Kiddies and adults enjoy new swimming pool

The opening of the new Richelieu Park swimming pool on Paquin Avenue last Saturday was a gala occasion for the juniors of Lachute, who flocked to this new pleasure spot around 300 in numbers. The weather was ideal, and in the evening it was the adults' turn to try out the new pool. The playground, too, has been officially opened for youngsters, with male and female monitors in attendance, since last Monday.

Lifeguards at the swimming pool are Jean Lefebvre and Daniel Rozon, certified Red Cross swimmers.

The Richelieu Club has just purchased about $1,000 worth of equipment for the playground.

Swimming Pool Schedule

Hours posted for use of the swimming pool are as follows:

10 a.m. to 12 noon — children only (free).

2 p.m. to 5 p.m. — general swimming.

5 p.m. to 7 p.m. — adults, and children accompanied by adults.

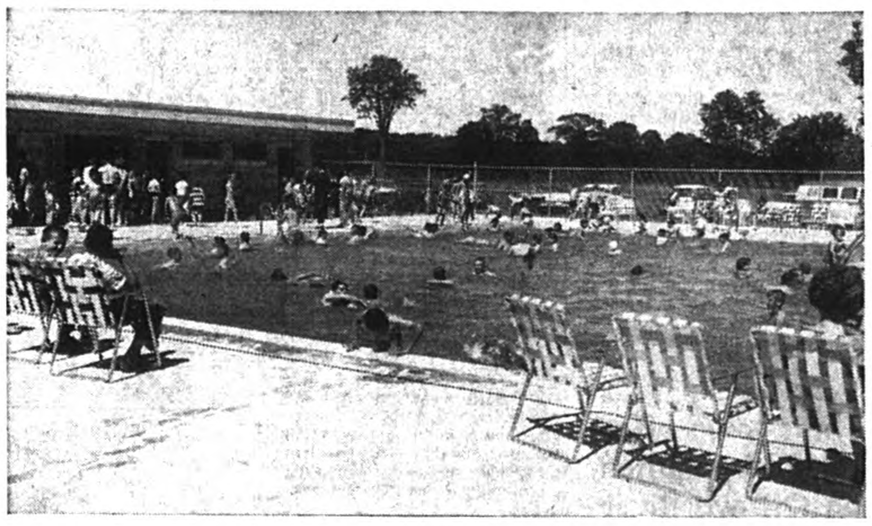

7 p.m. to 9 p.m. — adults only.

Playground Hours

The park itself is open, Monday to Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. There is no charge whatever for admission, and all youngsters are welcome to take part in the supervised and organized games.

Fees

Admission fee to the swimming pool is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. A $10 family season ticket gives admission to all children of a family up to 16 years of age. There are rules and regulations posted for all users of the pool.

Saturday scene at new Richelieu pool

Several hundred children waited patiently at the gate of the Richelieu Park pool last Saturday, pending the final touches and preparations to open this new facility to the public. There was a general scramble for the dressing rooms, and in "no time flat", the first of the bathers had plunged in the pool. A good time is assured for hundreds of young enthusiasts at this spot during the school vacation period.

Contest for two school vacancies in Ayersville

Catholic School Board elections will be held Monday in the school municipalities of Lachute and Ayersville — nominations last Monday having brought contestants for several of the vacant seats.

In Lachute

Dr. R. Lavigne was re-elected for Seat No. 5 in Lachute.

For Seat No. 4, Bernard Gosselin will oppose the retiring commissioner, Albert Legault.

Only proprietors of Lachute and St. Jerusalem in good tax standing will be privileged to vote in this contest, next Monday at l'Ecole Secondaire, Lachute. The poll is open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. D.S.T.

In Ayersville

In Ayersville there are four candidates for the two seats vacated by Commissioners L. J. Bigras and Augustin Lamarche (chairman).

The four nominees are Arthur Labonté, Paul Leroux, Benoit Seguin and O'Neil L'Heureux. The two polling the highest number of votes will be declared elected.

Voting takes place at the Clément School Monday, July 10, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. D.S.T.

More elections to school boards

There will be contests for the Catholic School Board vacancies in Brownsburg next Monday. In St. Michel the two retiring commissioners were re-elected.

Brownsburg

For Seat No. 2, Alcide Larose and Fernand Lepine will contest the honors, while in Seat No. 3 the opponents are Maurice Pariseau and Lucien A. Denis, in the school municipality of Brownsburg.

St. Michel

At nominations in St. Michel de Wentworth, the two retiring members were returned by acclamation to the school board, namely, the Rev. C. E. Gougeon (parish priest), and Honoré Hoff, Jr.

Two transports in collision

Two semi-trailers owned by Motorways were involved in a collision on Route 8, between Calumet and Grenville, early Monday morning. According to investigating officers of the local Q.P.P. detachment, the two vans were headed towards Ottawa when the steering mechanism of the first vehicle broke. The second van piled into the rear of the other vehicle, causing severe damage to both units. One of the drivers was taken to Notre Dame Hospital, Montreal, where he is under treatment for injuries.

Fire razes business premises, dwellings at St. Andrews

A disastrous fire in the Village of St. Andrews last Saturday afternoon left in its wake about 20 homeless residents, and property damage approximating $40,000. Consumed in the blaze was the Jos. Dubé building, including a commercial garage, restaurant, boarding house, mobile snack stand and private residence. The site of this destructive blaze is well known, on the rivershore opposite the Ladouceur general store.

The outbreak started in the garage, where Mr. Dubé was about to do some welding. An electric extension light apparently dropped and crashed on the floor, igniting gasoline and inflammable material. An explosion enveloped the garage in flames, and the proprietor escaped only in the nick of time.

The local fire brigade under Chief Edgar Monette concentrated their efforts on saving the neighboring buildings, but the next door property of Patrice Fournier suffered damage by scorching, and from the blast which shattered windows. Firemen remained on the job until 9.30 p.m. They sent to Lachute for assistance, but the town fire crew could do nothing except help to avert the further spread of fire.

Accommodated in the boarding house were 10 roomers engaged on the Carillon project. Mr. Dubé's family comprised five persons, while five others were engaged in the restaurant and snack bar. Building, furnishings and effects were all destroyed, with only partial coverage by insurance.

This represents the second major fire originating in a St. Andrews garage of recent years. During election time in June 1960, Leon Rossignol lost his life following an explosion in his garage on Main Street.

Bribery charge against ex-M.P. in neighbor riding

Ottawa (CP) — Raymond Bruneau, former Liberal Member of Parliament for Glengarry-Prescott constituency, was arrested last week on charges of bribery and obtaining $10,000 by false pretences while he was an M.P.

The RCMP arrested Bruneau, 44, at his home in Hawkesbury and brought him to Ottawa to be charged.

A short time later the Cornwall RCMP detachment arrested Abe Bergeron, a service station operator, and charged him with giving a $10,000 bribe to Bruneau to arrange a government property purchase and a Federal Government job.

Both men were booked in Ottawa but later freed on $500 cash bail each. The bail was posted by a friend from Hull, Que., about six hours after the men were taken to the lockup.

Inspector C. W. Speers of the RCMP said the charges involve the 1956 sale of a Hawkesbury property on which a new post office later was built, and a job which Bergeron obtained with the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority.

Government Bought Garage

Bergeron was part-owner of a garage on the main street of Hawkesbury which the Federal Government purchased for a post office site, paying $48,000. Construction of a $170,000 postal building was started in 1956 and completed after the Conservative Government took office in 1957.

The Cornwall man was employed for a time as a laborer by the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, a federal agency, but lost his job shortly after the change of government.

Bruneau was first elected in Prescott riding in 1949 and re-elected in 1953 when the riding was revised and the name changed to Glengarry-Prescott. He lost to Conservative Osie Villeneuve in the 1957 and 1958 general elections.

Prior to being an M.P. he was employed as a radio announcer in Hull and later senior translator in the Department of the Secretary of State. He has been working as a translator and in various business enterprises since losing his seat in Parliament.

Jas. W. McGibbon re-elected to Protestant board

Jas. W. McGibbon, chairman and retiring commissioner on the Lachute Protestant School Board, was re-elected by acclamation in nominations at the High School last Monday. In the prescribed period from 10 a.m. until 12 noon, there was no other nomination for the vacancy.

Mr. McGibbon thus enters his sixth term, and his 16th year, on the Protestant board — a long record of service to the interests of education in this community.

Entries and theft at business sites

A theft of approximately $100 cash was reported by André Thibodeau, proprietor of the Champlain Service Station, Main Street, who stated that thieves gained entry to his establishment sometime Friday night and smashed a cash register valued at approximately $300. Entry to the building was gained by a rear window.

Muir Bros. Service Station was also entered the same night, but nothing was reported stolen, although the miscreants made a considerable mess of papers and office contents in their search for money.

An attempted break-in was reported by Leo Morrissette, proprietor of the Main Street chip stand, but in this case the miscreant was disturbed by noise before gaining entry.

3 Arrested, one with gunshot wound, after break-in and theft at Stonefield

Yvon Turcotte, a 17-year-old Rigaud resident, was placed under arrest late Monday evening, in the Smith Clinic, where he was taken by a friend for treatment of a gunshot wound in the head. The other young man, Roger Lauzon, 18, also of Rigaud, was arrested and brought to Lachute.

According to Cpl. Aimé Bertrand, of the local detachment of Provincial Police, Keith Canning, a Stonefield businessman, heard a commotion in his nearby shop around 11.30. Investigating cautiously, as he had been the victim of a serious robbery only last year, he spotted several persons about his premises and fired a warning shot in the air in an attempt to scare them off. The miscreants took-off on a motorcycle from Mr. Canning's shop, and as they were headed in the direction of Hawkesbury, Mr. Canning notified the Hawkesbury police, who were on the look-out for the motorcycle on the bridge.

Mr. Canning later discovered the motorcycle in a nearby field and noticed it was spattered with blood. About this time, the Hawkesbury police were notified that a youth had been admitted to the Smith Clinic with a gunshot wound in the head.

Quebec Provincial Police were notified and Traffic Sgt. Albert Legault placed the two youths under arrest at the hospital. Turcotte was transferred to the Royal Victoria Hospital, where he underwent an operation early Tuesday morning. According to last report, his condition was serious.

A third man, Gaetan Bernard, 20, was also arrested at his home in Rigaud. The two arrested men were detained in Lachute and later charged with theft, in St. Jerome.

Foul-play victim found in bush near Kilmar

The body of a man found in the bush near Kilmar last week has been identified as that of Paul Emile Jolicoeur, 27, of Montreal. The identity was established by papers found in a pair of trousers thrown over the naked body.

The gruesome discovery was made by four-year-old Robert H. Lankman of Terrace Vaudreuil, Dorion, who was out fishing with his father. The body was found off a Calumet-Kilmar side road. Lying face down, his head crushed, the dead man was partly covered by a pair of trousers thrown over his back. A length of telephone wire was tied to a wrist. The victim had apparently been dead about two weeks.

Mr. Lankman and his young son had visited the fish hatchery at St. Faustin and, on returning home shortly after noon, stopped from time to time to fish. It was while trying their luck in a little creek off the side road that the boy stumbled on the body. The lad screamed and Mr. Lankman ran to him. His son was hysterical most of the way to Dorion, where the father reported the find to Provincial Police.

Sgt. Aimé Bertrand of Lachute made the initial investigation, with Cst. Caruso Farah, Lajoie of the homicide squad.

Newspapers Assn. rebukes mayor of Ayersville

The French-language Weekly Newspapers of Canada, an association with which the newspaper L'Argenteuil has been affiliated since this journal was started, learned with indignation that the editor, Fernand Berthiaume, had been ejected from a recent Ayersville Council meeting on order of the mayor, Gaetan Paquette.

A motion of censure was passed accordingly at a meeting of the Association directors — assuring Mr. Berthiaume of their support and criticizing the mayor for his dictatorial behaviour. The resolution, forwarded to the mayor, says in part (translation):

"The executive of this Association protests vehemently the undemocratic action against a journalist in the performance of his functions, by a mayor who thinks he is still living in the stone age."

(Mayor Paquette read this letter, without comment, before the Ayersville Council meeting Tuesday evening.)

PREPARATORY TO HYDRO FLOODING —

Big sewerage relocation job underway in Hawkesbury

Hawkesbury — Construction started last week on the relocation program in the town of Hawkesbury.

Spino Construction Co. Ltd. began excavation Monday on Main Street, between Philip Street and the CNR trestle, for the new combined sanitary and storm sewer. Construction of the 8,500-foot line along Main Street will cost an estimated $500,000.

To ensure that interference with the daily life of the town is kept to a minimum, the contractor attended meetings with members of the town council, the town engineer and chief of police, Canadian-British Engineering Consultants, and Ontario Hydro.

The proposed construction schedule was discussed and close consideration given to traffic problems. Work on each stage of the project will proceed one block at a time so that Main Street intersections can remain open.

Early in July a second construction crew will begin work on a stream crossing for the new sewer at the McGill Street bridge. This job is scheduled for completion in September and is not expected to cause any major interruptions to traffic.

About the third week of July a third crew will begin excavation west from Philip Street along Main. Before the end of the month, work will begin on the extension of individual house connections from the newly-laid mains.

In September, construction of lateral sewers on side streets will get underway.

The crews are expected to work 12 hours a day, from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., six days a week. During construction, road access will be maintained for emergency services, such as fire trucks and ambulances.

Week's Epigram

Blowing out the other fellow's candle won't make yours shine any brighter.

Unsafe car is menace to life

A mechanically unsafe automobile part can be many times more deadly than an unsafe home appliance — according to the Vehicle Safety Committee of the Canadian Highway Safety Council. With a car travelling for example, 50 miles an hour in normal traffic, a horrible disaster can result if a tire blows, lights fail after dark or the steering refuses to respond. Within seconds, everyone in the car and probably people in the other cars can be seriously injured or killed.

The Council stresses the human-life value of a thorough check of every vehicle — for lights, glass, steering, mirrors, brakes, exhaust, horn, wipers and tires.

APPRECIATION

Fairyland village in amusement spot at Clarence Creek

A new amusement venture has opened at Clarence Creek, Ont., on Route 17 about 30 miles from Lachute. Known as "Fantasy Valley" the venture, promoted by a local business group, is designed on the lines of Disneyland, with 65 live animals — to be increased to 200 as the collection becomes more complete. Plans for the area include a Santa Claus Village, a dude ranch, and other attractions, but present facilities include 350 picnic tables, a large parking ground for hundreds of cars, and a miniature cinema where children can watch animated cartoons free of charge.

"Fantasy Valley" (La Vallée de la Fantaisie) has kiosks designed by Montreal and Ottawa artists, to complete the motif of fairyland depicted in scenes from favorite childhood stories.

Officially opened by the parish curé recently, this amusement spot operates every day of the week except Mondays.

Three-town effort for anti-pollution, on Ottawa River

Montreal (CP) — Three Ottawa River towns — Como, Hudson and Hudson Heights — have formed a clean-rivers committee to battle the problem of water pollution in the Ottawa and Rigaud rivers.

Chemists engaged by the committee found that the bacteria count was well beyond the level laid down as acceptable by Quebec's provincial health department.

The findings, described by the committee as "dangerous," confirmed an earlier report by Dr. Lucien Piché, now vice-rector of the University of Montreal, which said the area's waters were polluted.

Major J. Gordon Nelles of Como, who with mayors George Runnells of Hudson and Bruce Jordon of Hudson Heights is a co-chairman of the anti-pollution group, says their report will be submitted to Quebec's new water purification board.

"The tide of pollution may at least be stemmed if the board clamps down by refusing permission to any town to install a sewerage system without a treatment plant," Mayor Nelles said in an interview.

The water purification board was created during the last session of the legislature, to study Quebec's water pollution problems.

Mayor Nelles said measures undertaken by the City of Ottawa and the Ontario water resources commission were dealing with sources of pollution in Ontario sections of the river, and this soon would leave the Quebec side as the only source of pollution in the Ottawa River.

You must know the facts now in order to protect yourself against risks of traffic accidents since, effective July 1st, 1961, the law will be merciless to drivers convicted of certain infractions.

For the first time in Québec's history, the innocent victims of traffic accidents are assured of indemnity if they suffer injuries or property damage in an accident due to a motorist's negligence.

The Act ensures that the owner of an automobile must bear the responsibility for damages, either to person or property, caused by his vehicle, unless the driver absolves himself of negligence.

Appeal to Catholic ratepayers in Lachute

Gentlemen:

After twelve years as a commissioner on your School Board, I solicit a new mandate.

I am, in all fairness, the only one on the School Board to represent the working class, and it is only fair that each category be represented.

Being a former school secretary of the Parish of St. Jerusalem, I am a carpenter and tradesman and am presently working as a foreman on a big construction project.

I believe that my experience in this field has been very valuable to the School Commission in its school building program; no other commissioner is aware of building and material problems as I am, and such experience will still be needed for the future expansion program of the School Board.

My opponent, a worthy gentleman, has no qualification in this field, nor has any other commissioner, for that matter.

I solicit your vote for Monday and beg you to think enough of your school problems and School Board to get out and vote.

Thanking you, I remain,

— ALBERT LEGAULT

Miss Gail Ayers Feted Prior to Recent Wedding

On Tuesday, June 20, Mrs. Ernest Deslauriers and Mrs. Richard Ayers entertained at tea in honor of Miss Gail Ayers, whose marriage to Mr. Armando G. Mendoza was solemnized last Saturday at St. Michel de Wentworth church.

Miss Juliette Rodrigue held an evening party in honor of the prospective bride on June 22.

On Friday, June 23, Miss Ayers was guest of honor at a shower given by Mrs. James A. MacKimmie and Mrs. William Ott. A beautiful selection of wardrobe accessories was presented to the bride-elect.

Mrs. Leonard Ayers entertained over 80 guests at a trousseau tea at her home, "Philengaifair", Pine Hill, on Wednesday, June 28, prior to her daughter's wedding.

Meet to organize local bridge group

As reported in a recent issue of The Watchman, plans are afoot for a duplicate bridge league in the district. The club, which would probably run under the banner of the Argenteuil Bridge League, would be operated for the benefit of the Association for Retarded Children.

A meeting has been called for 8 p.m. Monday, July 10, at Lachute Legion Hall to organize the club, so that everything can be cut and dried for a swinging start in the fall. This is an open meeting, and all bridge players or would-be bridge players are invited to attend. Although duplicate bridge eliminates the luck of the cards, it is proposed to adopt a handicap system which should give the greenest newcomers as much incentive as the "card sharps".

Was noted organist in Montreal and Maritimes

The late A. B. Hopkins

Funeral service was held Monday afternoon in St. Simeon's Anglican Church, Lachute, for the late Arthur B. Hopkins, A.C.C.O., organist of the church, who passed away peacefully at his home here on June 29.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Cyrus Lang, assisted by the Rev. Wilson Bridge of Lachute United Church. Two hymns, "Lead Kindly Light" and "O God of Bethel", were sung by choir members from Lachute United and St. Simeon's Anglican Churches. The organ preludes were played by John Robb, Mus. Bac., organist and choir director of Dominion Douglas United Church, Westmount, a former pupil of the deceased. Music for the service was played by Mrs. James Pollock, of Lachute.

Pall-bearers were — Messrs. B. Jenkins, A. Strong, B. Hewitt, J. Sewell, of Lachute, Norman Scott and Harry Kelly, of the Bell Telephone, Montreal. Interment was at Lachute Protestant Cemetery.

Born in Saint John, N.B., in 1892, Mr. Hopkins was the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hopkins, founder of the Hopkins Press in that city. He moved to Montreal in 1917, where he entered the Bell Telephone Company, remaining with them for 46 years until his retirement in 1956. He was a life member of the Telephone Pioneers of America.

Mr. Hopkins was well known in musical circles in Saint John and Montreal, for 56 years, holding his first post as organist at the age of 13 in Portland United Church, Saint John. He studied organ under the late D. Arnold Fox, and in 1929 took his A.C.C.O. degree under the late Dr. Ilsley, of Saint George's Church, Montreal. He had been an active member of the Canadian College of Organists, Montreal Centre, for many years, also accompanist for the Bell Chorus of the Bell Telephone Company, Montreal, for 33 years. He was keenly interested in the construction of organs, and assisted in the building of several of these instruments in New Brunswick and Montreal.

Mr. Hopkins had taken up permanent residence in Lachute just over a year ago, and is survived by his wife, the former Edith Pearl Sutherland, his son, Lowell, two brothers, Harold and Ernest, of Saint John, and two grandchildren.

Beggars knock on rural doors

FROM THE RURAL district, complaints are heard that the seasonal wave of beggars and solicitors is here again, knocking at the door for charity or contributions. Specifically, there have been instances of too frequent calls from deaf-mute solicitors appearing at farm homes, presenting a typewritten card and seeking a handout — in one reported case, with a new-model car awaiting them on the road. According to those visited, mendicants of this kind are the object of suspicion, and it is suggested that doors or screen doors be kept latched when occupants are not close at hand to meet unexpected visitors.

