believes that after one conviction for a serious crime, neither the juvenile nor his family should be entitled to the cloak of secrecy. It is quite possible that parents would be more careful about checking on the activities of their adolescents if there was press publicity after one conviction.

Dr. Glueck, penologist of Harvard University, once wisely pointed out that one of the surest cures for juvenile delinquency is a father who is just and loving. Children need to look to parents for moral guidance as well as affection. Are you helping your child in his standards of behaviour? Does he know from your example the line between right and wrong?

Lobster – star seafood attraction

Travellers in the Maritimes are sometimes mystified when their Pullman train out of Saint John, N.B., comes to a stop at tiny McAdam Junction in the early morning. They see the locomotive detached and some long, padlocked freight cars slid into choice riding position immediately in front of the Pullmans. Then the engine is hooked on again and with no more explanation than a derisive whistle, is off at full speed. . . What the travellers may not have guessed is that the mysterious locked cars hold live lobsters, dispatched by a firm in nearby St. Andrews to customers throughout the continent.

Most of us think of St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, N.B., as a summer vacation centre. As well, however, it is the site of a large lobster pound. This summer the Canadian Home Economics Association held its 10th biennial convention in St. Andrews, from July 1 to 3. One of the highlights of the program was a symposium, "Look to the Sea" conducted by federal Department of Fisheries authorities. This was followed by a seafood variety show featuring, among other "stars", His Royal Red Highness the Lobster. The fisheries home economists put the aquatic entertainers through their paces, and Baked Stuffed Lobster was really one of the star numbers!

Baked Stuffed Lobster

2 Live lobsters (about 1 pound each), 3 quarts boiling water, 1 cup salt, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine (melted), 1 tablespoon minced onion, dash garlic salt (optional).

Plunge lobsters headfirst into boiling water to which salt has been added. When water has returned to simmering temperature, cover and allow to simmer for 5 minutes. Drain lobsters and cool quickly under cold water. Place each lobster on its back. With a sharp knife or scissors slit open on the underside from head to tail. Remove stomach sac which lies just back of the head and also the dark intestinal vein running from the stomach to the tip of the tail. Remove and save the green liver, also the coral roe, if present. These are delicious mixed with a little melted butter or mayonnaise and spread on bread.

Prepare a bread dressing by combining the bread crumbs, melted butter, onion and garlic salt. Stuff dressing in body cavity and spread over surface of tail meat. Place on a baking pan. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400°) for 15 minutes. Serve accompanied by side dishes of melted butter. Makes 2 servings.

Tip to prevent discoloration

Strawberries, raspberries and cherries all make delicious desserts and can easily be frozen to provide summer fare during the winter months.

One of the obstacles to preparing appetizing fruit cocktails and desserts from fresh fruits is the tendency for fruits to discolor and lose their flavor. An excellent way to overcome this difficulty is to sprinkle the fruit with an ascorbic acid-sucrose mixture. Ascorbic acid stops the oxygen in the air from discoloring fruit and keeps it tasting fresh. Sucrose is a form of sugar often found naturally in fruit.

The same mixture is also a great help to those who freeze fruit. It prevents flavor loss during preparation and maintains the flavor and color of fruits when they are in the freezer.

Here is a recipe to use the mixture effectively during packaging of frozen fruit.

Prepare syrup by dissolving sugar in water before cutting up the fruit. Use hot water for clearer solutions. For most fruits a medium syrup will be preferred which is made by adding 3½ cups of sugar to one quart of water.

Cool syrup completely; then add 1 teaspoonful of the ascorbic acid-sucrose mixture per cup of cold syrup. Fill freezing container one-quarter full with syrup and slice fruit directly into it. Press fruit down in container and add enough syrup to cover. Syrup should always cover fruit. Leave ½-inch to 1-inch head space, seal and freeze.

