Utilities Commission sets rate for water supply to Ayersville

Sets compromise cost at 15 cents thousand gallons; previously 11 cents

Litigation between the Lachute and Ayersville corporations over the rate for water supply to the latter municipality, which has now been going on since July 1957, was settled this week by a decree from the Quebec Public Utilities Commission, establishing the rate at 15 cents per thousand gallons.

Ayersville was previously paying 11 cents per thousand gallons, and Lachute had requested authority to increase the levy to 24½ cents.

After studying the Lachute waterworks installations the distance of transport from Lake Sir John to Ayersville Municipality, and costs involved in various aspects of operation, the Commission decreed as follows:

1. That a rate of 15 cents per thousand gallons shall apply, retroactive from July 1, 1957.

2. That the appellant muncipality shall read the consumer-meter at Ayersville the first day of each month in presence of a representative of the latter municipality . . . and each party shall retain a record of the readings.

3. The supplier shall bill the consumer (Ayersville) for water consumption from July 1, 1957, to November 1, 1958, at the rate of 15 cents, crediting payments in that period remitted at the previous rate, 11 cents. Said bill shall be paid within 60 days, failing which, interest shall be charged at 6% per annum.

4. For consumption after November 1, Ayersville shall be billed on monthly readings, said bills to be payable within 30 days or subject to interest as above.

5. Without recourse to legal proceedings the Commission assigns its chief engineer to smooth and adjust, if possible, such difficulties as may arise in the application of the present decree.

6. The Commisson reserves the right to issue subsequent ordinances, if deemed necessary, for the satisfactory operation of this decree.

It was added that the litigants shall pay costs of the Commission's investigations and deliberations.

Cottingham sees parent obligation in education

The Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Minister of Mines, warned parents against depending solely on school for the education of their children.

"Parents should take an active part in education and collaborate as much as they can with school teachers", he said last week at the opening of the Vivian Graham School, Pincourt, Ile Perrot.

He cautioned also against constantly taking the part of children against their teachers and urged the formation of parent-teacher associations "to get to know each other better."

The school, named after the late Col. Vivian Graham, first secretary of the Macdonald Protestant Central School Board, is the first Protestant school to be built on Ile Perrot.

Mr. Cottingham said the provincial government did not believe in free education. Parents have the duty to provide education to their children and they must pay their share of the cost, he said.

The government's duty was merely to help and, up to now, Quebec had done it most generously. In the Montreal area, he said, the provincial government had contributed to construction of 61 schools. Since 1945, he said, the provincial government has contributed nearly $32,000,000 in grants for the construction of 61 Protestant schools in the Montreal area alone.

Grants to Protestant schools have totalled $57,426,337 for the whole province.

Pleaded guilty to breaking, entering 3 on probation

Arthur Askham, 25-year-old resident of this area for the past several months, and two local youths having no previous police records, were sentenced to time spent in jail (eight days) and placed on probation for a one-year period — prior to being released on charges laid in 14 cases of breaking and entering, and 10 charges of theft.

The three appeared in court Friday and pleaded guilty as charged. The offences occurred during the month of October, all in the Dunany area, and missing possessions have been recovered.

Elects jury trial on manslaughter

Germain Lacoste, recently found "criminally responsible" in the death of Linda Chambers, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Chambers, St. Philippe, appeared for arraignment in St. Jerome court last Friday, and was released on $1,000 property bail.

The accused, who has been charged with manslaughter, has chosen trial by jury, and the preliminary hearing has been set for Wednesday, December 10.

Protests on new auto-route tolls

The question of tolls along the Laurentian Autoroute reached the controversial stage last week, with the announcement of a 25-cent charge to travel the nine-mile distance on the first section to be opened November 15.

Complaints have already been heard that the 25-cent toll beteween Cote Vertu and the auto-route - Highway No. 11 junction is excessive.

Reports have also been heard that the toll for the complete length of the auto-route, a distance of some 30 miles, will be 75 cents. However, Ernest Gohier, chairman of the Montreal - Laurentian Autoroute Board, insists that nothing has been decided yet in connection with the toll for the full route.

Prize drawing for French-language library

The lucky ticket for a movie camera outfit was held by Mme Ubald Sabourin, of Ayersville, the number being drawn by R. A. Giles, manager of Giles Publishing House, which extends the hospitality of its building for the operation of this library.

3 Young farmers joining tour for 4-H Club Week

Donald Parker and Davis MacVicar, of the Lachute 4-H Calf Club, will leave for the National 4-H Club Week, November 15-20, to be held during the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

Donald and Davis will travel to Montreal November 13 to meet the 12 other delegates who will represent Quebec at the Club Week. They will spend the night at the Laurentien Hotel. On Friday, 14th, they will meet the Maritime delegates and will go on a tour of Macdonald College. They will be guests of the Quebec Department of Agriculture for a noon luncheon. In the afternoon they will be conducted on a tour of the St. Lawrence Seaway and portions of the City of Montreal. In the evening, the delegates will leave by train for Toronto.

While in Toronto, the group will have a crowded program, including a visit to Niagara Falls, Casa Loma in Toronto, the Royal Ontario Museum, and visits to the Royal Winter Fair. They will also inspect the Avro Aircraft Limited and Orenda Engine plants at Malton, and a visit to Ottawa will complete the program.

Ross Oswald, the local Club leader, has been selected as a Provincial Leader by the Quebec Department of Agriculture, in recognition of his outstanding work in the 4-H Clubs. He will accompany the Quebec delegates to the National 4-H Club Week. J. E. Dubé and J. Audet, of the Quebec Department of Agriculture, Extension Branch, will also attend.

Several calls to grass fires

The local fire brigade answered four calls, all of a minor nature, during the past week. The flames were confined to grass, while one incident was a minor bush fire.

A Saturday call was to the residence of the Rev. W. B. Rosborough where a fire in the grass and undergrowth threatened the house. On Sunday, an outbreak in dry leaves and brush was reported on the mountain near the residence of Phil Roy. Both blazes were quickly extinguished.

The two other calls were answered Monday; both were grass fires of a minor nature.

Record volunteer force now ready for Poppy Drive

What looks like the biggest Poppy campaign to date will get under way this week-end with a canvass of homes. On Friday another force of volunteer workers will open the traditional tag day on town streets.

Mr. Tom Smith, chairman of the Poppy committee, extended an invitation to citizens to place a wreath at the Remembrance ceremony at the cenotaph on November 11. Individuals may lay wreaths or, if they so desire, have them placed by a Legion member.

"I feel confident that citizens will be at least as generous with Poppy contributions as they were last year," said Mr. Smith, who also emphasized that poppy funds were held in trust and were not used for Legion branch operation. The money is earmarked for welfare, and that is where it goes. He added that over 70 percent of all such welfare work was for veterans or dependents who did not belong to the Legion.

The Legion service bureau, which operates for the benefit of any veteran or dependent, is partially maintained by Poppy funds. Last year this department's effort made $271,450 available to Canadians in pensions and allowances.

"I think it means a lot to people, to know that there is an organization like the Legion where they can turn for free help and advice," Mr. Smith said. "Therefore I'm confident that the public will be as generous as it has been in the past."

Awaits sentence on killing at La Baie camp

André Harnois, 21-year-old Montrealer, was found guilty of manslaughter and will be sentenced November 25, in the death of Denis Lehoux (alias Maurice L'Esperance) on September 29, 1957, during a drinking party at a summer camp in La Baie, near St. Andrews. The trial was held last week in St. Jerome before Judge Roger Ouimette.

A 12-man jury returned the verdict on the murder charge at the conclusion of a week-long hearing which on Friday turned into one of the most spectacular trials in recent years, the defence counsel using all possible resources to obtain the release of his client.

Paper collection this Saturday

The Lachute Boy Scouts will hold a waste paper canvass throughout the town on Saturday, November 8. Paper salvage from homes, stores and industries will be collected by trucks, and it will be appreciated if bundles are placed on verandahs or otherwise in view of the collectors. (Small bundles or cartons are more easily handled.)

"Land Use in Canada" booklet describes C.I.P. experience in Argenteuil County

A brief submitted to special Senate committee on land use

Trees are a crop which can provide a lasting and reliable cash income for the farmer who knows how to grow them well, Vernon E. Johnson, president of Canadian International Paper Company, maintains in his 40-page illustrated booklet, "Land Use in Canada", which is now being distributed by the company.

The booklet, which will be mailed to conservation groups, leaders in the agriculture and forestry fields, and to others interested in the land use problem, describes the experience of the C.I.P. Company here in Argenteuil County, where the company in 1952 established the Harrington Forest Farm on the Rouge River.

The text of the booklet consists of the brief submitted by Mr. Johnson to the Special Committee of the Senate on Land Use, before which he appeared on July 17, 1958. The booklet is illustrated by a number of photographs showing examples of good and bad use of land in the Argenteuil region.

Mr. Johnson's conclusions are based on a long personal interest in conservation and wise land use. For 25 years — long before Harrington Forest Farm was established — he has been growing fish in his own lake and trees on his own place near Harrington.

The booklet describes the circumstances which led Canadian International Paper Company to convert its Hawkesbury pulp mill to the manufacture of hardwood pulp at a cost of $8,000,000. The hardwoods which abound in the area—largely beech, birch and maple — then became a source of raw material.

"The modern pulp and paper company," Mr. Johnson states, "must more and more be a tree farmer itself and it must more and more encourage others to discover this crop. The best way for us to insure a perpetual supply of wood for the Hawkesbury mill was to encourage tree farming in the area which supplies Hawkesbury."

The methods employed by the company to achieve this goal — and the way in which Harrington Forest Farm serves as a research centre, a laboratory for new machines and techniques, and a demonstration forest where the principles of good tree farming can be taught — are described in the booklet.

The text concludes with 10 recommendations for future policy, based on Mr. Johnson's convictions that "trees are easily the best farm crops for certain soils and conditions."

"If they are to make this contribution," he continues, "it is essential that we begin to recognize that trees are a crop — just like corn or oats or wheat — and treat them as a crop in all our thinking. This is a challenge to government, to industry, and to the individual."

Other recommendations deal with encouraging research on the role of the woodlot in the farm economy; research in forestry schools and universities; the reconstruction and management of abandoned farm lands; and the development of government tax policies which will put a premium on good forest practices.

Sustained interest, co-operation in second Anti-Polio clinic

The second series of free adult anti-polio clinics sponsored by Canadian Legion Branch 70 in the Lachute area, was declared a complete success by members of the Quebec Chapter of the Canadian Foundation for Poliomyelitis. A total of 1,645 residents of the area received Salk vaccinations, thanks to the March of Dimes and the many local citizens who donated their services free of charge.

Legion Memorial Hall — 630
Industrial Organizations — 1,015

The clinics operated very smoothly with a minimum of delay, during the afternoon and evening. Industrial clinics, starting on Thursday morning, were finished off the following day.

Chairman and organizer of this clinic was B. A. Jenkins. In thanking all of those who assisted on behalf of the March of Dimes and the local Branch 70 Mr. Jenkins pointed out that the voluntary services rendered by physicians and nurses in the two Lachute clinics have alone saved the March of Dimes fund approximately $250. Special cases included first and third shots for Lachute residents; also a number of persons unable to attend the Brownsburg clinics on the previous day, were vaccinated in Lachute.

Consideration will be given to the holding shortly of a special clinic for anyone who missed this second vaccination. The Provincial Health authorities considers it most desirable that the immunization program be completed by adults who have received first shots, and Dr. L. Turcotte, County Health Officer, indicated complete co-operation in this connection. Arrangements, when completed, will be announced shortly.

It is now expected that the final shots will be made available late in May, 1959.

Persons taking part in this clinic included the following:

Afternoon Clinic —

Physicians: Dr. Roger Lavigne.

Registered Nurses: Mrs. Gerald Walker, Mrs. Léopold Carrière, Mrs. John Thorpe.

Registration and Other Duties: R. A. Giles, C. E. Richardson, S. Jones, Mrs. N. Lavis, Mrs. E. Tabrett, Mrs. Doreen Holmes, Mrs. K. Kettyle, Mrs. H. Ward, Mrs. W. Bradshaw, Mrs. J. Skinner, Mrs. J. Bailey, Mrs. D. Ogilvie, Mrs. S. Stewart, Mrs. E. Ward.

Evening Clinic —

Physicans: Dr. L. Turcotte, Dr. J. C. MacKimmie, Dr. M. Papineau, Dr. J. Lafleur.

Registered Nurses: Miss L. Papineau, Miss L. Harrison, Miss Lemarre.

Registration and Other Duties: R. A. Giles, G. McNair, D. Ogilvie, J. Martel, T. Smith, S. Bradshaw, Mrs. C. Graham, Mrs. T. Smith, Mrs. N. Lavis, Mrs. S. Bradshaw, Mrs. J. Skinner, Mrs. H. Ward, Mrs. K. Pillage, Mrs. J. Duncan.

Registered nurses attached to the Canadian Foundation who were in attendance at both clinics, included — Miss Mercier, Miss Bernier, and Miss Ranger.

Depredations in St. Andrews and Hwksb'y district

Three St. Andrews youths and two from Hawkesbury have been released on bail following the laying of seven charges of various offences, including breaking and entering with theft, and the cashing of false cheques. The five accused are scheduled to appear for preliminary hearing in St. Jerome on Friday, December 5.

To date, seven charges have been laid and Sgt.-Det. Paul Prevost, working with Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen, has several other cases under investigation. It is believed that all stolen merchandise has been recovered.

Large audience at Community Concert Nieuw Amsterdam Trio performance

A fine attendance greeted the Nieuw Amsterdam Trio for the first of this season's Community Concerts, last Wednesday evening in the High School auditorium.

If there was a flaw in the entire program by these three musicians, it was beyond the detection of their lay audience. As one critic has aptly stated, they played "as if they had been born to play together" — piano, violin and cello each an entity essential to the ensemble, yet all three co-ordinating as one to produce the trio arrangements of great masters, past and present.

In the star role were Edith Mocsanyi, pianist, a graduate of the Viennese Academy of Music; Joseph Rabushka, violinist, and Daniel Vandersall, cellist — both tutored, initiated and now widely experienced, in the American sphere of music. Mr. Vandersall was spokesman for the group, informally commenting on the repertoire, also valiantly essaying a French translation of his remarks.

The program opened with a Beethoven trio from Opus 1 in E-flat major, which was well received.

This was followed by selections from trio literature, including movements from trios by Schubert, Shostakovich (a Russian contemporary composer), Haydn (Gypsy Rondo), a Bloch nocturne (German contemporary), and Mendelssohn.

The final offering was from Dvorak's Dumky Trio, Opus 90 — a Slavic theme in four movements depicting all the moods of human emotion. This was perhaps the most popular of the classic numbers by the Nieuw Amsterdam Trio.

In response to warm applause, they played Fritz Kreisler's arrangement of Londonderry Air, and Dance of the Cats, a novelty number, lively and dextrous; this was by the American composer, Robert Russell Bennett, a friend of Ravel, one of the most renowned French composers.

Brownsburg Home and School in activity for new season

Brownsburg — The 1958-1959 Home and School year got away to a flying start as 80 parents and teachers gathered recently in the school's new cafeteria. In a school of 364 students, representing 200 families, attendance such as this at the opening meeting is most encouraging.

The guest speaker of the evening was Mr. Arne Petersen, P.T. instructor at Lachute High School. Mr. Petersen's thought-provoking address was based on "Advantages of Physical Education in Schools". It was made clear to the parents that the presence of a P.T. instructor does not guarantee champion athletes. However, an instructor who has a well planned program of physical training will turn out a group of children who are better able to cope with the demands made on the body by tomorrow's activities. Mr. Petersen surprised the audience by stating that he had found that a large percentage of school children were unable to perform the most basic physical task of touching their toes while standing upright. As pointed out by the speaker, this should not be too surprising actually when one considers the average day of a number of the students. "The child gets up out of bed, sits down to eat breakfast, walks to school (or rides), sits down to work, walks home and sits down for lunch. He then returns to school, sits down for classes, returns home and sits down for supper. He may then sit down to watch TV, and finally lies down in bed." Among other things, students are taught proper posture and methods of conducting themselves in front of an audience — both important aspects in the development of body and personality.

It is the intention of the Home and School executive to determine whether the parents desire physical training for their children in the school. If a sufficient number of affirmative indications are received, steps will be taken to ascertain whether such an innovation is possible in Brownsburg.

If you, as parents, are interested in this and other projects which will benefit your children, join your Home and School Association. For the benefit of parents who are not familiar with the operation of the organization, the following outline is quoted from Home and School information to the public:

What we are —

A voluntary organization of parents and teachers, with a unit attached to most Protestant schools in Quebec. Our organization welcomes into membership people of any race or creed.

What we try to do —

1. To promote the welfare of children and youth.
2. To raise the standards of home life.
3. To promote and secure adequate laws for the care and protection of children.
4. To foster co-operation between parents and teachers, in the training and guidance of children during and after the school period.
5. To help parents understand the school and how it operates.

How we work —

1. Each Association has monthly meetings (in Brownsburg, at 8 p.m. on third Wednesday of the month).
2. We set up working committees on such things as Traffic Safety, Children's Reading, Parent Education, Recreation, School Education, Citizenship.
3. We ask official bodies to consider our recommendations.
4. We run our own Association ourselves.

What you can do —

1. Become a member of the Association attached to your child's school.
2. Go to as many meetings as possible.
3. Ask questions and take part in discussions.
4. Visit your child's teacher.
5. Join a Parent Education study group.

The November meeting will take the form of an open house, where parents are invited to meet their children's teacher and examine the daily work carried out by the pupils.

LEGION NOTES

— by —

Branch 70 (Lachute) Correspondent

A mother from Coniston, Ont., who lost three of her five serving sons during the second world war, will represent Canadian Motherhood on November 11 at the National Remembrance Service to be held in Ottawa. She is Mrs. Helena Forrestell, a 63-year-old widow, whose five sons all served in the R.C.A.F.

Mrs. Forrestell will place one of the four official wreaths, along with the Governor-General, a government representative and a member of the Canadian Legion. She was recently selected by the Legion to attend the Ottawa ceremony and lay the wreath on behalf of the Motherhood of Canada.

Two of her sons were killed on operations with the R.C.A.F. Flight-Sergeant Daniel Forrestell, a wireless air-gunner, went missing in April, 1943, and has no known grave. Flying-Officer Robert Forrestell, a pilot, went down over France in August, 1944. In March of that year, Sergeant Pilot Thomas Forrestell was killed in a flying accident in Canada. Two other brothers, James and Francis, also served in the R.C.A.F.

Mr. Forrestell died in 1954. The Forrestells had nine boys and two girls. One of the girls is serving as a missionary in Africa; another, Mrs. Bert Hewittson, resides in Brockville. Three sons live in Coniston, near Sudbury. A fourth son, Michael, is in Lethbridge, and Patrick lives in Tottenham, Ont. A sixth son, Ambrose, died when he was 12.

Mrs. Forrestell is the fourth Silver Cross mother from outside the Ottawa area to attend the National Remembrance ceremony. Last year a Truro mother, Mrs. Z. MacFarlane, made the trip to Ottawa. Prior to that Mrs. A. J. Reynolds, of Chatham, Ont., was the Silver Cross representative. In 1955, Mrs. John Leboldus, of Vibank, Sask., was the first mother to be selected as a result of the Legion's new policy of getting truly representative mothers to lay the wreath. All of the above women lost three sons.

Remember, Veterans of the Lachute area, T. Smith will require assistance with the sale of poppies. Call him and volunteer! It is sincerely hoped that all Legion members, veterans, citizens and children will make an effort to attend memorial services advertised throughout this district.

See you next week!

Outdoor philosopher Bob Atchison writes from storm-swept Duck Island

Main Duck Island,
South Bay, Picton, Ont.
October 20, 1958

Dear Editor:

Returning here recently from my visit to Lachute, I was held up a day on account of the storms and wind. The winds have been steady, as a matter of fact very steady and heavy. Yesterday was beautiful, though — being Sunday, it had to be good — and believe it or not, I had a visitor. A fellow and his wife were taking the last cruise of the summer, as he put it. Came out this way and developed a little trouble with his motor. However after a cup of coffee and a shin heat, everything was soon in order again. But he sure was taking a chance; the weather can change so fast around this time of the year. Anyway, he had a lot more nerve than I did. I wouldn't go on that lake this time of the year in anything less than a fishing tug; that's small enough for me.

Oh, here's something you might like to try for a supper. I shot a couple of Plover yesterday, nice fat ones. I boiled them twice, the last time with a slice of onion and some mushroom sauce. Man, were they good! The onion was not our domesticated type; really they are wild chives, but they do make very good seasoning.

We have had some frosty mornings, and the trees are starting to lose their leaves. Not the colors that we see up in "our" mountains, but still very pretty. It's too bad that winter has to come, but then, we are never satisfied with the weather. Just the same, I could try and take a little of that 90-degree temperature for a couple more months.

What's new on this place? From what I have been told, there are about 20 Deer to be killed — the meat to be given to institutions in Canada. There is also supposed to be an Ontario Department of Fish and Game helicopter out, to try and get a more accurate count of the Deer herd. I think that is going to be nearly impossible without having a drive.

The geese are starting to thin out a lot, just the odd flock coming in now. But the Ducks are still using the place as a stop-off. Also the crows; there sure are a lot of these things. If it wasn't for the fact that I can't get to the store more easily to buy shells, I sure would be giving them the business. The darned things must know I can't spare my ammunition; even when carrying my shotgun, they just sit there and squawk at me. One of these days I'm going to surprise them. Another thing I forgot, the crows are worth 50 cents apiece dead. Yep that's what is paid for all that are killed on the Island — by Mr. Dulles, of course, not anyone else. . . If I only had some shells, I could retire in very short time. (Not quite that many, actually, but still a lot.)

I was watching some Deer a while ago. There are salt-licks set out for them, and they sure go for this in a big way. Boy when they stick out their tongues, which look to be about a yard long, you can hear the tongues going over the salt, just like coarse sandpaper. The things are real funny to watch. I'm going to have a tough time shooting any of them; maybe I can get out of it — I don't feel like killing anything as playful as these.

Sometimes I think they must be playing hide and seek, just like kids. First, one beats it, then another one comes after the lick, then the others would do the same thing.

Just a word in passing: Remember, you hunters, A gun is only as good as its owner. You can't blame the gun for shooting someone!

October 22 — I know when I finish telling you about this, you are going to say "He's NUTS." I won't blame you one bit, either. This all happened about 1.30 a.m. this morning. I was awakened by a noise. I lay there for awhile trying to place it, then finally got up to see what was doing. There was a beautiful moon out, and it was very calm, not much wind. I couldn't see anything for sure, but I did think the noise was Geese. Going outside (in my skivvies) I saw a sight that would take a lot of beating. There must have been about 100 Geese, landed in the fields right near my cottage. I didn't want to scare them up, so I did not try to get too close. Honestly, this was a magnificent thing to see. I haven't any idea when they left, but I could hear them for quite awhile. I could say something very stupid right now, such as "Ain't Nature grand." The only thing is, we haven't got the brains to see just HOW grand. Let's resolve to take a better look at things, instead of just walking by them.

Talking about skivvies — and tattle-tale grey. You would be too, if you had to wash in the Lake. Man, is it cold! I've been in swimming twice up to now, and I think that's it for the swimming. The first time I went in I dived. Wow! The second time I was smarter; I soaped all over in the house then ran into the lake. But it made no difference, I'll be a sad sack before I do that again. Oh for the comforts of home!

Later —

Have just done my washing. I guess any of the Weaker Sex who read this will be saying, "I'll bet it's nice and clean." It is. Except for a few black streaks in my long Johns (I can pass off as a Zebra). At least, some of the rocks on the shore took a beating. You know, the old beat and pound method. I've often wondered how some of these native tribes washed their clothes, and how clean they were. Now I know. You see, Don, they get pounded so much the dirt either comes out or no clothes. It's fun anyway — and c-o-l-d!

Here's a big secret to pass on to anyone who might be interested. Winter is now on its way. Yep, for me it is. I saw four Snow Geese this afternoon. It won't be long now when you see them flying. I think they are about the last to leave the Arctic. It was very nice this morning, foggy but warm. But the wind started in early this evening, and is now hollerin' and shoutin' — a northeaster, so it has got very chilly. Not a fit night for man or beast to be out. There is thunder, too, as cold as it is. (Maybe I've blown the coop; could be all this solitude.) I guess I've got a lot to learn in the way of weather. I always understood that thunder was a sign of heat.

October 25 —

That storm is still with us; lightning and rain — this morning it's just as bad. Now all I have to do to wash my dishes is put them outside. The rain will do the rest. Everything looks desolate. One thing, no one is going to knock at my door to visit me. About the only thing that will be around is the Gulls when they get hungry. I cannot really say if I'm feeding the same bunch all the time, or different ones.

• • •

The storm continues. But I'm glad it's not snow, else I wouldn't be getting off this Island for months. I mentioned, there's a government helicopter due some day to get an accurate count of the Deer. But unless this weather breaks very soon, I don't suppose they will send it. (Wouldn't it be wonderful to be able to scrounge a ride back to Lachute!) It's very bleak on the Island now, with the trees almost bare of foliage. And very few birds; even my pals the crows are deserting me. I was watching a Laker heading towards Kingston this morning, making very slow headway against the wind and waves. I imagine that they are trying to get as many cargoes in as possible, before the season ends. Of course, the official date is December 15, but I guess every extra trip helps. It sure must be a rugged life when the weather is kicking up like this.

Please pass this along in conclusion, Mr. Editor: Make sure of what you are aiming at; then look again.

L.H.S. Juniors win Valley Schools' soccer title

By Ian Duncan

On Saturday, October 25, the Junior boys from Lachute High School played their first soccer game, against Macdonald High School. Although Macdonald had played more games than Lachute during the season, the local boys came through with a 3-2 victory. It was a thrilling game, with Lachute's 3 points all scored in the last half by Roland Gow.

Last Saturday the Lachute Junior boys' soccer team went to Hudson to play for the O.V.S.A.A. soccer championship. Robert Morrin, for Lachute, was the lone scorer in this exciting game. Del MacTavish and John Hay were outstanding players. The Lachute boys came home with another victory and the O.V.S.A.A. soccer championship.

Volleyball

On Thursday of last week, the Junior and Senior boys from Lachute played exhibition volleyball against the Brownsburg High School. Both local teams were victorious in these encounters.

Shortcomings on the scene of fire

COMMENT HAS BEEN highly favorable towards the manner in which last week's conflagration was handled by the local fire department, but the fire brought out the need that more organization is needed along many lines.

We, in Lachute, have many active organizations including the Red Cross, who have done wonderful work in the past and are continuing to do so at the present. BUT one local citizen had to buy $7.40 worth of coffee for tired, thirsty firemen and this was not done until cries for hot coffee were heard from many sources. Is there any reason why some committee could not be organized to look after such an occurrence.

The Lachute Volunteer Fire Department is comprised of only 14 firemen in addition to the present undermanned police department, who in this case, had numerous duties to perform other than fighting the actual flames. Of these, only eight men heard the fire alarm and despite orders on the part of Chief Trépanier, someone failed to summon the remaining men by telephone. One of the men was called by a nearby resident and two others were summoned by another firemen several hours following the outbreak.

The local fire alarm system should have gone out about the same time as the local Lions Club donated modern radio equipment to the Police and Fire Departments, but as old and useless as it is and has proved to be, it is still in use.

In the Canadian Underwriters' Report which was received and published recently, many parts of the equipment were condemned and for those persons who refused to believe the report, the proof was in evidence at this fire. One person commented that he had better ladders at home for his own personal use than the local department was equipped with. There were not sufficient uniforms on the scene and several of the nozzles were useless.

Despite these items which did little else but make the situation more uncomfortable for the volunteer firemen, the local insurance firm of Gall & Jones, who carried the majority of insurance on the fire loss, were high in their praise of the manner in which the fire was fought and eventually brought under control. Also voicing comments along these lines were many other bystanders and persons in the immediate vicinity whose property was in danger throughout the fire.

We feel that all in all, it was a job well done, and the complaints that individual members of the brigade may have will be ironed out to make the local organization more efficient. This cannot be done alone, and the assistance of those who can help in these, and other ways, is necessary. It has been years since Lachute has had a fire of this severity and it may be years before we have another one, but then again, we may have another one tonight and that is the one we have to be prepared for. Waiting until the next one is over may be too late as that may be the one where lives may be lost.

Lessons from history

GAPS IN THE records of Canada's early history are gradually being filled. This past summer the National Archives, the repository of public records, was richly supplemented by papers and journals of individuals directly concerned with the colonial and early federation years of the nation.

Some may ask of what use is history, and why should anyone be concerned in a quest for dusty journals penned years ago?

Dr. W. Kaye Lamb, Dominion archivist and national librarian whose personal efforts overseas this summer gained valuable material for Canada, has this answer:

"Memos or minutes on correspondence of Canadian governors and governors-general . . show how policy decisions were made; how and why things were done or not done. After all, that is what history really is."

Canada still is in the process of collecting the fragments of her history scattered outside as well as inside the continent, in an effort to weave the story of our past.

In the meantime, and on the basis of already-established facts, there is a good case for presenting the same basic factual content in Canadian history textbooks to students in all provinces, without the bias of provincialism. After all, General Wolfe, Captain Cook and Louis Riel surely belong to all of us.

History textbooks, for use in Canada or the United States, might also be used to present a clearer picture of the interrelationships between these two closely-connected countries.

While history can be a source of national identity, its presentation within the framework of a world stage also can contribute to international understanding, a fact often emphasized by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Analyst of the changing times

THE TEMPO of change has increased so rapidly during the past 20 years that there is no comparable period in the history of mankind, Dr. Albert Rose, Professor of Social Work at the University of Toronto, told a conference held recently in Toronto.

"Whereas change used to be measured in centuries or decades, we have become so conditioned to innovation that we now contemplate, and even demand, the fulfillment of fantastic achievements within months or a year or two — said Dr. Rose, who was principal speaker at a conclave of editors, writers, radio and TV commentators. (The conference, sponsored by Standard Brands Limited, was designed to study trends in food communications.)

On this continent where social mobility is evident, there is tremendous emphasis upon physical or tangible aspects of the standard of living. Each year in Canada for nearly 20 years, new records have been set in most of the indicators of well-being, such as national income and retail sales. "It is sometimes forgotten, however", the speaker continued, "that we are setting a great many records of a different kind." Among those mentioned were the incidence of mental illness and prices and the cost of living.

There is a tendency to lose sight of the individuals and families who comprise the nation. Dr. Rose urged that increasing attention be given to the "intangibles" in the standard of living as they affect family life, and less attention to the tangible, physical essentials of living standards.

Viewpoints and perspectives

WHERE MEAT DOLLAR GOES. — Only half of the dollar a consumer spends on meat goes to the farmer who produced it, says A. W. Wood of the agricultural economics department of the University of Manitoba.

Writing in the college publication, "Farm Facts", he says the breakdown is this: farmer 51.7 cents; transportation and selling 3.3 cents; packer 7.3 cents; retailer 37.3 cents.

Mr. Wood said this is not a constant ratio. In 1951 the farmer received about 66 cents; in the more stable period 1935-41, he got 54.4 cents.

Mayor proclaims November 7 and 8 as Poppy Days in Town of Lachute

Mayor Léopold Carrière has issued a proclamation declaring November 7 and 8 as Poppy Days in Lachute. The announcement coincided with a statement by T. Smith, chairman of the Lachute Legion's poppy committee, that November 7-8 will be the general Poppy Tag Days.

The mayor's proclamation urged all citizens to observe these days by wearing memorial poppies in honor of those who gave their lives in Canada's wars. It read:

WHEREAS men of this town gave their lives in defence of Canada and the democratic world;

AND WHEREAS the memory of their service and sacrifice is a source of inspiration to all citizens as our nation faces new difficulties and dangers;

AND WHEREAS their memory is kept ever bright by the annual wearing of memorial poppies in their honor and the honor of all other Canadians who died in war service;

NOW THEREFORE I, Léopold Carrière, Mayor of the Town of Lachute, do hereby proclaim Friday and Saturday, November 7 and 8 to be Poppy Days in the Town of Lachute, and do urge that all citizens observe these days by wearing the memorial poppy of the Canadian Legion.

KNOW YOUR Canada

Prepared by the Research Staff of Encyclopedia Canadiana

What is the average number of forest fires occurring each year in Canada?

In most of the provinces of Canada the greater part of the land area is forested, and forest fires constitute a widespread hazard. Since the Second World War, the average number of fires per year has exceeded 5,000 and the average fire has burned nearly 300 acres, making an annual total of more than 1,500,000 acres destroyed. This substantial figure of area loss is estimated to be over $4,000,000 in value, yearly, and the annual cost of fighting the fires has been over the $2,000,000 mark.

Because of protective services, there are no records of fires as large or as destructive as some of those occurring in the 19th century. The worst fire on record was one that occurred in the Miramichi area of New Brunswick in 1825, and which devastated 5,500 square miles of forest lands, damaged a large part of Fredericton and took a toll of 500 lives. In 1853, in Pontiac County, Quebec, 2,500 square miles were destroyed.

The present century has seen the largest fires in B.C. and Ontario. In 1908 the town of Fernie, B.C. was destroyed, with the loss of 25 lives, and three years later a fire, which took 100 lives, destroyed Cochrane, South Porcupine and Pottsville in northern Ontario. Five years later, Cochrane was again destroyed in a fire that consumed 1,200 square miles, and caused some 240 deaths. In 1922 an even larger fire (2,000 square miles) destroyed the town of Haileybury and valuable timberland, at a cost of 44 lives. Each year gigantic forest fires take their toll.

About 18 percent of forest fires are caused by lightning, 11 percent is attributed to railways, 11 percent to settlers, and 5 percent to industrial operations, but the fact remains that 40 percent of all forest fires are caused by campers or careless smokers. Distinct from the $2,000,000 spent each year on fire-fighting, the country spends more than $15,000,000 preventing fires and maintaining fire-fighting equipment.

It is little wonder that government and private industry combine in the campaign to "Prevent Forest Fires".

Supermarkets in whirl of 'planned obsolescence'

Montreal — "Today's modern supermarket is outmoded the morning it opens its doors for business," Thomas G. McCormack, president of Dominion Stores Limited, told the Montreal Institute of Investment Analysts here.

Replying to the query, "Is there a threat of over-capacity in the supermarket industry?" Mr. McCormack claimed that the large number of supermarkets being built across Canada did not constitute added food distribution facilities so much as they represented an evolutionary change in distribution methods, aimed at increased efficiency, and necessitated by intense competition for the consumer's food dollar.

"The supermarket industry does not have to create planned obsolescence," Mr. McCormack said. It is on the treadmill of "competitive planned obsolescence" and there is no end in sight, he declared.

Mr. McCormack termed the Canadian supermarket industry's traditional high-volume, low-profit pattern of operation "a twilight existence." He said that keen competition made it impossible for any food retailer to make more than two cents of profit per dollar of sales. Chains have been able to maintain two percent profit over the past decade despite rising costs, through constant advancements in efficiency, he stated. The food industry must attract the best brains of the younger generation . . . to keep pace with Canada's steadily increasing productivity, Mr. McCormack said.

Fact

The first flag flown in Canada was early England's flag, the red cross of St. George on a white background, later incorporated in the Union Jack.

The baby feels secure . . . but is he?

Family safety involves more than physical protection. There should be guaranteed financial security. Millions of Canadians get this through Life Insurance. They own more of this valuable property, in relation to national income, than any other people in the world.

Waste no time worrying about that small boy. He has a two-fisted grip on security. He belongs to a family which considers Life Insurance an essential part of its progress towards financial security.

Canada is rich in families that treasure life insurance as a present pledge and future promise of security obtained by their own initiative.

Friendly, helpful agents have shown 7½ million Canadians what a valuable property life insurance is. Every year an increasing number of families buy life insurance as their major source of family and personal security.

Nowadays, living policyholders receive 5½ million dollars, every week, from the Life Insurance Companies in Canada.

Broadcasting Act

Once in the dear days beyond recall I was a radio announcer, and gained some measure of fame for the number and variety of my boners. I shudder even today when I recall that in time paid for by the tea manufacturers, where I was supposed to say, "It's four o'clock — now's the time for a good cup of tea", I got my wires crossed and announced, "It's four o'clock — now's the time for a good cup of coffee."

Fortunately, my boss and the tea people were mighty good sports, and I didn't get fired. Perhaps that willingness to put up with my bungling, left me with a soft spot in my heart for the industry, although I know its weaknesses better than most folk do.

One of those weaknesses ought to be corrected, to some extent, by the new broadcasting legislation. That is the pervasive fear of CBC which hangs like a shroud over private broadcasters. CBC officials did have tremendous power over their private competitors. They rarely abused the power; but it was there, and though seldom used it was constantly active. Some very poor broadcasting resulted.

The fact became obvious that the broadcaster who settled back and simply played gramophone recordings was safe, could make good money, and did not run into difficulties with CBC. However, the station with opinions, eager to do things, seemed to rub CBC the wrong way. Rubbing CBC the wrong way proved very costly to stations like CFRB, Toronto, and CFCN, Calgary.

