Sod-turning to start new hospital building

Architect's drawing of the proposed Lachute Regional Hospital

Turning of the first sod for the new Lachute Regional Hospital will take place at 7 p.m. this Friday. The Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Minister of Mines, will have the honor of performing this symbolic ceremony, on the six-acre site acquired for the new hospital on the Brownsburg Road.

This interesting news to settle all doubts, rumours and speculations, was given to a representative of this newspaper. Monday afternoon; it was released jointly by the president of the Administrative Council, Mr. Gilbert E.Ayers, and Mr. Roger Regimbal, director.

Notable Guests

Many civic and religious notables will be present, and the general public are cordially invited to witness this auspicious ceremony. Besides Mr. Cottingham, guests will include Notary J. O. Latour, M.P.; the mayors of the County; the Catholic and Protestant clergy; local physicians; the architect, Mr. Grattan Thompson; the general contractor, Mr. Albert D'Amours; and members of the Administrative Council — Messrs. Gilbert Ayers, president; Leopold Carrière, vice-president; Notary Simon Valois, secretary; Donald M. Hay, treasurer; Roger Regimbal, Armand Desrosiers and Herb Graves, directors.

The Building

The modern hospital building will have an 80-bed accommodation, plus residential quarters for the religious sisters on the upper floor. There are provisions for operating rooms, emergency room, obstetrics room, an eye clinic (at special request of the C.N.I.B.), besides a radiology department, dispensary, laboratories, pharmacy, etc.

In giving these details, Mr. Ayers included a special tribute to the patience and devotion of the nuns and nursing sisters, who have carried on for the past 10 years under regrettable conditions. "The hospital plans are very unpretentious", he added, "but the building will include all the modern medical facilities."

Costs and Financing

The cost of this venture will reach $1,500,000, Mr. Regimbal disclosed. To date there is a fund of almost $1-million to undertake the job – of which $600,000 represents a provincial grant. The remainder comes from the Diocesan Appeal earmarked for this hospital, also the existing funds of the present hospital, and various other donations.

To fill the gap between available resources and the estimated cost, the directors count on the good faith of subscribers in fulfilling their pledges to the Diocesan Appeal — also on the response to a drive to be organized among the English-speaking population; on the proceeds of a dinner planned at the Golf Club Chalet (at $100 cover charge); and on the profits of a golf tournament.

"It is understood, we are placing our confidence in the Diocesan campaign subscribers", said the spokesmen in this interview, "and, more important, on further grants from the provincial government, for (we regret to admit it) if the source of revenue runs out, we shall have to suspend work on construction. We do not want to start with a 'white elephant' and commence operating this hospital with a burdensome deficit."

Construction Plans

The construction will take an estimated 18 months to complete. Local tenders for sub-contracts have been invited by the general contracting firm. It is established the job will provide work for about 60 hands, and skilled labor will be drawn from local tradesmen insofar as possible.

"Seven years ago when preliminary plans were first brought forward, the hospital would have cost us $1,200,000", said Gilbert Ayers. "But increased material costs have made the difference. Still, we are happy to say that the cost per cubic foot is about 35 cents lower than other hospitals now in the course of building." . . .

The sod-turning is virtually a crowning achievement after 10 years of perseverance. It is hoped the public will turn out Friday evening to signify approval, and to encourage those who have worked hard for this occasion.

Armed posse holds two, police nab third in Caisse hold-up attempt

Two local men and an accomplice from Sherbrooke were sentenced to jail terms last Thursday for their part in an attempted hold-up at the Caisse Populaire in St. Hermas the previous Tuesday afternoon. Two of the men were captured by villagers armed with rifles, while the third was picked up by police in Lachute.

The trio, Lucien Ladouceur, 35, of Lachute and Pte. au Chene, Jean Marie de Montigny, a 31-year-old Lachute resident with both hands amputated, and Bruno Jodoin (alias Roger Delorme), 29, of Sherbrooke, all appeared before Judge Omer Côté in St. Jerome Court on Thursday afternoon. Ladouceur and Jodoin, both of whom have previous records, were sentenced to ten years each, while de Montigny received a seven-year sentence.

The trio are reported to have started on their escapade early Tuesday morning when they stole a 1953-model car near the Rouge River on Route 8. The auto was owned by Fernand Robiard, who, upon seeing his car disappear, notified Provincial Police in Lachute.

Around 2.45 p.m. the same day, the stolen car was parked in front of the St. Hermas Caisse Populaire and two of the men entered the bank, stopping to pull handkerchiefs over their faces before doing so; de Montigny remained at the wheel of the car. Two female occupants of the Caisse panicked upon seeing the covered faces and a revolver held by one of the would-be bandits, and they ran outside yelling for help and reporting the hold-up attempt. Henri Sauvé, a neighbor, heard the calls for help; he grabbed his hunting rifle and, summoning other residents of the community, the posse approached the front of the building. The driver in the waiting car (later identified as de Montigny) sped away, leaving his two companions in the building.

Provincial Police in Lachute were notified of the attempted hold-up and given a description of the car, which tied in with the car reported stolen earlier that day. Traffic Officer Lawrence Cruise was sent to the scene, and placed two of the suspects under arrest. They had left the Caisse building by means of a back door and tried to make their escape across a plowed field, but surrendered to the angry villagers after several rifle shots were fired in their direction.

Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen set up a road-block at Muir Bros. corner and another in St. Andrews East and, accompanied by Lachute Police Chief Fernand Trépanier, arrived on the scene a short time after Traffic Officer Cruise. They were joined by Traffic Officer Ronald Massie and officers of the hold-up squad from Montreal.

Upon questioning the captured men, the identity of the driver was learned. The culprits also divulged their getaway plans, and the location of de Montigny's car, which was hidden a few miles from the village on a side road.

The two prisioners were taken to jail in St. Eustache and later transferred to Montreal by Lieut.-Det. Bisaillon, of the hold-up squad.

Accident verdict in boy's death at level crossing

A five-man jury under Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Robert Lajeunesse, 15-year-old cyclist who was killed by a train May 15 last at the Barron Avenue crossing. Attached to the verdict was a rider recommending that the Attorney General of the province be asked to approach the authorities concerned, to give added protection to motorists, cyclists and pedestrians at all level crossings in Lachute.

(The last fatality at this particular crossing occurred in 1937, and a jury under the late Dr. J. H. Mason made a similar recommendation at that time.)

Seven witnesses were heard, including two juveniles. . . . Paul-Emile Lajeunesse, 43, father of the victim, stated he had last seen the boy alive three hours prior to the accident. André Guimond, 12, and Mario Gasse, 13, who were with young Lajeunesse at the time, stated they had heard the train whistle and had warned their companion. The boy apparently was oblivious to the approaching train, however, and did not turn his head to see it until the last second before he was hit. The father revealed in his evidence that the boy was "hard of hearing" in one ear.

Another witness was Arthur Samson, 43-year-old employee of L'Heureux Dry Cleaning, near the accident scene, and Fernand Robinson, driver of a taxi which was approaching the crossing, who stated the train was moving at a fair speed but he could not say exactly how fast.

Norman Smith, 48, of Montreal, engineer of the diesel westbound train which had just left the station, said he was travelling about 10 miles an hour when he struck the victim, and that this speed is customarily maintained over the two first highway crossings. He declared he had repeatedly sounded the whistle. He caught sight of the boy's head the last second before the impact, but could do nothing to avoid striking him. After halting the train he stayed at the controls of the engine and did not go down onto the track. . . . The final witness, J. O. Racicot of St. Vincent de Paul, conductor of the train, went back to the crossing in company with another conductor, then returned to the Lachute Station to supply the necessary particulars.

An autopsy showed that young Lajeunesse suffered a fractured skull, a broken arm, and contusions and haemorrhage of the brain. He died a short time later in a Montreal hospital.

Professor speaks on problems of education

A joint meeting of the Argenteuil - Two Mountains Teachers' Association and the Laurentian Teachers' Association was held here last Wednesday afternoon. Supper was served to around 130 members, at the United Church hall. Sessions of both groups were held afterwards in Lachute High School. (See report on page 6.)

As a conclusion to this meeting a very fine address was given by Prof. C. Wayne Hall on the subject, "The Crisis in Education." Although directed primarily to the teaching profession, the address was open to the public, and was heard by many friends, parents and senior pupils.

The speaker is professor of Education at Macdonald College, a former inspector and supervisor of English for the Quebec Department of Protestant Education. He was introduced to the audience by Principal King Amos, of Brownsburg—who cited, as further evidence of his authority on this subject, the fact that Prof. Hall is the father of two students in University and two children in high school. The visitor was afterwards thanked by Mr. Bob Wyse, of Lachute High School staff.

The Crisis in Education

The speaker opened with some interesting observations on modern living. One of our problems, he said, is that we live in an era of crises. We emerge from one, only to confront another; and as a result we have built up an immunity to some which concern us most intimately.

The world has diminished in size through speed of travel and ease of communication. It is true, today, that one "can have dinner in New York and indigestion in Paris".

We have become a "push button" people. Modern advances in ways of living have bred a whole generation who feel that they "have only to push the appropriate button to solve any given problem."

Developing his topic to the problems of education, Prof. Wayne Hall observed the tendency of society and the teaching profession was to urge children to work harder at their studies — but it becomes apparent, the children are only a part of the machine and it is necessary to push the large portion of the community that stands behind them — in effect, to revamp the whole social outlook on

High optimism for outcome of Spring Fair '59

With livestock entries closed for the 1959 Lachute Spring Fair, it is indicated by Secretary - Manager Ken Riley that the list again exceeds all recent years. . . . This sounds like repetition, but it is actually a sign of the progressing increase in scope and popularity of the local Exhibition.

In other aspects the trend is also apparent. The ladies' handicraft department is booming; a notable number of new entries have been submitted from the St. Hermas district. . . . Already there are numerous reservations to ensure a good show in the machinery and equipment section.

It is expected there will be keen interest in the dog show, for which entries remain open to June 16.

Plans are being discussed for a formal opening on Wednesday, June 17 — which is Carnival Day with 25-cent admission to encourage family attendance. Children under 12 accompanied by adults are admitted free at all times.

Thursday evening's entertainment attraction will be the Midget Wrestlers, sponsored by the Rotary Club.

On Friday evening the Lions Club will bring back "Le Grand Robert", sensational hypnotist, by popular request.

Saturday afternoon features will be highland dancing and a pipe band, and in the evening the popular horse drawing contest, sponsored by Legion Branch 70.

Brief to Transport Minister presents good case for Ottawa Waterway plan

Deepening the 119-mile stretch of the Ottawa River from Ottawa to Montreal at a cost of 15 to 20 million dollars was requested last week of Transport Minister George Hees by a delegation representing Ottawa, Hull and communities of the Lower and Upper Ottawa Valley.

It was stressed that deepening of the Ottawa River would place Ottawa on the St. Lawrence Seaway via Montreal (reports Charles Lynch in The Ottawa Journal).

"It is important that the replacement locks in the Carillon Dam be built to specifications so that they will be of benefit to the development of commercial navigation between the St. Lawrence Seaway and Ottawa," the brief presented to Mr. Hees said.

Quebec Hydro this year will develop the Carillon power on the Ottawa River, at an estimated cost of $200,000,000.

Mr. Hees was also informed that communities in the Upper Ottawa Valley on both sides of the river regard the deepening of the Ottawa as the first step of the Georgian Bay Canal, which would provide a deep waterway via the Ottawa River to Georgian Bay, providing a shortcut in the Upper Great Lakes.

This project has the backing of the Renfrew and Pontiac County Councils and all their towns and villages. The Ottawa River would be deepened westerly from Ottawa. Navigation canals would be built around power dams on the Ottawa.

Back in 1908 the Dominion Government completed an engineering study of a proposed ship canal from Lake Nipissing to Georgian Bay via the French River, a distance of 50 miles. The Welland Canal took priority and the Georgian Bay Canal plan went back to departmental files.

This District Represented

Among the delegation last week were Ovid Prevost, Val de Bois, president of the Chambers of Commerce of Western Quebec; Paul Labreche, St. Andrews East, president of the Ottawa River Development Association; Mayor Rosario Gascon, Hawkesbury, a director of the Eastern Ontario Development Association; Tupper Porter, St. Andrews East, technical advisor, and Antoine Paré, St. Andrews East, legal advisor — with others representing Hull, Ottawa and points west in the Ottawa Valley.

The delegation said the Ottawa River has to be made into canals in very few places to make it navigable for ships of 27-foot draught. The present canal system will only handle ships with a maximum draught of 8½ feet, which is grossly inadequate to handle commercial shipping with any degree of economic operation.

New locks at Carillon would require specifications for commercial shipping

Industries Interested

"There are several industries situated along the Ottawa River, which could and probably would make use of the Ottawa Valley Waterway, if a deep water channel is provided", the brief said.

Industries cited were the C.I.P. at Hawkesbury and Gatineau, MacLaren Paper Company at Masson, and the Hilton Mine at Bristol, which will be shipping 600,000 tons of iron ore to United States ports. Approximately 755,000 tons of coal comes annually through other ports to the Ottawa Valley, which could be brought in entirely by boat.

Would Attract Industry

The deepening of the Ottawa River Waterway would definitely bring new industrial development into an area where the growth has been stunted by the lack of adequate water transportation facilities, the brief said.

The Town of Buckingham lost the plant expansion of Electric Reduction Company due to lack of adequate water transportation. Undoubtedly, other towns and cities located along the natural waterway have suffered the same fate, it was pointed out.

"Since the Ottawa River possesses numerous points at which new fresh water ports with vast space to handle bulk or unit cargos could be built with ease, deep water navigation on the Ottawa River would have the effect of increasing Canada's coastline", the brief said. The area developed would be in the neighborhood of 30,000 square miles. From this area trade would follow in many directions.

"The City of Ottawa, as the country's Capital, is cut off from ocean-shipping due to the present deficiencies in the Ottawa River channel.

"Development of the Ottawa Waterway would give the capital access to the world routes of trade and commerce and place it in a position that many other world capitals enjoy. Consequently, it is the aim of the Ottawa River Development Association to give the area deep sea travel up-river as soon as possible."

Council meets water crisis with expeditious action

Quebec gives prompt sanction to emergency by-law; contract on water main started immediately

Mayor Jas. W. McGibbon and Ald. Gerard Lefebvre on Thursday of last week signed an agreement with H. J. O'Connell Ltd., Montreal, to lay a new section of 14-inch water pipe from McRae's Mill to the chlorination plant at the junction of Routes 30 and 41, crossing over White's Bridge — the whole to be completed not later than June 15, and for a sum of $69,112.50.

The agreement followed three emergency sessions of Council in the early part of last week and a trip to Quebec City by Germain Filion, Financial Advisor, where, in a matter of hours, the Provincial Cabinet approved an emergency by-law allowing the Town of Lachute to borrow up to $100,000 to repair the broken water pipe. . . .

In reporting to Council at the Wednesday evening session, Mr. Filion stated he was given every possible measure of co-operation by the local member, the Hon. W. M. Cottingham and his staff, as well as by the Department of Municipal Affairs.

At a meeting held on Monday of last week, tenders were called for and the special session on Tuesday evening saw the emergency by-law passed in three readings. Mr. Filion made his trip to Quebec City on Wednesday, and meanwhile an engineer from the Department of Public Works, whose services were obtained through the efforts of the Hon. Mr. Cottingham, examined White's Bridge and informed Mayor McGibbon of the best means of locating the water pipes. He stated that the Department would prepare the holes in the piers ready for the contractor to install the pipes.

Alternative Offer

Prior to the opening of tenders at the Wednesday evening session, a Mr. Daoust, a professional diver, offered his services to repair the present pipe in the river bed. This possibility was discussed once again, and while several aldermen were in favor of giving the diver a chance, it was pointed out that the work would take some three weeks and that there was no guarantee that it would be successful, other than the word of the diver. "While no one doubts his word", said Ald. Dr. J. P. Dorion, "it would put us in a bad spot if, three weeks from now, we were not any further advanced."

In voicing his opinion on the matter, Mayor McGibbon stated: "Either we have an emergency or we don't have one. We have taken two weeks to decide what to do, and I feel that Council has searched every possibility. It is going to cost us in the vicinity of $35,000 to repair the pipe on the riverbed on a permanent basis with a guarantee, and I feel that is is now time to put the motion passed at Monday's meeting into effect."

(In this latter statement, Mayor McGibbon was referring to the unanimous decision to re-route the pipe over White's Bridge, and thus be in a position to work at it if the occasion arose.)

Looking to the Future

Commenting on the problem, Ald. Gerard Lefebvre added, "We have to improve our water system, and even if a diver does repair the pipe, this will not be an improvement. If we accept any one of O'Connell's tenders, and at the same time put two pipes across the bridge, this will be an improvement, and will fit into any general plan to improve the waterworks system as a whole. I feel we should do the whole job now. However, as we are limited in spending more than $100,000, that is impossible, but we are at least starting in the right direction."

Several other aldermen voiced their approval of this plan, and it was suggested that Council commence immediately on a project to study possible improvements to the dam, reservoir and a filtration plant. It was then decided to award the contract to O'Connell to lay the new 14-inch pipe a distance of approximately 3,825 feet, the Town to supply the pipe and other material necessary for a second unconnected pipe across the bridge; and that the Mayor and chairman of the Finance Committee be authorized to sign the contract with the only company submitting a tender.

The special session of Council was then adjourned.

Consumers asked to continue curb on water demands

The area comprised in Greater Lachute is still being served by an eight-inch water pipe, and as a result, the water pressure is extremely low. Residents are therefore requested to continue their observance of the restrictions against using hoses and unnecessary water, until such time as the pressure returns to normal level and the emergency is past.

A thorough examination of all possible fire hazards is also recommended, since, with a limited water supply, any outbreak could result in a major disaster. It is hoped that the new pipe now being laid will be in operation within ten days, when the water system will be back to normal.

Photo shows ditch excavated for a new conduit to augment Lachute's water supply, and to avert possible disruption of service through damage to present submerged pipe on the riverbed.

Two sisters are victims of tragic farmhouse blaze

Fire razed a farm dwelling at Laurel last Friday, and two young ladies were burned to death — Barbara Hazel Ferguson, 27, and her sister, Doris, 21, the daughters of Mrs. Ruby Ferguson. Their charred remains were discovered in the ruins of the home and brought to the morgue here in Lachute.

There is no certainty as to the cause of the fire, but it is believed to have started during the night and smouldered to a fierce out break at around 7 a.m.

Mrs. Ferguson and her four-year old son escaped in the nick of time, although the boy suffered slight burns on the face, arms and back. Mrs. Ferguson was preparing breakfast when the flames broke out; her two daughters and young son were still sleeping, and other members of the household had gone to their work.

Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen, of the Provincial Police, and Dr. Jules Lafleur, coroner, visited the scene of the tragedy and conducted an investigation. There will be no inquest held.

Safe bicycling tests at B'burg

Brownsburg — The Bicycle Safe Riding tests sponsored by the Brownsburg Home and School Association will be held in the Brownsburg Community Arena on Saturday, June 6, beginning at 9 a.m. Students intending to take part in the tests should enter the arena by the large door at the north end of the building. All those passing the tests will be presented with a badge and asked to sign a pledge that they will abide by all traffic rules.

Parents are invited to attend so that they may become more familiar with safety as applied to bicycle-riding. In this way the parents may continue to supervise the riding habits of their children and help ensure that the young sters of the town are better able to cope with the mounting traffic flow during the summer.

Face trial in bank slaying at Timiskaming

Ville Marie, Que. (CP)—Two North Bay men have been ordered to stand trial for the gunshot murder of bank manager Alexander Heron last month.

The men — Ernest Coté and Alexander Kyle Brush — were found criminally responsible for the death of Mr. Heron, manager of the Bank of Montreal branch at Timiskaming, Que.

A preliminary hearing resulted in an order to stand trial at the fall assizes of the Court of Queen's Bench in Ville Marie. They were to be taken to Bordeaux jail to await the trial.

Six witnesses testified at the preliminary hearing.

The bank manager, who served previously in the Arundel branch, died after he was shot during a scuffle with a man who had tried to rob the bank before it opened.

LEGION NOTES

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

Branch 70 Correspondent

A very successful District Council meeting was held last Sunday in Morin Heights. The main business on the agenda included election of officers for the 1959-60 term. The new Commander for Laurentian District No. 12, Com. R. O. MacLean, Lachute, replaces Past-Commander E. Kneeland, Morin Heights. Other members elected to the new Council were — Com. H. Steele, Deputy-Commander, Brownsburg, replacing Tom O'Neill, Ste. Agathe; J. Coney, Lachute, R. R. Summers, Brownsburg, H. Elias, Morin Heights, Marc Stein, Q.C., Ste. Agathe-des-Monts. Although absent from the meeting, representatives listed from St. Sauveur and Montebello were Coms. F. McGarrigle and R. Denis, respectively.

Election and installation of new officers was conducted by Provincial Command Vice-President St. Germain.

Discussion centered around several items from the recent Provincial Convention.

A motion was passed with unanimous approval by the 41 Legionnaires present recommending the presentation of a Past District Commander's medal to Com. E. Kneeland.

Buffet lunch and refreshments were served for visitors and their families.

The next District Council meeting is scheduled to be held in the Memorial Hall, Lachute, on Sunday, September 13.

With the Lachute Fair only two weeks away, members of the various committees are busy completing arrangements to guarantee an interesting Saturday afternoon and evening, for all patrons attending the grandstand and green ring events. Funds from the grandstand go to Branch 70 to help defray its expenses at the Fair and to carry on local welfare work. It is important that members encourage the highest possible attendance on the grandstand for the Saturday events.

The Branch organizers desire an early start to make sure their program does not continue too late. While the schedule is dependent upon completion of certain classes in the green ring, it is tentatively hoped that the Grand Parade will start at 2.30 p.m. Legion members and veterans not assisting in other ways are asked to don berets and join the parade at the Legion Hall.

The parade is expected to include bands and highland dancers from Glengarry County, and color parties.

The horse-pulling contest will get underway at 6 p.m. sharp, and drawing of the lucky tickets will take place at 9 p.m.

Members are again reminded to push the sale of tickets on the drawing. Any wishing to work at the Fair Booth should report to the Legion Hall before proceeding to the grounds. And remember, all tickets and stubs must be turned in for accounting by June 15!

A news letter will go out to all members shortly with final details.

Com. T. Smith — P.A. System and Announcements.
Jack MacKimmie — Bands.
George Kirby — Grand Parade.
Doug Ogilvie and Fred Pring — Horse Pulling Contest.
Miss E. McFaul, F. Maidens, J. Coney and C. Demerse — Draw Tickets.
R. O. (Dick) MacLean, George Kirby and Jack MacKimmie — Fair Booth and Prizes.
Doug Kettyle and R. Paulsen — Fencing Green Ring.
Grandstand — B. A. Jenkins.

All members are reminded that the next general meeting will take place, prior to the Fair, in the Legion Hall clubroom on Wednesday evening, June 10. All members are urged to turn out for this very important meeting!

Dieticians to hold June sessions in Winnipeg, Man.

About 300 professional dieticians from all parts of Canada will attend the 24th annual meeting of the Canadian Dietetic Association at Winnipeg, June 9 to 11.

National president, Miss Diane Raymond, Montreal, says the theme of the convention, "Horizons Unlimited", is particularly appropriate as the CDA is currently faced with — "the opposite of unemployment; more job opportunities than there are dieticians".

Ways and means of attracting more young women into the profession to meet the expanding needs of Canadian hospitals, institutions and industrial enterprises, will be discussed.

A number of distinguished medical, government and university officials will address the meeting on other subjects affecting the profession, such as — "Revision of Canadian Dietary Standards"; "Implications of the Government Hospital Insurance Plan"; "New Developments in Nutrition", Commercial Freezing of Food", and "Training the Non-Professional Worker".

CDA past president, Mrs. Ruth Reid of Montreal will conduct a panel discussion on "Recruiting of Dieticians", explaining the work currently underway with high school students and women's organizations. In addition to its own members' speakers bureau the CDA distributes a newly completed color film and informative literature about the profession.

First, a little story about our canary. For the past few weeks it has needed its claws trimmed, and I'm supposed to do it. To tell the truth I'm scared of hurting the little thing, so I have been making all kinds of excuses for not doing it. Well, every once in awhile I get brave and reach in to get the bird; then I hear it "cheep", and very promptly quit. As I say, this has been going on for some time, but last night I got real brave. After about three attempts I managed to get a hold of him — with Edith, of course, giving me all kinds of verbal help, also telling me not to hurt him. I got two claws trimmed when the bird decided that was enough and let out a couple of "cheeps". I just as promptly get the whim-whams, put him back into the cage. At this he hops onto his perch and proceeds to cackle at me. I swear the darn thing does this because he knows I'm scared of him. Anyhow I got two claws trimmed this time. You know what they tell you, "Be brave!" I am — until he cheeps.

With light winds and reasonably warm, the birds are out in full flight. They are all nesting, and they try to part your hair when you get too close. There were even a couple of foolish crows that came around; one of them contracted lead poisoning on the way—a very serious case of it. The duck's nest Edith has been watching so closely, is now deserted. Evidently a crow or something else got at it, and the hen pulled stakes.

The severe winter and bad spring has effected the Deer in a considerable way. Some of them should be getting ready to have their young very soon, but from observations they won't be due for a good while yet. It's just possible they won't have any young this year at all. Weather sure does play a big part in things.

One good thing about the cool weather — up to now, no Deer flies. That's one pleasure I can do without. Especially when they get into squadron formation, peel off and strike! Wow! But the midges have been out, by the millions. You have seen a hot summer evening when you could look into the sky and see what appears to be dancing ropes. At least, they are just like that, all over. They get into everything, even your eats. One doesn't mind a few flies in the stew, but you can't use them as raisins in a rice pudding, as they are too small.

Big doings this afternoon. It had turned very foggy, so we decided to go up to one of the hollows and cut some firewood. Edith, while picking up some manageable pieces, came upon a snake — a Missisauga Rattler. Up to that time there had not been a sound, but after Edith yelling for me, and chasing Goldie away, the racket started. It was all coiled up about three feet away, looking so nice and peaceful, except for the tail and head. It had just finished shedding its skin and the rattles were not properly formed, but still well enough to hear their whispering, buzzing sound. I managed to pin its head down after a couple of tries, but not before it had taken a few good whacks at the stick. I administered the finisher, as I thought, carried it over to the jeep and threw it in, as I wanted to skin it. Still thinking it was dead, we headed for the cottage in the jeep. Edith looked into the back to see how things were holding together on these beautiful roads, and there was Mr. Snake, as large as life and twice as ugly. This time I didn't fool; a jack handle did the trick. After a drink of tea at the cottage, we got to thinking about this, and the possible dangers. At least Edith had had the common sense to stand still. But she was more concerned with the dog than herself. The snake isn't too big but big enough to cause a lot of trouble, 38 inches. The markings on the thing are truly beautiful; you'd think they had been painted on by machine, they are so perfect. I didn't measure the diamonds on the back but they are so close to being the same you would have to have calipers to do it. At any rate, we are going to try and pickle it, so don't be surprised if you get a Special Delivery parcel!

The fog has set in now, for real. I can't see the root cellar and it's only about 20 feet away. Looks like a grim night for the birds. I've left the barn doors open for them. The ships' horns, in weather like this, sound mystically muffled and toned down. Gives you that spooky feeling.

May 20 —

The storm continued all night, with some really spectacular displays of lightning. This afternoon turned out very warm and hazy, we were clearing out some of the old wood around the place, and caught about a dozen small garter snakes. None of the other kind. One of those in a month is too many.

May 21 —

This has been the killingest day so far. The water snakes have been out by the dozen — and, that's just what I got, and even dozen of them. Some of them were nice and fat, the biggest was 51 inches. After the escapade with the Ugly One, we used the 22 rifle; no chances. Shoot first and then look — that's going to be our motto for a long time.

All in all it has been a good day for the varmints. Now all that's needed is about 50 crows to park right outside the cottage; so all I'll have to do is open the window and shoot them. That's not asking too much, is it?

A ship has just dropped anchor near the island. We could hear the chain going down. Guess they don't want to take any chances in this fog. It's a funny thing — hearing something, knowing someone is close to you, and not being able to see them. But for that one boat there isn't a sound, except the lighthouse fog signal. We can't even hear the other stations, it's so thick.

Those Geese nesting in the swamps are still with us, and from the noise that is going on, I think they are expecting the Blessed Event in a few days. The Wood-Ducks are setting, too, and the noise they make when you come around is terrific.

I picked up a little wild Canary that had run into something. After Edith got through with it, everything was O.K. It was with us for about an hour, not really hurt but shaken up. It's funny I can handle these wild birds but not our pet Canary! Maybe it's because they peek at you.

May 22 —

We were on the way up to Mr. Dulles' cabin this morning when we spotted the biggest Snapping Turtle we have seen on the island; it must have weighed a good 20 lbs. A mean and ugly thing; even just before he died he was snapping. His neck was about 3 inches thick. He must have been very old; and the number of young ducks he must have eaten during that lifetime, not to mention all the young birds, fish, etc. We have a good recipe for snapping turtle stew, so maybe if we can get a couple of small ones, we'll try it. In a small swamp we also saw some real dan-doody frogs. Just as soon as there are enough of them out, we'll be having those legs. By the time we get through eating all these fancy dishes, we should be real connois-sewers! . . . There is going to be another real feed one of these days when the crayfish start in to shore. Then think of all the berries we get later on. The only thing we haven't got is cream. Maybe we should get a cow! The strawberry plants are out in profusion, more this year than last, and with the warm weather, all the trees are budding; they sure look pretty. Kind of nice to see something growing instead of just bare limbs. As I told you before, there are no light green — all the foliage is dark; that is from being surrounded by the water. But even the dark shade looks good to us right now!

May 23 —

Just been notified by radio that the "boss" — Mr. John Foster Dulles — not expected to live. You doubtless heard and read the news by equally speedy channels.

May 24 —

It's "finis" to a grand and noble chapter. We feel this very personally; but seldom did a statesman leave such an example of devotion and determination.

Motorcycle events for Rigaud Park

Motorcycle fans will again see their favorite cyclists in action this coming Sunday, June 7, at 2 p.m. at Rigaud Park. The last two meets indicate more and more people are fascinated by this exciting sport.

In competition this Sunday will be A. Whittington (No. 187) from Levis, Que., who makes stiff opposition for S. Freeman (55) from Toronto, Doug May (166) from Peterborough, and many others.

The Senior events will feature R. Tremblay (369) from St. Elzear, D. Pouliot (282), Rickey Longtin (28) and K. McElroy (100).

Among the up and coming Juniors are Y. Generoux (218), G. Duchesneaux (371), L. F. Richardson (474), N. Kehoe (32) and C. Belloy (481) who do more than their share in proving motorcycle races afford exciting thrills.

American talent will be represented from Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland, New Rochelle and Daytona Beach.

These races are presented by the well known Verdun motorcycle racing club and approved by the C.M.A.

Timken Silent Automatic CUSTOM MARK II oil furnace developed by TIMKEN SILENT AUTOMATIC . . . revolutionizes oil heating . . . greatest advance in years!

with instant clean flame. Unequaled for clean comfort, low fuel bills and trouble-free performance

Comfort
With the Iron Fireman CUSTOM Mark II furnace you use a supersensitive thermostat which operates the furnace with the slightest variation of room temperature. This gives you shorter, more frequent firing periods, with remarkably uniform indoor temperature. No matter how often the furnace starts, the flame instantly burns clean—no smoke, no soot, no fouled combustion chamber, no wasted oil.

Trouble-free operation
Cuts service calls to the vanishing point. No burner adjustment required; no draft troubles; no soot-fouled furnace or carbon clogged nozzle.

Operates without chimney draft
The CUSTOM Mark II furnace provides its own positive induced draft with precision control. No natural chimney draft required.

Cleanliness
With the instant clean flame there are no flecks of soot blowing from your chimney or escaping into your home. Hundreds of tests made with smoke-detecting instruments show a flame that's absolutely clean from the very moment it's turned on.

Down go fuel bills
CUSTOM Mark II furnaces report remarkable fuel savings. Instant clean flame eliminates wasteful smoky warm-up period.

Quiet
The easy-burning globular flame is a pleasant change from the blowtorch roar of the conventional oil burner. Fan has resilient mountings to dampen vibration and is sized for large capacity at low, quiet speeds.

This furnace can be installed without a chimney and is guaranteed free of oil odours

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

The deathrate by Autocide

BOTH BEWILDERING and tragic are the current records of motor vehicle fatalities and injuries . . . bewildering because in spite of constant reminding and the unstinted efforts of authorities across the nation, motorists and pedestrians continue to die on the highways of Canada in increasing numbers through their own lack of care, consideration and use of the knowledge they possess.

Canadians are being killed in traffic accidents at the rate of one every three hours. The Hon. Antoine Rivard, as chairman of the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, extended the gruesome hope that "we will kill one person every four hours or six persons every day instead of eight, to save 730 lives in a year!"

This newspaper, as a public service, is currently reproducing a series of ten articles, written by outstanding authorities in their respective fields, presenting their views on traffic safety needs, and how they can be met. Collectively, the papers presented by these experts represent some of the most critical, up-to-date thinking on the causes of highway accidents and injuries, and point the way for making our streets and highways safer for all.

This series has been compiled under the direction of the Institute For Safer Living of American Mutual Liability Insurance Company of Boston, Mass., and distributed in Canada by the Canadian Highway Safety League.

Teenagers at the wheel

THE FOREGOING editorial directs our readers' attention to a series of articles on Traffic Safety which, at first perusal, may seem somewhat out of stride with Canadian thinking. Safe driving education in the schools, for instance, is the topic of the story appearing this week; and while this is still a debated subject on the Canadian school curriculum, it is a well established practice in the United States, and an example to be seriously studied.

The high importance of this safety factor is emphasized by two other instances this week — one being notable for its locale in this particular district. . . .

What of the teenage drivers?

Teenage motorists tend to get poor grades in school, are the worst accident risk on the highways and face a flabby physical future — according to a national report on youthful "car craziness" in the June 6 issue of MacLean's Magazine. While police, parents, teachers and health authorities are justifiably worried, it's the psychologists who are most concerned, writes Eric Hutton. "Some of them," he says, "warn that the teenager's car, as a chief symbol of soft living, may debase him mentally, physically, spiritually and morally."

Three out of four of the 350,000 Canadian teenagers licensed to drive are boys, reports the article. In Ontario, they number just over five per cent of all drivers, but are involved in more than twelve per cent of the accidents. In Manitoba, every 100 teenage drivers got into an average of nine accidents last year compared with five and a half for every 100 drivers in the 35-44 age group.

Here is the other item which stresses the importance of this problem, and illustrates steps being taken to improve matters in this part of the country.

More than 50 teenage champion drivers will test their knowledge and skill at the wheel June 6, when they compete in the provincial Safe Driving Road-e-o in St. Jerome.

The safe driving contests, now an annual event, were instituted by the Province of Quebec Junior Chambers of Commerce, and were recently accorded high praise for their educational value by the Province of Quebec Safety League. This year's event is organized by the St. Jerome Jaycees. . . . "By teaching teen-agers that a car can be a lethal piece of machinery capable of causing death and destruction unless it is handled with the proper caution and skill, the Junior Chambers are developing a whole generation of safe drivers," J. S. Farquharson, president of the Province of Quebec Safety League, declared.

Scare on plastic bags

A SPOKESMAN for the plastics division of Canadian Industries Limited has warned parents of the dangers to infants in the misuse of plastic films such as are used to package garments and vegetables. The spokesman said the bags should not be given to children as a plaything nor should they be used as a crib-mattress, or pillow cover.

Plastic bags, already labelled a menace in the United States, have been likened by Canadian safety workers to poisons and sharp instruments, with a warning "keep away from children."

The U.S. National Safety Council recently reported 28 deaths among small children by suffocation in the last five months caused by the transparent bags.

The scare in Canada was touched off recently when a 10-month-old Windsor, Ont., boy died while playing with one of the plastic bags. Four cleaning and laundry firms in the area announced their decision to discontinue use of plastic wrappings.

Ontario's Chief Coroner Smirle Lawson called for a ban on what he termed "suicidal" dry-cleaning bags.

Just this week an Ottawa child was the victim of a similar fatality.

Doctors say static electricity generated through friction of the substance causes the plastic to ahere to the face, blocking nose and mouth passages.

Viewpoints and perspectives

BLAME RUSSIA. — The whole cause of the high taxation not only in Canada but in most all countries of the Western Alliance is the huge cost of keeping up with defence. If we cry too much, we are showing weakness in the eyes of Russia. It is Russia who is more or less responsible for the situation in which we find ourselves.

— Huntingdon (Que.) Gleaner.

LOYAL SHOPPERS. — A lot has been said down through the years regarding the duties of the ordinary citizen and his loyalty to the community. The main point we should all try to bear in mind is that by shopping at home we are helping to build a successful, progressive community. — Grenfell (Sask.) Sun

DAYLIGHT SAVING causes mild grumbling in the cities but high consternation on the farm. City workers make the adjustment merely by observing the change and gulping an extra cup of coffee to snap them awake. But farmers have problems. It's difficult getting milk out of old Bess before she's even awake, unless of course you have a lot of pull.

— Aurora (Ont.) Banner

HELPS BUSINESS. — An attractive town draws people, and in so doing, more business The individual does not have to wait for a concerted drive; he can do much on his own and this encourages others to do likewise.

— Huntingdon Gleaner

READING HABIT. — It would appear that as a nation Canada has in some manner failed to develop the desire for reading, particularly of a sound and wholesome nature, in the last two or three rising generations. Certainly there was a time when Canadians bought books in higher ratio of population than they now do.

— Estevan (Sask.) Mercury

WHAT'S IN A NAME? — To the suggestion that the cod undergo a glamor program by having its name changed, we can only say that a cod by ony other name would smell as fishy. How changing the name of a fish could have an effect on its sale, is a little cloudy. And what's wrong with the name cod anyhow — a simple three-letter word and heaven knows there are few enough such words in practical use.

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS EACH. — What is the cold war costing Canada? . . . Plenty, answers The Financial Post.

For defence, defence production and civil defence, Ottawa is planning to spend this year a total of $1,705.8 million. That's $100 apiece for every man, woman and child in Canada. It's more than a quarter of all federal government expenditures, and $300 million more than we will spend on family allowances, old age pensions and federal hospital insurance all put together.

KNOW YOUR Canada

Prepared by the Research Staff of Encyclopedia Canadiana

Is spoken French-Canadian a "patois"?

No, says Pierre Daviault in tracing the development of the French language in Canada in his article in Encyclopedia Canadiana. What has come to be called Canadian French is found in popular speech, spoken spontaneously, without reference to the literary language. To find that there exists a variety of French that is peculiar to Canada is not surprising. Several varieties of French exist, says Mr. Daviault, and Canadian French is one of these.

"People judge this variety of French in quite different ways," he says. "They tend either to praise it extravagantly or to heap unfair criticism on it. Some people, surprised to find here certain words that have long been obsolete in France, declare that we speak the purest 17th-century French; others, who are shocked by the incorrect expressions they hear in Canada, see in this speech only a patois or dialect. As a matter of fact, . . . Canadian French is an authentic variety of French whose peculiarities stem from historic and geographic causes."

Who was the first Prime Minister of Newfoundland?

Philip Francis Little (1824-1897), who was born in Prince Edward Island and died in Ireland. A lawyer, Little arrived in Newfoundland in 1844 and played a prominent role in the struggle for responsible government between 1846 and 1854. The first election after the granting of responsible government was held in 1855 and Little, as leader of the Liberal and Catholic Party, was called upon to form the first administration. He retired from politics on his appointment to the Supreme Court of Newfoundland in 1858.

How many Islands at Seven Islands?

There are actually only six, not seven as the name implies. Seven Islands (or Sept Iles), now a great ore-shipping town on the St. Lawrence, lies on a bay of the same name about 350 miles below Quebec City. The first map of Canada, drawn in 1536 from data supplied by Jacques Cartier, mentions the "7 yles". However, there are only six islands, all near the entrance to the bay. The seventh "island" only appears to be such and is part of the mainland. The islands are high and steep—the highest reaching 730 feet—and have little vegetation. The bay is almost circular, about seven miles in diameter, and is so enclosed that it resembles a lake, making a well-protected harbour reached by three channels.

such matters as recreation, entertainment, privileges and such things as constitute the normal mode of living.

Prof. Hall made reference, of course, to the three "R's" — which he termed the "fundamental skills". Aside from the fact that there were brilliant students who have never learned to spell or acquired the art of writing, he agreed that the school curricula embraced a mass of non-essential information — such geographical facts as "the mean temperature of Ceylon in midsummer". The fundamental skills, however, are ineffective if the student is not led up to the ability to apply them in broader study. "In other words", he stated, "we are striving to produce citizens with awareness, alertness and versatility who can contribute something to the broader life of the community", and to circumvent the maladjustment caused by economic dislocations, changes and upheavals which are common to our times.

Two major problems were discussed in education today. The speaker cited figures to emphasize the first of these, the physical problem. The immense increases in school populations, the immensely increased costs. With each staggering figure, Prof. Hall stated, the problems were not doubled or tripled, but "squared". It was understandable that there had been dislocations in the conceptions and reckonings of pupils, teachers, school boards—and criticisms from the taxpayers.

The second problem was the educational goal, and a conflict between the two traditions, the European — which practised selective education, encouraging only those qualified with brains; and the American system, which provides that it is the right of every child to enjoy a college education. The contrast is evident: In Canada, only 10% to 12% of pupils go to University; in the United States the figure reaches 35% (including technical colleges). . . . In this respect, the speaker felt there was a tendency to coach that portion of the class going to University, while overlooking the later needs of the majority. We are "textbook ridden" and have trained our non-University-goers along the same lines. There is a need for guidance among career-makers, and for self-examination in the teaching system.

The topic, designed primarily for the teaching profession, gave a candid analysis of classroom trends, and suggested new ideals and new approaches. Teachers were urged to take pupils into their confidence and explore their problems. Longer hours of study were not the answer; but harder study while the pupils are working. And often, a closer understanding can convert boredom into a challenge. The pupil can be inspired by a target of achievement, and the whole attitude changed towards education. It was largely a problem of salesmanship. "Cracking the whip will not succeed with today's generation, but the teacher can really enjoy the experience of 'selling' them education."

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

MORE CLOSED SHOPS?

Another Canadian textile mill, in New Brunswick, closed up just recently, and hundreds of highly-paid jobs disappeared. There will be no more bargaining there for still higher pay and fancier fringe benefits!

Recently, two important garment makers, who had paid good wages to scores of Canadian workers, found it impossible to compete with the Japanese. So, on the basis of the old saw, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em," they have stopped making their garments in Canada. Hereafter, they will be made in Japan, and the Canadian firm will merely act as distributor. This maintains the jobs of a few salesmen, but ends the jobs of the needle workers. More unemployment! More taxes to pay unemployment insurance!

Perhaps you think the closing of these mills means nothing to you, as long as you can continue to buy Japanese textiles or other foreign-made items cheaply?

How wrong can you be! Your standard of living as a Canadian depends more on the health of our manufacturing industries than anything else you can name! Manufacturing makes more jobs, and pays more taxes than any other industry.

If we all buy foreign-made products, Canadian jobs will disappear, taxes will go sky high, our standard of living will sink. This is pure common sense. Surely we ought to start demanding that "Made in Canada" sign before we purchase? Buying at home keeps jobs at home!

Some people won't read a book unless they are settled in a chair, or in bed. Others can't or won't read at all. Members of both groups look with mixed suspicion and ridicule at people like me.

I am one of those who sometimes read in unusual places. If I'm reading a book as I get off a bus, I will continue reading it as I walk along the street.

Sure as sunrise, some clod will accost me and say fatuously: "Heh! Heh! Must be an interesting book."

It disturbs him to see a person read and walk at the same time. Why? Is it because the walking reader looks as though he might bump into something? I haven't done that, so far.

It isn't much of a trick to observe trees, cars and pedestrians out of the corner of the eye, while soaking up the message from the printed page. But those who have never done it, won't believe it.

Waitresses are especially hostile toward people who read. A stubborn waitress will hover for as long as a minute with a ham sandwich poised above a customer's ear, waiting for him to move aside a book or paper.

At last, with a heavy sigh of martyrdom, she will plonk down the dish on the clear part of the table.

