Geoffrion, NHL star, here for Legion hockey banquet

A great treat for young and old was enjoyed last Thursday, when the famed Canadiens hockey player, Boom-Boom Geoffrion, paid a visit to Lachute. The occasion was the father-and-son banquet honoring the Pee-Wee and Bantam hockey teams, sponsored by Branch 70 of the Canadian Legion.

After an excellent dinner, provided by the Legion Auxiliary, President Jos. Martel introduced those at the head table and extended a hearty welcome to all present. Addressing the audience and introducing the guest speaker, he said in part:

"In the past three years Lachute Branch 70 has embarked on a Youth Program in a large measure. In doing so, not only have we the youth of today in mind, but are taking the long range view also. In due course, increased membership in the Legion will cease, older members will be answering the call beyond . . . we do not wish another war to replenish our ranks. We will have to depend on youngsters such as these here tonight to be the Legionnaires of tomorrow, in order to carry on the good work started by their grandfathers and increased and enlarged by their fathers.

"Our effort towards youth is to teach them the basic fundamentals of the sport they are engaged in; to develop physical fitness; to instill in them the sense of sportsmanship, fair play and the will to win . . . and if such be not the case, the art of losing gracefully."

"For performances above and beyond the call of duty, the Services have the Victoria Cross, civilians, the George Cross. If sports had a Victoria or a George Cross, the 1960 recipient would, without a doubt, be our guest tonight, Bernard 'Boom-Boom' Geoffrion. . . .

"We all know the story. Himself, culminating a brilliant season, scoring 50 goals, winning the league scoring title, and leading his team to first place in the standings and into the playoffs. Unfortunately he was injured, and with the loss of their main scoring threat, Canadiens failed to outlast the first round of the playoffs.

"But what sticks in mind is the determination and raw courage displayed by Geoffrion in that final game. Leg in a cast, in pain, hobbling — he discarded his cast and attempted to take his regular ice shift. Obviously, only a man dedicated to the game, loving the game, knowing how much his presence would mean to his teammates, he threw adversity and danger of re-injury to the four winds and dressed to play. — Truly, it can be said 'he played the game'."

With keen attention the young hockeyists listened to their "idol" while he gave them good advice on

Student to Ottawa for 'Adventure in Citizenship'

Brenda McGibbon, Brownsburg High School student, will take part next week in "Adventure in Citizenship", featuring four concentrated days in Canada's capital, May 8-11, learning how the nation is governed.

A group of 194 selected students from throughout the country will participate in this project, which is sponsored by the Rotary Club of Ottawa. Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary has looked after transportation and registration expenses. About two-thirds of the Canadian Rotary Clubs responded to the invitation to send a leading "all round" student for the Adventure.

Once in Ottawa, the boys and girls will see the procession for the Opening of Parliament on May 9, and later tour the Parliament Buildings, where they will receive Canadian Citizenship Certificates from Hon. Ellen Fairclough, Minister of Citizenship and Immigration. Other visits will include Government House (Governor-General Vanier's residence), the National Gallery, and a detailed tour of the R.C.M.P. barracks and crime laboratories. Students will attend a series of lectures on government and political science at Carleton University, and be shown both the present and future National Capital by the National Capital Commission.

Students were selected on the basis of scholastic standing, participation in school activities, and ability in public speaking. After their "Adventure in Citizenship" at Ottawa, they are scheduled to describe their impressions to home-town audiences.

Named chief of Bar association

(Mayor) Fernand Legault, Q.C. was elected batonnier of the Laurentian Bar at its meeting held at Joliette on May 1. This group of barristers includes those in the judicial districts of Joliette, Terrebonne and Labelle.

Trip to Ghana described to club by local townsman

Leopold Carrière, local citizen, was the guest speaker at last week's meeting of the Rotary Club, when he gave a very interesting and amusing address about the recent trip he and Bob Marcil made to Ghana, Africa, where his son, Daniel, is employed in the lumber business.

Ghana is a small country consisting of about 92,000 square miles, and has a population of about six million people. It is comparatively flat country, without any mountains and no desert areas. It is rich in natural resources. Among the minerals which are mined are gold, to the extent of about $27,000,000 annually; manganese, $24,000,000; and about 600 tons of bauxite is exported annually. It is also rich in forestry products, and exports millions of feet of choice hardwoods each year. Another commodity which is exported in great quantities is cacao, which is widely produced throughout that country. Fishing is also important, and employs about 50,000 men.

As in many African countries, labor is cheap and women do most of the work. Mr. Carrière said that where men are employed, such as in the sawmill, there would be three or four times as many employees as would be employed in a similar mill in this country. He also said that wives are bought for "an amount of money and so many head of stock", and that, in some instances when the wife was found to be unsatisfactory, she was returned and a credit was obtained! Polygamy is prevalent in many parts of the country, and whereas efforts were made to stamp out this practice by legislation, it was found that the women members of parliament were the ones who objected the most strongly.

English is the official language, and English currency is used. Whereas considerable progress has been made in recent years in education and public health, there is still much to be done.

Following the address, Mr. Carrière showed some moving pictures and a series of colored slides of the various parts of the country which they visited. These proved very interesting, and everyone thoroughly enjoyed the meeting.

Stiff sentences in cases of fraudulent unemployed claims

Three men and one girl of Lachute and Ayersville recently appeared before Judge Omer Coté at St. Jerome to enter plea on being accused of having drawn Unemployment Insurance benefit under false pretences whilst they were employed. All pleaded guilty to the offences as charged.

Taking into account the increasing number of persons charged with offences of this kind, Judge Coté showed severity in imposing sentences.

Each accused is obliged to reimburse to the Unemployment Insurance Fund the amount which he received under false representation, plus the fine and court costs levied.

The first to appear stated that he and his friend had agreed not to report the salary earned, believing that it would never become known and that they could make themselves a sizeable revenue in this way. The judge sentenced him to $125 fine or 39 days imprisonment in default of payment of the fine for having made false declarations on four separate occasions. His friend, who was appearing before the same judge for the third time within a year for various offences, received a $250 fine or 79 days in jail.

The girl received a $225 fine or 72 days imprisonment when she stated that it suited her to continue declaring herself as unemployed after she had started to work for a local employer. She made it a point to ask for Wednesday mornings off to attend to personal business whilst in reality it was to report to the Unemployment Insurance office to report herself as unemployed because she claimed her salary was not sufficient.

The fourth accused did not receive the sympathy of the judge inasmuch as this was his second similar offence and a fine of $100 was imposed for having made three separate false declarations and in default of paying the fine he will have to serve 31 days in jail.

It is evident that the court wished to make an example of these four convictions in that the first is condemned to reimburse $84 to the U.I.C. plus $125 fine and court costs; the second must reimburse $284 plus $250 fine, the third $152 plus $225 fine, and the fourth $44 plus $100, all with additional court costs. . . . The four accused must also personally defray the cost of their defence counsel.

Police radar speed detector on patrol car

Radar speed-detecting equipment was installed last week in the Lachute police emergency vehicle-patrol car, following the approval by Council of a lease-purchase agreement for a six-month period. In the event Council decides to purchase the unit, the $110 a month rental will be deducted from the $1,500 purchase price.

According to Police Chief A. J. Whiteway, the unit is highly recommended and is accepted by all courts of the province. It is identical to those used on the Laurentian Autoroute. The unit is expected to curtail patrol-car chasing by approximately 75%.

The radar detector is effective when the car is in motion, and is accurate within 2 m.p.h. at a speed of 100 m.p.h. It cannot be put out of operation by tinfoil, flashing lights or a dragging chain, as some people believe.

Infant suffocation

David Batty, seven-weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Batty, of Morin Heights, was found dead in his crib on April 24. A coroner's verdict of accidental death due to suffocation was rendered.

Winners in Lions' prize drawing at ladies' night

Seven out of ten subscribers winning prizes in the annual Lions Club cash drawing were residents of Lachute. The climax of this drawing provided a highlight in the program last Saturday at the club ladies' night, fashion show and dance, which drew an enthusiastic attendance at the Golf Club chalet.

Mayor (Lion) Fernand Legault drew the winning ticket, No. 287, which was held by Elmer Bazinet, Brownsburg Road resident, who was the lucky winner of $1,000. Other prizes were won as follows:

3rd, $250 — E. Leger, Lachute.
4th, $100 — W. D. Laflamme, Hull.
5th, $100 — Ross Dineen, Pierrefonds.
6th, $100 — Laurent Lamarche, Lachute.

Immediately following these proceedings, an additional ticket was drawn by Mr. Irving, director of the sport fashion parade held in connection with this event. The prize was a ladies' jacket make of Ayers blanket material, an exhibit in the fashion show donated by Mr. Irving. The winner was Raymond Laurin, of Lachute.

Detective assistant assigned to Lachute

Quebec Provincial Police Detective Jean Claude Légaré, the only survivor of a single-engine plane crash in which two fellow police officers and the pilot were killed last September, has been transferred to Lachute to act as assistant to Sgt.-Det. Aimé Bertrand. Det. Légaré has been in Lachute for the past two weeks.

A resident of St. Michel de Wentworth, Det. Légaré was a former traffic officer, working in St. Canut with the St. Jerome detachment for six years. He was promoted to the detective force in the winter of 1959.

At the time of his accident at Rupert Lake, 170 miles north of Montreal, the police officers were investigating reported thefts. Det. Légaré was carried more than four miles through the bush on a stretcher, and has only recently recovered sufficiently to resume his duties.

Rally launches 14th annual Community Concerts drive

A rally of Community Concert directors and workers, at the Golf Club chalet on Monday evening, launched the 14th annual campaign for memberships. The reunion, chaired by Mrs. Fernand Legault, president, was attended by almost 40 campaigners from Lachute, Brownsburg, St. Andrews, St. Eustache and Hawkesbury. There was an optimistic outlook for an increase over last year's enrolment, which numbered between 450 and 475 members.

The president introduced Mr. Pierre Emond, Eastern Canada representative for Columbia Artists, who is here to assist with the week-long solicitation for memberships. The joint campaign chairmen, Miss Juliette Rodrigue and Mrs. G. R. Rigby, and the secretary, Mr. Jacques Bedard, also spoke briefly on campaign procedures. The initial returns, from a preliminary canvass among former subscribers, proved very encouraging.

Campaign headquarters are at the new office of Deslauriers & Marcil Inc., 498 Main Street (LO 2-5291), where the chairmen and organizers will be in touch with canvassers throughout the current week.

Parks engineer is speaker at Richelieu Club

Paul Laliberté, civil engineer well known in these parts, was speaker at the Richelieu Club last week on a topic of particular interest to the local membership. Mr. Laliberté, who is in the employ of the Montreal City Parks Department, spoke on the value and necessity of public playgrounds.

The speaker said it was the responsibility — (1) of the Federal authorities to establish national parks; (2) of the provincial authorities to maintain camping and roadside picnic spots; and (3) of the municipal corporations to provide recreation sites and playgrounds. Nevertheless, he said, in many places it is private enterprise, service clubs or committees, which take the initiative in these local needs.

A park, to fill its adequate purpose, should be a sports ground for children, juveniles and all ages, and a pleasant haven where mothers can watch their children at play. The speaker commended the Richelieu Club on its activity in providing a local playground, and urged the group to pursue this fine ideal.

Jean-Paul Roy introduced the speaker, and Arthur Lafrance extended a vote of thanks. Marcel Decary presented the impromptu speech of the evening, and President Yvanhoe Chevrier chaired the proceedings.

Roger Lagarde, committeeman and legal advisor, informed the members that a contract for construction of the swimming pool had been signed with the firm of Val-Mar, also that the club had acquired the remainder of Mr. Paquin's land, while agreeing to his use of this property as long as he might require. Work on the swimming pool will start May 20.

Store break-in, thefts at camps

Merchandise reportedly valued around $3,000 was stolen from the Bertrand Ladouceur general store in St. Andrews East Monday night — the theft being discovered by the owner and reported to Sgt.-Det. Aimé Bertrand on Tuesday morning.

Sgt. Jean Claude Légaré and Traffic Officer Gilles Lavigne investigated. They reported the thieves had broken the lock on the door and apparently helped themselves. No money was reported missing.

Sgt.-Det. Bertrand reported several camps in the Pte.-au-Chene area had been entered, and appliances stolen. These and other minor break-ins to summer properties in the County are under investigation.

Building and settling in -- humor and reality

Sept Iles, Friday, April 21 —

Once more from the never-never land — or so it is said. It certainly has applied, this past couple of days. Very cold in the morning and rising to the near-50 by late afternoon. The natural result is one big swamp. Don't get me wrong, there is still lots of snow around, but some spots are cleared of all traces. Even walking on the snow though, is just like navigating a bog. Pulling your feet out, sounds just like a cow in mud, and it is tough going. Walk a mile of this, and you've had it.

This is a story I must pass on to you. . . . We have a Chef in the camp who hails from the sunny side of France. He has been out in Canada for six years but has never seen anything like this. He brought his radio along, never thinking there was no electricity around to run it. He came in wearing low shoes, with small tip-rubbers on. On getting to Seven Islands he was all set to go back whence he had come. But after a little persuasion, and a new outfit, he decided to stay. (For that we sure are glad. Boy, the meals!) Anyway, yesterday he baked some pies and put them out to cool. It wasn't until they were out some time that he noticed the jays having a wonderful feed on the pies. Man, did he scream! Every bird in the country is in danger of being killed by him at any time. Now I sure understand an Excitable Frenchman. This one is a dilly. Then, to top it all off, this morning the kitchen door was left open — so one squirrel and two jays came in. I thought for sure the Chef was going to have a stroke. Right now he is all set to go back to France!

A small raft of geese landed during the night. The ice has melted a lot on the lake, and they may decide to stay on the open water. How the feed situation is I don't know; they do seem to be getting something. Otter can be seen almost anywhere you look. And we saw three cariboo yesterday morning walking over the ice; they evidently detected the ice was unsafe, as they turned around and went back to the shore. The country seems to abound in game of all kinds, except hares or rabbits, not one has been seen. The Arctic hare makes his home in this country, but up to now I haven't seen one.

We were down at the narrows this afternoon watching the water run into the river. Believe this or not, there were dozens of ouananiche swimming up. Just like salmon on their spawning run. Truly a sight to see. I went and got my fly rod to see what would happen, and on the very first cast hooked and released one about 2 lbs. As a matter of fact, I put on a nymph with the hook broken off, and could have taken at least a dozen of these fish. The season opens on May 15 and believe me, this water is going to get a going-over. I know it sounds like a story, but with the sun shining on the surface, all that could be seen was the silver gleam of these wonderful fish as they flashed through the water.

Last night, no one got much sleep in the camp. A couple of hoot owls nested right beside the place, and the racket they made was terrific. Even Goldie got in the chorus by barking at them.

The new cabins are going ahead very fast now. The logs are all being peeled and that sure looks like a dirty job; some of the fellows doing it are covered with spruce gum, which turns black after a short time. These fellows haven't shaved since they came up, and are not going to until the job is done, so you can imagine what they look like. Scare you out of a year's growth on a dark night!

* * *

Saturday — Boy, are we happy, everyone is on peeling logs! A weather report indicates a disturbance due late Monday. No chances are being taken on a sudden storm to hold up the building. Even Edith got a drawknife. She got about 10 feet of one log peeled, and even that is a big help. By supper time everyone was covered with spruce gum, and it sure was dirty.

I was fortunate in getting down to the narrows tonight and seeing ouananiche running up into the lake. How these things can go! And you should have seen them rising to the ice-fly. As many as six rises at once; they really weren't rises as these are usually described, but rather a breaking the surface without clearing the water. In other words, a bulge, such as I have told you about in trout fishing. A good number of geese and ducks were also seen. The geese were the Canada variety and the ducks were the Northern Black. Not very scared of us, either.

An R.C.M.P. Beaver aircraft came over the camp early this morning, but did not drop in for a cup of coffee. I almost forgot to tell you about the planes; we see more planes in this district than the average person will see in Montreal. Right from the Otter, a small type, up to the Giant in the jet line. Of course, a lot of these planes are commercial jobs, flying in supplies to outposts and so forth. It's hard to realize just how these outposts got their supplies before the advent of these commercial aircraft, by dog and canoe transport.

* * *

Sunday — The weather got in just a little faster than was expected — snow and driving rain all today. Just in case a real snowstorm developed we all peeled logs today. What a job. I guess I just wasn't cut out to be a woodsman. But this crew that is in building the lodge and cabins, they sure are special at this kind of thing. By the time I got one log peeled, they were on their third. They may not have much use for razors, but they sure can handle the drawknives. Some of the beards seen around are very picturesque. A real motley crew. But they are great workers — never stop except to light up another smoke, which is sometimes difficult with whiskers and everything.

* * *

Monday — Rain and snow today, but the logs have to be put up. The completion date on the bigger lodge is now eight days, and believe me, these boys will have to work. However, all seem to think they will have it logged before then.

A terrific flock of black ducks went over this afternoon. Not since the days of Main Duck Island have I seen so many. About 500 I would say. The geese are still around, so they must be the vanguard of the main flock that will nest in this area. It should not be very long before the others are here.

One of the boats has just been dragged over the ice and the loggers are taking it up the narrow channel to haul down the logs they have cut. They think it will be easier than hauling over the snow and ice. These men are sure a hardy breed.

One more item on the Chef. He made jello for the boys at supper, and then put it outside to cool. . . . Ever see a bird take a bath in jello? Yep, that's what happened. I think everyone had to stop what they were doing to see the antics that went on. A grown man chasing after a small bird that couldn't fly because its wings were glued together! I think I'll remember that night to my last days.

(A footnote to Mr. Pollock: Your rod tip will be along just as soon as there is a break in this business.)

how to play and how to win. One of the first essentials, he said, was to "get a good education", and not neglect studies for play. Another point stressed, and a very important one, was to "always be a good sport." "Listen to your coach and referees," he said, "and practise discipline, for it is the most important thing in hockey."

He mentioned that teamwork was very essential, and that no matter how successful you were in scoring you must help your team-mates. He warned boys not to be discouraged if they didn't make the team, but to always be prepared and ready to play if and when needed.

Referring to the recent loss of the Stanley Cup, Boom-Boom Geoffrion said that the Canadiens as a team had been too complacent, and were "not hungry enough". Good players had been given to their opponents, with drastic results, in that they won the finals.

Appreciation was expressed to the speaker for his helpful address, and he was given a travelling rug as a memento of his visit.

Robin Hood Flour trophies were presented to Lorne MacDonald (Bantams) and Doug Jenkins (Pee-Wees), as the most valuable player on their respective teams.

Jackets and crests have been given to the players, and Dick Maidens, in presenting a gift to Coach Ernie Evans, spoke as folows:

"It is my privilege on behalf of the Pee-Wee and Bantam hockey teams, to thank the Legion for sponsoring us this past winter.

"We truly enjoyed ourselves, and also learned a great deal more about hockey.

"We would especially like to thank the Legion members, who made this league possible, and a special thanks to our coach, Ernie Evans, who has spent a great deal of his time coaching us. At times Mr. Evans has had to put up with a great deal, but through his hard work and good coaching, we have learned a great deal more about hockey and sportsmanship."

Mr. Leonard Bedard, distributor for Molson's Brewery, was thanked for his part in securing Mr. Geoffrion for this event.

The evening closed with a barrage of questions to Boom-Boom, all of which were answered cheerfully.

Lachute Golf and Country Club, Ladies Section

The Lachute Women's Section of the Golf Club was represented at the spring meeting of the Quebec Branch, Canadian Ladies' Golf Union, in Montreal recently by Mrs. R. Carriere, captain of the Match Committee, Mrs. G. Ayers, member of the C.L.G.W. Tournament Committee; Mrs. H. Watson, Junior chairman; and Mrs. M. E. Walker, publicity and assistant C-class captain.

The Ladies' Golf group were briefed on the new system of course rating which goes into effect this year. This is simply an evaluation in strokes of the playing difficulty of the course. Pars may be the same, but distances vary. In this way all courses in Canada and the British Isles will be evaluated the same.

Golf etiquette, and knowing the rule book, were stressed strongly. Also, the Junior development and expansion was thoroughly discussed.

On the whole, with many interesting C.L.G.W. tournaments being held (not to forget the one in Lachute in July) and the Provincial Championships at the Ottawa Hunt Club, it sounds like a promising year for golf. Best of luck to you all, and may we come home the victors this year!

Underhills, sister and brother, shine in season's sport

The Underhill family here has always been outstanding in athletics, and it is pleasing to note they are still competing and winning.

Miss Marilyn, who is a member of the St. Lambert junior basketball team, played in the recent Canadian Amateur Basketball Association games. Finals were held at St. Lambert, this team proving victors over Windsor. Mrs. R. Underhill attended the dinner honoring the occasion.

Kenny Underhill, now attending Bishop's University, has also received recognition, having been presented with a hockey award as the most valuable player during the past season.

Inter-school public speaking contest held entitled "How I Control My Family."

Next on the program were combined groups from Grades III and IV Choral Speaking. Brownsburg and Lachute High Schools were the only two entries. The Lachute group, trained by Miss Barbara Cowan, won this event.

Pupils from Grades VI and VII next competed in Public Speaking. The following took part — Barbara Vessie of Lachute, Gregory Thomas of Grenville, and Carolyn Summers of Brownsburg. The trophy was awarded to Gregory Thomas, for his illustrated speech entitled "Pins".

Fourth on the program were Choral Speaking groups from Grade V. Again Lachute and Brownsburg were the only two entries. The Lachute group, trained by Mrs. Evelyn Fraser, won this event for the fourth consecutive year.

The last event was the Grade X and XI Public Speaking. The only entry was Andrew Seary of Brownsburg, who is one of the most successful high school speakers from this County in recent years. His speech was entitled "The Crisis of Radio-Activity".

H.S. girls' choir ranked second in Music Festival

The Lachute High School girls' choir (32 voices) with their director Mrs. A. M. E. Rigby, and accompanist, Miss Juliette Rodrigue, went to Montreal last Saturday to take part in the Quebec Music Festival.

They competed in the class entitled "School Choirs, Open", and won second place with 88 marks. The choir feel that they have gained some valuable experience, and look forward to improving upon their achievement at their next attempt.

Sincere appreciation is due to Miss Rodrigue, who, at great personal inconvenience, attended with the choir to play the accompaniments.

Mme Rose Bampton, the well-known operatic and concert singer, was the adjudicator, and her remarks on the girls' performance were discerning and encouraging.

The director of this girls' group extends thanks to Principal Royal for his help and support in this new and difficult field of artistic endeavor.

THE SCENE Around Brownsburg

By M. E. Cowley

The Tower Corporation Limited (1961) was given the contract for the construction of the local curling rink. Final drawings have been completed, and construction is scheduled to begin by May 15. Total cost of the rink will probably be approximately $80,000.

* * *

The fire alarm to which the fire-fighting crew responded on Thurday evening involved a stove-pipe blaze at the Stone farm, on Brownsburg Road. The only real damage was that caused to Chief Ferne Brisson's nerves, in determining whether to run the fire truck over the wooden bridge and up the mud road leading to the house!

* * *

Signs of the times? . . . It is obvious that diseased elm trees should be cut down, as the town authorities have been doing, but maples and willows have also met the axe. If this is the first step in a street-widening program, there will be few objections; but if it is not —— !

* * *

Those eligible to vote in the May 15 municipal election are as follows: (1) Homeowners and their wives and children over 21 years of age; (2) The wage-earner in a family living in a rented dwelling.

To be eligible, the owner's name must have been on the 1960 tax evaluation roll, and tenants must have their name on the official voting list. If tenants' names are not on the list, the town secretary must be advised at least 10 days prior to the election.

An item worth hearing: the Argenteuil Choral Society's presentation of "The Holy City" — Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the Lachute United Church.

Association for Retarded Children

At a meeting of the Lachute Association for Retarded Children, held recently in the Legion Hall, Mr. G. Tattersfield was elected as president, Mrs. E. K. Wilson vice-president, and standing committees as they had been during the past year.

Finances were discussed, and a letter of appreciation is being sent to Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Clarke, who raised $125 at a taffy party to assist in the Association's work.

It was decided to proceed with the drawing (for which $50 had been donated, and further gifts including $20 as second prize, and a pure wool Ayers blanket as third). Tickets will be on sale shortly and the public are urged to give their support to this worthy cause. The drawing will take place at a Whist Party in the Lachute Legion Hall on May 30.

Mrs. Taylor and Mr. K. De Jersey, of Montreal, both of whom are keenly interested in the work of the Retarded Children's Associations, were present and gave short talks with helpful information on ways and means of successfully carrying on this work, and of bringing to attention of the public the necessity of maintaining a school for these handicapped children.

Further information on the progress of the local group will appear in The Watchman from time to time.

At $1695* this new model is the best value ever offered by Volkswagen

The new Volkswagen Custom Model is here. It looks just the same as the others, but you'll realize how much it's changed as soon as you put your foot on the accelerator.

There's a new, more powerful engine to get you off the mark faster. And get you past big trucks more safely. (Yet it uses no more gas than the old engine.)

You can slip into first gear on the move now, because all four are synchronized. (You'll appreciate this in traffic.)

There are a number of other improvements that may not be so readily apparent. Your dealer will enjoy pointing them out. (The greatly enlarged luggage space, front and rear, for instance.)

But in case you're wondering how we can improve the model and still sell it for such a low price let us reassure you. This is a complete car. The price includes spare wheel and tire, heater/defroster, tool kit, jack, windshield washer, 2 padded sun visors, directional signals, bumper over-riders, big 15" wheels and oversize tires.

When you've driven the new Custom Model, you won't want to spend money on any other car. You'll want to invest it in a Volkswagen.

This spring treat yourself to the best value ever offered by Volkswagen. See the new Custom Model at your dealer's now.

*Montreal Port of Entry. Price includes spare wheel and tire, heater/defroster, tool kit and jack, windshield washer, two padded sun visors, directional signals and bumper over-riders.

Late J. W. Bradford was long-time Cushing resident

Cushing residents deeply regret the passing of one of their long-time residents, Mr. John William Bradford, of Lachute. He and Mrs. Bradford had taken up residence there when their Cushing house was expropriated by Quebec Hydro, later sold by them, and demolished.

Mr. Bradford was born at Brittania Heights in Ottawa in 1875, the son of George Bradford and Elizabeth Thompson, who were at that time living in Ottawa and had the honor of having Bradford Street named for them.

John William Bradford, the name by which he was commonly known, passed away in the Royal Victoria Hospital on the evening of April 25, having been moved there from his home in Lachute on the afternoon of that day.

Funeral services were held from the MacKimmie Funeral Home on Thursday, and his remains were interred in Chute à Blondeau cemetery. The Rev. W. Bridge was the officiating minister, and the pallbearers were Mr. J. S. Smith, of Lachute, Mr. Stanley Donaldson, of Chatboro, Homer Gourley, of Hawkesbury Road, Ont., Allan T. Graham, of Cushing, Robert Morrow, of Monalea Road, and Cecil R. Graham, of Lachute.

Mr. Bradford was married in 1900 to the former Ida Hill of Chatboro from the home of the late Daniel Hill, Chatboro. Mrs. Bradford is left to mourn his loss, as well as two sisters, Mrs. T. Rourke (Cora) and Mrs. F. Rogers (Hilda), of Chilliwack, B.C. His daughter, Olga Winona, predeceased her father in 1932 in the Civic Hospital at Ottawa.

Mr. Bradford, a general favorite in Cushing because of his ready wit and jolly disposition, also his readiness to help where help was needed, retired from farming in 1952. He and his wife celebrated their diamond wedding on May 30 1960. . . . They spent a year in the West after their first Cushing home was destroyed by fire in 1906. This had formerly been the property of his aunt, (Edith) the late Mrs. Jas. McAllister of Chute à Blondeau, Ont.

The beautiful floral tributes bore silent testimony to his popularity. One of the special wreaths was from the Ladies' Association of St. Mungo's Church — the church that Mr. Bradford and his parents had attended in the past.

Among those noted attending from a distance were his niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Riley, of Morrisburg, Ont., and her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Nugent, of Ottawa.

To present cantata, 'The Holy City', on Sunday evening

The 50-voice choir of the Argenteuil Choral Society is presenting Gaul's cantata, "The Holy City", on Sunday evening in Lachute United Church. The performance will commence shortly after 8 o'clock, to give those from other churches the opportunity to attend. The choir director, Lowell B. Hopkins, will be at the organ console, and the following soloists will take part in the interpretation of this scriptural musical composition: Robert Haydon, tenor; Mrs. Leonard Armstrong, Mrs. Jas. Armour, and Mrs. L. B. Hopkins, contraltos; Mrs. Don Barbour, soprano; and Phil Bate, bass.

The performance takes slightly over an hour, and the president, Mrs. Mason Crosby of Brownsburg, and her officers extend an invitation to all who would like to attend. A collection will be taken to defray production expenses and music.

Spring concert by Lachute High School

All parents and friends are once again warmly welcomed to the annual Spring Concert at Lachute High School on Friday, May 12, at 8 p.m., when a varied program of songs and dances will be presented by the boys and girls of the school.

The choirs, both senior and junior, have prepared some delightful songs. A puppet show by Grades 3-A, 3-B and 3-C, and a play by Grades 1-A and 1-B are some of other attractions of the concert.

Proceeds will be applied to the choir music fund.

Cubs Active for Community

Our local Cubs have continued their good work by cleaning up yet another locality, the road leading from the station. They were supervised by Mr. Brewer, Mrs. Melvin Graham, and Mrs. MacCauley; the litter of papers and other trash was cleaned up. Our locality can now compare with the rest of the community. Citizens tender sincere thanks for these fruitful efforts, and hope the residents will co-operate in future.

Presbyterians win inter-Church bowling laurels

On Monday night, the season's bowling activities came to a close — the championship bowling play-off being held at St. Simeon's Anglican Church hall.

An enthusiastic group of supporters saw the church teams provide an exciting evening of bowling skill. The Presbyterian Church squads once again proved their worth by winning the contest, for the second year running. The final scores were as follows:

Anglican — 28 pts.

Jos. Sewell, president of St. Simeon's Bowling League, presented the silver trophy to the winners. The award was accepted by Ernest Gordon on behalf of the Presbyterian teams.

Mrs. W. Bridge, representing the United Church, congratulated the winners on their performance, and proposed a vote of thanks to the hosts of the evening for the tasty refreshments served. Also, many thanks are here expressed to all who supported and made this annual event a success — particularly The Lachute Watchman and staff.

2 Brownsb'g ladies receive Red Cross service badges

Brownsburg — Miss Mary Kilgour and Mrs. Herman Zimmer were honored, April 17, when a group of their friends, including a number from the Executive Board of the Brownsburg Red Cross, met in the United Church parlors to present them with the Badge of Service, an award from the Canadian Red Cross for faithfulness to that organization. The presentation was made by the Rev. Garfield Bruce and Mr. Larry Pressault, president of the local Red Cross Branch.

The past-president, Mrs. N. E. Smillie, gave a short address on Red Cross work from the beginning over 100 years ago, stating that the Red Cross flag was first flown in Canada in 1885, and in 1886 General George Sterling Ryerson organized the Red Cross in Canada as the first overseas branch of the British Red Cross in Canada. Many changes have taken place since then, but "we must never forget that we are a part of a great international voluntary organization — the International Red Cross; we should have a vision of a world in which men would consider themselves not as friends or enemies, but as brothers. May many more give of their time and talent for the good of this organization", Mrs. Smillie concluded.

Refreshments were served by the women of the church, and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

Local minister on 'Plain Talk' program

"Plain Talk", the 10-minute devotional discourse on Station CBM, Montreal, will feature a local clergyman, the Rev. Jas. Armour of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, all next week. The radio program is heard daily between 7.50 and 8 a.m.

Legion Auxiliary

The president, Mrs. W. Bradshaw, was in the chair. Reports and minutes were given by the secretary and treasurer. The meeting was mostly taken up with plans for the coming Provincial Convention, to be held the end of May.

The last military whist until the fall will be held on May 31.

Refreshments were served, hostesses for the evening being Mrs. A. J. Whiteway and Mrs. Howard Ward.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my sincere thanks for the lovely flowers, cards and gifts, also to the sisters and nurses for their many acts of kindness, during my stay in the Providence Hospital.

Community Concerts to the fore!

THE TIME IS at hand when people are refusing to live in communities without cultural facilities. In Lachute, we are fortunate in having public-spirited groups who give their time, without personal gain, for the promotion of art, literature, music, and those finer interests which round out the scope of community living. . . . This week, we bring to public attention the membership campaign of an organization which has contributed much in cultural enjoyment during the past years.

The Community Concert Plan was instituted at a time when great concerts were given up as a hopeless cause. The reason: The system for selling tickets at a box-office. The public demanded the most famous stars on the concert stage or they failed to show up at the box-office. The fees of these stars made necessary a large auditorium and a large population to draw from. Only in major cities could such a situation be met and concerts for smaller communities became impossible.

The Community Concerts Association conducts a one-week membership campaign, during which those interested in music of all kinds may join for the mutual benefit of all. This creates a closed Association and a fund in the bank with which to "buy" artists. There is no profit and no loss. The local committee selects the artists for the season, and democratically represents the whole membership. Thus both the desired "stars" and the desired music are obtained. Whether the program is a bargain or costly, the cost to each member is the same. Concerts have become an established institution under this plan in over a thousand communities of all sizes on this continent.

The Lachute organization has embarked upon its 14th annual campaign, with optimism inspired by an uptrend in its membership last year. It is hoped all present members will re-enroll, and many newcomers will join their ranks this year.

A chapter of gallantry

BATTLE OF THE ATLANTIC Sunday, in honor of those who served and gave their lives at sea in the Second World War, will be observed on May 7. . . . And, to our way of thinking, the battle of the convoys will ever remain one of the most memorable chapters of the last war.

Twenty years ago, in May, 1941, the first Canadian corvettes joined in the struggle with the U-boat. Seven of these little ships, each named after a Canadian community, arrived at St. John's Nfld., to form the vanguard of the Newfoundland Escort Force. They were HMC Ships Chambly, Orillia, Cobalt, Collingwood, Wetaskiwin, Agassiz and Alberni.

In September, the Chambly and the newly-commissioned corvette Moose Jaw sank U-501 off the coast of Greenland. This was the Royal Canadian Navy's first U-boat kill of the war. Nine days later, the first Canadian corvette fell prey to a U-boat, when, on September 19, HMCS Levis was torpedoed and sunk in the North Atlantic.

Throughout the grim days of 1941 and 1942, the corvette was the backbone of the North Atlantic convoy escort system. More than 100 of these small, uncomfortable, but highly-manoeuvrable ships eventually were built in Canada and manned by Canadian sailors. Eleven corvettes were lost during the war in the North Atlantic and Mediterranean.

The 1961 Census

A CENSUS of Canada has been taken every ten years since Confederation. The first was in 1871. The tenth, on June 1, 1961, will be the largest; it will count a population which is expected to be almost one-third greater than when the last decennial census was taken in 1951.

The 1961 Census will measure population, housing, agriculture and merchandising characteristics of Canada. Its uses are so varied that there is scarcely a phase of economic and social activity that cannot be related to it. It is of value to all levels of government, business, industry, labor, as well as those responsible for the administration of social welfare agencies, justice and education. The many facts which it is only possible to obtain through a census, will be used in reaching decisions that will make Canada an even better place in which to live.

While everyone is required by law to answer the questions put to him by the census taker, the success of the census does not rest on this legal requirement. It depends rather on a general appreciation of the purposes of the census, and the co-operation of everyone in answering census questions fully and accurately.

Censuses of the pre-Christian era and Middle Ages had limited purposes. They were little more than a means of mustering the fighting men for foreign wars, or of enabling kings to levy taxes. Canada has passed so far from this concept that the law now forbids the use of census information for any such purpose.

In Canada, the fundamental legal reason for taking the census, as set forth in the British North American Act, is to determine representation of provinces in the Federal House of Commons. The census presents a count of the population of each province so that an act may be passed by Parliament to adjust representation.

Another reason is that a number of federal payments to the provinces are based on population. The original payments granted under the British North America Act fall into this category, and the federal-provincial tax agreements of recent years are based partly on population.

The Lesson of Eichmann

THE MUCH-PUBLICIZED trial of Adolph Eichmann (says the Fort Erie Letter-Review) has naturally revived the bitterest memories for millions the world over, and, has naturally aroused considerable anti-German sentiment.

There is danger in localizing horror of the large-scale inhumanity practised by Eichmann and other Nazis. Israel is trying a symbol of inhumanity. (As for Eichmann himself, one is surprised that the Jewish people would even do him the honor of supposing him to be, or to have been, in his right mind!) There is danger in the easy assumption that the consummate evil of which Eichmann has become the symbol, belongs to a past associated with a defeated Germany.

In turning the public gaze back upon one of the greatest horrors of history, the trial removes attention from the horrors that are with us today. Man carries about with him the capacity for monstrous crimes. He needs no more than a fanatical obedience (verging on the insane), and a habit of seeing human beings as statistics. These factors have been present before Eichmann. Who was called to account for the merciless "liquidation" of the Russian kulaks? Who ever will be? Evil cannot, unfortunately, be localized in time and space, then shot in the person of an Eichmann.

The lesson of Eichmann will not be learned by public display, but his trial may help to remind the world that Eichmanns appear inevitably as the end-product of any ideological fanaticism operating in a totalitarian state.

THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

Friday, May 7, 1886 —

St. Andrews — Mr. Herbert Simpson, who is leaving for British Columbia, was tendered a banquet by his many friends.

The Odd Fellows' entertainment was a grand success. The Rev. Mr. Kines, Grand Master, gave an address and the music was under the able leadership of Bro. James Fish.

Wm. H. Chisholm visited Lachute last week, and while here, sold his property to Richard Hardy for $1400. Mr. Chisholm, since leaving Lachute, has been engaged in building the Caraquet Railway in N.B., in which he is a shareholder.

55 YEARS AGO

Friday, May 4, 1906 —

The annual exhibition of stallions was held on the Exhibition Grounds and was largely attended. Among the exhibitors were J. E. Arnold, of Grenville, T. Owens & Son, of Stonefield, Hay Bros., Jno. Walker, A. Elliott, Jas. McOuat, W. McOuat, E. Rochon, E. Bradford, J. Thibeault, J. Wood and S. Wilson.

Mr. Cliff, of the Presbyterian College, Montreal, is taking up his duties as assistant pastor in the Presbyterian Church for the summer months.

At Town Council it was moved by Councillor Lyster that sealed tenders be called for the lighting of the town with about 200 16-candle-power lights.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, May 7, 1936 —

There was a time when the section north of Main Street in centre ward was considered the poorer part of town. During the past few years a change has been evidenced; the slum elements have migrated to other parts of town. . . . In certain activities in the west end, the construction of dwellings under appalling conditions has been halted by the Sanitary Unit.

Parents attended a Boy Scout demonstration at the High School under the direction of Scoutmaster Chas. Duncan and Assistant Scoutmaster Geo. Leggett.

Mr. E. Lavigne, Foundry Street, announces that after May 9 his store will be permanently closed.

A former Montrealer was found criminally responsible in the death of Leon Leclair and Alfred Dudevoir, elderly residents of Namur, who were burned in their home. The body of Mrs. Dudevoir is missing.

Renewed efforts are being made to enforce the lighting of horse-drawn vehicles in this province after sundown.

Canadians are big spenders

— By C. J. Harris —

Trade figures just released by the United Nations draw an interesting picture of who has money to spend. The statistics are for imports of manufactured goods in the year 1958. As might be expected, Americans are the biggest buyers of foreign-made factory goods — a total of $4,769 million worth. But Canada, with one-tenth the U.S. population, is not far behind — $3,606 million. And on a per capita basis there is no comparison: $27 per capita for Americans, $212 per capita for Canadians.

Rather surprisingly, West Germany is in third place in total of such spending, $2,702 million. The United Kingdom is a close fourth, $2,544 million. In per capita terms the two are about even: $52 for the former, $49 for the latter. Japan, for all her 92 million population, spends very little with foreign factories: a total of $655 million or just $7 per capita. Japan, of course, could permit very limited imports of such goods. She needs her foreign credits to pay for the raw materials for her industries, and she must keep her own factories busy and expanding if she is to maintain employment.

And no doubt the fact that Canadians are such big foreign spenders is a factor in our own unemployment.

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

IS COMMUNISM A DEAD ISSUE?

On a trip through the U.S.A. my wife and I tried to get Americans talking politics with us so we could find out what the average man down there is thinking.

What startled us was this: virtually every American we talked with is worried about the inroads the communists have made during the past five or six years. They seem to have wormed their way into positions of importance in scores of organizations. Wherever there is a trouble spot, they are there to aggravate it and to frustrate a solution.