The new separate board will govern both CBC and private broadcasting impartially. While not a perfect set-up, it is an improvement which should mean more encouragement for the good things private broadcasters claim they wish to do and stern rebukes for abuses.

It could lead eventually to less government coddling of the broadcast industry. A subsidized broadcasting system simply cannot be forthright or independent — and the system is now subsidized to the tune of millions of dollars annually in taxes, even though it also gets millions in advertising revenue. How can listeners or viewers trust opinions or news from an industry so deeply involved in government handouts?

Private broadcasters should now operate with less fear. They should be able to build a tradition which could win them still more freedom. They should willingly take on more of the load — and the cost — of providing education and entertainment, making it necessary for the government to pour so much money into broadcasting each year. If they do these things — and they are foolish if they fail to do them — the new legislation will prove its worth.

Old resident reads the news

Ferris, Ont. (Oct. 17, 1958)

We notice many strange residents mentioned in your local news, and there are many who have passed away since we left 12 years ago.

It is most interesting to read in your columns the history of the early days. I can well remember when Bannerman's old rope factory was running.

Your paper a short time ago showed the collapse of the old school, at which I started at the age of six. The new academy was opened in 1892, and I left school in 1898.

I am still working and feel quite young; will soon be 73.

Old Duncan McPhail used to say The Watchman was a great paper to read while waiting for his porridge to cool. But now, from the time we get our mail at 9 a.m., I just get so interested that I am lucky to get through before I am called for dinner. . . Good luck to you and your staff.

All Aboard

with G. E. MORTIMORE

Houses arise where the trees and fields used to be. In place of cows there are housewives trading gossip and evaluating one another's washing.

Where farmers used to cut the hay, anxious-looking suburban husbands pilot their power mowers over lawns, pausing at intervals to compare their own yards with the ones next door for neatness.

And so the city grows and the countryside is swallowed up. Some people call it progress. I call it corruption. But I happen to be one of the small-c conservatives, the illogical people who prefer things to be left as they are.

In this world nothing ever remains the same. "The only thing constant is change," so we small-c conservatives are beaten before we start. At the back of our minds we know that we belong to a lost cause.

However, we know that the old things were not destined to live beyond a certain time. The destiny of this section of real estate was to become what it is now, part of a city, the home of live-wire hustling organization men and organization women who do not waste time on regrets, but get in there and sell.

The "old things" themselves had replaced the primeval bush or prairie, and the new suburbs will eventually be slums.

But it hurts the vision, to focus upon such a long view. Some of us like to delude ourselves with the comfortable fancy that there are permanent things in the world.

Of course there are some places where buildings outlive human beings, but not in this dynamic frontier environment. The people who truly enjoy the ever-changing face of the country and the city are those who have a radical temperament, exactly the opposite neurosis to the one that afflicts small-c conservatives.

The radicals actually draw pleasure from seeing things torn down and changed. There is a restive, sadistic hunger in them that feeds on destruction.

Another thing that makes a difference is whether you own some of the landscape or not. No doubt it eases the blow of seeing an orchard chopped down and a dismal housing estate built in its place, if you have a few thousands of dollars of heart balm put away in the bank.

Goderich, Ont., Oct. 25, 1958.

Editor, Lachute Watchman.

Dear Sir:

It is regrettable that a tragic mishap such as the one reported in your paper of October 22 should occur and blot out a life so young.

We trust that the school buses are clearly marked, "School Bus" and that they have clearly and legibly marked across the rear of the bus. "Do not pass when bus is stopped". All motorists approaching from the rear are required to stop when the bus stops to permit children to mount or dismount. Then, if the approaching motorist wishes to pass the school bus, he may do so when both motor vehicles are in motion. The chance that an innocent child may unwittingly run out into the path of a passing motor vehicle would then be greatly reduced. Of course, such identification would require the law-enforcing support of the Provincial Highway Traffic Act, to be effective.

We seem to recall a similar traffic occurrence in the not-too-distant past being reported in your paper. If school buses are marked somewhat as above-mentioned, then it is incomprehensible that such mishaps occur, but if they are not so marked then action should be taken today by parents and school boards to bring this about, or this tragedy will most certainly be far from the last one that your newspaper will be reporting. This is especially so with the mounting traffic on today's highways.

While we enjoy reading your fine weekly paper, we do not have any desire to read of recurrences of this type when they can be so easily prevented.

Yours sincerely,

— Russell C. Bradford

Editor's Note: It is required by regulations of the Protestant Committee of Education, that school vehicles in Quebec be plainly marked "School Bus". The bus in this instance has two 6" - 7" red reflectors at rear which light up with the word "Stop" when brake is applied, also several other red reflectors.

DISTRICT NEWS FROM OUR COUNTY CORRESPONDENTS

Progress report from three areas in CNIB canvass

St. Andrews East — The CNIB campaign chairman for St. Andrews East, Mr. Antoine Paré, reports that up to date $120 has been collected in the St. Andrews and Carillon district. Objective for the area is $500.

The CNIB has spent a considerable amount in the district on sightless people, and it is hoped that the citizens will support the Institute in its humane work by remembering that this organization is at the beck and call both of the sightless and the sighted. In the field of blindness prevention the Institute has arranged for proper medical eye care to all those requiring it. Your canvasser is strictly a volunteer worker. In addition, the canvassers are your neighbors and are well known to you. It is recommended that you give to them, and not to a stranger. If a canvasser has not called upon you, please telephone Mrs. Paré (145) or you may leave your contribution at the Bank of Nova Scotia with Mr. M. Jutras.

Brownsburg — The financial campaign here is near its completion. The amount raised to date this year is $781 — $19 short of the objective, $800. Mrs. L. C. Stephens, chairman, is confident that when all the reports are in the collection will reach its goal. Anyone who has not been contacted and who wishes to contribute may either telephone Mrs. Stephens (LE 3-6663) or leave their donation at the Bank of Nova Scotia, with Mr. F. Gervais. All workers are to be highly commended for their efforts on behalf of the CNIB. A complete report will be given on a later date.

Grenville — The chairman for the Grenville area, Mr. Frank Knights, reports that certain areas have doubled their subscriptions over last year. Anyone who has been missed during this campaign may either call Mr. Knights (ME 2-2543) or hand their subscription to Mr. L. C. Neville at the Bank of Nova Scotia.

The Institute is in dire need of financial help, as a total objective for the entire County has been set at $5,100. You are appealed to by your volunteer workers to be as generous as you possibly can.

Is the one who loved her best —
And while she lies in peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep."

(From Brownsburg Legion representative)

The Brownsburg Branch of the Canadian Legion will be noting the passage of another year of forgetfulness on Tuesday, November 11. This day, of course, is usually called Armistice or Remembrance day, but being human, we tend and even try to forget. Most members of the Canadian Legion would also like to forget, but they cannot afford this luxury, and it is impossible for a disabled veteran and his dependents to forget.

Through the Poppy Fund Campaign we of the Canadian Legion attempt to gather funds to help these veterans — our comrades — but because of forgetfulness, our task becomes harder each succeeding year. We therefore ask that you remember Armistice Day and buy a poppy this week-end.

One of the largest apple crops in Ontario's history is being rushed to markets and cold storage. Over 5,000,000 bushels will be picked in Ontario this year and Canada's total crop should be about 15 million. Due to their abundance, apples will be sold as low as 75 cents a bushel. These three pretty misses will have lots of opportunity to show their skill in making apple pies for their male admirers.

To wed this month

Miss Nancy Muir and Mr. Garth Boyd, whose marriage will take place November 22, at six o'clock, in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, Lachute. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Muir, Lachute; her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Boyd, also of Lachute.

Missionary topic describes work among Indians

The Women's Missionary Society of the Lachute United Church held their thank-offering meeting last Thursday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. Geo. Y. Deacon, opened the meeting with prayer, then extended a welcome to Mrs. Van Duver and Mrs. G. E. Cross, members of the Presbyterial executive, and to members of the neighboring auxiliaries.

The devotional exercises were taken by Mrs. Van Duver. The theme of her talk was that a thankful heart is one of the great possessions, and true gratitude is followed by "doing". To illustrate this she told the story of the American farmer, Harry Holt, who saw a film about Korea and the needs of the mixed-blood babies whom nobody wanted — children of Korean mothers and G.I. fathers.

Out of thankfulness for all he had received in life, and out of pity for humanity, he went to Korea and brought back eight of these children, which he had adopted. Through the effort of Mr. Holt, his wife and his daughters, and with faith in God, several hundred babies have since been adopted.

Mrs. G. E. Cross brought greetings from the Montreal Presbyterial. As guest speaker, she took as her subject, "Old and New Canadians," speaking of the Indian work in Canada. She quoted from the New Testament: "Then Peter opened his mouth and said, 'Of a truth I perceive that God is no respector of persons. But in every nation he that feareth him and worketh righteousness is accepted with him'."

Many of the present-day Indians live in reserves across Canada. In our own province the Mohawk Indians live on two reserves, at Caughnawaga and Oka. The men of Caughnawaga have a high sense of physical balance and nowadays are in great demand for construction work, on bridges, etc. The men at Oka are mainly farmers. Indians are increasing in numbers and property, but missionaries are hampered in helping them by the Liquor Commission.

A new Indian Act was passed in 1951. Franchisement is the most significant Act. The aim is to prepare the Indian to become a full citizen with the same rights as any other Canadian. An Indian may apply for franchisement if he is 21 years of age, capable of the duties of a citizen, capable of supporting himself and his dependents; but he has to give up his Indian status and rights. Any reserve property must be disposed of.

The Indians are provided with day schools and residential schools. Six residential schools are under the W.M.S. . . . more workers for these are needed. Seasonal schools are provided where families are on the move. Instruction is provided for children in hospitals, seventeen percent attend regular schools.

They have Family Allowance and Old Age Pension benefits.

Young people have been picked out from the reserves for training. During training they receive help. When they finish and have jobs, they are still cared for, until they are adjusted.

What the United Church and W.M.S. have done for Indians:

12 Young ordained ministers have volunteered for Indian work. Churches, schools, hospitals, marine missions and service centres are provided by the United Church and the W.M.S.

All Indian churches in Norway Bay Presbyterial, an area of 100,000 square miles, with 15 centres scattered from Le Pas to Churchill on Hudson Bay. Two Indian ministers are in charge. Once a month each mission is visited. Service is held, also baptism and communion service.

Mrs. C. L. Duncan thanked the speaker for her interesting discourse.

Mrs. Wilson Bridge pronounced the benediction, which brought the meeting to a close.

Bell Telephone historian addresses Engineering Inst.

A glimpse into the future of telephony was given to members of the Lower Ottawa Valley Section of the Engineering Institute of Canada last week.

R. H. Hall, of Montreal, assistant historian of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, told the gathering, at the King Edward Hotel in Hawkesbury, about several experimental devices that will probably become part of everyday life in the not-too-distant future.

One such device is an experimental repertory dialing set — a telephone which retains details in its "memory" of up to 50 telephone numbers. The user merely lifts the handset, turns a dial to the number desired, and pushes a button — the repertory device automatically dials the right telephone number.

Another development that may come into general use in the foreseeable future is the push-button telephone — where rows of push-buttons replace the present dial.

Electronic switching equipment is now being developed that will incorporate circuitry similar to that used in electronic computors. It will be housed in a building 12 by 12 feet, as compared with the present two or three-storey buildings. And these switches of the future will have no moving parts.

Reviewing the history of the telephone, Mr. Hall pointed out that the first telephones in the Ottawa Valley were installed in 1877, connecting with Montreal via Lachute. In the early 1900's Lachute switched from "crank" telephones to common battery sets, utilizing operators and a switchboard. Hawkesbury soon followed suit. Today, of course, both have modern dial systems.

"Actually, more than 80 percent of the telephones in our company's Ontario and Quebec territory are dial-operated," Mr. Hall stated. "And more centres are being changed over to dial all the time."

Indicating the importance of technical advances, Mr. Hall described the multi-frequency signalling system now being used for long distance calls, in more and more centres. Lacking this system, the operator must dial the distant telephone number, and it takes a significantly longer time to dial such figures as "8", "9", or "0" than the lower figures.

Under the new system, instead of each digit being represented by an equivalent number of electrical impulses, each digit is given instantaneously as a combination of two musical tones. There are five different notes and 10 combinations.

To show the importance of this change Mr. Hall cited the case of Montreal where 60,000 long distance calls are placed each business day. With an average saving of eight seconds on each call, there would be a resultant saving of 133 hours in operators' working time in circuit use.

Pentecostal pastor was formerly in pro hockey

The Rev. John C. Shrier, who came recently to assume the pastorate of the Brownsburg Pentecostal Assembly, is a young man who gave up a promising professional career as a hockey player. He was a former goalkeeper with the Boston Bruins' training camp at Oshawa, but gave up his future in hockey for "a greater calling" and (as he puts it) "a chance to bring others closer to the God he loves".

A native of Galt, Ont., "Jack" Shrier is the son of Clarence and Mrs. Shrier, who travel as a full-time interdenominational evangelist team. Other members of his family are also active in evangelist work. He graduated from the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College at Peterborough, which he entered in 1953. Ordained last April in Evangel Temple, Toronto, he has spent two and a half years in field ministry in Canada and the United States, and served three months as supply minister in Pembroke during the illness of the resident pastor. His wife, an Ottawa girl, is an ardent helper in his ministry.

The monthly meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held on Monday evening with the president, Mrs. C. Robinson, in the chair.

The members voted to give a Christmas party for the English-speaking Catholic children. A motion was made to send a donation of $25 to the Springhill Relief Fund.

The president urged the members to circulate their raffle tickets on the fruit cake, proceeds of which are to be divided between the C.N.I.B. building fund and the cost of Christmas baskets for the poor.

Mrs. L. Bedard introduced the guest speaker, Mgr. H. D. G. Brosseau, who gave a most interesting and informative talk on "The Efficiency of A Woman". Mrs. McGill thanked the guest speaker.

Increase in number of registered unemployed

End-of-the-month statistics show there is an increase of 10% in the number of persons seeking employment as compared to the end of October one year ago.

According to G. A. Downing, manager of the Lachute office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, this increase has been prevalent during the whole of the past few months and does not prove any trend. The weakening in the employment market is due in some part to the general slackening which has been commonly referred to as a "recession" but which has more appropriately been described as an "economic breathing spell." Some children born in the earlier war years are now appearing on the labor market and will continue to take their place in even greater numbers in the next five to seven years, alongside their fathers in business life.

Figures released by Mr. Downing show that there were, at the end of October, 241 men and 199 women seeking positions. Of this number, a total of 46 were not receiving Unemployment Insurance benefits. It is expected that the number of claimants will sharply increase towards the end of November when construction projects will nearly all be completed.

There has been a general campaign carried on throughout Canada for the past year on the role that the National Employment Service is playing in the economic health of this country. To further this work W. Thomson, Director of Employment Operations for the whole of Canada with the National Employment Service, will address the members of the Lions Club of Lachute at their next regular meeting. The local Lions Club is composed of some of the leading employers of the district, and the members are looking forward to hearing the experience and comments of this authoritative speaker.

"Your Will Be Done on Earth"
A gripping and revealing look at the current world situation, "YOUR WILL BE DONE ON EARTH" will hold your interest from the first of its 384 pages. It brings to life the world powers of past generations and clearly identifies their motivating force with that of our own day. It details the activity of the "king of the north" and the "king of the south" in the prophecy of Daniel (chapter 11) and points with unerring accuracy to their counterparts in today's struggle for world control. It outlines the prospects for the future and holds out to you the only real hope you can have for survival. If you value your life and that of your family you will obtain this striking and stimulating book and read it with your Bible. It contains absolute assurance that God's will will be done on earth in our generation. Send 50c today.

The ancient and modern in Middle East

In the Middle East the old and new contrast sharply. In existence alongside modern cities of western design, moves a way of life which has changed little since Biblical times.

Lebanon, half Christian, half Moslem, is the centre for Scripture publication, colportage training, and publishing centre for the Arabic edition of "The Bible in the World" magazine circulated by the British and Foreign Bible Society.

In Iraq scripture distribution has increased. Jordan is a fruitful field. Egypt's total circulation has increased. Thus the Book which tells of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, of the Great Prophets and of Jesus, supplies a need in this land of contrasts. The offering of the Bible, old yet ever new, evokes a response from followers of both the ancient and the modern way.

LOST TEETH

Hamp Pool, coach of Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four football league, figured he had heard of every type of casualty a team could run into. But he has recently received word of a new one.

While running down a list of injuries Argos suffered in one of their games, some person hollered to Pool that he had missed one. It seems that Argo office manager George Stockwell was yelling a message to the coach during the game when suddenly his bottom plate dropped out of his mouth, and a bystander stepped on it.

WHAT'S HAPPENING TO OUR FAMILY MEALS?

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Family life started to deteriorate when the old-fashioned dining room was banished and a breakfast nook replaced it!" was the conclusion of an able observer of our complex modern way of life.

Perhaps there is a good deal of truth in his observation. We live in a hurried age with everyone from Nursery School children to older folk with crowded schedules. Many mothers are employed outside the home.

Members of the family often leave for school or work at different times and snatch a scanty breakfast on their way out of the house. The whole family, during the week, are seldom home for the noon meal. The evening meal seems to be the only real family meal possible, for the modern family.

Even it has its difficulties if there are small children and father commutes long distances from his job in the heart of the city to a suburban home. Our fifteen metropolitan areas have increased in population during 1951-1956 by 19.3%. On June 1, 1956, more than a third of our population lived in these cities. The writer of Canada 1957 speaks of "the dramatic expansion of the suburban areas." By the time thousands of young fathers, during the work week, arrive at houses in outlying suburbs, the baby or the small son or daughter is in bed for the night.

If father sees little of his children at meals during the week, it is doubly important that father and mother plan together for their week-end leisure. Husbands and wives want to have some adult recreation but they realize the vital importance of children getting to know their father.

Many families plan for a special family good time on Saturday and Sundays. Sometimes they take the children out for a meal, along with a shopping trip or a movie treat on Saturdays. Other extras often cut into this time on Saturday.

Parents are wise to keep Sunday as a different and special day. The main Sunday meal is usually a festive one. In some homes, different members of the family have a turn in choosing their favorite main dish or dessert for this meal.

But no matter how good the food is, with everyone home, it can be quickly ruined by unpleasantness. Looking back on my childhood, I remember our meals were jolly times, but sometimes we children were annoyed with our parents' Rule for Family Peace. When an argument was deteriorating into a quarrel, mother would say, quietly, "Drop it!" Father insisted we do as we were told — and no one was allowed to say anything more on the contentious issue! Years later, my brother once said to me, "It was good discipline for us to learn, when eating, either to be pleasant or be quiet!"

Will your children remember meal time as a happy time? It is very easy for children to fall into bickering or telling tales on each other. Be strict about your veto of this! As children grow older, encourage each member of the family to have something pleasant or interesting to contribute to the family meal-time conversation.

This is no time for reproof or complaints or nagging. Unhappy emotions ruin easy digestion. In many families today, the eating period is the one time of "togetherness" for the family. Begin it by returning thanks, saying a simple grace. Guard it is a precious time. Insist, as far as possible, that each member of the family plan to be prompt at this meal. Make it a leisurely time, a time for enjoyment not only of food, but of each other's company. Then something will happen to your home spirit to deepen the loyalty and liking of each member of the family.

Seafoods — in quick stews and bisques without risk

Chill November days turn thoughts of food to the subject of soups . . . hearty, satisfying soups which warm a person down to the toes. In this class belong the wonderful seafood chowders, stews and bisques.

Chowder, you may be interested to know, was originally a fisherman's dish. The word chowder comes from the French word chaudière, meaning large soup kettle. Years ago, the shores of Brittany in France would frequently resound to the cries of "Faites la chaudière!" or "Make ready the soup kettle!" This cheery command would announce that the fishing fleet had been sighted.

Welcoming families would light bonfires along the shore, fill large copper cauldrons with water and set them to boil. Then, as each man stepped ashore, he would toss some cleaned fish from his catch into the pots. The women would add sliced potatoes, onions, and carrots, together with chunks of fat salt pork. When this savoury mixture had cooked, all would enjoy "la fête du potage".

During the days of the early explorers, seafaring Bretons came to this continent bringing their chaudières with them. In the New World the word, chaudière, became modified to chowder and eventually chowder came to mean not the cauldron in which the soup was cooked, but the soup itself — a special kind of soup, hearty enough to serve as the main course of luncheon or supper.

Pink Salmon Bisque is a cream soup which will win many friends. It's delicious and lovely to look at. Moreover, it's fuss-free, fast and relatively inexpensive. The home economists of Canada's Department of Fisheries suggest that it be made with the economical pink variety of canned salmon.

Pink Salmon Bisque

1-Pound can pink salmon, ¼ cup finely chopped onion, ¼ cup finely chopped celery, ¼ cup butter (melted), 3 tablespoons flour, 1½ teaspoons salt, 3 cups liquid (salmon liquid plus milk), 1 cup tomato juice, popcorn (optional).

Drain salmon, saving liquid. Break fish into bite-size chunks. Crush bone with a fork and add it to fish. Remove and discard skin. Cook onion and celery in melted butter until tender. Blend in flour and salt. Add combined salmon liquid and milk gradually. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Stir in tomato juice. Add salmon; heat but do not allow to boil. Serve with a little popcorn floating on top. Makes 6 servings.

Do you know that you can make a superb Oyster Stew in little more time than it takes to heat canned soup? Oyster Stew is a happy choice of supper dish on "party" nights. Accompany it with oyster crackers. For munching, have an assortment of raw relishes such as sticks of celery and carrot, radishes, and green onions. Follow with Apple Brown Betty.

Oyster Stew

1 Pint raw oysters with liquid, ¼ cup butter (melted), 1 quart rich milk (scalded), 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, few grains nutmeg (optional), paprika.

Add oysters and their liquid to melted butter. Heat to simmering temperature and simmer over low heat until the oysters plump up and their thin edges show signs of ruffling. This will take only about 3 minutes. Do not overcook, as overcooking toughens oysters. Combine oysters and hot milk; stir in seasonings. Serve immediately. Garnish each serving with a dash of paprika. Makes 6 servings.

Deserving more attention than it generally receives is Scallop Stew, a dish slightly sweeter and richer than Oyster Stew, and having a delicious, distinctive flavor of its own. This version is dressed with chopped red pimiento and bright green parsley.

Scallop Stew

1 Pound scallops, ¼ cup butter (melted), 4 cups milk, 1 cup light cream, ¼ cup chopped pimiento, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, finely snipped parsley.

Rinse scallops to remove any grit. Add scallop pieces to melted butter; bring to simmering temperature. Simmer for about 3 minutes or until the pieces have lost their watery look and are snow-white in color. Do not overcook, as overcooking toughens this shellfish. Combine milk, cream and pimiento. Heat to scalding temperature. Add scallops and seasonings. Serve piping hot. Sprinkle each serving with a little finely snipped parsley. Makes 6 servings.

Delicately flavored lobster meat may be a luxury when served in the shell. However, tucked into a creamy bisque, it can be stretched to company size, yet fit the family's budget. The following red and white, festive Lobster Bisque makes an elegant prelude to a special dinner.

Lobster Bisque

¾ Pound cooked lobster meat or 2 cans (5 ozs. each) lobster (drained), 2 cups milk, 2 cups table cream, 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, 1 teaspon salt, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon celery salt, ¼ cup butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons sherry.

¼ Cup whipping cream, 2 tablespoons minced pimiento, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Cut lobster into bite-size pieces. Combine milk, cream, onion and seasonings; heat to simmering temperature. Cream butter; blend in flour thoroughly. Add to hot milk mixture. Cook and stir over low heat for about 15 minutes or until mixture is well blended and slightly thickened. Add lobster and sherry. Whip the cream and add pimiento and salt. Garnish each servings with a generous dollop of whipped cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

International Look

Interested in the international scene are two Jewish women's organizations. Pioneer Women of Canada, and Mizrachi Women's Organization of Canada, asked the Canadian government to aid Israel.

The Pioneer Women want Canada to guarantee Israel's borders, and the Mizrachi suggest Canada supply arms to Israel.

Abroad, it was an historic occasion when the first women took their places in Britain's House of Lords.

The women life peeresses, on their first day in the hitherto all-male precincts, created a pair of precedents. They did not remove their hats, as entrants to the Lords always have done, and one of them affirmed, rather than swore, the oath of allegiance to the Queen.

Cauliflower Tips

Cooking a cauliflower has more to it than you would think, judging by hints from the consumer section of the Ontario agriculture department.

When buying cauliflower, these experts suggest, look for a head that has white or creamy flowerets with a fresh green jacket of outer leaves. Be sure the head is clean, heavy and compact with no yellow or brown spots.

In preparing cauliflower for cooking, remove leaves and leaf stalks and separate the cauliflower into even-sized flowerets. Wash thoroughly and soak in cold water for 30 minutes. If you want a whole cauliflower, remove leaves and leaf stalks, hollow out the core to a depth of about one inch, wash thoroughly and then soak, head down, in cold salted water.

In cooking, put the cauliflower in a saucepan, add a cup of boiling water and sprinkle with a half-teaspoon of salt. Cover tightly, boil, then reduce heat and simmer until cauliflower is tender, 12 to 15 minutes. Drain well and dot with butter.

With a whole cauliflower, put it core-end down in a large saucepan. Add two cups of boiling water and sprinkle with three-quarters of a teaspoon of salt. Cover tightly, boil, then reduce heat and boil gently until tender — 15 to 20 minutes. Drain well and dot with butter.

Wool odds and ends serve good purpose

Tucked away in moth balls, in cedar chests and storage drawers all across Canada, there are many pounds of wool remnants. Every ounce of it can be put to excellent use by the Unitarian Service Committee.

In a recent USC appeal for knitters, hundreds of women all across Canada offered their services. The Committee's stock pile of wool vanished, and many volunteers are waiting empty-handed.

To fulfil the USC pledge of 25,000 layettes to the United Nations for Arab refugee babies, 17,000 knitted baby shirts are still needed before Christmas Day.

Partly-used skeins of colored wool will make multi-colored, long-sleeved pullovers for Korean children who must spend the winter months in orphanages that are unheated because of the high cost of fuel. Although over 10,000 grey wool pullovers have been sent to Korea, a total of 25,000 are needed.

Odds and ends of wool sent to the USC, 78 Sparks Street, Ottawa, will be put to good and immediate use.

November's etchings in the sky — milady's fashions, church dinners

"Exile from Sunnyacres"

By Margaret Cook

That is misleading . . . inasmuch as we write from Sunnyacres and have been able to spend rather more time here than usual this autumn. Having a daughter in college has its advantages; one is not being perpetually hampered by her social commitments. In fact, we fear our whole approach to the inevitable growing up of one's offspring is sadly out of step with the prevailing sentimental nostalgia. . . But we wander; nothing new, of course, but we must nip the tendency in the bud. Or is ours a full-grown flower?

To return to Sunnyacres — we write during the first snowstorm of the year. The man of the house refers to these repulsive goings-on as "Percy's cold front", which sounds mildly indecent; but to us, this is just the first prophetic whirlings of those deceptive white morsels that cause children to shout with glee, and adults to look apprehensively at the oil tank, the coal bin, the woodpile. We are kept busy stoking the two fires. But oh, how lovely, to sit by the leaping blaze in the little antique rocker and look out at the trees writhing under the ministrations of the north-east wind! In order to savor completely warmth, comfort and peace, it seems necessary to have the opposite somewhere about. Peter, the cat, arrived as I was working at a needlework mural I am perpetrating for a friend's Christmas, and demanded to be held. Sitting on the hearthstone as close as he could get to the fire was not enough, he desired to feel human warmth below and around him. So I held him, and he slumbered blissfully until my conscience spoke sternly of articles to write and agendas to be made up — to say nothing of lunch.

Now that I am alerted, I see master squirrel doing gymnastics in the apple tree close to the house. He is an amazing aerialist, running out till the branch tips, soaring gracefully down to catch another one, racing along it to a bigger branch, and finally snatching an apple and carrying it to the old rail fence, where he sits expertly turning his prize in his paws, making neat bites all around the circumference. Nothing else stirs in the landscape, even the hunters are discouraged, and the poor deer and other hunted creatures will have a rest. The trees are bare but the evergreens have come into their own, and we begin to notice the pure, clear etchings of branches against sky, that are one of the thrills of that much-maligned month, November.

October has been delightful. Golden October, the hills a tapestry of colors, pink light over all. The birthstone for October is the opal, and we often wonder how the idea originated, for the opal with its glowing fires is the perfect expression of the Canadian October. A good opal is more beautiful than a diamond, or so we think.

Thanksgiving was a happy time — the weather good, the company entertaining, being the daughter of the house and a friend. We had a kind of Thanksgiving dinner-cum-birthday festival one night, and an even better dinner the following evening at our favorite hotel in St. Jerome. We like the food, and we are always intrigued by the sight of small male persons, perhaps about four years of age, being introduced to the delights of a loaded buffet table. To see a short-legged mannikin holding a plate covered with food, at a perilous angle, and peering wildly about what must seem to him a forest of legs, is always diverting. With the adults, the amusement is tinged with wonder. Our own two young things consumed fifteen French pastries between them. Then there is music, real live music made by a person one can see. Somebody had a birthday, so "Happy birthday to you" was played twice, adding to the already relaxed and happy mood of the diners. After the meal, we staggered downstairs to see CKJL in the flesh. Said flesh at the moment belongs to a tall, dark man, a student at a college, as an announcer, and to a fair, meagre person doing the necessary motions. We spent a pleasant half-hour talking with the former. If anybody feels that the life of an announcer is just pure fun, and occasionally romance, we are assured that this is all nonsense. Most evenings, it is just a job, reading news, announcing titles of discs, doing the odd advertisement. Occasionally, our host admitted it was fun. For instance, he had the pleasure of interviewing Guy Lombardo recently. I think he meant what he said, for he was kind enough to say that we had brightened up an otherwise dull evening. Our two girls were enthralled. A real, live announcer, tall, dark and reasonably handsome. What more could one desire? . . . Well, if one is home for a holiday, one can desire sleep, so they put in eleven hours of the same and rose-refreshed.

And so, back to work, and that mention of clothes we promised the ladies last time. We wished only to say that this is an especially good season, there is something for everyone. Do you wish a sack (but who does?); there are a few about, but most are gone. The chemise is with us, but so is the trim, belted number, and best of all, the belt moves. We went into a neighbor's home lately wearing one of the high-waisted models, only to be told by the housekeeper that my waist had shot up; she made playful attempts to restore it to normal. All these varied models are in gorgeous colors; such lovely hues we have not seen for many a season. Personally, we are rejoicing in the vogue for green. We bought a moss-green outfit with copper accessories, and a hat like a flower-pot, and feel quite smug when we wear it. But the emerald greens are even more beautiful, and we saw an evening dress in a haunting shade of purple. Sounds awful, but is really intriguing. . . We realize that all the men are going to hate us for this talk on clothes. But if there were no clothes we would all look the same, and how dull that would be — also, how cold, in this climate.

It is not all work in the city. We managed to see "White Wilderness", filmed in our own northland. As a record it is enlightening; and as photography, superb. We were particularly intrigued with the bit about the lemmings. Ever since we read the Stanwell-Fletcher "Driftwood Valley", I have desired to know about lemmings, especially their seemingly daft determination to commit suicide. It is all there in the film, with a possible explanation of this mass exit. But you must go to see the picture; to tell you here would be unsporting, one must sit through two merrie melodies and one silly comedy to arrive at the feature, but it is worth it.

We are, as usual at this time of year, involved in preparations for a dinner at the church. This time, it is a cold buffet, featuring such things as cold roast turkey, ham, scalloped potatoes, potato salad, jellied salads, tossed salads, rolls, assorted desserts, such as pies, cakes, fruit. Of course, the usual beverages. To those who sedulously avoid being head of anything, a word in your ear: Provided you are not a worrier, it is twice as easy as being vice-president. You simply look over your list of members, making note of those who would not dare for personal or public reasons to refuse, and give them the current job. Besides these unfortunate people, there are always some to whom the light of publicity is as noon sun to the half-congealed fly; they too, are good bets. All in all one can get by with a benign expression and a moderate amount of grooming. But if the body rests in the Chair, the soul is almost forced to grow. One has to learn to suffer fools gladly. To listen to the most preposterous ideas and seemingly accept them, to take the chair, like matrimony, "in sickness and in health". And a touch of clairvoyancy mixed with accountancy is also a help. Given all this, one can survive the prescribed time in office, and emerge into those green pastures where only past-presidents can graze.

Speaking of grazing, we were much amused by a serio-comic article in a farmers' paper, on the horrors of the hunting season, as depicted by a farmer. Seems that Black Angus cattle are sometimes mistaken for bears, and Jerseys for deer, with results fatal to the cattle and maddening to the farmer. We do not ourselves understand this lust to kill, although some of the gentlest of our acquaintances are devoted to it. Theoretically there is the thrill of the chase, but we feel that is only a phase left over from more innocent but lustier days. Hunting now seems to consist of sitting for long hours on a log, while the wily deer lie hidden in some dim and distant covert. One can imagine a mother deer taking her fawn at dusk to view this strange phenomenon, with cautionary words about the smell of tobacco and the crunch of leaves. The man of the house suggests a tax of one haunch of venison for every deer removed from our acres. Not me; I always think venison is over-rated, tough, stringy meat.

Lunch is over, and dinner time will be upon us before one can have a rest. The rest that is not needed is twice-blessed; it blesses the muscles and it gladdens the soul — with apologies to Shakespeare. So now to rest, and shall we take a thriller with us or something highbrow? I think it will be "Driftwood Valley", just for old times' sake.

Tips on Touring

What's the car of the future going to be like?

It'll have permanently sealed transmission and axle, and many chassis components will get lifetime lubrication at the factory. The windows, too, will be sealed since the car will be air-conditioned. It'll have radar to take care of safe deceleration.

There will be a more powerful engine. Yet the fuel consumption may be no greater than that of your present car.

The car of the future will be lower. Doors will extend into the top of the car to allow us to get in and out.

Some say gas turbines and free-piston engines will be common. Blow-out proof tires will be standard. Air springs may replace our conventional springs, and car bodies will be lighter in weight — maybe plastic.

Some engineers predict electronic devices embedded in the road; they'll automatically control the car's speed and steering while we enjoy the scenery or watch car television.

And one major automobile manufacturer even foresees the day when we can change the color of our car, presto!, by "painting" it with something called a "controlled electromagnetic radiation gun." The new paint job would be able to expel dust and dirt when the car is passed through an electrical field.

Higher phone rate applies here on area usage basis

In conformity with the regulations of the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada, the Bell Telephone Company of Canada reported to the board on October 31 that the Lachute - Brownsburg local calling area has outgrown its present telephone rate group.

If, on the basis of this growth, the board directs that the Lachute - Brownsburg local calling area be classified into the next higher rate group, telephone rates in Lachute and Brownsburg would be increased slightly to make them the same as those now paid in other centres with a similar number of telephones in their local calling area — R. R. Pearson, Bell manager for this region, explained. For example, the monthly charge for two-party residence service would be increased by 15 cents and individual residence service by 25 cents under the present rate structure.

These increases have nothing to do with the company's application for a general rate increase which was approved by the Board of Transport Commissioners on October 10. That decision has been appealed to the Federal Cabinet, which has suspended the Board's order for one month.

Telephone rates for any exchange are governed by the number of telephones in its local calling area, recognizing the principle that the value of service to each customer increases as the number of telephones within the local calling area increases. The company is required to report to the board, twice yearly, the status of exchanges whose telephones have increased — or decreased — more than five per cent beyond the limits of their group.

The Lachute - Brownsburg area has expanded steadily in recent years and its progress has been accompanied by a parallel growth in the number of telephones. Telephone customers served by the Lachute and Brownsburg exchanges now have 5,330 telephones in their local calling area.

The following table provides examples of the rates now in effect and those for the next higher group for typical classes of service.

The Local Farm Scene

'Central Experimental' is unique, only farm surrounded by a city

Central Experimental Farm was visited by 208 organized groups during the first eight months of this year.

Groups totalled 8,275 persons, reported L. J. Bellefleur, Agriculture research liaison officer, and countless others visited the farm on their own.

They included royalty, diplomats, scientists, dignitaries, farmers, students, housewives, and curious urbanites. The foreign visitors were from countries throughout the world.

Foreigners show interest in Canadian Government agricultural research

Students Too

High school students came from as far as Toronto and Montreal and kindergarten classes also found the farm popular for outdoor excursions.

Women's Institutes and farm groups throughout Canada and the United States and 4-H clubs on both sides of the border tour the experimental farm each year.

Biggest attention-getter: Flower gardens. During the tulip festival, an estimated 3,000 visited the farm one week-end.

Lambs are a magnetic attraction and, according to Mr. Bellefleur, telephone calls concerning the arrival of spring lambs start in February. Interest keeps mounting until the lambs are born in April.

The Central Experimental Farm lay southwest of Ottawa when it was started in 1886, and now it has the distinction of being the only farm surrounded by a city. It takes in 1,200 acres.

Mr. Bellefleur was superintendent of the Federal experimental farm at Caplan in the Gaspé Peninsula before becoming research liaison officer.