Automobile reading is a habit that really horrifies people. I don't mean reading while in control of a moving car. I have never done that. I mean reading between traffic lights.

In my cluttered glove compartment I have an old pocket book of Ogden Nash verse. When I am stopped by a red light, I soothe my frustration with some of these wry and neatly-fashioned comments on human foibles.

I flatter myself that one part of the mind is aware of the color of the traffic light. As soon as it changes, away goes the book into the glove compartment, and down goes the foot on the accelerator. I don't think I'm any slower off the mark than those who just use the time staring into space.

But sometimes I have looked up from the book and caught the driver in the next lane staring at me with alarm. This piece is to assure him that he has nothing to worry about.

HOW THE FIGHT STARTED

(Reprint of 1951)

I often am consulted for advice in certain cases — for instance, what to do to make a lot more parking spaces. With traffic jams on every street there's nothing but congestion. But what to do about it? That's the Million Dollar Question.

A Mayor came to see me and said, "Hey Walt, have you the answer? Can you give us some good advice?" And I replied, "I can, Sir. Just pull down all the buildings and create all vacant lots, and then when someone tries to park, he'll have his choice of spots. Prosperity will follow, for there'd be a building boom, building cities in the country where there's lots and lots of room. There are places in the country where a man can park all day, and later when he drives off home, there's not a cent to pay! But in a town of any size (I guess they're all the same) there are no vacant lots because the buildings are to blame. — Come over to the Grand Hotel. We can discuss it there," said I, while he tagged on behind, a picture of despair.

When I told him what my charge was for professional advice, he knocked me down and broke my specs — I ask you, was that nice?

Now boxing used to be my hobby, and so I punched him in the lobby. And as he gazed at me in wonder, I smacked him twice in the retunda. When he got up and tried to flee, I hit him on the balcony and socked him a terrific jar between the desk and the cocktail-bar. Then he hit me a lusty whack and broke my sacro-iliac. But he ignored my good advice, and never paid my stated price. And I can't figure a way to make him pay for advice he didn't take.

So now we're each in a separate cell for damage we did to the Grand Hotel!

Be seein' ya!

Late Mrs. John S. Dixon

A union of over 60 years was severed on Wednesday, May 27 with the passing of Mrs. John S. Dixon, of Dalesville.

Born in Grenville, October 17, 1878, the former Rachael Maude Kennedy was married to John S. Dixon on October 13, 1896, and in 1956 they had celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. Their home since their marriage was in Dalesville.

A life member of the Women's Missionary Society, Mrs. Dixon was also active in church work until a few months ago. She was a member of the Maple Avenue Baptist Church, Brownsburg.

Left to mourn her passing are her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Chas. Walker, of Lachute; and two sons, Howard, of Dalesville, and John, of Lachute. There also remain three sisters, Charlotte (Mrs. Robert Kennedy, of Calgary, Alta.) Vida (Mrs. Thos. Bennett, of Calumet), Etta (Mrs. Thos. Tomalty, of Edwards, Ont.); with five grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Service was conducted by the Rev. R. L. McPhee, minister of Maple Avenue Baptist Church, Brownsburg, assisted by the Rev. James Armour, of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Church, on Friday afternoon, with interment at Lachute Cemetery.

Pall-bearers were six nephews — Messrs. Bert Prophet, Irvine Prophet, Reginald Bennett, Guy Tomalty, Lawrence Gauley and Robert Dixon.

Old C-I-L worker and sportsman died suddenly

Late W. J. Melville Fletcher

Brownsburg — This community was shocked by the sudden death, May 12, of Melville Fletcher, who succumbed to a heart attack at his home at Lake Louisa.

The late Mel Fletcher was born in Brownsburg March 21, 1908, a son of the late W. J. Fletcher and Mamie Guthrie, one of the oldest families in the community. He lived all his life in Brownsburg and was for 35 years an employee of C-I-L. As foreman in the E.B. Cap department, he was a faithful and dependable worker. He was also a great sportsman, a fishing and hunting enthusiast. He owned a Beagle kennels at Lake Louisa.

He leaves to mourn his loss his mother, one brother, Chester, of Montreal, and two sisters (Ida) Mrs. G. Price, of Quebec City, Miss Alma Fletcher, R.N., with the Government in Ottawa, his wife and one son, Gerald, of Brownsburg, also his close friend Gerry Chapman, and others.

The funeral was conducted by the Rev. G. W. Bruce in the United Church at Brownsburg, with burial in the Fletcher lot at Cushing, Que. The large attendance at the church, and the profusion of flowers, showed the respect he held in the community.

Florida man related here, former resident

Acquaintances here will regret to learn of the death of Mr. George Hamilton, who passed away last week in Florida at the approximate age of 72.

Mr. Hamilton was born in Brownsburg, receiving his early education there and at Lachute Academy. He was employed by Northern Electric Co., then moving to Grand Rapids, Mich., where he served for 35 years as chief engineer of American Seating Co. Retiring in 1955, he then made his home in Florida. His remains were taken to Grand Rapids for interment.

Surviving are his wife, Esther; three daughters, Virginia, Margaret and Gloria; and one son, Barton.

The late George Hamilton was the son of Thos. Hamilton, one-time storekeeper in Brownsburg. The late Jas. Carpenter and the late Alex Riddell of Lachute were his uncles. He was therefore related to a number in these parts. He was a frequent visitor here through the years, and spoke most highly of his former surroundings in Argenteuil.

WELDEN — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Richard Welden, who passed away June 5, 1942. — Always remembered by Gladys, Sandy, and grandchildren, Dickie and Sandy, Jr.

YOUNG — In loving memory of our dear sister-in-law and aunt, Eileen, who passed away June 3, 1958. — Forever remembered by Eleanor, Tom, Mark and Gayle.

"In tears we saw you sinking,
We watched your fade away,
Our hearts were almost broken,
You fought so hard to stay.
But when we saw you sleeping
So peacefully, free from pain,
We could not wish you back
To suffer that again."

YOUNG — In loving memory of our dear daughter-in-law, Eileen, who passed away June 3, 1958. — Always remembered by Mammie and Herman.

"We often sit and think of you,
Of things you used to say and do,
You live with us in memory still,
Not just today, but always will."

Induction service for new pastor of B'burg Baptist charge

Brownsburg — The service of induction into the pastorate of the Grenville, Chatham West and the Maple Avenue Baptist Church at Brownsburg, was held May 28 for the Rev. Richard L. McPhee, in the presence of a large congregation. The Rev. and Mrs. McPhee and three sons arrived recently from Loosiemouth, Scotland.

The service was led by the moderator, the Rev. E. K. Smith of Ottawa. The sermon was preached by the Rev. F. F. Bennett. Others taking part were — the Rev. W. J. Baxter, the Rev. E. H. Cameron, and the Rev. B. F. Rice. The new pastor was introduced by Mr. Andrew Moffatt, of Lakeside Heights. Mrs. F. Barker sang a solo, "Have Thine Own Way". Mrs. N. E. Smillie presided at the organ. Greetings were brought by the Rev. James Armour, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. C. R. Lang, rector of the Anglican Church. Mr. Harold Mason, church clerk, read a telegram of greeting from Dr. Dixon Burns on behalf of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec and the Home Mission Board.

Following the service a reception was held for the Rev. and Mrs. McPhee, when the women of the Grenville, Chatham West and Brownsburg churches served a buffet luncheon.

Ballet School demonstration is well attended

On Saturday evening the Lachute School of Ballet held its second demonstration, in the town auditorium. A large gathering of friends of the pupils and others interested in the art of ballet, were welcomed by Mrs. E. Gow in English and in French.

The first part showed how ballet technique is taught and the various exercises by the pupils. It was designed to show the patient build-up the pupils receive, and must have increased the parents' confidence in the teacher of the school. Unfortunately, from lack of experience, this part took a little longer than anticipated, a matter which can be rectified in future.

The second part was full of of color; simple but carefully designed costumes were used to make the presentation more enjoyable. Three dances were performed in 'mime, entitled "The Three Bears", "A Slavonic Dance" and "A Swedish Dance". All were carried out with the elegance and grace of a more-practised company.

Miss J. Muller, from Montreal, performed a Hungarian dance with fire and distinction. Finally Miss J. Bouchard chose the Waltz and the Tarantella as her solo numbers. These dances were a joy to watch, and must have been an inspiration to her pupils.

Thus the demonstration showed ballet from basic principles to the cultured dancer. The audience were favorably impressed with the advance made by local pupils and the high standard of the whole performance. Beautiful carnations were presented by the pupils to Mrs. E. Gow, Miss T. Bouchard and Mrs. A. Pringle, the pianist, who in addition to her music, designed and cut out all the costumes seen during the evening. Thanks are due to all the people who helped to make this demonstration possible.

As a mark of appreciation Miss J. Bouchard was presented with a length of beautiful fabric by Ayers. Mrs. A. Pringle received a similar length plus a blanket; both gifts were their own choice and were purchased from the ballet funds.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. McOuat of St. Andrews East, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Audrey Irene, to Mr. George Kent Pasco, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Pasco, of Brownsburg. The marriage will take place at 3 p.m. Saturday, July 18, in St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, St. Andrews East.

Mrs. Ernest McOuat and Mrs. Don Titman were in Ayer's Cliff this week, attending the funeral on Monday of Mr. H. Webster, the father of Mrs. Lillian W. McFaul, a former resident of Lachute.

The many friends of Mr. Augus Strong are sorry to learn that he is a patient in the Royal Victoria Hospital; wishes are extended for his speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Millette and daughter, Lorraine, of Montreal, spent Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Rowe.

40th Wedding anniversary

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stein, Sr., who on Thursday, June 4, celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary. A family gathering was held on Saturday, when a presentation was made to the honored couple.

Entertained for prospective bride

Mrs. Leonard Elder entertained last Saturday at a trousseau tea for her daughter, Dianne, whose marriage is taking place on June 6. Mrs. C. Andrews poured tea.

Several friends have also entertained for Miss Elder in honor of her approaching marriage — Miss Paulette Belleau and Mrs. Edgar Morrow at a kitchen shower; Mrs. Clarence McRae and Mrs. Don MacRae at a miscellaneous shower; Mrs. Roy Boyd and Miss Leilani Elder at a pantry shower; and Mrs. Gilbert Boyd, of Louisa, at a miscellaneous shower.

Recitals given by pianoforte pupils

Miss Juliette Rodrigue, Lic. Mus., presented her pupils in a pianoforte recital at two entertainments in the music room of Lachute High School last Friday afternoon and evening.

The Junior pupils played in the afternoon; patrons on this occasion were the mayoress, Mrs. Jas. W. McGibbon, and Principal Fred Royal of L.H.S., and Mrs. Royal.

The Intermediate students performed in the evening, when Mrs. W. M. Cottingham was patroness. . . . The recital included solo and duet selections from well known composers, including several by Haydn in commemoration of the 150th anniversary year of his death.

On behalf of the pupils, little Nancy Drew presented their teacher with two long-playing pianoforte recordings. There was an appreciative audience of parents and friends at each program, and Miss Rodrigue was warmly complimented on the progress of her pupils.

Mrs. Jack Lagar and daughter, Karen, of the Town of Mount Royal, were in Lachute last week-end to visit her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Callicott, and her father, Mr. Jas. Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Rowe, of Pembroke, Ont., visited with Mr. and Mrs. George Rowe and Mr. and Mrs. Perry Rowe over the week-end, returning home Sunday evening.

Pre-nuptial showers

Among those who have entertained for Miss Mary Ruth MacKimmie, R.N., whose marriage to Mr. C. William Ott, Jr., will take place at 4 p.m. June 6 in the Lachute United Church, are the following:

Mrs. Harvey Kerr and Miss Jean MacKimmie, at a kitchen shower; Mrs. J. K. Campbell and Mrs. R. Cairns, a pantry shower; Miss Alice Wickenden, Mrs. A. R. Cunningham and Mrs. Clifford Lynch, a kitchen china shower; Mrs. Ernest Snadden and Mrs. George Tattersfield, a tea and presentation; Mrs. W. Singleton, a linen shower; Mrs. Garth Boyd, a tea and presentation; Dr. and Mrs. F. W. FitzGerald, a dinner party at the University Club; Mrs. Howard Watson, a luncheon at the Lachute Golf and Country Club; Mrs. Leonard Ayers, at a kitchen utensil shower held at "Philengaifair", Pine Hill. Miss MacKimmie's trousseau tea was held on Saturday, May 30, at her parents' residence, 235 Bethany Road.

Recent activities at Brownsburg United

With Mrs. G. Bruce and Mrs. H. Smith as leaders, the Explorers' Group have had their final meeting until after the summer months. There are 15 members in the group and mothers and relatives were invited to the closing party, when their year's work was on display and refreshments were served.

The W.M.S. recently sent a carton of baby clothes, knitted articles and quilts to the Montreal Supply Office.

The sacrament of baptism for the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Izzard took place on May 24, the child receiving the names Richard Scott.

Worthy of notice was the following, on one of the recent church bulletins to members of this church: "Ten Commandments to Half Juvenile Delinquency".

1. Thou shalt guard thy children in the home and on the street.
2. Thou shalt make thy home a sanctuary of love and devotion.
3. Thou shalt honor the teachers of thy children, and teach thy children to honor them.
4. Thou shalt not condone the faults of thy children through a misguided sense of loyalty.
5. Thou shalt teach thy children the respect of the law, and keep them from the companionship of children who indicate a disrespect for the law.
6. Thou shalt not lead they child into temptation, by providing him with the means thereof: to wit too much money, a car, and adult privileges.
7. Thou shalt enforce decency in the dress of thy daughters and dignity in the dress of thy sons.
8. Thou shalt protect the morals of thy children from the indiscretions of youthful ardor and inexperience.
9. Thou shalt conduct thine own affairs in such a manner as to set an example worthy of imitation.
10. Thou shalt not permit the children to bear arms, except in the service of their country.

New Anglican church planned for St. Margaret's resort community

Plans are being completed for the election of a church corporation at St. Margaret's, to promote the construction of the new Anglican Church in that resort area. An open meeting is being held on Saturday, June 6, at 10.30 a.m. at the home of Mr. Cecil C. Gardner, Ste. Marguerite.

The Rev. Horace G. Baugh, who has been the pioneer in developing this new work, will introduce the Rev. Arthur V. Ottiwell, newly appointed rector of Ste. Agathe, who will take over a large portion of the district for church extension.

Appreciation

Mrs. E. F. Gow wishes to thank pupils of Class 4 of the School of Ballet, for the beautiful bouquet of carnations received last Saturday night.

DEATH COMES TO ALL
— but does death end all?

Some say Yes. Many say No. Others say: "No one ever came back to tell us." But still others say: "Not so. Messages are received from the dead every day."

Are you confused? Would you like an authoritative answer? Then why not ask: "What do the Scriptures say about 'survival after death'?" The answer may surprise you, but you can be sure it will be to your eternal welfare. Can you open your Bible and turn to texts on all features of the subject? You will have them at your fingertips with the 96-page booklet entitled "What Do the Scriptures Say About 'Survival After Death'?" Order your copy today for only 10c.

During June, Jehovah's Witnesses will continue to offer the new 156-page Bible-study aid "From Paradise Lost to Paradise Regained" and an informative Scriptural booklet, on a contribution of 75c. Return calls will be made on all interested persons with a view to starting home Bible Studies.

Write to 150 Bridgeland Ave., Toronto 19, or ask any Jehovah's Witness you may happen to meet, anywhere.

Joint meeting of 2 teacher groups held in Lachute

Approximately 130 members of the two neighboring Teachers' Associations gathered in Lachute United Church basement last Wednesday, to enjoy a buffet supper served by the ladies of that church.

Immediately following supper, each Association separately held its annual busines meeting, in the High School. The Argenteuil Teachers' Association meeting was conducted by Miss Ruby Primmerman, president. Chairman of the Athletic Committee, Ronald Duncan of Brownsburg, reported on the activities of his committee and made a number of suggestions which his successor might find helpful.

Most active committee of the year was the Educational Committee, chaired by Lucien Rossaert of Lachute. This group sponsored a Drama Festival in Lachute High School in November and a Public Speaking and Choral Speaking Competition in Browsburg on May 1. The chairman expressed the hope that these two events would be held again next year, along with an essay contest for those students who prefer writing to speaking.

Past-President R. N. Wyse, chairman of the Nominating Committee, presented a slate of officers for the coming year. This slate was accepted unanimously by the meeting and includes the following:

President, Lucien Rossaert, Lachute.
Vice-president, Mrs. K. Madden, Kilmar.
Secretary, Mrs. A. Walker, Lachute.
Treasurer, Mr. G. McPherson, Morin Heights.
Program Chairman, Mrs. Grace McCabe, Harrington.
Athletic Chairman, Mr. Robert Bailly, Lachute.
Historical Chairman, Miss Ruby Primmerman, Brownsburg.
Official Delegates — Mr. Rossaert, Mrs. Madden, Mr. F. P. Kyle (Grenville), Miss E. Hoare (Grenville).

Climax of the evening's activities was a public meeting arranged by the Educational Committee of the Argenteuil group and featuring, as speaker, Professor C. Wayne Hall of the Institute of Education (reported elsewhere in this issue).

Honorary office in gratitude for co-operation

At a directors' meeting of "Le Carrefour du Livre", appreciation to Mr. R. A. Giles was expressed in electing him honorary president of the organization. This honor is in gratitude for his having provided space in the Giles Publishing premises for almost a year while the library was in its formative stages, and for special considerations in the matter of printing and publicity. . . . The nomination was moved by André Cloutier and seconded by Mme. J. L. Sauvé.

Another tribute was paid to Roger Lagarde, Advocate, for his efforts in procuring the charter of this group. Mr. Lagarde was named legal advisor.

X-ray clinics, district schedule for next week

The Argenteuil section of the Anti-Tuberculosis League have now commenced to spend the $2,900 which was collected from the sale of Christmas Seals in this County during the past two years.

This money is used exclusively to pay the costs of X-rays in Argenteuil by the Montreal League, who will be working here during the whole month of June.

Two Units will be in operation, which will enable all sections to be covered. There will be no X-ray examination at the Lachute Exhibition this year; therefore you are requested to take advantage of your free examination while the clinic is in your district.

Although statistics show a decline in death rate from TB, there is still room for improvement. In this County alone, eight new cases were detected last year and two deaths occurred, and already for 1959 another two deaths have occurred which would have been averted had an early X-ray been obtained.

We must remember that tuberculosis gives no warning in its early stage, and can only be found at that time by an X-ray examination. A periodic examination is the most effective preventive means against serious pulmonary chronic diseases. Thus it is strongly recommended that all persons over 15 years of age have their annual chest X-ray. Once the population is convinced of this fact, tuberculosis will cease to be a major problem.

After a winter period, when the Grippe reached epidemic proportions, it is wise to have an X-ray to ascertain the condition of your lungs.

The Provincial Health law demands that teachers, food handlers such as grocers, butchers, bakers, milk producers and dealers, hotel and restaurant employees, also all barbers and hairdressers, must be in posession on a Health Card showing their lungs are in a satisfactory condition.

The Mobile Clinic is the best opportunity for such persons to obtain this card with the maximum of inconvenience.

The advantages of this TB service are:

1. To know that there is no abnormal condition detected by the X-ray.

2. To receive your Health Card to that effect.

3. To know that you are not a spreader of TB germs to others, and especially to your own children.

4. To obtain the examination free, which would normally cost approximately $10.

5. To contribute to the fight against TB, thereby showing intelligence and civic mindedness.

What's happening to our Indians?

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"What's happening to our Indians?" Is this ever asked in your family? Why not use your public library for a family project on this subject? Accurate information may also be found in the excellent Handbook "Canada" issued annually by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Ottawa.

In "Canada 1958" you will discover that it is a mistake to continue to refer to the Red Man as "the vanishing race". When Europeans first reached the shores of America, there were perhaps 200,000 to 220,000 Indians in the area we now call Canada. This number, through the years, was diminished by war and disease. The total population on the reserves is now much less, 163,000, but it is increasing by 4,000 each year.

In 1951, the new Indian Act gave the Indians greater responsibility in looking after their own affairs in the operation of their councils. The Federal Government, working through the Indian Affairs Branch of the Department of Citizenship and Immigration, is eager to help the Indians to become increasingly self-supporting and independent members of the community. At the same time, they wish them to retain their identity. The leaders of the Indians in many areas are asking for the franchise for all Indians.

"Official" Indians are those who have continued to live on 2,223 reserves, 6,000,000 acres in extent. These statistics do not include those who are ordinary citizens, living in non-Indian communities. In a recent year, there were 841 Indians who left the reserves and became Canadian citizens.

Over thirty-five thousand boys and girls are in elementary schools, on and off reserves, and well over two thousand students attend secondary schools, special courses, (such as teacher training and nursing) and colleges. Today there are 350 day schools, 67 residential schools, 30 special seasonal schools and 12 hospital schools serving our first Canadians.

There are many outstanding Canadian athletes of Indian blood. Early in this century, an Onondaga Indian, Tom Longboat, won fame as a long distance runner, and both a trophy and medals have been named after him. In the last National Senior School Boys Bonspiel at Winnipeg, two rinks were entered from Portage La Prairie W.M.S. Indian Residential School.

Special projects have been carried out in different areas promoting handicrafts, fur development enterprises and agricultural operations. There were 157 active Homemakers Clubs (March 1958) similar to Women's Institutes, on the reserves throughout Canada.

All Canadians can be proud of James Gladstone, the first Indian to be appointed to the Upper Chamber of Ottawa. Many of the gifted Indians who have moved off the reserves and received an education, have contributed greatly to our national life as doctors, lawyers, ministers, business men, and in other walks of life.

The Indian in his native state is accustomed to isolated living and his concepts of time, money, hygiene, co-operation and competition are different. It is not easy for him to adjust to life in large centers, where he often settles, seeking employment. The plight of young Indians, particularly Indian girls, who move from a reserve to a metropolitan centre, has troubled thoughtful people and moved many of them to deeds of practical helpfulness.

Rousseau once said, "As soon as any man says of the affairs of the state, 'What does it matter to me?' the state may be given up as lost." It does matter to all Canadians what happens to our first Canadians!

Potato salad summer favorite

(Consumer Section)

Potatoes complement other foods in a way that no other vegetable can. On the one hand, they serve as a bland and neutral background for more pertinent flavors and colors, yet at the same time potatoes provide a certain satisfaction in their own stability and goodness.

During the warm weather, when cold lunches and dinners are popular, potatoes are probably served more often in salads than in any other way. New potatoes with their distinctive, fresh flavor are especially nice for use in salads — good, too, when cooked with a little fresh or dried mint.

Although most homemakers probably have their own favorite recipe for potato salad, the staff in Canada's Kitchen thought some of you might like to try a few of the interesting combinations they like. Here are their suggestions:

To the basic mixture (about 6 cups for 6 to 8 servings) of diced boiled potatoes, salt, pepper and dressing, add one or more of the following:

(1) 2 tablespoons chopped onion, shallots, or chives.

(2) 2 tablespoons chopped sweet or sour pickles.

(3) 2 hard cooked eggs, chopped or sliced.

(4) 1 cup diced Cheddar cheese or cooked meat or poultry.

(5) 1 cup cottage cheese seasoned with chopped parsley, dill and shallots.

(6) ½ cup sliced or diced radishes, unpeeled apple, green pepper or cucumber.

For potato salad that's a little different, omit dressing and try one of the following instead:

1. Fry 4 slices of bacon; sauté 4 tablespoons chopped onion in the bacon fat then toss onion and fat with the potatoes. Garnish with the bacon.

2. Sauté small pieces of sausages and add both meat and fat to the potatoes. Toss lightly.

3. Mix ¼ cup sour cream with 2 tablespoons prepared mustard and combine with the potatoes.

PUPILS PROGRESS

Regina (CP) — The number of retarded readers in Regina schools has been cut in half during the last four years, says the public school board.

Skin—a wonderful fabric abused by most people

"Our skin, nature's fabric, in many ways surpasses any textile that industry has yet produced," states Dr. Lemuel P. Ereaux, writing in the current issue of Health Magazine, official publication of the Health League of Canada.

"This wonder fabric is the most abused organ of the body, and occasionally, when man has damaged it excessively, the rate of repair is interfered with and inflamation sets in, paving the way for infection and allergy."

Dr. Ereaux points out that skin protects us against bacteria, and has a built-in thermostatic control which allows the body to sustain great swings in temperature.

Surface stains made by such dyes as iodine, gentian violet, and merchurochrome are shed off by a dry-cleaning method peculiar to the skin — the outside horny layers are shed regularly by the friction of our clothing, by injuries at work, or even when bathing. It is likened to a scratch pad on our desks — as fast as the upper sheets are torn off, nature quickly supplies a tissue refill from beneath.

Clothing and dye stuffs make higher water marks of skin irritation around the neck and shoulder areas of the body unprotected by underclothes.

Cosmetics have been used by women since the beginning of time to enhance their beauty, but this hoped-for beauty does not always follow their application. Powder burns, cosmetic eyes from nail polish, perfumes, hair lacquers and rinses, to mention but a few, keep the dermatologist gainfully employed.

Men may rant and roar about this feminine failing, but they too develop skin allergies from their manly cosmetic preparations. Hair slicks, shampoos and hair tonics, medicated shaving preparations, and deodrant creams, etc., burn their balding pates, disfigure their faces and sizzle their torsos.

Fashions

Prints are preening themselves, adding color to the winter scene everywhere, whether it's sunny or snowy. Pure silk surah of a rose color with a striking rose and green foliage design, is a brilliant choice for this gown for evenings or very dressy late afternoon gatherings. The bodice has inserts of black velvet. A black velvet bow, topped by a rose, ornaments one side of the skirt.

Let's Eat

TOMORROW'S DINNER

Molded Coleslaw
Beef Liver Saute
Creamed Onions
Hash Browned Potatoes
Pear-Pineapple Walnut Bake
Coffee Tea Milk

Measurements are level; recipes for 6

Pear-Pineapple Walnut Bake: Drain contents of 1 (1 lb.) can halved pears in light syrup. Also drain contents of 1 (8 oz.) can pineapple chunks.

In buttered or margarined low baking dish arrange pear halves, 1 pineapple chunk in each hollow. Spoon remainder into baking dish.

Into each pear hollow, spoon 1 tsp. brown sugar and ½ tbsp. coarse-chopped walnut meats; dot with ¼ tsp. butter.

Pour around pears ½ c. of syrup and any remaining pineapple juice. Add ½ tsp. grated lemon rind.

Bake 25 min. in slow oven, 325 deg. F., or until sugar melts and pear centres are lightly caramelized.

Serve warm or cold.

TRICK OF THE CHEF

Here is a new way to saute liver:

Order 1½ lbs. thin-sliced calves' or beef liver. Scald with boiling water.

Insert sharp knife under skin on outer edges and pull it off in "ribbons."

Brush liver with corn oil. Dust with seasoned salt; coat with equal parts c. wheat germ and flour. Let stand 5 min. so this coating will adhere.

Saute 5 to 6 min. in little heated corn oil, turning as soon as brown.

You will find the wheat germ gives a crunchy crust which is very pleasant.

Hudson's Bay Co. to pay rent on Queen's visit

Queen Elizabeth will accept payment of rent from the Hudson's Bay Company on July 24 during her visit to Winnipeg, it has been announced.

This historic tribute is in accordance with the Company's Royal Charter of May 2, 1670, which stipulated that rent must be paid to King Charles or his heirs or successors whenever they should enter the territories of Rupert's Land. The wording of the original statement is as follows: "in free and common Soccage and not in Capite or by Knights Service Yielding and Paying yearely to us our heires and Successors for the same two Elkes and two Black Beavers whensoever and as often as wee our heires and successors shall happen to enter into the said Countryes Territoryes and Regions hereby granted."

The Governor of the Company, W. J. Keswick, will travel from England to take part in this unique ceremony in Kildonan Park, Winnipeg.

In 289 years the Hudson's Bay Company has paid rent once before, to King George VI in 1939.

There is no money transaction in the "rent-paying" ceremony. Instead, in accordance with the Company Charter, the Queen will be offered two elk heads and two black beaver skins. The eighteen Londoners who drafted the original Charter did not leave records to explain their choice of elks and beavers as the tribute; it a fair guess that both animals were common about the bottom of Hudson Bay when the Company's first ship, the "Nonsuch", anchored there in 1668. The ancient coat-of-arms carries beaver and elk symbols.

Impressively mounted on massive birch shields, the matched elk heads to be given Queen Elizabeth come from Elk Island, while the two rare black beaver skins have been selected from more than 50,000 at the Company's Montreal Fur Sales Department. Beneath each elk head on the shields are sterling silver plates which bear the following inscription: "Yielded and paid to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth the Second by the Governor and Company of Adventurers of England Trading into Hudson's Bay under the terms of their Charter granted by King Charles the Second to their first Governor Prince Rupert 2nd May 1670. Winnipeg, Canada, 24th July, 1959."

More Canadians will have the opportunity of seeing fellow Canadians performing opera when plans are completed for the formation of Canadian Opera Guild. Organization work will get under way this fall at Toronto.

Cheering on the venture is the Opera Festival women's committee in Toronto. Formation of the Canadian guild will allow the extension of chamber opera tours, a favorite venture of the Opera Festival members.

An all-Canadian cast toured six Ontario and 13 Maritime province centres last year. This year, chamber tours will travel east with "The Merry Wives of Windsor" and west with "The Barber of Seville."

At the annual meeting of the women's committee in Toronto, Mrs. James MacBrien, reporting for the Opera Guild committee, said cross-Canada tours will become an annual event if this year's tours are successful.

A Canada Council grant has allowed expansion of the chamber tour this year.

Not So Crazy

A small group of young couples in a New York suburb have banded together and called themselves the Crazy Couples Club.

Tired of spending large sums for an evening out, they banded together and now hold a "crazy" evening once a month.

Each couple takes a turn at planning the evening, and some unique programs evolved.

The programs have varied from subway trips to free Yogi lessons.

Checkups

In New York last week, broadcasting personality Arthur Godfrey urged everyone between the ages of 30 and 45 years old to have a checkup for cancer once a year. Mr. Godfrey was leaving the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Centre where he had undergone surgery for a malignant tumor in his left lung.

In Windsor, Ont., the Provincial Council of Women asked the Ontario government to set up cancer detection clinics similar to one attached to the Women's College Hospital in Toronto.

Stealing the Show

French actor-producer Michel St. Denis was certainly one of the highlights of the Dominion Drama Festival at Toronto recently. Back in Canada to adjudicate his fourth DDF, his witty summing-up was a delight for every audience.

Mr. St. Denis first came to the DDF in 1937, and returned in 1950 and 1952. After the Second World War he was director of the Old Vic Company in England. He is currently in New York under the auspices of the Rockefeller Foundation.

Facts about Pork

(Consumer Section)

A Versatile Meat

Pork is tender, juicy and flavorful and can be served in a variety of ways.

Pork is sold in many different forms — fresh, cured and smoked — in cuts or in pieces of the size and weight to suit every family.

All cuts of pork are tender enough for roasting.

Pork of good quality is firm, light greyish pink in color and has a good proportion of lean to fat. Since most of the fat is in a layer over the lean, it can be easily trimmed.

Pork needs to be cooked slowly to develop the flavor and it should be thoroughly cooked. It should be roasted in a moderately slow oven (325°F) to an internal temperature of 180°F.

Tops Nutritionally

In addition to its taste appeal, pork is tops nutritionally. It supplies high quality protein, essential to growth and health.

Pork is an important source of the B vitamins, particularly thiamine which is essential for healthy nerves and appetites. Lean raw pork actually has over 8 times as much thiamine as other meats.

Because of the high quality and amount of protein and thiamine it contains, lean pork is one of our inexpensive sources of these nutrients.

Pork is also an important source of essential minerals such as iron and phosphorous. Pork liver contains more than other types of liver. It is also high in Vitamin A.

Pork contains essential fatty acids important for normal growth and healthy skin.

Pork is highly digestible. The reason it is so satisfying is because it is slowly digested.

From recent research carried on in U.S.A., it has been concluded that the lean portions of cooked pork contain no more fat than the lean of other meats.

Listeners enjoy talk on English pottery, porcelain

St. Andrews East — On Saturday afternoon, the residents of St Andrews and neighboring towns were privileged to attend a function of unusual interest in the Presbyterian Church Hall. The occasion was a lecture on the history of English pottery and porcelain, from its beginnings in the first half of the eighteenth century until the latter part of the Victorian era. The lecturer, Miss Elizabeth Ramsay of the "China Shop", Mackay St., Montreal, is an expert in her field. She had with her, for purposes of demonstration, fine pieces of Wedgewood, Chelsea, Duesbury-Derby, Worcester, and other varieties of china.

Miss Ramsay's vivid presentation of the growth of the English potters' craft — the development of rare and beautiful porcelains, the Chinese and later the Italian influences on design, the introduction of lovely floral sprays handpainted by great artists — made a romantic story which charmed and delighted her hearers.

Several members of the audience had brought heirlooms from their own cabinets. These Miss Ramsay exhibited at the close of her lecture, attaching probable dates and names, and drawing attention to points of interest or beauty in the specimens.

Morin Heights

Late Mrs. John Elder

Sympathy of the community is extended to the family of the late Mrs. John Elder (the former Dorothy Graham), who passed away at her home in Christieville on May 27. Mrs. Elder, a well known figure in this area, was a member of the Morin Heights United Church and an active member of the Women's Association. She also took an active part in W.I. work in this community.

She leaves to hourn her loss her husband, E. John Elder, two daughters, Doreen (Mrs. J. Falconbridge), of Montreal, and Jean (Mrs. Holmes), of Rosemere, and two sons, Howard, of Rosemere, and Murray, of Montreal.

The funeral service was held Saturday in the Morin Heights United Church, conducted by the minister, the Rev. C. G. Westhaver. Many beautiful flowers bore silent tribute of the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Interment was in Hillside Cemetery, Morin Heights.

Marriage Solemnized

The marriage of Lillian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Munger, of Morin Heights, to Mr. Jean Gerin-Roze, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Gerin-Roze, of Rouen, France, took place Saturday, May 23, in Ste. Philomene de Rosemont Church.

The bride, given away by her father, was gowned in white French lace; her veil of tulle was trimmed with seed pearls.

Mr. Felix Ferry acted as best man.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. E. Daccord. Later the couple left for Quebec City, the bride travelling in a brown dress and matching duster, tan accessories and wearing a corsage of white gardenias. Upon their return they will reside in Montreal.

Bereavement

Sympathy of the community is extended to the family of Mrs. Charles Nock, who passed away suddenly at her home here last Friday. The funeral service was held in the United Church on Monday, conducted by the minister, the Rev. C. G. Westhaver. Interment was in the Hillside Cemetery.

School Announcement

Pre-registration for Grade I, school year 1959-60, will be taken at the school on Monday, June 8. There will also be a special meeting to discuss school affairs and planning for the coming year.

Of particular interest to parents of Grades IV to VII will be the introduction of the Joplin System of reading. Mr. Graham Teasdale, principal of Ste. Adele School, will speak on this subject. . . Registration for courses in the High School division will also take place. — An interesting evening then, for all parents of school children. Time 8 p.m.

Social Event

A happy and enjoyable evening at the school was experienced last Saturday at the Country Hoedown. This event was sponsored by the Home and School Association. Many comments were heard about the beautiful decorating in the auditorium. All connected with this event are to be congratulated on a highly successful evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCullough, of Montreal, spent a few days here last week, visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bennett and Mrs. L. Watson, of Montreal, spent the week-end at their cottage here.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Hamilton were Mr. and Mrs. Lanning of Montreal.

Mr. Alex Smiley, of Montreal, was the week-end guest of Mrs. E. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. David Wells, of Strathmore, were week-end guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gillingham.

Mrs. Gordon Ward, of Saint John, N.B., returned home Friday after spending three weeks as the guest of Mrs. Wm. Watchorn, at Watchorn's Farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hulley, of Hudson, visited friends and relatives here over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Marsden, of St Eustache-sur-le-Lac, visited friends here over the week-end.

Week-end guests of Mrs. Isabel Watchorn were her mother, Mrs Bethel, and sister, Miss B. Bethel, of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Goodman, of Montreal, were week-end guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lacken.

After spending two weeks' vacation with his parents, Col. and Mrs. J. W. Green, Mr. Basil Green left last week to resume his duties in Baffin Land.

Miss Joan Green, of Montreal, spent last week-end as the guest of her parents, Col. and Mrs. J. W. Green.

Moods of the Ottawa River

— By Ethel Kettyle —

This is a tale of a spot in Argenteuil County, along the Ottawa River, which at the present time draws much comment. The moods of the river as seen — its tranquility, its beauty, its turbulence. — The many events that have been visualized. — Ancient dredges and steamers. Building of the first Dam. — Moods of the river; a friend or foe?

It was in September in the year of 1946. A cottage had been purchased in Cushing, on the banks of the Ottawa; and from where it stood, there was much opportunity to learn of the various moods of the river.

The location was historical; it dated back to the days when Indians, missionaries and fur traders walked along the shores.

There seemed to be something mystical and eerie about the place. One could scarcely believe that, at one time, those old and important characters (in the founding of Quebec, and the New World) may have inhabited the very place.

All around was peace and quietness, although at intervals a pleasure boat or commercial vessel slowly moved along the water. A wall of green cedars gave a feeling of privacy, and still, much activity could be witnessed on the opposite shore, on the Ontario side of the river.

On sunny days, the water on the Ottawa shone and sparkled, as though covered with precious stones. A wren had built her nest in a hollow post, and there she sang each morning and evening. Shells and stones of various hues lined the banks, and autumn wild-flowers grew along the shore.

Down the river a ferry boat chugged its way, back and forth, conveying passengers from Quebec to Ontario.

The days grew shorter, and soon the sun was going down at an early hour, a great golden ball in the west, and purple shadows crept over the water.

In the evenings a fire was kindled, and the aroma of brewing tea or coffee gave a feeling of peace and tranquility. An air of antiquity pervaded the place, obliterating thoughts of the hustle and bustle of a modern era.

In the mornings, a nip of frost in the air, and autumn sunrise over the horizon. With the passing of time, the petals dropped from the flowers, and the leaves on the trees had changed color and fallen. Squirrels chirped in the treetops, as they gathered food for protection in time of icy blasts to come.

The crickets could no longer be heard, and the cows had ceased coming down to the water to drink. The water turned brown from autumn rains, and eventually it started to freeze over.

Cottages were closed, and friendly shores seemed dull and lonely. Soon the river was completely frozen over, and the months ahead held only oblivion. During winter, the beauty of the sparkling water was forgotten. . . .

Then again came spring and nature's re-awakening. Patches of water could again be seen, as the sun melted the ice. The snow gradually disappeared, with the strong sun and heavy rains. The Ottawa River was again coming to life . . . but the season brought a tinge of sadness; for just previously a number of young people had gone out in a boat, farther up the river, the boat capsized, and there were drownings; apparently all of the bodies had not been found. As the snow gradually disappeared, figures could be seen at a distance and on the opposite shore, walking along and looking — ever looking. With all of its beauty, the river could still be a foe to humankind.

Spring nights came with bright moonlight, but as one peered from the window, the thought came — "What does this great, cold river hold? Many things are in its depths. Will the river ever give up those secrets?"

Glorious Spring re-stresses contrast 'twixt suburban frenzy, rural peace

"Sunnyacres Sketches"

By Margaret Cook

It seems fair enough to write as if from Sunnyacres, since we are now able to spend at least alternate British week-ends there. A British week-end is popularly supposed to begin on Thursday and end on Tuesday. We do not, being Canadian, go quite that far, but play the traditional role of the happy medium between British and American customs. There is a whole article possible in that thought alone, but cheer up, we shall not expand it. But we do have three-day week-ends, and they make life for the other four days bearable in this suburb where the Seaway is now an accomplished fact, but the railway spur still in building. Latterly, we have been awakened during the night by a wail of what we took to be an ambulance siren. Only yesterday, did we finally solve the peculiar rise in accidents; the wail is really the warning that a ship is about to go through the locks. . .

Let me say at once that we like the ships gliding along at the foot of the street. Something very interesting in reading the names of vessels from far-away countries. A friend was recently shocked, on looking out the window, to see two Asiatics strolling up one of our residential streets. Perhaps our Seaway is just another link in that One World that Wendell Wilkie used to talk about. But before that becomes a lovely faet, we find qurselves more divided than ever. A motor trip to Montreal now has all the novelty of a journey to a distant country, for the route varies, not only from day to day, but from hour to hour. Female shoppers have solved the transportation problem by either staying at home or travelling on the infrequent trains. To journey from our suburb to Trans-Island Boulevard takes two hours; I mean without a car. . . . It is probably all for our own good, this staying at home.

To return to Sunnyacres after a week here is pure bliss — such good air, such quiet. No bells, no collectors for this and that charity, no Fuller brush man (why is he funnier than the others?), no screams of uninhibited children, no train whistles. There is plenty of life about at Sunnyacres, but of a different kind — the porcupine is still with us, and a family of rabbits lives, I suspect, under the porch. Mama Rabbit habitually eats on the front lawn, and sits on the big, flat stone in front of the door. Papa Rabbit seems to prefer the back lawn, and Baby Rabbit is often to be seen feeding across the lane, near one of the wells. The man of the house suggests that he has been told to stay there because of Peter, the cat. Peter, by the way, cannot get over being once more at the farm. His delight is quite evident. By day, he can be seen happily exploring old haunts, or running up trees, and at night, what cat so happy as Peter lying on the hearth-rug before the bright fire. . . . Indeed, we are all happy to be once more in our retreat.

The daffodils this year have been especially abundant, and the narcissi must now be at their best. The grape hyacinths are an intense blue at the front, making a nice foil for the yellow house and daffodils.

At night, no sound breaks the stillness except the frogs piping sweetly from down in the swamp near the road. We hear no foxes barking, for rabies has decimated their numbers. By the law of nature, rabbits, mice and partridge are abundant. We note that the lower branches of trees are quite denuded of bark, something we have never noticed before; we wonder if this is mice on top of the deep snow. But we always thought mice ran along under the snow. (Somebody write to tell us this.)

After a quiet Sunnyacres night, how lovely to lie a bit in bed, with the yellowy sunlight lighting up the blue room, and listen to the head of the house wrestling with stove, grinding coffee, talking to Peter. How homey the smell of toast made over glowing coals! How nice, eventually, to go downstairs and not be faced with any particular task. Lately, going down quite late, the head of the house was discovered sitting in a room full of sunshine reading in a well-known literary publication. Before we could remark that it was too nice a day to spend indoors, he arose, stretched, remarking with perfect sincerity, "I have just finished a fascinating article on the blood heat of Mexican lizards." This would rate as comedy line on many a show, but to the head of our house it is simply the statement of a fact; the blood heat of Mexican lizards is a matter of intense interest. It is such remarks that have always made the writer determine that her next husband will be something out-going and care-free, like a travelling salesman, for instance. Reptiles, fungi, and most animals have our Daddy's attention at all times; people only occasionally. It is a baffling type of mind with which to live. Add to this mind, the preoccupation of Margaret Cook with the written word, especially those relating to different religions, and the artistic eye of the daughter of the house — and one can at once grasp the fact that there are "queer people" at Sunnyacres!

Not that we are not "queer" in our suburban home, but there is less time for being eccentric. Certain things must be done, and quite often on certain days and even at a certain hour. The hairdresser, for instance, takes a dim view of a casual attitude toward time; but at Sunnyacres, if the hair looks like an unpruned hedge, who cares? If one promises to meet a friend in the city at one o'clock, it is only courtesy to be there by 1.10 at least. As for lying in bed in the morning, it is useless. The phone rings; the door-bells tinkle and moan (two bells, I mean); the three dogs next door bark in unison and alternately; the five children on the other side make the morning hideous with their raucous voices — so one might as well get up and do a little cleaning. Yes, life is more complicated in the city.

Life in the suburbs or the city does, of course, have its compensations. We are privileged to attend an Ordination service lately, where we noted a candidate from Lachute. Our own curate was being made a priest. It was a touching service, but long — two hours. Once again, we were thankful to be Anglican, for nothing in the service or our peculiar customs prevented me from sneaking out after the offering, and having a snack with a friend at an eatery where the cathedral door was in plain sight. Then, we were able to go in at the end of the service and greet our new young priest. I was not the only one practising this depraved subterfuge. Such a thing, we believe, would be unthinkable in one of the dissenting churches. . . . I am sorry if anyone objects to the use of the word "dissenting", but there is really no other word to express the meaning of a church neither purely Anglican nor Catholic. The Reformation did a lot of good — and, as we are beginning to understand, a lot of harm, too.