"They are smart," one old fellow told us. "You see, when McCarthyism became sort of bad medicine, the people got the idea that anybody who pointed out communist influence was being a witch hunter, or something. So they started to keep mum. That's given the commies a real chance to burrow right in. But they've overplayed their hands a bit and now people are catching on. I'd say most Americans right now have a sharp eye for spotting the old communist line that tries to belittle all the things that have built up the States."

Americans are growing more and more sensitive about criticism. When a restaurant owner asked me how I liked the States, I told him I was fond of it but disappointed that so few people knew where Winnipeg is, or anything much about Canada. He jumped right back at me. "If we know too much about a country, people think we've got designs on it; if we don't know about it, they say we're ignorant. We've given away great fortunes every year to other countries to try to help them. Lord, we don't want to do anything but build up our own country. We have accepted people in here from all over the world, made it easy for them to come here, and made them welcome. We have no designs on other countries. But the Russians have said openly they have designs on us . . . they don't make any bones about it. We've made something out of this country and we want to keep it that way — if the rest of the world would just leave us alone. — It seems to be a world-wide pastime — yakking at us!"

Back home, I've been thinking over these and other comments from Americans, and wondering, too, why we hear so little about communism in Canada these days. Is it really such a dead issue? Or are we, too, afraid of being called witch hunters?

Water Safety instructor courses by Red Cross

Two water safety instructors' courses will be given by the Canadian Red Cross prior to the long summer holiday, one at McGill University in May, and the second at Lac Trois Saumons in June — according to Donald T. Rose, chairman of the Water Safety Service for the Province of Quebec.

The first course will be held at Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium, 475 Pine Avenue West, Montreal, beginning Tuesday, May 9, until June 1. Lectures will start at 7.30 p.m. and pool periods will extend from 9 to 10.30.

Application forms must be returned to Red Cross headquarters by Monday, May 8. The $5 registration fee payable by the candidate will be accepted after screening test.

Candidates for Water Safety Instructors' Courses must be 18 years of age or older and capable of passing the Red Cross Senior swimmer test and the Bronze Medallion of the Royal Life Saving Society. Application forms for both courses are available at Red Cross Building, 2170 Dorchester Street West, Montreal.

with G. E. MORTIMORE

What happened to the phonograph? They call it a "record-player" now. I'm still comparatively young, I keep telling myself, but every so often I absentmindedly reach down an antique phrase and use it, the way a man might grab an old moth-eaten hat from the cupboard in the dark and wear it down the street.

The other day I stopped myself just in time from saying "magic lantern." I quickly amended it to "slide projector" — the tame, colorless and neutral phrase that you must use nowadays.

I looked in the dictionary. "Magic lantern" is still listed there, but in speech it is far out of style. I'm sorry about that. It brings to mind a simple, whole-hearted world of marvels and adventure, when people still were naive enough to be fascinated by an unmoving picture on a screen.

Now we are ashamed of that old enthusiasm, and we try to show our sophistication by using a gray, leaden phrase like "slide projector." How wrong we are — and how dull.

The words "gramophone" and "phonograph" are not loaded with the same kind of power. "Gramophone" conjures up a picture of a scratchy, wind-up machine with a big horn. "Phonograph" makes me think of a more pretentious machine in a cabinet, playing tunes of the 1930s and 1940s.

Neither of these words has much color. But "record-player" is totally flat and limp. Surely we could have done better than that. Someone should offer a prize for the best words to describe new inventions.

Not long ago I caught myself saying: "Well, it's nearly time to buy a new bathing suit."

It came as a shock to realize how outdated that remark was. The last time that men and boys wore bathing suits was in the 1930s — early 1930s, at that.

Since then, the term has been "swimming trunks" — or to be more up-to-date — "swim trunks." Nobody bathes. Nobody has bathed for 20 years. The word has almost Victorian connotations. Now, everybody "swims" — even if they can't swim a stroke.

It will be quite a number of years until I apply for a pension, but I am old enough to remember the days when men and boys wore bathing suits. Often they rolled them down to the waist.

Long after trunks had come into general use, there still were some gaffers who clung to their suits. (Maybe they were gaffers in their 30s and 40s, seen through a youngster's eyes.)

Sometimes, on a warm and dark summer night, we would plunge into a pool of the river with no suits or trunks on — a very old-fashioned style of swimming which is modern enough to be illegal, even today.

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training.

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Human parents can learn something as they watch young animals and birds being trained in self-preservation.

Have you ever watched a wild mother duck clucking warnings to her children? Having seen their response to her cries, we were particularly interested in a story told by a naturalist in Phyllis Bottome's "Not In Our Stars."

This naturalist once came upon a family of newly hatched ducklings and found that they had no fear of him at all. They ran into his outstretched hand and pecked at his fingers. When he observed the mother duck approaching, he withdrew into the bushes for about a quarter of an hour.

All this time she clucked and quacked at her children. Finally she left without her family. The naturalist approached the ducklings a second time. They scattered in all directions. Evidently, they were horrified by the tale she had told them of the danger from a human, he concluded.

Warn but don't frighten, is a good slogan for parents. Many doctors and mental health experts are agreed that there is a great deal too much fear in the minds and hearts of countless grownups. This unnecessary fear lessens happiness and effectiveness in work. If a person becomes increasingly anxious and frightened, physical and mental well-being may be in jeopardy.

Parents should use fear of punishment very sparingly in disciplining their children. Never resort to threats about "the big policeman", or "the boogey man", or any other fictitious person who will deal out painful vengeance for misdeeds.

Continually frightening a little child into good behaviour may seem to "work" in the present. But as an adult who has little or no initiative because he fears failure or disapproval or one who is in a perpetual state of vague nervous apprehension of some calamity befalling him, he will be distinctly handicapped.

Fears are very contagious and sometimes it is not fear of punishment but a parent's own fear of lightning or something else which a child "catches." Mothers and fathers should not pass on to their children their own crippling fears.

Three and four-year-olds who are accustomed since babyhood to go to sleep in a dark room, often suddenly protest against the dark. John Martin, a poet, was asked by a distracted mother who was struggling with her child's fears of the dark if he could help her. He wrote that very lovely poem, "God's Dark" which begins:

"The dark is kind and cosy
The dark is soft and deep
The dark will pat my pillow
And love me while I sleep."

The verses of "God's Dark" have helped countless children to vanquish their fear of the dark. A mother can explain that "dark time" is bedtime for all children all around the world, and if the child is old enough to understand she can explain how the sun and earth move, causing day and night.

Children should be allowed to speak of their fears. Their parents should tell them that they know that many little children are afraid at times, but as they grow older they will grow braver.

Daffodil time

(Consumer Section)

Among the loveliest of our spring flowers is the sunny and dainty daffodil. The flower has a counterpart in a cake — Daffodil Cake. This is a light, fat-free, white and yellow sponge-type cake, easy to make and pretty as a picture. You will want to serve this cake at a bridal shower or tea. It would be a lovely dessert to take over to Mother's on her special day. It is also a cake worth baking and freezing while eggs are plentiful and low in price for it is delicious with summer fruits and berries.

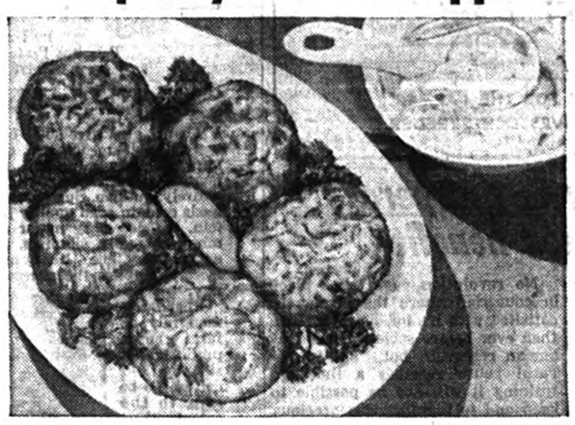

Some people have difficulty getting a Sponge Cake to turn out successfully because they under or over-beat the egg whites. In this recipe for Daffodil Cake, tested by the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, directions say specifically that the whites should be beaten stiff but not dry. That means, the egg whites should be beaten until they stand in glossy peaks which just hold their shape when the beater is lifted. The cream of tartar is added to strengthen the egg whites so that they stand up well during baking. The sugar in turn, is added to form a meringue and this makes it easier to fold in the other ingredients without loss of air from the beaten whites. As egg whites at room temperature beat to a larger volume than cold ones, it is a good idea to take eggs from the refrigerator about an hour before using.

Daffodil Cake

7 Egg whites (1 cup), 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup white sugar, 1 cup sifted pastry flour (divided in two), ½ cup white sugar (divided in two), 4 egg yolks, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon almond extract.

Beat egg whites with cream of tartar and salt until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in ½ cup sugar. Divide meringue mixture into two equal parts. Into each part, gradually fold ½ cup of the flour and ½ cup of the sugar sifted together. Into one, fold the well-beaten egg yolks and vanilla. To the other, add almond extract. Spoon batters into an ungreased 9" tube pan, alternating a spoonful of the white with a spoonful of the yellow. Bake in a moderately slow oven (325°F.) until surface springs back when pressed lightly — about 1 hour. Immediately turn cake upside-down and leave until cold. Remove from pan, and cover with a lemon icing.

A speedy salmon supper

SALMON PATTIES

Canned salmon rates high with most homemakers as the foundation for many hearty main dishes that take little time to prepare. These speedy salmon suppers can be satisfying and appealing, without sacrificing good flavor and without making a dent in the budget. Salmon patties are a meatless dish that men really enjoy. They are solid, good eating and have particularly good flavor due to the surprise ingredient, a deft touch of nutmeg. Tartar sauce is an excellent accompaniment, the slightly tangy taste making a flavorful flavor contrast. Another one is hot, creamy egg sauce highlighted with chopped dill pickles. For a substantial dinner, easily prepared, round out the menu with crisp potato chips, orange butter beets or green beans, hot rolls, and fruit and cookies.

Salmon Patties

1 Can salmon (app. 16-oz.), 1 tablespoon minced onion, ½ cup cracker crumbs, 2 eggs (well-beaten), ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, crushed cornflakes, butter or margarine.

Flake salmon and stir in onion, crumbs, beaten eggs and seasonings. Blend well and shape into cakes about ¾-inch in depth. Dip in crushed cornflakes. Sauté in butter or margarine until golden brown on each side and cakes are heated through. Makes 6 servings. Serve with tartar sauce.

Two English models arrive in Montreal

Montreal — Two pretty English models are giving up well paid jobs to take a luxury trip to Canada in search of romance.

Miss June Forster, auburn-haired and 22, and Miss Pat Cavanagh, dark-haired and 22, arrived in the Cunard liner Ivernia May 2. They expect to pay for their two-year visit by showing British clothes.

"We have been planning this trip for months," explained Miss Forster, who comes from Wallsend-on-Tyne. "Both of us have plenty of boy friends in England, but so far we just haven't found the right man.

"So we are going to see life abroad. After Canada — we're told the men over there are just wonderful — we hope to work our way through the United States and eventually to Bermuda."

Miss Forster and Miss Cavanaugh, who is from Newcastle-upon-Tyne, said they both are trained secretaries and experienced in hotel reception work.

"Between us we are taking about 50 dresses and a lot of tweeds and woollens. British clothes are the best in the world."

The two young women said they have made several contacts for modelling and television work on this side. Miss Forster has won a number of beauty contests in northeast England.

Fashions

CANARY-yellow Moygashel linen makes a chic, wearable dress that can go anywhere, from resort shopping to dinner and dancing. A good cruise selection, too.

Cut on slim and simple lines, it has a self belt at the normal waist that slips through the flapped front. The narrow line of the skirt is eased by a few gathers.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Deirdre Mungovan, Canadian Press Staff Writer

With spring barely upon us, perhaps the last thing the average Canadian woman cares about right now is what sort of furs she'll be able to look at next fall.

But, as in all fields of fashion, the fur trade is already involved. If you'd like an advance peek, the word is that some of the old standbys will turn up in novel colors and combinations.

Furriers from all over Canada viewed more than $1,000,000 worth of furs in Toronto recently when they attended the 10th annual fur fashion previews and convention of the Fur Trade Associations of Canada.

What was most remarkable about this show was the new look effected by the old popular furs such as muskrat, squirrel, beaver, otter and lamb.

Mink for Trims

A natural Alaska seal coat was sheared so that it appeared in a leather tone. Soft natural colors in coats of beaver and otter were matched by mutation mink trims. A sheared lamb three-quarter coat, dyed a deep lavender hue, was trimmed around the hem and up front with lavender-colored fox pelt.

Fur hats, belts and muffs are also expected to make fashion news when the cold weather returns.

Check the Weight

The Quebec branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers has a tip on getting the most for your money when buying bread. There is a definite trend toward putting less in the same-size package in various products, it says, and this is the case with some kinds of bread. For example, you may be confronted with what appears in size to be a 24-ounce loaf which, in reality, weighs 15 to 22 ounces. With a little arithmetic, you can figure the price per ounce and find the best bread buy.

Nitrogen key to grassland farming

Ottawa — Nitrogen taken from the soil by grasses must be replaced by nitrogen in fertilizer, if yields are to be maintained.

In giving this reminder, field crops specialist E. A. Grant of the Department of Agriculture's research station at Fredericton, N.B. claims that a good hay crop contains 120 to 180 pounds of nitrogen.

Not all this nitrogen is taken from the soil when clover and alfalfa are present in the crop, because legumes get their nitrogen from the atmosphere.

Experimenting with plots of timothy, Mr. Grant applied zero, 80 and 160 pounds of nitrogen (240 and 480 pounds of ammonium nitrate) for yields of 1.72, 3.52 and 4.80 tons of hay per acre. The 80-pound application resulted in an increase in yield of 45 pounds of hay for each pound of nitrogen. The 160-pound application gave a 31-pound increase per pound of nitrogen.

While nitrogen is the key to greater grass production, phosphorus and potassium are needed to maintain high yields. For phosphorus, 50 pounds (P_2O_5) per acre appears to be adequate. The amount of potassium required is related to the amount of nitrogen used by the crop, and should be one-half to three-quarters of a pound of potassium (K_2O) to one pound of nitrogen.

Higher yields of aftermath are obtained when half the nitrogen is applied in the early spring and half just after the first harvest. The potassium fertilizer can be applied similarly to advantage. Based on the Fredericton studies, a spring application of 500 pounds of 10-10-10 and 250 pounds of 20-0-10 after the first harvest would be adequate.

FARMER'S HEAVEN

Edmonton (CP) — Farmers may soon be able to set their tractors and harvesters on a pre-determined work pattern and "go home and sit in the living room," says Edmund F. Buryan, president of Minneapolis-Moline. He says experiments have shown farm machines will follow patterns fed into them by a "memory tape."

ON THE FARM FRONT

SEASONAL TOPICS FOR THE FARMER, DAIRYMAN AND LIVESTOCK BREEDER

"When farming is prosperous all social classes benefit"

Although Canadian agriculture itself has experienced a revolution in the 20th century, the farming class tends to "counteract the instability of the proletarian masses", according to J. Ernest Dube, president of the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs, appearing at the annual meeting of that body, May 1 in Quebec City.

No revolution ever takes place in countries where the farmer is satisfied with his lot, he said. More than ever before society needs this human reservoir, but, "unless our rural youth receives a thorough training it will not be possible to keep and to increase this precious national asset."

Mr. Dube said Canada lacks qualified farmers, technical agriculturists and research workers. Only agricultural science transmitted to the farmers will bring them prosperity. 4-H Clubs are the best source for recruiting the needed skills, giving training and a sense of social and civic responsibility, and inculcating a bent for study and a liking for agriculture. Many progressive farmers and housewives today find their calling through this rural voluntary training plan.

The task confronting governments, business and rural leaders of carrying out the program, should fire them with enthusiasm, for the future of the industry depends on rural youth.

When farming is prosperous all other social classes benefit, said Mr. Dube, and the contrary is also the case.

40-Year war on bovine Tb

Ottawa, April 12, 1961 — The Canada Department of Agriculture's long, stubborn fight against tuberculosis in the nation's vast cattle herds is virtually over.

And according to Dr. K. F. Wells, veterinary director-general for Canada, the struggle, begun more than 40 years ago, has been an unqualified success.

Only a handful of cattle have yet to be tested in the next few weeks.

Eradication of bovine tuberculosis in Canada constitutes a milestone in Canadian agricultural history.

As early as 1894 it was suggested that the disease could be eradicated but the Canadian parliament strongly opposed the idea. Eradication was begun systematically in 1919, in many cases over forceful protests of cattle raisers.

Statistics show that since the eradication program went into effect, more than 49,000,000 cattle have been tested and 567,000 infected cattle discovered and destroyed. Compensation paid for cattle destroyed has totalled more than $21,000,000.

Incidence of the disease in Canada has been reduced to an all-time low of 0.14 per cent. Veterinarians today, Dr. Wells said, have to test 715 cattle to root out one case of tuberculosis. Forty years ago they could discover at least one in every 30 animals tested.

Ragweed in grain fields

Ottawa — Ragweed was the most common weed found in 1960 in a survey of 77 grain fields in central and eastern Ontario, according to J. F. Alex, of the Plant Research Institute in Ottawa.

More than 75 species of weeds were identified in the survey, ranging from eight to 38 species in a single field. Ragweed, associated with hay fever, was present in every field of winter wheat and in 90 per cent of the oat fields examined in Ontario County, and in nearly every one of these fields it was the most abundant weed.

Lamb's-quarters, red-root pigweed, wild buckwheat, black medick and lady's-thumb were well represented in most fields. Shepherd's purse, sandwort chickweed, common plantain, mouse-ear chickweed, Canada thistle, curled dock, night-flowering catchfly and field dandelion, were thinly represented in most fields. Couch grass, field horsetail, wild mustard, old witch grass, yellow foxtail, green foxtail, sow thistle and field bindweed were abundant in a few fields and many other weeds occurred sporadically.

Weeds such as small-seeded false flax and black medick, which germinate in the fall, were more frequent in winter wheat than in oats or barley. Others, such as red-root pigweed, which germinate after the soil becomes warm in early summer, were common in oats but rare in fall-seeded crops, which keep the soil shaded and cool.

FARM LIFE

Canada's 2,500,000 farms used some $16-million worth of electricity in 1959 to improve their working and living conditions.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Calves Need A Good Start

There are excellent commercial calf meals and even milk replacers to be had, and many dairymen depend almost entirely on them. Such formula feeds contain good quality protein, the necessary major and minor minerals, vitamins, and antibiotics. The dairyman merely supplies the necessary hay.

Dr. Bohstedt

Other dairymen rely on farm grown products for starting their calves. To be sure, to the extent that calves are started on at least fair amounts of milk, farm grain, leafy green hay, bone meal and salt, all of which a dairyman has on hand, he has the means of doing a very good job of raising calves efficiently and economically. Many dairymen decide to use iodized or trace mineralized salt in starting their calves.

In early spring the dairyman may want to invest in a commercial source of vitamin A to mix with the milk according to directions.

This is brought out by a report from the Ohio Experiment Station advocating high roughage rations for calves.

The report recommends that after three days with the dam, whole milk be fed to calves of the large breeds at the rate of 16 pounds daily the remainder of the first week, and 12 pounds daily the second week. The amount is gradually lowered until only 4 pounds of milk are fed by the end of seven weeks and then omitted. Small breeds are fed from 2 to 4 pounds less than those amounts daily.

A good milk replacer can be substituted for all or part of the whole milk after the second week.

Fresh water should be supplied at all times. It is especially important that calves on high roughage diets be encouraged to drink water at the time milk feeding is stopped. In cold weather warm water may well be offered immediately after milk feeding.

Emphasis is placed on a proportion of hay twice the weight of the grain, preferably fed free choice as a pelleted mixture the first 2 months. After two months, loose hay is recommended in the ratio of 2 hay to 1 grain. Early pellet consumption can be encouraged by placing a handful of the pellets in the milk bucket after milk feeding.

The upper limit of grain for Holsteins, once they are on loose hay and grain, is 4 pounds, and for Jerseys, 3 pounds grain per day.

A heavy roughage ration encourages early rumen function, more so on high-roughage pellets than on loose hay and grain.

Herd replacement can be made less costly by the production of high-quality roughage and its liberal use for growing calves, as demonstrated in the tests reported by Ohio.

Question: When cattle or sheep eat a lot of salt on self-fed salt-oilmeal mixtures, is there any accumulation of salt in their bodies?

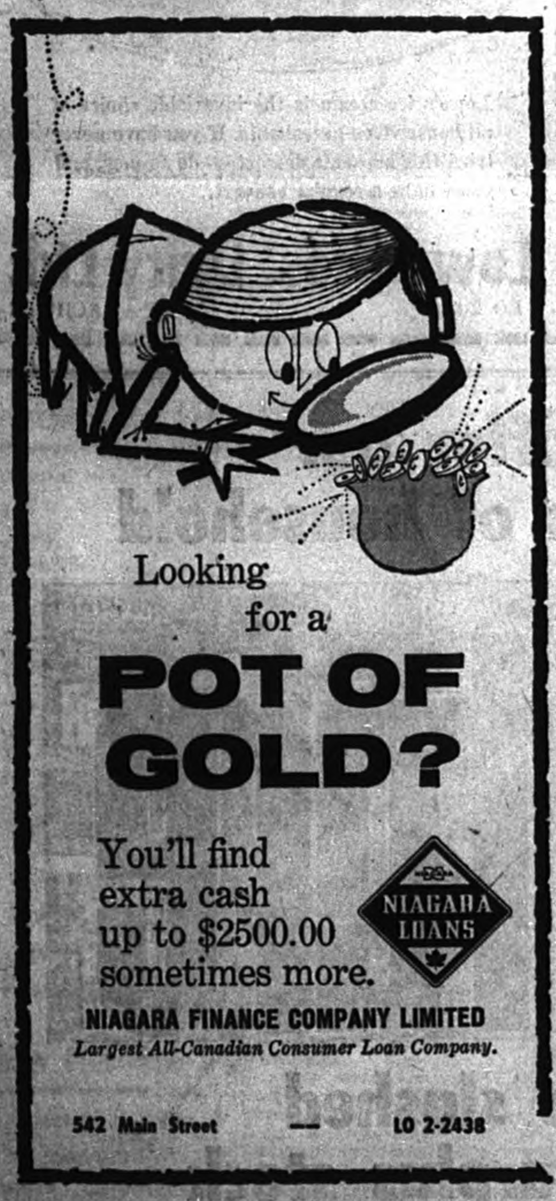

Answer: No. The body has a way of getting rid of the salt, mainly through the urine and feces. Even when eating a pound of salt a day in this way for months at a time, cattle have shown no significant change in the composition of the blood nor of lean meat nor other parts of the body. They have remained in good health.

BARRON'S BRIDGE DELAY; UNCERTAINTY ON ROUTE 8 - -

An unusual volume of correspondence claimed attention at Town Council last week. To Fernand Legault, Q.C., in the mayoral chair, congratulations were extended on his election as president of the Laurentian Bar Association just recently.

Out of two bids for replacing the roof of the municipal garage, a tender from Geo. Y. Deacon Ltd. was accepted.

Ald. H. Lamarche gave notice of motion for a single by-law to embody all standing regulations on chip-potato wagons.

Letters of appreciation were read — from the family of the late Albert Dorion, of St. Eustache; from the Caisse Populaire, for use of the council chamber for its annual meeting; from the Canadian Postmasters' Association for the town's co-operation on its recent convention; and from the Richelieu Club for a civic grant of $2,000 towards its swimming pool.

Ald. Lauréat Laurin was named liaison representative of the Council with the Chamber of Commerce on its new committee on industry.

The sum of $65 was voted to Legion Branch 70 for a page in the souvenir program marking the Quebec provincial convention to be held here, which coincides also with the 25th anniversary of the local branch.

A letter from the Quebec Department of Roads stated that widening of the Lachute-St. Jerome highway would receive study. It was decided, moreover, to prevail upon the provincial authorities to hasten the rebuilding of Barron's Bridge, which is the hub of several important highways. The Department of Public Works had stated nothing could be done on this project until there was a definite decision on the route to be established for No. 8 highway.

A subsidy was approved for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, to the extent of rescinding municipal tax on this property, on Drew Street.

Chairmen of the water and public health committees, with the mayor, were named as delegates to a meeting of the Laurentian Fish and Game Association to discuss anti-pollution measures affecting the North River. The meeting is at St. Jerome on May 10 (Wednesday).

A letter from the Deputy Minister of Health advised that May 31 was the time limit for removal of the municipal dump site.

A protest was received from E. S. Brown regarding evaluation of his property on Henry Street. This was tabled for attention of the valuators when preparing their property roll next year.

Bills amounting to $17,363.69 were approved for payment, and Ald. Dr. J. P. Dorion was appointed pro-mayor for a three-month period, before adjournment of the meeting until May 17.

There was discussion on the bandstand in the civic park, some aldermen contending that, in its present state of disrepair, it should be demolished. Sentiment prevailed, however, Mayor Legault and Ald. Lamarche interceding for its survival. The kiosk dates back to the 1930's. It was agreed to enquire into the cost of putting it back in shape.

Annual inspection of 'D' Battalion Highland Cadets

The annual inspection of the local Army Cadet Company was held on Tuesday of last week in the Armoury of the 131st Field Battery R.C.A. (M.), on Robert Street.

The Salute, March Past and Inspection were taken by Maj.-Gen. F. R. Phelan, C.B., D.S.O., M.C., and Lt.-Col. A. Malouf, C.D. Following the inspection, Cadet Corporals G. Morrin and R. Morrin drilled the cadets in rifle and foot drill.

The award for the smartest cadet in parade was given to J. Beauchamp.

During the training year six cadets have been learning signalling, consisting of Morse Code and procedures; as a result of a recent examination, three of these — Corporals G. Morrin, E. Pearson, and Cadet R. Haydon — were successful in obtaining the necessary eight words per minute sending and receiving. Certificates to this effect were presented to these three cadets.

A large gathering of parents and interested friends were present at the inspection, and following the demonstrations, were able to examine the various training aids and discuss various aspects of cadet training.

Capt. E. Laurencelle and Staff Sgt. Pichette were present from the Cadet office in Montreal.

Local training will end for this training year in June. In July it is hoped that nine of the Lachute cadets will attend the seven-weeks summer camp at Farnham.

The next phase of local training will commence early in September, when any boy between the ages of 14 and 18 will be considered as a candidate for the local Army Cadet Unit.

Officers in charge of the local unit are Capt. W. E. Butterfield, chief instructor, and Lt. R. W. Haydon, instructor.

Glamorous scene at graduation night

The High School graduation exercises, a thrilling highlight for the 38 pupils of the 1961 Grade Eleven, was a perennial story for a number of the school commissioners, staff and older citizenry. The glamor of this function could not fail, however, to captivate the spirit and imagination of all ages and interests, among the large attendance last Friday evening.

Theme of the decorations in the high school auditorium, less elaborate perhaps than in previous years, was Apple Blossom Time. The formal presentation of diplomas by Principal Fred Royal, and posing for class photographs, preluded the customary program.

Donald Neill, as m.c. for the graduates seated on the stage, welcomed the audience. Sandra Kerr and Lloyd Elder recited the Class History, introducing the graduates individually. The Last Will and Testament, read by Betty Wigney and Robin Fraser, and the Class Prophecy, by Judy Hadley and Eric Garsonnin, sparkled with humor, while the Valedictory was creditably presented by Keith Rogers.

School Board Chairman Jas. W. McGibbon voiced good wishes and words of encouragement. "The better you fulfill your destiny, the more you will inspire those who follow after you — and a finer repute will reflect upon your school," he said, addressing the graduates. "Independence must walk hand in hand with responsibility. You must be prepared to contribute to the future — to contribute more than has been given you."

Advice along similar lines was imparted by Principal Royal in his brief address. "Graduation implies maturity," he said. "What is the meaning of maturity? . . . It means that you will be called upon to make your own judgments and decisions; that you will exemplify a sense of responsibility; and that you must exercise initiative. Some people are like wheelbarrows; they go nowhere unless they are pushed. You will meet setbacks and failures — but never lose your will to go forward," he urged, while extending best wishes from the teaching staff to the graduates of '61.

The graduates and their partners made a colorful spectacle as they performed the Grand March to launch the evening's dancing. The music was by Gordon Anderson's orchestra. A pleasant evening was spent, and refreshments were served in the school cafeteria.

Conviction, fine for employer and employee

A Lachute storekeeper who had made fraudulent unemployment insurance contribution statements on behalf of an employee, was fined $100 by Magistrate Omer Côté at St. Jerome recently.

The employer was convicted of placing non-bona fide insurance stamps in an insurance book belonging to the employee, with a view to enabling the employee to draw benefit to which he was not entitled. The employee, who had conspired with the employer in affixing the stamps, was also fined $100 plus court costs. Both had entered a plea of guilty through the Crown Prosecutor.

COUNCIL NOMINATIONS AND ELECTIONS -

B'burg chief asks care against grass fires, and trash on streets

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — The top item ot the May 1 session of the Brownsburg town council, was the official announcement of the forthcoming elections. Nominations for councillor in Seat No. 2 and Seat No. 3 will be accepted at the town hall between the hours of 10 a.m. and 12 noon on Wednesday, May 10, and elections will be held between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Monday, May 15. To date three men have indicated their intention of running for office. They are Georges Therrien and Roger Raymond, currently serving with the Council, and John Rutherford, a new figure in local political circles.

Council approved the adoption of the timetable setting the duty hours of the town police officers, thus giving nearly full coverage from 8 a.m. to 1 a.m. every day. As specified in the timetable, an officer has been on duty each day in the vicinity of the traffic light. This seems to have had some beneficial effect, and perhaps repainting of the orange stop lines will bring further improvement. Now the only remaining item is the speed trap. After a number of excuses were given to cover the fact that absolutely nothing had been done to reduce speeding during the month (traffic-ticket total — zero), Council indicated that the device would be used again. . . . One week has passed since the meeting and the trap has not appeared!

When one official suggested that the speed trap be traded in for a radar system, Georges Therrien answered promptly, "No matter what equipment we have, we must use it!"

Among the things Council did not do was read a letter of complaint from an individual who had signed the letter "Taxpayer". Taxpayer or not, if there is no name at the end of the letter, it is not read!

Fire Chief Fern Brisson reported two fires, both of a minor nature, then asked that townspeople be urged to be careful with grass fires. At the risk of repeating himself, Chief Brisson advises everyone to keep a "live" hose handy at all times when burning grass and leaves.

Speaking as town foreman, Ferne mentioned that the streets in town sometimes become cluttered with refuse — cigarette boxes, newspapers, ice cream wrappers, etc. He asked that all citizens be asked to do their share in keeping the streets clean.

Art exhibition one week only, public invited

The second annual exhibition of the newly-styled Art Centre (348 Main Street) will open Sunday evening, May 14, until May 21, in the Rio Building. Art lovers and the general public are cordially invited any day during the week from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m.

There will be 40-odd canvases on view from city and district artists. The exhibitors include such names as Kent de Conde, Vivian Walker, Janine Leroux, Colin Hayworth, Pierre Gauvreau, Jean Laforest, Don Titman, Guy Racine, Alain-Denys Matte, Normand Boudreau, Françoise Nicot, Tex Lecore, Harry Ricketts, Maurice Domingue and others.

This event will have publicity Thursday and Friday of next week on Radio Canada's TV "Carrefour", and three of the exhibits have been photographed for inclusion in this program.

Bicycle tests next Saturday at l'Ecole Supérieure

Bicycle Safety tests will be held on Saturday, May 13, beginning at 9 a.m. sharp, in the school yard of l'Ecole Supérieure, Lachute.

As no child will be able to purchase a bicycle license in Lachute unless he passes the tests, it is requested that applicants should appear at this time. The tests are being sponsored by the Lachute Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with the Lachute Police Department, and close to 1,000 entrants are expected next Saturday.

Pictures have been shown free of charge over the past eight weeks on Bicycle Safety, and literature is currently being distributed.

Three armed thugs rob IGA Foodliner

An armed hold-up early Monday morning netted thieves a sizeable haul of several thousand dollars, according to René Dagenais, owner-manager of the IGA Foodliner on Chatham Street.

Police Chief A. J. Whiteway, who headed the investigation along with Provincial Police hold-up squad detectives, reported the three masked men entered the store at 8.15 a.m., just as the head cashier, Miss Angèle Renaud, was preparing the money for deposit.

One of the men jumped onto the safe, situated just inside the door, and vaulted into the office where Miss Renaud was working. Waving a gun, he picked up a deposit bag full of bills, along with bills on the counter. The other two men took their positions at the main door and at the stairway leading to the office, where the latter looted an additional three money bags from the recently-opened safe.

They then sent Miss Renaud to the rear of the store, warning her not to summon other employees working there. Miss Renaud screamed for assistance as she heard the car leaving the premises and she, along with several of the other employees, obtained a description and ciphers on the license plate of the get-away car.

Cst. Felix L'Allier received the call at local police headquarters and rushed to the secene, this being some 15 minutes after the three armed men entered the establishment. Upon receiving word the car had headed out of town on Route 8, he gave chase to the Hawkesbury area, but to no avail.

Cpl. Aimé Bertrand, officer-in-charge of the local Provincial Police, received word Tuesday morning that the get-away car had been recovered; it was a stolen car with stolen license plates.

Missed top honors in Quebec-Ontario speaking contest

The two local and district winners in the Lions Club students' oratory contest — Liane Robillard of St. Alexandre Convent, and Andrew Seary of Brownsburg High School — competed last Saturday in the Quebec-Ontario finals, but did not attain the triumph of their predecessors sponsored by the local club. Liane came second in French-speaking girl speakers, while Andrew Seary was eliminated in the semi-finals, despite high optimism of his sponsors. Liane excelled in her prepared speech, but time ran out in her impromptu discourse and caused the young lady consternation which robbed her of the victory.

The festival of oratory drew five French-speaking finalists and 16 English-speaking. The Lions Club of (Toronto suburban) Dixie were hosts to the event, and the competitions were held in Port Credit school during Saturday afternoon and evening.

Liane Robillard and her mother were guests of President Dr. Eric Mongeon and Mrs. Mongeon for the automobile trip, while Andrew Seary attended in company with Secretary Keith Clarke and Mrs. Clarke.

Historical Soc'y plans for season indicate upturn in enthusiasm

— Contributed by Allen G. Talbot —

Plans of the Argenteuil Historical Society this season include: (1) a public tour of areas along the Ottawa River shore soon to be submerged, in the form of a motor cavalcade from the Carillon Museum at 1.30 p.m. on Saturday, June 10; (2) a reception for Sir Charles and Lady Johnson on July 16; and (3) the annual garden party and meeting on August 9.

Tour of River Shore

The tour of the "to-be-submerged area" will be led by Dr. G. R. Rigby. Members and the general public are invited to take part, so residents are urged to make up a carload and join in! One should realize what is about to take place — that scenes, buildings and historic sites are to disappear, never again to be seen. These interesting items will make a most attractive afternoon's outing for all interested in the history of Argenteuil. That section which for generations has been referred to as the "Front of Chatham", is to become a subject of historical recollection only and is to disappear physically from view. The tour will afford a wonderful opportunity to visit these scenes under specialized guides. It is hoped that a large number of the public will join with the members on this occasion. Dr. G. R. Rigby will lead the first group, at 1.30 o'clock.

An Auspicious Visit

Sir Charles and Lady Johnson have been invited from England to perform the ceremonies at the opening of the Chrysler Park Museum at Morrisburg, and the committee for that event has suggested that the distinguished guests would like to visit Argenteuil, where Sir Charles' forefathers operated a Seignory, donated one of the churches in St. Andrews, and contributed to the development of this County in other ways. In accord with this suggestion the Argenteuil Historical Society has extended an invitation to Sir Charles and Lady Johnson and their party, to a tea for members at the Museum on July 16. (This date will be confirmed as soon as word has been received from the main committee which is arranging their trip.)

Annual Garden Party

Plans for the annual meeting and garden party to be held August 9 were arranged under direction of Mrs. Pentland's "Museum and Garden Committee".

Meeting Held

The executive, under chairmanship of President A. F. Hanly, met on Thursday, May 4. The president called upon Mrs. A. Graham to read her latest poem, "The Indian Milling Stone"; a very beautiful poem, this describes the meeting of a white settler with the spirit of an Indian Chief, just after

Hoist in out-of-town fire service charges

The town police department answered 337 service calls in the month of April, and collected $1,142 revenue in the same period, according to Chief A. J. Whiteway's monthly report to Council.

The report shows 20 accidents investigated; 19 persons housed at police headquarters at different times; 120 "tickets" issued; two victims of bodily injury; two automobile thefts; one entry and theft, and seven other robberies.

Fire Report

Chief Don MacCulloch reported seven fire calls in April, four of which were in Ayersville and one in St. Jerusalem. Of the seven outbreaks, four were grass fires.

New Tariff for Services

On recommendation of Chief MacCulloch and Commissioner Linton Armstrong, Council adopted an increase in charges for out-of-town service of the fire brigade.

The new fee is set at $125 for the first hour and $100 for each additional hour, or fraction thereof. Previously the rate was a straight $75 an hour.

It has been clearly proven that Lachute, at the previous rates, was operating at a loss. Charges in the municipalities of St. Jerome, Ste. Therese and Ste. Agathe were studied before arriving at the new rate.

Legion Branch 70 hosts May 25-26-27 to annual Que. Provincial Convention

The 29th Quebec provincial convention of the Royal Canadian Legion will be held in Lachute on May 25-26-27, with local Branch 70 as hosts.

Approximately 150 delegates will arrive and register at the Legion Hall on Thursday, 25th. That afternoon, from 3.30 to 4.30, a band concert will be given in the Memorial Park by the Longue Pointe Ordnance Band.

Opening ceremonies will take place Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in Lachute Auditorium. This colorful and very impressive ceremony, is open to the public. Guest speaker will be the Hon. Paul W. Earle, O.B.E., C.D., Minister of Revenue for Quebec. Business sessions, election of officers, etc., will occupy all day Friday, Friday evening, and all day Saturday at the Auditorium. Friday noon, a parade will form up at the cenotaph and march to the Legion Memorial Hall.

The convention banquet and installation of in-coming Command officers will take place at the Masonic Hall, Brownsburg Road, at 7 p.m. Saturday. Guest speaker will be Hon. W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P.

Local committee chairmen for the convention are Geo. Kirby, convention chairman; J. Martell, registration; D. Ogilvie, billeting; C. Demerse, decorating and finance; R. O. McLean, parade marshal; T. Smith, banquet; B. Jenkins, R. Giles, publicity and advertising; A. Philipps, entertainment.

Scouts' paper drive Saturday, May 20

An all-out paper drive by the 1st Lachute Troop Boy Scouts is planned for Saturday, May 20, starting at 8 a.m.

The public are asked to cooperate with the Scouts in their effort to raise funds, and it is requested that newspapers be tied sequrely and placed in a conspicuous place.

In rural areas, donors may phone for a pick-up to — (day) LO 2-6035 and (night) 2-6776.

There are two large trailers to be filled — so gather up your old papers and help the boys!

CNR at Grenville curtails services, now passenger stop

The CNR has decided to reduce its Grenville depot to a passenger station, withdrawing all other services, effective May 12. The only employee on duty, Florian Lagacé, station agent, will be transferred elsewhere.

The Board of Transport gave approval to the CNR's petition for this change, which was placed before the commissioners last January.

The telegraph and freight services will be handled from the CNR Hawkesbury depot, which in future will look after business of the Grenville area.

W.I. convention

A report of proceedings at the County W.I. semi-annual convention, held last Saturday at Brownsburg, will be included in next issue. Unusual demand for space necessitates this delay in publication.

Guide and Brownie associations met at Lac St. Denis

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — The annual meeting of Local Associations for Guides and Brownies of the Laurentian Division, was held Saturday afternoon, May 6, at the RCAF Station, Lac St. Denis. Over 40 delegates were present from Rosemere, Ste. Therese, Ste. Agathe, Ste. Adele, Camp Bouchard, Morin Heights and Lac St. Denis. Guides from the 1st Lac St. Denis Company directed the guests to the upper lounge of the Sergeants' Mess, where the meeting was held.

Mrs. L. Theedom, chairman of the Lac St. Denis group, welcomed the guests. Mrs. K. King, Division Commissioner, conducted the business session. One of the resolutions adopted was that the Local Associations would purchase the initial training books for Guiders; this was previously a Divisional requirement. Plans were finalized for the Guide and Brownie Rally to be held in Rosemere on Saturday, May 27. Something new to be tried this year will be the camping program for inexperienced Guiders. This camp will be held at the permanent site in Morin Heights, and will give more Girl Guides a chance at camping at reduced prices. It is hoped that interested mothers will take advantage of this opportunity of attending camp, with or without their daughters.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Banta, of Montreal, a recognized authority on public speaking and the Divisional Records secretary. Her address was immensely enjoyed. Mrs. Manning, of Rosemere, thanked the speaker.