District tree farmers in process of organizing

Harrington — Good progress was made at a recent meeting held to explore the possibility of forming an association of Tree Farmers. Thirty-five persons showed up for the meeting, at the home of C. B. K. Clarke, Carillon. Also represented were the Canadian Forestry Association, Macdonald College, the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club, and the Glengarry County Farm Forums.

Discussion centred around the benefits which such an association could offer its members. Membership, dues, charter, and by-laws also came in for considerable attention. Finally, these points were referred to a committee of nine which is to draw up and present a constitution for adoption at a future meeting.

$8-million Canadian wheat to S. Africa

The South African Government contracted to purchase 4,480,000 bushels of Canadian wheat at an estimated price of about eight million dollars. This is a sequel to a poor wheat crop in South Africa, where wheat lice and inclement weather conditions ruined a large part of the harvest in the 1958 summer.

The sale was negotiated by the Canadian and South African Wheat Boards during the visit to Winnipeg of Dr. A. W. O. Bock, manager of the South African control body, recently. A formal agreement was signed in Winnipeg by Mr. W. Riddel, Assistant Chief Commissioner of the Canadian Wheat Board, Mr. W. J. Brooking, General Sales Manager, and Dr. Bock, in Winnipeg on October 8.

Farmers receive 44c on dollar of consumer sales

Canadian farmers last year received just over 44 cents of the dollar spent by consumers for farm foods, according to Z. Y. Yankowsky, Canada Department of Agriculture economist, in an annual study released by the Department.

The 1957 decrease in farmer's share was less than one percent from the level of the previous year. The farm share of retail food expenditure has been declining since 1951, when it was 51 percent.

Increases Compared

More detailed calculations for 14 selected food products, which represent roughly 70 percent of the retail cost of Canadian farm food domestically consumed, showed that in 1957 retail prices of these products increased 3.7 percent. Farm prices increased only 1.4 percent and marketing margins were boosted by 8.2 percent.

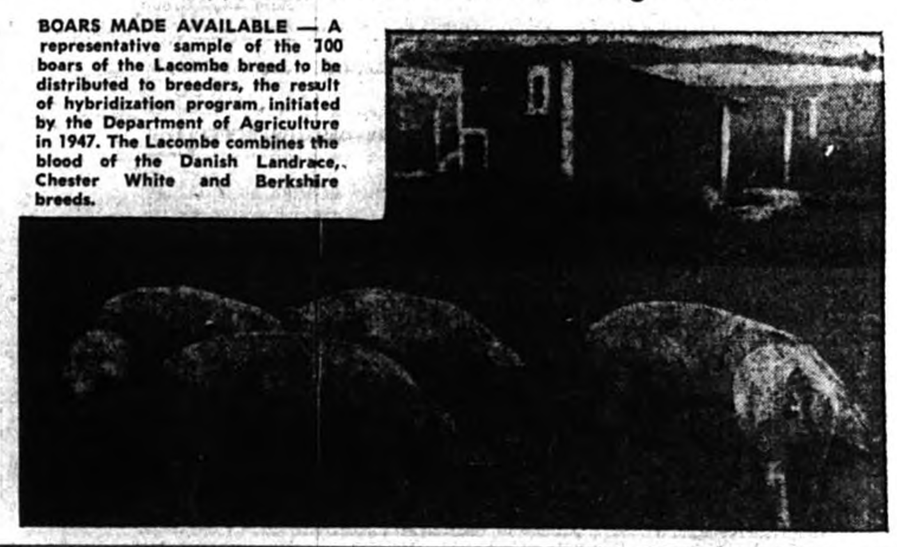

The increase in farm prices in 1957 was the first since 1951 and resulted mainly from higher prices for dairy products and meat animals, particularly hogs.

Farm program seen failure

If we needed proof of the complete failure of the U.S. official farm program, surely the record grain crop this year supplies it, argues The Financial Post.

For years American farm planners have been trying to cut down production of wheat and other grains to ease the strain on overloaded domestic storage and foreign markets. They have paid farmers not to grow grain and they have fined those who dared to extend acreage. But in spite of all this, and the millions of taxpayers' money paid out in subsidies, they are now faced with the biggest production ever and there is no hope of clearing out surpluses for years to come. And all because farmers naturally took their poorest land out of circulation and concentrated on their best! Nature with favorable weather did the rest.

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you:

Q. Can a pregnant woman who works in a factory collect unemployment insurance benefits when she becomes unemployed? In the affirmative, for how long can she collect these benefits?

A. Generally, a pregnant woman is considered not available for work and, therefore, ineligible for benefit during the six weeks before and the six weeks after confinement. If, however, she leaves her employment due to her condition she is considered not available immediately. In either case, satisfactory arrangements must be made for the care of the child before she can again be considered available for work. Duration of benefit is determined by a formula based on the number of contributions made on behalf of an insured person. This determination can only be made at the time a claim is filed.

Canada has about 35,000 miles of paved highway and about 44,000 miles of main-track railway line.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

The Feed Manufacturer and Farmer

The history of the feed manufacturing industry and its changing relationship with the farmer or feeder has been an interesting development. A generation or two ago a common attitude on the part of a farmer was one of suspicion. In a number of cases this was justified, for there are in almost any group of people some individuals who are after the so-called fast buck.

Dr. Bohstedt

During recent decades a number of healthy changes have taken place. Nutrition research and improved techniques developed at universities and private laboratories have made tremendous advances for the benefit of the entire public including feed manufacturers and their customers. Any number of "milestones" can be recorded in this respect. The feed industry has on its staffs some of the best qualified nutrition experts in the country.

There has during the course of years developed an effective control or quality-checking system as represented by the state feed control laboratories that serve the best interests of both manufacturers and farmer buyers. The Federal Food and Drug Administration is called upon to approve the use of various additives and in that way safeguards the wholesomeness of feeds.

The recent war years when livestock products were in terrific demand and when feeding efficiency was at a premium, have witnessed the feed manufacturing industry distinguishing itself in these respects. The stress of the times brought out as never before the interdependence and mutual interest of feed manufacturer and dealer, farmer, county agricultural agent, government official, feed control official, feed industry press, college man, and ultimate consumer.

A number of nutrition schools or conferences at colleges and universities grew out of these close contacts, for it was realized that the feed dealer and custom mixer in his many contacts with farmers can be a most effective extension worker, greatly amplifying the services of the county, state and federal extension services.

Just so the primary nutritional needs of farm animals are understood, the bulk of the cattle, sheep and swine of the nation can still under modern conditions be fed relatively simple rations, using common protein supplements, salt and other minerals in connection with feeds that a farmer produces himself. Many feed manufacturers recognize this principle of economy whereby a farmer should make maximum use of his own feeds, both forages and grain. They are in position then to supply him with well designed supplements that adequately and in line with latest research findings balance his home-grown feeds for maximum and economical production.

Years ago poultrymen broke away from this practice of buying merely supplements. They started buying complete poultry mashes in view of the critical needs of growing birds, especially newly hatched chicks, for high quality protein, vitamins, major and minor minerals, at times drugs and hormones. At present the bulk of commercial mixed feeds, or formula feeds, is poultry feeds.

But with multiple farrowings and early weaning of pigs there is now a growing demand for pre-starter and starter mixtures, the same as there has been all along a constant demand for milk replacers and calf meals — in other words, demand for meals or mixtures designed for young animals that have critical demands for nutrients that a farmer would have difficulty buying and assembling himself.

What About Those Heifers?

Don't forget those growing heifers. If you follow a feeding program which grows them fast, yet keeps them clean-cut and dairy-like, you can breed them earlier, get them producing earlier, and get more milk in their first lactations.

And it really costs no more — for you save several months of unproductive feeding!

In one year recently, 14 Grade Holstein heifers came into production in the Purina herd. They calved at an average of 24 months, but they were fully developed and weighed an average of 1,244 lbs. each. So they gave around 3,000 lbs. milk before most heifers have even started; and in 10 months lactation they averaged 10,691 lbs. milk, 404.5 lbs. fat.

Heifers like this do cost more while growing, but you get from 3 to 9 months extra milk out of your cow. So they are worth more to you either to keep or to sell.

NEUHAUSER CHICKS JAMESWAY EQUIPMENT

THEIR LIVES—HIS LIVELIHOOD—DEPEND ON OIL

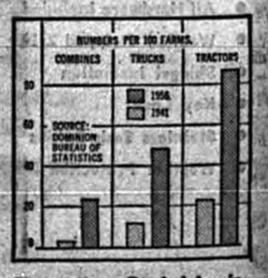

Imperial contributes to a better life for Canadians through constant leadership in oil . . . finding new supplies . . . pioneering more useful products

There are more than five tractors for every six occupied farms in Canada . . . one motor vehicle for every four Canadians. More than half the homes in Canada are heated by oil.

Canadians consume half again as much gasoline today as they did in 1946, nearly five times as much heating and diesel fuels.

Imperial has been a major contributor to this better life, more productive economy. In 1946, Canada produced less than one-tenth of its oil needs. In 1947, Imperial discovered oil at Leduc, in Alberta. Today, Canada's own fields produce nearly 60 percent of our requirements.

Through its nine refineries from coast to coast . . . and in its research operations, larger than the rest of the Canadian oil industry put together . . . Imperial has constantly been able to lead in the development of newer and more useful products . . . to make a fuller life for Canadians.

Since 1941, gasoline-fueled equipment on farms has risen sharply.

Remembrance Day rites held at Cenotaph

Symbolic scene at the Cenotaph in Lachute's Memorial Park, where Remembrance Day is observed with fitting solemnity each year by civilians and ex-servicemen from the surrounding district.

Patriotic groups, college band and citizens young and old participate

An impressive turn-out of Legion men and women, non-affiliated veterans, and citizens young and old from the surrounding district, marked another celebration of the Remembrance Day rites, Tuesday morning in the Memorial Park. The weather was brisk but clear, and the gathering was one of the most representative ever witnessed at these proceedings.

The parade, marshalled by Legion Comrade Bob St. Laurent, was fittingly led by the veterans' color bearers. The Legionnaires and servicemen of both World Wars were out in force. An impressive addition this year was the 70-piece Ste. Scholastique College bugle band, a smartly uniformed aggregation which gave the required martial touch to the procession. The 37th Field Battery, Lachute's own contingent of the R.C.A. reserve, came next in order, with two field pieces and gun carriages. Another uniformed junior group, the Ayersville R.C.A.F. Cadets (Squadron 648), also marched smartly in the parade, followed by the Lachute Boy Scouts, Cubs, Girl Guides and Brownies, and Auxiliary members.

The Lachute High School pupils and teaching staff attended at the Cenotaph, also pupils and Brothers from l'Ecole Secondaire. The Legion 70 president, Comrade R. O. (Dick) MacLean, was master of ceremonies.

The Artillery guns were heavier, more modern editions than those used in the memorial proceedings last year, and the four salvos from these field-pieces, marking the opening and closing of the two-minute silence period, made a report heard far and wide.

Brief speeches were given by Mayor Léopold Carrière, Notary Latour, M.P. for Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes, and by Comrade Sam Milnes, representing the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Minister of Mines.

A number of wreaths had been deposited in advance, with approval of the business firms and organizations contributing. This considerably shortened the wreath-laying ceremonies and the resultant exposure of the crowd to the usual November weather. Comrade Sam Milnes called out the names of numerous other donors, including individual families, churches, groups and industries, whose representatives came forward to deposit their emblems of reverence at the base of the Cenotaph.

The Last Post, Reveille, the National Anthem and God Save the Queen were sounded over the public address system during this impressive program, and the Ste. Scholastique boys' band played their Salute to the Fallen.

The general impression behind the scene of these observances, was a gratifying sense of reverence to the men of this community who laid down their lives, and who sacrificed in other ways, for the freedom cherished in our democracies today. As noted by the speakers on this occasion, it will ever be a source of pride that the Counties of Argenteuil and Deux Montagnes played their part in the conflict for freedom.

Rotarians welcome District Governor

More Rotary Clubs to meet the needs of the fast-expanding north country were urged by S. Herman Macy, Governor of District 704, Rotary International, in his address to the local club on Thursday last, a part of his 10,000 mile official visit throughout northern United States and Southern Canada.

Macy, who is secretary of the Lake Placid Club, predicted that the resort business and industrial expansion in this area would double in the next five years, adding there were three major forces behind this boom; one, the St. Lawrence Seaway and power development; two, the northway highway which will make the area more accessible to millions of persons and, three, closer co-operation between Canada and the United States.

He pointed out that this bright future could develop faster and better "if you Rotarians who have accepted your local responsibilities so well, actively spread the Rotary ideals of co-operation, unselfish service, and dedications of the best interests of the area."

In commencing his address, the District Governor paid tribute to Past District Governor Linton W. Armstrong for his excellent work and covered many varied subjects, all of which he connected to Rotary, in an informal but informative manner.

In making the introduction, President Sid Patterson made note of the Governor's 23 years' perfect attendance, that is not having missed a Rotary meeting for every week of the 23 years. Governor "Herm", as he likes to be called, stated that the reason for this was the fellowship, not just the fact that a make-up was necessary to keep his record.

In closing, he left the local members with the thought that some of us want to be men of Rotary, but do we want to be Rotarians. Rotary is no greater than you find it to be in your own community. We must practice what we have here by making sure the youth of the community have our leadership and ideals of the "4-Way Test".

Governor "Herm" was thanked for his inspiring message by Rotarian Fred Royal, who presented him with an Ayers blanket on behalf of the Club.

The meeting was closed with the singing of the American and Canadian national anthems.

Blood Clinic plans set for Nov. 26-27

At a meeting chaired by Ian Gordon, who is in charge of the Red Cross Blood Clinic for this district, plans were discussed at Lachute Golf Club on Tuesday for the next Clinic days. These will be on Wednesday and Thursday, November 26-27 (during the afternoon from 2 to 5.30, and in the evening from 7 to 9.30) at Lachute Auditorium.

Various committees have been formed for the carrying out of this clinic, and any persons desirous of giving blood would assist greatly by phoning Mrs. J. E. Leonard (LO 2-5127) and giving their names; they will then receive further instructions.

Your co-operation in this matter will be greatly appreciated. Do not forget that your blood given at this clinic will help save another's life, and will also ensure free transfusions for yourself and kin, should you ever need them.

Family affair

Donat St. Jean and three sons — Roger, 22, Jean Guy, 19, and a 15-year-old brother — all of Brownsburg, were arrested and will appear in St. Jerome court December 5 on a charge of theft of copper wire valued at $60 from the C-I-L at Brownsburg.

Progress report on Lions' skating rink

Key committeemen on the artificial ice rink gave a report on their progress at last meeting of the Lions Club.

Lorne Duncan, general chairman, said it was hoped to have the ice-making installations in operation within the next week or two. Laying of the refrigeration pipes was proceeding on schedule, construction of dressing rooms was well advanced, and everything in hand for erection of the lighting.

Donald M. Hay reported on the financing, and members of the club were signatories to a $12,500 construction loan from the bank. Actual operation costs would be met largely by the sale of season tickets for skating, to families and individuals, at $5 and $4 respectively. This plan was outlined by Ian Gordon.

The key figure on Administration, Jos. Dumais, estimated the operating costs at $2,000 this season — providing for a caretaker, snow removal, electric lighting, and the maintenance of good order. It was proposed to open the rink from 2 p.m. to 9.30 p.m. on weekdays, 10 a.m. to 9.30 p.m. on Saturdays and holidays, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Horace Lamarche, who sparked the flame to set these plans in motion, handed a bouquet to Lion Bert Rigg for time, effort and technical co-operation on the construction. Appreciation to various business and townsmen (previously conveyed through these columns) was expressed by President Phil Tremblay.

The club passed general approval on the actions of the executive in this project.

Routine affairs at Ayersv'l Council

At the regular Ayersville Council meeting, building permits were granted to Benoit Morrissette and Raymond Legault. During the course of the business it was also decided, jointly with the School Commission, to purchase an Olivetti automatic calculator from the firm of Walker-Kingsbury Inc., at a price of $672.

The claim for water damage to the home of Mme Bernadette Belanger brought a letter from Cyrille Leroux answering the Council's request for estimate. It stated the damage was between $900 and $1,000. The matter was again tabled for study.

A protest from Messrs. W. E. and J. A. Hammond on over-valuation of their land, was read by the secretary-treasurer. The roll having been homologated, it is now impossible to make changes, and the objection will be taken into consideration on next year's revision.

A letter from Robert Legault asking for sewer installation on his lots near the future hospital site, was held over for consideration.

In conjunction with the School Commission, the Ayersville Council retained the services of Mlle Odette Sabourin as assistant to the secretary. Seven bids had been received for this clerical position.

Dance proceeds to Springhill, N.S., miners' relief

A "Springhill Relief Fund" dance — with proceeds of the $1 admission as well as the bar profits — is being held at the Pavillon Lounge, Windsor Hotel, tomorrow evening (Thursday), commencing at 8.30.

A committee comprising the hotel proprietor, Pierre Soumis, as chairman, Police-Fire Chief Fernand Trépanier as secretary-treasurer, and W. R. "Buddy" Langille, Jim Duncan and Eileen Morrison, is presently pushing ticket sales. The $1 contribution can also be made at the door.

Chief Trépanier reports he will check the proceeds prior to the commencement, and again following, and after deducting expenses the profit and the total door receipts will be turned over to the Relief Fund.

The general public is urged to support this fund, by making their contribution to the committee or to any local bank.

Social and service aspects featured at Lions' meeting

A veteran campaigner in the regional promotion of Lionism, Larry Sheasgreen of St. Lambert, was speaker at the Lions Club meeting here last week. His theme was Membership Development, and he stressed the maintaining of sound membership as compared with the comings, goings and variations of personnel which mar the effective continuity of any organized group.

Lion Sheasgreen's presence was most opportune; as a former District Governor and a director of the Canadian Association of Lions Clubs, he gave dignity and authority to an induction rite in which he welcomed a newcomer, Bob Haydon, to the club. The latter was sponsored and introduced by Tony Zaplaski.

Mr. Sheasgreen was introduced as guest speaker by Dick Pearson, and thanked by Jos. Dumais.

The "head-table challenge" — in which any member may be called upon unexpectedly to introduce the notables and guests — was creditably handled by Roger Regimbal and Fernand Legault.

Cleighton Robinson as song-leader, and Royal Carrière as mentor of a five-man "quartet", drew warm applause, while Lion-elect Bob Haydon, the accompanist, gave promise as a valuable asset to the club with his musical talent.

The major project of the year, the artificial ice rink, commanded top attention, since the rink and its realization as a going concern are uppermost in the club's considerations at this time. (A separate report is given for public interest.)

A ladies' night, including a fashion show, is planned for November 13 at Lachute Golf Club. A brief outline was given by Dick Pearson, program chairman.

President Phil Tremblay chaired this successful meeting, which drew an attendance of over 50 members.

Veterans of two world wars at Legion Armistice supper

Some 130 veterans and guests attended, at a single setting, the annual Remembrance supper held in the Branch 70 Legion Memorial Hall, Lachute, last Saturday evening.

Included as special guests were Notary J. O. Latour, M.P. for Argenteuil - Two Mountains, and Lachute's Police and Fire Chief Fernand (Gerry) Trépanier. The latter, as guest speaker, kept the veterans in stitches throughout his talk. Unable to be present were W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P., Minister of Mines (Quebec) and His Worship Mayor Léopold Carrière.

In a more serious vein, Chairman R. A. Giles reminded the veterans that for those present this was a time both of sadness and of happiness. Particularly, the sadness is reflected by the tremendous sacrifice and loss of life in two world wars. He said, "In the loss of our comrades, we here tonight also mourn and sympathize tenderly with those for whom this time brings a renewal of sorrow." Mr. Giles continued, "The question, it seems to me, is — was the saerifice they made in vain? At times I wonder, when thinking of the atrocities of the Second World War, and the fact that we have narrowly escaped a third conflict." . . .

"We who have seen and experienced the horrors of war have still a duty to perform, in reminding the younger generation how grateful they should be for the freedom we now enjoy, and encouraging them to take their place in public affairs, to stand up for what they know to be right, and to do their utmost to build a stronger and better world in which all men may live at peace.

"And in this connection," Mr. Giles continued, "I am proud, along with my fellow comrades, of the fact that our Legion Branch (No. 70) and the Ladies' Auxiliary have been sponsors of numerous worthy activities among both young and old."

Comrade Giles pointed out that there remain two South African War veterans in our midst, Com. Hale and Com. Gorman, to whom he offered congratulations, while on the other side of the ledger we have lost three younger veterans during the past year — Past-President Com. Frank Earle, Com. S. Cavanagh and Com. Tom Stewart. . . . Mr. Giles asked those present to stand in silent remembrance to the reading of Maud Kerr's "Give peace in our time, O Lord".

Comrade Jas. Duncan introduced the guest speaker, Chief Trépanier, who spoke on the humorous side of his experiences during his twenty years' service with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Mr. Trépanier proved himself to be a witty off-the-cuff performer, and was much enjoyed by all present.

Chief Trépanier was suitably thanked by Com. Bernard Jenkins.

Mr. Latour thanked the Legion members for their thoughtfulness in inviting him to be present. He expressed a desire to be of assistance to the Branch in his capacity as representative for this district.

Com. Sam Milnes expressed a vote of thanks to the ladies of the Branch Auxiliary for the "terrific" turkey supper which they provided.

Mr. Giles had a special welcome for the following lady veterans present — Mrs. Dorothy Graham, Miss Lorna Giles, Miss Elsie McFaul, Miss Ann Clark, all of the C.W.A.C.; Mrs. H. D. Simpson, Wrens (Navy); Mrs. Donald Rogers, R.C.A.F.; and Mrs. Bob Gordon, R.C.A.M.C. (Medical Corps).

Comrade President Dick MacLean invited all veterans in the area to join the Branch, and hoped that the less-active members would become more active during the coming year. He pointed out that the present membership of 170 is the highest in the history of the Branch, and that there will be activities for all, next season. He accorded a hearty welcome to all veterans and guests to this annual Remembrance supper.

When thanking those who assisted with preparations for the banquet, Com. B. Jenkins made reference to the souvenir menu cards prepared by Com. J. Pillage. He also mentioned that eight of the fifteen charter members were present this evening.

Seated at the head-table with Chairman Giles, M.M., were Com. Major George Mitchell, V.D.; Com. C. Demerse, Branch treasurer; Com. T. Smith, 1st vice-president; Chief Trépanier; Com. B. Jenkins, 2nd vice-president; Com. President R. O. MacLean; Mr. Latour, M.P.; and Com. Lucien Hamel, recording secretary.

Council calls for tenders to supply fire equipment, sidewalk tractors

The regular Council session was held last Wednesday with all members in attendance, and Mayor Léopold Carrière presiding.

It was moved by Ald. René Bélanger, seconded by Ald. Edgar Pollock, that in reply to its letter of October 30 concerning signals at the C.P.R. Hamford Street crossing, the Council advise the Board of Transport Commissioners that, in principle, the Town of Lachute has no objection to such installation. But before accepting any definite engagement to pay 12½% of the installation cost and 25% of the maintenance cost, the Town wished to obtain estimates, so as to be in position to judge accordingly.

Ald. Edgar Pollock was appointed pro-mayor for the next three months, and authorized to sign with the secretary-treasurer all cheques and documents in absence of the Mayor.

Pending the sale of bonds to be issued under authority of By-law 211, it was moved by Ald. Pollock, supported by Ald. Dr. J. P. Dorion, that permission be asked of the Quebec Municipal Commission to borrow temporarily from the Bank of Nova Scotia, Lachute, at interest rate of not more than 5½% per annum, various sums not exceeding $30,000, and that any such temporary loan be paid off through proceeds of the sale of bonds issued under the said by-law.

It was then moved by Ald. Wilfrid Morrissette, seconded by Ald. Stanley Holt, that tenders be called for the purchase of a fire truck; and for the supply of various pieces of fire equipment, according to requirements listed by the Police and Fire Committee. The tenders are to be received for consideration on Monday, November 17.

Also on the replenishment of town machinery, it was moved by Lauréat Laurin, seconded by Ald. Wilfrid Morrissette, that tenders be invited for delivery in Lachute of two narrow-gauge sidewalk tractors with blade or bucket 42" wide, and a blower attachment for same. These tenders will also be studied on the above date.

The Mayor gave reading to the judgment rendered by the Quebec Public Utilities Commission on the rate of water supply provided from the Lachute system to the Municipality of Ayersville, establishing the rate of 15c per thousand gallons (as reported in last issue of The Watchman). The secretary-treasurer was instructed to bill Ayersville for the amount due.

Accounts amounting to $14,852.90 were passed for payment, and the meeting was adjourned to November 17, at 8 p.m.

(Our District Correspondent)

Mabel, Que. — A weather balloon with transmitter attachments was picked up recently by Mrs. John McRae. The instrument, which belongs to the Washington, D.C., weather bureau, had landed on the McRae property. Mrs. McRae reports that indications show the balloon had risen to a height of 16 miles, and the tubes were still lighted when it was found.

Severely hurt when auto crashes into pole

Brent "Johnny" Cruise, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cruise, Lachute Road, was reported out of danger yesterday by his attending physician, Dr. F. Walter FitzGerald, following an accident in which the victim was hurled through the windshield of a car last Sunday.

The accident occurred at 5.40 p.m. when an automobile, driven by Charles Evestaff, of St. Laurent, crashed into a pole in front of the residence of Mrs. Olive Riddell, Main Street East. The driver of the car was injured slightly and Cruise was brought to the office of Dr. FitzGerald, who took him immediately to the Providence Hospital. There he was treated for facial and head cuts, and required several transfusions due to profuse bleeding.

Sgt. Marcel Therrien, of the local Police Department investigated.

First instalment of provincial grant for Regional Hospital

The first of three annual instalments of the Provincial Government grant towards construction of the Lachute Regional Hospital was turned over to the directors of the Hospital this week. Seen receiving the cheque for $200,000 from the member for Argenteuil, the Hon. William M. Cottingham, Minister of Mines, is Mr. Donald Hay, treasurer, along with directors, Léopold Carrière, Roger E. Regimbal, Armand Desrosiers and Herb Graves (in that order).

Other sizeable grants recently acknowledged were the last of two annual donations of $10,000 from C-I-L and $4,000 from Lachute Golf Club, proceeds of its Calcutta Golf Tournament.

Model of Regional Hospital displayed

A feature of unusual interest during the Hospital directors' meeting was this scale model of the proposed building, prepared and presented by René Matte, well known citizen, who spent many leisure hours in setting up the cardboard model. This will be exhibited in a local store display window in the near future.

Spacious garage for truck fleet of Gatineau Power

Construction of a garage to house all Gatineau Power vehicles in this district is presently underway on Grace Street — it has been reported by Rod Carrean, local manager of the Company. The building is located in front of the sub-station, immediately at the rear of Deacon Motor Sales.

Of one-storey construction, all doors are 12 feet high, to allow easy access to the largest vehicle in the Company's fleet, and an electric hoist is being installed to facilitate the removal of heavy equipment from the vehicles, such as transformers for repair.

Washroom facilities, locker space for all men, and accommodation for 10 trucks and three cars, is provided in the building, which it is expected will be ready for use shortly.

LEGION NOTES

— by —

Branch 70 (Lachute) Correspondent

At the time of writing, the Branch has completed the first rounds of Memorial observances — the annual supper gathering, where only veterans congregate to reflect on the wars of the past and to renew their pledge to see that their comrades did not die in vain — also the annual Remembrance service at St. Andrews East. There remains the parade and service to be held in the Memorial Park at Lachute.

This observer feels that the nation owes the various Legion branches and members across this wide country a great debt of gratitude, if only for their insistence that the memory of those gallant citizens who guaranteed for us a further stay of Democracy, is annually refreshed in our minds. Which ex-serviceman of any war has seen the body of a Canadian comrade-in-arms slip silently from under the flag of the Service to its last resting place in the earth or sea, that would not, if asked at that moment, insist that the Union Jack must remain, if only on the staff side, in any Canadian flag of the future? And yet in so short a time, the decision to do just that has been steered deftly away from by politicians and political parties. Is it not a disgrace that Canada, such a young nation whose gallant warriors, young and old, have always gone into battle in foreign lands under this good old banner — should tolerate anyone in our midst who would suggest that it be left out of any future flag to be called Canada's National Flag? We put up with intolerance by local governments — in fact, many people today will not even buy a Remembrance Poppy! It is so easy for those who did not suffer to forget — and yet, were we to remember daily the sacrifice for which we owe so much to so many, the chances are that the magnitude of our everyday problems would diminish to insignificance.

To make certain that nobody forgets completely — to care for the needs of the dependents of those who did not return, and to assist those who did return but cannot care for themselves — to safeguard our Democracy and all it stands for — these are the basic duties of the Canadian Legion!

* * *

Best wishes for a speedy recovery go out to Comrade W. E. (Ted) Hammond, who has recently been on the sick list.

Did you know that over 16,000 veterans and dependents have been assisted by the Legion's Service Bureau since 1946?

Sees fish conservation in action, rubs shoulders with the experts

Storm-tossed but fish-minded, our correspondent gets a break

Main Duck Island,
South Bay, Picton, Ont.
Oct. 31, 1958

Dear Editor:

This will be short, but it will be interesting to your readers (I hope). . .

As you know, the weather has been very rugged. The winds have been extremely high and there is not much traffic on the lake. But on Wednesday afternoon a tug came out. It was from the Ontario Department of Lands and Fisheries. They had been in touch with the owner and had received permission to carry on their work from the Island. . . Boy, is it interesting! Even with the lake being so rough, they carry right on. You should see them catching Lake Trout for the eggs. It's really something you have to see to appreciate. Those fish are handled as though they were pure gold; and they are, according to the Chief on the boat. They are hoping that in a few years Lake Ontario will be producing Lakers like it used to. You know, they even weigh the eggs from the fish. It is really a scientific business. They even go to the point of measuring the gravel bars, and their depth.

These fish experts are from the hatchery at Glenora, not too far from here. Imagine releasing 300 MILLION Lake Herring in the spring for the Commercial fishermen. That is what this is all being done for. Not the Game fishermen.

They also state that the Lamprey in Lake Ontario is under control, and that within a very short time it will cease to be a menace. This is the part that got me. The average Lamprey will KILL one fish per day anywhere from 1 pound up. This may not seem very much, but it was pointed out to me that there are millions of these things killing. Then you start to get the picture. It isn't a pretty one, either.

These fellows sure take their work seriously. The boss of the outfit was down in Trinidad last winter studying methods of controlling fish diseases. The boat has been testing Lake Ontario since early in April, and they figure they are making good progress towards eliminating Pollution also. Of course the Ontario Government is very strict about that. They don't sit around and THINK about it; they DO IT.

A little on the Duck shooting. These gents had wanted to try this place for a long time, but never had been able to. We went out last night, and as I didn't want any Duck, I went along for the walk. They ran into a flock that I wouldn't even try to estimate in number. This is how it was done; the three of them, with two shots apiece, got 17 ducks. They quit right there. Of course, the birds were all put on ice for the return home. You have heard stories of the noise of wings which "sounded like thunder." I won't go so far as to say that, but it was darn close to it. I think the boys had more shooting in that 10 or 15 seconds than they have had in a long time. It was something to see. At least they are satisfied, their guns were put back aboard the boat as soon as we got back, and so far they haven't even been touched. As the three of them say, the once-in-a-lifetime shoot; and as far as they are concerned, that's it.

I'm also expecting the plane in today, but with the very high winds it may not land. That is one thing that can be counted on now, the winds. It's blowing about 40 m.p.h., right now and kicking up a real chop in the lake. Cold, too!

Another thing these winds are doing is spook the Deer. They are real jumpy, its going to be a tough job trying to get a good count, even with a helicopter. By the time you've made one pass over the Island, the Deer will be on the other side. The boys have just come in from a walk, they swear they were chased by a buck deer! Could be, too; the bucks are kind of mean right now in the rutting season. I don't think they will be taking any more walks.

That's all for this time. Be seeing you — and Good Hunting!

Federation of Fish - Game Associations to meet at St. Jerome November 28-29

Montreal — Sportsmen from all parts of Quebec will gather at Hotel Lapointe, St. Jerome, on November 28-29 for the annual convention of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations. This is the most important meeting of delegates of fish and game associations, clubs and conservation groups held in Quebec each year.

A record attendance is expected, as the Federation now represents nearly 490 sportsmen's organizations located in all sections of the province, and most of them will be represented by two voting delegates. They will discuss their problems with officers of the Fish and Game Department and of the Fisheries Biological Bureau. Duck and goose hunters will also have an opportunity to present their problems to officers of the Canadian Wildlife Service, the latter being responsible for migratory game bird regulations.

Mr. Art Maddison Wood, president of the Federation, said it is hoped that all conservation-minded sportsmen who can do so will attend the convention. While each member club and association may name only two official voting delegates, the forums on big and small game, fish, migratory birds, protection, water pollution and other important topics are open to everyone interested, and they will have a chance to see and hear the Minister of Game and Fisheries, who will be guest speaker at the closing luncheon.

An interesting sidelight will be the presentation of trophies and prize awards to winners in the annual Molson Fishing Tournament.

Hunters protest moose regulation

Quebec (CP) — Quebec hunters are putting up a beef about a new moose meat regulation — their one complaint after a near-record season.

The Game Department's preliminary survey this week showed an estimated 10,000 hunters bagged about 1,500 moose during the October 11-22 season. This was well above last year's 1,167 total, and expected to be the best since 1956, when 1,755 moose were killed.

The squawk is about a law effective this year prohibiting possession of moose meat or venison after February 28. It was designed to cut down poaching.

A good moose yields about 500 pounds of meat. Successful hunters are asking how they can eat their way through this before March. Forestry Engineer Paul Provencher said here recently he spent three years using up the cuts he took from one animal.

The Department has not commented on the complaints, but it is considered the law will be amended or changed.

Gustave Bedard, Department of Public Relations officer, expressed satisfaction with this year's dates. He said the season was early enough to keep down pre-season poaching and late enough to prevent a slaughter. The high 1956 kill was in an early season when the animals were in rut and responded readily to the hunter's call.

He said a post-season aerial survey showed the moose population — set at 40,000 - 50,000 last spring — is at a healthy level.

Represents Quebec on 4-H Council

The Extension Service of the Quebec Department of Agriculture has just announced that Donald Parker, of Lachute, a member of the Lachute 4-H Calf Club, has been selected to represent the Province of Quebec on the 1958 Junior 4-H Council. The purpose of the Junior 4-H Council is to assist the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs in the presentation of the week's program during National 4-H Club Week in Toronto, November 13-20. Donald is the second member of the Lachute 4-H Calf Club to represent Quebec on the Junior 4-H Council. John Oswald, of Ste. Scholastique, was a member of the Council in 1954 when he and Kenneth McOuat, of St. Andrews East, took part in the 4-H Club Week. They came first in the national judging competition, which has since been discontinued.

Supper send-off to season's affairs at Curling Club

The semi-annual meeting of the Lachute Curling Club was held in the clubrooms last Wednesday, with about 75 members in attendance. Jean Belanger and his staff provided an excellent meal, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. President Howard Morrison welcomed the members and expressed his appreciation in seeing such a large turn-out.

Grace was said by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough and the toast to the Queen was proposed by Mayor Léopold Carrière.

A business meeting was held after the dinner, and was opened by a few remarks from the president. He expressed the hope that the club was headed for another successful season and asked the members to give their fullest co-operation to the various committees to enable them to do a good job. He also asked the members to support the Match Committee by turning out for their games. Thanks were expressed to the House and Ice committee for carrying out the renovation and improvements as planned by the board. Among instances mentioned were improved washroom facilities, better TV reception, and the acquisition of new easy chairs and coffee tables.

Plans for the extension of the club rooms were brought up, but were not discussed at this time. President Morrison said the annual golf tournament had been very successful, and expressed the hope that it would be bigger and better next year.

Prizes for the Centre playdowns for the Jubilee and Governor-General's Trophies, which were not available at the annual meeting, were then presented.

Jubilee — Lawrence Cruise, Lorne Duncan Linton Armstrong and Don Hay (skip).

During the past year three men who had been closely associated with the club, in the persons of Frank Earle, Phil Chabot and Thomas Stewart, have passed away, and the members were requested by the president to observe a minute's silence in respect to their memory.

Ice will be available in the very near future, and members are requested to sign up for the opening bonspiel. If you cannot get down to the rink, phone and leave your name with "Mert McDonald".

High School sports last week-end

By Judi Hadley and Ian Duncan

Basketball

On Saturday morning the Brownsburg Junior and Senior girls' basketball teams played in Lachute, against the L.H.S. Junior and Senior girls.

In the first game the Lachute Juniors got off to a slow start, and Brownsburg led 4-0 in the first quarter. When the second quarter started the Lachute girls settled down and finally took the lead, winning the game by the score of 19-15. Pat Mitchell was Lachute's high scorer with 13 points.

The Senior girls' game got off to a fast start, the first half being played on even terms. However, in the second half the Brownsburg girls took the lead and held it until the final whistle. The game ended 33-19 for Brownsburg.

Lachute's scorers were Marilyn Underhill, Bev Rice and Carol Parker.