Besides church life, there is the academic one, with results of examinations in the thoughts of everyone. Our own daughter arrived home with trunk, bag, a huge carton and various smaller boxes. As soon as this is all sorted out, some will take off for summer jobs, a new experience for many.

So, life goes on and on, and it would be easy to get so embroiled in the affairs of the city as to forget the peace of the country. Indeed, for many, it is not peace but boredom, but that is because, "having ears, they hear not, and eyes, they see not". . . . And now, after that little sermon, we shall go to clean the attic, an act of necessity, else where would we put all the stuff brought home from college? The charwoman telephones that she has a "misery in her back" and will not be here in the morning. What price city life?

Senators visit Harrington Forest Farm

Members of the special committee of the Senate on Land Use in Canada did their "homework" in the field last week when they toured the Harrington Forest Farm, managed by Canadian International Paper Company. Left to right are — Sen. Henri C. Bois, St. Bruno, agronomist and apple grower; Fred A. Harrison, vice-president of the paper company; Sen. Arthur M. Pearson, committee chairman; G. Alan Johnson, Montreal, recipient of an award for the best managed woodlot in Quebec; Sen. Florence Elsie Inman, Montagne, P.E.I. The party was welcomed by Vernon E. Johnson, president, International Paper. The senators were shown the work done in forest management at Harrington, and toured the company tree nursery from which 500,000 selected seedlings will be made available to farmers in the area in 1960 and 1,000,000 in subsequent years. Mansel R. Wilson, division manager, and foresters Doug Morrison and Jaap Salm, guided the senators on their tour.

PROGRESS THROUGH RESEARCH

MEDICAL MARTYRS

All too few persons recognize the hazards encountered by members of the medical profession. The physician — carrying the answer to almost every disease problem in his black bag—often is considered impervious to the ailments he so successfully treats.

That is far from being the case. Medical history records innumerable incidents in which the physician has become a martyr. The influenza virus, for instance, recognizes no professional bounds and can infect the physician as well as the carpenter.

More striking than these incidental exposures are instances in which physicians have deliberately infected themselves in do-or-die attempts to learn more about deadly ailments and their cures.

One of the most famous of these medical martyrs was Jesse William Lazear, who was convinced that mosquitoes transmitted yellow fever. He proved his point by allowing himself to be bitten by a mosquito known to have fed on a yellow fever victim. Seven days later, Lazear was dead.

Lazear's colleague, James Carrol, buttressed his dead friend's theory when he also allowed himself to be bitten by an infected mosquito. Carrol contracted yellow fever, but survived.

Medical heroism continues today with "volunteers" testing new drugs and vaccines. Dr. Jonas Salk injected himself and, later, his children with his killed virus polio vaccine before he attempted any widespread injections.

Thus, the spirit of Jesse Lazear is still very much alive in the medical world of the 20th century.

Ask restrictions on cheap textile imports

Ottawa — The textile workers union has appealed for government restrictions on imports of low-priced textiles.

The request, coupled with a suggestion that a quota system be used, was put to Prime Minister Diefenbaker during his meeting with officials of the Textile Workers Union of America (CLC).

J. Harold Daoust of Toronto, Candian head of the 21,000-member union, opened the union's three-day biennial meeting by warning that the Canadian industry is threatened by surplus United States textile production and by low-priced imports from Japan, India and Communist China. He added:

"To the eternal discredit of both the Conservative and Liberal administrations . . . both have turned their backs on the specified proposals of our union for the stabilization and rehabilitation of the industry and its workers."

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Grass Silage Making

The most nearly ideal time for cutting a hay crop for silage is when legumes are in early bloom and when grasses and cereal crops have just headed out—but without their excessive amount of water at that stage of growth.

If one had carried over the winter a lot of ear corn or other grain, this, when ground and mixed in amounts of 200 to 250 pounds with every ton of freshly cut early forage, would in most cases reduce the moisture of the resulting mixture to 70 or 72 per cent. In this condition there is little or no loss of liquid even from a tall silo, and the silage would have a good odor and be palatable and nutritious.

Dr. Bohstedt

But to buy such amounts of grain at the highest-priced time of year is forbidding. Few farmers would care to do it, even though nearly all of the feed value of the corn might be recovered in the resulting silage.

With early cut forage in mind, it would then be necessary to let it wilt for 3 or 4 hours in the swath on a good drying day, or twice as long during an overcast, before putting the crop into an upright or tower silo. The problem of excess moisture is not so severe in the case of a trench silo, because the forage never packs as tightly.

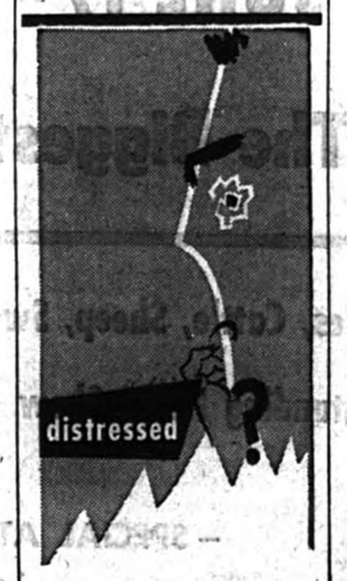

While there are a number of more or less effective grass silage "preservers" or "improvers," the consensus of most experimenters and critical observers is that molasses used in amounts of 40 to 60 or more pounds per ton of green forage, is about as good a conditioner as any so far proposed or tested.

It would improve grass silage when harvested at most any stage of growth, but preferably with a moisture content of from 70 to 72 per cent.

Most hay crops to be used for silage nowadays are put into the silo "as is" without wilting and without preservatives. When excessively succulent, say 76 to 80 per cent moisture, hay silage is apt to be "sour" and smelly, but may still be fairly good feed. It is nearly always improved, however, by previous moderate wilting in the field.

Question: Can sow feed be fortified with iron or other ingredients to put iron into the sow's milk and in that way avoid anemic pigs?

Answer: It has not been possible to feed iron into milk, for milk secretion is not a mere filtering process where such a feed ingredient as iron might slip through the meshes. Rather it is necessary to feed iron direct to young suckling pigs by one means or another. If their sows' feed has been fortified with trace mineralized salt, the little fellows, nuzzling any spilled feed, may get enough copper and iron to protect them against anemia, or "thumps."

More and Better Driver Training

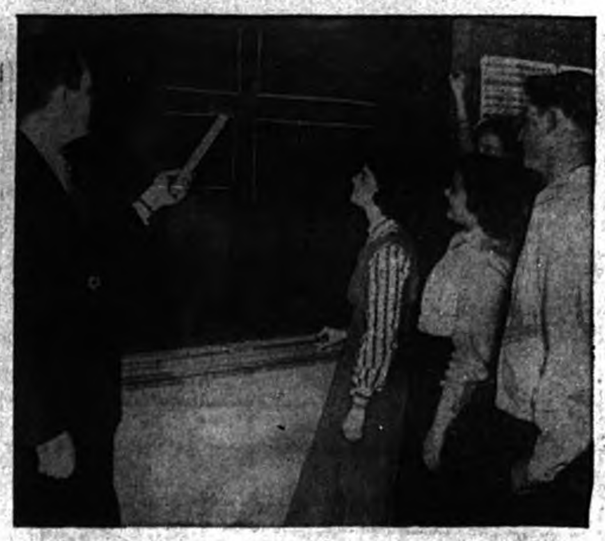

By
ALFRED L. MOSELEY
Moseley and Associates
Consulting Psychologist
Institute for Safer Living

A brief survey of national vehicle accident statistics will lead to the conclusion that our licensed drivers have not been properly trained in how to avoid accidents. The accident facts speak for themselves.

Considerable progress has been made in the utilization of the advantages of driver education. Research in driver safety, teaching aids, testing equipment, excellent text material and teachers' manuals are among the assets. Some secondary schools in each state of the Union provide driver education courses. Standard teaching procedures are followed in 44 states in the secondary schools, and in five states in commercial schools. Courses for adults are available in fifteen states, and in fifteen states commercial driver trainers are licensed.

Approximately 40% of public and private secondary schools offer driver education. Approximately 30% of those who are eligible for the course enroll. Thus one of seven students who should be receiving training is enrolled. If this year the secondary school facilities were taxed to the utmost, we would train 400,000 and there would be eight million students with no opportunity for driver education. This situation is a critical need, for the statistical picture hardly changes from year to year. In order to meet maximum requirements for driver training needs each secondary school must train 66% of its student population.

At present, eight million students have no opportunity for driver education.

In order for driver education to contribute its maximum potential in accident prevention in the future, four broad areas should be considered.

1. First, there is the problem of supervision and control. Certification for school driving teachers is essential, and licensing for commercial teachers is imperative. Courses which are approved should follow a standard prospectus, or be approved against a carefully devised set of standards including content, teaching methods, and demonstrations. Classroom study should include at least twenty-five class hours, and practice driving instruction should be not less than sixteen hours, and should include night driving. Provisions for adult driver education are badly needed in all parts of the continent. Steps should be taken to provide driver education in the curriculum of every public and private secondary school, accomplishing this objective as rapidly as possible.

Proper training before licensing is vital . . . accident facts prove it.

2. Second, the student drivers will be limited in their accomplishment by the quality of their teachers. Instructors in this field are sincerely interested in their work. They face some stresses which could be removed or altered. Many have no vehicle for practice driving and three students out of ten who receive some training, do not have the opportunity for practice driving. In some states certification is based on a special course for which the instructor must pay his own tuition. Driver education is often assigned as collateral duty, without extra pay, and in addition to the normal teaching load. Teacher morale suffers because of the lack of uniformity of motor vehicle laws which raises classroom questions for which no sensible answer exists.

Is parent driver instruction adequate? Training experts say no.

3. Third, there is the matter of the content of the courses. Present course content expresses strong teacher interest in laws, licensing examination procedures, how the vehicle runs, and the personality and physical nature of the driver. Some important aspects of course are deficient. Topics such as night driving, accidents, speed control, weather, road surface conditions, pedestrians, and cyclists are not treated adequately. A part of this problem is due to a lack of training aids. Another part is due to inefficient teaching procedures. Research would make great improvements in classroom efficiency. Since emergency situations are encountered at least once for every hundred miles of driving, it is urgent that the student be given special study in this field. This should include near accidents, and demonstrations such as skidding, blowouts, and battery failure. Increased emphasis on human factors in driver safety is needed including the following topics: personality, physical disability, age, fatigue, illness, medications, alcohol, carbon monoxide, and temporary emotional states.

Proper licensing of commercial driving schools and instructors is imperative.

4. Fourth, is the consideration of the student. He should not be deprived of an opportunity to learn to drive safely. In addition to making courses available in the schools, an effort should be made to enforce participation in them. No application for examination for an original license should be accepted from any person who cannot show evidence of successful completion of an approved driver education course.

Quebec farms decline 20,000 in 9-year span

Quebec farms have dropped in number by 20,000, to 118,000 in the nine-year period 1949-58, the Senate Committee on land use was told recently.

An obvious economic decline has accompanied that trend, said a brief submitted by the Federation of Quebec Co-operatives.

Living costs continue to rise while the purchasing power of farm produce falls, said the brief, and farmers are being forced to depend on volume to make money because of the narrow profit margin.

For that reason, they needed enlarged credit facilities, with more attractive interest rates, to expand their means of production.

The brief said about 95 per cent of Quebec farmers own their land and about 70 percent produce a cash income at or above $1,200 a year.

It said the Quebec system of family ownership should be maintained. Control of production, processing and marketing facilities could be retained by farmers through co-operative processes.

2-Million cattle in areas tested brucellosis-free

Ottawa — Another four areas have been declared brucellosis-certified, as a nation-wide drive against the cattle disease gains momentum.

The Health of Animals Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, announces that Kings County, N.S.; Chateauguay County, Que.; and the Rural Municipalities of Flett's Springs No. 429 and Sarnia No. 221, Sask., have been certified until May 1, 1962.

About 58,300 cattle are involved in the four areas, bringing to 658,300 the number in 36 areas that have been certified since the national eradication program was launched in mid-1957.

Brucellosis is a contagious disease of cattle, characterized by abortion and reduced fertility.

INAUGURAL CEREMONY FOR HOSPITAL

Community interest evidenced at sod-turning to start construction

The considerable number who turned out to witness the sod-turning ceremony at the site of the new $1,500,000 Regional Hospital building, gave evidence of a deep gratification that this long-felt community need was at last on its way to fulfilment. The administrators from surrounding municipalities, the physicians, the religious sisters from the present hospital, the clergy and the general public, were all represented as vitally concerned in this great step. Not least of all, this was an epochal moment for a small group most intimately concerned — the hospital building committee or so-called Administrative Council, headed by Mr. Gilbert Ayers, who have brought this project of 10 years standing, to the culmination stage. The federal M.P., Notary J. O. Latour, and the Quebec member for this constituency, the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Minister of Mines, were present to give their patronage — the latter representing the Quebec Government whose $600,000 grant has made this hospital possible. The architect, Mr. Grattan Thompson, and the contractor, Mr. Albert d'Amour, were also among the notable guests.

At the site on the Brownsburg Road, a special stage had been erected for this auspicious occasion, where last Friday evening the Hon. Mr. Cottingham performed the symbolic ceremony of turning the first sod. Roger Regimbal as spokesman and m.c., called on the chairman, Mr. Gilbert Ayers, who explained the significance of the occasion, speaking in both French and English. He was followed briefly by the Hon. "Bill" Cottingham, who made reference to the present hospital which had been started "in the old Ayers boarding house, made possible by the generosity of the Ayers family." Mr. Cottingham then stepped down to turn the sod for the new hospital building.

A pleasing gesture followed when Mr. Albert d'Amour, president of the contracting firm, d'Amour & Frere, presented both Mr. Cottingham and Mr. Ayers with silver-plated replicas of the ceremonial shovel, suitably engraved as a memento of the occasion.

Displayed on the platform was a scale model of the proposed building, while markings on the nearby terrain gave the visitors a clearer idea of its location and dimensions.

Address by Gilbert E. Ayers

Following are excerpts from Mr. Ayers' address to the gathering:

"Modest as this ceremony may be, it represents to all of us involved, the culmination of 10 years of planning, preoccupation and effort. Even though on several occasions we came close to abandoning this project, we do hope that at this time everyone can share in our pride in seeing the first step towards a concrete realization of our endeavors. . . . The Directors hope that their rejoicing today will be shared by one and all, as our whole region is on the point of being endowed with an institution whose benefits will penetrate every corner of the county and every section of our population.

"None of this could have become a reality without the close co-operation of many people, and I would like at this time to give a few examples:

"First, we owe much to the endless contribution and physical sacrifices of our religious order, the Sisters of Providence. In our negotiations in the last few months, their love and devotion to the people of this county outweighed their crying need for personnel in larger institutions throughout this country. And it is with particular pride that we can announce tonight that they have consented to remain with us; that alone is our best guarantee of success for the future, and we publicly offer our most sincere thanks.

"Our gratitude is equally extended to the team of workers who so ably launched the first hospital. They are represented here by Mrs. Gaétan Valois and Mrs. Leonard Ayers, who must feel particularly proud to see those first efforts crowned with success on this occasion.

"Our thanks also to the town of Ayersville for receiving us within its limits. We hope to benefit from its services in the very near future, and we appreciate that fact.

"A word of thanks to our medical profession, whose quality of service has inspired the confidence needed for establishing what will be, in final analysis, their theatre of operations and their workshop.

"All this, however, would be love's labor lost, if we lacked the financial assets to foot the bill. We offer our most grateful thanks to those citizens who have answered the call in our campaign for funds and we thank, in anticipation, all those of our English-speaking population who will be solicited in the very near future. . . Our main nest egg, of course, must be provided by our Provincial Government, and it is in official acknowledgment of the $600,000 grant which we have already received, and in appreciation of all his personal efforts, that in a few moments I will call upon our representative, the Honorable Mr. Cottingham, a very particular friend of the Hospital, to break the first sod on this project. . . . Present day costs of construction will again direct us to his doorstep for further help before this project is through, and we must be confident that this help will be forthcoming.

"The work on the hospital is just beginning! More than ever, in months to come we will need the support of our population, your help and your encouragement."

This is a significant group in the past, present and future of the Lachute Hospital — two ladies, Mrs. Leonard Ayers and Mrs. Gaetan Valois, being members of the original charter committee, which has been devoted to the Providence Hospital since its inception in the Ayers staff boarding house many years ago; the parish curé and religious sisters of the same hospital; and Mr. Gilbert Ayers, whose personal energy and generosity have sparked the idea of a new Regional Hospital to this stage of fruition.

Sister Alexis de Jésus, Superior of the local hospital; the Rev. Sister Joseph-Aurèle, assistant provincial Superior of the Sisters of Providence in Quebec (a special guest on this occasion); the Rev. Sister Anne-Josephine, comptroller (econome).

Discussion on land sites and suggested annexation

An enquiry on behalf of a prospective industry, addressed to Council in a letter from the local Bank of Nova Scotia manager, sparked some interesting viewpoints and possibilities. . . .

The industry had sent a representative seeking information on local facilities. According to the bank manager, they required a building of 20,000 square feet and about five acres of land.

The mayor regretted there was no such area availible for industry, and suggested that the Chamber of Commerce should draw up a plan or survey of possible sites open to industries. Ald. L. Laurin however declared it was the responsibility of Council to find accommodation for any possible manufactures which might turn this way, and the question should not be continually thrown in the lap of the Chamber of Commerce. Ald. Laurin suggested there might be space provided on the Filion Farm.

Incidental to this discussion, the same alderman asked if there might be a possibility of conferring with the St. Jerusalem authorities, with the idea of annexing part of that municipality. The suggestion was favorably received, and a committee comprising Aldermen Dr. J. P. Dorion, Gerard Lefebvre, the Mayor and Mr. Germain Filion was appointed to approach the St. Jerusalem Council on this matter.

The question of water supply having entered into this discussion, the Mayor suggested it was time to give practical consideration to the improvement of the system. "It will take a lot of study and negotiating, and I think we should get started now. We already have a plan, drawn up by Mr. Paul Laliberté six years ago; we had better dust it off and see if it meets our needs."

Ald. Dr. Dorion suggested to approach the government engineers for their advice, and that the Mayor and water committee take what steps they deem best to expedite this study.

Tank truck demolished

A semi-trailer tank truck was demolished at 10.45 a.m. last Saturday when it left the highway at Simon's Crossing on Route 8, west of Lachute. The driver, Gaetan Sicotte, 23, of Ottawa, escaped injury.

Owned by the Fabrique Laitière, of St. Izidore, Ont., the vehicle was headed for the Lachute Creamery when the accident occurred on the slippery pavement. Traffic Officer Paul E. Perrier investigated.

Fatally injured in auto mishap

Mrs. Emile Morrin, 60-year-old Montreal resident, succumbed to injuries she received when a 1948-model car driven by her 63-year-old husband swerved out of control on a curve on Route 8, just west of Calumet early Saturday morning last.

Mrs. Morrin was treated at the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury, where she was taken by ambulance. She was later transferred to her Montreal home, where she succumbed the following day. She received injuries to her legs and spine when the car hit a pole, smashed through a guard rail and fell 13 feet, ending up at the edge of the C.P.R. track.

Traffic Officer Lawrence Cruise, who investigated, reported the pavement to be slippery at the time of the mishap. No inquest will be held.

Petition for return of town bus service

Storekeepers and a considerable number of residents are anxious to have the Lachute - Ayersville bus service put back into operation. A petition to that effect, bearing some 500 signatures, was presented to the Mayor and aldermen at their last regular assembly.

The petition was presented on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce by Guy Belanger, who stated the list had been circulated by Aristide St. Jacques, west ward citizen. He also informed the Council that two townsmen were presently interested in operating a bus route, and a request for authorization was even now before the Department of Transport at Quebec.

"This is a public service", said Mr. Belanger, "and we feel that the least the Town can do to help re-establish this route, is to forego the $70 tax, and also to amend the traffic by-law to permit autobus parking at certain spots on Main Street."

Aldermen L. Laurin and N. Lepage felt that the tax concession would be arbitrary and unfair to taxi-owners, who pay for a municipal permit. Ald. M. Carriere suggested as a compromise that the bus-permit rate might be reduced.

Mayor McGibbon remarked that this service was of special convenience to people who could not afford taxi fares, and he promised the Chamber of Commerce spokesman that the request would be given consideration.

Police and traffic abuses under criticism at Council

Dissatisfaction with local police surveillance was aired at the Council meeting last week, Mayor McGibbon and Ald. Mozart Carrière particularly stressing the intention to remonstrate and insist on a standard which the ratepayers have a right to expect.

The discussion followed the reading of the police report for May. "I'm not at all satisfied with this record", said Ald. Carrière, chairman of the police committee, "and I propose to give strict orders for improvement."

All the councillors were up in arms about complaints they had received, and the Mayor was emphatic that traffic speed was not adequately supervised. "Trucks and cars travel at 50 miles an hour, and at that speed it's not surprising that drivers cannot read our signs indicating the 30-mile-an-hour limit."

Aldermen remarked on the disregard of parking rules, especially outside the A & P Supermarket and at roadsides where signs indicate a strict 30-minute limit. "It is understood the police cannot enforce this limit in the centre-parking strip, but at the curb on either side, the signs are in full view."

This criticism was an outcome of the police report read by Ald. Carrière which showed $399.25 revenue from dog, bicycle and taxi permits, but included only $25 in fines.

Hold-up and safe-cracking attempt at Lachute Creamery

Sunday morning at around 1 o'clock, Walter Currie, night employee at Lachute Creamery, was surprised while tending his machine, when he was accosted by intruders and told to put up his hands. Turning round he faced two masked men, and thinking it was a joke of some kind, started to scuffle with them. Shortly two more entered, one with a stick, which was used with sufficient force to cut a gash in Currie's head; the wound later required five stitches to close. His hands were then tied behind his back with cord taken from the Venetian blinds, a smock was thrown over his head and he was fastened by his legs and hands to the stairway.

Meanwhile the machines were running, and his request to stop them or tend them being refused, considerable damage in clogging and a burnt motor was the result. Questioned as to an acetelyne torch which the bandits wished to use on the vault door, Currie told them he was a new employee and knew nothing of such a tool.

While bound and unable to see what was going on, he heard drilling for upwards of an hour—which was evidenced later by a small hole through the vault door. The handle was broken off, and failing in their attempt to gain entrance the quartet evidently gave up and made their get-away.

Following a slight delay, Currie managed to partially free himself and immediately called the police, who were on hand in very short time.

Recognition for Courage

By delaying their activities as long as possible, keeping a cool head, and refusing to divulge any information, it was felt that Currie had acted courageously, and in appreciation next day he was given recognition in the form of three separate cheques — one from his employers, presented by Mr. Horace Lamarche, president, another from the Lachute Chamber of Commerce, given by President Adémar Cuerrier, and a third from the insurance firm of Deslauriers & Rozon, presented by Mr. Robt. Marcil.

Young Currie is a married man with a three-months-old son. He had recently moved here from Montebello.

All four men had guns and during the melee one shot was fired in an attempt to frighten the victim. Although feeling some pain Currie was on hand Monday and attended the small reception given at the Creamery by his employers, at which his fellow workers were also present.

Hon. Cottingham to open Fair next Wednesday

With every reason for optimism, and high interest in all its phases, Lachute Spring Fair 1959 gives indication of attaining new heights of popularity. Keyed to anticipation of a successful outcome are the Agricultural Society directors and Kenneth Riley, secretary-manager, who have expended much effort in the preparations.

Considered a good omen for the opening is the presence of an old County stand-by, the Hon. "Bill" Cottingham, Minister of Mines, who will officiate at a brief inaugural ceremony at the main gate of the Exhibition Grounds. Time of this event is 11 a.m. next Wednesday, June 17.

Town office Closed Saturdays

The general public are requested to complete all municipal business during the week if at all possible — the Town Office being closed all day Saturday during the months of June, July and August, in accordance with a resolution passed by Council several years ago.

Pressure on civic affairs, 3-hour session at Council

A heavy agenda at Town Council kept the city fathers occupied for fully three hours, at their regular June session. All councillors were present, with Mayor Jas. W. McGibbon presiding.

At request of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society president, Erskine Rodger, and manager, Ken Riley, a grant of $300 was voted, and permission given to borrow 200 chairs for use during the coming Exhibition.

Heavy Correspondence

A letter was read from Ayersville corporation, declaring the village would not accept any increase in water rate which might be imposed as result of the new installations now under way. The secretary was instructed to acknowledge receipt of this letter.

Notice was received from the Québec Department of Municipal Affairs confirming a government grant of $17,425 for fire equipment.

A request from Gatineau Power for permission to step up the voltage supplying Brownsburg Road to the hospital site, and to make certain other changes, was duly agreed to.

J. C. Wilson Company asked permission to connect their automatic sprinkler system to the 8-inch main on Princess Street. The Council agreed — the company engaging to take necessary precaution to prevent contamination of the town water supply.

On a written request from the Parish of St. Jerusalem, the Town of Lachute will accept responsibility for any damage to White's Bridge caused by laying of the water main across this bridge.

In reply to a notice from the Department of Municipal Affairs, Germain Filion, financial advisor — also the Mayor if not otherwise engaged — were delegated to attend the international conference of municipal authorities, June 7-11 in Montreal.

A request to urge upon the government an increase in Old Age Pensions to $65 a month, was

Triumphs for three school students

Shown in this group (right) are Lachute's juvenile orators in the Lions Club Quebec-Ontario contests, two of whom took the championships and the third ranking high against wide competition.

Picture shows the presentation of the trophies at last meeting of the local club—left to right, Roland Gow, winner of the championship for English-speaking boys; Lois Silverson, the championship for English-speaking girls; International Counsellor J. S. Giles, presenting the trophies; Rolande Gauthier, fourth-place winner in French-speaking boys and girls combined; and the Lions Club president, Phil Tremblay. (Missing from the group is an important figure in this venture, Lion Gerard Lefebvre, who piloted the young contenders to these high honors.)

Of special interest in this presentation is the fact that the two major Quebec-Ontario trophies were donated by Mr. Giles in 1947 during his tenure of office as District Governor. They were won in that year by competitors from Markham and Parry Sound, Ont., and since that time have been held by winners in such distant points as Sutton, Que., South Porcupine and Southern Ontario centres. They came to Lachute for the first time this year, through the prowess of the local contenders. And the original donor J. S. Giles, now 90 years of age and termed the "grand old man of Lionism" in these parts, was on hand to make the presentation.

LHS team takes 8th championship in Valley schools

Nineteen-fifty-nine has been the most outstanding year for boys' athletics at L.H.S.. The boys have won every O.V.S.A. championship they competed for.

Last Saturday, the L.H.S. softballers defeated Buckingham 16-2, thus winning their eighth championship.

The Ottawa Valley School Athletic Association, in which the school took part, is for schools west of Montreal. The participating schools are — Hull, Aylmer, Shawville, Buckingham, Brownsburg, Grenville, Lachute, Rosemere, St. Eustache and Ste. Agathe. Great credit should be given to the boys for winning eight championships. These victories were not due to one or two outstanding players, but, because of team effort, where all players worked together as a unit with a spirit and a desire to do their best. The boys showed sportsmanship, something far more important than winning any particular title.

The Canadian Team Gymnastic Championship is the only big honor left for the boys to win. The school hopes to be represented by a three-man team. The competition will be held at Windsor, Ontario, on July 10 and 11. With financial help, it is hoped to send Reggie Stansfield, Ron Cairns and Garry Cruise. These three have worked hard, and stand a very good chance of bringing this great honor to Lachute.

The championships won by Lachute High School thus far are — Soccer, Junior Hockey, Junior Volleyball, Senior Volleyball, Junior Basketball, Senior Basketball, Senior Track and Field, and Senior Softball.

Trophies, badges at Award Day, Lach. High School

On June 2 Lachute High School held its annual Award Ceremony when the Students' Council presented activity bars to approximately 125 pupils. Each year these bars are awarded to the pupils who participate in the following activities: Basketball, Hockey, Volleyball, Soccer, Badminton, Softball, Track, Gymnastics, Curling, Public Speaking, Junior Red Cross and Students' Council.

Mr. Robt. Bailly acted as m.c. for the program and the bars were presented on behalf of the Students' Council by Principal Fred Royal, Mr. A. Petersen, Mr. R. A. Giles, Mr. G. Higginson and Rodger Titman, chairman of the athletic committee of the Students' Council. After the presentation of bars, the following trophies were presented by their respective donors:

Giles Basketball Trophy — awarded to the player on the senior girls' team judged most valuable to the team through her display of skill, determination and good sportsmanship. — This year's winner was Marilyn Underhill.

Giles Hockey Trophy — awarded to the player on the senior boys' hockey team for the same qualities. — This year's winner, Ken Underhill.

Petersen Gymnastics Trophy — awarded to the most outstanding gymnast for the year. — Won by Reg. Stansfield.

Bank of N.S. Trophy — awarded annually to the boy or girl who earns the most points in the Argenteuil Teachers' Association county track meet. — Won by Ken Underhill.

Congratulations were extended to the winners by the principal, Mr. Fred Royal.

Youth raised here proves brilliant Law student

Among honor graduates at the Ottawa University spring convocation was a former Lachute boy, who won several notable awards. The youth is Gilles Prégent of Gatineau, Que., eldest son of the late Aimé Prégent and Mrs. Prégent, also a nephew of Councillor Georges Therrien of Brownsburg. . . . Aimé Prégent, who died five years ago, is favorably remembered as an electrical contractor, having practiced that trade here for many years.

Gilles Prégent is 23 years of age. He was born and educated here, and proceeded to the University of Ottawa, securing first his B.A. then his B.S.S. (Bachelor of Social and Political Sciences). He graduated with the Master's degree in Law, L.M.M. (magna cum laude). The following awards were won by this brilliant young student:

Lieutenant-Governor's medal for highest standing in complete law course; Guy Favreau prize for the best civil law essay; Hull Bar Association prize, for highest standing in commercial law examination; Justice Fauteux prize, for highest standing in license examination; Rodrigue Bédard prize, for highest standing in civil procedure (complete course).

It is also understood this young man was offered a scholarship by the University to conduct post-graduate studies leading to a doctorate in Law (LL.D.).

Gilles' progress has been followed with close interest by his relative, Judge Georges H. Héon, of Montreal, chairman of the Quebec Agricultural Marketing Board, under whom he has received personal guidance and tuition.

In defence of youthful drivers

Teen-age drivers are not the menace they are made out to be. Ottawa Police Chief Reginald Axcell expressed this opinion to a Rideau Kiwanis banquet—contrary to the findings on insurance risks, and the general conception that young drivers are the worst offenders.

"We get complaints from motorists who want us to cure youth of bad driving habits", said the chief. "But you might say that these kids were born in a car and they know how to handle them", he said.

"We might get them for a defective muffler or for switched plates. But it's not too often they get into real trouble."

An analysis of Ottawa accidents revealed that speed, bad manners and slow driving were the main causes, he said.

Most accidents in the city occurred about 5.30 p.m. when everybody was trying to leave the city at the same time.

Fly-rod fisherman strings line on 2,300-lb. commercial catch

By Bob Atchison "Outdoor Round-up"

Main Duck Island,
South Bay, Picton. Ono.

May 26 —

Nothing much to report. Since Mr. Dulles' death, there is no further word of plans concerning this property. . . . There is the usual checking to be done, and the killing of snakes. You can mark me up for 35 to date; if they keep on being so obliging, we should get at least 300. Right now they are all big. The young are not too plentiful as yet. It takes them a little longer to get around to being killed.

The fishermen here dragging for Carp were sure in luck this time. In one drag they got 2,300 lbs. of fish (dressed weight); that is the only way they are able to sell them this year. Another thing, the smallest that can be sold is 13 lbs., so you can imagine what amount of fish the nets held. I would say they threw back a ton of small fish. Some they kept were whoppers, running up into the 40 to 50-lb. class. It really is a sight to see, all these fish in a net being dragged in toward shore. By the way, the fish are not caught by their gills; the net is very heavily constructed and very small mesh. It would have to be strong, the way it is dragged in. The fisherman told us that the load of fish he had taken would bring him in around $200 for their work. Not bad, but when he told us his nets and equipment cost him about $35,000 — it would need a lot of $200 days to pay for it. He also is having one of these radar fish-finders put on his boat; he says it will pay for itself within a month. I haven't any idea what these things would cost, but it won't be for chicken-feed.

This fellow is not one of these on-again-off-again fishermen. That's his only business, so naturally all his equipment is top rate and well looked after. That is a change from some of them that come around here. Man, I wouldn't even go on the North River in some of the tubs that come out on this lake.

It is most interesting to watch an outfit that is operating right, and the way everything is carried out just like clockwork. The laying of their nets and the way they were dragged in, was really something. True I saw them last year dragging over the reefs, but nothing like this.

Before leaving this subject — Edith naturally gave them all a cup of tea and some cookies. So what do they do but bring in 14 full fillets of some Lake Trout, or Greys they had caught for us. So right there and then they stayed for dinner, and were those fillets good! Hope they come back soon, with more of them.

One funny thing about the whole visit was our dog; she nearly went nuts trying to catch the ones that were being thrown back. If you can imagine a dog grabbing hold of a fish weighing about 10 lbs. and seeing the antics she went through trying to hold on to it! I think she was under water more than she was on top. She seemed to have fun, though.

May 27 —

Today we haven't done a thing in the way of work, only checked the Island, etc. We were fishing this afternoon, with some little success — notably Perch. The Bass are not in season yet, and besides, the Perch are nicer. We did get a nice big Snapping Turtle, about 15 lbs., with about 4 lbs. of good meat on him. Turtles are excellent eating; taste very much like beef only a little stringier. If they are steeped overnight in water and vinegar, though, they will be as good as the best cuts of beef. If you try these two ways of cooking, I know you will agree; the first one I'm very partial to. . .

Take the Turtle meat, about 2 lbs. of it; cut into pieces liked diced beef. Melt a good amount of butter in a frying pan, and brown the Turtle meat well. Now put enough water in the stew pot to cover these vegetables; 2 cups or less of cut-up celery (with leaves left on, as they add to the flavor), 1 cup of lima beans soaked overnight. Simmer these for about a half-hour in the morning. Dump in your Turtle meat with a couple of potatoes, a couple of small carrots sliced, a can of tomatoes, and some chopped parsley. This needs to be cooked for about 45 minutes or till tender; and there you are for a good feed.

The second method is just to put the butter into a frying pan, salt and pepper the Turtle meat to your taste, and fry it the same way as a piece of steak. . . . I know if these alternatives are tried, there will be a shortage of Turtles around very shortly.

(I have hints for skinning, dismembering and preparing for the chef; if interested, write me for information.) And here's something to think about: a Turtle is one of the cleanest of anything in the reptile family. Besides every one ate it in years gone by. Maybe that's one reason there were not too many cases of stomach trouble. Who knows, it could be we are getting too soft. Our forefathers ate everything — skunk, wolf, fox, all the fish family, and I don't think it did them any harm.

While we were fishing a few more snakes were taken care of. I know that most people won't believe that there could be that many snakes around an Island. I have never seen as many of them anywhere in my life. As I've also said, most of them are harmless to humans. The way we feel right now though, none of them are pets.

We should be having a visitor by plane sometime very soon. It may help to clear the situation, as it were; we haven't any idea of what is going to happen to this island.

May 28 —

In luck today. The fisherman came back and brought our mail. What with all the Watchmans to read, I'm all set for a couple of days. They came back after Carp and stayed for lunch with us — the same old thing, Lake Trout!

The Carp were not very helpful this time; they only managed to get about 500 lbs. Some Eels were also taken, and they bring a good price, so it was not entirely a fruitless day for them. By climbing a tree and watching the schools of Carp running into the spawning beds, it was possible to get the biggest. But as they explained, with even a small ripple on the surface, all the good fish would stay out in the deeper water. It was possible at times to see some of them breaking water outside of the ledges and as that is just a shade too deep (up to 90 ft.) for dragging, all that could be done was watch them. . . . Man, how I'd like to get a good one on a fly rod! I will, one of these days.

The fresh meat situation is very bad and has been ever since we arrived. Believe it or not we haven't got our freezer as yet. It's been ordered for the past couple of months, but the company that made kerosene freezers went out of business. I guess we'll have to settle for a Propane 'frig. Not as much storage capacity, but better than nothing.

I almost forgot this, during the dragging for the Carp, a few Clams were brought in. There was also a little Fox Terrier out, and the goings on with the two dogs was something to behold. This fox was just about as crazy in the water as Goldie. To see them swimming in among the smaller Carp, and the smaller dog getting turned over and around by them, was honestly funny. If the fishermen hadn't gone when they did, both animals would have been waterlogged. Now Goldie is just lying here asleep, dead beat! I'm tired, too, just laughing at them.

May 29 —

Well, I beat the deadline in having my annual wash and bath. I still don't know if I have a left foot or not. It's somewhere around, — frozen. I think I stayed in the water about three minutes, and that was all I could take. . . But the first time is always the hardest. Maybe tomorrow I will be able to swim a couple of feet.

This evening we were out watching the Carp come into the cove. What a marvelous sight to see them getting over shallow spots and into the weeds to spawn. I can actually hear them splashing in the water right outside our cottage. You wonder where they all come from, and how they know just where to come to.

At the Brownsburg Legion field day, 8 and 9-year-old boys take off on a prize-winning 75-yard dash.

School children's field day held by Brownsburg Legion

Brownsburg—On Saturday, May 30, some 500 school children of this community enjoyed their second annual Legion Field Day.

The day started with the formation of parade bodies at both the English and French schools at 8.30 a.m. Each school group stepped out at 8.45 to marching music along Main Street, under Legion colors and escorted by municipal and provincial police. Both met at the intersection of Greenwood Avenue, and from there paraded along side by side to the C-I-L picnic grounds.

The field day events started promptly at 9 o'clock a.m. with the singing of "O Canada" and by 4 p.m. some 60 contests had taken place. For all events, some 110 prizes which had been purchased by the Ladies' Auxiliary and the Senior Branch were given out to the winners. Between events, children were able to fortify themselves with ice cream, soft drinks, hot dogs and popsicles which the Legion and Ladies' Auxiliary had provided. Watching out for the safety of all concerned, was Tom Dwyer, of C-I-L Works Engineering, who was on the lookout at all times from his First-Aid centre. The day finished up with a softball contest, for the Legion Trophy between boys of the two schools. Final score was 12-2 in favor of l'Ecole Bouchard.

Following is a list of committeemen and workers responsible for this event:

Field Day Committee — Bob Sugden (chairman), Noel Racine (co-chairman).

Publicity — O. T. Carrière.

Parades — W. Mann.

Field Preparations — J. W. Humphries, A. Lupien.

Field Events — R. R. Summers.

Prizes — Lou Carignan.

Refreshments — L. Camus, Mrs. R. Bell.

First-Aid, Tents and Tickets — L. Tessier.

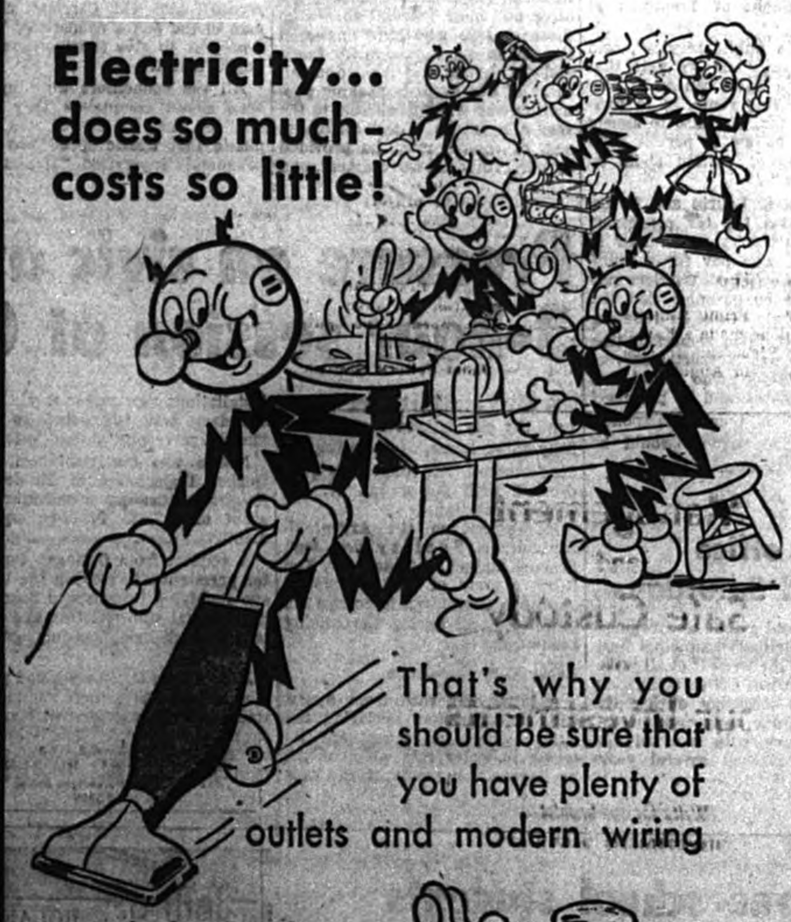

Ball Game — K. Low.

The Brownsburg Legion wishes to acknowledge with sincere thanks the assistance received from other organizations and individuals, in making this day a real success.

WATER SAFETY WEEK, JUNE 14-20

Summer perils

BY NOW, MOST of us have caught the certain symptoms of summer — the week-end urge to go fishing, to take or plan the holiday trip, and find some sure-fire way to eliminate the dandelions sprouting on the lawn.

Although summer is a sort of rejuvenation to most, it has its built-in dangers and one of them centres around one of the season's greatest attractions — swimming and all the sport afforded by bodies of water, large or small.

Each year, the old swimming hole or something akin to it takes its toll of lives. Last year in Ontario alone 305 deaths were attributed to water accidents. Of these victims, 116 were adults 26 years or older.

Leaky boats, tipped canoes, the venture into deep water when swimming should be confined to the shallow shoreside, disregard of posted warnings about water safety or the neglect to arm non-swimmers with life belts for boat jaunts, all may add up to summer tragedy.

As statistics indicate and the water-safety-promoting Red Cross emphasizes, the danger exists as much for adults as for children, and perhaps even more.

Most school-age children at least are introduced to water safety measures; many schools offer swimming instruction.

Water Safety Week, June 14-20, bombards the community and schools with posters and pamphlets stressing the importance of safe fun in or on the water.

It's the sort of week that must stretch into every summer month and be heeded by everyone as the move to beaches, cottages, lakes and bays gets under way.

Romance on skids

TO THOSE in middle age but young in spirit, there's a news item which may jolt their complacency. . . . A museum at Goderich, Ont., has acquired that most familiar and commonplace accessory to transportation, a steam locomotive, as an exhibit which may be a rarity in future years.

It shakes one's ego, to find an everyday convenience and companion thus spirited away as a museum-piece. There's a sense of insecurity, to feel we may suddenly find ourselves out-of-date and also relegated to a museum!

As regards the steam locomotive — it was noted at the recent art show in St. Andrews, one exhibitor had the same idea; he had captured an impression of the iron monster billowing white swoke over a sub-zero winter countryside. This sort of scene many of us will relinquish with regret; but the steam engine gives way to diesel power, and progress pays no heed to sentiment or romance.

The Huron County Pioneer Museum says it is the first in Canada to make such a purchase. The locomotive, the 90-ton "Spirit of Huron" is 60 feet long. Built in 1910, it was used for yard work at Goderich station until last December.

Curator Herb Neill, 73, is digging into his own pocket to pay the C.P.R. $3,800 for the engine, but expects to be reimbursed by the Goderich Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is selling shares at $1 each for a five-pound interest in the locomotive.

The engine was moved from the railway roundhouse and was run onto a track laid in cement just outside the museum building. It is expected to boost attendance at the museum.

