Half-century of service with C-I-L, Brownsburg

Frank Vowles (centre), machinist in the electric blasting cap department of the ammunition plant of Canadian Industries Limited, Brownsburg, admires the chime clock presented to him by his colleagues during a reception in his honor marking his 50th year as an employee of the plant. Mr. Vowles, who began working at the plant when a boy of 13 years, has two sons also employed there — Gerald and Alan. Others in the photo are K. W. MacGibbon (left), manager of the C-I-L Brownsburg works, and S. J. Smart, general manager of the company's ammunition division.

Girl orator wins French-speaking Que. eliminations

Miss Lise Landry, a 10th year student at the St. Alexandre School, Lachute, carried off the honors last Saturday in the Lions Club public speaking Quebec eliminations, held at St Lambert.

First place among the English-speaking girls was taken by a student from Ahuntsic; among English-speaking boys, a student from St. Lambert; among French speaking boys, a student from St. Johns.

Another entrant from Lachute, Gilbert Desjardins, from Grade XI, l'Ecole Secondaire, came second, only a fraction of a point behind the French-speaking winner.

Lise Landry, who spoke on the topic "True Family Life" will be one of those entitled to compete for the inter-provincial championships, to be held next Saturday, again at St. Lambert.

Gerard Lefebvre, Lions Club committeeman for this activity, accompanied his two young charges to the contests last Saturday.

Blaze extinguished in wood factory

A fire of a mysterious nature occurred in the Charlebois woodworking shop, Bedard Blvd., early Monday morning, but was quickly extinguished by members of the volunteer fire brigade.

The fire alarm sounded shortly before 4 a.m. and within several minutes firemen had water on the blaze, which at that time had burned a large hole through the roof. The fire, found in several sections of the building, was quickly extinguished.

One of the proprietors of the establishment reported being in the building several hours previous to the fire, and finding everything in order. Both fire trucks were taken to the scene, and two lines of hose laid. The extensive loss was partially covered by insurance.

Doug Harvey Night at Legion Hall big 'do' for hockey kids, dads, vets

Legion Branch 70, Lachute, wound up its largest youth program to date in gala style with a closing supper and presentation attended by National Hockey League star Doug Harvey.

Some 40 boys, comprising the 1959-60 Pee-Wee and Bantam hockey teams sponsored by the Canadian Legion in the Lachute Lions' League, attended with their dads. Each received a sports jacket with Legion crest and a miniature hockey stick, autographed by the star, at a supper held in their honor at the Memorial Hall on Saturday evening last.

The boys, young and old, joined with gusto in a sing-song led by Legionnaires Jim Duncan and Ken Riley at the piano, after a delicious supper prepared and served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Branch 70 under President Mrs. Wm. Bradshaw.

After the head-table introduction by the chairman, Legion President B. A. Jenkins, each parent or sponsor introduced himself and son.

The highlight of the evening came when Doug Harvey was called upon to address the gathering and to answer the many questions the sons and fathers had stored up for this occasion.

When introducing Doug Harvey, the chairman remarked, "As one of the all-time great defencemen, you have endeared yourself in the hearts of these young players and to hockey fans, particularly of this district, by your great playing ability and spirit, by your good sportsmanship and by your manly bearing on the ice at all times. These are the qualities of citizenship that the Legion members are endeavoring to instill into the young Lachute players, both on and off the ice."

Mr. Harvey proved himself to be a "man's man," a friend of the youngsters and certainly a good ambassador for organized hockey. He is a clean-cut young chap, a good conversationalist, and the quality of sincerity is obviously a key to his popularity with young and old.

Doug Harvey told the young players present that his formula for prospective N.H.L. stars would be:

(1) You must like the game.

(2) You must work very hard and earn well the fundamentals of good skating and accurate shooting.

(3) Keep yourself in top physical condition.

Doug said that professional hockey has been good to him, that he has been one of its more fortunate players. He mentioned that, as a youngster, his desire to play was so great he frequently ate his lunch on skates. He warned those present against smoking, pointing out that today his only smoke is a very occasional cigar, and that never on the day of a game.

He felt that good will and team spirit accounts for much of the strength of the present-day Canadiens hockey team. Tongue and religion do not interfere with their comradeship. He gave much credit for their success to "Toe" Blake, coach, and Mr. Selke, general manager.

It was learned that he derives much personal interest and satisfaction when he sees kiddies develop into good hockey players and good citizens. He remarked to Lion President Lorne Duncan, the deep gratitude he bears for that organization, as it was through Lions-sponsored junior hockey teams that this young Montrealer found his way to senior and eventually champion professional ranks. He fre-

Plans set for tercentenary of Dollard at Carillon

Final touches to the program of celebrations are being completed by the committee for the tercentenary of Dollard des Ormeaux and his Long Sault exploit. Exercises will be observed in the week from May 22 to 29 at Carillon, to mark the anniversary of this historic sacrifice.

Present to grace the occasion will be His Excellency Bishop Frenette, of St. Jerome, who will celebrate open-air pontifical mass on the closing day; also Justice Redmond Roche, who will speak to the English-language section of the gathering.

Mass at 11 a.m. on the opening Sunday will be followed by afternoon proceedings. Mgr. H. D. J. Brosseau, canon at Montebello, and Mr. Jean Laforest, television and radio script writer, will be among the speakers. The roll of honor will be recited at the Dollard monument at 2 p.m., and there will be open-air folk dancing at night.

Numerous delegations are expected during the celebration week, from Montreal, Ottawa and the Eastern Townships. The hydro workings in progress at Carillon will also doubtless interest these visitors.

Further information on the preparations may be had from Mr. C. A. Shaffer (Box 185, St. Andrews) who is chairman of the committee.

Reject CNR appeal to cut services, Hawkesbury line

Montreal (CP) — The Board of Transport Commissioners has rejected an appeal by the CNR against a Board decision dismissing the railway's application to discontinue certain passenger train services between Montreal and Hawkesbury, Ont.

The Board said the publicly-owned railway had not been able to show that the decision should be altered.

The company had asked permission to discontinue five trains, some daily and some week-end, on the ground that they have been losing money on the 54-mile stretch.

Rejection of the company's original application was announced by the Board on February 5.

Supper rally opens Concerts campaign next Monday

Monday, May 9, marks the opening of the Community Concerts membership campaign; and at an opening rally that night in the Legion Hall, Lachute, workers will assemble and plan their local coverage, under the campaign chairmanship of Mme Fernand Legault assisted by Mrs. G. R. Rigby.

This is the 13th annual membership drive of the Community Concerts Association in Lachute. A number of the executive officers have stayed with this organization since its inception. From a highly enthusiastic beginning — when budgets permitted the booking of popular attractions like the Don Cossacks and the De Paur Chorus — the Association passed through more difficult years, when the public appeared apathetic to music as a cultural element in the community. Weathering the mass appeal of "canned" entertainment and television, the personal appearance of well known artists in stage recitals has regained popular favor, and the outlook grows brighter each year for the success of this movement, in Lachute and similar centres off the beaten track of stardom.

The campaign for Community Concerts is not without effort and hard slugging, however, and the canvassers look for a ready response from existing members and a good quota of new enrolments for the 1960-61 season.

DISTRICT ORGANIZERS MEET FINE RESPONSE —

Cancer drive continues in outlying county area

The Canadian Cancer Campaign is complete in Lachute. The results so far have been very encouraging, and there are high hopes of the campaign exceeding its quota.

Chairman Royal Carriere, and Co-chairman Willard Steeves, reporting on the outlying districts, said the response has been very gratifying. Mr. Colin McOuat, Mr. W. M. Steeves and Col. E. Emmett have spent weeks travelling through flooded areas and rough roads, assisting local workers to organize their districts. An expression of appreciation was voiced for the thorough coverage made possible by the devoted efforts of all other volunteers.

Captains of the outlying districts are as follows:

Arundel — Mrs. Oliver Moore,

Cushing — Mrs. M. Wilson,

Dunany — Mrs. Leonard Gain,

Thomas Gore, Hill Head — Mrs. James Berry,

Grenville, Grenville Bay — Mr. Howard Crooks.

Harrington, Avoca, Bell Falls — Mr. Leslie Campbell,

Hill Foot — Mrs. Ed Robertson,

Lachute, R.R. 1 and R.R. 3 — Miss Hanna Smith and Mrs. E. Emmett.

Lakefield, R.R. 1 — Mrs. A. R. Walker,

Mille Isles — Mrs. J. W. Maxwell,

Morin Heights and Lac St. Denis Station — Mrs. Ross Gillingham,

Pointe au Chene — Mr. M. Champagne,

St. Andrews East — Mr. Horton Clark,

St. Michel, Pine Hill — Mrs. Jerry Collins,

St. Philippe — Mrs. Stanley Donaldson,

Weir, Lost River — Mrs. E. Shippell.

Young children victims of two traffic mishaps

Richard Soumis, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Soumis, Lachute, received emergency treatment at the Providence Hospital Friday evening and was later transferred to St. Justine Hospital, Montreal, following an accident in which he suffered a fractured skull.

The mishap occurred at the corner of College and Bethany Streets when the child is reported to have walked into the side of a moving car owned by Herbert Neill and driven by his 18-year-old son, Wayne, both of Dunany. The driver of the car reported to police that he stopped for the intersection at Bethany Street and noticed the child on the sidewalk. When making the turn, he heard a bang and, stopping the car, saw the boy on the road. The little victim was taken home by his mother, who summoned Dr. Jules Lafleur, and later taken to hospital.

According to Cst. Gilles Poirier, who investigated, it appeared that the youngster walked into the rear door of the 1953-model car. He was reported to be in satisfactory condition on Monday.

The previous evening, Linda Young, 20-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Young, 439 Henry Street, was treated for shock. The girl was reportedly playing in the yard when frightened by a car backing-up close to her.

The car was driven by a neighboring businessman, Lucien Cyr. Dr. Jules Lafleur attended the child at the Providence Hospital, and the incident was investigated by Cst. Gilles Poirier.

An over-statement

Capt. Ernest Johnson, who was creditably mentioned in the report on "Here Comes Charlie" — a Frontier W. I. presentation in which he played an efficient role as director — has drawn our attention to an error in this report last week. Capt. Johnson wishes it to be known that he is not "over 80 years young" as mentioned; in fact, he is several years younger — and, if we may say so, his energy well substantiates this fact.

The Watchman apologizes for this over-statement of Capt. Johnson's age.

'Clinic' date for driver's tests

The mobile "clinic" of the Department of Highways traffic division will be in Lachute Wednesday, May 11, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., stationed at the Court House on Grace Street. Persons wishing to qualify for driver's licenses should apply and take their tests on this date.

Regimental C.O. inspects local cadet unit

On Monday evening, April 24, the local Cadet Unit, Highland Cadet Battn., "D" Coy., held their annual inspection.

The inspecting officer was Lt. Col. A. Malouf, C.D., sponsor of the unit, also Commanding Officer of the allifiated Militia unit, the 37th Field Regiment R.C.A., of which the local battery is a part.

The proceedings were in two main parts, the actual inspection and march past, followed by drill demonstrations and demonstrations of rifle, light machine gun and signal equipment, given to parents and visitors.

During the inspection, Corporal's chevrons were awarded to Cadets G. Morrin, R. Morrin, and E. Pearson.

A presentation of a pocket knife given by the unit, and a medal, given by the Cadet office, was made to the smartest Cadet on parade, Cadet R. Morrin, who was selected by Lt. Col. A. Malouf, C.D.

At the completion of the demonstration, coffee was served by the Instructors' wives.

Double fatality in light truck

Wreck of a 1-ton truck in which two young residents of St. Janvier, Que., met their death early Sunday morning, in a crash just within the eastern limits of town.

Two victims meet death in truck crash in town limits

Two young residents of St. Janvier, a village near St. Jerome, met an untimely death early Sunday morning when the one-ton truck they were driving swerved out of control into a huge tree on Main Street East, on Earl Rodgers' property.

Dead are Jean Yves Alarie, 24, and Gilles Lorrain, 25, both construction workers. Lorrain was instantly killed in the accident, which occurred at 7.30 a.m., Alarie being taken to the Providence Hospital where he died a short time later.

The two are reported to have left St. Janvier at 5.45 a.m. after having attended a 25th wedding anniversary party for Mr. and Mrs. Roch Coursol. They did not say where they were going, and had not had any sleep, according to reports.

Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen reports having seen the truck pass his home on the St. Jerome highway at an average rate of speed; he noted the passenger's head leaning on the window, as if he were asleep. It is presumed the driver also fell asleep at the wheel, the truck swerving into the tree on two wheels.

Lachute municipal police constables Roger Boutet and Felix Lallier investigated the fatal accident — the case being later turned over to Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen. District Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur was called to the scene, and treated Alarie at the Providence Hospital.

André Lefebvre opens new business in Oka Village

Plans were completed Monday by André Lefebvre, local businessman, to open a furniture and accessory establishment in Oka.

Mr. Lefebvre, member of one of Lachute's oldest business families and son of Mr. J. W. Lefebvre, has an intimate knowledge of this line. He sees good prospects in the town of Oka, which is steadily increasing in size as a residential and summer resort, and has rented spacious store premises in the centre of the community. These are now being re-decorated and André expects to start business within a week or so. Friends extend good wishes in this venture.

Mr. and Mrs. Lefebvre and family will continue to reside temporarily in Lachute.

Expropriation at Snye, Hawkesb'y, started by Hydro

Hawkesbury — Ontario Hydro served notice to Alex Silversky, lessee of the land on which the sawmill in the Snye stands, that it was giving him three months to move. The sawmill is owned by Albert Larocque. The latter who is also a member of the town council, was reassured by Council that pressure would be put on the Ontario Hydro to have this land saved.

Mayor Gascon said during the course of the meeting that he will personally go to Toronto to see James S. Duncan and talk over the matter.

Mr. Larocque said that the length of time given him by the Hydro is not enough and that it would take him at least six months to a year to move to a new location.

Mr. Larocque also stated that he plans to build a new mill on the present site if Ontario Hydro does not force him to move.

The mill employs about 20 men.

Cottages entered and robbed at Lake Louisa

Entry into four summer cottages at Lake Louisa was reported last week, several thousand dollars worth of merchandise having been stolen, according to the proprietors.

Victims of the break-ins were W. G. FitzGerald, Paul MacLaren, Frank L. Sutton and Percy Swail, all Montreal residents. The thefts were discovered on Wednesday of last week by Mr. Swail, and took place early that week, as Mr. Swail reported everything was in order the previous Sunday evening.

The cases are being investigated by Sgt.-Det. Ralph Allen, who reports a similar rash of break-ins in the Laurel district. Taken from the Lake Louisa homes were television sets, radio-phonographs, various electrical appliances, clocks, blankets, flashlights and other articles.

Arundel, Lachute (incl. Brownsburg) anti-polio clinics

Legion-sponsored adult anti-polio clinics will be held in Arundel and Lachute on Thursday, May 19. The response of the public in registering for this free clinic has been gratifying, and it is hoped that any adult desirous of receiving these shots will come out on May 19, whether or not they have registered.

Lachute Branch of the Canadian Legion have arranged two clinics, one to be held in Arundel from 2 to 4 p.m., and in the Lachute Memorial Hall on the same date, from 7 to 8.30 p.m.

The Arundel clinic has been arranged in co-operation with Arundel Women's Institute.

Brownsburg Branch 71, in the meantime, have registered the names of persons in that section interested in having free anti-polio shots, and have volunteered to transport any person who is without a car to the Lachute Legion Hall for this purpose. This joint project has been arranged by the two branches in order to reduce costs to a minimum for the equipment and personnel supplied by the Legion-sponsored March-of-Dimes Fund.

Residents of this district who wish to make a donation to the March-of-Dimes Fund will have the opportunity to do so shortly, when the Brownsburg campaign gets underway. Watch for dates in this newspaper.

Mr. Lefebvre came to Lachute in 1950 as cost and production engineer at Ayers Limited, and in 1958 transferred to Dominion Ayers Wood Products as vice-president and general manager.

He has, through these years, given his time unsparingly to community work. He has been president of the Chamber of Commerce, president of the Laurentian Regional Chamber, and director of the Quebec Chamber; also chairman of the first Federation of Charities campaign.

In civic and educational spheres, Gerard Lefebvre has been a councillor since 1958, a Catholic School commissioner since 1954; and in the Town Council has served as chairman of the finance committee.

As active organizer for the diocesan fund in this area, he was decorated by Bishop Emile Frenette with the Medal of Merit. He has also been an active supporter of the Union Nationale party.

Many friends and fellow residents will regret the departure of Mr. Lefebvre, his wife and family, and warm wishes are extended for their future success and happiness.

A proud moment

A proud moment for young Richard Maidens (son of Frank Maidens) who receives from Doug Harvey, N.H.L. star, the Best Player Trophy donated by Robin Hood Flour Mills. Young Maidens is captain of the Legion's Pee-Wee team.

quently attends two youth meetings, similar to this, in a single evening, on behalf of junior hockey clubs, Boy Scouts, etc., and has a genuine interest in the welfare of retarded and underprivileged children.

Doug Harvey is a family man, has five children, and was accompanied to Lachute by Mrs. Harvey and their young daughter, Dianne. They were entertained at the Hall by members of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Coach René Paulsen was presented with blankets by Bantam star Richard Evans, on behalf of all the players, and with a motor rug by Branch 70 as a token of appreciation for the services he rendered to this Legion project. Comrade Paulsen and the Legion Branch were ably thanked by the Pee-Wee hockey captain, Richard Maidens. Richard in turn was presented with the Robin Hood Flour Mills most-valuable-player award by Doug Harvey.

The honored guest handed out the jackets and Legion crests to each boy, accompanied by a handshake. He later autographed some 40 miniature hockey sticks, supplied by Molson's Limited.

Lion President Lorne Duncan thanked the Canadian Legion and other team sponsors for their assistance with the rink project. Lion Horace Lamarche commented briefly on the future plans for the Lions' Community Rink.

Mr. Guy Besner, representing Mr. Leonard Bedard, local Molson's agent, stated that his company took much pleasure in arranging for Mr. Harvey's visit to Lachute. He concurred wholeheartedly with the chairman's earlier remarks concerning Doug's popularity with young and old, and it is certainly a pleasure to have him available for such occasions. Mr. Besner said he would convey the sincere thanks of Branch 70 to his company for donations of trophies, arranged by Leonard Bedard, for Lachute Legion golf and cribbage tournaments.

Before leaving, the honored guest was presented with an "Ayers of Lachute" motor rug by President Jenkins on behalf of Branch 70.

Mr. J. Humphries, District Cub Commissioner, was a welcome visitor to the Pack meeting, and at the Scouters' Council held afterwards. Plans were discussed for the field day, to be held at Harrington in May.

ARGENTEUIL OUTDOORS

As usual, the Fish and Game Association has come up. I had a phone call giving me all the good reasons why it should be started again. No comment on this except — forget it. Dead-heads don't make a club.

Also, the flooding problem came up. Now this is something that is out of anyone's hands at any time. Only one thing I can comment on: Flood gates should be installed on any dam, regardless of whom it belongs to. This happened before, and will probably continue to happen for many more years. Nothing will be done about it — so why worry!

Mailbag trouble

THE TORRENT of government publicity which floods the mail of the average newspaper office, is nothing short of appalling.

It seems that most government departments, awakened in comparatively recent years to the need and benefit of Public Relations, have settled down with determination to snowball this sideline into a major activity. The personnel, floorspace, equipment and material involved in one department alone, must be immense. In the entire machinery of government, it must be beyond comprehension — a mammoth grown completely out of control. One can visualize batteries of typewriters, duplicating equipment, mailing machines, besides stenographers and operators all enjoying the approved coffee-breaks, sick leaves, holidays, etc.—at a staggering cost to the taxpayer!

All this mailing of material (at least 90% of it quite superfluous, as far as this newspaper is concerned, and to others in greater or lesser proportion) is bad enough in itself. But when it is sometimes duplicated and triplicated, this is flagrant defiance of the taxpayer's pleas for economy . . .

We may cite, by way of illustration, that for years we have been receiving about three issues of every Hansard reporting the Commons and Senate proceedings; two issues of the Department of Agriculture bulletins (identically addressed); several pounds of mimeographed material each week from the CBC; and — the little straw that spurred this outburst — two typewritten releases from the Department of Commerce, Ottawa, both identical in content, identically addressed, by the same mail, and in expensive craft envelopes bearing (as usual) the O.H.M.S. frank.

In the various material which we receive from industrial Public Relations offices, there is periodically a questionnaire on the envelope, asking if this publicity is appreciated or no longer desired, and if it is correctly addressed. Private enterprise feels the need to exercise economy, by keeping its mailing lists up to date and in reasonable bounds. Government, however, has never heard the word "Economy". Even when we have requested that these releases be stopped, or duplication avoided, the request has sometimes been ignored.

There are reasons for this, no doubt. We could surmise a few of them: (1) That the paper industry would collapse without this mass of government propaganda; (2) That so many thousand copy writers, stenographers and mailing clerks badly need the job: (3) That the public needs to be incessantly told how government departments are busily occupied in the public interest; (4) That the Post Office needs all this government mail to keep it out of the red. . . . We could think of other reasons — none of which, however, could justify a fraction of all this appalling waste, nor placate the taxpayer who clamors in vain for a little sane, business-like economy.

The customer's sometimes right

WE HAVE SAID this before — although consumer polls of the automotive industry are repeatedly quoted to contradict the fact — that Canadian car buyers are less interested in expensive body refinements and flimsy chrome trim (easily damaged, costly to replace) than in the performance and durability of the cars they buy. This means emphasis on economy, three ways — in outlay, in operation and in maintenance.

American industry's disregard for this preference might well be the reason why the home product, gleaming and impressive, has now lost such considerable ground to the European imported car. We are led to think that Big Industry has an infallible fingertip on the buyer's pulse. But sometimes, however sacrilegious he may sound, the man-in-the-street may be right after all, and Industry might be well repaid to follow instead of lead the taste.

This reiteration of opinion is prompted by a recent comment in the Sudbury Star entitled, "Slow Awakening", as follows:

"Perhaps one of the greatest advances in the automotive industry on the North American continent is the adoption of many devices and engineering achievements that have been standard in European cars for years. The industry was slow in awakening to the fact that these features were partly responsible for the popularity of the European car in Canada and in the United States. In the next few years we can expect to see even greater emphasis on safety, comfort and economical performance rather than body design."

Indian names

NAMES OF Indian origin sprinkle the Canadian map — on lakes and streams, areas and communities. Apart from their picturesque sound, they are of historical importance, and no matter how complicated they may appear to the modern tourist, these names should be preserved.

In fact, these old Indian names should be written and pronounced with respect, says a 95-year-old Oblate priest, Father Joseph Guinard, of Maniwaki, Que. He has just had published a book — "Indian Names of My Country" — which deals with the romance and inventiveness of the Indian names preserved to this day.

The name Saskatchewan, for example, comes from the old Indian words kisiska (quick) and djiwan (current).

The name Ontario also comes from a linking of two happy Indian words — kaniatare, meaning lake, and iio meaning beauty — which Father Guinard says were Iroquois terms.

The names of Indian origin of course have no counterparts outside of North America. They are part of Canada's own heritage.

Their origin is a fascinating study that reaches into Indian traditions and legends, and such a study brings up some points that may not be generally known by those to whom the Indian names are as familiar as Montreal and Vancouver, respectively of French and English origin.

Manitoulin, for instance, for the Ontario island at the northern tip of Lake Huron, and Manitou in Manitoba and Manitouwadge, the northwestern Ontario mining area, all stem from the old Indian term "Manitou," meaning a supernatural spirit.

Winnipeg is another Indian name, but the residents of the Manitoba capital are not eager to drag up the old associations. It comes from the Indian words win, meaning dirty, and pec, water.

The source of the name Canada itself is uncertain. Father Guinard, with his considerable knowledge of the Indian tradition, offers two possible origins. One might be the Iroquois Kanata, meaning village. The other is the Cree Konota — which meant aimless.

The premium on Canadian currency

IN THE CURRENT confusion over the duration of today's economic expansion, perhaps the best news on the business front is the persistent downtrend in the premium on the Canadian dollar . . . This is an opinion expressed by Dalton Robertson in The Financial Post.

Every cent that the premium drops, spells a bigger return for Canadian exporters and easier competition for Canadian producers who compete in the domestic market with imported items.

In the week ending April 19, it took an average of 103.6c U.S. to buy $1 Canadian. Just one month earlier, the price of the Canadian dollar was as high as 105.2c U.S.

There's now speculation in the financial community that the high-riding premium has finally come to a turning point. But in this very volatile, very unpredictable area, it's anybody's guess whether this is more than a temporary dip.

There is, however, one sign that a further decline might be in store: There are fewer Canadian companies, municipalities and provinces now negotiating in New York to raise money than at any time in several months. This could portend a further decline: The flow of U.S. funds brought into Canada by Canadian borrowers last year was the largest single factor keeping the 1959 premium on the Canadian dollar up between 4% and 5% — says this writer in The Financial Post.

Canadian tourists in the U.S. have enjoyed the benefits of this premium on Canadian currency. Even more, after years of suffering indignity and insult while our dollar was at a lower ebb, Canadians in the States have quietly jubilated in the prestige of their higher dollar-power. The period has provided a moral boost — even if, as Dalton Robertson suggests, it has had a deleterious effect on our trade abroad.

"Holy City" cantata proves fine recital

The officers and members of the Argenteuil Choral Society were gratified last Sunday evening, when the Lachute United Church was practically filled with a large and appreciative audience. "The Holy City", by A. R. Gaul, was sung for the first time in Lachute. The large choir of Lachute and Brownsburg singers proved a well-balanced unit under the direction of Lowell B. Hopkins, who presided at the Casavant organ. A junior choir, directed by Mr. A. Hopkins, assisted by Mrs. Lundy Pearson and Mrs. J. McMahon, augmented the choral group, making a combined choir of over 70 voices.

"The Holy City" opened with an organ prelude, "Contemplation", a melodious musical picture with a recurring theme that was evident throughout the whole cantata. This quiet meditation was beautifully interpreted by Lowell B. Hopkins. "No Shadows Yonder", the first chorus, was a good introduction of the choir work, in the well-balanced, common-meter composition. This was followed by a tenor solo, "My Soul is Athirst for God", a beautiful flowing theme admirably sung by Mr. Robert Haydon, who was in fine voice in all of his solo work.

As a contrast, a ladies' trio, "At Eventide it Shall be Light", was sung unaccompanied by Mrs. Don Barbour, Mrs. E. Callicott and Mrs. Wm. Armstrong, followed by a two-part chorus, "They that sow in tears", alternately sung by the ladies and then by the male sections of the choir, a joyful melody that was given a good tempo by the director.

A contemplative contralto solo, "Eye hath not seen", was feelingly sung by Mrs. Len Armstrong, which was immediately followed by two vigorous choruses by the choir, "For thee, O dear, dear country" and "Thine is the Kingdom".

Part II opened with another organ prelude, "Adoration", again beautifully interpreted by Mr. Hopkins, which led into the bass solo, "A new heaven and a new earth", feelingly rendered by Mr. Lundy Pearson, and supported in theme by the choir singing a sanctus of holy reverence.

One of the main works of the composition, "Let the Heavens Rejoice", written for a double chorus, was one of the highlights of the evening. The counter-point and close harmonics gave the impression of intense rejoicing as the choir led up to a grand climax; the basses then the tenors took up the theme, being joined by the contraltos and the sopranos in the eight part finale. Mr. Haydon again contrasted the mood with his "To the Lord God", followed by a contralto solo, "Come, Ye Blessed", a difficult number, nicely interpreted by Mrs. Jas. Armour.

A lighter chorus, sung unaccompanied, "The fining pot is for silver", gave a change of pace and mood, which led into the only soprano solo, "These are they which came out of great tribulation", a composition of changing rhythm which was well sung by Mrs. Don Barbour. One of the most melodius themes in the cantata, "List, the cherubic Host", was then sung in four-part form by the ladies' section, a rendition nicely interpreted and augmented by a contralto solo of Mrs. L. Hopkins, "I heard the voice of harpers", with harp-effect accompaniment on the organ.

The final and one of the outstanding compositions of "The Holy City" was the vigorous chorus, "Great and marvellous are Thy Works", which was given a sense of quiet reverence by the interspersion of the junior choir singing their melodious celestial sanctus, "Holy, Holy, Holy", midway through the chorus, then finishing with an Amen and Alleluias chorus of majestic heights. . . . Prior to the collection, the Rev. Wilson Bridge, B.A., commented upon the fine rendering of the cantata, and complimented the leader and members of the choir for such an achievement.

Following the performance, the choir and guests sat down to tasty refreshments arranged by a committee from Brownsburg and Lachute. Mrs. W. M. Cottingham and Mrs. C. R. Lang poured tea and coffee. The president of the Argenteuil Choral Society, Mr. Lundy Pearson, congratulated the choir on their fine work, and the leader, Mr. Lowell B. Hopkins, spoke a few well-chosen remarks. A note of regret was evident when Mr. B. Hewitt, the treasurer, representing the choir as a whole, made a presentation of an Ayers rug to Mr. and Mrs. Lundy Pearson, who are leaving in the near future to take up residence in Ontario. Mr. Pearson responded, and expressed his and Mrs. Pearson's appreciation at the nice gesture of the Argenteuil Choral Society.

What was the Natural Resources Intelligence Service?

This was a government agency that operated from 1917 until 1930 in the geographical field on the federal level. It compiled textual, statistical and map data on the nature and extent of Canada's resources. Its activities were brought to a halt by the depression of the thirties and it was not until the Second World War that the federal government again became active in geographical matters. An Inter-Service Topographic Section was then set up in the Department of National Defence and out of this grew, in 1947, the Joint Intelligence Bureau of the Defence Research Board, which provided geographical intelligence. Early in the 1940's the need for civilian studies to parallel the military ones was felt, and in 1943 a geographer was appointed to the Department of Mines and Resources. Then in 1947 a Geographical Bureau was established in the department and this has since become the Geographical Branch of the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys.

How did Alberni get its name?

The city of Alberni on the west coast of Vancouver Island at the head of the Alberni Canal, an extension of Barkley Sound, honors the memory of Don Pedro Alberni, a captain of the Spanish Army, who was in command of the soldiers sent by Spain to occupy Nootka in 1790. The name was given to the canal in 1791 and was then applied to the settlement at the head of the canal in 1861 by Captain Richards of H.M.S. Hecate. The natural canal, 22 miles long, is navigable by ocean-going vessels and terminates in a fine anchorage. Adjoining Alberni to the south is the larger city of Port Alberni.

Delegates to Home and School annual conference

Several delegates from Lachute and District Home and School Association will attend the 16th annual conference of the Quebec Federation of Protestant Home and School Associations in Montreal, May 6 and 7.

Delegates to the conference are Mr. Garnet Pride, Mrs. Sam Milnes and Mrs. John Thorpe, while Mr. Philip Aitken and Mrs. Chas. Duncan will attend as observers.

They will be among some 425 parents and teachers representing the 184 Home and School Associations throughout the province. With an overall membership of some 28,000 families, these 184 associations represent over 70 per cent of the families with children attending schools attached to the province's Protestant school system.

This year's conference, which will again be held in the Physical Science Building at McGill University, has been expanded to two full days at the request of the member associations, who wanted more time for workshops and discussion of mutual problems by delegates.

The workshop this year will be devoted to leadership training. Other features of the conference will include adoption of a new federation constitution, extended discussion of resolution and policies, and the beginning of a new project, "Operation Bootstraps", designed to examine fully the role of education.

The conference will wind-up Saturday night, May 7, with the annual dinner, at which Dr. David L. Thomson, vice-principal of McGill University, will be the guest speaker.

WHO SHOULD BE INVESTIGATED?

A prominent member of the CCF party in Canada has called for a House committee to investigate ownership of newspapers, broadcasting stations and other media of mass communications.

If an investigation is required, what should be investigated is not the ownership but the content of the papers, radio stations and magazines.

The CCF itself is likely to come off poorly in any such investigation. The CCF press is about as biased and unbalanced as a press could be. The majority of newspapers in Canada give a remarkable amount of space to the statements and speeches of the CCF-ers; but the socialist press reaches out to all the extremes to avoid giving any impartial prominence whatsoever to the other parties. Wherever there is a shocking story of sin, violence or crime in the democracies, the socialist press grabs it and tries to twist it into a condemnation of free enterprise systems. Crimes committed in socialist states get no mention. Presumably the socialists who search out these tid-bits for gullible readers go suddenly blind when a crime is committed under a socialist system!

The socialists like to attack advertising, too; but they use it plenty. The socialist press is not content merely to advertise in the conventional way. It also slants its news columns into audacious advertisements for socialist activities, or reprehensible attacks on other parties. This more subtle form of advertising, unidentified, catches the unsophisticated reader unawares.

Advertising, like work, is not enjoyed by some people; yet it is essential. It is one of the mainsprings of our economy — a method of persuasion rather than compulsion. Socialists know this, but they feel they can win some marks by attacking it — even though they use it themselves with considerable skill. Indeed, socialists will use almost anything to win votes because they are desperately eager for power.

They gained power that way in England. So much suffering and dissatisfaction followed that they are not likely ever again to hold power there. They gained power in Australia, and similar dissatisfaction led the people there to dismiss them.

They have a mania, these CCF-ers, for "investigating the other fellow." Let any fairminded person take a look at the socialist press and see where investigation is really needed!

All Aboard

with G. E. MORTIMORE

There was a foul smell at breakfast. All of us looked around the room, and then under the table, where we found the answer: The dog. He had been rolling in something.

The dog's idea of fragrance is not the same as ours. Carrion and garbage are his frangipani and roses.

This could be a legacy from the dog's jackal of ancestors, who didn't dare eat fresh meat in case the sabre-tooth tiger was coming back for a second helping.

Truly foul and rotten meat meant a safe feast, and decayed things in general smelled like security. Therefore generations of father and mother dogs taught their young to cherish things that were rancid and shun all that was fresh.

Well, this could have been a true analysis of my dog's motives, but it didn't make him smell any sweeter.

When everybody else had gone out, and I was alone with the dog, I made my move. I ran the bath part full of water and, holding my breath, led the dog upstairs to the bathroom. In the little room, the smell was something fierce and The Lachute Rovers will play

It couldn't have been any ordinary manure. New turkey-house sweepings? A mulch of dead fish?

As soon as I slipped the dog's collar off and he saw what I was up to, he doubled under my legs and tried to run. A good try, but I was too fast for him. I managed to slam and lock the door.

The dog struggled a little as I lifted him to the bath. Then, seeing that he was making no progress, he resigned himself stoically to what had to be.

The soap and water seemed to add a special, penetrating strength to his smell. He stood there quietly enough while I soaped and washed him.

Then the telephone rang. As I opened the door, the dog rocketed past me in a shower of suds and water, leaving a trail to the kitchen, where he hid under the table.

The telephone conversation over, I pried the dog loose from his nook, carried him stiff-legged and unwilling back to the bathroom, and finished the job.

Now he's such a neat bundle of black-and-white fluff that he seems a new dog. None of his friends will recognize him. Reeking of soap, water and fresh air, he will be shunned by the whole canine neighborhood, as a pariah.

$2½-million to hold election

The Quebec election to be held on June 22 will mark the return of the two-enumerator system in urban areas. Under Premier Duplessis, only one enumerator was used in the urban districts from 1953 on. The enumerators, who work five days, are named on the recommendation of Premier Barrette and House Opposition Leader Georges Lapalme.

The logistics of an election are somewhat staggering when one makes more than a cursory examination of all that is needed for Quebecers to exercise their franchise. . . For instance, it takes 250 tons of printed matter to handle all phases of an election. The government must print over 80 different forms, 60 of which are annexed to the law and 20 of which contain instructions to election officers.

It will cost the provincial taxpayers some $2,500,000 to hold the election, and 53,000 will be employed at one time or another.

McAlister, General Superintendent of Pentecostal Assemblies in Canada; the Rev. W. B. Greenwood, District Superintendent of Eastern Ontario and Quebec; the Rev. J. G. Welcome pastor to Baptist charge, Lachute-Dalesville

On Tuesday evening, April 26, the congregations of the Dalesville and Lachute Baptist churches officially welcomed the Rev. and Mrs. Wm. Lorne Hisey to their midst. Several visiting pastors took part in the service — the Rev. John McLeod, of Verdun, was chairman; the Rev. Bruce Amy, of Strathmore, led the devotional period; the Rev. R. L. McPhee, of Brownsburg, brought greetings from the local Ministerial Association; the Rev. G. Freeland of Ville St. Laurent, gave the charge to the church; and the Rev. C. Wilhelm, of St. Martin, welcomed the pastor. Mrs. Geo. Kelly presented Mrs. Hisey with a bouquet of carnations. Mr. Ralph Taylor, of Ville St. Laurent, brought a message in song.

The message of the evening was delivered by the Rev. E. S. Kerr, of Snowdon, and the Rev. L. Hisey closed the evening with prayer.