Soccer Game

Last Saturday the Junior boys' soccer team played an exhibition game against Macdonald High School, at Macdonald. Lachute was handicapped, as Del MacTavish and Roland Gow were not able to play. Macdonald took advantage of Lachute's handicap and won accordingly, 6-0.

Two new Ministers named to cabinet

Quebec (CP) — A new Health Minister and a new Minister Without Portfolio were appointed to the Quebec cabinet last week.

Dr. Arthur Leclerc, of La Malbaie, succeeds Dr. Albiny Paquette as Health Minister, while Gerard Thibault, member of the Legislative Assembly for Montreal Mercier, becomes Minister Without Portfolio.

Dr. Leclerc, 55-year-old member of the legislature for Charlevoix, was Minister Without Portfolio before being named to his new post.

The Health Department, one of the most important in the provincial government, previously was headed by men from Montreal area. Undoubtedly Mr. Thibault was named Minister Without Portfolio in order to maintain Montreal area representation in the cabinet. The 52-year-old Montreal businessman also served as parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Paul Beaulieu and has been a Union Nationale party whip.

...so both are building up bank accounts

Nowadays, practically everybody has a bank account.
Last year alone, forward-looking Canadians opened 450,000 new deposit accounts in the chartered banks—almost as many as the increase in population.
The owners of today's 11 million accounts know a bank is the safe, convenient, pleasant place to build up funds for every need and purpose.

They know, too, that in a chartered bank you deal with skilled, friendly people, ready to help with all your banking.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons: but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

In homage and humility...

ONCE AGAIN we have observed Remembrance Day — not (we believe) as the performance of a civic duty, but as a sincere homage from the heart, to those who gave their all for a principle — and for us, posterity.

Among those of adult age who still vividly remember WAR and its implications, the gesture has been real, genuine, spontaneous. To those of junior years the REASON may be obscure; but by this rite of Remembrance year after year, we trust the MEANING may be impressed upon them, clear and impelling.

The deep poignancy associated with Remembrance Day can only be understood by those who experienced wartime, on the battlefields, abroad, or at home.

When the toll of World War I was finally taken, ten million men, the flower of all races, lay dead. Such was the irreparable price paid arising out of an international antagonism — or as a famous British prime minister once expressed it, because men "hated one another so damnably".

The first World War was followed a quarter of a century later by the World War II, in which millions of the flower of a later generation lay dead. Such is the price that has been paid for the freedom of the individual and a distinctive way of life.

Nearly two centuries ago the Scottish poet, Robert Burns, dreamed of the day when "man to man the world o'er shall brothers be and all that". Queen Victoria's poet-laureate, Lord Tennyson, predicted a "parliament of man and the federation of the world". But it was her first and most favored prime minister, Lord Melbourne, who said: "The worst of the present day is that men hate one another so damnably".

Are there more signs of the coming of the Brotherhood of Man than there were in the times of Burns, Melbourne and Tennyson? Have we moved nearer to the Celestial Age? The development of the atomic bomb, the nuclear missile and such instruments of all-consuming destruction scarcely endorse these hopes.

On the other hand, negotiations for the international ban of atomic upheavals, shed a ray of optimism for world survival.

The very uncertainty of the future, however, is the more reason why we can humbly salute the memories of brave men who gave their lives for Peace. We pray that somehow, somewhere, their selfless and dauntless sacrifices may yet be justified. More ardently than ever, the civilized world longs for enduring peace.

Too much of a good thing

THERE'S ALWAYS a hazard in having too much of a good thing — says the Fort-Erie Letter Review, commenting on a case which caught wide attention in the press. . . This can be true of state welfarism just as of anything else, as shown in a recent press report from Britain. The incident reported, involves Donald Brooker of Tredeger, the father of 13 children, who finds that under Britain's welfare state it just doesn't pay him to go to work.

The way Mr. Brooker figures it, is that when he's employed he loses money. Total of welfare payments for his family and himself when he is unemployed comes to several pounds sterling a week more than he can earn while on a job. In fact, while idle he is better off financially than most highly skilled workers drawing steady pay. Mr. Brooker's large family makes his case a bit exceptional. The fact remains, however, that when the State hands out money to people under the "welfare" label, there is grave danger in store when those payments become a substitute for earned income and dis-incentive to seek employment. This is something that political leaders who talk about the supposed desirability of larger unemployment insurance payments and other cash benefits provided by the taxpayers themselves, would do well to bear in mind — says this commentary.

Change in the North

CANADA, often credited abroad with one of the world's best diplomatic corps, seems to be building up a comparable unit for its domestic outposts in the North.

Six northern service officers were appointed late in 1954 as an experiment. Their assignment was to combine the talents of diplomat, teacher and good neighbor to the Eskimo.

Now, the number of officers has been tripled and more appointments are expected as development gains pace in the Arctic and sub-Arctic.

The Eskimo nowadays often is a man too busy punching a time clock to paddle his kayak. He is in transition, turning innate talents into jobs as skilled miner, trucker, commercial artist or fisherman or radar line employee.

But he has his problems. The spectre of starvation, always present in the old days, still exists for some caribou-dependent peoples stranded by the decline in the migratory herds.

He may make a white man's wage but he still needs to retain his ability to shoot a seal. His housing standards need elevating. His wants are changing. Moreover, he must retain his independence, aware that he will be assisted but not held upright by the government.

This is the northern service officer's field.

As a result, strides are being made in helping the Eskimo acquire new, cheap, efficient housing forms, often utilizing local supplies of moss for insulation or sod for coverage. His slim resources are being exploited — eider down, the tasty Arctic char, clothing, and — perhaps most profitable — about $100,000 annually in carvings.

The ratio of applicants to available positions as northern service officers still runs about 50 to 1. Some take their wives and children to the rim of the high Arctic. Some are veterans. All are eager.

Each of these ambassadors to the North operates on the diplomatic maxim — that the fruits of persuasion are sweeter and more abundant than those of coercion, if indeed the latter course bears fruit at all.

Dirt removal — automatic

ONE OF THE more common causes of family friction around the average home is dirt — plain, ordinary dirt.

Kids get bawled out for coming home with their clothes dirty. Their fathers are scolded for tracking mud on clean floors and dropping ashes on the rugs.

Dirt, like sin, finds favor with very few people. The arguments it causes are usually drab and uninspired. In short, who needs it?

Now, however, there appears to be a glimmer of hope that victory may be coming. . . Henry Dreyfuss, a New York industrial designer, foresees the day when homes will be equipped with kitchens and baths that clean themselves; when closets will contain devices for cleaning and pressing clothes electronically.

He predicts the time will come when dirt and mud will be removed from feet and clothing by electronic gadgets in the entrance to a home.

There won't be any problem with dirty sheets and towels. They'll be made of soft cellulose that can be thrown away after use.

Dirty pots? They'll be made of foil which can be tossed in the garbage, if there still is such a thing as garbage.

His ideas for keeping the kitchen and bathroom clean are appealing. Merely press a button and a cleaning agent squirts on the floor, dissolves the dirt and quickly disappears down a concealed drain.

Dirty doorknobs will be merely a memory in this dream home. There won't be any. Doors, refrigerators and cupboards will be opened and closed by placing your hands close enough to activate a proximity switch.

It probably all sounds wonderful to the harassed housewife of today and although this workless wonder is probably a few years away, it at least gives cause for hope.

Now, if someone will come up with an automatic device for keeping junior's ears clean and his fingernails trimmed, mother's day should be just about complete. And for dad, how about a car that never needs washing?

Mr. Dreyfuss says that if homemakers are interested in seeing their dreams fulfilled they should give serious thoughts to their needs and then let industry know what they want.

Sounds simple enough. There's your cue, ladies.

Viewpoints and perspectives

MUCH DEPENDS ON CAR SALES. — How well Canadians like the new cars now coming off the assembly lines will have an important effect on the whole economy, points out The Financial Post.

There are some 42,000 people employed directly in the Canadian auto manufacture and assembly plants when they are running at peak capacity; an estimated 55,000 are employed in auto dealerships and another 22,000 are engaged in parts manufacture. Directly and indirectly about 185,000 earners in Canada are dependent on the car market for their paychecks.

Lest We Forget

When Canadians everywhere observed a moment of silence at 11 a.m. on November 11, it was a gesture in tribute to those Canadian servicemen who paid the supreme sacrifice in battle.

More than one million Commonwealth servicemen — 100,000 Canadian war dead — lie in 16,000 cemeteries in more than 100 countries. Marked by simple headstones or white crosses, the graves are reverently cared for by the people of the country in which they lie.

In tribute to Canada's fallen soldiers, the above photograph shows: Centre, a Canadian corporal standing in reverence beneath a figure of the Virgin Mary, miraculously remaining practically untouched amid the ruins of a church in Carpiquet, France. Top left, row on row of crosses in the Canadian cemetery at Dieppe, France. Top right, little Dutch girls, two of thousands who look after graves in the Canadian cemetery. Bottom left, two small Korean boys, while visiting the United Nations Military Cemetery near Pusan, Korea, pause beside a grave in the Canadian plot to salute those who gave their lives in the Korean conflict. Bottom right, rows of crosses in the Canadian cemetery at Holten, Holland.

KNOW YOUR Canada

Prepared by the Research Staff of Encyclopedia Canadiana

Does France still have North American Colonies adjoining Canada?

Yes. They are the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, about 15 miles south of the coast of Newfoundland. For more than three centuries they have served as a base for French fishing vessels.

The permanent population of the islands numbers some 4000. Many Canadians and Americans visit there for a taste of French living. During prohibition in the United States the Islands enjoyed a boom as a centre for rum smugglers. The principal settlement is the Town of St. Pierre.

The fisheries remain the basis of the economy. At St. Pierre the catch is now quick-frozen but on the Miquelon Islands the centuries-old method of salting down the fish persists. There are very few farms as the soil is poor. The farmers still employ primitive implements and women do their laundry by hand in the island streams.

Was there Class Distinction among the Indians?

Yes. Among tribes on the British Columbia Coast — for example, the Nootka of Vancouver Island, the first Indians on the Pacific coast to be visited by white men — there was a graded artistocracy of princes, nobles, commoners and slaves. (Down in Mexico and Peru there were divine kings who had the power of life and death over their subjects.) In northern Quebec, on the other hand, the idea of of a chief of any kind was completely unknown. Public opinion was the single controlling force.

Wht did our Native Peoples Think of the Northern Lights?

The great curtains of shimmering light that often play in the night sky during the Canadian winter gave rise to many myths among the Indians and Eskimo.

The Cree thought they were flames dancing from the campfires of the gods. Eskimos said they were spirits playing with a walrus skull. According to the Norse, the lights were reflections of sunlight flashing on the armour of the Valkyries as the maidens carried the dead to Valhalla.

Intensive investigations of the aurora borealis, as the lights are also called, have been carried on during the current International Geophysical Year. Today it is generally considered that the lights are caused by particles from the sun that become heavily charged with static electricity and release their energy in the outer atmosphere in the form of light.

All Aboard

with G. E. MORTIMORE

People are inclined to be sad and reflective when the leaves fade and blow away, and when the clock strikes midnight of the Old Year.

Turning-points, and the decay of seasons, remind us of the passing of time. They remind us of our own mortality.

It seems to me that two kinds of people are least bothered by the passing of a year: first, the people who never hope to accomplish anything, and are content to live day by day and minute by minute; and second, the people who feel they have used the time to some purpose.

But a great number of us fit into neither category. We say: "Another year gone, and I haven't raised enough money to help my father and mother . . . " or "I haven't moved into a bigger store," or "I didn't put in any time swimming and relaxing in the sun."

So we feel nostalgic when the leaves turn, and wish we had the year back.

On the other hand, some people take comfort from knowing that in the season just gone by they have done some of the things they had hoped to do.

A painter may say: "I have completed one picture which does not seem too bad, and I think I have learned to see and feel some new things, this last year."

A dedicated loafer and playboy may console himself in such words as these: "Well, I've packed the year with a great deal of solid sleep and enjoyment, and I've managed to avoid tedious people nearly all the time."

Some men and women are content because they have done everything their strength allowed them to do. Others are forever dissatisfied with what they have gained, and hope to make up the deficiency in the next year.

Cecil Rhodes, at the end of his life, complained that so little had been done, and that so much remained to do. I suppose he had made the same remark to himself at frequent intervals, especially when he became aware of the hours and years flying over his head.

Men who are possessed by great visions of building empires and helping humanity, or by small but intense visions of personal gain, are often unhappy at the passing of time.

Their hopes may be out of reach, or not worth reaching. Discontent drives them on. But they probably go faster if they can stop briefly and recharge their batteries with a little success.

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

Give us more!

For once I find myself praising the CBC. . .

Recently, in Winnipeg, the CBC television station interrupted its regular schedule of national programs to put on a local effort in aid of the community chest campaign. With one exception, the talent was local.

Perhaps there were a few flaws. I thought that there was too much use of the "Ladies and Gentlemen" salutation. However, as a show, it was a hit. It wasn't over-produced. It had spontaneity. The comic, a Winnipeg man, was far above average. One of the singers, Red Alix, disc jockey on a local private station, CJOB, was a knockout. Everyone seemed at ease, there was none of the phony sophistication we've been getting in so many of the Toronto shows. (Although I must say that even Toronto has reformed in that regard, particularly on the program "Showtime" which is now thoroughly professional.) I suspect that it cost very little to put on this Winnipeg effort, yet it was really worthwhile.

Why not more of the same?

In the old days, when CBC began, we were led to believe that they would make a genuine effort to make use of talent right across the country. Shows originated from Regina, Winnipeg, Prince Albert — every little city in the nation, both from private stations and CBC-owned stations. Today, however, I doubt if more than 5% of the entire Canadian schedule originates outside of Montreal and Toronto. Did we built the costly microwave system to bring Toronto to the rest of Canada? What's the matter with Regina, London, Red Deer, Lethbridge, Moncton, Saint John, Barrie, Edmonton? I know there is a great deal of talent in Edmonton, for example. Surely one show a month!

Perhaps this Winnipeg effort indicates some new thinking at CBC headquarters, and a return to the days when their talent scouts held regular auditioning sessions across the country. Let us hope so.

It has often seemed to us, judging from the accents, that radio and television talent from London, England, is more likely to get a CBC break than is talent from London, Ontario, let alone Moose Jaw, Red Deer, or Trail.

It seems to us that CBC could save a great deal of the taxpayers' money and give us a good deal more refreshing entertainment by originating more programs from outside Toronto.

Ad. Assad dies at Buckingham

Adélard Assad — father of John Assad who operated a store on Main Street for some years (succeeding his uncle, the late A. Assad) — died last Friday at Buckingham, where he had been in the clothing and drygoods business for 55 years.

Mr. Assad, 71 years of age, came to Canada from his native country, Libya, at the age of 16. In Buckingham, where he settled after immigrating here, he took part in various community organizations over the years.

He is survived by his wife, seven sons, one daughter, and a brother William at Buckingham. The funeral was held Monday from the Anglican Church, rites being celebrated by a priest of the Greek Orthodox faith.

Mothers reappear at Council to protest B'burg speeding

Brownsburg — Once again a group of mothers from Maple Avenue South appeared before the Council in the interests of traffic safety. As they had done at the October meeting, the ladies criticized the lack of respect for the speed laws shown by some motorists on Maple Avenue. They stated that they appreciated the appearances of Chief Gagnon in the area, but they believed that speeding had not yet been materially reduced on Maple Avenue.

It was once again suggested that inadequate indication of the maximum speed permissible in the vicinity, might be partially responsible. It was also suggested, however, that lack of speed-limit signs did not provide justification for exceeding 30 m.p.h., which is the standard maximum in most communities. Council finally agreed to the installation of more signs, after showing some unexplained reticence.

A full-scale review of the need for sidewalks on Maple Avenue prolonged the discussion on safety. A meeting of the property owners from this area was scheduled for Monday, November 10, in order to discuss the possibilities of providing this improvement.

Police Chief Richard Gagnon stated that 11 speeders had been fined and one ticket issued for a parking infraction during the month. With extra police on duty on October 31, Hallowe'en this year was uneventful.

Fire Chief Arthur Robbins reported that the men in his department had responded to three alarms. Two of these were major fires outside Brownsburg, while the third was of a minor nature in town. Chief Robbins asked that Council give consideration to the purchase of a 250-gallon per-minute portable water pump for use at out-of-town fires. A unit of this type would have been very useful during the outbreak at the Frigault home on the St. Philippe highway.

Council approved payment of monthly vouchers amounting to $1,874.48 and then proceeded to the debate on the revised business tax. The greatest changes are those affecting businesses operated by individuals who do not reside in Brownsburg.

Speaking on behalf of a number of citizens who had approached him, Councillor Roger Raymond asked that the town revert to the use of the old street-names. After some discussion it was decided that the confusion experienced by some people would soon disappear. At least, with the present system, visitors may locate streets without reference to a map.

It was made known at this meeting that some Brownsburg residents had expressed an ignorance of the proper number to phone to report a fire. The number is 4242. It is recommended that all members of the family, including children, memorize this, for instant use should it be required.

Help us keep up-to-date

Quite often we are asked to publish news items which have almost reached the ancient history stage. A week or so ago we received a letter from a subscriber asking us to publish a wedding which took place in August. We don't like to refuse anybody.

However, there is a limit, and a wedding or any item nearly two months old is asking just a little too much. Like any good newspaper we like news when it is news. Through the years we have made every effort to maintain this idea, and it has paid off. Each week the staff at this office is kept busy in publishing a newspaper that we feel includes news items which are as up-to-the-minute as possible.

We are anxious to publish as many news items as space permits to satisfy as many people as we can. If you have something you wish to have in the paper, send it in — but not a month after it happens.

Radio dramatization of Bible portions

Bible reading has always been the basis of certain radio programs. The Bible is, after all, the book which has been more often read aloud than any other book. In fact, most of the classic translations seem to have been written largely for reading aloud, and even some of the modern translations.

Some years ago, the BBC, decided to dramatize the Book of Jonah and it was discovered that — with the alteration of only a very few words — the entire book could be used. By using different voices, the suitable interjection of music and by the unusual device of having the words of God sung by bass voice, the whole book was brought alive — without any need for a commentator.

UNICEF shell-out well supported

Lachute, Nov. 10, 1958

The Editor,
Lachute Watchman

Dear Sir:

In the recent "Shell-out for UNICEF" project, we raised $295.

On behalf of the Lachute Women's Institute I would like to express my appreciation for all the help and encouragement I received towards making this effort a success. In particular to you, Mr. Editor, for your wide publicity at strategic moments, and to Lowe Bros. Dairy Ltd. and the Dairy Queen, for their donations of containers; to the kindly householders of Lachute, for the generous way in which they "shelled out"; to the youth organizations who gave their time and efforts so willingly; and lastly, to the little "spooks" and "goblins" who shared their happy Hallowe'en Night with children less fortunate than themselves. Thank-you, children, for a job well done.

Sincerely,
— Geraldine Butterfield

Red Cross had instructive visit to provincial H.Q.

The regular monthly meeting of the Lachute Red Cross was held last Wednesday with the president, Mrs. J. E. Leonard, in the chair.

Mrs. J. Rod Carreau moved a vote of appreciation to Mrs. Howard Watson for arranging an interesting trip to Red Cross Headquarters in Montreal; also to Mrs. W. Fitz-Gerald and Mrs. Leonard Bedard, for providing the transportation. . .

Twelve ladies visited Provincial Headquarters, in the last week of October; they enjoyed a tour through the building and luncheon in the cafeteria.

Mme Gerald Bourdrias, chairman of Volunteer Services for the Red Cross Quebec Branch, arranged this tour. Of particular interest to the local Work Committee, headed by Mrs. Fraser Morrison, was the Provincial workroom, with shelves stocked with hundreds of articles ready to be shipped out to volunteer workers. The streamlined method of cutting out the patterns proved most interesting. Volunteer cutters come in to Headquarters once a week and with power cutters make an efficient job of cutting the piles of materials into wearable articles for disaster areas. Nothing is wasted; large cardboard boxes catch the scraps, which are made up into patchwork quilts. Shipments of beautifully-knit baby garments, and blankets and shirts, were ready to assemble into layettes.

The Blood Donor section, too, is a busy place, with constant coming and going of volunteer donors to provide the vitally-needed blood donations for the 110 hospitals which belong to the free blood transfusion service. (This was a reminder that the Lachute blood donor campaign will be held November 26-27.)

Mrs. Fraser Morrison reports she has received a large shipment of work-wool for baby knitting, children's sweaters and men's socks. Workers and knitters are urgently needed, and the work may be taken out and finished at home. Those who would like to visit the Red Cross work rooms on Wednesday afternoons could spend a pleasant hour around the quilting frames.

Card party held by Lakefield W.I.

A successful whist party under auspices of Lakefield Women's Institute was held Wednesday evening of last week in the Legion Hall, Lachute. Cards were played at 23 tables, with Mr. Thos. Iddon as master of ceremonies.

First prize was won by Miss E. Kingsbury (captain), Mrs. E. Strong, Miss J. Davis, and Mrs. A. Morrison.

Second prize — Mr. Stanley Dewar (captain), Mr. S. Dewar, Miss Gertrude Moncrieff and Mr. Irving Conway.

The novelty prize was won by Mrs. W. Canning, and numerous door prizes went to lucky players.

The Lakefield members wish to thank the ladies of the Legion for the use of card tables; they also thank all donors of door prizes.

Former pastors, district official, at Pentecostal Church

Sunday, November 3, marked a milestone in the history of the Brownsburg Pentecostal Assembly. A mortgage-burning ceremony took place in the church, indicating the payment of debt on the present property and building.

On this auspicious occasion the congregation were privileged to have as guest speaker their district official, the Rev. Robt. Argue. The latter spoke from the text, "Owe no man anything, but to love one another." He said that a borrower is not debtor until he fails to meet the terms of the lender. In so stating, he commended the people for meeting their payments. He further stated that we are debtors to our community, referring to the apostle Paul's statement (Rom. 1: 14), "I am debtor to the Greeks and to the Barbarians; both to the wise and the unwise."

Also welcomed as guests on this occasion were two of the previous pastors, the Rev. Richard Unger, of Montreal, and the Rev. Earl McNutt, of Peterborough. Their contribution in the regular services of the day was much appreciated.

Money was raised to complete the building project amounting to $280 in cash plus $1,200 in pledges payable in the next six months. This was given by a capacity crowd which was in attendance.

In conjunction with the week-end services, an excellent zone rally was held in the Legion Hall Monday night. The Rev. Gerald Morgan dealt with a great theme spoken of by Jesus, namely, the New Birth. The music of both the Rev. Morgan and the Italian quartet warmed the hearts of the fine crowd in attendance.

Legion Auxiliary regular meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Legion Branch 70, was held last week.

Mrs. M. Lavis opened the proceedings, and after a brief business session and discussion, mainly concerning plans for the Armistice dinner, the chair was turned over to Mrs. G. Tabrett for the nomination of new officers, committee heads and committees for the coming year. The installation will take place in January.

The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served by Mrs. Sam Bradshaw and Mrs. Wm. Bradshaw.

WOMEN'S INTERESTS

Many issues, at home and abroad, interest the modern woman.

Ontario's Business and Professional Women's Clubs in their recent convention at Sarnia passed resolutions on wages, penal reform, air pollution and juvenile welfare.

The 300 delegates representing 66 clubs were urged to see that employers observe the Female Employees' Fair Remuneration Act.

The association also recommended that special prisons be provided for women, and that the age limit for juveniles in Ontario court cases be under 18, instead of under 16 years.

It also recommended that the provincial government be asked to increase the scope of laws against air pollution, and decided to support fluoridation of water supplies in Ontario municipalities.

Appreciation to Salvation Army campaign donors

Those who have generously contributed to the Salvation Army appeal are assured their receipts will be mailed to them for Income Tax purposes. These will be addressed direct from headquarters — any delay being due to the fact that the local committee have been waiting to remit the full amount accruing from the canvass.

According to Mr. Geo. Y. Deacon (from whose office this appeal is conducted every year), the results have been satisfying, the total collection amounting to over $800 or about the same as last year. Mr. Donald M. Hay, of the Bank of Montreal, is treasurer for the local appeal.

Current books provide theme at Lachute W. Inst.

Lachute Branch of Women's Institutes held their monthly meeting in the Legion Hall, with Mrs. J. A. Gordon presiding.

Mrs. F. W. FitzGerald reported briefly on the semi-annual convention, drawing attention to the handicraft exhibit for the next Fair — for which a list of articles will be published later.

Mrs. W. E. Butterfield, who was responsible for organizing the UNICEF Hallowe'en collection, reported that approximately $290 had been realized. A vote of thanks was expressed to Mrs. Butterfield for her successful efforts. Appreciation was also extended to Lowe Brothers Dairy Ltd., and the Dairy Queen, who provided the collection containers. To all the children who took up this collection the W.I. and committee wish to say "Thank You".

The chairman of the Library Committee, Mrs. R. Fraser, introduced Mrs. Sam Milnes and Mrs. A. Taylor, who reviewed four books — "Portrait of Peter West", by Suzanne Butler; "Ten Years After", by Herbert Steinhouse; "A Man Had Tall Sons", by Martha Ostenso; and "The Greengage Summer", by Rumer Godden. All these books were highly recommended for interesting reading.

Mrs. F. A. Brennian thanked Mrs. Fraser, Mrs. Milnes and Mrs. Taylor for their work in connection with the Library, which is open to the public on Thursday afternoons in the High School.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

In appreciation, and to express sincere thanks to kind friends, neighbors, and relatives, for their best wishes for a speedy recovery after my recent operation.

Toronto Baptist Seminary students to visit Brownsburg church

A group of prospective missionaries and pastors, taking their theological training at Toronto Baptist Seminary, will be visiting the Brownsburg Regular Baptist Church this week-end to conduct special services.

Some of these young folk have already seen service in New Zealand, Australia, England, Jamaica, the Island of Martinique, and Canada. A few will be relating their experiences, and one will be showing colored pictures of Jamaica, where he has done missionary work the past two summers. The editor of the students' paper, "The Seminarian", will be one of the visiting speakers. His home is in England. He believes his calling is to some French-speaking field. Christian work on a distant French Island, and in Quebec, has confirmed this conviction. Another student seems to have a talent for work among children. He comes from the "land down under". He has held special evangelistic services for the boys and girls at some of the well known vacation beaches and summer camps in his home country, in the U.S.A. and Canada.

All of the devoted young visitors will be taking part in the various services: It is felt that much profit and inspiration will be gained by those who attend. All are invited to be present. There will be special music at each gathering. The offerings at the Saturday and Sunday evening meetings will benefit the young visitors in their work.

Gatineau Power supplies electricity to world-famous vacation areas, so naturally the demand for electricity is exceptionally high both in summer and winter.

When fall and winter visitors make normal, planned-for use of electricity, there is no problem. Sometimes, however, heavy electrical equipment is brought to cottages and semi-permanent winter homes, without advice to the power company.

In their own interests, customers should advise the company when about to install such items as a stove or a water heater.

Such advice enables the company to take steps to avoid the annoyance of low voltage, by checking the size of the transformer serving the premises and those of neighbors.

As well, it is important to make sure that the wiring will carry the electricity to the new appliances efficiently — that it is adequate to handle any new demands to be placed upon it.

Sewer-laying in Ayerville to require $40,000 financing

With a view to easing seasonal unemployment, and hoping to benefit from financial aids, Ayersville Council probed the possibilities of installing a collector sewer on Bradford Avenue this winter, at a cost of approximately $40,000.

Paul Laliberté, consultant engineer, was on hand at the regular Council session to submit plans and estimates, to give his opinion on a contract job as compared to day labor, and to discuss the pros and cons of construction in winter or in the open season.

Mr. Laliberté and Councillor Maurice Dumas, explained that the Federal Government had "declared itself in favor" of financial aid to the extent of 50 percent on public works undertaken between December and April. To take advantage of this offer would save considerable expense to the municipality.

Mayor Maurice Champagne, exercising prudence on this matter, thought it would be a doubtful venture to seek government assistance, and quoted a press clipping to illustrate; in order for municipalities to benefit, it said, it would first be necessary to effect an agreement between Ottawa and the provinces. The Mayor then cited a statement by Premier Duplessis to the effect that the federal government offer had not yet been studied by his cabinet. "Since the offer is good only from December to April next, it might turn out that we had undertaken these public works with no agreement signed between the two governments." He suggested that the municipality should proceed with the sewer job on its own, and later, accept any offer made available by the governments. . . This was also the opinion of Councillors Dumas and Quenneville.

The sewer would cost around $39,000, requiring a $40,000 loan to finance this undertaking.

It was accordingly decided to submit the engineer's plans to the Department of Health for approval. The project will be prescribed by By-law 30 on the Ayersville statutes.

For Parents Only...

Convalescing Child

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"The best part of being sick is that Mummy took time to read aloud to me . . . stories and poems. I liked A Child's Garden of Verses because that was a little boy in it who had to stay in bed for a while too," Tommy told his chum when he got well again.

Robert Louis Stevenson writes of "the pleasant land of Counterpane" and it is a mother who makes the difference between convalescence being a happy or a boring time. It is hard for her. Extra demands are made on her time, energy and patience. But a parent and child are often drawn closer to each other during sickness.

A sick child needs more attention than a healthy one, but parents must not allow him to become a small dictator. If he is an only child, or if his illness has been serious and they have been very anxious about him, this can easily happen. Nor should the parent, in his zeal to get the child better, assume the dictator's role.

In the first place it is well for a mother to realize that her own attitude is of tremendous importance. A mother just has to keep her courage up and look on the bright side at a time of family upheaval. Junior is sick but he will get better. His recovery will be a lot more pleasant and quicker, too, if he does not suspect that mother is worrying about him.

Fatigue, with the extra work of a patient in the house, is sometimes so great that a mother finds it very hard not to be irritable, and depressed. For that reason, she should cut out any non-essentials in her day, and plan to get in a little more rest.

The doctor's orders should be followed implicitly. A mother should make sure she understands clearly his instructions and then follow them to the letter. Friends and neighbors — and relatives, too — may think they have much wiser ways of treating this particular illness. A parent may have to listen politely to their ideas, but hold fast to the resolution that the doctor is the person who is in full command of a child's recovery.

Map out your child's day so that there is a routine which is followed with time to wash, breakfast, tidying up the patient's room, free time for Junior to amuse himself, a fruit drink, more free time, dinner with a rest after his meal and definite things to do during the remainder of the day. If Junior can write, he may enjoy working out with Mother his own schedule, and tacking his own copy up on the wall. A day broken into different hours of purposeful activity does not seem to stretch out endlessly.

A patient, even a young one, should learn to spend part of his time happily by himself. A mother must be careful that her child's eyes are not strained by reading or handiwork during a convalescent stretch, or T.V. if the family owns a set. Listening to the radio, singing favorite songs, making up and telling a story are all activities which are "easy on the eyes."

Children love handicraft and a small patient needs crayons if he likes to color, blunt scissors for cutting out pictures or designs, and other play material. Simple weaving, sewing or knitting are other possible occupations. If there is a portable phonograph in the house, a child can have many hours playing it himself. A big calendar on the wall, with each day stroked off at night time, makes a child feel that his time for being in bed is passing.

If you have a sick child on-the-way-to-good-health again in your home, try to give him happy memories of this time!

To Reheat Rolls

Here's an easy way to reheat rolls. Moisten them by passing them quickly through running cold water. Place in a brown bag, close the end tightly and bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) about 15 to 18 minutes.

Sitting pretty!

PUP AND BOOTS were both kept in mind for the designer of this tray-mat of heavy ribbed polythene. For the pup, it is suggested as an ideal spot for his feeding dish since the plate cannot be nudged off the mat. For winter footwear, the raised edge catches the drips preventing marks on floors and carpets. The tray has many other uses such as holding baby accessories or flower pots. The plastic mat can be easily washed with soap and water and folded out of sight when not in use.

Apple desserts old favorites

(Consumer Section)

When it comes to winter desserts, there's nothing better than some of the old favorites made with apples. One of these, Apple Betty, was made from alternate layers of apples and bread crumbs with butter, sugar and spices to add good flavor and sweetness.

Here's a modern adaptation of Apple Betty that has all the crumbs on top. When the recipe was tested recently in Canada's Kitchen, all members of the taste panel preferred it to the old type of Apple Betty because they found it had a much better texture and flavor.

Apple Crumb Bake
(6 servings)

Peel, core and slice about 9 medium apples to make 6 cups of slices. Mix together ¼ teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg and ¾ cup brown sugar, sprinkle over apples and tumble together to distribute sugar evenly. Turn into lightly greased 8-cup casserole. Carefully pour in ¼ cup water at side of casserole.

Topping: Melt ¼ cup butter and combine with 2 cups soft (but dry) bread crumbs and ¼ cup brown sugar. Spread over apples.

Cover and bake in a moderately hot oven (375°F.) for 30 minutes, then remove cover and continue baking until apples are tender and crumbs lightly browned, 10 to 15 minutes longer. Serve warm, with or without cream.

Apple Tarts

Next time you make a pie, save a little of the pastry and try this easy recipe for apple tarts. They'll be so popular that the second time you make them you'll have to double the recipe!

Line 6 large muffin tins with pastry.

3 Tablespoons butter, ¼ cup brown sugar, ¼ teaspoon each of cinnamon and salt, 2 tablespoons raisins or chopped nuts, if desired.

Place one apple in each pastry-lined muffin tin. Brush apples with melted butter. Bake in a hot oven (425°F.) until apple is tender and pastry is done, 20 to 25 minutes.

(For 12 small tarts, cut apples in half crosswise and use shallow tart tins instead of muffin tins.)

Cinnamon toast for sandwiches and dessert

Brisk fall weather brings with it stepped-up appetites, and stepped-up appetites are always a challenge to the cook. Here's something to add interest to breakfast at this time of the year when menu changes are quite in order. Cinnamon Toast Sandwiches browned in a waffle iron or toasted on a hot grill and served with marmalade are an easy way to spark morning appetites. Cinnamon Toast Sandwiches topped with a tasty Hot Fruit Sauce are also a quick-to-make dessert suggestion.

Cinnamon Toast Sandwiches
Waffled or Grilled
Yield — 4 large sandwiches

3 Tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon, 3 tablespoons brown sugar, 8 slices white bread.

Cream butter or margarine until soft; blend in cinnamon and brown sugar. Remove crusts from bread slices. Spread cinnamon mixture on one side of each piece of bread; put slices together, spread sides in, to form 4 sandwiches. Spread outer surfaces lightly with a little soft butter or margarine and brown in a heated waffle iron or toast on a hot grill, turning once. Serve hot with marmalade or the following Hot Fruit Sauce.

Hot Fruit Sauce

1 Can (10 ounces) fruit cocktail, water, ¼ cup granulated sugar, 1 tablespoon corn starch, few grains salt, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Drain juice from fruit into a measuring cup. Add sufficient water to bring measure up to 1 cup liquid. Turn into a small saucepan and heat to boiling point. Combine granulated sugar, corn starch and salt. Stir in hot liquid; return to saucepan and cook, stirring constantly, until the sauce thickens and comes to the boil. Cover and cook 5 minutes longer, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in the butter or margarine, lemon juice and the drained fruit cocktail. Heat. Serve over Cinnamon Toast Sandwiches.

Fashions

The higher waistline is neatly suggested in this fall and winter suit. Seaming does the trick, seaming that crosses the vertical seaming of this otherwise loose-hanging, hip-length jacket. The skirt hangs from a guimpe top. The fabric is muted brown woollen with bone buttons to match, for a double-breasted effect.

Use Bread Box

Food experts say the best place to store bread is in a well-ventilated bread box at room temperature. It will then stay fresh for several days. Bread stored in a refrigerator is less subject to mold, but becomes dry and stale much more rapidly.

Written Specially for The Lachute Watchman

By Edna Usher

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Winter with its snow and slush, salt, ashes and sand, is the hardest time of year for rugs and carpets.

The normal hazards of mud and dirt are multiplied and the moisture from melting snow and ice can cause irreparable damage if it penetrates to the backing.

The remedy is to blot up moisture as soon as possible, and then to leave weighted-down cloths or paper tissues over the spot until evaporation is completed.

Salt and ashes may affect the dye in rugs. So experts advocate using scatter rugs at all entrances during the winter, going over the surrounding areas with a vacuum cleaner frequently, and a professional cleaning for the floor covering when winter ends.

Here are a few more tips about cleaning rugs:

Clean daily with a carpet sweeper; vacuum carefully once a week; have it cleaned professionally once a year; and don't use soap to clean it.

Two formulas are suggested for cleaning rugs: a teaspoon of neutral soapless detergent mixed with a half-pint of lukewarm water; or a teaspoon of white vinegar mixed with three teaspoons of lukewarm water.

The remedies should be applied to the stain with an eye dropper and sponged from the outer edge toward the centre with white unstarched cloths and then blotted. Formula No. 2 should remain on the stain about 15 minutes before blotting.

The secret of successful home remedies is to avoid excessive use. Using either formula to an extent which soaks the back of the rug may result in browning stains, while too much dry cleaning fluid may deteriorate the latex backing used in many rugs.