Tackling an Economic problem

SEASONAL EMPLOYMENT is a problem which Canada, by reason of its climate, has continually to contend with. Not only is this a challenge to industrial personnel and placement officers, but the condition places a serious drain on the unemployment insurance, while imposing an inequitable levy on contributors to the government fund.

A survey is now underway to assess possibilities of fitting seasonal workers into an unemployment insurance scheme of their own. The survey, it is understood, has been ordered by Labor Minister Starr, and is being conducted by the three-man unemployment insurance commission.

About 4,000,000 Canadians now are covered by the present system, including 250,000 loggers, lumbermen and fishermen who are affected by seasonal influences. Adequate coverage for that class of worker, it is expected, would require either a higher rate of contribution to the fund or else a government subsidy.

Another aspect of the inquiry is how to fit agriculture workers into any scheme. Few now are included, although jressure from members of parliament, among others, has been exerted for such provision.

Are we doing enough ?

THE DEATHS in highway accidents of 39 Canadians during the recent holiday should make us stop and think.

Are we doing enough to cut down automobile accidents?

The fact that the toll exceeded the Canadian Highway Safety Council Conference prediction of 35, and that it was two more than in the same week-end a year ago, would seem to suggest the answer is "No".

It isn't that provincial authorities and police are sitting idly by, watching this mechanized manslaughter. But drivers themselves will have to wake up to the fact that, in the last analysis, they must take steps to cut down the toll of motor accidents.

Evidence that a man behind the wheel is the best hope in the fight against traffic fatalities comes from at least two provinces.

Nova Scotia put on a sustained publicity campaign before the Victoria Day week-end aimed at making drivers aware of highway dangers. The press, radio and television joined in the campaign. Testimony to the success of the drive lies in the heartening fact that no one died in that province during the period as a result of an auto accident.

In Ontario, which had an unusually-low six deaths in traffic, the evidence is found in records showing that accidents have been cut by 50 per cent since the province's demerit system went into effect earlier this year.

Under the system, also in effect in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Manitoba, a driver may lose his license when he reaches a specified number of demerit points for convictions for traffic offences. Ontario drivers obviously don't want their licenses suspended so they're being more careful and having fewer accidents.

The fact that highway deaths dropped to 3,134 last year from 3,216 in 1957 indicates that the various provincial programs for highway safety are meeting with some success, particularly since total mileage driven in Canada is rising by about five per cent a year.

There will always be some mishaps, of course, but it stands to reason that an alert, well-trained driver who realizes the death-dealing capacity of his car, who doesn't take unnecessary chances and who knows enough not to combine drinking with driving, is less likely to be involved in an accident.

On threshold of 20th season

WHAT PROBLEM must farmers solve this year? How can they solve them?

The problems of Agriculture in Canada have occupied the attention of Canadian farmers since earliest colonial days. Not until 19 years ago did this strategic group have an opportunity to collectively discuss their problems in order that action might be taken. During that 19 years, National Farm Forum has become the round table at which Canadian farmers can gather their thoughts, and correct their misconceptions, and hammer out a united stand on vital issues.

The conference to lay plans for the 1959-60 season of National Farm Radio Forum was held this week at Bristol, Que. The two questions at the top of the page were the most important at the conference. . . . Where does Farm Forum fit into Agriculture's future? What can groups achieve to the benefit of individual farmers and their families and communities?

The answers to these questions will be reflected in Farm Forum programs this coming season, which will be prominent in the considerations of many Forum groups and individual radio listeners in this area. This will be Farm Forums' 20th season of group discussion.

Moods of the Ottawa River

— By Ethel Kettyle —

(Chapter II)

DREDGES ON THE RIVER

It would be almost impossible to dwell near the Ottawa River for any length of time, and not be affected by its varying moods. Sometimes the water flowed, as though gentle and placid, under a sunny sky; other times gay and flirtatious; but in time of storms, dark and menacing, angry and turbulent; then as winter approached — cold and heartless; and in winter — a frozen waste.

But again, the sun had warmed the water in the river. It was June and the river, which such a short time ago had been wrapped in ice and snow, now flowed gently on its way. The wren had come back to her hollow post, after the return of the robins. May flowers and trilliums still were blooming in damp places. The wild flowers were along the shore now bursting into bloom.

Spring had turned into summer and the river was again a "friend" — until one Sunday afternoon, coming down the path beyond the cedars, expecting the usual peace and quietness, one somehow felt a sinister tragedy pervaded the place.

Two dredges were being propelled about the river. First on one side and then on the other, with black smoke belching from the funnels. All through the afternoon, they moved from place to place. For some strange reason, the shore seemed destitute of the usual people — no pleasure boats, no water skiing, no swimmers were to be seen. What was the mystery? The sun finally set in a sickly-looking sky and purple shadows came creeping.

Presently, on the opposite side of the river just below Chute à Blondeau at the foot of a path leading to the river, people were seen to congregate. At first five or six, then a dozen. Finally the group grew larger; men, women and children, and eventually, several black-robed figures, which proved to be priests in their clerical robes. Surely something out of the ordinary had happened, and still the north shore of the river seemed destitute of people. Finally, a young couple appeared and brought the news that a young Frenchman had met with a fatal accident. While working on a commercial boat, his foot had been caught in a rope and he had been thrown overboard. Even though in his early twenties and a good swimmer, he had lost his life in the rapids. The search had been going on for several days until finally the body had been found.

Again the river had become a foe, and again one wonders what secrets it could hold. Will they ever be told? Stories of peace and quietness, gentleness or violence, happiness or tragedy. Unconcerned, it flows on forever—sometimes like an animal unleashed, at other times gay and brilliant in the sunshine, then in one of its tranquil moods.

At night when darkness falls, friendly lights twinkle along the shores, and on the following days, children may laugh and shout, as they plunge into its cool depths.

Sailboats adorned with flags sail upon the surface. Motorboats putt-putt in their speedy course, and young people on water skis dash madly along — while those who look on, ponder on the river's capricious moods.

Complaints on slow delivery and mail service

TO THE EDITOR

Bell Falls, July 8, 1959

For a long time now the mail delivery in Eastern Canada seems to be a cause for complaint in many places. . . The changes made in our Rural Delivery route have not been as satisfactory as in former days. For instance, formerly we had our mail picked up by the rural carrier at about 9 a.m. and we had money orders and postage stamps delivered in a few hours. Now we have to wait 24 hours to get the same service. A letter written to Lachute was always delivered the same afternoon. Last week a letter to Lachute was mailed on June 1 and was not delivered until the 3rd inst.; this is ridiculous, and a letter and Watchman posted to Montreal on Friday, May 29, and another on June 3, both of these were delivered on Friday, June 5. A neighbor complained the other day that she had written to Ottawa and it takes a week to get a reply. Now they have to resort to Long Distance telephone calls, which is an expensive procedure. Another lady mailed a letter in Montreal on Monday and the letter was received Thursday in the same city. These are only a few of the many complaints we have heard.

Are we returning to the old horse-and-buggy days, when everything else is progressing so wonderfully? If we have a progressive government in power, then we look for progress. . . . The new postage stamp issue supposed to honor Women of the World speaks for itself.

Of Many Things

ON MAKING HEADLINES

I read many papers. A few weeks ago I noticed that a Mr. P. M. Fox had made some pronouncements which seemed to catch the eye of editors everywhere. Curious as to why this one man had garnered so much space, I studied the news stories. Though I read quite carefully, I could find nothing in his statement that would have elicited any excitement whatever when I was a boy.

What had he said?

Well, he had boasted that his industry (Pulp and Paper) has never asked for a government hand-out, even in the thirties when about half the mills operated in bankruptcy. Further, he went on to blast our present day tendency to ask for hand-outs and charity from the government, although it is painfully apparent that the government cannot pay for anything without first taxing the money out of us.

Well, there is nothing in that statement that my father would have thought newsworthy. It is just the simple truth. But we have drifted so far down the path towards socialism that a straightforward statement of that kind makes the headlines from coast to coast!

I think most of us are tinged, today, with the hand-out complex. We want the government to give us things. But the government has nothing to give to me unless it first takes it from me or from somebody else by force.

I would be horrified if someone suggested that I steal from my neighbor, who happens to have about six times as much money as I have. But am I not stealing, just as surely, when I encourage the government to take his money in order to give it to me?

Governments have been so busy picking our pockets in order to practice "charity" for us, that a whole army of civil servants now do nothing but take and give. Of course, they take more than they give, because their own wages come out of the pot. The Ottawa government alone added 10,000 people to its payroll in 1958 — as many as there are in the vast General Motors plant in Oshawa. Ottawa has 195,390 people on the public payroll, paid out of taxes. This doesn't include government agencies like CBC, where 6,300 employees spend millions annually to cover operating deficits.

Couldn't we improve our country by asking governments to get back to the business of governing, instead of playing Robin Hood? Robin robbed only the very rich; gave only to the poor. Modern governments give to everybody old enough to vote, and make the widows and pensioners a special target for legalized robbery!

Maybe Mr. Fox deserves headlines after all, for bringing these facts to our attention!

The Primeval Garden

God made a garden first of all
For man — a charmed abode,
Where nature throbbed at beauty's call,
And chaliced waters flowed.

Where tender winds crooned
lullabyes
To trees full-dowered with bloom,
And lilies tall, and golden-plumed,
Enriched with rare perfume.

There mating birds in full accord,
In notes akin to prayer,
Proclaimed the greatness of His works,
In joyous cadence there.

God made a garden first of all,
And flowers frail and sweet
Crept up, and upward to the light,
And nestled at His feet.

MORE THAN 60 YEARS OF PERSONAL SERVICE

All Aboard

with G. E. MORTIMORE

Years ago I read "How to Win Friends and Influence People". It made such an impression on me that I have used it for my guide ever since.

I took careful note of Mr. Carnegie's instructions, and made a point of doing the opposite of what he said.

"Remember people's names," Carnagie advised. I started forgetting people's names even before I learned what they were. "Give your wife breakfast in bed," he suggested. I made her give me breakfast in bed.

I'm exaggerating. I didn't try to turn all Mr. Carnagie's maxims inside out. Even I am not as stupid as that.

However, I was repelled by what I took to be a certain hollowness in Mr. Carnagie's advice. It seemed to me that he was advising people to butter up their fellowmen with flattery, so as to make use of them.

Mr. Carnegie explicitly disavowed such intentions, and advised his readers to be sincere at almost any cost. But I felt that he didn't mean it. I thought Mr. Carnegie was as phoney as a plaster pillar.

I met a number of salesmen who heightened this impression. They used Dale Carnegie tactics in such a transparent way that I could almost see them ticking off Mr. Carnegie's points on their fingers.

The other day I came across the same Dale Carnegie book that I had read so long ago. I must have brought it up with the stuff from the old house where I had lived as a boy. I began thumbing through it, and, oddly enough, it made sense.

I still felt that Mr. Carnegie had got rich by translating the Sermon on the Mount into business language and selling it to people who used the Bible as a door-stopper. I still felt the Mr. Carnegie simplified things too much, and was overready to look on the bright side.

It still seemed to me that a person should try to interest himself in others and help them because that was a good thing to do, rather than because he hoped to gain by it.

However, I now began to feel that it was better to act from poor motives than not act at all. If there were millions more Carnegie disciples, all trying to work up a sympathetic interest in their neighbors' affairs, bestowing praise instead of blame, the world would be an improved place — even if they did these worthwhile things to gain votes, or sell soap.

FROM FORCE OF HABIT

A certain young man whose name need not be mentioned (I don't know it anyway) became an expert boxer during his school years. His folks put him through college so that he could become a minister, but he continued his success in boxing throughout his first two years in college, becoming amateur champion in his division, and was persuaded, much to his parents' displeasure, to give up his education and become a professional prizefighter. After a few years of great success in the ring, and amassing a very healthy bank account, he had the good sense to retire before he started on the downgrade as most boxers do. So he became a referee of boxing, and was in great demand in this capacity.

But by this time his parents were getting old. They kept pleading with him to go back to college and complete his Theology. Not requiring any more money, he did as they desired and finally became an ordained minister, his first field being in a remote country district.

After a few weeks of successful church work and services, he was suddenly called upon to conduct a wedding ceremony. Not ever having done so before, he was very nervous. Anyhow, it was all in the book, so why worry? But towards the end of the marriage rites, he dropped the book! Unable to find the place with his fumbly fingers, he decided to fake the finish. So he ended by saying: "I now pronounce you man and wife. Shake hands now and come out fighting!"

— Be seein 'ya.

Late Alfred Menard

The death of a well-known citizen, Mr. Alfred Menard, occurred Saturday evening in the Cartierville hospital where he had been taken after suffering a series of heart seizures. Mr. Menard, provincial gasoline tax inspector in this district, died only three months after the demise of his wife, on March 2 last. They were favorably known as a former business couple of this town, having established and operated a successful bakery here some years ago.

The late Mr. Menard is mourned by three sons, Jean-Bruno and Roland, of Lachute, and Gerald, of St. Lambert, and one daughter, Miss Reine-Paul, also of Lachute. He leaves also a sister, Mrs. F.-X. Dansereau, of d'Iberville.

Rites were held Wednesday morning from the funeral parlors operated by his son Roland, thence to the parish church of Ste. Anastasie. Many sympathizers and fellow residents attended. Interment was made at Lachute Catholic Cemetery.

Late B.C. citizen was native of St. Andrews East

Hugh William Robertson

Hugh William Robertson, 85, for half a century a resident of Nelson, B.C., died May 23 after a lengthy illness.

Born in St. Andrews East, Que., in 1874, he graduated from Commercial College in Owen Sound, Ont., and joined the Canadian Bank of Commerce in the same province. In 1903 he was transferred to the Vancouver branch to serve in the inspection division.

He moved to Nelson in 1907 and managed the bank there for a short time, later becoming engaged in the real estate business which he operated until five years ago.

He married the former Mary Sybil Notter in Owen Sound. She predeceased him in 1952.

Mr. Robertson displayed a keen interest in automobiles when they first appeared in Nelson. He owned one of the first cars in the district.

He was a charter member of the Nelson Rotary Club, a member of the Nelson Chamber of Commerce for many years, and a Mason. He was also an ardent curler.

Mr. Robertson is survived by four brothers, Haldane, of California, Buchanan, Robert and Fred, all of St. Andrews East, Que., and three sisters, Beatrice Robertson, St. Andrews East, Mrs. R. W. Barclay and Mrs. Ethel M. Mount, of Westmount, Que.

Ott-MacKimmie wedding in Lachute United Church

Mr. and Mrs. Carl William Ott, photographed following their wedding in the Lachute United Church on Saturday, June 6. The bride is the former Mary Ruth MacKimmie, R.N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. MacKimmie, of Lachute. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Ott, of Outremont, Que.

The marriage of Mary Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. MacKimmie, of Lachute, to Mr. Carl William Ott, of Outremont, Que., took place Saturday June 6, at four o'clock in the Lachute United Church, the Rev. Wilson Bridge, assisted by the Rev. Wilmer B. Rosborough officiating. Mr. Wayne Riddell played the wedding music, and Mrs. Leonard Armstrong sang during the signing of the register. Standards of pink and white peonies and snapdragons, and candles in candelabra, were used to decorate.

The bride, given away by her father, was gowned in embroidered white nylon organza, with a fitted bodice having a bateau neckline, elbow-length sleeves, and a bouffant skirt shirred and caught in bands of Viennese lace, extending into a sweep train. Her veil of French tulle illusion was held by a coronet of lace and seed pearls, and she carried a semi-cascade of cymbidium orchids and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Alice Wickenden, as maid of honor, and Mrs. Clifford Lynch, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Alexander Cunningham, as attendants, and Miss Linda MacKimmie cousin of the bride, as junior bridesmaid, wore cocktail-length frocks of pale pink organza with shirred bodices and very full skirts. They wore pink picture hats of mohair and organza and carried semi-cascade bouquets of white shasta chrysanthemums. Little Miss Sharon Lynch, niece of the bridegroom, as flower-girl wore a white nylon embroidered organza frock over pink, with a pink cummerbund and a white hat with matching pink streamers, and carried a dainty basket containing pink and white flowers.

Mr. Louis Ott acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. James Campbell, Mr. Robert Campbell, Mr. Gordon Amber and Mr. Clifford Lynch.

Mrs. MacKimmie, the bride's mother, wore a gown of Nile green tucked chiffon, with a straw picture hat with tiny green roses appliquéd on the veiling, and a corsage bouquet of white Sweetheart roses were pinned to her handbag. Mrs. Ott, mother of the bridegroom was gowned in beige French lace over organza and wore a matching hat of straw trimmed with silk petals; a corsage of Pinnochio Sweetheart roses was pinned to her handbag.

Mrs. Louis Ott, the grandmother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of mist green lace and wore a navy blue hat and accessories, and a corsage bouquet of deep red Sweetheart roses.

The reception was held at the Lachute Golf and Country Club, where pink and white Sweetheart roses and peonies were used as decorations.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Ott left for Virginia Beach, the bride travelling in a Saguenay blue linen suit and wearing a matching straw cloche hat and a corsage bouquet of stephanotis.

— Jehovah's Witnesses —

Why read the Bible?

Many generations and peoples have survived without it . . . But have they?

Civilizations have disappeared forever, but this Book of books and its message of life have outlived all efforts to destroy it or make its words meaningless. Do you know what the Bible really says? Would you know if the Bible were being quoted properly — or at all? If you do not go to the source of truth, how sure can you be that what you hear is really true? Why endanger your opportunity for survival or that of your children? Daily Bible reading means more to your continued health and prosperity than any other activity. Make sure your entire family joins with you in sharing this blessed experience.

CHRISTIAN MATURITY IS NOT JUST A MATTER OF AGE

Neither is it just knowing what the Bible teaches about doctrine or Christian living. The full-grown Christian must be able and willing to help others, to teach them what they should do and how. (See 2 Timothy 2:24; Matthew 28:20.) To qualify as a Christian you must qualify as a minister. Do you? You can.

"EQUIPPED FOR EVERY GOOD WORK" will start you on the right road. It will give you an intensive study of the Bible as a book. It will reveal to you the origin of the Bible, its writers and the evidences of its inspiration. It will introduce you to the languages in which it was written and the many copies of the original writings that have been preserved. It will acquaint you with the background and contents of every one of its inspired books. Truly, here is a book that will equip you to use the Bible with real understanding and purpose. Hard bound, dark-maroon cover with gold-embossed title; indexed; Scriptural summary; 384 pages; 50c.

Write to 150 Bridgeland Ave., Toronto 19, or ask any Jehovah's Witness you may happen to meet, anywhere.

C.W.L. Diocesan Retreat held at Lac Masson

The second annual closed retreat sponsored by the St. Jerome Diocesan Council of the Catholic Women's League was held recently at Manoir d'Esterel, Ste. Marguerite.

A retreat is a period of time, short or long, during which a person withdraws from his ordinary life and occupation in order to pray, meditate, and receive instruction in the spiritual life. Except in recreations and in case of necessity, silence is observed.

The Diocesan retreat house, Manoir d'Esterel, is ideally situated for this purpose. It is at the top of a hill on a peninsula, and overlooks Lac Masson on three sides. All nature combines to assist in reflection and meditation.

Members who made the retreat were able to benefit by the new English section of the library, a recent gift of the Diocesan Council to the retreat house.

Cancer group's new quarters viewed by guests

The local section of the Canadian Cancer Society will be moving shortly to new quarters in the basement of the Court House — according to an announcement made by Mrs. William M. Cottingham, president.

The Society began its activities in this district June 6, 1955, and has been housed since that time on Bethany Road. Its territory covers Argenteuil, Two Mountains, Terrebonne, Labelle, Joliette and L'Assomption.

The soon-to-be-vacated quarters had been provided through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Cottingham, in the Cottingham Apartments.

The Hon. Wm. Cottingham is now giving space to the Society in the basement of the Court House which he has personally rented from the County Council.

Mr. Cottingham was host last week at a dinner tendered to members of the County Council, who at the same time visited the Cancer Society's new quarters. The visitors were welcomed by Mayor James McGibbon of Lachute.

Among those present were the following Mayors and officials of the County municipalities:

Messrs. Gaston Laurier, Huberdeau; Gaston Leblanc, 16 Island Lake; Roger Brosseau, Huberdeau; Roger Lajeunesse, 16 Island Lake; Paul Sauvé, Grenville Village; Rosario Lemay, Parish of St. Andrews; Thos. P. Citizen receives long-service I.O.O.F. jewel

At the regular meeting of the Odd Fellows' Laurentian Lodge No. 14, held at Brownsburg last Tuesday evening, honor was conferred on Bro. Geo. Y. Deacon, who for half a century has been a member of the organization. Presentation of a 50-year jewel was made by Grand Master Bro. John Howard, of Shawville, who expressed his appreciation at being present and wished the recipient all success. Bro. Deacon, who was escorted by Bro. W. K. McArthur, P.S.Gr. Mess., Bro. R. A Giles, P.G., and Bro. A. Campbell, P.G., thanked those present.

Other Grand Lodge officers attending were — Dep. P.G.M. Bro. John Wilson, Gr. Con.; Bro. L. Demerse; and Gr. Her. Bro. Denis Brackley, all of Montreal.

Refreshments were served in conclusion.

Women's Inst. life membership

Receiving an honorary life membership pin in recognition of her outstanding service for the Women's Institutes, is Mrs. George McGibbon, the Argenteuil County president.

At a meeting of the Lachute W.I. held at Mrs. McGibbon's home in Dalesville, those in the above group are (l. to r.) Mrs. Archie Gordon, the Lachute president, Mrs. McGibbon, and (presenting the pin) Mrs. F. A. Brennian, who was the first president of this W.I. branch on its inauguration.

Mrs. McGibbon was a charter member of the Lachute branch, which conferred this honor prior to her departure shortly for the Associated Country Women's tour overseas and convention in Edinburgh, which takes place next month. Mrs. McGibbon is a voting delegate from Canada and one of seven ladies attending from this province.

tabled. Likewise a request to send a delegate to the Police and Fire Chiefs' convention in Val d'Or — Mayor McGibbon stating this was a time of year when it is difficult to spare even one man from the police force.

A letter was also read suggesting that Lachute should vote a civic contribution to enter a float in the parade at Hawkesbury's centennial celebrations.

Various Business

Building permits were granted to Mlle Germaine Latreille, Lionel Lamoureux, Mme Jeanne Lavigne, Armand Brisson and Wilfrid Morrissette.

On this subject Ald. Nelson Lepage expressed surprise that the building and zoning by-law to be drafted by Messrs. F. Legault and Paul Laliberté was not yet forthcoming. Ald. Pollock stated he had been informed by Mr. Legault that the draft would be ready shortly.

A resolution adopted at a previous meeting for the acquisition of some land on Paquin Ave., was rescinded in favor of another proposal submitted by Notary Valois.

It was decided to seek permission from the Department of Municipal Affairs to borrow funds temporarily, to the limit of $100,000, if necessary for the waterworks undertaking.

New Traffic Markings

The police department was instructed to have the parking lines and traffic markings gone over in white paint, without delay.

The Mayor reported on a meet with representatives of the Chamber of Commerce regarding Main Street lighting. It was proposed by Ald. M. Carriere, seconded by Ald. L. Laurin, that the Chamber be asked to bring a petition signed by the proprietors on Main Street, and a by-law would then be submitted on this matter — similar to an application for sewer works.

Ald. Lauréat Laurin gave formal motion to introduce a by-law at next meeting for the laying of sewers on Cruise Blvd.

Ald. Edgar Pollock suggested that sidewalk repairs be effected proportionately in the three different wards of town.

Ald. Stanley Church had a notice of motion for a by-law to revise the business tax, with the present regulations to be applied rigorously until that time.

It was moved by Ald. Carriere, seconded by Ald. S. Holt, that the government be asked to take a hand in the paving of Charles and Bellingham Streets.

X-ray clinics next week

The Argenteuil Health Unit announces the following chest X-ray clinics in this County for the week ending June 20:

June 15, Ayersville — Immaculate Conception School.
June 15, Lachute — l'Ecole Supérieure.
June 16, Brownsburg — Social Club.
June 16, St. Andrews — School.

Hours of these clinics, in each case, are 2-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m.

It is earnestly hoped that the public will take advantage of this free X-ray service provided by the Anti-Tuberculosis League.

Lachute girl top student in Bishop's grads

Bishop's University will award 70 Bachelor's degrees and two post-graduate degrees at its annual convocation ceremonies in Lennoxville, June 13. Top student in the graduating class is Miss Rosemary G. Legg, of Lachute, who, in addition to her Bachelor of Science honors degree in mathematics and physics, will receive the Governor-General's Medal, the Lieutenant-Governor's Medal for Science, and two other prizes.

Rosemary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Legg, of Lakefield, was an outstanding student at Lachute High School. Graduating here in 1955, she won a scholarship to Bishop's University.

Congratulations of this community are extended on her success.

Clubmen hear talk on Lachute Fair

Mr. Ken Riley, secretary-manager of the Lachute Spring Fair, was guest at the Lions Club last week to give an insight into the working of the Fair, which is the perennial of spring of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society and a community venture in which all citizens are concerned.

Tracing back the history of the Agricultural Society, its origin and original seat of activity at St. Andrews East, Mr. Riley developed his theme to what it means in practical terms today.

The speaker quoted a number of big livestock exhibitors as rating this Fair "one of the principal show windows in Eastern Canada" for exhibiting their breeds and stimulating their sales.

Mr. Riley spoke of criticisms of the money which goes out of town with the staging of this Fair. The true picture is quite to the contrary, however, and it is impossible to estimate the revenue brought to Lachute by the annual Spring Fair — he stated. . . .

As an instance, last year's finances showed total receipts of $30,251. Of this amount taken in only $10,000 came from the County and the remaining two-thirds from outside sources.

In expenditures ($27,975) there was $6,122 for payroll; $4,897 for printing, advertising, equipment and supplies bought locally; $2,833 for insurance, electricity, telephone and postage; and over $7,000 in prize money to Argenteuil exhibitors — totalling $20,800 in amounts expended right in this County.

"In what better way can we help to promote our community than by helping to build a bigger and better Lachute Spring Fair?" asked Mr. Riley, in conclusion.

The Lions Club is represented on the Lachute Fair directorate by André Lefebvre, committeeman for Agriculture, while the club's treasurer, Donald M. Hay, is a director and active worker for the Society.

Help for Too-Tall Daughters

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Parents look with leniency on their children's shortcomings. They are rather apt to think an adolescent is just fussing who complains about being different. But a mother must say something when a daughter comes to her and exclaims:

'Mother, I'm so tall! The short boys will never ask me to be a partner at a party and the medium size ones are apt to think that I make them look ridiculous standing beside them. Being tall is an awful handicap!"

She was tall — there was no denying her stature. Both her father and mother were tall people and even in public school Helen was among the biggest scholars in each class. An aunt had once offended her when she was a little child by saying:

"Goodness, how you grow! Your mother should put a brick on your head."

What can Helen do about her height? Nothing you say? But that is a rather pessimistic view-point. If she keeps on resenting her inches she is storing up a lot of unhappiness for herself — and for her family too, if they are sensitive and aware of her moods.

The first thing that she could do would be accept herself as she is. She might well say to herself, "I am tall, but there are lots worse handicaps to a girl's appearance than height. I've got a clear complexion, my features are regular and my hair has a natural wave. If I concentrate on my good points, I won't feel so self-conscious."

If Helen went to a large department store to buy clothes, or if she had the chance to talk with a fashion designer, she likely would discover that a tall girl should choose her wardrobe with care. She must avoid vertical stripes or material which emphasizes her height. Horizontal lines, costumes which divide her height in two such as a contrasting skirt and blouse or sweater outfit for informal wear, are all an asset to Helen. High heels on shoes and tall hats add to her inches, although for dress-up wear she will not want to put on oxfords.

A tall girl, because she is likely to feel that she is in the public eye, should discover the colors which are most becoming to her, and stick to them. Helen knows that it is better to have fewer dresses and have them of good material and cut than a wider variety of nondescript outfits.

If Helen looks around in her community she will see tall, fine looking women who are happily married. They evidently found partners for marriage who did not mind their height! She likely knows a number of very successful business and professional women who are more than average height. Mady Christians, the actress of the Broadway stage is around five foot nine. She admits that as a young girl she found her height a drawback in making a beginning in her career. But very sensibly she decided not to let it get her down. She resolved to work all the harder to offset her inches. Helen, or any other tall girl, can learn a lot as she watches any good actress on the stage or in the movies.

A tall movie star, if she is "top notch," has learned to walk and move around with poise and grace. One star advises tall girls to glory in their height — walk proudly. Another confides that she discovered that walking with a book on her head was the very best of exercises. One tall actress said in an interview that no matter what a girl's height may be, there is another thing she can work at — her voice. A girl can have a pleasing voice if she wants it badly enough, and can be a good listener too. These two qualities are more attractive to men than most girls realize.

Helen can do something about her height in the way she dresses, in her manner of walking, and most of all in her own thinking about her height. It can spur her on to work a bit harder on presenting an attractive appearance and being a worthwhile, charming person. Tallness is no disgrace—it need not be a handicap — it can be an asset. It all depends on the girl herself.

Quebec L.O.B.A. Prov. Grand Lodge annual meeting

The Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association, Provincial Grand Lodge of Quebec, held their 30th annual meeting at Richmond recently.

The Loyal Orange Association, Provincial Grand Lodge of Quebec, held their 110th annual meeting at the same time and place.

A joint divine service was held in the Presbyterian Church at Melbourne, followed by a banquet and dance in the evening. Following the banquet R. W. Bro. Royal E. C. Werry, Q.C., and R. W. Bro. R. H. Butler, gave their annual reports on the Children's Home at Rosemere.

At noon next day a memorial service was held, with the laying of a poppy wreath at the war memorial in Richmond.

Reports of the L.O.B.A. showed an increase in membership and finances, and donations were voted to the Cancer Fund, Blind Institute, Orange and Protestant Children's Home, and the Orange Hall Building Fund in Westmount. The welfare report showed that in addition, the lodges had in the past year contributed approximately $2,200 to various charities and welfare projects.

Mrs. Ethel Williams, Grand Mistress of British America, and Mrs. F. Brownell, Past Grand Mistress of N.B., conducted the installation of officers, as follows:-

Grand Mistress, Mrs. Glenna Holt; Dep. Grand Mistress, Miss Elvina Stephens; Past Grand Mistress, Miss Gertrude Hoyle; Jr. Dep. Grand Mistress, Mrs. Clara Atkins; Secretary, Miss Ellen Helm; Treasurer, Miss Catherine Watson; Chaplain, Mrs. Annie Moores; Dep. Secretary, Mrs. Inez Cooke; Dep. Treasurer, Mrs. Mary Davidson; Dir. of Ceremonies, Mrs. Florence Bridgeman; Lecturers, Mrs. Eleanor Duval and Mrs. Katherine Ryder; Dir. of Juveniles, Mrs. Christie Bigelow; Auditors, Mesdames Jenny Coveduck, Annie Argue and Janet Govan.

The "exchange table" was well patronized. Mrs. Christie Bigelow won the handmade quilt, and Mrs. Frances Burness won a large tablecloth.

Faith Lodge at Harrington, and Lily-of-the-Valley Lodge at Poltimore won the J.O.L. trophies for general proficiency.

Mrs. Clenna Holt, Grand Mistress of Quebec, will be a delegate at the Grand Lodge of B.A. Sessions in Edmonton in June.

A sample survey taken by the Canadian Association of Consumers during 1958 revealed that 96 per cent of all Canadian households have electricity. The same per cent have radios. Washing machines are in 87 per cent of all households and 86 per cent have sewing machines.

Cars are in 63 per cent of the households, and seven per cent have two or more cars.

There are vacuum cleaners in 61 per cent of the households.

Apparently most Canadian women have the assistance of modern appliances.

No Sale

A Brussels men's wear specialist, Paul Ledoux, refuses to sell men's neckties to women.

He insists the cravat is the only object of coquetry left to the male.

"Since a man does not wear earrings, necklaces or bracelets, he has only his necktie as a means of expressing his inner self outwardly," says Mr. Ledoux.

The Belgian clothier insists he can tell how a man feels towards the woman he is with by his necktie.

A matching suit and tie shows timidity. Solid colors indicate lack of interest and simple stripes mean conservative rigidity.

Watch out for men wearing ties that are wild and nothing else for Mr. Ledoux insists they indicate stupidity.

If you want a man who appreciates beautiful women, food, art and music, then look for a man wearing a tie with dots or subtle figures.

Changing Times

Auburn-haired Margaret Campbell of Vancouver is another indication of our changing times. In her job as truant officer, she is further proof that more and more women are doing things that were once considered "a man's job."

Miss Campbell finds that some parents seem disappointed when she comes to call. "They expect a big burly man to hoist junior back to school, but the days of hoisting are past."

Miss Campbell's official title is attendance officer. She's a graduate nurse who holds a degree in social work.

Not So Loud

It's been proven scientifically that women naturally hear better than men. A thorough measurement of normal hearing was recently completed by Dr. John F. Corso of Pennsylvania State University. He found women heard better than men through all age groups. Perhaps that is why women catch their youngsters, and husbands too, sneaking into the cookie jar.

Normal hearing can be impaired by residence of six months or more within one mile of an active airport; regular travel by subway, train or plane for one year or more; a job in a "fairly noisy" or noisier place for six months or longer. Do you suppose the bedlam of a growing family is included in the final noise group?

A treat in store

Frosted Pecan Fruit Coffee Cake

Here's a recipe for the homemaker who likes to keep baking at a minimum during the warm summer months. One of the secrets of this recipe is the quantity it gives . . . it yields four delectable coffee cakes, each of which may be sliced into a dozen pieces. These four heavily-fruited coffee cakes have excellent keeping qualities when stored in an air-tight container, and if you're lucky enough to own a freezer, they take well to freezing too. The other advantage is in the preparation time — the dough is mixed one day and stored in the refrigerator overnight ready for the final treatment and baking the following day. It's one way summer baking may be divided among two days so that there's still time to relax over a long cool drink on a sultry day. The rich, Danish pastry type of dough bakes into flaky, tender cakes. The nut-sprinkled Butter Cream Frosting provides the crowning glory.

Frosted Pecan Fruit Coffee Cakes

(Yield — 4 coffee cakes)

1 Cup milk, ½ cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon granulated sugar, 1 envelope active dry yeast, 3½ cups once-sifted all-purpose flour, 3 tablespoons granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup chilled shortening, 3 eggs (separated), 1 cup sultana-type seedless raisins, 1 cup coarsely-chopped pecans, 1 cup coarsely-chopped pitted dates, 1 cup lightly-packed brown sugar, 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon, 1 cup strawberry jam.

Scald milk; cool to lukewarm Meantime, measure lukewarm water into a medium-sized bowl; stir in the 1 teaspoon granulated sugar: Sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well.

Meantime, sift the all-purpose flour, the 3 tablespoons granulated sugar and salt together into a large bowl. Cut shortening in finely. Beat egg yolks well; stir in lukewarm milk and yeast mixture. Make a well in dry ingredients, add liquids and mix thoroughly, adding a little more flour, if necessary, to make a soft dough. Grease top — cover bowl and refrigerate overnight.

Next day, punch down dough, turn out on lightly floured board or canvas and knead until smooth. Divide dough into 4 equal portions; shape each portion into a smooth ball. Combine raisins, pecans, dates, brown sugar, cinnamon and strawberry jam. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Roll out one ball of dough into a thin rectangle 8 x 14 inches; spread with a quarter of the beaten egg whites and a quarter of the fruit mixture. Beginning at a 14-inch edge, roll up jelly-roll fashion. Pinch seam to seal and turn ends under. Repeat with remaining balls of dough and filling. Arrange the rolls, seam sides down, well apart on greased cookie sheets. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about ½ hour. Bake in a hot oven (400 deg. F.) until tops are firm when tapped — 30 to 35 minutes. Cool slightly on cake racks, then frost with the following Butter Cream Frosting and sprinkle with chopped pecans. Serve sliced, warm or cold.

Butter Cream Frosting

2 Tablespoons butter or margarine, 1½ cups once-sifted icing sugar, 2 tablespoons (about) milk, cream or undiluted evaporated milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Cream butter or margarine until soft; gradually blend in icing sugar alternatively with sufficient milk (about 2 tablespoons), cream or undiluted evaporated milk to make an icing of spreading consistency; stir in vanilla.

Comeau - Clattenburg

The marriage of Miss Dilley Clattenburg and Mr Douglas Comeau took place in St. John the Evangelist Church, Montreal, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Harold Hertzler, on Monday, June 1.

The bride was dressed in white and carried a white prayer book with an orchid. She was attended by her sister, Miss Janet Clattenburg, who wore a powder blue dress with white accessories, and carried a nosegay of tiny roses and carnations.

A small reception was held at the home of the bridegroom, after which the happy couple left for Toronto.

Successful artist exhibits shortly at St. Andrews hall

Ruth Tomlinson Wilson, who has been invited by the Argenteuil Art Association to exhibit some of her paintings at the municipal hall in St. Andrews East, July 4-12, has a number of friends in this neighborhood, some of whom have known her since childhood. She is the daughter of the late George H. Tomlinson, D.C.L., who with his family spent a few years in Hawkesbury carrying on the pulp and paper research work for which he received wide recognition. Ruth was educated in Hawkesbury, in Montreal and at McGill University.

Mrs. Wilson commenced her art studies with A. Sherriff Scott, working in his studio and attending his summer classes at Georgeville, Que. She studied at the Marguerite Bourgeois Convent, also with James MacCorkindale, A.R.C.A., and Fritz Bradtner. Her work has been recognized at the Spring Exhibitions of the Montreal Museum, also at the Arts Club exhibition. Later she became interested in the Education Department of the Montreal Museum, and under Dr. Arthur Lismer, R.C.A., completed his Teacher Training Course which has received an international reputation.

In 1954 she broke away from her Montreal interests and joined a group travelling in Europe, a "Music and Art Tour". This offered wide opportunity for studying the treasures of the great museums on the Continent. Following that summer she decided on further study in London, studying at the Chelsea Art School and the Polytechnic, where she took a course in Stage Decor. The latter led to increasing interest in figure painting which calls for keen observation of groups in motion. Some of her work with Folk Dancers and Children's Celebrations has received favorable comment, and will be shown at the coming exhibition.

In London she spent two years studying portraiture with Middleton Todd, R.A., and had the encouragement of exhibiting at the Royal Institute, Piccadilly. This portrait of "Sumanee", daughter of the Ambassador of Siam to Viet Nam, is included in the collection brought to Canada and has been exhibited in Montreal.

The French art magazine, La Revue Moderne, devoted space to Mrs. Wilson's work, giving three illustrations as examples of her skill. On a visit to Canada in 1957 she painted a portrait of her father which was shown to many of his colleagues at that time, and since his death last year is especially valued.

Ruth Tomlinson Wilson was elected member of the Chelsea Art Society in London, England, and exhibited eight paintings in their exhibitions, including two portraits which were shown after she returned to Canada.

When she was called away from Europe last summer, she was painting at The Hague, where she was the guest of Cornelie M. Gremers, the former owner of one of the Dutch art galleries, and some flower paintings completed in that land of flowers will be included in the coming exhibition.

In recent months Mrs. Wilson has been represented at the Women's Art Society annual exhibition in Montreal Museum, the Art Association exhibition at Cornwall, Ont., and the spring show of the Independent Art Society in Montreal, also at exhibitions arranged in Westmount at St. Matthias Church and Dominion Douglas Church.

Chemical Institute Hawkesb'y group elects officers

The annual meeting of the Hawkesbury Section of the Chemical Institute of Canada was held at the Abenaki Golf and Country Club, with Dr. J. Kalisch as acting chairman.

The treasurer's report was read by Mr. Reid McIntyre, and John Kalisch presented the Chairman's Report on the Section's activities during the preceding year.

On behalf of the Scholarship Committee, Mr. F. G. Hurtbise reported that the Hawkesbury Section would agaain sponsor the Prescott-Argenteuil Industrial Scholarship, with a value of $500.

Last year's winner was Miss Jean Taylor of Lachute. (Examinations were held on May 30.)

Mr. Hurtubise recounted that a 32-hour lecture course in elementary chemistry had been presented for laboratory technicians in the area. Approximately 40 persons in the Brownsburg-Hawkesbury-Kilmar area had attended. It is planned to give a second course starting next September.

The nominating committee presented a slate of officers for 1959-60, with Dr. D. B. Mutton, of Hawkesbury, as chairman; Dr. D. R. Henderson, Hawkesbury, secretary; and J. Bradley, Kilmar, treasurer. The slate was duly elected.

Form Lions Club at St. Eugene, Ont.

At a meeting held recently in St. Eugene, Ont., the local businessmen decided to go ahead with plans to form a Lions Club. To date a total of 25 citizens from St. Eugene and area have joined as charter members.

The Alexandria Lions Club are sponsors of the new St. Eugene group.

LEGION NOTES

Branch 70 Correspondent

Attention, teen-agers and parents! Due to pressure of numerous other activities and the fact the June examinations are near at hand, it has been decided to discontinue the Friday Night Teen-Age Dance (Club 70) for the remainder of this season. It is regrettable that earlier notice could not be given. However, by now all members of this dance club will have been informed.

Branch 70 was very pleased with the success of this venture for the '58-59 season. A little closer control on those allowed admittance, and a lot of co-operation from some fine youngsters, made the effort very worthwhile. Much credit is due to Com. Doug Ogilvie, chairman of this venture, and his assisting comrades.

A District Legion Golf Tournament is now a certainty, with Branch 70, Lachute, as its sponsor. Com. Jim Duncan (who incidentally has been named a director of Desrosiers Automobiles Inc., Lachute) is organizing this affair. In announcing this tournament, to be held at the St. Andrews Golf Club on August 23, Jim pointed out that he expects a fairly heavy turnout. Invitations are going out to all branches in this District, requesting attendance by members, friends and Ladies' Auxiliaries. This is to be a mixed affair; a buffet lunch will be served, and it is expected to be a full day!

Comrade R. MacLean has announced the appointment of Com. R. Demerse to the office of secretary for the District Council. The newly elected group will meet shortly to prepare a program for this year's activities, and an agenda for the next regular meeting of the Council.

Members and friends, please take note that the third and final series of Free Adult Anti-Polio Vaccinations will be given at a clinic to be held in the Legion Hall, Lachute, on Thursday, September 17. Please see details on another page, and watch this newspaper and L'Argenteuil for further announcements. . . . Com. B. A. Jenkins is chairman of this activity.

Re-wiring of the Legion Memorial Hall is progressing. The basement has now been completed, including installation of new fixtures. New fixtures of a more attractive and efficient type are making an appearance in the upstairs.

Well, for more information on progress of the Lachute Fair plans. It is hoped that Saturday afternoon and evening will be the big day on the grandstand. In addition to pipe-band and highland dancers, members hope to bolster their show with other attractions. The possibility of including the Shriners' Oriental Band is being explored, although there is nothing definite on this as yet. Work is shaping up on the horse drawing contest, and an early start will no doubt insure a packed stand for this event, as was the case last year. Com. President Tom Smith requested assistance for the Ladies' Auxiliary, Branch 70, on the sale of tickets at the Fair Grounds for the drawing. They will no doubt turn in their usual fine performance in this connection. For those interested, prizes for the drawing are now on display in the Main Street window of Gatineau Power Company, by courtesy of Mr. J. R. Carreau, manager.

Lest We Forget

June 5, 1940 — Battle of France began. By June 14, Germans entered Paris. Two days later French withdrew from the Maginot Line.

June 6, 1944 — "D" Day. Allies invade Hitler's Europe. More than 140,000 British, American and Canadian troops hit Normandy. The Canadian Navy formed part of 40,000 ship armada, while thousands of Canadian airmen flew as part of the 11,000-plane aerial shield.

See you next week!

SUMMER WITHOUT JOY

Thousands of Canadians get no joy out of summer. For them it means sleepless nights and agonizing hours gasping for breath. Many are forced to spend their vacations in bed, so oppressive is the pollen-filled air of summer — for victims of bronchial asthma.

Even the coming of autumn brings no relief to some sufferers. Dr. Robert P. McCombs, professor of postgraduate medicine at Boston's Tufts University, reports that worry and emotional upsets can trigger asthma attacks just as serious as those caused by pollen. Indeed, in many cases anxiety is directly linked with the disease.