After the meeting, refreshments were served in the hall. Presiding at the tables and pouring tea were Mrs. G. Dixon and Mrs. A. Murdoch, of Dalesville, Mrs. L. Plummer and Miss May McGibbon, of Lachute.

The singing of "Blest Be the Tie that Binds" brought the evening to a close.

Reduce Easily With The Naran Plan

FOREST, ONT. "I am happy to say that by using the Naran Plan for one month I have lost sixteen pounds. I don't know of an easier or more pleasant way to lose weight. I am very pleased with your product and am recommending it to my friends." G. Addison, RR1, Forest, Ont.

How often have you looked in the mirror and decided that you are getting too fat? How often have you had to have last years clothes let out or buy a larger size? How often have you resolved to reduce but given up because of tiring exercise or starvation diets? Thousands have found that there is an easy, safe and effective way to get rid of unsightly fat. Prove it to yourself, try the Naran Plan today, your druggist has it and it is sold with a money back guarantee. What can you lose? Nothing but weight.

Dedication of new Brownsburg Pentecostal Church

An overflow crowd of 300 or more gathered Sunday afternoon to enjoy the dedication service of the new Brownsburg Pentecostal Church. This was an auspicious service for the local assembly, since it brought to fruition eleven years of sacrifice and labor on the part of former pastors and the people.

The pastor and congregation take this opportunity to thank the people of the community for their co-operation and assistance in erecting this church.

The church was dedicated "To the glory of God" by the Rev. W. B. Greenwood, who is the District Superintendent for Eastern Ontario and Quebec, and the Rev. Argue offered the dedicatory prayer. The Rev. W. E. McAlister, General Superintendent of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada, delivered a powerful dedication message on "The Purpose of the Church of Jesus Christ". This service also included two beautiful solos by Mr. Ken Millar of Ottawa, with added selections by the "Italian Quartet".

For the next two weeks there will be special revival services in the new church, with Evangelist Clarence Shrier. Each night there will be prayers offered for the sick.

— Jehovah's Witnesses —
Freedom from Fear for All Mankind

The One whom Jehovah God has appointed as earth's invisible, heavenly King will bring an end to the many human governments that have divided mankind into troublesome nations. To this One, who is Jesus Christ, the Supreme Sovereign says: "You will break them with an iron scepter, as though a potter's vessel you will dash them to pieces." Thus the battle of Armageddon will sweep away mankind's many governments, leaving the earth to be ruled by one government, not a human government but a heavenly one. — Ps. 2:9.

With all mankind united under the rule of Jehovah God's heavenly kingdom, how could fear of surprise attack, of aggression in any form or of war be possible? Without the divisive influence of nationalism and without ambitious political leaders fomenting trouble between peoples, how could fear of one people for another ever exist? Because the heavenly King of God's kingdom will rule in righteousness no human will be unjustly treated. "The scepter of your kingship is a scepter of uprightness." This assures us of a secure and peaceful world, as foretold: "In his days the righteous one will sprout, and the abundance of peace until the moon is no more." —Ps.45: 6; 72:7.

This new world of God's making will be free not only from the fear of war, unjust rule and crime, but also from the fear of food shortage, sickness and death. Under Jehovah's blessing the earth will produce abundantly and its inhabitants will benefit from his curative powers. They will see the fulfillment of the "hope of the everlasting life which God, who cannot lie, promised long ago." — Titus 1:2.

Never again will anyone be moved to say, "Everybody is afraid of everybody," as the kingdom of God will make freedom from fear for all mankind a reality in the fullest sense.

A Mother's Gifts

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Emerson said that men are what their mothers made them and that is why, on the second Sunday in May, tens of thousands of men and women remember with gratitude all that their fathers and mothers have done for them in the years gone by. As they recall their childhood, in an age less complex than the present one, they realize that many of the gifts they received were not material ones with a price tag. They were gifts of love, of appreciation, of consideration for others, of faith.

All year Mother gives her children much more than food and shelter and clothes. Homemaking is a real career and more and more women are recognizing that it is the most satisfying, and possibly the most complex and demanding of all vocations. The unseen presents children receive from their parents are those which build character. They are the material of which life is woven for this and future generations. What are some of the most important things a mother can pass on to a son or daughter?

O. Douglas, who was John Buchan's sister, once said: "Our parents gave us the richest gift young people can have — the feeling of being loved and treasured beyond words. They made it plain to us that they cared far more that we should be good, just simple, happy good, than that we should attain riches and honor." It was from this kind of family that Lord Tweedsmuir, one of Canada's best-loved governors-general came. There is no substitute for this blending of warm affection and high ideals in a real home.

Another gift which a mother often gives to a child is belief in himself, and in his value to the world when he grows up. The great artist, Benjamin West, said: "It was my mother's kiss that made me a painter." Many men and women have gone out to earn a living with the necessary self-confidence which plays a vital role in success. They knew their mothers counted on them and believed they would succeed.

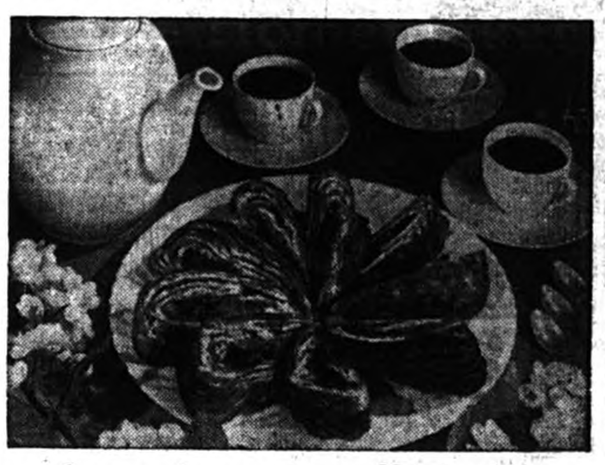

Mothers color the attitude of a child toward others. If she has a friendly, out-going personality and if people are welcome in her home, her children are likely to follow her example. The lonely, suspicious adult, or the grownup with bitter race or religious prejudice has missed a mother's gift of loving other people.

The way a mother uses her leisure time influences her children. If she appreciates reading, if she enjoys good pictures and fine music, her children are likely to have a taste for those things in our culture which enrich life. Enthusiasm for hobbies, love of the beautiful, like religion, is "caught not taught".

It is true that a child's religious faith is the greatest gift a mother can bestow. The simple prayers repeated at her knee, the Bible stories and favorite hymns are all interwoven. Children are curious about everything and a mother does a child a great service if she answers his questions about God, about right and wrong, about Heaven, about the ceremonies and sacraments observed in the family's church.

A mother should recognize that a child's religious training is one of a mother's most important duties. If she is a happy, active person, her children will learn far more from what she is than anything she says.

Mothers might well ask themselves: "Am I giving my child not only love and ideals, self-confidence and friendliness, appreciation of beauty — but most important of all — faith in God?"

Sweet 'n crusty coffee cake

The English language seems to be full of names that appear to have no connection with the objects they are identifying. The field of food is a good example.

The traditional plum pudding is quite plumless; coffee cakes seldom have coffee in them; gooseberries don't seem to be any particular favorite of geese; and strawberries bear not the remotest resemblance to straw.

Thick, delicious strawberry jam is used as a filling in today's recipe for Cinnamon Crown Coffee Cake. The colorful jam peeks out through slashes in the sides of the baked crescent. Rolling the unbaked dough in a cinnamon-sugar mix has two special effects that make this coffee cake unusual — the sweet spiciness of the blend is lightly swirled throughout the cake and also gives it a crisp, sugary crust. Whether you serve it warm or cold, this moist-textured coffee cake is especially good spread with butter or margarine and extra jam, if you wish.

Cinnamon Crown Coffee Cake
(Yield — 2 coffee cakes)

¾ Cup light cream, 2 tablespoons granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, ¾ cup shortening, ½ cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon granulated sugar, 1 envelope active dry yeast, 3 well-beaten eggs, 4½ cups (about) once-sifted all-purpose flour, ¾ cup granulated sugar, 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon, ½ cup thick strawberry jam.

Scald cream; stir in the 2 tablespoons sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm.

Meantime measure the ½ cup of lukewarm water into a large bowl; stir in the 1 teaspoon sugar. Sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well. Stir in the well-beaten eggs, lukewarm cream mixture and 2 cups of the flour. Beat until smooth and elastic. Work in sufficient additional flour to make a soft dough — about 2½ cups more. Turn out dough on floured board or canvas and knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl. Grease top. Cover. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 1¼ hours.

Combine the ¾ cup granulated sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle the mixture on baking board or canvas. Punch down dough. Place on prepared board or canvas and roll out into a 12-inch square; fold dough in half from front to back, then from side to side. Repeat rolling and folding 3 times, using most of the sugar and cinnamon. Roll out dough into a rectangle 10 x 16 inches. Cut in half, crosswise, to make 2 rectangles 10 x 8 inches. Spoon a narrow strip of strawberry jam along lengthwise centre of a rectangle.

Fold dough in half lengthwise to enclose jam; press edges together. Cut 1-inch deep slashes about one inch apart along the edge opposite the fold. Carefully lift onto a greased cookie sheet and form into a crescent to open the slashes. Repeat with second portion of dough. Grease tops; sprinkle with any remaining sugar and cinnamon, then cover with a tea towel. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 45 minutes. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375° F.) 18 to 20 minutes.

"Facts! Fingers! Fun" is the name given to the annual Leadership Course of the Quebec Women's Institutes held at Macdonald College, this year May 23-27. But this year another "F" is added — and it is Figures.

The Facts and Fingers won't be neglected. "Facts" will be dealt with in sessions devoted to W.I. problems, with films pertaining to the work of each convenership, Agriculture, Education, Home Economics, Welfare and Health, Citizenship and Publicity. There will be a course in Textiles, a study of fabrics new and old, and the choosing of the right kind for the purpose. For "Fingers" there is decorating with small colored tiles, when jewelry and coasters will be made; lino-block printing to learn how to make your own personalized and original Christmas cards, greeting cards and hasti-notes. Then, for the garden lovers, a course on Horticulture and Landscape Gardening, with emphasis on farm home landscaping.

The afternoons will be turned over to Nutrition and proper diet — it doesn't always mean that you are too fat, perhaps you are too lean — and then the new W.I. Grooming Course, which, after what and how to eat, shows you how to cope with "too much here and too little there", also how to walk and sit for health, etc.

The W.I. Grooming Course is under the direction of Mrs. Iris Robbins of Macdonald College, who will herself give the Monday lecture and demonstration on figure control, posture, etc. Then on Tuesday afternoon Miss Freda Nisbet, Beauty Editor, Avon Products of Canada Limited, will give a demonstration on skin care and make-up; Wednesday Mrs. Jennifer Lindsay, Fashion Consultant of Eaton's, will give a talk on color harmony and show fashions; and on Thursday Mrs. Mary Hue, president of the Art Institute of Hairdressing Inc., Montreal, will demonstrate hair care and styling.

On Friday the delegates leave for home wiser, and much, much more beautiful. One can visualize the husbands sending a larger delegation next year!

Teatime Topics

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman By Edna Blakely, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Have you wondered why you get different textures at various times from the same recipe?

It may be the milk. Research on milk cookery has shown that homogenized and non-homogenized milk will likely produce slightly different textures.

With homogenized milk, sauces stiffen and show more fat separation, say the experts at Manitoba's consumer information service. Homogenized milk tends to curdle more readily when used in soups, scalloped potatoes, gravies and custards, and corn starch puddings will appear more granular.

Cooking times are also affected by milk products. Baked and soft custards will take 15 to 20 minutes longer when made with homogenized milk because the heat penetrates the whole milk more slowly.

Quick and Easy

A tasty seafood treat that is easy to make is devilled crab. This recipe is passed along with the suggestion that it be served with a tart cole slaw and crisp French fried potatoes.

Devilled Crab: 1 can (10 fluid ounces) condensed cream of celery soup; 1 cup flaked cooked crab or a 7- ounce drained can; 2 tbsps. of chopped green pepper; 1 tbsp. of chopped onion; 2 tbsps. of lemon juice; 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce; ½ tsp. prepared mustard; 2 tbsps. buttered bread crumbs.

Combine soup, crab, green pepper, onion, lemon juice, Worcestershire and mustard; spoon into four small buttered baking dishes. Shells are ideal for this recipe. Sprinkle crumbs over crab mixture. Bake in moderate oven, 350°F for 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes four servings.

Cracker Puffs

Here's a treat that's easily available anywhere in Canada. Cracker puffs, an excellent accompaniment for salads, can be made from round soda crackers. Cover with water and let soak until they double in bulk. Lift with a spatula onto a greased baking sheet, dot with small pieces of butter and brown in a hot oven.

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Ducks, geese, all over the place! I hope some of you were lucky enough Saturday evening to see the northern flights of geese on the wing. Starting just before sundown, it kept up for an hour or so. Not a steady passing, but rather on-and-off; it nevertheless was a terrific sight to see and hear. The flights we observed were not of great numbers; instead of hundreds in the one flight, they were scattered in numerous small groups, seemingly from 20 to 50 birds. About 1500 birds in all. Even the ducks got into the act. I imagine the noise of the geese gave them the urge to move around, because the small groups lifting up from the fields and river made the air pulse with the noise of wings.

Maybe this is not the way to describe it to you, but the best I can do. It seems as though everything that can fly or has wings has been giving their flying powers a workout this week. Partridge can be seen all over this part of the country, and after the shortage of them for the past few years, this looks good for the upland shooters this fall. Along with the return of the Morning Doves once more, it certainly looks as though nature has caught up with the balance for this year. Even a few woodcock have been seen, and the Wilson snipe are back in fair numbers.

Some fishing news that may interest the early anglers: Lake Louisa is free of ice, and from reports a couple of fair fish have been taken. There are probably more around for the taking, but no minnows in the county. Remember that! Half-Moon Lake has also cleared up, and a few good fish have been taken. Sir John is not all free, still some spots of the cold stuff, but it won't be too long before that is clear. Naturally all these are at very high level, and will continue so for a couple of weeks at least. There is still a lot of snow in the bush that has to run off yet, so anyone going in should be prepared to get wet. Another thing, be very careful of these fingers of ice hanging from the banks. It is not very safe now — maybe better to miss a fish than get a cold bath!

Some questions received in the past week or so, may be the ones that have been troubling you. Leaders seem to be the topic just now.

To begin with, the longer the leader you use the better it is. We'll take spinning separately, as this does not apply. In bait fishing a good idea is to use at least 6 feet of leader, more if you can handle it. A sinker should not be placed right on the leader, as getting caught on the bottom only loses the whole works for you. Try tieing it on with a light piece of string, thread or what-have-you, and save your leaders.

The leaders in fly fishing are the most important part of presenting the fly. For the beginner, start off with a leader not less than 1 foot shorter than your rod, as you get used to it you can always increase the length to the maximum of your ability. For the best results it will be up to you to try different sizes and styles, tapered, level, etc. The tapered is not of great importance in the early spring, and besides the level will cast much better in the winds and sink much faster.

Now for the spinning: A leader of from 6 to 12 inches is the best, this is also up to what you handle most adeptly. I have found, instead of the wire leaders used so much, a mono one made up by the individual is much better. Not only will it be lighter and thus give more action to the lures, but it can be made any length, and that is important to me.

There is one trick that does pay off. As most of you bait men know, there are places where it is impossible to use a fixed line. (By this I mean directly on the bottom). Try using a float with a very light sinker, and get ready to bring home the fish! You can even make the float out of a feather quill; just strip the feather down to the bare wand, cut it off square, then seal it with a little heat — a match or something like that is good, if you are careful.

We tried a couple of the creeks around, but the water was so high it was impossible to find the stream bed. As I've mentioned before, the junk in one of the creeks was terrible. Trying to fish it was just too much work. If any fish were around they must have been garbage collectors. It is a shame to see the damage done to some of the beauty spots around by unthinking people. This particular stream used to give some nice trout; too bad it has to happen like this. We also saw a small catch of trout from one of the surrounding lakes that were very nice. All Reds, the largest would be about one pound. True, the catches won't be exceptional for the first few weeks, but they will get better as time goes along.

For the river rats, the fishing prospects look good. Certainly the junk that floats around has been a lot less than in former years. Even with the floods, the good people around are trying to help the North River clean itself up. Within the next few weeks the fishing for Northerns and Musky will be the best; of course the season means a lot. It may be one of those years when the season will interfere a lot with the fish. As most of us know, some years the fish will hit like mad for a few weeks before the season opens, and then just stop. However, these fish are very obliging for us, so there is no reason to worry about them. The perch can be seen around some of the run-off creeks, and these can be taken right now. A good feed of them won't go amiss.

Crows are getting a real work-out these days. They will soon be starting to get very wary, so now is the time to go after them. They do supply a lot of good shooting, and for the shooter who likes to keep in shape, it's good practice going after them.

Graduation dance at Morin Heights this Friday

Morin Heights — Graduation exercises for the first Grade Eleven to graduate from Morin Heights will be held at the Bell Theatre this Friday, May 6. This is a day of particular pride for the school community, and is a landmark in the progress of Morin Heights Intermediate School to the status of a high school. There are 13 graduates —Beryl Captain, Flora MacMillan, Helen Seale, Heather McCullough, Dianne Sicuso, Hanne Juul, Peter Hill, Peter Mattenberger, William Watchorn, Ernest Dawson, James Patterson, James Hovey and Kenneth Medford.

The graduates will be addressed by Dr. D. S. Penton, headmaster of Lower Canada College, Montreal. Representatives from the Department of Education, Quebec, will be present. All parents of pupils at the school and all friends of the school are very welcome to attend the exercises, at the Bell Theatre. The graduates will be soon writing their final examinations, and upon their success will depend in some measure the progress of the school. The community wishes them well.

After the exercises, a formal dance will be held at the school. This dance will follow the pattern of all high school graduation dances held throughout Canada; it will be a formal dance for the graduates, and by invitation only to guests. The auditorium has been decorated especially for this occasion, under the guidance of Mr. Bruce Stoeker, to whom the graduates express their thanks.

Today, with the high number of "drop-outs" in high school, it is most encouraging to find such a group from the school who have found their way "to the top". There is always, "room at the top" for Grade Eleven graduates in Canada, and congratulations are due to this fine group of pupils from Morin Heights High School.

Quebec apples kept crop-fresh through controlled storage

Like to taste an apple with a difference? Then try a Sleeping Beauty! No, it's not a new variety of apple. It's one that, even at the end of a long winter, comes to you with that straight-off-the-tree taste.

A new kind of winter storage for apples is the secret of its success. Technically known as controlled atmosphere storage (CA storage for short), the recently-developed technique represents a major advance over cold-storage methods formerly used. Some varieties of apples when kept too long in normal cold storage develop a low-temperature disorder and cannot be kept very long when returned to normal temperatures.

CA storage, in which apples are placed within hours of being picked, arrests the normal ripening process to which all fruit is subject and the apple remains in this state of suspended animation for as long as it remains in storage. Apples can be kept in CA storage for a year or longer although they are not normally stored in this fashion for longer than eight or nine months.

Under CA conditions the temperature around the fruit is reduced, the humidity increased, the amount of oxygen available to the fruit lowered, since oxygen is a necessary ingredient of the ripening process, and the amount of carbon dioxide increased, which also helps to retard the ripening process.

The CA process, which was originally developed in England and which has now been adopted in major apple-growing areas in Canada, has proved particularly successful with some varieties of apples, notably the Quebec McIntosh.

Most of the Quebec apples which will be on sale throughout the province during May will be CA-stored apples. Controlled-atmosphere storage is now available at the major apple-growing areas in Quebec and one of the most modern CA plants in North America was officially opened recently at Frelighsburg in the Eastern Townships.

DUCK FORECAST

Tilly, Alta. (CP) — An official of Ducks Unlimited said little or no improvement was due this year in the duck-nesting area of southern Alberta. Little run-off from snow was expected and most of the potholes would be dry, he predicted.

A BOY SCOUT FARM

New Zealand, a land of sheep farms, has one in Otago which is of special interest, for it belongs to the Boy Scout Movement.

It all started during the last war when the Scouts wanted a permanent camp with enough grazing ground to make it pay. Largely with funds subscribed by the public, they bought a piece of land, cleared it of scrub, gorse and bracken, making it a rule that before anyone could sign the visitors' book, he had to cut down a gorse bush or an elderberry tree. . . . The boys put 830 sheep on their land to begin with, and by 1961 they expect to have 3,000, as well as 80 head of cattle. At present they employ two men to look after their stock. It is now quite a going concern, bringing in a revenue of 600 pounds sterling a year to the Boy Scouts Association of New Zealand.

Jersey cow proves a top producer

North River Basil's Magic June — 262355, a Jersey cow in the herd of Dr. G. R. McCall, of Lachute, has just completed three records in 1221 days, producing 2,045 lbs. of butterfat in that time, qualifying her for a Ton of Gold certificate. She is a daughter of the Superior sire Middlebrook Jester Basil — 144628, a bull that was formerly used in Dr. McCall's herd.

To qualify for this award a cow must product at least 2,000 lbs. of fat in four consecutive years.

Water pollution bill pledged by Premier Barrette

Quebec (CP) — Premier Antonio Barrette said here recently that the Quebec government will introduce water pollution control legislation at the next session of the legislature.

Mr. Barrette said the Province of Quebec no longer is a predominantly agricultural province but is in the grip of a gigantic industrial expansion. The great natural resources and shipping facilities were factors that together speed up the industrialization process.

The premier said the government this year is giving larger sums to assist agriculture and farmers in order to help this sector of the economy meet changing conditions.

Mr. Barrette spoke of the Mattagami Lake region near James Bay as an area where industry will invest more than $25,000,000 during the next few years. Eventually industry would invest up to $60,000,000 in the area rich in zinc and timber resources.

DAIRY NOTE

Coffee drinking in Canada now means an annual income of $26.5 million to Canadian dairy farmers through the use of cream, milk and other creaming agents in coffee, it is estimated by the Research Department of the Pan-American Coffee Bureau.

DDT for European corn borer

Ottawa — A Canada Department of Agriculture entomologist says that the most effective and economic control for the European corn borer, is a 25 per cent DDT emulsion applied at the rate of three quarts per acre.

Four applications at five-day intervals should be started when corn plants show evidence of egg masses or when fresh feeding appears in the whorl of the plant.

According to M. Hudon, of the St. Jean research laboratory, high temperatures may advance the egg laying period from two to three weeks. In an early season, egg laying begins about the end of June and in a late season it may be delayed until mid-July. The egg laying period generally lasts about one month.

Variations in the seasonal development of the insect are important to sweet corn growers when they are selecting their dates of planting and timing their insecticide applications.

The European corn borer is a particularly serious pest of early-planted sweet corn.

Good send-off to 13th annual Concerts campaign

A number of "old faithfuls" and a welcome addition of newcomers ushered in the 13th annual Community Concerts Association campaign, at a supper in the Legion Hall on Monday.

Seated at the head-table were Notary Simon Valois, chairman, and Mrs. Valois; Mrs. Wm. Cottingham, a past-president; Mrs. Fernand Legault and Mrs. Rigby, joint campaign chairmen; W. M. Steeves, treasurer; and Jacques Bedard, secretary. . . . A familiar figure missing from this assembly was Miss Juliette Rodrigue, to whom the chairman paid tribute and voiced good wishes for her recovery following a recent accident. . . . Also present at the head-table, and one of the most encouraging speakers, was Mr. Paul Reish, representing Columbia Artists Management, N.Y. Mr. Reish is here for the duration of the campaign.

Other speakers were Mrs. Legault, Mrs. Rigby and Mr. Jacques Bedard. The tenor of their thoughts was optimistic. Preliminary campaigning by workers has been gratifying. There is an increasing appreciation of the value of Community Concerts to student listeners, who thereby acquire the taste for better music — and this fact was stressed to the canvassers now making their rounds. An increase in membership was apparent last year, over 1958-59, and a continuing uptrend was hoped for.

The Columbia Artists representative mentioned an attractive list of programs available before and after the peak of winter weather, which may enable the Association to book dates other than in December, January and February.

About 35 workers attended, from Lachute, St. Andrews, St. Eustache, Brownsburg and other centres. The tables were tastfully decorated with flowers by courtesy of A. Paulsen, florist. Caterer for the supper was Mr. R. Paquette.

The campaign continues this week. Headquarters, at Bedard Ltée., Main Street (with special phone, LO 2-5055), will be open each afternoon from 2 to 6. . . . It was requested by Mrs. Legault, campaign chairman, that team captains report daily, and all returns should be completed by Saturday night.

Cheques presented for Home for Aged, at County W. Inst. 40th annual meet

Officers elected, resolution passed on firearms, issuing of hunting permits

The 40th annual convention of the Argenteuil County Women's Institutes was held at Brownsburg High School on Saturday, May 7, with approximately 100 members attending.

The repeating of the Mary Stewart Collect opened the meeting. This was followed by a few words of welcome from the president, Mrs. George McGibbon.

Minutes of the semi-annual and board meetings were read by the secretary, Mrs. M. Crosly.

The financial report was read by Miss H. Smith, in the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. L. Armstrong.

A report on the "Home for Senior Citizens" was given by Mrs. M. Wilson. Branches are urged to cut down on other donations and concentrate on this Home. It has been stipulated that, if an event is advertised as raising money for the Home, at least 50% of the proceeds should go to this county project.

Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh read the names of 11 members who had passed away during the past year. A minute's silence was observed in remembrance of these ladies. This was followed by a short prayer.

The president stated at this point that 12 new members had joined this year, thus increasing the roll by one. She also mentioned that one branch brings magazines to each meeting and sells them for 5 cents a copy. This gives a much wider distribution of reading material to the members.

The annual reports of the conveners were then heard. The convener of Fair Work asked that all entries be at the Exhibition Grounds on Tuesday, June 14, between 1 and 4 p.m.

A discussion on progress made by the committee of the proposed Home was then held. Mrs. McGibbon stated that they intended to send a questionnaire throughout the county to folks 65 and over who might be interested. It is hoped that the Home will be a one-storey structure.

A letter of thanks is to be sent to Mr. Norman Thorburn for his letter in The Watchman about the Home. When a location has been chosen, the general public will probably be given a chance to support this project through a county-wide drive for funds. In the meantime any contributions should be sent to the treasurer of the committee, Mrs. M. R. Wilson.

The morning session was then adjourned for luncheon, which was served by the Brownsburg ladies in the school cafeteria. Following this tasty repast, the president introduced the guests at the head-table. Each one spoke briefly and expressed pleasure in having been invited to attend.

The afternoon session opened with the branches drawing a name for an exchange visit during the year. Mrs. Geo. Leggett reported on preparations for the 1961 Jubilee Celebration. A letter of greetings is to be sent to a former provincial

Large 1960 graduating class honored at L.H.S. ceremonies

The graduation ceremonies at Lachute High School last Friday evening were of the usual glamorous order, with underlying elements of sentiment, humor and resolution among the 36 graduating pupils. A fair-sized gathering of parents, relatives and friends witnessed the proceedings.

An innovation this year was the preliminary presentation of diplomas. The scrolls were presented by Principal Fred Royal in the presence of three senior teachers, Messrs. Robt. Wyse, Lucien Rossaert and Robt. Bailey; the latter, as assistant principal, conducted this pleasant part of the ceremonies.

Mr. Jas. W. McGibbon addressed the graduates, and the gathering, in his role as school board chairman for the 14th consecutive year — his more serious remarks being interspersed with anecdotes from his own graduating year at L.H.S., 1918.

Principal Fred Royal also spoke words of encouragement, congratulation and good wishes to the graduating pupils.

Mistress of ceremonies was Bonnie Gain, a member of the honored class of '60, who introduced the speakers and features of the program, in a capable and confident manner throughout.

During the ceremonies, an interesting sidelight was a presentation to the school — tendered by the school board chairman and accepted by the principal — of a handsome Encyclopedia Britannica set donated by the publishers for use in this school. . . . In this gesture Commissioner McGibbon was substituting for the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, who was regrettably unable to be present.

Apart from these digressions the program followed its traditional form. The "Class History" was recited jointly by Barbara Hay and Reg. Stansfield, the "Last Will and Testament" by Ann FitzGerald and David Heggie, and the "Class Prophecy" by Donna Derouin and Peter Riddell. The valedictorian was Rodger Titman.

The Grand March, performed by the graduates and their partners, climaxed the more colorful aspects of these exercises. A pleasant period of dancing was enjoyed to the music of Gordon Anderson's orchestra, and refreshments were served in the cafeteria by Household Science students of the upper grades.

"Moonlight Memories" was the motif of the decorations in the auditorium. The school colors predominated in tropical themes under subdued lighting, and the whole effect was a credit to the committee entrusted with this task, under the leadership of Grace Donaldson.

Receives gift to High School

A sidelight of the Lachute High School graduation ceremonies was the presentation of a complete set of encyclopedias for use of the school. The handsome volumes shown here were presented by the school board chairman, Jas. W. McGibbon (left) on behalf of Encyclopedia Britannica of Canada Ltd. — a similar gift having been made by the publishers to all English and bi-lingual high schools across Canada. Principal Fred Royal received this acceptable donation for use of the pupils and staff. — Photo, Syd Drew

Bailey bridge collapse kills worker at Carillon project

— A Toronto man engaged on the Carillon dam construction, A. J. Querry, 38, was killed last Friday afternoon when a 400-foot section of a Bailey bridge collapsed into the turbulent Ottawa River.

Querry, a construction foreman, and six other men, were working on the 1,100-foot temporary Bailey bridge which gave way to the pounding river, whose waters have been abnormally high lately.

Querry was an employee of the Bailey Bridge Department of Contractors' Services Limited, Leaside, Ont. He and the others were attempting to reinforce the middle spans of the bridge when they gave way.

The six men ran to safety. They were — Donat Crevier and Jean Paul Roy, both of Carillon; Raymond Landry, Lake St. John, Que.; Willie Auclair, Valleyfield, Que.; and Harry Belly, a foreman. All were employed by Perini Quebec Incorporated and Dufresne Engineering.

A Quebec Hydro official said the middle spans of the bridge had been weakened three weeks ago by ice, which smashed and swept away a supporting pier.

"Belly told me to return to shore", Jean-Paul Roy said in an interview. "He said work on the bridge had become too dangerous and he was calling the men back."

Roy said a 50-ton mobile crane was being pulled from the bridge when the middle section began to break up.

"All of us were on the Pointe Fortune end", he said. "Querry was near the Carillon side with the crane. . . . As the bridge collapsed, I saw him run. He stopped when he saw the section break away, leaving a gap between him and the shore side.

"He hesitated and came back so as to take a long run to jump over the hole. Then the crane fell on him and he disappeared."

The crane toppled into the water. The wreckage of the bridge was swept 500 yards downstream.

Querry's torn life-saving jacket was later recovered. Provincial Police have been searching for his body.

About 1,300 men are presently employed at the Quebec Hydro project.

Mrs. Vivian Walker heads Art Assocn.

About 20 enthusiasts met Saturday afternoon at St. Andrews municipal hall to review progress of the Argenteuil Art Association and make plans for the 1960 season. Officers were elected, and the executive set the dates May 28 to June 5 for the spring exhibition, which is a member-and-amateur show open to all entrants with membership subscription.

Mr. Allen G. Talbot, in the chair, reviewed the past year's activities, and general progress in his terms as president (since inception of the group in 1956). He noted the loss of three valued supporters since last year — the late L. T. Porter, by death, Miss Paige Pinneo and Mrs. W. H. Owen, through departure from the community.

Mrs. Ian Naismith gave the secretarial and financial report.

Recommendations of the nominating committee were given by Miss A. L. Wales, and officers were elected as follows:

Hon. president, Antoine Paré; president, Mrs. Vivian Walker; vice-presidents, Mrs. F. Robin and Willard M. Steeves; sec-treas., Mrs. Ian Naismith.

Exhibitions committee — Mrs. L. T. Porter, Major S. Forbes, F. O. Peterson.

Committee for displaying exhibits — A. G. Talbot, Ian Naismith, Bela Molnar.

Directors — Mrs. L. T. Porter, Mrs. Fraser Morrison, P. L. Walker, Don Titman.

District representatives — Morin Heights, Mrs. Wm. Stock; Kilmar, Mrs. Wm. Bray; Lachute, Don Titman; Brownsburg, A. G. Talbot; Cushing, Miss F. M. Douglas; St. Andrews, Miss A. L. Wales.

Mrs. Vivian Walker assumed the chair, thanking the members for the honor accorded to her, and anticipating another successful year of activities. A cordial vote of appreciation was extended to Mr. Talbot as retiring president, and to the committees and officers of the past term.

Nearly 3 miles of town streets due for paving

Nearly three miles of town thoroughfares — 14,285 feet, to be exact, are due for paving in the next few months, according to a list of streets presented and approved at Council last week. The program includes a number of sideroads newly developed. Included are the following, with distance in feet:

Bedard Blvd., 725; Bellingham, 90; Cloutier, 180; Cruise, 800; Drew, 250; Edwin, 210;

Evelina, 425; Francis, 700; Fraser 150; Hamelin, 560; Millway, 1500; Paquin, 490;

Riverview, 1930; Robert (East), 240; Sydney (Barron to Mary), 390; Sydney (East), 200; Taylor, 235.

In addition, a width of 12 feet will be added to the Bethany Street paving, between Bedard Blvd. and Main St. Council will seek provincial government aid in the execution of these works.

Drain pond for housing plan at Hawkesbury

Hawkesbury — The 135-year-old mill pond at the south end of McGill Street, Hawkesbury, has been drained to make way for a new housing development.

The pond, covering some 60 acres, contained an estimated 84,000,000 gallons of water. The pond was created in 1825 to provide waterpower for a sawmill and a flour mill. These have both disappeared.

The new subdivision will contain 232 houses and a shopping centre, it is reported.

Representations to Council, remedy for river flooding

As spokesman for a group of property-holders whose buildings and contents suffered damage in the recent floods, Paul Lefebvre, co-proprietor of the Hotel Laurentien, requested Council to approach the J. C. Wilson Company to have repairs made to their dam. "According to information I have received, if this dam was made over, flood damage in this town would be considerably less." Mr. Lefebvre therefore requested Council, as a public body, to approach the company.

Ald. Horace Lamarche (whose business premises were in the front line of inundation) felt that a hydrographic survey of the North River should be made to determine exact causes of the floods. "It could be that the Wilson dam is not the cause; the floods might be due to contours or obstructions of the riverbed."

Mayor McGibbon was inclined to agree with Mr. Lefebvre, that the dam had been built a considerable time ago, and it would be a good policy to meet the company officials on this matter. . . . The mayor, Aldermen Lauréat Laurin and Horace Lamarche were appointed to see the J. C. Wilson representatives.

Other Matters before Council

On the representation of Kenneth Riley, secretary-manager of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, a grant of $300 was voted towards Lachute Spring Fair, also a page advertisement in the printed program.

The firm of White & Pearks, civil engineers, who at their own expense have made a preliminary study for improvement of the waterworks, submitted a report on work accomplished to date. However, before definitely retaining the services of this firm, it was decided to seek advice from other specialists in this matter.

Ald. Gérard Lefebvre was appointed pro-mayor for the next three months.

Mme Yvette Raymond, secretary-treasurer, was authorized to engage three persons to take the municipal census in the three wards. Ald. Réal Morrissette asked that Lucien Lacoste be engaged for this job in the west ward.

A letter was read from the Public Utilities Commission ordering the town to continue supplying water to Ayersville Municipality until the final decision on this case be rendered and filed in the records.

Two claims, one from Leonard Boyd and the other from Mme Ovila Joly, were held over, to be submitted to the insurance companies. The first case concerned damage by a town truck to Mr. Boyd's car, and the second claim was for damage to a fence struck by a town snowplow.

On proposal of Ald. Morrissette it was decided the corporation should purchase seven flags — three Fleur-de-Lis, two Red Ensigns and two Union Jacks.

Urges Town should retain lawyer to attend all Council sessions

Discussion on the need to engage a legal advisor for the town administration, was sparked by Ald. Horace Lamarche at the Council meeting last week — Ald. Lamarche being in favor of this measure.

"I believe the work of the councillors, backed by the experience of such a man, would be considerably lightened," he said. "Very often we are in a dilemma and at a loss which way to proceed, when legal questions are involved. . . . Instead of calling on Fernand Legault, our advisor, every time we need information, would it not be better to have him at every meeting on the basis of a yearly retaining fee?" Mr. Lamarche asked his colleagues.

Ald. R. Morrissette voiced his favor, but on condition that tenders be invited from all advocates in the town. To this Ald. Lamarche raised no objection.

Very often the town is in some situation or predicament (continued Ald. Lamarche) and when Council has recourse to advice from Mr. Legault, the latter has no information on the facts and details. It takes valuable time on his part to thumb through the minutes and correspondence, to get to the roots of the question.

According to Germain Filion, financial advisor, it cost the municipality $196.75 last year for advice on general administrative matters. Other costs had been incurred but these were relative to various by-laws, in the nature of a "capital cost."

Mayor McGibbon suggested that the matter should be considered and opinions of the aldermen voiced at next assembly.