Treatments for specific stains are: alcohol, coffee, tea, soft drinks: sponge with lukewarm water and then use formula 1.

Butter and other fats: apply dry-cleaning fluid with an eyedropper and sponge with white, unstarched cloths.

Removal of ink stains is a highly skilled business. As most ink dries rapidly, blot up as much as possible with dry paper towels or tissues.

Then try a dry cleaning fluid, not carbon tetrachloride which could be dangerous, saturating a small spot and then blotting it. If this does not work, try a wet solvent — a tablespoon of neutral synthetic detergent to a pint of warm water. Apply a few drops at a time and then blot. If necessary, add two tablespoons of household ammonia and carry on the good work.

Sometimes, ink spots will dissolve in a mixture of half a cup of white vinegar and half a cup of water.

It all happened before

By Lewis Milligan

The Peking People's Daily has predicted that "within six years all China's 600 million people will be working for the State." This is to be accomplished by transforming the present 750,000 agricultural co-operatives into communes. The merger will bring all agriculture and industry under Communist Party control. The 600 million civil servants will have mess-halls, nurseries and tailoring centres, thus releasing women from domestic cares to work on the land and in the numerous small industries. Some communes are said to be already supplying free food, clothing, housing, education, theatres and cinema seats, and even free hair-cuts.

This last item alone should appeal to Chinamen if the barbers in that country have, like some of ours, boosted the price to $1.25 a cut. It is interesting to recall that under a remote Chinese dynasty the barbers were put out of business by the introduction of the pig-tail. The purpose of that hirsute appendage was said to be to enable the police to arrest two rebels at one grab and lead them off tied together to decapitation. But now they are to be cropped beforehand, and we may be sure that the free cuts will not include Presley hair-dos.

This is not the first time that China has changed its form of government. Following the "classical age" of Confucius the country was politically in a state of chaos, which was ended by the Chin victory. This dynasty (256-207 B.C.) abolished feudalism and united China. But the empire lapsed in feudal warfare until the coming of the Han dynasty (206 B.C. - 214 A.D.). Centralization of government was enforced, and civil service examinations developed. The boundaries of the empire were enlarged by gaining control of Southern Manchuria, Inner Mongolia, and Northern Korea. This Han dynasty, which was one of the greatest in Chinese history, created an extensive civil service; but it grew weak and corrupt and was followed by four centuries of civil war, foreign invasions and disunion.

Since that time China has undergone many political and cultural changes, including the prosperous reign of Kublai Khan, and each of them was followed by the inevitable civil war and chaos. The present regime is a modern, mechanical version of the others. Its object is to level up and down all classes and factions by the creation of a universal civil service. That might have some chance of success in a smaller country; but in a vast territory with 600 million varying human types and temperaments, the castiron rigidity of communism will inevitably lead to yet another civil war and chaos.

The communist system has been likened to that of an ant-hill, and there is some similarity between them. But, unlike the ants, men are wilful and unamenable to rigid social discipline, except in time of war or national crisis. That is why Stalin and his successors have kept the Russian people in a virtual state of war and have created periodic crises in the Middle East. Communist China is following suit. The occupation of Quemoy by the "enemy" is a valuable asset in keeping the people of Red China in a state of regimentation. The Kremlin and Peking are alternately playing this hit-and-run game to keep the western world in a state of fear and their own people in subjection. It has all happened before many times in China. The Mao Dynasty is just a repetition.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Are you a Jekyll and Hyde when it comes to motoring manners? So many drivers are perfect ladies and gentlemen until they get behind the wheel. Then they forget their manners. Courtesy — and safety — go out the window.

Here are some tips on motoring manners:

1. Keep to the right, except to pass. Don't hog the left lane if the driver behind you wants to pass.
2. Always signal for turns, slow downs, sudden stops.
3. Use your horn for emergencies only.
4. Don't stay too close to the car ahead. Even if you pride yourself on quick reflexes, this is a dangerous practice; you're discourteous to your passengers, too, by making them nervous. Stay at least one car length back for each ten miles per hour of speed.
5. Always dim headlights when an oncoming car appears.
6. Slow down BEFORE taking a curve or rounding a corner. Fast turns are dangerous, and they make passengers uncomfortable.

Remember that the Golden Rule applies to driving, too. Practice it, and you'll be a more courteous — and safer — driver.

If You're TIRED ALL THE TIME

Now and then everybody gets a "tired-out" feeling, and may be bothered by backaches. Perhaps nothing seriously wrong, just a temporary condition caused by urinary irritation or bladder discomfort. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help stimulate the kidneys to relieve this condition which may often cause backache and tired feeling. Then you feel better, rest better, work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills now. Look for the blue box with the red band at all drug counters. You can depend on Dodd's. 60

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you:

Q. I have recently secured employment as a life insurance agent working on a purely commission basis. I am out all day and several evenings each week making contacts and interviewing prospective clients. Can I collect unemployment insurance until I make my first sale?

A. As you are devoting full time to this occupation you are not considered unemployed. The fact that you receive no income is immaterial.

* * *

Q. Due to a shortage of material I am working only two days a week. Can I claim unemployment insurance for the days I am not working?

A. Yes. All of your earnings from whatever source must be declared each week as these might affect the amount of benefit to which you would be entitled.

Q. If unemployment insurance is comparable to fire insurance and thus only insures a person against "the risk" of losing his employment, why is it compulsory?

A. Unemployment insurance, like most forms of social insurance, is based on the principle of pooling the risks — that is, insuring all individuals in the insured types of employment without regard to whether one individual is more likely or less likely than another to become a claimant. In this way the fund receives contributions from many who are "good risks" and it is possible to pay reasonably substantial benefits and yet keep the rate of contributions low.

Mr. Talbot's subject was Art, a subject in which he made his listeners feel the benefit of looking for beauty in common things, because of the effect this looking for beauty would have in our own daily living. An educational contest was held at the close of the meeting, with Mrs. Ray Holmes winning first prize, and Mrs. A. Heatlie and Mrs. John Black coming second and third.

Next meeting will be held Tuesday evening, December 2, at the home of Mrs. Coney, with the usual exchange of inexpensive gifts.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Silages From Different Crops

Corn belt farmers usually find that corn silage surpasses any other kind of silage. Cattle do better on it. This is due mainly to the high feeding value of the corn ears. Also, the high sugar content throughout the corn plant makes for excellent fermentation and preservation, so that corn silage is both palatable and nutritious.

Dr. Bohstedt

Sorghum silage or cane silage comes near being as good as corn silage, and in the sorghum belt may be fully as good. A lot depends on the location, primarily weather and soil conditions. One reason why, on the average, sorghum silage is less valuable than corn silage is that the grain of sorghum is less likely to be chewed and digested. Furthermore, the undigested sorghum kernels are less likely to be salvaged by pigs following cattle in the feed lot.

The assumption is that both feed crops are ensiled at the proper stage of growth: corn when it is in denting; and the sorghum when the seeds are in the late dough or nearly ripe stage.

Either corn or sorghum is "a natural" when used for silage. Both are low in protein but high in carbohydrates and especially in fermentable sugars. In these respects they differ from grass or legume silage.

More and more "grass silage" is being put up. Some of this silage is made up of strictly grass, but more often it is a mixture of grass and legume, sometimes even strictly legume.

Where the animals have been raised on such grass silage, they seem to like it just as well as they do corn or cane silage. This may be explained on the basis of "mother's cooking" tasting so good. In corn belt states corn silage generally has more ready acceptance by livestock.

Small grain crops, particularly oats, when not yet ripe are also ensiled and in that way furnish more digestible nutrients per acre than when harvested for grain.

Most grass silage and cereal silage throughout the country is put up "as is," that is without the addition of molasses or other preservative or improver. These two kinds of silage are more apt to need such preservatives, though corn and cane do not. Wilting a freshly cut, succulent hay crop for a few hours before ensiling is recommended, and where properly regulated, results in better silage than if not wilted.

The big advantage of corn and cane silage is high energy, or good fattening property. The big advantage of grass-and-legume silage is high protein and carotene content. The efficient farmer will take care that any grain supplement to either silage offers protein content adjusted to gain the full value from that particular silage.

Question: I heard about salt being used as fertilizer and I tried it on my barley. The straw was at least 6 inches taller and much brighter and the heads were longer. Will salt help any other crops?

Answer: Up to a certain extent salt as a fertilizer can take the place of potash, more so with some crops than with others. Some of the cereals, cotton and truck crops, especially celery, have shown a definitely favorable response to the use of salt as a fertilizer. Some of the most outstanding work in this respect has been done by the Soils Department of the University of Wisconsin and Mississippi State College.

Questions from readers will be answered in the column or by direct reply. Please send your questions to Dr. Bohstedt c/o Salt Institute, 33 North La Salle St., Chicago 2, Ill.

Septoria in oats, serious disease

Pathologists of the Department of Agriculture are giving Septoria disease top priority in their oat breeding program. To date, none of the several hundred varieties tested under field and greenhouse conditions in eastern Canada show satisfactory resistance to this disease.

Septoria disease in oats is widespread over the whole of eastern Canada and is particularly severe in the Atlantic Provinces. According to F. J. Zillinsky of the Central Experimental Farm, it is one of the most serious diseases of oats.

Starting as purplish grey spots on the young oat leaves in June, the disease develops rapidly. It produces irregular greyish or brownish grey blotches on the leaves and leaf sheaths, thus interfering with the food producing functions of the leaves.

As the oat plant matures, Septoria spreads to the stem, causing straw weakness, and increases the tendency of the crop to lodge. Under severe conditions the glumes and seeds are also affected, showing up as grey or black spots.

Spores which cause the infection are produced on old oat stubble and straw debris and are carried by the wind to growing plants.

Seed treatment and chemical sprays are either ineffective or not commercially practical as a disease control measure.

Grit for poultry, aids digestion

It is generally agreed that poultry should be fed grit for efficient digestion of food.

But what is grit?

The word is often used loosely to apply to both the insoluble and the soluble grits.

There is a difference.

Insoluble grit includes silica, sand, quartz and granite — fed because of the apparent need of the birds for some hard material to grind the feed in the gizzard.

Soluble grit takes in calcium-bearing materials such as calcitic limestone and oyster shells — fed primarily for their high calcium content.

R. E. Smith, poultry nutritionist at the Experimental Farm, Nappan, N.S., concluded from tests that soluble limestone grit is just as effective as insoluble quartz grit as a grinding agent.

Nor is there a difference in their effect upon egg production or egg quality, provided the birds are given enough calcium to supply their bone and egg shell requirements.

He did find, though, that soluble grits were not retained in the gizzard as long as the insolubles. Thus a greater amount of soluble grits would be needed.

Soluble or insoluble? Take your pick.

Seed treatment to combat disease organisms in soil

As long as disease organisms continue to abound in soil (and that seems likely to be for a long time yet), we might as well accept it and try to do something about it, says L. A. Miller, Department of Agriculture Entomology Lab at Chatham, Ont., writing in "Farming Today".

"The answer," said Mr. Miller, "is seed dressings."

"It is difficult to say exactly why seed treatments are so effective," he said, "sometimes as much as tripling yields. How can such as incredibly small amount of chemical give such powerful protection even to individual seeds?

"Although we know that seed dressings do work," said Mr. Miller, "we are a long way from understanding how they work. A simple explanation that the insecticide controls the insect and the fungicide controls the disease, does not satisfy the curious mind.

"The type of study that is conducted relative to this problem is afforded by the following example. In a recent series of experiments, it was shown that the vapors from a mere speck of mercury on the seed spread evenly over, and literally became anchored to the seed coat. It was further calculated that the weight of this protective film was only one-millionth of a gram and that it contained 2,000,000,000,000 disease-destroying mercury molecules.

"In southwestern Ontario," continued Mr. Miller, "onion seed is treated with half an ounce of insecticide per pound of seed for maggot control, and the seed is planted as early in April as soil and weather conditions permit. There are approximately 150,000 onion seeds in a pound. An even coverage of the insecticide would give 1/300,000 of an ounce per seed. This minute quantity gives adequate protection from the onion maggot to eight weeks after the seedling has emerged, for it is only towards the end of May that protection against maggots is first required."

New store for Farmers' Supply at Vankleek Hill

Vankleek Hill — "The Farmers' Store" operated by Farmers' Supply Co. held the grand opening of their new store and mill on the corner of Main and Queen Street, on Monday morning of this week.

At 12.15 p.m. Frank Ryan of CFRA broadcast his daily program "The Farmer's Notebook", direct from the store in Vankleek Hill.

A dance was held in the evening to round out the social aspects of the occasion. Music and entertainment was supplied by CFRA, Ottawa.

Farmers' Supply Co. came to Vankleek Hill some five years ago and they have been serving the farmers' needs since 1936 when they established in Lachute, Que.

"It is our first branch in the Province of Ontario," said one of the owners, "and we have enjoyed doing business with the people in this vicinity."

Frank Williams, who was formerly at the store in Lachute, has been manager of the Vankleek Hill store for the past three years. He will have charge of the complete new operation of the new store and mill facilities.

Farmer killed under tractor

Hawkesbury—René Carrière, 21, of Vankleek Hill, was crushed to death under an overturned tractor last Friday. The accident occurred at his farm.

Dr. Arcade Perrier, coroner, said Carrière left his house at 5.45 p.m. to drive the tractor to a neighbor's. He was found dead under the machine in a ditch beside the road at the end of his lane 15 minutes later.

Dr. Perrier said death was a result of fractures of the neck and skull.

Forums discuss freedom and restrictions

Freedom as part of an organization is more important to farmers than freedom as individuals. That, at least, is what the Farm Forums decided at their first meeting this year. Of all the Forums, only two said that members valued their freedom as individuals more highly than their freedom as part of an organization.

Some groups were quick to point out that being a member of a farm organization did not seriously impinge the freedom of the individual. Said Farnham Glen in Brome, "We like our freedom, but think we can keep it as part of an organization — if the organization is controlled by farmers." Others stated that they would choose freedom as part of an organization because of the superior might of organizations over that of individuals.

Although 25% of the groups said that they had lost financially through organizations; 75% were sure they were financially better off through organization. "We receive more money for our products as a result of organization, even though there may be a partial loss of Freedom. We are able also to plan ahead, as we know approximately what we will be paid for our dairy products," replied Jerusalem - Bethany, in this area.

Only freedoms lost to organizations, according to most groups, was the freedom to market "just anywhere" which co-op members have lost. But all but one group say members have received better prices by sacrificing this freedom.

IS IT CHEAP?

Or does it just LOOK cheap?

I was talking to a dairyman the other day about making milk. He told me he had bought Bran for $2.08 and Oil Cake for $3.50, and of course it looked like a better buy than Purina at $4.10. But what he doesn't know is, how much milk he will make with this ration; nor how much milk the cows will give during their lactation; nor how many lactations he will get from each cow!

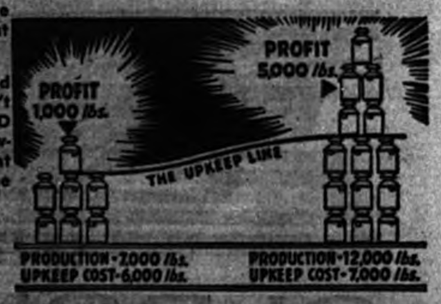

PROFITS WITH COWS are controlled by the amount of milk per lactation and by the number of lactations you get.

Now, in his ration he has only one source of protein. Oil Cake is excellent source of protein, but Protein in turn is made from 26 amino acids, and no protein feed has all of them in proper balance for highest milk production.

Purina found this out some time ago — not by figuring, but THE COWS TOLD THEM which combination gave best results. So Purina uses five sources of protein.

Also, we hear dairymen say they don't want to "burn out their cows". Feeding a ration that doesn't furnish all the necessary ingredients to make milk and keep your cow in shape so she can carry on for many lactations, will burn her out more quickly than a properly-balanced feed, because she has to draw on her own body for the ingredients that are lacking.

Don't try to kid the cows; it can't be done. FEED PURINA, the cow-proven feed that will make you the most money.

Home and School hears talk on on child conduct and discipline

The Lachute Home and School Association met on the evening of November 11 in the music room at Lachute High School; the meeting was conducted by Mr. K. Riley, president.

Mr. D. Jeffery undertook the roster to look after the young children during skating session this winter.

The recent tragic accident to one of the school children caused a great deal of discussion. Drastic action was recemmended to stiffen the ruling appertaining to school buses.

Principal Fred Royal was then introduced by Mrs. J. Thorpe. Mr. Royal's talk dealt mainly with discipline and conduct of school children.

Attention was drawn to two important platitudes, namely:

1. The school exists for the education of children; and

2. Primary function is training of the mind, whether it be in citizenship or for academic studies. Physical education could not be overlooked, since healthy bodies helped to cultivate healthy minds. Teachers cannot use pills to enthuse children with learning. But teachers have learned a great deal about the minds of children — they have found that one approach may work with one and not necessarily with another. This is the main reason for repetition. It is estimated that on an average a child needs to see a word approximately 70 times before it is completely understood. Therefore a great variety of methods must be resorted to in order to avoid boredom and disinterest. Student teachers are encouraged to watch more experienced teachers at work in order to learn from their methods.

Textbooks have not always been easy to understand, but there is a committee of which two Lachute teachers are members, working to improve books so that important matter is put over in a more attractive manner.

"Training in Character" has become more and more the lot of the school, because more parents go out to work and thus have less time to spend with their children. By and large, the manners of youngsters starting school is of high standard, but it does not follow that, where manners are good, the behaviour is likewise. In order to improve discipline in the school, various rules and regulations are posted in each classroom and these are read to the pupils once a month to improve their conduct in and around the school.

Various questions were asked from the floor, all of which received intelligent answers.

Mr. Royal was thanked by Mr. P. Aikin.

There will be no meeting of the Home and School Association during December, but notice will be given of a skate sale which is to be held.

Rotary Club talk on "Cigarettes and Canadians"

Bob Alexander, merchandising manager for the Imperial Tobacco Company, was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club, on Thursday last, speaking on "Cigarettes and Canadians".

He presented highlights of the Canadian tobacco industry, pointing out that Canadians preferred Canadian tobacco to that of any other country, as well as a standard package and wet-proof paper, these latter two points being contrary to American preference.

Over $600-million is spent on tobacco every year in Canada, 60 percent of this being tax which goes to the Federal and Provincial governments.

One interesting fact mentioned was that, while tobacco must be stored about 2½ years after being picked, the faster it is sold after it is manufactured, the better.

Highway Safety campaigner addressing local schools

On the instigation of Rotary president Syd Patterson, the Hon. W. M. Cottingham has procured the services of a Highway Safety lecturer, Mr. Lorenzo Dallaire (attached to the Quebec Department of Transportation and Communications) to give a series of constructive talks in the Lachute schools. This morning (Wednesday) the visitor spoke at Lachute High School; this afternoon he will address the pupils at l'Ecole Secondaire.

The importance of precautionary attitudes in the present mounting incidence of road accidents was stressed by Mr. Dallaire, who emphasized his message with films, entitled "Advice to Pedestrians" and "You and Your Bicycle". These were furnished by the provincial cinema service.

These discourses in Lachute inaugurated a series of similar visits in the interests of safety among school populations. Officer Paul Perrier, of the Traffic Police, is accompanying Mr. Dallaire, the speaker, in this district.

Program specially designed for young citizenry

The traffic safety program, with accent on juvenile pedestrian and cyclist safety, has been worked out by the Department of Transportation and Communications, headed by the Hon. Antoine Rivard, Q.C. It was planned especially for the younger citizens, its main purpose being to promote self-examination of their own habits and their general behaviour on streets and highways.

The traffic toll among school children is an ever-present tragedy in every community. Nine out of every ten accidents are due to lack of caution, lack of foresight, lack of judgment — sometimes on the part of the drivers, but too often on the part of the pedestrians and cylists.

"You cannot disregard the importance of acquiring qualities of vigilance and foresight, in the face of ever-increasing traffic hazards", said Mr. Dallaire. "Not only will you protect yourselves against accidents, but you will be better equipped to make your mark in life.

"It is a fact that last year accidents claimed 790 lives in Quebec; 189 of them were children. These figures are based on statistics for our province only."

"Be wise — open your eyes", is the slogan behind this campaign. And following are some of the speaker's thoughts directed to cyclists:

Advice to Cyclists

Loan by-law for Hawkesbury arena

Hawkesbury — Approval was given by council at a special meeting to a by-law to authorize borrowing necessary funds for reconstruction of the Hawkesbury arena which was burned four years ago.

This action follows an appeal for aid from Claude Drouin, head of the municipal recreation committee. An amendment to submit the by-law to electors for approval was defeated.

$275 proceeds for Springhill disaster relief fund

A sum of $275 was turned over to the Springhill Relief Fund following a dance held in the Pavillon Lounge, Windsor Hotel, on Thursday evening last. Ticket sales (a donation of $1 each) and 40 percent of the bar receipts, made up this total.

Door prizes were won by Miss Joan Peters and Willis Thompson. The orchestra and floor show attraction took a generous cut in their regular fees to aid the fund, along with the waiters of the evening, who worked on a tip basis only.

The idea of the benefit dance was conceived by Pierre Soumis, proprietor of the hotel, who in thanking all for their support, added special thanks to Giles Publishing House Ltd. for advertising, posters and tickets, all donated to the cause.

The committee, comprising Mr. Soumis, Police - Fire Chief Fernand Trépanier, Jim Duncan, Bud Langille and Eileen Morrison, checked all ticket sales and accounted for all tickets or cash prior to the money being turned over to the bank by Chief Trépanier and Mr. Soumis.

The 10th blood donor clinic organized here will be held in Lachute Auditorium, November 26 and 27, from 2 to 5.30 p.m. and from 7 to 9.30 p.m.

Organizers of the two-day clinic are Ian Gordon, chairman Blood Donor Committee; Roger Regimbal, vice-chairman of the Committee; and Mrs. J. E. Leonard, president of Lachute Red Cross Branch.

A group of volunteer ladies will make sure that donors are comfortable and will offer them refreshments after they have taken a short rest. Volunteers will also assist Red Cross staff in the registration of donors.

During the past nine years, nine clinics have been held in Lachute, and 3,027 pints of blood have been collected. The most successful clinic was held in September 1957, when 524 bottles were filled.

Many lives depend on the generosity of the citizens of Lachute and surrounding districts. "The demand for fresh blood is increasing constantly", said Mrs. Leonard, the president, "and this year, the weekly minimum requirements are 2,000 pints for the Province of Quebec. The blood bank must be replenished every day, because blood is a perishable product."

Blood does not keep more than 21 days, and it is impossible to build up a reserve for emergency cases. "Therefore, the only way to have the blood available when it is needed and to be sure there is no shortage," Mrs. Leonard said, "is for every citizen in good health, from 18 to 65 years of age, to become a regular blood donor." People who have suffered from jaundice or malaria cannot give blood.

The Red Cross free blood transfusion service represents a saving of $2,000,000 a year to the citizens of this province. In hospitals not yet affiliated to the Red Cross blood transfusion service, a sum of $25 is charged to the patient for each transfusion. Last year, Red Cross supplied approximately 80,000 pints of whole blood. The Red Cross was also responsible for the free distribution of blood products to affiliated hospitals.

Red Cross laboratories located in Montreal conducted 25,238 Rh investigations and 13,884 screen tests for antibodies in 1957. These various tests saved the lives of thousands of newborn babies.

The most precious gift

A pint of blood — the most precious gift a person can give to another. Blood transfusion is now a current practice in medicine and surgery. The Red Cross must collect 100,000 pints of blood per year in the Province of Quebec to meet the demands of the 110 hospitals affiliated to this free service.

The next blood donor clinic in Lachute will be held at the Auditorium here November 26-27, from 2 to 5.30 p.m. and from 7 to 9.30 p.m.

Talent and charm at Lions ladies' night, gala function

The ladies' night of Lachute Lions Club, last Friday in the chalet of the Lachute Golf and Country Club, was enjoyable beyond the ordinary — some outstanding talent and feminine charm contributing to the varied program, which included a fashion show of ladies' and children's wear made possible by several Lachute retail houses.

President Phil Tremblay welcomed the throng in the Catalogne Room, which provided a colorful setting. He spoke of the Lions Club accomplishments and ambitions, notably the skating rink which is their major current project.

A guest specially honored on this occasion was Mme Lionel Rozon, widow of a charter member and the mother of five children, who has displayed "incredible morale" over years of successive adversities. Dr. Eric Mongeon, Health Committee chairman, related the story of her long and painful experience and her slow return to health — to a stage where it will be possible for the Lions to provide her with an artificial limb. It was a story of pathos, courage and triumph, to all who knew the circumstances of this case. . . Mme Rozon was presented with a bouquet of roses and an engraved compact by Mme Phil Tremblay, wife of the president.

Lion Dick Pearson, program organizer, had enlisted some surprise talent to entertain the gathering. Herbert R. Inskip, of Cornwall, Ont., was introduced by Lion Horace Lamarche as a business associate in the dairy industry — whose musical abilities, however, held his audience both amazed and spellbound. His repertoire of classical and popular extracts on the piano, with enlightening comments on theme and construction, revealed this visitor an artist and composer of outstanding merit.

Equally refreshing was the performance of a local resident and recent acquisition to the Lions Club, Bob Haydon, of Upper Lachute, Mr. Haydon is a tenor singer with a background of musical training and operatic experience. His extracts from well known operas proved a delight to his listeners. . . Mr. Haydon, with Messrs. Royal and Mozart Carrière, and Cleighton Robinson, also performed as the Lions Club quartet which has attained a creditable standard this season. All were warmly applauded.

Mlle Celine Leger, television star of Montreal, was introduced among the evening's guests. Miss Leger is the niece of Miss Annonciade Leger, Lachute, and daughter of Euclide Leger, Montreal.

Commentator for the very fine show of fall and winter fashions was Mme Roger Gravel.

Fur wraps and coats were shown by L'Heureux Reg.; ladies' dresses for all occasions by Elite Store (Miss Yvonne Malacket); hats, by the Annonciade Leger Salon; children's modes by Marthe Lingerie Inc.; while jewelry and cosmetics were supplied by Dansereau Stores and Beaton's Pharmacy, respectively.

Those modelling the garments, furs and hats in styles for matrons, misses, teens and tots, were as follows — Mme Fernande Bédard, Mrs. Annie McFaul, Mme Suzanne Chauvin, Mlle Carmen Plouffe, Mlle Claudette Danis, Mlle Christianne Paré, Mme Reg Courtien, Mlle Nicolle Robert, Mlle Celine Leger, Joanne Poitras, Sylvie Seguin, Daniel Pilon.

The models, commentator and collaborating merchants were thanked for their gracious cooperation by Dick Pearson, program chairman, and by the president. Dancing, to organ accompaniment, completed the evening's enjoyment.

Fire equipment tenders now under study by committee

Tenders from three leading manufacturers of firefighting equipment were opened at an adjourned meeting of Lachute Town Council on Monday evening — the tenders, along with those for sidewalk snow-clearing appartus, being tabled for study by the committees concerned.

Railway Power Engineering, manufacturers of King-Segraves, the company which supplied the present fire truck to the Town of Lachute 30 years ago; La France Fire Engine & Foamite Ltd.; and Pierre Thibeault, all submitted various tenders for the truck and equipment required. Several firms — Deacon Motor Sales being the only local concern — tendered on extra equipment.

The respective suppliers all tendered on trucks of different makes, giving the Council the opportunity of choosing the make of truck which will be purchased locally, in addition to the type of equipment to be installed.

The tenders are being turned over to Police - Fire Chief Fernand Trépanier and a committee of present and past members of the fire department, for study and comparison to the specifications called for. After this they will be checked by the Police and Fire Committee and submitted to the Department of Public Works for approval.

Building permits were authorized for Lachute Enterprises for the construction of four split-level residences and two bungalows on Bedard Blvd. East, and notice of motion was given that, at the next session of Council, a motion will be submitted to amend the water tax and chimney cleaning by-laws.

The town's legal advisor, Fernand Legault, Q.C., and Paul Laliberté, consultant engineer, both of whom have been commissioned to prepare construction and zoning by-laws, were in attendance. They discussed the first by-law in part, suggesting that a committee be appointed to study the draft with them. It was decided that the Police and Fire Committee be appointed, after which the session was adjourned.

Remembrance rites and Legion activities at B'burg

Members of Brownsburg Branch of the Canadian Legion spent a full week-end in Legion activities, starting on Friday evening November 7 with their Poppy Campaign.

The campaign, under the chairmanship of Bill Mann, 1st vice-president, covered the sale of poppies by Legion members on the streets of Brownsburg during Friday evening and all day Saturday. The turnout of members for this effort was very gratifying, as was the response from the general public, who supported the cause of helping needy veterans and their families by purchasing poppies generously. Equally encouraging was the support of all school children in Brownsburg, who contributed so thoroughly to the Remembrance aspect of the week-end by purchasing and wearing poppies.

The Poppy Campaign was followed by the annual Armistice banquet, where a large number of members and guests enjoyed a turkey dinner served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Branch. The banquet festivities, under the chairmanship of President J. Humphries, were climaxed by a Remembrance address very ably delivered by Mr. Phil Ross, 5th vice-president of Provincial Command. The speaker was introduced by Noel Racine, 2nd vice-president, and thanked by Bill Mann. Following the banquet, members received their friends at the Legion Hall, where everyone enjoyed a successful evening of dancing and relaxation.

The annual church parade was held Sunday, November 9, at the Brownsburg United Church, where Remembrance services were conducted by the Rev. G. W. Bruce.

On Armistice Day, Brownsburg witnessed once again a large turnout of Legion members and the public, for the Armistice parade and Cenotaph ceremonies. Remembrance addresses were delivered at the Cenotaph by Mayor T. P. Hall, the Rev. Father L. Clement and the Rev. G. W. Bruce. Guests at this ceremony also included the Rev. K. Miller, the Rev. G. B. Hicks and the Rev. J. C. Shrier.

Brownsburg Branch of the Canadian Legion is very grateful to all churches, organizations and businesses for their purchase of wreaths, and to the general public for their support to the poppy campaign. Thanks to this kind of support, help to needy veterans and their families will be greatly increased during the coming year.

District dealer gets Ayersville order for equipment

Under immediate study were tenders received from two companies — Gabriel Decarie Garage, St. Andrews East, and Atlas Hoist & Body Co. — for a hydraulic lift adaptable to the corporation's snowplow, and for an electric pump. Offers of the Decarie Garage, totalling $893.03 for this equipment, were finally accepted, on motion of Councillor Cyr, seconded by Councillor Durocher.

It was decided that the Water and Sewer committee should confer with the Lachute authorities to adjust the apportionment of costs on the collector sewer installed some years ago between the two municipalities.

A letter from L. P. Dumais, of Hill Head, offering to supply water to Ayersville Village at a cost of one cent per 1,000 gallons was held over for study. Mr. Dumais will be asked to extend the period for acceptance of his offer.

The meeting was thereupon adjourned.

Police Chief of Brownsburg

Richard Gagnon, 30, who last month was appointed Chief of Police at Brownsburg, replacing the late Chief Willie Lepine. Married with two children, Chief Gagnon has served in the past as a part-time constable. He is now assisted by Cst. Philippe Paquette.

Committee elected for School Fair

The annual meeting of the School Fair committee was held in the Agronome's office, and the following business was discussed. The secretary, Miss Margaret Brass, gave a gratifying report for the past year and stated that a total amount of $203 had been paid out in prize money. The organizers wish to express appreciation to anyone who helped in any way to make the School Fair a success.

President: Bob McElroy; vice-president, Stuart Armstrong; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Dennison Swail; also Mrs. Norman MacGeorge, Mrs. Basil Clark, Murray Lyster, Albert Nicoll and Ronald Duncan.

Officers named for Boy Scouts' new Dist. Council

At a meeting held in Lachute High School last Wednesday, the executive of the new District Council of the Boy Scouts Association was elected to cover the area which includes Thurso, Grenville, Lachute and Brownsburg.

The following members were elected as executive of the new District: D. N. Atkins, president; H. D. Graves, vice-president; W. F. Armstrong, treasurer; G. H. Quinn, secretary; B. A. Jenkins, Group contact. M. R. Wilson and J. W. Humphries were recommended for appointments as District Commissioner and District Cubmaster, respectively.

The name "Laurentian" was left available for the District to be formed north of Routh 41, which includes such active Scouting towns as Shawbridge (Boys' Farm and Training School), Ste. Adele, Ste. Agathe, Morin Heights and Lac St. Denis.

It was considered necessary to divide the former Laurentian District, as the area was considered too extensive.

Hill Head proprietor's offer on Ayersville water supply

The Watchman was informed last week by the proprietor of Lachute Sand, Stone and Gravel Co., Louis-Philippe Dumais, that he had submitted an offer, on November 10, to supply water to the Municipality of Ayersville at a rate of 1 cent per 1,000 gallons.

According to Mr. Dumais, the source on his property has been sampled and analyzed through Col. Ernest Emmett, Argenteuil Health Unit inspector, and found satisfactory. The supply comes from various springs on his property at Hill Head, and if Ayersville accepted his offer, the proprietor would give the required land on which to build a reservoir. The elevation is about 100 feet above the Town of Lachute.

"I could not make the municipality a more opportune offer than this," said Mr. Dumais. "I have plans which were made by engineers in 1827 showing all the natural springs. These springs are all still producing; the water has never stopped — which is sufficient guarantee that it will flow indefinitely."

Mayor Maurice Champagne, contacted by telephone, said he had knowledge of this offer through Mr. Dumais verbally. He had been absent from home for several days and had not had time to look over his correspondence, nor was he aware if the offer would be submitted formally to the Council. There will be no meeting until early in December — though, he stated, it was always possible to summon the councillors on a special matter.

"Water supply in Ayersville is a matter of pressing importance," continued Mayor Champagne," and we have several alternatives in view. We have been tied up for several months during the Commission's deliberation on rates, but all angles of the problem are being studied and we are only in the preliminary stages of finding a solution. I cannot, at the moment, divulge the Council's intentions."

At this point it appears highly probable that things might develop to effect considerable savings to the Ayersville taxpayers on their water consumption.

LEGION NOTES

— by —

Branch 70 (Lachute) Correspondent

Congratulations to all of the various schools, organizations and individuals, for the very fine turnout at the November 11 Remembrance ceremonies held in Lachute Memorial Park. The Legion organizers are very appreciative of this generous response. Also, many thanks to those who purchased poppies and wreaths. . .

For those unfamiliar with the set-up, the wreaths and poppies are hand-made by war veterans whose physical condition prevents them from accepting normal employment. Thus they are provided with the means of making small earnings; this gives them a sense of accomplishment and occupies their time. When the Legion Branch sells these wreaths and poppies locally, a small profit is realized and the money so earned must be placed in a special account and can be used for one purpose only — direct assistance for needy veterans and their dependents. This account is jealously guarded by Branch trustees, to make certain that it is applied only to the purpose for which it was set up. . . In this connection, the Sick and Welfare Committee, or any member of the executive, will appreciate receiving information on needy veterans or their dependents, wherever assistance is required in this area.

Best wishes for a speedy recovery to Comrade Driver, of St. Andrews East.

The office project at the Hall is progressing favorably, and will be completed shortly. Space has been provided for central filing cabinets for the Service Clubs using the Legion Memorial Hall.

* * *

Preparations are now under way for the annual Christmas Tree, to be held in the Legion Memorial Hall on Saturday afternoon, December 20, for children of members and needy veterans. Arrangements are under the direction of Com. C. Demerse. This project has grown annually in size, and in popularity with the youngsters and oldsters alike. So members, give Mac a call if you are free to assist on Saturday afternoon, December 20.

Did you know that Legion housing developments costing $2 million provide low-rental dwelling for older veterans?

See you next week.

MacTavish buys yearling pacer

With more and more bigger purses being set aside for young horses every year, Canadian owners are keeping up with the times by buying young standard-breds in unprecedented numbers.

The latest buying binge occurred recently at the Harrisburg Sales in the United States where Canadian owners picked up more than 100 horses for a record $286,550.

Among the top buyers was Del MacTavish, of Lachute, who purchased a yearling, Bold Counsel, for $7,600.

Figures released by the United Harness Horsemen's Association of Canada reveal that, as usual, Quebec owners led the way in the buying. Of the total amount spent by Canadians, more than $230,000 was charged to Quebec interests who purchased 75 horses.

Fancy skating course in B'burg

Two noted exponents of this art, Laura and Charles, are conducting the course. As a team this pair have made their mark in figure-skating, both in Canada and the United States.

Classes are held each Monday from 3 to 9 p.m. Information is available from Arena officials.

Deer jacklighting major violation

Quebec (CP) — The number of hunting violations in the province during last September and October was higher than that reported for the corresponding period of 1957, a Quebec Game Department official said.

There were 567 violations in the Montreal area covering some 30 rural counties this year compared with 539 last year.

The chief poaching activity in the province is jacklighting — hunting deer and moose at night with spotlights.

The department official said jacklighters usually operate on a highly organized basis and are difficult to catch. A few of them have been found to operate with cars equipped with radio telephones. In this way poachers in the bush can be tipped off when a Game Department patrol is in the vicinity.

BLOOD DONOR CLINIC — NEXT WEEK

Be proud to participate!