Fortunately, asthma attacks — even those aggravated by anxiety — can often be controlled with modern drugs. One of the newest developments, for example, combines a tranquilizer with a hormone. The drug is designed to relieve the annoying symptoms of asthma and, at the same time, ease the patient's fears.

Doctors caution against placing heavy, dust-catching rugs in the bedrooms of asthma patients. Instead of waxing floors, gloss them with furniture polish mixed with mineral oil to keep down the dust.

Try to maintain room temperature near 70 degrees. Keep the air moist with a vaporizer or steam kettle. Doctors often advise asthma patients to eat light, easily-digested foods during acute attacks because heavy foods hamper breathing.

Centennial plans for July 10-18 at Hawkesbury

From July 10 to 18, the Town of Hawkesbury will celebrate the 100th anniversary of its founding. The Centennial Committee, under Mayor Rosaire Gascon, is planning a full program.

Mr. M. C. B. Assaly, president of the Centennial Committee, and Mr. Rhéal Landriault, co-ordinator, have announced the following activities planned:

A popularity contest will include six young ladies of the town — the winner being the one who sells, of has sold in her name, the most tickets on the $5,000 draw for a station wagon, boat, trailer and outboard motor.

The band committee, under the direction of Léo Bedard, has arranged for participation by bands of the Royal Canadian Navy, the Royal Artillery, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the Royal Canadian Air Force and a local organization under the direction of Bruno Deschambault.

On the last evening of the Centennial the winner of the beard-growing contest will be announced by Marcel Gelineau, and a number of worthwhile prizes will be distributed.

All indications point to a successful celebration with activities to satisfy every taste.

No-Fix Ticket Systems

By
ARTHUR T. VANDERBILT
Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey

The courts having jurisdiction over violations of our traffic laws play an important part in the concentrated efforts now being made to increase the safety of our streets and highways. Last year of the approximately 70 million licensed drivers in this country, some 20 million were ticketed for alleged violations. In New Jersey alone our municipal courts handled 990,901 traffic matters and collected $5,954,899 in fines and costs from erring drivers. The traffic courts, coming as they do in direct contact with such a large percentage of the population, have become by all odds the most important courts in our judicial system. On them rests the primary responsibility for developing in our citizenry that respect for law which lies at the very foundation of effective traffic law enforcement and on which in the last analysis all of our democratic institutions depend. It is therefore difficult to understand why in many jurisdictions so little attention has been given to the traffic courts and why every proven device to increase their stature and effectiveness has not been utilized.

Perhaps the most common and damnifying criticism of traffic courts has been that so many people have found it possible to evade answering a traffic summons by the well-known political process of having it "fixed" so that the matter will never come up in court. In a nationwide survey of traffic courts made a number of years ago unquestioned evidence of ticket-fixing was found in 39 out of 76 cities covered. In one out of every four cities visited the lag in traffic law enforcement was directly traceable to this insidious practice.

70 million licensed drivers . . . 20 million ticketed for alleged violations.

Generally tickets are fixed without the knowledge of the police officer who served the summons or of the judge who should have heard the case. How it is done is one of the mysteries of modern American life, known only to the politically initiated. It is a vice, however, that is readily cured, as has been demonstrated in New Jersey, by the use of simple uniform non-fixable traffic violations ticket. The police officer makes out the ticket in quadruplicate with the aid of carbon paper. The original goes to the traffic court, one copy goes to the police headquarters, one is retained by the police officer who made it out, and one is handed to the offender. All books of tickets are issued to law enforcement officers by the court and must be accounted for.

This kind of ticket cannot be fixed without the active aid of three public officials — the judge, the police chief and the issuing officer. After weighing the slim chances of success against the very real dangers of failure, few offenders consider it worth their while even to try. That the ticket a non-fixable in practice as well as in theory is amply demonstrated by the experience in Newark, the largest city in New Jersey. In the first four months the new ticket was in use only 607 were not disposed of in court — and most of these had been issued to non-residents who did not intend to return to the state — whereas in the corresponding four months the year before 14,529 tickets were not responded to.

Proper respect for the law . . . foundation of accident prevention.

The introduction in New Jersey of the uniform non-fixing traffic ticket by rule of court was violently opposed by many police chiefs and some prominent citizens, but significantly not by the policemen. A spokesman for their association described it as "an Emancipation Proclamation and a Declaration of Independence for the patrolman." Oddly, despite its demonstrated success and the endorsement and support of the Conference of Chief Justices, the Conference of Governors, and the American Bar Association, as well as other organizations interested in promoting traffic safety through the improvement of traffic law enforcement, the uniform non-fixable traffic ticket has not caught on. New Jersey is the only state where its use on a statewide basis has been made mandatory, although it is in use in a large part of New York, many cities in Michigan and in scattered cities in some 25 other states.

The time has long since arrived when every city and state should put an end once and for all to the vicious practice of ticket-fixing. The means are at hand. All that is now needed is the will to do something about it and a day or two of courage while the beneficiaries of the old order are bewailing their loss.

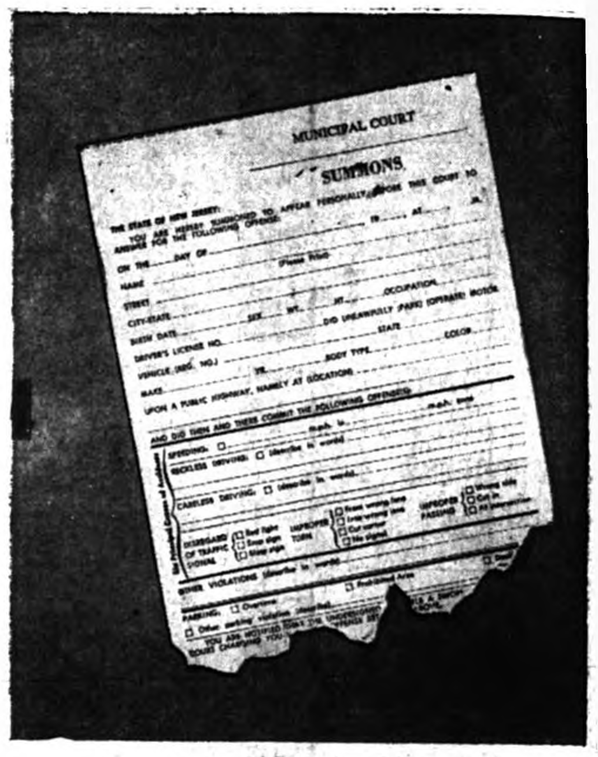

The next article, "Traffic Safety: No one-man Job," is written by Rear Admiral H. B. Miller, Director of the U.S. President's Committee for Traffic Safety.

Scofflaws are responsible for a large percentage of accidents.

Will this driver succeed in fixing a ticket?

"The kind of ticket that cannot be fixed."

Financial aid for Community Park

Presenting the Brownsburg - Lachute Rotary Club vice-president elect, Bob Wyse, with a cheque for $535.16 at last Thursday's dinner meeting, is Mrs. Ethel M. McGibbon, representing the former Lachute Ladies' Aquatic Society. Left to right are Mrs. Geo. Y. Deacon, Mrs. G. G. Surprise gesture aids Rotary in Community Park finances

The table was pleasantly turned at last Thursday evening's Rotary Club dinner, when three local ladies representing the now defunct Lachute Ladies' Aquatic Society presented the organization with a cheque for $535.16. The presentation was made by Mrs. George McGibbon to vice-president-elect Bob Wyse; she was accompanied to the meeting by Mrs. Geo. Y. Deacon and Mrs. G. G. Mitchell.

In making the presentation, Mrs. McGibbon gave the history of this one-time active group, stating, "The fund was started some 15 years ago by a group of public-spirited women who felt Lachute badly needed a year-round swimming pool, with the hopes the various service clubs and the community at large would support their project.

"Your group is working in the interests of swimming and water safety and the ladies of the Lachute Ladies' Aquatic Society feel that the money raised should no longer be held but put to use. The general consensus of opinion was that no one would put it to better use than the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club, who we feel should be highly commended for the excellent community service they render in furnishing the County with such a park and swimming area.

"I would, on behalf of the Society, like to thank all those who in the past have made donations to this fund and it is our express wish that this donation of $535.16 will be used for an artificial wading pool and a place for tots to play. It is our hope that this donation will be an inspiration for other organizations and local Councils to help Rotary carry on such a worthwhile project."

The lady guests were introduced by Rotarian Wes Freeland, who gave the history of the Park, starting in 1945 when it was a matter of talk, to 1950 when it was carried into operation, the land being rented for the first year. "It has come from a mud hole lined with trees to its present state, all due to a lot of effort and work on the part of Rotarians and other interested persons. We have sold tickets on everything from washing machines to cars, and now we're selling them on wrestlers! Our equipment and buildings have been damaged by vandals, and at times we have all been discouraged. Our equipment is increasing every year and the maintenance is climbing up to the thousand-dollar mark for each year's operation. It gives us a great boost to know we are being encouraged in our work and that our efforts are being appreciated."

In thanking the committee for their generous donation, Bob Wyse, vice-president-elect, stated: "This cheque is accepted on behalf of the Rotarians, who have given so much of their time, energy and interest in the park project, which has become a reality due to the close co-operation of the local citizens."

The meeting was then adjourned, after which the members gathered at the park and a "work night" was held prior to the official season's opening.

LACHUTE SPRING FAIR 1959 IN SWING

Annual event declared open by Hon. W. M. Cottingham

The Lachute Spring Fair opens today (Wednesday) with an official send-off by the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Minister of Mines, who declares the exhibition open in an informal function at 11 a.m. at the main gate. In attendance will be the president, Erskine W. Rodger, and a number of the directors and leading citizens.

This, according to best authority, is the 133rd annual event in the 134-year history of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society. (There was at least one omission within present recollection, when the annual exhibition was abandoned due to war-time stringency.) During this long history, the local exhibition has become one of the largest and best-known fairs in Canada.

Secretary-manager Ken Riley is really enthusiastic about his entry list, which features some interesting competition in the livestock breeds; also in the industrial shows, for which there has been a record demand for space. President Erskine Rodger speaks highly of the cattle entries, and states there will be over 250 head for the big Ayrshire and Holstein Day on Friday. Cattle will be paraded in the ring Thursday and Friday evenings. Saturday will be the 4-H Calf Club's big occasion, when exhibiting and judging of calves will take place and notables are expected from the Montreal Kiwanis who give special encouragement to this activity, with coveted awards.

The main building this year is featuring a spectacular display from the Quebec Department of Mines, described with pictures elsewhere in these pages. The display comes direct from the International Trade Fair in the Show Mart, where it was used for the first time. Exhibits of special interest to women-folk and home-makers appear, as usual, on the second floor of this building.

King Reid shows are setting up their mammoth midway as this preview is written. There are two ferris wheels, and such a variety of shows and amusements as will provide something to appeal to everyone, both young and old.

Before the grandstand will be the horse shows, featuring some of the finest mounts, drivers and draught animals in the whole of Eastern Canada and neighboring states.

In addition to this attraction, the service clubs have gone all out to make the evenings gay with entertainment around the grandstand.

Change of Program

The Rotary Club's Thursday evening schedule originally called for the Midget Wrestlers. However, word was received Friday that "Little Beaver" had suffered an injury, and this event was unavoidably cancelled. J. René Laurin and Dow Breweries, sponsors of the wrestlers on behalf of the Rotary Club, immediately lined up a mat program featuring three bouts — Edouard Carpentier vs Frank Valois in the main 2-out-of-3 event; Larry Moquin vs. Romain Cernandez; and Bernard Vignal vs. Tony Angello in the semi-finals.

In addition to the wrestling, contestants will be welcomed for the Slippery Pole Contest, a $10 prize being awarded to those who reach the top of the greased pole; also for the Fiddlers' Contest, in which entries to date have been received from Ottawa, Maxville, Como, Bell Falls and Fournier. Prize money for the winners in this event will also be awarded, and post entries will be accepted. Additional information may be obtained from Rotarians George Desfosses (LO 2-5221) or Jack MacKimmie (LO 2-2422). Reserved-seat tickets are available.

Friday evening is under Lions Club auspices, when the crowd-thrilling hypnotist, Le Grand Robert, will stage an amusing spectacle and one to convince all skeptics. This unusual performance is brought back by popular request; Le Grand Robert made a sure hit with the grandstand crowd last year at this same exhibition.

Saturday is Legion Day, opening in the afternoon with an impressive parade. The Legion have gone all-out with special bands, highland dancers and other attractions climaxed by the popular horse-pulling contest — all described more adequately in the Legion column this week (page 9).

This fills a complete bill of entertainment in which the local public are showing added interest each year — thanks to wider participation and enthusiasm. It should need no emphasis, that popular support and a big attendance will repay this community in terms of charity and service work, providing funds for these worthy outlets of endeavor.

A timely exhibit is shown for the public interest by Leonard Bedard, distributor for Molson's. This is a scale replica of the steamship "Accommodation", the first steam vessel built in Canada, by John Molson of the pioneer shipbuilding firm. The boat plied between Montreal and Quebec, and it inaugural 150 years ago is of special historic interest in view of the St. Lawrence Seaway opening this year. The exhibit is shown in a panel truck.

Two in hospital after crash at 16 Island Lake

Two St. Sauveur residents were taken to the Hotel Dieu Hospital, St. Jerome, late Sunday evening following an accident at 16 Island Lake, when the car in which they were driving swerved out of control and struck a large rock on a curve at the foot of a hill.

Injured and in serious condition are Denis Guenette, 24, and his 36-year-old brother, Roger, both of St. Sauveur. The car was driven by Robert Robson, 33, also of St Sauveur, and a fourth passenger, Rosaire Forget, 32, of Morin Heights, escaped injury.

The 1953-model sedan was demolished in the accident, which was investigated by Traffic Officer Paul Perrier.

Two-tenement building at St. Philippe razed by fire

Joint efforts by firemen from Lachute, Brownsburg, St. Andrews East, Calumet and Hawkesbury saved the village of St. Philippe from being wiped out early Sunday morning, restricting the flames to a comparatively small area. A double tenement building housing 11 persons was demolished, along with a garage, in the fire that kept local firemen on the scene for five hours.

At premises situated in the centre of the village, opposite the Catholic Church the fire started in a building owned by Jean-Lys St. Denis and occupied by Paul Lamarche and Paul Jodoin. A garage owned by the Laframboise family, hotelkeepers, was also demolished.

The fire was discovered around 2.45 a.m. Sunday. The Lachute brigade was the first to arrive on the scene, but at this stage nothing could be done to halt the fire. Their equipment remained at the Laframboise Hotel, some distance from the actual fire, and with the arrival of the Brownsburg Department, a successful attempt was made to save the house on the other side of the blaze, owned by Lawrence Derouin. The Derouins managed to get all their possessions out of the house, while Mr. Lamarche succeeded in saving only a few items. The other occupant of the gutted building, Mr. Jodoin, was absent at the time of the fire, and lost all his possessions in the dwelling.

Citizens supplemented the water supply of the booster tank by filling pails and buckets and carrying them some distance to the trucks.

A high wind fanned the flames during the early course of the fire, threatening a portion of the village.

Result shows marked upturn in Concert members

An executive meeting of the Community Concerts Association, held last Wednesday in the office of Simon Valois, president, heard a gratifying report on the recent membership campaign — the enrolment of over 450 members representing a considerable increase over last year.

Mr. Leo Bernache, representative of Columbia Artists Corporation, was present from Ottawa, and a contract was signed for three interesting programs in the 1959-60 season — particulars and dates of which will be announced, when duly confirmed by headquarters in New York.

A special vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Jacques Bedard for his secretarial role in the campaign, also to Mrs. Jacques Bedard, the campaign chairman, and Mrs. Don Titman, co-chairman.

Pipe band from Harrington makes debut at Fair

Harrington — Some two years ago, Coral Young of this community approached Mr. John Collie of Montreal, who had previously taught his son Gilbert, concerning the forming of a pipe band in the Harrington and Kilmar district. Eight boys were enrolled in February 1957, when Mr. Collie graciously consented to teach them, with the assistance of Gilbert Young. Mr. Collie is a former member of the Royal Canadian Black Watch. Then, with the able assistance of Mr. Victor Bell, former sergeant and a member of the Black Watch for 35 years, a drum corps was organized. Pipes and drums were bought, and later highland dress uniforms were purchased of the MacTavish tartan from Edinburgh, Scotland. After two years of perseverance and fine co-operation, this group has progressed considerably, and they will be making their debut at the Lachute Fair.

The ages of these boys range from 13 to 17, and they are organized under Gilbert Young, acting Pipe-Major in the absence of Mr. Collie.

The band is grateful also to the Harrington School Board for their kindness in allowing them to meet at the school for their practices during the past two years.

3rd Polio clinic at Brownsburg

Brownsburg — On Tuesday, June 23, the third and final anti-polio vaccination clinic for Brownsburg area adults, will be held at the Brownsburg Legion Hall from 3 to 4 in the afternoon and 7.30 to 8.30 in the evening. This clinic will be for those who have already attended the two previous clinics.

The vaccine is made available free of charge by the Provincial Department of Health, in co-operation with the Quebec Chapter of the Canadian Foundation for Poliomyelitis, which is sponsored by the Canadian Legion Quebec Command.

Local chairman of this clinic is R. R. Summers, of the Brownsburg Legion.

Graduated in Journalism

Miss Heather Rodger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Rodger of Lachute Road and a former graduate of Lachute High School, has just completed a Journalism course at the University of Western Ontario. Keener interest in town business with debut of new B'burg Council

(Intended for last issue)

Brownsburg — The June 1 meeting of the Brownsburg Council established a modern-day attendance record, as over 40 visitors crowded into the room intent on finding out who the next Police Chief would be. They were disappointed however, as Council was faced with an unprecedented 14 applications. With requested salaries ranging from $3,400 plus car expenses to $5,500, and varied qualifications and experience to discuss Mayor René Lafleur tabled the subject for further debate and asked that the councillors meet again on Thursday evening.

The police report submitted by Philippe Paquette, who had been acting Chief Constable during the month, listed five fines levied for speeding and two for parking offences.

Since this was the first meeting of the new Council, Mayor Lafleur wasted no time in assigning department responsibilities to the members. Councillors Ernest Gagné and Roger Raymond will head up the Police department, Georges Therrien and Fern Brisson will be in charge of Roads, and Keith Graham and Ernest Legault will look after the problems pertaining to sewer and water supplies. Councillor Georges Therrien was elected pro-mayor for a period of one year (possibly an indication of things to come).

Council approved payment of monthly vouchers amounting to $1,180.57 along with an additional $1,634 as payment for asphalt and surveying of Maple Avenue South. The selection of three evaluators for the town also shaped up as a subject which might require some deliberation, so this too was tabled for a later meeting. . . .

When the meeting was resumed on Thursday, the large crowd of interested persons again jammed into the council chamber, but due to the heat of the evening the meeting moved to the gym.

Richard Bell, presently serving on the Lachute police force, was given the position of Police Chief in Brownsburg. Since his appointment, he has been active in both Lachute and Brownsburg but was to assume full-time duty here June 11.

Those interested in such things generally agree that speeding has definitely increased since Richard Gagnon vacated the post here, and that every effort should be made to get back to the point where speed is controlled. To do this, it may be that the new Chief will have to duplicate or even surpass former Chief Gagnon's totals of 10 - 20 speeding fines each month. Credit where credit is due — Richard had control of the traffic in this town.

The question of evaluators came up for considerable discussion and resulted in the jobs being given to Ernest Ouellette, James Donaldson and Stanley Thompson.

Council also made arrangements to have another meeting on Monday evening to further consider the question of evaluation procedure, and to make the final approval inspection of Woodbine Avenue.

Emergency ended with completion of conduit

In laying the new water main, the first span of White's Bridge was crossed early last week. The pipes may be seen immediately under the bridge, suspended above the scaffolding. Monday evening of this week saw the job completed as far as pipe-laying was concerned — the contractors waiting only for one connection before the switch-over to the new main. With this transfer, the emergency which has been confronting the town for the past month was removed, and the water pressure returned to its customary level. — Photo, Syd Drew

Anti-polio shots, third of series, on September 17

Due to very heavy schedules ahead of the immunization teams working for the Canadian Foundation for Poliomyelitis throughout the province, it has been decided that the third and final free adult anti-polio shots will be made available at the Legion Hall, Lachute, on Thursday, September 17 next.

Mr. Alex Solomon, director of the Legion-sponsored Quebec Chapter, pointed out, when setting this date, that third shots should be given from seven months to a year after the second injection. This booster shot is given to provide maximum protection, and vaccination is not complete without all three shots.

Second shots were given to adults in Lachute on October 20, 1958, and the date now scheduled for the final clinic in this series at Lachute is considered to be very satisfactory as far as effectiveness is concerned. Salk vaccine will be provided free of charge to the local industries participating in this immunization program, also on the above date. These include Ayers Limited, J. C. Wilson Limited and Dominion Ayers Wood Products.

3-Year term for jewelry robbery at Hawkesbury

Hawkesbury — L'Abbe's Jewellery Store was robbed of six watches and nine rings valued at $441.95, on Saturday, May 30. Unluckily for the "unwelcome night visitor", this time he was apprehended. He was Paul Emile Allard, of R.R. 2, Lachute.

Mr. L'Abbé was working in the kitchen of his home at the rear of the combined jewellery store and a shop owned by Mrs. L'Abbé (Créations Rollande) when he heard a noise resembling a fallen object. Thinking that it was his wife who might have accidentally dropped something, he asked her what was the cause of it. She told him that it seemed to her to have come from the hat store. Finding nothing amiss in the hat shop Mr. L'Abbé crossed quickly to the jewellery section of the store. There he found the thief hard at work. He left the building in a hurry but Mr. L'Abbé gave chase. He later gave up and alerted the police, who apprehended the culprit after firing a shot in the air. Constables Réal Villeneuve and Lionel Montpetit caught the fleeing thief after a long chase.

Arraigned in court on June 1, Allard pleaded guilty before Justice Léopold Lalonde, and was subsequently sentenced to three years in Kingston penitentiary.

Says Carillon to commence in early August

It is stated by the Eastern Ontario Review "on authoritative and reliable sources" that the date for official start of the Carillon Dam will be announced about the middle of July. The two contractors who are to build the project have also been named.

Policeman and knife-wielder land in hospital

A provincial police officer suffered a knife wound and the man he sought to arrest received two bullet wounds in the leg last Thursday night following a fracas on the highway near St. Jerome. Both were taken to the St. Jerome hospital; neither was in a serious condition.

Police said Roger Maille, Mayor of St. Antoine des Laurentides, reported he was struck by a man. Officers Richard Muselle and Jean Claude Vaillancourt were detailed to detain the suspect who had left St. Antoine by bus. The officers overtook the bus and approached the suspect as he alighted.

Police said the man drew a knife and attacked Muselle, who fired a shot which struck him in the leg. The suspect stabbed Muselle on the right side and knocked him to the ground. Muselle shot again and the bullet hit the man in the same leg.

Theme, movement conveyed by artist to exhibit here

(Specially contributed)

"The best work in art is never paid for. Only bitter bread and salt, and going up and down other people's stairs. . . . "

I wish I knew the origin of these despairing lines — undoubtedly some disillusioned artist. . . . Certainly they would appear to have little application to Ruth Tomlinson Wilson, the painter, but she would agree she had trodden many, many stairs during the years she has studied and worked abroad. It might be mentioned, however, that Ruth Wilson's bread was stale rather than bitter, because this hard working painter was much too busy to invest in a bread box for her London studio — such material possessions as bread boxes are unimportant in Chelsea anyway. The things that are important in the life of this particular artist can be seen and felt in her paintings — her love of movement, color and rhythm. At the present time, paintings of the "Which-Way-Up-Is-It?" School are having a certain run of popularity, and it is rather refreshing to discover we still have artists who paint with enjoyment, to give enjoyment to others. . . This enjoyment will be shared by visitors at the Argenteuil Art Association exhibit by Mrs. Wilson. (See Coming Events, page 6.)

Ruth Wilson's studies in movement are specially appealing, and the painting of "The Morpeth Rant", an English folk dance, has, in common with most of her work, a story behind it. While visiting with the English Folk Dancing Society at Scarborough, Ruth Wilson was so charmed by the gay and colorful scene, that she captured it on canvas, with the enchanting result. Not content with learning the intricate steps in order to portray the dance more accurately, Ruth Wilson, with characteristic thoroughness, also undertook to learn to play the recorder, an instrument frequently used as an accompaniment. However, she ruefully confesses that her playing, as yet, leaves much to be desired.

New Year's Eve at the famous Chelsea Arts Ball, depicts another gay scene of movement and color, and the artist's own enjoyment is vividly expressed.

"Children's Masquerade" shows a tender appreciation of childish delight in fancy dress. Ballet lovers will recognize Act II of "Coppelia" with the animated dolls, set in motion by naughty Swanhilda; this painting has a dream-like quality, in keeping with the fairy-tale atmosphere of the ballet, and was sketched at an actual performance in Montreal, by permission of the National Ballet Company.

In somewhat different vein "Paris Flower Carts" will arouse nostalgic memories for many. One can almost see the skirts of the young girls blowing in the breeze, and the flowers nodding.

Opportunities for the May Court Ball picture presented themselves while on a visit to Ottawa. An almost disastrous incident occurred while Ruth Wilson was waiting in a hotel lobby to sketch the chorus in rehearsal, when she was practically crushed by a well-wined and dined passer-by, who tripped and collapsed heavily into her lap. This sort of thing is merely an occupational hazard to Ruth Wilson and, nothing daunted, she picked herself up, got busy with her sketchbook and produced the colorful study of the chorus.

"I never know what interesting meeting, or opportunity, each day will bring," declares Ruth Wilson, and it is undoubtedly this cheerful optimism, combined with rare humor, a trained eye and a genuine interest in other people as individuals, that enables her to portray her subject with such feeling. And it is this feeling, life and movement in Ruth Tomlinson Wilson's paintings which attracts and holds the eye — life and movement put there by an artist with an obvious enjoyment of the world around her and those who share it.

Country League softball games

Dalesville softball team, with only seven players, won their second game of the season, beating Lake Dawson by a score of 6 to 3. Brilliant pitching by Stan Alexander, and spectacular plays by the other six members of the team, made interesting competition.

Next week-end Dalesville meets Brownsburg Royals, in Brownsburg, and Lake Dawson meets Lake Sir John, at Lakefield.

Lachute W. Inst. June meeting held at Dalesv'l

The monthly meeting of the Lachute Branch of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. G. McGibbon in Dalesville, with Mrs. Archie Gordon presiding.

After the business meeting Mrs. F. A. Brennian, charter member and the first president of Lachute Branch, was called upon to present to Mrs. George McGibbon with a life membership pin. Mrs. McGibbon, who is leaving shortly for Scotland, is one of seven ladies from Quebec Province chosen to attend the convention of the Associated Country Women of the World, to be held in Edinburgh. In making this presentation, Mrs. Brennian spoke of the services given by Mrs. McGibbon, a long-standing member of the branch.

The program was under the convenership of Mrs. Edgar Pollock, who introduced two guests, Mrs. N. E. Smillie and Mrs. C. Stephens of Brownsburg, who recently attended short courses, including handicrafts, sewing machine lessons, horticulture, silver craft, and nutrition.

Mrs. Stephens gave an interesting account of these courses and showed some silver work she had made.

Mrs. Smillie spoke on the care of gardens, house plants, lawns and shrubs. She also gave an interesting talk on healthful diet and nutrition, making comparison between eating habits of the present day and those of several years ago. Mrs. Smillie recalled the transportation difficulties and living hardships experienced by the rural people in these parts, and spoke of the many changes made over the past years.

Mrs. Pollock moved a vote of thanks to the guest speakers, after which a social hour was spent over afternoon tea.

"New spirit" in Farm Forum seen at conf'ce

"There is a new life and a new spirit in Farm Forum." . . . With those words, Dr. H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and chairman of National Farm Radio Forum opened the 18th National Conference, marking the beginning of the 20th year of Farm Forum in Canada.

The conference, held at Pine Lodge, Bristol, Que., on June 8-9, featured such eminent speakers as Dr. J. Roby Kidd, director of the Canadian Association for Adult Education; Dr. Ralph Staples, president of the Co-operative Union of Canada; and Mr. W. G. Tilden, vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

The theme of the Conference, "How Can Farm Forum Help Agriculture Solve Its Problems?" was retained throughout. Dr. Staples outlined the service which Farm Forum has performed over the years and pointed out that great areas of development have not yet been explored. He challenged the gathering to pursue further the field of group opinion and its effect on the individual members.

Mr. Tilden summarized the problems which agriculture faces today and indicated some of the challenges which may face those engaged in this basic industry during years to come.

Dr. Kidd told the story of Adult Education in Canada. He showed how the past 25 years have changed the position of the Adult Educator entirely and how the public is being served today. Night schools, extension departments in universities, seminars and conferences have made continuous learning a fact, he said. Great strides in rural education must be made quickly, in order to make the normal adjustment of agriculture a less painful process, he warned. Dr. Kidd pointed out that entirely new techniques might be in order and that Farm Forum needs to be prepared for new duties.

Main Duck Island to Mrs. Dulles

New York (AP) — Main Duck Island, the retreat of the late U.S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles in Lake Ontario, now is the property of Mrs. Dulles.

All real estate owned by Mr. Dulles went to Mrs. Dulles under terms of his will, Arthur H. Dean, former law partner of Mr. Dulles, said. Mr. Dean said it had not been decided what disposition would be made of the island.

Mr. Dulles spent many happy vacations on the island, which lies on the Canadian side of the international boundary as it crosses Lake Ontario.

(This is the spot from which Bob Atchison, outdoor columnist for The Watchman, has been writing his interesting chronicles — this being the second season Mr. Atchison, accompanied by his wife, has served as custodian of the island.)

Protest against denial of religious liberty in Argentina

On Sunday, the Lachute congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses voiced their protest of treatment accorded their fellow-witnesses in the Argentine Republic. It was learned that Jehovah's Witnesses in Argentina have been denied constitutional rights of free assembly and worship. A vote of protest was taken by the local Witnesses and plans were discussed to petition the Argentine Republic to remove the restrictions against the Christian group's activities in that country.

Peter A. Rae, presiding minister here, said: "It seems that the present government of Argentina has made certain liberal advancements since the ousting of the dictatorial Peron Regime, but in spite of this there are still some non-Catholic religious groups formerly declared illegal by Peron that have not yet been recognized by Arturo Frondizi, the present constitutional leader. Two different applications for recognition by Jehovah's Witnesses have been denied by the "Ministry of Worship", a department of the government previously formed by Peron to control the registry of all non-Catholic religions in the country. In addition to this, two futile appeals have been made to the government of Argentina to rescind the order denying Jehovah's Witnesses the the right to register. The latest appeal was made by the Witnesses following a new decree signed by President Frondizi on February 6 last, whereby non-Catholic religions were to have full freedom to worship God as guaranteed by Article 14 of the Argentine Constitution."

Mr. Rae also said — "There are more than 6,000 Jehovah's Witnesses in Argentina and they are now circulating a petition to be presented to the President of the Argentine Republic requesting recognition of their right to worship under the new, liberal provision of his government."

Announcing the NEW BANK OF MONTREAL
Family Finance Plan
Bring all your personal credit needs under one roof
with a low-cost B of M life-insured loan
Here is the modern approach to finance the things you want to buy for your home and family . . . to take care of expenses for school, college, vacation and so on . . . and, of course, to meet emergencies.
The Bank of Montreal Family Finance Plan enables you to plan your purchases and helps you meet unexpected expenses under one single comprehensive plan.
Here are four good reasons why — whether single or married — you should use the Bank of Montreal Family Finance Plan . . .

"MY BANK" TO 2 MILLION CANADIANS B of M
1. All loans are automatically life-insured. Should you die before your loan is repaid, your debt to the Bank will be cancelled.
2. Monthly repayments can be extended up to two years — or even three, if need be. This means that FFP can be tailored to suit any salary.
3. You can borrow up to $3,500, depending on your income, to buy the things you want for your home and family, or to meet emergencies.
4. Planned repayments help you run your income — instead of letting it run you.
If you have a steady income and can make monthly loan-repayments without hardship, you can finance almost any useful purpose through the Bank of Montreal Family Finance Plan. Why not talk to the people at your neighbourhood B of M branch . . . you'll like their helpful attitude. Whether you are a B of M customer or not, you will find a warm welcome.

Learn the rules – practise them!

THIS IS National Water Safety Week. Recently, it seems almost every week is dedicated to observing something and we wonder if all this spotlighting of special subjects is necessary. . . Why not go back to the time when a week was nothing more than seven days of living?

No doubt some of these "weeks" we could do without. But when we consider this particular one, we realize that focusing attention on the need for caution in and on the water could mean the difference, for some of us, between days of living and a tragic death.

Therefore we are following the lead of the Canadian Red Cross Society in urging everyone to become water safety conscious, to learn the rules of conduct at beaches and on boats and to practise them diligently at all times.

We would like to believe that the people of this community are sensible enough to join in this water safety campaign without being pushed and coaxed. But human nature being what it is, we realize that too many of us are inclined to feel such accidents don't happen to our families. No doubt, the families of the more than one thousand persons who drowned in this country last year felt the same way.

After all, recreation in or on the water is like any other game. It has its own rules. If one does not know and follow these rules, he can expect to be a loser. But a loser in this game never has a chance to play again. Now is the time to make sure we know the rules.

We sincerely hope this warning will be taken to heart by our readers, so that our front pages, this summer, will carry a minimum of district drownings — or better still, none at all.

Water must be treated with respect. It can be a great friend, providing us with many pleasant hours of recreation, or it can be our worst enemy. Fatal accidents take only seconds of carelessness to happen. Sorrow lasts a long, long time.

Appalling waste of brain power

THIS IS THE TIME of year when many parents develop a worried look and begin an anxious search for ammunition to convince their teenagers to stay in school.

Through harried eyes, they watch their young man weigh the value of education against the thoughts of work and the ready cash which is within easy grasp at the nearest factory or other place of business. To obtain a job, money and the things it will buy, and to gain a new measure of independence in what appears to be an adult world, all the boy has to do is to make what he considers a small sacrifice — leave school. Too often the scales are tipped against education.

It is shocking when we consider that, every year, thousands of young Canadian men and women are willing to make this "small sacrifice". According to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics about 30 out of every 100 youngsters who enter school obtain their junior matriculation, and just 10 or 12 out of 100 receive their senior matriculation.

The staggering weight on the scale can be clearly pictured when we see that, under the above conditions, of the 430,000 pupils who enrolled in Grade I in all elementary schools in Canada in 1957, just 129,000 will obtain their junior matriculation and a mere 51,600 will successfully complete high school.

Our country cannot afford this appalling waste of brain power. We are living in a very complex age, and everything points to more complexity in the future. To be able to meet the challenges which this age presents, we must make full use of our most valuable asset — human resources.

A growing awareness of the need for more education is reflected in industry, where educational standards over the past 10 years have been becoming higher and higher. This trend is bound to continue. The job which is open today to the youngster with a Grade X education may be closed tomorrow to those at this level, and it may be that the young man or woman who has taken such a job has traded the future for a few dollars. The complex age which offers them so much now, may leave them behind in the future because they lack sufficient education to keep pace with it. It might be better to prepare for the demands of the future by obtaining more education today.

Most success stories in business and industry have one theme — the more education you have, the better chance you have of securing permanent employment and of being promoted to supervisory positions.

It is true that some men and women with comparatively little formal education hold high positions . . . but they are usually self-educated, a process which sometimes involves great personal sacrifice. Their number is diminishing, and they would be the first to admit that their road would have been easier if they had had more formal education. Moreover, it is almost certain that when they are hiring, they give serious consideration to the applicant's academic background.

"Stay in school" is just another adult phrase to a young person. However, in the adult world he or she is about to enter, it may take on a new meaning associated with regret. To avoid this as much as possible, it might be wise for the young man or woman who is determined to leave school to pause for a moment and analyse the prospective job. Perhaps they should ask themselves, "Where does it lead?" and "How far can I go in it with my present education?" If it is a dead-end job, it might be better to consider another line of work and then to ask the same questions again. Another year or two at school might open new doors to desirable job opportunities which are now out of reach.

Tornado menace

CONTROL OF tornadoes is still a dream, but weather scientists are ever more hopeful that man some day will conquer these twisting storms, a threat in spring and early summer that annually kills scores of people and causes millions of dollars in property damage.

The tornado, or twister, is a smaller and more intense cyclone, with a roaring sound like hundreds of airplanes. It may begin when a cool dry air mass moves over warm, moist surface air. Under certain conditions an updraft can set off a destructive whirling exchange of air.

In the path of a tornado trees have been ripped up by the roots, chickens plucked naked and streams sucked dry.

The worst tornado in United States history tore a path across Missouri, Indiana and Illinois in 1925, killing 689 persons and injuring 980. The town of Codell in western Kansas was hit three years in succession on the same date, May 20.

Over the years many of these twisters, and the larger cyclones, have caused deaths and damage in Canada. One at Regina in 1912 brought 35 deaths, and another at Windsor, Ont., and Detroit in 1946 resulted in 16 dead. Widespread damage was done by a tornado that smashed at Vita, Man., in 1955 when an infant was killed. One Sarnia blow that did widespread property damage in 1953 came only a month after a tornado in Sarnia and nearby areas of south-western Ontario resulted in five deaths.

There was heavy tornado damage also at Sherbrooke, Que., in 1949, at Smiths Falls, Ont., in 1948 and at Kamsack, Sask., in 1946.

So far there is no real defence against these vicious spinning winds, but new tools and techniques are providing better warnings, and advancing man's knowledge of their nature.

Weather experts have discussed the possibility of seeding clouds with rain-forming chemicals, to release the cloud energy before the deadly cone develops. There have been suggestions that airplanes might draw wires through the clouds to draw off their huge electrical charge, or that guided missiles be fired into tornadoes to dissipate their energy high above ground.

Meantime, about the only real defence against an approaching tornado is to get out of the way.

Viewpoints and perspectives

OFFICIALLY, summer begins this coming Sunday, and motorists can expect crowded highways because it will be the longest day of the year. The best manner in which to start this summer of 1959, is to resolve that you will be a cautious and prudent driver. It is useless to have wonderful highways, and powerful cars, if the motorist continues to show recklessness on the roads.

Unemployment a disease?

— By Lewis Milligan —

Labor Minister Michael Starr is seeking a new way of assessing the unemployment situation, and he is in a position that should enable him to present all the facts and come up with a realistic assessment. That might not solve the problem of unemployment, but it should at least clarify the situation and lead to a sane approach to its solution. Meanwhile I have been making a few inquiries among the unemployed, and I have received a letter from a middle-aged tradesman, a union member and a veteran of the last World War, who had to quit a good job at his trade because of a heart condition. He writes as follows:

"This is a question which should be assessed in the right light once and for all. In the first instance, no blame should be attached to any individual cabinet minister, or government for that matter. Canada is not alone with an unemployment problem. All countries in the industrial scheme of things are hit concurrently.

"There is a howl going out in a certain newspaper in England about the situation in Canada — how immigrants have been 'taken in' by moving to Canada. Why did they leave the old country? — Unemployment!

"Secondly, unemployment should be reclassified. Let's put it alongside some of the other scourges of mankind — heart disease, diabetes, cancer — something we have to learn to live with. Let's put it in a category whereby it will be an offence for a politician to kick it around. At present this kind of football is becoming a year-round political sport.

"Unemployment statistics should be available in a more broken-down form, rather than the flat statement way of presenting them. How about getting the facts by areas, urban and suburban; by part-time carpenter, part-time farmer, part-time butcher, etc.? Let's find out who the regulars are, and why. We will always have these types with us, along with certain ones on the available but not capable list, as well as the bona fide seasonal tradesman and laborer.

"Unemployment statistics should only include the actual persons making a sincere effort to secure work and unable to do so. If there is to be a new look at unemployment, let us decide first why we want a new look. If it is just for the sake of a political manoeuvre, let's forget about the whole thing. Outlaw the subject; ban it from the realm of controversy. It's a major incurable disease."

The writer of the above wishes to be anonymous. He spent several months under observation in a military hospital. The doctors advised him not to return to his trade, but to seek work that would not put a strain on his heart. That is an individual case of what may be called an industrial casualty, for which there is some provision. But what about the present situation in general and the periodic recurrence of unemployment — is that too a disease? The dictionary defines disease as, "Any morbid or depraved condition, moral, mental, social, political, etc." Personally, I think we are suffering from political neurosis, due to a morbid fear of social and industrial decline. We are forever feeling our pulse and taking our blood-pressure with the cost of living index and unemployment statistics, and the quack politicians are prescribing expensive tonics in the form of social securities, higher wages and fringe benefits, which only aggravate the disease.

Of Many Things

HOLD THAT LINE!

This morning my paper says that a CCF member of parliament made a speech in Ottawa, asking that his salary and that of other members be raised "at least 50%." The other political parties supported him, and there was general applause in parliament. There would be!

The Prime Minister, my paper says, listened thoughtfully but made no comment.

We who pay the bills can hope. We can hope that the PM was thinking of that "hold the line" speech he made in Winnipeg some while back. He has been talking tough to business and to labor about holding the line. And rightfully so. Perhaps he will also talk tough to members of parliament.

Members of parliament do pretty well. The pay seems high enough, at least, to encourage a good many candidates for the task of spending our money.

Aside from a mighty good salary and some attractive relief from the taxes they so ardently impose on the rest of us, they have other advantages, in transportation, meals, hair cuts and Lord knows what else.

The CCF member suggested that at $10,000 a year some of the members were suffering "hardships." Oh, brother, can you spare a grand? Or stake me to a suite at the Chateau for a fortnight?

While this spectacle of politicians boosting their own salaries may appear amusing, at first glance, it is a serious matter when you realize that they intend to go on doing just that. In Australia, the parliamentarians have been raising their own pay so quickly it makes your head swim. But what are we votors to do about it?

My suggestion is that we elect more women to parliament. They have a more practical approach to money. They would cut spending, I am sure, because they know that every dollar spent has to be raised from elsewhere. Men, when handling their own money, can be prudent; but is seems that when they get a chance to handle somebody else's money, they go berserk. Only a public outcry will slow them down.

Women, on the other hand, have learned to handle money brought home by the wage earner. They handle other people's money with the same good sense that they use their own. We need that kind of responsibility in Ottawa. So let us start nominating, supporting, and electing the girls to parliament. In a few years we would be paying lower taxes and getting more service for our dollars. Why not try it?

Why is Kitimat famous?

Kitimat, B.C., lying 80 miles southeast of Prince Rupert at the head of Douglas Channel, became known around the world during the construction of the giant smelter of the Aluminum Company of Canada. The Kitimat project was begun in 1951. The gigantic development involved a number of major engineering triumphs in the wilds of northern British Columbia. The Kenny Dam was built to collect the waters of the Nechako River. These waters were then channeled by means of a 10-mile long tunnel through Mount DuBose to the new hydro site at Kemano. Transmission lines carry the electric power 48 miles from Kemano to the smelter at Kitimat. The task was completed and the first aluminum ingot was poured in August 1954.

What was the first Canadian Unit to receive U.S. Citation?

In April 1951 the 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia Light Infantry earned the honour of being the first Canadian unit ever to receive a citation from a president of the United States. The famed Princess Pats distinguished themselves in combat during the United Nations advance into North Korea that month. In August 1950 the Canadian Army had undertaken recruitment of a special force to take part in the Korean war and the Princess Pats were the first Canadian regiment to land in Korea. By the time of the truce in July 1953, 22,000 members of the Canadian Army had taken part in Korean operations.

Where was the first H.B.C. Post?

The first post of the Hudson's Bay Company was established at the mouth of the Rupert River, which flows into James Bay, in 1668, two years before the company received its Royal charter. The post was known first as Fort Charles, after Charles II. The name was later changed to Rupert's House. It was captured in 1686 by the French, who renamed it Fort St. Jacques, and was not permanently re-established by the company until 1777. Trading had been carried on there continuously since that date.

All Aboard

with G. E. MORTIMORE

People from Europe notice one thing in particular about Canadian women. It isn't their shapely figures or their nice legs. It is their glum faces.

A number of independent witnesses have offered me the same opinion without being asked. The subject just came up.

Canadian girls go about the cities looking as though they were in fear of being attacked at any moment. That seems to be the trend of thinking among people who come here from outside.

I doubted these statements when I first heard them. Then I began looking around more carefully, and I found that they were true.