Written Specially for The Lachute Watchman

By Edna Usher

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Women's Institutes are urging more care to lower Canada's infant mortality rate. Too many babies are born dead or die in early infancy, says Mrs. Harry Francis of Shelburne, Ont., who led a study group for the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario.

She says that although the infant death rate has been halved in the last 20 years, the figures are still too high.

The study group has recommended better distribution of medical and nursing services, an educational program on the need for improved pre-natal and maternal care, improved facilities in general hospitals, increased awareness of the problems by doctors, and more research into causes of infant deaths.

The Women's Institute now is taking first steps towards sponsoring education projects, assisting at premarital clinics, and working with health authorities and hospitals.

Mrs. Francis reported that between 1930 and 1934, the infant death rate per 1,000 births was 78.6 for Canada and 63.7 for Ontario. In 1950-54, the rate for Canada was 36.3 and for Ontario 29.8.

Old are Asset

Canada is neglecting its most valuable raw material in failing to keep old people at work, says Mrs. Jean Good, Toronto, executive secretary of the Ontario Society on Ageing.

"Arbitrary retirement at a certain age and lack of organizations for old people lose for us our greatest talent and ability — abilities that in old people are backed by experience," she said.

Her job is to supervise a three-year plan to improve the lives of old people in Ontario. "We must make a scientific investigation of how to use the experience of old people and how to find them new work to do," she said. "Scientific investigation so far has been aimed at keeping them breathing."

Mrs. Good tells communities of the need to train or retrain older workers. She suggests organizing social clubs, providing special housing, and keeping old people informed about pensions they can obtain.

"What I hope to suggest is that work for old people now is work for ourselves later; we are all getting older, and improved conditions will benefit us."

New Uses for Bread

Plain white bread has more uses than most housewives know, and here are some recipes:

"Crispy Bread Baskets" are made with sliced white bread, butter, creamed filling. Remove crust, then butter both sides of bread. Tuck into large-size muffin tins. Bake in 375-degree oven until crispy and brown — about 15 minutes. Fill with creamed meat, fish or vegetable. Serve warm with salad.

"Morceaux Ragoutants" (enough for 12) is made like this: White bread, tin of luncheon meat or half-pound of bologna, one-third cup minced onion, one-third cup chopped celery, one-third cup cucumber relish, tablespoon of sugar, two tablespoons prepared mustard, salt and pepper. Slice bread three-quarters of an inch thick, and cut in four-inch strips. Mince meat and add remaining ingredients. Mix well, spread generously on bread strips and bake in oven 325 degrees for 15 minutes.

Wilf Carter show next Thursday

The recording star Wilf Carter is reaching his third decade singing, yodeling and recording more than 200 of his own compositions.

The "Wilf Carter Show" has achieved a tremendous following. Wilf brings a full measure of family entertainment. His two daughters, Carol now 13 and Sheila, 15, are troupers. The girls do ballet and tap dancing, sing and yodel, as well as play the guitar and accordion. Two other charming girls attending the same dancing school in Winter Park, Florida, are in the All-Star supporting cast. They are Dianna Lee and Pattie Stevens.

Ward Allen returns for his fourth year sharing the spotlight. Ward is Champion Old-Time Fiddler. He already has 22 releases on the Spartan label. Another recording artist, Joe Brown, makes his fifth trip with the show, and a newcomer popular with his RCA Victor recordings, Bob King, handles the m.c. part of the show.

"The Family Show with the Folks You Know" — the Wilf Carter Show — is billed for the Vankleek Hill Arena next Thursday, July 31.

Exhibit Aug. 2-10 features works of Morin Hts. artist

Works of Helmut Gransow, of Morin Heights, will be featured in the next exhibition planned by the Argenteuil Art Association — continuing a season which has been both interesting and successful to date.

Mr. Gransow came to Canada in 1949. He received his training in Berlin and Karlsruhe, Germany, and since his arrival in Canada has shown widely in Montreal, Toronto, London, and other centres, both in solo exhibitions (at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, the Royal Ontario Museum and the London Art Gallery), and as a participating exhibitor. He has received much favorable comment for his work in graphic art and he excels in block prints and monotypes, as well as in landscapes in oils. Critics have noted with favor the wide variety in his work.