Two fire calls

Lachute volunteer firemen were called to two fires in the Ayersville limits last week, both buildings located where water was in scarce supply. The firés were both caused by children burning grass.

On Thursday, a Sandy Hill blaze destroyed an unoccupied frame building owned by René Laurin, Evelina Street, Lachute, and the following Saturday afternoon, a barn owned by A. Launthier, located near Simon's Crossing, was destroyed.

2 Brownsburg Council vacancies; severity on traffic regulations

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — Councillors Keith Graham and Ernest Legault sat in on their final regular meeting last week, as their terms draw to a close and election day looms up in the immediate future. Nomination day was set for Wednesday, May 11, and the polling booths will be open for voting in the town on May 16, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Interest ran high during elections last year, and while there are only two seats at stake in this year's contest, it is anticipated that voting will be heavy.

Council took the second step towards acquiring the services of a town foreman, as they gave brief consideration to the tenders which had been received during the month. The qualifications in some cases are high, but since the salaries asked are high also, the councillors will have their hands full trying to pick the right man for the job.

A lengthy period was spent in discussing the "ins and outs" of a proces-verbal which was drawn up to describe the legal course of surface water on Woodbine Ave. A minority group of home-owners from that street had originally requested the procedure, and when

A welcome impetus to library

Truck recovered from North River

Lachute residents saw a strange sight on Friday morning last, when a Volkswagen van was accidentally pushed into the river at Boa's Riverside Motors and floated a considerable distance downstream, sinking between the bridges. The vehicle, owned by J. R. A. Carignan, plastering contractor, was recovered by grappling hooks, pulled from the riverbank by tow-truck winch, and recovered without too severe damage. — Photo, Syd Drew

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Judging by the amount of publicity being given the pollution problem just now, it looks as though everyone is behind it. The latest to climb on the bandwagon is Premier Antonio Barrette, who pledged support of an anti-pollution bill. As we all know, there has been a lot of suggestions and talk put forward — but as we also know, nothing has come of it in a concrete way. Some little progress has been made by independent companies in their own field, smoke, chemical, etc. It takes a lot of money to carry this on, and in some cases no help has been given by the governments. Maybe this will alter things a little for all concerned.

We have a real problem right in our own town, but up to now nothing seems to have been done. The dumping of raw sewage into any open water is something that should be stopped, and the sooner the better. Let's hope the laws being contemplated will be a sufficient deterrent to all towns, including Lachute. It's funny the way towns are just not interested in doing anything possible to get themselves out of a rut. So much can be done in a small way by all citizens, even to the point of not dumping their garbage in the rivers or along the roads.

It seems as though all sportsmen are not obeying the NO-MINNOW ban. There are always the odd few that will. It would be a good idea for our Wardens to take a look at Lake Louisa once in awhile. With the water dropping all the time, the trout are starting to bite. There have been some nice catches in some of the lakes. The spinning has naturally been the most popular, and the Daredevil lure credited with the best catches, with the Smorgasbord a very close second. Trolling hasn't paid off too well, but I've no doubt it will improve a lot in the next week or two. The water hasn't warmed up much in the past couple of weeks. The temperature was 42 all last week at Lake Hughes, and this is probably general all over the area. Just a shade too cold for good fishing. The rivers are giving up the catch of perch, only one thing — NETS, especially around Carillon. These jokers aren't contented with perch; the doré are getting into the picture too.

The number of rabbits around makes you wonder just where they have all come from. Even the partridge are making the roads a loafing place. I don't think I have ever seen as many in the district since I landed here.

The moose that was reported around for the past couple of years, is still with us — three of them now, at least, at this writing. There may be more that haven't been seen. In everything pertaining to wildlife, it certainly looks like a bumper year for them.

The number of fly men around is steadily increasing, and from the talk of most of them, there is no other way of fishing. I know it's hard to describe to the non-fly man, but the thrill of catching something on a fly beats them all. It's a wonderful feeling to see so many taking up this style, and believe it or not, conservation sure gets a workout this way, as you are fishing for sport, not for the pot. One thing I have noticed in the past few days, and that is the number of places that have been posted. You know from the acts of some of the so-called sports, it's no wonder. It used to be only for the hunting that trespassing was forbidden, but now for fishing too. Things are getting pretty bad when this has to happen.

There has been a lot of discussion on the size of the spinning lines, and the best to use. I think anyone who is using a heavy one (6 lb. test or over) would be surprised at the difference in their spinning if they used a lighter line. The smaller the line you use, the easier your casting. Of course, you don't have to go to extremes and use the ultra-light, to find out how enjoyable fishing really can be. Besides all this fishing is supposed to be for sport.

As you know I talk frequently of Northern Pike and the good fishing for them in the North River. There is a picture of them in the Toronto Star this past week, and this species is rated as a fighter equal to the salt-water Tarpon. Not bad when you figure that we can catch them right beside our door!

Opening event, lady golfers at luncheon meet

Feminity and eagerness were keynotes at the luncheon meeting held in the Tartan Room of the Golf Club, May 7, to mark the official opening of the Ladies' Section of the Lachute Golf and Country Club. It was a pleasure to see a number of young sophistieates from the Junior Section present, and showing interest in the proceedings.

In the absence of Mrs. F. W. FitzGerald, president, the members were cordially welcomed by Mrs. Ernest Leonard, 1st vice-president, who also expressed appreciation to the Entertainment Committee, headed by Mrs. Leonard Ayers, for the work which this successful gathering had entailed. Enthusiastic wishes for a rewarding season were extended.

Minutes of the last meeting and correspondence were read by Miss Elaine McDonald, secretary, while a report on the financial standing of the Ladies' Section was given by the treasurer, Miss Ann David.

Mrs. Roger Gravel, Match Captain, offered sincere congratulations to Mrs. Richard Stephens, who distinguished herself and brought honor to the club through her election on the Tournament Committee of the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union.

Mrs. Gravel also gave an interesting outline of the aim of National Golf Week, June 5-12, and urged everyone to participate wholeheartedly.

Members were advised that Mr. L. de Breyne had again offered to give group lessons for 'C' Class players, providing enough interest is shown.

The proceedings were ably summed up in French by Mrs. Mozart Carriere.

The Juniors' chairman, Mrs. Howard Watson, gave an outline of some of the events which the Juniors may anticipate on their schedule this year. Great emphasis is being placed on the development of these potential champions of tomorrow.

A particular vote of thanks is expressed to Mons. Adrien, the Club's new chef, for a most enjoyable luncheon.

Activities, plans, Lachute Boy Scouts

By Barry Downing

On April 30 the Scouts held a paper drive. The drive is used to gain money for the Scouts to buy camping equipment, Scout books, sports equipment, etc. This year the Scouts gathered approximately 15 tons of paper. The Lachute troop would like to thank all the people who helped make this drive a success.

On May 13-14-15 a Bronze Arrowhead Training Course will be held for patrol leaders and seconds. This course is compulsory, and will be held at Harrington.

Last week-end the Lion Patrol had an overnight hike at Hill Head.

On May 21-22 the Panther Patrol will hold a hike at Hill Head.

On May 28-29 a camperee will be held for all Scouts of Brownsburg and Lachute troops. This camperee will be at Harrington, and many Scouts are looking forward to this event.

Graham McOuat, Bert Elliott and Robert Gain passed their fire lighting and cooking tests.

On May 2, Gerald McRae was invested into the 1st Lachute Troop as a Scout.

Police and traffic problems discussed at Lions' meeting

Speaker at the last Lions Club meeting was Police Chief A. J. Whiteway, whose time was devoted to the answering of questions rather than to any discourse of a set pattern.

The Chief was introduced by the town's police commissioner, Lion Horace Lamarche, who recounted his record in police and security work, in St. John Ambulance training and Laurentian ski patrol.

Questions directed to the Police Chief pertained to traffic — and they were numerous. They ranged from speed limits, to the necessity for a dead stop at stop-signs; from the right-of-way at intersections, to the reckless practices of children walking and bicycle-riding in school areas.

The Chief, in answer to one question, elaborated on the routine of his department, in which it was aimed to have two policemen on duty at all times. The personnel receives instructions every morning in what to cover, and at what precise hour — in this way hoping to locate and remedy trouble spots in traffic. The prime objective of a police force is to provide protection to life and property, and the program of the present force of Chief and five constables is directed towards that end.

Chief Whiteway was thanked by Lion Leopold Carriere who, from long experience in civic affairs, stressed that the police commissioner and his department could do only so much, and the rest depended on the co-operation of the populace.

At this well-attended meeting chaired by President Lorne Duncan, a welcome newcomer was accepted into the club, in the person of Bill Flanigan, Bell Telephone manager, who was fittingly initiated by Dr. F. W. FitzGerald, past district governor.

Lion Gerard Lefebvre reported on the public speaking contest, in which Lachute had a champion in the district finals who would be entering the inter-provincial showdown (last Saturday).

Lion Don Titman asked co-operation with Community Concerts, and it was voted to subscribe for 10 student memberships.

Col. E. Emmett reported encouraging results in the Easter Seals appeal, and Lion Jacques Bourgoing briefed the club on a big attraction booked for Lachute Fair — the "Feux Follets" folk dances, a Montreal group of 35 dancers, three singers and six musicians, which played to a sell-out audience recently at the Forum.

the waterway was not completed by spring run-off time, the group rebelled, driven on by the fact that they and others on the street had just been billed for a culvert and "labor" which was (or was not) put into the project. Council finally established that a request for a proces-verbal is not a request for the town to actually proceed with the construction. The document is simply a legal description of the course the water must follow when work is done. The interested parties must further request the town to take measures to ensure that the water does follow the outlined course (i.e., dig the ditch). However, the discussion proved to be a fruitful one for the home-owners when those who attended the meeting managed to have the tax reduced from 30.35 to 5.9 cents per foot frontage.

Fire Chief A. Robbins reported a fire-free month during April — rather surprising actually, since the latter part of April is the time when a lot of town residents spend a warm afternoon or evening burning leaves. Incidentally, Chief Robbins is to be congratulated for his work in fire prevention. The Chief has recently been awarded a special certificate of merit by the Province of Quebec.

The Police Department suddenly blossomed forth with a record 29 speeding tickets and an unprecedented 11 parking tickets issued during the month. One might have expected the increase in speeding tickets, since the speed trap is in use once more after being safely tucked away for the winter. However, the issuance of the parking tickets is still a "manual operation", so it serves as an indication that Chief Bell was on the job after Council took a sudden new interest in traffic regulations.

The Community Concerts campaign

THE THIRTEENTH annual campaign of the Community Concerts Association is in swing this week.

The purpose of this year's drive, as in other years, is to accept renewal memberships from past subscribers, and to enroll new members for the 1960-61 concert season.

In the past, the Lachute Community Concerts Association has presented many outstanding artists and memorable concerts. Lachute, in fact, was privileged to introduce the Montreal Bach Choir on the Columbia Artists circuit this current season — thereby, we believe, augmenting the prestige of this group, in which we have particular local interest — meanwhile satisfying Concerts subcribers who request the performance of Canadian talent, and others who have a preference for group choral recitals.

Attendance at the concerts is by membership only. While loyal workers are canvassing in Lachute, Brownsburg, St. Andrews and vicinity, and in neighboring centres such as Hawkesbury, St. Eustache, Ste. Scholastique and St. Jerome — campaign headquarters will remain open daily throughout the week, at the Bedard Ltée store, Main Street, Lachute, in order to accept memberships.

If all contributing areas measure up to the hopes of the executive, a sufficient budget will be assured to provide concerts of the same high quality, or even bigger and better than in previous years.

Steps to curb water pollution

THE RECENT announcement by the Hon. Dr. Arthur Leclerc, Quebec Minister of Health, that Quebec Government will underwrite the cost of preparing plans for construction of sewage treatment plants by municipal corporations on Lake St. Louis, from Lachine to Ste. Anne de Bellevue, and on the North River, from St. Jerome to Ste. Agathe, is good news — if not altogether adequate to turn the tide.

Alphonse Leclaire, President of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations, commenting on the new approach to water pollution problems, states, "It is most encouraging to note that a Water Pollution Commission will replace the old water pollution committee, which had become inactive, and that a competent fisheries biologist, Dr. Gus Prevost, is a member of the new commission.

"It is also encouraging to have Premier Barrette announce that the Provincial Cabinet has placed $100,000 at the disposal of the Health Department for the study of sewage treatment plants."

Lake St. Louis and the North River are two regions which vitally concern the great majority of the people in this part of the province, and it may be well to try to get them under control first. When these are cleaned up, there are still many other dangerous areas, such as the Riviere des Prairies, on the north side of Montreal, which is polluted by raw sewage from the metropolitan district, St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, and other sources. The St. Francis, Chateauguay, St. Maurice and other rivers, and many lakes also demand attention.

To quote Mr. Leclaire as spokesman for the Fish and Game Associations: "We realize these cannot all be corrected in the immediate future but the Federation feels that a good start seems to have been made, and we thank and congratulate the government for this."

Fair warning

SOME OF THE new arrivals in Canada from Britain are surprised to find they no longer can take a small fling through the mails on the British soccer pools. Nor can they mail applications for tickets in the sweepstakes, in hopes of collecting a fortune.

They aren't the only ones. Some native-born Canadians still seem reluctant to acknowledge that it is illegal to send money through the mails for sweepstakes or pools which, under the Canadian Criminal Code, are classed as lotteries.

The Canadian Post Office cancels mailing privileges of persons who repeatedly use the mails to participate in overseas soccer pools or sweepstakes, but it does so only after issuing a warning to the senders.

Letters are intercepted because the Post Office in Canada keeps a list of overseas addresses known as receiving points for money to be placed on the pools, or sweepstakes. This list is constantly being revised, as the bet receivers switch addresses to try to fool the postal authorities.

First offenders, when their letters are intercepted, are given a warning. The Post Office returns their letter marked "non transmissable," along with a note that betting on the pools is against the law.

Letters that have no return address on the envelopes are opened so postal authorities can find their point of origin. In such cases, any money or cheque is returned to the sender, but pool coupons or sweepstake applications are destroyed.

After a second offence, the department cancels the sender's mailing privileges — cutting him off from receiving any mail. Mail addressed to him is returned to the sender. To have service restored the person must provide a sworn statement not to use the mails for pool, sweeps or lottery purposes.

The department at Ottawa says it has suspended the mail-receiving privileges of hundreds in Canada for repeated attempts to bet on Britain's soccer pools. Popularity of these pools — with the occasional announcements of fortunes won for a small investment — has brought a sudden increase in such suspensions.

Whether the pools and sweepstakes are a good thing or not, is perhaps a matter for argument. But the fact remains that under Canadian law it is illegal to use the mails to contribute to them.

Viewpoints and perspectives

TRAVEL RECORD? — Canadians will travel overseas in bigger-than-ever numbers this year, according to Beatrice Riddell in The Financial Post. Close to 200,000 Canadians will visit foreign countries other than the U.S. Some of the indicators are as follows:

Passports. Applications to the Department of External Affairs for new and renewed passports are running 20% ahead of this time a year ago. In 1959, 115,272 new passports and 18,102 renewals were issued.

Winter travel to the Caribbean area has been 15% to 20% higher than last winter, according to travel agents and transportation companies canvassed.

European travel will probably be at least 18% heavier than last summer.

Advance bookings for airlines are up more than 20%.

IT IS ASTONISHING how few people, outside of the maple belt, know or appreciate real maple syrup. We have seen tourists who would turn down maple syrup on their pancakes in favor of the insipid table syrups or even molasses. The poor unfortunate souls were not brought up in this favored land.
— Stanstead (Que.) Journal

PROPER PARENTS — In well-regulated communities there has always been a curfew law, ably enforced by parents.
— Cochrane (Ont.) Northland Post

FARM EARNINGS — It is customary for representative farmers' organizations to point to the high prices of wheat the farmer buys compared with what he gets for what he has to sell. It seems clear that the only fair way to compare profits is on the basis of earnings of the sales dollar. — Creston (B.C.) Review

HIGHWAY DUMPS — The legislation banning automobile graveyards from provincial highways should be extended to every by-road. Some of our most beautiful country lies off the beaten track and it's in some of these areas where the automobile discards are thickest. Municipal councils should introduce similar laws. —Wolfville (N.S.) Acadian

CAR FADS — Oshawa, Detroit and other centres of car manufacturing have shown good, if belated, sense in meeting consumer demand for compact cars. The next step to be taken is to avoid contrived yearly fads in styling for these economy cars.

ABOUT MONEY

I think it was O. O. McIntyre who used to say that a newspaper columnist could be sure of getting readers if he talked about food, love, or money, not necessarily in that order. I would like to talk about money right now, because I was just handed eighty cents in American money as change.

It is a popular game these days, getting rid of American change, because everybody wants to discount it. Our dollar is worth about five cents more than the American dollar, or so we are told. Is this good or bad?

For my money, if I may use the expression, it is far from being good. For years I have been selling a considerable amount of my writings in the United States. In the old days, the cheques had extra value; but today, with the exchange and the discount knocked off, I am taking a licking.

I am not the only Canadian getting hurt by the discounted American dollar. The nation is suffering a trade revenue loss of something like $280 million a year because of it. That's more than the total value of all our exports of nickel in 1959, plus our export of pulpwood tossed in! It meant a loss of about $140 million to the government in taxes . . . taxes badly needed to pay for the many social enterprises this country has undertaken. The fact is that further losses of this kind in tax revenue could well mean that a lot of the social welfare work paid for by the government would have to be stopped. Whether you like them or not, Corporations pay for a huge slice of the welfare bill each year, and when they get hurt the exchequer gets hurt too!

This money problem isn't an easy one to solve. Indeed, it is made worse when cities like Montreal and Toronto go to New York to borrow money. Some provinces (Manitoba, for example) have also contributed to the problem by borrowing in the U.S.A. Every time this is done it leads to overvaluation of the Canadian dollar. Perhaps, if all this borrowing was done in Canada, it would go a long way toward improving the situation. At least one leading industrialist, Mr. P. M. Fox, has suggested that it is one very practical way to improve the situation.

The main thing is that we should all be concerned. Two hundred and eighty million dollars a year, or more, are at stake, of which some $140 millions are a direct loss to the taxgatherers. And you know where they'll go to make that up!

What is the Manitoba Cuesta?

This is a steep escarpment, facing toward the east, that rises between 500 and 1000 feet above the Manitoba lowland and runs for about 350 miles from the international boundary in the Pembina River region northwesterly to just south of the Carrot River in Saskatchewan. Looked at from the east, this escarpment appears as a group of hills known, from south to north, as the Pembina Hills, the Riding, Duck and Porcupine Mountains and the Pasquia Hills. This cuesta is a distinct topographic feature, representing a steplike rise between the Manitoba and Saskatchewan prairie levels.

Where is the Green Mound?

Greend Mound is a low knoll that dominates Portland Point, a point of land jutting out into New Brunswick's St. John River from the upper end of Saint John harbour. The Green Mound has been the site of archaeological excavations in recent years. These excavations have revealed considerable information on the prehistoric, French and early British periods.

All Aboard

with G. E. MORTIMORE

Mother's Day is over, thank goodness. I didn't buy my wife or my mother anything. If they buy me a present for Father's Day, I shall receive it in cold silence.

Mother's and Father's days are only two numerous occasions when we are shamed into giving our loved ones things they don't need.

When I was a boy, there were only two real gift days in a year — Christmas and your birthday. You hoped for some chocolate eggs at Easter, but the stores hadn't turned on the hard sell, so long ago. I wasn't married, so I hadn't heard of wedding anniversaries.

Things have changed. Now scarcely a week goes by without a gimmick upon which to hang a merchandising slogan.

There are Graduation Day, St. Valentine's Day, Easter, Christmas, anniversaries, birthdays, Mother's Day, Father's Day . . . and I have no doubt that there are more to come. Brother's Day? Cousin's Day?

The woman who got a mink coat for Mother's Day will expect a deep-freeze for Dominion Day, a garbolator for Remembrance Day, and, for Christmas — what? Offhand, I don't know.

But the merchants will think of something.

It is certain death, in many parts of Canada, for a wild animal to show himself at the edge of human settlement.

City-dwellers in their carpeted, glass-fronted nests are touchy about wildlife. They see so little of it.

A glimpse of a bear, squirrel, raccoon or bat sends them into a panic. They summon the police, who come thundering into the subdivision with drawn pistols and shoot down the offending beast.

The police feel that they are doing their duty in executing lower creatures for the crime of being alive in a world full of people.

They should think twice. They need not jump to obey the commands of citizens whose motto is: "It's moving; kill it."

If someone phones to say that his little boy is actually being carried off by a cougar, that's different. But police should not let themselves be bullied into slaughtering animals for no reason.

Even if some creature is doing harm, is it really the job of the police to interfere?

Once police allow themselves to be drafted as everyman's pest control squad, there is no telling what they will be called on to do.

Taxpayers will begin asking them to stamp out carpet beetles and earwigs.

Mother's March at B'bg May 16

Brownsburg Legion, Branch 71, will appeal to the citizens of Brownsburg and vicinity for funds in a Mothers' March, on Monday evening, May 16 between 6.30 and 8.30 p.m. This money is urgently required by the March-of-Dimes Fund to ensure that the 1960 program in the fight against poliomyelitis and hemophilia, for research and rehabilitation, equipment, and expenses connected thereto, may be successfully carried out.

The increase in cases showing on the books of the Quebec Chapter, Canadian Foundation for Poliomyelitis and Rehabilitation — from 513 in December, 1955, to 3,204 at March 31, 1960 — indicates that the impact of last year's epidemic is now bearing heavily on the Chapter, as is evidenced by the rise in case-load of 150 during the first three months of this year.

The organized program against Polio in this province is sponsored by the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion, with each branch undertaking its full share of the load in each district, particularly in the field of adult vaccination.

The campaign for funds in Brownsburg will again be under the able direction of Mrs. T. E. Zimmer. It is hoped that residents will have generous donations ready for the canvassers when they call.

Incidentally, the public of the Arundel, Brownsburg and Lachute districts are again reminded of the Free Adult Anti-Polio Clinics to be held for those centres, on Thursday, May 19. The clinic for Arundel will be held between 2 and 4.30 p.m. and for Lachute and Brownsburg in the Lachute Legion Hall, 634 Foundry St., between 7 and 8.30 p.m. Persons desiring vaccine shots are asked to be at the respective clinics as early as possible.

Recent wedding in Arundel, Que.

Barth-Rathwell

The marriage of Miss Darryl Grace Rathwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rathwell, and Mr. Barry John Barth, son of Mrs. G. Barth, was held April 16 in Grace Church, Arundel. Mrs. Bluebell Phillips played the organ, with Mr. Hugh Lowe as soloist. The church was decorated with ferns and spring flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Val Morrison, as matron of honor, and the Misses Dee Ann Warrens and Carol Barth, sister of the groom, as bridesmaids. Miss Debra Rathwell, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Mr. Brian Merry acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Owen Rathwell and Mr. Ross Marsden.

The bride wore a floor-length white peau-de-soie grown with embroidered Alencon lace. Her shoulder-length veil was caught by an original hand-made cap of Chantilly lace flowers. The other attendants wore taffeta and nylon dresses in various shades of blue.

The bride's mother wore a blue brocaded dress with bolero and white accessories. Her corsage was of yellow carnations.

The groom's mother wore a beige crepe and lace dress with white accessories, and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the reception, the couple left on their wedding trip, the bride wearing a blue suit with beige and white accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

On their return they will reside in St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac.

Slight increase in Easter Seals

Col. E. Emmett, as chairman of the Easter Seals Campaign for Lachute Lions Club, reports that the returns this year were up slightly over last year; he also wishes to thank all those who were so prompt in sending their donations. There are still many not heard from, and it is still not too late to return your pink envelope. Any who have not received their official receipts, please contact Col. Emmett as there were a few envelopes received on which the return address had been omitted.

May meeting of Lachute Red Cross

Reports at the monthly meeting of the Canadian Red Cross, Lachute Branch, held on May 14, reflected worthwhile work by many interested volunteers.

Mrs. Gordon McOuat, 1st vice-president, chaired the meeting in the absence of Mrs. F. W. FitzGerald, president, and Mrs. F. Morrison gave an excellent report for the Women's Work Committee, as follows:

Twenty quilts have been completed since the beginning of the year by Red Cross volunteers, who have quilted regularly every Wednesday afternoon at the headquarters in the United Church hall.

Two completed quilts were donated by the Upper Lachute Institute.

During April the Packing Committee shipped 185 articles of sewing for children, and 9 knitted articles. Six were donated. The 22 quilts have also been shipped to Red Cross headquarters in Montreal.

Mrs. McOuat reported the successful conclusion of a series of English lectures on Red Cross Home Nursing given at the Lachute High School during March and April. Organized by Mrs. A. Vessie and Mrs. Jack Gorman, the lectures and lecturers were as follows:

Giving Care in Emergency Situations — Dr. F. W. FitzGerald.

Cancer Education and Film — Dr. Suzanne MacKimmie.

Contagious Diseases — Mrs. Garth Boyd.

Introduction to Home Nursing Care — Mrs. Jack Gorman.

Administering Medicine—throat, eye, ear, nose, inhalations — Mrs. Colin McOuat.

Routine care of a bed-ridden patient — Mrs. W. Muir.

The class also attended a lecture and film on Artificial Respiration, which was shown at the Legion Hall under auspices of the Lachute Lions Club.

Mrs. Vessie asked that her appreciation be expressed to the Legion and the Lions, and to Mr. Fred Royal and the Lachute High School for the use of the Medical Room and equipment during the lecture periods; also for the assistance given by Mrs. F. Morrison, who acted the bed patient, and for the sick-room supplies arranged for by Mrs. Harry Booth and Mrs. Dave Schwartz.

Dr. Suzanne MacKimmie, chairman of the Red Cross home nursing committee, also organized a series of lectures on the same themes in French during the fall, at the Lachute Catholic School. Doctors and nurses lecturing were — Dr. Eric Mongeon, Dr. Suzanne MacKimmie, Mme. André Benoit, Mme. Jean-Jacques Dupré and Mlle. L. Papineau.

Brownies and Cubs parade to Calumet Holy Trinity Church

Grenville — A fine turnout of the 1st Grenville Pack of Brownies and Cubs paraded to Holy Trinity Church, Calumet, for the 9.30 a.m. service on Sunday, May 1. Besides their leaders and assistants, many of the parents and friends joined in worship with the young people.

The parade was piped from the station grounds to the church with bagpipes played by Stanley (Sonny) MacTavish and Brent Dodd, of Kilmar.

After receiving the flags from the Cub color party, the rector reminded all present that they were "gathered to worship God through Jesus, upon whom all attention should be centred."

The service began with the hymn "Stand up, stand up for Jesus". Psalm I was read by a Brownie and the "God Shepherd" story read by a Cub. Two of the assistants took up the offering.

The rector showed what a graphic and effective story this was that Jesus told to his hearers, showing how He was their leader, and ours. This led to the thought of our responsibility to be "inspired leaders", "inspired parents" and "inspired children", namely with the spirit of Jesus leading and directing us at all times.

The service closed with the singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers."

County Women's Institutes held 40th annual convention

W.I. organizer, Miss Hazel McCain.

Mrs. S. Armstrong introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. J. Ossington, of Granby, who is provincial 2nd vice-president. Mrs. Ossington expressed her delight at being present again and brought greetings from the Provincial Board. She hoped that the W.I. would support World Refugee Year by welcoming new citizens, helping with the language, and giving housekeeping tips. She asked that all autobiographies of life members be sent in by June. The Leadership Training Course will be held at Macdonald College on May 23-27. The annual Provincial Convention dates are June 21-24. Mrs. Ossington also asked that each branch send in 10 cents per member to support the Adelaide Hoodless Home. Fees in future for C.A.C. should be sent direct to Mrs. Ossington.

In closing, the speaker asked for continued support to the provincial executive. . . . She was cordially thanked by Mrs. M. Crosly.

A $10 gift coupon was voted to be given to UNESCO Plan 400, from this county.

Mrs. McGibbon thanked her fellow members for their support during the past two years.

Mrs. C. Hall, chairman of the nominating committee, then read the slate of new officers for the year, as follows:

Past-pres., Mrs. George McGibbon; pres., Mrs. Sherman Doig; 1st vice-pres., Mrs. George Muir; 2nd vice-pres., Mrs. Percy Staniforth; secretary, Mrs. Howard McOuat; treasurer, Miss Hannah Smith.

County Conveners

Agriculture, Mrs. Raymond Warwick. Citizenship, Mrs. Hadden McDonald. Education, Mrs. John Black. Home Economics, Mrs. Ernest Coulsen. Publicity, Mrs. Theo Zimmer. Welfare & Health, Mrs. Chas. Campbell. Fair Work, Mrs. Foster Campbell.

These new officers were officially installed by Mrs. Ossington.

The resolutions were then presented by Mrs. H. McDonald to the convention, and accepted, as follows:

Whereas: We have with us today Mrs. J. Ossington, 2nd vice-president of the Q.W.I.,

Be it resolved that we express our thanks to her and to our Provincial Board for their cooperation in the work of the branches of our county.

Whereas: The County of Argenteuil W.I. appreciate the use of Brownsburg High School for this annual convention,

Be is resolved that we extend thanks to the School Board.

Whereas: the Brownsburg branch has so ably convened the luncheon, for this convention,

Be it resolved we extend to them and their helpers our sincere thanks.

Whereas: We are indebted to Mr. J. S. Giles and the staff of Giles Publishing House for their kindness in giving free publicity to W.I. work, and to Mr. W. M. Steeves for auditing the books for 1959-60.

Be is resolved that we extend to them our sincere thanks and appreciation.

Whereas: It is no longer safe during the hunting season to drive on the highways and byways of our beautiful province,

And whereas: So many hunting accidents occur each year, many of them fatal,

And whereas: Some issuers of hunting licenses pay little attention to regulations, re age, eyesight, etc.,

And whereas: No instruction in the handling of firearms is required in order to obtain a license,

Therefore, be it resolved that a stepped-up edutation program be instituted to make hunters more careful, and that a test be given before hunting licenses are issued.

Two cheques were then presented to the committee for the "Home for Senior Citizens", one from the Frontier Branch for $115., and the other from Jerusalem-Bethany, for $50.

In closing, Mrs. Gordon Hay expressed her thanks on behalf of the county to the retiring officers.

— Jehovah's Witnesses —

Do you hope in a Resurrection?

Jesus said: "All those in the memorial tombs will . . . come out."

When will those in the memorial tombs come forth? And where will they come? Why, when God has provided for a resurrection, does he allow men to die at all? If God made men to die, why is death called the "wages sin pays"? Why was Adam created, and why did God plant the garden of Eden and tell Adam: "Be fruitful and become many and fill the earth and subdue it"? Will this divine commission ever be fully completed? For the authoritative answers to these and many other questions read:

"FROM PARADISE LOST TO PARADISE REGAINED"

Price 75 cents. (Bible Study booklet included during May.)

This beautifully illustrated book is hard bound in a gold-titled embossed cover of coral color. Its 256 pages are as easy to read as its message is to understand. It is written for young and old alike and cites God's Word, the Bible, as sole authority for the hope it holds out to all persons of good will.

Write: Watchtower, 150 Bridgeland Ave., Toronto 19, or ask any Jehovah's Witness you may happen to meet, anywhere.

BELL LINES

by Bill Flanigan
your telephone manager

There's a great deal of time wasted in every-day life on trivialities: trying to remember a certain name, for instance, or sorting out an address, or looking for a nationally known product and someone who carries it. Trivial, perhaps, but often extremely important at the time, especially when it comes to buying and selling, or obtaining a specific service . . . Well, the Yellow Pages section of your telephone book is capable of solving most problems of this nature in short order . . . Supposing you remember a business firm's address, but can't think of the name — say a garage at 1115 Main Street. Simply turn to the 'Garages' classification in your Yellow Pages, and look for the address that you recognize. In the same way, if you want a roofer, and you know the name but not the address, turn to 'Roofers' in your Yellow Pages, and look for the familiar name. His address will be there too. Or if you want a nationally known product, such as 'Perfection' rivets, turn to 'Rivets' in your Yellow Pages, then select your dealer from the list of 'Perfection' dealers . . . Whatever it is, you find it fast in the Yellow Pages.

This is something of an anniversary year for the telephone. Just 25 years ago, the first round-the-world telephone call was made. And 45 years ago, the first transatlantic radio-telephone call was completed. Most important of all, Alexander Graham Bell, who started it all, arrived in Canada from England, 90 years ago.

It happened south of the border — Approaching the outskirts of a small town, a motorist stopped to use an outdoor telephone booth. About to step into the booth, he was startled to read this sign on the door: 'Please don't use this phone booth until the eggs are hatched.' And when he peered into the booth, our friend saw two tiny eggs resting in a ready-made hummingbird's nest. The nest? The coin-return slot!

The first warm-weather holiday of the year (we hope!) is almost upon us — Victoria Day. As we've mentioned many times before, your telephone can be particularly helpful to you at holiday-time. It's your means of letting folks know when to expect you, or of making advance reservations, if you're going away. It's your means of wishing friends or relations a happy holiday if you're staying at home. The telephone can put you in a holiday mood as nothing else can. Use it for all it's worth and you'll find that it's worth much . . .

Trees are friends

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Arbor Day is a special day which is often eclipsed by other events. But trees are such a vital part of our Canadian economy that an interest in Arbor Day might well be revived.

The word 'arbor' came from the Latin word for a tree and the inspiration for Arbor Day came to a Mr. J. Sterling Morton. He looked out on the prairies of his native state, Nebraska, and because they lacked trees — and he loved trees and saw thir value — he campaigned for Arbor Day observance.

How successful he was is shown in the record of 350,000,000 trees planted in his state in the next 16 years. April 22 is set aside in his state as a holiday to observe tree-planting Arbor Day activities.

This special day has spread to many areas and its date varies with the climate. In California, where spring is early and where the citizens are proud of the work of Luther Burbank, March 7 — Burbank's birthday — is Bud and Arbor Day. In Canada, in different areas, conservation enthusiasts have marked Arbor Day, and many children have planted trees and beautified their school grounds at this time.

The Boy Scouts should be especially commended for their extensive tree-planting projects in different areas.

Planting a tree and then caring for it can be a very satisfying gardening activity. Marion Couthony Smith wrote this injunction:

"Go then, and plant a tree,
lovely in sun and shadow,
Gracious in every kind — maple and oak and pine.
Peace of the forest glade, wealth of the fruitful meadow,
Blessings of the dew and shade,
hereafter shall be thine."

When I was attending college I worked as a nature lore counsellor at a private camp in the northern woods in the summer. It was then I discovered how easy it was to arouse enthusiasm about trees. One of the projects the campers enjoyed most was making a nature trail, including the naming of trees along the path. First we went on hikes and discovered just what kind of trees grew there. Then we made rough sketches of our labels, with the common name, the scientific name and one or two interesting facts about each type of tree. These we found in our guide books. Here are two sample labels:

White Pine (Pinus strobus). The white pine grows to a height of 120 feet. It is the tallest of all the eastern evergreen trees. You can tell a white pine from the cluster of five needles.

Red Maple (Acer rubrum). This tree is also called the swamp or soft maple. It grows throughout eastern North America. The buds, keys, stems of leaves and the leaves in autumn are all red.

We used small tin plates, painted them and printed neatly with India ink, and then covered the surface with clear varnish as protection from the weather. This is an activity which a boy or a girl on a farm or at a summer cottage could carry out with very little supervision. It is fun to do, and leaves a permanent record for the information of visitors.

Now that I am married and there are three children in our home, I still find that "trees are friends." We have planted trees at our summer cottage. Everyone has helped and we have all taken pride and pleasure in their growth.

Appreciation of nature costs so little and can add so much zest to living. A mother or father who is too busy to encourage a little child's appreciation of the beauty of trees and other things out-of-doors, is in truth too busy. The boy growing up on a farm, with many trees along the road, with a bush or woods on his father's property, has an advantage which is so familiar it may be ignored. City children, to the same degree, cannot know the pride of watching a variety of trees on their own home ground, grow and develop and change with the changing seasons. But whether or not a child anywhere is a lover of trees depends very much on his parents. Fortunate the child whose mother or father teaches him "Trees are Friends!"

Help your child look on trees as friends—friends who add to the beauty of the world, friends in whose branches the birds nest, friends who give welcome shade, form windbreaks, keep the soil from blowing away and provide wood for countless needs of mankind.

Easy care for summer wear

A Montreal manufacturer takes soft synthetic crepe to a floral print, banded and bowed at the waistline. The washable print prefers coral and green pansies on a white background. For pre-teens only, it's a holiday-time, easy-care fashion.

Picnic time is here again

Picnic time is here once more, and families will be flocking to the out-of-doors for picnic meals as long as the weatherman cooperates.

With the increased popularity of cooking out, mother no longer need spend hours the day of the picnic making sandwiches and salads. Cooking on the spot provides more scope in planning the menu and usually means everyone takes a hand in the preparation.