I saw women in bright, cheerful and sometimes provocative clothes, with tense, forbidding faces. Their dresses said: "It's a beautiful day. I know I'm pretty, and I like to be looked at." Their faces said: "Keep away. Don't get fresh with me, you bumpkin."

In other countries immigrants note an attractive girl accepts male glances as her due, and is not afraid to smile back. She loses no dignity by it. Here, women seem to feel that if they smile, they give away their good names.

"It's all very well to criticize youths for not giving up their seats to women in the bus," said one observer. "But many women do not have the grace to encourage courtesy.

"Quite often, when they are offered a seat, they look at the man suspiciously, as though they were saying 'What's your angle?' And then they plonk themselves down and stare straight ahead.

"You'll also notice that quite often a woman will walk right to the far end of the bus, tripping over feet, in order to seat herself next to another female, rather than take a handy seat nearby, next to a man. She acts as though there was something indecent in merely sitting next to the opposite sex."

It must be our Puritan tradition.

Canadian Quiz

1. Canada's highest peaks are in what mountain range?
2. What is the origin of the nickname Jack Canuck?
3. In 1958 which of these products gave Canadian farmers the most cash income: wheat, cattle, hogs or poultry?
4. What is the comparison of population totals of Canada and the United States?
5. Is Canada's universal old-age pension fully paid for by the special two per cent old-age pension taxes?

ANSWERS: 5. No, the pension fund runs short by $100-to-$150 million a year. 3. 1958 estimates are: cattle, $607 million; wheat, $415 million; hogs, $312 million; poultry, $195 million. 1. In the Yukon's St. Elias mountain range. 4. Canada 17,241,000; the U.S., about 172,000,000. 2. It probably comes from the name Cannaught, the nickname given more than 100 years ago by French-Canadians to Canadians of Irish origin.

JOYS OF JUNE
(Reprint of 1950)

Each dawn I lie awake in bed
With buzzing 'skeeters round my head.
Beneath the bedclothes folds I shrink
But they won't let me sleep a wink.
After a while I give up hope
And rise to coat myself with dope.
I stand and wonder more and more
What those pests were created for.

Mosquitoes are obnoxious creatures
Devoid of all redeeming features.
The males, they say, are vegetarian —
Why is each female a barbarian?
A little fiend with eager jaws
Equipped with ice-cream-soda straws
With which to suck the blood of man
Who struggles on as best he can.

Though blackflies too are quite a pest,
At least they take a good night's rest.
Mosquitoes run an all-night service —
No wonder that I'm thin and nervous.
No wonder that I'm acting queer —
Look at that lump behind my ear!
Yet when next winter's storms attack
I'm sure to wish those 'skeets were back!

Old resident of Pte. au Chene widely mourned

Late Mrs. Allan Brown

The sudden passing of Mrs. Allan Brown came as a severe shock to her family, relatives and friends. The late Mrs. Brown passed away at her home on Thursday, June 11, in her 81st year.

Born and educated in Calumet, she was the daughter of the late Samuel Prophet and his wife, Elizabeth Cooke. She was married in Calumet, June 1903, to Allan Brown, who survives; and they have been permanent residents of Pte. au Chene since their marriage.

Besides her loving husband she leaves to mourn her loss two sons, Gordon, of Hawkesbury and Herbert, of Pte. au Chene; one daughter, (Olive) Mrs. William Bowers, of Toronto; two sisters, Mrs. Kate Sarazin, Port Arthur, Ont., and Mrs. Lawrence Gauley, of Grenville; six grandchildren, Mrs. Kenneth Massey and Hugh Brown, of Hawkesbury, Donald and Heather Bowers, of Toronto, Layden and Linda Brown, Pte. au Chene; also several nieces and nephews.

The remains, resting at Desforges Funeral Parlors, Grenville, until Saturday afternoon, were followed by a lengthy cortege of sorrowing friends and relatives to Trinity Anglican Church, Calumet, where an impressive service was conducted by the Rev. Raymond Stote. Hymns sung were, "Fight the Good Fight" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee". During the service a solo was rendered by Miss Jean Kelly of Hawkesbury, "Sweet Hour of Prayer". Interment was in local cemetery at Calumet.

The floral tributes, both numerous and beautiful, showed the high esteem and affection of relatives and friends.

The pall-bearers were — Messrs. Harry Green, John Bigelow, Kenneth Massey, Homer Gauley, Kenneth McHardy and Burton Crawford (the latter three being nephews of the deceased).

Among those from a distance were — Mr. and Mrs. W. Bowers, Donald and Heather, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Green, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Crawford, Mr. Ronald Prophet, Mr. and Mrs. George Drew, Mrs. Charlie Bowers, Mr. and Mrs. G. Messenger, Mr. and Mrs. D. Rattray, Mrs. Peter Quesnel, Mrs. A. Corrigan, Mrs. Mollie Ashton, all of Montreal; Miss Phyllis Bowers, Ste. Anne de Bellevue; Mr. and Mrs. Eric Gratton, Calgary, Alta.; Mr. and Mrs. K. MacCaskill, Mr. and Mrs. D. Maxsom, Mrs. J. MacKay, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart MacKay, all of Ottawa.

BIRTH

HIGGINSON — To Leslie and May (née Matthew), at Smith's Clinic, Hawkesbury, June 2, 1959, a son, Leslie Matthew (7 lbs. 9 oz.).

IN MEMORIAM

HODGE — In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Ruth Marion, who passed away June 14, 1949. — Always remembered by Father, Mother, sister and brother.

"Just a prayer from those who loved you,
Just a memory fond and true,
Just to say how much we miss you,
Because we thought the world of you."

NOBLE — In memory of Dad (Thomas), who passed away June 18, 1953. — Always remembered by Red and Gladys.

"We often sit and think of you,
Of things you used to say and do
You live with us in memory still,
Not just today, but always will."

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

BROWN — Mr. Allan Brown and family wish to extend their heartfelt thanks and appreciation for so many kindnesses, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral tributes from neighbors and friends, in the loss of a beloved wife, mother and grandmother, and especially to the Rev. Raymond Stote, of Grenville and the Rev. Mark Beasley.

— Jehovah's Witnesses —
Why read the Bible?
Many generations and peoples have survived without it . . . But have they?

Civilizations have disappeared forever, but this Book of books and its message of life have outlived all efforts to destroy it or make its words meaningless. Do you know what the Bible really says? Would you know if the Bible were being quoted properly — or at all? If you do not go to the source of truth, how sure can you be that what you hear is really true? Why endanger your opportunity for survival or that of your children? Daily Bible reading means more to your continued health and prosperity than any other activity. Make sure your entire family joins with you in sharing this blessed experience.

CHRISTIAN MATURITY IS NOT JUST A MATTER OF AGE

Neither is it just knowing what the Bible teaches about doctrine or Christian living. The full-grown Christian must be able and willing to help others, to teach them what they should do and how. (See 2 Timothy 2:24; Matthew 28:20.) To qualify as a Christian you must qualify as a minister. Do you? You can.

"EQUIPPED FOR EVERY GOOD WORK" will start you on the right road. It will give you an intensive study of the Bible as a book. It will reveal to you the origin of the Bible, its writers and the evidences of its inspiration. It will introduce you to the languages in which it was written and the many copies of the original writings that have been preserved. It will acquaint you with the background and contents of every one of its inspired books. Truly, here is a book that will equip you to use the Bible with real understanding and purpose. Hard bound, dark-maroon cover with gold-embossed title; indexed; Scriptural summary; 384 pages; 50c.

Write to 150 Bridgeland Ave., Toronto 19, or ask any Jehovah's Witness you may happen to meet, anywhere.

Work shipments maintained by Red Cross branch

The regular monthly meeting of the Canadian Red Cross Society, Lachute Branch, was held on Wednesday afternoon last, with the president, Mrs. J. E. Leonard, in the chair.

Mrs. Fraser Morrison reported her committee had packed and shipped the following articles:

104 Diapers, 20 baby vests, 20 overalls (2 yrs.), 10 towels, 10 combinations (4 yrs.) 10 pyjamas (2 yrs.), 10 blouses (6 yrs.);

5 Boys' shorts (10 yrs.), 4 children's sweaters, 1 pr. socks (child's), 3 prs. mittens, 14 prs. men's socks, 4 baby sweaters, 1 pr. bootees, 3 quilts, 1 crib quilt.

Donations — 1 pr. red mittens, 1 wool quilt (large).

Mrs. Morrison read a letter from Mrs. Eric Smith, chairman of the Women's Work Committee, Quebec Division, thanking the local branch for the donations of a quilt and mittens. Mrs. Smith said these articles are always needed, and therefore very much appreciated.

Mrs. Leonard, before adjourning the meeting, thanked all the members who had worked so hard to make these shipments possible. . . . The next meeting will be held the second week in September.

Report on W.I. May activities

Most Women's Institute branches reported articles brought in for Lachute Fair.

Arundel members saw an excellent movie entitled "Nature's Little Acre". The branch is planning a bazaar in July.

Brownsburg received greetings from a W.I. member visiting from England. Singer Sewing Machines gave a demonstration. A "Golden Age Tea" and a handicraft show are being planned.

An agricultural representative from Macdonald College gave an interesting talk and showed a film on Versatile Farming to Dalesville W.I. branch.

Frontier had as guest speaker Mrs. Pyper, president of the C.A.C. A salad and roll contest was held. Plans were made to visit one of the Cunard liners in July.

The convener of Education read an article, "It Takes a Typewriter to Help Johnnie", to the Mille Isles W.I. This branch is plannig a square dance in the Community Hall on June 27.

Morin Heights had a cookie sale. Members gave household hints.

A member of another branch told Upper Lachute - East End meeting about her trip to Africa. The branch history was sent to Macdonald College.

Jerusalem - Bethany had a cookie contest. One of the members made a quilt to be used to raise funds for the Home for the Aged.

Pioneer was given a report on the Leadership Training Course by Mrs. C. Stephens, who had attended this course at Macdonald College in May. The members plan to see the official opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway on June 26 by Queen Elizabeth and President Eisenhower.

Vows pledged in pretty ceremony at United Church

Griffith - Oswald

The marriage of Mary Joan Oswald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wallace Oswald, of Ste. Scholastique, to Mr. Rexford Allan Griffith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Griffith, of St. Hermas, took place last Saturday at 3.30 p.m. in Lachute United Church, the Rev. Wilson Bridge officiating.

The church was seasonably decorated with pink and white peonies. Wedding music was played by Mr. Lowell Hopkins, the church organist, and the soloist was Mr. Lundy Pearson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of white silk organza, with lace appliqué across the Sabrina neckline and extending down the front to the hem, the skirt falling from a large organza bow at the back into a chapel train. The shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was decorated with seed pearls and held in place by a crown of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenias and white carnations. She also wore a string of pearls, a gift of the groom.

The bride was attended by her matron-of-honor, Mrs. Howard Pye, and two bridesmaids, Miss Eunice Griffith and Miss Eileen Elder. The matron-of-honor wore a Romance blue silk organza cocktail-length gown with shirred bodice and full skirt. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow Shasta daisy mums. The bridesmaids were both in maize silk organza dresses, cocktail length, with shirred bodices and full skirts. They carried cascade bouquets of yellow Shasta daisy mums.

The bride's mother wore a dress of blue silk shantung with white accessories and corsage of orange Delight roses. The mother of the groom wore a Dior sheath gown of blue shantung with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Best man for the bridegroom was Mr. Ross Oswald, brother of the bride, while the ushers were Mr. Allan Wilson and Mr. John Oswald.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church hall, which was decorated with white and pink peonies in bouquets on the bridal table, and garden flowers arranged on smaller tables.

The happy couple left for a wedding trip through the Maritime Provinces, the bride travelling in a beige two-piece sheath dress of linen, with green and brown accessories and a corsage of baby orchids.

Out-of-town guests were from Toronto, Sherbrooke and other points.

HIGHWAY DUMPERS

It's simple thoughtlessness that leads to our highways becoming cluttered with garbage and junk. People who keep trim homes, who carefully wash and polish their cars weekly, and who would shudder at leaving a mess on the sidewalk in front of their house, think little of dumping a box-ful of litter along a roadside.

Confirmation rites and dedications by Bishop of Montreal

Morin Heights — Hundreds of Anglicans and their friends attended Confirmation services at the Church of Saint Francis and Trinity Church on Sunday morning, when 50 candidates were received into the church. The Right Rev. John Dixon, Bishop of Montreal, officiated at the services, and the new members were presented by the Rev. Horace G. Baugh, in many instances being husband and wife, father and daughter.

The Bishop congratulated the two congregations for their progressive interest, and the magnificent appearance of their church buildings.

At Saint Francis a solid brass Processional Cross in memory of John Kirkland was dedicated, also three brass offertory plates, and an altar microphone, gifts of four members of the congregation.

Following the Confirmation, the new hall at Morin Heights was dedicated by the Bishop, and everyone enjoyed a splendid luncheon prepared by Trinity Church ladies. Greetings were brought by Canon C. W. P. Baugh, Lakefield, and the Rev. Arthur V. Ottiwell, Ste. Agathe.

BELL LINES

by Dick Pearson your telephone manager

Now that warm, summer days are here you sense a certain restlessness in the air. You find your powers of concentration slipping away from you, and your eyes drawn to the window. The sun beats down from its palace of blue, and the heat rises from the sidewalk, slowing the steps of the bare-armed townsfolk. You don't feel much like tackling those reports, or filling out those forms, or typing those memos. You'd rather be out on the golf course, or off somewhere in a boat, or just merely lounging around in the garden. But the work has to be done. At least you have the evening hours during which to relax — Or do you? . . . What about those letters that you've been putting off for weeks? . . . Well, this is where the long distance telephone call can make a world of difference. When you call long distance, you are in personal, up-to-the-minute contact with your friends and relatives, however far away they may be. Long distance calling is inexpensive — specially after 6 p.m. — and it doesn't interfere with your summer evening relaxation.

While on the subject of warm weather, we recall the time when we were visiting friends and sitting out in their garden just chatting and taking things easy. Suddenly our hostess said, 'Did I hear the phone ring?' We said we thought so, but we couldn't be absolutely sure. Our hostess listened attentively for a moment, then she said, 'I'm sure I can hear the phone ringing — I wonder if it's ours or the one next door?' And with that, the lady jumped up and rushed into the house. She returned almost immediately. 'It must have been the one next door,' she said . . . This sort of thing happens quite often in the summer months — and there's really no need for it. A home-owner can avoid interrupting conversations outside and rushing around unnecessarily, simply by getting a portable telephone and outlets. It should prove worth your while to look into this with us.

Two stories currently doing the rounds tell of the troubles the telephone company and its subscribers have had due to the antics of animals. The first story deals with bears, which were supposedly bothering the telephone company in a southern Ontario town. It seems the bears heard the humming of wires atop telephone poles and mistook the noise for bees. So they stood on their hind legs and swatted at the poles with their front feet in their attempts to shake out the honey. The bears were so forceful, so the story goes, that they cuffed several poles two or three inches off their anchorages. . . . In the second story, rural telephone users in a northern Quebec community complained that a prankster was ringing their telephones at odd hours and hanging up the moment someone answered. Telephone men decided to investigate and found that the 'prankster' was a bull. The bull had been scratching its back on a telephone post's guy-wire creating static electricity, which jangled telephone bells up and down the line. Taking discretion as the better part of valour, telephone men waited until the bull was out of the way, then moved the guy-wires. . . .

How is it that our ears and brain are able to pinpoint one voice in a roomful of talkers — to listen to it alone and ignore the rest? And in listening to stereophonic music, how is it that our ears and brain manage to construct a picture of the entire orchestra with only the sounds from two speakers to work with? . . . Scientists at the Bell Telephone Laboratories are searching for the answers to questions such as these, for in finding them, better telephone instruments and better ways of transmitting sound surely will result. Our hearing performs feats that no electronic system can yet duplicate. Bell Lab scientists believe the secret lies in the way our two ears function in partnership, and in the way our neural network connects them with the brain. Work is under way to discover what function the network performs and to see whether electronic duplication might enhance understanding. Alexander Graham Bell's interest in deafness and hearing led to the invention of the telephone. Bell Laboratories' current explorations in bi-neural sound well may lead to important new advances in the transmission of speech and music.

Spotlight on "The Great River"

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Up the St. Lawrence comes the Spring again,
Crowning each southward hill
And blossoming pool with beauty, while I roam
Far from the perilous folds that are my home?"

In "Père Lalemont", a poem by Marjorie Pickthall, the pioneer French-Canadian missionary asks this question. Like many of his fellow workers, he met a martyr's death at the hands of the Indians, but he had known and loved "The Great River".

Almost four and a quarter centuries ago, Jacques Cartier, the explorer, was amazed by the magnitude of the river, which is 80 miles across where it merges with the Gulf by the same name. He called it "The Great River", but later named it after a Saint because he sailed into the Gulf on August 10th, the Feast Day of St. Lawrence.

Later Cartier wrote, "The men did certify unto us that there was the beginning of the great river, the roadway to Canada, which river the farther it went, the narrower it became, even into Canada." Champlain, the Father of New France, established his settlement on the lofty cliff at Quebec.

The waters of the St. Lawrence flow more than two thousand miles to reach the sea. Over this path the early explorers, missionaries and fur traders travelled. For two centuries most of Canada was near the great river. Along its banks the first French farmers built their homes.

The St. Lawrence is the largest body of fresh water in the world. The Book of Knowledge makes this comment: "If inferior in breadth to the mighty Amazon, if lacking the length of the Mississippi, if missing the ancient castles of the Rhine, if wanting the lonely grandeur that overhangs the Congo, the majestic St. Lawrence has features as remarkable as any of these."

The St. Lawrence, Canada's highway to the sea, like other great rivers of the world, has inspired artists, musicians, writers. This was the comment which appeared under an early print of the River St. Lawrence by G. B. Fisher, "The view is one of the most striking scenes which this country affords." Last September the premiere of "The St. Lawrence Suite" by the U.S. composer, Morton Gould, was performed by the fifty piece band of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps.

The "Thousand Islands" of the great river are nearer two thousand. It has been our privilege to camp several summers near Gananoque on Beau Rivage Island. We have driven along the lovely shores of the St. Lawrence and looked at the curving river from the top of Mount Royal. From the high bluff at Quebec City we have looked down on the dark water below. We have seen the rugged north shore and the fishermen's dwellings along the south shore, too.

In the legend "The Tree of Dreams" by Marius Barbeau, a Mohawk Indian comments about the St. Lawrence, "The great river never stops. Its waters roll onward forever." The Jesuit missionary to whom he spoke answered, "It is so, and so it shall ever be!"

This Spring and Summer when the St. Lawrence is in the limelight, why not encourage your school-age son or daughter to clip out accounts in the newspapers describing the Opening of the Seaway? If you can, make the radio or TV reports of the ceremonies on June 26 an enjoyable home occasion

(Watch next week for "The St. Lawrence - Great Lakes Seaway.")

Monday Dinner
Chilled Vichyssoise
Meat Loaf Vienna
Mushroom Sauce
Green Peas Mashed Turnip
Cole Slaw with Minced Chives
Sliced Bananas
and Strawberries
Hot or Iced Tea Coffee Milk

Measurement are level

Meat Loaf Vienna: Combine ¾ lb. each chopped beef and veal or lean pork chopped twice with ½ c. fine enriched bread crumbs, 1 tbsp. grated onion, 2 tbsp. minced parsley, ¼ tsp powdered thyme, 1½ tsp. salt and ½ tsp. pepper.

Shape into roll. Let stand 30 min. to become firm.

Brown all over in cooking oil.

Bake 30 min. in mod. oven, 350-375 degrees F.

Remove loaf. Cool 15 min.

Wrap loaf in flaky American pie pastry rolled scant ¼" thick

Replace in pan, seam-side down.

Brush lightly with milk.

Bake 20-25 min. in hot oven, 400 degrees F., or until crust browns.

Slice and serve to six "as is," or with brown mushroom sauce.

Trick Of The Chef

Make Ice Cream Angel Loaf as directed in this column but use orange blossom ice cream.

Decorate with chilled drained pineapple chunks, mandarin orange sections, sliced bananas and snowy shredded coconut.

Ice Cream Angel Loaf: For a party, slice 1 oblong shaped angel food cake lengthwise into 3 layers.

Place bottom layer on small cookie sheet or double fold of foil.

Slice 1 pt. chocolate ice cream into 3 pieces and place atop cake layer. Over this put second cake layer.

Top with slices of strawberry ice cream; finish with remaining cake.

Quickly spread top and sides of loaf with 2c. heavy cream whipped stiff and sweetened.

Place in freezer or freezing-chamber of refrigerator to harden until ready to serve.

More than one way to prepare Pork

If your family is partial to pork chops you probably are an expert with the frying pan, for this certainly is the quickest way of cooking them. That doesn't necessarily mean frying is the best way; pork chops take equally well to broiling, braising and baking.

Because so many other foods are good with pork, all cuts of this meat can be used in combination dishes. Pork chops are no exception. They're perfect cooked with vegetables such as onion, celery and tomatoes; spices like thyme, cloves, oregano, mustard and garlic; fruits, particularly apples and peaches; sauces such as soy sauce, barbecue sauce, sweet and sour sauce; and the sugary foods — honey, maple syrup and brown sugar.

In Canada's kitchen, braising is one of the most popular methods of cooking pork chops. This can be done either on top of the stove or in a 325°F. oven. The chops are first browned, then sprinkled with salt, pepper and flour and browned a little more before covering and cooking slowly and evenly in moist heat. Water, vegetable liquid, canned tomatoes or tomato juice can be used to supply the moisture (about ¼ inch in pan) and very often chopped onions, celery and favorite seasonings are included for additional flavor. Braising takes 50 to 60 minutes depending on the thickness of chops.

Pork chops are broiled similarly to beef steaks except that pork chops broil best when the top of the meat is 6 inches from the heating unit while steaks need to be closer that that (2 to 3 inches). One reason for this is that pork chops take longer than beef steaks do to cook thoroughly. If they are cooked at too high a temperature, there is a tendency for pork chops to become hard and dry by the time they are done. It takes 12 to 15 minutes to broil ¾ inch chops and double that time for 1 inch chops. They should be turned halfway through the cooking time.

Pork chops can be baked plain, breaded (coated with flour, then dipped in egg and rolled in fine dry crumbs), stuffed, or in interesting dishes such as scalloped potatoes topped with pork chops. The temperature recommended by the Consumer Section for baking chops is 325°F., except in the case of combination dishes which usually call for 350° or 375°F.

This Baked Bean and Pork Chop casserole combination is cooked at 375°F. and makes 6 generous servings. You can brown and cook the chops while the oven is heating and also whip up a rhubarb pudding to bake along with the casserole. Include garden greens, sliced tomatoes and sweet mustard pickles in the main course for a colorful and pleasing springtime meal.

Baked Beans and Pork Chops

6 Lean pork chops (¾ inch thick), 2 20-ounce cans baked beans, salt and pepper.

Brown chops over moderate heat allowing 3 to 4 minutes for each side. Pour off excess fat. Turn meat, cover and continue cooking slowly over low heat for 4 to 6 minutes each side.

Pour 1 can of the beans into a shallow baking dish. Arrange chops on top and spread with other can of beans. Cover and bake 30 minutes at 375°F.

Summertime is shortcake time

What could be a more scrumptious ending to a summer meal than a Rich Shortcake piled high with any one of the fruits that are in season . . . luscious strawberries and raspberries first, and other fresh fruits in the forthcoming months. The cake is made from a rich, biscuit type dough that is slightly unique for a shortcake dough because salad oil is used as shortening. Just a touch of nutmeg is added to complement the fruit. Pouring cream or unsweetened whipped cream are popular toppings for this dessert, but a scoop of ice cream is equally refreshing and delicious. The variations in fruit and toppings are infinite, and the same rich cake can be served over and over again without any fear of the family growing weary of the repetition.

Rich Shortcake

(Yield — 8 servings)

2 Cups once-sifted all-purpose flour, or 2¼ cups once sifted pastry flour, 3½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon grated nutmeg, 1 egg, ¼ cup cooking oil, ½ cup milk, 2 tablespoons soft butter or margarine.

Grease an 8-inch round layer cake pan. Preheat oven to 425 deg. F. (hot)

Sift together into a bowl the all-purpose or pastry flour, baking powder, salt, sugar and nutmeg. Beat egg well; stir in oil and milk. Make a well in flour mixture; add liquids and mix with a fork. Place half of dough in prepared cake pan and pat out evenly; spread with butter or margarine. Place remaining dough on a sheet of waxed paper and pat out to fit pan; place over dough in pan. Bake in preheated oven 20 to 25 minutes. For serving, place shortcakes on a large plate; carefully separate and lift off top half of cake with a broad spatula. Put the layers together again with a generous filling of prepared and lightly sweetened fruit of the season. Top with more prepared fruit and unsweetened whipped cream.

SANDWICH TIP

For tiny canapés so often served at summer teas and receptions, save time and motion by mixing the butter with the filling and spreading once instead of twice.

Fish dinner on a plank

With just a little imagination, budget meals can have both elegance and palate appeal. Dinner on a plank is an inexpensive idea that's easy to whip together and will win plaudits for the cook. If fish is the feature, the budget is sure to remain intact. A special advantage is that all the foods are cooked and served on the same piece of equipment. The only trick to using a wooden plank is to oil it well and pre-heat it about ten minutes before adding the food. If your basement or spare room isn't a do-it-yourself shop with a ready supply of planks, a bread board or cutting board is a satisfactory substitute.

Planked Fish Loaf Dinner

2 Cups flaked cooked fillets (salmon or tuna), ½ cup soft enriched bread crumbs, 2 eggs, ¼ cup light cream or evoporated milk, ¼ cup melted butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, salt and pepper, 6 tomato halves, grated parmesan or cheddar cheese, 2 cups hot seasoned mashed potatoes, 1 egg yolk, 1 tablespoon milk.

Combine fish, bread crumbs, two eggs, cream, melted butter and lemon juice. Season with salt and pepper. Shape into a loaf in centre of heated oiled plank. Bake in hot oven preheated to 400 degrees F. for about 30 minutes. Arrange tomato halves around loaf; sprinkle with a little cheese. Spoon mashed potatoes around the edge of the plank. Brush with egg yolk mixed with milk. Brown in oven or broiler about 5 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Teatime Topics

Written Specially for The Lachute Watchman
By Carolyn Willett,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A New York doctor has come up with a simple formula to prevent overweight. Dr. Herbert Pollack, chairman of the nutrition committee of the American Heart Association, advises cutting food consumption by one per cent every year after the age of 25.

Labor-saving devices not only give housewives extra time but they can be responsible for extra inches on the waistline. Dr. Pollack said that "not long ago a housewife spent 240 calories scrubbing the family wash and another 50 calories hauling it to the line. Today, dumping the clothes in the automatic washer and tapping a button take no more than 15 calories."

He urged a balance be maintained between energy output and food intake by means of exercise.

And because a balanced diet is necessary, he cautioned against eliminating bread, potatoes and fat by the calory-counters.

Special Occasions

An informal summer supper can become a special occasion when different breads are added to the menu. Here are two that go well with soup, salads and casserole dishes:

Caraway-Cheese French Bread: Cut a loaf of French or Vienna bread into 12 diagonal slices, not cutting quite through the bottom crust. Combine one cup grated Canadian cheddar cheese, two tsp. caraway seed and three tbsp. mayonnaise or salad dressing. Spread butter or margarine and then cheese mixture between the bread slices. Wrap in aluminum foil and heat in hot oven (400) for 15 minutes. Serve immediately.

Horse-Radish Bread Sticks: Blend one tbsp. fresh horse-radish and one tsp. prepared mustard into two tbsp. soft butter or margarine. Remove crusts from slices of toasted bread and spread with horse-radish butter. Cut each slice into thin strips, one-inch wide. Place toast strips, spread-side up, on a cookie sheet and toast under low broiler heat for five minutes.

They Love Weddings

Speaking recently in Toronto, the Rev. J. McNamara of the Scarboro Foreign Missions described the native Indians of British Guiana as "a race whose children attend their parents' wedding."

"They have little knowledge of the sacrament of matrimony, but they love elaborate weddings," he added.

The description seems to fit some of the Hollywood weddings in recent years.

However, Mr. McNamara went on to describe the natives as simple, lovable people who live in terrible poverty on a reservation in the jungle.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Foreman and daughters, Diane, Cathy and Judy, spent several days in Burlington, Vt., recently.

The regular meeting of the W.A. was held at the home of Mrs R. C. Whinfield last Wednesday. Plans were discussed for the forth coming social, to be held July 4 (Watch for later advertisement in this paper.) When the business was completed, refreshments were served.

Mrs. Laviolette (wife of the local bank manager) is at present in hospital at Hawkesbury, where she has been for several weeks following an operation. Her many friends wish her a speedy return to good health.

Sincere sympathy is extended the family of the late Mrs. Al Brown, of Pointe au Chene. Mrs. Brown, a lifelong resident in the vicinity, enjoyed a wide circle of friends and will be sadly missed by all who knew her.

DUCKS INCIDENTAL

Naturalists are already pointing to the dry spring as being a detriment to the successful crop of ducks this fall. It will also have some bearing on a successful harvest of farm crops, too.

LEGION NOTES

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

— by —

Branch 70 Correspondent

At the regular monthly meeting held in the Memorial Hall last Wednesday, Comrades Eddie Jones and Charles Duncan were welcomed back from the sick list. Also, the members welcomed Com. Bill Poley, a newcomer to the Branch.

Com. Carl Demerse reported the finances of the Branch to be satisfactory, with one major outstanding account for the new lighting installation, which is now practically completed.

Friends and members will be pleasantly surprised when they see the new lighting, particularly in the main hall. A much wider range of lighting effects, more efficient equipment, and fixtures which blend with the decor of the hall, in addition to the increased safety factor of the new installation, all prove this project to be very worthwhile in spite of the immediate expense involved.

Comrade R. O. MacLean briefly outlined his impressions of the recent Provincial Convention, which he attended as official delegate of Branch 70.

The main topic of the evening was widely discussed — plans for Branch 70 activities at the Lachute Fair! For the second consecutive year, Argenteuil Branch 70, Canadian Legion, is pleased to contribute to a part of the main attractions in front of the grandstand as a service to the community. There is no doubt but that the Directorate of the Argenteuil Agricultural Association were farsighted when they called in local service clubs to provide entertainment — which meant to a large degree that local people would be providing entertainment for themselves. This of course arouses interest in a less-expensive and, in many ways, more satisfying, type of entertainment than would normally be required. This immediately removes several headaches for the Directorate, not the least of which are the expense and the problem of supplying entertainment in competition with radio and television standards of this day and age. However, in return, the Directorate of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society have been most cooperative and generous with the service clubs; this is much appreciated!

So, members of Branch 70, veterans and friends — your attendance on the granstand on Saturday afternoon and evening will assist the Canadian Legion locally, and your interest will be much appreciated by the Canadian Legion and the Fair Directors.

As advertised, Branch 70, has organize a mammoth parade to kick off Saturday's activities.

Heading the parade will be cars carrying the Branch 70 president, Tom Smith; the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Minister of Mines; Air Vice-Marshal Frank S. McGill; and Mr. J. D. Latour, M.P., who will take the salute at the march-past in front of the grandstand.

Forming up at the Legion Hall at 1.30 p.m., the parade is scheduled to arrive in front of the grandstand at 3 p.m.

A parade sergeant-major will be provided by the Royal Canadian Air Force Pipe Band from Ottawa, which will head the marching section.

Following the RCAF Pipe Band will be Legion color parties invited from branches throughout the District. Legionnaires from the District will be in marching order, wearing berets and medals. Special open cars are to be provided for Legion members physically unable to march.

Next will come the colorful Ayersville Air Force Cadet Corps. These local youngsters are well turned out and should create much interest.

Also of local interest will be the Harrington and district pipe band. We understand that this is a relatively new group, and again citizens of this County will look forward to its first appearance at the Lachute Fair.

Then come those zany executives—none other than the Karnak Shrine Oriental Band from Montreal! Anyone who was privileged to witness their impromptu performance during the torrential rains on Friday evening of last year, will not want to miss this wacky group of Shriners on Saturday afternoon of this year!

Following with all the daintiness and color of the tartan-clad ladies, will be Scottish and Irish dancing teams from Montreal, Ottawa and Glengarry County. They will ride to the Fair Grounds in specially-provided convertible cars.

Bringing up the rear will be the local unit of the Royal Canadian Artillery Reserve, complete with equipment.

Much credit for this parade goes to Coms. George Kirby and Jack MacKimmie and, with interest high, other additions may be entered.

The main attractions on Saturday evening will be the lucky drawing and the Horse Pulling Contest, which is always a crowd-pleaser. There is also the possibility of a Fiddling Display!

We take this opportunity to thank everyone, on behalf of the president, officers and members of Branch 70, Canadian Legion, Lachute, who has in any way contributed towards this community effort!

Greetings to all at Lachute Fair — and remember we'll see you at the grandstand, Saturday afternoon and evening!

— P.R.O.

BUSY HOUSEWIVES

Many housewives work on an average of 60 to 70 hours a week, a work schedule at which most men would rebel. As one housewife put is, "It seems to me the time has come for us housewives to form our own union and fight for more reasonable working hours." — Neepawa (Man.) Press

Moods of the Ottawa River

— By Ethel Kettyle —

(Chapter III)

IS IT FRIEND OR FOE?

Delving back into the history of the Ottawa River, we realize that each part of it has always been important to one — or to many. Perhaps the most interesting, is the stretch of river which flows through Argenteuil County. Certainly the north shore of the river deserves more than a passing glance.

The land between the Ottawa and the Laurentian Mountain range is perhaps unsurpassed for Canadian beauty, in its rugged state.

For years it was the soul of life of the settlement of the valley, and many were the steamers that sailed on its waters. The first in operation between Lachine and Carillon was the "William King". This steamer began to run about 1826-27. A year later the "St. Andrews" was built. During high water, they ran between Lachine, Carillon and St. Andrews.

According to history, it was in the year of 1833 that the Carillon and Grenville canals were actually opened for traffic. Finally a steamer by the name of "Shannon" was built, to ply between Grenville and Ottawa.

Travel, at that time, was apparently slow and tedious in comparison to travel today. Stage travel from Montreal to Lachine; boat from Lachine to Carillon; thence by stage from Grenville to Ottawa; and again by steamer to Kingston. The trip from Lachine to Ottawa took about two days, and from Ottawa to Kingston, three days.

Compare that with our present-day travel by car, train or plane — a jaunt of just a few hours to any of the above-mentioned places.

Previous to 1833, the steamer "Union" sailed the waters on the route between Hawkesbury and Ottawa. The names of the boats mentioned here are only a few of the vessels which in days gone by sailed the Ottawa River. Some of the other boats were "The Lady Simpson", the "Oldfield", the "Atlas", the "Sovereign", the "Empress", the "Princess", "Maud" and the "Duchess of York."

We realize the former lack of speed on river boats, but at one time a sea voyage took from two to three months to cross the Atlantic, and the vessels were poorly constructed to resist the billows in times of storm. Then upon their arrival in Canada, an entire family, weary and dispirited from the long voyage, would probably have to pitch a tent in the wilderness until a cabin could be erected. Truly, we are today living in an age of luxury.

As time went on, the wilds of the Ottawa Valley grew into fruitful and industrious settlements and farmlands. From the deck of the steamer ascending the Ottawa River, a traveller would notice the cultivated farms, the cosy dwellings and picket fences, and the river in its breadth and great volume quietly moving on. Then just ahead could be seen the tumbling waters; the rapids; and beyond that, the dam at Carillon.

As the steamer drew near to the wharf, one might scarcely notice, being so engrossed in the beautiful scenery around him.

In our next account, let us go back to the building of the Carillon Dam, which was started about the year of 1873.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Will Pelleted Hay Pay?

There is now a tremendous interest in pelleting all kinds of livestock and poultry feeds, not merely concentrate mixtures but also mixtures of both concentrates and hay, and even hay alone.

Dr. Bohstedt

First of all it should be understood that the term "pelleting" is as yet applied to a whole range of products, varying from grains or concentrates with as little as 5 per cent fiber, to roughages having 25 per cent or more fiber.

The size of the "pellets" varies all the way from about one-fourth inch diameter for concentrates to around 1 inch for mixtures of concentrates and roughages (steer cubes for instance) and even 3 inches for hay "pellets" or "wafers." They are readily eaten by cattle.

Years ago it was found that pelleting made for increased consumption of feed and also resulted in a saving of feed necessary to produce gains on the part of growing or fattening animals. Pigs and other farm animals would waste less feed on being self-fed pelleted instead of mealy feeds.

In many experiments growing stock of all kinds, also growing and fattening pigs, beef cattle and lambs, have had their entire rations, concentrates and roughages combined, fed in a pelleted form, and with good success so far as feed utilization was concerned.

There have been a number of instances where the experimenters commented that the economy of a particular experiment was in favor of the unpelleted ration. Considering kinds of feed as processed and the size of the pellets, the point of economy will be a determining factor in the future of pelleted feeds.

Research indicates an interesting difference between the buildup of body fat and butter fat where pelleted hay is fed to beef cattle on the one hand and milking cows on the other.

It did not seem to make any difference to a fattening animal whether long hay or pelleted hay was fed, or whether the pellets were made from ground hay or merely chopped hay. Fattening proceeded normally.

But milking cows fed pellets made from ground hay for their only roughage went way down in their butter fat test. It was necessary to use fairly coarsely chopped hay for pelleting, so that the hay being then somewhat more stringy, would stay sufficiently long in the paunch for fermentation and for acetic acid production so necessary in the formation of butterfat.

Question: I know that salt adds flavor to feed, but does salt improve feed digestibility?

Answer: Yes, at the Kansas Experiment Station salt in cattle rations made a 3 to 4 per cent improvement in digestibility. Australian reports are that sheep fed salt gained from 19 to 58 per cent more than on unsalted rations. One of the experimental salt-fed groups gained 37 per cent more than the unsalted lot, while eating the same amount of feed.

Starlings prey on fruit crops

Ottawa — When the fruit farmer looks skyward to see what are the prospects for his crop, he is not always wondering about the weather. Quite often he is bothered by the flock of European starlings in his vicinity that are only waiting for the fruit to ripen before descending upon it with their destructive beaks.

This is true in the Maritime provinces, the Niagara Peninsula and the Okanagan fruitlands of British Columbia.

Numerous bird-scaring devices have been tried at the Kentville Research Station, Nova Scotia, including time explosions and swinging mirror glass.

Other areas have also tried noisemakers. The birds have been shot at, fed poisoned bait, attacked with water hoses, and shaken off their perches. In Europe and North Africa, contact poisons are sprayed on the birds by crews wearing protective suiting.

Fortunately the starling menace has not required such drastic measures in this country, but E. L. Eaton, senior horticulturist at Kentville, has no hesitation in branding it as the most hated bird in his province. Flocks of starlings by the thousand were seen last summer, and they are expected back soon. While the very young birds are satisfied with insects, they soon grow to like cherries and small fruits, and took almost 100 per cent toll of some blueberry crops.

Farmers are advised that all scaring devices must be backed up by some gunfire, to be effective. The starling seems to like living near humans, but they quarrel among themselves and drive off other feathered species. They fly in flocks and travel long distances. In Britain frequent outbreaks of foot and mouth disease were blamed on the starling, which was said to be a carrier of the disease. In this country it is thought they may have spread Bang's and other animal diseases.

Thatcher variety tops bread wheat

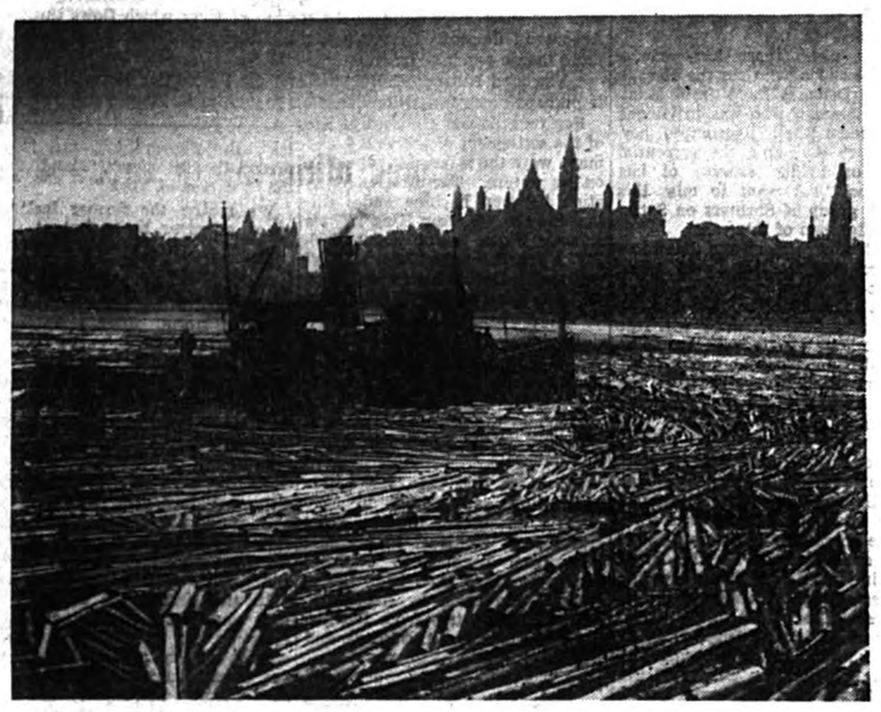

Regina — (CP) — Thatcher wheat produced the most outstanding results in Saskatchewan of all bread wheats in 1958. This is one of the findings of tests conducted by the Saskatchewan wheat pool.

"This variety has a long-standing record of good performances and can be highly recommended except in those areas where rust is a potential hazard," says the report.

Yields of Selkirk were lower under last year's dry conditions. Chinock yielded well in several zones in the southwest where sawflies were prevalent.

In 1958 oats tests, confined to areas where considerable quantities normally are grown, Exeter outyielded other oats. Rodney and Garry oats showed greater rust resistance.

In barleys, Vantage produced outstanding results in the western, southwestern and west-central portions of Saskatchewan. Husky placed second in most of this area, but was the highest yielder in many zones of the east and north.

Pulpwood Logs on the Ottawa River, with the nation's parliament buildings in the background, symbolize the importance of the forest to Canada. Trough pulp and paper alone, the forest harvest brings in more than $1 billion a year from sales abroad. Increasing public awareness of the importance of these world markets which, directly and indirectly, generate income and employment for hundreds of thousands of Canadians, was called for in a brief presented recently to a committee of M.P.'s studying the nation's natural resources. Forestry research and tax incentives to promote better forest management were held, by the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association brief, to be the most promising means of promoting greater use of our forest resources and the orderly expansion of the industries based upon them.

Big uptrend in turkey raising

Turkey eggs set in the first three months of this year point to a potential production increase of 10 million pounds of turkey meat over the same period one year ago.

Canada Department of Agriculture officials say that from the first of the year to March 21, egg settings totalled 8.6 million.

Included in this figure are increases of 1.4 million — a 28 per cent rise — for mature weight turkeys, and 803,000 — or 72 per cent — for broiler weights.

On the basis of a 50 per cent hatch and a mortality rate of five per cent, production would run to 10 million pounds more than for the first quarter last year.

The industry entered 1959 with a staggering 18 million pounds in storage, compared with 12.5 million pounds the previous year.

Sale of turkeys at Easter were the heaviest in Canada's history. Most of the light and medium weight birds were cleaned out of storage during the phenomenal holiday sales.

But the heavy stocks and the upswing in marketings have combined to sharply reduce prices, which have dropped an average of 10 cents a pound since the beginning of the year.

Many turkey producers are viewing the production boom with alarm and are wondering where it is leading them.

A normal population increase will take care of about 2.5 million pounds, and better merchandising practices, promotion, and year-around marketing will increase per capita consumption.

While the increase so far this year has been startling the picture is far from complete.

Last year 2.1 million poults were produced during the first three months and 5.4 million in the second quarter. The balance of the year was much lighter, ending up with a total of 9.2 million.

If the trend follows last year, the big push is yet to come.

SAFETY ON WATER

Small boats over-powered by outboard motors became a topic of discussion at the annual convention of Industrial Accident Prevention Association in Toronto. Warnings by manufacturers and safety agencies are too often unheeded by the small boat owner. Over-powering, over-loading and inexpert handling are factors that contribute each summer to the toll of drowning fatalities.