DURING WORLD WAR II, the Canadian Red Cross Society inaugurated a blood donor program in order that members of Canada's Armed Forces might have adequate means for the treatment of casualties, abroad. The project was an outstanding success. Donors in the cities, towns and villages across the nation willingly donated over 2½ million bottles of blood. Without question this gigantic effort was responsible for saving many lives on the battlefields, as well as in the bombed cities of Europe.

Toward the end of hostilities, the Canadian Red Cross Society was approached by hospital associations and departments of health, requesting that a similar service might be provided in peacetime, to meet the civilian hospital needs as well as those of the military establishments and veterans' institutions.

A joint committee was established to study the proposal and a survey of Canadian hospital needs was undertaken. This was completed in October, 1945, and revealed many pertinent facts. . . It was apparent that there were large areas without blood transfusion services. In one province not a single blood bank had been established at that time. In another, the entire stock of plasma was insufficient for the treatment of one case of severe burns. Large metropolitan hospitals were encountering great difficulty in securing adequate numbers of blood donors to meet their needs. And the cost of transfusions was so great that it was beyond the patient of average means, particularly if he should require repeated transfusions.

The plan for the present Canadian Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service was submitted almost immediately and the project was enthusiastically adopted.

Since its inauguration, 11 years ago, more than 1,300,000 Canadians have received free transfusions of whole blood and blood products through this Canadian Red Cross service.

The Canadian Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service is universally respected and has given guidance to similar projects in many nations. The success may be attributed to the four-way co-operative effort. The provincial government provides the premises, and agrees to maintain them; the Society supplies the technical staff and equipment; Canadian hospitals administer the whole blood and blood products to patients requiring transfusion therapy; and Canadian citizens everywhere freely donate their blood. . . Without this provision, the service could not exist.

The number of lives saved by this Red Cross service will never be known. Those Canadians who have benefitted by free blood transfusions are the living proof that blood saves lives!

Life-saving essentials

THE ONSET of winter and below-freezing temperatures is a time to reflect on the dangers we all face in the coming months from fire.

Last year in Canada 636 persons — most of them children — met death from fire. Property damage amounted to more than $131,000,000.

Both figures established records. But they are the kind of records we can do without.

Many of last year's fire victims would be alive today had they or their families followed some simple advice about fire protection. This advice in most cases involves no expenditure — just a little effort.

The main thing to remember is that a clean house or office building seldom catches fire. An important point in any fire prevention program is a regular cleaning schedule.

The vast majority of fires in homes are caused by carelessness, including improper use of cleaning fluids, improper storage of oil rags, matches and hot ashes, and smoking in bed. Frayed and defective electric wires on toasters and other appliances can start a blaze that can kill you and destroy your home.

Christmas also is just around the corner and the Christmas tree can be a killer. In choosing a tree get a small one, preferably a tree which has been stored outside.

Leave the tree outside until just before Christmas. Cut off the end of the trunk diagonally at least one inch above the original cut. Stand the tree in a bucket of water and make sure the bucket always is filled.

Vertical saw cuts at the base of the trunk also will help the tree to absorb water from the bucket. This will help reduce the flammability of the tree as effectively as any fire-proofing chemicals.

Above all, place the tree in a cool corner, away from the fireplace, radiators, heating stoves, radios and television sets. And don't leave the lights on constantly because they will dry the needles. Once the needles start to fall the lights should not be left on for more than half an hour at a time.

Industry responds 'beyond anticipation'

THE WEEK'S NEWS brings mention of the awarding of educational fellowships by two big companies — by Shell Oil, for study in science and allied subjects, and by C-I-L, to permit serious students to pursue their studies in wildlife management — the latter being of more particular interest since it is sponsored by the company's Ammunition Division, in which this community has a vital part.

It is only a short time since a deserving Lachute student was presented with the Prescott and Argenteuil Industrial Scholarship, awarded by four companies in the immediate Ottawa Valley area through the Chemical Institute of Canada, Hawkesbury Section.

We have voiced our commendation before, on the contribution of our district industries to the cause of Education. A note in the current bulletin of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association impels us to mention it again. We quote from the said leaflet, as follows:

"Much has been written in the last two years or so concerning the need of our universities for greater financial help from industry and business.

"Now, the latest report of the Industrial Foundation on Education provides convincing evidence that industry and business are indeed responding to the call.

"Thus, in 1957, corporate giving to higher education in Canada was between four and five times as great as in 1956. Canadian-controlled companies boosted their contributions to $7,900,000, foreign-controlled companies to $3,900,000. . .

"A nearly five-fold increase in the space of a single year is both substantial and significant. In the words of the report: 'The response of business and industry in 1957 was exceptional and beyond anything that was anticipated'!"

The retort conclusive

IMPLICATIONS of the "shop across the border" policy, if pursued by every Canadian within reach of the U.S. boundary, are pretty obvious. They were spelled out recently by J. C. Whitelaw, Q.C., general manager of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in an address given in Montreal.

Speaking of the "Buy Canadian" program and its marked success, Mr. Whitelaw took note, however, of a housewife's sentiments expressed in a well-known publication last summer:

"It seems obvious (she wrote) that Mr. Diefenbaker, James Duncan, the Canadian Manufacturers' et al, have failed to take into account the woman shopper who does most of the buying in this country. The woman buyer isn't primarily interested in trade balances, nationalism, Anglophilism or anti-Americanism. If she can get better value for her money in Buffalo, she is going to buy in Buffalo, without worrying herself over-much about the Canadian Manufacturers' Association or the feelings of the Mother Country."

Mr. Whitelaw, the speaker, commented in the following manner: "This lady, who displayed the courage of her convictions by signing her name, is worth educating. . .

"Let us, for the sake of discussion, agree with her alleged money-saving device of shopping in Buffalo. Let us agree to the point of urging all Canadian women within shopping distance of Buffalo to make a practice of converging in their thousands on the Bison City with their purses stuffed to the allowable limit with dollars their husbands earned making and servicing and selling Canadian products. What happens then?

"Well, of course, Buffalo merchants wax prosperous. But Buffalo's gain is whose loss? Not Cleveland's, not Detroit's — but St. Catharines', Hamilton's, Toronto's, Montreal's; in short, gentlemen, Canada's loss. And, if kept up ad infinitum, it wouldn't be long before many of these same women would be realizing all too late that it was very much their personal loss as well.

"For if Canadian goods remain unsold, how long will their husbands' jobs remain secure? And if their husbands are either on short time or out of work, who will stuff their purses with Canadian money to keep the Buffalo merchants smiling?"

How does Canada forecast its weather?

A network of 1400 weather stations spans Canada coast to coast and from the U.S. border to the High Arctic. These make frequent reports, 245 of them several times daily by teletype or radio.

The headquarters for this Meteorological Service of Canada, a division of the federal Department of Transport, is situated in Toronto. There are 12 other main forecast offices and 30 dependent civil and military forecast offices.

The service provides forecasts each day for some 300 districts, cities, airline routes and coastal regions. The forecasts contain information on expected cloudiness, precipitation, wind and temperature.

Records of the weather were kept as early as the late 18th century but the first permanent observatory was established at Toronto in 1840 by a British army officer. The federal service originated in 1871 and within five years there were 115 stations. Fifteen reported three times a day to Toronto. With the assistance of data from 50 American stations, daily forecasts were made possible.

Is it true that the Indians trained medical men?

Yes. The North American Indians had a considerable knowledge of drugs when Europeans first came to this continent. The explorer Jacques Cartier's scurvy-stricken crew gladly used an Indian remedy prepared from spruce or hemlock tips which contain the essential vitamin C.

The Indians made use of such well-known vegetable remedies as sarsaparilla, jalap, cinchona and guaiacum. They also employed sweat baths and massage. One authority says they even knew what is now called "organo-therapy" for the relief of pain.

Without doubt there was a large element of magic and sorcery in their system of medicine but there was some regular training of men selected for certain skills. Modern medicine, however, has been little influenced by the knowledge of the first inhabitants.

With street improvements in view, it is pointed out that if Main Street were to be made to turn from Barron's Bridge between Mr. Latour's house and Mrs. Clunie's, and the West River Bridge changed a little, there would be a continuous straight road coming from Chatham directly through Lachute to the East End. . . Another desirable change is to open a road across Mr. Cruise's property in a straight line from this portion of town to Prof. Stevenson's new house and so on to the Rope Walk and Earl's Mills.

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

Canadian Writers

Because I belong to the Canadian Authors' Association, I've met many of our best Canadian writers, and I am much impressed. One of the things that impresses me most is that you seldom hear them moaning about the lack of opportunity for Canadians. The successful Canadian writers are doing pretty well.

The other day I picked up an American magazine noted for its excellent cultural content, and I immediately recognized three of the contributors as Canadians — a poet, a short-story writer, and an essayist. Quite a good score for a single issue! And their work stood out in the issue for its wonderful quality. They hadn't slanted their writing for American consumption, because they all used Canadian backgrounds.

Today I picked up the wealthy, slick-papered Saturday Evening Post, and the very first item I read was by John V. Hicks, a talented writer from Prince Albert, Saskatchewan. Of course, Canadian writers have often been Post regulars — men like R. Ross Anett, Edward McCourt, Jack Paterson, etc.

Canadian writers are also being welcomed by American television networks. Mac Shoub, of Montreal, is an American favorite, for example. H. Gordon Green is another. And it is thrilling to learn that four of the hour-long GM television dramas were being broadcast by the American Broadcasting Company simultaneously with CBC. It was disappointing that ABC took only four, but that's a start. It was also disappointing that one of the scheduled dramas, by John Whelan, who wrote the powerful "Maiden Voyage" in the same series, was crowded out of the foursome at the last minute.

A Canadian writer willing to work hard has a tremendous market available to him. Our own journals, such as Saturday Night, Chatelaine, Maclean's, go out of their way to encourage canuck talent; and American magazines certainly place no barrier against them. Indeed, many American magazines and advertising agencies assign stories, articles, and the writing of advertising campaigns to Canadian scribes, because they like the vigor displayed in a great deal of Canadian prose.

Any young Canadian who wants a writing career can be sure that if he has the talent and the willingness to work, he has a fair chance to make a decent living at it. He shouldn't be scared off by pessimistic talk about the lack of opportunity here. In reality, he probably has a better opportunity than a writer in any other country. Canadian publications give him special attention; American magazines give him an even break. What more could a writer ask?

It is a comfortable feeling to sit inside and listen to the wind. No doubt people have been enjoying that sensation ever since the first builder sealed the mouth of his cave with a bearskin and a rock.

Psychologists are skeptical about such ideas as "racial memory." Few of them believe that you can draw upon your great-grandfather memories. They contend that you have to make your own memories.

However, some feelings seem to strike an ancestral echo, as though you remembered them from generations back.

Among these are the sight and sound of running water, either in a stream or lake. I haven't gone thirsty long enough or often enough to look on water as a comforting sight, and yet I find that being near water is a pleasure.

Personally, I have never been stranded in a desert. I have no conscious memories of an earlier life, in which I was a fish, an otter, or an apeman living at the edge of a primeval swamp.

And yet there seems to be an enjoyment outside the range of my conscious experience, in being near water. I can almost believe that the feeling is compounded from the accumulated thirst of a number of ancestors, who felt secure when they had built their camps near a stream or a lake.

There is a similar feeling about being enclosed in a room while a storm is raging outside.

I like staring out the window at people, muffled to the ears, who are being blown along like paper bags in the wind.

I have just come in from the wind myself, and warmed up. The room is tolerably draught-proof. The wind is rushing past the eaves with those moans and whistles that bring to mind the sound effects of old melodramas, as they are sometimes lampooned today.

The wind sounds like a caricature of itself. The telephone wires rock insanely up and down. A small tree outside the window bends nearly double.

And the people tack across the wind with gloved hands raised to their hats. They look miserable. As for myself, tucked away behind four walls, I feel smug. Those people are there; I'm here.

In the same spirit, some deplorable ancestor lifted the edge of a sabre-tooth tiger skin drape, and grinned down from his penthouse in a hollow tree at a fellow-human freezing to death below.

Remembrance Day at Morin Heights

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — On Tuesday last, November 11, Morin Heights paid a fitting tribute to its sons and fathers who made the supreme sacrifice during two World Wars.

An impressive parade, led by the bugle band of the Shawbridge Boys' Farm and composed of units from the R.C.A.F., Lac St. Denis, the Boy Scouts, the Girl Guides, Brownies and Cubs, and the local branch of the Canadian Legion (who sponsored the event), formed up in the village and marched with colors to the Morin Heights School.

The service of Remembrance, conducted by the Rev. Clyde Westhaver, supported by Rev. H. G. Baugh and the Rev. Father Dupré, was held in the spacious auditorium of the school.

In addition to the units forming the parade, the service was attended by residents and friends, together with the pupils of both the Catholic and Protestant schools. Following the placing of the colors and wreaths, a two-minute silence was observed preceded by the sounding of "Last Post" and ending with "Reveille". Music and singing was by the combined church choirs, conducted by the organist, Mrs George Watchorn.

On the return of the parade, the salute was taken at the Municipal Building by W/C S. D. Turner, D.F.C., Commanding Officer of the R.C.A.F. Wreaths were deposited in the Anglican Trinity Church, and the parade continued on to the Legion Hall for dismissal.

The members and executive of Legion Branch 171 express their appreciation to all who contributed in any way to the success of this observance; to the Commanding Officer and members of the R.C.A.F.; to the Girl Guides, Scouts, Brownies and Cubs; to the Shawbridge Farm Band; and to the clergy and the ladies of the church choirs.

Special appreciation is due to the Morin Heights School Board for granting the use and services of the school for the event, and to Principal Roy Williams for his proficient organization in the auditorium.

Ministerial Association will arrange services for Week of Prayer

The Argenteuil Protestant Ministerial Association met recently in the Maple Avenue Baptist Church, Brownsburg, with the president, the Rev. G. W. Bruce in the chair.

After the usual devotional period the chairman called on Rev. C. W. Sorley to address the gathering. The latter took as his subject, "The Divinity of the Lord Jesus Christ".

During the business session of the meeting, the president welcomed to membership in the Association, the Rev. John C. Shrier of the Pentecostal Church at Brownsburg.

The Rev. J. R. Watson gave a short report on the subject of the Adoption of Children laws in this province.

Plans are in progress for observance of the Universal Week of Prayer in Brownsburg and Lachute. It is hoped that the people of these communities will try to keep the week of January 5 - 9, 1959, free of other engagements and plan to attend the services.

W.I. activities, branch meetings for November

The November report of Argenteuil Women's Institutes is submitted by the County convener, Mrs. B. Clark:

Arundel branch had a discussion on a school bursary, and decided to help the school library. A quiz on everyday kitchen commodities was also held, and a sewing course is being planned for February.

Brownsburg W.I. had a film entitled "Battle for Bread" and a talk on "War Population and Feeding Problems". A report was given on the hat-making course. This course proved disappointing because of the small attendance.

Ladies of the new Dalesville branch heard a talk on the growth and founding of the W.I., given by one of its members. Miss Janet McOuat of Macdonald College will prepare a casserole luncheon and give a sandwich demonstration at the home of one of the members.

Mr. Allen Talbot, of Brownsburg, spoke to Frontier members on the subject of Art. Naming a country and its capital was the topic of their roll-call.

Mrs. George McGibbon, County president, addressed the Jerusalem-Bethany branch on various subjects in connection with W.I. work.

Lachute members had a book review. Approximately $290 was collected for UNICEF through this branch.

Mille Isles W.I. made several donations and discussed various phases of W.I. activity.

At Pioneer branch meeting, two articles were read on Citizenship. Colored slides were shown on local and county beauty spots.

Upper Lachute - East End was given a talk on Citizenship by the Rev. James Armour, B.A. Their roll-call was to "say something truthful and complimentary about your neighbor to the left."

New secretary speaker at Bible Society meet; officers elected

The annual meeting of the British and Foreign Bible Society, Lachute and Brownsburg branch, was held in the Presbyterian church at Lachute.

After the opening exercises, the minutes of the previous meeting were read, along with the treasurer's report.

The retiring president, the Rev. C. R. Lang, in his address of thanks to the officers and canvassers, called for the election of officers and recommended that a new president be elected, as he had held that office for the past two years. The following officers were then elected:

President, the Rev. J. Armour; corresponding secretary, Miss G. McMahon; recording secretary, Mrs. G. B. Hewitt; treasurer, Russell Elliott.

The Rev. Mr. Lang recommended that two auditors should be elected. This was duly carried out. Messrs. Donald Hay and Ernest Gordon being appointed.

The Rev. T. A. Jones, district secretary of the Society, was then introduced. An outline of his work was given by the Rev. Jones in his address; he mentioned his predecessor, the Rev. Courcey Rainer, as being new editor of the Presbyterian Record.

The Rev. Mr. Jones, in his introduction of the current 1958-59 film, "The Leaves of the Tree" (produced in Norway), traced the stages of development from the growing tree, through the making of pulpwood, making of paper, printing and binding, to the actual use of the Bible in either English or translated form.

The Rev. Jones concluded, expressing thanks for past support and calling for expansion of effort, as so much of the work of the Society depends on the support of local groups.

Those from this town and county who are in Scotland for the tour of Rotary Club curlers include — Messrs. Linton W. Armstrong, Geo. McGibbon, Syd Drew, Jack MacKimmie and Jerry Boyd. The party of 17 left Dorval airport by BOAC Saturday night for Prestwick, with Ayr and Glasgow as their first curling engagements — the itinerary to cover various other centres of enthusiasm for the "roarin' game". The schedule calls for a return by airway from London after about three weeks, but some of the party will doubtless remain sightseeing and visiting in England on conclusion of the tour.

Business Girls to Ste. Adele for Curling Bonspiel

Over the week-end some 70 business girls met at the Chanteclerc Hotel in Ste. Adele to participate in a Business Girls' Curling Bonspiel. Teams came from clubs in Quebec, Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Shawinigan and many other places.

Lachute entered two rinks. One, skipped by Mrs. R. Rogers, reached the finals in the main event, winning the consolation prize; the other, skipped by Miss Lulu Miller, won the consolation in the second event. The girls gave a good account of themselves and thoroughly enjoyed the bonspiel.

It is hoped to make this an annual event, and plans are also being formulated to hold a golfing tournament next summer.

Wedding in N.B. of local interest

Berry - Robichaud

The Assomption Cathedral in Moncton, N.B., was the scene of a pretty wedding when the Rev. Romeo Melanson united in marriage Simone Marguerite Robichaud, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felicien J. Robichaud, of Petit Rocher, N.B., and Kenneth Carl Garth Berry, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Berry, of Lachute.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length, full skirted gown of white brocaded lace over silk, fashioned with an Italian neckline and pointed sleeves. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a headdress of Alençon lace dotted with pearls and sequins. She carried an ivory missal, gift of the groom, and a bouquet of red Sweetheart roses and white mums.

The bride's sister, Miss Juliette Robichaud, as bridesmaid, wore a gown of light pink ruffled nylon over net and silk, and a large white hat. She carried a bouquet of yellow, pink and white mums.

Miss Pauline Boudreau and Miss Linda Lenteigne, as flower girls, wore similar short yellow silk dresses, white headdresses and gloves. They carried nosegays of white pompoms and pink mums.

Mr. Langton Dysant acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Raymond Robichaud and Mr. Raymond Corriveau.

Misses Blondine and Rose-Marie Boudreau were soloists, to the accompaniment of the organist, Rose Marie Boudreau.

After the nuptial mass, a reception was held at the Brunswick Hotel. The toast to the bride was proposed by the Rev. Father Hynes.

Out-of-town guests consisted of the bride's family and friends, from Petit Rocher, the groom's family, from Lachute, and friends from Montreal, Hawkesbury, Ont., Saint John, N.B., and Salisbury, N.B.

Mr. and Mrs. Berry will reside in Moncton, where the groom is employed with Pioneer Chain Saws Inc.

Color pictures describe tour of Ireland

A fair gathering at St. Simeon's Church hall last Friday evening enjoyed screen pictures in color, photographed on a tour of Ireland last September by Mr. and Mrs. Allen Talbot, of Brownsburg. Mr. Talbot gave an interesting commentary. The scenes also included sights of interest in London and the traditional Changing of the Guard ceremonies.

The audience joined in Irish songs in the atmosphere of the theme, and Mrs. Arnold Parker sang two Irish airs. The Rev. Dr. Reid assisted the speaker as projectionist, and all were sincerely thanked by the Rev. C. R. Lang, rector.

Distinguished Record

Sir Wilfrid Laurier sat in the House of Commons from 1874 to 1919, held the office of Prime Minister from 1896 to 1911, the longest continuous term of any Canadian Prime Minister.

The members of the W.A. and "B" Group met November 12 in the church hall to re-organize the W.A. according to the constitution, with Mrs. H. Elliott and Mrs. L. Barnett co-chairmen. The W.A. now has groups "A" and "B".

Pres., Mrs. H. Elliott; 1st vice-pres., Mrs. H. Smith; 2nd vice-pres., Mrs. T. Izzard; secretary, Mrs. P. K. MacDougall; treasurer, Miss S. McOuat.

Conveners

Christian Education, Mrs. D. Clarke.
Devotional, Mrs. C. Armstrong.
Manse, Mrs. W. Hamilton.
Visiting and Christian Fellowship, Mrs. C. Elliott.
Christian Citizenship, Mrs. Abercrombie.
Christian Stewardship, Mrs. Johnston.
Buying, Mrs. W. Campbell.

The Rev. Mr. Bruce wished the W.A. every success and closed the election with prayer.

Refreshments were served, and the gathering adjourned, to hold its first regular meeting on the second Wednesday of January, 1959.

(The regular church reporter, Mrs. F. Kettyle, was absent through illness; the W.A. wish her a speedy recovery.)

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES
THE EARTH ABIDETH FOREVER
— Eccl. 1:4
You may survive Armageddon into God's New World.
"Then there will be great tribulation such as has not occurred since the world's beginning until now, no, nor will occur again." With those words Jesus foretold the greatest time of trouble ever to hit the earth — the universal war of Armageddon. (Matt. 24: 21). Who will survive? Not many. All the nations will be destroyed in this fiery outpouring of God's wrath. With over two billion dead, "the slain of Jehovah shall be at that day from one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth; they shall not be lamented, neither gathered, nor buried; they shall be dung upon the face of the ground." (Jer. 25: 32, 33). The death toll will be so all-surpassing that there will be too many bodies for the survivors to bury.
But will there then be nothing to survive for? No indeed. The destruction of this evil, demon-controlled world, together with its god Satan the Devil, will not leave a vacuum. It will be replaced by a new world of righteousness, and the earth will become a paradise. For that new world God will preserve survivors. There is no need to die. Would you like to know how you may survive "the war of the great day of God the Almighty" that will come upon this generation? The 384-page book "You May Survive Armageddon into God's New World" answers. The book is sent on a 50c contribution.
Write 150 Bridgeland Avenue, Toronto, Ont., or ask any Jehovah's Witnesses whom you meet, anywhere. They will be glad to serve you.

side of the road, never further than four feet from the curb, at a speed not exceeding 15 miles an hour. Drive wisely and carefully, and be considerate towards fellow users of the thoroughfare.

Travel in a straight line, without zigzagging.

Have full control of your bicycle through pedals and handlebars.

Equip your bike with a suitable bell or horn, but use only when necessary.

Have your lights on at night, a white one in front and a red one or a reflector at the rear. At night wear something white.

Avoid hitching to streetcars, trucks, buses or other vehicles.

Never ride on sidewalks.

Signal with your hand all stops and turns, always looking back, to make sure you can do so without risk.

Respect the right of way at intersections. Before turning left, go to the centre of the pavement, but remain at the extreme right when turning to the right.

Ride alone, never carry passengers. And remember, racing of any kind is strictly forbidden.

Make a complete stop at all stop signs, boulevards, main highways, and railway crossings.

If your bicycle has been stolen, report it to the police department immediately.

If a delivery boy, never overload your bicycle and make sure that it is equipped with a standard box or basket.

Avoid all "stunts" and horseplay while riding.

Keep your bicycle in perfect condition.

Foresee and avoid danger — be vigilant in your own interest and that of others — and always think before you act.

Young Canada's Book Week

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

In spite of the fact that two out of three Canadian homes have T.V. sets, the circulation of children's departments in our public libraries is increasing. Recently a librarian pointed out that T.V. viewing often stimulated a boy or girl to borrow books of facts to augment information he had received from T.V. and other sources.

John Erskine once expressed thanksgiving for the throngs pouring in and out of libraries. He pointed out that: "We ought to be thankful that a man reads at all. If he reads anything, he is for the moment taken out of his immediate self, some uplift, some imagination, some art, must be involved."

Young Canada's Book Week comes around in November. In many schools the teachers make suggestions about the choice of books. The book lists prepared annually by the Canadian Library Association are very useful in choosing books for birthdays or Christmas gifts.

The following titles have been selected by the committee for Young Canada's Book Week for the bookmark entitled, "The Canadian Scene":

Fox Island — by Kathrene Pinkerton (McLeod).

Canada is such a vast country that the setting for Canadian stories can be very different and in Algonquin Adventure by Ronald J. Cooke, (Ryerson) the background of this thrilling adventure yarn is the wild, rugged country, three hundred miles North of Toronto. This is an area we know well from camping in it and this is one of the newest juvenile books on the market which we can heartily recommend. It is written by the editor of the Forest and Outdoors Magazine.

Canadian Portraits by Byrne Hope Sanders, former editor of Chatelaine (Clarke Irwin), is another delightful book just off the press. In it are fascinating biographical sketches of Emily Carr, the painter; Cora Hind, newspaper woman and wheat crop prediction expert; Dr. Agusta Stowe Gullen, pioneer woman doctor; and Emily Murphy, first woman magistrate in the British Empire.

"He who gives a child a book
Gives that child a sweeping look
Through its pages
Down the ages.
Gives that child a ship to sail
Where the far adventures hail
Down the sea

Even before a child starts to school he can become acquainted with books. The school age boy or girl is full of questions, and a library is a source of reference. A child should receive home encouragement to discover if the school or public library has information on any special topic which appeals to him. Often this is the field of leisure time interests or hobbies. Books on "How to Make" are popular with all ages — and there are many such books written especially for young readers.

UNICEF Greeting Cards designed by famed artists

Once again, as in the past 10 years, distinguished artists from different countries have contributed designs for UNICEF Greeting Cards.

This year, the official United Nations card was designed by Japanese born Keiko Minami, who now lives in Paris. Art critics have hailed Mrs. Minami's color etchings for their unusual sensitivity and delicate brushwork, and her design for the 1958 UN official card is entitled "The Tree of Peace" — an olive tree in which rest two stylized birds.

Mrs. Minami has stated that although to some the UN signifies strength, to others security, to her it represents peace. Hence her drawing.

There are other designs from equally high-calibre artists. Fritz Busse, of the Federal Republic of Germany, has a series of five watercolors of delightfully delicate design, which he calls "A Time of Joy". He has depicted children of five different countries celebrating a holiday season in their homes.

Rangel Hidalgo, of Mexico, has contributed two designs, one of a boy, the other of a girl, with their gift offerings at the Christmas season. These are done in bold, vivid colors, creating a charming effect.

One dollar buys a box of 10 greeting cards with envelopes. Each card carries a simple message — Season's Greetings, in five official languages of the UN, French, English, Spanish, Chinese and Russian phrases are cartwheeled attractively on the inside of the card. Also, available at one dollar per box, are note cards of the same designs, without any greeting printed.

Results of Philadelphia's four years fluoridization

The Health Commission of Philadelphia has described as "truly amazing" the results of fluoridation of water, four years after a fluoridation program had been put into operation in the nation's third largest city, with a population of over 2 millions.

Commissioner James P. Dixon reported recently that dental decay of permanent teeth among the city's school children has decreased by nearly 50 percent, and a decrease of 43 percent was noted in extractions, since the program was undertaken in 1954.

The findings were based on a study of 17,617 six-year olds during the school year 1954-55, as compared with a study of 21,834 of the same age during 1957-58.

In addition to improvement of the children's dental health, the Commissioner pointed out the economic advantages of the program. "While water fluoridation costs each person about 7.6 cents a year, at the present rate, it will save a million dollars in reduced dental care for the people of Philadelphia", he said.

With respect to the reduction in tooth-removal, he said that the preservation of the six-year molars would have a lifelong effect on the dental health of the adult which the child would eventually become.

Add ½ c. small-diced celery, 2 tbsp. rice and 1 qt. chicken broth (or boiling water and 4 tsp. chicken base or instant chicken bouillon). Simmer-boil 25 min.

To thicken, mix 1½ tbsp. browned flour with ½ c. light cream or undiluted evaporated milk. Stir into the soup.

Peach Meringues: To the contents 1 (No. 2) can sliced peaches, add 1 tbsp. each enriched flour and melted butter, ½ tsp. cinnamon, 1 tbsp. lemon juice and ¾ c. granulated sugar.

Spread in buttered 8-in. pie plate.

Chowders with crusty bread!

Here's a hearty chowder to serve at a club supper or informal party. Its warmth and goodness are the very symbol of hospitality. If you wish, it can be made ahead of time then reheated. Serve it from a big tureen and accompany it with heated, crusty French bread, also a salad. For dessert you might offer autumn fruits and cheese.

Company Seafood Chowder

3 Pounds fish fillets (use different varieties, e.g., cod, haddock, halibut), 3 strips fat bacon, 5 large onion, chopped, 4 medium potatoes (diced), 2 cans (20 ounces each) tomatoes, 1 tablespoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon thyme, ¼ teaspoon mace, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 can (5 ounces) lobster, 1 quart milk (heated).

Cut fillets into one-inch pieces. Remove and discard any skin, if present. Fry bacon until crisp and brown; lift from drippings; crumble and set aside. Cook onion in bacon drippings until tender. Combine cooked onion, potatoes, tomatoes, and seasonings. Cover and simmer for 10 minutes. Add fish and simmer 10 minutes longer. Drain lobster and break into chunks. Add lobster, butter, and heated milk to fish mixture. Bring to simmering temperature but do not let boil. Garnish with crumbled bacon sprinkled over the top. Makes 12 generous servings.

Of all the seafood chowders, clam chowder is one of the most popular. Certainly it is the most controversial. For years a battle has raged up and down the Atlantic seacoast as to whether this chowder should be made with milk or canned tomatoes. Both versions are hearty, delicious and satisfying, say the fisheries home economists, but see for yourself. First a word of caution. Shucked clams, fresh and also canned, are sometimes sandy. To make sure all the grit is removed, drain the clams, rinse them well, and strain the clam liquid through several layers of fine cheese cloth.

Down East Clam Chowder

Canned clams (20 ounces total undrained weight), ¼ cup chopped fat bacon (3 strips), ¼ cup chopped onion, 1 cup diced potatoes, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 2 cups liquid (clam liquid plus water), 2 cups rich milk, 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley.

Drain clams and save liquid. Chop if desired. Fry bacon until crisp and brown. Remove scraps from pan and set aside. Add diced potatoes, seasonings, and clam liquor mixed with water to make required 2 cups of liquid. Cover and simmer until potatoes are tender. Add clams and milk. Bring to simmering temperature but do not let boil. Garnish with bacon scraps and chopped parsley sprinkled over the top. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Written Specially for The Lachute Watchman

By Edna Usher

Canadian Press Staff Writer

A love affair of a century ago is still affecting fashions in the atomic age, according to Toronto fashion experts.

The Empire line (high-waisted variation of the sack) was begun by Empress Josephine of France, they say. Josephine had her eye on the up and coming Napoleon, but knew he was self-conscious about his short stature.

The ingenious Josephine therefore took to wearing low-heeled slippers to reduce her height, but still preserved the tall illusion by raising her waistline to the bosom. Anyway, she won her man, and originated a style now admired for its grace.

Yule Logs

It's not too early to start making Yule-logs from old newspapers, for bright Christmas fireplaces. Chemicals are the secret of these brilliantly-flaming fuels, and the logs need about a month to dry. When rolled tightly, tied and soaked in certain solutions, they burn slowly with a rainbow of flames.

Put two pounds of coarse salt into a pail, plastic or wooden, because chemicals corrode metal. Add two pounds of bluestone and two gallons of boiling water.

Strontium nitrate, which burns with a red flame; bismuth nitrate which burns crimson; antimony chloride which burns blue; barium-chloride or borax, both of which give a green flame; or potassium chloride which burns purple.

Put the rolled up newspapers into the solution and let them soak until the liquid is absorbed. Don't use slick paper magazines because they won't absorb liquid easily.

Dry the logs on a rack till they are completely dry. When they are put on fire they will burn with an array of glowing colors.

Winter Appetites

Weight-watchers complain that winter is the most difficult season for them. The cold weather adds an edge to the appetite that cannot be ignored. The abundance of salad and fruit which makes for comparatively easy slimming in summer doesn't appeal so much when there's snow on the ground and an icy wind outside.

It contains a synthetic sweetener instead of sugar and makes six servings, each containing 117 calories compared with 262 if made with sugar.

Three eggs, separated; a quarter-teaspoon salt; one tablespoon of sweetener; a third-cup lemon juice; two tablespoons of melted butter; five tablespoons of flour; one and a half cups of skim milk.

Set oven at 350 degrees. Combine egg whites, salt and sweetener; beat until moist, firm peaks form. Combine yolks with remaining ingredients; beat until smooth. Gradually fold egg yolk mixture into whites; pour into a greased one-quart casserole. Set in a pan of hot water and bake one hour. Let casserole cool in pan of water to keep pudding from shrinking.

W. Institutes urge books, libraries for children

"You will be hearing a great deal about this tenth year of Young Canada's Book Week," Mrs. J. Ward Rember, provincial convener of Education for the Quebec Women's Institutes, reminds us.

"Give a child a book . . . give children libraries," she quotes Senator Muriel Ferguson, who has long concerned herself with the needs of childhood by such things as family allowances and children's libraries — working for both the physical and the intellectual welfare of Canadian boys and girls. Sharing books with children is one of the points she emphasizes — books to read aloud for family fun, with plenty of conversation in them and pictures, as well as good story-telling.

Books for children is one of the things for Women's Institutes to keep in mind as the long winter evenings and Christmastime approach. One never can estimate the far-reaching results and influence of reading good books.

German refugees seek answer in Scriptures

On October 6, 1954, a committee called Biblemission (Bible Mission) was formed in Germany by the Bible Societies. Its function is to provide Scriptures among individuals and groups who are in physical or spiritual need today, as the result of what they have suffered.

The service of Bible distribution is primarily directed towards exiles and refugees in Western Germany, and in West Berlin. This 20th Century has been called "the century of the homeless." Since August, 1945, 18 million Germans have lost their homeland. By June, 1956, every fifth inhabitant of Western Germany was an exile or refugee. During 1957, 265,000 people from Eastern Germany fled to Western Germany, most of them carrying only a cardboard box with a few sandwiches and some pieces of underwear. Anything else would make them suspect in the eyes of the police where they cross the frontier. For most of them their future is absolutely unknown.

These people begin to ask about the meaning of their life and their relationship to God. Many find the answer in Bibles given them; since 1954, the Bible Mission has provided over 307,000 Scriptures.

French-language editors at Joliette

The Laurentides weekly French-language newspapers group assembled at Joliette, Que., recently, to set up their constitution and elect officers. The cleric appearing in this group is the Rev. Canon Léo Forest, of Joliette, while Fernand Berthiaume, editor of L'Argenteuil, French weekly of the Lachute community, is seen fifth from right. Mr. Berthiaume, who has been serving as interim chairman, was elected as charter president of the Association.

INDIAN CULTURE CANADIAN ASSET

Montreal (CP) — Canada could benefit a great deal, while raising the living standards of its native Indian population, by absorbing more of that race's culture, says a spokesman for the Indian people.

Dr. Gilbert C. Monture, a mineralogist from Brantford, Ont., told the Montreal Council of Women that greater absorption of Indian traditions would seal a tremendous breach by making the Indian people "feel they are a part of Canada with a responsibility to maintain."

"Among the traditional legends, songs and music of the Indian, there is a great source of cultural material that could enrich Canadian literature, music and art," he added.

PROGRESS THROUGH RESEARCH

CARE WITH CLEANERS

Cleanliness may be next to godliness — but it also can be dangerous. Certainly many human beings go to meet their Maker because of cleaning fluids and laundry bleaches.

"It is surprising how much a locked cabinet or even a tightly closed container on a high shelf might do to make unnecessary a discussion of laundry bleach poisoning", says the Pfizer Spectrum, a medical magazine.

Many housewives thoughtlessly store chlorinated laundry bleaches and the cleaning fluid, carbon tetrachloride, in soda-pop containers, wine bottles and even baby bottles. These are even placed on the floor within easy reach for toddlers in an exploring stage of life.

After a seven-year study, three doctors reported in the Canadian Medical Association Journal that carbon tetrachloride is one of the commonest medical causes of serious and even fatal kidney damage. The fluid can have dangerous effects whether it is inhaled, swallowed or absorbed through the skin.

The corrosive and caustic action of the chlorinated alkalies used as laundry bleaches are well-known to anyone who has mourned a favorite garment eaten away by strong laundry bleaches. When swallowed, these chemicals cause severe burns in the mouth and digestive tract — a terrible reward for the enterprise of young explorers.