The delegates then broke up into three groups, Local Association members, Guide Captains and Brown Owls, for a question-and-answer period. This is always most enlightening.

Tea was served by the Lac St. Denis executive with Mrs. C. Hovey of Lac St. Denis and Mrs. G. Watchorn of Morin Heights pouring.

Canadians are soft! . . .

Not shown, unfortunately, are their worthy opponents, the local team of farmers, under the leadership of "Doc" Munroe and anchored by Bill Brass. These two teams had arrived at the semi-finals by defeating strong contenders from Canadian Industries Ltd., Canadian Safety Fuse Ltd., Brownsburg; J. C. Wilson Ltd. and Ayers Ltd., Lachute — as well as Canadian Refractories Ltd., Kilmar, and the Rotary Club team.

Immediately following the winning of the cup and their individual prizes by C.I.P., there were challenges issued by other stalwarts in the area — other companies with a strong group spirit. . . . It is expected that there will be ten teams this year for the "pull".

Signs of the good old days were enjoyed by a large group of supporters in the stands. Not only the tug-of-war, but a calf-catching contest, and a cow milking contest, providing more fun than the proverbial "barrel of monkeys".

Plans are under way to stage a similar Rotary Night at the Fair this year, on Thursday, June 15.

— Pull for the Park — the Rotary Park, that is!

STRIDES IN HIGH SCHOOL EXPANSION AND MODERNIZATION

Replacement of 1892 Lachute Academy section is immediate project, underway this summer

A Provincial grant of 80% of the $223,390 lowest tender price submitted for the replacing of the Academy section of Lachute High School, has been approved by the Provincial Government, according to a letter received by Jas. W. McGibbon, chairman of Lachute Protestant School Commission. The letter, signed by Paul Gerin-Lajoie, Minister of Youth, was received last week, and states that the grant will be payable over five years.

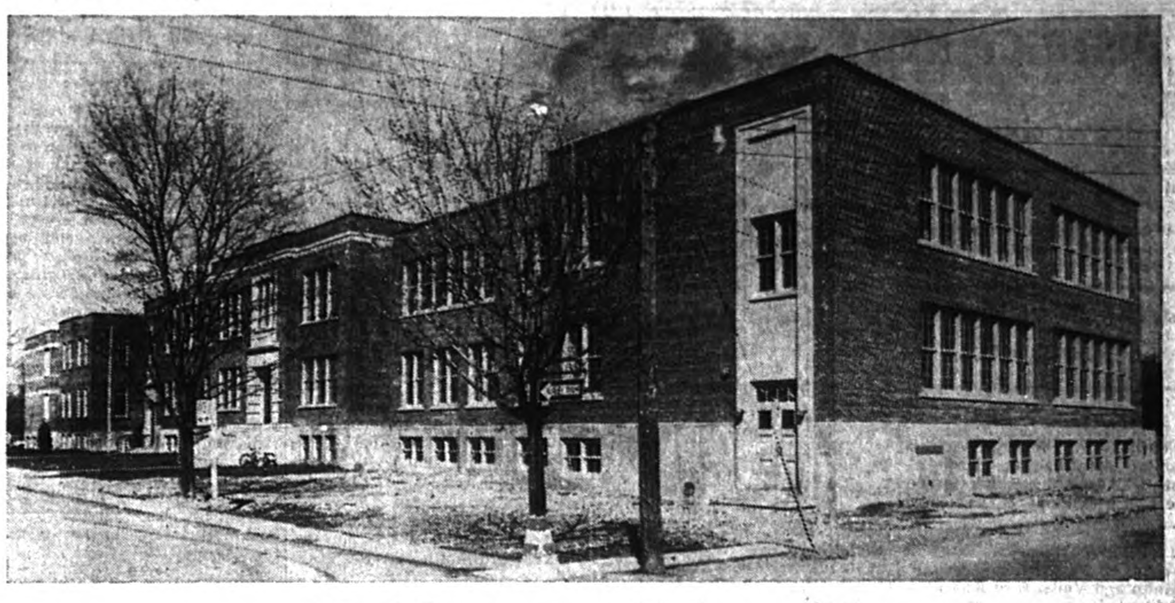

The grant was authorized on the tender submitted by Pollock-McGibbon Ltd., the lowest of eight bids received for the construction.

The Lachute Academy building will be torn down and replaced by a modern structure providing for six classrooms, a staff room and the janitor's room. Demolition is expected to get underway within a week's time, and the new construction will be of modern design similar to the recently completed Pollock-McGibbon Ltd. addition.

"School" for many old-timers here: Facing on Harriett Street, this was the centre-ward Academy and its main entrance, before the addition of 1950 which changed the west-side appearance completely.

School frontage one block in width

Three weeks ago, the junior grade students attending Lachute High School moved into one of the most modern and up-to-date school buildings in the province, which was only recently completed by the firm of Pollock-McGibbon, builders and engineering contractors. Grades I to III are located in this extension, along with the principal's and vice-principal's offices; a new cafeteria and Household Science room, which contains a milk-bar serving soup, milk and desserts; new medical accommodation; and a Guidance room.

The modern building was designed by Grattan D. Thompson, architect, who has since designed the replacement addition for the old Academy section of the High School, scheduled to get underway in several weeks. Mr. Thompson also designed the 1949 additions to the school building. The firm of T. G. Anglin Engineering Co. Ltd. were engineering consultants on the construction.

Each of the seven classrooms in the new structure has a pleasant atmosphere, each being individually heat-controlled by means of fresh air brought in through wall louvres and heated by steam coils. The air is then circulated throughout the room, maintaining a constant temperature.

Miss Helen Kenny, Grade I-B teacher, expressed her pleasure at being one of the privileged teachers to move from the 1892 building into the new addition. Features she pointed out included the air conditioning, which, she said, "keeps the children much more alert and makes teaching easier". Each classroom has ceiling finished in acoustic tile: a bright, airy appearance with high, close-to-ceiling windows; three rows of ceiling lights in addition to lights over the blackboard; and stainless steel washbasins and drinking fountains, which eliminate a lot of unnecessary "leaving the room".

Another feature is the intercommunication system between Principal F. H. J. Royal's office and each classroom in the school. This system is extremely useful to relay messages throughout the school, or, from an educational point of view, to relay radio programs of interest to the complete school or any portion thereof.

The Grade I classes are making use of the new-style desk, which, according to Principal Royal, is much more flexible in design.

Included in the contract price of the Academy replacement, is a new oil-heating system. This will be placed in the 1932 "Consolidation" section, but will serve the complete school.

New classrooms are modern

This bright, airy aspect is evident in the new classrooms, and comfortable atmosphere is maintained by the air-conditioning system installed under the windows. The Red Ensign is displayed in each of the rooms above the teacher's desk, and other features which can readily be seen are the acoustic tile ceilings; full-length ceiling lights and the full-length light over the chalkboard. In the foreground are the new-style desks and chairs, of metal construction with wood tops and seats. All floors are of tile. — Photo, Syd Drew

Education here has venerable history

The Lachute Academy was established February 23, 1855, and incorporated July 1 of the following year — 11 years before Confederation. The old Academy was erected in 1858 and occupied the next year, with the Rev. John Mackie in charge.

Increasing school population necessitated the addition of an extra wing in 1879, and in 1892 the building was abandoned as a school with the completion of the new Academy on Harriett Street.

A portion of the original old Academy collapsed in early September, 1958, just 100 years after its erection. One wall sank from sight and inside the shell of the remaining walls was a tangle of collapsed beams and partitions.

Early Origins

Prior to the erection of the original Academy in 1858, the Rev. Thomas Henry, who felt the necessity of providing higher education for the young people of the community, conducted free classes in his home. The attendance increased, and it soon became necessary to move the school to the basement of the Presbyterian Church, of which the Rev. Mr. Henry was pastor.

At a public meeting on February 23, 1855, the people established a superior school governed by five directors. The directors organized a school, outlined a course of study and appointed teachers. Thus the pastor's private classes became a public institution known as the "Lachute Academy".

The Rev. Thomas Henry continued as first principal, with John M. Gibson as secretary and Dr. Thomas Christie as president of the board. Together they procured an Act of Incorporation and a government grant of $75 for the "Lachute College". . . . According to Thomas' History of Argenteuil, "Thus was Lachute Academy established on February 23, 1855, and incorporated by Act of Parliament passed at Toronto July 1, 1856, during the second session of the fifth Parliament of Canada, and assented to by Sir Edmund Walker Head, Governor General".

Attendance at the Academy in 1855-56 was 210, of which number 116 pupils were over 16 years of age.

In 1858 the directors resolved to erect an academy building in a central place and selected the East Ward site midway between two parish schools, Nos. I and VIII. These two elementary schools were united by the school commissioners who built the lower storey of the building, while the directors built the upper part. The Rev. John Mackie was then placed in charge at a salary of $350 (to be paid in silver at par) and all fees arising from his classes.

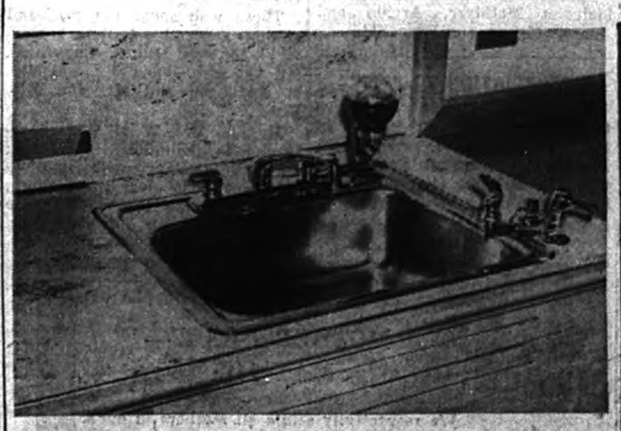

In 1879 the authorities erected the wing on the east side of this original College building. (Part of this wing is still standing.)

In 1891-92 the commissioners determined to build a new structure worthy of the large attendance. One of the finest school buildings of the province was erected on the four acres acquired on Harriett Street. The building cost $12,000 — which is estimated by the contractors today as approximately the cost of demolishing it!

"College" was imposing structure

The school built in the East Ward in 1856 (subsequently known as the "College", the "Academy", and the "Armoury") was situated directly across Main Street from Scott's Monument Works, where part of the building still stands. Occupied by the local school board in 1858, it served the families of the district until 1892, when the Academy on Harriett Street was built on four acres of land purchased by the school commissioners. This photograph was taken following partial collapse of the "Armoury" in September 1958.

Utility is a major consideration

School No. 1 still a landmark

The old School No. 1 was abandoned in 1862 and sold to G. J. Walker for the sum of £75 sterling (approximately $300). When Lachute was incorporated in 1885, the Parish of St. Jerusalem rented the building from Mr. Walker and it continued to be used as a school until consolidation in 1932.

The fire which destroyed the home of Claude Foucault near St. Philippe on Monday morning, was well out of hand when Ferne Brisson and his firefighting crew arrived on the scene. However, the barns and a shed were saved by making use of the water from a stream 1,000 feet distant. Chief Brisson reported that the fire had apparently started in the wall near the chimney.

Welcome Wagon idea promoted in Lachute, B'burg

The "welcome wagon" dates back to long treks of the pioneers, who, after crossing desolate and inhospitable country, were greeted near the end of their journeys by a representation sent out to meet them with refreshing food, drink and domestic comforts.

A counterpart of this idea operates today in thousands of American and Canadian cities. It has been promoted successfully in Montreal, Quebec, Rimouski, St. Hyacinthe, Sorel, Beloeil, St. Jerome and other centres in this province.

The service is a commercial venture in public relations, extending to newcomers, to engaged couples, to newlyweds and to new mothers, an expression of good will from participating merchants in the town. Their greeting comes in the form of a basket of small but practical gifts, and an invitation to shop where friendly service awaits.

The "welcome wagon" is now being promoted in Lachute and Brownsburg, and its organizers are seeking a personable resident to fill the hostess role. Any lady suitable and interested in this venture may kindly communicate with: Mme Madeleine La Fontaine, 375 Des Chenaux, Ste. Foy, Que.

To present MGM triumph, 'Ben-Hur', on local screen

In connection with the showing of "Ben-Hur", the 16-million Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, at the Cinema Lachute commencing May 24 — the MGM representative, Roger Bower, from Canadian head office, Toronto, was in Lachute last week to ensure the success of this big venture on behalf of the Cinema management. Mr. Bower travels from coast to coast on the promotion of such films as this, which have drawn sell-out audiences for MGM spectaculars. In Lachute and elsewhere, there are details such as visual and audio technicalities to be checked, to ensure full justice to merits of the film in its local reproduction.

"Ben-Hur", claimed a best-seller second only to the Bible itself, is a story by General Wallace, U.S. soldier, author and statesman, based on the times of Christ's disciples.

Raymond Beaulieu, manager at the Cinema, is confident this picture will draw the approval of district residents over a wide area. "Ben-Hur" ran to capacity houses in Montreal for a whole year; in Toronto, it is now in its 17th consecutive month at the University Theatre.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to relatives, friends and neighbors, for their lovely cards, flowers, letters, prayers, boxes of chocolates and fruit, and other lovely gifts, and to the many visitors who called to see me during my stay in the Smith Clinic.

"The Holy City" cantata given

For the second consecutive year, Gaul's sacred cantata "The Holy City" was presented by the Argenteuil Choral Society in Lachute United Church. This district choir of 50 voices has been winning acclaim from local listeners and showing steady progress under the direction of Lowell B. Hopkins. "The Holy City" is not so well known as some of the previous performances of this choir, and the several solos of various voices were quite difficult in interpretation, and the choruses quite positive in rendition.

It is interesting to hear local people in performances of this kind, and following are the soloists who participated: Robert Haydon, tenor; Mrs. L. Armstrong, Mrs. J. Armour and Mrs. L. B. Hopkins, contraltos; Mrs. D. Barbour, soprano; and Phil Bate, bass.

The minister of the church, the Rev. Wilson Bridge, extended a warm welcome to those present, and complimented the Society's director, Mr. Hopkins, the soloists and the choir, for their hard work spent in the preparation of this performance.

Following the recital, the choir and guests were served refreshments by an augmented committee, who did an excellent job. The president of the Argenteuil Choral Society, Mrs. Mason Crosby, graciously extended a welcome to the guests, and expressed appreciation to those who had worked with her in the arrangements for the cantata.

A brief meeting and election of officers for the coming year ensued, and the following were appointed: President, Mrs. Mason Crosby; vice-president, Mrs. J. Armour; secretary-treasurer, Bernard Hewitt; librarian, Mrs. E. Callicott; with Jack Gorman on the executive. The choir direction will remain in the capable hands of Lowell B. Hopkins.

Retarded Children

Since the war there has been a great increase in mental retardation. Parents have banded together and established special schools for trainable youngsters. A school of this kind exists in Lachute, and you can help support it — by taking a book of tickets for a drawing at the whist drive in the Legion Hall, May 30.

Peace for All Kinds of Men

Peace is the desire of honest-hearted men of all nations. Why is it so long in coming? For centuries sincere efforts have accomplished nothing and even in modern times the most outstanding statesmen in the world view world peace as only remotely possible and total peace as only a fanciful dream. Will it ever come? Can men of all kinds live together in absolute security, with complete personal safety?

Read the book "From Paradise Lost to Paradise Regained". Its message is from a time-honored source, the Holy Bible. The peace program it outlines is absolutely certain of success because it is God's arrangement, not man's. The prospect of the future that it holds out to you is faith-inspiring. It will enable you to share in God's provision for peace for all kinds of men in this generation.

So great has been the demand for this book "From Paradise Lost to Paradise Regained" that it is now published in twenty-three languages with more in preparation. Besides English it is available in Afrikaans, Arabic, Cebu-Visayan, Chinese, Cibemba, Cinyanja, Chishona, Danish, Dutch, Finnish, German, Greek, Hiligaynon-Visayan, Ilocano, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Portuguese, Silozi, Spanish, Tagalog and Yoruba.

Send today. "From Paradise Lost to Paradise Regained," only 75c — also a free booklet, "God Is Love."

Write: Watchtower, 150 Bridgeland Ave., Toronto 19, or ask any Jehovah's Witness you may happen to meet, anywhere.

— Edmund Burke

"Mother's Day" goes back to antiquity

MOTHER'S DAY, as we know it, is only a little more than 50 years old, but long before the present century there were countless days set aside to pay tribute to mother and motherhood.

Our modern celebration resulted from the efforts of a Philadelphia woman named Anna Jarvis, who conceived the idea for such a tribute while arranging a memorial service for her mother in 1907.

Quickly recognizing the universal beauty and appeal of an annual dedication, she brought it to the attention of church people and leading citizens. And, according to Diane Burnley, curator of the Coutts Hallmark Historical Collection, on the second Sunday in May, 1908, Mother's Day was first observed — on a local basis — in Miss Jarvis' hometown, Philadelphia.

Today, the observance has broadened to pay tribute to living as well as deceased mothers, and is generally observed throughout the U.S.A. and Canada. It was President Woodrow Wilson who, in 1914, officially recognized the event by proclaiming that the second Sunday in each May should be observed as Mother's Day. That day was selected because it was the day on which Miss Jarvis' mother was born. The carnation — red for living mothers, white for those deceased — was chosen as the floral symbol because it was her mother's favorite.

Actually, the early Greeks were among the first to organize their feelings toward motherhood, directing their affections to Cybele, mother of the gods. By around 250 B.C., the Greeks had introduced their worship of Cybele to Rome, where the annual festival of Hilaria — held during the Ides of March — was established in her honor.

With the advent of Christianity, the people transferred their veneration to the Madonna, who symbolized the goodness, patience and suffering of all motherhood. By the 17th century, Midlent Sunday — fourth in the penitential period — had taken on a special meaning. It was known as "Mothering Sunday." On that day people took gifts to their mother church and to their earthly mothers as well. It also was a day on which youthful apprentices were permitted to return to their homes to take remembrances or trinkets to their mothers. Paying such visits was called, appropriately, "going a-mothering."

Self-scrutiny on immigration

NOT SO MANY years ago food dieting was a popular subject for jokes and cartoons, and the plump matron struggling to get into a smaller-size dress was a figure of fun.

Now, most people are aware that there is a connection between fat and certain health hazards, particularly heart ailments. This applies to both sexes. Lancet, the British medical journal, says coronary heart disease now "is equal in the two sexes above the age of 50, and rather less uncommon in women under 50 than had been thought."

The medical profession — and most of the public — has become familiar with the term atherosclerosis, which the American Heart Association defines as a special form of hardening of the arteries which sets the stage for heart attacks and strokes.

Dieting is the obvious method for reducing fatty deposits in the arteries which lead to coronary attacks. But the subject of proper dieting can be complicated. The fat content of the blood is mainly cholesterol, but even when such cholesterol-rich foods as egg yolks are cut off the diet, the body can manufacture cholesterol from other substances.

One recent medical study in fact suggested that excess protein, rather than a high fat diet, might be mainly responsible for atherosclerosis and heart attacks. This report merely added to the uncertainty about the effects of diet in heart attacks.

The best scientific information, according to the American Heart Association, "seems to indicate that cutting down on fat in the diet reduces the amount of various fatty substances, such as cholesterol, in the blood."

More research is necessary before the medical profession can reach final conclusions as to whether lowering the blood cholesterol content actually prevents atherosclerosis, heart attacks and strokes.

In the meantime dieting to get rid of fat is a good precaution, and for those who have already suffered one or two heart attacks it is essential.

Trim for health

A FRIGHTENINGLY high proportion of Canadians are not in favor of immigration, and a proportion of those who say they want a larger immigration do not really mean it — says The Printed Word, in a candid scrutiny of the Canadian attitude to this problem.

Canadians don't like immigration for a number of different reasons — says the writer. A number of Canadians don't like the religion of a number of immigrants. A number of Canadians who approve of the withdrawal of South Africa from the Commonwealth, are opposed to the entry of fellow human beings from countries where people of different color predominate.

A number of Canadians think that immigrants are crowded too many in a room or a house, forgetting that, however great the overcrowding in Canada, the conditions of living here are a vast improvement on what these people left behind them.

A number of Canadians are so parochial that they seriously dislike overhearing conversation in a language they don't understand.

A number of Canadians don't like competition. Immigrants are apt to want work and to be willing to work long hours and sometimes at wages below the union scale, whatever that is. Fortunes are being amassed by people who work hard, earn something and spend little. A number of Canadians are dogs in the manger. They don't want to develop the country themselves and are unwilling to see others striving for that purpose.

Proceeds from hospital sweepstakes

THERE IS A GOOD DEAL of current talk to the effect that Canadians could pay a substantial part of school and hospital taxes through legalized sweepstakes — observes the Fort Erie Letter-Review. The supposed great success of the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes is held up as example.

The fact is that, in its 30-year history, the most successful Irish sweep collected a pool of $16,800,000. Of this total 58½ per cent went to prizes, 16½ per cent to selling expense, and 25 per cent, or $4,200,000, to Irish hospitals. . . . Tax spending on publicly controlled schools in Canada now exceeds $1,000,000,000 annually, and hospital spending is about equal.

Politicians who prate about the potential gains from legalized sweeps (contends the Letter-Review) are merely attempting to delude the public that there is some easy way to pay for government spending.

Viewpoints and perspectives

NOT REPRESENTED. — It is no secret that many big business firms discourage political activity by their employees, especially executives. Yet representative government isn't entirely representative when one segment of society fails to participate in public service.

THE SOLUTION to unemployment is not nearly as complicated as is generally thought. Get business booming again and unemployment will disappear. Business cannot boom when products must be priced too high; and prices cannot come down while wages and taxes go up. — Humbolt (Sask.) Journal

Friday, May 14, 1886 —

At the St. Simeon's annual vestry meeting, the Rev. Wm. Sanders presided. A resolution asked consent of the Bishop to purchase a site for a new parsonage near Clunie's stone house, and to proceed with the building as soon as possible.

The 24th of May will soon be here. The Town Council has voted $80 to be spent to help make it more interesting.

The ladies of the First Presbyterian Church (Rev. Mr. Mackie's) will hold a sale of useful and fancy articles in the Victoria Hall on May 24.

C. W. Hughes is opening a watchmaking and jewelry business at Mr. Brown's furniture store in Mr. Hope's block, Main Street.

55 YEARS AGO

Friday, May 11, 1906 —

The new train service is now in force. A number of boats and gasoline launches are on the river. Stores close two nights a week, and we have good accommodation — so Lachute should get its share of visitors and pleasant times.

A resolution of Lachute Board of Trade was presented at Town Council, urging improved roads and sidewalks.

Mayor J. E. Valois presided at the regular Council meeting, with Councillors Lyster, McGibbon, Hay, McFaul, Raymond, MacKimmie and Tessier present. Mr. John McGillivray was appointed as valuator.

The log drives of Messrs. McGibbon and McFaul have brought down around 100,000 logs — the largest drive ever seen on the West River.

A display in John McFaul & Son's show-window is sponsored by Gall & Jones, representatives of Cunard White Star — showing a sectional view of the liner "Queen Mary".

Stanley Langille, of this town, brought home several cups and prizes from the St. Jerome sports meet. His partner in the three-legged race was Gordon Bradley.

The Rev. Arnold Mathews, formerly of this town, occupied the United Church pulpit at St. Andrews on Sunday.

Alcidas Laurin has been awarded the contract for the new Ste. Anastasie Church, to be built with red granite from the St. Canut quarries.

THE EICHMANN TRIAL

Last night my wife and I watched 18 minutes of the Eichmann trial shown on TV. The program was late at night, so that children would not see it. It was so shocking to us that neither of us could get to sleep.

How could it happen? It seemed brutal beyond all belief — those terrible things done in the name of a Final Solution to the Jewish Problem.

We stared at Eichmann, sedate in his glass cage, a little, inconsequential-looking man, charged with the mass murder of millions.

How could he sit there and listen, without fainting away or going mad? How could he excuse himself on the grounds that his government had ordered him to conduct this awful thing?

In all the disgusting odor of it, there was only one comforting thought. It could happen only under a system where men like Eichmann became the robots of a totalitarian regime. It could not happen where men are free and value their freedom. Such treachery couldn't be bought by wealth or influence even from Capone-type goon squads; it is available only to all-powerful governments with every aspect of society in their command to bend to their compulsive will.

It is true that our system of limited government may not be perfect. It is true that men left relatively free may make mistakes, and some incongruities are certain. But in a free system, with government limited to governing, no group can get power necessary to conduct such a dastardly terror as that which took place under Hitler with such deadly efficiency.

Left free, we may spend too much on gadgets, and here and there some wealthy tycoon may buy mink dog collars or diamond-studded yachts — although I've never met the like. But I'll put up with some of that nonsense in preference to placing in the hands of any group complete control of our entire society.

I'll take freedom — spiritual and economic freedom — and gladly accept the responsibilities that go with it, rather than give up to any government, however benign and generous and helpful it may promise to be. I believe every Canadian, when offered some new government measure, should always ask this vital question: "How much freedom must I give up in return for this government gift?!"

"Pop goes the weasel"

By (the late) Lewis Milligan

The Watchman regrets to note the death of Mr. Milligan (May 1) since the writing of this article. The late J. Lewis Milligan, 85, was a prominent churchman — reporter, editor, poet, dramatist — and for the past 20 years had operated his own public relations bureau. He died suddenly in Tpronto. . . . A friend of the weekly newspapers, his articles will be missed by The Watchman and many other journals across Canada.

A balance sheet is my pet aversion, except for reading in bed, when it can put me immediately into a sound sleep. But I have just received one that kept me awake. It is issued by Anaconda American Brass Company Limited, and entitled, "Where Did the Money Go in 1960?"

The answer to that question is given in six columns, side by side, with one percentage figure in each. The figures come to life, for they are illustrated.

In the first column a hefty workman is depicted holding a big bag marked "52.6%", representing wages and salaries; vacation, sick and pension pay, hospital and life insurance, etc.

The second column shows a smaller man in a fedora, holding a bag marked "21.1%" for electric power, fuel oil, gas, lumber and numerous supply items, transportation, selling, advertising and other administration expenses.

The third column depicts a smaller man with a bag labelled "12.5%" for repairs, maintenance of buildings, heating, piping, etc.

A tiny man is depicted in the fifth column with a little bag marked "1.5%" for dividends to shareholders.

But the most illuminating information is contained in a following footnote: "Our direct wage bill is one thing. But much of what we pay out for other items also means wages for workers elsewhere. Directly or indirectly, wages probably constitute about 90 per cent of all payments. Dividends are the wages of the shareholders who are taxed on them. Profits are even less than taxes, and estimated dividends are only a small percentage of wages. Yet some people think that the owners get as much as the employees."

"A man who drives a space ship," I said.

"Well, I made a fool of myself, because I didn't know that," she said. "I thought it was part of a space ship, or something."

"It's one of those new words," I said. "I'll bet it isn't even in the dictionary. All right then — let's look it up."

I spoke with a feeling of hopeless resignation — something like the feeling that an alcoholic must have when he meets an old drinking crony in the street.

"Well, let's go and have a drink," he says heavily, knowing that once they enter a tavern they are bound to stay there until closing time, when they will inevitably stagger out, bump into a policeman, and spend the night in a cell.

I get the same premonition of doom when I say "All right — let's look it up in the dictionary." I am a word addict — a compulsive dictionary reader.

Once I dip into the dictionary, I know what lies in store for me. I will be found two or three hours later, hunched over the book, bleary-eyed and faint, still gulping down purple, fizzy nouns and adjectives — drunk with words.

Slowly I reached down for the big Webster and opened it near the end, thinking that "astronaut" might be in some section devoted to new words, at the back of the book.

But I landed among the "Y's" — about the worst possible place. This is where many of the strangest words are gathered.

For a word-addict, landing among the "Y's" is roughly equivalent to dropping through a trapdoor into the wine-cellar.

"What on earth is that?"

"At a guess I would say it described an ultra-conservative, hidebound, stuffy youth," I said. "A fusty young rustic. But that isn't the real definition. The dictionary says:—

" 'Young fustic. The wood of the European smoke tree, which yields an orange dye.' And here's another one," I went on. " 'Y-wryly.' "

"Why Riley?"

"No, 'Y-wryly,' " I insisted. "It means 'secretly.' At least, it used to mean that. It's marked 'obsolete.' "

"It should be," the girl in the office said.

I slipped back to the X's (Xiphiplastron — the fourth plate in the plastron of turtles) and then ran wildly through the Y's and Z's. . . .

Yajnavalkya (an early Hindu lawbook); yakalo (a creature produced by crossing the yak and cattalo); yutu (a Peruvian tinamou — and if you want to know what a tinamou is, look it up for yourself); zombiism (belief in the zombi) and Zyzzogeton (a genus of South American leaf hoppers).

"Well, that's the last one in the book, for sure," I said. "I'd like to see any other word get into the dictionary after 'Zyzzogeton.' I'll bet it can lick any word in the house."

Then a thought struck me. "By the way," I asked, "what was I looking up?"

"Astronaut."

"Oh, yes," I acknowledged, and thumbed through the book. "It isn't in here," I said.

This picture caused one lady to remark, "That is much more beautiful than the pictures we saw this afternoon in Hawkesbury — views of mountains and towns in Europe," adding also, "We have no need to go elsewhere looking for beauty." . . . The next W.I. meeting is to be held on the regular date, in the afternoon, at St. Mungo's Hall, and will include as well as business a demonstration by Miss Janet McOuat.

Mother's Day

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

One of the joys of Spring is watching baby chickens with their mother. In a charming verse in Viola Prate's "Journeying with the Year" (Ryerson) are these lines which are very suitable for Mother's Day:

"The little chickens clean their bills,
When mother starts to cluck
The goslings splash beside their bath
So does each frog and duck.
They like to keep their faces clean
For their mother wants them to,
I hope that little children
Behave as well, don't you?"

On the second Sunday in May boys and girls make a special effort to behave "as their mothers want them to".

Little did Miss Anna Jarvis dream when she originated the idea of a Mother's Day in Philadelphia, where it was first observed in 1908, that it would become so widely observed on this continent. During her later years she objected strenuously to the commercializing of her original plan of a day to honor mother.

Scoffers still laugh at special days as a plan to promote the sale of gifts. Others may complain that it is a poor kind of child who needs a Mother's Day as a reminder of his debt to his mother. Nevertheless, Mother's Day has grown each year in popularity. The good effects far exceed any undesirable results.

In a home where there are small children, this is one time when father can "go into a huddle" with his youngsters and plan a surprise for Mother. How little boys and girls love a secret! It may be very hard to keep, but what fun it is!

The gifts for Mother's Day are varied and they range from inexpensive ones to costly presents. As soon as a child is old enough to make a purchase for himself, and especially if he has his own allowance, a mother will appreciate very much some little article which he has chosen all himself.

One little girl went into a store and picked out a large, colorful mixing bowl which took her eye. Her mother did not particularly need another mixing bowl, but on the morning of Mother's Day, when she unwrapped the parcel, her small daughter said with shining eyes, "Mummy, it was the very nicest thing I could find anywhere!" Mothers value the gifts received on Mother's Day, not just for their value, or usefulness, but because they are an expression of love.

Plans for Mother's Day may well include one Sunday in the whole year when Mother does not get breakfast. Why not make the whole day a special holiday from housework for Mother?

If this is carried out, both father, and the children in a home, may be surprised to discover from their own experience, just how much time, and thought and energy are required for the routine tasks of making beds, tidying, preparing meals, and doing up the dishes!

This novel experiment might even lead to the family offering to take a little greater share in the regular home jobs. How much easier Mother's Day would be, or ordinary days in the year, if a son at school kept his own room "shipshape" or a daughter could be counted on to wash the dishes and tidy up after supper!

It is customary on Mother's Day to wear a flower in honor of her to whom that day is dedicated — a colored flower if one's mother is living, a white one if she is no longer alive. Flowers often best express the sentiments of love which we find it difficult to put into words.

Fathers whose mothers are alive will want to take time to give their mothers pleasure on Mother's Day as well as show appreciation for the good job of being a mother which their wife does. Mothers of little children realize, now they themselves have small ones to care for, something of the love and devotion which their own mothers once bestowed on them. They will tell their mother "I love you" because they know that "their mother wants them to" on Her Day.

GOLDEN PIE CRUST

If you want your top pie crust to be extra appetizing, extra short, just roll out your top crust and spread it with soft butter. Place it buttered side down on your pie . . . then bake.

Come over for coffee!

COCONUT ORANGE UPSIDE-DOWN COFFEE CAKE

Inviting people over for coffee is a friendly and relaxing way of entertaining nowadays. Many women gather at each other's homes for a "kaffee klatsch" several times a week. Others prefer having afternoon coffee parties after all the housework is done, or asking a few friends to drop over for coffee in the evening. On any such occasion, all that is required to make the event a success is good conversation, plenty of steaming coffee and something good to eat, such as a delicious home-made coffee cake.

This week's recipe for Coconut-Orange Upside-Down Coffee Cake has a rich tender dough that is baked over a sweet mixture of orange coconut, sugar and butter. As the cake bakes it rises to high and handsome proportions. Since it is not too sweet, the cake can also be served as a special breakfast treat.

Coconut-Orange Upside-Down Coffee Cake

(Yield — 1 coffee cake)

½ Cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon granulated sugar, 1 envelope active dry yeast, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, ¼ cup granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 2 cups (about) pre-sifted all-purpose flour, ¼ cup butter or margarine, ¼ cup granulated sugar, ¼ cup cut-up shredded or flaked coconut, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, 1 tablespoon orange juice.

Measure lukewarm water; stir in the 1 teaspoon sugar; sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well.

Meantime, cream the 3 tablespoons butter or margarine in a rather large bowl; gradually blend in the ¼ cup sugar and salt. Add egg and beat it in well; stir in dissolved yeast, the 1 tablespoon grated orange rind and 1 cup of the flour. Beat until smooth and elastic. Work in sufficient additional flour to make a soft dough — about 1 cup more. Turn out dough onto floured board or canvas and knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl. Grease tops. Cover. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 1½ hours.

Meantime, melt the ¼ cup butter or margarine in an 8-inch round layer cake pan; brush sides of pan with the fat. Combine the ¼ cup sugar, coconut, the 1 teaspoon grated orange rind and orange juice; spread in bottom of prepared pan. Punch down dough. Turn out onto lightly-floured board or canvas and knead until smooth. Pat or roll out dough to a 7-inch round and place over the coconut mixture. Grease top. Cover. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 45 minutes. Bake in a moderately hot oven, preheated to 375 deg. F., 25 to 30 minutes. Immediately it comes from the oven, invert pan over a serving plate and allow it to stand 1 minute. Remove coffee cake from pan.

Fathers don't always know best!

By tradition, the most feared things in Japanese life have always been: earthquakes, thunderstorms, fires and that man in the house — father — who ruled his family with an iron hand.

But conditions have changed with a recent survey — and some court cases — showing that Japanese youngsters now challenge the concept that their fathers are always right.

In a Yokohama junior high school, 250 boys and girls were questioned about filial piety, with 30 per cent declaring: "Children should criticize their parents because their parents are always wrong." Another 15 per cent stated: "Parents should listen to what their children have to say."

In the same vein, a Japanese father was recently summoned to court when his delinquent son claimed that he (his father) spent too much time carousing away from home. The father earned the sympathy of the magistrate, however, by explaining that "my value to the family seems to depend on the amount of my monthly salary. I feel humiliated when I hand over a thin pay envelope and my son says I'm old-fashioned when I give him advice. That's why I leave home. Because I'm not appreciated."

What has caused this change! The western influence probably, with Japan having gone modern in the post-war era.

United W.M.S. thank-offering and C.G.I.T. evening

An interesting afternoon was enjoyed by the ladies of Lachute United Church W.M.S. and friends at their recent Easter thank-offering meeting. Guests for the occasion were Mrs. Douglas Smith and a group of ladies from Dominion Douglas Church in Montreal, who took their audience on an imaginary trip to New Delhi, India, where the World Council of Churches will meet from November 18 to December 6, this year. This conference is a fellowship of churches binding together people of many communions which have one thing in common — they accept Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord.

Twelve members of the Lachute Auxiliary acted as delegates representing, respectively, Major Protestant Churches, National Churches of Western Europe, Minority Churches of Latin and Eastern Europe, 60% of the Protestant Churches of U.S.A., Independent Churches of Asia, Africa and South America, Patriarchates, Church of Greece and Church of Cyprus, Ancient Eastern Churches, Egypt, Ethiopia and South India, Old Catholic Churches of Europe; and U.S. people who came as observers — South Baptist Church in Southern U.S., and Russian Orthodox in Russia, Roman Catholic Ancient Churches (which includes churches dating back to the Ethiopean Eunuch and to St. Thomas).

Mrs. Beardsley welcomed the visitors to India, describing exotic scenes and strange customs. Mrs. Smith explained the Crest of World Council — the Church represented by a ship on the sea of life under the cross of Christ.

Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Davies and Mrs. Barbour each told something of the program of the World Council. Christian literature is distributed; primers and readers are prepared, and Christian magazines are published, but still 700,000,000 people are unable to read or write in Asia, Africa and in Latin Americas.

Young people in youth camps give their time and travel expenses to work at manual labour, side by side with people in distress.

Refuge services are an important item in the work of the churches. Loans to vocational schools to help re-build villages. Food, clothing and medical supplies are provided.

Mrs. Messenger conducted the worship service. Speaking on the theme of the study book for the World Council of Churches, "Jesus Christ, the Light of the World", she closed with the Welsh Benediction:

"May the road lie straight before thee,
May the Wind be always at thy back,
And may God hold thee
Always in the palm of His hand."

During the meeting two duets were beautifully rendered, by Mrs. Davies and Mrs. Messenger.

On the same evening the ladies of the W.M.S., along with mothers of the girls, were guests of the C.G.I.T. at their Re-affiliation Service. After the service, a program consisting of a skit, charades, singing and films, was enjoyed by the guests. Refreshments were served.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Deirdre Mungovan, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Audrey McKim gave up teaching six years ago to come east as editor of a children's magazine, "World Friends," because as she says: "once a teacher discovers that she is thinking more of the stories than the lessons she should be teaching, it is time to change jobs."

This week her fourth book, "Thorny's Hideaway," will be published and a fifth, "Lexy for Short" is scheduled for release next autumn.

She has won an Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire award for a fictional story on her life as a teacher.

Now living in Toronto, Miss McKim teaches Sunday School, edits the magazine, corresponds with her readers and is in the process of writing another children's book.

Tea Sandwich

Spring is tea party time, and what better way to celebrate the many showers for brides-to-be or the end of your club year than to serve unusual and fancy sandwiches with your favorite cake and cookie recipe.

The consumer section, Canada Department of Agriculture, offers these few pointers for the non-expert.

Use one to 1½ slices of bread ½-inch thick, which will provide two to three small sandwiches for each person. Fancy breads such as date and nut, cheese, fruit and banana are attractive for open-face ones.

The butter, which has been softened and creamed, should be spread lightly with a pliable knife or spatula. Use ½ tsp. butter for each slice and spruce up plain butter with a touch of nutmeg, cinnamon, poppy seed or crushed caraway or a herb such as thyme, basil, tarragon, minced parsley or onion.

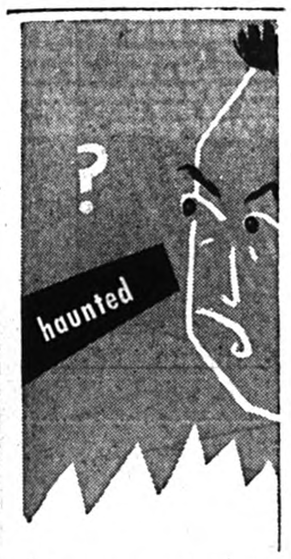

The filling or spread should be light in texture and in the amount applied. Creamed cheeses, vegetable or relish fillings and sweet fillings are good ideas. Finely chop all ingredients such as celery, pimento, nuts and pickles and use judgment with seasonings.

Fancy Shapes

For pinwheel sandwiches, cut thin slices of unsliced bread lengthwise, spread with butter and filling and remove crusts. At one end which will be the centre of the pinwheel, place a row of stuffed olives, pitted cherries, gherkins or dill pickle which are either plain or hollowed out and stuffed with cream cheese, dates, asparagus, stuffed celery, banana or cooked sausage. Roll up tightly, sealing the edge with butter or filling; wrap in waxed paper and place in the refrigerator for a few hours. To serve, cut each roll into six to eight pinwheels.

Roll-up sandwiches are made the same way as pinwheels but use ordinary sliced bread and a tiny centre garnish such as asparagus tip or a piece of watercress. To serve, cut diagonally in half or cut into bite-size pieces. Toast them in oven or broiler and serve on cocktail picks.