We hesitate to warn against doorstep charity, lest we prejudice the chances of the few really deserving applicants. But there is always one sure test available to the householder — and this is recommended by the Provincial Police — namely, to ask the visitor for his recommendation from the mayor, secretary or parish priest in the municipality concerned. Here in Lachute, it is required that all mendicants and solicitors procure a municipal permit, and it is a simple matter to ask that this credential be produced. However, in St. Jerusalem, Chatham and rural municipalities, there appears to be no by-law requiring such a permit from charity applicants. The alternative, therefore, is to insist that strangers show a letter from the municipal or church authority. This leaves it upon the shoulders of the mayor or parish priest to enquire into the merits of the case — and men in such positions of community trust may be relied upon to judge and decide.

Our warning refers only to strangers. Solicitors from the locality are, in most cases, personally known to those on whom they call, and the object of their canvass is a cause or organization equally well known. These cases are of a completely different type.

Slavery in modern guise

THE SMALL BUSINESSMAN is, in theory, the epitome of freedom. He may go fishing on Monday or sneak away early on Friday without asking anyone for permission. He can do these things. He may work 20 hours a week, or 60, and no one will question him. How he operates is his business — and that of the various governmental agencies under whose jurisdiction his business is conducted. . . . But here's the rub, in a pertinent article we received entitled "A Short Snort by Timber McCracken". . . .

Immediately after the new year he must be prepared to compile many statements and statistics for many departments. He is compelled to or be ready to accept such punishment as the enforcement officers of the various bureaus may mete out to him. The usual penalty is monetary but penal servitude is possible. It is a mighty big whip. It goads him to complete the forms and submit them by the specified date. Most of the work is not for himself but on behalf of his employees. And he is forced to collect, by witholding, their income tax, unemployment insurance tax and workmen's compensation tax. Then he must give a detailed report stating how much he collected and from whom, and it must balance or else —. None of this is for his own personal benefit, except in that he is a citizen of Canada. And he is forced to do this no matter how much time it takes nor how much professional assistance he requires. For this he receives precisely no dollars and no cents, nor is he reimbursed for the postage stamps necessary to send his statements.

Labor under compulsion without remuneration is slavery, even if the slave holder is that tenuous entity known as government.

Back-look on the Fleming budget

COMMENTING on the Budget brought down by Finance Minister Fleming on June 20, The Financial Post says:

Our export industries will benefit from a cheaper Canadian dollar. So at least, in theory, should some of our domestic industries, because of the presumed improvement in their competitive position.

But one point which may be of very great importance to future Canadian taxpayers is the government's announced determination to regulate the Canadian-U.S. dollar exchange rate. It is the taxpayer who puts up the money for the exchange stabilization fund, and millions upon millions can rapidly disappear in open market exchange operations, when that fund tries to buck an unfavorable trend.

The load on the exchange fund will perhaps be bearable if efforts to reduce interest rates are successful. If not, it will be interesting to see how long the fund will be able to perform its assignment without massive new appropriations of money. This is a point made strongly by Mr. Fleming in a Vancouver speech a year ago.

The budget contains a considerable group of items the benefits of which Canadians won't argue. The encouragement of research in Canada is an example. Extension of the functions and powers of the Industrial Development Bank is another. This, it is hoped, will slow down the sell-out of Canadian businesses. The various measures affecting the bond markets made a great deal of sense. The announced plan for a thorough re-examination of our financial institutions is timely.

Hoax of the cigarette foils

A MYSTERY more amazing than a Perry Mason thriller has been disclosed by W. E. Milton, Quebec Division superintendent of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. He referred to a current rumor that a Seeing-Eye dog can be obtained by the saving of silver paper from cigarettes. "As far as we know, all the silver paper in Canada will not pay for a single Seeing-Eye dog", he said. "Supplying the dog is a CNIB service supported by the Annual Combined Appeal for the Blind in Montreal, and by CNIB fund-raising campaigns elsewhere in the province, and other contributions. At no cost to the blind person, CNIB sends prospective Dog Guide users to a special training school in Morristown, N.J., to learn the proper technique in handling the dog.

"The rumor that silver paper will buy a dog guide has persisted for several months. As many as five calls a day reach CNIB from people asking what to do with the paper they have collected. Two schools in Toronto conducted special drives with the students gathering paper from far and near. In Montreal, a callar stated she had gathered 3,000 separate pieces in shopping bags. Another householder said her two children had been asking their aunts and uncles to save, and each week the mail man was delivering numerous parcels of the silver foil. Whole apartment blocks have offered to save and even business firms, doctors and lawyers have been doing their share to build up the pile.

"The story is not confined to Montreal. A Women's Institute in Northern Ontario has begun a save-the-foil drive to obtain a dog for a blind child. CNIB offices in other parts of Canada are familiar with the rumor, and word comes from New York that the save-the-foil falsehood is also well known in the eastern states.

"Major tobacco companies know the story well and consider the mystery unsolvable. Silver paper from cigarette packages has no redeemable value and will not buy a Seeing-Eye dog."

Editor corrected on biblical reference

(TO THE EDITOR)

Dear Editor:

In reply to your recent editorial regarding capital punishment, I would like to draw your attention to certain misleading statements which it contained.

You quoted the words, "An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth", as being spoken by the Babylonian king, Hammarbi. You may be correct in this, I do not know, but I refer you to the Holy Bible, Exodus 21, verse 24, and you will find God spoke these words to Moses after the commandments were given.

I also refer you to verse 12 in the same chapter, which says, "He that smiteth a man, so that he die, shall be surely put to death." I also refer you to Matthew 5, verses 38 and 39, "The Sermon on the Mount," in which Jesus said, "Ye have heard that it hath been said, 'An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth', But I say unto you, That ye resist not evil; but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also."

You may not appreciate my correction of your statements, but at least you know now that I read your editorials! I do think this statement was misleading to the public, and you should either publish this letter or correct the statement in your next editorial.

Yours truly,

— Mrs. H. C. Kennedy

Fiftieth year at Camp Tamaracouta

This summer marks the 50th year since the first Scouts hiked over the hills from Piedmont into Camp Tamaracouta (near Mille Isles) the Montreal Region Scout Camp.

Many things have happened since the first Scouts and leaders entered the camp but most of the traditions that have been built up in the intervening years are still carried on today.

Ask any boy going to camp what he looks forward to and he will probably tell you — the thrill of camping in the open in a tent, cooking his own food over a wood fire, and swimming and canoeing on the lake. Tamaracouta provides all of these, along with camp fires and the facilities to pass Scout tests and badges.

Tamaracouta trains its own lifeguards through Scout test and badge work such as the Rescuer proficiency badge and also through courses of the Royal Life Saving Society held at the camp.

Before a boy may take out a boat, he must have swum the width of the lake (175 yards) with a lifeguard in attendance and wearing a safety-belt secured to the boat.

During this 50th year of Tamaracouta, the camp is looking forward to greeting many former campers. Visitors' days are Sundays, July 2 to August 20 inclusive, from 10 a.m. till 5 p.m., and all former campers who would like to return will be welcome, with their families. Picnic areas are ready and safe bathing is also available for wives and small children of former campers.

A special Golden Visitors' Book will be placed in the Trading Post at the camp and it is hoped that all those returning will make a point of signing it. A special welcome, then, to all Old Boys in this 50th year; Tamaracouta would like to see them and maybe they would like to see Tamaracouta!

WANTED — MORE EMPLOYERS

Unemployment continues to be the number one problem in Canada. There is only one solution to it: more employers — more stores, farms, corporations, factories, mines, oil fields and the rest, able to employ men and women to do the work of the world.

All sorts of schemes are devised to try to help the unemployed. They are not and cannot be satisfactory. Men want to earn their way. Besides, no country can prosper by subsidizing enforced idleness year after year.

Unemployment has a cause. Those who would like to hire men and women for useful occupations cannot afford to do so. Housewives would like to have domestic help; farmers nearly all need or could use a hired hand to good purpose; manufacturers, the largest employers of all, would be reaching out hungrily for more manpower if they could sell their products at present prices.

The problem bothers all political parties. Yet none will face up to the cause — because to enable employers to engage more help, tax rates would have to be reasonable. Political parties have all committed themselves to such heavy social welfare spending that they are afraid to suggest lower tax rates. Most politicians are so afraid to offend labor union leaders that they will not speak the truth about wages getting out of line with productivity.

I think the present government sees the problem and knows what the solution is. They have to face the voters, though, and they fear that the measures they should take are economically sound but politically unpopular.

In short, what is now required is statesmanship of a high order. Politicians should do what they know to be right. They should have faith that there are enough sensible Canadians who will, in due course, endorse such action. Employers must be given a chance to grow. Today, the government takes about half of all corporate profits of major enterprises. This means there isn't enough money generated to ensure growth or encourage investment.

If tax rates were reduced, unemployment would soon cease to be our number one problem.

UNCLE WALT'S LAST FIGHT

Back in 1921 — that's forty years ago — I was a member of a dance orchestra consisting of four musicians and a banjo player. I was the banjo player. By a strange coincidence, three of the four musicians were expert boxers. The saxophone player was an amateur boxing instructor, the violinist had sparred with Benny Leonard, and the drummer, who also played the xylophone (the manager pronounced it sloppophone) was a promising light-heavyweight with plenty of amateur experience. But the only one who owned a set of boxing gloves was me, who knew nothing about boxing. So I took them along on one of the trips to the summer resort near the American border where we had a full season's engagement. None of the pianists we had during the season showed any interest in the manly art, perhaps from fear of hand injuries. But I was not going to lose a fine chance to take free lessons from experts. We had lots of time on our hands during the afternoons, so used to box in the dance hall that had a roof but open sides. The two combatants would stand, not sit, in imaginary corners and as we had no gong one of the non-combatants would holler "Bong" and the round would begin. If either of the contestants wanted to call it off he would holler bong and that would end the round. We took turns boxing each other. Either I was a slow learner, or they were fast teachers. I hollered bong so many times it became second nature to me. But as the season advanced I improved a bit and made a name for myself. The name they gave me was Battling Linoleum, because I spent so much time on the floor.

At last the season was drawing to a close — Labor Day being the finish. On the Saturday before Labor Day a newcomer booked into the boarding-house where we stayed. He was a nice, likeable fellow named Bob. He had heard that we boxed quite a bit, and asked me if I would care to take on a round or two with him. I agreed. He was much shorter than I, but quite stocky. I figured that with my longer reach I could easily hold him off. It was a cool morning and we each wore turtle-neck sweaters. None of the orchestra boys were around, for which I was sorry. I wanted them to see how much I had improved under their expert guidance. So we donned the gloves. I said bong and he went bang. Round one was over. There wasn't any second round. It was two minutes before I could breathe. Couldn't even say bong. Later in the day, the sun came out and it got warmer. Bob had discarded his sweater, and for the first time I had a chance to inspect his muscular development around his arms and shoulders. It resembled, more than anything else, the hindquarters of an army mule. After the last dance Labor Day night, I said good-bye to Bob and gave him my set of gloves, and I've never had any on since. I found out later that his job consisted of polishing big slabs of marble in a nearby quarry — by hand. Bong!

The moral to this story is, "Don't quarrel with a quarry-man." Also, if a man has an Old Age Pension he should give up boxing. There's no future to it. With exception, of course, to Archie Moore.

Be seein' ya!

A newspaper put the wrong labels on pictures of the candidates in a recent by-election. The paper didn't just call one candidate by the wrong name. It got every candidate wrong. . . . This kind of error creeps into the best-regulated paper at times.

The photographic mixup set me wondering how the vote would have gone if the candidates had exchanged faces!

All other things being equal, many an election has been won by a strong, authoritative-looking face or a few extra pounds of shoulder-muscle.

Personal merit and party soundness are not the only factors that decide whether a man gets the voters' favor.

Much depends on his appearance and the sound of his voice.

With some research, a party might be able to arrive at a formula for choosing the candidate most likely to win.

Height is important. A probe of voting attitudes might produce a result like this: "Every inch in stature counts for 250 votes, up to a maximum of seven feet, when extra inches show a reverse effect. Candidates two feet tall will lose their deposits."

Every inch around the chest may be good for 150 votes.

Other important factors: The strength-kindness of the face; the quality of the voice (decisive, stern, sympathetic, smooth or gravelly — the right blend to appeal to the largest possible number of people); and candlepower of the grin.

You may think I am fooling, but I am serious. Beside the thinking people and the party faithful who will support their man, right or wrong, there are masses of the uncommitted who are swayed by these factors.

It won't be long before each party learns to measure these factors, and produce the standard candidate, built to precise specifications for the market, like the standard chicken — or turkey.

St. Mungo's 125th Anniversary, An Interesting Occasion

An interesting event is being celebrated over the week-end of July 8 when the 125th anniversary of St. Mungo's Church is being fittingly observed — a celebration to which all are welcome.

Supper will be served in the church hall on Saturday night from 5.30 until 8 o'clock, with a nominal charge. The Rev. R. J. Watson, of Laval West, another former pastor, will give a short resumé of the history of the church, and pictures of Cushing and surrounding districts will be shown.

Bereavements

Sincere sympathy of this community is extended to Mrs. Raymond Holmes and son, Richard, in the loss of a loving husband and father, with the recent passing of Mr. Holmes in the Veterans' Hospital, Montreal. A war veteran, he was much beloved by all who knew him. Sympathy is also expressed to his mother, Mrs. R. T. Holmes, his sisters, Mrs. H. Bailey of Cushing and Miss Florence Holmes of Montreal, and brother, Geoffrey, of Belleville, Ont.

This community also deeply regrets the sudden passing of Mrs. Laura Morrow, a faithful attender at St. Mungo's Church while residing in Monalea with her son Ernest, during the past years, until together they took up residence near Hawkesbury. When Mrs. Morrow's children were young, the family resided in Grece's Point and attended St. Mungo's, with the children also attending Cushing School; and in the hearts of residents here, they are a Cushing family. To her daughters, Mrs. F. Steere, of Brownsburg, Mrs. H. Graham, of Moncton, N.B., and Mrs. John Dodge, of Belleville, also her sons, Wesley, of Monalea, and Ernest, of Hawkesbury, we extend sincere sympathy.

Mr. Russel Owens, of Grenville, and daughter; Mrs. Nixon, and son, Russel, Jr., of Grenville, have our sincere sympathy in the loss of a loving wife and mother, in the recent passing of Mrs. Owens. Mrs. Owens was well and favorably known in Cushing for her friendliness, and for her kind assistance at different functions, with her piano solos and other musical contributions.

Hints for Happy Holidays

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

A happy vacation for parents is one when all the members of the family keep well. Many of these suggestions for living comfortably out of doors at a cottage, camp or in a trailer you may know. But the important thing is to get the family to co-operate in following them! Why not read them aloud, discuss them and make plans for healthy holidays!

The very first essential for a good camping site is safe drinking water. This is the one thing with which no chances can be taken, because various sicknesses, especially typhoid fever, are caused by germs in polluted drinking water. The appearance of the water has nothing to do with its purity. Crystal clear water may contain harmful bacteria. The one reliable rule to follow is — when in doubt about drinking water, always boil it for half an hour or treat it carefully, according to directions, with commercial preparations such as chlorine tablets.

During the hot weather, children perspire freely and need to drink sufficient water to make up for the loss of moisture through their pores. Small boys and girls should not be given too much ice-cold fluid to drink.

Boiled drinking water should be cooled and then poured back and forth from one container to another to agitate it and make it palatable. Small quantities of charcoal dropped in water will absorb any odours. The Public Health authorities in any province co-operate in testing water from wells.

A safe milk supply is also a problem in some vacation areas. It is against the law in many provinces for unpasteurized milk to be sold. Cottage-pasteurizing over a wood fire is a bit arduous for a mother and so many families resort to the use of condensed or powdered milk. A generous supply of fruit juices is a good health investment.

A camping site should not be chosen near a stagnant pond or a swampy district where mosquitoes breed. A site where the air can circulate easily should be picked. Some of these repellants to keep away mosquitoes and black flies are a bit strong in their odour. But each year they are improved. Cheesecloth sprayed with an insecticide protects a small child in a crib or carriage from bites while he is asleep. The Canadian Entomological branch developed the following excellent repellant for mosquitoes, midges and flies: ½ fluid oz. Oil of Thyme, 1 fluid oz. concentrated extract of Pyrethrum, 2 to 3 fluid ozs. Castor Oil.

An inquiring small boy in the woods may be stung by a honey bee, hornet, or a large bumble bee. If the sting remains in the wound, it must be scraped out and antiseptic applied. The Indians used crushed Jewel Weed juice to soothe insect stings. Ammonia or baking soda dissolved in water can be dabbed on an insect sting. Wet mud or clay also relieves the swelling.

A rarer affliction is a snake bite. Harmless snakes leave a row of small punctures on the skin. A poisonous snake usually makes two punctures. A tourniquet should be applied to an arm or leg bitten by a poisonous snake. If medical help is difficult to obtain quickly, a short cross cut should be made over the punctures and the poison sucked out of the wound. If there are no cuts in the mouth, the poison from the bite will not have ill effects on the mouth or stomach.

Parents should teach their children to avoid unnecessary hazards in camping, and also what remedies should be used for accidents. A simple First Aid Kit should be carried when travelling. Keep it in a locked cupboard with medicines out of the reach of tiny children.

'Car Talk' for women drivers

Where would men be without women drivers? Whom would they blame for traffic tie-ups? Without women drivers, how would men be superior about their automotive skill and knowledge?

Fact is, 20% of Canadian drivers are women and yet they are responsible for only 7% of accidents. But women are at a disadvantage because not many know what makes a car tick. "Women Driver" stories still draw the laughs.

Now ladies, all this can be changed. No longer need the inner workings of the automobile remain a mystery if you read a bright little 12-page booklet called "Car Talk".

It's the inside story of the car, from engine to rear wheels, illustrated and simply explained in terms familiar to women — cylinders shaped like a butter churn, piston rings like wedding bands, gears and shafts working like an egg beater, and two rear wheels revolving at different speeds like skaters playing "snap the whip." Also explained are the functions of parts like the muffler, distributor, spark plugs, and the meaning of the various indicators on the instrument panel.

"Car Talk" describes different symptoms of an ailing car — hard starts, the shakes, misses, expensive appetite, knocks, overheating—and what to do about them. And finally it lists the 10 "Go Laws" — the 10 major rules for keeping your car on the go. The booklet may be obtained free by writing to: "Car Talk", Champion Spark Plug Company of Canada, Limited, Windsor, Ont.

UNIFORM DRESS

Saint John, N.B. (CP) — More than half the parents in the Saint John area favor uniform dress for school children. This was indicated in replies to a questionnaire distributed on behalf of the home and school associations. The results will be studied by the various school boards.

Summer accessory — and modern

Big enough to carry a bathing suit, soft enough to go with a pretty summer dress — that's this summer's trend in tote bags. This bag is made of a new vinyl fabric which has the luxurious touch of fine white leather but which wipes clean with a damp sponge. The same supple vinyl will soon be used in car coats, belts and gloves.

Chicken Barbecue on the banks of the Ottawa River

(Consumer Section)

The home economists of Canada Department of Agriculture had a chicken barbecue on the banks of the Ottawa River the other day. They kept the menu simple, but the food was marvellous and there was lots of it. Here is the "what" and "how" of their barbecue party. Try it and have fun!

The Menu

Barbecued Chicken
Spinach — Lettuce Toss
Foil Baked Potatoes
Fresh Fruit.

The Chicken

Use halves, quarters or legs and breasts from eviscerated chicken broilers weighing about 3 pounds. Allow ½ chicken, 2 quarters or a leg and breast per person. Let fire burn for about 45 minutes so that heat will be intense enough for cooking. Sear chicken on each side 3 to 4 minutes then raise grill for slow cooking. Turn every 4 or 5 minutes until done. Half chickens will take about 1 hour to cook; quarters, legs and thighs about 45 minutes. When done, meat is fork tender and pulls easily away from bone. Basting chicken with a barbecue sauce should not be started until chicken is almost cooked. Otherwise, says the Consumer Section, the meat flavor is predominated by the spices in the sauce and if the sauce contains tomato, it will burn and char before the meat is cooked.

Barbecue Sauce for Chicken

4 Teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon white pepper, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon paprika, 1 cup white vinegar, ½ cup salad oil, 4 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, 1 clove garlic (minced), ¼ cup finely chopped onion, ¼ cup water.

Combine ingredients in the order listed. Mix well and simmer, uncovered, for 10 minutes. Press through a fine sieve. Makes 2 cups. After basting the chicken dilute remaining sauce with a small amount of water, bring to boil and serve with the chicken.

Spinach-Lettuce Toss

4 Cups torn fresh spinach, 4 cups torn leaf lettuce, ½ cup thinly sliced radishes, 2 tablespoons thinly sliced green onions, ½ cup diced celery, 5 slices bacon.

Wash greens and remove coarse stems. Drain well and crisp in refrigerator for at least one-half hour. Cut bacon into ½-inch pieces, fry slowly until crisp. Drain well. Tear greens into bite-size pieces. Toss all vegetables together lightly with bacon and a blue cheese dressing. 6 servings.