The coming exhibition is highly recommended to the A.A.A. membership and to the public at large. It will be shown at the Town Hall at St. Andrews East, August 2-10, inclusive. Hours will be from 2 to 4 daily, with the exception of Saturdays and Sundays (August 2-3 and 9-10) when the hall will be open from 2 to 9 p.m.

New postage stamp features oil industry

Ottawa — The Hon. William Hamilton, Postmaster General, has announced details of a new 5-cent postage stamp to be issued on September 10 next.

The new stamp focuses attention on the important role played by Canadians in the development of petroleum. A Canadian geologist, Abraham Gesner of Nova Scotia, laid the foundation for the new industry when he discovered kerosene in 1846 and established its use for illuminating purposes. Another Canadian, James M. Williams, dug the first commercially successful oil well at Oil Springs, Ontario, in 1857. Canadian enterprise in the refining of petroleum became the basis for the modern world-wide petroleum industry.

The release of the new stamp coincides with the World Power Conference which will convene in Montreal from September 7 to 11. At this conference Canada will be host to some 1700 delegates representing 52 countries.

The new stamp will be printed in two colours, green and red, and will be of medium size measuring one inch by one and three sixteenth inches. The engraving and printing is being done by the Canadian Bank Note Company, Limited, Ottawa.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

"Carefree" and "careful" are perfect travelling companions. If you're careful in pre-planning for safety, you're almost sure to have a carefree and comfortable vacation.

No matter where you go, your plan should provide for:

. . . Good car performance. Have your car checked, serviced, and lubricated at your neighborhood service station before you start your trip. Nothing provides such good safety insurance, according to the automotive experts.

. . . Emergencies. Take a first-aid kit, a properly inflated spare tire, a flashlight, tool kit with tire-changing equipment, maps, keys, driver's license and proper identification.

. . . Rest. Stop occasionally during the day and get a good night's sleep. Fatigue is not conducive to safe driving.

. . . Sightseeing. Don't try to drive and sightsee at the same time. Pull off the road and stop — then look at the sights.

. . . Changing traffic laws. Stay alert to speed limits and local parking rules.

. . . Proper packing. Place luggage and vacation equipment so that the driver will have a full, clear vision in the front and rear and on both sides.

Remember, for a carefree trip, nothing beats a careful plan.

Q.W.I. gives $100 for Library

The Quebec Women's Institutes have given $100 to the McLennan Travelling Libraries, Macdonald College, to be used for the purchase of new books. This is in recognition of the service rendered by its Bookmobile to schools, local libraries and individual Institutes in communities along its regular routes. In addition, other rural districts benefit by the loan collections, sent by mail or express.

The circulation of the Libraries is increasing at a rapid and most gratifying rate. New books need constantly to be added to keep up with the demand; especially is this true of children's books.

Good reading, within the reach of all, has always been of concern to the Q.W.I. The Travelling Libraries provide an effective method of meeting this need and the gift is a small acknowledgment of its value to the Institute.

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you:

Q. After I have filed a claim, how long do I have to wait before receiving benefit?

A. Usually two full weeks. There is a waiting period, equivalent to one full week, that starts after a claim is made. No benefit is payable during the waiting period. An additional week in which there is unemployment has then to elapse before payment can be made.

* * *

Q. If I take a job in non-insurable employment can I still be insured and pay my own premiums?

A. No, except where your employment becomes non-insurable because your yearly earnings have risen to more than $4,800 and where you have already been insured for at least 30 weeks in the two-year period immediately preceding this event.

* * *

Q. I am paid a low rate of wages but receive a fairly large sum in tips each week. My benefit is based on my wage rate only and is therefore very low. May I not contribute and receive benefits on the combined rate of wages and tips?