Chicken and eggs fit the modern picnic menu even as they did in grandmother's day. However, instead of always serving the former as cold roast or fried chicken, we can now have hot golden brown barbecued chicken or turkey, cooked right on the spot. In place of hard-cooked eggs and sandwiches, still among top picnic favorites, we can have the variety of scrambled eggs and hashed browned potatoes hot off the grill.

Most picnicking families collect certain gear or equipment. If a basket or "tote-able" box is kept packed with this gear the family can be off for a jaunt at almost a moment's notice, particularly if it is to be a "cook-out". Keeping the gear packed eliminates the possibility of forgetting some important item such as the salt or the bottle or can opener.

The Poultry Products Institute offers some helpful suggestions regarding the things to keep packed ready for an outing. In one basket put cooking pans and a pair of long tongs ready for turning and serving hot chicken or roasted potatoes. A long handled fork is handy too, also pot holders, paper towels and a bar of soap to rub on the bottom of pots before putting over a wood fire. The soot will practically wipe off the pot bottom if you remember to do this. A can of detergent, tea towels, dish cloth and scouring pad are handy in case you can wash up right on the spot. You can pack a second basket with the staples you will need each time or keep them in the equipment basket. The staples will include plates, cups, cutlery, paper napkins, a plastic table cloth, man-sized salt and pepper shakers, can and bottle openers and a container of sugar. A list fastened to the side of the basket makes it easy to check item.

Teatime Topics

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman
By Edna Blakely,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's festival founder, Tom Patterson, is doing it again. With the Stratford Shakespearean Festival getting ready for its eighth season, Mr. Patterson has started on a new theatrical venture — a Gold Rush Festival for Dawson City.

At a press conference recently Mr. Patterson outlined plans for the place in the summer of 1962. The idea sprouted from an Eskimo exhibition, Mr. Patterson explained. He hopes the festival will run four weeks and will attract thousands of tourists travelling the Alaska Highway.

One of the possible features is a midnight flight to Inuvik in the Arctic where Canada's only Eskimo drum dancers remain.

River boats and old buildings will be refurnished. Centre of the festival will be the old Nugget Dance Hall which was built in 1910.

At Stratford

Meanwhile, back at Stratford, Ont., rehearsals for this year's three Shakespearean plays have begun.

A company of 65, the largest on record, will present "Romeo and Juliet," "King John," and "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Julie Harris, who will play Juliet, drove from New York with her husband-manager, Manning Gurian, and their son, Peter, 4. Most of the cast members arrived in Stratford May 1, just one day before rehearsals started.

Meet the People

The friendly Swiss have adopted a "meet the people" program which gives tourists a chance to mingle with the natives.

Almost all cities have special programs. At Zurich, the Swiss Friends of the United States holds weekly luncheons to introduce interests.

The tourist office at Interlaken will arrange visits to farms and the tourist office at Lucerne will arrange for travellers to meet and dine with local families.

The Montreux tourist office affords visitors the opportunity to meet local wine growers and will also arrange for school teachers to visit local schools.

Berne, Lugano and Vevey all take part in such special programs and at Lausanne, touring Lions and Rotary club members can arrange to meet Swiss members.

For Dieters

Wonder why a good breakfast is important for weight-watchers? Hunger is related to the level or amount of sugar in the blood, explain the experts in the home economics service of Ontario's department of agriculture.

After the long night's fast, the sugar level is low and unless breakfast is eaten, you just can't catch up with it all day. This leads to between-meal snacks and extra pounds.

Flower Care

Laundry starch can help condition tulips. Wrap cut tulips in damp newspaper and place in cold water. The secret is to add a good sized piece of laundry starch to the water.

Hot and cold water is a good treatment for roses, say the horticulture specialists with Ontario's department of agriculture.

Place the stems in two to three inches of hot water and allow to remain until the water is cool. The roses are then placed in deep cool water for a hardening period. Most important is to remember to protect the foliage and blossoms from steam by covering with paper or cloth.

Some flowers respond favorably to a sprinkling of cool water. Use a fine spray which will not bruise the blossom. Peonies, roses, carnations, lilacs and violets all enjoy such a shower. Blooms that spot when subjected to the same treatment are lily blossoms, sweet peas and petunias.

Winds and draughts will decrease the life of cut flowers. To prolong them, shorten the stems with increasing age.

Wife Preservers

Before washing your hair, brush it vigorously and rinse in warm water. This removes surface dirt and stimulates circulation.

Married recently at Hawkesbury

Lang-Kelly

Standards of white gladoli, periwinkle mums and snapdragons decorated the Hawkesbury United Church for the marriage of Miss Joan Ethel Kelly and Mr. Colin MacKenzie Lang, on Saturday afternoon, April 30.

The bride is a daughter of the late Frederick William Kelly and Mrs. Kelly, of Hawkesbury, and the groom is a son of the late Percy H. Lang and of Mrs. Lang, Debert, N.S.

The Rev. J. H. Lynn officiated at the ceremony, and Mrs. F. Shaw was organist. During the signing of the register, the choir under the direction of Mr. C. C. Hubbard sang "Oh Father All Creating."

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Alvin Kelly, the bride was attended by Miss Jean Kelly as maid of honor, Mrs. Edith Kean and Miss Janet Shaw as bridesmaids and little Miss Heather Heatlie as flower girl. Mr. Charles Lang was best man for his brother, while the ushers were Messrs. Graham Lang and Frederick Kelly.

For her marriage the bride chose a floor-length gown of white taffeta, the bodice designed with a portrait neckline with a yoke of silk lace, and long lily-point sleeves. The skirt, appliqued with Chantilly lace, featured a slight train, and her veil of French tulle illusion was held by a demzonnet of Alencon lace studded with pearls. She wore a necklace of cultured pearls, the gift of the groom, and carried a cascade bouquet of Autocrat roses and stephanotis, centred by an orchid.

The maid of honor, bridesmaids, and flower girl wore exquisite gowns of ice-blue taffeta and carried bouquets of periwinkle feathered carnations and hyacinth bells.

A reception in the church hall followed the ceremony, after which the happy couple left by plane for a honeymoon in Bermuda.

For travelling, the bride donned a suit of turquoise wool bouclé, a small, pink flowered hat, and her accessories were brown.

Guests attended the wedding from Debert, N.S., Montreal, Ottawa, Grenville, Ogdensburg, Rockland and Maxville. Mr. and Mrs. Lang will make their home in Montreal.

Home Mission speaker at WMS thank-offering

(Intended for last issue)

The W.M.S. of Lachute United Church held its Easter thank-offering meeting on April 29, with Miss Helen Mack, missionary at St. Columba House, as guest speaker. Members of the choir were in attendance and Mrs. Don Barbour sang a solo, "Dear Lord, Kind Lord".

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Turner, a vice-president of the Montreal Presbyterial, who based her meditation on "The Road to Emmaus", from the gospel of St. Luke. Two thoughts from this meditation were "The Easter faith is to believe in Christ, although we cannot see", and "Easter belongs to all faiths, let us not keep it to ourselves".

Miss Mack gave a very interesting account of her work at St. Columba House, and left the gathering feeling that Home Missions are every bit as important as Foreign Missions, and that the money that goes in the "M.&M." side of the church envelope, is very much needed.

St. Columba House, in the old, old part of Montreal known as Point St. Charles, was first established as a social service centre, not connected with a congregation. The congregations of St. Columba Church (formerly Presbyterian) and Centenary Church (formerly Methodist) have now become one, and their minister, the Rev. Mr. Mercer, is superintendent of St. Columba House.

The missionary has many frustrating, discouraging experiences with broken homes, common-law marriages, drunkenness, etc. They have to tell them that there is a better way, and many do not want to hear, but they work with the children. Of 75 children in Sunday School, only one or two parents go to church.

Lack of competent and dependable teachers, as well as pianists, is a problem in the Sunday School. Attendance is irregular, but one little six-year-old wished that he could live there, because "God is here."

Besides being superintendent of the Sunday School, the missionary is leader of all weekday groups — Mission Band, Explorers, C.G.I.T. and Y.P.U. The Y.P.U. was started this year, through the efforts of the minister, and as a result, three of the members, feeling the need of more education, are going to Sir George Williams College in the fall.

Said Miss Mack: "It is our job to help these folks have a more abundant life."

On the social service side of the work — hot meals are served all winter to 80 schoolchildren. Two service clubs and the United Church co-operate in this effort. Some children are able to pay part of the cost. Miss Mack supervises these meals.

Supply cupboards with food and clothing are kept to help tide over people who are in difficulties. Said Miss Mack: "It may not be preaching the gospel, but it shows the love of God. Your givings make is possible for your missionary to help these people. Because of the prayers of the W.M.S., we are able to accomplish something."

Mrs. Olive Riddell thanked Miss Mack, Mrs. Turner, the soloist and the organist.

Old resident of Mills section laid to rest

Late Garnet W. Shaw

An old and well-known resident, Garnet Washington Shaw, died at his home in Ayersville on April 30, after an illness of several years' duration.

The late Mr. Shaw, in his 69th year, was the son of William S. Shaw and Elizabeth Ann Thompson, who farmed in Beech Ridge settlement. There the late Garnet Shaw was born, in 1891. He spent five years in Western Canada, with Mr. Gilbert Demerse, other relatives and former townsmen, in earlier decades of the century when prairie life was tough and toilsome.

Mr. Shaw was married to the former Nellie Maidens; they resided in the Mills section (now Ayersville), where he was employed by Ayers Limited and later by the J. C. Wilson Co. The couple had no children.

Surviving, besides his wife, are four sisters — Mrs. A. Brandon, of New York, Mrs. R. Carkner, of Iroquois, Ont., Mrs. G. Demerse of Lachute, and Mrs. C. Mews, of New York. Two sisters predeceased him, Mrs. John MacKimmie and Mrs. G. McIntosh.

Funeral rites at the United Church were conducted by the minister, the Rev. Wilson Bridge, followed by interment at Lachute Cemetery. Pall-bearers were — Messrs. John Graham, John Cruise, F. Maidens, F. Stansfield, G. MacKimmie and C. G. Demerse, all relatives of the deceased.

Veteran newsman, former resident, died in Oakville

Late Robt. (Bob) Symonds

A few early-time friends will note with regret the death of Robert C. (Bob) Symonds, a former resident here, who passed away in his 83rd year at Oakville. A veteran newspaperman, the late Mr. Symonds was employed here at The Watchman, later serving the St. Thomas Times-Journal, where he was a highly valued employee until his retirement in 1954. An Old Countryman, born in Northamptonshire, he was apprenticed to the printing trade at the age of 14.

His wife, who predeceased him, was the former Sarah Jane Lewis. He is survived by one daughter, with whom he resided in Oakville, and one son, at Lindsay, Ont.

BURNED ACRES

The Forest Industry is so important to the Canadian economy that every acre burnt is an acre of burnt pay cheques and burnt forest products. Don't burn a hole in Canada's pocket-book by being careless with fire. Prevent forest fires.

P.O. to issue new airmail form

A new, more colorful design of aerogram form is to go on sale on July 4 — according to the Postmaster General, the Hon. William Hamilton.

The new form is an attractive shade of blue replacing the present grey color, and it has an "Air Mail" border of alternating red and grey blocks, printed on a very fine quality of Canadian paper. At the top right hand corner appears the word "Canada" topped by a maple leaf and underlined with a modern aircraft which bears a resemblance to the new CL-44 cargo plane now being built in Montreal.

The new aerogram was designed by Canadian artist William J. Taylor. Born in Montreal, Mr. Taylor is an active member of the Westmount Stamp Club, the American Philatelic Society and the Montreal Art Directors Club.

It will not be possible to provide first day cover service for philatelists with the new form, on account of the problem of addressing the forms. A stock will, however, be kept on hand at the Postage Stamp Division to supply philatelists who have difficulty in obtaining the new forms at any local post office on the first day. Philatelic orders will be despatched from Ottawa to collectors commencing July 4.

PARROT LIKES BONES

For a parrot, Suzie has an unusual appetite. The 13-year-old Mexican parrot owned by William Herbert of Toronto, Ontario, prizes bones and growls like a dog if anyone tries to take one from her. Her main diet, however, consists of sunflower seeds with a few hot chillies.

Brownsb'g Guides enjoy visit

Brownsburg — Twenty-four Brownsburg Guides and two Guides from Lachute Company were entertained April 26 at Cedarview Country Club by the St. Eustache-sur-le Lac Company. Guides from Laval and St. Eustache were also present totalling over 100 altogether.

Mrs. Owens, who had escorted 25 Canadian Guides on a European two-months tour, showed colored slides of this trip. It was a wonderful showing, enjoyed especially by the Guides, who thought they may soon qualify to take such a trip sometime.

Mr. A. Hardie, Mr. R. Cruise, Mr H. Hazel, Mr. J. Dixon-Smith, Mr. L. Roberts, and Mr. H. Wilson drove the Brownsburg Company to and from St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac.

Toothpaste has candy-cane stripe

A unique toothpaste which squeezes out of its tube with five red and white candy-cane stripes, is making its appearance in local stores.

Because of it, parents of tooth-brush dodging children may find their problems a thing of the past. Not only fascinated by the way the red stripes come out of the tube, boys and girls instantly respond to the product's fresh spearmint taste.

The red stripes also indicate the presence of hexachlorophene, the famous germicide used extensively in hospitals and in a variety of germ killing products.

ANNOUNCING

the BANK OF MONTREAL

To commemorate the Centenary of Canada's Confederation and the 150th anniversary of Canada's First Bank ... in 1967

Canada Centennial Scholarships

A SEVEN-YEAR PLAN

124 SCHOLARSHIPS of $750 to $5,000 in VALUE
... Every Starter Eligible for Final Awards

If you are a high-school student — well up in your studies and confident of graduating next month — here is a great opportunity for you.

If you are a parent, with a son or daughter ready for university this year, here is important news.

We are searching for 50 top high-school students graduating this June . . . young men and women ready for intensive university training in the Arts or Sciences.

From these 50 students, we hope to find eight outstanding young scholars for Canada's Centennial in 1967. They will be young Canadians of exceptional scholastic attainment — well-equipped and anxious to blaze new trails for the benefit of Canada . . . in scientific research, in the social sciences or in the humanities.

One of the winners could be you . . . or your son or daughter.

50 SCHOLARSHIPS OF $750 . . .

In a nation-wide competition opening this week, 50 of the most promising young Canadian men and women, graduating from high-school this June, will be awarded Bank of Montreal Scholarships, valued at $750 each, for entrance to first-year University next autumn.

These young Canadians will be drawn from all of the ten provinces according to population, with a minimum of two scholarship students from each province.

They will be judged by independent University Selection Committees on the basis of academic standing and character. They will enter a Canadian university of their choice as Bank of Montreal Scholarship Students to pursue studies in Arts or Science. Professional courses, such as law, medicine and engineering, are not included. B of M Scholarship Students may hold other monetary scholarships for the first year only.

48 SCHOLARSHIPS OF $1,500 . . .

In the Spring of 1961, the top 16 of these 50 students will each be awarded a B of M Scholarship of $1,500 for second-year university training.

In 1962 and 1963, provided at least good second-class grades have been maintained, these same students will each be awarded a B of M Scholarship of $1,500 per annum . . . leading to graduation in 1964.

24 FELLOWSHIPS OF $3,000 . . .

In the Spring of 1964, the top eight of these 16 students will each be awarded a B of M Scholarship of $3,000 for one year's study anywhere in Canada or abroad.

In 1965 and 1966, provided a satisfactory standard of work has been maintained, these same students will each be awarded a B of M Scholarship of $3,000 per annum for further study leading to their Doctorate.

2 BANK OF MONTREAL CANADA CENTENNIAL AWARDS OF $5,000 . . .

In 1967, to culminate this seven-year plan, the two top students — one in Arts and one in Science — will be chosen, from all 50 participants in the plan, to receive the Bank of Montreal Canada Centennial Awards of $5,000 each for a further year of study anywhere in Canada or abroad.

Thus, to each of these two winners — if they have been participants throughout the plan — the Bank will have provided financial assistance amounting to $19,250.

HOW SCHOLARSHIP STUDENTS ARE CHOSEN . . .

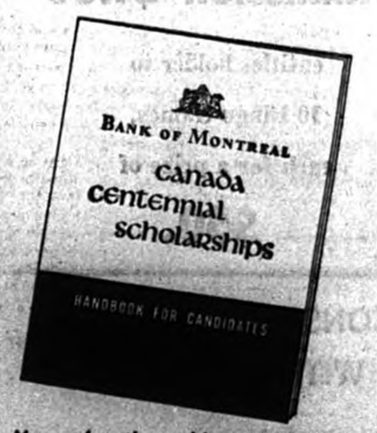

Scholarship students are chosen on merit alone — academic standing and character — by independent Selection Committees of faculty members of Canadian universities. The Bank will have no part whatever in the decisions taken by the Committees.

In developing the plan, the Bank of Montreal is in no way seeking personnel for its own staff, but men and women who — through scientific research and pursuits in the public service — will contribute in some notable way to the common good of the nation in the years ahead.

HOW STUDENTS IN QUEBEC SHOULD APPLY . . .

Interested Quebec students, graduating from Fourth Year High School this June with College Entrance Junior Certificate, should visit their neighbourhood B of M branch and ask for the "Handbook for Candidates" for the Bank of Montreal Canada Centennial Scholarships. This booklet explains the Scholarship Plan in detail and outlines the simple steps required to register your application for consideration by the Selection Committee of Quebec for one of the 13 scholarships available in 1960 to students of this province.

If there is no branch of the Bank in your district, then — and only then — you should address your request to: The General Manager, Head Office, Bank of Montreal, 119 St. James Street West, MONTREAL, Que.

B of M announces 7-year program of scholarships

Montreal, May 9 — The Bank of Montreal today inaugurates a seven-year scholarship program to provide university training in arts and science for outstanding Canadian high-school graduates in all ten provinces, according to an announcement by G. Arnold Hart, B of M president.

First project to be announced by any Canadian organization for the observance of Canada's Centennial in 1967, the plan provides for 50 top high-school graduates to enter university on B of M scholarships next autumn. The program will culminate in 1967, Canada's centennial year and 150th anniversary of the establishment of the bank, Mr. Hart said, with the conferring of centennial awards on the top scientist and the top humanist.

To be known as "Bank of Montreal Canada Centennial Scholarships," the plan calls for 124 awards in all over the next seven years, ranging from $750 to $5,000.

Highly Competitive

The project is highly competitive; all awards will be made entirely on merit, as determined by selection committees from coast to coast universities. The bank will take no part whatever in the decisions.

The plan, which provides increasing benefits to a reducing number of participants, offers the most promising students a series of scholarships and fellowships in the pure sciences and in the humanities or the social sciences. (Professional courses such as law, medicine and engineering are not included.)

Scholarship students successful in meeting the requisite standards in the second, third and fourth university years will receive awards of $1,500 per annum, while those accepted for graduate study in 1964, 1965, and 1966 will receive $3,000 per annum for study anywhere in Canada or abroad.

Then in 1967, when the competition is open to all who have participated in the plan at any stage, the two final B of M Canada Centennial awards will be made — one in arts and one in science. These two awards will be in the amount of $5,000 each, to be used for further study anywhere in the world.

To each of two final winners, if they have participated throughout the plan, the bank will have provided a total of $19,250 at the end of the bank-sponsored study.

13 Quebec Awards

The allocation of scholarships by provinces was worked out as far as possible on the basis of population, with a minimum of two for each province. For Quebec students passing their college entrance junior exams, or the French-language equivalent in June, there will be 13 B of M scholarships, each of $750. Roughly speaking, half of these will go to arts students and half to science students.

So far as is known, the scholarship plan is the first educational scheme of its kind in the world. It will take the most successful students from high-school graduation to university graduation and on to postgraduate study toward their doctoral degree.

Diary of a Vagabond

BY DOROTHY BARKER

In my hotel room I read, in a beautifully produced booklet, that Edmonton, Canada's gateway to the north and the strategic Alaska Highway, was firstly merely a fur trading post. Originally Fort Edmonton, it slowly expanded outside the Fort walls when, in 1795, the Hudson's Bay Company established a post there to take advantage of the rich fur trade of the north.

I knew, however, before I arrived in this western city, that there are three very divergent reasons why Edmonton has risen like a phoenix from the ashes of the Northwest Rebellion to its eminent status today, as one of this country's most ambitious cities. First, the railroad which opened up a more profitable means of transporting the rich results of a good trapping or harvest season; then the mad military rush to develop the Alaska Highway during World War II, Highway Safety Council, held United States capital; and finally, the flow of liquid gold from the bowels of the prairies that surround Alberta's capital city.

When I arrived with my curiosity all aflame to witness the results of one of the biggest booms in Canadian history, I found it difficult to familiarize myself with my surroundings. In pre-war days I had visited this western city and stayed at the very beautiful MACDONALD hotel. When I entered to register, the warmth of a remembered when Edmonton was flooded with lowed up in the modern streamlined decor of the huge new addition to the hotel.

It wasn't until I found the greeting room and saw the handsome old stone fireplace that reaches from floor level to a vaulted ceiling, that I began to feel at home. I opened the French doors and stepped out on the terrace that overlooks the winding Saskatchewan River. This beautiful view hadn't changed. I was glad that nary an oil derrick or a U.S. lorry was in sight. I honestly believe I had expected to see the place inundated with this evidence, that is reputed to account for the city's amazing growth.

It is sometimes strange how one can link one's past with the present, but I hardly expected to meet the ghost of an old swain in a little wooden church. My whole attitude toward tourism has completely changed since I became an antique addict. Now I seek out anything and everything with a reputation for being even slightly ancient. That is how I came to be standing in the hush of McDougall Memorial Church, just off Jasper Avenue. I seemed to be holding the hand of Dooley McDougall and listening to tales of his great-great grandfather George McDougall, a reverend gentleman who was the chief peacemaker between white settler and the red man for many years.

I suppose remembering Dooley made me realize that my locks had suffered from lack of care for several days. I reminded myself that looks are as important when one is travelling as when one is in love. So I sought out the hotel's beauty parlor and was nicely relaxed in one of those contortion chairs with the back of my head crooked over a basin, when another beauty aspirant in the next chair began to chat with the operator.

"Who, me tired? Heck no. After two weeks travelling mostly by train, I'm as fresh as a daisy." Anybody mention trains and my ears stand out like an elephant's.

I couldn't crane my neck and get a good look at this little wild flower, for my Adam's apple was having a tussle with a too tight collar on the plastic cape that enveloped me. But I couldn't help overhearing her excited tale. I hoped the legend that women tell all their secrets to beauty operators would prove true, for even the hot spray that was blinding me could not drown out the voice of the girl in the neighboring chair.

I learned that some weeks before, the large office in which she earned her weekly wage had offered its employees three weeks with pay if they would take their holidays in the early spring. She had convinced three of her fellow workers that they could take advantage of the group travel plan, and see the west coast by train for little more than it would cost them to stay at a summer resort for two weeks at the height of the season.

I expected to hear an ecstatic account of the beauties of the prairies by moonlight, Mount Robson, Stanley Park in Vancouver, or the mad beauty of the Fraser River. Instead the lass raved about train roomettes that provided such luxuriant privacy for an afternoon siesta and the lounge cars where, evidently, the foursome had conducted a bridge marathon across Canada from their embarkation point to their present stopover en route home again.

Tourists' impressions and their tastes in pastimes and what to see and where to go, are as varied as the color of their hair. I felt a little sorry for this young Canadian citizen who had missed so much of the beauty of our land as it passed by her coach window. We had one thing in common however, we were both boosters for the comfort of travel by train.

CHSC's annual Carol Lane Awards were presented to women representatives of the three winning groups—the Junior League of Toronto, the Women's Institute of Echo Hill, Alberta, and the School Traffic Safety Committee of the West End Safety Council, Montreal.

Presenting these awards was Miss Carol Lane, women's travel director of the Shell Oil Company of Canada Ltd. Also participating in conference events and functions were Mrs. Ethel McLellan, director of women's activities in the highway safety branch of Ontario's Department of Transport; Mrs. Rex Eaton, former president of the National Council of Women; Mrs. Buda Brown, M.L.A. in B.C., and others.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Early Weaning of Lambs Made to Pay

Early weaning, as early as 10 to 12 weeks, plus creep feeding and good "push" type fattening rations are putting lambs on the market faster and with more profit.

It is true that most lambs don't reach market until long after normal weaning at four or five months. They have usually been on rations of grain and supplement, with limited forage for some time.

Dr. Bohstedt

Now something of a revolution in lamb production has been initiated, particularly in Minnesota. Instead of the customary and leisurely pace of managing lambs, this is greatly speeded up, with less forage and more grain and concentrate, and with more profit too.

Since the milk production of ewes declines steadily after about the first month and is only a fraction of her total milk production during the third and fourth months, lambs are weaned earlier than before, or at from 10 to 12 weeks of age. They have already been creep-fed, and after weaning are continued on a good fattening ration in dry lot or put on good quality pasture with grain on the side.

Pelleting the ration has been found to be a good practice. Naturally the ewes are put on pasture without grain.

This system of lamb production for the early summer market is therefore more intensive than the old one and puts sheep on a more equal economic basis with other livestock enterprises that are suitable on high-priced tillable land. On marginal land greater use of pasture is made for both ewes and lambs.

Obviously the grain mixture for fattening very young lambs needs to be a good one. Lamb feeders in parts of Wisconsin are having good success with the following pelleted mixture:

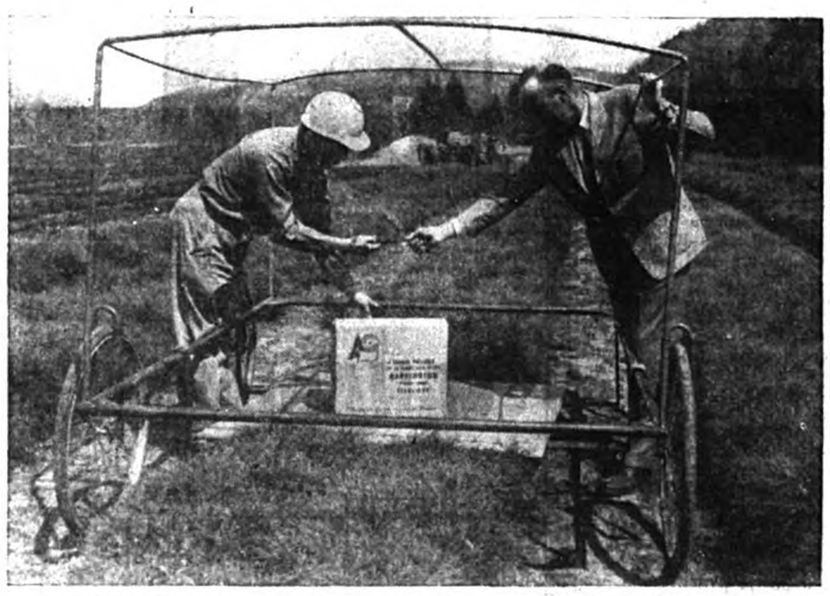

High quality alfalfa hay 800, shelled corn 400, barley or oats 400, soybean oil meal 200, molasses 160, bone meal or dicalcium phosphate 20, and trace mineralized salt 20 pounds, totaling 2000 pounds.

To this one-ton mixture are added 5 million units of vitamin A, 625,000 units of vitamin D, 10,000 units of alpha or mixed tocopherols (vitamin E), and 50 grams of Aureomycin or Terramycin.

It is seen that such a modern "push" type of mixture in most cases suggests a collaboration with custom mixers or feed manufacturers.

Question: Where salt is definitely needed by animals, is it also needed by plants, or is it merely absorbed in plants without serving any particularly useful purpose?

Answer: Some crops more than others actually utilize salt for growth purposes. The sodium of salt can take the place of potassium as a fertilizer to a considerable extent. In experiments at Wisconsin, beets (both red and sugar), rutabagas, carrots and celery showed the greatest response to sodium or salt fertilization.

Harrington Forest Farm grows Red Pine for local planting

Tree farmer Keith Morrison, of Dalesville, and Jaap Salm, left, manager of the C.I.P. Co's Harrington Forest Farm, examine one of the first red pine seedlings grown at the farm. This year 100,000 red pine seedlings grown there are being made available at cost to local tree farmers. Some 2,000 of the young trees are being donated to the Arundel School Tree Farm, which last year was placed at disposal of the Student Council by the company. Eventually, the Harrington program will provide for a supply of more than 1,000,000 seedlings of varied kinds each year.

The seedlings are made up in bundles of twenty-five. M. R. Wilson, manager of C.I.P.'s Grenville woodlands division, puts a batch through the bundler.

Virus resistant spuds boost crop

The increasing use of varieties that are resistant or tolerant to the more prevalent potato viruses has reduced virus-caused diseases in Canada's potato crop, according to R. H. Bagnall of the Fredericton Research Station.

The three varieties most planted for certified seed in Canada, Sebago, Katahdin, and Kennebec, seldom develop the undesirable "net necrosis" in their tubers when they become infected with the leaf roll virus, although they are not resistant to the virus itself.

They are, however, resistant to potato virus A, which combines with potato virus X to cause the "mild mosaic" foliage disease. These varieties and Russet Barbank, which ranks fourth in popularity, are also resistant to potato virus Y, which combines with virus X to cause the severe "rugose mosaic" disease.

The first three varieties have come into prominence during the past 20 years, largely replacing Green Mountain and Irish Cobbler.

Virus X, alone, usually causes an almost imperceptible weakening of the plants, and potato virus S seldom causes any visible diseases. However, these two viruses are almost universal in potatoes and cause an estimated 10 per cent reduction of the crop. The new variety, Saco, combines freedom from net necrosis with resistance to these viruses.

These are not all of the viruses that infect potatoes. Seed growers are familiar with "purple top", "witches'-broom", and "spindle tuber". Each is caused by a specific virus, and each is sometimes widespread in particular areas. Less known, and fortunately less widespread, are potato viruses F and M, and others that cause yellow dwarf and calico; there are others not yet clearly identified.

Indeed, so numerous are the potato viruses that their isolation and identification continues to be a major task in plant pathology research.

Tips on Touring

Like picnics?

Here are some of the latest gadgets that will make your next outing easier for you and more fun for your family.

Get off the grass with the smallest camp-stool ever made. The whole thing folds flat and compact enough to fit into your purse, coat pocket or car's glove compartment With a steel frame and canvas seat, it's plenty sturdy.

How about a heavy aluminum griddle, 16" across? It holds fish or steaks to feed six hungry picknickers. It has a wooden handle that guarantees cool fingers and folds over for easy packing.

Like coffee en route? Then pick up an eight-cup coffee pot that has plugs for both car lighter socket and house current. It comes in a kit with cups, saucers, spoons carrying case. The pot has a bracket so you can hang it on the car window.

If you picnic far from the car, you might like a 7-cup coffee maker that burns propane. The fuel tank fits right under the handle. It makes coffee in about ten minutes.

Your children will hate you for this! A leak-proof, 2½-gallon water tank that comes equipped with a shallow basin, brush, soap, and towels.

And, finally, if you camp out for any length of time, you may want a two burner stove that carries six pounds of propane fuel in a refillable tank. It holds enough fuel for over a week of cooking, and the tanks can be filled again for about one dollar at any propane station.

PROGRESS THROUGH RESEARCH

MORE THAN SKIN DEEP

If an emotionally upset woman tries to hide her problems, she may wind up revealing them in chronic hives. The same goes for a man.

Women between 30 and 40, however, are particularly susceptible to what is known medically as "chronic urticaria". And about one of every four Canadians is likely to suffer from hives sometime or other.

Dr. Ben C. Eisenberg, of the University of Southern California Medical School, says it's amazing how long people will tolerate a difficult situation before doing something about it. He cited the case of a 66-year old woman who suffered from severe urticaria for eight years before finally admitting that her life had been in canstant danger from a psychotic husband during this entire time.

Fortunately, the severe itching that goes with this malady can be effectively relieved, Dr. Eisenberg said in a recent report before the annual American Medical Association meeting. He reported that specific tranquilizers soothed itching and hives in three out of five chronic urticaria patients.

But hives can crop up for a variety of reasons other than emotional disturbances. Often they're an allergic reaction that can be caused by almost any common substance, even medicines or foods. For example, wool or dyes or lacquer may cause hives. (Dr. Eisenberg found that such causes were responsible for hives in 18 of his patients.)

The physician said the drug he used neutralizes the actions of substances that seem to be responsible for these skin eruptions. At the same time, it doesn't cause undue drowsiness or impair mental alertness.

Canadian Quiz

4. Does the value of Canada's exports represent one-fifth, one third or one-half of the worth of all goods and services produced in a year?

ANSWERS: 5. The phrase refers to an Act of Parliament that requires the railways to move grain for export off the prairies at freight rates no higher than were charged in 1899. 3. Although the name means Seven Islands, there are only six; explorer Jacques Cartier mistook a headland for the seventh island. 1. The city is named for the Earl of Halifax, the British official who helped plan its founding in 1749. 4. About one-fifth. 2. Ocean ships made 1,994 passages, lake ships the other 5,457 passages.

Former townsman has spotlight in city news story

Writing in The Montreal Gazette last week, Patrick Nagle tells a story spotlighting a former Lachute townsboy, Percy Carpenter, well-known to the senior generation here . . . Percy is the brother of Messrs, Russell, Roy and Theron Carpenter, Lachute, and of Mrs. Norman Holland. Educated at the local Academy, he and his five brothers took active part in sports and activities here until they separated and went their various ways.

Says the Gazette news-story, in part:

Percy Carpenter can put another notch in his battered safety helmet today.

Percy is Dominion Bridge's foreman at the new $17,500,000 Canadian National Railways' office building going up at Mansfield and Lagauchetiere Streets.

And today a topping off ceremony is scheduled to mark completion of the basic structure of the new downtown landmark in which 7,800 tons of steel have been used.

Boss Carpenter, who has worked on high steel since 1912, with time out for the First World War, is only 18 months from retirement, but still climbs to the top of the structure with the springy step of his youngest apprentice.

He regards the 19 storeys of red-painted steel just completed as one of his best jobs, and he considers the 90-odd steelworkers who did the job with him as his protégés.

Danger is always right around the corner for the steelworkers, but they walk the girders and hang from the scaffolds — 19 storeys up — much in the same unconcerned manner that fashion models cross St. Catherine Street.

"There's no real way to define a good steelworker," said Foreman Carpenter. "I've got them from Cape Breton fishing and mining villages and from Ontario farms. The Frenchmen are as good as any steelworkers anywhere . . . The Mohawk workers generally change jobs too fast."

$200,000 Hospital grant received; additional finances required

The last instalment of the original grant of $600,000 was turned over to the Regional Hospital Board last week, by the Hon. Wm. M. Cottingham. — This information was revealed today by Roger E. Regimbal, spokesman for the Argenteuil Hospital.

The directors voiced unanimous appreciation to the Government authorities, and to the local representative in particular, for his successful efforts on their behalf. The Hon. Mr. Cottingham announced also that he had made immediate application for an additional grant of $200,000 over and above the Federal grant of $175,000, which will be remitted to the local authorities as soon as it becomes available. The amount of federal grants is usually included in the provincial grants whereas, in this case, it will be directed to the Regional Hospital Fund.

Directors of the Argenteuil Hospital are — Mr. Gilbert E. Ayers, president, Messrs. Leopold Carrière, Simon Valois, Don Hay, Herb Graves, Armand Desrosiers and Roger E. Regimbal, directors.

"We have been very fortunate in receiving these grants as steadily as we have," Mr. Regimbal stated. "Things are happening so fast in this province that everyone is demanding attention at the same time. Hardly a day goes by that you don't read of some other hospital construction going on, bigger and possibly more urgent than our own. The amounts available must be meted out as fairly and evenly as possible, and we in Lachute are well satisfied that we have been quite reasonably served up to now."

Questioned on a possible completion date of the Lachute project, Gilbert E. Ayers, president of the Hospital Board, stated that if additional funds were to continue at the present rate, the new premises could be occupied by early next spring. "We are definitely trying to avoid being left at any time with an enormous debt which could make the hospital a burden to the whole community — which means that we will take all the time we need to guarantee sufficient funds as we go along. This might cause a slight delay in the actual opening, but we are confident that our population would prefer to have it that way."

Besides the amount mentioned above, an additional $800,000 will be needed before the local project can be completed.

Stage set to celebrate Dollard tercentenary

The Dollard Tercentenary celebrations at Carillon will commence next Sunday with an open-air mass at the monument site, in the heart of the village.

A public luncheon at noon will be followed at 2 p.m. by a patriotic rally and special speakers. Many groups will be represented in the parade, with cadet buglers playing martial airs.

Concluding event that evening will be old-time and folk dancing outdoors, with the "Carillon" team from Montreal to set the pace and theme.

Continues All Week

Similar events are planned for each day of the ensuing week, to conclude with the Sunday festivities on May 29, when pontifical mass will be said by Mgr. Emilien Frenette, Bishop of St. Jerome. A banquet will be served at the Ste. Croix Novitiate, nearby, and again at 2 p.m. there will be a grand rally at the Dollard monument, with civil, military, religious and political notables present. Fireworks in the evening will terminate the week of celebrations.