Bacon may be fried the day before and stored in refrigerator.

Foil Baked Potatoes

Wrap scrubbed and dried, medium size potatoes loosely in aluminum foil — make sure all openings are sealed with a double fold. Place potatoes on grill to bake until fork tender, 45 to 60 minutes. Make slits in potato through foil and pinch open. Dot with butter and season. Potatoes rubbed with a little fat before wrapping in foil have softer skins.

FOOD HINT

If you use reconstituted dried milk when making instant pudding, try mixing the milk in advance and allow it to stand for several hours. You'll find it gives the pudding an even finer and smoother texture.

Fashions

The violet spectrum, from palest mauve to deep purple, makes itself evident in the vacation color scheme. Here, pale mauve is the hue for a smartly simple daytime dress of silk broadcloth. The frock has an away-from-the-neck collar and open slit above the fly-front closing. Violets in varying tones of purple and blue are embroidered at one side above and below the belt.

Two-faced salad

(Consumer Section)

When the home economists of the Consumer Section at Ottawa were testing summer salads recently, they came across a really "two-faced" recipe. They found that the ingredients of Tomato and Pepper Salad could be mixed in two ways — each gives an entirely different salad, and both are equally delicious.

Tomato and Pepper Salad

2 Cups coarsely diced green pepper, 2 cups sliced and quartered tomatoes (3 medium tomatoes), ¼ cup sliced green onion, 3 tablespoons cider vinegar, 1 tablespoon salad oil, ½ to ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon basil, 6 lettuce cups.

Lightly mix green pepper, tomato and onion in a bowl. Combine vinegar, oil, salt, sugar and basil. Pour over vegetables and toss lightly. Chill and serve in lettuce cups. 6 servings.

Tomato and Pepper Salad Relish

2 Large green peppers, 3 medium tomatoes, ½ cup sliced onion, 3 tablespoons cider vinegar, 1 tablespoon salad oil, ½ to ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon basil, 6 lettuce cups.

Place peppers and tomatoes under the broiler and toast lightly, turning frequently until skins are slightly blistered, 12 to 15 minutes. Dip into cold water and remove skins. Remove seeds and core from green peppers and dice coarsely. Slice and quarter tomatoes. Lightly mix pepper, tomato and onion in a bowl. Combine vinegar, oil, salt, sugar and basil. Pour over vegetables and toss lightly. Chill and serve in lettuce cups if desired. 6 servings.

SUMMER LUNCH

Here's a tasty summer lunch suggestion that can be made in minutes. Combine one can of condensed cream of celery soup with one can of buttermilk and one tablespoon of chopped chives. While the soup is chilling make these Toast Snacks to serve with it. Trim the crusts from slices of bread and cut them into three inch squares. Spread each square with deviled ham; sprinkle with Brazil nuts and a little grated onion. Bring opposite corners of the squares together to form a cornucopia. Fasten each piece with a toothpick, then toast and serve hot, with the soup.

A thing of beauty is a job forever.

Summer cottage destroyed by fire

A summer cottage near the North River on the outskirts of town, owned and occupied by Mrs. Clement Gagné, of Montreal, was destroyed by fire late Friday afternoon last, none of the contents of the building being saved.

The call for help was received around 4.30 p.m., and by the time firemen arrived, minutes later, the flames had spread throughout the frame house. Water from the booster tank was saved to protect a nearby dwelling, until such time as the portable pump was set up to draw water from the river nearby.

Firemen were at the scene until after nine o'clock that evening, and were again called in the early hours of Saturday morning to extinguish a burning wood pile.

The building was situated on the north side of the North River, near the former James property.

Two natural deaths

District coroners investigated two sudden deaths over the week-end.

Dr. Roger Lavigne was called to Pine Hill, where Traffic Sgt. Albert Legault had investigated the death of Georges Lajeunesse, 60, found dead in his camp near Polidore Gagné's establishment.

The following day, Saturday, Dr. J. C. MacKimmie was called to St. Andrews East, following the discovery of the body of Mrs. Ernest A. Larmonth, 83, of Ottawa, in the bathroom of her summer residence. Traffic Officer Ronald Massie investigated the fatality.

Verdicts of natural death were returned in both cases.

Council resolution on roadside signs

Following is a resolution passed at the recent council meeting of the Parish of St. Jerusalem:

"Whereas it is the wish of the Municipal Council of the Parish of St. Jerusalem to try to maintain the natural beauty of our countryside, and to have orderly and tidy expansion in the Parish;

"Whereas the numerous individual Public Service Club signs and others with which the approaches to Lachute, through the Parish, are dotted, do mar the beauty of the landscape and are a detriment to individual properties;

"Therefore it is moved by Councillor S. Armstrong, seconded by Councillor M. Lyster and unanimously resolved, that this matter be drawn to the attention of the Lachute Chamber of Commerce, suggesting that they act as a co-ordinating agency to centralize or unify these signs for the benefit of our greater community."

The text of this resolution has been directed by the secretary, Douglas R. Bradford, to the attention of Lachute Chamber of Commerce.

Approval is granted 'in principle' for natural gas distribution here

A natural gas distributing firm (Société Gazifère) of Hull, Que., received permission to install gas conduits in Lachute. Approval in principle was voted after plans and explanations of this project were placed before Town Council by a representative of the syndicate.

A spokesman stated that natural gas was coming within reach of Lachute, since a line is presently laid to Hawkesbury. It remains to extend this system across the Ottawa River to serve the regions of Grenville, Lachute and Brownsburg. There would be absolutely no cost to the municipalities, and the service would be available only to subscribers who wish for it. The company undertakes to restore all road surfaces to their former condition after laying the gas mains. In return the company asks for a non-exclusive franchise of at least 20 years, and accepts responsibility as to taxes.

Mayor Fernand Legault, who had the company's prospectus, admitted he had not had sufficient time to study it. He asked questions of the representative and asserted that the Council would agree, in principle only, to the company's request. He would give due study to the clauses of the contract.

La Société Gazifère de Hull Inc., is a corporation duly chartered under Quebec company laws, authorized by Private Bill No. 185 in the Quebec Legislature, 1957, to distribute natural gas in the electoral areas of Pontiac, Gatineau, Hull and Papineau. It will therefore require further authorization of the Legislature to extend the system beyond these areas.

On Air Cadet exchange visit to United States

Jean-Roch Vachon, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Vachon, Lachute, who is a warrant officer of the Air Cadets Squadron 558, is a member of an exchange team of 25 which leaves July 24 to visit the United States — while an equal number of Air Cadets from across the border will visit Canada.

Jean-Roch Vachon

Seven cadets in the Canadian group have been selected from this province, including young Vachon, who is a student at Laval College, St. Vincent de Paul.

The party will visit New York, Manhattan, United Nations Building, Michigan State and Washington, D.C. In Washington they will visit the famed national sites, and will meet President John F. Kennedy — returning to Canada August 12.

Other countries represented in these international exchange visits are Great Britain, Sweden, Denmark, Netherlands and Norway.

Blessing of new swimming pool

The official blessing of the new Richelieu Club swimming pool take place next Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. Invitations to attend this function, at the Richelieu Park on Paquin Avenue, have been sent to religious authorities, parliamentary deputies and representatives of the municipal council.

Council meeting, T'wp of Chatham

At the regular Chatham Municipal Council meeting, held in St. Philippe, Mayor Roméo Foucault, Councillors Jean-Paul Rochon, Ernest Lacasse, Adelard Gagné, Dieudonné Leroux and William Morrow were in attendance.

A decision was approved that, in future, meetings shall be held at 7.30 p.m. instead of 10 a.m.

It was moved by Coun. Adelard Gagné, seconded by Coun. Wm. Morrow, that the Minister of Public Works be informed that there is about three miles of road almost ready for this department to take over. The roads concerned are — the Léveillé Montee, the Thompson Montee and the Morrison Dunany Road.

Notice of motion was given by Coun. Gagné that, at next regular meeting, he will move to amend an old by-law, No. 114, concerning street lights.

Approval was given to the payment of $2,479.63 in bills for the month.

Inadequate pressure for fire service, urgency in revamping water supply

A letter from the Canadian Underwriters' Association informing members of the Lachute Town Council that the water pressure is too low and does not meet with the Association's specifications, was read at the regular session of Council on Wednesday evening last.

In commenting on the letter, Mayor Fernand Legault stated: "This is definite proof that our proposed water system is a necessity and not a luxury". It was decided that Engineer Paul Laliberté would meet with the representatives of the Canadian Underwriters' Association and inform them of the steps the Council is presently planning.

The text of the letter is as follows (translated):

His Honor Mayor Legault,
City Hall, Lachute, Que.

Dear Sir:

Our engineers recently made tests in different sections of your municipality, the results of which indicate your water system has deteriorated considerably since our previous inspection.

This situation is serious, and the member companies of our Association have expressed their alarm.

We would appreciate knowing if the Council has studied this problem and exactly what measures they propose to remedy the situation.

Sincerely,

J. J. Amyot, Ing. P.,
Engineer in Chief
Municipal Fire Prevention Service

General Business

General business of a lesser nature took up the remainder of the meeting, chaired by Mayor Fernand Legault. Ald. Réal Morrissette was absent from the assembly.

Mr. Alex Denault was once again in attendance at the meeting asking what was going to be done about his request for sidewalks and street lights on Henry Street. He was assured the work would be completed as soon as possible, as the agreement had been made with the St. Jerusalem Council.

Mr. Reg Courtien, representing a delegation of citizens, expressed his appreciation for the replacing of the river-wall lights on Main Street West. Mr. Eli Cyr suggested Council take some action to straighten Bedard Blvd. where it joins Main Street, "as the corner is now quite dangerous". A street light on Bellingham Street was requested by Georges Raymond, local businessman.

Mayor Legault suggested that Council ask tenders from private contractors for opening all Lachute streets during the coming winter, and as a result, it was decided to hold over the sealed tenders for the truck and snow plow.

Ald. Stanley Holt reported the water meter between Lachute and Ayersville was broken, and, following considerable discussion, it was decided to request the Ayersville Council to have the equipment repaired, adding that in the meantime water consumption would be charged on the same basis as last year's supply.

The replacement of a number of sidewalks was discussed; it was decided to hold over this matter until next meeting when a report of the work completed to date would be made available. The installation of water and sewer pipes on several streets was also tabled until further information was made available.

A letter from the Department of Public Works informed Council that the necessary repairs were to be made to the West River Bridge but repairs to Fish's Bridge would have to wait as the budget had been exhausted.

Notice of motion was given that, at the next regular meeting, a by-law would be presented relative to charging for the installation of sewers in the Town of Lachute.

Accounts totalling $20,549.37 were approved for payment, several accounts being held over for further study and information. It was decided that the only tender for zoning the heating system in the Municipal Garage would be tabled, to be included in the next budget. The tender was for the sum of $687, and was supplied by Georges Raymond.

The meeting was then adjourned.

Ayersville police chief asked for resignation

By a council vote of 3 to 2 at Ayersville last week, Police Chief Marcel Therrien was asked to resign within 30 days. The vote was on an amendment — the two less generously - disposed councillors having first moved for his immediate dismissal with one month's salary, according to contract.

Marcel Therrien, police chief for the past several years, has been under fire for some time. Coun. Gaston Plamondon brought the matter forward by stating that Ayersville's financial straits would no longer justify the expense of $90-odd a week (in salary, uniform and automobile) for a police chief.

"Moreover", added the Councillor, "Chief Therrien has been criticized by the people for doing only half a job".

Councillor Simon affirmed that whenever there was an accident it was difficult to find the chief, he was away so often. . . . "But seeing that he is one of our own taxpayers, we should give him a chance to get a job elsewhere, by asking for his resignation rather than dismissing him."

Other Business

It was decided to petition the Department of Roads for straightening of the road at Simon's Crossing.

Bills to the amount of $5,366.44 were approved for payment.

A letter was read from the City of Longueuil, urging this municipality to pass a resolution that the two percent municipal tax should be generalized throughout the province. The letter was tabled.

A letter was also read from the French-language Weekly Newspapers Association (as reported in last issue) criticizing Mayor G. Paquette for ousting a newspaperman (Editor Fernand Berthiaume) from the Council deliberations. Mayor Paquette made no comment on the reading of this letter.

Building permit was granted to Antonio Gibeault for the erection of a private garage, and it was agreed to proceed with drainage work on Ayers Street near the Rochon property.

The meeting was adjourned until July 17.

'Stag party' gift turned back to community welfare

A letter to the Mayor and Council has been forwarded by Yvon Larocque, who was the town employee honored in the recent ill-fated bachelor gathering. Following is a translation of the letter:

Mayor and Council,
Town of Lachute.

Gentlemen :

After due consideration, I have decided not to keep the $350 which was presented to me at a "stag party" organized for my benefit on May 29 last.

Believe me, gentlemen, I regret just as sincerely as you, the unfortunate incident which developed, and of which I was equally a victim. I know that the members of the police force involved had no idea of the grave implications of their gesture; and I am deeply distressed to have been the unwitting and involuntary cause of this misadventure.

I would ask you kindly to assign this money to worthy causes in our district, so that it may serve a worthwhile and constructive purpose.

Assuring you, gentlemen, that I will continue to devote my best effort to the responsibility with which you have entrusted me, and shall endeavor to be worthy of your confidence.

Respectfully,

— Yvon Larocque,
(Lachute Town Employee)

Former residents had narrow escape on rail crossing

A family who until recently resided in Lachute — Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Lemire and two children (now of Sudbury) — had a narrow brush with death last week, when their car was shattered by a train at a level crossing on Route 17 west of Ottawa.

In a freak accident, a car driven by Mrs. M. P. Granger, of North Bay (as reported by Ontario Provincial Police) stopped abruptly on the tracks and was struck from the rear by Mr. Lemire's auto. The engine of the latter car was stalled and Mr. Lemire was unable to restart it. Meanwhile there was a train rapidly approaching the level crossing, and the driver and his family managed to get out of the car only in the nick of time before the crash. Mr. Lemire was the only one hurt; he was treated at hospital for minor cuts but was released shortly afterwards.

Mr. and Mrs. Granger, in the first car, also escaped when their auto was presumably pushed clear of the track.

Mr. Lemire served several years here as assistant personnel director at Ayers Limited, leaving that post to assume a position in the Sudbury University.

92nd Birthday

A surprise party was held at the home of Miss Fanny Globensky, Upper Lachute, to celebrate her 92nd birthday on July 6. Miss Globensky received several beautiful gifts. She still enjoys good health.

C-I-L Brownsburg attains another safety award

An accident-free record of 293 days without a lost-time injury was reached by the Brownsburg ammunition works of C-I-L — A. W. Lapp, Acting Works Manager, announced last week.

This achievement, Mr. Lapp said, represents 1,510,600 injury-free manhours and wins for the employees the company's Board of Directors' Prize, one of a number of awards under C-I-L's no accident record plan. The last lost-time accident at the works occurred last September 14.

Comparing the plant's record with the safety record of other industries, Mr. Lapp said that for a three year period ending in 1960, Brownsburg Works had an accident frequency rate of .73 injuries per million manhours worked, as compared to frequency rates of 1.91 for the Explosives Industry, 3.48 for the Chemical Industry and 6.30 for All Industries.

Individual awards will be presented to each employee in a few weeks.

The Johnson Era in the Seigneury of Argenteuil

— By Priscilla Lee Reid —
(Specially Contributed)

When Sir John Paley Johnson, Bart., accompanied by Lady Johnson his wife, visits Carillon as the guest of the Argenteuil County Historical Society on July 16, he will be welcomed not as a stranger, but as the descendant of Argenteuil's last seigneurial family. Succeeding his kinsman, the late Sir Edward Gordon Johnson, of St. Matthias, Que., in 1957, he is one of the very few members of the British aristocracy who must come to North America to trace an important part of his family's history.

SIR JOHN JOHNSON
the last Seignieur of Argenteuil, from a portrait in the Carillon Museum.

Considering his antecedants, it seems only natural that Sir John should have graduated from the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich, and made the army his career. During World War II he rendered distinguished service to his country in Burma, the Middle East, and Italy, gaining the rank of Lieutenant Colonel in 1945. Following the close of hostilities he was Chief Land Instructor of the Turkish Staff College from 1946 until 1949.

The baronetcy which Sir John holds was girst granted to his famous ancestor, Sir William Johnson, for his outstanding victory over the French in 1755, at Lac St. Sacrement, afterwards renamed Lake George. The Patent and Great Seal under the hand of the ruling British monarch, King George II, creating the baronetcy and carrying with it a knighthood for the eldest son, dated 1755, is still among the family muniments.

In 1738, William Johnson, at the age of 23 years, was sent to America by his uncle, Admiral Sir Peter Warren, to manage his lands in the Mohawk Valley.

Being an enterprising and hard-working young man, William John-

The three veterans are watching the putting form of Miss M. Darling, who surprised the experts by tying with these three for low gross honors at the C.L.G.U. Tournament (Silver Division) at Lachute Golf and Country Club last Thursday. It was a gala event with over 100 participating. It was exciting for Lachuters to see Margie Mussells of Dunany playing such sparkling golf and placing in the winning foursome, with a sizzling 80.

Voice from Labrador

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Sept Iles, June 27 —

A lot has happened since my last letter — all good. To begin with, another fly-out trip, of two day's duration. What happened during the fishing time will, I hope, make interesting reading. Back up to the Upper Chebogama again — for which I was very happy. As I told you in my last opus, the fishing was good. This time, however, the fishing was poor. Poor to our way of thinking, but to anyone else's it was something out of this world.

To begin with the guest I went in with was just a part-time fly man; as a matter of fact, 15 years ago was his last outing with flies. Boy, was he converted this time! He used his spinning outfit the first morning, with only one fish of any size being taken. I finally talked him into using the fly rod, and on his very first cast he tied into a Ouananiche.

This fish was on the line for 27 minutes, and still as fresh as ever when they parted company. During this time it had jumped nine times clear out of the water. This must have been a real old-timer, as it knew all the tricks, such as rolling on the line, rushing the boat, etc. You should have seen this situation! Imagine a fellow just lighting a cigar when he got the strike, then chewing it right down to a butt without getting more than a half dozen puffs on it. When it was all over, the sweat was pouring down his face, and his arms ached so much he didn't fish for an hour! After this rest he was right back at it with a Mickey Finn, and landed a Speckled trout of 4 lbs. 3 ozs. Nineteen minutes was consumed by this baby, and with another rest in between, the afternoon was all shot to pieces.

The following morning we were out at 5 a.m. beating the water to a froth. We wanted fish for breakfast, and we were not disappointed, either. A half-dozen Brookies of ½-lb. each, make good eating with strips of bacon alongside.

It seems strange to be in company with a person who probably spends more on his bar bill in the year than I would earn working — telling you how lucky you are! Maybe he's right, too. Another thing that stirs a little chuckle. Smelling a camp fire in the early morning, and to have them say, "Boy, smell that pine smoke!" Little do they know there isn't a pine within a hundred miles of here. But who am I to argue. That's what they're paying for, and that's what they get.

After breakfast we were out again, and immediately tied into a Splake that didn't know if it was a Lake trout or a Speckled. Nothing happened again for about an hour, and we covered a lot of territory in the boat looking for them. However, I must live right and be in everyone's good graces, because we hooked and freed nine Speckleds of around 1 lb. to 2 lbs. How these fish can scrap in fast water! The luck died down again so we headed in for lunch. On the way in to shore, the gent took one more cast (you know, the way we always do), and just as we hit shore he got a terrific strike. This was a doozer, a Ouananiche, and again I don't know the weight as it threw the hook. It was only on about 20 minutes but in that short time it did everything but rocket to the moon. I've seen a lot of fish hooked but never anything like this one. Yes, we had a movie camera in the boat, and strange to relate, it was loaded; so I did get the film shot. Finally, sitting down to dinner of broiled Splake with a wilk sauce (sure, I cook), two of us ate the whole thing. Anyway, we were in no condition to go fishing again for awhile, so a little nap didn't hurt. (You know, you lie in the sun and the next thing you know you're sawing wood by the cord.) We started to fish again after a cup of tea; by this time it was 4.30, and not until 5 p.m. did anything show itself. Just as the fly was being lifted from the water a Speckled took a swipe at it and hooked itself. This was released, followed by six more. Another Splake was landed, of about 5 lbs., but returned to the water to learn a little more. . . .

About 7 p.m. I witnessed something I will probably never see again, and one I will never forget. At least 100 Ouananiche running a rapid where the water was not over 3 feet deep. Their fins could be seen sticking from the water. During this run they would not touch a thing; but just as suddenly as it had started it stopped, and the things went crazy. One took the fly, this one the Black Beauty, so you can see they were after everything; it took 23 minutes to get this one netted; just under 6 lbs., it was a beautiful thing to see. . . . Right then all fishing stopped. The plane came in to pick us up, and by 9.15 we were back in camp.