Rotarians observe anniversary

Rotarians of Brownsburg-Lachute joined with more than half a million of their fellow Rotarians on six continents, as they commemorated the 56th anniversary of the founding of Rotary. The birthday of this world-wide fellowship of business and professional executives, was celebrated by the local Rotary Club at its last meeting in the Brownsburg Legion Hall. The 16th anniversary of the local club was also celebrated.

Paul P. Harris
Founder of Rotary

World-Wide Program

In commenting on the program of Rotary, Bob Wyse, president of the Rotary Club here, said:

"Rotary activities throughout the world are based on the same general objectives as those of our own club — the development of fellowship among business and professional men, the betterment of communities, leading boys and girls into good citizenship, the promotion of high standards in businesses and professions, and the advancement of international understanding, good will and peace.

"The one basic objective of Rotary," he continued, "is its ideal of service, which is to be thoughtful of and helpful to others. To attain this objective, Rotary seeks all that which brings people together and avoids all which separates them. This is the reason why Rotary has become a world-wide institution, whose ideals have been accepted by men differing widely in language, customs, and historical backgrounds."

1961 Convention

Rotary's 1961 convention will be held in Tokyo, Japan, May 28-June 1, when thousands of Rotarians from around the world will meet to rededicate themselves to Rotary's motto of "Service Above Self."

Local Club Is Active

Supplementing the international aspects of Rotary, President Wyse briefly outlined the history of the Rotary Club of Brownsburg-Lachute which was organized in 1945 and which now has 51 members. In commenting on its activities, he described as its major projects:

"My mother moulded me"

By the Rev. John Shrier

You might think of this as a tribute to my mother — yet many a man, if asked, could truthfully say, "My mother moulded me." Mother has a master's touch when it comes to moulding children, and especially boys. Some say our mould is cast before we are born, but I prefer to believe that God has mothers to help make that mould.

Samuel, a boy of Old Testament days, was born in answer to a mother's prayer. His mother carried on from that point to dedicate him to God's service and, under God, she moulded his life. Samuel became a prophet of God, and God returned to bless his people because of his great spiritual influence.

Respected Mother

Mother, if of the godly sort just mentioned, has the deepest respect of her family. My mother has our respect mostly because of her integrity and Christ-like spirit. She accepted Christ into her own heart and life, then, with amazing effectiveness, proceeded to lead us to Christ.

Mothers who demand the greatest respect are mothers with a sense of spiritual obligation. We respect mother for keeping us clean, well dressed, and well mannered; but, most of all, we respect her for leading us to know Jesus Christ. My mother is respected for going out to work to provide for her family, while father was bedridden with T.B. for ten long years. Yet we respect her more for the heritage she provided in Christ, which will be good for this life and that which is to come.

Responsible Mother

Napoleon was once asked, "What is the greatest need of France?" His answer was, "Good mothers." . . . Good mothers, without question, are responsible mothers. My mother took this responsibility and taught us how to pray, took us to Sunday School and church, and saw that we went to the youth services.

Good mothers are needed today. Mothers are needed who will feel responsible to TAKE, not SEND, their children to Sunday School and church. Mother needs to know how to pray, that she may teach her children. Churches, ministers, and Sunday School teachers, have a great responsibility to the children — but yours, Mother, is greater.

The prayer for all mothers this Mother's Day is found in Numbers, 6:24-26: "The Lord bless thee, and keep thee: The Lord make his face to shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee: the Lord lift up his countenance upon thee, and give thee peace." Amen!

MOTHER

She always leaned to watch for us,
Anxious if we were late,
In winter by the window,
In summer by the gate.

And though we mocked her tenderly,
Who had such foolish care,
The long way home would seem more safe
Because she waited there.

Her thoughts were all so full of us,
She never could forget! . . .
And so I think that where she is
She might be watching yet.

Waiting till we come home to her,
Anxious if we are late —
Watching from heaven's window,
Leaning from heaven's gate.

Demonstration on forestry projects, Thurs. afternoon

The Rouge Valley Association, which groups permanent and summer residents in the 2,000 square-mile watershed of the Rouge River, will be holding its first official function Thursday, May 11, at l'Ascension in the Laurentians. The aim of this association, the only one of its kind, organized and operated without government control or support, is the total rehabilitation of the Valley in terms of reforestation, recreation, industry, anti-pollution measures, and development of fish and game.

Since this event is taking place during Arbor Week, it will be highlighted by the planting of a symbolic tree in the schoolyard at l'Ascension.

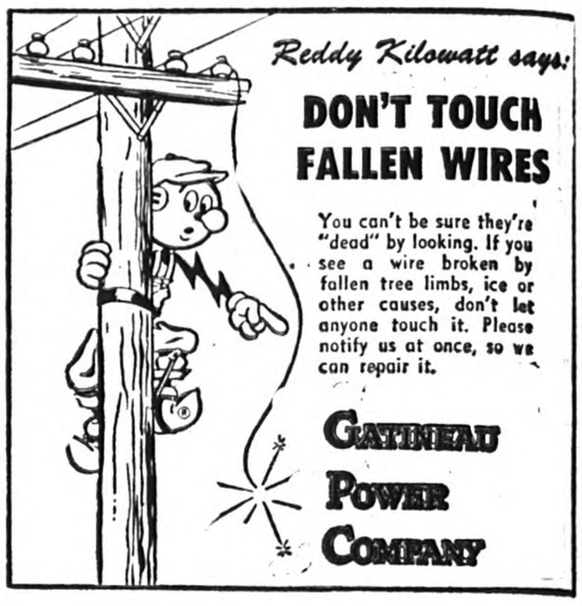

Later, a mass tree planting will be carried out by machine. Visitors will be shown the results of a reforestation program started in one area three years ago and will also be taken to examine a clearing project on a nearby terrain.

On the same day and at the same location, the Lower Ottawa Valley Forest Protective Association is organizing a display of forest fire fighting and protective techniques. Since the first long week-end of the year comes on May 20, 21 and 22, the forest protective associations are anxiously trying to get across the message to fishermen and week-end campers that certain rules have to be abided by in the woods and that extreme care should be taken at all times. The fire demonstrations will include use of planes and ground crews in combatting this hazard.

National Ayrshire sale on May 22

Plans have been completed for what promises to be another outstanding Ayrshire event — the second annual National Ayrshire Sale, to be held at the Arena, Huntingdon, Que., on Monday, May 22. It is the same setting as the 1960 sale, where record prices were obtained when 39 head sold for an average of $962, and a bull sold for $4,800.

The sale is being managed by a special committee of which Douglas A. Ness, Howick, Que., is chairman.

Cyclists pass tests for permits

A large turnout of young cyclists submitted to riding and road safety tests sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the police department last Saturday, in the school yard of l'Ecole Supérieure. Caught by the photographer in this picture is young Brian Kingsbury, navigating the obstacles on his bicycle, with Sgt. Gilles Poirier and two Chamber of Commerce committeemen, Miville Trickey and Clifford Lowe.

Out of the 284 applicants, only 35 failed to pass the tests. These, along with any others, will be eligible to try again, at the same location at 9 a.m. this Saturday. Only one of last week's participants, Miss Diane Desjardins (daughter of J. R. Desjardins, 470 Tessier Blvd.) attained a perfect score of 200 points.

Big program for Lachute Fair; entries closing

The big event of the year, on June 14-15-16-17, is less than a month away, and as usual there is a wide and interesting program planned for Lachute Spring Fair. Livestock classes are bigger and better, and there will be a spectacular horse show.

On Saturday afternoon, the Richelieu Club will stage a program of harness racing.

Saturday night, Legion Branch 70 will feature Magic Tom, famous TV magician, a greased pig contest, and numerous other sparkling events.

All in all it's a good time in store for those who attend — so get ready for the Big Show. . . . And for those exhibiting, remember that entries for livestock close on May 19.

Ch. of Commerce study on traffic disfavors use of parking meters

A brief prepared by the Police Department containing suggestions on traffic parking, was presented to the councillors at their regular monthly meeting. The six-page memorandum was submitted by the chairman of the civic improvement committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Florian Guitard.

The brief had been prepared by the committee. It accepts many of the police recommendations, adds new ones, and rejects the idea of installing parking meters on Main Street. Notably, it is recommended to limit parking in the Main Street centre strip (Barron Ave. to Bethany) to 60 minutes from 9 a.m. Friday to 6 p.m. Saturday; and roadside parking to 30 minutes on the same stretch, same hours.

Parking Meters

The civic improvement committee had studied the report of the Police Chief and Commissioner L. Armstrong relative to parking meters, and taken note of certain paragraphs in the National Academy of Science bulletin on this subject.

"Contrary to the opinion of meters-on-commission salesmen, the Chamber opposes this measure, which would benefit neither the town, its businessmen, nor motorists concerned," says the brief, in effect. "Shopping centres and neighboring competitors would stand to benefit, at the expense of our established stores. We are not convinced that parking meters would be a source of revenue. Montreal has promoted free parking areas, which indicates the administration in this case does not consider parking meters profitable."

Other Recommendations

Besides the limitation of parking on Main Street, the brief has other suggestions.

It is urged that the town should make its civic lot at the corner of Barron available for parking; also, erect signs directing motorists to free parking lots maintained by the Bank of Montreal, the Bank of Nova Scotia, Beaton's Pharmacy, Lamarche Furniture Store, etc.

It is suggested that parking be prohibited within 25 feet of an intersection and from entrance to the hospital; and that the police shall rigidly enforce the observance of traffic and parking regulations. . . . "If the police do their duty in this respect, there will be fewer businessmen and 'bureaucrats' who consider Main Street as a municipal garage; they will park their cars elsewhere. And as regards traffic, it is time to realize that the business section is not a speedway. Consideration and courtesy have their place."

As a conclusion on parking meters, the brief contends that Main Street is sufficiently wide that meters are not justified. "If, on the other hand, the town's financial status demands this as an essential source of revenue, it will require parking meters throughout the town — in front of churches and in residential sections, without discrimination."

Further recommendations, many concurring with the police department report, cover regulations for other congested sections of the town thoroughfares.

Second anti-polio series concluded

The final series of anti-polio vaccine distribution sponsored by the Canadian Legion was concluded Monday. Successful clinics were held in Arundel and Huberdeau in the afternoon, and the Lachute-Brownsburg clinic was held Monday night.

Emile Pelletier, executive-secretary of the Quebec Chapter, March of Dimes, was in attendance at the three clinics. He informed the local Legion president that, this coming fall, the Canadian Foundation for Poliomyelitis and Rehabilitation would be conducting clinics throughout the province with anti-influenza serum.

Branch 70, Royal Canadian Legion, wishes to thank the following people for their able assistance at this last clinic — Dr. Guy Rondeau, Huberdeau; Women's Institute, Arundel; Dr. L. Turcotte, Mrs. J. F. Gorman, Mrs. Gerald Walker, Lachute. It is most gratifying to have public-spirited residents such as these assist the Legion in its endeavors.

New councillor at Brownsburg

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — Laughlin (Rocky) Baccardax was elected to Seat No. 3 in the Brownsburg town council, with a majority of 115 votes, in Monday's municipal election. Total number of votes cast in the four polls was 415 — approximately 33% of the total eligible votes.

Flash-back – Brownsburg fire

On a Saturday night, April 15, 1944, the principal shopping section of Brownsburg was wiped out by fire, with loss of over a quarter-million dollars. On Sunday morning a considerable stretch of Main Street lay in ruins (as shown in this Watchman picture by Don Titman).

Among establishments and residences destroyed were — Provincial Bank; Maitland restaurant and dance hall; Dr. P. H. Belleau, office and residence; Beamish Store; Parisseau & Sons butcher shop, hardware and drygoods store; A. Paquette, barber shop and dwelling; G. Paquette, shoemaker; R. Nadon, jewelry store; F. S. Kettyle, jewelry store; L. A. Pharand, butcher shop; Dr. R. Belliveau, dentist's office and residence; and twelve other apartments and residences. Lachute and Hawkesbury fire brigades were called to assist.

The Watchman's columnist of that day, the late M. V. (Mike) Trayers, wrote a column of commentaries headed "Incidents at the Fireside".

Mayor Gaetan Paquette

Citizens of Ayersville turned out to the polls in large numbers last Monday, to re-elect by a slim 29-vote majority their retiring mayor, Gaetan Paquette. Mr. Paquette polled 447 votes against his opponent, ex-Councillor Maurice Dumas, with 418.

Four polling booths were open in the municipality for this enthusiastic contest. Mr. Dumas had a 40-vote majority in two of these, while Mr. Paquette had a 69-vote plurality in the other two.

Three council candidates also lined up with Maurice Dumas in the popular fray, and each won hands-down against his opponent. Edgar Cyr scored a 174-vote lead; Gaston Plamondon a 127-vote majority; and Douglas Simon a still more impressive 407 majority. . . . Their opponents were Hervé Pharand, Gerard Proulx and Philippe Mallette, respectively.

Mr. Simon was a veteran councillor re-elected to office, while Messrs, Cyr and Plamondon are newcomers to the civic ranks, replacing Napoleon Corbeil and Rosaire Quenneville in the council.

Secretary Jacques Poitras was returning officer for the election. He reports that 85% of the eligible voters exercised their franchise.

The Lachute High School annual spring concert was presented last Friday before a very large audience, in the school auditorium.

Principal Royal opened the proceedings with a word of welcome to the parents and friends present and informed them that the songs and dances in the evening's program were mostly based on folk music. He reminded the audience that folk songs and dances were alive for thousands of years before the more academic forms of music, and were the germ of all existing music.

After a fine opening by the Senior Choir, who sang the folk song "Bobbie Shaftoe", followed by "Madame Jeannette" and closing with "Drink to Me Only" — Grades IA and IB performed a short play called "Spring Fashions". It would appear that Spring brings its problems to the bird world as well as to us humans. . . . Unfortunately for Master and Miss Robin, the attempt to change their old ways ends in trouble and they are glad to return to the old, accepted customs.

Grades 2A and 2B took the audience back to the stirring days of Bonnie Prince Charlie, with the lovely old air of "The Bluebells of Scotland", complete with banners and tartan sashes.

Grades 3A, 3B and 3C entertained the company with their puppets in three well-known folk-songs, "Joe and Jess", "Barnyard Song" and "Pretty Polly Oliver". The children revealed a delightful sense of humor and a keen appreciation of timing.

Grades 4A and 4B danced four well-known folk dances. Bruce Jeffreys made an admirable announcer and the girls in their brightly-colored skirts, gave the scene a gay and vivacious air.

Grade 5A repeated their choral-speaking poem, which, under the inspiring direction of Mrs. Fraser, their grade teacher, won the cup for the third year in succession. It was an appealing analysis of (as the title says) "What are little girls and boys?"

Grade 5B sang three negro spirituals, a very fruitful source of folk music, and Grade 5C was represented by Donna MacLean and Judith Stevenson who recited with animation the nonsense rhyme by Edward Lear, "The Owl and the Pussycat".

Grades 6 and 7 were represented by the Junior Choir, who gave a lively rendering of three Mexican songs, accompanied by Billy MacKimmie playing the Mexican rattles, Roy Billingham, the castagnets, and Harvey Burton with his guitar. The three dancers were Sandra Petersen, Heather Menzies and John Villeneuve.

A completely new venture was the presentation of close harmony by a small group who call themselves "The Merrytones", who sang three old favorites, "Sentimental Journey", "Sweet Adeline", and the "Whiffenpoof's Song".

To many people, Joyce Plummer's singing of "Alice Blue Gown" and "A heart that's free" proved to be the highlight of the evening. She sang very charmingly, and was delightfully supported by her chorus of pretty girls in blue.

Mrs. G. R. Rigby, Music Director of the school, who produced this outstanding concert, was presented with a beautiful bouquet of red roses by little Linda Hanley (Grade IB) on behalf of the choir.

Before the last item on the program Mrs. F. R. Phelan from St. Andrews East very kindly presented Joyce Plummer with a travelling case from the Director and the Choir. Joyce has been a leading soloist for the past three years, and has helped a great deal towards the building-up of the Senior Choir. She will be very much missed.

A very successful evening was brought to a close by both Senior and Junior Choirs joining to sing Parry's setting of the poem by William Morris, "Jerusalem", followed by the Vesper Hymn. Douglas Jenkins (Grade 7A) sang the three verses very sweetly as a solo, and the combined choirs responded with "Jubilate Amen", an appropriate ending to the concert.

Tribute is due to the splendid work of the costume committee, headed by Mrs. G. Tabrett and Mrs. J. Menzies; also to Principal Royal and members of the staff and students who helped to make this concert such a success.

"The Merrytones", a novel and charming group which sang old favorites, contributing to the popular appeal of Lachute High School's annual spring concert last Friday.

New approaches in Cancer education described at Lachute Branch meeting

The final meeting of the season of the Canadian Cancer Society, Lachute Branch, was held in the Court House on May 9. The president, Mrs. W. M. Cottingham, was in the chair, and a visitor to the meeting was Mrs. Leonard Ayers, who founded this branch and who is now vice-president of the Quebec Division, Canadian Cancer Society.

On behalf of the local branch, Mrs. Mac E. Walker expressed a vote of thanks for the excellent results obtained by the Campaign committee, headed by Chairman Jim McOuat and Co-chairmen Dr. Eric Mongeon and Armand Desrosiers. With still some contributions coming in, it is expected the final count will see Argenteuil well over its objective. To date the total received is approximately $6,000.

After the business meeting, Mrs. C. L. Duncan, chairman of the Education committee, Lachute section, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. John B. A. Castle, the Canadian Cancer Society's Director of Education for the Province of Quebec. Mrs. Castle was accompanied by Mrs. Norman Olson, secretary of the Information Service. They drove from Montreal in the new Mobile Information Service car, the first in operation in the province. Mrs. Castle explained, this was a gift to the Society by a young man in memory of both parents who had died of cancer.

Mrs. Castle offered congratulations on the outstanding success of the campaign, and complimented the Lachute Branch on their splendid work in this district. She then went on to outline the plans for education in the fall, the first being an Anti-Smoking program for the schools. Mrs. Castle said it was important to start this program with young children eight and nine years of age. An education kit, consisting of film strip, teaching script and pamphlets, is being made available to schools.

Mrs. Castle explained the services of the new Mobile Information Unit. Staffed by Mrs. Olson and a nurse, this car tours industries around Montreal and vicinity, showing short film strips and distributing pamphlets on cancer education.

Mrs. Castle mentioned that, from now on, all films made available to the public will have sound tracks in French as well as in English. All literature is printed in both languages. She said that several old films are being withdrawn from circulation because of the advance in present-day research.

Mrs. Castle went on to tell of the success of the morning shows, "For Women Only", held in theatres around Montreal. They reached a larger audience, and people seemed less hesitant about asking questions of the attending doctors. Theatre space was donated, and word of the shows was circulated through women's groups, also handbill announcements were distributed by the Boy Scouts.

Mrs. Olson described more fully the function of the new Mobile Unit.

Mrs. A. M. Vessie proposed a vote of thanks on behalf of the gathering, and said they had been given new impetus to their work.

Tea was served by the House committee, Mrs. A. J. Quinn and Mrs. W. E. Snadden.

The next meeting will be called for October.

(Our District Correspondent)

Arundel —

The nominations for council, held Wednesday, May 10, resulted in the re-election by acclamation of the retiring mayor and councillors. . . . The Council now comprises, in addition to Mayor Dr. W. L. Morrison — Councillors Hugh Boyd, Wm. Charron, Earl Gray, Harold McMahon, Arthur Scott and Ernest Swail.

Dollard Day to be celebrated Sunday at Carillon

Dollard Day will be observed on Sunday, May 21, at Carillon, commemorating the Long Sault exploit which immortalized the French-Canadian patriot and his valiant comrades.

The celebration will not be as elaborate as last year, which marked the 300th anniversary of Dollard Des Ormeaux' heroic stand against the Indians. However, in simplicity the sacrifice of Dollard and his 17 compatriots will be impressed upon young Canadians as they attend and witness the ceremonies.

The day's program has been drawn up as follows:

10.00 a.m. Outdoor mass to be celebrated near the Dollard monument.

8.30 p.m. Folk dancing by the Escarcelle troupe from Ste. Therese.

The organizers confidently hope there will be a good attendance at these ceremonies — the progress on the Carillon Dam project being an added incentive for visitors to enjoy an outing in this area.

In the event of rain, the observances will be postponed until the following Sunday, May 28.

Farm buildings, livestock burned

Fire razed a barn and stable owned by Willie Gertsch, R.R. 2, Lachute, on Thursday of last week in a blaze which claimed the lives of several head of cattle.

Members of the Lachute Fire Brigade were summoned to the scene shortly before four p.m., and remained at the fire almost four hours. Three streams of water were played on the blaze, water being pumped from the river.

The house and other outbuildings in the path of the fire were saved, along with some of the farm machinery.

Pleasing canvases seen at local art exhibition

The opening, or "vernissage", last Saturday afternoon was an occasion for the reunion of local patrons of the arts, enthusiasts and a number of professional artists.

The gathering was welcomed by the director of the Centre, Mr. Jean Laforest, who also thanked the exhibitors. He made special reference to three artists from these parts — Guy Racine, a promising graduate of l'Ecole des Beaux Arts; Mme Janine Leroux-Guillaume, one of Quebec's few women engravers, who has an example of her work presently in an international exhibition in Czechoslovakia; and Paul "Tex" Lecor, whose canvases are becoming better known in Montreal.

Mayor Fernand Legault, Q.C., as honorary patron of this event, commended the high quality of the exhibition and expressed his pride in belonging to a community of such favorable repute in the realm of art. The mayor warmly congratulated Mr. and Mrs. Laforest in promoting this exposition.

The collection this year includes 45 oil and watercolor paintings, a few engravings, and a wood sculpture. Subjects in most instances are conventional landscapes. Those, in the minority, treated in a modern manner — also the few abstracts — are both eye appealing and stimulating. The variety adds immensely to the attractiveness of this display — which remains open to the public daily from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m. until next Sunday, inclusive.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week will be busy days for delegates to the 29th Quebec Provincial Convention of the Royal Canadian Legion, for which Branch 70, Lachute, will act as host.

The public are cordially invited to attend the opening ceremonies, to take place Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in Lachute Auditorium. This is a colorful and impressive ceremony which everyone should enjoy; guest speaker will be the Hon. Paul W. Earle, O.B.E., C.D., Minister of Revenue for Quebec.

Thursday afternoon, from 3.30 to 4.30 o'clock, a band concert will be given in the Memorial Park by the Longue Pointe Ordnance Band.

Having this convention in Lachute is a considerable honor for the town, and it is hoped the public will lend their support and cooperate by extending a hearty welcome to the delegates.

Voice from Labrador

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Spring and the shape of things to come

Sept Iles, April 26 —

Labrador, the word meaning "the land that God forgot", somehow seems very out of place when you get up into this country. Certainly it gives the impression of being a cold, unforgiving land, and in the short time we've been here, we have thought the same thing. After today though, I don't think we could ever think of it this way again. Imagine, if you can, a bright sun — not a cloud in the sky, with just a trace of wind — listening to the snow and ice melt with a song all their own. Maybe you won't understand this, but listening to sounds like this makes you wonder just how much of Nature's melodies are missed. Nature's symphony — dull sounds of the ice getting ready for its run to the rivers — higher-pitched sounds of the already running water from the snow, — and occasional sounds of the birds. The light winds are warm, and their gentle push against the winter-bound trees seems to be awakening them.

Huge flocks of ducks and geese have been going over for the past two days. Watching them, you wonder just how many haven't made it back to their breeding grounds. There is no sight more throbbing than a flight of geese honking their way northward. The tireless beat of the wings, the honking as they go by, and the stillness when they have disappeared. . . . Then along come the ducks, with the rapid flicking of their wings that seems to be all action in the sky. Yet they seem to be in sight much longer than the geese. Too bad they don't call more often.

Another story on the Chef. (You may think these are some stories that didn't happen; but they are true.) Today he baked a big ham for the gang, with all the trimmings, cloves, pineapple, etc., put it out to cool off before serving — and along comes a squirrel who likes cloves. This marauder didn't touch anything except the cloves, and boy, did he go for them! It even had the nerve to take one when the Chef came barging out of the kitchen. And the Chef not being able to speak English very well, it's a revelation to hear some of the names he gives these PETS. This particular squirrel was called a Cochon, a Dog Robber, T'ief, a Canadian Robber, and a number of equivalents in French. . . .

It sure is great to see a bunch of fellows, who are not having it too easy, laugh until the tears run down their faces. We probably wouldn't pay any attention to incidents like this at home, but up here, where a laugh is as good as a million dollars, these things do make a break in camp. Truthfully there hasn't been very much humor for the past couple of days, but after this episode you could see the fellows starting to lighten up just a little. . . . Thank God for little squirrels that can do things to people like this.

April 27 —

We finally managed to get all the boats cleared from the snow and ice, and now comes the real work — getting them fixed up for the coming season. It seems last year the Chief Guide was in a big hurry to get out — so the boats were not put up on proper blocks or cleaned up in any way; now they are a real mess. On top of all this, the damage unrepaired from last season's operations, sure makes you wonder about people.

There are ten of these boats, all fibreglass, not cheap by any means; in the $650.00 class. But from what I saw this afternoon, three of these boats are finished. From hitting rocks at full speed, they have split about one third of the way down the hull. This has been patched up with tar, rags and fibreglass, and they don't look too bad. When you start digging into these spots, however, then the damage is revealed. But there will be no shortage of boats or motors for that matter; five more boats came in with us. There are ten 12 h.p. motors and three 18 h.p. with more 12's due in, sometime in May. A lot of money has been invested in this camp, and it seems a shame to have good equipment spoiled because of carelessness. There are also five canoes coming, and these I sure will like to use. These waters from what I have seen of them are not for motorboats. Too many rapids, much too shallow for outboards.

• • •

Now for some news on the fishing. As I told you, the Ouananiche could be seen very clearly. I have been going down to the rapids at night and giving them a fly, barbless, so they can be released by loosening the line. I have caught and released nine in the last six nights, fishing about two hours at a time. The largest would be about 6 lbs., the smallest about 3 lbs. They take a fly very readily, even among the floating ice with only a limited stretch of open water to fish. They hit anything, anyhow, and at any depth. The strike is a great sensation; you just feel the thud as it hits, then next is the jump in the air! Ouananiche are noted for this, of course, and well they might be. One small one flipped out of the water 11 times just as fast as I can type this.

Strange to say, during all this action not once has a Speckled Trout hit. Possibly because of the ferocity of the Ouananiche in going after the fly. They sure are jet-propelled all the way.

We saw a Golden Eagle and an Osprey late this afternoon, Naturally the Osprey was fishing for a meal, but the Eagle was just cruising around. He should get good pickings in this area; lots of Partridge, Ptarmigan and the rest he might see. Maybe the odd otter too. I think he would leave them alone, however. After all, why fight for your meals when you can get them much easier.

One thing I have not mentioned before: the sudden changes in the weather. By sudden, I mean there is no in-between, it's either very cold, or (candidly speaking) lousy.

This morning was beautiful, clear but a chilly 22 degrees; this afternoon, just the opposite. First, a clear sky, then a threat of snow and rain. There seems to be no warning — making it very tough if you are working outside, as I am. Me, I have to shed my clothes at the first sign of warmth. Do I get fooled! I'll never get a tan up here; it will probably be a clothes-burn, from putting them on and taking them off so much!

The motors in the camp are West Bends, with head plant in Orillia, Ont. A mechanic came in to fix all these motors for us. The poor guy didn't know what he was getting into when he came up here. After all, Orillia is some distance from Lake Ashuanipi and, as he said, he never heard of it when they told him to get down to Seven Islands and "take a plane in from there." He missed the plane and came by our special Cattle, Freight, Passenger train. Some fun! Speed is all that can be seen around his workshop right now. He hopes to get out of here by Friday. HE HAS HOPES.

Time honored sport calls for teamwork

Lachute and Brownsburg have pulled against each other and they have pulled together—for years—not only in Tug-of-War, but in many other sports and activities. The above C-I-L team pulled against other Brownsburg, Lachute, Kilmar and Grenville teams at the Rotary Night of the Lachute Spring Fair last year.

All members of the team are shown in the picture, and they represent many departments of the Ammunition Division: Anchor man Aimé Leboeuf, Power House; Mander Gardiner, Industrial Engineering; Carl Clausen, Personnel; Paul Emile Guimond, Metallic; Harvey Wilson, Electrical Maintenance (captain and son of an early-days team member); Bill MacKiddie, Guard; Lloyd Kennedy, Detonators; Roland Joly, Bullet Dept.; Florent Fortin, Carpenter; and Leonard Morrow, Metallic. Not shown is coach Lem Wilson, retired carpenter foreman.

This team took the trouble to practise conscientiously, but C.I.P. took the cup, and "Manny" Wilson claims that contenders will have to be really good to outpull the champions this year!

In the "good old days" this wasn't the case. The Dominion Cartridge team, as it was called, were "top dogs". When they competed against such teams as Molsons, on picnic day in Brownsburg, the whole countryside turned out to support the local team.

Those with good memories recall there were Walter Townsend, anchor-man, Dave Lindly, McManus, Danis and Sam Wilson on the team. Lem Wilson did some coaching. (If you can add names to this list, please phone or write Wes Freeland, Brownsburg, LE 3-6665.)

Earlier, much earlier, the "Argenteuil" team journeyed to Dominion Park in Montreal East to pull against the Montreal Highlanders.

The Watchman of September 10, 1909, reported the following, averaging 210 lbs. per man — Geo. Rogers, Harry Neil, Walter Wert, P. Funcheon, J. Moore, Sam Clifford, Geo. and Bob Silverson, O. Lefebvre and W. J. Rogers, with Bob Todd as captain.

According to The Lachute Watchman, they brought back the cups and medals. Since J. S. Giles was keenly interested in the organization and activities of the team, you can still find the cup at The Watchman Office.

In the good old days there apparently was no time limit, since one pull lasted for an hour! More interested in the safety of the contestants, the Rotary Club limited the pulls to three minutes last year. Rules will be circulated to the participating teams within the next few days. Some of them have started to practise already. June 15 will not be long.

On Rotary Night at the Fair you will also see the young riders play musical stalls, calf catching and speed-milking.

Scouting activities

Arundel

The newly-formed Arundel Brownie Pack and their leaders were invited by Mrs. M. Wilson, District Commissioner, to attend a Girl Guide and Brownie rally at the Harrington Tree Farm on Saturday, May 13. Many district packs were in attendance, and a very interesting afternoon was spent.

Grenville —

From Grenville Scout Troop comes the news of a camping week-end enjoyed by 14 boys out of a troop of 15. The boys went to Rockcliff on Friday evening, May 5, and returned home Sunday, May 7. The weather was of all varieties — cold, windy, sunny and finally rain. The campers spent the time passing tests on fire-lighting and cooking. There was a hike, and also, some time spent on camp gadgets.

It was the first overnight camp-out for a few of the boys, and all enjoyed the experience. The troop were fortunate in regard to transportation to the site, by the co-operation of the Group Committee. A few slight burns and cuts were reported, but no casualties.

BELL LINES

by Bob Bell, your telephone plant foreman

Back in 1911, 246 telephone people gathered in Boston for the first convention of The Telephone Pioneers of America. Today, 50 years later, the triangular emblem shown above is worn by some 202,000 men and women throughout North America who proudly call themselves Pioneers. There are 12,000 Pioneers in Canada and this month many of them will gather in Toronto for the 21st Convention of the Charles Fleetford Sise Chapter — an all-Canadian chapter. . . . Jim Menzies of Lachute is a typical Pioneer in this community. All Pioneers here as elsewhere have one important thing in common—they must have completed 21 years of service in the telephone business. The word "service" is probably the key to the Pioneer movement. On the job the Pioneer like his fellow employees devotes his time to service — telephone service. How natural then for the Pioneer to spend his leisure time serving his fellow employees and his community. You'll find the Pioneer visiting the sick, helping his fellow Pioneers, promoting hobby interests and taking an active role in community projects. It's this SPIRIT OF SERVICE that has kept the Pioneer organization thriving over the years. It has made them a credit to the telephone industry, to their fellow employees and to their communities.

Like most parents in Lachute you have probably spent many anxious moments worrying about your youngsters when they are away from home for a good part of the day. If you could only hear from them and know they're alright, specially if they're late for a meal or are delayed on their way home. Well, there's one good way to set your mind at ease: encourage your youngsters to call you from a phone booth. There's nearly always a handy outdoor booth nearby — at stores, service stations, on the streets and highways. Some parents make sure their youngsters have a dime with them at all times expressly for this purpose. You'll also find a booth a mighty welcome sight when you're in a hurry to make a phone call on the go — and so convenient, too, in bad weather or late at night. They're there for your convenience; we hope you and your family use them often!

Do you remember names easily? Or are you like a friend we know who calls everyone "Doctor" or "Colonel" because he can never remember names? When he meets two people at the same time and can't recall their names he introduces them like this: "Oh, by the way, Doctor, have you met the Colonel here?" Then there's the sneaky type who says, "Say, what was your last name again?" He hopes the fellow will give him his full name. And there's the fearless type who recklessly says the first name that comes into his head on the assumption that 80 per cent of the time he'll be right. We've all probably tried at least one of these tactics at some time or other, which just goes to show that our memory isn't always as good as we think it is. The same thing applies to telephone numbers. It's a lot safer to look the number up in the directory or Blue Book of Telephone Numbers and write it down before dialing. This will save the embarrassment and delay of reaching a wrong number and we won't have to say, "Oops, sorry Doctor, I was trying to reach the colonel!"

Study Day, May 27, by Quebec Association for Retarded Children

Attention of all interested in the welfare of retarded children is drawn to a special study day, being held May 27 at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal.

Guest speaker at the noon luncheon will be Mr. Emelien Lafrance, Minister of Social Welfare, and it is most important that as many should attend as possible.

There will be a full program during the day, with the business session starting at 9.30 a.m. Various stages in the teaching and management of schools will be considered, and authoritative speakers will be on hand to answer questions on such topics as Curriculum, Branch Administration, Education Administration, Fund Raising, Recreation. A summer camp film, on 1960 at Camp Keesiikaa, will also be shown.

A cordial invitation is extended, and those planning to attend this gathering are asked to phone Mrs. R. Cairns, Lachute (LO 2-6085).

Somebody is hiding something in your community — perhaps in a locked room upstairs (writes R. H. MacDonald, Executive-Editor of The Western Producer). They don't go out much and don't like anybody to come in, in case they find out. But something they perhaps don't know is that elsewhere in the country there is a growing band of people who want to get the key to that door and throw it wide open.

Behind the locked door is a human being pleading for love and understanding, pleading to be let out. In that respect he is just like you and me, we all need affection. But there is one difference between us and up till now that difference has kept the door locked. He has no words to plead with. You see, he is what you call a "retarded child".

The day is gone when the demented were lowered into snake pits to scare the evil spirits out of them; the day is gone when the windows were kept shut at night against the "poison" night air. We pride ourselves on being members of advanced and scientific communities.

But there are still a few leftovers from the old days and the public attitude toward retarded children is one of them. The band of people we mentioned is striving to change the public attitude. They want help, money, understanding.

If you asked them to pick only one, they are the kind of people who would settle for understanding and pay the shot and do all the work themselves. They believe in their good work that much.

The band of people we mentioned is called the Canadian Association for Retarded Children. There are over 12,000 active members in CARC in 160 chapters in 10 provinces. The provincial organizations affiliated with CARC, have dropped the Canadian in their name and take on the name of their province.

* * *

Locally there is a school for retarded children and you can help the branch in its good work by buying tickets on a drawing, to take place at the whist drive in the Legion Hall, Lachute, on Tuesday, May 30.

Red Cross promotes "Water Safety Week", May 14-20

May 14-20 is National Water Safety Week, selected by the Canadian Red Cross Swimming and Water Safety Service as timely for the emphasis of these rules for the preservation of life and public safety:

Swimming

1. Swim with a friend — don't swim alone.
2. Know your swimming area — don't dive into unknown water. Rocks, branches and broken glass may be hidden.
3. Don't "duck" or push bathers into water.
4. Swim parallel to shore — don't swim far from the beach.

Boating

5. Don't overload any boat, large or small.
6. Wear a life jacket when boating or water skiing.
7. Don't stand up or change places in a small boat or canoe.
8. If you capsize, "Hang On", don't attempt to swim to shore.

Home

9. Never play near excavations, open pits, swamps, etc.
10. Plastic pools may be slippery, be careful.

Two water safety instructors' courses are being given by the Canadian Red Cross prior to the long summer holiday, one at McGill University in May (continuing to June 1) and the second at Lac Trois Saumons in June.

WOOD CARGO

Fort William, Ont. (CP) — A Canadian company has hired engineers to see if shipping wood chips by pipelines is practical, says Dr. L. R. Thiesmeyer, director of the Pulp and Paper Research Institute of Canada. He says research has shown wood chips can be moved in this manner in a stream of water.

In cases of suspected rabies

In connection with one or two cases (or suspected cases) of rabies in recent weeks, a word of advice is given by a local physician to any families involved.

If the suspect is a domestic pet, the animal (presumably a dog) should not be immediately killed, but should be leashed and kept under observation. In this way there is an early chance of establishing, with certainty, that the animal has rabies symptoms. . . . This, of course, is not practical in the case of a fox; any fox which attacks a human without provocation, is probably a victim of the disease. The head of a slaughtered suspect is sent for pathological examination in Ottawa.

Rabies may develop in human beings in 50 or 60 days. But the treatment is drastic; and if the wound is inflicted by a dog, it will be well to keep the dog, alive, under veterinary observation for a while, to be sure.

Graduation at Morin Heights

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — The graduation of the second class of Grade XI from Morin Heights School was held on Friday last. The ceremony was an impressive one, and an inspiring occasion for the proud parents and for the graduates themselves.

The guest speaker was Dr. M. Martin, of McGill University, who reminded the graduates that the ceremony did not mark an ending but a beginning of a life of usefulness and adventure, especially so in the world of technology that lies ahead.

The "Last Will and Testament" was presented by Lynda Moss and the "Class Prophecy" by Heather Campbell. The "Valedictory" was given by Gail Lister.

Morin Heights is proud of these young people. Last year there were nine who successfully gained certificates, and this year, with those writing supplemental examinations, there will be 16. If all were to pass, then 25 persons would have gained a full high school education here. We wish them the very best for their success in June.

All games start at 6 p.m., and there are lots of good grandstand seats available for spectators (at no charge).

Participants are entitled to a round of 25 birds for $1.25, and guns and shells are provided by the club. Social Club members only are eligible.

Quote of the week: "Did you hear that siren late last night?" . . . "Yes, it was probably someone testing the siren on the police car to see if it still works."

Legion Auxiliary at Brownsburg

Brownsburg — The regular monthly meeting of the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary was held here May 8, with Mrs. M. Summers presiding.

Mrs. B. Bell, who attended the district regional meeting, gave a report on this recent gathering. It was decided to donate $10 to the Polio campaign.

Mrs. L. Atwell, Entertainment convener, suggested that the June meeting be preceded by a dinner, and that the Lachute Ladies' Auxiliary be invited.

After the meeting members enjoyed playing military whist, and refreshments were served by Mrs. Low and her committee.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my deep appreciation to all relatives and friends who prayed for me, who visited me in hospital, and sent cards, letters, gifts and flowers — also for many other kindnesses shown.

School of Ballet 4th annual demonstration Thursday, May 25

The Argenteuil School of Ballet is now preparing for its annual demonstration. This year's show will be held in the Lachute Cinema on May 25 at 7.15 p.m. A great deal of preparation has taken place. Some 60 costumes have been made in many delightful colors, for appreciation of the audience.

The climax of this pre-demonstration season was the appearance of the teacher, Miss Du Breuil, in a recent television program on Ballet.

Mrs. E. Gow has worked hard to make this year a success for ballet in the community. Patronage of an enthusiastic public at the demonstration will be much appreciated.

Reports given at May meeting of Red Cross

The May meeting of the Lachute Branch of the Canadian Red Cross was held on the first Wednesday of the month, with the vice-president, Mrs. Gordon McOuat, in the chair.

Mrs. Fraser Morrison gave a very fine report on activities of the Women's Work Committee, and thanked all who had assisted so faithfully, naming particularly her own committee, Mrs. Mae Tillotson, Mrs. Fred Roberts, Mrs. Harry Scott and Mrs. R. Carreau. Work will be resumed in September.

The final shipment sent off on May 10 to Canadian Red Cross headquarters in Montreal, comprised 234 pieces of clothing, which included:

14 Sweaters for children, 7 pairs socks (6 men's, 1 child's), 5 baby sweaters, 5 pairs bootees, 30 baby vests, 10 baby nightgowns, 40 children's pyjamas, 30 children's overalls, 10 girls' skirts, 30 laboratory towels, 20 baby blankets, 20 pairs shorts, 13 quilts. . . . Donation of 4 pairs of mittens.