President of the energetic committee in charge of this program is Mr. Chas. A. Shaffer, with Mr. Marcel Decary as vice-president, and an active citizens' committee. Mr. Theophile Aras is in charge of decorations.

Boy hit by car while playing on busy street

Pierrot Navion, 4½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Navion, Clyde Street, was treated at the Providence Hospital on Monday afternoon after being struck by a car in front of the post-office. Dr. R. Lavigne attended the child, and reported only severe bruises and shock.

The lad is reported to have run from the centre parking area of Main Street into the path of a car owned and driven by Richard Dubé, of Grenville. After being struck, he was taken to the local hospital by police patrol car.

In commenting on the accident reported above Chief Whiteway pointed out that this was the fourth such mishap in several weeks, all the victims being young children alone on the street at the time they were struck by an automobile. The Chief would like to appeal to all parents of young children to keep a close watch on their offspring, and not allow them to play on public streets.

Representatives to prov. conference give report at Home and School

The last Home and School meeting for this year, held Wednesday, May 11, was an interesting and lively one.

After a short business meeting, which included the introduction of next year's executive — Mrs. S. W. Milnes and Mrs. John Thorpe, the official representatives to the annual conference of the Quebec Federation of Home and School, gave enthusiastic reports of their two days at the conference. Both women found the leadership training groups most beneficial, and they gave convincing accounts of the value of these periods. In their conversations with members of other associations, they discovered that problems and difficulties encountered by the association here are identical to those faced by nearly every other group, but they were both encouraged by the fact that Lachute's association seemed to have accomplished much more than many associations in its three years of operation.

There were several resolutions proposed by various associations throughout the province that would be of interest to parents of our own schools — one of which was to make polio shots compulsory in all schools; another one which would ban the sale of fireworks to school children; and another which asked if supplementary examinations could be written in local districts rather than having applicants obliged to write them in Montreal. Two proposals which were tabled for further study suggested that technical schools be started for English students, and that French be started in an earlier grade.

One topic which was mentioned time and again throughout the conference was "Operation Bootstraps" This is Federation's self-education project for 1960-62, to educate ourselves as parents and members of the Federation quite thoroughly on the more important aspects of our school system. To do this, the Federation has set up various sub-committees, each with a leading educator of the province as consultant, to study various phases of education. Each association has been sent an extensive questionnaire which it is asked to study carefully and fill out according to its own individual school system, and needs.

Mr. Ernest Gow, as next year's program chairman, gave an outline of next year's programs which he and his committee have already planned. The program will include a "Beef Night" so that interested people can air at a meeting all the criticisms that so far have been discussed everywhere else. Also there will be another "Meet-the-Teacher" night, a program that was exceedingly popular last year; and another night which should be very interesting, will have speakers who will outline scholarships and bursaries that are available to our students, as well as a speaker from one of the Services, who will discuss the government-sponsored University training plans.

Home and School is proving to be a very worth-while undertaking in the Lachute area, and it is to be hoped that more and more parents will partake in its many activities next year. It has done well this year; with the increased experience it should do even better next year.

Plans shaping for Lachute Fair, June 15-18

Plans are well advanced for the forthcoming Lachute Spring Fair, June 15-16-17-18. Many livestock entries have been made already, which by all accounts should make this year's show another outstanding success. The local service clubs — Lions, Rotary, Richelieu and Legion — are planning their respective programs which will ensure continued good entertainment, apart from the magnificent horse show.

Watch for next week's Fair News; and exhibitors are reminded by the secretary-manager, Kenneth Riley, that livestock entries close on May 20 (this week-end), and handicrafts, cooking and flowers, on May 31.

Signs of the times at Carillon project

This Hydro-Quebec sign, familiar to users of the river-front highway, indicates the Carillon Dam site will be a busy spot for some time to come. The $200-million project, now well advanced, is scheduled for completion in 1962.

Below, seen from the roadside, is the immense batching plant, 110 feet in height and with a long inclined conveyor belt from ground level. The size of this huge mixer may be judged by the automobile outlined at bottom right of the structure. The plant is ready to mix and load the vast quantities of aggregate for the concrete and fill required in this undertaking.

Cancer Society May meeting — last until fall

Mrs. W. M. Cottingham, president of the Argenteuil Branch of the Canadian Cancer Society, at the May meeting expressed appreciation to all volunteers who gave their assistance and financial support to the Cancer Campaign.

Mrs. C. E. Richardson, co-chairman of the Dressings Service, reported 1540 bed-pads on hand and 6 cartons of 4 x 4 dressings. Volunteer work for the Dressings Service will continue until the end of the month, to stock the cupboards with sufficient dressings to supply cancer patients in six counties during the summer months. These are wrapped and mailed every two weeks by the Packing Committee.

Mrs. J. E. Leonard, co-chairman, thanked the Morin Heights Women's Institute for their donation of used cotton for bed-pads; also the Kilmar Cancer Group, headed by Mrs. L. Thomas, for making 250 bed-pads.

Regret was expressed that Miss J. Rodrigue, secretary of the Cancer Society, was unable to attend the meeting as result of her accident. Mrs. G. Leggett recorded the minutes as acting-secretary

It was also regetted that the name of Mrs. Raymond Beaulieu, one of the Cancer Campaign organizers for the East End, was omitted in the list of organizers which appeared in the paper a few weeks ago.

The meeting adjourned until September.

District students win B.A. degrees, Sir Geo. Williams

Montreal — Kenneth M. Brown, of Harrington East, and Tony Hungerbuhler, of St. Andrews East, have received their Bachelor of Arts degrees from Sir George Williams University.

Kenneth Brown is a graduate of West Hill High School. He has had a distinguished university career, being awarded a Continuation Scholarship, the Abraham and Freda Fleming Scholarship, and the Fred C. Clarke Memorial Scholarship from Sir George Williams. The United Theological College awarded him the Robertson MacAuley Bursary and the Rev. John Fraser Memorial Scholarship. (U.T.C.) . . . Mr. Brown has been the United Church student minister for the Avoca-Harrington-Kilmar pastoral charge.

Tony Hungerbuhler, of St. Andrews East, is a graduate of Bishop's College School. While at the Sir George Williams, he was active in the extra-curricular program of the University as a member of the Athletic Council, the Student Newspaper, the C.O.T.C., and was also a member of the graduating class executive.

Install personal fire-call system

The personal fire alarm system, long awaited by members of the local volunteer fire brigade, was put into operation on Friday of last week. The system is hooked up with 10 telephones which ring automatically when the master-set receiver is lifted.

The telephone ring is continuous, and any conversation being carried on at the time of the emergency call is severed by the priority call.

For the present, only a certain number of the members are connected on the system, and the general alarm will be sounded for all fires as in the past.

Speaker envisions Dollard fort and park for Carillon

Speaking at the Richelieu Club here last week, Mr. Jean Laforest gave an interesting discourse on Dollard and his heroic troop.

During his remarks he expressed two hopes and ideals — firstly that the artificial lake formed by the new Carillon Dam might be called "Lac Des Ormeaux"; and secondly, that the surroundings of the Quebec Hydro project, at least on this side of the river, should be fittingly beautified and maintained as a historic park to the memory of our heroes of the Long Sault.

Carillon, and the area adjacent to its locks, has always held an appealing charm to visitors, picnickers and passers-by. Mr. Laforest, a resident of the proximity, visualized a permanent palisade built as a replica of Dollard's siege, within which there might be exhibits of weapons and contemporary effects, or of items traditional to this region, which would provide an interesting spot for tourists and local sightseers. . . . While giving recognition to one of Canada's epics of the past, this effort would add notably to the dignity and repute of our County, in this speaker's opinion.

Ayersville parade for Civic Clean-up Week

Unusual absence of spectators at the recent Ayersville Council session prompted a remark among the councillors, that there were critics outside the council chamber but no taxpayers to express their views in person.

A letter was read from the Department of Transport indicating it would take six months for completion of the level-crossing signals at Hamford St. (It is recalled that Lachute has agreed to meet its share of the cost, and it was most likely that Ayersville would agree, at its next meeting).

A letter from the Department of Municipal Affairs requested a revision of certain clauses in the loan by-law for issue of $44,500 bonds; this loan is for works effected on Richelieu Blvd.

The sum of $65 was voted for a page advertisement in the Exhibition program, but those responsible should be asked to add the word "Ayersville" beneath "Lachute Spring Fair", since the exhibition grounds are situated in Ayersville.

Claims of $10 and $55 were turned over to the insurance companies. The first, from Jean Bourduas, concerned the cost of towing his car out of a mudhole. The second claim, from Georges Beaudoin, was for damage to a heating system caused by flood water in his cellar.

A letter from Gatineau Power asking to be relieved of any responsibility for the lighting of Richelieu Blvd., was tabled for the records.

Building permits were issued to Raymond Renaud, for a house on Tessier St.; Ronaldo Lascelles, Durocher St.; Rhéo Lavergne; Alcide Desjardins, private garage on Hamford St.; and Wm. Bryton, for a residence.

Accounts were approved, totalling $6,672.12 for the month. Secretary Jacques Poitras was appointed returning officer for civic elections in May. J. Arthur Lafrance, surveyor, submitted a cadastral plan of six lots on the Allan Hay development, for Council's acceptance.

Civic Beautification Week, May 21-28, will be marked by a street parade on the opening day.

Mayor Gaetan Paquette chaired the meeting. Councillor L. J. Bigras was the only member absent.

The business was resumed at a meeting set for May 5.

Cultural treats for community, planned by Lions

It is to the credit of the Lions Club that, through a three-way program of charitable, material and educational service, it is the sponsor of cultural ventures which from time to time are enjoyed by the people of Lachute. While not always on a paying basis, these attractions are nevertheless considered a worthwhile community investment even though they may only break even in financial terms.

Folklore Dancing

Described as a "new fever outmoding rock 'n roll", the interest today in folklore dancing is considerably spurred by a talented group "Les Feux Follets", which has won high acclaim in its home centre, Montreal, and elsewhere in this province. Sparked by an authority on this subject, Michel Cartier (who was invited to judge at the International Folklore Festival in Moscow), the group now numbers 35 dancers, three singers and six musicians; they are directed by Gregoire Marcil, co-worker with Cartier in the unusual venture. They perform international dances of English, Irish, Russian, Hungarian, Canadian, Israeli and Mexican origin, all in suitable costumes . . .

This is the Lions' Night feature, to be presented Friday, June 17, before the grandstand at Lachute Spring Fair. The club members are enthusiastic about this booking, and believe the public will derive top enjoyment from this choice of attractions.

Another Opera Anticipated

Following the success of "La Traviata" under Lions' sponsorship last fall, it is hoped the club will be privileged to present this year's effort, Verdi's "Il Trovatore", with English libretto — sung by this group at the Ottawa Technical School last Thursday and Saturday, winning high acclaim. In the leading male role was one of Lachute's own citizens, Robert Haydon, whose rich tenor voice has been heard and enjoyed by local audiences on several occasions.

Further announcement will be given on this recital. Music lovers in the district, remembering the fine presentation given by the Ottawa troupe here last fall, are hoping that plans will materialize for their return in "Il Trovatore".

Argenteuil Outdoors

— By BOB ATCHISON —

The trout are really giving a lot of fun just now. With the water warming up, they are starting to come in to the shallows for any extra feed they can find. Some nice catches have been passed along to me in the past couple of days. I know that in my own case, in the past week, my catches have improved a lot. From the odd one a day, it is now in the five-a-day class. Naturally, some of these are small, and these are released, but I have managed to get a couple a shade under the pound. Most of the fishing has been in brooks, and the catch has not been of any size; the lakes though have given the biggest, as expected. The largest was caught on a caddis nymph, but the rest have been taken on the crane fly.

The companion I have been fishing with has used nearly everything in the book in the way of spinning baits, with only one fair fish. Naturally spinning can't be slowed down too much, whereas the fly can be walked very slowly in the water, and the fish not being too active just at present, will take the slower-moving object more rapidly than the spinner.

Examining the stomachs, all of these fish were full of underwater life. Any you catch, take the time to look their food over and you might be surprised. You will probably find what looks like a bunch of dead sticks; these will be the larvae of the stick fly, just before they hatch into the underwater crawler. Interesting if you want to take the time. In no case did I find a crayfish in any of them, but then I haven't been able to find one in any water just yet. I sure gave you a wrong steer on these — how can you catch fish if you can't catch the bait!

We were very fortunate to watch a couple of Hawks appearing their hunger. I couldn't be sure of what they were but I think they were the Sharp-Shinned type. Watching them cover the one field was honestly a revealing manoeuvre. They covered that like a tent. First one scanned it then the other followed close behind. Anything that figured it was safe from the first sure got nailed by the second! Between the two of them a dozen or more field mice, frogs, etc. took the long ride. During this time not a single bird of the insectivous type could be seen. Once they had gone however, it seemed the world had just awakened.

I never fail to wonder at the ways of nature, be it the savagery or the beauty.

A robin is also going to get into the news. A female has built a nest about three feet up a small spruce. Watching this past week or so at just how she has built her nest and looked after herself — in the last two days she has laid three eggs and from now on her troubles are going to be multiplied. Seeing her build the nest was a lesson in something. The funny thing about it, she knows we are watching, and she lands a few feet higher up the tree — then in a very unconcerned manner she hops around a little usually ending up in the nest, thinking no doubt we haven't seen her. The little nest is a wonderful example of tenacity. You could almost swear a mold had been used to make it. This is remarkable when you consider all it is — twigs, hay, bits of string and mud. And the way this is worked into the tree itself, so that even a high wind does not disturb it, is wondrous to see.

It would seem that the town is going to try and do something about the North River and its flooding. It's about time a little concern was given to the situation. And the more people that take the time to be interested in this matter, the better it will be. After all, it's the people who take the beating and the loss, so why not do something about it. While we are at it, why not conern ourselves with having a fish ladder put in, also. Let's try and get together on this situation and do something about it.

Just received a phone call from one of the veteran visitors hereabouts. You will remember, I mentioned the lynx that were prowling around the area. It seems the folks have just come up to their cottage for the first time, and were greeted by what they thought was a big tomcat. Only it had a very stubby tail. Of course, the animal didn't hang around, so they did not have much time to see it. According to the visitors, it was a big and beautiful-looking cat. For anyone to see these animals during the day, they were very lucky. I only hope that any would-be hunters stop a little while before they try and kill them. The damage they will do is so small that it really doesn't count. After all, they have as much right to live unmolested as we have. So let's leave them alone.

The new air-cell fly lines don't seem to be what they are cracked up to be. I have had the opportunity of trying a couple this week. Now, according to all the advertising on them, nothing could be better. As you know they need no dressing, etc., but I found out that in heavy fishing, they sure do. After a couple of hours they start to sink like a rock, and are exceptionally hard to pick up from the surface. As a comparison, the next day I used the standard dressed line. Dressed once last week, it still had the floating ability to be picked up without too much trouble. It could be that these particular lines are not up to the mark, or I was treating them too hard, but I'll still go along with the silk or whatever it is, rather than spoil my fishing for the day. It's true a lot of work still has to be done on them before they will act like the old-time lines, but it will come.

I also had the opportunity of seeing some new-type spinning lines that are going to be put on the market. Very soft and pliable, these are the best to be seen for a long time. Naturally it is a trade-name brand, so that hikes up the price a lot. Before too long though, the other companies will be putting it out, thus bringing the price down.

Another group of fishing tackle that has made great strides in the last couple of years is the Japanese. The reels still have a lot of improvements to be added, but their spinning lures are catching up to the higher-priced ones. They are also starting to add a little more balance to them, for much easier casting. In former years, they must have just poured them into a mold and hoped for the best! As regards the weights, this year they are making them considerably better. This all adds up to more enjoyable fishing for us, and after all, we are the ones that buy them. I suppose in a couple of years they will improve their reels a little more.

It doesn't mean they are all poor, but it does not pay to buy a reel thinking it will be good, and then find out it isn't. A number of cases like this have happened here, to the regret of the buyers. Maybe it wouldn't be too bad if you could be sure of repairs within a short time; that could be put up with. But I do know of a couple of cases where the parts still haven't shown up in months. Too bad if you have only the one reel!

Driving is not child's play

There are many people who plan to drive a car this summer season but who have never had any experience in driving. The Provincial Highway Safety Committee (Prudentia) cautions such persons to take driving lessons from a recognized school, or from a person who is known to be a good driver. Do not take the chance of driving either in city streets or on the highway if you are not completely capable.

To rebuild Recreation Centre, in west-end

This is the site of the Recreation Centre on Main Street West, which was burned out last December. Plans are in progress for its reconstruction, and it is hoped by the promoter, Henri Legault (seen in the foreground above) to be able to reopen the Centre this coming summer. Dimensions of the building are 180 ft. by 60 ft.

A public subscription campaign is in progress under an authorized committee. A door-to-door canvass recently netted over $500 for the fund. Citizens or business firms wishing to aid this project may do so by contributions in the form of either gifts or loans. Secretary of the committee is Lucien Labonté (phone LO 2-2279).

ATTENTION, PLEASE! —

Errors in round figures

THE WORKINGS of a weekly newspaper are weird and wonderful to many people; in fact, to most they are a complete mystery. (A dear lady recently wished she might have the "form" for a Watchman article to reprint in another newspaper, but would have been nonplussed to receive a package containing 10 lbs. of metal type!)

The point of this editorial is to admit that, in an average 10-page weekly, in round figures, there are probably 6,364,521 chances to commit errors of a typographical nature — transposing of letters and lines, omission, reversal or addition of type-lines, etc., etc. How disastrous some of these slips can be, only an editor knows . . . but these 6-million odd chances are doubled; they become 12,729,042 (in round figures) when the human element combines with the mechanical to make a nightmare of potential goofs. These human factors are intensified by misspelled words, illegible names, indistinct figures, incorrect dates — a hundred-and-one classifications we encounter in the reams of copy handled in every issue of a weekly newspaper. Such errors are beyond the ability of an army of proof-readers to detect, and the only way to avoid them is to OMIT every item difficult to read or hazardous to guess at.

But seriously, this is not a crack at our contributors; it is a PLEA for co-operation. Much as we appreciate their willing work, it is a formidable responsibility for us to take chances on doubtful spellings and meanings. Nor is this directed at any particular contributor — to our 20-odd correspondents who do not use a typewriter (there are five regular ones who do), nor to the Boy Scout reporters, the club secretaries, the embryo school sports writers, and so forth. Much of their copy, sad to relate, is appalling. If The Watchman had clerical staff to re-type all this material, we would complain less; but to employ such helpers would boost the cost of our subscriptions considerably.

The newspaper is glad enough to have news of all the organization which make up the community. However, such news is also an asset to the progress of such groups, and we feel that writers might lavish a little more care on their reports.

Young correspondents, and old too — please note, here and now, that your newspaper needs pen-written or type-written copy with (1) plenty of spacing between lines and at margins; (2) brief and to the point, but without abbreviations, which have only to be re-written (The Watchman does not use such forms as — &, wk-end, M'tl); (3) with correct initials and spellings, of names and places; (4) in clear handwriting. (In several samples of handscript each week there is no distinction between a, o and s; between m and w; or between u and n.) . . . The observance of these requests will help avoid mistakes.

Here are other good tips to remember: Send your news while it is new; a Thursday-night meeting should not be reported the following Tuesday, just when we are swamped with last-minute district, police and community news. . . . If a name is strange or unusual, and liable to be queried, underline each letter separately, to indicate that your are "sure of this." We have no time to telephone in 20 cases of last-minute doubt. . . . Do not write on the back of the sheet; part of your text will certainly be overlooked. . . . Also, study The Watchman's style in dates, figures and optional spellings, and endeavor to conform with this style — thus saving editorial markings to confuse our typesetters. (A Canadian Press style book will be sent on request to the editor.)

Finally, teen-age reporters, while not singled out for rebuke, are specially asked to consider these requests. — Thank you!

A job for highway research

A NEW PAVING material which will provide many years of protection against de-icing salts, is now available in Canada — says a trade news release this week. . . .

Motorists at this stage are more interested in protecting their automobiles from chloride, than in protecting road surfaces! The widespread use of chemicals on the highways these past few winters has facilitated traffic, without a doubt, but the cost to car-owners cannot be readily reckoned. The ravages of "salt" corrosion on fenders, bodies and under-structures is too evidently seen on all sides. While this is an undoubted boost to the repair shops and to the new car dealers, the motoring public is such a vast segment of our population, and so burdened with taxes and expenditures, that any effort to allay the damage of de-icing chlorides will be loudly acclaimed.

Springtime hazard to children

SPRING IS A pleasant time of the year, but it's also a time of special danger for children.

Spring-cleaning, painting and work in the garden usually mean there will be boxes, bottles and cans about containing ingredients which are poisonous if swallowed.

The Canadian Association of Consumers offers a timely warning, noting that children under five are the most frequent victims of accidental poisoning and suggesting special precautions to assure their natural curiosity doesn't lead to serious consequences.

"It is difficult for an adult to believe that children will eat or drink bleaches, solvents, detergents, waxes, polishes, paints, varnishes, thinner, turpentine, brush cleaners, paint removers, fly sprays, weed killers," says a CAC bulletin . . . but it happens more often than most people realize and you cannot be too careful about putting such things out of reach.

The Association offers this good advice for homes with children:

1. Store with care all potentially dangerous substances. This means medicinies should be kept in locked cabinets and other things locked in basement storerooms, the garage or workshop or on high shelves.

2. Handbags, which often include medicine, should be kept out of reach and this includes those of visitors.

3. When housecleaning, place all the cleaning agents in one basket, and carry it with you when you move about, even when you go to the telephone.

4. Warn children about the dangers of cleansers.

5. Never put dangerous substances in cups, milk bottles, pop bottles or other familiar containers. The child may consume it without realizing it's not something to eat or drink.

If an accident should occur, call your doctor and the nearest poison control centre. Such centres, located across the country, have a complete record of the ingredients of household products and the antidotes for them.

It may sound like a lot of trouble to take all these precautions, but the labor involved is nothing compared with the agony and suffering that could result from a bottle of cleaning fluid falling into the hands of an unknowing, curious youngster.

The not-so-weak sex

WE HAVE LONG harboured the suspicion that, in Canada at least, the weaker sex is not the one most of us like to think it is. Now, official statistics under four different heads would seem to put the matter beyond all reasonable doubt, hard as this may be on the male ego — says the current issue of "Industry".

The infant mortality rate for females, we note, is 25 per cent lower than that for males. On the other hand, the male suicide rate is 11.8 per 100,000 of population compared with only 3.0 for females.

In mental institutions, males outnumber females by 15 per cent. Finally, the life expectancy of the female of the species in this country is a good five years greater than that of mere males (71 years against 66).

To sum up: The Canadian male is more likely than the female to die at birth; enter a mental home; commit suicide; and fall short of three score years and ten.

All of which should cause us to revise our ideas about which of the sexes is basically the stronger, at any rate, in terms of capacity for survival.

More tender (we will not say more deadly) than the male the Canadian female may be; weaker she obviously is not.

The Age of Steel

— By Lewis Milligan —

The Steel Company of Canada is celebrating its 50 years of corporate existence. The company was thus born at the beginning of the 20th Century, which, in terms of metal, can claim to have ushered in the Age of Steel. Steel, of course, had been made and used for centuries, but mostly for weapons and armour in time of war. In times of peace its chief uses were in tools and cutlery.

In the past fifty years steel has become the most important and essential metal in every department of industrial, commercial, social and domestic life. This fact was emphasized by Mr. Stuart Armour, the company's economic adviser, in a recent address to the Advertising and Sales Club in Montreal when he said: "Without steel it would be quite impossible to give shape to the dreams of affluence aroused in the minds of our people by your efforts. Think only of the products which have gained general acceptance in the last fifty years as a result of what you have accomplished. The list is almost endless — aircraft, automobiles, inter-city buses, motorcycles, radio, television, outboard motors, self-propelled combines, cans and other packages, synthetics, to name but a few."

Mr. Armour pointed out that none of these products, nor any others that might be mentioned, could be produced without steel in one form or another, either as raw material or in productive machinery. "Despite all the advances made in other materials," he said, "this is still the Age of Steel; and without her integrated steel producers — of which Stelco is still the largest — Canada could not have prospered and progressed as she has done over the past fifty years."

Mr. Armour's address coincided with the 50th anniversary of the Advertising and Sales Club, and he said he could not think of two more closely related industries than advertising and selling and the making of steel. "Both of us," he said, "are dependent upon the continued existence of economic dynamism. Unless our national economy remains dynamic there can be no progress. Without economic progress our respective industries, and all others, must soon suffer. Without economic progress there can be no social progress, and without social progress our way of life would soon wither away." He declared that "no element in society has a greater role to play in the creation, sustenance and perpetuation of economic dynamism than the business of advertising and selling."

As a contrast to all that, Mr. Armour might have cited the absence of advertising and salesmanship in Soviet Russia. The low standard of living in that country is due to the deliberate suppression of sales promotion in commodities and social and domestic appliances, which we regard as necessities to our way of life. There are no display advertisements in Russian newspapers.

ADVICE TO YOUTH

Come hither, my lad! I have something for you. I'm old and I'm crippled and bent. I'm willing to give you some splendid advice, and it's not going to cost you a cent.

You say you don't know me? It's high time you did. I'm the wealthiest man in this town. I've lived in this village since I was a kid and I know the old place up and down.

They called be "Old Meanie" when I was at school because I hung onto my cash, when all of my schoolmates were wasting their dimes on candy and similar trash.

I worked all my life and I saved all my dough till only old age made me stop, but now I am able to take my reward, for I have arrived at the top!

My Easy Street home is a model for all. My camp in the country's a wow! I have a farm too, with a silo and barn, a horse and two pigs and a cow. I have a piano, a flute and guitar, a motorboat and a canoe, a concrete garage, an eight-cylinder car — with envy my neighbors are blue!

I've a workshop with power-tools that you'd adore, and a nice moving-picture machine, a sixty-foot swimming pool right at my door — With envy my neighbors are green.

I have a swell rifle, revolver and gun, and trunks full of fishing-togs, new. All sorts of equipment for just having fun — I only have mentioned a few.

I've recently bought a new hospital cot on which I most always recline. My nurse brings my crutches when I ring the bell. In fact, she looks after me fine.

I hope you will profit by my free advice, so save every nickel, my boy. Then when you are old you'll possess all the things that only a youth can enjoy.

Of Many Things

ABOUT EATING

You can get bacon and eggs in every small restaurant from Noyes on down to El Paso, in the U.S.A. — but what a world of difference.

Starting our trip South, we didn't bother too much about where we ate breakfast because I had a theory.

"It's pretty hard for a cook to spoil good bacon and eggs," I told my wife, "so we needn't worry too much about morning eating spots."

How wrong I was!

Bacon and eggs in almost any Kansas or Oklahoma restaurants are a dream and a delight. They are served with flourish, cooked just right, fresh, savoury and appetizing, with golden brown toast and lots of butter. And the coffee! Coffee that smells good and tastes rich — and your cup filled as fast as you empty it, at no extra charge! Well-fried potatoes, too.

Maybe the North won a war against the South some time long, long ago. But if there's ever another war, I know the South will win. Undernourished Northerners won't have a chance against the well-fed South. In most of the Northern states they dish out bacon and eggs that are greasy, no potatoes with them, and toast that is either half toasted or burned.

Back home, I have been comparing Manitoba food to that served up in the various states. We don't come off too badly — we are better than the Northern states, not as good as the South. Many Manitoba restaurants give you no fried potatoes with your breakfast, although Manitoba grows the tastiest potatoes in the world, with the possible exception of some Maritime provinces, where they are very careful about grading but where, in my opinion, the flavor is not quite as perfect as the Manitoba flavor.

This North American continent is prosperous. There is food in abundance. It is too bad the good cooks weren't distributed more evenly. Nothing brings tourists back again and again in the same magnetic manner that good food draws them back.

So let's quit taking our fine food for granted. Let's prepare it and serve it better. Fine food deserves such respect.

Funny Jack, the used-car man, won't like this. His grin will vanish into his mustache.

"Why can't cars have log-books, in which mileage, repairs and changes of ownership are recorded?" asks a reader.

Why not, indeed? I understand they do it in Britain. The log-book travels with each car from factory to scrap-heap, in the glove compartment. The law demands it.

Every time the garageman cuts a rotten piece out of the engine and sticks a patch on, he records what he has done in the log — providing that he has the patience to dig through the cigaret cartons, candy wrappers, bits of Kleenex, and old lipstick cases, and find the log.

Since the log is a mechanical record, not an intimate human document, it leaves much unsaid. Nobody can learn from the log whether the gas tank really was dry, that moonlit night.

"Driving privileges denied to Mary Brown, wife, for one month, as result of crumpled fender, dented hydrant, for which wife to blame. Signed, Jason Brown, Captain."

No entries like that one, either, in the automobile log book.

But the record of the car itself itself is marked down in full, from first scratch to the day it gives its death-rattle and the traditional old lady who has been its sole owner, pushes it on to Funny Jack's used car lot.

The car dealer really should be grateful for the dossier that is tucked among the trash in the glove compartment. After all, it prevents the old lady from cheating HIM.

But it also restrains the dealer from pulling a David Harum trade on his customers.

Luckily, most sued car dealers are honest. So, when some member of the legislature proposes an automobile log-book law, the idea will raise a deafening chorus of support from the solid dealers.

Scarcely audible through the clamor will be a thin whine of protest from Funny Jack and a few other rogues.

Who was born in Canada's Parliament Buildings?

Margaret Anglin, one of the most brilliant actresses of the American stage, was born in the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa in 1876. Her father, the Hon. T. W. Anglin, was Speaker of the House of Commons and at that time the Speaker and his family had their residence in the Parliament Buildings. While attending the Empire Dramatic School in New York, Miss Anglin was chosen by Charles Frohman to play Madeleine West in Shenandoah and she made her debut in 1894 at the New York Academy of Music. Her first great success was at the Garden Theatre in 1898 as Roxane in Cyrano de Bergerac with Richard Mansfield. After starring with many outstanding companies, she formed her own company and toured in plays by Wilde, Maugham and Shakespeare. In 1942 she played Mrs. Malaprop in The Rivals in Boston and the next year she toured in Watch on the Rhine. She died in Toronto early in 1958. One of Miss Anglin's brothers, Francis Alexander Anglin, was Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada from 1924 to 1933.

HOLIDAY NOTE —

Motorists urged 'Toast the Queen' with coffee

During the Queen's Birthday week-end, toast the Queen with coffee and you will spend other happy week-end vacations this summer — Chief A. J. Whiteway suggested to motorists here today.

Chief Whiteway warned against taking alcoholic drink if you are going to drive. He said reflexes must not be dulled, if accidents are to be avoided. He mentioned that children, elderly people and slow-moving pedestrians are not always prepared to sidestep a speeding car.

The Chief gave these suggestions for motorists on the sunny season's first holiday week-end:

1. Begin the trip early in the day, and try not to drive at night.
2. To prevent boredom and exhaustion behind the wheel, stop for a coffee break every two hours.
3. Adopt a safe speed, depending on conditions — slower when roads are poor or visibility is bad.
4. Obey traffic regulations. They are there to protect your life.
5. If you want a drink and creamed coffee is not strong enough — take it black!

St. Andrews lady mourned by large family

Late Mme S. Desjardins

The death occurred suddenly last week of Mme Stanislas Desjardins, 71, of St. Andrews East. Funeral rites were held last Saturday in the Carillon parish church, with burial in the St. Andrews Cemetery.

Mme Desjardins, the former Emma Robert, was the mother of a large family well-known hereabouts. Besides her husband, she is mourned by three sons and nine daughters: Jean, of Lachute, Romain, of Outremont, and Roger, of Lachute; Mme Paul Gagnon (Augustine), of Montreal, Mme G. Lemoine (Annette), of Sorel; Mme E. Moderie (Lucienne), of Brownsburg, Mme Jos. Guertin (Jeannine), of Verdun, Mme R. Fournier (Emilienne) of St. Andrews, Mme G. Lesage (Rolande), of Montreal, Mme R. Tessier (Rita), of Montreal, Mlle Aline Desjardins, Lachute, and Mme R. Wagner (Huguette) of Manhassett, N.Y.

The late Mme Desjardins is survived also by 38 grandchildren.

The Bible today

The revival of the Korean Bible Society, since the Korean war when the Bible House in Seoul was destroyed by fire, has moved forward another step. The Bible House was rebuilt and re-opened three years ago. A new warehouse for Scriptures has been built on the outskirts of Seoul and was opened last August.

Out of 23 applicants for colportage work in Korea, 11 passed the necessary tests and started work on probation last October. Two of the colporteurs are women and all are graduates of senior high schools. Two are university graduates.

Thus the distribution of the Scriptures will be increased among the teeming population of Korea.

PREVENT FIRES

It takes 60 to 80 years to grow a useful forest, but human carelessness can demolish it between dawn and dusk. A minute or two of vigilance is all you need to head off a catastrophe. — Prevent forest fires.

Guides'-Brownies' handicraft show

By Carolyn Stewart

On Saturday, May 14, the Argenteuil Jubilee Exhibition of the Guides and Brownies took place in the Brownsburg Legion Hall. Lachute, Brownsburg and Grenville Companies exhibited many articles they had made.

The Brownies had a plant exhibit The plants were judged by Mr. G. Todd and Mrs. D. Maitland. First prize went to Viki Millo, Lachute, and second prize to Cindy Ball, Brownsburg. The Brownies also had an exhibit of crayon sketches which were judged by Mr. Don Titman. First prize went to Susan Gordon, Lachute, and second prize to Lynn Morrison, Grenville.

The Guides had an exhibit of pencil sketches. First prize was won by Margaret Dawson and second by Margaret McRae, both of Lachute.

Each Guide Company exhibited a knot chart; these were judged by Mr. T. Dewar. Prizes were awarded — first to Lachute, second to Brownsburg.

Each Brownie Six had a badge parade. First prize went to a Grenville Six, who displayed the Pathfinder's Badge, and second prize to a Brownsburg Six who displayed the Gardener's Badge.

Each Guide Patrol also had a badge parade. In this contest both prizes went to Brownsburg patrols with the display of the Hiker's and Child Nurse's badges. Captain Johnston, Mrs. Gill Morrison and Mrs. Bea Dawson were judges for the badge parade.

Those in charge wish to thank all who helped to make the afternoon a success. The occasion was greatly enjoyed by all who attended.

Young performers at ballet demonstration

'Survival' topic at Lachute W.I.

The monthly meeting of the Lachute Women's Institute was held May 3, in the Legion Hall, with the president, Mrs. Linton Armstrong, presiding. The varied responses to the roll-call, "A Headline You Would Love to Read Some Day," proved quite revealing as to the hearts' desires. . . . (But would we not all be thrilled to read of a cure for cancer! Would it not be grand to win the Irish Sweepstake.)

Various matters of business were discussed and it was decided that a White Elephant Sale would be held shortly, and that 50 per cent of the proceeds would be donated to the fund for the Home for Senior Citizens.

The guest speaker, presented by Miss C. McGibbon, convener of Publicity, was Mr. J. Patrick Merryweather, development engineer at the Canadian Safety Fuse Co., in Brownsburg. As a military officer, he spoke on National Survival and especially on the role of our local Mobile Support Column, in the event of an H-bomb war. Such a war, he said, could be precipitated by just one idiotic move. It was hoped, said Mr. Merryweather, that a plan could be provided under which the vast majority of our people would survive and live to build again.

In thanking the speaker, Mrs. Angus Taylor said that, though the danger of bombs was unpleasant to contemplate, it was well that we should hear such talks from time to time, so that we might have the latest scientific information on ways and means of protecting ourselves in the event of such a disaster.

Sang in opera "Il Trovatore"

ROBERT HAYDON

A successful rendition of Verdi's "Il Trovatore" given two nights last week in the Ottawa Technical School, climaxed weeks of rehearsals and won the acclaim of critics and news reporters. In the leading male role as Manrico was Robert Haydon, well known tenor singer from this community.

DOUBLE EVENT

Herronton, Alta. (CP)— Two cows gave birth to twins on the same day at the farm of Lorne Turner near this southwestern Alberta village.

United Church Camp at Lake Memphremagog

News has just been released concerning "The Upward Trail," a camp for boys of the United Church. The camp is located on beautiful Lake Memphremagog.

Open from July 4 to August 27, the camp will be divided into four periods, the first two for Juniors and the other for Intermediate and Senior boys.

Folders, registration forms and all other information are now in the hands of church ministers, Sunday School superintendents and group leaders.

This camp was formerly operated as a private centre and is fully equipped for all the usual activities. Boys will sleep in cabins, though some tents are available. Situated at the foot of Owl's Head Mountain it is an excellent spot for boys desirous of getting out of the city for a brief period.

Although the camp will be operated primarily for United Church boys, registrations are also open to those who are members of the mid-week groups of the United Church.

Each camp period will accommodate 100 boys and registrations are coming in at this early date, indicating that the camp will be filled during the whole season. Early registration is essential and forms can be secured at United Churches in this area.

May meetings of County W.I.'s

Under their Citizenship convener, Arundel Women's Institute conducted a door-to-door canvass in support of World Refugee Year. They netted over $65 in this campaign.