The new boats finally arrived — just in time, otherwise someone would have to do some stream fishing instead of river type. Along with the boats came everything else a guide would need — a complete set of tools for every motor, along with a spare propellor. Now we can make any repair outside of a major breakdown. This made everyone happy.

Another party of 12 came in today, so I will likely be supervising for at least another five days. This I like; maybe I can see a little more of the country from the air, as I'm supposed to inspect all the guides at odd moments. Everyone has to be on their toes, including the guides, to make sure no risks are taken with anyone aboard the boats. People are very persuasive, wanting to do something they never have done before, including shooting through white water so they can take movies. And in some of this water we travel, one mistake would be the last.

Running down one side of a small lake, we cut off the motor and drift-fished — a lucky occasion for sight-seeing; we came upon a family of foxes, six young — five red and the other a blue-black, with the tip of its tail a silver. It didn't take the mother very long to get them into shelter when she spotted us. The father (I presume) stayed about 100 feet away and gave us the beady eye. Just as soon as we had passed, however, they were back out. We also saw a cariboo that looked just like an elephant, it was so big. A real old-timer, and a magnificent looking animal.

Of course, on these jaunts animal life abounds, and at times fishing is forgotten just watching the antics you go; so along with the jays, there's good company at hand all

St. Mungo's Church, Cushing, celebrates 125th anniversary

Cushing — An interesting and long-to-be-remembered observance of the 125th anniversary of St. Mungo's Church, was held on Sunday, July 9, with the Rev. A. G. Moore, a former pastor (now pastor of St. Luke's United Church, Montreal) as guest speaker.

The Rev. Mr. Moore reviewed in some measure St. Mungo's past, from its beginnings when the Rev. Wm. Mair from Scotland, took over the services, not only in Cushing, and (to quote him) "as far back as he could win", but also services evidently prior to the building of the actual church itself, which was not named until several years later, taking the name from the old St. Mungo's Cathedral in Scotland. . . . A framed picture of this cathedral, as well as a smaller photo of the choir gallery inside, was received as a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wishart, of Belleville, Ont. Obtained when Mr. Wishart and Mrs. Wishart (the former Lois Keatly of Cushing) visited the British Isles and parts of the continent, this gift was much appreciated by the members of St. Mungo's Church.

The Rev. Moore mentioned those following the Rev. Mair — one of whom had spent almost a lifetime in its service, namely, the late Rev. James Fraser, who occupied the pulpit of St. Mungo's Church for 40 years. Those who knew and remembered this pastor, also remember that both his, and Mrs. Fraser's, entire thought was always for the welfare of their people, and not themselves.

The Rev. Mr. Moore recalled the union of the churches and the harmony in which those of the Presbyterian and Methodist faiths had worked together in upholding the ideals of the Christian Church, yet at the same time reminding his listeners that "all this had not happened of ourselves, but because the Lord Jesus Christ, the Author and Finisher of our faith, had been in company with us through the years. It was He, not us, who had guided St. Mungo's to its present state of continuity. Without Jesus Christ, St. Mungo's Church, where all who desired to come and worship were made welcome, could not have continued to be a church."

Mrs. Florence Dowd, a soloist from Queen Mary United Church, Montreal, favored with the selection, "The King of Love My Shepherd Is", which was a fitting prelude to the Rev. Mr. Moore's sermon, and the closing hymn, "O God, our help in ages past", a prayer for help and guidance for the years to come.

The Rev. W. B. Rosborough, who has ministered to St. Mungo's in times of need, closed the service with the benedictory prayer.

Previous to the sermon, the Rev. K. Feltham, pastor of the church, read a letter of greeting from Miss Isabel Ross of Kingston, daughter of the Rev. Donald Ross, who had succeeded the Rev. W. Mair as minister to Cushing and the charges then included in the circuit. The minister thanked all who had helped make this celebration a success. He mentioned especially the Rev. R. J. Watson, a recent past minister to St. Mungo's, who had furnished take-home copies of a resumé of the church years, which he had prepared and given during the Saturday social evening following the supper in the church hall; for ancient maps of the vicinity, which he had procured and displayed for this event; also for screen pictures of interest, regarding the Bible Vacation School, children's Christmas parties, adult pictures, and several views of the church itself; and Mr. D. Morrison, of Grenville, for preparing the Sunday service programs. Members and adherents of the church join wholeheartedly in thanking those who helped, especially Mr. D. Neafsey, for decorations to the church hall, and for the loudspeaker system.

Greetings were brought from Vankleek Hill by the Rev. Mr. Holden; from Lachute United Church by the Rev. W. Bridge; from St. Luke's Church, Montreal, by the Rev. A. G. Moore; and from Laval West Church, by the Rev. R. J. Watson. . . . Letters of regret were read from the Rev. Guy Case, of Three Rivers, a former minister, and from the Rev. Garfield Bruce, of Brownsburg, who were unable to attend.

Late Benjamin Dubeau — A correction

Regarding the late Benjamin Dubeau, whose obituary appeared in last week's District News — his residence was erroneously referred to as Weir, Que.

Mr. Dubeau, however, was a lifetime citizen of Arundel. Our Weir correspondent having kindly sent the obituary, the editor was at fault in identifying him with that community instead of Arundel.

Junior Dance

At the Golf Club junior section social event last Friday, in the club chalet, the younger set danced and chatted with each other in the Cotillion Room. In Canada there is a shortage of males but Lachute seems to be the place for the young girls to come, for the stag line was very plentiful.

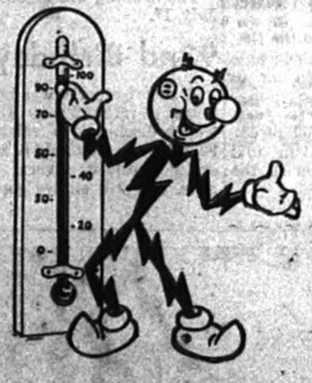

The dance was a successful affair, but it is hoped more juniors will be at the next event.

Power Squadron social event and member induction

Members of the St. Andrews Power Squadron and their wives held a dinner meeting at the Lachute Golf and Country Club on Wednesday, June 28, for the purpose of inducting new members.

Commander N. Somers presided for the evening, and guests for the occasion were District Commander H. S. Rees and Mrs. Rees, from Ottawa, and District Training Officer J. Hall, from Montreal.

D/C H. S. Rees conducted the induction ceremony and presented Canadian Power Squadron certificates to the two new members, Harold and George Deacon.

HOT SUMMER WEATHER

Sure keeps me busy!

Hot summer weather means longer and longer working hours for me . . . and added jobs. For when the temperature soars there's much, much more work for me to do in addition to my regular chores . . . work that I'm glad to do so long as it's helping you.

My hours and wages, as shown on your electric bill, may be larger during this hot weather, but I believe you'll agree that a few extra pennies a day for the extra hours I've worked is a real bargain in more comfortable summer living.

son soon became more than the manager of his uncle's estates. Before long he was trading in pelts, a pursuit which brought him into direct contact with the Indians, whose language he learned and whose ways he came to understand. Acknowledging their ability and intelligence, he treated them not as savages but as men. They in return respected him and created him a chief and a blood brother.

Shortly after arriving in America, William Johnson married Mary Wissenburgh, of Dutch origin, who in 1740 gave birth to a son — the future Seigneur of Argenteuil. Later there were born two daughters to the couple, Anne and Mary. Mrs. Johnson, however, was not long to enjoy her family, for she died suddenly.

About this time William Johnson met the beautiful Indian girl known in history as "Molly" Brent, the sister of Joseph Brent, the Mohawk sachem. Before long they were married after the Indian custom, and Molly became the mistress of Johnson Hall, the impressive residence which William had built.

According to contemporary accounts, Molly was charming, intelligent and witty, a woman who, as William's wife, became known for her gracious hospitality to all who were her guests. She raised her three step-children along with eight of her own. This close family relationship and the feeling of mutual trust and loyalty between the two families was no doubt the reason why three Johnsons — Sir William, Col. Guy, and Sir John — all made such successful Superintendents of Indian Affairs.

As his business ventures prospered, William Johnson acquired vast lands as well as other possessions. At the same time he became known as a military leader. When he died in July, 1774, he was Superintendent General of Indian Affairs in British North America, Major General of the British Colonial Army, the leading colonizer of the Mohawk Valley, a man of great wealth second only to William Penn, and a baronet.

John, who succeeded to Sir William's title and wealth, inherited also his father's military ability, his acute business sense, and his understanding and respect for the Indians. Married to Polly Watts, the daughter of the last British Governor of New York, he seemed to have everything necessary for security and happiness.

It was at this point that the American Revolution intervened to change the whole course of his life. It is interesting to speculate on what might have happened had he been willing to join the new nation. Probably he would have ranked with George Washington, but instead, he chose to be loyal to the British crown, with the result that he lost everything, both money and lands.

The story of how Sir John escaped from the revolutionary soldiers sent to arrest him at Johnson Hall, and the events which subsequently befell his family — their hardships, imprisonment, and finally their escape to Canada — is recorded by his wife Polly, in an account entitled, "The adventures of a lady in the War of Independence in America". Later this handwritten account was transcribed by Lady Johnson's daughter-in-law Susan, the wife of Lt. Col. Charles Christopher Johnson. These two manuscripts, one owned by the Johnson family, the other in Boston, a photostat copy in the Library of Congress, Washington, and a typewritten copy in the McGill University Library, are the only copies of this eye-witness account in existence.

Before Sir John slipped away from Johnson Hall on that memorable night in 1776, he had packed the family silver and his valuable papers in three large chests which he had buried for safe-keeping in the garden. Here they stayed until on one of his raids he recovered them and brought them to Canada. He also recovered two very fine bells, one of which he gave in later years to the Anglican Church in St. Andrews East, and the other to the Presbyterian Church.

After his escape from the revolutionary forces, he raised two loyalist battalions composed mainly of settlers from his own confiscated estates in the Mohawk Valley. These soon became known as the King's Royal Regiment of New York, or the "Royal Greens". As their commander, and aided by his Indian allies, he launched a campaign which lasted for several years, against the Americans. It was this activity that has made Sir John Johnson one of the most controversial figures in Canadian history.

In 1782 the crown recognized his military leadership by making him the successor to his cousin, Col. Guy Johnson, who had campaigned against Montreal in 1760, and who had held the position of Superintendent of Indian Affairs after Sir William Johnson. This post he held until he resigned it in 1808.

Sir John gradually acquired property in Montreal, maintaining a residence first on St. Mary Street, and later on Notre Dame Street. At the same time he was extending his holdings in the area where Bonsecours Market now stands. Still, after the spaciousness of Johnson Hall, and the Mohawk Valley estates, he must have felt very crowded and cramped, especially in his Montreal homes.

It is not surprising, therefore, that as his fortunes improved he began to amass extensive lands near Mt. Johnson and in the vicinity of Chambly, not to mention his very large holdings in Upper Canada. In order that he and his family might have comfortable accommodation, he built several large and commodious dwellings. One of these, now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Steven, is at St. Matthias, near Chambly, Que.

In 1814, at the age of 74 years, having withdrawn somewhat from public life, Sir John purchased the Seigneury of Argenteuil from James Murray. One of the first things which he did on taking possession was to build a house on a location now part of the St. Andrews Golf Club. Unfortunately, his wife, who had shared so many experiences with him, was unable to enjoy the new property. The registers of Christ Church, Montreal, now the Cathedral, record that on August 7, 1815, Polly Watts, the wife of Sir John Johnson, died, and that on August 9 she was buried in the family vault on Mt. Johnson.

The Manor House which aroused considerable interest in St. Andrews is described in a letter to Dr. B. N. Wales, written by a great-granddaughter of Sir John, the late Mrs. Kenrick, of Hillside Grange, Sherbrooke, Que. ". . . a large two-storey, heavily built wooden building of twelve or fourteen rooms. I also remember that there was a Guard House, built onto the dwelling, where the soldiers were stationed, and I think that this was used during the Rebellion of 1837, as my father, Col. Charles MacDonnell, was in command of the Argenteuil Rangers at the time. The Manor House stood in spacious grounds . . . distant about two miles from the village."

About the time of Sir John's death the house was sold, thus bringing to an end its connection with a famous family. In subsequent years it passed through various hands. Finally, in the 1880's, by this time reduced to a mere shadow of its former elegance, it was destroyed by fire. Miss A. L. Wales of St. Andrews East stated recently that not not long ago an attempt was made to excavate the ruins of the Manor, but nothing of value was found. A few broken pieces of "Willow" crockery, a pair of tongs, and a thimble were about the only recognizable remains. It is still possible, however, to see the outline of the foundations, and the location of the Guard House which stood nearby.

Sir John Johnson and his family lived only spasmodically in Argenteuil, and as a rule, only during the summer, when travel was easier for an ageing man. Nevertheless he left his mark on the community. He aided the residents by promoting industry, and he helped to bring in new settlers. He also gave the land upon which Christ Church, the first Church of England to be built in Argenteuil, was erected in 1819, and where the Seigneurial Pew, used by Sir John, can still be seen.

Like his father, Sir John was a deeply religious man. He attended church regularly each Sunday, and if there were no church near, he would hold a service in his own quarters. On these occasions he would read from the Bible, the Prayer Book of the Church of England, and conclude with a homily written by one of the divines.

While resident in Montreal he was a prominent member of Christ Church. There is record of a congregational meeting held on July 7, 1789, at the Recollet Convent, at which it was resolved to address Bishop Inglis, praying him to appoint an assistant to the much overworked Rev. Mr. David Chabrand Delisle, Episcopal Rector of Montreal, and assuring him that the members of Christ Church would gladly pay the stipend. To guarantee the annual salary of £100, ten gentlemen, including Sir John each agreed to give £10 for the assistant. Later, when Christ Church was to be built on Notre Dame Street, it was Sir John and Lady Johnson who headed the subscription list.

The Church of England had already begun its work in Argenteuil by the time Sir John arrived in 1814. Still it is interesting to note that when the Rev. Richard Bradford, the first clergyman resident in Argenteuil, died, the petition sent to England for a new minister was signed by the Seigneur, Sir John Johnson, as well as by Mr. William LeRoy. It was this request that brought the Rev. Joseph Abbott to St. Andrews.

So much has been said about Sir John's military activities that one tends to forget or pass over his other contributions to the Canada of his day. For many years he worked tirelessly at organizing and supervising the immigration of thousands of United Empire Loyalists into Upper and Lower Canada. He found new homes for them, either on his own lands or in areas just being opened up to settlement. In order that these people might become established more quickly he built saw mills, and flour mills, and in every way aided his colonists through the difficult pioneer period.

Always a public spirited man, he was a leader and supporter of many causes. When in 1809 it was decided that the monument to Nelson's naval victories, which stands beside the Chateau de Ramezay in Montreal, should be erected by public subscription, Sir John was a member of the committee of prominent citizens chosen to execute the details.

He was also a Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ancient Free-Masons, and as such he laid the corner-stone of the old Montreal General Hospital in 1821.

Sir John, even in old age, was vigorous both in mind and body. The story is told that a few months before his death at the age of 90 years, he vaulted a six-rail fence by placing his hands on the top rail and springing right over. As he landed his knees failed him and he sank to the ground. Picking himself up, he was heard to mutter in a disgusted tone as he walked away, "Well, I believe I am getting old".

When Sir John died suddenly of typhoid fever, his funeral, held in Christ Church, Montreal, on January 8, 1830, was attended not only by everyone of importance in the whole area, but also by many sorrowing Indians. A Chief of the Iroquois delivered in his own tongue a moving oration on the virtues of the late Superintendent General of Indian Affairs, and following the service the Indians, as a final tribute, carried the casket of their friend and blood brother from Montreal to Mt. Johnson, where it was placed in the family vault beside that of his wife. Few white men have had such an honor paid to them.

On the death of Sir John the title passed to Adam Gordon Johnson, his eldest living son, who became the 3rd Baronet. The Seigneury of Argenteuil, however, was given to his 4th son, Charles Christopher Johnson.

The new Seigneur, now a man of just over forty, was able to spend very little time in the Ottawa Valley, for by then his career and interests had led him in other directions. Married to Susan, the daughter of Sir Edward Griffith, who had taken the surname of Colpoys, England had become his home.

As a soldier he advanced to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel of the 9th Lancers. At one time he was Quarter Master General in Ireland, and he had been created a knight, 2nd Class, of the Persian Order of Lion and Sun. Many of his direct descendants, too, have been outstanding men, but few if any have had a close connection with Canada.

Before many years the Seigneury of Argenteuil passed over from the hands of the Johnson family to the impersonal Credit Foncier of Paris, France, to which company some residents still living in this district, can recall paying seigneurial dues.

The coming visit of Lt. Col. Charles Christopher Johnson's great-grandson, Sir John Paley Johnson, 6th Baronet, and Lady Johnson, will be a pleasant reminder to the residents of Argenteuil of a period in their history which will always be known as the Johnson era.

THE SCENE Around Brownsburg

By M. E. Cowley

There are hopes that the Woodbine Avenue North sewerage and water project will be completed this month, thus providing the services needed by those citizens building homes in the area. Filling in the excavation in the middle of the road will also eliminate a safety hazard which has existed for too long. Children could easily fall into this pit and might conceivably drown though the water level is low.

Quote from a little English-speaking Ontario girl whose older sister spoke both English and French: "Why don't they stop worrying about talking French or English and just talk 'talk'."

Brownsburg had a virtual speed-free month in June (i.e., there was no charge for speeding, and there was no shortage of drivers taking advantage of the fact). However, if Council purchases the radar speed-control system and Councillors Therrien and Vowles live up to their vows to have an efficient police force, there should be an improvement some time soon.

Seems as though the long-awaited building by-law is overdue. Whenever it comes it will do some good, but there is an old saying about "shutting the barn door".

Bicycle permits were issued to the amount of $125, dog licenses $70, taxi permits $30 — making total revenues for the month $1,345.75.

There were 374 service calls receiving attention of the police department, 24 car accidents investigated, 13 arrests, 2 entries with theft, and 20 other thefts.

The fire department answered only one call during the month of June.

A voice said "Come". . . .
We sit and think of you,
The things you used to say,
We wonder why you had to die,
Without a chance to say goodbye."

Of those they leave behind."

Wedding ceremony at St. Michel

Mendoza-Ayers

A pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday, July 1, at 11 a.m. in the St. Michel parish church, when the Rev. Father Charles Gougeon united in marriage Gail Ann Dwyer Ayers, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ayers of "Philengaifair", Pine Hill, Que., and Armando Garcia Mendoza, of Hatboro, Pa., son of Dr. and Mrs. Armando G Mendoza of Miami Beach, Fla.

Gail Ann Dwyer Ayers and Armando Garcia Mendoza, whose marriage was solemnized recently in the parish church at St. Michel de Wentworth.

Organist was Miss Juliette Rodrigue, of Lachute, and soloists were Miss Tourangeau and Mr. Goyer, both of Montreal. The church was decorated in a French Provincial theme with white gladioli and white carnations, the naive of the church being banked with baskets of white gladioli. In the centre aisle were French Provincial candelabra with white carnations, and at each pew white candles with white satin streamers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length gown of embroidered silk organza, white over shell pink, having a fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. Her veil fell from a shell pink satin rose. Her miniature cascade bouquet was of Sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

The maid of honor, Miss Frances Callan, of Long Island, N.Y., wore a dress of apple blossom pink silk organza with a beaded bodice and matching hat. She carried a miniature cascade of Sweetheart roses. . . . The two bridesmaids, Miss Nicole Quidoz, of Montreal, and Miss Jane Ayers, of Lachute, were gowned alike in watermelon pink organza, each with a fitted bodice, full skirt, short bolero jacket with satin sash, and a matching jewelled pillbox hat. Their flowers were miniature cascade bouquets of Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Thomas Poirier, of Cambridge, Mass., was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Philip Ayers, brother of the bride, and Mr. Robert Boucher, cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother wore an original Ina Gilbert model, in orchid organza re-embroidered with silver; the coat was in matching satin, hat of organza roses, and accessories to match.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, "Philengaifair"; the decorative theme was pink and white throughout, with carnations and roses. A buffet luncheon was served on the terrace and lawn to about 150 guests. The receiving bower on the terrace had French Provincial colonnades of pink gladioli and roses.

The couple left to spend their honeymoon at Miami Beach, Fla., the bride travelling in a Cardin wool suit with white accessories, with a bouquet of white stephanotis.

Out-of-town guests included Dr. and Mrs. Albert Poirier, of Cambridge, Mass., Mrs. Frances Callan and daughter, Barbara, of Long Island, N.Y.; Mrs. Orval Emery, Miss Shirley Emery, Mr. Philip Emery, of Windsor, Ont.; Mrs. Wallace Nantais, of Windsor, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Droyer, Miss Cary Droyer, and Mr. Michael Droyer, of Windsor, Ont.

At Brownsburg United Church

After the morning service at Brownsburg United on June 25, the sacrament of baptism was administered for James Harold Tomalty, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Arthur Tomalty, and for Gerald Sean Tomalty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Calder Tomalty.