Special Cadillacs for President Kennedy

Oshawa — Two 1961 Cadillacs, a black limousine and a dark green sedan, were placed at the disposal of the Canadian Government by General Motors of Canada for the use of President John F. Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy and members of their party during the President's visit to Ottawa this week.

A 1959 Cadillac, specially designed and fitted out by General Motors for the Queen during her most recent tour of Canada, was also in service for the President's visit. The rear passenger compartment contains individual, power-operated seats and can be covered by a transparent plastic bubble. The "Royal Cadillac" was lent to the government by its present owner, a Montreal resident.

Rev. Mark Beaufoy appointed warden of Diocesan College

The current issue of The Montreal Churchman, diocesan journal of the Anglican Church, carries the following news of the Rev. Mark Beaufoy's recent appointment which removes him from his parish in this area:

The Rev. Mark R. Beaufoy, M.A., rector of Montebello, has been appointed Warden of the Montreal Diocesan Theological College succeeding the Rev. R. S. Newman, B.A., B.D., S.T.M.

After taking his course in Theology at Ridley Hall, Cambridge, Mr. Beaufoy was ordained in Canterbury Cathedral at Trinity 1938, and served curacies in South London and at Dover before moving in 1940 to become Assistant at St. George's Church, Altrincham, near Manchester, where he was also officiating chaplain to the Third Field Training Regiment, Royal Artillery. He was Vicar of Little Bourne, near Canterbury, from 1942 until 1948, when he came to Canada.

Mr. Beaufoy's first charge in Canada was as rector of North Hatley, where he remained for more than three years. During 1951-52 he was lecturer in Church History at Bishop's University, Lennoxville. Since then he has been rector of Montebello, in which Parish are situated the Seigniory Club and Sedburgh School.

Mrs. Beaufoy trained as a nurse at St. Thomas' Hospital, London, England. They have two children: Ann, who is nursing at the Queen Elizabeth Hospital, Montreal; and Stephen, who is still at school.

Shopping for a new car? Be sure you slip into this one before you put your money down.

It's the new VW Custom Model. The best value ever offered, even by Volkswagen.

What's new about it? The engine for one thing. It's got more power to push you up hills, and past those big transports. (But it doesn't use a drop more gas than the old one.)

The transmission too. Now all four gears are synchronized. You slip into first without stopping the car.

You'll notice these improvements as soon as you drive. But there are others of equal significance. (The greatly enlarged luggage space, for example.) Your VW dealer will get a big kick out of showing them to you, one by one.

You still get a spare wheel and tire, heater/defroster, tool kit, jack, windshield washer, two padded sun visors, directional signals, bumper over-riders, big 15" wheels and oversize tires.

See your Volkswagen dealer and drive the complete car with a lot missing from its price tag.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all." — Edmund Burke

Happy holiday!

THE LAKES and countryside are calling Canadians for the first warm-weather holiday of the year, Victoria Day, on Monday, May 22.

Although the holiday is still known to many people as "the 24th of May," it's been celebrated for eight years now on the Monday immediately preceding May 25.

And, since 1957, the holiday in Canada also celebrates the birth of the reigning sovereign, so the occasion marks the birth of two queens. Actually, Queen Elizabeth's birth date was April 21, 1926.

But whether you call it Victoria Day or the 24th of May, the holiday is still the most popular on the calendar. The grass has adopted its summer green after the winter mantle of white, and the lakes again sparkle blue after being hidden under ice and snow.

If the earnest householder hasn't done it already, this is the holiday week-end he should get his establishment in order for the summer, his garden and lawn trim, his furnace cleaned and in order for next fall.

If these chores — and the painting and carpentering and dozens of other seasonal tasks — are already accomplished, he and the family can join the thousands of Canadians on holiday.

The actual May 24 date for more than half a century was known in the Commonwealth overseas as "Empire Day", but May 24 now is officially Commonwealth Day. It took its new title in 1959, and now sees formal observance by exchange of messages of the links between Britain and her partners.

And there's a special note on this year's Commonwealth Day. It is the last one which includes South Africa among the Commonwealth partners. South Africa leaves the Commonwealth, to become a republic, on May 31.

But the legal interpretations surrounding Victoria Day and the later Commonwealth Day will probably be far from the thoughts of holiday-making Canadians. Victoria Day and Dominion Day, July 1, are the only two Canadion holidays now for which fireworks have an official blessing.

The fireworks will be part of the observances in many a town and city, where the noise and crowds will be a sharp contrast to the peace of the lake and countryside.

"Long week-end sickness"

I LIVE BESIDE a main highway. The street is filled with young families. The city people drive past my front door, going out of town. The farmers drive past me on the way in. Days go by, and the traffic is serene. Toddlers wander across the road, and every driver seems to have his foot on the brake. Once in a long while — usually in the evening when the light is deceptive — two young fellows will bang into each other at the corner, smashing hoods and lights, but rarely even shaking themselves up.

Then comes the Friday preceding a long week-end.

Unfailingly, one car in five is going faster than any car has travelled all week, often at 10 and 15 miles an hour over the speed limit.

The speeding cars, I've noticed, have canoes on top, or family suitcases piled in the back. The drivers, I've noticed, too, have a different look about them. They are not relaxed, with an elbow resting on an open window. The windows are tight: the drivers sit up straight never taking their eyes off the road.

I wonder if people can actually become emotionally ill without realizing it? I would like to know if some sickness which we have not yet diagnosed burns inside those drivers who go forth to die?

If so, it isn't a sickness of body though everyone knows that a driver with a bad case of 'flu is a poor driver. It isn't necessarily a sickness of mind; the doctor in charge of a mental hospital once told me that the mentally ill, as a rule, have no confidence behind a wheel, they don't want to drive at all. This sickness must be a thing of the emotions.

The victim of it reacts to the thought of a holiday somewhat as a narcotic addict reacts to the idea of dope. To the casual observer, he is still the same person. But on closer scrutiny, you notice he walks and moves differently; he yells for his wife to hurry up with the suitcases, for his children to get into the car; his eyes are narrower, and he makes no casual or easy conversation. And when he gets behind the wheel, he is a different driver, driven by something even he cannot define.

Maybe I am wrong, but that such an underlying sickness exists, seems almost certain. I noticed it recently in another sphere, when I went out to collect some money for the victim of a deeply moving, local tragedy.

The first neighbor I called on, had just made a big investment and had to borrow to make a down payment on it. He simply was tied up financially.

Yet a week later, that man went out and lost two weeks' pay at the race tracks. He looked sick as he told me about it. As sick as a driver looks when he stares at crumpled cars and crumpled bodies. "I only intended to bet about five dollars", he said. "I lost on the first two races and then . . . "

He reminded me of another man I know who lost his wife in a car accident. He was the driver. "All I wanted," he kept saying, over and over, "was to give her a lovely week-end . . . "

Maybe it's time we quit analysing tires and speedometers and safety factors in the matter of driving and began analysing ourselves prior to climbing into our cars. Anyone who is honest with himself can do it. And if he believes he has caught that long week-end sickness, he should take obvious measures to fight the fever.

Otherwise that long week-end may last forever.

The future of uranium

A FEW YEARS AGO Canada's uranium industry was steeped in optimism. We were the world's leading producer of the radioactive mineral. The prices at which uranium stocks were selling provided evidence of our confidence in the industry's future.

Widespread research on possible use of uranium in the production of nuclear power seemed to promise great things for mining concerns doing some $300,000,000 business a year.

Then came disillusionment. The United States began developing its own uranium resources, and announced it was not interested in renewing contracts to buy large amounts from Canada. More recently Britain has become hesitant about undertaking to continue bulk-purchase from Canadian mines.

Production dropped to $240,000,000 last year, and the number of men employed in mines in Saskatchewan and Ontario fell from 12,000 to 6,000. Stock exchange prices began falling, and what had once seemed to be a limitless future now looked glum.

But while we were perhaps over-confident at the beginning, this is no time to despair, and the men who run the industry realize they must take positive action. They have set up the Canadian Uranium Research Foundation under the guidance of Professor Frank Forward, head of the University of British Columbia's department of mining and metallurgy.

While conceding that uranium will continue to have an important military application, they are looking for other ways of using it. They are experimenting with its use as a possible agent in producing iron and steel that are more resistant to corrosion; they are investigating the possibility of using it in the electronics industry; and they even hope to find a use for it in insect control.

Some experts also predict that within 15 years nuclear power will be cheaper than present means of production.

Although the United States now is producing more uranium annually than Canada, this country still has the world's most extensive reserves.

It will be years before present research results in substantially increased demand for uranium. But the day will come, and when it does, Canada will be ready.

SEMI-ANNUAL CONVENTION HELD —

Youth technical school urged in Argent'l W. I. resolution

Argenteuil County Women's Institutes held their 41st annual convention in Brownsburg High School, with the Dalesville-Louisa branch acting as hostesses.

Delegates and members attended from all 11 branches, bringing members from all parts of the County. There were some 100 members attending.

Mrs. Sherman Doig, of Upper Lachute-East End branch, who is county president, welcomed the members. The convention was opened by singing the national anthem and repeating the Mary Stewart Collect, the creed of Women's Institutes the world over. The secretary's report showed there are 347 members in the 11 branches. These members carry on a vast program of work, the main project of all being the "Senior Citizens' Home", a report of which was given by Mrs. Geo. McGibbon. The School for Retarded Children is supported by some branches. School Fairs are helped by funds and workers. The C.N.I.B., the Red Cross and Cancer Society all find many willing workers in the ranks of W.I. One branch gives a yearly scholarship of $50 to one of their graduating pupils. The Emergency Educational Fund is made available to pupils from Argenteuil County. . . . The reports of the conveners showed all branches are active in these many projects.

A bountiful luncheon provided by the Dalesville-Louisa branch was much enjoyed. The members were honored to have as a guest Mr. J. S. Giles, senior member of The Watchman, who brought greetings to the group.

During the afternoon session, Mrs. C. Stephens introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Gordon Harvey, provincial past-president. Mrs. Harvey brought greetings from the A.C.W.W. and the F.W.I.C., also from the provincial executive. She paid tribute to Brownsburg branch, which had just celebrated its 35th anniversary, and to Arundel, which had passed its 15th milestone.

Mrs. Harvey told the group that there are 2,244 members in 101 branches in 21 counties. A drive for new members must be put on. The F.W.I.C. has purchased the Adelaide Hoodless Home. The Lady Aberdeen scholarship is now being used, each branch contributing to support this fund. The Q.W.I. has received a certificate for work done in Highway Safety control. During World Refugee Year, Canada has contributed $4½-million, as well as taking in some 2,000 refugees.

Following the report of the nominating committee, Mrs. Harvey then conducted the installation of officers, as follows:

Past-pres., Mrs. Geo. McGibbon.
President, Mrs. Sherman Doig.
1st vice-pres., Mrs. Geo. Leggett.
2nd Vice-pres., Mrs. Percy Staniforth.
Secretary, Mrs. H. McOuat.
Treasurer, Miss Hanna Smith.

County Conveners

Agriculture — Mrs. R. Warwick.
Citizenship — Mrs. C. Stephens.
Education — Mrs. John Black.
Publicity — Mrs. T. Zimmer.
Fair Work — Mrs. C. Hall.

A number of resolutions were read and approved, appreciating support during the year and assistance in the present convention. A further resolution was passed as follows:

Whereas there are many children attending the High Schools of our County who are not capable of completing the academic course as is;

And whereas these students become discouraged and quit school, and have great difficulty in obtaining employment;

And whereas many of these teenagers, having nothing to do, become juvenile delinquents —

Be it resolved that we approach the proper channels to urge that a Technical School be built centrally in the County to educate these boys and girls in special skills, that they may become useful citizens and take their rightful place in a highly mechanized civilization.

The convention closed with a note of well-being among the members for a year well spent, and looking forward to another year with optimism.

INCREASE YOUR WORD POWER

The Readers' Digest has an interesting column in every issue entitled: "It Pays to Increase Your Word Power". I find it very informative and instructive, as it not only gives the definition of both common and unusual words, but also their derivations and origins.

But if you really want to increase your vocabulary, get a copy of the New York Herald Tribune's Crossword Puzzles, issued every two months. Some of the puzzles are easy. Others a little more difficult. But the rest contain words that would just about blow the front and back covers off Webster's Dictionary. Luckily, there is a finished solution of each puzzle at the back of the book. Otherwise I would never have been able to construct a sentence like the following: "While on a isagogic trip on an onerary during a salano, I caught a lenitic hicatee with a filasse."

It is hard to figure what a lenitic hicatee would be doing in salt water, anyway. Because lenitic means "living in quiet waters" and a hicatee is a fresh-water tortoise. A salano is a wind in the Mediterranean. An onerary is a freight boat. A filasse is a line made of vegetable fiber. And isagogic means introductory study. So now you know. But don't quote me, and maybe it might not be wise to quote Daniel or Noah Webster either because — now I've forgotten which one wrote the dictionary. . . . But I guess it was Daniel; it was Noah that built the ark.

Be seein' ya!

Now the Americans claim a point in their game of spaceball against the Russians. They have lobbed a man high in the air and caught him.

The Russians say it doesn't count, because they did the same thing two years ago.

But you can't tell that to the American fans, who are cheering themselves hoarse.

Quick — where is the umpire?

Quite unheard in the din are the voices of those scientists who declare that the United States is accomplishing little of scientific value by hoisting a man in a steel box high into the void.

At the present stage of rocket development, the critical scientists point out, America can learn far more by sending up unmanned satellites containing instruments.

If a man is killed in the course of the present series of space shots, he will be a martyr in a childish contest of prestige.

The Americans, having smaller rockets, had to devote much time and money to devising miniature, lightweight equipment.

Overall they lagged far behind the Russians, because they were not so single-minded; they allowed various armed services to squabble among themselves; they tended to reject scientists and scholars as screwballs, and starve them of money for research.

They still lag behind. But the Americans can 'catch up" — if they try hard enough. They are a great nation, possessing vast industrial and technical strength.

Sad to say, they are impatient. They won't wait. They want to show the world immediately that they can outperform any old Communist, any day.

Space travel is the greatest adventure of all. The men who take part in it — Russians and Americans — are fine, courageous men.

Not all the onlookers are so admirable. Millions of them resemble the wheezy, round-shouldered fans you often see in the bleachers, hurling down foul words and (sometimes) bottles.

They don't care greatly about man's scientific knowledge of the universe.

They have the spectator's thirst for danger. Our side right or wrong. They have the spirit of baseball at its worst — the spirit of spaceball.

Dear Editor:

Having lived in N.Y. for the past 20 years, your Watchman was a real source of pleasure to me, except for one yearly disappointment and that was the absence of any report on the Arundel School promotions. Other smaller schools give a full report in your much appreciated paper. May I hope for a report this year, if your Arundel correspondent or school authorities can co-operate.

At a ladies' meeting (in Arundel) this matter was discussed, and we dare to hope this year will be different.

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"A summer job often gives an older boy and girl, not only money but a chance to learn more about the choice of life work," a vocational guidance teacher pointed out to a group of parents.

The decision about a vocation is one of the most important ones a young person makes. Often it is hard to persuade a teenage boy to stay on at school and study for his matriculation after tasting the satisfaction of money of his own earned on a summer job.

Young people long to be independent, financially and every other way. One of the greatest services parents can render their children is to make staying on at school as attractive as possible.

In later life, often a man or woman bitterly regrets not being able to qualify for a particular job because of lack of education.

Some families are so hard pressed by the need for money for the bare necessities of life that the children in the family must help with earning the income for the home as soon as they can.

Benjamin Franklin, after only two years of formal schooling, had to go to work with his father as a candle maker at the tender age of ten.

The family allowance plan makes it possible for many children who would have to go to work in early adolescence, to stay at school till they are sixteen.

Scholarships and bursaries bring further study and training within the reach of many talented scholars whose families cannot afford higher education. One of the resolutions at the National Conference on Education which met at Ottawa in 1958, dealt with an adequate student aid program from "provincial and federal governments and industrial business and other institutions."

Parents need to be quietly helpful, understanding, and yet not too dominant as they watch their children choose their careers. Ernest Hemingway's father, who was a doctor, wanted him to study medicine. His mother wished him to be a cellist. But he started his writing career as a reporter on the Kansas City Star. Mothers and fathers should leave the final selection to their son or daughter.

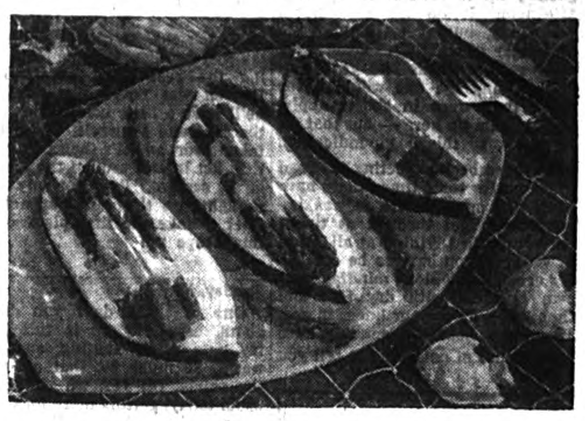

Even if older folk are disappointed by a young person's selection, they know well that it is a real tragedy for men or women to work at an occupation which they do not like. Today doctors trace much physical discomfort and sickness to inner vocational strains and resentments.

Many young people are not sure what they want to do and this period of indecision is hard on them and on their families. But it is not a choice which can be decided upon in a hurry, under pressure at a certain age.

Some youths try one job then realize this is not the type of work for which they are suited. If they can discover this early enough, they usually switch to other work.

There is a certain amount of drudgery in every kind of work, and tomorrow's promotion is built on today's honest labor. As long as boys and girls are living at home, and often even after they move to another place, parents are an important factor in the way they think about their work.

But in the end both the initial choice and the final success of an individual rest on his own shoulders. It is a boy or girl, not mother and dad, which an employer hires — or fires!

"The Halibut Season"

May days are a time for adventuring in the kitchen, as well as in the garden. And what better food to adventure with than one which is in season, such as fresh halibut. From now until summer, fresh Pacific halibut will be appearing in good supply on food markets. In eastern Canada some fresh Atlantic halibut will also be available. Firm, meaty halibut is one of the most highly prized of the white-fleshed fish and in fresh form is notably a spring delicacy.

Another popular food which is now in season is asparagus. With or without embellishment, crisp, green asparagus is a welcome addition to spring menus. For a doubly enthusiastic response from family or guests, team baked halibut steaks with freshly cooked asparagus and splash the combination with a tart, golden, Hollandaise sauce. The following directions have been supplied by the home economists of Canada's Department of Fisheries.

* * *

Halibut Hollandaise

2 Pounds fresh halibut steaks, ½ teaspoon salt, dash pepper, 2 tablespoons butter and 1 pound freshly cooked asparagus.

Sauce: 3 eggs yolks, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ cup butter, melted and ¼ cup boiling water.

Cut steaks, if necessary, to give 4 serving-size portions. Season with salt and pepper. Place in a shallow, greased baking dish and dot with butter. Bake in a hot oven at 450° F. until the flesh will easily separate into flakes when tested with a fork. Allow about 10 minutes cooking time per inch thickness of the steaks. Meanwhile cook asparagus and prepare sauce.

For convenience the sauce may be prepared in advance and then reheated over hot water before serving time. Make it this way. Beat egg yolks lightly. Add salt and lemon juice. Stir in melted butter and then boiling water. Place mixture over hot, but not boiling water. Cook and stir for about 5 minutes, or until thickened.

When steaks are cooked, remove to a heated platter and top each portion with a bundle of hot, freshly cooked asparagus. Ladle with a ribbon of Hollandaise sauce. Serve remaining sauce at the table. Makes 4 servings.

Those who like onion with their fish will enjoy this recipe which again points up the technique of using high oven heat for a short period to cook fish. Marinating the halibut first, seasons it delightfully.

* * *

Halibut Isle Royale

2 Pounds fresh halibut steaks, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon paprika, few grains cayenne, juice of 1 lemon, ½ cup finely chopped onion, 2 tablespoons butter, melted, and green pepper strips (optional).

If steaks are large, cut them into serving-size portions. Place in a single layer in a shallow dish. Combine salt, paprika, cayenne, and lemon juice. Pour this mixture over steaks. Marinate in refrigerator for 1 hour, turning at half time to permit seasonings to penetrate both sides. Cook onion in butter until limp but not browned. Place marinated steaks in a shallow, greased baking dish and spread with onion. If desired, garnish each portion with several thin strips of green pepper. Spoon remaining butter from frying pan over steaks. Bake in a hot oven at 450°F. until flesh will easily separate into flakes on testing with a fork. Allow about 10 minutes cooking time per inch thickness of the steaks. Serve piping hot. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

* * *

Broiled Halibut With Ripe Olive Sauce

2 Pounds fresh halibut steaks, 3 tablespoons butter, melted, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon paprika and dash pepper.

Sauce: ¼ cup butter, melted, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ cup pitted, chopped ripe olives and 1 tablespoon chopped parsley.

If steaks are large, cut into serving-size portions. Combine butter, salt, paprika, and pepper. Place on a greased broiler pan; brush with seasoned butter. Broil about 3 inches from the source of heat for 4 to 8 minutes, or until slightly browned. Turn carefully, baste with remainder of seasoned butter, and broil 5 to 8 minutes longer, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. While fish is broiling, prepare sauce by combining all ingredients and heating. Serve over hot, broiled fish. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

* * *

Many western cooks use sour cream to advantage when they cook halibut. The following recipe is an excellent example. In it the sour cream does two nice things for the fish. It adds a desirable tartness and the necessary fat for baking.

Halibut Country Style

2 Pounds fresh halibut steaks, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup finely chopped green onions and their tops and ½ pint dairy sour cream.

Season steaks with salt and pepper. Place, single layer deep, in a shallow greased baking dish. Cover with finely chopped green onions and their tops. Spread steaks and topping with sour cream. Bake uncovered in a moderate oven at 350°F. for 30 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

W.I. talk on public libraries and literacy

At the monthly meeting of the Lachute W.I. the roll-call was, "Your favorite biblical character". Choices were very varied — from Nebuchadnezzar to St. Paul!

A report was given on the sewing class held in the past month. It was regretted that so few of the local members attended. A report of the "dessert bridge" revealed substantial proceeds from this effort.

Mrs. G. Davidson and Mrs. Tourangeau will be the delegates at the annual convention.

Mrs. George McGibbon introduced the speaker, Miss Simon, assistant librarian at McGill University, who will soon retire and come to live in this district. She has the B.A., and M.A. degrees, and is president of the Library Association of Quebec.

Miss Simon spoke of the lack of public libraries in Canada. Fifty per cent of the students at McGill have never used a public library before. There is a marked contrast with the students from the U.S., B.C. and Ontario; there are, for example, well organized libraries in the Fraser Valley district.

A library in a district such as ours should be regional and located in the main centre, where the high school is located. Buying and cataloguing should be centralized. Smaller communities should open a branch. The countryside could be serviced by "bookmobile". The government voted assistance for public libraries, but there is much needed on a municipal level.

It was found in surveys that children like to read, even with TV present.

Miss Simon mentioned the "Carrefour du Livre" in Lachute, which was warmly commended during Library Week. She pointed out the need of different groups to cooperate in forming one regional library.

To end her most informative and stimulating talk, Miss Simon read an address by Thomas Dryer, of Florida, which gave food for thought. . . .

Russia seeks world domination, not by arms or material means, but by making more efficient use of its mental capital. Public libraries are formed at a fantastic rate. Before the 1917 Revolution, 7% of the people were literate; today 92% are literate. One must remember that in the Russian state 40 different languages are spoken. Before 1917, there were 13,000 private libraries, today there are 140,000. In the U.S. there are 25,000 libraries in all, 7,000 of them public. In Canada, only 873 — 500 in Ontario. It seems that, at least in North America, the free world is far behind Russia and has a lot to do to catch up.

UNUSUAL GIFT

When Lyn Sterling of Toronto graduated from Vassar in 1957 her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore M. Sterling, presented her with an unusual gift. Their good friend, Salvador Dali, designed a pair of heavy gold earrings shaped like telephone receivers with emeralds in place of the mouthpieces and rubies for the earpieces. But Lyn doesn't use them too often — they're too heavy.

GARDEN NOTE

Horticulturists of the Ontario department of agriculture say annuals hide bare patches in a garden and prefer full sunshine. Rapid growing vines are useful for covering trellises, fences, arbours and tree trunks.

Once you've perfected the art of carving meat, you'll be surprised at how many people you can serve in a matter of minutes.

The food and nutrition department, Macdonald Institute, Guelph, says that success in carving depends on the quality of the meat, how long it has been cooked, the kind of tools you use and the amount of elbow room.

It is important to know where the bones and joints are located and the direction in which the muscle fibres run. . . . With the exception of steaks, slice meat across the fibres or the grain. This means the fibres are shortened and the slices are parallel to the cut surface.

To carve a standing rib roast of beef, place the roast in front of you with the cut surface on top and the rib side on the left. Carve from the outside edge at the large end of the roast, drawing the knife across the roast to the rib side.

Beauty in Summer

Summer time is fast approaching and one of the best ways for young girls to care for their skins is to pack a compact makeup kit in their trunks as they wend their way to camps or cottages.

A kit marketed by one cosmetic firm contains a beauty course record which, played over a phonograph, instructs the teen-ager on skin care and new makeup techniques. The kit also holds a medicated face wash, cleansing grains and a lip-stick called flaming sherbet which matches this season's hot colors.

Swedish Vetebrod

The recipe calls for: 1 package active dry yeast, ¼ cup warm water (110 to 115 degrees), 1¼ cups lukewarm milk, 1 egg, ¼ cup sugar, 1 tsp. salt, 4½ cups sifted, enriched flour, 1 tsp. powdered cardamon and ¼ cup soft butter or margarine.

Add yeast to warm water and stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk. Beat egg and sugar together. Add milk texture, salt and some of the flour. Stir to mix. Add cardamon and enough flour to make a soft dough. Knead vigorously until thoroughly mixed. Add butter. Knead until dough no longer sticks to sides of bowl. Cover; let rise in warm place (85 degrees) until doubled in bulk. Punch down. Divide into 3 equal portions. Shape each portion into a long strand. Braid strands to form a loaf. Cover; let rise again until doubled in bulk. Brush with slightly beaten egg. Sprinkle with silvered blanched almonds. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 30 minutes, or until golden brown and done. Cool, then frost if desired with confectioners' sugar icing.

Tips on choosing a barn site

It is not often that a farmer is faced with the problem of choosing a site for a barn. When this problem does arise, however, very careful thought should be given to the most suitable location in order that the operations connected with the barn can be the most satisfactory and economical. The following are some of the factors that should be considered in deciding on the location for a new barn. . . .

1. Drainage and exposure. It is important that there be a southern exposure for an exercise yard if the barn is to house livestock, and that the slope be away from the barn to carry off drainage water. Otherwise very serious troubles can arise in the exercise yard. In fact, no building should be so located that drainage water cannot be directed away from it.

2. Relative location of other buildings. In this connection the most important other building is the dwelling. The barn should not be located on the line of the prevailing wind past the house. If the barn is downwind there is the danger of chimney sparks igniting straw in the barnyard, and if the barn is upwind there may be odour nuisances at the house. Often it is possible to locate auxiliary buildings close to the barn to form an exercise enclosure which is helpful.

3. Relative position with respect to farm lane, exercise yards and paddocks. Accessibility to the farm lane is important, as the lane most commonly starts in the barnyard, and curves or turns in the lane can be a nuisance. Paddocks and exercise yards can be changed to suit a barn location, but the fewer the changes that have to be made, the better.

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — How is Psychiatry used in public schools? How can it benefit our children? . . . These are two questions which parents had answered for them at the recent meeting of the Brownsburg Home and School Association. Guest speaker for the occasion was Dr. C. Cahill, staff psychiatrist with the Mental Hygiene Institute, where his work involves consultation service to various agencies and various Montreal schools.

As Dr. Cahill pointed out, he "does not look the part of a psychiatrist as sometimes pictured by the public, since he does not wear a beard and is without a European accent."

"Home and School is an excellent organization for providing free exchange of information between the parents and the school." —Dr. Cahill emphasized this point, stating that in this way many problems may be overcome. Psychiatry goes further than this, however. It is used to aid those individuals with deeper problems which require study by professionally trained people. The psychiatric field offers a consultation service to those parents whose children do not progress normally at school, and who may be concerned because of misbehaviour of the child at school or in the home. The misbehaviour may be the child's way of getting attention, said Dr. Cahill. If he has a low I.Q. and cannot shine scholastically or in sports, this may be his way of obtaining attention which is given to others for their achievements.

One of the greatest problems today concerns those students who do not work at their true potential. In a great many cases this may be due to a visual motor perception problem, which is caused by a slow development of an area of the brain but does not constitute an organic defect. The condition may be further characterized by the child's awkward movements. He breaks his toys, or spills his milk, because of a poor "distance perception". What causes the slow development of the brain? Dr. Cahill believes it may be brought about by over-protection of the child. The constant attention by the parents to ensure that the youngster does not get hurt or frightened, may actually be denying the child the opportunity to learn. If children are not allowed to experiment on their own, they may not develop the ability to think on their own.

Psychiatry can help in cases like this. The psychiatrist may be able to diagnose the difficulty in talks with the parents only, without ever seeing the child. He may suggest special training to develop reading abilities, and recommend certain physical activities to develop coordination.

For those parents who suspect that their child may require such help, private counselling services and clinics are available in Montreal.

Spring and its prospects in Labrador

perature in the high twenties but getting up to around 40 by mid-afternoon. It doesn't stay warm very long, but at least this is a harbinger of what is to come. Raft after raft of ducks and geese are still passing by; one would never think they were in short supply, seeing them up here — but that we do know, so this is no indication.

We have been expecting the road to go out for some time. There have been bad spots where it was impossible to get through at times. No bottom to anything at all. Even in walking, you have to be careful. It's great, going along minding your own business with dry feet and then, oops, up to your knees in goo. The most beautiful mud I have ever seen. I'm not going to tell you about this, though; unles you see it for yourself, you'll never believe it.

A few bear tracks can be seen around; these are the first. With the garbage heap and all the goodies just waiting, we should be seeing the real thing before long. Heaven was never like this; but he'll have a little competition with the jays and squirrels. These have taken over, and it's theirs. The way they act in and around the kitchen is a scream. I've got my own thoughts on this but I expect the Chef to take the first plane out if this keeps up!

Sunday, May 7 —

One of those days you dream about, especially up in this country. Sun really shining, and very warm. So much so, that off came the shirts. Oh yes, we worked as usual today, getting more logs. Mosquitoes and black flies were around, not too many of them but enough to let you know they are just waiting for the right time to put on the attack. Great things are in store for us.

Since I last wrote we had a beautiful storm. It started to snow on Thursday night and continued well into Friday afternoon. About 8 inches all told, with vicious winds. We were just tied right down to the camp and that was it. Of course there is a lot of work to do without getting out into the bush anyway, so no time was lost.

I haven't mentioned our living accommodations since we landed here. They are 16 x 10 ft. tents. Inside has been finished in plywood, with a plywood floor also. Ours also has a picture window in it. I know a lot of you will say, man that must be cold! You'd be very surprised; with an oil stove they are very comfortable. The lodges that are being built are for the guests who come into this neck of the woods.

The sun is just starting to set now, and I'm about ready for a cup of tea and to bed. One thing about this deal, you sure do appreciate a good cup of tea, and after you have been out in the bush for awhile, you expect it when you get back. Poor Chef!

Spring cannot be very far away, as I saw a red fox today. Not one bit afraid, it made no attempt to scurry away. Rather strange to see one of these creatures when it wasn't in high gear getting away from you! This one must trust us humans. (Foolish.)

In some of my travels there have been some very interesting things to see. Some I don't quite understand, but I think maybe I will. . . .

Along some of the rapids can be seen designs drawn by earlier travellers who wished to pass on any information they may have had about the river. Of course, it is beyond our understanding, but it sure is nice to think that at one time the human race were willing to help each other without thought of payment. . . .

Then the odd tent arrangement of poles, for the tired hunter maybe who didn't have a tent or covering. These can be seen almost everywhere. Even the stone fireplaces, that must have been there for goodness knows how long. The rocks about them are weather-beaten and old. But progress seems to have passed them by. . . .

Of course, these things may be easily explained. Until a very few years ago this was virgin country and only a few hardy souls had ever been in this far. Considering we are 224 miles from the nearest habitation, it is not hard to realize why. Some of the most inaccessible country it has been my pleasure to see. I've always dreamed of the day when I would be able to fish the Great Barrier Reef off the coast of New Zealand with a fly rod. I have another one now, though: To travel this Labrador from coast to coast by canoe and foot. This, I think, would be the ultimate.

NO EXTENSION ON DUMPSITE DEADLINE —

Parking limits set for Main Street, interim measure pending by-law

General business was the order of the adjourned session of Lachute Town Council, held on Wednesday of last week in the civic chambers. Aldermen Stanley Holt and Laureat Laurin were absent from the meeting, which was presided over by Mayor Fernand Legault.

As a temporary measure, until such time as the new by-law and Chamber of Commerce brief are studied, Police Chief A. J. Whiteway was authorized to enforce the following parking regulations on Main Street, from Barron Ave. to Bethany Street, and if necessary to hire two uniformed men from Friday noon until Saturday at 6 p.m. to carry out the enforcement — Centre parking of two hours duration, and side parking of 30-minute duration.

(Following a meeting of Chief Whiteway and the Police Committee, it is believed that the regular policemen's shifts have been rearranged so as to save the ratepayers the cost of hiring these additional men).

A letter was received from the "Service d'Information Francais" advising Council that the correct translation for Fire Station was Poste d'Incendie. This question was raised some time ago, and the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Yvette Raymond, had written the organization asking for this information.

Mr. Alex Denault once again appeared before Council, requesting a streetlight and sidewalk on Henry Street. He was referred to a letter received from the Parish of St. Jerusalem Council which asked for a meeting of both Councils to discuss business pertaining to both corporations, including this street, which is the boundary line between Lachute and St. Jerusalem.

Donald M. Hay, president of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, and Kenneth P. Riley, secretary-manager, were in attendance at the session and requested a grant on behalf of the Society. On a motion by Ald. J. P. Dorion, seconded by Ald. Nelson Lepage, a donation of $300 was given, along with the use of 200 chairs and the assistance of the police department where possible.

Another letter was received from the Department of Health, advising Council that no extension to the May 31 deadline for the removal of the dumpsite would be given. There was a letter also from the Department of Lands and Forests, informing Council that the department was not interested in selling any land on Route 41 for use as a dump.

Mrs. Raymond was instructed to contact several municipalities who operate incinerators, and establish a possible construction and operating cost, and to report these findings at the next session of Council.

A list of possible candidates for census taking and revised evaluation personnel, was presented to Council, and Aldermen Linton W. Armstrong and J. P. Dorion were authorized to contact the persons named and attempt to form a team to complete the work.

Roger Lagarde, local lawyer, was appointed to represent the Town in a case concerning an account payable, totalling $8,451.56, by the Village of Ayersville. The sum is the amount owing to Lachute as at the end of 1959, and does not include water service charges, which are considerable.

A letter of thanks for flowers and a message of sympathy was received from Mrs. F. W. FitzGerald.

Ald. Laureat Laurin and the acting foreman, Simard Larocque, were instructed to check all streets and sidewalks in the town and prepare a list of those in need of repair for the next regular meeting. Police Chief Whiteway was instructed to inform the owners of vacant lots that such properties had to be kept clean in accordance with the by-law.

Tenders for the pension plan for civic employees were opened, and Aldermen Linton Armstrong and Horace Lamarche, along with Germain Filion, financial advisor, were appointed to prepare a comparison chart and report their findings at the next meeting.

Police Chief A. J. Whiteway and Fire Chief Don MacCulloch were authorized to attend the Provincial Convention of Police and Fire Chiefs in Jonquières, Que., and a sum of $100 each was voted to help defray expenses.

The meeting was adjourned sine die.

Renovate kiosk in Memorial Park

A welcome gesture is noted in the Memorial Park, where the town authorities have this week undertaken to renovate and re-paint the bandstand. This, from the public viewpoint, is vastly preferable to the proposal to demolish the old kiosk. It has served on many auspicious occasions in the past, and may be hoped to give valuable service in the future years.

First Aid tests

The examinations for all persons currently taking the course in First Aid offered by the Lachute Police Department, will be held in the Police Station at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 30.

2 Canal employees get service awards

Two employees of the canals service at Carillon Dam since 1930, received decorations from the government recently in recognition of long service. Those honored were Wesley Morrow, master lockman, of R.R. 5, Lachute, and Léon Dicaire, carpenter, of Carillon Village. Service buttons and certificates were presented to them by Joseph Morin, superintendent engineer of canals in Quebec Province.

Turning sod for Richelieu swimming pool

Many of the Richelieu Club members were on hand to witness an auspicious ceremony last Wednesday, the turning of the first sod for the new swimming pool in the Richelieu Park. Excavation is completed and the contractors are now pouring the cement in this $40,000 project to be completed by the end of June. Seen above are Mayor Fernand Legault and the club president, Yvanhoe Chevrier, performing the traditional ceremony.

Drowning victim recovered; war vets pay last tribute

The Late Daniel Bryson

Following the tragic death by drowning of Danny Bryson, through the ice at Carillon on March 26, the body was recovered early Saturday morning in the vicinity of Rigaud.

Funeral services were held on Monday at the St. Andrews East Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. W. H. Reid officiating. There was a large attendance of sympathizing friends and relatives, together with a guard of honor from Legion Branch 70, who held their own service at the graveside, each veteran paying tribute to their comrade by depositing a poppy, with a solemn salute.

Pall-bearers were fellow veterans — Comrades T. Smith, D. Hay, D. Ogilvie, R. Davidson, B. Jenkins and F. Williams.

Plan provides complete playground facilities

Work on the Richelieu Park swimming pool commenced last week. The above plan gives a view of the complete playground on Paquin Avenue, with developments planned as funds become available. The arrow (centre) indicates the site of the new swimming pool, wading pool and dressing room with a fenced enclosure for children using these facilities. Work on this portion of the project has already started. At the left is the picnic ground with drinking fountains, tables, swings, see-saws and other games. The entire playground will be fenced along the rivershore to safeguard children wandering in this direction.

Public invited to Legion convention opening Thursday

The 29th Quebec Provincial Convention of the Canadian Legion takes place here in Lachute this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. A large number of delegates are expected, and the opening ceremony will be held at the Auditorium on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

The public are cordially invited to attend this colorful and impressive ceremony, at which the Hon. Paul W. Earle will be guest speaker.

From 3.30 to 4.30 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, there will be a band concert in the Memorial Park, given by the Longue Pointe Ordnance Band. . . . They will also give musical selections at the opening during the evening, and play during the intermission.

Of special note on the program is the Act of Remembrance, which will comprise — Entrance of Color Party; In Memoriam; Abide with Me, by the band; Last Post; the reading of Binyon's immortal lines; Reveille, and O Canada.

It is hoped that local citizens will attend the opening ceremony and welcome the visitors to a good start in their important deliberations.

Playground idea suspended

It is regretfully announced by Legion Branch 70 that, owing to circumstances beyond their control, the Legion community playground which they had hoped to complete and put into operation behind the Dairy Queen store on the Brownsburg Road, must be considered closed.

To stand trial on charge of manslaughter

Appearing before Judge Camille L. de Martigny in Magistrate's Court last week, a Morin Heights physician, Dr. Duncan Basil Robertson, 60, was ordered to stand for preliminary hearing on a charge of manslaughter, May 29 next at St. Jerome.

The accused was represented by a Montreal lawyer, Yvan Mercure, who secured his release on personal bail of $950 and bond for a similar amount, pending court appearance.

This Saturday, last of tests for bicycle riders

The last of the organized bicycle tests will be held at l'Ecole Supérieure playground this coming Saturday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. According to Police Chief A. J. Whiteway, 111 young cyclists passed their tests last Saturday, and 350 the previous Saturday. The by-law enforcing bicycle licenses will be strictly observed from June 1.

The Chief adds that dog licenses and taxi permits are also due, and now available at police headquarters in the city hall.

Parents, friends at 'open house', Lach. High School

A record number of parents and friends attended the "open house" at Lachute High School on May 17. Over 400 people from the school district came to see the new addition to the school building.

Members of the School Board were present to welcome the visitors and to answer questions concerning the building program.

Many people whose children had finished school some time ago, came to take a last look at the original Lachute Academy. Some were amazed by the comparison of the new building with the old. The new lighting, the cupboards, the winter air-conditioning and the color scheme were the feature attractions of the new addition.

A large number of parents were present to discuss the progress of their children with members of the staff. They remarked about the pleasant working conditions in the new building.