An auction sale of garden plants was held by the Brownsburg branch. Mrs. D. Clark gave a talk on Low-Calorie Diets.

Dalesville members entertained Frontier W.I. at Brownsburg High School. Films were shown and enjoyed by all present. A social evening followed.

An exchange of seeds and slips was held by the W.I. at Mille Isles. A contribution was sent to Morin Heights High School, for prizes.

Morin Heights members saw a movie on Japanese Gardens, and held a discussion afterwards. They are planning a junior boys' handicrafts exhibit.

Mr. M. Evans, horticulturist, gave a short talk to Pioneer branch on the Growing of Annuals, Roses and Tomatoes. This proved to be most informative and helpful to amateur gardeners.

Upper Lachute - East End branch held a flower and vegetable contest. Tickets were distributed for a quilt to be raffled in the fall.

Dividends of a Child's Garden

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Junior doesn't show much enthusiasm about gardening! His teacher has been telling the scholars what a good hobby it is. But I wonder whether it is worthwhile bothering about a child's garden when there are so many things to interest children today," Junior's mother asked her new neighbor.

Mrs. Black smiled and admitted, "My husband and I are both enthusiastic gardeners and our two children have helped us plant and care for both flowers and vegetables ever since they were little. We don't have to persuade our two to garden. However, we do have to see they don't squabble about the special piece of ground we allot to each of them each spring for their own special garden!"

Gardening is often an activity which every member of the family enjoys. Even if parents are not ardent gardeners, it is a good idea to give a boy or girl encouragement in growing things, if they show a desire to plant their own garden.

There are many childish activities such as playing with marbles or skipping which are fun but they belong only to little boys and girls. Gardening is an interest which can begin in pre-school years and last throughout the whole life.

So much time is spent today on spectator fun, watching others perform on a playing field, or a TV screen, or at a movie, or listening to the radio. All these have a place in the modern world, but they should not crowd out active, creative leisure time pursuits. In gardening, a child is not just looking and listening. He is planning and doing and observing results for his efforts. He is working in the sunshine and fresh air and discovering that patience and care and skill are all needed to produce fine flowers and vegetables.

There are many communities where service clubs or interested organizations working to serve the best interests of boys and girls promote a gardening competition. For over half a century in Winnipeg, hundreds of children have been encouraged to garden in the Shield competition established by the late Mayor R. D. Waugh. The committee in charge of this commendable activity, points out the importance of children learning to work for beauty in their surroundings, and the value of the team work necessary between the boy or girl and the adult director, who usually has half a dozen gardeners in his or her care.

The garden in this competition may be a vacant lot. The suggested size is not less than one hundred square feet and not more than one hundred and fifty square feet. A marker should indicate the exact position of the child's garden, and there should be no path or division to the garden plot.

Expert gardeners have been consulted in the choice of three types of annual flowers (Bachelor's Buttons, Marigolds and Zinnias), and three varieties of vegetables, (Dwarf Beans, Beets and Intermediate Carrots), to be planted in Competition gardens. To insure fairness and uniform seed, each competitor must obtain the six packages of seed from the committee in charge and the cost is only forty cents for the six packages.

The age of the gardeners must be eight years or over but they must not have reached their fourteenth birthday by May 1st. Most of the boys and girls entering this competition for the first time are of Junior age, but once they begin, many continue until they must "graduate." This is a commendable community youth project.

When the time for the Horticulture or Flower Show comes round, make a family excursion and enjoy the wonderful display of color, smell the fragrance of hundreds of blooms, see the tasteful special displays and the clever flower arrangements. A happy time spent in this way may fire a youngster with eagerness to plant a garden the next spring, or help with a floral centerpiece for the dining room table. It is well to remember Napoleon's words: "Where flowers degenerate man cannot live."

It's Time For Spring Hostessing

No matter how famous you are as a hostess, it's nice to win new laurels. Keep your pantry shelf well stocked with convenience foods, and you'll be rewarded with elegant but easy party dishes.

For your first luncheon of the spring season delight the gals with Curried Fricassee on Coconut Rice . . . truly company fare. Pieces of cooked chicken, chicken gravy, rice, coconut and condiments . . . all from the pantry shelf . . . are the base of the dish. With these items on hand, you'll always be ready for a party.

FESTIVE SPRING LUNCHEON

Curried Fricassee on Coconut Rice
Chutney Toasted Almonds
Hearts of Lettuce French Dressing
Fresh Fruit

CURRIED FRICASSEE ON COCONUT RICE

¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup chopped onion
1 cup uncooked rice
2 cans (10¼ fluid ounces each) chicken gravy
¼ bay leaf, crumbled
⅛ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon thyme
2 cups cooked chicken pieces
2 teaspoons curry powder
1 cup flaked coconut
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

In a saucepan, cook onion in butter until tender. Add rice; cook slowly until brown, about 10 minutes, stirring often. Blend in 1 can chicken gravy, bay leaf, pepper and thyme. Cover; simmer about 15 minutes, or until all liquid is absorbed and rice is done. Meanwhile, in another saucepan, combine chicken and curry and other can chicken gravy; heat. Add coconut and parsley to cooked rice; mix lightly with a fork. Serve hot chicken in golden gravy over rice. Makes 6 servings.

Quebec survey by W. Inst. on Radio and TV programs

The Federated Women's Institutes of Canada have undertaken a nationwide survey of what rural women think of both radio and TV programming. In Quebec Province they have finished their survey, and under the convenership of Mrs. E. Gilchrist, of Kingsbury, Que., have come to some interesting conclusions.

In TV the survey was carried out in sections — programs for children, for women, and entertainment, religious, agricultural and news programs. They also studied the advertisements. The following points were brought out:

Children's programs — not enough and poor timing. Nothing for 8-12's. Types of programs not recommended, too many Westerns and too much violence. Children should be considered in the hours of 5 to 7 p.m., even if they are not the "paying customers", as what they see and hear does influence their behaviour and future growth as citizens.

Women's — majority do not like soap operas. Would like more programs on short courses, public speaking, book reviews, nutrition, fashion shows, travel, and more on health.

Entertainment — As to purely entertainment programs, opinions differ, but there are too many psychological programs. Family-type programs are liked the best and they would like some Canadian-type families. There was too much background music and sound effects.

Religious — should be more with special service for sick and shut-ins. More sacred music on Sundays and more time to religious themes at special times, such as Easter and Christmas.

Agriculture — listeners liked what is now available, but would like more, and women's interests, to appear more on Country Calendar.

News — CBC commended, with news coverage rated as excellent; but for farmers' news, 6.45 is wrong time and 11 p.m. is too late.

Advertisements — This really came in for criticism, with such expressions as trash, foolish and silly, misleading, an insult to intelligence, etc. All agree that a short, good advertisement at the beginning and end of the program would accomplish more.

Radio

Children's programs — not enough for children in the hours that they are at home. Suggest bedtime story between 7 and 8 p.m. More care in selection.

Women's — Trans-Canada Matinee wins top honors. Would like more educational and political programs, more good music and less hit parade. In this regard the private stations get most of the criticism.

Religion — enough programs on Sunday, but not enough during the week. Clergy should be careful not to try to "sell" their denominations. Close-of-day meditation to follow 10 p.m. news is suggested.

Agriculture — Farm Broadcast excellent, but suggest program for consumers precede it. Would like more agriculture programs on local stations. Programs to city dwellers to bring about better understanding between the two groups is recommended. Would like more on grains, seeds, fruits, plowing matches, local farm broadcasts, etc.

News — good, but local announcers need more attention to diction, etc.

Advertising — same criticism as for TV — too much exaggeration, too much "corn", etc.

If this survey is read and digested by the TV and radio authorities, the Q.W.I. feel it will have been worth while.

Teatime Topics

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman
By Edna Blakely,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Vienna and round rye loaves of bread will slice much more easily if the blade of your knife is held under hot water until the steel is hot.

In fact, any type of bread reacts favorably to the same treatment.

To slice bread thinly for sandwiches, give the bread just the opposite treatment by placing the unsliced loaf in the refrigerator until it is completely chilled. Then take a sharp knife and slice away. Place the bread in moisture-proof wrap when you're putting it in the refrigerator to prevent it from drying out.

To make extra-thin slices for rolled sandwhiches, place the horizontal slices on a clean damp cloth or tea towel and roll gently with a rolling pin. This will produce thin, compact slices which can be spread with butter and filling, then rolled.

To make attractive browned pinwheels, take a unit of four cinnamon rolls and slice horizontally so that the slices fit into your toaster. if the toaster is automatic, turn the control down to prevent scorching. Ordinary bread toasts much slower.

Quick Tricks

There are many quick tricks with bread. Shells for creamed fillings can be made by cutting rounds from ordinary slices of white bread with a round cookie cutter. Take one-half of the circles and remove the centres with a smaller cutter. Brush all the rounds and rings with melted butter, then place a ring on top of each circle. Arrange on a baking sheet and toast in a 375-degree oven for 10 or 12 minutes until they are crisp and golden brown.

Toasted bread cups are even faster to make. Remove the crusts from sliced bread and gently press each slice into a muffin or custard cup. Brush with melted butter and brown in a hot oven. They too can be filled with hot creamed mixtures.

It's white across the board for spring and summer wear, in town as well as for resort and country dressing. White crease-resistant cotton makes an attractive two-piece dress that should have a busy season. The white ground is a fine foil for embroidery and puffed appliques, done in fruit and berry yellow. Red eyelet embroidery edges the sleeves. The neckline is slightly draped and a self-covered belt cinches the waistline above the gathered skirt. New finishes help to make white really easy to care for.

Teenage girl basketball players in Brisbane have been ordered to wear longer dresses while playing.

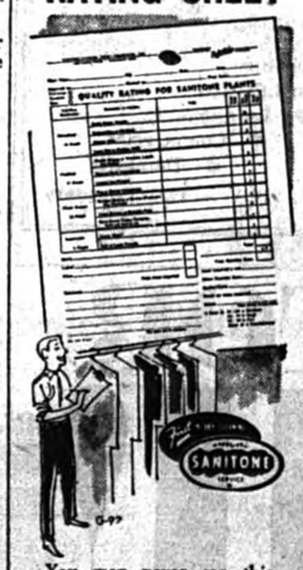

They have been told "dresses must not be worn more than five inches above the knee."

The Queensland Women's Basketball Association president (Mrs. S. Martin) said recently: "Things came to a head when I walked onto a field and saw a teenage girl bending over.

"Right across the seat of her bloomers was written: I Love Elvis."

"A Little Bit of Heaven" Reader's narrative of trip

By Mrs. Eddie Kettyle — Contributed by Request

When travelling on an extensive trip I find it is better to economize at the beginning, so my daughter and I ordered tourist tickets to Winnipeg with berths. Right now I would like to put in a plug for our C.P.R. — when we went to pick up our tickets, we found meal tickets were included with no extra cost. The tickets were good in the cafeteria where we received ample and sometimes more than we could eat. We enjoyed the scenery around Lake Superior from the dome of the cafeteria car. There was a group of young people returning from a Jewish Youth convention in Washington on board, and they were singing songs in Yiddish — very entertaining.

We arrived in Winnipeg on New Year's Eve, and spent a week with relatives there. It was bitterly cold, but we had a good time. One afternoon we went to a tea in the Embassy Room in Eaton's store which was served by the Winnipeg Women's Institute. There we met Mrs. Ames who had been over to Scotland to the A.C.W.W. convention last summer and met our Argenteuil County W.I. president, Mrs. Geo. McGibbon.

We finally pulled away from Winnipeg on the morning of January 9 in my brother's car and with a friend of his driving. We crossed the border into North Dakota around 11 a.m. The roads were icy but we drove 280 miles that day and stayed in "The Soux" motel in Mapleton near the border of South Dakota. We did not see even a little hill all that day. North Dakota is much like Manitoba. Next morning we made an early start, but again the roads were icy and we had to slow up. We drove all through South Dakota where it was quite nice in the north, but the centre has the "Bad Lands" or Black Hills. In the south was the corn belt with lovely homes and where we saw hundreds of pheasants feeding along the highway. Nebraska is very hilly but with a grand highway. Here we were getting into a warmer climate with 21° above. We saw mile after mile of corn fields and fall wheat.

On Tuesday, January 12, we slept in a Mennonite motel not far from where we passed through Wichita, the largest city in Kansas. They have five aeroplane factories here. This is where we left the last little bit of snow. We crossed into Oklahoma just before lunch; it was a beautiful sunny day with 60° above and we discarded our coats. This is a lovely state. Looking across the country from the top of a hill the earth seemed to glow with a reddish radiance, even the water in the ponds appeared red. We began to see horses, ponies, and white faced cattle out grazing.

After leaving Oklahoma city at 7:15 a.m. we travelled through beautiful countryside except for the last 30 miles when we crossed a mountain, a lovely scenic drive with a little creek peeking out in places. When we got up near the top we could look down and see the road below where we had travelled. After that it was hills and rough country almost to the border of Texas. We found a lot of Indians living here; they have their wares up for sale for miles. Where we crossed into Texas there were four double-lane highways for quite a distance. The people here were very friendly and we began to notice the Texas drawl. On account of car trouble we had to stay the next two nights in Weathersfield, a very nice city. We woke up the first morning to find cactus blooming outside our window. Watermelon is grown here — 100 lbs. and over, also peaches and nuts. The first oil well we saw was in Kansas, but we saw them by the dozen in Texas. In these parts we began to see mistletoe and catalypha trees. The northern part of Texas is mostly made up of ranches, so we travelled miles without seeing a house, but always on good highways. We arrived in San Antonio around noon January 15. Temperature 78°. We visited the Alamo, where Davey Crockett met his death. There was a plaque on the wall for each man who fell with Crockett. In the museum there was a showcase with a lot of his personal things — a knife and scabbard taken off his body after he fell, the rifle he traded with Andy Thomas on his way to Texas, his Bible and photograph presented by his wife, a stone from his chimney in Tennessee, and the knife he killed the bear with. We also read a letter one of the men had written to his mother. In it he said an awful thing had happened — he was to be shot in half an hour. We also visited the old mission over 200 years old.

After leaving San Antonio we drove through miles of lovely farming country. The last night before we reached our destination we stayed at George West. Next morning we saw huge fields of alfalfa and some fields worked up to sow cotton. The farther south we went, the more beautiful it was, truly "a little bit of heaven" — orange and grapefruit trees laden with fruit, highways with palm trees up the centre, shrubs and flowers we hadn't seen before. And so we arrived in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas with a very warm welcome from the tourists in "Midvalley Motel". We joined the Tourists' Club in LaFeria and Harlingen, which gave us a great many opportunities — bargain day in the stores, teas, flower shows, boat rides, a morning at the theatre. They also gave us the use of a hall every Thursday evening where we had pot-luck suppers and entertainments. We visited juicing plants, fruit and vegetable packaging plant, cotton baling, etc. One evening we went to a citrus fruit and vegetable fashion show where all the costumes were made from fruit and vegetables. Afternoon, evening and sports clothes were shown — predominating colors were yellow, green and orange. This took place in the city of Mission, about 40 miles from our motel. The next day, we went to their parade, which lasted two hours, this being their Fruit Fiesta. The floats were nearly all made from fruit. First prize was won by a missile-shaped float with a live monkey in the cone. There were 17 Duchesses in evening dress, each representing a fruit or vegetable and driving in a black convertible car. There were over 20 well-trained dogs, some cowboys, their old fire engine, and the mayor.

There were churches of all denominations wherever we went, and well attended on Sunday.

One day five car loads of us drove 30 miles to Port Isabel on the Gulf of Mexico. There we picked shells on the beach, with the waves chasing us back. We ate dinner in "Jetties" Restaurant beside the ocean.

While we were in the Texas Valley, we visited Mexico four times, which seemed like a different world. Harlingen put on five days of fun at their "Fiesta Turista", where they chose a King Turista from the tourists, and a Queen Tourista from the young local girls. They were crowned at an afternoon entertainment where Cactus Jack Pryse was m.c. Then the King and Queen were taken in the lead car on a conducted tour of five buses and three cars to Mexico, where we had a banquet. Before the Fiesta was quite over we had to leave for California, after spending a very pleasant month along the Rio Grande. The city of Brownsville bordering on Mexico had 100 colorful events featured for their "Charro Days Fiesta" from February 25 to 28. On the morning of February 17 a very nice lady gave us breakfast, so we got an early start for California. We travelled for miles through dessert covered with cactus. In some places we saw crocus, buttercups and the blue bonnets of Texas. Eagle Pass was the largest city we went through, where we saw some beautiful old homes. We drove 474 miles one day — the last 90 miles was all hills and gorges. We stayed in Siesta Motel in Sanderson, which was surrounded with treeless mountains. After crossing into New Mexico we visited the Carlsbad Caverns, which was a beautiful sight; 180 people went down on our trip — they looked like pilgrims touring underground.

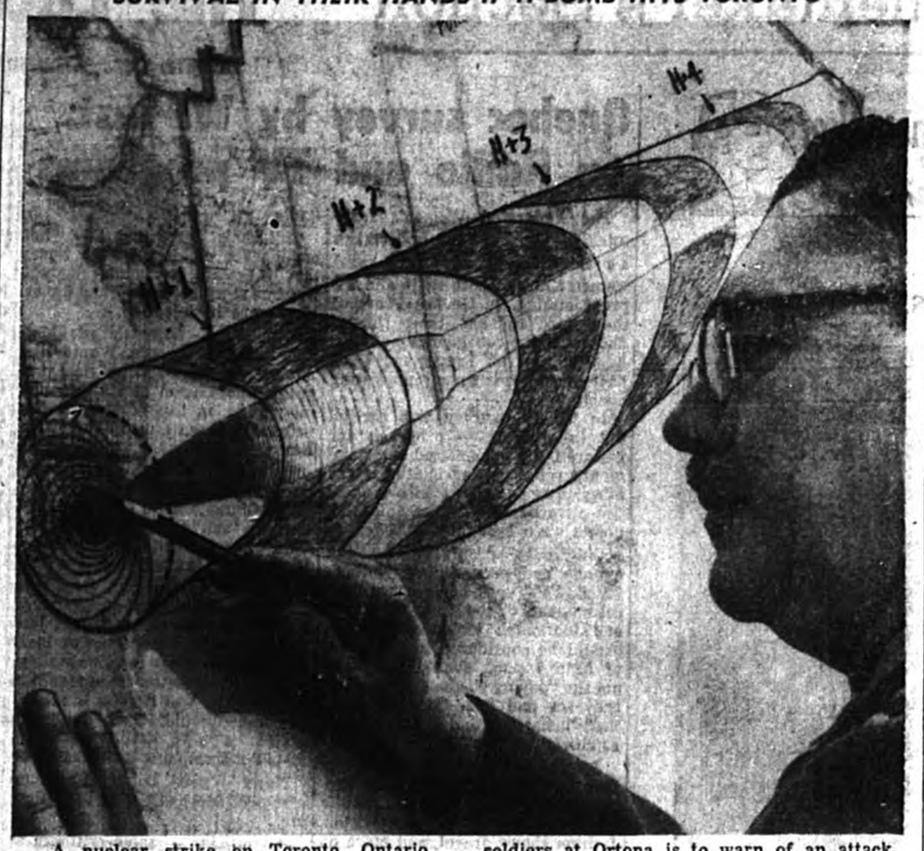

After leaving "Siesta Motel" in Vaughn, N.M., at 6.30 a.m., we travelled through some lovely ranch-lands, and with mountains not more than 40 miles away it was a picture in the sunrise. In a short time we ran into the Thunderbird Mountains and crossed into Arizona. For some distance there were evergreen trees in the mountains, then the scenery changed to red earth and rocks in layers. We passed lava beds and the continental divide, when we were 7000 ft. above sea level. We ran into a little snowstorm here. Mostly Indians live here. Now after 800 miles through mountains we arrived in Flag Staff for the night. Next day, on account of snow, we had to pass up the Grand Canyon. We passed the Painted Desert and Petrified Forest, but it was raining at the time. In one place we travelled about 80 miles on red pavement.

Our next overnight stop was in California, at Barstow. After leaving here we drove for miles through desert with "Siberia" signs up. Then we got into the Tehatcheppi mountains, which were nice and green and five miles through. A train was going through at the same time — sometimes above us and sometimes coming out of a tunnel below. After that we emerged into lovely green fields, which we hadn't seen since we left the valley in Texas. There were hundreds of oil wells here in Bakersfield. We stayed overnight about 25 miles from San Francisco.

On our way next morning we saw acres of orchid and olive trees. We visited Golden Gate Park, a most beautiful place, with flowers and trees of all kinds. There were Chinese gardens and pagodas, also Japanese gardens with walks and pools. In the aquarium we saw live snakes and fish of every kind, stuffed animals, large and small, in their natural settings. From the park we started on the last part of our journey, arriving at my brother's in Fort Bragg at dusk. We spent two enjoyable weeks here on the Pacific Coast, travelling through the Redwoods. One such tree, 250 ft. high, diameter at the ground 33 ft., had a gift shop inside where we bought a redwood tray. In the valley in California we saw miles of grapes, pears, peaches, walnuts, rows of eucalyptus trees, also cypress and pine, and a goodly number of palms. On the hillside one day we saw a dozen white deer, which had been imported from India.

On March 7 we left San Francisco on a jet — in 5 hours we were in New York, and one hour later in Montreal.

SURVIVAL IN THEIR HANDS IF H-BOMB HITS TORONTO

A nuclear strike on Toronto, Ontario, would have produced this sausage-shaped pattern of fallout. Major J. W. McClennan, above, nuclear officer in charge of the Provincial Warning Centre at Command's Ortona barracks at Oakville, Ont., plotted the path extending into Quebec. The first job for the soldiers at Ortona is to warn of an attack, then comes tracing fallout patterns, assessing damage and control and direction of re-entry into the damaged area. Teleprinters and telephones link Ortona with a Canada-wide warning system and North American Air Defence headquarters in Colorado Springs.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

A $3 scratch on the fender can increase in importance until it hits the law courts, or it can remain as simple as — well — a three dollar accident. In most cases it depends upon you.

If you have an accident, no matter how serious or minor, do these things:

(1) Remain at scene. Leaving, for any reason, immediately puts you in the wrong.

(2) Check occupants of each car for possible injuries. If anyone is injured, the law requires that even the most minor accident be reported to the police.

(3) Exchange license numbers, names and addresses with the other driver. Get the names of a witness or two, if possible.

(4) Inspect both cars and jot down the exact nature of the damage. Note exactly where the accident took place, the time, the weather.

(5) Report by phone or letter to the nearest office of your insurance company.

A final word: if you leap out of your car hot under the collar looking for trouble, you'll find it. But 9 out of 10 minor accident cases can be settled simply and easily with a cool head and a sense of fair play.

Recent wedding at Trinity Church, Morin Heights

Burrows-Bell

Trinity Anglican Church, Morin Heights, was the setting on Saturday afternoon, May 7, for the marriage of Miss Enid Beverley Bell, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Richard Bell, and Flight-Lieutenant Sydney Edward Burrows, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney E. Burrows, Sr., of Burnaby, B.C.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. G. Baugh. The church was tastefully decorated with multi-colored spring flowers.

Mr. Carl Elder played the wedding music, assisted by Mr. Albert Rutledge, violinist. Mrs. M. Simms, as guest soloist, sang "I'll Walk Beside You".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of peau-de-soie with seed-pearl trimming at the neck and long sleeves. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls, and she wore a pearl necklace and earrings, the gift of the groom. Her bouquet was of yellow roses and white gardenias.

The attendants, Mrs. Jack Hudson as matron of honor, and Misses Grace Gillingham and Isobel Guenette as bridesmaids, wore identical gowns of shrimp lace over satin made with drop neckline, long sleeves and full buffant skirts, with matching headdresses and accessories. They carried nosegays of purple sweet peas with purple streamers.

The bride's mother chose a beige ensemble fashioned with lace insets on the bodice and a lace bolero. Her accessories were beige, and she wore a corsage of tea roses.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. R. B. Bell, was attired in a printed powder-blue dress with matching hat and gloves, and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

The groom's sister, Mrs. George Saulier, wore a beige shantung suit, a pink flowered hat and matching accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations.

Tho groom's parents were unable to attend. Flight-Lieutenant Bruce Burgess, of Portage La Prairie, was best man, and the ushers were Flying-Officer Owen Hodgson and Flying-Officer Denis Calnan.

A reception followed at the Officers' Mess, R.C.A.F. Station, Lac St. Denis, attended by about 200 guests.

For a three-week honeymoon the bridal couple motored to Florida, proceeding from there by plane to Bermuda. For travelling the bride chose a Ceil Chapman imported model of navy blue silk, with white hat and gloves and navy accessories, a three-quarter length coat and a corsage of white gardenias.

Guests at the wedding were from Portage La Prairie, Toronto, Como, Montreal, Verdun, Lachute and Ottawa.

NOTICE to motor vehicles act violators

Arrest without warrant is permitted under the Motor Vehicles Act, in certain predetermined cases.

For infractions that come under the criminal code (drunkenness, impaired faculties, dangerous driving, etc.) not only can the police officer arrest the driver, but it is his duty to get him off the road.

If a policeman finds that you have violated any provision of the Highway Code (particularly speeding, illegal parking by night, careless passing, consuming alcoholic beverages in a motor vehicle parked or in motion, throwing bottles or other articles, passing or crossing a school bus that is taking-on or letting-off children), the policeman will stop you immediately, give you a summons, and require you to sign a document by which you are ordered to appear before a judge at the time and place indicated. This is your notice to appear.

You are thus accused and will have the right to defend yourself before the court.

If you refuse to sign such a document the officer has the right to arrest you at once.

If you fail to appear you may be found guilty and fined not only on the original charge, but also on an additional one.

Above all, don't be tempted to bribe the officer: This could prove costly, as it is an offense under the criminal code.

By driving prudently everywhere and at all times, you will save yourself a great deal of trouble. Don't forget this.

LEGION NOTES

— by —

Branch 70 Correspondent

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

Thanks to Mrs. Gordon Walker, the cry of "Play Ball" will soon be calling the youngsters of Lachute. Mrs. Walker has kindly offered use of the land opposite the entrance to Lachute Golf and Country Club, (where Ogilvy's Nursery at one time operated). It is the intention of Branch 70 to set up a regulation "Little League" ball field in this area. Com. Doug Kettle is now hard at work with tractor, plow and harrow preparing the ground. A Little League ball field is of course merely a minature of any of the big parks. Sixty feet between bases, with the boundaries of the outfield 200 feet from home plate.

It is the Legion's plan to organize in the town, for all interested youngsters, a league similar to that which was so successful for Pee Wee and Bantam hockey last winter. This is part-and-parcel of the aims of our branch, to give the youth of Lachute organized, supervised sports and entertainment; to help them to grow up to be decent, worthwhile citizens, sound of mind and body, with the basis of good sportsmanship firmly entrenched. One of the radio sports announcers used to sign off his program with a very apt phrase: "When you play sports, be a good sport" — to which we could add — "win, lose or draw."

Any interested adults who would care to take part in any phase of this activity are asked to contact Rene Paulsen, Joe Martel, Doug Ogilvy, Jim Duncan, Art Philipps, Howard Ward, Fred Pring, Frank Maidens or Doug Kettle, who are members of the Sports and Entertainment Committee — or of course, any member of Branch 70.

The last Teen-Age Dance of the current season will be held on Friday, May 27. To this we extend a special invitation to all the fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters, no age limit. Here is a chance to enjoy yourselves as a family group. There will be special dances for father-and-daughter, mother-and-son. If the old folks find the music too fast, perhaps the young-uns will condescend to an occasional waltz. For the benefit of the Sub-Teens, the starting time will be 7:30; and for this gala occasion, no admittance charge for anyone.

The Polio Clinic for this area will be held on the evening of May 19, at the Legion Hall. In the afternoon the clinic will visit Arundel and Huberdeau. All indications point to the fact that a large number of local citizens will be taking advantage of this free Polio Clinic, which Branch 70 have again organized.

Com. Jim Duncan's plans for the Legion Golf Tournament are progressing nicely, and without a doubt this will surpass last year's bang-up affair.

Com. Doug Ogilvy reports that the dance of last Saturday night was quite well attended, despite other attractions in town, and that a very enjoyable evening was had by all.

Congratulations are due to Comrades Joe Martel and Howard Ward for their fine showing in the recent Quebec Command cribbage tournament, held in Montreal. Eleven straight wins saw them into the semi-finals before they ran out of counters and peggers, in a game against Beauharnois.

Stop pollution

(Port Arthur News-Chronicle)

One of Ontario's shames is the filthy condition of many of its rivers. Another shame is the lackadaisical attitude of both authorities and public towards the open sewers and streams of pollution that still pass for rivers. The Ontario Water Resources Commission is moving toward the limiting of further pollution, but unless a great deal of reclamation work is done, the rivers already ruined will remain in their present atrocious condition.

The reclamation work can be done. It is being done in Britain and in the United States. It could be done here.

Too many people think that polluted rivers are either a necessary evil in an industrial area or the evidence of industrial development. There may have been some truth in such beliefs a few decades ago, but there is none now. Industries run by men with consciences have learned how to reduce or eliminate pollution of water as a result of their processes.

END OF AN ERA — The steam locomotive — work-horse of the Canadian railway industry for 124 years — will disappear from Canadian National Railway lines this June. The CNR, which pioneered development of the diesel-electric locomotive, will become completely dieselized, climaxing a ten-year program costing the company $397,000,000. The first steam engine appeared on the Canadian scene in 1836 with the advent of the Champlain and St. Lawrence Railway — long since incorporated into the CNR system. It was almost 90 years before the first diesel appeared — a rail car sent by CNR across the continent in 1925 from Montreal to Vancouver in 67 hours. It was followed in 1929 by a two-unit diesel road locomotive in the Toronto-Montreal service. Further development was disrupted by depression and the war, but the program to dieselize the entire system moved ahead in 1950. The diesel-electric locomotive has proven to be cheaper and faster than its romantic predecessor which has fallen victim to the advance of railroad technology. With the program completed, CNR will have 2,144 diesel locomotives and 28 Railiners.

Change of abode — the upsets of migration, family and pets

"Exile from Sunnyacres"

By Margaret Cook

Louise Dickinson Rich has a book entitled, "Happy the Land", the rest of the phrase being, "that has no History". The theory is that one makes one's own history. She was writing of a remote part of Maine, but the thought is, in many ways, applicable to the beginning afresh in a different house. The house has a history, no doubt but to the new occupant it is for the most part, unknown. In the suburban home of happy memory, one could say of a scratch on the woodwork, "That is where Betty fell down the stairs", or, "The fireplace smokes if the wind is in the west." Here, all these things are veiled from our senses. For instance, we wonder why the former owner felt constrained to put nails in practically every available inch in the cellar. Nobody could have that many tools, and anyway, the nails are, for the most part small, frail affairs. Somebody else's "history".

In the garden, history is clearer; someone loved and cherished the plot. It is a sunken whimsy, with borders rich with various flowers, with curved edges, and rocks concealing water-pipe outlets. There is a low stone wall at the back. The cats love this; they say it reminds them of the farm. It reminds me that the former owner was an Englishman, and this is his discreet protest to the wide, unfenced neighboring lawns of America. I'm with him. Not being discreet, I would have built a four-foot fence. Everybody, I feel, is entitled to privacy. Because of the wide, open spaces at the back, we shall use the front porch more, and ignore the patio at the back. History in the making, you see. For a few years, the neighbors will say, "We miss seeing the A's sitting out on the patio." But give us five years, and the same folk will become accustomed to seeing us, but dimly, because of trees and screens, on the front porch. How we all love our little habits!

Never one to believe all that I hear, I find another myth — just that, a myth — to wit, that cats are unalterably attached to their surroundings and care not a fig for their owners. The head of the house, true to his nature, was full of forebodings about our pets. They would have to be kept in for days, and then escorted on their walks; they would stray away, and never find their way back; they would be killed on the front street. Like most fears, these were unfounded. I would say that the cats withstood the move far better than we. They liked the house at once, especially a piece of ornamental woodwork along the upstairs banister. Just made for poking cats' paws through! The windows, too, are an improvement, the sills being wide enough to accommodate a cat's posterior, so one can look out. Evie regularly enters the house by climbing a rose trellis and crying pitifully at the kitchen window until someone opens it. Each has a room in the basement where he sleeps, and Evie has found a kind of cats' hanging garden. Actually, it is a large box for bulbs, fastened overhead and in front of a window. There is even some sand in it! As for getting lost, they each turn up regularly at lunch time, about eleven, and just as regularly have their siesta on the beds. Obviously, the different surroundings do not disconcert them. Home is where the Cooks are!

As for the owners — I suppose we shall eventually settle in, but, at the moment, it is as if we were spending a long week-end in a not-too-comfortable guest house. Some cherished effects have turned up, and some have not. The punch-bowl, for instance, seems to be permanently packed somewhere. Not an important bit of furnishing, but I am accustomed to seeing it sitting on the buffet, festooned with cups. The Bellek china is at last safely installed in its cabinet, but only one teapot is in evidence. The favorite is still absent. The newly-upholstered suite looks well in the curtainless living-room, what the former owner called the lounge. Come to think of it, that's the better word. One lounges in this room; real living is reserved for the kitchen and the bedrooms. As you gather, life limps along.

Then there is the matter of providing food. I was one of the die-hards who ordered nearly all their food by telephone from a private grocer, who catered to his clients. Not for me to carry heavy bags through the streets. If we did visit a super-market, it was by car. Suddenly, I found myself walking downtown, shopping in a chain store that was so small that it gave me claustrophobia, picking up pieces of meat, not especially cut for me, and of an appalling thinness. Clearly, something was wrong. So now, I make up menus for a week, and am taken once a week to a super-market, where, like all other good Americans, I wheel a cart about and pick up items, then pay a huge bill at the gate. Someone has written lately that there is a conspiracy among workers to do less and less and get paid more and more. Certainly, the personal touch is largely vanished. We may have gained in efficiency, but we have lost in grace.

But I have made one, new satisfying contact, with a new Canadian. He is a Hungarian, who has recently set up a fur shop in this suburb. Quite by chance, I found myself in his establishment, asking about bus schedules, and remained to talk furs. (I can see a knowing leer forming on Amos' face!) Well, he did quote me a price nearly one-half that set by a large department store in the city; this for remodelling a fur coat. "Taking the bread from the mouths of Canadians!" howls some staunch patriot. I do not think so; maybe not so much cake for the Canadian, but he still will not starve, and I shall have personal, and attentive care, and, I believe, competent work, since this man has been a furrier in Europe for 33 years. These Europeans have something — generally manners.

We do not dare go to Sunnyacres until we feel at home here. If I went now, I should probably rebel, and refuse to return. Anyway, the matter was taken out of our hands by the floods, but we hope soon to see again our beloved country home. I picture the daffodils about the house, and the blue sky arching over the familiar hills. I hope it also arches over the new garage, which we left in the competent hands of a neighbor. When we at long last drive up the lane, and see the house shining yellow against the greenery, and get a whiff of that good, mountain air — that'll be the day!

Until then, greetings to all others who have changed their abode. May it never happen again!

World refugees helped by northern Esquimos

Toronto — The Anglican Church's "Primate's World Relief Fund" has been bolstered by nearly $225 — contributions from Indians and Eskimos living in the Canadian far north.

Although of meagre means, the northern citizens have been deeply impressed with the need for helping less fortunate people in other parts of the world. Making up the contributions was a gift of $10.00 from the Indian Woman's Auxiliary at Hay River; $26.47 from Eskimos at Fort Chimo; $11.00 from the Eskimos at Cambridge Bay and $38.09 from Indians at Inuvik Eskimos and white residents at Aklavik who are members of All Saints Anglican Cathedral contributed $140.21.

Church House reports that contributions to the Primate's Fund, formally inaugurated on February 21, continued to pour in from all parts of Canada. At least $100,000 of the amount raised is to be devoted to refugee needs in various areas of the world.

The Primate's World Relief Fund will continue on a permanent basis and contributions from it will be allocated in relation to relief and disaster needs at home and abroad.

United Church laymen's conference

The fourth annual regional gathering of men of the United Church in the Montreal-Ottawa Conference will be held at Pointe-aux-Trembles June 24-26, according to an announcement by H. R. Griffiths, president of United Church Men.

Theme of this year's meeting is "Thy Kingdom Come — in me, through me, in the world". Theme speaker is Donald S. Cameron of Toronto, who will discuss the subject in three addresses. Mr. Cameron was chairman of the United Church Elgin House - Keswick conference last summer; is a member of the Board of Governors of Toronto Metropolitan Y.M.C.A., and president of Cameron-McIndoo, Limited, store planners and contractors.

After-dinner speaker Saturday evening, June 25, will be Rev. J. R. Mutchmor, secretary, board of evangelism and social service of the United Church of Canada, Toronto, whose subject will be "Some spiritual and moral issues facing us today."

Approximately 150 delegates from Quebec and Eastern Ontario churches are expected to attend this year's meeting and every United Church minister from Ottawa to Kenogami has received full particulars. Laymen from other denominations are also welcome.