During the month of June, the W.A. "B" Group served a delicious supper to the two W.A. groups, the W.M.S., and all home helpers, after which the final meeting (preceding the summer holidays) was conducted by Mrs. Harold Smith, W.A. president. The Rev. G. Bruce, with the aid of a flip-chart, gave much information regarding the new organization of "United Church Women" which will be inaugurated in 1962.

The Sunday School was terminated for the summer months, with the usual annual picnic.

On Sunday morning, July 2, baptism was administered for Brent Allen, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cameron, and for Donna Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Crooks.

In the absence of the Rev. G. Bruce and family, who have gone to their summer home for a period of five weeks, the morning services will be conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough for four Sundays in July, and for the first Sunday in August by Mr. John Davis.

Sympathy is extended from the entire church, to the family and relatives of the late Robert Taylor.

"Buy Canadian" slogan criticized

FULFILLING our promise to print a contrary view to the "Buy Canadian" theme, which we have ardently supported — now, with space available, we do so here. This opinion is quoted from a trade journal, The Weekly Editor. With all its viewpoints we are not wholly in agreement. There is no mention, for instance, of textiles, which are of paramount importance to this and many Canadian communities. Underselling by Japanese and Italian importers, notably, has dealt a telling blow to the industry in Canada, while these countries, to the best of our knowledge, buy little from Canada in the way of raw materials, either natural or synthetic, to compensate in this line of production. . . . However, in fairness we feel impelled to present this other side of the picture, that its merits may receive through the weekly press such notice as they deserve. Here is the editorial, from The Weekly Editor:

There's an important fallacy in the spate of "Buy Canadian" campaigns which seem to be growing in Canada these days.

Basic idea behind the campaigns is to influence customers to buy "Made in Canada" items rather than the same sort of items imported from abroad.

The most obvious and most important flaw in this idea is that, because it is all-inclusive and not limited to any particular products (though the electrical manufacturers, especially of radios, have been hitting it the hardest), it suggests that every item we buy from Japan or West Germany throws a Canadian out of a job.

This simply is not so. We are still exporting more to each of these particular countries than we are importing. To put any kind of an embargo — official or otherwise — on such imports is an open invitation for them to do the same. And since their purchases are largely of raw materials, the group which stands to lose the most is the one in which there is the most current unemployment. Ottawa bowed to this pressure when it increased the import tax on automobiles from certain countries — a most ill-advised move in our opinion. If ever they extended this to the importation of radio and electrical products from Japan it would be disastrous.

The second important flaw in the "Buy Canadian" campaign is that, in the case of many items, there are no domestically produced parallels except those which have been forced out of reluctant manufacturers because they must compete with imports.

Small cars are an excellent example, and at this writing there is still no domestic competition for the Volkswagen group of cars, though some of the motor moguls have been forced off their complacent posteriors to the point of meeting competition from the larger British cars. The Japanese gave us transistor radios and transistorized TV portables and low cost hi-fidelity equipment while American and Canadian manufacturers were still milling around in confusion at the new fields opened up by the transistors. We all know where the first mass-priced items taking advantage of solar cells are going to come from, don't we?

There are many other examples: cameras and optical instruments, toys, gadgets, some kinds of furniture, glassware, fine stainless steel products, hand-made art objects, are just a few. Until Canadian manufacturers can match the imports, they don't deserve consideration.

While the second consideration is open to some argument, the first portion is not.

We feel it is important that Canada's weekly press recognize this and point out to advertisers pushing this theme, the flaws in their reasoning. Advertising appearing under a "Buy Canadian — keep Canadians working" slogan is as misleading as any advertising appearing anywhere today.

New role — Chaplains of Industry

THE UNITED Church of Canada is to be commended for its decision to have its ministers get down to the "grass roots of management-labor problems, and get their hands dirty," by having some churchmen specially trained to serve as "chaplains to industry" — says the Fort Erie "Letter Review".

No church today can afford to stand aloof from and be indifferent to the problems of labor strife. When such strife occurs, countless numbers of innocent people are injured and, in the case of basic industries such as transportation, the public welfare may be placed in jeopardy by a nation-wide strike.

Ministers of the United Church, as "chaplains to industry", will have a lot to learn of the realities of modern unionism's monopoly power — continues the writer of this article. They will also find that a working knowledge of sound economic principles is a prime requisite to an understanding of the issues that lead to labor strife. Most encouraging thing is that the United Church considers labor strife a sufficiently serious social problem to be ready to do something about it.

Task in the Arctic

CANADA is developing a new kind of expert — the man who can tell the age of sea ice by melting it and tasting the water.

Reports from the Canadian Polar Continental Shelf Project indicate that getting drinking water in the far north is a problem. Scientists have found that while one-year-old sea ice is too salty to drink when melted, two-year-old ice is not so bad, and three-year-old ice is virtually free of salt.

This is perhaps no more than an intriguing sidelight to the project, now in its third year, but it serves to underline the difficulties facing the 70 scientists who make their summertime base on Ellef Ringnes Island 600 miles from the North Pole.

There's no hardware store down the street and if a piece of equipment breaks down, a replacement part may have to be flown in from thousands of miles away.

As the project's name implies, its fundamental task is to determine the limit of the continental shelf as it slopes away to the north. It's tied in with such things as submarine navigation in the polar area, problems of detecting submarines, efforts to determine what minerals exist in the area and to provide a general picture of what has happened there during the last 10,000 years.

Started in 1959, the project was long overdue. The Soviet Union and United States were far ahead of Canada in Arctic scientific exploration.

But under the able direction of Dr. Ernest Roots, 38-year-old geologist from Ottawa, it's moving along rapidly. Preliminary work was completed in 1959 and operations got into full swing between March and September last year.

Eventually scientific knowledge will be brought to bear on the entire polar shelf area from Greenland to Alaska.

And as the men work beneath the Arctic sun in a land where darkness doesn't descend for six months a year, they are making perhaps their biggest contribution to Canada.

They are reinforcing Canadian sovereignty over this vast, largely unexplored area. No longer is there any real danger of other nations laying claim to this remote part of Canada.

Viewpoints and perspectives

IMMIGRATION. — A frighteningly high proportion of Canadians are not in favor of immigration or increases in immigration. Why? Some are opposed to the religion of some of the immigrants, some to the color of their skin, some feel immigrants crowd too many in a room or house, some are so parochial they dislike hearing a foreign language spoken, some don't like competition from immigrants willing to work for less than themselves, and some don't want to develop Canada themselves and are unwilling to see others do so.

Things 'n Stuff

By Walter Henry Jackson

WHAT DOES "MEAN" MEAN?

When the weatherman speaks of "the mean temperature" he means the average temperature — or I presume that is what he means when he says mean. But when one speaks of "the average man", does he mean a mean man? When I was a very small boy I thought that the word average meant a hen's nest. Because I had heard my father say that a hen laid one egg a day on an average. During my long and checkered career I have known many an average man, but very few of them were mean. So average doesn't really mean mean, if you know what I mean. . . .

Now let's change the subject. Have you heard this one?

The nurse in a psychologist's clinic burst into his private office saying: "There's a lady in the waiting-room who I think you should see right away."

"Has she got an appointment?" asked the doctor. "No. She has no appointment. But she has a live ostrich on a leash and the ostrich is scaring the other patients and they are beginning to walk out!"

"Show her in right away," said the doctor.

The lady entered, leading the ostrich on a leash. . . . "Well, Madam," said the doctor, "What can I do for you?"

"Oh, there's nothing wrong with me. But I wish you'd examine my husband. He thinks he's an ostrich!"

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt.

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

EVERYBODY SELL!

I cribbed that title from an article in "This Week" magazine. Wilfred A. Peterson used it for a brief article designed to get everybody in the U.S.A. busy at the job of selling. "When everybody sells," he wrote, "goods, services and ideas move faster, and prosperity is achieved."

His article hit me like a ton of bricks, because of two recent Canadian experiences. First, the effort to buy (from a large Canadian department store in which I have always had great faith) an inexpensive tropical suit for summer wear. Getting the order placed with a salesman wasn't too hard; but getting the suit, after alterations, was a complicated and uneasy affair, and instead of being treated like a valued customer who had already bought an item, I suddenly became a nuisance who wanted to have the product at the time promised. In short, the reputation of this great Canadian department store dropped at least 30% in my estimation because an employee who should have been a salesman turned out to be an order-taker only.

My second experience was when I stopped to admire one of the little cars they are making these days. It was parked close to my office. I liked the looks of it very much, and I was definitely interested because I was ready to buy a new car. While I was standing there, the owner of the car came along. I told him I was admiring the car. He then gave me a quick lecture on its merits — and finally handed me his card. He was a car salesman, and I had dropped right into his lap.

He told me he would give me a call within a few days and take me for a drive. He would also have a look at my old car and "give you a good deal".

I haven't heard a peep out of him since, and that is over a month ago.

The first sale of anything is vitally important — if it is followed through with service. Usually, that means a lifetime customer.

I am a trifle cynical of the American notion that salesmanship alone can bring prosperity; but I am equally sure that, without salesmanship and service and effort on the part of us all, there will not be prosperity. Governments can monkey with the monetary system or pass laws until Hades won't have it, but nothing good will come of it unless we all, as individuals, get busy and work and serve and sell.

The tourist season is here. We could start selling visitors on the idea that Canadians are kind and thoughtful people — how's about it?

Sometimes I talk to my car. "Come on, you old tin beetle, get started," I growl into the dashboard. The car never answers.

Once or twice I have caught myself saying "Thank you" to an automatic coffee machine. It never says: "You're welcome."

I don't try to converse with coin-operated laundries. I know I wouldn't get any reply except: "Thump! Swish!"

Machines have no souls. And yet the government of Canada says they have.

The Supreme Court has ruled that laundry machines must not be exposed to the corruption of Sunday work. It's against the Lord's Day Act.

We can't allow a young laundromat (bless its little wheels and pinions) to commit the sin of washing dirty linen on the Sabbath.

And now there is a possibility that stamp machines are also to be forbidden to work on Sunday — for their own good, of course.

After that — who knows? Other machines, such as automatic telephone exchanges, locomotives, cars, may be forced to observe a day of rest.

I hope they will use the time in going to church. I don't mean to be blasphemous. The government and the Supreme Court decided that machines have souls. I didn't.

I wonder whether my car is an Anglican or a Presbyterian.

Boating booklet promotes safety

In order to assist in a country-wide campaign to promote water safety, a sprightly 18-page booklet titled "Boating Tips", with cartoon "don'ts", has been produced and distributed by Arthur Bell & Sons Ltd., distillers, of Perth, Scotland.

The booklets are going to the owners and users of small pleasure craft. Statistics show that by far the greatest share of accidents and fatalities occur in this classification.

Here are a few of the "don'ts" that should be observed on the water:

1. Don't smoke while filling the gas tank.

2. Don't use a motor that is too powerful for the craft.

3. Don't race power boats near small sailing, rowing craft or canoes.

4. Don't sail at night without running lights.

5. Don't try to swim to shore if the boat capsizes. Usually the boat does not become completely swamped.

6. Don't forget that a few easy-to-learn life saving techniques may save a life in an emergency.

Copies of "Boating Tips" have been distributed to more than 50,000 Canadian boating enthusiasts, including the Quebec Federation of National Clubs and the Quebec Water Safety Council.

BELL LINES

by Bob Bell, your telephone plant foreman

Once considered a luxury item, the telephone has become such an integral part of daily living that you can scarcely go anywhere nowadays without finding the familiar phone virtually within arm's reach. Apart from the more obvious places such as offices, stores, street corners, public waiting rooms and, of course, the modern home with one or more extension telephones in convenient locations, there are some locations for telephones that might surprise you. Phones for automobiles, for instance, have been available for some time. Business men find them useful for keeping in constant touch with their home offices or customers. A great number of commercial vehicles also have telephones for similar reasons. Recently, an experiment in dialing calls from an aircraft was conducted in British Columbia. Eventually telephones may be used on Canadian airliners in much the same way they are now being used in some parts of the U.S.A. In Japan, they have been experimenting with telephones on trains. This has proved so popular that they now plan to expand this service. But the latest word on telephone service for travellers concerns telephones on buses. A bus company in the U.S. offers this service to its customers. If present plans are realized we may see the same thing in Canada.

Since the closing of the Lachute Business Office, many of our subscribers apparently are not aware that there is still a regular staff of some 20 employees here.

I think that through the medium of this column it might be possible to have you meet some of these people. Maybe it will be interesting also to describe briefly the type of work these people perform.

Steve Lilly

Probably many of you know Steve Lilly. Steve comes from St. Andrews East, and while he has worked away from Lachute on occasion, he has been here for over two years now. He worked on the Mid-Canada Line prior to coming to Lachute. Steve is our tester, and his job is to handle the receiving and testing of all trouble reports, and to despatch our installation and repair force on their day-to-day job. . . . Perhaps some of you know Steve as a taxidermist. He raises guinea pigs as a hobby as well.

If you should meet Steve he would be glad to talk "telephone" with you! He might even get you interested in a guinea pig as a pet!

WHY NOT BE A BETTER NEIGHBOR ?

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

In pioneer days, when neighbors lived long distances apart, homemakers, weary with the demands of feeding and clothing and keeping a family clean, looked up with delight when they caught a glimpse of a neighbor coming to call. Neighbors helped each other in workbees — to raise a new barn or thresh the harvest.

In times of sickness and sorrow, people's hearts are touched and they are moved to express their sympathy in practical ways. So often a widow, left alone to raise her children without her husband's financial help and moral support, has declared years later, "I don't know how I ever would have managed if I hadn't had such marvelous neighbors."

"Better is a neighbor that is near than a brother far off." That is just as true today as it was centuries ago.

When our paths are smooth, small vexations frequently become magnified in a neighborhood. Ellis Parker Butler, who wrote the delightful nonsense story, "Pigs is Pigs", once observed, "It is other folks' dogs and children that make most of the bad feelin's between neighbors." Observing the property rights of the folks who live beside us, doing our best to keep our "small fry" (both two and four legged) off their lawn, is one way to maintain a happy relationship.

Willa Cather, in her word-picture of early times in Quebec wrote: "Only solitary men know the full joys of friendship." She also once made this comment. "Sometimes a neighbor whom we have disliked a lifetime for his arrogance and conceit lets fall a single commonplace remark that shows us another side, another man, really; a man uncertain, and puzzled, and in the dark like ourselves."

In Nellie McClung's vivid story "Clearing in the West" she tells of their family starting life in rural Manitoba. Their whole flock of 26 hens was killed one night by a weasel. But this disaster was overcome through the helpfulness of other pioneers who had settled before them.

Four neighbors, each with a gift box containing a hen and chickens, Plymouth Rocks, White Leghorns and a yellow hen with black markings, arrived one day in the early Spring. It was this kind act of a chicken shower which once more set up the McClung pioneer family in "the feathered industry." This, in time, supplemented their meager fare with eggs and fowl and provided feathers for their pillows.

Neighbors are ignored because people are shy, but more often perhaps it is because they are afraid others might impose on them and make a nuisance of themselves.

Many people don't seem to want to know their neighbors, especially city folk.

Centuries ago Horace made this comment. "When your neighbor's house is afire, your own property is at stake." The year when we were boarding in Toronto, the relatives with whom we lived had no opportunity to get to know any of their neighbors. After ten months early one evening sparks from the tall chimney next door set fire to the shingles of our relatives' house.

Immediately there was great excitement. The fire truck arrived promptly. Smoke billowed out and almost by magic neighbors from all the nearby houses appeared with offers of assistance.

That night when the fire had been put out, without too much damage, as we drank coffee in the next door neighbor's kitchen, I overheard one quiet little woman say regretfully, "It's too bad that it has taken a fire to make us become acquainted!"

Sundaes go portable

Up to now, the deliciously gooey ice cream sundae has been strictly a dessert you eat while sitting down. However, it now becomes a dessert to take away from its plate and spoon, to eat and enjoy while standing or walking along. Admittedly this will have most appeal for children, which makes it ideal refreshment for children's parties. But grown-ups will like the idea too, after they've seen and tasted their first Travelling Sundaes.

You'll find it easy to make these little portable desserts, and you'll probably be tempted to make a lot so as to have them on hand. They're waffle ice cream cuplets or cones — available at most grocery stores — filled with delicious homemade banana ice cream. When the mixture is partially frozen, a knife handle is inserted and the resulting hole is filled with the sundae sauce. When completely frozen, the sundaes can be fancied up with whipped cream, more sundae sauce, chopped nuts and similar good things.

A banana cream instant pudding mix makes the easy-to-do ice cream, and supplies the fine banana flavor that's such a hit with young and old. It's simply beaten with milk and cream just until blended — it takes about one minute — and then poured into the cones to freeze. One package of the delicious pudding makes eight sundaes, and the flavor can be easily varied by using different pudding mixes.

Travelling Sundaes

(Yield — 8 sundaes)

1 Cup light cream, 1 cup cold milk, 1 package (approx. 3¼ ounces) banana cream-flavored instant pudding mix, 8 ice cream cones, ¼ cup thick chocolate sauce, whipped cream or other topping.

Pour cream and milk into a deep bowl; add the banana cream pudding mix. Beat until well mixed, about 1 minute. Pour into ice cream cones — pointed cones should be stood in lemonade glasses. Freeze in refrigerator freezing compartment or freezer until partially frozen. Insert the handle of a dinner knife toward one side and straight down into the pudding in each cone. Remove knife handle and fill hole with chocolate sauce. Freeze until pudding is firm — sauce does not freeze. Serve decorated with whipped cream or other topping and a sprinkling of nuts, more syrup, or maraschino cherry if desired.

'Breaking in' the new car

By Carol Lane
("Tips on Touring")

That sleek, shiny, wonderful smelling car you just bought is as raring to go as you are — but it's still a good idea to take it easy at the beginning. If you are one of the many women who do most of the driving in the family car, you may be able to use these "break-in" tips:

In the morning, let the engine run a few minutes before you start to drive.

For the first one hundred miles, baby the brakes. They need it more than the engine. Make slow, gradual stops. Sudden, jarring stops are bad for new brakes.

Avoid quick starts with a wide-open throttle. The engine will warm up quickly, but, until it does, keep under 25 miles per hour. After it's warm, any safe speed is all right.

Up to 500 miles, deliberately change your driving speed from slow to fast and back again. Unchanging speed tends to cause uneven wear on certain precisely engineered parts. Accelerate up to sixty once in a while, if traffic conditions allow. Keeping to a constant low speed won't help break in a new car.

For the next 1,500 miles, any speed (within the law, of course) is all right. After you've passed the 2,000 mile mark, an occasional fast work-out will actually help your car's performance at the lower speeds.

Now you're all set. Enjoy your new car, and always drive safely!

Garden pests

The Ontario agriculture department has a remedy for controlling slugs which feed at night and eat the leaves of lettuce, beans, corn, cabbage, and bore holes in tomatoes and many vegetable roots.

Near or under the plants to be protected, place teaspoonfuls of ready-prepared slug bait containing metaldehyde about a foot apart.

Cutworms are controlled by dusting the surface of soil along the rows or spraying with five per cent aldrin, chlordane or heptachlor. A five per cent DDT dust, if applied heavily, is effective.

Always follow the directions on the label of the insecticide bottle.

QUITTING SCHOOL

By dropping out of school before graduation you close the door to large areas of employment. Only 30 per cent of employment today consists of semi-skilled or unskilled jobs which require little education or training.

Garden furniture

Indoor-outdoor garden furniture of wrought iron, rattan, redwood and aluminum-frame is a big help in popular enjoyment of summer warmth.

You can use these light-weight, elegantly styled, rain and wind resistant chairs, tables or chaises at the back or front lawn, at the patio or swimming pool, or at the summer cottage.

Add a rustic note to your garden setting with California redwood picnic tables, settees and carts — suggests the Canadian Furniture Manufacturers' Association.

The strictly summer aluminum pieces are covered in brightly colored saran or plastic webbing or removable padded cushions. There are also corded plastic chairs designed for swimmers who can sun themselves while drying their suits.

Shoppers shouldn't buy only on price, since cheap furniture means cheap merchandise, the association warns. The more web bands on a chair, the better its construction, and 72-inch-long chaises will withstand more pressure when folded to a flat position.

"Full Value for your Paint Dollar" is the title of a new booklet printed in French and English and marketed by the Association of Canadian Better Business Bureaus Inc.

It advises prospective painters to buy paints, varnishes and enamels of top quality made by a reputable manufacturer whose name is clearly indicated on the container.

You will get exactly what you pay for, the book notes, so don't expect any miracles from a bargain. Save yourself possible costly mistakes by asking a reputable dealer his opinion on the kind of paint to buy and apply the product according to directions printed by the manufacturer.

Chicken Stew

This recipe for dark or light chicken stew is one of the Poultry Products Institute's "husband-tested" specialties.

It specifies: 4½ to 6 lbs. ready-to-cook chicken or fowl, 3 to 4 cups water, 2 to 3 celery tops, 1 peeled carrot, 1 medium onion, quartered, 2 to 3 tsps. salt, piece of bay leaf and vegetables as required.