A. Yes, if you and your employer agree to regard such tips as part of your wages under your contract of employment and work out a satisfactory way of reckoning your total earnings so as to determine the correct class of contributions payable.

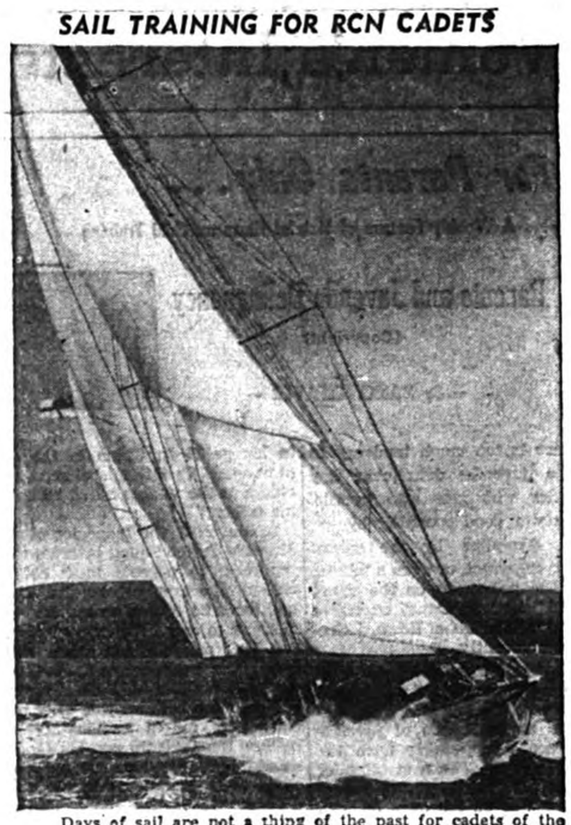

AIR HOSTESS JOB LOSING ITS GLAMOR

The job of air hostess appears to be losing its glamor for South African girls. South African Airways are so short of air hostesses that a number of domestic services have been operated recently with two male stewards. Normally there is a hostess and a steward on each flight.

The marriage market continues to be responsible for much of the loss of staff, a Johannesburg report states. But it seems that girls are at last realizing that the job is not so glamorous. Many soon tire of rising at the crack of dawn for early flights, or discover that they get paid less than a typist can command.

Starting salaries for an air hostess is about £45 per month (about $108).

SAIL TRAINING FOR RCN CADETS

Days of sail are not a thing of the past for cadets of the Venture, the Royal Canadian Navy's officer training establishment at Esquimalt, British Columbia. In the majestic yacht Oriole, young sailors go to sea for intensive training in seamanship and navigation. The training ship is seen here in a brisk breeze off Vancouver.

Late Mrs. Dolby S. Orr

The sudden passing of Mrs. Dolby Orr at East Angus, Que., came as a shock to her many friends and relatives in this community. After a short illness she passed peacefully away at her home on June 26.

The late Mrs. Orr was the eldest daughter of the late Henry Morrison and his wife Catherine Tomalty, and was born in The Glen, Louisa, on May 2, 1890. Her first marriage was to Richard Matthews, who predeceased her in 1926. Later she moved to East Angus, Que., where in 1929 she married Dolby Stevens Orr.

Many beautiful floral tributes bore testimony to the esteem in which the deceased was held by all her friends and neighbors. She leaves to mourn her passing her loving husband; two foster-sons, Clarence Matthews and Edgar Gauley; also four brothers and four sisters — Robert and Wilfred Morrison, of Lachute, Arthur, of Williamstown, Ont., and Walter, of Verdun, Que. (Alice) Mrs. George Bale, of Verdun, (Edith) Mrs. Thos. Gauley, of Dunany, (Mary) Mrs. William Brown, of Lachute, and (Wilma) Mrs. Dan Brown, of Dunany.

The funeral service was held at her home on June 29, conducted by the Rev. McKenzie, assisted by the Rev. Robbins, and was largely attended. Hymns sung were "The King of Love My Shepherd Is" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."