RAISING FUNDS

Peterborough, Ont. (CP) — Boy Scouts at nearby Norwood are building and selling bird houses to raise money for camping equipment for the holidays.

CATTLE DIEASES

Edmonton (CP) — The Alberta agriculture department reports bovine vibriosis is the second most dangerous cause of sterility in cattle after brucellosis. It has been diagnosed as a specific infection in several herds for the past six years.

TROUSSEAU TREASURES — The multi-purpose fashion of the bolero costume is equally at home in town and country. Designed in a minutely checked cotton-synthetic blend, this version of the bolero revival is piped at edges and yoke in a contrasting color. A companion fashion is a natural silhouette suit of Canadian wool in a year-round weight.

Volkswagen makes sense for you—Here's why!

Volkswagen's engine is air-cooled, an astonishing advantage when you think about it. No water to boil over in summer. No water to freeze in winter. Owners say the VW engine seems to go on forever with so little effort, fuel or attention. Friction and stress are so low, in fact, that a VW can cruise at 70 all day long without any over-exertion.

Volkswagen is great fun to drive; agile and highly responsive, with one of the smoothest stick shifts in the business. It's 4 feet shorter than conventional cars, yet holds 4 adults, with a surprising amount of room.

Volkswagen's suspension is different; all-independent by torsion bars. It gives you uncanny control over rough roads (no bump-bump-bump). And the new anti-sway bar eliminates swing and sway on curves. The engine in the back gives the Volkswagen superb traction. In mud, sand, ice, snow, where other cars skid, you go.

Obviously, this is a classic design that is not to be changed just for the sake of change. The Volkswagen you buy today will remain in style long after other cars have come and gone.

One of the things designed right into the Volkswagen is easy, low-cost maintenance. The car is so well conceived that its engine can be removed and replaced in only 90 minutes.

And best of all: the price of a Volkswagen is much lower than you would expect. No wonder, then, Volkswagen is the largest selling import in North America—by far.

Charolais cattle breeders organize

Canadian breeders of Charolais cattle have formed an association, incorporated under the Livestock Pedigree Act. The association received ministerial approval April 13.

Since there are not enough purebred Charolais in this country to meet the demand, it has been agreed to maintain a grading-up system for record purposes and eventual registration.

Under this plan, all animals possessing Charolais blood are recorded with the association, and when the subsequent progeny meets the status of 31/32 Charolais blood, it is considered eligible for registration.

When there is a sufficent number to meet requirements, the stud book will be closed and only animals possessing pure Charolais blood will be eligible for registration.

Charolais cattle have been imported from the United States in fairly large numbers over the past few years. Majority of them were registered with the American International Charolais Association, Houston, Texas.

Early in 1959, breeders and owners of Charolais cattle in Canada held an exploratory meeting at Calgary.

Acting on a suggestion made at this meeting, owners formed an active association and began keeping breeding records of all Charolais cattle in the country.

PRECAUTION

Be sure to get a travel permit before you start on a fishing or camping trip. The law requires it. And the law also makes you responsible for any fires you let loose. To burn a forest is a punishable offence.

END OF STEAM

Saskatoon (CP) — The last steam locomotive on CNR lines in Saskatoon probably will make its final run about the early part of May. All are being replaced by diesels.

Sow 'seed' oats, not 'feed' oats

Every year, a regrettably large number of farmers in all parts of the province still sow their fields with feed grain and, as a result, reap a low-yielding, weedy harvest.

Seed-drill surveys have shown, without a shadow of doubt, that this class of grain is totally unsuited for seed and that in many cases it germinates only very feebly. In fact, none of the samples of feed grain which were tested during the last seed-drill survey proved eligible for seed.

Why then can't we make feed grain fit for sowing by giving it a thorough cleaning? The answer to this question is in the form of another question, namely; why go to the expense of cleaning feed grain when one does not know: (1) if it will germinate satisfactorily; (2) what variety it is; (3) if the losses due to cleaning will be out of proportion to the value of the seed obtained.

It should be borne in mind that oats of this kind are only intended for feed and that, whether they are designated "C.W.", "double recleaned", or "Alberta", none of them are worth using for seed: moreover, there is a federal law which forbids their sale as such. The farmer who does use them for seed, flattering himself on having thereby evaded the law, in the long run becomes the final victim of his own deceit, because it is he who is the real loser in the end.

In every case, says André Auger of the Quebec Department of Agriculture, the best kind of grain to sow is registered or certified seed, since this is the only sort which guarantees the authenticity of the variety. If registered or certified seed cannot be obtained, then ordinary seed of the "general seeds of commerce" grade is always available: this is sure to have been subjected to some kind of control or testing and its germination is known.

So please! Let's sow seed grain every time, and not feed grain.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Early Weaning Requires Care

It used to be that we kept suckling pigs with their sows 10 weeks before weaning time. That was in the days before we had the excellent pig meals and the kind of housing and equipment that now makes early weaning much more practicable.

A common weaning age now is six weeks, in some cases even five weeks or less. This permits early rebreeding and at least two litters a year from a sow.

Dr. Bohstedt

Early weaning, however, requires a really good starter or prestarter meal for pigs so they won't miss their mother's milk too much.

Feed manufacturers have done a good job perfecting such pig feeds, in some cases in pelleted form. For pigs weaned before three weeks of age, liquid milk substitutes are advisable and should be fed in shallow containers or mechanical dispensers.

Meanwhile, the pigs should be encouraged to help themselves from a trough or self-feeder located in a creep. The creep feed may be a mixture, half and half, of a dry milk substitute and a creep ration as follows: Ground corn 40, ground hulled oats 35, dried skimmilk 10, meat scraps 5, soybean oil meal 5, alfalfa leaf meal 4, trace mineralized salt 0.5, ground limestone 0.5 and an antibiotic supplement from 0.25 to 0.50 pound. This creep ration provides about 17 percent protein.

Ten pounds of granulated sugar or molasses may be added to the above mixture to increase its palatability at the outset. This helps to get the pigs started eating.

Where plenty of skimmilk is available it may be fed in a suitable shallow pan or trough, but should be kept clean. Cracked corn and ground or rolled hulled oats along with the skimmilk has proved to be a good creep ration.

When removed from the sow, these little fellows had better graduate to a regular mixture as listed in the 100-pound mix above. Soon a simpler feeding scheme such as ground corn or other farm grain fed in the large compartment of a self-feeder along with a supplement mixture in the smaller section may be used. This system enables the pigs to balance their own rations clear to marketing.

Question: Some brands of mineral premixes and trace mineral salt have extra amounts of zinc. Should these be used only for hogs, and may the feeding of zinc be overdone?

Answer: Chickens as well as swine have been found to be benefited by liberal amounts of zinc. The suggested zinc addition to poultry rations is similar to that for pigs—about 50 to 100 part per million of feed. Both pigs and poultry have a wide tolerance for zinc and are not easily injured.

What are the fruit-grower's chances in his battle against apple scab?

This enemy number one of our orchards demands very careful attention and special tactics on the part of the grower. The development and spread of this disease vary from season to season according to climatic conditions. For example, in 1959, the liberation of the escospores did not become critical until the start of the advanced pink bud stage; as a result, the first primary infection was late and spring scab was easily prevented. In most districts, the first scab spots appeared about June 7. On the other hand, late summer scab was prevalent in a large number of orchards following August and September rains, which brought on secondary infections. It is clear that scab is a very insidious disease capable of invading and ravaging an orchard in a variety of ways.

According to Roger Desmarteau, plant pathologist of the Quebec Department of Agriculture, the principal factor in the successful control consists in the well-timed application of the spray treatments. No matter what fungicide is used, it must be applied so as to keep abreast of the development of the foliage and provide the leaves with perfect coverage. In doing this, the fruit-grower must attempt to estimate the likelihood of rain (making use of weather forecasts) and try to apply the sprays a little before rainfalls.

In spite of the availability and use of combined protectant and eradicant fungicides with properties which sometimes allow the grower a little more leeway in the timing of the sprays, the principle of protection still remains the surest one to follow.

Purely eradicant sprays, applied after the rains and in the absence of any previous protection, have given only disastrous results in the majority of trials. As regards those tests which have proved more promising, it is as yet too early to make any definite pronouncements.

Poultry field day at Kemptville

Ramsayville — Prof. W. F. Cassels of the Whitmoyer Drug Company will be featured speaker at the third annual poultry field day held at the Kemptville Agricultural School on May 25. He will speak on poultry management, a topic of interest to egg producers, broiler and turkey growers.

"Skip" Cassels will also address the zone meeting of the eastern Ontario Poultry Producers, held in the morning of the field day, on Marketing.

"Nick" Nikolaichuk, head of the poultry department at Macdonald College, will speak on Nutrition, particularly concerned with the feeding of turkeys. Prof Ross Cavers, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, will talk on the poultry outlook, eggs, broilers and turkeys.

Persons attending this field day will have an opportunity to tour the recently-opened Veterinary building. This laboratory is proving to be a great help to poultrymen in eastern Ontario.

Carillon Dam brings prosperity, heartache — says young speaker

Speaking before the Hawkesbury Toastmasters Club, Miss Grace Donaldson, district high school speech contest winner, from Lachute High, told the audience that while the Carillon Dam project has already brought prosperity to the district and will be of lasting benefit to the community, it has also caused its share of heartache. Miss Donaldson told of neighbors in the twilight of their lives having to give up centuries-old homesteads and look for new homes, of others who after years of hard work have to give up successful farms and start again elsewhere. Tracing the history of the rapids from the days of the Indian raids on Montreal, she told of the many attempts to tame this turbulent stretch of water ending with the present multi-million-dollar project.

Miss Donaldson was one of five student speakers from high schools in Hawkesbury, Grenville, Brownsburg and Lachute who were recent guests of the Toastmasters Club at a dinner meeting in the Abenaki Golf Club, Hawkesbury.

Other Speakers

Miss Brenda MacGibbon, Brownsburg, speaking on the subject of choosing a career, suggested that high school students should consider their hobbies and special interests before making a decision. She pointed out that, all too often, people end up with an occupation in which they have no real interest and for the rest of their lives work is a drudgery. It is much easier to be successful when you find pleasure in the work you are doing.

Sandy Welburn, Brownsburg, in a well-delivered speech highlighted by effective use of dialogue, explored the reasons why certain students and people are more popular than others. Lasting popularity is due to a pleasant, sincere personality, rather than material benefits you may be able to bestow on your fellows, he claimed.

Donald Robertson, of Grenville, spoke of the attraction of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police as a career. Donald proved to be an excellent salesman for the force.

Yvon de Bellefeuille, of Hawkesbury, took the audience on a conducted tour of Canada with a young Russian student as guest. He pointout to his Russian friend the many freedoms and opportunities in this vast and growing country of ours. Yvon feels that by means of such visits the Russians could be taught to understand our ways, and we theirs, thereby reducing some of the tensions now building up between our countries.

In England to address European Ceramic Congress

The European Ceramic Congress, held every two years, is meeting this year in London, England, during the current week, May 23-28. About 1500 ceramic manufacturers and leading scientists from Western Europe are expected to attend, in order to visit works and to listen to a series of lectures.

The Duke of Edinburgh has consented to be the patron of the Congress, and the social events will include a reception at the Mansion House by the Lord Mayor of London, and a ball at Hurlingham.

DR. G. R. RIGBY

Dr. G. R. Rigby, Director of Research at Canadian Refractories Ltd., Marelan, has accepted an invitation to give one of the lectures, and has chosen to talk on "Volume Expansions accompanying Solid State Reactions."

Dr. Righy holds the unique distinction of having been elected on the executive of three Ceramic Societies — the British, American, and Canadian. He has previously given lectures to the European Ceramic Congress at meetings held in Amsterdam, Zurich, Paris and Vienna.

He left for England by air on May 19, and intends to spend a month in Europe, where he is looking forward to spending some time with his daughter, Diana, who is studying at London University.

New edition of phone directory to be distributed

The latest edition of the Laurentian telephone directory will be distributed by mail to homes, stores and offices in Lachute and surrounding territory, within a few days.

H. W. Flanigan, Bell Telephone manager here, said that, as announced previously, the new Laurentian directory carries all proper accents on the listings of French-speaking customers. The new directory is also one of the first Bell Telephone directories in Quebec to feature a colored cover. It also lists new seven-figure numbers instead of two -letter and five-figure numbers.

These new numbers will be effective in Ste. Agathe and St. Jovite, on June 5 and July 10, respectively, when the new dial central offices go into operation in these two localities.

"That is why the new directory should not be consulted before June 5 for Ste. Agathe customers, and July 10 for St. Jovite customers", the manager said.

Mr. Flanigan stated that a total of 31,680 copies of the new directory will be distributed initially in this area, compared to 29,645 for the previous edition. In Lachute and Brownsburg vicinity alone, initial distribution will amount to 5,820 copies.

It is suggested that telephone users check their Blue Book of Telephone Numbers against the listings in the new directory, and make any necessary changes. By keeping their personal lists up to date, telephone users will avoid many wrong numbers and unnecessary calls to Information.

The directory cover again features the drawing showing a typical Laurentian winter landscape, with snowy mountains, skiers and a little village.

Easter Seals exceed 1959 total, Lions Club report

Final accounting on the Easter Seals campaign — with provision for certain donations promised by municipal corporations, yet to be received — will show a creditable figure around the $1,700 mark. This will be approximately $115 in excess of last year's donations.

— This was the report of the committee chairman, Col. Ernest Emmett, given at last meeting of the Lions Club. The result was gratifying to the members, since the portion allotted to the Lions' fund, strictly for the aid of crippled and handicapped residents, is put to good use in this community, between these annual campaigns.

The meeting, chaired by President Lorne E. Duncan, was devoted exclusively to affairs of the club.

A 25th anniversary dance (at the Golf Club) is on the program next month, as a social event. In fund-raising efforts for charity and the Lions' Rink venture, a drawing is planned for Lachute Fair, where the Lions will occupy their customary stand; there will be no automobile among the prizes this year, but other attractions will be displayed to appeal to a wider public. . . . In addition, the "Feux Follets" folk-dancing troupe will be featured before the grandstand on Lions' Night, Friday, June 17, and an entertaining evening is assured.

A three-man delegation represented Lachute at the inaugural meeting of a new Lions Club in St. Laurent, Que.

Three vacancies, two acclamations in Chatham

At nomination proceedings for three councillors in Chatham last week, Adélard Gagné was elected by acclamation to the seat vacated by Grant Beatty, retiring councillor (No. 6).

For Seat No. 4, Dieudonné Leroux was elected by acclamation to replace Roland Desforges.

For seat No. 5, vacated by Adam Meyer, there was no nomination forthcoming, and the Council will be called upon to appoint someone to fill this seat, at their next sitting.

In a report for Ayersville elections last week it was stated that Maurice Dumas defeated Adélard Gagné. This was an error — the contender in this case being Léonard Gagné. (Adélard is a resident of Whisseltown, in the municipality of Chatham.)

Quebec a world leader in Cancer research, says Society's provincial vice-president

Mrs. Leonard Ayers, who directs the activities of more than 1,000 volunteer workers throughout the province and controls a budget in excess of $106,000 each year, describes for Watchman readers some of the duties, responsibilities and rewards of volunteer welfare work.

Mrs. Ayers is vice-president of the Quebec Division of the Canadian Cancer Society and provincial chairman of its welfare committee. In an interview, Mrs. Ayers said the Society last year provided 1,827,362 surgical dressings to a total of 1,645 cancer patients at a cost of $42,000. In addition, financial assistance amounting to approximately $20,000 was given to 326 needy patients. Transportation costs to and from cancer clinics, room and board for patients undergoing treatment and rehabilitation assistance, was also provided by the Society.

"The welfare work of the Canadian Cancer Society, for which I am responsible, is just one phase of the Society's activities," Mrs. Ayers explained. "The other two are research and education. Each plays a vital role in the overall program, and all of them go on seven days a week, 52 weeks a year.

"The philosophy behind our program has been the development of a healthy public state of mind toward the disease to replace superstition, ignorance and unreasonable terror combined with a 'hush-hush' attitude that stood in the way of attempts to reduce mortality from cancer," Mrs. Ayers stated.

For centuries cancer has been the least understood of all diseases, and although it was just one of many that disabled and killed, it was the most puzzling of all, demanding a separate and direct attack. It was this, Mrs. Ayers said, that prompted the Canadian Medical Association to create the Canadian Cancer Society and so mobilize the voluntary resources of the nation to specialize in the field of cancer control. Its prime function was to disseminate knowledge about cancer and it was agreed that this was not a job for doctors alone but rather for doctors and laymen working together to arouse public opinion.

MRS. LEONARD AYERS, a tireless worker for the Canadian Cancer Society.

"In the application of this philosophy, the weapon of fear is not used. The purpose of the program is to eliminate the aura and mystery about the word 'cancer', to give the facts without sensationalism, and to enlist the support of all who believe that an attack on a problem is better than flight from it," Mrs. Ayers said.

The Quebec Division of the Canadian Cancer Society was first established in 1946, with headquarters in Montreal. Since then it has grown, until today it has sections or sub-sections in almost every community.

The Lachute section of the C.C.S. was one of the first organized outside Montreal, and Mrs. Ayers was one of its charter members and its first president. Her qualities of leadership were quickly recognized by the Society's executive officers, and it was not long before she was appointed to the board of directors. As vice-president and chairman of the welfare committee, Mrs. Ayers today plays one of the most active roles of any member of the Society's executive.

Despite the fact she is a volunteer, Mrs. Ayers' work with the Canadian Cancer Society makes great demands upon her time. She is required to make regular visits to divisional headquarters of the Society at Montreal to supervise the activities of the welfare department, and in addition makes trips to various parts of the province where new sections of the Society are being organized.

"It's hard work," says Mrs. Ayers, "but it is rewarding . . . I have watched the Society grow from a mere handful of people facing an almost impossible task, to an organization of 47 sections in all parts of the province and as many or more sub-sections.

"I've watched our research program grow, until today it is a vital part in the greatest medical battle man has ever launched against a disease. I've watched the Province of Quebec become the greatest cancer research centre in Canada, and one of the leading sites of cancer research in the world.

"I've watched the death rate of many forms of cancer gradually lessen as additional funds have made additional research possible. I've sensed the atmosphere of suppressed excitement in the laboratories where this vital work is proceeding, and I share the conviction of our leading doctors and scientists that the problem can and will be solved.

"The work of the Society has helped save countless lives by alerting people to the importance of regular medical checkups and an increased awareness among the public and doctors of the importance of early diagnosis and proper treatment.

"But perhaps the greatest reward of all has been the very great increase in public determination to fight cancer, evidenced by the increase in the number of volunteer workers and increased financial support," Mrs. Ayers said.

Four degrees to Lachute men in McGill listing

A Lachute High School graduate, A. Scott Taylor, has successfully qualified for the degree in Civil Engineering — B.Eng.(Ci) — at McGill University, also winning the C. Michael Morssen Gold Medal "for great distinction and engineering promise."

Two other L.H.S. graduates are in the degree list, published last week — William (Bill) Steeves, B.A., having qualified in Law (B.C.L.), and Wayne K. Riddell having won the degree of Bachelor in Music.

The fourth Lachute graduate is E. Paul Deslauriers, son of Mrs. Ernest Deslauriers and the late Mr. Deslauriers, who has qualified for the Bachelor of Commerce degree.

Congratulations of many friends are extended to these four successful students.

Art Association public exhibition opens Saturday

This Saturday at 3 o'clock p.m., the Argenteuil Art Association will inaugurate its seasonal exhibitions with the opening of the annual amateur-and-member show of art works, at the St. Andrews East municipal hall (situated above the fire station). It is expected these exhibits will include the usual good representation of art enthusiasts, both amateur and professional, from many points in this County, and from a number of friends in Montreal. There is no fee for exhibitors, the only requirement being payment of the $1 membership subscription.

This exhibition will remain open to public viewers each afternoon until Sunday, June 5. There is no admission charge, and it is anticipated there will be a good attendance, to appraise the evidence of a growing art consciousness and the works of many artists in this area.

President of the Association for the current year is Mrs. Vivian Walker, of Montreal and Carillon, who is a professional painter, instructor and frequent exhibitor in art circles.

Annual inspection of Ayersville Air Cadets

Squadron Leader J. E. A. Jolicoeur, from St. Hubert air base, was here last week for annual inspection of the Argenteuil Air Cadets.

The inspection was held Wednesday evening on the Clement School grounds, where the O.C. was accompanied by Lieut. P. E. Barbeau, commandant of the local unit; Lieut. J. Bougeois, liaison officer from St. Hubert; Claude Tessier, chairman of the sponsoring Citizens' Committee; J. Morin, from the Quebec Provincial Air Cadets League; Flying Officer A. Barnabé, of Ottawa; and Police Chief A. J. Whiteway of Lachute.

Following the inspection, Lieut. Barbeau welcomed the visiting officers and introduced them to the public gathering. Sq.-Ldr. Jolicoeur encouraged the young cadets to continue their training, even if they had no intention of pursuing aviation as a career or entering the Service.

A citation was presented on this occasion to Jean-Claude Gibeault, in recognition of his fine discipline and good spirit at the St. Johns training camp last summer.

An informal social hour was enjoyed afterwards, in the school hall.

Quebec Premier to officiate at Fair opening

The premier of the province, the Hon. Antonio Barrette, will officially inaugurate the 135th annual Lachute Spring Fair, Thursday, June 16 — Minister of Mines W. M. Cottingham revealed last week-end in a statement from his farm here at Lachute.

The annual fair, the oldest in the province and perhaps in Canada, will again feature competitions in all classes of horses, cattle, swine, sheep, poultry and rabbits.

This year's fair, under sponsorship of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, will be open during a four-day whirl of activities starting on Wednesday, June 15. The president this year is Donald Bradley, with Kenneth Riley in his customary role as secretary-manager.

HON. ANTONIO BARRETTE, Premier of Quebec Province

Premier Barrette will come by plane, and is expected to arrive at about 2.30 p.m. on the afternoon of Thursday, June 16. He will be welcomed at the airport.

Following the official inauguration at the fair grounds, the Premier will visit the many exhibits.

Mr. Riley, the secretary-treasurer, states there will be some $15,000 in prize money for the many competitions. The expected attendance for the four-day show is around 25,000 people.

Honorary patrons of the Spring Fair include the Lieutenant Governor of the Province, the Hon. Onesime Gagnon; the Federal Minister of Agriculture, the Hon. Douglas S. Harkness; Quebec Minister of Agriculture, the Hon. Laurent Barré; and Quebec Minister of Mines, the Hon. William M. Cottingham.

CELEBRATIONS TO CONCLUDE SUNDAY —

Rain intervenes at Carillon Dollard tercentenary opening

As traditional as the Dollard celebration itself, rain intervened to upset the ceremonies last Sunday, opening the tercentenary observances at Carillon.

It was planned to hold an open-air mass at a rustic altar erected on the bank of the Ottawa River, but instead, the Rev. Father Joseph St. Martin celebrated mass inside the parish church. The rally at the Dollard monument that afternoon, was also rained out — this feature being postponed until next Sunday, which will conclude the week of the tercentenary program.

Those who braved the unfavorable weather last Sunday morning and afternoon found much of interest, however; and in the evening, they were entertained by folk dancing in the village street. The "Carillon" dance team from Montreal, exponents of traditional steps and routines, proved a highlight to the otherwise weather-marred observances.

With features scheduled for each day this week, the gala event will be next Sunday, May 27, when many religious and civil dignitaries are expected to attend. . . . At 11 a.m. His Excellency Bishop Frenette will celebrate pontifical mass — outdoors if the weather permits.

It is expected that the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P., Mr. J. O. Latour, M.P., the Hon. Judge Redmond Roche, and other notables will honor the occasion with their presence, helping to pay tribute to Dollard Des Ormeaux and his compatriots whose sacrifice, 300 years ago, is the object of reverence in these demonstrations.

There will be fireworks displays on Thursday night and on the concluding evening, Sunday.

A cross has been erected at the presumed site of Dollard's siege in 1660, and the entire village is suitably decorated for the commemoration.

Biology teacher wins scholarship

Mr. Bob Wyse, of the Lachute High School teaching staff, has been awarded a summer scholarship in Science, to McGill University. The post-graduate course is in the nature of a "Science Workshop" of four weeks' duration at Macdonald College, commencing July 4. The scholarship, sponsored by the Dupont and International Nickel corporations, is valued at $300. Mr. Wyse, biology teacher at L.H.S., resides at St. Andrews East.

Liberals open election campaign

Mr. Rodrigue Durocher, official Liberal candidate for Argenteuil, opened his campaign with a successful meeting at the Catholic School in St. Andrews East last Saturday night, May 21.

Among those present on the platform were — Mayor Gaetan Paquette of Ayersville; Mayor Adelard Castonguay of Carillon; Antoine Paré, Mayor of the Village of St. Andrews; Rosario Lemay, Mayor of St. Andrews Parish; Ald. Alphonse Thibodeau, representing Mayor James McGibbon of Lachute; Mr. J. D. Lepine of Brownsburg, and Mr. Wilfred Morrison of Lachute, chief organizers of the Liberal Party of Argenteuil.

The meeting was chaired by Mayor A. Paré of St. Andrews.

Fine performance presented by School of Ballet

Last Wednesday evening saw the third demonstration by the Lachute School of Ballet, presented at the Auditorium.

Mrs. E. Gow welcomed the large audience, in French and English, and introduced Miss Elizabeth Leese, principal of the studio which bears her name, from Montreal, also the local pianist, Mrs. L. Hopkins, and local teacher, Miss J. Bouchard.

The children of Class 1 performed nursery rhymes, with an infectious air as only tiny tots can do.

Various dance steps and exercises were demonstrated to show the capable way in which dancers are advanced from one routine to another.

A series of dances was then performed; "The Flower Pickers" and "The Sailor's Hornpipe" by Class 2 were simple yet dignified.

Class 3 danced the Quadrille, an old interpretation of the Square Dance, and the Tarantella, a dance full of color and rhythm.

Lastly, Class 4 undertook the Waltz from Giselle, with grace and sophistication.

All these were made more attractive by colorful costumes, which had been designed by Mrs. P. Laliberté and Mrs. Gow — much of the credit being due to Mrs. Laliberté for her hours of sewing in their fabrication.

Finally, to the joy of the pupils and the admiration of the audience present, Miss Joan Bouchard danced her version of Liebesfred. As a climax to this entertaining evening, Miss Bouchard and three advanced dancers from the Elizabeth Leese Studio performed a dance for four from the Nutcracker Suite. . . . All this added up to a well conducted performance, for which the school should be warmly congratulated.

Gifts of flowers were presented to Mrs. Gow, a fabric by Ayers to Miss Bouchard and to Mrs. Hopkins, for the parts they had played in another successful year of this venture.

Argenteuil Outdoors

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Reports on nearly all the stream fishing has been the same this past week. The creeks are still very high, but dropping rapidly. Some fair fish have been caught, with more expected. All in all, the fishing has improved a lot in the past little while, both in streams and lakes. It's still a nasty job trying to wade the streams, with the chance of stepping into a big hole. But even this doesn't seem to have dampened the ardor of the stream man much.

This is one of the most difficult ways to fish with a fly (and for that matter, bait men have it just as tough). But certainly it is one of the most satisfying from the standpoint of sport. On top of all this there is the opportunity to watch the wildlife, in its natural habitat. Even watching a stream wend its way to join others, is a thrill.

From all the talk on Lake Louisa, it seems to be living up to the high hopes of the local sportsmen. Very good catches have been taken in the last while. Not in numbers, but in quality. One fish caught was a young salmon, 19 inches in length, this, along with a couple of good Greys, makes any angler happy. Louisa, as most of us know, is one lake that is being looked after by a group of citizens not content to just sit back and hope someone else will do something about it. Too bad there aren't more like them around.

Some good catches have been taken around Ste. Marguerite; this might interest anyone wanting to make the trip. All Brown trout, that I have heard of, and some of them have been very good. One in particular, a 4-pounder; that sure is a nice fish to catch. There have been a number taken over the pound in weight, so it might be worth the trip.

Another note on Louisa. Last time I was there, a group were circulating a petition to send in to the Hon. Dr. Pouliot, Minister of Fisheries, asking that anglers be allowed to use minnows, caught in the lake, for the taking of trout. This may be OK as far as this group is concerned, but what about the people who will bring minnows in from elsewhere to use in this lake? It's no use saying these can be controlled; we know through experience this is impossible. It would mean having a Game Warden right at the lake checking every fisherman, and the numbers who could get in without this would run into a huge figure. I don't think any exceptions should be made in this law as it stands; of course, this is only my opinion. We all know the number of good lakes that have been spoiled by dumping minnows into them.

The number of geese that have been seen passing over our area, sure has gladdened the hearts of a lot of sportsmen. It looks as though we have a lot more around than in previous years. This may be due to their having new flyways, for a time. With the increase of feed, etc., they will deviate from the old ones to the new, to allow the old to replenish. I know that a number of people in Lachute have been fortunate in seeing these great flights pass over. And to hear their calls as they come floating down the winds, long before the birds appear in sight, is a sound never to be forgotten. Seeing them in the slow majestic beat of the great wings, seemingly tireless in their flight north for the nesting grounds, is a wonder not understood too well.

The flocks of ducks hanging around is another very good omen. The high water did cause us a lot of hardship, but it had its good points too. Bogs all over the place, and the ducks are making the most of these. I would say, there are more ducks around now than there have been for a few years. Most of these are Blacks, but there are a few Mallards in with them. Probably other kinds are with us but these are harder to see than most. It looks good for the shoot in the fall, anyway!

The bird lovers are having themselves a treat. New arrivals in every day, and each new group seems to be better than the last. The sparrow family seem to be the most predominant at present. Nearly all species are represented — the White Throated, the Field, Chipping and Song; it won't be too long before the whole family is represented A number of Tanagers have been seen around, and these won't be lonely for the Scarlets too long.

Our little Robin is doing very well. Still sitting on her eggs, waiting. She sure is a picture to watch so solemn, and I presume, anxious It won't be much longer before she will fly herself to a shadow. At least, she will not have to look too far for her food, and there are no cats around to bother her.

A few of the Canary clan are with us, not the ones we look forward to so much; these are the larger and darker group. One of these fine days we will be welcoming the Finches back, too.

This may interest someone. Canned wolf howls! Yep, they are using this method, in Algonquin Park to further the study of these animals. This is a novel way to get information that is lost otherwise. This method is being used all over the world by wildlife experts, with very good results. Maybe we, around here, should try this on our Panthers and see what happens. Certainly a great thrill would come of being able to bring an animal in for study.

I suppose the next thing that will happen though, some goofs will get hold of a tape-recording of some animal, and then go out and wipe it out. . . . Rather strange, we brave humans going out with our young cannons and everything else to kill some defenceless animal.

As you know, I talk on Pollution a lot (maybe too much). The latest word is that we are starting to get

Wolf Cub news

By Baloo

The boys had an active meeting last week preparing for the Harrington field day.

The Cubs were separated into the various events for Saturday and practised two skits, to be presented on that day.

The White Six is the leader in points, but the other Sixes are close behind.

Akela had the pleasure of presenting First Stars to — Randy Jones, Svend Paulsen and Jeffrey Gordon. These boys show keen competition, and are a credit to the pack.

Richard Butterfield passed his Grand Howl and Cub Promise.

Randy Jones passed his test in "O Canada", and Jeffrey Gordon passed his Reading test.

On Saturday, May 14, the 1st and 2nd Lachute Packs visited the Knox Crescent Church Packs. The boys toured Montreal's harbour and visited a nearby fire station. In the afternoon they were treated to comical movies, which the Cubs thoroughly enjoyed.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

"Old soldier's club" very much alive!

WHAT DOES a veterans' organization do when there are no more wars? Can it make a valid contribution to society, or does it become a twilight club where members sit in the lengthening shadows and contemplate the lost days of youth?

On May 29 at Windsor, the 18th biennial convention of the Canadian Legion comes up with the answers — just as Lachute and neighboring branches of this group have answered in an emphatic way . . . The answer is that an organization, like a veteran, can rehabilitate itself, adjust to peace, and develop on its own peacetime initiative.

Among the contributions which the 242,000-member Legion is now making, is the $3 million it has invested in low-cost housing for elderly Canadians, located in some 12 centres across Canada, built by Legion branches or provincial commands.

The Legion's service bureau provides individual assistance to any veteran, dependent, widow or orphan. Anybody with a problem concerning veterans' legislation or benefits can go to the Legion for free advice or assistance. If necessary, the Legion will make personal representations on an applicant's behalf to government officials in Ottawa.

During the past three years, the Legion has contributed $60,000 to the development of track and field athletes. Although the full results of this program will not be seen for some years, 27 of 30 track and field athletes representing Canada at last year's Pan American games were graduates of the Legion's coaching clinic.

While keenly interested in the physical welfare of youngsters, the Legion also stresses their intellectual development. Each year it contributes over $65,000 in scholarships and bursaries.

Concentrating on character-building activities, the Legion has some 8,000 Scouts and Cubs under its sponsorship; also, the number of boys playing team sports under Legion guidance is estimated at 100,000.

There has been a tremendous increase in Legion community programs within recent years. In centre after centre, the organization which once was regarded as an old soldiers' club has become the hub of community activity, a place where the old, young and the in-between find something of interest . . . Lachute and its fellow branches have given a creditable example, and Argenteuil County has a ready answer to that question, "What does a veterans' organization do when there are no more wars?"

Verbiage, time – more waste at Ottawa

LONG OVERDUE — The Commons at Ottawa held a soul-searching session recently, when a blow was struck for briefer speeches. Extravagance at Ottawa extends also to the waste of words, and the time they occupy — as any reader of Hansard knows.

The Commons approved a government resolution to establish a committee to comb through House rules and determine steps to expedite the handling of public business. (The last similar rules committee was formed in 1951; it sat through six sessions, delivering a report in 1955.)

J. M. Macdonnell, 75-year-old Progressive Conservative member for Toronto Greenwood, barnstormed for brevity, while speaking on the resolution.

"I think there is a danger of having the maximum time for a speech become the minimum," he said. "I think it is regrettable that we almost automatically take the full 30 and 40 minutes as the case may be and use it up."

This veteran member, first elected to parliament in 1945, summarized his views in less than 10 minutes. He included the following pungent comments:

"I do not feel very proud or happy when I think what the ordinary visitor to the public gallery must often say to himself when he comes here on a brief visit.

"He may come in here and to my great regret he may see an honorable member standing up unashamedly reading every word of his speech, and not even reading it well.

"There are people who read so well one hardly knows they are reading, and if they can get away with it more power to them, but that does not happen often. . . . "

Douglas Fisher, CCF member for Port Arthur, said Commons debates should be broadcast periodically, and he agreed with Mr. Macdonnell that the rule against reading speeches should be enforced.

Mr. Fisher suggested TV or radio broadcasts of Commons sittings start with hour-a-week coverage of debate of private members' legislation. "Of course, with the present standards, the difficulty would be to get any radio station to take the broadcasts," he said. But such broadcasts would bring Parliament more to the attention of the people and improve the interest of private members in their duties, he felt . . .

— Until they shorten their speeches considerably, God forbid!

Annual outdoor frenzy

BACK IN THE DAYS of the Roman Empire, the City of Rome remained relatively safe from invasion because of a swamp filled with malaria-carrying Anopheles mosquitoes that surrounded the city. Any attacker would think twice before facing the possibility of camping in those fever-ridden swamps.

Failure in the initial construction of the Panama Canal by France was largely due to mosquitoes and the malaria and yellow fever they carried. Later construction by the United States was held up nearly three years while much manpower and money were expended in clearing the canal site of these mosquitoes.

It wasn't until relatively recent years, however, that man really took a definite stand against mosquitoes and decided to fight back. New Jersey, known far and wide for the number, size, and appetite of its mosquitoes, began the first organized attack, in 1912. Work was begun draining swamps and marshes, and increasing the flow of water so that it became inhospitable for the larval wrigglers. By spreading oil on the stagnated water it became possible to suffocate the wrigglers, that couldn't penetrate the film with their breathing tubes. These early efforts later formed the basis for mosquito control.

Perhaps the most significant advances in our fight against mosquitoes were made during World War II. Scientists were searching for an insecticide that would effectively combat the Anopheles mosquito, which was spreading malaria to troops in the far-flung battle areas. From Switzerland, the answer came in the form of an insecticide known to us as DDT. The spectacular wartime success of DDT is well known.

Still today, pound for pound we are no match for mosquitoes, for what these blood-thirsty females lack in size, they make up for in number. One acre of good swamp-land can give rise to a bumper crop of nearly one million mosquitoes during a summer. This also creates a difficult control problem. Obviously, we can't spray the entire country with insecticides, nor can we drain all the swamps, stagnant pools, and puddles. We can conduct our personal mosquito abatement campaign, with the following suggestions — and get bitten less in the annual invasion, however:

1. Clear your property of all puddles, including water-filled cans.
2. Keep grass from growing tall.
3. Use a good insecticide for spraying indoor surfaces and space areas.
4. Keep windows and doors well screened.
5. Cover all cracks or openings in your windows or doors.
6. Use one of the effective insect repellants now available.