Wipe chicken with clean damp cloth. Use whole or cut-up. Singe if necessary. For dark stew, coat cut-up chicken with flour and brown in a thin layer of hot fat. Remove from pan and drain off fat. For light stew omit browning.

Place chicken in kettle, Dutch oven or pressure saucepan. Add water, celery tops, carrot, onion, salt and bay leaf. Bring to a boiling point, reduce heat under the kettle or Dutch oven and simmer covered until tender, about 1½ to 2 hours, depending upon size of chicken, or 2½ to 3 hours for fowl. If using pressure saucepan, cook at 15 lbs. pressure.

Potatoes, carrots, onions, etc., may be added toward end of cooking period. Allow only enough time for them to cook tender. Vegetables may be cooked separately and added to stew before serving.

If thick gravy is desired, remove chicken and vegetables from pan, thicken gravy with flour, allowing about 1½ to 2 tbsps. flour and ¼ cup water in which to blend it, for each cup of gravy to be thickened. Cook until smooth and thick. Adjust seasonings, pour over chicken and serve on platter surrounded with hot tea biscuits: Yields 8 to 12 generous servings.

Gardening Tips

If the tulips in your garden have stopped blooming, remove them, keeping the leaves and roots intact, to a pot in the vegetable garden, say horticulturists at Ontario Agriculture College, Guelph. Tulips will have an opportunity to recuperate for the next season.

Use a different sprayer for insect disease and weed control solutions, they suggest. Sometimes, these preventive solutions remain inside the sprayer container even after it has been washed.

HOW MANY MILES SHOULD A TRUCK LAST?

It depends on the driver—on the care that a truck is given—and on the manner in which the truck was built. Let's assume the first two factors are average... the driver is reasonably considerate of his truck—the maintenance it receives is sensible and regular. Now, the mileage we can expect depends on how the truck is built.

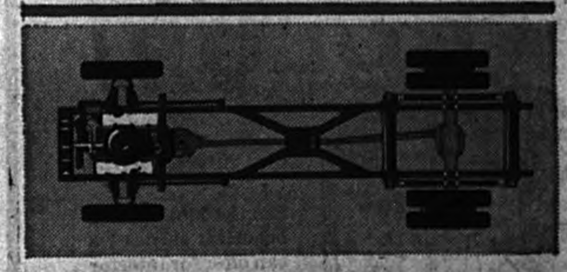

WHY IS THE ENGINE YOU CHOOSE SO IMPORTANT?

Let's talk engines. For this is the heart of truck performance. And it's here that Chevrolet V-8's and 6's have proven their dependable worth. Naturally, Chevrolet gives you a choice of power plants . . . but they all have something in common. Namely, overhead valves, Moraine bearings and full pressure lubrication, all specially designed for long engine life. And, as a bonus while you enjoy this extended engine life, Chevrolet has married economy to power in the performance of its various engines — so that with a Chevrolet Truck you have the pulling-power when you need it, and gas economy full-time!

WHY DO SOME SUSPENSIONS LAST AND LAST?

Let's talk suspension. Here's another way in which Chevrolet extends truck life . . . truck-tailored rear suspension in combination with Chevy's famous Independent Front Suspension with torsion springs. Before Chevrolet pioneered this suspension system, road bumps used to be transmitted directly to the chassis — and to the sheet metal and load. But now with Independent Front Suspension and vari-rate rear springs Chevrolet Trucks dissipate the bumps, reduce chassis strain, minimize tire abuse, load damage and driver fatigue. Another way of adding more and more miles to the life of a Chevrolet Truck!

NOW CONSIDER TRUCK FRAMES FOR A MOMENT

Chevrolet Heavy-Duty Trucks are built with a variety of frames tailor-made for a variety of trucking jobs. For example, if you spend all of your driving time off the highway, Chevy recommends one of their flexible frames that supports and gives when giving is the wisest course. If your chore calls for extra heavy highway loads, Chevy has a frame that fills that bill, too. In fact, Chevrolet Trucks come to you with the "just-right" frame for your job. And because of that, months and months of life are added to your Chevrolet Truck — miles and miles of profitable hauling.

Then there are the myriad of "small" features that help extend the life of Chevrolet Trucks. Extra-big capacity brakes . . . precision ball-gear steering to minimize friction and steering effort . . . torque-tailored clutches and super-tough transmissions!

So how many miles should your Chevrolet Truck last? Frankly — we can't pin it down to a figure. Certainly, there are thousands of Chevrolet Trucks across Canada with thousands of profit miles behind them. Who knows, perhaps you'll retire before your truck does. But one thing we can say with surety: your Chevrolet Truck has been built to give you the best performance throughout the longest possible lifetime. And with a Chevrolet Truck, every mile you drive will be a profitable one. Choose your Work-Proved Chevrolet Truck at your dealer's today.

Review of recent St. Jerome diocese C.W.L. convention

The recent Convention of the Catholic Women's League, St. Jerome Diocese, opened with Mass at Our Lady of Lourdes Shrine. This was followed by a breakfast at l'Ecole Supérieure, where the business session also took place.

The business session was presided over by Mrs. D. A. Aitken of Rosemere. Reports showed that 50 per cent of money raised by the various councils was spent in the parishes for assistance for the needy, supplies for the church, etc. Other projects included contributions toward a scholarship for the training of social workers, Christmas gifts for Eskimo children, supplying books for a boys' college in Africa, and contributing to the support of Catholic Sailors' Clubs.

The officers elected were: President, Mrs. J. Leblanc, St. Eustache; 1st vice-pres., Mrs. Q. J. Gwyn, Rosemere; 2nd vice-pres., Mrs. R. Summers, Brownsburg; 3rd vice-pres., Mrs. M. McGowan, Rosemere; Corresponding sec., Mrs. S. Donvito, Rosemere; Recording sec., Mrs. G. Burlton, St. Eustache; treasurer, Mrs. F. McKnight, St. Eustache.

The theme of the convention, "The Catholic Woman in the Community", was developed in two parts of the convention program. Mr. S. G. Burlton acted as moderator for a panel discussion on "The Catholic Woman in Suburbia". The Catholic Women's League has an important role to fill in helping the individual woman to "Change what she can, accept with grace what she cannot change, and have the wisdom to know the difference."

The convention luncheon was held at Lachute Golf Club, with Ste. Anastasie Parish Council (Mrs. L. Bedard, president) as hostesses. Father C. Lavigne, O.M.I., spoke on "The Christian in the Community". . . .

Father Lavigne considered the subject very timely, because:

"Whether we like to think so or not, the time has come when all Christians must unite in social action to confront such opposing ideologies as Communism, materialism, etc.

"The Church has always been a leader in institutional charity; however, more individual charity, and more charity of a preventative nature is needed.

"Christians must recognize their duty to strengthen the structure of our society by (1) obedience to the law, (2) fully accepting responsibility as citizens to ensure honest, efficient government, (3) to realize it is a duty to accept and love one's neighbor, not merely tolerate him, (4) work with other men of good will toward better educational facilities to raise the standards of society, (5) oppose interests working to change Sunday laws for commercial gain."

Father Lavigne concluded by reminding his audience that it is up to each individual to unite with other Christians to work together for the common good.

EASY ON ROYAL ARMS

If you're tempted to use the Royal Arms or the Canada Arms in a sales promotion — don't, writes Ray Magladry in The Financial Post. It's against the law in Canada to use them, and only the Exchequer Court knows what punishment you'd get.

The same goes for other heraldic emblems protected by the Trade Marks Act. But above all else, this sort of thing is simply "not done," Ottawa experts say.

Right now, Canadian clothiers are promoting the British or London Look in men's fashions. British symbols are playing a part in brochures and window displays. The Royal Arms, in symbolic form, have made an appearance. Other products, too, lend themselves to the "royal" promotion treatment.

Entertainers touring Quebec Province

The Wabo-Lecore entertainers, passing through Lachute recently, stopped off for supper at the home of "Pop" Lecore (father of "Tex" Lecore) on Foundry Street. This troupe has been featured at the Café St. Jacques in Montreal this past winter; they are now on a tour to Baie St. Paul, Rimouski and the Gaspé. Seen above (seated) are Alex Boisvert; André Loiseau, folklore singer; Guy "Bill Wabo", raconteur; "Pop" Henri Lecore and Gaston Martineau. At the rear are Mme H. Lecore with her son "Tex", recording, television and night-club musician.

WORTHY PROJECT

Few projects in this area for several years past have received the generous support being given to the new school for retarded children. Construction companies have donated time and equipment to assist in preparing the site. . . . This must certainly be a recognition of the sacrificial labors of the people who have struggled from the start to get an association going, get a class started, and now at last, get a school.

VOICE FROM LABRADOR

Sportsman's Column by Bob Atchison

of some of them. The otters never fail to put on a show for us. I've come to the conclusion the otter is the clown of the animal kingdom, followed by the squirrel. Up here they are in evidence everywhere the time. These are not actually company either, just free-loaders. Some of the jays will come right down where you are eating and peck away at any loose crumbs, some are not even loose, they'll peck at a slice of bread and make it disappear in short order.

Also on this jaunt we came across some old fish traps, most likely used years ago by the Indians. Although they are all rotted now, they give a little insight into the habits of the people of this area. In talking to the pilot of our plane, he stated he has also come across traps and deadfalls at various times. These deadfalls are a nasty business. A tree is felled and tied up in the air across a game trail, then a line is run to the ground with a trigger on it. Any animal hitting this line will be killed by the tree falling on it. Another type of trap, even though old, is still deadly. A tree is bent over to the ground, with a rope attached to the top; a noose is formed in the rope, with a trigger rope also. Anything hitting the noose is immediately hurled into the air with a broken neck or back. — Nice things to stay away from. Hitting one of these old traps, would take you on a free trip to the moon, for sure.

In passing, a number of you readers have been nice enough to write me. I thank you for this kindly thought, and will answer your letters as soon as possible.

This past five days has been exciting, what with world record fish being taken and quantities greater than at any time this year. As you may know, a Ouananiche was caught that may take the world record mark. To top this, a Splake was taken by a Mr. Moffat of Scranton, Penn., that is sure to be a world mark — 22 lbs., which exceeds the former records considerably. This same gentleman had wonderful luck all week trolling. He had taken Lakers up to 23 lbs. and was hoping for a bigger one when the Splake was hooked. It took 25 minutes to land; it was finally taken amid great hurrahs. A couple of the other boats had stopped to watch the fight, and I guess their added encouragement didn't hurt any.

It is still raining, and has been for the last few days. It has been reasonably warm though, so it hasn't been too bad. A pilot of one of the private planes was saying this afternoon that he had never seen such changeable weather. Little does he know about Labrador. This particular plane is leaving tomorrow, and he had been trying to get a weather report, without much luck. It seems all they would tell him was a disturbance was still centred around Labrador with light winds. What he was actually meaning was, one minute it looks like rain the next clearing up, then the next real snow clouds. As Edith told him, after a couple of months of this you get used to it.

Goldie is still after the squirrels, she nearly had one today — within a couple of feet of it. But within a few minutes it was right back with help. The squirrel and its mate both seemed to know just what to do to get Goldie in a sweat. They really ran her ragged, and finally she was panting so hard she could have been heard in Seven Islands. A few of us watched, and anyone trying to tell me animals are dumb, will sure start an argument.

The caribou are returning to this area in goodly numbers. From what I have been told they were almost driven out during the construction of the railway. It seems everyone and his brother wanted to shoot a caribou, even though no firearms are allowed in the province at all. That is, in Labrador, not Newfoundland; but they came in, with disastrous results to all the game. Even the bears took a bad beating and one railroad man told me that during the summer ducks were shot by the carload. It also seems a good number of the two-legged wolves were shot, too. This I can more easily condone.

I told you before we were short of "white water" guides. Five came in yesterday from Newfoundland, by chartered plane. They have all worked the Gander River, and from the going-over we gave them this morning, they are excellent guides. Tomorrow morning three of us are leaving for the Upper Chebogama for a run through of the waters up that way. I think within a few days they will know everything they need to know about that district. This business of getting good guides is tough.

Like to cross Canada in a Volkswagen?

If you still think a VW is fine for around town, but too small for long trips, think about this: it's a fact that the VW has more front leg-room than all but the biggest conventional cars. (More head room too.)

The bucket seats are high enough, and deep enough to support your legs to the knee. They slide back and forth on rails, and you can adjust the seat-back to three different angles as you drive. (A blessing on long trips when a change in position is as good as a rest.)

The Volkswagen is a family car with room and comfort for the whole tribe. Some of our happiest customers have a spouse and three growing children. And they all travel complete with luggage.

With the engine in the rear, you leave the heat and fumes behind you. You can drive flat out all day long in the hottest weather. The Volkswagen's air-cooled engine can't boil over because it has no radiator.

Most people get an average of 38 miles on a gallon of gas, (you'll probably do much better on a long trip), and you never need oil between changes. Compared to a conventional car, the Volkswagen will save you enough getting there to pay for the trip home.

Chances are you won't need service, but we don't believe in taking chances. There are 332 VW service depots right across Canada, (and 620 more in the States). You'll find them in every major city and out where people travel. Any one of them will have what you need.

For long trips the Volkswagen's got it coming and going. If you still have your doubts, visit your dealer and get the feel of the car built for adventurers, (and stay-at-homes).

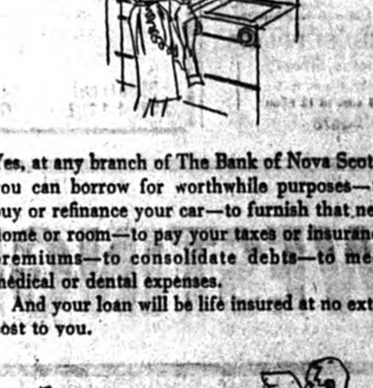

P.S. Now there's no Excise Tax to pay. A VW will cost you about $70 less.

Trade between nations is a two-way street. West Germany is one of Canada's best customers. And every Volkswagen sold in this country helps Canada to sell Germany more Canadian goods.

Married recently, couple to occupy Alberta pastorate

Robertson-Baker

The Rev. and Mrs. J. Bruce Robertson were married in South Baptist Church, Worcester, Mass., on June 3. The reception was held in the church parlors.

The bride, the former Dorothy M. Baker, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger A. Baker, of Worcester. Her husband is the son of Mrs. Hylda Robertson, of St. Andrews East, Que., and the late J. Fraser Robertson.

Maid of honor was Miss Marcia E. Baker, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were the Misses Bernice M. Hohler, of Worcester, and Jane E. Lamb, of Northboro, Mass., cousin of the bride.

The Rev. Samuel M. McDowell, of Trenton, N.S., was best man. Serving as ushers were Erwin R. Bode, of St. Louis, Mo., and the Rev. Allan Bond, of Montreal.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of sheer nylon over taffeta, fashioned with a scooped neckline trimmed with iridescent sequins and seed pearls, short sleeves, basque bodice, and floor-length bouffant skirt with appliqués of Chantilly lace. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a crown of orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a Bible with a cover corsage of lilies-of-the-valley and streamers caught with lilies-of-the-valley.

The maid of honor wore a street-length pale yellow dress of silk organza with a full skirt, draped bodice, and matching open-crowned straw hat. The bridesmaids wore the same style in mint green. All carried white colonial bouquets with streamers to match their dresses.

After July 30, the couple will reside at 10124 96th Ave., Grande Prairie, Alberta, where the Rev. Robertson will assume the pastorate of the Forbes Presbyterian Church.

The bride was graduated from the Worcester State Teachers' College in Worcester, taught kindergarten in the Worcester school system, and attended Andover Newton Theological School in Newton Centre, Mass.

The groom was graduated from Sir George Williams College and Presbyterian College, Montreal, and received his Master of Sacred Theology degree in Pastoral Psychology from Andover Newton Theological School, Newton Centre, Mass., in May.

Montreal wedding of interest here

Walker-Kettyle

The marriage of Carole-Ann, daughter of Mr. Frank Kettyle and of the late Mrs. Lillian Kettyle, of Montreal, to Mr. James John Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Walker, of Montreal, took place recently in the People's Church, the Rev. John Dempster officiating. The bride's uncle, the Rev. Harold Kettyle, of Pine Grove, Ont., assisted in the ceremony. Mr. Henry Robinson played the wedding music, and Mr. Douglas Foster sang during the service. White gladioli, mums, and gold Talisman roses arranged with candelabra and greenery decorated the church.

The bride, given away by her father, was in an Empire-styled gown of white imported faille with a fitted bodice of Italian cotton lace and pearls, having a round neckline and three-quarter length sleeves, and a bouffant skirt ending in a cathedral train. Her cathedral length veil of tulle illusion was held by a single rose of white imported faille, and she carried a bouquet of white gardenias and stephanotis. Pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, were worn by the bride.

Miss Patricia Stansfield was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Bonnie-Jean Kettyle, sister of the bride, Miss Lois Marwick, and Miss Patricia Crakanthorp. Little Miss Linda-Jean Kettyle, cousin of the bride, Miss Joyce Burn, and Miss Audrey Jamieson attended the bride as flower girls. Martin James Trinder, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer. . . . All the bride's attendants were in floor-length gowns of white embroidered Swiss cotton eyelet, fashioned with fitted bodices, high necklines and very puffed sleeves; their bouffant skirts were caught by gold satin sashes. The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore white eyelet picture hats with gold satin and velvet roses on one side, and they carried cascade bouquets of white gladioli, gold Talisman roses, and green ivy. The flower girls wore tiny circlets of gold velvet and satin pansies and white gardenias, and they carried white garden baskets of white gladioli, gold Talisman roses, ivy, and baby's breath.

Mr. Bruce Morrison acted as best man for Mr. Walker, and the ushers were Mr. Paul Shpakowsky, Mr. Stanley Trinder, brother-in-law of the groom, and Mr. Joseph Kass.

The wedding party left the church in an entourage of calèches. The reception was held in the Maisonneuve Room at the LaSalle Hotel, where white and gold summer flowers were used as decorations.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Walker left for their honeymoon, the bride travelling in an original two-piece ensemble of white Serrano, the jacket overlaid with white Venice lace. She wore an original Matte et Bernard hat of white straw, roses and tulle, white accessories, and a corsage of mauve orchids.

Upon return from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Walker will take up temporary residence in Montreal, and then, in October, will continue their studies in Saskatchewan for training for foreign missionary work.

Ayersv'l asks Municipal Commission assume administrative responsibility

The Municipality of the Village of Ayersville, with consolidated debts in excess of $100,000, have made a request to the Quebec Municipal Commission to be placed under the direction of the commission until such time as the municipality is on a sound financial basis. The decision was made Monday evening at an adjourned session of Council, presided over by Pro-Mayor Douglas Simon in the absence of Mayor Gaetan Paquette. Councillor Gerard Gauthier was also absent from the meeting.

"When the administration of a municipality finds itself in a position where it cannot pay its obligations, the Superior Court is asked to intervene. This can be done either by the Municipal Commission; by the Municipal Council concerned; or by creditors holding at least 25% of the borrowed monies."

Following is a translated breakdown of the resolution passed:

Whereas an investigation has been carried out by the Municipal Affairs Commission into the municipality's finances;

Whereas the Municipality of Ayersville has accrued debts in excess of $100,000;

Whereas work has been completed in the municipality following simple resolutions;

Whereas the municipality has received a notice of payment for work completed by "Les Puits du Quebec Enr.";

Whereas, following By-Law 21, the municipality has to pay $9,000 per year, from July 15, 1956 until July 15, 1960;

Whereas only the first two payments have been made, leaving a balance of $6,200 until the year 1958, the payments for the last two years bringing the total to $25,200.

Considering all the above conditions, it is moved by Councillor Gaston Plamondon and seconded by Councillor Edgar Cyr, and unanimously resolved, that a request be made to the Municipal Commission of the Province of Quebec, requesting they declare the Municipality in default, under Chapter 207 of the revised Statutes of the Province of Quebec (1941).

As mentioned in the resolution, it was Councillor Gaston Plamondon, who opened the discussion and read a letter received from the Bank of Montreal, Ayersville Branch, demanding the payment of a loan totalling $24,200 made for the construction of sidewalks. As the municipality was not in a position to pay the bank loan, it was felt the only solution would be to approach the Municipal Commission. A copy of the resolution was ordered sent to the Bank concerned.

B.M. appointment of lady official first of its kind

Lachute-born Louise Miller has been appointed accountant-in-charge of the Bank of Montreal's Ayersville office. Her appointment is the first of its kind given to a woman anywhere in the 144-year history of the bank.

Miss Miller has been in charge of the Ayersville office since its establishment in October, 1957. Her appointment means she will assume more responsibility for the daily operation of the bank, which is directed by Donald Hay of the Lachute B of M.

Born in Lachute, Miss Miller completed high school here and attended McGill University and Macdonald College. She taught school for several years and went to England early in 1939. When war broke out, she decided to stay in England and, during the war years, was attached to various civil defence units on a voluntary basis.