Workmen had already partitioned off part of the 1892 building from the remainder, in preparation for the demolition, which was scheduled to start on May 23. It is estimated that 10 days will be required to demolish the old building. The replacing of this section should be completed in December of this year.

Auto license unit

The mobile unit of the Quebec Highways Department for drivers' and chauffeurs' tests prior to issuance of permits, will be stationed at the Court House on Grace Street from noon, June 5, until the evening of June 6. Applicants for new licenses please take note.

Premiere showing of 'Ben-Hur', biblical drama

Something in the nature of a civic send-off, Wednesday evening, attended the opening of "Ben-Hur" for a limited run at the Cinema Lachute. Special guests were members of the civic administration, other notables, and the press, to witness MGM's mammoth $15-million color film based on the epic novel of General Lew Wallace.

The making of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production is epic in itself. The research staff on "Ben-Hur" included a leading Protestant, a Catholic, and a Jewish religious authority. When Director William Wyler needed a parchment with Hebrew words for a scene, he consulted a professor at the University of Jerusalem, who copied a section of the Dead Sea Scrolls. . . . Such items of authenticity lend to the educational value of this gripping tale of biblical times. The spectacle takes 3¼ hours running time, and the booking of this program is creditable indeed to the management of Cinema Lachute, in its efforts to bring the best to local movie-goers.

Week's Epigram

People who fly into a rage always make a bad landing.

Young champs and trainers feted at Lions Club meeting

It was the finale of the junior hockey season, at last week's meeting of the Lions Club — the two champion teams, in the Pee-Wee and Bantam leagues at the Lions' Rink, also their trainers and other award-winners, being feted in a big way at the clubmen's supper. There were about 100 in attendance.

With President Dr. Eric Mongeon in the chair, this year's Rink chairman, Jos. Dumais, took over for the hockey highlights of the program. He paid sincere tribute to the coaches and mentors who had given time and energy to encourage the young hockeyists; he also acknowledged the generosity of the sponsors, without whom the teams could not have operated.

The hockey league manager, Committeeman Geo. Locke, then made the presentations — two handsome trophies going to the Pee-Wee champions (Lowe's team) and the Bantam champions (Boyd's Express) respectively. The cups were accepted by the captains of these two teams, Clifford Lowe and Jim Murdoch.

The Robin Hood Flour "most valuable player" trophies were then presented, to the most popular star on each team in the two leagues. The winners were:

Lowe's (Pee-wee) — Carmen Lowe.
Lowe's (Bantam) — Douglas Maldens.
Legion (Pee-wee) — Doug. Jenkins.
Legion (Bantam) — Lorne MacDonald.
Ayers (Pee-wee) — Bernard Gibeault.
Boyd's (Pee-wee) — Jackie Deroulin.
Boyd's (Bantam) — Normand Chartrand.
Police (Bantam) — Daniel Deseats.

Last payment !

Another happy episode climaxed this aspect of the program. Lion Leopold Carrière, reporting on the recent prize-drawing (directed by himself, with energetic assistance from Jacques Bourgoing), stated that the net proceeds of this effort $2,917, represented final payment on the capital cost of the artificial rink. The bank loan on this big outlay had been originally underwritten by the club members personally. . . .

This good news was acclaimed by President Dr. Mongeon, who intimated the future held possible plans for a covered rink and added facilities.

Col. Ernest Emmett heads Lions Club for year 1961-62

Col. Ernest Emmett will be the next president of Lachute Lions Club. Election of officers for the 1961-62 club year took place last week. The slate, presented by Lion Horace Lamarche for the nominating committee, is as follows:

President — Col. E. Emmett
Past-pres. — Dr. E. Mongeon
1st Vice-pres. — Royal Carriere
2nd Vice-pres. — D. M. Hay
3rd Vice-pres. — Roger Gravel
Secretary — K. W. Clarke
Treasurer — Jacques Bourgoing
Legal Advisor — F. Legault, Q.C.
Tail Twister — Tony Malaket
Lion Tamer — R. Haydon
Bulletin Editor — A. Whiteway
Directors — O. Carriere, R. Regimbal, W. M. Clark, T. Zaplaski, P. Guenette, Cliff Lowe, Gaby Valois, H. E. Graves.

Credits were handed out by the president — notably to Lion Keith Clarke, the perennial club secretary, whose devotion to this job has won the notice and esteem of regional Lions authorities over the past many years. Despite superficial banter and good humor, his long and dependable service is still more appreciated by the local members — who gave rousing applause to the president's tribute at this time.

In the concluding highlights of the rink season, President Dr. E. Mongeon also paid credit to Lion Horace Lamarche as initial sparkplug of the artificial rink — the man whose determination had put this project into effect and fostered it through its experimental stages. The liquidating of the debt on the capital costs of the venture, marked a milestone of satisfying experience at this meeting.

BM transfer affects Calumet branch

New manager at the Calumet branch of the Bank of Montreal this week is Charles Dion, formerly accountant at the bank's St. Sauveur office in Quebec City. He succeeds Jacques Mongrain, who becomes manager of the bank's Thetford Mines office.

Born and educated in Quebec City, Mr. Dion joined the B of M there in 1947. He subsequently served at a number of offices in that city and at Cap-de-la-Madeleine and Bedford, before being appointed accountant at Levis in 1955. Four years later, he moved to the St. Sauveur branch in the same capacity, and he left that post to go to Calumet.

Mr. Mongrain, the departing manager, has been at Calumet since August, 1959, when he moved from an office in Montreal. He will take over his new duties at Thetford Mines shortly.

As tough as tug-of-war!

With a new batch of elusive young calves, some new and some of last year's tenacious teen-agers, there will be spills and thrills, with proud, tired winners, Thursday evening at the grandstand, June 15.

The city kid never could understand how the cow got the milk into such a small bottle. If he will come to the fair that night, he will learn how it is done — and a much smaller bottle, a pop bottle at that — with no new-fangled machines either.

Young horsemen and horsewomen, many from the Wal-Ken Riding Club under the guidance of "Pop" Billingham will put the horses and ponies through their paces in the equine version of musical chairs — a game where a "stall" is very necessary, not a nuisance.

Entries for the Tug-of-War include all teams that took part last year, plus Boyd's Lachute Express who will of course "Pull the Safe Way"; and the 131st Battery of 37th Field Reg't, Royal Artillery, Lachute. (No entry from the Navy, as yet.)

With the above two teams, plus Ayers, Wilson's and a possible fifth, Lachute should stand a good chance of bringing the Rotary Cup back to town.

Organization and plans for practice are rapidly developing. Talk of the old days and the teams of Lachute, Brownsburg and Argenteuil and their pulls against Montreal Police and the Glengarry team at Ormstown, and again at Glengarry, Ontario, and Dominion Park in Montreal — brings back memories.

Lachute and Brownsburg pulled at the Lachute Spring Fair in the early 1920's. Wes Freeland (LE 3-6665) would like to publish the names of the Lachute team. . . . Wonder if they could beat the champions of today? . . . See what you think, at the Fair on Thursday, June 15.

'Happy Wanderers' headliners at Fair for Lions' Night

The CFRA "Happy Wanderers", booked for the Lions Club grandstand night at the coming Lachute Spring Fair, are a popular dance and entertainment group who need no introduction here. Their extensive tours across Canada have brought them to the Ottawa Valley, and to Lachute, on previous occasions, and their talents have won warm acclaim.

While entertaining for CFRA for 39 weeks, the "Wanderers" traveled 20,405 miles in the Ottawa area — 135 miles west and 125 miles east, playing to 100,675 people in 42 different halls. Formed in 1955, there are five of the original six members still together, under the management of Ken Reynolds.

The "Happy Wanderers" will highlight the grandstand show on Lions' Night, Friday, June 16; committeeman in charge is Lion Bob Haydon. . . . Another major attraction, however, is the Old-Tim Fiddlers' Contest which is expected to draw some interesting competition from different parts. Lion Guy Besner is organizing this feature of the evening's entertainment.

A bonus for patrons on the grandstand on this occasion will be a chance on a lucky drawing, to which the admission tickets entitle all comers. The prize is a modern deluxe electric range which will gladden the heart of any homemaker.

All proceeds of this evening are for Lions Club community welfare. The club anticipates warm public support.

CENSUS TAKING

Canada had the distinction of taking the first "modern" census. This was the Census of the Colony of New France in 1666, ordered by Louis XIV. It recorded a population of 3,215, compared with an expected 18,200,000 this year.

"Who threw that pop bottle?"

Veterans stand out in competitive professional sport

By Bruce Levett,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It was the aged Satchel Paige who intoned the philosophy of "don't ever look back — something might be gaining on you."

What the ski-footed pitcher meant was that in the highly competitive sphere of professional sport there's always someone in the wings waiting to take your place.

However, there are still quite a few old guys in the big time who can look back any time they feel like it — there's nobody there.

"This is ridiculous," he said at the time. "A fellow my age shouldn't be pitching no-hitters."

How about Stan Mathews, at 46 Britain's peerless "master of the dribble" who has been chasing a soccer ball for 30 years?

Stan is going to Toronto to play in the newly formed Eastern Professional League during the off-season — taking on an additional load in his chosen profession when most men are looking over their retirement policies.

Ice Veterans

Johnny Bower, 37, is the oldest active player in the National Hockey League. Yet last year the Toronto Maple Leafs' goalie won the Vezina Trophy as the league's best at his position, made the NHL's first all-star team and just missed the league's most-valuable-player award. It went to 30-year-old Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal.

How about Doug Harvey, at 36 pushing Bower for longevity honors? Harvey, rearguard for Canadiens of the NHL, also made the first all-star squad and picked up the James Norris trophy for the sixth time as top defenceman.

Red Kelly, at 33, added to Leafs' honors by winning the Lady Byng Trophy for the fourth time. It goes to the player who combines the greatest sportsmanship with the top ability.

The wrinkled hardboot who grew up in Taber, Alta., still remembers that September day in 1927 when he won his first race aboard a 10-year-old gelding in Utah.

Now a millionaire, his enthusiasm is as bright as it ever was. "Riding is the only way to keep in shape," he says. His son Vance, 31, explains: "You can't keep him grounded."

Grandpa Longden has come back time after time from crippling injuries to the saddles of some of the top mounts in racing.

There are lots of others — Sam Snead is still winning top-money golf tournaments; Chuck Conerly is still a number one quarterback in the toughest football league in the world.

And the young pitchers — and some of the older ones, too — still put a little extra something on the ball when Stan Musial creaks up to the plate.

Retarded children are everybody's responsibility

Mental retardation is everybody's problem, because in Canada, more families suffer from mental retardation than from any other permanent affliction. Some 500,000 children and adults in Canada are mentally retarded — about 3% of the population. They range from totally hopeless to those not too different from normal. But they all need help.

More than 160 local associations and their 10 provincial associations are operating all or some of the following facilities: Day schools, summer and day camps, sheltered workshops, adult activities, swimming classes, parent counselling.

If you will give these associations your support they will be able to:

Open more day classes; establish adequate diagnostic clinics, including mobile clinics; increase counselling for parents; train more teachers; operate more sheltered workshops; obtain the necessary residential care and training schools; organize more recreational programs; devote more money for Scientific Research to prevent the condition.

A special Study Day for all interested in the Canadian Association for Retarded Children is being held at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, on Saturday, May 27, starting at 9.30 a.m. Guest speaker will be Mr. Emelien Lafrance, Minister of Social Welfare, and it is hoped there will be a good representation from this district. Those able and planning to attend are requested to phone Mrs. R. Cairns, Lachute (LO 2-6085).

In order to raise funds for the local school, tickets are on sale for a drawing, to be held at a whist drive in the Legion Hall on Tuesday, May 30, at 8 p.m.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my appreciation and thanks to all relatives, neighbors and friends who sent cards, visited me and helped in any way during my stay in hospital.

Dollard fete next Sunday

The Dollard Day observances at Carillon, announced for last Sunday, were postponed due to inclement weather. The exercises and devotions will be held this coming Sunday, following the program previously prepared for the occasion:

10.00 a.m. — Outdoor mass to be celebrated near the Dollard monument.

The organizers confidently hope there will be a good attendance at these ceremonies — the progress on the Carillon Dam project being an added incentive for visitors to enjoy an outing in this area.

CENSUS TAKING

For the 1961 Census, Canada will have 1,336 census commissioners and about 26,000 census takers. Each census taker will travel from door to door collecting the facts required.

EDDY EVERYBODY

on our free hospital insurance services

WHO qualifies?

1 Any person who has been living in the Province of Québec for at least three months.

2 The new-born child of such residents is entitled immediately to these services.

3 It is up to you to prove to the hospital that you qualify.

4 Transients and visitors do not qualify: services received here will be charged to their own provinces.

WHEN to seek hospital admission?

1 When you really need it. It's up to the doctor to decide.

2 If you are in a serious accident, the hospital may decide in your doctor's place.

3 You may stay at the hospital just as long as your doctor considers it medically necessary.

4 Whenever we say "your doctor", we mean the attending physician.

WHICH hospital to select?

1 Any hospital having a contract with the provincial Department of Health.

2 This excludes TB sanatoriums, hospitals for mental patients, old people's homes and a few other institutions.

3 If you are transferred to another hospital for medical reasons, you still qualify for Hospital Insurance benefits.

4 If you are admitted to a hospital elsewhere in Canada, Québec will foot the bill — at the rate in force there.

5 If you require hospital treatment outside Canada, Québec will refund costs incurred — up to $15 per day.

WHAT benefits are free?

1 The usual standard ward accommodation and meals.

2 Whatever nursing care is required.

3 The following services: laboratory, radiology and other means of diagnosis — including the required interpretations.

4 Medication, medicines and other products prescribed by the doctor and administered at the hospital. But you must pay for any item taken home with you.

5 The use of operating and delivery rooms, including anaesthetic facilities and standard surgical requisites.

6 Radiotherapy and physiotherapy, namely X-ray, electrical, massage and other treatments.

* Items which you must pay for:

A The doctor, the surgeon and the anaesthetist.

B Patent medicines and the ambulance or other means of transportation.

C Services supplied in the out-patient department or outside the hospital.

 A private or semi-private room is provided free of charge only in two instances: 1 — when your doctor decides that your condition requires such accommodation: 2 — when there is no vacancy in the standard wards.

In all other cases, you must pay for the room at the new low rate established by the Hospital Insurance plan.

AND PLEASE REMEMBER!

1 On leaving the hospital, be sure to get a Form AH-108 properly filled out. It will indicate clearly what you must pay, if anything, — and what our Hospital Insurance plan will pay for you.

2 Never ask your doctor for hospital treatment unless it is strictly necessary. Never remain at the hospital one day too many: this is an unfair and costly practice!

Opening function at Golf Club gay and colorful

The opening dinner dance of the Lachute Golf and Country Club was held on Saturday night, May 20.

Over 200 members and their friends enjoyed a festive evening, with canapes and cocktails served in the lounge, and dinner from 7.30 p.m. on in the dining room. The maitre d'hôte, the chef and his assistants were responsible for the masterpieces of art — swans carved from blocks of ice which decorated the buffet tables. At the right of the dining room entrance behind a long, colorfully decorated table, one of the chefs mixed green salads, and special French pastries, made by the pastry chef, formed a delicious array.

Staynerville couple feted on anniversary

On Saturday evening, May 20, a surprise party was held at Brownsburg Legion Hall for Mr. and Mrs Bazil Clark, of Staynerville, on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

About 150 neighbors, friends and relatives were in attendance. Mr. Leslie Tomalty, master of ceremonies for the evening, called upon Mr. Nelson Morrison to present a purse of money to the couple on behalf of their friends.

Several solos were sung, a skit was presented, and the singing of old-time songs was enjoyed by all present. Delicious refreshments brought the happy evening to a close.

Recent marriage at Baptist Church in Dalesville

Clinton-Dixon

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, May 13, at the Dalesville Baptist Church when Mary Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dixon of Dalesville, Que., was united in marriage to Mr. Russell L. Clinton, Jr., only son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell L. Clinton, Sr., of Old Bridge, New Jersey, U.S.A.

The Rev. Lorne Hisey officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Keith Morrison, of Dalesville, played the wedding music. Standards of yellow and white gladioli, arranged with greenery, were used to decorate.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of silk organza over taffeta with sequin pearls, with long sleeves ending in points over the fingertips; she carried a bouquet of red roses. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls.

Mrs. Harvey Vokey, Miss Shirley Dixon, sister of the bride, and Miss Joan Clinton, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaids; they wore identical gowns of lilac silk organza, and carried colonial bouquets of sweet peas. All attendants wore crystal necklaces, gifts of the bride.

Mr. Fred Huber, of Old Bridge, N.J., acted as best man. The ushers were Mr. Harvey Vokey, of Verdun, Mr. Joe Olcsvay, of Old Bridge, and Mr. Robert Riquier, of Verdun.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. Helen Hardie, of Thurso, Que., sang "The Lord's My Shepherd" and "O, Perfect Love".

Mrs. Dixon, the bride's mother, wore a dress of blue nylon over taffeta and a fur stole, with white accessories and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Clinton, the groom's mother, wore a two-piece green flowered ensemble, with beige accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Later the reception was held in the Brownsburg Legion Hall.

The happy couple left by automobile on a short trip to the Laurentians. The bride wore a blue suit and three-quarter length coat, with pink and blue accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

Through Jehovah's undeserved kindness he has made provision for paradise to be restored on earth under the kingdom of Christ.
WHY GO TO THE MOON?
Men are seeking every means of "controlling" space and "colonizing" its planetary systems. But this generation has a far grander prospect of "peopling" a new world — one that is overlooked by the world's rulers, yet a way that is far more realistic and rewarding. Would you like to know what part you can have in it? Then send for the beautiful and revealing book "From Paradise Lost to Paradise Regained." Act now and receive also the booklet "After Armageddon — God's New World." Send only 75c.

Victoria Day rally held at People's Church

On the Victoria Day holiday a number of the Quebec churches, representing the Associated Gospel Churches of Canada, met at the People's Church in Lachute.

The afternoon was spent in recreation and fellowship, the young people engaging, in a very animated way, in softball and volleyball contests.

The older folks sat and visited, and when they desired a change, went for a stroll and admired the beautiful countryside. All enjoyed a very hearty meal, and after a brief time of relaxation, practically everyone met in the Lachute Auditorium for the devotional service.

The chairman for the occasion was the Rev. Grant L. Wright, president of the Quebec Association of Gospel Churches. The Rev. William Fynney, of Grace Church, LaSalle, led in the opening prayer, and after some lively singing, the Rev. John Dempster, popular pastor of the People's Church, brought a soul-inspiring message on the theme, "The Seven-fold Presence of God".

Mrs. Mary McNight, representing the Onward Gospel Church, Verdun, rendered a beautiful solo.

Mr. Frank Kettyle and daughter, Carol, jointly sang the fine old hymn, "One day when Heaven was filled with His praises".

Pastor Sorley closed the service with prayer.

All went home with a sense of well-being, having spent the day close to nature, and close to God. . . . Altogether it was a happy way to celebrate Victoria Holiday.

Legislature passes bonus boost for longer schooling

"WEEK IN QUEBEC"
By Laurent Chaisson, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec (CP) — The Quebec Legislative Assembly quietly gave second reading — approval in principle — last Thursday to a bill under which a $10 monthly allocation will be given to mothers for every child of ages 16 and 17 still attending school. Third reading was postponed until next week. The idea behind the bill is to make it possible for more children to remain in school longer. The allocation will be made to all mothers, regardless of financial standing, but will not be paid during July and August when schools are closed. Payments are to become effective next September 1.

The program is expected to cost the government more than $7,000,000 annually. It will affect an estimated 72,000 children. Family and Welfare Minister Emilien Lafrance, who presented the bill, said it constituted "an aid and an encouragement to the family. . . . It is a practical symbol of the importance which the Province of Quebec attaches to education," he said.

Mr. Lafrance said 58 per cent of the province's 15-year-old boys and 51 per cent of the 15-year-old girls attend school. But, by the age of 16, this dropped to 42 per cent for boys and 34 for girls. At 17, the percentages tumbled to 32 for boys and 21 for girls.

Youth Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie said recently that the Quebec Government is planning measures to ensure stability in the teaching profession. He was speaking to the Quebec Teachers' Corporation, which presented him with a brief demanding that the Provincial Government raise the obligatory school attendance age to 16 from the present 14. The Corporation represents about 28,000 French-language lay teachers.

Training today for tomorrow

CANADA WILL observe Commonwealth Technical Training Week from May 29 to June 4, at the same time as similar observances are taking place in a number of other Commonwealth countries.

Originally suggested by His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh, the purpose is to focus attention on the importance of technical and vocational training and education in the world today, and to encourage young people to prepare for careers with expanding opportunities. The theme is "Training Today for Tomorrow". . . .

The observance is of timely interest here, following an authoritative request for the setting-up of a youth technical school in this area — a measure backed by a resolution just recently by one of our women's organizations, the County W.I.

"Now, as perhaps never before, Canada's future progress, prosperity and security are dependent on the educational level, the technical knowledge and skills of our people" — says His Excellency the Governor-General, G. P. Vanier, D.S.O., M.C., C.D., in a message supporting this observance.

"The use of advanced technology is removing back-breaking drudgery from more and more areas of work, and at the same time raising the efficiency of production. This trend gives a new importance to the highly trained worker. Unskilled and semi-skilled employment is being reduced and has now reached a point where it represents only thirty per cent of all employment in Canada.

"To those already in the labor force it means, in many instances, upgrading their skills or retraining to prepare for changing employment opportunities.

"To the youth of Canada it means that they not only must remain at school longer, but more of them must seek out apprenticeship, the trade school, the vocational school, and the technical institute.

"To Canadian employers it means training opportunities must be greatly expanded.

"And to all those who have the responsibility of organizing formal education and training, it means methods and facilities must be constantly reviewed and improved.

"It is to focus attention on these matters that H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh has suggested the observance of a Technical Training Week throughout the Commonwealth this year. . . . I hope Canadians in all walks of life will take an active interest in and will give their full support to the important objectives of this week," — concludes the Governor-General in his message.

Phenomenal boom in population

THE POPULATION of Canada during the past decade has grown a whopping 30 per cent. Estimates indicate that the June census will show a national population of about 18,200,000 — an increase since 1951 of about 4,200,000.

The expected increase in the decade is almost double the increase for the preceding 10 years, when the population rose 2,440,000 — including the addition of the Province of Newfoundland in 1949. Viewing the scene from another angle: the increase of the past decade is almost 570,000 greater than the increase for the entire preceding 20 years! From 1931 to 1951, the nation added 3,630,000 people.

After the army of census takers has knocked on every household in Canada during June and the figures have been totalled, the census is expected to show that every province will have contributed to the increase since 1951 — some more than others.

In rate of population growth, Canada's two most westerly provinces, British Columbia and Alberta, are tied neck and neck, with expected increases of about 40 per cent. Ontario ranks third with about 35 per cent. Next come Newfoundland and Quebec, just short of 30 per cent. New Brunswick shows 18 per cent; Manitoba, 17; Nova Scotia, 14; Saskatchewan, 10; and Prince Edward Island, 6.

By the yardstick of numerical increase, however, both Ontario and Quebec take the lead. Ontario has an additional 1,580,000 people — 38 per cent of the nation's estimated population increase in the decade — and Quebec has 1,350,000 — 27 per cent of the national growth.

Census results have a host of uses, both government and private. For example, they will be used to adjust representation of provinces in the Federal House of Commons, and to help plan highway and education programs. They supply the businessman with facts on the size and nature of markets in different areas of the nation. And in addition, trade unions, housing agencies and virtually every organization concerned with people — from churches to housing agencies — will use the census results in planning their programs and services.

Believe-it-or-not department

A COMPANY publication notes some rather staggering statistics relative to public memory of the great events of the first half of the Twentieth Century.

Some 71 per cent of the population, it points out, do not remember World War I; 44 per cent don't remember conditions before World War II; 57 per cent have no personal recollection of a major depression; and 40 per cent can't remember Russia as an active ally during the war.

We are as painfully aware of time's winged chariot as anybody else, but we admit to not having realized that it was careering along at quite such a breakneck pace as this.

The goof-ball menace

THE CONNECTION between acts of criminal violence and the consumption of barbiturates known as "goof balls" has long been recognized in every Canadian city — observes the Fort Erie Letter-Review. Acting Police Director Pleau of Montreal estimates that half that city's crimes of violence are committed under their influence. In a city that showed a 30% increase in violence crimes last year, the so-called "goof balls" are a major problem. And Montreal is not alone.

Sold by druggists on prescription, distributed by "peddlers", smuggled into prisons and used by high school students, these dangerous drugs are far too readily available.

The fact is, the sale and use of the pills is not illegal, provided they are dispensed by a licensed druggist and are not used to contribute to juvenile crime. The law relating to these drugs is far too soft. Montreal is studying ways to clamp down on the consumption of the pills, but it is hard going, and as yet, no legislative action has been taken. The mis-use of drugs is a federal problem and should get priority attention at the Dominion level — concludes The Letter-Review.

Viewpoints and perspectives

WHILE ONE CAN be sympathetic to elected officials attempting to operate public businesses in a period of rising costs, it appears that all governments have found the same answer: secure more funds from taxpayers. Very little thought has been given to cutting costs.

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

THE LAWN CUTTER

The young lad came to the front door. "Could I mow your lawn for you, Ma'am, for the summer months?"

He was a bright-looking lad, about 14, in blue denim trousers and a bleached-out work shirt.

The lady of the house had three sons of her own, but something about the young lad was appealing.

"Where do you live, boy?" she said. Her purpose, which he was quick to realize, was to make an estimate of how badly he needed the lawn-mowing job.

"In Winnipeg," he said.

"That's nice," she said, somewhat baffled; but because she was a very persistent lady she probed again. "Your father — what does he work at . . . I mean — "

"Lady," the boy said, "I just want to cut your lawn."

"I was trying to figure what to pay you," she sighed. "You know — depending on how much you need the money."

The young lad took a look at the lawn. "It's worth a dollar — I wouldn't take no more. A dollar a week to mow and trim it . . . it's a small lawn. It's what it's worth," he emphasized.

The boy's grammar might have been improved, but his idea was sound enough. He wanted to be paid what the job was worth, not a penny more nor a penny less. It was a business bargain, not a charity case.

He didn't get the job, though. The lady, somewhat huffed, said, "Well, if you don't need the money, my own boy can cut the lawn. I was just — I was ready to be kind."

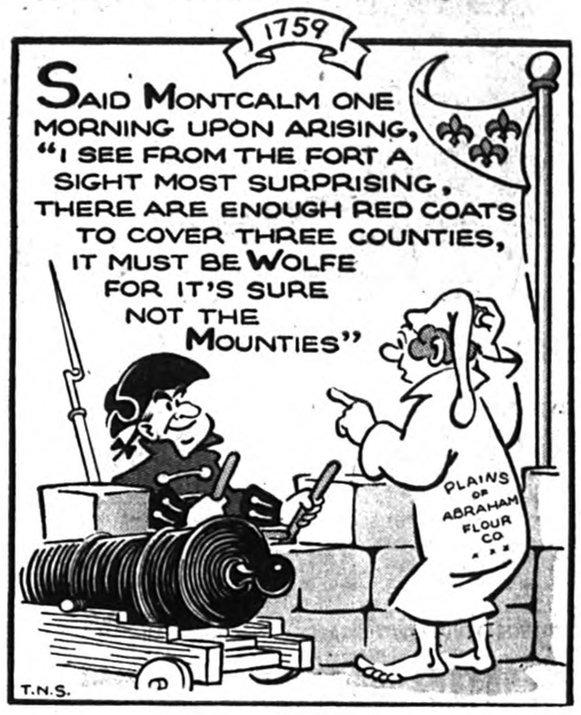

The boy grinned, shrugged. "Sure. But I don't actually need the money that bad. I just wanted the job."

That's the way the story went. The wife told her husband about it that evening, and she was still a bit put out. The boy had made her feel nosey. Her husband told it to me. He said he thought it might have made good material for the column, especially if it had turned out that the boy was from a poor family in dire need of money. However, he had done a bit of checking, and the boy didn't need the money at all — they lived only a few houses down the street and his Dad was a substantial construction contractor with plenty of dough. So, my acquaintance said, it wasn't much of a story.

As you can see, I thought it was a darn good story, and it makes a point that needs to be made these days. I don't ask my barber how much money he has before I decide what to pay him. He tells me what his price is, and I'm free to pay for it or go shaggy. I like it that way; and I hope there are a lot of teen-agers like the lawn cutter, no matter where they live or what their fathers do, who feel the same.

All Aboard

with G. E. MORTIMORE

There is a flowery smell when you open the top drawer of the office desk. Old, sweet letters in there? No, it's just soap.

In fact the drawer contains a nest of household gear: razor, shaving cream, toothbrush and tooth powder, shoeshine equipment, a spoon and (who knows why?) a comic printed card conferring membership in the "Since I Got Rich My Friends Seem Much More Stupid" Association.

The lady visitor sits back in her chair and scans the desk and its contents with some amusement. "Do you live here?" she asks.

Well, what can you say? "Sure, I live here some of the time."

It's a surprise to see how much domestic stuff has collected. How did it all happen? One day you rush out of the house as fast as you can go, intent on making straight for town. Then you realize that you have forgotten to shave.

Nothing for it but to buy a razor and shaving soap. Word gets around that you have a razor in the drawer. After a while it becomes a sort of communal razor, often borrowed and put back by friends who have left home in a hurry.

Why a toothbrush? Again, a hasty departure from the house, and a sudden rush of conscience about tooth decay. Nobody borrows this, at least.

There are similar reasons why other stuff is there, too. Is this collection of gear a symbol of disloyalty to your own house?

Well, it's foolish to jump to large psychological conclusions about these things. Many men carry domestic stuff around with them. Some have razors in their cars. One well-known citizen used to have an electric razor that plugged into his car, and often drove one-armed to work, while shaving.

And then there was Moriarty, who used to keep his toothbrush in a restaurant.

It takes only a few seconds for these thoughts to pass through your mind. But the lady was asking you a question. What would be a good answer?

"Sure, I live anywhere," you say grandiloquently. "You know the old saying — home is where you hang your head."

But you just say that to yourself — not out loud. There is no use trying to be too smart.

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Graduation should be a Red Letter Day in any young person's life. Teachers, parents and all interested in youth wish to do their part in making it a happy, significant event. But as adults they have responsibility for examining the prevailing customs practiced at this time in their community.

Finishing collegiate is a very different affair today from what it was two or three decades ago. Graduation celebrations seem to be gaining momentum and increasing in expense each year.

A father of a large family who has a younger daughter graduating this spring, compared the estimated costs of a dress, a dinner and party for her with the total outlay on an older daughter's graduation seven years ago. Then he declared flatly, "This costs far too much!" Are graduation expenses on a scale only the wealthy can afford?

By the summer or autumn a number of the graduates will have scattered but all the same there seems considerable grounds for the questions of many adults about the timing of a June graduation. This takes place before students have written their final exams.

Completed Course

Graduation should mean that the pupil has successfully completed a course of studies and is now certified to go to further training or higher education. If everyone graduates, including those who fail, does this not make the celebration a mockery? Should those whose school work cannot merit a passing mark graduate?

It also logically follows that if the afternoon ceremonies include everyone, no one should be left out of the school evening graduation party. But are they?

What happens to the bright girl student who has not conformed to the adolescent custom of "going steady?" If she has no special boy friend, will she just sit at home pretending not to care? Surely this is one school social affair where boys and girls should not have to all arrive in pairs. Could this party not be planned so that all the graduates will have a good time, even the shy ones?

A short time before graduation many parents receive a letter from the high school principal outlining the plans the school has made. Usually it is pointed out that when the school dance finishes at a definite hour, the teaching staff consider they have no further responsibility for the youthful graduates. From then on the graduation activities are the parents' concern.

What are graduates going to do after the school party is over? A number of them are invited to homes and summer cottages for further entertainment. Providing food and chaperons and discouraging drinking may be no problem for some parents but it is no easy matter for others.

Urge to Conform

The urge to conform and willingness to take risks are characteristic of teenagers. Parents are apt to be conservative and apprehensive, with good reason, about the number of people killed on the highway. Drinking and fatigue and over-crowding in the front seat are often contributing factors to accidents.

Not long ago a woman told us that she used to think parents had to "go along with" their children's graduation demands about staying out so late. Then one June night she saw three graduates seriously injured in a car crash being rushed to the emergency wing of the hospital and she began to change her mind.

As parents, have we not everything to gain and nothing to lose by taking a critical look at graduation celebrations of high school pupils, especially after the school party is over? If at all possible, would it not be helpful to discuss this with other parents?

By all means let us talk over graduation plans with our adolescent children. Let us be frank about our questions and take time to explain our standards, even if Junior considers we are terribly out of date. We need to take time to listen to and consider his side of this question. Together a compromise can usually be reached between spending more than our family budget can afford and being miserly, between getting in at midnight and staying out till dawn.

Graduation is a high occasion but as parents we have a right to hope that it will be observed not only gaily but sanely and safely.

SMALL TALK By Syms

"Here comes Tommy Jones . . ." "Pretend you don't see him . . . I want to talk to him . . . Alone."

Springtime is rhubarb time

Rhubarb is a curious and somewhat contradictory plant that is often regarded as a fruit, but is in reality a vegetable. In many countries it is used solely as an ornament, or for medicinal purposes. And since rhubarb is known for its acidity, the name has become part of baseball slang, used to describe "a minor brawl with acid overtones".

Children eating stalks of rhubarb, fresh from the garden, are a sure sign of spring. However, most of us prefer a sweeter version of rhubarb for our dessert, either cooked in syrup, or used in a pie or pudding.

Spring rhubarb is the inspiration for this recipe of the bread pudding family. The preparation of this dish is simplicity itself; and the refreshing sweet/tart flavor should make it a favorite dessert in your family. When the pudding has baked, it is topped with brown sugar and broiled until the sugar is bubbly in order to crisp the surface.

Baked Rhubarb Pudding

2 Cups prepared rhubarb, 2 cups white bread cubes (use bread 2 or 3 days old), ⅔ cup granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon, 2 eggs, 1½ cups milk, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine and ¼ cup brown sugar.

Preheat oven to 350 deg. F. (moderate). Grease a 6-cup casserole.

Wash, trim and cut sufficient rhubarb into small cubes to yield the required 2 cups prepared fruit. Cut into small cubes, sufficient crust-free sliced white bread to yield the required 2 cups; add to rhubarb. Sprinkle with the granulated sugar and cinnamon; mix lightly and turn into prepared casserole. Beat eggs slightly; stir in milk and pour over bread-cube mixture. Dot with butter or margarine. Cover. Bake in preheated oven ½ hour; remove cover and continue to bake pudding until it is set — about ½ hour longer — a silver knife inserted into the centre should come out clean. Sprinkle brown sugar over top of pudding and broil until sugar is bubbly. Serve warm with pouring cream.

Yield — 5 or 6 servings.

$50 MILLION ANNUAL THEFT

Dishonesty takes an estimated $50 million toll every year from Canadian stores and distribution firms, writes Ray Magladry in The Financial Post. Underwriters and protection agencies attribute some 60% of the loss to employee thievery, the rest to shoplifting by the public.

One company has drawn a composite picture of the "average" dishonest employee: He's 35 years old, has worked for his present employer for nine years, and he steals from the employer for three years before getting caught.

Canadian retailers are taking a closer look at this kind of profit shrinkage than they have in the past.

SCIENTIFIC

One scientist to another as a glamorous girl walks by: "Now there's an arrangement of molecules for you."

TNS

Princess Margaret may set a new fashion with her below-the-knee suit. The hem of the skirt is about four-and-a-half inches below the knee instead of the current style, just below the knee. The dark brown silk has white velvet dots and black trimmed lapels.

Shortbread long on flavor

Anyone with a sweet tooth will tell you that Scotland is as famous for its shortbread as it is for tweeds, whisky and cashmeres. Canadians are probably more familiar with the traditional and basic shortbread recipe that simply calls for lots of butter, sugar and flour, but there are actually many different varieties of shortbread. Fine, thin cakes, made with or without caraway seeds, are known as Petticoat Tails — probably a corruption of the French petits gatels, meaning small cakes. Ayrshire Shortbread has an egg yolk and cream added; and Queen's Tea Cakes are made with egg, grated lemon rind and rosewater.

In this recipe for Rolled Oat Shortbread, rolled oats are added to the typical shortbread dough, giving the cookies a very special flavor, texture and color. An important point to remember when making shortbread is that success or failure depends on the kneading, which should be done with a light hand.

If a shower or tea is coming up, the shortbreads can be decorated with bits of candied cherries, peel or nutmeats. Although these delectable cookies are likely to vanish the same day they've been baked, they do keep well if given a chance.

Rolled Oat Shortbread

1¾ Cups once-sifted, all-purpose flour, or 2¾ cups once-sifted pastry flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup soft butter or margarine, ½ cup lightly-packed brown sugar, ¼ cup granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon vanilla and 1½ cups rolled oats.

Preheat oven to 300 degrees F. (slow).

Sift together the all-purpose flour and baking powder. Cream butter or margarine well. Gradually blend in brown sugar and granulated sugar, vanilla and rolled oats. Work in sifted dry ingredients. Turn out onto floured board or canvas; knead dough lightly and pat or roll out to a rectangle 9 x 12 inches. Cut dough into 1½-inch squares. Place on cookie sheet. Decorate, if desired, with bits of candied cherries, peel or nutmeats. Bake in preheated oven until set and golden — 20 to 25 minutes.

Yield — 4 dozen shortbreads.

By Deirdre Mungovan, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ten years ago Grace Walker, a grandmother at Lindsay, Ont., took up a hobby which has sent her into libraries and children's stores.

Today she has collected more than 200 dolls. With the help of her intense research she has designed and mostly made by hand the doll clothes in historical and contemporary styles. At times she has dyed, styled and manufactured hair for a particular effect.

From abandoned and broken necklaces, pins and bracelets she fashions minute pieces of jewelry to adorn the dolls. All the sets, props and stands are built by Mrs. Walker for her glass showcases.

The collection ranges over bridal parties, children's fairy tale series, many ½ to 2 inches high Lilliputians from "Gulliver's Travels" and a Queen Elizabeth doll dressed for her coronation.

Many of the dolls are given to charitable organizations to aid them in raising money, to needy children and exhibitions.

Rhubarb Pie

The food and nutrition department, Macdonald Institute, Guelph, says you should buy fresh, crisp stalks of rhubarb and store them in a cool, dry place.

Before cooking, trim ends and throw away the leaves. Thoroughly wash and peel if the stalk is tough and stringy.

To make fresh rhubarb pie, prepare sufficient pastry for a 9-inch 2-crust pie, using your favorite recipe. Line the plate with pastry and roll out the top crust.

Combine 1½ cups granulated sugar, 2 tbsps. grated orange rind, ¼ tsp. salt and 4 to 6 tbsps. flour. Wash and cut 4 cups of rhubarb into 1-inch pieces. Place half the rhubarb in the lined pie plate; sprinkle with half the sugar mixture. Repeat with remaining ingredients. Dot with 2 tbsps. butter; cover with pastry. Bake at 425 degrees for 40 to 50 minutes or until crust is nicely browned and filling is tender.

Fashion Nucleus

Canadian fashions are gaining more prestige both here and abroad with the help of the Association of Canadian Couturiers, founded in 1954.

The 15 members from across the country create styles in Canadian fabrics offered by textile mills. Their experiments in these fields and their individual techniques have successfully put them in a fashion nucleus position in Canada.

Cadillac

Model Illustrated: The Six Window Sixty-two Sedan

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Even its economy says "yes"!

Let us reflect, for a moment, on the things that beckon a man to Cadillac.

There is, to begin with, the car's grace and majesty of styling—a temptation that is difficult indeed to deny.

There is its luxury and its comfort—eloquent invitations to ownership all by themselves.

There is its masterful performance and its reputation for quality—almost irresistible attractions in today's world of motor cars.

And now, more than ever, Cadillac's economy ranks high among those important considerations that lead inevitably to the "car of cars."

For a Cadillac has, over the years, become progressively more practical to own and to operate.

The purchase price of a 1961 Cadillac is remarkably reasonable in relation to the cost of other cars. In terms of value received, it might well represent the greatest bargain of all.

And consider how well a Cadillac holds that value—and makes your Cadillac a sound investment for whatever length of time you might choose to own it.

Then, too, the car is unusually conservative in its use of gasoline—and as free of maintenance as sound engineering and careful craftsmanship can make it.

Visit your dealer soon for the facts.

You'll find, we are certain, that even Cadillac's economy says "yes!"

Who are the Knights of Columbus?