This young lady has no trouble getting her queries on Quebec's mineral wealth answered. The Department of Mines has tons of documents for the geologists or the just plain curious, but visitors to this display have only to press a button to know instantly where any kind of mineral can be found in the vast expanses of the province. A full row of buttons are located on a monitor table with samples of minerals in plastic showcases. When a button is pressed, the mineral is identified as small light bulbs light up on the map in the background, showing where that particular mineral is found.

Quebec minerals in Lachute Fair display

Visitors to the Lachute Spring Fair will be able to learn much about Quebec's mineral wealth by spending just a few minutes at the unusual exhibit of the Department of Mines. Right, a new multiple-image machine gives the highlights of geological survey work, extraction of mineral ore and various production activities with the help of recorded commentaries. Left, the Quebec map where, by pressing a button on a monitor table, various types of minerals are identified and located by flashing bulbs of different colors.

New loan plan announced by BM

Montreal — A new form of consumer-finance loans by the Bank of Montreal, to enable Canadians to consolidate all of their credit-buying under a single life-insured loan, with a single monthly payment, is announced by the bank's president, G. Arnold Hart. The "Family Finance Plan" went into operation at the bank's 781 Canadian offices this week.

Personal loans will be made for practically any purpose up to $3,500., while repayments will be scheduled over periods up to three years, where required. Such loans will be automatically life-insured.

Many of the loans will be made on an unsecured basis, although chattel mortgage and other types of security may be taken.

Interest will be six per cent a year on the actual outstanding balance, plus a charge to cover cost of processing and service.

Special Feature

The B of M plan includes a special feature which Mr. Hart referred to as "ever-ready credit". Under this provision, the customer may arrange for a standby personal credit, based on his income and commitments, and available for his use at any time. He is thus free to make purchases at will and issue cheques on the spot up to the limit of his prearranged credit.

"The bank's new plan is not restricted to loans for items normally bought on instalments, but will also be available for many other purposes such as medical and dental bills, education expenses and vacation costs," Mr. Hart said. "Neither will the plan be confined to purely family purchases, but will be equally at the disposal of the single person."

SEAWAY COSTS

Canada's past and present expenditures on the St. Lawrence waterway represent more than $45 per capita on the basis of present population; the comparative figure for the United States is $1.57 per capita.

Have You A Question on UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you:

Q. I am working only part-time for my regular employer who wishes to retain my insurance book. I have also good prospects of getting temporary or casual work. How can I get insurance stamps from other employers when I do get some work?

A. Explain the situation to your local office and they will supply you with a duplicate book. Be sure you give the local office your correct insurance number.

Q. I am separated from my husband and have custody of my six-year-old daughter. By court order my husband contributes $80 a month for the support of myself and our child. I have been working steadily for the past two years. If I become unemployed, would I be entitled to the dependency rate, as I know my husband lists her as a dependent on his income tax forms.

A. You would be entitled to the dependency rate if you established that your contribution to the support of the child is greater than that of your husband and that you mainly support her.

Q. If a person is receiving Workmen's Compensation benefit for four or five weeks, does he have the right to unemployment insurance benefit?

A. The receipt of Workmen's Compensation gives rise to two questions. The first is whether the person is capable of work as required under the Act, and the second is whether the money received as Workmen's Compensation is to be taken into account as earnings in determining the amount of benefit payable. The answer to these questions depends on the particular circumstances existing in each case. It is therefore important that a claimant should advise the local office whenever he is in receipt of Workmen's Compensation so that the facts may be submitted to the insurance officer for a decision.

Bank displays rare collection of antique coin boxes

On display in the Bank of Nova Scotia in Lachute is a collection of antique mechanical banks. When a coin is placed in a slot, something happens—a soldier fires a cannon, for instance, or a cow kicks over a bucket.

These banks, of which hundreds of different designs were made during the latter part of the Victorian era, were not intended merely as toys. Their purpose was to teach children the habit of regular thrift by making saving fun.

The banks, part of the collection of Mr. Percy Jack of Toronto, are all made of cast iron, most of them brightly painted. They work by a spring mechanism. The subjects sometimes represent familiar scenes, sometimes current events, sometimes even made a social comment. In the Tammany Bank, for example, a figure representing the notorious politician Boss Tweed takes the coin, nods his head, and puts the money into his own pocket.

Then, as now, soldiers, guns and cannon fascinated youngsters, and the Artillery Bank in this collection represents a common type. Since many were made in the United States in the period immediately following the Civil War, negro figures and "American Eagles" were often introduced. Another bank in this collection is a barrel organ, complete with monkey.

Originally each bank was made entirely by hand by individual craftsmen. As they grew more popular, castings of the originals were made from sand moulds. The castings — sometimes consisting of as many as 42 individual parts — were then assembled by hand. The amount of ingenuity, labour and time that went into their creation was prodigious in relation to their original price of $1 to $3 (even though the purchasing power of the dollar was then about twice what it is today). Now, of course, their value as collectors' items has increased many times, some bringing hundreds and even thousands of dollars each.

Family's health on vacation trip

If you're planning your summer vacation trip, you'll want to give some thought on how to keep the family healthy while you're away from home.

Does any member of the family suffer from hay fever or a similar allergy? Better check on your vacation spot to see if it's relatively pollen free. Your Provincial Government offices can supply you with this information.

Will elderly people travel with you? Try to find a vacation spot that affords recreation for them, too. Mountain resorts or other vacation spots at high altitudes can be uncomfortable for those with heart trouble or breathing difficulties.

Excessive heat and humidity are health problems for some folks — another item to check before making accommodations.

If you're going camping, make sure that all members of the family can recognize poison ivy and poison oak. An ounce of prevention is worth lotions of cure.

If you're motoring to some distant spot where the climate and food will be markedly different from those at home, check with your family doctor. His professional advice can help you to a happy vacation.

Traffic Safety: No One-Man Job

By
REAR ADMIRAL H. B. MILLER
Director President's Committee for Traffic Safety

Let's start with a basic assumption: Everybody is concerned about our tragic record of traffic accidents — or says he is. He reads that 40,000 people died in traffic last year, and he thinks: "My isn't that terrible!"

Maybe — and I emphasize maybe — the thought may occur on occasion: "I could be one of those victims. Or someone in my family, or a good friend." And then comes the impulsive reaction.

"Something should be done about it."

Which usually means that "somebody" should do something.

Well, let's quit the self-hypnotism. The "somebody" is you and I and everyone with a decent regard for human beings. And the "something" has no mystery about it whatever.

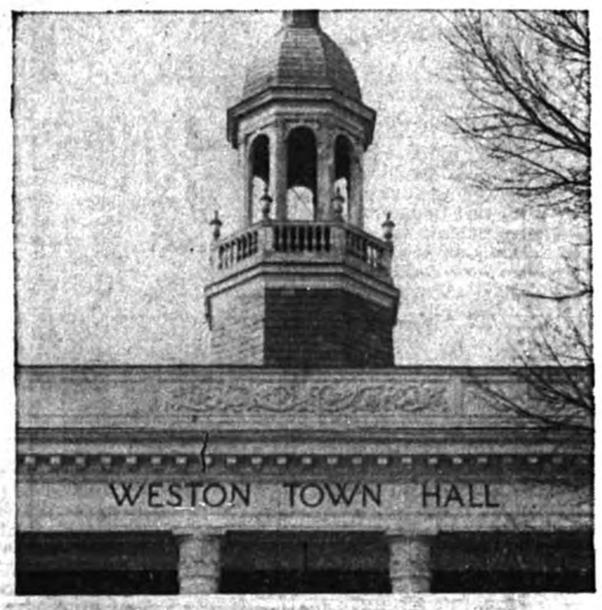

Safety-minded fire departments help the cause.

Although far too few people realize it, there is a way to knock the daylights out of the traffic accident problem. This isn't just somebody's opinion. It's a fact, proven again and again, in towns and cities all over the continent. It comes in two parts:

First — The "Action Program."

Second — Organized public support.

The first part is largely the concern of the responsible public officials. The "Action Program" is, in effect, a "prescription," embodying the practical measures which experience has shown to be necessary to reduce street and highway accidents. It is the product of years and years of research and experience by the nation's foremost safety experts.

Town Hall . . . Nerve Center of the Safety Campaign.

The local paper is a potent force for Community Accident Prevention.

The prescription embraces laws and ordinances, accident records, education, enforcement, engineering, motor vehicle administration and public information. You can't leave out any of the elements and expect full success, any more than your pharmacist can leave something out of your doctor's prescription and expect the intended benefits.

To help every citizen understand what this program is, and how he can support it, the President's Committee offers a series of eight short films: a 13-minute picture, dealing with organization for traffic safety; and seven shorter ones, explaining each element of the Action Program. They're worth seeing — they'll inspire you to action. Available, also, is a leaflet, presenting the whole story in simple language.

But that's just by way of getting yourself informed — or "briefed," as we used to say in the Navy. It's Point 2 — organized public support — where you and I get into the act. Or, at least, we'd better get into it if we really mean it when we say we want to save lives and stop the maiming of human bodies.

The reasons why we must get into it is that our public officials just can't — and in some cases, won't — do the job without our backing. Remember that officials are simply the representatives of the people. If the people want traffic safety, and say so in a clear voice, their officials will see that they get it.

Too often, when an official puts his ear to the ground, all that he hears is a roar of "do" and "don't do" that gives no more meaning than the droning of innumerable motors, so, he merely nods.

Or, he thinks of the experiences of conscientious men like Mayor Hartsfield of Atlanta, who did what needed doing to reduce accidents. His good work annoyed a number of influential people, so they voted him out of office. There was a happy ending, though. Atlanta's thinking people organized; made the citizens realize that the Mayor was right; and he was voted back into office, and kept there.

Isn't the lesson clear? The need for organized citizen support is so obvious that it needs no illumination. It is so important that the President's Committee for Traffic Safety has made it a primary objective.

So, how is it brought about? It's not as difficult as one might think, and you can find the directions in the simple and easy-to-fellow Workbook prepared for the Regional Conferences of the President's Committee.

It's only an eighth of an inch thick, but it gives all the answers anybody needs to get an organization rolling: the what, how, who, where, when and why. It was prepared by a group of the most knowledged, experienced men in the field of safety. It's so good that Mrs. Raymond Sayre, chairman of the Women's Group of the President's Committee, said at the conclusion of the first Regional Conference:

"You can put on an absolutely first rate safety program if you just take this Workbook home, and study it and use it. You don't need anything else."

You can have a copy for the asking. Same address as you use to get the "Action Program": President's Committee for Traffic Safety, Washington 25, DC.

So, how about it? It will take a little work — that's admitted. But isn't it worth a little work to correct something that has killed more than a million citizens?

Even today, with 65 million motor vehicles in operation, we have just finished a year which had 40,000 traffic deaths. How many will we have in 1966, when it is estimated there will be 82 million vehicles? You and I, and our neighbors and fellow townsmen can help determine what the answer will be. If we organize, it can be a good answer; if we don't, it will be one that will horrify.

One-man crusades for traffic safety undoubtedly accomplish some good, and the committee salutes those sturdy individuals who conduct them. "More power to them," is the prayer.

But, one voice can be very feeble when it's raised against the human frailties of thousands of motorists and their public officials, whose errors and derelictions create the traffic accident problem.

Many voices — organized voices — afford the only means of success. The job that needs doing requires teamwork — lots of it today, tomorrow and continually. The Action Program tells what must be done. The Workbook shows how you, as a good citizen, can see that it is done.

The next article, "More Police for Better Enforcement," is written by Otis M. Whitney, Commissioner, Massachusetts Department of Public Safety.

The police force . . . biggest factor in arresting accidents.

Lachute Fair attendance at all-time high running gauntlet of showery weather

If tabulations can be taken as an indication of success or failure, then the Lachute Spring Fair which closed late Saturday (after running the usual four-day gauntlet of hazardous weather) may be acclaimed as the biggest event in the long history of its sponsors, the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, extending over 134 years.

Here are the estimates from Secretary-Manager Ken Riley, based on gate receipts, for which, however, there is no detailed breakdown: The attendance reached between 25,000 and 30,000, which is considered a 15% increase over last year and an all-time record. Demands for exhibition space in the industrial shows was up definitely about 30% from last year.

Heaviest entry lists in livestock were noted in horses, of all breeds, weights and purposes; in two breeds of cattle — Ayrshires with 12 exhibitors showing 110 animals, and Holsteins with 15 exhibitors showing 120 animals; and such varied species as swine, rabbits, all breeds of poultry, and dogs featured in the Saturday afternoon dog show.

The total number of livestock exhibitors was 130. Friday may be considered the big day for livestock fanciers. Saturday was junior showmen's day. And every day of this big annual event was a field day for the industrial shows, the amusements, and the service clubs.

This latter factor — the service clubs and their collaboration with the Agricultural Society — may now be considered a distinct asset to the Lachute Fair — whose destinies appeared, two or three years ago, to be problemetical. This is the second year of participation by the Rotary, the Lions and the Legion in the matter of grandstand entertainment, and the idea is no longer experimental. Manager Ken Riley was heard to state, in a CBC interview, that this Exhibition was "over the top" financially — thanks in large measure to popular features introduced by the service clubs, and the increased patronage which resulted. Grandstand entertainment and harness racing had been a drain upon the Society's finances for many years; the service clubs were now satisfactorily solving this problem.

Gala Opening

At the opening ceremonies around the main gate on Wednesday at 11 a.m., many old stand-bys of the Fair were present: Frank Ryan of CFRA, to record the proceedings for later broadcast from his Ottawa station; President W. Erskine Rodger to introduce the guests; the Hon. "Bill" Cottingham, Minister of Mines, who had just arrived at the grounds by helicopter, to cut the ribbon and declare the Exhibition officially open; Clement Tremblay, O.B.E., to voice his perennial optimism and his blessing upon this notable occasion; Notary J. O. Latour, M.P., and Ken Riley, secretary-manager of the Fair, to give their impressions of the outlook; the mayors and civic authorities; the government and police officials; the representatives of newspapers, radio and television.

Notable for their longevity were J. S. Giles, 90, wearing the honorary life membership emblem, and John W. Heatlie of Ogdensburg, 80, the oldest exhibitor at the Fair. And notable for their devotion and their interest, were the directors, some of them veteran workers in this annual show, others comparative newcomers, but all enthusiastic for its success.

At a pleasant function at the Golf Club afterwards, the directors and the guests intermingled at the buffet luncheon, with about 60 citizens attending. President Erskine Rodger again voiced a welcome on behalf of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, and a pleasing sidelight of this affair was the presentation of a golden book for the civic chambers, from the Hon. Mr. Cottingham to Mayor Jas. W. McGibbon. This was the fulfilment of a promise at the installation of a Department of Mines display and reception at the city hall last January; the intended gift from the Minister of Mines had not been ready on that occasion. Mayor McGibbon now accepted the book with fitting sentiments, and the guests forthwith inscribed their signatures.

Display Attractions in Main Building

The main building was a haven providing continued interest, and one to which hundreds of spectators turned for shelter from the intermittent showers.

The Department of Mines display was the main attraction downstairs, an ingenious and attractive layout with a sequence of photo-montage scenes from Quebec's mining sites, with synchronised comment. One of these depicted the magnesite mining by Canadian Refractories Ltd. in this County. It is understood this is only the second time this display has been in use. . . . The adjacent section, the "push-button directory" to Quebec's mineral deposits, had appeared previously in Europe before its showing at the recent International Trade Fair in Montreal.

Also on the ground floor was the Bank of Nova Scotia's display of antique coin depositories, which attracted much interest, and Mrs. Emmett's floral show, the products of a "green thumb" and assiduous care.

In the second storey the ladies' and junior exhibits of flowers, handicrafts and cookery appeared more attractively arranged. To these, the school crafts, the Women's Institute and Cercle des Fermières added variety and interest.

Record Breaking Show of Machinery, Equipment

Within the race track, and outside near the grandstand, the array of farm equipment, sports accessories and automobiles commanded more space and attention this year.

Notable in the automobile displays were English cars and vehicles featured by Welden Motors Ltd., and Volkswagen passenger

Official opening of Spring Fair

The Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Minister of Mines and an active figure in the agricultural affairs of this County, cuts the ribbon to signify the official opening of Lachute Spring Fair. Witnessing this ceremony at the main gate last Wednesday forenoon, are directors of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, prominent citizens, members of the press, radio and television services.

Station agent retires from CPR, 42 years' service

The local CPR staff honored Mr J. O. Portelance on his retirement Tuesday as Lachute station agent. In the freight offices yesterday afternoon they presented him with a handsome TV chair accompanied by their best wishes. A bouquet of flowers was sent also to Mrs Portelance, at the couple's home on Clyde and Meikle Streets.

Mr. Portelance started with the CPR in 1917 as assistant station agent at Calumet, being promoted to telegraphist the following year. He served on the Laurentian division replacement staff until 1926, becoming permanent telegraphist at Calumet in 1941. He was appointed station agent at Actonvale to 1942, at Bourget, Ont., to 1946, and St. Eugene to 1953 — then coming as station agent to Lachute.

Friends extend good wishes on his retirement.

To teach Gr. XI at Morin Heights

(Onr District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — Having received permission from the Quebec Department of Education to teach Grade XI here starting in September, the Morin Heights School Board is making all arrangements to accommodate those pupils who wish to finish high school.

Midnight robbery at La Ruche co-op store

Thieves gained entry to La Ruche co-operative store on Hamford Street sometime between midnight Saturday and early Sunday morning, and failing to break into the safe, made good their escape with several travelling cases, a quantity of clothing, and electrical fixtures.

Entry to the building was gained by means of a loading-door at the rear of the establishment, and several attempts were made to drill through the safe.

The break-in was discovered early Sunday morning, and was investigated by Police Chief Fernand Trepanier.

WELCOME TO CANADA!

— Portraits by Donald McKague, Toronto

Royal party in Montreal today — Seaway opening ceremony Friday

Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, and Philip, Prince consort, who received a warm welcome on their arrival at Newfoundland last week to commence a lengthy tour of Canada. Following visits on their itinerary — to Schefferville, Seven Islands, the Saguenay, Quebec City and Three Rivers — the royal party arrives aboard the yacht Britannia in Montreal at 6 p.m. Wednesday, and on Thursday Her Majesty and Prince Philip make an extensive tour of Montreal, including appearances at Champ de Mars and Delorimier Stadium. . . . On Friday, the Queen and President Eisenhower will formally open the St. Lawrence Seaway, then embarking on the royal yacht for a four-hour cruise to lower Beauharnois lock.

Lorne R. Duncan president of Lions Club, year 1959-60

Last session of Lachute Lions terminated the club's seasonal meetings. President Phil Tremblay on this occasion reviewed the achievements of the year and relinquished the reins of office, being succeeded in the presidential chair by Lion Lorne R. Duncan. Installation of the new officers was performed by Dr. F. Walter FitzGerald, past-District Governor, who thanked the retiring president and directors and complimented them on their fine record.

Outstanding in this program was a varied rendering by the Lions Club song quartet, which came up with a number of new selections in rare harmony.

A motion was passed to supply eyeglasses for three needy persons. A number of Lions volunteered transportation for sightless residents and escorts, to attend the C.N.I.B. picnic on July 8.

Lion Bob Haydon spoke on the opera 'La Traviata", performed recently by the Ottawa Operatic Company, which he had helped to organize 12 years ago and which has since produced 20 grand operas. Plans were discussed to bring a performance of this group to Lachute.

Lion Herb Graves reported on the Lions' convention in Windsor, Ont. Three couples from Lachute enjoyed this event, in which the Quebec Lions were very creditably represented.

July 15 is the date of the service clubs' tournament, which is held annually at Dunany.

Presidential Review

Phil Tremblay, the retiring president, looked back with justified satisfaction on a year of high achievement. Notable among activities was the materialization of the community rink and its successful operation under leadership of Horace Lamarche and Bert Rigg. Included in this effort were activities organized for hockey, broomball and youthful sport.

There had been numerous fund-raising ventures during the year.

In the "Bank of Light" project, 276 pairs of eyeglasses had been collected for the collective shipment to India.

There had been many worthwhile contributions for community welfare, including trophies for agricultural and scholastic effort, Community Concert admissions for students, an artificial limb and aid to crippled children, eyeglasses for a number of sight-impaired persons, educational loans, efforts for the Hospital building fund and other ventures.

Santa's visit to the schools was a major undertaking at Christmas time.

A number of social activities completed the year's highlights.

While welcoming the new officers, Dr. F. W. FitzGerald paid tribute to this fine record under Lion Tremblay's leadership. A past-president's pin was presented to Mr. Tremblay by the newly-elected president.

New Officers

Installed in office by Dr. FitzGerald were the following:

President, Lorne R. Duncan.

Vice-presidents, Gerard Lefebvre, Col. E. Emmett, Dr. Eric Mongeon.

Secretary, Keith Clarke.

Treasurer, Don Hay.

Legal advisor, Fernand Legault, Q.C.

Directors, Ossie Carrière, Roger Regimbal, L. J. Dumais, Mozart Carrière, Herb Graves, Rod Carreau, Tony Zaplaski, Louis de Breyne, Clayton Robinson and Robt. Marcil.

Co-editors of Bulletin, Bob Haydon, Tony Zaplaski.

Tail Twister, Clifford Lowe.

Lion Tamer, Dick Pearson.

Price Brothers offer to purchase J. C. Wilson Co.

Montreal — Price Brothers & Co. Ltd. has made an offer to purchase all of the 165,750 outstanding shares of J. C. Wilson Ltd., at a price of $16 per share.

Announcement of the offer was made jointly by A. C. Price, president of Price Brothers, and F. H. Wilson, president of J. C. Wilson Ltd.

The offer, which will remain open for acceptance until July 31 next, is subject to the condition that Price Brothers will not be bound to buy any of the stock of J. C. Wilson unless its offer is accepted to the extent of 60 per cent or more of the shares outstanding.

Fined for hunting out of season

Among hunters appearing before Judge Omer Coté at St. Jerome recently for violations of the game laws, were two offenders from Pte. au Chêne in this county. George Ward and George Young were each fined $100 and court costs for hunting deer out of season.

At a court sitting in Mont Laurier June 17, three Ontario men were given similar sentences for hunting deer with jacklights.

A lesser penalty was imposed against a St. Jerome man for being in illegal possession of venison.

Final total in Red Cross fund campaign is $5,020

With final results received on the recent Red Cross appeal, Roger Gravel, the chairman, presents his report and wishes to thank all who assisted here in this very successful campaign.

A letter from Headquarters extends congratulations to Mr. Gravel and his assistants, referring to the amount of $5,020.25 received as a "grand total indeed".

Wonderment and awe

Two little girls gaze in awed admiration at this prize Shorthorn cow which, oblivious of its show-ring merits, seems to radiate only friendliness and interest. The youngsters are Lorraine Thorpe and Sandra Prophet. The animal is the pride and joy of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Abbott, exhibitors from Vercheres, Que.

Won Gov.-General's medal, $1,800 bursary to McMaster

Top student in the graduating class at Bishop's University was Rosemary G. Legg, of Lakefield, who, in addition to her Bachelor of Science honors degree in mathematics and physics, received the Governor-General's Medal, the Lieutenant-Governor's Medal for Science, and two other prizes — the George H. Montgomery Memorial prize for Science and the A. V. Richardson Memorial prize for Mathematics.

Rosemary Legg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Legg, Lakefield.

Rosemary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Legg, of Lakefield, was an outstanding student at Lachute High School. Graduating here in 1955, she won a scholarship to Bishop's University.

In addition to her recent awards and honors, she receives an $1,800 bursary enabling her to continue her studies at McMaster University, Hamilton. She left here June 15 to start intensive study, aiming at her Master's degree, a two-year course she hopes to complete in one year.

Rosemary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Legg, were in attendance at the Bishop's University convocation, 106th annual function at the Lennoxville institution of learning, at which the Opposition leader, Mr. Lester B. Pearson, was the guest speaker.

Hatches and dispatches in wildlife population

"Outdoor Round-up" — by Bob Atchison

Main Duck Island.
South Bay, Picton. Ont.

June 2 —

With the bass season opening on July 1, we expect there will be plenty of traffic here very shortly. Then there will really be fun, watching the fish fly by.

The Wood Ducks I have been telling you about — well in one of the cases there has been a blessed event, and in a very short time now there will be young all over the place. I sure hope they manage to survive, and that particular part, I assure you, is really going to be cleared of Snapping Turtles. The .22 will see a lot of service for the next little while.

Now, all that has to happen is for the Geese to get busy, and I'll be as busy as a bee trying to keep them from harm. Before this is finished, maybe I'll be operating a day nursery for Ducks and Geese.

Only a couple of snakes have been seen, and the necessary action taken. Maybe they are getting wise about this part of the Island; what a hope. One thing — I'm going to have the best selection of used snake skins in the business.

Visitors this a.m., newspapermen and photographers. I was kind of up in the air about letting them on, but they had received permission from a party, so that there wasn't anything to do but let them on the island. A lot of pictures were taken, and of course there was a lot of small talk. We went over to Picton with them, not only for our shopping but to get instructions on what I am to do. After a couple of phone calls into the States things were cleared up, and the same conditions exist as before. Everyone off! So there is nothing to do but that. After that was all settled to our satisfaction, we went shopping; and now we won't starve.

It was a good thing we managed to get the shopping all done by the afternoon, as we received information that had us tearing back to get a boat for home. There was no boat until around 7.30, and that was a 25 ft. steel hull with a 35 h.p. outboard. We weren't any too happy about going this way, but we had to — or so we thought. (The information we had received was just a shade exaggerated). Anyway, after getting all the eats loaded and all climbing in, including the dog, off we went. There was a nasty swell out about a mile and this kept up all the way. When we got ashore the water was just pouring off us. But I had the remedy for the cold — in fact, a couple of them.

To give you some idea of what this trip was like, even the fisherman didn't go back, he stayed with us for the night. The crossing took 35 minutes from the point of the Island — just a shade faster than I can row.

This afternoon we checked on the Ducks nesting, and found another one with a brood. It sure won't be too long before the youngsters are tearing all over. This brood has been hatched for a few days as the young were scooting all over the swamp. When they spotted us, they got under cover in a hurry — wonderful to see.

June 4 —

A very warm day, 85° — and did I have a field day with the snakes! This story is going to be hard to believe: We were walking down the southern tip with the dog, when she started to bark. There was a snake 6 ft. long, with a Catfish of 8 inches in its mouth. Just the tail was sticking out, and at the time we didn't know what kind of fish it was. The head was about the size of a cup with the fish in it.

Edith took some pictures, and I made short work of the snake. Now this is the part; the snake disgorged the fish, and it was pure white, with every drop of blood drained out of it. It wasn't a pretty thing to see.

I'm having a little trouble writing this, as when we were in town we purchased a transistor radio. Right now it is on shortwave, and a symphony orchestra is playing Enesco's Rumanian Rhapsody. This is going to be a real treat. The old outfit we have has operated only twice since we got on the Island. It's had its day. It will be very handy also for the weather. At least we will be able to find out when and how the next storm is brewing, and be prepared for it.

June 6—

Rain in morning but not too heavy. Went fishing for some Perch. It started to blow and pour. Through the rain I spotted a cruiser heading for shore, and in the storm I headed out to the point to guide them in through the channel. They got in without too much trouble and came into the cottage — a Mr. and Mrs. Marsellus with their two daughters. They stayed until 7.30 and it sure was pleasant. They were from Syracuse, N.Y. They seemed horrified to think that anyone would live the way we do, and they left us with some nice goodies. One I liked very much, "Grant's Stand Fast" — and one which Edith most appreciated, a quart of fresh milk.

I know you will be interested in the boat. It was a 35 ft. Richardson Cruiser. Sleeps four. Two Chrysler Crown engines of 135 h.p. each. Cruising speed 22 m.p.h. It's an off-shore cruiser and very broad. . . .

The visitors asked if they could come back in a couple of weeks and swim off the shore.

June 7 —

In for a swim early this morning and for awhile I won't try that again! Not until it gets good and warm.

I haven't mentioned anything about the boats that are operating in the lake. One in particular we saw, took our fancy. It was evidently a passenger and cargo steamer, as the people could be seen on her decks. Black with a stripe that looked to be a yellow or gold. Being a diesel, it only had the one stack, and all that could be heard was the deep throb of the engines. I don't know what registry or country she was from; I am not up to date on marine flags. It seems so funny now; the boats that we used to see last year and think were big, actually look very small against some of these ships now passing. The rubbish from them drifts in to the shore; we have it from all over. Really classy garbage — from Holland, England, Spain, everywhere. We sure are getting into the upper crust. It is something to think about when you see these ships so many hundreds of miles from the ocean. Maybe one of these days when we are out in the boat, we'll thumb a ride. That's a real thought. Next stop Bermuda!

June 8 —

We received a radio message late last night, which made us happy. When the reporters came out I was told the Island had been given back to the Canadian Government by Mr. Dulles' will. But last night this message confirmed that the Island is still very private. I guess somebody wanted to make a good story out of it.

We were riding around in the Jeep this afternoon and spotted three Deer. That is the most we have seen for some time. From what I can figure, the does are in the hardwoods having their young. I sure hope they all have twins and build this herd up to about 20. Then if it can be controlled at that figure, it should be fine.

A lot of young Ducklings are showing themselves, and it looks like a banner year for them. One of the families of Eagles has some young. Things are sure looking up in increases!

Another big Rattler, but this one I didn't get, he was too fast for me. I tried to run over him with the Jeep, but missed. I didn't look very hard on the way back, to tell the truth. I wasn't very brave about going into the high grass and bushes after him.

Just a reminder, the Canary still needs its claws trimmed. Edith has adopted three pigeons, and is all hot and bothered about them. They flew in the other day and have stayed on; two of them are banded. Goldie the dog is quite jealous of them. Every time Edith tries to get them to feed out of her hand, Goldie gets mad and barks at them. It's a joke. Imagine a dog being jealous of something like that!

Grandstand Shows

It seemed that the grandstand attractions, sponsored by the three service clubs, were at the mercy of the weather man. However, all programs were presented without a hitch, and all were well supported.

The Rotary program Thursday evening included three wrestling bouts, a fiddlers' contest and a slippery-pole fiesta. Some of the participants performed in the rain, but generally speaking, "a good time was had by all".

The Lions Club on Friday evening enjoyed more favorable weather, and the grandstand was well filled for the spectacle presented by "Le Grand Robert", hypnotist. Two protégés of the Lions Club, winners of the oratory contest — Lois Silverson and Roland Gow — spoke briefly over the public address system in support of the club's endeavors.

The Saturday afternoon and evening presentations by Legion Branch 70 drew enthusiastic crowds despite the downpour of rain which deluged the parade and churned the race track to a soupy texture for the events.

In the parade were a boys' pipe band from Harrington, which performed most creditably, the local Battery and equipment, and various local patriotic groups; the Air Force band, the Karnak Shriners' Band and Highland dancers. In the procession also were cars bearing the Agricultural Society officials, Legion and community notables.

On the Legion's grandstand schedule were the highland dancing contest; the dog show, which attracted keen interest; and the horse-pulling contest, a popular spectacle Saturday night.

Hockey player voices opinion on Rocket's retiring

A recent statement by star right-winger Andy Bathgate of the New York Rangers has revived speculation on the hockey future of Montreal Canadiens' Maurice Richard.

Bathgate said the Rocket should quit while he's still on top and sound physically. Andy himself has had his share of injuries in National Hockey League play and remarked last season he might retire before he suffers permanent injury to his often-hurt knee.

The Rocket, in 17 turbulent seasons with Canadiens, holds just about every regular schedule and playoff scoring record in the books. He has stamped himself as one of the most colorful players in NHL history.

Injuries Counted

But Maurice, who will be 38 August 4, is slowing up. Severe leg injuries forced him out of action for a long period in each of the last two seasons.

In this year's Stanley Cup final against Toronto Maple Leafs the man who has broken up so many playoff games was in the background for the first time in his career. The Rocket, just recovered from a broken ankle, played only briefly and showed the effects of a long layoff.

Whether Richard will play next season is something even he won't predict. The decision by and large will be the Rocket's. Canadiens' managing-director Frank Selke has said the Maurice can stay with the team as long as he feels he can help them.

Ladies' and junior golf activities

During the last two weeks the Qualifying and First Rounds of the Drew Trophy have been played, and the First Round of the President's Prize. Second Rounds of these events are being played this week.

The "C" Class weekly tournament for the week of June 6 was won by Mrs. A. Lamont.

Eight ladies from the club took part in the annual 36-hole women's invitation golf tournament held at the Seigniory Club June 16-17-18, namely, Mrs. Gilbert Ayers, Mrs. R. Cote, Mrs. H. Watson, Mrs. W. Cottingham, Miss P. Baird, Miss F. Carriere, Mrs. R. Stephens and Miss D. Mitchell.

Mrs. G. Ayers and Mrs. R. Stephens were the winners of the ladies' best-ball foursomes, and Mrs. R. Cote won the 36-hole net, Bronze division.

The Junior members of the Lachute Golf Club have formed the following committee for the season 1959-1960: President, Mr. Billy Jones; 1st vice-president, Miss Leida Ayers; secretary, Miss Karen de Breyne.

Miss L. Ayers is also Junior representative on the Ladies' Committee.

The Opening Junior Tournament will take place July 2 at 1.30 p.m., followed by a dance in the clubhouse at 8 p.m. for all junior members.

The monthly ladies' meeting will be held in the clubhouse Wednesday, July 1, at 8.30 p.m.

Moose-hunting dates announced, prohibited areas

Moose-hunting dates have been announced by the Quebec Department of Game and Fisheries — which again show Argenteuil and Papineau as prohibited areas, along with national parks, reserves, Zones A and B southeast of the St. Lawrence River, and part of Zone F east of the Moisie River, Saguenay County.

From October 3 to 11, hunting of moose is permitted in Abitibi West, Abitibi East, Roberval, Jonquière - Kenogami, Lac St. Jean and Chicoutimi Counties, and areas north of these counties.

The season is open from October 10 to 18 in other portions of the province not mentioned above, with exception of the prohibited areas.

René Laurin's softball squad unbeaten

Here are members of René Laurin's local softball team which stands unbeaten so far this season. Last Sunday they downed the Lac Schruyer squad, 10-0. Besides retiring 10 opponents at bat, pitcher Jean-Guy Larocque hit a home run for his team.

Prize winners in club drawings

Lady Luck added zest and anticipation to the Fair for a number of patrons, and the Lions Club and Legion booths drew ready support from hundreds of others whose prime interest was to help the cause and contribute to the good work of these organizations. The directors are duly appreciative of this public good will.

The drawings were held before the grandstand Saturday night — the Lachute Fair president, W. Erskine Rodger, being called upon to draw the lucky tickets. Representatives of each club extended their thanks and Mr. Rodger also took occasion to voice appreciation on behalf of the Fair directors.

Lions Club

Winning ticket from the Lions Club drum was held by Edouard Gascon, 30, a service station attendant for L. J. Dumais on Main Street West. Mr. Gascon, father of four children, resides on Julien Street, West Ward. He had no car, but is now the owner of a spanking-new Vauxhall 1959. Mr. Dumais, his employer, who sold him the winning ticket, stated that Gascon had been a very reluctant purchaser.

Legion Branch 70

Winners of five prizes in the Lachute Legion drawing, held during the Legion's grandstand program the same night, were as follows:

1st (Television) — J. Seeney, St. Andrews.
2nd (Lazy-Boy Chair) — Garnet Shaw, Ayersville.
3rd (Boy's Bike) — Barry Bedard, Lachute.
4th (Girl's Bike) — André Lefebvre, Lachute.
5th (Tricycle) — Geoffrey Arnold, Grenville.

Fish and Game Club

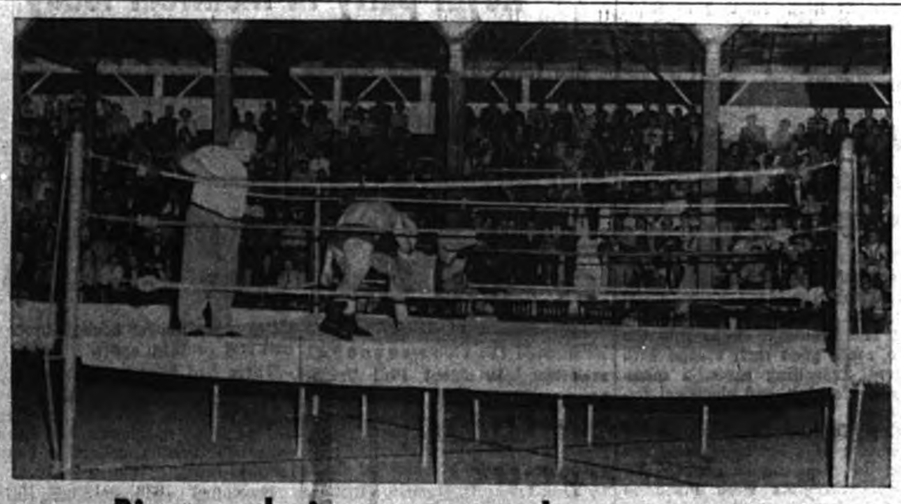

The Argenteuil Fish and Game Protective Association held their drawing for a fiberglass boat at Frank Bedard's "Sport Centre" on the booth grounds. Winner was Percy Murdoch, of Detroit, who was here visiting his mother, Mrs. Jas. Murdoch, and many relatives.

CHURCH COUNCIL

Edmonton (CP) — The next general council of the United Church of Canada will be held here in September, 1960.

Big crowd views grunt-and-groan session

Rotary Club Night at the Lachute Spring Fair found a crowded grandstand watching the wrestling matches brought to Lachute through the courtesy of J. René Laurin, local Dow representative. In the main bout, Edouard Carpentier was the winner over Frank Valois. The latter is being thrown in the above picture. The three bouts drew an enthusiastic crowd despite inclement weather.

Lachute Fair needs covered arena

LAST WEEK was Lachute Spring Fair Week and, as usual in the recent years, several evening performances were close to being rained-out. There has been one big difference the past two Fairs have seen, however, and that is the increased attendance due to community Service Clubs taking an active part in the grandstand entertainment.

If the Fair is rained out, then so is the grandstand entertainment and the cattle and horse competitions, machinery exhibits, and fund-raising projects sponsored by the Service Clubs — and all these organizations go into the red.

This was not the case this year, but it could easily have been, as rain was in evidence every one of the four days. There is but one solution to solve the big majority of the above cases and that is a covered arena or show-rings on the grounds. The day is not too far off that the grandstand is going to have to be replaced, and it is not too far off when the Lions Club arena is going to be built.

We are sure that the Argenteuil Agricultural Society would favorably consider donating a portion of their land for the erection of such a building and if done in the interests and name of the Society, both the Provincial and Federal Governments would favor the organizations with grants.

The way is well started with the Society co-operating with the different organizations, and if the local powers-that-be could get together and work out a solution, many problems would be solved. This location might be a little inconvenient for some people, but it will be where it can be used by the big majority of the local population.

Do you know about farming?

LACHUTE Spring Fair has thrown a spotlight on Agriculture this past week. It does not take too keen a perception, even to casual fair-goers strange to the ways of the rural countryside, to realize that farming methods have been revolutionized in the past generation and are undergoing constant change.

There is some timely reading on this subject in the monthly review of the Bank of Nova Scotia. As a relevant thought — "The broiler chicken, neatly packaged, of uniform quality, and displayed in volume in the super-market, is as much a product of modern science as the transistor radio or the jet plane," says this Review.

Pressures of economics and technology are tending towards larger, more specialized farm units. For any type of commercial farming the capital investment now required is large; and the trend towards the greater use of purchased "inputs", including the highly complicated feeds of today, is augmenting the need for working capital as well. A growing amount of technical knowledge is required of the farmer, and heavier demands are made, too, on his business abilities.

One of the most publicized trends in farm-enterprise is so-called "vertical integration". This term covers a variety of situations in which there is co-ordination of two or more stages of production — supplier, grower, processor, and sometimes retailer — in a relationship closer than that of an open market.

Developments in the broiler industry are significant. Many kinds of contracts have arisen — typical of these being an agreement between a grower and a processor for delivery of a crop of broilers at a given time at the market price — an arrangement known in the trade as "scheduled production". Another is an advance of credit by a feed dealer to a farmer for the purchase of chicks and feed (a long-established practice), the grower making his own market arrangements.

At the other end of the scale is the extreme case in which a feed dealer, a feed manufacturer or a processor furnishes chicks and feed to the grower, perhaps even leases his buildings and equipment, closely supervises his management of the enterprise, and simply pays him wages for his labor.

A good deal of the lively discussion about contract farming centres around the likely extent of its spread into other areas of livestock and poultry production. The production of turkey broilers is as highly integrated as the chicken broiler industry. Egg production is also becoming more and more a large-scale commercial undertaking, the small farm flock of a few hundred birds giving way to big commercial operations of 40,000 to 50,000 layers and up.

So far, contracting in hogs and cattle in Canada has not gone very far. In the United States, large-scale "beef factories" are in operation, particularly in California, where enormous numbers of animals are fed under contract. Such operations indicate a trend in the livestock industry which is expected to continue.

The pros and cons of this growing development have been widely debated, the B.N.S. Review points out. Fears that it may reduce the farmer to the status of a hired hand are no doubt exaggerated. Unquestionably however, from the point of view both of the farmer and of society at large, some types of contract are preferable to others.

It is clearly desirable that contracts should be such as to give the farmer an incentive to operate as efficiently as possible. It is also desirable that the improved returns from new techniques should be shared equitably along the line.

The inscrutable East

The ways of the inscrutable East can still give a hoist to Western eyebrows. In fact, they make Canadians and others wonder dismally if Asians really want to solve their problems.

One of these, a Bombay dispatch says, is polygamy.

In some parts of Asia, of course, the ancient system that allows a man to have more than one wife, has been gradually reduced through social, political, legislative and economic developments.

But polygamy still is strong in the more backward communities. Even in such a modern community as Singapore, polygamy is still strongly entrenched.

Now when you figure that the Westerner has trouble enough with one wife, how do you account for males who would struggle with two or three or — dizzying thought — a dozen?

The complications such harems could provide would utterly unnerve an Occidental. For one thing, think of a dozen ma's-in-law. For another, think of all the other in-laws and all their troubles.

("George, my brother has been picked up by the cops again." or "George, what are you going to do about my sister and her children — they've been evicted once more.")

Yet the Asians seem to take such things in stride — in fact, even at a gallop. One Malayan newspaper wrote: "The easiest way to start street-fighting in this country is to compel males to discard their extra wives." . . Street-fighting, forsooth! What about the battles in the households? Does the green-eyed monster of jealousy never raise its head in the East?

And how about the hubbies? If the Westerner has trouble with one spouse and the work she wants him to do, why aren't the men in the Far East bowed more than they are under their weight of wife-imposed toil?

A 70-year-old Malay merchant was reported to have told police during an investigation on some other charge, that he had 24 wives. The question arises: How did he ever reach that age without being torn to pieces in some domestic squabble.

In any case, the East can have it.

A needed step

CANADA SHOULD HAVE no havens for the shady — declares The Financial Post, which commends a uniform companies act. It says: "One of the best ways of assuring this is a high standard of company legislation throughout the country with no inviting loopholes to attract the fringe operator. For years Canadian companies and individuals have been plagued by the multiplicity of provincial and federal laws governing company conduct. Whether you were a businessman organizing or operating a company, or one of the thousands of investors who counted on adequate protection of their savings invested in our companies, you were never absolutely sure of your position.

Now, finally, after years of careful groundwork and painstaking study by government and business groups, it looks as though Canada may soon be in a position to have uniform federal and provincial companies acts.

At meetings just completed, senior provincial and federal civil servants have hammered out the details of uniform laws governing company organization and procedures. A draft companies act incorporating the recommended features is ready.

Lawmakers across the country should act promptly to put uniform legislation into force. There is no single or sensible excuse for the state of affairs that now exists.

The foundation has been laid for Dr. Geo. Christie's new residence on Main Street.

There is a new school house built on Princess Avenue. The school commissioners have engaged Miss McGibbon as teacher for the West End School.