After five years in England, she returned to Lachute and joined the B of M soon afterwards. In 1955, she completed the associates' course in banking given by Queen's University, passing with honors. Two years later, Miss Miller took charge of the newly-opened Ayersville office, where she is now officially accountant-in-charge.

Outside the bank, Miss Miller likes fishing, curling and the occasional game of golf.

The body was transported to the local morgue where joint district coroner Dr. Roger Lavigne rendered a verdict of accidental death due to drowning.

St. Andrews hires Whiteway to organize Police Dept.

A. J. WHITEWAY

The services of A. J. Whiteway, former Lachute Police Chief, have been retained by the municipality of the Village of St. Andrews East, where Mr. Whiteway on Monday commenced the organization of a municipal police department.

The decision to engage Mr. Whiteway was made at a special session of Council held on Thursday evening of last week, under the chairmanship of Mayor Antoine Paré. At that time, he was interviewed by the Mayor and Council on his ideas of police problems of the municipality. Every member of Council joined in the questioning of Mr. Whiteway and the meeting was quite impressed with the excellent suggestions he made to set up proper police control for the area.

Mr. Whiteway, by a unanimous resolution of Council, was engaged for a minimum period of six months, during which time he is to establish a proper department. It was also unanimously decided to purchase an emergency vehicle for the municipality.

Another recommendation made by Mr. Whiteway which particularly interested the Council was the suggestion for close co-operation with the Lachute Police Department. Councillor Mac Stephens was authorized by Council to approach the Lachute Council to follow-up these suggestions.

Before coming to Lachute, Mr. Whiteway had considerable experience in municipal policing problems, having served with the Westmount Police Department; he was later Chief of Police at Morin Heights. He will continue to reside in Lachute.

One of remaining policemen suspended; new sewer by-law passed by Council

The last remaining full-time member of Lachute's most efficient police department, Cst. Felix L'Allier, was suspended at a special meeting held under the chairmanship of Pro-Mayor Dr. J. P. Dorion, on Wednesday of last week. The suspension resulted from an accident to the police emergency vehicle July 3 at Simon's Crossing, in Ayersville. Discussion of the affair was held in caucus, on termination of the public meeting.

Council minutes of the incident state that "following the investigation of the accident and questioning of witnesses and reports, it was felt by those members of Council present that Cst. Felix D'Allier was guilty of negligence in the accident. Taking this into consideration, along with previous breaches of conduct since his appointment as a member of the police department in February, 1960, it was moved by Ald. Stanley Church, seconded by Ald. Horace Lamarche, that the council act as follows:

"(1) Suspend Cst. Felix L'Allier until such time as Mayor Fernand Legault and Police Commissioner Linton W. Armstrong return; and

"(2) That this decision be ratified at the next meeting of Council."

In discussing other matters pertaining to the Police Department, it was moved by Ald Stanley Holt, seconded by Ald. Stanley Church, that following receipt of a letter from Yvon Larocque dated July 7 reproduced in last week's Watchman), a receipt be issued Mr. Larocque for the sum of $350 and the same entered in the Suspence Account, pending further decision of Council.

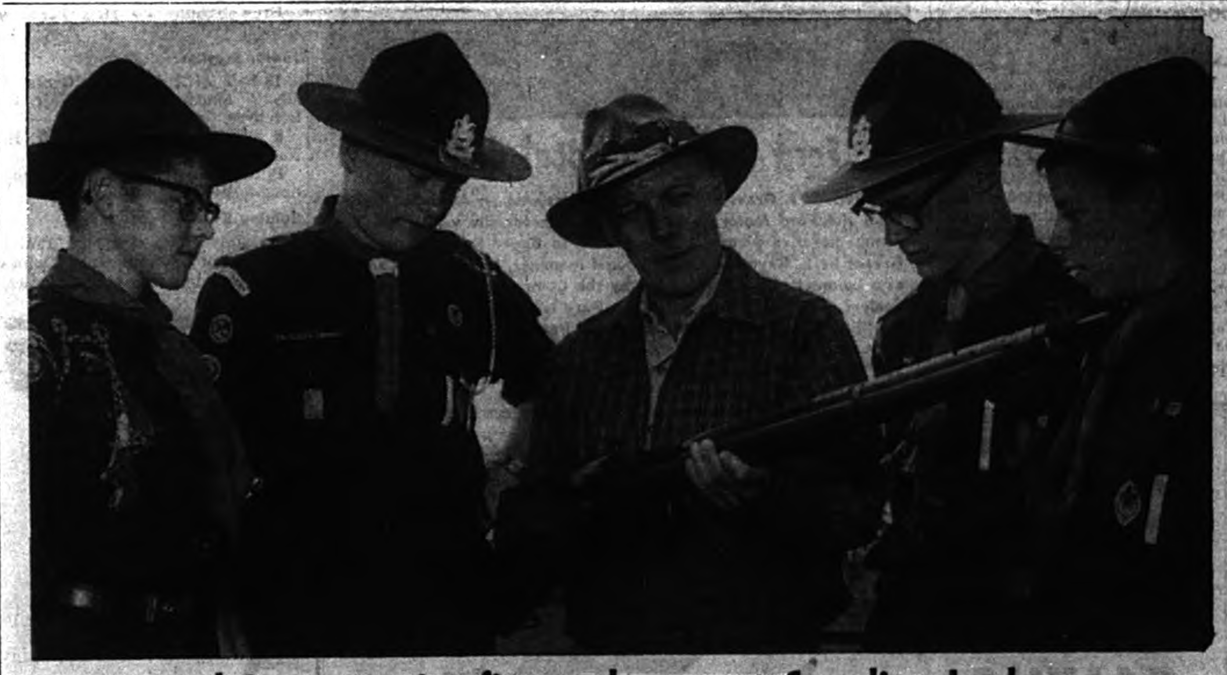

Waterworks Contract

A letter from Mr. Quenville, vice-president of Hydro-Dynamics (who had bid on the waterworks project), was also read in caucus, and representatives of the firm were heard at this time. Testimony was given as to the details of the recently submitted tender and its breakdown, and as to the solvency of the company, despite the fact that it is a comparatively new organization. The representatives were thanked for their testimony and the matter was tabled. A slightly higher tender, from the firm of Francis-Hankin, was accepted in principle when the matter was discussed at a June meeting.

New Sewer By-Law

In accordance with a by-law passed earlier in the meeting, Ald. Stanley Holt moved that the sewer required on Taylor Street, in Lachute East Ward, be constructed, and that the property owners concerned be sent notices to that effect. Upon completion of the work, they will be billed according to their respective frontages and frontage connections. The motion was seconded by Ald. Real Morrissette, and unanimously approved.

The by-law, No. 225 on the books of the Town of Lachute, will be found in our next publication.

Local Scouts receive firearm lessons at Canadian Jamboree

Four Lachute area youths were among the 2,905 Boy Scouts and leaders who attended the 3rd Canadian Jamboree at Connaught Ranges near Ottawa. The 10-day under canvas outing which ends Saturday, July 22nd, brought together scouts from all parts of Canada, as well as some U.S., Australia and Pakistan boys.

One of the outstanding features of the jamboree was a safe gun handling and shooting program for all the scouts. It was the largest civilian shooting contest in Canadian history and was supervised by Captain F. Samson, of Ottawa. Above, Capt. Samson gives the local boys a few pointers on marksmanship. The boys are, left to right, John Atkins, Gerry Bignell, Ron Gervais and Robert Rutherford. Gerry is from Lachute and the other boys are from Brownsburg.

It is expected there will be a keen participation in this contest. Coupons will be available at any listed store where the customer makes a purchase. Extra copies of the two journals may be procured at news-stands, for coupons exchangeable for five contest-slips.

Agile harnessman averts harness racing accident

Duncan MacTavish, 22-year-old Brownsburg resident, provided a touch of the Calgary Stampede as he leaped from the seat of his sulky to the back of his speeding horse and avoided a spill at Toronto's Old Woodbine Raceway on Tuesday evening of last week.

The reins on Rod Hanover broke as the field sped toward the finish line in the fifth race. Although the horse was travelling at a speed estimated to be close to 30 m.p.h., MacTavish, realizing he had no control, took one step onto the shaft of the sulky and pushed himself onto the horse's back. He rode Rod Hanover, jockey style, past the finish line and around the turn where he quieted the animal.

The incident failed to upset MacTavish, reports Jim Golla in the Toronto Globe and Mail. Onlooking horsemen were more excited than the young driver, and many with 30 years experience with standard breds could not recall a similar incident.

Duncan came right back to win the sixth race with Oliver Twist, and placed second in both the seventh and eighth races. He preceded his rodeo ride by winning the fourth race with Ike C.

The father-and-son team of Delbert and Duncan MacTavish are well-known and widely related in this district, their headquarters being located near Staynerville.

Blessing of new swimming pool held Sunday

The official blessing of the Richelieu Club swimming pool took place Sunday afternoon. A number of persons took the opportunity to congratulate the club on this undertaking, including Abbé André Saint-André; W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P.; and Dr. Jean Paul Dorion, Lachute's pro-mayor.

Master of Ceremonies for the occasion was Roger Lagarde. A bouquet of red roses was presented to Mrs. Yvanhoe Chevrier, wife of the club president, with the compliments of the firm of L. St. Jacques Ltd., the presentation being made by little Miss Nicole St. Jacques.

Historical Society plays host to descendent of last Seigneur of Argenteuil County

An event of unique interest for the residents of Argenteuil County took place on Sunday, July 16, when Sir John Paley Johnson, Bart., accompanied by Lady Johnson, visited St. Andrews and Carillon as guests of the Historical Society of Argenteuil County. Sir John, now a resident of London, England, is the great-great-grandson of Sir John Johnson, the last Seigneur of Argenteuil.

On their arrival in St. Andrews early Sunday afternoon, Sir John and Lady Johnson first visited Birchbell Farm where they were met by Antoine Paré, Mayor of St. Andrews, and Mr. Tupper Porter who conducted them through the Porter stables and the Hunt Club kennels. Sir John, until recently, a Master of the Hunt in England, took a keen interest in the horses and hounds.

The guests of honor next visited the Presbyterian Church where they were received by the Rev. Harold Reid and viewed an old bell, presented to the Rev. Archibald Henderson, the first minister of the Church, by the Seigneur Sir John Johnson. Since this bell had been brought from the Mohawk Valley at the time the Johnson family heirlooms were rescued after the Revolution, it was found of particular interest — in fact, one of the most interesting relics there is of the Johnson family period in the Mohawk Valley.

In the Anglican church, where they were received by the Rev. W. LeCras, the party inspected the original Johnson family Seignioral Pew, the tablet erected to Sir John Johnson, a second bell and also a crystal chandelier, both the gifts of the Seigneur and his family.

After seeing the two churches, the party then came to the Museum of the Historical Society at Carillon, to be guests of honor at a reception and garden party, held indoors in view of the unfavorable weather. The guests were received by Mr. Arthur F. Hanly, President of the Society and Mrs. Hanly, and the guest of honor, Sir John Paley

No Watchman or L'Argenteuil next week, July 26

Following the annual procedure at Giles Publishing House, there will be no edition of The Watchman or L'Argenteuil next week. The newspaper staffs will be absent on holiday.

In consequence, news correspondents are asked to withold all items, except only those of above-usual interest; these may be included in bulletins of the following week.

Advertisers are also reminded to have material for the issues of August 2, handed in to this office in ample time.

Employee rewarded for good service

Incentive to give good service, and thus promote better business, is seen in a gesture which came to the attention of this newspaper last week. Donat Saulnier, proprietor of Beaton's Pharmacy, presented his delivery man, Claude Labonté, with a $50 bonus for a record of no-accident driving in the past 12 months, and for his continued courtesy and good service.

Labonté, who has been in the employ of Beaton's Pharmacy for the past four years, has been commended to his boss by customers from time to time.

This gesture is seen as a move which might well be copied by other merchants who have clerks rarely recognized for their loyalty. Appreciated employees are a key to good customer relations.

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Sept Iles, July 10 —

Fishing has been very spotty, due no doubt to the wonderful weather we have had for the past three days. Believe it or not, the temperature hit 85 today. It has been like this for so long we are getting scared. It certainly has affected the fishing though, if not the water. That is still very, very cold; just for your curiosity the water was 44 at a depth of 10 feet. . . . Wonder why we don't swim?

Yesterday the fishing was confined to a period of about an hour and a half. One party came in with eight Speckled trout that all weighed over the 4-lb. mark. Largest was 5 lbs. 8 ozs. I don't think I have ever seen more magnificent fish; the coloring on them was hard to believe. A few Lakers were taken by other parties, but none of any size, 4 to 6 lbs. No Splake at all showed up, and only one Ouananiche of any size.

A very peculiar thing was seen today. I was out with one of the guides for a ride around the rapids and as we went through some of the white water, we spotted something we just couldn't understand. Swinging around and going back up, we saw a sight that would delight any fisherman's heart. There must have been 50 Speckled trout of all sizes lying in the huge eddy caused by the rocks and fast water. I personally have never seen anything like this, and the guide, who is from Gander, couldn't believe his eyes. Naturally, we tried to figure out a way to get at them with a rod, but they were smart. It was impossible to get at them through the fast water, and getting into the eddy, you drifted so fast there wasn't a chance your lure would even get near them. With the rock outcropping above them, that was also out of the question. So (know what we will do?) —any guest who doesn't catch any decent fish will be taken there to give it a try. That would be punishment, knowing they are there, seeing them feeding, and not being able to do anything about it.

We also saw hundreds upon hundreds of small Ouananiche, about 6 to 8 inches. . . . If this is any criterion then fishing up this way will be very good for years to come. Of course, it only takes a group of stupid people to get into an area like this, and that's it! However, the chance of anyone being able to do that unmolested is very remote. What with the R.C.M.P. on the job, not much is left to chance. However, to make sure of this I have been told that Labrador will have a force of wardens of its own along with the Mounties, and this bodes no good for lawbreakers.

While out on this jaunt, we also saw a funny sight — one of the guests wading in the rapids fly fishing, stepping onto some very slippery rock and travelling about 100 feet before he could right himself! At least nothing was lost, as he hung onto the rod and net with a grip of steel. I do know he was a little black and blue in certain spots. But, emptying his waders, he was right back at the fishing within a half hour. We could hear his teeth chatter though when he got back to the lodge and also lost $5. It seems this group had a little side bet on the first man slipping into the water!

A visit from one of the ministers of Newfoundland the other day, livened things up for awhile. Naturally he had to go out fishing, too. The fish were very receptive to his lures, and some of the guests who have been with us for a few days were just a shade disgruntled. (Some of them even went so far as to suggest a little political pull along the line.) They all seemed to have a lot of fun with the wisecracks, though. Obviously, they don't seem to be too worried about the business world when they are up here with us.

Tuesday, July 11 —

A very heavy storm, with a lot of rain — but only one fisherman who was fishing the lake has showed up. An excellent catch too. Speckleds, and a couple of small Lakers that he is going to have for supper tonight. . . . I must tell you about this fish supper, before I forget. Any guest can have his fish cooked at any time, and for supper our Chef really makes a big production out of it. Man, that fish comes in looking prettier on a dish than when he was in the water. To begin with, the fish is always baked stuffed with onions; then it is all tied up and a tartar sauce put over it. He does something to the skin that makes it come out of the oven a golden brown. A cream sauce along with lemon and parsley add the necessary touch, and there you have it. Of course, WE don't get it like this, but it sure is nice to see. It's always served on a big platter of wood, a real gourmet dish.

Another boat has just showed up. This one, too, has a good catch. Splake, the largest being 6 lbs., with a couple of real fine Lakers. They tell of a Ouananiche that got away (they always do) which, they are sure, would be a record.

Thunder and lightning — the first time since we came up this way. Fortunately, there are no winds with it.

On the spelling of some of the lakes and rivers around, I have been puzzled. However, these are correct, so forgive me for the mistakes — Shebogama, instead of Chebougama; Molson's, instead of Molsen; and so it goes. I finally got hold of a new map of the area, and there are lakes around this district I have never even seen yet, even doing all my travelling by air. I may seen to talk a lot on this form of travel, but the wonderful scenery to be seen has me almost speechless — and it takes something spectacular to leave me tongue-tied. I have mentioned the different colors during the day. For instance, during a heavy rainstorm the alkali washed down into them will change the appearance so rapidly you just imagine a lake that appears to be a very deep blue, turning into a creamy purple. It makes you wonder just what minerals cause this. Even on a very windy day the resin blown off the trees will cause them to change; this must be one of the reasons why the fish are so brilliant. That's the only thing I can think of.

The plane has just come in with a party from the Shebogama — and have they got some wonderful fish! 4 Ouananiche that will weigh 5 lbs. or over, along with some of the nicest Speckled I have seen so far. Deep in the belly, with very firm flesh, not to say anything of the coloring. The plane has to go right back and pick up the rest, as they are leaving tomorrow by DC-3 for the States.

Later —

The seaplane based at our dock has developed engine trouble, and it was necessary for the camp to contact another plane to pick up the fishermen in outside spots. The first has just come in, with good fishing reported; the plane took off immediately for another flight. It is going to be touch-and-go as to the arrival of our guests. The guides don't need to be picked up tonight, and if necessary they can come on down the river to the Marshall rapids, where they will be met so as to save them portaging. . . . Never a dull moment!

Johnson, was then invited to say a few words to the gathering. Sir John thought it would be of interest for him to say something about the present position of the memorials to the Johnson family in the Mohawk Valley. He said that Fort Johnson was the most interesting memorial as it had many things in it of great interest, and was well kept up at the present time by private subscriptions. The property had been threatened by the construction of a new highway, however representations had been made and the route of the road was diverted so that not too much injury is going to result to the grounds. Sir John urged that anyone interested in the Johnson story, and travelling in the vicinity of the Mohawk valley, should not fail to visit this interesting place. The other Johnson memorial in the Mohawk valley is Johnson Hall, now maintained by the state of New York and very well kept up indeed. "While it is not quite so interesting historically as Fort Johnson, however it has some special features such as dioramas. Two new dioramas are going to be installed shortly, which were made in Toronto. One depicts "An evening at Johnson Hall" which is particularly interesting, and the other depicts the Battle at Lake George which led to Sir William's being knighted." Sir John's daughter, Sarah, assisted in providing some of the commentary required in these dioramas.

Another interesting memorial of a unique character was the little Indian church which Sir William Johnson had built at a cost of 1200 pounds (about 10,000 pounds today) for Christian Mohawk Indians. This is maintained by three friends and this also is a "must" for anyone visiting the area. Only Indians are buried in the cemetery of this church.

Sir John also made mention of the fomer Johnson home at Williamstown, Ont. This had only actually been occupied by Sir John Johnson for a few months. However, it was of interest and the Roman Catholic Sisters who occupied it at the present time were always pleased to welcome visitors. Sir John suggested that it was well worth a visit.

Sir John then mentioned the recent events at Upper Canada Village, which had brought him here from England on his present visit. He said that he had donated a monument to the memory of his distinguished ancestor and this now formed part of the arrangements at Upper Canada Village. It commemorated the part played by Sir John Johnson, in raising and leading regiments in support of the loyalist cause at the time of the American Revolution and then, the great work he had done in aiding and assisting the loyalists who had emigrated from the United States as a result of the Revolution and came to settle in Canada. Sir John Paley Johnson had unveiled this monument when Upper Canada Village was opened on June 24. On the other side of this monument is the memorial to the Loyalist Regiments. Sir John also mentioned that the Seigneur was buried at Mount Johnson, near Chambly, in the Eastern Townships. Sir John said that he thought a fine job had been done at Upper Canada Village, especially in preserving the graves and gravestones from the flooded cemeteries. The Memorial Garden, he thought, was a fine accomplishment.

The vote of thanks to Sir John was moved by Miss H. Lambert who expressed the appreciation of the gathering for the very interesting remarks which Sir John had made and the information he had given on the present state of the memorials to the Johnson period in American and Canadian history.

Two other representatives of the Johnson family who were present at the reception were Mrs. Fred Robertson, of St. Andrews East, also a descendant of the Seigneur, and Captain E. A. Johnson of L'Orignal, who is a descendant of Sir William Johnson the 1st Baronet, by his second wife Molly Brant, sister of the great Mohawk Chieftain, Joseph Brant.

Interesting guests from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hubert, from Greenwich, Conn., who came with Miss Alice Lighthall, of Montreal. Mr. Hubert is descended from a number of the early Canadian families such as de Lotbiniere, Viger, Cartier and McGillis. The latter family had some connection with the Seigneur Sir John Johnson since they purchased his Williamstown, Ont. home. Mr. Hubert's great-grandfather, John McGillis, inherited this house from his uncle in 1848 and was known as the Laird of Williamstown.

Another interesting visitor was Brother Rupert Farish, of the Frères de St. Croix, Montreal. He is descended from Frank Farish, one of the pioneers of St. Andrews, who built the old Glasgow and Manchester warehouse and also the fine colonial style mansion now the property of Mde. Lanctôt.

Mr. Mac Walker, vice-president of the Society, was in charge of transportation arrangements and Mrs. A. W. Pentland and her committee, were in charge of refreshments.