The Knights of Columbus is a fraternal benefit society that is open to Roman Catholic men over the age of 18. It is governed by a supreme council, with state councils in each of the 61 jurisdictions of North America and local subordinate councils. In Canada there is a state council in each of the ten provinces, and 365 subordinate councils, with total membership over 100,000. The order was founded, on the initiative of the Rev. Michael J. McGivney, in Connecticut in 1882, and it took its name from the explorer Christopher Columbus. The first council in Canada was formed in Montreal in 1897.

Who was known as the White Indian?

John Tanner, the son of a Virginia clergyman who had settled in Kentucky. Born about 1780, Tanner was kidnapped in 1789 by two Chippewas and taken first to the Saginaw Valley in Michigan and then to the Red River country, where he lived for twenty years. In 1816 he acted as guide and interpreter to Lord Selkirk, founder of the Red River Colony. His story was publicized and he was reunited with his family, but he did not live happily ever after. He was shot and desperately wounded by an Indian, lived for a while at Michilimackinac with a second Indian wife, was married briefly to a white girl from Detroit, and lost the custody of his half-breed daughter Martha. In his later years he lived at Sault Ste. Marie, where he was employed by the Indian agent as an interpreter. In 1846 his house was burned down; Tanner disappeared and nothing further is known of him. Two days after the destruction of the house the brother of the Indian agent was shot dead. Tanner, unhappy because he had been unable to adapt himself to white society, was generally believed guilty of the crime.

Did a Canadian invent Fivepin Bowling?

Yes, the popular game of fivepins is a truly native Canadian game. In the early 1900's businessmen who bowled at the Toronto Bowling Club sought a faster, less strenuous game than tenpins. Duckpins and candlepins were tried but did not find favor. Finally, in 1909, Thomas J. Ryan developed an all-wood pin smaller than that used in tenpins. He placed five of these pins on the alley instead of the larger ten. The faster and lighter game was quickly approved and in 1910 the first fivepin league was organized. Two years later the Senators of Toronto were declared the first team champions of the fivepin league. It was difficult to score a strike against all-wood pins, so a rubber band was added around the pins. The rubber deadened the force of the bowling ball's blow and made it easier for a player to make a strike. With this innovation, the popularity of the fivepin game increased rapidly. The first recorded game having a score of over 400 was bowled in 1918 by Alfred Shrubb, a famous English long-distance runner then living in Canada. In 1921 Bill Bromfield scored 450 in the first-known perfect game.

Diary of a Vagabond

BY DOROTHY BARKER

There was no need to open the envelope to discover what it contained. Inside was a bill for a dental appointment I did not keep. It didn't irk me to have to pay for something I didn't benefit from, because the joy of having played hookey on a memorable day richly added to my wealth of memories.

I suppose it had something to do with the caress of spring sunshine, the smell of thawing earth or the lowing of a new born calf just over the fence from our wayside farm. It really doesn't need an excuse. I admit I was on my way to keep that appointment when the lure of an adventure was much stronger than my conscience.

A flock of tiny migrating birds rode a current of air northward above me as I made my way to the station. I knew the route the train I was to board would take, for I have travelled it often. It winds through a thickly populated suburban district where municipal by-laws have demanded equal industrial growth with each housing development.

Small factories have sprouted along the CN right-of-way and as close as a stone's throw to the tracks are squat, one storey houses, their multicolored shingled roofs looking like a jeweled necklace strung on the bosom of mother earth.

Sunshine kissed the lines of newly washed linen flapping in the breeze behind many of the homes; housewives with their new permanents tied in kerchiefs gossiped over back fences, pre-school age tots waded through hip high puddles and mud-caked dogs cavorted on brown lawns that were just beginning to show the promise of lush greensward.

I saw a boy industriously cleaning leaves from the pit of an outdoor barbecue, an old man poking at a flower bed with the tip of his cane as though he would encourage his perennials to stretch toward the blue sky above, and a baby in a carriage that had kicked off its covers while one booted foot danced free from such restraint.

As the train traveled through fallowed fields and those showing the amazing early green of winter wheat, a startling headline, as it came to mind, almost spoiled my happy observations. "Starvation Faces Most of the World", the black-faced type had claimed, quoting Dr. Brock Chisholm.

With so much fertile land rushing past the train windows it was hard, on this glorious day, to accept Dr. Chisholm's prediction that within the next 41 years the world's population would double in what he termed "a frightening birth explosion" which would create as many new humans as were born in the previous 200,000 years.

Another headline Dr. Chisholm made with an agitated statement was that children should be told there isn't any Santa Claus. This, we all remember, created a flurry some years ago among parents who believed in fairy tales and had little difficulty remembering the joy their own childish trust in the roly-poly little fellow had brought into their early childhood.

As my eyes watched the passing landscape that was sprouting into new, lush growth everywhere, I was reminded of the day I took my youngest son to Dr. Chisholm to have a festered thumb lanced. He was at that time a general practitioner in Oakville, a small restless man with enquiring eyes and a rather detached manner. I was not at all surprised later when I learned he had forsaken medical practice for broader fields in his profession to become director-general of the World Health Organization.

I understood why doctoring in a small village on the shores of Lake Ontario would never have satisfied Brock Chisholm. Now in his semi-retirement I realize he is a worried mortal because we are so dilatory in facing prospects of the world's future.

Gordon Burwash is another Canadian who has made a prediction. He claims man's only salvation is to return to trains and horses as modes of transportation. The human race isn't the only thing, according to him, that is headed for explosive tactics.

In less years than Brock Chisholm gave the population to multiply, Gordon Burwash predicts cars will be travelling bumper to bumper on ALL our highways and will be in such a hopeless tangle in metropolitan areas it will be impossible to move such vehicles as ambulances and cars of the police force. He suggests cars be restricted to "necessary" or "emergency" categories which I presume include delivery trucks and those belonging to doctors or isolated residents.

It would appear as though we are playing hookey from our responsibility to future generations just as surely as I played hookey from the unpleasant prospect of a dentist's drill. I expect we will continue to do so, unless we are constantly goaded into action by visionaries like the Chisholms and Burwashes of this world. We are going to have to pay for our sins of omission and commission just as surely as I must pay for an appointment I ignored.

Just the same, it makes me a little sad to think that those yet unborn may never know the thrill I experienced in watching, in a leisurely manner, members of a well controlled population trend greeting a new, gloriously exhilarating season.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Woman's work can be done . . . and far easier than it used to be. Here are some tips on removing stains from car upholstery:

To get rid of grease and oil stains, cover the area heavily with absorbent powder such as talcum. Then vacuum. With dry-cleaning fluid and absorbent cloths, clean spot from the outside edge toward the centre. If the stains have just been made, soak first with dry rags, then dry clean any remaining spots.

Loosen chewing gum with cleaning fluid or absorbent rug cleaning powder. Remove what's left with a knife. Vacuum the powder or go over the spot again with cleaning fluid.

Spilled ink? Don't use milk! It adds a stain of its own. Sponge first with cool water, blot up spots with dry rags. If this doesn't work, make a solution of one part denatured alcohol and two parts of water. (First test it on a concealed upholstery part to make sure, it too, won't stain.) Then, sponge dry, rinse and blot. While permanent-type inks never disappear entirely, this method can lighten the stain.

If your puppy had an accident in the car, sponge the area lightly with warm salt water (½ cup salt to 1 quart water). Soak dry with rags, rinse and dry again.

Finally, for candy and chocolate stains, use clear lukewarm water. Sponge from outside of spot to centre. Soak dry with rags, sponge again with detergent suds, and soak dry.

LEGION NOTES

"ACTIVE SERVICE, YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

At the regular monthly meeting last Wednesday, Comrade A. Pare of St. Andrews was inducted into the Branch. . . . At this meeting the membership also voted "to unanimiously support and commend the request of the Regional Welfare Co-ordination Committee to be made of the Minister of Youth Welfare, urging his department to establish training facilities in Lachute which will be suitable to the needs of our population, and this at the earliest possible date."

Comrade President Joe Martell reported that the anti-polio clinic held recently was highly successful; 100% attendance at Huberdeau and Arundel, 85% for Lachute and area. This was the last in the final series of clinics to be sponsored by the Legion. It is hoped to have the anti-influenza shots available at a clinic this fall.

It has been decided by the Sports and Entertainment Committee to suspend further work and operations at the Legion Community Playground. We hope that, if and when our new plans go into effect, it will prove more successful.

The picnic for Legion members and families will be held on Sunday, June 25. There will also be another Bingo held at the hall on June 1. The provincial Legion golf championships will be held at Drummondville on June 4. All entries must be in by May 26.

* * *

This is Convention Week and the hard work of all the various committees now takes effect. The general public are invited to attend the opening ceremonies. This will be a very interesting and instructive meeting, and with the Longue Pointe Ordnance Band in attendance, should be quite colorful. Weather permitting, the band will also give a concert in the park on Thursday afternoon commencing at 3.30. Tickets are now on sale at the hall for Legion members and their ladies to attend the closing banquet and installation ceremonies (to be held at the Masonic Temple), and the dance following, to be held in our own hall. The dance will be open to the general public providing they have an admission ticket.

Comrade Tom Smith and his committee have the Legion grandstand show at the Lachute Spring Fair all under control. Magic Tom Auburn and the McCullough School of Dancing are headlining the show. However, the other acts could well take over the spotlight and prove to be the most entertaining. The thought of various individuals trying to catch a greased pig is almost as funny as the actual efforts will be! The pillow fights with the combatants perched on a pole suspended off the ground, swinging away to establish a champion, should entertain the grandstand fully as much as the greased pig! There will be three cash prizes awarded in each of these contests. Anyone interested in trying their luck in either or both of these contests, should contact Bill Brass, Rene Paulson or Tom Smith.

Police seek change in traffic fatality cases

Reinstatement of reckless driving as an offence under Canada's criminal code was one of the terms of a brief presented to the Minister of Justice in Ottawa by the Association of Chiefs of Police in Canada.

Sought by the Canadian Highway Safety Council since its initial conference in Ottawa in 1955, this revision of the code is called "a grave need" by the police chiefs, who claimed, "There seems to be no alternative to a charge of criminal negligence. Hence, if a person is acquitted of criminal negligence, and reports indicate acquittals far outnumber convictions, the person responsible seems to escape punishment unless one steps down to provincial or even city by-laws. This is an unsatisfactory condition."

EX-AVRO MEN SOON TO TEST GYROPLANE

Part airplane, part helicopter and part autogyro, a spectacular new aircraft will leap soon from the runway of the Kitchener-Waterloo airport. Seventeen former Avro designers and technicians have staked their careers on this small craft they call a "gyroplane". The aim of the design is to produce an aircraft that approaches helicopter performance on takeoffs and landings but that is cheaper, safer and easier to fly than a helicopter.

'The world's most wonderful eyes'

Toronto — "The most wonderful eyes in the world are your child's", said Miss Joyce Hickling, National Director of Eye Service for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

"Make it your business to know that your child's eyes are receiving the best care possible," says Miss Hickling.

Much of what a child knows, he learns through his eyes, which change with growth. A regular, professional eye examination before entering school and once a year thereafter is the most sensible procedure to be followed for real protection.

During the growing years, eye problems are fairly common. An estimated one in every four children needs some kind of eye care; delay can result in permanent damage to their vision as well as serious psychological and educational handicaps. Neglect of children's eyes has even caused blindness.

Red encrusted or swollen eyelids.

Stumbling over small objects.

Early treatment of eye defects — particularly crossed eyes — can prevent permanent harm and give your child a happier life. "A single instant of carelessness can rob a child of the miracle of sight at home, at school or at play", Miss Hickling said. Choose toys carefully, remembering that such things as BB guns, bows-and-arrows and slingshots in the hands of young children are really weapons, and not toys at all. Never leave knives, scissors or sharp tools in reach around the house. Above all, teach children the wisdom of playing safely!

While you are having your child's eyes examined, why not have your own tested too?, Miss Hickling advised. If an examination reveals that you need glasses — and lots of us do after 40 — obtain them "on prescription only". Don't pick out an over-the-counter pair of spectacles that "feels right"; your wonderful eyes are too delicate, sensitive and important for this kind of guesswork. Your eyes are Nature's greatest miracle, but Nature needs your help.

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Friday, May 12 —

A real screwy country. In my last letter I told of the wonderful weather we had been having, with the exception of high winds. This sure has changed — snow, then more snow. On top of this, the rains came later on each day. The walking is terrific!

We are back to the Main Duck Island days, as regards the geese. Hundreds of them can be seen, and all apparently in excellent condition. Most of them came in early this morning. We watched them about 5.30 a.m. as they came in. On top of all the noise, in came the gulls too — without a doubt the noisiest birds I have ever come in contact with. They seem to squawk just for the fun of it.

With the weather being so bad there hasn't been much fishing done. I heard of a lad with the railway who was fishing last Sunday not too far from this camp; he managed to catch a 5 lb. Brookie, and two Ouananiche of 4 and 2 lbs. These Ouananiche are terrific fish and have a queer way of striking your lure. Most of the time they come up from underneath and knock the lure into the air, hanging on to it all the while. Even spinners are hit in this manner, and they can be plainly seen hanging out of the mouth, just caught by the leaders with no hooks in them at all. Truly a tricky fish to catch. You think you have them beat, bring them in to land, they see the net — and that's it! Back hanging on for dear life. I don't know, but every time they see a net calls for a real big show of aerobatics, in which they sure do try to get rid of any hooks that happen to be in their mouths.

Some of the woodsmen are clearing up the bush around the cabins, and have a couple of big fires going. Even though the ground is soaked, no chances are being taken. Proper pack-cans for firefighting are nearby just in case. This can be appreciated after seeing some of the destruction that has been vented on our forests by carelessness. It's pretty grim looking at it, and knowing that every living thing is dead in this particular spot for years. I would imagine that, for every fire caused by nature in the bush, humans will triple it. I know if it were possible I would have films of every major bush fire put into every school, just to let the youngsters coming up see what an appalling job we are doing of looking after our natural resources. Even if we did do something worthwhile about it, starting right now, it would be too late. We talk of our atomic bombs and so forth, and the damage they would do, yet we do damage equal to this in every way just with a match. . . .

This is one of the few reasons why we are very happy to be working for Frontier Fishing Club. As most of us know, Newfoundland is very generous with its limits of fish, but this club has set its own limits as to size and quantity, etc., and they are strictly enforced. As has been pointed out to me, what is the sense of having a fishing club, with all the work entailed, and the money involved, and then have it all spoiled in a few years by poor fishing, or burned-out country. As you can guess, everything connected with us is CONSERVATION.

Now for some of the funnier happenings. We have two Indians in camp, they are of the Montagnais tribe, brothers; they sure do give us a laugh. Louis, the elder one, speaks a little English, but he won't! Michel, his brother, does and will. So now I'm busy trying to learn Montagnais and teach English to them in return. Believe me this is funny; me with my poor French and they with their poor French and English. It gets kind of complicated. Louis has a habit of shaking his head in a no when he means yes. This sort of throws you, until you get used to it. Michel is called Little Beaver around the camp, maybe because of the way he smiles. They both love to ride in the truck. Naturally they are in the seat before anyone else, and there is a reason for it. You see, when the truck is empty and banging around, the passenger in the back is good for a few bruises. In the front it's not too bad. But when it's loaded, they will always ride in the back, letting others take the front.

One remarkable trait is their happiness in everything they do. To hear the two of them laughing away at each other is heart warming and when one does something the other thinks is really good, the work stops while they discuss it. Louis has had only six months' schooling in all of his life. He is now 23, so you can imagine the difficulty he will have; but as a result of that six months he can read, write or I should say print very well, even use the typewriter. True, it takes a long time for him to get a letter out to his girl friend, but before long he will be writing this column! He is exceptionally fast at picking up anything you tell him. It seems a shame that people like this couldn't have been given their right to go to school without paying for it later on.

We have a transistor radio up with us, but only very occasionally can we get an American station, and never a Canadian station. Most of the stations are foreign, with the real productions being beamed from the U.S.S.R. Man, they must spend millions on jamming and sending themselves. Almost a 24-hour service. Some of the stories that come over do help to give you a laugh. Still, people do believe some of these.

Sunday, May 14 —

Still on the seven-day week; after awhile, I suppose you get used to it. But seriously this is work that has to be done before the guests start arriving. The first group are due in on June 15. Considering what still has to done, it doesn't leave much time for getting to know these waters or anything else. I imagine this business of jaunts overnight for the guides is going to be all off for the time being.

Edith saw some more cariboo today; they are starting to show up more frequently now. We saw one right beside the road last night. The number of squirrels around the premises has increased by at least 10. Goldie, the dog, is run ragged by them. The greatest operation of a twosome I have ever seen. Even the birds aren't afraid of her anymore — they make no attempt to fly away from her.

* * *

Our Chef is leaving us for better climes; back to Montreal for him this week. The loneliness and solitude got him. Of course, these birds and squirrels didn't help any. This afternoon he was looking for some linoleum for the kitchen shelves; he couldn't find it — so — this too, the "oiseaux" and "squir'ls" must have stolen it. The poor things get blamed all round. Doesn't seem to bother them much, as they always manage to give him a lot of back-talk.

The lake is all covered with water now and looks very black. Certainly if this wind keeps up, it will help to loosen up the ice and maybe get it doing.

Tuesday, May 16 —

It started to rain Monday, and it's still at it. One good thing, the snow and ice are taking a beating. We have some visitors. An Indian family have taken up residence not too far from the lodge. I was able to gather the mother has just come out of hospital, been in a year. It is the family of the two boys who work here. They sure seem to be very happy about the whole thing. The boss sent some goodies down and had me drive the two boys home. I liked that little touch. Now I suppose the boys will come back and have enough Ouananiche for the whole camp. Incidentally we (the Indians and I) are getting on very well in our language problems. They do say, where there is a will there is a way.

Police officers discuss traffic problems

The first traffic conference of its kind in Quebec was held in Montreal recently when 68 police officers from 41 cities dealt with the problems of modern traffic. The sessions, held for a week in the new Montreal Police Training School, were addressed by lawyers, chemists, engineers and enforcement authorities on all phases of traffic co-ordination and control. Statements included:

Education of drivers in Canada to a uniform set of signals and signs is necessary to traffic efficiency.

The seminar was sponsored by the Traffic Conference of Quebec which is designed to co-ordinate the handling of traffic through the province.

SEED YEAR—A Plant Products inspector of the Canada Department of Agriculture uses his seed trier and tray to take samples from a seed shipment. The tag is then affixed or, in this case, verified. ON THE FARM FRONT

'61 Census to measure pulse of Agriculture

The horse is fast becoming a lonesome animal on many a Canadian farm. . . . It's all part of a revolution in agriculture that has taken place during the past 35 years. The development and use of farm machinery enables today's farmer to produce more than double the output of his counterpart of 1939. The machinery, in turn, has brought changes — including the number of farms, number of farmers and size of farms.

At the turn of the century, agriculture was the dominant industry in Canada. As late as 1939, one Canadian worker in three was in agriculture. But in recent years, the ratio had dropped to one Canadian worker in eight. And in the 20-year period to 1959, Canada's labor force rose by one-third, while her farm labor force was halved.

Agriculture, then, no longer ranks among Canadian industries in the number of people it employs But it is still of major importance to the economy. Cash income from the sale of farm products in 1960 has been estimated at $2,783,750,000 — $75,000,000 short of the record figure in 1952.

To measure the pulse of this basic industry, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics conducts a census of agriculture in all ten provinces once every ten years. In addition, an agriculture census of only the Prairie Provinces was taken every five years until 1956, when a limited agriculture census of the entire nation was made.

The planning of the June, 1961 Census of Agriculture has been no small task. Preparations began three years ago. Conferences were held with agricultural officials, at which many suggestions were considered. Then, as the basis of final research on the questions to be asked, a test census was taken in the areas of Hamilton, Galt and Joliette, in June, 1959.

As a result of this planning, the main agricultural census form of 1961 contains 186 questions. That's in addition to the queries of the population form, which will be answered by farmers and non-farmers alike. In addition, there are further questionnaires on irrigation and woodlands, for the farmers concerned. This is a lot of questions, but most farmers will answer only a fraction of them, depending on the type of their operation.

How will the census be taken?

In the last week of May, most farmers across Canada will receive by mail the general agricultural form. It is being mailed before June 1 so that farmers will know in advance of the arrival of the census taker the questions he or she will ask. It is hoped that farmers will have the answers ready when the census taker arrives.

If the farmer is away when the census taker calls, the wife can then have the answers available. The time of both farmer and census taker will be saved.

Farmers in Newfoundland and scattered areas across Canada will not receive advance mailings. However, they will be covered in June when census takers call on every home in the nation.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Lamb Feeding Pointers

With so many feed additives on the market and so much discussion in the press, on radio, and TV, it is confusing to stockmen.

Professor Arthur L. Pope, in charge of the sheep program at the University of Wisconsin, helped to clear the confusion, at least so far as sheep were concerned.

Dr. Bohstedt

He had so many requests come to him for information and advice that he ventured the following statements, while indicating that most of the products definitely needed more investigation:

3.) Alcohol in Feed—A mixture of molasses, urea, ethanol (an alcohol) and trace minerals. There is not sufficient evidence from disinterested sources to recommend its use at the present time.

5.) Cobalt Bullets — These are cobalt boluses that dissolve slowly in the paunch of sheep and thereby supply a steady source of cobalt. There is no proof that they are needed where trace mineralized salt is fed.

6.) Dictycide—A new product for the control of lungworm, to be injected under the skin. It looks good and should be tried under the advice of veterinarians.

7.) Antibiotics—The use of these as a feed supplement for lambs continues to show merit. Aureomycin and terramycin are most frequently used. They seem to aid in the prevention of scours, pneumonia and overeating. The recommended amount to feed varies from 10 to 40 milligrams per pound of grain.

8.) Pelleted Feed—Containing an antibiotic for lamb creep rations, will revolutionize our method of growing out lambs. One important reason is that pelleting greatly improves the nutritive value of the ration. This is particularly true for young lambs, especially in the case of hay. Another important advantage is the ease with which pellets can be self-fed. They lend themselves ideally for mechanized feeding. More and more flock-owners are dry-lot feeding their lambs straight through to market without pasture and with pellets.

Answer: Trace minerals seem to do it often enough to warrant their use. Where Kansas investigators did not think them necessary some years ago, they now report that steers that were first on pasture, then wintered, and finally finished on a corn soybean oil meal, prairie hay, bone meal and trace mineralized salt ration gained 56 pounds per head more than steers getting the same ration with only plain salt.

Questions from readers will be answered in the column or by direct reply. Please send your questions to Dr. Bohstedt, 221 North LaSalle Street, (Rm. 507), Chicago 1, Illinois.

Fire-blight in apple trees

Fire-blight is a disease which attacks orchards with varying degrees of severity. Unlike scab, it is not generalized and wide-spread, and it is nearly always the same orchards which are found to be affected. Moreover, fire-blight varies a great deal in the amount of damage it does, which, in some years, may be negligible or even non-existent.

Last year, writes Roger Desmarteau of the Quebec Department of Agriculture, cases of fire-blight were seen more especially on Yellow Transparent and also on some McIntosh trees.

The disease develops in the earlier part of the summer season, in comparatively warm and wet weather. Its behaviour is very different from that of scab. Fire-blight is caused by a bacterium which invades the vessels of the tree and thence the neighboring tissues. It is spread by insects and also by the spattering of rain, from cankers on the trunk and branches from which oozes the inoculum, a sticky, brownish liquid.

Fire-blight may affect all parts of the tree, from the ground up. The most conspicious damage is seen on the blossom clusters, of which the leaves and flowers wither and the base is encircled by a little canker. Injury is also very noticeable on the current season's growth and on suckers and waterspouts, which become cankered, and bend and curve at the tip, so that they often look like walking-stick handles bearing a cluster of withered, leathery leaves.

In the case of apple trees which have carried the disease for some years, extensive cankers may be found on the trunks and branches. A sticky, contaminating fluid or gum escapes from them through cracks in the bark.

An effective means of combatting fire-blight of apple trees has been known for only a few years. At present an antibiotic product known as Agristrep is used. Three treatments are recommended: at the beginning of blossoming, at full bloom, and at the end of blossoming. Eighteen to thirty-six ounces of Agristrep should be used per acre, or 50 to 100 parts per million — according to the manufacturer's directions. In the case of commercial orchards, the cutting-out, removal, and treatment of cankers, and the pruning away of affected water-sprouts and suckers, are methods of control now recommended for comparative success. But the pruning away of water-sprouts, suckers, and the current season's shoots is not entirely practicable and, in many cases, the disease is carried about during the operation on tools and hands.

COMMON DISEASES

Edmonton CP — The Alberta Department of Agriculture says mastitis was the most prevalent cattle infection in Alberta in 1960. The most common infectious swine disease was erysipelas.

Bovine TB was threat to humans

Ridding the country of bovine tuberculosis has had considerable impact on the health of Canadians, many of whom have, in the past, contracted tuberculosis from cattle.

Dr. R. M. Price, who studied 300 cases of non-pulmonary tuberculosis in Toronto in 1934, found that 15 per cent were due to the bovine bacillus. The figure has dropped considerably since then.

Dr. G. J. Wherrett, executive secretary of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, said recently in a letter to the Canada Department of Agriculture, ". . . Since the very excellent program for the control of bovine tuberculosis by the Department of Agriculture and the extensive pasteurization programs throughout Canada, bovine tuberculosis has been practically eliminated as a cause of disease in man."

"This fact, alone," commented a Health of Animals Division spokesman, "demonstrates that our long fight to eliminate the disease in cattle has not been in vain."

APPLE CROP

Mr. Merchant, does this mean YOU?

Merchants who do not advertise are invited to read the following from the American Bankers' Magazine, as it might give them a new slant on business, your own business, as well as the matter of building up your town:

● "No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in in its columns.

● "The life of a town depends on the live, wide-awake and liberal his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere

● "This does not mean you should have a whole, half, or even a quarter page ad, in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned.

● "A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town by looking at the paper. This is the best possible town advertiser.

● "The man who does not advertise does an injustice to himself and the town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but refuses to advertise his own is not a valuable addition to any town. advertising business men."

LEGION PLAYS HOST TO 29th QUEBEC PROVINCIAL CONVENTION

Resolutions passed, dignified ceremonies at 3-day meeting

Highly impressive ceremonies at Lachute civic auditorium marked the opening of the 29th annual convention, Quebec Command of the Canadian Legion, last Thursday evening. The occasion also coincides with the 25th anniversary of the host branch, Lachute No. 70.

In the Act of Remembrance a military cemetery in tableau, with white crosses and poppies, was impressive with stage and lighting effects. The entrance of a color party, Last Post and Reveille played by the Longue Pointe Ordnance Band, and the reading of Laurence Binyon's immortal "Flanders Field", gave fitting solemnity to the rite.

Guests of honor were the national president, Mervyn Woods, of Saskatoon; the Hon. Paul W. Earle, O.B.E., C.D., Quebec Minister of Revenue, as speaker; Ed Struthers, provincial president; H. Aronovitch; Fernand Legault, Q.C., Mayor of Lachute; W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P. for Argenteuil; the Rev. Wilson Bridge, Lachute; Brig. Henri Trudeau; Jos. Martell, Br. 70 president; and George Kirby, Lachute, convention chairman.

A civic reception was held in the municipal chambers preceding the opening. The Longue Pointe band gave a recital at the Memorial Park adjoining the Auditorium in the afternoon, also playing during intervals of the evening program; their music added much to the impressiveness and solemnity of the function.

Resolutions at an afternoon executive session expressing loyalty to Her Majesty the Queen, the Governor General, and the Lieutenant Governor of the Province, were adopted at the opening general assembly.

Addressing an attentive audience, he said in part: "We who are members of the Canadian Legion are Comrades in fact and in our daily lives. We share common experiences which less fortunate men have not had. I speak of the common experience of sharing the great privilege of serving our country, our monarch and the cause of human freedom. And please let us bear in mind that word 'privilege'. To serve one's country, our Queen and most important of all, the cause of Human Liberty, is the greatest privilege a citizen can have in his lifetime." He referred to the prefix of the word 'Royal' granted by Her Majesty, a proud moment for us all, making us almost members of a fourth service taking our place alongside the Royal Canadian Navy, the royal regiments of the Canadian Army and the Royal Canadian Air Force. "Our cause today," he said, "is that of service, though not armed service. Our job as members of the Legion is to serve our country through service to the community in every worth while way to which we can turn our hands. We can

Two teachers at Lachute High School honored by school board on retiring

After many years of fine service to the Lachute Protestant School Board, and to hundreds of children throughout the years, two devoted teachers were honored Tuesday evening at the Lachute High School, by the School Commissioners on behalf of appreciative parents in this school region. There were 70-odd guests present, and each felt that their presence was a gesture of thanks to these two teachers for their devoted service.

Both Mrs. Ruth Graham and Mrs. M. McDonell, the honored guests, were recipients of silver trays bearing the inscription, "In appreciation of exceptional service for the Lachute Protestant School Board — June 1961".

Mrs. Ruth Graham is in her 34th year of teaching at Lachute High School, and all her school-teaching experience has been in this vicinity, including The Glen, Cambria, Lakefield, St. Canut, Hill Head and the Walker School. Mrs. M. McDonell had previously taught in Montreal and Quebec City. She has been teaching in Lachute for 15 years.

The festivities were held in the cafeteria of the school. At the head table were the two honored guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McGibbon, the Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Lang, the Rev. and Mrs. Jas. Armour, and Mrs. W. M. Cottingham The catering and decorations were by members of the Lachute and District Home and School Association.

Following the dinner, the chairman, Mr. J. W. McGibbon, was in fine jovial form; he suggested there had been some confusion in planning the various speeches of those desiring to express themselves — especially the guests, who requested 50 to 60 minutes each. He spoke affectionately of the fine service of both Mrs. Graham and Mrs. McDonell at Lachute High School, and stated that possibly 2,000 pupils had passed through the classrooms of these two teachers over the years. He called upon the Rev. C. R. Lang to present the silver tray to Mrs. Graham, and the Rev. Jas. Armour to make a similar presentation to Mrs. M. McDonell.

The principal, Mr. F. Royal, spoke on behalf of the teaching staff, extending best wishes to the retiring members, and also commented upon the fine co-operation he had received from the school board over the past 15 years. In replying, Mr. McGibbon acknowledged these encouraging words directed to the commissioners; it was rarely, he said, that school boards heard such complimentary remarks.

Toasts to the Queen, the School Board and to the two guests were extended, and an expression of thanks was given to the Home and School for their fine co-operation.

Ballet pupils give charming performance

Last Thursday evening the Argenteuil School of Ballet presented its fourth recital. Mrs. E. Gow introduced the pianist, Miss Louise Carriere, and the ballet mistress, Miss Lucille Du Breuil, two talented young people. Miss Du Breuil in her remarks that, due to the hard work and great devotion of Mrs. Gow, she found here a ballet school organized and maintained among the best; harmony had been obtained between parent, teacher and pupil.

The curtain opened to reveal a beautiful arrangement of spring flowers festooned and draped around a centrepiece, which consisted of a large watch in candy pink with forget-me-nots in place of figures. These decorations gave the impression of youth and brightness. The atmosphere was further accentuated by the many costumes, which were bright in color and tastefully designed. One could see that a great amount of thought and care had been taken in their selection. The pre-ballet pupils presented stories from the nursery days, with a charm that only small children can give.

The most original setting was the toy shop, where children represented wooden soldiers, a multi-colored ball, blocks, jesters, teddy bears and a rabbit. Variations made the whole act delightful and realistic.

It is not possible to single out any one student; they all performed their parts most efficiently. When one considers that the ages vary from three years and up, one must admire the patience of their teacher. The school is finding its place in the life of Lachute. . . . Mrs. Gow wishes to express her thanks to the 42 parents who gave some of their time in cutting out and patiently stitching the costumes.

County census takers listed — embark Thursday on big venture

Thursday, June 1, thousands of census takers across Canada start out to take the decennial count of this country's population. It is anticipated the count will reveal approximately 18,200,000 inhabitants — representing a population increase of 4,200,000 in the 10-year period from 1951.

Argenteuil County

Here in Argenteuil, the county is divided into two sections for purpose of this census — East Section in charge of Mme Adhémar Cuerrier, and West Section in charge of Mme Roger Raymond, Brownsburg. Under these two "census commissioners" there will be about 50 census-takers calling on all households. Following are the workers in East Section:

Calumet — Laurent Chantal.

Each census-taker will carry a card as certificate of identification, issued by the Dominion Statistician. The card affirms that the worker is commissioned by the Minister of Trade and Commerce, and authorized by law, to obtain the required information. The identification is doubly signed, by the bearer (census-taker) and by the commissioner.

It is forbidden to combine personal business with these census calls. The census takers are under oath, also subject to fine or imprisonment if they divulge any information acquired concerning any resident in their rounds. Census information is strictly confidential. . . . The volume of district population is recorded on magnetic tape from further processing, classification and analysis, in this immense undertaking across the entire country.

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg Branch 71 of the Canadian Legion scored a success on Saturday as the veterans ran their third annual school field day in Brownsburg. Youngsters from six to 16 came from the Brownsburg High School and the Bouchard and St. Louis de France Schools to compete in sports events, collect prizes, drink soft-drinks, eat hot-dogs and ice cream, play softball, laugh — and in a few instances, cry.

The students assembled at their respective schools at 8.30 Saturday morning and proceeded to the corner of Main Street and Greenwood Ave., where they formed into a single group and marched up to the C-I-L picnic grounds behind the Legion and Women's Auxiliary color guard.

Of special interest to the Legionnaires was the attendance of Mr. Jean Miquelon, Vice-President of the Dominion Command, Canadian Legion. Mr. Miquelon, who had been attending the Legion Provincial Conference in Lachute, welcomed the students and fired the opening gun to start the sports activities.

Aggregate Winners

The track and field program, which included broad jumping, high jumping and running events, began at 9 a.m. and continued through to 4 p.m. with an hour out for lunch. Top winners in the girls' events were Mariette Pariseau (age 16 and over), and Sandra Steere (age 14 and 15), each with four firsts. Sandra picked up another second place by moving up a notch to the 16-and-over group. Donna Kennedy led the girls age 12-13, with two firsts and a second, closely followed by Faye Keatley, with two firsts and a third. In the 10 and 11-year age group, Carolyn Summers led the field with two firsts and a third. Ken McGibbon picked up three firsts and a second in the boys 16-and-over, while Andrew Seary rated a first and two seconds. The 14-15 age group prizes were split up between André Pariseau, with two firsts and one second, Junior Ross with three firsts, Winston Dixon with a first and a second, and Maurice Mailhot with three seconds. Bernard St. Denis rated as tops in the boys 12-13 years of age, as he won two firsts and a second place. In the boys 10-11, it was Michel Labelle with two firsts, a second and a third. Yvon Pominville was next, with a first and two seconds, followed by Daniel Lepage with a first, a second and a third place.

Thrill in One-Mile Race

An upset in the one-mile run brought a gasp of astonishment from students, veterans and the few parents on hand, as Junior Ross flashed past Ken McGibbon with 200 yards to go and finished well in front. Six boys started the gruelling race and two dropped out before it was over. As in former years, easy-running Ken McGibbon led the field right from the start, followed by Junior Ross, who stayed within 10-15 yards. Robin Hazel and Gerry Beecroft had trouble with the fast pace and were spaced out behind young Ross. This was the pattern until the second last turn, with Ken McGibbon running steadily all the way. It was at this point that Junior suddenly poured on the coal and sprinted into the lead, providing an unexpected thrill for all those watching, and particularly for his parents.

Softball Event

In softball, the boys from the Bouchard school won a 13-12 victory over the weaker-hitting crew from Brownsburg High School. Team Captain Maurice Mailhot received the Legion trophy from the field day chairman, Les Camus, on behalf of the winners.

Accident east of town limits

After a glancing collision with another car, this automobile, driven by Jean-Guy Lavergne, Ayersville, crashed into a pole in Route 41 just east of Berry's store, disrupting power in the district for about 3½ hours last Friday night. The other car (westbound) in the collision was owned and driven by Leonard Scott, Upper Lachute. Mrs. Scott suffered a slight cut over the eye, but five occupants of the Lavergne car were unhurt. Traffic Officer Montagne is seen at the site of the accident.

Sentiments and Sidelights

(Comments on the Local Scene)

Work on the new chapel at the Notre Dame de Lourdes Shrine is progressing. Lachute Lumber & Milwork Ltd. are the contractors. According to the clerics in charge, a number of organized pilgrimages are being held during the following weeks. . . .

As regards the annual march from St. Jerome, which arrives in the early hours with police escort and loud celebration — it might be suggested that the authorities get together NOW to prevent this unnecessary fanfare and disturbance to sleepers.

◆

Add to last week's commendation on repairs to the bandstand — another welcome renovation completed by the town authorities: The North River revetment wall and light standards have been patched and set in order, thus presenting a more prosperous appearance to the conventioneers and numerous visitors last week-end.

◆

Called to a property on Durocher Street, Ayersville, to remedy the water pressure, a plumber dislodged a family of three frogs from the drinking-water pipe. . . . Yes, the authorities are working on that filtration project. Meanwhile, how about a screen of finer mesh?

◆

The Quebec traffic department mobile auto-permit "clinic" will be at the Court House, Grace Street, from noon next Monday, June 5, until Tuesday evening, giving tests for license applicants.

Voice from Labrador

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Thursday, May 18 —

One of the happiest lines I'll be able to write (sometime), is that spring has finally come to this part of the country. I'm beginning to doubt that we will ever have summer. Today was a very cold 22 degrees and snowing, with a very raw wind, a real stinker of a day.

During all this dirty weather only one thing has made it worth while — the sighting of about eight caribou. They were not moving too fast, so we could really have a good look at them. I mentioned their queer, ambling gait before and it sure is something to see. At first they give the impression of coming unjointed at the seams. It is funny to watch. But their pace sure covers the ground in a big way. They were browsing all the time they were moving. Apparently these animals do not nibble here and there, but stay in one spot until the food supply is exhausted. I guess this is one of Nature's ways of teaching conservation to her animals. But Nature otherwise, is very harsh to any game in these parts: only the fittest survive. Humans too, I guess.

Friday, May 19 —

We had a Mountie in this afternoon for a short while. He is due back in next week to give us guides a going-over. You know — Game Laws, etc.

I told you of the Indian family that had moved in not too far from us. Well, this Mountie actually came in to check on them; seeing that the mother had been in hospital so long, they didn't want anything to happen. I have a sneaky idea though that is not all, as one of the Indian boys who works for us took off just as soon as he saw the red-coat (actually, khaki) . . . However, be what it may, he still was interested in the lady of the family.

* * *

Saturday, May 20 —

Our new chef came in today, and that is a great relief for Edith. She has been looking after the whole gang as regards their food, and it has not been easy. The fortunate thing is that this cook has been in the Arctic before, with the Bell Telephone. And, if the first meal he has cooked is any criterion, then we are in for some good meals. At least, he doesn't mind the birds and squirrels. Or the solitude, for that matter. . . .

As regards the birds, these jays we have around, along with the squirrels, will swipe anything unless its nailed down. I saw my first robin today — sure was one uncomfortable looking bird. The lake has opened up about two miles now. That won't seem very much to most of you, but when it has taken so long to see open water, this looks good; money in the bank. All that's required now is a little warmth, and away we go for fish. The geese are still around, and evidently this is going to be their summer home. A lot of the seagulls have beat it, for which we are glad, no end. The raucous noise they make kind of upsets the serenity around here.

The Cariboo grass is starting to come up, the most beautiful shade of green you will ever see. Walking on it makes it pull right out of the ground just like velvet. This grass seen sprouting through the snow sure paints some wonderful pictures.

We cut down a couple of old trees to burn, and on splitting them found hundreds of the saw-flies inside. They were frozen solid, so much so that they could be rolled around in your fingers without any damage to them. Anyway, starting the fire we put these logs close so they could dry out a little, and after about 15 minutes these same ants could be seen moving around. Within 20 minutes they were right back to their normal state; brushed onto the snow again, it took them only a matter of five minutes to go back to the comatose state. . . . We more or less take these things for granted, and maybe wondered just a little how they happen. There's so much we have to learn about Nature's ways.

* * *

Sunday, May 21 —

Eight inches of snow on the ground. Bed is the best place today — but not for us, though. Work to be done, even though it's Sunday.

During all this weather the snow flies could be seen, flying and dropping momentarily onto the lake. I imagine they are laying eggs. They are a black and white, very small, resembling the small midges. With the inquisitiveness of a fly-tyer, I hope to catch some, just to give them a good look-see.

I finally got the low-down on the Indian, and why he blew the coop the day the Mountie came in. It seems his father saw a side of veal down at the railway station last fall, that was not under lock and key; appropriating same, he later sold it back to them as Cariboo. Thinking it would be nice to have a Cariboo feed, they hired the Sept-Iles dining room and put on this feed for the big-shots! Everything went fine, until one of the old-timers who had eaten more Cariboo than anything else, broke up the show. It seems the old Indian since then has been one-half jump ahead of the Mounties. As there are no Provincial Police here, it becomes R.C.M.P. business. The son took off to warn his dad that Police were in the district. I imagine he headed for the deep bush — that wouldn't be too far in, either. I'm also told there is a warrant for his arrest on his entering Labrador; but as it was also pointed out, Labrador is also a big area to hide in. That I know.