McOuat & McRae have built a nice machine for cutting key seats in shafting, a machine of their own invention. They are now building a large face lathe, and a blacksmith shop which will house a heavy trip hammer — devices to handle much work which has hitherto been sent to Montreal.

Members of the Pointe Fortune Snow-Shoe Club held an entertainment on the Queen's Birthday, in the Drill Shed at Carillon.

Mr. J. McOuat, who has purchased the lot adjoining Rodrigue's Hotel, is building a storehouse at the rear, and intends putting up a neat building for a store.

Mr. D. McPhail has erected a fine fence around his property on Main Street.

Big John Canadian with seven other Caughnawaga Indians ran the Lachine Rapids in a 22 ft. boat with a 4 ft. beam — the first time the rapids have been run in the dark.

The Board of Trade annual banquet was held at Desjardins' Hotel. Seated at the head table were — Mayor A. Larocque, president; Geo. E. Dansereau, M.L.A.; Rev. H. D. J. Brosseau, speaker; Drs. A. Rodrigue and E. Lalande; Messrs. W. M. Scott, C. Tremblay, A. Quinn, L. L. Legault, K.C., and J. S. Giles, secretary.

At a meeting of the Odd Fellows' Grand Lodge of Quebec, held in Sherbrooke, the Rev. W. B. Rosborough was appointed Grand Chaplain.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stonard extend their appreciation to all who kindly helped the fund to replace bees lost in the unexpected spring-flooding of their cellar.

A massive iron lock, weighing 75 lbs., was found on the shore of the Ottawa River, below the remains of an old stone building at Carillon. The relic is thought to be a lock from the old powder magazine or garrison days, and at the time of the explosion may have been hurled some distance from the building, where it had lain for a full century. Dr. B. N. Wales, local historian, gave this opinion to T. D. Titman of the Lachute Watchman, who made and reported the discovery.

Mr. Gerald Hammond, local amateur radio operator, recently held a conversation over his wireless telegraph with an operator in Japan.

On Dollard Day at Carillon, an indentified man among a party of teachers and cadets travelling to the spot, fell overboard from the steamer Beloeil opposite Ile Decarie, and was drowned. This is the third successive year of fatalities attending the Carillon event.

Are Kink and Skunk related?

Yes, both belong to the weasel family. So do the marten, wolverine, ferret, otter, fisher and badger. All these animals carry musk, although only the skunk uses it in self-defence. Of small to medium size, most of them are slender and fast, fierce fighters that prey both on rodents and on each other.

What Manitoba town honors a Confederate General?

Stonewall, a town 20 miles northwest of Winnipeg. It was first settled in the 1870's and was named after "Stonewall" Jackson, noted Confederate general in the American Civil War. The townsite was originally owned by S. J. Jackson, the speaker of Manitoba's first legislatitve assembly.

Is Lake Agassiz in Canada?

Not any more. It is the name given to one of the great glacial lakes of Canada. At its maximum extent it occupied parts of Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Minnesota and North Dakota, covering about 110,000 square miles, an area larger than that now occupied by the Great Lakes. It drained to the southeast into the Mississippi River System. When the ice sheets melted sufficiently to allow a channel to the northeast, Lake Agassiz was drained into Hudson Bay, leaving as its successors Lake Winnipeg and other bodies of water in Manitoba and the Lake of the Woods and other lakes in northwestern Ontario.

Where was the Battle of the Windmill?

Near Prescott, Ont. It was a four-day struggle that took place in November 1838 between the Canadian militia and an irregular American force, composed of members of the Hunters' Lodges, seeking to liberate Canada from British domination. After the surrender of the Americans, who had barricaded themselves in a windmill that still stands today, their leader, Von Schoultz, was sentenced to death and hanged, despite efforts on his behalf by a rising young Kingston lawyer, John A. Macdonald, later Canada's first prime minister.

BEATING THE TIME SQUEEZE

I grab every new book. Few of them excite me. Most of them are old ideas dressed up. Seldom do they contain anything startling on much that is useful. But I keep grabbing, because one idea or even the germ of an idea is worth a great deal of reading. Last night I read a book that quite excited me. It has dozens of usable ideas. It deals with the strangest commodity in the world — time. It is called The Management of Time, written by James T. McCay, and published by Prentice-Hall, Inc., of Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey.

Managing time is a problem faced by everyone — farmer, doctor, business man, student. More and more of us feel we are caught in a time squeeze. We try to beat it by working still harder over longer periods of time, and to some extent succeed. But the real leader, according to McCay, has four qualities.

(1) He has a following.

(2) His following is voluntary.

(3) He demonstrates to people the best method of getting what they want.

(4) He is the best man at managing time.

McCay puts the emphasis on the fourth point. He says that any man who aspires to leadership in his field these days simply must not be a spendthrift of time. He must "learn to guard it with resolution, to handle it with precision, and to invest it with acumen." By doing this, he will find he has a wealth of time for leadership and development.

McCay acknowledges that the book is the result of his own adventure in self-management. And an exciting adventure it is. One of a firm of psychologists who attempt to help business leaders to solve problems, McCay made some interesting discoveries. Men at the top are top men in countless ways, not only in brain power. They have spent a great deal of the time they salvaged by managing time in self-improvement, and in the improvement and inspiration of their associates.

McCay specializes in passing this kind of information along to those of us who do not have at our disposal a battery of psychologists. He tells us how to manage time, not so that we may loaf longer, but so we may, as individuals, improve ourselves and contribute more to the world we live in. And as a payoff for applying the principles he deals with, you may expect a release from the pressure of time.

Those who feel that their success or failure depends on luck or rich uncles or pull will not care for this book at all. Those who know, instinctively, that in this world you get pretty much what you are worth, will welcome the book as a guide to increasing their worth. Trouble is that those who need it most will be least likely to read it. They won't have the time!

All Aboard

with G. E. MORTIMORE

Nobody can quarrel with the federal government's decision to set up a $1,000,000 fund for research into children's diseases, as a gift to the Queen.

In fact nobody would dare to quarrel with it, because it is such a good cause. Notice how the leaders of other parties hastened to applaud. A politician has enough trouble as it is without setting himself up as the Enemy of the Crippled Child.

Far be it from me to criticize the plan, either. Do you think I'm nuts? A man might as well declare himself in favor of leprosy.

But the news raises some blasphemous thoughts in the cynical mind, about the relative sales appeal of one good cause as compared to another.

A child in trouble can be relied upon to tug the heartstrings every time. As a result, appeals on behalf of hurt, sick or lost children are oversubscribed, while the less ornamental kinds of human distress are neglected.

One sick child can pull in more sympathy and more dollars than a battalion of feeble-minded adults, or helpless old people who need nursing and sanitary care.

I don't suggest that we should quit looking after troubled children. But it might be a good idea, also, to give some thought to worthy causes that are less picturesque.

The next time we want to make a gift to a distinguished visitor, we might also consider setting up a fund to help ex-convicts, drunks, drug addicts and victims of the messier kinds of psychosis.

We might create a fund for research into ways of preventing crime, poverty and social disorder. It wouldn't be as popular a cause as research into children's diseases, but just as useful.

And I'm sure the Queen would like it.

TALE OF THE TAPE

The Department Manager called all the clerks around him for the usual Monday morning pep talk just before the store opened its doors to the public. "My most important announcement this morning is the great increase in the prices of all silk goods. The new prices are already on the tags, but as the customers are bound to complain, you have to give a reason for the increase, and here it is. . . . Last year a very severe monsoon, or hurricane, hit the Chinese mainland destroying all the mulberry trees upon which the silkworms live. There will be no reduction in the prices until a new crop of mulberry trees is grown and a new crop of silkworms raised. That is all, gentlemen."

The first customer in that department had to pick a new clerk to serve her. She removed from her purse a small sample of silk and said she required one yard. "That will be $4.75", said the clerk. "$4.75? That's ridiculous! Last week I bought four yards at $2.90. And I am just a yard short to finish what I'm making." The clerk went on to explain the cause of the increase. The big storm in China had killed all the silkworms. Too bad, but entirely beyond our control. He was just starting to wrap the parcel when the customer interrupted. . .

"I almost forgot. I need two rolls of black tape, half an inch wide."

"That will be another 30c Madam.. They are 15c a roll."

"Ridiculous!" bellowed the lady. "I got some last week and they were only 10c a roll!"

"Yes, so they were", admitted the clerk. "But you see, the big storm in China killed all the tape-worms!"

Be seein 'ya!

What is a Rubaiyat?

The most famous Rubaivat, of course, is that of Omar Khayam and was translated from the Persian into English about 1850.

The best English definition we can find is that it means a poem of four lines to a verse, the first, second and fourth lines of equal length and rhyming. The third line not rhyming with the others and each noun beginning with a capital.

One hundred years after the original translation, in 1950, our Uncle Walt wrote another Rubaiyat but instead of being of a serious nature it is anything but that, and is considered by some critics as the funniest poem ever written. It concerns a pair af greenhorn campers from the city who get into all kinds of trouble on their vacation.

Uncle Walt's longest poem has been memorized and recited at entertainments with great success.

Don't miss "The Rubaiyat of A Tenderfoot" which will appear in The Watchman at an early date.

Former resident of B'burg passes at St. Paul, Alta.

Late B. C. McAndrew

Friends and relatives of the late Benson Clifford McAndrew were saddened by the news of his sudden passing, which occurred at St. Paul, Alta., on Thursday last, June 18.

Born in Lachute, the deceased, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley McAndrew, received his early education at the High School here and in Brownsburg. In 1955 he took up residence in St. Paul, Alta., where he was employed as a maintenance man with the Plains Western Gas and Electric Company. He was 24 years of age and an active worker in the Pentecostal Church. During the Christmas holidays he had spent three weeks with his family here.

Left to mourn his passing are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley McAndrew, four brothers, Calvin, Merlin, Winston, Daryle, and a sister, Sandra.

The funeral service was held in the Lachute Baptist Church on Wednesday, June 24, Pastor J. Schrier and the Rev. G. B. Hicks conducting.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Allan Gunn, Ian MacRae, Elmer Stewart, Donald MacKiddie, Edward Stone and Robt. Tomalty.

Interment was made in the Brownsburg section of Lachute Protestant Cemetery.

Proclamation by Mayor of B'burg

The following statement has been issued by Mayor René Lafleur of Brownsburg, in connection with the coming festival on behalf of the Loisirs of that community:

Whereas — the municipality of Brownsburg is fortunate in having a Loisirs organization maintained by community-minded citizens;

Whereas — it behooves the population to support this effort;

Whereas — our youth require recreation and it is our duty to give encouragement and facilities for that purpose;

Whereas — the Loisirs committee is holding a festival July 3, 4 and 5;

I therefore proclaim June 29th to July 5th as "Loisirs Week" in Brownsburg, and beseech all residents to co-operate with the organizers, and to extend such aid, financial or otherwise, as may be solicited on behalf of this effort.

— (Signed) René Lafleur,
Mayor of Brownsburg.

Yet deep in our thoughts you still lie."

Late Mrs. John was well-known County resident

The death occurred on Friday of Mrs. J. John, who for many years was a resident of this district, and latterly of Lachute.

Formerly Miss Edith McCallum, the deceased lady graduated from the Montreal General Hospital in 1904 and became the first superintendent of the Children's Memorial Hospital in that city. She married Mr. J. John, a successful tea merchant, in 1904, and until his death resided at Peterborough, where he conducted his business. Returning to this district Mrs. John filled the position of superintendent of the hospital at the Shawbridge Boys' Farm, until her retirement.

Left to mourn her passing are a sister, Mrs. A. J. Brown, of Lachute, and a brother, Neil McCallum, of Bell Falls. There are also four neices, Mrs. Hubbard, of Winnipeg, Mrs. J. B. Sheridan, of Smiths Falls, Miss Isabel and Miss Edith McCallum, both of Gatineau Mills.

Service was held at the MacKimmie Funeral Home on Sunday evening, prior to taking the remains to Peterborough for burial. The Rev. James Armour conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. Wilson Bridge.

Leaving to greet Royal party

The Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Minister of Mines, was the Quebec Government delegate to greet Her Majesty the Queen when she set foot on Quebec soil during her current tour. Mr. Cottingham represented the Government of the Province at Schefferville last Saturday, where Her Majesty and Prince Philip visited installations of the Quebec Iron Ore Company before flying back to Sept-Iles.

Mr. Cottingham is shown here with Mrs. Cottingham as he boarded the plane at the airport here last Friday, before taking off for Schefferville.

Author and Poet to open next art exhibition

The exhibition of portraits and paintings by Ruth Tomlinson Wilson, to take place in the municipal hall at St. Andrews East commencing July 4, will be opened by Mrs. Alex S. Keiller.

Mrs. Keiller is past-president of the Women's Art Society of Montreal and immediate past-president of the Montreal Branch of the Canadian Authors Association.

Her interests lie in the direction of the humanities as she is a member of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, Chateau de Ramezay and the Canadian Handicraft Guild. Mrs. Keiller serves on the committees of the Montreal Branch of the Humanities Association of Canada. During the winter she is a frequent visitor as a story teller at the Children's Library.

Former BNS mgr. J. Buckley, heads Lanark Relief

A check on the Lanark Village fire toll last week revealed that 45 families and 16 businesses were burnt out in the recent conflagration which swept the small Ontario community.

Relief supplies, food, clothing and furniture were pouring into the fire-stricken village, while volunteers, including many of the homeless, worked to clean up blocks of debris. Cash donations were coming in from all parts of Canada. (Up to Monday night it was reported the fund had reached $41,000.)

"Money is our most urgent requirement now", said Reeve Bob Dowdall. "We can use everything we can get. Every available dollar will be used to return these people as close as possible to their status before the fire."

Chairman of the Lanark Fire Relief Fund is a former Lachute resident, W. J. (Jack) Buckley. Mr. and Mrs. Buckley and their three daughters apparently escaped the ravages of this costly fire, their residence being out of the line of danger. . . . Mr. Buckley was Bank of Nova Scotia manager in Lachute prior to his transfer to Lanark; the family have many friends and acquaintances here.

Five 46-foot family trailers equipped with gas and electricity were being used by families left homeless in the blaze. The trailers had been sent in by Wheeler Mobile Homes, of Stittsville, on a 30-day no-charge basis.

Persons wishing to send donations to aid the fire victims should make cheques payable to the Lanark Fire Relief Fund and mail them to W. J. Buckley, at Lanark, Ont. Banks across Canada are also accepting cash donations.

Bible in Africa

Virtually unknown to the civilized world a short century ago, the Congo Basin sprawls across the heart of Africa, the earth's second largest continent. Since the Congo contains nearly 30 million people who speak 200 languages, it presents a great challenge to the Bible Societies of the world.

In order to meet the increasing demand for Scriptures, the American Bible Society is sharing jointly with the British and Foreign Bible Society the cost of the program of translation and distribution in the Congo Basin.

David Livingstone's first journey into the Congo was made in 1856, and Stanley's a mere 80 years ago. Since then some two million natives have joined the Protestant churches, and 50,000 members are added annually under the leadership of the 2,000 missionaries in the area.

Education and enlightenment are making their marks on the Congo, and the tremendous demand for the Bible is a challenge that the Bible Societies are straining their present resources to meet.

The Word of God in their own tongue

The continent of South America has received a stream of immigrants during the last 150 years, which requires the British and Foreign Bible Society to supply the Scriptures in the following languages:

Portugese; German; Japanese; English; Spanish; Russian; Italian; French; Polish; Arabic; Yiddish; Greek; Hungarian; Armenian; Hebrew; Esperanto and Latin.

Many of such people are refugees, and the Bible Society assists in making them feel at home by making available the Word of God in their own tongue.

Increase of literacy

"Before I could read, I was no better than a bench," said a woman in an Egyptian village. "Now I can sing, and I can read the words in my Bible, so I know the stories the minister tells in his sermons. I am part of this service, I am a person."

The increase in literacy throughout the world challenges the people of the more literate countries to help to supply books worth reading. Books are so precious to the new literates that a woman quoted above keeps her Bible in the bread-box so that it will never rot away.

Graduate Nurse

Miss Frances Joan Teresa Dwyer, R.N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Dwyer, of Lachute, was among the recent graduates receiving their diploma from the Montreal General School of Nursing.

God's Kingdom a Sure Thing!

Peace is as sure as tomorrow's sunrise, and just as independent of men. Isaiah 9: verses 6 - 7.

For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: And the government shall be upon his shoulders, and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace.

Of the increase of his government and peace, there shall be no end.

Daniel 2: 44 — In the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed; And the kingdom shall not be left to other people, but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms; And it shall stand forever.

Lord's Prayer Nears Complete Answer

"Our Father in the heavens, let your name be sanctified. Let your kingdom come. Let your will come to pass, as in heaven, also upon earth." — Matthew 6: 9, 10, New World Trans.

Do you say the Lord's Prayer? . . . Are you looking forward to God's Kingdom? . . . Do you know the prayer nears a complete answer?

The Bible study aid, "New Heavens and a New Earth", clearly shows that the foundation for the prayed-for new world of righteousness has been laid. This 384-page book explains fulfillment of God's promise to establish "the new heavens and the new earth" told of by Isaiah the prophet and referred to by the apostle Peter. Indeed, the Kingdom is at hand! For conclusive evidence that the Lord's prayer is nearing complete answer and that soon God's will through his kingdom will be done on earth, send for this Bible study aid.

A copy of this absorbing book, "New Heavens and a New Earth", will be sent to you, postpaid, promptly. Enclose 50 cents — write 150 Bridgeland Ave, Toronto, 19, Ont., or ask any Jehovah Witness you may happen to meet, anywhere.

Social pressures in zoo inmates

If anyone thinks that our animal friends in the zoo have a pretty soft time, he should take a look at some recent studies done at the Philadelphia Zoological Gardens, says The Financial Post.

Autopsies show that arteriosclerosis among zoo inhabitants—hardening of the arteries — has increased 10-20 in the last 40 years. . . . The reason: "Social pressures".

In captivity, the inability to run away and the greater density of animals create pressures that increase social quarrels, fighting and hyper-sexuality, according to Hediger. The big trouble, says the researcher, is that the animals can still see each other after their fight. This leads to quarrels that are never settled — and to hardening of the arteries.

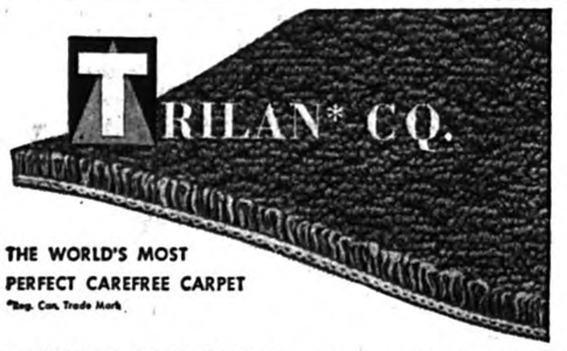

No parallels are drawn with the world of humans. But these findings will, no doubt, give pause to the caged city-dweller who has retired crossly to his desk after a brisk little exchange of tempers in his office.

St. Lawrence Seaway

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Millions of Americans and Canadians are thinking of the St. Lawrence - Great Lakes Seaway. On the morning of June 26, President Eisenhower and Mrs. Eisenhower will fly from Washington to Montreal to join Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip on the Royal Yacht Britannia, "for the purpose of jointly contributing to the opening ceremonies of the new Seaway", as Hansard reports.

During the last century the St. Lawrence - Great Lakes waterway has played a great part in the industrial development of Canada. By providing for bulk commodities, especially wheat, cheap transportation across half our country, our Canadian goods have been able to compete in world markets and goods from other lands have been carried to us without too great a cost.

From the Head of the Great Lakes to Montreal 31 locks were built in the early days to by-pass the rapids and un-navigable stretches of water. These became inadequate for modern ships. In order to handle larger sea-going vessels and extend deep-sea facilities into the Great Lakes, the St. Lawrence Seaway Project was begun.

The Joint Seaway, built by Canada and United States, is 1,200 miles long and it will take ships up to 765 feet in length. Compare the length of this seaway with the 53 miles of the Panama Canal or the 103 miles of the Suez. At the same time remember that the Suez water is all sea level while the Panama's elevation is only 85 feet. The new Seaway will accommodate ships with a draft of 25 feet from tidewater to an elevation of 602 feet in Lake Superior.

The estimated cost of the Seaway, along with the hydro-power development was $1,025,000,000. Stuart Armour, economic advisor, Steel Company of Canada, has calculated that the Canadian expenditures, past and current, represent more than $45 for each man, woman and child in our 17.3 million population.

But no one can estimate how much this Seaway will mean to the future of Canada and no Canadian can help being thrilled by the completion of such a stupendous task. In summer heat and in sub-zero weather, the work has gone on. Immense masses of earth have been moved, long stretches of the channel have been dredged, protecting dykes have been constructed, bridges have been raised and a new bridge built. A large area around Iroquois and Morrisburg was flooded, with three new communities established by Ontario Hydro.

Thousands of visitors will be present when Her Majesty the Queen opens the Seaway, and thousands will continue to visit this lovely farming region in the lowlands of the Canadian Shield. Perhaps this vacation you and your family will be able to take a trip and see this amazing achievement—this dream come true.

Strawberries are special!

Strawberries are special any time of the year but particularly while they are in season and lusciously fresh. The home economists of Canada's Kitchen have developed many good strawberry recipes.

When you buy fresh strawberries, be sure to choose those that are bright and fresh-looking, ripe, firm and rosy-red. Check to see that the berries throughout the box are as good as the ones on top. Also, check the bottom of the box for signs of juice having seeped through; if there are pink stains it is very likely that the berries are over-ripe and soft.

Damp berries spoil quickly, so don't wash them until you are ready to use them. If you have space for a tray in your refrigerator it's a good idea to pour the strawberries out of the box and spread them on the tray so the air can circulate around them. Leave the hulls on the berries until after they are washed or the berries may lose some of their color and flavor and become a little watery in texture.

Now, to get back to those recipes — here are one or two of the best ones. (Directions for making jam and preserves or for freezing and canning strawberries are available in the free publications "Jams, Jellies and Pickles", "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables" and "Freezing Foods. Write to Information Service, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.)

Strawberry Sherbet

1 Quart fresh strawberries, ¾ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 teaspoons gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, 1½ cups milk, 1 egg white, few grains salt, 2 tablespoons sugar.

Wash, hull and crush berries. Stir in the ¾ cup sugar and lemon juice. Let stand 10 minutes. Soak gelatine in cold water 5 minutes, then dissolve over hot water. Stir gelatine into strawberries and add milk. Turn into freezer tray and freeze until almost firm.

Make a meringue of the egg white, salt and 2 tablespoons sugar. Remove frozen mixture from freezer, place in a bowl, then break into chunks and crush with a fork until it becomes a smooth frozen mush. Immediately fold into meringue, return to freezer tray and freeze until firm. 6 to 8 servings.

Strawberry Shortcake

2 Cups sifted all-purpose flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 3 tablespoons shortening, 1 egg yolk, ¾ cup milk.

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in the shortening until mixture resembles fine bread crumbs. Beat egg yolk and milk and add to flour mixture, forming a soft dough.

To make individual shortcakes: Roll biscuit dough ¾ inch thick and cut with a medium-sized cookie cutter. Bake in a very hot oven, 425°F. 12-15 minutes. Split while hot, fill with crushed, slightly sweetened berries and top with whipped cream.

To make Strawberry Roll: Roll biscuit dough in a rectangle ¼ inch thick. Spread with sliced strawberries and sprinkle with a little sugar. Roll up like a jelly roll. Cut in one-inch slice. Place cut side down on a greased baking sheet and bake in a hot oven, 400° F. about 15 minutes. Serve with crushed, sweetened berries.

Strawberry Delight

2 Cups hulled strawberries, ¾ cup sugar, few grains salt, 1 tablespoon gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, 1 cup whipping cream, whipped.

Crush strawberries, add sugar and salt and stir well. Let stand 10 minutes. Soak gelatine in the cold water for 5 minutes. Pour off juice from strawberries into a saucepan and heat. Add soaked gelatine, remove from heat and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Add strawberries, stir well, then chill. When mixture is partially set, fold in whipped cream.

For dessert: Turn into a 4-cup mould and chill until firm. Unmould and serve garnished with whole berries. 6 servings.

For pie: Turn into 9" baked pie shell, chill and garnish as above.

Written Specially for The Lachute Watchman

By Carolyn Willett, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Except for the modern dress of the guests, the scene might have been in the 17th century at an Elizabethan banquet recently in Ontario's Stratford.

The pre-festival dinner took six weeks of preparation by chef James McCurdy of Stratford. A great deal of research was done to obtain the 300-year-old recipes.

The menu included salmagundi, a mixture of cold turkey, chicken and ham chopped into small pieces, moistened with olive oil and terragon vinegar and garnished with hardboiled eggs and anchovy strips; Elizabethan spring soup in wooden bowls, royal Elizabethan beef and royal sallet.

Bifurcated daggers of the 17th century replaced modern knives and forks for the occasion.

Tumblers, jesters and jugglers entertained the guests, in the old tradition. Cost of the banquet for 450 guests was estimated at $10,000.

Wives' Worth

Wives don't ever have to "feel like two cents" again. That slang expression came to mind when three British judges decided a wife is worth $840. The decision was reached in the Court of Appeal, when a Sussex dairyman sued for a settlement after his wife left him.

The three justices, all married for more than 30 years, had varied opinions. Lord Justice Haman thought the dairyman was lucky. Lord Justice Sellers noted that the man would have to cook his own breakfast.

Lord Justice Hodson said: "Just as you lose a horse or cow, so you also lose a wife." And so they decided to allow the dairyman $840.

Summer Favorite

The federal agriculture department is still reminding us to buy pork, to help use up the surplus held in government storage.

Barbecued spareribs are a summer favorite.

Use three pounds side ribs or 1½ to 2 pounds back ribs. Cut in three inch pieces of three ribs each. Place on rack in centre of hot oven (425) for 30 minutes. Pour off fat. Remove rack and cover with three cups of barbecue sauce. Reduce oven temperature to 325 degrees and continue baking for 1½ hours. Baste several times with sauce. Makes four servings.

Barbecue sauce: Mix two tablespoons brown sugar with 1½ teaspoons dry mustard, ½ to ¾ teaspoons chili powder, 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Add 1½ tablespoons spicy meat sauce, 3 tablespoons vinegar, ¾ finely chopped onion and 3 cups tomato juice. Simmer 10 minutes. Makes 3 cups.

Eye Bank

In West Vancouver, the entire membership of 24 present at a Toastmistresses' Club meeting pledged their eyes at death to the eye bank sponsored by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

In British Columbia last year sight was restored to 22 residents by successful corneal transplantations, using corneas supplied by the provincial eye bank.

FOR THE COOK

To appreciate fully the fine flavor butter brings to baked foods, make half your next batch of cookies with butter, the rest with other cooking fat. Taste the difference!

Telephone facilities for Her Majesty's tour

Queen Elizabeth will be able to call virtually any place in the world from the royal train during the course of her tour, by merely picking up the standard green telephone in the drawing room of her car. The set, one of five provided on the train by the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, can be plugged in or removed by the steward, W. L. Notley, as required. Canadian telephone systems have also provided numerous other telephone facilities during the tour, such as portable microwave towers (shown right) which permit on-the-spot television coverage of special events during the tour.

June's pervasive smells, and dust; a candid thought for storekeepers

"Sunnyacres Sketches"

By Margaret Cook

Here we sit, surrounded by — paint brush, buttercups, daisies, blackberry blossoms, lemon lillies, yellow loosestrife, blue and pink lupins, assorted pansies, ditto columbine — lush ferns such as cinnamon, royal, wood, maidenhair, Christmas, interrupted, and just plain bracken. The lawn is a hayfield, which the head of the house is even now trying to reclaim. In short, Nature is on a binge, and the writer feels as if she were recovering from one. (Or so I think, since I have never indulged to that extent.)

Anyway, the sense of smell is intact; let us consider scents, which should be an integral and important part of living — but urban life has so debauched this sense with gasoline and smoke that it is all but atrophied. In May, the prevailing odor was that of the chokecherry blossoms; it is so powerful that, after a day or two in the house, it is necessary to throw the bouquet out, the sweet cloying smell having deteriorated into a horrible stench resembling that of several strong tom-cats. On the other hand, the blossoms of the pin-cherry have a delicate odor, not as sweet as that of the tiny white violets but still very pleasant to the nostrils. But the smells of June are quite another thing, they are pervasive, the year has grown up and wants you to know it; the scents from all the above-mentioned flowers and plants mingle with that of the pines, tamaracks and balsams in one glorious bouquet. Before the eyes are open, the nose is alert and the mind registers "Sunnyacres", whereas, the first whiff in the city is that of rotting primeval mud from the Seaway and fumes from the diesels. Yes, we have escaped, along with thousands of others, for two months of country living. The cars on the road, like ours were filled with bags, groceries, deflated rubber equipment for fun on the water, other toys, mattresses, oars, paddles, hammocks, duffle-bags, lawn-mowers, children, dogs and a few cats. Everybody looked happy — except the drivers.

Having escaped from the city, we can afford to be charitable and admit it has its rewarding moments — there was the sight of four nuns sitting under an artificial Tree of Life in a downtown restaurant, obviously enjoying a lunch out. One was reminded of a bit in the "Nun's Story" of how the good sisters gorged on board ship, because they had been taught never, never to be conspicuous, and to demand different plainer food was to be just that. The four were consuming tall glasses of ice-cream topped with rich sauce. Then there are American tourists, always a source of amusement, as well as dollars. In the more exclusive restaurants, they are appreciative of the good food, and the comparatively low prices. The French puzzles and fascinates them; sometimes we feel the good manners of the waiters do, also. . . .

Which leads me to digress to recount the unusual philosophy of a young friend of ours who is next summer going to Europe with a friend. They cannot agree on a ship, or rather, on a shipping company. The friend favors a French line, "because of the cooking"; our friend would like a Scandinavian boat because he would like to know Scandinavians; the parents favor the Cunard, but neither young man will hear of it, "too stuffy". But our traveller opines he will go on any line except an American. To me, murmuring about the recklessness of Americans, he responded, "No, it's the service". According to him, this is perhaps the trip of his life and he is not going to be pushed around by waiters, or served by people who obviously are thinking, "I'm just as good as he is, the big slob". The Europeans, he says, have centuries of training in service behind them, and although they know they are just as good waiters, not to say a lot better than the ones they serve, they are also under no delusion as to who is paying for what. A thoughtful appraisal. I should add that the friend is not just a tyro traveller sounding off, having been on cruises here and there with assorted companies.

Having got so far afield, we shall abandon the tourists and answer the question perhaps buzzing around in the minds of some readers. — Why did not the loyal Margaret Cook await the arrival of the Queen and the Opening of the Seaway? Let me hasten to say that, unlike one of our greener and younger female broadcasters, it was not because we were indifferent to the Queen! The writer feels that British Royalty is a stabilizing force in a world seemingly gone crazy about the theory of the goodness, wisdom and general desirability of the "common man". The Royal Family is the prototype of every family in the Commonwealth, our national respect and dignity is intertwined with theirs, so that we mourn when one of them commits an error, and feel uplifted when one proudly witnesses her allegiance to such silly things as truth, righteousness and dignity. So — God Save the Queen, and confound the petty politicians who try to kill her on these excursions abroad. There is, to me, no thrill in seeing the Queen and her alert husband along with thousands of others on this particular occasion. The opening of the Seaway is, indeed, an historic occasion inextricably mixed up with peanuts, popcorn, howling children, shrilling whistles, etc. No, thank you.

Now, if any Lachute readers have stayed so far with us, we would like to say something that will really interest them, to wit: If something is not done to control the dust on Route 30, and the rolling miniature boulders on the roadbed, the Lachute merchants are not going to see anyone from along its way! We shall all go to St. Jerome over a good, paved road, to excellent shops in the centre of the town, and a Shopping Centre on the outskirts. We have also heard the complaint, although have not ourselves experienced it, that Lachute merchants display their goods, then say, in effect, "Take it, or leave it". Whereas, the Gallic smiles and agreeableness are much to the fore in St. Jerome. Also, the Farmers' Market in that town twice a week is a definite attraction. Why is there no such thing in Lachute, surrounded as it is by good farmers? Why is there only one place where one can get a good, home-cooked lunch? . . . How dare I suggest anything is not perfect in Lachute? For one thing, I consider that Lachute is my home town as much as any place. For another thing, I was brought up (or was I?) mainly in Granby, and the people of Granby are well-known for their general brashness, and the town is known for its prosperity . . . Now, all Lachute readers burn this copy!

C.N.I.B. Auxiliary held meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind was held June 16 at the Drew Street headquarters.

Final plans were made for the annual White Cane picnic to be held July 8 at the Rotary Park. A letter was read from Mrs. Robitaille, accepting an invitation to include the White Cane Club from St. Jerome.

The "talking book machines" recently purchased by the Auxiliary are now in use by White Cane members.

The Ladies' Auxiliary passed a motion that two table-bowling sets be bought, to be used by the Club at their regular monthly meetings. These sets will enable the group to further their recreational activities.

An urgent appeal is extended to the public for used or nearly-new men's clothing; donations would be greatly appreciated — a telephone call would enable the Auxiliary to pick up any clothing available (LO 2-2686).

Mrs. J. Ponech then gave the nominating committee's slate of officers for 1959-60:

Hon. President, Mrs. W. M. Cottingham.
Past-President, Mrs. L. Richardson.
President, Mrs. M. Leishman.
1st Vice-president, Mrs. D. Cowan.
2nd Vice-president, Mrs. J. Townsend.
Treasurer, Mrs. G. Higginson.
Secretary, Mrs. T. Dwyer.

Morin Heights

(Intended for last issue)

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stock, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eddge, Mrs. A. Stapleton, Miss Edna Eddge and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Seale, attended the closing exercises at St. Helen's School, Dunham — being accompanied home by their daughters, Sandra Stock, Juanita Eddge and Sandra Seale.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Paquette, of St. Lambert, visited Mr. and Mrs. M. Dey.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Tucker, of Montreal, spent a day here visiting friends.

Mr. Matt Dey is spending several months in Battleford, Sask., visiting his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. Rourke.

Mr. C. M. Hodgdon visited here with Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Dey.

Mrs. Hazen Riddell, of Mille Isles, entertained recently a bathroom shower for Miss Marilyn Dey.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brown and family, of Montreal West, spent the week-end here at their cottage.

Mr. Bjarne Kvendbo, of Rosemere, visited here with friends.

BANK OF MONTREAL
Family Finance Plan
Bring all your personal credit needs under one roof
with a low-cost B of M life-insured loan

There's no better, sounder, more convenient way to finance your purchases for your home and family than the new Bank of Montreal Family Finance Plan. With it, you can plan your purchases and meet unexpected opportunities and emergencies under one single comprehensive plan.

Read these four good reasons why — whether married or single — you should use the B of M's Family Finance Plan. See if they don't add up to better living for you and your family.

1. All loans are automatically life-insured. Should you die before your loan is repaid, your debt to the Bank will be cancelled.
2. Monthly repayments can be extended up to two years — or even three, if need be. This means that FFP can be tailored to suit any salary.
3. You can borrow up to $3,500, depending on your income, to buy the things you want for your home and family, or to meet emergencies.
4. Planned repayments help you run your income — instead of letting it run you.

Almost any reasonable purpose may be financed through the Bank of Montreal Family Finance Plan — including vacation, school and college expenses and so on. The Bank of Montreal will gladly advance the necessary cash as long as you can afford repayments without hardship.

Whether you are a B of M customer or not, this modern low-cost way to get the things you want for your home and family is available to you. Why not talk to the people at your neighbourhood B of M branch today?

Horse pulling contest winners

Six teams competed in the heavyweight class at the Lachute Legion's horse pulling contest, before a large crowd at the grandstand Saturday night. Top-place winner was Jerry Wellspeak, from Bennington, Vt. His team, weighing 4,300 lbs, pulled a total load of 7,400 lbs.

In the lightweight class, with eight teams entered, H. Simard, of Plantagenet, Ont., took top honors. His team, weighing 3,250 lbs, hauled a load of 6,800 lbs.

Moods of the Ottawa River

— By Ethel Kettyle —

(Chapter IV)

THE DAM

The Carillon Dam across the Ottawa River, of which the start of building took place about the year 1873, has been one of the great works of art and a triumph in engineering skill. It was built by the Canadian Government, with the interests of commerce in mind, and to increase the depth of water in the canals; also to obstruct the rapids in the Ottawa River in that locality.

The Dam was 2,400 feet long and 12 feet high. It was made of cribs filled with stone, which was supplied by the farmers at 45 and 50 cents per yard. Near the middle was a slide for the passage of timber; this was 28 feet wide and 800 feet long, and approached 2,800 feet of boom. An apron at the top and foot of the slide regulated the quantity of water required, and "stop logs" served the same purpose in the passage of timber.

A house, painted red, covering the entrance of the slide, was a conspicuous object on the Dam, and attracted the notice of strangers.

The cost of building the Dam at that time was $1,350,000. Because of the great cost there had formerly been much opposition, and during the McKenzie regime work on the structure was wholly suspended, but it was resumed again when his successor came into office. The structure was completed in the year of 1881.

In the year of 1883, a portion of the Dam gave way, but at some expense it was repaired.

Although a great number of men were employed for the work on the Dam, over quite a period of time, it was thought remarkable that only one serious accident occurred during its construction. On the day that the sluices were closed, a worker slipped as he was walking on the Dam and fell into the water, with fatal results.

However, we shall later see, that a few years afterwards an accident took place, which, although there was no loss of life, the avoidance of tragedy seemed little less than a miracle.

Ever since the building of the Dam, the waterway from Ottawa to Montreal has been considered a thing of beauty, especially around the vicinity of Carillon. Although off the main No. 8 highway, many feel that it is well worth their while to take a jaunt down to see the Dam and the surrounding countryside. On a Sunday afternoon, or almost any evening in spring, many cars may be seen parked along the canal at Carillon, while men sit or stand along the banks fishing. The district is also a favorite of artists, who find many beautiful spots which are suitable for art subjects.

According to rumor, some of the beauty spots may soon be taken over, for a time at least, by hordes of workers with their trucks and their equipment . . . but still the river flows on and on, never ceasing, and greater and stronger than an army of men.

This young lad is really going places. He knows the value of a dollar — because he worked hard over the past year to buy this pony. He saved every penny and nickel by doing farm chores for his Dad.

While the Minister of Agriculture's budget at Ottawa runs into millions of dollars, he has to justify his expenditures down to the last cent.

His money comes through the Minister of Finance who gets it largely in taxes from Canadians such as you. When he spends more than he takes in, he must borrow from you . . . or else create new money. The creation of new money is one factor that leads to inflation — which means your dollar buys less and less.

The government has been spending more than you have been paying in taxes. To narrow the gap between income and expenditures, new taxes have been imposed.

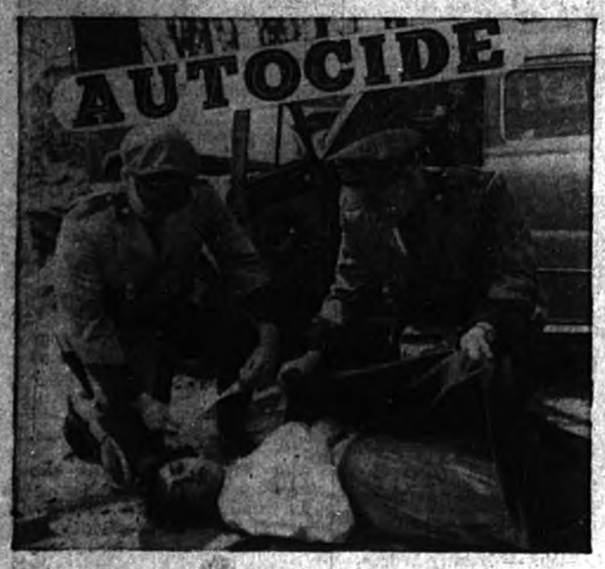

You can encourage the government to live within its income by asking only for those services you are willing to pay for with taxes. Tell your M.P. at Ottawa that since you are trying to save, you expect government to do the same.

You also help when you save more by means of life insurance, savings deposits, and the purchase of government bonds. Your savings help to create a SOUND dollar; and this, in turn, helps to create job security for you and more jobs for other Canadians.

A SOUND DOLLAR MEANS A BETTER LIFE FOR YOU

By
OTIS M. WHITNEY
Commissioner, Massachusetts Department of Public Safety

— It is quite evident that the right-thinking people must be shocked into the realization that a terrible disease is sweeping the country. The toll in 1955 was 38,300 dead — a number that can be compared with the entire population of any one of these cities: Reno, Nevada; Waukegan, Illinois; Fort Lauderdale, Florida; Revere, Massachusetts or Fargo, North Dakota. And when an additional 1,350,000 persons are injured, the disease certainly has reached epidemic proportions!

The disease can well be called "autocide."

I strongly feel that this epidemic could be checked to a great extent if there were enough police to guarantee sufficient traffic supervision in the same way that all of our bodily ills could be controlled if we had enough doctors administering enough preventive medicine. In 1954 one or more violations of the rules of the road were being committed in 83 per cent of the fatal automobile accidents, pointing to enforcement as a real need.

In the laboratories, startling discoveries are being made of new vaccines which will control killing and crippling viruses. But they are useless if there are not enough doctors to administer the vaccine.

The legislators, engineers, and educators have given, or can give, enforcement officers the antidote for preventing accidents but police forces are so small it's like giving an aspirin for an elephant's headache.

To illustrate what a large police force can do in the way of accident reduction, let us compare the country as a whole with my state, where accident prevention activities are coordinated by the chairman of the Massachusetts Highway Safety Committee, Rudolph F. King, the Registrar of Motor Vehicles.

In Massachusetts there are about 2.4 police officers per 1,000 population compared with the national average of 1.9.

In 1955 the autocide death rate per 100,000 persons was 11.6 in Massachusetts as compared with the national toll of 23.3.

Maybe you might say that measuring the death rate by population is not a good criteria. Well, let's take the other yardstick — mileage. Massachusetts had a death rate by autocide of 3.5 per 100 million miles whereas the United States rate was 6.4.

Another example was shown in New Jersey. In 1952, deaths on the New Jersey Turnpike, where 38 state policemen were assigned, came to an average of 6.1 per 100 million miles — higher than for state highways generally. The following year they increased the turnpike patrol to 65 men and in two years following the rate declined to 2.47.

However, I do not believe that the assignment of traffic patrols should be considered solely on a population or mileage basis. There are many sections in the United States, especially in the rural areas, where there is a dire need for patrols on a geographical basis. This is a responsibility usually assigned to State Police or State Highway Patrols.

Estimates made by the Institute for Safer Driving after a survey they made show that only 5,000 state highway patrol officers are responsible for 3 million miles of paved highways — one for every six hundred miles! And they can only work one shift each day!

The future portends a great influx of vehicles on our highways. The United States Bureau of Public Roads estimates that car, truck and bus registrations will reach a total of 81 million within the next ten years as compared with 58 million now. There certainly will be a need for a lot more shepherds to take care of this increase in the flock! The strength of the police throughout the nation must increase at least 20 percent in the very near future before enforcement's role in saving lives will be felt.

I realize we cannot saturate the highways of the country with police, but what we can do is at least obtain a sufficient increase in the present number, improve police training and plan a campaign of efficient enforcement — a campaign leveled at improper behaviour by the motorist at the time of the act. This is the kind of action that gets results.

The next article, "Coast-to-Coast Uniform Traffic Laws," is written by Sidney J. Williams, Chairman, National Committee of Uniform Traffic Laws and Ordinances; Assistant to the President, National Safety Council.

The Police have a horrible word for it . . . AUTOCIDE!

Once again, this newspaper warns business people and householders to be on the watch for the legitimacy of outside salesmen entering the town and canvassing business places or homes. There is often a "gimmick" attached that leaves a sour note once the proposition is understood.

the A-B-C's of Adequate Wiring!

It's easy to understand adequate wiring. First, you need a large enough entrance for Reddy to enter . . . this is called the service entrance panel . . . it's where the main switch is located. Next, you need large enough wires throughout the house to carry Reddy in ample quantities to the points of use . . . dishwasher, range, dryer, etc. And finally, for convenience, you need plenty of electric outlets . . . places where it's easy to plug in lamps, toasters or other electrical appliances without running long, unsightly cords and without having "octopus" plugs in the outlets.