Sir John and Lady Johnson sailed on Monday to return to England.

The next event on the summer program of the Historical Society will be the annual garden party at the Museum on Saturday, August 19.

J. A. POLLOCK'S
TIPS
ON HOW TO HELP PREVENT THE SPREAD OF MASTITIS

Mastitis has become one of the most costly problems in a dairy herd. To help prevent it, and add profit-making years to your cows' lives, we suggest:
1. Before milking, wash udders with warm water and Purina Disinfectant or Purina Io-Dairy.
2. Use strip cup regularly.
3. If you use milking machines, do so carefully.
4. Dip teat cups in solution of Purina Disinfectant or Purina Io-Dairy before milking each cow.
5. After milking, dip each teat in Purina Disinfectant or Io-Dairy solution.
6. Milk your Mastitis-free cows first.
7. Keep your barn floor clean, disinfect once a week.
8. Use plenty of dry bedding.
9. Don't crowd cows into stalls that are too small.
10. Keep obstacles which might injure udders out of barn and barnyard.

If you are interested in increasing your milk yield by up to half a ton per cow, give me a call, or drop in at our Store with the Checkerboard Sign. I'd like to tell you Purina's Dairy Program.

EDITORIAL NOTES . . .

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

Call it Sin . . .

WHEREVER a car goes, it responds to the good or bad in the man at the wheel. The best engineering, the best enforcement, and the best educational program in the world are of no avail unless the driver has the will to use the highway responsibly. Previous appeals have been based on self-interest, e.g., "The life you save may be your own", but safety authorities are now finding that this is inadequate and have invited the co-operation of the churches in an effort to give the moral aspect of the safety program its proper place.

There is a negative and a positive side to this. From a negative point of view we must ask ourselves why it is that we are not law-abiding citizens on the road. Most of us think nothing of breaking traffic laws if we think we can get away with it. Now it is possible that there are some traffic laws which are arbitrary and unreasonable; in other situations, there may be too many to expect knowledge of them all: if so, reforms are required in order to promote respect for the law. However, the problem still remains, and it is a moral one; how can we change the attitude of a large percentage of drivers so that they will gladly comply with highway safety regulations? Perhaps one thing we can do is to call careless driving by its right name — sin. For far too long we have tried to take the rightness or wrongness out of driving by the specious reasoning that it was a legal matter, not a moral one. If I am careless, thoughtless, or selfish in my driving habits I am disobeying the Lord's commandment to love God and my neighbor, and am a sinner in God's sight. It therefore becomes just as important for me to repent and seek pardon for anti-social behavior in my office or in my family relationships.

Because fear of punishment and fear of death are not enough, we must make a positive appeal to the highest Christian motivation before we will develop responsible drivers.

Children and TV

DOES TELEVISION waste time for children who could be studying? Are they getting the wrong ideas — about violence and sex, for instance — from the steady parade of programs on the living room screen?

Television in Canada, and earlier in Britain and the U.S. now has been operating long enough for many studies to have been made as to its influence on children.

The experience of most of the researchers boils down to what you might have expected. The good parents have the power to counteract almost anything that is bad in the influence of television on children. A happy home relationship is the best prevention of children developing bad tendencies, through television or anything else.

Television of course is only one part of the growing child's experiences, but it can be a significant one. The child's selection of programs can be directly influenced by the attitude of the parents.

If a parent views educational television, for instance, the child is almost sure to do the same. On TV programs in general, the child will follow the example of parents. If they sit glued to the bang-bang westerns or the violent crime type of programs, the children are going to think these typify life for grownups.

But there's another significant finding in a new study of children and television by three U.S. university research experts, published under the title "Television in the Lives of Our Children." (University of Toronto Press).

This is that while a child by age three is already able to demand his favorite program, and his heaviest viewing comes between ages 11 and 13, the more intelligent children watch less television when they have moved into Grade X. They are finding greater challenges and rewards in printed media, and in social and school activities.

Here, again, it is the parents' influence that counts. The research experts on this particular project are Wilbur Schramm of Stanford University, Jack Lyle of the University of California at Los Angeles, and Edwin B. Parker of the University of Illinois.

Their research covered both Canadian and U.S. communities, and is backed by dozens of tables and charts. A single sentence perhaps sums up the whole result: "No child is likely to be much harmed by television if he has warm, secure social relationships, and if he has no serious psychological troubles."

"BX" booklets are best sellers

MOST PEOPLE who lack regular exercise give the excuse that they have no time, or no ready access to a gymnasium and competent guidance — says Norman Ashton, physical fitness specialist to the RCAF.

The two RCAF basic exercise programs — 5BX for men and XBX for women — were set up to answer these objections and provide a high level of physical fitness, Mr. Ashton writes, in a special physical-fitness issue of Health Magazine.

The BX exercises can all be done in your bedroom, in a limited amount of space without special equipment, and require only about 12 minutes a day. They are scientifically designed for your age, condition and degree of physical fitness.

"Cheaper than drugs and not much harder to take, the two fitness plans have met with phenomenally enthusiastic response from professional and layman alike," Mr. Ashton says.

The 5BX plan has sold more than 170,000 copies since it was published in October, 1958 and the XBX plan, released in late November, 1960, sold more than 80,000 copies in the first five months.

Max Howell and W. R. Morford of the University of British Columbia offer another "Home Fitness Plan" in the same issue of "Health". Their plan is based on the idea of "circuit training".

"The importance of circuit training," they write, "is that each person is permitted to develop towards his optimum capacities at his own rate."

"A circuit is a number of carefully selected and simple-to-perform exercises that are arranged in the form of a circuit so that an individual may proceed from one exercise to the other without undue local fatigue and at a work rate compatible with each person's capacity.

"Circuit training is not the only answer for fitness training," the authors say, "but it provides a simple method of progressive training that can be used by everyone in the family."

lower dollar — higher prices

THE BIG TURNABOUT on the foreign exchange front from a persistent premium on the Canadian dollar to a discount in terms of its U.S. counterpart, foreshadows these likely developments, says The Financial Post. . . .

There will be a slow but distinct uptrend again in the cost of living — a clear end to the relative stability that has characterized consumer prices for 18 months or more. First impact of the discount dollar, which makes all foreign purchases more expensive, is already felt in higher-priced imports of fruits and vegetables.

Profits will be squeezed sharply over the short-run anyway, in a large number of Canadian businesses. Narrowing margins won't be felt by Canadian exporters, but more firms which depend on the domestic market will feel the pinch.

Today's highly competitive markets mean that higher costs can't always be passed along to the end purchaser and, for a while anyway, will have to be absorbed, according to a number of companies which depend on U.S. supplies. For the consumer, this means a softening of the worst immediate effect of the devalued dollar on the price index. For Canadian companies which, in turn, buy from import-connected companies, it means a temporary hold-back of cost increases.

Look for bigger sales, higher earnings and some improvement in profits in Canada's export firms and in those companies which rely on Canadian rather than U.S. suppliers because of a healthier competitive edge.

First great battle of American Civil War re-enacted by U.S. troops on July 21

(Specially Contributed)

It was mid-July of 1861 and the North, and the South had been at war since 4.30 a.m. of April 12. That was when Confederate batteries had opened on Sumter, the federal fort at the entrance to the harbor of Charleston, South Carolina. Now Washington and the Arlington Heights across the Potomac in Virginia were alive with military camps, and people and press of the North reckoned that Brigadier-General Irvin McDowell should take his army of the Potomac south, brush the Confederates aside, capture Richmond and end the war.

The commander-in-Chief, President Lincoln, agreed that the army should move. The brigades poured out of the camps on Washington's perimeter. They marched through the streets and across the long bridge southward, joining others from the Virginia camps. Bands played and people cheered, while newspaper headlines screamed "On to Richmond!" In the hot unclouded summer weather, the boys in blue moved out along the Warrenton turnpike into the lovely Virginia countryside. They picked flowers from the roadside and decorated their uniforms and muskets. They sang and joked about what they would do to "Johnny Reb" if he dared to show his face. Behind them streamed a gay assortment of ladies and gentlemen of the capital. On horseback they followed the troops; they rode in broughams and surreys and old fashioned buggies. It was to be one huge picnic, and when it was over there would be fireworks, general rejoicing and, of course, the end of the war.

Some 20-odd miles southwest of Washington, along the steep wooded banks of the little creek known as Bull Run, lies the village of Manassas. The Warrenton turnpike cross Bull Run a few miles north of Manassas. Between the village and the crossing, called the Stone Bridge, the Confederate Army of Northern Virginia, under command of General Joseph E. Johnston was waiting.

In the early morning of July 21, the die was cast. McDowell had been probing the Confederate line along Bull Run, but now he suddenly marched far to the right, outflanked the whole Confederate line at Sudley Ford, crossed and smashed full strength at the rebels' left. The Confederate lines broke and the whole army started coming apart at the seams. By early afternoon most of the Confederate generals considered the battle lost when they found that they could not reform their shattered lines. Word flew to the rear of the Union army that victory was complete, the Confederates finished, the road to Richmond open. The picnickers celebrated in high glee.

But back at the front, Johnston and his redoubtable second in command, General Pierre Beauregard, took a personal hand in the battle. They pulled fresh troops away from the creek bank and turned them to face the Union forces. The rout slowed down and then stopped, the lines reformed and, as still more fresh Confederate troops arrived on the field, the Union advance was checked. Troops under command of that unusual character Thomas Jonathan Jackson, former professor at Virginia Military Institute, especially stood fast in the face of all the Union army threw at them. "Look at Jackson!" cried Confederate general Barnard E. Bee, as he rallied his men yet once more, "he stands against the enemy like a stone wall." From that moment on, "Stonewall" Jackson was a name to remember.

And now, the tide of battle flowed swiftly to the Confederacy. The Union check became a retreat and then, unbelievably, the whole army dissolved in flight towards Washington with the Confederates in hot pursuit. Wildly panicking soldiers overran the throngs of picnickers and sightseers at the rear. The fierce confusion of shouting, cursing men, stampeding horses and overturned vehicles defies description. Long before darkness closed out the dreadful scene, total disaster for the Union cause seemed the only possible conclusion.

There was no sleep in Washington that night. Half-clad, unarmed and exhausted soldiers streamed into the city until daylight. They flung themselves down in the streets and on doorsteps and many of them were taken in by householders, fed and put to bed. The town waited through the hours, expecting momentarily the Confederate attack.

The attack never came. The Confederates were, if anything, even more confused by the Union army's collapse than were the Union Troops themselves. Neither Johnston nor Beauregard appreciated the completeness of their victory until nearly two days later. Far from pressing their advantage with an attack upon virtually undefended Washington, they were, during the night of July 21, busy back at Manassas preparing to defend themselves from a supposed Union attack in strength.

By the time the Confederate army knew what had actually happened, it was too late. McDowell had got most of his men back under canvas, and the city, observing the familiar pattern of camp fires around its perimeter and on the heights across the river, drew a deep breath. The war, it seemed, was far from being over. It might not be over for a long time.

P.S. — This battle, the first of many great battles to be fought in the Civil War, and called by Confederate historians "The First Battle of Manassas", is being re-enacted by United States troops on July 21, 1961, on the actual field of First Bull Run.

Editor upheld in scriptural quotation

(LETTER TO THE EDITOR)

July 10, 1961
St. Andrews East, Que.

Mr. Don Titman,
Editor, Lachute Watchman.

Dear Sir:

It has not been my custom to write letters to the Editor, but when something in an editorial touches my particular field of Semitic studies, I take note of it. Since it has been stated that your editorial of June 7, dealing with capital punishment, contained misleading statements, I think it is only fair to set forth the facts regarding the ancient Code of Hammurabi referred to, with which I am familiar.

It is true that the quotation in the editorial: "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth" is found in Matthew 5:38, based on a similar wording in Exodus 21, Deut. 19 etc. This is commonly known as the Lex Talionis and this same law is given in the Code of Hammurabi, in a more expanded form, thus:

196 — If a man has caused the loss of a gentleman's eye, one shall cause his eye to be lost.

200 — If a man has made the tooth of a man that is his equal to fall out, one shall make his tooth fall out.

It is obvious that the Old Testament law and that of Hammurabi, King of Babylon in the 4th millenium B.C., deal with the same offence and set the same penalty. That this was a "rule of the social order" in ancient Babylon, as mentioned in your editorial, cannot be questioned.

One authority has stated: "Hammurabi and Moses often reflect the same Semitic psychology, as for example in the Lex Talionis." It may be remarked, however, that while there are many similarities between the laws of the Pentateuch and the Code of Hammurabi, there is nothing to indicate that the Old Testament borrowed from or was dependent upon the other.

Yours sincerely,

(Signed) W. Harold Reid
(Rev. W. Harold Reid, M.A., D.D.)

All Aboard

with G. E. MORTIMORE

"It takes a worried man to sing a worried song." That song was written for me and for numerous other chronic worry-warts.

We fret about death, taxes, bills, home life and work; about hurting people's feelings by saying the wrong thing; about unanswered letters, barking dogs that bother the neighbors; carpenter ants, blight on the currant bushes and the origin of mysterious smells in the back yard.

When life appears to be going well, that is the time when we worry most of all, because it isn't natural. We aren't used to mental calm and well-being and temporary success. It gives us a feeling of doom — the sensation of living in the eye of a hurricane.

We veteran worriers know that fate is only taking a breath and getting ready to fling more troubles at us.

Psychologists don't approve of worrying. They call it "non-adjustive behavior." But for the chronic fusspot, worrying is an end in itself. He enjoys it, as a smoker enjoys a cigarette.

Now, I see in the newspaper, a man can earn money by worrying. According to a story from Albany, N.Y., the highest court in the state of New York has ruled that the widow of a man who worried himself to death can collect from the workmen's compensation fund.

This man died of a heart attack after extended worry over job problems. The court ruled that worry is part of the job.

Unless this decision is reversed by a panel of calm, unworried judges in a higher court, there is a bonanza in store for potential widows.

There will be difficulties in fixing the amount of money that a widow is paid. Men don't shut off their worries when they leave the office. They worry in their own time, too, about many vital decisions — what color to paint the steps, and whether to have their cheese sandwich plain or toasted.

There will be times when the workmen's compensation board has to send a tactful man around to inform a widow that there is evidence that she contributed to his worries by nagging him over the breakfast table.

"Although we are exceedingly sorry that your husband has worried himself to death," the tactful man will explain, "we feel that — perhaps through no fault of your own — you hastened the death of your husband. Therefore we cannot pay you enough money to buy a new one."

The Earth Abideth Forever

— Eccl. 1: 4

You may survive Armageddon into God's New World

"Then there will be great tribulation such as has not occurred since the world's beginning until now, no, nor will occur again." With those words Jesus foretold the greatest of trouble ever to hit the earth — the universal war of Armageddon. (Matt. 24: 21). Who will survive? Not many. All the nations will be destroyed in this fiery outpouring of God's wrath. With over two billion dead, "the slain of Jehovah shall be at that day from one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth; they shall not be lamented, neither gathered, nor buried; they shall be dung upon the face of the ground." (Jer. 25: 32, 33). The death toll will be so all-surpassing that there will be too many bodies for the survivors to bury.

But will there then be nothing to survive for? No indeed. The destruction of this evil, demon-controlled world, together with its god, Satan the Devil, will not leave a vacuum. It will be replaced by a new world of righteousness, and the earth will become a paradise. For that new world God will preserve survivors. There is no need to die. Would you like to know how you may survive "the war of the great day of God the Almighty" that will come upon this generation? The 384-page book "You May Survive Armageddon into God's New World" answers. The book is sent on a 50c contribution.

New hospital for alcoholics, near St. Jerome

Pictured above is an architect's drawing of the proposed new Domremy Hospital for alcoholics, which is to be located a few miles north of St. Jerome. It will serve patients from the Counties of Terrebonne, Two Mountains, Argenteuil and Mont Laurier, and even those from areas such as Montreal, Ile Jesus, Amos, Rouyn and Noranda.

The need for a modern, fireproof hospital to replace the present cellarless and inadequate building, is urgent. The help of every citizen is required in this vital work of treatment and rehabilitation.

The new, strictly functional hospital will contain 20 rooms which will accommodate over 40 patients, plus at least two private rooms for the gravely sick. The doctors, who now share one consultation room with the nurse in charge, and also use this room as a pharmacy, will have private rooms to meet and treat the sick. The hospital will have a cafeteria and a large, utilitarian living room capable of accommodating its many patients.

The Domremy Building Fund, with an objective of $150,000, will hold its campaign during the months of July, August and September.

Report shows Cancer drive well exceded local quota

James D. McOuat, chairman, and Dr. Eric Mongeon, co-chairman, of the Argenteuil Canadian Cancer Society campaign, announce the final returns as $7,065.76 — which brings this district well over the top; the objective was $5,000. "This is most encouraging," said Mr. McOuat. "The response has been heartwarming, and is proof that Canadians here and throughout the country want to stamp out the disease which takes thousands of lives each year."

Mr. McOuat said he wished to express his thanks to the campaign officers, committees, captains and canvassers who worked so hard to make the campaign a success; The Lachute Watchman and L'Argenteuil for their fine co-operation; and the people of Argenteuil who donated so generously.

Hyde-Ward marriage vows at St. Simeon's

The marriage of Lorna Lorraine Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ward, of Montreal North, to Mr. Kenneth George Hyde, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hyde, of Morin Heights, took place recently in the St. Simeon's Anglican Church, Lachute, the Rev. C. R. Lang officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white nylon net, with lace bodice trimmed with pearl sequins, and long lace sleeves ending in a point over her hands. Her waist-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Miss Joanne Ward, as maid of honor, wore a mauve nylon street-length dress, with matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of lavender mums. Miss Marilyn Myers, as bridesmaid, was similarly dressed and also carried a bouquet of lavender mums.

Mr. Wayne Black was best man, and Mr. Sydney Brown and Mr. Eddy Black were ushers.

Mrs. Ward, mother of the bride, wore a sheath nylon dress with pink flowers on a white background, with matching three-quarter length coat. She wore a white pillbox hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations. Mrs. Hyde, mother of the groom, wore a Nile green nylon dress with white accessories, and her corsage was of yellow chrysanthemums.

Following a supper and reception at the Legion Hall, Lachute, Mr. and Mrs. Hyde left on a short honeymoon. The bride's going-away suit was of imported jersey wool in a turquoise shade, with white accessories.

Propet-Dobbie

Standards of white gladioli and yellow roses adorned St. Andrews United Church at Avoca on July 1, for the marriage of Mary Fay, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dobbie, Harrington, to John Malcolm Prophet, son of Mr. Irvine Prophet, of Calumet, Que.

The Rev. Geo. Clifford, of Campbell's Bay, Que., officiated at the double-ring ceremony, assisted by Mr. Kenneth Brown, student pastor. Miss Jane Swackhammer, of Montreal, played the Wedding March, and Mr. Barry Alexander, of Ottawa, sang "The Lord's My Shepherd" and "O, Perfect Love".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white floor-length gown of silk organza with chantilly lace bodice, front panel, and tiers of lace and net in the back. Her four-tiered veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a crown of pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations with stephanotis.

The bride was attended by Miss Ann Perego as maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Betty Jean MacLean, Miss Heather Anne Lessard and Cheryl Prophet as flower-girl.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore frocks of white Chantilly lace over white silk organza, with yellow organza sashes and matching tiaras and veils of yellow tulle illusion. They carried nosegays of white and yellow carnations and forget-me-nots.

Mr. John McHardy, of Montreal, was best-man and the ushers were Messrs. Robert Dobbie and Bunny Bates, of Harrington.

The reception was held in Harrington Intermediate School, where gladioli and peonies were used in decorating. For travelling the bride chose a white gown with bouffant skirt and pink accessories; she wore a white petalled whimsie and a corsage of white and pink split carnations. The couple will reside in Calumet.

Picnic for blind held at Rotary community park

On Tuesday, July 11, the annual picnic for the blind of this district was held at the Lachute-Brownsburg Rotary Park. Some 58 blind people and their guides spent an enjoyable day at the park. This annual event is sponsored by the CNIB.

Those who contributed towards the success of this picnic included — Coca-Cola, Seven-Up and Wishing Well distributors, Mr. Rene Grenier, IGA, Dominion, A & P, Mr. R. Courtien and Lowe's Dairy.

The refreshments and the recreational activities were under supervision of the C.N.I.B. Women's Auxiliary, and transportation for the Lachute area was looked after by the Lachute Lions Club. The organization is also grateful to many volunteers who escorted the sightless to the picnic grounds from other areas.

ALL VITAMINS ARE NOT THE SAME

Do not let half-truth advertising mislead you. You know better. For instance . . . all butter must comply with government standards to be sold. Yet, some brands are much more tastier. Some cooks bake pies that are a real treat. Others using the same ingredients spoil them.

The quality of vitamins depends on the care of processing and many tests for potency and body absorption. Cheap vitamins eliminate expensive controls. The vitamins we supply are made by the makers of our prescription drugs. Purity and potency is always the best quality that can be made.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?