* * *

Monday, May 22 —

Fishing today for a short while. One of the guides got a Ouananiche and lost five more. One of them seemed quite a size.

We have been clearing up all the brush and slashings around, as I told you; but I didn't mention the lemmings that hang around in them. Goldie has now deserted the squirrels in favor of the lemmings; with these she has a lot more success. In the past couple of days she has killed at least 25 of them. They are everywhere, almost as prolific as the voles we used to have on Main Duck Lsland. Goldie is going to be a very happy dog while they last.

It's funny how animals get used to one another. She chases the squirrels, but doesn't put much heart into it — if you can understand what I mean; more or less "token" chase, just to keep them on their toes. Besides she is probably getting tired of catching nothing, on these frequent pursuits.

* * *

Tuesday, May 23 —

More rain and snow flurries; and today we have to go out after logs for another cottage.

A huge flock of geese just passed over, heading no doubt for their summer grounds. The lakes must all be open somewhat, otherwise these birds wouldn't be heading north.

I was watching rises on the water just awhile ago, dozens of them. If they were trout, then all I can say is, Whoope-e-e! Man, there's going to be some fishing in these parts. Anybody interested?

National Golf Week, June 3-10

The proceeds from National Golf Week are used for the Junior development program. The costs of this program during the past few years had risen in relation to the rapidly increasing popularity of golf, particularly among the juniors. In the Metropolitan District around Montreal alone, there are eight tournaments available to the Juniors, these include clinics for all those participating. There are also tournaments in the various Districts. The costs of the program have exceeded the revenues for the past three years. It is most important that the participation in National Golf Week in 1961 be sufficient to finance the program, otherwise it may be necessary to reduce drastically this worthwhile activity.

This year the Royal Canadian Golf Association has put the promotion of National Golf Week almost entirely in the hands of the Provincial Associations, with each Association collecting and retaining the funds collected. What this Association raises will therefore depend on what this Association does with the help of its members.

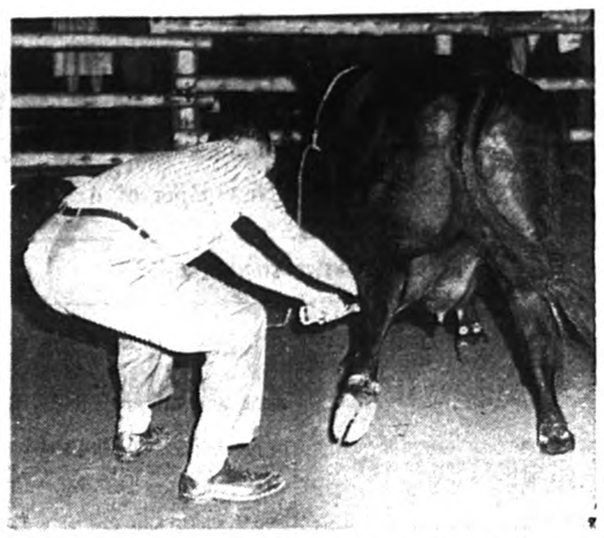

Bill Kerr, of Beaconsfield, is the Canadian P.G.A. champion and Judy Darling, of Whitlock, is the Canadian Ladies' Open champion, and their match played at Beaconsfield will establish target scores for the ladies' and men's competitions across Canada.

Tickets have been printed this year to facilitate the task of the committees, making it possible for them to sell them prior to June 3. These tickets can be turned into the Pro Shop, or given to the starter, before each entrant commences his or her round during National Golf Week. It has been suggested that there are many Club members who will be willing to contribute a dollar to the Junior Development Program, whether they actually play in the National Golf Week competition, or not.

Brownsburg — The J. T. Ayers Cup for tug-of-war, won by Brownsburg in 1926 at the Lachute Spring Fair, is displayed at the Brownsburg Social and Athletic Club.

Genial "Jack", who was president of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society from 1920 to 1930, presented the cup personally to the captain and coach, Ernie Zimmer. Apparently there is no record of the members of that team, but those who were there, all agree that 285-lb. Sam Wilson was anchor man. Names recalled by most are Dan Joly, Osias Girard, Pete Danis, Edmond Girard, Walter Townsend, Albert Drouin, Bill Hewitt, Joe Fletcher, Alfonse Robillard and Herman Zimmer.

Over the years, the team members changed. Lem Wilson and Harry Gardiner were captains at different periods, and many strong men took part. Victor Mailhot, Jim Martin, Bill Witham, Sam Lalonde, Honoré Clement, Pete Goyette, Omer Charron, Alfonse Leroux, Bill Fletcher, Mattias Paquette, Joe Nadon, Charlie and Aldege Neveu.

Thirty-five years back is a long time to remember, but the Lachute Spring Fair started 136 years ago. . . . Remember? . . . Well, say 35 years ago. Stevenson's Band of Toronto and the Scottish Dancers, the West Sisters, were special attractions.

Competition should be keen this year again, at the Fair. Lachute Lumber Company has now entered a team in the Rotary contest, and there is much speculation as to who the anchor man will be. With Lachute Lumber, Boyd's Express, Ayers Ltd., J. C. Wilson, Lachute section of the Royal Artillery, Canadian International Paper, Canadian Industries, Canadian Refractories and Canadian Safety Fuse — there will be 10 teams pulling for the Rotary Cup and worthwhile individual prizes.

Now that gives the ladies something to cheer for — an event for men only. . . . But, for women only, there is an event planned for Rotary Night, June 15. — A football kicking contest. If you can remember back 35 years again, to the Dominion Cartridge Co. Picnic, it was Mrs. J. Campbell who won the event with a kick of 151 feet.

So, ladies, just imagine that football is a certain man who's persistently provoking things around the house — and that record can easily be broken!

Also at the picnic were 2,000 persons, including Sir George and Lady Perley, the former Member of Parliament for Argenteuil; His Worship L. L. Legault, Mayor of Lachute; and the renowned Chesterville Band.

So — if you can pull, it's tug-of-war! If you can kick, it's football! If you can wrestle, it's calf-catching! If you can ride, it's musical stalls! If you're an animal tamer, it's the milking contest!

It's Thursday, June 15, the grandstand show at Lachute Spring Fair. If you can't do any of these exciting things, come and cheer for those who do — and also, you'll be pulling for local youth and a fine spot for a family picnic, the Rotary Park. . . . Be seein' you!

It pays to graduate

IT IS TRUE that some men and women, with very little formal education and training, hold high positions. But they are usually self-educated, a process which means great personal sacrifice. Ask those who have gone back to school at nights or have reached the top "the hard way", and they'll tell you it wasn't easy, and that their road would have been smoother if they had had more formal education and training.

Stories of people succeeding with little formal training are exciting, but the hard fact remains that success in business and industry has one theme that repeats itself over and over — the more education and training you have, the better chance you have of getting permanent employment, getting additional training, and of being promoted to responsible and well-paid positions.

It should be said that graduation alone does not guarantee a person will get a good job. Most employers, when hiring, consider a person's work experience, personality, and general attitudes towards work and society, as well as his training and education. However, there is little doubt that graduating from school or a formal training program academic or technical can open new doors to a wide variety of job opportunities.

Furthermore, representatives of the thousands of employers throughout Canada — the men from whom young people will soon be seeking a job — have gone on record as saying that it pays to graduate, regardless of the type of work you plan to do when you leave school. They can't all be wrong.

THE TERM "wishful thinking" was well known 20 years ago. By 1941, it was well understood in the Western world how much that kind of thinking had cost — says a thought-provoking editorial in the Fort-Erie Letter Review.

Wishful thinking had created and supported the belief that many of Hitler's tanks had broken down during such displays as the march into Austria; the world was amazed when they rolled right across France. Wishful thinking had declared Hitler couldn't carry on a war for more than a few months because he had no oil supply. What fuel wasn't captured was made synthetically in quantities quite large enough for an extensive war.

In some important areas the term and its importance seem to have been forgotten already. In Washington and Miami it was estimated that a landing by anti-Castro forces in Cuba would set off a national insurrection by at least half the population. It didn't happen.

In Algiers the following week, the rightist French generals evidently believed that most of Metropolitan France was with them and waiting for "liberation" from De Gaulle. They planned an airborne coup along the lines of Franco's 1936 landings from Spanish Morocco (in transports lent by Hitler), the landings that set off the three-year Spanish Civil War. . . . The miscalculation of the French generals is partly explained by the fact that they have lived outside of France, some for many years, in Algeria, and before that in Indo-China. They are poor judges of national feeling at home. (General MacArthur might have given them some advice about this.)

But Cuba has been closed to U.S. investigation for only a few months.

Wishful thinking seems the key to both cases. . . . It's a phrase that deserves the respect it was given 20 years ago.

Importance of Newsprint

ASK A CANADIAN to name his country's most importance single export, and the chances are he will say wheat. . . .

Not so. One of the world's leading granaries we still may be, but our leading export by far is newsprint, which, in its exported form ranks as a manufactured product. Thus, in the first 11 months of 1960, the value of newsprint exported was $693,900,000, which was nearly twice that of wheat ($367,700,000).

In the current debate concerning exports and the need to increase them, this might be kept in mind. There is a widespread impression that manufacturing industry makes little or no contribution to Canada's export trade, and that Canadian manufacturers are disinterested in any market but their own. In actual fact, manufacturing earns no less than one of every three of Canada's export dollars.

Mr. S. J. Randall, prominent industrialist, energetic exporter and second vice-president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, provided facts and figures in a recent address in Montreal. Said Mr. Randall: "Can we significantly increase our exports of manufactured goods? The answer is that we are already doing it, in fact, have been doing it for some years past, notwithstanding all the disadvantages and difficulties attending manufacturing production in this country.

"In 1954, for example, we exported fully finished manufactured goods to a total value of $1,543 million dollars. By 1957, this had risen to over $1,785 million. By 1959, it was up again to a new record of $1,860 million and everything points to a further jump last year.

"For the benefit of those Canadians — and there are too many — who still think, talk and act as though wheat was our most important single export, I would point out that in any given recent year, the value of fully manufactured goods exported is from four to five times as great as that of wheat. Indeed, the value of our largest and most important single manufactured export — newsprint — is invariably considerably in excess of that of wheat.

"It should not be necessary to add that I do not cite these particular statistics by way of disparaging wheat, but merely to correct a misconception all too prevalent in this country."

Viewpoints and perspectives

MANY ILLITERATES (writes Barbara Moon in Maclean's Magazine) manage to "develop a very high degree of cunning at hiding their handicap." She cites a sawmill in New Brunswick where semi-literate workers, required to sign for their pay envelopes, pick up the pen and write meaningless scrawls; a major automobile company which has found that its illiterate workers deface their time cards to make identification easy; and a young handyman in Toronto who carried a cheap pair of spectacles in his breast pocket but always "discovered" he had brought the "wrong pair" with him whenever he was required to do any reading or writing. With that excuse, he could ask someone else to read or write for him without revealing that he was illiterate.

CHINA A BIGGER WHEAT CUSTOMER YET? — Traders in Hong Kong, reports The Financial Post's Knowlton Nash from the Far East, say one point has been overlooked in Canada about the fattest wheat deal in Canadian history.

Canada, they say, could have sold even more wheat to the Chinese, maybe twice as much. It is felt that Ottawa was even skittish about extending as much credit as it did. This hesitancy, on top of some worry about whether we would have enough reserves to handle expected demand in the next year from our traditional European wheat customers, inclined Ottawa to hold back on credit.

Hong Kong trade observers believe, there is a real chance of a long-term market in China for the Prairie farmers. "This may be no flash in the pan for your wheat men," one trader commented. "It could become a sound and profitable market."

IN MANY TOWNS, benches on, or handy to, Main Street are welcomed by shoppers. Older people, especially, welcome a place where they can sit and rest, while others awaiting their cars also appreciate a place to sit.

MORE ABOUT INDIANS

Many of the oil-wells in Oklahoma are situated on Indian reservations. Consequently the drilling rights had to be purchased from the Indians and many of these found themselves with more money than they had ever dreamed of.

One young Indian who had become wealthy overnight rode into the nearest town and purchased a brand-new Cadillac, paying cash for same. Three days later he returned to the dealer and wanted to buy another just like the first — and showed the cash to pay for it.

"Why do you want a second car?" asked the surprised dealer.

"First one all smashed up," explained the Indian. "Me drive into big town to see friends. Me have one drink. Me have two drink. Me have three drink. Me start drive home. Me see big iron bridge coming down road. Me turn out to let him pass!"

* * *

A small boy doing his history homework looked up suddenly and said, "Dad, is it true that the Indians out West in the old days used to walk in single file?"

"Yes," answered his dad. "That is quite true."

"How do you know, Dad? Did you ever see them?"

"Yes. Many years ago I was on a trip out West. I knew one Indian, and he always did."

* * *

A tourist stopped off at an Indian reservation to take a few souvenir snapshots, and got into conversation with an old Indian who was standing outside a wigwam.

"What kind of work do you do?" asked the tourist, by way of starting a conversation.

"Me preacher," said the Indian.

"Sure. Me get ten dollars a year."

"Ten dollars a year? That's damn poor pay."

"Sure. But me damn poor preacher!"

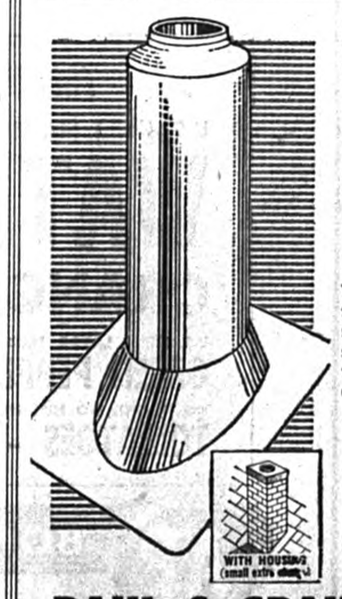

Be seein' ya!

IT HAPPENED IN CANADA

Over the Years

THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

Friday, June 4, 1886 —

St. Andrews — The Ven. Archdeacon Lonsdell, M.A., who has retired and left here to reside in Kingsey, was the recipient of a purse of gold and a handsomely framed photograph of the school.

As will be seen by our advertising columns, Mrs. Massiah, East End, will receive a few boarders. Her residence is a pleasant one, near the depot.

Lachute Academy — The Inspector's report shows a very favorable standing, compared with other academies in the province. In some branches it stands first, in others second, and accordingly an increased government grant is secured.

55 YEARS AGO

Friday June 1, 1906 —

In the sessional examinations at McGill Normal School, Miss Katie M. Campbell of Dalesville obtained the Honorable Superintendent's Gold Medal.

The annual convention for Lachute District of the "Sunday School Union of the Province of Quebec" is being held in the Presbyterian Church.

A tender was received by Council from Mr. J. Palliser, offering to light the town with 16 candlepower lights for $5 each, agreeing to replace the burnt-out lamps at his own cost, and to place fixtures.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, June 4, 1936 —

Kilmar — The Rev. J. H. Lynn, minister of the United Church, is leaving to assume a new charge at Dundee, Ont.

Dr. Maude E. Abbott, of St. Andrews East, curator of McGill history museum, was honored by the Ontario Medical Association with the presentation of a gold medal, on the merits of her exhibit in connection with her research in cardiac disease.

The Rev. G. H. Smith of Morewood, Ont., is assuming the St. Andrews United Church pastorate vacated by the Rev. J. Macaskill.

Elmert Berry, young resident of Thomas' Gore, working for Mr. Micheal Mooney at St. Columban, was kicked in the back by a young colt and removed to hospital with a suspected fracture of the spine.

Father Leon Bobb, of the Trappist monastery at Oka, has been made a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor for services with the French army in 1915. He was wounded in the knee and later blinded in action.

Mr. H. G. Baugh, of the Montreal Theological College, is vacationing at the parsonage in Lakefield.

Mr. W. S. Johnstone, of Bremmer Bridge on the Rouge River, was in Lachute en route to Montreal promoting his Rouge watershed conservation scheme.

Mr. D. Duchesneau is rushing work for completion of his new hotel (Windsor).

Dr. J. O. Touchette, Health Unit inspector, appeared before Town Council relative to unsanitary conditions of the "Laurin suburb"; Council adjourned to make a personal visit to this area.

Bird and animal hitch-hikers have caused terrible damage to countries where they have arrived as immigrants.

Some well-meaning oaf gave the English sparrow a ride to North America, hoping that the bird would eat caterpillars.

Soon the original few pairs had multiplied into thousands and tens of thousands. The sparrows devoured comparatively few insects, and they drove away the truly useful birds by bullying and harassing them. They fouled buildings and destroyed grain.

English rabbits, taken away from their natural enemies and transplanted to Australia, found the earth, air, water and food so much to their taste that they spilled across the whole country in a population explosion that cost millions.

The common blackberry bramble, taken to South Africa, became a fast-spreading weed.

However, some immigrant birds, animals and plants have turned out to be good citizens.

Wildlife Review, the magazine of the fish and game branch of the department of recreation and conservation in British Columbia, presents both sides of the story of migrant creatures and plants.

On the debit side:

The American grey squirrel in England (it turned ugly and began killing trees by chewing their bark); the muskrat, taken to Europe, burrowed into dikes and canal walls, made them cave in.

The Chinese crab, travelling to other countries attached to the hulls of ships, undermined river banks, destroyed fishing nets and carried a serious parasitic disease.

Deer liberated in New Zealand multiplied enormously and overran the pasture. Government hunters are trying vainly to prune down their numbers. Hitch-hiking mosquitos, arriving by airplane, have brought African diseases to South America.

Domestic chickens, geese and ducks are all immigrants to North America. Spanish settlers brought the horse to the Americans in the 17th century.

Most food crops are imported. Corn, beans, pumpkins, squash and tobacco were growing in North America before the white men came — but the Indians had introduced them from South America.

"Man has changed the face of the earth wherever he has gone," says the Wildlife Review writer. "Perhaps because of homesickness for familiar things, man has brought his own plants as well as animals, even when it has meant destroying the country's native environment."

There will be more bird, animal and plant immigration in future. However, the transfer will be scientifically managed. The case of the Australian rabbits, the biologists hope, will never be repeated.

Graduation at Arundel School colorful event

(Our District Correspondant)

Arundel — Despite bad weather, there was a large attendance at the graduation dance, last Friday evening in the Arundel School auditorium.

The Students' Council and pupils had worked hard to produce a scene of artistic beauty, which was in bright contrast with the bleak weather outside. One entered the hall to an atmosphere of warmth and hospitality. Festoons of school colors adorned the walls and ceilings. The dancing space was enclosed by a white picket fence. In the centre was an arbor, around which rockeries were built, filled with beautiful flowers. The rock gardens were repeated at each corner of the enclosure and in front of the stage, on which Gordon Anderson's Orchestra played for the dancing. Chinese lanterns among the festoons lent a soft light to the whole fairylike scene.

The graduates were — Misses Vera Gray, dressed in blue nylon with white accessories; Delia Miller, in lilac nylon with white accessories; Louise Beauchamp, in turquoise nylon with white accessories; and Myrna Staniforth, in white nylon with white accessories. The other graduates were Bob Owen and Wayne Rathwell.

Special guests were Mayor W. Morrison and Mrs. Morrison, the Councillors and their wives, the Rev. and Mrs. Bussell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lawson, and parents of the graduates. Mrs. E. Graham received the guests as they entered.

The Grand March was piped in by Mr. J. Lawson, after which Principal M. Graham welcomed the guests, then presented the graduates to the assembly. Mr. Leslie, on behalf of the School Board, addressed the graduates, and Wayne Rathwell replied on behalf of the graduating class.

At 11 o'clock, under direction of Mrs. Lawson, a program of Scottish dances was given in which 30 girls took part. A Highland Fling was skilfully executed by Miss Barbara Swail and Miss Barbara Kille. All the dancers were in full Scottish costume, and won the applause of those present. Great credit is due Mrs. Lawson for such a finished performance. Supper was then served after which dancing was enjoyed until one o'clock.

It was indeed a memorable night, and appreciation is extended to all who worked so hard to make it a success.

W.M.S. Heard Speaker

Last week the Arundel W.M.S. were hostesses to the Ottawa Valley delegates. Morning and afternoon services were held in the church, with a break for lunch. About 85 were present. The guest speaker was Miss Louisa Mayova, whose work consists of meeting the vessels that arrive in port at Montreal, and greeting the immigrant arrivals to their new country. This is under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society.

Mrs. Melvin Graham entered hospital last week; friends extend wishes for her speedy recovery.

Mrs. Alvin Graham, who has been confined to the house, is now on the road to recovery.

A successful rummage sale was held last Friday under auspices of the United Church Women's Association. Net proceeds of $200 are expected, which will be used in the work of the church.

THE SCENE Around Brownsburg

By M. E. Cowley

Congratulations to the Brownsburg Branch of the Canadian Legion for a job well done. The school field day which has become an annual affair, was an outstanding success, made so by the hard work of Legionnaires and members of the Women's Auxiliary. From this vantage point the field day is the local Legion's "raison d'être", as far as assisting local youth is concerned. The organization also grants two scholarships each year, but this sports program is the "big show." It is regrettable that the Legionnaires' enthusiasm is not shared in some other circles.

The speed trap made its appearance this past week-end and nipped a few of the lake visitors heading back to the city. — But why just the city people on the week-end? The week-days are hardly free from speed violators!

Saturday, June 10 — a date for the children to keep in mind. That's the day on which the Bicycle Safety program will be conducted at the Brownsburg arena. This timely project — sponsored jointly by the local Legion branch, Les Loisirs de Brownsburg, and the Brownsburg Home and School Association — will include both the English and the French school children. Further details will appear in the next issue.

The use and misuse of clerical titles

(Contributed)

How often you see on an envelope or in the paper, "Rev. Smith" spoke, etc. — How wrong this is. "Reverend" is NOT a title; it is an adjective. You would not say, "Honorable Diefenbaker", but rather "The Honorable John Diefenbaker". So a person should NOT say, "Reverend Jones or Smith", but rather "The Reverend Paul Jones or Smith". It is also proper to say "The Reverend P. C. Jones", or "The Reverend Mr. Jones". For priests of the Anglican, Roman or Orthodox or other Catholic obedience, "Father Jones". It is also quite proper to address your clergyman as "Rector", when speaking to him, but NEVER say or write "Rev. Jones".

LEGION NOTES

— by —

Branch 70 Correspondent

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

"The tumult and the shouting dies, The captains and the kings depart"

Perhaps the wording is not quite correct but the lines seem to apply very well to last week's activities. The "Canadian Legion 29th Provincial Convention, May 25-26-27, Lachute, Que." has gone into the records. Along with the resolutions passed and amendments approved, were the kind comments passed by the visiting delegates on the fine job done by Branch 70 throughout the entire convention, from the opening ceremonies to the closing banquet and dance. Without the hard work and efforts of our members, this affair could have failed dismally. If one was to call the roll for those who assisted so well, it would have to include — Demerse, Evans, Jenkins, Kirby, Maidens, Martell, Milnes, Ogilvie, Paulson, Smith, Simpson, Tucker and our excellent color party of St. Laurent, Duncan and Ward. The very efficient work of Comrade S. Morrison with the P.A. and recording systems at the convention and banquet halls, is also worthy of mention. There were, of course, many others who pitched in and helped when the call went out for work to be done. To one and all (including our patient wives), congratulations and thanks for a job well done.

* * *

Next is the Spring Fair, another big show and another big effort needed by one and all. Keep those raffle tickets moving, and remember that big grandstand show — greased pigs, pillow fights, Magic Tom, and the dancing display. Preparations are well underway for all the events.

* * *

The preparations that were going on in the south of England 17 years ago were really something, weren't they? D-Day was approaching. The marshalling areas were filling up, leaves were cancelled, bombers roared overhead, endless convoys filled the roads. It was said that so much men and material had moved into the south of England that the island had tilted and Scotland was high and dry! Soon it was D-Day — then Normandy and the long, dirty, painful grind on to final victory.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES — What They Believe

Understanding of truth concerning Almighty God, the Creator, is essential to eternal life. Jesus taught his followers to pray to their Father in heaven: "Let your kingdom come, let your will come to pass, as in heaven, also upon earth." What was Jesus' Father's name? Psalms 83, verse 18, says: "That men may know that Thou, whose name alone is Jehovah, art the most high in all the earth."

"Jehovah's witnesses are Christians forming an international society of ministers engaged in preaching the gospel of God's kingdom in more than 175 countries and territories of the earth in obedience to the commands of Jesus Christ. (Matthew 24:14; 28:19, 20) Jehovah is the name of the Almighty God (see Exodus 6:3 in the Amharic Bible) and we are His witnesses, even as His son Christ Jesus was when on earth. (Isaiah 43: 9-12; Revelation 3:14). Being witnesses for God, we give testimony to all who will listen. (Revelation 22:17) We feel both privileged and obligated to help lift up people morally and spiritually and to comfort them with the message of God's established kingdom for which Jesus taught all Christians to pray. (Ezekiel 3:17-21; Isaiah 61:1, 2; Matthew 6:9, 10) Jehovah's witnesses are wholeheartedly devoted to God and His kingdom and their Christian conduct recommends them to all honest men. They are a peaceful, law-abiding people who are never involved in the instigation of race riots or any form of political uprisings or revolutions. Their peaceful and charitable activities plus their high moral standards make them a credit to any community, and never would there be any foundation for charging them with being 'dangerous to the security of a country.'

"As to doctrines, Jehovah's witnesses teach that Jehovah is the Almighty God (Psalm 83:18); that He is the Creator of the heavens and earth (Genesis 1:1); that His creation is perfect (Deuteronomy 32:4); that sin and death entered the world through the rebellion of Adam and Eve and the one now called Satan (Romans 5:12; Genesis 3: 1-5); that the punishment for sin was and is death (Romans 6:23); that God sent His son, Jesus Christ, into the world to die and pay the ransom for obedient humans (Matthew 20:28); that Christ's one sacrifice was sufficient (Romans 6:10; Hebrews 10:12); that Christ was raised from the dead as an immortal spirit (1 Peter 3:18); that there is only one road to everlasting life, and that through Christ (Matthew 7:13; 1 Timothy 2:5); that Christ's second presence is in spirit (John 14:19; Matthew 24:3; 2 Corinthians 5:16); that we are now in the world's time of the end (Matthew 24:3-14; 2 Timothy 3:1-5); that the earth will never be destroyed or depopulated (Ecclesiastes 1:4; Isaiah 45:18); that God will destroy this present wicked system of things at the battle of Armageddon (Revelation 16: 14-16; Zephaniah 3:8; Daniel 2:44; Isaiah 34:2); that Armageddon will come within this present generation (Matthew 24:34); that all the wicked who do not take their stand for His kingdom will be eternally destroyed (Psalm 37: 10; 145:20; Proverbs 10:24; Isaiah 26:14); that the kingdom under Christ will rule the earth in righteousness and peace (Isaiah 9:6, 7; 11:1-5; Psalm 46:8, 9; Matthew 6: 10); that the hope for the dead is the resurrection (1 Corinthians 15: 20-22); that only a little flock is chosen to rule in Heaven with Christ Jesus (Luke 12:32; Revelation 14:1, 3; 1 Corinthians 15:40-43; Revelation 20:4, 6); that a great multitude of others will live on earth under Christ's Kingdom rule (Matthew 5:3, 5; 6:9, 10; Proverbs 2:21, 22; 10:29, 30; Malachi 4: 1-3); that the Kingdom will bring ideal living conditions to earth (Isaiah 11:6-9; 32:16, 18; 33:24; 65:17-25); that His kingdom will be everlasting (Isaiah 9:6, 7); that death and all form of human misery will be destroyed forever (Isaiah 25:6-8; Revelation 21:4); and that wickedness and afflication will never rise a second time (Nahum 1:9).

Guide Rally and Brownie Revel by groups in Argenteuil Division

On Saturday, May 13, over 350 Guides and Brownies of the Argenteuil Division gathered from the six districts, at the Canadian International Paper Co. Harrington Forest Farm. Six Guide Companies and eight Brownie Packs participated — each having its own tent for quarters.

Mrs. M. R. Wilson, Divisional Commissioner, welcomed the guests, visitors, and parents who had come to enjoy the day, and then inspected the Companies and Packs. Mrs. C. G. Owens, a Guider Trainer, inspected the tents and markers. Also at this time Mrs. Wilson presented two Brownsburg Guides, Lorraine Sugden and Emily Bruce, with their All-Round Cords.

A picnic lunch was enjoyed, the girls visiting each other from the various districts. In the afternoon the competitive events and demonstrations took place. Keen competition and good sportsmanship were exhibited in all events, and the judges, in many cases, had difficulty in deciding on a winner.

Folk Dance — (1) 1st Brownsburg Pack; (2) 1st Lachute Pack.

Pack Inspection and Markers — (1) 2nd St. Eustache sur le Lac; (2) 1st St. Eustache sur le Lac.

Guide Gadgets — (Time limit of 15 minutes to make four useful gadgets) — (1) 2nd St. Eustache sur le Lac Co.; (2) 1st Grenville Co.

The 1st Grenville Company were over-all winners of points for the day, with the 1st Lachute Company placing second. Congratulations also to 1st Brownsburg and 1st Lachute Packs, who tied in over-all points.

Mrs. Owen took the salute for the March Past, and the Companies and Packs formed a double circle inside the square, and Guide and Brownie songs were sung. "Taps" closed the day's program. Tents were "struck" and tired but happy girls left for home.

Mrs. E. Morrison, mistress of ceremonies, kept events rolling with the aid of a portable public address system. Sincere appreciation is extended to Canadian International Paper Co. for the use of the location, and to the staff for their assistance, also to the members of Local Associations who acted as judges, assisted with transportation, and helped make this field day a success enjoyed by all who participated.

Gardens in the wakening of spring, hills in Tennyson's 'mist of green'

"Sunnyacres Sketches"

By Margaret Cook

As we had hoped, we write from the old farm. Everything, as Tennyson so aptly puts it, is in "a mist of green", meaning that the leaves on the trees are half out. Under the spreading apple tree at the front, the primulas are gay on the bank, pure yellow, crimson, pink, and a few that are a delightful pale yellow with a mauve border. They do not know it, but they are about to be moved, that is, the few that have tried to escape and are making tentative, yearly steps toward the not-quite-brook at the foot of the lawn. The goat willow down there, that we put in last spring, has had a bad winter. It was resting palely on the earth yesterday, with a few sickly leaves at the top. We straightened it up, and tied it in the proper position, and this morning it looks a little happier. Somewhere I read that nothing makes a flower grow like the "shadow of its owner". My plants must be hard-hearted, for, of course, they have my shadow only intermittently, yet they grow like mad.

We were afraid we should miss the daffodils, but they are in their prime. We counted 183 blooms, and there are as many buds; the narcissi are just beginning. Next fall, we shall have again to face pulling some bulbs up and transplanting. But we have discovered a man who is willing to follow our whims patiently all day; he is even now rearranging everything in the garden. When he finishes, he will have all the delphiniums together, the Sweet Williams will form a united front, phlox will be in a long 40-foot row, with lupins demurely before them. Once we get all the perennials arranged to our liking we shall become a reprobate gardener, and purchase a lot of annuals, well started by someone else, and put them in. Then, lo in July and August, people will exclaim about the lovely flowers. Being human we shall smile sweetly, or as sweetly as nature permits, and accept all the kudos.

* * *

We go much on a back road to Ste. Adele, and are always soothed by the beauty of the narrow pass between the eternal hills. Last night in the dusk, the hills were a mauvey-green, with a gentle mist rising from the ground. On all the hills around twinkled lights, lending their magic to the scene. We like the cross atop one of the mountains at Ste. Adele. We like people who are not afraid of being dubbed superstitious, or sentimental. We like people who have decided views about things, including religion. We may think some of the ideas ridiculous, but we respect the strength of character that says sturdily, "I believe".

The rabbits bound about happily in the spring twilight. Several regularly have their late supper on our lawn. Most of them are nearly all brown now, only a few white bits remaining in case there should be a snowstorm. One especially endearing little fellow has white stockings. He is quite fearless sitting calmly and inspecting me, even as I do him. Peter, the cat, sits enthralled on the table in the glassed-in porch and watches the rabbits perform. Every once in a while, he pleads with me to let him out. "I could have fun with those bouncy things," he coaxes, his eyes round and innocent. If all these blandishments fail, he has a last gambit, that sometimes works; he rushes to his earth-pan, and says he just "has to go", and that it would be so much nicer if he could go outside, and I would not have to clean the pan. As I said, this sometimes works, and he is let out — whereupon, he quite ignores the necessity of which he complained, and sits erect on the step watching the rabbits with eyes from which all innocence has vanished. He has been known to catch a half-grown one, but the older ones are too wary, and fast.

Thus, life in the country. Life in suburbia is something else again. Most of us have been spending May doing, or overseeing, a spot of housecleaning. We had a veteran of two World Wars, a Major, washing walls for two days. He is, of course, now in his late sixties, and is one of the many who live in what we refer to as The Lodge, at Government expense — that is, at the expense of you and me. This is not said in any spirit of bitterness. We certainly owe such men a living, but I should not have been surprised to find that the Major, himself, was bitter. On the contrary, he speaks well of our Government, says, very sensibly, that "some of the fellows gripe", but he feels that is both ungracious and unnecessary. He says he is comfortably lodged, well fed, and when he needs clothes, he has only to have the need affirmed by authority, to get a chit to a men's furnishing. He seems not to care that he risked his life many times over, seemingly to have the world rise from the ashes of war in even worse condition than formerly. He had three sons and two daughters in the services. I gather that all but one returned safely from the Second World War. He hates nobody except the Germans, says he would fight again if he were allowed. Quite a character, the Major, and seemingly unaware of my uneasiness in giving a Major orders about the correct kind of detergent to use on the walls. I have had better cleaners, but none more willing, nor more courteous.

* * *

At the other end of the life scale, there are the young things across the street, waiting for Convocation, to go out into the world. Many of the Agriculture students will return to this country and that, and apply their hard-gained knowledge to the improvement of their homeland. I never have been clear in my mind as to what is the aim of the Home Economics classes, beyound making a living, I mean. The few of these girls I have known well, have been singularly inept about the house. Too great a disparity between the conditions in the laboratory or the demonstration kitchen and the appointments of an ordinary home. Of course, I see the benefit of a knowledge of dietetics, or of nutrition, but not many girls seem interested in these things. — As for the teachers, well, time and space mercifully save our readers from our thoughts on them. Briefly, I think the higher salaries paid have resulted in a poorer type of student in training. They go in for teaching, because it pays, not because they have any real interest in either children or education. Many come from homes where books are something to prop open the door. — Oh, well, our space is filled. Be with you next month.

serve in our churches, our service clubs, in the world of affairs, in the places where we work and in our own homes across this beautiful land."

Reference was made to the steady growth, to the freedom and to the harmony existing between the two great race groups. In closing, he said, "Let us all work together in harmony as Canadians."

Down to Business

Following the official opening on Thursday night, attended by delegates, local Legion members, their families and friends, the first two-day Command Convention in recent years got underway at 9 a.m. Friday. The Rev. Wilson Bridge offered the invocation prior to the start of business on Friday morning and the Rev. Father Yvon Mailloux on Saturday morning. The sessions continued until 10 p.m. Friday, and from 9 a.m. to 5.30 p.m. on Saturday. The Provincial President's report and a talk on the new design badge by the Dominion President, Mervyn Woods, were the highlights of the opening day.

The following resolutions, presented just prior to the closing ceremonies by Wyndham A. Strover, Resolutions committee chairman, were adopted unanimously, with loud applause:

Be it resolved that this Convention extends hearty thanks to His Worship the Mayor of Lachute and to those of the population who have made it so welcome in such a wonderful manner;

Be it resolved that this Convention extends hearty thanks to its host branch, namely Argenteuil Branch, which has worked so effectively to see that every possible need of a Provincial Convention is provided for.

The various resolutions covered a wide range of Legion activities. The veterans voiced concurrence with recent changes to the War Veterans' Allowance Act, recommended free medical treatment for all needy 1914-18 war veterans, with no deductions from pensioners who are hospitalized. Delegates also decided on a more intensive sports program in Quebec, and more publicity during the annual Poppy Campaign.

* * *

It was with much regret that the parade, scheduled for Friday at noon, had to be cancelled due to the heavy downpour of rain. Plans originally called for the delegates to march in a body from the Town Hall to the Legion Hall on Foundry Street.

Nominations of the new Executive took place Friday night, and again at the time of the election on Saturday morning. The new slate of officers charged with handling the affairs of Provincial Command for the next two years is as follows:

President, J. H. L. St. Germain, St. Hyacinthe Branch No. 2.

Immediate past-president, Edward J. Struthers.

Hon. Treasurer, C. E. Booth, Montreal Remembrance Branch 75.

Opening and closing ceremonies were conducted by the retiring chairman, H. Aronovitch, assisted by the Provincial Command color party under Capt. G. H. Packwood.

District 12 Affairs

A meeting of District 12 Council was held in the Lachute Legion Hall, immediately following the completion of Convention business, for the purpose of electing a new slate of officers. This meeting was chaired by the newly-elected Provincial 1st Vice-president, L. A. Fuller.

Officers elected were as follows:

Deputy Commander, M. Lalonde, St. Jerome.

Immed. Past District Commander, R. O. MacLean.

Closing Event

The Convention banquet and installation was held Saturday evening at the Masonic Hall on the Brownsburg Road.

Chaired by Immediate Past-President Ed Struthers, the delegates were served a delicious meal by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Branch 70, assisted by several young ladies all of whom are the daughters of local Legion members.

A local color party consisting of R. St. Laurent, M.B.E., J. Duncan and H. Ward and assisted by Emmett Lowe, drummer, performed their duties efficiently. The installation was conducted by Jean Miquelon, Q.C., Dominion Vice-Chairman.

W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P., addressed the 250 delegates, wives and friends in a light vein, extolling the good features of Argenteuil County and inviting the visitors to consider taking up residence in this area.

Late Daniel Bates was prominent in education sphere

The funeral of the late Daniel A. Bates, who was associated with both the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal and Sir George Williams University for more than a quarter of a century, was held Monday of last week in Grenville.

Mr. Bates, who was 71, died suddenly on May 20, at the Smith Clinic in Hawkesbury.

A bachelor of arts graduate from McMaster University, he received his master's degree from the University of Chicago in 1928. He taught in Vancouver for two years before joining the Montreal board as a teaching principal at the old Delorimier School. He also taught at Lorne School.

Mr. Bates served with the Royal Flying Corps during the First World War and returned to the Montreal board in 1919. He served at Riverside School in Pointe St. Charles and later at Aberdeen School until 1949.

He was a member of the board at Sir George for more than 25 years and was assistant headmaster of the university's high school from 1951 to 1957. He was also an active member of the Headmasters' Association.

Mr. Bates is survived by his wife, the former Mildred Saunders, two brother and two sisters, David John Bates, of Lachute, Henry Bates, of Port Colborne, Miss Jenny Bates, of Montreal, and (Sarah) Mrs. H. Sutton of Lachute — besides many other relatives in this area.

ARE YOU READY TO HELP CANADA COUNT?

When the Census Taker calls please be ready with the answers he needs

Every household in Canada is being sent a list of questions the Census Taker will ask. Please study it and be prepared to answer all the questions or leave the answers with someone who will be at home when the Census Taker calls.

What will you be asked? Questions such as: what is your age and schooling; are you employed and what is your exact job title; how many hours do you usually work each week; in how many weeks did you work for wages or salary in the last 12 months; what were your earnings in the last 12 months?

All information is kept strictly confidential and by law is not available to any private organization or person, or any government department or agency other than the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The Census is interested only in totals accumulated for all parts of Canada.

When the Census Taker calls, welcome him with your co-operation. Everyone will benefit when you help Canada count!

WHAT'S THE 'INSTALMENT PLAN' WAY TO SAVE FOR A DOWN PAYMENT?

Many purchasers of automobiles, furniture and such, pay on the instalment plan. You can put your savings on the same instalment basis. PSP, Scotiabank's Personal Security Program is the "instalment plan" way to save for a down payment for any project needing forward planning and saving. This is how PSP—exclusive with The Bank of Nova Scotia—works: You select a savings goal (between $100 and $2,500) which you reach in 50 equal payments. As you save, you're life-insured for the full amount of your goal. When you reach your goal, you collect all you've saved, plus a cash bonus. PSP is the ideal way to make sure your long-range plans are realized. Ask about PSP at your nearest branch of Scotiabank.