LOCAL TAXES — Tax dollars spent at the municipal level seem to buy more of the useful things of life than dollars spent at the provincial and federal levels. They provide, in a tangible way at least, the mechanics for satisfactory living. They are not to be begrudged.

SUCCESS is confidence in yourself . . . your future!

HAVE YOU ENOUGH CONFIDENCE? Look at any successful man. He knows what he's doing . . . knows where he's going. He's not afraid of tough jobs, tough decisions. Think! Do you have this kind of confidence?

COLLECTIVISM IN THE CHURCHES?

Some months ago, when I was challenged to a debate with a leading Alberta socialist, she quoted from a report of the World Council of Churches, which she suggested was "the conscience of the nations," to indicate that they had condemned Capitalism as immoral.

I contacted leading clergymen who are associated in one way or another with that organization, and I was given the impression that they, personally, felt that their leanings were more humanitarian than socialistic in any political sense.

That interested me. I got hold of reports from the World Council of Churches and studied them. And then I obtained a book published by The Church League of America. This book, called "Collectivism in the Churches," written by Dr. Edgar Bundy, is extremely alarming.

Dr. Bundy's assertion is that many things being done by huge church organizations are far removed from what many local ministers and their parishioners have ever intended. Bundy claims — and he seems to have plenty of documentation for his claims — that there is a conspiracy to dominate the Council and use its machinery to promote socialism and communism. Hundreds of ministers are alarmed at the situation but cannot seem to do anything about it, according to this Church League of America publication.

The very suggestion that communists, who deny God, are able to make use of the avenues of communication set up by Christian churches, is so shocking it is difficult for me to credit. Yet Dr. Bundy quotes in page after page of his book, statements of officers of the Council, which appear to deny the deity of Christ. Indeed, this book claims that two communists were on the Central Committee of the Council when it met at Evanston, and that two more were added. He names them!

I know that many local ministers read this column. Many of them get material regularly from the Council. I would dearly like to hear from them about this matter. Do they find in the literature from the many departments of the Council, any indication that Dr. Bundy's fears are justified? Are traditional Christian doctrines being sacrificed for the ecumenical movement?

The school lunch that mother packed for her son — did he eat it? Or is it sticking in a hedge somewhere, the package unopened?

A lady who lives near a certain junior high school (many miles from here) tells me that the bushes around her place are dotted with unopened lunches slipped in there by youngsters.

"Judging by some of them that I've seen, I don't blame the boys and girls for leaving them," she said. "White bread, soft and new and soggy. Perhaps a bit of ham, all smeared with salad dressing. Just flapped together, perhaps a bit of lettuce too."

"You mean you open these lunches and take a look at them?" I enquired.

"I know an old lady who opens them and eats some of them," my informant said. "Some of them she toasts. And some of them are very good lunches, thrown away without being opened. It's a shame. Wrapped in wax paper and then neatly wrapped again in brown paper. Then just thrown away.

"But the boys going to school — I suppose their nerves get upset from studying," she added.

"And maybe they get nervous, looking at the girls," I suggested.

"Yes . . . but there's one thing. It hasn't been nearly as bad in the last six months. Not so many lunches now."

"Slim pickings for that old lady now?"

"Not so many lunches. And I think they're making them pick up the papers they throw around too."

The lady's remarks reminded me that when I was six (I think) I wouldn't eat my lunch, most days, because I was too busy playing. But I didn't have the nerve to throw the lunch away, or else I was too thrifty. I brought the full pail home again.

My mother was so disturbed by my failure to eat lunch that she actually took me out of school and taught me at home, for some time. Truancy laws weren't as strict in those days as they are now.

The lady who spoke of the discarded lunches had more to say:

"I see them taking those exercises," she observed, "and I wonder whether they couldn't be using that energy to help someone, or earn some money.

"And after those exercises, the way they slouch along, arms hanging down, shoulders stooped. And the smoking! Boys and girls. Some of them little ones who look no more than 10."

"Let's hope they grow up straight anyway," I said, "and read some of those articles about lung cancer."

And that was the end of our discussion on the manners of the junior set.

Letters patent to new company

A recent issue of the Quebec Official Gazette gives notice of letters patent issued by the Lieutenant Governor, February 4, 1960, for the formation of a local company, "Sesame Envelopes Limited," of the following description:

"—Incorporating Douglas Gordon Kettyle, plumbing contractor, of Lachute, James E. Grant Tomalty, machinist, and C. S. Victor Barré, both of Brownsburg, for the following purposes:

"To carry on the business of manufacturing, wholesaling and retailing envelopes, stationery products, machines and equipment for the purpose of manufacturing, sealing and opening envelopes, office equipment generally and commercial art products of all kinds, under the name of "Sesame Envelopes Limited', with a total capital stock of $5,000, divided into 255 common shares of $10 each and 245 preferred shares of $10 each.

"The head office of the company will be at Lachute, County of Argenteuil."

BILINGUALISM

We're supposed to be a bilingual country even though the evidence is to the contrary. The last census showed that only 12 Canadians in every 100 speak both English and French, as against 67 who speak only English, 20 only French. We should aim to have at least half the population bilingual by the end of the century.

Bell-Welden
Kerr-Welden

St. Simeon's Anglican Church, Lachute, was the scene of a pretty double wedding ceremony on Saturday, May 21, where the marriage was solemnized of the two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James N. Welden, Lachute—their elder daughter, Shirley Edna, being wed to Mr. Charles Maurice Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bell, of Knock, Portadown, Northern Ireland, and Roseann Edith Welden becoming the bride of Mr. Boyd Leonard Robert Kerr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kerr, of Rawdon, Que.

The Rev. C. R. Lang performed the marriage ceremony. Mr. Hopkins played the wedding music and the soloist was Mrs. Arnold Parker, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the signing of the register. The church was tastefully decorated with lilacs, apple blossoms and gladioli.

Both brides, who were given away by their father, wore identical dresses of white silk organza, fashioned with a fitted bodice, scolloped neck lines, and embroidered with Alençon lace, with seed pearls and mother-of-pearl sequins. The sleeves, of the same motif, ended in points over the hands. The full embroidered skirts had a draped effect in front, gathered at the back by large bows. The brides carried bouquets made up of Madonna lillies and white carnations.

Mrs. Robert Dixon was matron of honor for her sister Roseann, while Mrs. Kenneth MacKiddie attended her sister Shirley. The other attendants were Mrs. Erma Tinkler and Misses Evelyn and Lona Welden.

The little flower girl, Linda Dixon, wore a white lawn embroidered frock with an aqua sash and matching aqua headpiece; she carried a small bouquet of yellow gladioli and white carnations.

The matrons of honor were gowned in deep aqua frocks of silk organza over taffeta, styled with full skirts. The other attendants were gowned in aqua frocks of lighter shade, with matching headpieces. All carried bouquets of yellow gladioli and white carnations.

Mr. John Welden escorted his sister Roseann to the altar, where she was given in marriage by her father.

Mr. Henry Grace, of Ottawa, was the best man for Mr. Maurice Bell, and Mr. James W. Welden was best man for Mr. Boyd Kerr. The ushers were Mr. Robert Dixon, and Mr. Kenneth McKiddie, Mr. Ross Tinkler and Mr. John Welden.

The brides' mother wore a floral silk faille dress, with matching accessories. Mrs. Robert Kerr, mother of Mr. Boyd Kerr, wore a light blue silk fitted suit, with white accessories.

Mr. C. Maurice Bell's parents, residing in Northern Ireland, were unable to attend.

Following the wedding ceremony the guests proceeded to the Masonic Temple, where cocktails were served and the guests had an opportunity to wish the bridal couples health and happiness. Supper was served; then many in attendance drove to the Welden home to view the many lovely gifts. The guests then returned to the Masonic Hall for a period of dancing. The brides appeared at the dance in white dresses of identical design to those of the bridal attendants. Lunch was served at midnight.

Mrs. Bell's travelling costume was a light green wool stroller suit with matching cloche hat and Mrs. Kerr wore a blue wool stroller suit with white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell are travelling to the Southern States.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Kerr left in a new sports car, gift of the bride's father, to visit friends and relatives in Gaspé, Nova Scotia and Cape Breton Island.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Bell will reside in Ottawa, and Mr. and Mrs. Kerr will make their home in Calumet.

Frends attending from out of town were — Mrs. H. Porter, from Union, N.J., Mrs. Mary Dubeau, of Rutland, Vt., Mrs. Ray Gaynor and children, of Greenfield, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. James Whitley, of Hamilton, Ont.

C.W.L. Retreat held at Ste. Marguerite

"A retreat may be compared to the minutes an artist uses when he steps back from the masterpiece to get a good look, to get an exact measure of the progress he has made before he started; he had an idea, an ideal of it in his mind. Working close up to it he does not see how the work is translating that idea into reality. . . .

"So he steps back, and sizes it up, squints at it, frowns at it, concentrated, collected. . . . Sees the problem as it is objectively — not emotionally, sees the solution if not how to cope with it practically.

"Likewise with us — we, too, are working on a masterpiece, our own life. . . . During a retreat we stand back at some distance from the work we are doing, from the daily chiselling at the stuff of our lives, and gaze at ourselves striving to see ourselves as God sees us, praying to Him to bring our gaze into focus."

Over forty women from various parishes of St. Jerome Diocese had the opportunity to attend the third annual retreat of the Catholic Women's League at the Maison d'Esterel. The retreat was conducted by the Rev. Father Nelson, S.J., of Loyola College. The arrangements were made by Mrs. J. Leblanc, of St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac. The retreat was attended by ladies from St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac, Rosemere, Lachute, St. Colomban and Brownsburg.

WILLIAM M. COTTINGHAM

Minister of Mines

In 1954, Bill Cottingham, member for Argenteuil since 1948, was appointed Minister of Mines in the Provincial Cabinet. He joined a small group of representatives in the Legislature, chosen — because of their exceptional ability — to become part of a great team entrusted with the Administration of the Province.

From then on, the voice of the spokesman for Argenteuil could be heard with increased authority and influence.

As the Hon. Cottingham stated at the time, the honor was being bestowed upon the people of the County. But, with the honor, went the added responsibility of the development of our mineral resources.

Unprecedented production records and the expansion of our mining empire to the far reaches of Ungava, justify the pride of Argenteuil County and the Province in Bill Cottingham, Minister of Mines.

School Children's Interests Vary

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"John is haunting the library to read everything he can about the moon, since the Russians landed a rocket on it. He imagines himself being a pioneer in space travel. Last year at this time he was learning to tie every imaginable kind of knot from a Scout book."

Mrs. Green paused in her weekly letter to her mother of news on the home front, then added:

"His dad wishes he would stick to one thing, but public school youngsters seem very changeable in their interests!"

Here are the titles which the librarian recommended to John: Exploration of the Moon by A. C. Clarke; Rockets, Missiles and Space Travel by Willy Ley; Rocket to the Moon by Bergaust and Hull; Space Research and Exploration edited by Bates.

Many parents are puzzled by the short duration of a child's enthusiasm for one particular activity. Girls are afflicted with this lack of perseverance as well as their brothers. Their interests show a constantly changing pattern.

Junior and intermediate boys and girls like watching TV, the movies, certain radio programs, collecting various articles, pets, sports, dramatics and reading. Their curiosity is unbounded. Far places and other races fascinate them. They would like to watch grown ups at work. See how quickly a group of youngsters gather around a steam shovel toiling at a new excavation, or a bulldozer levelling out land for a new road!

Parents should encourage their children to develop a wide range of interests. They should give their children freedom of choice of hobbies as far as possible. Some leisure time activities such as stamp collecting may seem to absorb quite a bit of money. But an enterprising youngster who is really keen about a special interest will set about earning money to pay for his fun.

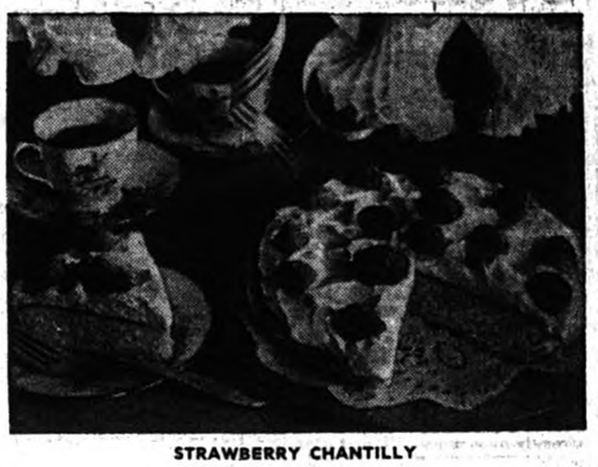

Mothers and dads should try to enter into the spontaneous enthusiasm of a son or daughter for some new thing. A child's choice of interests are not trivial. All the time a boy is investigating how a rocket or a jet plane works he is learning scientific facts. His interest sharpens his thirst for knowledge. There is a great deal of self-education a child secures after school hours in pursuing his interests. They can be thankful that activities keep a child from spending too great a proportion of leisure time gazing at TV.

Related to Learning

A good teacher knows how closely interest is related to learning. Not long ago a teacher said to a parent:

"Teaching is my life work and I am determined to do it well. I want to make learning interesting for my pupils. It gives me real satisfaction when I see that a scholar is thrilled with the adventure of finding out new things in any subject."

Needless to say that particular teacher was outstanding in her profession. Wise is the teacher or parent who looks with understanding and respect on the fire of enthusiasm for a new interest which flares from time to time within a boy or girl.

STRAWBERRY CHANTILLY

Sweet finale

While canned and frozen strawberries are available the year round, the fresh berries are lower in price as well as superior in flavor. And since the strawberry season is at its height during May, June and July, this is the season to enjoy this lush fruit at the peak of its perfection. Top cold breakfast cereals with berries and serve fresh strawberry sundaes or berry puddings. For a dinner party, shower or tea, plan on making a truly regal strawberry dessert, such as this one for Strawberry Chantilly.

This scrumptious sweet is a tempting combination of a cake and a pie. It tastes every bit as good as it looks, and looks quite as exotic as the name implies. The chantilly has a pie crust base filled with a "butter-cake batter". Before serving it is masked with sweetened whipped cream and whole strawberries, then garnished with whipped cream rosettes.

Strawberry Chantilly

(Yield — about 8 servings)

Pie paste, ½ cup once-sifted all-purpose flour, or 1 cup once-sifted pastry flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon ground mace, ¼ cup butter or margarine, ¼ cup fine granulated sugar, 1 egg, ¼ cup milk, ¼ teaspoon vanilla, ¼ pint (1¼ cups) whipping cream, 3 tablespoons sifted icing sugar, few drops vanilla, 1 pint fresh strawberries (washed, hulled and well-drained).

Preheat oven to 375 deg. F. (moderately hot).

Line a pie plate (8½ inches, top inside measure) with rolled out pie paste; trim and crimp border. Chill while making cake batter filling.

Sift together the all-purpose or pastry flour, baking powder, salt and egg, and beat it in well. Measure milk and add the 1 teaspoon vanilla. Add sifted dry ingredients to creamed mixture, part at a time, alternately with milk. Turn batter into unbaked pastry shell. Bake in preheated oven 30 to 35 minutes. Cool completely. Whip cream until softly stiff; gradually beat in the icing sugar and flavor with vanilla; continue to whip cream until stiff. Spread about ¾ of the whipped cream over cold cake. Arrange the berries attractively over the whipped cream then garnish the dessert with remaining whipped cream forced through a rosette tube. Chill, if desired, or serve at once.

Teatime Topics

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman
By Edna Blakely,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The word pizza means pie . . . so every time we say pizza pie we are actually saying pie pie. No matter what you call them pizzas are delicious and this modified version of little pizzas is quick and easy.

It's a good treat for the family's lunch or for informal parties.

Webster's dictionary explains pizza as "a large, flat tart made of bread dough spread with tomato pulp and strips of cheese and often shreds of meat, anchovies or the like, highly seasoned with savory herbs and baked thoroughly."

The ingredients for little pizzas are: one six-ounce tin tomato paste; ½ tsp. pepper; ½ tsp. garlic salt; ½ tsp. oregano; 16 slices process cheese (this is one pound); 16 slices of ½-inch bread; 16 slices side bacon; ¾ cup finely grated Cheddar cheese or ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese.

Combine tomato paste, pepper, garlic salt and oregano. Toast one side of the bread under broiler. Arrange slices, toasted side down, in shallow baking pan. Cover each piece with a slice of cheese, spread with 2 tsps. tomato paste mixture, cover with one strip of bacon cut into three pieces, then sprinkle with about 2 tsps. Cheddar cheese or ½ tsp. Parmesan.

Quickly Cooked

Place under broiler so that the tops are 7 inches from broiling unit and cook until bacon begins to crisp, about five minutes. Yields 16 single or eight double servings.

Humburg buns can be substituted for the bread. Do not toast the buns but otherwise follow the directions. The cheese slices should be trimmed to fit the curve of the bun.

Chili sauce is also a suitable substitute for the first three ingredients. Combine ¾ cup chili sauce with oregano and then proceed as directed.

Women and Pigs

Women and pigs don't seem like a fair exchange to use but they do to the Chimbu tribe, a primitive people of New Guinea. Much of the payment for a wife is in pigs.

That's why the women prefer to marry a man who already has a wife or wives. The man usually has many pigs and is regarded as wealthy.

"Most Chimbu women feel that they would rather be the fourth wife of a wealthy man than the only wife of a poor bachelor," explains H. S. Pegg, who has led many patrols among the Chimbu people.

The women's desire for wealth and prestige has driven many young men from their inland homes to plantations where they work as laborers. When they save enough money they return to their homes and buy a wife.

Divorce is common and the children remain with their father regardless of which parent seeks the divorce. If the woman seeks a divorce, the husband is entitled to a refund of his purchase price. However, if the man wants the divorce, he gets back only part, and the amount decreases for each year of the marriage.

How do you arrive at hives?

"Acid" has nothing to do with hives, according to Health Magazine. A so-called "acid condition" doesn't mean a thing, except in folk-lore, and there is little to be gained by trying to neutralize it, except in the case of indigestion.

In gastric ulcers and gastritis, the natural acid of gastric juice irritates the stomach lining, and alkali, such as chalk, baking soda, aluminum hydroxide (sold under various trade names) may bring relief by neutralizing this acid.

Hives are caused by taking a food, or coming into some form of contact with a substance to which the person is allergic. Thus any food, particularly if eaten in large quantities for some time, may cause hives.

Bee stings, injections of vaccine (tetanus anti-toxin, for instance) and even a nervous upset, may cause them.

Treatment consists of identifying the cause and avoiding it.

Accent on apple juice

Keep a plentiful supply of apple juice in your kitchen and you'll find it will solve a lot of your cooking problems. Apple juice is easy to use, it lends itself to almost all types of food and its attractive flavor adds a welcome touch of variety to the most ordinary dish. And, of course, as a low-priced, high-vitamin breakfast drink it's unbeatable.

Pick up a few tins of tasty Quebec apple juice on your next trip to the supermarket. Then try these suggestions — and taste the difference:

— When boiling a ham, use five cups of apple juice as part of the liquid.

— If a recipe calls for wine you do not have or do not wish to use, replace by an equal quantity of apple juice and 1 tablespoon lemon juice to each cup of apple juice.

— Use apple juice instead of the water when you bake your next spice cake mix.

— Use apple juice instead of water when baking apples — it gives them a super flavor.

— When glazing a baked ham, baste with apple juice for a glossy tasty texture.

— Poach your summer fruits in apple juice for extra flavor.

— Brown pork chops, top each one with a thick slice of unpeeled apple, surround with a cup of apple juice for each 6 chops, cover and simmer 20 minutes. Wonderful!

GYPS AND GIMMICKS

When will housewives learn that they can buy magazines, water softeners and fire alarm systems from local merchants just as reasonably as from out-of-town salesmen, and that in doing so citizens can rest assured that their deals are legitimate and that local merchants stand behind their merchandise.

The Golden Age

— By Lewis Milligan —

According to classical mythology the history of man began with the Golden Age, a period of serenity, peace and eternal spring. This was followed by the Silver, the Bronze and Iron ages, which were alternately periods of luxury, strife, and injustice. Through all these latter ages man has been hoping and striving to get back to that primal Golden Age. And, up to date, the prospects are not very good in view of the costly preparations for another world war with even more devastating weapons than the last one.

But we could be nearer than we think to an age of peace and plenty. At least, we have the intelligence and wisdom derived from past experience, which should warn us and prevent us from repeating the folly of the last World War on a more fatal scale. Moreover, we have all the means and ingenuity acquired by scientific and industrial progress to provide a Golden Age of peace and plenty for all mankind. The only thing we lack for world peace is righteousness.

That word "righteousness" is the stumbling-block, not only to world peace, but to all peaceful relations, social and domestic. The trouble is that there are so many and various ideas or beliefs as to what is right. Religion itself, in some instances, is a dividing element, with the different standards of moral values. Rulers with no religion, as in Soviet Russia, observe no standards of right or wrong in international relations.

The present cold war was started by the refusal of Soviet Russia to abide by the mutually agreed terms of the Armistice at the close of the last Great War. The United Nations Organization was formed by a signed agreement of the Allies to secure world peace. Its first objective was to conclude a peace treaty with Germany and withdraw from the occupied countries in Europe. But Stalin stalled and, instead of demobilizing his armies, he reinforced them and put his military forces on a greater wartime basis, while the Western Nations were scrapping their fighting equipment in all departments.

Furthermore, the Soviet Union was intensifying its campaign for World Revolution. The civil war in China, which ceased in order to defeat the invasion of the Japanese, was revived by an invasion of Russian military organizers in support of the former rebels against the Chinese Republic. Every effort of the United Nations to secure peaceful settlement of international disputes was thwarted and vetoed by the Soviet delegates. They used that body and its councils as a platform for vilification of its Western members and for Communist propaganda.

There can be no world peace without righteousness; until the United Nations fulfils the Scripture: "Mercy and truth are met together; righteousness and peace have kissed each other."

OR JUST TICKLISH

(Paris France-Soir)

Dr. Damascene recommends that doctors tickle their patients. If their laugh is "ha-ha", they are phlegmatic. If it is "hay-hay", they are bilious. If it comes out "hee-hee", they are cold-blooded, while a "ho-ho" indicates that they are full-blooded . . . We might add that Damascene gave this advice in 1662.

Cattleman fined for pedigree fraud

An Ontario dairy farmer has been fined $50 and costs for a breach of the Livestock Pedigree Act, which is administered by the Canada Department of Agriculture.

O. E. Croxall of Port Perry pleaded guilty when he appeared before a magistrate in a Whitby court.

He was charged with falsifying an application involving the registration of Holstein cattle.

The case was heard March 24 this year.

Weed control in sweet corn

Ottawa — Annual broadleaved weeds such as pigweed and lamb's quarters can be controlled in sweet corn with 2,4-D amine applied at 8 ounces per acre when the corn is 2 to 4 inches high.

W. J. Saidak of the Plant Research Institute, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, claims that this is a very effective and economical treatment, if care is taken to keep the spray from drifting over nearby crops.

The 2,4-D amine may also be applied at 1¾ to 1¼ pounds per acre before the corn emerges except in the case of sandy soils where the treatment may injure the crop.

Where 2,4-D has been used for several years annual grasses such as foxtail and barnyard grass may be a problem. These can be controlled with simazin when applied at 2 pounds per acre on a smooth seedbed before the corn emerges. If the soil is dry after spraying, a light irrigation will usually improve the weed kill.

Atrazine, a chemical closely related to simazin, will be available this year on a trial basis only. This compound is used at the same rate and time as simazin and has equal weed-killing qualities but apparently atrazine does not require as much soil moisture to be effective. Both of these compounds are very persistent in soils, and should be applied in bands about 12 to 14 inches wide over the crop row to reduce the residues.

DRAMA SCHOOL

Summer hazards of cattle poisoning

Cases of accidental poisioning are not uncommon amongst cattle during the summertime. Those most frequently met with are as follows:

(a) Lead poisoning caused by paint licking;

(b) Nitrate poisoning due to the consumption of commercial fertilizer or of certain plants;

(c) Arsenic poisoning from certain insecticides (arsenate of lead, arsenate of copper, etc.);

(d) Poisoning due to the eating of the bracken fern by cows grazing in woodlands during hot, dry summers;

(e) Poisoning by tobacco, especially pipe tobacco, when it begins to dry;

(f) Poisoning due to the eating of too much sweet corn;

(g) Poisoning due to the consumption of too large a quantity of sugar beet tops.

Poisoning of cattle confined in the barn is comparatively rare, though it is well to remember they may be poisoned by mouldy sweet clover or by grain which has been allowed to heat or become musty.

In general, cases of poisoning are characterized by the suddenness of their onset and by evident symptoms of nervous and digestive disorders which call for early treatment by a veterinarian.

When an owner finds some of his cattle dead, however, he should not immediately jump to the conclusion that they have been poisoned; lightning and certain contagious diseases may also cause sudden death. The veterinarian is able to make a discriminating diagnosis of the trouble and to indicate what measures should be taken to prevent a repetition of such deaths. Dr. Emile Poitras, of the Veterinary School at St. Hyacinthe, believes that a word to the wise is enough and that the mere mention of these poisoning hazards, some of which are found on nearly all our farms, will be enough to put farmers on their guard against them.

SAFE FISHING

Once again the fishing season is in swing. It is timely therefore, to warn those engaging in this popular and healthful sport to observe the usual safety rules and to be in possesion of the customary first-aid equipment.

Careful handling, digging potatoes

New potatoes should be given the "kid glove" treatment, advises L. F. Ounsworth of the Harrow, Ont., Research Station.

A delicacy in early summer, new potatoes are eagerly sought by consumers. Excessive skinning and bruising, however, will discourage sales.

Injury to the delicate, soft-skinned tubers can be avoided by adjusting the speed of the digger and by adding rubber shields to its links. At the same time, care should be taken in grading, packaging, shipping and retailing.

Old potatoes are competing strongly in summer with new ones, owing to the use of sprout inhibitors and improved storage. Furthermore, packaged potato products, such as granules, flakes and chips, vie for their share of the shopper's dollar.

Mr. Ounsworth warns that if early potatoes are to continue to find a ready market, they must be dug slowly, packed directly from the mechanical picker into rigid containers, and given the gentle care of an extremely perishable product until they reach the consumer's table.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Some distaff drivers regard travelling alone or with other women as "spinsterhood of the highway". They are prey to fears and doubts about their ability to cope with emergencies. This little phobia came to light in a recent survey of women motorists conducted by my company, Shell Oil.

Yet, despite this uncertainty on the part of a few — the popularity of one-woman or several-women vacation trips by car is growing by leaps and bounds. In the course of my own extensive travels, either alone or with other women, I have learned a number of ways to dispel distaff difficulties.

The first and most important rule for the woman traveller is to have confidence in herself and her own ability to make all necessary arrangements en route. Next, she should be sure that her car is put in perfect condition before she leaves. For example, the carburetor should be adjusted if the trip is to include mountain driving.

Also, the fear of boredom seems to figure in the lone woman's concept of car travel. Good boredom-relievers for the woman who wants to "leave alone and like it" are listening to the radio, observing changes in the landscape or noting different styles of architecture. But never pick up hitch-hikers, no matter how harmless they may look!

Avoid driving late at night over lonely stretches of road. Stay on the safe side by stopping for the night about 4 or 5 o'clock. This also will help you avoid fatigue and drowsiness. Always stay at well-recognized and respected lodgings.

Several women travelling together can eliminate financial frustration by having a car "kitty". Each woman puts a certain amount into the "kitty" to defray each day's expense, and one member of the group is selected to be bookkeeper. You'll find identification cards and travellers' cheques highly useful, while your driver's license and ownership permit are "musts" on any trip.

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

Com. President B. A. Jenkins and Com. J. O. Martel report that a very successful Polio Clinic was held in the district on Thursday, May 19. In the afternoon Com. Martel and the clinic staff visited Arundel and Huberdeau, where 129 and 85 persons attended, respectively. In the evening 196 from the Lachute-Brownsburg area took advantage of the opportunity of Polio prevention. While the number who attended was quite satisfactory, especially in the Arundel-Huberdeau area, it would appear that more folk from our own vicinity should have taken advantage of this excellent chance of safeguarding themselves against this dreaded disease that can cut down the unprepared so quickly. The clinic for the second shot in this series will be held on June 23.

At the general meeting of Wednesday, May 18, Harry Skinner was initiated into the branch by Com. Fred Pring. There are also four applications on file for membership in the near future. Com. A donation of $100 to assist in the operation and maintenence of Vetville was approved by the branch. The budget for the Sports and Entertainment Committee was also approved by the floor.

It was reported that Com. Ray Holmes was in sick bay. We trust that he will be back home and in good health before too long.

Please note the change in the date for the closing Teen Age dance, from Friday evening to Saturday evening, May 28. However, Com. Doug Ogilivy reports that the plans for the evening's entertainment will remain the same. Family groups, music for all, starting time 7.30 p.m.

a working committee in the province that should be able to do something. I have heard that dozens of requests for help in this matter have already been received. I wonder if the City Fathers have seen fit to do anything about this? (No bets.)

This isn't only a local problem, but one that covers the whole world. The Ohio River has just been given the treatment, covering a period of ten years, they now have sport fishing in the river, so not only does it pay off in health results, but also in pleasure and entertainment. Just ten years ago, the Ohio had only 1% of the towns and villages with sewage disposal along its length. Today it has 95%, and hopes of 100% in the very near future. This has no doubt cost millions, but it seems to have been a very cheap price to pay for what they have received.

The wanton destruction of all our natural resources for years and years, will take a long time to bring back, but if we all work at it even in the smallest way, it will come. Even the woodlands are making news. We all know the Birch trees around this area contacted the die-back disease, thus wiping out most of the growth. The Sugar Maple have now contacted this same disease. So far, it is not known what actually causes this killing of trees, but the amount of study being given to it, gives hope of an early solution. It's pretty hard for us, the average being, to think of men devoting their lives to the study and care of all of nature's GOOD things with not much chance of recognition from us!

Now for some notes on fishing equipment. I mentioned before, a fly line that was supposedly unsinkable. I had a call on this, the same thing happened — this person had the same experience. In this case though, it was fished about four hours before it started to sink. As they had no spare line and no dressing, the fishing had to be postponed just when it was starting to pay off. It's too bad that manufacturers will make these false claims on their equipment. I guess the only thing for us to do is take what they say, forget about it, then maybe we won't be disappointed.

This not only applies to lines of the fly class, but even to the monofilament. I saw one last week that was a nice shade of green, but that is about all I could say for it.

As you remember, I mentioned the new spun-glass fly rods that were now on the market. Very good for the part-time fly man, excellent in action, etc. I used one last week that was supposedly the new type. At least, it had been sold as such. Unfortunately it was not with the result that money has been wasted. It would make a good bait rod, but it is no fly rod. I'm not blaming the manufacturers for this, though; that belongs to the dealer who sold it as a new type. Too bad.

Last word — just got a tip, worth stressing. Might be a good idea for the Wardens to take another look at Louisa, for the minnows being used. This also applies to St. Michel, where it is being carried on in a big way. Even to the point of selling them right there.

UNBROKEN LEADERSHIP

The best of the past, and the present for the future – that is the administrative theme of the National Union on the eve of another provincial general election.

Quebec's highly-successful policies of autonomy and expanding economy lead onward and upward unbroken under three great leaders.

As always, each citizen shares in the brilliant future, based on effective guarantees of the National Union that leave no room for doubt in the minds of the electors on June 22nd.

Here the 'big 3' of the National Union are caught by the camera in Ottawa — officially representing the province at an intergovernmental conference where they stood, shoulder to shoulder, defending the constitutional rights of Quebec, and of every other Canadian Province.

At the time no one suspected for a moment that the Honourable Maurice Duplessis, premier of Quebec and leader of the National Union, had with him a pair of ministers who in such short time would be called upon to succeed him in the two posts, and to take up the fight for provincial rights, liberties and prerogatives as well as for administrative autonomy and provincial sovereignty . . . so essential to the progress and development of every province, and of Quebec in particular.

Diary of a Vagabond

BY DOROTHY BARKER

There are two supreme moments in every journey. One is when a Red Cap deposits your luggage in one of those ultra modern train compartments and you experience a delightful sensation of adventure as the train starts to slowly pull away from the platform. The other is that most exciting moment when you step down at the railroad station on your return, expecting to be met by the entire family.

I walked down the long ramp into the marble vaulted foyer at Toronto, scanned the long brass rail (draped solidly with gesticulating strangers) which separates friends and relatives from incoming passengers, but I couldn't spot a single familiar face.

There is a helpless feeling about being stranded in a railway station with luggage, a portable typewriter, fur jacket and an armful of paperback novels and magazines. Especially when there has been an unexpected rise in temperature and there is barely enough change in hand to make a telephone call. Somewhere along the route I had cashed my last traveler's cheque for meals.

I am sure that being stranded on a desert island couldn't present any more problems than I seemed to face that sunny Monday morning. I went over in my mind a dozen times the wording of my telegram announcing my return. I am meticulous about such matters. I was sure I had not made any mistake in time or place.

As women do, I began to think of all the disastrous things that could have happened to delay the family. Were the children ill? Had the house burned down? Maybe the car wouldn't start.

There was only one thing to do. Sit it out and if I were really abandoned, I could call the home town taxi, where my credit is good.

I deposited my perspiring self, my train case, typewriter, jacket and magazines on one of those long, shiny oak benches familiar to all travelers and resigned myself to wait patiently until rescued.

I decided that if one must be deserted a good spot to choose is a station. They are wonderful places of amusement and can provide such a vivid cross section of humanity that time seems suspended.

I watched the shop girls and young stenos arriving by commuter trains, each with a huge purse and a small paper bag. The latter, I decided, contained lunch. With bored-looking youths, they headed for the subway tunnel in hurrying droves. A plump roly-poly sort of woman bought a cup of coffee and a true romance magazine at the coffee bar and sat beside me while she nibbled a doughnut and devoured a torrid tale of romance. This was obviously her regular breakfast diet and was consumed with apparent relish amid the noise and confusion of several thousand footsteps.

A small hand tugged at my skirt and a little fellow in old-fashioned knickers and a peak cap pointed to a contraption at the end of the bench. In a volume of chatter that sounded like a mixture of Pidgin English and a string of Latin verbs he made me understand he wanted to experiment with the machine that challenges passersby to try their driving skill. I deposited a dime and he was away. Not once but twice, on a wild ride that lit up all the red lights and registered "reckless driver". I was about to drop my last means of telephone communication into the machine's slot when an army of immigrants, laden with carpet bags and armfuls of bambinos rescued me from my folly. They swept the youngster away just as they were enthusiastically greeted by what appeared to be the entire Italian population of Toronto.

While I was contemplating my last ten-cent piece and wondering whether I should gamble on my rescue and spend it on a cup of coffee, I heard the shrill welcome of the three bairns. Susan was waving her latest art creation, a horse being kissed by a butterfly and looking more like a prehistoric mastodon; Janet hugging a limp, furless stuffed kitten; and ricky, bored but reserved as any ten-year old boy would be who was devoting a precious hour of midseason holidays to meeting a vagabonding relative.

Catching up with them was their literally sweating father. He tried to explain in a breathless way how confusing daylight saving time can be in the first hours of its inauguration. He confessed he had turned all the clocks back instead of forward. Good thing trains run on standard time or I might have been really discouraged by another hour's wait.

FAR EAST COMES TO CAMP BORDEN

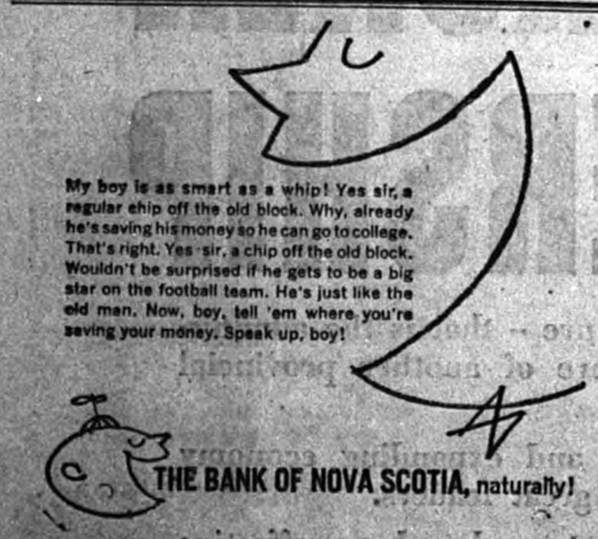

A little bit of Japan has come to Camp Borden, Ontario, where Mrs. James Bradley parades with her daughter Irene, four, in gifts sent to them from Japan. Mrs. Bradley is one of six Japanese wives of Canadian soldiers who have been posted to the base. Most of the Japanese wives now speak English fluently and several have children attending school at the camp. All six are married to Korean war veterans.

DREAM GIRL

Cooking, the proverbial way to a man's heart, was way down in ninth place.