Pall-bearers were — Oren Campbell, Cecil Gilbert, Lloyd Harrison (nephews of the deceased), Howard Mackay, James Currie and Herbert Gillespie. Interment was made in nearby Westbury Cemetery.

A large number of cousins and friends motored from this district to attend the funeral. The late Mrs. Orr will be sadly missed by a host of friends and acquaintances, for her genial spirit and kindly personality.

Garden Graph

By DEAN HALLIDAY

In most areas, green beans can be planted as late as the first week in August.

Many home gardeners plant early bush beans for the first pickings, pole beans for mid-season, and then plant and harvest a third crop.

For a third, early August planting, be sure to select one of the early maturing varieties. Until the last planting is completely killed by frost, it should provide an ample crop for table use and canning.

Beans are at their best when young, streamlined, or pencil-thin, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

Beans which have been allowed to become too mature to use as snap beans (indicated by the bulge of seeds illustrated) can be opened and the bean seeds used to advantage as shell or dry beans.

When beans are permitted to dry on the vine, production halts. If the pods are kept picked, the bearing season is prolonged. A good picking plan is to go over the plants every few days.

Some varieties of beans become stringy unless used when young. Modern varieties of snap beans have no strings, but lose flavor and tenderness if left on the vines too long.

In the case of lima beans, however, a maximum flavor and food value are obtained only when the beans are full grown.

Improve swine herds by cross-breeding

The planned improvement of Quebec's extensive swine herds through crossing with the new Landrace breed is being tested at Macdonald College.

The department of animal husbandry has acquired four purebred Landrace gilts and one boar from Arcunal Farm Reg'd., Adamsville, Que., to be used chiefly for crossing with Yorkshires as representing the province's present main swine stock.

Prof. L. H. Hamilton, head of the department, chose the five Wilgor piglets from a litter which, weighing 607 pounds at weaning, received the six-star certificate of the Canadian Landrace Association. Wilgor is the official name of Landrace swine born at Arcunal Farm.

Mother of the litter of 14 is Warwick Hybrid Louanne 68L, the sire Fergus Premier 186L. Four purebred Landrace litters sired by this boar weighed over one ton at weaning.

Eight-year-old son of two Yukon grizzlies, he joined the squadron on March 1, 1951. Haying machinery for small and larger farms

Ottawa — A recent innovation known as the Hay Bale Stooker is a useful piece of haying equipment for smaller farms.

This machine consists of a platform pulled behind the hay baler and it leaves stooks of six bales. A tractor equipped with a stook loader can lift all six bales and load them on a wagon. There are also several types of field bale loaders that will pick up individual bales.

Although two men are needed to bale and stook the crop, A. I. Magee of the Central Experimental Farm points out that the same two men can later pick up the bales and store them. This, he says, reduces the size of the crew needed for the overall haying operation.

One inexpensive type of loader is an attachment for a baler. This consists of a chute at the rear of the machine that directs the bales into a trailed wagon where a man arranges the bales on the platform.

Another recent development uses a bale thrower on the baler that tosses the bales into a wagon box. One man can operate the baler and load the wagon.

Both of these methods, however, need a crew of men to unload the wagons and several wagons are needed if the baler is to operate continuously.

Normally this can be done economically only on larger farms where a large quantity of hay is handled each year.

Tomato transplanting

The time required for setting tomato plants in the field has been cut by 45 per cent through the use of a new model transplanting machine in the Horticulture Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Furthermore, machine planted transplants showed less evidence of setback than comparable plants set by hand.

Fertilizer Act newly revised

A new Fertilizer Act, overhauling the old one and bringing regulations up to date, went into effect July 1.

C. R. Phillips, of the Plant Products Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, explained that one immediate result will be to increase plant food content of some fertilizers because the regulations set a higher minimum standard.

This, he said, will tend to eliminate smaller volume grades of lower analysis.