Like other forms of poisoning, poisonings due to laundry bleaches and cleaning fluids are enormously simple to prevent. "What is required," says Spectrum, "is minimal education of housewives to keep such commonplace and dangerous agents out of reach."

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you:

Q. I quit my job because the forelady was always picking on me, and I can prove it. Do I have to wait six weeks before I apply for benefit?

A. You should apply for benefit immediately you become unemployed. All of the circumstances surrounding your leaving the job would then be gone into and only if it were found that you had little or no justification for quitting would disqualification be imposed.

* * *

Q. I am a Hungarian immigrant and when I filed my initial claim I declared that I was and still am supporting my wife who resides in Hungary and who is in receipt of no other income than the money I send her. Am I entitled to the dependency rate?

A. No. Benefit is paid at the dependency rate only if the dependent resides in Canada or in one of the states of the United States with which Canada has an arrangement.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

For the friend on your Christmas list who has everything, including a car, a gift for the car may be the answer.

Here are a few of the more interesting car extras available in specialty shops this year. (Prices may vary).

Road flares, the size of a long firecracker and able to burn in both wind and rain are a handy safety precaution for the flat tire changer at night. A bundle of four sells for 89 cents.

A little more elaborate is the "Warn-O-Flash", which plugs into the cigarette lighter and flashes a red beam, marking the roadside repair site. It sells for $3.98.

A metal clamp that slips neatly between door frame and window, can be used to hold a glass, baby's bottle, or soda bottle firmly in place. It's good for motorists with children. The price is $1.

If your driver likes to plot his course — as well as follow a road map — he may like an illuminated car compass that can be attached to the dash board. It sells for $3.98.

For the after-dark traveller, a map visor that clamps onto the sunshade and contains a light for help in reading roadmaps could be a useful item — at $14.95.

A man who likes to shave in his car or doesn't have a car radio might be intrigued by a clever little converter that plugs into the cigarette lighter and turns it into a 110 volt a.c. outlet. $18.95.

And finally, for those who really have everything, there's a portable refrigerator ($149.95) or a portable air-conditioner that plugs into that all-purpose cigarette lighter ($5.50).

Broken English a world tongue

By Lewis Milligan

There have been several attempts to create a world language, the most ambitious of which was Esperanto, but although it was based on words in European languages and was widely promoted, it was just another language and only added to the existing confusion of tongues. And now yet another form of speech is being advanced for universal adoption, and this time it is not new, for it is already spoken in all parts of the world — Broken English.

An eminent Dutch physicist, Professor H. B. G. Casamir, has suggested that "the quaint broken English spoken by foreigners should become the world's international language." The whole thing is said to have started as a jest in an after-dinner talk at an international meeting of physicists in Copenhagen, when the professor remarked, "Let's regard Broken English as a language in its own right."

Coming from a Dutchman, it cannot be objected that the idea is an attempt to extend British imperialism to the realm of language. As a Dutchman the professor might have been tempted to suggest "Double-Dutch" as an alternative, for that is universal enough in political and other quarters. But he pointed out Broken English has already become an important international language, being used by ambassadors in Washington, taxi drivers in Paris, waiters in Hawaii, businessmen in Buenos Aires. Even behind the iron curtain scientists from different Communist nations, he said, find that the only way to communicate successfully is by using broken English.

"It isn't just Pidgin English," said the professor. "It's a crazy mixed-up English, yet clear enough to be understood by almost everyone with a smattering of the language — and even by English-speaking peoples themselves." For that matter the King's English, as spoken in various parts of the British Isles, is broken into different dialects. The Scots, the Irish and the Welsh break up the language with their accents and native idioms, and the broad dialect of the Yorkshireman sounds like a foreign tongue to the Cockney. They used to say that the Dublin man and the Aberdonian spoke the best English. The Welsh, having a distinct language of their own, used to "put the cart before the horse" in their use of English adjectives. Canadians generally speak better English than the average Englishman, but the cultured French Canadian speaks the best English on this continent. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and former Premier Louis St. Laurent spoke perfect English with little or no French accent — the latter, indeed, had a touch of Irish brogue, which he got from his mother. The Americans have their dialects which vary from North and South and East and West, but the cultured New Englanders still retain a remnant of artistocratic English, as do the Virginians.

Professor Casimir said it is already a fact that a fantastic number of people — from migrants in a dozen countries to innumerable Asians and Africans — speak Broken English well enough to communicate with one another. "We should", he said, "be taking Broken English far more seriously. It can become the world's first really universal language."

2-Year feed test, fast-gaining beef

A performance testing program for beef cattle, based on the genetical principle that fast-gaining bulls will produce fast-gaining progeny, has rounded out its second year of operation.

Top quality calves in 44 Canadian purebred herds were identified through the Record of Performance system.

The program, carried out by the Canada Department of Agriculture and participating provinces, tested 863 calves — more than double the number for the preceding year.

The ranks continue to swell as more provinces join in the project.

How Plan Started

Idea for the program took root in 1955 when, at the urging of purebred cattle producers, a group of offcials from the Federal Production Service and the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture inspected north-western United States projects.

Ultimate goal is to improve efficiency and economy of beef cattle production in Canada.

There were 404 bull and 459 heifer calves on test to weaning. The bulls gained an average of two pounds per day and the heifers 1.7 pounds. The top one-third of the bulls put on 2.26 pounds per day — 0.69 pound more than the bottom one-third. With the heifers, this difference amounted to just over half a pound per day.

Breeders weighed the test calves at birth and provincial officials weighed and graded them at weaning and again at the end of the winter feeding period. A number were eliminated, and, during winter feeding, 349 bulls and 418 heifers were under scrutiny.

Difference Counts

During this period, the bulls again gained an average of two pounds per day and the heifers dropped to 1.3 pounds. The top one-third of the bulls tested 2.27 pounds per day, or 0.51 pound more than the bottom one-third. Difference in these two groups of heifers amounted to 0.41 pound per day.

Given this information, it is a matter of personal decision on the part of the breeder of purebred stock to determine his selection of future breeding animals. Producers of commercial stock may base their selection of bulls on a performance test.

Lumber retailers ask for Ministry of Construction

Montreal — The election of Albert J. Nixon of Montreal as president, and a recommendation to the Federal Government to establish a Ministry of Housing, were highlights of the recent annual convention of the Quebec Retail Lumber Dealers Association, held in Montreal.

Mr. Nixon is vice-president and general manager of the Montreal Lumber Company Limited.

The convention reviewed problems which are faced by Quebec lumber retailers and various suggestions for improvement.

The Hon. J. J. Bertrand, Quebec Minister of Lands and Forests, stressed the importance of the lumbering industry in the economy of the country and said that his department was always ready to assist the lumber retailers in solving their problems.

Horace Boivin, Mayor of Granby, spoke of the success which had been obtained in the recent Home Improvement program held in his district, an example which he said could be followed by other parts of the province.

In asking for a Ministry of Construction, the Association stressed the importance of the construction industry in the economy of the country, and said it believed that a department would be advantageous to all concerned.

Snow keeps trees warm

A blanket of snow acts as insulation for young apple trees, the Horticulture Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, has discovered.

Tests made at Central Experimental Farm during a sub-zero, nine-day period in January, 1957, showed the effects of snow on soil temperatures.

With air temperature averaging 12 degrees Fahrenheit, the soil temperature under one inch of soil with a nine-inch snow cover was 28 degrees Fahrenheit — a difference of 40 degrees between the air and soil temperatures.

Without the snow covering, the soil temperature skidded to 12 degrees Fahrenheit — indicating that the snow coverage maintained temperatures 16 degrees higher, or 40 percent of the total insulation.

This effect in degrees of temperature was minimized to about 15 percent during milder periods of winter, averaging 21 degrees Fahrenheit.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

The Fertilizer Value of Liquid Manure

A common experience of tourists traveling along the country roads of Europe, is to see and smell farmers' tank wagons distributing "Jauche" or liquid manure on fields, doing so especially just before a rain or during a rain when the smell is especially authoritative.

Dr. Bohstedt

Mark Twain in his "Innocents Abroad" paid his respects to the care with which European farmers conserved both solid and liquid manure. He even spun a village romance around the theme.

We could learn an excellent lesson in conservation from those practices, granted that we in the United States would try to mechanize or reduce labor in our care and use of both solid and liquid manure.

We would properly be shocked, I am sure, at the indifference to fertility loss, of a certain dairyman who proudly demonstrated in his new barn that the gutters had enough slope and were so arranged as to shunt the urine out of the barn, to lose itself down the barn-yard slope and into the creek. That, he figured, was good riddance of a bothersome by-product.

Every enlightened stockman tries to have enough bedding to soak up the urine, for this has high fertility value. With the exception of hog urine which is quite watery, liquid manure, pound for pound is just as valuable as the solid excrement. That is, in terms of the commercial value of nitrogen, phosphorous and potash, the urine being especially rich in potash. My former colleague, Professor Truog, of the Soils Department, University of Wisconsin, also recognizes that the urine part of manure contributes an important amount of salt to the soil, the amount depending on the management of the livestock.

If short of bedding for this soaking-up salvage of urine, you might take a leaf out of the European farmer's book and have the gutters empty into a concrete cistern or sump, to be periodically emptied by a sump pump into a tank wagon or truck, and to be applied on the land at appropriate times. This, as inferred at the beginning, is when an impending rain will carry it downward into the soil.

Question: Where tankage and meat scrap in themselves contain fair amounts of salt, is it necessary to add salt to a hog ration that is balanced with these by-products?

Answer: Seldom, because of shortage of supply, can a hog ration be entirely balanced with either tankage or meat scrap, but rather only in small part, with soybean oil meal or other vegetable protein providing the bulk of the protein. This being the case, salt should always be added, usually in amounts of about one-half per cent of the mixture.

Agriculture team in Far East

A seven-man Food and Agriculture Organization team is on assignment in the Far East, studying the agricultural aspects of a project aimed at developing the lower Mekong River basin.

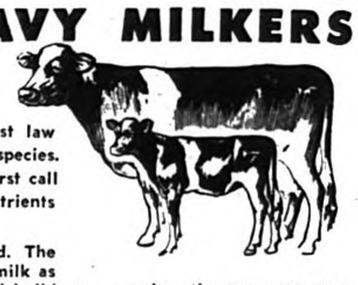

A five-year, $9,200,000 development program that would affect Thailand, Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam, has been proposed.

G. H. Bacon, United Kingdom agronomist, heads the team. Its task is to assess the agricultural potential of the basin and recommend the scope and nature of further investigations.

Some surveys have already been carried out under the wing of the United Nations. Being considered are flood control, navigation, irrigation and generation of power.

CALF EMBRYO GROWTH comes first!!

GROW YOUR HEIFERS TO BE HEAVY MILKERS

Mother Nature's first law is reproduction of the species. So the calf will get first call on necessary feed nutrients to keep it alive.

MILK comes second. The cow will cut back on milk as the calf embryo's need builds up — unless the cow gets all the necessary nutrients in her feed.

BODY comes last. If there is any shortage in the feed, her bones, meat, and even the blood, actually are drained of vital vitamins and proteins. The end result is a broken-down cow. That's what you should call "burning out" a cow — instead of what you have believed to be "burning her out"; feeding her for high milk production or growing a large healthy calf.

PURINA CHOWS are scientically blended and cow-tested to MEET ALL THE NEEDS OF COWS . . . their calves . . . and the milk. That's why the Purina Plan is geared for long life and high, profitable production.

Won't you switch to the Purina Plan today and start to make a milking herd that will make you money — surplus milk or full price.

IN MOMENTS OF CRISIS—CONFIDENCE COUNTS

Imperial's 78 years of leadership has helped Canadians take for granted the reliability of oil and oil products

Reliability implies an adequate supply of the products you depend upon . . . when and where you need them, at reasonable prices.

Imperial has always been the leader in ensuring Canadians of an adequate supply of oil. Imperial's discovery of oil at Leduc, in 1947, opened the vast western oil fields.

The first oil company to supply consumer needs in all Canada's provinces, Imperial has nine refineries from Halifax to Vancouver (and in the Northwest Territories) to meet the local needs of Canadians.

Imperial has always been the leader, too, in a highly competitive industry which must seek . . . by broadening markets and increasing efficiency . . . to keep prices down. Over the past ten years, while prices of things in general have risen 134%, regular gasoline has gone up only 11%.

Since Leduc, Canadian crude oil reserves have increased 45 times.

DEVASTATION AS DYNAMITE TRUCK EXPLODES

No injuries or loss of life

This is all that remained of a truck carrying dynamite from Montreal to Buckingham, which caught fire and exploded on Route 8 between Lachute and St. Eustache last Friday. The blast hurled fragments of the truck several hundred feet. Among spectators in this picture is a Gatineau Power lineman, Roger Raymond (in helmet), among a crew sent to the scene to restore broken circuits.

Home and buildings razed

This scene of devastation shows ruins of a farmhouse and buildings owned by Gérard Gratton, Parish of St. Augustin. Mrs. Gratton carried her baby from the house when a neighbor relayed the truck driver's warning over the telephone. Despite severe damage, extending to broken windows and doors over a quarter-mile radius, no injuries or loss of life resulted.

— Photos by Bertrand Studio

A mile and a half east of the Belle Riviere junction and curve, a 10-ton truck carrying dynamite caught fire, exploded, demolished a nearby farmhouse and barn, broke windows in several other homes and blasted a four-by-twelve crater in the No. 8 Highway, between here and St. Eustache, early Friday afternoon.

Guy Coppareilli, 30, of Montreal, dashed from his truck to warn homeowners to vacate. The blast occurred just before one o'clock, in a truck owned by Spino Construction Co. of Montreal.

Homeless after the explosion were Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Gratton and their five children whose home and farm buildings were razed by fire.

Copparelli was en route from Montreal to Buckingham when a passing motorist signalled that his truck was afire.

He dashed to the home of Joseph Gauthier, some 50 yards away, and said: "Get out of the house. There's dynamite in there," Mrs. Simone Gauthier said later.

"When he mentioned dynamite I telephoned to Mrs. Gratton and the police," she said. "Then I left the house, too."

Neighbors Report Effects

Ross Oswald, well known in Lachute, was plowing in a field butting on the highway. His tractor was heading in the direction of the burning truck, and having no intimation it was carrying explosives, Ross continued on his tractor towards the highway. He was about 1,000 feet from the blast, which showered pieces around him; and fortunately the tractor stalled. . . . On Monday he reported he felt "all aches and bruises".

Ross Oswald reports, after the truck was halted, it burned eight minutes before exploding. All the doors and windows were blown from the new house constructed by his father, Clifford Oswald, and windows were blown from the barn. The damage here was estimated around $1,000.

The blast also moved the Gauthier home a few inches off the foundation, shattered every window in the house, scattering glass over fallen furniture, and ripped open the side of a garage behind the house. Windows were broken in several neighboring homes.

The rest of the Gratton children were in school at the time. Mr. Gratton was working with a road crew nine miles away. Friday night the family moved in with Mr. Gratton's brother, Claude, at a nearby farm. Mr. Gratton said they would rebuild on the same site.

RCMP Investigating

Montreal — The RCMP began an investigation Monday into a dynamite explosion that destroyed a truck, and razed a farm house and barn near St. Eustache.

The work will be done by the municipality as a measure of relief for the winter unemployment problem.

Construction will be carried out under the supervision of town engineer Alex Baptist. The project will provide work for at least 50 men.

Aid From Ontario?

It is not known whether the project will come under Premier Frost's recently-announced provincial aid program to municipalities to alleviate the winter unemployment problem. But Mayor Gascon is attempting to have it included.

Under the provincial program, Ontario will underwrite 25 per cent of payroll costs in addition to 50 per cent provided by the Dominion Government. The aid is for such programs as sewers, sidewalks, parks and public buildings.

"It's pretty difficult to build sidewalks and sewers in the winter in this cold part of the province", said Mayor Gascon, "I don't know yet whether we can include the arena."

Gains Approval

Cinder block and reinforced concrete walls of the town's natural ice rink, destroyed by fire in January 1956, will be utilized in construction of the new community centre.

The site and remains of the building were acquired by the town from the Hawkesbury Promoting Company shortly after the fire for "a very low price" of about $1,500.

C-I-L workers hurt in crash, Brownsburg Road

Five local residents were treated for minor injuries late Sunday evening following an accident on Bain's Flats, on the Brownsburg Road. The accident occurred when a car, owned and driven by Claude Bigras, 22, of Ste. Dorothée, slid out of control into the path of a carload of C-I-L workers driven by Lucien Cyr, 28, of Mary Street, Lachute.

Injured were Mr. Cyr, Willie MacKenzie, Guy Naveau, Claude Gibeault and Ronald Racine, all of the Lachute area, who were treated at the Providence Hospital by Dr. Auffrey.

The accident was investigated by Traffic Officer Gerard Loyer.

Today's showring standards are not guaranteeing the best livestock for the average farmer, in the opinion of 80% of Quebec Farm Forum members. Production and performance records are a much better indication of the qualities desired.

Production or performance is the quality looked for by 40% of the farmers when buying stock; 60% of stockmen look for a combination of performance and showring qualities. A few like to know the ancestry of the animal.

Changes should be made in the present system of stock showing and judging, suggest two thirds of the members. Points should be awarded for performance, or show animals might be required to meet some performance standard before they could be shown.

Most groups think shows are valuable. However, there were many complaints that stock is overfitted, overfed, and that occasionally animals are illegally "doctored". Some Forums pointed out that overfitting is uneconomical for the farmer and disliked by the consumer. They ask why judges tolerate it. Short-legged, small animals often found in showrings are not the type of animals that most farmers look for, stated some groups.

"Today's showring standards do not guarantee the best livestock for the average producer. Some want looks, others production. There should be a record on animals to prove their production abilities as well as their 'beauty points'. We think that an animal's record should be shown when being judged. Sometimes the best looking animals are poor producers — either milk or beef." — This was the opinion expressed by Jerusalem-Bethany Forum in Argenteuil County.

"JOB PROMOTION IS GOOD BUSINESS" —

National Employment director addresses Lions Club audience

Another enthusiastic meeting of the Lions Club last week exemplified the functions of this group in various aspects — fellowship, community service and international affiliation. The topic and speaker, moreover, were fitting to the constructive role this organization plays in national well-being.

The meeting was chaired by Phil Tremblay, president; the speaker was Mr. William Thompson, Director of the National Employment Service at Ottawa; and a notable visitor was Deputy District Governor A. Drapeau, providing a link with the "outer space" of Lionism.

Major business of the club was a briefing on progress at the new artificial ice rink — with key men on finance, construction and administration giving their reports. Of immediate public interest is the fact that the site was practically ready for ice-making (pending a spurt of manual labor in covering the pipe system with sand), and that season tickets are now in distribution for sale, both for individual and family skating privileges.

There was a large delegation present from the St. Lambert and Lachine - Lakeshore clubs to support the District Deputy on his visit. The latter, a member of the St. Lambert group, was called upon to present a number of perfect attendance buttons. The recipients included — Horace Lamarche, for 10 years' attendance; Rod Carreau, for five years' attendance; and a number of 100-percenters for the last club year.

The Lions Club quartet added to their growing prestige with another fine performance, and a visiting songster contributed to the interlude of entertainment.

Lion Dr. F. W. FitzGerald, in his series of Information talks, dwelt briefly on the various functions of club officers, while the visiting District Deputy also gave a boost for Lionism in its humanitarian and moral aspects.

Constructive Topic — Authoritative Speaker

With a long experience in personnel selection both in the armed services and civilian life, Mr. William Thompson is virtually "boss" of Employment in the N.E.S. at Ottawa, which functions under the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

"As custodians of your employment service", he said, "our objective is a sound organization of the labor market — to establish confidence by the efficient supplying of manpower for the needs of industry, public works, and the professions — to achieve the best for the individual, the best for the employer, and hence, the best for the country at large."

How extensively the Employment Service has progressed along these lines was illustrated by the speaker in such examples as the St. Lawrence Seaway, Kittimat, the Dew Line, Camp Gagetown, American bases in the North, and harvesting in the West. For these projects the Service had largely, almost exclusively, supplied the Canadian workers. In the first instance, the Seaway, it had enlisted 22,000 employees from across Canada.

There had been 20,000 placements of physically handicapped workers, while other "specialized" attention was directed to procuring jobs for Indians in Ottawa's "self-sufficiency program", and in the absorption of older workers.

The "bump" in the birthrate from war years was an interesting (and challenging) development, which accounted in some measure for the current 80,000-a-year increase in the labor market. This trend, incidentally, suggested immense housing requirements in the coming years, and a consequent boost to construction and its allied trades.

Mr. Thompson spoke explicitly on the National Employment Service in its "fight against winter slowdown". This campaign had been pushed in many ways — 11,000 individual phone calls, for instance, had produced 2,000 jobs — Federal contracts had been let to ensure work continuing in the winter, and Provincial departments were following suit. "But still, much depends on local support at the local level", concluded the speaker, on this angle. "Job promotion is good business: when everybody works, everybody benefits!"

Speaking of the ascendency of sputniks and moon-rockets, he went so far as to say that the country which develops the best techniques for the matching of men to jobs, will eventually outstrip the world.

Mr. Thompson was cordially thanked by Roger Regimbal, Personnel director for Ayers Limited.

Scots host sends cordial account of Rotary curling team on visit

The following letter is self-explanatory. The Watchman and friends of the Rotary curlers now touring Scotland are grateful to the writer, Mr. Bob Mackintosh, who will doubtless be remembered by curlers here as a member of Scotland's visiting team last season.

Glasgow, Scotland.

Editor, The Lachute Watchman.

Dear Sir:

Last year around this time I had the honor of being Team Captain of the Rotary Curlers of Scotland, and we visited in your area. I had the privilege of staying with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Somers, of Brownsburg.

At this time, as you may know, we Scots are hosts to a team of Rotary Curlers led by Linton W. Armstrong of Lachute. Other members from Lachute include Jack MacKimmie, Geo. G. McGibbon and Syd Drew.

The team have been to Ayr and the Burns Country, and are now in the Glasgow area. Yesterday they visited the private home of the late Sir Harry Lauder and were entertained by his niece, Miss Greta Lauder. Tomorrow they have a civic luncheon at the City Chambers in Glasgow given in their honor by the Lord Provost. From Glasgow they go to Falkirk and then Edinburgh, prior to going north. They are due back in Glasgow on the 3rd December.

If any of your readers are interested in the curling results you may tell them that they have played twice, beating Ayr by 1 shot 35-34, and beating Lanark by 9 shots. But what is much more important I think, they are having a good time, and we are loving having them stay in our homes. Mr. Armstrong has pleased his Scottish audiences with his sincerity of purpose, and surely only good can come out of this wonderful international idea of living together.

It just might be that something in the spirit of this hurried note may find its way into your paper.

We remember with gratitude the wonderful time we had in your town.

Cordially,

— Bob Mackintosh

Geo. Powell heads internat'l hotel sales group

George W. Powell, of Ste. Adele, a former Lachute boy, was elected president of the International Hotel Sales Management Association, at the group's 31st annual convention held in Montreal last week.

Other officers elected were Robt. Smith, Miami; J. Webster, Galveston; and Arthur Taylor, Boston, all vice-presidents, and James Heimbaugh, Atlantic City, treasurer.

George W. Powell is the first Canadian to occupy the presidency of this Association, which boasts 1,200 members in 20 countries.

Colleagues honor Sister Gabriel at Prov. Hospital

At an informal gathering Tuesday morning in the Providence Hospital, Sister Gabriel-Marie was greeted and honored on her 50th anniversary since entering religious life, and on the completion of her 15th year since arriving to assume duties here at the local hospital. As assistant director of the institution, and day supervisor, she is favorably known both to the French and English-speaking population.

Dr. Roger Lavigne, chairman of the hospital's medical board, spoke highly of the regard in which Sister Gabriel is held by the medical fraternity, and visualized the new Regional Hospital as a future monument to her devotion to the sick. Dr. Lavigne recalled that, when she first came to Lachute, Sister Gabriel and her nursing colleagues were housed in a private residence, small and poorly equipped.

The physicans presented the honored guest with a gold watch, and a basket of flowers was tendered from the doctors' wives. Sister Gabriel, deeply touched, replied fittingly to these sentiments of esteem.

Among those present were Drs. R. Lavigne, M. Papineau, Jules Lafleur, F. W. FitzGerald and André Sauvé, of Lachute; Dr. M. Sylvestre, of St. Andrews; the Rev. L. A. Ducharme, chaplain of the hospital; Sisters Louis-Bernard and Jean-Vianney; and the nurses, Mme L. Théroux, Mlles Monique Ranger, Monique Gagnon and Sylvia Gauthier. . .

Double outbreak brings firefighters to Ayersville

A double outbreak of fire, one on Monday noon and the other at 4.50 a.m. Tuesday, gutted a five-room frame dwelling owned by Pierre Malette and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Quesnel and family, near the corner of Bradford and Corbeil Street, Ayersville.

The original fire was extinguished in less than an hour following the alarm, and, according to neighbors, was checked periodically to be sure than no burning embers were remaining.

At the time of the second alarm, the entire building was a mass of flame — the fire having mysteriously started and spread, engulfing the complete building.

The R. A. Beamish Store on Lachute's Main Street has once again been entered by thieves, who this time made good their escape with an undisclosed sum of money, not believed to have been very large, according to a statement by Manager Leo Holt. This is the third such break-in within a little more than a year.

Entry to the building was made by means of a rear window, the thieves then getting into the store and moving the safe, where they opened it with little difficulty — the safe being described by investigating police officers from Montreal as little more than a means of protection against fire.

Coinciding with arrival of the safe-breaking squad from Montreal was the arrival of company maintenance men who had been instructed to install iron bars on the basement windows.

Non-committal plea brings conviction

Albert Normand, 38-year-old Lachute resident, was last week found guilty of a charge of breaking and entering with theft, laid in connection with a robbery at the restaurant of Fernand Larocque, Sydney Street, on September 20, 1957, and was sentenced to two years in jail.

The sentence was handed down in court yesterday by Judge Roger Ouimette, who is presiding at the assizes.

Normand pleaded his own case before the jury, stating he was intoxicated at the time, and that while he could have committed the infraction, it was just as possible that someone else had committed it.

Transport enters dance hall at Grenv'l roadside

A semi-trailer van owned by the G. A. Hall Cartage Co., of Montreal, swerved out of control when struck by a car on Route 8 at Grenville, and smashed into the MacIntyre Dance Hall, causing an estimated $3,500 damage to the building. The van was damaged to the extent of $2,000 in the accident, while the car, owned and driven by Leo Belisle of Grenville Bay, suffered damage of approximately $950.

The accident occurred at 6.55 a.m. Monday, when the car cut across the highway to head towards Grenville Bay and smashed into the side of the van. Both vehicles were headed in a westerly direction. The trailer went off the highway and rammed into the end of the dance hall, also demolishing a portion of the kitchen.

The accident was investigated by Traffic Officer Ronald Massie.

8 Cars involved in bridge mishap

Two separate accidents on the Rouge River bridge at Calumet on Sunday evening caused damage ranging from $500 to $700 on each of eight cars, two persons being treated in the Notre Dame Hospital, Hawkesbury, for facial and head injuries. Investigating Officer Albert Legault reports the highway was blocked for about an hour as a result of the collisions, the first of which occurred around 10 p.m. on the snow-covered bridge.

Branch 70 (Lachute) Correspondent

President R. O. MacLean chaired what is believed to be the shortest general meeting held in the history of this Branch on Wednesday last; opened and closed in 40 minutes. We think the football telecast had a lot to do with it. However, a lot of ground was covered in that time.

Continuing on the hall improvement campaign, an additional 12 upholstered chairs and another coffee table were authorized for the downstairs clubroom. The executive have been pleased with the reaction to these by the members. New lighting fixtures have been received for installation and other improvements will be implemented. The Trustees were requested to review the building and furniture insurance, and to increase coverage if they feel it necessary.

Comrade Wm. Blakeley has taken a few well-deserved days off, and has been replaced by various members of the executive.

The quarterly District Council meeting has been called for Sunday, November 30. All members and their families are requested to attend this meeting in Ste. Agathe; call Comrade Jim Coney for details. It is expected that the important issue concerning November 11 as a National Holiday will be finalized for presentation to the Provincial Command.

Keep in mind the annual Christmas preparations and advise the executive of any veterans or their families requiring assistance at this time of year.

a few well-deserved days off, and Legion contributes $20,000 a year to the development of young athletes?

See you next week!

Fish-Game Fed'n annual convention this week-end

Montreal — "This is Laurentides Year for members of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations," said Mr. Art Maddison Wood, in emphasizing the annual convention of Federation, of which he is president, to be held this Friday and Saturday at the Hotel Lapointe in St. Jerome.

"The 490 fish and game associations and clubs, which Federation represents, are located in every part of Quebec," added Mr. Wood, "and the Laurentides area, north of Montreal, is one of our most important producers of wildlife.

All phases of wildlife management will be discussed by sportsmen with officers of the provincial and federal departments concerned. Among these important matters are the moose and deer populations, water pollution, law enforcement, etc.; these subjects will be dealt with at forum meetings, where sportsmen will convey their ideas to the provincial and federal wildlife officers and biologists.

Hon. Dr. C. E. Pouliot, Quebec Minister of Game and Fisheries, will be guest speaker at the closing luncheon. Another feature of interest will be the presentation of awards to winners of the Molson's Annual Fishing Tournament.

A Back-to-the-Pub movement and life's humorous sidelights

By Margaret Cook

Grey November, capricious November; as we write, the clouds are massed blue and threatening, and the "wind moans round with many voices". Yet a few minutes ago, the sun was shining golden on the few late chrysanthemums, and as I walked to the door, the prankish wind snatched my hat from my head and hurled it against a particularly dirty bit of fence. Now a pale, lemon streak has appeared at the edge of the cloud, a gay binding on the blanket that may well mean snow. But I am unmoved, I have always liked November for its muted colors — and, oh, the joy of the muted cries of little children! May has its flowers, but November has its double windows.

This, I think will be the article of true but strange stories. The best stories can never be published, but these should get by that black pencil. First, the story of the pill. Our cat, Peter, has been grievously ill with a cystitis (inflammation of the bladder to you). His doctor prescribed little brown pills three times a day, as well as some other medication. Margaret Cook is still taking anti-biotics three times a day. At 11.30 of a recent morning, she laid out Peter's pill and her capsule on the kitchen counter, picked up a glass of water, downed her dose, and reached for Peter's treat — You guessed it! I had taken Peter's pill. Let it be recorded that that night's sleep was the best I have experienced these many moons!

Then there is the mystery of the vanishing coat. A friend of ours recently was involved in a Mother-and-Daughter banquet. She placed her coat over the back of a chair and when, hours later, after attending to many duties, she went to get her coat, it had disappeared. Instead, there was a man's overcoat. Since nearly everybody else had departed, it was evident that some misguided male had thrown Hilda's coat over his arm, and had not noticed when he went home. Telephone calls were made to likely persons; more frantic searching. An examination of the coat revealed it was quite worn, whereupon the rector suggested that it had been brought in for a welfare donation. But that did not explain what had happened to the lost coat. Finally, our friend left her sister to wait for possible returns or enquiries, and herself went home to get another coat. When she went into the cloakroom, there hung her missing coat! . . . The solution — she had put her husband's coat over her shoulders, then on the chair. Now we are all watching for George to appear in a new overcoat. Our own husband opines that Hilda should not be let out alone.

The third story is perhaps the best. We owe it to our sister-in-law. A certain city plumber has for an apprentice a young man from the Channel Islands, who finds life in Canada interesting but baffling, especially as to idioms. Recently, working on a job in a cellar, he had occasion to pass through the client's kitchen, and, on returning to the cellar, reported to the lady of the house, who evidently was hovering about, "Your joint smells." To his horror and amazement he was immediately ordered off the premises, the lady screaming with rage. She phoned the master plumber that his employee had insulted her; she reported the incident to her husband — in fact, made a real issue of the whole matter. Fortunately, the husband was an ex-serviceman, who had been in Britain, and was able to explain that the poor young man was merely trying to alert her to the fact that the roast was burning.

Now that the days of gardening are over, about the only form of exercise, other than the normal ten miles or so that housework entails, is walking. A few Sundays ago, we went over to St. Helen's Island, and spent a pleasant hour wandering over its green slopes. I am always reminded when there, that my father in his extreme youth once spent an uneasy fortnight there awaiting the expected invasion of Fenians. Seems to me from what I remember from the history books, the Fenians were going to liberate us poor down-trodden Canucks from the British. Now, the island is a well-policed park, with swimming-pool and museum, also a theatre and a restaurant. We mean to have a meal there soon and will tell you about the place, which everybody agrees is most pleasing. We enjoyed the walk but agreed that what this country needs is a good pub. No matter where one walks in the British Isles (maybe that's too sweeping a statement), well, nearly everywhere, one can walk two or three miles, then pop into a pub or inn, or even a plain farmhouse, and be assured of a pleasant welcome, hot tea and scones or biscuits. But this is impossible in this country. Of course, one can get good tea in pleasant circumstances but one must jar one's spine walking on concrete before entering the tea place, and there is no welcoming smile, no convivial game of darts, no friendly gossip. If anyone with a million dollars and a kind heart wants to begin a Back-to-the-Pub movement, I offer them the idea for free.

The daughter of the house was home briefly this week and appears blooming. Her two interests are eating and studying. She was in the house seven hours and consumed in that time a half-soufflé of tuna fish, three slices of French bread spread with melted butter, cream cheese, poppy and caraway seeds, 32 ounces of milk, a good serving of steak, ditto spinach and carrots and fried potatoes, two jellied salads, five or six cookies, a piece of cake, an apple, and a large helping of ice cream. (No, dear reader, I did not measure the milk ounce by ounce. I happen to know the capacity of the glasses involved.) She tells me that the quantity is not unusual, only the quality. With all this, she retains her sylph-like proportions, so she must be working. For the first time, she has discovered the joys of study. As she expresses it, "The more I study, the less I find I know, and the more I want to know." We rejoice that at last we are receiving some return on our investment. One puts twenty years of effort and money into a child, before one is sure it was worth it. We have three years to go, but things look promising.

Next time we write it will be nearly Christmas. I trust you have your cards bought, also some presents, and that the Christmas cake is safely laid away to ripen. We have a few things stashed away, and cards bought, but no cake yet. We shall have to make an extra lot this year so the young things at college will have something to stay their stomachs after lectures. We almost forgot to report that the said daughter has joined an Animal Husbandry Club, and wears, attached to the blazer of an old and dignified school, a crest showing the head of an Ayrshire and a Hereford facing each other. The roommate is fascinated by all this and always awaits eagerly the weekly account of what goes on at the meetings. Last week it was a lecture on artificial insemination. Shades of my revered and modest ancestors! The maternal side was Quaker.

The three-star selection for Lachute was Ronnie Cairns, Earl McCaskil and Del MacTavish.

Match Committee bonspiel played by lady curlers

Mrs. D. MacTavish (skip), Mrs. E. Pollock, Mrs. Jack MacKimmie, Mrs. G. Ayers.

The rink skipped by Mrs. MacTavish won by a score of 8-6. The Match Commitee served tea after the game.

The Turkey Bonspiel is now in progress and creating keen competition.

Several rinks from Lachute are playing out of town this week and a report of their play, along with results of Visitor's Day, will be given next week.

COMING UP — "SAFE DRIVING WEEK"

Traffic laws are motorists' doing

THE MODERN MOTORIST would have to take a course in law to fully know and understand the vast number of regulations and restrictions governing traffic today. Fortunately (comments the Canadian Highway Safety Conference) those things are made easy for him. Most provinces issue concise, comprehensive manuals on traffic laws and regulations; prominently-displayed signs remind of specific regulations and relatively few of the laws — federal, provincial or municipal — concern him at all times. These few, however, the driver must know and consistently obey to exist in traffic today.

The Conference, in sponsoring a nation-wide Safe-Driving Week between December 1 and 7, reminds the motorist that traffic laws are his laws, put there for his protection by the people he elected for that purpose.

The average motorist fumes when he is charged with an infraction of a traffic law. He resents the law, blasts the policeman enforcing it and searches frantically for a loop-hole or flaw that will extricate him from the charge. Unfortunately, that's a natural reaction, and just as unfortunately, the offender seldom remembers that both law and enforcement were his idea expressed through his elected representative.

"If it's the law, honor it. If it's against the law, avoid it" would be a powerful thought for Safe-Driving Week, suggests the Conference.

A challenge to medical science

DURING THE next few weeks, as shoppers and business people make their daily rounds, they will be seeing a new face. This is the face of Kirk Clouthier, a four-year old victim of muscular dystrophy.

The boy has been chosen by the Muscular Dystrophy Association of Canada to appear on campaign posters and canister cards. The canisters are plastic hourglass-shaped piggy banks which are fixed to display cards urging the public to contribute money to the fight against muscular dystrophy. The canisters have been placed at strategic locations by local fire departments and MDAC representatives.

For several years the fire departments of Canada have been making a major contribution to the fund-raising efforts of MDAC. They have the strong sanction of the International Association of Fire Fighters which has now pledged its support until a cure is found for the disease.

Muscular dystrophy has so far resisted all attempts by medical science to determine its cause and find its cure, but with the additional $300,000 with which MDAC plans to maintain and expand its research, it is felt that like polio and tuberculosis, it must ultimately crumble before the onslaught of determined research efforts.

Preserving History

PROPERLY maintained and clearly designated, historic sites are among the finest attractions these days, when the tourist trade is bigger than ever.

The more carefully such sites are preserved amid attractive surroundings where possible, the greater the number who enjoy them and return to their homes to spark interest among others.

Historic buildings such as churches, assembly chambers and the homes of notables of bygone years, can be kept in a state of repair with comparative ease, as well as being kept clean and bright inside.

But outdoor sites such as forts or early burial grounds with their gravestones of pioneer years, and other locations of general historic interest are constantly threatened by the country's development as building spreads and new roads are created.

So far as "buried" history is concerned, the greatest danger to historic sites results from ignorance, in the opinion of Hart Bowsfield, Manitoba provincial archivist. Persons causing damage, such as house and road builders, often do not recognize indications that they have stumbled on historic material.

Manitoba has a comprehensive provincial act to protect sites of historic interest. Both professional and amateur diggers must obtain permits before starting any archaeological work.

But this is only one aspect of the general recognition these days that the history of an area, besides its importance to scholars, can be an economic asset.

Great improvements have been made in many regions in the preservation and beautification of historic sites. All across Canada the tourist and also the local resident can find places that are not only rich in historical associations but are attractive visiting spots in a purely scenic sense.

The work should never cease. Apart from the economic benefits, it's a matter of preserving historic spots that never can be replaced, and which increase in interest with every passing year.

Money well spent

COMPLAINTS about the "expense" of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's world tour are thoughtless and ill-informed, says the Financial Post. The bill to Canadian taxpayers for the trip will work out at less than the cost of running the federal government for one working minute or 60 seconds; but this is a point of trifling importance.

Mr. Diefenbaker's journey could yield great benefits for Canada. He is learning something about the politics and economics of other countries, inside and outside the Commonwealth. He is getting acquainted with the opinions and personal qualities of their leading men. This knowledge should be extremely useful — in fact it's indispensable — to the Prime Minister of a nation with as big a stake in world trade and world peace as Canada has.

If Mr. Dienfenbaker made any mistake, it was in not taking with him two or three of his most alert ministers and 20 or 30 Canadian journalists — contends The Financial Post.

Viewpoints and perspectives

THE CRITICS. — Practically every town, hamlet, village or city has a group which could be termed a vociferous minority. They are seldom, if ever, on the rosters of service clubs or other public service bodies. They are the self-appointed critics of everything that goes on.

— Campbell River (B.C.) Courier

SAFETY ON FARM. — Safety consciousness, and intelligent interest in removing the causes of accidents whenever possible has become an important factor in modern industry, and it is equally important on the farm.

— Pincher Creek (Alta.) Echo

PRIORITY FOR PREVENTION. — We don't need another world war to kill off our citizens. We have one right at home. Our governments and their highway and traffic experts and any other experts with ideas have a bigger problem than the UN. Prevention of highway slaughter warrants top priority.

— British Columbian, New Westminster, B.C.

NOT EVERYONE can or desires to be a leader but everyone can and must take a voice in the choosing of the leaders. Of such material is democracy made.

— Bonnyville (Alta.) Tribune

IN THE long run, few things matter more to Canada than that young Canadians of today — the generation of tomorrow — stay in school long enough to complete their education and develop their natural talents to the utmost.

— Campbellton (N.B.) Tribune

WRONG ATTITUDE. — In some respects serving on a town or municipal council is a more onerous task than being a member of the legislature or of the House of Commons, for the local councillor is much closer to the people he serves. There have been instances where a decision by council has resulted in antagonism to individual councillors, and in consequence loss of business. This should not be.

Mayor shows impartiality in violation of game laws

It is seldom that we express editorial comment of any kind in the news columns of this newspaper but we feel moved to reproduce a portion of a column by Isaac Hunter, recently in the Montreal Gazette, and highly commend Mayor Paul Levesque, of Ste. Julienne. The article reads in part as follows:

Hail Mayor Paul Levesque!

His Worship the Mayor Paul Levesque of Ste. Julienne, a pleasant village not far from Rawdon, is the man of the hour in my book. And I think every right-thinking citizen, angler or hunter or not, has reason to sing the praises of Mr. Levesque when they hear this. For, when in his capacity as magistrate, Mayor Levesque had a young man brought before him charged with jacklighting deer, he fined the accused $100 and ordered the confiscation of the violator's rifle. When the accused declared he had no money to pay the fine, the magistrate declared he did have the money and he would pay his fine or go to prison. What's so extraordinary about all this? Well, you see, the accused was Claude Levesque, the mayor's 21-year-old son. The boy had been arrested with the goods by Inspector Alphonse Lavoie, of the Montreal office of the Department of Game and Fisheries.

Now here is something which denotes progress. On the part of Mayor Levesque there was apparently no thought of referring this case to the politicos of the county for mitigating action, which move, on the basis of the record in that county, might have stood a very fair chance of success. It means that there is a growing realization in some rural areas of the fundamental reasons for fish and game law observance. The action of Mayor Levesque is a fine example and an inspiration as well as a deterrent in the matter of fish and game law observance, something which should bring shame to those politicians who from time to time in some counties intecede for violators in a manner to thwart justice and bring about contempt for all law. His manifestation of good citizenship brings honor to his town and his family, honor which far transcends any opprobrium caused by the illegal act of his son. That young man is not altogether to be blamed for having been led into jacklighting in a county in which he has seen violators getting off on more serious charges. And the boy will probably have learned his lesson. If you like what Mayor Levesque did, why not write and tell him so?

What was the Group of Seven?

The seven men who made up the Group of Seven were painters who brought fresh insight to the landscapes of Canada; the Precambrian Shield especially, usually seen as forbidding and desolate, became for them a symbol of Canada. The origins of the school are found in the Algonquin School, a group of painters living in Toronto. They often painted in Ontario's wooded Algonquin Park. Probably the freshest and most original painter among them was Tom Thomson; he learned every mood and season of the country, and acted as a guide when he wasn't painting. He painted for only six years before his tragic drowning in Algonquin Park. In that time he produced a quantity of oil canvases in which the color and the passion of the northern landscape was caught for all time.

After the First World War the surviving members continued to paint. Their common interests caused them to come together as the Group of Seven in 1920. The members were Lawren Harris, A. Y. Jackson, F. H. Varley, Franklin Carmichael, Franz Johnston, Arthur Lismer and J. E. H. MacDonald. Arthur Lismer announced their credo in 1924 when he said, "It is design. We bring out everything in the landscape as a matter of design and also, of course, of color."

The influence of this decorative school of landscape painting was very strong during the twenties and thirties. Many later painters, though not officially of the school, found their direction here.

What was the 3-Penny Beaver?

The 3-penny beaver was the first postage stamp issued in Canada. In 1849 the British Government passed legislation giving the colonial government in British North America the power to set up their own postal systems. By 1851, Canada, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were issuing stamps. Newfoundland followed in 1857, and Prince Edward Island, Vancouver Island and British Columbia in 1861.

On April 23, 1851, the province of Canada issued the first stamp. It was designed by Sir Sandford Fleming and showed a beaver near a dam; over it the Royal Crown of England rested on the thistle, shamrock and rose.

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

For fighters only

If you are one of the pathetic cynics who has sneered at free enterprise, don't read this column because you won't like it.

As a columnist, I've met every sort and description of men from stumblebums to tycoons, professors to lip-readers. The kind of man I always liked and always will like is the fellow who is frankly out to make money — because money, to him, is the index of his performance.

I like the preacher who wants to attract big crowds to his church, so that he'll get bigger collections and build a bigger, more beautiful church.

I like the worker who wants more pay in his weekly envelope because he knows that the pay is the result of his own skill and willingness to cut the mustard.

I can't stand mealy-mouthed do-gooders (it should read "talk-gooders" because few of them actually DO anything) who rant about social consciousness, equality, and all that sort of thing, which they expect from others. I'd respect them if they had their hands in their pockets forking out some dough while making free with the words — but most of those fellows seldom fork out for anything.

I like farmers who are frankly out to make money out of their farms, and I especially like those who do make it. I fail to see that a poor farmer is more virtuous than a rich one — indeed, in my experience, the reverse is more likely to be true.

I write this column, in anger, because I have just been reading the guff written by a bunch of United States Senators who want to see the big General Motors Corporation split up. They say it is too big, too successful, too powerful. What filthy rot! If those snivelling Senators would encourage other corporations to grow big they'd be doing more for us than they'll ever accomplish by chopping a big corporation down.

Surely to Heaven this country wants men and women who are out to win, to build big things, to make big money. Men who lead rather than lean. You can trust a man who is forthrightly out to make money; I'll be darned if you can trust the kind of man who isn't. Look back through your life and see if that hasn't been true. Who makes the jobs, who pays the bills, who gains and gives?

In the name of "Welfare" and "Social Conscience" and do-gooder double-talk, we are letting the very men who could do things for us be tied up in red tape so tightly they cannot produce. We've made free-enterprise a dirty word, when it ought to be a proud one. We've mistaken soft heads for soft hearts.

If you want to find a truly soft heart, the place to look for it is in the bosom of a man with a hard head. Think back through your own experience and you'll know that what I say is true.

with G. E. MORTIMORE

Something is wrong with me, I know. I don't like Brigitte Bardot's face.

From the neck down she looks like a healthy girl. But her face is the kind of thing that stares at you from police posters.

I don't mean the shape of her face; only the expression she hangs on it: lips flopping open, countenance sagging like that of an elderly tired she-chimpanzee.

They call it sexy. To me, the Bardot face as viewed in still photographs does not speak of the mating urge, but of illness and fatigue.

One of two things appears to be wrong with La Bardot: Either her nose is so badly blocked by a cold that she has to breathe through her mouth; or else she has taken too many sleeping pills.

Elvis Presley was the first male star to make his name with the Half-Witted Look. Bardot is Presley's female counterpart.

Millions of girls cry out with admiration at the sight of Presley's slack-jawed, vacant leer. They aren't just kidding, either. I have questioned some of them, and they mean it.

Faces may not be true gauges of character. But I suspect that there are some things to be read from them. The message I pick up from the faces of Presley and Bardot is smug, flabby self-indulgence.

And the sight of such faces, glowering out from screens and magazine covers, sends blood racing through young veins. Millions of adolescents want to love Bardot or Presley, or be like them. Do those faces truly reflect what is in the teen-age heart?

If so, we might as well drop our defences and invite the Russians to take over now.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES

"What Do We Know About Heaven?"

ONLY 144,000 WILL GO TO HEAVEN

JOHN THE BAPTIST did not go to Heaven;
KING DAVID did not go to Heaven;
AND BABIES do not go to Heaven.

Christ's faithful followers whom God justifies by reason of their faith and consecration and obedience to him, God, also begets by his spirit or power. He makes them thereby the spiritual sons of God. If they are faithful, God's spirit or power bears witness to them, that they are "heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ." To them is held out the hope of gaining immortality. They must seek to attain to this gift of God by likewise holding fast their integrity toward God under test: "to them who, by patient continuance in well doing, seek for glory and honour and immortality." (Romans 2: 7).

The Bible declares that Christ is the first one God used to bring to light the opportunity of creatures to attain to immortality. — Timothy 1: 9, 10. Corinthians 15: 52, 54. Romans 6: 5. Philippians 3: 10. 1 Cor. 15: 44. Rev. 20: 4-6.

Those who shall form the "body of Christ" and who shall be rewarded with this miraculous change from earthly to heavenly are limited to 144,000, who hold fast their integrity and keep covenant with God and prove faithful unto death. (Revelation 7: 4-8, 14: 1, 2). These, however, are not the only ones that are saved to life on the basis of Christ's ransom sacrifice; but all others of the saved ones shall receive everlasting life on the earth as perfect human creatures. Gen. 2: 17. Gen. 1: 28. Gen. 3: 22, 23.

Those faithful Witnesses of old did not at death go to heaven. King David was one such, and concerning him the apostle Peter, on the day of Pentecost when the holy spirit was poured out, said by inspiration of that spirit: "David is not ascended into the heavens: but he said himself, The Lord said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, until I make thy foes thy footstool." (Acts 2: 34, 35). Those faithful men of old will not go to heaven, never having been begotten of God's spirit to life in the spirit. Therefore those faithful Christians who enter into the kingdom of heaven or Theocracy are higher and greater than those men of old ever will be. Concerning this Jesus said: "Verily I say unto you, Among them that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist: notwithstanding, he that is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he." (Matthew 11: 11). Therefore the Christian spiritual class, to whom it is their Father's good pleasure to give the Kingdom, receive a "better thing" than John the Baptist and the other prophets who preceded him.

Concerning that righteous world Jesus, "the Prince of Life", said: "Whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die." (John 11: 26) "If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death." (John 8: 51). Continuing faithful, such blessed ones shall never die, but shall serve and praise Jehovah God and Christ Jesus his King for ever, "world without end." — John 11: 25, 26; Revelation 21: 4; Isaiah 25: 6-8.

The above article was taken from the booklet, HOPE FOR THE DEAD, FOR THE SURVIVORS IN A RIGHTEOUS NEW WORLD. You can get it for ten cents by writing to 150 Bridgeland Ave., Toronto 10; or ask any Jehovah Witnesses you may happen to meet. Or call at the Congregation nearest to you, they will be glad to serve you.

Boyd - Muir

The marriage of Nancy Annabelle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Muir, of Lachute, to Mr. Garth Stewart Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Boyd, also of Lachute, took place Saturday evening at six o'clock in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, the Rev. James Armour officiating. Mrs. W. M. Cottingham played the wedding music and Mrs. Robert Blakely sang during the signing of the register. Standards of white chrysanthemums and pink carnations arranged with candles in candelabra, were used as decorations, and sprays of the same flowers marked the pews reserved for the guests.

The bride, given away by her father, was in a gown of delustered satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice, having a sabrina neckline embroidered with seed pearls, long sleeves and a very full skirt draped to the back, having a large bow falling into a chapel train. Her veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet of seed pearls and she carried a white prayer book covered with Sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Edward Buck, as matron of honor, and Miss Ann McGibbon and Miss Mary Ruth MacKimmie, as bridesmaids, wore cocktail-length frocks of deep blue velvet, with hats of the same shade, and carried muffs covered with pink carnations.

Little Miss Margaret Muir, as flower-girl for her aunt, wore a bouffant frock of deep blue velvet trimmed with white lace, with a circlet of Sweetheart roses in her hair, and carried a muff covered with the same flowers.

Mr. Howard Cottingham acted as best man for Mr. Boyd, and the ushers were Mr. Douglas Boyd, the bridegroom's brother, Mr. Richard Muir and Mr. William Muir, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Muir, the bride's mother, was in a gown of cinnamon brown poult de soie. She wore a pale pink hat and a corsage bouquet of Aristocrat roses. Mrs. Boyd, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of mint green silk, with a matching hat and a corsage bouquet of orange Delight roses.

A SPECIAL MESSAGE TO CUSTOMERS OF THE B of M

Here's a 3-BILLION-DOLLAR Story for You...

Donald Hay, Manager
Lachute Branch
Bank of Montreal

Yes, you've written a three-billion-dollar story in your bank-book this year! It's my bank's annual report for 1958.

And it's a story you can be proud of, because it's about the money you have on deposit at the B of M.

Throughout the year, your bank keeps that money hard at work through loans and investments — expanding, improving and pioneering Canadian enterprise of every description and size . . . financing Canadians of every calling and building Canada in every sense.

Because of your growing deposits, the B of M's 141st annual report — just published — shows that the money you have entrusted to the Bank has passed the three-billion mark for the first time in its history.

Clearly the facts behind the figures in your bank's report show that the dollars you save work hard and long to secure not only your own future, but the future of the nation as a whole.

Donald Hay

"MY BANK" TO 2 MILLION CANADIANS
B of M

Highlights of the B of M's 141st Annual Report

DEPOSITS: Because of your confidence and that of more than two million other Canadians in all walks of life, the B of M holds over three billion dollars in deposits. Half these deposits are made up of the personal savings of private citizens — hard-earned dollars that mean a backlog of money for their use. At the end of the Bank's 141st year on October 31st, 1958, total deposits stood at the record figure of $3,038,349,556.

LOANS: During the year, your Bank has made many thousands of loans to business and industrial enterprises for production of every kind — to farmers, fishermen, oil-men, miners, lumbermen and ranchers — to citizens of every calling, and to provincial and municipal governments and school districts. At the end of October, B of M loans amounted to $1,416,518,876.

INVESTMENTS: Always keeping a good proportion of the money on deposit in quickly available form, your Bank has $1,004,904,111 invested in high-grade government bonds which have a ready market. This money is helping to finance government projects for the betterment of the country and the welfare of all Canadians. Other securities held by the Bank, which include a diversified list of high-quality and short-term industrial issues — bring total investments to $1,229,918,562.

B. of M. Report shows deposits at record level

Deposits in Canada's senior financial institution have risen to a new record level past the three-billion dollar mark — according to the Bank of Montreal's 1958 annual statement, released here this week by Donald Hay, manager of the Lachute branch.

Deposits now total $3,038 million, he said, or $406 million more than at October 31, 1957.

B of M loans, however, show little change in the year, standing at $1,417 million for 1958, against $1,438 million for 1957, the manager said. This includes a 31 percent increase for 1958 in NHA loans (now over $171 million) enabling a greater number of Canadians to buy their own homes, he added.

Strong Liquid Position

The statement also shows the bank's liquid position improved, with quick assets at $1,926 million (or 62.1 per cent of total liabilities to the public) as against 54.8 percent last year.

The bank's holdings of federal and provincial government securities rose from $657 million a year ago to $1,004 million at October 31.

B of M Earned More

The 1958 statement of earnings shows B of M operations across Canada and abroad produced a profit of $22,889,690. Of this amount, $12,533,000 has been set aside to pay the bank's income taxes, leaving a net profit of $10,356,690 — $706,998 more than in 1957.

Shareholders received dividends totalling $8,904,564 on the basis of $1.65 per share, or $3,628,436 less than the bank's income tax payments. Dividend payments represented a return of 5.07 percent on the shareholders' funds.

The Late Benjamin Herbert Noyes

The funeral of Benjamin Herbert Noyes was held November 18 from Ladouceur's Parlor, St. Andrews East, and St. Mungo's Church, Cushing, to the Protestant Cemetery at St. Andrews.

Service was conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, Interim Chairman, and the Rev. J. M. Fraser, of Thornloe, Ont. Mr. Rosborough led in prayer at the parlor and in the scripture reading and prayers at the church. Mr. Fraser read the 103rd Psalm with prayer and address. The hymn was "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and the text (John 11: 25), "I am the Resurrection and the Life". Miss Alice Davidson played the organ.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Thomas Weir, Fraser Watson, Roy Dobbie, Allan Graham, Irving Fuller and Willie Robert. Honorary bearers were Messrs. Willie Canning, Delphis Berniquer, and (absent) Jack Bradford. Interment was made in the family plot where his sister, Ida, was laid 12 years ago.

Benjamin Herbert Noyes was born in Front of Chatham. He was the youngest of six sons and four daughters born to Thomas Clark Noyes and his wife, Mary Ann Ostrom.

His brothers were John Ostrom Noyes, engineer, of Cushing, Que., and later of Naramata, B.C.; Chas. Franklin, who died in infancy; George Washington, Holland Parsons, and Thomas William, who moved to Montana. . . His sisters were Annie Alexandra, who died at an early age; Dorcas Elizabeth, who married Jesse Wharton; Lydia Jane, who became Mrs. James Pack; and Ida Mary, wife of Francis Ross Douglas — the first child baptized by the Rev. Donald Ross.

"Bennie" received his education in Chatham and spent his life on the farm and homestead. The present commodious house stands where a prior building stood. It is a log house, bricked and fully modernized. . . The collector for such funds as the Red Cross, called not in vain at his door. Mr. Noyes had been in failing health for some time. He died November 13, in his 87th year.

The Noyes and Ostrom families were among the early inhabitants of Chatham. They came from across the border, New Hampshire and Vermont, Derrick Ostrom coming from Utica, N.Y.

Thomas' History of Argenteuil states: "Thomas Noyes was a U.E. Loyalist and before coming to Canada lived in New Hampshire. John, the eldest son, was married to Lydia Dexter of Vermont and had six sons and two daughters. Thomas, the eldest son, married Mary Ann Ostrom." Mr. Noyes is therefore the last of this family. Miss Frances Mildred Douglas, of the Stone Hall, Cushing, is a niece of the deceased.

The Hon. W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P. and Minister of Mines, expressed his sympathy and asked Mr. Fraser Watson to represent him at the obsequies.

MERCURY

Beneath its true big car classic styling are so many new advances in Mercury design and engineering that you have to see and try the '59 Mercury to know how much better it really is. Here, in one fine car, is real six-passenger comfort and convenience—with spirited new performance to match.

The '59 Mercury is designed for easier access. Doors are bigger and open wider. Ideal for everyone, but especially for ladies wearing the new tailored fashions of today.

And when you settle into a Mercury, you notice a new elegance in interior styling and a new comfort from deep foam rubber seating, front and back.

The 20th anniversary Mercury brings you a decisive step up in quality. And size. The '59 Mercury is so generously proportioned inside that it opens up a whole new world of motoring enjoyment. You can have five join you for a drive—and know all six of you will ride in uncrowded comfort. The new Mercury instrument panel is nine inches further forward for extra roominess. The new Mercury centre tunnel is so low—and seats such a comfortable height—that, like everybody else, middle passengers can now enjoy real stretch-out room.

You'll notice Mercury's greater all around visibility, too. Sixty percent more windshield area adds safety to your viewing. Thanks to new overlapping windshield-wiper action, all-weather visibility is greatly increased.

On a longer, 126-inch wheelbase*, Mercury brings you all the better, big car features. It's heavier, for a firmer stance and a smoother, road-sure ride. And the '59 Mercury's spirited performance brings to life all you've ever longed for—in a true, six-passenger design.

NEW EASE OF ENTRY . . . because the '59 Mercury has a new out-of-the-way windshield pillar design that offers you more entry room than ever before.

NEW COMFORT INSIDE . . . especially for the "middle" man! Mercury's 50% lower centre tunnel provides more legroom. Extra foam rubber, too!

NEW OVERLAPPING WIPERS . . . give you five feet of viewing on bad weather days. Mercury offers 60% more windshield area for better seeing in any weather.

*128 inches on Park Lane Models.

Prompt Payment

Under the regulations of the Provincial Electricity Board, an electricity bill is required to be paid within 15 days from the date it is sent to the customer.

The great majority of the Company's customers take advantage of the liberal discount of 10% offered for payment within this 15 days.

It is suggested to those who do not take advantage of this discount that they should endeavour to secure this saving for themselves.

Following this 15 day period the Power Company is authorized to disconnect the service.

The Power Company would be delighted if everyone paid up promptly and no one had to be disconnected for being in arrears.

BUYING TOYS

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Do you find it easy to choose your child's playthings? Most mothers and dads find shopping for toys quite a task. This is one part of the family budget which cannot be looked after in a hurry.

Christmas is approaching and parents are beginning to wonder about which toys they will buy for their children. Toys from many places, far and near, are once more appearing on the store counters. The great number and the wide variety are often confusing. The high price of many toys, the hasty construction of others, also makes it difficult to select wisely and well. Before going shopping for playthings, parents do well to become familiar with the following questions which form an excellent "Test For Toys":

"Is this toy safe?" A little child who is cutting teeth is bound to put articles into his mouth. Will the paint come off and will it be injurious? Are there sharp points which might hurt the child, or rough edges which might cut him? Are there small parts which might be detached by exploring fingers, such as a wheel off a little truck which might find its way into a child's mouth and be swallowed?

"Is this toy durable?" Toys, particularly those for small boys, must be sturdily made to stand rough handling. Part of the fun of playing is the freedom to play hard without too much adult supervision. If the toy is so fragile that the child must be constantly warned to be careful, it is an annoyance rather than a pleasure to both parents and child.

A toy which will not stand up under use, which breaks or falls apart, is a poor investment. Children become very fond of individual playthings and they feel badly about a favorite toy which must be discarded before long because it has failed to meet this test.

"Is it a practical toy for our home?" Parents who are living in crowded quarters must consider whether a toy is too large to be conveniently put away on the toy shelf or in a toy cupboard. A family which includes an elderly relative or where there is sickness makes a toy such as a whistle or drum unsuitable.

If there is no cement sidewalk or level path with a hard surface, a child with a tricycle or a scooter has not much chance to use these toys for outdoor play in muddy weather. Sometimes it is possible to pedal a "trike" in a shed or barn if there is a safe area for play there.

"Is it suitable for my child at his present age and state of development?" Up to the age of two, the majority of children play most of the time by themselves. The first toy: a rattle, a rubber animal or doll or ball, are very simple. Shortly after a little tot starts to walk he is fascinated by small wooden wagons or cars, or an animal on wheels which he can pull on a string.

After the second birthday, a child begins to need the companionship of other children. He now needs play material not only for solitary play, but for social play with other youngsters. It is difficult to find a better plaything than blocks for the construction play. Little girls have great fun playing with their dolls, dressing and undressing them, and taking dolly out in a carriage. A small boy loves a teddy, a soft cuddly doll and stuffed animals, too.

These four simple tests for toys are helpful for parents as they enter the Christmas month. An outstanding leader in child education has pointed out: "Play is child's work", and so, your choices of his toys, which are his "tools for work" are important. Best of luck to you with your shopping!

Fashions

Wool fleece is the fabric for an attractive coat cut on modified trapeze lines, with double-breasted closing. The pockets are flapped but slit at the sides. Handsome in mauve with a ranch mink collar, it also is chic in red with black mink or in all-black.

Misfortune that could happen to you!

Is your child normal, healthy and full of life? If so you should be extremely grateful. There are in our midst, however, retarded children who through no fault of their own, are not normal. It is the objective of the Lachute Association for Retarded Children to do something for these unfortunate kiddies, by conducting a morning training school. This costs money, and expenses run to approximately $50 a week. . . You can help with the cost, by purchasing a book of five tickets for $1.00 on a drawing for valuable prizes to be held at the Lions' meeting on December 16. Send your donation to Col. E. Emmett, R.R. 1, Lachute, or call at Giles Publishing House, Lachute.

Cookie recipe for holiday baking

Here is a cookie recipe suggested by Dorothy Batcheller, of the Poultry Products Institute, for the holiday baking. It is so easy to make it will probably be a favorite throughout the year. It is not too fussy for the children's lunch box, but on the other hand, it may be dressed up to take its place on the fanciest cookie plate. It is a crispy cookie with a delicate coconut flavor, reminiscent of old-fashioned sugar cookies served plain.

Coconut Cookies

1 Cup soft butter, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 egg (beaten), 2¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour (or 2¾ cups pastry flour), ½ teaspoon baking soda, 2½ cups coconut.

Heat over 375°F. . . . Cream butter and sugar together. Add beaten egg and blend. Sift flour and baking soda together and stir into first mixture, a third at a time, kneading in last portion of flour with the hands. Knead in coconut. Turn out onto lightly floured board.

Divide dough into five portions for easier chilling and form into rolls about 1½ inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper, pliofilm or aluminum foil and refrigerate for 3 or 4 hours or longer. Slice in ¼ inch slices and bake on ungreased cookie sheet in moderately hot oven 375°F. for 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool slightly, remove from pan to cake rack and cool completely. Store in covered container. Yields 9 to 10 dozen cookies approximately 2 inches in diameter since they increase slightly when cooked.

Note: The uncooked dough may be frozen or may be stored unfrozen in the refrigerator and baked as required. Use unfrozen dough within a week. Frozen dough should be thawed slightly before slicing.

Variations

1. Knead ½ teaspoon each of lemon and orange rind into one portion of the dough before forming into a roll. Chill, slice and bake as usual.

2. Slice dough as directed, brush each cookie with egg yolk which has been beaten with a tablespoon of milk. Sprinkle with ground nuts and bake as usual.

3. Top each cookie with bits of candied or maraschino cherries and/or candied peel.

TOMORROW'S DINNER

French Onion Soup
Shrimp Polenta
Broccoli Spanish
Quartered Carrots
Tomato-Lettuce Salad
Lemon Cake Pudding
Coffee Tea Milk

Cornmeal tastes extra good as "Polenta," one of the most versatile of dishes. Basically it is a thick cornmeal mush, cooled in a deep pan, then sliced, covered with melted butter sauce and grated Parmesan, or with any homemade or canned Italian sauce, and oven-heated until piping hot.

Add 1 tsp. salt, 1½ tsp. crumbled oregano leaves, ½ tsp. powdered basil, 2 (5-oz.) pkgs. frozen shrimp or the rinsed contents 2 (6½ oz.) cans shrimp. Stir in 1 (6-oz.) can tomato paste. Heat 5 min.

In a heavy saucepan, heat 3 tbsp. Spanish olive oil, ½ section garlic, crushed, 2 chopped anchovy fillets and ½ c. chopped black or green olives.

FROM THE CHEF

When making meat balls or loaves, add any kind leftover cooked cereal instead of bread crumbs and a liquid.

Take advantage of winter pears

Next to apples, pears are in season longer than any of the other fruits grown in Canada. Smart homemakers will take advantage of the fine quality winter pears available right now, for these make particularly good eating.

If the pears available at your market are still green, don't worry about it — they were picked that way on purpose. You'll find that, unlike most fruits, pears have much better flavor and texture when they're allowed to ripen indoors at room temperature (60 to 70°F), rather than on the trees.

Plan to use them as they ripen — for eating fresh as they are or in salads, for stewing or baking like apples, or for preparing other pear delights such as this one suggested by the home economists of the Consumer Section.

Minted Pears

3 Fresh pears (peeled, halved and cored), ¼ cup sugar, 1 cup water, 10 drops green coloring, ¼ teaspoon peppermint flavoring.

Simmer pear halves in syrup made from the sugar and water until pears are almost tender. Add coloring and flavoring and cook about 3 minutes more over medium heat, to allow color to penetrate pears. Chill in refrigerator for 3 to 4 hours.

(Canned pears may be used instead of fresh, with the canned pear syrup replacing sugar and water.)

FORTIFIED APPLE JUICE

Here's another step in the "make-it-in-Canada" trend, says The Financial Post. . . Canada's apple juice processors plan to fortify this year's entire crop with added vitamin C.

This may help sell Canadians on apple juice as a staple; and cut down on imports of citrus.

Apple crop reports are good, and quality is said to be exceptional. In Ontario, the volume of the apple yield is up substantially from last year. The British Columbia crop is said to be approximately the same. Nova Scotia's will be lower.

Once upon a time the only way to have a mural on your wall was to hire an artist to paint one. This was both costly and lengthy. Today, if you want a mural you can have the finished picture the same day and at a budget cost. The answer? Do-it-yourself wallpaper murals.

Back in 1856 when Moses Staunton opened Canada's first wallpaper manufacturing plant in Toronto, he probably did not foresee that 102 years later Canada would give the world the first inexpensive machine - printed wallpaper mural. Wallpaper murals have been around for some time now, but they always have been silk-screened, a hand process that made them expensive.

Now, a new machine developed in Canada has made possible the machine-printing of murals, the method used for standard wallpapers. Machine-printed murals had been a challenge to manufacturers for some time. Three years ago, plant engineers and designers got together to discuss the development of a printing machine to do the job. They were successful and printed murals now are an actuality, expected to create a busy export trade for the United States market as well.

The new murals are pre-pasted, washable and trimmed. They come neatly packaged, ready for use, and the only tools required are scissors and a cellulose sponge. The cost is less than $20 for a 14 to 18-foot wall.

Good Suppers

Your daily food score isn't complete until you've had supper. Eating times and habits vary, but whatever gap supper fills, it should include all the essential foods for good daily nutrition that haven't been tasted already at breakfast, lunch or dinner.

A good supper often includes soup or juice, a casserole dish of meat, fish, poultry or eggs, bread or rolls, and fruit and beverage.

Many variations are possible and the addition of extras like cookies, cake, pickles and condiments will depend on the food budget as well as on the appetites and tastes of the eaters.

Prepare two cups of cream sauce, add a half-cup of grated Canadian cheddar cheese, a quarter-cup of chopped green pepper, and two cups of diced cooked chicken or turkey.

Serve piping hot over crisp, hot triangles of enriched white toast. Garnish with a cheese wedge. It will serve six to eight persons.

Wife Preservers

Banish stale tobacco smoke in rooms or closets by mixing a little diluted ammonia in a bowl of fresh water; let it stand overnight in the affected area.

The Local Farm Scene

Who should pay for soil conservation — the farmer, the government, or the farmer with the help of government subsidized programs? "We think whoever benefits (farmers) should pay, but should be able to obtain a loan to carry out conservation practices", replied the Sawyerville Farm Forum, one of the many Forums to discuss soil conservation November 10. Although half the groups believe cost of soil conservation is the farmers' responsibility, half think that the government should assume part of the cost. The government should help with the cost of heavy equipment — bulldozers and ditchers—suggested 12 groups. Eight others suggested government-provided low-interest loans for conservation purposes.

Contour plowing, drainage (open ditch and tile), rotation and grassland farming, application of chemical fertilizers, lime and all barnyard manure, pasture improvement, reforestation and planned woodlot cutting are the conservation measures most frequently practised by members now, according to the Forums. However, a minority plant cover-crops, use only high quality seed, conserve water in ponds, and fence cattle from woodlots and sugarbushes.

Practically all members indicated they would be willing to have conservation programs for more profitable farming made for them. A few were worried about cost of such a program, and others wanted to avoid a compulsory program.

From Sutton Junction, Brome Co.: "Most conservation should be left to the farmer. We feel that the government should provide long-term loans for conservation work. Also, more effort should be made to educate farmers in good conservation methods."

"We are all in favor of a soil conservation program. In the meantime we would like to know where one goes to get this information. . The farmer and the government should pay for conservation."

— Arundel 1, Argenteuil

"We think the government should help to pay for soil conservation. We also think that poor farmers should be encouraged to use the facilities that the government already supplies. Too few know anything about these. Perhaps the grants for drainage should be a bit higher."

— Harrington, Argenteuil.

"The Provincial Department of Agriculture should pay a major part of the cost of soil conservation, with the farmer paying the rest. We agree that the Quebec Department is doing an adequate job of subsidizing conservation programs. We feel that it is doing an excellent job in assisting the farmer with farm management, which includes soil conservation."

— East Settlement, Argenteuil

A drainage ditch with dynamite

A spume of mud and water shoots hundreds of feet in the air as 300 feet of ditch is blasted with dynamite at a recent demonstration by the explosives division of Canadian Industries Limited on the farm of Pierre Veillon near Sweetsburg, Que. It took some two hours to load the ditching dynamite and only a split second to "dig" the ditch.

The demonstration took place on a farm operated by Pierre Veillon two miles north of Sweetsburg and was given by technical service representatives of the explosives division of Canadian Industries Limited.

Mr. Veillon, a well-known Jersey breeder, wished to drain an extremely boggy pasture. An old drainage ditch running to a small stream at the lower end of the pasture was useless because it was so overgrown with weeds. Mr. Veillon wanted to clear this choked-up ditch as quickly as possible. He decided to blast it with dynamite.

The single-line method of loading explosives was used. Holes were punched in a straight line about 15 inches apart and 15 inches deep using a core punch bar. This tool consists of a length of hollow steel tubing inside of which is a pointed solid steel punch bar equipped with handles and a shoulder for driving the hollow pipe. When the pipe is driven to the required depth, the punch bar is removed and the ditching dynamite loaded through the hollow bar and tamped into place in the hole with a wooden rod. It required only two cases of ditching dynamite (or about 200 sticks) to blast a 300-foot length of ditch.

The blast was fired by priming only one stick of dynamite, the detonation shock propagating through the muck and water, exploding the other sticks of dynamite in a single blast.

The blast "dug" a ditch 300 feet long, about three feet deep and six feet wide at the top. The debris blown up by the blast was hurled several hundred feet in the air and scattered by the wind over a wide area, leaving the edges of the ditch level with the pasture.

Rabbit Raising – A Good Business

Raising domestic rabbits is a business. It can be a small business, operated as a sideline or hobby; or it can be big business, run on the same basis as any other enterprise.

But in all cases, rabbit raising IS A BUSINESS and should always be considered as such. It is not a get-rich-quick proposition. Its profits are to be had only by the person who works hard at learning the business; who applies this knowledge to the best of his ability; and who always tries to better his own standards of performance.

Rabbit raising offers many profitable opportunities for both the part-time hobbyist and the large commercial grower. These include the sale of meat, breeding stock, laboratory animals, fur, wool and fertilizer.

It has special appeal to the backyard hobbyist, because it can be operated in little space and takes a small amount of capital. The commercial grower has the primary job of supplying domestic rabbit meat for his market, and he sells on a market CREATED BY HIMSELF or his organization. In other words it is often the job of the commercial rabbit grower to create both the supply and the demand. But it can be done.

See us for both literature and RABBIT CHOW; we have both.