Special attention has been given sale of fertilizers with a pesticide content. It will be possible for a farmer to obtain mixtures of fertilizers and pesticides, provided they contain pesticides of the type and quantity suitable for the purpose intended. Further, the farmer must be supplied with labelling and directions for use of the product.

Fertilizer sales in Canada last year reached 800,000 tons.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Salt Requirements Of Dairy Cattle

Most of us if asked how much salt dairy cows should have each day or each month or year, would be stumped for an answer. Does a milking cow need one ounce, or two ounces a day, or even more?

Fifty years ago Dr. S. M. Babcock of the University of Wisconsin, having run perhaps the first controlled test on salt feeding of a dairy herd, recommended that a cow be fed three-fourths of an ounce of salt for each 1000 pounds live weight, and an additional three-tenths ounce of salt for every ten pounds of milk produced.

Dr. Bohstedt

This was a sensible conclusion, for it recognized the salt requirement for both body maintenance and milk production. Babcock's rule of salt feeding is quoted with respect to this day.

In practical application, Babcock's rule means that a 1400 pound cow producing 50 pounds of milk daily would require fully two and one-half ounces of salt per day to keep from developing a salt deficiency. Two signs of salt deficiency are: depraved appetite, where the animal will lick or chew wood, metal, clothes, soil or manure; and lowered milk production.

A common practice is to mix one per cent salt in the dairy feed. Is this enough salt? Would a cow producing 50 pounds of milk daily be getting enough salt when fed by the common rule of one pound of grain for every four pounds of milk? Well, she would in this case be getting exactly two ounces of salt a day—just one-half ounce less than required by the Babcock standard. The best way to avoid salt deficiency is to feed one per cent salt in the dairy ration and, in addition, let the cows have free access to salt, either loose or block salt.

To make the additional free-choice salt conveniently available to the cows many dairymen use salt cups mounted near the stanchions. Some prefer to use divided salt-mineral boxes or salt blocks, placed in the barnyard or in the pasture.

Voluntary access to salt is especially important to young dairy stock that may not be getting very much grain with its one per cent salt. And don't forget the dry cows, they may go weeks without any grain, therefore they would get no salt at all unless provided free-choice. Obviously, there is serious danger of salt deficiency in both the dairy calf and the dry cow.

Question: In the case of oats and corn, is there any serious deterioration in quality or feed value caused by grinding several months ahead of use? One of our farmers for several years has liked to have most of his oat crop ground up at one time.

Answer: Grain that is kept stored in a ground condition for several months, especially during warm weather, tends to become rancid, smelly and unpalatable due to the oxidation of the fat or oil in the ground grain. With grinding equipment so readily available nowadays, one should aim always to feed grain ground as freshly as possible.

Questions from readers will be answered in the column or by direct reply. Please send your questions to Dr. Bohstedt c/o Salt Institute, 33 North La Salle St., Chicago 2, Ill.

Using an electric vibrator to stir greenhouse tomato plants into distributing their pollen, growers have increased production and lessened costs, reports L. F. Ounsworth of the Experimental Farm at Harrow, Ont.

The instrument, a converted flashlight with an oscillating tongue, is cheap and easy to obtain and can be handily applied to the plants for a few seconds every few days.

Tests of a group containing 14 varieties of tomatoes showed that the weight and the quantity of No. 1 fruit was increased 50 percent by use of the vibrator compared with a similar group to which it was not applied; the increase was notable.

Some varieties benefit more than others from the treatment but the vibrator has proved its worth in the greenhouse since it was introduced a few years ago.

New recruits

Canadian horses are again being recruited for police duty in the British West Indies.

Two horses were purchased this year for the Commissioner of Police, Barbados. About every third year Trinidad orders 12 to 15.

Dr. F. J. Leslie, Livestock and Poultry Production Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, explained that neither island breeds horses since all hay and grain must be imported and the cost would be prohibitive.

The horses come from breeding stations established and supervised by the Department of Agriculture. There are three in Ontario and one in Saskatchewan.
